Lachute Town Wins Decision in Business Tax Suit

Judge Surveyer Gives Judgment in Case of Lachute Town vs. Canadian National Express

The Town of Lachute has won a case of considerable importance against the Canadian National Express Company, a suit which has been before the attention of the Bar for some time.

The Town had, in virtue of article 526 of the Cities and Towns Act, adopted a By-law imposing a business tax, on any commercial profession or financial establishment; and by section 34 of the said By-Law, a business tax of $50.00 is imposed annually on express companies.

There are two express companies doing business in this town, namely the Canadian National Express Company and the Canadian Pacific Express Company. The latter company paid the business tax of $50.00 but the Canadian National Express refused to pay, on the ground that it was no longer in business in the Town of Lachute.

The Town therefore took action against the company for three years' business tax, amounting to $150.00 with interest, in order to present a test case of its right to impose this business tax.

In defense to this action, the Canadian National Express Co. pleaded the following reasons: That under the terms of the Federal Statute, 13, 14 George V, chapter 7, assented to on 13th. June 1923, authority was conferred upon the Canadian National Railway Company to carry on all business which is customarily carried on by Express companies.

That the said Canadian National Express was no longer in the express business in connection with the railway as a separate corporation, but that all express business formerly handled by defendants is now handled by said Canadian National Railway Company, and forms a department of the said railway service.

It was proven at the hearing that the Canadian National Express retained its corporate existence, but that the management of its properties and business was done by the Canadian National Railway Company.

In support of its contention the Canadian National Express Company cited a decision of Judge Denton of the City of Toronto against the Canadian National Express Co., for business tax, which case was dismissed on the ground that the Canadian National Express was no longer in business, therefore not liable for the tax.

But Mr. Justice Surveyer has established the distinction that exists between the Cities and Towns Act of the Province of Quebec, and the Ontario Assessment Act. The Ontario Act assesses the person carrying on business, while the Quebec Act taxes the business or means of earning a profit, independently of the person carrying on the same.

So, as the Canadian National Express Co. was still virtually in business, Judge Surveyer decided that the Company is still subject to taxation as its business is done by the management of the Railway, and the Town's action against the Canadian National Express Co. was maintained for the full amount of the taxes claimed, with costs.

L. L. Legault, K.C., represented the Town, while Messrs. Harwood & Côté appeared for the Canadian National Express Company.

STE. AGATHE PREPARES FOR SPORT CARNIVAL

The Ste. Agathe Chamber of Commerce has completed arrangements for the regatta and carnival which is one of the major attractions at Ste. Agathe and growing in importance as an annual summer event.

This year's event is scheduled for July 20, 21 and 22, and it is to be a representative sports meeting for the whole of the Laurentian district. It will include a grand stand performance each night, when the annual competitions for the championship of the north country in jig-dancing, fiddle playing, log-rolling and similar contests will be staged.

Last year's meeting brought out some splendid talent in the swimming and diving contests, while neighboring lakes were represented in the paddling, sailing and power boat races. With present plans to put the meeting on in a bigger scale, and with the whole Laurentian region to draw from, this year's affair promises some keen competition.

FIRST BATHING FATALITY -- GREECE'S POINT

Greece's Point.—The first drowning fatality of the season recorded in this district occurred on Tuesday morning, when David Deane, of Montreal, who was spending his vacation at home of Mr. and Mrs. Grundy, Greece's Point, lost his life in the Ottawa River. Accompanied by some friends he had gone down to Sandy Bay for an early morning swim and had gone out some distance. Returning, he was not far from shore when he was seen to be in distress and sank before aid could reach him. The body was recovered in about 12 feet of water and Coroner Laroux, of Grenville, sent for. On examination he pronounced death due to heart failure, as there was little evidence of water in the lungs. An inquest was not considered necessary and the young man's relatives in Montreal who were duly notified, came and removed the body to the city for burial.

Deane was only 24 years of age. It is understood he had come to Canada quite recently from Wales, where his parents still reside.

Deane and his two friends were said to be employees of the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal.

50 YEARS A READER AND LIKES IT!

Hearing frequent criticism on his efforts to publish a newspaper, the Editor may be pardoned for referring once in a while to the more favorable comments. LIGHTNING KILLED FARM LABORER

Heat Storms Take Toll

A bolt of lightning struck and killed Leopold Ranger, aged 25, a farm laborer, as he was working in a corn field on the farm of Arthur Renaud at East Hawkesbury last Thursday afternoon, in a storm which also visited these parts but with no serious effects. No rain was falling at the time of the fatality.

Renaud was also working in the field about 200 yards away from Ranger, when a sudden crash of thunder accompanied by a piercing scream reached his ears. He did not notice any lightning flash. Looking around to see where the scream came from, he noticed his hired man lying on the ground in an unconscious condition.

Hurrying to Ranger's assistance, Renaud found him apparently dead, part of his body being terribly burned and part of his clothing burned away. A hurried call was sent to St. Eugene for Dr. C. E. Lacerte. The doctor on his arrival pronounced the man dead. In addition to a portion of the clothing being burned, metal buckles on Ranger's braces and belt had entirely disappeared and it is believed that they had been melted.

Coroner H. H. Kirby, of Hawkesbury, was called and viewed the body and after inquiring into the circumstances of the man's death, decided an inquest would be unnecessary. Ranger's home was at Rigaud.

THE WATCHMAN AND LIQUOR ADVERTISING

An Editorial

The sentiment of Ontario newspaper publishers is voiced in the statement of Edmond G. Odette, who "feels that Ontario papers have been unfairly penalized", being unable to participate in the lucrative advertising of liquors—"especially when papers and magazines from other provinces come into Ontario carrying all kinds of advertising of beer and liquor."

The Watchman is broad-minded enough to believe there are still a few Ontario publishers who have no desire for the return of liquor advertising.

In modest reference to the policy of this newspaper, it might be pointed out that liquor propaganda has found no place in its columns—in spite of revenues, climbing well into four figures, which might be derived annually from such advertising.

The Watchman has no criticism to offer on the moderate use of liquor. It has no quarrel with the distributors of liquor, many of whom are good, constructive citizens. nor any conflict with the manufacturers, who often rank foremost in projects for public interest and progress. The editor, however, is convinced that wholesale liquor propaganda is not in the best interests of this or any community. And under the circumstances he feels no great sacrifice in turning down fat contracts for advertising.

While Ontario papers may have been "penalized" in this matter, we are sure there will be a few editors who decline to take advantage when restrictions are lifted on liquor publicity.

CONFIRMATION SERVICE AT ST. SIMEON'S

The Right Rev. J. C. Farthing, Bishop of the Diocese of Montreal, visited Lachute on Monday evening and conducted a Confirmation Service in St. Simeon's Church. He was welcomed by a large congregation. His Lordship confirmed a class of six candidates, also dedicated a silver bread box which had been donated by the Girl's W. A.

The Bishop based his sermon on "Foundations", pointing out that our characters should be built up of gold, silver and precious stones, not stubble and hay. He showed how much more necessary honor was for a firm character than even honesty. If a man has an honorable name, he is naturally honest, but still may be honest and not honourable. We should be fair and true at all times, having Jesus Christ as our example and always seeking to be a missionary for his cause.

On Tuesday, His Lordship held services at Dunany, Louisa and Brownsburg, leaving on Wednesday for Shrewsbury and Lakefield.

DOMINION DAY OBSERVED AT ST. MATTHEW'S

Dominion Day was suitably observed at St. Matthew's Church, Grenville, on Sunday. The special collect, Epistle and Gospel were read and patriotic hymns were sung.

The church was decorated with maple leaves and a large Canadian flag draped the altar. The rector officiated and also preached. The subject of the sermon was the "Early Discoveries of Canada," with especial reference to Jacques Cartier, and the United Empire Loyalists, and the example of loyalty and courage with Christian devotion they set for posterity.

Town Council Discusses Lighting of Main Street

Will also Seek Permit to Borrow $6,868

The regular monthly meeting of the Lachute Town Council was held in the Town Hall, on Wednesday last, with Mayor A. Larocque presiding. Aldermen Jno. Rice, O. Laurin, Jas. McGibbon, H. Lamarche, K. McQuat, C. Durocher, Geo. Muir, G. Raymond and H. Legault were in attendance.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

It was moved by Ald. Durocher, with Ald. Laurin as second, that application be made to the Municipal Commission for permit to borrow $6,868 in case of need, for the purchase of a fire pump, which will later be reimbursed by the Government grant.

Mr. R. Dupras, representing the Francis Hankin Co'y. of Montreal, urged the purchase of a special nozzle for flushing purposes and also a metre. This matter will be taken up at a future meeting. Fire Commissioner Lavigne had intimated that the town hydrants must be rethreaded to meet requirements of new equipment, and it was considered that as Mr. Tremblay had made promise that this work would be satisfactorily executed as part of the agreement of sale, it was up to Mr. Tremblay to see that the rethreading was done, either by him or by the suggested firm of McCarthy, and no money would be paid to the Bickle Company until work was completed.

The secretary reported that the law-suit pending for the last few years for collection of business tax against the C.N.R. Express Co'y. was now settled in favor of the town, by judgment of Judge Surveyer of Montreal.

The Mayor presented a move which he felt would be greatly in the interest of the town, reporting that he had communicated with the Gatineau Power Company through the local manager, Mr. Gosselin, relative to changing the lighting system on Main Street from the sides of the street to the centre. The power company had submitted plans of modern standards with large globes and high powered lamps, that would prove most attractive and be an asset to the town in brightening up the Main thoroughfare.

FORMER ST. ANDREWS MINISTER RETIRES

Rev. R. J. Miller, who left St. Andrews East some six years ago to assume the pastorate of the Presbyterian Church at Fort Coulonge, has retired from the ministry on account of ill health, his resignation having been acknowledged in the presentation of two beautiful gifts by his late congregation.

Rev. and Mrs. Miller are favorably remembered in these parts, having since returned to pay their annual visits to Mr. Joseph Bradley and other friends in the St. Andrews district. Rev. Miller is 75 years of age. He was ordained in Ireland 46 years ago, and for several years was professor of classics at a well known university in Belfast, Ireland. After following his ministerial career in Ireland for 24 years, he came to Canada in 1912.

Last week the ladies of the Fort Coulonge congregation presented Mrs. Miller with a leather pocketbook and Rev. Miller with a leather bill fold. The Beaver Club which Rev. and Mrs. Miller organized for the young people of the church, presented Rev. Miller with a pair of gold cuff links and Mrs. Miller with an umbrella.

Rev. Miller and Mrs. Miller will later take up residence in Mattawa, New Jersey.

ing up the Main thoroughfare. Dr. Mason, Dr. Drew and others present gave strong backing to the project, as did members of the Council; but some of the aldermen were of the opinion that it might be better to leave the matter over until the Spring.

Dr. Rodrigue appeared before the Council with a request that the financial statement of the Town's affairs should be published in order that the rate-payers may know the exact standing of the town financially.

Mr. White, who is picking up men for work in the camps of Northern Ontario, came forward and said he required 250 men, but many willing to go to the woods were unable owing to lack of necessary train fare of $23.70. Mr. White had interviewed Sir George Perley relative to Government advancement as a relief measure, but was told it was a provincial matter, and that if Quebec thought proper to assume this obligation the Federal Government would doubtless do likewise. The secretary was instructed to place the matter before the Minister of Public Works at Quebec.

PTE. FORTUNE FARMER FATALLY GORED BY BULL

Trampled by the same bull which last year almost killed his daughter, Theophile Charette, 64-year old farmer who resided a mile east of Pointe Fortune, died at his home last Monday. He had suffered eight broken ribs and severe internal injuries.

Dr. Armand Trepanier, coroner of the district, held an inquest on Tuesday morning. A year ago Amanda Charette 40-year-old daughter of the victim, was gored by the beast and for two months her life was considered to be in danger. Monday afternoon at the same spot in the pasture, Charette himself was struck down and crushed to death.

The farmer had stepped into the pasture to bring the cows in to be milked when the dangerous animal charged him. His horns had been cut since the animal's attack last year, but this precaution proved insufficient.

As he saw the bull charge, Charette, started to run for safety. Within a few yards, however, the animal overtook him, pitched him to the ground and crushed his body with repeated blows.

Dr. Omer Faubert of Rigaud, was called and rendered first aid. The victim was so badly injured, however, that less than three hours after the accident, Charette died.

Neighborhood farmers state that the bull was well known in the district as a dangerous beast.

ST. CANUT RESIDENT SUICIDE VICTIM

A verdict of suicide was rendered last Monday by Coroner Brais, M.D., of St. Jerome, in the case of A. Trotter, 72 years of age, of St. Canut, who shot himself with a revolver at his home Monday morning. The coroner was told the man had been in ill health and despondent for some time.

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Criminally Responsible for Young Farmer's Death

Held criminally responsible for the death of A. Charbonneau, 25 year old farmer of St. Fausin, who was crushed between the rear of his vehicle and an oncoming passenger car on the Ste. Rose highway on Thursday morning last, Raoul Lachapelle, 27, of Montreal, driver of the motor vehicle which crushed Charbonneau, was ordered to appear on a charge of manslaughter. Lachapelle was also injured in the accident.

At the inquest five witnesses testified that the automobile driven by Charbonneau was going at about 35 miles per hour at the time of the crash. There were three persons riding in the front seat besides the driver. The witnesses stated that they failed to see the stationary motor truck on the highway and crashed into the rear of it.

George Lortie and Romeo Bourgeois, who were driving with Charbonneau, stated that they were taking a load of strawberries to Montreal. They stopped by the side of the road and Charbonneau was standing behind his truck when he was struck by the oncoming vehicle and crushed against his own truck. The truck was pushed 22 feet after the collision.

The jury returned their verdict holding Lachapelle criminally responsible for Charbonneau's death.

W.I. AND INTERNATIONAL PEACE GARDEN

When the projected International Peace Garden, for which a large tract of land, partly in Manitoba and partly in North Dakota, has been set aside, is an accomplished fact, Canadian Women's Institutes will have a share in it. Plans are being developed by which each Province is to provide a collection of plants or shrubs significant of the province from which it comes, and a committee is now at work on the necessary arrangements for this feature.

WHAT ARE SUNBONNETS
FOR?

Laura May found it very hard to get to sleep that night, and when at last she did fall asleep she dreamed—oh, such funny dreams; big white elephants and little white elephants chased each other around and around in front of her, and the strangest thing about it was that they all wore sunbonnets. The tiny elephants had pink sunbonnets, and the middle-sized elephants had green ones, and the great big monstrous elephants wore big, monstrous ones of blue and yellow which bobbed up and down as they ran. Laura May laughed right out loud in her sleep, they looked so funny. But when the biggest monstrous elephant heard Laura May laugh he came and stood before her and in a very loud voice tooted, "What are sunbonnets for?" Laura May was so frightened that she tried to scream too. She tried to call for her mother but something seemed to be stopping her, just as if the monstrous elephant was sitting on her chest and would not get off. She managed to make some funny sounds which awakened her mother, who came hurrying in to shake her gently and say "Wake up, Laura May, you are having bad dreams. Great-aunt Laura would say you were having a night-mare."

"A night-mare, Mummie. I should say it was, but it was not horses I saw but elephants—crowds of them, and they all wore sunbonnets." Laura May got no further, for Uncle Bob had been awakened too and had rushed to see what was wrong with his "little sweetheart" as he called Laura May at times, and his shout of laughter roused the household. "Laura May, oh Laura May!" he said, "you had too much strawberry shortcake for supper." "Indeed I did not," Laura May began indignantly, "I only had three pieces."

"Oh yes, and about forty more before you came to the table!" Uncle Bob said with another chuckle. "I know your tricks, little girl."

Laura May turned her back and buried her face in the pillow "Go away, Uncle Bob," she said "You're horrid."

Mother Harper stayed with her until she went to sleep again, then went softly back to her own room. "I shall have to be getting a tonic for the child," she said to her husband who had also been disturbed by the commotion.

"I think if you would watch her diet more closely it would be better than a tonic. You are so sensible, Ella, about Laura May in other things, that I often wonder why you let her eat so much rich food, especially at bed-time or almost at bed time."

"If you think that is what is the trouble, I shall certainly take more care of her," said Mother Harper as she slipped in between the sheets with a platform looking eagerly for Great-aunt Laura had certainly

Next morning, after much teasing from Uncle Bob, Laura May got into the car with Daddy and went to the station to meet Great-aunt Laura, her little heart beating high with excitement. "There she comes!" her dad exclaimed as the train with a great bluster of steam, noise of breaks, and a piercing whistle pulled in at the station. Getting out of the car the two went hand in hand along the platform looking eagerly for Great-aunt Laura.

Suddenly, from somewhere behind them a thin old voice said, "Why, bless me, is this really Glenanton? How it is changed. I won't know where to turn."

"Oh yes you will, Aunt Laura," said Mr. Harper. "I am right here to guide you," taking her bag from her as he spoke.

"Why Edward, is it you? How you have changed too, and surely this little brown child is not my great-niece, Laura?"

"Just Laura May, no less and no more" chuckled her daddy. Great-aunt Laura had not changed a bit either!

"Where's your hat, child? demanded the austere lady.

"At home" said Laura May in a meek little voice.

"At home! The idea!" great-aunt Laura cried in a shocked voice. "No wonder you are so brown, tearing around the country without a hat. I don't know what your mother is thinking about to let you. I thought she had more sense. I have just come in time I see. Put the top of the car up, please Edward, I cannot stand so much sun."

Mr. Harper put up the top of the car, and away they went towards home. Laura-May's vision of a pretty bracelet with tiny white elephants dangling from it faded rapidly away as they rode along, and she felt that Great-aunt Laura's eyes were searching her face and her large hooked nose was wrinkling up with disgust as she surveyed her wind-tossed curls, her sunburned face and bare legs. The fact that she had donned sandals in Great-aunt Laura's honor did not seem to help the situation in the least.

Lovingly,
Aunt Jean.

The New York Times states: The famous bells of St. Leonard's Church, in the Borough of Shoreditch, London, silent since last Fall, are to be repaired and again put to use. They consist of a peal of twelve chimes, St. Leonard's being one of the few churches in London which can boast of that number. The bells have been enshrined in the familiar nursery rhyme, "When I grow rich, ring the bells of Shoreditch."

It is recorded that the bells rang a peal in honor of the Duke of Cumberland's victorious return from Culloden in 1746, and the Duke presented the ancient society of bell-ringers, "The London Scholars", with a medallion.

The St. Leonard's Church of today was opened in 1740, and is the third mother church of Shoreditch.

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, July 8th, is "Sacrament."

The Golden Text is: "The bread of God is he which cometh down from heaven, and giveth life unto the world. (John 6: 33).

The following correlative passages are selected from among those comprised in the Lesson-Sermon to be read from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:—

CANADA'S BILL FOR EDUCATION

Ottawa, Canada.—Public expenditure on education in Canada amounts to $63.63 a year for every student attending school. A recent report issued by the Canadian Government shows that education involves a public expenditure of about $165,000,000 yearly.

Education in Canada is under the control of the provinces, except for the task of instructing the Indians who are wards of the Dominion Government. The provincial governments have made ample provision for primary, secondary, and higher education. In each province there is a complete system of public and high schools, aided by the Government with liberal grants while in each province there is also one or more universities where, in addition to the courses in arts and science, there are faculties of medicine, law, and dentistry. Technical schools and agricultural colleges, where those who desire to specialize along these lines may have an opportunity to fit themselves for their life work, are found in every province.

In 1932 there were 32,901 educational institutions in Canada employing 86,216 teachers and attended by 2,593,116 pupils, almost 25 per cent of the whole population.

Thoughts in Passing

By L. W. Armstrong

June 28th.

The twenty-eighth of June is a red-letter day in modern history; the day on which a fanatical Serbian student shot and killed an unimportant Austrian Prince.

That incident set in motion a series of tragic events unparalleled in all history.

25,000,000 men were killed and wounded. Germany lost all her foreign possessions, her throne and considerable territory in Europe.

The Royal family of Russia went down before a firing squad.

Disrupted the economic life of the civilized world for at least twenty years.

And, as if that were not enough, the firing of that shot has paved the way for an even more frightful catastrophe than that of 1914-18.

How many generations of civilized peoples are to suffer because of the march of events set in motion twenty years ago by an assassin's pistol?

Belgium Neutrality.

A report worth of note is that Belgium is most anxious to obtain Britain's guarantee of her neutrality.

The people of that small country will know just how their great neighbour across the channel keep their word as outlined in a "scrap of paper."

The British Statesman, on the other hand have not forgotten what it cost their Empire to keep their word twenty years ago.

Have they this in mind when they request the Belgium Government to secure a ten-year non-aggression treaty with Germany?

Over and above all this, is England to become involved in the troublesome affairs on the Continent again?

And, should not the Dominions and the Colonies of the Empire be consulted before any such move is made?

While it may be all very well to talk patriotism, is it fair that England should make such agreements, and, when trouble begins, call on her subjects across the seas to assist her?

On Prorogation.

The Dominion Parliament, then, cannot be compared to Tennyson's famous brook. They are really going to call a halt, for a time, at least.

Hansard must now be swelled beyond recognition.

Would it not be interesting to learn of the cost to the country for this last session and the numbers of laws passed?

Then, we feel sure, we could determine how much it costs the taxpayers per law.

While we are at it, we would like to have all the amounts expended by our law-makers in connection with the coming Federal Elections carefully tabulated.

We feel sure that all this fuss about putting an 'X' on a slip of paper is an expensive luxury.

After all this is said and done, we would merely like to infer, that it is our firm conviction that we have a much too expensive law-factory for the number of people it serves.

The Third Party.

The question has been raised: How much influence has the Third Party at Ottawa?

While no conclusive reply or replies are prevalent, it must be admitted that the Marketing Bill, for instance was a most radical measure especially for a Conservative Party; that Mr. Woodsworth claims he has been talking about a Bank of Canada for years and that the Stevens Inquiry Commission most certainly would never have seen the light of day had it been advocated five years ago.

There are many very active members within the ranks of that Party and they never pass up an opportunity to make it known just where they stand. Of course, the fact that they really have a platform gives them a decided advantage over many other members in the House.

Then, they are the official opposition in two provinces at the present time.

And yet, to hear some of the criticism which this Party receives from Quebec, one would think they were bent on bringing about the early destruction of this country; that they were hand in hand with the most obnoxious in Russia and the sooner they are swept out of the country the better.

However, there really is such a thing as intelligent, constructive criticism.

DECLINE IN MANNERS

The decline of manners has become clearly marked during the past few years and is by no means confined to the one sex. Ordinary politeness and civility have departed from the masses and their exercise is, apparently, something to be forgotten rather than promoted. It is now regarded in many quarters as the smart thing to be impolite and rude, and the influence of the home and the school, which has fallen down in so many other things, is equally negligible in this regard.

The Ottawa Spotlight

A Weekly Review of National Affairs

By Wilfrid Eggleston

Ottawa, July 3.—The parliamentary session just concluded was the most eventful since the war. It positively bristled with radical and far-reaching legislation. Tossed in for good measure was the Stevens inquiry into economic conditions, the most disturbing disclosure of low wages, exploitation of worker and consumer, fat profits blossoming on the barren soil of the depression, and so forth, in our day and age. Surely it is worth while to glance back at the highlights:

The creation of a Central Bank, privately owned.

The extension of the existing charters of private banks for ten years.

The setting of the legal interest rate at seven per cent, with heavy penalties for infraction, seven, of course, being the minimum.

The provision of cheap and simple machinery by which debt-harassed farmers can come to terms with their creditors, on a basis on which they are likely to be able to meet their obligations.

Provision for the issue of about $52,500,000 in Dominion notes without additional purchase of gold reserves. An 'inflationary step' which has been advocated by the Independents, radical Liberals, and even a few of the more advanced Conservatives for years. Few people believed that a government headed by R. B. Bennett would ever see such legislation introduced. Still, it is no dangerous departure from 'sound money.' We shall still have over 50% gold coverage.

The launching of a program of $40,000,000 in public works, to be financed not by borrowing, but by the above new Dominion notes. Much of the money is to be spent on large public buildings in the big cities. There has been some criticism of the large sums voted for police and military structures. Some members think a portion of the money should have been used for rehabilitation of 'slum' areas in the cities, the digging of dams and the sinking of wells in the dry prairie region, and so forth.

Protection for the unwary investor. Amendments to the Companies Act require strict auditing, truthful prospectuses, and the abandonment of high-pressure telephone and house to house calls by stock salesmen.

A new shipping act, which gives Canada her first marine law. Until the Act of Westminster, whereby Canada gained her sovereignty, our laws on shipping were British.

The imposition of a tax on gold, comprising one-quarter of the bonus on gold obtained by the profitable mines of long standing. The current bonus on gold is about $14 an ounce. Abolition of one half of the two cent tax on sugar.

Seventy tariff amendments, not very sweeping in nature, but nearly all downward, or increasing the British preference.

The Fourth Deficit

One of the less admirable features of the session was the reporting of a deficit for the year which, when railroad and special expenses were added, came to $135,000,000. Revenues in April, May and June, happily, were so much better than last year that it seems safe to predict a smaller deficit next year—possibly even a surplus on ordinary account.

An outstanding piece of legislation, and the subject of endless difference and controversy, was the new Natural Products Marketing Act. It was called "naked Fascism" and even worse names, but it was supported by two groups in the House (Conservatives and C.C.F. Independents) on the ground that it offered the farmer a chance to organize to stop some of the present exploitation of the primary producer.

The elections and franchise machinery of the country was pretty thoroughly overhauled. Many changes were made. Perhaps the most important was the abolition of the old voters' lists, compiled before each election, in favor of a permanent basic list regularly revised.

Separate grading of Garnet wheat after September 1, 1935.

New money ($25,000,000 and new powers to the Canadian Farm Loan Board.

As for the Stevens committee, it was so overwhelmed with material that it only got two-thirds through, and will sit this summer and fall. More of it anon. All in all, this was a session to write home about.

MAYOR LAGUARDIA CUTS SALARY

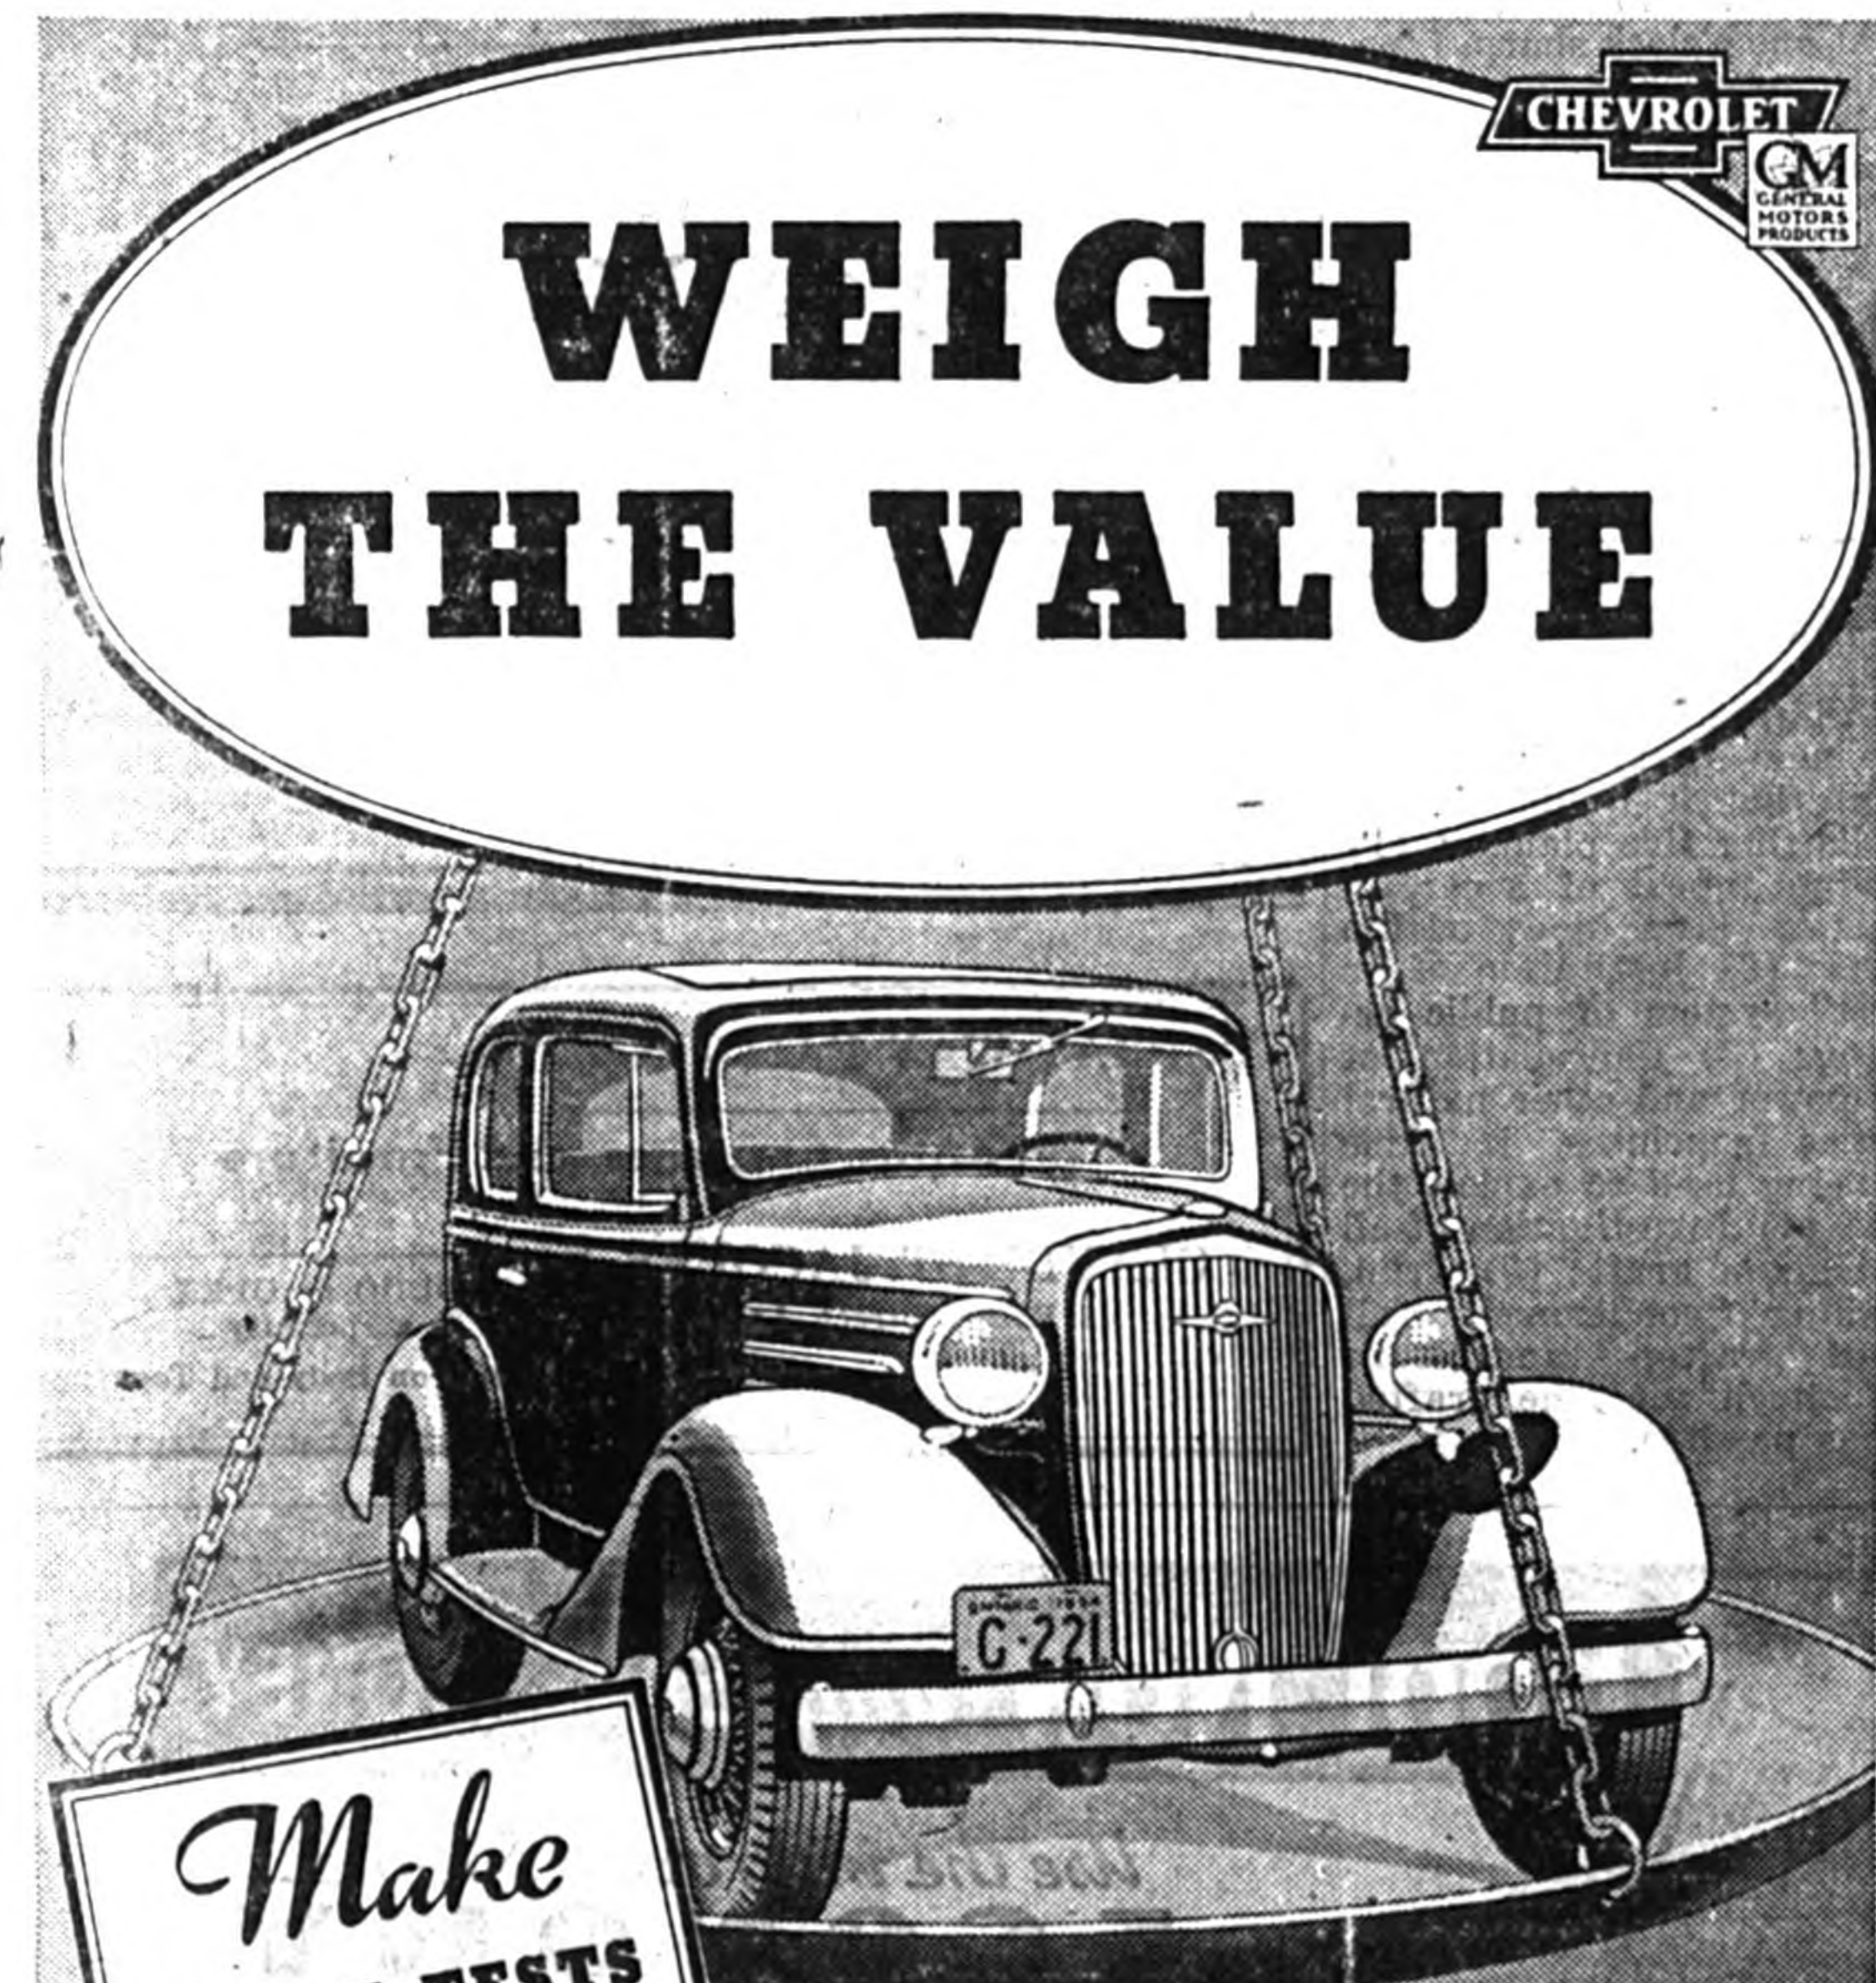

The office of mayor F. H. LaGuardia announced recently that he had taken a voluntary pay cut. His salary for 1934 will be $21,458, as compared with the $29,915 received by former Mayor John P. O'Brien. Former Mayor Jas. J. Walker received $40,000 a year, the top salary of any New York mayor. The Board of Estimate voted to abolish 1,062 positions to save $2,275,945.27 for the remainder of this year.

MAIL ORDER BOOK NO LONGER GOLDEN

The searching investigation committee headed by the Hon. Harry Stevens continues making investigations into large companies that have accumulated fortunes at the apparent expense of employees. Ontario papers refer to T. Eaton Co. and Robert Simpson Company as parasite mail order houses. People who have religiously referred to their mail order catalogues must now realize that these catalogues are no longer goods that yielded 100 per cent spread over golden or sacred to the household, for the investigation shows that these companies have sold manufacturing costs. The manufacturers have been dictated to by the mail order men as to what they would pay for the goods and the goods were manufactured accordingly at the expense of the employees. Time and time again The Echo and the retail merchants and dealers of this district have conducted publicity campaigns educating people on the worth of local stores to the district in place of buying from such mail order houses. The investigations going on merely bear out the statements then made, that the merchandise offered for sale was not comparable dollar for dollar with the merchandise offered by the local stores. The mail order houses have undoubtedly done their part in a magnanimous manner towards bringing about depression and trials and tribulations for many people in Canada.

GLASGOW GETS ORDER

A Glasgow company has received from the South African Railways an order for fifty locomotives to cost $1,500,000. There was keen competition for this contract in Europe and the United States.

ILLNESS IN CANADA COST $1,311,000,000

Illness of Canada's population costs $1,311,000,000 annually, three times the cost of the Dominion's fiscal sacrifice in the Great War, Dr. Gordon Bates, general secretary of the Social Hygiene Council, stated recently in an address at Toronto.

Two per cent of the Canadian population, he said, continually was sick and yet half the illness could be prevented. Governments, he said, are content to pay towards building and maintaining hospitals while they do not force pasteurization of milk for one thing. Yet this would be a simple matter, he claimed.

MOOSE JAW DISMISSES SCHOOL PERSONNEL

Teachers of the public schools and collegiate of Moose Jaw, Sask., janitors of the schools, maintenance men and the secretary-treasurer and his staff were notified that on and after June 30 their services will be no longer required.

At a special meeting of the school trustees, motions were passed which said that owing to lack of finances the school boards would be unable to retain the services of the staffs.

Between now and next September every means of finding the necessary finances to keep the schools open will be explored. At the present time, the school trustees could see no way of raising the necessary money until taxes are paid.

R. L. Calder, K.C., Outlines Third Party Program

Spoke at Montreal Gathering

Four of the most intelligent and most honest members of the Reform Club—"Monk, Martineau, Cormier, Paul Gouin"—have ceased to support the Taschereau Government, said R. L. Calder, K.C., during an address in which he outlined some of the aims and objects of the new Third Party in the Province of Quebec delivered at a meeting of the Federation Populaire in Montreal on Monday evening.

Mr. Calder declared that the new party—which had among its adherents "Guerin, Barre and myself"—had been forced to unite all the opposition elements in the province, so that they could march together as a real power in the political life of the province.

Until now, he said, there had been no party or group to which dissatisfied Liberals or Conservatives could turn when they lost faith in their own party. For instance, disgruntled Liberals could not support Mr. Duplessis because he and Mr. Taschereau "live in the same house on the same street". The Conservatives, the speaker said, had no chance of ascending to power in this province while there remained behind their forces certain party veterans ready to tear the Conservative ranks in two for the sake of individual interests.

Mr. Calder said that he wished to talk of the Third Party, not as its chief—for it was still in the formative process—but as one of its followers. He could not say what its exact platform would be for he did not claim to be a prophet. And, he emphasized, he was still independent, an ex-member of both the Conservative and Liberal parties who was now an adherent of the Third Party, but one who did not guarantee to remain forever as a follower of the latter sect.

Change is Needed

In changing times, changing politics are needed, Mr. Calder contended. All questions must be considered in their true and proper lights, without religious or racial tinges. Furthermore, the "real" issues should be submitted to the people. The speaker made it clear that he was not opposed to capitalists or capitalism, but he was equally explicit in explaining that he was most certainly opposed to some of the capitalistic class who, he said, had gained too

Dow Brewery Team Will Visit Lachute

On Sunday, July 8th., at 2 o'clock p.m., the Dow Brewery Base-Ball Club will play against Ayers Limited team at Ayers' Field. The Dow Brewery Base-Ball Team will thus visit Lachute for the first time and will present a strong organization to give local base-ball fans a game to be remembered.

Langille, the Ayers Twirler, will pitch against either Lahaie, Tarte or Dumoulin of the Dow Club. The Dow Brewery team has also on its line-up Alfie Malfara, first baseman, and Catcher Charlie Dallaire, two players who have been given try-outs by the Royals of the International League.

The Dow Brewery team will tour the principal cities of Canada during the 1934 season under the management of Ubald Rose, the well known base-ball star, who is now representative of the Dow Brewery. The Dow team will arrive at Desjardins' Hotel, Lachute, at eleven o'clock a.m. in their travelling bus.

The entire proceeds of this game will go to the Ayers team and every base-ball fan of Lachute and the vicinity should make it his duty to come and cheer the Home Stars against the Dow Team.

The game will be under the patronage of Messrs. Arthur Larocque, Mayor of Lachute, who will pitch the first ball, and Pierre Beaubien, Vice-President of the Dow Brewery, who will be at the Watching End.

A parade headed by the local Brass Band, with the two teams in uniforms, will leave the Desjardins Hotel for Ayers' Field at one o'clock sharp. Line-ups are published in posters now placed around Lachute and the locality.

An honest farmer was asked why he did not subscribe for a newspaper. "Because," said he, "my father, when he died, left me a good many papers, and I haven't read them through yet" much power in this province.

While unwilling definitely to commit himself on the platform of the new party, Mr. Calder thought that it would contain the following five planks: (1) Immediate repeal of a certain number of laws now on the statutes; (2) Institution of an "honest" system of public accounting; (3) Cancellation of water power and other natural resources franchises, if same were being used to exploit the people; (4) Investigation of all allegations of graft; (5) Trial, and jailing if condemned, of all types of "grafters", and return of as much of the grafted funds as possible.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Campbell, Dalesville, wish to announce the engagement of their eldest daughter Phyllis Catherine, to Charles Laurence Sidney, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Stephens, London, Ont. Marriage to take place early in August.

Wedding at Hill Foot

Biggs — Thompson

A quiet but pretty wedding took place on Saturday afternoon last, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Thompson, when their eldest daughter, Edna Caroline, became the bride of Frank Chester Biggs, of Pembroke, Ont.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of yacht blue crepe made on long lines with grey accessories and carried a sheaf bouquet of carnations and baby's breath. Her only attendant was her sister, Verda, who was gowned in pale green crepe with grey accessories and wore a corsage bouquet of sweet peas and ferns.

James Biggs, brother of the groom acted as best man.

Rev. W. LeCras of St. Simeon's Church, Lachute, officiated.

After the ceremony a luncheon was served. Later the bride and groom left for a short trip, and on their return will take up residence in Pembroke, Ont.

Nothing in modern times has equalled the agony of Governments at having to come to the conclusion that they can't economize without spending less money.

VOTES LIKE GRANDMA

Most of us think that we make up our own minds on such important things as our religion or our politics but the truth of the matter is that most of us are born with them and seldom change. Knowing that our maid had reached the age of twenty-one since the last election, I asked her if she wanted to go out and vote. She said that Grandma wanted her to vote and had put her on the voter's list. She went on to say that she was going to vote for Mr. because Grandma said he was a fine man. She thought the Conservative party was the best because Grandma always voted for them. I wondered how many of us were voting Conservative or Liberal because our grandmas or more possibly our grandpas had voted that way.

THE FAT FORTIES

Have you noticed the number of people, both men and women, who begin to take on weight when they arrive at the forties? This is not by accident. It doesn't just happen. There are reasons for it. If you know the causes, it is easier to find a prevention, so if you have already arrived at those perilous years or are about to arrive you may be interested. The glands come in for a lot of blame these days and once more the must take their share. The action of the glands slows up and this in turn slows up the works in our bodies so that it requires less food to keep our bodies running—less gas for the engine, so to speak. Then we have less energy, we do not move about quite as fast or as often. If we have been playing strenuous games we are apt to give them up entirely or to play them less often and to take them much easier. We take all sorts of exercise whether it be play or work a bit easier. So once again we need less food to supply our requirements. But do we take it? The answer to that usually is 'no'. So with less energy being used up and the same amount of fuel being supplied, the left-over goes to fat. And slowly and insidiously, ounce by ounce, on goes the fat, until the first thing we know we are pounds too heavy and slowing up more than ever. What to do about it? The answer is simple—easier to give than to do, perhaps. Exercise more! Walking is the best and easiest way, and eat a little less than you have been doing. In that way you will supply less fuel and use more of it, leaving less to store as fat. Forewarned is forearmed.

SMALL POTATOES

Even potatoes are much better when they are eaten fresh and those of you who can grow them are lucky. And aren't they good when they are new and small? Our grocer saves me the little new potatoes and is quite glad to as his other customers prefer them larger. I like the little ones when they are new because they are so good browned. After they are boiled I brown them quickly in a little dripping either in the oven or if it is not heated on top of the stove in a frying pan. If you do not do your new potatoes that way just try it some time. But they must be new and small to be at their best. One year we were buying our vegetables from a farmer. He was an old German and how he hated to dig those little potatoes. It worried him terribly. It did not matter that he was getting a far bigger price for them than he would ever get if he let them go on growing. To him it was a waste and he grumbled outrageously every time he dug them even though we paid him well.

SOME COOK BOOKS

I am always looking about for new recipes to try so I went to the library to have a look at their cook-books. These cook books are on such a high shelf that I can barely reach them and I can never see to read a title, consequently I do not know much about them. We have a very tall son who comes in handy for a human step ladder, so I took him along and brought home five cook-books, no less. Two of them are English and are of little use to us, partly because they use different measurements and are not exact; they give no temperatures for baking, the choice of food is different, most of it heavier than we like; and lastly, so much of it was too elaborate. Another cook book was too old and was written using heaping measurements. The next was recipes of famous women. This is an American book and most of the famous women are motion stars or wives or mothers of well-known men and has not much practical value. Mrs. Henry Ford gave a recipe for Winter strawberries which you may like to try. I have never done this but I have a friend who does and finds it very successful.

WINTER STRAWBERRIES

Crush perfect, fresh strawberries, being sure that each berry is well crushed. Add an equal amount of sugar, mix well and bottle in sterilized jars. This will keep and makes delicious short-cake for winter use. This friend of whom I spoke does pineapple in the same way using one and a quarter pounds of sugar to one pound of pineapple.

RHUBARB CONSERVE

1 quart rhubarb
1 quart cider vinegar
1 quart onions
Boil these for twenty minutes, then add 3 lbs. brown sugar, 1 teaspoon each cloves, cinnamon and allspice. Boil until thick adding salt and pepper to taste. Bottle in sterilized bottles. Serve with meats.

POTPOURRI

Always add a pinch of salt to anything made with chocolate. Lady fingers put together with a filling of cooked dates and nuts make a pleasant change from the usual cake for tea in summer. Try serving powdered ginger on watermelon.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST, AT BOSTON

Virtual completion of the new Christian Science Publishing House in Boston, Massachusetts, and gratitude to the Field for its loyal support which made this achievement possible, was the keynote at the Annual Meeting of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts, held on June 4th.

Better and quicker healing, and closer unity in its demonstration, as well as greater consecration to the ideals set up by Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, were impressed upon the "army of Christian Science workers," more than 6000 strong, who attended this Annual Meeting. These workers are representatives of a field which extends to such remote points as Australia, South Africa, the Philippines, as well as England and many of the continental countries. Practically every state in the Union and many parts of Canada also were represented.

UNUSUAL FEATURES ARE ARRANGED FOR OTTAWA EXHIBITION

Creator and his Band will be Feature Attraction for music lovers..... Thrills in Auto Races

With the opening of Ottawa Exhibition only seven weeks off the manager and directors confidently state that plans now completed give assurance that the 1934 exhibition will more than sustain the record of previous years for novelty and excellence along the various lines. The exhibition dates are August 20th to August 25th and six full days and six big nights are promised to young and old.

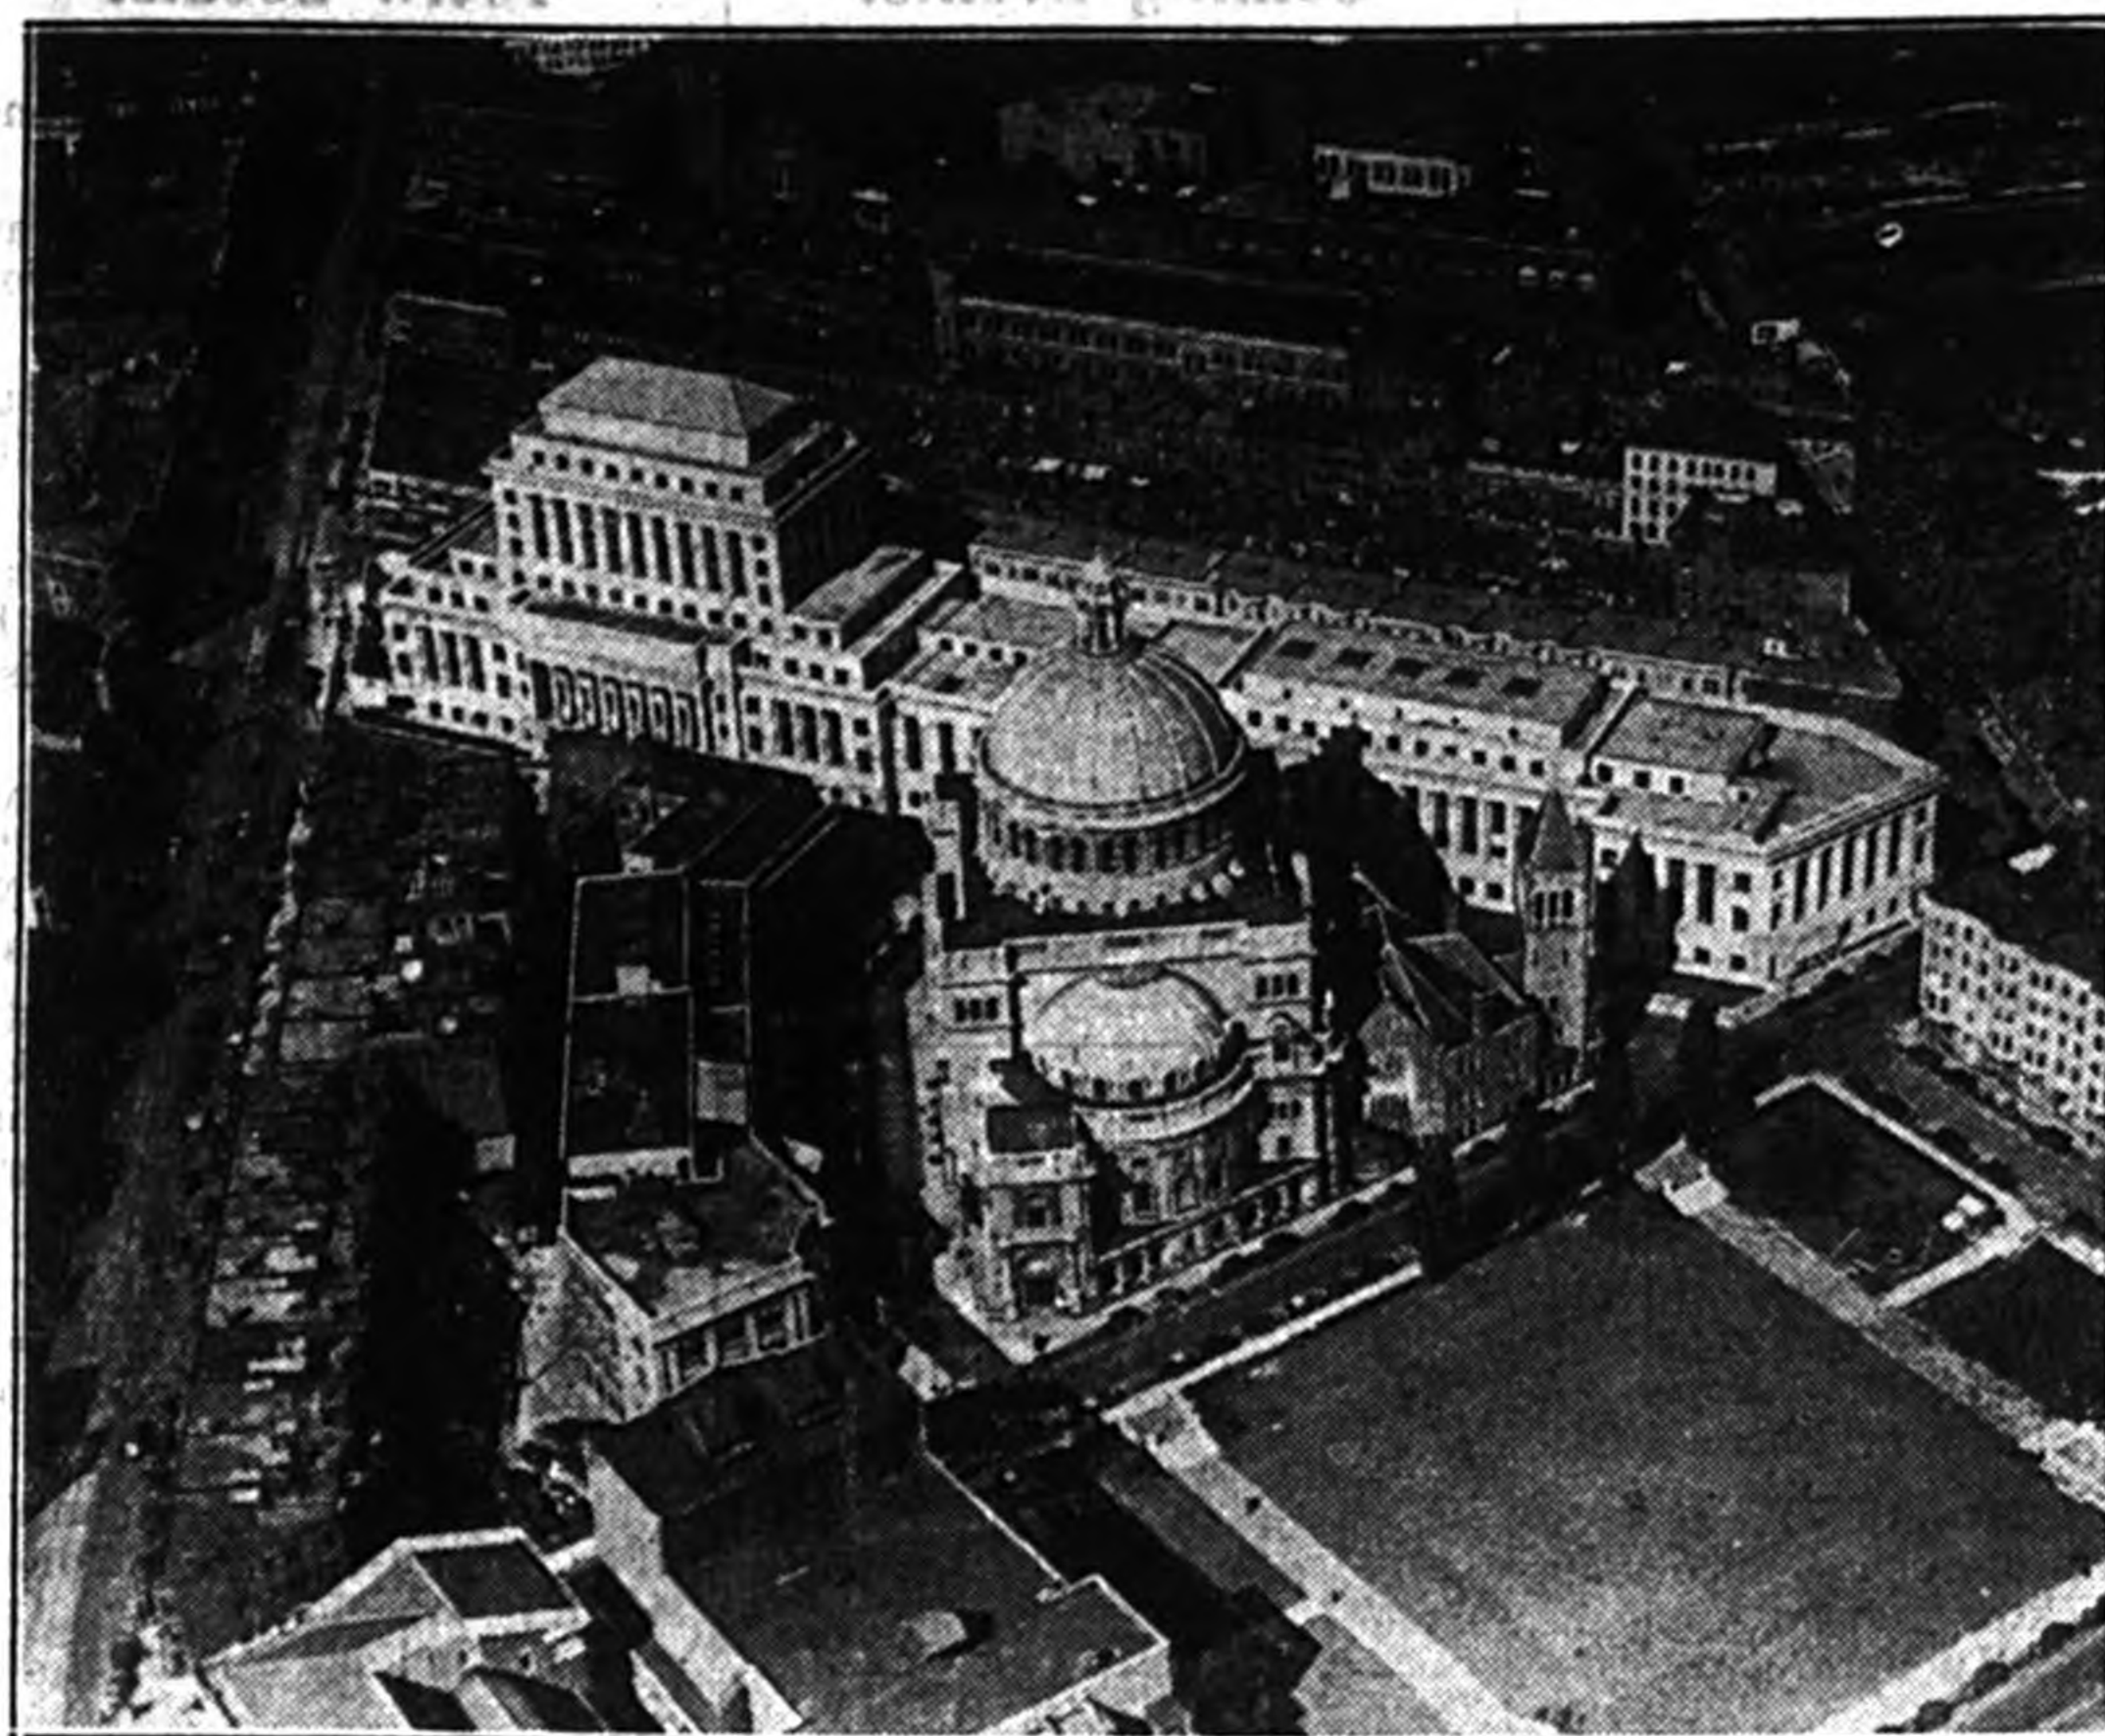

To many the outstanding factor will be the Creator Band. On previous visits, the last being in 1930, this great maestro and his wonderful organization of artists have created a furore among music lovers. Creator is different from all others. He is in a class by himself. His repertoire is one which appeals to all and during exhibition week two programs will be given each day in the shell bandstand, no extra charge being made.

For the feature evening attraction there will be the Follies Revue of 1934. This will be on an elaborate scale not attempted before for outdoor amusement and will bring back the musical comedy days of the legitimate theatres. Broadway artists, mostly girls, will give the latest in songs and dances, with a generous amount of comedy, and the production will be lavishly costumed and gorgeously staged.

Government displays again will be featured, both the Dominion and Ontario government departments making displays.

For the last two days of the week there will be automobile races in addition to the other features. Thrills aplenty are assured as some of the best professional dirt drivers on the continent will be there. For the first four days, horse races will be featured.

Junior agricultural competitions, poultry, pets and live stock; automobile show, pure food displays, dog show, displays by merchants and manufacturers; agriculture and horticulture, child welfare and baby show, displays by women's institutes, nightly horse shows in the Coliseum, machinery demonstrations and other factors will make the various buildings attractive to all. In the entertainment line there will be possibly the strongest bill of vaudeville ever assembled for the grandstand and a new midway will offer the latest in shows and rides.

The Phonograph Goes to School

By Clifton L. Hall, M.A.
Musical Review of Canada

If the food the majority of people eat were as bad as the music they hear, the race would have perished of indigestion and ptomaine poisoning ages ago. It is quite evident that, if the musical taste of the coming generations is to be any better than that of the present or the past, a desire for better music must be cultivated in the schools. The churches, we regret to say, appear to have (with some notable exceptions) relapsed into the practice of "giving the people what they like." Consequently congregations are weekly regaled with jazz hymns and cheaply sentimental anthems. The radio is in most homes, an instrument to be turned on and wound round and round until music is found as loud as possible and sufficiently rhythmical to allow father to beat time with his toe. Not much uplift from this source either.

More attention should be given to the type of music sung, played and heard in the schools, especially in the rural districts. If children hear no good music how can we expect them, when grown up, to have a taste for it? It seems strange that so few rural schools should possess a phonograph or radio. A worn-out reed-organ, or a battered square piano usually represents the community's most strenuous effort at "having music in the school." The piano generally goes so long without the ministrations of a tuner that, if he does actually try to put it in shape, it indignantly resents this intrusion and immediately relapses well below pitch again. The organ usually suffers from chronic asthma and has several notes missing.

A good phonograph is a valuable aid to teachers in the public school grades. Even a not-quite-so-good one is not to be despised. Now, when people are getting rid of phonographs by the thousand, and installing radios, so to be rid of the bother of winding and changing records, a good second hand phonograph may be bought for a small sum. A library of good records would be the next consideration. These might be obtained in various ways. Some might, of course, be purchased by the school, but then, again, they might not. At this point the

"depression" would serve. Local societies, clubs etc., might be prevailed on to donate a few from time to time. Lastly, people might give records for which they have no further use. Here a note of warning should be sounded. Let us beware of having our library of records resemble the collection of books in the usual school library. This, as all teachers know, is usually composed of donations of private individuals. The custom appears to be that, if you have any books which you do not yourself want, and which you are perfectly certain no one else wants, you generously donate them to the School Library! Let us beware of having our collection of records consist of a lot of old scratched, cracked and worn-out records of dance-music and cowboy songs!

Good, melodious vocal and instrumental numbers heard often will awaken a response in growing children that is impossible to arouse in their parents. Here the teacher will be called on to exercise taste and judgment in the selection of numbers simple, melodious and well within the comprehension of children. Strange as it may seem to many, the works of the masters abound in just such numbers. Luckily, the parents will not be in the classroom to suggest that some such atrocity as In the Baggage-Coach Ahead might be played "because it is such a sweet tune and always brought tears to dear grandma's eyes."

We will let our pupils, at the end of a writing-lesson, say, hear Schumann's Trauerrie played by a string quartet. And we will let them hear it often, because it is one of the great melodies of all time, and will be played and loved long after we and our doings are gone and forgotten. After a lesson in Arithmetic, what better tonic for tired nerves than a lively Gigue or Gavotte chosen from among the many by Bach, Handel and their contemporaries? Again, children studying Scott's Lady of the Lake will appreciate the beauty of the Lay of the Imprisoned Huntsman infinitely more if they hear Schubert's beautiful setting of it sung by such an artist as Richard Tauber. In fact, the possibilities in using good records to cultivate a love for the best music in correlation with the study of literature seem very great, especially after one reads the record catalogues issued by the Victor, Columbia, Parlophone and Polydor companies, to name but a few that come to mind.

Pictures of the composers, such as may be obtained for a few cents, might adorn the walls of the classroom and the children's attention might be called to the writer of each number just before it is played. Most people of any education at all recognize a likeness of Shakespeare. Why should they not be equally familiar with the countenance of Bach, who was certainly as great among musical creators as was Shakespeare among literary? Familiarity of this sort will breed, not contempt, but respect and affectionate gratitude.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL AT GRENVILLE

The Annual Strawberry Festival was held on the Rectory Grounds at Grenville last Saturday. Although rain fell all around, fair weather prevailed in Grenville, and the Festival was enjoyed by all who attended the event.

The beautiful trees of the grounds, brilliantly illuminated, together with the gaily dressed participants and decorations, made a very pleasing feature.

During the evening, Professor Boyce and his pupils and orchestra played a number of selections, and their music, so ably rendered, was greatly appreciated.

When the hour of mid-night struck, the stalls were practically bare, which testifies at once to the persuasiveness of the stall-holders, and the excellence of their wares—also the good taste of the purchasers.

The following is a list of the stall-holders:—In the Mission Room, serving the strawberries and cream and the ice cream, Mesdames Dawson, Matthew, Morrow and White, and the Misses Cummings and Dawson. Cashier, Mr. V. Dawson. Waitresses, Misses S. Stewart, and G. Williamson. Home Cooking Miss Morrow. Candy, Miss G. Williamson. Bingo, Mesdames Clarke and Pridham, and Miss Clarke and Miss Hampton. Soft drinks, Mr. R. Matthew. Fish pond, Miss K. Bradshaw, assisted by Miss M. Crooks. Dolls, Mr. E. Pridham. Gate, Mr. W. M. Bradshaw.

(Intended for last issue)

Summer visitors are once more among us, and many familiar friends are welcome here again. A larger number than usual visited this locality for the Dominion Day week-end.

Reverend Reginald Stewart, recently ordained, will be in charge of Lakefield parish until September. The community welcomes him to this vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Parris and family, who were the recent guests of Rev. and Mrs. Allan Mount at Rosemount are now visiting friends in Lachute.

The graveyard surrounding historic Holy Trinity Church is showing considerable improvement after the two days' work expended upon it recently. During the previous two summers much work had been done, but years of neglect could only be remedied by great effort; the faithful work of men and women of the congregation is at last showing real results. Five teams of horses with ten extra men volunteered their services for one day, and the ladies of the W. A. paid the same workers for another day. Mrs. Peck's donation towards the expenses was a much appreciated help. For the volunteer day, the ladies provided a luncheon fully up to their usual standard.

Mrs. R. Y. Overing is at "Oer Lochen", accompanied by Mrs. Laurence Overing and son Bobby.

Mrs. Ben Howles and family are at their cottage for the summer.

The Misses Edith and Annie Powles, with their guest, Miss Robinson, are occupying their bungalow.

Mrs. Wm. Gunson, who has been ill for some time, is sufficiently recovered to convalesce in beautiful Lakefield, and her many friends wish her a speedy and complete recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Whitley Mount are spending a vacation at "Woodbourne."

GRENVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Cooke of Ottawa, were the recent guests of his brother, Mr. and Mrs. Cooke.

Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Cooke were also here on Sunday and Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. King, of N. D. G., and their son, Mr. Albert King, of Montreal, were week-end guests of Mrs. A. V. Gaudry.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Dixon and son Roy, of Dalesville, Mr. and Mrs. McCrea, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Gauley, and Mrs. O'Brien, of Chatboro, Mr. Freddie Gauley and two little sons, of Kilmar, also Mrs. A. V. Gaudry, were recent Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Gauley at their residence.

The visitors from Kilmar came to visit Mrs. Fred Gauley, who underwent a serious operation in Dr. Smith's Hospital, Hawkesbury. Her many friends hope for a prompt recovery and return to her devoted family.

Mrs. McVicar and family have gone to Cooke's Lake for the summer months. They spent last summer in the same cottage.

Congratulations are extended to pupils from Grenville, who attended Hawkesbury High School during the past season; among those who passed with honors in the first form, were Evelyn McCullough, Enid McIntyre and Hubert McIntyre.

Sunday School and Church services will be held next Sunday morning in the Grenville Baptist Church. There was a fine attendance at last service, and it is hoped the response will continue.

The Ottawa Baptist Association which met recently in Brownsburg, proved an inspiration to all who attended, and was considered the best so far this year. Miss Allyn, of India, was one of the speakers and was much enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Matthew and Master Walter were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Murray on Sunday.

Mrs. W. Murray is greatly improved in health.

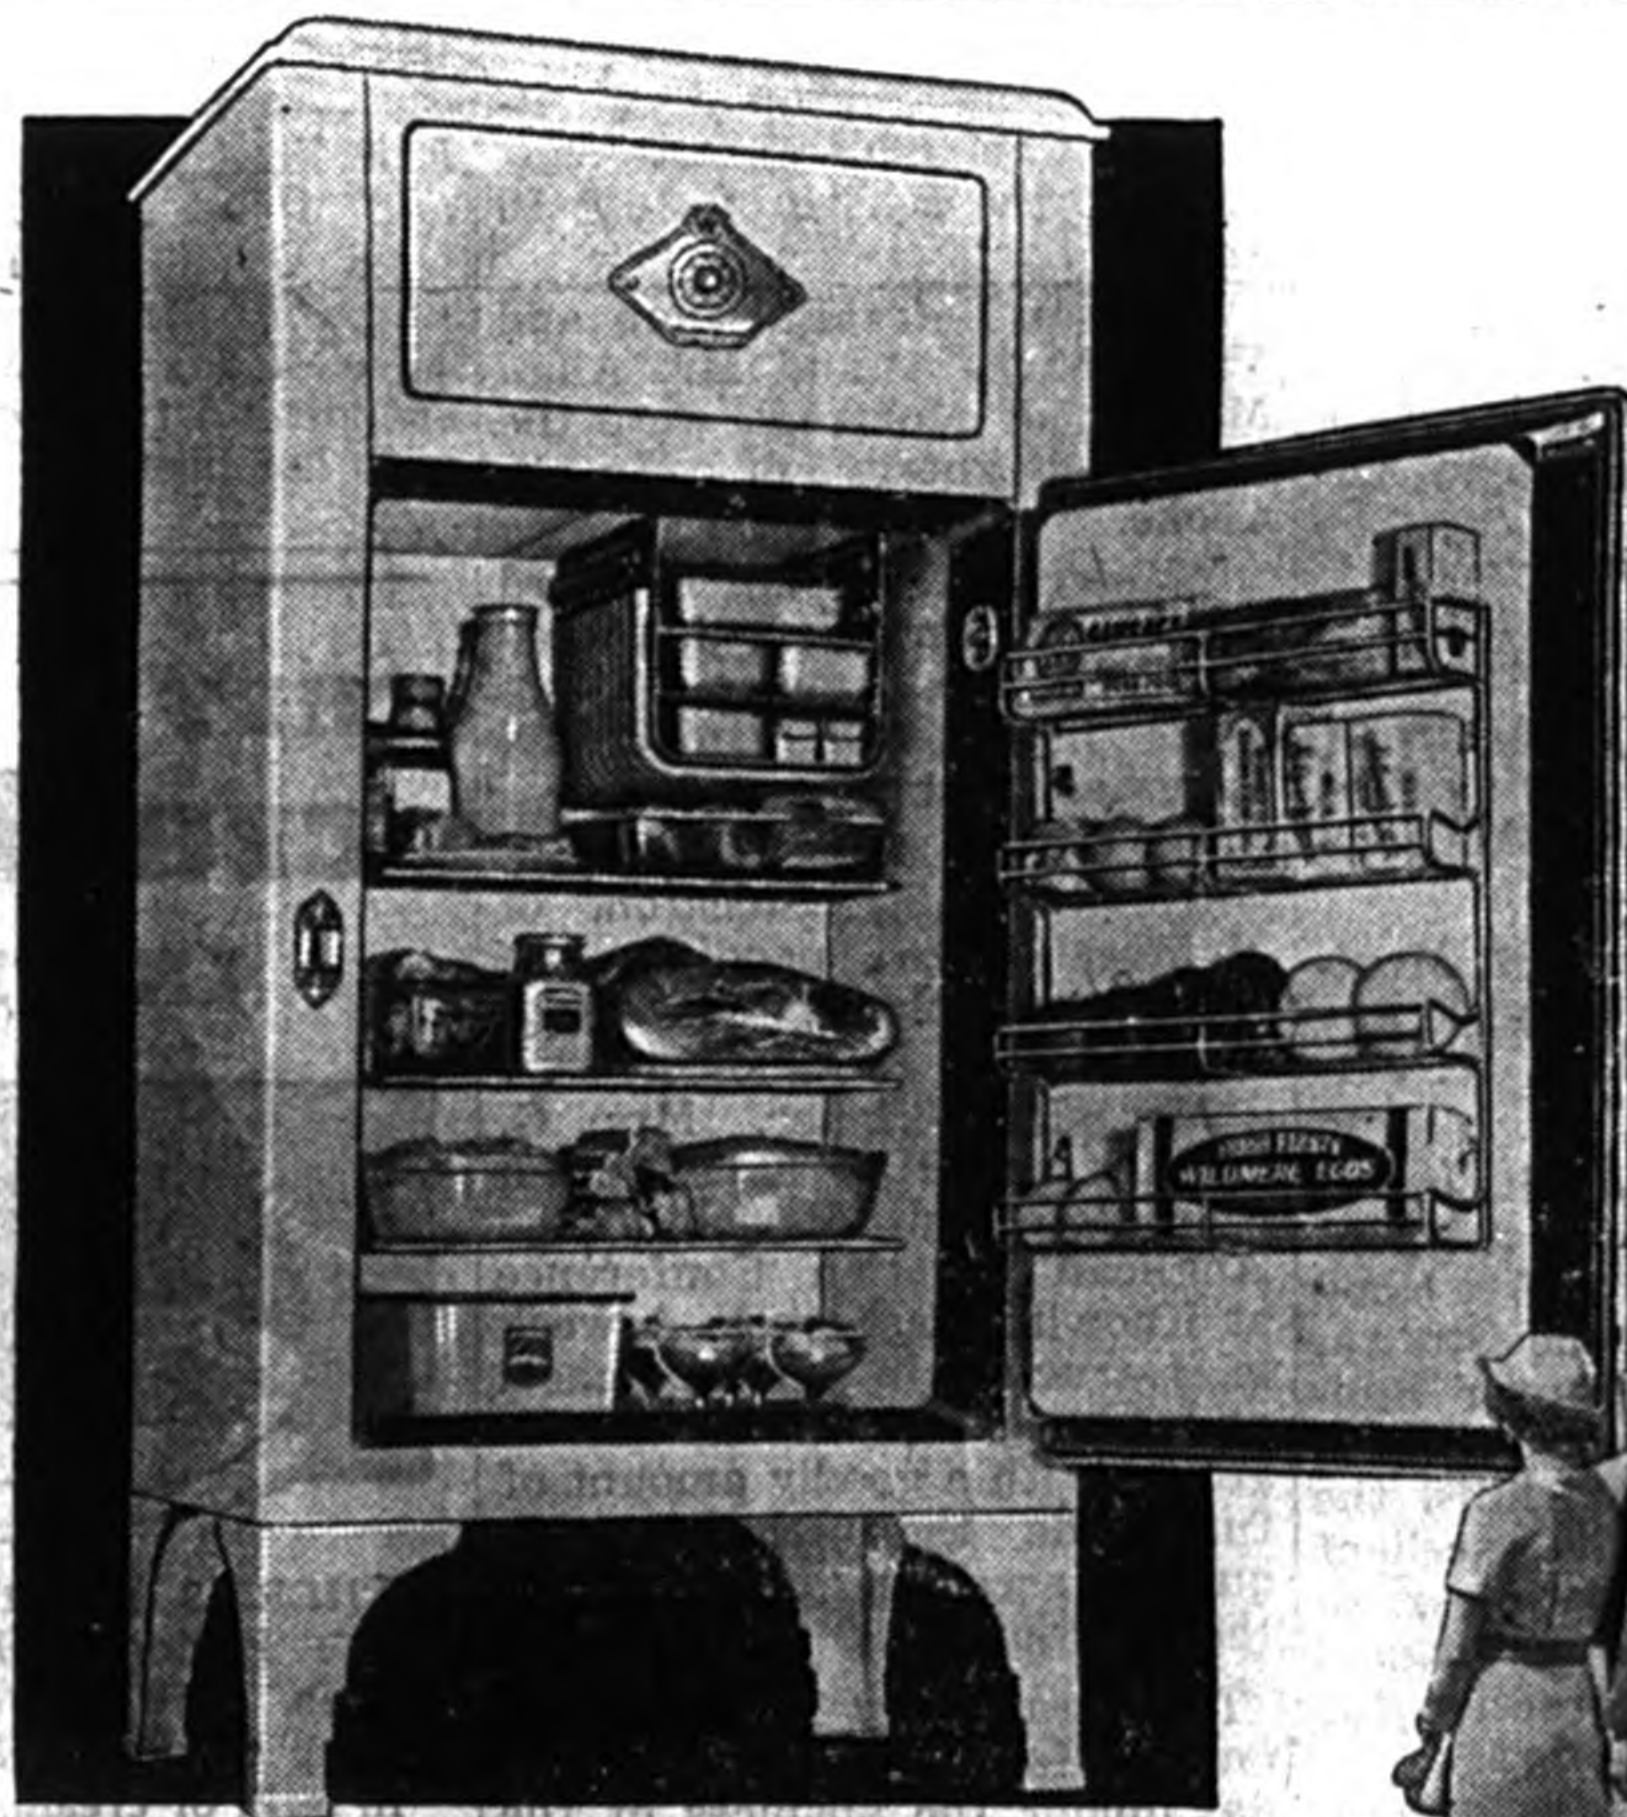

Mr. Oswick sustained a painful injury to his eye, caused by a piece of hot solder. Dr. Smith is attending him.

DANCE FIDDLER DIED SUDDENLY

A familiar figure in local dance halls has disappeared with the sudden death of Henri Robertson, who has fiddled for four seasons of country dances at Ralph's Place, Lakefield, and at numerous dances in the vicinity, also having been engaged recently to play for the Black and White Pavilion.

Henri was a quiet, unassuming figure and reliable in his calling, which afforded him pleasure and employment during the summer evenings. He was 38 years of age, a son of the late M. and Mde. Antoine Robertson of Beech Ridge.

He played last Thursday at Brownsburg, and, taken sick during the night, was removed to hospital in Montreal last Friday. He was operated on, but succumbed Tuesday morning to peritonitis. Following the funeral service in Lachute, he was interred this morning at St. Andrews Catholic Cemetery.

NO MORE SURPLUS MILK IN QUEBEC

Provincial Dairy Commission Sponsored Regulation to Protect Farmer

The Province of Quebec Dairy Commission has been the means of bringing into force a milk buying regulation whereby there will be no more of that curse to the dairy farmer who sells milk to Montreal milk dealers known as "surplus milk." Milk dealers in Montreal were quite often regarded by producers as little better than thieves. The unfortunate part of it was that in too many cases they actually earned that disgraceful reputation.

The producers who have been shipping milk to Montreal were receiving $1.35 per hundred for 3.5 milk. The farmers were not kicking so much against the price of $1.35 as to the malpractices to which they were subjected. The surplus milk which was chalked up against the producers, made it that their price might run so low that when the last pay was made one farmer received only 55 cents per 100 lbs. of milk. Today that farmer will receive $1.45 for every 100 lbs. of milk he ships to Montreal.

The price of $1.45 is a compromise figure. The milk dealers said they would pay $1.40 for milk, whilst the producers asked $1.50. The Dairy Commission steps in and settles the argument by saying $1.45 will be the price. The Commission will enforce that price being paid every shipper, and it is an offence for a shipper to sell milk for less than this price as well as a dealer to attempt to buy milk at a lower figure.

Surplus milk will be retained by the farmer and in turn he can market it at a creamery or feed it to his young stock. This will be a marked saving to milk shippers, who in the past were obliged to ship every gallon of milk they produced to the milk dealers in Montreal. The milk dealer did not bottle up and deliver to patrons was considered "surplus milk" and was paid for at butter prices. The milk that the dealers sold in wholesale quantities was taken from the surplus milk. The milk dealers tendered for wholesale milk contracts and of

HAY-MORRISON NUPTIALS IN MONTREAL

The marriage of Ethel Elizabeth Morrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Morrison, to Mr. James Alexander Hay, son of the late William Hay and Mrs. Jas. Hay of Lachute, took place on Saturday, July 7th., at three o'clock at Trinity Memorial Church, Montreal, Rev. W. LeCras officiating.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a simple gown of white bridal satin with short jacket of white satin and lace. She wore a white meline turban and shoulder length veil of the same material and carried a bouquet of Briarcliffe roses and baby's breath.

Both bride and groom were unattended. The ushers were Mr. Donald Hay and Mr. Stanley Morrison. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Queen's Hotel. The couple left later for a motor trip. For traveling the bride wore a swaggar suit of rose flannel with hat to match and white accessories. On their return they will reside in Lachute.

ODDFELLOWS INSTALL OFFICERS

The Semi-Annual Installation of Laurentian Lodge Independent Order of Oddfellows, was held on Tuesday evening last in McArthur's Hall. The D.D.G.M., Bro. F. G. Hyland and suite, of Montreal, installed the following officers:

A. E. McGregor, N.G.; G. McCormick, V.G.; H. Cunningham, Rec.-Sec'y.; J. S. Thompson, Fin.-Sec'y.; W. J. Deacon, Treasurer; L. N. Cruise, Warden; N. J. Boyd, Conductor; A. Scott, Chaplain; J. Cunningham, L.S.N.G.; J. Duncan, L.S.N.G.; G. Hardie, R.S.S.; T. Izard, L.S.S.; L. Morris, R.S.V.G.; G. Dixon, L.S.V.G.; T. MacNaughton, I.G.; W. K. McArthur, O.G.; W. R. McFaul, J.P.G. Following the installation of officers an enjoyable hour was spent in speeches, after which refreshment was served.

course slashed the price for milk due to the fact that they bought it from the farmer under the heading of "surplus milk." Today these milk dealers will all be on the same basis when it comes to buying the raw products, the wholesale milk contracts will quite likely have to be broken and the price of milk advanced. Though the present milk price is $1.45, it is expected this price will only remain in force for a few weeks' time, when a further increase for the fall months will be announced.

The Province of Quebec Dairy Commission will undoubtedly have trouble in enforcing the dealers, and some of the producers to keep to the stipulated price of $1.45. The Commission will have to be alert to their position and see to it that infractions are not made in the buying and selling of milk. The Dairy Commission Act has teeth in it and can force its way to a right things for the dairy producer. The Commission has the sum of $225,000 per annum at its back to administer the Dairy Act. The Commission is of such importance to the province as a whole, and to the producers in particular, that the Province of Quebec cannot afford to let it fail to achieve success, therefore the Commission really has the resources of the Province at its back. The farmer is now going to get a fair deal, the first real good break he has had for a good many days. This Commission means putting real dollars into the pockets of the farmers in place of having him farmer in place of having him fleeced. —Huntingdon Gleaner.

HAWKESBURY YOUTH IS KILLED BY HORSE

Joseph Desjardins, 17 years of age, died in hospital at Hawkesbury on Sunday after being kicked in the stomach by a horse. It was reported that when he went to the pasture on Saturday to get his own horse, he was kicked by another animal.

ALL SET FOR EMPIRE SPORTS MEET

The ladies' team to represent Canada at the Empire Sports Meet has now been chosen, and it will be most likely the youngest and fastest group of the weaker sex to run before royalty at the Empire Games this summer.

Last Saturday, the Dominion Trials were held at London, Ont., and some outstanding running was done by Canadian girls.

One Canadian record for the 220 yards was broken by Miss Eileen Meagher of Halifax. (Miss Meagher is the niece of Mrs. Jos. Berniquier of Lachute), and two world's records were just missed.

This team should make a splendid impression at London, England, and Canadian sports enthusiasts wish Miss Meagher and her colleagues the best of success, hoping that they may carry the Maple Leaf to victory over the finishing line.

ARUNDEL BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

The 2nd. Laurentian Troop, (Grace Church, Arundel) entered the sixth annual composite camp, which was conducted this year on the shore of Bark Lake. The camp was under the superintendency of Rev. Gordon Phillips, District Scout Master Laurentian District, and John B. Owen, Assistant Scout Master 3rd. Laurentian Troop, (Church of the Redeemer, Weir); while Troop Leader Earl Morrison was installed as acting camp chief, and controlled the camp under the advisory superintendents to the entire satisfaction of all concerned.

The Scouts themselves voted this year's camp the best yet. On Thursday evening the Grace Church Girl Guides paid a visit at camp fire time, with a great treat in the form of an abundant supply of marshmallows; a most enjoyable camp fire programme followed.

The following badges were awarded.

Denison Swail, camp cook; Leslie Craig, camper, rescuer, swimmer; Walter Boyd, camper, rescuer, swimmer; Willard Skinner, who has held the rescuer's badge for the past year, passed in the annual re-examination and added the camper's and camp cook badges to his list.

$5,000,000 TEXTILE PLANT AT CORNWALL

The recent opening of a new $2,500,000 addition to its plant at Cornwall, Ont., represents a total investment of $5,000,000 by Courtaulds (Canada) Limited, manufacturers of rayon yarns, in the past three years. The present addition is a duplicate in size and cost of one opened three years ago and places this company in a position to meet the wide-spread demand for rayon products throughout Canada.

It was pointed out by an official of the company what this new addition means in actual figures of dollars and cents, he explained that by providing more than a million hours of labour directly on the building since last October and throughout the winter months, this undertaking practically eliminated unemployment in the Cornwall vicinity.

More than two million hours of labor were provided indirectly throughout Canada in mines, quarries, forests, refineries, transportation systems, harbors and manufacturing plants.

The total cost of the new addition amounts to $2,500,000 of which $750,000 was expended on Canadian machinery. A total of 1,074,769 man hours are represented by the undertaking. 37,500 tons of construction material were used, 6,852,181 ton miles of rail freight and 90,990 miles of highway freight were shipped; 3,138 tons of freight were shipped by water.

BASEBALL DREW BIG ATTENDANCE

Over 700 people attended a closely contested baseball game here last Sunday, when Ayers Limited played the Dow team from Montreal.

Displaying excellent team work, the visitors defeated the locals 2 to 1. Langille, Ayers' twirler, pitched a good game, holding the heavy hitters of the Dow team to only five hits. A hard single with a man on third base, in the third inning, gave the visiting team a one run lead. Ayers rallied in the eighth to tie the score.

During the first half of the ninth inning the visitors scored another run, and in the last half the local sluggers, again tried to tie the score, but due to the good work of O. Lahaie, the Dow pitcher, they did not succeed.

According to the Lachute fans, it was one of the best baseball games played here for years.

Ayers played a league game following this engagement, and won easily against the Lachute Independents. By winning this game the team now stands in second position in the League.

ST. ADOLPHE EX-MAYOR IS DEAD

After a brief illness, Dosithe Forget, former mayor of St. Adolphe de Howard, died in Montreal last week in his 69th year. In 1912 Mr. Forget was elected mayor of St. Adolphe and occupied the office for nine years. He was a member of the Independent Order of Foresters and Justice of the Peace for the district of Montreal.

CADASTRAL DIVISIONS IN QUEBEC TOWNS

A Tribute to the Department of Municipal Affairs

The Quebec Department of Municipal Affairs manifests a certain systematic procedure not always found in government enterprises. A number of amendments are passed in accordance with the need of the times, and such legislation is brought to the attention of civic authorities throughout the province—in such a manner that, if they are unacquainted with changes made in the Towns and Cities Acts, at least it is not the fault of the Department.

One of the most recent enactments of the Legislature concerns the subdivision of cadastral lots in which streets or thoroughfares may be involved—a matter in which the town has had no jurisdiction hitherto.

The cadastre is under the control of the Minister of Colonization and Fisheries. Complaints have long been made that municipal councils were not consulted when the Minister was requested to approve certain subdivisions which contained streets or lanes. It was contended that these proposed streets or lanes might not be laid out in accordance with the plans of the municipality. By designating such thoroughfares in a haphazard manner, according to the views of the owner instead of those of the council, it might be necessary in future to straighten them out necessitating extensive expropriations to the detriment of the taxpayer.

At the request of the Union of Municipalities of the Pro-

STORE PROBE REVELATIONS

If ever an argument was presented in favor of buying from your home town merchants, it is found in the revelations made by the probe into the operations of the large stores. It has been shown that they are largely responsible for wage decreases all across Canada and their treatment of their own employees shows what many people have already known—that they are cold-blooded and ruthless employers. The proof is wrapped up in one item in a recent report.

In 1933 the store under investigation had 25,736 employees who were paid $24,945,000. In 1924 it had 17,827 employees who were paid $25,416,000. Now, 1924, was far from the peak year which was 1929. The year 1924 was for purposes of comparison about an ordinary year. Yet, the average yearly wage by the above figures in 1924 was $1.423, against an average last year of $969. This in itself is clear proof of their total disregard of the feelings or well-being of their employees.

Contrast this with the attitude of the local merchant, who in nearly every case feels that he has a moral obligation toward his employees. We know of many local merchants who not only retained the services of all clerks during the depression but did not cut any of their wages even although it meant rapidly mounting overhead on

CHILD SUCCUMED TO RARE DISEASE

It is with regret that we chronicle the death, at San Francisco, California, of Robert W. Duffy, young son of R. O. (Oscar) Duffy, a former resident of this locality. The little lad succumbed on May 19th. last to a rare disease of over two years' duration. He was only seven years of age. His illness was one of the most uncommon, namely cancer of the bone, and his case had attracted the attention of medical scientists all over the continent.

Former acquaintances of Oscar Duffy in these parts join in sympathy with his friends in California.

vince of Quebec, the Legislature at its last session, passed a law which enacts that such subdivisions and redvisions, containing streets or lanes, must be previously approved by the municipal council before being submitted to the Minister. An amendment has accordingly been adopted, to the effect that "No plan and book of reference of any subdivision or re-division, containing streets or lanes, may be considered by the Minister, unless accompanied by a certificate from the secretary-treasurer of the municipal corporation in the territory of which the immoveable subdivided or redivided is situated to the effect that the said plan and book of reference, in so far as such streets or lanes are concerned, have been approved by the council."

RECEIVED SHOCK OF 2,200 VOLTS

Frank Gray, 55, an employee of the Hawkesbury Lumber Company, caught hold of a 2,200-volt wire in a fall last week at the mill, and to save himself was compelled to clutch the cable with both hands. By a rare circumstance the shock did not prove immediately fatal, although the victim lies in a critical condition, according to latest reports. Power house officials were notified to switch off the current, after which Gray was seen to struggle to safety.

By strange coincidence the man's son Lorne, unknown to his father, was admitted to the same hospital on the same day, suffering from injuries received when he fell on a broken bottle. A cut in the lad's knee required 40 stitches.

PUTTING TEETH INTO GAME LAWS

There has been in recent years a great deal of talk about game laws in Quebec and a legion of suggestions for new laws of all kinds designed to help preserve game. However, a strict observance of present laws would do more good than anything else. This may be proved by observance of other laws. Strict justice to murderers in England reduced the total number of murderers in England last year to 21, which is only a fraction of the murders in any of the larger cities of the United States. It all reverts to the strict enforcing of the laws. New laws will be of absolutely no use and in fact will only add to the confusion if they are not enforced any more than the present laws. In Quebec they might take a lesson from Vermont, where M. L. Jacobs of Morristown recently paid a fine of $250 and costs for possessing 49 trout under the length allowed by law.

AUNT JEAN'S RIDDLE
No. 4

Who is that calling so early?
Waking me early at morn?
Rat-a-tat-tat near my window—
Won't let me sleep after dawn.

Hush, hush, hush! it's too early,
Go back to your home, sir, I pray,
You little redheaded rascal,
I've nothing for you today.

Who was the early caller?

FOR?

Laura May got out of the car at the door very soberly and waited until her mother had greeted Great-aunt Laura, then politely offered to help carry her things to her room. "You may take this box, child, but don't drop it, the bottom is not very strong and I want it to do me as long as I live."

Picking up the suitcase, or box as Great-aunt Laura called it, Laura May hurried to the bedroom with it. Setting it down very carefully she stood a moment before the mirror trying to see just what there was about her that could have caused Great-aunt Laura to look at her so scornfully. Voices outside the door made her stop staring at herself and start for the door. She would meet them coming in if she went that way.

One hurried glance around the room for a means of escape revealed the window as the only other way. With cat-like footsteps she was across the floor, over the sill and outside, but her little feet could not take her away quickly enough to avoid hearing these words, "Why in the world Ella, do you let your child run around looking like a gypsy? She looks just like one with her bare brown legs and her sunburned face."

Laura May caught the word "Healthy", as her mother in her soft voice tried to explain why Laura May was allowed to run around outdoors in perfect freedom and so lightly clad.

"Healthy!" Great-aunt Laura almost shrieked the word. "Healthy! when she might take a sunstroke from too much sun, as well as becoming so burned that she will never whiten again. But I have something that will fix that. I am so glad that I stuck to my own way, my own idea, in the gift I have brought her. Lucy wanted me to bring a bracelet or something, but I said 'No, sir, I am going to make her some aprons and some sunbonnets; and here they are. Where is she, until I try them on her?'"

"Sunbonnets"—at the word Laura May darted into hiding behind the clump of rambling roses. "Sunbonnets" she whispered between her set lips. She would never wear them, horrid things! All right for tiny babies with weak eyes, or in pictures, but sunbonnets on pictures, but sunbonnets on Laura May Harper—never! As she whispered the last word fiercely she darted from behind the roses to the sheltered path between the rows of hollyhocks and rushed down it to her favorite hiding place, the old pine tree, whose branches were so low that they swept the ground when the wind drove them in that direction.

As she crept up to her pet limb close to the old trunk she found herself whispering the very words of the enormous elephant "What are sunbonnets for?" and the answer to the question came to her lips at once "To plague little girls". She did not blame the big elephant for screaming that question at her; perhaps he thought she had been responsible for his having to wear one. She did not blame them in the least for tearing about as they did, flapping their big ears and making the sunbonnets flop up and down. No doubt they were trying to shake them off, and lose them somewhere. Sunbonnets, indeed! Why everyone around the place would laugh at her if she wore such a thing.—And what else did Great-aunt Laura say she had brought? Laura Mary wrinkled her brow a few moments in thought. "Aprons!" Like lightning the word flashed into her mind. What did she want with aprons, anyway! Just something more for mummie to wash—and she said "I am not wearing aprons for any great-aunt." Laura May closed her lips quite tightly and her face took on a look very much like Great-aunt Laura herself when she buttoned her lip up. "You could not call it anything else than buttoning up her lip", mused Laura May half-aloud. Great-aunt Laura had a long lower lip and not very long upper teeth and when she closed her mouth up real tight her lower lip covered her upper one almost completely. Just then Laura May heard her mother calling. Her face took on a rebellious look and she nestled closer to the old pine trunk and sat still; but when her mother continued to call she slid to the ground and started towards the house.

"I can't go back on Mummie," she said "She's not to blame for this and perhaps I won't have to wear the horrid things."

—Do you suppose she will, Children?

Lovingly,
Aunt Jean.

SOFT PEDAL

Sandy was learning to play the bagpipes. One night, while he was strutting about the room, skirling for all he was worth, his wife attempted a mild protest.

"That's an awful noise ye're making," she said.

Sandy sat down and took off his boots; then got up and resumed his piping in his stockinged feet.—Morpeth Herald.

DON'T LET COMMON
CONSTIPATION DULL
THE JOY OF LIVINGKellogg's ALL-BRAN Brings Relief

Constipation takes the sunshine out of your days. It may bring headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness, sallow skins, pimples.

Fortunately, you can avoid this condition by eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides two things needed to help overcome common constipation: "bulk" and vitamin B. ALL-BRAN is also a rich source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal wastes.

How much better than dosing yourself with patent medicines. Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in chronic cases. If seriously ill, see your doctor—ALL-BRAN is not a "cure-all."

Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

DIRECTORS PLANNED
OTTAWA EXHIBITION
ON ELABORATE SCALE

Creatore and His Band, the Follies Revue of 1934, Automobile Races and Many New Attractions.

Now that Parliament has closed, the interest of the people of Ottawa and district is centering on the Ottawa exhibition, the biggest annual event in the Capital. The dates are August 20 to 25, six full days and nights, and every indication points to the success of this year's exhibition eclipsing the splendid records of previous years. Encouraged by the co-operation shown by citizens, the directors have planned for this year on an elaborate scale. "Give them a good show and the people will come" is the conviction of the directors.

One does not have to be a high-browed musician to appreciate the famed Creatore and his wonderful band. This great maestro, with what he considers one of the finest bands which ever played under his baton, and with a grand opera prima donna as vocal soloist, will be a daily feature. Two concerts will be given each day of exhibition week from the bandstand in the center of the grounds, no extra charge being made. Creatore and his band were last heard in Ottawa in 1930 and many from this district will go to the Ottawa exhibition if for no other reason than to hear him.

Thrills aplenty are promised in the automobile races which are scheduled for the last two days of the week. At least fifteen professional dirt track speed fiends will be in Ottawa to participate in the meet and exhibition visitors can rely on real excitement.

Recognizing the popular demand for high-class entertainment to supplement educational and occupational features, the exhibition has arranged for the presentation before the grandstand every evening during the week of the big show, of the Follies Revue of 1934, something almost sensational and entirely novel in the line of variety presentations.

Under direction of Edgar I. Schmooley, master of stage interpretation and skilled author of grand spectacles, the Follies Revue will give the bill every evening for exhibition patrons a glittering procession of beautiful and unique ensembles, high class music and dancing, and bewildering and thrilling performances of a lofty order.

Stellar vaudeville, a new midway, horse races, automobile show, pure food show, and a dog show, will add interest. Brand new talent will be introduced to the show-loving public in the Follies Revue, which will be staged amid a colorama of dazzling costumes, superb lighting effects and stage settings.

"Immigration"

Paper by Mrs. W. Talbot at a Recent Meeting of Chatham W. I.

We are already familiar with the word migration as it is applied to the spring and fall movements of birds. Now we come to the longer word immigration which means "coming into a country for the purpose of settlement." In the old days the general term used was "settler". As he leaves or goes out of his own country, a settler has been called an emigrant; as he enters his new one, an immigrant. We are returning in these days to the old term "settler."

The question of new settlers is very important to a new country and immigration is probably the most generally discussed public question in Canada today. Why?

Canada is a vast country of over 300,000,000 acres of land fit for cultivation with only about 60,000,000 acres being developed. She has the third greatest forest reserves in the world and the greatest in the British Empire. She has magnificent fisheries, tremendous water power, and exceptional mineral resources. She has 40,000 miles of railways and great inland waterways on which hundreds of freighters and passenger boats ply throughout the season of open navigation. And in all this she has a population of not quite 9,000,000 people.

We have therefore room for a great many people from other lands. However, we must be careful what kind of people we allow in. In the olden days, it was the custom to send the weak, sick or diseased to the new country. It has long been decided that no weak minded persons, no criminals, no persons suffering from contagious or loathsome diseases, no persons of bad character, no persons suffering from such physical defects as might prevent them from earning a livelihood, should be admitted to Canada. Thus Canada is trying to build up a stronger, healthier and better race.

Some years ago it was found that Canada was allowing illiterate people to enter and thus she has built up a good educational system in each province.

The immigrants who have come out are Japanese and Chinese in the West, Old Country people, Scandinavians and other Europeans in the East. The only thing for Canada to do then was to make her policy one of land settlement.

Canada has hundreds of thousands of acres of rough land to be cleared or broken. The poor peasant class of Central Europe is admirably fitted for the task, but the question which Canada must ask herself is, whether in admitting this class in any considerable number, she is inviting a lower standard of living, health, education and political thought than that which she has striven through three generations to establish and maintain. And the answer is not far to seek. Canada can only admit Europe's peasant settlers as she can provide for their gradual absorption into her life, for their education into her principles of justice, law and education, her health and moral standards and her political freedom. These peoples, bred through centuries of serfdom, can only gradually be "eased down" into safe enjoyment of the freedom of Canadian community life to-day. They must be sympathetically taught the story and value of our institutions and customs, and trained in their practice. And this is one of the reasons why the Canadian is not well disposed toward the idea of settling foreign immigrants in blocks.

In any city a solid group of foreigners is bad enough, be-

By L. W. Armstrong

Shade of Voltaire.

Just as we had reached the point where we could confidently maintain that the civilized world has really made progress since the French Revolution in that men are no longer ruthlessly executed without some chance to defend themselves, along comes Hitler with his "purging" policy and knocks the entire argument cold in a few hours.

We find it extremely difficult to be forced to scrap a conviction after having clung to it tenaciously for years.

And yet, what else can one do when it is reported again and again that in such a highly civilized country as Germany, fifty or sixty men each undergo a trial lasting approximately three minutes and are then led before a firing squad?

It is also reported that some of them did not even get this 'chance', but were barbarously shot down where they were found.

If the incomparable Voltaire were living he could use the same phrase with the same effect as he used on the occasion of the English Naval authorities shooting an Admiral for cowardice: Hitler has just shot fifty Nazis "pour encourager les autres."

Non Nobis Domine.

Mr. Arthur Brisbane, who is said to be the most highly paid journalist in the world, makes some very interesting remarks on Rudyard Kipling's new poem, which, he says is, "Non Nobis Domine," meaning, "Not unto us O Lord."

He explains that this "new 'Recessional'" poem was written for a magnificent pageant celebrating England's marvelous recovery from the big war and depression and dragging in the defeat of the Armada.

He winds up by saying that "Kipling might have written, but did not write: 'Non Nobis Domine—Give the praise to our gooselike friend Uncle Sam, for without him sending us billions of dollars, and quietly accepting our default, we should not be so well off.'"

While Mr. Brisbane has an argument, its outstanding feature is its one-sidedness.

To begin with, it seems as if he would like to have the world believe that the U.S.A. actually sent billions of dollars in cold cash to England. What really did happen was that the U.S.A. sent billions of dollars' worth of materials to England and at an immense profit.

Then again, it must not be forgotten that the U.S.A. was not the only nation which lent billions to carry on the war.

If Mr. Brisbane will read the text of the note sent to the U.S.A. by the British Government on June 5th., 1934, he will find that, whereas Britain borrowed $4,277,000,000 from the U.S.A. she also made war advances to the Allied Governments totalling $7,800,000,000.

Can it not be reasonably argued that, had Britain not lent any money to other nations she would not have had to borrow a dime from the U.S.A.?

Also, it is doubtful if Mr. Brisbane would have written as he did if he had taken into consideration the fact that Britain, a creditor to as large or larger extent than the U.S.A. cancelled the greater portion of the amounts owed her, and, as a result has been able to recover from the war and from the depression more quickly than any other nation in the world. Moreover, England has not nearly the population nor the natural resources of the U.S.A.

It is high time that Mr. Brisbane realized that many economists in his own country can prove their arguments by pointing to England when they declare that the U.S.A. would be much farther ahead if they cancelled their war debts.

But then, that would probably not make such good material for the great journalist, who, cause its ideas of health and housing may speedily make a slum of a respectable neighborhood and yet such a group is being influenced all the time by the general forces of Canadian life. It is different however, where foreigners settle down in groups, in the country districts. Here they are isolated. They remain foreigners. They may actively resist every effort to make them Canadian citizens. Perhaps, like the Doukubors, they oppose all schools controlled by the government of the province, whereas by the British North American Act, education within a province is under the absolute control of the government of that province. During the World War, one or two of these solid groups of foreigners steadfastly refused to take any part in a struggle which concerned our very existence.

Canada is resolved that in this land there shall be in future only Canadians, and the process of education in national ideals must go hand in hand with immigration and settlement. We do not wish all people to think alike, but we do with immigration and settle-

The Ottawa Spotlight

By Wilfrid Eggleston

Ottawa, July 10.—Canadians who like British shoes and have been finding them either unavailable or too expensive of recent years will be interested in the hearing before the Tariff Board last week. Representatives of the British industry appeared before Hon. G. H. Sedgewick and his colleagues and asked for a reduction of the present duty on British shoes, for reasons which they proceeded to state fully.

The Canadian shoe industry was well represented at the hearing. The Canadian manufacturers not only stoutly opposed any reduction of the present duty on British shoes; they went one better, and asked for an increase in the duties on certain lines of sandals, Oxfords and slippers.

The Facts About Shoes

For those who are interested not only in the duties on shoes but the whole tariff story and the machinery set up to carry out the Imperial Conference agreements, the following summary of the facts will be a propos:

Under the King government, the duty on British shoes was 15½ per cent (17½ less one-tenth). When Premier Bennett got into power, he raised the duty to 22½ per cent (25 less one-tenth). In addition shipments during the last two or three years have had to meet currency dump, excise duties, and sales tax. The British representatives claim that at the present time British shoes have to meet a total obstruction of over 40 per cent.

Following the application of the Bennett duties on British shoes, the shipments of all footwear shipments from the United Kingdom is about $300,000 a year.

As a result of the duty, Canadian shoe factories now enjoy what is almost a monopoly of the Canadian market. In 1933 they produced and sold 97% of all the footwear bought in Canada, and had a small export market as well.

Britain does not get the whole 3% of the present import business, by any means. The United States and Czechoslovakia also share. Indeed, in the month of April the United Kingdom only secured 17% of the 3%,—or, if you like, one-half of one per cent of the shoe business of Canada.

Why They Are Here

Some stout Canadians will ask, 'Well, what's the matter with Canadian factories getting the whole 100%—what right have the British coming over here with shoes at all? Aside from the right and privilege which the Canadian buyer and consumer should have of getting the style and kind of shoe he likes, Canada went on record in the Ottawa agreements as promising no doubt finds many thousands ready to swallow his statements 'hook, line and sinker.'

A National Government.

Sir Edward Peacock is reported as saying that Canada would recover much more quickly under a National Government than under the present party system.

Hon. Mr. King lost no time whatever in declaring that the next Government of Canada would be neither a National Government nor a Conservative Government.

It must be wonderful to be able to prophesy with such confidence just what the future has in store for this country.

Sir Edward has no doubt learned by this time that Canada is 'blessed' with considerably too much 'party politics' to entertain any hope for a general 'get-together' in order to bring the country out of the depression as quickly as possible.

WHERE WE STAND ON LOTTERIES

Since the "common informer" has stooped to despicable depths and claimed the reward of lottery winners who, as likely as not, had spent sleepless nights speculating on their chances—folks have hesitated to venture on the lotteries... Leaving the question of morals aside, and also the honesty of these lottery schemes, it is interesting to know just where we stand in the matter, here in Quebec.

Under a bill passed through Federal Parliament this session, which did away with the "informer clauses" of the Criminal Code, provincial treasuries may now reap the benefit, since provincial Attorneys-General may take legal action to recover money won in lotteries. Hitherto any individual had this right, were he mean enough to take it.

The act reads the money shall revert "to the Crown" if action is taken against the winner of a lottery; but this has been explained as referring to the provinces, who have legal jurisdiction under the British North America Act.

Introduced by Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, the bill passed by the House and Senate in record time because the common informer has had no friends on Parliament Hill since the law was invoked five or six years ago, the first time in recent years.

For the past two or three years, the informer law has been more or less a dead letter on the statute books. As soon as a man won a lottery prize he had a friend bring action against him in the courts, thus excluding any covetous outsider.

Under the new law, discretion is left with provincial Attorneys-General whether an action is taken against a lottery winner.

It is recalled that at the last session in Quebec Premier Taschereau, in making a plea for a provincial lottery, declared in strong terms that the provision in the Criminal Code whereby any informer may receive the full proceeds of a successful lottery ticket was altogether unjust. Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, had also admitted the "informer" clause to be bad, and had given a promise to repeal it.

According to reports from Ottawa he kept this promise, and so amended the law as to declare that the Crown may lay a complaint as "informer", and collect the money. The Crown acting as "informer", was apparently interpreted by the Minister of Justice to mean the "Crown in the right of the province." The effect therefore will be that in each province it will be for the Attorney-General to decide whether action is to be taken to deprive a successful lottery ticket owner of his winnings. Since Mr. Taschereau and his colleagues are not opposed to lotteries, and Hon. Athanase David piloted a bill through the Assembly providing for lotteries, the presumption is that a man in Quebec may win in a lottery held in Ireland, or elsewhere, and have little fear of being deprived of his winnings.

'reasonable competition' for the British exporter. What is 'reasonable competition'? The board was instructed to find out the difference in manufacturing costs in Canada and the United Kingdom. The difference should be the tariff applied. That's the theory.

The Britishers here last week, made out a case for a duty of 15%. They were willing to concede that higher cost of materials meant an additional 6% for the Canadian shoe maker, higher wages an extra 7½ per cent, and higher overhead, chiefly fuel, an extra 1½ per cent. A total of 15%. A duty of 15 per cent, they urge, would place the two manufacturers on an even footing.

A very different picture was presented by the Canadian manufacturers. They quoted 8½ per cent more for materials, 15% for higher wage costs, and other items mounting up to 29½ per cent. Actually, asserted the Canadian manufacturers, the present duty isn't high enough to equalize the two industries. It should be 7½ per cent more.

Tough Assignment

After a day's session in public, the Tariff Board then went into camera to discuss actual manufacturing costs in the two countries. The Board has to decide which of the two differentials, 15% or 29½ per cent, is right, or, if not, where between the two the fair figure is to be placed. A tough job, believe me. If they split the difference, as they might be inclined to, it would be just about 22½ per cent—just exactly where the tariff is now!

That's about all this week, except to say that the national treasury had a third splendid month, and with the money rolling in so much better, they ought to be able to collect enough for a surplus next budget. We've had plenty of deficits for a few years.

A MEAL IN PEACE

No matter how much they love their children, I don't believe there is a parent in the world who has not wished at some time or another to have a rest from them. Mothers need a rest from their children much more often than most of them get. Did you ever think that children need a rest from their parents too? Children must get terribly fed up with parents always 'at' them. Meals are apt to be a trial with 'Mary you must eat this and Johnny here's your fork right' and so on. Mothers get tired of it and fathers who come home tired from work must sometimes long for a meal in peace. Why not have it? A meal with peace for everyone. These hot summer days try giving the children their meals alone. One of the simplest ways is to make sandwiches for each child and let them take their supper and eat it wherever they like whether it be on the verandah or under the apple tree. A simple meal of sandwiches, milk, a cookie and a bit of fresh fruit will be a treat eaten picnic style. You will find that they will eat more and have rested nerves. Just try it out sometime and see if it does not work.

WHY WE EAT DESSERTS

Nearly everyone likes to finish a meal with a sweet. Usually you will find that any eating custom which is general and has continued over a long period of years, has some sound reason behind it. We may not know it but the reason is there all the same. Sugar is very quickly assimilated and is converted into energy in a shorter time after eating than any other food. So our dessert contains sugar, quickly gives us the energy to carry on while slower digested foods are in the course of digestion. Then sugar has a high satiety value. That is it leaves us satisfied. If you have had a meal without dessert, after a short time you have that empty feeling. Instinctively we like the foods which stick to the ribs, as the saying goes. That is one reason I advocate a small dessert on a reducing diet—to prevent that awful feeling of emptiness from which the reducer is apt to have on any of the improperly balanced reducing diets. Plan your dessert to fit the rest of the meal. A heavier dessert after a light first course and a light dessert after a substantial savoury.

COOL DRINKS

Weather like this would make anyone an enthusiast about cool drinks if he were not already one. They can taste so good and really they act as an appetiser. Many a meal is saved with the addition of a cool drink. If materials are assembled it is only the work of a moment to prepare a cool drink if a friend drops in. Speed is an essential part of hospitality. It always makes me cross if I have to spend time in the kitchen when I might be spending it with my friend. Now as to what goes into the drinks. A sugar syrup is the handiest thing to keep on hand as it speeds up service, saves work and makes a better tasting drink than sugar sweetening because it is immediately assimilated. Lemon is almost a necessity, and it may be used alone or with other ingredients. I gloat over every bit of juice I can find in the summer. If we have any canned fruit I try to save some of the juice. If I am preserving I am always hoping to have some juice left over, and finally I crush any berries which are in season. Then I use a bit of this and a bit of that, lemon, and sugar syrup and taste until I get something enjoyable. Save a slice from the centre of your lemon to use for garnishing. A small section partly slit and perched on the rim of the glass makes an effective garnish. Finally there is mint. If it is fresh I like to float a leaf or a sprig in the glass and if not fresh enough to be attractive looking I am apt to let it stand in the drink for a little while to flavour. Mint improves most drinks—that is if you like mint. I do. Don't sail a chartered sea, but use your imagination and make your recipes as you go, remembering always to serve drinks very cold and not too sweet.

SUGAR SYRUP

Add one cup of sugar to 2 cups of water and stir until dissolved. Boil for 3 minutes. Bottle. Will keep for days in a cool place.

ICED TEA

Iced tea is one of the easiest drinks to prepare and most days in summer finds a large bottle of it in our ice-chest. It is always ready and will keep beautifully if it gets a chance. To make it, use 2 teaspoons of tea to a good sized tea-pot and let infuse. Pour the hot tea over some mint leaves and let stand until cool. Add the juice of 1 or 2 lemons, the quantity depending on the size of the lemons and your individual taste, sugar syrup to sweeten and chill. If the tea is too strong for your taste, and iced tea should not be strong, add more water or ice to further dilute. Experiment with this until you get it as you like it. You may not like as much mint, and in that case remove the mint after it has stood in the hot tea for three minutes. I hope you find this way to make iced tea as convenient and as attractive as I think it is.

PINEAPPLE CUP CAKES

½ cup butter
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
Two thirds cups canned pineapple (no juice)
½ cup milk
1 and 2-thirds cup flour
¼ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder

Mix in the usual cake method and bake for 20 minutes in a moderate oven of 350 degrees. Ice with pineapple juice thickened with icing sugar. If these are baked in paper cups they may be easily carried for picnics.

50 Years Ago.

Friday, July 11, 1884.

Mr. Owens, M.P.P., intends paying a visit to his constituents in Arundel and townships in the western portion of the County this week.

A gullible youth who mailed a dollar to a lottery concern received it back from the dead letter office, with a note from the Postmaster General—"Young man, if you earn your money my advice is to keep it."

The recent Temperance Picnic in Barron's Grove was well attended and proved a great success.

St. Andrews has quite a number of summer boarders. The hotel will not accommodate ladies or children, only travellers; otherwise there would be more visitors in the village.

Mr. J. W. Hutton is filling the contract for brickwork on Dr. George Christie's new residence, which will be one of the finest houses in Lachute.

Proceeds of the Bazaar and Concert given by the ladies of Henry's Church netted $170.

Fire caught in the main dam at Carillon, laid dry for repairs, and spread some sixty feet along the wood-work.

Complaint was made to Lachute Council that the proprietor of the waterworks had opened a hole on Bethany Road which had been left uncovered and dangerous.

25 Years Ago.

Friday, July 9, 1909.

The waterworks committee reported having interviewed the proprietor, Mr. Prefontaine, and Mayor Valois submitted to the Council as follows: Purchase price of the system $42,000/cash or $41,504 payable in 30 years negotiable 5 p.c. municipal bonds representing an annuity of $2,700. The council accepted the latter offer, subject to approval of the electorate.

The Boys' Brigade of Brownsburg will go to camp at Lakefield this year under leadership of Mr. J. Conley.

Brownsburg Post Master wishes to thank the road-making authorities for the fine quality of sticky blue clay deposited in front of his place of business.

Miss Katie Beers is spending a month's visit with friends in Labelle.

Bring us your wool. We are paying the highest price this season.—W. Banford & Son.

Miss Janet McDougall, who for the past 6 years has so generally attended the public works in Lachute Post Office, has resigned her position owing to the illness of her mother, and is succeeded by Miss Mary Paliser.

Mr. G. H. Perley, M.P., accompanied by Mr. H. Slater, visited among his constituents in Brownsburg this week.

Construction is well advanced on a building to house the requisite machinery for the new Canadian Radio Broadcasting Commission station at Quebec, on the heights of Charlesbourg, a few miles from Quebec City. The studio will be located in a hotel from which the commission has rented 12 rooms on two floors.

The towers will be 200 feet high, being built on a spot at Charlesbourg which is 370 feet above sea level. Transmitters and towers have been constructed at Montreal. The new station will have a strength of 1,000 watts and will operate on a wave length of 1,030 or 1,050 kilocycles. It will be put into operation about the middle of July.

A proposal that China have a new national anthem was approved by the executive yuan in Nanking and passed to the Central Political Council.

wish the newcomer to speak our language and through it to come in touch with our ideals of liberty and right. He must learn, too, that he belongs no longer to an outside state, but to Canada, of which he is now to become a citizen.

*Settlement in Canada,
Now better directed.*

One great fault in the immigration policy of the past has been the haphazard way in which the immigrant has been allowed to find his land and settle on it. The result has been that often poor land has been sold to him by dishonest people, or that he has pushed so far from settlement, in his search for cheap land, that poor crops, loneliness, or the long haul to market has spelled defeat, and he has left the country. Or, again, the immigrant has been carelessly admitted, allowed to drift unheeded across the country, and, unadvised and alone, he has attempted to fit into something for which he has not been suited.

An honest attempt is now being made to choose the British immigrants and to guide their settlement with more care. The British Government is helping the Canadian Government to pick the right kind of settlers, and when they arrive they are being placed on specially selected farm-sites in Canada. They are being aided in the purchase of property and equipment, and everything is being done to interest the Canadians in their district in the new arrivals.
The whole policy is built around the idea of "thickening up" settlement in districts that are already opened up, instead of spreading settlement to the far outposts where neither church, school, health nor transportation services extend.

In the matter of immigration of other than farm workers or settlers, Canada has adopted a policy that immigrant workers must not be allowed to displace native workers, and so has arranged that workers of various kinds may be admitted to the Dominion only when and in such numbers as the employment service of the Government thinks right.

Canada has probably the largest unpopulated area of habitable land in the world today, and her future has vast possibilities. To guard that future so that the generations to come may find a situation not spoiled by hasty and short-sighted action on our part, is a sacred charge. The immigration policy of today is laying the foundations of the Canada of all the centuries to follow.

Canadian recorded history commenced with the discovery of Cape Breton in 1497 by John Cabot. The English did not follow this up and it was in 1534 and 1541 that Cartier took possession of the whole of Canada for the King of France.

The real founder of Canada was Champlain, and the work carried on by the French in those days was twofold; colonization and missionary work on the one hand and pursuing the fur trade on the other.

In the early days, Canada was harassed by the English and Kirke took Quebec in 1623.
The French received it back in 1632.

The government was in the hands of a Governor and Intendant and Church affairs were in the hands of a Bishop. Some names of importance have come down to us from this time, such as— Maisonneuve, Marquette, La Salle, Laval, Frontenac and Jean Talon.

In 1756, Wolf took Quebec for the English and they received the whole of Canada in 1763.
We have four acts which helped the people to rule better, also to unite the Country.

(1) Quebec Act in 1774.
(2) Constitutional Act 1791.
(3) Act of Union 1840.
(4) Confederation 1867.

There have been also three wars or rebellions.
(1) American Revolution.
(2) War of 1812-15
(3) Rebellion of Upper and Lower Canada 1837.

These affected Canada insomuch that instead of breaking them up, they became joined closer together.

Some outstanding men in Canada have been Sir John A.
MacDonald, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, George Brown, A. T. Galt,
Mr. Tilley, Joseph Howe.

In 1914, Canada did her part in the war and many brave men lost their lives to show they were part of the mother land; and then as in every country the effects of the war have been felt in later years. But we are hoping that the times will improve and then Canada and Canadians will go on to greater and better things.

OFF COLOUR? HOW IS YOUR LIVER?

Wake up your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

Your liver's a very small organ, but it certainly can put your digestive and eliminative organs out of kilter by refusing to pour out its daily two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels. You won't completely correct such a condition by taking salts, oil, mineral water, laxative candy or chewing gum, or roughage. When they've moved your bowels they're through—and you need a liver stimulant. Carter's Little Liver Pills will soon bring back the sunshine into your life. They're purely vegetable. Safe. Sure. Ask for them by name. Refuse substitutes. 25c at all druggists.

BISHOP FARTHING AT GRENVILLE

The Bishop of Montreal visited the Parish of Grenville on Sunday last. In the afternoon he visited and preached at Trinity Church, Calumet, where there was a good attendance in spite of the terrific heat. In the evening the rite of Confirmation was observed at St. Matthew's, Grenville, seven candidates being confirmed, and the Church was crowded with a large congregation. His Lordship addressed the candidates on the subject of Character Building.

LACHUTE MAN WINS TRIBUTE AS AVIATOR

L'Evenement, French daily newspaper of Quebec City, pays high tribute to an old Lachute townsboy, who, while engaged in the sales department of Ford Motors, has made a name for himself in the side-line of aviation since leaving Lachute.

D. D. Mitchell

The subject of this news comment is Mr. "Del" Mitchell, who has many friends and acquaintances here.

Amongst the thirty-five aviators who will visit our city next Sunday, (comments L'Evenement) Mr. Del Mitchell, aviation instructor, is certainly the most remarkable.

Mr. Mitchell, who is attached to the Staff of the Montreal Light Airplane Club, has on several occasions given evidence of his sang-froid and steady control of his machine while in flight. Mr. J. A. Côté, sales manager for the Ford Company in Montreal, whom we had the pleasure to meet, related the following exploit of this aviator:

Mr. Mitchell once achieved a very rare feat with his plane. On a certain occasion while flying over an aviation camp, he noticed that one of the wheels of his machine had fallen off, and he controlled his plane so well that he made a perfect landing without causing the least damage to it. It is unnecessary to add that his passengers paid high compliments to Mr. Mitchell, for it is not every aviator who can land on one wheel.

This distinguished sales Manager of Ford Company added a few proud remarks concerning Mr. Mitchell and the good work he had done for aviation in the Metropolis.

Quebec City will have the pleasure to observe Mr. Mitchell himself, Sunday next at the great Air Pageant. No doubt this worthy aviator will make many new friends in the old capital, where courage and valour are always admired.

HAWKESBURY RESIDENT WAS 97

A resident of Hawkesbury for over half a century, Hyacinthe Laframboise died in that town last week at the age of 97. He was the oldest resident of Hawkesbury. His wife, Olive Touchette, of Chute-à-Blondeau, predeceased him some 30 years ago.

"Women can keep a secret just as well as men, but it generally takes more of them to do it."

WOLF SHOT ON LAKE LOUISA ROAD

Visitors to Lake Louisa last week-end were somewhat surprised to learn that a wolf had been shot from the highway much traveled by summer campers. The animal was seen last Thursday at the foot of the hill near Seale's farm. Gordon Watchorn, who stays at the farm, first saw the animal, which took to the bush immediately he came into view. Watchorn returned to the farmhouse for a gun, intending to follow the wolf through the woods. Coming back to the spot, however, he found it had come back into the clearing along the road. He fired and killed the brute, which proved to be a wolf almost silver grey in color and weighing 63 lbs.

The necessary forms were supplied by Mr. Calder, game warden, and the hide was shipped to Ottawa to claim the government bounty.

YOUNG PICNICKERS PLAY FOOLISH PRANK

A truck-load of young people passing through Brownsburg last Thursday toward Lachute appeared to be in holiday mood, but their pranks might well have proved disastrous to pedestrians at the roadside. Miss Ruth Anderson of Brownsburg, stood aside to let the truck go by, when one of the youthful occupants flung a rope which wound around her neck. The rope appeared to be heavily knotted, and the jerk, caused by the truck in motion, pulled the cord and seared the girl's neck painfully. She had to run behind the truck momentarily in order to free herself of the rope, and one hesitates to think what injury might have been inflicted.

Mrs. McAdam, in conversation with her father, Mr. J. Mason, at the foot of the hill, was also victimized in the same way, but the rope only struck her shoulder. A phone call was sent to Lachute and to St. Eustache, to stop the truck and warn against this dangerous practice, but the vehicle was not seen in this particular section, having doubtless continued toward St. Andrews.

IT WORKED!

Practically every weekly newspaper in Canada is troubled these days with subscription arrears. It presents a real problem just as does the collection of old bills in many other lines of business. It is said a weekly editor in Ontario became suddenly "fed up" with his subscription arrears which were steadily piling up and decided to take a little action. In to his paper he put an item under a large heading, "Notice." The item was to the effect that a certain married man in town had been seen kissing a young girl. This certain married man was away behind in his subscription to the paper and if he did not come in and pay it up, stated the item, the editor would be obliged to print the facts. The paper came out in the morning. That afternoon a man came in and paid his subscription arrears in full. The next morning about twelve or fifteen more married men came in, some of whom not only paid their subscription in full but also paid three and four years in advance. Try that on your piano. —Exchange.

FIRE BRIGADE HAS NEW ENGINE

Powerful Pump and Equipment to Meet Future Needs

Lachute Fire Brigade took delivery this week of its new fire-truck, product of the Bickle Company of Woodstock, Ont., whose representative, Mr. Tremblay, has been in town for the purpose of demonstrating the capacities and functions of the truck.

The brigade turned out Tuesday night for practice, and the equipment was put in use with satisfactory results. A hose connected on the north side of Main Street threw a stream of water clear over the Desjardins Hotel opposite. At the bend in the river at west end of Foundry Street, the 600-gallon pump was applied to its full capacity, ejecting powerful streams from four hose lines simultaneously. The truck carries 3,000 feet of hose.

This fire engine, besides presenting a business-like appearance, should now meet any emergency in town, and even in the event of poor pressure in the mains should afford sufficient water to quell any outbreak of fire. The contract given recently by the town will include also the firemen's outfits and all necessary equipment. A hose tower is also to be installed, and town hydrants rethreaded to meet standard appliances in this province.

CARS CRASHED AT DALESVILLE

Church-goers Badly Shaken

An accident occurred outside the Dalesville Baptist Church on Sunday evening, where the Townsend family of Ogdensburg were going to attend service at which their brother was to be baptized. The car in which they were riding was driven by Ross Townsend, the other occupants being his wife, his mother-in-law, (Mrs. Walter Wert) and two sisters, Iris and Jean Townsend.

As they turned across the road into the churchyard another car was coming down the hill at a high speed from the direction of Pine Hill, and crashed into the side of their machine, tearing off the door and hurling Miss Jean Townsend onto the road. The south-bound car was a taxi driven by G. Lacoste, who was returning with several passengers to Lachute.

Only one occupant of the latter car was injured, but Townsend's machine was badly damaged and all five passengers severely bruised and shaken. Some of them were taken to Mr. Morrow's residence nearby, and later carried to Lachute by Mr. and Mrs. Robert McFaul, who drove up to attend the service. They received medical treatment at the McFaul home. All were badly bruised, but the two most severely injured were Mrs. Wert and Miss Jean Townsend.

DROWNING AT OKA, QUE.

Two Indians of Oka Village on Monday recovered the body of Godfroy Bourgeault, 40-year-old hotelkeeper of Ste. Justine de Newton, who lost his life by drowning in the Lake of Two Mountains, at Sandy Beach, near Oka, on Sunday evening. Bourgeault had dived from a platform at a spot where he had been told it was dangerous for swimming. The body was taken in 90 feet of water, by means of a rowboat and grappling irons. Later a jury under Dr. Antonio Page, of St. Hermas, coroner, returned a verdict of accidental death.

UPPER LACHUTE W. I. AT DUNANY

Thursday afternoon of last week, was a gala day for the 27 ladies of the Upper Lachute W. I., who were invited to visit the delightful summer home of Mrs. Peck at Dunany.

The trip was made in the school autobus, which was a novel experience to the ladies and caused much merriment. On their arrival the ladies were greeted by their hostess, afternoon tea was served and many interesting topics in handicrafts discussed. A walk around the grounds was greatly enjoyed.

A hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Peck and also to the President, Mrs. Robinson, who had arranged this outing.

SIRENS PROHIBITED BY QUEBEC RULING

Noise Becoming Nuisance on Streets

In addition to boys riding bicycles equipped with sirens, or elastic bands creating the same effect, there have been one or two cars heard recently around town employing these unnecessary devices. As far as the youngsters are concerned, it is requested that their parents impress upon them it is unnecessary to disturb the neighborhood with these noises, especially late at night. And as far as the motorists are concerned, the ordinary motor horn might be considered sufficiently noisy for a town of the size of Lachute.

For the information of both, it may further be pointed out that it is illegal to equip automobiles with sounding devices louder than the ordinary horn or 'producing a prolonged noise'—also the law requires that no privately owned vehicle may make a sound similar to those produced by an ambulance, police or fire vehicle. This requirement is a section of the Quebec Motor Vehicles Act; it applies to Lachute, and presumably effects bicycle riders as well as motorists.

Finally, with the acquisition of a new fire truck in Lachute, there should be every precaution by the Lachute authorities to subdue the use of sirens, which might easily be confused with that of the fire engine.

MARRIED IN MONTREAL

Thomson—Doig

The marriage took place recently at Calvary Church, Westmount, of Annabel, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Doig, of this town, to Robert, son of Mr. R. Thomson and the late Mrs. Thomson. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. T. W. Jones. Given in marriage by her brother, the bride wore a gown of white organza, fashioned in close fitting lines with a short jacket edged in small pleating, and large hat to match. She carried a bouquet of bridal roses and lilies-of-the-valley. Miss Peggy Brown, the bride's only attendant, wore a pink organza dress with tulle halo hat and gloves of the same shade; her bouquet being composed of shaded sweet peas and blue delphiniums.

Mr. Alex. B. Thomson, brother of the groom, acted as best man. The ushers were Messrs. F. E. Cousins, and Stanley Doig. Mrs. Doig, mother of the bride, wore a crepe dress of navy and white with hat to match, and corsage bouquet of Ophelia roses. During the signing of the register, Miss Marguerite Doherty rendered a solo "All Joy Be Thine". A reception was later held at the Queen's Hotel, Mr. and Mrs. Thomson afterwards leaving by motor for a wedding trip to New York and Atlantic City.

LIGHTNING FATALITY AT MONT LAURIER

A man who was keeping watch over his dying brother-in-law was struck dead by lightning which crashed upon his farmhouse last Thursday. The victim was Thomas Constantino, 21-year-old farmer. By a queer twist of fate the other man, Joseph Clement, passing through the last stages of typhoid fever, was uninjured.

The bolt, coming in the midst of a fierce electrical storm, struck the flagpole of the house, smashed the chimney and hit Constantino, who was standing at the bedside of the sick man, with other relatives. He fell in a heap, killed instantly by the bolt.

Fire broke out in two places in the house, and the terrified Clement, unable to move from his bed, the body of his brother-in-law limp by his side, looked on helplessly while the survivors worked frantically to quench the flames.

AUTO MISHAP BEREAVES LACHUTE FAMILY

James Townsend Fatally Struck by Taxicab

James E. Townsend, Notre Dame de Grace, chief clerk in the car accountant's department of Canadian National Railways, was fatally injured when struck by a taxi on Sherbrooke Street last Thursday night. At the coroner's inquest it was decided that death was accidental. Mr. Townsend, it appears, had been walking south across Sherbrooke street when he was struck by a taxi going west along the same street. Omer Daoust, the driver, stopped promptly following the accident and ran to the injured man's aid. Suffering from a fracture of the skull, Mr. Townsend was rushed to the Homoeopathic Hospital where he expired shortly after his arrival.

James Edward Townsend is survived by his mother, Mrs. J. E. Townsend, here in Lachute, and by four brothers, Fred and Gordon, also of Mabel; Walter, of Brownsburg, and Ernest of Ottawa. There remain also two sons, Russell Edward Townsend, an employee of the Bank of Montreal; and Dr. Stuart Ross Townsend; his wife predeceased him two years ago.

Prominent in military circles, he was secretary-treasurer of the Military Bowling League, a position he had held for many years, and a sergeant with the 4th. Divisional Engineers. He was also a life member of St. Andrew's Lodge, A. F. & A. M., and a member of the Knights of Pythias. He held the office of chief clerk in the car accountant's department of the Canadian National Railways in Montreal, and had been with the company continuously for 42 years.

The remains were brought to Lachute for interment Sunday morning, burial being made at the local cemetery.

LACHUTE PIANO PUPILS SUCCESSFUL

Miss P. Paquette is to be congratulated on the splendid results obtained by her music pupils in their examinations. These were taken recently at the McGill Conservatory of Music, Montreal, and the standards are known to be quite difficult. Misses Ruth LeCras and Audrey Thorburn did very well, the former passing with distinction. Miss Edna Aitkin also passed well, her exams being in a higher class and consequently more difficult. It is to be hoped that success awaits these promising young pianists in the future.

LAD DROWNED IN CREEK AT BROWNSBURG

Was Visitor from Niagara Falls

A tragic circumstance attended the visit of Mrs. John Stewart and family, of Niagara Falls, who arrived two weeks ago to spend a summer vacation with her father-in-law, Mr. William Stewart, at Brownsburg. Mrs. Stewart was accompanied here by her two boys and infant son. The two lads went bathing last Saturday afternoon in Robertson's creek, which crosses the Brownsburg Road and runs through neighboring farms. Other boys, sons of William Boyd, were in the party. Mr. Boyd was cutting hay in his fields nearby, when one of the lads rushed to inform him that William Stewart had stepped beyond his depth and sunk in the creek.

Mr. Boyd hurried to the spot, and later sent for his son Ray. Together they located the lad's body and brought it to the surface. It was lying in a pool seven feet deep.

Dr. J. M. Drew was summoned from Lachute, but willing hands could do nothing to revive the unconscious form. Dr. J. H. Mason, as district coroner, pronounced death accidental. The victim is William James Robert Stewart and he was only seven years of age. The body was taken home to Niagara Falls by train on Monday evening.

CATHOLIC SCHOOL COMMISSIONERS ELECTED

Contesting last Monday for election to the two vacancies in Lachute Catholic School Board, Messrs. Réni Ledoux and Henri Trichard were successful, with a decisive majority of votes. The results, as given by Germain Filion, board secretary, are as follows:

Cyprien Durocher	43 votes
Henri Trichard	70 votes
Réni Ledoux	99 votes

The commissioners hold office for a three year term.

THE MONTCALM BELL

The famous Montcalm bell will not be returned to Quebec. By a vote of 16 to 3, the parochial council of All Hallows' Church at Tottenham, London, decided that it was unable to accede to the request of Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner, that the bell be returned.

The bell, which has hung in the Tottenham church since 1801, was used by the French general to rally his troops to the defence of Quebec against the victorious assault of General Wolfe.

Mr. Ferguson wrote suggesting it would be a graceful act on the part of the church authorities if the historic trophy were returned.

"The people of Quebec", he added, "would be willing to place an exact replica of the bell in the position it now occupies."

The council, however, held they had no moral right to give away the bell.

ENGLAND TO BE DIVIDED

A scheme for a waterway costing over £390,000 that will cut England in halves from Bristol Channel to the Wash has been approved by the British Government. It is proposed to make the River Nen navigable from Wash to Northampton where it joins the Grand Junction Canal. The canal links the Rivers Avon and Severn to Bristol Channel, so it will soon be possible to sail across England.

AUNT JEAN'S RIDDLE
NO. 5

"I flop my ears quite gaily,
As I hop o'er hills and dales,
I was born in that queer land Where they're rather short of tails.

So I twitch my stump and away I go,
Lipperty, lap, lap, lap.
I move so fast one would almost think
I belonged to a thunder-clap".

FOR?

Mother Harper met Laura May in the rose garden. Putting her arm around her she drew her to a seat and said, "Great-aunt Laura has brought you some gifts. She has taken a great deal of pains in making them and I hope my little girl is going to like them."

"I won't, Mummie—I just can't like them. I hate sunbonnets!" "How do you know that they are sunbonnets?" her mother asked in surprise.

"I heard her say so as I was sliding out of the bedroom window."

"Sliding out of the bedroom window, child, what do you mean?"

"I did not like Great-aunt Laura in the car on the way home, Mummie, and when you came so close behind me when I carried 'her box' (Laura May said it so much like Great-aunt Laura that her mother just had to smile), I knew that I should have to meet you if I went through the door—so I climbed out of the window and ran away."

Her mother's arm tightened about her. "Was it so bad as all that, sweetheart?"

Laura May buried her face against her mother and sobbed "I hate being called a gypsy, and a little brown thing by mean old ladies, and—and I hate sunbonnets and aprons and all that! Mother, do I have to wear them?"

Her mother did not answer for a few minutes; instead she smoothed the tumbled curls gently; then she said "Great-aunt Laura is very old and two weeks will soon pass." "Oh, Mother!" Laura May wailed "what will the other girls think? Luella and them all!"

"I should not wonder if, once you appear in them, Luella will soon have some too; then perhaps you could make a 'pretend game' out of it until the two weeks are past. Come in now and try them on, perhaps the sight of them will suggest something to you."

With a doleful sigh Laura May rose and followed her mother into the house, stopping just a minute for a hasty dab at her eyes as she passed the kitchen sink.

"Well, so you have found her?" Great-aunt Laura was sitting stiffly in the pretty cretonne covered chair that Mother Harper had taken from her own bedroom to make her guest more comfortable. She rose as she spoke and stalked (Laura May could not compare her way of walking to anything else) towards the bed, lifted up a blue and yellow checked apron with long sleeves in it and put it on Laura May. "That is more like the way a little girl should look", she said, in a satisfied voice. "Little girls in my day always wore them and they looked decent, not (with a scornful glance at Laura May's mother) as if they were half-naked!"

"But they're so warm", protested Laura May in a muffled voice. "Nonsense, child, you will soon get used to them, and your arms will get decently white again; that is" and she stopped with the sunbonnet in her hand, looking Laura May over quite keenly "if you were really white. You should be. The Harpers always had nice white skin. I don't know of course about the Bonds" (Laura May's mother was a Bond.)

On went the sunbonnet. It matched the apron exactly and was just the very same as the ones worn by the enormous elephants in her dream of the night before. There would be no need for her to borrow Cousin Belle's book of dreams to find out what hers meant. She knew now! Great-aunt Laura was holding up another apron and sunbonnet; they were green with brown checks "Oh!" Laura May started to say something quite nasty, and in order to prevent herself from doing so she dashed out of the door and through the hall, almost knocking Uncle Bob down in her hurry.

If she had been within hearing she would have heard Great-aunt Laura say, "Your little girl is not very polite, Ella; she never said 'Thank you'. I certainly expected better things of the daughter of a Harper and they told me that Edward had married such a sensible girl."

"You will please excuse Laura May, Aunt Laura; she was not very well last night, and I am sure she is still not well."

"Why don't you give her some herb tea if she is not well. I have some with me. I'll go out into the kitchen and brew it right away."

"Never mind, Aunt Laura, please! Laura May will be all right without it I am sure, and besides, you might happen to need it yourself and we could not get the herbs you are used to around here. Keep it for yourself, Aunt Laura, please do!"

"Perhaps I had better. I will wait and see, but if Laura May is not better soon she must surely take some."

—Next week Laura May finds out what sunbonnets are for.

Lovingly,

Aunt Jean.

CORRESPONDENCE

Quotations Apt to Present-Day Politics

Lord Bryon said "A man must serve his time to every trade save censure; critics all are ready made." Some have asked me whether I had stopped writing about the liberal association and politics in general; others say I have written too much now; and a few remark that I should keep on writing, that they enjoyed what I wrote and put it away for a second and often a third reading! To these latter, I take opportunity to thank them for the interest they take.

The story goes that a negro had a bumper crop of cotton at a very good price that netted him a fine balance for that season, but for a number of previous seasons the balance had been in favor of the merchant who had carried him over, year after year. Consequently the account of Mr. Vineburg against Sambo read something like this:

Balance in favor of Sambo for season 1934 a very good one.

Deduct balance in favor of Mr. Vineburg for 1929

Deduct balance in favor of Mr. Vineburg for 1930

Deduct balance in favor of Mr. Vineburg for 1931

Deduct balance in favor of Mr. Vineburg for 1932

Deduct balance in favor of Mr. Vineburg for 1933

—And Sambo had not much coming to him! A friend met him and remarked: "Well Sambo, you had a good crop of cotton this year," and Sambo replied "Oh yuss, but it did not do me very much good" "How is that?" said his friend "Well" said Sambo "de ducks got it all."

Perhaps my comparison is a little far fetched; I will leave that for you to say. We have had banner years and bumper crops—but de ducks has got it about all—so much so that we are all crying for a change. A change of the right sort would be good for us. But first of all let us be wise in time (for it is so that we reap most good from the knowledge we possess). There is no use locking the stable door after the horse is stolen; Change, just for the sake of change, is a poor policy. The old Montreal Witness puts matters in rather ship shape when it says, in reference to the Ontario and Saskatchewan elections, "Whatever the phrase 'Liberal' may have owed in each case to local politics—and local feeling appears to have been strong—it cannot have gained much from the slack-rope teetering of Mr. King, which has lacked even the illusory firefly sparkle of Mr. Bennett's unfulfilled eloquence."

And so far neither Mr. King or Mr. Bennett seem to bring forward any improvement for these ills, nor attempt to remove present embargoes that will allow us to trade freely with our neighbor, the world. Until this is done we may expect to languish in the slough of dispond; our car wheels will not turn and our ships will not sail.

A hundred years ago Oliver

Goldsmith wrote: "Just experience tells on every soil, that those who think must govern those who toil, and all that nature's laws can teach is but to lay a proportionate load on each; else should one order disproportioned grow, its double weight will ruin all below"—It is the double weight of the disproportioned orders that stand to ruin us all to day—and to ruin trade, the golden girdle of the globe.

DON'T BE CONFUSED
CLAIMS

Be Sure You Get Genuine
Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Bran has proved so successful in relieving common constipation that some cereal manufacturers, with products having only a fractional quantity of bran, have claimed that this minimum bran content is sufficient to get results.

You may have tried some of these part-bran products—and have been disappointed! The simple truth is that they do not furnish the amount of bran you need.

It's the "bulk" or fiber in bran that helps correct common constipation. This "bulk" is similar to that in leafy vegetables. Within the body, it absorbs moisture and forms a soft mass, which gently clears out the intestinal wastes.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" in convenient and concentrated form. It also furnishes vitamin B, as well as iron for the blood. It has won millions of friends because it overcomes common constipation safely and pleasantly.

It is all bran just as the name implies—with nothing added except the flavoring of Malt, Sugar and Salt.

When you buy a bran cereal for the relief of constipation, read the wording on the package. The facts are there! Make sure by getting Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—in the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario, Canada.

"They laughed when I sat down at the piano. I laughed when they handed me a clarinet, and then everybody wept for weeks while I learned to play the thing."

Thus does Roy Shield, NBC band leader, describe his first, and last, experience with the clarinet. It was during the World War and Roy was in the U. S. army, stationed at Fort Des Moines, Iowa. They wanted to make him a band sergeant, but they discovered that the only instrument he could play was the piano, and a piano is superfluous baggage to a military unit. So Roy was ordered to master the clarinet, which he eventually did. But he never played the instrument since he was mustered out of service.

MUSIC STUDY FOR MISCHIEVOUS BOYS

(Musical Review of Canada)

M. Alfred Barthel, first oboist of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, says in a recent number of the Etude concerning his boyhood:

"I was so mischievous that everything that went wrong in the neighborhood was blamed on me. My parents were worried, grief-stricken, frantic. They didn't know what to do with me; finally they decided they'd send me to sea. It was a custom to send young boys to ships, and in this way they thought I would learn discipline. But on the very day I was to go to make arrangements I got the mumps and had to stay home. That broke up the entire plan.

"Then a neighbor suggested that since my parents didn't know what else to try they might try giving me music lessons. 'But what sort of music lesson?' asked they. 'He has no talent for music; he has no talent for anything but mischief.' Said the neighbor, who himself played a bassoon, 'You might try the oboe.'

"Following this advice my parents took me to the music master at the Dijon Conservatory. But the music master shook his head and said, 'No, he hasn't the lips or the hands. He'll never make a musician.' But, my parents insisting that it wouldn't do any harm to try, I was put to it."

This mischievous boy became one of the finest oboe players in France, in spite of the proph-

Thoughts in Passing

By L. W. Armstrong

Found Wanting.

The world waited for and listened to Hitler's speech last Friday night.

The world was anxious to know if Germany's Chief Executive was justified in endeavoring to turn the clock of time back three hundred years.

The world hoped that it would find reason to believe that he would never again employ such antique methods in an attempt to make Germany safe for Nazism.

The world expected a great deal, but it was disappointed.

There is little doubt but that Friday night marks the turning point in Hitler's career.

He was faced with a great emergency and his actions proved that he was unable to satisfactorily cope with the situation.

It is apparent that his speech was not such that it gained for him the confidence of the world. There is even reason to believe that he failed to gain the confidence of the German masses.

Can it not also be said that his own confidence has failed him?

Can he not be likened to the ancient king who was 'weighed in the balances and found wanting'?

Laundering the Movies.

There seems to be a great deal of talk these days about raising the moving picture business from the gutter.

Historians frequently marvel at the patience and long-suffering of various generations in the past, but it is doubtful if there are any which have shown more patience or suffered longer than the present generation, from the moving pictures which have been thrust upon them.

If anyone be tempted to ask why so many people pay good money to see these pictures the answer may be found in the old axiom: Hope springs eternal in the human breast. The public was promised, in phrases which glared and howled and which stretched every known adjective to breaking point that the next picture would be better, and they hoped that it would be so; so much so that they buried the past and dug up more yellow gold to see that next picture.

But now it seems that some gentle souls have decided to cease hoping and to act.

If they are successful in enforcing even a few of the demands reported, they will not have lived in vain.

If only, while they are at it, they would demand that the producers at Hollywood recognize the classic worth of some of the material which they ignominiously hack to pieces, and after reducing it to the point where it is no longer recognizable, advertise it as the original work.

For example, if they decide to portray a story written by Edgar Allan Poe, then let us see that story, and not reel after reel of the results obtained from the workings of one or more second-rate minds at Hollywood. If they alter one scene or one line in any such story they have absolutely no right to advertise it as the original.

Do they imagine they can improve on the work of a master, if so, then we had better scrap all our editions of such great writers and replace them with the 'revised' ones from Hollywood.

Wanton Waste.

Did you ever stop for a moment to realize how many hundreds of thousands of perfectly good trees are sacrificed every year in order that the necessary paper be provided to advertise some practically worthless article?

The various governments spend vast sums of money for the conservation of the forest, and yet, millions of feet of the very best of lumber are literally wasted every year on money making schemes practised on the gullible public.

No intelligent human being will argue that

Arguments advanced by concert managers a few years back that radio would sound the death-knell of the concert hall, appear to be dissipated by a tabulation made by the Columbia Broadcasting System, which points out that broadcasting over a nation-wide network has increased the drawing power of the concert artist as a box-office attraction (says New York Times).

While the report shows that the amount spent on concert artists booked by the Columbia Concerts Corporation for radio engagements during the past year represented twice the sum expended the previous year, word received from concert managers throughout the country revealed that radio has helped to increase concert bookings of artists engaged in broadcasting and to build up a large ticket-buying public as well.

The Ottawa Spotlight

By Wilfrid Eggleston

Ottawa, July 17.—The capital is dozing through the "dog days" now that the hectic days of the session are over. Legislative halls and corridors resound to the leisurely tramp of tourists. Premier Bennett having been away at Calgary, the executive machine has been running idly under the courteous supervision of that grand old gentleman, Sir George Perley. But this state of pleasant inactivity won't last long. Big things are brewing. The departments are working pretty hard. The session just closed drafted plenty of work. There are numerous appointments to make, and several large-scale creative operations on foot.

It is quite a while since there have been so many vacancies to be filled. In the Upper Chamber there are 11 or 12 seats to be filled. These appointments are useful things to have on the eve of a general election, in which to place veteran Commoners who have rendered great service to their country and who hardly feel equal to the uncertain fortunes of a strenuous election campaign. The vice-chairman of the Radio Commission, Hon. Thomas Maher has retired, creating a vacancy there, which, however, may not be filled right away, in view of the suggested re-organization of the commission. The Board of Railway Commissioners has been without a chairman, since Hon. C. P. Fullerton left to become the Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Canadian National Railway. Rumor has it that Col. Harrington of Nova Scotia will follow him. There is a deputy minister needed in the Marine department, and the name of Robert K. Smith, M.P. for Cumberland, has been repeatedly mentioned. My own doubt is based on the distaste governments have for opening any new seats when they already have five by-elections to face, and with by-elections going so strongly against them. The Civil Service Commission is to get a chairman, probably Charles Bland. There are governing officials of the new Central Bank to appoint. The Dominion Marketing Board has yet to be set up. In connection with the new election machinery there are a number of posts to fill. The Dominion Archivist is retiring soon. All in all, there are plenty of good men needed. Not that Ottawa doesn't get plenty of applications and personal visits from men who are willing to serve in them, if they get the call.

Stevens Commission Plans

The eleven members of parliament who made up the Stevens parliamentary committee and did that disturbing series of investigations into wages profits, price spreads and working conditions have now been re-sworn as royal commissioners, and when the time is ripe they will re-assemble at the capital to continue their investigations. Probably early in September. They have some partly finished inquiries to conclude, and then they have three or four virgin fields it is a source of enjoyment to be confronted on a half dozen different pages in almost any magazine by a glaring advertisement for, let us say, tooth-paste.

If you really want to brush your teeth, all you have to do is to make your desires known at the drug store on the corner. In all likelihood you will be handed a brand you have never seen advertised, and which is, no doubt, the better for it.

More than that, countless millions have lived long and died happily without ever having abused their mouths with any concoctions advertised.

Surely it is high time the government intervened in this connection, not only to save the people from constant deceptions, but also to save one of the most natural resources from extinction at the hands of those who are no other than national parasites.

WE'LL PROVIDE THE CHEVROLET

for you to make THESE 18 TESTS
today

COMPARE THE KNEE-ACTION

Chevrolet is the only car in its class with fully enclosed Knee-Action—protected from wear and tear, dirt, flying stones!

TEST ITS BIG, POSITIVE BRAKES

The world's biggest brakes are cable-controlled. So are Chevrolet's equal-action, weatherproof, positive-acting brakes.

TRY "SILENT SECOND"

... so quiet you can "pick up" to 40 in second with never a whisper from the gears. Syncro-Mesh clashless shifting, of course!

SLAM THE DOOR POUND THE BODY

TEST THE ROOF
No tinny clang when the door swings to. No shiver or shudder when you pound the Fisher Body. No "drumming" vibration as you drive. And the roof is a built-up structure... not a makeshift of wire netting!

SPEED UP A HILL

No need to "nurse" the engine, because Chevrolet has the weight plus power to take you flying over the top in record time!

LEVEL OUT THE BUMPS

Chevrolet's Knee-Action Wheels have ended bouncing, pitching, jarring. Your ride is now a glide!

"WEIGH" THE VALUE

The economical Chevrolet is the heaviest car in its field, for extra comfort and dependability!

TRY THE BACK SEAT

... you float along. No bumps, no tooting. Just like up in front—and with plenty of head and leg room!

REST AS YOU DRIVE

... right down to adjustable driver's seat, Chevrolet is built for ease, comfort and convenience.

TRY "STARTERATOR" PARK WITH EASE

TEST ITS SPEED

Turn the key, press on the accelerator pedal, and the engine starts automatically! "Park" with finger-tip effort, thanks to lighter (and shock-proof) steering. As for speed... you're as comfortable as "top" as at 20! No noise! No vibration!

THEN LISTEN!

Idling, or racing along the straight-away, you'll never hear the Chevrolet engine. Because Chevrolet has spent more years perfecting the low-priced six-cylinder car than any other manufacturer!

WAGONS AND STARS

A golden sentence was spoken to a small company by the editor of a long established and valued publication when he said, "We are not trying to publish a magazine that shall please the greatest possible number of readers who want the kind of magazine we propose to publish."

Which, we submit, is getting things in their proper order. Here, surely is a reason why the Journal in question has survived in strength, decade after decade, when scores of contemporaries have passed to the limbo of lost hopes.

It does much to explain the fact that one sees it today on numerous library tables as part of the regular literary equipment of high-grade American homes.

Ralph Waldo Emerson is not much quoted when business executives meet. But that may not be so much his loss as that of the merchant princes. A famous legend of that philosopher might well adorn many an office wall.

"Hitch your wagon to a star" is not merely an ideal for poets and idealists, but entirely practical counsel for a disturbed and highly competitive business world. How many a commercial wagon has mired in the ditch simply because no star has been pulling it! No quality standard as opposed to a merely quantitative one has sustained the promoters of the enterprise.

Only the other day, a citizen of a large community was complaining that he knew of no single public place in his city where one could buy a really good meal. Yet there were restaurants with electric signs and menu-pasted windows all along the main street. Each one started hopefully enough, but quality was allowed to fall in some way, and so it lapsed into mediocrity or ceased to operate.

More and more one pins faith on the merchant who is always challenging his organization with some such slogan as, "Not how much, but how good." He may be selling garden rakes, or cotton cloth, or sandwiches at a wayside stand. But he sells quality first. If he sets his standard high enough and keeps it long enough, he will win.

Stars are imperious things. They insist on doing all the pulling, or none. They never allow the wagons to pull them. . . . But when one's car is really yoked up, the connection proves wholly dynamic:

The world is a vapor,
And only the vision is real;
Yea, nothing holds against hell,
But the winged ideal.

—Maurice Valley Chronicle.

THE PERSONAL TOUCH

The new Dominion Companies Act will cramp door-to-door selling activities, and officials of companies using that method will be liable, on conviction, to a fine of $500. for the first offence and to one of $1,000 and imprisonment for a second conviction.

The Act precludes canvassing by telephone such as is carried on by some brokerage firms, but it does not apply if the prospective customer is a personal friend of the salesman, a business associate, or a former purchaser.

JUDICIAL OPINION, ONE-MAN STREET CAR

The operator of a one-man car must do the work of two men, and the effort necessary to accomplish this double task renders him less able to exercise his functions, declared Mr. Justice Forest. His judgment was given in the case of accident, the presumption of fault being against the Montreal Tramways, in ordering the company to pay the plaintiff, a street car passenger $519 damages.

The bench thus takes a stand in the prolonged conflict over one-man cars, heard in different cities across the continent.

to cultivate. When their digging is all over, they will still have a few weeks of strenuous deliberation while they decide what recommendation they can make, to clear up such unsatisfactory conditions. Some of the members seem to have been converted to the "code" system. One of them said to me the day they were sworn in: "I'm coming to the conclusion that we'll have to follow Roosevelt — at least part of the way." "Won't business discipline itself, now that the exposures have been made?" I suggested. "It wouldn't work," he replied. "Even if a few of them refused to go into a self-regulatory scheme, it would ruin it."

Another Big Loan

The federal government has some big financing to do soon. Bond issues worth over $300,000,000 mature this fall, and since this sum cannot, naturally, be met in cash, the loan must be renewed. There is one rather happy feature. Quite a bit of maturing loan bore interest at 5½ per cent. Recently the governments has been borrowing at 3½ and 4 per cent. It will mean a saving of several millions a year if the 5½ per cent bonds can be exchanged for others with a coupon rate of 4 or even 3½ per cent. The government needs some additional money for railway and other special expenditures, so that the loan, when it is floated, may run to half a billion. The government hopes to be able to borrow from Canadians. With so much money in the savings banks, now earning only 2½ per cent, and facing the possibility of a cut to 2 per cent, it seems quite possible they will be able to get all they want here.

THE FRIENDLY BUS

(Contributed)

The magic coach in days of yore
Was drawn by white and prancing steeds;
A footman stood beside the door
To answer all my lady's needs;

In blue and gold from head to hip
The gallant coachman cracked his whip.
The magic carriage of our town
Is made of rubber, wood, and steel,

It boasts a top of weathered brown,
An engine and a steering wheel;
Yet it is rich in deeds of gold
As any fairy coach of old.

When members of the Forty-two Have errands to a town near by,
When ready coins are all too few,
And taxi fares are all too high,

The Friendly Bus is right on hand
To drive them through the smiling land.
It drives the merry C-G-I-T group
And mission workers plump and staid,

The Wakiconda camping troupe,
The members of the Ladies' Aid;
For church parades and picnic trails
Our magic carriage never fails.

It moves the kit for scout patrols
From kitchen stove to palias,
The pots and pans, the tents and poles,
The knapsacks and the looking glass,

The axe to chop the sacred tree
At sunny Potawatomi.
Or on a moonlit summer night
The Bus collects a gipsy load;

It leaves behind the village light
And spins along a country road
To where the scouts in camp attire
Have built their gala evening fire.

A merry troupe assembles there
From Turkish shiaks to stately dames;
An elephant, or dancing bear,
Joins in the frolic and the games;

And firelight sheds a gleaming ray
Across the waters of the Bay.
Our coach may have no royal band,
And yet it owns a wealth untold,

Its fortune is the friendly hand,
Its deeds are worth a weight in gold,
Grey beards and children join with us
To thank and bless our Magic Bus.

BIG DOG TAX

Owners of big dogs will pay a big licence fee under a new city by-law in force in Winnipeg. The new ruling imposes a $10 licence fee for all police dogs, great danes and huskies, and forbids appearance of these breeds of dog on the public thoroughfare except on leash.

WHO PAVES THE WAY?

If the statement of W. E. N. Sinclair, K.C. is correct and not one cent of the $132,000,000. taken in by the Ontario Government through the taxation on licenses and gasoline was spent to retire the highway debt, who will pave the way for the motorist?

Speaking at Toronto recently before members of the International Building Owners and Managers Association, E. W. Beatty, K.C., chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, doubted the wisdom of "too elaborate planning" in national economics. Mr. Beatty did not think the present system of society was wrong except in the "way in which it is applied."

The Canadian Pacific Railway will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the completion of its transcontinental line next year. It was November 7, 1885 that Donald A. Smith, later Lord Strathcona, drove the last spike at Craigellachie joining east to west and Atlantic to Pacific.

Hon. Charles A. Dunning, vice-president and general manager of the Seignior Club, Montebello, Quebec, has been elected a director of Barclay's Bank, Canada. The former Federal Minister of Finance is also president of the Ontario Equitable Life Insurance Company.

After one of the most remarkable and successful meetings ever held by a religious body, the Oxford Group left the Banff Springs Hotel for the East. Many of them sailed from Quebec by S.S. Empress of Australia for England. The next house party will be held at Oxford July 1-14.

Speaking at the Admiral Beatty Hotel, Saint John, Sir William Clark, British High Commissioner to Canada, claimed that the real source of Canada's troubles in connection with marketing agricultural produce lay in the economic expansion of agricultural production by industrial countries, especially some of the larger European countries which are normally importers.

Music, moonlight, glorious lake breezes with 600 miles of sailing on the Canadian Pacific's Great Lakes ships Assiniboine, Keewatin and Manitoba are at the disposal of passengers on the company's lines this summer at low cost. The offer promises to be very alluring to Canadians and visitors to the Dominion as well.

Quebec Province is alive with fetes, celebrations and gala events this year marking the anniversaries of some of the most memorable events in its history. Among them and the most important is the 400th anniversary of the discovery of Canada by Jacques Cartier in July 1534.

A Mediterranean-Africa-South America cruise in the 22,000-ton liner Empress of Australia, visiting 24 ports in the Mediterranean, Palestine, Egypt, East and South Africa, South America and the West Indies will be operated next winter, it is announced by the Canadian Pacific. The cruise will take 96 days, leaving New York January 18, 1935 and returning there April 24.

What Kind of Equipment Do Farmers Want Most?

A NATIONAL magazine, in a recent investigation, asked farmers what kind of labor-saving equipment was most urgently wanted by them. The investigation showed the interesting fact that milking machines were second on the list.

This isn't surprising. Few people like to milk. It's hard work that must be done—seven days a week—the first thing in the morning and the last thing at night. It is one job that most dairymen have made up their minds to get away from, and many have already done so by means of De Laval Milkers.

De Laval Milkers are used by the United States Government. They are used by the world's biggest dairies and on the world's best cows. Many thousands of smaller dairymen use them under every conceivable milking condition.

Sooner or later you are going to have one, and the sooner you get one to work in your dairy the better you will be pleased. Why not give us an opportunity to tell you more about the De Laval Milker? You will not be obligated in any way.

De Laval Milkers

There is a De Laval Milker for every need and purse. There are two kinds of De Laval Milkers—the famous "Magnetic," which is the world's best milker, and the well-known "Utility." In both of these types you can find a De Laval Milker to fit your need and purse.

SELLING BY TELEPHONE

I am furious! I have been interrupted no less than four times this morning by people trying to sell me things over the telephone. From the number of times my phone rings I must be on every sucker list in the city. Nearly every day there is a call. Yesterday there were two. To-day they tried to upholster our furniture, do dry-cleaning, sell a magazine and a new car. If it annoys every other woman as it does me they cannot have much success in their telephone campaigns.

YOU CAN SHOP AT HOME

We spent a pleasant weekend in an American city recently and I think for the first time in my life when in an American city, I was not filled with a wild desire to buy. Usually clothes, which of course always appeal to women, are so attractive and so much cheaper than ours that it is a temptation to buy. This time I found that styles and materials were just the same as in the stores at home and that prices were not one bit cheaper. So if any of you have a hankering to 'go across the border' you need not go there to shop as you can do just as well at home and will not be hurried while choosing. I hate to buy things in a hurry. The things I like best are those that I have thought over and that I know are exactly what I want before I buy.

A DIET

Some people seem to think that there is a magic about the word 'diet'. So long as they are on a diet everything is fine. It does not matter what the diet is just so long as they are on one. That is so senseless. You cannot issue a general diet and expect it to suit everyone. Thin people, fat people, nervous people, placid people, tall people, stocky ones and so on, running the gamut of all the different varieties require variations in the diet and all do not eat alike nor should they. A woman who wanted to reduce showed me a diet sheet that some doctor had given a friend of hers. It allowed no meats, no fats, no starches (and that meant nothing made with flour), and no sugars. Fortunately this woman did not try this very restricted diet as she thought the friend who was using it did not look well. Other people have the idea that if a doctor gives a diet it must be good. It may be very good for the person for whom it was intended but harmful for someone else. One of our friends was put on a very restricted bland diet and another friend who is always fussing about his health, decided that if the doctor gave this diet it must be good so he immediately adopted it too, without stopping to think that it might not suit his needs at all. It happened that this particular diet would not do him any harm but it was unnecessarily restricted and he lost the pleasure of eating many good foods. However he felt very virtuous and seemed to get a great kick out of following a doctor's diet. We need to use common-sense and sometimes one would think it is a scarce article.

EMERGENCY MEALS

A group of women were talking and one of them said that the day before she had been away with her husband and when they got home late there was not a thing to eat in the house. One of the others said she usually cooked bacon and eggs when they came in late and hungry. I started asking the others what they did when they were in a hurry, and was struck with the frequency with which they used bacon and eggs. Scrambled eggs seemed to lead. We sometimes have them, possibly garnished liberally with crisp bacon or with a little onion browned gently in the butter before adding the eggs. Of course the weather has a good deal to do with the choice of food, but unless it is too hot we are most apt to have baked beans and bacon for a hurry-up meal. There is usually a can of beans on the shelf and we are seldom without bacon. If I have a little more time or energy I may cream either salmon or lobster and open a can of peas. One woman said that creamed crabmeat was always a treat for them so she usually had that. What do you usually have for your emergency meal? It is a mistake not to have a few cans on your shelf as even in summer when fresh food is abundant you may be very glad to have them for quick use.

SPICED CURRANT JELLY

2 cups strained currant juice
2 cups sugar
2 cups vinegar
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon each cloves, cinnamon, nutmeg and all-spice.
Boil the juice for 20 minutes then add the other ingredients and boil for 5 minutes longer or until a little will jell when put on a cold saucer. Serve with meats.

APRICOT ICING

1/4 cup dried apricot pulp
1 teaspoon gelatine
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vinegar
1/3 cup water
1/2 teaspoon almond extract
2 egg whites
Rub cooked apricots through a sieve and measure 1/4 cup of pulp. Mix gelatine with three teaspoons water and add to the apricots. Heat and stir until gelatine is dissolved. Cook sugar, water and vinegar to 236 degrees or until a soft ball is formed in cold water. Pour syrup over the beaten egg whites, add the apricots and continue beating until the icing will stand in peaks. Add almond extract.

If someone says, "I can't tell you from your daughter," the one with the wry smile is the daughter.

MUSIC STUDY FOR MISCHIEVOUS BOYS

ecy of the teacher at Dijon. He has been a member of the Lamoureux and Colonne orchestras in Paris and has spent nearly thirty years as first oboist of the Chicago Symphony.

In the year 1907 he was awarded the coveted silver medal of the Academie des Sciences, Arts et Belles-lettres of France. Apparently music study was the needed outlet for the energy of this boy. Previously, he had sought expression of himself in mischief. Applause and attention being denied him, he child-like, sought them by indulging in mischief. In the assiduous study of music he found what he sought.

While we would hesitate to state that there are many potential Alfred Barthels among Canadian boys, we say confidently that music study would provide an excellent and profitable outlet for the energies of many young mischief-makers.

T. Newton, of Morin, has introduced a new style of building which seems to be the right thing where a warm house is required. He has just completed one house in Morin, has contracted for three more and for two in Lachute, for Mr. P. Cruise. The buildings are made of lumber sunk and pressed in fine mortar.

OTTAWA LOOKING

AHEAD TO BANNER
1934 EXHIBITION

C.C.E. Directors Confident that Splendid Reputation Earned in Past Will be More Than Maintained.

Five weeks from next Monday the gates will open for the 47th. annual Ottawa Exhibition. Since its inception there have been ups and downs but the advance has been steady and the Ottawa Exhibition is second only to the Canadian National and is the largest one week exhibition on the continent. For this year the directors are confident that the splendid reputation earned in the past will be more than maintained.

For one full week, from August 20th. to August 25th. inclusive, the beautiful grounds of Lansdowne Park, on the banks of the Rideau Canal, will be given over to the most spectacular, most elaborate and most finished show the combined talents of exhibition officers, exhibitors, artists and showmen have been able to assemble under one management.

Months of concentrated effort and expert study based on the experience of years in the exhibition sphere have been centered on the forthcoming show, and no expense of time or money has been spared to give the Capital City and its constituency throughout this portion of Ontario and western Quebec, a fair which combines all the features calculated to interest, to amuse, to instruct and to thrill.

Located, as it is, in the heart of one of the most fertile valleys of Eastern Canada, and with the pulse of a widespread and busy community beating in its thoroughfares, Ottawa is the logical site for such an exposition. Ottawa's annual show has for years, under the title of the Central Canada Exhibition, been the show window for an important and growing area of the Dominion, and the culture, the handicraft, the talent, the ingenuity, the business acumen and the general high

The C.P.R. station is looking better for a coat of paint and varied improvements, including the removal of the rear part of the platform, a boon which the teamsters greatly appreciate.

Mr. N. Runion has erected his photographic studio on Mr. R. McArthur's lot.

The annual convention of the W.C.T.U. of Argenteuil and Vaudreuil Counties was held last week at St. Andrews.

Tenders are called for the erection of a dwelling house on the building lot at the rear of the Parsonage on the Methodist Church Property.

standard of the people of the Capital district is annually reflected in the fine exhibits and other features of the great week during which they are on display.

Particularly is the Central Canada Exhibition important to the immediate counties of Eastern Ontario and Western Quebec, whose people naturally look to Ottawa for leadership in community affairs and in direction in their problems both rural and urban. The existence here of the Central Experimental Farm of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, guarantees the interest of the farming communities in the Ottawa show, to which, naturally, the agricultural experts of the country devote special attention. Other government departments, whose chief officers are all located in the Capital, avail themselves of the opportunity afforded by the exhibition for extending special services to patrons for the fair.

Creator and his band, the Follies Revue of 1934, automobile races, government displays of exceptional merit, the best in live stock, poultry, horticulture and agriculture, automobile show, pure food show, horse races, child welfare demonstrations, stellar vaudeville, a new and better midway, dog show, and scores of other factors promise to make the 1934 exhibition stand out ahead of all previous efforts.

"My dear boy," effused the elegant lady, of aristocratic demeanor, to the schoolboy at the gate, "will you—ha—inform Hector Reginald Cornelius Mannington-Mannington that his mother has arrived?"

"Sure, ma'am", returned the boy. Then, facing the playing field, he yelled, "Sniffy, the old girl's blown in."

Superintendent of Insane Asylum—did you get those five men who escaped?

Guard—Five? We got thirteen!

A discovery of interest to all music-lovers has been made in the Frederick the Great Palace in Breslau, Germany, where a piano first played by the 9-year-old Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart in London in 1765 has been located.

In a small town in Yugoslavia there recently died one of the two last relatives of Franz Schubert. His name was Josef Schubert, and according to a Belgrade newspaper, possessed many valuable mementoes of the composer. The brother of the deceased is still carrying on the tradition of their illustrious ancestor; the last of the Schuberts is a musician, said to be the conductor of an orchestra in Argentine.

the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures", by Mary Baker Eddy:—

"Blessed are they that do his commandments, that they may have right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates into the city." (Revelation 22: 14).

"The true idea of God gives the true understanding of Life and Love, robs the grace of victory, takes away all sin and the delusion that there are other minds, and destroys mortality. The sinless joy—the perfect harmony and immortality of Life, possessing unlimited divine beauty and goodness without a single bodily pleasure or pain,—constitutes the only veritable, indestructible man, whose being is spiritual." Here and There

One graduate of the Anglican Theological College of British Columbia and four undergraduates are out for a summer of adventure and color since embarking recently aboard Canadian Pacific coastal liner, "Princess Norah" for the Yukon. Her 100-odd passengers also included miners, prospectors and northern railway and steamship men going in for the season.

Portland, Oregon's 26th annual Rose Festival, world-famous for colorful pomp and pageantry, will be held June 11-14 next. The western zone of the Canadian Legion will hold its convention there as also the American Rose Society.

The Princess Elaine, popular Vancouver-Nanaimo ferry of the Canadian Pacific B.C. Coast steamship service, is back from overhaul with the very latest in living rooms installed aboard. It is 40 feet long and 15 feet wide, and is provided with lunch counter and tables.

General improvement in business is apparent throughout Canada although many problems still remain to be solved is the opinion of Jackson Dodds, general manager of the Bank of Montreal, who sailed for Europe aboard the Empress of Australia recently.

Clement Tremblay Honored by Dominion Woollen Manufacturers

Fills Vice-Presidency of Association

OUTSTANDING ADDRESS BY PRESIDENT

Woollen Goods in British Canadian Trade

Mr. Clement Tremblay, secretary-treasurer of Ayers Limited, who is also ex-mayor of Lachute and consistently active in community interests, received a signal honor at the recent annual gathering of the Canadian Woollen and Knit Goods Manufacturers' Association in Toronto. Mr. H. Sundry, general manager of Penman's Limited, was appointed President of the organization, while Mr. Tremblay was elected to the office of vice-president, a notable recognition among interests that are Dominion-wide and of great importance in the industrial life of this country. Realizing how Lachute, as a manufacturing centre, is identified largely with the progress of the woollen industries, Mr. Tremblay draws our attention to the following interesting facts. The woollen and knit-goods industry in Canada now employs 26,000 persons, with an annual payroll of twenty million dollars. These figures include only those directly engaged in manufacture, regardless of the number indirectly employed in furnishing fuel, supplies, power, materials, maintenance and transportation. The industry purchases over thirty million dollars worth of supplies annually.

These facts were given at the recent convention by Mr. Barrett, retiring president of the organization, in his remarkable address—the full text of which we take liberty to reproduce from July issue of the Textile Journal.

TEXT OF PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

Courage on the part of the people of Canada to endure the hardships of depression without being panicked into trying experimental cure-alls is now being justified. Since February 1933 Canada has been on the upward spiral. Striking indices of improvement are shown in the comparative price of wheat, the increase of industrial employment, and the mounting value of Canadian exports. When our industry last met in annual convention late in 1932, wheat was at 39c, to-day it is double that, an increase of 100%. In April 1933 the industrial employment index figure was at 76, the bottom for the depression; in June this year it was at 96.6, an increase of 25.8%. In the twelve

THREE VEHICLES IN AUTO COLLISION

Passenger Badly Hurt in St. Philippe Accident

On Tuesday evening (an occasion of general excitement in this locality) a highway accident occurred about a mile west of St. Philippe on the Grenville highway. A swaying auto-trailer seems to have been responsible for the mishap, in which a coupe took the ditch and swung back, to collide with another car, both passenger vehicles being badly smashed.

According to information available, a truck and trailer were traveling westward in the centre of the road, and as the truck swerved aside to allow a car to pass, the trailer swung out further into the road and struck the coupe, driven by Mr. Couture of the local Roads Dept. garage, forcing him into the ditch. Swinging back onto the road with considerable difficulty Mr. Couture collided heavily with a car driven by Mr. J. A. O'Brien, on his way home to Chaboro. With Mr. O'Brien were his daughter, Ruby, a son and a relative, Mrs. Hillman. The two ladies were injured and badly shaken, particularly Miss Ruby O'Brien, who was bleeding profusely from a cut in the leg. They were taken to Mr. Chambers' residence nearby and received treatment by Dr. J. H. Mason, who was summoned from Lachute. It is learned that Miss O'Brien has since been removed to hospital.

A section of the river bank opposite the Memorial Park has been built up, resembling a wharf, which has aroused curiosity among passers-by. The stand is built to facilitate the combating of fires in this section of the town; the fire pump can thus be drawn alongside the river and connected with an inexhaustible water supply.

The late Chang Tso-lin, uncrowned War Lord of Manchuria, used to drink hot tiger's blood in the belief that it kept his body active.

Most of the misfortunes of men would be avoided if they would learn to keep quiet and not grumble.

LACHUTE BOY-SCOUTS UNDER CANVAS

A very enjoyable and successful week-end camp was held on the banks of the Ottawa River at Cushing on the property of Mr. Ernest Hartley. The boys were encamped from Friday evening to Sunday evening, and although the time was short, the weather was ideal so that a great deal of useful training could be given in the way of woodcraft, first aid, cooking and many other things which help to make a boy self-reliant and helpful to others. It is the intention of the same group of boys to attend the Provincial Camp at Tamaracouta (near Morin Heights) for two weeks in August.

On the Saturday evening a "Camp Fire" entertainment was given, when a goodly number of friends were in attendance and enjoyed the fun.

The group also attended the morning service at St. Mungo's United Church, Cushing.

FORMER ACADEMY TEACHER DEAD

Mrs. F. E. Millar, Latterly Resided in California

Word has been received from Clovis, California, of the death of Mrs. Fred E. Millar, on July 20th. She was formerly Miss Jessie Doig, daughter of the late Andrew and Jane Doig, of Upper Lachute. Mrs. Millar taught school in this vicinity for eighteen years, the last three of which were spent in the Lachute Academy.

She is survived by her husband, three sisters—Mrs. A. G. MacArthur, Miss Charlotte Doig, residents of Lachute, and Mrs. T. E. Mellen, of Fresno, California.

DEATH OF RESPECTED TOWNSWOMAN

Former Alderman and Family Bereaved

Mrs. Charles R. Miller, for many years resident of this town but latterly, removed to Upper Lachute, passed peacefully to her reward last Sunday after several months of failing health.

Mrs. Miller was formerly Miss Mary Elizabeth Copeland, born at Hill Foot almost 52 years ago. She had been married for 34 years to Mr. Miller, well known as a local C.N.R. employee and esteemed for his services on the Town Council during residence in Lachute. Mr. and Mrs. Miller with their son, William, and daughter-in-law, moved out of town to a nearby farm. It was in March last that Mrs. Miller underwent an operation, from which she never regained her former health and strength.

Receiving her education in this locality, the deceased lady had spent her entire life and devoted her interests to associations here in Lachute. She was a faithful member of the United Church, active in the Ladies' Aid and the W. M. S., in which she had been recently honored with life membership.

Besides her husband and son at home, she is survived by a brother, Thomas Copeland, in California, and three sisters, namely Mrs. Jessie Lemon, of Westlawn, Ont., Mrs. Wm. McRuer, Manitoba, and Mrs. Jno. Rosscup in North Dakota.

A largely attended funeral was held Tuesday afternoon in the local United Church, Rev. Dr. Currie officiating. The pall-bearers were Messrs. Geo.

RECOVERING FROM FRACTURED SPINE

Serious Injury in Auto Crash. Victim Making Good Recovery

Miss Jean Townsend of Ogdensburg, who was thrown out of her brother's car near the Dalesville Baptist Church in an accident reported in these columns last week, is suffering from a fractured spine. She owes her life to a miraculous circumstance, and to her careful handling following the accident a week ago last Sunday.

The exact nature of her injury was uncertain, until Miss Townsend was removed to the Montreal General Hospital for X-ray examinations last Saturday. Here it was found that her neck was broken; although there was a distinct fracture in one of the vertebral bones, the spinal cord had escaped injury, and it is doubtless to this slim chance the young lady owes her life.

Her neck was put in a cast, and Miss Townsend was brought back on Tuesday to the home of Mrs. Robt. McFaul, who has been caring for her in Lachute. Every hope is entertained for her complete recovery.

LAKEFIELD MINISTER HONORED

When the residents of Lakefield, with their friends of the neighboring district, gathered in the parsonage grounds on Monday evening at a lawn social provided by the ladies of Holy Trinity Church, a truly enjoyable evening was spent. It was an occasion of mixed joy and sorrow, the main purpose of the function being to present the Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Mount with two beautifully upholstered arm-chairs, in which they may now recline at ease after their active ministerial life, much of which has been spent in Lakefield.

The presentation was made by Mr. Stewart, student in charge since Rev. Mount's retirement, and allusion was fittingly made to the love, esteem and reverence in which the happy couple are held by their community.

In expressing his deep gratitude for the gift and the kindly thought which prompted it, Rev. Mr. Mount, in retrospective mood, recalled the first days of his ministry in these parts and emphasized the contrast in conditions between that period and the present time.

Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Mount also celebrated on that evening the fortieth anniversary of their marriage and were surrounded by their children and their grandchildren and those among whom they had labored so long. Many letters and good wishes were sent during the day to this much loved couple. A varied program of music brought this never-to-be-forgotten evening to a close.

OMISSION

Last week's Watchman made mention of local successes in the McGill Conservatory of Music exams. Our attention has been drawn to the fact that Miss Thorburn was among the candidates winning distinctions, and also that Grant Robinson of Calumet passed most creditably. These successes were all taken by pupils of Miss P. Paquette, Lachute, and we regret that full credit was not given in our previous report.

Paul, A. McQuat, A. Falconer, Henry Hadley, Thos. Boyd and Thos. Miller. The remains were tenderly laid to rest in the Lachute Cemetery.

"DEVIL'S GAP"

(By our Own Correspondent)

Devil's Gap. . . . What a name! To the imaginative mind it suggests a yawning cavern filled with flaming brimstone, forked tongues of fire throwing crimson shadows on its dark walls, mirroring the grim features of a brooding Mephistopheles. To this add the word "camp", and the picture suggests not a solitary grim watcher, but legions of evil spirits disporting themselves at some appointed place.

But visitors to Devil's Gap Chalet Bungalow Camp, near Kenora, on historic Lake of the Woods, find a vastly different environment than that pictured by the imaginative mind. They find instead an Elysium (not for happy souls after death) but for weary, living bodies.

Here Beauty sits enthroned and Peace broods over its residents as a mother dove over her young. No piercing whistle or thunder of passing trains shatters its calm. The tired traveler may "sleep the clock around" if he is so minded, on beds soft as milk-weed down, or if he be restless, he can work off that semi-frayed feeling in games of golf or tennis, in swimming, or paddling through the water in a canoe, his eyes fixed on the pulsing waves that so gently rock his craft, his thoughts perchance of the past and the happenings connected with this place.

In the morning the robins carol greetings to the sun and to all mankind; in the quiet of the night-time the pine trees seemingly lean toward you and whisper ageless secrets in your ear. They lead you to forget the heart-aches of the past and live only in the beautiful present.—Whisper to you also of the storied past, some two hundred years and more, when the explorer, La Verandrye, first crossed the Lake of the Woods, in 1732 to be exact, and there built Fort St. Charles, also that at Kenora (first called Rat Portage.) In the days of the Indian this was the central meeting place of the Northern and Southern tribes, because of its easy access by canoe, and later the attraction of the Hudson Bay Company; today it is a manufacturing and trading centre of considerable importance.

In addition to the large paper mills, it has, with its sister town Keewatin, the largest flour milling industry in Canada. Its name Kenora is a combination of names, taken from Keewatin and Rat Portage.

The pine trees whisper too, that had Christian influence been at work earlier amongst the native residents the tragic death of La Verandrye and his companions, among them a priest of the church, at the hands of fierce Indians, as they were resting on the lake-shore from an arduous voyage, might have been averted.

But the untutored red men saw only in these white visitors people who had come unasked to their shores with the intention of wresting from them their homes, their woods, their game and fish, in fact their only means of sustenance; and they dealt with them swiftly and in the manner they thought such intruders should be dealt with.

LACHUTE ROAD FAMILY VISITED BY DEATH

Young Son Victim of Blood Poisoning

Sympathy is felt in the bereavement of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur St. Jacques, of Lachute Road, whose 10-year-old son, Maurice, succumbed early Monday morning to blood poisoning which developed from a minor cut on the knee. Three weeks ago the lad, while running behind an express, had knocked and cut his leg. On Sunday of the week previous to his death, the wound had broken open and it became infected. Dr. L. P. Sauve was summoned on Saturday, but poisoning had advanced too far, and the child passed away on the Monday following.

Sorrow appears to have beset this family in recent years. It is only a few months since an 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. St. Jacques died from peritonitis, following rupture of the appendix. Three years ago their youthful son was kicked by a horse while mowing hay, and died within a few hours. Other adversities, in the loss of fine horses and cattle, have also fallen to the lot of the St. Jacques family, who have the sympathy of their neighbors and fellow agriculturists in this string of misfortunes.

Barrow's Bridge is receiving a new coat of paint and repairs. The work is undertaken by Quebec Government as an item in roads maintenance.

STUBBORN FIRE IN LACHUTE GARAGE

New Fire Fighting Equipment in Operation

Following an evening of practice work with their new Bickle fire-engine, Lachute Fire Brigade were summoned at 10.30 p.m. on Tuesday to a stubborn blaze at Leger's Garage, opposite the C.P.R. station. The fire truck had just been returned to its berth in Deacon's storage garage when the call was turned in, and the brigade set to work in earnest.

The outbreak occurred in an unusual manner. Cleo Leger, proprietor of the establishment, was disassembling a gasoline line in a Ford sedan. He had disconnected the pipe and has his thumb pressed to stop the flow of gasoline, while his assistant cleaned out the drainage sump. In replacing this part he released a spurt of gasoline, which fell on his electric extension lamp, exploding the globe. The gasoline immediately ignited and the car was soon a mass of flames. Mr. Leger was driven back with gasoline burning on his hands and arms, but fortunately his burns were not serious. . . . A car was being towed into the garage at the moment; both vehicles were pushed out of harm's way, while Mr. H. E. Desjardins rushed from his hotel and rescued his car from the adjacent shed.

Arriving on the scene, the fire-fighters found a stubborn blaze, where oils, rubber tires and inflammable materials were feeding the flames. Two streams of water were applied from the powerful new pump, the pressure being just as much as several men could handle at the two nozzles. The old fire truck was also on hand, and other hose lengths were connected direct with the hydrants.

The garage was completely gutted, including also the attic and roof over the next door premises of Ernest Rodger, blacksmith, who is the proprietor of the entire building. He has insurance worth a thousand dollars on the property, but

FOR?

"Where away, Fair Maid?" called Uncle Bob, as he caught hold of the door lintel to keep himself from falling and grasped Laura May's arm with his free hand. "Why, who on earth is this? Charity Anne or Queen Anne of the Blue-Caps?" he said, as he looked into Laura May's face, turning the flap of her sunbonnet back far enough to allow him to see that the tears were very near the surface. "Just a minute, Your Royal Highness" he said, "You have but to command me and I shall obey your slightest wish. It is quite needless to make your presence known to your humble vassal in such a way as to almost knock him down and cause him to drop the box of chocolate he was conveying to Your Highness."

Letting go of her arm he stooped and picked up the parcel he had let fall as she had come careening against him. "Come with me, oh Queen of the Blue Caps, and I will give you sweets that will melt in your mouth and cause you to forget the trials and troubles of your kingdom."

Taking hold of the arm which he held out so invitingly, as he stood bowing before her, Laura May walked with him to the rose arbor doing her best to smile.

Once in the rose arbor Queen Anne of the Blue Caps nestled on his knee and poured her troubles into his kindly ears. "Mother said to make a game of it," she said in a smothered voice, "but how can I, in this heat?"

"Let me think a minute, and in the meantime here's a nice crunchy chocolate to keep your mind off things until your lowly slave figures things out."

"I have it! Queen-of-the-Blue-Caps is as good a game as any. I shall make you a sceptre that will be the envy of all your vassals. It shall be made of the stock of my old blue riding whip trimmed up with bands of silver paper—no, gold paper to match those glorious golden checks in your bonnet and some feathers from Mignonne-the-Peacock's tail. —Mignonne died years before you were born, but I shall have some of her feathers, and the other children will think that they came from India or miles further off. How's that for a plan, Queen Anne? You will go out where all can see you and wave your wand and trut about in all your stateliness, and you will soon have such a retinue of followers that you will not know what to do with them all."

Thus comforted, Laura May cuddled close to Uncle Bob and said, "But just the same, Uncle Bob I'd like to know what sunbonnets are for anyway?"

"If Your Majesty would know the secret" he said, "they are for hanging on hooked noses when their owner is asleep." Laura May laughed delightedly and flashed a half-guilty look toward the house as she went with Uncle Bob to help him make the sceptre.

The plan worked very well and many a vassal had the Queen-of-the-Blue-Caps during the next two weeks, even though small faces dripped perspiration and small bodies wriggled under their gingham coverings, for every little girl close by had a sunbonnet and an apron made of blue as nearly like their Queen's as possible.

Often Laura May stole away by herself, pulled off the hot clinging apron and sunbonnet and tossed her arms gaily about in wondrous freedom, enjoying every minute of the time she was doing it. On one of these trips she forgot just where she had hidden her sunbonnet. She always hid it so that she would have to look for it before he could put it on, and this time she hid it so well that she could not find it. Her fear of Great-aunt Laura led her to say nothing about it, so she simply changed into her yellow checked gingham outfit and Uncle Bob promptly named her "Mistress of The Yellow Jackets" for the few days that were left of Great-aunt Laura's stay.

Laura May was not sorry to see her go, and endured very quietly the gingerly peck which Great-aunt Laura called a kiss when she said good-bye, — for did it not mean free arms, head and limbs once more? "Hurrah!" she shouted as she tossed the long gingham apron which had hampered her movements so, and the sunbonnet after it, into the bottom of the clothes basket, and skipped madly about for a few moments before rushing off to the old pine tree to play. As she rushed past the elm that stood by it, months ending May 1933 exports from Canada amounted to $471,000,000; in the twelve months ending May 1934 exports from Canada amounted to $603,000,000, an increase of 28%. This upward trend in Canada is sound because it rests on a natural and not an artificial base. We still have the after effects of a depression with us, but we are in the midst of a revival of trade and commerce.

Woolen Goods in British Canadian Trade

During the bad years through which we have passed the woolen and knitting industry has performed a national service in maintaining and increasing employment. For the last twelve months the index figures of employment in our industry have been rising. Employment in the cloth mills was at 128.8 in May 1934, and in the hosiery and knitting mills it was 120.4. Owing to the widespread nature of the industry and its location mainly in small centres of population the beneficial effect of steady and increased employment was not concentrated. The industry directly employs 26,000 people and has an annual payroll of over $20,000,000. The number employed and the payroll are for those directly engaged in the industry and do not include those indirectly employed in furnishing fuel, supplies, power, materials, maintenance or transportation. The industry purchases over $30,000,000 worth of supplies annually, and the purchases are so important that we have affiliated with us the Canadian Allied Textile Trades Association, consisting of suppliers of all description of materials, who do not only assist substantially the parent association financially, but are working with us towards a better organized industry.

The position of Wool Goods in British-Canadian Trade

Before proceeding to discuss the past and coming hearings before the Tariff Board, I feel that an exact statement of the position held by the British woolen manufacturer in our home market is in order, because it is the British manufacturer who has asked for these hearings. The figures will, I believe, surprise many of those present, the people of Canada as a whole, and even the British manufacturers themselves.

The principal imports of manufacturers of wool into Canada from Great Britain are wool tops, yarns and cloth. The Canadian woolen industry is the second best customer in the world for the British manufacturers of tops. Our purchases from British manufacturers of tops were $5,600,000 lbs. in 1931, 6,800,000 lbs. in 1932, and 8,500,000 lbs. in 1933. The Canadian woolen industry is the second best customer in the world for the British manufacturers of yarn. Our purchases from British manufacturers of yarns were 3,000,000 lbs. in 1931, 3,100,000 lbs. in 1932 and 3,900,000 lbs. in 1933. In 1931, she saw a bird fly away from a funny hanging nest, and on going closer to look at it, she found that it was her blue and yellow sunbonnet! An oriole had made a nest in it, and although one bird had flown off the other was still there, peeping out at her with shy, startled eyes. "Now I know what sunbonnets are for—they are for birdies to make their nests in. Hurrah! Hurrah!" she shouted.

—Guess what the next story will be about.

Lovingly,

Aunt Jean.

sterling. No other country in the world purchased as much as did Canada. In view of the statements that have so frequently been made by British manufacturers of woolen goods that if Great Britain is to purchase more wheat from Canada, Canada must purchase more woolen goods from Great Britain, it is interesting to compare the purchases of woolen goods by the four principal countries selling wheat to Great Britain. For the first five months of 1934 the purchases of manufactures of wool from Great Britain were:

By Canada	£1,494,974
By Argentine	566,842
By Australia	405,768
By Russia	too small to be listed

Review of Tariff Changes

In spite of the fact that Canada is the best customer for the manufacturers of wool in Great Britain, the British woollen manufacturers in 1933 applied to the Canadian Tariff Board for a reduction in the Canadian tariffs. To understand the situation clearly I must burden you with some back history.

From 1858 the Canadian woollen trade was protected by duties, and by 1899, thirty-five years ago, under a duty consisting of a combination of ad valorem and specific, the Canadian cloth industry supplied 72.1% of the home market,

British mills were supplying 25.3% and foreign mills 2.6%. The Canadian sheep growing industry had developed in step with the woollen manufacturing industry.

In 1897, 1898 and 1900 the Canadian tariff rates on British cloth were reduced. In ten years half the cards and half the looms in Canada were forced out of business, as the production of cloth Canadians was replaced by workers in Great Britain. The Canadian mills closed down were those mainly producing types of cloth for which Canadian wool was the best in the world, and through the closing of these mills the sheep growing industry in Canada received a set back from which it has not recovered to this day. Alarmed at the effect of the reduction in duties Sir Wilfred Laurier and the Hon. Fielding partially restored the duties, but only a skeleton industry remained.

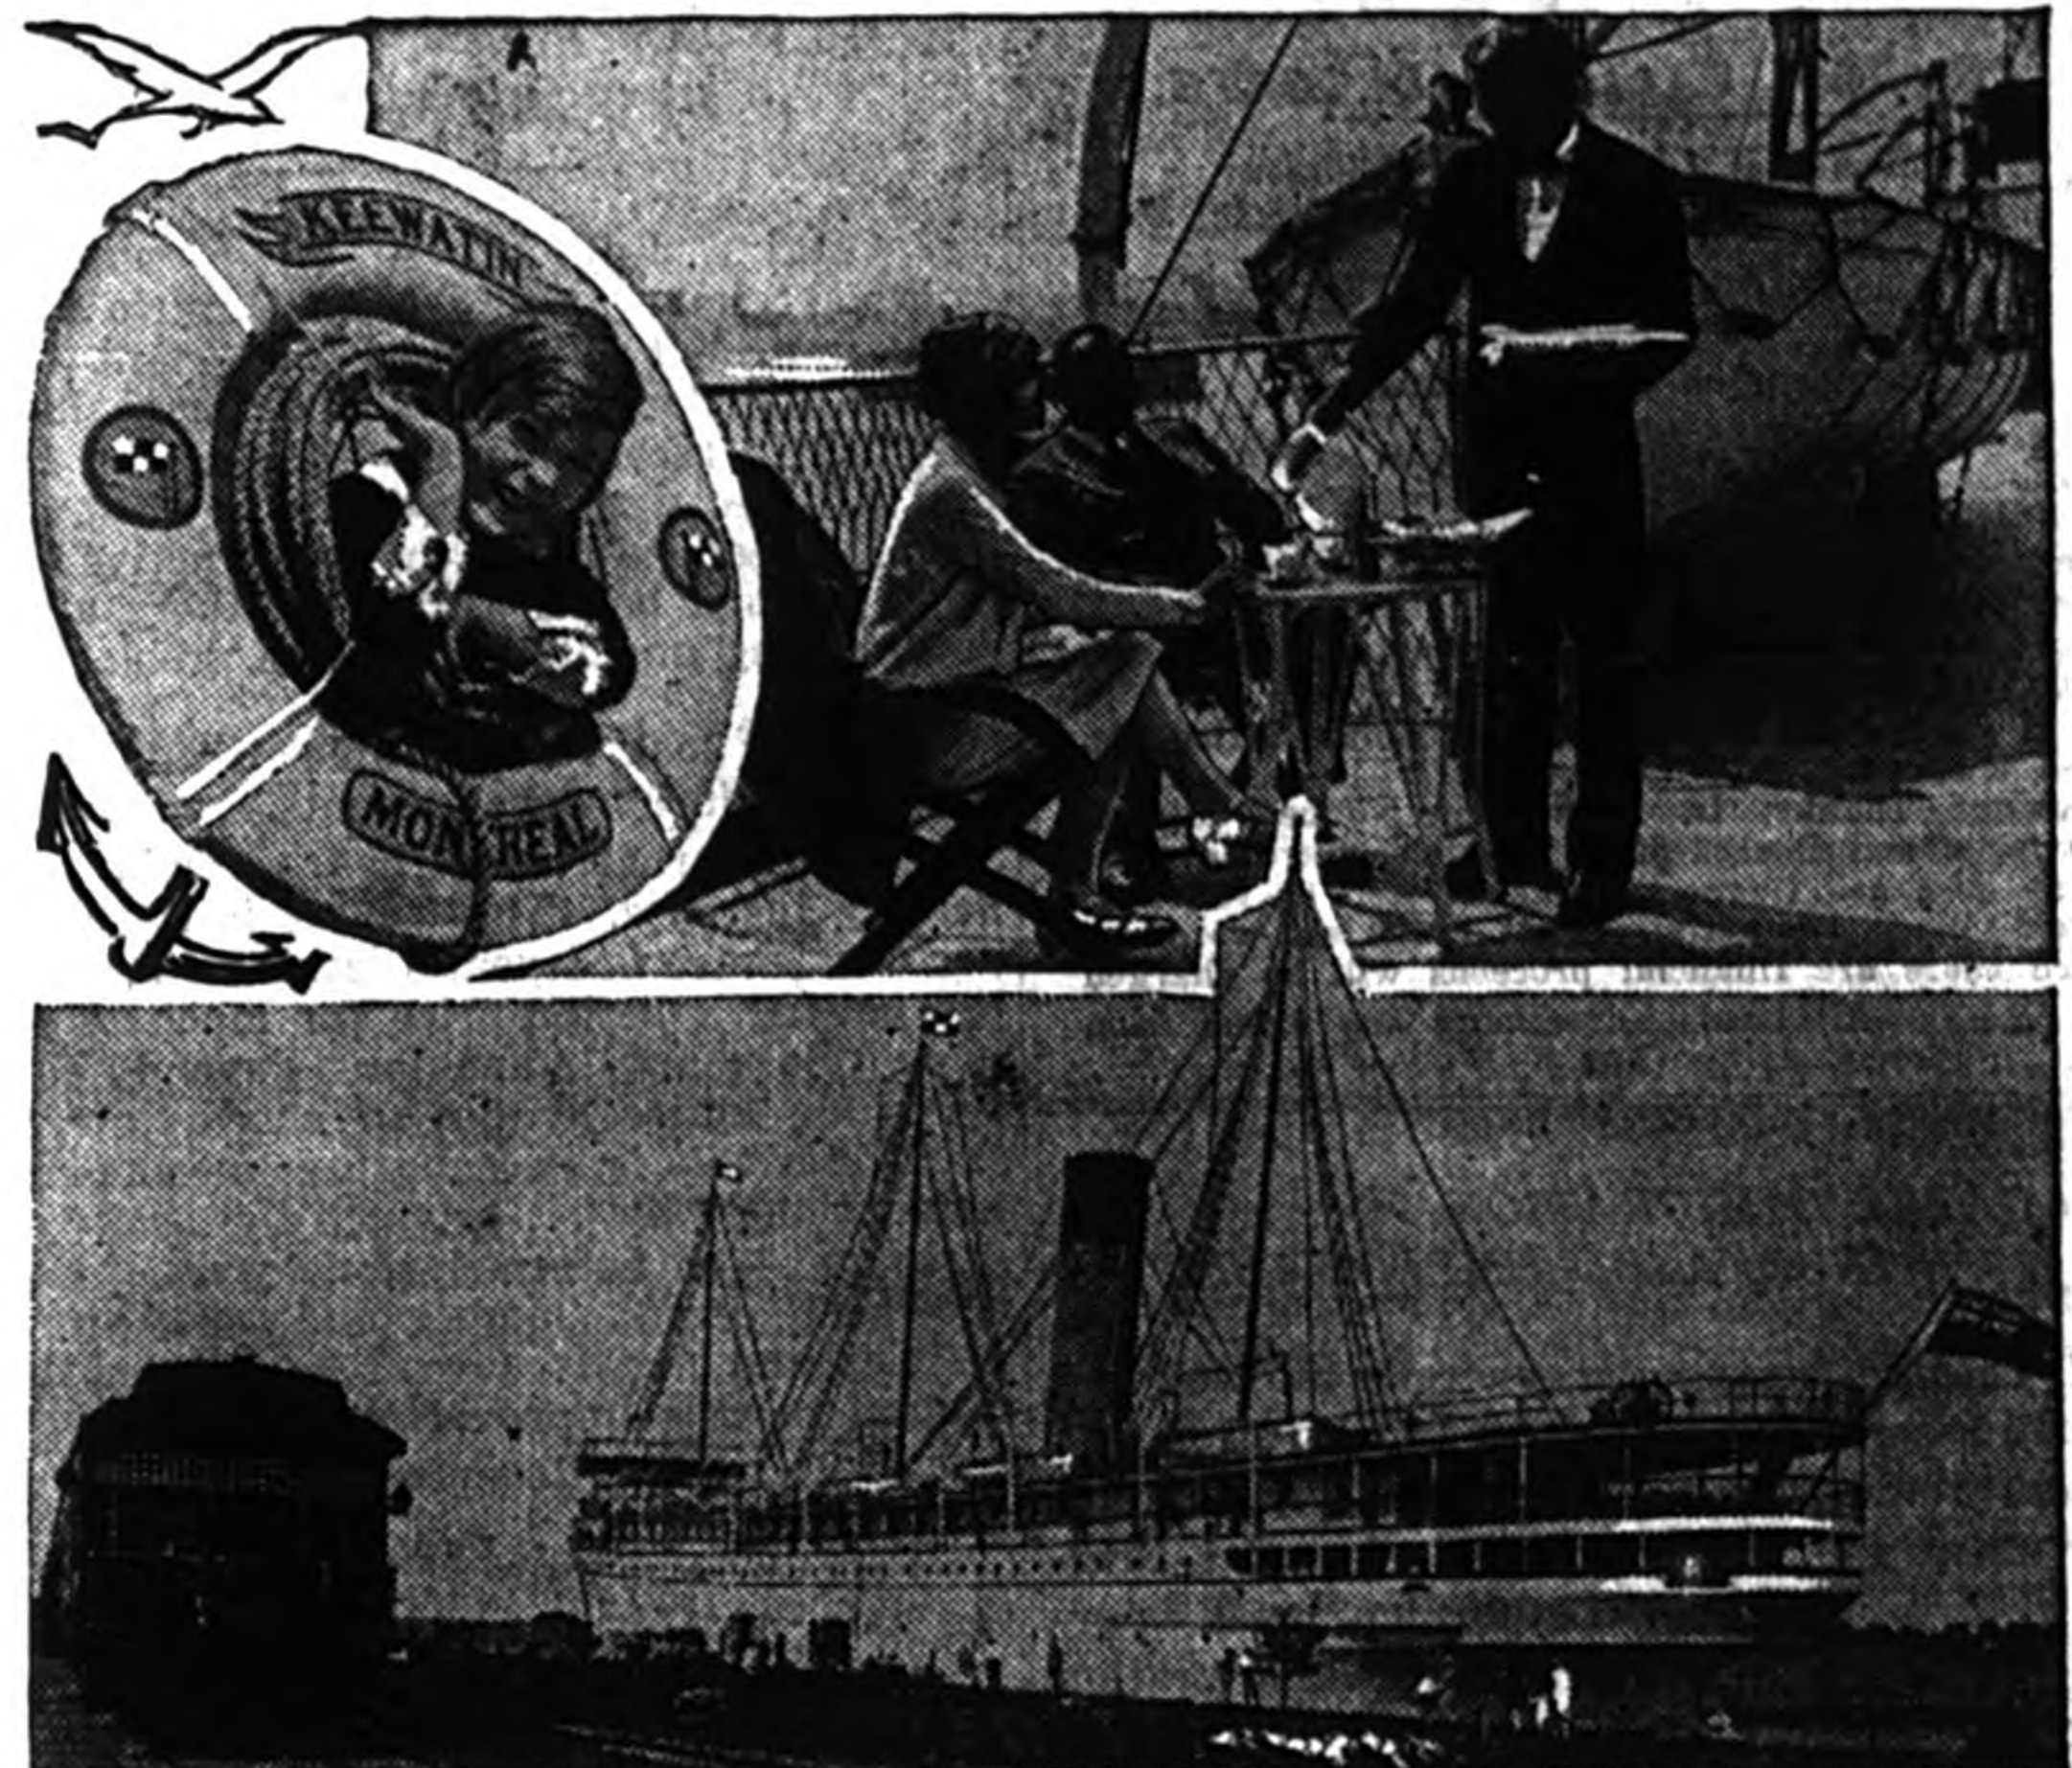

Then came the war of 1914. As the war progressed the mills in Great Britain could not supply the demand for cloth and the Canadian industry was rebuilt. In 1922 and 1923 the Canadian duties on cloth both from Great Britain and the continent were reduced, and the flood of imports from both Great Britain and foreign countries grew to such an extent that by 1926 the Canadian woollen manufacturers made an appeal to the Canadian Advisory Board on Tariff and Taxation in 1927. British manufacturers appeared and protested against any tariff relief being granted. British efforts were successful and by 1930 the Canadian mills were supplying only 21.8% of the market, foreign mills 20.4%, and mills in Great Britain 57.8%. The Canadian industry had again been wrecked. Then, effective in November 1930, the tariff rates were again increased.

In his book, "The Definite National Purpose", published in 1933, Mr. W. H. Moore, Chairman of the first Tariff Board, and who held the woolen schedule hearing in 1927, summed up the situation as follows:

"Many years ago the Canadian state encouraged the inception of the woollen industry. Under the shelter of a customs tariff it developed in small mills (characteristic of the industry); it spread itself over the villages and towns from Ontario to Nova Scotia, and on the Pacific Coast. Men and women gave up their homes in Northern England and built new homes in Canada; they brought up children and acquired a stake in the county. Canadians learned the art of making woollens and worsteds. Then the State changed its mind, and subjected them to the competition of Europe and old Yorkshire. . . . The point is that by State action the Canadian villages and towns that lived upon the industry were sent into decay. The spinners and weavers and dyers were thrown out of the mills and lost their homes and some of them had to emigrate. In 1930 the State once more changed its mind and the men and women were called back to the spinning frames, weaving looms and dye tubs. . . . If I were a weaver or a dyer and had built a home and lost it, only to build again, I should probably turn against democracy if I lost my home again."

By the time the Ottawa Economic Conference was held in 1932 the workers in the Canadian mills were making nearly as much cloth as was being imported from Great Britain. The Canadian cloth mills had 42.3%

The Lure of the Lakes

Music, moonlight, glorious lake breezes with six hundred miles of sailing on the Canadian Pacific's Great Lakes vessels S.S. Assinibola, Keewatin and Manitoba are at the disposal of passengers on the company's lines travelling from eastern to western Canadian points or as a pleasant diversion on the returning journey for the small added cost of ten dollars for berth and meals each way.

This delightful prospect follows the announcement by the Canadian Pacific that four-people orchestras will, for a period of nine weeks, dispense music on the Assinibola and Keewatin en route while the vessels pass through Georgian Bay, across the northern part of Lake Huron, through the Sault Ste. Marie locks and thence to Fort William on Lake Superior, a pleasant, lazy and restful journey of 39 hours from Port McNicoll or Owen Sound.

To all those who are planning a trip to or from the west, this economical optional trip embracing dancing, cozy cabins, plenty of deck space and luxuriously-appointed dining saloons; with glimpses of ever-changing scenery or bracing stretches of blue water, is one that cannot be overlooked. It is at the disposal of every vacationist and this season promises to be immensely popular not only with Canadians but with visitors to this country as well.

The Marketing Bill

Just what are the principal points of the Marketing Bill, or the Natural Products Marketing Act, 1934, to give it its official title? It is a measure designed to secure for farmers in Canada a more orderly marketing system than at present prevails, one that will operate to their financial advantage without unfairness either to distributors or consumers. It aims to prevent manipulation or exploitation and to provide machinery for regulating the movement of products in such a way as should stabilize prices.

The Bill does not make provision for price-fixing or restricting production. It proposes to establish a Dominion Marketing Board to regulate the marketing of natural products which will co-operate with local boards and any marketing board or agency established by a provincial government to regulate the marketing of any natural product.

A representative number of persons engaged in the production and marketing of a natural product may petition the Dominion Government and submit a scheme to regulate the marketing of such natural product by a local board which will function under the supervision of the Dominion Marketing Board established in Ottawa. The local board will be a creation of those who desire such a board in a given area and will be administered by them through persons whom they elect to the Board. This board under authority of the Dominion Board may have power to collect charges or tolls from persons engaged in production or marketing of regulated products; to establish a fund for the necessary expenses of the board and the creation of reserves or the pooling of returns. The Board will also have power to withhold a product from the market or to forward it to a specific market and may pay compensation or loss sustained on an order of the Board, but no compensation shall be paid in the case of a regulated product withheld because the grade is considered unsuitable for a particular market or because of government restrictions applying to that market.

A local board may be established by a poll and the necessary percentage of voters favouring the scheme to warrant its further consideration shall be stated by the Minister.

The Bill also gives the Government power to limit or restrict the importation of a product which is competing with a product subject to regulation by a board, and also power to restrict the export of products from Canada when it is in the interests of producers to impose such a restriction.

Part 2 of the Bill provides for the determination by investigation of what may be termed a fair spread for the marketing of a natural product; and also that persons who charge in excess of such an amount shall be subject to certain penalties.

Representatives have been received from farmers and their organizations, first in Western Canada and later in Eastern Canada, stressing the necessity of the Dominion Government enacting marketing legislation and the Marketing Bill is therefore designed to meet their needs.

"What are the town fathers debating?"
"Whether to keep up the good roads and fine the motorists for speeding, or maintain a mudhole and charge them for hauling 'em out."

well as tariff rates and by 1933 the Canadian mills had 62.5% of their home market, British mills had 35.1%, and foreign mills 2.4%.

Recent Developments

The present Canadian woollen schedule is merely righting an ancient wrong to the woollen manufacturing towns in Canada and Canadian wool growers. The Canadian woollen workers by 1933 had merely struggled back to the production position of 1890, thirty-five years ago, after being twice wrecked, although their share of the home market was not as great in 1933 as in 1899.

The Canadian mills made 13,992,000 lineal yards in 1899 and in 1933 made 13,006,358. The British mills in 1899 sold 4,909,475 lineal yards in Canada, in 1933 they sold 7,317,128. In the last three years the Canadian woollen industry through increasing production is using more Canadian wool. Wool grown in Canada in the last four fiscal years ended amounted to 81,000,000 lbs., of which 57,500,000 lbs. were retained in Canada.

As figures are hard to follow I am tabulating them as follows:

The market for cloth in Canada was supplied:

	1899	%	1933	%
Lineal yds.
Made in Canada	13,992,000	72.1%	13,006,358	62.5%
British imports	4,909,475	25.3%	7,317,128	35.1%
Foreign imports	502,044	2.6%	514,700	2.4%

How the "Secret Method" Didn't Work

Some of the British woollen manufacturers were not satisfied with the reductions in the Canadian duties made in October 1932 and in May 1933 the Wool Textile Delegation put in the first British request for a hearing before the Tariff Board. Immediately on receipt of the request the Tariff Board asked for the British brief, as

ADVOCATES IMMIGRATION FOR INCREASED EMPLOYMENT

"It does not seem to be generally realized that an early resumption of British Immigration into Canada would result in immediate productive employment for our own people," states Brig-General M. L. Hornby of Lethbridge, loyally pursuing his campaign for systematic immigration of British people into Canada.

Every immigrant, entering Canada, backed by sufficient financial support to become established in a self-supporting home on the land—he points out—is actually an employer of labour on a considerable scale for the first year or two years after his entry into Canada. A house must be built or re-conditioned for him, with a barn and the necessary farm buildings; the lumber, the bricks, the cement, the hardware, and all the other materials required for this work are produced in Canada by Canadian labour, and it is Canadian labour that carries out the work of construction; the fencing required for his farm is constructed of material produced by Canadian labour; the farm machinery and all the equipment and implements which he requires are produced in Canadian factories by Canadian workers; the foundation livestock necessary to give him a start in farming is raised by Canadian farmers and has to be purchased from them; the warm clothing which he requires for his first winter is manufactured in Canadian factories by Canadian labour; the groceries which he requires are Canadian products.

There can be no doubt that organized and properly financed immigration and land settlement will alleviate present unemployment very considerably. It will also create at once, on the part of the re-employed workers, a demand for manufactured goods, which again will lead to further re-employment of industrial workers, and also for farm products such as meat, milk, butter, eggs, etc. which cannot but benefit farm workers. A further direct re-action will be an increase in Railway freight traffic and passenger traffic, with probable resultant increases of railway employees.

The inflow of new immigrants, under a plan of organized migration, and their establishment on the land under a fully financed plan of land settlement, will continue for many years, providing large numbers of Canadian workers with steady employment. Canada, in the past, has been developed largely by British immigration and British capital. If she so desires, she may again move forward by the same means to employment, better business and prosperity.

The Ottawa Spotlight

By Wilfrid Eggleston

Ottawa, July 24.—A bit obscured by the political smoke arising from Ontario and Saskatchewan, but profoundly important none the less, a number of events and forces have been at work in recent months altering the condition and prospects of the country. Most of them, happily, seem to be on the constructive side, and point toward better times. Others are not so encouraging and indicate grave problems still to be solved.

Let us look for a couple of minutes at the more prominent developments, good and bad:

1. External trade has recently shown a healthy increase. The volume is up perhaps 30 per cent above last year's levels. Moreover, we are getting a better price for much of our produce. So many Canadians depend either directly or indirectly on an active international trade that this is an important development. We have a long way yet to go to the levels of 1928, of course,—an extremely long way. Our sales of wheat, meats, lumber and newsprint, automobiles and metals abroad have been the main factors in this improvement.

2. National Revenue has risen along with more active internal and external trade. For the first three months of the present fiscal year the gain was about fourteen million dollars over 1933. A continuation would mean that without new taxes (just substitution of the gold tax for a part of the sugar tax) we should collect 56 millions more this year than last. This would mean a balanced budget on ordinary account and at least part of the cost of extraordinary expenditure met.

3. The swift change in the world wheat situation is going to help. Unhappily a large part of the drought-stricken west is again afflicted, and higher grain prices won't help the farmer without a crop. But it does look as though, for the first time in five years, wheat will sell this harvest at a price which will cover production costs. And—even more important, it seems as though the world wheat glut, which has been overhanging and depressing the market for six years, will be fully absorbed in the next twelve months, leaving the world once more with a normal carry-over. This should mean that prices for a year or two at least will reflect reasonable production costs. Incidentally the Canadian government is going to come out 'on top' of its gigantic experiment in 'stabilizing' the Winnipeg wheat market.

4. Unemployment is declining. It should continue to decline, when the $40,000,000 public works program gets well under way. At the peak of employment this summer or early fall, say by September 1st, there should be not more than 350,000 unemployed as compared with 750,000 at the trough of the depression. Of course it will still be bad enough. When the Bennett government came in, pledged to 'cure unemployment or perish in the attempt' there were believed to be not more than 175,000 people out of work. Thus the situation will still be at least twice as bad as it was four years ago.

5. Here's one of the less hopeful developments. The British farmer has embarked on an ambitious program of making the Mother Country self-supporting so far as that is possible, in foodstuffs, and recent action by the British government toward subsidizing cattle raising is found to react unfavorably on Canada. We might as well face the facts: we are losing ground in our last great overseas markets for foodstuffs. How long the trend will continue, of course, no one knows.

Brilliant Lawn Social at Brownsburg

The Lawn Social held on the Brownsburg Manse grounds last Thursday was quite characteristic of this fine annual event of the United Church; it was evidently the success anticipated and for which every preparation had been made.

The grounds were well appointed, with the usual individual tables for small parties, tastefully decorated with flowers and the personal tea set of the lady serving each particular table. There were the usual delicacies of ice cream and cake, or tea—the night was hot and a cooling soft drink taken off the ice was much more in keeping with this delightful summer evening.

Not only the local congregation, but friends from far and near were present in large numbers, remarking upon the beauty of the grounds, the excellent appointments, and the fine program which followed.

This was of a variety nature, and proved to be most entertaining, the various participants entering wholeheartedly into the spirit of the hour, and responding freely to the enticements of an enthusiastic audience. Much credit is due Mr. T. Pasco, who arranged this portion of the evening's entertainment, many declaring it to be one of the very best programs on record to be presented at this popular function. As the evening was so pleasant each number, whether vocal or instrumental, could be heard perfectly, while the electric lights cast a glow over the grounds, enhancing the beauty of the surroundings. The program follows:

1. Solo and Guitar: Mr. N. Dunbar.
2. Hawaiian Music.
3. Solo: Mr. T. Pasco.
4. Monologue: Mr. Cedric Wheeler.
5. Male Quartette.
6. Musical Selection: Master Forger.
7. Recitation, Habitant: Mr. Quesnel.
8. Vocal Solo: Mr. Dunbar.
9. Hawaiian Music.
10. Pianoforte Solo: Mr. R. Siegel.

the garage machinery, equipment and stock are not insured, representing a loss estimated around two thousand dollars. It is also understood there was no insurance on the burned car, property of Mons. Boilleu, who is supervising the bridge-painting gang in Lachute.

The fire-brigade's new pump may be considered to have justified itself, for it is believed this fire would have consumed the many wood frame structures in the immediate neighborhood. There was no breeze at the time, however, and with ample water supply the brigade were able to prevent further spread of the blaze.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile and Get A New Lease of Life. No Calomel Is Necessary.

For you to feel healthy and happy, your liver must pour two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels, every day of your life.

Without that bile, trouble starts promptly. Your food just won't digest the way it should and your bowels are sluggish. Food decays inside you and your entire system is undermined by this poisonous waste matter. You have indigestion—the discomfort of gas, bloating, heartburn and sourness. You are prey to headaches. Have a tongue like cotton-wool, a nasty taste in your mouth, bad breath and ugly skin. You haven't anything like the pep a healthy person should have. In fact you are generally wretched.

How can you expect to clear up a condition like this completely by taking mere bowel-movers like salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum, or roughage? They can't wake up your liver bile!

Avoid calomel (mercury). Buy yourself a box of old reliable Carter's Little Liver Pills. All reliable, sure, gentle, safe. They'll wake up your liver without upsetting you. Bring back the glad-to-be-alive feeling, once more.

Hints for Homebodies

Specially written for Readers of the Watchman.
By JESSIE ALLEN BROWN

There are quite a number of men who are showing a spirit of practical patriotism by recommending Canadian grown tobacco to their friends. They say that Western Ontario grows good tobacco and that they are gradually learning to blend the tobaccos until they get mixtures closely resembling various imported brands. The reaction to this native tobacco is interesting. Some men like it because it is cheap; some like it because it is Canadian; some like it until they find that it is not imported and then they would not buy it at any price; and many like it because it is good quality.

A WASTE OF GOOD MATERIAL

A public school principal who has reached the age of retirement, tells me that he has looked forward for years to serving on the school-board. He had planned to run and felt that he should be a valuable member. He has experience, knowledge, interest and plenty of time. Now he finds that because $200 of his superannuation is paid by the city, technically he is on their payroll and is barred from running. I am tempted to quote "the law is an ass."

SUPPLEMENTARY SANDWICHES

Mothers are often worried over their children's food as they feel that the child is not getting enough of some essential food because they have taken a dislike to it. Nearly all children like sandwiches and they may be used to add the desired food. For instance a child who dislikes fats, and many of them do, may have extra butter spread on the bread. The child who does not like meat will frequently eat it willingly in sandwiches. Other protein foods may be used instead of meat, such as cheese, peanut butter, fish or eggs. Mothers complain that their children do not like salads. A leaf of lettuce tucked in a sandwich does just as much good as if it were served in a salad. Then there is the bread itself for the child who is not specially fond of good bread and butter. Study your child's food needs and then fill out the deficiencies with a sandwich.

CHOCOLATE SYRUP

A chocolate drink is a very pleasant way of adding to the quota of milk. In the summer, most people very sensibly have fruit for dessert (in place of the heavier puddings but sometimes this will mean that the child does not get all the milk it should. If you have any difficulties along this score try using the chocolate syrup and you will have no trouble adding milk to the diet. I have given this recipe before but I find it such a useful one that I probably will repeat it each year for the benefit of new readers.

1 cup sugar
2 cups water
1/2 teaspoon vanilla pinch of salt
Add water slowly to sugar and cocoa and stir over heat until mixed and free from lumps. Boil for 3 minutes and add salt and vanilla. Bottle and keep in a cool place. To serve add the desired quantity to cold milk and stir well. This makes an emergency sauce for ice cream. I find that a bulk cocoa is quite satisfactory for this syrup and is much cheaper than the finer varieties necessary for cake making.

RESTIGOUCHE SALMON

We look forward to salmon in June. In Ontario we get either Gaspe or Restigouche salmon and they are a treat. There are a good many ways of cooking it. Some like the salmon steaks fried, but you can fry any kind of fish and to me it always seems a waste to fry the salmon. We like it best either boiled or steamed and served hot or cold. It is best to steam it as there is no loss in flavour but it may be boiled successfully. Ten minutes cooking per pound is the usual time allotted, but if the piece is very thick a little longer may be required. Remove the skin and serve with a sauce. If the salmon is to be used cold, after the skin is taken off, remove from the bones and you will have large solid pieces of fish. To serve with cold fish, plain mayonnaise may be used or a sauce made with a foundation of salad dressing with other ingredients added such as chopped olives, pickles or egg. If the fish is soured it will keep for some time. To souce it season with salt and pepper and cover with diluted vinegar. If the vinegar is a mild one I use three-quarters of a cup of vinegar and fill up the cup with water. The amount of water used depends on the strength of the vinegar and the taste of the individual. Soured salmon is especially good and many prefer it served this way.

SANDWICH SPREAD

1 small can pimentos
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup vinegar
1 teaspoon mustard
1/2 lb. cream cheese
1/2 cup milk
3 hard cooked eggs
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon flour

Put pimentos and eggs through the chopper. Blend the flour smooth with the cold milk. Mix all ingredients and cook in the double boiler stirring constantly until thick, then cover and cook for 1/2 hour. Bottle and keep in a cold place.

PINEAPPLE AND COTTAGE CHEESE SALAD

1 No. 2 can shredded pineapple
1 quart cottage cheese
2 packages lemon jelly
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 can pimentos

Drain the pineapple and to the juice add the vinegar and enough water to make 4 cups. Add the jelly powder and stir until dissolved. Let cool and add the remaining ingredients when the jelly begins to set. Mould in a large mould or in individual ones, and serve on lettuce with salad dressing. This serves from 12 to 16.

ARE ENTHUSIASTIC OVER PROSPECTS OF OTTAWA EXHIBITION

Educational and Interesting Displays Assured. Creators and His Band in Daily Programs Auto Races.

Encouraged by the enthusiastic support of manufacturers, merchants, farmers and the public generally, the directors and management of the Central Canada Exhibition are confident that August 20 will mark the opening of the finest one-week exhibition ever held in Ottawa. Grounds and buildings have been greatly improved in the last few months and never looked better. There has been a wonderful response by the governments and firms of all kinds so that every available location in the various buildings will be filled with an attractive and educational display.

There are many outstanding factors to make a memorable week in the Capital. Notable will be the return of Creator and his band, and they will be heard in two concerts daily, no extra charge being made for concerts. In addition to his wonderful organization of instrumental artists, the famed maestro will bring a grand opera singer of note.

Realizing that the modern generation demand thrills, the directors have arranged for automobile races on the two last afternoons of the week. These will be crowded in with the regular vaudeville features and will be put on by leading dirt track speedsters who have made records on the professional tracks.

For the feature of the night show there will be the Follies Revue of 1934, a great music and dance offering with pretty girls, clever comedians and dancers, talented singers, gorgeous costumes, elaborate scenery and ensembles such as one never would expect to see outside a large theatre.

Horse races, automobile show, dog show, poultry and pets, livestock, horticulture and agriculture, pure food show child welfare demonstrations, a new midway and a hundred and one other factors will appeal to young and old.

Entries in various departments will close shortly. Those intending to exhibit should lose no time in writing to H. H. McElroy, manager and secretary, for prize lists and all information.

There is no better time to visit the Capital. Special rates have been arranged by the railway and bus companies, and for motorists special parking provision is made within the grounds. There will be six full days and six big nights. The directors have been given every assurance that all will be in readiness for Monday morning, August 20, and then, given fair weather, there will be something doing all the time until midnight on Saturday.

YOUR PRAYERS

I shall not ever be alone again. However drear my road, However far from all the paths of men May be my poor abode.

I shall not shrink in fear of solitude Nor dread the silent days When winter will come storming, harsh and rude, And snow will shroud all ways.

For still about me wing your prayers each hour, They fold me round about As tenderly as south winds woo a flower;

Your prayers shut sorrow out. Intangible, and yet as strong as steel, Your prayers have armed me well;

Close, close about my life your love I feel, That only prayers can tell.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, July 29th. is "Truth."

The Golden Text is: "Lead me in thy truth, and teach me; for thou art the God of my salvation; on thee do I wait all the day." (Psalms 25: 5).

The following correlative passages are selected from among those comprised in the Lesson-Sermon to be read from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:—

"Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path. O send out thy light and thy truth: let them lead me; let them bring me unto thy holy hill, and to thy tabernacles." (Psalms 119: 105, 43: 3)

"Truth and Love enlighten the understanding, in whose light shall we see light"; and this illumination is reflected spiritually by all who walk in the light and turn away from a false material sense. Eternal Truth is changing the universe. "Let there be light," is the perpetual demand of Truth and Love, changing chaos into order and discord into the "music of the spheres." (Science and Health pages 510 and 255).

WOOLLEN GOODS IN

they could not set a date for hearing until the brief was in their hands. This, of course, was the procedure of the previous Tariff Board, and indeed, is the procedure of the Tariff Board in Great Britain.

The Wool Textile Delegation replied that they would not send a brief but would send out representatives about the end of June to explain to the Tariff Board a secret method they had devised for comparing costs. The method was so secret that it was known only to the statistician who had devised it and three manufacturers in Great Britain. They claimed to have discovered a sort of law in regard to costs which would enable costs in two countries to be compared, not only for goods manufactured in the past and the present, but also to be evolved in the future, and at the same time enable the relative efficiency of two industries to be determined.

Three representatives of the Canadian woollen industry met the representatives of the Wool Textile Delegation in Ottawa on July 5th. and 6th. The British asked the Canadians for a pledge of secrecy before they would explain their proposed method. The Canadians very sensibly said there could be nothing mysterious or secret about methods of arriving at costs or comparing such costs when arrived at, although the disclosure of actual costs of any company should be held in camera. The British representatives claimed their method was so simple and accurate that if their Continental rivals were to have it described to them they could work out the British costs of producing all types of cloths that had been made in the past, and were to be made in the future.

While the Canadians could not believe that these claims were founded on fact, in order to meet the wishes of the British even against their own better judgment, they agreed to the pledge of secrecy. The secret method which had been in course of preparation for three years was then explained and the Tariff Board gave the Canadians a week-end to examine it and report their opinion. The Canadians reported on July 12th. that the secret method was unsound and gave their reasons in writing. The British delegates said they were prepared to stand or fall by the soundness of their secret method and that they were not prepared to supply any further figures. so the Tariff Board asked the Canadians to prepare their figures to suit the British secret method and the Canadians felt they were obliged to agree, although they thought there must be something extremely odd about a method for which such extraordinary claims were made which had not been submitted for criticism to competent textile cost accountants, to a reasonably large number of practical manufacturers, and to independent statisticians.

To meet the convenience of the British representatives and at their request, the Tariff Board set the date for hearing on September 26th., although the Canadian representatives pointed out that the time given them was too short. The method was not simple and although the Woollen Textile Delegation statistician stayed in Canada to make further explanations, it was not until after the middle of August that the Canadian questionnaires could be got out to the mills.

THE PRINCE WASN'T A HOUSEHOLDER

While the Prince of Wales was a student at Oxford, a fellow "undergrad" was locked up by the police, and the Prince offered to stand bail for him. The Prince was told by the police that he could not stand bail because he was not a householder, as he at that time lived with his father in Buckingham Palace.

Owing to the speed required the preparation of the Canadian figures according to the British secret method was very costly to the Canadian industry, and in spite of our best endeavours the Canadian representatives went into the public hearing without having seen their figures assembled in type-written form.

"Stand or Fall"

Now I cannot tell you what it is only fair that you should know, what the newspapers should know, and the public should know, because of the pledge of secrecy. I cannot go any further than to comment on the Interim Report of the Tariff Board. This report indicates that the British representatives were examined in the secret hearings on two points; one, the soundness of their basic figures, two, the soundness of the secret method of using these basic figures. Beneath the measured and temperate wording of the report, it is clear that the extent of the breakdown of the Wool Textile Delegation secret method is greatly understated. It is clear that the basic British figures did not stand up under critical examination, that the costs put forward were not costs in any commercial sense, and that the Wool Textile Delegation representatives did not actually know what factors were contained in their basic figures. Also, that the secret method of comparing costs, when examined by modern statistical methods, fell completely to pieces.

As the British representatives had stated that they were prepared to stand or fall by their secret method, my opinion is that the Tariff Board would have been justified in dismissing the hearing and starting fresh, which would have allowed the wreckage to be cleared away and some constructive work done. But reading between the lines it is clear that the British delegates did not admit that their secret method had broken down and the Tariff Board had to spend several months in demonstrating that such was the case. While we thoroughly agree that the costs of individual firms should not be revealed, and that evidence of costs should be heard in camera, of one thing I am certain, and that is, that never again will this industry agree to any mystery or secrecy in regard to methods of arriving at or comparing costs; such mystery and secrecy is unfair to the Canadian industry, the industry in Great Britain, the Tariff Board, the governments concerned, and the public, I do not believe I am revealing any secret when I say that the reductions in the Canadian woollen schedule in 1932 which were obtained by the committee of British woollen manufacturers who attended the Ottawa conference in that year brought the rates in line on the average with article 11 of the Ottawa agreement, and that all the figures collected and examined in 1933 indicated that all that was required were some minor changes, some slightly upwards and some slightly downwards.

Before concluding my re-

AUTHORS IN CONVENTION

—Long years have passed since then, and Canadian Authors meeting in social communion at Devil's Gap Camp witnessed the fruits of training Indian children, and watched the happy faces of the Cecilia Jeffery Indian Industrial School band, as they furnished bright music for their entertainment. The Authors, who were on this occasion being treated to a boat-trip on the steamer Argyle by the members of Kenora town council, ended up with a visit to the Indian reserve where the residents welcomed them with a heart salute of gun firing, before staging an old fashioned pow-wow in real Indian style.

This Rat Portage branch of the Ojibways, after reading an address of welcome, presented the president, Dr. Gordon, with a large stone pipe of peace. Earlier in the afternoon a pageant of gaily dressed Indians in canoes paddled up to the Chalet Camp and posed for a photograph. During the authors' visit to their reserve about twenty-five performers, including little boys and girls, danced at intervals to the slow monotonous music of the drum, the squaws adorned with short metallic tubes which glittered and tinkled as they danced; some of them wore moccasins others Cuban-heeled shoes. One acrobatic dancer clad in black skin costume danced in and out of a rolling hoop, stopping at times to jump through it, while holding it in his right hand.

Red Sky, the chief, wore the dress of a white man, resplendent in a blue suit with brass buttons and gold braid, all the better to display his bronze medal won for deeds of valor in the Great War.

Capt. Edwards of Ottawa is the Indian Agent at this particular point and keeps in constant touch, traveling daily to and from the reserve in his motor launch, the only means of passage between Kenora and the islands.

A huge head-shaped rock on the shore of the Woods, painted by the Indians to represent a hideous grinning devil, where a nearby island narrows the channel, is supposed to be responsible for the name "Devil's Gap."

Authors from all parts of the marks on this subject. I would like to say that the pledge of secrecy threw a heavy burden of responsibility on your committee: myself as President, Mr. J. D. Woods as Vice-Pres., and Major Hallam as Secretary. We could tell the industry nothing and consult them on nothing. Through the courtesy of the Wool Textile Delegation we were permitted to extend the pledge of secrecy to Mr. H. Quarby for advice as to spinning, to Mr. Frank Patinson for advice as to heavy woollens, and to Mr. E. D. McPhee for advice on statistical methods.

We do not know what the next step is to be in the hearings on yarns and cloth. We do know that in the Interim Report of the Tariff Board they state that the hearings on hosiery and knit goods will be brought on in September of this year. It is perfectly clear that the only efficient way to conduct this hearing is for every knitter of hosiery and knit goods in Canada to organize and have the facts prepared by the Association. In the yarn and cloth hearing the Association represented 97% of the worsted spindles and 93% of the looms in Canada. Unless a similar machinery representation can be obtained for knitting machinery some more clumsy and less efficient method may have to be devised. This is a matter which will have to receive the serious consideration of the incoming executive.

Dominion, with Dr. Gordon (Ralph Connor) presiding, enjoyed the interesting sessions, beginning with a meeting of executive at which plans for improving the Association's usefulness to its members, were formed, with Mr. J. Murray Gibbon as head of the committee. To Mr. Gibbon also was allotted the chairmanship of a committee to consider the publication of a quarterly poetry magazine by the Association.

Representatives from the various branches gave brief reports of their work during the past year. Prof. Watson Kirkconnell of Winnipeg, in the absence of both Dominion Secretary and Treasurer, read their tary and Treasurer, read their in the day gave a talk on "Babel on the Canadian Parnassus", which included the reading of his own translation of poems from our New Canadians in Greek, Italian, Ukrainian, Swedish, Norwegian and other languages. Prof. Kirkconnell spoke of the poetry of today as a camel with three humps—English and French poetry forming two humps, and the poetry of our New Canadians the third. This poetry in foreign languages, he said, was surely doomed to extinction with the gradual adoption of the Canadian tongue.

Dr. Gordon in his address to the members stated that no really rich nation was ever rich in the "things of the spirit," and hoped that Kenora would never be spoiled by becoming a town of gold, would never forget that there was not gold enough in the world to buy all the God-given beauty around Kenora.

In speaking of the advantages of meeting in convention, Dr. Gordon said that not a few of the advantages of fellowship in writing came from personal contact; that as stagnant water was loathsome and a source of poison, so was selfish self-interest of any kind; that we must help stimulate other hearts than our own to higher purposes. He claimed that great writers were great because they write things that will not die, and only great things were those that had the power of outgoing movement and of self-forgetting service to mankind.

Madame Tourgon, of Quebec, represented the French section, addressing the convention in her own language, with a short address in English, reading also a paper on La Verendrye and Alexander Mackenzie previously prepared by M. Jean Bruchesi.

In the absence of Mr. L. Burpee, of Ottawa, Miss Helen Davidson read a historical sketch of Kenora and the Lake of the Woods, which was considered so worthy of preservation that copies were to be printed and sold to those desirous of having them.

—To be continued next week.

"ALL-BRAN WILL ALWAYS BE A PART OF MY DIET"

Delicious Cereal Corrected
His Constipation

If you suffer from constipation, read this fine letter:

"I have been troubled for years with constipation. During this time, I have tried almost every known remedy. Then some one recommended eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, and the proper results followed immediately.

"Since eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN each morning, there has been a general improvement in my health without the ill effects that I formerly experienced when taking laxatives. Hereafter, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will always be a part of my diet."—Mr. E. G. Himes (address furnished upon request).

Research shows Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN also supplies iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Isn't this "cereal way" safer than risking patent medicines?

Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient to relieve ordinary constipation. With each meal, in serious cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Be sure to ask for Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It contains much more needed "bulk" than part-bran products. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.
