Hydro-Quebec settles for Grenv'l claim — $135,000

Hydro Quebec will settle with Grenville Municipality for the sum of $135,000, following lengthy differences between the two parties concerned. Grenville had initially claimed $150,000 from the commission for damages caused by construction of the Carillon dam, but Hydro Quebec considered the claim unreasonably high.

Mayor Rolland Landriault stated that about $100,000 of the amount would be put aside for a water purification plant.

Work presently undertaken has been a two-stage development which should be completed by the end of March. A by-law was passed by which proprietors will carry a share of the costs. Grants of about $10,500 on winter works and $14,500 are anticipated from the federal and provincial governments, respectively. Of the overall $60,000 debt to be borne by the taxpayers, those benefitting by new water and sewer services will pay about 75 percent. Legal and engineering fees will be deducted from the $135,000 settlement.

Geology report on Ottawa riverbed, Carillon - Grenville

Quebec — A summary report entitled "Geology of the North Shore of the Ottawa River between Carillon and Grenville" has just been authorized for distribution by the Department of Natural Resources of the Province of Quebec. The report was prepared by Dr. A. N. Deland for the Mineral Deposits Service of the Department. It describes the area which is now covered by waters above the Carillon dam.

This study deals with outcrops of the Ordovician formations of Oxford and Rockcliffe, and gives the results of chemical analyses of limestone and dolomite samples gathered from several places in the map-area.

Copies of the report (P.R. No. 528), along with the accompanying map at the scale of one inch to 1,000 feet, may be purchased from the Department of Natural Resources, Quebec City, or from regional offices of the Department. The cost is 50 cents a copy.

Police revolver has sobering effect on defiant youths

Two youths were arrested in the early hours one night last week by Cst. Jean Durand of the municipal police, who had to brandish his revolver to convince the two miscreants.

On his nightly patrol checking store premises on Main Street, he spotted a car zigzagging on a reckless course along the thoroughfare. Opposite the Leonard Store heading westward, the automobile struck two cars in the centre parking lane, one belonging to Albert Campeau and the other to a car salesman at Lacasse Automobiles.

The driver pulled away and, in defiance of the constable who had witnessed the incident, proceeded to drive off, this time heading east — until the officer produced his firearm to stop him.

The youths, 20 and 21 years of age, came from Pte. au Chene. They were lodged in the police cells overnight, and were later charged with driving while "under the influence" before J. Henri St. Onge, J.P., who exacted a fine of $40 from the driver. Damage to the three cars involved was estimated around $1,000.

New A&P food store establishment scheduled to open Tuesday, March 16

G. N. Provost, president of A&P Food Stores, has announced the opening date of the new A&P Food Store located at 171 Mary Street, to take place on Tuesday, March 16, at 9 a.m. The new premises will have 8,500 square feet of floor space.

Gaetan N. Provost
A&P President

"This modern store will be extremely functional both from the standpoint of displaying merchandise and convenience to shoppers", commented Mr. Provost, "with ample parking adjacent to the store."

The new store will feature specialty foods in addition to a complete line of traditional meats, produce, bakery and grocery items; health and beauty aids and other household supplies will be stocked.

Mechanical check-out counters, shadow-free lighting, and air-conditioning are among the modern features that will provide comfort and convenience to shoppers. As in other new A&P Food Stores, aisles will be wider, thus eliminating the congestion that can make shopping a burden.

Feted for prowess These are Lachute's curling teams which brought credit to the local club by winning the Governor-General's Trophy. The two rinks were honored at a supper in the clubrooms last Wednesday and presented with individually engraved steins. Left to right (front) are — Frank A. Brennian, a veteran skip and one of the oldest local curlers, making the presentation; and the two teams — Don McFaul, president of the club, Art Lobel (skip), Don Bradley (skip), Keith Warwick. Grim experience as automobile stalls over flooded bridge

Two residents of the Dunany area had an unforgettable experience Saturday evening when their car stalled in deep water covering the road to The Glen, a short distance from Louisa.

Reuben Creswell and his son, Horace, were returning home around 8.30 p.m. when their car stalled in water covering the bridge. Mr. Creswell, Sr., chose to remain in the car as his son ran for help. Keith Morrison was summoned from Dalesville and when he arrived a short time later, Mr. Creswell was crouched on the water-covered rear seat of the car.

They managed to back the truck into the flood and, hooking chains around the bumper of the car, pulled it from the fast-flowing water. Horace lay stretched on the roof of the car, in order to steer it. The water was about four feet deep by this time, and flowing rapidly over the ice-covered wooden bridge.

The sudden flood was caused by a dam breaking on Bixley Lake, on the former Jos. Boyd farm. This, in turn, swept away a smaller dam on a pond below the lake, and larger pieces of ice were reported to have been heaved considerable distances.

Little damage was reported elsewhere, and although the flats at Watchorn's and Cleland's were flooded Sunday afternoon, the water did not reach the road. The flood waters did not seriously break the ice, but flowed either under or over it, and the surge reached Dalesville around seven o'clock Sunday evening.

Two centenarians mark birthdays in month of March

March is the month for centenarians — two local ladies, well advanced in their second century, celebrating their birthdays this month. . .

Mme Alfred Deslauriers (residing with her daughter, Mme Ferdinand Desjardins, Wilson Street) will be 105 on Monday, March 8. Her state of health leaves much to be desired, and she is sinking slowly.

Mme Alphonse Gosselin (living at the home of Mme Ernest Lavigne, Grace Street) will be 103 on March 22. She is in remarkably good health, eats and sleeps well, moves around the house and is able to attend to light domestic duties.

The community pays honor to these long and venerable records.

Police on varied incidents

QPP transfers

Maurice Landry, who has been stationed at the QPP unit here for several pears, this week reported to Abitibi, where he will be stationed. Cpl. J. P. Dallaire reports having had two new men assigned to the local office, Raymond Ethier and André Riché, of Montreal, both having close to five years' service in the Provincial Police.

Thefts reported

Two robberies were reported over the week-end, one in Lachute, where the store of Dawson TV and Radio Service was entered and (at last report) two portable TV sets were missing, and the other at Arnold Farms, Grenville, where an estimated $2,000 in office equipment was stolen. Both buildings were forcibly entered, via a window in the Arnold theft and by a rear door in the break-in at Dawson's store.

Réal Daigle, a 32-year-old St. Jerome resident, was apprehended in that city by Lachute municipal police Capt. Réal Chartrand, accompanied by QPP officers, and questioned in connection with a theft of musical instruments valued at $700 from a local hotel.

Daigle made a statement and was charged with theft and possession of stolen goods, to which he pleaded guilty in St. Jerome court. He was sentenced to one month in jail plus all costs, including the replacement of the stolen goods, or in default of this, a year in jail.

According to evidence presented, Daigle was a former member of the orchestra and, being short of funds, entered the hotel and removed the instruments. Lachute police traced the instruments to a pawn shop in Montreal, from which Daigle admitted having received $70; he later sold the ticket for an additional $50. The incident occurred on February 8, and Daigle was arrested five days later. He was sentenced on February 19.

Road accidents

A rash of accidents were reported by QPP officers, who blamed slippery roads for the sudden uptrend. Fifteen mishaps were investigated, but only one person required medical attention for a minor injury.

Sentiments and Sidelights

Statistics from Provincial Police —

22 Traffic deaths here in 1964, speed-alcohol in 75% of cases

A total of 22 fatalities occurred in 15 automobile accidents during 1964, according to statistics just released by Cpl. Jean-Paul Dallaire, officer-in-charge of the Q.P.P. detachment for Argenteuil County. Approximately 75 percent of the total accidents were attributed to a combination of speeding and alcohol; in addition to the fatal accidents, 124 persons were injured in 117 mishaps, and there were 459 accidents in which damage to vehicles was reported.

The majority of accidents occurred from Friday to Sunday and the most frequent time of day was between 6 and 7 p.m. There was a higher percentage of accidents in the months of June, July and November as compared to any other months. Locations where accidents most frequently occurred were:

Route 8, at Simon's Crossing; Grenville and Calumet;

Route 31, near Dalesville and Pine Hill;

Route 30, at Lakefield.

In addition to the automobile accidents, the local Q.P.P. office investigated the following fatalities: 17 drownings, three suicides; 15 sudden deaths; two hunting accidents; two cases believed loss of life; one murder; and three violent deaths.

Statistics for the month of January, 1965, as far as automobile accidents are concerned, indicate there were no fatalities; 11 persons were injured in four accidents; and there were 54 accidents in which damage to the vehicles was reported.

Top-flight Shrine Circus to return to Montr'l Forum Saturday, May 22

The Montreal Karnak Temple has just signed a contract with Frank Wirth of New York City for the Shrine Circus to appear again this year, starting Saturday, May 22, at The Forum.

This is the 26th consecutive year the Shrine Circus has performed each spring at the Atwater Avenue showplace.

World-famous impressario Wirth has gathered together a program of international circus and vaudeville acts, with great emphasis on the controlled performance of large groups of wild animals such as tigers, leopards, elephants and bears.

In addition, the usual funnymen, the clowns, will be around, as well as acrobats and aerialists known throughout the world.

For example, the universally celebrated Karl Wallenda and his troupe of high-wire stars, including members of his family, will be on hand. It will be remembered that some two years ago an unfortunate accident happened during a Detroit appearance causing the death of two members of the family and seriously injuring another. Completely revised and brought up to date, this inspiring and thrilling act of courage and skill will be one of the many highlights of the Shrine Circus coming to the Montreal Forum for eight days.

The revenue from the Shrine Circus is important to the Montreal Shriners Hospital which serves the Province of Quebec, the eastern half of Ontario, the Maritime Provinces, plus northern New York and New England States with free-of-charge facilities for indigent crippled children of all denominations.

"Over Ninety" Birthday Club

Congratulations are extended to Mr. Edward Morrison, of Lachute, who attains the ripe old age of 99 years on Thursday, March 4. Mr. Morrison, who resides at the Lester Thompson home on Meikle Street, enjoys fair health and retains a lucid memory of earlier years.

Carnival night held by clubmen and their ladies

A highlight of the Brownsburg Carnival program last week was Service Club Night, in which the members and wives of three local groups — Rotary, Lions and Richelieu — gathered for a dinner and dance at l'Ecole Bouchard.

Maurice Lafleur, president of the Brownsburg Loisirs, was chairman of the gathering, and the master of ceremonies was Maurice Grondin.

Substituting for the guest speaker who was unable to be present, Horace Lamarche, director-general of the Argenteuil Hospital, filled the role with his usual alacrity. He addressed his remarks particularly to the ladies; he mentioned the conscientious devotion of the hospital staff, and was proud to congratulate Miss de Repentigny, a baby-nurse at the hospital, who had been elected the Carnival Queen.

Roger Lagarde, QC, in his capacity as chairman of the hospital administration, extended a bonus award to Miss de Repentigny in the form of two days' vacation — which she smilingly accepted.

Frank Ryan dies in Florida

FRANK RYAN

Long-time president of radio station CFRA, Ottawa, Frank Ryan, 63, died Tuesday morning in hospital at Delray Beach, Florida, while returning from a month-long trip to South America. He is believed to have suffered a heart attack.

A familiar voice on the airwaves, and a familiar figure to many in these parts, he was a regular exhibitor at Lachute Fair and other leading horse shows, with fine Hackneys for which his Kilreen Farms, Ottawa, enjoyed a wide repute. Mr. Ryan had just recently announced a complete dispersal of all his horses and stables.

By BOB ATCHISON

I met up with a couple of sports who have been fishing almost every week-end this winter. They tried fishing through the ice for trout on five occasions, and told me that, for the time and effort spent, the catches were very poor. This seems to be the lament of everyone who has tried this sport. Of course, when you consider that in most cases the fishermen go into the area "cold", or in other words, have to find out just where to fish, then this does present a problem. On top of this, you are allowed only one line; this I certainly agree with, but at the same time, it keeps the fishermen away. We certainly know what would happen if more lines were allowed; it's bad enough in the summer, but it would be a lot worse in the winter. Some of our better "sports" would not be content to fish with lines, they'd have the old gill nets out. Around our own area, we have been fortunate in catching some very good perch and pike, I have heard of some very big pike being taken around St. Andrews, 5 to 9 lbs.

Hungarian partridge are to be seen in good numbers, many of them in the open fields alongside a fence. So if you are driving around some Sunday, keep your eyes open for them. I thought they'd have had a tough time with the heavy freezing rain we have had. But it does not seem to have bothered them too much. It has bothered almost every other type of bird though; any feed that could have been on the ground in the bare spots is now out of their reach, they just can't pick it out of the ice — so this is a time to boost the feed-the-birds movement. We know towards the end of winter things get real tough for them, so anything they can get to eat will certainly help — crusts, suet, seed, scraps of left-overs from the table; these all help them. . . . How about it?

Most of us know of the attempts to have the bounty money put back on certain predators; they are not meeting with much success at present. Reading an article from the Wildlife Service in the U.S., I see they are adopting this attitude too, no more bounties. The article points out that more damage is done by bounty-hunters than by the actual animal, so they are cutting it out in certain states. Maybe they are getting some sense. . . I was looking at an advertisement in a magazine, showing a wolf caught in a trap, with the caption, "Vicious, isn't it?" I wonder how these ad writers would feel to be caught in a trap also! . . Funny to be thinking this way.

I wonder how many of you will remember the hunter training program that was supposed to be promoted in this province? I don't blame you if you don't remember it. This always seems to happen in Quebec.. They put out reams of publicity during the season, then when it's over, they forget about it. I know some clubs are trying to carry on with this, but the clubs themselves cannot carry the whole burden. As far as I am concerned, the government collects the license fee, therefore they should be the parties to set up the training program. After all, you have to take a driving test from a government examiner; why not a firearms test, the same way? It appears that no one cares a damn about the ordinary human any more; if he gets shot or hurt in some way, then that's his lookout..

A query comes in, on the suitability of spinners for ice fishing. It appears this enthusiast had read somewhere that ordinary spinners and lures could be used, through a hole. They can, but only in this way — jigging. To jig is to keep your bait in motion at all times; and this becomes very tiresome after a while. Jigging during the summer, it is possible to cast out, then let the lure sink, and retrieve it in jerks; this is not too bad, and gives very good results at times. However, through the ice is a different matter; you are confined to a certain area, so there is no use trying to let your lure touch the bottom. Another thing, a lure for summer is a lot harder to use than a winter jig, these lures are made to spin at a breath, so with some of the summer ones you will have no luck with at all. In most cases the winter lures are much lighter, thus they spin freely. But try them out, you may just happen to hit something worth while. . . But as I've said, it's pretty hard to have a lure that will work in the summer and winter as well.

* * *

Here is something I forgot to mention last fall. After you hunters got through duck hunting — your waders!. What brought this up, a pair were brought in to see if they were worth fixing; they weren't! Some kerosene had been spilled on them, also some other unidentified fluid, but the rubber had softened so much that your fingers would go right through some spots. So take a good look at your waders; not that it will do much good now, probably it's too late — but maybe something can be salvaged.

* * *

Another query — how do you go about getting a boat straightened after it has been filled with water, then frozen? I'm sorry to say nothing can be done with this now, unless you wish to tear the whole boat apart and build it over. I haven't seen this boat — don't even know what it is made of; but no matter what the materials, nothing will take a beating like this, without giving in some manner. It appears the roof leaked where the boat was stored, and this wasn't discovered until a couple of days ago. The next step is a new boat — too bad!

* * *

It has occurred to me there must be a lot of boats, rafts, life-rings, etc., that have just been thrown in some unused spot, until the time comes to use them. It could be that a look right now may save you money, and any repairs that have to be done can be done now. It's early, I know, but better than late. A patch is much better than risking a life.

* * *

The high winds we had this past week sure uncovered the junk thrown around the roads. Many comments have come in to me, and I can say without fear of contradiction, the district would win a prize for sloppy roadsides. Even the town itself is no picture of cleanliness. Not a very good impression for tourists visiting this area for skiing.

More new guns are coming on the market these days, I have seen a couple but not enough to give you information on them. It also appears there are more foreign guns showing up. This may or may not be good; it could bring the prices of certain types of American guns down in price. Don't misunderstand me — these foreign guns are not that cheap, in some cases they're very expensive. On top of this, how do you get service on them? This is a difficult question at times. . . Of course, there are still the junk variety being shown; boy, these are wicked.

CURLING

Activities in Brownsburg

Eight "special" persons were wined and dined in the best possible Lachute curling tradition, on Wednesday of last week. The eight were the rinks of Art Lobel and Don Bradley, winners of the Governor-General's Trophy. There was an extremely good attendance by the members, who came to pay signal honor to the rinks who brought this signal honor to our Club.

Tribute, on behalf of the Club, was conveyed by Vice-President Colin McOuat. Colin recounted a short history of the "Trophy" and congratulated the teams. He expressed the deep sense of pride the membership has for these two rinks, and thanked them for adding to the standing and prestige of the Lachute Curling Club. Frank Brennian was called upon to present engraved steins to the rinks, as a token of appreciation from the Club.

Art Lobel expressed thanks of the teams to the Club members, for their demonstration and generosity towards them.

The ladies prepared and served an excellent dinner. The board supplied the wine.

The Bel-Aire Curling Club, of St. Hilaire, was the scene of the Legion provincial playdowns on Friday and Saturday of last week. Congratulations are extended to Syd Drew, Dick MacLean, Bud Langille and Ed McFaul, the 1965 Provincial Legion Champions. Well done, boys! Syd's rink played five games in the playdowns, and were victorious in all games.

The rink will now enter the Dominion playoffs, to be held at Drummondville, March 22-26. This will be a nine-game playdown for the Dominion championship. Good luck, Legionaires; we know you will do your best.

In the home club, the "Pat Lid" and "Club Champion" bonspiels are still in progress.

The Winter Carnival mixed bonspiel is over and the rink skipped by Wyman Hazel with Alma Gagné, George Gates and Liz Cumbers won the trophy by defeating Bill Hamilton (skip), Ida Cruise, Rocky Baccardax and Mary Hicks. This challenge saw all rinks out to do their best, and the competition was so keen one would think it was a Cross Canada Curling event. . . Nice to see a "fun bonspiel" turn out to be so much fun.

The Ladies' Friendly, February 24, saw rinks from Mount Bruno, Cedarview, St. Sauveur, Alexandria, St. Jerome, Pointe Claire, Alpine, Lachine, Hawkesbury, Ste. Anne de Bellevue and Buckingham visit our Club. The winner in the morning was a rink from St. Sauveur skipped by Mrs. T. Brosseau; in the afternoon, a rink from Buckingham skipped by Mrs. E. Gauthier. A delicious lunch and tea were served, and the day turned out to be a delightful one.

In the play for the Ted Thompson Trophy last Thursday, two Brownsburg rinks — Mrs. R. Keatley (skip), Mrs. W. Dimock, Mrs. A. McCullough, Mrs. C. Low, and Mrs. S. Rose (skip), Mrs. P. Villard, Mrs. J. Finlayson, Mrs. H. Hewitt won by a "hair" over two rinks from Mount Bruno. The next games will be played March 4 at Royal Montreal.

March 4, Alexandria — Mrs. K. MacGibbon, Mrs. A. Alarie, Mrs. D. Boal, Mrs. J. Murdoch.

March 9, Alpine — Mrs. A. Hardie, Mrs. G. Tomalty, Mrs. M. Lafleur, Mrs. W. Morrow.

Runner-up in Major Event at Ottawa

The Lady Gilmour Trophy bonspiel was played in Ottawa on February 26-27. Over 400 rinks entered this year, 120 from Ottawa alone. RCMP, Granite and Ottawa Hunt curling clubs played host to the 16 participating District and Centre winners from Arnprior, Baie d'Urfé, Brownsburg, Carleton Place, Cornwall, Montreal, Ottawa, Pointe Claire, Sorel, Ste. Anne's, St. John's and Three Rivers.

The Glebe Curling Club, Ottawa, won the Lady Gilmour trophy; runners-up were Montreal West. Mr. Harper skipped the winning rink. Ottawa Granites, skipped by A. Little, won the Salls trophy; runner-up in the consolation was Arnprior, skipped by K. Evanson.

The Lady Gilmour - Salls - Lem Cushing trophy was won by A. Williams, of Pointe Claire; and runner-up for this event was Grant Tomalty, of Brownsburg.

All six final play-off rinks were presented with prizes and pins.

Representing this area as Centre winners, Mr. Tomalty's rink consisted of Phyllis Tomalty, Bob Sugden and Peggy Sudgen. This rink won their first game at the RCMP Curling Club on Friday afternoon against K. Evanson, Arnprior, 13-6, and at the same club that evening lost to Col. Vince Cook, Ottawa Navy, in a thrilling extra-end game, 8-7.

Saturday morning, Mr. Tomalty defeated N. Kaneb, Cornwall, and in the afternoon trounced D. Entwistle's Ste. Anne's rink at the Ottawa Hunt Club.

The final games were played Saturday evening, following a buffet dinner given by the Granite Club to all participating rinks.

SKI TRAILS

Director, Ayers Ski School

Ski School News

This past Tuesday marked the end of the regular six-week "Housewives' Special". All the instructors, Louis Thiffault, Helene Racine and Kathy Cole, were very gratified by the progress of the 65 registered women who took part. Most of the women were rank beginners at the start of the program, and finished up this week handling the lifts and trails down the mountain. Due to this rapid progress, most women requested an additional three weeks, which we have decided to extend for the nominal fee of $4.50. Any women who were unable to take the beginning of the Special may register for this Spring Special, beginning next Tuesday at 11 a.m. Why not join in, and soak up some of the warm spring sunshine and get a head-start on your summer tan!

Last Sunday, the second Gold Award tests in the last four years of the Ross Cole Ski School were held. This test is probably one of the hardest in any school, and those who pass it must have their technique down pretty pat. The judging is based on how well the manoeuvres are executed, not on how fast they are done.

The successful candidates were Rachel Barbour, Madge Auger, Steve Assaly and Pierre L'Heureux.

This brings to seven the total number of Gold Award holders. Don Barbour, Jacques Racine and Guy Leger attained their coveted pins at the last session, which took place two years ago.

Ski Tip — That time of year is coming around once again when skiers will find their skis sliding a little slow on the snow. The reason for this is that, in the spring, the snow contains water which acts as a suction between the base of the skis and the snow.

In order to overcome this resistance, wax of the soft type (more commonly known to skiers as "Silver" or "No. 3") must be applied to overcome or break the suction. This wax, if cold, should be applied across the ski rather than down the length. If the wax is applied hot with a brush or an iron, it should be put on in steps, or shingled, as it is known to racers. This is done by taking small strokes, about 4-6 inches in length, and then overlapping the preceding strokes by about 1-2 inches down the full length of the ski, starting at the tail. When you are finished, you will end up with the bottom of the ski looking like a shingled roof. All these little shingles will tend to break the suction between the ski and the wet snow, making your skiing much more pleasurable.

The curlers might be interested to hear about the first annual Ottawa Hunt Curling Club bonspiel, which took place in Ottawa last week. This was their inaugural 'spiel, and from all reports, a most unusual and exciting affair. Thirty-two rinks participated, including one from Lachute — Norma Rogers (skip), Julie Heggie, Julia Haldimand and Vi Clarke. The Hunt theme was carried out through the entire three days — the hostesses dressed in hunting attire; the waiters, some dressed in hunting "pinks", and others wearing clothes of old English hunting days and sporting false mustaches. During luncheon, a fashion show was held, with the Ottawa Hunt ladies taking part, and altogether it seems that there never was a dull moment. The games were play-downs with such interesting names as "The Hunt", "Fox", "Hounds" and "Tallyho". In the mornings the players enjoyed a hunt breakfast, and the closing day, instead of a tea, the "Stirrup Cup" was served. Our curlers returned very happy and expressed in glowing terms the hospitality they had enjoyed throughout.

On Tuesday, March 2, two rinks from Lachute will be playing in Montebello for the Cottingham Trophy.

Don't forget Gala Day, March 16. This, of course, is the day everyone turns out, and one we regret if missed.

The Senior and Junior bonspiel is now in progress — and (can you believe it?) probably the final one of our curling season.

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

Parisienne Custom Sport Coupe

Parisienne Sport Coupe

Pontiac's new perimeter chassis gives you greater strength and rigidity for a quieter, safer ride. Its improved suspension gives you new smoothness on the roughest country roads. Its new wider track gives you improved cornering power. Its new steering gives new meaning to precision handling. Its bigger doors and flatter floor give you even more room and travelling comfort. And you get famous Magic Mirror finish, Body-by-Fisher quality, water-washed air-dried rocker panels, Delcotron generator, deep twist carpets, foam cushioning, cigarette lighter, dual sunshades, locking glove box, 2-key locking system, crank-operated ventipanes and the widest Pontiac choice ever: 40 models, 17 colors, 4 transmissions, and engine selection ranging from 140 hp in the economical yet lively Astro-Six to 400 hp. All of which proves rather conclusively how one success can lead to another.

Former citizen died in Ontario

The late Alfred Miller

Alfred Charles Miller, a former businessman here, died suddenly February 10 at his residence in Belleville, Ont. His death was the result of a heart seizure, suffered outside his home.

Funeral service was held February 12 at St. Thomas' Church, conducted by Archdeacon A. S. McConnell; interment was in Belleville Cemetery.

The late Mr. Miller came here as a young man from Gaspé. Many years ago he operated a general store on Main Street (where the Beamish Store is now situated). He and his brother, the late Jack Miller, carried on the business of Robert McFaul, now deceased, by whom they were employed.

Alfred Miller was a member of Argenteuil Masonic Lodge, and also of the Order of Eastern Star Lodge 55.

He is survived by his wife, the former Ina Valpy; a son, George, of Montpelier, Vermont; and two grandchildren; also a sister, Mrs. William (Jane) Shepard, of Montpelier.

235 Telephones added in Lachute, manager reports in review for 1964

During 1964, the Bell Telephone Company of Canada added 222,475 telephones to those in service, a total exceeded only in two other years (1955-56) of its history, according to the company's annual report issued this week.

This expansion was reflected in Lachute, where 235 telephones were added. B. A. Parent, Bell manager for the region, revealed that 5,300 telephones were in service here as of December 31.

Net income of Bell for 1964 was $77.7 million, equivalent to a return of 6.3 per cent on total capital, or $2.71 per share. This compares with a rate of return of 6.1 per cent and earnings per share of $2.58 in 1963.

After payment of $2.20 per share in dividends to the company's 207,000 shareholders, the balance of 51 cents per share was added to earnings retained and invested in the business, according to the report. Of Bell's shareholders, 97.4 per cent live in Canada and own 93.6 per cent of the stock.

As of December 31, Bell employed 35,890 men and women. The company's payroll in 1964 totalled $187,081,096.

Construction of facilities to extend and improve services amounted to $233.5 million in 1964. Altogether, 52 new buildings were completed during the year, and extensions built on 23 others. Thirty-one new exchanges were put into service, many of them remote, northern communities which had been without telephone service. Thirty-nine other exchanges were converted from manual to dial operation. At year end, 99.1 per cent of the telephones served by Bell in Ontario, Quebec, Labrador and the Northwest Territories were dial operated.

SCHOOL — Brownsburg High News

The Sports Scene

By David McCaffrey

Last Wednesday evening, our hockey and broomball teams played against Bouchard School, in the town arena. The B.H.S. broomball team, coached by Mr. McCosh, fell behind by one goal in the first period. The Bouchard team added two more to their score during the second period. In the remaining period B.H.S. controlled the play, but were able to score only one goal. George Atwell, who scored our only tally, Mike Malenfant, and Winston Dixon, were the outstanding forwards for Brownsburg High, while Michael Humphries and Vernon Thompson were the most effective defencemen.

In the hockey game, B.H.S., which is coached by Mr. D. Foreman, took the lead in the first quarter, on a goal scored by Stevie Millar. In the second session, Gary Taylor scored two more for Brownsburg High. The boys from l'Ecole Bouchard also managed to put one in our net. The Bouchard team outplayed us in the third period, scoring two goals and tying the count. A 10-minute overtime period was begun and it was not until the eight-minute mark that Gary Taylor, on a breakaway, scored his third goal of the night to win the game for B.H.S. Besides the scorers mentioned, Willis Kennedy, Jimmy Devine, Peter Ferland and Michael Lambert helped greatly to give Brownsburg High a victory. Wayne Seary, our goaler, was also instrumental in the win, making many spectacular saves.

On Friday evening, our senior teams visited the Rosemere gym for their last O.V.S.A.A. basketball game of the year. The girls had a slow start, with Rosemere holding a slight lead during the first quarter. Then the Brownsburg forwards, Susan Sugden and Linda Tomalty, began to "hit". At half time, they had a considerable lead, which they increased during the last half to 34-14. Now they are tied with Lachute in the league standings. A sudden-death playoff will determine the champion. The winning team will represent this area in the provincial tournaments at Lennoxville.

The Brownsburg senior boys fell behind by 10 points in the first quarter. This was increased to 20 by half time. During the second half, they gained back some ground, but in the end Rosemere was victorious (52-38); they will represent the senior boys' division in the provincial championships.

Winston Dixon, Peter Ferland, and Wayne Seary were the high scorers for Brownsburg, but Warren Helmer and Vernon Thompson also played a good game.

Week's Activities

By Sandra Hall

A trip to Ottawa, which has been in the planning stages for months, has finally materialized. On March 25, Grades 10 and 11 will travel to the capital, where they will visit the Royal Mint, the National Library, the House of Commons, and the cafeteria in the Parliament Buildings.

Mr. Keith Smith, Student Council advisor, has organized the trip as a supplement to the Senior High School History course. The details of the trip have been arranged in collaboration with Mr. Vincent Drouin, the M.P. for Argenteuil - Two Mountains constituency, who will host the group at a mid-day luncheon. It is hoped that the trip will nurture interest in our Canadian Government.

On Friday, February 26, Grades 3 and 5-B, who won the snow sculpturing contest on the school grounds, were rewarded with an ice-cream party. The younger students certainly seem to be enjoying themselves. I am sure they felt that every moment was well worth the final outcome. The school itself won a trophy which is awarded annually to the area with the best amount of snow sculpture.

Red Caps take it again

At Brownsburg last Sunday, the St. Philippe Red Caps tug-of-war team excelled again, eliminating two local teams in well-matched events. The Red Caps, coached by Laurence Derouin, downed the C-I-L and the Flamingo teams.

There will be a re-match event at the St. Philippe carnival this coming Sunday, March 7.

The local entry in the Junior "B" Alouette Hockey League started off on the right foot by winning the first game of the semi-final playoff last Sunday in St. Jerome, by the close score of 4-3 over the St. Jovite team.

The Lachute team played a very lack-lustre game except for the last five minutes of play in the third period, for at this point they found themselves on the short end of a 3-1 score. Then Clarence Curry scored from a scramble in front of the goal at 11.15, assists going to Labelle and Pat Lowe. Goyetch then tied the score at 12.54 with a blistering drive from the right wing on passes from Bates and Hadley. Then at 13.10 Mike Lowe fired the winning goal on a beautiful passing play with John Labelle and Pat Lowe. Mike was the individual star of the game, for he not only scored the winning goal but counted the first goal for the locals. Scorers for St. Jovite were Paquin, with two, and Levert with the other.

This series promises to be a bang-up playoff, so it is urged that everyone should turn out and support the local boys.

The series continues on Wednesday, March 3, and Sunday, March 7, at the Brownsburg Arena.

Big snow-motor event planned by Richelieu Club

Enthusiasts of that booming winter sport, snow-motoring, will have their sway on Sunday, March 7, at Lachute Exhibition Grounds, where the Richelieu Club has planned a rally with 20-odd contests.

The grandstand will be open, to accommodate as many as 2,000 spectators. There will be surprise attractions, and the whole affair will be staged in a carnival atmosphere, regardless of weather conditions.

In a program somewhat similar to this club's annual harness racing, the events will start at 2 p.m. There will, however be classification of the motors from 10 a.m. The classes are limited as to number, and there will be interesting prizes, including $100 cash for the final race, a free-for-all.

Fee for any snow-vehicle entered in the races will be $5, and information is available from club officials at LO 2-4942, LO 2-5271 or LO 2-5266.

Late Mrs. Catherine MacLeod

The funeral of the late Mrs. Catherine MacLeod was held Tuesday afternoon, February 16, at Harrington. Mrs. MacLeod died on Sunday morning, February 14, after a short illness.

Born on March 26, 1878, she was the daughter of the late William Fox and his wife Christy MacRae. The deceased had lived all her life in Harrington and Bell Falls.

On January 12, 1898, she married Neil MacLeod, who predeceased her on September 10, 1960; she was predeceased also by one daughter, Hazel.

She leaves to mourn her loss two daughters, and two sons — (Sadie) Mrs. Evan Bates, of Avoca, (Gladys) Mrs. Mack McTavish, of Harrington, Ernest, of Bell Falls, and Melvin, at home; also one sister, Mrs. Ellen MacLean, of Brownsburg, 17 grandchildren, 36 great-grandchildren, and one great-great-grandson.

The funeral service, largely attended, was held from the home of the deceased, conducted by the Rev. T. D. Richards, of Brownsburg.

Hymns sung were, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," and "Abide With Me". Beautiful floral offerings paid tribute to a devoted mother and grandmother.

Pall-bearers were — Messrs. Rolland McCullouch, Ernest MacRae, Keith Staniforth, Clarence McMahon, Ernest Fox and John Fox. Interment was in the Harrington Cemetery.

Carnival Week proves success at Morin Hts.

On Saturday night, February 13, the Morin Heights Winter Carnival opened with a bang of skyrockets, followed by over a hundred skiers carrying flares and criss-crossing down the Bellevue Hill. This impressive show received a loud ovation from the large crowd of spectators.

On Sunday afternoon the ski-doo rally took place on the newly-cut and marked trail, over a mile long, provided by the Chamber of Commerce. Many compliments were extended by the racers on the layout and condition of the track. All winners were presented with trophies.

The gala event of the Carnival took place Sunday evening at the Commons Hotel — the crowning of the Queen and her two duchesses. The selection was arrived at by popularity vote. At 11.30 the votes were tabulated with Mayor George Watchorn and two of his councillors present. While the band of Art Garayt played "A Pretty Girl is Like a Melody", the announcement was made. First duchess was Diane Corbeil, second duchess Juanita Eddge, and the Carnival Queen of 1965, Claire Meilleur.

Monday night, the candlelight dinner was held at the Rock Cliff Inn. A delicious turkey meal was served, and an enjoyable evening of dancing and singing followed.

Tuesday night the Carnival bingo was held, with great success. At the same time a street dance was going on for the school children, in front of the Fire Hall. Although it was a cold, blustery night, many teenagers turned out to dance.

Wednesday evening started early with a sleigh-ride for all school children. The horse-drawn sleighs were generously provided by Mr. George Watchorn and Mr. Willis Seale. Following the rides the children were given hot-dogs and soft drinks. With over 200 children turning out, this was quite an event. Later, at the Alpino Lodge, there was square-dancing and a bean feed.

On Thursday evening the masquerade party of the Carnival took place at the Bellevue Hotel. With a good turnout of costumes, many prizes were given, and another joyful evening was spent.

Friday afternoon on the Bellevue ski hill, the Canadian Legion Branch 171 held their annual ski races. There was a good turn-out of school children, and the event was a big success. Winners were announced by Mr. Henry Gillingham, who was in charge of the event. Trophies were awarded by Mr. Paul Poirier, president of the Legion, Mr. Jack Steele, president of the Carnival, and Mr. Albert Basler, representing the Bellevue Hill.

On Friday evening a hockey game took place between the Morin Heights Boy Scouts and the RCAF Boy Scouts. The RCAF team won, 5-3, and were presented with an annual trophy by the Chamber of Commerce.

Later that evening the closing party took place at the Swiss Inn, with a large turn-out. The drawing for the Carnival basket and hand-carved lamp took place. As luck would have it, the hand-carved lamp was won by the Swiss Inn, and the much sought-after basket of cheer was won by the hairdresser, Georges, of Morin Heights. The prizes for the ice sculptures were also awarded — first prize going to young Scott Kneeland, second to Raymond Corbeil, third to Rhonda Boyd, and fourth to Ronnie Coreau. A good effort and showing was made by the teenagers of Morin Heights.

Guide and Brownie ceremonies mark Baden-Powell anniversary

In the past few weeks, the Guides and Brownies have been taking part in the celebrations honoring Lord Baden-Powell, founder of the Guide and Scout movement, and his widow, Lady Baden-Powell, the World Chief Guide. All packs and companies attended church parades on February 21 and several held Thinking Day programs.

The 1st Guide Company did "jobs for a quarter" to raise money for the Guide World Friendship Fund. They earned nearly $10, to be sent to help International Guiding.

The 2nd Brownie Pack held their Thinking Day program on February 18, when they lit candles as they thought of Brownies all over the world.

In recent weeks there have also been lighter occasions, when the children gathered together just for fun, which is an important part of Guiding. The Guides had a skating party February 13, with the Scouts as their guests. This was by way of thanking the boys for the good time the Guides had at the Scout Dance.

Great credit is due to the Guiders, who give their time and interest every week, also the parents and members of the Local Association, who stand behind Guiding both morally and financially. These ladies (with Mrs. Owen Stephens as their chairman, Mrs. Betty Milnes as treasurer and Mrs. Ronald Dawson as Badge secretary) have been indispensable. One of the most important jobs is that of Badge secretary; Mrs. Dawson has filled this role for many years. Testing is equally important, and in this detail there are many more who could help.

2nd Lachute Guide Company

On Baden-Powell Day, the 2nd Lachute Guide Company paraded to the Presbyterian Church, where their new Company colors were dedicated by the Rev. Dr. S. Reid.

At their regular meeting time, Tuesday, February 23, the Company invited parents and friends to their Thinking Day program. Mrs. R. Bourget, Commissioner for Papineau Division, enrolled three new Guides, and then Badges and Service Stars were given to those who had earned them.

The main program had as its theme, thoughts for other Guides all over the world who, though they may wear different uniforms, are united with our girls under the same Laws and the same Promise.

Five countries from five different continents were specially represented by the Guide Flags and by Guides wearing the appropriate uniforms. The ceremony ended with the collection of pennies for the World Friendship Fund and the singing of the World Song.

Refreshments were served by Guides who are working toward the Hostess Badge.

Mrs. James McMahon, Captain of the 2nd Lachute Company, and her Lieutenant, Miss Ingid Elcus, were happy to report that $10 was collected for the World Friendship Fund. This money will be used to further International Guiding, and to help support the World Association Centres.

"Thinking Day — 1st Lachute Brownies

Parents and friends of the 1st Lachute Brownie Pack turned out Thursday night in stormy weather to see their children take part in an Enrolment and "Thinking Day" program in honor of the founder, Lord Baden-Powell, and the Chief Guide, Lady Baden-Powell.

After a short welcome by the Leader, Mrs. Sydney Drew, the Brownies formed their "Fairy Ring". Each of the four girls was presented to Commissioner Mrs. R. Bourget and each made her promise as a Brownie and was presented with her pin. A Brownie Prayer was read and "It's fun to be a Brownie" was sung.

A table decorated with the World Flag was moved in. Brown Owl, Mrs. Drew and her Tawny, Mrs. Colin McOuat, lit candles for Brownies in the four corners of the world, and each girl said a little about the country that she was especially "thinking" of.

It was explained that the "Fairy Gold" from this meeting would be sent to help children less fortunate than themselves, to have a chance to benefit from being Brownies and Guides. The Brownies then repeated the Brownie Promise.

— Jehovah's Witnesses —

How well do you know the Bible ?

Jesus said: "All those in the memorial tombs will . . . come out."

When will those in the memorial tombs come forth ? And where will they come ? Why, when God has provided for a resurrection, does he allow men to die at all ? If God made men to die, why is death called the "wages sin pays" ? Why was Adam created, and why did God plant the garden of Eden and tell Adam: "Be fruitful and become many and fill the earth and subdue it" ? Will this divine commission ever be fully completed ? For the authoritative answers to these and many other questions read:

"FROM PARADISE LOST TO PARADISE REGAINED"
(Price 75 cents)

John 5:28,29: Do not marvel at this because the hour is coming in which all those in the memorial tombs will hear Jesus' voice and come out.

Note on strangers canvassing for the blind

A. C. Zaplaski, field secretary to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, wishes to bring to public attention that, in the case of anyone collecting funds for the blind, this money will never reach the sightless people of this county, nor any other county in the Laurentian District.

It is most unfortunate that there are those who wish to take advantage of the blind by collecting in the name of sightless people. The solicitors claim that a percentage will be given to the blind; they do not say what percentage, nor the group of the blind that will receive it. Also they claim that all organizations for the blind are affiliated; this is absolutely false. . .

The only time the blind of this county will benefit from public collections, will be from money raised by the Laurentian Federation of Charities in their annual campaign. The canvassers for this particular drive do not receive a "fat" percentage; they contribute their time and money to organizations established in the counties of Argenteuil, Terrebonne and Two Mountains. Beware to whom you donate your hard-earned cash; when in doubt, contact your local branch of the CNIB (LO 2-2686) — says Mr. Zaplaski.

Arg. Bridge Club officers for 1965-6

A brief executive meeting of the Argenteuil Bridge Club was held prior to the card playing on March 1. The slate of officers for 1965-66 is as follows:

Publicity, Mrs. J. Gorman.

The following suggestions were agreed upon by the club:

(1) Each of the six directors will take turns being on duty for each bridge session.

(2) From now on all games will be played in the Orange Hall, Lachute.

(3) There will be an executive meeting at 7 p.m. on the first Monday of every month.

APPRECIATION

I would like to express my appreciation to all who assisted me on the night of my accident, also for hospital visits, phone calls, and to those who sent cards and gifts. Special thanks to Miss Heather Bates and Miss Carol Bell.

A VW has fewer parts than other cars because it needs fewer parts.

It doesn't need a driveshaft to transfer engine power to the rear wheels. Because our car's engine is in the back to start with (and to maintain traction with).

And it doesn't need a radiator, or a water pump, or hoses. Because the engine's cooled with air, not water.

(When you drive your first VW, you may miss putting in anti-freeze, rust inhibitors and whatnot. But you'll soon get used to it.)

The stuff a VW doesn't use, it doesn't have to haul (and waste gas on).

And the parts you don't buy, you'll never repair. So you can't waste money on that.

Now you know why you can drive a VW for years and years with a lot of parts missing.

By Dusty Vineberg, Former Radio-TV Columnist, The Montreal Star

"Sweetheart," Magic Tom Auburn calls the little girls on his CFCF-TV Surprise Party. And somehow, although he calls all little girls sweetheart, he doesn't sound saccharine, insincere or condescending. He just sounds as if he loves children.

What I wanted to know was: Does he really love what a piano teacher friend of mine calls the little monsters — or is it a show business gimmick, this love in the afternoon?

I am pleased to report after a studio visit this week that appearance and reality are one — Magic Tom loves children off-camera too.

Contrary to public speculation on the subject, pandemonium does not reign on the set until air time. Apparently by magic, problem children turn docile in his presence. The atmosphere can be described as "subdued party." As for the production crew — well, if the picture seems to wobble, don't adjust your set. It's just the cameraman — weak with laughter. Producer Ralph Melanby says: "They break me up."

Try to seize the humor, however, and you find it elusive. The afternoon I was there, a nine-year-old cake eater was posing avant garde riddles. At least, I assume that's what they were because even Magic Tom couldn't understand them. Sample: Where was the house in New York City? Answer: On the moon.

It's hard to explain why this convulsed us in the studio.

Another youngster rendered that lively lyric, My Bonnie Lies Over the Ocean, in tones so expressionless they might well have emanated from a dying man of 80. His brother taught him! Well, it seemed funny at the time.

The youngsters — seven a day, chosen from their letters — are culled from their parents at the studio door about 4 p.m. They sit around the party table and Tom asks their names and what they plan to do on the air — sing, dance, recite, tell jokes, recount a good deed.

At 4.30 the unrehearsed show goes on the air for what the social workers undoubtedly call a child-centred hour, punctuated by cartoon films and commercials. Between chatter with the children and their "acts," Tom in his role of mother's helper plugs safety and good deeds, discusses hobbies, marks birthdays and plunges into any area of interest suggested by the children themselves.

This simple format has been enough to attract about 1,200 letters a week and to gain the show entry into 70,000 homes each afternoon.

"I wonder," a Franklin Centre woman wrote the other day, "if you know what each child has in his face when he looks up at you . . . I don't know, when they arrive home from school, which is most important to them — you, me or a piece of pie!"

Trying to explain this after the show, Tom said: "I've been very lucky. I have a wonderful name. Tom Auburn? So what. But Magic Tom. . ."

Then he advanced a sad little reason for his popularity. A psychologist told him, he said, that today's parents haven't time for their children. Fortunately, Magic Tom has time and love to spare.

Finally he said: "I try to imagine myself into each child. If he wants to be an engineer, I try to think what it's like to be an engineer and what a child might think it's like, and I ask him questions about things he probably wonders about. When a little girl says she wants to be a balerina, I can't say, 'Isn't that wonderful.' It's got to go deeper than that."

The children are bound to get the message — Magic Tom is genuinely interested. With him they become themselves, which is also why the show is so frequently amusing.

For the last 15 years, Magic Tom has entertained once a week during the school season at Piazza Tomasso's. More than 40,000 children are enrolled in the Magic Circle there. Mr. Tomasso no longer buys announcement ads. He is sold out.

At 48 after nearly 20 years as a professional magician, Tom Auburn has had plenty of opportunity to cross the border. "But I'm a family man. I like my home and children and clean shirts and hot food. And I'm doing all right here."

And there are always the children. Not long ago at a benefit Magic Tom asked a youngster if she wouldn't sing for all the other boys and girls. She flatly refused. "Then won't you please do it for me?" he asked softly. Said the six-year-old charmer: "Oh yes!" And burst into song.

In case you think the object of so much adoration might be spoiled, I add this otherwise irrelevant data: Magic Tom not only has no star on his CFCF-TV dressing room door. He has no dressing room. Make-up? "I put it on in the men's room."

To appear here

Magic Tom will make a personal appearance at Lachute High School on Saturday, March 13, when he will perform for the audience and act as master of ceremonies for a local Talent Show, sponsored by Unit 5 of Lachute United Church Women. While the talent entered to appear in the performance will represent the younger age groups, a cordial invitation is extended to all adults to attend the performance.

The show is scheduled to get started at 2.30 p.m. and at last count, 18 acts by local amateurs will present a variety of singing, dancing, piano and instrumental numbers, and a top-notch magician who will match his wits with Magic Tom.

Quebec's economic future, legislators give outlook

Investment facts, nationalization and separatism

"Quebec This Week", By Canadian Press

The Quebec Government is setting out, for all to see, the home truths of its economic objectives. Possibly no other Canadian government keeps so many spokesmen busy assuring investors that they couldn't have landed in a safer climate for private capital!

A recent example was an address to the Quebec Association of Forest Industries by Lucien Cliché, Lands and Forests minister.

Mr. Cliché said the government is not planning to expropriate the pulp and paper industry — Quebec's No. 1 money-maker for all concerned.

But, he said, if the forest industry is incapable of advancing the economic development of certain regions, the state would be forced to take a greater responsibility in this domain.

Talking to business executives recently, Gérard Filion, general manager of the General Investment Corporation, said business and industry need not fear nationalization in the present climate of public opinion. Who could say, though, what opinion would be 10 or 20 years hence?

While nationalization was not in the cards at present, Mr. Filion said, the idea of economic planning met with general public approval in Quebec. "This planning means intervention by the government . . . in order to effect a rational exploitation of natural resources."

An unknown factor in Quebec's present brisk economic expansion is how seriously outsiders take expressions of Separatist sentiment.

In the view of George Marler, government leader in the Legislative Council, the harm may be considerable. "Investments in 1964 represent a large increase from those of previous years," he said in the Upper House, "but I think this increase would have been still bigger if many industrialists did not attach an exaggerated importance to the declaration of extremists."

Mr. Marler said that on many occasions he has heard of decisions of industrialists to do their expanding elsewhere, "because they fear the upsets that would certainly follow Quebec's departure from Confederation." He added: "I hope that it will never happen, and that we will be able to convince foreigners who come here that it will never happen, because the people don't want it. We can do much ourselves to obtain this goal (of full development) but we can do more, much more, in association with the rest of Canada, and as a part of it, than if we try to do it alone."

APPRECIATION

Pearl Townsend wishes to thank her many friends and relatives for the lovely gifts and cards which she received during her stay in the Argenteuil Hospital. Special thanks to Dr. Middleton, who made it all possible.

No handicap to laughter

Calgary (CP) — When handicapped persons start seeing the funny side of life it's an indication they have accepted their condition, says a Calgary polio victim.

Mary Peters, confined to a wheelchair since stricken by polio at the age of 22, says she sees more that appeals to her sense of humor now than ever before and "even hospitals have their funny side."

The funny side of life she has experienced has been recorded by her in a book she hopes will be published shortly.

Miss Peters, a graduate of the University of British Columbia school of social work, now is director of the Volunteer Bureau here. She places volunteers in jobs and concentrates on expanding the fields in which volunteer workers can be used.

Rehabilitation is easier if handicapped people accept their changed situation, she says.

"Sports people are the worst. A former golfer will spend all his time watching golf matches and being bitter because he can no longer take part.

"Instead, he should be concentrating on finding some other activity to occupy him."

Miss Peters was a swimmer and played tennis and golf before her illness.

"A handicap does not make you a different person," she says, "although you must change your mode of life somewhat."

She says that welfare organizations would be even more useful if they were willing to give more responsibility and challenging work to the handicapped.

VALUE QUESTIONED

Many petitions dealing with contentious questions are little more than popularity contests between promoters as to which can secure the most signers, a fact so well known as to deprive the documents of any great significance.

DRIVERS AT FAULT?

Automobiles are built today with a great many more refinements than we had in the past — but have the drivers of these cars developed a more refined attitude toward their handling of today's car? Insurance men (say) accidents and claims increased 30 per cent.

Marriage

Congratulations from this community are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Pharand (the former Miss Hattie MacLean), who were married in the Pentecostal Church, Grenville, on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Noel Cormier and Mr. Claude Andrews, of Montreal, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Eddy Andrews. Mr. Elmer Andrews was also a guest on Sunday.

Get-well wishes are extended from friends in this community to Mrs. Murray Mooney and Mrs. Rory MacCullouch, who are patients in the Smith Clinic, Hawkesbury.

We are pleased to welcome home from hospital Mr. Shoddie Young, and hope he will speedily regain his health.

Annual Vestry Meeting Of Anglican Church

The annual vestry meeting of St. Mary's Church, Avoca, was held at noon on Wednesday, January 20, with the rector acting as chairman.

Mrs. Anthony Reid was appointed vestry clerk.

The minutes of last vestry meeting were read by Mrs. Reid.

The finances of the church were presented by Mrs. Herb Brown, and after all commitments had been attended to, there was a substantial balance. Mrs. Brown was thanked for her year's work as secretary-treasurer. Mr. Brown and Mr. Jos. Provencal are continuing for coming year as rector's and people's warden, respectively.

A letter of thanks was sent to the Rev. J. Cohen, of Grenville, and his lay reader, Mr. D. Robertson, for taking the services every Sunday morning at 9.30 during the summer months.

Mrs. Abby, whose summer home is in Avoca, acted as organist.

The rector thanked the members who faithfully carry on from year to year. The Synod representative is Mr. Paul MacFarlane. Mrs. Allan MacPhee, who spends the winter months with her daughter in Aylmer East, Que., was unable to be present.

The late Joseph Arthurs

Avoca — This community was saddened by the death of a lifelong resident, Joseph Arthurs, who passed away at his home in Avoca on Wednesday morning, February 17, after a lengthy illness.

Mr. Arthurs was in his 86th year. Born in Avoca, he was one of 12 children born to Joseph Arthurs and his wife Jane Young.

The funeral was held February 20 from the New Grenville Funeral Home, the Rev. H. Hill officiating. The organist was Mrs. Dora MacLeod, and the chosen hymns were "The Sands of Time are Sinking", "Just as I Am" and "Abide With Me".

Late Mrs. Allan Kennedy

On Tuesday, February 23, Mrs. Allan Kennedy passed away at the Royal Edward Hospital, after a lengthy illness.

Born at Pine Hill, Que., in 1885, she was the daughter of the late Lawson Kennedy and Ann Jane Moncrieff.

Left to mourn her passing are two daughters, (Minnie) Mrs. Wyman McAdam, of Sweetsburg, Que., (Hilda), Mrs. Howard Curren, of Brownsburg, and five sons, Laurence, of Angus, Ont., Lyle, of Brownsburg, Joe and Alvin, of Montreal, and Lloyd, of Daleville.

The funeral took place from the MacKimmie Funeral Home to Maple Avenue Baptist Church, Brownsburg. Service was conducted by the Rev. Gerald Hunt.

Pall-bearers were — Messrs. Alvin Kennedy, Lionel Tomalty, Lawson Kennedy, Lorne Mott, Grant Kennedy and Graham Kennedy. Burial was in the Brownsburg section of Lachute Cemetery.

Home and School study on CBC television

FINANCIAL SUPPORT for the CBC should be increased, in the view of the Canadian Home and School and Parent-Teacher Federation. Although radio and television programs produced by the CBC are of outstanding value in the total educational program in Canada, "more money should be spent to step up both the amount and quality of programs for children and youth, and school broadcasts."

The brief to the Committee on Broadcasting underlines the special educational responsibility of the tax-supported CBC. "In the fields of children's school, and youth broadcasts, the CBC is fulfilling a function at the national level which private stations (have disregarded) to date for financial reasons. There is a limit to the extent they should be expected to provide these programs free to the Canadian people."

The Federation says it is "somewhat disturbed at some of the constant sniping and investigating directed at the CBC". It agrees that some of the general programming calls for criticisms (on private stations and networks, as well), but thinks that desire for improvement in programs should not weaken support for the CBC as a corporation. It suggests that an independent committee might be set up to consider complaints about programs.

Re-emphasized in this brief is the Federation's policy to press for long-term research to find out the effects of television on Canadian children. It suggests that a sum equal to one tenth of one percent of the CBC budget would be appropriate.

Douglas Walkington, of Hudson, Que., familiar to Home and School enthusiasts here, assisted on the three-man team preparing this brief.

Undersold!

MACHINERY, which is Canada's leading import commodity, is now coming into this country from Japan in large volume. Shigeru Oue, executive director of the Japan Trade Centre in Toronto, estimates that lathes and related equipment, offset printing presses, cars and other items of machinery, made up about 45 per cent of the $175-million worth of Japanese goods sold here in 1964. In fact, states Mr. Oue, machinery has replaced textiles and clothing as Japan's leading export to Canada. . .

The reason that textiles did not maintain their No. 1 position, he explains, is that labor costs in Japan boosted their price in Canada 10 to 20 per cent above that of textiles from Communist China, Poland, Czechoslovakia and other low-cost countries.

It seems paradoxical that Japanese textile manufacturers are now facing in Canada the sort of low-wage competition that they have inflicted on Canadian manufacturers for several years. But if the competition were in their home market, and had expropriated more than 40 per cent of the total volume, they would have a better understanding of the complaints about unfair competition that have been voiced by Canadian producers and their employees.

Prices going up

BACK IN the Depression days, Eddie Cantor used to sing a song that sought to strike a hopeful note amid the economic miseries of the times: "Tomatoes are cheaper, potatoes are cheaper; now's the time to fall in love." — The point seemed to be that if you had any sort of job, you didn't have to be afraid of getting married. You might not earn much but prices were low anyway. Young couples also were encouraged by the suggestion that "two can live as cheaply as one," although there's some doubt that it was ever true.

The Second World War seems to have changed all that. Occasionally the price of some item drops — for example, refrigerators are cheaper than they were 15 years ago — but generally the cost of living goes up and up.

Take the latest index issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. With 1949 prices represented by 100, the January index was at a record 136.9 compared with 134.2 in the same month a year earlier. Food, including tomatoes, was slightly lower, but such things as mortgage interest, house repairs, transportation, toilet soaps and cleaning tissues, recreation, tobacco and alcohol were higher. Salaries were also up, above 200, meaning that on an average they were more than double what they had been in 1949.

If you're one of those people who is waiting for prices to start dropping one of these days, you might as well forget it, unless of course you're looking for another full-scale depression. And lower prices wouldn't be much use anyway if you didn't have a job or couldn't sell the products you turn out.

It might be possible to bring about price stability in Canada by improving efficiency, especially in the service industries, which account for a large proportion of the increases. But that's a long-term prospect at best, and it's more likely that the cost of living will continue its gradual rise as long as the country remains relatively prosperous.

About the only thing that is cheap, in fact, is advice — and it's seldom worth much at the price you pay for it. For example, if you don't already know, you will actually lose money if you put it into a sock and hide it under the mattress. The value of a dollar is dropping and will continue to drop. You can just about stay even with the interest a bank will pay, but if you have a reasonable amount of cash lying around, perhaps you should look for an investment that will keep you ahead of the game.

Campaign against smoking directed to school-agers

DURING THE past year the Canadian Cancer Society, in conjunction with Ontario Department of Education, conducted a survey to evaluate the effectiveness of the filmstrip, "To Smoke or Not to Smoke", which had been distributed throughout a great number of the secondary schools of Ontario.

It was interesting to note that only 30% of the students had seen the film, indicating that a great deal has yet to be done if one is to place objectively before our younger generation the health hazard of excessive cigarette smoking. Although many students had not seen the filmstrip, however, some had possibly read articles, or had participated in class discussion on the topic of Smoking and Health. Those students who did see this film felt that it explained the facts clearly, and indicated that smoking was a dangerous habit.

It was also of interest to note that the survey showed that 25% of the students in Grades 9 through 13 smoked. In analysis, this seemed a very low figure, and further investigation might indicate a different percentage.

One of the most revealing points of this survey was the fact that 34% of those who had seen the filmstrip and had previously been smokers had now changed their smoking habits.

As a result of this survey, the Sub-Committee on Smoking and Health, which comprises representatives from the Department of Education, the Department of Health, the Ontario Medical Association, the Medical Officers of Health, the Ontario Tuberculosis Association, and the Canadian Cancer Society, has suggested that there is a need for new and additional materials with which to carry on a continuing educational program in this subject area.

The Ontario Division of the Canadian Cancer Society is now preparing these new materials for distribution.

It has also been indicated that the need for education on the harmful aspects of excessive cigarette smoking should be aimed at a much lower age group. Therefore, future programs will be developed for elementary as well as for secondary school pupils.

It is only through a constant approach to our young people that we can hope to eliminate what can become, in future years, a major health hazard.

Man among girls has his problems

Vancouver (CP) — Being the only man in a school of girls isn't all that one might think, says Ken Ward, the only male nursing student in a class of 266 at St. Paul's Hospital here.

The major part of his day is spent with his female classmates, but the relationship suffers from "what you might call a lack of communication," he said.

"The girls in my class tend to think of me as a man first and a nurse second. It's very irritating."

Ken once studied for the ministry, but he switched to psychiatric work and first must become a registered nurse.

He said many of the girls treat him as a big brother. "The gossip runs pretty high here, but most of the girls would rather go out with someone from outside who is less accessible to them."

He counts his biggest problems the petty, domestic matters. "For example, as a nurse I have to sign in every evening at the nurses' residence by 11 p.m., but as a man I'm supposed to be out of the place by 10.30 p.m."

Ken doesn't live in the nurses' residence — "Funny thing, everyone asks me about that."

— Contributed by Norman Thorburn —

All students of Canadian history have heard of the heroism of the Shawnee chief, Tecumseh. They know that this brave chief died fighting the Americans at Moraviantown. A captain of the Kentucky Rifles is given the credit for killing him.

Tecumseh had a twin brother called the Prophet. The Prophet had none of the manly characteristics of his brother, and was killed in a drunken brawl in a Detroit tavern!

Both Tecumseh and his twin brother, the Prophet, had been busy prior to 1812 in encouraging many Indian tribes to rise in rebellion against the Americans, who were dispossessing them of their lands and homes. Tecumseh and his brother visited the Seminoles and the Creek Indians, who dwelt in Florida.

Weatherford, Chief of the Creeks, listened to the words of Tecumseh and was much impressed. Joined by some fugitive Negro slaves, Weatherford attacked Fort Mimms, in the deep South. He slaughtered the entire garrison of the fort.

Consternation reigned in the southern states. It was decided that Andrew Jackson, a tough American general, known in history as "Old Hickory", should be given the command of a body of troops to crush the Creeks.

General Jackson defeated the Creeks in several battles, but he lost many of his own men. Jackson surrounded the Creeks at a place called the Hickory Ground. Weatherford, after a meeting with his own men, decided to surrender.

Weatherford was a renowned Indian orator, and many of his speeches have been recorded for posterity. Weatherford could have taken his own life, but the religion of the Red Man forbade this. It was an offence to the Great Spirit, to destroy the life which the Great Spirit had planted in one's body. Few Indians of the olden days ever committed suicide, and then only under great duress.

So Weatherford came to the camp of the American army, and was ushered into the presence of General Andrew Jackson, later to become President of his country. Weatherford addressed General Jackson:

"White Chief, I come before you to surrender. I have fought you bravely, and fought you well. But I cannot fight you with dead warriors. Had I enough men to put in the field of battle, I would not be here to surrender. I know that you have sworn to make an example of me. Now, do with me as you wish. I ask for no quarter. I am prepared to die an 'Indian death', by fire and torture if you desire."

Jackson hated the wily chief, as he hated no other Indian. But now his face lit up with admiration. Here was a man after his own heart. Weatherford continued, "All I ask is your mercy on the squaws and children of my tribe."

"Go your way in peace, chief," said General Jackson, "and I will see that your people are not molested."

General Andrew Jackson was true to his word, but he encircled the Creek territory with a string of forts, and never again did the Creeks rise in rebellion. . .

I hope, I will be excused for reciting American history to a Canadian audience, but I like this little tale out of the history of the Indian wars in the U.S.A.

SUGAR AND SPICE
by Bill Smiley

They Could Have Asked Me!

That aging enfant terrible, Pierre Berton, has churned out another book. With the encouragement of the Anglican church, he took what was supposed to be a long, hard look at contemporary Christianity.

According to the critical reviews, the result, entitled The Comfortable Pew, turned out to be a short, soft look.

For years I have envied Berton for a number of reasons: his facility with words; his TV interviews with gorgeous dolls; his colossal gall; his big, fat income. Every time the big fuzz-dome scores another coup, I get the green sickness.

But this is different. My jealousy is complicated by sheer hurt. If the Anglicans wanted somebody to write a book about them, why did they turn to a back-slid Anglican like Berton, when they had a front-slid Anglican, me, available.

Like most converted Anglicans, I was hauled, kicking and struggling, into the fold, on sexual grounds. My wife was an Anglican.

At first, she used to shame me into accompanying her to church a couple of times a year. Then the outfit fastened its tentacles to the kids and first thing I knew I was going to Bible Class pageants and Sunday School picnics.

The pressure increased. "Wouldn't it be lovely," she speculated with that phoney wistfulness that makes you want to run for the nearest exit, "if you could be confirmed at the same time as your little son?"

I dug in my heels. I refused to join in the general confession, because I could hear my mother, with her solid Methodist background, groaning in her grave every time we came to that bit about believing in the holy Catholic church. I wouldn't kneel, but just sort of crunched down, like my Ulster Presbyterian father.

To cut a long conflict short, I was confirmed at the same time as my son. And frankly, I must admit that once the last rug was pulled from under my feet, I've enjoyed every minute of it.

Now I can mumble the general confession and the creed with the best of them. And I take a certain childish pride in kneeling, straight-backed, through the long communion service, when all about me — other people my age are groaning and reverting sneakily to a squat, a crouch, or a mere bending of the head. Sometimes my family has to lift me back into the pew and massage my knees so that I can come up for the next hymn, but it's worth it.

One thing I like about the Anglicans; they keep you busy. None of this stuff of sitting there dreaming for an hour while a preacher wanders through the dark forests of his own interpretations. They have you popping up and down like a jack-in-the-pulpit, on your knees praying, on your feet singing, or on your seat getting your wind back.

Another thing I like about Anglican services is the prayers. I don't think I could ever go back to those interminable, home-made prayers in which the preacher acts as though God had nothing better to do on a busy Sunday morning than listen to him displaying his eloquence and endurance. At least, in the Anglican ritual, you can craftily flip over the page and be reassured that there are only two more paragraphs of the thing.

Last, and I hesitate to say this, I like being an Anglican because of the snob in me. Anglicans, if pressed (up against a wall with a knife at their throats), will admit that some other faiths have certain merits. But underneath, they know that a good Anglican is a couple of jumps nearer heaven than a good R.C. or Methodist or Baptist or Presbyterian.

In this way, they are exactly like good R.C.'s, Methodists, Baptists and Presbyterians. But it's heartening to those who lack confidence.

I told you they picked the wrong fellow to write that book.

Money For The Aged

The burden of old age will in the future be unknown in Canada. This historic promise took its last big hurdle toward reality this week following the Federal Government's decision to pay the universal old age pension at 65.

Prime Minister Pearson's announcement — showing that a minority government can get things done after all — becomes significant when it is put along side the new Canada Pension Plan and the national medicare scheme recommended by the Hall Commission.

When the Canada Pension Plan reaches maturity in 1976, our aged will be able to pick up a maximum of a further $104 monthly, for a total of $179. If a person has private income or a supplemental company pension, he'll do even better although he'll be taxed more on the difference.

The decision to drop the age minimum to 65 over the next five years is long over-due. The life expectancy for Canadian males is still only about 65, and pensions don't do much good if you don't live to collect them.

It is now fairly certain that Canada's next Federal Government — no mater which party wins the next election — will take the country into a national medicare program of government health insurance.

The greatest financial threat of old age is ill health, and national medicare, added to our present public hospital insurance, will eliminate this nightmare.

Even by today's living costs, $179 per month is not a lot of money. But a married man will be able to add his wife's $75 pension, bringing their income to $254, which would look like a fortune to many present-day pensioners.

Additionally, there's the built-in cost of living bonus which the government is committed to adding to the pension in the years ahead.

There's already pressure from opposition parties to increase the $75 figure. Both Conservative leader John Diefenbaker and the NDP have called for increases. It's a good bet that the sum will be up to $100 monthly by the time another two or three general elections — 10 to 15 years — have rolled around.

It's thus possible to predict that by 1980 a couple could draw more than $300 per month from the two pensions, and be assured of complete medical and hospital care on a fully-insured basis.

The inevitable arguments against such a utopian prospect will be advanced loudly in the months and years ahead, notably from private insurance companies who fear they'll lose out in the competition for pension premiums.

But there remains a vast field of untapped business in company pension plans that would supplement the Canada Pension Plan. Aggressive, intelligent management will keep every Canadian insurance company busy, and there should be an increase rather than a reduction in funds thus made available for public and private investment in Canada.

Can the country afford it? It's evident we can, as our own modest population explosion assures that we'll have a proportionately larger work force of young people — and a smaller percentage of retired — than ever before.

And if these guaranteed pension programs discourage secondary private saving, maybe this isn't so bad after all. Money works best when it's circulating, and consumer spending is today more than ever the key to a prosperous economy.

A Mother's Speech

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

What kind of memories of your speech are you giving your children in the present? Have you ever heard a recording of your voice? It might be quite a shock to you! Almost without exception, people exclaim when they hear a record or a tape of their conversation, "I didn't know I sounded like that!"

The way a person speaks may be either an asset or a liability. The emphasis on a pleasant voice in the various "Personality" or "Charm" courses which are so popular, proves this. Recently an expert on voice production pointed out that a relatively small amount of attention to voice culture of the young by parents and teachers of young children would accomplish more than a much larger amount of instruction and drill at maturity.

Helping a child speak correctly and fluently is one of the most important parts of a child's education. A mother's tone and words she uses, have a very great influence on a man or woman's speech in adult life.

Little tots learn right pronunciation of words, their meaning, their correct order in a sentence, by copying the adults in the home. A little child who is well usually has a delightful inflection. A whining voice does not necessarily show a spoiled child. It often indicates a youngster who is fatigued or in poor health.

Children look to their parents to show them the kind of voice to use. One small girl said to her mother: "I like to hear you speaking. Your voice is soft like velvet. Mary Lou's mother sounds like the noon factory whistle. She screams at her."

No mother would feel flattered if she overheard this "factory whistle" judgement of her voice — Many mothers should be more careful of the tone which they use. A European visitor declared women on this continent have the prettiest legs and the ugliest voices in the world. Do you think this is a fair criticism?

The tension and hurry in modern living is frequently reflected in people's voices. A mother with several small children and no help in the house, except the assistance of mechanical labor saving devices, often becomes wrought up and weary. "I hate myself when I scream at my children — but by the end of the day it takes all my will power to keep from doing it," one young mother confessed to her mother. "Better do a little less, and rest a little more," the grandmother wisely suggested, "then you won't be so apt to snap at them."

Too many women use too high a pitch. They speak not only in too shrill a voice, but too rapidly. The result is indistinctiveness and poor enunciation. Monotony in speech comes from using one tone almost all the time with little variation or contrast of occasional higher and lower tones.

There are several interesting references to speech in the Bible. The wise man in Proverbs pointed out, "A soft answer turneth away wrath," and Jesus said, "Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh." It is this overflow of deep feeling which makes a real home.

Shakespeare wrote in King Lear, "Her voice was ever soft, gentle and low, an excellent thing in a woman." How does your tone compare with this description?... Perhaps when you are weary or irritated or anxious, your voice reflects your emotions... But don't forget that the way you speak colors the home atmosphere for every member of the family.

Local fire chief issues mid-season appeal to citizens

As we are approaching the season when most stove pipe and chimney fires occur, I would ask our citizens to take extra precautions at this time with their heating equipment. This equipment has been used to capacity in many cases, due to extremely cold weather, causing more than normal amounts of soot and carbon to be deposited in smoke pipes and chimneys.

Now is the time to have that mid-season check of all heating equipment, wood, coal or oil-fired, clean out sooted-up stove pipes and check chimneys.

A chimney or stove pipe fire in itself may not seem serious, however many costly fires are caused by defective heating equipment.

Check yours today and have a home tomorrow.

Get your family off to a good start each day by including a good source of protein. The "3-minute egg" pictured above is quick to prepare, and supplies that much needed source of protein, minerals and vitamins. This breakfast is made complete by including from left to right: piping hot bran muffins with butter, chilled tomato juice and a large glass of fresh cold milk.

'Squffle Jacket' Take the traditional toggle fastenings of the duffle coat, add a hidden zipper, borrow the adjustable draw-string hood and deep roomy pockets from a squall jacket — and the result is the new indispensable "Squffle Jacket", designed by a Winnipeg firm. Acetate and cotton, shower proofed, in red, beige, navy, blue and brown is used for the Squffle Jacket, which is fully lined with matching Celanese taffeta and comes in girls' and teen sizes.

And main feature for dinner course —

A delicious and inexpensive dinner main course consists of a substantial omelet. Why not try the suggestion from the Poultry Products Institute for a delicious chicken liver and onion omelet. Allow 2 to 3 eggs per serving, 3 to 4 tablespoons of finely chopped chicken liver and one to two tablespoons of sautéed finely minced onion per serving. Season with salt, pepper and a dash of margarine or one of the prepared seasoned salts. If using seasoned salt, omit the plain salt in the recipe.

Beat required number of eggs only enough to blend yolks and whites lightly, adding 1 tablespoon of water per egg.

Mix the liver, onion and seasonings with the egg and pour into a hot well-buttered heavy frying pan. Cook slowly over low heat lifting the edges of the omelet with a knife and letting the uncooked liquid run onto the bottom of the pan, continue cooking slowly until mixture's set but surface of omelet is still slightly moist. Tilt pan, run knife around pan to loosen omelet and roll out onto a hot platter, serve with steamed spinach, home fried potatoes, a crisp salad and hot rolls.

At present economical prices, 2 or 3 grade A large eggs cost only a few cents and give a substantial serving of top quality protein. Canada's Food Guide points out that eggs may be used in place of meat, fish or poultry in our menus.

Household hints

When you want to extract only a few drops of juice from a lemon, pierce the skin with a sharp knife, and squeeze out what you require. Then wipe the skin dry and seal hole with tape.

Your bread box should be washed once a week, using baking soda instead of soap. Between washings brush it free of crumbs with a clean dry brush, advises the Bakers' Association.

CAR-CONSCIOUS

Three out of four households in Canada now are equipped with a passenger car; five years ago the proportion was only two out of three.

The "new Canadian consumer" is a term that crops up more and more in the market place these days. This modern woman is not interested in keeping up with the Joneses. The idea now is to keep away from the Joneses — to be different, to be individual.

The sales pitch which insists that this or that is "most popular" or the "biggest seller" has no appeal to the new consumer. The bulk of our advertising would seem to deny this thesis, but today's marketing surveys keep hammering away at the point for all who are to listen.

The new consumer is not every consumer but her number is multiplying. She is more sophisticated, she has good taste, and it is getting better. The most budget-minded today reads and sees the latest news on fashion, home decoration and everything else that is involved in daily living for herself and her family.

Developing taste is said stiffening the consumer's spine. She is more demanding, less willing to compromise on style, color or design simply because it is not in stock at her local store. Her developing taste inevitably means independent taste, the wish to be different from her neighbors.

The surveyors term the tide a form of consumer rebellion against enforced conformity, growing alongside automation and mass marketing. Whatever the reason, they all agree that things are changing. Prosperity, higher education, and more leisure time are upgrading a remarkable range of consumer products and the new consumer is hep to the changes.

The working girl who once paid $15 for a dress now pays $45 for something different but she insists on good style, fit and fabric. The mother who buys for her children expects washability, shrinkage control and other promised goodies.

Home furnishing styles, once neatly divided between contemporary and period, are now mixed and contrasted to achieve individuality. The new consumer will pay more for upholstered furniture that is spot resistant, carpets that will bear heavy traffic and draperies that won't fade, but she also wants a much wider choice of colors, patterns and textures.

In fashion the variety of choice today is a dramatic illustration of this breaking away from the tyranny of a single look or a trend. In home furnishing the same situation prevails.

Today's textile products for all uses are aimed at this new consumer. Fibres are mixed and blended to achieve the ultimate performance, the greatest variety of textures, the widest choice of colors.

No one claims anymore that a single color or pattern or trend is THE fashion this year. Soft fabrics are big in spring styles, Textures are many, patterns multitudinous. Even Paris cannot dictate like it used to do. For several years Paris tried to lengthen hemlines and banish full-blown hairos, but no one paid much attention.

The increasingly stubborn independence of consumer taste, the rebellion against conformity, is said the key to the new fashion formula. In time it may become fashionable to be unfashionable. The new consumer will make fashion enrich her life not enslave it.

The old dinner standby, chicken, does not have to be served roasted or fried. A few simple ingredients will make it a different company dish or a filling dinner for the family.

For Hawaiian-style chicken, you need 6 large pieces of chicken breast, 2 teaspoons soya sauce, ½ cup white or red table wine, 1 teaspooon ground ginger.

Wipe chicken with damp cloth. Mix wine, soya sauce and ginger in wide, shallow container. Place chicken pieces as flat as possible in mixture, turning pieces several times to coat well. Let stand at least an hour, turning pieces several times to marinate evenly.

Rub chicken with soft butter or oil and place in single layer in baking dish. Pour marinade on top and bake at 375 degrees for one hour, or until tender. Turn chicken two or three times during baking, leaving skin side up during the last 10 or 15 minutes. Serves six.

Company Casserole

Ingredients: 2 cups fine noodles, 2½ cups coarsely cut cooked chicken, one 10-oz. can mushrooms, 1 teaspoon butter, 1 package dried mushroom soup mix, 2 cups chicken stock or consomme, ¾ cup evaporated milk, ¾ cup diced celery, 1 cup toasted sliced almonds, ½ cup buttered crumbs.

Cook noodles in salted boiling water until tender. Sauté drained mushrooms in butter for five minutes. Blend soup mix with chicken stock and heat.

Place a thin layer of sauce in bottom of casserole and arrange half of chicken over it. Top with the drained noodles, mushrooms, celery, almonds, remaining chicken and sauce. Sprinkle with buttered crumbs. Bake in 350-degree oven 30 minutes.

Chicken Sea Pie

For dough use 4 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, ¾-cup shortening, water.

Sift flour, baking powder and seasoning together. Cut in shortening, add only enough water to hold dough together.

For filling: 3-lb. chicken cut up, 6 sliced green onions, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, 1 cup milk, 2 tablespoons chopped celery leaves, seasonings to taste — salt, pepper, savory, marjoram and thyme — boiling water.

Arrange half of chicken on dough in casserole. Top with half the onion, parsley and celery leaves, sprinkle with salt, pepper, savory, marjoram and thyme. Divide remaining dough into two portions and roll out. Cover first layer with one portion, making three long slits in dough. Add remaining filling and top with remaining dough, also slitted.

Pour boiling water over the pie until it shows at the sides — almost to cover. Place lid on casserole tightly and bake for 20 minutes in 450-degree oven. Reduce temperature to 375 and bake 2½ hours. Remove lid, pour 1 cup milk over crust. Recover and bake 15 minutes, then remove cover and bake a final 15 minutes.

Ste. Adele police-fire dept. has full-time blind employee

Fine example from CNIB — affiliated in Charities appeal

"Initiative and perseverance are often the by-products of a well organized rehabilitation program," stated Aimé Thibault, chairman of the Terrebonne County Advisory Board of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. CNIB is a member-agency in the Laurentian Federation of Charities, whose campaign will officially begin March 7, next Monday.

Mr. Thibault was singling out the case of Jos. Carducci who, despite his handicap, works as dispatcher for the Police and Fire Departments in Ste. Adele. Working 12 hours a day, six days a week, he receives calls and channels them to the constables or the 16 volunteer firemen, as the case applies. Municipal Police Chief Paul Belair stated: "Jos. Carducci receives no special concession because of his blindness. He has proven by his initiative and perseverance that he is just as efficient as his sighted relief man." With the help of his Seeing Eye dog supplied by CNIB, he travels alone the distance of one mile separating his home from his work.

Readapting to his handicap required much patience and determination. "It is somewhat harder to readjust to such a handicap when it occurs around the age of 50 rather than in childhood or adolescence", explained Mr. Thibault. Mr. Carducci learned the Braille System in 11 lessons. Even the CNIB home teacher, blind herself, was surprised at the speed at which he was able to master this reading and writing system for the blind.

Mr. Carducci, in the past, worked for several of the larger hotels in the country, eventually becoming head waiter, and had the honor of serving several personalities, such as Queen Elizabeth II, King George VI, four Governor-Generals and Cardinal Pacelli, then apostolic delegate who later became Pope Pius XII. Finally, Mr. Carducci acquired and operated his own business — a dining room and catering service.

"When he lost his sight, he did not give up," continued Mr. Thibault. "With the assistance of CNIB's multiple service program, he immediately began to reorganize his life."

This is an example of the work accomplished by the Canadian National Institute for the Blind throughout Canada. In order to pursue its work in the St. Jerome Diocese, the CNIB is calling on the generosity of all the residents. The 176 blind persons in the area need the CNIB; and in turn, the CNIB needs you! "Be generous when the Laurentian Federation of Charities volunteer canvasser calls on you", said Mr. Thibault.

Country Notebook

By WALKER RILEY,
Macdonald College

"We are feeding our cows 15 to 18 lbs. grain a day before they freshen; by the time they have been milking a month, they are getting all they can clean up. That could be as much as 40 lbs. of grain a day." This was how dairyman John Rich described "lead feeding" to us when we visited some of the good D.H.I.A. herds south of the border last month. John's herd averaged over 15,000 lbs. milk last year.

Mr. Rich explained further, "But as soon as their production starts to fall, we cut back steadily in their ration. Over the year, they don't get much more grain than they ever did. We are just feeding a larger part of it earlier in the lactation." We asked John how much difference the change in program had made. "Some of our cows are giving 2,000 lbs more milk per year for the same feed cost," he said.

Now that made very interesting listening for this ex-dairyman whose herd average had never been above 11,000 lbs. So I have been making enquiries about lead feeding and this is what I have found.

Lead feeding has been around for three or four years now. It is being successfully practised by top dairymen in the U.S. and in Canada.

The plan consists of accustoming the cow to liberal grain feeding before freshening. By the time she calves she is already getting 10 to 18 lbs. concentrates a day.

After calving, this is increased as rapidly as possible to the limit of her appetite or to maximum milk yield. After the peak is reached in about three weeks, the grain is slowly reduced until it just affects milk yield.

Then, when production really starts to taper off, the grain is reduced in anticipation of the normal drop. This is the stage where real savings can be made in the feed bill. By the time a cow has dropped to 40 lbs. of milk a day, she will need very little grain if hay and silage quality is good.

At the peak of production, though, she can hardly eat enough, grain and roughage, to meet the demand for maintenance and milk.

The whole program hinges on the fact that a cow's yearly production is determined very early in her lactation. If she doesn't get enough energy in her feed to meet her needs in the first six weeks, no amount of grain feeding later in her lactation will bring her milk yields back up.

The fear of more udder trouble seems unfounded. Research indicates Mastitis and udder Edema are not caused by high grain feeding. Some men admit the cows do go off feed more easily, but say it is not serious if watched closely.

It is worth noticing that the year's grain bill need be no higher under lead feeding. John Rich fed 3,900 lbs. concentrate per cow last year, just under two tons each. Averaged out, that's about a four to one ratio of milk to grain.

Protein level of the concentrate has lost its former importance; it's energy they are after. With "excellent" forage, a 12% protein level in the grain mix is sufficient. If very high levels of corn silage are fed, the protein content may need to go to 18-20% to balance the ration.

Now the challenging question comes up. Under lead feeding, can you forget about all those complicated formulae relating the amount of grain to feed to the price of milk? Can you afford not to full-feed your cow in the first six weeks whatever your market? I haven't heard the answer.

We are trying something new at the College, and we think you will be interested. It's Maple Day on March 11th, and we are making a charge for it. We want to try out the idea that you feel it is worth something to bring the top men in the industry together for real pooling of all their newest information in syrup making and marketing.

That's in the morning. The afternoon's program will be "on location" in the Morgan Arboretum, where Professors Arch Jones and Dan MacArthur will show you what they are up to. And we guarantee it is interesting

Commentary will be in two languages. The program will start with a cup of coffee at 10 o'clock, and be finished in time for chores. The charge? Oh, yes — $4 including a good dinner.

Lions' Oratory Contest At the Legion Hall before a packed house last evening (Tuesday), Lachute and Brownsburg students competed in the Lions Club annual speaking contest. Taxpayer League asks lower rates

The Lachute Taxpayers' League, with President Jacques Desjardins as their spokesman, have virtually demanded a reduction in taxes for 1965 — in view of the town's $60,867 surplus reported at December 31, 1964.

"You should make an effort to considerably reduce our property tax," Mr. Desjardins declared before the Council last week. "We know you have certain projects in mind, but we do not see how these can materialize before next year, and accordingly we are asking a reduction of at least 35 per cent in the tax rate. The Council could well have reduced the tax last year and still have finished with two thousand dollars' surplus."

According to Mr. Desjardins, the Taxpayers' League, and the two Chambers of Commerce (senior and junior), had studied the financial report prepared by the firm of Armand Parent, and the members had decided to make representations to Council for a reduced tax rate.

"About 75 per cent of any money saved on the citizen's tax bill will be spent in Lachute," the spokesman continued, "and this will stimulate business and improve our local economy."

Looking over the small representation of taxpayers at this meeting, Mr. Desjardins told the Council not to be deceived by the small attendance, which should be more numerous. "We are maintaining our interest in public affairs, and you, also as business men, should know what can be done."

Mayor Replies

Mayor Saindon was the first to react, stating it was most unfortunate this question should be raised at this meeting, for the budget estimates for the next fiscal year were not yet completed and no decision had been taken on the tax rate. "Your intervention is unfortunate, as well as premature — since this will be reported in the newspapers, and ratepayers not present at this meeting will be asking what it's all about."

The mayor here addressed Mr. Desjardins less formally as "Jacques", and informed him the Council had some strong arguments to counteract his suggestion for a tax cut.

"It's a good thing the previous administration accumulated this surplus", he said, "but I repeat, at this stage the discussion is premature and not in the best interests."

"I find your attitude most strange," retorted Mr. Desjardins, "and even stranger, that you seem to hold me up to blame. . . Just the same, we are asking that the tax rate be lowered; you can raise it in the coming years when your projects take shape."

It was Alderman Laurier Carrière who closed the discussion with due diplomacy, thanking Mr. Desjardins and the various groups for their manifestation of interest, but affirming the claim that it was a premature topic.

The Surplus

The municipal surplus referred to by Jacques Desjardins comes from revenues in excess of the 1964 estimates, and expenses lower than those foreseen in the budget.

It should be noted that the tax rate was reduced 30 cents on the $100 valuation last year, and even so, the surplus was in the neighborhood of $60,800. This was the situation referred to by Mr. Desjardins, in asserting that the rate could have been lowered considerably more.

The Watchman here reproduces the revenues and expenditures estimated in the 1964 budget, and by comparison, the actual figures — indicating the overall surplus in each case. . .

Engineer reports on town water system

At the statutory meeting of Town Council last Thursday, the municipal engineer, Hubert Pilon, was asked for a report on his work to date. He informed the councillors he had studied the town water system and an overall plan of the supply lines was now passably accurate.

Mr. Pilon had also received assurance from the Underwriters that fire protection rates would not be increased until Council decided upon improvements to be undertaken. . . The engineer had procured a $15-a-week increase in salary for the town foreman, Simard Larocque, and had recommended repairs to the GMC truck to cost around $735.

The Council, with Mayor Dr. Z. Saindon presiding, received this report from the recently appointed engineer. Dr. Lyall Middleton was named pro-mayor for the ensuing three months. Ald. L. W. Armstrong was absent from the meeting.

On behalf of the Chamber of Commerce, Jos. Santini, president of this group, asked Council to assume the expense of salaries to the students in attendance at the tourist information booth this coming season. He asked for remuneration of $1 an hour from Monday to Friday, inclusive, and $1.25 on Saturdays and Sundays — amounting to around $760 for the summer.

As the result of a fatal accident at the Fraser Street crossing in December 1964, a communication from the Board of Transport Commissioners recommended that an automatic warning signal be erected at this spot.

The services of Armand Parent, accountants and auditors, were engaged for another year, at a fee of $900.

Local Valuators

After a somewhat lively discussion, Alderman Laurier Carrière proposed that the services of Dr. J.-P. Dorion be engaged as chief valuator to draw up the property roll. The motion was supported by Aldermen McFaul, Dumais, Middleton, Masson and Charlebois, with Aldermen Gibeault and Belanger opposed. . . The discussion revolved around the alternative of employing local valuators or engaging the firm of Bégin, Charland & Valiquette for this purpose.

Correspondence

Correspondence produced by the secretary included letters regarding use of the Auditorium, also a protest from Réal Urbain on a $50 business tax assessed to him as bailiff. Augustin Lamarche asked a revised valuation on a vacant property which he intended shortly to demolish. The Canadian Legion asked, and was granted, permission to sell tickets on the streets until Fair time next June. The Carrefour du Livre will have the use of the Auditorium April 10-11-12 for a Library Week display and invited the councillors to attend the opening.

Advanced Time will be adopted from April 25 to October 31. The corporation will purchase a used car from Lacasse Automobiles for $900, for use of the police denartment. Bills totalling $36,868.94 were passed for payment.

Ald. Charlebois moved creation of the rank Captain or Assistant Chief, in the police personnel, and that salaries of such a rank be left to the discretion of the Council. The motion was adopted, five votes to three.

The meeting was adjourned until Tuesday of this week.

The monthly meeting of Canadian Red Cross, Lachute Branch, was held on Wednesday of last week in the United Church hall. Mrs. Fernand Legault, president, took the chair.

The report for the Sewing Committee was given by Mrs. Bert McGibbon, chairman. In this she told the meeting the following shipment was sent to Montreal during the last week of February:

7 Quilts, 20 boys' shorts, 20 girls' dresses (12-yrs.), 10 boys' shirts, 10 girls' dresses (8 yrs.), 20 T-shirts, 2 sweaters, 10 blouses (8 yrs.), 500 swabs.

In acknowledging this consignment, headquarters had written their grateful thanks for such a splendid contribution.

Mrs. Legault then gave the members an outline of subjects discussed at the provincial annual meeting, held in Montreal on February 19-20. These included Blood Donor Clinics, Water Safety, Disaster Organizations, Publicity, and Women's Work Committees.

Financial Campaign

Outstanding in discussions at the present time is the fact of the Society's urgent need for funds. The receipts throughout the province over the last year have been lower than hitherto, although demands everywhere for Red Cross aid are ever increasing. Unless more money is forthcoming, facilities will, inevitably, be drastically reduced.

The organizing of Lachute and district's financial campaign this year is in the capable hands of Dr. Reg Rigby, chairman, assisted by Mr. Léopold Carrière and Mr. B. A. T. Watson.

It is up to each one to give this fine committee all the support possible, and to contribute as generously as possibly when the Red Cross canvasser calls on March 22. The target is $4,200. . . Let us endeavor to surpass it.

By-laws on store hours and Sunday dancing

Lachute town merchants now have their by-law on store hours, a regulation which has been pending for some time. Representing the desire of the majority of storekeepers, this by-law (No. 253) amends the previously existing by-law (No. 205). Principal clauses of the statute decree as follows:

(1) Stores will close at 10 p.m. on Thursday and Fridays.

(2) Stores will also remain open till 10 p.m. on days (except Saturdays) preceding a religious or statutory holiday, as well as from December 1 to 31 each year.

Barbers

A request on behalf of the barber trade, voiced by Henri Chamaillard, president of the Master Barbers and Hairdressers Association (St. Eustache) asked that by-law 162 be amended so that public holidays be the same as those observed by this Association.

Dance Halls

Another by-law was adopted at the Council sitting last week, No. 254, to permit dancing in the local grills on Sundays. This was passed on a deciding vote cast by Mayor Dr. Z. Saindon.

At each reading of this by-law four aldermen voted in favor and four against (Ald. Linton Armstrong being absent), and the mayor at each reading cast his vote in favor of the measure. Aldermen in favor were Messrs. Charlebois, Gibeault, Belanger and Masson; those opposed were Dr. R. Dumais, Dr. L. Middleton, Messrs. McFaul and Carriere. . . The measure was finally adopted.

Elected to School Board at Horin Heights

Morin Heights — The Rev. Horace G. Baugh was recently elected chairman of the Morin Heights Protestant School Board, and Mr. Gordon Allen was elected to complete the term of office of Mr. Paul Baumel, who resigned.

The new chairman expressed appreciation to Mr. Baumel for the time he had devoted to the School Board.

A tender was awarded to Mr. Leslie Seale as caretaker of the school, at $280 per month.

Church entries result in pick-up of 3 youngsters

Three young members of a Lachute family, aged eight, nine and 13 years, were picked up for questioning by Cst. Michel Durand, and admitted four entries into the United Church, four into the Baptist Church, and five robberies at the King Koin Laundry. The two boys and their sister were questioned Saturday afternoon following entry into the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church, where they broke a window in order to get into the church hall.

Little damage or loss was reported in any of the church incidents; however, several small door windows were broken. Most of the time they were in the buildings, the children spent in using the kitchen facilities. While some mischievous acts were performed, no property was defaced. A record-player reported missing from the United Church was recovered in the attic of the vacant Barron house nearby, while the removal of any clothing from the Red Cross workrooms was denied by the young intruders.

In commenting on the good work of Cst. Durand, Capt. Réal Chartrand pointed out that the municipal police officers had been on the look-out for the youngsters for a couple of months, and had on numerous occasions placed policemen in the various church buildings in an effort to catch the children. "When the proper information came to hand, Cst. Durand did a thorough job and left no stone unturned in the investigation," the police captain said.

From the Rev. Jean Labrèche, a missionary of the Saint Esprit (Holy Ghost) order who returned last week to Nigeria, comes a request for used English textbooks "at the Canadian high school level", or other volumes suited to the needs of a Catholic Teachers' Training College of 250 students. Any residents having such books to donate may help by sending them to: Rev. Jean Labrèche, % 2567 Quatre Bourgeois, Quebec City.

In many areas of Canada, ice on rivers and lakes is beginning to thaw and break up. Many children lose their lives in even small bodies of water because they do not realize the ice will not bear their weight. . . This is a season for parents to foresee the dangers of thin ice, and to warn the youngsters of this hazard.

* * *

Break-ins at various churches have been perpetrated by mischievous children. Generally the loss and damage has been of a minor nature, but some of the thefts have hit where it hurts — notably in the Red Cross workroom supplies at the United Church. Here, clothing and articles made by women volunteers at a sacrifice of considerable time and energy, have been removed. . . Sweaters and quilts do not turn up in a home without explanation, and adults aware of them, should be conscence-bound to return the items, intended for the use of unfortunate humanity.

Soft spring weather having turned the snow to slush and mud-puddles, the snowmotor rally planned by the Richelieu Club last Sunday at the exhibition grounds, was postponed. . . The weather forecasters predict snow 'twixt now and the week-end, so the club is fondly hoping to stage the rally on Sunday next. Classification of machines will take place at 10 a.m. and the actual program of races will commence at 2 p.m. The public are invited. Proceeds are for welfare funds.

By BOB ATCHISON

The passing of Frank Ryan this past week leaves just one less in the fight against pollution. Deeply interested in this ideal, and what can be done to keep our waterways unspoiled — he will be sadly missed by the advocates of this good cause, and by many others.

* * *

We all know just what our government has to say about pollution and the supposed remedies. I was up near St. Jerome the other day, curious as to what is happening after all the publicity on cleaning-up of the North River. This is really a laugh (if you have a strong stomach). You can take a drive up that way, walk a short distance from the hospital, and see just what is (not) being done. I know you won't believe just how badly this area is being polluted with filth; you have to see it for yourself.

* * *

We are supposed to have laws to eliminate this fouling of our waters but it seems that in Quebec, unless you happen to be an "ordinary guy" then nothing is going to be done about it. A couple of years ago, all kinds of experts descended upon this river, supposedly to control its contamination. In a couple of cases warnings were given to householders, and it was really thought this was the beginning of the end for some of those plants and industries contributing to this condition. . . But as usual, nothing was done. . . Could it be that big business is bigger than our governments — too big to handle?

Admittedly, it is known that industry is not all to blame; we as householders are just as much responsible in allowing this to go on unchecked. Maybe it will take a serious epidemic to get anything going. Right now, not even token fines are levied; and to me this is surprising, considering just how broke the government is.

A few deer have shown up right near the town. Evidently they have been chased out of the yards by something unusual in their habitat. I did hear of one yard where a good number of them have taken up winter quarters. I was told from the tracks around there must be at least 25; but you never can tell about a yard, a few deer will make hundreds of tracks. I think that they must have been well fed this winter. There was not too much snow until late in the year, so they managed to get a coating of fat on them. However, with the ice that came later, this might have made it hard for them to browse. Another thing, there might be some early births this spring, so this is going to be a problem, especially as there are a few wolves, and a lot more roving dogs, in the district. On top of all this, the snow runners still have plenty of snow, and this sure will disturb them if they come too close. Let's hope some thought will be given to this, before our motor enthusiasts go blasting off into the bush.

* * *

The fishermen are starting to sort out their equipment now, and finding some sorry-looking outfits. There's lots of time left though, so no real damage has been done, unless of course anything is broken. . . I have been asked numerous times how to go about picking a rod and reel for all fishing purposes. The big question is how much can you afford. . . For spinning, the most important thing is your reel, so spend as much as you possibly can on it; there is no use in having a good rod without having a good reel. If you have a good reel in mind, then the rod can be picked up later. If you happen to be fortunate and can get the whole outfit too, then get a rod at least 6½ to 7 feet, with a fast-action tip. Don't forget, these rods are not designed to yank fish out of the water with, so don't figure on this. Another thing is the balance; this is a personal matter, as some like to have the reel down at the end of the handle, while others like it about the middle — it all depends on you.

* * *

There are different types of actions, and the one you want is also a matter of opinion. Some people like the solid glass, while others wouldn't touch one on a bet. However, this depends on the fishing you do, and the types of baits you use. After all, you aren't going to use a 2-ounce rod if you are going to heave out weights of ½-lb. or so. When buying the outfit you want, get some information on it; even the clerk in the store might be able to help in this selection. . . Now for the casting types: this is also a case of a good reel, and unless you know how to thumb a reel, then forget about the free-spool type and concentrate on the level-wind. Again this is a personal matter, and money counts in this type too. The rod must be an offset handle, that is, the middle of the handle must have a drop in it to accommodate the reel, so your thumb will fit right over the drum. The rod can be from 4 feet to 6 feet, your type of fishing will indicate this.

But for all this fishing, you must remember that your outfits need a little care, and should be cleaned during the season at least once. You put oil in your car — so why not clean and lubricate your reel.

* * *

For fly fishing, the rod is the big thing here. The reel is just a line holder, while the rod does all the work. Again the money you can spare should go on the rod. Before buying any outfit though, you should try it out. Lines must match the outfit, that is, the lines should not be too light or heavy, otherwise you will be in trouble. That is why I say, try it out before you buy it. One type of rod may take a certain line, while another of the same manufacture will handle something lighter or heavier. No control can be exercised over materials so that they all act alike. This is an impossibility. It is not necessary to start with a tapered line and all the extras you hear about; this is good propaganda, but not essential for the fisherman. Shop around before you get anything; and don't forget to try it out! A good supplier will take you out to make sure.

* * *

Crows are starting to appear. These might even be the habitués we have had with us all winter. But it won't be too long before they take over. I know of a flock of juncoes that have taken over a feeder, driving everything else out. They won't stay too long, so don't worry about the other birds if you happen to have some of them visit you. There are also a number of White-Crowned sparrows. I haven't seen many of these birds this winter; we usually have a few with us, but not this year — I guess they all beat it to get away from the cold. . . Have you noticed the chicks, how they all get to the bottom of any shrub or tree where the snow had covered before? It must be they are after the grubs that have been protected under the snow. I noticed a cluster of them the other day all picking — the ring from the melted snow could be seen just above them. I notice the birds starting to take their baths too. Boy, I guess they are pretty "high" these days, they can't even take hemselves to the first open water they spot for a late-Ssturday bath. Another thing, don't they look bedraggled just after a bath? You get so used to seeing them with feathers puffed out for protection — when you see them all slicked down you get a shock.

SKI TRAILS

Ram Ski Club News

This past Sunday, members of the racing team visited the Kandahar races at Mont Tremblant. A number of parents drove the children along with Louis Thiffault, their coach, to see how a race filled with competitors of top calibre handle a course. For these children to see for themselves what standard they should set for themselves, was well worth the effort. It also gave some of the parents and officials of the Ski Club an insight into just how much work and training is involved in making a first-class racer. It is interesting to note at the local races we hold at Ayers Center, how many contestants take the lift to the top of a course and run it without taking so much as a minute to study it. Any well-seasoned racer will walk up a course and study every detail before standing in the starting gate. Remember, in Olympic standards, the top 10 competitors finish within a couple of seconds' spread.

Ski Tips

The time of year has arrived when skiers are splashing through slush and wet snow. Most skiers do little if anything to preserve their equipment against water damage. I get a real charge out of skiers who come into the shop and complain of having wet feet; they say their new boots leak! Naturally; what leather wouldn't if it wasn't preserved.

The first and foremost item to help a skier keep his boots in condition, is a boot press. This will keep his soles flat and allow them to dry in the correct position. If they are really wet, stuff them with newspaper. After they have dried out, silicone the edges of the soles and the uppers with a good spray or swab. Hot bees'-wax could be dripped around the stitching of the sole if the boots are of an older vintage. Siliconing the boots need not be done every day of skiing; once before the season, and about every four wearings during the wet spring, should suffice.

After siliconing the boots, and before every day of skiing, polish your boots with a good shoe polish, to preserve the leather as well as to keep them in good appearance. Do not under any circumstances put dubbin or any other leather softener on your boots; this will only defeat the principle of the boot which is designed to give a skier support through stiffness.

Another item of interest is the number of people who stand their skis on their tails after skiing. Stand your skis on their tips, to allow the melting snow to drain off and to prevent the tails from rotting due to the absorption of water.

We have had quite a few in the shop for repairs on the tails of skis where the plastic bases have lifted, and edges rusted due to standing in a pool of water. Remember, an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

Lachute Ladies' CURLING Activities

Tuesday, March 16, is the date for all members to keep in mind, both active and social. This is that mad-mad-mad day we call "Gala Day", and this year it will be exceptionally busy and of interest to everyone, as, on the same date, we will be celebrating "prize-giving" as well as the Closing Day tea. The theme for the masquerade is Nursery Rhymes — or Fairy Tales costumes. This should give everyone a wide range for ideas, so put on your best bib and tucker, or if you haven't got a bib, how about a tucker? The curling games will be starting at 9 a.m. so everyone will have ample opportunity to take in all the activities. — And, get that thinking cap on for a costume, as every successful event needs the co-operation of us all.

The Cottingham Trophy was played for in Montebello last week, and as the games ended in a total-score tie, Le Club de Granite de Montebello retains the trophy.

* * *

Leona MacKimmie and her rink have done it again, by winning the Newman Trophy, played for in St. Lambert during their invitational bonspiel. There were 48 rinks competing in this four-day event, and our hearty congratulations go out to Leona MacKimmie (skip), Pat MacLean, Bobby McFaul and Lena Bradshaw.

* * *

Speaking of "trophies", the Business Girls also brought fame and glory to our Club by winning the Hodge Trophy in the Town of Mount Royal Business Girls' Bonspiel. This was a two-day 'spiel with 24 rinks taking part, and the rink skipped by Norma Rogers, with Mary Preece, Betts Burruss and Enid Dixon, won the main event. This called for a lot of curling — the gals had to play one game on Friday and three games on Saturday. Congratulations to you all!

* * *

The Broomstick Pins were won by the rink of Skip Louise Cruise, Helen McOuat, Isabel (Mrs. Jim) Duncan and Peg Simon, against Skip Freida Armstrong, Julia Haldimand, Lucille Davidson and Myrtle Kettyle.

* * *

On Monday, March 8, the Senior and Junior bonspiels were played. The rink of Hazel Cottingham, Iva McGibbon, Ethel Wilson and Agnes Jones won the Senior, and the Junior was won by Skip Betty Campbell, Louise Cruise, Isabel Duncan and Ruth Miner.

CURLING

Activities in Brownsburg

The Men's Open bonspiel is now in full swing and entries have been exceptionally good this year. The rinks with the eight highest scores in the Competition will qualify for the finals to be played on March 13. The barbecue chicken dinner on Saturday and the roast beef dinner on Sunday, were a credit to the Ladies' Branch of the Club. What would we do without our ladies, and what will they have for us to dine on next Saturday, the day of the finals? All members and their guests are welcome.

* * *

For the Ted Thompson trophy at Royal-Montreal last week, the combined scores of the two Brownsburg rinks representing our club saw Royal Montreal end up on top, by one point. Both games were close, and it was a tough challenge to lose. The players for Brownsburg were — Mrs. S. Rose (skip), Mrs. P. Villard, Mrs. G. Tomalty, Mrs. H. Hewitt and Mrs. R. Keatley (skip), Mrs. W. Dimock, Mrs. I. Martin, Mrs. C. Low. . . For those interested — the Royal Montreal Curling Club was founded in 1807, the first games played on the St. Lawrence River, and, believe it or not, women curlers were "tolerated" on some rinks before the turn of the century!

* * *

In the finals for the Vice-President's bonspiel the rink skipped by Mrs. G. McGibbon, with Mrs. W. Dimock, Mrs. K. Ball and Mrs. J. Ross, defeated Mrs. W. Hazel (skip), Mrs. P. Villard, Mrs. J. Broadfoot and Mrs. D. Golphin. Too bad, Vi, but did your third have to pick that day to be off her game? Mrs. C. Low, our vice-president, served a delicious tea after the contest.

* * *

March 14, starting at 1 p.m., will see Legion mixed curling at the Club. Members, Auxiliary members and their wives, will participate in the games. Supper will be served before the finals in the evening. Any Legion "do" is always a good "do", and be sure to come up and support your friends.

* * *

The theme for Gala Day, March 17, will be "A-Wearin' o' the Green". Leave those Scottish tartans at home, please, or would you dare wear them? Curling will start at 2 p.m. for the Afternoon Curlers. The Business Girls will join them later for a pot-luck supper and play their games in the evening.

LHS girls win Valley basketball, seek prov'l title

In a decisive game Tuesday evening (32-20) Lachute High School basketball girls defeated Brownsburg High School, giving them a total-point win of 60-47 in a two-game playoff.

This was the final showdown for the O.V.S.A.A. title, and for representation in the Quebec inter-scholastic championships. The Lachute senior girls will therefore compete for the provincial supremacy the week-end of March 19-20, at Lennoxville.

LACHUTE 1884 CURLING CLUB

The I. BAR C BOX C Ranch held a whing-ding on the evening of Saturday, 27th of last month. This gathering proved to be one of the grandest parties ever held on the Curling Range. No-gun Johnston, the Sheriff with the Dundee drawl, was voted Straw Boss for the round-up and with the aid of his deputies did a fine job in keeping things rolling along. The Sheriff, knowing a well-fed herd is a happy one, started off by empyting all the pots from the chuck-wagon, thus ensuring, with lots of food, that the party got off on the right trail.

Along the trail there were various activities which provided pleasant entertainment for the woolly western participants. On the ice were games between the ladies and the bunkhouse boys. The outcome of these showdowns is not certain, but the fun and banter was enjoyed by all. Some lads and lassies with light tripping feet staged a couple of square dances with three changes to each. Singsongs, routines by some of the gals and dancing to that swinging band — the Lowe Boys of the High Plains.

Well-meaning folk presented homesteader MacLean, the latest settler on the range, with a pig, a lamb and a brace of chickens. But alas, Dick's dreams of great herds were nipped off pretty short. Sheriff No-Gun Johnston, avid reader of the Lone Ranger, in smooching around discovered that the well-meaning folk from the valley had actually rustled this stock. Under the direst threats of a range war, homesteader MacLean was prevailed upon to return the stock — deciding after this brush with the law that there was more money in oil!

Rinks from Lachute are competing in various outside bonspiels, and two bonspiels in the home club are in progress.

* * *

A speedy and full recovery to our Ice and House Committee man, Lionel Rendell.

Our Seniors — Linton Armstrong, Don Hay, Ed Pollock and George Muir — although not the winners, were successful in providing tough competition for their competitors. Try again next year, and good luck!

"Magic Tom" m.c. for talent show

"Magic Tom" Auburn, of Channel 12's "Surprise Party", who will act as master of ceremonies at the local talent show this Saturday afternoon at 2.30 in Lachute High School auditorium. The event, which is being sponsored by Unit 5, Lachute United Church Women, will be of a bilingual nature, with both English and French-language contestants taking part. A five-piece orchestra, soloists, duets and trios, ballet performances, pianists and a magician will all perform, along with the guest star and emcee, Magic Tom, who will personally entertain for 45 minutes.

Admission to the event is 50 cents for children of school age or under, and 75 cents for adults. All children of pre-school age must be accompanied by an adult.

'North Island' is second Protestant regional board

Quebec — A second Protestant regional school board, called North Island, has been approved, according to recent announcement by Gaston Binette, interim Education Minister.

It includes the school boards of Lake of Two Mountains, Greater St. Martin and Les Ecores (Laval) and Laurenvale (Terrebonne).

The first regional Protestant board, Bedford, was formed last November and groups eight school boards in Shefford, Brome and Missisquoi counties.

The North Island regional has three high schools in its area, Rosemere, Lake of Two Mountains and Chomedey.

High school pupils from the Protestant municipality of Les Ecores now are educated in high schools of Greater Montreal. The arrangement will continue for pupils already attending these schools.

The four boards have expressed a desire that the regional school board will provide supervision of elementary grades.

Each of the four school municipalities is the result of one or more annexations. The territory is contiguous.

The Protestant Board of Lake of Two Mountains has been working with the Roman Catholic regional school board toward completion of a project which will involve sharing facilities. The three other school boards concerned support the continuation of this project.

The Laurentian Regional Board, in which Lachute and several contiguous school municipalities are grouped, is well advanced in its organization and will in course be duly approved.

Brownsburg High News

By David McCaffrey

Last Tuesday afternoon, Brownsburg High played broomball against l'Ecole Bouchard. This was a much faster game than the one played a week previously, but still the Bouchard team was victorious, winning by a score of 1-0. The game was close throughout, but B.H.S. failed to score. Winston Dixon, George Atwell and Mike Malenfant were the most effective forwards for our school; Allan Hall and Terry Morrow also played very well.

The first of two basketball games in a total point series between Lachute and Brownsburg was played in the B.H.S. gymnasium on Wednesday evening. The winner will represent this area at the Senior Girls' provincial basketball tournament in Lennoxville. Both teams were "fired up" for the game.

Brownsburg dominated the first half of play. Our forwards, Linda Tomalty, Susan Sugden and Bonnie Anderson, were at their best, and our guards were successful in stopping the Lachute attacks. By the end of the first half, Brownsburg was ahead by 15 points. By the end of three-quarters of play the Lachute club was still down 10 points, but they gamely kept fighting. The Brownsburg offence weakened and Lachute began to catch up. They scored basket after basket, eventually winning by one point (28-27), which they will carry to their home court for the second game on March 9.

Even though they lost, I thought Brownsburg played a very good game. Our guards, especially Cathy Bourne and Allison Rose, played exceptionally well. The second game of the series should be very exciting, and no matter what the outcome, the Ottawa Valley will be well represented in the provincial championships.

Week's Activities

By Sandra Hall

Young people of today are constantly being judged on their ability to speak clearly and logically, in almost every career open to them. In high school, public speaking competitions have always been a popular source of encouragement for the development of speaking techniques. This year is no exception.

On Tuesday, March 9, two inter-scholastic public speaking contests are being held — one in Hawkesbury, sponsored by the Rotary Club, the other in Lachute, sponsored by the Lions Club. David McCaffrey will represent B.H.S. at Hawkesbury, while our representatives for the Lachute contest will be chosen in a speak-off scheduled for Monday. We wish all contestants luck.

* * *

Again we come to examination time. B.H.S. writes examinations from March 12 to March 19. Again, we wish all students good luck.

* * *

In B.H.S. we have an Honors System, in which the awards are based on the results of the first two terms. The badges are awarded on the following basis:

Primary Grades — 95% - 100%
Grade IV — 92.5% - 100%
Grades V - VII — 90% - 100%
Grades VIII & IX — 85% - 100%
Grades X & XI — 80% - 100%

Proficiency badges are awarded in all categories to pupils making a 5% increase in average, providing the average is a passing mark. All awards will be presented at the school closing exercises in June.

Education Week runs from March 8 - 12 inclusive. Who can think of a better time to start writing exams than the last day of Education Week?

4-H Calf Club elects officers

Lachute 4-H Calf Club members elected a new slate of officers for the 1965 season, at their annual meeting held Thursday, March 4, in Lachute High School.

Twenty-six members were present to elect André St. Pierre as president and Arthur McElroy as vice-president. The new secretary-treasurer is Carol McCaig. The Club Leaders are Ross Oswald, J. C. St. Pierre and Davis McVicar.

The guest speaker was Donald Robertson, federal livestock fieldman, who gave a talk on "The Change in Agriculture".

The next meeting is planned for April 1. Details will be in the 'Coming Events" of this paper at a later date. The program for the year will be discussed at this meeting, with the possibility of adding new ventures in addition to the calf project.

Anglican rector severely injured in collision

The Rev. Horace G. Baugh, rector at Morin Heights, suffered broken legs and lesser injuries when his car collided with a truck on Route 30 just north of Lachute. He was taken to the Hotel Dieu Hospital in St. Jerome, where he will be confined for some length of time.

The accident occurred at Hill Head near a gravel pit, the car colliding head-on with an empty truck. Provincial police investigated, and Art Whiteway of the Ayers security force, who lives near the scene, gave first aid, and the Rev. Mr. Baugh was taken to St. Jerome. At the hospital the victim was found to have suffered a fracture at the knee and a broken ankle; he also had a cut on the head which required several stitches, and other injuries.

Boys drowned through river ice

Hawkesbury (CP) — Two children drowned in the Ottawa River Tuesday when they broke through thin ice into 10 feet of water.

Dead are Michel Sylvain, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacques Sylvain, and Richard Cyr, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jean-Claude Cyr, all of Hawkesbury.

New municipal hall ready for April meeting of B'burg Council

By Harry McCosh

Brownsburg Town Council's last regular meeting in the C-I-L Club building, was held on March 1. The Council approved the transfer of the council room to the new municipal hall for their next meeting, on April 5.

Council also approved the payment of monthly vouchers amounting to $7,385.87, and the payment of $248.04 to Fer Ornemental d'Argenteuil Enr., Ayersville, for the installation of a railing on the steps of the new town hall.

On a motion by Councillor Gerald Vowles, Council engaged Laurent Vézeau of Brownsburg to brick in the east end of the municipal garage within 30 days. Mr. Vézeau's bid of $470 was the lowest received by the Council.

After discussing four bids on 100 stacking chairs and one stacking cart, Council decided to patronize a local merchant and approved the purchase of these items from J.-L. Marchand at a cost of $548.95, taxes included.

Police Chief André Roy then presented his report to the Council, in which he stated he had found two cars in Brownsburg which had been stolen in Lachute. The Police Chief also worked with the Quebec Provincial Police in the investigation of a house-break in Brownsburg, in which $50 had been stolen. On each of these cases, the offender had been arrested and charged.

Council then approved the purchase, from Walker-Kingsbury Inc., Lachute, of eight oak chairs and two Samsonite chairs with tablets for the new Council room, at a cost of $303.51. The meeting was then adjourned until March 8.

Shrine Circus at Forum May 22nd, proceeds go to Shriners' Hospital

Despite rumors to the contrary, the Shrine Circus — bigger and better than ever — will be at the Montreal Forum on May 22 for an eight-day stay.

Proceeds of this Circus, organized and operated by the Shriners of Karnak Temple, is handed over to the Governors of the Shriners' Hospital on McGregor Street, just east of the Montreal General Hospital.

The Shrine Hospital operation is entirely non-denominational, 74% of the admissions in 1964 being from Roman Catholic families. No public appeal for funds is ever made by the Shriners' Hospital, the entire cost of maintenance being met by special assessment of all Shriners and from the net profit of the Circus.

The Montreal Shrine organization has employed the famous Frank Wirth to put a real show together, and he has done just that with big names and big acts from all over the world. Wirth was born on a circus lot in Australia, the fourth generation of a circus family. In the United States since 1911, Frank became personal contact man for the late John Ringling and then booking representative for the Ringling Show until 1919, when he started a circus booking office of his own.

Hundreds of Shriners are working diligently on the tremendous organization job of getting ready for this big circus at the Forum on May 22.

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Beaven and sons, Ralph and Clifford, were here from Montreal to spend the week-end at their cottage.

Former resident was W.I. leader, highly esteemed

Late Mrs. Fred Lusk

Mrs. Fred Lusk, a native of these parts (born at Long Lake, Lakefield), died in hospital at Luskville, Gatineau County, where she has been confined since November after breaking her hip in a fall in her home. Mrs. Lusk, the former Anne Scott of Lachute, was in her 97th year. She went to Eardley many years ago to teach school, marrying the late Fred Lusk. They had four sons, Roy, Gordon and George, of Luskville, and Freddie, who died in 1914.

Mrs. Lusk was a member of Centre Eardley United Church and an active member of the U.C.W. of the church.

Mrs. Lusk's whole heart was in the Women's Institute. She was a member of the Breckenridge W.I. for 50 years, during which time she served as branch president, county president and provincial president; she was made a life member. She helped to organize many of the district branches also.

Among the many joys of her life was her flower garden and vegetable garden (says the local newspaper) "and many of us will miss seeing her out working in her yard in front of the municipal hall." She will be missed by many who went to her for advice on numerous problems. One woman patient in hospital with her said she cheered them up at Christmas by singing hymns and reciting poetry.

She leaves to mourn, besides her three sons, three grandsons, Barry, of Renfrew, Bud and Freddie, at home; two granddaughters, Mrs. Donald Taite (Dorothy) of Los Angeles, California, and Mrs. Ken Trudeau (Joan) of Ottawa; two great-grandsons, Thom Taite and Chris Lusk.

The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. Garfield Bruce and burial was in Centre Eardley United cemetery. Pall-bearers were Wyman, Austin, Barry and Bud Lusk, Ray Holt and Bill Reynolds.

Births, Marriages, Deaths, etc.

BIRTHS

MacCALLUM — Clarence and Jean (née Simon) announce the birth of their daughter, Margaret, on Feb. 28, 1965, at the Argenteuil Hospital.

NELLES — Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nelles (née Gwen Clark) are happy to announce the birth of a daughter, on March 7, 1965, at the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal. Both well.

DEATHS

BALDWIN — Passed away suddenly Sunday, March 7, at Val D'Or, Que., Edward Harold Baldwin. Service March 11 at 2.30 p.m. from Whissel Funeral Parlor, Papineauville, Que.; burial, Protestant Cemetery. The deceased leaves five sisters and five brothers.

BEECRAFT (Arthur Hanson) — Suddenly, at his home, Attercliffe Station, Ont., Arthur H. Beecraft, beloved husband of Dorothy C. Copeland and dear father of Caroline, Lloyd, Frances, Bert and Hugh. Beloved son of Mrs. Arthur R. Beecraft of Willowdale, Ont., and dear brother of Mrs. Donald Shearer (Alice), of Toronto; in his 47th year. Funeral held March 3 from chapel of Ballard Funeral Home, Dunnville, Ont.; interment in Otterville Cemetery, Otterville, Ont.

Funeral rites for late Bishop of Mont Laurier

At Mont Laurier on Saturday morning, impressive funeral ceremonies were held for the late bishop of that diocese, the Most Rev. Joseph Eugene Limoges, who died at his residence last week following a long illness. He was 85 years of age.

Born in Ste. Scholastique, he was educated at St. Laurent College and Montreal's Grand Seminary.

He was ordained in 1902 and served in Alfred, Ont., and Ste. Cecile de Masham. In 1907 he was vicar at Ste. Philomène de Montcerf, Mont Laurier and St. Jovite. In 1922, he became administrator of the Mont Laurier Diocese. He was elected Bishop of Mont Laurier in that year. He retired in 1963.

He is survived by a brother, residing in Oka.

Red Cross aids hospital veterans in various ways

There are thousands of Canadian war veterans in military hospitals across the nation. Many will remain there for the rest of their lives. For many thousands of these veterans, the Red Cross provides valuable services which help to alleviate the boredom of hospital confinement.

The Red Cross Arts and Crafts Program provides veterans with an incentive to live a useful life and provides them with the means of doing so. Through instruction in native handicrafts, and marketing of the products made by veterans, the Red Cross is able to give back to veterans their lost interest, skills, lost pride of achievement and a little personal income.

Red Cross Lodges, adjacent to many of the veterans' hospitals, serve a vital role. These lodges provide overnight accommodation and meals at a very low cost for visiting relatives. They also provide a club-like atmosphere where hospitalized veterans themselves can entertain their friends. Without these lodges, many relatives would be unable to visit their loved ones, and many veterans would be unable to spend time outside of the hospital.

The Canadian Red Cross Corps members drive patients to football games, hockey games, concerts and other places of entertainment. This Corps is also instrumental in bringing entertainers into the hospitals to serve those patients who are confined.

These Red Cross services, on behalf of all of us, help to remind veterans that their sacrifices of the past are very much appreciated by their fellow Canadians.

Reserve champion Shorthorn bull from Arundel herd

At the Canadian International Shorthorn bull sale, held recently at Brandon, Man., an animal consigned from an Argenteuil herd was ranked Reserve Grand Champion, in competition from Nova Scotia in the East, the Peace River in the far Northwest, and from five States.

The entry winning this high honor was Tutira Baron, consigned by Mrs. T. C. Stuart, of Arundel. It was sold for $2,000 to a Manitoba breeder.

The Grand Champion was a bull consigned by Louis and Carroll Latimer, of Olds, Alberta. This sold for $5,900 — highest price on record at this annual Shorthorn sale.

Recruitment for Mt'l police force

The Montreal Police Department is launching a province-wide campaign to attract young men to a police career.

Any Canadian citizen between the ages of 18½ and 30 years, of minimum height 5'9", 140 lbs., and with a minimum of 10th grade education or its equivalent, may apply at a National Employment Service office in his locality. The local office is at 582 Main Street, Lachute.

All those who complete and return their application forms immediately and who meet the entrance requirements of the Montreal Police Department will be among those to be selected for the next Montreal Police contingent scheduled to commence training at Montreal Police Training School in May of this year.

More than 1,000 candidates have entered the Department since 1961, and Police Director J. A. Robert intends to continue this policy in order to answer the needs of Canada's largest city, which is expanding in every way.

This recruitment campaign is being conducted by the Montreal Police Department in collaboration with the City of Montreal's Personnel Bureau and the National Employment Service.

'God bless you all'

Confined to a wheelchair by muscular dystrophy, 11-year-old Debbie Selmes hears the happy news that the annual March for Muscular Dystrophy raised over $473,000 — more than ever before. Her friends, the Canadian firefighters, turned out by the thousands to help make the campaign a success. They rang doorbells, sold tags, held dances and placed collection canisters in communities across Canada. Debbie knows that these funds will finance more than 50 research projects that are racing the clock in order to save her life. Debbie's personal message to the firefighters and everyone else who helped: "God bless you all". — Photo, J. Rooke

Economy was never this luxurious or luxury so economical

Chevrolet interiors invite you to discover just how luxurious a car can be. Chevrolet has what is takes to make you comfortable... loads of footroom, hip-room, shoulder and headroom. There's deep-twist carpeting, foam-cushioned seats finished with pattern cloth or long-wearing vinyl. And more... crank-operated ventipanes, cigarette lighter, rear armrests with ashtrays. Check luxury — first item in the Chevrolet list of plus values!

Chevrolet's famous Turbo-Thrift Six warms up quickly. Puts 140 horsepower at your toe to give you spunk and savings. A full complement of maintenance savers, too. Chevrolet power — with V8's up to 400 hp — plus value!

Frameless curved sideglass and curved side pillars add to shoulder room, give a lithe, light look. And the new bonded-in windshield and rear window give more positive sealing, a smoother overall appearance.

Chevrolet's built-in "extras" give you lower maintenance costs, a higher price at trade-in. Like the rust protection from Chevrolet's flush-and-dry rocker panels: water entering the cowl inlet ventilation system, flushes out dirt and dust. Incoming air follows, dries the panel interiors. Like the inner front and rear fenders which do a great job of protecting outer panels. Add up all the pluses and you'll discover why Chevrolet is the most economically luxurious buy you can make.

Counsellor to discuss Guidance at H&S meeting

The Lachute and District Home and School Association will hold its next meeting on Wednesday, March 17, at 8.15 p.m., in the music room of Lachute High School. At this meeting parents and teachers will be privileged to hear Mr. Leigh B. Coffin, teacher of Guidance at the High School.

Mr. Coffin received his education at the Gaspé Bay North, Gaspé Bay South Intermediate Schools, and Ormstown High School. He attended Macdonald College for teacher training, then received his B.A. from Sir George Williams University. At present he is taking summer courses at Bishop's University leading to a M.Ed. degree.

Mr. Coffin started teaching in this County in 1948, at Harrington. Prior to coming to Lachute he was vice-principal and French specialist at the Shawville High School.

The topic of Mr. Coffin's address will be, "The Role of the Teacher of Guidance".

Annual congregational meeting and women's activities at B'burg United Brownsburg — The annual congregational meeting of the Brownsburg United Church was held recently, chaired by the Rev. T. D. Richards. The 1964 annual report was presented and discussed.

It was decided to hold the weekly Sunday morning services at 10 a.m. instead of the usual 11 a.m. during the summer.

It was reported that a Good Friday service would be held in the United Church at 10 a.m., the Rev. G. A. Hunt of the Brownsburg Maple Avenue Baptist Church being the guest speaker.

It was suggested that a Junior Choir be organized. Mrs. W. M. Allan kindly agreed to be in charge of this new venture.

It was reported that the Messenger Group, recently organized, was proving to be a very successful effort.

The meeting was closed with a prayer, after which refreshments were served by the ladies.

The first U.C.W. general meeting for the year was held in February, and plans are underway for a year of new adventure. The program was under the able leadership of the program convener, Mrs. J. Leggitt and her committee. The theme was, "The Life of Your Church", and a representative from each organization and each branch of the church was invited to come and tell of their purpose and duties in the church. The weather not permitting, it was a pity that so few were able to be present to witness such an interesting and informative program.

The next general meeting will be held on April 14, at which time the United Church ladies plan to entertain the Brownsburg Anglican and the Brownsburg Presbyterian ladies.

Those attending the Montreal Presbyterial meeting held at the Wesley United Church recently were Mrs. H. Elliott, Mrs. A. MacAllister and Miss S. McOuat.

The Coffee Party held in February, sponsored by Unit "C", was very successful.

The Women's World Day of Prayer service was held in the United Church, with ladies from the different churches taking part.

Mont'l-Ottawa Conference U.C.W. annual meeting

The United Church Women of the Montreal and Ottawa Conference will hold their third annual meeting in the United Church at Iroquois, Ont., on Tuesday and Wednesday, March 16-17. Registration will begin at 1.30 p.m. on March 16.

The Montreal and Ottawa Conference is composed of women in the presbyterial regions of Quebec-Sherbrooke, Montreal, Dundas, Glengarry and Ottawa.

A highlight of the meeting will be the theme address, "The Good News in the World", given by the Rev. R. Graham Barr, B.D., D.D., president of the Montreal and Ottawa Conference, United Church of Canada.

The program includes presentations by Mrs. George Johnson, Montreal, who will discuss "The Montreal City Mission", and Mrs. R. Douglas Smith, Westmount, who will speak on "The Western Frontier". Also, a panel discussion, "Our Neighborhood Concerns", will be chaired by Mrs. J. M. Harrington, of Ottawa.

NAVAL LANDLUBBER RETIRES

Ottawa (CP) — Harry Noller Macnamara, 64, has been in the Canadian Navy longer than any other man — but not a day of it at sea. He leaves his desk as director of fleet supply administration and after six months leave, by summertime, he retires 50 years after he signed on in 1915.

Three church choir members feted for half century devoted service

There was quite a notable celebration at Lachute United Church on Thursday evening last, when three members of the choir were given a testimonial certificate and gift of a Revised Bible from the members of the choir. The recipients were Mrs. C. L. Duncan, Mrs. A. Taylor and Mr. Owen Todd, each having passed the 50-year mark of choir work in the former Presbyterian and now Lachute United Church.

The celebration took place immediately after the regular practice, and the organist, Mr. Lowell B. Hopkins, was master of ceremonies. Mr. Hopkins read letters of regret from Mr. Doug Todd, of Orillia, Mrs. Mae Tillotson, of Brampton, and Miss Janet McOuat, of Montreal, all former choir members and associates of the guests honored on this occasion.

The presentations were made by a former minister of the church, the Rev. W. B. Rosborough, who had spent over 26 years in the local pastorate. He briefly reviewed the historical highlights of the 50 years, giving names of former choir leaders and organists who had been active during this time. All three recipients replied in a fitting manner, with a touch of intimate humor relating to their early introduction into the choir.

A toast noting "150 Years' Service of Choir Work" was given by J. F. Gorman to the honored guests, and greetings were brought from the Session by Mr. Stuart Armstrong, Clerk of Session, who also was able to dig into the depths of history regarding the choir, and adding his congratulations. Former choirmaster C. L. Duncan extended appreciation to the Rev. W. B. Rosborough and the Rev. W. H. Thompson, for their co-operation in making the occasion such a success, and added a note of warm tribute to Miss Ruth Todd, a former organist and sister of Mr. Owen Todd. A vote of thanks was extended by Ian MacDougall to Mrs. A. Hopkins, Mrs. MacDougall and Mrs. Stanley Boyd, for their assistance with the preparation and serving of delightful refreshments. The minister of the church, the Rev. W. H. Thompson, also had appropriate remarks for the conclusion of the testimony.

A circular letter from the Department of Health, received here by the Argenteuil Hospital administrator, specifies clearly the requirements of nursing personnel, as follows:

1. Nurses must be registered by the Association of Nurses of the Province of Quebec.

2. Graduate nurses, male and female, must have completed their course in a hospital whose nursing school has been recognized by the Association of Nurses of the Province of Quebec.

3. Auxiliary Nursing personnel: nursing assistants, "gardes-malades auxiliaires" and child-care nurses must be graduates from a school recognized either by the Association of Nurses of the Province of Quebec, "l'Association des gardes-malades auxiliaires de la Province de Québec" or "l'Association des gardes-bébés".

4. Male nursing assistants must meet the requirements mentioned in paragraph three.

5. Any other person reporting to the hospital for work within the nursing unit can only be employed as nursing aid, regardless of the certificates or medals that they might hold, and such persons must be paid as nursing aids.

Nursing aids may not, at any time and under any circumstances, give injections, hand out medication, apply dressings, make entries in files, take patients' pulse, blood pressure or temperature, or carry out any other treatment procedure. In other words, nursing aids must not discharge duties reserved exclusively to qualified persons so recognized.

In short, hospitals, for the safety of their patients, must ascertain that nursing care is given by qualified personnel.

— The letter is signed by Alphonse Couturier, M.D., the Quebec Minister of Health.

APPRECIATION

I wish to thank all those who sent me flowers, cards, gifts, and made phone calls and visits while I was in hospital and since my return home.

Give generously to the Laurentian Federation of Charities!

Each year, the Laurentian Federation of Charities appeals to your generosity to continue its indispensable work and to answer new community needs. This year the campaign objective is $135,000 by March 21.

Through a single donation to the Federation your dollars support many worthy causes — St. Vincent de Paul Society, Clothing Workshop for the Needy, Family Service, Canadian National Institute for the Blind, La Société des infirmières visiteuses, Victorian Order of Nurses, Welfare Council, Recreational Service, Homemaker Service, and the Probation and Parole Service. This campaign is an excellent opportunity for each of us to look beyond our own lives, to consider the ever-expanding need of Community Welfare. Don't cut off this source of hope and health to ease the burden of those less fortunate than ourselves. As His Excellency Monsignor Emilien Frenette emphasized in his message on the campaign, we should deprive ourselves of some luxury to share with others.

The Laurentian Federation of Charities needs the support of each citizen. I accepted the presidency of the campaign willingly but it will only be a success with your assistance and co-operation. I wish to thank all those who have volunteered their services to assist in this campaign. When they call on you, please give generously. Do your part for your community, to reach the $135,000 objective.

Earthly Opportunity opened up by Resurrection

1 Cor. 15:20-22: "However, now Christ has been raised up from the dead, the firstfruits of those who have fallen asleep in death. For since death is through a man, resurrection of the dead is also through a man. For just as in Adam all are dying, so also in the Christ all will be made alive."

Ps. 37: 9-11: "For evil-doers shall be cut off; but those that wait for Jehovah, they shall inherit the land. For yet a little while, and the wicked shall not be: yea, thou shalt diligently consider his place, and he shall not be. But the meek shall inherit the land, and shall delight themselves in the abundance of peace."

John 5: 25-29: "Most truly I say to you, the hour is coming, and it is now, when the dead will hear the voice of the Son of God and those who have given heed will live . . . and come out, those who did good things to a resurrection of life."

Autoroute access near St. Jerome subject of letter

Motorists who believed the closing of the access above Route 41 to the Autoroute near St. Jerome was only temporary, may now be disillusioned.

St. Jerome and Lachute town councils made representations to the Autoroute authority to have this access road opened, but a refusal of the request comes in a letter signed by Guy Peloquin, president.

Mr. Peloquin states that the change has been made in order to eliminate an anomaly by which too many vehicles have been avoiding the toll booths to get onto the Laurentian Autoroute. The same policy was applied at Laval des Rapides and Ste. Thérèse — on the principle that the interests of the Autoroute and of the more important highways must be considered foremost.

LIVESTOCK NOTE — WAR ON WARBLES

The constant war on the cattle warble fly will see new tactics, if research presently underway at the C.D.A.'s Lethbridge Research Station proves successful. The plan is to sterilize such a high proportion of the male warble flies that few eggs will be fertilized and the fly population will disappear because it is unable to reproduce itself.

This method was used very successfully in the southern United States against the screwworm. Male screwworms were sterilized by gamma radiation. The Lethbridge researchers are testing both radiation and chemicals to emasculate the males.

March 7-14 — Education Week

Education — more than buildings and facilities

IN QUEBEC this year, any mention of Education Week seems almost unnecessary. During the past year every week has been education week, and it looks as though the year ahead will see an equal number of exciting weeks for our schools and universities. The danger is still that actual education may be forgotten in the midst of the greater concentration upon its facilities and its organization.

Changes are taking place and more are contemplated, and these are receiving the necessary attention because changes are overdue, and because they are very expensive. The other needs of education may, however, be forgotten in the press of events, and our new education may become the lock that keeps us restrained and limited, rather than the key that lets us out to soar to new heights.

Knowledge is increasing, at an increasingly rapid rate — this is universally accepted. Our curriculum is changing at a very slow rate, and as the new buildings and organizations take our attention, the demand for new methods and teaching in our schools may well be overlooked. Fifty-five new buildings might yet prove intellectual prisons for our children's minds.

During this week assigned to concentrated study of education, let us not look for more of the methods that were used on us, the adult generation; rather let us ask our educators how they plan to replace those methods with newer and better ones — methods that can unlock the limits on our minds and those of our children.

Red Cross upholds the right to live

EVERY INDIVIDUAL has the right of life, liberty, security of the person and enjoyment of property. These are stated in the Canadian Bill of Rights.

The most basic right is the right to life. In upholding the right of the individual to life, governments have passed laws which punish persons who take or attempt to take another's life. But we do not have laws that will save the life of a person who is dying of injury or illness.

This is an area where no legislation can be made to apply. The right to live for the sick or injured person can only exist by the willingness of other persons to uphold that right. Doctors take an oath to do everything they can to save human life. Hospital staffs have a devotion to duty which helps the doctors in their tasks. But this is not enough.

Many times, the only thing standing between the life and death of a friend, relative or total stranger is the lifeline of blood. Blood cannot be manufactured. It must come from people. There must, therefore, be a willingness on the part of everyday people to help preserve the right to life by donating blood. This is made possible through an efficient organization, the blood transfusion service of the Red Cross — to which the communities of Argenteuil County send volunteer donors when periodic clinics are held. . .

But this is just one of the multitudinous services to humanity maintained by the Red Cross — all of which require financial support for their efficient operation. March is Red Cross month. You will be personally approached by volunteer canvassers on Monday, 22nd, and it is felt with confidence that this appeal will meet with a very generous response.

Compulsory car checks

THE GARAGE Operators' Association of Ontario is asking the provincial government for compulsory inspection of motor vehicles — Robert Nykor reports in The Financial Post. It is claimed this could reduce accident rates in the province by 9%, possibly 20%. If other provinces adopted compulsory inspection, the total reduction of accidents could save $200 million annually, including hidden costs such as gasoline wasted during accident-caused traffic jams, the Association says.

The only place in Canada with compulsory vehicle checks is Vancouver, and statistics there show the number of accidents resulting from vehicle failure has dropped from 7% of total accidents to just under 1%. Studies in the U.S. show that 9% of auto accidents are caused by vehicle failure, and that percentage would be more than 18% if accurate studies could be made of accidents in which cars are completely demolished. In the U.S., says a spokesman of the Association, 19 states have compulsory safety-check laws, and failure to comply means loss of driving privileges.

"It's not that we are after more business. After all, we will get the car after the accident. What we want is to get the job before accidents happen, and perhaps save lives," the Association's spokesman says. As proof of its motive, it is asking that all inspection centres be run by the government.

A time for adventure

IN MANY PARTS of Canada, the first day of spring makes its entrance in the grand manner — warm sunny weather, icy runnels gurgling along the gutters, and small floes playing icebergs on any stream or lake. This is the time of year when small children go adventuring onto those broken ice blocks — a time when tragedies happen. Parents, teachers and bigger children should caution small children about the danger of playing near rivers or lakes or stepping off dry land at this time of spring thaw. Everyone should accept the responsibility for preventing tragedy. If you know the parents of youngsters seen playing in a danger spot, notify them; otherwise, inform the police if the children are in danger.

Viewpoints and perspectives

COOLER HEADS PREVAIL. — The fact seems finally to be soaking through, even in student circles, that more is to be lost than gained by violence, and that perhaps separation (of Quebec) from the rest of Canada is not the whole answer to the province's problems.

— Stanstead (Que.) Journal

MISUNDERSTOOD. — Many (Canadian) car dealers are perturbed at the public's conception of what the proposed free trade plan between the U.S. and Canada for parts and automobiles means. Dealers say that many prospective buyers are holding off buying new models. . . People waiting for an expected big discount could easily spend several times the anticipated savings on repairs for their old car.

— Abbotsford (B.C.) News

FORECAST — Defence Minister Hellyer will try to integrate the Girl Guides, Brownies, Scouts and CGIT. We'll go from crisis to crisis until the middle of May or the first of June and then they'll call an election. Those sore at the Grits for the new flag will vote for Dief; those sore at Dief will vote for Mike. Most people will overlook the other parties because there's some tradition or voice which tells them that Grits and Tories are the only ones, no matter how incompetent both are.

— Wolfville (N.S.) Acadian

SHOULD KEEP OUT. — It now appears that the steel mill will be a government operated venture. The government has more than it can handle to keep a province running efficiently and look after the needs of the people, without going into business that should be part of private enterprise.

THIS WEEK AND NEXT

Two Nations: One Country

Canadians who thought that the Quebec revolt against Confederation had passed its crisis point were jarred last week by the truly sensational interim report of the Royal Commission on bilingualism and biculturalism.

Reaction to the half-way report, which warned that Canada is in grave danger of breaking up, fell into three main categories:

— Concern and dismay from well-meaning English Canadians who had read the portents from Quebec since the Queen's visit as an indication that English and French Canada were moving closer together again.

— Ridicule from other English Canadians who regard the Bi-Bi Commission as either a waste of time and money or, more serious, as a cause of disunity by focusing attention on the differences among Canadians.

— Satisfaction on the part of French Canadians who, depending on the degree of their separatist sentiments, see the report either as an advancement of French Canadian interests, or as confirmation that the break-up of Canada is indeed underway and that nothing can now be done to stop it.

The brutal wording of the report was no doubt calculated to have maximum shock value, to jar us out of the apparent apathy into which we have sunk since the separatists quit hurling their bombs a few months ago.

If the average Canadian could see what newspapers around the world are now saying about this country they would be shocked even more. The fact that an official commission has said Canada is in danger of splitting apart has been front page news around the world.

The report clearly pits Quebec against the rest of Canada, and makes it clear that the problem is in the degree of separation that Ottawa will permit Quebec without rendering Confederation meaningless.

Reading the report against the approach of the Pearson government suggests that Ottawa's so-called "co-operative federalism" is not the answer.

The Liberal government's "co-operative federalism" seeks to maintain the fiction that Ottawa need not treat Quebec any different than any other province. Liberal ministers have gone to great pains to explain that there has been no favoritism toward Quebec, that any privileges granted to it, such as "opting out" of federal-provincial schemes, are available to all the other provinces.

The Bi-Bi Commission findings now indicate that such a policy will satisfy neither English nor French Canada.

The fact is that Quebec is different, and that no amount of self-delusion on anyone's part will change this.

The French Canadians who now dominate the society of Quebec regard themselves as a nation unto themselves. The majority, I think, are still willing to work with the rest of Canada providing their aspirations can be achieved within the framework of Confederation. But if not, they'll leave Canada without a backward glance.

Every influential figure in Quebec, from Premier Jean Lesage down, has repeated this sentiment a number of times. There should no longer be any doubt in our minds.

If the Bi-Bi report has any meaning, it is that Quebec is going to have to be given the special treatment it wants, or it will be lost to Confederation.

It means that we are going to have to accept the Quebec argument that there are two nations in this country, one French, the other English.

Canadians of all other extractions must also accept this fact, and merge their interests with one or the other of these two national blocs. For the vast majority, of course, their choice has already been made and they will continue to chart their lives within the English-speaking fabric of Canada.

Through Red Cross, your help does so much for so many. . . Blitz campaign for funds, Lachute district — March 22.

Some Spring Fancies

We all know what a young man's fancy is supposed to lightly turn to in spring. But when you get right down to it, young men are vastly uninteresting, except to themselves, recruiting officers, and, of course, young women.

So we will ignore the fancy of young men this spring, especially since it's lightly turned to the same sort of thoughts in the other three seasons too. Let's examine the fancies of some of the more interesting age groups.

Sole aim of very small males, in the spring, seems to be mud. They love mud. It has the same fascination for them that it has for small pigs. They like to walk in it, kneel in it, roll in it, push small girls down in it, and bring as much as possible of it home with them.

Slightly older boys have a fancy in the spring for anything that is dangerous, foolish or irritating. On the first day the temperature is above 40 they want to go hatless and barefoot. They build rafts that sink. They dig caves in the sides of crumbly sandpits. They cross swollen streams on the slippery trunks of fallen trees. They walk on railway tracks.

The mature, or married, man is stunned by spring. A few weeks ago, his home was quite attractive, with that nice white snow covering everything. Now it's nothing but a big, fat eyesore. Paint peeling, eavestroughs dangling, cellar window broken and a potato sack stuffed in it. Storm window for the southeast side of the kitchen still leaning against the house, where he left it last fall. Front lawn littered with kiddy car, grapefruit rinds dropped while hustling out wine bottles contributed bypassersby, the rake, a pile of dead leaves; and the whole torn into trenches worthy of Flanders' fields by the visits of the coal truck.

He does the only sensible thing, in the circumstances. He sits down with pencil and paper and lays out a plan of cleaning up, painting, and general improvements. He reads it triumphantly to his wife. He's so sincere she's really impressed. She's proud of him. A new leaf. First job he'll tackle is the front lawn. Then the cellar.

Half an hour later, she discovers the new leaf is just the other side of the same one he turned over last year. She catches him cleaning up the front lawn by chipping grapefruit skins into the coal-truck craters with a golf club. They have words. She dons her boots and rakes the lawn, sending him to the cellar.

When he doesn't show up for supper, she figures he's really bucking down to it, and goes down cellar to call him. And there he is, crouched on the remnants of the coal-pile, with his fishing rod, practicing his fly-casting into the large pool between the vegetable-bin and the furnace.

What about the oldster, the codger? What kind of a fancy does he have, come spring? After dicing with death through a long, cruel winter, when his old side-kicks were appearing with monotonous regularity on the obituary page, I imagine he's pretty pleased with himself. In fact, I know he is. I was talking to one the other day. As he sunned himself in front of the post office, he told me:

"Didn't think I'd make it back there in January. Flat on my back and gettin' worse every day. The old lady practically had the insurance collected and off to Florida for the rest of the winter. "But," with an evil chuckle, "she got fooled. She caught the cold and I buried 'er the end of February. Have snort now whenever I feel like it. Say, son, when do them tourists start to arrive? I'm goin' to spend the whole summer watchin' them girls in their shorts. I figure it won't do them any harm and should do me a lot of good."

A child copies manners

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"Don't forget to speak your manners when you visit Granny! She expects you to say 'Please' and 'Thank you'," John told his smaller brother, Bobby.

A child copies the manners whether they be good or bad, of those around him. Courtesy, like measles, is "catching". Formal teaching of rules is never a substitute for observation and experience in living.

This does not mean that a child of courteous parents may not sometimes act in a rude fashion. A child who is ill or frightened or exhausted may be discourteous and not co-operative. John Buchan relates in his autobiography, "Memory Hold the Door," that he once asked a superior officer why he put up with such rudeness from a youth he had helped. The older man explained "Misery knows no manners."

Sometimes a child acts in a boorish fashion in imitation of a chum. Once in a while a child may do an unexpectedly rude thing as a bid for attention.

The best way sometimes to deal with rudeness is to isolate the child. At other times it is wise to ignore some small discourtesy in front of a visitor, but discuss the child's behavior later with him.

As boys and girls enter adolescence they usually become more aware of their own need for knowledge and practice in the correct way to behave in different situations. The lonely, anti-social teen-ager is often acutely aware of lack in training in social amenities. A boy or girl hates to make a social blunder in the presence of the opposite sex.

One of the greatest helps to feeling at ease in the presence of others is for a teen-ager to have the chance to welcome his friends in his own home. Another very real need in many areas, especially if homes are small, is a teen centre with satisfactory supervision. There boys and girls in their teens can meet together for social events and athletics.

It is useful to have reliable books on etiquette such as Kate Aitken's "Canadian Etiquette for Party Living" or Claire Wallace's "Mind Your Manners" which are published in pocket book editions.

"Being friendly" has a very definite meaning to any boy or girl. A small child is often naturally shy in the presence of strangers and may feel no necessity for showing friendliness. The attitude of friendliness to others is one which is gradually learned.

Why not have a discussion on good manners among the members of your family? Try to discover the practices which make them happiest and the little things which are most annoying.

Help your child to see that kindness and consideration are the foundation of courtesy, along with sincerity and fairness. Self control and respect for other people and their belongings are two mature, but important attitudes which need cultivation, so that when anyone "speaks his manners" he shows he has come from a family where courtesy counts!

JUST IN TIME! Mrs. Franciska Dorowska of Moscow, above, has joined her daughter in Australia, thanks to Khrushchev—but she almost didn't make it! She wrote Nikita asking his help to leave Soviet Russia, and he managed to slip her through the Red tape, just before he was toppled from power.

Pride of Erin — the Irish touch

"There's luck in sharing," according to an old Irish motto. Pride o' Erin Salmon Loaf is a dish to prove it. Though the salmon used to make it may not come from the River Boyne, nor the potato used to top it from County Cork, this easy main dish is sure to bring compliments galore to the cook.

Picture it for yourself — a fine, firm loaf of substance and savor, frosted with fluffy mashed potatoes, then put back into the oven for a quick brown-up. A grand dish to help you celebrate St. Patrick's Day, or any other day of the year!

Pride o' Erin Salmon Loaf

1 Can (1 pound) salmon, ½ cup milk, 3 cups soft bread crumbs, ¼ cup butter or margarine (melted), ¼ cup salmon liquid, 3 egg yolks (beaten), 2 tablespoons minced celery, 2 tablespoons minced onion, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 3 egg whites (stiffly beaten), 1 envelope instant mashed potatoes (or 2 cups fluffy mashed potatoes), 1 egg yolk, 1 tablespoon melted butter.

Drain and flake salmon, saving liquid. Scald milk. Add bread crumbs and butter then let stand 5 minutes. Add salmon liquid. Beat mixture until smooth. Add egg yolk, green pepper or celery, onion, lemon juice, pepper, and salmon. Mix thoroughly. Fold in egg white. Pour into a well-greased, 6-cup loaf pan. Set in a pan of hot water. Bake in a moderate oven, 350°F. for about 1 hour, or until firm in the centre. Remove from oven and let stand 5 minutes before unmolding. Meanwhile prepare instant mashed potatoes according to package directions, or prepare fluffy mashed potatoes according to your favorite recipe. Beat in egg yolk. Increase oven temperature to 450°F. Spread mashed potatoes over top and sides of loaf. Drizzle with melted butter. Bake until potatoes are tipped with brown. Makes 6 servings.

New chief for Consumer Section

Ottawa — Miss Lois M. Hurst, an expert in dietetics and home economics, has been appointed chief of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture. The appointment, effective March 8, fills a vacancy left by the retirement of Miss Laura C. Pepper.

Miss Hurst comes to Ottawa from Toronto, where she was senior home economist with Ontario Hydro's Home Service Bureau. Before joining Ontario Hydro in 1958, she was dietitian on the staff of the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto, for 10 years.

Born at Toronto, Miss Hurst graduated in household economics from the University of Toronto, where she received her B.A. degree in 1945. A year's dietetic internship followed at the Royal Victoria Hospital in Montreal. Returning to the University of Toronto, she carried out post-graduate work in food research and received her master's degree in 1947.

Miss Hurst has been active in many professional organizations.

Now they are baking men's pants in the oven!

Outlandish as this may sound, the results are creating more excitement than any other textile development in recent years. The first really permanent press, the ultimate in wash and wear, appeared only a few months ago; since then the pace of its rapid development has been dizzying.

Permanent press will shortly appear on the Canadian market under any of a half dozen trade names, but the process fulfills the promises. "Little or no ironing" has truly become "No ironing ever".

Ever since the textile industry began applying wash and wear finishes to fabrics of every kind, the idea has been to prevent the formation of wrinkles during the washing and wearing of garments. Most processes consisted of chemical or resin finishes which were cured or fixed by the application of heat.

This locked the finished fabric in the smooth, flat shape to which it would return after washing. But it presented a problem to clothing manufacture. Having been cured into the flat shape, the fabric with the "memory" would return to the same state after washing. In finished garments this meant pant creases would disappear unless applied after sewing, and seams often puckered due to thread tensions.

The new process offers the solution to this problem. In simplest terms, the fabric is now treated and partially cooked, but the final heat-setting is deferred until after the garment has been made up and pressed. Thus instead of giving the "memory" to the flat fabric, the process gives it to the shape of the garment. With shape locked in, seams stay flat and neat, puckering is eliminated and creases remain for the life of the garment.

Sounds like a gimmick? Well it is not, or the progressive Canadian textile industry would not be so enthusiastic about it. One of its best features, industry leaders say, is that the process does nothing to change the character or properties of fibres used in the fabrics.

The average consumer has not yet seen enough of the results to share this excitement, but skeptical textile men are reported wearing and washing permanent press trousers for the sheer joy of seeing the promise fulfilled.

The new process means that instead of fabrics being finished at the mill in piece-goods forms, they will be partially pre-cooked and given final curing by garment manufacturers themselves. This means manufacturers must invest in the curing ovens for their own plants.

Though the chemistry is not the same the whole idea is familiar to women as being similar to that used with many of the foods we buy today. The semi-cooked items such as rice and bread rolls that we pop into the oven for a few minutes' final preparation, are comparable.

The development of the process was sparked in the men's wear trade and most of the activity at present is concerned with men's and boys' pants. However, the women's wear industry is also waking up to the potential and the scramble for new equipment is underway.

ADS LURE MEDICS

Regina (CP) — A Saskatchewan advertising campaign in Britain to lure professional and other highly skilled persons to the Canadian prairies, has brought a first contingent of 10 doctors, dentists and nurses. Premier Ross Thatcher says more are expected from Britain, but his government may have to recruit also in Eastern Canada and the U.S.

RED CROSS is ALWAYS THERE WITH YOUR HELP

New Tweedsmuir Contest rules released to W.I.'s

Regulations for the Tweedsmuir Competition of the 1964-67 term of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada have now been released. This national competition is composed of three sections, the first always the well known project, the Tweedsmuir (Village) Histories. Sections two and three, Cultural and Handicrafts, respectively, change from term to term, and are determined at each triennial convention of FWIC, with a new committee appointed for each successive competition.

For the current term, the cultural section is a centennial poem, the theme to have some bearing on any phase of Canada's 100 years as a nation.

Drawn thread work was selected as the handwork; this work is one of the oldest forms of embroidery, its origin dating back to Biblical times. It was introduced into England by the Royal Household in the 16th century, but is becoming a lost art in Canada.

"It is a most useful and satisfying task for Women's Institute members to see that nothing valuable is lost or forgotten", said Lady Tweedsmuir when she inaugurated the Competition that bears her name in 1945. "Women should be on the alert always to guard the traditions of their homes."

Consumer Section gives egg recipes

"It's Egg Time Any Time" say the home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. And especially right now when eggs are so economical. Eggs are the best buy they've been in many years. So do take advantage of these low, low prices and let eggs work for you.

You can't go wrong serving eggs every day, at every meal. Why? Because they provide variety, nutrition and dollar value.

Provide High Protein Value

Eggs provide high quality protein which comes so close to perfection that scientists use it as a standard to measure the value of protein in other foods. It's also low in calories and has staying qualities that make it an ideal food for weight-watchers. Did you know that a dozen large eggs are equal in protein value to 1¼ pounds of beef. In dollar savings alone you are getting value for your money!

Three-Minute Egg for Breakfast

The market experts of the Canada Department of Agriculture say that our consumption of eggs has been going down the past few years and especially at breakfast. Eggs for breakfast are almost forgotten. The busy working wife and mother cannot find the time to prepare egg dishes and reaches for the "ready mades" instead of the egg carton.

Three-minute eggs may be the answer, says the Consumer Section, with little fuss or muss. The value in a satisfied feeling all morning is worth taking the time to heat the water and pop in an egg or two for each member of the family.

Add An Egg and Cook Still Better

Eggs are the versatile ingredient that enhances all types of cookery. The best culinary books offer hundreds of ways to use eggs in their cooking masterpieces. They add color, richness and flavor to dishes as well as thicken custards and puddings. They blend together the ingredients in meat loaves, croquettes and act as a coat for breading chicken, and other foods. Eggs give cakes and other baked goods their light quality.

If you've been by-passing recipes because they take too many eggs, now is your chance to make some of these wonderful egg dishes. Try your skill with pound cake Madeira cake, sponge cake, jelly roll, baked alaska, chiffon cake, gold cake or egg-rich yeast breads and cookies.

Add eggs to luncheon dishes, such as hash, macaroni and cheese, and casserole dishes. Try your hand at omelets, soufflés, and fondues.

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

By Jean Sharp, Canadian Press Staff Writer

The groom has almost as many responsibilities before a wedding ceremony as the bride.

He must have his guest list and his family's ready to go over with the bride. He must know priorities, if anyone has to be dropped, or who should be included at the reception.

He must buy gifts for his best man and ushers, to be presented at the bachelor dinner or at the wedding rehearsal. His gift to his best man should be about the same as his gifts to the others, though it may be a bit more expensive.

Plans Honeymoon

It is the groom's responsibility to arrange transportation and accommodation for the honeymoon far enough ahead of time to be sure of getting reservations.

Flower arrangements will vary. The groom buys the bride's bouquet and her going-away corsage, but she will probably have to tell him what flowers would look best. He should send flowers to his mother and the bride's mother to wear at the wedding, and to any other extremely close women relatives. He also buys boutonnieres for himself, the best man and ushers and the fathers. Usually the groom buys the bridesmaids' flowers, but not necessarily.

The bride's family may want to include all of the flowers but the going-away corsage in their order for the wedding.

The groom should get the marriage license, checking well ahead on how much time is required. It should be given to the best man the day of the wedding. The groom should also check to be certain he and the bride have all necessary papers, blood tests, birth certificates and baptismal certificates. If they are going out of the country for their honeymoon, he should find out what they will need in the way of passports, inoculations, identification and money.

May Buy Ties

The groom should know the correct type of clothing for the men to wear, depending on the bride's formality, the size and time of the wedding. If the wedding is formal, the groom may provide gloves and ties for the men, to be sure they are identical.

Traditionally the groom gives a bachelor dinner for the best man and ushers and possibly other close friends. The best man or ushers may decide to give the dinner instead. But it should take place several days before the wedding.

The groom must be sure his attendants know the time and place of the wedding rehearsal and he may give the informal rehearsal party.

He gives the clergyman's fee, a cheque or bills, to the best man on the day of the wedding to be given to the clergyman after the ceremony or mailed to him immediately after. The fee will depend on custom and the groom's finances.

The groom should be sure the signed wedding certificate is safely put away before he and his bride leave for their honeymoon.

Finally, he should wire the bride's parents the next day to tell them how lovely the wedding and reception were.

Country Notebook

Macdonald College

March came in like a lion, but the lamb was close behind. Those beautiful warm days in the first week of the month had the tantalizing feel of real spring.

No doubt, the tapping bits were in use in the maple bushes but I haven't heard that anyone actually made syrup. In the Morgan Arboretum, a mile from the College, tapping and installation of the plastic pipelines were just about complete in preparation for Maple Day on the eleventh. Dan MacArthur tells me that they could have made fifty gallons had the evaporator been ready. Next year, they may try tapping in mid-winter to catch these pre-season runs. It could be that in the sealed system of the pipeline, the tap holes will stay fresh and open.

Peter Hamilton and I took advantage of the fine weather to see Leslie Robertson's flock of imported North Country Cheviot sheep at Franklin Centre, down near the U.S. border. Peter is very interested in sheep and the Robertson flock has been attracting considerable attention. It is one of the very few imports from the British Isles in recent years. Therefore, this little flock is a rare source of new breeding stock.

Two years ago, the Robertsons went to Scotland and brought back three high-priced rams and five ewes. Two of the rams were lost shortly afterwards, one in a disastrous barn fire. But still the Robertsons have hung on, and the little flock has grown to twenty head. I don't pretend to know sheep, but that old ram is as majestic an animal as I have seen in a long time.

In October, the three-year quarantine period for the sheep disease Scrapie will be up, and the Robertsons will be free to sell their first breeding animals.

The North Country Cheviot originated from the same stock as the Border Cheviot. It developed in the north of Scotland to a large, rugged breed, long-bodied with good depth. Twin lambs are usual, and the ewes are known as good milkers. This breed crosses well with Leicesters. Then bred to a Suffolk ram, the cross-bred ewes produce excellent market lambs.

As well as the small breeding flock, the Robertsons now have a commercial flock of 120 native ewes to produce lambs for the Easter trade.

The Corn Day planned for March 31 at Macdonald College is a "first" in more ways than one. It is the first Corn Day in Quebec, although it is a popular event in that province to the West. It is the first of such events to be sponsored by the Quebec Farmers' Association, and it is the first time, as far as I know, a Corn Day has been held anywhere in the spring. The committee in charge felt the need for information about corn is too urgent to wait until fall.

The program will be based on "the why and the how" of corn growing. There are some areas in Quebec where grain corn can and should be grown. There are others where the acreage of silage [illegible] be increased. But there are areas where corn is too risky. If a man goes away from Corn Day having decided against corn, the event may be just as successful as if he had decided to go all-out for corn. The idea is to provide the information to make that all-important decision.

As soon as the Q.F.A. Committee has completed details of the program, I will let you know. One speaker confirmed is Dr. Ken Pretty, of the Foundation for International Potash Research. He will fly here to talk about "Fertility for Corn". Then there will be practical growers as well as specialists on the program, and also a corn machinery display. So they can give you the best program possible, the committee is making a charge of $3.00 which includes noon lunch. One thing sure, it will be a day packed with information.

Diary of a Vagabond

"HOLIDAYS AHOY!"

With a view to the spring season ahead, I intend to devote several columns to places in Canada where I would like to spend a holiday. It is my hope that these several articles outlining the virtues of Canadian summer resorts will solve holiday plans for many.

Fundy National Park in the Province of New Brunswick, without any exaggeration, is one of the most beautiful recreation areas I know about. Easily accessible from Moncton by a bus service that has a daily schedule, it is possible for the driver in the family to have a relaxing holiday with his family by taking advantage of the family train bargain rates from home station to Moncton. Fundy National Park is a family holiday area for there is everything available here to amuse and entertain every member, including parents and children in an age range from toddler to teen-ager.

Swimming in a heated salt water pool, golf, fishing and boating, craft instruction and nature trails are appealing. But let me be more specific and detail some of these attractions.

I think perhaps I was most attracted to the daily craft program. This school of Arts and Crafts was founded by Dr. Ivan Crowell, who is still its director. All instruction is individual, mostly undertaken out of doors, and covers such divergent crafts as weaving, woodworking, leathercraft and pottery, copper enamelling, rug hooking, in fact too many to enumerate. The charge for instruction is the cost of the materials plus $1 per day for adults and 50c for children under the age of 13. Even a novice can complete an article in a day.

Kinnie Brook Nature Trail is a stream valley, new in its actual human history but satisfying in its flora and fauna, rocks, forests and streams. It dates back to the Pleistocene era when ice moved across the area. There are moose and white-tailed deer, porcupine and snowshoe hare to be seen as well as many other native animals including now and then, a black bear or raccoon. This is also a birdwatcher's paradise. They have been known to record the sight of some 25 species on their tramps on this trail.

Easy to be a Sport

Within the sight of the Bay of Fundy the Park's nine hole golf course beckons the most ardent devotees of the game. For the fisherman there are boats to be rented at Wolfe and Bennet Lakes, two of the nine lakes, streams and rivers listed as angling areas. No license is required to fish within the boundaries of the park. Open season for trout and salmon extends from June 15 to September 15.

Horse riding is another pleasurable recreation available. Trail riding for the entire family is fun for there is a suitable mount to be had for any age.

Naturally accommodation is the first requisite for a happy holiday and here, besides the serviced camping areas, there are chalets, twenty-nine under the identification of Fundy Park Chalets and 24 new ones called Alpine Chalets. These are furnished and, in most cases, equipped with kitchenettes. Besides these lovely little cottages nestled in the groves of native trees there is Fundy View Motel with 20 units. All rates are amazingly reasonable. Need it be mentioned that they are mostly booked early in the season.

I haven't mentioned the playgrounds, bowling, movies or church services, nor have I space to go into detail about the shopping facilities. Suffice it to say they are completely adequate. If I haven't covered every aspect of this wonderful summer playground, and there are questions prospective holidayers might like answered, write to the New Brunswick Travel Bureau, Fredericton, N.B.

JUST ASK

The kindness of people often surprises me. I once wrote to a United States Senator to ask a simple question. His complete, courteous answer left me with a warm spot in my heart for all Americans. I could do nothing to further his political career, yet he undertook a lot of work to get and organize information for me.

Recently a statement in Louis Bromfield's book about Malabar Farm puzzled me, so I wrote an implement company for clarification. Apparently there was no simple answer, because I received a six-page letter, and on its heels a collection of brochures. Then, on top of all that, there came — on loan — from the same research man a book with the caution, "Guard it with your life; it's out of print and hard to come by now." This, I thought, was far beyond the call of duty and it certainly was not prompted by self-interest, for I had made it clear I was not in the market for any machinery.

Canadian firms seem equally eager to help solve problems related to their specialty. Until recently, however, there was a shortage of research facilities. That is being rectified today, particularly in Ontario, where Sheridan Park is becoming one of the most modern research centres in the world.

Seed companies are most obliging when it comes to answering questions, even crazy ones from greenhorns like I, who can't tell a nematode from a rutabaga.

Recently I wrote to an electric light company to ask if it is really true that they make bulbs, purposely, so they don't last too long. The president — no less — answered. "There has to be a choice," he wrote, "between the amount of current used and the length of life. We do deliberately reduce the life, in order that you will not draw too much current." that was certainly a different slant than the pamphlet I'd been reading.

Got a problem? There are experts posed with the answers. Just ask!

Logger continues despite setbacks

Winter Harbour, B.C. CP — Independent loggers must tread a precarious path to survive in an age of automation, tree farm licenses and a bevy of regulations unknown to loggers a generation ago.

But Bill Moore has had more to fight than most to survive.

Mr. Moore, president of the Truck Loggers Association here, runs a logging operation begun by his father 28 years ago at this Vancouver Island settlement.

His camp on tidewater with 40 employees was swamped by a tidal wave triggered by the Chilean earthquake of 1960. His insurance company called it an Act of God and declined to cover the loss.

He patched things up and started cutting timber again.

In 1964, another tidal wave walloped his camp, set off by the Good Friday earthquake in Alaska. Another Act of God, said the insurance company.

He managed to start cutting timber again, anyway.

But one massive natural disaster has proved to be the salvation of his operation — Hurricane Freda, which whipped along the west coast of the U.S. and Canada and tore a path of destruction to mark its force.

The hurricane ripped asphalt shingles from hundreds of roofs — but not the cedar sawn shingle and hand-split shake roofs that he has helped build. The hurricane offered his products an unparalleled ordeal and they proved their usefulness.

Mr. Moore, 42, regarded the destructive Freda as one ill wind that blew someone some good.

"CATS" PLENTIFUL

Qualicum, B.C. CP — James Dewar, commissioned to kill cougars on Vancouver Island, says he has never seen the big cats as plentiful as this winter.

FORD...Quietly takes your breath away!

With a hot new 240 Big Six and solid, silent ride!

It used to be that a Six had to be weak on power to be strong on economy. But Ford's new 240 Big Six is very economical and it delivers a walloping punch, especially with Cruise-O-Matic transmission.

The new 240 Big Six is standard on Custom and Galaxie 500 models. It is more powerful, more durable, smoother running and more economical than last year's Six.

There are other advantages to buying a 6-cylinder Ford besides getting the most powerful Six in Ford's class. There's Ford's Cruise-O-Matic with 3 speeds for easier passing and gas saving. And two driving ranges. The second starts you in 2nd gear—helps prevent you spinning your wheels in mud or snow.

You've heard of the silent ride . . . it's the first thing you notice and it is wonderful. The ride is also smooth. So before you buy any new 6-cylinder car, check out the silent riding Ford with the new 240 Big Six. See your Ford Dealer. Ask about a six-cylinder convertible . . . Spring is coming.

Blitz in Lachute area, March 22, sparks Red Cross campaign week

The three co-chairmen of the Red Cross financial appeal — Dr. G. R. Rigby, Léopold Carrière and B. A. T. Watson — have been organizing the workers and other details of this campaign, and, as far as Greater Lachute is concerned, plans are near completion for the door-to-door approach, which contacts the majority of homes in this community next Monday evening, March 22.

Meanwhile, other canvassers are bringing the appeal to 'special names' and to business firms during the coming week; and workers in the rural surroundings are being enlisted by Mrs. A. Gordon McOuat.

The annual appeal was publicized in all churches here last Sunday, and in this edition of The Watchman, merchants have generously sponsored a full page advertising the drive for funds.

APPEAL FROM CHAIRMAN OF THE RED CROSS CAMPAIGN

This year Mr. Léopold Carrière, Mr. B.A.T. Watson and myself have the honorable though responsible task of organizing the Red Cross financial campaign for Lachute and district.

Red Cross Week will be next week, and on Monday night, March 22, there will be a house-to-house collection throughout the towns of Lachute and Ayersville.

None of us know when we may need the help that Red Cross can give, but if we do need it, we usually need it fast. The future of this great organization lies in the hands of each one of us; its efficiency is dependent on our contributions, so it is up to all of us to give as generously as we can afford, when the voluntary worker knocks on our door or the letter asking for our support drops into the mail box.

My committee and myself would like to take this opportunity to express our thanks to Mrs. A. Gordon McOuat, who is organizing the collection in the rural areas; to Mr. Raymond Church, who accepted the responsibility of collecting from the business houses; to the many captains and their teams; and to all others for help so willingly given in furthering this worthy cause.

G. R. RIGBY
693 Main St., Lachute

A personal appeal on behalf of the campaign is featured herewith, from Dr. G. R. Rigby. Also provided by Dr. Rigby is a list of the canvassing captains in Lachute and Ayersville, as follows:

Ayersville
Mrs. P. Barbeau, Hammond St.
Mrs. L. Charron, Durocher St.
Mrs. W. Villeneuve, Chatham St.

Lachute
Mrs. J. Warwick, Chatham St.
Mrs. J.-P. Doré, Princess St.
Mrs. J. Bedard, Princess St.
Mrs. A. Patry, St. Jacques St.
Mrs. B. A. T. Watson, B'burg Rd.
Mrs. P. Guenette, Thomas St.
Mrs. E. Evans, Paquin Street
Miss Lydia Lowe, Main St. E.
Mrs. Tom Johnston, Main St. E.
Mrs. N. MacGeorge, Main St. E.
Miss F.-A. Carriere, Drew St.
Mrs. E. McFaul, Grace St.
Mrs. L. Duncan, Stuart St.
Mrs. R. Stephens, Bedard Blvd.
Mrs. R. Guimond, Bedard Blvd.
Mrs. P. Masson, Catherine St.
Mrs. I. Cruise, Main St. W.

With this cross-section of community workers, it now behooves all residents to stand behind the volunteers and give generous support to the cause which they represent.

Proclamation of Library Week

At the statutory meeting of Town Council, it was moved by Ald. F. Charlebois, seconded by Ald. L. Carrière, and resolved — that the Auditorium be used free of charge by the Carrefour du Livre for a book exhibition on April 10-11-12, and that the week of April 10-17 be proclaimed "Library Week in Lachute".

Daylight Saving

Another resolution of immediate interest to the populace decrees that Daylight Saving Time be put in force in Lachute beginning April 25, until October 31, 1965.

Visitors welcomed for Company event

The 22nd annual bonspiel of Price Brothers & Company, Limited, was held March 10 to 13 at the Lachute Curling Club.

Price Brothers and its affiliated companies hold a curling bonspiel each year in one of the towns where their manufacturing plants are located. The other companies involved are Anglo-Newfoundland Development Co. Ltd., Grand Falls, Newfoundland; Gaspesia Pulp and Paper Co. Ltd., Chandler, Que.; and J. C. Wilson Limited, Lachute, Que.

This year the 22nd annual bonspiel was held in Lachute for the first time, with J. C. Wilson Limited acting as the host company. Visitors to Lachute included personnel from other company locations at Chicoutimi, Riverbend, Kenogami, Jonquière, Quebec, Montreal, Price, P.Q.; Chandler, Grand Falls, Nfld.; and New York, N.Y.

Founded in 1870, J. C. Wilson Limited started making paper bags in Montreal. Later, it was decided to move the manufacturing facilities to Lachute, and the first paper machine went into production in 1880.

In 1890, manufacture of folding cartons commenced, and in 1955, this operation was also transferred to Lachute, occupying a new building erected for that purpose.

Continuing the modernization program initiated several years ago, the company has just completed the installation of a new steam plant, and additional storage and shipping facilities.

Variety of charges and sentences in court cases

A 17-year-old Lachute youth was arrested and charged with the theft of five automobiles during the month of February. He pleaded guilty on arraignment and will receive sentence on March 19.

Another 17-year-old miscreant was charged with theft of money from local grocery stores. Sentence in this case will be given on the same date.

Provincial Police from Lachute headquarters placed under arrest a man and a youth from Ste. Adele, on a charge of gross indecency committed in an automobile on a nearby road. They will appear for trial at St. Jerome on March 19.

Three young men from Vankleek Hill were arrested on a charge of public mischief, arising from an incident at the Lion d'Or at Whisselltown. On their arraignment, two were released and a third pleaded guilty. He was sentenced to one day in jail and a $500 bond to keep the peace. Damage to the Lion d'Or establishment amounted to around $150.

Réal Bastien, of St. Jerome, will spend 30 days in jail on conviction of passing a counterfeit cheque in payment for a television set purchased at the Jos. Malaket & Fils store, Lachute. The incident occurred in February.

François Monette, of Grenville, was apprehended following an accident in that village, and was charged with impaired driving. He was condemned to a $50 fine and suspension of his Quebec driving permit for three months, while his Ontario permit was curtailed for a six-month period.

A Calumet resident was also arrested on a charge of false pretences and misappropriation of his employer's funds. Appearing in court March 5, he was sentenced to a day in prison and required to post a $500 bond assuring his good conduct for a two-year period.

Youthful enthusiasm at annual Lions' public speaking contest

There were 11 contestants in a well-organized public speaking contest held last week in the Legion Hall, which was thronged with a capacity audience. This was the annual students' contest staged by the Lions Club, from which, year after year, youths and young ladies from Lachute schools have climbed to high achievement, winning top awards in the Eastern Canada finals.

The girls and boys were from French and English schools in Lachute and Brownsburg. They chose from a range of subjects, giving a 5-7 minute prepared speech, followed by an impromptu talk of 2-3 minutes with only a brief preparation, on a subject selected by them from a given list.

Serving in the role of judges were — (French) M. Alban Coutu, Montreal; Lt. Col. Gilles Gamache, Montreal; M. Raymond Medza, Montreal. (English) Dr. Elmer S. Giles, Dr. G. R. Rigby and Mr. Wesley Younkie, all of Lachute.

On behalf of the Lions Club, Dr. Eric Mongeon, as master of ceremonies, welcomed the very large gathering, explained the rules of the contest, and conducted the program in an expeditious manner. During the deliberation of the judges, President Mozart Carrière spoke with some pride on the Lions' achievement through this annual youth effort; he commended the young orators and thanked their tutors and the judges, for their willing co-operation.

Special tribute for the success of this venture is due to the co-chairmen, Paul Deslauriers and Donald M. Hay, who enlisted the interest of so many participants and helpers.

It was explained that the four winning competitors would meet young orators from other parts of the province, at an elimination contest April 10 in St. Lambert, Que. Successful contenders go from this point to the finals for Ontario and Quebec, to be held later at Owen Sound. Top awards are valuable scholarships and cash prizes.

B'burg Council concerns itself with details on municipal hall

By Harry McCosh

Brownsburg — Discussion on several items concerning the new Town Hall occupied most of the time at the March 8 meeting of the Brownsburg Town Council.

On a motion by Councillor Gerald Vowles, the mayor and two councillors, Harold Barber and Alcide Leduc, were authorized to act as a committee for the purchase of all items valued at less than $100 which are necessary for the new hall.

Councillor Germain Doth opposed a motion by Councillor Vowles for the construction of a retaining wall on the west side of the hall, adjacent to the Canadian Industries Limited property there. Councillor Doth said that a wall on this location would make the driveway on the west side of the hall so narrow that it would be very difficult to open a car door in the driveway. He suggested that the town ask the C-I-L for five more feet of property along the present line. Councillors Barber and Vowles said the C-I-L had stated that no more property would be transferred to the municipality. The motion was then passed with a majority of 3 to 1. Councillor Doth, however, was granted permission to approach the C-I-L about the extra property.

The Council then approved unanimously two motions by Councillor Barber — first, that a letter be sent to C-I-L thanking them for the use of their buildings as a municipal office since 1962; and second, that Mr. Laurent Vézeau be hired to brick-in the two cell windows at the new hall, at a cost of $85.

On a motion by Councillor Doth, Council agreed to ask Mr. Cyr, of Fer Ornemental d'Argenteuil Enr., Ayersville, to change the lettering on the railing at the new hall from B.M.O. to M.B.O. The purpose of the change is to make the lettering read Municipality of Brownsburg Office in both French and English, whereas B.M.O. cannot be interpreted in this manner.

Council approved the purchase of 750 square feet of land on Bank Street from Mr. Sylvio Labelle at a cost of $2 per square foot. Then, after ordering, from Mr. J. L. Marchand, four glass desk tops and four vault shelves at a combined cost of $434.55, Council adjourned their meeting until March 15.

School regionalization topic at meeting of Rotary clubmen

Mr. Alan Young, inspector of Protestant schools in Argenteuil County, and technical advisor for the Laurentian Protestant School Board, was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Brownsburg-Lachute Rotary Club.

The theme of his talk was "General Ideas on Regionalization" of our school district. He stated to the members present that the Department of Education is attempting to group local boards in regional units to offer a diversified educational program for the students of the area.

Mr. Young stated that a thousand high school students must be enrolled before a regional board can be formed. These students will be enrolled from Grades 7 to 11.

At the present time most of our high schools are academic, and are based on the graded system. In this new system students would work on a subject promotion basis; and as they complete one subject, they would go on to the next. In this system it would be possible for a student to be on a Grade 3 level in Reading, while in Arithmetic he might be on a Grade 5 level.

One of the most significant changes in regionalization would be the addition of vocational and technical departments in the high schools. Mr. Young also stated that the courses offered in these departments would be based on the needs of technical training in the immediate areas.

At the present time, there is a planning committee looking into the various types of courses which they feel should be offered in this area. This committee forwards its brief to the regional board, who study the recommendations of the committee.

Mr. Young was thanked for his interesting and informative talk by Rotarian Les Davies.

Farmer to pay partial damages in car-cattle collision, Route 8

Shares blame by split decision in Court of Appeal

A farmer on Route 8 whose herd of nine cows in 1959 suffered casualties of one dead and three seriously injured when an auto sped into their ranks, was ordered to pay $1,464 for damages suffered by the vehicle (reports Leon Levinson in The Montreal Gazette).

In a two-to-one decision in the Quebec Court of Appeal, Farmer Claude Gratton was held equally to blame with the car owner, William Birch, whose auto repair costs were $2,928.

Justices Roger Brossard and Pierre Badeaux found in favor of the appeal by Mr. Birch against the Superior Court judgment that he was solely responsible for his own property damages.

In the notes to the majority opinion from which Mr. Justice G. Miller Hyde dissented, Justice Brossard said it appeared to him that the farmer showed poor judgment and carelessness in instructing his nine-year-old daughter to release the cows onto the highway with a fast-moving auto in sight.

Appellant Birch, who served as a wartime Air Force pilot and emphasized in his testimony his ability to judge distances, was presumed by the trial judge to have failed to apply his brakes early enough in view of the fact that he said his speed was 50 m.p.h. when at a distance of 300 feet he saw the cows start to trot across the roadway in single file towards the barn.

The majority opinion in the Appeal Court agreed with this view in holding the appellant 50 per cent to blame for his car damages.

But Mr. Justice Brossard recalled in his notes that on the highway between St. Eustache and Ste. Scholastique, where the accident occurred in 1959, "motorists, independently of the statutory speed limits easily and frequently exceed the limits in open country, particularly at the time of day when the road is least travelled."

It was his view that the farmer was just as imprudent as the motorist and "his imprudence contributed to make the accident, if not inevitable, at least seriously possible and probable."

The farmer was condemned by the Appeal Court judgment to pay Mr. Birch one-half of the $2,928 damages, with interest from the date of the filing of the action in 1960 and with costs of an action in that amount in both courts.

A gathering crowd

Photographed several minutes before the doors of the new A&P Food Store opened at nine a.m. on Tuesday, the above scene was in evidence for more than two hours, with only the faces of the customers changing. The overflow number of shoppers were favored with good weather, complimentary bakery items and special low prices at the store, which is situated at 171 Mary Street. A spacious parking lot for more than 50 cars is adjacent to the new and modern premises.

Sentiments and Sidelights

(Comments on the Local Scene)

This is Junior Red Cross Week. It is interesting to note there are more than 65 million members of the Junior Red Cross in 85 countries of the world. It is the world's largest youth organization: the scope of its work is significant, and deserving of support whenever the occasion arises.

On the immediate program of the Centre d'Art — a plenitude of the finer things! Last Monday, Père Ambroise was a guest celebrity for the regular supper soiree at Le Bon Prince. This Friday (9 p.m.) there is a free film presentation on Hindu Art; and opening on Sunday, a veritable spring festival of art exhibits by 21 Canadian painters — both these events at the Centre d'Art galleries, 360 Main Street.

Rumored last week were plans for the Royal Bank of Canada to establish a branch here in the premises vacated by A&P Supermarket on Main Street... Meanwhile, it is definitely stated that the Provincial Bank will move May 1 to the corner premises at Main and Clyde Streets, last occupied by the Woodhouse Store.

It is recalled by J. Romeo Charron, one of the first employees here, that the Provincial Bank was established in the J. R. McOuat store (its present proximity) in 1910, with J. W. Dumouchel as manager. Mr. Charron was here in 1913, returning again permanently in 1921 and became manager of the local branch.

Week's Epigram

"I wouldn't want to be alive at any other time in history. This is the most exciting and stimulating time the world has ever known. I've never been much for the good old days... There are great challenges for mankind today, and I think we are doing not too badly at meeting them."

By BOB ATCHISON

Driving towards Montreal one day last week, I was disgusted at the number of domestic animals that had been hit by cars and just left on or near the roads. In most cases we know nothing could have been done for these animals, but they do deserve to be dragged off the roads. We humans are a callous species!

The new fishing laws are out. One that will be very hard to uphold is the regulation permitting a person to fish for Greys two weeks later than other types. The releasing of any fish is a tricky business as we all know, and trout doubly so. Some of the other types caught during this period will be let go, to live again; but how many will die due to mutilation by hooks torn from their mouths? I think this law will take a great deal of enforcement, and a lot of education for the fishermen, to make it work well.

As some of my fellow fishermen know, I have a passion for good fly lines. For the past couple of years I have been trying out a few made by Schindler's, of Mimico, Ontario. The lines they make have, as far as I am concerned, got everything on the market beat by a country mile. One thing I liked about the company's literature — it is not claimed these lines need no dressing. Without exception all fly lines need to be dressed every once in a while. The price for a double taper is below anything made in the U.S. of comparable quality, and a lot less than the types coming in from England. A real good line, and made in Canada.

I was told a sorry tale the other day. It seems one of the local kennels had some pups for sale. My informants were after a pup, so they went to see them. The conditions under which they found them, were disconcerting. Poorly fed, the pups were just skin and bones; so starved they were chewing paper, this is how bad it was. I don't know how long this had been going on; the excuse was sickness —this might be true, but surely someone could have fed and watered these animals. The County health inspector was informed and I believe everything is in order now.

* * *

Something interesting for the spin fishermen — a new fibreglass rod is now on the market that can stand up to terrific punishment. The information I received looked like good publicity, nothing more; but I later got a sample of the glass used in these rods. Boy, I rolled it, stood on it, did everything that shouldn't be done, and it came out fine. Another type of rod is designed to eliminate the dead spot in all glass rods. We all know rods of this type are "dead" down in the butt. I believe this is due to the heavier fibres used, along with the ferrules; almost all glass rods have this fault. But this new one, with composition steel in the butt, and fibres on the tip, eliminates all this. Maybe next, a new fly rod can be developed with this action, then everyone would be happy. This of course will take a lot more ingenuity, but they are on the right track anyway.

A new shotgun ammunition is also being publicized. This is made in Europe, and it is claimed to be the best ever. Of course this is all publicity. Some of the superior points claimed are — a greater amount of shot, greater powder concentrations, lower recoil, and so on. Made of cardboard . . . I don't think our makers have much to fear from this competition.

* * *

An early bear has been spotted in this area. My informant sure made me laugh. He stated the skin "hung down in folds right to its feet"; the coat looked like "an old beat-up carpet that had worn in spots". Can you just see this animal? Right now the only thing it will be interested in is food; but don't be too casual with it — right at this time they are pretty mean-tempered, and I can't say I blame them, either. . . If you see any scruffy fur coats walking around, don't get too bloodthirsty.

* * *

Ice fishing is slowing up. Fair catches had been reported in some areas, but it is on the decline. One thing that can be stated without fear of contradiction — ice fishing has enjoyed its greatest year ever. From all indications it should continue increasing in popularity. The service given to fishermen, and the news media, have been very good; for this we have Dr. Albert Courtemanche to thank. The detailed information made available was without a doubt the best, and this includes Ontario.

* * *

Something the town of Lachute has needed for a long time — I understand a Fishing and Hunting Club has been formed in Lachute High School, aimed at teaching the ideas of good sportsmanship, safety and co-operation. This is just what the doctor ordered. For everyone interested in these sports there is much to be learned — on safe gun handling, safety afloat, courtesy to landowners, etc. Lots of luck to the organizers; we hope this idea will flourish.

* * *

Reports from the various wildfowl authorities give us good news, that almost every type of water bird had a fair winter. This will no doubt help the duck population in some way. All they have to do is get to their breeding grounds without too much trouble. Ducks Unlimited will be on the bit to help in all ways they can, and maybe some of the smaller clubs or individuals interested in their preservation will be happy this year. Of course, the fact that they had a good winter does not help them later on in their nesting grounds. With the droughts of last year, and heavy inroads made by predators the year before, they need all the help that Nature can give them; maybe she will be in a kindly mood this year.

* * *

You can sure tell when spring is getting near. Boats all over are getting painted, repaired and so on. Some may think this is a little early, but actually it is not. Most repairs take a great deal of attention and care; trying to rush the venture often results in a leaking or patched-up job. So, better get at it now. Of course, if you are going to cover the hull with fibreglass, this cannot be done outdoors; a certain degree of warmth is needed for this. It varies on the materials used, but it has to be up around 65° at least to have this fibre do an effective job. A heated or covered shed, providing it is not too cold, might permit you to do the job; otherwise forget about it until later. However, you can clean out all the dry rot and so on, from all over the boat; this should keep you busy for some time. Rust spots may also be in evidence on the hull, from the fittings; these can be cleaned with a cleanser of some sort. While you are on the fittings, check them to see they are tight. In some cases they'll pull out, so you will have to put a backing of wood behind them. It may have been caused by the bolts in the fittings themselves, so check these too. If rusty, replace them; it will pay you later on.

NEED FRESH OUTLOOK

We, as Canadians, tend to measure the food problems of the world by our own rule of thumb. We quite naturally assume because we are able to have surpluses that we could solve the problems of the world as far as nutrition is concerned. It came as a little bit of a shock to us to learn that if India's population were transferred here they could eat up all our wheat in 32 months . . . We must diversify. The world has the ability today, as never before, to feed itself through technological advances. It can't happen by itself. It must be planned.

RED CROSS IS ALWAYS THERE

L.H.S. girls win OVSAA basketball; to defend provincial schools title

The Senior Girls' basketball team of Lachute High School has won for the fourth consecutive year the Ottawa Valley School Athletic Association trophy. This marks the sixth time in 11 years of playing that Lachute has commanded the championship. The team now advances to Bishop's University in Lennoxville to compete in the provincial tournament on March 19-20. Incidentally, Lachute team are the defending champions.

Last Tuesday night in the second game of a home-and-home series with Brownsburg, Lachute's senior girls won handily over the less experienced B.H.S. sextet with a score of 32-20. The week before in Brownsburg, Lachute raced back from an 11-point deficit to sneak out a 28-27 victory. The total score on the round — Lachute 60, Brownsburg 47.

The second game was played before a capacity crowd in the Lachute gymnasium. Both teams started off strong, with Nancy Hay scoring the first two points of the night on a fine passing play with Barbara Underhill and Mary Beth Painter. Brownsburg quickly knotted the score, and each team continued to exchange baskets, to finish the first quarter in a 10-10 deadlock.

In the second quarter the defending champions began to press the challengers, and to take a lead that B.H.S. couldn't overcome. The Lachute guards, playing at their best, set up a tight defensive zone that kept the opposing forwards out of scoring range. Ninety percent of the rebounds were grabbed off the backboards by the home-town guards, Captain Sheila Owens, Wendy Graham and Elizabeth Hay. It was the fine defensive play of the guards that enabled L.H.S. to win the first game, and the second contest was just a continuing performance. Time and again they broke up plays to grab passes or rebounds, to feed to the quick-breaking forwards. The score at the end of the first half — L.H.S. 19, B.H.S. 13.

Lachute seemed to have the game wrapped up in the third quarter, as they exhibited the championship form which they have lacked in previous weeks. Taking advantage of all the breaks, Lachute began lengthening their lead. Nancy Hay, Painter and Underhill began to hit between the twines regularly and even to haul in the offensive rebounds. Brownsburg, sensing that time was running out on them, tried to move the ball faster, causing themselves to make many miscues. The guards' passes were intercepted by the alert L.H.S. forwards, and when the B.H.S. offensive line did get the ball, they were forced to shoot from the third line in desperation. The third quarter ended with Lachute ahead, 23 to 13.

In the fourth quarter Lachute converted the game into a runaway, with one of the finest displays of defensive basketball seen here in weeks. Owens, Graham and Elizabeth Hay, collecting only two defensive fouls, grabbed every rebound, forced the visiting forwards to make countless numbers of mistakes, and simply ran circles around their opponents as they fed the ball to the anxiously waiting front-line speedsters. By this time in the game, Painter was driving in for lay-ups and an easy two points, or feeding the golden sphere to Nancy Hay and Underhill who quickly parted the mesh with jumps and set shots. High scorers in the contest were Nancy Hay with 20 points, followed by Painter and Underhill with 7 and 5, respectively. Linda Tomalty hit for 11 points for the Brownsburg squad. Three personal fouls were called against Lachute, 10 against Brownsburg.

Lachute was far from flawless in the contest. This year's edition of the team seems to be having trouble starting early in a game to gain a victory. In many games this past season Lachute must realize by now that, if they are to be successful at the provincials, they must play all-out from the opening whistle to the final horn.

Lachute Ladies' CURLING Activities

Our "curling grannies" were out in full force and vigor to take part in the Grandmothers' Bonspiel, on Wednesday, March 10. The winners of these keenly-contested games were — Florence Pollock (skip), Margaret Muir, Iva McGibbon and Rita Gordon. Elinor Hay served a most delightful tea at the close of the games, and everyone agreed that this was a very gay day with lots of laughs and fine curling.

Morin Heights — It was Children's Day on the Bellevue Hill recently — the occasion of the Royal Canadian Legion ski races for the junior residents of Morin Heights.

Approximately 100 children, from four to 16 years of age, participated, and their performance spoke well for the future skiing prowess of today's children in this community.

Boys & Girls, 4 and under — Debbie Woods
Boys & Girls, 5 and under — Greg Steele
Boys & Girls, 6 and under — Gwen McCambly
Girls, 7-8 years — Linda Johnston
Boys, 7-8 years — John Basler
Girls, 9-10 — Darlene McCambly
Boys 9-10 — Dwight Baumel
Girls, 11-12 — Marlene Baumel
Boys, 11-12 — Ronnie Woods
Girls, 13-14 — Janet Leclerc
Boys, 13-14 — Scott Kneeland
Girls, 15 and over (open) — Alice Gransow
Boys, 15 and over (open) — John Longley.

At the conclusion of activities the winners in each group were awarded a silver cup especially provided by the Legion Branch, while each competitor received a chocolate bar. (The latter award, in the case of some of the younger participants, was more eagerly received than the silver cup!)

The races were capably directed by Comrade Henry Gillingham, ably assisted by other members and supporters of the Legion Branch. The fact that the event was carried through without a single accident, indicated able management throughout.

The centre of activity last week was transferred, for our members, to the Brownsburg Curling Club. Two reasons for this! J. C. Wilson Ltd., a division of Price Brothers & Company, acted as host to the 22nd annual bonspiel of the parent company. This bonspiel was held at the Lachute Curling Club from Wednesday until Saturday. Secondly, the Brownsburg Curling Club held its annual Men's Open bonspiel during last week, and needless to say, the Lachute members took full advantage of this opportunity to curl.

The Brownsburg Club is one of the youngest in this part of the land, yet their annual bonspiel has proved to be one of the most popular. Great satisfaction, the pleasant sense of successful achievement, is a gratifying sensation; it is one well deserved by all the Brownsburg members, and especially earned by the committees responsible for the smooth running of this undertaking. Good ice, excellent refreshments by the ladies, and congenial company, are the essential ingredients of a good bonspiel; all were there in good measure. . .

On Saturday, March 20, at ten o'clock in the morning, the first four rinks competing in the Lachute Curling Club's annual Spring Bonspiel, will take to the ice. In the past years this bonspiel has enjoyed wonderful success, and it is expected that the members will again turn out to extend the hand of fellowship to the visiting rinks. The ladies, as in other years, will be serving dinners each evening — so come and dine, and bring your friends.

CURLING Activities in Brownsburg

The Brownsburg Invitation men's bonspiel wound up last Saturday with eight rinks competing in the finals. Carl Rodger's rink from Lachute with Art Lobel (skip), Keith Rutherford, Les Cheslock and Don Parker, took the honors by defeating a Lancaster rink in the main event. The Lancaster quartet was made up of M. Grant (skip), M. Edwards, E. Alguire and M. Lagroix. . . One question, please! Carl, where were YOU?

For the Consolation, a Lancaster rink, skipped by Carl Kennedy, supported by Don Cameron, Kerry MacDonald and Stuart MacDonald, edged out G. Lalonde's rink from Maxville. The four other qualifying rinks for prizes were skipped by P. Carrière (Lachute), R. Roy (Maxville), B. Alguire (Lancaster) and R. Raymond (St. Sauveur).

The day was a delightful one, dinner was "top-notch", and dancing to G. Anderson and his boys brought the bonspiel to a most successful end.

* * *

Excitement on local ice the other day when Ethel McGibbon (skip), Helen Martin, Ida Cruise and Vi Hazel picked up a seven-ender in one of the afternoon competitions. Vigorous sweeping by the opposing skip behind the T-line kept an eighth rock from biting, by not more than two inches. Those were mighty nice insulating bags given to you by the 7-Up people, so be sure to use them for nothing stronger than 7-Up, ladies.

The Brownsburg Legion, Branch 71, had their annual mixed curling on Sunday. Eighteen teams entered the bonspiel, which were drawn by Donald Graham and his committee. The first games started at one o'clock. It was nice to see so many new curlers on the ice, some who had never thrown a stone before. Each team played two four-end games, with the four high-scorers playing the final games at eight o'clock.

In the final games were Andrew Hardie and his rink, consisting of Rosalie Graham, Stuart Vary, Hazel Davison, playing against Roger Williams and his rink, Margaret Ross, Douglas Bovd and Doris White. Andrew built up a seven-ender, but it did not hold. Roger Williams won the game, and the bonspiel.

Locals win Jr. 'B' semi-finals in Alouette League

The Lachute entry in the Junior "B" Alouette hockey league defeated St. Jovite last Tuesday by a score of 6-5, to take the semi-final series by three games to one.

SKI TRAILS

Ski School News

This coming Saturday marks the end of the 12-lesson Junior Program. Although this year has not been the best due to lack of snow, the Junior Program only had one day in which lessons could not be held. That day, all the instructors held a dry-land ski school with the Juniors.

This year we have decided to give a small prize to the top skiers in each class. This will be judged by all the Instructors from a ski-off in which all the participants in the Junior Program will be marked this Saturday. The awards will be given out after completion of the Program. All parents are requested to make sure their children have their colored Junior Program badges with them.

Ram Ski Club News

Keep this date in mind — Saturday, March 27 — Carnival Day. This as usual is the big day for all members of the ski club. As in the past, all members are obliged to dress up for the occasion. This year there will be one minor change: the adults will only have to make costumes for the Juniors as they will only have to think up a good original hat for themselves. Yes, this year, emphasis is on Easter Bonnets for the Adults.

The usual races will be held and the weiner roast for the children. In the evening, there will be cocktails at 7.30 for members and their guests. At 8 p.m. a buffet will be served, after which there will be dancing until the wee hours — and for all this, the cost is only $6 per couple.

This is the big day for members of the Ski Club, so I hope everyone will turn out to make it a success.

APPRECIATION

Arundel

Mrs. Gordon Cooke and Mrs. Alvin Graham attended the Women's Institute board meeting in Brownsburg last week.

Mr. and Mrs. O. Barker and family, of Dollard des Ormeaux, paid a Sunday visit at the home of their aunt, Mrs. Estelle Bulley.

Mrs. Kathleen Higginbotham, who had been spending two weeks with her sister, Mrs. Bulley, returned to Montreal this week.

The United Church Women of Arundel held their monthly meeting last Tuesday with the president, Mrs. Frank Davis, in charge. The program consisted of a discussion on the last meeting's subject, which was not completed. Refreshments brought the meeting to a close. Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Frank Davis, Mrs. Whittell and Mrs. E. Gray.

Funeral rites for Glen resident of past 60 years

Late Mrs. Arthur Burns

Mrs. Arthur Burns, formerly Rose Anna Larose, died Saturday, March 6, after a short illness. She was in her 81st year.

Both Rose and Arthur Burns (who predeceased her in November 1964) had resided in The Glen for almost six decades. Well known in the Arundel and Weir area, over the years they had also cultivated many friends from Montreal.

Rose was born in Grenville, Que., and for many of her younger years worked in Montreal. Married to Arthurs Burns in 1905, they settled and farmed the same parcel of land for almost 60 years.

She is survived by three daughters, 12 grandchildren, and six great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held March 8 at Huberdeau Roman Catholic Church. Interment was in Huberdeau Cemetery.

Talent show and TV celebrity delights audience

March 13, far from being unlucky, was a gala day for both young and old TV fans, who gathered full force in the Lachute High School auditorium to enjoy a local talent show, with the popular TV personality, "Magic Tom" Auburn, as master of ceremonies.

The program got underway with Mrs. Stephen Lilly introducing "Magic Tom". The first participants were "The Echoes", a local band which was well received by the audience. The group is comprised of guitarists Bob Noble, Gordon Noble and Brian Curren, drummer Claude Legault, and vocalist Donald Noble.

A solo "Une Glace au Soleil" by Louise Giroux, was followed by a piano solo by Carol Warwick. One of the better numbers was a duet of Diane and Kenny Pilon, singing "Peter Cotton-Tail", these singers being the youngest entertainers on the program.

Three ballet solos, by Linda Noble, Lynn Morrison and Catherine Trickey, were given at various stages of the program, as were piano solos, "The Farewell" by Winnie Hadley; "The Butterfly" by Nancy Drew, and "Rondo Kuhlair" by Anne Gorman.

Other participants were Heather Noble, Nancy Hodge and Debbie Noble who sang "Frosty, The Snowman"; Donald McFaul, who showed true showmanship in his display of magic; John Paulson and Mark Courtois, who sang "All My Lovin' "; solos "Moon River" by Sandra Prophet; "Le Sentier de Neige" by Claudette Caron; and "Marie Toi" by Monique Giroux. Janice and Donald Noble teamed up for an excellent rendition of "Blowing in the Wind", and midway through the show, "The Echoes" again favored the audience.

The highlight of the program was "Magic Tom's" performance, which fooled and fascinated everybody, including his youthful assistants, selected from volunteers in the audience.

Noting the number of adults in the gathering, "Magic Tom" expressed his pleasure, saying that, so often, parents do not show enough interest in the programs in which their children participate, to even attend them. He emphasized the present need for "family togetherness", which he feels is encouraged by such events as this one.

Concluding the show, prizes were given to all performers, as well as to those who had lucky numbers on their admission tickets.

Unit 5 of Lachute U.C.W. wishes to thank all who helped to make this event such a success and are especially grateful to Mr. Auburn, who gave so freely of his valuable time.

At the Dairy Queen (Brownsburg Road) on Sunday, March 21, a special attraction for teen-agers will be the presence of Dave Boxer, of CFCF Radio's "Like Young" teen show. Dave is a young man of varied interests: his hobbies range from sports cars to electric trains, while his collecting habits cover everything from wooden shoes to those forerunners of the adding machine, the Chinese abacus. And Dave's a music-lover from 'way back.

The Boxer broadcasting career started in Sudbury, Ont., in 1954. Since then, Dave has risen steadily to his present standing as CFCF's swinging young "teen host" and the "teen man" in his home-town, Montreal.

Dave will be on hand to welcome enthusiasts at the Dairy Queen from 1.30 to 3 p.m. on Sunday.

Arg. Duplicate Bridge Club

For the Club games on March 27, bridge players are asked to register by 1.30 p.m. There will be two sessions of bridge, at a cost of $1.50, which includes a barbecue chicken dinner. The director for the day will be Denis Seary.

The resignation of the president, Mr. R. Gagné, was accepted with regret. Mr. S. Seary will act as president until the election of officers in June.

— Jehovah's Witnesses —

Must Man Die?

God did not create man to live only a few short years and then die. Nor did he grant him an unconditional right to life. Eternal life was open to the first man, Adam, but it was dependent on obedience.

Yet Adam failed to obey God. He chose a course of sin, so bringing death upon himself and his unborn offspring. "Through one man sin entered the world and death through sin, and thus death spread to all men because they had all sinned." — Rom. 5:12.

Only God could provide deliverance from death, and this he has done through his Son Jesus Christ. "God loved the world so much that he gave his only-begotten Son, in order that everyone exercising faith in him might not be destroyed but have everlasting life." (John 3:16) To worldly-wise men such an arrangement is foolishness, "but to us who are being saved it is God's power." (1 Cor. 1:18) By means of it the opportunity to gain eternal life is open to you.

"I am the resurrection and the life," said Jesus. "He that exercises faith in me, even though he dies, will come to life; and everyone that is living and exercises faith in me will never die at all. Do you believe this?" (John 11:25, 26) If you do, and if you act in harmony with that belief, proving yourself obedient to God's commandments, you will be delivered from death, whether by a resurrection from the dead or by survival into God's new world.

Strengthen your faith in this divine provision. Obtain and study with your Bible the 320-page book, "LET GOD BE TRUE." Only 50c.

The late Andrew J. Elliott

Old citizen was former councillor, community man

Funeral service was held on Saturday, March 13, for the late Andrew Elliott, who died at his home in Lachute on Thursday morning last, in his 88th year. The service was conducted by the Rev. C. R. Lang, rector of St. Simeon's Anglican Church, Lachute.

Pall-bearers were three nephews — Walter Maxwell, Russell Rodgers and R. Clarence Rogers, and neighbors, Albert Noble, Lawrence Tomalty and Simon Wilson.

In addition to floral tributes were memorial donations to the Argenteuil Senior Citizens' Home fund and to the Gideons.

Born in Mille Isles, Que., the late Mr. Elliott was the son of William Elliott and his wife Margaret Patterson, and was the last surviving member of a family of eight children.

He had lived in Lachute since 1900, and operated a blacksmith shop here from that time until his retirement a number of years ago.

Mr. Elliott was a lover of horses and was at one time active as an exhibitor in Lachute Exhibition and Ottawa Exhibition, and was awarded gold and silver medals on a number of occasions.

He was an active supporter of St. Simeon's Church, and had served as warden for many years.

Interested in community work, Mr. Elliott served for several years as an alderman on the Lachute Council.

He was a life member of Argenteuil Lodge A.F. & A.M. No. 67, and had been presented with a fifty-year jewel in June, 1964. He also had been a member of L.O.L. No. 2,231.

He was keenly interested in gardening, and of late years this activity occupied most of his time.

Mr. Elliott is survived by his wife, the former Louise Isabel Taylor, and two sons, Kenneth of Toronto and Russell of Lachute.

Business figure member of early Lakefield family

The late Benjamin Moore

Funeral services were held Monday at St. Peter's Church, Town of Mount Royal, for Benjamin J. Moore, president of Moore Bros. Machinery Co. Limited, who died suddenly last Wednesday while vacationing in Honolulu. He was 79.

Born in Lakefield, Que., Mr. Moore lived for a number of years in Winnipeg, and for the past 50 years resided in the Montreal area. He has had a summer cottage at Lake Macdonald, in this County, for many years.

He was the son of the late Thomas Moore, who is remembered by the older citizens of this town, and an uncle of Earle T. Moore, who is still associated with this area as the promoter of a Canadiana site at Rawdon.

The late Benjamin Moore is survived by his wife, the former Eleanor Ina Brown; a son Charles; two daughters, Eleanor (Mrs. A. Ashton), and Doreen (Mrs. J. Haynes), and eight grandchildren.

Funeral held for war veteran at Morin Heights

The late Charles Wm. Nock

Morin Heights — Funeral service was held March 8 at Morin Heights United Church for Charles William Nock, 71, who died March 4 at Ste. Anne's Military Hospital. The service was conducted by the Rev. Ronald McCullough. Mr. Nock is survived by two daughters, Lily (Mrs. L. Reath) and Alice (Mrs. L. Pelley), eight grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The deceased was born in Aldershot, England, and came to Canada after completing 21 years' military service with the Gloucester and Royal West Kent Regiments in England. In November 1914 he enlisted for active service with the Canadian forces and served overseas in England and France during World War I. He received his discharge in April 1919 with the rank of non-commissioned officer.

Mr. Nock made many friends during his 20 years of residence in Morin Heights. He was an active member of the Royal Canadian Legion, Branch 171, the members of which acted as pall-bearers to his final resting place, where the last honors were paid by his comrades.

35th Anniversary

The family and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. David Laurin gathered at their home last Sunday to honor them on their 35th wedding anniversary — the actual date of their anniversary being March 15. There was a presentation of a silver tea service from their children, and flowers, accompanied by the good wishes of their many relatives. All members of their family, with the exception of two, were present for this happy occasion.

County couple feted on their golden wedding

Mr. and Mrs. George Paul entertained Saturday evening for the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McNeil, of St. Philippe, on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary. About 40 relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul in Mountain View, to greet the honored couple. The reunion included many from a distance. The home was decorated in a theme of white and gold.

Thomas McNeil and the former Lottie McRae of Harrington were married 50 years ago in the manse at Grenville, Que. They resided at Bell Falls until, in their retirement, they moved to St. Philippe. They have four daughters, three sons, 20 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. The reunion included many friends and relatives from a distance.

Present at the celebration were Mr. and Mrs. Ed Boyd, of Toronto, who had been attendants to the bride and groom at their wedding. The son of this couple, Mr. Hugh Boyd, made the presentation of a purse of money, accompanied by the good wishes of the gathering. In addition several long-distance calls were received that evening, conveying congratulations from others unable to attend.

(Mrs. McNeil has since been admitted to the Argenteuil Hospital for medical observation, and many friends extend good wishes for her improved health.)

Art exhibition of 21 painters, at Centre d'Art

Twenty-one artists will be represented in a spring show opening next Sunday at the Centre d'Art, 360 Main Street. The opening will be at 3 p.m., and the public are cordially invited. The exhibition will continue daily from 2 to 5 and from 7 to 9, with a tape-recorded commentary. Closing date will be Sunday, April 4.

The 21 selected exhibitors are all Canadian artists associated with the Galerie Libre in Montreal. Included among them are — Réal Arsenault, M. Beauchemin; Louis Belzile, Kittie Bruneau, Françoise Bujold, Ronald Chase, Gabriel Contant, Pierre Faucher, J. Fournier, Roland Giguère, Claude Girard, Dennis Jones, Denis Matte, Maya, Jean-Guy Mongeau, Father Gaston Petit, O.P., Georges Rackus, Denis Robert, Louis Scott, Gérard Tremblay and Bernard Vanier.

Many of these have exhibited in the United States, Paris and London, enjoying wider recognition and reflecting the Canadian trend abroad.

It is hoped there will be a good spectatorship among local art lovers to enjoy this exhibition.

Stage Attraction

The Centre's dramatic program also includes an attraction at Cinema Lachute later this month, a stage presentation of Molière's "Tarduffe".

YOUNG — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Edward Cecil Young, who passed away March 18, 1942. — Fondly remembered by his wife, Mabel, and family.
"Softly within the shadows
He heard a gentle call;
And taking the hand that was offered
He quietly left us all.
A few more steps along life's road,
Perhaps a few more years,
By God's good grace we'll meet again
Beyond the veil of tears."

YOUNG (Edward Cecil) — In loving memory of Dad, who passed away March 18, 1942. — Always remembered by Greta, John and family.
"There's a place set apart
In the depth of our hearts,
A corner that's always your own;
No one can replace it, or time erase it,
We keep it for you alone."

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

BAZINET — The wife and family of the late Sylvio Bazinet wish to thank relatives and friends for their kindness in sending cards, flowers, visits to the funeral parlor, and attendance at the funeral. Special thanks to the Rev. C. R. Lang for officiating at the funeral service.

ELLIOTT — Mrs. Andrew J. Elliott and sons Kenneth and Russell wish to express their appreciation to all who were so kind and helpful during their recent sad bereavement.

APPRECIATION

Thanks to all kind friends who visited me in hospital and remembered me with cards and flowers. Thank you.

New president for 'Carrefour du Livre'

Marcel Therien, president

At a recent meeting, the responsibilities of the directors of the Carrefour du Livre (Crossroad of Books) were outlined for the coming year.

Marcel Therien, linotypist for "L'Argenteuil" and publicity director for the library since its founding in 1959, was elected president.

The treasurer and 1st vice-president is Robert Tremblay, doctor of chemistry at C-I-L, Brownsburg. Dr. Charles Roy, dentist, was elected 2nd vice-president, and Roger Gravel, manager of the Lachute Golf & Country Club, was elected 3rd vice-president.

The past-president, André Cloutier, declined re-election for health reasons, but will remain a director.

Mrs. Doris Gravel, Mrs. Cora Stephens, J. Arthur Lafrance, surveyor, and Bert Rigg, chief draftsman at C-I-L, Brownsburg, are the remaining directors. The librarian is Mrs. Lucette Crispin, while Rodrigue Lamarche is auditor and Roger Lagarde, QC, is the legal counsellor. The spiritual advisor is the Rev. Curé Yvon Mailloux, who was mainly responsible for the founding of this library.

Publicity will be under the direction of Roger Gravel in French and Bert Rigg in English.

The new president, who took office immediately after his election, commenced work by drawing up a program for Canadian Library Week, which will be held from April 10 to 17. The week, under the honorary presidency of Mayor Dr. Zoel Saindon, will be inaugurated by a book exhibition at the Lachute Auditorium on April 10-11-12, as well as other activities which will be announced at a later date.

A vote of thanks to the retiring president and directors for their fine work, was unanimously passed by the directors and officers of the organization.

March is Red Cross Month —

It could happen here

GIVING ASSISTANCE in time of disaster or emergency is a traditional obligation of the Red Cross. We expect the Red Cross to be on the job no matter where or when disaster strikes, and no matter how large or how small the disaster. The Red Cross is geared for emergency action and its help normally consists of providing food, shelter, clothing, medical treatment and care for all victims. In addition, it's the task of the Red Cross to register all disaster victims, so that enquiring relatives may receive accurate information.

Major disasters are relatively few in Canada. We are fortunate that we live in a zone comparatively free of hurricanes, floods, monsoons, earthquakes and the like. But every year in Canada, over 2,000 families are burned out of their homes. Just recently at Ville LaSalle, a group of apartment families were literally blasted out of their homes. Instances like this mean that the Red Cross must be in a position to provide emergency assistance for some 13,000 men, women and children left without a roof over their heads and with no more than the clothes they've got on. In these cases, the Red Cross arranges for emergency accommodation, food and clothing until such time as the victims can avail themselves of the services of governmental welfare services. The Red Cross spends more than $20,000 to provide this kind of assistance for Canadian disaster victims every year.

March is Red Cross Month in Canada. When you support your Red Cross, you help to provide the emergency assistance that is given to victims of all kinds of disasters at home and abroad. And remember — it could happen here. . . When the Red Cross volunteer canvasser calls on you next Monday, ('blitz' night) or during the week of the campaign, be generous with your donation.

A little dull without a crisis

WE ARE TOLD by the Royal Commission on Biculturalism and Bilingualism that we're in the middle of the worst crisis of national unity in our history. . .

Comments on this verdict have been varied, from those who "view with alarm" and, equally, from those who grasp the situation with equanimity. But no opinion has come to our attention, thus far, more inspiring and more challenging than a speech by Agriculture Minister Harry Hays, speaking recently in Edmonton. We take liberty to quote these extracts, with the full blessing of our editorial approval:

"I'm beginning to suspect that Canadians are starting to enjoy crises and might find life a little dull if we ever got them all settled," said the Minister. "We spend so much time publicly baring our national souls, that you couldn't blame anybody in this country today for going around feeling naked half the time! The sales of tranquilizers — alcoholic and otherwise — keep rising. The couches of psychiatrists get a little more crowded every month. Yet the Canadian nation — bicultural, multi-cultural or just plain agricultural — seems to keep rolling along, sweeping all our crises before it.

"Personally, I can't get quite as worried as the B and B commissioners. And maybe they aren't as worried themselves as they have been made to sound in some of the news coverage of their preliminary report.

"I've taken a look at that report and I found things in it that encourage me to think that our country is really on the threshold of a new era, a more exciting and rewarding era than any we've known in Canada before.

"The commission said there are perils that must be faced. My impression is that in this life there are always perils that have to be faced. And it is also my impression that whenever we have had to face perils in the past, Canadians have faced them and surmounted them, and I can't imagine that we won't do just exactly the same thing with the perils we face today.

"My attention was drawn in particular to these words from the commission's French-language report: 'More than most other countries Canada is a Creation of human will. It has been called a geographical absurdity, an appendage of the United States, a 4,000-mile main street with many bare stretches. Nevertheless, this country has existed for a long time because its people have never stopped willing that there be a Canada.'

"To me the issue we face as a nation today is whether we are going to go on 'willing that there be a Canada.' I am absolutely confident that we are, which brings me to another passage from the commission report which impressed me. It said that if our present crisis of national unity should persist, or even get worse, it could destroy Canada. But it went on to say, and this is what impressed me, that if this crisis is overcome then it will have contributed to the rebirth of a richer and more dynamic Canada.

"This is what I look forward to. . . Canadians are going to overcome this latest crisis, make no mistake about that!"

Thought for National Health Week —

Psychological "vitamins"

THE CANADIAN Mental Health Association says the administration of psychological "vitamins" — love, tenderness and affection — is the most important step in ensuring good mental health. The Association gives its prescription in a timely message for National Health Week, March 14-20, sponsored by the Health League of Canada.

"At the present time," the Association says, "we do not know exactly the cause of many mental disorders, but we do have some useful assumptions regarding factors which encourage or discourage the development of mentally healthy functioning."

The precepts of good nutrition — "supplying the body with the right foods in the right amounts at the right times to meet changing physical needs" — should be equally applied in the field of mental health.

"Psychiatry and social sciences are aware of the nature of psychological 'vitamins', . . . it has been known for a long time, for instance, that love, tenderness and affection are essential for the healthy emotional and personality growth of an infant and child."

The Association continues, "It is now known that the adult and particularly the aged also have emotional needs which must be satisfied if good mental health is to be maintained and mental breakdown avoided."

The organization urges "teachers, parents and all who are in association with children to get to know more about the emotional, social and physical environment of the young" as a means of preventing mental breakdown.

"As in other health problems, the child is of primary importance in preventive work. We must learn how to help them wisely and how to anticipate the critical reactions which occur when too much stress is combined with inadequate satisfaction of emotional needs."

March, 1880 —

A letter has been signed and forwarded to the Hon. J. J. C. Abbott requesting him to use his influence with the Government so that the work at Grece's Point be given out by public competition and not quietly or secretly to any particular favorite.

The Government intends adopting the Life Insurance scheme which was held over last session.

One of Montreal's new aldermen is our friend Mr. J. C. Wilson, who has been elected to represent St. Lawrence Ward.

Mr. Robert Cruise, Mayor of Wentworth, is critically ill at the present time.

The Rouge Bridge is in a precarious condition. The history of this bridge would afford an interesting study for those who desire to be informed of the minor politics of this province. The job could be completed for $200 or $300. There is over $500 due to the men employed on this structure.

Red Cross Campaign — Next Week

Scandal In Perspective

The case of Lucien Rivard, with its overtones of bribery and influence peddling in the Canadian government, appears now to rank as one of the sleaziest chapters in the country's political history. But it is not the most crucial issue facing the nation today.

The fact that a man wanted by the U.S. on charges of narcotics smuggling could create such a furore in Canadian politics, casts a frightening spectre of the power of the Mafia.

There are few people who doubt that Lucien Rivard, behind his facade of a simple French Canadian businessman, is part of the international conspiracy in drug trafficking.

The Dorion Inquiry will decide whether he had friends who were able to bring their influence to bear on executive assistants to cabinet ministers, members of Parliament, or anyone else within the Canadian government.

Prime Minister Pearson, in his anxiety to be fair to all his colleagues, is apparently waiting out the findings of Justice Dorion before taking any further action.

In the meantime, public confidence in his government has been badly shaken. But for the division and confusion now prevailing in the Conservative party, the Liberal government would probably right now be facing the test of a general election.

But this does not relieve the Prime Minister of his responsibility to reassure the electorate that he can deal decisively with the kind of situation he now faces.

Mr. Pearson could make no better beginning than by dropping Justice Minister Guy Favreau from the cabinet, or at least moving him to a less sensitive post. Mr. Favreau, who had been built up as the Prime Minister's leading French Canadian lieutenant, has shown himself dismally ineffective in this portfolio.

The Prime Minister also would strengthen his position by drumming out of the Liberal party forthwith the two Quebec MPs who have brought him such extreme embarrassment, Guy Rouleau and Yvon Dupuis.

It would, however, be a mistake to allow the Rivard case to push aside other, more important matters in the public life of Canada. There is going to have to be a public accounting of the whole mess, but the country can best be served by letting justice take its course, which it surely will.

There are many issues of greater concern to the national welfare than the fate of Lucien Rivard.

In constitutional matters, there is the revision of the British North America Act and the whole field of federal-provincial relations, including biculturalism and bilingualism.

The Canada Pension Plan still faces prolonged debate, while neither of the major parties have yet tackled the urgent question of a national medicare program.

Unemployment is still far too high at four per cent. of the work force, while the problems of urban blight and rural poverty haven't even been properly studied, let alone any effective action been proposed.

A Canadian policy for Asia, and a new role for NATO are urgent needs in the field of foreign affairs.

The question of how to create greater opportunities for Canadian businessmen and farmers in the U.S. market is our overriding economic issue. The new common market in autos might point the way for other industries, but what is being done?

By all means, let's have Lucien Rivard and his confederates brought to justice. But let's not — as some Opposition spokesmen in Parliament would apparently do — bring the whole machinery of the Canadian government to a standstill — while we're at it.

Things 'n Stuff

By Walter Henry Jackson

Don't know where I got this one. Either heard it or read it, but I didn't originate it, and here it is in my own words as I remember it. . .

A young married man was ordered into the boss's office to explain why he was late for work twice within a week.

"It was like this, Sir. My alarm clock didn't go off and I woke half an hour late. Told my wife she'd have to drive me to the station.

"She was ready in five minutes. Didn't stop for breakfast — not even a cup of coffee. Half way to the station the car broke down, I got out and walked — no, I ran. But it was too late. I just missed the train.

"I hired a taxi. Five minutes later we had a flat tire. It was right near the wharf — Brown's Boat Rental. I hired a motor boat to make the rest of the trip by water. The driver was inexperienced. The tide was out and we ran up on a submerged spot of land. The boat was stuck fast. Two men in a helicopter saw our predicament and came to the rescue. They lowered a rope ladder and I climbed aboard. The boat man waited there for the tide to rise. They put me down at the airport and I took a taxi to the subway and here I am — half an hour late. I did the best I could and I hope you agree with me."

"O, yeah?" said the boss. "There's one part of your story I'll never believe. No woman could get ready in five minutes!"

Be seein' ya!

— By BILL SMILEY

Humor Isn't Funny

For the past few weeks, I've been confronted by an enigma. This word does not mean, as one of my students told me, "Something a nurse gives you in the hospital, before you have an operation."

The enigma is this: what is humor? And the reason it confronts me is that some misguided people asked me to be one of the judges in a competition involving humor. Equally misguided by an inflated ego, I accepted.

I should have known better. Not that being a judge is all that difficult. I've judged public speaking contests with great success. Everyone agreed completely with my decisions. Except those who didn't win, and their relatives and friends.

I've judged races at the Sunday School picnic. And had to fork over a dime to every runner because, "I wooda beat him if he haddena tripped me (or shoved me, or beat the gun)."

And there'd be no trick to judging a beauty contest, I'm sure. Although there's always the danger of getting a bust in the eye from some disgruntled contestant. Or even from some gruntled one.

But judging humor is a horse of a different color. There's always, in fact, the menace of misjudging the dark horse, which turns the whole thing into somewhat of a nightmare.

The character of humor is as perverse and varied in its qualities as the character of women. Picking the winner in a humor contest is as tricky as picking a wife. Everybody else thinks you made a bum choice.

Do you want Mabel, who bowls you over on first acquaintance? Or do you want Gert, who will wear well over the years? Do you want an hilarious companion for an evening or a quiet chuckle once a week for generations? Humor is in the eye of the beholder.

It's no use. Let's get back to the enigma. What is humor? Ask the first person you meet and he'll say, "It's anything that makes you laugh."

Well, it's not, necessarily. People will howl with laughter from sheer nerves, giggle interminably from drink, or titter uncontrollably from a story whose point they have missed completely.

People will laugh at practically anything. Only yesterday, I was looking out the window, as a young matron, known for her high opinion of herself, minced along, serene in her mink. Right in front of our place, zip went her foot on a piece of ice.

Mere words cannot describe the half-gainer she performed the way she looked, flat on her tummy, fur hat over her nose. Only a camera could capture the wild, desperate look she threw around to see if anyone had spotted the spill. Only the great Charlie Chaplin could have imitated the frantic scramble to her feet, the desperate effort to stroll off as though nothing had happened.

Did I laugh? Thought I'd burst a gut. I was glad she was not hurt, but like most people, got tremendous belt out of seeing the deflation of a stuffed shirt. Or girdle, in this case.

What is humor? I've no idea. For some, it is the bitter, even vicious, parody of a political cartoon. For others, it is the dry, pawky humor of the realist, the man who sees life with rose-colored glasses. For some it is the stuff scrawled on the walls of a washroom. For others, it is the mechanical, canned wit of the professional comedian, the pun, the gag, the topical reference.

All I can say is, "Never again." Even judging a beauty contest would be child's play after this. At least the entries would all be made of the same material.

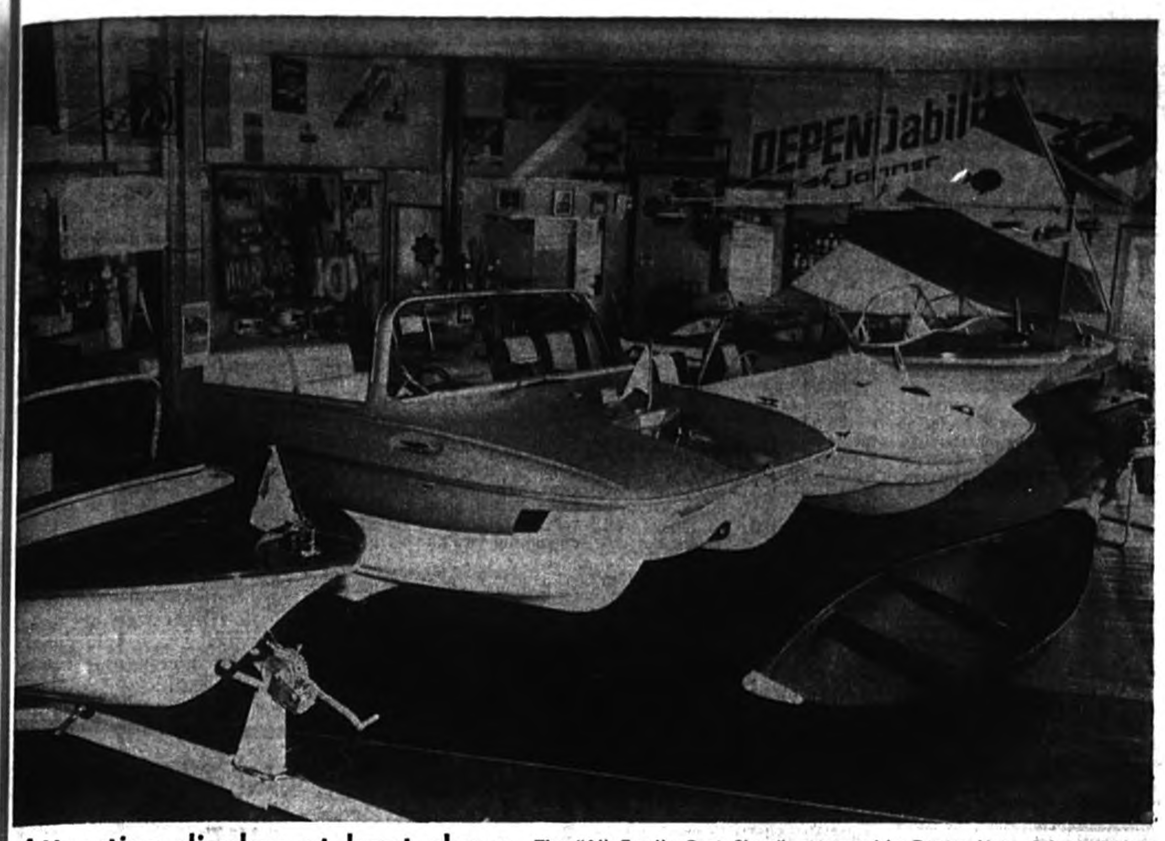
1965 Seen 'biggest boating year'

The Lachute Watchman

LACHUTE, QUE., WEDNESDAY, MARCH 17, 1965 SECTION 3; PAGES 11 - 14



Attractive display at boat show The "All Family Boat Show", sponsored by Deacon Motor Sales Ltd., gets underway on Friday of this week and preliminary reports indicate the show will again be a top-quality event. An array of modern boats, motors and allied equipment is on view in this display, the main feature this year being a 17-foot Crestliner fibreglass boat with a 150 h.p. OMC inboard-outboard engine.

Courses provide know-how for marine novices

The boating industry estimates about 50,000 new boatmen will invade the Canadian waterways this year . . . and judging by letters from last year's crop to government officials, boating writers and magazine editors, many will be plagued with this question: How can I learn to operate a boat properly?

There are three nation-wide organizations in Canada providing instruction in boating. They are — Canadian Boating Federation; National Safety League; Canadian Power Squadrons.

The course provided by the Canadian Boating Federation is for home study. It consists of 13 lessons, covering fundamentals of boat handling, and the steering and sailing rules, up to navigation, the compass and chart reading.

Each lesson is accompanied by a set of questions which must be answered and mailed back.

Several thousand Canadians have taken the course, which is free, but there is a nominal charge to cover printing and mailing.

The course provided by the National Safety League is somewhat different. It is designed for organizations which prefer group study. Although it is elementary, the course covers boating terminology, handling, rules, safety equipment, government regulations . . . enough to make one an expert outboard sailor.

But by far the best course of instruction in boating is offered by Canadian Power Squadrons. This course is presented at classes held one night a week by about 70 squadrons across Canada.

The initial series of lessons, called the Piloting Course, covers the following topics in great detail: equipment and government regulations; rules of the road afloat; seamanship; safety afloat; the mariner's compass; aids to navigation; charts and piloting; manners and customs.

At the end of the course, examinations are held. Successful candidates are invited to join the squadron with which they studied. Then they can fly the power squadron's flag which announces their qualifications to the world.

New models appear in Johnson boats

Johnson Motors has announced the addition of two new gull-wing models and one new three-point model in its 1965 line of boats.

In addition to the present 16-foot gull wing deluxe outboard boat, Johnson has introduced a stern-drive version powered by a new 90 h.p. two-cycle stern drive engine, and an all-new Sport 16 model with open front deck seating and folding windshield for all-purpose family boating.

The 17-foot deluxe three-point hull is a Johnson version of the OMC-17, featuring a powerful new V-6 150 horsepower stern drive engine. Added to the host of deluxe features are new front suspension seats for a softer ride. This new Johnson 17 is available in gulf green and white.

Standard equipment on the 16-foot Johnson deluxe includes a new, modern instrument cluster with speedometer and special switch panel, full deck hardware and running lights, built-in side storage racks, and specially designed convertible top for both easy access and full passenger protection, including side and rear curtains.

There is a choice of colors, and seat options include a new 6-passenger arrangement together with front seat walk-through.

The 16-foot stern drive model, with its 90 h.p. powerplant, is fitted with electric shift, alternator and power tilt, and includes a built-in 15-gallon fuel tank. This model is offered in moon mist yellow and white only.

All 16-foot boats are built around the "gull wing" hull design that includes a basic deep V-bottom flaring out through semi-circular channels to shallower V-shaped sponsons on both sides of the bottom. The soft entering deep V activates the water, which is aerated and deflected downward again as it passes across the semi-circular troughs and is forced back into the water by the outside V's. This action uses the energy of the water to supply lift. The boat constantly rides on a cushion of aerated water, giving the effect of hydraulic shock absorbers. Downward deflection of the water also results in a dry ride, and the outside V's provide stability both at rest and underway.

All 16-foot models have 25 cubic feet of polyurethane flotation foamed in place between the floor and boat bottom, to provide maximum flotation for full passenger load and all equipment. Rated for 120 h.p., these boats have a centre line length of 16 feet 2½ inches, and a beam of 85 inches.

Announcing the new Johnson boat line, vice-president Peter McArthur remarked on the enthusiasm of first-year owners for this new hull concept. "This is convincing proof that the majority of boating people are most interested in extremely soft riding qualities, roominess, stability and handling ease," he said.

Summer Dream There's nothing more relaxing than a spin around the lake in snappy runabout, with the sun sparkling on the waves, pleasant company, a soft breeze blowing, and an outboard motor purring in the background. The sleek power plant on this craft is Johnson's new 33 h.p., a sturdy, all-purpose performer whose versatility and dependability make it ideal for all waterborne activities.

Johnson Motors introduces outboard engines of 5, 6 and 33 horsepower in a 1965 line described as the "largest, lightest and quietest" in their 44 years.

There are 17 models in the 1965 Johnson line, in 10 horsepower classes (also 3, 5, 6, 9½, 18, 33, 40, 60, 75 and 90). "All reliable economic indicators have for some time pointed to 1965 as boating's biggest year this decade," says Peter McArthur, Johnson's director of sales, "and we believe Johnson engineering has developed products to stimulate a mounting demand."

New 6 and 5 for '65

The new 6 and 5 h.p. engines are products of the same engineering breakthrough that produced the million-dollar Sea-Horse 9½ introduced a year ago. At 51 pounds the Sea-Horse 6 is six pounds lighter than a 5½ h.p. model previously marketed by Johnson. The economy 5 h.p. model weighs only 43 pounds.

Sparkplugs offset in the cylinder head, a compact gear-drive, and a spindle-rewind starter developed by Johnson engineers make it possible to trim weight from the new units.

High-speed fixed-jet carburetors also contribute to the economical operation of the new models. Low-compression cylinder heads minimize vibration and a weedless three-blade prop provides the thrust. Shearpins are eliminated on the 5 h.p. by a shock-absorbing device in the gearcase.

A higher compression ratio and recalibrated carburetion in the Sea-Horse 6 account for the horsepower differences between the engines. The 6 also has built-in thermostat (an accessory on the 5), full gear shift with twist-grip throttle and is distinguished by its gold trim.

On the Sea-Horse 5, steering pivots 360 degrees and speed is controlled by a port-side lever. Each engine has one side free of levers for easy car trunk stowage.

New Sea-Horse 33

The electric-starting Sea-Horse 33 becomes the economical end of Super Sea-Horse series: A sturdy, all-purpose performer that Johnson predicts will be especially attractive to the boating newcomer. With a free choice of four propeller sizes the 33 can be tailored to just about any pleasure boating task. The Sea-Horse 33 contains most of the features available in Johnson's popular 40 h.p. engine. The 40, in its seventh year in the Johnson lineup, will be available in manual, electric or Electramatic models in 1965.

The Electramatic, featuring automatic clutch and single-motion control, is also available at 75 h.p. and is standard on Johnson's 90 h.p. Meteor II. This is the third year for this major Johnson convenience and safety feature. Electramatic models include 20-amp alternator-generators, designed to recharge batteries even while idling. An additional battery-saving feature on Electramatic models is a new solid state voltage regulator.

Help your child to good posture

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

Has your child good posture? Do you know what are the marks of good posture, either in a child or an adult, when standing?

The body is held in a natural easy position, the weight resting on the ball and outer side of the feet. The knees are straight, the abdomen drawn in and the curves of the back are slight. The chest is high and the shoulder blades should not protrude. The head is held up with the chin in. The general impression is of a body in excellent physical condition. The child looks healthy, wide-awake and full of energy.

Faulty posture is often a factor in excessive fatigue. Because good posture and good health are dependent on each other, every parent should learn to know some of the things which encourage good posture. A child should gradually develop the use of all parts of the body with the right balance.

Many children today do not get enough regular exercise in the fresh air. During vacation months when they are enjoying swimming, when many of them attend camp, many boys and girls get into better physical condition. But what about the rest of the year?

Families may solve this problem in different ways. The Browns grew up in Great Britain and they are enthusiastic about walking. Ever since the children were small they have associated a hike with a picnic meal. During father's vacation spent at a summer cottage, a walk as well as a swim is enjoyed every day.

The Hamiltons have two teenage girls. This family bowls once a week as a family unit. This is a fixed date for the early part of either Friday or Saturday evening.

The Macdonalds have two preschool children and one in first grade. A slide, a swing, a junior teeter-totter and an outdoors tumbling mat have gradually been added to their backyard equipment. Both mother and dad take an interest in the children's progress in achieving skill in outdoor play.

At bath time, mother can often encourage a child to develop good habits of posture by praising the way he stands up straight and holds his tummy in. If a child needs special help in posture, instead of using a set of exercises which must be done as a duty, why not seek for a satisfactory, happy way to fit exercise into your child's and your family's schedule?

There are other factors besides exercise which contribute to good posture. A well balanced diet is of great importance to build bone and muscles, the child needs green vegetables, fruit, milk, protein in the form of meat, eggs, fish and cheese. Cod liver oil in the months when there is not much sunshine is also essential.

A child's clothes must allow for plenty of freedom for movement. Tight belts hinder the activity of the abdominal muscles. Care must be taken that a child's stocking garters do not pull down on the shoulders. These supports should be on the side of an underwaist, with a built up neck. Shoes, stockings and night clothes must all be large enough for comfort.

Some parents have the mistaken idea that any bed will do for a small child, so long as he gets to sleep quickly. Each child should have his own bed with a firm, flat mattress and springs. A pillow is not necessary, and if used should be a small, flat one. The bed coverings should be light and not too tight. A sagging spring or mattress can do real damage to a child's posture.

Adult furniture is not really comfortable for a child, who is lost in a too-big chair. A child is much better in a chair built to his own size, with his feet not dangling insecurely in the air, but comfortably placed on the ground. A father who is handy with tools might be able to construct a child's table and chairs. Mother would find a child's set of this kind very useful for Junior to use when crayoning, painting, cutting out pictures, or other handicraft play. Junior's own chair which supports his back and feet helps him to sit up straight and relieves his muscles of unnecessary strain.

Posture is important to health, to appearance, to happiness. Do all you can to help your child — and don't forget to set him a good example in the way you walk or sit or move about!

Time to start tuberous begonias

By A. R. Buckley, Plant Research Institute, Ottawa

A bed of tuberous begonias in full bloom is always sure to inspire remarks of admiration. Even a single potted plant, or one flower floating in the traditional glass bowl, brings sighs of elation. Fortunately these lovely flowers, native of the mountain slopes of South and Central America, are becoming more popular every year and are no longer rarities.

At the Plant Research Institute the showy beds have done much towards proving to the home gardener that the plants can easily be grown if the right soil and locations are given them.

The tuberous begonias are strictly for shaded or half-shaded places. Plenty of light without direct sun, is ideal, and filtered sunlight under a tall tree suits them admirably.

Like hybrid tea roses, they will send up blooms one after the other for many months, and will provide more color for the shaded part of the garden than any other plant. There are a large number of forms resembling camellias, roses, single dahlias and even daffodils. They may be obtained in a nice range of colors from red and orange to pure pastel pink or white.

The most popular type is the large-flowered double, which has blooms of six inches or more across. There are varieties of these with plain petals or petals with a ruffled edge. The plants sometimes need small stakes to support the large blooms.

The single type is also sold in various colors and is extremely floriferous. Pendulous types are useful for hanging baskets, to droop over low rockery walls or for shaded window boxes.

The culture of tuberous begonias from tubers is extremely simple. Just fill a flat box with peat moss and press the tubers into it; make sure, of course, that the tubers are right side up. The concave or depressed part is the top, and here you will usually see a bud or two. The basal, rounded part may, at planting time, already have a few pinkish roots. Water the flats well and place them on a shelf or table in the basement. As soon as they start to grow out from the moss put them in a well-lighted window.

When the tubers have developed strong root systems, pot them into four- or five-inch pots, using a compost of peat moss, sand and a sandy loam in equal parts, or a good seedling compost from your department store or seedsman.

The plants must be kept in the window until mid-May or early June, when the weather should be warm enough for them to be planted outside.

Ideas with Canned Salmon

It has good nutritional value (8½ per cent more protein than the equivalent amount of steak), it's economical and, best of all, it's delightfully versatile.

From shapely baked potato half shells, piled high with a fluffy combination of salmon and whipped potatoes, then crowned with golden Cheddar cheese, to colorful pinwheels of cheese biscuit dough filled with a savory salmon mixture, canned salmon takes the blue ribbon for economy and appealing good flavors.

Once you've tried these very simply prepared tempting dishes, all featuring versatile canned salmon, you'll be certain to add them to your repertoire of favorite recipes for meatless menus.

Salmon Stuffed Potatoes

4 Large baking potatoes, 1 egg (beaten), ½ onion (finely grated), ¾ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon chopped parsley, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 (7¾-oz.) can B.C. salmon (flaked), 2 tablespoons cream.

Bake potatoes in very hot oven, 450 deg. F., for one hour. When done, cut lengthwise in half and carefully scoop out potato. Mash and combine with remaining ingredients, mixing until smooth and fluffy. Refill each potato half shell without pressing down. Sprinkle ¼ cup grated Cheddar cheese over top. Return to oven and brown at 450 deg. F., for 10 minutes.

Salmon Croquettes

1 (15½ oz.) can salmon, 1 (10-oz.) can cream of mushroom soup, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 medium onion, finely chopped, dash of tabasco sauce, ½ teaspoon pepper, 1 cup coarse cracker crumbs, 1 egg (beaten), ¼ cup milk, ¾ cup fine cracker crumbs.

Drain and flake salmon, saving liquid. Add 1 cup mushroom soup to salmon. Add lemon juice, onion, Tabasco, pepper and coarse cracker crumbs; combine thoroughly. Shape into 8 or 10 croquettes. Add milk to beaten egg. Roll each croquette in fine cracker crumbs, then in egg mixture, and again in crumbs. Fry in deep hot fat, 375 deg. F., for 3 to 5 minutes, until golden brown. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve with or without sauce. Makes 4 to 5 servings. Combine and heat remaining soup and salmon liquid for sauce; heat.

Salmon Patties

2 Cups mashed potatoes, 1 medium onion (chopped), 1 medium green pepper (finely chopped), 1 15½-oz.) can salmon, salt and pepper to taste, 1 egg.

Cook onion and green pepper in a little bacon dripping until tender. Mix with flaked fish, beaten egg and potatoes. Form into ½-inch thick patties and dip in flour. Fry in a little hot fat until golden brown, turning once. Serve with hot Tomato Sauce.

Salmon Rolls

2 Cups biscuit mix, 1 cup grated Cheddar cheese, 1 (15½-oz.) can salmon, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ cup diced celery, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup chopped sweet pickles, 2 tablespoons lemon juice.

Combine biscuit mix and cheese. Mix as directed on package. Roll out in rectangle. Combine remaining ingredients and spread over biscuit dough. Roll up as for jelly roll and place on cookie sheet. Bake in hot oven, 400 deg. F., for 25 to 30 minutes, or until golden brown. Serve hot, cut in slices and topped with Cheese Sauce.

Outside interests aid to mother

Halifax (CP) — A Halifax "working mother" says women are more interesting and make better citizens as well as mothers and wives if they have interests outside of the home.

Mrs. Sigrid Day has two children and combines their needs in the home with her business executive position as associate executive director of the Nova Scotia chapter of the Canadian Rehabilitation Council for the Disabled.

Both her son and daughter are at college, and Mrs. Day stresses that it's "unfair to everyone to try and mix home and career problems.

"If you have to work, it must be work that you enjoy. A job must fill some of your needs."

Mrs. Day was born in Finland and came to Halifax last August from Montreal where for eight years she was an executive director of a youth centre.

She says people need a job that makes demands on them. "Work on a part-time basis is effective. If you work as a volunteer, you have an obligation to your association to do your part.

"It takes self-discipline to stick to something you're not expected to do."

A graduate of the Montreal school of social work, she now plans programs and services for both the March of Dimes and the Crippled Children's Society.

But Mrs. Day does limit her outside activities to allow herself more time at home.

"It isn't fair to spread yourself too thin, however," she says.

Probe preferences in upholstery

How long should a chesterfield last? What styles are "in"? What fibres and fabrics are preferred?

A study of the upholstery market carried out for Du Pont of Canada Limited by an independent research organization, shows that the average life-span of a chesterfield should be between 13 and 14 years. Some 50 per cent of all householders interviewed expected a chesterfield set to last about 10 years.

The survey asked homemakers what style they would prefer if they were changing chesterfield sets today. The 20th Century styles (modern, Scandinavian, sectional, contemporary and Danish) were the first choice of 43 per cent while "traditional" style scored only 17 per cent.

A growing preference for nylon in upholstery tabrics was disclosed by the study. Asked what fabric they would pick if re-upholstering, 45 per cent of the homemakers interviewed chose nylon as opposed to 7 per cent for cotton, 10 per cent for wool and 6 per cent for rayon. Of the homemakers who indicated they would like a change in fabric, half sought the change for practical reasons and half because of styling considerations.

Substantial confusion, the study discovered, exists in the consumer's mind regarding textures, patterns and fabric constructions.

Incidentally, slipcovers are "out", as far as the main chesterfield of the house is concerned. Only a scant 7 per cent of the homemakers interviewed said they had slipcovers now.

The study involved person-to-person interviews with representative English and French-speaking housewives. To get a fair picture, half of the persons interviewed were apartment or duplex dwellers while the other half resided in detached and semi-detached houses. The survey was confined to the one main chesterfield set in each household.

Interestingly enough, the study revealed a substantial difference in outlooks between Montreal and Toronto homemakers.

THE OLD METHODS

Montreal (CP) — Judge John W. Long says Montreal's overcrowded Social Welfare Court handled more than 7,000 delinquency cases last year. He noted that in his youth about 4,000 of them would have been dealt with "behind the barn by the local constable or teacher."

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

By Jean Sharp, Canadian Press Staff Writer

More and more, education in Canada is making allowance for the abilities and disabilities of individual school-age children. School programs have been reorganized and subject promotion has been designed to allow more children to move up at a pace they can handle.

More vocational schools are being built, along with variations built into school systems to offer vocational-type training geared to varying learning abilities as well as to changing employment opportunities.

A 1964 Canadian Education Association report said about 10,000 classrooms and laboratories were built during that year. The 1962-63 figures showed 517 new classrooms in Saskatchewan, 333 in Nova Scotia and 331 in Newfoundland.

In 1963-64 there were 326 built in New Brunswick, 3,579 in Quebec, 700 in Alberta, 646 in Manitoba, 732 in British Columbia and 150 in Prince Edward Island. In 1963, Ontario completed 586 building projects to provide 133,380 new pupil places.

In the Northwest Territories and Arctic Quebec, in 1963-64, 13 classrooms, a home-making cabin, two vocational shops and 14 small hostels for students were built or converted from existing buildings.

In addition to making space for new students, the classrooms are allowing room for highly specialized categories. Nova Scotia has started special education for exceptional students and provided transportation for those unable to walk safely. Quebec has added to its classes for the educable retarded. Ontario has begun offering classes for children with learning problems and emotional problems.

Alberta has established a pre-vocational course for pupils who are unable to pass Grade 9.

Several provinces, including Quebec, Ontario and Saskatchewan, have supplementary special psychological services which, to varying degrees, are studying and diagnosing learning problems and cases of suspected retardation among pupils.

Ontario's department of education has set up a youth branch to deal with problems which have cropped up because of automation, the trend to urban living, changes in social and family patterns, and early school leaving.

Upgrade Teaching

To cope with new courses, new methods and more special education, teacher training standards are being raised.

The report said the Ontario Teachers' College now requires an average of 60 per cent on secondary school graduation diplomas for entrance to its two-year course.

Nova Scotia and New Brunswick have raised entrance requirements and made two-year courses compulsory, and P.E.I. has introduced one. Newfoundland has raised each stage of its certification standards.

Everywhere, the emphasis on the value of university training for teachers is increasing, and new teacher training schools are beng opened.

In most provinces salary scales for teachers have been adjusted to meet the changing training requirements.

The Bothwell Award, donated by Domtar, is presented annually for the most meritorious work on behalf of forest conservation in Canada.

The award was made to Mr. Salm for his contribution to the development of the Arundel School Tree Farm, a community forest conservation project in this County.

Petitions to Autoroute and Dept. of Highways

Despite refusal of the Laurentian Autoroute authority to open the access road immediately north of No. 3 toll station, as requested by the municipal councils of Lachute and St. Jerome — another request to this effect has been sent by the Dollard des Ormeaux regional (Catholic) school board. Of this organization the Lachute school municipality forms a part, and Dr. Roger Lavigne of this town is chairman.

The regional board submits that a large number of pupils will travel Route 41 in the direction of St. Jerome, and it will greatly facilitate this traffic to take the Autoroute where it crosses 41. Opening of the access road would save the toll while appreciably reducing the distance.

Also related to the transport of school students was a plea from the regional board addressed to the Department of Highways, which requests the widening and improvement of the highway from Pointe au Chene to St. Jerome, in the interests of both safety and convenience.

Copies of these two requests have been directed to the parliamentary representatives of the three counties, Argenteuil, Terrebonne and Deux Montagnes, also to the Minister of Education at Quebec.

Week's Epigram

Tax rate reduced for second successive year

Substantial drop in property tax, and reduction in business levies

By a majority vote at Council meeting last week, a tax cut of 20 cents on the $100 property valuation was adopted for 1965; this means that the general tax rate is reduced from $1.20 to $1.

This represents a tax reduction for the second year in succession, the levy in that period having dropped from $1.50 to $1.

Council has also lowered the business tax on the rent-value-of-premises basis, while certain other categories will benefit by as much as 50 per cent reduction in the business tax rate. Among these are the professions, namely, notaries, lawyers, bailiffs, veterinarians, chiropractors; also the proprietors of potato wagons.

The water tax of $40 per household remains unchanged.

Three aldermen were opposed to the reductions — Messrs. Philippe Masson, Bruno Bélanger and Ludger Gibeault. In discussion with our press representative after the meeting, these gentlemen stated they were in favor of a reduction to the extent of about 10 per cent on the general tax rate. Mr. Masson pointed out that the town should take into consideration public works, and the funds required. "I don't think it is a good policy to lower taxes to a point where you will have to increase them again in a few years. The former administration neglected to do a number of jobs that must be attended to this year," he added.

Aldermen in favor of the 20-cent reduction were Laurier Carrière, Dr. Lyall Middleton, Dr. Roger Dumais, Linton Armstrong and Edmund McFaul. (Ald. François Charlebois was absent.)

Taxable valuation is $10,738,100 — which, at the rate of $1, will produce revenue of $107,381. This compares with $126,402 in 1964.

Business tax revenue for 1965 will be $28,000, compared to $36,667.25 in 1964.

From the budget estimates hereunder, it may be noted that sales tax will be the highest revenue-producer this year, outstripping the property tax. Sales tax is estimated to bring $140,000. Last year it produced $137,521 — the estimate on this (then untested) producer having been set at only $112,000.

The decrease of $19,000 on this year's property tax, and $8,000 on business tax, will therefore be compensated for, in the higher estimate of sales tax — from $112,000 in 1964 to $140,000 in the 1965 budget.

For benefit of our readers, the budget highlights are summarized as follows:

1965 Budget of Revenues and Expenditures

Revenues
General Tax	$107,381.
Sales Tax	140,000.
Business Tax	28,000.
Amusement Tax	2,500.
Sewers (Capital & Int.)	850.
Dogs	500.
Bicycles	1,200.
Fire Calls	6,500.
Rentals	5,000.

Citizens' League in formation at Ayersville

Ayersville residents have been invited to attend a meeting at 7.30 p.m. Sunday, March 28, in the basement of Immaculate Conception Church, for the purpose of organizing a Citizens' League.

The aims and objectives of this body will be to collaborate with the civic and school authorities, the recreation groups and other organizations in the public interest.

As soon as the constitution is drawn up, application will be made for a charter to incorporate the League.

Both proprietors and tenants are invited to attend the organizational meeting.

Target $1,800 for Red Cross in Brownsburg

Brownsburg — The March meeting of the Canadian Red Cross, Brownsburg Branch, was held in the Social Club.

Reports were given on the annual meeting, held in Montreal on February 18-19.

Plans were discussed for the fund campaign, which is under co-chairmen Rémi Raymond and D. N. Atkins, assisted by Keith Quinn. The local objective this year is $1,800.

Mrs. R. Lafleur reported one bed and two pairs of crutches, out on loan.

Mrs. F. Barker was pleased to report that since the last meeting she was able to ship to headquarters, 490 articles of sewing and 83 knitted articles.

Guidance program described by specialist at Home and School

The regular monthly meeting of the Lachute and District Home and School Association was held March 17 in the Music room of the High School. Mr. Wes Younkie, vice-president, occupied the chair, and Mrs. G. Warwick recorded the minutes of the meeting. Mr. Gordon McOuat, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the following slate of officers for 1965-66:

Program — Mrs. W. H. Thompson.
Membership — Keith Lowe.
Hospitality — Mrs. C. Napp.
Publicity — Mrs. L. Bradley.

Mrs. W. H. Thompson, program chairman, advised the members they will be privileged to hear Monsignor H. D. J. Brosseau at the April meeting; he will speak on the subject "Education". The scholarship whist will take place April 8, at the Lachute High School.

After the business session, Mr. E. L. Jackson introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Leigh Coffin, teacher of Guidance at the High School. Mr. Coffin spoke on "The Role of the Guidance Teacher". He listed the following as main points of his work in Guidance: 1, Cumulative record; 2, Occupation information; 3, Testing program; 4, Counselling; 5, Group guidance; 6, Educational information.

Parents attending this meeting were very impressed with the work being done in Guidance at the school, and expressed amazement at the amount of literature available to students, on university training and future employment.

Mr. Coffin spoke of the changes to come in education, and in job training in this new space age. He said Guidance will help prepare students for their role in the future. Very few schools off the Island of Montreal offer Guidance as part of the curriculum. Lachute High School has reason to be proud of its complete system of education.

Mrs. L. Bradley moved a very warm vote of thanks on behalf of the members present, and further discussion was carried on in the Guidance room, where Mr. Coffin showed parents the work he is doing.

Two aged widows robbed at Rigaud

Two elderly Rigaud widows were left tied up in the early hours of Saturday by three bandits, one armed, who broke into their home and forced them to reveal the hiding place of $700 in savings bonds and cash.

Provincial Police said the two women, Mrs. Wilbrod Laframboise, 74, and Mrs. Hector Malette, 73, live alone in their home at Rigaud.

According to QPP, the men forced entry at 1 a.m. and began "slapping the women around". After several minutes of punishment the women told the bandits where $600 in savings bonds and $100 in cash were hidden.

The women were bound hand and foot by the men before they left. One of them freed herself and brought help from neighbors. The victims were treated for cuts and bruises but refused hospitalization.

Police Chief resigns at G'vl

Grenville, Que. — This community doesn't like police cars with big stars painted on them. But their police chief did — said a CP news note in the Montreal press.

Chief Jacques Prud'homme interpreted the criticism of his stars as criticism of him, and handed his resignation to the council.

Town engineer fills position here has been in the service of Lachute corporation as city engineer for the past several weeks, his term of engagement being for at least one year.

Born at Cedars, Soulanges County, in 1932, he studied at Rigaud College and l'Ecole Polytechnique. Graduating in 1958, he has been in the service of several consulting firms and, for the past year, associated with Arsenault & Garneau.

He is married and has three children, is a hockey enthusiast in winter and plays golf and tennis in summer.

Army Cadets score in rifle contest

The Lachute Cadets won the 37th Field Artillery trophy for rifle shooting last Saturday at Craig Street Armoury in Montreal. The Lachute boys defeated Greenfield Park to win the competition. The trophy was donated by Lt. Col. T. A. McLean, who presented the award after the competition. It was accepted on behalf of the Lachute group by Cadet Capt. Andrew Butterfield.

Top honors in the competition went to Cadet Lieut. Stephen Brown, of Lachute, who turned in the highest score of all cadets competing. Sgt. Harry Butterfield won a prize as the best Lachute 2nd-year cadet and Cadet R. Hotte won the 1st-year cadet award.

Before the presentation was made the Lachute Cadet Band played for a March Past in the armoury for a combined parade of the new 7th Field Battery RCA (M) and the two cadet corps.

Exciting series, annual tourney at Lennoxville

Lachute High School senior girls successfully defended their provincial basketball title at Bishop's University last Friday and Saturday. This is the third consecutive year that L.H.S. has won the McLeod Trophy, more than any other school in the history of the tournament, and the fifth time in 13 years.

It is difficult to select an outstanding player from the Lachute team, as all six members of the first line played at their highest calibre in every game. At no time was Lachute threatened through the entire tournament, thanks to the performances of Captain Sheila Owens, Elizabeth Hay, Wendy Graham, Nancy Hay, Wendy Graham, Nancy Hay, Mary Beth Painter and Barbara Underhill.

The first game was played on Friday night against Richmond High School. Lachute started off slowly (as seems to be their chief characteristic) but as the game wore on it became a one-sided affair. Six forwards hit the score sheet and as the final horn sounded, the scoreboard showed a 46-21 victory for the defending champs. Lachute was tremendous at the foul line, hitting for 16 out of 23 free throws. High scorers in the game were Nancy Hay with 20 points, Mary Beth Painter with 13, and Barbara Underhill with 9.

On Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, the highly rated Royal George High School lined up against Lachute in the second game. Lachute jumped into an early eight-point lead which they managed to maintain throughout the contest. Nancy Hay tallied for 27 points, but had excellent help from Painter and Underhill, who had 7 and 6 points respectively. In this game it was the guard unit of Owens, Graham and Elizabeth Hay that was outstanding for the winners. They were able to grab the majority of rebounds and to block shot after shot. Their defensive play enabled them to move the ball up quickly to the waiting and alert forwards. Elizabeth Hay, playing one of her best games, was lost to the team via the foul route with less than three minutes remaining in the game. The officiating was close with a total of 46 fouls being called — 28 to Royal George, 18 to Lachute. Final score of the contest — Lachute, 40; Royal George, 29.

After a good dinner, a walk, a rubdown, and a rest, the senior girls took to the hardwood at Bishop's University for the championship game at 3.30 p.m. This time it was against Sunnyside, who were not too impressive in their first two wins.

Lachute lost no time getting started, and in a matter of minutes turned the game into a rout. The forwards scored four baskets in the first minute of play, to take an 8-0 lead. The forward and guard units exhibited a display of basketball of championship calibre. The precision timing of the offensive plays was flawless, and with the consistent good playing of the guards they were able to score almost at will. At half-time the scoreboard showed a 23-11 score.

In the second half, Coach Ron MacKenzie changed lines and the team coasted home to an easy victory. Final score of the game was 36-20. High scorers were Nancy Hay with 20, and Mary Beth Painter with 10 points.

* * *

Coach MacKenzie said, after this game, that his team had "played the type of basketball that they had practiced for all year". Retired coach Bob Bailly added that a team is only as good as its competition, and Lachute was certainly in top form for this tournament. Both men stated that the officiating was close, but the best they had seen all year.

This is the last year that many of the players will be with the team. The first line has been together for the past three years and only two will be returning to the line-up. This year the team compiled a record of 19 wins against one loss. The team's record for the last three years is 58 wins and four losses in 62 games — a highly impressive record.

The team and coach wish to thank Mr. and Mrs. Don Hav, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm MacCaskill, Mr. and Mrs. Syd Painter, and Mr. Bailly, for the use of their cars and for helping in every way to make the trip successful. A great deal of thanks must go to Miss Jean Rogers, manager of the team for the last three years, for the professional way in which she looked after her girls. Thanks also to the Lachute fans who supported the club at this tournament.

Parade, reception to honor champion schoolgirls' team

A parade and reception next Saturday afternoon will honor the Lachute High School senior girls' basketball team, who last week brought to Lachute the provincial schools championship and the McLeod Trophy for the third consecutive year.

The parade will leave Lowe's Dairy at 2 p.m., and will feature a special float carrying the triumphant team. The Army Cadet Band will play martial airs to accompany them. Arriving at the school, there will be speeches and a social interlude in the school auditorium, followed by refreshments.

This demonstration is sparked by Art Whiteway, chairman of the Home and School, with assistance of Capt. Robt. Haydon, Cadet O/C, and members of the Home and School Association.

School Regional Planning "Operation 55" has spurred numerous meetings of planning committees, both for the Catholic and the Protestant regional school boards. With regionalization in progress among the surrounding school municipalities, another such meeting was held last week by the Catholic planning committee, in preparation for its report to be presented to the board in early April. Seen above at this committee assembly are — Marc Fortin, of St. Jerome (vice-president); Rev. Sister Jeanne de Domrémy, of St. Jerome (secretary); and Roger E. W. W. Cottingham on U.N. committee in interests of English-speaking voters

English-speaking supporters of the Union Nationale will soon have a bigger say in the activities and destinies of the party.

Ernest Larkin, chairman of the committee on inter-racial relations, called a committee of English-speaking delegates at the party conference in Montreal last week; Mr. Larkin announced a project to set up sections in Quebec for this minority group.

"Our leader, Daniel Johnson, has indicated that a conference is being planned in the near future where English-speaking voters are in the excess of 10 per cent of the total number of electors in the constituency," he said.

Furthermore, the committee will submit to the political committee a resolution to provide for allowances to students from other provinces attending universities in Quebec.

The committee held two sittings which were attended by Mr. Johnson, Jean-Jacques Bertrand, William Cottingham, MPP, and Raymond Johnston, MPP.

Four major resolutions were adopted by the committee, two of which were unanimously carried by the general meeting.

Must Be Bilingual

Adopted by the convention were two motions, one requiring that publications of the secretariat be bilingual, and the second, that the party declare itself in favor of the hiring of qualified teachers in all schools of the province for the teaching of the French language in English schools and of the English language in French schools.

The two other proposals slated for submission to the party's political committee: "that all necessary steps be taken to improve the editorial content of 'Le Temps' — party organ — which should avoid petty politics; and that the party declare itself formally opposed to Separatism."

Decision of the general meeting to "show more consideration for the English-speaking group" followed a number of complaints that they had been considered somewhat as poor relations.

Charged with sale of beer, liquor

A restaurant proprietor from Laurel will appear in St. Jerome court shortly, following a raid on his establishment last week-end when local Q.P.P. officers seized 18 cases of beer and some liquor. According to reports received by the police, the restaurant has been an outlet for beer and liquor for some time — the proprietor holding no license for the sale of these items.

By BOB ATCHISON

A letter the other day from Red Deer, Alberta, had me guessing for a time. It turned out to be from W. Prosser, an old resident of Brownsburg, who had read the article on the pike being caught in La Baie at St. Placide. He had enclosed a clipping from the local paper of a pike taken by two of the boys from the Red Deer fish and game club, 17 lbs. 15 ounces; it sure was a nice streamlined fish. Of course I don't know just how big they catch them around his area, but it should be good enough for a prize anyway.

I received a phone call the other day from a lady, about snakes. It appears she had let her children play with a small grass snake during the summer, and some of the people were horrified at this. But to my way of thinking this is a commendable way to teach youngsters the wonders of Nature. I believe if more mothers would teach the young ones about these things, there would be a lot less needless killing. Almost everyone has a natural fear of a snake, yet when we look at things squarely, this seems foolish. In this area we are never going to be plagued by poisonous types. As a matter of fact, there are only two areas in the whole of Canada where they roam, that is, the southern and southwestern regions of the Great Lakes, and the southern coast of B.C. In southern Ontario the Massasagua rattlesnake is the culprit, while on the Coast it is the Pine rattler. From every account I have ever read, there never has been a poisonous snake in the Province of Quebec. Most people think a snake is slimy and dirty, I don't know where this idea got going, as all snakes are dry and very clean. This information is surely incorrect; they are one of the very few animals that don't carry human disease, not like some other pets. They can be trained to respond to noise, and they really make very good pets. You'll never have any vermin around, that's for sure. I have been told they become very affectionate after a while.

Have any of you taken a good look at the Ottawa River near Hawkesbury recently? This is one stinking mess. As yet, not too much is visible, due to the ice around, but what can be seen is disgusting. I wrote about the North River last week, telling you how bad this was; but it's nothing compared to the Ottawa. Most of us forget all about pollution, industrial or otherwise, when the ice forms on the rivers, yet this is the worst time of all for this. With the air and sun excluded, filth has a field day, cutting off oxygen supply and all life-giving elements.

I think the strangest thing is the lack of concern from ordinary householders, on just what is happening to our waters. With all the influence of women's clubs, men's clubs, etc., if we ever got together on this, the governments would really do something. It is hard to visualize really clean waters now, after so long a siege of pollution, but maybe one of these years people will start to pay some attention to what's happening. The most powerful organizations in the world today are our clubs and organizations, yet they seem to ignore this vital problem.

We have plenty of black squirrels around just now. A few of us thought, with the heavy warfare that prevailed last fall, they would all have been killed; but I'm happy to see they weren't. However, the chipmunks are really scarce. These little things are so trusting, I guess they really got hit. It's nice to hear them chattering away, the little tail perking in rhythm with the chattering, and the shrill scolding they give you.

* * *

Anyone taking a walk in the bush these days will get a surprise, especially if there have been cutting operations going on. One of the spots I have not visited for a long time, has been cut over; not a thing has been left standing. I've often wondered in cases like this, if the cutters ever think of the damage they do to almost everything that lives in the woods. In one particular spot, up on a slope that drains down towards a small creek, they must realize that in clearing like this they have made this open spot fair game for erosion. Moreover, no wild animal will inhabit this area for goodness knows how long, if ever. I know most cutters are on a tight piece-work basis, so they cannot be bothered too much with details like this; but maybe the owners could think of it.

Some of you may have been reading the set-to on the wolf situation in Northern Ontario. There are two schools of thought — one, to get rid of every wolf in the land, and the other, for killing in moderation, in co-operation with Nature herself. I think this also applies to our own area. Many people are out for the wolf by fair means or foul. In some cases they are convinced their hatred is justified; others are not so bloodthirsty and wish to take it easy. Of course, there are wolves with us right now, in this immediate district, but I don't thnk there are as many as has been stated. In one case, I was told there would be at least 25 in one pack. Some people are asking why they are down this far in such numbers. I think this can be answered very easily, by the rough hunting season last year, and the slaughter of everything that walked, swam or flew. The wolf is out for food — and is entitled to it, to my way of thinking — but if all game is cleared out by human intruders, then he has to go somewhere else. That "somewhere else" happens to be our County, this time. Once food becomes plentiful then they will be gone.

Ice is still thick on the lakes, so you poor fishermen dreaming of the sport, may forget about it for a while yet. I was surprised at the depth of ice in some parts of the West River. In this case, of course, the current will have its effect, once it floods; but not on the lakes. There is at least two feet of ice on some of them, and (I have been told) three feet on others. No fishing yet. . .

A couple of queries on the weighted fly for spinning: It seems an article appeared in one of the sports magazines about them, and these flies were supposed to be new. Believe me, they are not, by any means. To my limited knowledge they have been tied and on the market for many, many years. Excellent both for spinning and casting, they sure take fish. A smaller type is made for the fly rod — this for those days when you have to get your baits right down near the bottom. In fly work, no great distance can be obtained; but with the heavier ones in spinning, they will travel just as far and as deep as other types of baits. Good fish-getters.

* * *

Most fishermen don't even give this type of lure a thought, yet it is one of the best for spinning. With feathers and hair, it gives the appearance of motion all the time. On top of this, they can be tied up to resemble anything at all. Another real pip, but never used by most, is the Bass Bug. This can be utilized very well on a spinning rod; fair distances can be obtained, and some whopping results, too. Not only do these things take bass, but trout also. All fish will take a surface insect or bug at some time, so why not the Bass Bug. Actually, the only reason it's called this is due to the bass being a very good surface feeder, more so than the trout. But you should try them once in a while.

Fish regulations just released

Quebec — The Hon. Gérard Cournoyer, Minister of Tourism, Fish and Game, has just released the new 1965 edition of Fishing Regulations in Quebec.

The folder-type publication is more easily read than the previous editions. It unfolds like a road map and, through a color scheme, the three zones where minnow fishing applies are easily checked, as well as the two districts for speckled trout fishing.

The general regulations valid from April, 1965, to March 31, 1966, are easily ascertained as the text has been reduced to a minimum of words; the special regulations enforced in the Parks and the Preserves are set in a special table.

While the French edition will have a circulation of 350,000 copies, the English edition will carry 100,000 copies, to be distributed mainly to tourists from the U.S. and the Canadian provinces.

The folder can be secured free of charge by applying at the district office of the Department, at any sports shop where fishing licenses are sold, or from any local game warden.

CURLING CLUB

Visiting rinks, from all around the countryside, will be wending their way to Lachute during the next two weeks. The occasion — the Annual Spring Bonspiel of the Lachute Curling Club. This is the highlight of the winter program at the Club, and Saturday saw it off to a good start. Rinks representing 11 clubs, not including Lachute, competed on the first day, and some very fine curling held the interest of the spectators. Congratulations to Dr. R. Nadeau (skip) and the rink from Chantecler, who scored the greatest number of points in the first section. We will be seeing this rink again during the playdowns on Saturday, April 3.

Over the years the members of the Lachute club have worked conscientiously and unselfishly to promote the Annual Spring Bonspiel into the highly successful and popular status which it holds today. The renown of the hospitality and camaraderie of our Club depends, if we wish this accomplishment to continue, on the support of each and every member. Let the Club be your rendez-vous for the duration of the bonspiel. Betake yourselves there; your guests too will be welcome. Meet the visiting rinks, make them feel at home, enjoy the warm feeling of a handclasp as you greet an old friend. What can be nicer than to relax in a pleasant atmosphere, and to chat with known acquaintances or find new ones.

Dinners, also a noteworthy attraction of the bonspiel, will as in the past years be served each evening by the Ladies' Club. Different menu each evening; excellent food served graciously. Members, come and dine, watch the curling, and extend cordiality to our visitors!

Monday, 22nd, was the opening day of the Dominion Legion Bonspiel at Drummondville, Que. Syd Drew, Dick MacLean, Bud Langille and Ed McFaul, winners of the provincial playdowns, left Sunday for Drummondville to do their utmost to return to Lachute with top honors. They carry the hopes and very best wishes of all members of both the Curling Club and the Legion Branch.

Lachute Ladies' CURLING Activities

One might say that the clubhouse was bursting at the seams on March 16 with all that gay, festive and hectic activity going on. "Never was so much done for so many by so many". Gala Day, Prize-Giving and the Closing Tea combined. The conveners had everything running like clockwork, and our appreciation for all their work is boundless.

The masquerade costumes were great fun and the prize winners were — first, Grace White, dressed as "Mary Had a Little Lamb"; Muriel Giles, "Old King Cole"; Annie McFaul, "Queen of Hearts"; Helen Brown, "Puss in Boots"; (Mrs. Lorne) Isabel Duncan, "Tom Sawver"; Ethel McOuat, "Big Bad Wolf"; Leona MacKimmie and Pat MacLean, "The Old Lady Who Lived in a Shoe"; and Doris Drew, "Wee Willie Winkie". The judges had the usual difficult decisions to make, and our thanks go to them for a job well done.

The Gala Day curling winners were — Eleanor MacKimmie (skip), Pat Walker, Betty Gordon and Amy McMahon. This team also won the "MacGibbon-MacHungerbuhler Trophy" which is a fun item passed on from year to year to the Gala Day curling winners. The runners-up were Freida Armstrong (skip), Doris Drew, Helen McOuat and Joyce Rendell.

During the luncheon period, a three-part skit was enacted by Jean Stein, Eileen Rutherford, Pat MacLean and Leona MacKimmie; the subject was topical and hilarious, and was a good addition to the Gala Day shenanigans.

The winners of the Ladder games which have been played during the year, were the rink of Leona MacKimmie (skip), Bobby McFaul, Pat MacLean and Lena Bradshaw.

Well, the curling season has drawn to a close. It has been a very busy one and we are all extremely proud of the trophies that have been won, the good fellowship that has prevailed throughout; and no doubt the brooms that really need a workout will now be wielded with the same vim and vigor that has been used on the ice. (? — Ed.) This is Adieu for this year. — See you on the golf course!

Winners of the semi-final series and now "on their way" — Lachute's Junior "B" hockey squad, who won the first of the final 3-out-of-5 playoffs, defeating St. Jerome 3-1 at Brownsburg Arena last Saturday. The Lachute boys were also winners in the season's schedule. — Photo, Syd Drew

On St. Patrick's Day at the local club it made no never-mind if "Your Mother Came from Ireland". This was the date picked for the Ladies' Gala Day — the theme was, "The Wearin' o' the Green".

Some fantastic Irishmen were seen on the ice, and, believe it or not, some came painted green. The Irish Witch stole the day. She was everywhere, cackling away, haunting the club, even showing the men curlers how the game should be played. On her arrival no one had a clue as to her identity. Even her best friends and business associates did not recognize her. . . (Fern Pilon, you took first prize for costumes. Have you ever considered Broadway? Your acting was terrific.)

The second prize went to Hazel Davidson, whose get-up was a work of art. (Hazel, have you ever considered modelling for St. Patrick Day cards?)

The prizes for the curling in the afternoon on Gala Day went to Doris MacGibbon's rink, with Jessie Dimock, Elsie Morrow and Lila Murdoch. In the evening the curling for the Business Girls was won by Marion Duncan (skip), Lucienne Whelan, Lorna Cairns and Irma Martin.

Pot-luck supper was served by some of the social members, and a grand old singsong concluded a most successful day.

Senior — Ethel McGibbon (skip), Iris Hardie, Phyllis Tomalty, Vi Hazel.

Runners-up — Helen Martin (skip), Audrey Bourne, Ida Cruise, Jessie Dimock.

Junior — Monique Lafleur (skip), Marg Broadfoot, Marg Picard.

These contests proved most popular, and repeats next year have been asked for.

* * *

Hap Tomalty skipped his rink to a win in the finals of the Men's Double knock-out bonspiel, held on March 19. He was supported by Dave Atkins, Jimmy Dixon-Smith and George Clark. The Consolation was taken by Gerry Tomalty (skip), Berry Bourne, Garry Payne and Armand Gagné.

The Molson's mixed bonspiel, a double knock-out, is now in play. With the many Brownsburg entries in the Lachute Open this week, it is expected that the men will be kept busy dashing from one rink to the other!

The Lachute Junior "B" Club opened the final playoffs last Saturday afternoon at the Brownsburg Arena as they whipped the St. Jerome team by a score of 3-1, to take a 1-0 lead in the best-3-out-of-5 series.

The game was a wild and woolly affair, as there was a total of 18 penalties called during the game, nine to each team.

The first period went scoreless. However, at the 59-second mark of the second period Johnny Labelle swept in and grabbed a loose puck in the St. Jerome end, to score an unassisted goal. Then at the 8.35 Goyetch scored what turned out to be the winning goal on passes from Labelle and Mike Lowe, making the score 2-0 in favor of the locals, where the period ended.

In the third period it was again Goyetch, who scored the third goal on passes from Labelle and Hadley. This goal was the insurance-marker, as the locals coasted from there on — St. Jerome spoiling Girard's shut-out with a goal by Petit at the 12-minute mark.

The Lachute Juniors received bad news last week when it was learned that Allan Bates, who had been called up by the Junior "A" St. Jerome, had broken his collar bone in Victoriaville and would be out of action for the balance of the season.

The second game of the series was billed for St. Jerome Arena on Tuesday, March 23, and the third game will be at the Brownsburg Arena on Sunday, March 29, at 2.30. It is hoped that everyone will turn up Sunday afternoon and give these juniors some well deserved support.

Mr. and Mrs. Omer Gagné, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Cruise and family, spent the week-end in Montreal with Mr. and Mrs. D. Hunter.

Mrs. Muriel Tomalty spent part of last week in Pembroke, Ont., as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Tomalty and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brosseau, and family, of Granby, were week-end guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Smillie.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Fennell and daughter, Marilyn, of St. Lambert, and Miss D. King, of Toronto, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Prosser and of other relatives here.

"Capping" Ceremony

Northern Grenville

Visitors at Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Hoare's during the week-end were Mrs. Ethel Hoare, of Grande Ligne, Que., Mr. R. H. Keatley, of Courtice, Ont., Miss Annie Keatley, Miss Bernice Hoare and Mr. John Cobey, of Ottawa, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Jackson, of Brownsburg.

Friends of little Miss Debby Mott, of Calumet, are sorry to know she underwent an appendix operation in the Smith Clinic, Hawkesbury. Wishes are extended for her speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. John Arthurs motored to Port Colborne last week-end to visit the former's mother, Mrs. Samson Arthurs, who has been in ill health for some time. Mrs. Arthurs has been with her daughter, Mrs. Ancel Young and Mr. Young, for the past few months.

Visitors during the week-end at Mr. and Mrs. Wyman Young's were — Mr. and Mrs. Percy Herron, Mrs. A. Mills and daughter, Miss Patty Mills, also Miss Susan Johnston and Miss Ruth McDonald, of Montreal; Mr. William Bryant, of Mansonville; Mr. Willis Young, of Aylmer; Mr. Ernest Fife, of Ottawa.

Bereavements

Sincere sympathy of friends in this community is extended to the wife and family of the late Mr. Ross Barclay, of Pointe Fortune; also to Mr. and Mrs. Leo Larocque, of Pointe Fortune, whose little son was accidentally drowned; and to the family and friends of the late Mrs. Thos. Hoare, Sr.

G'vl resident, 82, died suddenly, mourned by many

Late Christopher P. Wheeler

On March 7 the family and friends of Christopher P. Wheeler were grieved to learn of his sudden death, at the age of 82, at his home in Grenville.

Mr. Wheeler was born on November 25, 1882, a son of the late John Wheeler and his wife, Elizabeth Diamond, in Princeton, B.B., Newfoundland. He was one of a family of nine children.

In 1892 the family moved to Boston, Mass., and in 1904 Mr. Wheeler came to Canada, where he married Gertrude Campbell in March, 1908.

He leaves to mourn his passing his wife and two daughters, Ethel (Mrs. Wm. Young) of Lachute, and Hildred (Mrs. Richard Young) of Grenville; also one sister, Irene (Mrs. Leonard Connant) of Lynnfield, Mass., nine grandchildren and 22 great-grandchildren.

The funeral was held on March 9 from the chapel of the New Grenville Funeral Home. The Rev. G. A. Hunt officiated. The organist was Mrs. Dora McLeod. Hymns sung were, "Will Your Anchor Hold" and "Blest be the Tie that Binds". A favorite hymn of the deceased, "The Old Rugged Cross", was sung by Mrs. Fred Moore, of Grenville.

Pall-bearers were four grandsons, Mervin, William, George and Winston Young, Gerald Noble and Alton Nixon. Interment was in Harrington East Cemetery.

In addition to many lovely floral tributes, there were donations to the Gideons and the Bible Society.

Bell Falls

Mr. Reg Page and Miss Audrey Page, of Ottawa, visited Mr. and Mrs. Henry Page. Mrs. Page returned to Ottawa with them to visit her sister, Mrs. Deeks.

Visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Erving MacLean were Mr. and Mrs. J. Carmen and family, Mr. and Mrs. Dougal MacLean, of Ottawa, and Mr. and Mrs. Carmen, Sr., of East Templeton.

Mrs. M. Young, of Marelan, visited her grandfather, Mr. John MacRae, recently.

Mr. Joseph Page spent the week-end visiting Mr. and Mrs. Guy Nixon, and Mr. and Mrs. John Page, in Grenville.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Downing, of Harrington, visited Mr. and Mrs. E. MacLeod on Monday.

80th Milestone

Mrs. W. H. Warren, a long-time resident of Bell Falls, attained her 80th birthday on Monday, March 22. Although confined to her home, Mrs. Warren remains cheerful and congenial.

Friends and neighbors called to extend birthday wishes, and Mrs. Warren received cards from distant acquaintances.

B'bg High School week's activities

— By Sandra Hall —

Activities at B.H.S. are settling back into their normal pattern after a week of examinations. Before the exams, Mrs. Dixon, the Grade V teacher, organized two interviews — five boys questioned Mr. Harold Barber, a member of the Brownsburg Town Council, on matters concerning municipal government; five girls interviewed Mrs. Charles Prosser, the president of the Women's Institute of Brownsburg, and the main topic of discussion was our new Canadian flag.

These 10 student representatives reported back to their class a detailed summary of what they had learned. After class discussion, each student was asked to write a paragraph dealing with the two topics. It is hoped that some of these paragraphs will appear in the school newspaper, The Triumph.

* * *

On Tuesday, March 9, Lachute and Brownsburg students competed in the Lions' Club annual public speaking contest, at the Lachute Legion Hall. David Welburn, George Dixon, Eileen Paulson and Diane Taylor represented Brownsburg. David was the first-place winner in the English-speaking boys' division, and George Dixon second, while Eileen placed second in the English girls' group. David will advance to further elimination on April 10 at St. Lambert. We all wish him luck.

On March 25 Grades X and XI will visit Ottawa, where they will see the Royal Mint, National Library, the House of Commons, and the cafeteria in the Parliament Buildings. Everyone looks forward to an interesting experience.

Calgary wedding of interest to B'burg residents

Albrecht - Taylor

The marriage of Miss Patricia-Rae Taylor, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Taylor, of Calgary, Alta., and Mr. Taco Reiner Albrecht, younger son of Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Albrecht, of Edmonton, was solemnized on Thursday, March 4, in St. Martin's Anglican Church, Calgary, the Rev. E. Wallace officiating.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a two-piece suit of white brocaded silk. Her shoulder-length veil was held by a tiny crown of pearls and sequins, and she carried a bouquet of white and red roses.

Miss Diane Watwood was maid of honor, wearing a turquoise suit, accessories to match and carrying a bouquet of roses and carnations.

Mr. Gerald Dewitt acted as best man and the ushers were Mr. Peter Taylor, brother of the bride, and Mr. Godard Albrecht, brother of the groom.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Lone Pine Supper Lounge. Mr. Gerald Dewitt proposed the toast to the bride. Telegrams from the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy MacAdam, and aunts and uncles at Brownsburg, also from the bride's grandmother in England, were read by Mr. Dean Prosser, of Red Deer, Alta.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Taco Albrecht will reside in Calgary, where the groom is a student at the University of Alberta.

APPRECIATION

I wish to thank all friends who visited me in hospital and remembered me with flowers and cards.

— Mrs. Gordon Tomalty, Brownsburg

APPRECIATION

I wish to thank relatives, friends and neighbors for cards, flowers and kindness shown while I was at the Smith Clinic, Hawkesbury.

THOUSANDS AGREE... IT'S FUN TO WIN CASH IN 4 IN-A-ROW or OF-A-KIND!

Everyday, there are more happy winners in "4-In-A-Row or 4-Of-A-Kind" and there are a lot more to come. Imagine, you could be the very next person to win a big cash prize in this truly exciting game.
While thousands agree that it's fun to win cash in "4-In-A-Row" . . . it's still mainly because of the meat that more Canadians shop at Dominion than at any other store. That's because Dominion meats are naturally tender, and give you natural flavour and natural goodness everytime! Take the time to discover this important difference at Dominion. And remember, people at Dominion are more courteous, more friendly! Come and see!

Conference here on Anglican parish education role

The Deanery of St. Andrews took an introductory look at the new Anglican Parish Program on Saturday last, when representatives from surrounding parishes met at St. Simeon's Church, Lachute.

The Rev. W. Asbil and Mr. John Lawrence, from Montreal, led the conference. Their presentation of the objective of religious education led to some interesting discussions. The 27 persons attending found the conference most interesting and enlightening. A further conference is to be held in the early summer.

CARD OF THANKS

A most sincere thank-you to the doctors and nursing staff of the Smith Clinic, for their wonderful care and kindness to me during my stay in hospital. Also deeply appreciated were the cards, gifts, letters, flowers, telephone calls and visits from friends and relatives. A special thank-you to Rev. Mr. McGowan and Rev. Mr. Thompson, for their very helpful visits. - Lorraine Mooney

What World Conditions Mean

When the news tells of global war, devastating earthquakes and outbreaks of disease and famine, the world is gripped by fear. Is there any valid reason to react otherwise? Yes! These things occurring in unprecedented measure all in one generation comprise the visible sign of Christ's return in heavenly glory. They mean woe for the old world and point to its early end, but they prove that deliverance is near for those who fear God and keep his commandments. Jesus said: "As these things start to occur, raise yourselves erect and lift your heads up, because your deliverance is getting near . . . when you see these things occurring, know that the kingdom of God is near. Truly I say to you, this generation will by no means pass away until all things occur." (Luke 21:28-32) We are living in that generation.

How important, then, to stay awake, to keep balanced, to be informed of the significance of the vital issues of our day. The magazine Awake! is dedicated to help you do just that. It is not narrow in scope but presents knowledge from many fields of human endeavor. While squarely facing the problems of our day, it realistically points to the establishment of God's righteous new world.

This semi-monthly 32-page magazine may be had for one year at the subscription rate of $1 by mailing your request to — Watch Tower, 150 Bridgeland Ave., Toronto 19, Ont.

Bible conference held in Lachute by French Baptists

Last Saturday some 70 or 80 representatives from seven French-speaking Evangelical Baptist Churches gathered at Lachute Baptist Church for a Bible conference.

The French-speaking pastors and assistants in attendance were the Rev. J. R. Flahaut, of St. Jean, the Rev. Elisée Beau, the Rev. William. Frey, the Rev. Fernand Petit-Clerc, and the Rev. Weldon Clark of the Greater Montreal area; the Rev. Wilfrid J. Wellington and the Rev. T. D. M. Carson, of Hull; and the Rev. Cotnoir, of Maniwaki.

After a time of hearty gospel singing, reading of the Scriptures and prayer, the Rev. Mr. Carson gave a challenging and inspiring message from the Gospel of John (ch. 12). The speaker for the closing session in the afternoon was the Rev. William Frey, pastor of the French-speaking Evangelical Baptist Church of Verdun, who with his usual ability and his long experience held his audience in rapt attention.

A special feature of the afternoon was a question box, containing many questions of vital importance which were placed in the box at the noon hour. These were answered by a panel of pastors consisting of the Revs. Frey, Carson, Beau, Flahaut and Petit-Clerc. The Rev. Mr. Wellington presided over the panel and presented the questions, which contained a wide range of subjects dealing with one's personal relationship with God, matters of Bible doctrine and Christian conduct.

The feeling generally expressed was that this was a time of spiritual blessing and edification for all concerned.

It may be of interest to many that the Rev. Weldon Clark, of Chomedey, is at present conducting meetings in the French language here, on Sundays at 7.30 p.m. and Tuesdays at 8 p.m.

DEATH

HOARE — Mrs. Elizabeth Hoare (Keatley), beloved wife of the late Thos. Hoare, passed away at her home on March 18, 1965. Funeral held from her late residence on Saturday, March 20, at 2 p.m. Burial in the Calumet Protestant Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

BRYSON (Daniel) — In loving memory of a beloved husband and dad, who passed away four years ago, March 26, 1961. — Rose, Eileen, Susan, David.
"Wherever we may wander Thoughts of you are ever near."

BRYSON (Daniel) — In loving memory of a dear son and brother who passed away March 26, 1961. — Always remembered by Dad and family.
"Life goes on and years pass by,
But treasured memories never die."

GILES (John S.) — In fond remembrance of J. S. Giles, publisher of The Watchman, who died March 20, 1963. — Remembered by his family and staff.

KARR — In loving memory of a dear sister, Louise, April 1, 1952; and her husband, Samuel, Jan. 14, 1948. — Lilly McPhee.

STONARD — In cherished memory of my beloved husband, William Charles Stonard, who passed away March 28, 1962.
"In my heart you are always near,
Loved and missed and always dear."

TASSE (Joseph) — In loving memory of a dear father, who passed away March 20, 1959. — Sadly missed and always remembered by Catherine and Ruby.
"March comes with deep regret,
It brings back a day we'll never forget;
Like falling leaves the time slips by
But memories of you Dad, will never die."

THOMPSON — In loving memory of Mother, and Granny, Sarah Edith Hutton, who passed away March 31, 1964; also Father, James Thompson who passed away April 14, 1947. — Ever remembered by Cyrus, Joyce, Adele.
"Memories keep you ever near"

TODD — In fond memory of a devoted wife and mother, Mrs. Allan Todd, who passed away suddenly March 24, 1964. — Always remembered by W. A. Allan Todd and family.

YOUNG — In loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. Joseph Young, who passed away March 31, 1959. — Fondly remembered by the family.
"Every day, dear Mother, you are very close to us,
We hear your comforting words
And see your loving smile,
And those dear, sweet memories
To us make life worthwhile."

Social and Personal

Dr. and Mrs. Donald McFadden and family, of Waterville, Maine, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Sharman Doig.

Dr. Marc Papineau and Dr. John MacKimmie attended courses in Cardiovascular and Metabolic Diseases held last week by the post-graduate board of the Royal Victoria Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Brown with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Blute, of Chomedey, were in Ottawa last Saturday to visit Mr. and Mrs. Elton Boyd (the former Lily Brown) on their 10th wedding anniversary.

Approaching Marriage

Mr. and Mrs. Orval Gunn announce the engagement of the former's only daughter, Joyce Elsie, of Toronto, to Mr. Donald Gordon Young, also of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Young, of St. John's, Newfoundland. The wedding will take place April 17 at Toronto, Ont.

Mrs. T. Bishop has been spending a winter vacation in Tucson, Arizona.

Marriage Announced

Mrs. Nancy Coulton and Mr. Neal Moore wish to announce their marriage, which took place Monday, February 22, at Altadena, California.

Bridge Club

1. D. Seary, S. Seary
2. Baron and Baroness E. H. Falkenhausen.
3. Miss N. Murphy, Mrs. M. Filfe.
4. Mrs. G. R. Rigby, Mrs. R. Blair.
5. Mrs. G. Randall, Mrs. G. Davidson.
6. R. Leclair, G. Guilbert.

The Club is most grateful to Jones Insurance Inc. for their donation of 1,000 wooden spoons; also to the Dominion, I.G.A., A&P, and Red & White Stores, for their donations of groceries.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Landry, of Canadian Tire Corpn. store in Lachute, attended a dealers' convention in Toronto recently.

Numerous parents and friends were in Lennoxville last Saturday — some also the previous afternoon — to accompany the Lachute High School senior basketball girls and to cheer them on to victory. The outcome, reported elsewhere in The Watchman, rewarded the efforts of the girls and their trainers, and retained the provincial championship for L.H.S.

Attended Funeral

Mrs. D. Smith and daughter left on Sunday for Sault Ste. Marie to attend the funeral of her uncle, Mr. Thomas Sutton.

Mr. Sutton was a brother of the late Henry Sutton of Lachute and of the late Mrs. Wm. Boyd of Louisa. A brother, Mr. Robert Sutton of Sault Ste. Marie, is the only surviving member of this family.

Annual meetings by W.I. branches held this month

Arundel W.I. held its annual meeting with election of officers for 1965. Arrangements were made for a sewing class from March 29 to April 2, to be conducted by Mrs. Wells.

Brownsburg members enjoyed an annual supper given by the Anglican Church ladies. The roll-call was answered by the payment of fees. A yearly report was heard from each convener. The installation of officers was conducted by the County president, Mrs. Chas. Stephens.

Frontier branch answered their roll-call by the payment of fees. New officers were installed, and all conveners gave interesting reports. Fair work and a sewing course were under discussion.

Dalesville members heard yearly reports from conveners. The roll-call was answered with payment of fees. A new slate of officers was installed. Two minutes' silence was observed in memory of a faithful member, Mrs. A. Kennedy.

Jerusalem - Bethany heard interesting yearly reports from conveners. A quilt was sold, made by the members, who also worked on plans for a play.

Lakefield members paid their fees as answer to the roll call. The annual meeting was mostly devoted to preparing the branch program for 1965.

Mille Isles branch heard conveners' reports. They sent a donation to the Senior Citizens' Home fund, in memory of two deceased members. This branch contributed to book prizes for the Morin Heights High School.

Pioneer members enjoyed their annual meeting, with 14 members and visitors at a noon luncheon. Reports of the standing committees were heard.

Upper Lachute - East End also held their annual meeting with installation of officers. Conveners' reports showed an active year. Two quilts were donated to the Red Cross — one of these having been made by a senior member.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

ARTHURS — The family of the late Mrs. James Arthurs wish to thank relatives and friends for their kindness in sending cards, floral tributes, donations to Gideon Bibles, and memoriams to the Avoca Baptist Church, also visits to the funeral home and attendance at the funeral. Special thanks to Dr. Dunn and the Rev. H. Hill.

WHEELER — The wife and family of the late Chris Wheeler thank relatives and friends for their thoughtfulness in sending cards and flowers, and other acts of kindness, in their time of sorrow. Special thanks to Dr. C. Bowes, the Rev. A. G. Hunt and Mr. Gilbert Campbell.

'Witnesses' meet this week-end in 3-day convention

About 23 delegates from Lachute area will attend a three-day convention of the Jehovah's Witnesses, March 26 to 28, at Rosemount High School.

Mr. Henry Purucker, presiding minister of the group, points out to his congregation the need today for men and women with the courage to speak the truth boldly, making "public declaration for salvation".

Said the minister, "The theme of the convention is 'Willingly Fulfill Your Ministry', and the object is to further the continuous training program of our teaching and preaching fellowship in order to equip each one in the practical use of the Bible".

The Friday night program will include a demonstration showing how Jehovah's Witnesses carry on their work, and their meetings in Iron Curtain countries and in countries such as Jordan, where the work is banned.

One of the highlights of the convention will be the Bible talk, "The Moral Breakdown — What Can Be Done About It?" to be delivered by Mr. Laurier Saumur, Quebec supervisor. The public are cordially invited to attend this free Bible lecture at 3 p.m., Sunday, March 28, at Rosemount High School.

Cadet bandsmen canvass funds for instruments

The Lachute Army Cadet band will call on citizens of the community this Thursday, Friday and Saturday with the hope and aim of raising money to purchase additional instruments for their band. The band has been in existence only two years and is already enjoying popularity and success.

Capt. Robert Haydon, and Art Whiteway, the bandmaster, hope to have 35 boys playing with the band within a year. There is great interest among the boys in the band, and a waiting list of over 20 cadets. All that is needed is money to buy instruments.

The cadets will be in uniform and will carry identity cards. All donations will be much appreciated by both the boys and the officers. . . "Help the community by helping the cadets."

The only difference between these two cars is 27 years and 2,109 improvements.

Which is why you see so many VWs. And still have trouble telling which model year you're looking at.

When we improve the Volkswagen, we don't fool about with the style. We work on the works. For good reason.

For instance, in 1952, we put vents on the front side windows. And in 1956, we redesigned the gas tank so you'd have more luggage space up front.

We made first gear synchromesh in 1961. To let you shift down from second to first without stopping. (We made a lot of lady drivers happy with that one.)

What about this year? Well, there are 17 improvements for 1965 alone.

Every single window on the '65 VW is just a little bit bigger. The back seat folds down so you can use the entire rear of the car for suitcases and such.

The steering assembly is completely maintenance free. We made our windshield wipers to do a better job.

So although the Volkswagen may look the same to you every year, it does change. A fender from that '65 VW will bolt easily onto that 1938 model.

That way, if you drive an old VW and something wears out, you don't have to worry about getting parts.

And if nothing wears out, you don't have to worry about the shape you're in.

Easter Seals

AT THIS TIME of year there are numerous appeals and campaigns to which The Watchman lends support. And it is pleased to do so, for no matter how far, as a community, we may "consolidate" our charities, there are still deserving causes whose nature and scope give them an identity all their own.

An appeal to which we personally enthuse at this season, is the Easter Seals campaign for crippled children. At the contributing end, it is painless; but in results, it has achieved great things. Perhaps it is our more personal insight into these achievements which sparks our zeal in its support.

On behalf of the Quebec Society for Crippled Children, the sponsor of Easter Seals in this community is Lachute Lions Club. And by this token, the club is entrusted with the fair portion of proceeds to be dispensed in this area. (It is perhaps our association with these expenditures, as a clubman, which gives the "personal insight" and commands our particular interest.)

Thanks to public support, the Lachute Lions Club were privileged to play a large part in the newly constructed Lions' Memorial Pavilion at St. Alphonse de Joliette crippled children's camp. This structure fills a pressing need as a dining, recreation and administrative building. Pictures of the opening, with starry-eyed inmates in orthopedic braces and wheelchairs, told a memorable story. . . But this, and many instances of local aid, are not a complete picture, by any means. For Easter Seals go a long way in a broader sense — providing hospital treatments, transportation, rehabilitation centres and curative programs; and, equally important though less visible to the public eye, medical research.

When Easter Seals reach you in the mail, we hope that, in the spirit of the season, you will use these seals and spread their message. Your return remittance in the pink envelope will help in a material and appreciable way.

Fighting words, from a lady

TWENTY-TWO traffic deaths occurred in this immediate area last year, and 75 per cent of these cases were attributed by the Provincial Police to a combination of speed and alcohol. . . This is the paraphrase of a headline in The Watchman (March 3), which by this time leaves no impression whatever on the reader's mind!

In reconsidering, it would be well to realize that many of these fatalities from speed and alcohol occurred to persons who were not imbibers, nor excessive speeders. They were just — the victims, mown down by these offenders.

It's a repetitious theme. The Watchman writes in vain, we know it. But once in a while there comes a gleam of light, to intimate there MAY be some improvement around the corner. One such instance was the outburst when Premier Lesage, last year, was at the receiving end of a highway accident; but the reform movement was shortlived; insurance rates continue to climb. . .

Comes another spark of encouragement this month: Without being unduly optimistic, we cite these sentiments from Quebec's new Minister of Transport and Communications, the Hon. Claire Kirkland-Casgrain, speaking before the Road Safety Council of the Saguenay - Lac St. Jean district.

"Let it be understood that as long as I am Minister of Transport and Communications, there shall be no question of toning down the enforcement of our Highway Code. On the contrary, judging by the flow of correspondence to my office, I am convinced that I speak for the vast majority of the citizens of this province when I state that greater efforts must be deployed and stricter measures must be undertaken to ensure the full enforcement of the Highway Code. . .

"We also envisage stricter measures to combat drunken or impaired driving. There is no doubt that this is one of the most serious problems facing us today in the realm of highway security.

"More and more, police and judicial authorities are discussing the possibility of providing highway police with specialized instruments designed to detect, on the spot, the percentage of alcohol in a driver's system, to determine if he is in a condition to handle an automobile. . . Educational campaigns and appeals for greater prudence must be backed up by more radical measures.

"Obviously, in the face of the alarming toll of accidents on our highways it is always tempting to resort to . . . police methods. But we are living in a democracy, and that which distinguishes us from totalitarian or police states is precisely the grave concern we have for the preservation of individual liberty, even in a time of crisis.

"However, I believe it is possible to respect those liberties while seeking to implement measures designed to take irresponsible drivers off the road.

"For example, in line with the prescriptions of the Highway Code, we could foresee that anyone who, under certain conditions, refuses to submit to a test would be deprived of his driving permit for a given period of time, just as we withhold the permit of any motorist who refuses to submit to a driving examination after he has been involved in an accident.

"Basically, this is what is being done in Saskatchewan.

"Therefore, bearing in mind the principles safeguarding individual liberties, my department will study the possibility of implementing as soon as possible a system of on-the-spot detection aimed primarily at those whom I will call the 'criminals of the road'. . . "

— These are fighting words. We hope they won't just fizzle into oblivion, like many such "visions" from higher up.

Intellectual example

CANADA'S Economic Council has produced some facts that will give pause to those who have a suspicion that Canadians are "altogether better than most other people", The Financial Post points out in an editorial.

Among the facts are these: Immigrants to this country have, on an average, a much higher level of skills than the Canadian population as a whole. Roughly one out of every four engineers and scientists now working in Canada has come from abroad, as have one third of our architects, one fifth of our physicians, and one fifth of our computer programmers. As Dr. John Deutsch of the Council says, we must both attract skilled workers from abroad, and train more of our young people in the skills needed by a modern economy.

This could prove to be an expensive operation. But, The Financial Post comments, the pay-off is big. One economist estimates expenditures on plant and equipment produce a net return to the economy of 15% a year, and the net return on education at 22%.

Viewpoints and perspectives

SET GOOD EXAMPLE. — We enjoyed a pleasant surprise the other day. We watched a group of boys coming along the road eating from paper bags. We figured that when they finished they'd ditch the bags at the side of the road in the manner of all litterbugs. But instead they carefully deposited the litter in a rubbish can. When we offered a word of praise we were told that the schools in the area had formed "keep the country clean" groups and the lads were members.
— Berwick (N.S.) Register

WITCH HUNT POINTLESS. — At a Chamber of Commerce meeting here, Mr. Bert Baxter reported that six companies were not coming to Estevan. . . The reason the companies did not come . . . is because the sewage and water facilities here are inadequate. It's all too easy to look for a scapegoat. If these companies did not come to Estevan because of inadequate facilities it will do no good to quarrel among ourselves. Let's get to the root of the problem, not go on a witch hunt.

OVER THE YEARS With Lachute Watchman

85 YEARS AGO

March, 1880 —

It is quite a serious matter when a post office runs short of stamps, in these days of cheap postage prepaid by stamps.

Lachute sustained a heavy loss by fire last Sunday, when the Woodenware Factory, Woollen Factory and Carding Mill were totally destroyed, with some $12,000 in machinery, $6,000 in stock and material, buildings and equipment approximating $7,000. Forty or fifty employees are thrown out of work.

Alderman J. C. Wilson of Montreal intends commencing his paper mill here as soon as the frost is out of the ground.

A young man owning a patent on corsets sold a local merchant some seven dozen pairs. Efforts are now being made to have a factory started here for the manufacture of this new patent.

March, 1915 —

The Dominion Cartridge Company gun club at Brownsburg opened its season. The honors were won by E. J. Johnson with 26 consecutive hits, although Lem Wilson had practically won the cup until the last five birds.

Mr. Henry Giles tendered his resignation as chairman and commissioner of the local school board, on which he has served for more than 20 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Armstrong, who have lived in Mont Laurier for the past few years, have latterly returned to Lachute.

William Cooke, Sr., died at Grenville. He had been one of the best known river pilots, taking rafts down to Quebec, and in recent years had piloted the little ferry yacht "Leo" between Grenville and Hawkesbury.

The Rev. J. A. Lackey presided at the annual vestry meeting of St. Simeon's. Suggestions were made for the building of a badly needed church hall.

A eulogy to the late Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General, written by Miss Mary A. Catton, was read by the Rev. W. B. Rosborough from the United Church pulpit.

Quebec Government is seriously thinking of increasing the speed limit in the country from 30 to 50 miles an hour.

Brownsburg hockey team are champions this season of the Mt. Royal Intermediate League.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Cottingham was the scene of a benefit bridge for the Salvation Army campaign fund. Bridge was played at eight tables.

James W. McGibbon, Liberal, in his first contest for political honors, polled the biggest majority to date of any candidate in the electoral annals of this riding, defeating Georges H. Héon, ex-Conservative M.P., with a plurality of 1,867 votes.

When snow blocked the Montreal - Toronto highway, transport trucks were re-routed through Lachute, via Hawkesbury and Ottawa to Toronto.

CONTRADICTORY

Tokyo is the biggest city in the world, with a population of 10,600,000 people. It is the first city with a monorail system linking airport to urban centre, but it has no citywide sewage system, says Reader's Digest. It has subways, speedways, superhighways, artificial ski slopes and air-conditioned taxis, but practically no street names and only baffingly non-consecutive house numbers.

After Diefenbaker, Who?

The eventual resignation of John Diefenbaker will confront the Conservative party with the dilemma of finding another man who can bring the Tories out of the political wilderness for the second time within a decade.

It was John Diefenbaker who re-cast the Conservative party from a party of big business to a party of the people. More than any other man, he is responsible for the sharp turn to the left in Canadian politics since the mid-fifties.

Having accomplished this it was also Mr. Diefenbaker's fate to falter at the crucial stage of his career, to fritter away the immense popular support which had given him the greatest parliamentary majority of any Canadian Prime Minister.

The big question facing the Conservative party will be whether it is to slip back into its pre-Diefenbaker image of a party that is nothing more than a tool of the money moguls of Bay Street and St. James Street.

Will Diefenbaker's departure help or hurt the Conservatives?

Will voters still loyal to Mr. Diefenbaker desert the Tory ranks once their chief is gone? Or will the thousands of Canadians who supported the tories in the early days of the Diefenbaker leadership, return to its ranks under a new leader?

This dilemma arises from the fact that John Diefenbaker has fulfilled the strange role of being, at one and the same time, both the Conservatives' greatest asset, and their greatest liability.

His policies of the last three years have split the party sharply between urban and rural wings, between English speaking and French speaking branches, and between Western and Eastern blocs.

In 1965, he has lost the support of big city and suburban voters, thrown away the loyalty of his Quebec followers, and has been left with only his personal dwindling base of party faithful.

The new Conservative leader will have to regain this lost support while at the same time holding on to the Diefenbaker vote of the prairie provinces.

He also will have to make an attempt to regain at least some measure of support in Quebec. The Liberals still have enough strength throughout the rest of Canada to make Quebec once again — and unlike 1958 — the key to a Conservative parliamentary majority.

When the day comes for the Conservative leadership convention to crown its new party chief, Mr. Diefenbaker will assume the role of the elder statesman that evolves to former party leaders.

But because of the intensity of his support on the prairies, he should continue to wield considerable influenec in party policy.

For this reason, it is too early yet to assume, as many observers have done, that B.C.'s Davie Fulton is a shoo-in Diefenbaker's successor.

Mr. Fulton lacks the personal magnetism of a popular party leader, and his disastrous bid to topple Premier Bennett in B.C. showed he is unable to inspire either party workers or voters.

Moreover, he will enjoy no support from Mr. Diefenbaker at the leadership convention, whenever it is held.

The three Conservative provincial premiers — Duff Roblin of Manitoba, John Robarts of Ontario and Robert Stanfield of Nova Scotia — will probably become the chief contenders in addition to Fulton.

Among Conservative MPs, the Yukon's Erik Nielsen could count on support from Diefenbaker faction if he could win Dief's blessing. Mr. Nielsen's main problem is that he is still young, is not too well known despite his prominence in forcing the Dorion inquiry, and has no massive regional following to compare with that of a provincial premier.

SUGAR AND SPICE . . .

— By BILL SMILEY

It's Teacher's Choice

Rather an interesting time to be a teacher, the spring. Even before the snow has completely gone, school boards and principals are flipping over logs and stones, in the forlorn hope of finding a teacher under one of them.

There are three reasons for the frantic spring scramble. The first two are deaths and retirements. The third, and major cause for the panic is the population explosion. Classrooms are multiplying with the rapidity of rabbits.

Every one of these classrooms is full of kids. And the kids, like baby robins, expect to have something stuffed into them. Therefore, according to tradition, there must be a body, however little it resembles a Momma Robin, standing up there in front of the class, stuffing something — pebbles, or pearls, or even worms — into the gaping maws.

It is the time of year that has principals grinning wildly at old teachers, pouring on the charm with potential new ones, snapping at their own wives and miffing their own children about the ears, because they've heard by the snake vine — that's the vine that runs from the staffroom to the bridge-club to the Saturday night party to the after-church coffee — that they're losing half their staff.

It is the time of year that has school board members deciding to take a holiday in Jamaica, or if they can't afford it, going to bed with the 'flu. On the one hand are the taxpayers, shouting that school taxes are away out of hand. And on the other hand are other tax-payers, declaring that the board must hire the best possible teachers.

And in between are the teachers, with 10,000 jobs open to them, every one, at first glance, better than their present one.

Last weekend I was in the city, and out of sheer curiosity it says here, dropped in at the hotel which is the centre of teacher-hiring for the coming year. It was interesting.

My first impression was that the whole thing was being run by one of the metropolitan newspapers. This enterprising sheet, in an effort to crack the monopoly on the fat, luscious acreage of teacher-advertising held by another newspaper, had hired half the ground floor, and was passing out free papers, free coffee, free interview-arranging (whatever that is). The only thing missing was free teachers.

Picture an old-fashioned slave-market. New Orleans, 1855. O.K.? Now, picture a slave market in which every slave has the latest market report on slave-prices tucked under his left arm, in which every slave has ten potential buyers, in which every slave is free to choose his new boss or go back to Ole Massa.

I had an overwhelming impulse to jump up on one of the upholstered chairs and cry out, "One English specialist; spirit broken, but sound of wind, limb and grammar. How much am I offered?"

Fortunately for my professional status, at that moment, simultaneously, the bar next door opened, and my wife grabbed me by the arm. She'd seen that look in my eye.

I would like to state that I was admitted to the bar and began a long and successful career as a lawyer. But my curiosity held me for another five minutes, to see what was being offered.

It was fascinating. Salaries were almost standard, across the board. But those fringe benefits. . .wow!

City schools sang culture: museum, art galleries, theatres, opera. Rural schools heralded hunting, fishing, leisurely living. And both signed people up, on these grounds.

The birds who signed for the city schools will spend all their weekends, and most of their money going to the country for swimming, fishing, skiing. And the types who head for the country will spend most of their weekends, and money, tearing to town for the shows, the ballet, the bright lights.

As I said, it's an interesting time to be a teacher.

Visitors at the home of Mrs. Victor McVicar on Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. Bert Jones, of Montreal, also Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McVicar and family, of Grenville, and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hughes, of Ottawa.

Week-end visitors at Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dobbie's were Mr. Allan Harper, of Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. John Prophet and family, of Calumet.

Miss Frances Balmfirth, of Montreal, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Bennett for the week-end.

Mr. Malcolm MacLeod, of Saskatoon, Mr. Gordon White, of Ottawa (relatives of Mrs. John McMahon) visited here on Sunday and were in charge of the evening service at the Pentecostal Church.

Mrs. E. Carriere and Miss Sandra Roy, of Hawkesbury, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bennett.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Meyer and family, of Lachute, called on relatives here last Sunday.

Sympathy of the community is extended to the family of the late Mrs. Thomas Hoare, of Grenville, who passed away on Thursday morning of last week.

The W.M.S. will meet at 2.30 p.m. Saturday, March 27, at the home of Mrs. George Bennett.

Help the jealous child

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

The wise parent tries to foresee a possible unhappy situation on the horizon and prevent it from happening. Psychologists have found that jealousy is most common in the child who has been an only child for several years. His whole little world is changed with a brother's or sister's birth.

There are definite measures which help this adjustment to a bigger family circle. The older child should know about the baby's coming. He should be allowed to share in the preparations for the newcomer. Special provision should be made to reassure him that he is loved while his mother is away at the hospital.

Then when mother comes home she needs to demonstrate her love for the older child. A little gift for him is a good idea. Don't let him feel left out, on the sidelines. When not only grandparents and other visitors, but his own daddy or mummy, focus all the loving exclamations on the new baby, it is hard to take.

Favoritism is fertile ground for jealousy so don't "play favorites" with the new infant! Parents must not show preferences nor allow relatives or friends to single one child out for a special treatment and ignore the other "small fry".

This emotion which is not inherited, is much more common than parents realize. Often it is not recognized because it takes different forms. The jealous child is troubled by a sense of insecurity. He is eager to receive again the love and attention and understanding which used to be his and is now centred on the newcomer. Is it any wonder that a slap or pinch administered on the offending baby when no adult is present, appeals to the small child?

Sometimes the jealous child acts in a destructive fashion, breaking the younger child's toys. Occasionally jealousy will come out in a showing-off, crying, being disobedient or even trying to be exceptionally good. Once in a while the jealous youngster will return to thumb-sucking or want a bottle of his own. A toilet-trained child may have "accidents" in the day time or wet his bed at night.

Both parents should realize that this period when the new baby arrives, is far from an easy one for the older brother or sister. Mother's time is very occupied with the care of a small infant. Our grandmothers had a saying — "a baby can keep one woman busy!"

Thus it is very important that what little time Mother can spare for the older child should not be a scolding but a loving time — even if he seems "difficult". Father by giving the older child extra attention, by spending time with him and providing some unexpected treats, can help Junior or re-adjust to a different situation in the home circle.

It is a mistake if, by punishment or shaming a child, his reactions are repressed below the surface. Unfortunately, many adults, instead of bringing their child's jealous nature out into the open, have blamed both themselves and their youngster for what they consider an unhealthy feeling.

Parents can best help Junior who feels hostile to the new baby, by re-assuring him of their love. He will not be so miserable if they say: "Many little boys and girls find it hard to get used to a new member in the family. They often feel the way you do . . . but before long they learn to love the baby. They even start boasting how smart their baby is."

Date braided coffee cake

A scrumptious confection of juicy dates and chopped nuts, Date Braided Coffee Cake is the perfect answer to your coffee party or afternoon tea.

From the way some people talk, you would think there was some mysterious voodoo to the art of yeast cooking.

Cooks will tell you there is no magic to baking with yeast — but there is plenty of magic in the results. Who can deny the enchantment of a home-made loaf or coffee cake? Who can resist the delicious aroma that wafts from a kitchen where a yeast cook has been at work?

You don't have to be a witch to master the simple techniques of yeast baking. "Anyone who can read can knead" is an old adage, and anyone who can read can make today's recipe for Date-Braided Coffee Cake without resorting to spells and incantations.

A rich, tender dough filled with soft juicy dates and chopped nuts, Date-Braided Coffee Cake is a perfect tea-time treat. Keep this recipe on hand, because once your family tastes Date-Braided Coffee Cake, they will insist you make it again and again.

Date-Braided Coffee Cake

(Makes 2 coffee cakes)

½ Cup milk, ½ cup granulated sugar, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ cup margarine or butter, ½ cup lukewarm water, 2 teaspoons granulated sugar, 2 envelopes fast-rising active dry yeast, 2 eggs (well-beaten), 4½ cups (about) pre-sifted all-purpose flour, 2 cups chopped pitted dates, ½ cup brown sugar, 1½ cups water, 1 cup chopped peanuts, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 egg yolk, 2 tablespoons milk, ½ cup pre-sifted all-purpose flour, 2 tablespoons margarine or butter, 2 tablespoons granulated sugar, ½ teaspoon cinnamon.

Scald ¾ cup milk. Stir in the ½ cup granulated sugar, 1½ teaspoons salt and margarine or butter; cool to lukewarm.

Meantime, measure lukewarm water into large mixing bowl, stir in the 2 teaspoons sugar. Sprinkle yeast on top. Let stand 10 minutes, then stir well.

Stir in lukewarm milk mixture, beaten eggs and 2½ cups of the flour; beat until smooth. Stir in enough additional flour to make a slightly stiff dough. About 2 cups more. Turn out onto lightly floured board. Knead until smooth and elastic. Place dough in greased bowl; grease top. Cover; let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1½ hours.

Meanwhile, prepare date filling. Combine chopped pitted dates, brown sugar, water, chopped peanuts and lemon juice in saucepan. Bring to a boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Continue boiling until mixture is thick enough to spread, about 6 minutes. Let cool.

Punch down dough; turn out on lightly floured board. Divide dough in half. Roll out each half into a 10x8 inch oblong. Place rolled dough on greased baking sheets. Spread half the filling down centre of each oblong. Cut 10 slits in dough along each side of filling, making strips about 1 inch wide. Fold strips at an angle across filling, alternating from side to side. Cover; let rise as before, about 1 hour. Combine egg yolk and milk; brush cakes with mixture. Combine ¼ cup flour, 2 tablespoons margarine or butter, 2 tablespoons granulated sugar and cinnamon. Sprinkle half of mixture on each cake. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 30 to 35 minutes.

The fashion excitement about pants which boiled up in Paris last fall has simmered down, but pants for all occasions have become an accepted part of the fashion menu.

Not many Canadian women will wear pants all day, mink trimmed glittery trousers for entertaining, or lace ones for sleeping. But the pants craze is here to stay because it represents the culmination of an age-old search for attractive and comfortable clothes.

Fashions for pants, of course, have long been cited as an expression of women's age-old fight for emancipation. But we won't go into that. We think modern women's burning desire to wear pants is simply a further step in the trend which brought about the demise of the housedress.

Most busy homemakers prefer working in trousers in the house, in the garden, and even for shopping at the supermarket, simply because they are comfortable and practical. Continued improvement in fabrics and styling has helped the trend along with more flattery for all figure types.

Pants take their name from a 16th century Italian named Pantaloon who invented the first type of trousers to replace the tights which men had worn for centuries.

For women the comfort of the first divided skirt did not appear until the 1880's. Then a riding habit with pantaloons galloped into the picture. Long heavy serge bloomers were considered appropriate for women's beachwear in the 19th century.

Of course, the French author, George Sand, an individualist, wore male style trousers to flaunt her claims to privileges not ordinarily granted women of her era. Later suffragettes wore pants for the same reason.

Baggy women's slacks which were first made in Canada only 30 years ago, gave way to trim pants during the war years when women imitated Marlene Dietrich. Today we are overwhelmed with the variety of pants; the wide floppy ones have returned for lounge and beachwear in a revival of the Jean Harlow look.

Perhaps nothing has done quite so much to improve the flattery and popularity of women's pants as modern man-made stretch yarns. Stretch pants and now jump suits in endless variety of colors and patterns slim the leg and flatten the hipline.

The sleek look of stretchies seems to have won over the last of the objections to pants for women and now fashion is bursting out in a tidal wave of new variations of design. Whether the new pants are sturdy, hard-wearing ones for active wear, or luxurious dress-up types, whether they are long or short, tight or full, they are definitely fashion.

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman

By Jean Sharp, Canadian Press Staff Writer

If you have a hunter in the family, you may have trouble disposing of all the game he wants to bring home. If you do, you aren't alone. Other people have spent time dreaming up recipes to make use of the game sometimes considered inedible or to give them a change of pace with the meat from a large animal.

A forester has a recipe for jackburgers. He says most jackrabbits are wasted or sold for fur and dog meat. He claims they need not be, if you are willing to experiment.

Jackburger

The ingredients are: 1 jackrabbit, 1 teaspoon vinegar, 3 cups water, 1 lb. pork fat and pork, 1 medium onion chopped, 2 teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, dash of garlic salt.

Soak the legs and loin in salt-water and vinegar for five to six hours. Drain and remove flesh from the bones. Grind the meat and mix 3 pounds of rabbit to 1 pound of pork with seasonings. Form into thin patties and fry slowly.

* * *

In Hamilton, Ont., enterprising cook Mrs. William Campbell devised a method of making cabbage rolls with moose meat. Mrs. Campbell says she tried making a meat loaf and found it dry, even with lots of oil added. So she experimented with mixing ground moose meat and equal quantities of pork, and produced a mixture she decided was just right for cabbage rolls.

She uses meat she has stored in her freezer, and says once the cabbage rolls are made, they can be frozen for storage. Her recipe yields about three dozen cabbage rolls.

Moose Cabbage Rolls

Ingredients: 1 large cabbage, ½ lb. ground moose meat, ½ lb. ground pork, rice cooked according to directions, 1 large onion chopped, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 large tin tomatoes, 2 tablespoons ketchup, ¼ cup cooking oil.

Remove large outside leaves of cabbage. Cut out centre core. Pour boiling salted water over the cabbage, put a lid on the pot and let it steam while preparing filling.

Grind the moose meat and pork together once after each has been ground separately. Fry the meat, chopped onion, cooked rice, salt and pepper together, but do not let meat brown.

Place rolls, with open side down, on bed of large cabbage leaves in pan. Chop the canned tomatoes fine and pour over the rolls. Add the 2 tablespoons ketchup and cooking oil.

it's Comet!

Comet's best on the road — in every way. Its styling is beautiful — from the smart vertical headlight arrangement . . . to the clean crisp lines of its rear deck. Comet's youthful styling says "fun with a touch of luxury".

Comet's unbeatable in comfort and luxury touches, too! The interior is beautiful . . . and beautifully relaxing. You can choose from individually adjustable bucket seats, or broad roomy bench seats. Both are deep foam-padded for the most comfortable driving. The upholstery is beautiful — vinyls, fabrics, plaids and stripes in high-fashion colours, textures, and patterns. And on the floor: soft, colour-keyed, loop-yarn nylon and rayon carpeting. Comet's luxury is obvious and in the Caliente there are beautiful touches such as vinyl and foam-padded door panels, distinctive walnut-toned insets in the instrument panel and doors and, of course, door-mounted courtesy lights.

You'll suddenly know what performance is when you drive Comet. It sparkles! You choose either of two spirited sixes, the zesty 289 V-8, or the fiery Cyclone V-8 that delivers a powerhouse, 4-barrel, 225 horsepower.

For the smoothest ride on the road today, Comet offers you this choice of transmissions: a silky, 3-speed dual range automatic, a 3-speed manual (fully-synchronized with V-8's), and a snappy "4-on-the-floor". Add Comet's new improved suspension and you have the ultimate in compact car performance.

You'll love Comet's size. You can stretch your legs comfortably because Comet's longer. And it's wide enough to seat six of you easily. Plenty of trunk space for your grocery parcels or your vacation luggage.

Comet's model selection is terrific. There's a wide range — all appealing. 2 and 4-door sedans, hardtops, wagons, and a startlingly beautiful convertible; 11 handsome models in all — in 4 great series: the value-packed 202, the 404, the glamorous Caliente and the amazing Comet Cyclone.

Comet's waiting for you now at your Mercury dealer's. Take a test-drive. Take it soon and prove to yourself that Comet is the best compact on the road to-day.

'Useful citizen' devotes life to helping sightless people

Blind persons can become useful citizens and often devote their lives to helping other blind persons achieve independence — as in the case of a Lachute resident, A. C. Zaplaski, who is field secretary for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, Laurentian District.

As a CNIB field secretary for the past 14 years, he has been responsible for making CNIB services available to the blind of this area. Among his many duties, the first step he must take is to find new cases of blindness and to acquaint them with the CNIB multiple-service program, after which he must dispense these services to those wishing to receive them.

In the area covered by the Laurentian Federation of Charities, more than 170 sightless persons are registered with the CNIB and receive various services in the field of rehabilitation so that they may become self-sufficient.

"Blind persons must first learn to accept their handicap", said Mr. Zaplaski. "Our responsibility is to guide and counsel them in an endeavor to help them choose the course of their own future". Mr. Zaplaski explained that the blind are always given the opportunity to decide what is best for themselves. "The true concept of CNIB Social Service work, is not to force services onto a blind registrant, but to counsel him into recognizing for himself what CNIB services he should request at a given time during his rehabilitation". Blindness is quite frightening at first, but the part CNIB plays in rehabilitating, enables the blind person to be at all times at the helm of his own ship; CNIB is the able navigator that guides him through the turbulent waters of his first years of blindness."

Mr. Zaplaski, who is a past-president of the Quebec Music Teachers Association and of the Canadian Council of the Blind, Quebec Division, received in 1959 an award of merit and gold medal from CCB in recognition of his valuable work on behalf of the blind. Mr. Zaplaski is an active member of the Lachute Lions Club, is married and the father of three children.

Mr. Zaplaski is ardent in urging support of the Laurentian Federation of Charities, of which the CNIB is a member-agency. "By supporting the Laurentian Federation of Charities you are supporting the work of rehabilitation among the blind, and prevention of blindness. You will be participating in making the blind of this area as self-sufficient as possible."

Late Mrs. James Arthurs

Funeral service was held Saturday, March 13, for the late Mrs. James Arthurs, who died at her home in Avoca on Wednesday, March 10, in her 103rd year.

Mrs. Arthurs was one of 14 children born to the late William Young and his wife Margaret MacLean, September 6, 1862. She married the late James Arthurs on November 1, 1878, and to this union were born eight children, seven of whom survive, ranging in age from 68 to 84 years. A son, James, predeceased her in September 1956.

Surviving members of her family are five daughters — Mrs. Jennie Starke, of Montreal, Mrs. Nellie MacCallum, of Grenville, Mrs. Ethel Card, of Bermuda, Mrs. Annie MacMillan, of Montreal, and Mrs. Orrin Leroy (Daisy), of Port Colborne; two sons, Joe, in Saskatoon, Sask., and Willie, of Avoca; also 33 grandchildren, 70 great-grandchildren and 12 great-great-grandchildren.

Service was held in the New Grenville Funeral Home, conducted by the Rev. H. Hill, pastor of Avoca Baptist Church. Of this church the late Mrs. Arthurs was an active member for her entire life and, while health permitted, was present each Sunday and responsible for the flowers at the altar, a task in which she was keenly interested, and greatly appreciated by members of the congregation. Besides her active church life she was ever ready with a helping hand in times of illness, and in such cases often performed the duties of doctor and nurse. In times of trouble she was always present to assist in every way.

The Junior Choir of the Avoca Baptist Church, led by Mrs. Howard Smith as organist, sang a favorite hymn, "We'll say Good-Night here, but Good-Morning up there". Other hymns sung by special request were, "I've Found a Friend" and "Some Day We'll Understand".

Pall-bearers were four grandsons, Irwin Arthurs, Grant Arthurs, Everett Arthurs and Jimmy Starke, and grandnephews, Fred MacLeod and Joe Arthurs.

The many beautiful floral tributes bore silent testimony of high esteem to one much loved and sadly missed by all who knew her.

Country Notebook

By WALKER RILEY, Macdonald College

The Seed Fair has changed. In the good old days when every farm saved its own seed, when a boy stayed home from school to turn the fanning mill, when the smell of formaldehyde in the air was one of the signs of Spring, the Seed Fair was true to its name, an exhibition of farm-grown seed. Neighbor competed against neighbor to prove he grew the best grain and did the best cleaning job in the country. And perhaps it brought the sale of a few bushels as well.

But, like the rest of farming, seed growing became specialized. Fewer farms saved their own seed; entries at the Seed Fair dropped discouragingly. And for a time it looked like the end of this annual get-together.

Instead, Seed Fairs have made a surprising revival. And some of the credit must go to the interest in the very popular, recently added hay and silage classes.

For instance, at the Prescott County Seed Fair last week, there were 160 entries in eight forage classes. And believe me, it is a formidable task to pick the grand champion exhibit out of an array that goes all down one side of a long hall and across the end. I know, because I had the worry, the honor, and the fun of being the substitute judge.

In the absence of the real judge, the cow, I did my best using the "eyeball test" to pick those samples which might make the most milk.

Actually, the placing within the classes wasn't too difficult. There is plenty of research to show that the value of hay to a cow is related closely to the date of cutting; the earlier the cutting, the better the quality.

The judge's first step, then, is to go over the class, pick out the ones that were cut early and discard the rest. He looks for evidence of alfalfa in bud or early bloom, and timothy heads just emerging from their leaf sheath. Hay like that is likely to be over 65% digestible. It will maintain a cow and provide nutrients for 20-30 lbs. milk. If there is ripe seed, the sample is rejected, no matter how green and well saved. That hay will be less than 50% digestible, a cow won't eat more than enough of it to keep herself alive.

The next step is the selection of the five or six best out of the early cut group. Then they are placed on the basis of color, aroma, texture, freedom from weeds and the species of grasses and clovers.

The tough job was to pick the grand champion. As so often happens, a sample of second cut caught the eye. Research, however, indicates that second cut hay averages 2% less T.D.N. than first cut. So top place went to a very attractive entry of mixed hay which must have been cut about June 10, crushed, and barn dried.

Incidentally, for information of directors of agricultural societies who might want to start a Hay Show at their Fall Fair, the exhibit usually consists of two flakes of hay four inches thick, in a plastic cover. The Fair Board supplies the plastic bags. One flake is for the judge to pull to pieces, and one for display. There are usually six classes — 85% alfalfa, 85% other legume, mixed hay, grass hay, and two for second cut hay.

Ottawa Farm Show is on from March 24 to 26. If you want to see a really competitive Hay Show, there is the place to go. The best from the 14 counties of Eastern Ontario and from Western Quebec will be on display.

And don't forget Corn Day at the College on the last day of March. That three dollars registration fee may be the best investment you ever made.

Sap's running! Sap's running in the maple bush and sugaring operations are under way in Eastern Canada. Here water is being boiled out of the sap in a typical plant in Quebec province which is far and away the largest producer of maple syrup and maple sugar.

New 1965 addition A 2-cycle, 90 horsepower stern-drive engine powers this new addition to the Johnson boat line for 1965. The "gull wing" design of the fibreglass hull makes it exceptionally spacious and comfortable, ensuring a dry and cushioned ride at all times. Included in the standard equipment on this deluxe boat are electric shift, alternator and power tilt, and a built-in 15-gallon fuel tank.

The boater who likes to swim is in an enviable position — he's surrounded by a potential swimming pool.

Since so many boaters enjoy taking a dip while they're out on a cruise, when the fish aren't biting or when they're having a picnic, here's a few safety hints for swimming from a boat:

Drop an anchor and make sure it is holding before going over the side. Note which way the craft drifts and look for eddies around the hull, an indication there is a strong current which could carry swimmers away from the boat.

Turn off your motor's ignition before anyone goes into the water and keep it off until everyone is back aboard. Never swim under the boat or near the propeller.

Never swim alone, even if you're Olympic material. Large groups should use the "buddy system" — pair off and stay close together. In small family groups, one person should remain in the boat as lookout to keep track of everyone in the water.

If you do much swimming or water skiing, a collapsible boarding ladder is invaluable for getting in and out of the water.

Stay close to the boat.

Don't swim in areas of heavy boat traffic.

And, of course, observe the same safety rules that apply to swimming anywhere: Don't go swimming for at least an hour after eating; don't go in when you're overheated, and never dive into unknown waters. Wade in and explore the proposed swimming area carefully. Make sure there are no sunken snags or rocks in the vicinity before diving.

Bad propeller cuts efficiency

The careless boater gives a quick check, and unless a blade has been sheared off, pronounces everything okay. However, there's more to checking a propeller than just making sure it's in one piece. The boatman should also check for nicks and proper blade alignment.

Piloting a boat with a damaged propeller is like driving a car with a flat tire. It will run, but you can't say much for performance or handling.

If a propeller is damaged, it doesn't mean you have to throw it away. A marine dealer can correct smaller nicks by grinding the blades. A bent propeller can be re-aligned by using a "pitch block."

Water Safety program by Red Cross, three million 'pupils' in 20 years

In 1945, the Canadian Red Cross Society introduced its Water Safety Service to the Canadian people in an effort to reduce the annual toll of drownings, and to promote swimming as a healthful form of recreation. It was a small beginning. Only 160 persons enrolled in a total of 10 water safety classes. Now, 20 years later, water safety has grown to be one of the most important and most active of all Red Cross services.

Statistics show that over 400-thousand Canadians participate in water safety classes and activities annually. Of these, some 165 thousand qualify for certificates at the various levels of pupil training, and 3,750 qualify as instructors who teach our youngsters how to swim and be waterwise.

Looking back over results of the past 20 years, we find that over three million Canadians have attended Red Cross Water Safety classes. Of this number, more than 1½ million received certificates for successfully completing their courses. Some 29,000 instructors were trained at nearly 2,000 Instructor Schools.

It is not a simple matter to measure the precise effect of this service in reducing drownings. It is, however, important to note that when the Red Cross Water Safety Service began two decades ago, the drowning toll was slightly more than 1,000 per year. The population has almost doubled since that time but our annual toll has continued to remain slightly over the 1,000 mark. Today it is between 1,000 and 1,200. Even though there has been a greatly increased number of Canadians participating in water recreation in recent years, and even though the population of Canada has almost doubled since 1945, drownings have not increased significantly.

This is due largely to the nation-wide program of education in water safety carried on by the Canadian Red Cross, a program that results in the saving of human lives.

March is Red Cross month in Canada. When the Red Cross canvasser calls on you, be generous with your financial donation.

Modern portaging

The modern portage is a little more complex than that facing Indians and traders when they wished to get their birchbark canoes from one waterway to another.

Moving the boat from home to water or from one sailing area to another involves much bulkier craft and the hazards of highway travel. However, the task is simplified to a great extent with modern trailers, which cater to the smallest boat, as well as all in-between sizes up to a ton.

Boat trailers

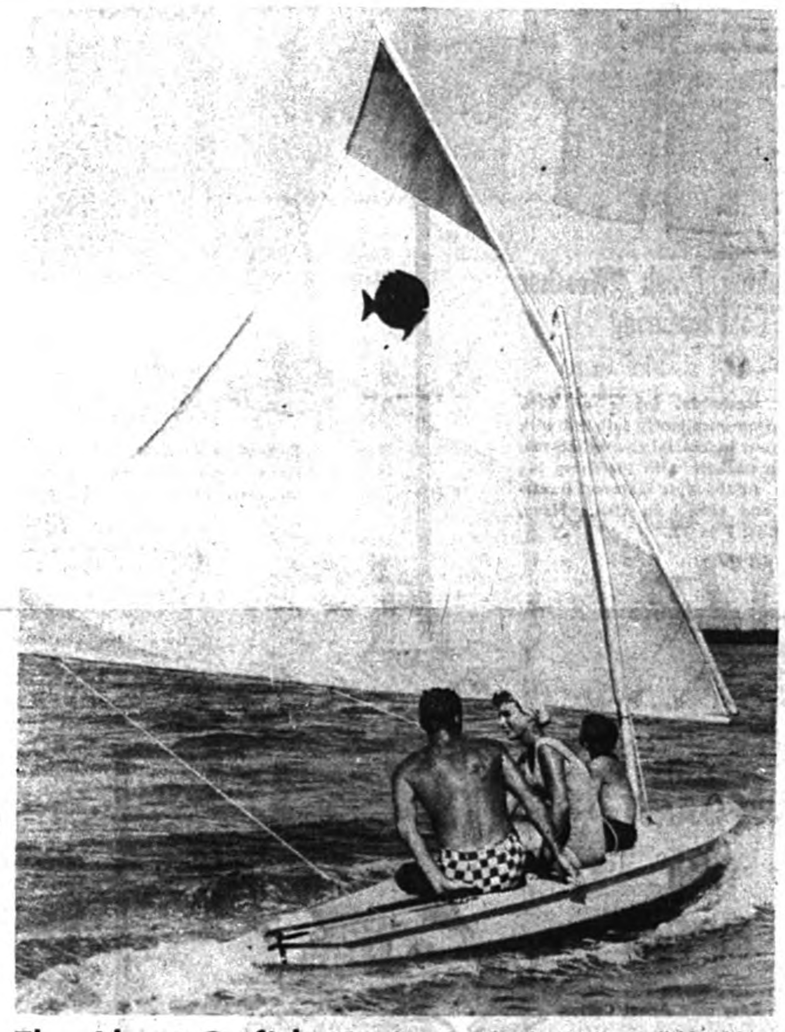
RED CROSS is ALWAYS THERE WITH YOUR HELP



The Alcort Catfish When buyers outnumber units available, it's a healthy sign and a solid vote of confidence for a new product. This was the situation during the 1964 season when the Alcort Catfish was introduced, became an instant hit and forced Sailfish Sportscraft Limited to expand production facilities for 1965. It is an exciting new concept in catamaran design and construction, and it's making a solid impact on competitive racing. Built by the makers of Sailfish and Sunfish, the latter of which appears above, the Cat is designed for speed and comfort.

A. Desrosiers heads hospital board, progress noted in all departments

Year's activities passed in review

In a review of the Argenteuil Hospital activities for 1964, the president of the administrative council, Roger Lagarde, QC, revealed that there were 2,479 patients (adults and children) admitted during the year, and there were 417 births at the hospital in that period. The accommodation of patients numbered 18,132 hospital days.

The review was presented Monday evening at the annual meeting. All members of the administrative council were re-elected, and six additional persons were invited to be active members of the corporation.

Other officers are — Kenneth W. MacGibbon, vice-president; Notary Simon Valois, secretary; Donald M. Hay, treasurer; Roger Lagarde, QC, Bertrand L'Heureux, Dr. Marc Papineau, directors; Mrs. Leonard Ayers, Ian Gordon, Lévis Clement, Paul Deslauriers and Herb Graves, executive members.

Those invited to join the board of the hospital corporation were — Fernand Berthiaume, Conrad H. Legault, J. Romeo Legault, Dr. Charles Roy, J. W. Humphries and Jas. Hayman.

Assuming his new role as president, Mr. Desrosiers paid sincere tribute to Roger Lagarde, the charter president, now retiring, for his devotion during the past two years, and to other "pioneers" of the institution.

Hospital Record

The year's report further reveals that the operating rooms were inaugurated April 15 last, and all surgical operations there have been successful.

Armand Desrosiers, new president

A physiotherapy clinic and a medical archives department have been set up; the pediatrics department has been improved; a mobile X-ray machine has been purchased for the operating rooms; a qualified male nurse has been engaged, giving technical instruction and serving as assistant to the nursing superintendent; and the hospital's "education fund" assigned $2,000 for the purchase of film projection equipment for the medical body.

Management Details

During the year various improvements had been introduced in the hospital management. An inventory system was adopted in the store, kitchen and pharmacy. A collective agreement had been signed with the hospital employees, involving retroactive payments of around $13,000. Nurses' salaries were revised and special bonuses introduced. There were agreements entered into with other hospitals, directors had attended various hospitalization studies and seminars, and a finance controller had been engaged, to serve also as a staff supervisor.

Ladies' Auxiliary

The hospital auxiliary had played a valuable role in assisting the administration. This was specially emphasized by Roger Lagarde and by Dr. R. Lavigne, the medical director. Among other things they had donated a loudspeaker paging system, now installed throughout the building. They had attractively decorated the hospital for the festive season, and presented gifts to patients, also $100 for the employees' party.

Also highly commended was the devotion of the staff members, and their benevolent services for welfare of the patients.

The administrative council held 12 monthly meetings in the year, besides several special sittings to negotiate with the employees and effect a satisfactory agreement. From the medical education fund they had also endorsed expenditures of $2,850 towards costs of special training to staff members.

A farm wagon float towed by a miniature garden tractor, struck an unusual note in the parade last Saturday to honor Lachute High School's senior basketball girls, who came home recently with the provincial school championship and the McLeod Trophy from Lennoxville — winning this high honor for Lachute for the third consecutive year.

The float was engineered by a community-minded machinist, Ernest Gordon. The tractor, provided by Gordon McOuat, was operated by a driver of no small physical proportions, Art Whiteway, president of the Home and School. The team members aboard the float, were accompanied by their coach, Ron MacKenzie, looking justifiably proud of his young charges. And the procession, including cars of friends and parents, was preceded by the Army Cadet band in charge of Capt. Robt. Haydon; this group of youths did ample justice to the occasion.

Commencing at Lowe's Dairy, the parade dispersed at the High School, and in the assembly hall the girls and accompanying adults were formally welcomed by Mr. Whiteway as chairman. Speeches of congratulation were given by W. M. Cottingham, M.P.P., whose interest in the school is a matter of long standing and repute; by Mayor Dr. Z. Saindon, whose unofficial capacities include the promotion of youth sports and recreation; by Assistant Principal Robt. Bailly, representing Principal Fred Royal in his absence (Mr. Bailly being, incidentally, the former coach who had piloted the basketballers to previous championships); and by Coach Ron MacKenzie, who replied on behalf of the team members and paid unstinting tribute to their fine spirit and their playing qualities.

Mayor's Congratulations

"Practice makes perfect. . . These girls attained perfection in basketball through practice, determination and sacrifice. . . My congratulations and best wishes to these valiant athletes," said Mayor Saindon in his brief address. "It is no secret that I am a sports and recreation enthusiast. I welcome this opportunity of appealing to all my fellow citizens, and to you specially, to join in a movement for the promotion of a municipal recreation program, which will be underway in the not too distant future.

"The purpose of a municipal recreation and sports program is to organize, in an orderly manner, the vital influence that individual health has on the progress and integrity of a community and of a country at large. I urge you all to assist your municipal council representatives in their efforts to make known to as many as possible the importance of good health through recreation. By doing so we can contribute effectively to the happiness of the individual and the welfare of our fellow citizens."

Following a time of social intermingling in the school auditorium, refreshments were served by courtesy of the Home and School executive members and their ladies, whose efforts were duly appreciated.

Altogether, it was a fitting gesture of tribute to the Lachute girls, whose perseverance had brought them triumphantly to the lead of the Ottawa Valley Schools, to the semi-finals and final of the provincial high schools — representing some formidable competition on the way.

Armed intruders diverted in entry of bank residence

Two girls, Susan and Françoise Prévost, aged 13 and 14, respectively, daughters of J. Prévost, manager of the Caisse Populaire at St. Canut, were credited last week with stalling two would-be bank robbers.

At 9 p.m. on Friday, the armed men forced entry into their home while the children were alone. When they found the father gone, they tied up the girls with snare wire and put them in the cellar.

Several minutes later a noise was heard on the roof and at the front door, then quiet.

"It's our father," said the girls. "He must have seen what's happening and has gone for the police." Too young to be conniving, thought the unsuspecting men, and they left.

Several minutes later the father came home — alone. After freeing his children, he called the Provincial Police.

Sentiments and Sidelights

(Comments on the Local Scene)

A taste of Separatism. — In Toronto, there seems to be a premature impression of Quebec as a state "in toto". A package mailed to us from the Queen City was labelled "For Customs Inspection", and was actually cleared by the local customs office before we received it.

Police hold witness —

An Ayersville youth, 18 years of age, was slain with a shotgun blast last Wednesday afternoon at a home on Filion Street, Lachute. The victim was Charles-Emile Renaud, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henri Renaud.

According to information from the police, the man died at the Argenteuil Hospital about 20 minutes after being shot in the abdomen by a 12-gauge shotgun. Municipal police had apparently been called to the house by a neighbor prior to the young man's entry, and they arrived at the scene immediately following the incident. An ambulance was summoned and the victim was rushed to the hospital, where a team of three local doctors worked in vain to save the man's life. The incident occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henri Larocque, 481 Filion Street, and Provincial Police are holding a daughter, Reine-Aimée Larocque, 17, as a material witness in the case.

Preliminary investigation showed that the victim went to the girl's house to obtain some letters and gifts he had given her, and was refused admittance. His attempts to gain entry to the house resulted in a call to the police by a neighbor. It was reported that upon entering the home, the victim was warned the weapon was loaded, but that he attempted to pull the gun from the hands of the girl and it discharged. There are conflicting reports to this, however, and the complete details will not be known until the inquest, which will be closed to the public.

Young Renaud is survived by his father, his stepmother, five brothers and seven sisters. The funeral, in charge of Roland Menard, was held Saturday morning from the Immaculate Conception Church, Ayersville, with burial at the Catholic cemetery in Vankleek Hill, Ont.

Two more Prot. regional boards established

They are the Chateauguay Valley Board and the St. Francis Valley Board — the third and fourth regional Protestant school boards to be established in the province.

The St. Francis board covers more than 20 boards in the counties of Compton, Frontenac, Richmond, Sherbrooke, Stanstead and Wolfe.

The first two Protestant regional boards were Bedford, in the Eastern Townships, and North Island, just north of Montreal.

The Métropolitan School Boards of Montreal and Quebec City are not considered regional school boards.

Red Cross appeal B'burg and district starts April 5

Brownsburg — The Red Cross financial campaign will get under way April 5 in Brownsburg, and in the neighboring communities associated with the Brownsburg Branch. Among those who have already accepted responsibility as area representatives or captains are:

Miss Beatrice Smythe, Pointe-au-Chene
Mrs. Howard Smith, Avoca
Mrs. Lawrence Plummer, Ogdensburg
Paul Boivin, Calumet
Gilles Racicot, St. Philippe
Alan Vowles, Cushing and Grece's Point
Calvin McAndrew, Mount Maple.

In Brownsburg: Mrs. J. W. Campbell, Philippe Ferland, Fred Barker, Don Graham, Ken Ball, Earl Smillie, Joe Kramar, Allan Atwell, Jacques M. Racine.

To receive degree B.Sc. in Forestry

J. Edward Dorion (Eddie), the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Dorion, of Upper Lachute, and a graduate of Lachute High School, will receive his B.Sc. degree in Forestry Engineering in May, at the University of New Brunswick, Fredericton, N.B.

He is married to the former Miss Jean Burns, also of Lachute, and they have an infant son, Craig.

They will take up residence on Vancouver Island, B.C., where Mr. Dorion will be employed by Rayonier Canada (B.C.) Ltd.

Quebec Easter Seals Society has extended help to various organizations concerned with the crippled and disabled, totalling $1,067,152 in the last 15 years.

Col. Ernest Emmett, Easter Seals chairman for the Lions Club, views the part played by Lachute district as significant and highly creditable. He hopes for even more generous support this year. The campaign is being conducted, in the usual manner, by the distribution of Easter Seals through the mail, with a convenient pink envelope for the donor's response.

At a press gathering last week, Ernest Freedman, director and treasurer of Quebec Easter Seals Society, enumerated the organizations which had received assistance through this annual effort. These include — the Province of Quebec Society for Crippled Children, Inc.; the Rehabilitation Institute of Montreal; Mackay Centre for Deaf and Crippled Children; Occupational Therapy and Rehabilitation Centre; Quebec Rehabilitation Clinic; Trois-Rivières Rehabilitation Centre; Cripples' Aid Committee of the Rotary Club of Montreal.

The funds are used for research and training grants as well as capital expenditures for such purposes as buses for the transportation of crippled children, camping equipment and various appliances for the benefit of the crippled.

It is hoped to link this branch with Union 657, which regulates salaries and working conditions in Terrebonne and Labelle counties.

Branches of the Brotherhood are already operating at Lachute Lumber Co., Dominion Ayers (Wood Division), Geo. Dansereau & Fils (Grenville) and C.I.P. (Calumet).

By BOB ATCHISON

At long last our bird watchers can see spring really on its way. With a number of the early birds already returned, they are trying to see who can spot the most types. When you can spot such varieties as the Cedar Waxwing, you know for sure things are going to be for the better. Everything I have heard or read of this bird makes it mysterious. Not usually a cold-weather visitor, it does periodically upset one's expectations. The feed for them is usually cherries, mulberries and so forth. But getting this type of food around here is out of the question just now, so what is it doing here? Of course, as we've observed many times before, the new birds coming into this area are numerous, and I suppose more will follow as years go by. Starlings are naturally plentiful, along with the crows (not ready for shooting yet), the usual visitors, White Breasted Nuthatch, Blue Jays, Black Cap Chicadees, and a goodly number of Rose Breasted Grosbeaks, all scrounging for food. There are also a few Pine Grosbeaks around, but not too many. Sightings of hawks have been common and I had a call the other night telling me of about 12 Sparrow Hawks just outside the town. This is unusual; I certainly would have liked to have seen this flight, even though it would only be for a couple of minutes. I haven't heard a thing about the Snow Owls that were hereabouts; guess they have all gone back to their natural habitat — it's safer there, too.

The Canadian Wildlife Federation is certainly worried about water pollution, more so than usual. Newspaper, TV and radio are all being used to get the message across that we are in a bad way as far as good pure water is concerned. Almost every river and lake today is being spoiled in one way or another, and it will continue to be so, unless something is done about it. I have been writing of this for a good many years, but from now on the problem will be still more acute. With populations tripling, industries mushrooming, and indiscriminate dumping of refuse, this all has an alarming effect on water supplies. Water that once was sweet and good, is now stinking and foul. Yet we, the public, continue on, paying little attention to what we are doing. Water can purify itself, under natural circumstances, but this it cannot do if millions of gallons of sewage and chemicals are being dumped into it every day of the year. Most municipalities are trying to do something about this, while others bury their heads in the sand — or should I say mud — thinking the problem will solve itself.

Some readers think I write about pollution too much; this may be so, but I'm going to keep right on. Maybe some of these days our town will get a sewage treatment plant in operation. I don't expect to be around when this happens. (St. Jerome hasn't got one, so why should we!) Great thinking.

A couple of the creeks are opening. In one of them the ice was so thick that no fish would have been able to live in it; right down to the bed of the stream. I would imagine that any eggs that may have been laid in the gravel beds, would have been scooped right up with the ice. However, the other creek seems to have been o.k. This one has a stronger flow of water through it, which may have been the reason for the ice being less thick. The eggs and fish in this one would have had a good chance for survival. I sure hope there are a few more like this.

The fishing and hunting club formed at the local High School is really going to town. They have had a couple of meetings already and, from information received, they have also managed to get a supervised spot to shoot and handle guns. This is good news. You know, we older persons seem to forget that when we were taught these things it was more or less a natural process; everyone knew how to fish and hunt — but not so today. Not too long ago, one could walk in the bush and never see anyone for days on end. Today, the woods are almost as populated as St. Catherine Street in the rush hour. So where do these teen-agers learn about nature; not in any classroom. After all these are the citizens who will be taking over from us, and if they aren't taught at least the elements of conservation, they'll make a mess of everything just as WE have done.

I guess most of you sportsmen read the advertisement on knives, in one of the American magazines last month. It's easily seen these ad-writers know nothing about the use of a knife. Imagine trying to lug along a cutter with a blade of 13 inches! This one was supposed to be fore skinning and butchering game. After you got through skinning with this, you'd be lucky even to have the strength to crawl away, never mind butchering it. Besides this, the blade was chrome-plated; imagine trying to put an edge on this with a whetstone! You'd probably wear down the stone before you got the edge. . . To carry a weapon of this weight in the bush would be one awful job; my guess is it would end up chopping down timber, it's certainly not a hunting knife. . . A good knife has, at the most, a 5 inch blade, a good handle, either a very hard wood like tiger or rose, or a good fitting leather, with some protection for the hand and fingers when cutting. A good blade, not chromed etc., one that maybe would rust a little after use, it can be cleaned very easily, and able to take and hold an edge under all conditions.

The extensive planting of Muskies in parts of this area should bring results in a very short time. It will be a number of years yet before they are of a limit for catching, but with the Quebec Government seemingly committed on this type of fish, maybe more will be heard about them all over the province. This may seem strange to most people, but the Musky is one of the greatest "money" fish there is. By this, I mean more people spend more money to catch this species than most others. Millions of dollars are spent in Ontario every year for this sole purpose, and it seems a good idea to latch on to some of this gravy. Great strides have been made, and are still being made on this fish. The State of Ohio has been working on a program for some years, and from latest reports it has more than paid off. Trophy fish are being taken almost every week out of some of the lakes. With our North River already closely associated with these great fish, maybe (just maybe) it could become one of the most reputed rivers in Canada for Musky. Let's hope.

Of course, we all think of this river as a mess, and it is. But at one time it was known far and wide as a very good producer for Brown Trout. Not only in Canada, but also in the U.S. Now, it will take many years of concentrated effort to purify this water, but maybe one of these days they will really start working on it, instead of talking.

This is a complaint. Many people have been in touch with me about the wholesale use of BB's by youngsters against the birds that are around. It appears a couple of these lads spread feed out for these dusters; then, when they come in to feed, they get shot. You can't blame the lads exclusively; it's largely an outcome of poor training and poor sportsmanship on the part of their parents. It is probable the parents don't even know what is going on, but nevertheless, if these boys had been trained right in the first place, there wouldn't be this to contend with. To make matters worse some of the shooters don't even bother to see if anyone's in the way. Maybe some of the parents would like to foot the bill for the loss of someone's eye. Not a nice thought, but it could happen.

Brownsburg High News

By David McCaffrey

The 1965 basketball season has now terminated at Brownsburg High School. B.H.S. had a fairly good year, winning one trophy in the junior boys' interscholastic division and two in the junior girls' league. Most of you already know that Lachute's senior girls successfully defeated Brownsburg for the O.V.S.A.A. league title and then went on to win the provincial championship. I would like to offer sincere congratulations, on behalf of the students at Brownsburg High, to the Lachute club, for the fine form with which they represented our league at Lennoxville — at the same time warning them to look out for our senior girls' team next year.

The intra-mural basketball league in our school has also come to an end. The "Shark House" was the most successful of the three, coming first in the junior and senior boys' divisions and second in the both girls' leagues. The Beaver House came second, with victories in the senior and junior girls' leagues, and coming second in the senior boys' division. The Jay House, although they did not have as many wins, did play well all year.

Volleyball has now begun its 1965 season. Both the senior and junior boys began practice last week, and both seem to have great potential. The girls, who had their "season" before Christmas, are thinking of forming a cheer-leading group.

Gymnastics has begun, and Mr. Tompkins is planning on making a display to the parents of B.H.S. students in the near future.

Trip to Ottawa

By Sandra Hall

The trip to Ottawa on Thursday, March 25, sponsored by the Students' Council, proved to be not only an enjoyable day, but also an educational one for Grades X and XI. The Senior High students left Brownsburg at 8.05 under the supervision of Mr. McCosh, Mr. Smith, Mr. Tompkins, and B.H.S.'s principal, Mr. Leggitt, and arrived in Ottawa at 9.50.

Before visiting the Royal Mint, the students toured the War Museum, where the interesting exhibits of Canada at war showed a true nation quick to stand firm for what she believed in, and ready to defend it if necessary. The memories of our Canadian heroes, as acknowledged that day, might well be the most lasting reminder of the trip.

The visit to the Royal Mint followed. The students were divided into groups, each with a guide who pointed out in detail all factors of interest in the minting of our Canadian coinage. The students witnessed the process by which long strands of nickel, silver and copper were minted into our everyday coins. Thanks to these guides, each student left the Mint with a better idea of how our Canadian money is brought into being.

Later, the representatives of B.H.S. toured the Parliament Buildings. The House of Commons, the Senate, and the National Library were the main points of interest. The guide pointed out many interesting facts about our Canadian Parliament and its historical background.

At 1.15 the students ate in the Parliament cafeteria, by the compliments of Mr. V. Drouin, M.P. for this constituency.

The session of Parliament captivated the students from 2.30 to 3 o'clock. John Diefenbaker, Conservative Leader, and Lester B. Pearson, Prime Minister, seemed to collect most of the interest of the students.

After this brief but informative half-hour, the students left Ottawa, having not only an idea of how our country is governed, but also a personal impression of the two most powerful and influential men in Canadian politics. We hope that this trip has helped to prepare our High School seniors to be good citizens of tomorrow. . . We wish to express our sincere thanks to the Students' Council and to Mr. Vincent Drouin, for arranging a truly exciting day.

B.H.S. believes that Lachute High School will also be attending Parliament this week, and we hope that they may have an equally enlightening day.

On Friday, March 26, the Students' Council of B.H.S. sponsored a "record hop" in honor of Billy Brady, who has lived in Brownsburg for three years since coming from Scotland. The Brady family will return to Scotland in April. Billy was one of the three boys in the band, "Jerry and the Electrons", who often played for the dances at B.H.S. We will all miss you, Billy. Good luck from all of us!

Season's opener, Arg. Fishing and Hunting Assn.

The opening meeting of the Argenteuil Fishing and Hunting Association for the 1965 season is set for Friday evening of this week commencing at 8.30 in the Knights of Columbus Hall, Lachute.

Co-operating for the success of this meeting are representatives from Molson's, the sponsoring organization — Gaston Laroche, the Lachute manager, also Richmond Pelletier, director of the Molson Fishing Club. Guest speaker will be Serge Deyglun, outdoors columnist of La Presse, and the program will conclude with top-interest films on fishing in this province.

All members of the Association are urged to attend, and a cordial invitation is extended also to the general public; there is no admission charge.

Motor Sport Club plans include a dance and rally

At the bi-monthly meeting of the Lachute Motor Sport Club, held in the dining room of the Windsor Hotel, plans for the Easter Teen-Age Dance were finalized. Music is by the Sabronets. The place is the Masonic Hall on Brownsburg Road. Time, 8.30 to 12.30 o'clock on Friday, April 9. Admission charged. All teen-agers welcome.

A spring rally, sponsored by the Club, is to be held on Saturday, April 10, followed by a bean supper and social evening, to be held at the Legion Hall on Lafleur Street. Entry forms are available from MacDonald's B.A. Station on Bethany Road, or from Ferdy's Shell Service on Main Street. Registration is from 2.30 p.m. to 3.45 p.m. at the parking lot in front of Arc Supply Co., Bethany Road. . . Remember, even if you have filled in an entry form, you must register.

CURLING

Activities in Brownsburg

The curling year is gradually coming to a close, but with the "Brownsburg Club Mixed" and the "Lachute Open" on at the same time, both clubs have been most active this week.

* * *

On April 3, the Bank of Nova Scotia curlers will take over the club for the day. Lunch and dinner will be served to the visitors, by the ladies' branch. All members of the club are invited to come up and watch the games.

* * *

The winners of the Birks Trophy this year, played for since Christmas, were Hazel Keatley (skip), Yvonne Alarie, Audrey Paseo and Helen Golphin.

* * *

In the Ladder Competition, played for throughout the year, Bea Villard's rink, with Lil Richardson, Eunice Golphin and June Troop, ended up on the top rung of the ladder.

* * *

The Business Girls' Challenge saw Hazel Davidson (skip), Rollande Raymond, Twilla Thompson and Floss MacNeil take the honors this year, over the Afternoon Curlers.

* * *

The two Brownsburg rinks entered for the Jackson Trophy last week saw their combined scores, in spite of a win, not high enough to qualify. Play for the "Jackson" was started in 1942. It is a competition for senior curlers, won by the Outremont Curling Club last year. The rink skipped by Margaret Rose and supported by Bea Villard, Doreen Finlayson and Helen Golphin, played their game at Outremont against Laval. Hazel Keatley (skip), Jessie Dimock, Elsie Hay and Alma Lacasse were at Greystone, where they met Royal Montreal.

* * *

The Town of Mount Royal Curling Club held a "Filly Bonspiel" last week to encourage more clubs to follow their example next year in giving "five year and under" curlers an opportunity to compete with curlers of their own calibre. Brownsburg had one entry in the competition, a quartet made up of Bea Villard, Lil Richardson, Gwen Ball and Elsie Morrow. Their day was a most enjoyable one. . . More junior bonspiels are something for the various curling clubs to think about for next season.

Weight, an all important factor. Figure-conscious women do their best to reduce it, the stockman strives to produce it, the fisherman aids it with his imagination. Weight represents many problems in a variety of definitions, and all of them important to different individuals. . . Weight to the curler is the product of co-ordination, judgment, and the ability to "read" ice. The importance of this faculty, to adapt to circumstances, has been borne home in no uncertain terms to some of the players competing on the tricky ice of the Lachute rink.

The intriguing ice, the unpredictable outcome of even a slight alteration in weight, exasperates and frustrates some of the visiting skips; yet others have thrived on it, as the score sheets show. Some of the games, although one-sided have been excellent and interesting to watch. "One man's meat is another man's poison." The games scheduled to be played during the second week of the Spring Bonspiel will be just as interesting, and it is hoped that all members will visit the Club and help entertain our visitors.

Five sections of the Spring Bonspiel have now been completed; this leaves three sections to be played. The five successful rinks, one from each section, are as follows, and in order — Chantecler, skipped by Dr. R. Nadeau; Brownsburg, skipped by Art Lobel; Brownsburg, skipped by Andy Hardie; Lachute, skipped by Bob Cairns; Maxville, skipped by Bill MacEwan.

These rinks along with the other three winners will be returning for the final games on Saturday, April 3. Members, give your support!

Ayers Juniors triumphed

Ayers Midget juvenile hockey club of the Lions Hockey League this year were triumphant in winning the championship over the Legion team by a score of 6-3. It was a best-out-of-seven series and the Ayers team won the series four games to one.

The manager-coach, Jacques Paul, of Ayers Pee-Wee, Bantam and Midget juvenile clubs, stated that Ayers also won in the Pee-Wee League for a s cond year, defeating Lowe's by a score of 3-1 in the last game. This was a two-out-of-three series and Ayers won two games out of the three played.

Jacques Paul and his 45 players wish to thank Dominion Ayers Limited for their sponsorship of the teams in the 1964-65 season.

The president of the Lions Hockey League, Buzz MacRae, and Director Don Neil, presented the trophy to the team captain, Daniel Decoste, of Ayers, the assistant captain, Gilles Miron, and the coach-manager, Jacques Paul.

On Saturday, March 27, the Argenteuil Bridge Club were hosts to C-I-L, Montreal, in the first annual club championship tournament.

There were two sessions, one held in the afternoon and one in the evening. Sixteen pairs came from Montreal and altogether 19 tables were set up for play in the afternoon, while the evening session included 13 tables, and four other tables were made up of players not competing in the tournament.

The movement used for both sessions was the "Scrambled Mitchell", which is quite a complicated one, but under the competent direction of Mr. Dennis Seary, the whole project moved smoothly and without hitch.

In the interval between the two sessions a barbecue chicken supper was served, and much credit must be given to Mr. R. Leclair, who was responsible for making the arrangements. The club is also most grateful to Lowe Bros. Dairy for their donation of ice cream.

The president would like to thank all the committee and members who helped so considerably to make this effort a success.

The general feeling was that the whole program had been very satisfactory. The visitors were pleased at the pleasant and friendly atmosphere which, combined with a high standard of play, made their visit agreeable and rewarding. Hopes were expressed that the Argenteuil Bridge Club would invite the visitors to another club championship tournament.

After the results have been checked, the winners will be announced in next week's issue.

Costly new gear ends fishing era

Vancouver (CP) — Fishboats on the Pacific coast are becoming as different as the new generation of seamen that man them.

The long-standard 60-footers with seine nets and brailer net to lift the catch into the boat are fast disappearing.

The latest specialized model to be launched here is a 96-foot salmon-herring seiner with a $325,000 price tag. She is the newest and fastest of a four-vessel fleet owned by John Radil and his sons, Arthur and Celestin.

With a 620-horsepower engine, the Canadian vessel is capable of speeds up to 13.5 knots empty and 10.5 knots loaded — some 280 tons of fish.

Two navigational sets — a direction finder and an echo sounder — are housed in the wheelhouse. On the vessel's stern is the hydraulic brailer, a hose-like mechanism that sucks 120 tons of fish an hour into the hold from the seine net.

The eight-man crew has cabins with wash basins, showers and automatic heat.

SKI TRAILS

By Ross Cole,
Director, Ayers Ski School

Ram Ski Club News

Last Saturday, the club held its annual Carnival Day, and although the weather was on the cool side, it turned out to be an overwhelming success. The festivities started around 10.30 a.m. with judging of the costumes for juniors, and the judges, Miss Evelyne Ayers, Dr. Mutton and Mr. Rob Collins, had a difficult task on their hands as the variety and originality of the costumes were such that 12 prizes were awarded.

Afterwards, the juniors participated in an obstacle race, skiing and climbing over bags of straw and over tires, also having to ski through a few gates. All in all, they worked up quite an appetite, as they ate over 300 hot-dogs at the weiner roast and drank several cases of soft drinks.

In the afternoon, the seniors had a "hat parade", and the best hat designers of the country could not have conceived such a variety — everything from cowboy hats to tropical birds, and a variety of fruits decorating football helmets.

The seniors also had an obstacle race, but of a different nature. The contestants were in pairs, a man and a woman tied together with 6 feet of parcel string; each time the string broke they had to stop and tie it. Adding flavor to the race, there were three wine stops.

Trophies for the different races organized by the club throughout the season were then awarded to the juniors and seniors who had accumulated the most points. The results were as follows:

Senior "A" Men — Molson's Brewery trophy, Donald Barbour.

This full day of activities was completed with a social evening held at the Centre, and congratulations are extended to the manager, Mr. Tom Johnston and his staff, for the tasty buffet which was artistically displayed and served. The executive of the club would have appreciated a larger turn-out, but I am positive that those present had a wonderful time and are looking forward to next year's Carnival Day.

Ski School News

Skiing is presently excellent at the Centre. We are actually enjoying the best snow conditions all year, and the school will be operating as long as skiing conditions prevail. Therefore we are looking forward to seeing you on the slopes to enjoy with us the warm spring sun and this exhilarating sport.

Dublin scene of Country Women conf'ce this year

In September, 1965, fifteen hundred women will meet in Dublin for the 11th Triennial Conference of the Associated Country Women of the World. ACWW, the only international organization of country women in the world, has 176 member societies all over the globe, working in their own lands to better the lot of women and children, working to get better nutrition, better education, better housing, and a happier life, by their own efforts and in their own way.

The theme of this 11th Triennial Conference is "Working Together", to tie in with International Co-operation Year.

The hostess society, the Irish Countrywomen's Association, have arranged tours so that delegates from all over the world can see their land, meet the women in their homes, attend a horse show, a Ceili (Irish sing-song) and a theatre in Dublin. But above all (says the ACWW Central Office, London, England) these women will meet and discuss their problems with those from other countries, as they continue to carry on their programs through the Associated Country Women of the World.

Births, Marriages, Deaths, etc.

BIRTH

CARKNER — Lyle and Helen (née Martin) are pleased to announce the birth of a daughter, 9 lbs. 8 ozs (sister to Kevin and Steven), at the Smith Clinic, Hawkesbury, on March 23, 1965. Both well.

DEATH

HYDE (Charles A.) — At the Montreal General Hospital, March 29, in his 92nd year, beloved husband of Maria Hodge and dear father of Ross and Gladys. Funeral service Thursday, April 1, 2.30 p.m., at St. Andrews East Presbyterian Church.

IN MEMORIAM

THOMPSON — In memory of Mrs. James Thompson (Sarah Hutton), of Weir, who died one year ago, March 30, 1964. — Always remembered by her daughter, Thelma, and family.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

BELANGER — Mr. Lionel Belanger and the Latreille family wish to thank relatives and friends for kindness extended during their recent bereavement, including sympathy cards, floral tributes, mass offering, telegrams, visits and attendance at the funeral.

SECURITY

Freedom from fear, from want, from sickness, from war — these are the freedoms men seek. Desirable as they may be, however, freedom from ignorance is of more lasting benefit; freedom, that is, from ignorance of God's purpose. That is because knowledge of God, and of his Son whom he sent forth, is the way of life. That way means everlasting security. Learn God's way.

Pretty wedding in recent United Church ceremony

Rodger - McFaul

The marriage of Susann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton McFaul, to Mr. John Charles Rodger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Erskine Rodger, both of Lachute, took place recently in the Lachute United Church, the Rev. Harold Thompson officiating.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was in a floor-length gown of Italien peau-de-soie with lace sleeves and a chapel train draping from the shoulders. Her headpiece was a pillbox of peau-de-soie covered with lace and a shoulder-length veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of red Sweetheart roses and white hyacinths.

The bride was attended by Miss Lynda McFaul as her maid of honor and by Miss Brenda McFaul, Miss Diane Caves and Miss Barbara Jenkins, as her bridesmaids. They wore floor-length gowns of cranberry red velvet, with pillbox hats and shoulder veils. They carried bouquets of red roses and white mums.

Mr. Stanley Alexander acted as best man for Mr. Rodger, and the ushers were Messrs. Carl and Cameron Rodger and Mr. Henry Todd.

The bride's mother wore a two-piece suit of dark brown wool with matching Persian lamb collar and brown and beige accessories. She wore a corsage of yellow Sweetheart roses.

The bride's going-away outfit was a two-piece suit of emerald green basket-weave wool with satin lapels. She wore a sailor hat of matching material, and black accessories, and a corsage of yellow Sweetheart roses.

SHIFTS BLAME

It is not the clergy who are responsible for the failure of the church to communicate with the people — it is, rather, the congregation that is to blame for this failure. This is the view of a former United Church minister named Roy Kennedy, writing in the April 3 issue of MacLean's Magazine.

"New vistas of religious thought"

(Selected)

I am most grateful for the experience of the Summer School held at Macdonald College. Not only did it give me a vast store of "food for thought" (during the dreary chores of ironing, dishwashing and floor waxing) but opened up entirely new vistas of religious thought. For this I will be eternally grateful to Mrs. Ralph Collins (returned missionary from Angola) and her inspired, brilliant and exciting sessions of Bible study.

We hear such confused reports on the radio and in the press — it took her lucid explanations to awaken an interest and create a keen desire to read the new book, "God and His Purpose". It is impossible to convey in words the impact of her talks. She gave one the feeling, "How can I possibly bring to those at home the inspiration she kindles?"

Having been a fundamentalist through and through, who believed sincerely that the Bible was God's Word to Man, and that we must accept, in faith, all and everything to be found between its covers, it came as a great shock to be told that the modern concepts toss out all the wonderful stories that have inspired the Saints of the Church for hundreds of years. But Mrs. Collins' explanations, which she stressed over and over again, did, indeed, give a new interpretation to the stories which many could not believe. Her message was that so much of the time we confuse the words with "The Word" that we miss the message completely! And what food for thought and study this provided!

Another essential was her definition of myth. This is a word we now hear concerning the stories of the Bible. She impressed on us the need to learn that a Bible myth is a Spiritual Truth expressed in symbolic language. But we must remember it IS a Truth. As we read the Bible we must not get bogged down in the words, but search out "The Truth".

We must realize that the Bible is not a scientific explanation, or a text book; it is not a history book, but it is a record of real people, living experiences, and Religious Truths. And it does show how God works His Purpose in the world through events in history. The miracle of the Bible is that it does speak to all generations and to all peoples. It holds as true for us today as it did for the people centuries ago. The message is the same yesterday, today and forever.

We must remember the Basic Truth, that man can quench the Holy Spirit with his sin; that sin breaks the Fellowship and cuts us off from God. Jesus saw oppression, hunger, want, the evil prospering, the good suffering. He saw greed and lust and all the horrible things we see in man today. He didn't say, "Why doesn't God do something?" or doubt God's existence. He said "Into Thy hands I commend my Spirit". We must have this faith. We are His agents. He didn't send angels. He sent us! He has no hands but ours to do His Will.

We must not worry about mysteries we can't explain. Even Jesus said there were some things the Father had not disclosed to Him, and He said there were some things for which the disciples were not ready. If God uses evolution or seven days, if He uses human parents or a Virgin Birth, it is not terribly important. What the Great Truth is, is that the universe is all His creation, His purpose and His Life, and He sent Christ into the world to reveal Himself to Man.

Jesus' first sermon was, "The Kingdom of God is here now — Repent", and the first sermon of the disciples after the Resurrection was, "The Messiah has come — Repent". This is the key to being in communion with God, to get in tune with Him that we may hear Him speak. We must repent and be born again to a new spiritual life. "Be not conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind". He will speak to us today if we repent, open our minds, and read His word.

For diabetic mothers-to-be

Two Ohio physicians have heartening news for diabetic women who plan to become pregnant. If their babies are delivered early, from 14 to 21 days before term, the infants' chances of survival go up. A seven-pound infant delivered at 37 weeks, they say, has the best chance for survival.

These are the findings of Drs. Marion E. Black and Max Miller of Cleveland's University Hospitals, who analyzed 447 births to diabetic mothers between 1960 and 1963.

The doctors believe that two factors will help lead to the birth of live, healthy babies to diabetic women. These are:

(2) Selection of the correct delivery time.

This report highlights the crucial importance to diabetic women of family planning and of prenatal care.

"Exile from Sunnyacres"

By Margaret Cook

Right in the midst of The Saint, the telephone rang. Muttering to myself about thoughtless friends, I answered. A voice rattled off something quite unintelligible, in one of those languages that biculturalism ignores. . . "What in the world are you saying?" I inquired tartly.

"Oh, you are speaking da Henglish?"

"I am."

Exasperated at what I thought was a gag, I said, "Oh, yeah?"

"Yah. The chickens your husband ordered this morning — I have them."

"You're crazy; my husband was in the Laurentians this morning. We have been back only an hour."

"You no order chickens this morning? What name have you?"

"Cook."

"Cook, I have called.". . .

Well, anyway, I finally convinced the man that we had not ordered chickens, and that he had the wrong number. When I returned to the living room, the head of the house inquired as to what I was talking about. I said, "The 200,000 chickens you ordered this morning, have arrived."

* * *

But even that frustrating call could not dampen the good feeling we had after a day in our beloved haunts about Sunnyacres. Going to sleep, one is sustained by the thought that just 50 miles away there is real snow, pure and white, looking like the icing on a cake. There was good, hard crust just a matter of two inches under the powdery stuff, so one could walk about quite easily. Fascinating to try to read the story of the tracks of different animals, mostly rabbit. The very small ones must be made by mice. Some small creature had sat on the ledge of the window at Sunnyacres. We leaned over, and looked in; no use trying the door, half buried in snow. The sun shone in on our deserted household gods — the little rocker waited for me, and the couch by the window for its owner. The pepper and salt sat confidently on the kitchen table. The soap flakes flanked the sink. Through the long winter, they have waited for the time when they will again be a part of human living. Well, it will not be long now!

* * *

After a few hours in Lachute with friends, we came back to suburbia, to be met by Peter, the cat, very glad to see us. I have discovered, by returning to pick up something forgotten, that he wails dismally when left alone. No one could tell by his looks; when we leave, he regards us aloofly, and with a flick of his tail turns to the stairs and the cosy beds up there. But cats and children love routine and repetition. If a stranger comes in and says, as they often do, "What a beautiful cat!" Peter accepts this tone as his due, but any attempt to pick him up, or lure him onto a strange lap, is met with cold disdain. He also hams it up, drawing back in mock alarm, and flinching as if from a blow. One would suppose we spent a good deal of time beating him. Many animals have this theatrical streak.

* * *

We are just back from church — having left this effusion until the last moment, as we so often do. Our rector now insists that the children stay the whole service, with the result that we wary ones choose our seat with discretion. The first Sunday of the new regime, I incautiously sat down directly behind a round-faced blonde, aged about four. She had cold, blue eyes, which she kept on me for the greater part of the time. Between times, she wiggled, or stared at the choir in the loft at the rear. Occasionally, the mother would become exasperated, and say, "Kneel", in a vibrant whisper, and then we would have a rest for a few minutes. I cast my mind back; yes, in my childhood, we all attended Sunday School for an hour, then church for at least another hour and a half. I cannot remember anything of my conduct except that I once exclaimed aloud, "There's a spider on Jim's neck" — Jim being my cousin, sitting a few pews ahead. I can remember also being very conscious of my Sunday best. The female of the species is born vain. Anyway, the wheel has come full circle, and here we are back with the children in the Pew. As our rector wittily remarks, "Pierre Berton certainly had never sat in our pews."

* * *

Mr. Berton's book is being discussed in nearly all Anglican parishes. Here, we spend an hour and a half every Wednesday night in its study. It is an interesting time, but no great decisions are taken. I suspect the greatest value of the book is that it makes people think. Better any kind of thinking than none at all.

Last week, I found myself secretary of the group I was in, and wrote down the following question, propounded by one of the group and assented to by all: "How does one equate the confessed equality of democratic ideals with the visible inherited inequalities?" This was à propos of Mr. Berton's provocative question, "What color was Christ?" Later, the meeting wandered into a discussion of the evils of some of the magazines, and of TV advertisements. I was interested to learn why a certain commercial, featuring a well-known condiment, accompanied ridiculously by the playing of "Land of Hope and Glory", was suddenly withdrawn. Seems practically everybody in Canada stopped buying the stuff. There's the answer, of course: boycott the undesirable. Turn a knob, or return the two bits to your pocket. Ann Landers has recently commented on the increasing of what she forthrightly calls "gutlessness". She had something. The remedy of much of evil is in our hands, only we are afraid not to conform. Of course, conformity means nothing to an Irishman!. . .

We seem to have wandered. To sum up, I would say personally, that if Berton had spent as much time in perfecting his knowledge of his faith, as he has on journalism, he would never have written the book. Most of his complaints are the result of ignorance, which any priest could have enlightened. Instead of that, he flounced off in a huff.

By the time this is in print, sugaring will have begun. I mean in the Laurentians; in the Townships and around here, it is already in full swing. A quart of sap reposes in the refrigerator, gift of a teacher who fancies the head of the house. She is a Moroccan and anxious to learn the habits of the natives. She drinks glasses of the stuff each day. Well, she'll learn!

Health League urges fluoridation, all municipalities

The directors of Quebec Division of the Health League of Canada have issued a statement "affirming continued belief that fluoridation of communal water supplies for the prevention of tooth decay is the most urgent public health objective in Canada today."

The statement said the board met recently and decided to "urge the support of all citizens of Montreal and all communities in Quebec Province to establish fluoridation of water supplies."

Syrup makers view experience with pipelines and central evaporators

— By Walker Riley, Macdonald College —

Not everyone is happy with the present performance of plastic pipelines in the sugar bush. But, like central evaporators, oil for fuel, power tapping and tap-hole sanitizers, they are here to stay. When the "bugs" are ironed out, they will increase cash returns from the sugar bush.

This was my impression from listening to the panel of syrup producers at Maple Day at Macdonald College, held recently. As well as pipelines, the future of the industry, better marketing and research, came in for thorough discussion in the morning program.

Don Fulford from Shawville reported that he was very satisfied with his pipeline system. "We got 65% to 75% more than with taps. Maybe it didn't run that much more last year, but every time it did run, it rained," he said. "It was very noticeable that the quality of sap was higher out of the pipeline. We could tell the minute that the sap hit the evaporator."

Because his bush is flat, Don uses a vacuum pump to move the sap. He finds the vacuum is satisfactory at the far end of the line half a mile from the pump even though he uses a smaller size line than normal. Don has a novel way of washing the equipment at the end of the season. He winds it around a "spit", which he turns slowly for two or three hours with a motor in a tank of water. "You can see the water spouting out all the holes as it turns," he said.

On the other hand, Gordon Herring from Lennoxville, is unhappy with his pipeline. It worked well the first year, but not since. He found it was complicated to set up, that it continually became disconnected, that in the shadow of evergreen bushes the line stayed frozen all day. "We would go out to the woods in the morning and see sap spouting out all the little ventilators," he reported to a laughing audience. He found, too, it took more time to tap with the pipeline. His cost for material was about $1.00 a tree.

Garneau Cormier, Quebec Department of Agriculture, reported on his experiments. He compared four systems: buckets, a pipeline which is connected directly with the taps, and a pipeline which has a short drop line from each tap, and another manufacturer's product. The results, which I suppose are in gallons of sap per tree, were as follows: 7.4, 3.3, 5.8, and 5.5.

He pointed out that, while the figures favored the buckets, this group had the advantage of a south slope. Between the pipelines, the drop-lines showed a definite advantage because the tree had less chance to re-absorb the sap.

The work of Guy Bedard, from the Forest Rangers School at Duchesnay, backed up Cormier's findings. Without a vacuum pump, there was a definite advantage to the drop lines. Installation cost him $1.41 per tree, just about the same as for an aluminum bucket, lid and tap. Last year, it took 57 gallons sap to make one gallon of syrup, he reported.

The fact that so many sugar groves are being cut for lumber was deplored by Roch Delisle, Director of Forest Extension with the Department of Lands and Forests. He blamed low bulk syrup prices, and urged greater efficiency, careful culling, tapping only larger trees, and selling as much of the product as possible in small containers.

Dr. Jim Marvin, who is Vermont's "Mr. Maple", gave a real note of encouragement to the meeting. He saw the central evaporator playing a real part in the future. Dairymen, he felt, had become so specialized and their work so intense, that they couldn't afford the time to do a good job in the sugar bush. But there could be a full-time job for a man with a central evaporator. Production would be evened out, quality uniform, and advantage taken of all the new wrinkles. But, he felt, "There would always have to be a few wood-fired evaporators for our city photographers."

The use of paraformaldehyde pellets in the tap holes was condemned by J. O. Vaillancourt, vice-president of the Maple Producers Co-op at Levis. He considered that our overseas market was too valuable to risk losing through any hint that chemicals had been used in syrup making. Certainly, we will hear more about tap-hole sanitizers. Dr. Marvin, while he does not like PFA, is sure we must find a good sanitizer. It could mean that tapping can be done in the fall, as well as longer syrup seasons.

In the afternoon, the larger-than-expected group toured the College sugar bush to see the research and the demonstrations — pipeline systems, vacuum pumps, power tapping bits, the covered evaporator boiling the first run. And the clear, crisp day made all the more welcome the cup of hot coffee around the roaring fire in the Aboretum's chalet at the end of the day.

Things 'n Stuff

UNCLE WALT'S CHOPPING BLOCK

At my camp at Lost River some years ago I had a spruce chopping block. It had been in service for many years and was becoming rounded off at the bottom so that it fell over frequently, and I knew it would soon have to be replaced by a new one. Then one day, while picking raspberries on an old shanty road with two friends, I found exactly what I wanted. A nice new hunk of spruce a foot in diameter and 15 inches high, in perfect condition. Leaving the others to tote the berries, I carried the block a quarter of a mile and put it in the car trunk. On arriving at the cabin, I immediately cut up the old one for kindling and put the new one in its place.

Next day I had to split some birch logs for the cookstove. Placing one on end on top of the block, I stood back, took a deep breath and took a terrific swing with the axe. The famous legendary Paul Bunyan had nothing on me when it came to swinging an axe. The axe travelled in a big circle, splitting the birch right in the centre and continuing right through the chopping block into the pine needles on the ground.

On the next trip up from town I brought an elm stump that no man on earth could split — not even Paul Bunyan. Imagine anyone bringing wood from the city to the country! But that's just what I did, and as far as I know, that elm stump is still in service.

Be seein' ya!

— Uncle Walt.

Gold dressing for skin disorders

We've heard much economic and political talk recently about the gold drain and the gold standard. And now comes a medical report on the precious metal.

Dr. Naomi Kanof, Washington (D.C.) dermatologist, reported recently that certain types of stubborn skin ulcers healed rapidly when dressed with layers of specially prepared gold leaf. The physician said that the healing process was remarkably rapid. The reasons the precious shield works so effectively, Dr. Kanof told Women's Medical News Service, are not yet fully understood. Dr. Kanof is Chief of Dermatology at Children's Hospital, Washington, D.C.

The municipal engineer

IN VIEW OF Lachute's recent appointment of a city engineer, and the generally vague conception of duties entailed in this office, a current clarification by the professional body in Quebec may be of interest to our reading public.

Changes in the Cities and Towns Act aimed at officially recognizing the position of municipal engineer, and clearly outlining his powers and responsibilities, have been proposed in a brief by the Corporation of Engineers of Quebec, just submitted to Municipal Affairs Minister Pierre Laporte.

States the Corporation president, Bernard R. Lachapelle: "Today, municipal services have a highly technical aspect that falls largely within the engineer's domain. For this reason, cities and towns employing one or more engineers should receive the full benefit of their professional advice and services, instead of merely entrusting them with jobs that could more advantageously be handled by others."

According to the changes proposed, municipal councils may, if they desire, appoint a "municipal officer whose task it shall be to supervise and direct the study, construction, operation and maintenance of all matters pertaining directly or indirectly to municipal public works.". .

The Corporation suggests that the municipal engineer's job should be legally defined in this manner:

1. To direct the administration of all matters pertaining to public works (water and sewage systems, drainage, roads, parks, town planning, traffic, building construction, water or sewage treatment plants, etc.) and to maintain relations between the municipality and government departments and agencies and the public utilities.

2. To prepare, or cause to be prepared, plans and drawings for engineering projects, tendering documents, to study tenders received, supervise work in progress and prepare the necessary reports.

3. If consulting engineers are retained, to maintain continuous contact with the consulting engineers, supply them with all necessary information, receive and report to council on the result of their work.

4. To collaborate in town planning projects, in preparing master plans of the municipal area and plans of municipal buildings.

5. To submit recommendations on main plant and equipment used in construction and maintenance work, as well as on materials.

"These changes are only aimed at conferring upon the post of municipal engineer the statutory and binding status that the law provides for other municipal officers," says the Corporation president. "They only clarify and conform, in the community's interest, a situation that already exists."

See friends in the obituaries

A FAITHFUL reader from St. Andrews, now wintering in Florida, sends us a clipping of "Wallie Nelsen's Little World", a column in the Fort Lauderdale News. As a former editor of a weekly paper, Mr. Nelsen reveals a soft spot for the hometown journal. These sentiments we take the liberty to reproduce (with thanks to the reader who sent them to The Watchman):

"Many people now living in Broward County (Fla.) who used to live in small towns and even small cities, still subscribe to the old hometown newspaper. They, the papers we mean, are a link with old friends and old times.

"But as the years go by, they find that they no longer recognize the names in the news, and the paper gets less and less interesting. However, one factor makes them cling to the old newspaper — the obituaries. So they continue to subscribe because the obit column contains names that they are sure to recognize.

"People who lived in the larger centres are not as prone to have the paper follow them — simply because of the annual subscription cost, $20 to $25. But the average weekly newspaper in the smaller towns or cities kept, and still keep, the yearly subscription at about $4.00. Some of them charge an extra dollar for out-of-town subscribers.

"We know all about this sort of stuff, as we edited a county-seat weekly for years and years up there in the black and white country. We had about 500 out-of-town subscribers, mostly former residents, who wanted to keep track of hometown doings.

"We also know about fading names, as we still get the weekly that we edited so many years. Back in 1939 we played an active part in the organization of the local Rotary Club and served as president for a term. At the last election of officers of the club, we recognized only two members of the board of directors, and the president, vice-president, treasurer and program chairman were all strangers to us. And we left the town only 12 years ago.

A challenge for tomorrow

THE SPREAD of automation through Canadian industry poses grave problems for the country's economy in the future. Will it mean more unemployment? Is our educational system geared to train people for jobs in an era of automation? What is to be done in the leisure time which automation will provide?

These are some of the questions which arise. Experts are still looking for the answers, or find themselves in disagreement over what the answers are.

One expert foresees the day when two per cent of the existing labor force will turn out the same volume of goods and services as now. Another believes that automation will actually mean an increase in the labor force.

Even a computer can't be expected to come up with the correct answer to a problem as complex as this.

There can be little doubt that anyone entering the labor force from now on will need a sound fundamental education which can serve as a stepping stone to several careers. One conclusion reached by students of the impact of automation is that a man may work at four or five different jobs during his lifetime. This would involve a series of re-education processes to acquire new skills.

New interests must be developed to occupy the increasing leisure time which increasingly mechanized industry will create.

Many firms are finding other jobs for employees displaced by machines. But what is to happen to those entering the labor market in future, when jobs by the scores and hundreds are being eliminated by automation?

The whole problem is made more difficult by the increasing number of young people who will seek employment during the next few years. The Economic Council of Canada in its first annual report to the government said the country is faced with "one of the highest rates of labor force expansion in its entire history." The council said 1,500,000 new jobs must be created by 1970 to achieve an employment target rate of 97 per cent.

The best brains in Canada should be working on solutions to these problems. To a large extent the future of the country's economy hinges on finding the correct answers.

WOOSH!

Farm group concerned with drift to cities

"THE SILENT MIGRATION"

(Submitted by Secretary of Arundel Farm Forum 2)

Farmers are not stupid. They patiently continue to attempt to balance the budget each year, but when the going reaches the impossible, they silently leave their farms. No fuss, no strikes, no bother. But we, the general public, are stupid if we continue to let this happen. Where would the over-worked, over-paid, high pressured business man go to relax if the rural society is taken over by high-pressured business organizations such as the one in which he is employed in the city? Maybe this would become a field day for Psychiatrists!

All levels of government express concern over this great migration. What can we do about it? Maybe urban society should be more concerned than rural society about this problem. Maybe we should co-operate as a total society to make it possible to make a living in the country or in the city as our tastes dictate. Perhaps the schools should put on a course in Economics. Maybe our children should be informed that a rural society with low purchasing power definitely reduces the standard of living of the urban areas as well.

Mr. Courcy, Minister of Agriculture, has not only done some talking but he has passed legislation which is presently helping and encouraging our local dairy farmers. The idea of a minimum price on whole milk is good. We do not feel that the government should control the price of milk, but we do feel that the government should see that the individual farmer should get his share of the consumer's dollar on the dairy products sold.

Mr. Cliche, Minister of Lands and Forests, has made some very interesting and encouraging speeches. We should be glad to know how many of his suggestions have been put into operation. Our district has been classified by A.R.D.A. as a marginal dairy and beef producing district. But it also should be classified as a very desirable district for the production of wood products. Part of each farm is unsuitable for farming but is very valuable as a woodlot. With sincere assistance and advice, from the government and industry, these marginal farms could become profitable enterprises.

Now we come to the question of what the individual farmer can do about the price of pulp. By following our first suggestion he will lose his individuality, but he would likely gain in the price of pulp. According to the Quebec Agricultural Marketing Act, he and his fellow woodlot operators could form a Producers' Marketing Board. All his wood products must be sold through this board. The Marketing Board would negotiate with the company in the district.

Producers' Marketing Boards have already been formed in other parts of Quebec. We have on file several Arbitration Awards which have resulted in higher prices for wood products to farmers and private woodlot operators.

Because the relationship with the officials of the Paper Company in our district has been excellent, we would, as a last resort, contemplate forming a Producers' Marketing Board. We would prefer a round-table conference with officials of the Company, to get their point of view as well as to present our own. The present price of hardwood pulp delivered at the mill is $15 per cord, and that of softwood is $19 per cord. A local survey indicates that production at the above prices leads to bankruptcy and migration of farmers to urban areas. Big companies have the statistics which the small individual operator lacks. We would like to know how much it costs the company to cut this same quality of pulp on their own limits and have it transported to their own mill. We think the price to the individual operator should be in line wih this cost.

Communities can do a great deal to help themselves. We wish to thank your paper for this opportunity of saying a few words about a very serious local and national problem.

SUGAR AND SPICE
by Bill Smiley

Don't Knock The Teens

A columnist on a big city daily recently fired a salvo at high school students. The intrepid journalist gave them both barrels, with no holds barred, as an Irishman might put it.

He had been speaking to groups of high school students from middle and upper-income homes. He took a very dim view of the kids, suggesting that: they haven't learned manners, have no sense of adventure are terribly sheltered, terribly staid, terribly sad, and empty.

I'm sorry he received this impression of today's youth. It is not at all the one I have received in five years as a high school teacher, and several years as a parent of teenagers.

In the same column, he managed to convey the idea that he was none of those things of which he accused the students, that he was, in fact, a hell of a fella who had lived life to the full.

Let's face the charges, one by one. Bad manners. My personal experience is that their manners, on the whole, are better than those of their parents. They can be cruel, when they are thoughtless, but generally, they are more sensitive to the feelings of others than are adults.

No sense of adventure? He's all wet. One of my students headed across the continent on a bicycle. Others plan to go to Africa or Asia for the Peace Corps. Another swiped his old man's car, picked up two sidekicks, and took off for Mexico. My own son ran away last summer and hitch-hiked to Quebec, after I'd expressly forbidden such a jaunt.

From every direction come wails of alarm that students will try anything: hot cars, drinks, drugs, sex. And this man says they've no sense of adventure! What they have is too much of it.

Terribly sheltered, he says. Nonsense. We try to shelter them from the sordid, the harmful, the evil, as we see them. But the only teenager who is sheltered in this age is a kid who lives in a trapper's shack in the wilderness with two maiden aunts ,and is kept chained to his bed until he's 20. They're a lot less sheltered than I was at that age, and a lot better able to cope with reality, as a result.

Terribly staid, he says. Poppycock. They're conformists, I'll admit, as far as fads and fashions go. But I scarcely think I'd call those writhing, screaming masses at a Beatle show staid. They're almost as unstaid as their old ladies were, swooning over Sinatra. Or their grannies, wilting over Bing Crosby.

Terribly sad, he says. Baloney. Admitted, they can be deeply touched, because the hearts are not yet hardened. They can be terribly sad, sometimes. But they can be wildly exultant, too. How long is it since you've been truly joyful, Jack? The kids are much more human, emotionally, than adults, because they have not learned those grown-up horrors: the control, the stiff upper lip, the smothering of the flame.

And he claims they are empty. Empty of what? Dishonesty, greed, self- delusion, cruelty, selfishness, ruthlessness? I'm afraid he's right. But they are full of a lot of things that have pretty well gone out of style with adults: pity, love, joy, fun, unselfishness, honesty, idealism, loyalty.

Don't worry, I'm not soft on teenagers. I have two of my own, and sometimes they drive me right up the wall, across the ceiling, and down the other side. I teach about 140 of them daily, and there are days when I could go into class with a tommy gun and mow them all down. But they're people. And if I have to associate with people, I think I'd as soon associate with them as with any other class of the species.

Speak Out For Others

Canadian student demonstrations in support of U.S. civil rights campaigns have been criticized on the grounds that we should first solve the problems of our own minorities.

There is some validity to this argument. But it loses most of its strength because it comes in the main from the smug advocates of non-interference. They would have us keep silent on the great struggle of the American Negro for equality, while they are silent themselves on the indignities suffered by Canada's minorities.

Because the world is now one vast community, linked by television and satellites, injustice knows no national borders.

Whether it is the Negroes of Alabama, the peasants of Vietnam, the Bantus of South Africa or the peons of Latin America who suffer, our conscience should be no less outraged.

It is therefore right and proper that Canadians should add their voices to a chorus of world-wide indignation. We can be proud of those among us — especially our university students — who by their protests are helping to galvanize public opinion on these issues.

Just a short while ago, it seemed that our university students were taking little interest in the world of politics and in the social injustices outside their direct environment.

They were too occupied with campus capers — with shower marathons, panty raids, and beer-drinking contests — to take an active interest in sober side of society.

But today, this has changed on the Canadian campus.

The students do care about the world they live in.

They protest about the massacre in Viet Nam, they raise their voices against the sickly racial prejudices that dwell in the dark minds of too many people (including Canadians!), and they picket those who commit something that is morally unjust.

If our pre-war generation had been as alert and self-reasoning as today's youth, the artisans of propaganda might never have been able to soften up the public of such countries as Germany and Japan, preparing them as they did for the unleashing of world war.

But it must also be recognized that there is no place for hypocrisy in the pursuit of civil rights and social injustice.

Canada has a minimum of racial discrimination — not because Canadians are so high-minded, but because we just don't let minorities into this country. We're the world's most under-populated nation, but we still do our best to bar Negroes and Asiatics from entering Canada.

Back in 1941, our government and the good, white people of British Columbia pillaged the properties of innocent Japanese, and packed these harmless folk off to concentration camps.

Our native Indians and Eskimos live mainly in despicable squalor. We've done nothing about it because these people have not yet learned how to stand up and demand their share of the country's wealth.

Canadians should know by now that government acts only in response to pressure. If our native minorities are not yet ready to speak for themselves, this does not excuse us from speaking for them.

But all too often, we adults do not wish to suffer the inconvenience of defending strangers.

We read in our newspapers about an outrage against a fellow man, feel a tinge of mild shock, then skip on to another news story, or perhaps to the entertainment pages.

But our university students didn't shrug off their moral obligation. They protested against Selma and the protest was heard.

If we, the adults, are too complacent to stage protests, then may we at least hope that there will always be a young and idealistic generation to cry out for us.

Familiar to viewers

"And now here is the CBC National News, read by Earl Cameron", is probably the most familiar introduction on Canadian broadcasting. Millions of Canadians habitually tune to CBC announcer Cameron reading the news on CBC radio or television. Cameron was born in Moose Jaw in 1915. He taught school, drove a hearse, and worked as a lifeguard and railway section hand, before joining the CBC as a staff announcer at Toronto 21 years ago.

Diary of a Vagabond

MARITIME MEANDERINGS

It is possible, after travelling by rail to the eastern provinces, to make reservations with a company in Truro, Nova Scotia, which specializes in limousine tours. These trips, conducted by vacationing principals of various elementary schools and secondary schools, are delightful journeys by car over the romantic trails of a province which continues to gain a reputation for startling, natural beauty. What gives one even more confidence in the prospect of a pleasant holiday is the fact that Nova Scotia tours are endorsed by CN.

There are three tours to choose from, mine being the Cabot Trail and Prince Edward Island. The hotels and restaurants (which are all included in the price of the tours) without exception proved to be excellent.

The tour conductor carries on a running commentary and there is plenty of time for photography enthusiasts to get a shot of a particularly impressive scene.

We seemed to have barely gotten on our way from our rendez-vous in the Nova Scotian Hotel in Halifax, when our guide and driver, while skirting the shores of Bras d'Or Lake, was telling us of an annual MicMac spiritual mission that lasts for five days on Chapel Island. The occasion is the feast of St. Anne, when they commemorate Abbé Maillard, the beloved French priest who lived among their forefathers more than 200 years ago and who brought the statue of St. Anne with him from France. His greatest contribution was the devising of manuscript hieroglyphics. This journey was replete with such legends, all recited at the appropriate time by our courier.

Each of the Maritime provinces has a slogan. Nova Scotia is "Canada's Ocean Playground". And indeed it is, for there are 4,600 miles of scenic coastline. We took several of the winding, off-highway trails to discover some special scenic spot beloved by a driver who knew his province by heart.

Artists' Haven

Peggy's Cove is naturally the most publicized fishing village. Artists from all over the world come there every summer to try and capture its savage and peaceful aspects as surf beats on the rocks and makes little salt water pools in their crevices. It is a haven for fishing craft and its ever changing mood stirs a desire in most tourists to seal it forever either on canvas, on film, or in memory.

I find it difficult not to use superlatives while reminiscing about these lovely trips it has been my privilege to take since I made travelling not only my avocation, but in many respects, my career. For it is from these delightful experiences that I have found the inspiration for this column. If I seem overly enthusiastic while reviewing vacationing possibilities in our own country it is because I feel Canadians have missed so much joy and beauty by looking to farther fields for their holiday pleasure. I believe, after having left our shores on occasion to explore resorts in other countries, that we have equally beautiful scenery and as many interesting legends and tourist attractions as it is possible for a young country to acquire.

The editor of Nova Scotia News Letter has it pegged right when a cutline under a magnificent view reads, "The Cabot Trail is a spectacular drive etched on the highlands of Cape Breton. It provides one of eastern North America's most scenic drives". The tour also provides a night's stay at Keltic Lodge, a summer hostelry where guest cottages nestle in a grove of silver birches and tall pines surround the main lodge. When you see Old Smokey, a miniature mountain in the highland range, emerge from a morning mist you know you have chosen a never-to-be-forgotten holiday tour.

Record revenue in tourist dollars

Ottawa — Canda's travel industry achieved three records in 1964 — the highest total income in history from visitors from all countries, the highest income from United States tourists, the highest income from overseas visitors. These facts were revealed in a report published by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

The number of visitors to Canada from overseas in 1964 totalled 112,763, marking the first time that more than 100,000 direct entries have been recorded. This does not include visitors from abroad who came to Canada via the United States. Canadians themselves established a new tourist record in 1964 by spending $713,000,000 abroad.

The Canadian Government Travel Bureau reports that all signs indicate that a record number of tourists will visit Canada in 1965.

Fluoridation has medical, dental endorsement

Millions of Canadians are suffering from our nation's most widespread chronic disease, despite almost universal medical and dental endorsation of a means to prevent it. . . . Dental decay is the problem. And fluoridation of water the answer to it, says the National Health League.

An estimated $120 million is spent annually in Canada on dental treatment — much of which would be unnecessary if fluoridation were implemented from coast to coast.

Seventy-five per cent of our population is without fluoridation. At last report, only 4,205,000 Canadians in 383 communities were benefitting from its effect, either through natural fluoridation of their water supplies or because they had granted their governing bodies the power to add one part fluoride per million parts water.

The Health League of Canada, with the backing of virtually all qualified scientific and professional bodies on the continent, is leading the campaign to bring the benefits of fluoridation to all Canadian communities.

The League points out that public apathy is the main hurdle in the program. Most people accept bad teeth as a matter of course. They are not interested in a preventive measure when they are not concerned about the condition it is intended to prevent.

Some opponents of fluoridation have described the addition of fluoride to communal water supplies as an invasion of the individual's rights. The League counters this stand by repeating the statement made in a 1962 submission to the Royal Commission on Health Services: "It has long been established that in matters of grave importance the state has the right and the duty to overrule the obstruction of the individual. The Health League of Canada believes that the state has a moral responsibility to achieve the highest possible level of health for each member of the community that is consistent with scientific and economic ability."

Country Notebook

By WALKER RILEY, Macdonald College

If Quebec's twenty one thousand maple producers want greater returns for their product, they must do it by cutting costs and not by increasing prices.

This is the view of J. O. Vaillancourt, vice-president of Quebec's largest maple cooperative, the six-thousand-member Producteurs de Sirop d'Erable at Lévis, Que.

Speaking at the Maple Day at Macdonald College, Mr. Vaillancourt said, "A man said that we should try to get a higher price for maple syrup. We tried. But when you are selling you have customers, and then people have to be ready to pay a higher price. Personally, I feel we have reached a good level. We should first try to stabilize that price, and second try to give better means to our producers to produce at a cheaper price. This is the only way to make money.

"Following our own experience, when we were able to sell maple syrup at 59 cents a bottle in the store, we sold lots. But as soon as the price reached 63 to 65 cents, the sales decreased very rapidly."

Fifty percent of the province's $10,000,000 maple harvest goes to the United States. Another one percent goes to Australia, Denmark, France, Sweden and the United Kingdom. The rest is used at home. Mr. Vaillancourt feels that we can and should develop the overseas market and the home market. "We depend too much on the United States for an outlet right now," he said.

This co-op is already doing more than perhaps any other firm to develop these overseas markets for maple products. With the assistance of the Department of Trade and Commerce, it took part in at least four European trade fairs last year. At the present time there is one in London, England. Mr. Vaillancourt reported that they were sold out in the first few days; and had to send more maple products over by air to keep the display going.

So the Europeans obviously like our maple syrup. The market possibilities appear excellent. It is one distinctively Canadian product, for which we do not need to fear competition or surplus.

In my report (see page 7) on Maple Day, I quoted figures on sap flow comparing pipelines with buckets. Dan MacArthur in Woodlot Management tells me that the picture is not at all clear. Different studies have given different results.

Here at the College, our results give evidence but not proof that properly installed plastic tubing gives yields at least as good as buckets and spouts.

Regarding tap-hole sterilants (PFA and Chlorodex), these did not appear to make any difference in our operation in 1964. Other operators have reported significant increases. While the use of these materials is not illegal providing minimum standards are met, the Quebec Department of Agriculture is discouraging their use for fear of unfavorable reaction in the market.

Several new bulletins are available through the College's extension Service. There is an excellent five-part one from the Canada Department of Agriculture on "Growing Strawberries", and for apple growers, "New Early Apple Varieties". This year's provincial herbicide recommendations for all field and vegetable crops are ready in the form of a wall chart. For those interested in corn, Philippe Granger, the farm manager at the St. Hyacinthe school, is co-author of a very good new bulletin, "Le Mais-grain", publication no. 312. I am hoping that it will soon be translated.

Choosing a career can be difficult, but young people who start thinking early about careers will find choosing much easier.

Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada's new pamphlet, "What's in Your Future?", is designed to help young people start thinking about career ideas and planning their future. The pamphlet is the 18th in the company's popular "Values in Education" series, and is available from the Sun Life branch manager, T. A. Lemoyre, St. Jerome.

Young children like to talk about what they will be when they grow up, but by the time they reach their mid-teens they have developed new, less fanciful, ambitions. They are aware of real and lasting interests, and are ready to start thinking seriously about career opportunities.

The pamphlet underlines the value of "obtaining a complete education", and explains that education is the cornerstone upon which successful careers are built. After high school, "it is highly desirable to take some kind of advanced education or training such as is provided at a technical or trade school, or a university."

The pamphlet urges young people to ask parents and parents' friends about their work. "Ask people in any career which interests you," it suggests. Teachers and guidance counsellors should be consulted too. "These people cannot make the choice for you, but they can give valuable advice and friendly assistance."

"What's in Your Future?" and the other Values in Education pamphlets are available without charge from Sun Life offices across Canada.

DISAPPOINTING

Early Settlers made Maple Syrup

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

Have you ever seen a copy of a pioneer Canadian artist's picture of "The Maple Sugar Camp"? Cornelius Krieghoff painted this canvas in 1848 showing a family all busy around a sugar house. The sap is boiling above the blazing fire and on one side a child is pouring maple sugar into the moulds in the clean snow.

As parents we do well occasionally to remind our children of pioneer days. Before the end of the 17th century, Frenchmen writing to friends in Paris mentioned buying maple sugar from the Indians. Charlevoix, in his Journal made this entry in 1744: "The people here treat one with maple sap. . . It is delicious, admirably refreshing and very pure. . . Soothing to the stomach, it causes no burning pains." (Sounds like a 20th century "ad" doesn't it?)

When provision ships such as the "La Seine" were captured on the high seas by the English, during the American War of Independence, the French colonists were forced to search for ways to add to their food supply. This gave a great impetus to maple sugar making. The habitants were grateful for this sweet product of the forests. In some parts of Quebec "The Blessing of the Maple" was an annual ceremony.

The Memoirs of Colonel John Clark give this glimpse into early life in Upper Canada: "In a community where it was next to impossible to obtain sugar, being a very bulky luxury and very difficult of access, nature had provided a substitute in the rich sap of the maple tree generally found on each farm." With the passing of the years the collection and evaporation of maple sap has become more efficient and is carried out on a larger scale, but unfortunately many of the fine hardwood lots have been completely cut for lumber and have not been replaced.

In pioneer days, as now, maple syrup was the first "crop of the season". The settlers marked this occasion with gay sugaring-off parties, in the moonlight in the woods. Young and old gathered around the blazing fire in the sugar house and sampled cakes of sugar, which they cooled in the clean snow. Susanna Moodie, in 1852, in "Roughing It In The Bush", paid a tribute to the tall, green maple which "yields a treasure which never shall fail."

How does the quantity of today's maple "treasure" compare with that of the early days? A French chatelaine, Mme de Repentigny, early in the 18th century wrote that thirty thousand pounds were produced annually in the Montreal area. A little over a century ago, the total yearly output was around thirteen million pounds. The yield does fluctuate with the weather (good sugar conditions demand frosty nights and sunny days). In a recent year this commercial crop amounted to 2,832,000 gallons of maple syrup and 781,000 pounds of maple sugar, half of this for the export trade.

You who live in Quebec or Eastern Canada, perhaps can visit a bush where maple syrup is being made. Possibly there is a big maple or two growing in your own yard. Why not collect the sap and boil it down? You may be amazed to find ten gallons of sap must be evaporated to produce approximately one quarter of a gallon of syrup or two pounds of sugar.

But wherever you live, you can fit maple syrup into your spring menus on many other occasions besides the traditional pancakes and maple syrup treat on Shrove Tuesday! Experiment with some new recipes using maple syrup as a flavoring extract. It blends nicely with a white cake mix! Apples cored, stuffed with raisins and baked in maple syrup, with a dusting on top of cinnamon and bread crumbs, are hard to beat! Let maple syrup have its rightful place on our tables — a Canadian treat for Canadians — no sweeter product can be found anywhere else!

U.C.W. session on Leadership

The Montreal Presbyterial U.C.W. executive will hold a Leadership Workshop at the Y.M.C.A., 1355 Dorchester Blvd. W., this Friday, April 2, at 10 a.m.

Miss Margery Stelck, Leadership Development travelling secretary of the Board of Women, United Church of Canada, will be the guest speaker.

Miss Stelck has served as a deaconess for the United Church in Moose Jaw and at the Metropolitan Church in Toronto. She was radio secretary for the national committee on Missionary Education, and the original director of the program "When a Child Asks". In 1964 she returned from England, where she had been studying for two years at William Temple College, Rugby.

The Workshop program arranged by Miss Stelck and Mrs. Paul S. Smith, Leadership Development chairman for Montreal Presbyterial, will include presentations and discussions. Mrs. Carl Breesee will conduct a special worship service of words and music.

Presidents and treasurers of United Church Women from more than 100 churches in the Montreal Presbytery are expected to attend.

FOR THE EARLY MAIL

The women of a small Canadian town have asked that the postbox be moved farther along the street.

They say they don't want to pass the hotel when they go to post a letter in the evening. It's not a bad town at that.

Canadian reporters and editors trying to summarize "what's new" in the collections at home and abroad keep referring to the diversity of fashion; the variety of looks from Paris, London, Italy; the classics, the extremes, the year-round fabrics, colors; the importance of young fashions as distinct from adult.

The one point in common seems to be that today's fashions are lighter, more feminine and less confining. The easy fit is said designed for women on the move, and this applies to everything from foundation garments to hats and shoes.

Canadian fashion editors are also heaping unusual acclaim on the Canadian fashion industry. After seeing the New York shows some writers have announced that Canadian spring fashions compare more than favorably.

They admire the slim, but shapely, coats with long straight sleeves in flat surfaced fabrics such as twills, ribs and gabardines. Suits are acclaimed for easy lines, with short mobile skirts often pleated and seen in fresh pastels, classic navy, camel or grey.

Suit jackets vary in length from hipline to long tunics and are often teamed with the perfect blouse for the costume look. Dresses are jacketed too and many have soft, feminine touches with bow-tied necklines and flared or pleated skirts. Crepes, of which there are superlative Canadian versions, are big again; knits, another expression of our craze for comfort and mobility, have never been stronger.

Pants, the further expression of the wish for comfort, range from stretchy slims to bell-bottomed beachwear. Pant suits and jumpsuits are decreed for travelling, as well as for casual wear.

The new craze for crochet includes everything from crocheted sweaters and dresses to textured hosiery, and sweaters themselves are just about as diverse as human imagination and ingenuity can make them. Cardigans now come in hip-length, thigh length and coat length. They are designed for golfing, for wear with hostess skirts, or with bathing suits.

Beach sweaters are not just cover-ups. There are sweater top spits and the fish net cages that cover daring bikinis. Swimsuits are also ruffled and flounced and feminine.

The young and teen fashions strongly influenced by the British Mods and the French "ye-ye" crowds, feature contrasting fabrics such as checks and dots in coats, jumpers, skirts, culottes and jackets hung with oversized industrial zippers — a new 'ye-ye' fad. Hugely ribbed sweaters called "Poor Boy", webbed belts, and skinny coats with Chelsea collars are shown with widely textured hosiery.

Even lingerie has rated raves from the fashion reporters for the new ideas, the diversity of easy care blend fabrics and the range of choice.

Summing up: you wear size ten, twelve or sixteen. Money is, or is not, an object. The best of everything is on the racks right now, ready to be worn and available to everyone.

EASTER SEALS

The funds realized by the sale of Easter Seals provide necessary care for crippled children who might otherwise be unable to enjoy a comparatively active life.

QUICK N' EASY

Recipe of the Month

Just watch the pieces disappear when this Refrigerated Cherry Torte is served! It's a treat that boasts double enjoyment, with two layers of dark, rich fudge nut cookies and two layers of tart-sweet cherry pie filling. A combination of flavors meant for pleasing the man of your life, this torte is easy enough for the newest cook to attempt, tasty enough for the most experienced homemaker to serve.

The torte base is made with a roll of refrigerated fudge nut cookies, sliced and arranged side-by-side in two cake pans. When baked, these fudge layers are much like crisp brownies, good eating to the end! The cherries are in a can—a can of fruit pie filling that is ready for use, wealthy with plump, red cherries. Garnished with an edging of whipped cream, the torte is certain to brighten every party it's invited to.

REFRIGERATED CHERRY TORTE

1 can (2½ cups) cherry pie filling

Cut cookie roll into slices ¼-inch thick. Place cookie slices in the bottom of two 8 or 9-inch square or round cake pans that have been greased, lined with wax paper, greased and floured. Bake at 350° for 15 to 20 minutes, or until light golden brown. Cool 10 minutes; remove from pan. Cool.

Spoon ½ can cherry filling over bottom layer. Top with cookie layer and remainder of filling. Chill overnight. Just before serving, spoon Pecan Whipped Cream around outer edge of cherry filling. Serves 6 to 8.

PECAN WHIPPED CREAM

Illness and convalescence which keep a patient at home but in bed, shift the normal pattern of living in almost any home.

The changes can be kept to a minimum and combined with good care for the patient, if a few simple rules of thumb are followed — suggests a St. John Ambulance booklet.

A routine should be established which will look after personal cleanliness, food, medicine, treatment, rest, sleep, and as much exercise and amusement as possible. Every patient and every patient's condition will differ and will require a routine adapted for the individual case, but there is a broad outline of care which can serve as a guide.

Normal As Possible

The ordinary routine of both the home and the patient should stay as close to normal as possible.

Everyone in the household should co-operate for the sake of the patient and the family.

The patient's routine should be balanced to prevent both over-exertion and boredom, as far as possible. Regularity and punctuality will help.

He should take on many of his normal living habits as soon as he safely can. Too much nursing is bad nursing.

A record should be kept of observations and nursing care. If the attentions of a professional nurse are necessary, the routine should be organized to give her regular reliefs.

Daily Pattern

A patient's day should have as regular and as quiet a start as possible, although, if he has had a bad night, he should be allowed to sleep longer than usual.

Depending on doctor's instructions, the day may begin with pulse and temperature-taking and a bed-pan. Washing hands and face and mouth comes next, and making him comfortable for breakfast. No one should be rushed, and a patient who is able to wash himself, should do so.

A bed bath should wait until about half an hour after breakfast, a tub bath about an hour. Morning treatments should probably be given before the bath and change of linen, a back rub afterward.

In the afternoon, the patient should rest for an hour after lunch. He may want another massage, and his bed clothes should be straightened and checked for crumbs. If he is to be left alone, he should have some sort of call signal near him.

Mid-afternoon is the time for whatever amusement a patient may have. If he is allowed visitors, they should not be allowed to excite or tire him.

He should be prepared for sleep as early in the evening as possible. Then another complete or partial bath may be given, and a massage. The bed should be freshened or straightened again. A hot drink which will help bring on sleep may be given to him at bed time.

FAIR SEX SICK OFTENER, BUT LIVES LONGER

Men have long claimed that women are the weaker sex. Now comes proof from the (U.S.) Health Insurance Institute. A recent study shows that women have 18 per cent more colds, 20 per cent more attacks of flu, and twice as many headaches as men. The fair sex comes down with 233 acute conditions a year per every 100 women, compared with 204 for men.

These facts notwithstanding, the women live longer than men — almost seven years longer, according to the experts.
