Posse Trails St. Jovite Bank Robbers Toward Ste. Agathe

Follow C.P.R. Mont Laurier Line Citywards in Effort to Escape.

The St. Jovite branch of the Bank of Montreal was robbed at 10 o'clock Monday morning, when bandits held up two employees with a revolver, tied them, and made away with $2,000, and took to the bush with a posse of citizens at their heels.

The robbers, two young men between 20 and 25 years of age, eluded their pursuers, who were armed with guns and revolvers and saw the two fugitives at intervals during the hunt which continued through the night and the following days. They were traced to Ivy and Nantel, north of Ste. Agathe, and were following the C.P.R. tracks toward Montreal. To those, however, who know the thickly wooded country adjoining the railroad through these mountains, there now appears little chance for the men being captured in open pursuit.

Six Provincial detectives, with local police and residents, were continuing the search, according to latest reports from the scene. Two overcoats belonging to the robbers, and $181.80 in paper and silver of the stolen money, was discovered cached in the woods near the scene of the hold-up.

Descriptions of the two men have been broadcast around the locality. They are said to be of average height, both wearing dirty grey felt hats and khaki trousers. One has a light skirt and other is wearing a blue shirt.

The pursuers were meeting with difficulty due to the denseness of the growth, which made it difficult to maintain communication as they scoured the country contiguous to the railway.

The Agricultural Course at Macdonald College has been successfully taken by the following students from this vicinity: Stuart Anderson, Hugh Horsnal Henry Miles, 1st year; Ian Hay, 3rd year. . . . Congratulations are extended on these successes just recently announced.

Auspicious Occasion Next Saturday at Carillon and Grenville.

A celebration of unique interest and one which has received strong local publicity through the connection of Argenteuil Women's Institutes—will be held on Saturday at the villages of Carillon and Grenville, in observance of 100 years of service of the Carillon-Grenville Canal system.

The Historical Sites and Monuments Board, a commission of the Federal Government, have erected two granite cairns at the site of the canal in these places, and it is fitting these monuments should be dedicated at the centennial anniversary of construction of the canals.

Apart from its purely local interest, this Lower Ottawa waterway is linked closely with the history and commercial growth of Eastern Canada. Local aspects, traditions and details of the construction, which unfold a vitally interesting story, are ably presented in a booklet just published by Mrs. A. Graham of Cushing; and are available through the C. G. I. T., which organization is participating in the proceeds of their distribution. The pamphlet is well illustrated and affords interesting reading.

Saturday's program has been carefully prepared, and the unveiling of the monuments will commence at Carillon 10.45 a.m. and at Grenville 2.30 p.m. D.S.T. Prominent county citizens and clergy will collaborate with the Women's Institutes, also local authorities on the tradition, and officials in the present operation, of the canals.

Rt. Hon. Sir George and Lady Perley will be present from Ottawa, also Mr. and Mrs. Archibald C. Kains, of Ottawa, and Dr. B. N. Wales, of St. Andrews East, Hon. Justice E. Fabre Surveyer of Montreal, will officially represent the Historic Sites and Monuments Board.

It is expected a large number will join in this celebration and will be amply repaid in the interest and inspiration of the ceremonies. It is strongly urged that as many County residents as possible, should be present for this unique occasion.

The dedicatory programme is outlined as follows:

Hawkesbury Will Finally Appeal to Municipal Board

Council's Only Alternative

The town of Hawkesbury, it is learned, has passed a resolution in council, requesting the Municipal Board of Ontario to appoint a board of supervisors to administer the town's affairs. Mayor John Woods has stated: "It is well known that the town council during the years of 1931 and 1932 have done all that seemed possible to avoid the present attitude but the debt accumulated between the years 1923 and 1932 is of such a large amount that same cannot be paid unless permission to issue debentures be granted by the Municipal Board of Ontario."

"The permission was asked but in view of strong opposition by a few members of the Board of Trade, the Municipal Board of Ontario has refused said application of the town of Hawkesbury and since then other plans have been tried by the town council but it has been found impossible to further finance the municipality."

Sudden Death at East Settlement

Visitor Died of Heart Failure.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Jones, residents of East Settlement, were suddenly bereaved in the death of Mr. Hugh Robertson last Tuesday, an aged relative of Mrs. Jones, who had arrived from Montreal only the previous Saturday to spend a two weeks' visit. He had spent a month last summer vacationing at the Jones home, and was subject to heart trouble.

Tuesday morning the visitor had arisen and taken his meal as usual. Around eleven o'clock, while seated indoors contentedly filling his pipe, he was taken with a seizure and succumbed a few minutes later. A doctor was summoned, and later the Coroner, Dr. B. N. Wales, who pronounced death due to natural causes.

Mr. Robertson was nearly 73, and was known to the immediate neighbors at East Settlement. Mr. and Mrs. Jones accompanied the body to Montreal Tuesday evening.

Dr. William Henry Drummond was born in County Leitrim Ireland. At the age of ten he immigrated with his parents to Canada and settled down for a short time at Bord-a-Plouffe. His father's death forced him to seek work at an early age. He helped his mother to bring up the family; he had three brothers and in time they became quite comfortable. William Henry studied at McGill and graduated in 1884. He established a practice at Stornoway and later at Knowlton. Some years later he returned to Montreal and it was there he wrote "The Habitant" and other poems, which gained him a niche in the hearts of Canadians in all parts of the world. His pensive Celtic nature endeared him to all with whom he came in contact, and his great love of the French-Canadian people, and his deep understanding of their ways imbued his vignettes of their life with a truthfulness and vividness that only an artist's hand could attain. Dr. Drummond's little house at Cobalt, where in later life he engaged in a mining venture with his brothers, has gone, but the fireplace remains. On June 6th, his widow will unveil a bronze plaque erected on the old fireplace, around which he spent so many happy hours. His Excellency Lord Bessborough, Governor General, will be amongst the many notabilities present. The tablet is inscribed "An' w'en he fin' me ready for mak' de longue voyage, he guide me t'roo de wood heseef upon ma las' portage." Dr. Drummond was laid to rest on the slope of Mount Royal with the beautiful little phrase of Moira O'Neill to mark the spot.

A few years ago Philip Snowden and Ramsay MacDonald were guiding the Labour Party in England out of the morass of indifference and uncertainty until eventually their co-ordinated efforts made it the most powerful party in the country. There is very little in common between Snowden and MacDonald, yet they made a splendid team. Later when the power of government rested in their hands the virile, outspoken Finance Minister and suave diplomatic Premier could team no longer. The coming of tariffs found them in utter disagreement so Philip Snowden moved on to the higher House and became Lord Snowden of Ickornshaw, and no-one will deny that Lord Snowden's

Two More Weeks till the Lachute Spring Fair

Close Contest Seen in Entries, Despite Restriction of Exhibitors.

Quality will be the by-word in the many classes of animals exhibited this year at the Argenteuil Agricultural Society's Exhibition—at least, if one may judge by the list of registrations under care of Secretary Alex. Bothwell. And although Lachute Spring Fair comes this year under the Regional Fairs Revision, excluding the cross country prize winners who make a seasonal haul in traveling their livestock from one fair to another—there promises to be no decline in either quantity or quality of stock on show. It becomes apparent, there will be even stronger competition among local fanciers, who will stand a better chance under these new conditions.

The Fair is only two weeks hence, and is a topic of conversation in town, and between farmer-friends wherever they meet in the interests of progress for the agricultural pursuits of this territory—of which the Agricultural Society is generally representative—it is hoped there will be a record attendance from June 15 to 17 inclusive.

These days will be replete with interest even to those who visit the Fair only in search of entertainment. A top-notch mid-way outfit will be on hand, with the clamor and the lights, the big tents and the appetizing smells so dear to youngsters. Confronting the grandstand will be a presentation of acts measuring up to the usual high standard. A Brass Band will provide musical entertainment, and fireworks will liven the evening bill. In addition to which, horse racing for substantial purses will arouse high enthusiasm. The catering arrangements have been undertaken again by the ladies of the Lachute W. L., and the Red Cross who conducted the Dining Hall with adequate skill and provision last year.

Altogether, the Fair directors of 1933 have collaborated to make this event a success from every aspect. To these men and their untiring effort, the County owes due thanks. It remains to feel assured, this enterprise will meet the response of a

Brownsburg Blues Trim Spots off Tigers

Winners 22-3 in Softball Game

At Lachute on Tuesday evening, the Blues of Brownsburg visited Lachute. The first innings of the set-to resulted in neither teams scoring, an even combat continuing through the second innings as the 'Burg boys made two runs to Lachute's two. At the end of the eighth innings, however, the score read 2-7. In the ninth the Blues' batting strength assembled to knock out 15 runs, and the Tigers' infield work was very poor. The visitors are to be congratulated as the Blues proved regular mud-larkers, whilst the soggy nature of the ground proved a regular handicap to the Tigers. The Brownsburg players were in good form in their excellent pitching.

The locals left the field on the short end of a 22-3 score.

The line-up was as follows:

Brownsburg	Tigers
Castle	Beauchamp
Tomalty	Underhill
St. Onge	Steele
Harding	Langille
L. Martin	Deslauriers
A. Martin	W. Cousineau
Goyette	G. McPaul

Saturday is Opening for Golf and Tennis Club

The Lachute Golf and Tennis Club opening next Saturday (June 3rd.) is being looked forward to with marked enthusiasm. Spring work on the local course has made considerable improvement around the tees and greens, and everything promises a season of interesting play and a full programme. It is notable also that two additional holes will be added to the course. Saturday will be the opening of the season, and it is expected there will be a large attendance. Local enthusiasts are hoping fine weather will favor the occasion. Due announcement of this opening appears on Page 5 under Coming Events.

Dr. S. Parkes Cadman has publicly stated that he has small regard for any man's religion, whose horse and dog do not feel the benefits of it.

THE CAPTAIN'S CORNER

For Our Boy Readers

THE CAPTAIN'S WEEKLY LETTER. FINAL EXAMINATIONS

Dear Boys:

I do not know how it is with you, but several other of my young friends are now busily engaged on Final Examinations. There seems to be a "spurt" all along the line, and it is quite usual for me to see boys carrying books along with them, not closed by any means, but wide open at the lesson they have to learn! They hope, and I hope, that good places will result from all this effort.

But let me remind you that there are other final examinations quite outside the cheery, happy world of school life. Later on it will be wider, bigger work you have to do, instead of class preparation in school. You and others will be called upon to play your part in the larger, wider field of Life. You will also need concentration and a sense of responsibility regarding the duties you have daily to perform, and it is necessary that the final verdict on your actions will win for you promotion.

How are you going to shape out? In the great world that will open up for you when school days are over, you will find that the system of grading still continues. You won't be "placed" any more by school authorities, but will be judged by your fellow men. If you deserve promotion it will be given; if you for lack of progress, still have to "mark time" for a little while it will be wise for you to examine yourself and strengthen that which is weak; if you fail—but we will not talk about that!

May I conclude by reminding you that when you arrive "At the end of the road" there is the greatest Final Examination of all. And it is my earnest wish and prayer that you win His commendation and obtain the promotion which God gives to all His faithful workers.

"Life is a battle, and we win Only in service blessed by Him."

Your affectionate friend,

THE CAPTAIN.

Chapter 20.

"A Country that never seemed so fair as when we saw it first."
—James.

Even the longest and most eventful voyage must draw to an end, and such was the case with the good ship Swallow, for now she was dipping her bow into the glittering blue water of the Gulf of the St. Lawrence. To a great many on board it was a relief when the high hills and sloping banks of the famous waterway came into view, especially to the unfortunates who were herded together like frightened sheep in the forepart of the ship. Sunny Jim's prophecy had been only too well fulfilled, and many had died from disease, while others had met with a death more violent because of the part they had played in that wild attempt to obtain their freedom. But now there was little sign of that night of terror when knives flashed and guns spat death. On this, the morning of the last day at sea, the sun shone from a cloudless blue sky, and so little wind was there that it hardly seemed possible for the vessel to make any headway. Still there was a breeze of sorts which made a pleasant contrast to the hot, breathless days that had been so much in evidence during the voyage.

Once again the two boys were leaning over the heavy bulwarks, this time watching the distant landscape as it slowly slipped by.

"And there", said Walter, pointing dramatically towards the still far away land, "is where our new home is to be. Don't you feel excited, young man, at the prospect of placing your feet once more on dry earth?"

"Don't you?" retorted Edgar. "I know you do, although you're pretending that it means nothing to you at all. Ever since you hit that bottle with your pistol, which was more luck than anything else, you have been doing the big man business over me! Well, you can just go on thinking you're grown up, but it does not alter the fact that there is barely a year between our ages. If I am the kid you think me, well so are you then"; and the boy finished with an exclamation of disgust.

An angry light flashed in Walter's eyes and his hands clenched. The words of his chum hit him hard, for there was quite a little truth in what had been said. He had felt a sense of superiority when making that lucky shot, and instead of frankly admitting it had been mostly good fortune instead of good shooting, he had encouraged the germ of self-satisfaction, which had taken possession of him and he had adopted a superior attitude towards his friend. That the better side of his nature caused him to feel very much ashamed of himself, only added fuel to his ill nature, and he suddenly lost his temper.

"You little cad!" he shouted. "How dare you speak to me like that. You have been unbearable for some time now. I will give you the thrashing you need!" And raising his hands he struck the younger lad a smashing blow on the cheek with his fist.

Completely taken by surprise, Edgar retreated for a moment, quite dazed with the pain. Then with a cry of indignation at such treatment, he rushed in, striking blindly with the vain hope that in some way or other he could lay out his opponent and so prevent further punishment.

Such tactics could end in only one way, and Walter, quickly stepping on one side, landed another severe blow, this time on the point of the chin, which brought Edgar to his knees, bewildered and almost unconscious. Still held fast in the grip of his uncontrolled temper, Walter stood waiting for his chum to rise and continue the fight, but there was no movement from the crumpled up boy lying so motionless on the deck. Then indeed, he began to realize what his passion had led him to do, and a feeling of remorse at so unwarrantable an action drove on of his mind all feelings of resentment. He was just wondering what he had better do, when Sunny Jim appeared upon the scene.

Without a word the little man knelt down beside the stricken boy, and gently lifted up his head. Edgar's eyes were closed and his face was deathly white. Very rapidly he un-

Bert Finds a Way

The entire occupants of Grandma Craig's house stood, that Sunday morning, watching the log with its small white burden coming nearer and nearer. The wind being in the right direction, the wavelets were wasting it shoreward.

"It's not a baby, Nora," Aunt Sue said, drawing her little niece into the circle of her arm. Nora was crying softly. She loved babies and was so afraid that this one was going to be drowned.

"You are right, Sue, it is not a baby. It is quite too small for that; but it is something alive, at least it looks to be alive. You can see it moving from time to time," Uncle Dick said.

"Well, if it is not a baby, it must be a pussie with a red ribbon on its neck," said Nora, still tearful. She loved pussies almost as much as babies "Do save it, Uncle Dick!"

"Don't be foolish, Nora! Bert's voice was quite sarcastic. "I am sure you can't expect Dad to risk his life for the sake of a cat."

"No indeed, Bert. I would not wish him to do that. I only meant him save it if it was—if it was—". Nora could not seem to find just the right word.

"If it was convenient," chuckled Uncle Ned.

Nora gave him a grateful glance. "That's just it, Uncle Ned," she said.

"Well we will see what can be done, Honey," her Uncle said. "I think that log is out of the river and on my meadow now, by the way it is acting. It looks as if it were grounded, the way it is swaying first one side then the other."

The group watched the movements of the log in silence for a time, as it swayed and tossed up and down, one end seemingly fastened his shirt and then turning to where Walter was standing, looking both miserable and guilty, he said briefly—

"Bring water from that bucket over there."

Glad of something to do, the youngster promptly obeyed, and for several minutes watched the kindly and efficient actions of Sunny Jim as he attended to his patient.

In a quarter of an hour Edgar began to show signs of recovery, and very shortly afterwards he was able to sit up.

"What's happened?" he asked feebly, looking around. "Oh Edgar" Walter replied brokenly. "We quarrelled and fought, and it was all my fault. I lost my temper and I did not really mean to hurt you." Then he stopped, feeling it impossible to go on.

"Ah yes, now, I remember," replied his chum. "It's all right, old man. I should not have taunted you about your shooting. You can do better though with your fists!", and he gave a twisted grin.

But Sunny Jim interposed. "Fighting, was it? Well, Master Walter, I'll have something to say to you about that. Now go down to the lower deck and do your exercises for the next hour. That will give you something else to think of, I warrant."

For a moment the boy hesitated, and then meeting the stern look in the speaker's steady eyes, turned and made his way towards the gangway.

into the water herself."

Grandma Craig was right. Black Queen did not like it.

She stood just outside the stable door looking down at it the water encircling her feet. (If she could have spoken, she would no doubt have expressed her surprise in a word quite common to little boys and girls to, and being a horse she would not have known any better. Little boys and girls say this without knowing the meaning too. It is "Gosh." I have looked in the big dictionary for its meaning, quite expecting to have it defined as a slang expression denoting intense surprise; but I got a surprise myself! The dictionary defines the word "Gosh" as a substitute for God, used in mincing oaths. Who would ever have thought so seemingly harmless a word would mean that! And all who use it are unwittingly taking God's name in vain.

Finding that definition for "Gosh" set me looking to find the common little slang expression "Gee." There it was, children, and it is not any less harmful than the other word, for the dictionary gives its meaning as an interjectional form of Jesus, used in minced oaths.

Now, Children, when we are tempted to use those words after this we must just hold our hands over our mouths and keep them back every time!

But in telling you of this, I had almost forgotten to tell you what Black Queen did. After looking down at the water for some time, much to her master's amusement, she suddenly jerked her bridle free from his hand, wheeled around and trotted back into the stable, went into her stall and stood looking over the side at him, as he followed her, one of her ears waving backward and forward as if striving to catch every sound that was being made.

Uncle Ned was just saying "Now Old Lady, that was a mean trick to play on me when there was company watching to see how you would behave yourself. You are just coming back now, and going to behave nicely too."

Black Queen switched her tail threateningly, and frowned. Did you ever see a horse frown, children? They can do it almost as well as children. Whether she understood what her master was saying, I do not know, but she did understand that he meant to take her back into the water, and she was not willing to go. What would have happened, I don't know, if Uncle Dick had not suddenly appeared in the stable. He had been watching him from the verandah. Muttering something about Ned "not liking to be beat," he had seized a pair of stilts and gone to the stable.

"Don't try to make her go through the water, Ned," he said, "Mother and Sue are worried for fear she throws you; and Nora is worried for fear you do not get there in time to save her cat! Take old Ironsides. He'll carry you there quite safely. The farmer I bought him from told me he used to wade away out into the river so far that he was afraid sometimes that he would be drowned! but he always came back. I know you will come back safely too, if you take him instead of Black Queen."

"But, Dick! I can't let Black Queen beat me that way. If I let her get away with it, she will be trying all sorts of tricks on me."

"Another time, Ned, another time. But please Mother and Sue now by leaving her in her stall. I have Ironsides unfettered. Please take him, Ned."

Uncle Ned took Ironsides rather reluctantly, but was glad enough to have him before he reached the log, as the water had made holes where there never had been holes before. Black Queen would have plunged and reared, but Ironsides walked calmly on until they reached the log.

Uncle Ned sat looking down in surprise, for a moment or two then laughed quite heartily. "Well, well! Mrs. Biddy", he said, "this is a fine predicament for you to be in. I wonder how you are enjoying your boat sail?"

As if the hen understood that the sound of a human voice meant help, she started up a wild cackle, just like an excited and frightened child screaming for help.

Still laughing, Uncle Ned leaned from the old Gray's back, caught the hen by the feet, lifted her from the log, tucked her under his arm and started for home, the hen still cackling wildly. "So," he said, "you are Nora's baby, eh? Well, Nora's baby you shall be. I will give you to her to take home with her. But—the question is, how are those children and Dick too, to get home with the bridge gone and the flood still high?"

—Perhaps you can guess, children, how they got home across a swollen river where there was no bridge? However we will hear more about them next week — Lovingly

Some Amazing Facts about Soviet Russia

(From the London Eng., Daily Express)

The Soviet's record of intrigue against the British Empire, her failure to pay her just debts, and her almost undisguised attempts to foment revolt in this country have made it imperative that Britons should be acquainted with at least a few items in Moscow's long black list.

Do you know that :
Of the original money loaned to Russia for war purposes, there is still £1,066,480,000 outstanding, and interest is accumulating at the rate of £53,000,000 a year?

Britain will never regain that money. Even the most optimistic regard it as lost.

You Pay

The money was borrowed by Britain from America to lend to Russia, and British taxpayers are actually paying millions every year to America in interest for that loan. To that extent every man and woman in this country who pays income tax is bearing the burden of Russia's default.

And do you know that :
For 12 years more than 300,000 British people have been pressing 50,000 claims against the Soviet Government in respect of property confiscated to the extent of £285,000,000 as follows :

Confiscated properties, loans, timber, oil fields	£180,000,000
Sterling bonds	40,000,000
Rouble Bonds	25,000,000
Miscellaneous claims	40,000,000
	£285,000,000

Three years ago a series of committees were set up to deal with these questions. The committees sat for twelve months. Representatives of the Soviet sat in equal numbers with British representatives on those committees. The awards were made but the Russians never paid.

Two Bad Cases

There are two particularly bad cases. The Russia Asiatic Consolidated Ltd. had £56,000,000 worth of property confiscated. Not a penny has been paid in compensation.

On the contrary, among that property were oil wells which the Russians actually have worked, and sold back to Britain the oil that is really British property.

Then there is the case of the Lena Goldfields. Claims amounting to more than £12,000,000 were awarded by the Anglo-Russian tribunal nearly three years ago. The Soviet agreed to the award, but not a penny has been paid.

Hundreds of questions have been asked in Parliament regarding this matter, but no action has been taken.

Largest Army

And do you know that :
Russia's liabilities in principal and interest to the countries of the world is more than £2,000,000,000? And the debt is growing every year.

NO MORE SICK HEADACHES

Fruit-a-ties and years of pain

"I suffered exceedingly with indigestion and sick headaches for years. I could hardly eat anything and was badly constipated. I realize now, of course, that I was in a very run-down condition. Fortunately for me, a neighbor recommended 'Fruit-a-ties' and I began taking them. I am certainly glad I did. They regulated my system and toned me up generally so that now I am in the best of health. I would not hesitate to recommend them to anyone."

Fruit-a-ties . . . all drug stores

There is no prospect of Russia ever paying anyone, but in the meantime she is using the credits which she is getting through British guarantees to build up the greatest fighting army in the world.

Russia today has the largest army in Europe. She has by far the largest air service in Europe, and it is growing every month. Russian peasants are being slave-driven to provide the money to equip in most lavish manner her army and her air force.

And do you know that :
Sweated Russian goods are being dumped into the country to the detriment of our own workers? We pay Russia in hard cash £19,000,000 a year for timber and other goods, while in turn Russia takes £6,000,000 worth of goods. The balance of the credit provided by Britain is spent in other countries.

Every penny of the £19,000,000 spent by us in Russia could be spent in the British Empire.

And do you know that :
There is an even more sinister side to the picture? While Russia cannot find money to pay her debts, she can find many thousands of pounds every year to finance propaganda in Great Britain and Ireland, in India, Australia and South Africa.

In London alone she pays £3,000 a year in rents for premises from which her campaign is conducted.

Millions of mischievous and blasphemous pamphlets are circulated in this country every year. Twenty papers, published daily, weekly and monthly disseminate disloyal doctrines. Red agents have been introduced into the trade union movement, into the army and the navy.

From the Children.

A special department has been set up in Stockholm from which anti-British propaganda is scattered world-wide.

Even the school children are not free from this blight of Communism. Special Soviet Sunday schools are conducted in the industrial areas where the children are being taught to scoff at religion and to revile the Creator.

A bill which aims at preventing similar propaganda in schools in the country, has been introduced in the House of Commons by Sir Reginald Cradock (Cons., Combined English Universities).

IS THIS A CATERPILLAR YEAR?

Is the caterpillar pest to be in evidence this year? This is a question which the next few days will answer, presumably in the affirmative. Already the trees show the significant "tents," as many as twenty having been noticed in a single tree. To wage war on them now while the foliage is still light and lacy is not difficult. Later the nests will be much harder to locate, and the caterpillars will have begun their onward march of destruction.

If the trouble confined itself to wild cherry bushes and trees, the loss would be negligible, but unfortunately the worms have a preference for apple trees, and shade trees of various sorts are attractive to them.

Time lost in dealing with them will be money and beauty lost before the summer is over.

Before you buy - any Electric Refrigerator EXAMINE the HOSTESS!

HOSTESS Electric Refrigerator is the last word in silent efficient service. The HOSTESS has every modern advantage plus two exclusive features — "MOIST-COLD" and "SERVADOR".

"MOIST-COLD" is the latest and most important advancement in electric refrigeration. "MOIST-COLD", an exclusive HOSTESS feature maintains the proper degree of humidity in the food chamber at all times. Lettuce, celery, and other greens stay fresh and crisp for days on end. Meats retain their natural juices, all due to the magic of "MOIST-COLD".

"SERVADOR" is the greatest convenience feature ever introduced. Fruits, eggs, butter and other small articles are stored right in the door. Be sure and examine the HOSTESS with the new "SERVADOR".

The HOSTESS is made in Canada and is guaranteed for three years. See the new HOSTESS at our show-rooms.

The Ottawa Spotlight

By Wilfrid Eggleston

Ottawa, May 30.—The stormy subject of titles has been raised again at Ottawa. It came about quite innocently when one of the members asked a question about an honor recently bestowed upon Sir George Perley, who became a Knight Grand Cross of the Order of St. Michael and St. George. All that Joseph Mercier M.P. (Laurier-Outremont) asked was whether Canadians now holding titles were to be permitted to accept promotions in the same order so long as the promotions did not carry work or title.

But Premier Bennett, in replying, opened up the whole subject by the remark that a resolution adopted by the Canadian House of Commons (but not approved by the Senate nor given Royal Assent) did not, in the government's opinion, bind the present parliament.

He was referring to the resolution passed May 22nd., 1919, which appealed to His Majesty to abstain from including Canadians in his honours list. Mr. Bennett's reply was generally interpreted as meaning that there is now no bar against the awarding of titles to Canadians, and some well-informed observers on Parliament Hill will be surprised if the King's Birthday list on June 3rd does not contain the name of one or more Canadians.

A day or two after Premier Bennett's announcement in the House, a newspaper in London, England, published a story to the effect that the desire of Premier Bennett's heart was elevation to the Peerage, but when this was drawn to the prime minister's attention, he retorted 'Nonsense.' The London dispatch went on to predict that the Canadian prime minister would be one of the first recognized.

This did not end the incident, Mr. Mackenzie King, after raising the subject a couple of times in the House, and asking for opportunity to discuss it in a general debate, said:

"I do not wish to deprive my right hon. friend (Mr. Bennett) of being made a life peer if that is the intention of His Majesty, but all I would ask is that before a title of that kind is accepted by himself or anyone else an opportunity be given this parliament to express its views on the subject."

King rebuked by Conservative Conservative members, including the prime minister, took Mr. King to task for the suggestion, but Mr. Bennett did not rise and make a flat denial or repudiation of the suggestion, thus leaving public opinion at the capital considerably bewildered. There is much diversity of view as to what Premier Bennett's intentions are.

The crop of titles in Canada has not been added to since 1919, and there are not many left with that distinction. In the House of Commons at present Sir George Perley and Sir Eugene Fiset, one on each side of the House, and in the Senate Sir Allen Aylesworth, are the sole title-holders.

From Confederation up to Sir Robert Borden's day every Canadian Prime Minister bore a title, but the practice ceased with Sir Robert. Meighen, King and Bennett are so far exceptions to the rule.

Sir Thomas White, Sir Joseph Flavelle, Sir William Mulock, Sir Henry Drayton, Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, Sir John D. Hazen, and Sir Hormisdas Laporte are

INSPIRING SERVICES BY REV. BOB MUNRO AT BROWNSBURG

Rev. Bob Munro who is conducting a three weeks' evangelistic campaign in Maple Ave. Baptist Church, Brownsburg, returned only three weeks ago from a visit to his native Scotland where, with his silver trumpet, he held campaigns in three prominent churches.

He began his ministry in that land, graduating from the Glasgow Bible Training Institute. He laboured some years amid the dregs of the Glasgow slums, where his life was more than once seriously threatened as he preached "the old, old story of Jesus and His love" and sought to point men to the bloodstained Cross of Christ for sure salvation.

The experience, together with his three years of service in the British Navy during the War; his position as chaplain for the workmen on the trans-Canada highway; and his persistent study, give vitality to his messages. His sparkling wit and moving pathos and his great interest in the souls of men, make him an appealing speaker.

Many striking things are in store for Mr. Munro's hearers in the remaining ten days of his visit. On Friday, because of larger seating capacity and due to the kindness of its members, the service is being held in Brownsburg United Church. Here he will relate (D.V.) his thrilling experience in the great Ostend-Zeebrugge engagement, with all the insight of a gifted Christian ex-seaman. His collection of over seventy slides include some official pictures never published by the war press. He maintained his Christian testimony even in those trying days, and has much to tell. Some of his subjects for the remaining days are noted below, the list to be completed next week.

Sunday 11.30 "The King's Highway."

Sunday 7.45 "Not Far from the Kingdom."

among the better known Canadians who still retain a title.

Lord Beaverbrook, Lord Greenwood and Lord Atholstan are the trio of well-known peers but the former two received their titles as residents of England.

Appeal Against Tariffs

British manufacturers and exporters of woollen goods, fabrics, garments, etc. are expected to appear as the first applicants to the Canadian Tariff Board which begins hearings next week.

A committee of the more prominent British exporters has been named to make application. They will argue that the present duties on woollens are so high that the British exporter cannot enter into fair competition for the Canadian market.

The Canadian Textile Association will answer their application with the claim that any further reduction of duties on British textiles would seriously injure the Canadian industry. However the Canadian textile interests are not opposing a thorough inquiry.

The new tariff board has no power to lower the tariff, but if they find that the present duties are excessive, and make the Canadian consumer pay more for his cloth and garments than the protection of Canadian industry justifies, they can report to the government.

BREAKING INDUSTRIAL PLANT SAFETY RECORDS AT BROWNSBURG

With the accomplishment of 523 consecutive days without a lost-time accident, on May 26th, the Ammunition Division of the Canadian Industries Limited attained the distinction of being the second of the C.I.L. Plants to win the President's Prize—the second stage in the C.I.L. No-Accident campaign. This plant has operated safely through approximately 1,200,000 working hours—truly a remarkable achievement in view of the nature of the various operations and reflecting great credit on its employees in the practice of Safety at all times. Taking 65 years as the average Canadian span of human expectation of life, the safe period operated represents over 135 years, on an individual basis, without a single accident involving loss of time.

The first C.I.L. Plant to win this prize was the Puralin Division, also located at Brownsburg who reached their objective on April 9th., after 1,516 days without a lost-time injury. These remarkable records place Brownsburg in the unique position of heading the Safety List of all C.I.L.'s many factories.

On May 16th. for the second year in succession the Ammunition Division, (for its class) was presented with the Province of Quebec Safety League's Trophy at the annual Conference held at the Mount Royal Hotel.

IN MEMORIAM:

CARPENTER—In fond and loving memory of a dear husband and father, George B. Carpenter, who departed this life, May 31st. 1922.

God knew that he was suffering. And the hill was hard to climb So he closed his weary eyelids And whispered, peace be thine. The flowers we placed upon his grave, Will wither and decay, But the love for him who sleeps beneath, Will never fade away.

Inserted by wife and family.

CARPENTER—In loving memory of our dear father George Carpenter, who passed away 11 years ago to-day, May 31, 1922.

Just a thought of sweet remembrance, Of a father kind and true, Just a token of affection And a longing, Dad, for you Inserted by the family.

BERRY—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Thomas Berry, who passed away on May 31st., 1932.

One year has gone, but none can tell, The loss of the one we loved so well, One of the best that God could lend, A loving mother, a faithful friend. Ever remembered by Jessie and Doris.

BERRY—In everlasting remembrance of our dear mother, Mrs. Thos. Berry, who passed away May 31st. 1932. "Till memories fade and life departs, She lives forever in our thoughts". Inserted by Evelyn, Jim and Arnold.

—If friends are purposing to visit you in the near future, the Lachute Spring Fair will provide added attraction and be a good occasion on which to visit. The Exhibition this year will offer entertainment for your guests and give them a lasting impression of this place as a friendly and progressive community . . . June 15, 16 and 17.

INSPIRING SESSIONS AT DISTRICT CONVENTION OF SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS

The annual district convention of Sunday School workers was held on Tuesday in Brownsburg. The afternoon session was held in the Maple Avenue Baptist Church and the evening session in the United Church. Delegates were present from St. Andrews, Lachute and Brownsburg. Miss Nina Yoeman, Girls' Work Secretary, under the Religious Education Board for this province, was present and contributed very largely to the success of the meetings.

Rev. A. E. Hagar conducted the worship period in the afternoon. This was followed by verbal reports of Sunday School work and progress by the delegates. Miss Yoeman presided in a discussion on local Sunday School problems. The local C. G. I. T. attended the session after school and enjoyed a nature study project of familiar birds, conducted by Miss Yoeman. Supper was served in the Baptist Church by ladies of the Anglican, Baptist, Presbyterian and United Sunday Schools.

The evening session was opened by the singing of representative songs, including a Swiss Folk Song, a Negro Spiritual and an ancient religious round, led by Miss Yoeman. The worship was conducted in this session by Rev. Bob Munro. Rev. J. Macaskill gave an illuminating address on Leadership Training. The closing address on "The Objectives of Religious Education" was given by Miss Yoeman, who stressed the following four points: The need of a proper idea of God; The need of applying our religion to every-day experience; The need of continually enriching our religious life; The need of linking ourselves definitely to the Church and with God's work in and through the Church.

Miss Yoeman closed the convention with a fitting dedicatory service and prayer. A very sincere vote of thanks was tendered the visitor for her words of inspiration and guidance during the day.

Rev. E. G. Baxter, Chairman of last year's committee, presided at each session. The officers elected for the coming year were: President, Rev. J. Macaskill, St. Andrews; Vice-President, Mrs. R. McFaul, Lachute; Secretary, Rev. E. G. Baxter, Brownsburg; Children's Work, Miss N. Hanson; Girls' Work, Mrs. K. McQuaig; Boys' Work, Mr. A. Snowden; Adult Work, Rev. W. B. Rosborough; Ex officio Member of Executive, Rev. A. Hagar.

Lesson for June 11 JESUS ON THE CROSS

GOLDEN TEXT—But God commend-eth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us.
Romans 5:8.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Dying for Us.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Giving His Life.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOP-IC—Jesus Accepting the Cross.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOP-IC—The Meaning of the Cross.

This is the grand climax of the year's lessons. Without apprehending the significance of the crucifixion of Christ, all the other lessons are meaningless. It is not a matter of learning lessons taught by a great teacher and good man, but apprehending the vicarious atonement made by the world's Redeemer. Christ saves, not by his ethical teaching, but by his shed blood.

I. Jesus Arraigned Before Pilate
(vv. 1-15).

They bound Jesus and delivered him to Pilate in the early morning before the mock trial of the high priest. The Jews would gladly have killed him but they lacked the authority to do so. They delivered him to the Gentile governor, thus involving the Jews and Gentiles in this crowning act of human sin. Pilate questioned him without delay. He was accused of pretending to be a king. To this slanderous accusation of the chief priests and elders he made no reply, to the utter astonishment of Pilate, who sought to release him because convinced of his innocence. After several unsuccessful efforts to escape responsibility, he resorted to the expedient of letting the people choose between Barabbas and Jesus.

II. Jesus Crowned With Thorns
(vv. 16-20).

After Pilate had scourged Jesus, he delivered him to be crucified.

1. Crown of thorns (vv. 16, 17).
Knowing that Jesus had been condemned for claiming to be Israel's King, they clothed him with purple and crowned him with a wreath of thorns. The crown of thorns typified the cross which he bore for man's sin (Genesis 3:17, 18).

2. Their salutation (v. 18). In derision they said, "Hail, King of the Jews!"

3. Their mock worship (vv. 19, 20).
They smote him on the head with a reed, taunted him, and went through a process of mock worship.

III. Jesus Crucified (vv. 21-41).

1. They led him away to the place of crucifixion (vv. 21-23). At first they compelled him to bear his own cross, but when physical weakness made this impossible they forced Simon, the Cyrenian, to bear it. Christ's face was so marked by the thorns and cruel blows that there was no form nor comeliness (Isa. 53:2).

2. Gambling for the clothing of the Lord (vv. 24, 25). They gambled for his seamless robe under the very cross upon which Jesus was dying.

3. The superscription (v. 26). It was customary to place over the victim on the cross, his name and a statement of his crime. He was indeed the king of the Jews.

4. Between two thieves (vv. 27, 28).
His identification with the two robbers was in fulfillment of the Scripture (Isa. 53:12).

5. The dying Savior reviled (vv.
29-32). They taunted him by bidding him come down from the cross, and said derisively, "He saved others, himself he cannot save." He could not save himself and others, so he chose to die to save others.

6. Darkness upon the land (v. 33).
Nature threw around the Son of God a shroud to hide him from the gaze of a godless company.

7. The cry from the cross (vv. 34-36).
When God laid upon his beloved Son the world's sin and turned his face from him, there went out the awful cry of anguish, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?"

8. He dismissed his spirit (v. 37).
When the price of redemption was fully paid, Jesus as sovereign dismissed his spirit.

9. The rent veil (v. 38). This symbolized the giving up of his life (Heb.
10:20).

10. The centurion's confession (v.
39). He said, "Truly this man was the Son of God."

11. The lingering group of women
(vv. 40, 41). Having lovingly ministered to him in life they were now waiting to care for his precious body.

IV. Jesus' Burial (vv. 42-47).
Loving hands now took the body and laid it in Joseph's new tomb. This man who did not consent to the foul treatment of the Lord now risks his reputation, and by his action made a bold confession of the Lord.

ENGLISH PICTURES

Quite a few Weekly Newspapers come to my desk and in very few of them which carry Talkie advertisements do I see any advertising of English pictures. If you do not get a chance to see English pictures, you are missing something. The leading ladies are chosen not only because they are beautiful, but because they can act. The whole cast is good even to the actor who plays the smallest bit and not, as so often is the case in the Hollywood pictures, a star surrounded by an insignificant cast. If you are not familiar with the stars it sometimes puzzles you to know which they are as they are all so competent. They are chosen so skillfully that they seem not to be acting a part but to be the actual person. In the American pictures you never have any doubts about them acting, especially some of the female stars who are trying to act the lady. Then the English voices are delightful. The comedies are really funny and keep you chuckling all evening.
They are not built around the alleged comedians' physical features, such as a very long nose, a cross eye or a very fat man.
English photography is not as good as the American but the pictures are so delightful in other ways that it more than makes up for it. If you are not getting English pictures, ask for them.

CHILDREN LOVE FIRE

The average child is fascinated by fire. Parents should recognize this and allow them to satisfy their desire for fire under proper conditions. One very wise mother found her young son lighting matches all over the place, which was too dangerous to be allowed. She satisfied his craving for fire by helping him build a fire-place of stones in the back-yard well away from any buildings. She allowed the boys to build fires there and they used to bake potatoes in the coals and toast bacon and bread. This took away all desire to light matches.
What were matches when he could have a real fire!

DIET FOR GALL BLADDER TROUBLE

Gall bladder inflammation is one trouble which can be aided by a suitable diet. The chief thing to remember is—no animal fats. That means eating no butter, no fat meats, no cheese, no cream, no gravy. Substitute, for animal fats some vegetable fats and take two or three tablespoons of olive oil over your salads twice a day.
Cod liver oil may be taken in quarter-teaspoon doses three times a day. Reduce the quantity of sugar, salt and pepper.
Do not drink any fluids with your meals but take them about two hours after eating. Eggs are sometimes forbidden altogether, while other patients find they can take an occasional egg without causing trouble. Sticking persistently to this diet usually gives considerable relief.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"God the only Cause and Creator" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, June 4, 1933.

Golden Text: (Revelation 15:3). "Great and marvellous are thy works, Lord God Almighty; just and true are thy ways, thou King of Saints."

Among the citations comprised in the Lesson-Sermon are the following verses from the Bible: "Have we not all one father? hath not one God created us? why do we deal treacherously every man against his brother?" "The earth is the Lord's, and the fulness thereof; the world, and they that dwell therein." (Malachi 2: 10 and Psalms 24:1).

Also included in the Lesson-Sermon are the following selections from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The Scriptures imply that God is All-in-all. From this it follows that nothing possesses reality nor ex-

ASPARAGUS

One of the things I can never understand is how people who have a garden do not have an asparagus bed. Possibly the fact that it can not be used for a year or two after planting discourages them. It is not too late to start asparagus and if you do not grow it do try it. It is such a delicious vegetable and has so many uses. Then too, it is ready long before any thing else in the garden.

Asparagus is frequently spoiled in the cooking as it is cooked too much. It is impossible to give an exact time as the time will vary with the vegetable. It usually takes from 12 to 20 minutes. Test the tough end with a knife frequently and remove it from the fire the very minute it is tender.

Usually asparagus is served in stalks as it is grown, but always having the problem of trying to get really enough to serve a family very fond of it,
I have found that for most purposes it is more satisfactory to cut it in inch pieces. We serve it as a vegetable for dinner simply dressed with butter, salt and pepper. It may be used in so many other ways for lunch or supper. One of the simplest is Creamed Asparagus.
That is made by adding the cooked asparagus to cream sauce. This may be served on toast or with hot biscuits. This same mixture makes Asparagus Shortcake by splitting and buttering biscuits and covering with creamed asparagus. For this purpose I add a little more milk and make it a slightly softer mixture. Sometimes by way of variety the creamed asparagus goes into a casserole, is covered with buttered crumbs and poured into a moderate oven, just long enough to brown the crumbs. Occasionally, we do it a bit differently and add cheese to our cream sauce making it Asparagus au Gratin.
Whatever the dish the foundation is the same asparagus cut in pieces, cooked and added to cream sauce.

ASPARAGUS SALAD

One needs no exact recipe for asparagus salad. Add it to lettuce alone, or add it to any mixture of vegetables and use your favorite dressing. It is even an addition to a fruit salad.

ASPARAGUS ROLLS

Cut fresh bread thinly, remove crusts, and butter. Cut cooked asparagus the length of the bread, dip lightly in salad dressing, and roll each slice of bread around a length of asparagus.

ASPARAGUS WITH SCRAM- BLED EGGS

Beat eggs until light, season with salt and pepper, and add one tablespoon milk for each egg used. Cook in a well buttered pan over very slow heat.
When partly cooked add asparagus which has been cut in pieces and cooked until tender in salted water. Continue cooking until the eggs are sufficiently cooked, stirring frequently to prevent browning. Instead of scrambling, the eggs may be made into an omelet and just before folding cover one half with cooked asparagus. Serve and garnish each end of the omelet with a mound of asparagus.

istence except the divine Mind is wise but His wisdom; no truth is true, no love is lovely, no good is, but the good God bestows." "The conceptions of is perfect and eternal." (Pages

BILLY RICE TRIO

A make believe horse in which members of the Billy Rice Trio are concealed will be the signal for laughter which promises to rock the grand stand at the Ormsdown Fair when this sensational comedy feature will be presented twice daily starting on June 7th. To describe the antics of this comedy horse and the clowns would only spoil it for those who are promised the thrill of witnessing it in action.
No European pantomimists ever offered a more laugh provoking episode than those in which the Billy Rice Trio will appear during their engagement at the Ormsdown Fair.

Current Notes of Municipal Interest

Woodpile Scares Transients

Just now the civic woodpile is filling the role of a scarecrow for lazy transient out-of-workers.
Goderich is being given a tough name by these fellows and the word has been passed around to shy clear of this town.
—Goderich Star.

Discourage Laziness

Hanover, (Ont.) town council has given notice to those on relief that they will not be provided with vegetables next winter if they make no attempt to grow their own.

Dogs held to be Luxury for Poor

At a council meeting held in Ville St. Pierre, Que., the Chief of Police was instructed to proceed with a prompt inspection of all homes of those now under the direct relief act in the municipality and to notify dog owners that they would have to choose between the animal or direct relief. It was specified at the meeting that those refusing to get rid of their dog would cease to receive any further relief from the municipality.

Saving for Ontario Municipalities

The plea of Ontario municipalities to be relieved of the cost of preparing and printing voters' lists for provincial elections has been ac-cided by the Henry Government, which in future will assume the entire cost of this work. The municipalities, many of them hard pressed financially, will be saved a sum variously estimated at between $250,000 and $350,000.

12 Months' Residence for Relief Applicants

Both the Brockville and Smiths Falls municipal councils have decided that, in order to prevent residents of other municipalities becoming successful applicants for relief after only brief residence in these cities all such applicants must reside therein for 12 months before being eligible for relief.

Parade in Sympathy with Chicago Teachers

Protesting Chicago's failure to pay its school teachers, several thousand school pupils gathered on the lake front late today around a burning effigy of Charles G. Dawes, former Vice-President of the United States.

Mayor 31 Years Old

Frank Couzens, new mayor of Detroit, is only 31 years old, but he has had a lot of experience in municipal affairs. He is a son of Senator James Couzens, a former Canadian.

$100,000 Grant for Three Rivers

The Government of the Province of Quebec will grant the city of Three Rivers $100,000 to help celebrate in 1934, the tricentenary of its foundation, provided the same amount is assured by the Federal Government.

Refused to Accept Nomination

The repeated refusal of qualified citizens of Ville St. Michel de Laval, Que., to accept nomination for vacant aldermanic posts in that municipality, prompted the Metropolitan Commission of Montreal, to request the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council at Quebec to appoint aldermen to two of the four vacant seats. Nomination will be called for the remaining two seats, and if no candidates come forward the Quebec Government will be asked to make two further aldermanic appointments.

School Board and Municipal Audit

The Smiths Falls (Ont.) Council recently billed the Board of Education for $100 as the Board's share for auditing the books. After debating the matter the Board ordered the account returned as it could find no regulation compelling it to pay for such service.

New Laws Affecting Quebec Towns

The Quebec Department of Municipal Affairs makes known, in a concise and intelligible manner, the enactments of the past session insofar as the Municipal Code is affected. The rulings are enumerated in the regular Municipal Bulletin, issued from Quebec under the pen of Oscar Morin, Deputy Minister. To indicate the trend of legislation, and for those authorities immediately concerned, it is interesting to cite one or two of these new laws and amendments.

Salary of Secretary-Treasurers. It is enacted that a secretary-treasurer may be dismissed only by the vote of four councillors in the case of a local municipality and by the vote of the majority of the members of a county council.
The mayor cannot constitute this quorum as the law requires the vote of four councillors.

By a law of the last Session, this article 143 is amended by adding thereto, after the word
"dismissed," and the salary cannot be reduced."
It was brought to the attention of the Department that certain councils, not being able to dismiss their secretary-treasurer by a vote of four members, decided by a vote of three members to reduce his salary to such a ridiculous figure that this officer could not decently accept same and was forced to resign.

Thus, in future, a council, to dismiss its secretary-treasurer or even to reduce his salary, must do so by a vote of four councillors, excluding the mayor, in the case of a local council and by a majority of all its members in the case of a county council.

Right to Vote. One of the new laws which is of special interest is the ruling that notwithstanding any provision of a general or a special law to the contrary, it is not necessary for a person to have paid his municipal or school taxes in order to vote. Therefore, even if a special charter declares that one must have paid his taxes before a certain date in order to have the right to vote at the next general elections, the said special dispositions of the charter do not apply as all taxpayers have the right to vote even if they have not complied with this duty of paying their taxes.

Justice of the Peace. An Act of Session also decrees that in future, the Mayor alone of a rural municipality or of a city or of a town is ex officio justice of the peace within the limits of his municipality, without any further qualifications and without being subject to the oaths ordinarily required from justices of the peace.

The aldermen and the councillors who, before this law, enjoyed the same privileges are not now, ex officio, justices of the peace except to receive oaths only.

Bonds Required. In proceedings under the existing Act which deals with Bribery and Corruption in Municipal Affairs, a new law prescribes that a bond of $100 be given, this amount subject to being increased at the discretion of the court, to guarantee the costs of procedure. . . This amends the law under which one may sue any member of a municipal council who is guilty of an act of corruption in the exercise of his functions and one may, if found guilty of same, not only lose his seat, but be furthermore declared disqualified for five years.

The Part of Physicians, in Relief Work

A suggestion made at a meeting of North Battleford, (Sask.) council that, in view of the services given in relief work by the medical men of the city, their license fees be rebated for the current year, was vetoed by three aldermen, who sponsored a resolution deferring action until final arrangements have been made between the Federal and Provincial Governments and municipalities. (Western Municipal News.)

Shoe Cleats Ignited Sewer Gas

At Oakland, Calif., metal cleats on the shoes of a 10-year-old boy made sparks on a manhole cover which ignited sewer gas accumulated underground. The lad suffered severe burns and bruises from the explosion.

CIGARETTE MANNERS

A lady went into one of our stores to buy fruit. She watched the clerk smoking the stub of a cigarette serve another customer. She quickly bought a small wrapped article and left.
She said "I would not let him spit on my fruit. Why should I let him handle it with spitty fingers."

A man went into a barber shop. He intended to wait but found that the barber could not stop smoking while working on the man in the chair. He discovered that he was very busy and went away to another shop where the barber started with clean hands and then kept them away from his mouth.

A car owner drove up to the garage. A mechanic came out of the garage smoking and continued to smoke while selling gasoline. The owner did not take his car into the garage for the repairs he wanted as well.

With so many men looking for jobs one would think that employers would not have to put up with the bores or the fiends or the fools who are spoiling their trade.

ON A PIECE OF STRING
Evidently householders in the London boroughs are still being hoodwinked by persons who pass themselves off as inspectors. The following appeared recently in the English Sunday Graphic:—
"On a Piece of String."
"Please hold one end of this piece of string, hanging it from this top window."
The request was made very politely by a self-described "sanitary inspector" who called on a Bermondsey couple. While the wife held the string as directed the husband obliged by standing at a lower window holding the other end.
After a while they gave up this pastime and sought the inspector. He had gone. So had money and various articles from the house.

Mr. McBride and Mr. Ritchie were the guests of Dr. and Mrs. B. N. Wales over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Drummond, of Rosemount, were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. MacAdam, River Rouge.

A Kitchen Shower was given on Saturday evening last, by the Young People's Club of the Presbyterian Church, to Miss Gertrude McQuat, in honor of her approaching marriage to Mr. Clive Kerr, of Montreal, on Saturday next. The color scheme was pink and white and the decorations were very artistically carried out with pink and white apple blossoms, and pink and white crepe paper. Miss McQuat was received by the Honorary President of the club and escorted under an archway, formed by the club members crossing sprays of apple blossoms, to a table at the end of the hall, on which a huge "Jack Horner" pie was placed, very beautifully decorated. Many plums in the way of kitchenware were discovered by Miss McQuat in the pie accompanied by many felicitations in bright witticisms from the various club members. Miss McQuat and Mr. Kerr thanked the donors, after which games were played, and ice cream and cake served by the club officers.

A full house greeted the Dramatic Club of the Presbyterian Church, in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening, when they presented their second play, "The Rebellion of Youth." The members of the club were very wise in their choice of this play, as it not only amused but aroused thought by the moral issues involved. Each part was well sustained especially the part taken by Miss Millar of Point Fortune. The thanks of the club are due Mr. Alan Murray of Montreal for his very valuable assistance. At the close of the entertainment the ladies taking part, presented Mrs. Ballantyne with a very beautiful umbrella.

On Saturday night the Rosemount Players of the First United Church, Rosemount, presented a 3 Act Comedy "Patricia" before a very enthusiastic audience at the Town Hall. The various parts were played with the skill of experienced actors. Miss Johnston, the charming "Patricia," captivated the hearts of the audience as well as that of her lover. Mr. Peebles' work was of high professional order and he lived up to his former good reputation. Sincere thanks are extended to these Players who so generously shared this play with the people of St. Andrews.

The Sixth Anniversary of the St. Andrews United Church was celebrated last Sunday. Rev. J. D. McCrae, B.A., B.D., of St. Lambert was the guest speaker at both services. Mr. McCrae gave two splendid addresses, the one in the morning being on "Faith" and in the evening "Making Excuses." An abundance of purple and white lilacs made the church look very pretty. Two very beautiful anthems were sung by the choir, and the day will be a lasting memory in the minds of all those who were present.

Mr. J. Macaskill was in charge of the morning and evening services at the St. Lambert United Church last Sunday.

Fire in Pointe au Chene Village

Pointe au Chene, Que. One of the most disastrous fires in the history of this village occurred last Thursday at 3 a.m. The outbreak was discovered by Lawrence Smythe, who was returning home from a 'Welcome Home' party at Jos. Drolet's. He returned to Mr. Drolet's and informed them, and also roused the villagers.

The fire was said to have started in a livery stable owned by Mr. David Campbell, and spread with such rapidity that it destroyed not only the stable but three sheds and two houses all owned by Mr. David Campbell, and gutted Mr. Duncan Campbell's house.

The Papineauville Fire Department truck and crew arrived in time to save from destruction the dwellings of Oscar Lavigne and Duncan Campbell and the several adjoining buildings in path of the fire, including Mrs. Andrew St. Amant's, Mrs. L. Smythe's and the R. C. Church and properties. The fire lasted four hours.

LIGHTNING STRUCK IN LACHUTE MILLS

In an electric storm Wednesday afternoon lightning struck the West End residence of Israel Papineau, near the Exhibition Grounds. Fire started in the attic, and Lachute Brigade was summoned to the scene. The outbreak was subdued, with very little damage caused to the property.

Point Fortune Seeking Village Waterworks.

R. L. Calder, K.C., Heads Group to Secure 25 Year Franchise

At a meeting of the village council of Point Fortune last week, it was unanimously voted to grant a 25-year franchise to a group, headed by R. L. Calder K.C., for the purpose of erecting waterworks and supplying water to the village.

Mr. Calder, who was accompanied by his engineer, stated that a former franchise had been transferred to his representative. He explained that his group was willing to install the waterworks without cost to the village and that, provided certain legal difficulties could be smoothed out, work would commence at once.

All labor employed in construction would be drawn from local people and would mean the expenditure of some $10,000 for this item alone. He went on to say that the financing of the whole project would be undertaken by the Eastern Acceptance Corporation. The Dominion Wood Pipe Company, of which he is president, would see that only the finest grade pipe was installed.

The group expects to get a return on its investment in water rate although this rate was set at a figure which was declared to be mutually satisfactory to both the group and the village.

Mayor John Wilson and Reeve H. J. Labrosse of Vankleek Hill were both present at the meeting and it is understood that an invitation was extended to Mr. Calder to address their Council also with a view to hearing the group's proposals in regard to waterworks for Vankleek Hill.

Lachute Boy Killed by Truck at Huberdeau

Six Year Old Child Ran Into Roadway

The six-year-old son of Mr. Charles Fortier of this town, was instantly killed at Huberdeau on Tuesday afternoon, when he dashed into the road and struck his head against the side of a moving truck transporting gravel for the provincial Department of Roads. Dr. A. Turcotte, of Huberdeau, who was called to the scene of the accident, pronounced the child dead of a fractured skull.

It was learned that the child was visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Fortier, of Huberdeau. He was playing at the side of the road near their home in the centre of the village. Suddenly he ran towards the road, passing behind a parked automobile and striking his head against the moving motor-truck which was driven by A. Maurice, of St. Remi d'Amherst, a neighboring village.

Headquarters of the provincial Department of Roads here in Lachute were notified of the

Many Notables Present for Unveiling of Cairns

CENTENARY OF CONSTRUCTION OF CARILLON-GRENVILLE CANALS FITTINGLY OBSERVED

Bronze Tablet and Inscription on Cairns.

Last Saturday was a gala occasion on the Ottawa River front, when a large number of people gathered to observe the centenary of an achievement which, both from local and national aspects, stands out as of considerable historical importance. The construction of the Carillon-Grenville Canal system which has meant so much in the commercial and general development of Eastern Canada, was commemorated in fitting style, through a program arranged and admirably carried out by the Women's Institutes of this County.

Many notable persons were present at the unveiling of two granite cairns, erected by the Historic Sites and Monuments Board, one at Carillon, and the other at Grenville; these included the Rt. Hon. Sir George Perley, G.C.M.G., and Mr. Archibald C. Kains, of Ottawa; Hon. Justice E. F. Survever, of Montreal, who officially represented the Board. Dr. B. N. Wales, of St. Andrews, well known in this county as an authority on matters of local history, gave an interesting outline of Carillon in the early days, while Mr. Archibald Kains at the Grenville ceremony, gave the highlights of history around that immediate section. Sir George Perley made a brief address of welcome at the ceremonies, Hon. Justice Survever, following in each case with illuminating comments. In her capacity as president of the County Branches of the W. I., Mrs. J. D. Davis of Morin Heights acted as chairman, and in spite of uncertain weather in the early stages of the observances, the entire event proved a memorable success, and a credit to the ladies who lent their efforts to its culmination.

Rev. Rural Dean Booy of St. Andrews, Rev. Father Brosseau of Grenville, and Rev. J. W. Maclean of Cushing, were among the officiating clergy. Father Brosseau discoursed in both French and English, with equal ease. He blessed the cairn at conclusion of the Grenville program.

"It is with a distinct feeling of pride," said Mrs. J. D. Davis in opening the morning's event, "the Women's Institutes of the County have assisted the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada in arranging this programme, for we believe our being invited to do so is an indication of the position our organization occupies in the life of our County."

Our motto is For Home and Country, and we realize to be efficient homemakers we must not confine ourselves solely to the study of matters pertaining to home management, but must have a wider vision, for one 'cannot live to oneself alone'. Never has there been a time when this truth was more fully recognized than the present, not only insofar as it affects our individual lives, but also the larger sphere of national and international affairs. By devoting part of the time in our Institute programmes to the consideration of such questions, and reviewing current events, we hope to become better fitted to be the mothers of children whom we strive to train to be worthy descendants of their pioneer ancestors, many of whom were engaged in the construction of the Carillon and Grenville canals.

One branch of our activities is carried out under the heading of Canadianization and National Events, and this ceremony is a very fitting one to be placed under this heading."

Mrs. Davis referred gratefully to the speakers who had come to grace the occasion, introducing Sir George Perley as one admirably fitted to welcome the gathering, to an event so closely associated with the annals of this territory.

Sir George Perley's remarks reflected a sentiment for the traditions and the people whom he has so long represented in this constituency. A genuine affection and comradeship marked his presence at the event, in the unassuming manner with which he intermingled among the people. Sir George also paid tribute to King George, this being His Majesty's natal day—and to the ties and ideals of the great Empire over which he rules. The National Anthem was sung in unison by the gathering. Hon. Justice Survever spoke of the fine achievement which these canals represented, and of his pride in officiating at the dedication, this being the first function of its kind in the quiet and effective work of the Monuments Board which he represented.

The story of the canals is unfolded in a brochure most interestingly written by J. Graham. Sale of these booklets was undertaken on Saturday by the girls of local C. G. I. T. groups, who receive a portion of the proceeds—and some are now available at 25 cents each, from Mrs. A. Graham, Cushing. The story suggests the wealth of historical interest with which this County abounds. Saturday's commemoration establishes another link in this chain of history and a fitting tribute to the vision and foresight of early Canada is perpetuated in lasting granite.

The work of constructing the Carillon-Grenville waterway, undertaken by Engineers of the British Army, was completed in 1833, said Hon. Justice E. Favre Survever. It took seven years—and comparing this period with the Seven Years War, it was a labor of civilization and development in contrast to a period of destruction. The canals were planned not even to the

Alertness of Constable Bares Important Clues

Staynerville Station Burglarized

Constable L. Gagne, on duty Monday night, was "tipped off" to a suspicious looking aggregation, which had appeared at unusual hours, parking their large Packard Car, on different occasions, in the secluded roads adjoining Foundry Street. The Constable investigated and finding the car empty, lay low to await the owner's return.

Between two and three o'clock he was attracted to the house of H. C. Leger nearby on Barron Ave., where Mrs. Leger had seen two men standing close to the house, with obviously unlawful purpose. The men hurried away as the constable approached and although he had his revolver drawn he hesitated to shoot lest anyone from the house were in pursuit. The Constable enlisted the aid of Mr. Leger and a neighbor, leaving the car under guard. And circling the district, he came across a man whom he suspected of implication in the affair; the man was later lodged in the town coop, as he could give no satisfactory account of himself.

On investigation, the car proved to contain a bundle of ladies' dresses, undoubtedly stolen, a drill, a cake of soap, and tools which revealed the illicit trade of the occupants. Adhering to the drill was a mass of plaster said to correspond with the material insulating the walls of the safe in the local

Golf and Tennis Club Held Opening on Saturday

A goodly crowd joined in the opening event of the Lachute Golf and Tennis Club's season last Saturday. The attendance forecast a fair enthusiasm for the summer's activities and there is a prospect of welcoming many new names on the membership this year.

Saturday's star event was a "sealed hole" mixed 2-ball foursome, in which Mrs. W. J. Bryant and son Hayden proved the winners, counting five on the sealed hole (No. 8). Prizes for this event were awarded by the golf Captain, Rev. H. Cousens. President W. J. Bryant gave prizes for the day's tennis contest, a mixed doubles, in which Miss Martha Larocque and Mr. Leonard Ayers were winners.

Tea was served on the Club House verandah, and the entire occasion proved enjoyable to all present. Another mixed golf competition is announced for next Saturday, to commence at 2.15.

C. P. R. depot, which safe was broken into last week.

It is a coincidence also that Staynerville station was burglarized on Monday, the same night as these marauders were discovered in Lachute.

A provincial detective, summoned from Montreal, identified the man here in custody and it seems probably he may be connected with the depredations in this district. The drill found in the car was recognized as a machine stolen from Brownsburg. The car is being held in Montreal, where the prisoner was also taken in charge.

Native of Lachute Will Head Vaudeville Bill at Fair

Oscar Marchand, Demon Diver to Stage his Stunts in Old Home Town

"Leap for Life" Headline Feature

Fred Norman's Vaudeville Agency has been entrusted with the entertainment next week at Lachute Fair, and the program just received promises a star presentation, an attractive cast and spell binding acts. Peculiarly enough, the biggest attraction of the entertainment is a native of this town of Lachute, Oscar Marchand!

Captain Oscar Marchand, Jr., to give this celebrity his full title is termed the Demon of the Air. His breath-taking performance is an 85-foot dive into a flaming tank, the most sensational thing of its kind ever witnessed in Eastern Canada. It was a feature last season at the Toronto Exhibition and was previously shown at the Calgary Stampede when Hoot Gibson, famous screen star, was making his picture of that name there.

Captain Marchand was born in Lachute twenty-nine years ago. He has doubled for many Hollywood stars including Ronald Colman and Francis X. Bushman in parts that were considered far too dangerous for the stars to undertake themselves. He started his theatrical performances at the tender age of ten years. His only serious accident was in Dallas, Texas. When making his dive through fire there in 1927 he burnt his face severely and the scar still remains.

There are five other brilliant features on the Vaudeville Program at the Fair, Fred Norman himself officiating as Master of Ceremonies. The attractions are outlined below.

Marriage at St. Andrews East

Kerr—McQuat

The marriage took place on Saturday afternoon at half past four o'clock, at the residence of the bride's parents in St. Andrews East, of Gertrude Jennie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry McQuat, to Mr. Edward Clive Kerr, son of Dr. W. J. Kerr, of Montreal; the Rev. Dr. R. L. Ballantyne of St. Andrews East Presbyterian Church officiated. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Grace McQuat and Mr. Wilfrid M. Kerr acted as best man for his brother. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Campbell Morris, of Montreal, sister of the bride.

Dr. Maud Abbott Returns to McGill

After having given eight addresses in 10 days' time, Dr. Maude E. Abbott, curator of Medical museum at McGill University, and widely known as an authority on congenital heart disease, has returned to the university following an extensive trip to Washington, D.C. and surrounding States.

While in Washington, Dr. Abbott addressed the local medical society on Osler's contributions to heart disease, and she also spoke at a meeting of the Washington Heart Association. Other meetings she attended included a medical conference at the Philadelphia Children's Hospital where she spoke on congenital heart disease.

TO EXHIBIT KITCHEN
DEVICE

Among many practical exhibits in the Main Building at Lachute Fair Grounds, will be a demonstration of the Wonder Shredder, a useful 3-piece kitchen device which answers a number of purposes, fits compactly together, and sells complete for one dollar. The graded shredders are suitable for preparation of 101 vegetable and fruit dishes, salads, drinks, etc. The Wonder Shredder representative will be on hand in interest lady visitors at the Fair.

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS,
FOR TWO MORE DAYS

Customers have been quick to take advantage of unusually low prices at H. M. Lavigne's 16th. Anniversary Sale, and the rare bargains offered seem to come as a timely benefit to Spring buyers. The sale lasts until June 10th. and there are many opportunities well worth investigating. Henry's Store, Lachute Mills, is the approved market for Dresses, Dry-goods, Fashion-Craft and Ready-made clothing; Groceries, Chinaware, Household linens, Oilcloth, Linoleum, Wallpaper; Boots and Shoes, etc., etc.

A BED-ROOM FAIRY

By Aunt Jean

There's a fairy in my bed-room
Hiding in my little clock,
She sings to me quite softly
As you know, she cannot talk.
—Cuckoo-cuckoo-cuckoo!

I can hear her in the morning
When the bells begin to ring,
And the birdies in the garden
Start to twitter and to sing.
—Cuckoo-cuckoo-cuckoo!

I go right back to sleep then,
Till the sun gets in my eyes,
And I hear my little fairy Telling me, it's time to rise.
—Cuckoo-cuckoo-cuckoo!

In the evening when the moonlight
Makes the garden look so sweet,
I can hear her singing softly
As I cuddle down to sleep.
—Cuckoo-cuckoo-cuckoo!

In the night-time, I keep dreaming
That I still can hear her voice
Sighing softly in the darkness,
When there isn't any noise.
—Cuckoo-cuckoo-cuckoo!

I hope she'll never leave me,
Never, never take to wing,
For I'd be so dreadful lonely
If I could not hear her sing
—Cuckoo-cuckoo-cuckoo!

NANCY'S PUP

What Shall We Call Her?

The children were all lined up along the verandah waiting for Uncle Ned when he and Old Ironsides came splashing along.
Riding close up to where Nora stood he said "Here's your baby pussie, Nora, Catch her." Tossing the now quite quiet, dazed looking hen to Nora, he sat back watching the look of amazement that was settling on the faces of all present. Nora caught the hen lightly by one hand, but by this time the hen had awakened up from her dazed condition. Fear once more took possession of her. With a wild squawk she freed herself, dashed through the open doorway, perched on the hood of Baby May's cradle and cackled wildly.

Grandma Craig rushed forward to catch her but the hen was not being caught! Fluttering up through Grandma's hands she flew over her head, carrying off the wee lace cap she always wore, with her claws.

Uncle Dick, who had come to help her could not do so for laughing. "That is the nearest you have ever been to being scalped, Mother," he said.

"Deary me!" his mother said as she took May from the cradle in a vain attempt to quieten her.
May had been asleep and did not relish this unexpected performance, and was protesting as loudly as she could. "Deary me!
if that is what scalping feels like, I do not wish to come any nearer to being scalped. My head is tingling yet with the feel of her claws as she flew over me. She's a regular reev-ing Philistine. Go and help the children to catch her, Dick, before she destroys all Sue's pretty things."

A vase or two were lying in fragments on the floor and Madame Hen was now upstairs being pursued from room to room by the excited, laughing children.

"Open the window in the hall," Uncle Dick said as he joined them. "We will close all of the doors so she cannot go anywhere else but outside, if we cannot catch her."

"But she will fly right into the water, Uncle Dick," said Nora. "Let her fly, dear child.
She'll be better out there than smashing things around here."

Crash! Bang! Down went Baby May's china bank, the pennies rolling in all directions.

Maud dashed to the window, opened it and put a support under it. She was barely in time for, headed by her pursuers Mrs. Biddy was flying towards the window. With a defiant squawk she flew out, landing right on Old Ironsides' neck!

"Well, well, old lady," Uncle Ned chuckled as he grasped her. "Back to your first love, eh? They weren't good to you in the house, were they? Well, we will just go on to the barn, you and I, and let them keep their old house."

As though in mock defiance he held the hen aloft, holding her firmly by the feet, yet tossing her up and down to the great delight of the children in the hall window.

This performance was quite too much for even sober Old Ironsides. First this sharp-clawed hen had landed on his neck, setting very nerve in his body quivering, then she must hop up and down above his head making the most unheard of noises. He just would not stand for it, that was all.

Snorting wildly he reared up several times, almost unseating Uncle Ned, who of course was only holding with one hand; then made a dash for the open stable door.

Hastily tucking Mrs. Biddy under one arm, Uncle Ned seized the bridle rein with both hands; but he was too late.
Ironsides was at the stable door and going in. All that he, himself, could do was to lie low along the horse's neck, so that he would not get his head knocked on the top of the door lintel.

"Well, well!" Uncle Ned said once more. "Old chap, I did not think that you had it in you to act up like that, but I am glad that there's life in the old dog
yet. I must be getting useless though, as that is the second horse that has come into the stable this morning against my wishes. I shall certainly have to be doing something about it."

Many a man would have beaten the horse for dashing off like that and running away, but Uncle Ned did nothing of the kind. He simply tied him up, gave him a good rub down, taking special pains that his feet were dry, not that he was afraid of him taking cold from wet feet, like you and I do, but to keep his feet from cracking and getting sore; he gave him a dish of oats and a final pat as he was leaving the stall. "It was not a bit fair, was it old fellow? to frighten you that way after you had taken me so carefully out to the log and back. And as for you, Mrs. Biddy," he said, turning to speak to the hen which he had thrust into an empty crate, "I expect you are about starved.
How about some corn, eh?"

Mrs. Biddy did not reply in words, but she did in deeds!
She fell to picking corn as though it had been a very long time since she had had a meal.

The children had watched old Ironsides plunging his way towards the stable, with shouts of laughter. It was such a funny sight to see him go, the water splashing high above Uncle Ned's head. Even Rover barked as though he was enjoying the sight immensely.

Aunt Sue was not so easy-minded about it as the others, until Uncle Dick said "Nonsense, Sue; don't worry old Ironsides won't hurt Ned."

Once he gets inside the stable he will be all right. Plucky old boy to run, just the same. Won't head making the most unheard of noises. He just would not stand for it, that was all.

When Uncle Ned came to the house, he assured them that all was well with Ironsides and the hen.

"We are trying to choose a name for her, Uncle Ned," said Nora. "That's easy," he replied. "Call her Nora's Baby."

"Cyclone would suit her better," said Keith.

"Freshet," suggested Maud.

"We will let Nora name her;
she is to be Nora's hen, so let choose the name."

"Oh! may I? cried Nora!

"Of course you may, honey girl," Uncle Ned said.

THE CAPTAIN'S WEEKLY LETTER.

"GROWING"

Dear Boys:—

All around us things are growing. The hillside is changing its shape and the tall trees are changing their form. Beside the swiftly moving stream, wild flowers rear their heads as if with conscious pride in the beauty which is all their own. Even the friendly squirrel appears to have added an inch or so to his long sweeping tail . . . and everywhere we look, something or other is growing.

—We are doing this ourselves. But unlike the forest flowers and animals, our growth is of a higher and better kind. We grow mentally and morally, as well as physically. The other day I came across this expression in a book—"Growing old beautifully."

Now that summer is so near, we can notice how Nature is just doing this very thing. The old trunk of a tree, though it dresses itself in a fresh new garment every year, is all the time growing old beautifully, and this is just what is happening to the hills, the rivers and the wooded glens.

Growing is one of the things we cannot control. One physical growth finishes a certain period in our lives, but the mental and moral progression, provided we live rightly, does not cease until we reach the end of the rod.

—Are we growing old beautifully? This is a question we each of us have to answer for ourselves.

*We are growing ever stronger, every week and every day,
With one youthful hopes all surging, ambition running high,
We have no secret sin, that our progress will delay,
But are building such foundation on which we can rely;
We are growing—What a knowledge to carry in our heart,
—May God give us grace and wisdom that we nobly play our part
We are growing—growing growing.*

Your affectionate friend, THE CAPTAIN.

Chapter 21 of Wehn the Redskin Ruled will appear next week —owing to pressure of space in this issue.

An Interesting Booklet

The booklet entitled "The Waterway of Argenteuil and its Centennial Anniversary" is a timely publication, in view of the Centenary of the Carillon-Grenville canals observed last Saturday. It is of particular interest to people of this county, to whom the associations connected with the inception and building of the canals, are more familiar. The story is interestingly told, and affords good reading to those with more than a transient interest in local surroundings.

"The Waterway of Argenteuil," priced 25 cents, is available through the C. G. I. T., who are benefiting by the proceeds, of the sale. The booklet may also be procured from the author, Mrs. A. Graham, R. R. No. 1, Grenville, from members of the Anglican Church and the Brownsburg Mission Band.

"Then I shall call her Cackles," said Nora.
"Some name," Bert said, "but I guess she has earned it. She made noise enough."

"The poor frightened thing!" Grandma Craig was very forgiving. "If I was her I would not lay for a year, after having th experience that she has had!"
"Tut, Mother," said Uncle Dick, "She will have forgotten all about it in a day or two, and will be laying eggs as fast as she can."

"I don't believe she has ever laid an egg! She is just a young hen," commented Uncle Ned. "When Nora goes home she can take her with her and let her start laying there."

"When Nora goes home reminds me" said Aunt Sue—I had a phone call from their father a few minutes ago. He says the Inspector is to be at school tomorrow and that we must try to get the children home in some way, as teacher is anxious to have her school make a good showing, so wants all of the little flock present."

"Some way is right, Sue; but how are we going to get them across the river?"

—Uncle Ned is still puzzled. Children; but perhaps by next week he will have found a way.

Lovingly,
Aunt Jean.

Magic Mystery Cakes are the talk of the Dominion.

Be sure to take part in these exciting contests

WOULDN'T you like to find a cheque for $250 in your mail box? Then name this Magic Mystery Cake. The name you suggest has just as good a chance to win first prize as any other.

Mrs. Clarry Hunt created this Mystery Cake. It's unusual, attractive and practical . . . the kind of cake that will suggest dozens of suitable names to you.

Read the recipe. Then call the family together to choose the one name to send in as your suggestion. It costs nothing to enter. If you bake at home, follow Mrs. Hunt's advice—use Magic Baking Powder. Magic is always dependable. That's why the majority of Canadian cookery experts use and recommend it exclusively . . . why it outsells all other baking powders combined.

Remember—there are 63 cash prizes in this big contest. Decide to enter right now!

HERE'S MRS. HUNT'S RECIPE. CAN YOU NAME IT?

Measure 3 cups sifted pastry flour (or 2½ cups bread flour), add 3 teaspoons Magic Baking Powder and ¼ teaspoon salt and sift together 3 times. Cream ½ cup butter; gradually add 1½ cups fine sugar, beat until light; add 2 egg yolks one at a time and beat; then add sifted dry ingredients alternately with 1 cup milk. Add ½ teaspoon vanilla and 1 teaspoon almond extract. Mix well. Fold in stiffly beaten whites of 4 eggs. Bake in well-greased 9" layer-cake pans in moderate oven (350° F.) 20-25 min.

FILLING AND ICING

Cream well 4 tablespoons butter. Gradually add 2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar. When smooth, put 4 tablespoons of mixture in another bowl and to it add 2 egg yolks slightly beaten and 1 tablespoon cream alternately with 1½ cups confectioners' sugar and ½ teaspoon vanilla. Beat until light and smooth.

To the first mixture add 1½ cups confectioners' sugar with 3 tablespoons cream. Beat until light and smooth. Add ½ teaspoon vanilla and 1 teaspoon almond extract. To ½ of this mixture add a drop or two of pink fruit coloring or cochineal.

This gives a white, pink and pale yellow which make this delicious cake very attractive. Put some of the yellow mixture between the layers. Cover sides with yellow mixture putting shredded coconut over this. On top of cake, put thick dabs of the 3 colors, and run a four-pronged fork through in circles so that the colors are prettily mixed.

Contest Rules Read Carefully

- 1 Contest is for residents of Canada and Newfoundland only.
- 2 All you do is name the mystery cake. Only one name from each person.
- 3 PRINT at the top of your paper in ink (or typewrite) "Mrs. Hunt's Mystery Cake." Under this, print your suggestion for a name. Then, in the lower right-hand corner, print your own name and address, clearly and neatly. Do not use pencil.
- 4 Do not send the cake itself—just the name and your own name and address. It is not essential to bake the cake to enter the contest.
- 5 Members of our own organization or their relatives are not eligible to take part in this contest.
- 6 Contest closes JUNE 30, 1933. No entries considered if postmarked later than June 30 midnight. No entries considered if forwarded with insufficient postage.
- 7 Judges: Winning names will be selected by a committee of three impartial judges. The decision of these judges will be final.
- 8 Prize winners will be announced to all entrants within one month after contest closes.
- 9 In case of a tie, the full amount of the prize money will be paid to each tying contestant.
- 10 Where to send entries: Address your entries to Contest Editor, Gillett Products, Fraser Avenue, Toronto 2.

NOTE: Other Magic Mystery Cakes coming! Watch for the next contest announcement in a September issue of this newspaper.

YOUR NAME, MR. FARMER?

The return of spring, and the ability to travel again on the highways and by-ways of this countryside, impresses a need which comes perennially to our notice

Driving through the habitat of an otherwise progressive farming people, it is surprising to note so many rural mail boxes, so many farm gates, have no indication of their owner's identity. It might seem that our county folks, fearing to face the bill-collector, or fearing to appear presumptuous, decline to place their names on rural mail boxes The Editor has not been out collecting, and has not been seriously inconvenienced; but in reasonable interests, it seems wise that country properties should bear some stamp of recognition.

We know of instances where farmers have lost good business through this detail of neglect. If business concerns are adequately labelled in town, where it is easy enough to enquire where Mr. So-and-So lives—surely it is not an unreasonable provision in the country, where neighbors are farther apart and streets are not numbered.

The Ottawa Spotlight

By Wilfrid Eggleston

Ottawa, June 6.—Premier Bennett goes to the World Economic Conference prepared to support a revaluation of gold and the auxiliary use of silver as a world currency, according to well informed opinion on Parliament Hill.

This really amounts to world inflation, according to the experts, and will lead to two important results:

1. Rise in the price of basic commodities; wheat, cattle, cotton, copper, butter, lumber, etc.

2. Return of the nations to some uniform exchange standard, probably gold at its new higher value. This would eliminate present fluctuations which interfere with world trade by making costs and returns uncertain and changing day by day.

Of the 58 countries taking part in the conference, none is more vitally concerned than Canada, fifth trading nation in the world and with about the largest per capita trade.

Some disappointment has been expressed that Canada has not gone to London with a corps of tariff experts prepared to remove generous layers of the present high tariff walls. The conclusion has been drawn in some quarters that Premier Bennett is going to confine Canada's offers to currency and exchange reforms.

Will Come Later

The fact is that Premier Bennett, according to what he has told friends in Ottawa, does not believe that any useful purpose can be served by attempting to come to some common tariff agreement between 58 countries. Tariff reductions, he thinks, will come later, in negotiations between the separate countries, as between Canada and the United States.

A serious view is taken of the conference here. Many authorities regard it as the last chance for the present international system to save itself from collapse. If the Conference succeeds, there will be a rapid return to international co-operation and prosperity. But if, by any bad chance, it should fail the economic warfare of the past few years would break out anew with greater violence.

That would be an ill omen for Canada, with its large international trade and great sensitivity to international welfare.

Begin Daily Broadcast

Perhaps stung into new activity by the storm of criticism, the Canadian Radio Broadcasting Commission announced last week that it had leased station CKGW. at Toronto, and would begin a daily program of not less than three hours. CKGW is one of the most powerful and modern of Canadian Stations. The suggestion has been thrown out that the Commission decided that it would be a good move to lease CKGW, because the management had been among the most outspoken critics of the commission. Also the step allays the suspicion that commission was opposed to good U. S. programs. As lessor of CKGW the commission will handle many U. S. programs.

Following conferences between representatives of the prairie provinces and the federal government, an announcement was made that the old division of costs for direct unemployment relief, one-third each, would continue. The prairie provinces have been making strenuous effort to persuade the federal government to increase its share to 40% or even 50%, on the ground that municipalities and even provinces, are on the verge of bankruptcy and cannot afford more.

Dump Duty on Coal

So far nothing appears to have been done about the alleged combine to restrain trade and hold up prices on British anthracite coal which was found by the registrar of the Combines Investigations Act. But in the meantime a new dump duty is being imposed on British bituminous coal if it is brought in at a lower price than it sells for in Britain. The department claims to have found an instance of British coal selling to Canadian agents for $2.50 or less a ton when it was not supposed to sell in the home market for less than $3.25 or so.

THE ELECTRIC KITCHEN

Gatineau Power Co. will Show Unusual Exhibit at Fair

A modern kitchen on wheels will feature as one of the most interesting exhibits at Lachute Fair (June 14-17). It is the General Electric Company coach which will be brought here by the Gatineau Power Company, distributors here for G. E. kitchen appliances.

Known as the "Dream Kitchen," it is equipped with all modern electric work-saving devices, such as electric refrigerator, electric range, electric dishwasher, electric food mixer, ventilating fan, built-in radio, electric washer, ironer, novel lighting arrangement, metal sinks and scientifically arranged cabinets. A breakfast nook and kitchen desk also are built in. Housewives will be invited to inspect the novel kitchen coach.

AERONAUTICS

News-Snaps from the Flying World

J. CLAUDE ROBY

Bud Sutherland, Detroit glider pilot, beat his own record by making 39 consecutive loops in his glider.

Henrietta Summers of Los Angeles won the second annual Gipson all-women air race on June 4th., at the Bennett airport in New York.

Piccard, the famous French balloonist, accompanied by two men, is to make a ten-mile-high ascent in a balloon. It is to be his third flight, and will take place in Chicago.

Frank Hawk, holder of numerous records, recently beat his own trans-continental speed record in a new plane. His flight was made in order to test an "automatic pilot."

A noticeable increase in air traffic was reported at the St. Hubert airport for May.

Officer Angelo, Italian airman, was reported in aviation circles to have unofficially broken his own speed record, by averaging a speed of 440 m.p.h. in a practice flight over Lake Garda.

Jimmie Mattern, U. S. airman, is flying full-speed around the world, flying through all types of weather, breaking records. His objective is to beat the Post and Catty round-the-world record of 8 days, 15 hrs. and 15 mins.

Lachute is a distinctly beautiful town. Nature has done a great deal for it, but there is still much that can be done to make it look more attractive. One is delighted to see so many of our townsfolk with hammer, saw and paintbrush, busily at work fixing up their properties. Many are doing this because they are generally tidy, but there are others who seem to be catching the holiday spirit and are anxious to see their places all spic-and-span when visitors begin to arrive next week for the Fair. This is a commendable spirit to show and a little courtesy extended to those who come within our borders next week will do much to advertise the town, not only as a pretty spot, but one whose inhabitants are hospitable and friendly. Mayor Larocque is anxious that everyone should take on this holiday spirit next week, and decorate their places to give a real welcome to those who will visit us during the Fair.

PHOTOGRAPHER AT FAIR GROUNDS

Walter Jackson, well known photographer, of Montreal, has taken space in the Exhibition Buildings and will be in attendance during the four days of the Fair.

His display of high class industrial photographs and picture frames will be well worth seeing and orders will be taken for photographs of any subject, indoors or out, during the Exhibition. J-16-2-p.

NATIVE OF LACHUTE WILL HEAD VAUDEVILLE BILL

One snappy fast moving routine after another.

Dainty Anne Howe. A beautiful Spanish girl toying with Eternity on the flying trapeze. (late feature of Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey shows.) This new spell-binder amazes the spectators.

Stanley and Elva. The last word in Wire Walking, direct from the Hippodrome, New York City. A startling exhibition on the slender steel thread, at one time performing spectacular acrobatic tricks. This act is termed a real "Haymaking Wallop."

Three Olympics. A skating exhibition full of cyclonic action. A routine of acrobatic roller skating presented with lightning like rapidity by a gorgeous girl and two clever boys, who hold the spectators spellbound with their feats of daring.

Lee Fayette. The clown of ilowns in an act that adds the comedy punch. Fayette makes the audience roar with laughter at his ridiculous antics.

CHATHAM W. I. HOLD SUCCESSFUL EVENTS

On Tuesday evening, May 30, the Chatham W. I. gave a most enjoyable Social Evening in the C. I. Club Rooms. There was a splendid attendance, the proceeds being $12.00. The following artists took part in the program: Mrs. R. A. Giles, the Misses Steere and Lupien, Mrs. W. King, Mrs. Douglas Davis, Miss Coté, Messrs. J. S. Giles, F. Steere and Ralph Cooper, the Doran Quartette, Maurice Robbins, Dr. Coté.

On Thursday afternoon the regular monthly meeting was held. Eleven members were present. Mrs. J. D. Lepine read an interesting paper on Education and Better Schools. The roll call was answered with "How we can help our schools?"

They're here again! The Cohens and Kellys in Troubles. See Rex Theatre program.

"Never mind—we'll soon fix that"

Mrs. Hendry was in great distress. She had broken her spectacles and the prescription was at the optician's in the city.

"That means I can't go to the social tomorrow night," she said. "Whatever will I do?"

"Don't worry," Tom Hendry consoled her. "I'll just 'phone the optician right now and he can have a new pair here in tomorrow's mail."

June Weddings in Lachute

Gunn—Hume

The marriage of Miss Annabel Green Hume, daughter of Mr.
and Mrs. William Hunter Hume, to Mr. John Brodie Gunn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Gunn, of Toronto, took place on Saturday afternoon at two-thirty o'clock in the Lachute United Church which was prettily decorated with ferns, lilacs and spirea.
The Rev. W. B. Rosborough,
B.A., B.D., officiated and Mrs.
Thomas Christie presided at the organ. During the signing of the register, Mr. Joe Russell sang, "All Joy Be Thine" and
"Because."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white French lace over ivory satin in long princess lines with tulle veil and orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of Johannahill roses and lilies-of-the-valley. Miss Isabel Frizell, the maid-of-honor, wore a pink organdie gown over pink taffeta with a blue hat and pink ostrich plume and blue sandals. The bridesmaid, Miss Doris Gunn, sister of the groom, wore a blue organdie gown over blue taffeta with a blue hat with blue ostrich plumes and pink sandals. Both carried colonial bouquets of Wil-lowmere roses. Mr. William Jackson Gunn was groomsmen and Messrs. Merle Lily and Stewart Hume were ushers. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents at Hillhead, Lachute, where the decorations were carried out in lilacs and ferns.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Gunn left on a motor trip to Quebec. The bride travelled in a heath blue silk suit with hat and accessories to match. Upon their return they will reside in the Rockhill apartments, Cote des Neiges Road, Montreal.

The out-of-town guests were:
Mr. and Mrs. A. Gunn, Miss D.
Gunn, Master Billy Gunn, Miss Grace Brodie, Mr. Geo. Betchin, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Gibbard, of Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs.
Fortesque Foulkes, Mr. & Mrs.
Harold Kennedy, Messrs. Merle
Lily, J. Russell, W. J. Gunn, Mrs.
A. McAllister, Misses Martha and Lottie McAllister, Messrs.
Archie McAllister, Sterling Pollock, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar and Miss Ann Yoshida.

Skuffham—Gauley

A very pretty wedding took place on Wednesday afternoon, at four o'clock at the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church, Lachute, when Freda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gauley, of Chatboro, became the bride of Mr. J. C. Skuffham son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Skuffham, of Ottawa. The church was very prettily decorated. Rev. H. Cousens, B.A., B.D., performed the ceremony.
The groom was supported by Mr. Clifford Cunningham, while Messrs. Gavin Walker and John Douglas acted as ushers. Mr.
R. A. Giles presided at the organ and during the signing of the register Mrs. R. A. Giles sang
"Because."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked very charming in a gown of Windsor white bridal satin and point lace, orange blossoms and tulle veil which formed a train and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses with maiden hair fern.
Miss Ruth Elliott, the bride's only attendant was attired in pink rough crepe satin with matching hat of flowers and wore blue sandals, and carried a bouquet of roses and sweet peas with maiden hair fern.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.
Only immediate relatives were present. Mr. and Mrs. Skuffham left for an extended motor trip to the Thousand Islands, the bride wearing a black tra-

JESUS RISES FROM THE DEAD

LESSON TEXT—Mark 16:1-8.
GOLDEN TEXT—And he saith unto them, Be not affrighted: Ye seek Jesus of Nazareth, which was crucified: he is risen; he is not here: behold the place where they laid him. Mark 16:6.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Living Again.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Conquers Death.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Our Living Lord.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Power of the Resurrection.

1. The Visit to the Sepulchre (vv. 1-4).

1. By whom (v. 1). Mary Magdalene, the mother of James, and Salome. They brought sweet spices with which to anoint him. This was a ministry of love, yet had they believed what he had said concerning his resurrection, they would have known that his body would not be there.

Mary of Bethany understood this. She therefore expressed intelligent affection for the Lord, and against the day of his burying poured out her box of precious ointment upon him (John 12:3, 7).

2. The time of (v. 2). It was very early in the morning of the first day of the week, before the rising of the sun.

3. Their perplexity (vv. 3, 4). They questioned as to who should roll away the large stone from the mouth of the tomb. To their surprise they found the stone removed.

II. The Angel in the Tomb (vv. 5-8). Jesus knew that these women would come to the sepulchre with perplexed and unbelieving hearts, so he had an angel waiting there to announce to them the fact of his resurrection. Note the message of the angel:

1. "Be not affrighted" (v. 6). How sorely they needed this kind word.

2. "Ye seek Jesus of Nazareth which was crucified" (v. 6). This threefold designation shows with marvelous clearness—

a. His humanity—"Jesus."

b. His lowly residence—"Nazareth."

c. His ignominious death—"crucified."

3. "He is risen; he is not here. Behold where they laid him" (v. 6). He was born in lowly circumstances and suffered the shameful death on the cross, but now is the conqueror of death. His resurrection gives meaning to his death (I. Cor. 15:17).

4. "Go your way, tell his disciples and Peter" (v. 7). All the disciples needed this blessed news, but Peter especially, since he had so emphatically denied his Lord.

5. "He goeth before you into Galilee, there shall ye see him" (v. 7). Christ had told the disciples that he would rise from the dead and meet them in Galilee (Matt. 26:32).

VI. The Appearances of the Risen Christ (vv. 9-14).

Since Christ's resurrection was to be the central theme of apostolic preaching, it was necessary that they have a certainty of knowledge as to it (Acts 1:3). Without the resurrection of Christ, his death would be meaningless. Out of the ten or more appearances, Mark refers to three.

1. To Mary Magdalene (vv. 9-11). Her devotion was amply rewarded by being the first to meet the risen Lord. She went at once and told the story to the disciples, but they refused to believe her.

2. To two disciples on the way to Emmaus (vv. 12, 13). Luke gives full particulars concerning this appearance (Luke 24:13-25). Jesus walked, talked, and ate with them, convincing them that he had indeed risen from the dead.

3. The eleven disciples (v. 14). Jesus appeared to them while sitting at meat, and reproved them for their unbelief. The fact that they steadfastly resisted the testimony that Christ had risen, but afterwards were willing to risk their lives in the proclamation of this truth, proves the genuineness of their faith and should strengthen ours.

IV. The Commission of the Risen Lord (vv. 15-18).

After the disciples were convinced of the truth of his resurrection, Jesus sent them forth to preach the gospel to every creature. What a blessed issue to those who believe, and how awful to those who believe not. "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned" (v. 16).

V. The Activity of the Risen and Ascended Christ (vv. 19, 20).

After giving the disciples their commission, he ascended on high, and from the unseen sphere directed their activities. Whenever they went he confirmed their word with signs.

Christianity

"Christianity is unique; Christianity is something most lovable; for Christianity is a person, and the person is Jesus; and this Christianity has accomplished more wonderful things than any other religion in the world."

More Effective

Christianity in books may have done much to influence men, but Christianity in boots has done more along this line, and is still as effective as ever.—Gospel Page.

STATE MEDICINE

Many thinking people have thought for many years that State Medicine should be our ultimate goal. The idea has been ridiculed and opposed generally by both doctors and laymen. Conditions the last two or three years have changed the ideas of many. People who have needed medical attention have gone without because of their inability to pay. Doctors have done an immense amount of work either without hope of pay or with bills which have been long deferred. These occurrences have made both doctors and patients look more favorably on State Medicine.

The objections to State Medicine are very similar to those made to State Education many years ago. Certainly education is not perfect but its faults are not due to State control. Those who wish private education can still obtain it. State control has not lessened the ability of the teachers; no more would it lessen a doctor's ability. The objection is made that all the good doctors would want to go to the city and would not accept town and country practices. The good doctors do not all choose the city now but when we look for the outstanding specialist we turn to the city, as we likely would under State Medicine. Certainly, the good teachers do not all go to the cities as there are as good teachers out of them as there are to be found in the city schools. Conditions would be the same and many of the best doctors would choose to live in the smaller places, as they do now.

Prevention of disease is the ideal at which all medicine should aim. This would be more easily carried out under State Medicine. Improved health would increase the earning ability and would lessen the large hospital expenditures. For these reasons, the condition of the average person would be improved. The average doctor, and that is what the majority of them are, would be better off with a definite salary than they are under the precarious system in vogue. I am mentioning only financial advantages as it seems easiest to interest people through their pockets.

ROCK GARDENS

We may not have volcanic eruptions in Canada but we have eruptions of another sort. I am referring to the eruptions of rock gardens throughout the country. Some of these might almost be classed as a major calamity. A thing that is out of place is never really beautiful and a rock garden in the middle of an otherwise flat lawn is very much out of place. Rock gardens should be a part of the landscape and not stick out like a sore finger. They fit in naturally to a hill-side on a terrace or in any piece of sloping ground. So if you have not the proper setting for a rock garden, content yourself with admiring others.

Rock gardens can be so beautiful but they seldom are. It takes imagination fortified by experience to make a rock garden. I don't believe there is any one who ever made one that did not wish they could do it over again. The greatest mistake, after that of location, is the size of the rocks. A rock will look large, particularly if it has to be transported, but people forget that a part of each rock should be buried in earth and by the time that has been done, the rock which seems so large will look like a pebble. So, choose a sufficient number of rocks that are large enough to be partly covered with earth to give a look of stability, as if it really belonged in the place in which it is built.

There is no trouble in getting suitable plants as the reputable seed catalogues offer a wide choice. It is desirable to have a succession of interest and bloom. Starting with the Rock Cress which blooms almost as soon as the snow goes you may have bloom until the Fall. Many of the rock plants are Spring-blooming, but plants which are not usually considered as rock plants may be used providing they are of suitable height. Petunias, the low-growing variety of Alyssum and the dainty long blooming Calliopsis are all annuals which may be sown in small patches and will provide a splash of colour for months. Alyssum and Calliopsis have a further virtue of being self seeding. The major part of the rock garden should be planted with perennials but a few annuals may be used to give bloom.

SPINACH SOUFFLE

1 cup cream sauce
1 cup grated cheese
1 cup cooked spinach
3 eggs separated

Add the beaten egg yolks, the cheese and the spinach to the cream sauce. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites and bake in a moderate oven of 375 degrees for forty minutes. Serve immediately or else it will fall.

PEANUT BRITTLE MOUSSE

1/2 cup ground peanut brittle
Pinch of salt
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
1 cup milk
3 eggs
1 teaspoon granulated gelatin
1 tablespoon cold water
1 cup cream whipped

Put the peanut brittle through the food chopper or roll with rolling pin. Add this to the milk and heat in the top of double boiler. Soak the gelatin in the cold water, add to the hot milk and stir until dissolved, then pour this over the beaten eggs, while stirring constantly. Chill and fold in the whipped cream. Freeze in refrigerator tray or pack for three hours in ice and salt.

If you wish to make your own peanut brittle it is very easy to do. Put 2 cups granulated sugar in a heavy frying pan, and place over a very slow fire, until melted stirring occasionally to prevent sticking. If the fire is too hot the brittle will have a burned taste. Cover the bottom of a pan with shelled peanuts. When the sugar is all dissolved (this takes quite a while) stir in 3/4 teaspoon soda and pour over the peanuts.

Official figures show that 1,396 airplanes were manufactured in the U. S. during 1932.

Canada and the Telephone

Canada has maintained its leadership of the world in the number of its per capita telephone conversations and in the matter of its telephones per 100 population in communities of 50,000 persons and more. This country stands second only to the United States in telephone wire mileage per 100 inhabitants. These and other interesting statistics of communication in the Dominion are contained in the official records of the Bell System from which a summary has been compiled, as of January 1, 1932, and is made public today.

World progress in the development of telephony has been so rapid within recent months that strictly up-to-the-minute figures are not possible of attainment. For that reason this latest summary which is complete for last year, should be accepted with the thought in mind that telephone development everywhere is an almost daily process that continues to add to the whole result. In relation to this development of last year, Canada's performance is outstanding.

With 22.8 telephones per 100 population in cities of 50,000 and over, Canada continues to lead the world in this particular classification. Sweden is next with 22.2 and the United States third with 21.9. In the smaller towns and villages, Canada ranks third with 8.8 telephones per 100 inhabitants. The United States is first with 11.8 while New Zealand comes second with a figure of 9.0 based on statistics compiled up to and including those for March 31, 1932. Canada's ranking in this relation emphasizes that residents of our cities and towns of less than 50,000 people are better equipped with telephones and their associated apparatus than are inhabitants of most of Europe's largest and more important centres.

Canadians make more use of the telephone than any other people. In 1931 Canadians held 249.1 telephone conversations per capita. The United States, with a comparable figure of 222.0, is the only other country in which conversations per person exceeds the 200 mark. New Zealand comes next with 197.5 and is followed by Denmark which leads in Europe with 156.6. Canadians make upwards of seven times more use of the telephone than the British who reported 34.4, and over twelve times more than the people of France who make 20.1 calls per capita.

Canada, with 1,364,200, ranks fourth in absolute number of telephones and is led only by the United States, while Germany Great Britain (including Northern Ireland) in that order. But in telephones per 100 population, Canada has 13.1 which is second only to 15.8 in the United States, while a Germany and Great Britain have only 4.8 and 4.5, respectively. Eighty-two per cent of Canada's total telephones and all of the telephones of the United States are under private ownership and operation. In both Germany and Great Britain all telephones are operated by the respective Governments. Argentina leads South America in telephone development with approximately 2.7 per 100 population. Japan lastly leads the Asiatic countries but shows a figure of only 1.4 up to and including March 31 last year.

Health is half of success

Few men achieve their goal without vitality and drive. And so many are held back from their best by a common ailment: constipation. It dulls energy, often causes headaches, sleeplessness. It takes the vim out of your day's work.

Correct constipation by eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is similar to that of lettuce. Within the body, it becomes a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. How much better than using pills and drugs—so often harmful.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will correct most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

ALL-BRAN also has iron for the blood. At all grocers. In the red and green package. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

Dr. Wales Imbues Familiar Scenes with Glamor and Romance of History

"In this village of Carillon we are today occupying historic ground," said Dr. B. N. Wales before an interested gathering at Saturday's centennial observance. "Here at the foot of the Long Sault of early days, the brave Dollard des Ormeaux and his sixteen heroes held back the Iroquois hordes, who were on their way to destroy Ville Marie. The memory of this event is well preserved in the beautiful cenotaph across the road, and today, in the unveiling of this cairn of Argenteuil granite, we are commemorating an event perhaps of equal importance. This monument will tell to future generations the story of the dawn of steamboat navigation on the Ottawa River, and of a military romance of early colonial days.

To preserve the story with a correct perspective, we have to go back with our minds to the American Revolution, shortly after which, United Empire Loyalists, veterans and the sons of veterans, who fought on the American side in the War of Independence, crossed the border into Canada. Many of these settled in St. Andrews, which at that time included Carillon within its municipal boundaries, and made of the old town a busy industrial and commercial center. There followed a period of peace and prosperity, until 1812, when the declaration of war on the part of the United States came as a shock, and awakened bitter memories of the Revolution. These Canadianized Americans, who had made Canada the land of their adoption, and enjoyed for a full quarter of a century the protection of the British flag, resented with indignation the threat of the Yankees to "come over and take Canada before breakfast"; and they, with Major Patrick Murray's Highlanders, rallied loyally to the British colours. The story of their heroic defeat of the aggressive invasion, is the common knowledge of every school boy. And so it came about that during 1814 the coming of Sir John Johnson and his military associates so changed the outlook of the time that St. Andrews soon became a military outpost, with a garrison of British regulars, for the protection of the proposed canal. The whole adult male population was organized into militia corps, and a large drill-shed was erected, which made St. Andrews the military headquarters for the county. The experiences of the conflict of 1812-14 awakened the military authorities to the importance of having some interior channel of transportation from the lower St. Lawrence to the upper lakes. Col. Edward McDonnell, a former aide-de-camp of the Duke of Wellington. In their view, as long as the Americans were in control of that portion of the St. Lawrence bordering on the State of New York, and within the range of their artillery, the construction of the Carillon-Grenville and Rideau canals became a military necessity.

During the years when this project was under consideration the Duke of Wellington was in communication with Col. McDonnell, who had been appointed Quartermaster General for the British forces in Canada. Certain autograph letters of a personal nature from the famous Duke, addressed to Col. McDonnell, are now in the possession of Mrs. Gustave Kuhring of Toronto, a granddaughter of the Colonel, whose bones lie buried in the MacDonnell burial lot, which is surrounded by a stone wall and steel fence—the most interesting landmark of the St. Andrews Protestant Cemetery. After the battle of Waterloo, the Duke of Wellington was at the height of his fame, and there was no more commanding voice than his in bringing the Imperial authorities to a determination to finance the construction of these canals as a military enterprise. The work was assigned to a staff corps of the Royal Engineers of His Majesty's forces in Canada. They were garrisoned in the barracks specially erected for them, and so well built, that it stands today in perfect condition as the Sovereign Hotel.

In the eventful eight years, from 1825 to 1834, during which the work went forward, the circulation of British gold and silver currency greatly stimulated all the business activities of the time, both in Carillon and St. Andrews. Fortunes were made and lost—notably and not least was Montmarquet's, a retiring fortune of $100,000, made with his "Scotchman's four per cent" (really four times the cost!) But the fortunes made during those golden years were not always an advantage to the descendants, in whose possession they disappeared. The gold and silver coin were deposited for safe keeping in a vault behind iron bars in the stone building within sight of this spot—a building which later became the residence of the lock masters. Mr. Derrick, the present lock master, would be pleased to point out to you where the alterations were made to fit the place for residential convenience. It is regrettable that the statistics in relation to the construction of these canals, and the records of the work, were destroyed at the time of the burning of the ordinance building in Montreal during the riot of 1849. Mr. Derrick informs us that on the Saturday pay-days, his grandfather, Michael Derrick (as the name was then spelled) was entrusted with the transport of gold from Carillon to Grenville, and that the conveyance was guarded by six armed soldiers three on each side.

In relation to the location of the Carillon-Grenville canal, it may come as a surprise to the ears of the present generation to hear that during the eighteenth century the merchants of St. Andrews launched a petition from the inhabitants of the North River Valley. This petition, which had the endorsement of a civil engineer's report, urged the adoption of a route from Grenville Bay, along the low lands of the Muddy Branch, to reach the North River near Lachute, and from there to canalize the river, through St. Andrews and the Seigneurial Manoir, to its confluence with the Ottawa. This plan, so wisely rejected, brought the old town to the realization that there was no future for her as the important river port of the Ottawa valley.

The high tide of immigration from the British Isles had set in and there came from England, families of wealth and distinction—retired army and navy officers, whose names figured in the military annals of colonial days. The coming of Commissary General Forbes, with old friends and relatives from England, added greatly to the activities of the time. Bellevue, the General's home, was built in 1827. The seven hundred acre estate, with all the buildings attached, made a community in itself. The powder magazine, one of these buildings, exploded without hurting anyone. The saw-mill, built at the foot of the gorge, in defiance of the seignior, never saw a log. The brewery, the granary, and the malt house, are well remembered. Bellevue, where so many Governor-Generals of Canada have been entertained, is preserved in good condition by General Armstrong.

These old sea captains and veteran officers of the War of 1812, both in St. Andrews and Carillon, built beautiful homes, nestled in picturesque gardens, and their apple, plum, and cherry orchards, were famous the country round. The social life of the time combined in a delightful way the atmosphere of old world culture and of open-hearted colonial hospitality which wealth and leisure made possible. In the days before the completion of the canal, the journey from Carillon to Grenville was made by stage coach. I have a distinct recollection of seeing, as a little boy, the wreck

The unveiling at Carillon was performed by two old and respected members of the W. I., Mrs. Cooke reading the inscription in English, and Mrs. Gordon the translation in French. At Grenville Mrs. Robt. Bradley performed the ceremony, also reading the English inscription from the bronze plaque Mrs. Gordon again reading the French.

The visitors were entertained at Government House, Carillon, the following ladies forming the Reception Committee: Mrs. J. D. Davis (County President W. I.); Mrs. G. Kuhring (late Sec'y.); Mrs. A. Graham (Publicity); and Miss Hilda Hume (Con. Canadianization & National Events.)

Dr. B. N. Wales in Interesting Vein

Dr. Wales' discourse in the morning program touched upon the history of the district around Carillon, and events in connection with work on the canals. Many familiar sites and buildings on the river road, were vested with the glamor and romance of a sometimes turbulent past. The address was one of personal interest, and is reproduced in full elsewhere in this issue of The Watchman.

Mr. Archibald Kains at Grenville.

Mr. Kains, well known to people of the Cushing and Grenville district, also proved an interesting and forceful speaker. "I was neither born nor brought up in Grenville," he remarked, "but Grenville is very dear to me as the home of my ancestors, my father having been born here over 100 years ago, and my mother coming from Hawkesbury just across the river. I can see from here where all my grandparents spent the greater part of their lives on the bank of this noble river, and my great grandparents were the first white settlers here, while over in St. Matthew's Churchyard yonder four generations of my people, McMillans and Grays Hamiltons and Kainses, are lying, and when I say that there are two generations alive and eligible to be buried there, you will perceive that we are not transients in this neighborhood. I have read somewhere that the history of a place is the narrative of the character and conduct of its prominent citizens or inhabitants, and I propose to tell you something of the pioneer families of this district."

The speaker dealt at length with the immigrant families and the subsequent generations whose adventures constituted the history of this countryside; adventures interwoven with its progress, as well as with the operation of the canals and river navigation at this point. This description enlightened the hearers as to many buildings on the "front" which, although recognized today as landmarks, their origin is veiled perhaps in the vagueness of antiquity.

Mr. Kains spoke also of the spiritual, the political, and the commercial development of the district. "Commercially it was, during the heyday of the lumber trade, a busy place, as timber rafts coming down the river en route to Quebec usually stopped here to be braced up for the struggle through the rapids and there were many little hotels erected for the accommodation of the people in charge of these rafts, and in early days Grenville had rather a bad reputation due to the great amount of drinking indulged in by the lumber men and raftsmen who were at times inclined to be very disorderly. However, with the erection of schools and churches people became more orderly in their conduct and the record of the families I have just given you would seem to show that Grenville has no reason to be ashamed. Regarding the future I hope that some day when the country increases in population, use may be found for the magnificent water power in the rapids of the Longue Sault, and that about its shores may some day rise the walls of a prosperous manufacturing city. Mr. Kains concluded by citing an old and interesting document dated 1844, written by C. J. Forbes, Esq., M.P. to Colonel Kains J.P., of Grenville. Mr. Forbes was federal member for the old county, and his letter proved illuminating in reference to political aspects of the canal.

IN MEMORIAM

TOMALTY—In loving memory of Roy A. Tomalty, who departed this life June 12th., 1930. Ever remembered by Peggy.

MASON.—In loving memory of our youngest son William Francis, (Will), who left us on June 11th., 1931.

Gone from us, a smiling face
Those happy, cheerful ways,
The heart that won so many friends
In by-gone happy days.

His nature you couldn't help loving,
His heart was purer than gold
To us who knew him and loved him
His memory will never grow old

His beautiful life came to an end
He died as he lived, everyone's friend.

Always remembered by Father and Mother

EVANS.—In loving memory of Geo. Evans, who departed this life, June 12th., 1933.

The golden gates were opened,
A gentle voice said come!
And with farewells unspoken,
He calmly entered home.
Ever remembered by wife and family.

MASON.—In loving memory of our dear brother (Will) William Francis Mason, who died June 11th., 1931.

To beautiful life came a sudden end
He died as he lived, everyone's friend,
Free from sorrow, pain and care Naught but peace can enter there Ever remembered by brothers and sisters.

Carillon Hill was ever a fa-view of the Grand River. When steamboat navigation came to its height this river was the great highway for commerce for the populous basin of the Ottawa Valley. It was much alive in those days with river craft of different kinds, from tugs and tow-boats to freighters and fine passenger steamers. Or the scene might be varied by a tow of twelve of fifteen barges, laden with lumber, to swell the fortunes of the lumber kings of Ottawa. Or there might be in sight a raft of square timber on the way to Quebec, the raft-men chanting their chansons to the rhythmic splash of the oars when striving to escape a head-land or threatening shoal.

As one of the few surviving grandsons of that first generation, may I be permitted to speak for them in my closing words. The opening of the canal had served a double purpose: it provided an interior waterway

THE LATE WM. KIDD

The death of Mr. Wm. Kidd removes from this county another of our old landmarks who passed away at his home in La-chute on Wednesday last. Deceased had been in failing health for some time and though word had been sent acquainting young colony, and it opened the upper Ottawa for extended colonization.

While the main purpose of the monument is to commemorate this linking of the lower St.
Lawrence with the upper lakes, may we not also regard the monument as a symbol of our debt to our pioneer forefathers, who by their toil and hardships changed a wilderness into fields of golden grain, and bequeathed to us this heritage, the beautiful County of Argenteuil, and a still richer heritage in the memory of qualities which alone can make a nation great.

Holiday Spirit Prevails for Exhibition Week

Lachute Watchman Heralds Another Annual Spring Fair

A Bigger and Better Event, Gives Depression the Go-by

"NEVER KNEW there were so many people in these parts!" commented an old-timer, sitting here in the Home Town for the Exhibition . . . Lachute never vindicates its importance as the County seat, more completely than during this annual occasion; for the Lachute Fair is a drawing card to the good people of Argenteuil, and to distant friends who recognize in this community the ability to stage a 'real good show'.

It is one time when country folks, reputed for their free hospitality, can imbue their community with the true spirit of Welcome. And Lachute today breathes an atmosphere of that. Her streets are frequented by jolly crowds; her gardens and properties are cheerful, with color and shade of summer; her faces are smiling in sheer enjoyment of the holiday spirit.

LACHUTE FAIR comes but once a year. Young and old are joining again in the wholesome fun of Fair Week. The youngsters have looked forward eagerly to that adventurous glamour of the wagons and tents, poles and ropes, horses and trucks, that are the embryo of a clanging, rattle and grudge. Here the hurdy-gurdy grinds its plaintive tune; the hammer strikes and a bell rings; the hot-dog stand emits its vapor of appetizing smells, drifting among the evening lights over the care-free crowd. And strange, brightly painted canvases tell the legend of the green hoof, the fat lady, or the three headed . . .

Who wouldn't be young again—to revel in their illusions, and to relish the Merry-Go-Round, the seventh wonder of earth and the fondest sight of all heaven!

Yes, and the older folks too, enjoy the fun of these unaccustomed scenes. There is a revelation of human adventure behind the showman's wrinkled face and in the tanned countenance of the fortune teller. What a story they tell, caught as they are in the glamorous web of an age-old trade—the most restless and serious profession outside Wall Street—the most vagrant and carefree calling outside semia.

SO IT GOES . . . Every variety of entertainment is here, to make the lighter side of this exhibition a success. The grandstand performance is even more sensational—under the charge of the Vaudeville Agency which knows its props. Those who have attended the local Fair ever there was such a Fair, believe this year's programme is the finest yet. Every turn is a show—no mere fillers of mediocre merit.

Lachute itself is noted for woollen, lumber, and paper products—for cattle, horses, and school careers; the old home town never laid claim to circus celebrities and international performances. . . . But this year it is remarkable, that the highlight in Lachute Fair's vaudeville attraction is a native of this very town. He appears in a death-inviting, hair-raising act which draws the crowd to its feet in excitement. Captain Oscar Marchand Jr. (born in Lachute 29 years ago) dives from an 85-foot pole into a flaming tank! A graduate of showmanship; a former in America's biggest circus groups; a sub for noted film actors in dangerous stunts; he comes home to Lachute, and pops head-first from a high-dive into a tank on the local Exhibition Grounds . . . Imagine it!

And this is only one of a half-dozen vaudeville thrillers, which visitors to the Fair are missing today and every day until Saturday.

The cast is outlined more fully on another page of this issue. Hand's Fireworks Display today and Friday, present the evening's biggest attractions, and the public, we are confident, will not be disappointed in this item.

SO MUCH FOR AMUSEMENT. There is lots of it. But after all, there is a business aspect to this annual event in Lachute. It is the highlight of interest to our business-minded farmers—the competing, the exhibiting, the judging—those fine-points which put the Breed in Stock, and the Culture in Agriculture.

Lachute Fair was the first exhibition in the County to allow only federally tested cattle to be exhibited. Seven veterinarians from the Federal Government made a systematic survey of this fair in 1931, making it an accredited area for the sale of livestock.

Today men of national fame are here to show their animals. Breeders in national and international demand, are here to show their stock. Argenteuil's Exhibition has been noted for the high quality of livestock; it is one of the incentives in Canada's ambition to excel in the livestock industry. The fine high-stepping horses, the arch-necked, stocky stallions; the solid beef and dairy beasts with enviable records; the beautiful to look at. Yes, but more—represent the scientific progress of methodical stockraising. They are substantiated by the quality and qualities which fill their claim to be the Best Anywhere.

OTTAWA'S INTEREST in the vital Industry of Agriculture, is upheld in these parts as consistently as elsewhere. The Secretary-Manager of the Fair, Alex. Bothwell, is himself County Agronomist, engaged the year round in stimulating a healthy concern in correct procedures—whether it be among youthful or adult farmers—in calf raising, hog fattening, or crops.

The Federal Government has instituted a change among rural fairs, and Lachute's Exhibition under the class of Regional Fairs is limited in the source of its exhibits this year. That is, "outside" exhibitors are excluded, the classes being open only to Argenteuil and the neighboring districts of Gatineau, Hull, Jacques-Cartier, Labelle, Laval, Papineau, Pontiac, Terrebonne and Two Mountains. This outrules a retinue of Fair-to-fair exhibitors, who cash in on the prize lists as a seasonal business. In certain quarters it was feared this revision would threaten the high standard set up by the local Fair. Others of the directorate believed different, and it now seems the change has worked beneficially to local interests, and the fine entry list suggests the traditional Quality has not suffered.

HORSE RACING as usual draws an enthusiastic following. Substantial purses have enticed a full entry for Thursday's, Friday's, and Saturday's events, and Fair-ground visitors find here another variety of thrill.

Ladies of the Red Cross and Lachute W. I. are again operating the Dining Room, meeting the public requirements with the same attention and courtesy shown last year.

THE INDUSTRIES are well represented, the stands of the exhibition buildings being attractively filled. In addition to several old-established and reliable business displays from the immediate town, one is attracted to the enterprise of the local Gatineau Power Co. kitchen on wheels, fully described in another section of this paper.

R. McArthur & Son are on hand with pumps of the reliable Fairbanks brand, also the popular "Hostess" Refrigerator for which they are agents; and Mr. Bourbonnien is demonstrating the "Master" Oil Burner which numbers among its appealing factors a steady blue flame and even distribution of heat. Ramsay Paints, whose representatives are Jno. McFaul & Son; J. W. Lefebvre & Son, with Radios, Sewing Machines, etc.; "Beatty" Washers are also on hand; and Mr. Jackson holds a very interesting display of industrial and studio photographs, picture frames, etc. The famous Ford V-8, on display by Geo. Y. Deacon, local dealer, is attracting an interested crowd.

With commendable pride Lachute directs its visitors to the wonderful array of goods displayed in the Ayers Limited exhibit, which include in many delicate hues and colorings a great variety of fancy blankets, overthrows, rugs and tweeds, revealing at once that this institution has sacrificed no enterprise during the years of depression, but has steadily gone forward; and the Quality standard of "Ayers" is now generally recognized the world over.

There are other displays of immediate concern to the farmer and to the householder. In keeping with its progressive policy, the Government has supported the exhibits again, in an instructive lay-out by the Ottawa Experimental Farm. The Wonder Shredder is being demonstrated as a multi purpose kitchen device . . . And there are other features, not yet listed, which will prove of interest in and around the Main Building.

EARLY INDICATIONS look hopeful, and it is certain that, as regards attendance, there will be a bumper crowd during the remaining days of the Exhibition. The reduced prices are enabling many folks to attend, who might otherwise hesitate to spend money on sheer pleasure.

The List of Exhibitors includes the following names to date, many of whom will be recognized as winners in past years: Gilbert E. Arnold; L. C. Barron; Alphonse Bedard; J. H. Black; Leonard Boa; Alex. Bothwell; Leonard Boyd; Douglas Bradford; John P. Bradley; W. A. Bradley; The National Breweries; Wilfrid Campeau; Irvine J. Clark; A. T. Cleland; Jake Comby; M. C. Mayor A. Larocque Voices Civic Welcome to Visiting Public

"Lachute greets her visitors on this gala occasion. Rejoicing in her civic integrity and her attractions; proud of this Argenteuil which surrounds her with scenic charm, and of the Agricultural Society which represents the farming interests and sponsors this Annual Exhibition—Lachute Town extends a warm welcome and a hospitality worthy of her ideals."

THE CAPTAIN'S CORNER

For Our Boy Readers

THE CAPTAIN'S WEEKLY LETTER.

HOLIDAYS

Dear Boys :

This is what you are thinking about just now, is it not ? The bright sun, the green fields, and the swiftly moving streams, all call to you to come along and play. How impatient you must be to obey this insistent demand of great Mother Nature and how eagerly you await the closing of school so that long happy hours out of doors may be yours once more. But for the moment school is still open and the bell continues to beckon you into class each morning. The question is, what are you doing about it ?

If you are wise you will exert yourselves to make fullest possible use of the short period that still remains, in which you can add to your knowledge. There are long weeks ahead, when there is plenty of time to forget what you have learned if your time at lessons has been superficial. Your duty is clear, to lay such a foundation of learning that when you return to school in the Fall you can easily continue where you left off, without having to revise anything.

Yes, I know that in these last few days the temptation will be to slacken off and not worry. The day of return seems so far away now, that any idea of preparing for that event appears ridiculous. But it will come, none the less.

One thing I can promise you, and that is you will enjoy your holidays ever so much more if you have tried to play the game right with your school, and with yourself, up to the very last lesson of the very last day.

—Will you try to do this ?

*So, when you feel inclined to shirk and slack
And say 'It matters little what I do,'
Then square your shoulders, throw your head right back, ...
And something great will then be given you;
A new-born spirit rising in your heart
Will make you glad to play a manly part.*

Your affectionate friend,

STORY OF ADVENTURE

Chapter 21.

"Your land, my land, the land of our adoption."
—Gray.

Two earnest pairs of eyes gazed at the shores of Quebec as the "Swallow" very slowly and with graceful beauty completed the last few miles of her long voyage. It was a beautiful morning, the sun shining from a cloudless blue sky and the water of the river a shimmering green. Sea-gulls flew around the tall masts, uttering their weird cries and continuously swooping down to the waves seeking food. Every now and again the sailors would good naturedly throw scraps of meat and bread to them, and both Edgar and Walter were amused to watch how the birds would fight each other for some coveted morsel.

"How long do you think it will be Walter, before we can get on shore ?" asked Edgar, looking wistfully towards the sloping green banks that almost met the water's edge, so great was the vegetation. There was no thought of ill feeling towards his chum in the younger boy's mind. That had passed right away, and in a sense he was almost glad the fight had taken place, if only because he could remember the affectionate solicitude of Walter when he was dazed and crumpled upon the deck. It was good to feel that this friend of his almost a brother, could regard him in such a way. It was also a great thing to have him standing near, and the temptation came to put out his hand and touch that of his friend as it rested lightly on the upper rail of the ship's bulwark. Instead, he turned his head and caught the whimsical look of two very steady brown eyes.

For a few minutes neither spoke a word, and then Walter took it upon himself to reply to his chum's question. "I am afraid it will be a long while yet before we leave the ship," he answered. "See there is a little sailing boat coming towards us. I wonder what it wants; something important, for there is a man standing up in the stern, waving his hand, signalling something or other." "That's the Pilot boat, young Master," said Sunny Jim, coming up to them. "They have come out to show us the way into the harbour."

"Do you mean that our Captain cannot steer the ship himself?" asked Edgar, surprised at this information.

"That's what I mean, Master ! The shoals and currents are most dangerous in these waters, and were it not for the Pilots who have spent all their lives sailing up and down the river, who know the many submerged banks and sunken rocks, two out of every three ships would never reach port."

"Then it's a jolly good thing," said Walter, "that we are taking that chap on board ! They have thrown him a rope and he is coming up the ladder."

It was as the boy said. The little sailing boat had drawn up against the high towering sides of the "Swallow" and eager hands stretched out to aid the Pilot and his assistant who immediately took over command of the vessel. Very soon sailors were climbing the masts and the work of furling sails commenced. Canvas was reduced as the shore drew nearer, until they were almost travelling under bare poles. Edgar, who had watched the whole proceedings with eager curiosity, could not help ex-

NANCY'S PUP (Continued)

"HOME, SWEET HOME"

Uncle Ned was still puzzling his brains as to how the children were to get home for school in the morning. Bert was doing some thinking too, but it was not until they were seated at the dinner table that he gave vent to his thoughts in these words: "Say, Uncle Ned could not Uncle John get some one to make a ferry strong enough for us to cross the river on ? Some of the farmers near the river must have lumber on hand."

His uncle looked at him in silence for a moment, then said "I believe it could be done. At least to make a ferry will be no trouble. But the water is rather deep for you to wade to where the ferry would have to wait for you. You cannot very well go on stilts for fear of washouts."

"We'll go on Old Ironside's back, like Uncle Ned did!" shouted Billy, hopping up from his chair in excitement.

"The girls could not go that way," Aunt Sue protested.

"Why not ? I am sure I, for one, would love to go through the water on Old Ironside's back." Maud was smiling up into her aunt's face as she spoke.

"Surely not, Maud."

"Why, of course I would. Wouldn't you, Nora ?"

"I'm not so sure that I would like it, Maud, but I am anxious to get home, so I expect, I would try it if Uncle Ned will come too, and hold me so I won't fall into the water."

"Are you so lonesome for home that you would go through all this flood to get there ?" her Grandmother asked.

"Oh, no indeed, Grannie ! but you see I want to be at school when the inspector comes; and besides I am just dying to tell the other girls what the professor told us about the days of the week and about the wind". "I am not anxious to meet the inspector" said Ned, "so I guess I shall be too scared to go through the water."

"You would not let the girls show that they were braver than you, would you ? asked Grannie."

"I would not care much what anyone thought so long as I could miss the inspector. I am sick hearing about him. It has been nothing else but We must do this, and we must do that when the inspector comes, and we must have this lesson and that lesson perfect for the inspector, until I am sick of the word inspector. I think I shall go out and fall into the water tonight and get my clothes all wet so that I cannot go home!"

"You are a naughty boy," Maud said. "I am sure our teacher only talks like that for our own good. You don't want to grow up an ignoramus?"

"Good for you Maudie, girl!" her Uncle Dick said, "but do you children know what that word means ? If not I will tell you, it means in plain English dunce; and as we do not want any dunces in our family, your Uncle Ned and I will get busy making arrangements to have a ferry or raft of some sort, so that we all get home tomorrow."

"That sounds something like the old woman and her pig that would not go over the stile, Uncle Dick," laughed Nora. "Old Ironsides will have to take the place of the dog and see that we get home."

"I hope he won't bite us like the old woman's dog bit the pig!" said Billy. "I would rather stay here than be bitten by Ironsides." "Ironsides wouldn't bite you silly," Keith said "he is as quiet as an old hen." Everyone laughed at that speech; they were reminded of one hen that was very quiet.

The children sat on the verandah after dinner, talking and watching the water. Someone was coming down the river in a boat; they did not know who it was but it might be Daddy. What excitement that boat caused for a few minutes, until it was found to be the man who Uncle Ned had phoned to, in connection with making a ferry or raft to get them conveyed across the river.

This man could not get very near to the house on account of the water being so uneven in depth, but he and the two uncles talked through a sort of home-made magaphone, something the same as announcements use at the exhibitions.

While the children were watching them, something was swimming nearer and nearer to the verandah. Every few moments it stopped and stuck its glistening head up out of the water and looked about.

Reaching the verandah it stopped as though wondering what this strange thing was that was in its way. Swimming to where the water was almost level with the verandah, it climbed slowly up on to it, and started crawling towards the unsuspecting children. Being a slow mover, it took it some time to get close to them.

Suddenly May looked down at her feet. It was just about Provincial Police on Trail of Escaped Prisoners

Drugged Chauffeur at Hawkesbury Could not Identify Fares as Men Wanted

The search for George Starke and Philippe Dulude, who escaped from their prison cell in Montreal while awaiting trial on charges of payroll and drug-store hold-ups, led Montreal detectives to Hawkesbury last Friday. There the police found a Montreal taxidriver who stated that he did not know how he got there, but remembered that he had driven two men who had apparently drugged him. When shown photographs of Starke and Dulude the driver was unable to identify the pair as being the men whom he had picked up on St. Catherine St. the previous night. Eugene Chauvin, the driver, informed detectives at Hawkesbury that he did not remember anything about the trip. He said when he arrived at Hawkesbury he came to himself and did not recognize the surroundings. He at once notified his employer as to where he was.

The proprietor of the taxicab

in Montreal told the detectives that he received a telephone call from Chauvin Thursday night saying that he was in Hawkesbury, but that he did not know how he got there. The police learned, however, that there were two men in the car driven by Chauvin who had been picked up somewhere on St. Catherine street. It is possible, the police say, that the driver had been drugged after he had picked the pair up.

"ICE TO CHURCHILL"

The expression "carrying coals to Newcastle" has found a counter-part in Canada in "carrying ice to Churchill," trainloads of ice having just been conveyed to that port over the snow-covered line of the Hudson Bay Railway. The ice is being placed in large blocks in insulated buildings and will be used in summer in the dining-cars of trains to Churchill and at "tea-house" points on the line. Ice cut on inland lakes has been carried to Churchill because it was found more economical to do so than to send men to the port to cut ice blocks there.

crawl over them! With a wild shriek, she leaped to her feet and dashed into the house.

Startled by her shrieks the remainder of the children turned to look in the direction which she had gone. There was nothing unusual to be seen in that direction.

The old Grandfather clock was standing in its usual corner, ticking solemnly as though every thing was going on as usual.

"What happened, May?" Ned was asking, when a soft scraping sound right by his feet caused him to look down... And what do you suppose he saw there, Children?...

Sanatorium Patient Wins $100 Through Thoughtful- ness of Local Tire Dealer

Turn of Luck Affords Equal Pleasure to Geo. Y. Deacon

Mr. Geo. Y. Deacon has many interests outside his daily business, including his duties as local fire chief, his work on the School Board, and a host of other considerations. Not the least commendable of these, is his concern for less fortunate friends, who have temporarily left these parts to seek renewed health in the mountains. Mr. and Mrs. Deacon make frequent trips to Ste. Agathe, and it was during a recent visit to the Sanatorium at that place, his spare time philanthropies became mixed up with Business, and a young lady patient at Ste. Agathe became the richer by a $100 cheque!

The lucky girl is Mary Starol, Ukrainian, a bright little personality despite her confinement and the string of misfortunes which led her to an Infirmary cot. She won a $100 prize in the recent Firestone Tire Company's guessing contest. Mr. Deacon narrated how, having a supply of complimentary toy balloons given out by this company to its dealers, he took a number of them to Ste. Agathe distributing them to the delighted patients. Each balloon had a tag attached, on which the recipient could submit a guess, as to how many tags would be returned out of the number issued. Miss Starol guessed 81,000 out of the total 100,000—and was only 3 out in her guess. Thus she won the $100 prize, for which she is grateful to our local Firestone dealer.

Mr. Geo. Y. Deacon was instrumental recently in furnishing a supply of earphones to equip a sanatorium ward with individual radio, the phones being kindly given by local citizens in response to an appeal through this newspaper.

McGill Convocation

Representative leaders of Canadian religious, educational and business life take part in the traditionally impressive ceremonies connected with the Convocation of McGill University. Of particular interest was the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws conferred upon His Eminence Cardinal Villeneuve. In the picture are shown from left to right, front row, in gowns. Right Rev. John C. Farthing, D.D., Anglican Bishop of Montreal; His Eminence Cardinal Villeneuve, Archbishop of Quebec; A. J. Brown, K.C. Second row in mortar boards: Chancellor E. W. World Wants to Know One's Best Attainment

If anyone, man or woman, knows how to bake perfect buckwheat cakes, that might be his or her life work. It is a talent as rare as painting good portraits. To quote the philosopher, "It is what life demands of us." Ah, to find that out! Psychology and psychiatry claim much, but their harvest is small.

Carlyle says, "The folly of that precept, 'Know thyself,' until it can be translated into this partially possible one: 'Know what thou canst work at.'" And again: "Hast thou a certain faculty, a certain Worth, such even as the most have not?" Therein lies the meaning of the aphorism: The world owes every man a living—if he will convince it what job he is especially suited for. It is a great, a paramount responsibility.

We are going to quote some more: Emerson—"The only gift is a portion of thyself; thou must bleed for me. Therefore, the poet brings his poem; the shepherd his lamb; the farmer, corn; the miner, a gem." But it must be something, though it be but the best buckwheat cakes in the world.—F. H. Collier, in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Fox's Regard for Crow Not Too Deeply Seated

A recent issue of a magazine pertaining to wild life, went into detail in explaining the seeming regard that Reynard the fox has for the crow, claiming as a fact that a fox will never injure a crow. But this is the story told by Peter J. Tyler, called by Lee residents, "The Saga of Frogs Landing."

"When I lived at the Landing, I had several foxes as well as a pair of tame crows. The fox run was enclosed, side and top with poultry wire. It was interesting to watch these crafty animals and their method of planning in their efforts to get a hold of some of the many chickens, ducks and pigeons outside. They would carry bones and other scraps that were inside their inclosure and place them close to the wire to induce the live stock to reach for the tempting bait. Then they would lie flat on the ground apparently fast asleep, but when a head came through the mesh, make a jump for it. One day—one crow—no head."—Springfield (Mass.) Union.

Mackinac

The place-name Mackinac is applied to the famous trading post between Lake Huron and Lake Michigan, Mackinaw, representing the Canadian French Mackinac, is identical with makinak, the word for "turtle" in Chippewa, and closely related dialects of Algonkian; said also to be a reduction of Michilimackinac, a corruption of an earlier mitchi makinak, signifying "big turtle" in Chippewa. According to Dr. William Jones, the Chippewa of Minnesota claim the word to be a shortened form of mishinimakinak, "place of the big wounded or big lame person." This, however, may be an instance of folk-etymology.—Literary Digest.

The Ottawa Spotlight By Wilfrid Eggleston

Ottawa, June 13. The "milk inquiry" which occupied so much attention during the last session of parliament seems to be having some modest results. Quebec has since appointed a provincial dairy commission with some of the powers of the 'tribunals' recommended by the federal committee. And now Ontario is sending Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture to England chiefly to study advanced English methods of selling and distributing milk. Co-operative milk distribution is reported to have become much more general in England and Wales than on this side of the Atlantic.

The French trade treaty which gives preferences to a wide range of Canadian agricultural products went into effect by proclamation on June 10. Canadian tobacco is to enter France free: but to what extent shipments are made will depend on the view taken by the French Government, which controls all tobacco imports as to quality. Canadian wheat is to enter at one-half the maximum rate, but as this is still 85 cents a bushel, and as France has in addition special restriction on foreign wheat, not much hope of large markets in France is held at present. In return French goods are to get a little better than our intermediate tariff on velvets and ribbons, clothing, other textiles, florist stock, a wide range of machinery and some miscellaneous items.

Still Hanging Fire

Every few days a statement comes out at the capital that the tariff board will soon begin hearings, but the schedule of first hearings is still to come. It is now announced that H. B. Shackleton, chairman of the British textile delegation, which will ask for lower duties on British woollen goods, will sail for Canada on June 20th., but it is probable that one or two other cases will be heard first. Anyway, the board has now moved into its palatial offices in the $3,000,000 National Research Building overlooking the Ottawa River.

The nomination of Ex-Judge Lewis St. George Stubbs as C. C. F. candidate in Mackenzie, Sask., a seat made vacant by the appointment of Milton Campbell to the Tariff Board, has caused some consternation to both of the older parties. The arrival of Mr. Stubbs as member for MacKenzie would be a rather bitter pill for Hon. Hugh Guthrie and other associates responsible for the actual deposition of the former judge. Meanwhile Liberal leaders are somewhat annoyed because Stubbs was originally offered a Liberal nomination in Manitoba, and the impression was gained that he had accepted the suggestion.

Back to Work, not 'Dole'

Some provincial governments are considering the possibility of going back into the business of caring for the unemployed work. Most authorities consider that work is much more salutary to morals than direct relief, but the programs of 1930 & 1931 nearly bankrupted everybody concerned, and the method had to be abandoned in favor of with the prospect of times indirect relief. Now, perhaps proving, there is more talk of relief work again. Quebec appears to be most anxious to start projects. The federal government has to go very easy on the treasury these days, but they have signified that they will cooperate with provinces which make an effort to provide work for the jobless. Conferences on the subject were held toward the end of last week.

Some Bidders Signs

Though the Canadian stock and commodity markets have been booming in sympathy with those across the line, it has been hard up to a few weeks ago to discover tangible signs of real business improvement. But retail sales for April rose well above the seasonal jump. Canal traffic at Sault Ste. Marie was more than double the tonnage this May than last. The latest figures for bank clearings show that in 20 centres out of 32 they were larger this year than last. Some gains are very impressive. For the latest available week for Toronto the total was $113,600,000 as compared with only $78,000,000 in the corresponding week a year ago.

CAPITAL INVESTMENT IN CANADA

Sixty-seven per cent. owned by Canadian investors.

According to the "Financial Post" (Toronto) the total amount of capital investment in Canada on January 1st, 1933, was $13,065,000,000, an increase during the twelve months of $345,000,000. Out of this increase $260,000,000 is in Government and municipal securities. The corresponding total in 1926 was $14,400,000,000. These totals include all Dominion, Provincial and Municipal bonds outstanding as well as the actual capital invested in railways, utilities, manufacturing industries, mining, wholesale retail trade and financial institutions such as banks, insurance, trust and loan companies. They do not include capital invested in agriculture or in land or buildings, not directly used in any of the above groups; or in office buildings, apartment houses, hotels, institutions, etc.; nor capital invested in investment trusts nor in public works paid out of current taxation. To avoid duplication, an amount has been deducted from Government and Municipal bonds to cover capital actually invested in railways and in hydro-electric power developments.

Prominent Citizen of Chatham Called by Death

Community of Centreville Bears his Name

Stephen Centre, 78, Died at Portland, Maine.

Stephen B. Centre, a respected and well known figure in this County, passed to his reward on Monday, in his 79th year. Death occurred at Portland, the home of his son Dr. Irvin A. Centre, dentist, where the deceased had spent the past months following a serious operation in a Montreal hospital.

The neighboring community of Centreville bears the name of his illustrious forbears, pioneers in this section of Chatham Township, where Mr. Centre himself served 16 years on the council and one term as mayor. He subsequently engaged in farming, on the farmstead where he was born in 1855, but during his earlier years he resided in North Dakota, where he was engaged in railroad work. At this period he had been grandmaster of the Masonic Lodge. He was an Episcopalian by faith, and a Conservative in politics.

Besides his son he is survived also by his widow, formerly Miss Elizabeth Watson, whom he married in 1882; and by two sisters, Mrs. Dorinda Centre of Seattle, and Mrs. Wm. McEwen, of St. Andrews East—to whom the sympathy of a wide circle of friends and neighbors is extended.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday at the St. Andrews East Anglican Church, interment also following in the local cemetery.

THE LATE M. R. MCINTYRE

Malcolm Robert McIntyre, of Fraser Arm, B.C., died at the Shaughnessy Military Hospital, Vancouver, on May 30th., 1933, and was buried in Mountain View Cemetery, Vancouver.

He leaves a wife and five children, (Dorothy) Mrs. A. E. Johnson of Eston, Sask., by his first marriage; Jean, Geraldine, Marian and Donald, by his second marriage. His sisters, Mrs. E. C. Whinfield, Calumet, Mrs. L. M. Hooker and Mrs. S. S. Campbell, Lachute, Mrs. J. H. Dumouchel, Montreal, and brothers J. H. McIntyre of Montreal and William of Vancouver, also remain to mourn his loss.

His death was the result of wounds received during the War. He enlisted with the 148th Battalion in 1915, went to France with the 13th Battalion as a Sergeant Major, and was wounded the first day of the big drive at Amiens, on Aug. 8th., 1918.

Mr. McIntyre's first wife was Verda May Joss, daughter of Duncan Joss, formerly of Lachute. His second marriage took place in 1920 to Keitha Johnson of Cabri, Sask.

THE LATE MRS. JOHN MCCLUSKEY

The death of Mrs. John McCluskey, occurred at the home of her daughter, Mrs. T. Anderson, Brownsburg, on Saturday, June 3rd., after a short illness.

Mrs. McCluskey was born in St. Andrews East 84 years ago and was formerly Elizabeth McVicar.

The funeral took place on Monday conducted by the Rev. A. E. Hagar, of the United Church, assisted by the Rev. E. G. Baxter of the Maple Avenue Baptist Church.

She leaves to mourn her loss two sons, Leonard of Winnipeg; and Archie of Jackson, Mich.; and two daughters Mrs. Simons, of Red Deer, Alta., and Mrs. T. Anderson, of Brownsburg; also one brother, Mr. J. McVicar, of Montreal, and one sister, Mrs. Wm. Burch, of Montreal. Another son William predeceased her a year ago.

The pall bearers were Messrs. Wm. Horner, David and Wm. Tomalty, W. Lonsdale, W. Fletcher and T. Anderson.

Capt. Boyd, war ace, took off recently from New York for Port au Prince, Haiti, on a good will flight.

ST. SIMEON'S ANNUAL PICNIC

St. Simeon's Church held their annual Sunday School Picnic on Saturday, June 10th, at Morrison's Grove. The weather was ideal and a large number of people, both old and young took advantage of the occasion to enjoy themselves.

A good programme of Sports was engaged in; these included races for all and competition was keen. A great deal of fun was provided in the Soda biscuit contest and the tug-of-war.

After the races, tea was served then the prizes were presented. A peanut scramble adding much to the merriment. The Rectory then thanked those who had contributed to the success of the picnic and shortly afterwards the gathering turned for home tired but happy, having agreed the hours spent at the picnic had been worth while.

"Good-Bye Uncle Jock"

Said Vera Fleck, (left) and Lytte Teppaz, as they shook hands with Captain R. G. Latta, and left the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Britain at Father Point, Quebec, to make an aeroplane dash to Montreal on their way to Chicago where they are contestants in the selection of a "Queen" of the Century of Progress Exposition.

No matter what the contest results Vera and Lytte will carry memories of a thrilling first voyage home with them. The Empress of Britain, one of the world's fastest liners, broke two records for them, and a combination of fast ship, fast plane and fast train gave the two pretty girls the distinction of making the fastest voyage from London and Paris to Chicago ever recorded.

They travelled so fast all the way that Miss Teppaz, who lunched in Paris, Friday, May 18, found herself breakfasting less than six days later in Chicago, May 25. Miss Fleck's record was from breakfast to breakfast. Canadian Pacific officials arranged every detail of their entire journey which, with the exception of two hours and fifty minutes in the air, used the facilities of that organization.

PRESENTATION AT BROWNSBURG

On Monday evening, the Ladies' Guild of St. George's Church, Brownsburg, held a Farewell Reception at the home of Mrs. James Roberts, in honour of Mrs. Robert Golphin, who is shortly leaving to take up residence in Montreal.

Mrs. Ardill, president of the Ladies' Guild, presented her with a silver entrée dish and the Rev. W. LeCras expressed the regret of the society and church in Mrs. Golphin's departure.

Tea was served by Mrs. Roberts and a very enjoyable time was spent.

DISTRICT BOY SCOUTS PARADE AND OPEN AIR SERVICE

The Lachute Boy Scouts are now making arrangements for a Parade and Open Air Church Service in which all the Groups in this district will take part. This event is being planned for Sunday afternoon, 25th. June, and, at this date, the following Groups have agreed to assist:

Brownsburg Group, including Boy Scouts, Cubs and Girl Guides.

St. Andrews East Boy Scouts, Grenville Boy Scouts, Lachute Boy Scouts.

It is hoped that the Weir and Arundel Boy Scouts will also find it possible to be present.

The Parade will be led by the Lachute Brass Band and a selected group from this band will also lead the singing of the hymns during the service which is to be held on the Lachute High School Sports Field.

It is expected that the parade will commence at 2.30 p.m. and the open air service at 3 p.m. (Daylight Saving Time). Full particulars, however, will be announced in the next week's issue of the "Watchman" but in the meantime it is hoped that the people of the district will keep the date in mind as everyone is cordially invited to attend this service.

MEETING OF COUNTY COUNCIL

A meeting of the County Council was held on Wednesday in Lachute, the following members being present: Warden A. O. Kerr (Township of Gore), and Councillors W. Beauchamp (Grenville and Augmentation), R. Legault (Calumet Village), J. E. Seale (Morin Township), George Dansereau (Grenville Village), Alphonse Ouilette (Township of Chatham), W. Pitcairn (Parish of St. Andrews), Camille Leroy (Village of Carillon), Leslie Adamson (Township of Wentworth), Malcolm McRae (Township of Harrington), H. LaJeunesse (Township of Howard), C. J. Staniforth (Arundel), J. E. Walker (Parish of St. Jerusalem), and Samuel Dawson (Mille Isles.)

The new rates established by Government, namely 1½ cents per $100 for total county valuation, towns to pay 2 cents—for maintenance of the Sanitary Unit, were discussed before the Council.

The matter of grant to the Agricultural Society was agreed upon.

Notice of motion was given to prepare a by-law, issuing a fall tax levy of 12 cents per $100 valuation, for county purposes; Lachute Town, Barkmere and the County being levied 1½ cents also for upkeep of the Court House.

Instincts of Youth Told

Prof. Olive Wheeler of Cardiff university college of Cardiff, Wales, said recently that investigation showed that the instincts that most easily got out of control in the case of boys were aggressive ones, while in the case of girls they tended to be passive, tending toward lying and attempted suicide. Professor Valentine of Birmingham said that he had found half his students confessed a tendency during adolescence to suicide in the case of girls and running away from home in the case of boys.

Beautiful Constellation

The Southern Cross constellation is situated near the Antarctic circle, and therefore is never visible in northern latitudes. It consists of four bright stars, to which fancy, aided by Christian associations, gives the cruciform shape. The two brilliant stars which mark the summit and foot of the Southern Cross have nearly the same right ascension, and the constellation, therefore, is almost vertical when passing the meridian so that these two stars act as pointers to the South pole.

Town Locals.

Mrs. Geo. Ball of Brownsburg, left this week to spend a month's visit with friends in Winnipeg.

Mr. and Mrs. Price and son, of Montreal, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. McArthur.

Mrs. Percy Matthews and infant daughter left on Monday for a month's visit with friends in Winnipeg.

Mr. John Campbell is spending a holiday in the West, visiting friends in Calgary and other points to the Coast.

Miss Jessie Logan has returned home, after spending two weeks with her sister, Mrs. F. Roe, at Clarence, Ont.

Mrs. W. W. Perry and son Almer of Vancouver, B. C., are spending a few days this week guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Hamilton.

—While in town for the Fair, visit the new Leonard Store Regd., and stock up with everything you need from 5c. to $1.00. Opposite Argenteuil Motor Sales.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth MacGregor who have been the guests of Mrs. Jas. Bain and other friends are leaving for their home in Winnipeg on Friday.

Miss Freda Mason who obtained her B.A. at McGill Convocation, also received her diploma for high school teaching at Macdonald College on Thursday last.

Among those arriving from the West this week are Mr. Geo. F. McArthur, and Mr. Hector McRae, of Huxley, Alta., and Mrs. Geo. MacGregor, of Winnipeg.

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Martin, accompanied by Mrs. R. S. Clarke and Mrs. P. MacVicar, spent Monday last in Montreal attending the funeral of their aunt, Miss W. Fraser.

Mr. Thereon Carpenter, of Three Rivers, and Mr. Aoy Carpenter and family, of Montreal, were the guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Carpenter, over the week-end.

Miss Sweet, of Montreal, was the week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Cruise. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cruise and family of Carleton Place, Miss Smith, of Montreal, were Sunday visitors.

Miss Ada Murdoch was the hostess at a miscellaneous shower in honour of Miss Janet Stephenson, whose marriage to Mr. Urbain Tomalty took place on Wednesday.

Rev. F. W. Dyson, Mr. Stanley Goldsworthy and Mr. Dudley Collins, spent a few days in Toronto this week, attending the Board Meeting of the Regular Baptists, also visiting friends in London and Kitchen-er, Ont.

"Gabriel Over White House," next week at Rex Theatre, depicts U. S. party politics working to the detriment of the public weal. "What, No Beer?" is another picture on a strictly modern theme, featuring Buster Keaton in 1001 laughs. See program.

ASSISTANT TO BAPTIST PULPITS

Next Sunday morning, Mr. Charles Humber, B.Sc., M.A., will occupy the pulpit in the Maple Avenue Baptist Church. Mr. Humber, whose home is in Goderich, Ontario, has been successful in obtaining degrees from Toronto and Columbia Universities and has completed two years of Theology in McMaster University of Hamilton, Ont. Last summer he was student pastor at Little Current, Ontario, and this year has been appointed to assist Rev. E. G. Baxter in the Brownsburg and Grenville Churches. Mr. Humber has already conducted services and preached very acceptably at Grenville, Chatham W. and Edina.

Rev. Bob Munro concluded his evangelistic services in the Maple Ave. Baptist Church last Sunday, and has returned to his home in Montreal, leaving behind him many friends whose lives have been blessed and strengthened by his cheery gospel message.

FIRE DESTROYED WEST END DWELLING

A fire at 7.30 Wednesday morning destroyed the wooden frame house of Seymour Cox, occupied by Mr. J. Hooper, near the old Boys' Catholic School in Lachute Mills. The outbreak started in the kitchen, and had spread through the house before anything was noted amiss and the call was turned in to the Fire Brigade.

The nearest water hydrant was situated on Princess Street where the firemen connected 2 streams and set the pump in action on the fire truck. The building however was completely gutted, and the next door property occupied by Henri Daoust was also damaged. It is understood Mr. Daoust is partly covered for his loss by insurance.

Muir Bros., in keeping with their wide-awake policy, are putting the finishing touches to a spacious garage in the rear of their filling station. The building is floored with cement, into which a pit has been built on approved modern lines, well equipped and well lighted. The premises are designed to afford better facilities for oiling, greasing, washing and tire service.

Marriage

Tomalty — Stephenson

The marriage of Janet, youngest daughter of Mrs. Annie Stephenson of Dalesville, to Mr. Urbain Tomalty, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. James Tomalty took place on Wednesday afternoon, at three o'clock in the Baptist Church, Dalesville, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. F. W. Dyson.

The church was prettily decorated with pink roses and daisies.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Lawrence Stephenson, was gowned in white silk Organdy with tulle veil arranged in cap effect with orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of pink roses and maiden hair fern. She was attended by her sister, Miss K. Stephenson, who wore a gown of white flowered silk Organdy over pink with blue picture hat trimmed with pink, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Mr. Arthur Titley supported the groom, and Messrs. James A. Murdoch and Archie Morrow acted as ushers.

The wedding march was played by Mrs. F. W. Dyson and during the signing of the register, Miss Elizabeth Goldsworthy sang Love's Old Sweet Song.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother. Later Mr. and Mrs. Tomalty left on the evening train for Toronto, Niagara, and other points. The bride wore a grey travelling suit with accessories to match, and a fox fur. On their return they will reside in Dalesville.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for June 25

REVIEW: JESUS OUR LORD AND SAVIOUR

GOLDEN TEXT—Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost: Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you. Matt. 28:19, 20.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Our Friend.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Our Friend.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Trusting and Obeying Jesus.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Giving Ourselves Unreservedly to Christ.

Two methods are suggested which may be used for the senior and adult classes.

I. A Perplexities Review.
This is suggested by Dr. Amos R. Wells. A perplexity arising from each lesson of the quarter should be assigned to a member of the class a week ahead of time. Suggestions:

- April 2. Why is sickness allowed in the world?
- April 9. Why is the Christian life often so difficult?
- April 16. Why does our Christianity sometimes lack splendor?
- April 23. Why do some men grow hard as they grow older?
- April 30. How can we give without pauperizing the needy?
- May 7. Why must some be masters and others servants?
- May 14. What degree of ambition is wise?
- May 21. How can we conduct controversy without bitterness?
- May 28. What proportion of our income should go to the church?
- June 4. How can we make sure of a complete loyalty to Christ?
- June 11. How is it possible for us to get rid of sin?
- June 18. How can we be certain of living again?

II. The Summary Method.
The aim in the use of this method is to cast up to view the leading facts and deduce from them the leading lesson. The following is suggested:

Lesson for April 2.
Jesus responded to the fervent appeal of the Syrophenician woman to help her demon-possessed daughter. His sympathy is as wide as the race, and his power unlimited.

Lesson for April 9.
Before going to the cross, Jesus retired with his disciples to prepare them for the severe trial through which they were to pass. He instructed them concerning his atoning death, resurrection, and second coming.

Lesson for April 16.
Jesus transfigured. Two men from the upper world were sent to converse with Jesus about his approaching death at Jerusalem, the thing about which the disciples refused to talk.

Lesson for April 23.
The disciples were so steeped in selfishness that they were wrangling over official position while the Lord was facing the cross.

Lesson for April 30.
Jesus as a son was faithful to his parents. In this lesson he sets forth the truth concerning marriage, which is the foundation of the home.

Lesson for May 7.
The supreme purpose of Christ's coming into the world was to die for the salvation of sinners. Through the cross, judgment was passed upon the world, and Satan was cast out.

Lesson for May 14.
Jesus entered Jerusalem and officially presented himself as King to the Jewish nation, according to prophecy. He exercised authority in cursing the fig tree and turning out the money changers.

Lesson for May 21.
The Pharisees, scribes, and Sadducees sought to entrap Jesus so as to hinder his work. The very ones who should have welcomed him sought to destroy him.

Lesson for May 28.
This lesson affords a study of a prophetic outline of events in the interval between Christ's crucifixion and his second coming. According to this outline the present age shows increasing evidence of the near coming of the Lord.

Lesson for June 4.
The black crime of Jesus' betrayal was committed immediately following the beautiful act of Mary's devotion to the Lord (John 12:1).

Lesson for June 11.
The crucifixion of Christ is the grand climax of the lessons for the last six months, and without apprehending its significance, all other lessons are meaningless. Christ saves, not by his ethical teaching, but by his shed blood.

Lesson for June 18.
The resurrection of Christ was announced by an angel, and he was afterward seen by many. Conviction touching the reality of Christ's resurrection is absolutely necessary in order to be an effective witness for him.

The Other Road
"A life of self-effort will never reach the place where we shall glorify God; the other road is a road of faith; if you would believe, thou shalt see the glory of God: let him do the thing for us."—Rev. Guy H. King.

St. John's Gospel
"St. John's gospel begins with the man in the bosom of the father (1, 18), and it ends with the sinner in the bosom of the man" (12, 28).—Mr. R. B. Stewart.

Hints for Homebodies

By JESSIE ALLAN BROWN

NOT EASY TO LIVE ON A DIET

We are born with a desire for food and a capacity for enjoying it, which stays with us all our lives. Sometimes people speak as if their enjoyment of food was something to be ashamed of. This is far from true. A person who does not enjoy good food is not normal. It is quite possible to go too far and live to eat; on the other hand, we should not eat to live, but steer a course midway between, of proper enjoyment of food.

It takes strength of will to stick to a prescribed diet. If you are on a diet and decide that food is more to you than the advantages to be gained by sticking to your diet and you deliberately eat forbidden food, that is up to you. But if you know that you are doing yourself harm and have not strength of character enough to resist, it is an admission of weakness. The time to start building resistance of this sort is in early childhood. Children should never be allowed to eat just anything they want. It is an easy matter to make a child understand that there are foods which it cannot have. But you cannot do this if you let the child sit at the table and have its bits of food that are not good for it. I always feel sorry for a mother who has relations living with her, who insist on giving the baby tastes. "My children always got tastes of everything and it never hurt them a bit". The poor mother is torn between a desire to protect her child and yet hates to offend her relations. Personally, I would say to protect the baby every time. If people grew up without eating everything in sight it is much easier to control their appetites later in life.

There has been a lot of harm done by injudicious dieting especially among young women on reducing diets. There has been more interest taken in nutrition in the last few years as people more and more realize its importance, and there have been a good many half-baked theories floating about. The average person does not need any special diet. Each day they should have plenty of milk, vegetables and fruits, both raw and cooked after that eat the things you want that agree with you.

PEELING CARROTS

The very best of the carrot is right next to the skin and this is often lost through paring them. Scraping is much better it is not necessary to even do this as a carrot skin will slip off just as a beet skin will. Wash your carrots thoroughly and cook with skins on, when cooked hold under the cold water, slip off the skins, cut and season. Saves time and carrot.

LEAF LETTUCE

Years ago, before we were accustomed to head lettuce, the year round, the first leaf lettuce that appeared was hailed with joy. We do not greet it with just the same thrilling joy, but it is still very welcome, especially if it comes out of your own garden. Leaf lettuce lacks the crispness of the head variety, but it has a sweetness all its own. Even the leaf lettuce which comes out of your own garden may be improved by proper handling. First it should be handled gently and not bruised in the handling. Scissors are a better tool than a knife both for cutting it from the roots and for preparing it for the table, if you serve it any other way than in the whole leaf.

Leaf lettuce requires washing and very often the procedure is to go into the garden, cut the lettuce, wash it and immediately use it. A certain amount of water clings to the leaves and the dressing is diluted so that it is too thin to be pleasant and has not sufficient flavour. If lettuce is cut some hours before you wish to use it, washed, and then kept air-tight in a cool place, you will find that it is much crisper and the water will have had time to evaporate and the dressing will not be diluted. Lettuce may be wrapped closely in a cloth, a dry one if the lettuce has just been washed, or if not a damp one; or it may be kept in an air-tight can such as a honey can or a lard pail, always of course in a cool place.

LETTUCE SALAD

Cut leaf lettuce in 1/2 inch strips with scissors, cutting straight across the leaf but in a slanting direction. This prevents the piece from being too long, as a long piece of leaf lettuce is as awkward to eat as spaghetti left uncut. And several spring onions cut in pieces. To my taste, the more onions you use the better the salad, but the amount of onion used should be governed by the taste of the family. It requires at least one onion for each serving, but twice that amount is better. Add hard-cooked egg, using one egg to about four servings. If the salad is to be the main dish for supper or lunch, I increase the amount of egg used, to make the salad more substantial. Mix with the following dressing.

BOILED SALAD DRESSING

- 1 1/2 tablespoons flour
- 4 tablespoons sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 3 teaspoons mustard
- Dash of pepper
- 1 cup liquid (3/4 cup vinegar, 1/4 cup water)

- 1 egg
- 3 tablespoons butter
- 1 cup milk

Mix the dry ingredients in a saucepan and moisten with a little of the vinegar and water. When this is rubbed smooth, add the rest of the vinegar mixture. Add the beaten egg and the butter and cook over a slow fire, stirring constantly until it just comes to the boil. Have the milk heated and add a little at a time and continue cooking and stirring until it again comes to the boil, but no longer. Keep in a covered jar in a cool place. If this dressing is cooked at too high a temperature or for too long a time it is apt to curdle. Do not let this frighten you because it is not hard to make. I have made it almost every week for the last twenty years and it has only curdled twice. I tried to hurry it too much.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE TOPIC FOR NEXT SUNDAY

"Is the Universe, including man, Evolved by atomic force?" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Church of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, June 18.

The Golden Text is: (Isiah 48:12, 13) "Hearken unto me, O Jacob and Israel, my called; I am he; I am the first, I also am the last. Mine hand hath laid the foundation of the earth, and my right hand hath spanned the heavens: when I call unto them they stand up together".

The following passages are selected from among those comprised in the Lesson-Sermon to be read from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:

"Blessed is the people that know the joyful sound: they shall walk, O lord, in the light of thy countenance." (Psalms 89:15).

"The creative Principle - Life Truth and Love - is God. The universe reflects God. There is but one creator and one creation." "The human capacities are enlarged and perfected in proportion as humanity gains the true conception of man and God." (Pages 502 and 258).

Life Alone Had Appeal for Elizabeth Barrett

Elizabeth Barrett was no scholar. Books were to her not an end in themselves but a substitute for living. "There are few of the youngest women in the world," she wrote, "who have not seen more, heard more, known more of society than I, who am scarcely to be called young now. I grew up in the country—I had no social opportunities, had my heart in books and poetry and my experience in reveries."

She raced through folios because she was forbidden to scamp on the grass. She wrestled with Aeschylus and Plato because it was out of the question that she should argue about politics with live men and women. Her favorite reading as an invalid was Balzac and George Sand and other "immortal improprieties" because "they kept the color in my life to some degree."

Nothing is more striking when at last she broke the prison bars than the fervor with which she flung herself into the life of the moment. She loved to sit in a cafe and watch people passing; she loved the arguments and politics and strife of the modern world. The past and its ruins, even the past of Italy and Italian ruins, interested her much less than the theories of Mr. Hume, the medium, or the politics of Napoleon.—London Times.

John Wesley's Thunder Against "Costly Silks"

I conjure you all who have any regard for me, show me before I go hence that I have not labored in vain for half a century. Let me see, before I die, a Methodist congregation full as plain dressed as a Quaker congregation. Only be more consistent with yourselves. Let your dress be cheap as well as plain. Otherwise you do but trifle with God and me and your own souls. I pray let there be no costly silks among you, how grave soever they may be. Let there be no Quaker linen, proverbially so-called for their exquisite fineness; no Brussels lace, no elephantine hats or bonnets, those scandals of female modesty.

It is stark staring nonsense to say, "O, I can afford this or that." No man living can afford to waste any part of what God has committed to his trust. And it is far worse than simple waste to spend any part of it on gay or costly apparel.—From John Wesley's Sermons.

"Johnny Applesseed"

John Chapman, who was born in Springfield, Mass., in 1775, claimed that his mission in life was to have apple trees growing in the western wilderness when the settlers arrived. It is believed that his first nursery was in a narrow valley along the Ohio river, opposite what is now Wellsburg, W. Va. It is estimated that he set out more than 100 nurseries in the forests. Many of the finest orchards in the early days of Ohio and Indiana were composed of trees bought from Johnny Applesseed. He would dig the soil and plant thousands of apples, peach and pear seeds. When he had built a fence of brush around the spot to keep away grazing animals he moved on, and the arriving settlers would find and use the trees they could buy for practically nothing.

THE PARABLE OF THE VACATIONIST

Now it came to pass as summer drew nigh that Mr. Church Member lifted up his eyes unto the hills and said: "Lo the hot days cometh and even now are at hand. Come, let us go unto the lakes and woods where cool breezes refresh us and the glorious scenery awaits us."

"Thou speakest wisely," quoth Mrs. Church Member. "Yet three, yea four things must we do before we go."

"Three things I can think of, but not four," responded Mr. Church Member. "We must arrange for our flowers to be cared for, our chickens fed, and the mail forwarded, but the fourth eludes my mind."

"The fourth is like unto the first three, yet more important than all. Thou shalt dig down into thy purse and pay thy name of thy church be preserved church pledge, that the good and that it may be well with thee, for verily I say unto thee, thou hast more money now than thou wilt when thou dost return."

And it came to pass that Mr. Church Member paid his pledge for the summer and the Treasurer rejoiced greatly saying, "Of a truth there are those who care for the Lord's work and bethink themselves of the Church's expenses which continue in the summer as in the winter. May their tribe increase."

And it was so.

—Adapted.

AT THE FAIR

A new idea in scarecrows was being demonstrated at an agricultural show.

"Efficient?" echoed the demonstrator, "Why when first we tried it out not only did it scare the crows but one old black fellow was so frightened that he brought back some corn he had stolen three days before."

morrow and Saturday at Rex Theatre, in "Troubles."

A wealthy real estate operator had given his little girl a splendidly equipped doll's house. On his return after a week's absence, he asked her how she liked it.

"It's very nice, Daddy."

"But where is it?" he inquired, not seeing it anywhere around the nursery.

"Oh, I rented it furnished to Cousin Betty for 50 cents a week."

Minutes of W. M. S. Sectional Meeting at Point Fortune

The W. M. S. Sectional Meeting for the Ottawa Valley was held at Point Fortune, on June 9, 1933.

The morning session of the convention opened with Mrs. J.
Macaskill, the sectional president, in the chair. The call to worship was followed by the hymn, The Morning Light is Breaking. Mrs. Zimmers, of Brownsburg, conducted the devotional service. She read the parable of the Good Samaritan and the story of the home at Bethany, and offered a prayer of thanksgiving and of consecration.

Mrs. Macaskill introduced the speakers for the day: Mrs. Patton, first vice-president of the Presbyterian; Miss Grant, missionary speaker; Mrs. Wright, Children's work secretary; Mrs.
Patterson, supply secretary.
Mrs. Williamson, of Point Fortune, cordially welcomed the delegates from sister groups and the speakers from the city. Mrs.
Patton brought greetings from the Presbyterial.

The minutes of the last sectional meeting were read and approved. There was a brief discussion about the time for the next convention. It was moved by Mrs. Maclean, seconded by Mrs. McLachlan, and carried that the central executive be asked to arrange for the 1934 sectional meeting to be held in the month of May if possible.

Greetings from the Point
Fortune W. C. T. U. were conveyed by Mrs. H. P. Bezanson, president of that organization.

The memorial service was conducted by Mrs. Maclean, of Cushing, who informed the meeting that the beautiful memorial wreath had been made by Mrs. Cleland of Cushing, and the roses were contributed by Mrs. Williamson, of Point Fortune. The only member of the group who had passed away during the year was Mrs. C. T.
Wales of St. Andrews, who was for fifty-eight years associated with the missionary activities of that place. Mrs. Maclean reviewed briefly the offices she had held during that period, and the work she had done as supply secretary. Mrs. Macaskill, president at the time of her death, gave a sincere tribute to the quiet influence of Mrs. Wales' beautiful character, and to her fragrant memory. The contralto solo, God Giveth Sleep, was sympathetically sung by Mrs. H. P. Bezanson.

Mrs. Usher, of Cushing, was called upon to pray for the temperance work of the W. M. S.
Mrs. Wright then addressed the convention. She pointed out that Mission Band work has three educational values:

1. It broadens the outlook of the child.
2. It enlarges and stimulates his sympathies.
3. It opens his eyes to the privileges of living in a Christian land.

Mrs. Wright also stressed the importance of the children's work in contributing to the training of leaders and supporters for the church of the future.

Mrs. Patterson was the next speaker. She gave vivid pictures of the work done by the supply secretary and her assistants, both in the western field and in sections of the cities. She also told of hardships among the Indians in the various reserves; and described the efforts of Miss Imobersteg and her workers to supply clothing and other necessities to the people in these needy areas. Mrs. Patterson closed with an inspiring appeal for a fresh vision of consecrated service.

Mrs. Gordon of East Settlement offered a closing prayer and the delegates adjourned for lunch.

The afternoon session opened with the singing of Isaac Watts' hymn, Come, Holy Spirit. Mrs.
McGibbon of Lachute read the scripture lesson from the fourth chapter of Ephesians, and Mrs.
J. Hay, also of Lachute, led the devotions. A vocal duet, The Debt of Love, was rendered by Mrs. H. P. Bezanson and Mrs.
Macaskill. The minutes of the morning meeting were read and adopted. Sixty-one women responded to the roll call—Point Fortune 9; Brownsburg 6; La-chute 7; Cushing 9; East Settlement 7; St. Andrews 9; speakers from Montreal, and visitors 14.

Mrs. Patton was the first speaker of the afternoon. She gave a list of the young people who have just been commissioned by the church to join the missionary forces at home and abroad, and a brief sketch of several of these. She spoke of the importance of estimating true value of little beginnings of worth while things—beginnings that may grow to very fruitful ends.

Miss Grant, the next speaker, described the work in "our nearest and oldest" foreign mission field—Trinidad. The missions there have been on a self-governing basis since 1931. Miss Grant read extracts from recent letters of Miss Archibald, one of our missionaries to Trinidad. Later in her address she gave a very interesting account of meetings of the last General Assembly of Edinburgh, which she had been fortunate enough to attend.

During the last twenty minutes of the session Mrs. Patton conducted a question-box discussion on the problems that beset the average W. M. society.
Mrs. Cockfield of Brownsburg, then moved a vote of thanks to the officers and speakers, to all those who had contributed to the program, and to the ladies of Point Fortune for their delightful hospitality—for the delicious lunch that they had served, and the charming floral decorations of church and hall.
This motion was cordially seconded by Mrs. David Rodger, of East Settlement, and carried with applause.

The secretary was instructed to write a note of thanks to Mrs.
Cleland for the attractive wreath of flowers which she had made for the memorial service.

On behalf of the Cushing ladies, Mrs. Maclean invited the sectional groups to hold their 1934 meeting at Cushing. This kind invitation was gratefully accepted. Mrs. McLachlan offered the dismissal prayer, which was followed by the benediction.

Odd Claims Insurance

Companies Had to Pay

The strangeness of some accidents for which insurance companies have been mulcted in the past almost disrupts human belief, says an article in Pearson's Weekly (London). Take lovers, for instance. One man recently received insurance for broken ribs caused by being hugged too endearingly by his fiancée. Another young "sheik" held his sweetheart on his lap until his foot went to sleep. When he rose to say good-by, his leg crumpled up under him, and he bumped himself severely. His insurance company paid for the damage. Take a quiet stroll through your neighborhood, and the same pookish spirit of disaster may be conspiring to work you grievous ill.
At least, that is what an Exeter policeman must have thought recently, when some cough drops exploded in his pocket, and set fire to his clothes so effectively that the local fire brigade had to be called out in order to extinguish them. It was explained later that the tablets contained chlorate of potash, which had ignited through being rubbed against the lining of his pocket as he walked along on his beat.

Popular Quotation Not to Be Found in Bible

Among the many things popularly supposed to be in the Bible is the following oft-quoted saying: "The time will come when you cannot tell summer from winter except by the putting forth of the buds and the falling of the leaves." It is not in the Bible and its origin is not known, says Pathfinder Magazine. Genesis 8:22 seems to express the opposite idea: "While the earth remaineth, seedtime and harvest, and cold and heat, and summer and winter, and day and night, shall not cease." However, like a lot of other "homespun Scripture," the quotation under discussion undoubtedly was suggested by certain Biblical passages. It may have arisen originally from a wrong construction of the words attributed to Jesus in relating the parable of the fig tree. According to Matthew 24:32 and 33 Jesus said: "Now learn a parable of the fig tree: When his branch is yet tender, and putteth forth leaves, ye know that summer is nigh." In Luke 2:29 and 30 and in Mark 13:28 the parable is given in almost the same words.

Poisonous American Snakes

There are only two families of poisonous snakes in the United States, in each of which there are several species. The rattlesnake family, Crotalidae, has three genera—Crotalus, Sistrurus and Agkistrodon. Crotalus is the genus of the common rattlesnakes, of which there are about 15 species.
Sistrurus is the genus of the Massasaugas, of which there are only three species. Agkistrodon is the genus of the copperhead and the water moccasin.
The other family of poisonous snakes is the family of the coral snakes, Elapidae. There are only two species of this family common in the United States—the Harlequin snake and the Sonoran coral snake, both belonging to the genus Elaps.—Washington Star.

Famous Rooms Reproduced

Rooms famous in literature were a feature of the Ideal Homes exhibition held in London. They were reproduced in detail, and were visited by large crowds. There were shown the Boar's Head tavern in Eastcheap in Shakespeare's day, with Falstaff in great form; Little Dorrit's bare garret in Southwark; Sherlock Holmes' foggy Victorian room in Baker street; a drawing room from "Pride and Prejudice"; Trilby's studio, with its long sloping window overlooking the romantic roofs of somewhere near the "Boule Mich," and the hut millions have so often pictured and longed to live in, the home of Robinson Crusoe.

Salaries of Presidents

The French President receives about $152,000 a year. The President of the United States receives a salary of $75,- 000 a year with an allowance of $25,- 000 for traveling and entertainment expenses. The French President, however, is chargeable for practically all the expenses of the upkeep of his houses, as well as all services and personal charges. He is at the expense of entertaining and of traveling. The winter home of the French President is the palace of the Elysee and he has the choice for summer occupancy of several chateaux owned by the government.

Cheap Tea

In the days long ago when tea was too expensive for the children of agricultural laborers in Essex and Sussex, a beverage was given them made from the scalded raspings of over-baked bread called "Towd Tea" (the Old Tea). The stimulating qualities of tea were well described by an old woman, who said: "It must be a bad complaint that a cup of tea didn't cure." In those days also poor men often smoked dried willow leaves in place of tobacco, which they could not afford to buy.—Montreal Herald.

More Dependable

Three weeks after buying a moderately priced diamond for his fiancée, a young man trudged disconsolately into the jewelry store and tossed a tiny box on the counter, saying:
"There's the engagement ring I bought here. I want to trade it in on a good watch—something I can put a little faith in."

They Had to Fit

A private in the army of the unemployed, signing himself A. J. B., reports: "The help wanted ad called for 'bookkeeper not taller than 5 feet 6 inches.' I'm not a bookkeeper and I'm 5 foot 10 in what's left of my socks, but I'm terribly curious and, having nothing else to do, I went around to the place. The boss started to wave me away, but I said, 'Wait a minute! Why the 5 feet 6?'" Our bookkeeping department is located in a mezzanine gallery, sez he.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Natural "Golf Balls"

Nature apparently was in a playful mood when she created some of the formations in Manti national forest, Utah. Among the most unusual specimens are scores of almost perfectly round hard-stone balls found in the soft sandstone strata, some of them two or three feet in diameter. They are known as "Goliath's golf balls," and scientists are studying them in an effort to explain their origin.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Careful Johnny

Johnny had been sent upstairs to wash his hands and face before sitting down to supper with company. A few minutes later, from the top of the stairs, he yelled down in a voice audible to all: "Hey! There's only clean towels up here. Will I start one?"

Treasures in Library

Buffalo public library has thousands of dollars' worth of rare books hidden away in its shelves, according to the head librarian. Many of them are under lock and key. Irreparable histories of Buffalo and the Niagara frontier are included in the list. Scrapbooks of anecdotes of Grover Cleveland, Millard Fillmore and Elbert Hubbard are found alongside guide books on Niagara falls dated as far back as 1833, newspapers with 1811 date lines, and Buffalo city directories since 1828. The books are available for reference to those making a study of frontier history.

Fossil "Hunting Ground"

The single district where more different types of fossil remains have been found than any other is the district within the city limits of Los Angeles, Calif., known as LaBrea Pits. LaBrea is a Spanish word meaning "the tar" and these pits are so called because of a large yield of tar which comes from them, in which the remains of a large number of prehistoric animals were imbedded. Apparently the tar insured these animals at the time it was formed and the bones are in a remarkable state of preservation in many cases.

BROWNSBURG

A very pleasant surprise party was given at the home of Mrs. White on Friday the 9th. inst. in honor of their eldest daughter Winnifred.

An enjoyable time was spent by all the guests. Music was provided by talented friends and dancing, singing and other forms of pleasure combined to make the evening long remembered by all who attended.

The guest of honor, Winnie, expressed her appreciation to her large circle of friends, for this expression of goodwill.

ARUNDEL

MILLE ISLES PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The Mille Isles Presbyterian Church is again open for the season and will remain so until Sept. 24. The student in charge this year, is Mr. W. S. Reid, of Westmount, P. Q., and he hopes that the Presbyterians both of Mille Isles and Cote St. Gabriel will do their utmost to help and support him in his work.

At a meeting after church service on June 11, it was decided it would be advisable to alter the time of the services so that they would not conflict with those of the Anglicans. It was therefore agreed that when the Anglican service was held in the morning the Presbyterian one would be held in the afternoon, and when the Anglican service was held in the afternoon the Presbyterian would be held at 7.00 p.m. (Standard Time). Therefore next Sunday, June 18, the service will be held in the Presbyterian Church at 7.00 p.m. and the following Sunday at 3.00 p.m. (Standard Time.)

Mr. W. Lamb has returned after a month's holiday at Cushing.

Mrs. L. H. Cairns of Sawyer-ville, is visiting her son Mr. H. Cairns.

The following ladies attended the Sectional Meeting of the W. M.S. at Pte. Fortune last Friday afternoon, Mrs. J. Macaskill, Mrs. H. P. Bezanson, Mrs. J. DeWitt, Mrs. V. F. Lilly, Mrs. G. Jeffrey, Mrs. Pert, Mrs. Judd, the Misses Pitcairn, Miss T. Wales and Miss E. Henry.

Dr. Geoffrey Simpson and family occupied their home over the week-end.

The Reading Circle held the last meeting for the season on Friday evening. Mrs. Pitcairn gave an interesting discourse on the subject of "Atoms." After some discussion, Mr. Pitcairn read Sir Arthur Salter's views on the vexed question of Reparations. These fortnightly gatherings have been most enjoyable and will be resumed on the 2nd. of September. Mrs. J. DeWitt will present the topic for that evening.

LAKEFIELD

A Lawn Social was held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Tomalty under the auspices of the W. I., the Rev. A. E. Mount acting as chairman. After refreshments had been served a pleasing program of songs and dialogues was given by the young people.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Mann have opened their summer home here and entertained a number of guests from Montreal over the week-end.

Miss M. Sherritt and Miss V. Tomalty have left to attend the W. I. Convention at Ste. Anne's, as the Lakefield delegates.

A young man about 14 years of age stopped at Ralph's Corner recently for refreshment, giving information that he had left Lachine Saturday noon for Morin Heights via St. Jerome, arriving in Lakefield at noon on Sunday. He was making the trip by bicycle and expected to make Lachine by night.

This community has been sorry to hear of Rev. A. E. Mount's illness and his many friends wish him a speedy recovery.

A "bee" for the purpose of improving the condition of the Trinity Church graveyard, will be held on Tuesday, June 27th. It is most earnestly hoped that all the interested friends will help on this much needed work. Luncheon will be served by the ladies of the W. A.

Husband: "You're crazy already. I stopped half an hour ago."

TOWN LOCALS

Mr. and Mrs. Bert McArthur of Ottawa, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. McArthur.

Among those attending the Annual Convention of the Women's Institute at Macdonald College this week are, Mrs. G. Armstrong, Lachute Road, Miss Tomalty, Miss Wood and Mrs. Kuhring of Lakefield, Mrs. J. S. Giles, Lachute; Mrs. Wyman McGibbon, Mrs. Ardill and Miss Poitras of Brownsburg, and Mrs. Davis of Morin Heights.

GRENVILLE BAY

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. W. Peterson and son Frank spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Brechin.

Miss Denniston, of Ottawa, spent the week-end the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Stewart.

Mr. and Mrs. John Stewart spent a few days in Ottawa the guests of Mr. & Mrs. Wm. Orr.

Mrs. T. H. Grey of Montreal, was a welcome guest at the Cottage recently, returning to Montreal by motor with her son Earl.

The ladies of St. Giles church met at the home of Mrs. Wm. Macken, business being the order of the day. Ten ladies were present and a pleasant afternoon was spent. The hostess assisted by Mrs. Lloyd served a most enjoyable tea. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Goudie.

Mrs. J. B. McJannet, of Montreal, and son James have opened up Kingie Cottage for the summer.

Mr. T. D. McMichael has left to work at Pointe au Chene.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Grey called at the Cottage on Sunday.

Local Radio Amateurs Attend Radio Hamfest at Malone

On Tuesday, May 30, local Amateur VE2FR, (G. A. Hammond), VE2GC, (Joey Bernier), VE2GH (W. E. Hammond), and Mr. N. R. Anderson, motored to Malone, N. Y., to attend the Regular Annual Hamfest of the Northern New York Radio Amateurs. This was sponsored by the Adirondack Radio Club.

They went to St. Lambert and were joined by the Westmount Radio Club and the South Shore Radio Club, then leaving for Malone, a procession of five cars led by a Baby Austin carrying the emblem of the American Radio Relay League. Arriving at Malone the guests registered at the Hotel Flanagan and spent the time getting acquainted with the other "hams", also looking over the exhibits of Amateur apparatus there. The Canadian delegation received a very warm welcome by the American "hams". The banquet was called for 8 o'clock and as the spread proceeded, it was easy to tell the Canadians there, by looking at the empty plates. After the supper there were speeches by the past president and Mayor Cardinal of Malone. Regular business was attended to and an election of officers for the coming year. A motion was made to include the Canadians, which was unanimously passed. Also a name was suggested for the new organization, being "The St. Lawrence Valley Amateur Transmitters' Association"; this was also unanimously adopted.

Spring and fall meetings were agreed upon, with the approaching fall meeting to be held in Montreal on the Sunday preceding Labor Day. The rest of the evening was spent in contests and games. An interesting competition was the Liars' Contest which was won by A.Y.L. operator (a young lady!) Miss Margaret Steiner, of Saranac Lake. It is reported the men in the contest did not do badly either, even the local "ham" VE2GC, who got up and stated that he believed all the other liars had said! There was also a talk by Mr. Waller of the R.C.A. Laboratories, which the Canadians were unable to hear on account of having to return home. But nevertheless, all those who attended thoroughly enjoyed themselves and voted the event a great success, in linking the amateurs of the two countries together.

While discussing a proposed picnic with the Montreal members, VE2GH suggested that they hold this get-together at Lachute, and invite the Ottawa amateurs to join in. The suggestion was taken up, the Montrealers considered it an excellent idea. A picnic was therefore arranged, to take place in Lachute on June 25th., Sunday being the only day most of them would be able to attend. An invitation was sent to the Ottawa enthusiasts, who have reported they would be delighted to attend. So on Sunday the 25th. this town will see probably the biggest gathering of Radio amateurs in Eastern Canada. It might be noted in connection with this report, the local amateurs are better known outside of Lachute than they are at home, and have done considerable to put the name of this town on the map, at least before the amateur radio enthusiasts of this and other continents.

CRITICISM IS EASY

It is queer how complacent some people seem to feel when they have criticised a teacher, a housemate, or perhaps the office mate. Apparently they feel that their criticism sets them apart as distinctly superior. The matter is that criticism is the easiest job going. It is a collection of down-and-

Flew Here Over Exhibition Plunged to Death Next Day

Bernard Martin, Montreal airplane pilot, who circled over Lachute in an autogiro during the Exhibition last Friday, met his death next day while testing a Curtiss-Reid Courier plane at Longueuil. He was alone in the machine at the time of the crash, and nobody was able to tell the definite cause of the accident.

Martin, with his autogiro advertising "British Consols", was a familiar spectacle to Montaguers, and among fellow aviators to whom he was known personally, had the reputation of an "all weather pilot" of commendable grit. The "British Consols" machine appeared over Lachute last week, to the interest of crowds at the Exhibition, and Martin landed on the nearby grounds of Ayers Limited, where he conversed with one or two people of the town. His death occurred next day in the accident at Longueuil.

County Orange Lodge Held Semi-Annual

At the semi-annual meeting of the County Orange Lodge, held in Louisa on Wednesday, June 14th., Mr. Stanley Holt was presented with a Club Bag as a token of appreciation for his services as Master of Louisa Lodge for the past six years, also for having brought in the largest number of candidates during the year 1932. The Rev. W. J. H. Lummis complimented him upon his successful work. There were 52 members present from throughout the County, and after the session the members adjourned to the banquet hall for supper, and a social hour was well spent.

Golf Club Has Attractive Program for Season

The Lachute Golf Club has drawn up an interesting schedule of competitions, to be played on Saturdays throughout the season. The events are outlined as follows:

- June 24th. One Club Competition (Mixed)
- July 1st. Ladies vs. Men.
- July 8th. Driving, Approaching and Putting (Mixed)
- July 15th. Tombstone (Mixed)
- July 22nd. Surprise Competition (Mixed)
- July 29th. Sweepstakes (Mixed)
- Aug. 5th. Qualifying Round for Ayers Cup (18 Holes).
- Aug. 12th. Two-Ball Sealed Hole (Mixed).
- Aug. 19th. Four Ball (Mixed).
- Aug. 26th. Presidents vs. Vice-Presidents (Mixed).
- Sept. 2nd. Men vs. Ladies (Handicap, Special Rules).
- Sept. 4th. Final, Ayers Cup (36 Holes) and Ladies' Day.

outs, listen to their talk for half an hour, and you will find them criticising the Premier, the Government, the farm board and the financiers of Wall Street. Men who have never made good in anything since they were born will sit by the hour, criticising those who have made good in everything they have ever undertaken. Do not pat yourself on the back because you are a thoroughgoing critic. That is easy to be. When you try to do something worth while is the time to encounter difficulties.

District Boy Scouts Parade and Open Air Service

Arrangements have now been completed for the Parade and Open Air Service on Sunday afternoon, June 25th., in which the following Groups will take part:—

Brownburg Group, including Boy Scouts, Rovers, Cubs and Girl Guides; St. Andrews East Boy Scouts; Greenville Boy Scouts; Weir Boy Scouts; Arundel Boy Scouts; Lachute Boy Scouts.

The Groups will assemble at the Canadian Pacific Railway Station yard opposite the Windsor Hotel, at 2.15 p.m. (Daylight Saving Time) and be in readiness to march off at 2.30 p.m.

The Lachute Brass Band will lead the parade, which will follow the route of Bethany Street and Main Street to the Lachute High School grounds.

At 3 p.m. the Open Air Service will commence with the Flag Raising Ceremony by the Lachute Boy Scout Group. Rev. W. LeCras, Rev. W. B. Rosborough, B.A., B.D., Rev. Henry Cousens, B.A., B.D., and the Rev. F. W. Dyson have kindly consented to assist in the service, and five members of the Lachute Brass Band will lead the singing. A collection will be taken up to help to defray expenses. At the conclusion of the service the Flag Lowering Ceremony will be performed by the Brownburg Group, followed by the march past at which the salute will be taken by Mr. F. G. Hicks, Field Commissioner for the Province of Quebec.

It is hoped that the people of the town and surrounding districts will show their interest in the worthy movement by attending the service in large numbers. A very cordial invitation is extended to all.

A Hint to the Small Town Merchant

With only a few exceptions it is not necessary for citizens to go beyond the town limits to secure any article or service which may be required, comments 'Brampton Conservator'. But, it continues, how many people are aware of this fact? Are we entirely justified in losing patience too quickly with those who, when in the market for some article or product, rush off to the city and afterwards announce to their friends: "I bought so and so in the city, and it only cost me so much, wasn't that a bargain?" Maybe, then, the purchaser is not altogether to blame. Is it not possible that our merchants have been a little lax? They have good stocks and can give excellent service at right prices. But what are they doing about it? Are they afraid that a public announcement of these facts in their local newspaper will make it impossible for them to look after the crowds? Why keep the facts obscured in secrecy while out-of-town merchants absorb business by means of modern and concentrated advertising methods.

Sunday on the Farm

(Toronto Mail and Empire)

The Hanover Post, under the heading of "Another Season of 'Let's Go' Sundays Is Upon us" comments on the growing lack of Sabbath observances in Canada due in part to the facilities for travel offered by motor vehicles. It then draws attention to a Sunday practice which has undoubtedly developed into a nuisance:

"Residents of the rural sections are often made 'the goat' in this Sunday exodus from the towns and villages. Farmers are a hospitable class, and there would appear to be reason to believe that this hospitality is often imposed upon. When urban residents swoop down upon them to the number of ten,

Native of County Died Suddenly at Cowansville

Dr. David Alexander Rodger who passed away at Cowansville, on Saturday, June 17th., was one of the well known and loved physicians of the Eastern Townships. He was born July 23rd. near Lachute of Scotch parentage, the son of William Rodger and Anne Robertson. He received his education at Lachute High School, Bishop's College and McGill University and began the practice of his profession at Mansonville, P. Q.

In 1904 he removed to Cowansville and since then had lived and worked there. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church and belonged to the order of Free-Masons.

Dr. Rodger served in the Municipal Council several years and was Chairman of the Protestant Board of School Commissioners which office he had held for nearly twenty years. He took a great interest in educational matters and it was largely through his efforts that the Heroes' Memorial School in Cowansville was built and his efforts for the welfare of the pupils and staff never faltered. All his life, by precept and example, he exerted his influence on the side of right.

For the last five years he had been in ill-health but up to that time he practised his profession in Cowansville. His patients were his friends and rich and poor alike mourn his passing.

He is survived by his widow, Mabel Alice Boright and his son Dr. William Sherman Rodger, one brother, W. J. Rodger, of Lachute, and four sisters, Mrs. W. H. Gordon, Mrs. W. M. Scott and Mrs. J. H. Black, of Lachute, and Mrs. A. C. McPhee, of Cowansville, and other relatives.

The Late Alfred Goldworthy

The death occurred at his home in Kitchener, Ont., on June 14th., of Alfred Goldworthy, aged 61, a former resident of Lachute, and the father of Mr. Stanley Goldworthy of this place. Born in Linlithgow, Scotland, the late Mr. Goldworthy spent the greater part of his early life in Carlisle, England, where he was for many years in the employ of the L. & N. W. Railway. Since coming to Canada in 1907 he has resided in Quebec, where he was Superintendent of the Quebec Sailors' Institute; in Montreal, where he was in the employ of McArthur, Irwin Limited; in Lachute, where, in different capacities he served J. C. Wilson Limited and Ayers Limited, being night watchman for the latter firm in the early part of the War, and while still residing here he was employed as time-keeper by the Dominion Cartridge Company in Brownburg, during the war-time activities. His latter years were spent in Kitchener, Ont. He is survived by his widow, three daughters, five sons, also twelve grand-children. Interment was at Kitchener.

Lachute Fair Makes Good Showing Despite Unfavorable Weather

Sir George Hires Special Train at His Own Expense

Keeps Promised Appointment at Lachute Fair

To Rt. Hon. Sir George Perley, dean of the Dominion cabinet and at present acting prime minister (says the Ottawa Citizen of Monday last) a promised visit to his constituency is something that must not be interfered with. When Sir George learned that he would be unable to preside over the noon cabinet meeting Saturday and catch a train that would get him in Lachute, Que., in time for the opening of the annual fair, he hired a train at his own expense. In Lachute, one of the most important towns in Sir George's riding of Argenteuil, the veteran parliamentarian was to play a prominent part in the opening ceremonies. Wishing to arrive there as rested and fit as possible, Sir George discarded the motor and airplane as a method of transportation and resorted to the type of travelling facility he had most depended upon during a parliamentary career of more than 30 years.

Corpus Christi Parade Last Sunday

Corpus Christi was duly solemnized in town on Sunday last. The weather was fine and the procession was one of the largest ever seen in the history of this community. The repository was at the Banque Provinciale on Main Street, the Rev. Father Billeau, officiating, assisted by Revs. Father Bergeron and Bro. Desormeaux, O.S.V. The artisans were present with their flags and badges, and music was furnished by the Lachute Brass Band.

Brownburg Teacher in Motor Accident

Miss Hamilton, teacher at the Brownburg Consolidated School met with a painful accident at 9 o'clock last evening when, alighting from a car on Maple Avenue, she passed behind the machine to cross the street, stepping into the path of a car driven by Mr. Munich from Weir. Miss Hamilton was knocked down, suffering severe head injuries, and was immediately removed to the home of Mrs. Alex. Mason, where she is a boarder. Dr. Mason was summoned from Lachute, and reports the young lady is now making satisfactory progress. Miss Hamilton's home is in Shawville, Que. The mishap appeared quite accidental, no blame being reflected upon the driver, who was proceeding towards Brownburg at an orderly pace.

"Brussels Post"—

We have often heard people saying that the pioneers never got any assistance when they came to this country. Probably this is true.

They got in here and had to make it stick. They had no way of getting out.

But there are other things to consider.

The pioneers were not paying for paved roads.

They were not paying for an expensive school system.

They were not paying to help keep an army of inspectors busy on the instalment plan.

They did not have to invest hundreds of dollars in harvesting machinery.

They did not have to pay for

For another year Lachute Fair is now over, and while the weather proved anything but favorable, those who had the pleasure of attending on Saturday afternoon were treated to an exhibit, in the ring, of cattle and horses that, with a possible exception of the Royal Show in Toronto, could not be excelled, and even at the latter Show, many of our stock breeders have brought home many laurels in Dominion competition. The grand parade in the show ring is the real life of the Fair, and it was a pleasing sight to watch this splendid array, where 72 horses and upwards of 100 cattle were on display in addition to a large number that were not brought into the ring.

The Associated Screen News were on hand and captured several interesting pictures for reproduction on the screen, one of which included the presentation by Rt. Hon. Sir George Perley of the Davis Cup, which has been won 12 times by our noted horseman Mr. Gilbert Arnold for the best heavy draft team. Owing to pressure of duties at Ottawa Sir George was unable to leave the Capital in the early morning, so he chartered a special train at his personal expense and was accompanied by his son-in-law Mr. P. Robertson, and his two grandsons; this was all greatly appreciated by President W. H. Ayers and the directorate, who recognize that as acting Premier during the absence of Hon. R. B. Bennett in England, Sir George's time is so fully occupied.

Notwithstanding the threatening rain there was a goodly attendance on Friday and 8 o'clock found the grand stand well filled. But just about 9 o'clock the storm broke and a heavy downpour of rain put a damper on the vaudeville acts, although some of the turns were proceeded with between showers. The Grenadier Guards Band, however, were equal to the occasion, and in humorous strain each member individually gave impressions of the popular numbers "It ain't going to rain no more" "How dry I am",—although they were soaked through! They continued with a number of popular airs in which the crowd took up the singing, so that everyone kept cheery and made the best of this turn of hard luck.

THE LATE JOHN MARTIN

With the death of Mr. John Martin, on Sunday afternoon, June 18th., 1933, Lachute and vicinity mourn the loss of another of her old and much loved citizens. Mr. Martin was born in the Seigneurie, Argenteuil where the greater part of his life was spent, until he moved to Lachute about 20 years ago. Although he had been in failing health for some time, his death came as a shock to his relatives and friends as he had been confined to bed for three days only. His beloved wife, Jean Fraser, predeceased him some 15 months ago.

The funeral was conducted by the Rev. Henry Cousens, B.D., on Wednesday afternoon, June 21st., at the home of his daughter, Mrs. R. S. Clarke, Brownburg, Que.

The deceased leaves to mourn his loss, two daughters, Mrs. R. S. Clarke, Brownburg; Mrs. P. McVicar, Dunany; three sons, William and John of North Dakota, and Hugh, of Lachute; also eight grandchildren and ten nieces and nephews.

THE CAPTAIN'S CORNER

For Our Boy Readers

THE CAPTAIN'S WEEKLY LETTER.

"The World is waiting for the Sunrise."

Dear Boys :

All people in the world today seem to be waiting. The business man in his office, though he goes on carefully with the detailed work before him, appears to be waiting eagerly for those greater events, which his knowledge and experience force him to believe are about to take place. So also with the Agriculturist; he too seems to be looking beyond the limit of his own immediate activities, watching for the opportunities which he considers will very soon be his to take advantage of. Even those who have the government of our country in their hands perform their labours merely as an earnest preparation for the larger and better work they will undertake, when the proper time arrives. Because all this is so absolutely true at the present moment, it is not incorrect to say the whole world is waiting for the sunrise—And part of this world is You.

One day, many years ago, I stood with a small boy on the very top of a Welsh mountain. It was early dawn and around us were the cold grey mists that all through the night had made this place, and the valley beneath, their home.

"We shall never see anything" complained the youngster at my side.

"Wait, you must have patience" I enjoined.

And then the miracle happened. A golden ray of colour swept aside the damp curtain around us, and the great rising sun sent its beams of wondrous beauty across a sky, the blue of which was only equalled by that of a lake, sparkling in the light of a new born day.

"I was not prepared for that," gasped the boy in his astonishment.

Now it seems to me that while you are still young and working at your school lessons, your position and that of the small boy on the mountain top are the same.

You are surrounded with mists; mists of doubt, and not a little fear as to what the future may hold for you. There is however no reason why you should be troubled in this way. You are Canadian boys, the future citizens of a great country. If your hearts were not brave and your outlook manly; if, as I say, your eyes had not looked towards the mountain-top all these early years of your young lives, you would not have reached the place you have, or struggled up so far. Don't say you will never see anything. Don't be discouraged by any seeming failure, for such does not exist, as far as you are concerned.

The World is waiting for the Sunrise. When it comes I hope and pray that you will never have to say, "I was not prepared."

Your affectionate friend,

THE CAPTAIN.

THE CAPTAIN'S SERIAL STORY OF ADVENTURE

Special to The Watchman

Chapter 22.

"And the Land said, 'I Welcome You'"

—Stanley

It was not long before the two boys returned to the deck, carrying in their hands that portion of their property which was at all portable; the remainder they had got ready for shipment later on. While awaiting their turn to go ashore they watched with no little interest the stream of passengers making their way over the side. The most important people naturally went first, escorted by their servants, and in some cases, if their position warranted, by one or other of the ship's officers. Some of them they knew by sight while others had been their companions in many a ship-board game or adventure. But perhaps those in whom they were most interested were the Army officers. It was not only the smartness of their uniforms but the easy air of command adopted by these gentlemen, that appealed to the boys.

"I would like to be one of those" said Edgar, pointing out a party of three military personages, who were moving down the gangway. "It would be grand to have a lot of men to rule over, and go into battle and win battles. Then you would be able to come home, and the King would say, 'Kneel down my brave general'"

"—And then you would be Sir Edgar Dickson!" interrupted Walter, with a laugh.

But the younger lad was not easily diverted from the thoughts that interested him so much.

"Oh, I did not mean exactly that," he answered, flushing a little. "What I was really thinking of was the adventure and excitement a soldier has. I know this, Walter, that as soon as I am old enough I shall ask Dad to buy me a commission."

"In the meantime" responded his chum, "it's our turn to go ashore. See, your father and Sunny Jim are waiting for us. Hurry up, young fellow, there's quite a lot to be done before you put on the King's Uniform."

This was indeed true, especially when the two youngsters found themselves on the crowded quay-side. It was all very bewildering, and for a moment they could not even move, so thick was the throng around them. Here for the first time they saw Indians, and heard the French language, and felt that in some mysterious way they had entered into an entirely new world.

Struggling and pushing, they at length succeeded in reaching the place where Mr. Dickson stood, and Edgar especially was thankful; for though he would not admit such was the case, particularly to Walter after his talk about Soldiers, he felt rather nervous and frightened.

"Well, here you are boys," said Tom Dickson cheerfully, "and I have arranged that we stay at a farm not far away from this city of Quebec, for a few days until we get our bearings. You see, I shall probably have to be in and out of here quite a lot, but there is no need for either of you to suffer in cramped quarters. They would be very small, for even some of the citizens cannot find houses, I am told—Ah, here is the cart, I was looking for."

THE BIRDS CHANGED THEIR MINDS

Annabelle May skipped down the street Golden curls and gown so neat, Up in a tree a wee grey bird Whistled his thoughts—and of course, I heard

"—Sweet, sweet, isn't she sweet", This birdie sang and his mate said Sweet!

Until Annabelle heard her mother call "Come into the house dear, you're too small

To wander alone on a busy street," Annabelle May looked down at her feet.

She stamped them hard, then ran away, And a birdie up in a tree said "Sa-ay."

Her face was frowning, her mouth in a pout, The birds stopped singing and hopped about,

The gray bird whistled quite loud "Cheer! cheer!" This Annabelle May who could look so sweet."

"Cheer! cheer!" they said, until her brother Took Annabelle May right home to her mother

They heard her scream as he took her away, And a birdie up in a tree said "Sa-ay!"

HOME SWEET HOME

A startled sound broke from Bert's lips. He drew his feet swiftly each side of his chair and stared down at the object on the floor.

Not expecting to see a big green turtle waddling across the verandah floor, he did not quite know what to think, nor did the others when he drew their attention to it.

Maud stood up on her chair she was not exactly frightened but she did not fancy the idea of a turtle crawling over her feet.

Nora called "Oh Aunt Sue, come here please."

Aunt Sue was already on her way, brought there by May's shriek, and her incoherent tale of "something awful on the verandah."

"It's a turtle, a mud-turtle; it has found its way here from the river edge or the creek, as of course it is flooded too," she said.

"Will it bite, Aunt Sue?" Nora asked, moving closer to her auntie as he asked the question.

"I do not think so, dear; if you just leave it alone it will probably walk right across the verandah and disappear into the water on the other side."

Edgar and Walter looked with interest at the vehicle which drew up alongside their guardian. It was more like a wagon than anything else, but had four large, very light wheels which (they learned afterwards) were really necessary because of the badness of the roads. Indeed in some districts there were no highways at all, merely trails across the country, difficult indeed to follow. They still waited, while Sunny Jim went off with two Indian boys to collect the remainder of their baggage; and it was not till half an hour later that they started off on their journey.

"A little better than the sea!" remarked Walter with a sigh of satisfaction as he noted the wide green fields and leafy trees which bordered the road on which they travelled.

"I don't know about that," retorted Edgar holding on tight to his seat as the cart gave a sudden bump, "that jolt very nearly had me out of this thing, and if we have many miles to go I shall be black and blue all over, besides being as stiff as a ramrod."

Overhearing this, his father laughed. "Only three miles my boy"; he replied, "and then your troubles for awhile will be over."

"Good!" said Walter "for though I had something to eat before leaving the ship it's hungry I am now, and I could eat a horse."

Talking together and gazing at the scenery, time soon passed, until at length their driver, who appeared to be a French-Canadian, pointed in the direction of a large cluster of trees above which could be seen the roof of a big house.

"Is this where we stay?" enquired Edgar eagerly, straining his eyes to get a better look.

"Yes, my boy; this will be our home until later on, when we'll make one for ourselves," replied Tom Dickson.

—But he did not know that many strange adventures awaited them before that time.

again the slippery-looking head came cautiously out.

"Imagine it, Mother," Uncle Dick said laughing. "Imagine Old Uncle Mose coming back to me again after all these years. That is one pet you won't get to take home, Nora, I am going to take Uncle Mose home myself, and put him in our creek."

"You are quite welcome to him, Uncle, I much prefer my hen," Nora's voice sounded so full of relief that the two uncles laughed heartily. "You don't love turtles very much I see, Nora. But if you had had Uncle Mose as long as I had him when a young lad, you would be as glad to see him as I am."

"Who named him Uncle Mose, Dad?" Bert asked.

"Your Uncle Ned, here. He said he reminded him so much of an old man who used to travel around here when we were boys. The turtle moved so slowly that Uncle Ned said he was another Uncle Mose; so we called him that."

"Do you suppose that Nancy's pup will come back years after, like Uncle Mose?" Billy asked quite seriously.

"That's a question I cannot answer, Billy. If he does, will you call him Uncle Mose?"

"That would be a splendid name" said Maud, who had come down from her chair but was keeping her eye on Uncle Mose just the same, so that he could not get close to her without her seeing him. "That head" she said half under her breath, gets me."

"I don't think that Uncle Mose would be a very suitable name for Nancy's pup" said May "it is quite too long. I should call him Rip Van Winkle, instead."

"Huh!" said Keith, "trust a girl to pick a silly name. Why, May, Rip Van Winkle is much longer than Uncle Mose."

"I know it is, but we could call him Van for short, you know. —And make it sound as though you wanted some one to move you all the time; Van, Van, Van," he said, sort of sarcastically, so that everyone laughed until Nora said "please don't talk about Nancy's pup any more. I am getting lonesome for Nancy. Perhaps she will be lost too by the time we get home—if we ever do!"

"You will be seeing Nancy in the morning, Nora, so cheer up," said Uncle Ned. "Mr. Armstrong was going to make a bee and invite his neighbors to help get that ferry ready, so that we can be on our way. You with your hen and I with my turtle. Won't that be fine eh! Speaking of getting home reminds me that I meant to call Smiths and have them tell Marjorie we are quite safe and will be home in the morning."

"Marjorie called while you were out; she did not seem to know that there had been a flood at all, so I did not tell her I just said that everybody was fine, but not to look for you until to-morrow sometime." Aunt Sue said. "I asked her if she was getting lonesome for her family, and she said she would be glad to see them when they got home; she and Grandpa were finding the house quiet without them, the wee rascals."

"Huh!" said Bert "wee rascals indeed; and here I am almost as tall as Dad here."

"Mother's boys are always wee until they leave the old home and go away," said Grandpa.

What a lot of unexpected things had happened . . . what a lot the children would have to tell the boys and girls at school when they got home.

—But what Maud and Nora and their brothers did not know was that, when they got home, there would be news of Nancy's pup. Whether it will be good news or not, we will see next week.

The Ottawa Spotlight

By Wilfrid Eggleston

Ottawa, June 20.—The Department of Immigration is finding Peter Verigin, the 'Christ of the Spirit Wrestlers' a difficult man to deport. Their second attempt collapsed very quickly when a Winnipeg judge granted a writ of habeas corpus on the ground that proceedings at the immigration board of inquiry were rash and repugnant to British ideas of justice. The first effort got Verigin as far as Halifax, and if Peter Makaroff, Verigin's lawyer, and Shukin, vice-president of the brotherhood, had not raced by aeroplane to take up legal cudgels on behalf of the Doukhobor chief, he would have been on board ship and away before they were able to get to his side.

By some of the community Doukhobors, Verigin is held to be a leader by Divine choice and right, and some of them have threatened to follow him to the ends of the earth, abandoning their holdings in Canada. The 'Independent' Doukhobors, who do not hold Verigin in such reverence are, however, anxious to have him remain in Canada because they fear uprisings among the community Doukhobors, and new hardships and distresses which will indirectly affect every one of the 20,000 Doukhobors in Canada.

The officials of the department of immigration are aware that Verigin's deportation may inspire some of the more fanatical members of the sect to abandon their lands and other properties and trek after him to Russia, but they are inclined to dismiss the threat as a good way of getting rid of what they regard as undesirable citizens.

Alternative to Siberia

Peter Verigin II came to Canada about six years ago, shortly after his father, the first leader of the Doukhobors in Canada, was killed in a mysterious bomb explosion while travelling on a train in British Columbia. Before he had acquired domicile in Canada, he was tried and convicted for perjury, committed while prosecuting a civil case against one of his own followers. He was sentenced to three years later commuted to eighteen months, at Prince Albert Penitentiary. Before this sentence was served out, he was suddenly granted parole and whisked away to Halifax before his lawyer or anyone else knew about it. The lawyer and the acting leader of the Doukhobors followed by aeroplane.

Verigin claims that to return him to Russia will be equivalent to a death sentence. He had already run foul of the Soviet authority, and when he came to Canada it was as an alternative to banishment to Siberia. He was, therefore, granted a 'one-way passport' which made no provision for his return to Russia. The department is not impressed, however, by Verigin's plea. They claim that over the past 30 years hundreds of deportees have protested that they go back to face a firing squad, but that to date they have never heard of a single shooting. Also, they claim that they never deport a man without discovering first whether or no the country of origin will receive him again.

Trade Better: Revenue Worse

Export trade for May was the most encouraging for some time. Sales of Canadian produce abroad were five million dollars higher than for the correspond-

BUCKET BRIGADE PREVENTS WIDESPREAD BLAZE AT CALUMET

Four summer cottages situated on the shore of the Ottawa River were razed to the ground by a fire of unknown cause, early yesterday morning at Calumet. Other summer residences which were also threatened were saved from destruction by a squad of volunteer firemen who worked under the command of two Montreal firemen.

The fire broke out in one of the cottages at 1.15 o'clock in the morning and soon spread to the three others. When the fire was discovered the alarm was given to two Montreal firemen who are spending their holidays in nearby cottages.

A bucket brigade was soon equipped and the Montreal firemen instructed their men how to protect other nearby cottages. Due to this a two-storey summer residence of J. Jolicoeur, was saved from destruction, together with a farm house which was situated a short distance from the burning cottages. The destroyed premises are the property of J. Clouthier, of St. Eustache.

ing month of 1932. This is about the second time this has happened since the depression began. The gains were made in wheat, also in flour, furs, meats, cheese, planks and boards woodpulp, automobiles and parts, and nickel.

Also, for May of this year a large "favorable balance" was evident, whereas last year there was an unfavorable balance of nearly four million.

But revenue returns for May were discouraging. The treasury only took in $45,600,000 for the month. Last year it was $56,000,000. May is normally a very profitable month for the federal treasury because so much is taken in as income tax. These figures are very disturbing to Finance Minister Rhodes because there should be a considerable increase instead of a decrease. A large number of new taxes were in effect in May including a much heavier income tax. It begins to seem as though the higher taxes are piled on, the smaller the sums received into the federal treasury.

Members dropping in casually to Ottawa report improvement. The core of the dried-out area of south-western Saskatchewan seems at last to have been thoroughly soaked, and promises a fair crop at least. A northern Ontario member—came in this week to say that about 400 men began work Monday of this week, due to improved demand for copper, nickel and lumber. Most of the lumber was to make beer kegs for the Cleveland and Buffalo trade.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for July 2

JOSHUA

LESSON TEXT—Joshua 1:1-9; 23:3, 14.
GOLDEN TEXT—Have not I commanded thee? Be strong and of a good courage; be not afraid, neither be thou dismayed; for the Lord thy God is with thee whithersoever thou goest. Joshua 1:9.

PRIMARY TOPIC—God Helping Joshua.
JUNIOR TOPIC—A Captain Courageous.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Joshua Succeeded.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Source of Joshua's Strength.

The book of Joshua, from which our lesson is taken, is a history of the conquest of the promised land and its division among the tribes of Israel. It takes its name from its principal character, Joshua.

1. Joshua, the New Leader of Israel.
1. His appointment (Num. 27:18-20). The people were not to be left in doubt as to a leader when Moses was gone. The leader was to be appointed and to be given recognition before the people.

During the wilderness journey Joshua was Moses' minister and the captain of his army. When Moses was denied the privilege of going over the Jordan, Joshua was appointed to the leadership of Israel.

2. Joshua's fitness for the leadership of Israel (Deut. 34:9).

a. He was full of the spirit of wisdom. Although not dependent upon human wisdom, God selects as his representatives men whom he has endowed with the proper wisdom.

b. He was divinely ordained for the work at the hand of Moses, for "Moses laid his hands upon him." This he had done at the commandment of God (Num. 27:18).

c. The people owned him as their leader. For successful leadership, a ruler must have the individual affection and allegiance of the people.

II. Joshua Commanded to Take Charge (vv. 1, 2).

Moses was dead, but God's work must go on; therefore, God issued the command for the new leader to assume his duty.

III. God Renews His Promise to Israel Concerning the Land (vv. 3, 4).

This promise had been given to Abraham and renewed to Isaac, Jacob, and Moses. It is now renewed to Israel as they were about to enter upon its possession. The nearest this territory was ever possessed was during the reign of David and Solomon. This land still belongs to the Jews, and in God's own time they will possess it. The world will not be at peace nor the fullness of divine blessing come upon the world until Israel is in this land. The present distressful condition in Germany and other parts of Europe may hasten the movement of Israel to their own land. As these notes are written, Great Britain is being advised to open Palestine to the Jews.

IV. The Promise of the Divine Presence (v. 5).

Joshua was entering upon a perilous and difficult enterprise. The difficulties before Joshua were:

1. The Jordan river (v. 2). This river was now at its flood (Josh. 3:15), making it impossible for armies to cross.

2. People were living in walled cities (Num. 13:28). Notwithstanding this, God was ready to insure success.

a. "I will not fail thee, nor forsake thee" (v. 5).

b. "There shall not any man be able to stand before thee" (v. 5).

c. "As I was with Moses, so I will be with thee" (v. 5). Because of his conviction that God had been with his master he was willing and ready to cross the Jordan at its flood tide and courageously meet his enemies.

V. Conditions of Blessing in the Land (vv. 6-9).

1. "Be strong and of good courage" (v. 6). His mission was to go in and conquer the land and then to divide it among the tribes for an inheritance. To do this required courage.

2. Unwavering obedience to the Word of God (v. 7). In all his work he must conform his life to the law of God. In order to accomplish this the law of the Lord must be in his mouth continually. Joshua rendered prompt obedience.

VI. Joshua's Retrospection (Josh. 23:3, 4, 14).

As his life was now drawing to a close, he summoned the people and rulers and gave farewell counsel.

1. Rehearses God's goodness (v. 14). God had given rest to Israel from all their enemies and had brought them into the land of plenty.

2. All that had been done for them was by the hand of the Lord (vv. 3, 4). God had fought for them. No one was able to stand against them.

The Vision of Life

This vision of life in the cross is not a vision of despair but of confidence and hope, because behind it there is the empty tomb, and the figure with wounded hands outstretched to bless, ascending into glory.—G. A. Studdert Kennedy.

DIFFERENT OPINIONS

How experience colors our opinions! Two people may have diametrically opposing opinions and yet from the light of their own experience, they are each sure that they are right. Friends of course are riding the crest of the wave. Their salary was a good one, the position seemed secure and they had no doubts about their future, so they had a good time, did about as they liked and spent practically all they made. They were not worrying about ever being short of money. Times changed and the apparently secure position evaporated over night. After a harrowing time, another position was obtained. This one has a very much lower salary but they were thankful to get it. Now they say, that no matter what their salary is, never again will they spend all they make.

Other people we know had a different experience and a consequent different idea as to their future spending. These people had a business of their own, which they started from nothing and over a period of twelve years built up what seemed to be a prosperous business. They were in an industrial city and much of their business was done by time payments. When the factories closed people could not make their payments and eventually through inability to collect their accounts, they lost their business. This man says that never again will he go along and spend nothing. He is going to have a good time as he lives. He says they scrimped and saved and his wife did with out things she should have had so that their money might go back into their business. He plans just as soon as it is possible to increase largely the amount of insurance he carries, as his method of saving, and whether he works for someone else or has his own business, he is going to spend his money and enjoy life as he goes along. So there you are.

CARE OF PAINT BRUSHES

It pays to buy a good quality of paint brush and then to give it the best of care. After using, work as much of the paint out as possible, especially at the heel of the brush to prevent the paint from hardening and putting the brush out of shape. The brush should be kept in a can of turpentine or kerosene and not in water as so many people do. If you are really careful you will not let the brush stand on its bristles, but will suspend it by a string. That is the care a brush should have while it is being used frequently but when the painting is over and it is to be put away for some time it requires different care. The brush should be washed thoroughly with turpentine; then carefully washed with soap and water; dried thoroughly and wrapped in paper so that the bristles lie flat and in their natural position. Good tools deserve the best of care.

A BIRD BATH

I saw a very effective bird bath the other day in a charming garden. Closer investigation showed it to be nothing more than the lid of a garbage can set on a tile and the whole thing painted. The tile was the right size and height and it was all quite graceful. Anything which will attract the birds adds interest to your garden. We built shelters for the robins and houses for the wrens this Spring, following very closely the instructions given by the Department of Agriculture. There are plenty of birds about but we are still looking for tenants for our houses.

PLANT SWISS CHARD

If you are fond of greens plant Swiss Chard for summer use. It is very much like spinach when cooked and many people think it even better than spinach. If you are fortunate enough to be able to have beet greens here is the way to prepare them.

BEET GREENS WITH HARD COOKED EGGS

Wash the beet greens carefully, leaving the tiny beets attached. Cook in a very little water for about fifteen minutes. Drain well, chop, and season with salt, pepper and butter. Garnish with coarsely chopped hard cooked eggs.

SMALL SPONGE CAKES

Boil until it threads 1 cupful of granulated sugar and ½ cup water. Beat the whites of 6 eggs until stiff and pour the hot syrup over then slowly, beating until cool. Add the well-beaten egg yolks, a pinch of salt, a quarter teaspoon almond extract a half teaspoon vanilla, and beat thoroughly until blended. Fold in 1 cup pastry flour sifted twice, once before measuring and once after. Bake in muffin tins or in paper cases in a slow oven of 325 degrees. Ice with any preferred icing. Personally I prefer an orange icing or whipped cream.

RHUBARB FLUFF

Cut rhubarb in pieces and cook in a very little water until tender. To one pint of the hot cooked rhubarb add ½ cupful of sugar, a tablespoon of lemon juice and a teaspoon of gelatin softened in a little cold water. Cool and fold in two egg whites beaten until stiff, continue beating until the mixture is light and fluffy, adding sugar if necessary. Put into sherbet glasses and chill. Serve with a custard sauce made from the egg yolks, one and half cups of milk, 3 tablespoons of sugar and a quarter teaspoon vanilla. Cook over hot water until thick.

MARRIAGE AT MILLE ISLES

Wood — Dawson

A very pretty wedding took place at Christ Church, Mille Isles, on Wednesday afternoon June 7th., of Hattie May, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Dawson, of The White House, Mille Isles, to Mr. Henry G. Wood, eldest son of Mr. Wm. H. Wood, of Mille Isles, Rev. W. J. H. Lummis, officiating.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white bridal satin made on princess lines, her veil being arranged in cap effect with wreath of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of deep pink blossoms with baby's breath. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Myrtle Scott, as bridesmaid, who wore a frock of Alice blue crepe trimmed with white satin, with large blue picture hat to match, and carried a bouquet of cream colored roses. Mr. Harry Burns, cousin of the groom, acted as best man.

A reception followed the ceremony at the residence of the bride's parents, the house being prettily decorated for the occasion, after which the bridal couple left on a short motor trip.

DON'T LET COMMON CONSTIPATION DULL THE JOY OF LIVING

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brings Relief

Constipation takes the sunshine out of your days. It may bring headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness, sallow skins, pimples. If neglected, it can seriously impair health.

Fortunately, you can avoid this condition by eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides two things needed to overcome common constipation: "bulk" and vitamin B. ALL-BRAN is also a rich source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal wastes.

How much better than dosing yourself with patent medicines. Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in chronic cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

Building activities here remind one of the West, where night and day saws and hammers keep up a constant din in the so-called "boom" towns. We noticed a family moving into a half finished house the other day, then commenced glazing the windows, hanging the doors etc., in a manner just such as we read of in the West.

SEEING QUEBEC

The Call of Gaspé

In this new economic era, we have come to consider as duties certain activities which our puritan ancestors classed as follies or extravagance. Among these modern duties, one of the most pleasant is that of spending money. In the mode of spending, much is left of course to one's taste and imagination. There is one item, however, on the common shopping list, that appeals or should appeal more particularly to all of us: that is travel.

This year, while the nations are settling their differences and while we are slowly emerging from the slough of depression, it is particularly fitting that we stay within our own frontiers and visit our own country. Have you ever thought of the picturesque landscape, stimulating experiences, educational sights, offered by your little old Province of Quebec? Just think, for example, of the Gaspé Peninsula, at present the mecca of American tourists,—which travel experts consider the greatest find of the last few years,—and which so few Quebecers have visited.

The Gaspé Peninsula seems to have been designed for the pleasure and recreation of man. It has every advantage: an enchanting sea coast, quaint fishing villages alternating with delightfully fashionable beaches, unique opportunities for sport, fishing, hunting,—excellent roads in an unbelievable picturesque setting, a fine zesty summer climate, comfortable hotels, and very reasonable prices for every possible service. And what may be particularly interesting to the business man is the fact that Gaspé is exceedingly rich in natural resources: in great lumber areas, in huge watersheds for water power, in opportunities for developing the greatest cod and salmon fisheries in the world, and moreover that these immense riches and wealth still remain dormant and unexploited.

Quebec City is of course the starting point for a tour of the Eastern Peninsula. Our old Provincial Capital is to-day undoubtedly the most inspiring and most frequented rendezvous of tourists in America. A quaint old-world city, enjoying one of the most magnificent sites on this planet and still all wrapped up in the glamour of the Old French Regime! There we find the relics and monuments of the great epic story lived by the gallant builders of New France.

From Quebec, the tourists crosses to Levis and follows Route No. 2, as far as Rivière-du-Loup. This town is the important commercial and industrial centre of a vast region and the point of junction of several C. N. R. lines. During the summer season, there is a ferry-boat service between Rivière-du-Loup, Saint-Siméon and Tadoussac.

Everywhere along the road, excellent hotels are to be found and the prices are really reasonable.

By continuing to follow Route No. 2, the tourist may reach Edmundston, New Brunswick,

AERONAUTICS

News-Snaps from the Flying World
J. CLAUDE ROBY

Russian aeronautical engineers are experimenting with a stratosphere balloon, which is to make an attempt to lower the present altitude record.

The dirigible U. S. Macon flew to Sault St. Marie, Ont., last week.

The Polish aviator Skarzynski, who recently spanned the Atlantic from Senegal to Brazil, is soon to fly from Washington to Rio de Janeiro.

Capt. Frank Hawks, U. S. speed flyer, landed at the St. Hubert airport last week in his 245 m.p.h. plane, and then motored to Lucerne in Quebec.

A small British plane was recently catapulted from the deck of the H. M. S. Norfolk off Quebec. This is the first time that a plane has been catapulted from Canadian waters.

Commercial pilots who desire to give flight instruction will have to secure a special license from the Dept. of Civil Aviation.

24,000 Gallons of gasoline will be required to refuel the 24 planes composing the Italian Air Squadron, arriving in Montreal soon.

The United Air Lines, one of U. S. leading air transport companies, is to inaugurate a new 19½ hrs. coast to coast air service in its new high speed transports.

and from there motor to Campbellton and Dalhousie, cross the Baie des Chaleurs to Carleton and come back through Gaspé.

But there are many advantages in the other way round. Therefore, at La Rivière-du-Loup, you abandon Route No. 2 and continue on Route No. 10 through Cacouna, a delightful and fashionable beach. Trois-Pistoles, Le Bic, Rimouski, Pointe-au-Père, St. Luce, and St. Flavie, where you reach the famous Perron Boulevard.

The Perron Boulevard, one of the most picturesque highways of the Province, circles the Gaspé Peninsula, passing through the Matapedia Valley. In this valley, are situated the quaint and typical towns of Mont-Joli, Sayabec, Val-Brillant, Amqui, Causapsal, St-Florence, Matapedia. Then, the Boulevard skirts the coast of Baie des Chaleurs, winding through Carleton, Bonaventure, Newport, Chandler, Percé and Gaspé and returns to St-Flavie by the North Shore.

The road is wonderfully varied, now wild and giving an impression of overwhelming grandeur, now agreeable and pretty and quaint, and so inviting that you cannot resist the temptation of stopping for an hour of delighted idleness.

You may obtain from the Provincial Tourists Bureau, 1013 Dominion Square, Montreal, all detailed information and also a free road map giving you a clear outline of the whole net-work of roads and highways.

Written requests for information should be sent to the Dept. of Highways, Quebec City.

FOUR WAYS TO SAVE

By Washing, Our Way

Women who keep an accurate account of what it costs to wash in this more modern way of ours, say this is what it saves:—
Clothes

We conserve the life of clothes because we work them without rubbing, in the purest of white soap and rain-soft water.

Time

A day and a half a week—fifteen minutes, your washing is done, and you have an entire day to yourself.

Energy

And because you are spared the hard work of washing, you save in energy and health—no tired arms and aching back after washday is over.

Money

Taking into consideration wages, meals, soap and supplies this way of washing is really more economical from the standpoint of money also.

Try this method next wash-day, you'll find it much more satisfactory all around.

OTTAWA EXHIBITION PRIZE LISTS READY

Generous Premiums in All Departments. . . . British Band Among Feature Attractions.

Prize lists are now available for the Ottawa Exhibition which will be conducted for the 46th year from August 21st. to 26th., six full days and six full nights.

To many, live stock, agricultural produce, horticulture, dairy products, handicrafts and other departments in which there are competitions form the main attraction of an exhibition. To them it is an education to see what others have produced and a real pleasure when they themselves are among the prize winners. The directors of the Ottawa exhibition have maintained the importance of these department and the prize lists have been made as generous as possible.

Other features, however, have not been overlooked, and there are many educational factors apart from the competitions. Empire, Dominion and provincial government exhibits play an important part in the showings in the various buildings. These are highly interested and educational.

British Band.

Entertainment has been provided for the 1933 exhibition on a scale which indicates that it will be the strongest list of attractions ever assembled for the exhibition. This year the directors have been successful in obtaining a British band. With the permission of His Majesty the King, the band of the Scots Guards, London, England, will be heard in daily concerts. The Black Watch band, Montreal, and the band of the Governor-General's Foot Guards, Ottawa will also be heard.

For thrills and surprises the midway of 1933 is recommended. It is a new midway and will be replete with the newest in laugh makers, thrills and riding devices. In front of the grandstand the program will be outstanding. The big night feature will be the Winter Garden Revue of 1933, an elaborate musical and dance spectacle with a Broadway cast of talented artists, and bewitching girls. Vaudeville features include acts that are the very best available, several of them being new importations and all of a top-notch excellence. Horse races, athletic sports and other features are included in the big week's bill. Each night will conclude with a fireworks display that is claimed will be the best ever given in Ottawa.

Dog Show.

An annual event in Ottawa is the dog show, which is held during exhibition week. This year a three-point show seems assured and all plans are made with this in view. The dog show building is one of the finest on the continent and the comfort of the dogs is assured. For patrons and exhibitors the arrangements are excellent, courtesy to all.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

LESSON-SERMON

The subject of the Lesson-

Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist Sunday, June

25, is "Christian Science."

The Golden Text is: (Isaiah

9: 2) "The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light: they that dwell in the land of the shadow of death, upon them hath the light shined."

The following passages are selected from among those comprised in the Lesson-Sermon to be read from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary

Baker Eddy:

"Then was brought unto him

one possessed with a devil, blind, and dumb: and he healed him, inasmuch that the blind and dumb both spake and saw."

(Matthew 12: 22).

District News

ARUNDEL

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Veit returned last Saturday after spending the past two weeks in Rochester, N. Y.

Miss Ethel Morrison returned to Montreal last Thursday after spending a few days at her home.

Mr. M. E. Davis spent a few days in Montreal last week.

A most enjoyable evening was spent last Friday by those present at the reception in honour of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Miller, of Lachute, held at Round Lake Inn, Weir. Many friends and relatives gathered to celebrate the occasion and presented the bride and groom with many beautiful gifts. Mrs. Miller was formerly Miss Jessie Staniforth.

Much credit is due to Mr. C. Phillips and party of Montreal, for a splendid programme of songs, recitations, and musical numbers with which they entertained a large audience in Staniforth's Hall last Saturday evening.

The monthly meeting of the Girls' Guild will be held Saturday in the Church Hall.

At about 1 a.m. last Thursday a fire broke out in an out-building on the premises of Dr. W. L. Morrison. The garage, stable, and wood shed were completely demolished and the house was greatly endangered by the spreading flames already making headway on the roof. Help arrived quickly and within half an hour the house was out of danger. Considerable damage was done to the house by fire and water. Dr. Morrison had one hand and arm badly burned rescuing property from the flames.

A GOOD TIME AT WEIR

M. Patrick Curren, of Detroit, and Mr. Clem McCluskey, of Chesterville, were guests at Round Lake Inn, Weir, on Saturday last and thoroughly enjoyed a good fishing trip in our lakes noted for their trout and bass. In the evening they were appointed judges of a step-dance contest that came to a close in the Laurentian Mountains restaurant and hall at Weir.

Stanley Renaud won first honors and Eugene Desjardins a close second in a large round of competitors and Mr. Sherman Beaven gave a real good dance before the judges but would not enter the contest. The decision of the judges gave general satisfaction and the evening ended with the popular round dances an addition to many good old-time square dances, the violinists being Eugene Desjardins and Lionel Richer, with Edward Beaven at the piano. There were upwards of 200 who were entertained by Weir's merry-makers.

GRENVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Fraser Carson, of Ste. Agathe, were Sunday guests of his sister, Miss Isabel Carson, and his father, Mr. Jas. Carson, in Grenville Bay.

Mr. Stanley Lancaster and boy friend, of Montreal, are camping on the mountain, on Mr. Carson's farm in The Bay.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Cooke, of Ottawa, are spending a few weeks at their home here, and are painting the old home. The appearance is greatly improved and it is gratifying to see the young people repairing this good old residence.

The many friends of Miss H. McCullough are greatly pleased that she is able to attend school again, following her recent illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Cooke, of Ottawa, have been the guests of Mrs. Willie Cooke and Mrs. James Pickett during the past week.

Mrs. McDougall and little daughter, of Ottawa, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Murray on Sunday.

Miss Lois Cooke is visiting her father at Pogan Falls. Her friends wish her an enjoyable outing in the Gatineau.

Mr. Clifford Cooke, of Pogan Falls, was a visitor at his home here last Sunday.

Services in the Grenville Baptist Church will be held as usual next Sunday morning. A large attendance is hoped for.

CUSHING

Capt. and Mrs. J. D. Weir and family of Ste. Anne de Bellevue, spent Sunday at their summer home here.

Mr. and Mrs. James Weir, of Montreal, visited friends in Cushing Sunday.

Rev. J. W. Maclean attended the Ministerial Association meeting in Lachute on Monday.

Mrs. Stargat and child, of Montreal, are present guests of Mrs. L. Cooke.

Mr. and Mrs. J. McDowell and family of Montreal, have opened their cottage for the summer.

Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Douglas were Miss Francis Douglas, C. Heavy Mr. and Mrs. S. Staniforth, of Montreal, Mr. Alton Douglas and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas McGowan of Toronto, and Mrs. D. Dewar, of Hudson, Que.

Dr. and Mrs. H. McGerrigle, and little son, of Hanover, New Hampshire, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Innes.

Mr. George Smith, of Wisconsin, U.S.A., was the guest of his aunt Mrs. Walter Smith, on Saturday.

Mr. Grant Bryerton, of Verdun, was the guest of his sister, Mrs. I. H. Fuller last week.

Mr. Booy, on behalf of the men of the congregation, presented Mr. Howell with a fountain pen and pencil. A very enjoyable hour was spent by the bride and groom and their guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Howell arrived on Tuesday morning for to be with their children and grandchildren on their golden wedding day.

THE LATE MRS. RICHARD HOARE SR.

In the passing of Mrs. Richard Hoare Sr. on May 25th., 1933, Grenville lost one of its oldest and best loved citizens. She had reached the ripe age of 90 years, had been active throughout her long life and only during the past year began to fail in health. She suffered very little and passed quietly and peacefully away 'into the rest that remaineth for the people of God.' With unfailing love and devotion she was ministered to by her children and grand children.

The late Mrs. Hoare was a humble and sincere Christian, a loving and devoted wife and mother, also a kind neighbor, ministering to the sick or any in need of help.

She was the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Burch and was born in Brownsburg, Feb. 27th., 1843. She was Miss Maria Burch previous to her marriage to Mr. Richard Hoare, of England, in Oct. 3rd., 1864.

Feathered Stowaway

A pigeon that found itself "in the soup" was taken care of by a butcher, but will never end up in a pie, made the front page a few days ago when the Canadian Pacific liner "Empress of Britain" arrived at Quebec from Southampton with a homing pigeon on the list as a stowaway. The pigeon, eyeing the camera with a quivering expression, is seen above in the hands of J. Gibson, Chief Butcher of the Empress liner in whose keeping all travelling pets are placed. Battered by storms after fighting heavy head winds for a number of hours the pigeon, which had been released some 250 miles west of Land's End in fog from the steam trawler "Ocean Lux", fluttered to rest on the tennis deck of the Empress of Britain. It carried a message showing time and place of release, and date of its last feeding. On the return of the big liner to England next week the feathered stowaway, after its two way crossing of the Atlantic will be thrown into the air to find its way home, with a message from Capt. Latta tied to its leg, in authentication of the strange story it will have to tell.

Alexandria, Ont., Gives Example of Civic Hospitality

Ottawa and St. Lawrence Valley Press Association
Royally Entertained.

Rare Scottish hospitality with the collaboration of a warm civic welcome, was extended last Saturday to the Ottawa and St. Lawrence Valley Press Association, of which the Lachute Watchman is a member. The occasion was the Annual Convention of the group; Col. and Mrs. MacDonald of the Glenarry News were hosts to the party at their fine old residence in Alexandria, and their lavish program of entertainment was ably assisted by Mr. J. A. Laurin of the Alexandria News, who has also held office as Mayor of his municipality for 11 years.

Delegates assembled in the forenoon from Cornwall, Hawkesbury, Huntingdon and Lachute—these with the Alexandria members forming a representative covering of the weeklies in this territory. The session of business was held in the town council chamber, matters of importance to weekly publishers and their reading public being discussed. J. S. Gilles, president as chairman elected for the ensuing year, and the comment was notably constructive through the enterprising ideas of Mr. Adam Selar, publisher of the Huntingdon Gleaner, through the sound journalistic experience of the veteran host, Col. MacDonald, and also in the remarks of Mr. Roy Sayes, Renfrew, Ont., who presided at the district gathering in his capacity as manager of the W.N.A. parent association.

Adjournment was made to the century-old MacDonald residence in its quiet shaded grounds, and the luncheon and social hour which followed achieved great things in creating satisfaction of the 30 ladies and gentlemen present, also in the renewing of old ties and the establishing of new friendships; for in the Fourth Estate there is a bond of sentiment unsurpassed perhaps in any other vocational brotherhood.

A phase of this experience which strongly impressed the delegation from Lachute (six in number) was the civic support which had rallied to supplement this personal welcome. The immediate impression was one of a wholesale community, a town co-operating with its citizens and with its newspapers—a state of affairs which, after all, can achieve the finest mutual benefits.

Civic constables, alert and smiling, were present, to direct the cars, and performed their duty in a manner which implied a ready greeting—a duty which might so easily have suggested intrusion.

The brass band was also on hand, affording an hour of pleasing entertainment. Here also was a feature of rare interest. Alexandria has two instrumental bands—but this was no ordinary band; it was a juvenile group of 20 boys ranging from 10 to 15 years of age, all admirably trained, uniformly dressed, and presenting a most pleasing turn-out. Their excellent performance was conducted by Rev. Father J. A. Brunelle, to whose credit is due the training of these lads from the very elements of music, and the formation of a brass band which (one was told) compared most favorably with its senior body, the Alexandria Civic Band.

Saturday afternoon was occupied with a motor tour of Glengarry County, in which the party were acquainted with interesting sites and facts described elsewhere in this paper. Altogether the gracious entertainment of Col. and Mrs. MacDonald and their family, and the warmth of the community in which it was staged, served to convince the visitors that Mayor Laurin has a town to be justly proud of, with at least one fine, generous family among its citizenry.

Delegate to International Nurses Congress

Miss Mary Palliser, R. N., of Montreal, is fortunate in being selected by her colleagues to attend the International Congress of Nurses at Paris and Brussels. She is sailing on the Empress of Britain from Quebec, July 1st., and will participate in the conference as unofficial representative of the private duty nurses of Royal Victoria Hospital. Some 150 nurses will form the Canadian delegation. The friends of Miss Palliser in Lachute congratulate her on this signal honor, and wish her Bon Voyage.

Canada Has Contributed Much to Medical Science

Canada has contributed more to the advance of medicine than any of the other British dominions, Sir Humphrey Rolleston, physician-in-ordinary to the King, said recently in a brief address at the opening scientific session of the Canadian Medical Association at Saint John, N. B.

as the two men who had held up the place on May 29 and robbed the bank of over $3,000.

Then the prisoners were taken to Montreal and questioned. It is claimed the men admitted they were the pair sought. One of them offered to lead the police to a spot in the forest not far from his home where he had cached the sum of $1,000. The police also claim that the prisoners gave them information that the robbery was instigated by a third man and that they gave the information where this person could be located. This was in Montreal, and on Saturday afternoon late the detectives rounded up this third party on Papineau avenue. He denied all knowledge of the affair, however, and the detectives decided to charge him with conspiracy only.

Must Paint Name on Rural Mail Boxes in Ontario

The matter of legible names on rural mail boxes has been brought to the attention of the district superintendent of Post Offices, at London, Ont., and Post Masters in that territory have been advised their mail carriers should see that all names on the boxes are printed plainly so that they can be easily read. Failure to conform to this rule of the rural mail will mean suspension of the service. The majority of these boxes, says the Amherstburg Echo, are neglected and the names partially or totally obliterated. Only the farmers who realize the great value of advertising their places of business the same as other business men maintain their mail boxes in the proper manner. It would require at the most ten minutes of the farmer's time to have his name stenciled on the box. It would be far better to do it at once urges The Echo, than be compelled to do so at the risk of suspension of the mail service.

Keep your name before your community or you will be forgotten. It is as inevitable as death or taxes. And never was this dictum truer about stores, and business, and men, than it is right now.

June Weddings at Brownsburg

STEWART—MONCRIEFF

Brownsburg United Church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday at three p.m., when Miss Ida Grace Moncrieff daughter of the late John Moncrieff and Mrs. Maud Moncrieff, became the bride of Mr. John Allan Stewart, son of Robert D. and Mrs. Stewart, both contracting parties being residents of Brownsburg. A largely filled edifice testified to the popularity of both bride and groom who have been closely identified with church and local organizations and are members of the church choir. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. E. Hagar.

Sharply at three o'clock, to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March played by Miss Edna Reid, the bride, on the arm of her brother-in-law Mr. W. H. Ayres, of Kingston, came up the aisle preceded by Miss Marion Stewart, sister of the groom, as bridesmaid. She wore a dress of white crepe back satin, with veil caught in a cap effect with wreath of orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses, lilies of the valley and maiden hair fern. The bridesmaid wore a dress of maize chiffon Organdy and carried a bouquet of pink roses, sweet peas and maiden hair fern. The groom was attended by Mr. Roland Moncrieff as best man. The church was very tastefully decorated with ferns and large jars of peonies and orange blossoms, and the bride looked most charming beside her husband-elect, standing beneath a large wedding bell prettily festooned.

The beautiful marriage hymn The Voice that Breathed o'er Eden, opened the ceremony, led by the choir associates of the young couple. During the event Mrs. Thompson sang most feelingly a solo, I Love You Truly. The ushers were Messrs. Pat and Douglas Stewart, brothers of the groom, and Ward Mon-

District Untouched by Electric Storm

A storm which threatened this territory on Monday night is reported to have caused considerable damage in the Ottawa Valley.

On the outskirts of Ottawa, two gypsies escaped death when lightning struck their tent. They were taken to hospital.

A high wind levelled crops in several districts, but the actual damage was difficult to estimate. The home of Arthur Pilotte, in Buckingham, was destroyed by lightning and several barns were hit.

Edward Soucy, of Hull, who had been sick in bed, was carried to safety when his home was struck by lightning.

Board Appointed to Supervise Hawkesbury Affairs

The Ontario Railway and Municipal Board, has announced the appointment of a board of supervisors to manage the affairs of the town of Hawkesbury. Arthur A. Crawley, Ottawa, is chairman, with J. Fred Davey, Ottawa, H. P. Hill, Ottawa, and Dr. L. J. Beaudoin and Dr. H. H. Kirby, Hawkesbury, other members of the board.

It will be remembered, Hawkesbury's application before the Ontario Municipal Board recently, for permission to consolidate the floating indebtedness of the town, $88,000, was dismissed. Opposition to the application came from members of the Hawkesbury Board of Trade who asked for a board of supervisors. The municipal board decided to take the question of a supervisory board under advisement, and in the meantime the town council fell in line with the Board of Trade and requested a board of supervisors.

Quebec Provl. Women's Institutes Twentieth Convention

Sessions Show Flourishing Condition of W. I. Constructive and Helpful Addresses by Prominent Speakers.

The Provincial Convention of the Women's Institute held recently at Macdonald College was well attended in spite of a great many adverse circumstances.

The Women's Institute members from the Gatineau District made a wonderful showing. Almost every other person one met, when asked what section they came from, replied "From the Gatineau District."

About twelve ladies from Argenteuil County attended the convention, and to one of those ladies was given the honor of being a provincial officer, Mrs. G. Kuhring, of Lakefield, being appointed to the position of Provincial Convenor of Education and Better Schools, to replace Mrs. R. Kennedy who resigned.

The sessions were addressed at different times by Sir Arthur Currie; Lieut. Col. Wilfrid Bovey; Mr. Robson Black, of Ottawa; Mr. Georges Bouchard also of Ottawa; Dr. Helen R. Y. Reid, of Montreal; Dr. A. S. Lamb, B.P.E., McGill University; L. G. Barnard and Prof. King Gordon, son of Rev. Gordon (Ralph Connor); also R. T. C. Stead of the Immigration Dept., Ottawa, who is the author of Smoking Flax and other tales; Mr. G. H. Clark and N. Wright, of Ottawa, both spoke on the same subject "Weed Control", showing lantern slides of different weeds.

There were also addresses by Miss Hazel B. McCain, Supt. of the Provincial W. I.; Mrs. A. W. Pratt, President; Mrs. B. B. Morrill, of Stanstead; Miss A. Dreiser, of Richmond; Mrs. M. E. Honey, of Abbotsford; Mrs. A. L. Chamberlain, Foster, Que.; Mrs. J. E. Cross, Kirk's Ferry; Mrs. H. Cuthbertson, Wakefield; Mlle. C. Méthot of the "Cercle des Fermiers" (the French section of this work), as well as the usual reports from the Provincial Secretary, the Treasurer, and Mrs. McCurdy, editor of the organization paper "Home and Country." In presenting her report, Mrs. McCurdy mentioned the fact that members from her own district (Lennoxville) had provided, through collections and otherwise over 300 to start "Home and Country". Of this sum only about twelve remained, and the paper must now be supported entirely from subscriptions received. Mrs. McCurdy said there had been a larger number of subscriptions this year than ever before, and hoped that we would still continue to give this branch of the work our heartiest support.

One of the special features of the occasion was the luncheon tendered the delegates by the School of Household Science of Macdonald College and bore mute evidence to their skill in cooking.

A delightful musical program was also given by Mrs. W. H. Lewis (contralto), of Montreal; Mrs. Ernest Hess, (soprano), of Halifax; Mrs. E. C. Irvine, of Ste. Anne de Bellevue the accompanist; and Mrs. W. H. Goodwin also of Ste. Anne de Bellevue who favored with delightful piano solos not only on this occasion but several times during the different sessions.

Sir Arthur Currie in his address explained what Macdonald College was doing in the advancement of education and the carrying on of research work, with particular regard to the interests and needs of the rural populations.

Touching on the subject of keeping the young folks on the farm, or of secession from father to son, Sir Arthur said that there was but a small percentage of that seen, most sons following other professions than their fathers; but education in rural schools should fit boys and girls for life on the farms as well as for other vocations.

Elected Mayor of Sixteen Island Lake

J. Stanley Cook, secretary of the Montreal Board of Trade, has been elected by acclamation mayor of the municipality of Sixteen Island Lake, in succession to A. E. Whitehouse, who retired recently.

It is reported that, now that a good road has rendered the Sixteen Island Lake district accessible by automobile, there is a fair amount of summer building going on.

There is no unemployment among the native residents of the district, it is also reported, and the municipal debt is now less than the amount of the collection roll for the current year.

The visitors were delighted Mr. Doig's picnic grounds, and expressed a desire to make this an annual event as it afforded opportunity for the "hams" of the two cities to become better acquainted and enabled them to discuss their problems on a common ground.

Among the "phone men" who are heard regularly by short wave listeners and amateurs here, were VE2BE (Mr. Alex. Reid), VE2AP (Mr. John Stadler), VE2BG (Mr. T. H. Letts), VE2CU (Mr. John A. Grant), VE2EV (Mr. J. E. Dussault) and VE3SA (Mr. Fred Allan) of Ottawa.

Another item of local interest is that Mr. N. R. Anderson has received his transmitting license with the call letters of VE2HC, this making the fourth licensed Amateur Station in Lachute, an increase of three stations during the years 1932-1933.

Dominion Day Speakers Announced

Sir George Perley, acting Prime Minister, Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, leader of the Opposition, and Hon. Arthur Sauve Postmaster-General, will speak on a special Dominion Day coast to coast broadcast which has been arranged by the Canadian Radio Broadcasting Commission for Saturday evening next. This broadcast will be put on at nine o'clock, E.S.T., continuing for an hour.

Ottawa and Montreal Radio Amateurs Picnic at Lachute

On June 25th. about forty members of the "Ham" fraternity met here and spent an enjoyable time. The weather was ideal for a picnic, and much time was spent among the boys in comparing notes and information on amateur transmitters and receivers.

The Canadian General Manager of this fraternity, VE2BE, (Mr. Alex. Reid) of St. Lambert, was in attendance as well as the Section Communication Manager VE2AP, (Mr. John Stadler) of Westmount. Mr. Reid incidentally, had recently succeeded in "working" New Zealand on twenty meter wave phone. Another visitor, well known to Lachute people, especially to those who attended Macdonald College, was VE2BB (Mr. C. J. Dawes) of Ste. Anne de Bellevue, he being the oldest Amateur Radio enthusiast in Eastern Canada.

From Ottawa the party were joined by VE3JW (Mr. J. W. Cotter), who is totally blind, but who nevertheless built his own receiver and transmitter and operates it himself. He is probably one of the best posted men on Amateur Radio in all Canada, as he devotes all his time to the subject.

crieff, the bride's brother. The groom's gift to the bride was a necklace of pearls set with crystals; to the bridesmaid a brooch of Amethyst; to the best man, a gold pocket-knife and chain. Many near relatives attended from a distance, including Mrs. Lalonde and Miss Mamie Stewart from Montreal; Mrs. George Stevens, Miss Gladys Stevens, Mrs. J. H. McFaul and Miss E. THE CAPTAIN'S CORNER

For Our Boy Readers

"HEALTH"

Dear Boys:

Here is a subject with which you all ought to be familiar, because it has so much to do with your happiness and future success in life. The healthy boy has a great advantage over the fellow who is careless regarding his physical condition, for it is a well known fact that a fit body begets a fit mind.

In the coming weeks you will, being free from school, have a splendid opportunity to train yourselves physically, which is after all what the holidays are given you for. Recreation, like everything else, must be undertaken with care if the best results are to be obtained. You must not, in moments of enthusiasm, rush into things regardless of time, situation, or the suitability of what you are doing. All outdoor activity is good, provided that you do not go beyond certain limits; for then you place a strain upon yourselves that may have most serious consequences. "I must take Care" is an excellent slogan for everybody on holiday, and if you are wise you will, these coming weeks, make it your own.

There are far too many accidents during vacation time, and many of these are caused by lack of experience and on the part of you youngsters as to the best and safest way of spending all the time you now have at your disposal. In School you are taught the subject of hygiene, which is a branch of medical science relating to health, and if you are careful to bear in mind what you have been told, and at the same time bring into your holiday activities the spirit of carefulness, then vacation time for all of my young friends will be happy, safe, and productive.

A much valued young friend told me gravely that this year Hygiene had let him down! And it was not until he had explained it was in his examination and not in practice, that I recovered from the shock. And the young rascal did well in his subject anyway.

So I think I will conclude by reminding you that:

"Early to bed and early to rise Makes a man healthy, wealthy, and wise."

A Safe, pleasant, and happy holiday to you all.

Your affectionate friend,
THE CAPTAIN.

QUEBEC PROVINCIAL WOMEN'S INSTITUTES TWENTIETH CONVENTION

He stressed the value of experimentation, citing developments of superior brands of grains, grasses and seeds, also husbandry and agricultural economics.

Speaking of Sir Wm. Macdonald, he said that Sir William established the School for Teachers and Household Science with a determined view to see what education could do to remove the loneliness laid against rural life, also to make drudgery in household affairs a thing of the past.

Sir Arthur spoke of the foolishness of parents instilling into the minds of their sons that even if it was only work in a garage they would be better off working in the city than on the farm. That view was altogether wrong. Agriculture held a very high place in Canada's economic system and would not prosper long if her agricultural population was not prosperous, and to be prosperous those engaged in farming should have a superior agricultural education.

Denmark has taught us that lesson, as she has devoted herself for the last three centuries to agricultural education and social improvement of the whole agricultural class, and the result is increased prosperity.

Sir Arthur said that no tuition fees were charged young men from Quebec and the Maritime Provinces during agricultural courses, and furthermore the farmer received $9 per month from Quebec towards board and lodging.

Sir Arthur went on to say that men from the country had given Canada some of the best leaders in all walks of life, and that one of the problems they were endeavoring to solve was the breaking down of barriers between the urban and the rural dwellers, and that their system of education aimed at the rounded product raised instead of the narrow specialist.

In his address on Rebuilding Forests, Mr. Robson Black of Ottawa, vice-president and general manager of the Canadian Forestry Association, told of the progress made in recent years in tree planting on the western prairies with the view to protecting farms from windstorms as well as conserving moisture in the land. Millions of trees have already been planted in Saskatchewan and Southern Alberta.

Mr. Robson also told of the government's plan to provide unemployed single men with work and homes, as it were, by sending them to places where they were being trained in this reforestation work. "Men" he said "are not being sent to Petawawa and other camps used during the war to be trained for war; these camps were used because they filled the needed purpose, and the men had to have a little training for reasons of discipline if nothing else. They were being trained in health as well as usefulness."

Mr. Georges Bouchard, after a musical interlude, followed Robson Black in an address which he called the "Friendly Earth". Mr. Bouchard as well as being the member for Kamouraska, is a very friendly, witty speaker. He said that during the evening we were to have two desserts, as in the middle of our session we were just bringing on the "pea soup". In that, of course, he meant himself.

His talk was a plea for handicraft, home made rugs, woolens, etc., not for the price that these things would bring in actual money, but for the real love of the work.

No real lover of this art, he said, would put out of her hands a rug or bedspread in which the colors would only last until the buyer got home; but she would instead put into it her best efforts to make it a thing of beauty and of lasting worth.

Miss McCain in her address stated there were 79 active Women's Institutes in the province of Quebec with a total membership of 1681. The courses in Domestic Science were given; assistance at school fairs; and money contributions to the Children's Memorial Hospital in Montreal, to the Sherbrooke and other local hospitals, the Victorian Order of Nurses, Child Welfare Clinic, the Girls' Industrial School at Sweetsburg and other needy organizations.

MADAME HOOTIE IS BOSS

By Aunt Jean

Hootie the owl had a sore, sore throat. He could not say To-who-oo. So he sat and sulked on the old pine tree, And nothing would he do.

His angry mate, with snapping bill,
Drove him to the nest.
"Sit on those eggs, sir,—yes you will!"

Cover them with your breast."
"I've sat on them for two long weeks,
Now you won't hunt for me.

So you'll sit and hatch and hatch and hatch,
Until you hatch out owlets wee."

Old Hootie sat and hatched and hatched.
There was nothing else to do.

As far away in the forest dim;
He heard his mate's To-who-oo.

She brought him rats and she brought him mice,
While the weeks they almost flew,

And the wee owls crept from beneath his wings,
And screeched out "Feed us to-ooo."

NANCY'S PUP

Home Sweet Home

On Monday morning the Craig families, those of them who were gathered under Grannie Craig's roof, were up early, the boys protesting vigorously, Young Ned pretending to have a headache; but Grannie Craig knowing that it was only pretense, insisted on him getting up with the others.

"The girls," she said "are all up and ready for their adventure. You boys should be ashamed to be the last ones out of bed."

"Adventure," muttered Bert sleepily, "I had my adventure yesterday and it did not turn out so well. If I remember rightly, I got wet, yes sir, thoroughly wet."

Turning over in bed he drew the covers up and dropped asleep again.

"I'll wake you up, you lazy young rascals," his grandmother said. Dipping the hair brush into the water pitcher she showered Bert's face and head with it.

"Put that dog out," Bert said crossly. "He's been in the water and he's shaking himself all over me. Out you get, Rover!" he added, sitting up and seizing his pillow to throw at the dog as he supposed;—but there was no dog.

Grannie Craig was standing over him ready to give him another shower bath, the still dripping brush in her upraised hand.

"Grannie!" he said in astonishment.

"Yes! Grannie!" she replied. "Your father used to be hard to get out of bed in the morning and that is the treatment I used on him. Come along, Bertie, you are the oldest. Let's see which one of you will be first out of bed."

There was such a sudden thump of boyish feet on the floor that aunt Sue came running upstairs with the pancake turn-over in her hand.

Seeing everyone all right she said with a relieved voice "I am so glad you are all right. I was afraid from the noise that we heard downstairs that Grannie had fallen on the floor."

"And you brought up the pancake turn-over to lift me up with, I suppose," Grannie Craig said, laughing heartily.

Aunt Sue laughed herself, at the vision which Grannie Craig's words brought to her mind, of her stooping over Grannie on the floor to scoop her up with the pancake turn-over. "You are much too solid for me to attempt any feats such as that, Mother Craig, even if you are tiny," she said. "But hurry along boys, please, everyone has finished breakfast but you and Uncle Ned will soon be starting to the ferry with the first contingent of you."

"Whoopee!" shouted Billy. "Here's where I hurry. I mean to be the first one on that scow."

Seizing his trousers he hurriedly drew them on, not stopping to look at himself in the glass. The laughter of the other boys puzzled him until he went to sit down to put on his shoes. "Say," he said, "these things are tight. One would have almost thought that I had been in the water instead of Bert. They have certainly shrunk since last night."

"Put them on right, you muff"

from the recent Dominion Convention held there; a personal greeting was sent to the women of the east from the women of the west, as well as official greetings and messages.

Amongst the interesting things Mrs. Pratt told about, the blanket maker was perhaps the most interesting, as it gave an idea to the women on whose farm homes sheep were kept, how to use their wool to their own advantage instead of selling it at starvation prices and buying it back again in the shape of blankets for which fancy prices are charged.

This blanket maker sat in the midst of piles of clean, well washed wool; some of it was colored to suit her taste. Picking up a piece of the wool she would stretch it a little, give it a wind around her finger, then go on knitting it into squares just like ordinary yarn, with large bone needles. These squares she sewed firmly together until she had her blanket made. No spinning, no weaving; and the result was a beautiful durable blanket.

Mrs. Pratt resigned as Provincial President, owing to ill health. Mrs. Brome of Lennoxville, fills the vacant place.

Mrs. Pratt is not a stranger to many Argenteuil members, being the daughter of a former minister of Dalesville Baptist Church.

Col. Bovey was a bright lecturer, and found favor with the ladies at the commencement of his talk by telling them that there was no need of anyone taking notes of his lecture as he had enough copies of his lecture for everybody. He stressed the point that the time for learning does not stop with youth, that the more we learn the more pleasure we get out of life, and that voluntary study often brings the best results. The Women's Institutes, he felt, were the right kind of organizations to devote themselves to adult educational effort, and in passing on the benefits to others Col. Bovey told of the educational advantages provided in the set of lantern slides to be obtained from the McGill Dept. of Extra-Mural Relations, for the paying of the express on same and insurance of their safe return; also of the gramophone educational records that might be obtained in the same way.

chuckled Ted, "and don't hurry so much or you will be having everything mixed up. You can always go without breakfast you know, if you have not time to eat it!"

Billy took one look down at his trousers. "They do look strange," he muttered, his face getting red. Billy hated to be laughed at, and he hated changing things, but in this case a change had to be made and that quickly. In a few minutes he was racing downstairs, shouting through the open doorway "Wait for me, Uncle Ned, please I'll be ready to go in a minute."

"Breakfast first, Billy," said Aunt Sue firmly. "No-one leaves my house without breakfast."

"Old Timmie did," said Billy, half tearfully; he was so afraid that Uncle Ned would leave without him.

"Yes, but the witches chased Old Timmie, and there are no witches about this morning," said Bert helping himself to buckwheat cakes.

"I wonder where Old Timmie went to from here," said Grannie Craig, "and if he is safe. I hope the flood did not catch him before he got to safety."

"Oh he'll be all right, I am sure. Old Timmie can look out for himself after all these years of knocking around, Mother," said Uncle Dick. "But what I want to know just now is who is going to have the first ride to the scow? I see it waiting over in the field."

"Billy," said May, watching her little cousin almost choking in his eagerness to finish his big plateful of buckwheat cakes.

"Billy then, and a bigger one. Old Ironsides can carry quite a load."

"I will go then," said Maud. Running to her grandmother she said "Good-bye Grannie, and thanks for the lovely time. I hope we will be able to give you as nice a time when you come to see us."

"Not in the same way though, dearie," Grannie Craig said, laughing. "I am not sure that I enjoy floods."

It was sort of queer, this riding on horseback through the water, and Billy's short legs had quite a task to stretch themselves across Old Ironsides's back; but Maud held him closely, and Uncle Dick in turn held Maud, so that the trip was made quite safely with just a few splashes of icy cold water when Ironsides stepped suddenly into a deeper place than usual. "I believe I am seasick," said Billy as his father lifted him from the horse's back onto the scow. His father held him close for a minute, then said "You are lucky you were not drowned in the flood, laddie, so why worry about being seasick. Shut your eyes a few minutes and you will be alright. It was watching the water so much that gave you that feeling."

May and Nora came next. Uncle Ned brought them. They had a bit of excitement at first, as of course Nora had Cackles in her arms. Ironsides caught sight of her and remembered what had happened the day before. He jumped sideways and would not let Uncle Dick put Nora on his back until Cackles was placed in an old egg crate and set on the ground.

"I'll bring your hen with me, Nora," Uncle Dick said. "You can take Old Uncle Mose over for me instead, but do not let him get out of the box; if you do he'll swim off."

Uncle Dick hitched his team together for the next trip, and although Mollie danced and side stepped a bit in fear, she finally settled down and walked through the water beside Ironsides, although she kept up a frightened snorting all the time even when on the scow. Daddy Craig has to hold her quite tightly to keep her from jumping around and stepping on the children. Uncle Dick had ridden her through the water and the boys had been on Ironsides's back, so that all were safely landed on their own side of the river, and only paused long enough to wave to Grannie and Aunt Sue who had been watching their arrival from the house.

Historical Highlights of Glengarry County

Visited by Press Party in Convention.

Near the village of Maxville, Ontario, are the scenes so closely associated with Glengarry School Days—a work of fiction known to every lover of Canadian literature, together with other characteristic novels by Ralph Connor, whose real name is Rev. C. W. Gordon. Mr. Gordon is familiarly referred to as "Charlie" in this little parish visited last Saturday by the Ottawa and St. Lawrence Press party in their semi-annual convention.

Delegates from this newspaper were impressed with the historic dignity of this and other sites included in a 50 mile itinerary through Glengarry County—a territory which, however, boasts none of the reputedly fine roads of Ontario, nor compares in scenic beauty with the familiar County of Argenteuil. In the condition of its industries, also, it may be said this section has also a marked advantage.

Glengarry Schooldays in Reminiscence

Rev. McCallum, incumbent to the Gordon Free Church, a brick structure built by Ralph Connor's father—graciously pointed out the interesting features of this spot. The old community building, of hewn logs, in which the settlers worshipped under Reverend Danl. Gordon before he built the fine brick church in 1864, is now the meeting place of the local Literary Society. One saw also the birthplace of Connor, the site of which is covered now by a henhouse adjoining the Manse. In the distance also, the old Glengarry School was visible, and one could picture this swampy section before the introduction of highways, as the native haunt of the Man from Glengarry and the scholars of an old schoolhouse now famous to fiction. Ralph Connor left these parts at the early age of 9, when his father received a call to the West, but his works still evidence that he had fairly caught the spirit and tradition of Glengarry.

"The Pen is Mightier than the Sword"—such was the tribute of Rev. Father Campbell and his staff at the famous Iona Academy, which was the next call in this interesting tour. In the fine, well equipped classrooms, this maxim was inscribed, upon the walls, with other friendly greetings to the Press party. Here in the Parish of St. Raphael's, it was a privilege to view the home of the first Bishop of Upper Canada, Hon. and Rt. Rev. Alexander McDonnell (1760-1840); much of the original decoration and furnishing was in evidence, a source of great pride to the genial Father Campbell, whose hospitality and guidance delighted the visitors. Here also was the 145 Years of Presbyterian Worship.

The St. Andrews Presbyterian Church at Williamstown was built in 1812, but the congregation continues a tradition of 146 years of worship to God. The original body was organized here in 1787, and during 140 odd years of ministry the pulpit has been occupied successively by only five different ministers. An interesting record this; and in the ancient graveyard surrounding the picturesque stone church, where tall elm trees cast a restful shade, there are other records of the buried dead, among whom are numbered the country's earliest settlers and pioneers.

first Catholic Church in Eastern Canada, built of stone "with the aid of neither rope or pulley" Adjoining the building is a Chapel, added in 1919 to commemorate 100 years since formation of the parish. There is a tablet in tribute to the enterprising Bishop, who undertook the construction of this fine church; the inscription itself is a thing of beauty, bearing testimony to the loyal personality which seems to imbue this institution with sanctity and charm.

A 100 year old Hostelry

Antiquity adapted to the demands of modern comfort and convenience was evidenced in the travelers' final call, namely at the Moose Head Inn, Lancaster, where the convention ended in a banquet. The hostelry is close to the banks of the broad St. Lawrence, in a veritable duck-shooters' paradise. The delegates, without exception, did justice to the fare, and the social enjoyment of this parting hour, with song and speech above the board, left a pleasing memory as the party dispersed. A feeling of gratitude was uppermost, to the generosity and foresight of those who had planned this day's interesting program.

Getting it Right
Little Leona was sent to the store for milk and was just given the bottle. Somehow we forgot to give her the money, so the woman at the store thought we wanted to charge it. She did not know Leona and asked her what her daddy's name was. "Well, mother calls him 'John,' but his real name is 'daddy.'"—Indianapolis News.

Historic Region
"Spanish Main" is properly the northern coast of South America, going westward from the mouth of the Orinoco to the Isthmus of Panama, or a little farther; the mainland bordering the Caribbean sea, called by the Spanish conquerors Tierra Firme. The term is often applied, however, to the curving chain of islands forming the northern and eastern boundaries of the Caribbean sea, beginning from Mosquito, near the Isthmus, and including Jamaica, Santo Domingo, the Leeward Islands and the Windward Islands, to the coast of Venezuela, South America.

Abundance Defended
On September 18, 1793, when the corner stone of the Washington Capitol was laid, the historians devoted much of their attention to the barbecue which followed. The ox weighed 500 pounds.

Dolly Madison set such a lavish table that one elegant foreigner scoffed—"Her table is more like a harvest home supper than the entertainment of a high official."

To which she made this sprightly rejoinder—"Abundance is preferable to elegance."

Receiving Cheque for One Hundred Dollars

A Sanatorium patient at Ste. Agathe recently won the $100 prize awarded in a guessing contest in connection with Firestone Tires. Mr. Geo. Y. CORRESPONDENCE

THE PIRATE SHIP

Democracy—is a government by the people, a form of government in which the supreme power is retained and exercised by the people. So it says in my Daniel Webster dictionary of date 1925 (Possibly the Liberal Committee of this county may have a later edition of his works).

I was surprised the other day to be told certain reports were current, concerning me in this County. First, that it was my intention to run for parliament at the coming election. To this I would answer to whoever circulated this, it is my right, if I wish to do so. However, I never said it. Second, that I was not a believer in Almighty God, and was a reader of Tom Paine's works. I would reply to this in the words of our great and gentle Master at the foot of the Cross, when the Roman soldier struck Him. "If I have done evil bear witness of that evil, but if well, why smitest thou me?" And to the charge of being a reader of Tom Paine's works, I do not deny that I read them, and I not only read them but I quote them here for the benefit of my learned critics.

"The end of all political associations is, the preservation of the rights of man, which rights are liberty, property, and security; that the nation is the source of all sovereignty derived from it. The right of property being secured inviolable, no-one ought to be deprived of it, except in cases of evident public necessity, legally ascertained and on conditions of previous just indemnity." (Tom Paine)

These are undoubtedly the rights of man, and will my critics contradict me? These are the rights for which all governments have been established and Tom Paine's writings contend for them.

The choicest fruit that grows on the tree of English Liberty is said to be security under the law; but we have in the Liberal Committee those that would deny us these rights, deny us rotation of office and freedom of speech at our own conventions, while we have also a number on the fence, ready to jump either way, who are condemning the principles that they would keep going, and are ready to plunge on either side, whichever looks to be winning. For whom does the party in power represent—not those that sent them, but they on the fence!

To the old time liberals of this County of Argenteuil—is it not high time we called a halt and martialled our men?—for if we don't, the day of battle will be on us and our levies will be but raw recruits. Cars are plentiful; let us call an open air picnic meeting in a central part of the County, and include a morning, afternoon, and if necessary an evening session, for when we are settling the affairs of our nation we have all the time there is, and we should take it. Bonne chance, my good liberal friends.

HON. R. B. BENNETT SPEAKS FROM LONDON

The International Economic Conference became a matter of more practical interest to those who heard Hon. R. B. Bennett speaking over the radio from London last Sunday.

Delegates are there assembled from all parts of the globe, representing over 60 nations, bent on restoring conditions of world wide prosperity—conditions which will rebound in a very practical way upon the street-corner unemployed.

The net cash income of the farmer, said Premier Bennett, determines his capacity to buy the products of industry. The farmer's loss in falling prices illustrates most forcefully the public's lowered buying capacity and the prevailing condition of overproduction and under-consumption. The Conference is concerned to boost commodity prices—the one panacea to the ills of industry; and the present deliberations will examine ways and means by which this can be accomplished.

Incidental to this achievement there are many things to consider; there are trade agreements and international policies; there are debts and fluctuating currencies. But Mr. Bennett hinted at the set determination of his colleagues to evolve some early practical means toward improvement. This determination was characterized by the speaker's remark that "This is no time to look back to the Great War and specify the causes of present difficulties, but a time to face the future and to restore the prosperity of the world."

Altogether Mr. Bennett's message was constructive and hopeful.

NOTES OF PERSONAL CONCERN FROM PRESS CONVENTION

The Small Town Editor

Members of the Watchman staff, meeting fellow editors at the recent district press gathering, observed in these publishers a body of men closely concerned and deeply wrapped in their communities. It might be conceded, their own business held their most immediate interest, but it was truly apparent how ardently they backed the welfare and reputation of their respective towns. And the fact was once more patent, that a newspaper works hand in hand with its home town and each must receive the support of the other in its march to progress.

The Job Printer

The printer has met, with other trades, the handicap of declining prices. Job printing is an enterprise strangely subject to the Price Cutting evil. Attention was drawn to that brand of merchant who sends his printing out of town to save a few cents, yet who—hearing of a neighbor who sent to Eaton's for a dozen pencils—raises his hands in indignation. The home town printer deserves consideration from his merchants—and at least appreciates a chance to meet outside competition. His prices, after all, are legitimately based on his running costs. Printers are not profiteering; that fact is certain.

The Weekly Newspaper

The Watchman was gratified to report a steadily increasing circulation, while other publishers were suffering a decrease in subscribers. The fact is mentioned in no spirit of superiority, but in appreciation of the support this paper has received from its reading public. If the Watchman carries its share of lax subscribers, it still looks confidently to the settlement of all subscriptions in arrears. The home town newspaper keeps faith with its public in the prospect of better times ahead.

QUEBEC PROVINCIAL WOMEN'S INSTITUTES TWENTIETH CONVENTION (Continued)

Dr. Helen Reid in her address said that it was extraordinary that until recently there had been no definite attempt at training and education for the important undertaking of setting up a family and establishing a home. She outlined changes that have taken place as a result of mechanical inventions and industrial developments, which make for more leisure for the woman of the home, that she may get the enjoyment out of life that is her due.

Dr. Reid said that while she felt it was improbable that the home would ever return to the producing of all its own cloth, food, etc., it could still remain the producer of happiness for its inmates.

Dr. A. S. Lamb, Director of Physical Education at McGill, said that modern educationists no longer regarded physical education as something that belongs exclusively to the gymnasium or the football field, but that it was designed to equip people to use their leisure moments in a fitting manner most beneficial to themselves and their families.

Dr. Fraser Gurd gave some hints in First Aid. "The Good Samaritan", he said, "gave first aid and also used antiseptics in the shape of oil and wine. He told of a girl's picnic where one of the girls went in swimming too soon after lunch and sank, one of the other stronger members diving in to rescue her and bringing her back to life through artificial breathing, produced by systematic hard work on the part of her companions who had been trained in first aid work. Dr. Gurd stated that the Bell Telephone Co. had about 4000 persons trained in this work.

The last afternoon of the session was devoted to lectures from J. C. Stead and Leslie G. Barnard, both Canadian authors, but following other walks of life as well. Mr. Stead gave a graphic picture of pioneer life when he himself was a boy, jokingly saying he was going to give the date and that was more than the ladies were usually willing to do! He said that in those days money was a very scarce article; he remembered when his mother was asked to attend a fair as a judge of some household goods but no money was sent her to pay for her journey. Messengers were sent all about the neighborhood to secure some, but all came back empty handed, not because they were unwilling to lend his mother the money, but because no one had any to lend. Things, he said, did not look any too hopeful for his mother's journey until the arrival of one of the several gentlemen who periodically visited their home on business. (This with a humorous smile, adding that he was the only boy in a large family of girls. So one could easily understand the nature of the business that brought gentlemen to his home was the old one of courtship).

This particular gentleman at least was sure that his brother who lived at a great distance had five dollars. Leaving the house he made the journey and returned with the money in the early hours of the morning, which enabled his mother to go to the fair and do her part as judge.

Mr. Stead said that some years later his family moved out west, and started their pioneer life all over again, but that in recent years he had visited the scene of his boyhood home and found it almost impossible to get near a ball game that was going on, for parked motor cars yet on this occasion he had heard more grumbling about hard times than he had ever heard in his boyhood days, when there was no money, only barter by which the pioneers could live.

migration Dept. is getting young unemployed men onto farms, as well as families. He stated through this scheme some 76,000 persons had been settled in the land, that although no financial grants had been given, the settlers had been helped with advice, guidance in locations of farms, etc.

L. G. Barnard's address was "The Writer's Second Mile", in which he touched on the factors that make for good writing, simplicity of language, etc. Mr. Barnard is a gifted writer, and has published several books.

Mr. W. M. Wright, chief analyst of the Seed Branch, spoke at some length on the eradication of weeds by every possible means, and urged the ladies assembled to bring their influence to bear upon their husbands, to neglect no opportunity of getting rid of weeds, which were fast turning fertile land into useless ground by allowing these noxious weeds to grow and spread.

These lectures are well worth attending, not only by official delegates but by other persons interested in farm and rural life.

This Electric Range ensures a COOL, CLEAN KITCHEN

The coolness and cleanliness of the Northern Electric-Gurney range is always an agreeable surprise to the cook. Its flameless burners do not heat the air like other fuels and efficient insulation keeps the heat in the oven and prevents it from escaping into the kitchen. Also, there are no fumes to cause headaches or tarnish metals. Cooking vessels stay bright without constant scouring.

The Northern Electric-Gurney range shown in the illustration has a new two-tone ivory finish that adds greatly to its handsome appearance. It is a range you will be proud to own and use. Ask about the small down payment and easy terms.

McFaul, also of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Cox and Miss Irene Cox, and Mr. Kenneth McFaul of Lachute; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ayres and family from Kingston.

After the wedding the bridal party repaired to the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Maud Moncrieff, where 72 guests sat down to a delightful wedding supper, the room and table being decorated with streamers of white and yellow interspersed with the traditional wedding bells. In the centre of the table towered the wedding cake, iced and decorated according to Mrs. McCullough's finest culinary art, which has no equal in the district.

After the repast, amid much laughter and confetti, the gay company followed the bridal car to Lachute, whence the happy couple entrained for a honeymoon at Montreal, Kingston, Ottawa and other points. The bride wore a grey suit, with shoes and hat to match. On their return they will make their home in Brownsburg.

THE LATE ROBT. GORDON

On Wednesday, June 21st., 1933, there passed away at his home in Bethany, Mr. Robert Gordon, who was born in East Settlement, Nov. 2nd., 1853 and for the last 14 years has resided in the community of Bethany. He leaves to mourn his loss his devoted wife, two sons and three daughters, Peter, of Bethany; George, of East Settlement; Wm. Nicol, of Newark, N. J.; Mrs. Gordon Walker, of Jerusalem, and Jeanie at home. The funeral took place Friday afternoon and was conducted by Rev. H. Cousens of the Presbyterian Church; the ceremony was largely attended by many old friends and acquaintances.

Town Locals.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Christie of Montreal, were week-end visitors in town.

Miss Edith McMath, of St. Lamberts, spent the past week visiting Miss Agnes McMahon.

Miss Millie Davis, of Ottawa, spent a few days in town this week, the guest of her sister, Mrs. Wm. Deacon.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Bradley, of Montreal, were renewing old acquaintances in this vicinity over the week-end.

Miss L. McDowell left last week to spend the summer months at her home in Shawville.

Mrs. J. N. Gillies and little daughter Anne, of New Carlisle, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Dobbie.

Mrs. Jno. Hope and Mrs. J. T. Griffith were visitors to Montreal the latter part of last week.

Rev. Roger Lafleur, Oblate of Mary Immaculate, is visiting here from Chambly Basin, the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lafleur, for the week.

Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Lafleur of Verdun, with Messrs. Lionel and Jules Lafleur, of Montreal, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. Lafleur during the week-end.

Miss Marion LeCras, of St. Helen's School, Dunham, has arrived home to spend the summer months with her parents, Rev. W. and Mrs. LeCras at the Rectory.

Mrs. Stanley Goldsworthy who has been spending the past week in Kitchener, Ont., returned home on Sunday and was accompanied by Mrs. A. Goldsworthy and daughter.

Mr. Alex. Robertson, of Tetraultville, is busy erecting a new cottage on the south-east shore of Lake Louise, which is becoming increasingly popular with summer campers.

Among city visitors to Lake Louise during last week-end were Misses Marian and Evelyn Mathews and friends, Mr. and Mrs. H. Carson, Miss Enid, and Mr. Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. and Miss Crusell.

Mr. and Mrs. John Berryhill and son, of Syracuse, N. Y., spent the week-end visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Bradley. On their return they were accompanied by Miss K. Bradley who will be their guest for a few weeks.

Brownsburg Shoppers will be interested to know the 'man at the helm' in the new managed Corner Store, is operating on modern lines to compete with Chain Store prices. A visit to G. O. Lajoie will convince you he is out to give Value to the Brownsburg public. Opening Sale now in progress.

A quantity of trout fry was recently deposited in Lake Louise through the co-operation of the Dept. of Game and Fisheries. The Lake Louise Fish and Game Club has been instrumental in making this lake a worth-while fishing ground, and the organization deserves support from all summer residents.

WOOL LOADING

The Argenteuil Wool Growers and Sheep Breeders Association will load wool at the C. P. R. freight shed Lachute on Thursday, July 6th., for Co-operative shipment to Lennoxville, Que.

Alex. Bothwell, County Agriculturist.

Tuesday evening was Seminary Night, at the Lachute Baptist Church. After introduction by the pastor, Rev. F. W. Dyson the meeting was taken in charge of the instructors and students of Toronto Baptist Seminary who were present. Rev. W. S. Whitcombe, instructor of English and Theology, gave the main message of the evening while Dr. O. L. Clarke, instructor of Greek and other subjects, spoke briefly. The quartette sang several selections and these four young men also gave brief testimonies; offering was taken for the work of the Seminary.

DEANERY MEETING AT ST. ANDREWS.

The clergy of the Deanery of St. Andrews met on Tuesday at St. Andrews East. There was a celebration of the Holy Communion, at which the Rev. R. S. Booy, Rural Dean and Rector of the Parish, officiated. After the usual routine business, papers were read by the Rural Dean and the Rev. A. S. Mitchell. Other Clergy who were present included the Reverends W. J. H. Lummis, C. W. P. Baugh, K. N. Brueton, G. Addie and W. LeCras. The Clergy were the guests of the Rev. and Mrs. Booy.

SUCCESSFUL BEE AT LAKEFIELD

Tuesday last witnessed a goodly crowd of six teams of horses and about 27 men, who had gathered together for the purpose of improving the condition of the churchyard of Holy Trinity Church, Lakefield. Too much praise cannot be given to the men who, in spite of the extreme heat, did their best towards making God's Acre a place of dignity and order as it ought to be.

All the work of men and horses was a voluntary offering towards this important object.

As usual the ladies of the W. A. filled their part, and a well served and abundant luncheon was laid in the Gibb Parish Hall. The new kitchen is a great help at functions of this nature; and the ladies of the W. A. are to be congratulated upon the success of their efforts. Mr. Albert Scott has built cement window-sills to all the windows of the Church and has made a first class job. The painting of the frames and windows is to be done shortly.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)

Lesson for July 9

CALEB

LESSON TEXT—Joshua 14:6-14.
GOLDEN TEXT—Blessed is that man that maketh the Lord his trust, and respecteth not the proud, nor such as turn aside to lies. Psalm 146:4.
PRIMARY TOPIC—A Truthful Soldier.

JUNIOR TOPIC—A Fearless Soldier Rewarded.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Caleb the Courageous.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Caleb's Confidence in God.

Caleb stands out in Bible history as a strong personality. He was a man of such character as deserves special study.

1. Elements of Caleb's Character.
1. Independence of spirit (Num. 13:30). Though the multitude clamored to follow the report of the ten, Caleb determined to stand alone. This is a highly important element in human character. One should stand for what he knows to be right regardless of the sentiment of the crowd.

2. Loyal to convictions (Josh. 14:6; cf. Num. 14:6-9). What Caleb knew and felt he spoke out. He did not wait for the opinion of others and then shape his own to suit that of the crowd. The man who can be trusted is the one who is loyal to his convictions. Joseph was an earlier, and Daniel a later example of the loyalty to conviction exhibited by Caleb.

3. Unselfish (Josh. 14:12). He did not wish to thrust some one else into the place of difficulty. He desired to go into the place where it would require fighting in order to drive out the giants which were in the land.

4. Courageous (Josh. 14:12; cf. Num. 13:30). This courage he displayed when he insisted that they were able to go up from Kadesh-Barnea and take possession of the land. Forty-five years have elapsed since that time (Josh. 14:10). Though he would be now considered an old man, he still desired that place for an inheritance which would require fighting to possess. He said, "I am as strong this day as I was in the day that Moses sent me: as my strength was then, even so is my strength now for war."

5. Loyal to God (Josh. 14:8; cf. Num. 14:24). He served God with a whole-hearted devotion. A man who is thoroughly loyal to God is always true and magnanimous in his dealings with his fellows.

6. Caleb Laying Claim to His Inheritance (Josh. 14:9-12).

Caleb was accompanied by the children of Judah. He did not come alone to present his claim, lest he be suspected of taking advantage. Then, too, he did not wish to wait until after the lot was cast for God had already given a certain portion to him (Num. 14:30). The basis of his claim was:

1. The ground of his service (vv. 6-8). He had endangered his life in spying out the land—had gone to Hebron when the giants were there. He brought back a true report even when his brethren were all against him. He bore his testimony and insisted that they go up and take the land even though to do so incurred the displeasure of his brethren, making it necessary for him to stand alone.

2. On the ground of the oath of Moses to him (v. 9). Joshua had respect for Moses, and was bound to follow the counsels of his faithful master whom he succeeded.

3. On the ground of God's providential dealing with him (vv. 10-12). God had preserved him in bodily health. His natural forces were unabated, though he was now eighty-five years old. He still regarded himself as capable of driving out the giants who possessed the land. The preservation of one's health is an indication of God's will that there is still work to do.

III. Joshua Giving the Inheritance to Caleb (Josh. 14:13, 14).

1. Caleb blessed by Joshua (v. 13). He not only acquiesced in Caleb's claim, but bestowed the blessing of God upon him in it.

2. The inheritance given (vv. 13, 14). Hebron, which means fellowship, was the name of the inheritance. Only those who fully follow the Lord can enjoy fellowship with him. Though Caleb now legally possessed Hebron, it was necessary for him to fight to drive out the giants who infested it. In the Lord Jesus Christ we have an inheritance which God has given us. We, too, must fight because the enemy is unwilling to relinquish the claim upon it. Caleb got what he asked for because it was in keeping with the will of God. We, too, are sure to get that which we claim when we lay hold on that which is according to God's Word.

Will Open Any Lock

SOMETHING FOR NOTHING

There is nothing that appeals to a child more than the idea that they are getting something for nothing. There are a great many people who never get beyond their childish liking of getting something for nothing and business people have been appealing to that liking and offering all sorts of inducements to get business. They have offered free china, glassware, kitchen utensils, paint brushes, photographs, and even bus trips.

That sort of thing may appeal to some people, but on the other hand, there are a great many who re-act differently and when something for nothing is offered they immediately begin to wonder what is wrong with the article that special inducements need be offered. It costs the merchant considerable to provide these things for nothing and it seems to me it would be much better business to use money to reduce the price of the article. A few people may be pleased with a premium but the majority would prefer price reduction.

A YEAR BOOK

Our Home and School Club celebrated its 27th birthday this month. We gave a party and invited the past presidents and secretaries. And what a time we had finding out who they were! The minute book had disappeared. We could not find a trace of them. Memories are very weak and it was impossible to get definite information as one woman would think that Mrs. So-and-so had been in office at such a time and the next woman would say that wasn't right at all, it was Mrs. Such-and-so and it was all very confusing. We have decided to keep a year book and to keep definite track of our officers, putting down as many as we can be sure of and keeping it up to date from now on. It would be a good idea for every club or association to have a book of this kind which will have correct information for use when required. Suggest it at your next meeting and get the book started.

BIRTHDAY CAKE

One of our members made a birthday cake and as every one liked it so much I got the recipe for you.

One half lb. butter, 3 eggs, 1 lb. sultana raisins (preferably bleached) 1 1/2 cups brown sugar, 1/4 lb. citron peel, 1/2 cup warm water 2 teaspoons vanilla, 3 cups flour, 1/2 lb. candied cherries, 2 teaspoons baking powder.

Cream the butter and sugar; add well beaten eggs. Add warm water. Sift a part of the flour over the raisins, the finely shaved peel, and the cherries cut in pieces. Sift in the rest of the flour and the baking powder and blend; add the fruit and beat until thoroughly mixed. Bake in a moderate oven of 325 degrees for 1 1/4 hours. This cake was baked in two round tins of different sizes and iced to make an attractive looking cake but it may be baked in a large loaf tin or in the regulation fruit cake tin 10 inches square.

STRAWBERRY RIPE

The trouble with the strawberry season is that it is far too short. Twice a day and even three times in not too often to serve these delicious berries. Nothing can be nicer than just strawberries and cream but there are so many other ways to use them that it is well to have variety. The very simplest of desserts is made by mashing the berries and sweetening to taste. Let stand in the ice chest until thoroughly chilled, put in sherbet glasses and top with whipped cream. This dessert is much nicer in a glass dish than if served in a china one, as we eat with our eyes, and the contrast of the red and white showing through the glass adds to the attractiveness of the dessert. This is a simple family dessert and I have used it on occasion at Bridge luncheons and it has been just as acceptable there.

STRAWBERRY CREAM

One quart fresh strawberries, 1 cup sugar, 1/2 cup quick cooking tapioca, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 3 cups boiling water, 1/2 cup of cream whipped. Crush the strawberries and add the sugar. Cook the tapioca, water, and salt in the double boiler for about 20 minutes or until the tapioca is clear. Let cool and fold in the whipped cream and the crushed berries, reserving a few for garnishing. Pile lightly in sherbet glasses and chill.

STRAWBERRY MERINGUES

Fill meringues with strawberries cut in half and sweetened. Cover with whipped cream and garnish with a whole berry. In case some of you have not kept the directions for making meringues which were gone in to at length a few weeks ago. I will repeat them briefly. Beat three egg whites until stiff then add 1 1/4 cups sugar, two tablespoons at a time, beating after each addition. Add 1/4 teaspoon vanilla. Drop by spoonfuls on a pan covered with unglazed paper. Cook in a very slow oven of 250 degrees from 50 to 60 minutes. Remove from paper quickly and remove any soft portion. Dry out in the oven if necessary.

STRAWBERRY ICING

Crush 10 strawberries with a little sugar and add a few drops of lemon juice. Let stand for a few minutes until the juice is drawn out. Mix in gradually about three cups of icing sugar

Golden Wedding at St. Andrews

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Howell, last Saturday afternoon and evening, was the scene of social activity, on the occasion of their Golden Wedding celebration.

Scores of friends in St. Andrews East attended and many wishes and phone calls from those unable to be present added to the wave of congratulations. All present partook of the generous hospitality of their host and hostess and Mrs. E. M.

L. Jones poured tea; Miss Beatrice Robertson, coffee; and Mrs. McAdam, served the ices. The table decorations were typical and consistent with the exquisite floral environment of St. Andrews at this season of the year.

Mr. and Mrs. Howell are both in perfect health and all present were in unison with "Many, many Happy Returns of the Day".

Reviewing the last fifteen years, we reach the conclusion that it would also be advisable in time of war to prepare for peace.—Christian Science Monitor.

It is generally considered . .

that Winter is the Social Season. But it is strange, more social visiting and impromptu calling is done during the Summer . . . The Ottawa Spotlight

A Weekly Review of National Affairs

By Wilfrid Eggleston

Ottawa, June 27.—At last the "upturn", "recovery of business", "revival of trade" or whatever one likes to call it has become something more than ballyhoo or stock market speculation. Facts and figures pouring into Ottawa during the past week have for the first time in years begun to show something fundamental and widespread. Whether temporary or permanent, time alone will tell, but in the meantime, business is on the mend.

There are two indicators which all the ballyhoo in the world cannot affect. The first is total car-loadings in Canada. The second is bank debits (which measure the speed with which money is changing hands). In the past couple of years wave after wave of propaganda has been broadcast to the effect that Canada had "turned the corner" and that prosperity was back again, but all one needed to do to wake up from this pipedream was to look at car-loadings and bank debits. Except for unimportant upturns these basic business thermometers have been going down steadily since 1929.

The bright spots about the bank debit report for May can be listed as follows:

1. Financial transfers reached the highest level since November 1931. More business than for eighteen months.

2. After making allowance for seasonal changes, bank debits in May were up 25% over April. A healthy boost for one month.

3. In Toronto the gain was 33%. In Ontario as a whole 26%. On the prairies the gain was 32 per cent.

4. Measured against the financial activity of May 1932 the gain was 22 per cent.

The Maritimes, which were the last part of Canada to feel the full force of the depression, are proving to be the last to feel the upturn. While bank debits were increasing everywhere else in Canada, they were falling off slightly (between five and six per cent) there. In another month or two the Maritimes should begin to show increases also.

Heavier Car Loadings

Week by week the number of cars loaded with grain, coal, ore, lumber and other commodities improves. After a fearful slump in the middle of February, the totals began to rise, and have now reached a point 20 per cent higher than they were four months ago. If they keep up the present increase by the middle of July they will be well ahead of 1932 totals. Last year during the first five months of the year the loadings were falling rapidly, so that the trend this year is the opposite of last year's. Cars received from railway lines in the United States (measuring Canada-U. S. trade) have been ahead of last year's totals.

The Bennett ministers who are still plugging away here through the hot weather need some of this 'good news' tonic. The government's own financial affairs are still very burdensome, and behind the scenes these days there is much feverish economy. The annual 'controllable' expenditure of the federal government is about $140,000,000, and the controller of the treasury, Mr. Watson Sellar, is trying to trim out about $14,000,000. That is going to mean further discharge of government employees, most people fear.

Many Vacancies.

The death of Senator Paradis leaves nine vacancies in the Senate. There are four members missing from the House of Commons also. Among appointments awaiting government action are:

The royal commission on banking.

The pensions commission. Two members of the civil service commission.

The Canadian National Board of Trustees (five).

Ontario and Ottawa are working on a scheme to employ 3,000 single unemployed men in the Lac Seul area in north-western Ontario. Some 55,000 acres of timberland are to be cleared, and the lake is to be raised 11 feet, adding 100,000 potential horse power to the Winnipeg River electrical development which supplies light and power to the Manitoba capital. The men are to get their needs supplied plus 20 cents a day. Most of them will be drafted from Winnipeg.

The nudist cult now has millions of enthusiastic followers—if you count the mosquitoes.—Chicago Phoenix.

If she says she loves the smell of a pipe, that means she isn't married yet.—Fountain Inn (S.B.) Tribune.

CENTRAL CANADA PRIZE LIST READY

Many Changes Noted in Agricultural Section and W. I.

There are so many changes and additions in the Central Canada Exhibition, Ottawa, prize list this year that it should be in the hands of every prospective exhibitor. The book is just off the press and ready for distribution by application at the Exhibition's office, Journal Building, Ottawa. In agricultural classes alone, exclusive of poultry, $19,000 is provided for prize money. Dates at Ottawa this year are August 21 to 26. All prizes in the catalogue are net and are on a generous scale.

Certain changes have been made in live stock classes at the request of the Department. Get of sire and progeny of dam have been stressed and 15 percent. of all prize money goes to these classes. As usual the Holstein-Friesian Association adds 40 per cent over and above the association's prize money.

Following a conference with the agricultural representatives from nearby Ontario and Quebec points certain important changes and improvements have been made in the Junior Agricultural Department. This whole branch of the fair is one of the most important features of Ottawa Exhibition. Poultry has been added to the junior department and there will be a contest for culling and grading open to all under 26 years.

In the poultry prize list breeding classes have been added for the outstanding breeds and any other variety.

In recent years Women's Institutes in the district have taken greater interest in Ottawa Exhibition and their displays have been admired. Their section has been revised this year and greater interest is expected. Institutes all over Eastern Ontario and Western Quebec have been invited to send in exhibits.

Ottawa Exhibition this year has not retrenched greatly and from the agricultural point of view prize money and classifications are as generous as ever. To attract attendance the Exhibition has provided many unusual features, foremost being the famous British band, that of His Majesty's Scots Guards, one of the most famous army bands in the world.

Sky Line Hiking in the Rockies

Organized trail hiking in the Canadian Rockies will be inaugurated for the coming year by a hike slated to start at Lake Louise on August 4th. An increasing interest is being taken in trail hiking in the Canadian Rockies, and a committee consisting chiefly of experienced members of the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies and the Alpine Club of Canada, has undertaken the organization of a new order called the Sky Line Trail Hikers.

The inaugural hike will start this summer on August 4th from Lake Louise and tramp over the Saddleback through Paradise Valley and over Sentinel Pass to Moraine Lake, where the first night's camp will be made. On Saturday, August 5th, the party will hike from Moraine Lake over Wenkehemna and Opabin Passes and will have the thrill of crossing two glaciers before arriving at Lake O'Hara. On Sunday the hikers will be able to take in the magnificent scenery around Lake Macarthur, Lake Oesa, and Mount Odaray, and members of the party will be able to enjoy the excellent fishing in Lake O'Hara. The Pow-Wow will be held on Monday, August 6th, after which the members will hike to Wapta and catch the evening train back to Lake Louise.

Salvage as a Function of Government

By Lt. Col. Lewis H. Beer, Ottawa, Dominion Government Salvage Officer

The era of systematic, careful and economic supervision seems to have returned to us. The word returned is used advisedly, inasmuch as there was a period just previous to the late war, and during the first part of the war when extravagance and waste were rampant. This present zeal for economy has been brought about by the appalling destruction of property and huge expenditure of monies from 1914 to 1918, and the resultant contingencies due to the happenings between those dates. The necessity for saving and careful expenditure devolves on Governments possibly more than on individuals, as the conduct of state usually sets the standard for the individual.

The Dominion Government of Canada is very much to the fore in setting such a standard of economy. Their system of salvage, or reclamation, stands as direct evidence of this, and is possibly not known to the general public. British institutions have the peculiarity of doing things without any undue ostentation.

This system of salvage is simple, but very effective.

One must realize that, in the administration of such a huge business as our Government, enormous quantities of materials of all descriptions are used. A large percentage of this material eventually becomes surplus to requirements, obsolete, or commonly known as junk.

Surplus materials are usually serviceable. Obsolete materials and junk have served their purpose, and should owe the business little or nothing. It is the work of the Salvage Department to find a use or market for all of this.

It will be readily understood that this material must be of a very diversified character, ranging in fact from odd teeth to battleships. The methods of disposal previous to the organization of a Salvage Department are somewhat vague. The matter of interdepartmental transfers alone is of most vital importance.

Some department has a large quantity of serviceable material surplus to its requirements. This is listed with the Salvage Department. They in turn notify other departments that such is available for transfer. In many instances, some other department is about to purchase such material, but on notification that same is available transfer is made. It would be rather hard to compute the saving accomplished by this method.

In the matter of disposal of obsolete material and junk, this is open to much criticism from the general public or the casual observer. Equipment costing many thousands of dollars may be disposed of for a few hundred dollars. As before said, such material has served its purpose.

It is just worth what can be got for it. We now come to the method of disposal. It is very simple and inexpensive.

The Salvage Department is notified that there is a quantity of obsolete material or junk, located, it may be anywhere from Halifax to Vancouver. This material is in the care of some officer of the department owning same. It remains where it is without any added expense to the public, such as extra handling or special warehouse room, until disposed of.

Tenders are called and distributed to all who might be interested. The Salvage Department has a very up-to-date mailing list of every branch of business, most everywhere. It is sold to the highest bidder "as and where it lies." One sale alone of scrap metals has brought as high as $30,000.

In carrying out successfully such a plan of salvage and transfer, it is necessary to have the full support and co-operation of all departments. The Salvage Department must be kept fully posted as to what materials or equipment are available.

One must not overlook the difficulty departments have in deciding just what should be disposed of. Departmental heads are continually faced with the problem of whether equipment surplus now might not be required at some future date. This of course is a matter of departmental administration and cannot possibly be interfered with by the Salvage Department.

In one calendar year the Salvage Department carried out some 1400 transactions amounting in all to $1,066,368.44, this with an overhead expenditure of less than $12,000. It has been conceded that this was a direct saving of over a million dollars.

Besides being a most sensible business method of disposal, it is of great assistance to storekeepers in the different departments to keep their stores and supplies in an up-to-date manner, and prevents goods becoming shopworn. There being a properly authorized outlet for what is not required, there is no necessity of the material to lie around and deteriorate. Many instances could be recited where urgent needs of departments have been filled from stores surplus in some other department where heretofore the department requiring same purchased it, not knowing it was surplus elsewhere within the government. Unsightly heaps of junk are becoming conspicuous by their absence.

It may here be said that the success of the Salvage Department is entirely due to the wholehearted support and co-operation of the different departments. Although adopted as an experiment it is now a permanent institution and its further success is assured.

Modern Life Tends to Put Ban on Prolixity

Long visits, long stories, long essays, long exhortations, and long prayers seldom profit those who have to do with them. Life is short. Time is short. Moments are precious. Learn to condense, abridge and intensify. We can bear things that are dull if they are only short. We can bear many an ache or ill if it is soon over; while even pleasure grows insipid, and pain intolerable, if they are protracted beyond the limits of reason and convenience. Learn to be short. Lop off branches; stick to the main facts in the case. If you pray, ask for what you believe you will receive, and get through; if you speak, tell your message and hold your peace; if you write, hold down two sentences into one, and three words into two. Always avoid lengthiness. Learn to be short.—Dr. George Cowan.

Sparrows Imported

When the early settlers in New Zealand began to break up the soil and sow crops large brown caterpillars appeared and devoured the crops. Year by year they increased until whole fields were darkened by their armies.

Ditches were dug. They were filled by the pests, and the tide rolled on. The hordes increased until they actually blocked the railroads and stopped the trains. The native birds had already learned to dread man with his guns, and the survivors had retreated into the forests and uncleared land, so sparrows were brought from England. These increased and multiplied and cleared out the caterpillars.
