M. P. FOR ARGENTEUIL IS ONLY CANADIAN FOR KING'S NEW YEAR'S HONORS

Higher Distinctions for Sir George Perley

Argenteuil's Distinguished Member Receives Signal Honor in New Year's List

Regardless of their political affiliations, members of the Canadian Parliament expressed unanimous pleasure at the news of Sir George Perley's promotion to the Order of St. Michael and St. George, in the New Year's honors list. The constituency of Argenteuil, which bears an even closer esteem and affection for its federal representative, is no less gratified at the marked honor accorded to Sir George. His promotion follows naturally upon the High esteem he won in London as High Commissioner, where he gained hosts of friends and did yeoman service for his country.

Sir George was made Knight Grand Cross of the Order of St. Michael and St. George. In the New Year's honors of 1915; six months after he assumed the duties of Canadian war-time Commissioner in London, he was made a Knight Commander of St. Michael and St. George. This year's conferment gives him a higher degree in the order. He will continue to be addressed as "Sir George"; but the letters following his name will change from K.C.M.G. to G.C.M.G.

Beloved by all parties in the House of Commons, his sound judgment, his fairness, his gentlemanly manner and his vast knowledge of political affairs far and wide, command the respect and admiration of Parliament. To a young man and to a member entering Parliament for the first time, Sir George is always the kind and courteous adviser, even in his busiest moments.

He first came to Parliament in 1902, the Conservative victor in a by-election here in Argenteuil. The general elections of 1904, 1908 and 1911 saw his return. Before the 1911 reciprocity election, he was made Chief Conservative Whip under Sir Robert Borden. When the Conservative Government came into power that year, Sir George became Minister without portfolio in the Borden Cabinet. From June, 1914, to February 1932, he was Canadian High Commissioner in London. With these duties, Sir George combined those of Canadian Minister of Overseas Military Forces for Canada in the United Kingdom from October 31 until after the signing of the Armistice.

On September 6, 1919, came another recognition to the Canadian statesman. Sir George was gazetted a commissioner and plenipotentiary to conclude with such plenipotentiaries as were vested with similar power from other countries, any treaties, conventions or agreements in connections with the peace congress.

The power conferred upon Sir George authorized him also to sign for Canada in such matters everything so agreed upon and concluded.

His war work concluded, Sir George, with Lady Perley returned to Canada and came back to Parliament in the general election of 1925. In the Meighen Administration of 1926, Sir George was Secretary of State. When Prime Minister R. B. Bennett formed his Cabinet he became Minister without portfolio and senior member of the Privy Council.

Nominations Next Wednesday at St. Jerusalem

It is expected all the retiring members of St. Jerusalem Parish Council will seek re-election at the nomination of candidates to be held next Wednesday. Vacancies will be created in four seats, including the mayoralty, from which J. E. Walker retires this month. Messrs Andrew Nichol, Matthew Elder, and J. E. Armstrong also conclude their term of office as councillors.

Ayers' Triumph in Exhibition Match

An Exhibition game on Saturday last at Lachute Rink, reflected marked credit on the combination play of our local Industrial team, when Ayers handed a narrow defeat to Independents to the tune of 4 goals to 3.

The Lefebvre brothers were missing from the town team, and Joe Berniquier augmented the line-up with a good fast display of hockey. Otherwise the players comprised the regular Independent team. The game was fast and clean throughout, and well contested, both sides putting on a creditable performance.

Referees MacKimmie and Belanger ruled the game. Patry scored two goals, and Gagner and Drew one each, for the Mills. Scorers for Independents were Beauchamp (2) and Howie Jones (1).

Pegged Stock Features in Court Case

Gilbert Arnold, of Grenville is Plaintiff.

The real value of a "pegged stock" was an interesting point of law submitted for consideration at recent court sittings of the united counties of Prescott and Russell. This was in the case of Gilbert Arnold, horse breeder of Grenville, versus Leo Lamoureux, trader of St. Isidore de Prescott, Ont.

The action arose from the sale of a registered pedigree Percheron stallion by the plaintiff to the defendant. It appeared from the evidence submitted the sale had been made for the price of $400 and that Lamoureux had tendered fifteen shares of National Breweries stock and

The Late H. W. Mayrand

Henry Wellington Mayrand, who died on Sunday night at the residence of Dr. G. F. Shaw, 4083 Oxford avenue, was in his 85th. year, and was the son of the late Col. Dr. W. H. Mayrand. He was born in St. Andrews East and educated at Rigaud College. For over 30 years he was employed by the Bank of Montreal, and retired on pension some years ago. He was a member of the Montreal Art Association and of St. Matthew's Anglican Church. The funeral service took place Tuesday morning at the undertaking chapel of D. A. Collins. Interment at St. Andrews East.

Gold Dust and Real Estate in Quest for Fortune

Native of St. Andrews East Comes Home from the Yukon
John MacMartin tells Interesting Tale

A pioneer of the storied gold-trekking days of the Yukon territory, drifted back to his native haunts in Argenteuil this week, reviewing old landmarks and renewing the still fewer acquaintances who remain from his early days, before he went west to join the Klondyke Gold Rush of '97 and '98. The name of MacMartin is familiar to those who recall something of the history of this county, the original family having farmed in Cote du Midi, near St. Andrews East. Mr. John F. K. MacMartin of Fort Selkirk, Yukon Territory, now in his seventies—was formerly a Captain of the 11th. Argenteuil Rangers. Leaving St. Andrews 35 years ago, it is now 21 years since he revisited these parts.

Pioneer Days a Round of New Experiences

The Yukon, in those romantic days of fabled gold, was a strange place indeed to newcomers from the East, and Mr. MacMartin and his wife were confronted as settlers with new difficulties and new problems at every hand. Telling something of his reactions, to a presentative of this paper, the visitor asserted it was "just like learning how to live". Mrs. MacMartin, formerly Miss Patterson and sister of the late Lieut. Col. Patterson, of Montreal, has weathered the hard years with a surprising grace and vigor, and has just enjoyed to the utmost their well-earned trip across Canada and to the British Isles. And now, on their return journey, this adventurous couple are revisiting friends in eastern Canada. Owing to difficulties of travel at this season,

Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett Heard in New Year's Greetings

Radio Listeners Impressed by Premier's Message Logic and Reason are Keynote....No false Optimism

The most striking thing in Mr. Bennett's splendid New Year message on his recent return from Great Britain, was a plea to those in command of capital to loosen up and place it behind Canadian industry and enterprise. It was not unnatural, as he says, that investors should have withdrawn funds from active enterprise at a time of falling prices. But now that the fall is arrested, it is time for Canadian capital to come out of hiding. Mr. Bennett struck at the "old-fashioned notion that money or wealth can be separated from enterprise and cloistered in safe keeping away from call of industrial needs." "If industry fails in this country," the Prime Minister declared, "your wealth, your savings, insurance and investment will melt like snow before your eyes."

Mr. Bennett reviewed briefly the outstanding problems confronting our public men. He alluded to the difficulty of low prices in agricultural produce, but with an honest belief in the prospect of a rise to normal figures in the future. This forecast by Mr. Bennett bore no suggestion of inflated optimism, but a note of genuine confidence.

Other problems for immediate consideration include, of course, the non-productive spending entailed by government relief, and also in revising the methods of dispensing and administering this relief.

"This year again we face the same unsolved problems, but with an absolutely new world vision and an enlightened hope—vision that comes to those determined against failure, and a hope that is based upon profitable experiences." The method of "trial and error" has proven, in history, of practical guidance to the better ways of government, management, and administration.

1932 Passes into Canadian history as the year of the Imperial Economic Conference. In 1933 we shall taste first fruits of the Ottawa agreements. Mr. Bennett points towards the forthcoming World Economic Conference. There were certain problems such as the fall in commodity prices and monetary readjustment, currency exchange difficulties, etc., which were too broad even for Ottawa. These will be tackled at the World Conference. And Canada, with its huge primary production and large exports, is one of the nations most concerned with the outcome of attempts to raise world prices and stabilize exchanges.

Canada thus has a new vision ahead, backed by the successful experience of the Ottawa Conference. The nations, as Mr. Bennett pointed out, have learned some of the lessons of the times. "We have learned to approach the task with the realization that depression is a common enemy to all of us, and that only by united approach can success be made certain."

Marriage

WIGHT—SMITH

The marriage of Blanche Janet, daughter of Major S. E. Smith and the late Mrs. Smith, of Lachute, to Mr. Ralph Albert Walter Wight, of Annota Bay, Jamaica, took place Saturday afternoon at St. Simeon's Church Lachute, the Rev. J. A. Lackey officiating, assisted by Rev. Mr. LeCras. Yellow chrysanthemums and pompons were used in decorating the church. Miss Margaret Scott played the wedding music, and both bride and bridegroom were unattended. Messrs. Kenneth and Russell Elliott acted as ushers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore her travelling frock of midnight blue silk serge and velvet with hat to match. She carried a white kid prayer book, marked with white heather and showered with tea roses and lilies-of-the-valley. The reception following the ceremony was held at the residence of the bride's brother, Mr. Stanley Smith, where decorations were carried out in tones of yellow and white. The bride and bridegroom left later for Ottawa and on their return will reside in Montreal.

Horses in Poland Sell for 82 cents

In Warsaw recently horses were sold at auction for the equivalent of 82 cents each as an indication of the severity of Poland's agricultural crisis.

One farmer sold all his household goods, farm equipment and several head of stock for $4.10.

"Look into my face; my name is Might-Have-Been. I am known also as No More, Too Late, Farewell."

Judge Amplifies Verdict with Comment on Law's Provision Against Libel

Chief Justice Greenshields in Montreal, delivering sentence in Macaulay-Harpell Case

"Harpell, upon a complaint of Thomas B. Macaulay, you were arrested on a charge of criminal defamatory libel. After investigation before the magistrate, a commitment to this court intervened. The grand jury found a true bill and upon that you were arraigned. You exercised your rights quite properly, and to the fullest extent. You filed a plea of not guilty, which is the general denial of guilt. Then, with or without the permission of the court, it is a matter of indifference, you were permitted to file a special plea, and this is what you said: 'What I said about the complainant is true in its entirety, and it was in the public interest that I should publish it.' And then you proceeded to add pages of plea which I must admit I had some difficulty in understanding, which you called a plea in justification. Just whether it was a plea to substantiate the truth of your libel or whether it was allegations in support of the statement that it was in the public interest, it is very difficult to decide. I was and still am of the opinion that at least two-thirds of that plea was absolutely unfounded in law and since the hearing I am convinced that if the plea had stood as it originally was filed, the result in law at least if not in fact must have been absolutely unsound."

"Now, the trial took place before 12 of your peers, and probably four days or five were occupied with your defence, and your whole defence naturally

Town Council

The regular monthly meeting of Lachute Town Council was held on Wednesday in the Victoria Hall, at which were present Mayor Peter Dobbie and Aldermen J. A. Rice, J. P. MacKimmie, C. Miller, O. Laurin, Lamarche and Remi Ledoux.

Minutes of last meeting were read and approved. The Finance Committee's report was also received and adopted and accounts ordered paid.

Alderman Rice moved that a vote of thanks be extended to the Mayor for the faithful services he has rendered to the town both as Alderman and Mayor. Seconded by Alderman Miller this motion found ready response and in reply Mayor Dobbie said he had only missed two meetings during his tenure of office, and prior to Lachute he had served sixteen years on the council of Harrington where he had twelve miles of a drive, but was always at his post of duty.

Mayor Dobbie thanked the members of the Council for the hearty and kindly support he had received from them, and wished the future council every success for the town's welfare.

Partridges Prepared — The Indians of Northern Quebec predict heavy snow this winter. They base their prophecy on two signs which they say never fail to foretell the type of the approaching winter. The first is that the pine trees are heavily laden with cones and the second is that the partridge are appearing with heavily feathered legs. Both of these signs were missing last year and the snowfall was one of the lightest on record.

In Sixth League Game Ayers Win Victory Over Reds

Tuesday night's Ayers vs Reds fixture at Brownsburg was keenly enjoyed both by players and spectators, especially those who relish fast, clean sport. Ayers chalked up another decided victory, with 6 goals to 1, registering a further advance in the district league standings.

The opposing teams evidenced no lack of rivalry through the friendly spirit which prevailed, and each side put forth its best efforts. McGibbon scored the only goal for Brownsburg, while Lachute boys marked a tally each to the credit of W. Drew, C. Drew, and Gagner. P. Patry scoring 3. Two minor penalties of one minute were incurred, one for each side. Referee Barker superintended the play.

The Ayers line-up were guests of the home team at a bean supper, following the game.

Former Townsboy Says "How-do" by Airplane

Mr. Del Mitchell, who will be remembered by many as a former resident of Lachute Mills, was very near, yet far enough, from his old home town last weekend. Mr. Mitchell had hired an airplane, and flew to Lachute with a prospect of landing to revisit old acquaintances. But his machine was equipped with wheels, skis being unnecessary at the Montreal airports; and hovering over the Exhibition Grounds here in the West End, he considered it unwise to attempt a landing.

Del is engaged as organizer with the Ford Motor sales force, and spends much of his time in the Eastern Townships.

THE CAPTAIN'S WEEKLY LETTER.

WHAT DOES THE NEW YEAR MEAN TO YOU?

Dear Boys:

This being my first letter for the New Year I suppose you will be looking for a very special message from me, so I will begin by asking—

What does the New Year mean to you?

I remember many years ago, when I left home to return to school for the commencement of a new term's work, I made up my mind on the very first day to start afresh. This meant the giving up of idle habits and making a supreme effort, in some way or other, to reach the top of my class. You naturally expect me to say I accomplished this ambition. Well I did not, though the next best thing happened, because for the first time in my school life I came—SECOND.

But something more had taken place, though at the time I knew nothing about it. There had come to me the desire to work in order to really accomplish something worth while . . . and, with a final word about myself, this habit has remained with me ever since.

Now, here we are at the beginning of a New Year. Will you work hard, play hard, and pray hard. That's a good motto for you all to adopt for 1933.

A little boy friend of mine used to be very particular about things when, in school, he turned over a new page in his exercise book. His figures and writing were the best he could do and he used to become quite angry should, by any chance, the paper become dirty. May I remind you all that, with this New Year, you have begun a fair, clean page in your book of Life.—Don't blot it will you?

With my sincere wishes for your happiness and success,

Your affectionate friend,

CHAPTER I

*Not all is certain, changes there must be
That speak of life, which rules eternally.*
—Hudson.

The little town of Ryden, situated on the south coast of England, was in a great state of excitement on account of the news which had arrived on the day our story opens.

Very little information from the outside world reached this quiet little hamlet, half buried as it was in the depth of a beautiful valley through which a river lazily meandered on its way to the distant sea.

It was the year of Our Lord 1820, and His Most Noble Majesty King George IV had been proclaimed a few days previously—to be exact on January 29th., as their Sovereign, by the whole Nation. Many festivities had taken place and there were gay doings both in London at the Abbey of Westminster and at the King's castle of Windsor. Not that much, if any news, of such activities reached the good people of the town of Ryden, for these were times when information between town and city was conveyed by well-mounted couriers who but seldom turned aside from the main road connecting London with the ancient city of Winchester, unless they had, as in the present case, some distinct object in so doing.

Both for man and horse the journey along the King's highway was a perilous and arduous undertaking, the road being often very bad and infested with bands of robbers, comprising principally out-of-work soldiers disbanded after the Napoleonic war, and others who sought to earn their living by holding up respectable citizens.

This was also the period in the history of England when men's thoughts were directed toward colonial expansion and the trade of the sea took predominance over that of the land. New countries overseas were revealing their possibilities, their natural resources calling only for active minds and willing hands so that the spoils, a just reward of hardship and toil, might be gathered in. But this spirit of adventure and enterprise had mostly confined itself to the larger cities and those towns that were situated on the English coast, so that Ryden, with its few hundred inhabitants, most of whom were engaged in agricultural pursuits, was left in comparative ignorance of the great movements taking place in other parts of the country.

Still, on this particular day news had come to the town, brought by a man who was even now refreshing himself with a large tankard of home-brewed ale at the Black Bear Inn, the only hostelry there was, and in consequence a place much patronized by the yeomen and farmers of the district. He, indeed, was the bearer of no glad tidings, for the dispatch carried by him from far-away London had contained but sorry news, which would effect the homes of many to whom it had been told only an hour ago by worthy John Hampden the Town Crier. "Old John," as he was familiarly known to one and all, had vigorously rung his bell in the market place and by this means, having gathered together what he considered to be an audience sufficiently large and attentive for his purpose, had in loud tones read out the dispatch, informing—"All loyal subjects whom it may concern, that the great Southern and City of London Bank had suspended payment and all general business for the time being." Here he ended by vigorously blowing his nose, and calling on all present to bless the King's Most Excellent Majesty.

For reason that most of the people were occupied in work on the land, there were few business premises in this Town. The one winding cobbled street, through which wagons and other horse drawn vehicles continually rattled on their way, led down to the market square where every Thursday cattle, poultry and all kinds of vegetables were displayed and sold. Three or four shops showed their wares in small mullion windows, quaint rel-

BELATED CHRISTMAS By Aunt Jean

If the little folks in far-off Greece

Have Christmas Day so late,
I am sure they find it rather hard

To wait, and wait, and wait.

Knowing that in other lands
Old Santa's visit is o'er That small Canucks and Yankee chaps

Have had their gifts before;

How they must watch the solemn clock

That ticks, and ticks, and ticks

The minutes off, until at last
It reaches January sixth.

LITTLE CHRISTMAS AND THE TOYS

By Aunt Jean

The sixth of January, quite often called "Little Christmas," has come down to us marked as a holiday for many years in memory of the visit of The Magi, or three wise men who came to lay their gifts at the feet of the Baby Jesus, so many years ago.

In some far-off lands, what would seem to us to be very strange customs are followed on that day.

In Greece January sixth is counted as the Orthodox Christmas day. Orthodox is such a big word for little folks to understand and pronounce, that I am going to tell you what it really means. It means right or true Christmas; and they celebrate it there by blessing the waters!

Their priests carry a cross down to the water's edge, followed by soldiers and all the people of the place who are interested in the ceremony. When they get there the priest throws the cross into the waves to bless the water. Boys dive after it and return it to him again. By doing this they receive his blessing for themselves.

Other lands have different customs, but in our own Canada, some people honor the day by going to church, while others are only interested in it because it means a holiday for them. There are very few people in the world who do not enjoy having holidays, particularly little people, when it means that there are no lessons to learn, forgetting that if we were never given a chance to learn lessons we would be so stupid that we should not know how to live properly.

ics of the days of Queen Elizabeth, for Time had dealt but gently with this old world hamlet. On one side of the market place stood the Court House, facing the beautiful church of St. Luke with its noble Norman tower that could be seen for a considerable distance along the valley; while at another corner, but on the further side, was to be found the Ryden branch of the bank concerning which so much excitement had been aroused.

On ordinary days few people would enter or leave these premises, but now it was surrounded by an eager and curious crowd loudly demanding admittance through doors which were fast closed against them. As time went on and the great clock in the church tower boomed out the hour of eleven, an angry shout arose from the excited throng that an entry should be forced and their money recovered. This perhaps was natural, for though they had been told the bank had failed, it had been hard for them to realise it and come to the knowledge that all their money had gone. Somewhere in the building it must be, and without doubt the threatened invasion would have taken place had it not been for the "Watch" the policemen of those days, who just then hurried up and, sternly demanding Peace, belaboured with their clubs all who stood in their way. By this means the crowd was slowly driven back, compelled to confine their complaints to sullen looks and muttered words of indignation.

Such serious occurrence was to prove no more than the usual "nine days' wonder" to those who took part in it on that cold January morning. But to others it was to be the beginning of real adventure and strange happenings which have led up to the writing of this wondrous narrative here set down for the first time.

In the House Which Always Gets So Many Toys At Christmas, the big folks had gone away for a holiday on the sixth of January and had taken the wee folks with them, leaving the Toys all alone.

The Toys that had just come from Santa Claus Land, felt very lonely; they did not like holidays so far away from home, where there had been so many of them together to keep each other company, and where kind Mrs. Santa was always fussing over them.

The Rosebud Doll was so lonely that she said to herself "Oh dear! It is so lonely here. There's not a sound but the ticking of the Grandfather Clock. It ticks so slowly and so loudly that it makes me nervous. How I wish that Rhoda May would come in and cuddle me; even Baby Bunting's attentions would be welcome just now. He is rough though," she whispered; "he took one of my shoes and pushed it down the sink, and I find my foot quite cold without it."

Rhoda May was quite cross with Baby Bunting, but her mother said "Now, now, Rhoda May! Remember that he is only a baby and does not know any better." But that did not bring Rosebud's slipper back, or warm her wee cold foot.

"How I wish Tinkles were here to wind up the gramophone!" she sighed "so that we might dance and warm ourselves." She did not know that leaving Santa Claus Land would make such a difference; that toys who danced in Santa Claus Land did not dance here, unless they were toys that danced when wound up. There was no one to wind them up just now. Poor Sambo was standing sedately in the corner just longing to dance, she knew, but she could not help him any as she herself was hanging suspended from a hook which had been caught in the beautiful pink ribbon that Tinkles had so proudly tied around her waist. Rhoda May had hung her up there to keep her out of Baby Bunting's reach.

She longed so much to be down close to the other toys, but could not get free from the hook. She was so much safer there, had she only known it, as Baby Bunting was not as careful of toys as he might have been. He had thrown little Boy Blue into the fireplace with a chuckle of delight! . . . The strange odor caused by his scorching paint had brought Nurse Grant hurriedly to the fireplace just in time to save him from complete destruction, and he was sitting at this moment out on the dining-room window, a rather pitiful-looking doll with his blackened coat and his poor bald head; no doubt he was wishing for Tinkles too, or kind Mrs. Santa, to come and fix him all up again.

Rosebud did not know that though; she only knew that she was lonely and longing to be loved as much as Jemima, Rhoda May's own doll.

Rhoda May had made so much of Rosebud when she had found her sitting at the foot of the Christmas tree on Christmas morning, just where Old Santa had set her after he had smoothed out her silken frock and pushed her slippers firmly on. He had not meant to leave her there, but something had startled him and he had hurried away.

It had only been the funny wheezing noise the Grandfather Clock made when getting ready to count the hours, that had startled him. They did not have Grandfather Clocks in Santa Claus Land, and no doubt poor Old Santa thought some one was watching him who breathed quite heavily. Santa does not like being watched when he is filling the children's stockings or putting gifts on the Christmas tree. It makes him forgetful and nervous. He forgot that he meant to lay the Rosebud Doll right by Rhoda May as she lay in bed sound asleep, but he left her sitting at the foot of the Christmas tree instead, where Rhoda May had found and proudly shown her to her mother and daddy and all the members of her family, even to the cook, had praised and admired her, wishing in her own heart that Santa Claus had left her little sister a doll so pretty. The Rosebud Doll had been quite puffed up with pride until night came, with it Rhoda May's bedtime hour; then she had found herself left alone on the parlor sofa while Jemima had been cuddled tightly in Rhoda May's arms and had gone to bed with her. Rosebud was so disappointed; she had never been taken to bed by anyone, and oh how she did want to be so much loved as that. If Baby Bunting would only toss Jemima into the fireplace she would soon burn up, then perhaps she herself would be more appreciated.

"What a wicked thought, Rosebud!" a gentle voice whispered in her ear. She had not thought that anyone was around but the Christmas Fairy was having a last look at her pets before going back to her icicle cave to rest and keep cool until next year. She had just dropped a tear on Little Boy Blue's scorched bald head and was fluttering into the room where Rosebud and the White-nosed cow and several of the other Toys were.

"One should never wish evil to happen to anyone! No good ever comes of it, and you only bring unhappiness upon yourself by wishing wishes like that. Please, dear little Rosebud, do not wish such things again."

Dropping a light kiss on Rosebud's cheek she floated away out of sight, leaving Rosebud comforted by the thought that she was not forgotten by her old friends.

—To be continued next week, when I shall tell you something about the White-nosed Cow, Tinkles, Nunka and Mrs. Santa.

Lovingly, Aunt Jean

A Chinese poet, it is reported has turned in a last line for the Northern Electric Radio Limerick Contest, written in his own language. The judges were somewhat at a loss to rate this unusual effort which, being executed with a fine brush, somewhat resembles an average laundry bill.

The Limerick in question deals with a radio fan who, in an effort to get China, twisted the dial for a long time until—and here the last line tells the story. The proprietor of a local chop suey establishment renders a free translation of this mysterious line as follows, "Honorable radio worshipper must summon faith in honorable ancestors. Never can tell. Can happen."

"Oscar," said the bank manager, "there'll be a vacancy here soon, and I'm thinking of giving your twin brother the job."

"My twin brother?" exclaimed Oscar in surprise.

"Yes, the one I saw watching the ball game yesterday while you were at your aunt's funeral," exclaimed the manager.

"Oh-er-yes," said Oscar. "I-I remember! I-I'll go out and hunt him up!"

"Good!" said the manager. "And don't come back till you've found him."

Hints for Homebodies

Specially written for Readers of The Watchman.
By JESSIE ALLAN BROWN

A NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTION

Now is a good time to check up and see if you are feeding your family properly. That means giving them not only pleasing meals, but meals which will suit their special requirements.

First of all are you using your quota of milk? At the very least are you using a quart for each child and a pint for each adult? I venture to say that a good percentage fall down right there. It is not necessary to drink the milk as it can be used in the food.

Your meat bill should about equal your milk bill. That is, of course, when you buy both. So many of my readers do not have to buy their milk, nor all of their meat. So that method of checking is out. Our milk costs us 43 cents a day, and at the present prices our meat does not cost nearly that much.

Are you including something fresh in your meals each day? Apples, raw cabbage, and canned tomatoes are the winter standbys. They are cheap and always available.

No one but the person who actually prepares the meals has any idea of the thought and planning that goes into the three meals a day. It is quite possible to have meals that are economical yet appetising and follow the dietary rules. It needs thought, so let your New Year's resolution be — more thought to the meals.

A CHRISTMAS PRESENT

There was a rumor flying about, that I was to get an electric mixer for a Christmas present. Hoping for the best, I put in my request to Santa Claus for a special delivery, a month early, so that I could use it for the heavy beating of the Christmas baking. Santa was very kind and along came the beater. It is a treasure, and it is just as easy to make pound cake or sponge cake, both family favorites, as it is to make an ordinary light cake. The heavy work of creaming the butter for Christmas cake and shortbread is no work now. We are glorying in the boiled icings and a seven minute icing is no trick at all.

It mashes potatoes like no body's business. You never saw such creamy ones. I have always had trouble getting the centre of the parsnips mashed, there was almost always a hard lump or two, but now the lumps are gone and they are delightfully creamy all through.

I certainly am enjoying my Christmas present. As a matter of fact I think the whole family are enjoying it—they are enjoying the results, of that I am sure.

TO KEEP PORRIDGE SOFT

Do you make your porridge in the double boiler at night, so that it is ready for breakfast, all but to re-heat? It is a good plan as it makes less work in the morning and most everyone is rushed for time in the morning. Then it gives the cereal extra cooking which improves the flavour and the digestibility. A crust will form on the surface, but this may be prevented by covering with two or three tablespoons of cold water. If any water remains on the surface in the morning, it may be stirred into the cereal, usually to advantage. Cereals which stand over night are slightly thicker in consistency than the more quickly cooked ones, so take that into consideration when you measure them.

ORANGE CAKE

¼ cup butter
½ cup sugar
Yolks 4 eggs
½ cup milk
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 teaspoons orange juice

WHITE CAKE

½ cup butter
1 cup sugar
¾ cup milk
2 cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
4 egg whites
½ teaspoon almond extract

Method for Orange Cake—Cream butter and sugar and add well beaten egg yolks. Sift flour and baking powder. Add flour and milk alternately, lastly add the orange juice. Bake in a moderate oven of about 360 degrees.

ORANGE ICING

Grated rind of 1 orange Icing sugar
Juice ½ medium sized orange
The method is very simple. Simply stir in sufficient icing sugar to the juice and rind to

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LESSON-SERMON

"Sacrament" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in all Christian Science Churches, Sunday, January 8th.

Golden Text: "To do good and to communicate forget not: for with such sacrifices God is well pleased." (Hebrews 13: 19).

Among the selected Scriptural passages comprised in the Lesson-Sermon are the following: "And he said unto me, These are they which came out of great tribulation, and have washed their robes, and made them white in the blood of the Lamb" "For the Lamb which is in the midst of the throne shall feed them, and shall lead them unto living fountains of waters." (Revelation 7: 14, 17)

Also included in the Lesson-Sermon are the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Our baptism is a purification from all error. Our Eucharist is spiritual communion with the one God. Our wine is the inspiration of Love, the draught our Master drank and commended to his followers." (Page 35).

The comedian's wife eagerly awaited her husband's return from the first night of a new play. As he came in she inquired impatiently: "Were you well applauded, John?"

John: "Applauded? They made as much noise as a caterpillar with rubber heels crawling over a soft carpet."

make the icing stiff enough to spread. If the orange is small, a little more than the juice of the half orange will be required.

Method for White Cake—Cream the butter and sugar. Sift the flour and baking powder. Add flour and milk alternately and beat only until well blended. Add almond extract and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in a moderate oven of 360 degrees.

JELLY FROSTING

Place a half cup of jelly (currant, grape, plum, raspberry or any bright colored jelly) in a bowl with 1 egg white. Stand the bowl in a dish of hot water and beat with a rotary egg beater until the jelly is free from lumps. Remove the bowl from the hot water and continue beating until the icing is stiff enough to hold its shape. This is a delicious icing but requires considerable beating.

$1000 IN PRIZES

First Prize $250 • Second Prize $100

Third Prize $50 • 60 Prizes of $10 each

Name Madame Lacroix's MAGIC MYSTERY CAKE

Every Canadian housewife will want to take part in these fascinating contests...

MADAME R. LACROIX, Assistant Director of the Provincial School of Domestic Science, Montreal, uses Magic Baking Powder exclusively in her classes. She says: "It is vitally important that every baking demonstration be faultless. For my part, I always use and recommend Magic Baking Powder. Its high leavening power is always uniform. You get the same perfect results every time you use it."

Here's Madame Lacroix's Recipe. Can you name it?

½ cup butter
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
½ cup mashed potato
½ cup milk
½ cup cocoa
1½ cups pastry flour
(or 1 cup bread flour)
3 teaspoons Magic Baking Powder
1 pinch salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
Cream butter with ½ cup sugar. Beat egg whites stiffly and add ½ cup sugar. Put aside. Beat egg yolks with remaining sugar and add to butter. Add mashed potato with milk and beat well. Sift together dry ingredients and add to first mixture, beating well. Mix in lightly the egg whites. Flavour with vanilla. Pour in cake pans, well greased, and cook from 25 to 30 minutes in oven 375° F. Spread marshmallow between layers and cover cake with Foaming Icing.

MARSHMALLOW: Soak 1 tablespoon gelatine in 5 tablespoons cold water. Make syrup with 1 cup sugar and 5 additional tablespoons water. Cook until it threads. Add gelatine. Let cool until consistency of syrup. Flavour with 1 tablespoon lemon juice and pinch of salt and beat until firm. Spread on cake.

FOAMING ICING: Put 1 cup brown sugar, 2 tablespoons corn syrup, 4 tablespoons water, white of 1 egg, in double boiler. Beat until mixture is firm. Spread on cake with a fat knife. Decorate with maraschino cherries to taste.

CONTAINS NO ALUM. This statement on every tin is your guarantee that Magic Baking Powder is free from alum or any harmful ingredient.

WOULDN'T you like to win $250? Just for naming this Magic Mystery Cake! You have just as good a chance as anyone! And there are 63 cash prizes!

Madame Lacroix has created a wonderful new cake recipe. Delicious and novel... yet thrifty and practical, too. Not a bit fussy to make.

So get busy with your suggestion for a name. Look at the recipe. Doesn't it sound delicious? If you make the Magic Mystery Cake, be sure to follow Madame Lacroix's example—use Magic Baking Powder.

For Magic Baking Powder is absolutely dependable—it never fails. That's why the majority of dietitians and teachers of cookery throughout the Dominion use it exclusively. They know from experience that Magic gives the best baking results.

Decide now to enter this Magic Contest. Read the rules. Somebody is going to win. And it might as well be you.

When you bake at home

the new, FREE Magic Cook Book gives tested recipes for delicious foods. Send for it. Address Gillett Products, Fraser Avenue and Liberty Street, Toronto, Ontario.

Contest Rules Read Carefully

- 1 All you do is name the mystery cake. Only one name from each person.
- 2 PRINT at the top of your paper in ink (or typewrite) "Madame Lacroix's Mystery Cake." Under this, print your suggestion for a name. Then, in the lower right-hand corner, print your own name and address, clearly and neatly. Do not use pencil.
- 3 Do not send the cake itself—just the name and your own name and address. It is not essential to bake the cake to enter the contest.
- 4 Members of our own organization or their relatives are not eligible to take part in this contest.
- 5 Contest closes JANUARY 31, 1933. No entries considered if postmarked later than January 31 midnight. No entries considered if forwarded with insufficient postage.
- 6 Judges: Winning names will be selected by a committee of three impartial judges. The decision of these judges will be final.
- 7 Prize winners will be announced to all entrants within one month after contest closes.
- 8 In case of a tie, the full amount of the prize money will be paid to each tying contestant.
- 9 Where to send entries: Address your entries to Contest Editor, Gillett Products, Fraser Avenue, Toronto 2.

QUEBEC'S ADMINISTRATION OF HIGHWAYS

Citizens of this province have been very ready to compare Ontario's highways to those of Quebec, generally at the expense of our own inferior road surfaces. That our thoroughfares are generally inferior, will be promptly admitted, and editorial comment in these columns has frequently shared the disgruntled and critical attitude of those who use our local highways.

Toronto Globe, however, aims a critical shaft at the highway administration of our sister province, Ontario, and disregarding the actual humps and bumps of highway travel, points favorably to the conservative application and economic administration of the Quebec roads policy.

At a time when the tax-payer needs consideration as deservedly as the provincial motorist, it is fair to voice a commendation for this aspect of activities by our Department of Roads, and to give due credit. In the words of Quebec's Minister of Highways, Hon. J. E. Perrault himself (in the Montreal Gazette's newly issued Financial Review):—

There are those who criticize our policy as regards reconstruction and permanent paving, and we are ready to consider constructive criticism, yet those who make comparisons as between our province and other provinces, and those who would have us modernize (as it is called) methods overnight, overlook certain facts which serious students recognize. We are proceeding steadily; the province possesses a truly modern highway system. We have no need to fear comparison with our neighbors, nor would our Department reflect upon the excellent work which has been accomplished in the sister provinces. Should it not be remembered that we have problems peculiar to our own province which we cannot solve by the simple process of copying what is done elsewhere? The people of the province, who are the taxpayers, must keep in mind, and especially so in these times, that it is far better to move forward in a regulated and steady movement rather than to dash into extravagant expenditures. For twenty years we have been keeping an eye on our financial figures as they are tabulated each year, and it would be a serious and retrograde step to depart from the practice of those twenty years. May I suggest that those who without consideration are keen for still more highways, for still greater expenditure, should remember that while the Department of Roads is anxious to give all possible service to the motorists, there must be thought, also, to the fact that the taxpayer must be considered. The complaint of the Canadian taxpayer is becoming very loud in these troublous days. We must not add to his burdens.

AERONAUTICS

The Outstanding Aeronautical Events of 1932
by J. Claude Roby

Nov. 14th. Setting a mark 2 hrs. and 17 mins. faster than that established by Lieut. Com. Frank Hawks in 1930, Col. R. Turner flew from New York to Burbank, Calif., in 12 hrs. and 32 mins.

Nov. 14th. Frederick Munroe, in a Curtiss Robin cabin plane, landed after an endurance flight of about sixty two hrs. above Los Angeles.

success, he lost a fortune in the Klondyke, and does not hesitate to affirm the territory consumed fully as many fortunes as it ever yielded.

Mr. MacMartin saw prospects in Lumber, and subsequently entered the lumber business, which proved more profitable as the country grew and the demand increased. For the future of the mining industry, the visitor sees no bright prospect in the country of his adoption—that is unless the price of metals returns to normal. The mountains are seemingly rich in silver, but there is little activity as the price is low. Transportation affords the biggest problem; railways are lacking; and the frequent wagon and waterway stages call for excessive handling of the ore, and consequent expense in shipping to the coastal ports.

Mining, anyway, is no longer a poor man's occupation. The trend of the industry calls for Capital, and development by big concerns.

Lost Again, in Vancouver

Mr. and Mrs. MacMartin still lead a busy life in their Trading store and Post Office at Pelly. This is the more recent name for Fort Selkirk—and the Postmaster is not highly elated over the change, due to the confusion in mails addressed to Pelly River, Belly River, and other similar localities in the northwest! John F. K., who appears to have been fascinated by Big Returns, looks back at another fortune he lost in real estate ventures in Vancouver, where he bought considerable property during the boom days of 1908-10. But now he is happy and prosperous again, in the quieter routine of present life in the Yukon.

Agricultural Development Similar to Laurentian Farming

Speaking of his home from an agricultural viewpoint, the northwestern asserts the farming closely resembles that of Argenteuil in its more hilly areas, and in the Laurentians. The season is shorter, but crops are mostly of the same variety, even to our familiar garden products in Quebec. And it is remarkable how hardy perennials, such as rhubarb and raspberry plants, are immune to the severe winter conditions, and will survive under the soil through temperature of 60-70-80 below zero.

Temperature of 86 Below!!

The Watchman reporter, feeling an attack of cold feet at mention of these temperatures, humbly enquired how low the mercury actually registered. Mr. John MacMartin, with the cool equanimity of quoting a local timetable, replied the coldest he had experienced in his northern home was 86 below!

Caribou roam the country in abundance, having largely replaced the herds of moose. And in these parts, the nearest butcher shop is no further than the nearby clump of bush.

Many of our readers, doubtless, will still prefer to hike down Main Street for a pound of steak!

went to establish the truth of this libel.

"Somewhat startling, somewhat at least to my surprise, you entered the witness box and, without a question from your counsel or any other counsel, you volunteered the statement, and said: 'Yes, I said he was a crook. I meant by that that he was a thief, I meant by that that he was a swindler, and he has been a crook, a thief and a swindler, and he has been a crook, a thief and a swindler, and he still is.' That is what you said in the box."

"It was not particularly attractive, and it was somewhat startling. You absolutely failed in one scintilla of proof in your attempt to prove that the complainant was a crook or a thief, much less a swindler."

"Now, I have to pronounce sentence. You were found guilty. The jury recommend you to my clemency, mercy. I never inquire into the motives which actuate a decision of a jury. I never should. And I have not yet solved what seemed to me somewhat strange, upon what grounds they attached this recommendation to mercy; whether it was the manner in which you gave evidence, or consideration of your mental control, I don't know. It is sufficient for me, that they did recommend you to mercy and it will receive due consideration from me. The pronouncement of sentence on convicted persons is often difficult. It is never agreeable and is sometimes highly disagreeable."

"I want you at least to understand this, and it is to the great credit of our English law. Vengeance has disappeared from any consideration in the economy of the criminal law and its administration. I must not and I will not allow the thought of vengeance to enter into any consideration in the pronouncement of my sentence. The old lax taliois, an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth, has entirely disappeared from our criminal law. The law considers two things in this country, the remedial effect on the prisoner, on the guilty one, and the protection of society."

"The man who publishes in his own paper or secures the use of another paper to publish grossly defamatory libels of and concerning his neighbors is a dangerous man; not only does he injure the person defamed but he is liable to create a disturbance of the peace."

LAKEFIELD

Mrs. A. Tomalty entertained a party of young people from Montreal, on New Years weekend.

Holiday guests of Mrs. Thos. McCambly were Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Andrews also Mr. & Mrs. Ralph Andrews and son Hartland.

Master Gordon Andrews has returned to Montreal after spending his holidays with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. T. McCambly.

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Miles Copeland on Wednesday night were Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Peet, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. McCambly, Mrs. B. J. Williamson, Mr. P. Williamson.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Andrews and children motored from Montreal, to spend the week-end with Mrs. R. Andrews. Mrs. Andrews remained for a week to attend the Xmas tree and an evening given in her honor by Mrs. R. Andrews, when 20 guests were present.

A SEASONAL BOUQUET

The Watchman's Christmas issue has drawn numerous felicitations and favorable comment all of which is most gratifying to the Editor and his staff, in the realization that The Watchman is enjoyed among its readers.

One such tribute forthcoming in today's mail, is reproduced hereunder:

Correspondence

North Lake Fish and Game Club.
Pt. au Chene

The Editor,
Lachute Watchman.

Dear Sir:

I wish to congratulate you for the magnificent way in which you published your Xmas number. I find your paper is becoming better and better each year.

May your health long endure, to publish for us in your good, clean, moral paper the news of this province.

Wishing you a very happy New Year.

Yours truly,

Chas. Ralph.

BROWNSBURG

Mr. Mansiel Wilson of Toronto University, spent the holidays at his home.

The Chatham Council met on Tuesday with a very large attendance.

Lieut. and Mrs. H. L. Cameron and son, of Ottawa, were Xmas guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Cameron.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Cameron, of Lakeside, Montreal, were the New Year's guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Cameron.

Mrs. Wm. Stewart and Miss Eileen McGibbon spent the New Year holidays visiting friends in Maniwaki, Que.

Mr. A. Mitchell, who has been on the sick list, a victim of grippe, is considerably better.

We can remember when preachers warned girls against tight lacing—which proves our age and their wisdom.

"Now, you had no justification, not the slightest justification for the publication of this atrocious libel against a man who has occupied an honorable position, an honorable and successful business position in Montreal for well-nigh half a century at least."

"I have given this matter my deepest consideration. I have spoken longer than I usually do in pronouncing sentence. My experience has been that lectures to prisoners are utterly useless. I have reached the conclusion, to impose sentence of three months in jail. The limit is twelve. I will impose no fine, although I might impose a fine of $200, concurrently with the imprisonment."

"Harpell, I want to stop this. I want it to be stopped. And I order you to enter into a bond of recognizance that you will keep the peace for twelve months and you will enter into that bond during the period of three months, while this sentence runs, and if you fail to enter into that bond to keep the peace and preserve the peace, then there will be and there is an additional sentence of six months in jail."

"Now, you understand? You enter your personal guarantee and you will accompany it by a guarantee of some bondsman for $1,000. that you will keep the peace for one year. And I condemn you to pay the costs of your prosecution. I have no doubt Mr. Gagnon that under 1045 or 1044 I have that prerogative. I have not imposed any fine, and for that reason I condemn you to the costs of the prosecution."

PUBLIC NOTICE

Change of Business Hours

Fire Chief's Report for Year

Lachute's fire loss for the year 1932 was $8,599.25, which was covered by insurance excepting $453.00. This was also double that of last year, and four times that of 1930.

The Department answered 44 calls during the year, of which two were outside—one to St. Hermas and one to Thos. Pollock's.

The Department laid 7,250 ft. of hose at the following 12 fires, on which there was $8,146.25 insurance paid.

Jan. 22.—Godfroy Delorme.

Mar. 22.—J. A. Rice.

Mar. 11.—Provincial Government Garage.

May 6.—Mrs. J. A. Bedard.

May 21.—Eug. Trudel.

June 6.—Miss Bigras.

July 21.—J. Ampleman.

Aug. 23.—Rene Belanger.

Sept. 10.—Garnet Shaw.

Novv. 23.—Mrs. I. Masson.

Dec. 12.—J. P. Paquin.

Dec. 19.—Anglican Rectory.

With this continual increase in the number of fires and the amount of loss, it is up to our Town to do something to improve our fire equipment, if we are ever to get better insurance rates.

And now we feel, while the Provincial Government are offering considerable help to towns of our size to get better equipment that this matter should be taken up with the Provincial Fire Commissioner.

ST. PHILIPPE

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Derouin, Miss Margaret and Mr. Michael Byrne spent New Year's evening at Mrs. R. Funcheon's.

Messrs. Albert St. Denis and Laureat Ouellette had quite a serious accident, while returning from Brownsburg Sunday night.

A car coming from the same direction ran into them, throwing the young man out, completely destroying the cutter, and instead of giving assistance turned and went back to Brownsburg.

Mr. Ouellette is under Dr. Mason's care; fortunately no bones are broken, but a very severe bruising. Both young men are confined still to their beds.

Under the organization of Rev. A. Bazinet, a truck was sent to the people in this vicinity, asking for their charitable help in aid of the poor and needy.

Very generous donations were the result of this appeal, and the destitute of this parish are assured of sufficient food for the hardest part of the winter.

Mr. Bazinet donated 500 lbs. of flour and ten dollars in cash as his share in this great charitable work. Let us hope that those who are in a position to give, will follow his fine example of Christian charity, and not let our poor people suffer from cold or hunger.

Mrs. John Douglas entertained a few friends to celebrate her son Alton's birthday.

Miss R. McFaul and her cousin, Miss McFaul, formerly of Fassett, Que., were among the guests, also Miss Margaret Byrne, of St. Philippe.

Injured Fatally by Own Motor Car

Marieville Young Man Caught by Auto While Making Repairs

Leopold Bienvenu, 23 years of age, of Marieville, Que., died at Notre Dame Hospital, recently, from injuries suffered in a strange accident, at the intersection of Sherbrooke and Aylmer streets, Montreal. The young man had had the brakes of his car repaired, but when he used them for the first time, the brakes jammed and Bienvenu stopped his automobile on the street and tried to repair them. While beneath the vehicle the automobile moved away from where it had been parked and the owner was struck on the head by the differential casing of the automobile, dragged some distance by the slowly rolling vehicle, and his spine was torn open.

The accident, which ended fatally, occurred on Aylmer st., at Sherbrooke street, where there is a slight incline. Bienvenu had gone to Montreal for the purpose of getting the brakes of his automobile repaired.

PEGGED STOCK FEATURES IN COURT CASE

$40 in cash in payment. It was contended for the plaintiff that the stock had been accepted conditionally, until its saleable value could be ascertained. The defence contended that the stock had been accepted on the same valuation as that paid by the defendant, $24 per share.

Evidence was given that the stock had been "pegged" at $24 in September, 1932, but that notwithstanding, the defendant had paid his broker $24 for the stock in November of the same year.

Mr. Arnold testified that when he accepted the stock he reserved the right to have a value placed on it by his banker. Lamoureux testified that he had specified that unless a value of $24 was placed on the stock he would not make the purchase.

Evidence was given by a banker that he advised the plaintiff not to accept the stock until he had ascertained what price could be obtained for it on immediate sale. A broker called testified that at the time of the delivery of the stock it was selling "over the counter" at $1 a share, but that the value placed on the stock for marginal requirements by the banks was $24. Further evidence was given that Arnold retained the shares and made delivery of the horse and did not advise the defendant of the saleable value of the stock until some days later.

The court ruled that the plaintiff had failed to make out his case and dismissed it. A counter claim for $200 damages occasioned by the refusal of the plaintiff to deliver the stallion's pedigree papers to the defendant was also dismissed.

After returning home from a New Year's Dance in Lachute, a respected family by the name of Cooke, of Little Rideau, were the victims of a most fearful tragedy, when Mann, a farm hand in their employ, ran a-mock, murdering father, mother son and daughter with an axe, and severely wounding two other members of the family.

CHARLES JENNINGS ANNOUNCING

"RUBINOFF! and his VIO-LIN!!" ... and then a thin, golden thread of music, leading another good Sunday evening programme out of Radioland. Thirty-four-year-old, Russian-born David Rubinoff proclaims himself a master every time he plays his $10,000 violin. He loves it. Quite fittingly, they don't ask Rubinoff to use his own voice ... the fiddle speaks for him, is part of him, always has been since his mother bought him his first instrument two years before he left for America ... paying for it the Russian equivalent of $1.75. Just for that, Eddie Cantor should some time refer to him as "Mrs. Rubinoff's little boy."

Radio is a Sabbath-keeping institution, as a whole, and that is as it should be. Late in the day a listener can start getting into gear for a secular and even profane Monday morning, but during Sunday afternoon and evening he can turn the dial to symphony hours, cathedral hours, oratorios, Ernest Dainty at the organ ... the York Bible Class ... book reviewers ... all these on at least one Canadian station. After you have heard Schubert's Symphony in C Major by the New York Philharmonic (Columbia network) a lot of week-day weariness has worn off.

Hockey broadcasts are a new form of radio drama, enjoyed by hundreds of thousands of Canadians. No American influence in this form of entertainment ... Good Canadian stuff. By the way, who listens to the hockey play-by-play programmes? No, don't jump at conclusions. This column made the same mistake. The fan letters—and there are barrels of them now in the hands of one Eastern Canadian sponsor—show that the audience is NOT composed of confirmed hockey fans at all, but largely of people who never bothered to attend games ... didn't know what it was all about until hockey went on the air ... To illustrate—a meeting of the Ladies' Aid in an Ontario town was adjourned one Tuesday evening for a full hour while the members sat around and absorbed a hockey broadcast. To these people, hockey isn't a sporting event, but a two-fisted, he-man radio-drama, being acted out to an unguessable climax ... and without rehearsal. That's what holds the hockey audiences.

Are you listenin'? If you are it keeps you busy on Thursday evenings ... Fleischmann hour

LIKE BEGETS LIKE

The universe pays every man in his own coin; if you smile it smiles upon you in return; if you frown, you will be frowned at; if you sing, you will be invited into gay company; if you think, you will be entertained by thinkers, and if you love the student who is "fed up" with the world and earnestly seek for the good that is therein, you will be surrounded by loving friends and Nature will pour into your lap the treasures of the earth. Censure, criticism and hate, and you will be censured, criticised,

and hated by your fellow-men. Every seed brings forth after its kind. Mistrust begets mistrust and confidence begets confidence, kindness begets kindness, love begets love. Resist and you will be resisted.—Exchange.

"Chesley Enterprise"—Sawdust in the Canadian West is selling at $10 a ton and wheat at $9 a ton, and sawdust isn't a very good fattening product either. This reminds us of a story told by George Mooney, of Ripley, when making an agricultural speech. George was talking on the advantages of chopped food for laying hens and said an old tightwad had been cajoled by an agent into mixing sawdust with his chop and when the dozen eggs from an old hen, who had been fed on the new mixture, were hatched, eleven of them had wooden legs and the twelfth was a wood-pecker.

One of our friends says he guesses he is peculiar, because he likes jazz orchestras and comedians like Ed. Wynn. Well, so do we. We laugh right out loud at Ed. Wynn ... also at Stoopnagle and Budd. Al Johnson, in his Friday evening broadcast, seems to be good. He'd better be, according to the rumor about his salary ... But that's Al's private life, and we're not interested ... A lot of things don't interest us. We don't care who the mystery woman is in the life of Announcer Eddie Spivins, or that Georgie Price wears a double-breasted vest ... Moreover, we prefer to think we are hearing the skulking Fu Manchu's actual footstep on the gravel, rather than to be told that a sound-effects man gives us crunching gravel by squashing dry breakfast food under an old boot.

Merryville is an up-and-coming name in Radioland nowadays. That's the Canadian village where the Buckingham Revellers put on their Tuesday evening show and thence to a Canadian chain ... You know, Colonel Forbes and Private Potts and the other Merryville folks? This programme is one answer to the wall about Canadian offerings. The series was written in Hamilton, Ontario, by a Hamiltonian, Claudius Gregory ... And the Revellers have good vocalists to help them. Ouch! Darn that twinge of lumbago! No reason in the world for it, either. Simply means we haven't been getting up early enough to keep in condition by taking the morning exercises from the remote P. T. instructor. It is said the remote instructor has the mike beside his bed, but it is also said that's a lie.

Parade Into Fields
Bulgaria is 5,000 red-roofed villages strewn along streams, scattered in clusters over plains, straggling along the crest of hills, and all the work, order, love and sacrifice, song and prayer that fill them.

On May mornings Bulgaria is a stream of grandparents, parents and children, flocks of sheep, herds of cattle, droves of pigs and geese, all pouring forth from their appointed places. Mother carry babies in tiny hammocks on their backs, and on reaching the fields hang them to the flowering branches of leafy trees or to shaded tripods. The journey is long, donkeys carry the swaddled infants in saddlebags.

Old and New
In Europe modernism and medievalism have a way of living side by side in the same city, each unconscious and uncomprehending of the other. This is seen to the best advantage at Mentone on the Riviera. The centuries have not changed this medieval city. Time seems to have woven it into a tapestry of venerable cathedrals, moss-covered houses and primitive little pathways, they unknowingly or generously call streets, and all that Old Mentone knows of Young Mentone is that she comes at certain times of the year with her manifestations of wealth and gaiety to live in the luxurious hotels and spacious villas, a terra incognita to her neighbor.

Reason for Postmarks
Postmarks were first placed on envelopes as an official marking. Later they were used to cancel the postage stamps and give place and time of mailing. The post office department says that the records of the department do not show when the postmark was first used. As early as 1798 the postal laws and regulations required the postmasters to mark letters deposited in their offices for mailing with the name of the office. This mark might be either stamped or written. Up to 1840 in some cases written postmarks were still in use.

Errors That Got Away

From the Proofreader

Under the heading of typographical errors in "The Handy Book of Literary Curiosities," written by William S. Walsh and published by J. B. Lippincott company in 1903, there are some facts which might be labeled "In extension of Larry the Linotyper." They apparently prove that Larry's sins of nowadays are venial compared with some of those of former times.

Here are some examples, with what should have been printed indicated in some cases:

"The distinguished traveler died in the richness of sin." (In the interior of Asia.)

"She was a lady whose manners would alarm a drowning man." (Adorn a drawing room.)

"Links, bonds and stripes for the violent kind of spectators." (Lines, bands and strine in the violet part of spectra.)

"Drunkness is jolly." (Drunkenness is folly.)

"Sir Robert Peel and a party of flocks were shooting pheasants in Ireland."

"Woman—without her man—is a brute."

"... enters on his head, his helmet on his feet, sandals on his brow, there was a cloud in his right hand, his faithful sword in his eye, and angry glare he sat down."

"The body was taken to Hell for interment." (Hull for interment.)

Part of a woman's complaint to a Buffalo newspaper read: "Wherever I refer to my honored countrymen as 'white mules' I am reported as having addressed them as 'white mules.' All these are very good jokes if credited to the printer's devil, but not to those who represent an unpopular idea and carefully weigh their words."

Efficacy of Prayers

Measured by Numbers

The devout people of Tibet, and that is almost the entire population, spend much time and ingenuity in their prayers. Their prayers, to the glorification of Buddha, seem to be a race to work out the greatest possible number of prayers, and the one who has the largest number to his credit has prospects of the greatest reward. One man has the supplication carved on a board which is secured to a long pole. He spends hours every day dipping the board into the water. Every dip is a prayer. Another has a whirling windmill, which he holds aloft with the proper inscription upon it, and every revolution is a prayer. Women moving about in their ordinary pursuits carry little whirlingigs which they keep in motion constantly. Every whirl is a prayer. The shoulder blades of the yak present a broad surface. These are properly inscribed and hung in groups of a dozen, from the branches of a tree overhanging a footpath. Travelers cannot get by without brushing them aside and this disturbance means several prayers. Sturdy ones climb to the mountain top and plant prayer flags at the summit.

Lesson for January 15

JESUS AT WORK

Mark 1:21-45.
GOLDEN TEXT—But Jesus answered them, My Father worketh hitherto, and I work, John 5:17.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Making a Sick Man Well.
JUNIOR TOPIC—How Jesus Spent His Time.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Busy at Great Tasks.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Jesus Meeting Human Needs.

Mark's purpose in writing his treatise should steadily be borne in mind; namely: the presentation of Jesus Christ as the divine Servant energetically performing the will of God. The purpose in this section is to show the divine Servant bearing God's message to, and clothed with power to save, lost souls. Coupled with his superhuman strength is the unwearied sympathy, giving itself out in helpful and saving service.

I. Jesus Teaching With Authority (vv. 21, 22).

1. The place (v. 21). It was in the synagogue in Capernaum to which he with four disciples repaired "straightway" upon his entrance into the village. He availed himself of the regular channel of instruction. Though many abuses had crept into the synagogue service, he chose to associate the new with the old order.

2. The time (v. 21). It was on the Sabbath day. His faithfulness in observing the Sabbath brought him to the place where the people assembled to worship and to hear the Scriptures expounded. He came not to destroy but to fulfill the law, even the law of the Sabbath day.

3. The impression made (v. 22). The people were astonished. Two things about his teaching impressed his hearers.

a. The substance of his message.
b. The authority of its deliverance. The scribes, the professional teachers of the law, merely quoted the authorities, but Jesus with first hand knowledge set forth the truth with the enthusiasm of freshness and personal conviction.

II. Jesus Conquering Demons (vv. 23-28).

1. The outcry of the demon-possessed man (v. 23). When the power of God is manifested in the presence of evil spirits, there is bound to be an outcry from them.

2. The demon's confession (v. 24). "Thou art the Holy One of God." The one whose chief business it was to waste and destroy human life was in such miserable state as to desire to have nothing to do with Christ, and yet was forced to confess him as the Holy One.

3. Christ's attitude toward the demon (v. 25). Christ neither asked for nor accepted testimony from the demon, but sternly rebuked and cast out the foul spirit. Christ is not only himself pure, but is also able to deliver others from impurity.

4. The obedience of the demon (v. 26). The evil spirit was reluctant to leave the man and displayed his maliciousness to the very end, for he tore the man whom he was forced to leave.

5. The impression made upon the people (vv. 27, 28). The news of Christ's power spread rapidly over Galilee. The people were startled by two things:

a. The new doctrine which he brought.

b. The authority over demons.

III. Jesus Heals Peter's Mother-in-Law of Fever (vv. 29-31).

Jesus went home with Simon and Andrew. While in that home he learned of the condition of Peter's mother-in-law. He came at once and lifted her up and the fever departed. Divine healing is characterized by completeness and immediacy. Divine healing is, in this respect, to be contrasted with so-called faith healing, which is merely the exercise of the power of mind over the body.

IV. Jesus Ministering to Many (vv. 32-34).

Though the day was strenuous in its labors, he came unwearied even when the sun had set, to meet the needs of the multitudes who had gathered from all parts of the city. He healed many of diseases, and cast out many demons. The demons knew him, but the poor blind people knew him not.

V. Jesus Cleansing a Leper (vv. 35-45).

As Jesus preached in the synagogues of Galilee and cast out demons, his power became widely known. A leper therefore came to him saying, "If thou wilt, thou canst make me clean." Jesus put forth his hand and touched him saying, "I will, be thou clean," and immediately the leprosy departed and he was cleansed.

Look for His Leading

As a general rule, those truths which we highly revere, and which shed a degree of practical light upon the things which we are required to give up for God, are leadings of Divine grace, which we should follow without hesitation.—Fenelon.

Thy Kingdom Come

If you do not wish his kingdom, don't pray for it. But if you do, you must do more than pray for it, you must work for it.—John Ruskin.

Of Municipal Interest

FACTS CULLED
FROM THE PRESS

City has No-one Unemployed

Three Jewish leaders from Palestine, arriving in New York on their way to a convention of the American Misbachi Organization in Buffalo, boasted that Jerusalem is the one place in the world that has no one unemployed man.

The Jewish population in Jerusalem has grown from 50,000 in 1917, to 220,000 today. The present economic situation has resulted in a big increase in the migration of Jews from North America.

Sudbury's First Permit for Garage Unearthed

Believed to be the first application for a permit to build a garage in Sudbury, a letter dated July 10, 1908 and signed by C. B. Gordon has been discovered by A. V. Forsyth of the city hall staff. The ancient application reads in part—"For the erection of an automobile shed on Fir St. Size 16 by 24, two storeys high."

Back-to-the-Land and Redistribution.

There can be little doubt the Back-to-the-Land movement is sound policy based on sane motives. It is gaining favor, and many gestures of co-operation between municipality and province have given the movement a fair start. One or two instances of dissatisfaction have arisen; such cases were bound to arise; but as yet, although the scheme is young in practice, the outcome promises to help materially in the relief of distressed conditions.

If one other argument is needed to support the logic of this entire scheme, the trend of population in the single province of Quebec may be effectively cited. It is a fact that the rural population of this province today is scarcely higher than it was forty years ago; the general population, however, has increased by more than a million in that time. Nothing could argue more strongly for the need of redistribution in population.

Ratepayers Maintain Prohibition By-Law.

Ville LaSalle, Que., prohibition by-law was maintained by the ratepayers as a result of a three-day referendum which closed with a majority of 168. The sale of beer in local groceries will not be allowed, as has been the law since 1912.

Three Rivers Tax Collection, Record

All former records for collection of municipal and school taxes were smashed last year, in Three Rivers, Que., according to a report issued by the municipal treasurer. The City's tax collections reached a total of $946,552, an increase of $98,740 over the previous year although the rate had been reduced by 25 cents.

Village Liable for Collapse of Bridge.

St. Claire d'Assise, a small municipality in Soulanges county, Que., will pay heavily for its failure to maintain the River Baudet bridge in good repair. Mr. Justice Loranger has condemned the town to pay $5,887 in two actions brought to the Superior Court after a truck had fallen through the bridge into the river. There are only about 30 families in the village and, unless the provincial Government shoulders the burden, the damages and costs will have to be assessed against the taxpayers.

Renaming of Main Street Unpopular.

The travelling salesman who suggested Kansas City rename its "main" street to get out of the "hick town" classification, did not find popular approval. Main street merchants rose in wrath when they heard Mayor Bryce Smith was submitting the suggestion to a committee of the city council. It always had been Main street. It was Main Street when oxen wallowed up from the Main Street wharf on the Missouri. Visitors to the city were not lost as long as they had Main Street to set them right. Established business houses have long advertised themselves as being on Main Street, and will not tolerate any change.

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

Santa Claus' Chain Workshops

In his difficult 1932 Christmas job of joy-making the Canadian Santa Claus had the help of a Toy Shop Chain operated by Boy Scouts and Girl Guides in 145 towns and cities across the Dominion. Toys, games, story books and dolls were provided for fully 75,000 children, including some 4,500 on prairie farms by mail.

Some Toy Shop Figures

The Montreal Scout Toy Shop furnished well over 16,000 gifts for city families, and 500 on western farms. Calgary and Hamilton provided for 5,000 kiddies each, and Winnipeg filled Santa's bag for the children of a half dozen institutions, and 361 children on farms. Ottawa made a new record by mailing gifts to 934 settlers' children.

Among the Smaller Cities

Of the smaller cities, Saskatoon, Sherbrooke and Saint John repeated outstanding work of previous years, and Moose Jaw in spite of hard times established a new figure of 302 settlers'

kiddies, over the local giving. Halifax again looked after numerous fishermen's families along the sea coast.

Rosetown, Shop Leaders

Rosetown, Sask., retained its leadership among the town shops by volunteering to mail parcels to 175 needy settlers' kiddies, and in Ontario the Oakville Scouts and Guides called for their "usual 100."

The Settlers' Names

The names of settlers unable to give their children Christmas gifts are gathered at Dominion Scout Headquarters through immigrant departments and agencies and by correspondence with families reached in previous years. This Christmas 658 letters were received from settlers, chiefly in the west. The names are assigned to Toy Shops as called for.

No Dominion First Aid Contests

The St. John Ambulance Association has announced that there will be no Dominion Wallace Nesbitt Junior or Gaunt Intermediate first aid contests this year. Boy Scout teams have won the great majority of these competitions for a number of years. For 1932 both cups were carried off by the 2nd. Edmonton (St. Faith's), a unique record.

Papuan Boys learn Scout Leadership

Wallace Kinnaird, Scout V. C.

The rare Cornwell Badge, the V. C. of Scouting, given for outstanding courage, capability and character, demonstrated during a period of great physical suffering, in addition to high standing in Scouting, has been awarded by Lord Baden-Powell World Chief Scout, to Acting Assistant Scoutmaster Wallace Kinnaird of the Robert Louis Stevenson Scout Group of the Thistleton Branch of the sick Children's Hospital, Toronto. As the result of a football accident Kinnaird had a leg amputated at the hip, very serious complica-

CHURCH BROADCASTS PAID THEIR WAY IN PAST YEAR

At this time of the year when the Man on the Street is asked to put his hand in his pocket for every conceivable kind of philanthropic endeavour, it is a satisfaction to learn that one of our least advertised yet most consistent and widely effective public services has met its budget and starts the New Year with a clean sheet—we refer to the Church Broadcasts.

The broadcasting of services from eight of the Protestant Churches of Montreal over Station C.H.Y.C. of the Northern Electric Company, Limited, is handled under the direction of the Central Broadcasting Committee composed of one representative from each of the eight Churches which broadcast. Dr. A. O. Dawson is Chairman, Mr. A. R. Grafton, Honorary-Secretary, and the Crown Trust Company acts as Honorary-Treasurer. The Crown Trust makes no charge for its services, and the Station handles the programme at cost.

The Committee incurs no expense whatever and every dollar of funds received from the public is turned over to the Churches. All donations are received and acknowledged; detailed financial statements are submitted at each meeting of the Central Broadcasting Committee.

Each of the eight Churches broadcasts twice every sixteen Sundays, subject to some modification in this program which may be found necessary in the summer months. The contributions received from the public are divided equally between the eight Churches according to the number of Sundays on which they broadcast.

ations later developing. Notwithstanding great suffering and the cloud over his future, Kinnaird became an always cheery, encouraging leader of the hospital troop of handicapped boys and generally played a part that attracted unusual commendation from doctors and nurses. The Cornwell Badge was established to commemorate the fortitude, courage and character shown by Ship's Boy Jack Cornwell, a Boy Scout, after being mortally wounded during the battle of Jutland.

Making History in Argenteuil

Extracted from files of The Watchman.

50 Years Ago.

Friday, January 5, 1882.

After returning home from a New Year's Dance in Lachute, a respected family by the name of Cooke, of Little Rideau, were the victims of a most fearful tragedy, when Mann, a farm hand in their employ, ran a-mock, murdering father, mother son and daughter with an axe, and severely wounding two other members of the family.

Mr. Robt. Stevenson has been secured as instructor for Lachute's brass band, now numbering 14 instruments.

Oxen sell at $150 a yoke at Dominion City in the Canadian Northwest.

The corner of Portage Avenue and Main Street, Winnipeg has changed hands to an English syndicate for $115,000 for the purpose of erecting a palatial brick block. The same property was bought for $70,000 last April.

Mr. Wilson of the Paper Mill intends using coal in future for fuel; and Mr. Hambleton, proprietor of the Bobbin Factory, also finds the prices demanded for wood locally are becoming prohibitive.

A Scotsman was stripping the wall paper from the walls of his house, when a friend called to see him.

"Weel, Donald," said the latter, "are ye goin' to have a new paper?"

"Na, na," replied Donald, "Ah'm movin'."

25 Years Ago.

Friday, January 10, 1908.

Mrs. Angus Clunie, of Montana, is visiting Mrs. Clunie in Lachute.

Dr. B. S. Stackhouse left on Monday for Nassau, Cuba and Mexico.

Electors of Argenteuil are tendering our local member, the Hon. W. A. Weir, M.P.P., a banquet in Victoria Hall, on Jan. 23rd.

Mr. H. King gave a New Year's Eve party in Brownsburg, including Miss E. Trudeau, Messrs. G. Pressman, Tom Mack, G. Elliot, W. Dryer, E. Winterburn. Mr. King contributed to the amusement with anecdotes of his pugilistic days, and also with a new combination dance consisting of the Sailor's Hornpipe, a Waltz and a Polka mixed.

A petition is being circulated for construction of a public road bridge over the Ottawa River near the town of Hawkesbury and the village of Grenville.

Vankleek Hill and Lachute lined up on the Vankleek Hill rink as follows: Lachute, E. Wilson, R. McGibbon, A. Riddell, S. Raitt, R. Styan, S. Spense, J. McGibbon. Vankleek Hill, G. Pacinette, J. Ladouceur, W. Crooks, E. Labrosse, A. Blanchard, E. Matte, L. Saucier. The Hill team won, with 10 goals to 7.

"Do you know Mrs. Upperton in this road, my lad?"

Butcher's Boy: "Upperton? let me see. Tain't pork and no fat—that's No. 2. And it ain't 2 lb. of rump and juicy—that's No. 7. I know where 'tis. It's top side and tender, an' don't pay—No. 5, that's it, mum!"

CHARLES JENNINGS ANNOUNCING

"RUBINOFF! and his VIO-LIN!!" ... and then a thin, golden thread of music, leading another good Sunday evening programme out of Radioland. Thirty-four-year-old, Russian-born David Rubinoff proclaims himself a master every time he plays his $10,000 violin. He loves it. Quite fittingly, they don't ask Rubinoff to use his own voice ... the fiddle speaks for him, is part of him, always has been since his mother bought him his first instrument two years before he left for America ... paying for it the Russian equivalent of $1.75. Just for that, Eddie Cantor should some time refer to him as "Mrs. Rubinoff's little boy."

Radio is a Sabbath-keeping institution, as a whole, and that is as it should be. Late in the day a listener can start getting into gear for a secular and even profane Monday morning, but during Sunday afternoon and evening he can turn the dial to symphony hours, cathedral hours, oratorios. Ernest Dainty at the organ ... the York Bible Class ... book reviewers ... your choice of sermons ... all these on at least one Canadian station. After you have heard Schubert's Symphony in C Major by the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra (Columbia network) a lot of week-day weariness has worn off.

Hockey broadcasts are a new form of radio drama, enjoyed by hundreds of thousands of Canadians. No American influence in this form of entertainment ... Good Canadian stuff. By the way, who listens to the hockey play-by-play programmes? No, don't jump at conclusions. This column made the same mistake. The fan letters—and there are barrels of them now in the hands of one Eastern Canadian sponsor—show that the audience is NOT composed of confirmed hockey fans at all, but largely of people who never bothered to attend games ... didn't know what it was all about until hockey went on the air ... To illustrate—a meeting of the Ladies' Aid in an Ontario town was adjourned one Tuesday evening for a full hour while the members sat around and absorbed a hockey broadcast. To these people, hockey isn't a sporting event, but a two-fisted, he-man radio drama, being acted out to an unguessable climax ... and without rehearsal. That's what holds the hockey audiences.

Are you listenin'? If you are it keeps you busy on Thursday evenings ... Fleischmann hour

... Canada Dry programme with Jack Benny and Ted Weems ... Mills Brothers ... Lucky Strike with the Baron Munchausen ... Neilson hour ... and Cap'n Henry's Show Boat, with its gorgeous music and appealing drama ... Get started on this last one in time to catch the "plot." Dramas seem to hold the popular fancy just now ... nearly everybody's listening to Sherlock Holmes or Fu Manchu.

You remember the Canadian dramas of the air last year, written by Merrill Denison? ... Well, Denison has gone to New York, where he is writing two series of historical sketches for the glib networks ... One of them is "Roses and Drums" ... Heard it?

One of our friends says he guesses he is peculiar, because he likes jazz orchestras and comedians like Ed. Wynn. Well, so do we. We laugh right out loud at Ed. Wynn ... also at Stoopnagle and Budd. Al Johnson, in his Friday evening broadcast, seems to be good. He'd better be, according to the rumor about his salary ... But that's Al's private life, and we're not interested ... A lot of things don't interest us. We don't care who the mystery woman is in the life of Announcer Eddie Spivins, or that Georgie Price wears a double-breasted vest ... Moreover, we prefer to think we are hearing the skulking Fu Manchu's actual footstep on the gravel, rather than to be told that a sound-effects man gives us crunching gravel by squashing dry breakfast food under an old boot.

Merryville is an up-and-coming name in Radioland nowadays. That's the Canadian village where the Buckingham Revellers put on their Tuesday evening show and thence to a Canadian chain ... You know, Colonel Forbes and Private Potts and the other Merryville folks? This programme is one answer to the wall about Canadian offerings. The series was written in Hamilton, Ontario, by a Hamiltonian, Claudius Gregory ... And the Revellers have good vocalists to help them.

Ouch! Darn that twinge of lumbago! No reason in the world for it, either. Simply means we haven't been getting up early enough to keep in condition by taking the morning exercises from the remote P. T. instructor. It is said the remote instructor has the mike beside his bed, but it is also said that's a lie.

Charles Jennings

LIKE BEGETS LIKE

The universe pays every man in his own coin; if you smile it smiles upon you in return; if you frown, you will be frowned at; if you sing, you will be invited into gay company; if you think, you will be entertained by thinkers, and if you love the student who is "fed up" with the world and earnestly seek for the good that is therein, you will be surrounded by loving friends and Nature will pour into your lap the treasures of the earth. Censure, criticise and hate, and you will be censured, criticised,

and hated by your fellow-men. Every seed brings forth after its kind. Mistrust begets mistrust and confidence begets confidence, kindness begets kindness, love begets love. Resist and you will be resisted.—Exchange.

"Chesley Enterprise"

Sawdust in the Canadian West is selling at $10 a ton and wheat at $9 a ton, and sawdust isn't a very good fattening product either. This reminds us of a story told by George Mooney, of Ripley, when making an agricultural speech. George was talking on the advantages of chopped food for laying hens and said an old tightwad had been cajoled by an agent into mixing sawdust with his chop and when the dozen eggs from an old hen, who had been fed on the new mixture, were hatched, eleven of them had wooden legs and the twelfth was a woodpecker.

From the Proofreader

Under the heading of typographical errors, in "The Handy Book of Literary Curiosities" written by William S. Walsh and published by J. B. Lippincott company in 1903, there are some facts which might be labeled "In extenuation of Larry the Linotyper." They apparently prove that Larry's sins of nowadays are venial compared with some of those of former times. Here are some examples, with what should have been printed indicated in some cases:

"The distinguished traveler died in the richness of sin." (In the interior of Asia.)

"She was a lady whose manners would alarm a drowning man." (Adorn a drawing room.)

"Links, bonds and stripes for the violent kind of specters." (Lines, bands and strine in the violet part of specter.)

"Drunkennes is jolly." (Drunkenness is jolly.)

"Mr. Robert Peel and a party of flocks were shooting pheasants in Ireland."

"Woman—without her man—is a brute."

"... enters on his head, his helmet on his feet, sandals on his brow, there was a cloud in his right hand, his faithful sword in his eye, and angry glare he sat down."

"The body was taken to Hell for interment." (Hull for interment.)

Part of a woman's complaint to a Buffalo newspaper read: "Wherever I refer to my honored countrymen as 'white males' I am reported as having addressed them as 'white mules.' All these are very good jokes if credited to the printer's devil, but not to those who represent an unpopular idea and carefully weigh their words."

Measured by Numbers

The devout people of Tibet, and that is almost the entire population, spend much time and ingenuity in their prayers. Their prayers, to the glorification of Buddha, seem to be a race to work off the greatest possible number of prayers, and the one who has the largest number to his credit has prospects of the greatest reward. One man has the supplication carved on a board which is secured to a long pole. He spends hours every day dipping the board into the water. Every dip is a prayer. Another has a whirling windmill, which he holds aloft with the proper inscription upon it, and every revolution is a prayer. Women moving about in their ordinary pursuits carry little whirligigs which they keep in motion constantly. Every whirl is a prayer. The shoulder blades of the yak present a broad surface. These are properly inscribed and hung in groups of a dozen, from the branches of a tree overhanging a footpath. Travelers cannot get by without brushing them aside and this disturbance means several prayers. Sturdy ones climb to the mountain top and plant prayer flags at the summit.

Parade Into Fields

Bulgaria is 5,000 red-roofed villages strewn along streams, scattered in clusters over plains, straggling along the crest of hills, and all the work, order, love and sacrifice, song and prayer that fill them.

On May mornings Bulgaria is a stream of grandparents, parents and children, flocks of sheep, herds of cattle, droves of pigs and geese, all pouring forth from their appointed places. Mother carry babies in tiny hammocks on their backs, and on reaching the fields hang them to the flowering branches of leafy trees or to shaded tripods. If the journey is long, donkeys carry the swaddled infants in saddlebags.

Old and New

In Europe modernism and medievalism have a way of living side by side in the same city, each unconscious and uncomprehending of the other. This is seen to the best advantage at Mentone on the Riviera. The centuries have not changed this medieval city. Time seems to have woven it into a tapestry of venerable cathedrals, moss-covered houses and primitive little pathways, they unknowingly or generously call streets, and all that Old Mentone knows of Young Mentone is that she comes at certain times of the year with her manifestations of wealth and gaiety to live in the luxurious hotels and spacious villas, a terra incognita to her neighbor.

Reason for Postmarks

Postmarks were first placed on envelopes as an official marking. Later they were used to cancel the postage stamps and give place and time of mailing. The post office department says that the records of the department do not show when the postmark was first used. As early as 1798 the postal laws and regulations required the postmasters to mark letters deposited in their offices for mailing with the name of the office. This mark might be either stamped or written. Up to 1840 in some cases written postmarks were still in use.

Concili

No matter how good you may think you are, it is the judgment of others that establishes your value. It is right to be self-confident to a degree, but not beyond that degree. In the long run it pays to take your job—not yourself—seriously.—Grit.

Lesson for January 15

JESUS AT WORK

Mark 1:21-45.
GOLDEN TEXT—But Jesus answered them, My Father worketh hitherto, and I work, John 5:17.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Making a Sick Mother Well.

JUNIOR TOPIC—How Jesus Spent His Time.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Busy at Great Tasks.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Jesus Meeting Human Needs.

Mark's purpose in writing his treatise should steadily be borne in mind; namely: the presentation of Jesus Christ as the divine Servant energetically performing the will of God. The purpose in this section is to show the divine Servant bearing God's message to, and clothed with power to save, lost souls. Coupled with his superhuman strength is the unvaried sympathy, giving itself out in helpful and saving service.

I. Jesus Teaching With Authority (vv. 21, 22).

1. The place (v. 21). It was in the synagogue in Capernaum to which he with four disciples repaired "straightway" upon his entrance into the village. He availed himself of the regular channel of instruction. Though many abuses had crept into the synagogue service, he chose to associate the new with the old order.

2. The time (v. 21). It was on the Sabbath day. His faithfulness in observing the Sabbath brought him to the place where the people assembled to worship and to hear the Scriptures expounded. He came not to destroy but to fulfill the law, even the law of the Sabbath day.

3. The impression made (v. 22). The people were astonished. Two things about his teaching impressed his hearers.

a. The substance of his message.

b. The authority of his deliverance. The scribes, the professional teachers of the law, merely quoted the authorities, but Jesus with first hand knowledge set forth the truth with the enthusiasm of freshness and personal conviction.

II. Jesus Conquering Demons (vv. 23-28).

1. The outcry of the demon-possessed man (v. 23). When the power of God is manifested in the presence of evil spirits, there is bound to be an outcry from them.

2. The demon's confession (v. 24). "Thou art the Holy One of God." The one whose chief business it was to waste and destroy human life was in such miserable state as to desire to have nothing to do with Christ, and yet was forced to confess him as the Holy One.

3. Christ's attitude toward the demon (v. 25). Christ neither asked for nor accepted testimony from the demon, but sternly rebuked and cast out the foul spirit. Christ is not only himself pure, but is also able to deliver others from impurity.

4. The obedience of the demon (v. 26). The evil spirit was reluctant to leave the man and displayed his malice to the very end, for he tore the man whom he was forced to leave.

5. The impression made upon the people (vv. 27, 28). The news of Christ's power spread rapidly over Galilee. The people were startled by two things:

a. The new doctrine which he brought.

b. The authority over demons.

III. Jesus Heals Peter's Mother-in-Law of Fever (vv. 29-31).

Jesus went home with Simon and Andrew. While in that home he learned of the condition of Peter's mother-in-law. He came at once and lifted her up and the fever departed. Divine healing is characterized by completeness and immediacy. Divine healing is, in this respect, to be contrasted with so-called faith healing, which is merely the exercise of the power of mind over the body.

IV. Jesus Ministering to Many (vv. 32-34).

Though the day was strenuous in its labors, he came unwearied even when the sun had set, to meet the needs of the multitudes who had gathered from all parts of the city. He healed many of diseases, and cast out many demons. The demons knew him, but the poor blind people knew him not.

V. Jesus Cleansing a Leper (vv. 35-45).

As Jesus preached in the synagogues of Galilee and cast out demons, his power became widely known. A leper therefore came to him saying, "If thou wilt, thou canst make me clean." Jesus put forth his hand and touched him saying, "I will, be thou clean," and immediately the leprosy departed and he was cleansed.

Look for His Leading

As a general rule, those truths which we highly reish, and which shed a degree of practical light upon the things which we are required to give up for God, are leadings of Divine grace, which we should follow without hesitation.—Fenelon.

Thy Kingdom Come

If you do not wish his kingdom, don't pray for it. But if you do, you must do more than pray for it, you must work for it.—John Ruskin.

SONJA HENIE "TOO OLD" AT TWENTY

Sonja Henie, the world's ice skating champion for six years, twice Olympic champion and winner of the European title for three years, intends to withdraw from all competitions after this winter. She is getting old, for she is not yet twenty, and is tired of going to bed early every night.

FACTS CULLED
FROM THE PRESS

City has No-one Unemployed

Three Jewish leaders from Palestine, arriving in New York on their way to a convention of the American Misbachi Organization in Buffalo, boasted that Jerusalem is the one place in the world that has no one unemployed man.

The Jewish population in Jerusalem has grown from 50,000 in 1917, to 220,000 today. The present economic situation has resulted in a big increase in the migration of Jews from North America.

Sudbury's First Permit for Garage Unearthed

Believed to be the first application for a permit to build a garage in Sudbury, a letter dated July 10, 1908 and signed by C. B. Gordon has been discovered by A. V. Forsyth of the city hall staff. The ancient application reads in part—"For the erection of an automobile shed on Fir St. Size 16 by 24, two storeys high."

Back-to-the-Land and Redistribution.

There can be little doubt the Back-to-the-Land movement is sound policy based on sane motives. It is gaining favor, and many gestures of co-operation between municipality and province have given the movement a fair start. One or two instances of dissatisfaction have arisen; such cases were bound to arise; but as yet, although the scheme is young in practice, the outcome promises to help materially in the relief of distressed conditions.

If one other argument is needed to support the logic of this entire scheme, the trend of population in the single province of Quebec may be effectively cited. It is a fact that the rural population of this province today is scarcely higher than it was forty years ago; the general population, however, has increased by more than a million in that time. Nothing could argue more strongly for the need of redistribution in population.

Ratepayers Maintain Prohibition By-Law.

Ville LaSalle, Que., prohibition by-law was maintained by the ratepayers as a result of a three-day referendum which closed with a majority of 168. The sale of beer in local groceries will not be allowed, as has been the law since 1912.

Three Rivers Tax Collection, Record

All former records for collection of municipal and school taxes were smashed last year, in Three Rivers, Que., according to a report issued by the municipal treasurer. The City's tax collections reached a total of $946,552, an increase of $98,740 over the previous year although the rate had been reduced by 25 cents.

Village Liable for Collapse of Bridge.

St. Claire d'Assise, a small municipality in Soulanges county, Que., will pay heavily for its failure to maintain the River Baudet bridge in good repair. Mr. Justice Loranger has condemned the town to pay $5,887 in two actions brought to the Superior Court after a truck had fallen through the bridge into the river. There are only about 30 families in the village and, unless the provincial Government shoulders the burden, the damages and costs will have to be assessed against the taxpayers.

Renaming of Main Street Unpopular.

The travelling salesman who suggested Kansas City rename its "main" street to get out of the "hick town" classification, did not find popular approval.

Main street merchants rose in wrath when they heard Mayor Bryce Smith was submitting the suggestion to a committee of the city council. It always had been Main street. It was Main Street when oxen wallowed up from the Main Street wharf on the Missouri. Visitors to the city were not lost as long as they had Main Street to set them right. Established business houses have long advertised themselves as being on Main Street, and will not tolerate any change.

Santa Claus' Chain Workshops

In his difficult 1932 Christmas job of joy-making the Canadian Santa Claus had the help of a Toy Shop Chain operated by Boy Scouts and Girl Guides in 145 towns and cities across the Dominion. Toys, games, story books and dolls were provided for fully 75,000 children, including some 4,500 on prairie farms by mail.

Some Toy Shop Figures

The Montreal Scout Toy Shop furnished well over 16,000 gifts for city families, and 500 on western farms. Calgary and Hamilton provided for 5,000 kiddies each, and Winnipeg filled Santa's bag for the children of a half dozen institutions, and 361 children on farms. Ottawa made a new record by mailing gifts to 934 settlers' children.

Among the Smaller Cities

Of the smaller cities, Saskatoon, Sherbrooke and Saint John repeated outstanding work of previous years, and Moose Jaw in spite of hard times established a new figure of 302 settlers'

kiddies, over the local giving. Halifax again looked after numerous fishermen's families along the sea coast.

Rosetown, Shop Leaders

Rosetown, Sask., retained its leadership among the town shops by volunteering to mail parcels to 175 needy settlers' kiddies, and in Ontario the Oakville Scouts and Guides called for their "usual 100."

The Settlers' Names

The names of settlers unable to give their children Christmas gifts are gathered at Dominion Scout Headquarters through immigrant departments and agencies and by correspondence with families reached in previous years. This Christmas 658 letters were received from settlers, chiefly in the west. The names are assigned to Toy Shops as called for.

No Dominion First Aid Contests

The St. John Ambulance Association has announced that there will be no Dominion Wallace Nesbitt Junior or Gaunt Intermediate first aid contests this year. Boy Scout teams have won the great majority of these competitions for a number of years. For 1932 both cups were carried off by the 2nd. Edmonton (St. Faith's), a unique record.

Papuan Boys learn Scout Leadership

Wallace Kinnaird, Scout V. C.

CHURCH BROADCASTS PAID THEIR WAY IN PAST YEAR

At this time of the year when the Man on the Street is asked to put his hand in his pocket for every conceivable kind of philanthropic endeavour, it is a satisfaction to learn that one of our least advertised yet most consistent and widely effective public services has met its budget and starts the New Year with a clean sheet—we refer to the Church Broadcasts.

The broadcasting of services from eight of the Protestant Churches of Montreal over Station C.H.Y.C. of the Northern Electric Company, Limited, is handled under the direction of the Central Broadcasting Committee composed of one representative from each of the eight Churches which broadcast. Dr. A. O. Dawson is Chairman, Mr. A. R. Grafton, Honorary-Secretary, and the Crown Trust Company acts as Honorary-Treasurer. The Crown Trust makes no charge for its services, and the Station handles the programme at cost.

The Committee incurs no expense whatever and every dollar of funds received from the public is turned over to the Churches. All donations are received and acknowledged; detailed financial statements are submitted at each meeting of the Central Broadcasting Committee.

Each of the eight Churches broadcasts twice every sixteen Sundays, subject to some modification in this program which may be found necessary in the summer months. The contributions received from the public are divided equally between the eight Churches according to the number of Sundays on which they broadcast.

ations later developing. Notwithstanding great suffering and the cloud over his future, Kinnaird became an always cheery, encouraging leader of the hospital troop of handicapped boys and generally played a part that attracted unusual commendation from doctors and nurses. The Cornwell Badge was established to commemorate the fortitude, courage and character shown by Ship's Boy Jack Cornwell, a Boy Scout, after being mortally wounded during the battle of Jutland.

Delicious FILLED BUNS

Make them with this easy ROYAL SPONGE* recipe
Cream together 1/4 cup sugar, 1/4 cup butter, 1/4 teaspoon salt. Add 1 beaten egg and 1/2 cup lukewarm milk. Add 1 cup Royal Yeast Sponge*, pinch of cinnamon or nutmeg and few drops of lemon extract. Add 2 cups flour and knead to soft dough. Place in well-greased bowl and set in warm location to rise until double in bulk (about 1 1/2 hours). Knock down the dough and mould into small round balls (about 1 ounce). Dip in granulated sugar and set in greased baking pan 1/2 inch apart. Let rise until double in size. Make hole in top and fill with jelly or jam. Allow to rise until light and bake at 400° F. Makes 1 1/2 doz.

*ROYAL YEAST SPONGE

Soak 1 Royal Yeast Cake in 1/2 pint lukewarm water for 15 min. Dissolve 1 tbs. sugar in 1/2 pint milk. Add to dissolved yeast cake. Add 1 quart bread flour. Beat thoroughly. Cover and let rise overnight to double in bulk, in warm place free from draughts. Makes 5 to 6 cups of batter.

Our free booklet, "The Royal Road to Better Health," tells how Royal Yeast Cakes will improve your health, and suggests pleasant ways to take them.

Dr. Ingleby, of Philadelphia, was the guest of Dr. Maude Abbott during the holiday season.

The following young people spent Christmas with their parents in St. Andrews: Miss Lois Perks, Miss Hazel Brown, Mr. and Mrs. George Gagnon and their little son, Miss Bessie Rodger, Messrs. Keith and Wm. Pitcairn.

The members of the C. G. I. T. their leader, Mrs. Macaskill, and Mr. H. Kay, of Montreal, were the guests of Scout-master Snowdon and his Scout Troop at a banquet held in the Town Hall on Friday evening last. After games and a sumptuous supper the young folks closed the evening's program by singing the Scout Camp Song.

Mrs. Howell entertained at Bridge on Friday evening, Dec. 30th.

The St. Andrews East Library Committee wish to thank Mr. Hugh Allen, Mr. L. E. Blackader, Dr. R. L. Ballantyne and Mrs. M. L. Willett, of St. Andrews, and Miss Vida Brophy of Ottawa, for their generous gifts of books for the Library.

Mrs. W. Jones, of Montreal, was the guest of her sister, Mrs. C. A. Pease, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Perks and their small son spent the New Year week-end with their parents Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Perks.

On Monday afternoon, Jan. 2nd., Miss M. E. Dewar entertained four tables of Bridge.

The McGill lecture on The New North and the Arctic Islands attracted a group of interested listeners in the United Church on Friday evening, Dec. 3rd. The lecture was given under the auspices of the St. Andrews Reading Circle and was illustrated by a large number of lantern slides. Fortunately, the reader for the evening was Miss Booy, who formerly spent two years as a missionary in the Far North. Her running comments on the pictures, drawn from personal experience and observation added much to the interest of the occasion.

WEIR

Miss Dorothy Owen, who is attending the West Hill High School in Montreal, spent the holidays as guest of her parents, Mr and Mrs. R. B. Owen.

Miss Juanita Gallupe spent the week in Montreal visiting friends.

Miss Violet Williams, of Montreal, spent a few days at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Williams, last week.

Mr. Wilfred Smyth, of Montreal, spent the Xmas holidays at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Owen.

Mr. Delmar Rumbolt spent the past week in Montreal visiting friends.

Mr. Everett Larose and Miss Alma De Fazio, of Montreal, were week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Larose.

An interesting game of hockey was played here on Thursday evening, between the St. Jovite Carling's and Weir, the score being 7-4 in favor of the latter.

A very delightful New Year's party was given at the home of Mr. A. G. and Miss A. Munich on Saturday evening, where some twenty-five to thirty guests gathered together and spent a very enjoyable session. An exciting feature of the evening was a display of fire-works which illuminated the entire village. Light refreshments were served by the Misses M. A. Ladouceur, and B. Gougeon.

Among those present were, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Kerr, Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Loudin, Mr. and Mrs. R. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. P. Larose, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Williams, Mrs. E. C. Craig, the Misses M. Poulin, Greta Larose, Violet, Vera and Inez Williams, Katie Craig, Messrs. A. G. Munich Jr., Dumbor Oram, P. Cantin, L. Ladouceur, R. Rumbolt, E. Larose, H. Williams, A. Turmel, O. Purcell and Wm. Bennett.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Schippel and Mr. and Mrs. L. K. MacAdam, spent New Year's in Montreal.

CUSHING WEST

The Misses Florence and Dorothy Holmes, of Montreal, and Miss Minnie Robinson, of Lachute, were guests of the Misses Cooke, for New Years.

Miss Katie Hartley, of New York City, was the guest of her mother, Mrs. S. O. Hartley, during the past week, as was also Miss Olive Hartley of Montreal. Mrs. Hartley also had as guests for New Year's, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Cutten and son Hartley, and Miss Ruth Walsh, of Montreal.

Mrs. A. Viau and Miss Gabrielle Desforges, of Greece's Pt., are spending the week in Montreal.

Pine Cottage, the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Walford, was awakened to life during the past week when it was invaded by a jolly party of boys from Montreal, with Mr. Wally Walford as host. The party which included Messrs. Keith Clarke, Ernest Russel, Jack Berne, and Jack McGrail, participated in all the New Year's celebrations of the neighborhood. On Monday they were also guests of Mr. Charles Byers of Green Lane, Hawkesbury, and on Saturday they were entertained very pleasantly at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Murdoch, Mabel. They returned to Montreal on Tuesday in their car which is very appropriately named Mona Lisa, owing to its baffling disposition.

New Year's guests of Mr. and Miss Whelehan were the Messrs. S. and E. Whelehan, the Misses Grace and Katie Whelehan, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Hartley and Mr. Charlie Kelly, of Montreal.

Dr. Cushing and family spent the week-end and New Year's very pleasantly at their residence here, Miss Marjorie having as guests the Misses Helen Byers, Mariotti Steilman, Lorraine McKimmie, Katherine Jaquais and Isabella Ritchie. The party also included Messrs. Walter and James and Miss Florence Cushing, and Miss McDougall.

Readers of these items, near and far, please accept the sincere wishes of the writer for a happy and prosperous New Year.

DOUBLE BEREAVEMENT IN WELL-KNOWN AND RESPECTED FAMILY

On Tuesday morning last there passed away at her late residence, Main Street, Lachute, a quiet and unassuming, but much respected individual, in the person of Miss Jessie Murray. Her youngest brother John also passed away less than twenty-four hours later.

Miss Jessie was the oldest of a family of six—four girls and two boys. Their mother, (Elizabeth Drew prior to her marriage), having died when Jessie was only nine years of age, and her brother John, then only six weeks old,—with the capable assistance of her late father, Alexander Murray, a man of sterling worth and sound judgment, Jessie filled the roll of mother to the rest of the family.

It is worthy of note that this double break is the first in the family of six. The deceased lady was born in Thomas Gore, on Nov. 6th., 1859 and her late brother John on May 16th., 1868. After the death of their father which occurred in 1914, she, with her brother John and two sisters, removed to the old Hay residence on the Brownsburg Road, where they resided until 1925, then settling in Lachute.

There remain to mourn the loss of their sister and brother, Mrs. John Smith, the Misses Margaret and Helen and Mr. William Murray, all of Lachute. The funeral of the late Miss Murray took place on Wednesday last and that of her late brother John, on Thursday, both services being conducted by the Rev. W. B. Rosborough, assisted by the Rev. H. Cousens.

CUSHING

Mr. Geo. Fuller spent last week in Montreal.

Mr. Grant Nugent spent the New Year holidays at his home in Finch.

The Women's Missionary Society will meet at the home of Mrs. S. Hartley, on Tuesday, January 10th.

Miss Doris Leroy visited friends in Montreal on Friday.

Mrs. Irving Fuller is visiting her sisters, the Misses M. and V. Bryerton, of Verdun, this week.

Capt. J. D. Weir of St. Anne de Bellevue, was a New Year's guest of his mother, Mrs. T. Weir Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Graham and family were New Year's Day guests of Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Scott, of Lachute; Mrs. Graham and daughters also paid a short visit at the home of Mrs. J. C. James on that day.

Small Fire on Grace Street

The Fire Brigade responded to their first call this year on Saturday night at 11.30 o'clock, when an outbreak occurred in a property belonging to Adolphe Raymond on Grace Street near Bethany.

The dwelling was occupied by Mr. Nobert, and little damage was sustained as the occupants had taken prompt measures to subdue the flames. The fire was caused by an overheated stove pipe which ignited the wall.

Appeal for Support

The deficit has been made up by very generous donations from the Red Cross and other subscriptions; and this good work, to be carried on, must be supported by the public.

Every citizen, we feel certain, is interested in this work of the V.O.N. in caring for the sick and the welfare of the community and, from the above report, it is obvious that the Order has been a great blessing to those who need a Nurse's assistance.

Due to world-wide conditions of unemployment, etc., we expect to be called on very frequently this winter for gratuitous services and any assistance from the public to carry on this good work will be deeply appreciated.

The order will be very pleased to have every citizen join (Annual fee $1.00) and subscriptions may be forwarded to the treasurer Mrs. Alex. Bothwell, Lachute, Que.

The V.O.N. Committee.

C. P. R. Local Derailed near Rouge River Bridge, Pt-au-Chene

Three Cars Roll Down Embankment Passengers' Miraculous Escape

A dozen or so of passengers escaped with only bruises and minor injuries in an accident last Sunday afternoon which might have taken more serious toll, when the C. P. R. train to Montreal, due here around 4.40 o'clock, left the track three miles west of Calumet. The mishap occurred near the well known Rouge River bridge, and as result of a broken rail, three passenger cars broke away and toppled down a 75-foot embankment among rocks and trees. The engine and baggage car remained on the track, but in the derailment the three cars are said to have turned over three times before coming to rest.

The train was a Sunday extra from Montebello and fortunately had gathered only a few passengers, approximately 17. Of these, twelve or thirteen suf-

LATE WM. MacCULLOCH, ISLE AUX CHATS

On Saturday, Jan. 7th., there passed away at the home of his son, Proven McCulloch, of Isle aux Chats, one of the oldest residents of that district. Born in Isle aux Chats, 1862, William passed almost his entire life on the old homestead, only moving 4 years ago, with his son, where he enjoyed the later years of his life among his grand children to whom he was very much attached and rendered many kindnesses.

He was a life long member of St. Andrews Church, being an elder in the Presbyterian Church during the reign of four ministers.

The funeral service was held on Monday the 9th., in the Presbyterian Church by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Ballantyne, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Macaskill.

REV. R. S. BOOY APPOINTED RURAL DEAN

Congratulation is extended to Rev. R. S. Booy, Anglican rector of St. Andrews East, who has been appointed by the Synod as Rural Dean of the St. Andrews Deanery.

Civic Nominations on January 25th.

Nominations for Lachute's municipal elections, are to be held on the 25th. inst. Vacancies are to be filled for the West Ward, where Dr. Rodrigue and Wm. Morrison are retiring councillors; in the Centre by retirement of Councillors P. Dobbie and J. Rice; and in the East Ward seat vacated by Omer Laurin.

It appears probable there will be contest for the mayoralty, as papers have been circulated on behalf of Messrs. Arthur Larocque and Gaetan Valois.

LACHUTE W. I. MEETING

The January meeting of the Lachute Women's Institute was held in the High School on Tuesday afternoon. After the regular routine business, Miss Jones, of Manchester, England, who is the guest of Mrs. John McFaul, gave a talk on her trip to the West and through the United States, where she has covered some 50,000 miles by bus.

An address on "Canadianization" was given by Mr. Hall, who stressed the point that what Canada needs is more people, and for Canadians to be more broad and tolerant in their intercourse with the foreigners, striving to absorb the many nationalities co-habiting this country into one district nationhood. This one aspect of Canadianization needs higher emphasis.

The Week's Hockey

Brownsburg Blues Ahead in League

The Brownsburg Blue team hold leading place in the district league standing to date, with Laurin Express in second position. Independents and Ayers Limited are even for third place and Brownsburg Reds foot the list. The Blues have played three games winning each time; Laurin Express have played three games and won 2; Ayers and Independents have each played three and won one game; the Reds have lost on each of two games.

Five-Three Gives Laurin Express a League Victory Over Independents

Independents suffered a two-goal defeat from Laurin Express in the seventh league game last Thursday. The fixture proved a full-spirited set-to. The boys lined up, each side intent on victory from the start, but it is suspected the high betting put an edge on their tempers—and stakes on the game were not at all necessary to maintain enthusiasm in these two established rivals.

The teams turned out for a clean and eventful first period, and the scores were registered by perhaps the two keenest players on the ice—certainly two of the sportiest, namely Bernier and Beauchamp. Joey, on the Laurin forward line, scored neatly on a rebound from the Independents' net, followed shortly by another tally after the puck had circumnavigated the cage. Beauchamp scored meanwhile for the town team, and the period closed at 2-1 with nothing more disastrous than an unorthodox performance by Roussel, misinterpreting the approved uses of the hockey stick, who served a cheerful penance in the box.

Independents rallied in their team work as the second period warmed up. Cousineau chalked another count for the Express boys. Jim MacKimmie brought into play that long-shot technique which marked his performance in earlier years, but was shooting high. However, in a third successive try from the Laurin blue line, he broke through the Church blockade and scored neatly for Independents. Next followed a sure goal by Cruise, which was nullified by the judge behind the Laurin cage—giving rise to lengthy dispute on the ice and a threat to protest the game. Cruise stepped into the limelight again, incurring a penalty from Referee Deslauriers, whose decisions were none too popular. Deslauriers at this stage pocketed his whistle and made for the gate, at an over-ruling by Chief W. MacKimmie. He was promptly followed by the Express team, who were, however, gently dragged back on the ice by their manager M. Navion. The Referee also trickled back, and the remainder of the session was uneventful. Roussel served three minutes again in the box, and the period closed at 3-2 in favor of the Transport boys.

Brownsburg Lost to Vankleek Hill

Meeting Brownsburg on Friday, 30th. ult., in a good game at the 'Burg rink, Vankleek Hill team took the honors with a 1-0 score. Pat Dunn tended goal for the visitors, in the absence of Goaler P. St. Denis, who was on the sick list. Jack Dunn, of Hawkesbury, was referee. Vankleek Hill lost to Grenville in a recent game on their district league schedule.

Good Clean Hockey, But Nothing Spectacular in Ayers-Vankleek Contest

The fastest individual hockey in Saturday's Ayers Limited-Vankleek Hill encounter was undoubtedly Giroux, one of Independents' mainstays of last season, who is now playing for the Hill in exhibition matches outside the Lower Ottawa league. It is now invariably considered, if Giroux secures the puck near his position on defence, the ice is his. On Saturday he was up to scratch, splendidly supported by Brock on right defence, and the couple spelled Power to the visiting team and their creditable performance. Pat St. Denis, in the Hill net, was just out of confinement from a siege of grippie, and looked it; but he maintained a splendid blockade, slipping only one goal in the whole game. The visiting forward line staged an orderly formation, and team work worthy of a national line up. Altogether, in their victory of 5-1, we concede the laurels wholeheartedly to this clean, sporty turn-out.

Ayers Limited, short in their line-up, were augmented by Cruise and G. Lefebvre of the local Independents. The opening manoeuvres evidenced some fine team-work. W. Drew, McFaul, "Bidou" Patry maintained a leading offensive throughout the game, Cruise also staging a keener performance than he has shown hitherto this season. Ben Patry, in the net, made some splendid saves against steady, accurate shooting. The Drew brothers, when playing side by side, showed mutual understanding and teamed well together. In the latter stages, however—although Ayers were by no means disorganized—the co-operative aspect of their play was less availing, and many good passes found no-one on the spot to receive them. Mr. J. Belanger refereed, exercising good, fair judgment.

First period opened with the puck mostly in Vankleek Hill territory, Giroux and Hurley leading the play for the visiting sextette. There was fine co-operation on both sides; a lone chase up the ice by Lefebvre ended in a good save by St. Denis in goal. Giroux countered with a similar lone-hand effort, but could not score. The players appeared to bear a grudge against the V. H. spares, for twice the puck sailed over the boards amongst them, followed shortly by Giroux' hockey stick! No feelings were hurt, however.

P. St. Denis checked a heavy bombardment, and Cruise missed the only open chance of connecting with the twine. The

SUDDEN DEATH OF PETER BELANGER IN MONTREAL

A large assembly at the Church of St. Anastasie, on Wednesday morning, paid tribute to the memory of Peter Belanger, eldest son of the late Napoleon Belanger of this town. The funeral took place on arrival of the morning train from Montreal, where the deceased had resided for some time and passed away suddenly at his work on Monday last. He was 45 years of age.

The late Mr. Belanger is survived by his brother, Joseph, and by one sister Blanche (Mrs. Arthur Larocque), to both of whom friends in this community extend sympathy in their sudden bereavement.

PIONEER W. I. MEETING

The New Year's meeting of the Pioneer Women's Institute was held in McArthur's Hall, on Monday evening last. Greetings were received from Jerusalem Bethany, Upper Lachute, Frontier, Lakefield and Lachute. A very interesting address was given by Mr. G. Valois, on legal aspects of Incorporation of the Institutes, the subject being subsequently discussed by all present. At the conclusion dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. John Forbes.

J. E. Walker Acclaimed Mayor of St. Jerusalem SECOND TERM

Taxpayers of the Parish of St. Jerusalem have acclaimed Mr. J. E. Walker as their Mayor for the second term. Elections however, are called for the seats of 3 retiring councillors, J. E. Armstrong, Seat No. 6; Andrew Nicoll, Seat No. 5; and Matthew Elder, Seat No. 1.

Nominations were held on Wednesday from 10 to 12 noon, and elections will be held next Monday, 16th. inst., from 8 to 6 in the Court House, Lachute.

All three retiring councillors were re-nominated but will each meet with opposition. Opposing Mr. Armstrong for seat No. 6 will be Philippe Desjardins. Edmond Carlin will run as candidate for vacancy No. 5, against Andrew Nicol; and in Seat No. 1 J. S. Pollock will contest the honors against Mr. Elder.

It is reported that a new skating rink is to have tinted ice. Black and blue seems an appropriate color scheme. The Humorist.

With six vacant seats in the Senate, some headway should be made against unemployment.

Month's Activity in County Branches of Women's Institute

Chatham Branch had interesting papers on "Balancing The Budget" and "Spices, their Origin and Uses," by Mrs. P. McQuaig and Mrs. Smillie respectively. Attendance 6.

Frontier had 12 members and one visitor; discussion of ways and means to increase funds, also a reading "The White Lie" by Mrs. J. Douglas. Roll Call. "Foreign Nationalities in Canada."

Jerusalem-Bethany had 10 members present; roll call, "Household Hints." The branch sent a box of canned goods and fruits to the sick at Christmas, and reported good success from dance held in November. twenty-five members attended.

Lachute were addressed on "Child Welfare" by Principal Hall; also sent a box of clothing to Clinic at Ste. Agathe.

Lakefield, donated woollen blankets to a home which had suffered loss by fire, also planned clothing for needy child, as

Vestry Meeting of St. Simeon's Anglican Church, Lachute

Progressive Spirit shown by Church Members. Proposals for the building of a Church Hall or New Church brought forward

The Annual Vestry Meeting of St. Simeon's was held Tuesday evening, Jan. 10th., the Rector, the Rev. W. LeCras, being in the chair.

The usual business was conducted showing a very satisfactory financial position and keen interest in all branches of Parish activities. A hearty vote of thanks was extended to retiring officers and new officials were elected as follows:

Rector's Warden, Mr. R. Elliott; People's Warden, Mr. Rodger; Sidesmen, Senior Sunday School boys by rotation; Lay Delegates, Last year's representatives re-elected. The Auditors were also re-elected and Mr. Geo. Leggett was appointed Secretary. A hearty vote of thanks was also extended to the Ladies of the Guild, Organist and Choir, and to Mr. Geo. Miles, Choir Director, for their valuable services during the past year.

The question of the building of a Church Hall was placed before the meeting for discussion by Mrs. Bothwell which led on to the advisability of building a new Church. Great interest was shown by the large number of parishioners present concerning this important matter, and a special building Committee, to work in conjunction with the select Vestry body, was appointed to go into all details thoroughly and report back as soon as possible to the Wardens and Congregation.

At the close of the meeting great satisfaction was expressed by all that such a decided move had been made towards extending the facilities of the Church and to enlarge its influence and activity.

well as arranging for Farmers' Club Annual Banquet. Six members were present.

Pioneer donated money to the Children's Memorial Hospital.

Morin Heights had 14 members and one visitor. Decided to send application to Municipal Council for branch to be incorporated. Interesting papers given by Mrs. R. Ivall on "History of Canadian Industries" and "Canadian Industries."

The School Visiting Committee's report was received. Grandmothers' Evening was held, also a Knitting Competition, and prize given.

Upper Lachute had 19 members. Roll call—"Prominent men of Canada and their pursuits." Topic, "Legislation." Paper by Mrs. Massiah on "Woman in the home, also Laws concerning married women," was read and discussed. Presidential address (Mrs. Gordon) "National Events and their bearing on the unrest of the world." The Annual Meeting was arranged for.

UNITED YOUNG PEOPLE MET

The Young People's Society of the Lachute United Church held their usual meeting Monday evening, the 9th. inst. A good attendance together with the keen interest shown on behalf of the convenors who had charge of the meeting, made it a most enjoyable occasion. Now that Carpet Bowling forms part of the recreational period, new interest has been stimulated and an even larger regular attendance is anticipated.

THE CAPTAIN'S CORNER

For Our Boy Readers

THE CAPTAIN'S WEEKLY LETTER.

MY CHALLENGE TO YOU

Dear Boys :

I wonder if you are what is called an enterprising fellow! When one comes to think about this subject of Enterprise there is a great deal more in it than meets the eye.

Take a glance at the history of this your own Country, and you will quickly see that its progress during the past many years has been principally due to energetic, far-seeing efforts on the part of individuals and organizations, which have had the ability to conceive big business and the enterprise to carry it forward to a successful conclusion. The wonderful history of the Canadian Pacific Railway is an apt illustration of this.

Now the future of this country will be no less glorious than its past, if the youth of our land continues to possess this real spirit of enterprise backed up by ability and energy.

This is a direct challenge to you, and must be accepted as such. It is not too much to say that the welfare of Canada depends very largely on what is going to take place during the next few years; and you boys will have a good deal to do with the work to be accomplished during that period.

All of us have got to put up a big fight, and no fellow, unless he is wanting in intellect, will engage in big business of this description unprepared.

So this means work, hard strenuous labour at school; and afterwards the most energetic attention to your job. Don't be content with mere routine effort; think things out for yourselves; cultivate ideas and see if they are productive; then Carry on, as we used to say in the Great War.

If you will make up your minds to do this, not forgetting to ask God's blessing on all your efforts, you will be contributing your share of the ENTERPRISE which is so necessary in these most uncertain days.

Wishing you success in every endeavour that you will make,

Your affectionate friend,

THE CAPTAIN.

THE CAPTAIN'S SERIAL STORY OF ADVENTURE

Special to The Watchman

CHAPTER 2.

"How ignorant we be of those events that shape our course."
—Fox.

Amid the throng of excited people that were so eagerly awaiting events outside the bank building, in the quaint old market-place of Ryden, stood a man and boy. Both were well-known to the inhabitants of the Town as father and son, the former being one of the largest land owners in the district. Tall and upright of bearing, Tom Dickson represented all that was best of that type of yeoman-citizen who farmed his own land and was justly considered to be the backbone of the Country of England during this period of its history.

For the last seven years he had been a widower, and his son Edgar, now a sturdy lad fourteen years of age, was his only child. It was for this boy he had laboured so industriously, and indeed the sudden closing down of the bank which contained much of his money, was a terrible blow to him and one from which he saw, at the moment, no relief. Perhaps later on, when matters could be more clearly defined, something might be done—would have to be done—but just now his mind refused to work normally.

Moved to speech by the excited shouts of the people, the boy looked up at his father's face, noting his unusually grave expression, and said, "What's the meaning of all this noise, sir; and why are you appearing so troubled?"

It will be noted that the youngster addressed his father as "Sir", for in those days boys were trained to render the same deep respect to their male parent as pupils, in these more modern times, have to give their masters in school.

Somehow the eager question of his son brought home to Tom Dickson the necessity of immediate action; so he answered abruptly, "Come, my lad, it's no good waiting here and it's certain that the bank will not open perhaps for many weeks, if then. Thus the best things we can do is to go back to where we left the horse and cart and drive home."

It was not until they were travelling along the winding country road, bordered on each side by steep hedgerows, which led towards the old Manor House, the only home that Edgar had ever known—that the boy ventured to put forward another question, concerning these events which he found so difficult to understand.

"But, sir, tell me," he pleaded, "What does it mean the bank building closing like that? Have all the people lost their money?"

"Yes, my boy," replied his father, "and we have also. For years I have been putting aside a certain sum so as to be able to send you to college, as well as to make provision against the time when I can work no longer. But I am afraid, owing to what has happened we have lost it all."

For a few minutes they drove on in silence. Both man and boy were busy with their own thoughts. What his father had just said was not entirely news to Edgar, for he had long known that, as soon as he was old enough, he was to be sent to one of the big Public Schools that were even then becoming famous throughout the land. But he could not grasp clearly what he had heard about the loss of money, for to him it had always appeared that his father was a very wealthy man. With this thought uppermost in his mind he said, "Even if you have lost money, sir, you have so much that it really does not matter?"

Tom Dickson smiled and looked down at the ingenuous

AUNT JEAN HERSELF

FROST ON THE WINDOW PANE

By Aunt Jean

A fairy picture, this—
Of palms, and curling ferns,
A glittering tracery
Of paths with sudden turns . . .
Of turret tops half hidden there,
A clear-cut star or two—
Some diamonds for my lady's hair,
Where the sun, now shining through,
Shows up that spot, that vacant place.
Where the Frost Fairy stayed her hand,
As she was about to trace
A wondrous garden, at her Queen's command,
Leaving here and there,
Drippings from her tiny brush,
As she fled to safety,
At the Dawn's pink flush.

The White-nosed Cow had fared the best of all the toys, because small Ted's big farmer-uncle had brought him a lot of toy cows when he had come into town for Christmas dinner with the family; and before he and Ted had gone out, they had arranged them in a circle on the floor with their noses almost touching. Just close enough for them to whisper secretly to each other. What a lot they must have had to tell the White-nosed cow, seeing they had been made in the same factory but taken out at different times.

When the Christmas Fairy looked in to take a farewell peep at them their tails were all straight out as though they had come through some very exciting experience. I should not wonder if the White-nosed Cow had been telling them of her escape from the wolves, when they were pursuing Santa's sleigh.

The wolves must not have cared for the taste of Mrs. Santa's moth balls, for they did not bother Santa on his trip back home. In fact nothing very exciting happened; perhaps it was because Santa had left his sleigh bells behind, one here and there, to help make Christmas for some poor child who was not going to have many other gifts; and the animals which had heard him coming so merrily, did not hear him going back.

The deer too trotted more quietly. They knew that their work was over until next year, and were sorry, as it meant leaving their beloved master again.

But Mrs. Santa was not sorry to have him safely home; she had a nice hot drink of lemonade ready for him, as well as a huge bowl of porridge, also his new suit warming by the face of his son and replied, "True, my boy, I have the old home and the estate, but with rents so low and land so poor, what we have lost through the bank will put us in a pretty bad way. Maybe it will be wise to sell up everything and go out to one of those colonies about which we have heard so much in the last year or so."

"But that will mean we will have to sail in a ship for days and days, doesn't it sir? I am afraid I shall not like that at all!"

"Considering that you don't know anything about it,"—was the reply,—"and also considering that you may not have to do it at all, I wouldn't start worrying. Here we are at home and if you are as hungry as I am, you will think dinner is much more important than prospective voyages over the sea."

Edgar laughed at his father's quaint way of putting things and at once prepared to jump down. As they drove to the house entrance a stable boy, wearing a brown leather jacket and having on his head a round green cap decorated with a long feather of the same color, ran to the horse's head, taking care at the same time to salute his master respectfully.

"Take the cart round to the stable, Jack, and see the mare has a good feed," ordered Tom Dickson, and then taking his son by the arm the two entered their home together.

The Captain's Letters

What subjects we have talked about—
Some gay, while others without doubt Have made us think;
At least I trust this may be so—Though often will my thoughts just go
Quite on the 'blink'!

If you are tempted to decry
My patient efforts, don't deny
They cover space . . .
Besides, my living I must earn,
Though in the process you may squirm,
And pull a face.

This 'Weekly Letter', if it's read,
May cause you joy, or else instead Much sympathy
And this is right, indeed correct,
When great ideas which I expect Won't come to me.

The time arrives to go 'to print',
And down below they wait with ink
To set my 'stuff';
And here I sit, my mind a blank
As hollow as an empty tank—
But that's enough!

I must conclude these doleful lines
Or else upon your youthful minds
Will settle gloom.
For after all, perhaps you may
My letters answer one fine day—
Maybe quite soon.

a long sleep first, my dear," (who had fallen asleep almost as soon as he had finished telling them of their new work) would not be disturbed, Tinkles kissed Mrs. Santa and softly whispered "Good-by until next fall". Then she shook out her bright sparkling wings and with a smile at Nunka floated away out of Mrs. Santa's sight.

Nunka followed closely behind her—And next summer, Children, you may hear little tinkling sounds, when the wind blows gently, and know that Tinkles and Nunka are somewhere close by.

And next week, I am going to tell you about Aunt Mollie's hands.

Lovingly, Aunt Jean.

fect circus exhibition. The play opened unhappily as Cousineau (of Laurin Express) went down with a thud and was carried off the ice in a heap; Lafleur was ruled to the bench for a questionable part in the impact. The play became fast and furious as Tessier scored for the Express, and Jones counted one up for Independents. But through a series of interruptions the contest became disjointed and nerves grew frazzled. Things became unpleasant again for Referee Deslauriers when he ruled a penalty against Jones. After due dispute the latter promptly connected his glove with the Referee's countenance. This attack—regardless of the Referee's accuracy—was out of order and uncalled for; but admittedly the course of play had got the nanny of more players than Howie Jones. The offender drew a sentence of ten minutes in the cooler; but it was when he reappeared on the ice that Deslauriers again took exception. There followed an altercation between the two Referees, a waving of hands, and consultation of the Rule Book. When finally Mr. MacKimmie was ready to face the puck, the puck could not be found—nor could the Independents' goaler, who had vacated the cage. These were both ultimately recovered, and the play proceeded until Cruise, in goal, had the misfortune to be hit with a hickory and sustained a nosebleed.

After a little delay, the players got under way again, and movements were mostly in the direction of the Laurin goal. Beauchamp and Jones took the lead for Independents, and the Express boys were keyed to their finest effort. Fast hockey prevailed and sparks flashed for several lightning minutes, but the clash ended harmoniously, with Laurin Express the victors to a tune of 5-3.

The evening's line-up comprised:

Independents—Cruise in goal; G. Lefebvre and Jim MacKimmie defence; Beauchamp, Jones and Cruise forwards. Subs: P. Lefebvre, McGibbon, W. Cousineau.

Laurin Express—Church in goal; Prevost and Roussel defence; Brisbois, Berniquier, and G. Cousineau, forwards. Subs: Beaulne, Gagne, Tessier, Rochon and J. Belanger and E. Larocque were goal umpires.

Maintaining A Long-Established Position in Canadian Banking

When the Dominion of Canada was established in 1867, the Bank of Montreal, then already half a century old, had nearly a fourth of the total paid-up banking capital of Quebec and Ontario, and more than a fourth of the banking assets of those two provinces.

Today it has the same proportion of the capital and assets of the banking structure of the entire Dominion.

Today, as yesterday, it employs its resources and facilities for the upbuilding of the soundest elements of Canadian business.

GOOD CLEAN HOCKEY, BUT NOTHING SPECTACULAR IN AYERS-VANKLEEK HILL CONTEST

players staged a huddle dangerously near the net, and the little goaler saved the day with his stomach on the puck.

McFaul went down in what appeared a legitimate check by Brock, but the latter was whistled off for two minutes' penalty, by Referee Belanger. Willis climaxed a lone chase down the rink with a good shot, but Patry blocked it at the Ayers goal; and after a face-off near the V. H. net as Giroux went down and saddled the puck, the period ended with no score.

W. and C. Drew gave their best co-operative show in the next session. Splendid passes between McIntosh and Hurley, Brock and Labrosse; single-handed efforts by Brock, by Lefebvre and McFaul, were features of the period; and P. St. Denis turned aside several good prospective goals. Giroux opened the score in mid-period by a slow shot from the Ayers line—a shot too slow for the home goaler, as the puck trickled home between his skates. In the attempt, however, Giroux suffered a cut near the mouth, and went off the ice for repairs. St. Denis cleared fast, after saving good shots from Cruise and Patry.

Cruise crumpled up at centre ice, winded in a collision, but the game was promptly resumed. A swell three-handed advance by the Hill forwards was fumbled at the Ayers net, and the Referee closed the period with Brock coming up the ice once more, hot-foot after the rubber.

The third encounter, opening at 1-0, featured an early attempt on the Ayers goal by Brock, followed by a smart back-hand shot on the rebound. McFaul shot from centre ice and missed; in turn Willis missed an open net in the Lachute end. . . . Giroux shot high, and in the subsequent rush, McIntosh broke through to Ayers' goal, thus giving the Hill a two-goal lead. . . . McFaul incurred a 2-minute lay-off for tripping, this being only the second and last penalty imposed throughout the game. Cyril Drew missed the Hill net by inches and B. Patry next saved the Ayers cage by skating out to meet L. St. Denis. St. Denis, however, shot again, scoring high in the net.

W. Drew saved the honor of the home team, scoring at last for Ayers in a close-up shot from the side. Cruise made a good, but fruitless effort—following up the entertainment with a neat and complete somersault on the ice. A fine shot by McFaul was also saved. The Hill registered another score by McIntosh, on a pass from Hurley. And one minute later, with only 4 minutes to go, Willis scored again, giving the visitors a clear victory with 5 goals to 1.

The teams comprised:

Vankleek Hill. P. St. Denis in goal; Brock and Giroux, defence; Hurley, Willis and McIntosh forwards. Subs.—Labrosse L. St. Denis, Riley.

Ayers Limited. B. Patry in goal; McFaul and Lefebvre defence; Cruise, W. Drew and Joly, forwards. Subs.—Patry, Patry, C. Drew and Paquette.

Hints for Homebodies

Specially written for Readers of The Watchman.
By JESSIE ALLAN BROWN

A WISE CAT

No wonder cats are healthy. Look at the way they eat and exercise. Our cat is a regular vitamin hound. She scoffs any food that is not packed with them. The foundation of her diet is milk and more milk. She is very fond of meat but enjoys liver specially. I try to give the family liver once a week and never go longer than 10 days, so the cat gets its liver. Then, too, she likes fish. Most of us would do well to eat more fish, specially sea fish. When it comes to vegetables, the prime favorite is canned tomatoes. It is never any problem in our home, what to do with the tomatoes that are left after the juice is strained off for our morning tomato juice. The cat will eat all we will give her. She likes an occasional bit of raw cabbage. Cheese is another tid-bit she enjoys. And does she love cod liver oil!

Wouldn't it be grand to be able to rest and sleep as much as we want to? Be like the cat, as a matter of fact. Most of us lack sleep. Experts tell us that the very best way to exercise is to stretch. Certainly, that is the way the cat stretches and it certainly keeps it healthy. Physical culturists tell us that we should stretch well before we arise in the morning. Start at the very longest toe and slowly stretch all the way up to our topknot. Then relax. That is what the cat does. You never saw a cat wake up all over at the same time.

We might do worse than adopt the cat's rules—eat proper food, sleep a great deal, and take gentle stretching exercise.

PREPARED FLOURS

There are a large number of flours on the market these days, each adapted to some special purpose. We have long been accustomed to having bread flour and pastry flour, and it is wise to have both kinds on hand. Then too, there is a grade called household flour which may be used for any purpose. I find that a great many women use it altogether. Pastry flour is better adapted for making of pastry and cakes and is the general purpose flour. The packaged cake flour is a very finely milled hard wheat. It certainly makes good cake, but is more expensive than the pastry flour.

Have you tried the flours that are specially prepared for biscuit making? They make delicious light, flakey biscuits. I found them so soft that they were difficult to handle, when using the exact directions on the packages. This of course adds to their goodness when baked, as the softer the biscuit dough the better the biscuit will be. This applies to home made biscuits too. The occasional time I use the prepared biscuit dough I make drop biscuits, making them nice and round with a spoon and running a wet knife over the top of each biscuit to make them smooth. Doing them this way, biscuits can be made in much less time than it takes to write about them or to read what has been written.

I like to keep a package of prepared flour on hand for quick desserts. One of our favorites is Blueberry Dumpings. To make these I pour a bottle of canned blueberries in a rather shallow baking dish. Then I mix the flour with milk and drop it by spoonfuls on the fruit and bake in a very hot oven of 475 degrees. Serve this with cream. Any other fruit may be used and a delicious dessert made in jig time. It is too for dumplings, for stews. They are very light and fluffy.

I like to keep a package of pancake flour in my pantry, as it comes in handy for the occasional breakfast. Otherwise I make my own pancake batter. Very few women have much time to get breakfasts ready, and welcome anything which will speed the process.

Prepared pie paste is to be purchased too. It only needs to have water added. I never have tried it as I never have seen it in Canadian stores, although it may be available. It is highly recommended in some of the American magazines.

Housekeeping is certainly very much simplified these days if we use all the short cuts. Some of them should be kept for occasional use, but it would be too bad if we used them all the time as then even our cooking would be standardized and there would be no individuality. That would never do.

A COINCIDENCE

After writing the above, I thought it was time to take a few minutes off and look over the morning paper. And what do you think I saw? An advertisement for ready-to-use pastry. Have not had a chance to try it yet, but will some of these days and report to you on it.

TOMATO SOUP

Tomato soup is about the most popular of all. Come to think of it, I can't recall any person who does not like it. During the cold weather it should appear on the menu frequently, as it is both appetizing and nourishing. Tomatoes should be used several times a week as they are very valuable because of their mineral and vitamin content. Here is our favorite recipe:

1 No. 2½ can tomatoes (4 cups)
5 crackers rolled fine
2 tablespoons butter
Speck pepper
¼ teaspoon soda
4 cups milk
Scant ¾ teaspoon salt

Add butter, crackers, salt and pepper to the tomatoes and bring to the boil. Heat the milk in another saucepan. When both are at boiling point, add the soda to the tomatoes and stir, then add the milk slowly to the hot tomato. Serve.

RADIO SLAUGHTERS INNOCENT WORDS

A correspondent of the New Year Times makes a timely protest against the sheer ignorance and utter carelessness of many radio announcers in the pronunciation of words. He declares that in this respect they make mistakes that would shame a grammar school child. From casual auditions emanating from the supposedly best stations, he noted the following horrible examples: Barbarious, Ameriker, Ioway, sacrifics enginuity, ottermobile, Artic, reckernize, modern, etc. The average listener both in the States and this country can easily add to the list. The radio is supposed to be a valuable educational as well as entertainment medium, but its usefulness is marred in both connections by the appointment of announcers who have not the least claim to grace of diction and literary culture. Grown-ups can afford to be disdainful of the faulty pronunciation carried through the air, but unfortunately there are thousands of juvenile listeners who are apt to adopt the radio mistakes.

NEW HIGHWAY MAP

It is announced the new Quebec Highway Map for 1933 is now in preparation and will be ready for distribution at the beginning of March.

The new map will be essentially a road map and will show more secondary roads than the previous one. The Department has eliminated all items of information that did not refer directly to roads. The map also adopts a new classification of localities, reducing the different types of lettering to three and thus rendering the reading of the map easier and more simple. Lastly, the latest additions to the main highways system will be shown, bearing the new numbering which comes into force this year.

This highway map is a valuable aid to all who have to travel through the Province, and a copy will be available to every motorist.

A PECULIAR CODE (Grandby Leader)

Wholesale robberies in the Eastern Townships have caused a large number of people to suddenly learn a regulation which is peculiar to the Province of Quebec, and that is that the victim of a robbery will receive absolutely no assistance from the police unless he pays the costs, which in most cases, greatly exceed the value of the stolen goods. There have been countless instances where a thief has operated unmolested when there was abundant proof of his guilt, solely because his victims would not put up considerable sums of money to guarantee the costs of the case. This system is placing a premium on crime and invites the burglar to do his worst. If the recent long list of robberies shakes up enough influential people into demanding a change in these iniquitous regulations, the thieves are worthy of a vote of thanks for their work.

A NEGLECT WHICH IS A MENACE

The slippery condition of roads and sidewalks during the past week has rendered walking somewhat dangerous; but worse—it places the pedestrian in unwanted peril from those motorists who—in the mistaken interests of economy—neglect to equip their cars with chains. This in itself might not be so bad, if many of such drivers would exercise care. But there are some who have that two-position complex; their foot is either heavy or on the accelerator or doubly heavy on the brake. Sudden application of the foot brake on an icy road surface too often spells havoc to life and limb!

Driving home from Ste. Agathe on Sunday, one of our townsmen tipped the brow of a treacherous hill and was suddenly confronted by a large automobile straddling the road. The driver drew back, as the road was impassable; but before long a number of cars were drawn up in an attempt to proceed past the obstructing car. This machine was heavy. It carried no chains; it could go neither forward nor backward, for the fences were broken, and on each side cars had slid off the road and down the embankment.

Finally the waiting motorists were called upon to back down the decline—a perilous procedure which invited serious mishap and injury, since the ice was too keen even to walk upon.

This impasse was caused directly by one improvident motorist and a lack of chains—a neglect which in point of ethics, if not of law, might well be classed as criminal.

CORRESPONDENCE

To the Editor,
Lachute Watchman.

Dear Sir:

I noticed in reading the Montreal Gazette of December 13th., that the editorial columns bore reference to the enviable position the Parish of St. Jerusalem enjoys, this municipality having passed through the years 1931 and 1932 with flying colors in spite of the general depression. The Gazette reports as follows:

"Notwithstanding accumulating economic hardships, there is one municipality in Quebec which stands isolated and magnificently alone as an exception to the common rule which has compelled other local authorities to resort to new and increased taxation. St. Jerusalem, embracing a progressive farming territory in the County of Argenteuil, whose tax rate has always compared favorably with that of other municipalities finds itself, in virtue of the municipal council's careful administration, able to meet all obligations this year without thought of any new tax levy. In fact, it is declared that the indications point promisingly to a tax rate even lower in the future than it has been in previous years."

In contrast, some thirty other municipalities in Quebec, because of stress of economic conditions, have turned over their affairs to the special Municipal Commission created by the Province to safeguard the finances of municipalities that are hard-pressed."

Just at the present an election is being held for councilors, and in all fairness to the labors of the past council, would it not be well to return the men who have done much in bringing the taxes down, namely J. A. Armstrong, Andrew Nicoll, and Matthew Elder?

Thanking you for the privilege of giving publicity to this opinion.

Yours truly,
Taxpayer.

Tax Rate Set in Chatham Municipality

The tax rate of Chatham Municipality, it is learned, has been re-set at 4 mills, being the same rate as last year. There is an impression abroad that additional tax will be imposed during the year, but assurance is given by the present council that such rumors are unfounded, and that unless any unforeseen expenses arise, there will be no special tax imposed.

LAST TRIBUTE PAID

H. W. MAYRAND

Many at Funeral of Member of Famous Family

The funeral of Henry Wellington Mayrand, who died in Montreal on New Year's Day in his 85th. year, took place Tuesday, Jan. 3rd., from the Collins undertaking chapel, Rev. Harold Laws of Weredale Park officiating. Among those in attendance were Dr. and Mrs. G. F. Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. Ffolliott and Mr. and Mrs. Wainwright Shaw, W. G. Turner, of the Royal Bank of Canada; W. G. Greene of the Montreal Trust Company; T. G. Heriot, Mrs. G. Bliss, Miss King, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Brown, Mrs. Watkins, Miss Johnson, Mrs. R. H. Wilson, Dr. Maude Abbott, Miss E. McCrae, Allan Jones, Mrs. W. H. Howard, Miss B. Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. R. Barclay, Mrs. Popham, Miss Wilson, and others.

Following the ceremony the body was taken by motor to Christ Church, St. Andrews E., where a service was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Booy, rector, and interment was made in the Anglican burial ground attached to the church, occupation of which is restricted to those older inhabitants of that district who have an inherited right to its use.

Interesting Figure.

From the standpoint of local history the late Mr. Mayrand was an interesting figure, for through his mother, he was the last representative in this country of the fine old military family of General Forbes of Carillon, and his name and personality linked the present with the early British Canadian culture of that historic spot. Born at St. Andrews, Que., in the year 1847, he was the son of the late Dr. William Mayrand, an early graduate of McGill University and P.M.O. at that time of the Canadian Army Medical Service in this district, and of his wife Catherine Pecco.

The latter was the niece of Commissary-General Forbes and daughter of General Pecco of the Peninsula Wars, and was born at Corfu where her father lies buried in a soldier's grave. Brought to Carillon after his death at an early age, she was brought up at Bellevue, the old World

by J. Claude Roby

The Persian government has contracted for a number of airplanes to be built in England. The total cost of the planes will be approximately £200,000.

A national organization to promote flying has been formed in Italy. The Air Ministry is backing the movement.

The new German dirigible LZ -129 nears completion in Friedrichshafen, Germany. Non-inflammable Helium gas is to be used.

While flying the Albany-Montreal route, a plane was attacked by an immense eagle over Benson, Vt. The eagle swooped down on the craft but the pilot evaded the bird. Finally the venturesome eagle was struck by the whirling propeller and killed.

A new weekly air-mail service between Charlottetown and Grindstone, Madeleine Islands, is to begin soon.

Did you know that the maximum top speed of an airplane propeller is 750 miles per hour?

In the field of air transport in United States, 50,321 more passengers were carried (an 18% increase) 5,474,696 more miles flown (a 20% increase) and 336,740 pounds more air express handled (a 59% increase) during the first eight months of 1932 than in 1931.

For the fourth time in succession a British light plane won the race around France for the Zenith Cup.

A mast for dirigibles is planned for Barcelona, Spain. It will be a regular stop of the Graf Zeppelin in its trips to South America.

Forbes homestead, as a member of her uncle's family. Through her also Mr. Mayrand was a first cousin of Gen. Sir Herbert Powell, who rendered distinguished service in Ireland during the late war.

Mr. Mayrand was for many years a member of the office staff of the Royal Bank of Canada in the City and had many friends in Montreal.

Chevrolet for 1933 Reveals New Style

WELL-KNOWN CANADIAN SIX HAS AIR-STREAM DESIGN AND MANY OTHER IMPROVEMENTS

Canadian to a greater degree than ever because it embodies ideas expressed by thousands of motorists of the Dominion, the Chevrolet Six is introduced with many interesting features. * New air-stream design makes these cars among the most beautiful on the market. Fisher No-Draft Ventilation, one of the greatest closed car advancements of the year, is standard equipment. Mechanically, the Chevrolet Six is much improved. Picture above shows the beautiful standard coach. Below, at the left, a view of the front end. At the right, the rear quarter, showing the graceful air-stream lines and skirted fender.

IT'S AN OLD NEWSPAPER CUSTOM

"Twas a quiet but pretty wedding,"
Said the Valleyville Express,
But it got a contradiction
Ere it scarce had left the press,
When through the sanctum's creaking doors
A critic came to storm,
And yelled: "I've never seen such lies
Since the day that I was born!"

"A quiet but pretty wedding—bah!
Why, when the knot was tied,
They chucked the bridegroom in a car,
And with him heaved the bride;
And then with ropes they dragged them
Each rough road they could find,
With screeching horns, and rattling cans
Some wag had strung behind.

"And as if that's not enough,
When the wedding feast was o'er,
A gang of village hoodlums met Afront of Jenkin's store,
Then all marched to the bridegroom's home
To hold a charivari,
And if that's a quiet wedding sir,
I wish that you'd show me."

The editor replied, in part,
"Tis customary, sir,
Since printing first became an art
To weddings thus refer;
No matter be they rich or poor,
Or whether big or small
'Twas a quiet but pretty wedding' is
The way we write them all.

"We recognize some weddings are Not always quite sedate,
And likewise some not pretty are,
But just so we must state;
It's a custom of the press to say
Nice things of bride and groom; They'll find out soon enough, you know,
Life's not all honeymoon.

"Tis something like when you pass on,
In a write-up we'll relate:
"A much respected citizen Is mourned throughout the state."
"Oh, bah!" the irate critic cried,
"Your old sheet makes me sore,
Some day I'll my subscription stop,
And leaving, slammed the door."

"Lindsay (Ont.) Post"

Arthur Brisbane, the recognized dean of American editorial writers, in a recent article says: "The smaller newspapers of the country are the most important newspapers, and incidentally, in proportion to their circulation, their advertising rates the smallest in the country. They are read through from end to end. Every copy of circulation means an entire family, not a family that lives in one room with a can opener, but a family that owns its house and lands around it, at least ninety times out of a hundred; a family that buys everything from the roof on the house, to the cement on the cellar floor, from hats on mothers' head to shoes on the boy's feet. The service that their publishers render to the public, is in my opinion, the most important service by any class of citizens in Canada. The country editors are distributors of information; they reach the minds of the boys that leave the farms, and they are the nation's mental police force."

50 Years Ago.

Friday, Jan. 12, 1883.

It will be seen by our advertising columns that the old Methodist Church in the East End is to be sold by Auction on Thursday, 25th. inst. The property commands one of the best views in Lachute and would make a beautiful residence for some of our Montreal merchant princes.

Mr. Charles Langlois will be at J. R. McQuat's and Hugh Fraser's on Wednesday to buy Butter. Mr. J. A. Vaillancourt will be at G. L. Meikle's on the same day, for the same purpose.

Municipal elections for the Parish of St. Jerusalem were held on Monday. There was no contest, Mr. James Fish being elected in place of Mr. Jno. Hope who retires, and Mr. John Smith being re-elected. Two retiring councillors for the Township of Chatham, J. B. Cushing and John Douglas, were re-elected by acclamation.

Died: At Lachute, Jan. 8th., 1883, Mary Jane Meikle, daughter of Thomas Barron, Esq., aged 9 years 7 months.

We regret to record the death of Mr. Edward Hume, an old and respected resident of Bethany Road, and of Mrs. Stalker, of Vide Sac, both on Sunday last.

Early Closing: Our stores close at half past six on Saturdays and at six all other evenings. S. Carsley's Notre Dame St., Montreal.

Her Majesty's Ship Undine, sailing off the Comoro Isles on the east coast of Africa, recently captured eight slave scows.

Said one schoolboy to another:

"Say, Tom, can you tell me how to teach a girl to swim?"
"Oh, yes," was the reply.
"You lead her gently into the water, then you put your arm round her waist."
"Don't be a silly fool. It's my sister."
"Oh, that's different. Just shove her in."

25 Years Ago.

Friday, Jan. 7, 1908.

In the St. Andrews municipal election, Mr. George Rodger was elected to replace Mr. Jas. McQuat. Messrs. R. Morrin and E. Robillard were re-elected.

Tonight will close the series of special evangelistic meetings held by Rev. and Mrs. Alexander Torrie, who leave tomorrow for Pembroke.

Lachute Hockey Team beat Vankleek Hill on Saturday, Jan. 9, 1908, in a score of 4-0.

Municipal elections passed off quietly, there being no contest in any of the wards. Mayor Geo. Hay was re-elected by acclamation, also Councillors McGibbon and MacKimmie. Messrs. W. C. Miller and Camille Raymond were appointed to succeed Councillors Lister and Prevost in the East Ward, and Mr. A. McGibbon will replace Mr. Jno. McFaul in the West Ward.

Messrs. J. D. Campbell & Co. have taken over the store of Mr. Jas. McGibbon in the West End, and will run it as a branch of their up-town store, under management of Mr. Stuart Campbell.

Laurentian Lodge, No. 14, I.O.O.F., installed the following officers for the ensuing year: J. Cunningham, N.G.; W. McCluskey, V.G.; A. Taylor, R.S.; H. Slater, F.S.; A. Middleton, Treas.; J. Miller, Warden; E. Wilkes, Con.; J. W. Cottingham, R.S.N.G.; H. Kearns, L.S.N.G.; G. Brennan, R.S.V.G.; W. Witham, L.S.V.G.; R. McArthur, P.S.S.; J. McCluskey, L.S.S.; J. Cruise, I.G.; Geo. McIntyre, Chaplain.

—Vicki Baum's outstanding novel, depicting true-to-life human nature in a masterful conception, is dramatized in Grand Hotel, which appears at the Rex on Friday and Saturday direct from Montreal. All-star cast, including Greta Garbo, J. Crawford, John and Lionel Barrymore, and Wallace Beery.

CHARLES JENNINGS ANNOUNCING

Make-believe gets all the breaks in Radioland. . . plenty of advance notices about the Murder in Room 202 at 9 o'clock over Station XOXO, but never a warning paragraph like this: "At 10 o'clock tonight King Frederick of Roumania will be assassinated and at 11 o'clock the News Editor of the Times will tell you all about it. . . ." These unsung headline-jugglers who tell the news while it's hot deserve a bouquet—and their newspapers for making it available. Even the weather reports are good stuff. . . and the market reports. . . ask the farmer. Pursers on ocean-going ships equipped with radio declare the most popular programmes from shore to ship are the "news flashes" broadcast by newspapers.

Howdy-how! also Hidey-high! It takes all kinds of songs to make a night's entertainment for everybody and that's why you run into jazz when you try to dial in the classics. . . Right now I don't want classics. . . I wish I knew the combination of times and stations that would bring me in the hereinafter-mentioned melodies, in the following order: "A Shine on Your Shoes" . . . "The Flies Crawled Up The Window" . . . "Isn't it Romantic?" . . . "Fit As a Fiddle" . . . "Pink Elephants" . . . "Let's Turn Out The Lights and Go to Sleep". But everybody doesn't want that line. . . Ann Jamison, talented lyric soprano of Guelph, Ontario, who sings in Canadian Candlelight Music programmes gets a lot of requests for serious stuff. . . a rarely-heard aria by Donizetti. . . the little-known Ave Maria of Cherubini.

"Okay", replies Director Leopold Stokowsky to the demand for the works of the accepted masters. . . Handel, Beethoven, Brahms, Bach, Strauss, Wagner. . . these are the composers to be featured in the concerts of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra over the Columbia network this winter. . . Concerts are scheduled for the nights of January 7th., March 18th. and April 1st. . . This is a foreign product, but it comes in duty free, and it is what the tariff-scribblers would call "of a class and kind not produced (at the moment) in Canada."

If I happened to be a farmer I should not be flattered by the Corn-tassel-Hayseed type of caricatures often presented in radio skits. . . but some of them are good. I like the Real Folks of Thompsons Corners. George Brown creates and directs the sketches and plays the leading role. . . and also, as you may have suspected, he takes the part of Mrs. Templeton Jones, that pillar of society and widowhood. . . Lots of radio players "double" in their casts, and others play in two programmes. But sometimes the voices fool you. . . For instance, Jack Benny is NOT Mr. Ace of Easy Aces.

On crooners, are you a pro or an anti? Well, anyway, we've found out what makes them like that. . . some of them, anyway. You are, let us say, a singer. You find you must have an operation on your throat. When you come out of one kind of ether, you find yourself—quite accidentally—a crooner, ready to go on the other kind of ether. That's what happened to the hero in Kelland's recent book, "The Great Crooner." It happened to Libby Holman and James Froman in real life. Jane sings hot-cha songs over N.B.C. networks on Sunday afternoons.

Most Canadian listeners know Foster Hewitt, who broadcasts National League Hockey games from Toronto and Montreal, being heard in the Maritimes and as far west as Laird, Saskatchewan. . . He's been on the coast-to-coast networks many a time. Hewitt's voice sounds always as if he had "the power on," but actually he talks in an even, conversational tone, rarely accentuating except when he says "HE SCORED!" . . . That crescendo is partly necessary because of the rafter-shaking roar from spectators that sweeps up and engulfs the gondola where Hewitt perches. . . Hewitt is a cool observer. . . one of the few sports announcers who do not gesticulate.

MORIN HEIGHTS
(Too late for last week)

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Davis and family spent Monday last the guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. Brixton.

Mr. Ross McConnell, Montreal, spent the New Year's holidays at the home of his uncle, Mr. J. McConnell.

Miss Annie McCullough, accompanied by Miss Alice Foy, Montreal, spent the New Year's holidays at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. McCullough.

Mrs. Meade, Montreal, paid a visit to Morin on Sunday last. She plans on returning in the early Spring to remain for a year and has taken the house formerly occupied by Mr. Baugh.

All the boarding houses were filled to capacity over the New Year's holidays with skiers and guests from Montreal.

On Tuesday, Dec. 27th., the local Hockey Team Played a friendly game against the Ste. Adele team, at Ste. Adele. The score was 4-2 in their favor. On the following Saturday they also defeated a team from St. Sauveur, the score being 9-4. Keep up the good work boys!

No Real Evidence That Reveals Origin of Golf

The only facts definitely established concerning the game of golf are that the game, in some primitive form, was played in Holland at an early date and that it was developed in Scotland before the middle of the fifteenth century into a popular game. An act of the Scottish parliament in 1457 was directed against the playing of this sport, as interfering with the important practice of archery. Old Dutch paintings show that the Dutch used posts instead of holes in playing their "Kolf" or "Kolfje." This name is derived from a word signifying "small club." James IV of Scotland played the game about the year 1500 and made it a royal as well as ancient game. There are other claims about the origin of golf that are not so well substantiated. One is that it was played by the Chinese as early as 1100 B. C.; another is that it was played in Ireland in the time of St. Patrick. Another claims that the Roman game of "paganula," played with a crooked stick and a leather ball stuffed with feathers, resembled golf. A game called bandy-ball or cambuca, played in England since Edward III's reign, has also been mentioned in this connection, though it appears to be more like hockey. A legendary origin of the game is that a Scottish shepherd, tending sheep on a stony hillside, found amusement in striking the stones with his shepherd's crook.

Deadly Tarantula Easy Prey of "Killer" Wasp

Some insects are very ferocious. The tarantulas, as Rene Bache points out, spin no webs, but rely upon their strength and agility for the capture of their victims, the latter including an occasional mouse or ground-nesting bird; and their homes are burrows, usually in the side of a clay bank, lined with silk. The door of the tarantula's house is set on a strong silken spring, and shuts with a snap when the owner has entered or comes out. At home the tarantula is perfectly safe; the entrance of the burrow being so camouflaged as to escape even scrutinizing observation, but on its walks abroad, the giant spider is always in danger of attack by the Killer, which is a species of wasp. Against this wasp it has no adequate means of defense. Constantly turning this way and that, to face the enemy, it is inevitably taken, sooner or later, and stabbed with the Killer's venomous lance, and paralyzed. The duel invariably ends with the death or total disablement of the tarantula, in whose body the Killer lays its eggs. In order that the baby wasps, when they are hatched, shall have food to eat.

Town of the Ugly Duckling

Lovers of the tales of Hans Christian Andersen will probably agree that his story of the "Ugly Duckling" is one of his finest. What more natural, therefore, when in Denmark, after you have visited his home at Odense, to journey to Kjøge, and when there seek out the old and interesting castle of Gisseløffeld, where the story teller often stayed. Here the Ugly Duckling first saw the light and not far away is the castle of Borgeved, where the swan was hatched by the children. Although Kjøge is best known today for its bacon and sausage, the visitor will find it a splendid old town with a church of the thirteenth century named for Santa Claus and everywhere old castle homesteads beside the sea which will make it a scenic memory for years.

Rises From the Water

For a short period each year the ancient ruins of Philae, in the Nile, are to be seen. It is in the early winter and many tourists visit the place at this time. Then the water rises and the Nile buries the lovely island of ruins and temples beneath its waters. Much ancient beauty has gone, but anyone who looks on its ruins today can see what a lovely spot it was in the days of ancient Egypt. The villages and palms have gone, as modern need has changed the dashing cataract into a reservoir, but the damage done to Philae is slight, its sculptures are still clear on the walls and columns in spite of their annual drenching.

Most Deadly Plant

Discovery of the most deadly plant in the world, a small quantity of which was said to be sufficient to kill thousands of persons, has been reported from Pretoria, South Africa. The discovery was made by a botanist, who named the plant Adenia. One thousandth of a grain was reported as sufficient to kill an adult. The poison is not traceable after death. Railway workers in the interior died after they inadvertently tasted the plant. A botanist and two natives were overcome by the fumes of the plant when they sliced a bulb, reports said.

Land Bismarck Forgot

On your way to Austria, which should never be omitted from a European tour, stop a while at Liechtenstein, "the country that Bismarck forgot," in the reorganization of Europe. You can make a special trip there if you are staying near Lake Constance, by going to Brebenz, thence to Feldkirch and Vaduz. Its political life is almost play, for its prince pays nearly all its expenses and crime and poverty are almost unknown. Winter hardly touches it and spring comes early.—Boston Herald.

Lesson for January 22

JESUS FORGIVING SIN

Mark 2:1-12.
GOLDEN TEXT—The Son of man hath power on earth to forgive sins. Mark 2:10.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Forgiving a Man.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Forgiving a Man.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How We May Be Forgiveness.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Jesus' Power Over Sin.

I. Jesus Preaching the Word (vv. 1, 2).

1. To whom (v. 2). It was to the surging crowd which was gathered about the house where Jesus was stopping. So great was the crowd that there was no room to receive them, even about the door. This house may have been the home of Peter where he had healed his wife's mother of a fever. As soon as it was noised about that Jesus was in the house, the multitudes gathered. It is always so, that the multitudes gather where Jesus is.

2. What Jesus preached (v. 2). He preached the Word before he wrought miracles, for his supreme mission was to make known God's will. Miracles were not an end in themselves, but to authenticate his work. The people came, some to be healed, and some out of curiosity. The Word of God should be preached to all so that the will of God may be known even though the hearers gather with an unworthy motive.

II. Jesus Forgiving Sins (vv. 3-5). The man brought to him was suffering from the dread disease of palsy, but his deadly affliction was that of sin. Palsy was a type of sin. The miracle was wrought by Jesus in confirmation of his message. It was vitally connected with faith. Observe:

1. Faith coming to Jesus (v. 3). The actuating impulse of the palsied man and his four friends who carried him was faith. They believed that Jesus had power to save.

2. Faith overcoming difficulties (v. 4). Though prevented by the crowd from coming to Jesus, they ascended the outer stairway and let the afflicted man down through the roof into his presence. They disregarded conventionalities, knowing that the all-important thing was to go to the Lord with their need.

3. Faith rewarded (v. 5). No word was uttered by either the paralytic or his hearers. No words were needed. Their action was enough. The paralytic got more than he expected. He desired healing of the body and he received forgiveness of sins—the healing of the body plus forgiveness of sins.

III. Jesus Answering the Scribes (vv. 6-10).

1. Their objections (vv. 6, 7).

a. Why does he thus speak?
b. Who can forgive sins? They were entirely right in their reasonings that only God can forgive sins. Their blunder was in not perceiving him as God. The very one who was speaking and acting was the living God.

2. Jesus' answer (vv. 8-10). Knowing their inner thoughts and reasonings, he manifested unto them his essential deity in that he had power to know their thoughts. He inquired, "Which is easier, to say, Thy sins be forgiven thee; or to say, Arise and take up thy bed and walk? But that ye may know that the Son of man hath power on earth to forgive sins, (he saith to the sick of the palsy), I say unto thee, Arise, and take up thy bed, and go thy way into thine house." He was willing that his power in the invisible realm should be tested by his power in the visible.

IV. Jesus Healing the Paralytic (vv. 11, 12).

1. His method (v. 11). He spoke the word and it was done. Christ's words were enough. This man was helpless and unable of himself to move, but with the command was given the strength to obey. It is always so, that when Christ commands he gives the strength to perform.

2. The obedience of the man (v. 12). He immediately arose, took up his bed and went forth among them all. The poor helpless man walked away with his bed upon his shoulder. At the words of Christ, disease and death flee away. This was a fine example again of divine healing.

3. The people were amazed, and glorified God (v. 12). They said, "We never saw it on this fashion."

World Movements

God dwells in the great movements of the world, in the great ideas which act in the human race. Find him there in the interests of man. Find him by sharing in those interests, by helping all who are striving for truth, for education, for progress, for liberty all over the world.

BEATTY FORESEES BUSINESS UPTURN

C.P.R. President Points to Many Helpful Factors
But Says Further Adjustment Necessary to Complete Re-establishment.

"THE after-war period of adjustment through which this country is going is still short of completion," says E. W. Beatty, K.C., in his annual review "but I would add the positive assertion that, unhappy as the past year may have been and as lacking in re-assuring factors as the immediate future may appear, 1932 has seen definite and constructive progress towards improvement.
We see on every side the effect of long drawn-out world trade depression — a process of economic deflation — grinding slowly forward and leaving behind it a wake of human unhappiness and even ruin in directions where it seemed least likely to be possible.
Having no clear vision of a definite end to our troubles, we are tempted to despair or to look for remedies to those who preach short cuts to economic security that are as unsound and as surely disastrous as were the extravagant and wasteful methods of conducting national, corporate and individual business which brought about present conditions and we are likely to overlook evidences of progress which justify the belief that this transitional period is taking its well ordered way towards better times.

A year ago I suggested that the movement towards economic readjustment would go further, perhaps even into public and governmental institutions. I am convinced that failure to boldly meet and satisfactorily deal with this matter may easily mean national insolvency and will certainly retard any possible return to a reasonably full measure of prosperity. Nothing that the troubles of the past year have brought into public recognition is so outstanding as the need for curtailing public expenditure and co-ordinating and re-organizing public activities so that they may be placed upon a basis such as this country of ten million people can well afford. Courageous effort has accomplished real progress along this line but much remains to be done before our national affairs are on a sound economic basis. The nation's annual interest bill is mounting steadily and has done so for many years, a statement that is equally true of Dominion, provincial and municipal affairs. It is the corporate and individual taxpayer who has to pay these, and since the Canadian Pacific Railway pays yearly the country's largest tax bill I may be allowed to lay particular stress upon this point which I consider calls for earnest study at the present time.

The railway situation retains place as Canada's most imperative domestic problem. A year ago we hoped that its early solution was foreshadowed by the appointment of a competent tribunal to probe into its causes and complexities and to present an efficacious solution. We did not then foresee that the proposed solution would be based upon what the Commission thought the people of Canada would be willing to accept rather than upon the stern necessities of the case. Nor was it then apparent that conditions that had brought about the immediate need for effective relief for a situation that threatened national bankruptcy would become still more aggravated as business offering for the railroads continued to show drastic and unprecedented declines. That is what has happened. The decrease

Mr. E. W. Beatty
Chairman and President Canadian Pacific Ry.

in freight car loadings which began in 1930 has continued almost uninterruptedly. In 1931 up to the end of the first week of December, 558,359 less freight cars had been loaded on all Canadian Railways than for the same period of the previous year. During the same period this year 376,016 less cars were loaded than in 1931. The decline in passenger business has been relatively the same. The resultant effect upon railway earnings has been naturally disastrous. For the first ten months of 1931 Canadian Pacific gross revenue declined 22.1 per cent as compared with that of 1930. For the first ten months of this year now closing there was a further decline of 15.4 per cent.
The decline continues, and there certainly appears to be no evidence in sight that for many years we shall see them entirely eliminated and our earnings back where they were in 1928. It is true that the railways have effected drastic economies. As compared with 1931 Canadian Pacific operating costs for the first ten months of 1932 were 15.3 per cent lower, and we expect that we shall make a still better showing in this regard throughout the coming year.

Having the best hope in the world, I hesitate to prophesy any great increase in gross earnings, but it is my deeply considered conviction that if the railways over the next ten or fifteen years are to live anywhere within their income, economies will have to go very much further indeed than has yet been considered by a great number of our people who, it is only fair to state, have not had even a fair opportunity of informing themselves upon the situation.

For years we have been impelled towards large capital expenditures, while at the same time competitive transportation agencies, railways, highways and canals have been built up and maintained out of public funds. Keeping these facts in view and having in mind the probable course of economic events over the next few years, the urgency of the need for fundamental change in our railway policy should be clearly apparent.
I think that in the wider field of world economics we have witnessed important developments leading towards trade stabilisation and encouragement. The improvements in the situation with regard to international war debts and the hope contained in the coming World Trade Conference can certainly be regarded on the brighter side of the ledger, while the first results from the Imperial Trade Conference at Ottawa in the way of improved intra-Empire trade, provide honest ground for quiet congratulation.

I am still as great an optimist as ever on the subject of Canada's ultimate future. The inherent soundness of our country strengthens me in this opinion.
I do not think that our business recovery will come with a rush, since the temptation to forget the economic lessons we have learned would be too strong. For one thing, I do not hesitate to say that if within three years we found ourselves again in such a period of economic inflation as we experienced about 1928, and if we had not then definitely settled the railway problem on sound and permanent economic lines we would again be swept off our feet by the flood of competition and competitive extravagances. This,
I think applies with equal force to all forms of business.

Referring a year ago to the Royal Commission on railways, I urged that the people of Canada should meet its suggested solutions for our problem with earnest consideration of their economic values unbiased by political color or preconceived prejudices.
The question is now more than ever a matter of urgent public discussion and will continue so for many months. It cannot satisfactorily be dealt with in a way to save the country from disaster unless it be considered as an economic question and settled in accordance with the economic truth that transportation agencies are no different from any other form of industrial institution in that they must be both allowed and required to pay their way.
Any other attempted solution of the difficulty would be ineffectual, and it is the inescapable obligation of the people of Canada to apply this test to whatever proposals for settlement of the problem may come forward.

A Helpful Organization

Practically every unemployed man in the community of Windsor, Ont., is numbered in the membership of a unique organization called the "Riverside Unemployed Association," which makes a particular set against those who sow seeds of dissatisfaction. The aim of the body is to build up the morale of the unemployed and create a better understanding of municipal and personal problems; and the Association operates on the principle of "Do not let the depression get you;
fight it with work and fun."

There is a barber shop, a furniture shop and a depot for the collection and distribution of clothing. A shoe repair shop is also planned. A fishing plant is operated by members; so are municipal gardens.

The unemployed have their own orchestra,
the "Riverside Gloom Chasers." They arrange plays and general entertainment programmes in the town hall. They hold social evenings and dances. Receipts from the orchestra's performances are turned over to the children's Christmas fund.

Under the present relief system in Riverside, each man on the list does from one to three days work in return for relief assistance.

Coroner: Two shots were fired at midnight, you say?

Witness: Yes, I was in the garden and noticed the time by the sun dial.

Coroner: And just how did you do that in the dark?

Witness: I had a flashlight.

"Has the doctor you are engaged to any money?"

"Of course. Did you think I was getting married for my health?"

"I've been trying to think of a word for two weeks."

"What about fortnight?"

Just speak it out when you've a kindly thought.
Don't let it die unspoken. Give it voice.
Don't stand in silence, wondering if you ought To praise another. Let his heart rejoice.
Has someone pleased you, quickly tell him so!
Be not afraid of critics wise who sneer.
He will be braver who has come to know
That one with faith in him is standing near.
Be of ashamed of friendship's kindly ways.
Do not hold back the words which love suggests.
All men are happier for another's praise.
Lost is the joy we lock within our breasts.
Now is your chance to set his eyes aglow.
To strengthen him who may be growing weak.
Have you enjoyed his friendship? Tell him so.
To-morrow it may be too late to speak.

Put more Sunshine Days on your calendar

HOW many days in the month do you feel your best? Two or three? A dozen? You can add to the "sunshine days" by simply obeying nature's laws.

Avoid common constipation by eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to aid regularity. The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is similar to that in leafy vegetables. In addition, ALL-BRAN contains twice as much blood-building iron as an equal weight of beef liver.

You will find it far more pleasant to enjoy a cereal than taking patent medicines. Much wiser too. Two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily will overcome most types of constipation. ## Election Contest in all District Municipalities Keenly Fought

Sixty Odd Miles on Skates for Sunday Jaunt

Two youths of this town—Seraphin Nobert, 24, an employe on Lachute section of the C.P.R., and Paul Desjardins, 19, of the Lunch Car, Main Street,—skated last Sunday from Lachute to St. Jerome on the North River. The distance between the two dams is reputed to be 38 miles, and the round trip would aggregate between 60 and 70 miles, which is no mean jaunt for a Sunday diversion.

The ice was keen and unobstructed by snow. The boys made good time, leaving Lachute after breakfast at 8 a.m. and reaching St. Jerome 3 hours 32 minutes later. After a substantial meal and a good rest, they set out again for home. Facing a fair wind, the return trip took 3 hours 45 minutes, and the two lads were home in Lachute by 6 p.m.

LADIES' CURLING

Two rinks from the Vankleek Hill Ladies' Club visited Lachute on Friday, Jan. 13th., competing with local players as follows:

Miss McPhee Mrs. Hay
Mrs. Sylvester Mrs. Cousens
Mrs. Wood Mrs. F. Brennan
Mrs. Hall Miss A. Riddell
Skip 8—tie—8

Mrs. McAdam Mrs. Clunie
Mrs. McMorine Mrs. McArthur
Mrs. Metcalf Mrs. Anderson
Miss Campbell Mrs. McGibbin
Skip 6—7

Miss Hall's rink from Vankleek Hill were presented with silver spoons by Mrs. Jas. W. Gall, local president. Luncheon and tea were served following the games.

The bonspiel for the Lachute Club Trophy was finished on by Mrs. Wm. Cottingham's rink. Tuesday, Jan. 10th., being won. Tea was served at the close.

ANNUAL MEETING OF ST. SIMEON'S CLUB

The Annual Meeting of St. Simeon's Club was held on Monday last at McArthur's Hall. There was a large attendance and much interest was shown in the Club's activities during the past year. After the minutes of the last meeting had been passed, the Financial Report was read by Miss Valpy, which concluded with a satisfactory balance of $824.28. A letter of regret at being absent from the evening's proceedings, and expressing his wishes for the Club's success in 1933, was received from Mr. Jack Gorman.

The next business dealt with was the unanimous election of the Rector of St. Simeon's Rev. W. LeCras, to the position of Hon. President. Rev. Mr. LeCras then occupied the chair. Officers were elected as follows: President, Mr. Stansfield; Vice-President, Capt. Aldom; Secretary, Miss Valpy; Treasurer, Mr. Henderson.

After general discussion it was decided to form two Committees, namely Educational and Social, through which the Club's activities would be organized. Members were elected in the following order: Educational—Rev. W. LeCras, Capt. Aldom, Mrs. Graham, Social—Mrs. LeCras, Mr. C. Gillard, Mr. G. Leggett. Refreshment Committee—Mrs. Robert Miller, Mrs. McFaul, Mrs. Stansfield. Convenor for Casting of plays—Mrs. Leggett.

It was decided that the Club should hold two meetings a month, the first of which would take place on Monday, Feb. 6th. at the residence of Mrs. Massiah. Refreshments were then served and a happy social gathering followed.

"Progress is the outcome of opposing movements and conflicting forces, setting up a dynamic which spells Power—alternating current!"

St. James United Church.

Generous Recognition to Outstanding Statesman

Argenteuil's pride in the triumphs of Sir George Perley, the County's federal representative, has echoed further afield, but with no less sincerity, in official circles at home and abroad. It is equally gratifying to find this high opinion shared among every-day citizens, 'plain folks,' and Canadians in unofficial standing. The following letter, to the editor of one of our city exchanges, is of interest:

Sir.—May I have the pleasure of paying a belated tribute to Canada's premier statesman, the Right Hon. Sir George Perley, P.C., K.C.M.G., M.P.? No public servant of the present day is more worthy of His Majesty the King's recognition, in return for invaluable services rendered as a public servant than Sir George Perley, for his devotion to duty, covering a long period of years, coupled with his sincerity and zeal in following right, have always been prominent parts of his character.

Orange Lodges Assemble for Semi-Annual Meeting of County

Montreal Grand Master present for Installation of Officers

The semi-annual meeting of County of Argenteuil Orange Lodge was held in Oddfellow's Hall, Lachute, on Saturday. Around 70 members from surrounding parts of the County were in attendance. Wor. Bro. A. O. Kerr, of Lakefield, presiding over the assembly as County Master. He also gave an inspiring address, followed by appropriate remarks from Rt. Wor. Bro. E. C. Janes, Grand Master of Montreal, who conducted the election and installation of officers. The reports from the Primary Lodge Secretaries were read by the County Secretary, and in view of distressed conditions prevailing at this time, gave a most satisfactory showing. The Treasurer's report was also read and adopted.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Wor. Bro. W. L. Dawson, County Master; W. Bro. S. Holt, Deputy County Master; Bro. H. W. Butler, County Chaplain; Bro. W. T. MacNaughton, County Rec. and Fin. Sec'y; Wor. Bro. Jos. Boyd, County Treas.; Bro. Clarence Neill, County Marshall; Wor. Bro. J. A. McGibbin, County Lecturer; Wor. Bro. Jas. Morrison, Co. Deputy Lecturer; Wor. Bro. A. Hamilton, Co. Deputy Lecturer; Wor. Bro. M. C. Copeland, and Wor. Bro. Nelson Morrison, Auditors.

The next Semi-Annual County Meeting, it was announced, will be held in Louisa, on June 14th, 1933. The Lady members of the L.O.B.A., Lachute, served supper downstairs, following the business session; and a pleasant social hour closed this successful meeting.

QUEBEC LOAN WAS PROMPTLY SUBSCRIBED

The Province of Quebec's nine million dollar loan, of 30-year term and yielding 4½ per cent, was offered to the public last Wednesday. By late afternoon of the same day, the entire issue had been subscribed for.

Highlights in the Week's Hockey

1-0 FOR INDEPENDENTS AT BROWNSBURG

Tuesday's League fixture was between the Brownsburg Reds and Independents, in which the Lachute team took the only goal and won a victory in the season's series. Cousineau made the only tally, scoring in first period of the game. Goaler Cruise was replaced by Raymond Underhill, who put up a good game.

Another Victory for Blues in League Hockey

Two leading teams stage fast game

The Brownsburg Blues vs. Laurin fixture was not so closely contested last Thursday as one expected, although the hockey was fast and exciting throughout. Brownsburg took the lead early in the game, displaying a faster brand of sport and fine team work, which led them through to a final triumph of 6-2, giving them further title to their lead in the district league schedule to date. This team have played so far 5 games (including last Saturday's), all marking victories to their credit.

Play opened significantly with activities mostly in the Laurin defence zone, but Church saved three good shots successively, two being well directed by Gagne and Tomalty. Brisbois secured the puck in a smart poke-check at the Brownsburg line, carried it down the ice and made a creditable try, which was duly blocked by the 'Burg goaler. The stellar work of the evening was opened by Gagne, a crackerjack on the visiting forward line, who passed the whole Express team in an unassisted advance down the ice; he missed the net, but in the subsequent rebound he caught the puck and drove it home past Church, marking one-up for the 'Burg in the first ten minutes of play. Church blocked a good, true shot by Tomalty, cleared the puck, which was carried by Rochon through the opponents, but he missed the net. Prevost commanded a clear entry to the 'Burg goal, but he fell; Gagne secured again, but Church saved a hard drive from his stick. . . . Roussel sent two fine but ineffective shots from centre ice, and Beaulne-Rochon together staged some excellent pass-work. Gagne was gently warned for shoving, and a long, lone, brilliant effort by Brisbois of Laurin ended fruitlessly as Roberts padded the puck. Martin on the 'Burg defence, notable for his speedy clip and short choppy strides, made two long tries from centre ice, and shortly in a well-formed line-up the Brownsburg offensive made a fine exhibition of team work. Tomalty on the right, passing to Seary, centre, who in turn passed to McGibbin on the opposite wing. McGibbin connected and a prompt humdinger from his stick found Church at wrong side of the net. After face-off a clear net in the 'Burg end next awaited Cousineau, who was unfortunate in fumbling a good pass from Berniquier, and the period closed with the visitors holding a two goal lead.

Second period had hardly commenced when Seary, of the Blues forwards, scored again. Referee Prevost warned McGibbin for carrying his stick high, and Roussel sustained a 2-minute penalty for body-checking against the boards in the home end of the ice. Brownsburg speeded up the play, which was now all in the Laurin territory. Martin, the Blue Boys light-

BLUES BEAT REDS AT BROWNSBURG

While Ayers Limited were busy in Lachute, trimming the Independents and thereby establishing their right to third position in the league teams—Brownsburg's invincible Blues added another triumph to their string of victories by beating the Reds with a score of 4-2. The Blues have an undisputed lead in the district hockey quintette, Laurin Express following second, with Ayers third, Independents fourth and Reds last.

It is understood Mr. H. Parkinson has resigned as coach for Independents, and will be succeeded by W. MacKimmie. There appears a lack of co-ordination in the old town team, and the boys will need to work hard if they are to recover their former prestige before the end of this season.

Ayers Limited Handed Defeat to Independents

Industrial Sextette in Good Form

Good combination play by Lachute's west-end line-up, and clean fast hockey on both sides, featured in Saturday's league match between Ayers Limited and the Independents, giving a 5-1 victory to Ayers and boosting them one notch higher in the season's standing. A fair crowd at the local rink gave support to both sides and appeared generally pleased with the slick brand of hockey, which gave a well-merited credit to the industrial team. Referees W. MacKimmie and Jos. Blanger supervised the play.

The first period saw a rather one-sided contest and speedy manoeuvring. B. Patry, perhaps the most notable puck-chaser of the whole performance, evidenced that smart poke-check which was an effective device through his evening's work. And after preliminary encounters, Ayers got right down to business only 7 minutes after the face-off, as "Bidoux" took charge of the puck and rustled it through his opponents, eluding every obstacle down the ice and fooling Cruise with a neat goal in the Independents' net. Ayers' forward line here underwent a change. W. Drew, securing the rubber from Jim MacKimmie in a smart check, advanced on the goal again, but in the subsequent offensive missed an open net. A splendid assist from Drew to Patry was spoiled by the fast-skating Independents, and MacKimmie sent a well directed shot from the Ayers line, which Patry in goal caught on his pads. Mid-period, Cyril Drew scored once again, assisted by Patry, giving Ayers a two-goal lead. As the bombardment continued in the Independents' defence zone, Goaler Cruise met a heavy puck in his mid-section and crumpled up in the goal. When his wind was restored, and play resumed, Jones cleared the rubber in a face-off near the goal. B. Patry exerted two of his effective low-downs, and secured the puck twice in poke-checking McGibbin. P. Patry on the Ayers forwards, was warned for heavy body-checking when Beauchamp hit the boards, but Beauchamp next sent a splendid shot from centre ice. Goaler, B. Patry, however, was prepared. A good three-hand advance by Independents fizzled as L. Cruise missed by inches, and the whistle closed the session.

Lafleur appeared on the ice for the town line-up, and the second clash saw more formidable activity by Independents. As the play warmed up, McFaul

Holstein Friesian Club Hold Annual Meet

The Lachute Holstein Club meeting was held on Saturday, Jan. 14th., in the Town Hall, with a fair number in attendance.

Mr. R. Holtby, of Fort Perry, Mr. W. L. Carr, of Huntingdon, Que., and Mr. A. Bothwell, Lachute, were speakers.

Mr. Holtby gave an interesting address and advised keeping cows in shape at all times. He was very much in favor of blood testing cows.

Mr. W. L. Carr spoke about the good standing of the Holstein-Friesian Association, although 1932 showed a little decrease in registrations and transfers.

Mr. A. Bothwell gave interesting remarks on the activities of the Holstein-Friesian Association and the good progress of the Calf Club in the last 10 years.

Officers elected for 1933 were: M. Maisonneuve, Hon. Pres.; J. MacKenzie, Pres.; R. Kennedy, Vice-Pres.; N. J. Boyd, Sec.-Treas.

"Valley Farm" is Dramatic Production in Town Hall St. Andrews

The large audience gathered at the Town Hall, St. Andrews, on the evening of January 14th., was delighted with the performance of the Four Act Drama "Valley Farm" which was presented by the Dramatic Group of the Presbyterian Church.

The stage was charmingly arranged—particularly in the garden scene, where red rambler roses climbed among the green of rustic arches, and an old-fashioned well, with its chain and tin cup, lent a vivid note to the picture.

The twelve actors all took their parts with much skill and spirit and the interest of the audience mounted as the play proceeded. The course of true love suffered a temporary eclipse when the handsome and haughty Mrs. Rutledge and her scheming young friend, Isabel Carney, sowed seeds of distrust between Harold Rutledge and Hetty, his flower-like young bride. The part of David Hildreth, the chivalrous uncle of the plotting Isabel, was convincingly played. His efforts, combined with those of Perry Deane, Hetty's disappointed but selfish country lover, straightened out the tangled threads, and, in the last act, the young couple were happily reunited at the old home farmhouse.

Miss Alvira Holcomb, the aunt of the pretty heroine, played her role with marked ability. The parts of Silas Holcomb, Lizzy Ann Tucker, Azariah Keep, the clock tinker, and Verbena, the hired girl, were also excellently done and elicited much laughter. Jennings succeeded in presenting the "poker face" of the ideal butler.

The actors are to be heartily congratulated on the fine quality of their performance.

BLUE AND WHITE LICENSE PLATES

Blue and white will be the color of the 1933 license plate for automobiles in Quebec this year. The plates will be available for motorists on February 1st. All drivers are supposed to have their licenses by March 1st.

Record Percentage of Votes Cast, in Many Cases

In Others, Heaviest Polling in Twenty Years!

Election returns from the municipalities in this district, on Monday night, showed a surprising upturn in enthusiasm and public interest—indicating that difficult times have drawn the taxpayer's attention more intimately to the personnel and policy of government in his locality. Many townships report a number of votes beating all records in recent years, and the secretaries in one or two municipalities counted a ballot-list exceeding all previous returns in the history of their particular communities.

ST. JERUSALEM

The Parish of St. Jerusalem, which has been in the limelight since its council declared a taxless year, appears to have expressed satisfaction with its three retiring aldermen by re-electing them again to office. In Seat No. 1, Matthew Elder drew 142 votes against his opponent J. S. Pollock (52 votes); Andrew Nichol was returned to Seat No. 5 with 148 votes, against Ed. Carlin, with 40; J. E. Armstrong was re-elected to Seat No. 6, polling 152 votes; his opponent P. Desjardins, registered 48. Two or three ballots were spoiled.

The total of 212 votes out of a possible 230 odd, represents the biggest poll in the experience of Mr. J. W. Gall, who has been secretary for 20 years or more in this Parish. Mayor J. E. Walker, as reported in these columns last week, was re-elected by acclamation.

ST. ANDREWS EAST

St. Andrews also witnessed on Monday the heaviest voting in the parish of many years. There were 358 ballots cast. W. J. Pitcairn secured 216 votes for mayoralty, ousting his opponent Godfrey Maderie by a majority of 83.

Ross McAdam was elected to council Seat No. 6 with 37 majority over Jean Campeau. D. Larocque secured the other vacancy in a 30-vote majority over A. Charbonneau.

CARILLON

In the village of Carillon, Camille Roy secured the mayoralty, running against Adelard Castonguay.

Arthur E. Holt, Telephone Lemay, Omer Lefebvre were elected councillors. Mr. Robt. Roy is secretary of the two foregoing councils.

CHATHAM MUNICIPALITY

In the Township of Chatham, secretary Albini Lamarche experienced a busy day, recording 836 votes out of a possible number of eligible electors around 1,000. Here again, the poll returned the three retiring councillors, namely Geo. A. Clarke (470), W. J. Burke (433) and Adrien Rochon (408); the remaining two candidates were James Chambers and Ovila Alard, who drew 381 and 312 votes respectively. There were 13 spoiled ballots.

In the seat of retiring Mayor Dixon, Alphonse Ouellette, of Staynerville was elected with a 47 majority over Hector Parizeau.

VILLAGE OF CALUMET

In the Village of Calumet, William Bridgen polled 73, Timothy Cayer 64, and O. Lavigne 75 votes for the aldermanic honors. Two other candidates were in the field, one of whom withdrew, namely Robt. MacIntyre; the other, Fred Rochon, lost out with 58 votes. In this council Mr. Legault was elected to the position of mayor, by acclamation at last week's nominations.

THE CAPTAIN'S CORNER

THE CAPTAIN'S WEEKLY LETTER.

"NOW IT'S RIGHT TURN."

Dear Boys :

I want to tell you that at the commencement of the war lots of men who had never thought of becoming soldiers, enlisted in the King's forces in order to defend their Country.

Nearly all of them had very little knowledge of drill, and, when they first appeared on the parade ground, and were taken in charge of by a Sergeant, they were ignorant of how to move in correct formation or do even the elementary exercises required of them by the Authorities.

Sometimes they became impatient and wondered why this continual exercise of the feet and arms was necessary. Later on, when they became efficient and 500 men moved as one, the value of such training became very obvious to them. In other words they had learnt "team work."

It is truthfully said that a common cause will bring together all right thinking men, but enthusiasm without knowledge is of very little use. Every job to be done well requires competent people to carry it out, supposing it to be only the task of moving 500 men across a certain piece of country sensibly and with safety. You, when at school carrying on your routine of lessons, may say—like the man in the army for the first time—"What's the good of all this right and left turning?" However, the time will come when you will realize that in learning Arithmetic, French, Algebra, and all the rest of it, your mind has developed in such a way that, whatever the job to be accomplished you are fit and able to carry it forward.

Now that you have settled down to school again for a long period of work will you bear this matter in your minds. And when the feeling of slackness attacks you, just square your shoulders, take a grip of yourself and say with a smile, "NOW IT'S RIGHT TURN."

Your affectionate friend,

THE CAPTAIN.

Chapter 3.

"Oh Youth, why are you lost in such contemplation?
Why do your young eyes gaze timidly over the sea?"

—Newton.

It was late in the afternoon and the large dining room of the Manor House was wrapped in shadows. At the far end a huge log fire burned in the open grate, the flickering flames of which afforded the only illumination the room possessed. But the atmosphere was one of comfort, created no doubt by the oak-lined walls and the deep red curtains that covered the arched windows, thereby completely shutting out all signs of wintry weather.

Seated on low stools, watching the burning wood and at the same time warming themselves, for they had just come in from outside, were two boys, Edgar Dickson and his chum Walter Frampton. We have already been introduced to the former, and as the latter will have much to do with this story it is well that the reader should know something about him.

Walter Frampton was an orphan, the son of a doctor, who until his death had carried on a practice in the town of Ryden. Like his friend Edgar he could hardly remember his mother, and had on losing his father made his home at the Rectory, being placed there by his Guardian a distant relative who lived in London. Here, under the kindly direction of the Rev. Mr. Stapleton, he learnt lessons with his friend and one or two other sons of the neighboring gentry. In age and appearance there was little dissimilarity between the two boys, for both were strong and active for their years and fond of those out-door activities popular to the period in which they lived. Perhaps Edgar was inclined to spend more time than the other over his books, but even so he was acknowledged to be the leader in many a daring expedition; so much so that Walter was given at times to take him severely to task for his rashness.

"You take too many risks," he had protested, on one occasion when they were riding together and his friend had cleared a particularly dangerous hump with his pony. "You might have broken your neck trying so difficult an obstacle." But Edgar had only laughed and continued his headlong gallop, throwing out a challenge to his chum to do likewise, which Walter of course despite his scruples, felt bound in honor to accept.

For a long time there had been an unbroken silence between them, then Edgar suddenly turned to his friend and said,

"You heard the news, Walter, that the Crier shouted out in the Market Square this morning? Its going to make a sad difference to us, I am afraid."

"How so?" was the reply. "Your Father is a rich man. Edgar, the loss of even a large sum of money cannot hurt him very much."

"But it will," came the reluctant answer, "Listen, Walter; my Father told me as we were coming home that he might have to sell the estate and go out to one of the Colonies, Canada or somewhere, and live there. It will be awful doing a thing like that, you know. I should dislike it ever so much."

"Oh no, you wouldn't!" was the quick, confident rejoinder. "It would be grand! I was only talking to old Hawkins, the Crofter, who told me that his son, who is a sailor, had just returned from America, a voyage that took weeks because of storms. And the tales he tells of the foreign parts he has seen, are indeed wonderful. If you do go away I only wish that I could come with you."

"I doubt if you would like it, even if your Guardian should consent to let you go," said Edgar, not at all aroused by his friend's enthusiasm. "It must be hateful," he went on, "to be shut up in a ship, perhaps for over a month, without seeing any land at all."

"Not any more than having to remain indoors because of the sleet outside," argued Walter cheerfully. "Though if it was freezing it would be better, for then we could have some sliding on the ice; now we can't even ride!"

AUNT JEAN HERSELF

LITTLE HANDS

By Aunt Jean

Little hands, sweet baby hands,
That cling, and cling, and cling
To mother's fingers, as she tries
Her lullabys to sing.

Little hands, small childish hands,
That closely clasp a friend,
When trudging, lonely, off to school
Where baby days must end.

Little hands, keen eager hands,
To help both dad and mother,
Aunt Mollie too, and Uncle Jack.
And maybe Baby Brother.

Little hands, dear clinging hands,
God guide them all thro' life
To work together for His good, Preventing wrong and strife.

AUNT MOLLIE'S HANDS

Jack was tossing restlessly about on his small grey-enameled bed, the bronze and copper elephants on its shiny footboard apparently watching every move he made.

"You hateful, staring things!" he muttered. "What are you watching me so closely for? I suppose you think that I am guilty. Well, I am not—so there! Take that!" he said viciously, throwing a pillow at them.

He usually was rather proud of those elephants, but tonight he was in such ugly spirits—Sent to bed at five o'clock. Being punished for something he had not done. "It's a crime," he muttered crossly. "A fellow's mother ought to know when he is telling the truth." But then, Fanchion had been so persistent in declaring that Master Jack must have hidden her mistress' gloves.

She, Fanchion, had laid them out for Mrs. Radcliff to wear to town to meet the master, but the poor lady had been so excited over seeing her husband again after so many years of separation, while he was with his regiment in India, that she had gone off without them. Fanchion had meant to put them away at once, but had been called from the room for a few moments, and when she had returned they were gone. No-one but Master Jack had been in the room, so he must have hidden them.

His mother had coaxed him to tell where he had hidden them. Jack had stoutly denied ever seeing them, but—it was no use, he had been put to bed until he would confess.

Mother had said, "Jackie Boy I am ashamed of you. Think of Aunt Mollie's cold, bare hands and tell me where they are. They are her best, long-wristed gloves too."

"I can't tell you! I haven't hidden them!" wailed Jack; but it was no use. No one seemed to believe him. "They could not walk off by themselves," Fanchion had said with a toss of her black curls, and mother had said with a sad look at Jack "That is quite true, they could not," and had put him to bed.

He felt like kicking and screaming, just like Billy Bad Boy next door, but knew that that was a nasty thing to do, so boyish and bad-tempered. He would just bear it in silence . . . show them that he was a man anyway, or at least could act like one, even if he was only a small abused boy.

It seemed hours and hours since he had been in bed. An angry tear stole down his cheek. He wiped it away with an impatient little hand. "It's not fair!" he muttered. "I wanted to meet Aunt Mollie and Uncle Jack at the door, and now I can't, all because some silly old gloves got lost."

Another tear started down his cheek; he was so disappointed; he had never seen his Uncle Jack. He had been in India since before he, little Jack, was born. "Queer way to welcome the person a fellow is called after!" he muttered again. "I have a good mind to get up and dress and sneak downstairs. I did not touch the gloves and they have no right to keep me in bed."

He sat up. The elephants were still staring at him. It made him angry.

"Stare away all you want to," he growled. "I don't care, but I wish I could see something else for a change."

He got his wish. He did see something else. Something white was beckoning him from out of the darkness of his room. A pair of long white hands seemed to be reaching out to him from the window near his bed.

"Aunt Mollie's hands," he muttered his teeth chattering with fright—"Aunt Mollie's cold, bare hands."

He watched them in terror. Sometimes they were quite still then all in a moment they would start waving frantically, sometimes just one would wave, sometimes both. Cold shivers played tag all over him, he was terribly frightened.

Ducking under the covers for safety, he lay still for a few moments, scarcely daring to breathe.

After a time he peeped cautiously out. Horrors! they were still there, and still reaching out towards him, seemingly nearer than ever. They must not touch him, they must not! He had not touched their gloves.

The wind was rattling the leaves outside the window; popular leaves did make such a creepy sound.

Suddenly one of the hands started waving wildly, then floated towards him.

He screamed in terror. Voices sounded on the stairs. "Mother!" he sobbed, "Mother!"

Aunt Mollie opened the door. "What is the matter, Jackie boy?" she asked, as she switched on the light.

She sat down on the side of his bed and started to take him in her arms.

"No, no," he cried, shrinking away from her. "Don't let them touch me—don't let them touch me," he sobbed.

"Don't let what touch you?" Aunt Mollie asked in surprise, while the tall man in the doorway looked down wonderingly at him.

"Your hands, your cold bare hands!" he wailed, pushing her arms away from him.

Aunt Mollie looked hurt, so did Uncle Jack. This did not seem like the little Jack that his wife had written so fondly about.

Mother's voice sounded sharply from the doorway "Jack! What nonsense is this?"

"Aunt Mollie's hands were coming at me from the window before the lights came on, and I don't want them to touch me."

"He has a guilty conscience," sneered Fanchion, who had followed mother into the room.

His mother leaned tenderly over him to feel if he was feverish. Aunt Mollie gasped. Fanchion screamed! Uncle Jack had turned the light off, and sure enough, there was a long white hand beckoning to them, but only one.

Uncle Jack walked to the window, opened the latch, reached out, then laughed. There was a sharp snapping sound as a beak shutting angrily, a cross sleepy caw, as Pete, Jack's pet crow, sidled away from his head and drew closer to the trunk of the old tree, whose leaves still rattled and shook with the wind.

"Pete! You old villain!" said Uncle Jack. "You mean by stealing my wife's best gloves and hiding them in the old poplar tree?"

Switching on the light, he held up one shining glove, now quite flat, which a moment before had been billowing full of wind, and looking exactly like a real hand.

The wind had lifted its mate from the branch and dropped it on the ground, at the moment that it appeared to be floating right towards Jack.

"No wonder Jackie was scared," said Uncle Jack, seeing the shamed look in his small nephew's eyes. "I was myself for a moment."

"Were you really, Uncle Jack?" asked wee Jack.

"I surely was, old Son," laughed his uncle. "Bue lie down now and go to sleep quickly. I want to have a long talk with you in the morning. I have a lot to tell you about these fellows." Uncle Jack brushed the bronze elephants with his hand as he spoke. He had sent then to little Jack from India.

After the Grown-ups had gone out of the room, Little Jack lay back on his pillows with a happy sigh. He was not a coward after all. Uncle Jack had been afraid too, and he was a soldier.

His eyes caught the gleam of his bronze and copper elephants. Reaching out, he patted them softly. "Uncle Jack is going to tell me all about you in the morning," he muttered drowsily as he dropped asleep.

Little Jack had a real fright, but after all there was nothing to be afraid of, as is often the way a great many times in our lives. We are afraid of things, and all for the want of knowing just what they are. The creepy shadows we see at night are just the dear, familiar things which look different because of the difference in the lights.

Next week I am going to tell you about Old Nancy's Pup.

—With love,

Aunt Jean.

"My wife has run away with my best friend."

"Was he very handsome?"

"I don't know. I never met him."

ANNUAL VESTRY MEETING OF CALUMET AND GRENVILLE PARISHES

The annual Vestry Meeting of Grenville Parish was held in the Mission Room, Grenville, P.Q., on Thursday, January 12, 1933, the Rector, Rev. K. N. Brueton, B.A., presiding.

The financial report of the parish showed a favourable balance at the end of the year. A special vote of thanks was tendered the Rector for his untiring efforts in making the recent Centenary Celebration of St. Matthew's Church, Grenville, a splendid success, and also for his work in the parish since the beginning of his incumbency last June.

The Officers elected were as follows:—

Rector's Wardens,—
St. Matthew's, Grenville, Mr. Hugh Rayson; Trinity, Calumet, Mr. G. E. Higginson.

People's Wardens,— St. Matthews, Grenville, Mr. Walter Dewar, Mr. H. G. Brannan.

Financial Secretary for Parish, Mr. W. M. Bradshaw.

Secretary-Trinity Church, Calumet, Mr. L. G. Martin.

Delegates to Synod, St. Matthews,— Messrs Ray Dawson and John Keatly.

Delegates to Synod, Trinity,— Messrs. H. G. Brannan and G. E. Higginson.

"Montreal Gazette"—

The Supreme Court of Canada has dismissed the appeal of the eight Communists held at Halifax for deportation, and they are now due to be shipped to the countries in Europe whence they came. The Communists desired to remain in Canada despite their denunciation of this country's laws and mode of government, which they plotted to overthrow by force if need be. Logically they should not have fought deportation so strenuously, for if they are believers in communism they may go to Russia, where criticism of government is not permitted even by the political leaders. Here they tried to set their wills above the wishes of the majority of Canadians and lost. They will not be missed when they are gone.

ANOTHER VICTORY FOR AYERS LIMITED HAND DEF- FEAT TO INDEPENDENTS

intercepted a pass from Beauchamp to Jones, and attempted to score. "Bidoux" made another lone, invincible advance down the ice, missed the net. But subsequently he slipped the disc through for another goal, in a close-up shot. The offensive continued chiefly in the Independents' end, with Ayers staging excellent work. Cruise stopped a good shot by C. Drew and MacKimmie started long-shooting from his own blue line. Goaler Patry, however, was on the spot, also saving a fine shot from centre ice by L. Cruise. Independents' one and only goal next brought one of the finest exhibitions of the game, as MacKimmie passed to G. Lefebvre, and the latter opportunely sent the rubber back again to Jim, who whipped it into Ayers net. The score was 3-1, and Independents' seemed spurred to greater effort, but they could not break through Ayers hard-checking defence. C. Drew scored again in a single handed break through the opponents' defence, and the period closed at 4-1.

Mirron, a fast-skating west-ender, took charge of the puck at Ayers' blue line, making a very creditable sally through the Independents' aggregation. But his lone effort was fruitless, as Cruise blocked a good prospective goal. Another pass from Joly to Drew promised a sure goal, but the rubber bounced off the pole. Lefebvre incurred a two-minutes' layoff, as McFaul tripped and caught a severe jab in the ribs. As C. Drew again sent a sure-fire shot to the goal, Cruise turned it aside; but B. Patry was ready on the rebound, and slipped the disc into an open net, counter-acting again for Ayers Limited. Freitag, of Independents' reserves, here made a good showing, as also did McGibbon, who—passing across to MacKimmie found no-one there on the reception committee. Patry made a further show of effective poke-checking, at the expense of both "Friday" and Jim McGibbon. MacKimmie was whistled off for 2 minutes by Justice Belanger, after charging Mirron. Freitag tried hard to boost the score for Independents, as—just before the closing whistle—he drove the puck at the Independents' goal. Patry checked it, but the disc went home in the rebound. This was declared a goal, but was promptly contested and over-ruled. The puck appeared to have hit the twine out of the goaler's hand, but the decision was turned on the fact that the puck was kicked into the net. The closing score was 5-1.

Spectators were agreed on a clean and interesting game, expressing satisfaction with Messrs. Prevost and Barker in their decisions; and the evening's hockey measured high in quality.

The visiting team lined up as follows: Roberts, Martin, Tomalty, Gagné, Seary, Charlebois; Subs: McGibbon, St. Onge, Petley; the Laurin team appearing in their usual formation.

Hints for Homebodies

Specially written for Readers of The Watchman.
By JESSIE ALLAN BROWN

MISSIONARIES WANTED

This tale is told to arouse your sympathy. It is about the women who live in a country where it is cold for about six months of the year, and although the sun frequently shines, it is only in the middle of the day that it has any strength. All those long six months these women are never out in the sun but stay in the house all the time it is shining. It is not that they are not allowed to go out, but they just don't do it. Queer aren't they? A little missionary work could be used to advantage on these poor benighted women, who never let the sun shine on them.

Would you like to know where they live, and what country it is that is so cruel to its women? To make it even worse it is the mothers of the country who never let the sun shine on them. Some of the other women do go out, but not the mothers nor those who stay at home to look after the meals for the rest of the family. Well, they live in a country called Canada. So, send missionaries to persuade the mothers to go out of doors sometimes between 10 o'clock in the morning and 2 o'clock in the afternoon, for it is only between those hours that the winter sun is of any value.

You may think this is a bit far-fetched. But, is it? If you are one of the class afore mentioned, just stop and consider how often you are out in the sun. The answer to that will be, for most of you—never. It may be difficult to manage, but it is not impossible. It would be a crime if you left some of your work undone and went out. Try it some day. I guarantee the work will still be there when you come back. What if you do not get it all done. The family will never know, but they will know if your health and spirits are better for your time spent in the sun.

CODLIVER OIL TIME

Cod liver oil is sometimes called bottled sunshine as it contains vitamin D and has very much the same affect as the sun's rays have. Cod liver oil should be kept in a cool place. If the top of the bottle is wiped off after each time it is used, it will prevent the rancid taste which sometimes comes from oil left on the surface of the bottle. Oil is affected by light and should be kept in a dark place. So many keep it in the window as that is a cool place but it is the worst possible choice. Some manufacturers are putting the product up in dark bottles. Cod liver oil is valuable for its minerals as well as its vitamins. If you are trying to keep your teeth in healthy condition you cannot do better than take it. All children under two years old should have it to prevent rickets.

ONE WAY OF REMEMBERING

When it comes to remembering to administer cod liver oil, or indeed any medicine, I have the world's forgettery. I have hit upon the scheme of paying the small son a copper every time he remembers his cod liver oil. There are times when I have to restrain its use. So the scheme has worked. The penalties are being saved to buy some longed for treasure and are not spent indiscriminately.

SEASONINGS

Do you vary your seasonings or do you use the same thing over and over for everything? Herbs are among the valuable seasonings. Always I have bought them in cans, but this year a farmer came to the door with fresh grown ones. I dried them and ground them myself and they are ever so much nicer than the ready ground ones.

You probably have your own favorites. After experimenting we seem to like best, sage for all poultry; summer savoury for dressed meats; thyme in potato or meat cakes and in beef loaf; and a pinch of marjoram in soups or occasionally in stews.

BREAD PUDDINGS

Remove crusts and cut into cubes, three slices of bread about an inch thick. Put them in a buttered casserole or baking dish which can be covered. Sprinkle with a tablespoon of sugar and dot with a teaspoon of butter. Pour over this 2 beaten egg yolks to which two cups of milk have been added. The liquid should almost cover the bread, if it does not do this, add a little more milk. Push the bread down until it is all soaked. Cover and stand the casserole in a pan of water and bake in a moderate oven of about 325 degrees until the custard is set. Spread the pudding with strawberry or raspberry preserves. Cover with a meringue made of two beaten egg whites and 4 tablespoons of sugar (add the sugar gradually when the egg whites are almost stiff, then continue beating until stiff but not dry.) Bake until delicately browned.

It took years of experimenting before I could make a bread pudding that would not fall when taken out of the oven. They would be noble-looking puddings when they came out of the oven. Then, pouff! Down they would go, and be flat, discouraged looking affairs. Then, I tried baking them in a pan of water and that did the trick.

NUT COOKIES

Cream 1/2 cup butter and add gradually 1 cup sugar. Add 1 well beaten egg, 4 tablespoons milk, 1 1/4 cups rolled oats, 1-3 cup chopped raisins and 2-3 cup chopped nuts. Sift in 1 1/2 cups pastry flour, 1/2 teaspoon soda; 3/4 teaspoon cinnamon, and 1/2 teaspoon cloves. Beat all together thoroughly until well blended. Drop on a buttered sheet by tablespoons and bake in a hot oven of 375 degrees for about 15 minutes.

It's astonishing to observe what a sensation it creates when a professional diplomat says something that sounds like common sense.

You can't tell anything about it. The fellow with the deep rumbling bass voice often has to ask his wife's permission to attend the weekly session of his favorite lodge, while the fellow with the squeaky tenor voice goes whenever he pleases and never gets a call down.

"That's great, Bill—we'll sure be there"

"I'd give an eye-tooth to go into the city and see that hockey game tomorrow night," Fred said, "but we'd never get seats."

"Why not get Bill on Long Distance?" Hilda suggested. "Perhaps he could get you a seat today."

"By George, I'll try it," Fred agreed. Two minutes later he had Bill on the line. Bill not only could but would and, what's more, he had a seat for Hilda too.

"I did enjoy that game," Hilda said afterwards. "I'm certainly obliged to Bill—and glad we have a telephone."

A LESSON IN FINANCE

The Province of Quebec's latest $9,000,000 loan, issued last week, was oversubscribed the same day as it was offered to the public. Apart from the encouraging response which this offering elicited from the public, there is one other gratifying feature in connection with the issue.

In the past, governmental corporations have committed themselves to—make payments on such loans in United States funds. And as a result of the adverse exchange, many millions of dollars are now being paid out of Canada in excess of legitimate interest rates in Canadian currency.

The new Quebec loan now carries a provision that principal and interest will be payable "in lawful money of Canada." That much at any rate (comments the Ottawa Journal) we have learned from adversity.

QUEBEC'S RURAL HOTELS

Quebec Country Hotelkeepers' Association is planning an ambitious campaign to change the names and "traditionalize" the appearance of 300-or-more rural hotels in this province before the next tourist season commences. Many of Quebec's rural inns, according to Rodrigue Langlois, manager of the association, have shown a tendency to become Americanized; and Mr. Langlois is credited with a movement to bring back the French atmosphere of the old-time "auberge."

Hotel-keepers will be asked to do away with such prosaic names as the "Hotel Joe Bedard," and to substitute something more picturesque. They will be asked to remove their painted tin signs, and replace them with forged iron emblems upheld by grille-work brackets. All of this on the assumed principle that Americans are looking for something different, something antique.

The idea of catering to the tourist industry has merit in certain of its aspects. But we would venture the opinion that tourists, in their experience with hotels, are more vitally concerned with their gastronomy and personal comfort than with the beauty of exteriors. And while the Association may recommend these supposed improvements, we suggest the same outlay and study spent upon service and cuisine might prove a more practical investment. Judging by many of the rural hotels we have seen in Quebec, we are confident this course would be better appreciated by the everyday and "commercial" patron, who is generally more interested in his mattress and his eats than in romantic exteriors!

AND A PARADOX

The quality of modern poetry may be wallowing, as was recently asserted by an authority on verse; but there is consolation in knowing that poetry still holds its full measure of popularity. It is significant that John Masefield, poet laureate of England and perhaps the most versatile of modern poets, reading from his works last Friday in the Washington National Theatre, was received by a capacity audience. In the American capital this was considered an event of importance. A full hour before the doors opened, a queue of people waiting for admission extended half a block from the theatre, one of the largest in the city.

In this material day of material values, it is refreshing to find the practical demands of living have not entirely outworn that most impractical of pleasures—Poetry.

RECORD PERCENTAGE OF VOTES CAST, IN MANY CASES

AUGMENTATION

Mr. H. G. Brannan, secretary of the Municipality of Grenville and Augmentation, reports a high percentage of voters, having counted 200 ballots out of a possible 230 (approx.) W. Beauchamp gained a decided victory for Mayoralty, taking 129 votes against 69 by Thos. Garland.

Seven candidates were in the field for three seats on the town council; Thos. Cousens, however, had withdrawn. The successful contestants were Joseph Arthurs (73), Wm. McGillivray (70), and John Prophet (89). Of the remaining three, Chas. Ralph polled 59 votes, Angus Goodland 64, and J. Deslauriers 64. One ballot was spoiled.

HARRINGTON EAST

In the Village of Harrington, Malcolm McRae was elected mayor by 8 majority. Mr. McRae has held the office in previous sessions. Here, only three or four electors failed to appear at the poll, 107 votes having been recorded.

John Milway, James Trineer, and Dougald McLean were elected to the Village Council.

VILLAGE OF GRENVILLE

Georges Dansereau, M.L.A. for Argenteuil, was elected by acclamation to the Mayoralty of Grenville Village. At Monday's voting six candidates stood for three vacancies in council. Godfroy Allard took 43 votes, Jos. Coté 47, J. Morin 33, defeating R. B. White (32), Ovila Dupuis (25) and O. Campeau (12). There were 68 ballots cast, out of a maximum of 95 eligible to vote.

The average family, it is reported, now consists of 3.4 persons. That's pa behind the decimal.

BOWLING

C. I. L. TELEGRAPHIC LEAGUE

The second half of the league schedule commenced this week, and will be completed nine weeks hence. The returns for the first half are not yet to hand, but in the eight weeks Brownsburg "A" held such a commanding lead that there can be no doubt that this team will top the list. In the second division, while the result is not so certain, the Canadian Safety Fuse who hold a 37 point advantage over their nearest rivals are most likely on top.

VESTRY MEETING OF ST. GEORGE'S ANGLICAN CHURCH, BROWNSBURG

At the annual vestry meeting of St. George's, Brownsburg held on January 9th., reports covering the previous year activities revealed a most encouraging state of affairs in the face of continued economic depression.

The spirit of true Christian sacrifice was made manifest in increased revenue from open factories as compared with the previous year, the entire wiping out of all indebtedness with respect to the building fund and a record year of keen activity by The Ladies' Guild which again proved its usefulness in raising sufficient funds to meet expenses not provided for through the medium of congregational offerings.

The keynote of the gathering all through, was one of optimism and in addition to the election of officers for the ensuing year, special committees were appointed to take care of church extension work. Success of this work will depend very largely upon the sympathetic attitude and whole hearted co-operation received from all members of the church and it is hoped that the necessary support will be forthcoming.

Officers elected for 1933 :
Rector's Warden, Mr. A. Steere. People's Warden, Mr. J. Hazel. Sidesmen, Messrs. J. R. Cooper, S. H. Stilwell, F. R. Reid, J. M. Davis, L. Davis, J. Robbins.

Lay Delegates to Synod, Messrs. A. Steere and H. W. Butler. Treasurer, Miss M. Petley. Secretary, Mr. H. W. Butler.

FINE TRIBUTE TO DEPARTED PHYSICIAN

Colleagues in the medical profession paid notable tribute to the personality of the late Dr. William D. Christie, who passed away recently at the Woodlawn Hospital, Chicago, where he had labored for a number of years.

Many friends and relatives of the late Doctor in these parts, will appreciate the following letter, in testimony to his outstanding qualities of sympathy and devotion to humanity.

Woodlawn Hospital, Jan. 12th., 1933.

We, as a duly appointed committee of the regular Weekly Clinical Conference Meeting of Woodlawn Hospital, wish in behalf of the loss of our dear friend, Dr. William D. Christie.

In our daily contact with him, we have grown to appreciate his real honesty, genuineness and great love for his fellow men. As was pointed out in the memorial remarks at the meeting, the outstanding virtue of Dr. Christie was his great friendship for humanity. We, as his fellow practitioners, could not help but share this great outpouring of his personality.

He lived a full, rich life. His contributions to those who came in contact with him was great. For years to come, his patients will remember the great effects of his soothing presence when he entered their homes.

We share with you in your great loss, and extend to you our condolences. We are inscribing in the permanent records of the hospital, the brief resume of our friend, Dr. William D. Christie.

We are, Very sincerely,

Dr. R. K. Packard,
W. F. Dickson,
S. C. Robinson.

LAURENTIAN AYRSHIRE BREEDERS MEET

The Annual Meeting of the Laurentian Ayrshire Breeders' Club, held Friday, Jan. 13th., was well attended. Mr. F. Pewtriss, Fieldman, of Beaconsfield, was present and emphasized the point of carrying on when markets were dull; for—the better condition the animals were in, the better price they would command when markets opened. Mr. Alex. Bothwell spoke briefly of the work done by the boys' and girls' Calf Club, their exhibits of Ayrshire calves and successful exhibits at Sherbrooke. He also referred to the honours won by local Ayrshire breeders at the Lachute, Ottawa and Toronto fairs.

Dr. Higginson, of Hawkesbury, gave a very interesting talk on diseases of cattle, and illustrated his work by lantern slides of the internal organism of cows, which was very much appreciated by the breeders present.

Directors for 1933 are as follows:

René Trepanier, Hon. Pres.; Melville Smith, Pres.; Irvin Bain, Vice-Pres.; Jas. A. Hay, Allan R. Walker, Stanley Rodger, Howard McQuat, Allan Rodger, and D. G. Simon, Sec. Treas.

IN MEMORIAM

BENNETT—In loving memory of our dear Ethel, who departed this life, Jan. 20th., 1930.

God called her home, it was his will, But in our heart she lingers still Her memory's just as dear to-day,

As in the hour she passed away. Inserted by her mother, brothers and sisters. Mrs. Valentine Swail and family, Arundel.

Town Locals.

Mr. Willis Staniforth, of Montreal, spent the week-end in town.

Miss Louise Parker is spending this week in Montreal, the guest of Mrs. A. Kyle.

Miss Ethel Doig, of Montreal, was the week-end guest of her mother, Mrs. A. Doig.

Miss Shirley Hamilton, of Montreal, spent the week-end the guest of her parents.

Miss Doris Armstrong, of Stonefield, spent the week-end, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Armstrong.

Miss Lulu Miller, of McGill University, Montreal, was the guest of her mother, Mrs. Robt. Miller over the week-end.

Miss Marian LeCras, who has been spending the holiday with her parents, Rev. and Mrs. LeCras, left on Monday for Dunham College.

Rev. L. H. Davey, of Ottawa, occupied the pulpit of the Regular Baptist Churches, of Brownsburg, Dalesville and Lachute on Sunday last.

Sympathy is felt in the misfortune of Mr. Wm. John Rodger, Main Street East, who sustained a fractured hip when he fell on the icy sidewalk last Saturday morning. Mr. Rodger was run into by a large dog, which upset him, throwing him heavily to the ground. He is now progressing as well as can be expected in consideration of his advanced years.

This is your opportunity to help the poor and needy as well as getting a good time out of it yourself. A Charity Masquerade Hockey Game is to be played on Tuesday, Jan. 24th., in the Lachute Rink and the proceeds will be devoted to those requiring assistance. Tickets are now on sale at the popular price of 25 cts. so get yours early as it is fully expected the rink will be packed for this occasion.

UNITED YOUNG PEOPLE HOLD DISCUSSION

The Y. P. S. of Lachute United Church held a very interesting meeting on Monday night last. Mr. Ted Hammond, the convenor, divided the meeting into three groups to discuss the following questions:

1. Would you do away with the machine and go back to hand labour?

11. Could we start a home-improvement movement in our own community, by which all who have spare money might be persuaded to paint or repair their properties, and so provide employment for many?

111. What do you think of Mr. Ford's idea of Self-Help? Mr. Ford condemns charity but would have factories and communities arrange for parcels of land that might be cultivated by the unemployed to help themselves.

These questions created keen interest and the group finally decided that they were on the side of Jesus Christ in his open conflict with all injustice and wrong, and that we belong to the one family of humanity where we are, "severally members, one of another."

IN MEMORIAM

MONCRIEFF—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, who passed away Jan. 21st., 1926. Resting where no shadows fall in perfect peace he awaits us there. Ever remembered by his wife and family.

THE LATE MRS. ALEXANDER PETRIE Was Popular Figure in Brownsburg.

The death of Mrs. Alexander Petrie came as a shock to her many friends, although she had been in poor health for some years. She passed peacefully away at her late residence, Brownsburg, Que., on Jan. 10, 1933, at the age of 60 years and one month.

The deceased was the second daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bain, born in the Township of Chatham of an old pioneer family, and lived all her life, except a few years, in this vicinity. It can be truly said that she was a woman of character, upright, kind and generous to all who made her acquaintance.

She leaves to mourn her loss a husband, one daughter, Mrs. A. L. Trussler, of St. Catherines, Ont., and four grandchildren; also two sisters, Mrs. Edward Boyd and Mrs. James Macdonald, both of Brownsburg, and one brother Donald MacKenzie Bain, of Boyer St., Montreal.

The funeral took place Thursday afternoon, Jan. 12th., from her residence, and was attended by sympathizing relatives and friends. The service was conducted by the Revs. F. W. Dyson and E. G. Baxter. The pallbearers were six of her old school-mates. Interment took place at Lachute Cemetery.

50 Years Ago.

Friday, Jan. 19, 1883.

A new bus, from the new hotel in the West End, meets all the trains, and is a great convenience to travellers.

Thomas McMahon, a young man of Harrington, was immediately killed when crushed by a log at the Grier shanty, five miles from Calumet.

At Morin Flats John Seale jr. was re-elected councillor and Mr. Elie Desnoches was elected to the seat of Philbert Benoit. As mayor, Isaac Jekill was unanimously re-elected.

Wentworth. At the municipal election, Mr. Jas. Morrison was elected to the seat of Mr. Jos. Creswell, and Mr. George Seale was re-elected Mayor.

Gore. Councillors W. J. Christie and Thos. Hodge were re-elected.

In 1882 over a hundred thousand persons settled in Canada.

Correspondent points out that Calumet is not Indian but French, the name being applied to a variety of stone from which the Indians made their pipe-heads. This stone was found in the bed of the stream, which in turn gave rise to the name of Calumet for the surrounding settlement.

25 Years Ago.

Friday, Jan. 24, 1908.

Mr. Fred Creswell, who has been spending a visit in town, returned to his home in Wyoming this week.

The funeral of Mrs. F. Rodger, of Lakefield, whose death occurred on Jan. 17th., was conducted on Sunday, by Rev. A. E. Mount.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hammond and children, of Butte, Montana, returned home on Tuesday after visiting in Mille Isles.

The St. Andrews Orchestra, composed of ladies and gentlemen, numbering 16 pieces, is becoming a prominent musical organization. Lachute's "Swastika Orchestra," consisting of Messrs. H. Dumouchel, E. M. Finn, G. Valois and M. Gall, were their guests at St. Andrews this week.

Besides the pastor Rev. Mr. Fraser, St. Mungo's Tea meeting was attended also by Rev. Brown, of Stonefield, and Rev. Crane, Pt. Fortune. Several Scotch songs by Miss Carr, of Lachute, were a feature of the program. A flute solo was rendered by Dr. Wales, of St. Andrews, a recitation by Miss Annie Dewar, and an amusing quartette by the Misses Bradford, Mr. H. Bradford and Mr. Crane.

CHARLES JENNINGS ANNOUNCING

Radio doesn't do the small fry any harm. They get a glimpse of the Big World Outside that the geography books fail to supply. If you are domesticated you know what we mean. Junior bringing in The Gang from the back yard hockey rink every evening to hear Our Jimmy... or sprawled out on the rug for Fu Manchu, or as a special concession to juvenile susceptibilities, Ed. Wynn. The youngsters all have their heroes of the ether, and it gives them ideas. Junior thinks it would be a good idea to train to be a radio star. All right, my boy, let me suggest ten years on the vaudeville stage, a few more in the diplomatic service, and a season of writing. Even announcers... most of them... are fairly well seasoned before they can crash into that business. As for artists, out of two hundred who have the equipment, only one has what it takes to click over the air.

Toting with this idea of the seasoned artist being the successful artist, what about orchestra conductors? For instance, what about Reginald Stewart, who conducts the C-I-L Opera House of the Air, favorite Sunday evening entertainment of many veteran dial-turners? Stewart, son of a Scottish musician, was a wonder on the piano at the age of seven, played the church organ at ten and was leading chorister at twelve. Then he studied... Paris, London, Vienna... and then he began to be noticed. Two years ago he conducted the famous London Symphony Orchestra at Albert Hall. This year he conducted England's greatest orchestra, the B. B. C., in the first Brahms Symphony. An old-timer you suggest? Sure thing... thirty-two years old. Incidentally, we like the Opera House of the Air... looking forward to "Tom Jones" and "Monsieur Beaucaire."

We do not wish to shatter any illusions, but orders of the air do very little free-wheeling... we mean ad-libbing... the time element is too important. Not wishing to come to the end of the broadcast without having said the very thing they want most to say, they read from timed manuscript. No matter what silver tongued speaker comes to the microphone, Mr. Charlesworth, in the interests of program efficiency should insist on a continuity. It also relieves the strain upon the speaker himself. Clara, Lu and Em, not so long ago, went into the studio for a quarter hour without having anything prepared. Not so difficult for them, since years before they had been doing impromptu sketches right along. But this time they panicked. At the end of fifteen minutes Clara, Lu and Em looked like jittery, stage fright and buck fever all rolled into one. Never again without a continuity, they say.

"To see ourselves as others see us"—how easy, with the help of radio. Have you never listened to people talking in some other country... about THIS country? Martha Ostenso, Canadian in the sense that she lived here for some time while writing the earliest of her novels, pleased us with the way she spoke of Canada during an interview of the Grub Street series... but if we ever had any idea that being an author was easy, this little talk deceived us. Speaking of authors, we personally, could assimilate more than the prevailing number of book reviews over the air... if they were authoritative.

It's all right to tune in your home station and leave 'er lay for hours, but there IS a thrill in the long distance stuff. The voice of Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald from London, England... the Prince of Wales laying any old cornerstone gets us, listening every time... and we still remember the kick we got out of two unknown engineers chatting back and forth between Rome and New York. But of all trans-Atlantic broadcasts, the Christmas programs seem to appeal most... Christmas carols in chorus by children of London, Paris and Berlin... Mass from the Cathedral of Notre Dame... and the sounds of Toyland itself when the squeaks and whistles of the toys of picturesque Nuremberg, Germany, come over the air. No reason, that we can see, why broadcasting shouldn't lean a little in the baby's direction, just at this time of the year.

ST. ANDREWS EAST

Mr. and Mrs. Pert, also Miss Evelyn Wales of Verdun, were guests of Dr. and Mrs. B. N. Wales last Sunday.

Dr. Maude Abbott spent the week-end at her home here.

Among the many who came up from Montreal to vote in the municipal elections were the following: Messrs. Horace Davis, John Allan, John Irwin, E. A. A. Cowen, W. F. Drysdale and Dr. Maude Abbott.

Mrs. V. Willett entertained at bridge last Friday afternoon.

Mr. Melville Ballantyne spent the week-end here, the guest of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Ballantyne.

Mrs. R. P. Reid left last Wednesday morning for Montreal, where she spent a few days before returning to her home in New York.

The Misses Walsh entertained the Women's League of the Presbyterian Church last Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Elizabeth Wales is spending her mid-term holidays here, the guest of her parents Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Wales.

The election of Mayor and Councillors for the Parish of St. Andrews on Monday awakened unusual interest. The contest resulted in the election of Mr. J. W. Piteairn for Mayor and Messrs. Ross McAdam and David Larocque for Councillors, all by decisive majorities. On the announcement of this result, short speeches from the successful contestants gave the assurance of the "bonne entente" between French and English for which St. Andrews has always been noted.

May Day Celebrations

Custom of Pagan Times

May day was first dedicated to the Goddess Maie—the goddess of fertility—many, many years ago. It was originally a pagan custom celebrating the return of spring. The Romans, too, as early as 238 B. C., because of a bad harvest instituted a similar custom of worship dedicated to their goddess Flora. The Roman festivities extended from April 23 to May 3 every year. This celebration was called Floralia or Floral Games.

In England during the Middle Ages we find literary allusions to their May day celebrations. Very early on May day morning the girls and boys went to the woods "to fetch the flowers fresh." The expedition was called "going a-Maying."

They picked armfuls of flowers and flowering branches and returned to the village with them about sunrise with great spirit and accompaniments of horn and tabor. The windows and doors were hung with the branches and bushes were planted in the streets. A young suitor could so honor the residence of his lady love. In addition, the fairest maid of the village was crowned queen. She was thrown under a floral arch and presided over the jubilation. This custom of selecting a May queen was also a relic of the Roman days.

Professor Would Take

Laurels From Ericsson

Another patriotic myth has been forced to lower its colors in the face of careful historical research, writes William E. Rae in a Boston paper. The popular conceit that the United States led the rest of the world in the introduction of ironclad warships and that the dramatic combat between the Monitor and the Merrimack began this revolution in naval architecture which transformed navies the world over, receives no countenance from Prof. James Phinney Baxter, assistant professor of history at Harvard and master of the seventh house to be built under Harvard's new house plan. "The dramatic qualities of this first fight between ironclads have led Americans ever since to exaggerate the effects of the battles of Hampton Roads," Professor Baxter says. "An examination of manuscript material in Paris, London and Washington shows clearly that France, not the United States, played the leading role in the introduction of ironclads."—Detroit News.

Governors' Conferences

The factors which brought about the establishment of the governors' conference were the growing centralization of power at Washington, the shifting, uncertain status of state's rights, and the lack of uniform laws. The first meeting was held at the White House in 1908. It was called by President Roosevelt, and the principal subject considered was the conservation of natural resources. The functions of the governors' conference are officially declared to be: Exchange of views and experiences on subjects of general importance to the people of the several states, the promotion of greater uniformity in state legislation, and the attainment of greater efficiency in state administration.

Contractor's Luck

One Nevada contractor now believes in the old saying, "Gold is where you find it." He took a job for removing old timbers from an abandoned mine: the work proved more difficult than expected and it appeared he was going to lose money on the contract. Removing a section of logging from an old drift, two sacks of ore tumbled out, apparently concealed there by a "high-grader" in the boom days. The ore was some of the richest found in the region and the contractor says his contract turned out to be one of the most profitable he ever had.

Sunshine All Day

At Aix-les-Bains there is to be seen a strange-looking building which has somewhat the appearance of a rather substantially constructed pagoda with an airplane perched upon its top. It is a scheme for the benefit of invalids who visit the place for its health-restoring qualities. The upper part of the building revolves in order that the persons in it may secure the greatest possible amount of sunshine. If the sun shines, the invalids occupying the rooms are enabled to get the benefit of its rays for the entire day.

Flares Keep Off Poachers

At the fish hatcheries of the West "mother" fish, kept in the rearing ponds are caught and stripped of their eggs during spawning season. The eggs, millions of them, are placed in glass jars, about 8,000 to the quart, and water at an even temperature runs through these constantly for from 90 to 120 days. The infant fish are returned to the pools and carefully reared to planting size. The pools are watched night and day, often by "bomb" or flare lights, to guard against poachers and to attract insects.

No Time to Waste

The insurance office was rung up by a very excited woman. "I want to insure my house," she said. "Can I do it over the phone?" "I'm afraid not. Perhaps we'd better send a man along."

"I've got to do it immediately, I tell you," came the frantic voice. "The place is on fire!"

JESUS AND THE SABBATH

Mark 2:23-26.
GOLDEN TEXT—The sabbath was made for man, and not man for the sabbath; therefore the Son of man is Lord also of the sabbath. Mark 2:27.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Keeping God's Day.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Keeping God's Day. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Use Sunday.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Lord's Day.

I. Jesus Eating With Publicans and Sinners (2:13-17).

1. The call of Levi (v. 14). Levi was a tax gatherer under the Roman government. As Jesus passed by he commanded him to leave his business and follow him.

2. Jesus dining in Levi's house (v. 15). It seems that when Levi found the Saviour, he invited many of his business associates to eat with him. This gave a fine opportunity for Jesus to come into touch with some of these sinners.

3. The perplexed scribes and Pharisees (v. 16). They asked, "How is it that he eateth and drinketh with publicans and sinners?" The question carried with it the charge that Christ was having fellowship with sinning men.

4. Jesus' reply (v. 17). "They that are whole have no need of the physician: I came not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance." The veiled charge of moral carelessness on the part of the Lord could not be denied if Jesus was a mere man. Jesus recognized the moral condition of his associates and declared that he had come as the divine Physician to heal their spiritual maladies. Surely no physician could cure sick folk without coming into contact with them.

II. Jesus and Fasting (2:18-22).

1. The question asked (v. 18). They asked why Christ's disciples did not fast. This objection suggests a lack of seriousness of purpose on the part of the disciples. The fast indicated solemnity and seriousness of purpose. John the Baptist was now in prison, therefore his disciples would naturally mourn and fast for him.

2. Christ's answer (v. 19-20). "Can the children of the bride chamber fast while the bridegroom is with them? The joy of Christ's disciples in present congenial companionship prevented their fasting. He declared, however, that the time would come when they would fast.

3. New wine in old bottles (vv. 21, 22). He proceeded to illustrate this by figures of cloth and wine skin. The Lord's purpose was to show the folly of imposing old customs on the new age.

III. Jesus and the Sabbath (2:23-3:6).

1. The disciples plucking ears of corn on the Sabbath (vv. 23-28).

a. Charge made against the disciples (vv. 23, 24). That they had violated the Sabbath law. For this act the Pharisees accused them of lawlessness. The Pharisees had glossed over the Sabbath law with so many regulations that it became a burden.

b. Jesus defends them (vv. 25-28). (1) He cites a precedent (vv. 25, 26). David, the great king of Israel, had gone into the house of God and eaten the bread which should be eaten only by the priests. The higher law of human need warranted David's breaking the law in this case.

(2) He shows the nature of the Sabbath law (v. 27). The Sabbath was made for man, therefore its right use is to be determined by the good of man.

(3) Jesus is the Lord of the Sabbath (v. 28). It was Jesus who instituted it when creation was finished. Therefore, he had a right to use it as it pleased him for man's good.

2. Jesus healing a man's withered hand on the Sabbath (3:1-6).

a. The place (v. 1). It was in the synagogue, the place of worship.

b. The Pharisees watching (v. 2). The motive which actuated their watching was an evil one.

c. The man an example (v. 3). Jesus wanted the case to be open to all, so he commanded the man to stand forth where all could see him.

d. The question asked (v. 4). "Is it lawful to do good on the Sabbath days, or to do evil, to save life or to kill?" He plainly showed them that to fail to do good, to show works of mercy, to save life, is to be guilty of wrongdoing, even of murder.

e. The man healed (v. 5). Christ healed him by speaking the word.

f. The result (vv. 4, 6). The Pharisees were silenced. They sought how they might put him to death.

The Spirit's Power

If ever we rise again to conscious life, it will be by no native power, but by the operation of the Spirit of God; and, unless the Spirit dwell in us, superstition may have an idol, conscience a law, philosophy a name, but the heart has no God.—F. H. Hedge.

In His Name

I will strengthen them in the Lord; and they shall walk up and down in his name, saith the Lord.—Zeck 10:12.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUBJECT IS "TRUTH"

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in all Christian Science churches, Sunday, January 22, is "TRUTH."

Golden Text: "I will sing unto thee among the nations. For thy mercy is great unto the heavens, and thy truth unto the clouds."

Among the Scriptural passages comprised in the Lesson-Sermon is the following: "Lead me in thy truth, and teach me: for thou art the God of my salvation; on thee do I wait all the day. All the paths of the Lord are mercy and truth unto such as keep his covenant and his testimonies." (Psalms 25:5, 10).

The following citation from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary B. Eddy, is also included in the Lesson-Sermon: "Truth is immortal; error is mortal. Truth is limitless; error is limited. Truth is intelligent; error is non-intelligent. Moreover, Truth is real, and error is unreal. This last statement contains the point you will most reluctantly admit, although first and last it is the most important to understand." (Page 466).

"Stratford Beacon"—

We always did admire brevity such as this: "A California man had a quarrel with his wife. The bullet lodged in his neck."

"NOT CONSTIPATED FOR SEVEN WEEKS"

Writes Mrs. Johnson After Using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Sufferers from constipation will be interested in this unsolicited letter:
"Your ALL-BRAN surely relieves constipation. I am so glad over the good it has done me that I feel I must write and tell you of it.

"For lunch I take a banana, a large one. Six tablespoons of ALL-BRAN in a sauce dish, and dip banana at each bite until all is consumed. I haven't been constipated now for seven weeks."—Mrs.
Louise Johnson. (Address furnished upon request.)

Constipation often causes headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness. This condition is usually due to lack of "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further promote regular habits.
Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has both, as well as iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass.
Gently, it clears out the wastes.
Try ALL-BRAN in place of patent medicines—often harmful. Two tablespoonfuls daily will overcome most types of constipation. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Use as a cereal, or in cooking.
Recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

"Toronto Star"—

Lady Astor, who was given a motor cycle escort at New York, told newspapermen that "the British would never stand for dashing through the streets behind officers with sirens chasing everybody out of the way.
The streets belong to all in England, and Englishmen would resent being pushed aside. The Prince of Wales, when he motors, goes along like anyone else."
This is something which has needed saying to the United States for a long time, and there have been occasions on which it also needed saying in Canada.
This idea that distinguished visitors should be rushed through the streets at dangerous speeds, breaking all traffic laws and accompanied by police in order that these laws may be broken with impunity, is a peculiar American conception which has unfortunately spread to Canada. Admiral Jellicoe was a victim of it on his visit to Toronto and there have been other cases. Lady Astor is not the first to express surprise.
Captain Mollison, who was similarly "honored" while in New York, exclaimed: "This is news to me. In England even the King obeys the law." The idea that distinguished people are above the law and that law enforcement officers should help them to break it is not one to be encouraged.

Current Notes of Municipal Interest

Montreal Takes Action in Sewer Explosions

The City of Montreal is taking action in court against persons definitely known in the case of disastrous sewer explosions which occurred recently in the north end.

St. Hyacinthe Cuts Salaries

"By reducing salaries of all city employees we will realize a saving of $7,000," declared Mayor T. D. Bouchard, of St. Hyacinthe, Que., announcing drastic reductions in the civic payroll.

Moose Jaw Holds Jubilee.

Moose Jaw, a flourishing city in the great wheat-growing province of Saskatchewan, some forty odd miles west of Regina, has been celebrating its jubilee. It is fifty years since the Canadian Pacific Railway entered the district; on December 10, 1882, the first welcome whistle of a locomotive was heard in this town.

Wary of Zoning Act in Montreal.

Maintaining that, if a zoning law for Montreal meant a special salaried commission to enforce it, then the City could not afford it at this time—the Executive Committee will attempt to block any recommendation to Quebec Government to apply the Nobbs zoning law in Montreal.

Budget Deficit Reduced $400,000 in Single Department.

Survey of the Health Department estimates for 1933 by the Executive Committee cut $400,000 from the total deficit in Montreal's budget. This reduction, although curtailing activities of the Health Department, took nothing from the work of school inspection or preventive service.

Aylmer Official Suspended.

E. J. Whittier, secretary-treasurer of the town of Aylmer, Que., was suspended and salaries of municipal employees cut ten to twenty per cent at a recent meeting of the council.

Mayor Mulligan said shortages had been discovered in the accounts through an audit recently conducted. The official was suspended indefinitely. He was bonded to the extent of $5,000.

Interesting Results.

In Saskatchewan continuation of exploration work on possible mineral areas of various classes in the more northern parts has led to interesting results that will be of importance. Coal mining is again active, and the sodium sulphate lakes have been shipping throughout the season. Construction work has been slow, but a new traffic bridge is nearly completed across the South Saskatchewan River at Saskatoon. Good grain crops over the major part of the province have been harvested, and these, together with other agricultural products, are bringing about improvement in retail trading.

Suspended by Council, Town Clerk is Re-instated by Mayor.

Mayor Louis Chatelle, of Ville LaSalle, placed his official veto on the decision of the council to suspend the secretary-treasurer, Stanislas Lefebvre and engage pro tem J. Emile Dumesnil as secretary-treasurer.

The mayor explained to Stanislas Lefebvre that though he had neglected during the prohibition referendum held in November to swear in all officers and representatives at the poll, this was not in the mayor's opinion sufficient reason for the Town to suspend from office the secretary-treasurer who had been eleven years in the position.

The mayor, in order to have his veto upheld, must be supported by two thirds of the council.
The vote for the suspension of Secretary-treasurer Lefebvre had been four to one, one alderman refusing to vote; it was therefore indicated the council would not uphold the mayor in his action and the veto would be reversed.

Winter Calls for Added Fire Protection

It is the general experience that there are more fires in the winter than in the summer.
This likely is due to various reasons, but perhaps the principal cause is due to crowding stoves and furnaces on cold days, and to burning out chimneys, and chimneys that have become unsafe and need repairing. Now, just what is a fireman's job? It might be stated in these few words:
"To render public service." Doesn't it follow, then, the citizen may also serve his town by preventing fires? There can be only one answer to that question.

When going about town, if you see a chimney in use that is in need of repair a suggestion that it be attended to should be gratefully accepted by any property owner. Your local newspaper will, no doubt, be glad to print a paragraph suggesting that all chimneys used in connection with soft coal burning equipment be cleaned.
One should never hesitate to point out the danger where stoves and furnaces are installed with insufficient clearances to combustible material, for such arrangements are potential fire hazards.
In communities having natural gas, people are prone to connect up a small heater with flexible tubing, and its use is not considered safe.

One can look around most anytime and see someone burning trash in the open or too near a building, and such practice should be discouraged, for it may develop into a nasty fire loss. The same care is called for in the dumping of hot ashes. These should be deposited in a safe place and in a suitable container.

The Christmas season brought grim reminders of the fact that, when candles are used in decorating, even if lighted for only a very minutes, there is the possibility of a fire starting that in the festive season.

In towns having volunteer fire departments the equipment should be checked over frequently to see that everything is in dependable condition.
If automobile apparatus is in service, the tires should be kept properly inflated, battery charged, gasoline tank filled, chemical tanks kept charged, radiator filled and in good condition, hose inspected, tested and reloaded before cold weather, and the fire station kept warm when the temperature gets below freezing.

One department has worked out a very good plan whereby two different members each week take their turn in looking after things, and the men having this responsibility go over everything very thoroughly. By this method each member of the department takes his turn and the fire fighting appliances are always in a reliable condition. Printed card forms are filled out each week and filed with the City Clerk, giving a complete record of the condition of all of the equipment and of service rendered.

When one joins the Fire Department, whether full paid or volunteer, he is not always aware of the individual responsibility connected with the position. A fireman's job nowadays consists of more than responding to alarms and fighting fire. It implies a need for observation, in the interest of precaution and fire prevention.

Quebec Town Planning Board May Resign

Quebec City's Town Planning Board, is at loggerheads with the City Council on the matter of the board's scope. Alderman Lacroix, who is a member of the Town Planning Board, said at a recent City Council committee meeting that if the board was not invested with powers consistent with the duties it was called upon to perform, the members would resign and that he would recommend this step at the forthcoming meeting.

STREUSEL CAKE—a favorite ROYAL YEAST CAKE
recipe. Easy to make, delicious!

To 1½ cups Royal Yeast Sponge* add 2 tablespoons butter, creamed, ½ cup light brown sugar, 1 egg well beaten, 2 cups flour to make soft dough. Knead lightly. Place in greased covered bowl in warm place. Let rise until double in bulk (about 1½ hours). Roll out dough ½ inch thick, prick with fork, brush top with melted butter and sprinkle with streusel topping. Let rise in warm place about 30 minutes. Bake at 350° F. to 400° F. Makes 4 cakes.

*ROYAL YEAST SPONGE

Soak 1 Royal Yeast Cake in ½ pint lukewarm water for 15 minutes. Dissolve 1 tablespoon sugar in ½ pint milk.
Add to dissolved yeast cake. Add 1 quart bread flour. Beat thoroughly. Cover and let rise overnight to double in bulk, in warm place free from draughts. Makes 5 to 6 cups of batter.

ENTIRE COUNCIL OF EAST HAWKESBURY RESIGN POSITIONS

A technicality resulted in the resignation of the entire council board for the Township of East Hawkesbury.

At the first meeting of the new council it was pointed out that only one of the councillors had paid his taxes in full at the time the different candidates qualified for election, this being Clarence McDuff, and although all the others had paid their taxes in full before the date of the meeting, it was nevertheless, decided that as a result of the candidates not being qualified at the time of their nomination, they could not hold office.

To facilitate matters, Mr. McDuff resigned with the rest of the board, and nominations were called for Jan. 16, with an election, if necessary, on January 23. Those directly affected are: Reeve D. Tittley, Deputy Reeve Emerie Gravel, Councillors O. Lafrance and E. Daoust.

CUSHING WEST

The grippe in a rather serious form is somewhat prevalent in this locality, particularly at Greece's Point.

Messrs. S. and E. Whelehan and Douglas and Wilfred Hartley motored up from the city and spent Sunday here the latter as guests of their mother, Mrs. S. O. Hartley and the former at Mr. Whelehan's, where Miss Katie Whelehan of Montreal, also spent the week-end.

Miss Emma Kerr left on Monday to spend a few weeks with Mrs. R. Funchion at Monalea.

A large contingent from here turned out to vote on the municipal elections, but they seem to have been of no avail as this section of the municipality is still to be without adequate representation in the council.

A well-contested game of hockey was played on the Cushing rink on Saturday evening between the Cushing and Stonefield boys, resulting in a score of 2-0 in favor of the former.

BROWNSBURG

Mrs. Harry Ball is a patient in the Western Hospital, Montreal.

The beautiful sunny day with good motoring roads brought in voters from all parts of Chatham Township, on Monday, each to vote for his favorite Councillor and Mayor.

Mrs. D. McGibbon, of Lachute, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Richardson, and many old friends are pleased to see her in this vicinity.

CUSHING

Miss Elizabeth Hamilton, of St. Andrews East, spent Saturday with the Misses Dorothy and Helen Weir.

Mrs. C. F. McFaul, of Chute au Blondeau, Ont., was the guest of Mrs. T. Weir Jr. quite recently.

Capt. J. D. Weir, of St. Anne de Bellevue, spent Saturday with his mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bradley and son Ian, of Carillon, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Gaston on Sunday.

A friendly, but closely contested game of hockey was played on Cushing rink on Saturday night, between Stonefield and Cushing boys, resulting in a score of 2-0 in favor of Cushing. Several other games were to have been played this week, but again the weather-man intervened.

A very pleasant meeting of St. Mungo's Ladies' Association was held on Thursday last, at the home of Mrs. Wm. Canning. Mrs. Frank Fuller was elected President at that meeting to replace Mrs. Archie Graham, who, though elected at the Annual Meeting, refused to act; her letter of resignation was read at this gathering.

Miss Katherine Cooke spent the week-end the guest of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Smith.

STAYNERVILLE

Miss Margaret Black of Lachute, was the week-end guest of the Misses McKenzie.

Mr. Raville, of the C. P. R. staff has returned to his home in Montreal.

Mr. Theodore Murdoch has had the misfortune to lose a valuable driving horse.

Mrs. Darwin McKenzie, is spending the week in Lachute.

The community congratulates its leading citizen, Mr. Alphonse Ouellette, who won the seat for Mayor in the election of the Chatham Council.

"Swanton Courier"—

By the night post a commercial traveller received a business communication in German. As he could not read it he took it to the local chemist, the only shop open at that hour. "It's Dutch to me," he said, handing him the note. "Perhaps you can make it out." The chemist retired to the back of his shop and returned in a minute or two with a bottle wrapped and sealed. "Two shillings," he said, "and take it just before going to bed. Dr. Brown's handwriting will kill somebody one of these days."

MILLE ISLES

The election was held here on Monday for Mayor and Councillors. Mr. S. Dawson was returned to office for Mayor with a large majority. John Noble, Arthur Hammond and Thomas Steen, were returned as councillors.

Messrs. Victor and Albert Noble and Edgar Elder, spent Sunday at Lily Crest.

Mr. and Mrs. Ryan have moved into their new house. Friends in this vicinity wish them every success, after their recent trouble.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Ward and son Victor motored to Lachute on Monday, on business, and also paid a flying visit to Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rogers.

A number of the young people here motored to Morin Heights, on Saturday night, to join the dance at Mr. Davis' Hall.

It is surprising to have such mild weather, and motors running on the 17th. of January.

MORIN HEIGHTS

Mr. and Mrs. Allan and the Misses Marshall, of Montreal, are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Robinson.

Mrs. Munsey, Montreal, spent Sunday last at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Stapleton.

Mrs. Jack McCullough has been in Montreal for the past two weeks undergoing treatment at the Western Hospital.

Winners at the Bridge Club which met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Paquette on Wednesday, Jan. 11th., were Miss A. McCullough and Mr. E. Greene.

Rev. W. J. H. Lummis and Mr. R. Kennedy spent Monday and Tuesday last in Montreal. While in town Mr. Kennedy consulted a nerve specialist.

Mr. E. Greene, Mr. A. Hamilton, Mr. T. McCullough and Mr. W. Seale attended the L. O. L. County Lodge, in Lachute, on Saturday last.

Nominations for Mayor and Councillors took place on Wednesday, Jan. 11th. Mr. J. E. Seale was elected by acclamation for Mayor. The vacancy for three councillors resulted in the following nominations:—

Messrs. Edgar Boyd, Max Beaumel, Wm. Doherty, John McCullough, Phileas Guenette, Geo. Hamilton, A. Stapleton and F. Watson. On Monday, Jan. 16, the following were elected: Messrs. Edgar Boyd, Phileas Guenette and Max Beaumel.

Inter-scholastic Hockey

Buckingham High School vs. Lachute High

On Saturday, Jan. 14th., the boys of Buckingham High School journeyed to Lachute to play a return hockey game,—the Lachute boys having played in Buckingham on the previous Saturday when they returned with a 5-1 victory.

The game was a match of clean sportsmanship throughout although our boys were heavier.

In the first period, Winston Drew with a pass from Canning, succeeded in tallying in the first two minutes of play. He was quickly followed in a similar manner by Campbell, and then again by McFaul, who at this point hurt his leg and was out for the rest of the game. Then, near the final stages of this period the Buckingham boys pressed forward, and Hallday was successful in tallying for his team. Langille, the Lachute goaler did good work in the nets.

The second period opened with MacKenzie in the goals, for Lachute, and McFaul out of action. Buckingham, pressed harder than ever now. Eisenberg tallied for his team; and had it not been for the excellent work of MacKenzie, he would have succeeded more than once.

Before this however Miller and Cyril Drew had scored for Lachute, Falconer and Miller tallied again.

The third period was generally slow. Tallies were counted, Davis scoring two and Martin three. During this period Eisenberg again scored. The final period ended with Lachute winning 12-3.

The Junior team of last year did good work throughout. Geo. Martin in particular seems to have made marked improvement, showing good passing and good team work. Good defence work was done by Walter Derby and Erwin Martin who, both are newcomers to our team. We hope that their stay with us will always be memorable.

May we take this opportunity to urge the public of Lachute to support our school team by attending the games. The games are usually advertised beforehand. It helps a great deal to have a number of supporters to cheer us on and therefore we ask for a larger attendance at our next game.

The Lachute players were as follows: Langille, W. Drew, McFaul, C. Drew, Canning, Milnes, Miller, G. Martin, Campbell, W. Davis, E. Martin, Falconer, Derby, MacKenzie.

The Buckingham players were as follows: Clement, Joyce, P. Eisenberg, Q. Eisenberg, Parker, Hallday, Robb, Johnston, Winsor.

CORRESPONDENCE

To the Editor, Pt. au Chene

Dear Sir: Will you please insert the following in your valuable paper: To the Electors of the Town of Pointe au Chene and surrounding district of Avoca: Gentlemen, I wish to take this opportunity through the press to thank you for the support you gave me at the poll for Councillor in the Township of Grenville, in the Augmentation of Grenville.

True, I was not elected, but as this was my first time running for office I feel very grateful to know that I have so many friends. Had the roads not been so bad, being practically covered by a coating of ice which made travelling by horse-vehicle impossible unless the horse was well shod, I feel that my election would have been certain. As it was I only lost by four votes, which I think was splendid, being my first attempt. And I feel confident that next time I run for office the results will be in my favor.

Again, I thank you each and every one, who cast their vote for me.

I am,
Yours respectfully,
CHAS. RALPH.

No Election Contests for Lachute = All Seats Filled by Acclamation

League Standing is Unchanged

LAURIN EXPRESS AND AYERS LIMITED TIE 3-3 IN EXCITING LEAGUE GAME

One of the most spirited League games this season found Ayers Limited and Laurin Express at an impasse of 3-3 after three full-blooded sessions and ten minutes of overtime, which provided an interesting spectacle for fans at the local rink last Thursday, 19th. The play was rather rough and tempers a little frayed, as from the start the game was interspersed with frequent penalties. The keen rivalry, nevertheless, brought to the fore a fast exhibition of hockey from both teams.

The activities opened at a fast clip, and the rough-house atmosphere soon became evident, as B. Patry on the Ayers forwards was warned for unorthodox tactics, and Gagne was put off for cross checking. Joe Berniquier opened the score for Laurin Express—promptly counter-attacking one again, and giving the Express squad a two-goal advantage early in the game. Both teams played short here, as Bidoux Patry was sent to the cooler for tripping, and Roussell also incurred a penalty. Sticks were flying high, and open hostilities broke between B. Patrie and Prevost until the Referee ruled both offenders to the bench. Bright spots in the session included a great shot by W. Drew, narrowly missing the Laurin cage, and some fine, fast stick-handling by Brisbois, of the Express, who stands out as a keen even-tempered hockeyist. Roussell went off again for rough-manoeuvring—which seems to be instinctive to his play, rather than vindictive—and Roussell plays real hockey between-times. Gagne of the Industrial line up, kicked the puck into Church's goal and was also ruled off for unapproved methods at the net.

G. McFaul here countered one-up for Ayers, making the score 2-1, and in the return offensive, Rochon missed an open net at the Ayers end. "Bidoux" next appeared to trip Roussell and was again whistled off. A high shot by W. Drew struck Church in the face, causing a nosebleed which held up the play.

Ayers Limited Tie 3-3 With League Top-Notchers

Any doubt which may have arisen from last week's Ayers-Laurin game, as to the square-shooting qualities of the Ayers Limited line-up, was dispelled by their engagement with the League's crack team on Tuesday. Meeting the Blues at Brownsburg, Lachute's west-enders held their opponents in check, took the lead in a fast clean game, and many times outplayed the Brownsburg boys. The finest feeling prevailed, in spite of the keen contest, and Referee Dore Lepine voiced the public appreciation for clean sporty hockey on the part of both teams.

First period put the visiting team one goal ahead, scored by their star forward, B. Patry, and gave them a marked edge on their opponents. Blues maintained the team-work and 3-abreast offensives for which they have been noted this season. The second clash chalked one-up for each team, closing at 2-1. C. Drew scored for Ayers.

The final period promised a sure victory for Ayers Limited, as Patry scored again, and Brownsburg crept up, making the score 3-2. In the last minute of play, however, the Blues evened up the count to 3-3.

Ten minutes of overtime failed to break the tie. The only penalty of the game was imposed in this session, Mirron, of Ayers sustaining a 1 minute lay-off for tripping; a ruling concerning which there was no complaint.

The Brownsburg tallies were made by Gagner, Pat Seary, and F. McGibbon. The visitors were guests of the Blue team at a Bean Supper following the game.

Reds Stage Near-Triumph Against Second League Sextette

Berniquier Saves the Day for Laurin Express

Local Victory of 6-5

Saturday's hockey arrangement between Laurin Express and the Brownsburg Reds was a fast, clean, free-scoring exhibition, which treated the crowd to a keen surprise as the Reds took the lead with 5 goals to 2—and a greater surprise as the Laurin line-up reversed the result in the final clash and carried home the bacon to a tune of 6-5. In commending the home team on their spectacular come-back, (thanks largely to some fine scoring by Berniquier) our sympathies are with the visiting Reds. This team, in well-trained tactics and a fine show of team-work, have taken a leading start in two recent league games, leaving their opponents 'way behind. But as these games advanced in both instances the Reds appeared to lose their snap and in the later stages of play took a defeat. The Reds therefore are still at the foot of the league, with no victories to their credit to date. Here's wishing them better luck!

In the first period Brownsburg made a flying start. Following a close try on the visitors' net by Tessier, the rubber took to the Laurin end and E. McGibbon, one of the Reds' stellar forwards, scored a nice goal. The Transport squad bombarded the Brownsburg cage once again, missing several good chances, but driving many sure-fire shots which Prosser turned aside in good style. Joey Berniquier missed an open net—but was probably trying his aim for target shots later in the game. St. Onge next scored for the Burg, followed closely again by E. McGibbon, who brought the visitors' tally to a good lead of three goals as the first clash ended. E. McGibbon, however, was ruled to the penalty box for interfering with his hands, this being the only penalty imposed throughout the game.

Berniquier now countered one-up for the home team, whose spirits began to revive. Girard sent a close drive which almost tallied for the Reds, and Church followed with some splendid saves in goal, as Brownsburg's quick-firing forwards kept him on the jump. The Reds were still skating rings around the home defence, but the Laurin line-up was

Lachute and Brownsburg Best Teams May Meet

A proposition by Mr. St. Onge of Brownsburg, to meet a picked Lachute line-up with the best of Brownsburg's players, promises a choice hockey game when the league schedule is completed. The prize will be $50. However, Mr. Jos. Raymond the local manager, advises there will be no agreement until the definite line-up is submitted.

Ste. Agathe has New Chamber of Commerce

A Chamber of Commerce has been organized among citizens of Ste. Agathe des Monts, for the furtherance of industrial and commercial interests, tourist trade and general welfare in that community.

An intensive membership drive will be inaugurated. A series of special committees will be formed, each committee to undertake studies as to the best means by which more industries will be attracted to Ste. Agathe, commerce intensified the tourist trade increased, and the welfare of the municipality itself generally improved.

Marriage

Todd-Drennan

The marriage of Margaret Ethel, youngest daughter of the late Alex. Drennan and of Mrs. Drennan, to Mr. Henry Emerson Todd, took place on Saturday, Jan. 21st.

The Rev. H. Cousens, B.D., officiated. The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother John, wore a frock of navy blue georgette and lace; she was attended by Miss Thelma Clarke gowned in black georgette and lace. Mr. Peter Todd acted as best man, and the wedding march was played by Miss Marjorie Kettyle, niece of the groom.

A reception was held after the ceremony, the guests from a distance including Mr. and Mrs. Henry Todd, of Burlington, Vt.; and Mr. John B. Fergusson, of Westmount.

At Hawkesbury Court recently, according to Vankleek Hill Review, Adolphe Lariviere was fined two dollars for driving a cutter without lights after dark.

Charity Masquerade Draws A Full House

Lachute Rink Echoes to the Rafters in Rare Spectacle

Subdued groans from behind the managerial desks, and muttered oaths from the lips of tired merchants, clerks and mill-hands, are the penalty today (Wednesday) of Lachute's Charity Hockey performance, in which thirty or forty citizens rallied with enthusiasm last night to make a success of this annual event at the local skating rink. As an exhibition of hockey, the arrangement was a complete flop—but one does not expect brilliant hockey from gentlemen who have, in many cases, discarded the skates as a mere memento of their youthful days. But, for a fine-spirited effort and ready response to a good cause—as well as in the rare amusement they afforded—these men put on a good show.

Skipping briefly over the athletic fine-points of the evening, one may mention there were flashes of quite passable hockey coming mostly from the few younger skaters present on the ice. In certain quarters there was also the spectacle of fast skating, which gave evidence of recent practice, or of an early proficiency not quite forgotten. The technique of the game, if any, passed almost unnoticed. The goalers' posture (notably Dr. Touchette's) was unique—and it is remarkable that any fast-flying pucks could surpass this complete obstacle! But the goals, however, were numerous—one lost count of them. Bill MacKimmie and Wilfrid Jolicoeur, as referees, administered the odd penalty for the sake of appearances, but the masses of humanity piled frequently on the ice were not considered strictly a breach of the evening's ethics.

The teams were supported by

Epidemic of Robberies in Papineauville

During the past week Papineauville has been the happy hunting ground for thieves. The Departmental Store of Belisle Freres was entered from the basement and goods to the amount of $225 were taken.

Some $125 worth of goods were removed from Mr. Duquette's Store.

Mr. G. T. Hews lost a rug valued at $75 from his carriage house.

There are no police or watchmen, and as many store-keepers have residences away from their places of business, robbery is made easy, especially as most residents of the locality retire with the chickens.

Our correspondent suggests that stores and premises containing anything worth while should have the protection of police dogs or huskies, who would deal with the mauranders—even if unable to rouse the victims.

1933 Holidays

Holidays in 1933 occur as follows:—Good Friday, April 14; Easter Monday April 17 (which is only a bank holiday); Victoria Day, Wednesday, May 24; Saturday, June 3, the King's birthday (which is not generally observed in Canada as yet); Saturday, July 1, Dominion Day; Labor Day, Monday, September 4; Remembrance Day, Saturday, November 11; Christmas Day, Monday, December 25. Then there will be Civic Holiday and Thanksgiving Day to be decided later. It will be noted most of the holidays occur either Saturday or Monday this year.

A. Larocque Receives Mayoralty

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY HOLDS ANNUAL MEET

The annual meeting of Argenteuil County Agricultural Society was held Monday afternoon in the Court House, Lachute, and the large attendance was most gratifying in that it shows an ever increasing interest to back up the directorate in their efforts to further increase the popularity of the Lachute Fair. In the absence of President W. H. Ayers, the chair was occupied by Vice-President, J. H. Black, who reported they had received from the provincial departments representative at Quebec a very fine tribute as to the excellent condition of grounds and buildings as well as to the organization and management. Alex. Bothwell, secretary, presented an encouraging financial statement and report, after which a general discussion took place, the members expressing opinions for general improvement.

The following board of directors were then elected for 1933: W. H. Ayers, J. H. Black, J. S. Giles, G. Arnold, C. Tremblay, E. K. Wilson, J. McKenzie, W. G. Rodger, Geo. Mitchell, Geo. White, W. A. Bradley, W. Morrow, W. G. Heatlie, Jas. Murdoch, A. St. Jacques.

Ste. Therese Dispenses With Recorder's Court

The town council of Ste. Therese has abolished its Recorder's Court, in the lack of offenses against municipal by-laws. The Recorder's Court was established five years ago. Business flourished for a time, with the result that the municipality garnered $1,800 of revenue in the five years. Then came an abrupt ending to cases, and for the last year the people of Ste. Therese, or visitors, have either failed to break the by-laws or to commit other minor crimes with which Recorder's Courts are concerned, and the revenue flow ceased abruptly.

In future, anyone committing offenses against the laws will be tried at St. Jerome.

County Pioneer Mourns Passing Friends

Former School-Mates Buried Same Day

In her 89th year, Mrs. Samuel Marlin—daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Beattie and a native of Lakeside—died last week at Sawyerville, Que. Her remains were taken to Winchester, Ont., for interment; and on the same day was laid to rest the body of the late Rev. Joseph Hamilton, at White River Junction, Vermont. Mr. Hamilton, who died at the ripe age of 94, was a cousin to Mrs. Marlin, and was also born near Lakeside. He attended the local Academy and left these parts a quarter of a century ago.

Mr. M. Scott, a familiar figure in Lachute, enjoying health in his 92nd year, recalls his early association with these old-time residents. He himself attended Lakeside school, and the passing of his friends breaks still another link in the chain of recollection. Among his contemporaries, however, Mr. Scott counts Thos. Hodge, of Lakeside, a runner-up, although in point of age he is comparatively young, being 83 years. Mr. Hodge was a former Mayor in his community.

This County cherishes its human landmarks, pays tribute to their experience and insight into changing conditions; moreover, it extends a sympathy in such loss and depletion as Mr. Scott counts this week in his narrowing circle of friends.

Notwithstanding the constant rumors that nominations would bring forth many surprises in contests for civic honors, Returning Officer Germain Filion had a comparatively easy task on his hands, as when the time came to close the nominations, he had but one paper for each candidate for office, and all were declared elected by acclamation.

Mr. Arthur Larocque, who shortly will take office as mayor, is not a stranger to council procedure, for he has served several terms as representative of the East Ward, was constant in attendance and took his duties seriously. Mr. Larocque was present at the nomination proceedings and took occasion to express his thanks to the citizens of the town for the honor they had conferred upon him, and he pledged himself to work assiduously for the greater interest of the town, and solicited the hearty co-operation of the public to help him in this task.

Mr. Jno. A. Rice, who has devoted much valued time and effort in the town's welfare, was again elected for seat No. 3 in the Centre Ward, while Mr. Hector Lamarche was returned for seat No. 2 in the Centre.

Emilien Legault, baker, of Lachute Mills, replaces Mr. Morrison in seat No. 2, and Gregoire Raymond, butcher, replaces Dr. Rodrigue in seat No. 3 for the West Ward.

Omer Laurin, who has served most acceptably for the past two years, was again elected to represent the East Ward.

Other members of the council are Jas. P. MacKimmie, Charles Miller, Jos. Speight and Remi Ledoux.

Miss 'Do' Campbell Nears Provincial Badminton Title

The provincial singles badminton championship almost fell to the honor of Miss Doris Campbell, well known as a former Academy pupil and still a frequent home-comer to this town, when she attained the finals last Saturday, competing with a former title holder in Montreal for the ladies' singles class.

Miss Campbell, who represented the Guards and St. Mathew's Clubs, was in the semi-finals for mixed doubles title on Saturday, and on Friday she also lost out after reaching the semi-finals for ladies' doubles.

Concerning Saturday's contest for singles, the Star comments as follows:

The better tournament temperament of Miss Lorna Mowat, a former provincial singles champion, seemed to be the deciding factor in the women's singles final. There was little difference in the actual quality of Miss Mowat's play and that of her opponent, Miss Doris Campbell, a strong contender with long experience but who had reached the final of this event for the first time. Miss Campbell started off in most auspicious fashion, running out the first game, 11-4. But Miss Mowat, though a game down, was steeper, squared the match 11-5, and, as Miss Campbell appeared to fade thereafter, sped through to victory and the title, 11-2, in the third game.

P. A. Lafleur to Seek Mayoralty of Verdun

Mr. P. A. Lafleur, termed "Dean of the city council of Verdun," has signified his intention to run as a candidate for mayoralty, at the Verdun elections to be held in April. Mr. Lafleur has represented the same ward continuously for ten years. He is conservative M. L. A. for Verdun, and is well known here as "Pete Lafleur," member of a good old pioneer family of Lachute.

For Our Boy Readers

THE CAPTAIN'S WEEKLY LETTER.

HUMILITY

Dear Boys :

Here is a subject that has often-times been misunderstood and I think requires a little explanation.

Let's look up the word 'humility' and find out what it really means. The Comprehensive Standard Dictionary gives the following definition—The Quality of being Humble.....With most of you that explanation will not be popular, because you always associate the humble fellow in your minds with one that is rather weak and not likely to make much stir in the world.

Now this is where you are wrong. The right and only kind of humility is one of the grandest characteristics you can possess. If you take the trouble to read, even a little, concerning the lives of really great men, you will discover for yourselves that in spite of all that they have accomplished, they have remained humble in spirit and true to the highest possible ideals.

This can better be understood when you realize that a great man, one who has been of real service to his Country and to his fellow-men, has no reason to be anything else but humble. There is no need for him to 'boost' himself or tell the world what a wonderful chap he is. On the other hand it is a common thing to see a man who has done but little to justify his existence, trying to force himself into a position that neither his ability nor training entitles him to hold. It is difficult to avoid this sort of person but after all they count for very little in the general scheme of things.

Such conceit may not be numbered among the worst sins but it is surely a very stupid one, because for those that practise it there comes only ridicule from many and silent contempt from others.

I urge upon you the necessity of cultivating that humility of character, which will undoubtedly bring in its train the respect of all with whom you are brought in contact and who know and love you for what you are, rather than (as in the case of those others) for what you pretend to be.

THE CAPTAIN.

THE CAPTAIN'S SERIAL STORY OF ADVENTURE

Special to The Watchman

Chapter 4.

"He thought not of danger but all time of his friend."

—Baker.

The quiet companionship of the two friends was broken by the sudden entry of Jack, the stable boy. His face was covered with black soot and his whole attitude was one of great excitement. Without waiting for permission he broke into speech—

"Masters, the stables are afire and the horses squealing with fright. What can we do when the flames are mounting higher and higher?" And the poor boy wrung his hands in despair.

In a moment the two youngsters had jumped to their feet and Edgar said, "Where is my Father?"

"That I cannot tell, young master," came the hesitating reply, "I have been looking for him everywhere but he cannot be found. It is for that reason I have dared to enter here, for which I crave pardon."

But Edgar, for the moment, gave little attention to the lad's speech, he was thinking quickly as to what was best to be done. The nearest water to the stables was that which formed a wide and deep pond some hundred yards away, and by some means or other this would have to be conveyed to the burning building. Suddenly he turned to his chum : "Walter, as Father has evidently been called away somewhere, we must ourselves do something or the horses will be burnt to death. I have an idea."

He turned swiftly to the still trembling lad. "Go and gather all the men you can find and tell them to get down to the pond; each must have a bucket or other receptacle for carrying water. Hurry now and waste no time."

As soon as the lad had made a hurried exit Edgar and Walter donned their jackets and caps, pulling long leather gauntlets over their hands, and dashed out of the house. A cold wind drove the flying sleet against them, stinging their faces badly; but giving very little heed to such a minor inconvenience, they made the utmost possible speed to where the fire was raging. The noise of the crackling flames was almost drowned by the piteous cries of the tormented and imprisoned animals.

As soon as they reached the pond Edgar took command of the twenty or thirty men who had rapidly gathered there in answer to his urgent summons. Swiftly he told them what they had to do : "The water must be carried, and you must make a line. Place all your buckets at the edge of the pond here and six of you fill them as quickly as you can. You must keep on doing this and pass them right along to each other, and at the other end we will have a party detailed to dash the water as near as possible into the centre of the fire. Also another chain must be made to return the buckets as soon as they are emptied." Very quickly these orders were carried out and as a result a large quantity of water was poured upon the burning building.

Suddenly Edgar noticed that the wind had driven the flames almost clear of one of the stable doors and he made up his mind to attempt a rescue of at least one or two of the horses.

"Walter," he shouted, "come with me, I believe we can get the beasts out if we are quick."

"But it's impossible," protested his chum. "The heat is terrific, you will only suffer awful injury Edgar, even if you are not killed. Besides, in a minute the roof is bound to fall in."

"Don't you see that door?" replied his friend, pointing to a portion of the building almost free from the fire. "It's there I'm making for, and we have a good chance of success if we are quick."

Both boys ran across the intervening space and reached their objective without mishap. It took but a second to lift the

Do dogs understand ? Of course they do !

Tip jumps right on the sled.

Away they go — this happy crowd—

Old Tippy's joyous bark

Mingling with the children's shouts

Until it's almost dark.

Then Tippy is harnessed to the sled,

For fear that he should roam;

With head erect, and tail outspread,

He proudly draws them home.

OLD NANCY'S PUP

Mother Craig had just finished tying Baby John's bib around his wee, dimpled neck, tucking the end of it down inside the top of his tiny blue overalls. Aunt Bess had given them to him for Christmas, and the small tyrant insisted on wearing them every day. When Mother Craig gathered up his small Buster Bear suit with the intention of dressing him in it, there was a wail of protest, a cry of "No ! No ! Obeyalls, obeyalls, muver—pease !" and of course it always ended in the overalls being put on.

He was in such a hurry for his breakfast that he was tapping impatiently on the brim of his porridge plate with his spoon.

The door opened. In raced Billy and Ted, both talking at once : "Oh Mother ! Oh Dad ! old Nancy's got a little puppy !"

"Surely not !" their mother said, just as if it was a tale quite beyond belief.

"Oh yes, she has, Mummie," Ted said, "and she growled at us when we peeked in at her."

Old Nancy had had a great many puppies in her day, but had never been cross before when the children had peeked at them.

"This puppy of Nancy's must be something especially fine," laughed Daddy. "that is, if it is a puppy. Perhaps it is something she has found and carried in to eat."

"No, Daddy, no—" Billy said. "It is yellow and brown and squeals just like this;" here Billy screwed up his face and cried just like a real little puppy.

Baby John puckered up his face and did his best to cry like a puppy too. He did not know what the talk was all about, but always tried to do what his bigger brothers did.

Every person laughed at the funny little mimic, which delighted him so, that he laughed too, and beat such a tattoo on the side of his porridge dish that he sent showers of milk over heavy cross-bar that held the double doors in position and when this was flung to the ground Edgar said, "You stay here, Walter, and catch them as I drive them forth. No doubt they will be mad with fright so be careful, but perhaps it would be better to let the beasts have their heads and go where they will."

Not staying to explain further the boy waved his hand and vanished.

Walter was very much inclined to give a shout of triumph as a moment later a terrified animal, with foaming mouth and bloodshot eyes, dashed out almost blindly into the open air. To be closely followed by two or three others. Edgar certainly was performing his self-imposed task with bravery and skill. At that moment however a huge sheet of flame shot upward and a loud crash told him that his fears as to the roof had been only too well founded. Part of it, fortunately at the further end where the fire was fiercest, had already succumbed, and he realized that it was only a matter of moments before the remainder did likewise.

Feverishly he waited for the return of his chum and then, feeling that he could contain himself no longer, and unmindful of the fact that he might well be trodden under foot by another badly tortured horse, he dashed into the now furiously burning structure.

with her ruffled-up bristles, was standing, snarling and growling fiercely, in the doorway. The hungry dog was going to get her puppy—no, not if she could help it.

Daddy Craig rapped on the window and once more the big black dog slunk out of the gate and down the road. This time he kept trotting until he was out of sight.

"If that big brute come back," said Ted fiercely, doubling up his small fists, "I'll kill him."

Daddy and mother had to laugh. He looked almost as fierce as Nancy herself did, yet all the time they knew that Ted could not even be persuaded to step on a worm and crush it. He was too kind and tender-hearted to harm anything. That is the way all children should be. They should never tease or hurt children smaller than themselves, as so many have a habit of doing; nor should they hurt birds, or insects.

Later in the day, after Ted and Billy had gone to school, and big sister Sue was brushing up crumbs from the dining-room floor, Nancy came trotting in at the kitchen door, which someone had left open, holding her puppy by the back of its neck with her teeth. Finding no one there, she came into the dining-room straight to where Mother Craig was sitting mending socks. There she stood looking pleadingly up into her face as though to say, "My baby is not safe out in the ice-house; won't you please let me keep it in the house?"

Mother Craig found it rather hard to keep from snatching up the small ball of yellow and brown fur—for that is what the puppy looked like—and cuddling it. But the sight of all the stockings and wee trousers lying in her mending basket, almost too badly worn to be mended any more, hardened her heart, so that she pretended not to see Nancy.

Sue, quite angry at the sight of Nancy's wet footmarks on her nicely polished floor, shook the broom at her and said, "Out you go, Nancy, you and your puppy," in a voice that was evidently meant to be obeyed. With one backward, appealing look at Mother Craig, Nancy turned and trotted out again, her tail drooping disconsolately.

—That big word means, that Nancy felt so disappointed, that she was not happy enough to hold her tail up ! Next week, we will hear more about Nancy and her puppy.

Lovingly,

Aunt Jean.

DON'T LET COMMON CONSTIPATION DULL THE JOY OF LIVING

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brings Relief

Constipation takes the sunshine out of your days. It may bring headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness, sallow skins, pimples. If neglected, it can seriously impair health.

Fortunately, you can avoid this condition by eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides two things needed to overcome common constipation: "bulk" and vitamin B. ALL-BRAN is also a rich source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal wastes.

How much better than dosing yourself with patent medicines. Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in chronic cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

LAURIN EXPRESS AND AYERS LIMITED TIE 3-3
IN EXCITING LEAGUE

Ayers Limited re-opened the engagement with only five men on the ice, and in short time Cousineau scored for Laurin. Bidoux Patry took the cue and promptly beat Church for another goal, boosting the west-enders to 2, against 3 for the Transport outfit. As the offensive neared the Ayers goal again, goaler Patry rushed out, and Prevost missed an open net by yards. Mirron and Gagne clicked, and staged some combination work which was a credit to the Mills' performance, and Tessier of Laurin Express incurred the next penalty. Prevost was also ruled to the cooler for using his hands, which averted a likely goal for Ayers. "Bidoux" tripled the penalties this period, serving another session in the ice box.

Cousineau, early in the third clash, was awarded a penalty for tripping Drew, and McFaul was warned for using the hickory contrary to Hoyle. Rousell missed a splendid chance in Ayers open net, and Patry made another nice save from Laurin's quick-firing forwards. W. Drew appeared to be playing a fast game, standing up to his long sessions with splendid endurance. McFaul evened up the score with a fine goal as the period drew its last breath. Prevost and the Patry brothers, however, found time for a private mix-up, as the teams shuffled off with the scores even at 3-3.

In the first five minutes of overtime, the play was fast and exciting. Mirron, of Ayers' defence, was ruled off 2 minutes for heavy body-checking; but neither side could break the tie. The teams changed ends and prospects looked bright for Ayers Limited as they staged a scramble in front of the opponents' net. C. Drew incurred a lay-off, apparently for tripping and a good shot by Berniquier into the Industrials' end missed Patry's net by mere inches. The whistle closed the game, still at 3 goals to 3.

The ice was soft and sticky, on account of mild weather, but a good crowd was present to witness the fixture. Messrs. H. Prevost and J. Belanger were referees and were kept constantly on their toes following the play.

CHARLES JENNINGS ANNOUNCING

To applaud or not to applaud... that is the question... As a listener, you have every right, in your own drawing room, to applaud all you like, because listeners elsewhere do not hear, but is it possible we are giving too much time to the studio hand-clappers?... Frankly, we feel we are in a better position when seated beside our own set, to appraise the efforts of a radio comedian than are the guests in the hall where the broadcast is originating... We have to apply the radio measuring stick, because we cannot see the comedian's face... and sometimes a gag that seems lame to us gets a disconcerting amount of applause back in the studio... One of these times we'll get tired wondering about this and we'll tune out and leave the program flat on its back... but that tide of ardent applause arising from the listeners in Metropolitan Opera House or the audience at the New York Philharmonic-Symphony programs, that is something else again... It is all part of a great show... We approve... we may even join in.

Once get listening to Rabbi Eisendrath... speaker of Sunday afternoon Canadian Forum programs... and there isn't much danger of your tuning out. There IS a voice... sympathetic and searing by turns, resonant, challenging, and creating the press of tons of power in reserve... strange what importance a single voice casts over problems of politics and international finance... clear case of the power of the spoken word... We used to listen to Tony Wons and his homely and patable philosophy... until we saw his picture... He looks very youthful... He should have had his portrait taken in character... with a long white beard.

Did it ever occur to you that this harried old world is fortunate in having radio to soothe and console it? Almost as lucky as the weary monarchs of history who could summon their jesters and minstrels to drive away the royal jitters and willies?... Tomorrow is rent day but tonight is carefree as I sit in my armchair and toy with the dial... My business is in the red tomorrow, but tonight I chuckle at Eddie Cantor... Tomorrow a note comes due, but tonight I relax to Whiteman's minstrelsy... come to think of it, a lot of us, rich and poor, might be nervous wrecks if it were not for the therapy of the radio waves.

We said Whiteman, but we mean Lombardos... the Canadian wandering minstrels. Guy is the leader, Carmen the composer... These boys and many of the band had their first triumphs in Canadian theatres. We remember away back when the Royal Canadians were doing things to orchestra music in London, Ontario... Oh, well, why get too specific,—it's one of the good things we have exported, anyway... And by the way, we don't have to get all our classical music from abroad, either. We have heard the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra... Rumor hath it that Hector Charlesworth waved his magic wand, and British Columbia forthwith began to contribute to the better Canadian chain programs... the more Canadian chain programs the better, in our opinion... We have heard good music from both sides... George Edward Sauve, leader of the Nova Scotia Hotel orchestra in Halifax, whose music charms the Maritimes... and Lafe Cassidy's jazz orchestras in the Banff Springs Hotel and Hotel Vancouver. There are plenty of other good ones.

The Dial of Pleasure programs have really good entertainers and a really good idea-variety. All the programs yet to come will be different from those you have heard... Same idea, in a different way, governs the General Motors Pontiac programs with Colonel Stoopnagle and Budd. These old favorites are heard Thursday evening along with well known soloists, a large vocal ensemble, and a symphonic dance orchestra with 45 musicians... Plenty of opportunity to change the key, so that listeners will not change the station... Jolson is the big star for another G. M. car broadcast. Al is applying the old formula that made him great in the theatre. He is singing request numbers... He says he is going to keep on turning out the old Jolson hits until he has exhausted the list.

evidently spurred to even up the count. A. McGibbon however, set them one back as he fooled Church to a good goal, giving Brownsburg 4 goals, to 1 for the Express. P. Gagne, of the Laurin reserve force, promptly tallied for Lachute; but E. McGibbon, maintaining a splendid offensive game, took a timely pass from K. McGibbon and scored again. Second period closed with Brownsburg at the long end of the score, leading with 5-2.

The final clash brought the crowd to their toes in excitement, as the local Express turned the tables completely, by individual hockey rather than an organized offensive. Prosser made an excellent save in the opening sally, and Brownsburg held the defensive in a smart display of checking. Berniquier however, stepped out, and rifled the rubber into the net for the first of a quadruple scoring which led the local squad back to victory. Brisbois next took charge of the puck and added another tally, bringing the Express up to 4, against an opposing score of 5. With the count registering so closely, and the game drawing toward the final gong, the play became fast and

JIG-SAW PUZZLES

Have you become a victim of the jig-saw puzzle craze yet? It is peculiar the way different fads sweep the country. Each is popular for a time and then killed by its excess of popularity dies out, to be followed in turn by something else. Jig-saw puzzles certainly afford amusement for both old and young. They are all right for those that like them. To me they would be a sentence to hard labour. Real punishment. Occasionally I hover about and watch, but the extent of my help is possibly to pick out some of the straight-sided pieces that form the edge. And I can make mistakes even in picking out a straight edge!

Some of the stores rent jig-saw puzzles after the fashion of lending libraries, at ten cents a day. They certainly provide a cheap evening's amusement—again, for those that like them. One would not expect merchants to make a fortune out of renting them, but it may pay in other ways. I once heard a merchant say that he sold several lines which did not pay enough profit to warrant keeping them, but that they brought people into his store and when they were there they spent money on other articles. Was reminded of this yesterday, because I rented a puzzle and while I was in the stationer's, I purchased a book and a box of stationery, neither of which I had any intention of buying when I entered the store.

DRY SKIN IN WINTER

There are two types of skin—one is inclined to get greasy in the winter because of the large quantity of heavy, greasy foods, such as fat pork and pastry, that are eaten during this season. The other type is more easily affected by the cold winds and becomes dry.

People who are inclined to have objectionable greasy skins should be more careful of their foods and decrease the quantity of fats eaten. Dry skinned people are not apt to be heavy butter eaters and usually require surface skin feeding and oiling. Any kind of suitable oil is a help. There is nothing better than olive-oil for this purpose. Wash with warm water and then rub in the oil, allowing it to remain on over night if possible.

Nervous types are most apt to have dry, rough skins. If the skin on the arms and legs is rough, the following treatment is of special benefit. Rub with olive oil or cold cream and allow it to stay on for a few minutes. Then take a bath and use sufficient soap to have a very heavy lather and rub vigorously with a flesh brush. The combination of quantities of soap and the brush usually relieves the condition. After drying the skin thoroughly, again rub with olive oil or cold cream and leave on overnight. If necessary repeat this treatment several times.

fierce, and excitement drew a chorus of rooting from the boards. Joey finally tied the score with another goal, and the figure stood at 5-5 with only a few minutes to go. The local triumph was ultimately due to another score by Berniquier, whose spectacular solo work was one of the bright spots in the closing scenes of the performance. Organized tactics by the Lachute boys were not notably in evidence through the evening, whereas the visiting team featured a co-operation, which, if backed with greater weight and strength, would certainly have carried the day. The Reds lined up as follows:

CANADIAN MEASURES

One thing, we Canadians have adopted is the American system of cooking measurements. Commercially, we use the Imperial pint, but in cooking we use the American pint which equals two cups. There is such complete interchange of cooking recipes and so on, that another system would lead to confusion. When a pint is used in a recipe, you may be sure that two cups is meant. Because of the danger of any confusion in the terms. I seldom use the word 'pint' in my recipes but translate it into the more familiar 'two cups.' It is a great mistake to use any old cup as a measuring cup. Standard measuring cups are very inexpensive and should be a part of your kitchen equipment.

When you can afford it pays to buy household equipment of good quality, as it pays in the end. You get what you pay for in that, as in most other things you buy. Mine are of very heavy aluminum and have been used for almost nineteen years and there is not even a dent in them. The man of the house bought them for me and I was a bit horrified at the price he paid for them, but they certainly saved us money in the end. I like to use a glass measuring cup for measuring liquids, as it is easy to measure a portion of a cup. The cups that hold more than the standard measuring cup, but have the cup line marked are the best as it is easier to measure a full cup.

SPANISH BUN

1½ cups sugar
¾ cup butter
2 cups flour
1 tablespoon cinnamon
3 teaspoons baking powder
4 eggs
1 cup sweet milk
½ a nutmeg
1 dessert spoon ground cloves

Cream the butter and sugar. Beat the egg yolks and one white together and add this to the butter and sugar, reserving three egg whites for the icing. Add milk alternately with the sifted dry ingredients. Pour into a greased pan and ice with the three egg whites beaten stiff with 1 cup of sugar. Bake in a very moderate oven of about 340 degrees.

PINEAPPLE SALAD

1½ cups canned pineapple
1½ cups chopped celery
½ cup walnuts

Cut the pineapple in pieces. The tid-bits are a good variety to buy as they are reasonable in price because of their irregular shape, and they are already cut in pieces, although I prefer them cut somewhat smaller for this particular purpose. Cut the celery in pieces and chop the walnuts coarsely. Mix with salad dressing thinned with whipped cream and serve on lettuce.

C. Prosser in goal; A. and K. McGibbon defence; Chambers, E. McGibbon, and S. St. Onge forwards. Spares,—O. Girard, C. Golden, V. Racine.

Joe Griffin and his wife had doubts about letting the children go to school that morning. Every sign pointed to a blizzard and sure enough, about two o'clock, it broke. A terrible storm.

Joe was terribly worried and so was his wife. Then he thought of the telephone. He called Jim Stokes, who lives just down the road from the school and asked him to watch for the children.

Twenty minutes later Jim called back. He had the children in his kitchen, safe and warm. "I'm certainly thankful we've got a telephone," Joe said. "We couldn't do without it," his wife agreed.

THE RADIO COMMISSION

Canada's new Radio Commission is getting into harness, in a manner which promises good practical results from a venture which in theory is fine and thoroughly sound. This week, in its first assembly as a fully constituted body, the commission under chairmanship of Hector Charlesworth, has taken steps to prohibit Canadian stations from broadcasting the speeches of Judge Rutherford, a foreign anti-social agitator speaking in the United States. Few will criticize this preventive ruling, against broadcasts of a disturbing and subversive nature.

Two constructive achievements also stand to the credit of the commission, which is still in its infancy. These include a series of weekly symphony concerts, and a similar series of regimental band concerts, both thoroughly Canadian, which are arranged for transcontinental broadcasts at an early date.

Every effort of this kind, to organize a reliable whole-time system of national features, is appreciable to Canadian radio listeners. Such efforts will not only justify the existence of our commission, but will contribute immeasurably to the artistic, temperamental and less tangible aspects of nationhood.

DEPRESSION AND THE FAMILY

Vital statistics in this province for the month of October 1932 showed a falling off in births, marriages, and deaths, as compared with the same month in 1931. Assuming the depression reached its lowest in 1932, hard times may be accountable for the distinct slowing up in registrations.

Reflecting on the effects of saner quieter living brought about by stringent circumstances, one may conclude that moderation is conducive to longevity. So says the lowered death rate. But advocates of the fast life may still argue, these advantages are negated by the decline in marriages and consequent decrease in birth rates. The population remains unchanged.

The influence of depression on the family temperament is equally questionable. Commenting on unemployment, a mental hygiene expert notes that fathers are more frequently at home. The decline in juvenile delinquency today, is taken as an indication that children are benefiting by this paternal interest and influence. But again, it is questionable, whether this improvement outweighs the wear and tear on the family nerves, as father continually imposes himself on the housekeeper's domain.

Depression works both ways, but in the long run we believe it is all to the good.

THE VOICE FROM THE VALLEY

Mr. Mackenzie King's recent speech at Quebec serves to show how far he misjudges the temper of the Canadian people. He attacks the Ottawa Conference agreements without waiting to see what they accomplish. This offends the sense of fair play of our people, and runs counter to the prevailing feeling, which is to give the Ottawa agreements a fair trial.

Mr. King, who was turned out of office in the "Canada First" election because he had been too little zealous for his country's interests and too subservient to her powerful neighbour, now has a change of heart. "Your country is your first obligation," he tells his audience. That is precisely why the Liberal leader finds himself out of power today.

Can anyone who followed the Ottawa negotiations and has studied the agreements, pretend for one second that the interests of Canada were neglected? Mr. Bennett's record is clear. Without deviation he has pursued the course of "Canada First," giving Canadians first chance at the home market, then giving the British and Empire exporters preference over the foreigner. Mr. Mackenzie King's critical brethren, the Cobdenite Liberals of England, are complaining bitterly that Mr. Bennett did not give enough away to the British. This asserts ill with the Canadian Opposition's cry that Mr. Bennett has sold the fort.

Surely the path of an Opposition leader in times of world depression should lie within the field of real issues? Mr. Mackenzie King, having once drawn blood upon trumped-up "constitutional issue," drags the old carcass out of political storage. He would have us believe that in subscribing to the Ottawa agreements Mr. Bennett has signed away Canadian sovereignty and tied poor little Canada to an Imperial chariot wheel. Could anything be more fantastic?

RAILWAY PROBLEM NEEDS COURAGEOUS HANDLING

(From the Orillia Packet-Times.)

The astonishing thing is that the country has not awakened to the necessity of taking the only sensible course possible. There is nothing but talk, talk, talk at the cost of $10,000 an hour, night and day, Sundays and week days. And the bill has to be paid by the people of Canada. The doctors are afraid of this and afraid of that, and experiment with palliatives when what is required is a major operation. Canada had the courage to build the biggest railway transportation system on earth, proportionate to population, when it seemed to be needed for the development of the country. Now that circumstances have altered, the system is proving a heavy burden, what is needed is the courage to face facts, and tear up five thousand miles of unnecessary track. We believe that if the Government were to come out boldly and declare that the country cannot stand keeping up two railway systems any longer, they would gain prestige and support from one end of the country to the other. The Duff report is, we are satisfied based on misinterpretation of public sentiment. All that is needed to right the situation is bold leadership. If the farmers' organizations want to do the country a real service they can demand that Parliament no longer trifle with the railway situation. Such a lead will do more to right financial conditions in Canada than a dozen Russian deals. Canada can't consistently scoff at the stubborn manner in which the United States clings to the war debts in the face of the inevitable and to her own hurt, while this Dominion hangs on desperately to two railway systems, when it is plain that she needs only one, and that to try to carry on the National Railways means risking national bankruptcy. It may hurt our pride to give up the publicly owned railways; but it will be good for the country's pocket-book and in every other way.

Can we regard the railway question impersonally; and, because the figures of the country's railway losses are so large as to be almost astronomical, can we afford to be indifferent when, based upon the average for the past three years, we lose $162.00 every minute of time? Canada has a population of about ten million people. It has approximately 42,000 miles of railway or 236 people per mile of railway. In other words it has fewer people per mile of railway than any other civilized country. It has several thousands of miles paralleled by other miles, serving the same territory and reaching the same terminals. This constitutes our greatest individual item of waste. Why should we maintain something we do not require and maintain it at tremendous loss, and can we afford to do so? —E. W. Beatty on "Canada's Railway Problem and its Solution."

CONSOLIDATE RAILWAYS BEATTY URGES

Canadian Pacific President Outlining Railway Policy Says it Would Relieve Taxpayers of Intolerable Burden

"In my opinion we must not only limit our capital expenditure to those that are essential or that will produce a reasonable return in the near future, but we must reduce our present mileage to accord with the actual needs of transportation and of national development, and we must at the same time eliminate all expenditure designed to secure traffic for a competing railway rather than provide a necessary service for the public. These results can, in the view I take, only be attained if we consolidate our two railways into one system with one management."

"The conclusion appears inescapable that a means must be provided for making the necessary economies without prejudicing the public interest, and the control and management should be accompanied by a proper measure of responsibility on some agreed basis either by the Government to the Canadian Pacific and its shareholders, or by the Canadian Pacific to the Government in relief of its railway burden. By no other means can we secure a sound business administration for our railway undertakings and relief to the taxpayers of Canada."

In these words E. W. Beatty, K.C., Chairman and President, Canadian Pacific Railway, speaking before the Toronto Canadian Club recently, summed up his considered judgment of the only possible solution to Canada's emergent railway problem.

Mr. Beatty, in leading to his conclusion, declared that the railway problem is now more gravely vital to Canada's future than at any other time, "and," he said, "once again I am afraid the yardstick of political expediency is being hauled out to test the rightness or wrongness of suggestions designed to relieve Canadians of what has become an intolerable burden." The tragic humor of stubbornly adhering to former policies, and of accepting advice from those who have consistently erred in matters of railway policy since Confederation, was but another indication of how slowly political expediency, assumed or real, died.

Mr. Beatty showed that these policies ran the gamut from early and unrelenting opposition to the construction of the Canadian Pacific, to enthusiastic support of unrestrained competition from Government Railways, and the construction and maintenance of duplicate and even triplicate facilities.

Two previous efforts had been made to forestall the debt and tax situation arising out of the present railway situation. In 1921 Lord Shaughnessy, then President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, established his breadth of view and his vision, by recommending that the outside enterprises of the Canadian Pacific should be separated from its railway and ancillary enterprises, and that the Government should acquire the railway properties of the Company, guarantee a certain fixed return to its shareholders, and, having acquired the G.T.P., Transcontinental, Canadian Northern, and Intercolonial Railways, should enter into a contract with the Canadian Pacific to administer and operate the property on account of the people of Canada. At that time Lord Shaughnessy pointed to the dangers of the public ownership and political management.

If Lord Shaughnessy's plan had been accepted, many hundreds of millions of dollars would have been saved to Canada.

In 1925 the Senate of Canada made a very thorough investigation of the Railway situation, and after a most comprehensive report, strongly recommended the merging of the two railway systems for operation and administration by the Canadian Pacific Railway. "May I suggest to you again," Mr. Beatty emphasized, "that if the Senate's report had been acted upon, several hundred million dollars would have been saved to this country."

In dealing with the report of the Duff Commission, Mr. Beatty said that "the conclusion is inescapable; that the Commission's recommendations were, in part at least, based upon their own estimate of Canadian public sentiment towards the important question of public ownership, competition, and of railway monopoly."

This was unfortunate, and he suggested that if the assumed political expediency of any plan was to be the test of its adoption, the creation of a Royal Commission would not have been necessary. The work of the Commission was important, but it did not provide any adequate solution, or ground for much hope to the sadly burdened Canadian taxpayers. The Commission's chief recommendation was the continuance of competition, qualified by co-operation, and enforceable by compulsory arbitration. The Canadian Pacific was willing to co-operate, but was not willing to rest its future in the hands of an arbitrary tribunal, on which it would only have a minority representation, and which could not be responsible for the financial consequences of its decisions. The Canadian Pacific insofar as rates were concerned was regulated by the Board of Railway Commissioners, and it could not in justice to its security holders agree to any legislation which would take from them the right to protect their investment. "We regard this," he said, "as a species of confiscation which no Government can justify, and which nothing in the company's history warrants."

A private company could not successfully compete with an enterprise backed by the long purse of the State, Mr. Beatty contended, indicating the waste and loss involved in railway competition between the Government of Canada and the Canadian Pacific, as proof of his assertion. It was also impossible to have competition and co-operation. "Why delude ourselves into the belief that we are supermen?" he asked.

The report of the Railway Commission showed that the losses on the Canadian National Railways during the ten year period 1923-1932, aggregated approximately $549,576,000, equivalent to $232,944 per day. Federal income taxes from individuals during the last ten fiscal years amounted to $249,274,000 and from corporations $341,164,000, a total of $590,438,000, or only $48,862,000, more than the deficits on the Canadian National Railways.

"Can we afford," Mr. Beatty asked, "to view such a situation with equanimity, or can we reasonably and definitely ask for some relief? Can we regard the question impersonally, and, because the figures of the country's railway losses are so large as to be almost astronomical, can we afford to be indifferent when, based upon the average for the past three years, we lose $162.00 every minute of time?"

The only way to increase gross revenues would be through increasing rates, and based on 1931 results, it would require a freight rate increase of 63% to make up the losses of the Government system of that year. It would require a cut in operating expenses of almost one half to make up the 1931 deficit, or a wage reduction of 74% to accomplish the same purpose. There were obvious limits to increasing taxation. In 1931 it would have required a 34% increase in tax receipts to balance the Government Railway accounts, and continued borrowings could only spell ultimate disaster.

Two main objections were urged by those opposed to amalgamating the railways. First, that such an amalgamation would constitute a virtual monopoly, and secondly, that it would be unfair to employees in that it would mean a reduction of personnel. Neither of these objections were well founded. In the first instance, a strengthened Board of Railway Commissioners on the one hand, and water and motor competition on the other, would form sufficient restraint. From natural causes, in the event vacancies were not filled, the personnel of the Canadian Railways would be reduced in five years from 25% to 30% and it would not be possible to administer the unified properties with a staff of below 75 or 70% of normal.

In conclusion, Mr. Beatty paid tribute to Canadian public men; cited the serious note of warning included in the Report of the Duff Commission, and said "we have created or inherited a system which is unscientific, unwieldy, unnecessary, and insupportable by our ten million people. We cannot afford it even in normal times, so why not make it as right as it is possible to make it, and why not do it now?"

devil, but no-one got mad about it. Henry St. Onge was notable as a dude—or maybe his intention was to pass as the village undertaker. Stuart Campbell appeared rather undignified in pink, as a fugitive from a chain gang, the first blush of spring, or something equally lyrical; but undoubtedly the most successful costumes were those which embodied the Potvin-Bourgeault element of our Provincial Roads Department. Appearing as cannibal princes or the gold dust twins, these gentlemen looked really magnificent; the gold rings in their ears and their noses, were a source of appeal to feminine on-lookers, but it became evident these adornments were an impediment to their hockey performance. Mr. Jos. Belanger made a first-rate sultan of the hickory blade; M. Navion was the bell boy; and there were numerous other costumes, which space does not permit us to enumerate. Among those who also participated were Messrs. Roch Larocque, J. F. Campeau, Paul Lafleur, Daniel (of Montebello), Poitras, Omer Lafortune, Master Dumais, as a Page, and Messrs. Jos., Wilfrid and Gregoire Raymond—this Raymond contingent staging probably the fastest skating in the game. And between the acts the audience was amused by the antics of Mr. Brisson, of 8-barrel fame. (If any participants have been omitted, the reporter claims their kind indulgence).

The firm of Ayers Limited gave appreciable support to this charity enterprise by donating a beautiful blanket, which was raffled, and won by Mr. Richard with ticket No. 305. The entire proceeds of the event amounted to upwards of $160, to be devoted to the deserving poor of this community.

The Watchman voices general appreciation of Lachute and citizenry, to the proprietor of the rink; to those who sponsored this annual Masquerade, and to all who participated or contributed to its success. The details of its organizing—and today, the subsequent aches and pains of taxed muscles—represent a sacrifice for which the community is indebted.

LITERARY AND DRAMATIC SOCIETY DISBANDED

A general meeting of the Lachute Literary and Dramatic Society was held in the High School Tuesday evening. The meeting was called to consider the question of whether this society should continue in operation or disband.

It was generally felt that there were so many other dramatic groups active now that this part of the society's work was covered, and that the meetings of the Literary section were not well enough attended to warrant carrying on that work. After considerable discussion the members decided to disband.

The money in the treasury, after all bills were paid amounted approximately to One hundred and thirty-five dollars. Fifty dollars of this was voted to the Lachute Red Cross. Forty-five dollars were invested in an up-to-date encyclopedia for the Lachute High School, and the balance was donated to the High School to be used in purchasing equipment for the Teachers' Room.

The progress of Winter to date has brought many unexpected twists and turns in the elements. Sunday's weather, however, including heavy rainfall and a mid-winter thunder storm, was the strangest variety of weather experienced so far this season.

Due to the impassable condition of sidewalks and roadways on Sunday evening last, many persons were unable to attend the service in Lachute Baptist Church—to hear Rev. F. W. Dyson in the first of a new series of sermons on special subjects, as announced by handbills, and, in order that it may be made possible, for all who so desire, to hear the entire series, it was decided to postpone the first subject until next Sunday evening, January 29th. The dates and subjects will, therefore, be as follows:—January 29th., "Do the Scriptures teach that, eventually, every person shall be saved?"; February 5th., "What do the Scriptures teach concerning the salvation of children?"; February 12th., "Do the Scriptures teach that 'Once Saved—always saved'"; February 19th., "What does the Bible say about itself—is it the Word of God?"

CURLING

Curling still proceeds with enthusiasm between spells of soft weather. The Houston Challenge Cup was played for on Saturday evening. J. W. Gall winning by a narrow margin in a score of 8 to 7 with his team R. McArthur, W. J. Deacon and W. K. McArthur against John MacKimmie, Geo. Calder, S. S. Campbell and Geo. Muir.

Keen competition was also shown in the finals of the Stackhouse Cup. After playing 16 ends the score stood 144 all necessitating an extra end which was won by Mr. J. W. Gall on a single stone, the red being a very close 2nd. The teams were as follows:

|------------------|--------------|
| J. W. Gall       | R. Charron   |
| J. MacKimmie Jr. | R. A. Giles  |
| J. Falconer      | W. J. Deacon |
| D. J. Bates      | A. Aitkin    |

Ladies' Curling

On Wednesday afternoon last the final game was played for the President's prize. The teams were as follows:

|                |                 |
|----------------|-----------------|
| Mrs. G. Deacon | Mrs. Haller     |
| Mrs. H. McFaul | Miss McQuat     |
| Miss Walker    | Mrs. Anderson   |
| Mrs. J. Gall   | Mrs. Cottingham |
| Skip—11        | Skip—14         |

After the game tea was served.

WAR DEBTS—A SANE PERSPECTIVE FROM THE U. S.

"Make Selfishness Pay"
(in Collier's Weekly, Jan. 1933)

Get the facts straight about the war debts and we won't have much trouble finding the right answer.

Both political parties in their platforms demanded payment and opposed cancellation. To agree to cancellation or even reduction would be unpopular. This is the fact with which both Congress and the President must deal.

Another fact is that our own self-interest is going to determine our policy. Self-interest not humanitarianism, generosity or anything else, is going to rule. Self-interest, however, can be enlightened and intelligent.

We loaned the Allies about ten billion dollars to pay for food, munitions, clothing and other things connected with the World War.

All of our creditors except Russia and Armenia have signed agreements to pay.

Between 1923 and 1926, through a reduction of interest rates, debts owed us were in effect reduced by about 51 per cent.

Payments were suspended June 30, 1931, by the Hoover moratorium. The first deferred payments came due December 15th. last.

Of all our creditors the British owe the largest sum. The December 15th. payment was scheduled at $95,500,000. The total due from Great Britain was $3,788,500,000.

Her payments were to be made during sixty-two years in annual installments ranging from $159,940,000 to $187,350,000.

The British and other nations borrowed commodities, not gold. Wheat and cotton, munitions and manufactured products were shipped abroad.

The debt agreements call specially for payment "in United States gold coin of the present standard of weight and fineness or its equivalent in gold bullion" or in United States bonds.

The world supply of gold at the end of last October amounted to $11,696,000,000. Of this the United States held $3,818,000,000.

Obviously, therefore, the amount of gold outside the United States, $7,878,000,000, is less than the sum of the war debts owed us.

If we demanded and got all the gold in the world the war debts would still be unpaid.

The British government had a total of $678,000,000 in gold at the end of September. If we took all the British gold our debt would be paid less than twenty cents on the dollar.

Obviously payment cannot and will not be made in gold. The necessary gold supply does not exist.

The only possible way by which payments could be made is through imports of commodities and services.

We don't want any nation to return to us wheat, cotton, munitions or any of the other commodities we loaned them. We erected tariff barriers, very high tariff barriers, for the precise purpose of keeping foreign goods out of the United States.

So the situation comes down to this: The debts can't be paid in gold. We won't accept payment in goods. Still we insist that payment must be made.

Plainly we are in a blind alley. Politically we insist upon a policy which practically is impossible of fulfillment.

It is easy to understand the politicians' difficulty. The debts owed us are represented by United States bonds. The bonds must be redeemed by taxes. If foreigners don't pay, Americans must. There is the rub.

But foreigners can't pay with anything we are willing to accept. Consequently the bare fact is that the greater part of the debts won't be paid. Annoying, but simple arithmetic.

What course, then, does our self-interest suggest in these circumstances? Shall we force our debtors to scrape the bottom of the cash box and give us all they have?

They might default, but assuming that they were willing to strip themselves clean of gold would it profit us to take the last ounce?

Certainly not. The less gold a nation has the less valuable its currency becomes and the more disturbing it is to the well-being of other nations.

Have you thought about the recent great expansion in exports from Japan not only to the United States but elsewhere?

The explanation is very simple: The Japanese yen is ordinarily worth 50 cents. Lately it went below 20 cents. With the yen at 20 cents tariffs were not high enough to restrict Japanese imports.

Take the gold reserve vitally needed by Great Britain and at once the pound will drop in value. Directly and indirectly every class of Americans will be hit.

A hundred years ago Great Britain financed the wars against Napoleon. The Napoleonic war loans were largely written off because the British decided it was more profitable to forgive the debts than to accept payment.

We shall serve ourselves best if with all possible expedition we negotiate new agreements in tune with these times.

The President and the Congress who have the courage to put national interest above political fears will deserve well of this republic. In the long run we tend to get what we deserve.

"LOVE" TOPIC OF CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LESSON-SERMON

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in all Christian Science services, Sunday, January 29, is "LOVE."

Golden Text: I John 4: 7. "Beloved let us love one another; for love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God."

The Scriptural selections comprised in the Lesson-Sermon include the following: "For this cause I bow my knees unto the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ... that ye... being rooted and grounded in love, may... know the love of"

People who are bothered with too many salesmen at their doors might be inclined to consider an invention now being used in Holland. It is one of those pay-as-you-ring affairs attached to the door bell. A coin must be inserted before the bell will ring. The more callers there are in the course of the day, the greater the revenue from the door bell.

Christ that passeth knowledge, that ye might be filled with the fullness of God." (Ephesians 3: 14, 17, 18).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following citations from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "God is Love." "Love, the divine Principle, is the Father and Mother of the universe, including man." "The great fact that God lovingly governs all, never punishing aught but sin, is your standpoint from which to advance and destroy the human fear of sickness." "The power of Christian Science and divine Love is omnipotent." (Pages 302, 256 412.)

CHILDREN HOLD SUCCESSFUL SERVICE IN BROWNSBURG

On Sunday last, Jan. 22nd., the Sunbeam Mission Band held their anniversary service in the United Church at 7 o'clock, and despite the treacherous condition of the village streets there was a fairly large congregation assembled to hear the children under the direction of Mrs. Thompson, put on a service entirely their own.

There were three very pretty choruses rendered, in addition to one in which only older girls participated, and these were given with real spirit, being sung in harmony, and with quite good appreciation of the time and spiritual valuation. A feature of the three group choruses was the solo verses, taken mostly by the smaller children, the kiddies, their sweet little voices being heard quite distinctly in words and melody, and adding greatly to the effectiveness of the selections.

A candle drill, entitled "The Torch Bearers" was put on by sixteen girls of the group, in which most of the children were the smaller ones, with a fair showing of tots, each child representing a country with the Light of the Bible over all, whose candle was the only lighted one, giving light first of all to Canada, who passed on the torch to India, and so on down the line, till all countries were lit by the beam of the Gospel.

This little drama was put on very attractively, even the little tots playing their parts, lighting the candles carefully and with due regard to the meaning of the words. The scene presented in a darkened church, with candles being one by one lit by another; young voices speaking clearly, often very softly, the words of the verses, each ending "I bring you my little light," was a presentation which few will soon forget. And it taught a lesson, impressively and quietly, that will long remain.

The Pantomime, "O Little Town of Bethlehem," given by three young girls, was very pretty, and well executed; in excellent time to the words and with real sympathy and interpretation.

Reports were given by the past year's officers, Jane Hardie, President; Silvia Lupien, Sec'y; Laura Stewart, Treas.; closing with the newly elected President's message, (Blanche Ardill) all being given clearly and with real effectiveness and grace.

The entire service showed excellent and careful training on the part of Mrs. Thompson, and from the opening words of welcome by the past president, Jane Hardie, to a very fitting close by congregational singing, the entire service was a pleasure to listen to. The treasurer reported $26.00 as having been raised during the year, and $19. sent to Mrs. Antcliff. The offering for the evening was $8.55 and this was generously given by the trustees to the Mission Band for their work. All told it was a most successful anniversary.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS IN MORIN HEIGHTS

CORRESPONDENCE

Morin Heights, Que.

The Editor, Watchman,
Dear Sir:—

In your last week's Edition of The Watchman I notice a report of the Municipal Elections held on the 16th. January last.

Evidently your correspondent has sent you a report which tends to take away the credit due to Councillor Baume, who received the largest amount of votes cast in this Election.

I might say also that this election brought out the largest number of voters ever known in a Municipal Election here, and Councillor Baume also polled the largest amount of votes ever polled by any Councillor, as well as receiving the largest majority ever given to any Councillor in our Municipality. The result was: Baume 94; Boyd 54; Guinette 53.

There is no doubt that Councillor Baume received his nice majority through the fact that during his several years as a Councillor he has shown a lot of devotion and has taken the public's interest, and the electorate has shown their appreciation, giving him a substantial majority, and also defeating two of the old Councillors, viz: Doherty and Stepleton.

The official results were as follows: Baume 94; Boyd 54; Guinette 53; Stepleton 43; Doherty 32; Watson 27; McCulloch 21; Hamilton 15.

Yours truly,

"Justice"

SHAWVILLE HIGH SCHOOL LOST TO LACHUTE HIGH 10-1.

On Friday evening last an eager and expectant crowd, and an equally anxious hockey team from Lachute High School, awaited the arrival of the Shawville High School team. Upon the late arrival of the guests, at 9.30, the stage was quickly set and the game got under way.

A decisive 10-1 defeat was handed out to the visitors. This was Lachute's first encounter with Shawville, but it is hoped that it will not be the last, by any means. And although the final score may be misleading, to the actual onlookers this was no mere walk-away for Lachute.

The first period showed keen sportsmanship throughout. Our Lachute boys generally had the edge on their opponents and were able to pierce their defence and to tally four times. Two of these scores were by W. Drew, one by Cyril Drew and one by Campbell.

In the second period, Shawville pressed harder to recover their loss, but the only result was that the local team widened the margin. Five goals in all were counted by Lachute, the honours going to Winston Drew who scored two, Canning, George Martin and Campbell.

Full of confidence the Lachute team stepped onto the ice for the final act. Perhaps some had visions of four or five more counters. However, Drew succeeded in ramming in the last goal for the home team. In the eager hope that they would not be entirely white-washed, Shawville waged heavily into the fray, firing shot after shot at Langille. Finally they were successful in the very last stages, and when the final whistle blew the score stood 10-1.

The chief high-light of the game was Langille, the local goaler. His play, especially in the last period, was almost sensational, as he made several miraculous saves. The forward line of W. Drew, C. Drew and Canning, played well. Equally good was the Campbell - Martin - Milnes line. Both put on a good show of team-work. Playing in their usual good form on the defence were Erwin Martin and McFaul. Campbell was back in his old form again, living up to his reputation as "the bad man of the team" in exacting the first penalty.

JESUS CHOOSES THE TWELVE

Mark 3:7-35.

GOLDEN TEXT—Ye have not chosen me, but I have chosen you, and ordained you, that ye should go and bring forth fruit, and that your fruit should remain: that whatsoever ye shall ask of the Father in my name, he may give it you. John 15:16.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Choosing Special Helpers.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Taken Into Partnership.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Our Call to Friendship and Service.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Discipleship and Its Meaning.

I. The Divine Servant Ministering by the Sea (vv. 7-12).

1. Why he withdrew (v. 6). It was because of the murderous plotting of the Pharisees against his life. Their opposition began when Jesus claimed to have power on earth to forgive sins (2:10); grew in intensity when he mingled with publicans and sinners (2:16); was fanned into a violent flame when he set at naught their false interpretations of the Sabbath law (2:23-28).

2. To whom he ministered (vv. 7, 8). It was to a great multitude representing a wide stretch of territory.

3. The results (vv. 9-12).

a. The disciples prepared a small ship (v. 9). So great was the pressure of the thronging multitudes that he commanded the disciples to provide the ship so that he might be saved from them.

b. Unclean spirits fell down before him (vv. 11, 12). They not only bowed before him, but confessed him as the very Son of God. This testimony he refused, doubtless for two reasons: (1) The time was not ripe to proclaim him publicly as the Son of God. (2) They were not the beings to make him known. Jesus consistently refused the testimony of those who were not in moral accord with him.

II. The Divine Servant Calling Associates (vv. 13-19).

In this way he made provision for the carrying forward of his work after he was gone. Before choosing the twelve he spent a whole night in prayer (v. 13). (cf. Luke 6:12). From among his disciples he chose twelve whom he ordained for a twofold purpose:

1. "That they might be with him" (v. 14). Fellowship with the Lord is not only the highest privilege of the disciples, but it is an indispensable qualification for witnessing. It is needful to be with him to catch his spirit.

2. "That he might send them forth to preach" (v. 14). To proclaim the good news of salvation was the supreme mission of the disciples. Concerning those who were to be the messengers of Jesus Christ, note:

a. Twelve were ordained (v. 14). This was the beginning of the process by which the Triune God was to manifest his grace to the whole world. The number twelve is the product of the heavenly three and the earthly four, thus indicating the purpose of the Triune God to reveal himself unto the four quarters of the earth.

b. Their characteristics (vv. 17-19). (1) They were from the middle ranks of society, the common walks of life.

(2) Men of average ability. Christ did not go to the schools for his apostles and yet he chose men of mental grasp and efficiency.

(3) Men of diverse temperaments. The grouping of the apostles shows men of impulse and leadership of the reflective and inquisitive type and men of practical business ability.

III. The Servant's Increasing Difficulties (vv. 20-35).

1. The suspicion of his friends (v. 20, 21). The needy people pressed upon him so that he had no time to eat. When his friends saw his neglecting him up, they suspected that he was losing his mind.

2. The violent opposition (v. 22-30). Added to the embarrassment of the suspicion of his friends, the Lord now had to face the sneers of the scribes.

3. Visited by his mother and brothers (vv. 31-35). We are left to conjecture as to the motive to this visit. Perhaps they likewise suspected his mental balance. It may be that the desired to take him home and nurse him back to normalcy.

Be Still Then

When you go alone in the quiet time and place with the Book, quietly pray "Blessed Prayer-Spirit, Master-Spirit, teach me how to pray"; and he will do not be nervous or agitated, wondering if you will understand. Study to be quiet—mind-quiet, body-quiet. Remember Luther's version of David's words: "Be silent to God and let him mold thee."—Dr. S. D. Gordon.

God Behind Nature

No man can stand in the tropic forests without feeling that they are temples filled with the various productions of the God of nature, and that there is more in man than the breath of his body.—Darwin.

Scepticism

They that deny a God destroy man's nobility; for certainly man is of kin to the beasts by his body; and if he be not of kin to God by his spirit, he is an ignoble creature.—Bacon.

Tourist Trade is Major Industry

The tourist trade has grown to be one of Canada's major industries. Strange as it may seem, of the Dominion's exportable commodities, only wheat and paper rank with it in importance; and wheat, which until 1930 stood first, was, in 1931, less than half the value of the tourist trade. Thus, the "invisible" export represented by the tourist trade is a favourable balance that helps to maintain health in Canada's outside relations. Although considerably down from the level of 1929, the tourist trade has been relatively less affected than most industries by the world economic disturbance.

Apart from the direct benefits of money spent, tourist travel has many important if less tangible results. Demand for Canadian products is stimulated, even after the tourists have returned home. The wider knowledge of Canada's resources must inevitably result in a greater flow of capital to such a field for investment as that provided by their development. And, in general, the interchange of ideas, opinions and customs leads to a richer intellectual and social life for all concerned. The mutual understanding that results from such contacts provides an invaluable source of international goodwill.

Tourist travel has become a great, almost an unique industry; perhaps no single phenomenon better reflects the new standard of living in the twentieth century than the extent to which people now enjoy the educational and recreational values of travel. Canada offers to the visiting tourist a wealth of attractions possessed by few countries. There is the scenic beauty of the Maritimes, the old French charm of Quebec, the world-famed Niagara and the grandeur of the Rocky Mountains; while, in all the provinces, countless lakes, rivers and forests provide unrivalled facilities for fishing, hunting and both summer and winter sports. Modern cities, too, compete in their appeal with the wild regions of healthful Nature, and, from primitive camp to palatial hotel the tourist may take his choice.

C.P.R. Colonization Bulletin.

Current Notes of Municipal Interest

Out of London's 8,000,000 inhabitants, only about 80 are homeless and without shelter on an average night.

Tax Church Bells, Idea in Spain.

New revenue sources were sought by the City Council of Caceres, Spain, recently. Someone suggested they issue licenses for the ringing of church bells. Each church would pay $8 a year and each chapel 80 cents. Bells a mile and a quarter from the city would ring tax free.

Trouble with Glasgow Jobless.

Disturbances developed as several thousand persons marched through Glasgow recently in an unemployment demonstration. Five policemen were injured, two of them seriously. The demonstrators started their march after seven Labor members of the City Council had been suspended as the result of a dispute over whether to receive a deputation from the jobless.

Brantford Returns to Tram Service.

Having rejected motor buses with their trail of partially-burned gasoline, Brantford has returned to the rumble and clatter of the street cars, which resumed their old-time routes after two months of inactivity while bus services were tried under private auspices.

International Boundary Survey.

Almost every known method of survey has been made use of in the work of surveying the International Boundary between Canada and the United States. In its length of 5,500 miles the boundary passes through country greatly varying in nature—through arms of the sea, through the Great Lakes through rivers, lakes, and forests, and over plains, snowfields, glaciers, and mountains.

Accident Map Aids Traffic Regulation

By Chief T. W. Logan,
Police Department, Two Rivers, Wis.

One of the most important functions of the police department is the regulation of traffic. This regulation does not consist only in the enforcement of the traffic laws, but it calls for the supervision of traffic to such an extent as to promote safety both for the pedestrian and the automobile driver. Fatal and minor traffic accidents will occur, however, regardless of the high efficiency of the police department in that respect.

In order to curb the traffic accidents it is absolutely necessary for the police department to know, and also to have a record of the various accidents together with their location and causes. This information is gathered from the accident report cards which are made out, following each accident.

On one such occasion the report was that the speed along a certain street was the cause of a large proportion of the smash-ups. Motorcycle men were given an extra detail, to slow down the speed along this particular street, with the result that the pins did not appear as frequently as before.

On another occasion, traffic accident pins began to appear at a comparatively safe corner. An investigation which followed showed that a new building was being erected at that corner, and that the building material was placed in such a position as to be an obstruction to the vision of the automobile drivers. The obstruction was removed with satisfactory results.

A wild, untrimmed shrubbery at a certain intersection brought about another spasm of accidents in another quiet section of the city. The cause of the accidents was immediately called to the attention of the property owner and he very readily trimmed the shrubbery to a safe height.

In addition to the pin map, another accident chart is kept which reveals some very interesting information. This other chart is a "Day of the Week" tabulation showing on which day of the week and at what time of each day accidents occur. This record has been kept since January 1, 1930.

Up to date I find that the largest number of accidents occur on Sundays and the least on Tuesdays, the percentage of accidents being 21% and 9% respectively. The chart further reveals that the hour of between 3 and 4 P. M. on Sundays has the most accidents, that is 19% of the Sunday accidents occur at that time. The most dangerous hour, however, is the hour between Noon and 1 P. M. on Fridays, when 22% of the Friday accidents occur. The "Safe" hours are between 4 a.m. and 6 a. m., no accident having been reported during the past two years during those hours.

—The Municipality.

Billboards may be Screened from View.

The right of public authorities to shut out billboards from the public view by erecting screens along a highway was upheld by the highest New York court in July 1932, in the case Perlmutter v. Greene, 259 N. Y. 327. The court held that from new conditions of travel new rights and obligations arise and that no contract exists between the state and the owner whereby the latter may forever use his property to erect billboards anywhere along the highway.

Manchester (Eng.) Producing Motor Fuels from Coal Gas.

City authorities of Manchester have decided to finance the process for the extraction from illuminating gas of a motor fuel suitable for driving omnibuses. The fuel is described as benzol from which kerosene has not been separated.

It has already been successfully produced on a small scale in one of the city's gas works. The city now intends to erect a plant to produce 3,400,000 gallons a year.

According to B. L. Holton, chief gas engineer, the present price of imported motor fuel makes the production of the gas product possible at a substantial profit at an ordinary gas works.

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

A Gilwellan Town Manager
Town Manager Lee Gilchrist, of Cardston, Alta., was formerly District Commissioner of the local Scout association, and attended the 1924 Gilwell course under Rodney Wood.

Scout Hands Across the Seas

The handsomely made head-dress of a Cree Indian Chief has just been sent by Edmonton, Alta., Rover Scouts to the Rover Scouts of Edmonton, England. A number of Canadian Scouting units have established similar contacts with Scout units in towns and cities of similar names in the Old Land.

Did Santa Laugh at This One?

Numerous letters to Santa Claus were this season addressed to Boy Scout toy repair shops. Many were written in touching terms from families in dire need. One to Regina struck the humorous note. It began: "Dear Satan."

Another Scoutmaster Bishop

The first bishop of the new Anglican diocese of Northern Saskatchewan, Bishop W. Burd, adds another trained Boy Scout leader to the roll of prominent churchmen. The Rt. Rev. Jno. Lyons, Bishop of Ontario, was for some years an active Scoutmaster at Belleville, Ont.

Of the 4,046,512 pounds of canned pineapple consumed in Canada between April 1 and November 30, 1932, all but 158,583 lbs. came from countries within the Empire, nearly half the total being from the Straits Settlements.

Illiteracy in Canada is near the vanishing point. According to the last census in 1931, 92.34 per cent. of the population of Canada over five years of age could either read or write. Students enrolled in Canadian schools in 1931 numbered 2,542,747.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company's tax bill for the year was almost six million dollars, bringing its total contribution to Canada's tax collections since incorporation to about $116,000,000.—E. W. Beatty, K.C., Chairman and President, Canadian Pacific Railway, in his review of 1932.

Scouts Help Indian Caste Problem

The important possibilities of Scouting for India were again reflected at a Hindu Scout conference in the Punjab. President Shri Ram Bajpai, referring to the 4th. Scout Law—"A Scout is a friend to all and a brother to every other Scout"—declared its chief application for them was the uplift of the Untouchables. Hindu Scouts have for some years been working and mixing with low caste boys, ignoring previous rigid rules.

WHEN THE ICE BREAKS

Spring is a timely season to disseminate facts which may avert possible fatalities from accidents on the ice. As the ice grows thin and unsafe, there are still a few venturesome beings who will walk or drive across it and youngsters who will continue to skate and slide in dangerous places.

In such eventualities (says a magazine article) self-rescue is entirely possible in a majority of cases, but is often defeated by unreasoning panic on the part of the victim.

Upon immersion the victim should extend both arms on the surface of the ice to support the body while calling for help. The victim's legs naturally tend to come up forward under the ice. This should be prevented by executing a crawl kick.

The weight of the lower part of the body will be supported by the water instead of the ice, thus enabling the victim to get support from ice otherwise too thin to hold him up.

The victim should not attempt to climb straight up out of the hole. His weight is likely to break the edge of the ice. After crawling out or pulling himself out on his belly, even if the ice, apparently, is holding well, he should not attempt to kneel or stand until well away from the hole. Thin or bad ice will often support weight when disturbed over a large area, as in a spread-eagle position on the belly, but will crack and break when the weight is concentrated on a small point, such as the knees or feet.

"The decrease in freight car loadings which began in 1930 has continued almost uninterruptedly. In 1931 up to the end of the first week of December, 558,359 less freight cars had been loaded on all Canadian Railways than for the same period of the previous year. During the same period of this year 376,016 less cars were loaded than in 1931. The decline in passenger business has been relatively the same. The resultant effect upon railway earnings has been naturally disastrous. For the first ten months of 1931 Canadian Pacific gross revenue declined 22.1 per cent. as compared with that of 1930. For the first ten months of this year now closing there was a further decline of 15.4 per cent. The decline continues, and there certainly appears to be no evidence in sight that for many years we shall see them entirely eliminated and our earnings back where they were in 1928."—E. W. Beatty, K.C., Chairman and President, Canadian Pacific Railway, in his review of 1932.

In the vanguard of the winter vacation traffic to the South Seas and the Orient, the Canadian Pacific liner "Empress of Japan" cleared the Narrows at Vancouver January 14 with a list of 411 passengers.

Recent payment by Great Britain of $95,550,000 war debt instalment, reminds old-timers of the war days when $96,000,000 in gold was shipped by Canadian Pacific Express from Asia to England, via Canada, and was carried across the Dominion on a special Canadian Pacific train, having absolute right-of-way. The train travelled without lights and was protected by scores of armed guards.

"Dark and uncertain as the outlook may appear to the casual observer, I still think that in this wider field the year has not been without important developments leading towards trade stabilization and encouragement."—E. W. Beatty, K.C., Chairman and President, Canadian Pacific Railway, in his review of 1932.

"Through intelligent education the economic and social utility of war will eventually be recognized," is the view of Sir Norman Angell, British economist and dispeller of war illusions. He sailed recently by Canadian Pacific liner "Montrose" after a lecture tour in the United States.
