LADY GOLFERS HELD SEASON'S FIRST MEET

Officers Elected

Last Saturday, following the tournament on the local grounds a meeting was held of the Ladies' Branch of the Lachute Golf & Tennis Club and the following officers were elected.

Mrs. Wm. Cottingham, president; Mrs. H. Cousens, vice-president; Miss Gabrielle Joly, secretary for her third term in that capacity; Miss M. V. Slater, Treasurer.

Match Committee: Mrs. Geo. Mitchell, Mrs. W. J. Bryant, Miss P. Paquette.

Social Committee: Mrs. A. McOuat, Mrs. J. MacKimmie, Mrs. W. J. Bryant, Mrs. H. McFaul, Mrs. R. Charron.

It was decided that meetings would be held on the first Tuesday of every month.

REPORT OF FOURTEENTH W.I. CONVENTION

The fourteenth Annual Convention of Argenteuil County Women's Institutes was held in McArthur's Hall, Lachute, on May 16th., with an attendance of 91 ladies.

The County President, Mrs. J. D. Davis of Morin Heights, was in the chair, assisted by her secretary, Mrs. Ardill, of Brownsburg.

The morning was given over to the reading of minutes of meetings held during the year and County Secretary's reports.

Mrs. Davis, in welcoming the delegates, stated that the large attendance indicated the interest taken in the organization by the Branches and trusted that all might benefit by the deliberations of the day. Mrs. Kuhring, of Lakefield, replying on behalf of the delegates, said also: "We are a body of women who are trying to make ourselves and others through our example, better citizens."

We are trying to make our homes and our communities healthier and happier places in which to live and through the different branches in Argenteuil, we feel that much is being accomplished towards this end. But much remains to be done and because of that our need of gathering for our fourteenth Annual Convention is apparent. Here we discuss our difficulties and successes and receive much assistance from the suggestions and careful guidance of our beloved Superintendent, Miss McCain.

We realize that a woman's responsibilities cannot end in her home and the various branches of work in The Women's Institute give ample scope for all our talents, be they few or many.

May our discussion here today bring a better understanding of our own problems and a greater sympathy towards those of other branches."

The County Secretary, Mrs. Ardill, reported that there were 204 members this year, also that 87 regular and 9 special meetings had been held. These meetings covered a great many branches of work, such as unveiling the Monumental Cairns at Grenville and Carillon, placing a Memorial Wreath on the cenotaph on Armistice Day, donating two wheel chairs to the women's ward of the Western General Hospital, catering to underprivileged children by way of donations of school books, warm clothing, and in some instances school fees, assisting in relief work for the unemployed, sending messages of cheer in letters and flowers to the sick, and messages of sympathy to the bereaved. The Secretary reported that $283.72, had been taken in during the year and expended in the above work, leaving a small balance on hand.

CANADIANS SUPERIOR AIR FIGHTERS IN WAR

Montreal Gazette Recalls Record of Lt.-Col. Bishop, V.C., and Daring Aviators

A recent press article paid fitting tribute to the air service of Canadian forces in the Great War, showing that the Dominion's contribution in this branch of activity had been quite out of proportion to the country's population. The article, appearing in the Montreal Gazette of some weeks ago, made particular reference to the record of Lt. Col. W. A. Bishop, who is a frequent visitor in this county and known in St. Andrews social circles.

Lt. Col. Bishop is vice-President of McColl Frontenac Oil Co., Limited, an associate of Mr. John Irwin, whom he visits frequently at "Rockby", the latter's estate at St. Andrews E. As an aviator in the Great War, Lt. Col. Bishop established a record unequalled in the annals of aircraft campaigning.

A writer of wide repute, Lt. Col. G. A. Drew, is quoted at length on the exploits of Canadian aviators, both in civil and military activity. His survey of the subject has much to say concerning the skill and daring of Lt. Col. Bishop.

Canadians, as pioneers in civil aviation, established for this country an enviable reputation, but their achievements in war will likely live even longer in the annals of this Dominion by reason of the deeds of daring, sacrifice and high adventure that are more often recalled from the pages of history by those seeking chronicles of courage.

It is opportune to recall at this time, the part played by Canada in the grim conflict that closed more than fifteen years ago. Boys who first saw the light of day in this Dominion while battles were being waged in Europe, Asia and Africa, may soon be termed pilots of the present.

DANCE RECITAL CLOSES SEASON'S CLASSES

An enjoyable evening was spent in McArthur's Hall, last Saturday, where Miss Peggy Beveridge closed her dancing school for the summer months with a Dance Recital. A large number of interested parents and friends were present and each number performed showed the care and patience which had been exerted by the teacher, who at the close presented each class, with words of appreciation, to the audience. The three younger members, Doris Mitchell, Betty Campbell and Kathleen Ardill were heartily applauded with encores, and Sydney Drew as Master of Ceremonies was well received.

The program of dances included:

Dancing Routine Demonstration.

Tap Dance.—Sydney Drew.

Waltz Minute.—Betty Campbell, Doris Mitchell.

Toe Dance.—Jean Beveridge.

Rhythm Tap.—Peggy Beveridge.

Princess Dragonfly.—Lorna Giles, Louise Deacon, Kirsten Jacobson.

Baby Tap Dance.—Doris Mitchell, Betty Campbell.

Gypsy Dance.—Margot MacGibbon, Peggy Beveridge.

Lady Moon—sung by Peggy Beveridge.

Lover, Come Back to Me.—Peggy and Jean Beveridge.

Hat-Box Dance.—Betty Campbell, Kathleen Ardill, Doris Mitchell.

LAURENTIDE KENNELS SCORE AGAIN

Brownsburg:—For quiet efficiency and consistent success it would be hard to surpass the enviable record of our local dog breeding enterprise, the Laurentide Kennels. Since its formation just a few years ago every important dog show in Canada has recognized the merit of its exhibits with premier honours. On May 24th. at Ottawa the following important honours were obtained:—

1st. Best Canadian Bred Class.

2nd. Limit Class.

3rd. Open Terrier Class.

1st. Best Canadian-Bred Female at Show.

We have previously noted several other triumphs won by the same Kennels, and we congratulate Messrs. Mason and Stewart on the success which has attended their efforts.

TRIO SENTENCED FOR ESCAPE FROM JAIL

Imprisonment at St. Jerome Would Now Have Been Completed

Sentences of three years each were imposed last week by Magistrate Lalonde on the three prisoners who escaped from St. Jerome jail on May 16th., and were speedily re-arrested at St. André Avelin. The three men were Lucien Larocque and Albert Gobeil, imprisoned on conviction of robbing the J. D. LeMay store here at Lachute, and also a juvenile from Shawbridge Boys' Farm, whom they liberated from the jail after they overpowered the turnkey, A. Nadon, gagged and locked him in a cell.

Had Larocque and Gobeil not attempted to escape their terms would be expired by now. They were also wanted, however, by the Ontario police in connection with a robbery which occurred a year ago at Cobourg.

The sentences were: two years for breaking jail; three years for forcibly entering the jailer's office and stealing the clothes and cash, and three months for theft of the revolver. All the sentences will run concurrently.

MOTOR CYCLISTS HERE FOR TRIALS

Lachute has been selected on past occasions for meets of the Sports Motor Cycle Club. Main Street was the scene of another such gathering last Sunday, when about 40 machines were entered in the cross-country reliability trials, and a number of trophies were awarded on the merits of performance.

The gathering included two motor cycle clubs from Montreal, two from Ottawa and one from Cornwall. The day was ideal, and the riders and their passengers appeared to take keen enjoyment in the occasion. The route selected was, as last year, via the East Ward to Clear Lake, Dunany, Louisa, Dalesville, Brownsburg and back to Lachute. The machines, driven solo, were despatched at regular intervals and had to conform to regulation speed. Signs marked the circular route, and secret checks and timed sections were passed in the course of the tests, the riders being under observation over almost the entire route.

Lachute is favored for this event on account of its central location and roads considered ideal for trials of this kind. The meet will be repeated again this Fall.

It is a significant fact as regards the motor cycle market in Eastern Canada, that the majority of these machines were of British make, the American mounts appearing in the minority.

DAMAGE TO LOCK DELAYS RIVER TRAFFIC

Steamer Collides with Lock Gate at Greece's Point

Liberates Immense Volume of Water

The Steamer Hall, owned by the Ottawa Transport Company, met with an accident in the Carillon-Grenville Canal at Lock No. 3, Greece's Point, last Sunday at noon, and two double gates were torn from the lock, holding up navigation for a day or two.

The Hall, a familiar vessel on this section of the river, plying between Montreal and Ottawa, was steaming westward into the lock, and according to reports failed to stop soon enough, or in some other manner collided with the closed gates at the end. The gates were pushed open a foot or so by the impact and the immense pressure of water rushed through, tearing off the gates and washing them under the freighter with such gusto that a deck hand leaning on the rail was tossed from the boat onto the wall of the lock. The gates and the steamer were both hurled downstream, tearing off the lower lock gates, which are still visible, roped to the shore some distance from the scene of the mishap.

The Hall was damaged considerably but was able to proceed on its trip when navigation was resumed. This was not, however, until Tuesday, after a canal gang from the Carillon works had erected new gates at the lower end of the lock.

The steamer is in charge of Capt. Barclay, who however off duty at the time of the crash, and First Mate Seguin, qualified navigator, was at the helm.

Lachute Spring Fair, June 13, 14, 15, 16.—Keep talking!

LOST RING RECOVERED AFTER 15 YEARS

That truth is stranger than fiction was illustrated to the Watchman quite recently. Some fifteen years ago, a gold ring was lost in a Lachute garden, and although repeated search was made, it was never found. This Spring a currant bush was being lifted, and the ring was found embedded in the roots, to the great delight of the owner.

COUNCIL PURCHASE NEW FIRE EQUIPMENT

Call Tenders for Constable

The regular meeting of Lachute Town Council was held on Wednesday last, with Mayor A. Larocque presiding, there being also present—Aldermen J. A. Rice, O. Laurin, Jas. MacGibbon, H. Lamarche, K. McOuat, E. Legault, G. Muir, C. Durocher and G. Raymond.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. The business of greatest importance was discussion on the purchasing of new fire equipment for the town, which included a 600 gallon fire pump and truck fully equipped, 2,000 ft. of hose, erection of hose tower, and other incidentals.

Fire Chief Deacon, who for the past 15 years has with his men devoted considerable time and voluntary service in the protection of town properties, strongly advocated taking advantage of the grant extended by Provincial Government. Though Lachute had been fortunate in times past, the town must now be prepared to meet any emergency that may arise, and this new equipment would well serve the community. Assurance was given that considerable reduction would be effected in fire insurance rates, through acquiring this modern equipment. A vote for purchase of the equipment at the figure of $10,910 was then taken, and the motion carried.

TIGERS VICTORS IN SOFT-BALL GAME

Displaying a much better brand of ball than hitherto this season, the local Tigers defeated the Brownsburg Blues in a league fixture here on Monday last. Taking a lead in the early innings of the game and holding the Blues to a few well scattered hits, their leadership was not seriously threatened and the game ended 13-6.

On Friday, June 8th., the Tigers met Hawkesbury Maple Leafs in Lachute. The locals are determined to win, as the Maple Leafs handed out a 16-7 trimming in the Hawkesbury game of the series.

The box score for Monday's game:

Blues	021	200	100	—	6
Tigers	414	110	11x	—	13

HAMFEST ON BANKS OF NORTH RIVER

A "Hamfest" in radio parlance has little or nothing to do with ham; it signifies merely a get-together of radio amateurs. An occasion of this kind was marked by a large attendance at Doig's picnic grounds last Sunday, when some 70 amateurs and their friends, from Montreal and Ottawa, gathered to enjoy themselves.

Here, among the friendly party Watchman representatives made acquaintance with the genial president of the Montreal Amateur Radio Club, which sponsored the event, also the oldest key-tapper in the membership, and the versatile editor of "Hay Wire," official bulletin of the organization. The visitors had journeyed in "automobiles, Baby Austins, motorcycles, and an M.G." The latter bore a certain resemblance to the auto species; but, being uninitiated, we thought it must be one of those mysterious megacycles which travel in the best radio circles.

Baseball, races and swimming were engaged in, and there was a remarkable absence of the shop talk one inevitably expected. The amateurs doubtless considered this their day off; even our glimpses into various hampers and lunch baskets revealed no evidence of cathode resistors or low frequencies. There were a few short waves in evidence at the bathing beach, and a little static when a boating party met with a submerged log and had to walk home.

A good time was had by all, however, and we believe the local countryside found lasting favor with these city visitors.

(Further reference to the above mentioned bulletin reveals the name is "Sky Wire". We crave pardon for the error!)

CORRESPONDENCE

The Editor,

Dear Sir—

Your method of devoting various columns of the Watchman, to diversified subjects is highly commendable, and it is not in any spirit of criticism that I would suggest the insertion of a "Preview Sports" column, in the interests of our local school boys and young athletes.

It is only by occasional, After-Event reference that one's attention is drawn to the fine chase of the equipment at the figure of $10,910 was then taken, and the motion carried.

Alderman K. McOuat brought up the question of appointing a

FIRST SERIOUS TRAFFIC ACCIDENT IN DISTRICT

Two Young Ladies Suffer Severe Injury

A spot on the Hull Highway one mile west of Calumet was scene of the season's first traffic mishap of any importance in this territory. In a collision between a private car and a truck last Monday, between 4 and 5 o'clock, two young ladies were gravely injured and a priest sustained minor cuts and bruises.

The car, a Reo coupe, was driven by Rev. Father Desjardins, who was returning from Montebello to Vankleek Hill, where he is the parish priest. He was accompanied by his two nieces, who keep house for him.

According to information from Chief of Police Pager, of Grenville, the car was confronted by a truck as it approached Calumet. The truck was the property of Gatineau Boom Co., and in charge of Osias Gauthier of Hull, a competent driver. It was learned that two men walking from Lachute toward Ottawa distracted the driver's attention, and the truck was on the wrong side of the road. The highway is straight at this point, but slopes down from the south side. Father Desjardins, having no room to pass, attempted to swerve his machine in front of the truck to the left side of the road, but in so doing was struck by the larger vehicle with terrific force.

The two young ladies were seated beside the driver and received the shock of the impact. They sustained leg fractures, and in one case a broken pelvis. A call was sent for Dr. Leroux of Grenville but he was out of town. The victims were therefore taken to Notre Dame Hospital at Hawkesbury, where they are under the care of Drs. Smith and Kelly.

Rev. Father Desjardins, who served overseas with the Canadian troops, was cut about the hands. He was able to return to Vankleek Hill. Both vehicles were badly damaged, the truck being afterwards removed to Weldon's Garage and the car to Vankleek Hill.

quality of performance among these lads.

It seems paradoxical that while outside sport patrons are acclaiming the successes of our local boys at respective tournaments, there should be no practical recognition or assistance in their own home town!

Our local lack of interest might be due to no fore-knowledge of their movements. In this respect a "Sport Column", (maybe compiled by the boys themselves), would no doubt promote a larger following of enthusiasts, and intensify their efforts towards greater achievement. The long period of preparation essential to their success, is little known, otherwise I am sure that better facilities would be provided for them, by interested and influential factions.

Due to the extreme modesty of the boys themselves and the few enthusiasts who coach them and bear the brunt of expense, etc., the wider local viewpoint is not in touch with their movements, apart from your write-ups, in the Watchman, following on successes; but due to little fore-knowledge of their entries, this news is only narrowly perused.

The boys have made an auspicious beginning for the season, bringing home the bacon to the extent of some dozen or more prizes won against no mean adversaries.

new town constable, and the consensus of opinion was decidedly in favor. Tenders were then called for, applications to be received by June 12th.

EARLY SCHOOL TROUBLES

Little Tom and Mary Jane Trotted gaily off to school,
It was the first day they had been,
And they did not know the rules.

Mary Jane talked out quite loud,
Wee Tommie went to sleep,
Until the teacher came along
And stood him on his feet.

"Stand in the corner, Master Tom."

She said with frownig face,
"To sleep in school is very rude,
You'll be our school's disgrace".

Poor Mary Jane sat there in fear,

Big tears ran down her face,
Oh, how she wished that she were home,

She did not like this place!

BILLY GOES FISHING

When Billy got home, he and his mother and daddy had a good laugh about the big fish he had caught. His daddy said he thought he should go with them next time, to see if he couldn't catch a big fish too.
But he was too busy, so the two boys, Ted's daddy and Uncle Dick set off by themselves to spend the day fishing and roaming in the woods. Billy had better luck this time. He caught two speckled trout before dinner, and being a very polite little lad he thought he should offer them to Uncle Dick to cook for dinner. But Uncle Dick having been a boy himself, thanked him for the offer but thought that they would have plenty without them, and he was quite sure that Billy's mother would enjoy having them.

Billy was so delighted to be able to keep them for his mother that he ran at once to put them in a safe place until he should be ready to go home. He was so filled with joy that he just had to give vent to his feelings in his usual way—by turning somersaults! Without watching where he was going he turned several in rapid succession, until he landed whack up against a pile of brush and was startled to feel something soft and furry wriggling out from between his feet.

Jumping up he watched in startled surprise four little half-grown bunnies dart from under the brush pile and disappear down a hole nearby. "You poor little tykes, you are" he chuckled, "I must have scared you dreadfully, coming with such a bang against your hiding place."

It was Billy's turn to be scared in a moment. As he was making his way back to the lake where the others were fishing he almost stumbled over what looked to be a pretty black and white striped cat, but the moment he saw the pretty animal turning around he knew that it was not a cat but a skunk!
"Boy!" he said, as he turned and fled in the opposite direction, "I'm glad I did not bang up against you. I am cured of turning somersaults in the woods."

"What were you doing away over there by yourself?" Ted asked in a rather grievous tone of voice, when Billy told the others of his narrow escape.

"Just having a gay little frolic all by myself" said Billy
"and you may be glad that you were not with me. It would have been hard for both of us to have escaped in time."

Ted's father had built a little fireplace of stone, heating it with a fire built with pieces of wood, and now he had potatoes onions and fish roasting in the hot ashes. It was really a wonderful meal that the hungry fishermen sat down to.

Uncle Dick did not take any precautions against witches this time, but said instead, "Let us hurry up and eat before a cuckoo calls."

"Do you expect a cuckoo to call on us, Uncle Dick?" asked Ted. "Last time it was witches, but of the two I think I'd rather have a visit from a cuckoo."

"Not before you eat, Teddy Boy—according to old superstitions. An old Hebridean superstition about the cuckoo was that some great misfortune was in store for you if you heard the cuckoo's first call while you were hungry. And in France, years ago, there was an idea that anyone who heard a cuckoo-call while fasting would become an idler for a year, or his limbs would be numb for the same period. So I am for getting on with the dinner at once!"

"So am I" said Ted "—but for different reasons—fishing has made me hungry. I'm also in a hurry to get back and catch that fellow who is always nibbling my bait, yet never getting caught, and besides, Uncle Dick, you promised to tell us about the Goby family."

"Did I? Really, Ted, you have a good memory; you deserve to hear a bit more about this

Thoughts in Passing

By L. W. Armstrong

Wars and Rumours of War.

President Roosevelt is doing his best to collect some of the money which the United States lent to various nations of the Old World to carry on a war on a more expensive scale than they could afford.

He is experiencing many difficulties. The debtors show a decided inclination to default.

One of the chief reasons, (which they do not mention) is because they want their cash to prepare for an even more costly war.

Guglielmo Ferrero, who is considered as one of the greatest living historians, says, "The gun and the sword have taken the place of reason."

If there is any element of truth in the newspapers, we see ample proof of this from day to day.

This man also makes another interesting statement when he says, "Wars have never settled anything. Every war is the cause of the next war."

Consider the historic dispute between France and Germany.
Matters were made much worse
by the Franco-Prussian war.

Schapiro, the historian, says,
"If ever there was a useless, senseless war it was that between France and Germany in 1870."

The proud Frenchman never forgot the humiliation and mutilation he suffered from the Germans.

The passing of over 40 years did not quench the hatred. He was eager to revenge himself when matters reached a crisis in 1914.

The Great War did not settle the matter. The hatreds still exist. To-day, France will not remain idle if Germany is allowed to re-arm. Consequently, the Disarmament Conference is doomed to fail and an armaments race begins.

Which means that another war is almost inevitable.

Ferrero is right. "Every war is the cause of the next war."

In the meantime, Franklin D. is trying to reach the point where 'paid' will be marked on the bill of the last one.

Canada a Democracy?

It is reported that the Douk-hobors in Canada will have no vote in the coming elections chiefly because they are particularly adverse to going to war.

There is also a whisper that the conscientious objector may lose his vote.

That means that a man may lose his vote, his right as a citizen because his opinions differ from those of someone else.

For example, the world's greatest mathematician, Dr.
Einstein, says, "The man who enjoys marching in line and file to the strains of music falls beneath my contempt; he received his great brain by mistake—the spinal cord would have been amply sufficient."

If we agree with him, we might lose our right to vote.

In fact, we must be very careful to discount the opinions of the world's great thinkers who are generally agreed that war is stupid—senseless—barbaric, etc.

Now that we have mentioned this peculiar individual, the 'conscientious objector' it might be interesting to some to learn of the answers received from McGill students to the question:
Do you think Canada should support Britain in another European war? 107 answered
'yes' while 144 answered 'no'.

To the question: Would you resist military conscription to the point of going to jail? 118 answered 'yes' and 134 'no'.

If those whispers around Ottawa turn out to be facts, there may be many people disfranchised.

The Quintuplets.

Five baby girls were born within half an hour of one another to a young mother in Ontario.

The editor of the American Medical Association claims that, although medical history goes back 500 years and covers all civilized countries, there is no record of quintuplets all living more than fifty minutes.

If that is so, then this event is most remarkable in medical history.

In view of this and also because the family is in very straightened circumstances, surely it would have been a noble gesture on the part of our Premier, R. B. Bennett or his Government, to have given them all the assistance possible.

Mussolini, who has as many responsibilities as our Premier, would immediately have seen that everything humanly possible was done for their welfare. It is likely that Hitler would have done the same thing.

Premier Bennett has certainly missed a remarkable opportunity to endear himself in the hearts of countless mothers by failing to assist in any way this heavily-burdened woman.

The welfare of this now-famous family will no doubt depend to a large extent on the materialization of the $50,000 offer from outside Canada—the Chicago World Fair.

"It is really uncanny the way radio has educated the masses to a proper appreciation of music."

George Gershwin.

NEGLECT OF COMMON CONSTIPATION IS A SERIOUS MATTERPrevent This Condition with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

The first question your doctor asks is whether you are constipated or not. He knows that this condition may cause headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness.
It is often the starting point of serious illness.

You can prevent and relieve common constipation so easily. Just eat a delicious cereal once a day.
Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" and vitamin B to aid regular habits. ALL-BRAN is also a rich source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that found in leafy vegetables.
Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal wastes.

Isn't this "cereal way" safer and far more pleasant than taking patent medicines—so often harmful?
Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in chronic cases. If seriously ill, see your doctor—ALL-BRAN is not a "cure-all."

Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or use in cooking. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's.
Made by Kellogg in London, Ont.

Edmonton is on the right track when the Mayor announced that every family on relief in the city will be expected to put in a garden and raise their own vegetables. The city will give the use of vacant lots and seeds free of charge.

—Exchange.

The story is told that when Bishop Candler was riding on a train out West, a big, strapping, rough fellow came in and sat down beside him. Sizing up the Methodist prelate, he exclaimed, "Where in hell have I seen you before?" To which Bishop Candler replied, "I don't know; what part of hell are you from?"

CANADIANS DISPLAYED SUPERIORITY AS AIR FIGHTERS IN THE GREAT WAR

Lieut.-Col. George A. Drew, in "Canada's Fighting Air-men," recalls that there were only 272 aeroplanes available for the British army on August 4, 1914, and that less than one hundred of them were fit for military service. At the time of the Armistice, after thousands had been destroyed, there were 22,171. When the war started, the air service numbered only 250 officers, but four years later the total had increased to thirty thousand. During this period of phenomenal expansion, the British air forces accounted for more than eight thousand enemy machines, destroyed nearly three hundred enemy balloons; fought more than fifty thousand fights in the air; fired more than twelve million rounds of machine gun ammunition at enemy targets on the ground; took more than half-a-million aerial photographs; and, in doing this, suffered nearly eighteen thousand casualties.

"Canada's share individually and collectively was out of all proportion to her population," Lieut.-Col. Drew observes. "Not long after Canadians really took up flying in earnest it became apparent that they were at least the equals of any air-men in the war."

Without any qualification as to population or otherwise, Canadians proved themselves the greatest air fighters on the side of the Allies."

Lieut.-Col. William Avery Bishop, V.C., D.S.O., and Bar, M.C., D.F.C., Chevalier of the Legion of Honour, Croix de Guerre with Palm, now a resident of Montreal, destroyed more German aeroplanes during the Great War than any other British pilot, and was described as the most spectacular fighter in the world. "No other pilot of any nation ever approached his almost incredible record of shooting down twenty-five enemy machines in ten days," Lieut.-Col. Drew records. With orders to return to England in his pocket, he went up on his last day in France for one final effort, and in a few hours of meteoric fighting added five more victims to his list. All the time he was at the front he took fearful chances, never hesitating to accept battle against the greatest odds, and yet he was never seen wounded. Bishop was responsible for the destruction of 72 enemy aircraft.

Canadians read with pride that Captain William Avery Bishop, of Owen Sound, had been awarded the most coveted decoration for valor in the world, the Victoria Cross, "for most conspicuous bravery, determination and skill." Unknown to most Canadians at home, he had already won the Military Cross and Distinguished Service Order for deeds of great bravery. When he attended at Buckingham Palace in the summer of 1917 to be invested with these decorations, the King, in congratulating him upon his achievements, said that it was the first time he had been able to give all three to one person.

HORSE STEALING, EXPECTORATION FIGURE IN N. Y. POLICE REPORT

A special dispatch to Montreal Star carries unusual glimpses of police activities in the city of New York. Says the report—The murders that made the front pages of metropolitan newspapers during the last year, the legal difficulties of peddlers and pickpockets and the thousand and one other problems of the police who must watch over the bodies, property, and conduct of 7,000,000 persons are impersonally rolled into one vast compendium of figures by Police Commissioner John F. O'Ryan in his annual report of the activities of his department during 1933, made public yesterday as it was submitted to Mayor F. H. LaGuardia.

The report is the least prosy in years. With scarcely a word of explanation, Commissioner O'Ryan presents bare statistics to account for the efforts of himself and his predecessor, James S. Bolan, during a year of bank holidays, repeal, new deals and upturns. A crime of passion, as the police discreetly refer to it, a bank robbery, or a poisoned horse are recorded with equal care and detail.

It seemed to be a good year for expectoration. There were 532 men apprehended for "expectoration in public places" while only 19 were caught at it in 1932. A lone woman offended society in this manner last year and so claimed the distinction of being the only female arrested in New York City for spitting in two years. There have been no arrests for jay-walking in that entire time.

The mills of the gods grind fine and so it was that 15 men were arrested and all convicted for a sin described only as "disturbing garbage" during the year. Of 591 men and a single woman arrested for smoking in the subway, 567 were convicted.

Another strange vice which developed in 1933, although there were no reported cases of it the year before, was horse poisoning. Three men charged with this offence all were discharged or acquitted. There were 103 men and 14 women arrested as "dishonest friends" and 29 of these were sent to prison or to hospital for the insane. No one was caught playing either the "badger" or "creep" games.

There were 93 arrests of "incorrigible females" and they were all between the ages of sixteen and twenty. The city's police credited themselves with making 4,009 arrests for selling liquor in 1933. Three boys all under sixteen, were arrested for using tobacco.

Seventy-three cats were removed by the police from trees, roof tops, and between the walls of buildings during the year.

DRINKING DRIVERS

If you want to drive, don't drink. If you want to drink, don't drive. Most everybody agrees that hard liquor blurs the mental faculties, dulls the senses generally, and slows down one's reaction time. Yet, strangely enough, booze often exhilarates the driver with a false sense of security and confidence in his driving ability.

The tipsy driver who is involved in an accident nearly always gets the worst of it in court. Juries forgive much, but the drunken driver usually gets scant consideration, regardless of where the blame really lies.

The motorist who goes in for hard liquor should go in a taxi. He will be much better off in the long run. In this day and age sobriety is a fundamental of safe driving.

Coroner's records everywhere tell tragic stories of tipsy drivers who saw no reason for giving up the wheel just because they had been "having a few drinks."—Huntingdon Gleaner.

ECONOMY PROVING COSTLY

Economy practised 75 years ago has provided plenty of work for present day officers of Gary County in the State of Kansas.

Because one of the territorial officials used a poor quality of ink in filling out land patents in the 1850's it has been found necessary to re-copy many of them. A magnifying glass had to be used to decipher the faded writing.

HAMILTON HAS CLEAN-UP DRIVE

Approximately 70 houses are expected to be affected by a wholesale clean-up of sanitary conditions in Hamilton, Ont., undertaken by the Health Department. Inspectors have already condemned 29 houses and ordered them closed. A further 40 have been listed. Most of the listed dwellings are at present tenanted by relief recipients.

COUNTRY HAS MORE HOUSES THAN CITY

There were 1,984,286 dwelling houses in Canada at the census of 1931, of which 1,002,397 are described as rural and 981,889 urban. For census purposes, however, a tenement or an apartment house only counts as one dwelling house no matter how many dwellings it may contain. There were 1,393,895 houses of wood, 495,846 of brick or brick veneer, 79,105 of stucco and 31,391 of stone.

The number of persons housed per dwelling house was 5.22, rural being 4.78, and suburban 5.67. The number of persons per household was 4.57, rural being 4.70 and urban 4.47.

DOCTORS AND DRUGGISTS TREATING UNEMPLOYED

City Council of Lachine, Que., has voted a fixed fee of $50 a month to medical men healing unemployed persons.

Recently the city had decided to pay the doctors fifty cents a visit for ordinary cases and five dollars for maternity cases for the unemployed and their families, but it was found that the cost was high, and it was feared at the rate that had to be paid for January and February that it would cost the city between $25,000 and $30,000 a year. So it was decided to revise the system.

In addition it was decided that the city would continue to pay druggists for the medicine prescribed by doctors for the unemployed, but only for ordinary prescriptions and not for patent medicines.

A death struggle between an Eskimo and a live wolf is just one of the gripping episodes portrayed in "Eskimo", appearing this week at Rex Theatre.

EDITORIAL

THE SPICE OF ROMANCE

The dizziest dreams from Boccaccio to Alexandre Dumas find no place in modern fiction. Fabulous treasures are relegated today where they belong, among juvenile literature and the comic strips.—But from India comes the press story of a treasure trove worthy of the most fanciful fiction writer.

An ancient cave of jewels of the old Mongolian dynasties has been unearthed near Simla, India, by a company of bandits. The Dacoits, or bandits, had been living in a natural cave. By accident, one of them pressed upon an old stone image carved on the face of a rock. The entire block slid sideways, as if by magic, and the opening of a tunnel was revealed. Exploring this passage, the bandits arrived at a cave literally filled with jewels, gold, silver, and rich embroideries . . .

What happened does not matter. The incident but revives the glamor and romance of the ancient East, which to modern western civilization seems afar off and unreal. Yet in every age and walk of life there is the spice of romance, less glamorous perhaps, but no less real. It is the pressure of practicalities which obscure our finer vision, and often deprive us of much pleasure in living.

But this is Spring—and all around us in young living things, and folks, there are things happening more wonderful and more exciting than even the Thousand and One Nights.

DEFAULTING IN THE BEST INTERESTS

It was a strained sense of national honor which entailed many nations in the costly conflict of 1914-18, but there comes a time when common sense must outrule the concepts of so-called honor. Great Britain's decision to default on American war debts, rather than to oppress her people indefinitely with taxations beyond reason, will pass all the standards of fair play even if it falls short of the hair-line of "national honor."

The Johnson Act proclaimed that any nation not making full payment must be considered "in default" . . . Great Britain is therefore in default . . . and the man in Threadneedle Street feels untold relief, as of a liberated slave.

Britain will defer making payments until the U. S. undertakes to revise the debt. The justice of this decision will be generally recognized by all save Randolph Hearst and birds of his anti-British plumage.

The colossal sum of Britain's indebtedness represents, not cold cash as is generally supposed, but America's account for goods supplied at inflated war prices, plus interest, compounded. These supplies, at normal peace-time values, would have amounted to a considerably smaller sum. This is but one consideration—which, in terms of business however, cannot be remedied . . . The major consideration is that, whereas the U. S. has collected considerable of its war advances to other nations, Great Britain has received no payment on her own loans to the Allied Governments—and at the same time has paid a portion of her debt to the U. S. The British taxpayer therefore has been not only financing these payments but also meeting the inter-st on sums outstanding from creditor countries. This condition inflicts unreasonable hardship on one race of people; in the modern call for equality of riches, it is high time the burden was lightened. Britain's insistence on the revision of war debts is but a step in the cause of human justice.

That the United States finds itself unable to collect from other creditor nations is unfortunate. However, inasmuch as the States profited by the provision of war supplies while other governments were losing heavily, their present misfortune is not so awesome as it may appear.

The Ottawa Spotlight

A Weekly Review of National Affairs
By Wilfrid Eggleston

Ottawa, June 5.—Last week was packed with parliamentary activity; yet there was no outstanding news. The House made considerable progress, passing, for example, practically all the budget resolutions at one sitting, which just about constitutes an all-time record. The Senate was unusually active, and committees seemed to be sitting all over the place, at all hours of the day and night. In addition we had Rt. Hon. Stanley Bruce in town, giving speeches and interviews, and the Tariff Board gave out two or three recommendations. With so many trees, it is a bit hard at times to see the woods. Let's call it an industrious but not very exciting week, with some useful work done on Canada's laws.

The innocent and gullible investor is to be saved from his enemies, so far as that is possible on the part of the Government. Such is the intention of the Companies Act, which went through the committee stage in the House of Commons. Before you or I in future may subscribe to any securities, we must first have been given a chance to learn something about the company in which we are putting our money. An official prospectus, examined and approved by the Secretary of State, must have come to us 24 hours before we buy, thus presumably giving us a chance to 'get wise'. Also, you and I are to be protected against high-pressure salesmen calling from door to door to sell us stock; nor must salesmen call us up on the telephone, long distance or otherwise. Unfortunately, the Dominion so far has not been able to persuade the provinces to go in with her in uniform legislation. Companies which want to gyp the public will be able to register in one of the provinces, presumably, and thus avoid this new stringent legislation.

Banks Fight Gold Confiscation

The Canadian banks, as might be expected, don't like to turn over their stocks of gold to the new central bank at the old price of $20.67 cents per fine ounce, when they could get $35. an ounce for it in the open market. In the banking and commerce committee they are making a fight for their profit, but the Minister of Finance seemed to have made up his mind to take it. There are two sides to the question, of course. The gold only cost the banks $20.67 an ounce, and they bought it not to sell again but as backing for their currency. Just the same private interests resent it and call it confiscation. Those who believe the St. James financial ring run the country must be a little surprised at the government's determination.

Can't Get Answer

The Price Spreads committee under Hon. Harry Stevens had to give up, a bit regretfully, one line of inquiry to which they particularly wished an answer. It might be stated thus: When a packing company buys a hog for $8., what does it sell the total product of that hog to the consumer for? The auditors, after digging into the question, said they could give the profits of the big companies pretty well (and some of them are handsome enough) but they couldn't, unfortunately, work out the spread per hog, between the price to the farmer, and the price to the housewife.

In view of further events, calling for even a higher degree of stamina, the boys will do their part better in the knowledge that their home town is expectant and boosting for them, just as they themselves are boosters for their home town.

Visitors from a wide area will soon be doing their annual trek to Lachute Fair, and no doubt there is yet time for some enterprising person to arrange an exhibit of the trophies won by our local boys. Such an exhibit would prove equally attractive to visitors, as it would be a surprise to the homefolk. Above all, it would be a grand gesture of appreciation to the boys themselves. —A. F. A.

(Editor's Note) Owing to lack of space this communication has been presented more briefly and to the point . . . The writer's suggestions have our commendation in both instances. We recommend the attention of our High School authorities to the proposed column on sports, to include both announcements and reports of events attended by local athletes . . . A similar suggestion has already been made on several occasions. In other communities the scholars conduct a collegiate section of this kind in the local papers, and the same should be possible in Lachute.

Successful Conclusion to Carpet Bowling Season

United Y. P. S. League Victors I.O.O.F. Win Final Bonspiel

The United Y. P. S. headed and will be recipients of a cup the Carpet Bowling League after a successful season's play, and will be presented at the League opening next fall. The season's standing is as follows:

LEAGUE STANDING					Shots	Agst.
Played	Won	Lost	For	Agst.
United	6	6	0	97	60
I.O.O.F.	6	3	3	76	68
Presbyterian	6	2	4	67	85
Anglican	6	1	5	66	93

At Tuesday night's gathering in McArthur's Hall, about 100 people were present to watch and join in the final games. A pleasant social time was enjoyed, the play being followed by refreshments and dancing.

The Bonspiel itself comprised a match of two games between "odd" teams in the League standing, two games between the "even" teams, and a final. In the latter I.O.O.F. played Presbyterian, winning in both final games and claiming the laurels for the season's closing event.

Death of Mrs. N. McRae

Resident of Harrington

Annie J. MacTavish, a much respected member of the community of Harrington, and a daughter of the late Douglas and Mrs. MacTavish, died suddenly on the 1st. day of June, 1934, in the presence of her husband and some of her children.

She was a woman content to serve her Master and her community, in building up her home, contributing to its educational resources, and seeking to make it attractive; it was a home where the Bible was the chief text-book of instruction. She had not been well for some time, but nevertheless her death came unexpectedly. On Friday, the 1st. of June, she was overtaken by a hemorrhage and died within five minutes, having first, however, given assurance of her heavenly peace. She was buried from her late residence on June 3rd., and if the esteem with which she was held by her neighbors and community at large is to be judged as an indication of the profound regard in which she enjoyed, then certainly she was a woman highly respected in her community.

The funeral was one of the largest held in the community

On Tuesday evening, the members of the Frontier W. I. held a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. R. Kennedy in her honour.

The community offers congratulations to former students of Lachute High School, who have obtained the following diplomas in teaching at Macdonald College: Interim First Class High School, (McGill University), Jas. C. Logan; Interim Intermediate Diploma, Louise B. Miller; Norman T. Leggett, Amy E. Morrin; Interim Elementary Diploma, Dorothy McFaul; Interim Elementary Diploma, 1st. short course, M. Pearl McKenzie; 2nd. short course, Alice C. Leishman, Minnie E. Robinson, Viola Silversen, K. and B. M. Murdock.

for many years. The Minister of the church, Rev. J. Thorburn Conn, conducted the service at her home, and also at the cemetery. She leaves behind her husband and six children also four sisters, Mrs. E. Kennedy, Mrs. T. N. Bishop, Murkett, Ont., Mrs. Donald MacRae, and Mrs. E. Copeland and four brothers Dougald, Roderick, Alex. and Malcolm MacTavish all of Harrington.

The pall-bearers were: Dougald MacTavish, Malcolm MacTavish, Donald MacRae, Jack MacRae, Ernest Kennedy and Ernest Copeland.

There were many beautiful floral tributes.

The sympathy of the community is extended to husband and family, who are assured of their prayers and sympathy.

Mr. A. MacDonald of Montreal, has been appointed manager of the local branch of the Dominion Stores, Mr. Malette having been transferred to Montreal.

Next week is fair week. Let every one of our citizens take a justifiable pride in this annual event and put ourselves out of the way a little to play host to the large number of visitors who always come among us. See that your house and frontage is nice and attractive. A few little flags will make the visitors feel welcome. Don't forget that all children 12 years and under are admitted free on Saturday, June 16th. See that you bring them along.

ANNUAL COUNTY W. I. CONVENTION

Several letters requesting the help of The Institute in various works were dealt with, such as a letter from the Mayor of St. Andrews East requesting the Institute to take charge of the unveiling of the Monumental Cairn erected there by the Historic Monuments Board to the oldest mill; this work to be done in the near future. This was accepted by the members, who thought it wiser not to accept the offer of the Agricultural Society providing meals and caring for booths at the Fair. Coming from all parts of the county and being for the greater part Ladies of the Farm who had quite enough to do at home they considered it an impossible task.

After a delightful luncheon served by several members as hostesses, under the convener-ship of Mrs. R. W. Robinson and Mrs. J. S. Gordon of Upper Lachute-East End Branch the business of the day was proceeded with, a delightful solo "Bid Me To Live" sung by Mrs. H. P. Bezanson of Pioneer Branch, accompanied by Miss Helen McFaul, and an equally delightful piano solo given by Miss McFaul herself.

A tribute to sisters lost by death during the year was rendered by the audience rising and standing in reverent silence. Six ladies had passed during the year: Mrs. F. Townsend (Frontier) Miss Annie McCulloch (Morin Heights), Mrs. John Forbes, Mrs. Robt. H. Morrison, Mrs. Pease (Pioneer) and Mrs. J. E. Walker (Upper Lachute-East End.)

The audience were favored with a short address by Mr. Bothwell, who said that although he did not go to War he considered himself the bravest man in Lachute in facing this audience of ladies. He also explained the difference between a County Fair and a Regional Fair, Lachute Fair being classes we understand as a Regional Fair.

Miss McCain, the Prov. Superintendent, in her usual entertaining way impressed several golden opportunities for service open to Institute members, some of these being Better Schools and Educational Work, Child Welfare and Public Health work, the beautifying of our homes and public places, also in Home Economic Interests. Here the assistance of Prof. Bunting of Macdonald College was mentioned and also the kindness of Mr. Nunnick of Ottawa Experimental Farm who has issued an invitation to the Women's Institutes of Quebec to assemble at the Farm in Ottawa, June 19th., where a special program and accommodations have been arranged.

The dates of the yearly Prov. Convention at Macdonald College were given as June 12, 13 & 14.

An invitation was also given by Miss McCain to the Institutes to seek the help of Col. Bovey, in the establishing of Institute Libraries and Reading Circles, also in assisting schools by gramophone records loaned from the same source.

In speaking of our International Institute relationships, Miss McCain remarked, "If you do not understand your neighbor you quarrel with him. The same happens to nations who do not understand each other, and in promoting these International relationships we were promoting Peace".

Mrs. J. S. Gordon, as head of the Nominating Committee, expressed the sorrow of the Institute at losing Mrs. J. S. Davis. The usual term of office being two years Mrs. Davis did not feel equal to accepting for another term of office The Institute regretted her decision and wished her "Bon Voyage" and a safe return on her trip to England, her home land. Mrs. Davis sails early in June to spend the summer months abroad.

Mrs. Davis welcomed the new president, Mrs. G. W. Kuhring of Lakefield, and The Institute expressed pleasure by hearty acclamation. Mrs. Kuhring has already endeared herself to the Institute by her manifold good works. Mrs. Davis was made Hon. President and with Mrs. P. McQuaig and Mrs. E. Kettle as Vice-Presidents. Mrs. Ardill of Brownsburg, Secretary-Treasurer. County Convenors of the different departments of work being Canadian Industries, Mrs. Ivall; Canadianization & National Events, Mrs. Ivall; Canadian Industries, Mrs. Wyman McGibbon; Education and Better Schools, Mrs. G. G. Mitchell; Home Economics, Mrs. A. Kyle; Child Welfare and Public Health, Mrs. L. M. Hooker; Immigration, Mrs. J. S. Giles; Legislation, Miss Margaret Walker; Agriculture, Mrs. Harvey Miller; Publicity, Mrs. A. Graham.

The Resolution Committee proposed several resolutions which were duly carried by the Convention.

These covered expressions of sympathy, of appreciation, and of co-operation in the Prov. Board's efforts to secure Company Education.

THE HIGH BOARD FENCE

Years ago there were no fences in the land, then as the country was settled people put up fences to separate mine from thine. Many years later gardens joined one another without fences and lawns, and it became fashionable to be without a dividing line. The pendulum is swinging again and people are realising the value of privacy. The wire fence is losing its popularity around dwellings and the picket or high board fence is coming back into its own. We have a high board fence and it is a treasure. It runs around two sides of our garden, the garage is in a corner and an arbour and lattice fence finish the enclosing. The high board fence, the garage and three trees give us a priceless privacy. No one can see us when we are in our garden and we can sit, lie or eat and have practically complete privacy. It means utter relaxation. They say that privacy is a privilege of the rich. We certainly are not in that class but we are rich in privacy. When you are planning changes in your garden, plan for privacy if you have none already. The English have the right idea and we might be like them and gain more privacy in our out-door living.

ACID FRUITS AND MILK

There are a good many erroneous ideas about food floating about. That you must not eat acid fruit and milk at the same meal is one of them. Just think about this for a little and you will soon realise that it is not true. Gastric juice which plays the chief part in stomach digestion contains hydrochloric acid. Now hydrochloric acid is a much stronger acid than any contained in fruit and the extra acid that the fruit adds is so little in comparison to the hydrochloric which is always present that it does not make a bit of difference. The idea has likely arisen from the fact that milk curdles. But then milk is curdled just as soon as it arrives in the stomach anyhow. I know one woman who would not give her children milk because it curdled in their stomachs! One dear old lady that I knew used to get up early every morning so that she could give her brother his grape fruit a half hour before he ate his porridge and milk and was quite sceptical when I told her it was unnecessary. She did not say she did not believe me but I knew very well it was just because she was too polite. Then I brought her a book and showed her it in black and white and she was quite relieved because now she felt she need not get up so early. The printed word seems to have a magic about it for many people.

A KITCHEN SET

A friend has just had her kitchen done over and the part that has caused her most joy is a kitchen set which she assembled herself. She gathered together her various collection of cans and bottles which she used as food containers and enameled them in two shades of green, making the lids the darker shade. To set them off and to add to their attractiveness and convenience she used little glass knobs, drawer handles I suppose they are really, and when these were screwed into the top it made a great difference in the appearance of the set. The cans were the usual ones that are around every kitchen, cracker tins and coffee tins comprising most of them. Small glass jars such as contain salad dressing had their lids enameled and a band of the lighter green around the top of the bottle. Another friend who saw the collection immediately planned to do a set for her summer cottage in red and black. Most women enjoy dabbling with paint, so here is a chance to show your flair for colour without too much work or expense.

STRAWBERRY SPONGE

Dissolve one lemon jelly powder with one cup of boiling water. Let chill until beginning to set then beat with a rotary beater until fluffy. Add one cup of crushed sweetened strawberries measured after crushing and 1/2 cup of cream whipped. Taste and add more sugar if necessary. Mould and chill. This is a delicious dessert for a hot day.

BROWN ICE-BOX COOKIES

2 eggs
2 cups brown sugar
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup walnuts
1/2 cup raisins
1 1/2 teaspoons soda
1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar
3 to 3 1/2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
Cream the butter and sugar and add well-beaten eggs. Sift in the dry ingredients and add the nuts and raisins which have been put through the chopper. Make into 2 rolls and chill overnight. Slice thinly and bake in a moderately hot oven of 400 degrees. If 3 cups of flour is sufficient to make them stiff enough to handle do not use the extra 1/2 cup or use as little of it as possible. The less flour the better the cookie.

DATE CHEESE SANDWICHES

1 cup dates
1/2 cup nuts
1/2 cup cream cheese
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons salad dressing
1 tablespoon cream
Put dates and nuts through the grinder. Mix with the remaining ingredients and spread between slices of bread. I prefer brown bread for this sandwich.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, June 10th., is "God the only cause and Creator."

The Golden Text is: "Blessed be the Lord God, the God of Israel, who only doeth wondrous things." (Psalms 72: 18)

The following passages are selected from among those comprised in the Lesson-Sermon to be read from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:

"Let all the earth fear the Lord: let all the inhabitants of the world stand in awe of him. For he spake, and it was done; he commanded, and it stood fast." (Psalms 33: 8, 9.)

"Look unto me, and be ye saved, all the ends of the earth: for I am God, and there is none else." (Isaiah 45: 22.)

"There is but one primal cause. Therefore there can be no effect from any other cause, and there can be no reality in aught which does not proceed from this great and only cause." (Science and Health page 207.)

"hiking fish." "Hiking Fish!" laughed Billy "Whoever heard of such a thing?"

"At least it's a fish that walks—walks and climbs trees. It spends most of its time on the mud banks climbing amongst the tree roots, and if suddenly startled it hops and skips about sometimes further inland than back towards the water."

"Perhaps that is what is rustling among the roots of that cedar tree just behind Billy," said Ted's father.

Billy jumped up and turned to look, at which the others laughed heartily. Billy joined in their laughter, saying "I did not think it might be a fish. I thought it might be a skunk, but it is only a big grey squirrel. Here you... take that crust and clear out," he said, throwing the squirrel his crust. After a few moments' hesitation the grey squirrel hopped over to the crust, snatched it up and scurried away out of sight.

"Another queer fish," remarked Uncle Dick, "is the Butterfly Fish. It gets its name from its many colors and its broad wing-like fins. It belongs to the flying fish family and is found mostly in tropical seas... The Archer Fish, too, is an odd chap. It has a pro-

Sky Line Trail Hikers

"To Yoho we will go," is the slogan of the Sky Line Trail Hikers of the Canadian Rockies for the coming season and the dates fixed are Friday, August 3 to Monday, August 6 which will enable those taking part to go, if they wish, on the Trail Ride (July 27-30) or participate in the Annual Camp of the Alpine Club of Canada (July 16-31) and follow on with the Trail Hike.

Plans at present are to meet at Emerald Lake Chalet on the morning of August 3, starting out after lunch over the Yoho Pass to the Yoho Valley Chalet-Bungalow Camp, seven miles distant. The first night will be spent in that camp and the morning hike on the second day will be to Twin Falls. In the afternoon there will be a hike over the upper meadows, to the Yoho Glacier. Camp for this and also the second night will be at the Twin Falls Cabin, supplemented by tent accommodation. The third day will be spent hiking through the Little Yoho Valley, returning to Twin Falls Cabin. The fourth day there will be a hike over the high line trail back to the Yoho Valley Chalet-Bungalow Camp where the Pow-Wow will be held in the afternoon. Then, those who wish to catch train or bus for Lake Louise or Banff can do so while there is the choice of staying over and hiking over Burgess Pass to Field or continuing their exploration of the beautiful Yoho Valley. A large turn-out is expected following the successful hike of last year.

He was well beloved by all who came under his charge, for he was a meek and loyal pastor who had won many souls by his earnest pleading. He was student pastor on this field in 1887, and during vacation time has often visited Mr. and Mrs. W. Heatlie. Later he was minister for about twenty four years in Ottawa, besides other cities including Vernon, B. C., for 3 years and Smiths Falls for six years. His last charge was Georgetown, Ont., where he had ministered for seven years.

Funeral services were held in the Baptist Church of that city, conducted by Rev. Dr. R. R. McKay, assisted by brother clerics. The burial took place in Ottawa, where a service was conducted by Rev. Stuart Iversen, and Rev. F. W. Waters. Mrs. Frith, Miss Mary, Rowley and Eben remain to mourn a husband and father tenderly devoted to their welfare.

Lachute Spring Fair Drawing Large Attendance

EXPOSITION EMBRACES LARGER TERRITORY

Extended this Year to Section of Ontario

The Argenteuil County Fair has grown in importance, until it has now become recognized as one of the best organized and most representative expositions in Eastern Canada. It is by no means confined to the County of Argenteuil, though it is a credit to breeders and producers in this county that they stand high in rank against wider opposition.

Territories in Quebec now included in this Regional Fair comprise also the Counties of Gatineau, Hull, Jacques Cartier, Labelle, Papineau, Pontiac, Terrebonne and Two Mountains. From across the Ottawa, exhibitors are eligible from that portion of Ontario east of Peterborough, including the Counties of Haliburton, Nipissing, Peterborough and Northumberland.

LIFE BLOOD OF COMMERCE BEHIND THE COUNTY

Industries in Display Suggest Investment and Enterprise Which Make this County Prosperous

The several local industries represented at the Exposition are by no means representative of the entire activities of this section. But they are sufficient to suggest the breadth of distribution effected by Argenteuil's manufactures; the importance of the district, industrially speaking; and the spirit of progress which has made this a thriving section and a good place to live in.

The exhibits are instructive in themselves. They comprise an array of commodities from the Brownsburg plants of Canadian Industries Limited and from other departments of the Company. It is no light realization that articles of local manufacture find their way into the kitchens, the boudoirs and the gardens of Canadian homes from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Ammunition is the pièce de résistance in the C.I.L. display on the upper floor of the Main Building. There are apt illustrations of the velocity, power and weather resisting capacities of D. C. Co.'s ammunition, and side exhibits give prominence to C.I.L. Salt and C.I.L. Fertilizer. This booth is under supervision of Mr. Kelly, of the Company's publicity department.

The same thought strikes home in a survey of the Ayers Limited display, arranged with the taste and discrimination of expert decorators. The beautiful selection of woollen products here bears testimony to the Quality at which every process and department of the Ayers' Mills is directed.

Other displays in the Main Building of the Exhibition Grounds include the Experimental Farms, a showing sponsored by the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa.

The booth is under supervision of Mr. W. J. Pauley. It presents three divisions, devoted respectively to grain, hay and cultivated crops, and demonstrating the value of 5-year rotation. Samples of grains, corns, grasses and cereals are on display; literature on acreage sowing are in distribution at this demonstration and other booklets available on request.

STORES AND DEALERS KNOW VALUE OF PERSONAL DEMONSTRATION

Distributors Show Well Known National Products

The most enterprising Lachute Merchants have also made good use of the floor-space in this building, and visitors have the opportunity to see nationally-distributed devices in operation, and to learn their merits from practical demonstration.

The Mayor and Town Council of Lachute, together with Directors of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society, express greetings to visitors during Fair Week, trusting they may find keen pleasure in their association with this town and its Annual Spring Fair.

J. W. Lefebvre, progressive representative for Hostess Refrigerators, Crosley Radios, and other attractive lines is on hand again, as in former years. This display is eloquent indeed, covering a range of products appealing to all classes for their comfort, convenience or labor-saving.

Gatineau Power Company, supplying electric service to this area, has also chosen its exhibits and displayed them to keen advantage.

A display had been booked to show the charm and appeal of rural handicrafts practised in Quebec. It is regretted, however, that owing to previous arrangements the organizers were unable to put in an appearance, and this display was cancelled.

Geo. Y. Deacon, widely known for his aggressive spirit as local Ford representative, is taking advantage of the occasion to display numerous attractive 1934 models in cars of the De Luxe variety and trucks for strict utility. A Ford Demonstration Trailer is on hand at this space, and in connection with the display an interesting Movie Show gives insight into the details of Ford construction. It forms both an interesting and an instructive addition to the display.

"Joey" Bernier is present to boost the Sun-fair Hats, which he has admirably displayed in one of the best sites in the building.

Beatty Electrical Appliances occupy an attractive stand, demonstrating washing machines, polishers and other devices on behalf of their local dealer, Jno. McFaul & Son.

AMUSEMENTS MAINTAINED AT HIGH STANDARD

Youthful visitors, and those with youthful blood in maturer veins have grown to expect a feast of amusement at Lachute's Annual Fair. In this regard, the committee has spared no effort to secure the best, and an innovation which extends free admission on Saturday to children under twelve will meet with approval from the kiddies.

Substantial purses and ample thrills will attend the Horse-Racing events of Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The Midway is complete with every attraction one may wish for in the Lighted Way of glamor and flares and loud-voiced showmen. Grandstand performances and vaudeville are featured in the afternoon programs and a brilliant fireworks display at night.

The Grenadier Guards Band is in attendance furnishing music of the very best variety.

The meals and catering are in charge of C. Rodgers, from an Ottawa catering firm. Most favorable comment has been heard from visitors already patronizing the Dining Room.

Special Attention, Kiddies!

The FREE ADMISSION to children under twelve on Saturday afternoon will be a concession appreciated among kiddies of the locality. But for those who attend the Fair there will be

Full Entry List --- Winners in Early Judging

Fine Live Stock --- Full Entry List

Entries up to Wednesday noon showed enthusiastic competition in the cattle classes, and a full house in horse entries, numbering 240 animals, which is 65 or 70 in excess of last year's list. Temporary stalls were arranged to accommodate the overflow. These included as many as 17 entries in Hurdle Jumping alone. The cattle numbered 264 head, and included some exceptionally fine beasts.

Principal Exhibitors.

Outstanding exhibitors to date include the following names:

M. J. O'Brien of Renfrew, Herefords, beef cattle; M. J. Schobie, Osgoode, Ont., Shorthorns; McQuat Brothers, St. Andrews, Ayrshires; Alderic Fournier, St. Hermas, Holsteins; Anthime Paquette, of St. Vincent de Paul, Holsteins; W. J. Rodger, St. Andrews, Ayrshires; C. J. Millar, Lachute, Ayrshires; H. Hesereau, Oka; Holsteins; W. Erskine Rodger and J. H. Black, Lachute, Ayrshires; G. D. Mode, Vankleek Hill, Mrs. R. M. Bond, Lachute, J. P. Bradley, Lachute, and W. C. Pittfield, Cartierville, Ayrshires.

Henri and Omer Sauve, St. Hermas, D. M. Stewart, Osgoode, Ont., Geo. Akers, Vernon, sheep.

Ovila Laurin, St. Hermas, Belgian horses; Geo. White, Calumet, Albert Stewart, and John Irwin, Harry Snyder of St. Andrews, light horses; National Breweries, Montreal, with famous

"Black Horses": Thos. Moore, of Cartierville, F. Miller, of Grand Frenière, saddle horses; Mrs. R. M. Bond, heavy horses; A. St. Jacques, of Lachute, Percherons; E. K. Wilson, Lachute, J. W. Nesbitt, Montreal, light horses; Gilbert Arnold, horses of various classes; E. C. Budge, St. Genevieve, Belgians; Mrs. A. Patterson, D. Urquart, L. M. Hart, D. Wiseman and Miss Viau, of Montreal, all with light horses; Mount Royal Riding Stables, and Hugh Ogilvy, of Cartierville, light horses; Mrs. R. Poirier, Montreal, ponies.

Judging commenced this (Thursday) morning, the early results of which are included to date in The Watchman's reports. Judge of cattle is Mr. Robt. Cunningham, of Ottawa; horses, Mr. Donald McCormick of Brysonville; poultry, Mr. D. A. McPhee, Vankleek Hill; light horses, Mr. G. Marsan, Montreal; sheep and swine, Mr. A. McLaurin, Ottawa.

A casual inspection of one of the cattle barns gives some idea of the excellent quality of stock. Among Mr. C. J. Miller's Springlea Ayrshires, for instance, a pure bred calf is booked for a 6-weeks' ocean trip in the near future, to a purchaser in New Zealand. Another such calf is an importation from Scotland this spring. Nor are these isolated cases. In every stand and in every stable are evidences of enviable pedigree and stock of the very finest breeding. One hoped to come across the celebrated Bargenoch Blue Ribbon, Ayrshire bull, recently imported by Mr. J. H. Black, and considered to be one of Scotland's choicest beasts. It was learned, however, that this had been secured by Mr. Black for the Laura Secord Farm and not for his own herd.

Results of Judging on Third Page.

WEATHER PROMISING -- EVERY INCENTIVE FOR RECORD ATTENDANCE

Having enumerated the attractions and highlights of the Fair, and with every confidence in the continuance of favorable weather, The Watchman urges once again the co-operation of all public spirited citizens, to ensure the success of this annual event. It is hoped the Fair Grounds will form a rendez-vous for old friends from every section of the County. The Annual Fair has been recognized as such in past years, and has been the scene of many renewed friendships and acquaintances. It is further hoped that Hospitality will be the by-word of every contact and association made in town during Fair Week.

CONSISTENT MERITS IN LIVESTOCK

If the progressive spirit of trade and industry are apparent in these displays, the same enterprise is upheld in the agricultural pursuits of Argenteuil, and a worthy standard becomes evident in the livestock exhibited at this Show. Argenteuil is not the only section drawn to compete among these fine entries, but it is safe to state the majority of animals are from the immediate County and home-bred. They speak for themselves—as they have claimed similar honors in the greater national show-rings.

Lachute Fair was the first exhibition in Canada to admit only federally tested cattle. In 1931 seven veterinaries from the Federal Department conducted a systematic survey, making the County an accredited area for tuberculosis.

Today men of national repute are here to judge our livestock. And breeders of national and international success are here to show their beasts. The fine high-stepping horses; the arch-necked, stocky stallions; the excellent dairy and beef cattle are a tribute to scientific stock raising. For this branch of activity, as with industry and business, has discarded the old-time haphazard methods.

Similarly Lachute Fair must be regarded, not merely as the annual show event which brings these merits to the fore, but as part of a consistent and tireless campaign to improve agricultural standards. The Government's concern in these efforts is admirably upheld in Argenteuil. Mr. Alex. Bothwell, the energetic secretary of this Fair, is also County Agronomist, engaged in the year-round objective of improving the methods and attainments of local agriculture. Interest in crop and cattle raising is not confined to the adult farmers alone; among youthful breeders there are periodical contests and competitions, all entailing much effort, but counting immeasurably in the ultimate raising of finer standards. Besides the Agronomist, there are provincial inspectors and veterinaries whose activities must not be underestimated in this work.

added opportunities for enjoyment in the reduced price of only 5 cents on Saturday afternoon, for Merry-Go-Round, Swings, or Ferris Wheel. These three rides will enhance the fun and frolic of the Midway, which is in charge of the celebrated "Benny" as in previous years. Numerous other stands and booths make the Midway interesting.

Saturday Afternoon Attraction

A special attraction for Saturday afternoon, weather permitting, will be manoeuvres by three airplanes over the grounds in army flight formation. The leading plane will do 10 minutes of solo acrobatic flying, and it is of unusual interest that these flights will be led by a former townsboy of Lachute, "Del" Mitchell. The other aviators will be Capt. Wrathel and Flying Officer Cox. This demonstration will take place at 5.15 p.m.

TRIBUTE TO HARD WORKING DIRECTORS

Efforts Repaid in Enthusiastic Attendance

A word of appreciation to Directors of the Agricultural Society is merited, in the supreme effort they have put forth to make this Spring Fair a success. The committee in charge of each department have cheerfully undertaken the immense amount of work entailed. To these gentlemen, under the chairmanship of Mr. W. H. Ayers, the town and county convey their hearty acknowledgment, realizing just what the Exhibition represents in the interests of the neighborhood.

Mr. Alex. Bothwell, the Secretary-Treasurer, ably assisted by Mrs. Bothwell, has worked tirelessly in the detailed demands of organizing the Exhibition, and to ensure its progress without hitch or confusion.

ENOUGH FOR TWO

Buzz, buzz, said a gay-striped bumble bee
To a humming bird one day—
"Don't take all the honey from that flower, Leave some for me, I pray."
Your wings are strong and you fly so fast
You get to the gardens first,
You sip and sip, till it seems to me
That you must surely burst!
You are bigger too, and you need a lot,
But please don't sip it all,
Leave just a taste, it's all I want,
For you know I am really small."

Said the humming bird with a flirt of her wings
"I always leave some for you;
If you dig quite deep you'll see for yourself
That a flower holds plenty for two."

Billy and Ted almost ran back to the lakeshore. "We'll have to make hay while the sun shines" said Ted. "I see a few clouds over there. The wind is blowing from that direction too, and they may be showering us before long."

"I think they are only wind-clouds" said Billy. "We need not worry about them, we will be safe enough in the car if it rains; then we are not far from the camp. . . . Say! show that to your dad, will you?" he said with a joyous yelp. He had just hauled out a beauty. "No stump that, eh Ted?"

"I should say not, Billy you are Mamma's Little Wonder when it comes to fishing. I am beginning to think. Why I have caught nothing but tiny ones. . . . help, Bill, help!" he called excitedly, a few moments later. "Something is on my hook. It is fighting hard for freedom. Look at the ripples it is making in the water."

"Maybe it's a serpent, Ted" exclaimed Billy with a chuckle as he dropped his own pole and ran to help his friend.

It was not a serpent Ted had caught, but an immense eel, and the boys were really afraid of it as it writhed and flopped about on the bank. "Dad!" called Ted excitedly, "Come over here, quickly please."

His father smiled as he came near. "What is it, Ted, a whale?" "Judge for yourself, Dad" said the boy.

"Ha! an eel! Just what are you going to do with it?" "Throw it into the water, pole and all, I think! I know that can never take that slimy, wriggling thing off the hook."

"Wouldn't you like to have Mother cook it for your breakfast?" Daddy said laughingly. "I guess not. I don't think I should ever be hungry enough to eat an eel. It looks too much like a snake!"

"But it is not a snake, Ted; it is really a valuable food fish."

In these parts we seldom see any larger ones than this, but the Congor eels, which are found off the Atlantic coast of America and in Europe, are sometimes eight feet long and are considered of wonderful food value" added Uncle Ted, as he released the eel and let it wriggle back into the water. "Food value or not" said the lad "I am glad he's out of my sight, and I hope that I don't catch him again."

"I expect he has had his lesson and will swim away from this corner for a day or two. You need not be afraid to try again Ted," his uncle said with a smile, as Ted stood dangling his line over the water half-afraid to try again.

"But there might be a Mrs. Eel who would not know better, and I might catch her." Ted interrupted himself excitedly. "Billy, oh Billy, grab your pole—it is sliding into the water."

Billy and Uncle Dick both sprang to catch the rod, which was indeed slipping into the water. "I shouldn't wonder but there is a reason for that pole making for the water, and you will find it on your hook."

Sure enough when the line was hauled in there was another big speckled trout on the hook. "Oh, Billy, you do have all the luck," Ted groaned "all I can catch is eels and wee ones."

"You may have this one, Ted. I didn't catch it. It just happened while I was helping haul in your eel." Ted protested, but Billy insisted, so he took home the fish that caught itself.

The wind, which had been gradually blowing stronger, suddenly seemed to swoop down on them with what sounded like a wild scream. The trees swayed as though in the grip of a giant and big rain drops started falling. "Run for camp, everybody," said Uncle Dick, leading the way along the path-way lined on both sides with sweet-smelling cedar trees. In a few moments they were inside and had the door closed.

"Let the wind howl," said Uncle Dick. "We are safely inside; but I must say that the air is not as fresh in here as it might be." Going to the south-window he unhooked it, remarking the wind was coming from the opposite direction, and all the rain that blew in wouldn't hurt them. "I don't think it is going to last long anyway," he added.

He told the boys of some more odd fish, such as the Boar Fish of the Mediterranean, with its thick heavy body and its snout just like a pig's nose; and the small fish which is quite common in summer and early fall on the Atlantic coast of the Northern and Middle States, called the Dollar Fish and often the Pumpkin Seed, because of its flat shape. He told them too of the Oar Fish found on the European and Asiatic coasts; the fish that had a dorsal fin running the entire length of its body and feathery looking appendages which rise like a mane above the head and are tipped with red; of the large Electric Cat-fish of Africa which are able to send out distinct electric shocks from the electricity of their bodies.

"Say!" cried Ted, "I'm glad I did not catch one of those fellows instead of the eel. We would all have been shocked if I had."

"No doubt we would" laughed Uncle Dick, "but I think our storm is over and we must either have lunch or start for home."

"Have lunch, of course, Uncle Dick!" cried Ted, "it may be a long time before we get a chance to have lunch in the woods again. You know exams will soon be on and there is not much time for fun when they are on. Horrid things! I wonder who invented exams. Can you tell us Uncle Dick?"

"I cannot, my boy, but I'll try and find out. I expect one would have to go back almost until the beginning of school days to find out, and at present I do not know where to commence the search, so we'll just enjoy our lunch and drive home without worrying about exams. How about it, Boys?"

"Agreed," came from two boyish throats, as they stretched out on the car seats to wait until the grown-ups had lunch ready.

Thoughts in Passing

By L. W. Armstrong

Peace and Progress.

There are many intelligent men to-day who believe that the civilized world is progressing.

They point to the telephone, the telegraph, the radio, the fast motor car, the airplane and countless other inventions of modern times. They maintain that science has brought the nations of the world closer together than they ever were before.

They could call attention to the one-minute postal service which is being experimented between France and England.

They could further prove their point by showing that the birth of quintuplets in a back woods Ontario town becomes a matter of interest to medical men the world over within a matter of hours.

These and countless other illustrations could be listed to indicate that we live in an era of unlimited progress — that the world is becoming a whispering gallery — that the future is bright before us.

This is all very true and would present a very beautiful picture were it not that it is over-shadowed by a dark cloud which is steadily becoming darker.

Civilized nations of the world to-day refuse to abolish war as a means of settling international disputes. They continue to cling to an institution which belongs to history, which is as obsolete as feudalism or the Divine Right of Kings.

And from all sides the question is asked: Why?

Either the nations are in dire need of leaders whose scope of vision will be appropriate to the age, or we must content ourselves with believing that the time has not yet arrived when it can be maintained that there is 'Peace on earth and goodwill among men'.

The Marketing Bill.

It is simply amazing to read from the papers some of the reasons why various members of Parliament oppose the Marketing Bill.

For example, here is one man who claims that the Canadian farmer will never submit to this system and that they themselves "will remove this restriction on their liberty and they will never accept what may be quite acceptable in a socialized state."

How many a farmer must squirm in his chair when he reads such nonsense!

How can the farmer's liberty be further restricted when he has no liberty?

The majority of those who depend solely on farming for a living to-day must work six days during the week and a large part of the seventh from one season's end to the other with only debt to show for it in the end.

There are those who fallaciously maintain that the farmer is a free man, that he has no boss over him ordering him to do this and do that.

The farmer is less free than other men in practically any line of work.

The railroad man is free to go to the head of his union with his complaints and gain a hearing. If there is an injustice, it will be immediately looked into.

The farmer, whether he is dairy farming, fruit growing or what not, has the powerful corporation over him, which is more ruthless than any modern boss. They force him to eke out a bare existence while they make huge profits. They force him to work from day-light to dark in order to procure enough to eat and a roof over his head.

And they say the Marketing Bill would restrict the liberty of the farmer!

Why have we so many men at Ottawa who have not the ability to recognize facts, realities; and who continue to waste time on hypothetical reasoning?

What do the farmers care whether the Bill is constitutional or not?

What do they care whether or not the passing of the Bill would mean a slightly more socialistic state?

They want relief from servitude and the Dominion Parliament can prove the only source for this relief.

Playing the Game.

One day last week the present Postmaster-general was criticized by a Member because he had dismissed eight or nine hundred postmasters since he came into power.

The man who held the same position in the last Administration said that he would not criticize him, but that he would congratulate him.

He went on to say that when he occupied the position he catered to his friends and if he was called into office again, as he expected to be in the near future, he would 'play the game' as he played it before.

It is obvious that we who innocently believe that ability is the first requirement for such important positions are quite wrong. The much-burdened tax-payer must continue to pay high salaries to men whose chief qualification for office is adherence to the 'right' party.

How much longer will this 'playing the game' be tolerated?

Slow Waiter—"Have you ordered anything, sir?"

Disgusted Diner—"Well, I asked for Christmas pudding, but that was so long ago you'd better bring me a hot cross bun!"

"SPANISH PRISONER" STILL IN CAPTIVITY

From an Ottawa press clipping we observe the "Spanish Prisoner" fake is still being used, to induce people to part with sums of money, supposedly to aid in the unearthing of hidden loot to be shared with the contributor. Needless to say, the bait in this latest instance failed to catch a fish.

It is recalled that Mr. Louis Lafleur received a similar communication some time ago, from Brazil, or other territory of a Spanish flavor. He kept the letter as a memento, being little impressed with the proposed investment and its lucrative returns.

TIGERS ARE LOSERS... PLAY PERFECT HOSTS

Lachute Tigers proved perfect hosts when they allowed Hawkesbury Maple Leafs to depart with a victory on Friday last. Leadership swung from side to side during the game, but the final results read 18-16 for the Ontario team. There were several close decisions in base running, which appeared questionable to the spectators.

The fact that soft-ball is gaining in popularity was evidenced by the larger crowd who witnessed the tilt. Tigers receive Hawkesbury Research, League Champions, on Monday at the local grounds.

FINE SCORES BY JUNIOR RIFLE TEAMS

There seems to be no doubt but that Canada is encouraging and producing each year shooters of first-class ability, and enthusiasts throughout the Dominion will read with interest the scores made by Dominion Marksmen Junior Rifle Teams in shooting off for the Provincial Championships. The competition is open to teams of five eligible members of any active Junior Club affiliated with Dominion Marksmen, and during the year approximately twenty thousand boys participated with great keenness. The winning teams, with their scores, are as follows, each total being out of a possible score of 1500 points.

Ont.: Hamilton Central Collegiate Institute, 1489; Alta.: Innisfail Cadet Corps, 1465; Man.: "Queen's Own" Cameron Highlanders C. C., Winnipeg, Team No. 1, 1456; N. B.: North St. John Cadets, 1453; Quebec: R. M. R. Cadet Corps, Montreal, 1435; Sask.: Prince Albert Collegiate Institute, Team No. 1, 1386; N. S. Cadet Corps 602, Glace Bay, 1362.

These teams represent Junior Clubs with the highest score in each province, and they will now shoot off for the Dominion Championship. These results have just been announced by the Dominion Ammunition Division of Canadian Industries Limited, under whose auspices the events are held annually.

LOCAL RELICS LOANED TO ARCHIVES EXHIBIT

Valuable Mementoes from Cushing Front

Dr. B. N. Wales, local historian, filled a recent invitation to lecture before the Women's Canadian Historical Society at Ottawa. Further evidence that this organization finds much of interest in the Argenteuil section of Ottawa Valley, lies in the fact that certain relics have been in demand from the Cushing front and are now on exhibition at the Dominion Archives Building.

These relics are the property of Mr. C. F. Kains, who gladly complied with the request and loaned them to the Society. From the description, these articles sound highly interesting and they are certainly most rare possessions. The relics include a "Colonial Walking And Flute" which was played at York Town, Virginia, when Cornwallis was taken. There is also a letter handed down from Mr. Kains' grandfather, Charles Platt Treadwell. It is addressed to Thomas D'Arcy McGee, dated prior to his shooting and warning him of the impending danger. The collection also includes a number of interesting daguerreotypes of first settlers in the Ottawa Valley above the Long Sault Rapids.

CYCLONE STRIKES IN GLENGARRY COUNTY

Alarming Havoc in Two Villages Near Hawkesbury

Two villages just over the Prescott County line suffered alarming damage in a freakish cyclone which swept over that section last Sunday evening.

The mile-a-minute gale devastated a wide area of crops, killing cattle; injuring several persons and sweeping barns and houses from their foundations. It first dipped down over the village of Dunvegan, creating havoc in its wake, then skipped several other villages, until it fell with fury over Glen Robertson. Residents fled to their cellars the while trees, roof-tops, posts and barns and fences were blown about with fury. Damages in both villages were estimated at upwards of $100,000. In 14 villages along the path of the cyclone, minor damage was reported.

It was between 6.45 and 7.45 o'clock when the storm first struck Dunvegan, and then leaped to Glen Robertson. Within a few minutes, barns and stables had been catapulted to the ground, slaying cows, bulls, pigs, chickens and other animals. Roof-tops and houseframes were lifted from their foundations, and sent hurtling into the air, while frantic men, women and children sought refuge in cellars.

Trees were lifted from their roots, and were precipitated hundreds of feet away; poles were snapped in two, and wires danced in the air like gigantic whips.

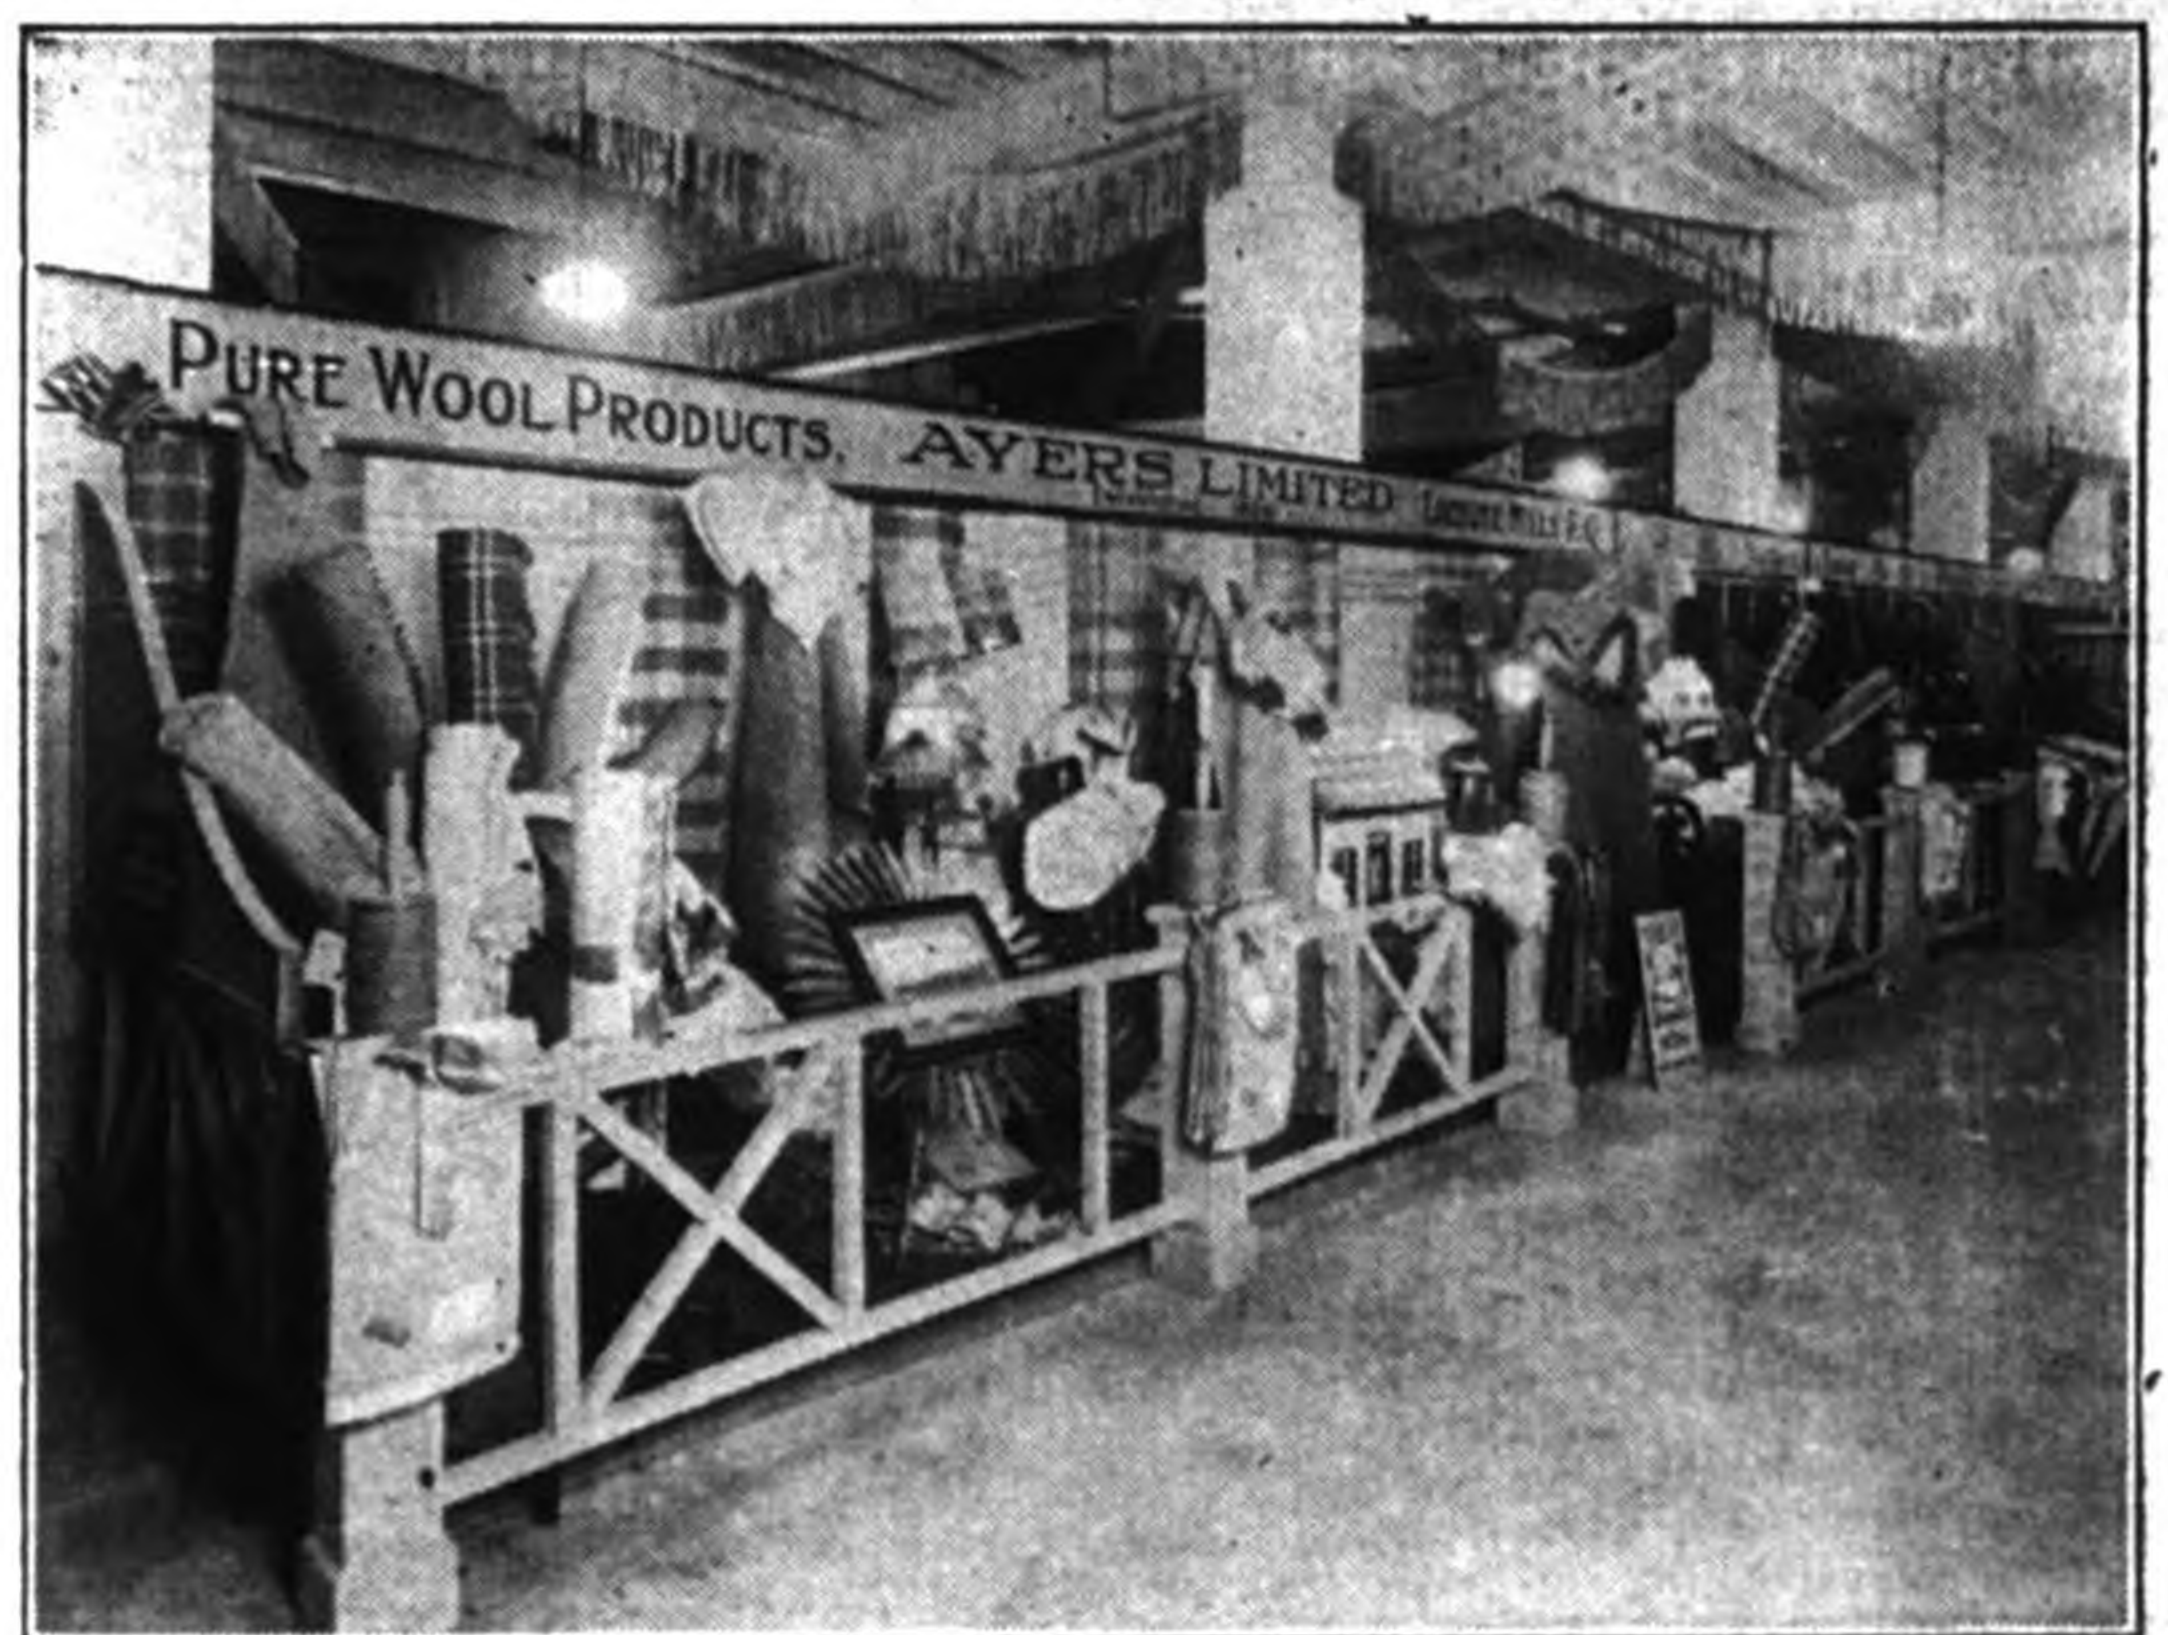

Many persons were injured but only slightly; falling boards, smashed chinaware and varied other missiles hit them, and they sustained cuts and bruises, but, when the storm had passed over both villages, local doctors hastened to treat them.

It was reported that the family of John McQueen, of Dunvegan, had the narrowest escape of all; they were at supper, when their house shook, and the roof-beams, started falling. Fleeing into the cellar, they escaped serious injury when the entire structure collapsed, the roof being carried away for some few yards. When the storm passed, they emerged, only to find that their barns, too, had been destroyed, and several of their animals slain by flying debris.

The cyclone passed along the valley in the direction of Rigaud, where no serious havoc was reported however.

HAWKESBURY URGES FOR CARILLON DEVELOPMENT

Board of Trade Passed Resolution

A resolution to enlist the support of neighboring organizations and municipalities and the provincial and federal members of Parliament to urge inclusion of the Carillon power development scheme in the Ontario, Quebec and federal governments' public works projects was passed at a meeting of the Hawkesbury Board of Trade recently.

With relief in the town costing about $13,000 monthly and the district in need of cheap power, the board suggested that if the project were undertaken it would not only solve the acute unemployment problem, but put the town of Hawkesbury back on its feet. A committee was appointed to promote interests in favor of this scheme.

EARLY JUDGING RESULTS AT FAIR

Entry Lists in the hands of the Fair Secretary are confirmed in the statement of recognized authorities, that this year's exhibits of livestock are positively the finest ever shown in Lachute, both for quality and quantity.

Cattle judging scheduled for Thursday morning was delayed; horse judging was conducted in the centre ring, where Mr. McCormick, of Brysonville, made the awards in Belgian, Standard Bred and Hackney classes. Both Mr. McCormick and Mr. Marsan, of Montreal, are judges for horses, Mr. David Greig to award decisions on the Saturday specials.

Gilbert Arnold took Champion ribbon in Belgian stallions, Messrs. Daoust and Laurin the awards for Belgian mare and foal. Champion Junior and Champion Senior mare were taken by Mr. E. C. Budge.

The Junior Champion hackney mare prize was taken by Mrs. R. Poirier, and the Senior and Grand Champion mare by Miss Viau.

Standard Bred Senior and Grand Champion stallion, also the 3-year old filly class, were won by Gilbert Arnold, while Kilgour Wilson took 1st. Senior and Grand Champion for 4-year old.

ANNUAL MEETING. ASS'N BAPTIST CHURCHES

The ninth annual meeting of the Ottawa Association of Baptist Churches will be held next week, June 19th. and 20th. with the Maple Avenue Baptist Church, Brownsburg.

On Tuesday afternoon the Women's Missionary Societies will meet in the Baptist Church, while the Ministers' and Laymen's Conference will meet in the Presbyterian Church. The Tuesday evening session will be held in the United Church, Brownsburg, when Dr. Jessie Allyn will give an illustrated address on her hospital work in India.

Speakers on Wednesday evening will be Rev. S. Iveson, of Ottawa, Rev. J. H. Boyd, Dr. M. F. McCutcheon, of Montreal, and Dr. C. C. McLaurin, of Calgary. On Wednesday afternoon addresses will be given by Rev. Prof. Orchard of Hamilton, Revs. F. W. Waters and N. W. Mollins of Ottawa, and Dr. McCutcheon. In the evening the Young People's Societies will report on their work, and Prof. Orchard will give an inspirational address.

The public are cordially invited to all meetings. Dinner and supper will be served at moderate cost in the Presbyterian Church.

PLEASING EVENTS CLOSE Y.P.S. SEASON

The season's activities of the United Young People's Society were closed with two pleasing week-end events, one of a social and the other of a devotional nature.

On Saturday about forty members of the organization assembled at Lake Louise, where they were guests of Mrs. W. J. Deacon. The gathering were pleasantly entertained at Mr. and Mrs. William J. Deacon's lakeshore camp. Several members of the party braved the elements at the bathing beach; games and a sing-song, however, were more suited to the weather, which failed to dampen the general enthusiasm. Refreshments were served and the visitors returned to Lachute after a most enjoyable afternoon and evening.

A Young People's Service in the Church on Sunday evening marked a more formal suspending of the Society's affairs, until next Fall. Rev. Mr. McRae of St. Lambert, conducted the devotions, the C.G.I.T. were in attendance and the Choir was constituted entirely of Y. P. S. members. The service was most inspiring and proved successful in every way.

An old friend is present in the centre aisle, featuring the Jardin de Paris perfumes. This space is held by Mr. B. Illingworth of Montreal, who has been on hand for several years with an attractive display. Mr. "Mike" Lackner is among the outside booth-holders, operating his pop-corn roaster.

NO TENDERS ACCEPTED BY COUNCIL

Council Considers Bids for Constable and for Reconstruction of Auditorium

With prices ranging from $11,250 up to $28,600 for reconstruction of the Auditorium, the town council at its special meeting held in the Town Hall on Tuesday, decided not to accept any of the tenders submitted.

The Council felt that they were not altogether in accord with the plans submitted by the architect, which called for tearing down all the work in the basement. Many of the aldermen were opposed, considering that the town could save appreciably by making the necessary repairs. Last year upwards of $2,000 had been expended in renovating this basement, and it would take but very little to put it back into shape again. There is also under consideration the remodelling of the heating system, from hot air to low pressure steam, but nothing has yet been decided upon.

The next matter taken up was the appointment of a town constable. The secretary was kept busy for awhile, as he read the nineteen applications for this position, some of which were quite elaborate. The selection will likely be made at next meeting of the Council, as the varied applications require careful consideration.

The 24th. of June being the French-Canadian holiday of St. Jean Baptiste, the town granted the use of the park and grandstand from 9 p.m. to 11 p.m. for fitting observance of the occasion.

PRETTY WEDDING

MacAdam - Rodger

At the home of the bride's parents, on Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock, the marriage was solemnized by Margaret Robertson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Rodger of Lachute, to Mr. Stewart T. MacAdam, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. MacAdam of St. Andrews East, the Rev. J. Macaskill officiating.

Carnations, peonies and ferns were used in decorating and the wedding music was played by Miss Eleanor Rodger. Attending the bride was Miss Anne Black while Mr. Rupert Tuck, of Lachute, acted as best man for the groom.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a princess gown of pale blue flowered organza with taffeta cape and sash, and carried a bouquet of yellow roses and lily-of-the-valley. Miss Black was gowned in pale pink embroidered organza and carried pink roses.

After the reception Mr. MacAdam and his bride left by motor for New York and other points, the latter travelling in a London Taupe costume with a brown hat and matching accessories.

USE OF SALT IN HOG RATIONS

Further facts are now available regarding the use of salt in hog rations. This information is the outcome of experiments carried out at the Dominion Experimental Station, Lacombe, Alta., which in 1928 inaugurated tests on the effect of salt on swine. The results of this research are now available, and will be eagerly read by every raiser of hogs.

The experiments of 1929 were carried out on pigs in dry lot. Two of the lots, described in the original reports as lots 5 and 6, directly concern us. Hogs in lot 5 received meal to which was added 2.5% salt, whereas lot 6 received meal only. At the commencement of the test, the hogs in the two lots were of comparable average weights and average ages, the average weight and age in lot 5 being 48.9 lbs. and 82.5 days, while for lot 6, the corresponding figures were 49.2 lbs. and 83.3 days.

The test feedings were carried out for 125 days on lot 5 and 132 days on lot 6. For comparative purposes however, it is desirable to make the time intervals the same and to this end calculations have been made from the average daily gains and average daily food consumption to determine the approximate position of lot 6 at 125 days. The error thus introduced will be of negligible dimensions.

On this basis we find that the hogs of lot 5 consumed 4866 lbs. meal and 122 lbs. salt, and gained to an average weight of 182 lbs. during the 125 days, while the hogs of lot 6 consumed 4604 lbs. grain, and gained to a calculated average weight of 142 lbs. over this same period. The actual rates of gain recorded per day were 1.07 lb. for lot 5 and 0.7 lb. for lot 6. The reader will note that the full age of the hogs at the end of the test was approximately 208 days.

It is thus apparent that, far from being harmful, the salt was actually beneficial. The salt supplemented grain ration resulted—and here the original report is quoted—"in 53% increase in daily gains and 29% decrease in the cost of gains."

A comparatively simple calculation from the data reported in this test on the assumption that rates of daily gain and food consumption do not change shows that 65 days further feeding above 125 days would have been needed to bring the hogs in lot 6 to the same degree of finish as those in lot 5, and that in that time the hogs in lot 5 would consume 2,437 lb. extra meal.

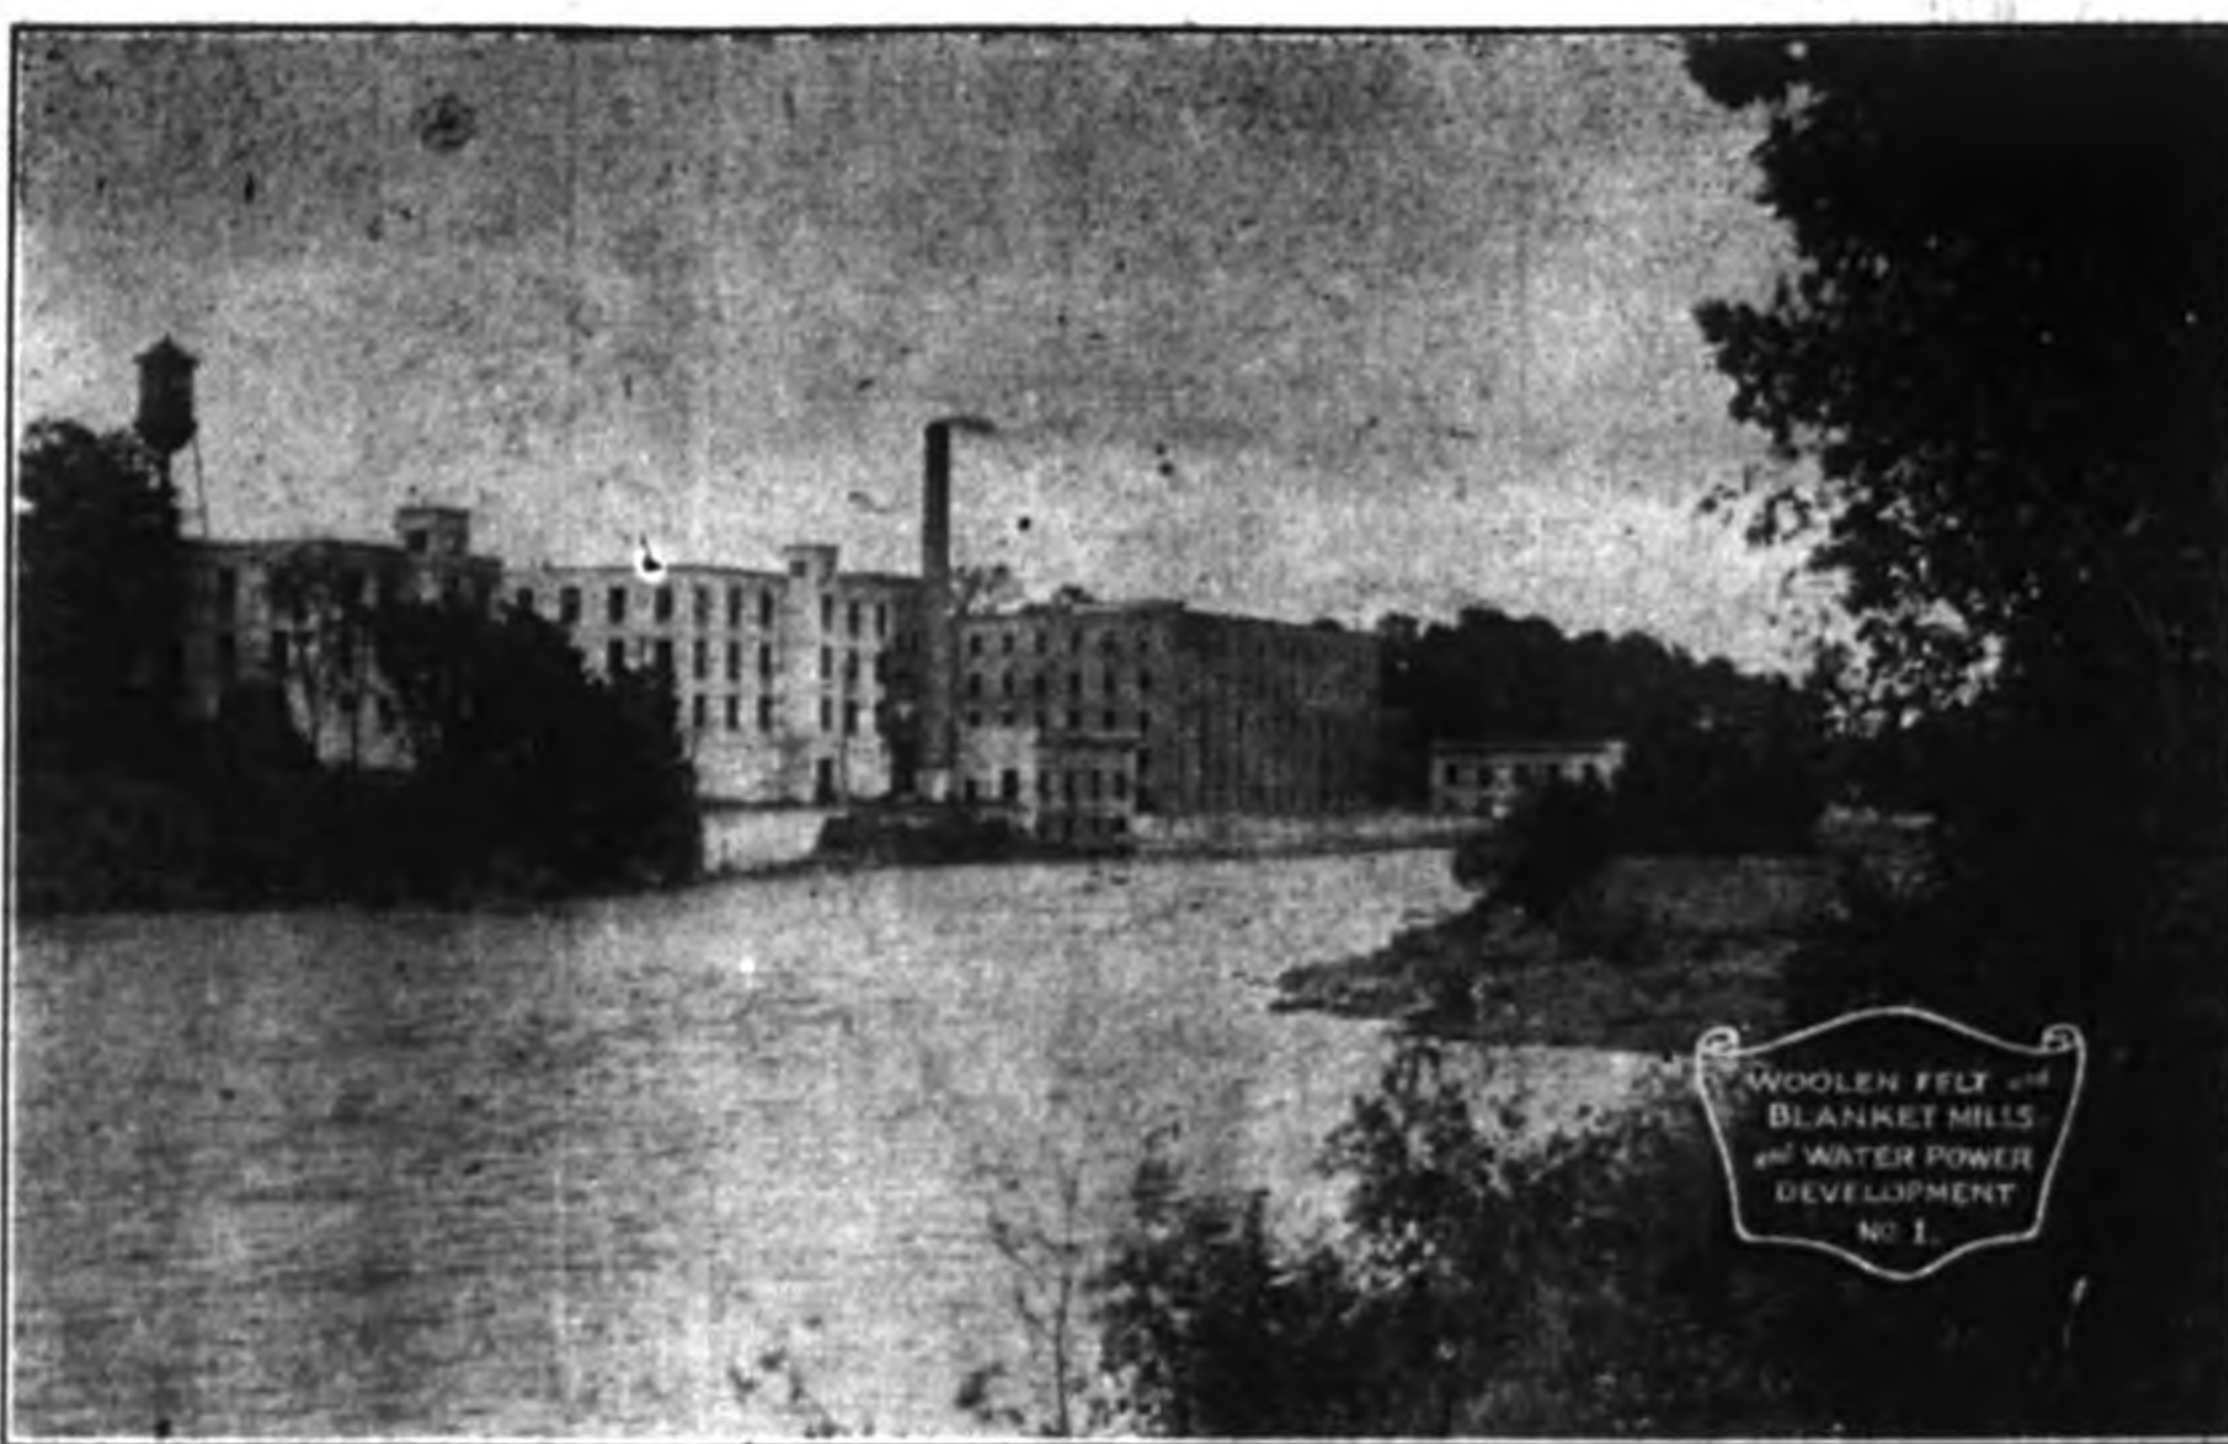

Thus, taking into consideration the feed prices at the time of test on the basis of grain saved, salt costing $1.80 per 100 lb. had an actual value of $25.38 per 100 lb.

The apparently conclusive results of this test were confirmed by further trials in later years, with hogs on pasture instead of dry lot. In this latter case, the large economies effected by the use of salt in dry-lot feeding were somewhat reduced, but the practice of adding 2 1/2% salt to the grain ration still showed a substantial profit, and was in no way harmful to the animals. Thus in 1930, on pasture, the feeding of salt at the rate of 2 1/2 lb. per 100 lb. meal mixture resulted in a 19% increase in daily gains and a 6% decrease in cost of gains.

At the Dominion Experimental Station, Lacombe, salt is now fed to all pigs in all meal rations to young pigs from weaning to finish, to brood sows and stock boars, at the rate of 2 1/2 lbs. of salt thoroughly mixed in every 100 pounds of dry meal. The dry meal with the salt incorporated is put in the trough and the water or buttermilk poured over it. If this method of feeding is carefully followed and troughs kept reasonably clean, there is no danger of the salt forming a concentrated brine solution, which would be poisonous to the pigs.

The records of the Lacombe tests from 1928-1930 are available for study and have added much to our knowledge of hog-feeding.

TRUE WORDS TO-DAY

Are writers to-day saying wise things equalling those of yesteryear? Possibly, but their words are too close, too new, to win the recognition they merit. In consequence earlier writers are frequently given the premier place, not without advantage and profit to the present. To add to the guilt or offence, if it may be so termed, we here-with turn to Bacon, and find words of his so equally applicable to the present that no apology is made or offered for their republication. Read them and see:

"It is not what men eat, but what they digest that makes them strong; not what we gain but what we save that makes us rich; not what we read, but what we remember that makes us learned; and not what we preach, but what we practice that makes us Christians. These are great but common truths often forgotten by the glutton, the spendthrift, the bookworm and the hypocrite."

"What's that you have there, little one?" she was asked.

"Oh", said the child, "Just an ad about heaven."

REX BATTLE PLAYED DUETS WITH QUEEN WHEN ONLY A BOY

(Musical Review of Canada)

Rex Battle, pianist, and his orchestra present a daily early afternoon feature from Toronto, which is one of the most highly appreciated programs in musical circles of radio today.

Rex Battle also leads his orchestra Tuesday nights at Toronto at 9 o'clock and the music is carried over a national CRC chain.

Rex Battle was born in England and received his musical education there. As a boy he was quite a piano virtuoso. Budmani, a brilliant pianist who taught young Rex, was brought to London by the late King Edward VII. Budmani, proud of his pupil, took the boy with him to Buckingham Palace so that he might play for Queen Alexandra. The boy was flustered and it was quite apparent to the Queen. She quickly placed him at ease, however, when she, holding out her hand, said "let's have no formality, we're going to be friends. We are both trying to be musicians, aren't we?"

Duet With Queen

And so Master Battle played for the Queen and then he played duets with her.

Queen Alexandra was a clever musician and was a Doctor of Music, graduated from Oxford University.

Rex Battle went to the United States in 1912 and conducted orchestras in New York hotels.

There came the call to Canada when a new hotel was being opened in Montreal. There he conducted its orchestral group for six-and-a-half years, relinquishing it when he accepted his present position at Toronto with the largest hotel in the British Empire. It is from there that his music is broadcast.

LIABILITY FOR INJURY

The question whether a member of a parish who contributes labor to the construction of a road instead of taxes, is employed by the parish which would thus be liable in case of accident, is now under consideration by Quebec Court of Appeals. The case was an appeal of the Corporation of the Parish of Ste. Anne des Plaines, Que., of a Superior Court judgment awarding $7,000 to Aurelia Latour for the death of her husband who was killed while engaged in highway construction in lieu of paying the levy assessed against him. It is the contention of the corporation that the victim cannot be held to have been in its employ at the time of the accident, and that therefore the lower court's decision should be reversed.

URGING QUEBEC-ONTARIO HIGHWAY

Members of the North Bay Board of Trade recently arranged a conference between Mayor A. G. Grimmer, of Temiskaming, Que., and the Quebec Government on the proposed road from Temiskaming to North Bay.

Mayor Grimmer sought the attitude of Quebec legislators towards the highway at the request of Hon. William Finlayson, Ontario Minister of Northern Development.

To give the people of Temiskaming an outlet into Quebec it would be necessary to build a road to Sheenboro, approximately 125 miles, it was said. The road would strike no large points until it reached Hull, 250 miles distant.

E. L. Banner, secretary of the Board of Trade, said he did not anticipate any difficulty with the Quebec Government.

New York's Philharmonic-Symphony directors are expected to announce completion of their three-year $500,000 guarantee fund at a victory dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria. An anonymous gift of $60,000 was the largest, and up to last report there were fifty-six donors of from $10,000 to $1,000 each, in addition to a shower of dollars from radio listeners and a $4,000 benefit contributed by the New York Chamber Music Society.

Wake up your Liver Bile

—No Calomel necessary

For you to feel healthy and happy, your liver must pour two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels, every day. Without that bile, trouble starts. Poor digestion. Slow elimination. Poisons in the body. General wretchedness. How can you expect to clear up a situation like this completely with mere bowel-moving salts, oil, mineral water, laxative candy or chewing gum, or roughage? They don't wake up your liver. You need Carter's Little Liver Pills. Purely vegetable. Safe. Quick and sure results. Ask for them by name. Refuse substitutes. 25c. at all drugists.

The Swiss Federal Council has allocated a sum of 40,000 francs (about $8,000) for the relief of Swiss musicians who are in need. The fund will be administered by the Department of the Interior, the amount and nature of relief varying with the needs of each particular case; it may consist in the purchase of compositions of talent, subsidies for the publication of such works, organizing concerts, or the purchase of satisfactory instruments for young and particularly talented musicians handicapped by lack of funds.

EFFICIENCY AT ALL COSTS!

A very good friend of ours who recently had occasion to breakfast on a railway train found that the one-dollar breakfast consisted of fruit or cereal, ham-and-two-eggs, toast and coffee. Being, like ourselves, a man of most abstemious habits in the early morning, he ordered this breakfast but with the qualification that the main dish should contain only one egg. He obtained his desire, but the bill was one dollar and twenty-five cents. Upon requesting an explanation he was informed that while ham-and-two-eggs was part of the dollar breakfast, ham-and-one-egg could only be served à la carte, and his attention was drawn to the rule on the menu card: "No variation from the items named in the table d'hôte menus is permitted."

Our friend was annoyed, but we think he was wrong. He was asking for a certain elasticity of mind which nobody has a right to ask for in a railway diner in connection with a dollar breakfast. With an à la carte breakfast yes; with a table d'hôte one, no. The difference is part of what you get for the higher charge. Our friend was trying to save the railway the cost of the second egg; but in doing so he was imposing upon it a far more serious item of expense. He was upsetting the system, he was causing a bouleversement of the routine, which would probably cost more than a dozen eggs. What he should have done was to suffer the

DELINQUENCY IS MISGUIDED ENERGY

That juvenile crime is just youthful energy "gone wrong," is a fact which needs little argument. It is recognized wherever youth confronts justice in the courts, and is proven wherever community effort has substituted some healthier interest for the sordid appeal of the street and the pool-room.

Mons. Alfred Barthel, who for nearly 30 years has been first oboist for the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, tells how music first gave him a means of expression for childhood energies which were leading him fast and sure into mischief.

"I was so mischievous," says Mons. Barthel "that everything that went wrong in the neighborhood was blamed on me. My parents were worried, grief-stricken, frantic. They didn't know what to do with me; finally they decided they'd send me to sea, thinking that in this way I would learn discipline. But on the very day I was to go to make arrangements I got the mumps and had to stay home. . . . Then a neighbor suggested that since my parents didn't know what else to try they might try giving me music lessons." It was not so simple, for the miscreant had no apparent forte for music. But the happy suggestion had the desired effect, and incidentally opened up an inspiring and constructive career to one who had been a potential lawbreaker.

It is not within the scope of harassed municipalities to sponsor any extensive welfare schemes at this time. One may remark, however, that many well-intentioned efforts to inaugurate libraries, community clubs, brass bands, and the like, have suffered through lack of support from civic officials. If such enterprises are ever dependent upon a municipal grant for their fruition, it is the object of this editorial to impress that the cause is as worthy as any for which the aid of municipalities is invited. Those in charge of public funds, in a case of this kind, would do well to dwell momentarily upon the costs of crime prevention and penal institutions. It will then become evident that any outlay toward juvenile uplift is—just another of those "long sighted investments."

Sympathy of neighbors and friends is extended to the family and relatives of the late Miss Margaret McLellan, who passed away at her home in Cobden, Ont., on Saturday night, June 9th., 1934, at the age of only eighteen years.

She had been in poor health for over a year, but was very courageous through all her illness. She was the second daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. D. J. McLellan and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel McIntyre Sr. of this place. She was born in Grenville, during the time her father was local C.P.R. Agent.

She leaves a sister (Elsie) Mrs. Royce Pendergrast, two brothers, Percy and Duncan, also a devoted step-mother and many other relatives and friends, who will sadly miss her.

The Ottawa Spotlight

By Wilfrid Eggleston

Ottawa, June 12.—Relief for debt-ridden farmers is promised in the two bills tabled by Premier Bennett last week. Taken in combination with the Marketing Bill, which received third reading and went on to the Senate, they constitute the most important move toward alleviation of agriculture in recent years. Critics will say that they are only palliatives,—that the fundamental weakness is untouched. However, on the principle of at least being grateful for small mercies, let's see what is proposed:

The farmer whose liabilities have climbed until they exceed his assets is offered a cheap & easy method of starting his commercial life anew. No doubt there are thousands of farmers whose obligations have for months been in excess of the realizable value of their land and holdings, and it must have been a nightmare to these people to feel that even if conditions improve, they might have to work for their creditors indefinitely, before they would ever be "square with the world again."

Receivership is a comparatively new idea for the farmer. The business man, baffled by debts, has been permitted to settle with his creditors, wipe the slate clean, and start again. Now the farmer in the same hopeless position, will be able to do likewise.

Farmers can call their creditors together and make them a proposition. Once such an offer is made, no legal remedy by any one of the creditors can be taken. There are special provisions for secured creditors.

If creditors do not accept the proposition, and their counter-proposition—if any—is not acceptable to the farmer, the whole affair can be taken to a 'Provincial Board of Review' consisting of a judge, a representative of the farmer, and a representative of the creditors. Their decision will be final.

Mortgage Rates Must Be Reasonable

So much for the farmer actually bankrupt.

There is relief also for the farmer smuggling along with a mortgage at excessive rate of interest, which contains no clause which would permit of re-financing at a lower rate of interest.

The new bill says that if a farmer paying more than seven per cent on a mortgage can tender the principal and accrued interest plus three months interest as bonus, he can discharge the mortgage whatever be the terms. For if the mortgagee declines to accept the offer, he can after that only collect five per cent on the mortgage.

The effect of this clause ought to be the voluntary lowering of interest by many mortgage holders where the rates charged are in excess of seven per cent, down to that figure at least.

JUNE WEDDINGS

Dixon - Murdoch

The Dalesville Baptist Church was the scene of a very pretty event on Saturday afternoon, June 9, when Ada Lillian, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Murdoch, of Brownsburg, was united in marriage to Clarence Edward, only son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Dixon of Dalesville.

Rev. F. Dyson officiated and the wedding music was played by Mrs. Dyson. Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by her sister, Miss Jessie Murdoch as bridesmaid. Mr. Mason Ferris was groomsmen. Mr. J. Murdoch, brother of the bride and Mr. A. Morrow acted as ushers.

The bride wore a gown of white satin and lace made on long graceful lines with Jacket effect. She wore a veil, attached with orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses and lily-of-the-valley in shower.

The bridesmaid wore a white embroidered organdy dress with blue accessories. She carried an arm bouquet of roses.

Little Frances Murdoch, niece of the bride, was flower girl, and was gowned in yellow organdy and carried a basket of snowballs and snapdragons.

During the signing of the register, Miss E. Goldsworthy sang in her usual sweet and expressive manner.

Following the ceremony at the church a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents at which the toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. Dyson. Some one hundred guests participated in a sumptuous repast.

Later the bride and groom left for a motor trip to Ottawa and New York State. The bride wore a beige travelling suit with three-quarter length coat and matching accessories.

The numerous and costly gifts which the young couple received show the esteem in which they are held.

The guests from a distance included: Mr. and Mrs. Pearson and Miss Pearson, of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. A. Murdoch and Mr. P. Murdoch of Detroit; Mr. W. and J. Robertson, of Westmount; Mr. C. Hay and Miss Gladys Walsh, of Montreal.

Champagne - Lacasse

Attractive Marriage Ceremony at Ottawa

St. Jean Baptiste Church, Ottawa, was the scene of an attractive wedding and one of widespread interest recently, when Miss Gertrude Chatillon Lacasse, daughter of Mrs. J. G. Lacasse and the late Arthur Chatillon, was united in marriage to Mr. Donatien Champagne, also of Ottawa, son of Mr. Joseph Champagne, of St. Jerome, and of the late Mrs. Champagne. Miss Lacasse is well known in Lachute, where she has many friends.

Rev. Father Masse officiated, and the wedding music was played by Miss Gabrielle Bourque at the organ. Beautiful vocal solos were contributed by Miss Ruth Rattey, Dr. V. Prevost and Mrs. A. Trotter.

Given in marriage by her step-father, Mr. J. G. Lacasse, the bride was unattended. She was dressed in a most becoming gown of ashes of roses crepe, with a wide brimmed black straw hat trimmed with flowers. She carried a satin-bound prayer book, with a ribbon marker to which was attached a spray of lily-of-the-valley.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, following which Mr. Champagne and his bride left by motor for Montreal and other points in Quebec. The bride travelled in a blue swagger suit and a blue hat.

On their return, the couple will take up residence in Ottawa.

OUR OWN

It is a queer thing how no one else can make your room look just the way you can yourself. No one else knows its weak points and its good ones. When some one else has dusted it, your hand fairly itches to alter things just a little. Just the slightest shift in the position of the cushion hides that spot on the chesterfield. That chair moved only an inch or two covers the worn out spot in the rug. The vase is much more beautiful if it is placed on a certain place on the table as there it catches the light from the sun which brings out all its lovely colours. The lamp shade must be twisted so that the seam goes to the back and so cannot be seen. And so it goes. We who live with our things know them. Come to think of it we are a bit like that with our families too. We know their weak spots and play up to their good ones and love them in spite of or because of them all.

A REFRESHING ADMISSION

Mrs. Plumptre of Toronto said to the Press that she was interested in Health and Education and because of these interests would like to be a member of Parliament, but at present saw no opening. She said that she would run as a Conservative because a member of either party was more valuable than an Independent and that she would not run as a Women's candidate because there should be no such thing. It is a pleasant change to hear a prospective candidate say that they want to run. Usually they say that they have no desire to run but their friends have insisted on it, or so many people have asked them, that they feel it their duty to allow their name to stand and so on with a lot of hokey. I think that rarely a person holds an office from a sense of duty solely, but usually it is because they want to do it. Their motives may be of the very highest but if they want the position why not say so. To my way of thinking it is refreshing to hear Mrs. Plumptre speak as she thought.

POOR POSTURE

Posture has so much to do with our looks and our health and yet so little attention is paid to it. You seldom see a short person round-shouldered. They like to make every inch count. Fat people are not stoop-shouldered either. Now is that a matter of accident? There is a reason for it. The tall, slight person has not sufficient weight for their height, their long arms are dragged down and forward and they become hollow-chested. Breathing is affected, organs are cramped, so health is affected as well as appearance. The first thing to do to correct this condition is to put on some extra pounds. It is usually necessary to get extra rest as well as more food. The slight person is apt to have a small stomach and to find it difficult to eat a really large meal. The best way for this type of person to gain is to take two extra meals a day. These should be simple and easy to digest. Well-buttered crackers either plain or Graham and a glass of milk makes a nourishing extra meal. If you can add a little cream to the milk so much the better. Now as to straightening up. Usually people try to do this by pulling back the shoulders and pulling the chin in, which is almost sure to be carried well forward. This makes an uncomfortable position, unnatural and one that will not be held for any length of time. If the stoop-shouldered person would only hollow their back and keep it hollowed, they would find that this automatically throws the shoulders into position and pulls in the chin. Don't say "straighten up," but say "hollow your back."

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE

2 cups flour
About 2/3 cup milk
1/4 cup butter
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon sugar

Mix as for tea biscuits. Bake in one thick layer in a hot oven of 450 degrees. Split and butter. Crush and sweeten 1 quart of strawberries & put between and on top layers of shortcake. Serve with whipped or pour cream as desired. Individual shortcakes may be made instead of the one large one.

STRAWBERRY PINEAPPLE CONSERVE

2 quarts strawberries
2 cups diced or grated pineapple
1/2 cup water
4 cups sugar
Cook the strawberries, pineapple and water slowly until most of the water has evaporated. Stir frequently. Add the sugar and cook until thick. Pour into sterilized glasses and cover with wax. Conserves burn easily and require almost constant stirring.

STRAWBERRY ICING

Thicken crushed strawberries with icing sugar until it is the right consistency to spread. A few drops of lemon juice improves the flavour. This makes a delicious icing for a sponge cake.

PEANUT BUTTER AND TOMATO SANDWICH

Spread a slice of bread with butter and then with peanut butter. Cover with sliced tomatoes and season with salt and pepper. These are a good sandwich for the children's supper.

TOMATO SANDWICH

Peel and slice tomato thinly and arrange on a slice of buttered bread. Season liberally with salt and pepper. Scrape a little onion on each slice and spread very lightly with salad dressing. Tomato sandwiches need to be made just before using as they soon become soggy.

Lesson for June 17

THE RISEN LORD AND THE GREAT COMMISSION

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 28:1-20
GOLDEN TEXT—Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you and, lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world.—Matthew 28:19-20
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Living Again

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Conqueror's Marching Orders
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Our Marching Orders
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Great Commission

I. The Empty Sepulchre (vv. 1-7)
1. The earthquake (vv. 1-4) This occurred when the glorious angel descended from heaven to roll the stone away from the tomb. This work of the angel was not to allow Jesus to escape but to show that the tomb was empty. Christ needed not even the help of the glorious angel for he came forth from the grave by his own power as the seal of his atoning work on the cross (Rom. 1:4). The open tomb and the angels sitting upon the stone with calm dignity is a graphic picture of Christ's triumph over the devil; and the terror of the keepers is a sample of what all of Christ's enemies shall one day experience when he comes in glory to reign as king.
2. The angel's message to the women (vv. 5-7)

a. "Fear not" (v. 5) While the angels had occasion to fear these women who loved the Lord received good news from the empty tomb. The Lord will not leave those who follow him and love him in suspense and dread. The empty tomb puts an end forever to all doubts and fears. It is evidence that the question of sin has been dealt with and that God is satisfied and eternal victory is secured. Let every teacher endeavor to show the importance of the fact that the tomb was empty, for it shows that we have a living Saviour. The resurrection of Christ should be the major theme of those who give out the Christian message.

b. "Come, see" (v. 6) The angel told the women that the Lord had risen and invited them to see the place where he lay. The reason he invited them to come was that he desired them to make sure about the facts. He remained with his disciples forty days giving them many infallible proofs of his resurrection (Acts 1:3).
c. "Go quickly" (v. 7) Having seen for themselves their responsibility was to go and tell the message. It is important to be convinced of facts. Experience is necessary before testimony. They were to go quickly to the disciples with the message that the Lord would go before and meet them.

II. The Risen Lord Meets the Women (vv. 8-10)

The women quickly obeyed the command of the angel and were running to bring word to the disciples. Jesus met them on the way. All who go quickly with his message, the Lord will meet on the way. When they saw Jesus, that he was really the Lord they worshiped him.

III. Paying Money to Circulate a Lie (vv. 7-15)

That Jesus arose from the dead could not even be denied by the Sadducees. They saw only one way out of the difficulty; that was to bribe the keepers to tell a lie. They had paid money for his betrayal; now they paid more money to circulate a lie about his resurrection. Money not only induces people to lie, but it even muzzles the mouths of some teachers and preachers.

IV. The King's Great Commission (vv. 16-20)

1. The royal authority (vv. 16-18). By virtue of his divine authority he issued this command to the disciples. Only as the disciples realize the authority of the Lord will they go out to proclaim his message.

2. The content of the commission (vv. 19, 20).

a. Go teach all nations. This is the first and primary business of the disciples, and is a present obligation.

b. Baptize them in the name of the triune God. It is proper that those who have become disciples of the Lord should receive the rite which signifies that relationship to him.

c. Teach them to observe all Christ's commandments (v. 20) Christ's disciples should be taught obedience to all his commandments.

3. The available power (v. 20). The guarantee of the success of the missionary enterprise is Christ's abiding presence.

Righteousness

Righteousness is incomplete unless its final and highest expression be love. But holy love is stern. It is satisfied with nothing less than the sanctification of its object, such love will never spare the loved.

Do It Now!

If the wish is awakened in our soul to be ever in his presence, let us go to him this moment, and ask him what to do, and how to feel, believing that he is more ready to hear than we to pray.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, June 17th., is "God the Preserver of man."

The Golden Text is: "As birds flying, so will the Lord of hosts defend Jerusalem: defending also he will deliver it; and passing over he will preserve it." (Isaiah 31:5).

The following passages are selected from among those comprised in the Lesson-Sermon to be read from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:—

"Preserve me, O God: for in thee do I put my trust. The Lord shall preserve thee from all evil: he shall preserve thy soul. The Lord shall preserve thy going out and thy coming in from this time forth, and even for evermore." (Psalms 16:1, 121:7, 8).

"God is the creator of man, and the divine Principle of man remaining perfect, the divine idea or reflection, man, remains perfect. Man is the expression of God's being. The divine Mind that made man maintains His own image and likeness." (Science and Health pages 470 and 151).

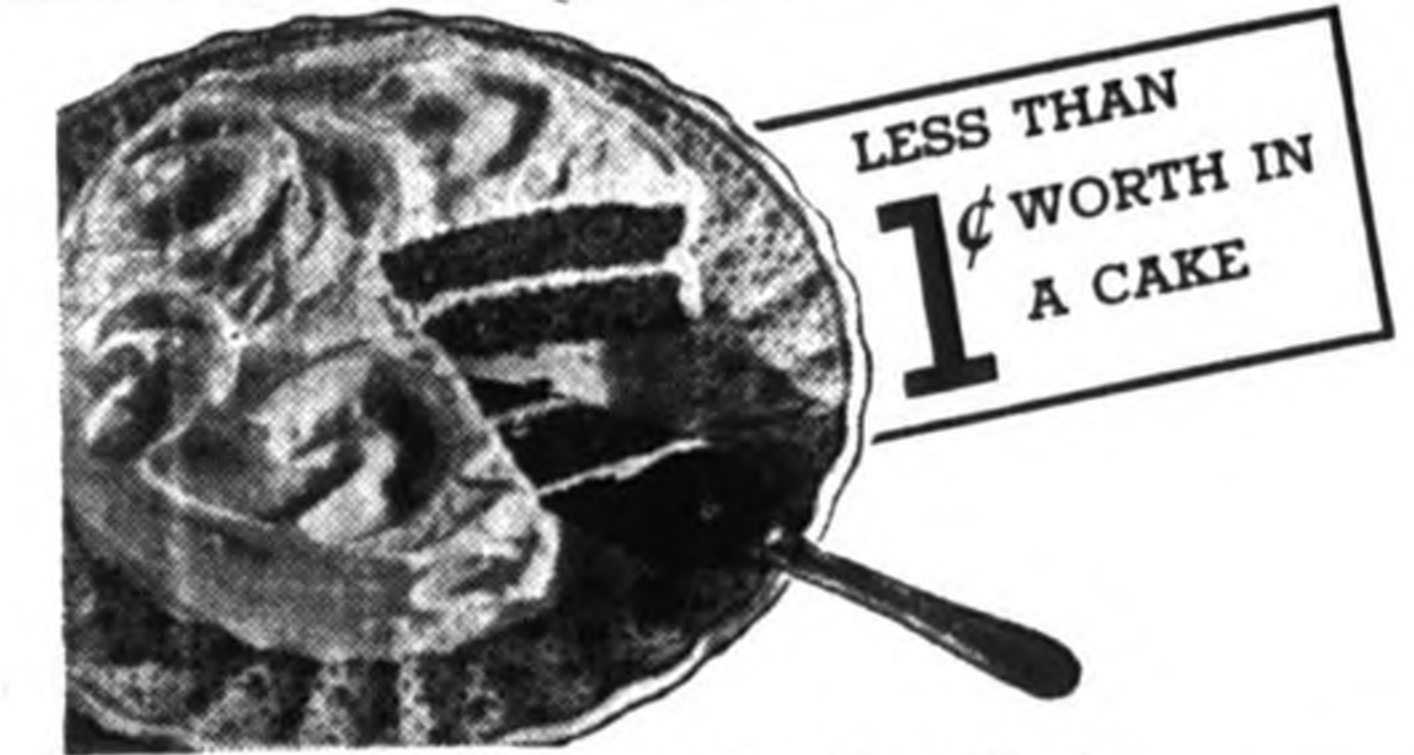

"I say," said the conductor, leaning down to speak to his first violin, "whatever key were you playing in?"

"Skeleton key."

"Skeleton key?"

"Yes—fits anything."

New York has Boys' Club Sponsored by Schools

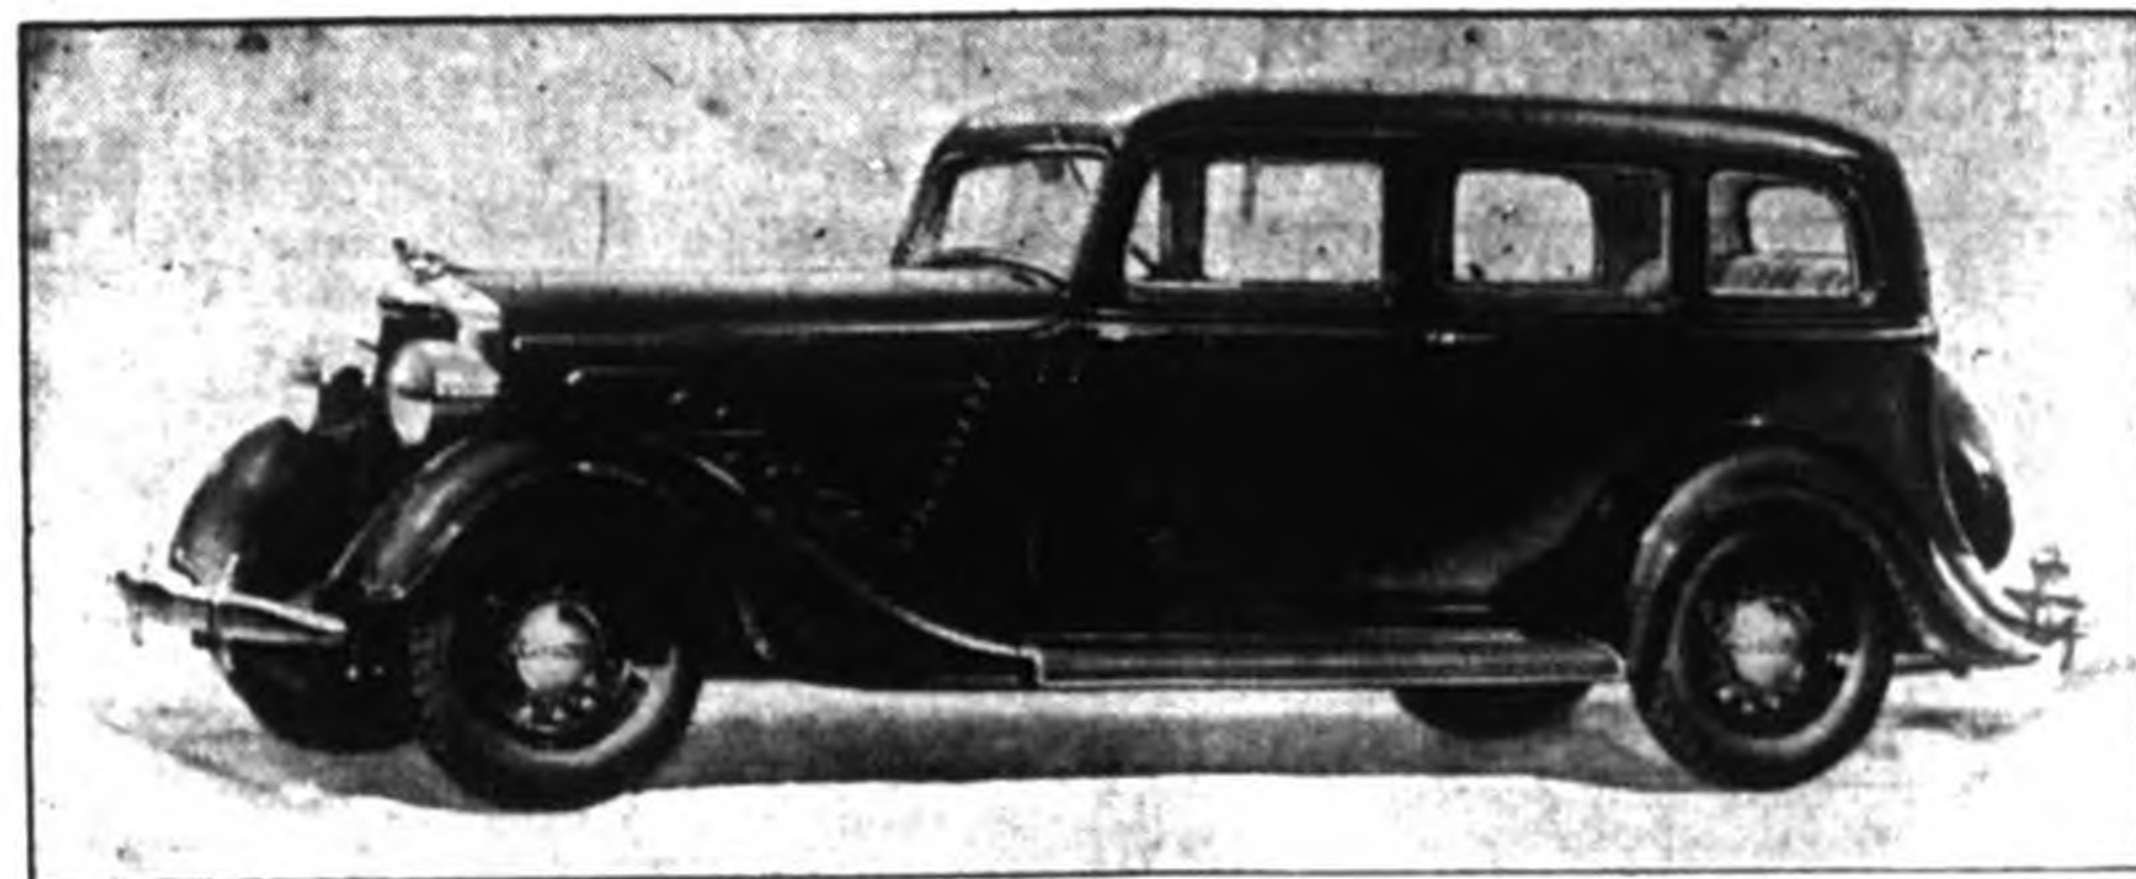

In a certain New York neighborhood delinquency among school children has met a strong opponent in a community association of 700 boys, says a recent article in the New York Times. Special interest attaches to this association at present because of Mayor LaGuardia's recent emphasis on crime prevention and his insistence that it "should be carried out in the streets and in the schools."

The Community Boys Club, now a year old, is in one of the most congested districts in the Bronx. In 1932 the district had the highest delinquency record in the borough; the problem was regarded by social workers as particularly difficult. Yet since the inception of the club no child has been committed for delinquency.

The members came from five public schools, whose principals are among the sponsors. During the last few years these schools have had many boys who ordinarily would have been absorbed in trades. These boys, it is said, have taken to the streets in alarming numbers, forming gangs which threatened to become a neighborhood menace. Dutch Schultz, the notorious gang leader, was once a pupil in one of the schools. In addition to the poverty in the neighborhood and the attendant deplorable home conditions, "For the first time in the Summer the streets hereabouts were pleasant to walk on last year." There are other hopeful signs. In 1932, 300 windows were broken during vacation time in one of the public schools. Last Summer there were only 100.

The new club offers treatment for definite needs, you might call them neighborhood ills. There is a new self-respect among the boys, who speak with pride of their club; their club interest is reflected in more vital interest in classroom work. The fact that boys must measure up to certain standards to be eligible for the membership keeps them alert, careful not to do what will bar their joining.

The club has, too, wider aspects. Through the interest of parents in neighborhood conditions as revealed through club developments, a live adult education group has got under way, an association that is altruistic and without political affiliations of any kind. In addition, there is the further complicating fact that the district is very mixed racially.

With a wheelbase of 117 inches, this new Dodge 4-door Sedan provides roominess, comfort and driving ease of high degree. The sound-insulated body and massive fenders are attractively "aero-streamed." The interior is tailored and equipped in lavish manner. "Floating-Cushion" Wheel independent front wheel suspension, 7-point body ventilation, adjustable inside visors and many other features are standard.

The club is the outgrowth of a community effort to meet these conditions. One of the large factors in starting the organization was a study made by the joint liaison committee of the principals of the five schools, together with officials of the city's Crime Prevention Bureau and members of parents' associations and social service agencies. For three years this group has surveyed neighborhood conditions as they affected the school child. Visiting teachers, the link between school and home, helped.

The imperative need, it was decided, was a club where activities could be instituted that would attract not only boys with a leaning toward gangdom, but all young boys. The two social agencies then in the neighborhood, the group believed, needed to be supplanted. With the aid of private donations the club came into existence, and Civil Works Administration funds were provided to pay the salary of a club leader. Boys of 6 to 16 are enrolled.

The club's program differs from that of the usual boys' club in the variety of activities offered. For the active boy there are athletics and many interscholastic meets. For the studious there are stamp, newspaper and book clubs, nature study, boat building, interest groups to discover special proclivities and aptitudes; tap dancing and art work. On Sunday mornings a group attends a character-training course at the Spinoza Institute in the Roerich Museum Building.

Many city institutions are drawn upon. Trips around New York are a type of instructive diversion very popular with the boys, and include jaunts to Governors Island, the Lewisohn Stadium, the docks and various factories. Older boys go along as group leaders to explain the workings and background of plants visited. Pageants, entertainments and exhibitions of club work are being prepared for future programs.

These various attractions offered by the club appear to make a strong appeal. The story is told of one gang of six boys, all under 16, who prowled the streets by night, indulging in petty thievery, and by day intimidated small children by breaking up their sidewalk games, destroying paraphernalia. Even pedestrians were not immune from their annoying and frequently dangerous tricks.

When the Community Club started two members of this gang visited the clubrooms. The crime prevention officer of the district and the leader of the club both invited all the members to join. Not all of them accepted, but the leader did. He is now a member of what is known as the Inner Circle, the club unit composed of older boys who have proved themselves qualified to take charge of smaller groups of club members. With increasing membership the need is for more leaders to assist in the adjustment of new groups as they join. A girls' auxiliary is being formed.

According to one Bronx mother, the club has succeeded in clearing Bronx streets of loafers.

FRENCH OFFICIALS TO ATTEND TORONTO EXHIBITION

Canadian National Exhibition directors have invited the Mayor of St. Malo, France, where Jacques Cartier left on his voyage that resulted in the discovery of the St. Lawrence River, to attend the fourth Cartier centenary celebrations here this year.

Mayors of 34 other French cities also have been invited. A large party of members of the French Academy of Medicine, French Bar Association and other officials of France are coming to the Dominion to attend the celebration.

Organization's "Minutes"

The essentials of the minutes of an organization are: Name of organization; time and place of meeting; kind of meeting, whether regular, special, adjourned, etc.; the fact of the presence or absence of the regular chairman and secretary and the names of their substitutes, if they are absent; whether the minutes of the preceding meeting were read and approved; all main motions made at the meeting, except those that were withdrawn, and points of order and appeals, whether sustained or lost, and all other motions not lost or withdrawn; usually the names of members introducing main motions are recorded, but not the names of seconds.

Grasshopper's Mausoleum

Millions of grasshoppers that lived many years ago when glaciers were in the making are preserved in a huge glacier 12 miles from Cook, Mont., on old mining camp just outside the northeast corner of Yellowstone National park. The grasshoppers thus embalmed are believed to have been caught in a snowstorm as they swarmed over the region north of Yellowstone National park. More snows on top increased the pressure and eventually the snows became a glacier, forming a mausoleum for the insects. Today these insects may plainly be seen and as the glacier recedes they are left lying on the ground. —Exchange.

Constructive Sleep

To make our sleep constructive we should review in our minds near the retiring hour some of the things we want to do on the coming day, so that our so-called subconscious processes can be active on these things to be accomplished rather than with disturbing dreams. Taking our tasks to bed for solution helps the tasks and also helps sleep if we are otherwise emotionally calm. The person who keeps his mind at work on a constructive problem while he is asleep does not have disturbed sleep if his emotions are stable and if life is faced with a smile. —Hygeia Magazine.

DR. DAMROSCH ON MUSIC

"An interesting and highly commendable feature has been the weekly broadcasts given by some of our greatest pianists, organists, violinists and singers. The fact that many of these concerts of music of the higher class have been sponsored by commercial organizations seems to prove that a change of heart has come to the officials of our great manufacturing companies and their advertising agencies. They are realizing that the great American public has

Dr. Walter Damrosch,
Dean of American Conductors

awakened to the higher pleasures of art and are demanding real music over the radio. I welcome this change with joyous acclaim of trumpets and drums . . .

"I should be glad to see a concerted movement started by our educators and labor leaders, and all those interested not only in the material but in the cultural development of our young people towards having radios and

A TREASURE HUNT

A vessel suitable for the navigation of the upper tributaries of the Amazon River, the Rio Negro, the Uapupes and the Yappira Rivers, has been secured by Captain A. E. Wehner of Vancouver. It is proposed to launch a Treasure Hunt in the land of the Incas.

The power possibilities of these rivers in Brazil will be investigated also and there will be a general study of conditions prevailing in the country now inhabited by wild Indian tribes.

MUST GET CONSENT TO VISIT NUDISTS

Health department inspectors who visit San Francisco nudist colonies must carry the written consent of their wives, Dr. J. C. Greiger, health director, has ruled.

"Some inspectors' wives want to know if their husbands are going into a nudist camp—and to avoid any complaints, our inspectors will first obtain written consent from their families," Dr. Greiger said.

LIABILITY FOR SWIMMING POOL ACCIDENT

A municipality is not liable for the death of a boy in a park swimming pool, according to a decision of supreme court in a case involving the city of Cudahy, Wisconsin, last year. The court held that—

"It is apparent that the right to recover from a municipality, for injuries sustained because of its creation or maintenance of a nuisance in its governmental capacity does not exist in favor of a person toward whom the municipality was likewise acting in its governmental capacity. As that consideration is controlling, it is fatal to plaintiffs' case that in creating and maintaining the public bathing place, in which their son was drowned, while he was bathing therein, the defendant was acting purely in a governmental capacity toward him."

A NEW FLY PAPER

A new "Fly Paper" is announced, not the sticky kind which was made to attract unwary and unsuspecting flies and do them to death, but an elegant product with a splendid water mark. From Chicago, the news is broadcast that a new paper is to be manufactured and that a new use has been found for the erstwhile germ infested housefly, hitherto the reason for launching hundreds of Swat the Fly Campaigns. Flies, millions of them, will contribute their wings and legs to make this super-fine paper, but it is intimated that there are not enough flies in America to supply the demand of the industry and that carloads of flies will be imported from Europe. Surely this is depriving America of her rights and encouraging European countries to capture trade by mass production. Unless we greatly under-estimate American enterprise, importation of flies will not be permitted, but we prophesy that the next move will be the announcement of some aggressive pioneer telling of the introduction of "Fly Farming" in America and that the home needs will be supplied. Then the Fly Paper manufacturers will be able to advertise that their paper is manufactured from Home Raised Flies, the bigger and better kind; those milk fed, contented and handsome flies, duly registered.

loudspeakers placed in every school and college in the country. Because their schools are not provided with radios, there are still millions of students who are debarred from taking advantage of the musical contributions and of other educational activities which the radio offers free of any expense to the schools.

"Perhaps such great organizations, interested in the cultural development of our young people, as the Parent-Teacher Association or the National Federation of Music Clubs, could be induced to interest themselves in this movement."

Martin was talking at the dinner table about the inconsistency of woman.

"These girls who protest that they are never going to marry!" he broke out. "Everybody knows they will believe their own words at the first opportunity."

He paused, and evidently hoped that Mrs. Martin would come to the rescue of her sex. But that discreet woman held her tongue.

"Why, Mary," he continued, "you remember how it was with yourself. I heard you say more than once that you wouldn't marry the best man alive."

"Well, I didn't," said Mrs. Martin.

Mrs. James Reid, accompanied by Miss A. Brosseau, spent Friday last in Montreal.

Mr. Forest Waters, of Montreal, was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. Gardiner on Thursday.

Mrs. Rupert Reid returned home on Tuesday, after a sojourn in the R. V. Hospital.

Mrs. Ardill, Mrs. MacQuaig, Mrs. Fletcher and Mrs. Lemuel Wilson are attending the W. I. Convention at Macdonald College this week.

Mrs. H. J. Deacon visited friends in Ottawa on Sunday.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Gardiner last Friday. The evening was enjoyably passed in playing cards. After refreshments had been served, the Rev. H. Cousens was asked to make a presentation to Miss R. M. Cullen, bride elect, from the Brownsburg Presbyterian Church Choir. The gift was a silver utility plate in Sheffield design. Everyone joined in wishing Miss Cullen happiness for the future.

ALL-BRAN MADE HIM REGULAR AS CLOCK

Delicious Cereal Corrected His Constipation

We quote from his voluntary and enthusiastic letter: "After reading your advertisement, I decided to use ALL-BRAN. I had been taking pills right along. But now I don't have to take pills."

"I take ALL-BRAN every morning, and am as regular as the clock. It has done me a lot of good."

Stephen Higgins (address furnished upon request).

Common constipation frequently causes headaches, loss of appetite and energy. Yet this condition can be overcome, usually, by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

Tests show this delicious cereal provides "bulk" and vitamin B to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN is also rich in iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently this clears out the intestinal wastes.

Isn't this safer than taking harmful patent medicines? Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal. If seriously ill, see your doctor. ALL-BRAN makes no claim to be a "cure-all."

Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal with milk or cream. Use it also in making fluffy muffins, and breads, etc. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg's London, Ontario.

What Kind of Equipment Do Farmers Want Most?

A NATIONAL magazine, in a recent investigation, asked farmers what kind of labor-saving equipment was most urgently wanted by them. The investigation showed the interesting fact that milking machines were second on the list.

This isn't surprising. Few people like to milk. It's hard work that must be done—seven days a week—the first thing in the morning and the last thing at night. It is one job that most dairymen have made up their minds to get away from, and many have already done so by means of De Laval Milkers.

De Laval Milkers are used by the United States Government. They are used by the world's biggest dairies and on the world's best cows. Many thousands of smaller dairymen use them under every conceivable milking condition.

Sooner or later you are going to have one, and the sooner you get one to work in your dairy the better you will be pleased. Why not give us an opportunity to tell you more about the De Laval Milker? You will not be obligated in any way.

De Laval Milkers

There is a De Laval Milker for every need and purse. There are two kinds of De Laval Milkers—the famous "Magnetic," which is the world's best milker, and the well-known "Utility." In both of these types you can find a De Laval Milker to fit your need and purse.

A BIOGRAPHY

Continuation of the biography of my renowned uncle, has been a long time in forthcoming for the reason that where I had thought I would find no difficulty in obtaining information was the very place that nothing seems to be definitely remembered about him.

As I mentioned before, he took his Arts course at Queen's College, Kingston, and his Divinity course at Morin College, Quebec. His class-mates while at Morin College, as far as I can learn, are no more. His youngest sister, who still survives him, seems to remember nothing but the fact that he attended Morin College and graduated from there with credit, which I can confirm from the fact that I have in my possession the many handsome first prizes he won while he attended there, for Latin, Greek, Hebrew, Mathematics, English, etc. During his vacations while he attended Morin College, I know from himself that he continued to serve behind the counter of his father's grocery store during the week, while on Sundays he supplied the vacant pulpits of the churches and mission stations in and around Quebec City; and to the present time he is well and most favorably remembered by many of what then were very young members of the families he preached to in those outlying districts. So well is he remembered that, even as late as a year ago, some of them came this way from the United States to see if he was still alive; and during his lifetime it quite frequently happened that old members of former congregations went considerably out of their way to pay him a short visit. Frequently these were not folk in the humble walks of life, though they belonged to many classes, from his school-mates, class-mates at college, lumber jacks, whom he had come to know while he had worked in the mission for the lumber camps, business men, and senators—all claimed his friendship. I see I have omitted tramps also, for like the parson of Oliver Goldsmith in his famous poem The Deserted Village, "the long remembered beggar was frequently his guest." Indeed, day or night, his door was never locked and it now and again happened that when I arose in the early morning I found a man, sometimes two, and once fourteen men! sleeping in his kitchen. The latter incident was on a very cold night, and we had heard them enter and make a fire to warm themselves and sink down exhausted; this was at about one thirty a.m. They proved to be a number of book-keepers, shipping clerks, and others, used to indoor employment; they were out of a job. Then some employment bureau in the city had induced them to come out to the country in the dead of winter and try working on a stone quarry! Needless to say their venture proved a total failure, for in less than three hours they were discharged with worn-out mittens, blistered hands, and worse, no money and nowhere to go, and they were left to find their way back to the city as best they could in the cold and darkness of a winter night, below zero—A lot of rather fine fellows out of luck. To make a long story short they breakfasted heartily from the parson's larder, blessed him with every good wish possible, and struck out walking for Montreal.

Montreal Mayor is Movie Fan

Camillien Houde, Mayor of Montreal, is a moving picture fan both before and after the pictures are produced. He likes to see them made as well as see them on the screen. Here he is shown with Roy Tache, Associated Screen sound film photographer "listening in" while this Montreal company is producing one of its Canadian films. You'll see the film in theatres soon but Mayor Houde is away ahead of you.

DODGE - DE SOTO

Direct Dealer for Brownsburg and District

New 1934 117" wheelbase Dodge Six . . . bigger, stronger, more rugged than ever . . . with independent front springs, Floating Power, all-steel body, 7-Point Ventilation, built in luggage compartment.

OLD RIGID TYPE FRONT AXLE—One wheel hitting a bump causes the whole car to tilt. The springs are called upon to perform several duties and steering problems are complicated.

WITH DODGE "FLOATING CUSHION" WHEELS as the shock is taken up by the long, soft coil spring of special alloy steel. No shock is transmitted to frame or to the other wheel. Perfect steering is achieved.

TWO NEW BIGGER DODGE CARS

Again Dodge offers you greater value for your dollar. Two, big rugged cars—one on 114 inch wheelbase with 77 horsepower, priced right down among the low priced cars . . . another on 117 inch wheelbase with 82 horsepower.

All the features that made such amazing records for Dodge in 1933 plus a host of new features that will make even greater records for Dodge in 1934.

"Floating Cushion" wheels give Dodge superior independent front springing . . . Make bumps into ripples . . . make ripples disappear.

Floating Power engine mountings absorb engine vibration and prevent it reaching the passengers. This eliminates one of the chief causes of driving fatigue.

"7-Point Ventilation" banishes drafts without robbing you of the "touring car" pleasure of wind when you want it.

Check Dodge feature-by-feature by the unique "Show-Down" plan. This simple plan enables you to compare Dodge against all competitors. Shows you in black and white the reasons for the increasing popularity of Dodge.

See the new Dodges . . . drive them . . . Prove to your own satisfaction that Dodge gives better value before you buy a car.

NEW DE SOTO THE LOWEST PRICED AIRFLOW CAR

Satisfy yourself that a ride in the Airflow De Soto is more restful than sitting in your favourite armchair. Prove to your own satisfaction that you can write a letter, read a book, or go comfortably to sleep at any speed.

Don't take anybody's word for it. Ride in the Airflow De Soto yourself and you'll know why we say this is not just a "streamlined car"—it's a new, effortless way to travel.

Learn why you ride between the wheels, not over them. Why you ride inside the frame, not on top of it. Get the full explanation of Dynamic Balance, Floating Ride, Airflow and Floating Power.

Get the sense of safety that comes from riding in a car forty times as strong as conventional cars. Equipped with self-equalized hydraulic brakes for swift, safe stops at any speed.

Get ready for the ride of your life in the Airflow De Soto—the lowest priced Airflow Car.

Three big people find plenty of room in the front seat of the Airflow De Soto. Beautiful modern chromium seat frames permit the air to circulate beneath the seat . . . add to the draftless comfort of the Airflow De Soto. Floating Power engine mountings eliminate all vibration.

New distribution of weight gives hitherto undreamed of riding qualities. Passengers sit cradled between the axles at the point of least movement. Placing the engine over the front axle permits rear seat to be placed 20 inches in front of the rear axle. The Airflow De Soto has longer, softer front springs.

The six-passenger Airflow De Soto Sedan—A car with seats like chesterfields, front and rear . . . built to carry six passengers in comfort. Powered by a 100 horsepower aluminum head engine.

NEW DODGE TRUCKS

Don't Buy Any Truck Till You Compare With Dodge

You've got to be able to "deliver the goods" when you make a challenge. We challenge you to compare Dodge Trucks point-for-point against all other trucks. We know that Dodge will come out first in any fair comparison because we know that Dodge trucks have more to offer.

Get the Dodge Truck "Show-Down" plan from us . . . it gives you a list of Dodge truck features . . . and it lists the features of other trucks. You have before you in black and white exactly what you can buy for your dollar. You can see for yourself and prove for yourself that Dodge trucks lead the field in costly features by an almost unbelievable margin.

THAT FULL-FLOATING REAR AXLE WILL GIVE MORE SERVICE!

THOSE ROLLER BEARING UNIVERSALS WILL TRANSMIT MORE POWER!

THOSE VALVE SEAT INSERTS WILL SAVE GAS!

THAT OIL FILTER WILL SAVE OIL!

THOSE HYDRAULIC BRAKES WILL SAVE TIRES!

Greater Profits With Your Dodge Truck

Take a look at these features . . . they save Dodge Truck owners gas . . . oil . . . tires . . . and repair . . . yet they are only a few of the many superior Dodge features.

Dodge Trucks have hydraulic brakes (less wear on tires), cast iron braking surfaces, full floating rear axle, full pressure lubrication, 4-bearing crankshaft, valve-seat inserts, roller bearing universals . . . eighteen extra value features in all.

You save on the cost of a Dodge Truck . . . you save on upkeep and repairs for as long as you own the truck . . . you increase your profits and build up your business because Dodge Trucks are beautiful—because they are more dependable, more reliable both on the short trip and the long haul.

Minor Mishaps at the Exhibition

Vaudeville Performer Made Mis-step

Lad Sustained Injured Eye

Prize Colt Run Over on Highway

Child Lost Parents

Considering the large crowd in attendance and the bad state of the grounds and track, mishaps at the Fair last week were few. The one or two accidents might certainly have been more serious, and the only irreparable loss was that of a young colt run over by an automobile while returning from the grounds on Saturday. The animal was so badly injured that it had to be shot.

Performing before a crowded grandstand on Friday evening a comely and agile blonde in the team of Leona and Emile, presenting a novelty jumping act, came to grief and fell heavily on the platform. The young lady jumped from a spring board onto her partner's shoulders, meanwhile reversing her position, landing backwards. She missed her footing however, and fell from a considerable height onto the boards, injuring her side. She was carried into the dressing room unconscious. Although unable to appear in her act the following day, it was announced she was not seriously hurt.

Heavy rain made the acrobatic and vaudeville work most precarious, the floor and properties being both wet and dangerous.

LACHUTE BRASS BAND CONCERTS SPONSORED BY MOLSONS

The Lachute Brass Band appeared last Saturday evening in their smart new uniforms, presenting a full program of music in the Memorial Park bandstand before an appreciative audience. The band has made marked progress under the leadership of Mr. Guenette. They have been enlisted in the Molson Breweries summer band concert series organized throughout this section of Quebec, and similar concerts will continue in Lachute for the next ten weeks by the local band, and sponsored by Molsons. This feature might prove an incentive to install a few long needed benches, for the benefit of audiences in the Park.

KNIGHTS ELECT OFFICERS

At the annual meeting of the Knights of Columbus held recently for the Lachute Council, No. 2752, the following officers were elected: L. E. Dumais, Grand Knight; J. D. Lepine, D.G.N.; A. Brunelle, Chanc.; J. H. St. Onge, Fin. Sec.; J. F. Lavigne, Sec'y.; J. O. Bourgault, Treas.; J. A. Gosselin, M.C.; F. K. Hind, T. O. Cooper, P. Lafleur, Trustees; Ph. Valois, Advocate; Dr. E. Lalande, Phys.; H. E. Desjardins, Int.; Jos. Belanger and C. Couvrette, Gs.

The general discomfort of driving between Lachute and Brownsburg has been greatly increased by a detour through Mr. Erskine McOuat's sugar bush. Formerly a beautiful trail through the woods, this road is now a gauntlet of ruts and bumps for the unfortunate motorists who made it that way. Construction on the Brownsburg Road is progressing slowly.

ANOTHER PRISONER ESCAPED JAIL AT ST. JEROME

Awaiting Trial for C. P. R. Robbery, St. Eustache

Albert Gagnon, alias Chartand, escaped some time last Saturday from the St. Jerome jail, where he was awaiting trial at the next sitting of the Criminal Assizes for theft at the C.P.R. station at St. Eustache. His escape was noticed at 6.30 o'clock on Saturday morning by Josephat Nadon, the caretaker of the jail. Gagnon's shoes filled with water were found in the jail yard by the guards and it was concluded that he had escaped during Saturday morning's rainstorm. Automobile tire tracks found near the jail lead the police to believe that Gagnon had been aided in his escape by a passing motorist. He made his escape by breaking one of the steel bars of the window and sliding down a rope made of bedclothes.

SIDELIGHTS OF THE SHOW

High steppers at the Fair were not confined exclusively to the show-ring.

The Ford talkies were located too near the midway. Box office orators drowned the oral effect of the film.

Local base-ball pitcher found little favor with the Hit-the-Skittle showman. His curves were too accurate!

Kansas Farmer let loose several wise-cracks at the expense of the missus. Too bad we cannot recall a few!

The poultry house closed down prompt at 6 p.m.—to give the birds their regulation beauty sleep.

Hats off to the Dallaire Brothers, local acrobats, contortionists. . . . Services available for removing car batteries or connecting the plumbing behind the sink.

Rain? Who cared!—Kids hurrying with their lunches Saturday at 9 a.m. (Admission free.)

The airplanes arrived before schedule. When folks started looking they had gone again!

The happiest moment—the old cow, coiffed and manicured, getting back into her pasture, after four days of what's-it-all-about.

IMPL. TOBACCO SIGNS GROWERS' AGREEMENT

Montreal, Que., June 18:—Gray Miller, President of the Imperial Tobacco Company of Canada, Ltd., states that "The Ontario flue cured tobacco growers are now practically assured for 1934 a price based on 27c per lb., for an average crop. Although we are still without any assurance that other manufacturers will follow our lead, we have now agreed to meet the request of the growers for a 27c average price, and we have given them our definite undertaking in writing to adhere to that basis for the 1934 crop, provided they can secure an agreement from the other manufacturers to pay the same price."

Magistrate Lawlor of Hawkesbury criticized the police man who arrested a boy for riding his bicycle on the sidewalk. . . . Local citizens would appreciate a constable to irradiate this menace in Lachute, and also a magistrate to frown severely on the offense.

Looking Back at Lachute Fair

Success Unspoiled by Miserable Weather

Lachute Spring Fair closed its gates Saturday night on the 1934 show of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society, which, in spite of adverse weather once again, was a gratifying success in every respect.

Reports of the Secretary-Manager are rather surprising, and indicate what an unprecedented turn-out might have been expected, had the weather been less treacherous. In every respect the figures exceeded those of last year, including higher gate and grandstand receipts, bigger attendance, and bigger entry lists—in certain cases establishing a record. Even the midway made a bigger hit than in the past seven years at Lachute Fair.

Horses and Ayrshire Cattle Took the Lead

Although there was a representative showing in most classes and breeds, the horse exhibits broke previous records and the Ayrshire cattle entries were otherwise most notable.

Ontario did not send a very strong representation, but this being the first year in which exhibits were eligible from across the river, it is hoped the incentive will be greater next year for a stronger showing.

There was no question as to the superior quality of the stock, the cattle and horses appearing particularly to good advantage during the ring parades on Saturday afternoon. One recognized authority made no secret of his conviction, that Lachute Fair this year excelled the Toronto Show in the matter of livestock.

MACDONALD LECTURER ADVOCATES EXPRESSION "OH YEAH!"

Professor Gives Refreshing Viewpoint

American English as Good as Mother Country's.

Too many persons are under the mistaken impression that the English language as spoken in England is superior to that used in Canada and the United States, according to Prof. H. D. Brunt, Ph.D., of the department of English, Macdonald College, at a luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Montreal last week, speaking on the subject of "Language Fetishes." The professor took exception to this sense of superiority and "protested in the name of 140,000,000 Canadians and Americans who will not be dictated to by 40,000,000 Englishmen."

Language, Prof. Brunt said, is a plastic thing to be moulded as the individual wishes. There is no greater authority behind expressions originating in England than behind those brought into being in this country. "It is not a question of being true to the British flag or in a spirit of derision, depreciating the English tongue as it is spoken in England, that I make these remarks, but rather as a statement of fact, that I point out the fallacy of certain language fetishes."

"England and the United States are only 400 words apart by actual count, and a great many of this number are slang words. Personally, I like the softer English intonation, provided, of course, that it does not come from the neighborhood of Oxford. As far as slang is concerned, I would emphasize the fact that a large part of our language has been enriched through the introduction of slang. The greatest contribution in this regard has

LATE REV. A. MacGREGOR B.A., BORN AND EDUCATED IN ARGENTEUIL

The following references to Rev. Mr. MacGregor are quoted from an article in the June number of the Presbyterian Record by the editor of that periodical.

"It was a sad message brought to us Monday morning, April 23, that Rev. Mr. MacGregor had passed away that morning in his sleep. We looked upon Mr. MacGregor as a close friend, having known him since college days. He showed himself friendly always and everywhere and thus, according to the proverb, readily made friends. This was the last tribute paid to him that we heard, and it came from the congregation which he had served for the short period of three weeks, that he had already won the affection of his people. It was the observation of all who knew him at all familiarly that he always radiated happiness and goodwill."

He was in his sixty-ninth year. His birthplace was St. Andrews East, Que. He was educated at the public school and Lachute Academy. He graduated from McGill University in 1894 with the degree of B.A. He then entered the Presbyterian College, Montreal, from which he graduated in 1897.

He preached for several years in Ontario. Then he went West to Tuxford, Sask., where he ministered from 1904 to 1912. His next responsibility was as financial agent for Moose Jaw Presbyterian Boys' College with headquarters at Moose Jaw. To this he gave himself with ardor for nine years. The next call was to serve as Secretary of the British Immigration Society and in 1925 he came to Toronto to occupy this position. This work was continued until the tide of immigration ceased and the Society disbanded in 1932. His last charge was Long Branch, Ont., where he ministered for three Sundays only when death called him.

He is survived by Mrs. MacGregor, formerly Miss Grace Barron of Lachute, Que., and six children. Following the services at his home in Toronto, the body was taken to St. Andrews, his birthplace, for burial.

Paving operations have commenced on the King's Highway between Hawkesbury and Vankleek Hill.

BAPTISTS CONVENE IN BROWNSBURG

In spite of the inclement weather a large delegation of Baptists from the Ottawa Association gathered in Brownsburg, on Sunday, where meetings were held in both the Maple Avenue Baptist and Presbyterian Churches in the afternoon and in the United Church in the evening, when Dr. Jessie Allyn, of India, gave an illustrated address on his work. On Wednesday more delegates arrived and during the day.

Most helpful meetings were held in the Baptist Church and a fitting conclusion in an address by Professor M. L. Orchard, of McMaster University in the evening. The Evangelism first struck by the Oxford Groups from Ottawa on Tuesday was carried through the sessions, and with that challenge before them the delegates have returned home to meet again for their 100th Session in Ottawa next year. The Officers for the coming year are: Mr. T. J. B. Ringrose, Ottawa, Moderator; Rev. N. McCausland, Vankleek Hill, Vice-Moderator; Rev. A. S. McGrath, Westboro, Clerk.

AUNT JEAN'S RIDDLE
NO. 1

They buried him deep in the soft warm earth
This queer old lumpy Jack,
With eyes all over his body,
Yes—even on his back.

They pressed the earth down firmly,
These wee, wee maidens three,
Then danced and skipped around his grave,
And chuckled "Now we will see."

Can you guess who or what he was, children?

THE BROWNIES' FIRST DAY OF SCHOOL

The school-room of the Brownie Clan was under a huge bunch of bracken. Their blackboard was supported by a giant toadstool, tiny toadstools were their seats.

Brownies do not go to school in winter. They are quite too busy helping the Wind Elves hurl snow around, and whistling Whoo-hoo, whoo-hoo under the windows where little folks are asleep, and waking them. But winter had been over for a long time now and these gay, giddy little people were starting to school once more.

The Imp of Mischief was turning somersaults as fast as he could, when suddenly he went whack up against the teacher, Miss Spinster, as she was coming into the classroom. Her books were scattered in all directions; her glasses flew from her nose as far as their chain would let them.

Quite angry, Miss Spinster seized the Imp by one ear and walked him up to the front of the room close by the blackboard. Putting a history book into his hand she said "You stand there and study your history, Master Imp. Stand perfectly still and do not make the slightest noise."

The Imp made a horrible face the moment the teacher turned her back. This made the other Brownies laugh, which vexed Miss Spinster still more. "Silence at once!" she said. "How dare you laugh in school? To punish you all alike, I will give you an example in arithmetic which will keep you quiet while you are puzzling it out. What does five and five make, when it doesn't make ten?"

This was certainly a puzzling question for the Brownies, whose only object in life was to have fun, and they were quiet for a long time, while Miss Spinster carefully copied all their names into her journal.

The Imp, who was usually first in the arithmetic class, guessed the answer to the question after a time and put the numbers 55 on the blackboard. The class noticed the figures and shouted all together, quite loudly "Fifty Five!" At the same time they were all watching the Imp, who was busily rubbing the figures off the board with his back.

The teacher could not understand how the entire class happened to give her the correct answer at the same time, but felt that the Imp had had something to do with it. Calling him to her desk she took the history book from his hand and said "Now tell us something of your history", (meaning of course the history lessons in the book.)

The Imp winked gaily at his class-mates and said "I am the Imp of Mischief. I love doughnuts, great, big doughnuts with their holes filled with peaches and cream. I am the Wise One who can tell you all things. I can tell you something that a dog cannot do, also why your nose is not twelve inches long."

"Oh, can you indeed?" said Miss Spinster with an angry gleam in her eyes.

"Why, yes," said The Imp, "a dog can't tear holes in his pants, and your nose could not be twelve inches long for then it would be a foot."

This made the other Brownies giggle. Miss Spinster caught up the pointer, shook it at them fiercely, then brought it down with a whack on the Imp's shoulders. Pushing him outside the door she said "An extra punishment you will go at once to Jack-In-The-Pulpit and listen to a long lecture from him. The others will have to go with you too, as it is getting late and I have an appointment with Cinderella at noontide."

As she was closing the door behind them she added, "See that you come back to-morrow prepared to be better children." And the frightened wee Brownies all together replied "We will, Miss Spinster."

Next story "What is a Sun-bonnet for?"

Aunt Jean.

"Our minister is so good that he won't even perform a marriage ceremony." "What's that got to do with his being good?" "He says his conscience won't let him participate in any games of chance."

TOOK PILLS FOR YEARS, THEN CEREAL BROUGHT RELIEFKellogg's ALL-BRAN Corrected
His Constipation

If you are troubled by common constipation, read this letter:

"Just a word in appreciation of what your ALL-BRAN has done for my health. For years, I had been dosing myself with pills and other dopes for constipation."

"I decided to try Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Now I am in good health, and haven't taken a drop of medicine for six months." — Thos. F. Little (address furnished upon request).

Headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness—any one of these may be caused by common constipation. Yet this condition can be corrected, usually, by eating a delicious cereal.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" and vitamin B to help promote regularity. ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. How much safer than patent medicines! Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal.

If seriously ill, see your doctor. ALL-BRAN makes no claim to be a "cure-all."

Serve as a cereal or use in cooking. At all grocers in the red-and-green package. Get ALL-BRAN, and not a part-bran product. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

TOWN PLANNING EXEMPLIFIED

From an English exchange, "Town and Country Planning," we take liberty to extract the following parody, written for a jubilation at Letchworth, England. The ultra-planning applied in the growth of Letchworth Garden City is widely and favorably known. From the following gem, one may conclude the proven principles of planning are also a source of pride to those who live there and enjoy the fruits of studied development.

"OURSELVES WHEN YOUNG"

From the Rubaiyat of the early residents of Letchworth who settled there between the years 1903 and 1908 and reassembled at Ichnield Hall, Letchworth, on Saturday, February 17th, 1934.
Ourselves when young did buy a Big Estate,
Where to from Old Abodes we would migrate;
Our purpose was, in Rustic Hamlets three,
A new invented City to create.
Three hundred Souls were dwelling on that Ground—
Not many more than Norman William found—
We thought it wrong those Acres should be void,
While Folks elsewhere too thickly did abound.
So we propos'd a "Marriage" Bond be seal'd, Uniting Urban Industry and Field
"Tis somewhat sudden," said the Rustic Three
"High time" we answer'd and they had to yield.

We came One Thousand strong upon a Day
And cut the ceremonial Clod of Clay;
"Ah! why," you ask, "was such a chance let go To cut ten times ten thousand Clods away?"
Before we laid a Brick or laid a Plot
We plann'd our City to a Line and Dot,
And, lest our Dividend should rise too high,
We made it fast in statutory Knot.
Five eager years made up our City's Spring,
We spard not Brick nor By-law to up-bring
That hopeful Child as Sample to the Land—
Sans Slums or Smoke or any noxious Thing.
So from "To-morrow" did To-day unfold,
Then was our City like a Tale not told;
Now, growing up in midst of Green Estate,
We trust it has not started to grow old.
—Harold E. Hare.

WASHING SWEATERS

This is a year of lovely sweaters and to keep them that way they need careful washing. Most of you I am sure, know that the water must be very soft (I like to use a pinch of borax to help soften it), that wash water and rinse water should be luke warm and that woollens should never be wrung. Before I start to wash a sweater I lay flat on the table and draw an outline of it. My table is a porcelain top so that is quite convenient, but the outline could be drawn on a paper just as easily. After the sweater has been washed by squeezing and then rinsed by the same method, I put it on a bath towel and slip one inside, then I squeeze and pat to absorb considerable water. Then lay it on your outline and pull or stretch it exactly into place. Be very careful to get the edges perfectly flat. Carefully slip a hanger into place and hang in the sun and wind until dry. Press under a damp cloth and your sweater will look like new, and will retain its original size and shape.

OUR COMMENT ON THE INTERNES' STRIKE

When seventy-five French-Canadian internes went on strike, in protest against the appointment of Dr. R. S. Rabinovitch to the Notre Dame Hospital staff, they exploited the Race Cry in a manner which ill behooves the high ideals of the medical profession. Ethics, in medicine, are exacting; they sometimes pass all understanding by the layman. But we believe there are few experienced practitioners who will find excuse for these young doctors, who have abused the ideals of their craft with tactics more befitting to cheap politics.

A PREMIER CANADIAN SPORTSMAN

Canadians of the sporting world were deeply moved over the sudden passing of Charlie "Chuck" Gardiner, of Winnipeg.

Although a late Chicago net-minder, "Chuck" was a Canadian product, who rose to recognition as the premier goaler of present times, and won outstanding merit on the All-Star team.

We pay tribute to the late Charlie Gardiner, for his brilliance in the nets, for his consistent support to his Black Hawk team-mates, and to his great sportsmanship, recognized by all members of the N.H.L. and by hockey fans of U.S.A. and Canada.

As a closing acknowledgment, we say—may Canada produce many more sportsmen of the calibre of Charlie "Chuck" Gardiner.

OUTSTANDING AMENDMENTS TO QUEBEC MUNICIPAL CODE

Two highly interesting measures have been adopted during the last session of Quebec Legislature, one of which will affect nearly all cities and towns in the province while the other will appeal to communities whose tax-paying population is composed largely of summer residents.

The now celebrated Bill No. 19 concerns the compulsory sale of certain immovables for taxes, and has been given due publicity here in Lachute for the benefit of the delinquent taxes, and has been given due publicity here in Lachute for the benefit of the delinquent taxpayers whom it may effect.

The Act, as it applies to cities and towns, as well as to school corporations whose jurisdiction extends over the territory of a City and Town municipality, now compels the Secretary of a municipal corporation to sell the immovables on which arrears of taxes, for two years or more, are due. The law enumerates the procedures to be followed by the officials. Refusal or neglect to conform to this law is punishable by a fine of $300.00 or imprisonment of three months.

The owner of an immovable may obtain, from a judge or district magistrate of the district in which the immovable is situated, a delay to pay the amount of municipal and school taxes owed by him, if he proves that he is unable to make such a payment or that he would be able to make it, if he is granted that delay by the judge. The Bill is thus designed to cope with delinquents who are well able to pay their taxes—a class which has increased in number during recent years and is prolific on almost every tax-roll.

The second amendment permits a municipal council to decree that elections will be held in the municipality in July instead of January or May as heretofore. The object of this law is to permit summer resorts to hold their elections during the summer, so that the electors, who are absent from the municipality in January or May may exercise their right to vote.

An Act concerning outside traders is designed also to eliminate the widespread confusion over levying of licenses for such pursuits. The measure decrees that no municipal corporation shall oblige a commercial traveller to procure a license for taking orders or selling goods, wares, or merchandise by sample, catalogue or price-list, or for delivering his merchandise, notwithstanding any provision to the contrary in any statute whatsoever; provided that such orders or sales be taken or made with merchants, traders or manufacturers only, in the ordinary course of their trade.

Thoughts in Passing

By L. W. Armstrong

The Economic War.

A number of years ago a history professor of a Western University stated that the next European war would be an economic one. Recent developments in that part of the world indicate that he certainly knew his history.

It might be asked: How was it possible for him to foretell the future of Europe so accurately? Was it not merely a good guess?

There is no doubt but that this man based his calculations on the probable outcome of the Treaty of Versailles.

It is generally accepted that this Treaty is as disgraceful a blot in the history of civilized nations as the war which preceded it.

Primarily, the conditions of this Treaty were calculated to reduce Germany to the position of a second-rate power and to ruin her economically.

The student of history could have pointed out to those who were responsible for this Treaty that there were many instances where such ridiculous treaties wrought incalculable harm.

Considering the situation from the standpoint of those who were on hand at the time, we realized that it could hardly have been otherwise.

Over four years of frightful war had embittered the Allies to such a degree that their

Ottawa, June 19.—When the House of Commons starts giving third readings to four important bills, all in five minutes, and sending them on their way to the Senate—that's a sure sign that the session is drawing near to a close. And when a bulky Shipping Bill, weighing a couple of pounds and containing over 700 sections, rides through committee at the rate of 100 sections an hour—as it did last week, that's another sure sign. There isn't much left on the order paper, and the only important bill yet to come down is the Public Works program, to relieve unemployment. The average guess for prorogation is the last week in June. It has been a momentous and strenuous session, and there will be loud sighs of relief from many points, both on Parliament Hill and throughout the country, when it is all over.

What About the Stevens Committee?

Where will the adjournment of parliament find the price spreads committee? It is obvious now that a considered report, with adequate recommendations, in the life of the present session, is a physical impossibility. The inquiry itself won't be more than two-thirds over by the end of June, and there will still be the need of considering suitable remedies. Hon. H. H. Stevens has been overwhelmed with demands for additional inquiries. People want the coal situation examined, the fishermen want a probe into the spreads on fish, members of parliament want an inquiry into the cost of agricultural implements, and so on and on. As it is, the printed evidence of the inquiry runs to over 3000 pages, and the committee has sat regularly for four months. I've questioned a number of members of the committee recently about possible action arising out of their findings but they all confess they don't know yet what they can even recommend.

The upshot of it is that the investigation will probably have to be continued. The committee can, by special arrangement, be given power to sit during the recess. Some of the members, who live far away, won't want to spend the summer at Ottawa. Another suggestion would be the creation of a royal commission. But it would be much more satisfactory to have some, at least, of the present members on the organization which completes the work, because of the long and valuable background.

Speeding Up Election Campaigns

Those drastic alterations in the franchise act, aimed at the Doukhobors and setting up a 'language test' didn't get any farther than what might be called tentative 'draft' legislation. The government, if it had any idea of introducing them soon saw that the opposition would make such a step impossible. As actually introduced, the legislation is mainly concerned with the voters' lists. Instead of new lists prepared every four years, the idea is to maintain a perpetual list, regularly revised. By getting a signature when a voter is registered, and comparing it with a second one when he proposes to vote, impersonation will be ended. The perpetual voters' list will, it is said, reduce the length of time between dissolution of parliament and voting by 30 days or so. Instead of 56 or 58 days it will be possible in 28 or 30 days. Two enumerators are to be engaged in every district, so as to avoid the possibility of unfair registration.

judgment was warped.

More than that, when it is realized that these men were faced with the stupendous task of literally remaking a torn and shattered world, it is little wonder that posterity proves it to have been beyond their ability.

Therefore, as we read from day to day of the increasingly strained relationships between European Nations we are brought to realize the awful consequences that result from endeavouring to rectify one mistake by instituting another.

The Inquiry Commission.

It is being noised about that the Stevens Inquiry Commission will dissolve when Parliament adjourns.

Surely the facts which have been unearthed are of sufficient importance to warrant its continuance.

Surely those facts are not now to be shelved until some indefinite future date.

Surely a halt is not to be called just at the time action is expected.

Surely the hopes of hundreds of people are not to be dashed by the entire affair turning out to be merely a part of our political machinery.

Freedom of Speech.

It is reported that a man in Montreal was found guilty of 'oral blasphemy' because of certain things he said in a speech entitled "The History of the Popes."

It would be thought that action had been taken against him because he made statements which were not founded on fact.

So far as was reported, such was not the case. It is said that the judge made it plain to the jury that the question is whether or not the "statements uttered by the accused were of malicious intent designed to influence beliefs of others."

Therefore, while it may be said that a man still has the right of free speech in this country, he must be very careful about his intentions.

It is said that no one among the six hundred who listened to this man objected to his remarks in any way.

That would seem to go a long way in proving that there was no 'malicious intent.'

This case is interesting in that it demonstrates just how little free speech there is in a country which has boasted of its liberty and which forms a part of an Empire famous in history for its liberty.

Just imagine what would have happened to Alexandre Dumas if he were alive to-day and it was proved that he was the author of "The Crimes of the Borgias."

But then, of course, perhaps his intentions were of the best.

A Suggestion.

When you plan your vacation this year why not include some entertaining reading matter?

If you have not read "The Good Companions" by J. B. Priestly, there is a good suggestion.

Mr. Priestly has been called 'the Modern Dickens,' so you may gather some idea from that as to the style.

It is a story which was meant to be read in a leisurely fashion. It has a humour of its own and should contribute a great deal to enjoyment of the vacation of one who is fond of reading.

MACDONALD LECTURER—

one's thoughts and emotions. It has its artistic side, with poets, orators, novelists and stylists using this means of conveying their messages powerfully, cogently and as beautifully as possible. "We should look upon these men in the same way as we do the great musicians, sculptors and pictorial artists. Language is one of the most universal of arts and you and I have within our power a means for artistic expression."

"England is not known to posterity for its great artists or sculptors. It has, however, produced a language that is responsive to every artistic impulse, being outstanding in drama, poetry or prose. This, in my opinion, is the great artistic achievement of the English race. Language is a scientific study, as worthy of attention as the study of genetics, chemistry or biology. It has a great body of material embracing acquired and organized knowledge."

Much Grammar Useless

English grammar, Prof. Brunt pointed out, is at least

25 years behind everyday speech. It could be put on 10 typewritten pages. "We have a noiseless grammatical machinery. The Germans, for instance, wear a neuter shirt, a feminine vest and a masculine coat. We, on the other hand, have really a very small English grammar, and the little we have is fast disappearing. Some believe that the dictionary is the law book of language. It is no such thing. The right way to pronounce words is dependent on the pronunciation of the great majority of informed folks."

What is needed, in the opinion of Prof. Brunt, is more persons to look political and economic conditions in the eye and use the slang expression "O Yeah!" instead of the more polite form "O Yes! O Yes!"

On Sunday next, June 24th., our French-Canadian friends will celebrate their national holiday, of St. Jean Baptiste. Mass services will be conducted in the morning, the rest of the day being given over to pick-nicking, which will terminate in a band concert in the Memorial Park. Here suitable addresses will also be delivered by prominent speakers.

MIDDLE AGED

Just how old do you think is middle-aged? The other day I heard a woman talking on the radio and she spoke of 'middle-aged women as women over thirty.' Thirty may be the middle age of a number of women but somehow I cannot think of thirty as middle-aged. Nor thirty-five. That of course is the middle of our biblical three-score and ten. Middle-aged is usually thought of as around the middle span of our adult years. Our opinions as to age vary considerably. Can't you remember as a youngster thinking such-and-so was very old and now you realize that they were not old at all and even yet are comparatively young? A few years makes a wonderful difference on our view-point as to age. One of the things that always amuses me is to hear an older person—there are no old ones these days—who never thinks of herself as old, speak of some one her own age or even younger as Old Mrs. So and So! But if anyone spoke of them in the same way they would be highly insulted. It used to be said that we were as old as we felt but now they say we are as old as our arteries, so let us take life without worry, look after our weight, get plenty of sleep and so lighten the life of our arteries.

GOOD POSTURE AIDS GOOD HEALTH

Recently we talked about the round-shouldered posture of the thin person which affects their health. Now a person need not be round-shouldered to have their health affected by poor posture. A fat person very often stands poorly. The abdominal organs are housed in the pelvic cavity and if we stand so that the pelvis is thrown out of alignment we tilt this cavity or basin until the organs become tilted and out of place. Ill health of varying degrees of severity is caused by the abdominal organs being out of place. Exercises will strengthen the muscles of the abdominal wall and will help to hold the organs in place, but a good posture is the chief requirement. The weight should be properly balanced on the ball of the foot and the heel, and the buttocks drawn down and under. Besides helping to give us good health, good posture will do a great deal for our appearance. We can't do so much about our faces but if we start young enough we could do something about our figures. Even those of us who feel that we did not start soon enough to do all that we would like to do, can improve what we have. When you watch women walk and see the way they hold themselves you will readily agree there is plenty of room for improvement. To me it is a joy to watch a woman who walks well. Unfortunately they are hard to find. How many do you know?

RHUBARB

Rhubarb is a very good mixer and when cooked with other fruits loses its identity and takes on the flavour of the fruit so that it is economical to use with more expensive fruits such as strawberry, pineapple or black currants. Here are recipes for use with strawberries and pineapple, which are in season now. The strawberry recipe is a small one but the pineapple one makes about ten pints.

RHUBARB STRAWBERRY CONSERVE

3 cups diced peeled rhubarb
2 cups strawberries
1/2 cup water
2 cups sugar

Cook the fruit and water slowly until soft. Add the sugar and cook until thick, stirring frequently. Pour into sterilized jars and seal.

RHUBARB AND PINE-APPLE PRESERVE

6 cups diced pineapple
10 cups peeled rhubarb
Sugar

Cook the pineapple in a little water until tender. Add rhubarb and cook until the mixture is soft and the water evaporated. Measure and add an equal quantity of sugar. Cook until thick, stirring frequently. Pour into sterilized jars and seal.

BOILED ICING

2 1/2 cups brown sugar
1/2 cup corn syrup
1/2 cup water
2 egg whites
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla

Cook sugar, corn syrup and water to the soft ball stage or 240 degrees. Pour over the stiffly beaten egg whites and beat constantly. Add vanilla and beat until almost cold and until stiff enough to hold its shape. I like this icing specially for summer as it will keep in a covered jar for some time and it is convenient to have on hand. Sometimes I use it on bought cup cakes or between plain crackers as graham, or vanilla wafers.

SIZE YOURSELF UP

A lot of us are pretty smart about sizing up other folks and pride ourselves on our ability to read character.

How about sizing yourself up? It might prove more useful than sizing up the other fellow.

Are you bright and alert in catching ideas or the point of a conversation or does your mind go wandering or sit idle?

Are you progressing, or standing still? Are you content with half doing things, or do you aim for the very best way?

Are you always patient for those who know less than yourself but who are trying for better things?

Do you occasionally make a real and true sacrifice so as to grow in grace?

Are you sympathetic with those who are in trouble? Are you tender to the aged?

Do you remember the rights of other people, and wait your turn graciously?

Are you always grateful for those little courtesies which money does not buy, and do you always return thanks for kindnesses you receive?

Try to get a good line on your own motives and conduct. It will help you; it will help others, and it will prove interesting into the bargain.

—Tyrian Messenger.

PURCHASE OF WELFARE SUPPLIES.

The Amherstburg, Ont., council passed a recent decision to allocate the purchase of welfare supplies among local merchants in the proportion which they pay taxes. The matter was one which had been discussed in the town of recent months.

KINGSTON CHANGES RELIEF PROCEDURE

The City Council of Kingston, Ont., decided recently to grant relief recipients the right to purchase groceries in any store. After a spirited debate, the resolution favoring "freedom of purchase" was passed 19 to two.

9 VOTED; 35 FOR DINNER

Henry Moore wanted to be alderman in University City, exclusive St. Louis suburb, but received only 10 votes, counting his own, in the primary election. The candidate, however, was a good loser, and he advertised he would "furnish the ducks" for a dinner to the other nine persons who voted for him. He had 35 acceptances!

THE PAPER AND THE CLERGY

A clergyman came at a newspaper this way: "You editors do not tell the truth. If you did you could not live; your newspaper would be a failure." The Editor replied: "You are right and the minister who will at all times and under all circumstances tell the truth about his members, alive or dead, will not occupy the pulpit more than one Sunday, and then he will find it necessary to leave town in a hurry. The press and the pulpit go hand in hand with white-wash brushes and pleasant words, magnifying little virtues into big ones. The pulpit, the pen, and the grave stone are the great saint-making triumvirate." And the editor turned to his work and told of the surpassing beauty of the bride, while in fact she was as homely as a mud fence.

THAT "LIKE THE DICKENS" FEELING IS LIVER

Wake Up Your Liver Bile.
Feel Fit. You Needn't use
Calomel To Do It.

It's your liver, failing to pour out the vital two pounds of bile, daily, into your bowels, that makes you feel so off-color. Lack of bile means poor digestion. Food stays too long in your bowels and decays. Your system is poisoned. You go through the misery of gas, bloating, pain, heartburn. You have a dark brown abominable taste in your mouth and bad breath. Your skin's unhealthy and often your head aches. Your whole system seems out of kilter. How can you reasonably expect to clear up a condition like this by merely taking salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum, or roughage? These only move the bowels, and that's not enough. You must wake up your liver bile. Avoid calomel (mercury). Take Carter's Little Liver Pills. They're purely vegetable, gentle, pure and safe. They'll make you feel a hundred per cent better in a very short time. Don't waste your money on substitutes. Be definite. Ask for Carter's by name—and get them! Look for the name, Carter's, on the red label. 25c. at all druggists.

BRITISH POST OFFICE HAS HUGE SURPLUS

Figures show that the British post office has beaten its own profit-making surplus of last year, the surplus now announced being over $60,000,000, an increase of $6,250,000. This was mainly due to the successful campaign to popularize the telephone. The telephone in Great Britain is operated as a Government enterprise, but is used less in England than in Canada and many other countries.

The success of the telephone is partially at the expense of the telegraph, apparently, for the latter department shows a loss of around $5,000,000.

Highlight of Local History Commemorated at St. Andrews East

CEREMONIES AT UNVEILING OF GRANITE CAIRN

Addresses Recalled Origin of Paper Industry in Canada

Another link was forged last Saturday in the bond of remembrance, to bind more lastingly with the present those facts of local history which might otherwise fade in the glamor of modern activity. It was an auspicious occasion in St. Andrews East, commemorating another record which marks this community of considerable importance in the history of the Dominion.

It is generally recalled, in this County at least, that St. Andrews East was the site of the first paper mill constructed in Canada. Through efforts of Historical Sites and Monuments Board, this distinction was given recognition by the erection of a stone cairn. A plaque was attached to the monument, and under direction of Argenteuil Women's Institutes last Saturday the memorial was unveiled and dedicated, thus to preserve with fitting ceremony a triumph cherished in local history.

The gathering was large, and favorable weather prevailed. Many distinguished visitors were on hand, several of whom took part in the ceremonies. Dr. B. N. Wales and Col. E. M. Hooker, as "the only surviving grandsons of the pioneer paper makers", took prominent part.

Mrs. G. F. W. Kuhring, as County President of the W. I., was chairman for the occasion. Rt. Hon. Sir Geo. Perley, Federal representative for the County, and Hon. Justice E. Fabre Surveyer, representative of the Historical Sites and Monuments Board, graced the occasion and addressed the gathering, together with Mayor W. Pitcairn, members of the clergy and prominent citizens of St. Andrews East, who exemplified the pride of their community in this important function.

Signifying the part played by the Women's Institutes in this gesture of tribute to the past, Mrs. Kuhring said in part:

"The Argenteuil County Quebec Women's Institutes have a feeling of pride and honor in assisting the Historic Sites and Monuments Board in arranging this programme.

For Home and Country is our motto and we realize that in order to be good mothers and efficient homemakers we must strive to have a broader vision and a farther view.

The day has passed when one may isolate himself and be unmindful of the things about him.

In our Institutes we are ever striving for a better understanding not only of local matters but in the broader sphere of National and International affairs. I might tell you as an illustration that our past president, Mrs. Davis is next week attending a Convention in London, England, of the Associated Country Women of the World, where she is representing our Province.

PRETTY WEDDING AT DALESVILLE

McRae—Gunn

A pretty wedding took place on Wednesday afternoon, June 24th., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Gunn, Dalesville, when their daughter, Hazel Isabel, was united in marriage to Wyman Douglas McRae, son of Mr. and the late Mrs. McRae, of Bells Falls, Que.

The wedding ceremony took place on the lawn, under an arch of fern and bridal roses, and was performed by Rev. F. W. Dyson, of the Dalesville Baptist Church. Mrs. Dyson played the bridal chorus.

The bride's wedding gown was of beautiful white silk crepe, made on simple lines; the veil was caught up with orange blossoms. The bride's flowers were pink peonies and roses. Miss Mildred Hay, of Howick, as bridesmaid, was beautifully gowned in Eleanor blue crepe, and also carried peonies and roses. Little Mellie Campbell, 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Campbell of Bells Falls, was flower girl and was dressed in pink organdie. She carried a chiffon hat. Her corsage was of orchids.

Following the nuptial ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents where a buffet lunch was served. The house was prettily decorated with flowers, and in the gracious hospitality of the Ayers home the young couple received felicitations from a wide circle of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Deslauriers left later for a honeymoon trip to Bermuda, sailing from Montreal aboard the S.S. Lady Somers. The bride traveled in a brown and beige crepe ensemble, with accessories to match, and Hudson sables.

OBSERVED CELEBRATION OF ST. JEAN BAPTISTE

St. Jean Baptiste, patron saint of French Canada, was honored in Lachute last Sunday by a religious celebration at the Church of St. Julien in the morning. The arrival of three special motor-buses, bearing church cadets, members of the Independent Guard of St. Edouard, Montreal, clad in bright uniforms and led by their brass band, created rare interest and gave a festive spirit to the occasion.

In the evening the crowds began to assemble in the Memorial Park, where amplifiers had been installed from the bandstand to carry the voices of the speakers. These glowingly portrayed the heroic lives of early pioneers and the hopes and ideals of the future. Mayor A.

Plaque mounted on Granite Cairn unveiled at St. Andrews East last Saturday.

CORNWALL'S FETE TO BEGIN SATURDAY

Cornwall's centennial celebration week will be given a grand opening on Saturday when prominent men in public affairs in Canada and the United States will form the official party for the formal opening of the new international bridge connecting Cornwall with Roosevelt. Formal opening of the new vehicular route will be made by the Governor-General of Canada and the ceremonies will be the commencing feature in Cornwall's centennial fete.

Larocque extended the welcome of the town.

At 10.30 a torchlight procession was formed, afterwards returning to the Park for the closing exercises and fireworks.

Month's Review of W.I. Activities in Argenteuil

The speaker for Chatham Branch meeting was Mrs. N. E. Smillie, her subject being "Child Welfare, Training the Child in the Home". The roll-call was "Favorite Names". Twelve ladies attended this very interesting meeting.

Jerusalem-Bethany had 14 members and one visitor. Their subject was Gardening, with a roll-call on Gardening Hints. A visit to Lakefield, to the garden of Rev. A. E. Mount, followed by a picnic was planned.

Lachute had a splendid meeting and address on "Child Welfare and Public Health" by Dr. J. H. Mason. Their roll-call was "Sing, Say, or a Nickel to Pay." Twelve members attended.

Frontier had fifteen members in attendance and three visitors, as well as several children. Their subject was also "Child Welfare — Foundations and Results." A splendid address was given by Mrs. J. W. Maclean of Cushing. The roll call was on "Training the Child". A shower for a bride ended a very pleasant meeting.

Lakefield meeting was attended by ten members and three visitors. Their roll-call was "Cooling Beverages." Address: "What if the Boat Upsets?" by Mr. G. W. Kuhring. The meeting was along the lines of Child Welfare and Public Health, and his timely hints were much appreciated. Mr. Kuhring also spoke on the subject of the evening, as well as reviewing Current Events and giving an account of the County Convention. Fifteen minutes' Community singing, with God Save the King, brought the meeting to a fitting close.

PAID LAST TRIBUTE TO MRS. D. PATTERSON

Widow of Former St. Andrews Minister

The funeral of the late Mrs. Patterson (née Barbara Sharpe widow of the late Dr. Daniel Patterson) on Monday afternoon awakened cherished memories among the older residents of St. Andrews East. For many years she presided with grace and dignity as mistress of the Presbyterian Manse, and was prominent in the religious and benevolent movements of her time. Her refined face was a true index of the character of a lady to the manner born. Her sister, the late Mrs. Stewart of Ottawa, was an equally charming personality, and both contributed much to enrich the social life of their day.

Rev. D. Patterson, D.D., ministered to the Presbyterian congregation of St. Andrews East for 40 years, from 1860 to 1900, and in her earlier years Mrs. Patterson also took active part in church work. After the retirement of Dr. Patterson, he and Mrs. Patterson resided in Lachute until his death in 1921. For a time thereafter, Mrs. Patterson lived in Ottawa, and for the last six years had resided at the home of G. F. Patterson, in Montreal. She died in Montreal last Saturday, in her 87th year.

Following a service held in Montreal, the remains were brought to St. Andrews East, where the Rev. R. L. Ballantyne, D.D., conducted the service in the Presbyterian Church. Assisting were the Rev. John Macaskill of the United Church, St. Andrews East; the Rev. J. R. MacLeod and the Rev. W. B. Rosborough, both of Lachute. Interment was made in the St. Andrews cemetery.

Pioneer had an interesting address on Canadianization by Linton Armstrong, dealing with problems of the present day. Nine members and 25 visitors were present.

Morin Heights had ten members and four visitors to wish their president God Speed and a pleasant voyage on her visit to England. A pretty and useful traveling bag for toilet articles was presented to her as a parting gift. Their subject was "Agriculture", roll-call "Garden Problems". Favorite Recipes were exchanged. Papers were read by Mrs. J. D. Davis and Mrs. Wm. Doherty on "Garden Pests, How to Fight Them," and "Laying Poultry Requires Lime." A flowering plant was purchased to present to the late secretary, Mrs. T. McCulloch, who is ill.

Upper Lachute — East End had a large meeting, with subject "Home Economics" and interesting items on Useful Kitchen Gadgets by members, also an interesting talk on the Making of Rolls by Mrs. Nicholson, of Lachute. The roll-call was "Features of a Happy Home."

FAMOUS STALLIONS NOW TOTAL THIRTY

"Black Horse" Percherons For Breeding Service

Dawes Brewery have again distributed throughout the Province of Quebec their thirty "Black Horses"—pure-bred Percheron stallions, which are now standing for their fourth year.

The first year's breeding service of this noteworthy string resulted in 514 foals; the second, in 543; it is expected that this year there will be more than 700 foals; and the fourth season will possibly exceed that number.

This famous string of 30 prize Percheron stallions, maintained in the interest of the farmer and for the advancement of breeding in the Province of Quebec, was established in 1931 with 11 stallions.

In order to enable farmers to derive full benefit from this extensive breeding service, the Agricultural College at Oka has co-operated with Dawes Brewery in the production of a booklet, containing full information as to the best methods of raising foals. This is obtainable without charge, on application to Dawes Brewery, Montreal.

ST. SIMEON'S PICNIC LAST SATURDAY

The annual picnic of St. Simeon's Sunday School was held on Saturday last at Morrison's grove. The day being ideal, children and grown ups alike shared a merry time together.

The usual list of races were engaged in, after which tea was served. Then came the presentation of prizes, a peanut scramble, treasure hunt and last of all the tug-of-war.

There was a good attendance and all were unanimous in voicing their appreciation of a very pleasant afternoon.

A GOOD EXAMPLE

Remembering the Early Settlers

"A Page from the Book of the Past"

(Contributed)

One summer Sunday afternoon, about eighty-five odd years ago, in a little church "back in the Gore", near Mille Isles in Argenteuil County, Province of Quebec, a rosy-cheeked little Irish girl sat with the relatives she had come to visit. I fear, however, that her thoughts were not entirely on the sermon, for, as she looked around the congregation, she saw a young man, dark in complexion, with twinkling blue eyes gazing at her in frank admiration. It seemed to be a case of mutual "love at first sight", and not long afterwards they became life partners, secured a grant of land near what is now called Morin Heights, and started the task of making a home in the wilderness.

On Sunday, June 17th., 1934, we remembered their struggles and hardships by a family pilgrimage of as many of the Reilly descendants as we could get together, to the Anglican Cemetery at Morin Heights. Here a stone has recently been erected, simple in design, of rough-hewn Stanstead granite, at the head of the plot where they lie. It remembers both grandparents and great grandparents, and is inscribed as follows:

AUNT JEAN'S RIDDLE
NO. 2.

"I see something, but its name I won't tell,"
Said Mary Lou to Mary Belle,
As they stood one night at the garden gate,
When the clock was striking half-past eight.
"It's round, round, round as a rolling hoop,
You can see it quite well, without having to stoop,
It's never shy, and it's never bold,
If you look too low, you will be quite cold."

—What did Mary Lou see, Children? . . .

WHAT IS A SUNBONNET FOR?

Laura May was sitting in the hammock, idly swinging; one little bare brown foot touching the ground at times, just to keep the hammock swaying slightly. It was not often that Laura May kept quiet so long. Watching her from the sitting-room window, Mother Harper was wondering what was in Laura May's little mind at the moment. How surprised she would have been had she known!

Laura May was having day-dreams. In fancy she saw a pretty bracelet with tiny white elephants hanging from it, adorning her arm just like the one Miss Poole had in her window. Laura May spent a lot of time outside Miss Poole's window just longing for and admiring that bracelet. Perhaps, oh perhaps, great-aunt Laura was going to bring her one just like it. If she did she would have it tomorrow, for great-aunt Laura was coming to visit them and had written her mother that she was bringing Laura May a nice present—something to wear. Laura May's mother had not told her this, of course. She wanted her little daughter to have a surprise, but Billy, the chore boy, had been working in the garden outside the window when Mother Harper read great-aunt Laura's letter aloud to Daddy, and had told her all about it.

Laura May had been almost too excited to eat or sleep since she had heard, and was wishing that tomorrow was here now. Her excitement got the better of her; up she sprang and started whirling around and around until she was so dizzy that she had to catch hold of the little maple tree that was growing by the summer-house to keep her from falling.

Her mother's voice from the verandah came to her ears "Laura May dear, don't do that again, please. You will make yourself ill if you do, particularly in this terrible heat. Come inside and help mother fix up great-aunt Laura's room."

That was the kind of work Laura May loved best, fixing up rooms. Her mother often said she thought that Laura

May would have to train for that kind of work when she was old enough, and Uncle Bob, whom they often called Uncle Babe because he was Daddy Harper's youngest brother and so much younger than he that he seemed just a boy, would laugh when her mother spoke in that way, rumple her curls and call her Miss Laura May, Domestician. Of course there was not such a word in the world, not even in the big dictionary, for Laura May had looked just to see what it meant the very first time that Uncle Babe had used it. Grandma Harper laughed heartily when Laura May told her about it, and said Bobbie was always a great boy for making up new words; if he kept count of them all, "he would soon have a dictionary-ful."

"My wouldn't that be wonderful!" Laura May replied. "How proud I would be if he did. Just think, I could say to the children at school when they did not know the right word to use, 'Just look in my Uncle's dictionary.'"

"It would be wonderful, child," Grandma Harper had said with a twinkle in her eye "but I am afraid the world in general would not adopt many of Uncle Bob's words!"

Laura May thought that was such a funny thing to say, as if one could adopt words. Who ever heard of the like! She had often heard of adopting children; why just next door her little chum, Luella, was an adopted child. At this stage Laura May clapped her hand over her mouth for fear she might say that aloud, and some one might hear her and tell Luella—and Luella was never to know.

While Laura May was puzzling her brain as to why Luella must never know, her grandmother went out to feed Snowball and her chickens, and Laura May forgot about Uncle Bob's dictionary until just now when she was busy helping her mother arrange great-aunt Laura's room. With the thought of her pretty bracelet in mind Laura May took extra good care to dust the big bureau with its long glass, so long that when she stood back she could see herself all over in it and the pink flowers in the carpet too. In fancy again she saw the bracelet with all its pretty elephants dangling and bobbing about as she moved, and held up her arm so that she might get a better view of it in the mirror. So occupied was she that her mother had to speak to her twice before she noticed her asking her to open the window by the head of the bed so that the air would be fresh and sweet for great-aunt Laura when she arrived to-morrow.

"To-morrow is such a long time coming Mummie" said Laura May with a big sigh.

"I am so glad, dear that you are anxious to see great-aunt Laura. You must be very kind to her, and never say or do anything to hurt her feelings, she is a very old lady and we must make her as happy as we can while she is here."

"Sure, Mummie, I will. I'll just love her I know."

"I hope so, girlie," her mother said, as she closed the door of the room gently and hurried away; she had memories of great-aunt Laura that Laura May knew nothing of!

Thoughts in Passing

By L. W. Armstrong

Hitler.

It is reported that there isn't as much cheering for Hitler in Germany as there used to be.

He will, no doubt, feel this to be a cold, cruel world without his customary cheering.

It is said that, apart from being a lover of the spectacular, he feels most at home where there is the most noise.

Many have wondered for some time now how long the staid Teutons would tolerate so much noise. It does not seem to fit their temperament.

Then again, the Germans are a very clever people, and a clever people usually demand some part in the government of their country. Hence, it is comparatively safe to surmise that the life of a dictatorship would be short.

It proves nothing to point to Italy. Mussolini had an entirely different people and entirely different problems with which to deal.

It is to be hoped that that great country will issue forth with a form of government more in keeping with her type of people and also more conducive to the peace of Europe.

The Elections.

It seems there was an election in Ontario and another in Saskatchewan and that the electors of each province were strongly inclined towards a change in Government.

A great many no doubt believed that the old governments did not do enough to alleviate their distressing circumstances.

It has been intimated that it would have made practically no difference how good the old Governments had been, or what had been promised during the campaigns, or even who the leaders were for the other parties, there was bound to be a change. And there was.

Be that as it may, it will be interesting to follow up the activities of these two new Governments now that there is practically no opposition.

Will they immediately begin to show as much activity as was demonstrated by their electors at the polls?

BANISH COMMON CONSTIPATION WITH DELICIOUS CEREAL

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brings Relief

Look out for headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sallow complexions, sleeplessness. Frequently, these are warning signs of common constipation. If neglected, your health may be impaired.

Today, you can rid yourself of common constipation by eating a tempting cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes "bulk" and vitamin B to aid regular habits. ALL-BRAN is also rich in iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that found in leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, this clears out the intestinal wastes. How much better this is than taking patent medicines!

Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily will usually overcome most types of common constipation. Chronic cases, with each meal. If seriously ill, see your doctor. ALL-BRAN makes no claim to be a "cure-all."

Serve ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or use in cooking. At all grocers. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

Sweatshops.

The Minister for Trade and Commerce has asked that no one purchase anything which comes from a sweatshop.

The hired man down on the farm maintains that that is asking quite a lot because folk will insist on having their daily bread, their milk, butter, cheese and their bacon and eggs regardless of what anyone says.

While many may declare that this is entirely beside the point, there is no getting away from the fact that this man's intimation that these things are all produced by sweated labour presents a very real case.

If you are inclined to think otherwise, try pitching hay, digging ditches and stooking grain at ten dollars a month with board.

With the thermometer reading around ninety in the shade you will find it to be sweated labour in the very strictest sense of the term.

While it may be argued that this man's case is different, surely it is sufficiently near servitude to merit consideration.

Quebec.

Canada is spending considerable money to induce tourists to visit the Land of the Maple Leaf.

That the Province of Quebec is doing her share is evident by the number of times one sees the advertisement: Come to Old Quebec.

How many have stopped to realize just how 'old' (in a varied sense) Quebec really is?

The above advertisement could be made much more enlightening by enlarging on the 'old', such as:

Come to old Quebec where there are still no old age pensions or mother's allowances.

Come to old Quebec where there is still no compulsory education.

Come to old Quebec and enjoy the thrill of crossing the rivers on toll bridges.

Come to old Quebec, where the government recently introduced a bill to curtail free speech.

Come to old Quebec, the province which can boast of the highest mortality rate of any in the Dominion.

Come to old Quebec and save money by buying your goods produced in her unequalled sweatshops.

Come to old Quebec, the province where the women still have no vote in the provincial elections.

And the latest would be—Come to old Quebec, where there is a Premier who is still strongly opposed to labour unions.

CANADA'S OWN WAR FILM

The announcement is made that the official moving pictures of actual movements of Canadian troops that were taken in various sections of the battlefield during the war have been arranged into a connected story and that they will be released for display in the not distant future.

The information that has been made public is to the effect that the distribution of the film throughout Canada has been placed in the hands of a commercial company. It is understood however that it is the desire and the intention in arranging this distribution that the showing of the film in the various communities be sponsored by branches of the Canadian Legion and kindred groups of Associated Veterans of the Great War.

The story will be a consecutive record of Canada's war effort—one which will carry the watcher and listener from the assassination of the Archduke Franz Ferdinand of Serbia on June 28th., 1914, to the triumphant crossing of the Canadian Corps.

BIRTHPLACE OF PAPER INDUSTRY IN CANADA

"One branch of our activities is carried out under the heading of Canadianization and National Events and this ceremony is a fitting one to be placed under this heading. We feel that our link with the past here in Argenteuil County is singularly strong. St. Andrews having been one of the earliest settlements and the site of the first paper mill in Canada.

We have with us to-day many direct descendants of the early settlers and of those who were responsible for the building of this paper mill.

We have invited these young people, the members of the C.G.I.T. and the Boy Scouts to come here to-day because we desire to impress upon them as growing citizens of our Country a veneration towards the past and a broad outlook for the future."

Dr. B. N. Wales Spoke of Pioneer Paper Industry

Dr. B. N. Wales spoke most interestingly on the early paper mill, a subject on which his tireless investigations into local tradition have qualified him to speak with due authority.

"This cairn of Argenteuil granite" said Dr. Wales, "symbolizes, in strength and endurance, the character of our sturdy ancestors, who built the first Paper Mill in Canada.

The foundation of the memorial is laid deep on the primitive rock of the Laurentian System, which geologists tell us is the back-bone of the planet.

The epitaph tells us that this pioneer paper factory was built by a group of New Englanders, and it has ever been a source of wonder that these Americans from Massachusetts should have ventured so far and on so momentous an enterprise.

It is a safe conclusion that they came by invitation from the Seigneur, Major Patrick Murray, who controlled the water rights of the North River, or James Brown, the Montreal printer and stationer, who owned the land which became the site of the factory.

It is probable that one of these men, or their agents, journeyed to Newton Upper Falls, 6 miles from Boston, where the paper industry flourished, to canvass the proposition with experts in the art of paper manufacture, before the venture was made. And so it came about that these Newtonian paper-makers organized the Company that built the first mill. Their number included Benjamin Wales with his two younger brothers, Nathaniel and Samuel, William Learns, Artemas Jackson, John Harrington, and Gustavus Adolphus Hooker, the son of Lieut. Zebeon Hooker, a revolutionary hero, who won his spurs at Lexington and Bunker Hill.

The documentary history shows that whatever serious errors were made by the firm were not to be laid to the charge of this group, whose record is one of unimpeachable integrity. Another associate, whose name we will not mention, since there may be descendants in other parts of the world who could not be held responsible, made financial difficulties for the firm, and was dismissed from the Company about 1809.

After this date his name does not appear in connection with St. Andrews history. He left St. Andrews never to return. For the documentary evidence bearing on this unfortunate episode I am indebted to the researches of Mr. Clifford Wilson, who has in preparation a valuable work on the First Hundred years of the Canadian Paper Industry, in which will appear my contribution to the story.

The paper industry in St. Andrews had checkered history for thirty years, and even though it failed to yield dividends for its shareholders, it furnished a great variety of paper for the Montreal market, it started the prosperity of the town, and for a full half century made it the industrial centre of the Lower Ottawa Valley. As a leading industry it employed many hands, was a source of great revenue to the village and surrounding country, and was regarded as one of the finest industries of Lower Canada.

Men, boys and girls from outlying farms walked to the Village in the early mornings, carrying their dinner pails, to do the work now performed by complicated machinery.

Under the Seigneurship of Major Murray, St. Andrews received its name, and the Seigneur was colonized very rapidly.

Theodore Davis, with the assistance of his brothers Moses and Simeon, carried out the mandate of the Seigneur, to make a survey, and the result of the survey was a splendid map, now mounted on linen to insure its preservation. And so Major Murray had everything ready for the tide of immigration from the British Isles which was about to open.

Within 10 years, the first decade of the century, about all the lots fit for cultivation within the Seigneurie were taken up, and from a pioneer field, the region became the cradle and nursery for another generation of pioneers.

Those were the days of large families, when the sons of Murray's highlanders from the glens of Old Scotland pressed deeper into the forests of the Ottawa and its tributaries and became the founders of many a village and hamlet of Upper Ottawa.

St. Andrews of a hundred years ago had a mixed population, and was noted for its cosmopolitan spirit, which lent a charm to its social life. Their public institutions reflected an intelligence in advance of their time. Its citizens supported an educated ministry, and public schools of academic grade that attracted scholars from a distance, even from Montreal. The lower floor of the old 2-storey brick school house was a lyceum for lectures and debates where affairs of state were discussed. The Mechanics' Institute, with its membership of 103 and its fine circulating library, housed in the library chamber in the large stone house, the present home of Dr. Legault, was the pride of the town and reflected its public spirit.

At this point we may mention that the interest of the story of Old St. Andrews is greatly enhanced by Dr. Maude Abbott's contribution, published in the Montreal Churchman, under the title, "Social History of the Parish of Christ's Church, St. Andrews."

All this happened and was brought to an end during the 5th. and 6th. decade of the century, when the exodus took place."

"As Colonel Hooker and myself are the only surviving grandsons of the pioneer paper makers—on their behalf" concluded Dr. Wales, "we thank you for your share in perpetuating their memory, and endeavoring to maintain worthily the traditions of the town they helped to establish.

Hon. Justice Surveyer—James Brown and the First Canadian Paper Mill

Having been invited here as representing Quebec on the Sites and Monuments Commission," said Hon. Justice Surveyer, addressing the gathering, "I consider it my duty to talk history, and shall on this occasion deal mainly with James Brown, who was connected with the St. Andrews Paper Mill for thirty years.

St. Andrews' claim to being the home of the first paper mill can hardly be disputed. As early as 1832, Bouchette stated in his Topographical Dictionary:

"This village is also remarkable for possessing the first mill built in the British Provinces of North America. The principal building is about 80 feet long and is beautifully situated on a platform opposite the bridge which joins the two parts of the village and the main road leading to the settlements on the Ottawa."

James Brown was born in Glasgow, Scotland, January 22, 1776. In 1793 he arrived in New York, and the next year, in Quebec. There, on December 31, 1795, before he had reached his twentieth birthday, he was married by Rev. Alex. Sparks, to Lydia Salter, a native of New York, where she was born October 3rd., 1781. There his first two children were born and baptized. Brown left Quebec for Montreal at the beginning of the nineteenth century. His great-great grandson, Mr. F. C. A. Brown, secretary treasurer of the Western Quebec Paper Mills, limited—he runs true to form—fixes the date of his change of home somewhere between July 14, 1800, and October 20, 1802. Rev. Robert Campbell, the historian of St. Gabriel Street Presbyterian Church, of Montreal, describes Brown as the pioneer bookseller and stationer of that city.

Exactly what Brown's connection with the first paper mill was at the outset, is a matter on which historians do not quite agree. Mr. Thomas, for instance, in his history of the Counties of Argenteuil and Prescott, writes as follows:

The town lady had moved to the farm to lead the rural life. In the course of time it fell upon her to feed a threshing crew.

The day was exceedingly hot. The work had been hard and continuous. It was a sweaty crew that assembled on the porch awaiting the summons to the table.

The lady stepped out to bid them enter. She took one look and sweetly remarked—"Men, will you please take off your overalls and come in to dinner?"—Frisco.

OSCAR MORIN TO RETIRE

It is a matter of regret that Mr. Oscar Morin, owing to ill health, has tendered his resignation as Deputy Minister of Municipal Affairs in Quebec Province. During a turbulent period among the municipalities, Mr. Morin has conducted his office with energy and concern, working conscientiously for the welfare of administrations under his charge.

It is expected that Mr. L. E. Potvin, of Montreal, will be named chairman of the Commission as soon as a new member can be secured to complete the personnel.

With the creation of the Municipal Commission in 1932 Mr. Morin has had some 60 municipalities and school commissions and several parish boards in tutelage, with the general task of approving the loans of all other municipal organizations.

The Ottawa Spotlight

A Weekly Review of National Affairs
By Wilfrid Eggleston

Ottawa, June 26.—Here's another of those periods so hectically filled with momentous happenings that about the best a weekly reviewer can do is to point an excited finger at some of the more sensational developments, and let it go at that.

Without any assistance from Ontario or Saskatchewan, the capital itself was quite capable last week of providing more 'copy' than a thoughtful reader could hope to digest before Dominion Day. We had the 'inflation' step, the public works program, a lot more sickening disclosures of starvation wages from Hon. Mr. Stevens and associates, further attempts to make the Central Bank a government-owned body, proposed amalgamation of the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific telegraph and express companies, and a score of other items.

Then, an echo of the tornadoes which raged in Ontario and Saskatchewan, toppling Henry and Anderson from their thrones, invaded the House of Commons and gave it the perverted atmosphere of a revival meeting. The Liberals have started to get 'tough', as a result of their overwhelming victories, and they are beginning to make more trouble in the House than Mr. Speaker Black knows how to handle. They want a general election right away, they don't think Mr. Bennett has the right to introduce any more legislation,—and so on. The Government took these provincial things right on the chin, and at the end of last week they were still wondering what happened. The C.C.F. groups were pretty mum, although J. S. Woodsworth recovered sufficiently to make the bright observation that it looked as though in Canada the Conservative party was going to disappear, as the Liberal party had done in England.

More and Worse

The revelation of starvation wages in Quebec are sufficient to make blood boil. And to some observers at least it begins to get irritating to be warned against British or Czechoslovakian shoes, or Japanese textiles on the ground that they have been made by sweated labor. If we are going to rail against low standards of living let us do something about the exploitation at our own doorsteps. My impression is that all the kudos obtained by the government for its fearless exposure of these conditions is cancelled by the fact that such conditions have been permitted to exist—to some extent at least have grown up—during the present government's regime.

Most people, I think, will welcome the proposal to run the telegraph and express companies of the two railway systems under one management, in such a way as to avoid overlapping and duplication. To others it may look like the thin edge of the wedge of amalgamation of the two railway systems. The express telegraph co-operation was urged by the Duff royal commission, which in turn stood out against joint operation of the two railway systems.

Some day the Central Bank may become a government institution; but it will not be in the life of this parliament. Hon. Ian Mackenzie made an attempt to convert it from a privately-owned to a publicly-owned institution, as the C.C.F. members had previously done, but it wouldn't go. The government refused to accept it.

the modern highways, which have replaced the hill trails of the days of the settler, hummed the automobile of the city tourist. In the cemetery, under the shadows of stately elms, there was quiet peace. Church service was not to be until the evening. No one came near us. We had no special ceremony, but each, with his own thoughts, revered the dead and remembered their lives.

Afterwards, we went up to the old farm, where John and Martha Reilly had lived and struggled. Until a year ago, some traces of the humble home remained in ruin; but today there are only a couple of rafters and sills to mark the spot. The old stable on the hill, the granary and the milk-house have all been dismantled and taken away. There are still traces of the old-fashioned flower garden and the vegetable beds which were the objects of such tender care in days gone by. Only the spring remains, flowing silently and clear, as it has done for a hundred years or more, giving water that would yield a man a fortune were it available to parched throats in the city.

There we had our lunch and supper, and talked of the old people and their bygone days. There were three generations of us. Henry L. Reilly, of East Angus, Que., the only surviving son, was there with his wife Ruth, and recounted the experiences of boyhood days. Two children of the eldest daughter, Mrs. Thos. McGowan, represented their mother, namely William McGowan and Mrs. Jay Imray. Mr. Imray and his daughter Margaret and the two children of Mrs. Stanley Denman, Marion and Walton, completed the Montreal delegation. From Ottawa came Mr. and Mrs. Clark Reilly, their son Nelson, and Mrs. Reilly's father, Mr. William H. Boright, of Mansonville, Que.

The youngsters had a good time, exploring light-heartedly here and there, digging delfin'um and rose bushes to take home as souvenirs. We older ones sat and rested in the shade of some trees on the line fence. Each had some contribution to make to the story of the early days as heard from parent or grandparent. Like a piece of quilting, the pattern slowly grew, until it seemed as if we could see again those young people of a former day, without the advantages each of us enjoys so unthinkingly, but with stout hearts and determination, in a strange land, making their home in the hills. We watched them through the years, as family responsibilities came, teaching by precept and example the principles of Christianity. And then some of us recalled them, as we knew them in their later years, in the golden sunset period of their lives, calm and unafraid.

A day of peace; a day of quiet reflection and joy.

A page from the book of the past brought down to the present. A memory to be treasured, marking one of the epochs in family life which come so seldom, yet live through the years.

NATIVE OF ST. ANDREWS WON HIGH ESTEEM IN THE WEST

Late Gilbert McConnell, Member of Well Known Argenteuil Family.

On June 16th. there passed away one of Vancouver's best known pioneers in the person of Gilbert Smythe McConnell, who was born here in St. Andrews East 78 years ago, the son of Andrew McConnell and his wife, the former Martha Bradford. His parents were seigneurs of United Empire Loyalist stock and his ancestors on his brother's side came to North America on the Mayflower.

The late Gilbert S. McConnell joined the Royal Northwest Mounted Police in 1877, was Indian agent for five years at Touchwood Hills and served in the Riel Rebellion as transport officer and aide to Gen. Middleton. He settled in Vancouver forty-six years ago, and was actively engaged in real estate speculation.

He journeyed to Dawson in 1898 as the representative of the Canadian Canneries, and remained in the north until 1903. During the Great War he was stationed at Vernon with the B. C. Horse.

He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Mrs. Florence Marshall, whose husband is a commander of the Royal Navy at Malta; two grandsons; three brothers, R. G. McConnell, former deputy minister of mines at Ottawa; Dr. Hugh McConnell of Montreal and J. G. McConnell of Vancouver, and two sisters, Mrs. J. T. Ayers, Miss G. McConnell, of Montreal. His only son, Lieut. W. B. McConnell, of the 16th. Battalion, died two years ago.

EXAMINATIONS

Examinations — examinations — are the curse of our educational system. It is not what a pupil should know or what might be of interest to him but what he must know to pass an exam, that is considered. You will hear pupils say, "we do not need to know that, it is never in the exam", or on the other hand, "we had better study this because it has been on the paper three times in the last five years". Work is neglected though the term in the expectation of cramming a term's work into the last few hours before the fatal examination. There is no desire to learn on the part of most pupils only a desire to pass. And they are two very different things. Exams are such a matter of luck. In the first place some have the ability to make the most of a small amount of knowledge. Then if the pupil is lucky, and has studied the things which happen to be on the paper he passes. Another pupil, who knows much more, has studied something else and he does not do nearly so well. A start has been made in abolishing examinations but it is not spreading quickly enough. The year's work and the effort put forth should be the criterion. This trusts to the honor of the teacher and puts a lot of responsibility on the shoulders of the teacher. But then teachers are an honourable class and are used to responsibility. As it is now teachers have not a fair show. They are not nearly so much to blame as the system. They are not allowed a chance to really teach as they are kept too busy preparing for examinations. The community is largely to blame too, because their chief standard of value is the number of pupils which that particular teacher "passes". Teachers might do more with their organizations to urge and engineer changes in our educational system as they should be the leaders and as it is now they have little to say but must do as they are told.

SPINACH

Our home-grown spinach is in now and forget all about eating it because it is good for you, but eat it because it tastes good. Nothing is more objectionable than gritty spinach. The easiest way to clean it is to use two dishes and to lift it from one lot of water into the other and by doing this the sand is left at the bottom of the dish. Six waters is the rule and most spinach requires it, in any case it is better to err on the safe side. The next thing is the cooking. Do not add any water because there is sufficient water clinging to the spinach to cook it. Salt during the cooking and do not cook too long. Over-cooking gives a sad spinach and is the reason so many people think that they do not like it. Very tender spinach will cook in fifteen minutes but sometimes it takes as long as twenty-five. The only way to know is to try it while cooking and tell by taste. A watery spinach is another abomination, so drain in a colander and chop and move it about until you are positive it is thoroughly drained. Remember spinach is a good mixer and takes kindly to cheese or eggs.

HOLLYHOCKS

Hollyhocks are one of the old fashioned flowers that have returned to favour. They need a background such as a fence, shrubbery or a building. So many garages are stucco, and they make an effective background for hollyhocks in varying shades of pink and rose. I love the way they wander and no matter how many hollyhocks plants we may have none give me as much joy as the ones I find popping up in the grass some distance away from the original clump. Just another evidence of my Scotch blood. I planned a large cluster of delphinium and hollyhocks in a right-angled corner of a board fence. The plants thrive lustily but I never was home to see them in bloom because each year when the first delphinium began to show colour we went away for the summer. I still think it was a good idea. I hope the people who have that garden now enjoy it. It has been our misfortune to start perennial gardens and then have to move on. This last move I vowed never again. But I am regretting it because if we had only planted then we would have nice three year plants by now.

STRAWBERRY PRESERVE

I do not think that I have ever written about strawberry preserves as I seemed to take it for granted that every one knew how to make them. Last year three of my younger friends phoned to find out how to make them, so possibly some of my readers might like to know the method. We like the old-fashioned preserve, that is pound for pound or thereabouts—a pound of sugar to a pound of fruit. If the berries are very sweet I use less, anything from three-quarters to full pound. Remember always that you cannot make a good product of poor material so be very sure to have good fruit. Hull, wash the berries, and weigh them, cover with the sugar and let stand over night. This will extract the juice and no water need be added to prevent burning. Boil quickly and stir frequently to prevent burning. If you prefer it you may mash your berries slightly before cooking. I like mine mashed. Try them during the process of cooking frequently and cook until they are the thickness you prefer. To try them, simply put a little on a saucer and cool quickly. When the juice is as thick as you like it, remove from the fire, skim and bottle in sterilized jars.

STRAWBERRY PIE

Shortly before serving fill a baked pie-shell with crushed sweetened strawberries. Top with blobs of whipped cream, sweetened and flavoured with vanilla. Scrumptious!

"During the year 1802, certain gentlemen, who were acquainted with the manufacture of paper and who had been connected with paper mills at Newton Upper Falls, Mass., came to Canada at the invitation of Mr. James Brown of Montreal, to discuss with him the advisability of establishing a paper mill in Canada."

Dr. Wales, in his "Memories of Old St. Andrews, 1800-1810" is less affirmative: "Whether", he says, "they came of their own initiative or in response to an invitation is not known, but it is a safe conclusion that either the Seigneur, who controlled the water rights, or the owner of the lots on which the mills were built, journeyed to Massachusetts, to canvass the situation with these enterprising Newtonians, before the venture was made."

Whether or not Dr. Wales has modified his opinion since he wrote these lines, he will tell you himself.

In any event, on April 30, 1803, by deed passed before Lukin, N.P., of Montreal, Patrick Murray sells to James Murray the Seignior of Argenteuil. The latter, on November 26th., 1803, signs an agreement with Walter Ware, of Newton Lower Falls, Mass., a son of John Ware who, in 1790, erected the first paper mill in Massachusetts. Walter Ware declares that he intends to erect a paper mill at Argenteuil, on the East side of North River, near the farm of Lemay dit Delorme. Murray allows him to build a barrage between the firm land and a certain island situate near the dam which supplies motive power to the seigniorial mill; then Ware shall occupy free of charge six acres of land joining the barrage, there to erect a paper mill; but he shall only possess the land during thirty years.

The tablet says that the mill was built in 1803-5. The truth seems to lie between these two dates. A good many letters from Brown to Hon. John Neilson, editor of the "Quebec Gazette" are to be found at the Bibliothèque Saint-Sulpice, in Montreal. Unfortunately, the library is closed at present, and I must be content with the extracts taken, three years ago, by Mr. Clifford P. Wilson, of Westmount. On May 5, 1804, Brown writes to Neilson: "There is a paper mill building above Montreal, for which I am to collect the rags from the country and sell their paper sent from the mill."

Apparently, at that date, Brown was merely a supplier of materials and a selling agent of the mill.

On May 31, 1804, before Dequire, N.P., of Vaudreuil, Joseph Lemay dit Delorme, sells to Walter Ware, paper manufacturer, residing at Argenteuil, a certain piece of land there situated, "sans néanmoins nuire au dit acquéreur à bâtir sur la dite terre, un moulin qu'il fait faire."

On September 19, 1805, Brown writes to Neilson: "I have to inform you that the paper mill has begun to work, and I have received a quantity of wrapping paper. The paper maker is an American."

On December 6, 1806, Walter Ware, heretofore sole owner of the land, sells, before J. A. Gray, N.P., "one undivided one sixth and the fourth of one sixth part or share in a certain paper mill erected and being in the Seignior of Argenteuil, etc., to Benjamin Wales (ancestor of Dr. Wales), Artemas Jackson (grandfather of the late Mrs. J. G. Scott, of Quebec and great grandfather of Miss Scott), and John Harrington, millwright. Ware also sells one full undivided sixth part or share in the mill, to James Brown, stationer, of Montreal. An agreement was passed before the same notary, J. A. Gray, N.P., two days later, December 8, 1806, to form a partnership under the name of Walter Ware & Company, for the space of seven years. The associates were: Walter Ware, Benjamin Wales, Artemas Jackson, John Harrington and James Brown.

Brown gradually became the partnership's largest creditor, and his partners, in order to raise money, sold their paper to any one but him. In this connection, Brown wrote on November 2, 1807: "They have sold upwards of 400 Rms. of paper elsewhere, when I have been obliged to pay for a note of $800. of Ware's drawing on the company, on account of his father."

These difficulties ended in litigation, and in 1808, at the February term of the Court of King's Bench, James Brown was plaintiff in three cases against Walter Ware, alone or with others, said cases numbers 93, 122 and 207.

I am indebted to Mr. E. Z. Massicotte, Montreal, provincial architect, for references to the first deeds, and to my predecessor on the Commission, Mr. Maréchal Nantel, K.C., for the above references to late notarial deeds and the Court cases.

The partnership was dissolved on March 29, 1809 (Lukin, N.P.). On the very day of the dissolution of the partnership, Walter Ware, Artemas Jackson and John Harrington sold their shares to John Chesser, of St. Eustache, and James Brown. Chesser does not seem to have been long interested to the mill, for in the spring of 1809, Brown writes to Neilson: "I have bought Mr. Chesser's half of the mill."

As a matter of fact, the deeds for the sale from Chesser to Brown of the paper mill and two lots of land were passed before Lukin, N.P., on September 26th., 1809.

Naturally enough, the mill then became known as the Brown paper mill. Besides being a stationer and—perhaps against his will—the owner of a paper mill, Brown owned newspapers. He first published a weekly paper called the "Canadian Courant", and in March, 1808, became proprietor of the Montreal "Gazette" then thirty years old. Rev. Mr. Campbell says that "he employed a large number of men in several departments of his business." Amongst others of

BIRTHPLACE OF
IN CANADA

his employees was the father of Hon. Mr. Justice Badgley who acted as editor of the "Gazette". Brown relinquished the "Gazette" some time between July 25, 1821, and June 14, 1823, says Mr. Wilson, to Thomas A. Turner.

Exactly when Brown sold out his Montreal interests to devote himself to the St. Andrews mill, is hard to tell, but in 1826 he gave up the mill he had owned since 1805 in St. Gabriel Street Church in Montreal.

On the other hand, in the year 1813 he was appointed to be Captain in the Division of Argenteuil. The appointment was made by Sir George Prevost, Baronet, Captain General and Governor-in-Chief of the Province of Lower Canada. It was signed in the Castle of St. Lewis, at Quebec, the 20th day of March, 1813.

Some time after the closing of the mill in 1834, Brown moved to Montreal, where he died May 23, 1845, and where his remains are now interred in Mount Royal Cemetery. But two of his children, John O. Brown and Miss Brown, were living at St. Andrews and members of Christ Church when Dr. Campbell published his history in 1887. John Ogilvie Brown, born March 13, 1810, died on February 20, 1891.

In the spring of 1834, according to Colin Dewar, quoted by Cyrus Thomas, the dam of the mill gave way under the spring floods, and the Seigneur, Col. Christopher Johnson, would not allow Brown to rebuild it, as the thirty year lease for water power had run out. Thomas goes on to say that after two or three years of litigation, Johnson bought up all Brown's property, but the mill was allowed to lie idle, exactly one hundred years ago.

This is all I have gathered so far about James Brown. A proper biography of him cannot be written without perusing his letters in St. Sulpice library. In the meantime I shall be grateful to any one who will correct, or add to, the above information, as I am most anxious to complete it."

To Form a Museum Society

During the proceedings the nucleus of historical society was formed, Mrs. Kuhring being appointed to convene a committee, with a view to preserving in official hands all the documents and relics of value in local history. The resolution, sponsored by Dr. B. N. Wales and seconded by Dr. Maude Abbott, is as follows:

Whereas, participants in this historical celebration under the auspices of the Women's Institutes of the County of Argenteuil feel the importance of the preservation of valuable historical documents in the hands of an officially appointed body,

A New Kind of Motoring

Thanks to these McLaughlin-Buick Triumphs

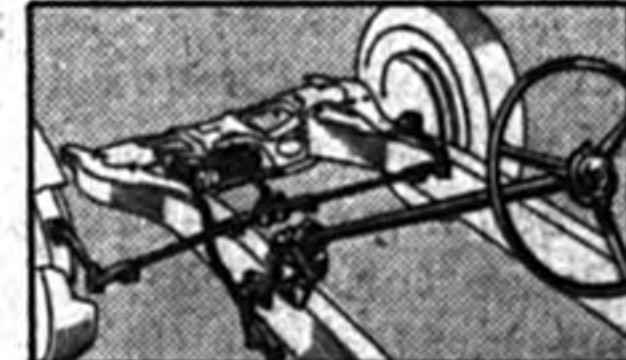

KNEE-ACTION WHEELS

"Knee-action" permits each front wheel to follow the irregularities in the road without transmitting shock to the opposite wheel or to the frame and body of the car. No pitching, bouncing, jarring.

AIR-CUSHION TIRES

Air Cushion Tires of entirely new design "swallow up" vibrations resulting from riding over stones, shallow holes and pavement strips. They carry only 24 lbs. pressure for traction, safety and comfort.

CENTER-POINT STEERING

Center-control steering, in connection with the new front end design, provides 20% increased efficiency and ease in turning and parking the car. Wheel shimmy and wandering are eliminated.

RISE STABILIZER

The new Sway Stabilizer—a spring steel bar—is mounted across the rear end of the frame to prevent the car body from swaying or rolling from side to side. Corners are rounded on even keel.

And whereas the time has arrived when there should be organized an historical society for the County of Argenteuil,

It is proposed that the County President of the Argenteuil County Quebec Women's Institutes, Mrs. Kuhring, be appointed to convene a committee from among those interested, to proceed with such organization.

is spending this week as guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Cooke.
Miss M. Pope was also a weekend guest at their home.

Most of the school teachers whose homes are in this community have returned for the summer holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Veit and family are leaving this week for their vacation and are motoring to Gaspe, where they will visit friends for the next three weeks. Mr. Lannahan, of Montreal, is relieving Mr. Veit at the bank.

The parsonage bush has been cleared and is being prepared for the annual Dominion Day picnic which is being held this Saturday. The Church is indebted to the members who gave their time to have this work done.

The concert held in Staniforth hall last Saturday in aid of the Parsonage Fund was very successful and enjoyed by all present. The artists who gave the programme have consented to return again in the Fall. Mr. Hutchins, Diocesan Lay Reader and leader of the concert party, preached at Matins at Grace Church on Sunday.

The regular monthly meeting of the W. A. was held at the home of Mrs. A. B. Morrison, with a good attendance.
Mrs. H. Morrison, who has been confined to her home all winter with a broken hip, was welcomed back. Refreshments were served by the hostess at the conclusion of the meeting.

The A. Y. P. A. enjoyed a "weiner roast" on the Parsonage field last Saturday evening. Games and singing around the bonfire made a pleasant evening for all. The regular meeting was held Sunday evening, at which Mr. J. Owen was made an honorary member. Mr. Owen is staying with with Rev. G. Phillips for the summer as Honorary Parish Lay Reader.

THEY SPEAK FOR THEMSELVES

POUR on milk or cream.
Then listen to Kellogg's Rice Krispies. Their "Snap!
Crackle! Pop!" tells a story of delicious crispness.

You'll love their flavor.
Great for breakfast or lunch. Ideal for the children's supper. Light and easy to digest. Ready-to-eat.
Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

ST. ANDREWS EAST

The Sunday School of the Presbyterian Church held their Annual Picnic at MacDonell's Beach on Tuesday afternoon.
The weather was fine, and there was a large attendance.
The Beach has been cleaned up,
a kitchen built and a stove installed in it; there is a large table to seat about eighty people comfortably, all of which which makes an ideal picnic resort.

Miss Agnes Rodger, R.N., of the Montreal General Hospital,

Ballantyne to Howick last week.

The play which is to be presented by the Dramatic Club of the Presbyterian Church on Saturday evening, is the companion play to "Valley Farm", given by the Club last year.
The cast is almost the same,
and the plot involves the people in the same town.

Dr. Ballantyne preached in Howick last Sunday and his pulpit was acceptably filled by Rev. Mr. Heyworth of Chicago.
