TRIP TO CANADA IN SAILING SHIP IN '51 RECALLED

FORMER LACHUTE RESIDENT IN 91ST. YEAR

The following extract from Montreal Daily Herald concerns a former resident of this town, and will be appreciated by readers who were acquainted with Mrs. Hugh Beckham, who last month celebrated her 90th. birthday. It is some thirty years since this lady came to Lachute, residing in the East Ward of town until 1917, when she again took up residence in Montreal.

"Crossing at the tender age of seven from her birthplace in Devonshire, England, to Montreal in a frail vessel, 'The Rose', and the great quantities of ice which still remained in the St. Lawrence River and were piled high on the wharves, despite the fact that it was May of 1851, are two of the impressions most vividly recalled by Mrs. Hugh Beckham, 232 Metcalfe Avenue, Westmount, as she enters into her 91st. year.

"Still hale and hearty and with her faculties, save that of sight which has left her, unimpaired, Mrs. Beckham discoursed cheerfully and with obviously perfect recollection on the days when Westmount was the village of Cote St. Antoine and her husband one of the first aldermen of that community and a founder of the Westmount Methodist Church.

"Her unfortunate loss of vision having left her little else to do, she incessantly knits socks for the disabled veterans of Ste. Anne de Bellevue Hospital, as she did for the boys who went overseas 20 years ago. She is a life member of the local branch, Daughters of the Empire.

"Mrs. Beckham has resided practically during her entire life in what is now the City of Westmount. She has no family of her own and lives with her niece, Mrs. W. H. Lewis."

FORMER RESIDENTS ESCAPE IN FIRE

BUNGALOW DESTROYED AT CARLETON PLACE

Local sympathy is expressed to Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Campbell, former residents on Brownsburg Road and well known in these parts, whose home at Carleton Place was destroyed by fire Sunday morning with practically all its contents.

About nine o'clock, Mrs. Campbell was startled to see flames bursting through the roof, the first intimation she had of the fire. Mr. Campbell had just left the house a short time before.

The bungalow was situated just outside the town limits, and firemen were too late to save the building which was almost completely destroyed. So quickly did the flames spread that Mrs. Campbell was unable to save anything and all their furniture and clothing, together with a considerable sum of money, went up in flames. It is thought the fire started from a defective flue.

The building was owned by Rev. J. T. Forsythe, of Salford, Ont., also a former resident and Baptist Pastor here in Dalesville and Lachute, who built the structure for a summer home. The loss of the building is estimated at $1,500.

In the Windsor, Ont., district, where there has been strong opposition to the payment of radio licences, a special prosecutor is making cases in the courts and fines are being imposed. In addition, the offenders are being made to pay for back years.

CARS CRASHED ON BROWNSBURG ROAD

ONE OCCUPANT IS SEVERELY HURT

In an automobile collision last Saturday evening on Brownsburg Road, Mrs. J. S. Dixon of Dalesville sustained painful injuries, from which she is recuperating at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Chas. Walker, at Lachute.

The car, driven by Mr. Dixon, was coming west toward Lachute, and drew aside to allow another machine to pass, traveling in the same direction. The latter car, apparently, cut in too quickly and the rear struck the front wheel of Mr. Dixon's car, throwing it into the ditch.

Both Mrs. Dixon and her son, John, were thrown out. The young man sustained minor bruises, but Mrs. Dixon had three or four ribs fractured, a fractured wrist and painful abrasions to the knees. She was taken into the Boyd residence nearby, and later brought to Lachute, receiving medical aid. The car was not extensively damaged. The other machine, it is understood, belonged to Mrs. Wilson, of Brownsburg.

RESIGNATION OF HON. H. STEVENS A BOMBSHELL AT OTTAWA

The resignation of Hon. Harry Stevens both from the government and from the price spreads commission burst like a bombshell upon Ottawa, and led to the greatest excitement in political circles. The implications and consequences of this amazing development will take some time to calculate, but the repercussion on the contrary is bound to be profound.

There is much curiosity as to what Mr. Stevens will do now. Will he continue as a member of the commission? Will his resignation lead to a split in his party? It is well known that a large section of the party is very proud of Mr. Stevens and his work, and he is probably more popular to-day than Mr. Bennett. If he survives this crisis, many people believe he will be the next leader of the Conservative party.

As chairman of the Royal Commission on price spreads, Mr. Stevens is succeeded by Mayor W. W. Kennedy, Conservative member for Winnipeg South Centre.

"AT HOME" HELD AT LOUISA

On Friday, October 26, the churches of Shrewsbury, Louisa, and Dunany held an "At Home" in the Orange Hall, Louisa. The purpose of the gathering was for the new Minister in charge, Mr. Doody, to meet the people in case the winter made it impossible for him to visit them in their homes. The Lakefield Players kindly gave an excellent programme of entertainment which included skits, songs, and a play "Say it with Taffy". The Players' cast comprised of Mesdames Shearsmith, Kuhring, and Messrs. Shearsmith, Kuhring, Maslin and Doody. Mr. Billie Dawson and his brother, Glen, rendered valuable assistance in the handling of the properties, and transportation.

There was a very large crowd present and all agreed that they had spent a very pleasant evening. After a voluntary collection the evening's activities were closed by refreshments provided by the ladies of the three churches. A wish was expressed that further social gatherings could be arranged.

DETAILS OF HOCKEY SEASON PLANNED

MANY MATTERS FOR CONSIDERATION OF LEAGUE

A flavour of mid-season enthusiasm became apparent in the second League meeting last Thursday at Lachute, when hockey enthusiasts gathered to further their plans for the season's play. A large crowd attended at the Town Hall, where Guy Legault, as chairman of the League, presided over the meeting.

Three Lachute teams were entered, represented as follows: Ayers Limited by W. Jolicoeur and W. Drew; L.A.A.A. by R. Beaulne and H. Parkinson; Lachute Independents by M. Navion and A. Fulton; and two teams from Brownsburg represented by Ad. Raymond, Jas. Hazel, and St. Onge, A. Lambertson.

It was decided that local games would be governed by Q.A.H.A. 1934 rules and regulations.

A motion was passed that all League players must be signed not later than Dec. 1; and according to another resolution, all player-contracts signed on Nov. 26th. or subsequently till the aforementioned date, would be valid.

It was moved and carried, also, that any player contracting with more than one club between the present meeting and Nov. 26th. be ejected from the League.

LOCAL COUPLE WED IN MONTREAL

DOIG — SCOTT

The marriage of Lila Janet, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Scott, of Lachute, to Mr. Sharman Andrew Doig, second son of the late Andrew and Mrs. Doig, also of Lachute, took place very quietly on Oct. 24th., in Montreal. The Rev. R. R. McMoith officiated.

Mr. and Mrs. Doig left shortly after the ceremony on a motor trip to Quebec, returning on Friday evening to a reception held at the home of the bride's parents, at which many beautiful gifts were received.

REVIEW OF WEEK'S EVENTS IN BROWNSBURG

CHILDREN'S PLAYGROUND

A much needed addition to the facilities for exercises and amusement provided by the Consolidated School, has just been erected on the playground. Two sets of strong swings for the older children, and a safe see-saw for the little tots, as well as a much needed alteration in the position of the basketball equipment, make the children's recess a healthful and less dangerous period. The installation of light and water and abolition of present (in-) sanitary arrangements are next in order.

WATER SUPPLY

The particularly dry season just passed has been responsible for a serious diminution of drinking water. Several private wells and springs have reached a "new low", and many have gone completely dry, thus inconveniencing householders, who have been compelled to draw from other sources.

THE ROADS

Private roads have received a considerable amount of attention during the past few months, and are rounding into good shape before the freeze-up. Hundreds of tons of gravel have been used in surfacing, and the result is a pleasant improvement. The main road through the new cutting is now well surfaced and is an important adjunct in the establishment of a through highway. Further cuttings have been postponed till next year, when it is hoped to complete the alignment of the road through the village.

MASONIC DANCE AND SOCIAL EVENING

AUDITORIUM CROWDED FOR PLEASING EVENT

A most enjoyable dance and social evening was held in the Lachute Auditorium on Friday last, sponsored by Argenteuil Masonic Lodge, No. 67.

Shortly after 9 o'clock the Grand March took place, and from then until 2 a.m. the time was pleasantly occupied.

Music was provided by Bert Anstice and his Mountain Boys, who kept things moving, some 28 dances constituting the program for the evening.

Messrs. Stephenson and Russell, accompanied by the Misses Moore and Davies, were heard in several solos and quartettes, which were greatly appreciated, encores being repeatedly asked for. They were ably assisted by Mrs. S. S. Campbell at the piano.

During the evening refreshments were served to over 300 people, and from all reports everyone seemed to have spent a most enjoyable time.

Thanks are expressed to P. T. Legaré Ltd., for use of furniture, and to all who in any way assisted in this social gathering.

SPECIAL ASSIZE TERM CALLED AT ST. JEROME

DAGENAIS TRIAL AT HULL

A special term of the Court of King's Bench (Crown Side) will be held at St. Jerome, judicial centre of the district of Terrebonne, starting Tuesday, November 27th., according to an announcement in the Quebec Official Gazette.

While the court will have a number of local cases to occupy its attention, its session is compared to the presentation of Hamlet without a ghost, for the cause celebre, the trial of Mrs. Aurore Dagenais, for the murder of the two small sons of Gregoire Raymond, local butcher and alderman last winter, has gone to Hull, on a change of venue granted at the insistent demand of Oscar Gagnon, K.C., counsel for the accused.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY MET AT ST. ANDREWS

EXECUTIVE PROCEEDS WITH ORGANIZATION

An executive meeting of the Historical Society of Argenteuil was held in the Town Hall of St. Andrews East last Saturday afternoon, with President, Dr. B. N. Wales in the chair.

The necessary requirements of incorporation were discussed and minutes of previous meetings leading thereto were read by the secretary, Mrs. Walter Windsor. It was reported that the list of charter members had now reached 106, and it was decided to extend the time limit to allow others the privilege of having their names inscribed on the charter scroll shortly to be presented.

The formation of this Society should make a strong appeal to old and young alike, inasmuch as the early life of the pioneers and the gradual development of this section of the Ottawa Valley will be vividly perpetuated by the collection of documentary and other relics.

A further meeting has been called for Saturday evening, Nov. 10th., in the Town Hall, St. Andrews East, where an interesting address will be given by Rev. Father Brosseau of Grenville on "How to Make a Success of an Historical Society." It is hoped there will be a large attendance, and everyone is cordially invited to lend support in furthering this undertaking.

EXTENSIVE PROGRAM OF PUBLIC WORKS EXPECTED

Problems of unemployment relief and colonization are expected to bulk large in the fourth session of the 18th Quebec legislature, which Premier L. A. Taschereau has announced will be called for Jan. 8.

The government has been preparing a $10,000,000 colonization scheme and a full opportunity will be provided for members of the legislature to discuss the project before voting credits.

New measures for solving the unemployment relief problem are to be presented. The government may appoint a commission to handle the disbursements throughout the province or municipalities may be given power to impose a tax to take care of their problems separately.

Expect Works Program

Associated with the relief problem is the question of public works and belief in political circles has been the, government would bring down an extensive program to provide work for those out of work.

Before the session opens the special commission considering municipalization of electricity will no doubt have placed its report in the government's hands and this is expected to provide a field for considerable discussion.

Hon. C. J. Arcand, minister of labor, stated at Montreal the other day he will have several amendments to existing laws regarding wages and working conditions. These are expected to be in part associated with the minister's desire to strengthen his hand in the matter of enforcing collective labor agreements.

for inspection and revision. Voters would be well advised to inspect the lists when they appear and make sure their names are on, as neglect to do so now will deprive them from voting at the next election.

CONGREGATIONS UNITE FOR BIBLE SOCIETY EVENING

REV. DR. McLENNAN GUEST SPEAKER

An instructive and inspiring service marked the united gathering for the local branch of the British and Foreign Bible Society, held last Sunday evening in Lachute United Church. Mr. T. J. Barron, as President of the Society, conducted the proceedings, while Rev. W. B. Rosborough, Rev. W. LeCras, Rev. Dr. MacLeod and Rev. Mr. Strange took active part in the service.

The address of the evening was given by Rev. Dr. McLennan of Montreal, who, in his eighteen years' service with the Society in Canada, had won much inspiration and treasured experience in the work. His discourse was illustrated by lantern slides, which divulged much of historic interest in the compiling of the gospels, their translation into so many tongues and subsequent distribution among many races. The earliest known forms of writing, in strange hieroglyphics etched upon granite, upon brick, and later on papyrus and primitive forms of paper, were illustrated and described. One of the most illuminating exhibits, perhaps, was a leaf of the famous Codex Sinaiticus shown upon the screen. Around the origins and adventures of this manuscript, now generally familiar since its acquisition by the British Museum, a fascinating story was told.

Resolutions of appreciation were passed, both for those contributing locally to the efforts of the society, and to Rev. Dr. McLennan upon his long and constructive record in the offices of the organization.

Mr. Barron gave satisfactory reports of work achieved in this district, indicating that Lachute held premier position in Quebec in respect of sums contributed. In the district organizations, the branch was exceeded only by Cornwall, Ontario, by a small margin. Miss J. Valpy, the secretary, presented the minutes of the society's last meeting, which were duly approved. The officers of the local organization are—President, Mr. T. J. Barron; Vice-Pres., Mr. J. S. Giles; Rec.-Sec., Miss J. Valpy; Cor.-Sec., Mrs. R. McPaul; Asst. Cor.-Sec., Miss K. Reid; Treasurer, Mrs. J. Skuffham. The president advises that the amount collected for this year to date is $188, with several collectors still to be heard from.

ONTARIO TOWNS WILL SHARE BEER PROFITS

Municipalities of Ontario will share, by 20 per cent, in proceeds from licences granted to hotels and also in profits derived from the sale of beer and wines in the Province, according to announcement made this week by Premier Hepburn. There are new regulations in force limiting the hours for sale of beer and wine in hotels up to 11 p.m. and in clubs and dining rooms up to midnight. An interesting announcement concerns the upkeep of highways, in which Ontario Municipalities will now be relieved of their contribution of 20 per cent.

Hallowe'en was observed last night with no decline of enthusiasm. No serious results have been reported from the usual run of pranks, which were practised by the youngsters and by many not-so-young. The observance gives vent to that humor and ingenuity which cannot be so freely expressed on every-day occasions.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

ANIMAL PICTURES

Although this snap was made in a zoo, it has all the "feel" of reality, because the taker avoided the showing of bars or barriers.

ANIMALS—from household pets to jungle giants—afford ideal snapshooting. For animals don't pose; they are always entirely natural and, as a result, interesting. Next to babies, they are the finest "actors" in the world for the simple reason that they do not "act".

To get good pictures of any animal the first essential is patience. It is quite possible that the family dog will stand up obligingly for you on command, but in picturing all other animals you'll find it necessary to wait for the picture you want.

And this brings us to the question—what do you want in an animal picture?

Ten or fifteen years ago there was a great fad for picturing kittens in all sorts of outlandish poses. The poor little tykes were dressed up, propped up, and photographed as though they were puppets in a marionette show. To most people, however, pictures of animals as they really are have much more appeal. You will probably prefer to snap a kitten as it plays with a string or a dog wrestling with a big stick.

Domestic animals, of course, offer few real camera difficulties, for you can get them to come where the light is right. Open shade, on a bright day, will be found best. As for shutter speed (if your camera has variable speeds), you'll need 1/25th of a second or faster, to catch fleeting poses and expressions. Unless the light is exceptional, better work with the lens wide open.

To snap less controllable animals—squirrels, birds and such—you'll need greater patience and cunning. Much depends on background and on your distance from the subject. At more than ten feet, for example, a squirrel becomes almost invisible unless it is sharply revealed on a branch, with the sky for background. Obviously, you'll need to use a fast shutter; squirrels move too swiftly for slow snaps.

The zoo can be a happy hunting ground, too. In many cases, you'll be able to shoot through or over the bars of cages, obtaining clear, unobstructed snaps. In zoos where "natural" settings for the animals have been built, you can get pictures comparable to those that Martin Johnson and Frank Buck travel months to find.

Use a modern, color sensitive film. You'll need all the detail you can get and the utmost in color value rendering. Otherwise you'll find your picture of a cinnamon bear looking very much like one of a black bear.

JOHN VAN GULDER.

THE "STILL SMALL VOICE"

The danger of unlighted vehicles on the public highways at night has once again been tragically emphasized in the province of Quebec. A young farmer of St. Perpetue was driving homewards on Sunday night when his car was struck by an automobile, the driver of which was manifestly unaware until too late that a man with a horse and rig was traveling the route directly ahead of the automobile. Farmer and horse were instantly killed by the collision. Surely these recurring highway tragedies will in the end bring conviction to the minds of the legislators that public safety commands the passing of legislation which will make it compulsory for all vehicles without exception to carry lights after sundown. The pity of it is that the lesson of these preventable fatalities was not learned long ago.

VILLAGERS' WINDFALL

The villagers of Matsugamura, near Moji, have been poverty-stricken as long as anyone can remember. They live on a desolate stretch of coast. Life has always been one long struggle to make ends meet by fishing.

But now they are all rich. A mountain nearby—which was part of the common land belonging to the villagers—was found to contain silica, lime and alumina, the raw materials for cement.

And so two cement companies have paid the villagers $36,000 for it. The sum of $23,750—an immense one for these 600 poor fishing folk—is being shared out among the villagers. Those who have lived at Matsugamura longest will receive most.

"Let me kiss those tears away, sweetheart," he begged tenderly.

She fell into his arms, and he was very busy for a few moments. But the tears flowed on.

"Will nothing stop them?" he asked, breathlessly.

"No," she murmured. "It's hay fever, but go on with the treatment."

IN LEAFLAND

"I have wanted to meet you two children for some time", said the queerly shaped, pointed-faced little man "I am quite glad that you have come to Leafland."

"But we did not come," argued Ted—Ted loved to argue.

"Don't argue with people older than yourself. It is not polite." The little man not only looked cross, but his voice sounded cross. The peal of laughter which was just bubbling over Ted's lips, at the thought of this tiny creature being older than himself, was checked by the look in the little man's eyes, but not being able to check it all together a sound very much like a smothered snort escaped in spite of his efforts.

Maud had placed her finger on her lips when she saw the corners of Ted's mouth starting to wrinkle up. She knew that he was going to laugh, and was rather afraid Lumpy Bunty (as she had named this queer creature in her own mind) might be a wicked fairy and must not be made angry.

Hearing Ted's half-smothered snort, the little man took a tiny rainbow-colored tissue hankie from his pocket and handed it to him. "Here," he said "blow your nose properly. Children should be very particular about the cleanliness of their noses."

Ted looked so surprised and foolish that Maud wanted to laugh, so much that it hurt, but she did not dare. Instead she went through the motions of nose-wiping, behind the little man's back. Ted, watching her, grew rosy red. Taking the tiny handkerchief he touched it very gingerly to his nose. "Oh, how delightful it smells!" he exclaimed.

"What did you expect?" the little man said, "it is made from the bits of colored leaves that children deliberately tear out as they pass by the trees, then throw them away. I have to gather them all up and get the Dew Fairies to steep them in dew gathered from flower cups, then they are beaten into a pulp by the fairies' feet as they dance in the moonlight."

"But", interrupted Maud, who was an interested listener, "How do they get them ironed out flat again?"

The little man shook his tiny finger at her. "When I was little" he said, "I was not allowed to interrupt older people when they were talking." Maud almost forgot the question she had asked him, in her wonder as to how it would be possible for him to be smaller than he was at the present moment, but the little man was going on to explain that the gnomes did it, at least the gnomes had trained snails who crawled backwards and forwards, over the still moist mass until it was all ironed out quite smoothly.

"Those poor snails", Maud whispered to herself, "it is no wonder that when one picks up a snail shell there is no sign of the snail. He is so tired that he just cannot come out."

She had not spoken out loud, but the little man evidently was a mind-reader, for he immediately remarked, "You need not pity the snails; they love it. Why, it is their greatest fun to run races backwards and forwards over the leaf pulp."

"Then", said Ted, quite saucily, "the children are not doing any harm after all by pulling pieces out of the leaves."

"That is all you know about it", the little man snapped, "I was a leaf once, and I know how it feels to have part of me torn away. Look at my figure, too. I should be handsome instead of the queer looking Lumpy Bunty that your sister has just called me." He looked at Maud with his strange, winking eyes as he said that, until cold chills chased themselves all over her. This little creature was certainly a mind-reader. "I-I-I'm sorry," she gasped, "I did not know." "Of course you did not know—nor did you stop to think that my queer shape might have been an accident and something that I was not proud of myself. But children are heartless creatures. I have seen them grinding leaves under their heels, and oh, how I have wished that I could put them in our grinder." As he said this, both Ted and Maud shivered with fear. He looked so fierce.

"Your grinder?" Ted got the words out with an effort, then, "Have you a grinder?" "Yes", the little man replied, "When the leaves get so old that they cannot be used for covering plants, they are pulverized, and the pulverized leaves make the earth rich, so rich that people from everywhere are looking for leaf mold to put in their flower-pots!"

Just then a big shower of leaves dashed by them. One of them landed on Maud's woolly tam and lay there "Oh, oh!" it moaned, "shake me off quickly. The others will get there first and get the nicest flowers to cover."

"Were you going to cover flowers?" asked Maud politely, as she took off her tam and held the pretty leaf in her hand a moment before letting it go.

"Yes, oh yes! don't hold me. I wanted to be able to curl myself around the stem of that new little Lily-of-the-Valley that has just poked itself through the the ground—and keep it warm. The poor little thing has come too early and will be so cold. I have been watching it for some time now and hoping that I would be the one to help it. "Oh don't let me go for a minute" he shrieked as a fierce gale of wind shook the tree, "I shall be carried past the lily bed."

Lovingly,

Aunt Jean

HOWARD CARTER LEAVES FOR VALLEY OF KINGS

Braving the "curse of Tut-Ankh-Amen" which the superstitions believe has caused the deaths of nearly all those who originally were present at the opening of the Egyptian Pharaoh's tomb, Howard Carter, assistant to the late Lord Carnarvon in that historic task has left London for the valley of the Kings.

Carter said he hoped to find the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen's queen and laughed when reporters asked him if he feared the mysterious menace of the "curse". He said he believed excavations would reveal the tomb of the queen not far from Tut-Ankh-Amen's tomb.

CANADIAN WRITES OF CRUISE

Thoughts of travel to far places where hot sunny days make nature's covering seem more reasonable than fur coats are coincident with the sound of coal rattling into cellars in preparation for the long winter, and a very timely book that will be of great assistance to travel-minded people has just appeared. It is "—and ships—and sealing-wax", by Alan Maurice Irwin, published by Macmillan.

Last year the author, who is a Canadian Journalist, cruised around the world in the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Britain, and this book is a collection of his impressions, a companionable, intriguing sort of book in which he has written delightfully of nice and naughty things, handled a hard-working camera with becoming discretion, and argues in the manner of Kipling that the "Colonel's lady and Judy O'Grady are sisters under the skin."

The Mediterranean, Egypt, India—where the author lunched with Lord and Lady Willingdon, the Malay Peninsula, little known Cambodia, China, Japan—even Hollywood, are amongst the places he writes about.

India, a country that has suffered much at the hands of those whose trade is writing, comes in for some rather rakish debunking; tropic nights and tropical seas come in for some rather good descriptions. Simple, homely adventures amongst the simple, homely people of Bali develop the amusing knowledge that the women of this modern Eden are very interested in step-ins and other silken things.

S. Morgan-Powell, noted literary critic of the Montreal Star, writing of "—and ships—and sealing-wax", says: "Mr. Irwin has the light, whimsical touch invaluable for such a record as this, since it enabled him not only to remember what is vivid but to forget what is not worthy of remembrance—it also provides a most attractive medium by which to stimulate the interest of those who have hitherto been compelled for one reason or another, to enjoy their travels abroad vicariously."

On January 10 the Empress of Britain sets out again on her cruise around the world, visiting the ports that provided the copy for "—and ships—and sealing-wax". Her 400 passengers will see the scenes described in the book, experience encounters similar to those recorded by the author, and during the 130 days they are away, will call at 32 ports in 24 different countries.

For those who do not make the cruise this reviewer recommends "—and ships—and sealing-wax". For those who do it is a practical text book.

GOVERNMENT MAKES IT EASIER FOR TOURISTS

Customs Regulations Amended to Provide Greater Latitude

The Dominion Government merits commendation for the effort it is making to develop and encourage tourist travel to Canada, comments the Winnipeg Magazine. The formation of a department of Government endeavour to pay particular attention to publicizing Canada's holiday grounds and thus attracting tourists may be expected to give this country a measure of publicity it could hardly obtain in any other way, and this publicity should result in the development of the highly profitable business of catering to holiday visitors.

Another step in this direction is the action by the Department of National Revenue in simplifying the Customs procedure to make the way plain and the path easy for all bona-fide tourists entering this country. A new triplicate report and permit has been devised which has speeded up Customs and Immigration facilities. Already it has proved its value at rush periods in the many Canadian ports of entry where, sometimes, there is congestion of travel at international bridges, ferries, tunnels, etc.

A non-resident visiting Canada for holiday purposes only may obtain a sixty days permit, and an extension for another thirty days by application to any Customs office where there is a collector, or sub-collector. If a six months extension is required a bond must be filed. In this latter particular the procedure has not been changed. Such permits, of course, are not granted to any commercial or business visitors.

Concessions have also been made in the entry of travellers' baggage, camping outfits, etc. Formerly all baggage brought in by a tourist was subject to a permit before free entry could be obtained. Regulations as amended, provide that fishing rods, guns, golf clubs, cameras and other articles the property of a tourist and intended only for his use, as well as tents, outboard motors, camp equipment, dogs and other animals imported for hunting purposes, or as pets, may also come in on being reported and without deposit, subject, however, to compliance with the simple regulations governing such cases. Courteous and efficient service on the part of all Customs officers, and regulations designed to make it easy for the visitor will help in bringing the tourist to Canada.

NEW RECORDS IN AIR TRANSPORTATION

Ten years ago the first regular scheduled air service in Canada was inaugurated from Halleybury to Rouyn. Since then, each year has seen a steady increase in the total mileage flown by commercial air transport companies. In the past four years the planes of Canadian Airways alone have flown an average distance of more than once round the world each week, and most of this flying has been done in the mining territories of the north.

As a reflection of the intense activity now being experienced in mining development the following figures relating to transportation by air of freight and express are significant.

	Miles Flown	Frt. & Exp. Pounds	Air Mail Pounds
1931	1,832,794	764,449	459,458
1932	1,294,207	1,870,136	299,066
1933	1,165,434	2,522,233	328,618
1934	1,114,416	3,658,694	311,093

(8 months—Jan. to Aug. 31)

The decrease in mileage and mail carried in 1932 was due to the suspension of the Prairie Air Mail, but it will be noted that freight and express for the first eight months of 1934 amount to nearly five times the total for 1931.

The 10,000,000 mark for "miles flown" was passed recently by Canadian Airways, the total from Jan. 1st. 1927 to Aug. 31, 1934 being 10,272,866 miles.

Fine Homes Erected by Heroes of Declaration

Charles Carroll built on a portion of the Carrollton estate, which he inherited as a young man, the mansion house Tuscarora. It had 21 rooms, was three stories and had walls two feet thick. He also built, in later years, a home for his son. At the time of the Declaration Carroll was living in the ancestral home of the estate, Doughoregan manor, with its two wings and cupola in the middle, extending 300 feet in all across the front yard. The latter house is still occupied by descendants of the Carrolls.

Samuel Chase laid the foundations in 1768 of Chase house in Annapolis, now a home of destitute, aged and infirm women. He had acquired the land on which it was built for £100 sterling. This district of Annapolis was set off for "gentlemen's homes" just as other sections of the city were circumscribed for state, church and tradesmen's homes. Chase indulged in the then "great extravagance" of having a back stairway in his house. He also built the Palladian window to light the front stairway landing—a model for many costly homes.

William Paca, another Maryland delegate, built in 1763 the house known in Annapolis as Paca house and now used as a hotel. It has foundation walls five feet thick. This house became the governor's mansion when Paca assumed that duty in 1789.

The Battle of Navarino

Greek independence and the decadence of the Turkish empire can almost be dated from the battle of Navarino in 1827. Here a combined fleet of British, French, and Russian warships defeated the Egyptian and Turkish navies. Prior to this time Admiral Codrington of Great Britain assisted by Rear Admirals De Rigny and Helder of France and Russia had attempted to enforce an armistice between Greece and Turkey, but failed through the refusal of the Turks to agree. Then a small boat of H. M. S. Dartmouth was fired on by the Turks. Action at once became general and three-fourths of the enemy vessels were sunk or disabled by Codrington's ships.

Black Skipperke Dog Not Unlike Small Fox

In appearance the Skipperke, the dog that is born without a tail, is not unlike a small fox. Its muzzle, head and ears are responsible for this comparison. And, like its wild neighbor, it shows remarkable agility, spirit and quickness. In Belgium, its original home, it is called the "little skipper" for many spend their entire lives on canal boats, riding the boats of rats and guarding the master's property.

Two types are recognized in America, where it has found a place as a household pet; those weighing from ten to eighteen pounds, and the toy, running from six to ten pounds. The coat is pure black and rather coarse. White hairs are considered a defect. It possesses a ruff around the neck that extends down to the front legs. Although particularly affectionate to those who house and feed it, the Skipperke is a snobbish aristocrat and its indifference, suspicion and disdain of strangers does not encourage attempting to strike up an acquaintance. Being of a jealous disposition, it refuses to tolerate other household pets, especially dogs or cats, and never fails to show its displeasure over their presence on the slightest provocation.

They are rather nervous and high-strung, yet not more so than several other toy breeds. But Skipperke owners can see no other breeds when it comes to dignified bearing, companionship and aristocracy in dogs and they are not far from being right—Detroit News.

On Tuesday evening a runaway team tilted against the sign post opposite Roderigue's Hotel, smashing it and a telegraph pole. A message for St. Andrews had to be sent by way of Montreal by the C.P.R. line in consequence of the accident.

The weather has been in unsettled state for the past week. Tuesday it began to snow, only to increase the mud and slush.

A report comes from Paris, giving an account of the alleged defeat and capture of General Gordon, after an attempt to evacuate Khartoum.

Writes a correspondent—one of my monthly tours through the villages of the Upper Ottawa, I stopped at Bissett's Creek to do some business and was highly pleased to meet two of Lachute boys. We were startled at dinner by a resident running in to tell us of having met a huge bear, while out partridge shooting. We took up the chase and finally landed a fine specimen of the brown bear weighing 476 lbs.

A meeting of Lachute Council was held on the third, Mayor Dunbar presiding, with councillors Smith, Shepherd, Fish, Dudderidge and McQuat.

25 Years Ago.

Nov. 5, 1909.

General session of municipal council was held in the Court House, there being present Mayor David Black; Councilors Jno. Smith, A. Walker, James McClure, and P. Desjardins. The report of Thos. McGregor on the watercourse of W. V. Walker and J. W. McQuat was read. Mr. Thos. McQuat appeared before council and objected to any division made or to be made by Thos. McGregor of the front road between the complainant and Andrew Blow, inasmuch as the said road had previously been divided according to mutual agreement between the parties, which agreement is still binding.

The President and Vice-President of the Laurentian Granite Company visited the quarries on Tuesday accompanied by a party of ladies. They were particularly interested in the polishing of the large columns for the Hochelaga Bank at Three Rivers.

Owing to considerable rivalry and keen competition among our bakers in town the public are now enjoying the privilege of buying their bread at a living price, which has been dropped from 20 cts to 16 cts for a large loaf.

SOUND EFFECTS IN RADIO

To create the illusion of action in radio plays, considerable ingenuity is necessary to produce the correct sound effects. Whether or not these effects are properly handled has much to do with the success of the dramas. Although phonograph records are available now for many sounds such as automobiles, trains, etc. the majority must be produced. To give the sound of horses galloping over a country road, Ted Slade, (who handles most of this work in Montreal), walks towards the microphone beating his chest with his hands. If the horses are supposed to be on a hard road he simply wears a leather coat.

For the sound of flames, crumpling a piece of cellophane is the process. The sound of a door broken down is achieved by Ted breaking a small wooden berry box in his hands. Considerable effort was necessary a short time ago to signify two wooden ships colliding. After many experiments he found that by crushing two small wooden match boxes together near the " mike", the proper sound effect was produced. Simple isn't it?

DISCUSSED MUNICIPALIZATION OF POWER

Representatives of municipalities which are operating electric light plants met recently in Montreal at the invitation of Hon. T. D. Bouchard, Mayor of St. Hyacinthe, Que., who is ardent for the progress of municipalization. The meeting was for the purpose of drawing up a memorandum in connection with the operation of existing plants, this data to be submitted to a commission of the Quebec Government presided over by Hon. Ernest Lapointe.

ARNPRIOR REJECTS OFFER FROM HYDRO

An offer from the Hydro Electric Power Commission to sell to the town of Arnprior, Ont., its local electrical distribution system for the sum of $54,255, was discussed at length by the Council. A previous offer several months ago was for the sum of $75,000. Council believed that the figure of $54,255 was still too high and that the amount per horsepower, $35, at which power would be charged to the town if a sale was consummated, was exorbitant. The proposal was returned to the committee of local industrial, business and municipal men who have been pursuing the matter for many months.

APPRECIATIVE VISITOR

Kansas Editor Writes to Canadian Travel Bureau

Canadian hospitality and courtesy, two great assets in increasing Canada's tourist trade, made such an impression upon C. H. Scott, oil editor of the Hutchinson News, of Hutchinson, Kansas, that he wrote the newly-formed Canadian Travel Bureau requesting that his thanks be carried to the men and women of Canada in the customs service and the police service of the country.

"I want to express my thanks for the courteous treatment of everyone we met in town and country, the police officers who gave us needed information, the hotels and business men we met, the farmers to whom we talked and to every man, woman and child whom it was our good pleasure to meet in a week or so," writes Mr. Scott to the Canadian Travel Bureau. The Kansas editor, with Mrs. Scott, has completed a motor tour of Canada, visiting Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton, Victoria Park at Niagara Falls and other cities and towns in the Dominion. "It made me proud to be a citizen of a country that has such a good neighbor on the north, a neighbor courteous, friendly, with a border line between that means so little as we go back and forth," is another comment in Mr. Scott's letter. "Quebec and Ontario are great sections of your fine Dominion and my wife and I expect to go back there some time in the future. I should be glad if the thanks of two tourists could be carried to the men and women of Canada, in the customs service and the police service of the country, who made our visit so pleasing."

GREATER UNDERSTANDING BETWEEN RACES NEEDED

Ottawa, October 25.—A plea for "unity in the common good" between French and English speaking Canadians was voiced at the annual congress of the French-Canadian Educational Association of Ontario here by Postmaster General Arthur Sauve. He urged his hearers to avoid indulging in antipathy against everything that emanates from another race, particularly from the majority.

Mr. Sauve stressed the urgency of advancing competent candidates for all positions in every field of public activity. "Our influence," he said "must rest primarily on our competence."

At the same meeting, Hon. Paul Ledec, Provincial Minister of Mines, declared himself vested with authority from Dr.

Simpson, Minister of Education, to say there would shortly be undertaken a survey of the text-books used in French-language schools of the province. Should alterations be necessary, these would be effected.

THEY SING IN A CHOIR

"I suppose you are aware that we are all eight church soloists," queried Alex Maurice, stalwart Guardsman, and member of the famous octet heard on the Gaiety and Romance program each Wednesday night from Toronto. Which probably does not account for the hot rhythm that the Guardsmen inject into their "Gaiety and Romance" numbers. They are a happy troupe and perhaps one of the most orderly vocal units on the air. They have their business meetings, regular rehearsal dates, and conferences with publishing houses, but their constitution also calls for

The Ottawa Spotlight

A Weekly Review of National Affairs
Specially written for The Watchman
By Wilfrid Eggleston

Ottawa, October 31.—Premier Bennett came back to Ottawa in a cheerful mood, in spite of the gloomy result of the five by-elections held while he was away. One of his first actions on arrival here was to invite members of the parliamentary press gallery in to his office to talk to them about conditions in Europe and Canada. Those of us who have been in close contact with the prime minister in the past four years have noted a remarkable change in his attitude toward the press and the public. He has mellowed much. He has become much surer of himself, has gained poise. In the early months of office he was inclined to be intensely irritable at times, at what the press and the public were saying, to regard the interviews of newspapermen as impertinences. Now he maintains—most of the time, anyway—a surprising equanimity, evenness of temper, and good-natured affability. He talks to the press with candor and even generosity. The interview last week was quite a pleasant affair.

Not that the prime minister was very generous with news. He was asked plenty of questions, and either answered, or parried, them all, but there wasn't much to write about when the members of the press gallery went away again. By inference Mr. Bennett said more than he did by direct statement.

When Will Election Be?

The prime minister was asked when the general election was going to be held. He told the questioner that when he had been asked that question at Quebec he had branded it an impertinence, but he would not do so now. Still, he gave no clue as to the date. Was it not obvious, asked another reporter, that there would now be no fall session? In that case, responded the prime minister, since it was obvious, there was no need for him to say anything about it. What about the three vacant seats—would there be by-elections for them, soon? Mr. Bennett replied that the five by-elections which had been held already this year had monopolized his attention so far. When would the Dominion-Provincial conference on the British North America Act be held? someone asked. It was chiefly a legal conference, said Mr. Bennett and the date would await the return of Mr. Guthrie, minister of justice, who went abroad for his health.

Mr. Bennett on Wheat

The prime minister was most informative on the subject of wheat. He was studying the matter thoroughly, he indicated, with the assistance of John I. McFarland, the government agent at Winnipeg. He was wondering what would be the effect on the established grain trade, of the creation of a wheat board—would it destroy the private trader? Also, what would be the effect of restrictions such as those in effect in Chicago—which limit the fluctuations in prices and curb short selling. Would that injure the commercial grain trade? Possibly before this review is on the street Mr. McFarland may have made a statement which will indicate what government policy on this important matter is to be.

One thing sure, it seems impossible for the government now to get out of the wheat problem. They are in it whether they like it or not, and the probability is that they will get deeper rather than less deep.

The Marketing Act is being given plenty to do. They are working out the details of the poultry pool. The potato growers of the five eastern provinces are seeking the benefit of the act in a difficult situation—a heavy crop, far beyond domestic requirements, and so large export markets in sight. And now they are talking of placing newsprint under the Marketing Act. It isn't generally appreciated that newsprint is Canada's second greatest export product—not very far behind wheat, at that. We are disposing of vast stocks of newsprint to American newspapers at prices which are actually below cost. This situation obviously can't go on forever. If the companies themselves won't fix things up, either the provincial or the federal government may have to step in. These are great days for government interference in business.

a purely social evening every six weeks, when they have a real festivity with Reginald Heal leading the fun. The Guardsmen are men of varied interests and temperament whose daily pursuits give slight inkling of their common love for music. But the manner in which they fraternize and the smooth running organization they have built indicate the mettle of these men and their eagerness to make this octet one of the crack male vocal units of the ether.

DETAILS OF HOCKEY SEASON ARRANGED

A matter under considerable discussion was the number of players eligible to each club. It was decided that clubs be limited to 12 actual playing members, including spare goaler; that the names of such 12 players be in the hands of League officials one week before the opening schedule game.

It was further resolved that the schedule must be approved by a League meeting before it could become effective.

Another decision of the meeting concerned the depositing of cheques by member clubs.

A vote of sympathy was expressed in the loss of a local hockeyist, the late Melvin Langille, the meeting requesting that a letter of condolence be sent to his parents and family.

Mr. Guy Legault spoke feelingly on the most friendly and sporting qualities of this popular young player.

Mr. Navion having entered as a team manager, his office as vice-president of the league was filled by the nomination and election of Wm. MacKimmie.

A letter from G. A. Quinn, tending his resignation as secretary, was read and tabled: fellow officials decided to request that he reconsider this decision.

The next League meeting was arranged for Nov. 20th.

CHATHAM W.I. HELD DANCE AT BROWNSB'G

The Old-Time Barn Dance held in the Social Club last Friday evening was a great success. The Chatham Women's Institute are to be congratulated on the event.

The music, under the direction of Mr. Lupien, was excellent, and with Mr. William Cooper as M.C., everything was carried out to perfection, and old and young reported a good time.

The judges were Mr. E. Quesnel, Mr. J. D. Lepine, and Mr. Wyman McGibbon, and the prize winners were as follows: Miss Monahan, 1st; Mrs. Alwyn Stewart, 2nd; Miss Alice Lupien, 3rd; Mrs. Leonard Wilson, 4th. Other costumes of note were worn by Mrs. Lemuel Wilson, Miss Alma Sauve, Miss Wilson ("School-marm"), and Mrs. Wyman McGibbon, as Aunt Diana, was a scream. Refreshments were served, and the evening was voted an entire success.

Rex Theatre's Sunday-to-Wednesday program next week features two leading attractions and a comedy. Student Tour is a musical comedy with dazzling stage effects, and Randy Rides Alone features John Wayne in a first rate Western.

SEEK TO ESTABLISH LIONS CLUB HERE

Mr. Vernon LaChance, of Montreal, special representative of the Lions International, has been in town for the past few days in the interests of establishing a branch of the order in Lachute. Following an interview with a number of our prominent citizens a meeting was called in the Court House on Wednesday evening to discuss the formation of a branch of this organization in Lachute. A number of visiting members from the Montreal Club were present, and a splendid address was given by Mr. Geo. Mooney, General Secretary of the Y.M.C.A., setting forth the benefits of a real service clubs and what it would mean in community welfare. Twenty-five names are required before the charter is granted and some fifteen of those present signed up.

LATE MRS. W. T. WHITE OF GRENVILLE

In the passing of Mrs. W. T. White on Thursday night, Oct. 25th., at the advanced age of 89 years and 3 days, Grenville village lost one of its oldest and most highly respected citizens.

She had been very active through her long life, and was only laid aside a few days, and passed quietly away without suffering.

She leaves one daughter, Mrs. W. MacKan, and three sons, Robert, David and Harry, to mourn a loving mother.

She was a faithful member of the Presbyterian Church and regular attendant until recently, when failing strength prevented her attendance. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Back on Sunday afternoon in the Grenville Presbyterian Church, and interment followed in the family plot near the Church, where her husband and sons were previously laid.

Friends attending from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. D. White, of Hamilton, Mrs. Fred Goudie, of Toronto, Miss Jessie White, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Grey, Mr. Leslie White, of Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. Hudson and daughters, of Hudson.

STILL IN A CLASS BY THEMSELVES

Smokers of the early 1900's preferred Sweet Caporal Cigarettes because they were the best Virginias it was possible to manufacture in those days.

To-day, Sweet Caporals are still in a class by themselves. The choicest tobaccos money can buy plus 1934's improved methods of manufacture have made them outstanding leaders. And the younger set have discovered what their elders

Pearl Fishers Have No

Fear of Hungry Sharks

Fifty thousand naked men diving for pearls in shark-infested waters form the nucleus of an industry upon which depends the existence of about two million people, observes Tilt-Bits Magazine.

Unfortunately most of these men, encumbered by old debts to the dhow-owners, make a mere pittance, but it is a lucrative trade for many, and for the ruling sheiks on the Persian coast an important source of income. Each sheikdom sends its quota of ships, and each fleet, under an "admiral" in the biggest dhow, sets sail after a ceremony of prayer.

Nearly half a million men are engaged in one way or another, and four times that number depend ultimately on prices, offered by merchants in Paris, London and New York. Each dhow carries from 24 to 35 divers, who go over the side naked, with a basket slung about their necks. When their breath is exhausted they are pulled up by rope-men. Normally the sharks do not molest them.

The scene of this picturesque spectacle is the Bahrain pearl banks of the Bahrain Islands, a British protectorate in the Persian Gulf. The gulf pearl markets are little coffee-shops or rooms in thick-walled Arab houses, and though transactions run to thousands of pounds the merchants look poor, carrying their pearls in pieces of rag which they produce from the folds of their voluminous garments.

Bible Scenes Carved

on Old Boxwood Staff

A boxwood staff, once part of a Thirteenth century crozier, containing Old Testament history, has been acquired by the Victoria and Albert museum of London. The staff is divided into 20 horizontal bands, each of which contains in carved high relief scenes from the Book of Genesis. At the bottom of the staff are some beautiful reliefs of the creation of the world, and of councils in heaven. From the division of the firmament from the waters, the story is pursued to the creation of Adam and Eve, and a delightful series of animals and birds. The stories of Cain and Abel, of Noah and the Ark, and of the Tower of Babel follow. The series of reliefs end with the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah. There is a very similar handle, carved with scenes from the New Testament, known as the Pastoral Staff of St. Gaudier, in the Musée de Cluny, Paris. Both staves appear to date from the Thirteenth century, and to be associated with the carvings of northern France.

Powerful Pressure Pump

Housed in Whale's Nose

The nose of the whale, prized by whalers for its valuable spermaceti oil, is not used for smelling at all, but instead houses a powerful pressure pump and a combination air-conditioning, electro-pressure plant that for sheer efficiency transcends anything on land, sea or in the air.

"The biggest thing about a whale is its nose," two scientists explained in a joint statement. "It is six times as big as the whale's brain-case. For instance, if a whale has a head that is 12 feet long and 6 feet high, the nose in this hypothetical whale would be 10 feet long and 5 feet high. Probably one reason the whale's jaw juts out so far is because the nose needs the support of the upper jaw. Another peculiarity about the whale is that its nose, in pushing against its forehead, has changed the latter from straight or convex to one that is deeply concave."

The nose of the whale is composed of bones, fat, oil and connective tissues covered with a thick sheet of skin and blubber, through which runs two gigantic nasal passages. The right passage, according to the scientists, is so big that Jonah could have rested there very comfortably without bothering to make the long journey to the stomach. The two passages lead from a chamber immediately below the blowhole on top of the nose to a great body tunnel which, in turn, is connected with the windpipe.

Mrs. Roy McPhail is spending a few weeks in Ottawa, owing to the illness of her brother-in-law.

Messrs. Robert and John Dobbie, of Harrington, spent the week-end here as guests of Mr. and Mrs. P. Dobbie.

Mrs. John A. McGibbon returned home last week from a pleasant trip to Victoria and other points in the West.

Mr. and Mrs. Bissett and Misses Alice and Ruth Bissett, of Lachine, are spending this week as the guests of Mrs. Mackie.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Biggs, of Pembroke, and Miss Verda Thompson, of Montreal, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Thompson.

Friends of Mrs. H. Stansfield will regret to know she is in the Montreal General Hospital for an operation for appendicitis.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hampton, of Transcona, Man., are spending this week in town, guests of their mother, and renewing acquaintance with their many friends.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Berry of Hill Head recently were Messrs. Wm. Priestley, Victor Moore and Master Douglas Priestley, also Mr. and Mrs. R. Priestley, and family, of Verdun, Que.

Rev. G. Baxter, Mr. and Mrs. John Mason, and Mrs. J. H. McFaul returned on Friday from a pleasant visit to Toronto, where they attended the Annual Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec.

In last week's report of the Parker-Brown wedding at St. Andrews East, an error was made in reference to a reception having been held at the home of Mrs. Parker. Following the ceremony a dainty repast was held at Centreville, at the residence of the bride's father.

Members of the St. Simeon's Young Women's Auxiliary, together with their mothers, friends and lady teachers of the High School Staff, gathered on Tuesday evening for a banquet at the Rectory. Some 30 persons attended, and an enjoyable time was spent, the proceeds being devoted to the Auxiliary funds.

The many friends of Miss Lulu Miller will be sorry to learn of her serious illness, and trust for her speedy recovery.

Owing to unforeseen circumstances, Miss Juliette Rodrigue has decided to postpone her piano recital until a later date, which will be duly announced.

Among those who attended the Young People's Conference of the United Church of Canada held last week-end at Granby, Que., were Mrs. Leslie Morris, Misses Marjorie Gordon, Edith Jones and Grace Rosser, and Messrs. Owen Todd and Harry Pollock.

A Young People's Rally was held in the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church on Tuesday. There were over 60 Sunday School workers present from the St. Andrews, Brownsburg and Lachute churches. The special speaker was Rev. W. M. Kannawin, D.D., of Toronto.

A meeting of the Farmers' Club of St. Jerusalem was held in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening, with President W. T. Jackson presiding. A good report was given of the year's activities by secretary, D. Simon, and improvement was noted. General discussion was engaged in and the consensus of opinion was that the price of milk was altogether too low for the price of feed.

The Roads Department, under Mr. Bourgeault, are busy completing the road from Lowe's corner to the Perley Bridge. Much good work has also been done on the highway between Lachute and Grenville also on the road to Arundel and St. Jovite. The general maintenance is now mostly closed but the men are working on the north side of the river at Cope-land's connection for Ste. Agathe.

With Armistice Day only a week and a half away Poppy headquarters throughout our large centres are naturally quite busy, and preparations are being made to dispose of the poppies which afford the opportunity to purchase the small emblems and thus give practical demonstration of the remembrance of what the Flanders Poppy stands for. In accord with past years our young ladies will make their annual round and thus help to provide for the material comforts of our war veterans.

Word has just reached Mrs. Margaret Pollock and Mr. Addley Sherritt of the death of their brother, John Sherritt, which occurred at his home in Truckee, Sacramento, on Friday, Sept. 28th. The Sierra Sun gives a graphic account of his activities in the business life of Truckee since his arrival from Quebec in 1876, when he and his brother James worked on contracts in the woods to furnish square timber to the Virgin City Mines in the State of Nevada. He was a prominent and much respected member of the community. His remains were interred in the Oddfellows' Cemetery.

"THE FRIENDLY FAIR"

GIRLS' AND BOYS' CONTEST

With a view to linking up the new regulation regarding teaching agriculture in schools with the educational features of the Winter Fair, a contest has been arranged for pupils of Rural Schools. This contest will take the form of essays. The subjects on which the essays will be written will be announced later. A number of excellent prizes have been donated for this purpose and all in all it looks like a real good opportunity to do two things—see the Fair and also Ottawa—and also have a chance at winning a very desirable prize. Every parent of a school child, especially those in their 'teens, should endeavour to arrange in some way to take their children to the Fair on Tuesday, November 13th.

The Fair is essentially an Agricultural Show. Its aims and objects are definitely with a view of being of service in advancing agriculture in the Fair area of Eastern Ontario and Western Quebec, therefore, the Fair is replete with exhibits of great interest and adventure to those whose livelihood or whose future is bound up in agriculture. "As the twig is bent so the branch will grow" is just as true today as when this hoary truism was first penned. Therefore, if the rural children of today are to adequately take an intelligent part in the life of tomorrow, they should not be denied any measure that will increase their knowledge.

Many suitable prizes are being offered.

Remember the Show dates—November 13th. to 16th.

Uncle—You boys of today want too much money. Do you know what I was getting when I married your aunt?
Nephew—Nope! And I bet you didn't either.

AN UNEXPECTED REWARD

The last couple of years I have been very much interested in some outside work and I have given it all that I had in the way of time and energy, in planning and in actual work. Sometimes when those petty worries and annoyances would come up, as they invariably do, and I would perhaps lose considerable sleep, I would wonder if I was not foolish to be bothered with the work. But we get what we give. Bread cast upon the waters. I have found that even had I had no other returns, I would be more than repaid in the friendships I have made. I have made good friends in the most unexpected people. A friend is a precious thing to gain. One cannot gain true friends by deliberately trying to get them but perhaps you too may gain them as a reward for hard work.

A CHANCE FOR THE YOUNG MOTHER

This month I have attended a regional Home and School Conference and a District Women's Institute Convention and I was struck with the absence of young faces. It is difficult for the younger women who have small children to leave them. Yet it is the younger women who should derive most benefit from these meetings. The Home and School clubs are specially designed for mothers and yet there are so many mothers, who have children too small to leave, that cannot attend the meetings, much as they might like to. In places where meetings are held in the afternoon, would it not be feasible to establish a nursery at the school for the hour of the meeting, under the charge of the older girls. The girls would probably enjoy doing it, and it would be of benefit to them; and the mothers would gain an hour of freedom and whatever benefit there might be from the meeting.

FONDANT

Christmas is coming and one of the very nicest of presents is a box of home-made candy. Unless you are an expert it might be a good idea to practise on the family before you plan making gifts of candy to your friends. Fondant is very inexpensive to make, if you do not count your time, but it takes considerable time to make the individual candies. It is pleasant work though, if you enjoy fussing at it. Most women do enjoy making things look pretty. If you do not own a candy thermometer and are fond of candy making, do buy one or persuade your family to give you one. There is a good idea for a Christmas present. I would advise buying a fat thermometer, rather than a candy thermometer as it may then be used for deep fat frying too. The candy thermometer does not register high enough to use for fat. After the fondant is made it may be flavoured, coloured and shaped in many different ways. There is a Canadian firm that makes very natural flavourings and it is a good idea to gradually acquire a variety. Paste colourings are more desirable than liquid ones, but use them with a sparing hand as it is a lot easier to add more than to take them out. Too highly coloured foods are never attractive. I find the following flavours with their appropriate colourings very satisfactory. Orange, lemon, coffee, maple, raspberry, peppermint, wintergreen and almond. Vanilla flavoured fondant I roll in cocoanut or put a small piece of candied ginger in the centre and decorate with a sliver of ginger. These are specially good—if you like ginger. Here is the standard recipe:

5 cups granulated sugar
1½ cups hot water
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar

Put ingredients in a saucepan and stir over a slow fire until the sugar is dissolved. Never let the syrup boil before completely dissolving the sugar. Increase the heat and boil until a soft ball is formed when dropped into cold water or to 238 degrees. During cooking remove the sugar crystals from the side of the pan with a clean rag tied on a fork and dipped in cold water. If this is not done your candy will be sugary and not smooth and creamy. Let stand to cool until you can make a dent in it with a spoon, then beat with an electric mixer or if done by hand work with a spatula or spoon until it begins to lump, then knead with the hands. This may be done on an oiled platter or an enamel topped table. When perfectly smooth wrap tightly in waxed paper to prevent the surface from hardening. Let stand for twenty-four hours or more and make into desired shapes. Divide the fondant into as many portions as you have flavourings but keep the unused portions covered to prevent a crust from forming. Fondant is not as difficult to make possibly as it sounds. It just takes a little practice and the results are worth the effort. If your fondant should turn out to be a failure add some more water and boil again to the soft ball stage.

SQUASH PIE

1 cup mashed squash
1 cup milk
¾ cup brown sugar
2 slightly beaten eggs
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon ginger
¼ teaspoon salt

Add sugar and spice to the squash, then add eggs and milk and blend thoroughly. Pour into an unbaked crust and bake 10 minutes in a hot oven of 450 degrees, then decrease the heat and bake for 30 minutes in a moderate oven of 350 degrees.

Squash or pumpkin may be interchanged in this recipe, although it has been said that the best pumpkin pie is made from squash. When having squash for a vegetable, I usually reserve a cup of it before it has been seasoned and use for pie the following day.

TALKING NONSENSE

Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King is simply talking nonsense when he says that the conditions revealed by the Stevens inquiry were due to the Bennett Government. If any particular government is responsible it is the King Ministry. During the nine years it was in power there was an endless procession of mergers and trusts. It was these trusts with their watered stock which were largely responsible for the situation.

FIFTIETH PROVINCIAL CONVENTION OF W. C. T. U.

(By Our Own Correspondent)

The W.C.T.U. Convention was held in the American Church in Montreal, marking fifty one years of prayerful, careful service to humanity in the efforts of the W.C.T.U. to make the pathway of life safe for the feet of growing youth, as well as for erring men and women who cannot in their own strength resist the all too inviting beer-parlor, having not yet learned to depend on God's strength.

The meeting was an inspirational one, brightened by many pleasing features yet saddened by the thought of 36 members that had passed on during the year, to whom fitting reference was made during a memorial service led by Mrs. J. W. Maclean, of Cushing, Provincial Evangelistic Supt. As the Secretary, Mrs. E. Colcomb, read the names, Mrs. W. W. Robertson, President of Hochelaga County Union, whose guests the ladies of Convention were, placed a white carnation in a vase. Special mention was made of Mrs. John Currie, Dr. J. M. Douglass of The Witness, and Mrs. Morley Po, who had been a soloist at the memorial services for two previous years.

Mrs. N. Rees, L.T.L. Secretary, sang a Solo "Tis Only a Little Way farther to Home". Mrs. Maclean said that the great question which occupied many minds was as to what lay across the Valley of the Shadow which divided us from our loved ones. For them the stone has been rolled away and they now are in "the Sunshine of God's presence".

Mrs. Maclean consecrated the meeting, at its commencement; the title of her address was "Planting", bringing forcefully to the forefront the fact that human beings are all "God's Plants", and must be tended as such.

Mrs. J. Simons on behalf of Hochelaga County Union; welcomed the delegates, and Mrs. J. Lowe of Sherbrooke, replied on behalf of the visitors.

Mrs. H. Wilson of Athelstan, President of the Quebec Provincial Union, in her annual address said, "We do not know of a better word than Courage for our motto for the coming year; if ever there was a time when courage was needed in the Temperance work it is now. The liquor traffic is still in business, but so is the Women's Christian Temperance Union, and we are determined that we will not give up until the liquor traffic quits. The great need of the Temperance Movement at this time is to impress the youth of the country with the evils of alcohol; money spent in educating the young is the best investment the organization can make." Mrs. Wilson spoke of the onslaught the liquor traffic is making on the Dominion, the most disturbing feature being the attitude of the Provincial Government. She also pointed out many ways in which the "So-called Right to Drink" interfered with the rights of safety to others, also the rights of the wife and children of the drinker.

The W.C.T.U., she stated, does not agree with any form of liquor control. The only way to control it is to abolish it. Mrs. Wilson believed that where the Temperance cause had suffered defeat it would in future years be re-established on a more lasting foundation. In reporting on the sale of liquor commissioners' stores last year, the report gave the figures as $12,702,927. Think of the hungry that might be fed with that amount of money. As Rev. C. H. Dickinson in the evening address said, "We can spend a million dollars a month on liquor, but not a million dollars on relief without a terrible howl". Dr. Dickinson claimed it was decidedly Anti-Christian to drink.

The Rev. Dr. F. McCutcheon led Tuesday evening's devotional exercises stressing the point so often forgotten by liquor dealers, "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul".

Dr. McCutcheon classed the W.C.T.U. as a section of the church, and hoped it might have strength to maintain the conflict until the victory was won. The drink evil was one of those which Our Master came to earth to suppress.

Rev. Dr. Potter brought greetings from the Ministerial Association, claiming that the ministers were in enthusiastic sympathy with our beautiful work and, that we had the joy of knowing the Catholic Clergy were with us also. "Let us remember," he said, "that it is somebody's son, daughter, husband, or wife, that is being brought low in shame with this liquor business."

Alderman George Layton, in the absence of the Mayor, welcomed the W.C.T.U. to the City of Montreal, and hoped that the gathering would be a profitable one. "Not only," he said, "in the Province of Quebec but in the entire Christian World are we passing through times of great stress, times when sincerity of purpose and loftiness of aim take on more importance than ever before. Many of us feel that we are living through the crux of a bloodless revolution, destined perhaps to transform the face of the world to come, and none of us in these days can refuse to consider ourselves our brother's keeper. Intemperance," he said, "has unquestionably been the greatest factor in the social disorganization which has so swiftly overtaken our Western World—intemperance not only in the use of alcoholics and in abuse of the moral law, but intemperance in speculation, in business expansion, in personal and corporate ambitions; intemperance in loose thinking and in frenzied theorizing; a mad, restless search for new things and more speed, rather than a sane, quiet, moderate sense of responsibility in the use of the things we have had".

"I cannot help feeling," he said "that our civilization is at the cross-roads, between a return to the decent, sane living of some years ago, or a wild rush into destruction through class struggles and war. And so speaking tonight in the name of the greatest city in

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, November 4th., is "Everlasting Punishment."

The Golden Text is: "Whoso diggeth a pit shall fall therein: and he that rolleth a stone, it will return upon him." (Proverbs 26: 27).

The following correlative passages are selected from among those comprised in the Lesson-Sermon to be read from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:

"Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." "Wherefore, my beloved, as ye have always obeyed, not as in my presence only, but how much more in my absence, work out your own salvation with fear and trembling." (Galatians 6: 7 and Philippians 2: 12).

"The only power of evil is to destroy itself. It can never destroy one iota of good. Every attempt of evil to destroy good is a failure, and only aids in peremptorily punishing the evil-doers. (Science & Health.)

DISTRICT NEWS

CUSHING WEST

Mrs. Usher spent Wednesday of last week in Alexandria, Ont., visiting the Rev. and Mrs. McLeod.

The Misses Florence and Dorothy Holmes, of Montreal, were guests of Mrs. C. L. Cooke over the week-end.

Guests of Mrs. S. O. Hartley on Sunday were the Messrs. Douglas and Lawrence Hartley and the Misses Ruth Walsh and Olive Hartley, of Montreal.

The Messrs. S. and E. Whelehan of Montreal, spent Sunday here.

Mr. Hugh Danford, of Montreal, was a guest at Mr. E. Whelehan's on Wednesday last.

The Misses Ruth and Hope Harcourt, of New Glasgow, are spending a few days here as guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. Pinkerton. Mrs. Jas. Harcourt and little son, Grant, also spent a few days here last week.

Miss Tessie Robert, of Monalea, arrived home last week from a month's visit to relatives in New York and at Forest Hills, L. I.

CUSHING

Miss Alberta Cleland of Montreal, spent several days this week and last at their Cushing cottage.

Miss Frances Douglas and Miss Madison, of Montreal, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Douglas on Friday and Saturday.

The Misses Funcheon and Hamilton, of St. Andrews East, were week-end guests of Miss Helen Weir.

Master K. de Laronde, of St. Andrews East, was the guest of Mr. Walter Starnes on Friday.

The Misses Eileen Weir, Mary Maguire and Margaret Maw, of St. Anne de Bellevue, and Notre Dame de Grace, were week-end guests of Miss Annie Weir.

Mrs. A. Graham spent Saturday with Mrs. Joseph Bradley, of Carillon, also attended the executive meeting of the Historical Society in the Town Hall, St. Andrews East.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Graham were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Bradford, of North River, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Beecher, Mr. and Mrs. H. Sleeth, and Mrs. J. L. Maw motored from Montreal on Friday evening to attend St. Mungo's Chicken Pie Supper on Friday evening. This event was quite a success in spite of other entertainments on all sides. Mrs. J. Thompson of Brownsburg, accompanied by Miss Edna Reid on the piano, sang very sweetly "Smiling Through". Miss Madison, of Montreal, and Miss Ogilvy, of Ottawa, charmed with piano and violin solos. Miss Ogilvy was accompanied by her sister, Miss Baker, a popular singer over the radio, also from Ottawa, sang several songs to the delight of the audience, and Rev. Norman Rawson was, as he expressed himself, "feeling fine," and gave a very entertaining and humorous account of "How He Won the War", which kept the audience laughing from start to finish. Miss Mildred Douglas, of Montreal, will entertain in the Cushing Community Club Room on Friday night of this week with her Moving Pictures, in aid of St. Mungo's Church.

Members of the Frontier Women's Institute are reminded that this month's meeting will be held on Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 7th., at the home of Mrs. James Murdock, when Miss McCain will be the guest speaker; her subject will be "How we are governed."

Capt. J. D. Weir spent Saturday in Cushing.

Mr. Tooke, of Thurso, was the week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. James Gurling.

Whether you have a lawnmower for sale or a carload of brewer's grains — Watchman Want Ads are the logical medium for notifying the county public.

Canada, may I venture to express the hope that your deliberations will yield fruit in bringing our people back to temperateness in all things. Your organization alone cannot remake Canada, nor can the City of Montreal for that matter, but all of us together, working to the best of our ability, cannot fail sooner or later in proportion to our earnestness, to produce an improvement in conditions around us".

A contest had been arranged for a two minute talk by the different county presidents on the definition of the words Christian Temperance Union. The prize was won by Mrs. W. Usher, of Cushing, County President of Argenteuil Vaudreuil branch.

Music for that evening was furnished by Mrs. W. Davis, accompanied by Mrs. Osborne, also by Mrs. Ruby M. Allan, Miss Gladys Davies, and Miss Violet Anstice, accompanied by Mrs. P. F. Seymour.

The devotional exercises were taken on Wednesday morning by Mrs. E. G. Fetterly, second vice-president, her subject being "Peace among the Nations".

Mrs. Mabon, first vice-president, led the noontide prayer and read a short comment upon prayer quoting the words "God is doing while we are asking". Mrs. R. J. Blair of Ormstown read an interesting report of Educational Campaign work, and asked that all children at schools and Sunday Schools writing examinations in the Temperance Educational Campaign, send their papers directly to her, not later than December 31st. Sixteen papers (four from each grade) should be sent from each county.

Wednesday afternoon saw the officers elected by a previously prepared slate, instead of by ballot. The officers remain the same as last year, with the exception of the Corresponding Secretary, which office is now filled by Mrs. J. C. Moore in place of Mrs. Colcomb, who resigned, after faithful service during the past seven years. A new office was created for her, that of Honorary Cor. Secretary.

Another addition to the ranks of office was that of third Honorary Vice President, which was given to Mrs. Rillance of Montreal. Mrs. A. V. Schell was soloist of the afternoon; her songs, "God be merciful unto me" and "Just for today" were much appreciated. Mrs. Jas. Mabon, Canada's delegate to the World's Convention which took place in Stockholm, Sweden, during the summer, gave a very interesting account of the proceedings. Mrs. Mabon was made World's Convenor of Little White Ribbons while attending convention, and a bouquet was presented to her by the present Convention at the close of her report. Mrs. Mabon said that Canada had measured up as well as any other country in their report of work done.

Wednesday evening was given over to the young people, and their Provincial President, Miss Lora Robinson, of Sweetburg, presided. Features of the evening were a silver medal elocutionary and musical contest. Mrs. Nellie McClung's story, "The Second Chance", was dramatized and presented by seven young girls, Miss Doris Sin being the winner of the silver medal. The musical contest medal was won by Donald Peacock, son of Lieut.-Col. Peacock of the Salvation Army, for a piano solo. An extra prize given for violin music was won by Miss D. Simpson.

A visiting singer, Arthur Holden, sang three spiritual solos.

A silver loving cup was presented by Mrs. Reese of the L.T.L. to the Wakefield branch, for their splendid work. Having won the cup for four successive years, they now retain it permanently. The "Y" banner was won by Madison branch for the greatest increase in membership during the year, and the silver loving cup by Milby Centre Union for the same achievement. Miss Lora Robinson also played "Chimes" on the piano.

The afternoon session was favored by musical selections and recitations by Olivet Baptist Church L.T.L., and the children of The Friendly Home. "The Children's Hour" was a very fine feature.

Thursday morning's devotions were conducted by Mrs. John Scott. Her subject was "Power of Unity", "Only one thing", said Mrs. Scott, "will help in making Unity in this world, it is the Gospel of Jesus Christ." Prejudice was the great enemy to Unity, and the W.C.T.U. had done a great deal in breaking down barriers and the spirit of denominationalism.

Mrs. J. Murray Gardner and Mrs. J. E. Merritt were publicly thanked for their care in arranging the Young People's Programme. Mrs. Gardner made the statement that will no doubt surprise many. "The Women's Christian Temperance Union is the largest women's organization in the world," she said.

The W.C.T.U. will support reform in movies, and will advocate the reduction of licenses for liquor in night clubs, also that the clergy preach from the pulpit against smoking, intemperance and other modern evils. There were resolutions deploring the broadcasting of cocktail recipes and liquor advertising in magazines and the daily press. Mrs. Harry Brown reported that distribution of Temperance literature in French had been well received.

Ladies-in-Waiting
The ladies and women of the bed-chamber belong to the household of the queen. "Ladies-in-waiting" is the term for both. The former are always nearnesses, and the latter generally daughters of peers and earls rank. The principal duty of the ladies is to attend the queen at state functions, while one of the women is in ordinary duty attendance on her majesty. Also there is a maid-of-honor, sometimes the daughter of a peer of minor degree. If not, she is given the style Honorable.—Montreal Herald.

TOOK PILLS FOR 30 YEARS, THEN CEREAL BROUGHT RELIEF

Mr. Forsythe Endorses ALL-BRAN for Constipation

If you suffer from headaches, loss of appetite and energy or any other of the frequent effects of constipation, read this voluntary letter:

"After taking pills and tablets for about thirty years for constipation, I started to take your ALL-BRAN three times a day according to directions. Today I can eat cheese, and that is binding, and certainly feel fine."—Mr. Ed. Forsythe (address furnished upon request).

Science says ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regular habits. In addition, ALL-BRAN is rich in blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

Isn't this pleasant "cereal way" far more healthful than using patent medicines—so often habit-forming?

Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily. In serious cases use with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

THE FALLS OF MONTMORENCY

The Montmorency Falls provide one of those rare sites which boast almost equally outstanding industrial, scenic and historic importance. Industrially, the Falls figure prominently in Quebec City's electric power supply. As a spectacle they are conceded the right to be called one of the continent's most beautiful cataracts. And they are located in the heart of a region which takes second place to none in Canada for wealth of memories from the storied past.

About seven miles below Quebec the St. Lawrence River is joined by a tributary which makes up in turbulence and picturesque setting what it lacks in size. The Montmorency, throughout most of its length, rushes madly through narrow gorges which feature such odd formations as the Natural Steps, carved in the stratified rock by the riotous river. It has almost reached the St. Lawrence when it throws itself headlong over a perpendicular cliff more than 270 feet high. This tops Niagara by a good 100 feet, but of course the width or volume cannot compare with that of the giant of the frontier. Montmorency's charm lies in its beautiful setting and the transparency of its silver flood, veil-like over grey rock. A great spray arises from the rocky chasm, colorful in the moonlight while the river, finding peace at last, glides quietly to lose itself in a mighty waterway.

So near to the ancient capital, Montmorency, named after one of the earliest viceroys in the days of Champlain, has witnessed numerous stirring events during the past three centuries. The region saw the repulse of Phips and his New England expedition by Frontenac in 1690. And again in 1759 Wolfe landed troops at Montmorency. But from this approach Quebec proved impregnable, with result that the Montmorency shore was abandoned and the new strategy adopted that brought success on the Plains of Abraham.

"Women don't make up for lost time nowadays," states a writer. No. Usually they make up to disguise the effects of the time they've had.

TWO SHOOTING MISHAPS . . . VISIT OF
SIR GEO. PERLEY
PLANS FOR BADMINTON

SHOOTING ACCIDENT.

A rather unfortunate occurrence befell two young Brownsburg boys, Paul Drouin and E. Hebert, on Nov. 1st.

The two young men had spent the greater part of the day hunting through the bush a few miles from the village, and having met with very little success were wending their way homewards, when young Hebert, who was carrying a hybrid shotgun rifle upon his shoulder, stumbled. In endeavouring to recover his footing he touched off the rifle hammer. The bullet passed through his index finger and penetrated the leg of Drouin, who was walking just in front. Drouin was unable to proceed, and was bleeding profusely. Hebert, despite his damaged finger, hastened for aid and came upon a clearing in sight of Mr. Silverson's farm. While a conveyance was proceeding to get the wounded Drouin, Hebert had a message phoned to Dr. Cote, who arrived on the scene just as his patient reached the farm.

Subsequently Drouin was conveyed to the hospital at Hawkesbury, where he was found to be suffering from shock and considerable loss of blood. It is expected that Hebert will suffer the loss of his finger.

ANOTHER SHOOTING ACCIDENT.

Two other companions hitting the bush in search of partridge, on Sunday, Nov. 4th., met with an accident of a less serious nature. It appears a boy named Girard took cover behind a large stone, so that his companion could have suitable aim at a bird. In this instance the shell contained small shot, nevertheless some of the pellets ricocheted off another boulder, striking Girard in the face and penetrating the skin.

SIR GEORGE PERLEY

Sir George Perley paid a flying visit to the 'Burg last week, and called upon some of his old friends. Sir George looked particularly well and evidenced keen interest in the works now in progress and contemplated around Brownsburg.

FORMER LACHUTE MAN FETED AT SHERBROOKE

A banquet and presentation was given to Mr. Amos MacVicar, formerly of Lachute and telephone line superintendent in this section, for heroism in saving the life of a feeble old lady who was crossing the C.P.R. tracks.

The circumstance occurred on April 18th. last, when "Mac" as he is still familiarly known here in town, was standing on the station platform, and seeing the danger of the old lady's position before an approaching train, he rushed to her assistance and managed to get her clear of the tracks just in time.

The banquet was tendered by fellow employees of the Bell Telephone, and the President, Mr. C. F. Sise, forwarded a handsomely engraved testimonial for this heroic deed; Mr. H. J. Bowen, division plant superintendent, on behalf of the Company, presented Mr. MacVicar with a beautiful gold watch, suitably engraved and a gold chain, Mrs. MacVicar being the recipient of a handsome bouquet of American Beauty Roses.

The presentation was made

BADMINTON.

Mr. MacMicking has interested himself in the formation of a Badminton Club, with the result that Mr. Donaldson's Hall has been obtained, and after some little alterations have taken place the game will be in full swing.

HALLOWE'EN DANCING.

A very successful and enjoyable dance was held at Donaldson's Hall on Hallowe'en night. About thirty couples graced the floor in various enchanting costumes. Mr. Kit Lupien and his Terpsichorean Melody Makers provided the music.

MILK ADVANCED IN PRICE.

On November 1st. the price of milk was advanced one cent per quart. It is rumored that a petition is being forwarded the Price Spreads Commission, asking an investigation.

PRIVATE PROPERTY.

When the unemployment works were under way last year, during the cutting of the hill approaching Brownsburg on the Montreal side, a very wide detour would have been necessary but for the generosity of Mr. Erskine McQuat, who allowed the traffic to be diverted through his property. In consideration of this convenience Mr. McQuat would be entitled to quite a considerable amount, as the work was for a prolonged duration, and during the time an enormous amount of damage was done to his private drive.

At the time of his generous gesture Mr. McQuat refused to accept any monetary consideration, stipulating only that the drive-way be put in order when the work was finished. This has not been done. The contractor left the district when his work was completed and left Mr. McQuat's road a danger and a menace to all who travel thereby. It is too bad when men of public spirit and civic consciousness endeavour to assist the needs of the community, that some 'smart guy' takes advantage of the fact and evades his normal responsibilities.

at the Magog House in Sherbrooke. Many friends in Lachute and vicinity join in congratulation on this happy event

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS HELD RALLY

DISTINGUISHED OFFICERS IN ATTENDANCE

Members of the K. of C. local lodge, No. 2752, met on Sunday last, gathering with strong attendance at their hall on Main Street shortly after 10 o'clock. They were attended by the Lachute Brass Band, which played several selections before proceeding for their parade to St. Julien Church in the West End. Here a special service was held for the occasion, after which the Knights returned to the Auditorium, and sixty-five new members were initiated, also matters pertaining to the general welfare of the order were dealt with.

The meeting was under the chairmanship of L. E. Dumais, Grand Knight, with J. A. Gosselin acting as Master of Ceremonies.

Representatives of the Order from out of town included MM. Francis Fauteux, Supreme Director, L. E. Grothe, Vice-Supreme Master, L. Aime Lussier, Secretary of State, H. Lamarche, District Deputy, and many others from different Councils through the Province.

ASSAULT CASE WILL BE TRIED AT ST. JEROME

The case of James Donlon, charged with common assault and occasioning bodily injury, was brought before Magistrate W. G. Rodger on Tuesday afternoon, and on evidence heard, Donlon was committed to stand his trial at the November term, which opens at St. Jerome on November 27th. He was released on $500 bail.

NEW C-I-L SALES OFFICE OPENED

In order to serve the mining industry more efficiently in the vicinity of Long Lac and Sturgeon River and the territory immediately to the east and west of the twin cities, the explosives division of C.I.L. have opened the sales office in Port Arthur, Ont., with a distributing magazine for explosives and accessories. The Port Arthur office was closed approximately twenty years ago, but the revival has caused Canadian Industries Ltd. to make this decision.

The office was opened during the first week in November, with Orville S. Atkins in charge. Mr. Atkins has been employed by C.I.L. during the past ten years, having served at Vancouver and Montreal, and, for the past six months in the Noranda office.

LOST DAMAGE SUIT IN HIGHWAY ACCIDENT

A claim by S. Guenette, laborer of Ste. Marguerite, for $15,880 damages against the Title Guarantee and Trust Corporation and John H. Wallis for injuries suffered in a motorcycle-automobile crash on the Ste. Agathe highway last year, was dismissed by judgment of Mr. Justice Errol McDougall in Superior Court.

The accident took place near the village of Ste. Adele. Guenette was riding on a motorcycle while the trust company's car was proceeding south. In the crash Guenette sustained a fracture of the skull. He asked that Wallis and the company be held responsible, on the ground that Wallis swerved across the centre line of the roadway to avoid a parked car, and collided into the motorcycle.

In dismissing the claim, the

ARMISTICE OBSERVANCE IN LACHUTE

CHURCHES WILL JOIN IN CIVIC CEREMONY

With the near approach of Armistice Day, it is fitting that we remember, humbly and reverently, the memory of those who fell in the Great War and did not return — as well as those who returned maimed and disabled. Our thoughts dwell on the many brave souls in various hospitals throughout the Dominion, on the heroic struggles of others in their handicapped condition, of the sightless and the suffering ones — and it behooves us all to stop and reflect what might have been, had not these loved ones made such sacrifice.

With this in mind, special services will be held in all local churches on Sunday next, and by mutual consent the Lachute clergy have agreed to close their services promptly at 12 o'clock and adjourn to the Memorial Park, where wreaths will be deposited and the "Last Post" sounded in humble tribute.

Young ladies of the town will be out on Saturday for the sale and distribution of poppies, the proceeds of which will be used for the general welfare and interests of the needy "vets". — Let everyone wear a poppy!

MRS. A. DAGENAI'S TRIAL IS DELAYED

ACCUSED PROTESTS AT POSTPONEMENT

The trial of Mrs. Aurore Dagenais of Montreal has been fixed by Mr. Justice Cousineau to begin on January 15 at Hull, Que. The charge is for the murder by poisoning of Philippe and Jacques Raymond, of this town. The accused protested at the delay and the judge suggested that her counsel ask the Attorney-General to intercede for an earlier trial.

WORLD BROADCAST FOR ARMISTICE DAY

Radio stations are concerned this week with special Armistice Day broadcasts. One of the most elaborate is an international broadcast arranged by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace and the Columbia Broadcasting System, which will be heard from CKAC from 4.15 to 5.00 p.m., Nov. 11, entitled, "The Family of Nations." The Broadcast will feature talks by leading statesmen in Canada, Great Britain, United States, Brazil, Japan and Czecho-Slovakia. Hon. R. B. Bennett will speak from Ottawa and speeches from other statesmen will be brought here by short wave.

CANADA PREPARING RADIO FEATURE

The Canadian Radio Commission has joined with the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League in presenting a great national broadcast program on Remembrance Day, Sunday November 11, in honour of the memory of those who made the sacrifice during the Great War. This program will be heard from 9 to 10 p.m., on the Commission's national network and eight Canadian court held that evidence showed Wallis was driving his car on the right side of the road, also that the motorcycle rounded the curve at a high speed, and swept over to the left of the highway into the oncoming automobile.

CITY FATHERS HELD A BUSY SESSION

CURFEW ORDER VIRTUALLY ABANDONED . . . PROPERTY ASSESSMENT CHANGES

The regular monthly meeting of Lachute Town Council was held on Wednesday evening, presided over by Mayor A. Larocque, there being also present Aldermen J. A. Rice, C. Duracher, J. MacGibbon, G. Raymond, K. McQuat, O. Legault, G. Muir, H. Lamarche and O. Laurin.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Mrs. M. A. Belanger appeared before the Council with a well signed petition requesting that the street-light be replaced on Bethany Street, as its recent removal has darkened the thoroughfare and created a real injury to the business interests. The light committee decided to make investigation.

It was moved by Alderman Rice, seconded by Alderman Raymond, that as the fire hose had been duly inspected the sum of $2208.90 be paid to the Bickell Fire Equipment Company in final settlement of their account. The resolution was passed.

Alderman Muir, with Alderman Lamarche seconding, moved that the request of Mr. Stewart McFaul for rental of the Auditorium two nights a week for the Badminton Club at the rate of $150 for the season be granted.

The secretary read a draft of the proposed Curfew By-law laying down rules to the effect that children under 16 years of age should be off the streets at 9 o'clock p.m. Aldermen McQuat and Rice raised strong opposition, saying that this would only entail much trouble to little purpose, for the by-law would be difficult to enforce. The matter was then tabled.

The Secretary was instructed to collect four years' tax on property occupied by the Brothers of the Catholic School and also four years from the Baptist Church Manse on Grace Street, according to the tax rate of valuation.

Now that the town has added considerably to its fire-fighting equipment, Chief Geo. Y. Deacon was requested to have things in readiness for the fire underwriters' inspection, in order that the town may secure a reduction of insurances rates to which it is now entitled.

PINE HILL FATALITY RECALLED

WARNING ISSUED FOLLOWING MISHAPS

Mr. Alfred Robert, chief inspector of Quebec Industrial and Commercial Establishments, issues a warning in view of the serious accidents which have occurred of late in this Province, through the use of motor truck engines to operate machinery.

One, Robert Patrick, while resting quietly at home on May 11th. last, was hit by a piece of iron which was hurled through the air, through the roof of his house, and struck him to death. A similar accident happened here at Pine Hill, on September 29th., causing the death of Elie Labelle, on which occasion The Watchman expressed a similar warning. The latest mishap of this kind occurred on October 27th. last, in a saw mill in Montreal, when a fly wheel also broke from its shaft and was projected a great distance, this time, however, without fatal result.

In every case, inquiry has been made by labour inspectors, and it was ascertained that at the time of the accident, the velocity of the machinery was over 200 per cent greater than that permitted by law. It is urgent, therefore, that necessary precautions be taken by the proprietors of such plants or equipments, in order to prevent further accidents, and that safety apparatus should be installed on machinery, as required by law; and persons using motor truck engines as a means of power, or gas driven or electric engines, should see that the fly wheel is made of cast steel instead of iron, and set in such a way that the speed can be safely controlled.

It is stated in article 4, section III, of the law that: "The Industrial and commercial establishments mentioned in section 3 shall be built and kept in such manner as to secure the safety of all employed in them; and, in those which contain mechanical apparatus, the machinery, mechanism, gearing, tools and engines shall be so placed and kept as to afford every possible security for the employees."

EXPLOITS OF THE EUREKA NEWS

SMALL TOWN NEWSPAPER SUBJECT OF PLAY

Somewhat dramatic was the predicament of the Eureka News, as developed in a three-act comedy, "Take My Advice", by the St. Simeon's Players last Friday in the Auditorium; but the plot of the play, by Eugene Hafer, afforded ample humor and scope for talent in the artists, who rewarded their audience with a most entertaining evening.

The parts were portrayed with ease which reflected credit upon the painstaking practice of the cast, comprising Mr. and Mrs. Jack Skuffham, Miss J. Valpy, Miss L. Webster, Miss E. Stansfield, Messrs. C. L. Hall, C. Henderson and H. Stansfield. Each role featured characteristic traits which called for skill in their presentation; they depicted the "power in the state", a land owner, irate and consistently cranky; the ne'er-do-well whose loyalty and keen wit are the bright spots in an appalling indifference to responsibility; the news-office stenographer whose repartee is snappy and sentiments immune to masculine advances; and the high-powered salesman with a repertoire that has taken long practice in the preparation. The country editor, the young lady who commands his affections, the busy-body president of the Ladies' Uplift Society, and the landowner's daughter who is no less sour and imperious than her father — these completed the leading parts — characters which, in a less emphatic type, appear in the populace of almost any small town and contribute to the interest of rural living.

The theme itself was true to life—even if, as the observer remarks, it was exaggerated in its dramatic setting. The country news publisher, under financial obligation to a real-estate magnate, is obliged to subdue the interests of his town to the whim of his virtual employer, whose object is to demolish every worthwhile enterprise

A "candid camera" snapshot, replete with the troubled atmosphere of an unhappy moment. It tells the whole story.

SOME magazines and newspapers make a great to-do about "candid camera" pictures, so called because they portray the great and near-great in unguarded moments and poses.

Many "candid camera" shots have been made at banquets, receptions, conferences and other such affairs. They show notables being thoroughly human, unaware of the presence of a camera.

Naturally such pictures have a lot of appeal. For they show people as they really are—eating, talking, worrying.

These candid snapshots are usually made with very small cameras, equipped with exceptionally fast lenses and film. Such cameras do not need brilliant light, and they can be handled so casually that they do not become conspicuous.

But you don't need any such camera to make your own "candid camera" snapshots. Of course, you will not be able to shoot under ordinary room lighting—unless your camera has an f.3.5 lens, or faster—but you will find ample opportunity in places where the light is better.

For example, do you have a picture of Dad, or Uncle, or Brother lighting his pipe? Nothing could be more characteristic—and yet it's the sort of thing you'll never find in an ordinary posed photograph.

To get such a picture you have to be ready to take advantage of a fleeting opportunity. Some day, when you have your camera out for some shots around the house, your pipe smoker is quite likely to come out on the porch to watch you. Maneuver so that he is in fairly good light, focus your camera for the distance between him and your lens, watch for the moment he puts match to tobacco and then quietly turn and snap him. Chances are he won't realize what you have done. And you will have a "candid camera" shot to enjoy.

A whole section of your album may be very well devoted to such pictures. Certainly they are interesting; more than likely they'll be amusing, too.

It is essential that you use the fastest kind of film for these snapshots. For you usually have to work under some handicaps. Modern super-sensitive film is remarkable stuff; you should know it, anyway.

Fast film, a clean lens working at its widest opening, a watchful eye and quiet, unobtrusive camera work—these are the only essentials for many "candid" snapshots.

BESS PITIES THE OWL
Old Mammy Owl never sleeps,
So some folk say—
If that is so, what does she do
All the live-long day?

Does she just sit and blink and blink,
And swing and swing and swing?
I would not want to live like that,
No—not for anything.

I wish I knew of some nice way
To keep that old owl busy.
For swinging, swinging all the time
Must make her very dizzy!

IN LEAFLAND

"Oh dear", sighed the leaf, as the wind tore it from Maud's clinging fingers, leaving a portion of it in her hand. "I shall be carried past. I know I shall, but it does not matter so much now that I am not a perfect leaf."

Maud felt so sorry for the little leaf that tears came into her eyes and started dripping down her cheeks, but they were not allowed to fall for the little man suddenly held tiny goblets of gold beneath them.

"Tears of sympathy are so precious," he murmured, "that they must not be lost."

Maud looked at the tiny tear-drops in the cups; they seemed to have turned to gold too but she was not given much time to look at them for the little man suddenly vanished from sight.

"Maud", said Ted eagerly,
"let's get out of this somehow".
"Not yet", said another strange voice, "we are not quite through with you. You see, you two children must be punished for your wanton destruction of leaves and plants, but those precious tears will go a long way to save you from being punished too severely."

"Punished!" said both children with a little gasp. "And why not, I should like to know?" the voice replied.
"Come, jump down onto that canopy beneath you. Hurry now." The children hesitated.
"But!" said Maud in a frightened voice, "it is only a leaf, and a leaf will not hold either of us. It is not strong enough."

"I said Jump, and I mean Jump." The owner of the voice suddenly appeared before them. He was a queer, nobbylooking fellow, just as if one of their mother's cactus plants had suddenly grown feet and arms and was standing beside them.

"Ted," whispered Maud, "do you remember the cactus plant you ground to pieces with your heel—that day you were vexed because Mother would not let you go fishing with Bud Jones?"

"Do I!" said Ted. "Do you suppose this is a relation of that cactus? If so, I move that we jump, and jump quickly too.
Here I'll go first, then if I break through they won't make you jump perhaps."

"I am coming too. I am too scared to stay here without you", Maud whispered, as Ted jumped towards the leaf.

"Oh, boy!" cried Ted, as he struck it with a bang, "it's a spring board!" High up in the air he flew and came down splash, into a pool of rather cold water. Before he could get the water out of his eyes Maud had landed with a mighty splash right beside him.

"I am so glad we can both swim a little" she whispered, her teeth chattering. "This water is real cold—Ouch! what is that crawling over my back?"

"It looks like a Virginia Creep to me, but it has a head and eyes, and it's reaching right over to me. Here's where I dive under out of its reach."

As Ted said that he tried to dive under the water, but a queer-looking green net held him fast. Little heads and eyes were popping out of it everywhere. A snake-like green tongue popped from the crooked mouth of one little head. It made him shiver. Another little head came closer. "You tore me up by the roots," it said, "to make room for your jumping pit. I had as much right to grow there as you had to jump, and when I grew again and again you dug all my roots up and threw them into the river. Now you are in the river yourself. How do you like it?"

Ted did not like it at all, but was ashamed to say so. Another little voice sounded almost in his ear. "You broke me from my stem and crushed me with your hands because Tom Billing's got the prize at the Sweet Pea Show. It was your own fault that my flowers were smaller than Tom's.
You were too lazy to carry water so that I might have plenty to drink when the weather was warm. You did not give me a chance."

This queer little head had eyes, but one eye was pink and the other purple, and little mauve colored hands crept closer and closer to Ted's face.
Ted tried to shout, but could not make a sound. "A nightmare, a nightmare", shrieked all the little heads, "let's give him a nightmare." They all started bobbing and springing towards him, until his own eyes almost popped out with fear.
"It's my punishment I suppose", he managed to gasp.
"Yes, it's your punishment, and you deserve it too. The Cactus man was sitting on a little green ladder just across from him, with a delighted grin on his bristly little face. "I told you that you were going to be punished... King, oh King of the Cactus Family!" he called.
"Come this way. We have caught the fellow who ground to pieces with his heel the garden. What shall we do with him?"

"Bring his sister here" growled a rumbly-grumbly voice, as a giant prickly cactus came riding along in a coach of maple leaves shaped like a boat drawn by two immense bull-frogs.

The bull-frogs glared at
Ted. "This is the chap," said one to the other. "Yes, this is the chap," said the second bullfrog, "I hope they punish him well for what he has done."

OTTAWA WINTER FAIR
NOVEMBER 13th TO 16th.

CARNIVAL OF ATHLETIC RHYTHM

The Ottawa Winter Fair has enjoyed an increasing co-operation with the schools of the district, both rural and urban.
This year besides featuring an Essay Contest of which definite information has gone forward to schools in the Counties surrounding Ottawa and to the schools in the City of Ottawa, the Directors have received the consent of the principals of the Secondary Schools to stage a Carnival of Athletic Rhythm in which a number of boys from each of the Secondary Schools, Glebe, Lisgar, Commerce and Technical, will take part. This Carnival will be spectacular and intensely interesting as showing the splendid work done to build up healthy bodies at the same time as building up the mind. A healthy mind in a healthy body is a wonderful asset.

All school children and their parents should come to the Fair and stay for the evening performance.

Reserved seats may be secured by mail by sending remittance to H. H. McElroy, Secretary, Journal Building,
Ottawa. The prices of seats are 50c—35c and 25c., includ-

An Autumn Episode in a Local Setting

The winding mountain road-way that led to Lake Louise in the Laurentians, seemed deserted. Nothing stirred excepting the black clouds in the sky, driven by the strong wind. It was midnight. Here and there only an occasional patch of clear sky broke through as if peering into the dense darkness below, and bringing into relief the fringe of trees that bordered the roadsides and mountains. Rain poured down in fitful spells. The farmers' wives—those who lay awake—were wishing that their rain-barrels would be filled before morning, for rain-water had been badly needed. It was mid-September. The cottagers and campers who had livened the district during the summer with laughter and tooting of motor-horns, had, two weeks before, gone home. Their children had to be ready for school. So all had gone—excepting those three or four who could stay on.

For, no matter how enjoyable the summer days in this resort amid the beauties of nature, to most people there is pleasure when the atmosphere takes on a tang of coolness, and the landscape pictures become enhanced as the trees begin to turn, putting on their multi-tinted garbs that come, sometimes one tree at a time, in the lead of Autumn's Caravan. To the lover of out-door life, especially, this time holds the greatest fascination. . . . And so, a few of them, all women, stayed on alone in their respective cabins.

—Sleeping alone, the sole occupant of one such cabin had awakened a couple of hours past midnight, and thinking of the silence and darkness that surrounded her, heard the sound of voices, sometimes distinct, other times muffled and undertone.—It must have been those voices that awakened her, she thought. At times they were drowned by the howling of the wind amongst the dense trees that formed a forest on all sides. They sounded like villainous voices, plotting some foul deed! The lone camper was not without some nervous thrills as she listened and wondered what terrible experience was coming her way. A lonely place for a lone woman at night, most people would think, and especially one who was naturally timid at any time. But she had insisted on staying against the advice of her friends. Now, however, she commenced to feel some regrets. She realized that she had been self-willed.

She strained her ears listening for the ominous voices that seemed to approach nearer with each gust of wind. Her nerves strained to a tenseness as she heard rasping but muffled commands—"Brace your shoulder against the door! Smash it in! Don't let her escape—Have your gag ready! Keep her from squealing—hear me? Yes, the door at the rear, Tim! All set?"—

She held her breath, then thought of the axe she had placed inside the door before going to bed, in readiness for just such a possible contingency. But now, confronted with the need of defending herself—she felt overcome by a physical inability to move, let alone to wield any kind of a weapon. As she stared through the darkness of the cabin towards the windows, and breathlessly awaited the sound of fingers on the latch that would indicate to her the moment for action—to her further horror she saw a dark form moving past the window, against a clear spot in the sky. . . . A door slammed. . . . Windows creaked. . . . Awnings on the verandah flapped and slapped. And the noise of the wind amongst the trees was like the roar of the great Niagara. Terrified, she wondered why she had been so foolish as to stay alone in such a forsaken place, even though the farm-neighbors had assured her it was quite safe. And she had allowed herself to be persuaded, because she had so wanted to stay—to drink to her fill the beauties of colorful mountain scenery. She loved the spot, and the quietness, the refreshing clearness of the atmosphere, the nearness of the clouds, and—the freedom. . . . Instantly, her mind switched to the need of action. She had a flash-light; she would turn it on, into the face of the first villain who appeared at the door, and then strike him over the head with the axe—There was also the little gun, but she had some reticence about using it—Then, too, there was the garden-rake near at hand.—And she thought of the glass container full of gasoline; as a last resort she could hurl that onto the stone steps at his feet and throw after it a lighted match, then make her escape through the door on the opposite side of the cabin. She listened intently for the villains' first touch on the door—listened with loudly beating heart, and cold feet. Her hands, gripping the bed-clothes about her, were wet and cold. She shivered as with ague. She realized that she should be putting on her clothes, that hung across the chair beside the couch where, only a few minutes before, she had been so peacefully sleeping. But—she could not move! She saw another dark form pass the window. How many of them were there, she wondered. She felt petrified. Her mouth was parched. Eyes and ears strained for the next fearful sounds and sights that threatened her. She wondered what their designs might be, and what they were doing out there, they seemed so quiet—Perhaps they were examining the windows and doors.—The wind continued to howl. She could hear her heart beating; she could hear steps—then a crash! The woodpile had tumbled down. They had stumbled against it, surely. Through the windows she could see nothing now but the wind roared even louder than before. Doors creaked and windows continued to rattle. Her nerves had all but snapped. What were those villains doing! She could not stand the suspense much longer without screaming. Again she heard the vibration of foot-steps, stealthy foot-steps that came through the momentary lull of the wind. She listened—and waited—with eyes still staring at the door. . . .

An hour went by, then another hour, and a third hour. She had fainted. The glow of dawn gradually threw into relief the forms that had been obscured by darkness earlier in the night. Her chest ached, perhaps with the strain of that approaching calamity which had threatened her before she had lost consciousness. It all came over her now like a flash.—Had it been a dream? No. . . . but what had happened? Her mind went back to her awful experience, until golden shafts of sunrise pointed over the mountain crest to the east. Dawn, and calm! Tired eyed, she jumped out of the bed-clothes, and as hastily dressed. What a story she had to tell the other campers! But, perhaps they too, had had the

It is a fine plump grain 45 bushels to the acre, having sowed 17 bushels and reaped 322. He sowed three quarters of an acre from which he realized 300 bushels of oats and from 4 bushels of barley he reaped 78.

The St. Simeon's Church concert passed off with great success on the 5th, and thanks were bountifully extended to the artists—Messrs. Bishop, Swails, Stevenson, Duddridge, Francis, Anderson and Furlong, the last two making a great hit with their shadow pantomime, "A Clean Shave".

WOMEN'S INSTITUTES CO-OPERATE WITH LEAGUE OF NATIONS

As a means toward promoting the cause of peace the Women's Institutes of Canada are co-operating with the League of Nations Society in Canada, and the objective is that every Branch shall have a convenor who is a member of the Society of the League of Nations. The membership fee entitles subscribers to the monthly and quarterly publications, and through these it is hoped that a better understanding of the aims of the Society will be reached. It has been said that the League of Nations cannot speak with any authority or significance unless it has adequate funds and a powerful membership. An urgent appeal for both is made on national grounds. The struggle to build a system of peace is a national struggle, and it is to the interest of every Canadian to be in it.

LAUGH A LOT

Laugh a little now and then,
It brightens life a lot;
You can see the funny side
Just as well as not.
Don't go mournfully around,
Gloomy and forlorn;
Try to make your fellow men
Glad that you were born.

Laugh a good deal, if you can,
That is better still;
And you'll find occasion, too,
If you only will Laughing lightens labor some,
When you have to strive;
Laugh and show your fellow men
You're glad to be alive.

Laugh a jolly, hearty laugh,
Till the rafters shake;
There is no better medicine
You can ever take.
Don't you care if some old grouch
Says you make a din—
Good men love a hearty laugh,
And they'll join right in.

United States election campaigns have resulted in a toll of nine dead. Elections should command the study of public safety enthusiasts—along with traffic and industry and international relations.

In a campaign against careless and reckless driving in Montreal, ten thousand motorists have received warnings from the police. A commendable move for public safety, but it might have been easier to present the remaining few with a small recognition for good driving.

A DISINTERESTED ONLOOKER?

Among municipal discussions claiming our attention—which are also those of importance to our readers—it is notable how many of these topics hinge upon the ultimate thought of finance. If departments are not vigorously seeking to augment their revenues, at the other end they are as ardently curtailing their functions to the income at hand.

There was a time of untold prosperity when this aspect of government claimed little attention—so little, in fact, that administrators and taxpayers have reason to regret that happy, foolhardy period. Nowadays, by loan or by levy, our municipalities are concerned to balance their budgets, or at least to minimize their deficits. That thought is first and last, and—as we remarked—it dominates every current idea in civic government.

There is a pathetic figure in the background of this scene. As a human being he is oft times ignored; as a possible saviour of the situation he is heavily overworked; but his feelings command little thought. He is of course, the taxpayer, the one and only resource, whether direct or indirect, for the financing of civic exchequers. A large part of his contribution to government finds outlet in the functions of the municipality.

Our sympathy is with government, which has so much to perform on so limited resources. But it may not be amiss at this time to remind our revenue departments that government is, supposedly, the people. The times have created a mercenary outlook which has relegated the taxpayer to the status of a mere revenue producer. His entity in state affairs is overshadowed by his lucrative possibilities, and he becomes imbued with the essence of humanity and kindness only as election day looms in the offing.

Our picture may be somewhat overdrawn, but the tendency will be generally recognized. It remains to urge upon our municipal friends that the relation between government and the citizen must be considerably upheld. By every means possible the taxpayer must be in the confidence of those who direct the disposition of public funds; he must have opportunity and incentive to learn how and why the spending is done. In one town we notice this was the prime purpose of a recent citizens' meeting, where reports were given and graphs and diagrams shown upon a screen by various commissions of the council, indicating the needs and the results of their expenditures. This may appear a somewhat dramatic gesture, but it is a step in keeping with a current need. The taxpayer is identified with every project in which his earnings are involved, and he must be regarded as a closely interested party. Officials should guard against this attitude, which is becoming undeniably apparent—namely, of assuming that the man-in-the-street has no interest except to rally at the treasurer's desk when taxes fall due.

A MILD DAY IN NOVEMBER

They know not beauty well who do not love. The color-blending of an autumn day: Horizon clouds that mass in violet-gray, Blue of a child's eyes dreaming deep above In mists of pearl as soft as ever dove. Was breasted with, and browns that dim away From lighter tones of withered grass and clay To the rich umber of a purpling grove. Spring colors shout, but gently-hinted hues Like these can make us listen, till we hear The monologue of winds that vaguely muse, Treble of sparrows twittering faintly clear, And lisp of falling leafage as it strews A motley coverlet for the slumbering year.

—Charles Wharton Stork.

THE DEAD

Blow out, you bugles, over the rich dead!
There's none of these so lonely and poor of old,
But, dying, has made us rarer gifts than gold.
These laid the world away; poured out the red Sweet wine of youth; gave up the years to be
Of work and joy, and that unhelped serene,
That men call age; and those who would have been
Their sons, they gave, their immortality.
Blow, bugles, blow! They brought us, for our dearth,
Holiness, lacked so long, and Love, and Pain.
Honour has come back, as a king, to earth,
And paid his subjects with a royal wage;
And nobleness walks in our ways again;
And we have come into our heritage.

The Ottawa Spotlight

By Wilfrid Eggleston

Ottawa, November 6.—As soon as the Stevens commission got under way Ottawa began again to hear the old sad story, of the primary producer, slaving away for a mere pittance of $200., $300. and $400. a year, attempting to raise and educate a family and maintain his equipment on this meagre sum. Of fish yielding the fisherman one or two cents a pound and then appearing in the retailer's shop a little while later with the price raised to 15 or 20 cents a pound. Of amalgamations of distributors reaching the stage where a virtual monopoly exists, and there is no competition or bidding for the product. It is the same story as we heard about milk eighteen months ago, about cattle and tobacco and canned tomatoes and pork at the last session. The old disparity between those who create new wealth by the sweat of the brow and those who merely add to the original wealth by their distributive skill. Everyone knows that it is just as essential a part of merchandising to retail and distribute as it is to produce the commodity in the first place, but it has come to be an outrage, the way the original producer is driven to take what little is left, if any, when the distributive costs are deducted from the selling price. Why, out of a 20 cents a pound for fish, only one cent should go to the man who went out to the hazard of his life in all kinds of weather to garner it in from the sea passes my understanding—and I think most everybody else's.

What of Mr. Stevens?

Meantime, what of the gentleman whose name will cling to the inquiry no matter who sits in the chairman's seat? Hon. Harry Stevens, —the unselfish champion of the downtrodden and oppressed, or the hot-headed and unjust prosecutor of business? Was his dramatic departure from the government a noble sacrifice for a principle, or was it a hard-headed and far-sighted bid for the leadership of the Conservative party? I list these contrasting viewpoints because I hear them every day at the capital. If you want my own private conviction, it is that Mr. Stevens has been moved to the depths by some of the ghastly revelations of our industrial scene, and has been led to cast caution to the winds. Underneath and back of it all, may be the realization that Canada is full of people clamoring for courageous leadership against exploitation and sweatshop labour. But if Mr. Stevens feels capable of supplying such leadership, and is prepared to pay the price, then there are plenty of people ready to excuse any ambitions he may entertain in that direction. At the moment, Stevens is out, and his former colleagues are in. But if you were to ask me which of the present cabinet was surest of reelection next summer, I should not have to hesitate long for a reply.

The Breach Won't Heal

After the exchange of fiery compliments between Mr. Stevens and his prime minister, I don't think there is any possibility of the breach being healed. Instead it is likely to grow more serious. Mr. Stevens plans to go on talking, and now that his responsibilities have been lightened, he is likely to be more outspoken than ever. He is likely to say a lot more things of an annoying character, so far as business interests are concerned. He is likely to exasperate Mr. Bennett and his colleagues still further. There is some talk among the more reactionary members of the Conservative party of ejecting him from the fold. But surely the Conservatives haven't completely lost their political instincts. To drive Mr. Stevens across the floor of the House would be a foolhardy business, because he might take two or three others with him. I can imagine Jimmy Stott of Selkirk (Man.), Percy Davies of northern Alberta (Athabaska) and even possibly Mr. Ernst of Nova Scotia electing to accompany Mr. Stevens. And a thing of that kind tends to grow. But

MEN'S SUPPER MEETING IN LACHUTE

A Men's Supper Meeting for the Northern Section of the Presbytery of Montreal was held in the hall of Lachute United Church on Tuesday evening, November 6th. Representatives were present from Arundel, Avoca, Brownsburg, Cushing, St. Andrews East and Point Fortune, Ste. Therese and St. Eustache, and, of course, Lachute.

A splendid supper was provided by the ladies of the Lachute Women's Missionary Society. The speakers were Mr. Guy Tombs, chairman of the Missionary and Maintenance Committee of the Presbytery, Mr. Lawrence Tombs, who, since 1929, has been in the secretariat of the League of Nations at Geneva, and Dr. Robt. Laird, Treasurer of the United Church of Canada.

Mr. Tombs Sr. spoke in appreciative terms of the generous support which has been given by the congregations in this area to the Missionary and Educational work of the church and expressed the hope that, when the need is so great, there would be no falling off in this respect. Mr. Lawrence Tombs told of religious conditions as he had observed them in Geneva, and referred particularly to the fine Christian character of many of the recognized leaders in the League of Nations Organization. Dr. Laird gave a comprehensive review of the great redemptive and ameliorative enterprises, at home and abroad, which are being carried on under the auspices of the United Church. He challenged the men to stand loyally by the church during these critical years.

A vote of thanks to the speakers, and the ladies who provided the supper, was moved by Rev. John Macaskill, of St. Andrews East, seconded by Rev. J. T. Conn, of Avoca, and passed with much enthusiasm.

cities will contribute to it.

Toronto will open the program with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra. Halifax, the ancient port from which so many units of the Canadian forces proceeded overseas, will come in next with Fred Newnam, talented Maritime baritone, in "The Menin Gate." Then will follow Quebec City with the band of the famous Royal 22nd. Regiment and a word of greeting to veterans of the War by the beloved padre, the Venerable Archdeacon Scott. Ottawa will come next to the network with a remembrance message from the Prime Minister, The Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett.

The transcontinental transmission wires will then be reversed to bring in Vancouver. The Vancouver Theatre of the Air will present a short dramatic sketch entitled, "November the Twelfth." The network jumps the mountain peaks to pick up from Calgary a solo, and Saskatoon will be heard through the voices of the Canadian Legion Male Voice Choir in Collingwood's "Requiem" and Perry's "Jerusalem." Winnipeg will follow with the Manitoba Command Orchestra playing "The March Heroic" by Saint-Saens.

The elaborate program will be concluded with a brief ceremony of solemn commemoration from Ottawa. Leslie Chance will read an appropriate text from Ecclesiasticus, then the Last Post, then a brief period of silence, Leslie Chance again, reciting from Binyon's "They Shall Grow Not Old," Reveille, the choir and orchestra in "The Strife is O'er, the Battle Done."

The Rexall Doll Contest at Beaton's Pharmacy has aroused the interest of children in this vicinity. The prizes are of the highest quality and well worth striving for.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, November 11th., is "Adam and Fallen Man."

The Golden Text is: "He that cometh from above is above all; he that is of the earth is earthly, and speaketh of the earth." (John 3 : 31).

The following correlative passages are selected from among those comprised in the Lesson-Sermon to be read from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy :

"That which is born of the flesh is flesh; and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit." "For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive." (John 3 : 6 and Corinthians 15 : 22).

"The Son of the Virgin-mother unfolded the remedy for Adam, or error; . . . Through discernment of the spiritual opposite of materiality, even the way through Christ, Truth, man will re-open with the key of divine Science the gates of Paradise which human beliefs have closed, and will find himself unfallen, upright, pure, and free." (Science and Health, pp. 534, 171.)

Have you secured your ticket yet for the Concert in Lachute Auditorium on Saturday night? Don't forget that the object is a worthy one, inasmuch as the members of our Lachute Brass Band are devoting much time and service to community interests. Mr. Guenette, to whom the town is indebted for bringing the band along to its present appreciable stage, is worthy of all praise for his painstaking leadership, and it is to be hoped that the public will rally to their support in this, their first real concert to provide funds for carrying on their work.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE MRS. N. McKERACHER

The funeral of Jane Todd McKeracher, widow of the late Nicholas McKeracher, was largely attended on Tuesday afternoon at the St. Andrews Presbyterian Church, where the service was conducted by Rev. Dr. Ballantyne, assisted by Rev. H. Cousens and Rev. Rev. W. B. Rosborough.

The late Jane Todd was born at Upper Lachute in 1856, and was married to Mr. McKeracher some 30 years ago; her husband predeceased her. They resided in St. Andrews, where the deceased won affection and esteem; she is mourned throughout the community.

She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. D. Currie, of Montreal, and Mrs. J. P. MacKimmie of Lachute, also four brothers, David and Robt. Todd of this town, John of St. Jerome, and Henry of Vancouver.

Mrs. McKeracher had been ill for two months preceding her death, which occurred at the home of her brother, Robt. Todd, with whom she had resided of late. Pall bearers were her six nephews, and interment was made at St. Andrews Cemetery following the funeral service.

and thus "kill" the town. Through the agency of a young lady whose identity is not quite known, but who also has financial interests in the welfare of Eureka, the editor's debt is lifted. Freed of his servility, he employs his columns to ruin the oppressor and to boost the town once again. The villains of the plot fade out and everyone is happy in their humiliation. As the town of Eureka comes into its own, the scene closes with the high-powered publicity salesman proclaiming the merits of his system, to which he credits the building of communities and the salvation of civilization.

Piano selections were provided during intervals between the acts, and following the performance dancing was continued for a time, to the accompaniment of an orchestra. The St. Simeon's Players were generally gratified with the result of the evening, which netted proceeds around $145.

It was found necessary to abbreviate last week's report of the Annual W.C.T.U. Convention, and in doing so we omitted to mention a piano solo by Buddie Elliott of Westmount, which was the opening feature of the "Children's Hour." Master Elliott is known to residents in Cushing.

In connection with the memorial gathering in the Park after Sunday morning church services, it is suggested to citizens wishing to dedicate flowers to the memory of friends or relatives who fell in the War—this would be an appropriate hour in which to deposit such tributes at the monument.

RADIO UNITY

The radio should be a factor in promoting world peace. When we hear programmes, and specially the public events programmes of other countries, it leaves us with a feeling of friendliness. I have a strong British feeling at any time but it is never so stirringly manifest as after a British broadcast. The news-reel must play its part too. A greater understanding of other peoples must make for peace. I get a great kick out of seeing events on the news-reel that I have already heard over the radio. The launching of the Queen Mary was the last one I heard and then saw. It was thrilling to hear the King and Queen at the actual launching and then to see them, and to hear again the words that had come over the radio, was most interesting. One of the pleasing factors of The Radio Commission programmes is the fact that your friends in different parts of Canada are probably listening to the same programmes. I heard a young girl, who is going to school almost 3000 miles from home, wonder if her Mother and Daddy had heard a programme to which she had just been listening.

SOMETIMES THE CHILD KNOWS BEST

Most parents feel that they are always right and that the children cannot ever know what is best to do. It is a wise parent who recognizes that there are situations in which the child knows best. I watched the following situation develop and admired the mother's attitude. The mother wished to send a cake to the school and wanted it carefully handled to arrive in perfect condition. So she suggested that the boy, who is at the age when daily fights are a real joy, take the cake by a slightly different route than his usual way to school. He immediately objected. She thought that perhaps because it was a little longer, was his reason for objecting and so she showed that the difference was very slight. Still he objected. Then she told him that she did not want him to go down their own street as the children were all out playing and it might be difficult to get by with the cake intact. Still he objected. Finally he gave his reason. The boys on the other street were sure to be out and he had a fight every day for a week with that gang. He added that if she wanted her cake to get there safely she had better let him go his own way. The mother thought for a moment and decided that the boy knew more about it than she did, so she told him to do as he liked. After he went out, someone asked her if she did not think she was weakening discipline by changing her mind and letting the child do as he wanted to do. Her answer to that, was that she felt the boy knew more about it than she did. Later we went to the school and we found that the enemy gang were out in full force. The cake arrived in perfect condition.

I HAVE BEEN ASKED

Does a child ever drink too much milk? Yes. Milk is a most valuable food but one can have too much of a good thing. The situation frequently arises with a small child who is accustomed to milk, likes it, and refuses to eat solid food. It is a false kindness to allow this to continue as milk alone is not enough to provide all the proper constituents. It may seem cruel to allow the child to go hungry but it really will not hurt it to miss a meal or two until it is hungry enough to eat the despised solid food. This situation can usually be avoided if at the age of six months solid foods are given to the child. Start with very small amounts until the baby has become accustomed to them. It may seem ridiculous to give a baby a half-teaspoonful of a new food for the first few times; hardly worth the bother. It is a wise precaution as the baby becomes accustomed to the taste, and what is almost more important, to the feel of new food. If this is done and the amount increased gradually there is seldom any difficulty over solid foods.

Sometimes the older child drinks too much milk. He is fond of milk and drinks so much through his meal that his appetite for food is appeased and there is no room left in his tummy. It may sound paradoxical, but a child is sometimes too thin because he drinks too much milk. The way to avoid this is to keep the milk until the end of the meal. When he has eaten all he can then he may have all the milk he wishes.

PEANUT BUTTER COOKIES

- 1 cup white sugar
- 1 cup brown sugar
- 1 cup shortening
- 1 egg
- 1 cup peanut butter
- 2 tablespoons soda dissolved in 1 tablespoon water
- 3 1/4 cups flour

Cream shortening, peanut butter and sugar, add eggs, soda and sifted flour. Pinch off a piece of dough the size of a walnut, press down with fork two ways. Bake for ten minutes in a moderate oven of 350 degrees.

MUSHROOMS A LA KING

- 1 1/2 cups mushrooms
- 2 cups milk
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 3 hard-cooked eggs
- 1 cup cooked celery
- 1/4 cup sliced stuffed olives
- 1/4 cup grated cheese

Melt butter and cook the chopped mushrooms in it until brown. Then blend in flour and add milk slowly, stirring constantly and cook until thickened. Add the remaining ingredients and heat. Serve in pattie shells or on toast.

EARLY DEFIANCE OF LAW

(Lethbridge Herald)

The riding of bicycles on the sidewalks has become a regular practice, and it is well to see the police taking steps to stop it. As it is youngsters, think nothing of riding their bicycles on the sidewalks in defiance of the prohibition. It is not a good mental attitude for the young to take in this early defiance of the law, and for this reason alone this should be brought home to them by impounding their bicycles for a period.

MAYOR ASKS RESPECT FOR NATIONAL ANTHEM

Acting upon the trend of discussion at a recent meeting of the Remembrance Day Committee, Mayor Stewart suggested that persons who fail to remove their hats or stand still when the National Anthem is played at public gatherings be "respectfully advised" by bystanders that it is the custom of Toronto citizens to do so on such occasions. Comment had also been made at the meeting, said His Worship, on the confusion caused among listeners when bands played "medleys of National Airs"; in which a few bars of "God Save the King" occurred.

SCHOOLGROUNDS AND UGLINESS

Planting a few trees and shrubs is such an extremely simple affair and the result of such obvious advantage that one wonders why so many thousands of town and rural schoolhouses remain today as bare of green growth as when their foundations were laid.

Countless teachers give lessons in 'Nature Study' in classrooms that look out over bare commons. They instruct their pupils in tree identification, they fill the blackboard with outlines of leaves, and require their classes to sing lustily of the maple-leaf-forever, when the nearest leaf is far away on a neighbor's farm or in a town garden. All of us have seen schoolgrounds that have persisted in their piece of pasture through enough generations to have grown a sixty foot forest.

The Canadian Forestry Association has been able to effect this lamentable situation to a minor degree by showing some thousands of teachers the value of tree life on schoolgrounds. In the prairie west, the efforts of the Association's Tree Planting Car have been notably successful for hundreds of teachers and their classes receive direct instruction from the Car and have applied it to the great benefit of schoolgrounds and municipal parks. The proper handling of the problem, however, can come only through action by the Departments of Education. It is not necessary to do more than supply teachers and school boards with periodical instruction in the planting up of the grounds, the value of trees for shade and for attracting bird life, together with the methods of transplanting seedlings from a neighboring grove to the new site.

"FEAR GRIPPED"

same experience. She would know soon.

When she went outside to bring the eatables for her breakfast, she noticed that the wood-pile had fallen, and the basket of potato peelings was turned upside down, empty, with not a sign of peelings in sight. Cow-tracks were distinctly visible. Hall's cows, she decided. But this did not explain all. She went across to her neighbor's cabin, to relate her night's experience, and she noted that Mrs. Sponger's eyes looked as if she, too, had been awake all night. But, before she had a chance to say anything, Mrs. Sponger began: "Did you hear that darn radio across the way — going all night! Gee, they must be fond of detective yarns. Might at least close their windows and let others sleep who want to! It's either their dog barking, or their radio, or something else to keep people awake — darn!" — exploded the irate Mrs. Sponger, who usually did as she liked herself, regardless of her neighbors' comfort. "Dang thing, there should be laws regulating radios in the country as well as in the cities!" continued the woman in high-gear monologue.

"You're right, Mrs. Sponger!" answered the relieved spinster at length; she had been gripped so hard with fear in the night, that she could afford to feel tolerant of anything now that it had all passed by so easily.

"Some people are more than kept awake by those detective stories over the radio, as well as by cows, and wind, and rain, and—in fact, few people know just how disturbing those things can be, especially in the dead of night when a woman is all alone in a place like this," added the spinster, sympathetically but with mental reservations. Then she hastened away to get breakfast for herself. When she went outside after breakfast to repile the fallen wood, she remarked that, after all, the villains she had seen passing in the night were only the tall pointed cedar trees outside her window. Hall's cows! The radio! Those trees! And, the wind! Villains, all! And she laughed.

BE KIND TODAY

Be kind today. There are many things to do. A word of cheer for those who battle through. The many cares which come upon our way. A gentle deed will ever live. Be kind today. The angels look and smile. When loving words make someone's life worth while. Sadness in this world would never stay before the drifting hours. Be kind today. Who knows where we will be—One minute here, the next eternity. Hours, like the roses, quickly pass away. Don't wait for the setting sun. Be kind today.

ENVIRONMENT THEORY UPHELD BY ROOSTER

A large white rock rooster at the farm of Jasper Fox in the State of Iowa has scored a point for the affirmative in that long standing debate "environment vs. heredity."

The rooster apparently is confident it is a pheasant. It walks like one, tries to fly like one, and doesn't even know it is supposed to crow, according to members of the Fox family.

When approached it crouches down, takes wing with a perfect pheasant start, gets a few feet in the air and then crashes to the ground.

After a hasty glance around it darts off at a stiff-legged gait into a brush pile and crouches silently.

The rooster is the foster son of a pheasant hen who this spring routed a farm hen from a stolen nest, and brought forth six rock chicks. None but the rooster survived the wild life.

DISTRICT NEWS

ST. ANDREWS EAST

Much interest is being shown in the newly formed Historical Society, and all are looking forward to Rev. Father Brosseau's address on Saturday evening. The Society has a great number of charter members already throughout the County. Credit is due to Dr. Wales for the formation of this important group.

A special Armistice Service will be held in the Presbyterian Church on Sunday morning. The evening service will be in charge of The Young People's Society of the Lachute Presbyterian Church, and Rev. H. Cousens, Moderator of the Presbytery, will preach the sermon.

Messrs. Arthur and T. Fuller, of Ottawa, were the guests of Dr. and Mrs. Ballantyne on Monday.

The young people presenting the Musical Comedy in the Presbyterian Church Hall on Friday evening will wear the dress of the early Victorian period. The play promises to be most amusing and entertaining. Miss Doig, Convenor of Group No. 1, and her workers, are to be congratulated on its production.

We are glad to report, that Mr. Norman Bradley, who is a patient in Royal Victoria Hospital, is making a good recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Elder and family, of Hudson, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Elder.

The funeral of the late Mrs. N. McKeracher was held in the Presbyterian Church on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. McKeracher was a life long resident in this community, and was greatly respected and loved by all who knew her. She was a woman of sterling character, and she will be greatly missed.

Mr. John Muir left on Tuesday to spend the winter with his son, Cameron, in Beauharnois.

CUSHING

Miss Margaret Stephen and Miss Maude Mumford, of Ottawa, were Saturday guests of the Misses Christie and Margaret Graham.

Mrs. James Pack, of Seattle, U.S.A., is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Ida Douglas.

Rev. J. Macaskill, of St. Andrews East, had charge of the service in St. Mungo's Church on Sunday.

The Women's Missionary Society of St. Mungo's meets on Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 13th., at the home of Mrs. S. O. Hartley. Roll Call word, "Virtue".

Miss Ivy Graham spent the week-end with her parents; Miss Elsie spent Saturday at home and Sunday at the home of Mrs. J. Neild, of L'Orignal, Ont.

Mrs. S. Kinnaird and daughters, of Hawkesbury, were week-end guests of her sister, Miss Annie Weir.

Miss Maude Warwick is the guest of her cousin, Mrs. T. W. Weir, this week.

A very enjoyable evening was spent by all who gathered in Cushing Community Hall on Friday evening to see Miss M. Douglas' display of Travel Movies. The old castles and cathedrals interested the history lovers, and the pictures of the London horse show and animals in the Zoo delighted all.

"Darling, am I the first man you ever loved?"

"Yes, all the others were fraternity boys."

CUSHING WEST

Dr. Cushing visited his residence here last Sunday.

Mrs. Usher is spending the week in Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Robinson, of Montreal, were week-end guests of Mrs. S. O. Hartley. Mr. Douglas Hartley was also a guest of his mother on Sunday.

Miss Eileen Smith, of Montreal, spent the week-end here as a guest of Mrs. Usher.

Guests at the home of Mr. E. Whelehan on Sunday were his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. S. Whelehan, of Montreal, Miss Helen Maguire, Mr. Eddie Whelehan and Mr. Gerald Lalumiere, of Valleyfield.

Mrs. Geo. Wishart, who with her three little daughters has been the guest for some weeks of her mother, Mrs. Usher, left on Sunday for Ste. Anne de Bellevue, where she and her husband have taken up their residence for the winter while the latter is taking a post-graduate course at Macdonald College. Mr. Wishart is also engaged in research work for the Entomological Branch of the Department of Agriculture, which is at present occupied in the culture of parasites to destroy the pests preying on the spruce trees of the province.

News has been received by her friends here of the marriage, on Oct. 18th., of Mrs. Grace McRae of Black River Bridge, N.B., to Mr. Malcolm McNaughton of the same place. The bride was, previous to her first marriage, Miss Grace Fraser, only daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. James Fraser of St. Mungo's Church, Cushing, and there are many in this community who will extend to herself and her husband many wishes for happiness and prosperity.

GRENVILLE NORTH

Mr. Wm. Stewart spent several days in Montreal recently.

Mr. George Perks of St. Andrews East, was a recent visitor of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Murray.

Messrs. William and Hugh Cousins, also Mr. Eddie Stewart, spent Friday last in Ottawa.

Miss Gladys Rainey has returned to her home here from Montreal.

Mrs. E. D. Chantel and Miss Chantel were welcome visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Johnson recently.

Mr. Frank Fchette, of Brownsburg, accompanied by Mr. Leo Fchette of this place, motored to their home in Boileau recently and attended the wedding reception of a friend.

We welcome Mr. Robt. Miller of Lachute as teacher of the Rawcliffe School, in the absence of his sister, owing to illness. The community wishes her a safe recovery.

SOURD ON THE WORLD?—THAT'S LIVER

Wake up your Liver Bile—No Calomel necessary

Many people who feel sour, sluggish and generally wretched make the mistake of taking salts, oil, mineral water, laxative candy or chewing gum, or roughage which only move the bowels and ignore the liver. What you need is to wake up your liver bile. Start your liver pouring the daily two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels. Get your stomach and intestines working as they should, once more. Carter's Little Liver Pills will soon fix you up. Purely vegetable. Safe. Sure. Quick. Ask for them by name. Refuse substitutes. 25c. at all druggists.

OSCAR MORIN TAX ADVISER FOR MONTREAL

Oscar Morin, K.C., who was Deputy Minister of Municipal Affairs and chairman of the Quebec Municipal Commission, has accepted the appointment to be one of the expert tax advisers of the City of Montreal. His task will be to study in conjunction with Thomas Bradshaw and Dr. H. L. Brittain, both of Toronto, already engaged by the City authorities as experts, the best means of increasing the revenues of the City of Montreal.

QUEBEC CITY BONDS AWARDED TO SYNDICATE

Sale of a $3,699,000 bond issue was made by the City of Quebec to a syndicate headed by the Banque Canadienne Nationale.

The issue is in two lots, one of $1,121,000 at four per cent. repayable in series over a five-year period at 99.05, and the other, one of $2,578,000 at 4½ per cent. repayable in 16 years at 98.18. Average interest charge for the total issue to the city is calculated at 4.53 per cent.

The last City of Quebec loan floated in June, 1933, was for 5 per cent. bonds repayable in five years. That issue was sold at 99 so the interest rate to the city was 5.25 per cent.

CLOSING OF A & P STORES IN CLEVELAND

MANAGEMENT STATES FACTS OF THE CASE

In connection with the recent closing of A & P stores in Cleveland, the management has issued the following statement for publication:

The Company wants to make it clear at the outset that the difficulty was not between the A & P and its employees. Its employees were not discontinued. The trouble arose after the Cleveland Federation of Labor had failed to organize Cleveland A & P managers and clerks. As far as A & P knows only a very few of its 2200 former Cleveland employees had shown any interest in the proposed union. Nevertheless, numerous Cleveland unionists, none of whom represented A & P employees, picketed A & P warehouses and prevented deliveries to the stores.

The only demand made on A & P came after the picketing began. The union leaders then demanded that A & P unionize its employees in Cleveland 100 p.c. In view of the extremely small number who had showed any interest in the proposals of the labor organizers, A & P refused to take an active part in the coercion of its 2200 men by a mere handful. At a mass meeting of A & P managers and clerks held in Cleveland, it was said that the Federation had been able to interest only 40 men.

Efforts to maintain business operations in the face of this picketing led to violence because the stores did not obtain the necessary protection from the city. After more than a week of continuous appeals to the various local authorities without result, officials of the Company decided to abandon its Cleveland business in order to prevent further violence.

Following, 700 of A & P's former Cleveland employees held a meeting on their own initiative and signed a petition to Mayor Davis of Cleveland reading as follows:

"We, the undersigned, being managers and clerks of the stores operated by The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company in Greater Cleveland, hereby present to the public our side of the controversy which has resulted in the closing of the A & P Stores.

"We never at any time have had any trouble with our employer as to our salaries or working conditions, and there has never been any coercion on the part of the Company as to collective bargaining; and we feel that an injustice has been done, both to the Company and to ourselves, by the order to close the stores.

"We stand ready to serve the public and our Company with the same loyalty as we have done in the past."

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company deeply regrets that it was forced to end a pleasant relationship with the Cleveland public that had lasted fifty years and to dismiss loyal employees in whom it was deeply interested.

ALBERTA TO TEST HEALTH INSURANCE

Trial periods of health insurance systems operating in two districts of Alberta would result in the greatest degree of accuracy in striking cost estimates and would be preliminary steps in what is proposed as eventually becoming a provincial-wide scheme, it was decided by a group of men and women interested in the establishing of health insurance in Alberta. The group met under the auspices of the Alberta Department of Health. It was considered that the work of the Health Insurance Commission had reached the stage where it is now prepared for experimentation. Actual tests in one rural and one urban unit will likely be the next move in developing the system in Alberta, they asserted.

STUDY PUTS STRAIN ON YOUR CHILDREN

During School Days They Need Extra Nourishment

During the long school year, many children become pale, thin and tired. The strain of study is too great for the growing child in many cases. Thousands of mothers give to their children Father John's Medicine regularly.

It supplies the vitamins which they do not always get in their daily diet. Its special value is due to the fact that its basis is medicinal cod liver oil blended in a scientific way with other valuable ingredients easy to digest. Start giving it to your children today. Used in institutions and thousands of homes.

surely all this is the stuff that dreams are made of. I can't visualize such a political blunder as the ejection of Mr. Stevens from the party. But I have to confess that I couldn't visualize the ejection of Mr. Stevens from the cabinet. Right up to the event of the actual resignation I dismissed it as one of those political suicides which no government would commit.

Oh, well, we're sure of a lively session. The conference on the constitution is being postponed indefinitely. I'm afraid with the political atmosphere what it is, that is equivalent to abandonment. It's a pity, with Quebec prepared to co-operate, and the job of revising the B.N.A. so seriously needed.

Mr. Milton Dawson motored out from the city on Saturday last and spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Dawson, at Mille Isles.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Elliott, Mrs. W. J. Rodgers, Mr. W. Elliott, Mrs. J. D. Campbell, Mrs. Matthew Rodgers and son, Mr. Russell Rodgers, were Sunday visitors at Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dawson's, motoring recently from Lachute.

Mr. Hugh Riddell is home from hospital. To him and his sister, Miss Jane Riddell, their friends express wishes for many years of health, in their new home.

ANTIGONISH, NOVA SCOTIA

Name Has Strange Origin

Populated by French Acadians prior to 1784, the first British settlement was effected by disbanded soldiers of the Royal Regiment of Nova Scotia Volunteers. In the years 1795 and 1796, Highland Scottish immigrants settled along the coast from Merigomish to Antigonish and continued in subsequent years.

More than a century ago, Antigonish was known as Dorchester, and was situated partly in Halifax county and partly in Sydney. The name Antigonish was given to the county in 1863. Antigonish comes from a Micmac Indian word meaning "the place where branches are torn off the trees by bears gathering beechnuts".

IN MEMORIAM

BROWN—In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Richard Brown, who departed this life on Nov. 8, 1933.

Father dear we think of you,
 And think of how you died—
 To think you could not say good-bye

Before you closed your eyes
 No-one knows a father's worth Until he's taken from this earth;

But when we see your picture
 A smile just seems to say,
 'Do not weep for me dear family,

We shall meet again some day'.

YOUR GROCER HAS THIS SUNNY WAY TO BETTER HEALTH

Check Common Constipation with a Delicious Cereal

Food has a lot to do with how you feel and how you look. For instance, you need plenty of "bulk" with your meals to avoid the risk of common constipation.

This ailment frequently causes headaches, loss of appetite and energy. Yet, in most cases, it can be overcome pleasantly and safely by eating a delicious cereal.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes "bulk" in convenient and concentrated form. Laboratory tests show the "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is safe and effective. In fact, it is much like that found in leafy vegetables.

Within the body, the fiber of ALL-BRAN absorbs moisture, and forms a soft mass. Gently, this clears out the intestinal wastes.

In addition, ALL-BRAN provides vitamin B and iron.

Isn't this sunny way better than taking patent medicines—so often harmful? Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal. If seriously ill, see your doctor. ALL-BRAN makes no claim to be a "cure-all."

Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or cook into appetizing recipes. Be sure you get Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It contains much more needed "bulk" than part-bran products. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY MEETING WELL ATTENDED

GATHERING HEARD INTERESTING SPEAKERS

The Historical Society of the County of Argenteuil was officially launched in a public meeting held in the Town Hall, St. Andrews East, on Saturday evening last. There was a good attendance, and there was manifested a real interest, which must have been truly gratifying to Dr. B. N. Wales, Dr. Maude Abbott, Mrs. W. Windsor, Mrs. G. F. Kuhring and others who have devoted their time in bringing about the formation of this organization that will prove its worth as the years go by.

President Dr. B. N. Wales briefly outlined the objects of the Society, being ably assisted by Mrs. G. Kuhring, following which most interesting addresses were given by Mr. and Mrs. Kains of Ottawa, and also by Rev. Father Delude, the local curé, who in absence of Rev. Father Brosseau of Grenville, made an eloquent appeal in both languages for whole-hearted support of the work.

A circular from the Executive of the Historical Society of Argenteuil County has been addressed to the descendants of the pioneers of the County of Argenteuil far and near, and to those of the families of the later generation, who for a full half century, made the Seigneurie of Argenteuil and historic St. Andrews the radiant and radiating centre of lower Ottawa Valley civilization.

It is the purpose of this Association, now incorporated by Act of Parliament, to establish a Bureau for the preservation of historical documents, genealogical records and the biographies of the Sons of Argenteuil who have served their country with distinction and reflected honour to their native heath.

A further objective is to awaken and foster an interest in local antiquarian research, to secure for our beloved County the place it deserves in Canadian History of early colonial days, and finally to lay the foundation for a County Historical Museum.

To these ends an invitation is extended the public to share in

SILENT BILL BIDDLE ON "DOES CRIME PAY?"

Taking as the title for his addresses, the question, "Does Crime Pay?", "Silent Bill" Biddle, once an outlaw, and for eighteen years an inmate of a prison, is touring the country as a sort of evangelist to preach the gospel that crime does not pay, can not pay, and that parents and others should rouse themselves to see that boys are started and kept on the right track so that crime cannot recruit its army from the ranks of the young as it is doing so largely today.

Mr. Biddle is on his third annual tour of Canada and in his coast to coast portrayal of prison life has made a very decided impression wherever he has appeared.

He will speak at the Auditorium, Lachute, on Sunday evening at 8.30 o'clock following the Church services, which will enable interested listeners to attend from among the various congregations. In his address he will answer the questions, "Why are there prison riots?" "Will the lash stop crime?" "Why are so many youths in prison today?" and other vital queries. It may be noted that Mr. Biddle's address has been endorsed by the churches, the press, the police and civic organizations. He also shows the most wonderful set of prison pictures ever presented. Children will be admitted with adults only. A silver offering will be taken.

its interests, by contributing as far as possible towards the proposed archives of this organization. As the membership is not confined to residents of the County, and as the record of Charter Members will remain open until the close of the year, it may be noted that everyone has the opportunity to become Charter Members and have their names inscribed on the Charter Scroll, by simply sending them with the annual membership fee of 50 cents, to Mrs. Walter Windsor, Secretary Treasurer.

This ornamented Charter Scroll embossed in heavy script is in course of preparation, and will adorn the walls of the future Museum. In this effort to keep perennial the memories of the past, the Society hopes for wide co-operation.

Reference was particularly made to the splendid contribution, and historic interest aroused by Dr. Wales through the publication of his book, "Memories of Old St. Andrews," which is now nearing completion and will be issued before the close of this month.

It is proposed, in the very near future, to hold a series of public meetings throughout the County, due notice of which will be given.

HUNDRED AUTOS IN DISTRESS ON HIGHWAY

MANY ACCIDENTS ON STE. AGATHE ROUTE

No fewer than one hundred automobiles featured in week-end accidents on the Ste. Agathe highway, which is treacherous in weather such as experienced in the locality this week.

Despite the extraordinary number of accidents there were no casualties.

Most mishaps occurred below the famous Cote du Sauvage, where the roadway was covered with two or three inches of snow. There were between six and seven inches of snow on the highway in the vicinity of St. Jovite.

Traffic officers were called repeatedly to the scenes of collisions and mishaps. When they discovered that an automobile had been ditched or in a collision, they signalled to stop passing traffic to avoid possible serious accidents. But when these vehicles were signalled to stop they in turn would skid on the highway and take the ditch.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCY. HELD BANQUET

The Young People's Society of the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church, Lachute, held their third Annual Banquet on Friday, Nov. 9th. A large number of guests and members attended, and the turkey supper and excellent programme were thoroughly enjoyed.

A pianoforte solo by Miss E. Bruce, a guitar duet by Mr. Colin Copeland and Mr. Gerald Walker, and a solo by Miss Helen McFaul, constituted the really talented part of the musical programme. A sing-song which followed later gave every one an opportunity of expressing himself and of contributing to the general light-heartedness of the evening.

The speaker, Rev. Dr. McIvor, of Montreal, gave the meeting his impression of "People I have Met on the Train." He pointed out the different types of Canadians, and his interesting address brought to a close a most enjoyable affair.

NARROW ESCAPE IN CROSSING ACCIDENT

BREAD TRUCK HIT BY TRAIN

The Harrison Bakery truck, driven by Mr. Dumoulin, local salesman, came to grief at the C.P.R. crossing adjacent to the Park in Lachute on Tuesday morning. Due to the slippery condition of Main Street following the night's snowfall, it appears that Dumoulin applied his brakes but was unable to stop before he reached the track, and the front of his truck was hit by the east-bound local at around 8.30 o'clock. The front of the truck was torn off and hurled some fifty feet along the embankment; the machine, although thrown to the side of the road, did not overturn. The driver was fortunate in escaping without injury.

AUTOS COLLIDED AT VACHON'S CORNER

Another automobile crash occurred on the slippery roads last Tuesday, about noon, near Vachon's Corner, on the St. Philippe highway. Mr. Vachon's car was struck by a machine traveling east, bearing a Maine license, which, it is stated, in swerving aside to make way for the local car, skidded into it broadside, with considerable force. Mrs. Vachon, riding in her husband's car, suffered minor cuts about the face, and the cars were badly damaged.

DAGENAIS TRIAL DATE AGAIN CHANGED

Following announcement that the celebrated Raymond trial would be postponed until next January, counsel for Mde. Dagenais, the defendant, entered protest. As a result the case will now be heard at Hull on Nov. 26th., at the Criminal Assizes. This is according to the latest announcement—which it seems, however, in the pursuit of justice is always subject to change and amendment.

ZEAL AND REVERENCE SHOWN IN INTERNATIONAL OBSERVANCE OF ARMISTICE

ARDOR FOR WORLD PEACE SUPERSEDING MEMORIES OF WAR

An outstanding feature of the sixteenth observance of Armistice Day on Sunday last was the international radio-broadcast by leaders of world thought, given under the auspices of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. Sir John Simon, British Secretary for Foreign Affairs; Dr. Eduard Benes, Czechoslovakian Foreign Minister and president of the Council of the League of Nations; Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, of Canada; Dr. Alfranco de Mello Franco, one-time Brazilian Foreign Affairs Minister, and Prince Tokugawa, formerly president of the Japanese House of Peers, were the speakers. Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of the endowment and head of Columbia University, presided.

Sir John Simon in his radio address declared that peace was "a supreme need of the world, beside which other things fade into nothing."

To make peace secure, he continued, co-operative effort is needed. This co-operation is had in Europe in the League of Nations, he held. At the same time Sir John deprecated talk of the horrors of war as a means of frightening the people out of resort to hostilities.

"People talk of the horrors of war, and these horrors are unspeakable," he continued,

VERDUN RESIDENT SHOT NEAR LAKEFIELD

BROUGHT TO LACHUTE FOR TREATMENT

Suffering with gunshot wounds in both legs, Frank Cave, a resident of Verdun, was brought out from Lakefield on Sunday for medical attention. It appears that the Caves, father and son, have a cabin in the neighborhood of Lakefield, where with a party of friends they were hunting over the week-end. Frank Cave was accidentally shot by his companion, gunshot passing through the calf of one leg and entering the other. The wounds were bleeding profusely.

Following treatment here by Dr. Mason, the victim was taken to the Montreal General Hospital for closer examination.

SUBDUED FIRE AT E. SETTLEMENT

An item omitted from last week's news bears credit to Lachute Fire Brigade and should not be overlooked.

At 1 a.m., early in the morning of November 1st., the firemen received a call to East Settlement, where fire had broken out in the basement of Smith Brothers' farm house. The dwelling was full of smoke, and a fire burning slowly in the cellar, where it was thought a spark had ignited the wood pile. Had the firemen not appeared and pumped water from a cistern in the house, it is believed certain that the fire would have spread throughout the building.

ABITIBI HIGHWAY PLANS

Hon. J. E. Perrault, Quebec Minister of Roads, has stated that work on the highway between Mont Laurier and Seneterre, Abitibi, will be started early next spring. The new road will be 150 miles long and 60 feet wide over all. It will be built at an estimated cost of $10,000 per mile.

ARMISTICE DAY

The sixteenth anniversary of Armistice Day was celebrated as usual in Brownsburg. After a procession to the Cenotaph in which several hundred people took part two beautiful wreaths were re-laid. The amiable Minister of the United Church, Rev. Mr. Hagar, delivered a beautifully fitting discourse, in which he touchingly recalled the spirit, the humility and the sacrifices of the brave men who had gone.

The Armistice Service was held at the Maple Ave. Baptist Church, at which all the ministers were present. The little church was crowded to capacity and an inspiring service was conducted.

RETREAT

A very successful Retreat has just been concluded at the Roman Catholic Church. The nightly and morning devotions were crowded and the sermons were attentively followed. At the closing of the Retreat on Sunday, over twelve hundred Catholics received Holy Communion.

ALL LUMBER CAMPS WILL BE INSPECTED

In line with the Government's avowed policy of protecting woodsmen in this province as much as possible by ensuring that companies provide their employees with healthy and comfortable living quarters while in the woods, Dr. Lessard, Provincial Health Director, has announced a detailed system for inspection of all Quebec's lumber camps this season, and that a number of inspectors had already left to carry out this work.

The provincial hygiene service, due to the amendments which were made to Quebec's health laws at the last session of the Legislature to improve living conditions for men working in the woods, is now empowered to see that necessary improvements are made in the situation.

Government inspectors will notify any infractions of the law in the woods, and Officials of the Health Bureau will call the offending company's attention to violations and request the firm to remedy the situation immediately.

ARMISTICE OBSERVANCE IN LACHUTE

Locally, it was pleasing to note that the churches were well attended, and the ministers fittingly referred to the ravages created by war, urging support in the efforts for greater unity and understanding. Teachers and parents are largely responsible for developing the character of our citizens of tomorrow, and if we are to have continued peace it will be through our own efforts to understand the problems of the world, working for peace as we have worked to build up the material successes of our country.

Closing their services sharply at 12 o'clock, all the congregations proceeded to the Memorial Park where wreaths were deposited by the County Women's Institute, by St. Simon's Church, and by the Returned Veterans, after which the Last Post was sounded by Mr. Chas. Duncan, and the National Anthem was sung in conclusion.

The sum of $63.61 was realized through the sale of poppies on Saturday by Misses Edith Gall, Gertie Scott, Betty Clunie, Margaret Graham, Lillian Falconer, Dorothy Wheatley, Dorothy Cook and Meryl Demerse.

OUTBREAK OF FIRE

A fire broke out on Nov. 1st. at the Drug Store, at which considerable damage was done to the stock and fittings. It appears that Mr. Langlois, the proprietor, was burning some waste papers when the heat caused a bottle of ether or other volatile chemical to explode. Instantly the store became a mass of flames and Mr. Langlois was forced to beat a hasty retreat. A prompt call to the C. I. L. Fire Department was as promptly answered. Within a very few minutes the brigade had the flames under control and prevented what might have been an extensive blaze.

WINTER

The first icy blasts of winter made themselves felt during the week-end, and the snowfall gives warning that the freeze-up is at hand. The recent wide distribution of barometers to C. I. L. employees made the people very weather-wise, so adequate provision for the cold spell had been made. It is expected that the road to Lachute will be kept open this winter. Such an effort would be of very considerable convenience to the people of this district and well worth the trouble or expense entailed.

SOLILOQUY... THE JOYS OF AN EXECUTIVE

Executives are a fortunate lot. For, as everybody knows, an executive has nothing to do. That is, except:

To decide what is to be done; to tell somebody to do it; to listen to reasons why it should not be done, why it should be done by somebody else; or why it should be done in a different way; and to prepare arguments in rebuttal that shall be convincing and conclusive. To follow up to see if the thing has been done; to discover that it has not been done; to inquire why it has not been done; to listen to excuses from the person who should have done it and did not do it; and to think up arguments to overcome the excuses.

To follow up a second time to see if the thing has been done; to discover that it has been done but done incorrectly; to point out how it should have been done; to conclude that as long as it has been done, it may as well be left as it is; to wonder if it is not time to get rid of a person who cannot do a thing correctly; to reflect that the person in fault has a wife and seven children and that certainly no executive in the world would put up with him for a moment; and that, in all probability, any successor would be just as bad or worse.

To consider how much simpler and better the thing would have been done had he done it himself in the first place; to reflect sadly that if he had done it himself he would have been able to do it right in twenty minutes but that as things turned out he himself spent two days trying to find out why it was that it had taken somebody else three weeks to do it wrong; but to realize that such an idea would have had a highly demoralizing effect in the organization, because it would strike at the very foundation of the belief of all employees that an executive has really nothing to do.

STORIED SPOTS FROM SEA TO SEA

By W. J. Banks, R.A.

THE VERCHERES MONUMENT

In the fall of 1692 the Seigneur of Vercheres was on official business in Quebec, and his wife in Montreal. With the recklessness that is often born of constant peril, the community had been left with no other head than their fourteen year old daughter, Madeleine. As the young girl stood one morning on the bank of the St. Lawrence she suddenly heard firing in the fields where the people were at work. The Iroquois had surprised them, and the slaughter had begun. With bullets whining past her ears, Madeleine reached the fort in safety. She was just in time to prevent one of the two-terrified soldiers from lighting the gunpowder.

To her two brothers, aged twelve and ten, she said: "Let us fight to the death. We are fighting for our country and our religion. Remember that our father has told you that gentlemen are born to shed their blood for the service of God and the King." So resolutely did the tiny force man the loopholes and fire upon the savages that the latter refrained from an assault upon the fort. A settler and his family, ignorant of the attack, approached in a canoe. It seemed as if nothing could save them. But Madeleine coolly walked to the landing place and escorted them into the fort; the Iroquois, fearing a trap, failed to interfere.

Sending the soldiers to the blockhouse with the women and children, Madeleine "manned" the four bastions with her two brothers, an old man of eighty, and herself. Throughout a stormy night regular cries of "All's well" gave an impression of confidence and strength. For a full week the savages lurked in the vicinity. Then relief came. The officer in charge found the fort in perfect order of defence, the sentinels still at their posts. "It is time to relieve them, Monsieur," declared Madeleine; "we have not been off our bastions for a week." The monument at Vercheres commemorates, indeed, one of the bravest and most remarkable exploits of frontier history.

BOY SCOUTS, THE WORLD OVER

Scout Bone-Setters

An X-ray examination at the Fort Erie, Ont., hospital of a broken wrist set by two Boy Scouts showed the job to have been done perfectly.

British Scouts in Holland

The local paper of Breda, Holland, gave regular space this summer to camp news of Boy Scouts from Leicester, England, who were camping in the vicinity.

Hungarian Scouts in England

Numbers of individual Hungarian Boy Scouts were entertained in English Scout families this summer, the result of friendships formed at the 1932 International Scout Jamboree in Hungary.

International Boy Friendships

Carrying on international friendships established at a camp this summer in Luxembourg, Boy Scouts of the 3rd. Uxbridge Troop, England, are corresponding with Scouts in Holland, Yugoslavia, France and Denmark.

Making Weather Prophets

Through the co-operation of the U. S. weather Bureau station at Detroit, American and Canadian Boy Scouts of Border districts are taking a course in weather observation. As a final test the Scouts must predict the following day's weather.

Scouts of Europe Still Brothers

As in previous years, unsettled political conditions in Europe made no difference this summer in the fraternizing of Boy Scouts. English and Scottish Scouts cycled, hiked and camped on the Continent, and Scouts of various European countries visited England and Scotland.

THE ROBIN'S GOODBYE

"Goodbye, Little Folks", the robins said,
"We are off to the sunny south,
The pretty flowers have all gone to bed,
And to go we are nothing loth.
We love beauty, we love the sun,
We go where it's warm and bright,
We go where the fruit is fresh and sweet,
And the days are long and light.
But we'll come back when the bluebird calls
And the brooks are running free
And build our nest near the garden wall,
In the same old apple tree."

Ted tried to dive beneath the surface again, but the green network held him up. As he saw Maud coming in a huge cradle-like affair, he cried, "Don't punish my sister; she had nothing to do with it."

"He-he, ho-ho," gurgled the giant cactus, "So you are man enough to try to protect your sister?—Point one, Secretary." The small green cactus took a hawthorn down from behind his queer little ear and wrote something down on a faded leaf, putting the thorn carefully back behind his ear when he had finished.

"Your sister is only being rocked in the Cradle of the Deep", said the pink and purple eyed creature. "Her golden tears have saved her from a real punishment; besides she carried water to the plants sometimes when it was warm."

As Maud floated close to Ted she tried to sit up, but the big cactus leaned over and brushed her back. "You cannot sit up without my permission," he roared. "You were present when your brother destroyed the cactus family in the garden, and you did not tell your mother who did it and have him punished."

"My sister is not a tell-tale," said Ted hotly. "Just a little bit brave too!" the big cactus chuckled, "Point two, Secretary." The small green cactus again took the thorn from behind his ear and wrote something on the faded leaf, putting the thorn back carefully as before.

"What is a tell-tale?" the big cactus asked, putting a big glass in one eye and bending quite closely, so that he might stare into Ted's face.

At first, queer little chills crept all over Ted, then a sudden longing came over him to smack this big green cactus right in the face. He wanted to do it so much and was just reaching out his hand when a queer little cry from somewhere behind him made him draw back his hand and look around.

Someone whispered, "I am the little green toad that you saved from Striped Back the snake, and I ask you not to strike King Cactus, but to answer his questions as quickly and politely as you can. So much depends on your answers."

Facing the big cactus again Ted bowed very politely. "Your Majesty," he said "a tell-tale is one who is continually carrying evil tales about his friends." "Two more points, Secretary," said King Cactus. "One for politeness, the other for a correct answer."

"Oh-oh!" growled the two big bull frogs, "he will get off without further punishment first thing we know, and we won't get damages for our hind legs."

King Cactus heard them. "We do not take Frog cases in Leafland Court," he said, twitching his reins until the bull frogs, who had been lying low in the water, sat up straighter. "This is only a court for leaves and plants; if the prisoner has injured you at any time you will have to take him to some other court."

"Please, Your Majesty," piped a squeaky little voice, which Ted recognized as the voice of the little green toad that he had saved from the snake.

"Piper o' the Rushes", said King Cactus, "I recognize your voice.—If you have anything to say, come out into the open and say it. I know you are shy, but come out and speak; we cannot hear you there."

The little green toad came shyly out and hopped up onto the ladder beside the little green cactus. "May it please your Majesty," he said, "this boy saved my life once. Striped Back had me inside him and this boy hit him with a stick so hard that he shot me right out into the sunlight again, and I hopped away to safety." "How do you know that it was not just to tease Striped Back that he did it?" asked the big cactus.

"Because I heard him say to his sister here, 'Oh look, Maud—that horrid snake has swallowed a poor little toad alive', then I felt the jar which sent me out into the open again. I looked back as I was hopping under the verandah and saw him chasing Striped Back away."

"Twenty points, Secretary," said the big cactus, "now count up the score and let me know how it stands."

Taking his thorn pencil the little green cactus made twenty marks before starting to count. Ted watched him anxiously and all the funny little heads around bobbed about in excitement.

"Twenty-four points in his favor, Your Majesty," said the little green cactus. "And how many against," roared King Cactus.

"Ten, Your Majesty," said the little green cactus.

"The balance is in his favor. Let them both go, but they must go by the Way of the Ladder." Turning his bull-frog steeds around, the big cactus was soon out of sight, and with his going the green net disappeared and Ted and Maud found themselves standing at the foot of a gaily colored ladder which the little man they

London to Clear Thames-side Slum

House of Commons Sanctions Project to Beautify Heart of City

London's geographical center, a tangle of squalid slums on the south bank of the Thames, is to be completely replanned and rebuilt under a comprehensive official scheme about to be submitted to the House of Commons for final sanction, writes the London correspondent to Christian Science Monitor.

The scheme is authoritative. It has been drawn up for the London County Council which is the chief municipal authority for the metropolis of Great Britain. It proposes compulsorily to acquire, at a cost of £1,435,000, an area on the south bank into which debouch London's three chief central road-traffic bridges, one of which, that of Waterloo, is about to be rebuilt. The plan is to provide carefully-designed outlets to the south not only for the traffic already carried by these bridges, but also for that of a long-discussed additional bridge at Charing Cross.

At the same time it is to convert a densely overbuilt tangle of narrow streets, dating from the days of Queen Anne, into shaded promenades backed by buildings worthy of their position on what is of itself one of the most beautiful riverbanks in the world. It is to do, in fact, on the south side of the Thames, in the middle of London, what already exists on the opposite side of the river.

Sir Leslie Scott, an architect who has been successful in competing for the designing of a new Waterloo Bridge, is actively supporting the scheme. From the new south side embankment, Sir Leslie says, there will be "some of the most beautiful views in London to look at across and up and down the river; and on it there will be no need to provide for road traffic, as that will be provided with a shorter route in an improved road cutting across the curve from Westminster Bridge Road to Waterloo Road. Thus the new boulevard will be a pleasant refuge from the din of modern traffic where one may enjoy the view in quiet."

Sir Leslie proposes to modify his provisionally approved design for the new Waterloo Bridge, so as to give more room to vessels passing up and down the stream. "I rejoice," he said, "with the navigators at the three wide arches." His original design provided five of these arches.

Mr. Herbert Morrison, leader of the London County Council, describes the project as "the greatest improvement in central London since Kingsway," (a north and south thoroughfare through the center of the metropolis opened Oct. 18, 1905, to connect the London Law Courts with the main railway outlets of the metropolis toward the midlands and Scotland).

What Kingsway did for traffic to and from the north, the new scheme is to do for that on the entire south side of London.

The portion of the southern river bank included in the scheme lies between the Westminster and Waterloo bridges. It thus embraces an area facing, and to the east of, the Houses of Parliament. It looks directly across the river upon Adelphi Terrace, the London Home of The Christian Science Monitor. Although squalid in itself, it thus has a view of historical and beautiful buildings extending from Trafalgar Square to Somerset House.

Should Canada "Take Over" Ottawa?

An Editorial in the Montreal Herald

That sooner or later the city of Ottawa will have to be "taken over" by the Dominion Government is a proposition which the Ottawa Journal admits is "obvious".

It makes this admission in discussing a statement on the subject by Mr. Frank Ahearn, an Ottawa's representative in the federal Parliament, who has dealt with the merits of making Ottawa "a real federal district" and who assumes that at present Ottawa taxpayers are carrying the great burden of making Ottawa "the Washington of the North."

Our contemporary doubts the correctness of Mr. Ahearn's assumption that taxes are higher in Ottawa than they would be if the city were not the capital, remarking:

"In fairness it must be borne in mind that through our associations with the Dominion we are put to little expense for parks, that some of our most important streets are built and maintained without cost to the city, that the community has many handsome buildings which cost it nothing, and we imagine not many citizens scattered elsewhere through the nine provinces are shedding tears over the unfortunate plight of their fellow-taxpayers in Ottawa."

When, and if, matters in this connection come to a head, the example of Washington will inevitably be cited.

After much experiment, a unique form of government was adopted by Congress in 1878 for the administration of the District of Columbia in which Washington is situated.

The city is ruled by the citizens of the United States as a whole, the people of the capital having no part in it.

The Commission administering the District is made up of representatives of the two dominant political parties and the engineer corps of the Army. They are appointed by the President with the "advice and consent of the Senate", and all subordinate officers are appointed by the commissioners.

There are two sets of laws in force. One, acts of Congress, corresponding to State laws in other communities; two, municipal regulations enacted by the Board of Commissioners, taking the place of the municipal laws of other cities.

The Commissioners have no power to appropriate the money used in the government. Every cent is appropriated specifically by Congress.

The Congress determines upon all public improvements, through committees of each House appointed for the purpose. Nothing can be done, not even so little a thing as the purchase of a box of matches, without authority from Congress.

The expenses of the District government are paid, one half from the revenues of the District and one half from the treasury of the United States.

The revenues of the District are derived from taxes on real and personal property and licences of various kinds. The levying of taxes is in the hands of an assessor, and a collector of taxes has charge of the collection of all taxes and licence fees, and all money is distributed by an officer appointed by the commissioners, this officer having no connection with any of the other departments.

Money Market Terms

The term "cables" is a money market term for cable orders or cable transfers, also a money market report term under which the rates of exchange for such orders or transfers are quoted. According to "Escher's Foreign Exchange Explained," the prices of sight drafts and long bills are fundamentally based on the price of cables. The first thing in the morning the foreign exchange banker, say in New York, receives a cablegram from his correspondent in London, telling him just what the rate on New York is over there. With this information on hand, he is in a position to commence buying and selling. The rate for cables having been established, it is easy enough to fix the price of demand drafts, the latter being cheaper by an amount corresponding to ten days' interest. When a banker sells a cable he makes immediate payment out of his balance abroad. When, however, he sells a sight draft, his balance abroad remains undisturbed for eight or nine or ten days, which is the quickest time in which the draft he has sold can be presented for encashment. Naturally he will charge less than when he sells a cable and loses the use of his money at once.

Kilt Society Issues Style Rules

Another problem of many years' standing has been settled in Glasgow, Scotland, and all loyal Scotsmen are breathing sighs of relief. The Kilt Society of Scotland, harassed by letters and complaints from all parts of the world, has issued a treatise on how to wear the kilt. The rules stipulate that the kilt is to touch the center of the knee cap in front, and that the lower part of the belted plaid or of the shoulder plaid should not hang below the lowest edge of the kilt. For ordinary dress the Highlander's jacket must be of tweed, and his kilt in the clan or family tartan. His stockings must be knitted hose, his shoes black brogues without buckles, and his sporan may be of hogskin, leather or fur, "without undue ornamentation." Rules for evening dress and costumes for social functions also are given.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, November 18th., is "Mortals and Immortals."

The Golden Text is: "The creature itself also shall be delivered from the bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the children of God." (Romans 8: 21)

The following correlative passages are selected from among those comprised in the Lesson-Sermon to be read from the Bible and from the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:—

"Now this I say, brethren, that flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God; neither doth corruption inherit incorruption... For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality." (Corinthians 15: 50, 53).

"Mortal mind must part with error, must put off itself with its deeds, and immortal manhood, the Christ ideal, will appear... Christian Science takes naught from the perfection of God, but it ascribes to Him the entire glory. By putting 'off the old man with his deeds', mortals 'put on immortality'." ONTARIO MAY ABOLISH REBATE ON GASOLINE TAX

Ontario Minister of Highways T. B. McQueen is considering abolition of Ontario's rebate on the gasoline tax to farmers, fishermen and others who use the fuel in machines other than automobiles on highways.

He said the rebates in one year amount to $2,000,000 and that his department has been investigating irregularities in returns but have not yet discovered how much the province has lost.

WED FOR CONVENIENCE (Calgary Albertan)

One need not go back as far as the last generation nor even so far back as the last decade to recall the time when a young fellow fought his way through life in the hope of making "enough to get married." Until he got that sum, however modest or substantial he felt it necessary to be, he did not feel it fair to ask a partner to share his fortune and his home. But it seems we have changed all that.

There is something alarming about the thought that young men and maidens who would have shuddered at being classed as paupers yesterday, today accept their ill-fortune not only with resignation but with content and, by combining their "resources", arrange these marriages of convenience for which, of course, the public pays.

Calgary is about to propose to the provincial government an amendment to the present regulations to check the marriage of relief recipients. If the provincial government agrees, the amendment will be good not only for the public treasury but also for the morale of the generation, as anything must which tends to prevent men and women growing indifferent toward the business of shifting for themselves.

BETTER ROADS THE OBJECTIVE OF THE PROVINCES

(Toronto Mail and Empire)

The expenditure on highway development in Canada during the past year was greatly curtailed. While the provinces and the municipalities did considerable work in 1933 as unemployment relief, during that annual period the aggregate capital expenditure in highway construction, inclusive of Federal subsidies, amounted to about $24,000,000 as compared with $50,000,000 the previous year. Nova Scotia alone reported an increase, while a reduction of 88 per cent. was made by British Columbia, of 81 per cent. by Alberta, 76 per cent. by New Brunswick, 66 per cent. by Ontario, 41 per cent. by Quebec, three per cent. by Saskatchewan, and eight per cent. of Manitoba. Moreover, few of the highways in the Maritime and Prairie Provinces take rank as higher-class roads.

Last year 4,110 miles were added to the surfaced roads of Canada—chiefly gravelled surfaces. The cement concrete highways were increased by 143 miles, and bituminous macadam, and concrete highways were increased by 102 miles. These additions bring the surfaced highways of Canada up to 94,721 miles, and the unsurfaced roads to 314,403 miles. All rural roads, under provincial highway department control are included in the list.

Ontario led the provinces in the matter of highway indebtedness, with a total of $185,410,000 out of an aggregate of $438,000,000 for all Canada. Maintenance costs for the year were $16,650,000. In Ontario the gasoline tax brought a revenue of $12,852,000, motor vehicle and registration, $7,641,000, or $20,493,000, while in all Canada the former totalled $26,468,000, and the latter, with taxation, $20,576,000, a total of $47,044,000.

Lovers of the classics, fans of the movie-screen—none should miss this monumental production, The Count of Monte Cristo next week at the Rex.

The Rexall Doll Contest at Beaton's Pharmacy has aroused the interest of children in this vicinity. The prizes are of the highest quality and well worth striving for.

GOVERNMENT CONTROL OF NEWSPRINT?

PROPOSED TRADE AGREEMENTS BETWEEN CANADA AND U. S.

Ottawa, November 13.—Newsprint, liquor, fish, reciprocity and the St. Lawrence waterway seem to have been the features last week. No one can complain of lack of variety.

The federal government, says Mr. Bennett, is prepared to step in and do something about the newsprint situation, if, as and when invited to do so by the provincial governments.

There are two ways in which the federal government could set up a control over the export of newsprint. One would be by placing it under the Natural Products Marketing Act, same as apples and poultry. The other would be by invoking the 'peace, order and good government' clause of the Unemployment Relief Act—of which we haven't heard so much lately, but which is still there.

Not that Canada doesn't want to sell its newsprint. On the contrary it is second only to wheat as Canada's major export. The complaint is that the United States publishers are signing up contracts calling for delivery for 1935 at a price which, it is claimed, won't cover actual cost of production.

Of course in a sense that's the funeral of the Canadian paper company, to sign such a contract. But unfortunately among others who have to suffer are the workers in the paper plants and out logging in the woods.

The United States publishers certainly won't relish the idea of government control over the export of newsprint, coupled with an attempt to get the price up $5. a ton. They will probably threaten to buy from the Baltic, or make newsprint from their own southern pine woods.

Of course so far as the immediate situation is concerned the U. S. publishers are largely at the mercy of the Canadian government. But in the long run it would surely be bad policy to offend our best customer of newsprint. Just another of those problems which our statesmen get in such abundance these days.

Better Trade Relations

The endorsement of President Roosevelt in such a sweeping way immediately revived talk about a trade agreement between Canada and the United States, as well as the St. Lawrence Waterway. The U. S. Senate is sure to ratify the latter now, one would think. The prospects of an important trade agreement during the present Canadian administration are not, I think, very bright. There are too many obstacles, including the Imperial Conference agreement. But if Roosevelt is still in power when a lower tariff government comes into power in Canada, then the prospects will be the best, I should think, since 1911. Newsprint and liquor might figure quite largely in the negotiations.

The liquor problem is giving the Canadian distiller plenty to think about, and time is running against him. We still have that 30 million gallons of spirits looking for a market—sufficient to satisfy Canadian cravings in that direction for a generation. The United States administration, thinking of curtailing bootlegging as much as anything else, is said to be sympathetically inclined towards reduction of its present import tax from $5. a gallon to $2.50—provided! Provided that in return President Roosevelt can persuade Premier Bennett to give some useful trade concession, such as a lower duty on textiles, machinery, coal, oil, or some other commodity.

The American distillers would much prefer leaving things as they are. In a few months they will have mature liquor ready for the U. S. domestic market. If the duty goes down now, it may be difficult to get it back again then, so they feel.

Makes It Harder

The postponement of the conference on the B.N.A. Act—which is about equivalent to cancellation, under the circumstances—makes the fulfilment of two or three other schemes more remote. That conference was to have prepared the way for the unemployment insurance measure which the government stands pledged to introduce in its next session. Now it will be harder. It may be necessary to place it on the same basis as the Old Age Pensions Bill and the Farm Loan legislation. Or again the provinces might—I don't think they all could—be persuaded to pass enabling legislation, as in the case of the Marketing Act.

"It has been said that the difference between a statesman and a politician is this: A statesman is one who wants to do something for his country; a politician, one who wants his country to do something for him."

—Reeve W. A. Pritchard, Burnaby.

225 BEGGARS ARRESTED IN CHICAGO

Chicago police have rounded-up more than 225 of the professional pliers of the "nickel for a cuppa cawfee" racket asserting there wasn't an amateur in the jail load secured on the streets.

Pointing to Jack Bement, 41, as typical of the brotherhood that assigned one another certain beats to cover, police said he quit a job as a baker because he found he could make at least $2 a day by "working" only three hours in the lucrative profession of extracting change from passers-by.

DISCARDED TOYS WANTED

The First Lachute Troop Boy Scouts has again decided to distribute Christmas parcels among the children in this locality, who are in needy circumstances, the same as has been done for the last number of years.

For this purpose they are making an appeal for contributions of discarded toys and children's games, books, etc.

Articles that have been broken in any way or damaged, will be repaired and renovated by the scouts, and, to enable them to do this in plenty of time before Christmas, it is necessary that contributions be received at an early date.

If you have any discarded toys, games, books, etc., which you wish to donate to this worthy object, kindly communicate with one of the members of the troop, and your parcel will be called for.

Detective-tale enthusiasts will be thrilled to see Edgar Wallace's "Mystery Liner" next week at the Rex. Other attractive features on the Sunday-to-Wednesday program.

SIR GEORGE PERLEY ON LEAGUE OF NATIONS

While there are many who see fit to deride the value of the League of Nations and express the futility of its being continued—our Federal member, Sir George Perley, while he has no illusions about the present limitations of the League, believes it is contributing towards better international unity. Speaking recently in an interview with the Ottawa Citizen on the matter, Sir George spoke of the work of the League of Nations, saying that the League's worst enemies were those who believed it could do everything in a minute. "Can you think to bring peace and order throughout the world in a few years?" he asked. "If our descendants through the League can bring better understanding between nations, then I think it will have accomplished a great deal," he concluded.

—We expect in our next issue to be able to report successes of some of our county entrants in competition at the Ottawa Winter Fair, now being held in Ottawa. The first day's entries broke all records and it looks as if their "31st. annual" will be a real success.

CHATEAU D'ARTAGNAN DESTROYED BY FIRE

An outbreak of fire this week destroyed the historic chateau in France which reportedly belonged to the most famous of Alexandre Dumas pere's "Three Musketeers."

The Chateau d'Artagnan, which inspired Dumas to create his great swashbuckling swordsmen and hero, was described as a complete loss. It was situated near Tarbes, France, and contained many treasures.

Spotted Touch-Me-Not Gypsies' Charm Plant

The jewel-weed or spotted touch-me-not, Impatiens biflora, growing in dense jungles along brooks and pond edges, is the favorite plant of gypsies because with it they can work miracles, declares a writer in the New York World-Telegram. "Cross my palm with money," they say, "and I will turn this plant to silver." When you give them the coin they put the jewel-weed under the brook water and it looks silvery. Little bubbles of air cling to the leaves, making them look under water like plated silver. The lovely flowers, each like a little liberty cap, are said to be worn by the fairy, fay, elf and sylph followers of Queen Mab of the Little People at their midnight dances on the flat ledges of the Palisades high above the Hudson. British redcoats, writing home to England during the War of the Revolution about the pesky Yankees fighting in Westchester, said: "Why, when we wake up in the morning after camping beside the Sprain brook the very bushes are covered with liberty caps." The jewel-weed is called Impatiens because of its hasty way of sending its children, its seeds, out into the world. When the seed pods are ripe and the little winds come shaking them the mother plant explodes as far away from home as possible. Then at night, in moonlight, every leaf has a penitential teardrop—the dew—clinging to it like a moonstone.

B. C. WOMEN'S ESTEEM FOR WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

It is not easy for members of the Women's Institutes in British Columbia to attend their meetings. In fact, in many cases it might be called very difficult indeed, if long walks over lonely and dangerous roads, often narrow mountain highways, or low places where rubber boots are a necessity for three months in the year, are taken into consideration. Sometimes when the water is at its highest a boat has to be used from one walkable place to another. But inevitably those who have the most difficulties to overcome are the most regular in attendance. One small, frail woman, who, because she held the office of secretary and took her responsibilities seriously, walked nine miles to the meetings, and had the record of never missing a single one in six years.

Pleasure in her club, interest in its activities, and devotion to home and country, are all indicated in this woman's splendid record.

The Editor of the Watchman was pleased of the opportunity to attend the National Made-in-Canada Exhibition in Montreal this week, now being held in the Sun Life Building.

The educational exhibits provided by two branches of the Provincial Government, the Quebec Bureau of Mines, and the Department of Lands and Forests, as well as the display of maple leaves arranged by the Canadian railways, which includes the prize-winning specimens submitted in this fall's competition, are proving very popular features—as also are the local exhibits of Ayers Limited with their splendid display of Lachute products, and the Canadian Industries Limited fine showing.

CANADA'S DEATH RATE LOWEST IN HISTORY

Canada's death-rate has decreased during the past four years of economic stress, until now it is the lowest in the history of the country, according to Dr. Grant Fleming, director of the department of public health and preventive medicine at McGill University, Montreal.

A DIFFERENT VIEWPOINT

Children and grown-ups have entirely different viewpoints about so many things and it often brings misunderstanding. Children so often cannot see why we are so perturbed over things. This true story nicely illustrates their bewilderment. A seven year old boy had called his father a name. The father was quite upset over it. Afterwards, the boy came to his mother and said, 'can't see why Daddy is mad, I wouldn't be mad if he had called me that name.'

WOMEN SHOULD PREPARE FOR AN ELECTION

There is an election in the offing and it is time that there were more women in the House of Commons. Now is the time to lay the foundation, and the women of both parties should insist on all the help possible of the higher-ups in their organizations. It does not matter which party they adhere to. We need both Liberal and Conservative women at Ottawa.

Government is, in a great measure, housekeeping on a large scale. Well, you know what kind of a housekeeper the average man is! They say women are not accustomed to politics or to governing. It would not take them long to learn. We have all seen men unaccustomed to public life, flounder around hopelessly at first and in a very short time acquire poise and the savoir faire which comes of knowing the job at hand. And women are just as bright as men. It is just another sort of job. When it comes to financing, men are apt to do their retrenching by cutting off completely whereas women can take a small amount and by planning and substitution make a small amount go a surprisingly long way. As for substitution, they are used to it. When eggs are high they use an extra teaspoon of baking powder or a bit more corn starch and make an acceptable product and save their eggs. Don't tell me that if women had more to say in the matter the finances of the country would be in the appalling state they are now. Miss McPhail has played a lone hand too long. One of the things I most admire in the aforesaid lady is her adaptability and her courage in changing her mind. It takes a big person to publicly change her mind. She went to Ottawa with certain theories firmly fixed and when she found that they would not work, as theories so often will not, she cheerfully threw them over-board, and acquired a new set of workable ones. Men and women should always work together and it is time that the men saw that women had a chance to do more than mend the back fences.

GINGER

Ginger is just one of those things that you either like very much or that you can't abide. There never seems to be any half way. If you like it there are so many ways of using a little to give a fillip to your cooking. Candied ginger when stored in a bottle or tin will keep fresh for a long time. The preserved ginger in its quaint squat jars is delicious. Have you ever been guilty of buying something because you liked the jar? I guess if the truth were told, most of us have. I have found that I can make my own preserved ginger much cheaper than it can be purchased, by cooking candied ginger in a heavy syrup. Make a syrup of 2 parts sugar to 1 of water, cut the ginger in suitable pieces and cook slowly. These are some of the ways in which I use ginger; in sandwiches, pound cake, chopped finely and sprinkled over butter icing, as a centre and garnish for fondant creams, in milk puddings, in Bavarian Creams, in fruit salads. For a special occasion dessert, try topping a pumpkin pie or tarts with whipped cream, lightly sprinkled with chopped candied ginger.

STOCKING STRETCHERS

Stockings which have been dried on stretchers look better and wear much longer. That last should mean something because anything which will save darning is worth considering. Most stretchers are wooden but they may be made at home from heavy cardboard and renewed as necessity arises. Last year a man came to the door with some he had made and they are most satisfactory. They could easily be made at home. Draw an outline from a well shaped new stocking and bend heavy stove wire into the same shape, leaving one end longer to bend into a hook for hanging. If you have ever used stretchers you will never again be without them.

CHEESE AND GINGER SANDWICHES

Soften the desired quantity of cream cheese (I prefer pimento cheese) with salad dressing and add chopped ginger to taste. A quarter cup of ginger to a half a cream cheese is about right for my taste, but suit yourself about that. Spread on white or brown buttered bread and then have the delight of watching your guests try to figure out just what is in them.

GINGER PUDDING

2 tablespoons quick tapioca
1 tablespoon ginger syrup
1 teaspoon butter
2 tablespoons sugar
2 cups milk
2 tablespoons chopped preserved ginger.

Mix ingredients and cook in top of double boiler for 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add 1 slightly beaten egg yolk and cook while beating the egg white until stiff. Fold in the egg white. Pour into serving dish and chill thoroughly. Serve with pour cream or with whipped cream garnished with chopped ginger.

Indian Summer

By Mary A. Catton.

Composite of summer graces; sweetened with the fragrance of Autumn in passing; like the lingering kiss of a reluctant farewell; interlude in the wake of a white-petalled banner unfurled from the skies—Squaw Winter.—So is Indian-Summer. It comes as a warning that winter is nigh, and that stores be replenished. 'Tis the heavenly father directing with an all-seeing-eye His children of ancient traditions who, heedless and happy, count Time by the Moons. 'Tis the warning which comes on the cool breath of morning, and hastens with swift-feet Tecumseh to forests and mountains and lakes where the fish swim. With arrow in string, strong, well-poised, and with an ear never failing the tread of the deer, Tecumseh, Chief of the Tribesmen, makes certain that papooses and squaws be not hungry when winter sets in and snow-banks shut out from their wigwams the sunshine and flowers, the birds and long grasses—deadened their ears to the music of South-winds, the songs, and green depths of waters.

Soon he returns, Tecumseh and all of his Tribesmen, with shoulders weighted with deer-meat and big fish in plenty, and they hang them about in the smoke-clouds of camp-fires to cure and to dry. Then assemble together to dance and make merry, these fleet-footed Tribesmen, in costumes of feathers and deer-skins, and tattooed in distinction of merit with pigments, that each in his markings and hues of bright colors might tempt the dusky eyes of the maidens nearby, to join them in dancing farewell to the spirit of departing summer.

Now, the Chief to his people assembled, makes sign and points with his finger to sunward, then silently turns to his wigwam.

Stealthy, swift, and soft are their footsteps as the great mass of colors dissolve North and South, East and West o'er the footpaths soft-padded with leaves of the first frosts of autumn. To the shelter of the wigwam each passes awhile to sleep, to dream on his bed of green-boughs and mosses.

Then, as the days shorten and the sleep hours lengthen, each to his squaw makes question of the moccasins for the small feet of their children, of the sizes and of the added numbers since last season past. And there, proudly directing in the warmth of his friends, midst the love and play of his children, works the faithful Tecumseh with his awls and his deer-skin, whilst Mamattee, his woman, and mother of his children, embroiders with beads of all colors, and makes fragrant baskets and paints them.

Outside, around the feet of their wigwams, the red ivy clings, and peeps here and there through the snow resting lightly upon it, as though to signal the spirit of on-coming Spring. Inside, Tecumseh and Mamattee speak together and pause in their work, counting the days in their passing, and the shortening of shadows, the promise of springtime's return with its warm winds and flowers, brown gurgling waters, green buds and song-birds.

Once again, Tecumseh makes sign to the Tribesmen to don all their feathers and pigments, and there, each to his place in the Circle, looking glad to the sunward and the soft breezes of South-winds, they bow in blessing and thanks to the great guardian spirit for the warning He had sent them that winter was coming; for their snow-covered wigwams; for plenty through winter; for the love of their women and children; for their happy homes and freedom with Nature, the broad fields and forests; for hearts never weary, but filled with contentment.

Note: It is traditional that the Indians counted Time by the moons, as do the Chinese. Also, that Indian Summer was so named because of the interval of summerlike weather which follows the first snow fall—Squaw-Winter so called—and this interval was intended as a warning-sign from the great Manitou to hasten winter preparations. The sunshine and warmth of Indian Summer was intended by the Great Spirit to encourage the deer to come out, and Squaw-Winter's light snow-fall was intended to make their trail easy to follow.

"SLOW POKE ENGLAND" (Exchange)

Whenever you hear people talking about "slow poke England" and its tendency to be cautious, here is something to keep in mind:

Since 1929 the world has been passing through the worst business depression it has ever known, yet, as Herbert N. Casson, Canadian editor of the London magazine, Efficiency, points out, in that period only one British department store has closed its doors and not one of the other department stores has had even one year in which it failed to make a profit.

In that period not one railroad system has suffered a loss. One large hotel has been torn down to make way for an office building, but not one large hotel has gone into bankruptcy. And not one bank has failed. Canada can match that record as regards banks, but in other particulars it can hardly claim to do so, while some other nations will be hard put to match it all.

had first seen told them they must climb, and climb so that they would not step on any leaves which might be coming down. If they stepped upon even one leaf, back to the bottom they would come and try again, until they could go up without hurting any of the leaves."

"We'll walk easy," Maud said. "You had better," the little man called after them. "If you hear one cry come back carefully."

Carefully, oh so carefully, the children crept up the ladder. It seemed to them that they were hours and hours going up. It was so hard to distinguish the rungs of the ladder from the leaves they must not destroy, as they were almost the same color.

At last they were at the top and found themselves clinging to the old familiar tree branches that they had used as play horses for so long. Away in the distance an owl hooted and a fox barked in angry defiance.

The little blue stars winked down at them as though saying, "You two children stayed out late when your mother said you must not, and the Hallowe'en witches took you off on a journey. You had better hurry home to bed."

The whisper must have reached both children at the same time, for they suddenly slid from their horses to the ground and ran quickly to the house.

Next story, "Ole Mammy Owl!"

CUSHING

Miss Nellie Hodgson, of Montreal, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Frank Fuller, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Evans and the Messrs. Deslauriers, of Cornwall, Ont., were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Evans.

Mrs. Irving Fuller and son, Donald, is visiting her sisters, the Misses Bryerton of Verdun this week.

Miss Mary Smith, of Montreal, was a recent guest of her mother, Mrs. Walter Smith.

The monthly meeting of the Cushing - Pt. Fortune W.C.T.U. will be held at the home of Mrs. Margaret Beggs of Point Fortune on Wednesday, Nov. 21st.

A number of Cushing residents attended the Historical Society meeting in St. Andrews East on Saturday night, and pronounced it a most interesting and enjoyable affair.

Frontier Institute held its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Jas. Murdoch on Tuesday of last week. Frontier Branch was, so to speak, at its inception only "a rib" of the Chatham Branch, and its members were delighted to have so many of the Chatham members accept their invitation to be present.

The roll-call for the day, "What domestic duty would you like your husband to do," brought forth many amusing replies, the visiting ladies joining heartily with the others in response.

Miss H. B. McCain, the guest speaker, took as her subject "What it means to be a Canadian," giving a very interesting address in which she mentioned several important events of Canadian History, particularly the coming of Jacques Cartier.

In speaking of peace, Miss McCain said, "Peace will not come until we are in accord." The Women's Institutes are helping to promote accord between Nations with their friendly International Relationships, requests for Canadian literature on this work having come from China, also greetings from other distant parts of the world. Miss McCain also stressed the advisability of using our advantages—with the aid of Mrs. G. W. Kuhring, of Lakefield, who has charge of the work as Provincial Convenor of Education and Better Schools, recently in charge of Col. Bovey of McGill—in forming study Groups and Libraries.

LAKEFIELD

On Tuesday, November sixth, the Farmers' Club and Women's Institute met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Rogers. A large crowd, which included visitors from Morin Heights, witnessed the distribution of prizes which had been won at the recent ploughing match held on Oct. 7th. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Tomalty. Miss McCain, provincial superintendent of the Women's Institutes, gave a very interesting lecture on nursing. The evening was concluded by the serving of refreshments, which had kindly been provided by Mrs. G. Rogers and Mrs. J. Thompson.

The W. A. of Holy Trinity Church, Lakefield, met at the home of Mrs. G. Peet on Wednesday, Nov. 7th. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Peet after the business meeting. A very pleasant afternoon was concluded by prayer from the Minister in charge.

WEIR

Mrs. McKeen, of Montreal, is at present the guest of her sister, Mrs. A. J. Kerr.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Dion and daughter, Madeline, of Montreal, were recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. U. Dion.

Miss Inez Williams of Montreal, was the week-end guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Williams.

Mr. Everett Larose, accompanied by Miss A. DeFazio, of Montreal, spent the week-end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Larose.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Glassford spent a few days in Montreal last week.

Mrs. V. Swail and Mrs. S. Simon, of Arundel, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. Larose last Thursday.

Miss Katie Craig, of Montreal, spent the week-end at her home here.

The dance held in the Church Hall on Saturday evening was a decided success, a good time being enjoyed by all present.

Mr. Harry Madison, of Montreal, is spending a few weeks' vacation at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. Larose.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Hunter, accompanied by Mrs. J. MacNab, Miss F. Powell and Mr. Bob Knowles, motored to Montreal for the week-end.

Miss Lodema Storey, of Montreal, was the week-end guest of her aunt, Mrs. E. M. Schippel. Mr. and Mrs. F. Schnauffer and son, Harland, of Montreal, were week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Sobey.

RADIO BROADCASTING SCHOOLS

From time to time correspondence schools or personal instruction in radio broadcasting have been offered to a gullible public. While it is true that it is possible to teach some of the essentials of microphone technique, the best advice that can be given concerning these courses is to beware.

There is always a need for new radio talent, but unless the person is qualified or suited to radio, all the training in the world won't make him a radio star. The quickest way to find this out is to apply to a reputable radio agency or station for an audition. It is easy to get.

An amusing thing happened recently in connection with one of these schools. One of the highest paid and most successful radio artists in Montreal applied at one of the schools, just out of curiosity. He was told that he needed instruction to qualify, and how much it would cost him. Needless to say, when they heard who he was, he was thrown out of the school.

YOUR LIVER'S MAKING YOU FEEL OUT OF SORTS

Wake up your Liver Bile

—No Calomel needed

When you feel blue, depressed, sour on the world, that's your liver which isn't pouring its daily two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels. Digestion and elimination are being slowed up, food is accumulating and decaying inside you and making you feel wretched. More bowel-movers like salin, oil, mineral water, laxative candy or chewing gum, or "purgatives" don't go far enough. You need a liver stimulant. Carter's Little Liver Pills is the best one. Safe. Purely vegetable. Sure. Ask for them by name. Refuse substitutes. 25c. at all druggists.

Earth Faster Than Plane

Compared with the earth, the fastest airplane travels at only a small pace, says Popular Mechanics Magazine.
An astronomer at the Carnegie Institution's Mount Wilson observatory, says he has found the earth is whirling about the center of the galaxy, its star system, at a rate of 9,000 miles a minute. It also is revolving about the sun at 1,100 miles a minute, besides turning about on its axis once a day. The astronomer has also obtained evidence that the galaxy is like the far-away spiral nebulae, other star system, photographs of which reveal them to resemble great, spinning pinwheels. They are unlike pinwheels, however, in that the stars near the center are turning about at great speed than those at the outer edges.

CUSHING WEST

Dr. and Mrs. Paintin, of Cowansville, spent several days here last week as guests of the latter's sister, Mrs. S. O. Hartley.

Miss Tessie Robert, of Monalea, spent Tuesday here visiting her aunt, Miss Wheelahan.

Mrs. Usher returned from a visit to Ottawa on Saturday accompanied by her son, Mr. F.
Keatley, who spent the weekend here.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Wheelahan and Mrs. M. Grace, of Montreal, visited friends here on Thursday last.

The snow of Tuesday made travelling somewhat unsafe and there were several near-accidents in the locality.

Residents of this vicinity appear to be taking a praiseworthy interest in the Historical Society and quite a number attended the meeting in St. Andrews Town Hall on Saturday evening. This is as it should be, for there is no part of the country richer in historical associations than this which borders on the rocky shores of the old Ottawa.

ST. ANDREWS EAST

Miss Green, of "The Hill", has left for a short visit at the home of her parents in Cornwall.

Mrs. G. Gagnon and son, Laurie, are guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Rodger, Lachute Road.

Miss Parkes spent the weekend at the home of her mother in Lachine.

Miss E. Tabb is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. M. Yale.

Mrs. T. G. Foley spent the week-end at the home of Dr.
and Mrs. B. N. Wales.

Miss Beatrice Perks was home for the week-end.

Mrs. A. Howell entertained a family party on Sunday.

Mr. Melvin Carson, of Franklin Centre was a guest on Sunday of his sister, Miss Carson, at the home of Mrs. Charman.

Miss Libby Walsh spent the week-end at her home here.

The W. M. S. of the United Church met on Tuesday of this week at the home of the Misses Hibbard.

It is expected that, on Friday,
November 23rd., in the United Church Hall, Miss Douglas will show moving pictures of her trip last summer on the Empress of Britain and in England.

A very enjoyable meeting of the Reading Circle was held last Monday at the home of Mrs.
Pitcairn, when the Rev. Mr.
Booy read a most interesting paper on "Spiritualism."

The C.G.I.T. of St. Andrews
East entertained the local Scout Troop at a social evening in the United Church on Saturday.
Several former members were guests, and at the head table were Mrs. H. P. Bezanson, Miss Alice Hooker, Assistant Leader,
Enid Robertson, President, Mr.
M. Alner Snowden, Scoutmaster, and John DeWitt, Assistant Scoutmaster. The C.G.I.T.
Leader, Mrs. Macaskill, was unable to attend owing to illness —much to the regret of all present.

BROWNSBURG

Mrs. Jas. H. Hazel has returned from a pleasant visit with friends at Bristol, Que.

Mr. Stanley Thompson added to the haul of local hunters by shooting a fine deer this week.

Mr. C. Foster was in Montreal on Tuesday, visiting Mrs.

ARUNDEL

Mr. Gordon, of Lachute, is spending some time as guest of his son, Mr. J. P. Gordon and Mrs. Gordon.

Mr. Stirling Simon, who has been employed at Rawdon.
Que., returned to his home last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Staniforth and family are spending a few days in Ottawa this week.

Mr. R. G. Cooke of the C.N.R.
Montreal, is spending his vacation at his home here.

Mrs. Thos. Graham, who has been a patient in the Royal Victoria Hospital for the past month, returned to her home last week.

Mr. Doug. Cooke returned to his duties at Montreal Technical School on Monday, after spending the past two weeks at his home.

Quite a number of folks from this district attended the dance held in Lachute Auditorium last Wednesday, and thoroughly enjoyed dancing to the music of George Wade and his Corn Huskers.

Friends of Mrs. A. Rathwell are sorry to learn that she has been taken to hospital, and wish her a speedy recovery.

The Bridge Club enjoyed a pleasant evening at the home of Mrs. M. Smellie last Thursday.
The highest score for the evening was made by Mr. Wm.
Thompson.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Blais and family are leaving this week to take over their new charge in the vicinity of Three Rivers.
Mr. Blais has held the position of local C.N.R. Station Agent for quite a number of years, and will be greatly missed by the community, who wish them continued success.

The Young People's Society held their regular fortnightly meeting last Friday. The programme for the evening was entitled "Good Friendship," and the subject, The League of Nations, which was open for discussion after Rev. Charles Cushing had given an interesting talk on the League and its great work. Final arrangements were made for the play which they are presenting shortly.—See Coming Events

MORIN HEIGHTS

Miss Mildred Syvret, of Montreal, spent the week-end with her parents.

An Armistice Service conducted by Major Greene was held in Trinity Church, and was quite largely attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Latham, of Montreal, were the week-end guests of Mrs. Bragg.

Friends of Mr. Lacken, Sr., are sorry to learn of his illness, and all wish him a speedy recovery.

Mr. Harold Robb, who has been spending the summer in Morin Heights, has gone to visit his parents in Montreal for a couple of weeks.

Miss Violet Murdock of Montreal, spent the week-end in Morin Heights.

Mr. E. Robinson was fortunate in shooting a deer this week.

The W. I. met at the home of Mrs. Archie Hamilton on Tuesday evening last and the gathering was well attended.

Mrs. Bennett, of Montreal, was a week-end guest at the home of Mrs. Chambers.

The Ladies' Aid of the United Church met at the home of Mrs. John Seale, on Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bisson motored up from Montreal on Sunday afternoon calling at the home of his sister, Mrs. J. E.
Syvret, who has been ill for past two weeks. Her many friends are pleased to learn

she is much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Watson spent Monday in Montreal;
they were accompanied by Mr.
Watson's mother, Mrs. John Connelly, who had been spending a few days in Morin Heights.

Mr. Henry Woods has returned to his home, having been a patient in the Royal Victoria Hospital for the past ten days.

SMILE!

Tho' things go wrong as they sometimes will,
And the road you are travelling seems all up-hill—
Your income small, and your outlays high—Force a smile—turn with hope to the sweet bye and bye.

Tho' adversity presses you down with it—
Considering pause, but never say: "quit!"
If you find life queer with its ups and downs,
Its smiles and blows, and pets and frowns,
Successes and failures in turns about,
Parts of life's Caravan in colorful bout—
Don't give in! Though the pace be slow,
And success goes by with blow after blow—
Take heart. For the goal is often much nearer by far
Than is revealed by your destiny-star.

Should you with a smile in the moment give up—
Overcome by the victor who holds the cup—
You have not lost. For, to smile is to win,
Tho' the curtain may drop with an ominous din.

Success is failure turned inside out
Like the silver lining of the clouds of doubt—
And we never know just how near we are
To what we seek, when it seems, oh far!
Bravo, the smile is an armour of might,
A sword of faith on the side of right—
And the darkest darkness of all the night
Comes just before the morning light.

—Mary A. Catton.

Petroleum Uses Traced

to Zoroaster Followers
The petroleum industry, rising to its heights with the advent of the automobile and the subsequent other types of petroleum-product users, has its roots far back in antiquity, says
the Washington Star.

The priests of Zoroaster, ever ready to use any power which would act to their control over the superstitious followers of their religion, built temples over oil and gas fields where seepages from the ground had become ignited. These so-called sacred flames filled the ignorant folk with a terrible awe, and they were held, easily under the thumb of the priests of the temple.

The Babylonians used petroleum pitch and oil in defense of their cities against invaders, pouring the burning fluids from their walls down on the soldiers who sought to scale them with ladders.

Many ancient peoples found certain curative properties in petroleum, and they also found that it would burn in the crude lamps of the early days of history.

The first oil well driven in this country was the famous Drake well, which was brought in at Titusville, Pa., in 1859. It was the forerunner of the vast oil industry of the United States.

Hydrogen Gives Weight to Stars

Not only is about one-third of a star's weight due to hydrogen, but the star is supplied with heat and light by the continued breaking up and rebuilding of the hydrogen atoms. That is the belief of a director of Mount Wilson observatory, who says that in their earlier history stars may have been made entirely of hydrogen clouds. Later, hydrogen atoms condensed to form heavier elements like oxygen, carbon, iron and the like. During this process, enormous energy was released, keeping the star hot and radiant. Spectroscopic study of ion-ized particles or atoms which have lost their electrons has revealed these secrets of the stars.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Police Man Arctic Posts

About half of Canada's Eskimo population is in the eastern Arctic and over 1,000 of these natives are on Baffin Island. At all the Baffin Island posts, therefore, there are trading stations but the islands farther north have scarcely any permanent native population and the posts there are purely of government administrative purposes and are manned by the Royal Canadian mounted police. From these posts extensive patrols are conducted.
The government posts in the eastern Arctic are visited annually by steamship by an expedition sent out by the department of the interior.

DAUGHTERS OF ISABELLA INITIATION IN MONTREAL

On Sunday last at the Mount Royal Hotel, officers and members of the Daughters of Isabella from all points of the province assembled for the ceremony of initiation of candidates from three Circles, namely Santa Maria, of Montreal, St. Lambert and Verdun.

Lachute No. 578 was well represented by Mrs. Lacasse, Misses Larose, M. Larocque, C. Valois, M. Joly, Mrs. Masson, Misses Marcell, F. and G. Marchand, and Mrs. Goyette, all officers of the local Circle.

Following the initiation ceremony a banquet was served in the Salle Dorée, which was presided over by the State Deputy, Mrs. A. Dupont, of Montreal.

The next day, also at the Mount Royal Hall, members of the Order gathered for the Annual Meeting of the State Circle, at which the election of members for the coming year was held; as a result every officer of last year's Circle was re-elected by acclamation. To these were added three new members, and it is gratifying to note that among the above, two were chosen from the Lachute Circle. Those are Mrs. Lacasse, Regent, and Miss V. Larose, ex-Regent. These two officers belonging to a higher Circle should prove an asset towards the progress of the newly formed local branch, Lachute 578.

"Too much of a busy clergyman's time is now occupied by filling in forms." —Dr. Inge, ex-Dean of St. Paul's.

MILK SHIPPERS' PLANT TO HANDLE SURPLUS MILK

LACHUTE OPPOSES, BUT PROJECT "GOES OVER"

At a meeting of the Milk Shippers' Association held in the Town Hall on Friday last, the purpose of which was to discuss a proposal that the Association should conduct a plant of its own to handle surplus milk, it was decided not to engage in this undertaking.

Mr. E. J. Woods, President of the Association, was in the chair, and Mr. David Black, as local representative of the organization, reported that the directors, after full and careful consideration, had given the project full approval. The matter, he said, remained subject to consideration by the stockholders prior to the meeting of the Advisory Board which was to be held in Montreal on Nov. 19th. Representations would then be made from the various branches.

Mr. Black reported that the President and Secretary had held this project in view for some time and consequently had secured an option on a suitable building at a very reasonable rental, and that machinery and

"SILENT BILL BIDDLE" HEARD BY LARGE CROWD

EX-CONVICT VISITS LACHUTE ON MISSION OF REFORM

In spite of the decidedly unpleasant weather a large gathering assembled last Sunday evening in the Lachute Auditorium to hear Mr. Biddle—more generally known as "Silent Bill Biddle"—who works in collaboration with prison welfare and reform societies in Canada and the United States. His addresses are delivered in the interests of crime prevention rather than cure; he cites his own experience, and displays gruesome scenes "at the end of the trail" of crime, stressing most forcefully, in the fate of certain notorious modern day criminals with whom he has intimately associated, his conclusion that, positively, Crime Does Not Pay. He left little doubt of this conviction in the minds of his listeners—and although it may be surmised, the attendance of many was prompted by the sheer appeal of sensationalism, the speaker, while satisfying this need, left no illusion as to the cause and inception of most modern crimes. When the attractions and influences of the home fail, it is the city streets that claim the younger generation—the assembling places of the idle rich and the dissatisfied poor, wherein loose morals and corruption are considered smart. These are the breeding places of crime, and it is the lack of home appeal, the absence of parental understanding, which drives young people unwitting-

ARUNDEL HUNTERS HAVE GOOD LUCK

A hunting party from Arundel, consisting of Messrs. Gordon, Leslie, and Stuart Cooke, J. P. Gordon and Gilbert Bennett, spent a few days hunting moose in the district north of L'Ascension. They returned last week well rewarded for their trip, with three moose and a bear. The moose weighed 769, 755, 652 lbs. respectively, dressed, and the bear weighed 140 lbs. Much interest was shown by fellow citizens, who turned out en masse to see the specimens and to congratulate the boys, who are already anticipating another trip next season.

ly into these environments.

Mr. Biddle's mission is a noble one. It is a work to which he has given himself in atonement, for his was a life mispent. His first entree into the ways and devices of crime, as he outlined the story of his life, amply stressed those facts which we have mentioned. The more tragic aspects of lawlessness struck home in the lantern pictures he displayed.

We feel this work is deserving of response, and we believe the sincerity of this reformer is repaid in the influence he instills. It is gratifying, at least, that his lecture in Lachute was well attended.

ARGENTEUIL HORSES WINNERS AT OTTAWA

Mr. E. K. Wilson's fine harness horses, which have been frequently admired among local Fair entries, featured among the winners in two classes last week at the Ottawa Winter Fair. There was very keen competition in the saddle and harness horse exhibits, and the Winter Fair is otherwise described as one of the best yet, in respect of livestock entries. Several agriculturists and fanciers attended from Lachute and the County.

Mr. Wilson, with his Glen Avon and Glen Ridge, took first place for carriage pair, and also first for harness tandem, with the same team. He drove his team in person, as usual.

Heavy draft horses on exhibit also brought honors to this territory. Mr. G. E. Arnold, of Grenville, showing Percherons, took junior grand champion with his two-year-old Murcroft Donald in the younger classes. His Lucy also won grand honors among the mares.

Such successes, meeting a wide competition, reflect great credit on the quality of these local animals.

WINNERS IN RAILWAYS' MAPLE LEAF CONTEST

EXHIBITS WILL BE SHOWN

First prize for the most beautiful leaf in the Fall competition sponsored by the C.P.R. and C.N.R. was awarded to Mrs. A. A. Adams, of Oak Bay Mills, with second and third prizes, merged into two seconds, going to Mrs. Guy H. Humphrey, Hampton, King's County, N.B., and Marshall I. White, Milton West, Ont. The largest leaf prize went to Richard Chambers, 169 West Pender street, Vancouver, with a specimen of the unbelievable dimensions of 226½ square inches by actual measurement. Second came a leaf of 213¼ square inches submitted by Angus McMonnies, Courtenay, B.C.

An exhibit of the prize-winning leaves will be made in various cities across Canada.

ORGANIZE LOCAL BRANCH OF LIONS CLUB

With an enthusiastic gathering of citizens from Lachute and the surrounding district present, the Lions Club of Lachute came into existence at a supper and organization meeting at the Windsor Hotel, Lachute, on the evening of Tuesday, November 20th.

Members of the Montreal Lions Club, who also were present, and Vernon LaChance, special representative of the International Association of Lions Clubs, spoke on the work and objectives of the Lions service clubs throughout North America. Messrs. Valois and Tremblay, and the Rev. Mr. Cousens, voiced the sentiments of the gathering in favoring the new movement in Lachute.

The election of officers resulted as follows:—

President, Gaëtan Valois; Secretary, Hugh J. Johnson; Treasurer, T. K. Haller; 1st. Vice-President, Rev. H. Cousens; 2nd. Vice-President, Clement Tremblay; 3rd. Vice-President, W. M. Cottingham; Directors (2 year term) W. George Rodger, H. M. Lavigne; (1 year term) J. A. MacKimmie, K. A. McQuat; Lion Tamer, J. Dorius Lepine, Tail Twister, Philippe Valois.

With the introduction of the Lions Club movement in this vicinity, Lachute becomes one with 2,800 other communities spread throughout six countries in fostering the service club idea under the banner of Lionism. The sentiments expressed by the Lachute members at Tuesday night's meeting showed a keen appreciation on their part of their new responsibilities, and promise a successful future for the Club.

It was decided that future meetings will take place on the first and third Wednesdays in each month, at six fifteen in the evening.

Charter Night, when the District Governor for Ontario and Quebec will present the Lachute Club with its charter, was set for the evening of December 11th.

LOCAL SERVICE BY ST. ANDREWS Y.P.S.

RETURN VISIT WAS PLEASING EVENT

On Sunday evening last the service in the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church was conducted by members of St. Andrews Presbyterian Young People's Society, under the presidency of George Rogers, Jr. Their pastor, Rev. Dr. Ballantyne, was the speaker of the evening.

On the previous Sunday evening, service was conducted in St. Andrews by a combined membership of Lachute and Brownsburg Young People's Societies, under the Presidency of Stuart Anderson. The speaker was Rev. H. H. Cousens.

FORMER OWNER OF SEIGNIORY IS DEAD

PURCHASED PAPINEAU PROPERTY IN 1904

William L. Haskell, former owner of the Papineau Seignior at Montebello, died last Thursday at Pasadena, California, at the age of 80 years.

Born in Livonia, New York, Mr. Haskell moved to Montreal in 1904, purchased the Papineau Seignior and organized the Haskell Lumber Company, Limited, of which he was vice-president and general manager. He was also a member of a small group of business men who originated the Southern Canada Power Company Limited, in 1913, and he was a director of this company until 1915, when, because of his wife's ill-health, he moved to California.

THE PERLEY SCHOLARSHIPS TO LACHUTE HIGH SCHOOL

OPEN FOR COMPETITION IN HIGHEST GRADES OF RURAL SCHOOLS

Rural elementary schools of the County of Argenteuil are fortunate in having the Perley scholarships for which to compete. These scholarships are well known throughout the county, but young people grow so quickly that many in our schools may not be fully informed about them and teachers who come from other counties may also desire complete information. For the benefit of these, the following is copied from the Lachute High School Annual:

"Scholarships of thirty dollars each are given annually by the Right Honourable Sir George Perley, M.P., to the student taking the highest marks in the final examinations in the highest grade in each school municipality in the County of Argenteuil, and continuing his studies in Lachute High School."

Teachers of rural schools should notify the Principal before the 15th of May of the number of pupils intending to take the examination.

Merchants seeking a generous share of the Christmas trade should adopt the surest means of securing business and advertise liberally in their local newspaper.

BROWNSBURG TO PRESENT ONLY ONE TEAM

HOCKEY LEAGUE MEETING AT SOCIAL CLUB

Among the many phases of discussion at Tuesday's meeting of the Lachute and Brownsburg Hockey League, held at the C. I. L. Social Club, the item of most interest was the announced consolidation of Brownsburg players into one team, sponsored by the Club. Although the teams entered will still be open to speculation until the closing date, 25th. inst., this new arrangement at the 'Burg appears certain. Mr. Thayer will undertake the management of this aggregation, assisted by Messrs. Doran and Hazel.

Representatives were present from the four teams still possible in the running, namely Ayers Limited, L.A.A.A., Lachute Independents and the aforementioned Brownsburg line-up.

Mr. Guy Legault, president, occupied the chair, and difficulties of procedure, as usual, demanded certain attention. A committee comprising Messrs.

MUSIC CLASS FOR HIGH SCHOOL

It is understood that plans to promote a music class among the local High School pupils are now well under way. Mr. A. Fassio, whose musical ability and experience are well known, has placed his services at the disposal of those interested. A fair enthusiasm among the scholars themselves bespeaks an interesting diversion in their usual line of study and an outcome well worth while.

The original project was to train an orchestra among the scholars, but it was found there was insufficient material to promote anything so ambitious. As a preliminary step toward this end, Mr. Fassio will instruct a class in the violin, in which he found some thirty pupils eager to take part. Among these, inquiry showed that only one was proficient in the violin, and there were fifteen who already had instruments and were willing to learn.

There will be difficulties, of course, in this venture; there are problems in the pursuit of any art which requires patience and skill. But with commendable zeal Mr. Fassio is confident he can maintain the ardor and interest of his followers.

Mention is made, that any citizens having musical instruments for which they have no further use, can help materially—perhaps placing within the reach of some child a life-long and profitable diversion—by donating such instruments to the school authorities. Assistance of this kind will be heartily appreciated.

ST. EUSTACHE AUTO FATALITY IN COURT

STE. SCHOLASTIQUE MAN CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER

A motion for non-suit was entered at the enquete held on Monday at St. Jerome in the case of Leo Savage, of Ste. Scholastique, on a charge of manslaughter arising from an automobile fatality which occurred near St. Eustache.

Seven witnesses for the Crown were heard and all stated that Savage's automobile was going at between 40 and 50 miles per hour when it killed Adelard Loyer, of Montreal, who was repairing a tire of his motor truck on the highway near St. Eustache. The chief witness heard was Fred Laroche, who was standing near the truck at the time of the fatality. He stated that he was holding a flashlight to aid Loyer in changing a tire and that there was plenty of room on the highway for Savage's car to pass. The auto struck the truck from the rear and as Loyer tried to get out of its path he jumped in front of his vehicle and was instantly killed. Laroche stated that there was a tail light on the truck.

Lawyer for the defence contended that there was insufficient evidence to send Savage to the Court of King's Bench for trial. The magistrate decided to take the motion en deliberé and will render his verdict next month.

TAXES TOPIC OF TALK BY R. L. CALDER

"Wot's Taxes?", caption of a celebrated cartoon, was chosen for the title of an address by R. L. Calder, K.C., given at a meeting of the Women's Conservative Association of Notre Dame de Grace last week. Mr. Calder described his subject as "most unpleasant," but taxes, he declared, were the only means of raising money for public expenditure. The subject is never understood by the public, inasmuch as meetings are held to protest against taxes, and immediately afterwards delegations are sent to ask the Government to spend more money, he said.

The various functions of the Government, defence, highways, maintenance of postal services, public health and education, were discussed by Mr. Calder. When the Government goes into business, as in the case of the Canadian National Railways, its deficits have to be met by the people through taxes. But if there should be a surplus, he commented, the people do not benefit, for the Government is apt to squander it.

The farmer is the greatest grafter of all, in the services the Government wishes on him—which are proffered in order to catch his vote, said Mr. Calder.

The man who thinks he can't be fooled is the easiest to fool. —Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

SNAPSHOTS AT NIGHT

Just a few bright lamps and a little care make indoor snaps like this easy. Arrangement of lights, subjects and camera indicated in the diagram.

UNTIL recently, the idea of making snapshots at night ranked alongside that other classic picture-taking impossibility—a snapshot of "a black cat in a coal pile at midnight." But now, with the new extremely sensitive films and brilliant, inexpensive lights, snapshots indoors at night are as easy as any others.

Let's say you want to snap Sue at the piano—assuming that Sue looks and feels natural there—taking your stand, with camera, off to the side of the piano. There's an ordinary floor lamp—one of those three-light affairs—just beyond the piano and another on your side. Both lamps are just beyond the field of your camera finder. Tilt the shades so that the light reaching your subject is unshaded. Put two or three photo-flood-type lights in the lamp that's beyond your subject, one in the nearer lamp, turn 'em on—and blaze away.

If yours is a box camera, better use a photo-flash bulb. (The method is described a few paragraphs ahead.) On the other hand, if you use a more advanced camera with a lens that's "faster" than f.6.3, you won't need the photo-floods quite so close to the subject.

The regular snapshot exposure—1/25th of a second—will do the trick nicely, assuming your lens has an opening of f.6.3 or greater.

The diagram above indicates the relative placing of subject, lights and camera for the picture of Sue at the piano. Naturally, you will arrange the lights as you see fit, but keep in mind these simple rules:

First, light intensity decreases rapidly as the lamp is pulled back from the subject. Six feet away, a lamp's picture making brilliance is only a quarter what it is at three feet.

Second, shield your camera lens from the direct rays of light.

Third, while you can use photo-floods (they cost a quarter and are good for at least two hours of picture making) in ordinary fixtures, they are more efficient in reflectors—either home-made or inexpensively purchased.

Fourth, don't try to light up everything in a picture. Shade is just as important as the highlights. Fifth, avoid lighting that illuminates both sides of a subject's face equally. The result will be flat and unnatural.

Sixth, always use modern, super-sensitive film. It's available in the standard makes, at very slight extra cost.

Indoor snapshots may also be made with photo-flash bulbs. If you want to stop ping-pong players in action, for example, these handy, safe, inexpensive flash bulbs are just the thing. One of the medium-size bulbs will do very well in an average room. If you haven't a battery-operated holder for flash bulbs, you can screw the bulb into any standard electric light socket and, when all's set, turn on the current.

The possibilities for indoor snaps are endless. If you haven't tried your hand at this kind of snapshotting, you're missing a lot. And that's too bad.

JOHN VAN GUILDER.

DISCARDED TOYS WANTED

The First Lachute Troop Boy Scouts has again undertaken to distribute Christmas parcels among the children in this locality, who are in needy circumstances, the same as has been done for the last number of years.

For this purpose they are making an appeal for contributions of discarded toys and children's games, books, etc.

Articles that have been broken in any way or damaged, will be repaired and renovated by the scouts, and, to enable them to do this in plenty of time before Christmas, it is necessary that contributions be received at an early date.

If you have any discarded toys, games, books, etc., which you wish to donate to this worthy object, kindly communicate with one of the members of the troop, and your parcel will be called for.

Radio Brevities

Christopher Ellis, who has come rapidly ahead this year as announcer and actor, is a book expert, and formerly devoted all his time to a book store he owned in Montreal. Willie Eckstein and Charlie Summers are working at the Corona hotel, where the old fashioned melodramas have been renewed. Jack Smart who did the tap dancing on recent Hollywood broadcasts, and who is very light on his feet, weighs over 200 pounds. George Givot, Greek ambassador of goodwill heard over CKAC Tuesdays at 10.30 p.m., will present a dramatic interlude on his comic programme. Leopold Stokowski will play a special program for Sweden on Nov. 23rd., heard over CKAC-Columbia network. The concert will be shortwaved to Sweden.

With the hockey broadcasts rapidly crowding the rugby features off the air, comes the classic of the year, the game between Army and Notre Dame, which will be broadcast over CKAC, Nov. 24th., at 1.15 p.m. Ted Husing, crack sports announcer, will handle this program.

PUPPY-LOVE

Dorothy M. Herr

A very small and lonely lad
Sat weeping, on a log;
His little heart was broken, for He'd lost a friend—his dog.

There was a sound, his face felt wet;
He turned with tear-dimmed eye
And saw a pup—a spotted pup—
About eight inches high.

"Go 'way!" the little laddie said,
"You're not a bit like 'Bill.'" Brown, pleading eyes looked into his—

Then everything was still;
For chubby, little arms held tight,
A warm and wriggly pup,
A little laddie smiled again,
A heart had been patched up.

RIDDLE CONTEST WINNERS

Dear Little Friends:

I expect that you are all on tiptoe to hear the results of Aunt Jean's Riddle Rhyme Contest. I must say that you were all so close to the top that, in some cases, the fact that you only gave half answers to the questions put you down just half a peg below your fellow-contestants. I am returning each one their marked papers with the correct answers and all will receive a souvenir, but first prize goes to Lorna Copeland, St. Hermas, second to Olive Townsend, St. Philippe, R. R. No. 1, third to Warren Townsend, Brownsburg, R. R. No. 1, with honorable mention to Elizabeth and Alida Burke, Gladys Donaldson, Helena Morrow and Isabel Simon. Sometime we may have a contest again and I hope more children will take part.

And now I must tell you about Mollie's Fright. . . .

MOLLIE'S FRIGHT

"I've just heard about an awful thing
That comes outside at night,"
Said little Molly Peterkin,
Her eyes quite wide with fright.

"I am going to gather all my dolls,
And hide them in my bed.
And lock my cat and puppy up Quite tightly in the shed."

And never let them out again
Until I hear it said,
That that Roary Boary Alis
Has been chased home to bed!"

OLD MAMMY OWL

Old Mammy Owl was tired, hungry and cross — and why shouldn't she be? Her mate had been gone some time now, much longer than she had expected him to be gone. He was to have brought her something good for supper, then sat on the eggs until she stretched her wings a bit.

"Who, who—wouldn't be cross!" she hooted softly to herself—softly because she did not want anyone to hear her and know just where her nest was, but at the same time there was an angry gleam in her eyes.

"Next time he acts like this," she hissed, "he'll pay for it." She stood up in her nest and sat down again ever so many times. That rested her a bit, but it was not as restful as flying away off into the pine woods and feeling the fan of the wind all around her tired, warm body. "Why, oh why does Hootie not come?" she sighed.

Away off in the pine woods, where Old Mammy Owl was longing to be, the little blue bunny was hopping about. He had grown much braver since the day he ran away from home and had such a great adventure, and not a little proud of himself too. None of the other bunnies that he knew had been almost caught by a fox, then caught by a boy, shut up and set free, and found his way safely back home. As he was hopping round and round the trunk of the biggest pine tree, chuckling to himself and thinking of the riddle that Mother Flopsy had asked them last night ("Around the tree, around the tree a ragged rascal ran. Tell me how many R's are in that if you can") the wind stirred the branches of the big pine tree and parted them slightly. Something glancingly yellow shone down through the parted branches. The little blue bunny stopped chuckling and darted behind a brush pile. Too much afraid to take time to crawl under it, he sat there shivering, waiting every moment for the clutch of fierce claws on his back. They did not come.

He stood up on his hind feet and looked this way and that. Nothing stirred but the pine tree branches. Darting off again the little blue bunny started towards his home. Curiosity got the better of him before he had gone very far. Back he came, lipperty lap. There were the glaring eyes, but their owner either did not see him or was not hungry. As he sat staring up at them a faint hoot startled him. Once more the blue rabbit hopped away in a fright, but the hooter did not pursue him, so the little blue bunny hopped off home to tell the other bunnies about it. He was, oh, so excited.

All the time Old Mammy Owl was getting madder and madder. Feeling that she could not bear her hunger any longer, she carefully covered her eggs with loose feathers and dead leaves and flew off to hunt her own supper.

As she was passing the big brown house that stood far back from the highway, near the pine woods, she heard Old Mammy Suse singing the baby to sleep. Her words floated out to her through the open window "Ole Mammy Owl am hatchin' eggs ober by de wall."

Old Mammy Owl was angrier than ever. Flying up onto the top of the high gate post she bent her head to listen. She heard it again, over and over—"Ole Mammy Owl am hatchin' eggs ober by de wall." "Who—who told her?" shrieked Old Mammy Owl. But no-one answered. Old Mammy Suse was too busy tucking Baby Isobel into her little white cot to pay any attention to what was going on outside.

"It was Hootie, I am sure it was," hissed Old Mammy Owl. "Just wait until I get him. Just wait until I get him. Just wait!" Snapping her bill angrily together and hooting defiantly, she flew over to the pine woods. "What is going on here?" she hissed softly to herself. Rabbits of all sorts and sizes were grouped around the pine tree. Several skunks were patrolling the outskirts of the group. All were staring up into the tree. A night-hawk was screeching. "Look here! look here," as he swooped backwards and forwards overhead. Curiosity made Old Mammy Owl forget her hunger. She must see what was going on here before she disturbed the group by pouncing on that little blue rabbit, who looked so much plumper than the others.

Noiselessly she flew over to the tree and settled herself to watch.

Something swayed beneath her, something strange-looking yet very familiar. She leaned over to get a better view. Just then a faint, hoarse hoot floated up to her. Hootie was just below her, hanging head down, his foot caught in a crack in one of the big pine branches!

Old Mammy Owl forgot her anger at once. Flying down to him with soft little hoots of endearment, she attacked the pine branch with her strong beak. Shivers of wood flew in all directions until all in a moment Hootie came tumbling down to the ground, scattering rabbits in all directions. In a moment Old Mammy Owl was beside him rubbing her soft feathery head against his. "Can you fly, Hootie?" she asked.

Hootie struggled feebly to his feet, with a hoot of pain as his weight came on the injured foot. Flapping his wings up and down he discovered that they were alright, and without waiting to answer her flew off to the nest by the wall.

Old Mammy Owl chuckled softly to herself as she followed him. For Mammy Suse would have to change her song now as Hootie would have to hatch the eggs and let her hunt for food until his leg got well again!

Next story, Bitter Sweet Berries.

Lovingly, Aunt Jean.

The Man Who Didn't !

Brownburg is the setting of this delightful character story . . . Brownburg, the little mountain town, prey to watchful eyes and designing minds . . . link in the intrigues and destinies of world wide powers.

Written specially for The Watchman,

By MARY A. CATTON

Reflecting into the blue-gray a flaming red tie. But this blue waist-coat worn by one Robert Williams is blue, blue—remarkably blue, so that one cannot forget it . . . could not possibly detach oneself from the memory of it nor of the voice that comes from its depths. The man sits there, complacently enough, smoking his corn-cob pipe, though he is apparently in deep abstraction at times. No doubt his mind turns homeward, as he says it does, to "Bonny Scotland"—fictitious birthplace of the alien Teuton spy. Whatever, "Scotland" he says, is the home of his childhood, whenever questioned by those who appear to be interested.

The years following his childhood, and since the time when his parents died leaving him homeless and friendless, he had spent roaming the high-seas. This, at least, is his story. High seas tell no tales. He now intends living quietly on the little revenue coming from a deceased uncle's estate in Hungary, and the little he can earn in the factory. This, also, is his story. He likes this mountain village, he says. And perhaps he is telling truly. As it happens, however, Robert Williams knows more than the ordinary about War and its weapons.

Robert Williams is also well-read, and has, perhaps, gleaned a great deal of information in this way. At least, this is the supposition of those who have thoughts about the matter, but no suspicions. History and Geography are his special hobbies, he admits, and generously he shares his knowledge with those few school-boys who flatter him by coming to him for help. These boys call him respectfully "Old Bob"—behind his back, of course.

Robert Williams is a squarely built man, heavy-jawed, of more than average height, and carries himself well. In fact, his general poise is one of distinction, not at all suggestive of the laboring type. His eyes are alive with intelligence and good health, brown, or green-gray, according to the time of day. Straight, well-formed and well proportioned nose, bridging out from a full observing brow. Altogether, a good-looking man. His dialect is carefully controlled with emphasis on the necessary Scotch frilling of the r's. In this locality Robert Williams is looked upon as something of a character. He is well liked and treated with respect wherever he goes. He seldom goes far from his lodging place, however, excepting to work, or to hover about the factory grounds. He has reasons, of course, for keeping close watch on the factory—more, by far, than a mere attachment for the place wherein he works.

He well realizes that he should be doing more to gain entrée to those deeper secrets. In time, perhaps, he decides. On the door-step of one of its modest dwellings sits a middle-aged man, who would not be particularly noticeable were it not for the blue waist-coat he is wearing—and wears all the time. "So very unusual!" they say. And no wonder, for it is as compellingly attractive as a red-bandana about the neck, or

He does not receive many letters, nor does he write any—so far as the clerks of the local post-office know. But once in a while he takes a lone weekend trip to Montreal, and there, in a special post-box he receives what has come across to him. Then those on the other side, in time and in turn, hear from him.

"Robert Williams" is not his name, of course. His true name must not be known here. He plays his part well—even remarkably well, were one of his own to be watching him. He is cautious, and has been so now for many years. He feels that he has been patient, also. But then, there is his reward awaiting, and his family awaits his return.

Robert Williams, so called, is enjoying this experience, the mountain scenery particularly, but not the conditions under which he performs must live. Here, home life has its limitations, so far as comfort and convenience are concerned. But then, a man who has experienced active warfare in the trenches has learned how to endure.

Today, as he sits on the doorstep, he is thinking of the woman who had called to see him the day before. She had been sent there by the manager of one of the Banks, who knew that he had found some money on the public roadway, which might happen to be what she had lost. He hadn't felt quite so well since, for the woman was an entire stranger to the locality. From where, he did not know, but for some unaccountable reason she had gone leaving him with a feeling of apprehension. She had asked him some seemingly subtle questions that had sent a chill up his spine; he was well aware of the far-reaching power of the British Secret Service. The money he had

Christ came "not to call the righteous but the sinners to repentance." The church going people of Toronto appear to consider the call a personal one.

He disturbeth my soul; He leadeth me in the paths of destruction for the party's sake.

Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of depression, I anticipate no recovery, for he is with me.

His policies and his diplomacies they frighten me.

He prepareth a reduction in my salary, and in the presence of mine enemies He anointeth my small income with taxes and my expenses runneth over.

Surely, unemployment and poverty shall follow me all the days of my life, and I shall dwell in a mortgaged house forever.

The Ottawa Spotlight

By Walfred Eggleston

Ottawa, November 20.—The chain store has been "on the spot" the last week or ten days. Some ugly-looking facts have come out. Until the other side of the story has received equal prominence, there is a danger of rushing to hasty and unwarranted conclusions. Even the author of the whole price-spreads inquiry, Mr. Stevens, seems inclined at times to condemn departmental and chain stores en masse without discrimination, to condemn the system which they represent as well as the reprehensible practices of certain individuals.

In order to keep a fair and open mind on the subject, it may be well to disentangle some of the salient facts and set them down below one another:

1. The growth of chain-stores in the past decade has been extremely rapid. This growth has been accomplished in a field where there was the keenest competition and in which the individual retailer was well established. The inference is that the chain-store brought something which the consumer desired. Otherwise they must have failed.

2. The chain-store has succeeded in many instances in reducing the price-spread between the sum paid the producer (farmer, fisherman, manufacturer etc.) and the price charged the consumer. One grocery chain has been able by modern merchandising methods to sell goods with a 'mark-up' of only eight or nine per cent:

the old average in the small retail grocery used to be 25 to 30 per cent. In other words, it can buy a commodity for $1.00 and let the consumer have it for $1.09, and still make a profit on the transaction. Under the old system, that article would have had to be sold for $1.25 or $1.30. The consumer gets the same article, and gets it fresher, for a considerable reduction.

3. Some chain stores have exploited their ability to reduce the price spread by hogging too much of the saving for themselves, and by taking too much out of their employees. Able to undersell their rivals the individual retailers, they have gouged out too much in the form of executives salaries and in profits. One chain sent over eleven million dollars to its parent company in five years, including the worst years of the depression. One chain store made as much in profits as the total sum paid their sales staff. They could have doubled the wages of their help, and still broken even. They could have paid 50% higher wages, and still showed a profit of seven per cent on their turnover.

4. While the chain store thrives on small margins and quick turnover, the idea that they make only small profits on all articles has been thoroughly exploded. On many articles their selling price is over double their buying price.

5. At a time when all Canada has been suffering severely from the depression, with privation and even starvation evident here and there, some of the chains have made increasingly large profits.

6. The wages paid employees, particularly sales girls, have frequently been so low as to break the minimum wage laws. In two or three cases the wages are appallingly low even for depression years.

7. In this connection it should not be forgotten that while $10.50 a week for a salesgirl (average for two or three stores) is a very low wage, the price of farm products in 1932 and 1933 was such that the average farm only yielded about $14. a week to the farmer and his family, and that adult fishermen, it has been disclosed in the Stevens inquiry, have been working for as little as $150 to $300 per season, the latter sum being less than $6. a week.

8. It has yet to be proved that the extortion and wage-slavery complained of in the case of chain stores has not been equally prevalent among small retailers, although in the latter case their is more opportunity for the display of humane feelings by the employer toward his staff.

9. Some chain stores have adopted the vicious practice of paying a manager on the basis of per centage of profit made by his store, thus inviting him to slash wages to the minimum.

10. Without chain and departmental stores the consumer would in many parts of the country have to pay considerably more for certain articles, and during the depression few budgets have been capable of being stretched so as to pay higher prices.

These are some of the outstanding facts. In all fairness to all parties they deserve to be considered together.

WEDDING OF LOCAL INTEREST

Davis — Morrison

The marriage of Mildred Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. K. D. Morrison and the late Mrs. Morrison of Dalhousie Mills, Que., and Mr. Howard Russell Davis, son of the late Harry Davis and Mrs. L. C. Moore, of Grey Valley, Que., took place on Wednesday afternoon at one o'clock at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Reid, Walkley Ave., Notre Dame de Grace, the Rev. T. W. Jones of Calvary United Church officiating. Palms, ferns, bronze chrysanthemums and autumn leaves were used in decoration. Mrs. S. McQuaig played the wedding music. The bride was attended by two flower girls, the Misses Jean Silver and Beryl Reid. Mr. William Evelyn acted as best man for the bridegroom.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a princess gown of blue transparent velvet with silver trimming and a small hat of blue velvet and slippers to match, carrying a bouquet of orchids and marguerites. Her little attendants were frocked respectively in tones of blue and yellow crepe with white ribbon bandeaux in their hair and carrying bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums. A reception was held following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Davis leaving later on a short motor trip. The bride travelled in a blue and grey ensemble worn under a sealskin coat trimmed with an Alaska sable collar, with a hat of blue felt trimmed with grey. They will reside in Arundel, Que.

On their return to Arundel a reception awaited them in Stanforth's Hall last Friday evening, at which a large number of guests greeted the happy couple and showered them with many beautiful and useful gifts. The evening was spent in dancing, both round and square dances. Appetizing refreshments were served around midnight, after which the dancing continued to the wee small hours of the morning.

YOUR CHANCE TO HELP

For the seventh successive year the 1st. Lachute Troop Boy Scouts will join in the Annual "Christmas Good Turn" engaged in by Boy Scouts all over the Dominion. This year, as in the past, Lachute will form a link in the coast-to-coast chain of Scout Toy Repair Shops.

In order to make the work successful an appeal is made to the public for donations of old, discarded or damaged toys, children's games, books, etc. These will be repaired and renovated whenever necessary and held ready for distribution amongst the needy children of this locality, as well as children of new settlers in other parts of Canada.

To enable this repair work to be done in plenty of time, it is necessary that the toys, etc., be received by the Scouts at the earliest possible date. Anyone desirous of making contributions to this worthy cause is asked to notify one of the members of the troop, who will gladly arrange for a messenger to call for the parcel.

FOUND HANGING

A fatal step may end the most happy life. The most cultured, refined, beautiful and best loved are no exception to the same fate. A father's devotion, a mother's fond care, a brother's or sister's companionship, will not shield them when they desire to take the step.

Such was the illustration last evening when one of the highest educated, most refined and vivacious girls was found hanging in the home parlor, surrounded by all the luxuries that go to make a happy life. Late in the evening she was missed and careful search failed to reveal her whereabouts.

The telephone was used without results. Her friends were called to help search for her. Finally the almost broken-hearted mother returned to the parlor and there to her horror and surprise she found her beloved girl hanging.

How must that mother have been affected by what met her gaze. There was her daughter hanging to her sweetheart's neck, begging him to subscribe to The Watchman in order that he might be better informed as to the currents news of the community, by reading the newest newspaper.

ALL TOGETHER -- FOR CHRISTMAS CHEER

The C.P.R. station yard is a busy spot just now as many farmers from adjoining sections are bringing in their usual supply of Christmas trees. Many thousands of these trees find their way each year into the homes of our neighbors across the line and carry with them the happiness and joy of Christmastide. We understand that Mr. Gosselin, of the Gatin-eau Power Coy., intends erecting a large tree on Main Street again this year, and it is to be hoped our storekeepers and citizens will all lend a hand in brightening up, and assisting to create a real Spirit of Good Cheer for the Festive Season, which is rapidly approaching.

Sixty Millions Deficit Expected

Despite Improved Earnings Early in Year, C.N.R. Deficit Is Expected to Approach Sixty Million Dollar Mark During 1934.

Despite substantial increases in the gross earnings of the Canadian railways for the present calendar year, the total deficit for the Canadian National Railways is expected to be nearer $60,000,000 than the $50,000,000 figure set by the friends of the National road, for it is unlikely that November and December will maintain the previous improvements.

It is the debt situation of the publicly-owned road that is causing ever-growing concern in the minds of the public. The interest on $1,255,305,155 of long term bonds in the hands of the public must be met each year. This interest amounted to no less than $56,465,426.58 last year as compared with $56,965,278.87 in 1932, the slight decrease being due to some retirements. In addition, the road owes $661,832,895.26 to the Dominion Government, largely for advances to cover past deficits. And to this must be added interest accrued and unpaid of $424,338,109.08, making a total debt to the Government of $1,086,171,004.34.

In an effort to placate the public, certain changes have been made in the book-keeping of the road so that the picture would not appear as black as it really is. As the result of these changes, recommended by the Duff Commission, the deficits from operations each year are no longer held against the road, but against the Government. They are no longer charged against the railway, but appear as a Government loan. Thus the railway is not required to pay the deficit by means of funding it with the total debt. Instead it appears as a Government liability. In other words, as some one has aptly scribbled it, "The debt snowball has ceased to roll," but the taxpayer has still to handle the "cold" facts, whether it is a railway liability or a Government debt. —Exchange.

MacLaren Mill Strikers Will Meet Company

Following a meeting of paper makers at Masson, Que., a committee of three was appointed to interview officials of the James MacLaren Company Ltd., regarding the strike by 42 skilled paper makers which resulted in the mills at Masson and Buckingham being forced to close and four hundred employees temporarily thrown out of work. Officials of the company this week denied that F. H. Andrews, president of the local union of paper makers, was refused admittance to see heads of the company prior to the strike. J. A. Bryant, secretary of the company, said that no one was ever refused an interview with company officials at any time.

Asked whether the company was seeking other men to fill the positions left vacant by the strikers, Mr. Bryant said he could not say. "The only thing that I can say is that we will have to open up soon as we have orders on hand which must be filled," he remarked.

Robert Greig, formerly with price Brothers at Kenogami, has commenced his duties as mill superintendent, replacing Five cruises in one may be made this winter on the Empress of Australia sailing from New York January 18. They are: the Mediterranean Cruise, the East African, South African, South American and West Indian. There is a full week in Egypt, numerous stops on the east coast of Africa, 12 full days ashore in the Union of South Africa, four stops in South America and return via Trinidad, Jamaica and Cuba.

Leading a baseball tour of the Orient and interviewed aboard the Empress of Japan en route to Tokyo, Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, said it was his ambition to continue as manager until "I have passed my eightieth birthday." He is now in his 71st year.

J. J. McLean, who was discharged. The dismissal of Mr. McLean is said to be the reason for the walkout of the skilled paper makers without whom the mill cannot operate.

No notice of the intended strike was given to officials of the company. The only statement which was forthcoming from the paper makers in explanation of their action was that the men had walked out in a sympathy strike on behalf of Mr. McLean. They maintain Mr. McLean was let out because he refused to discharge paper makers one by one as he had been ordered to do.

Here and There

A further concession to the travelling public is announced by C. P. Kiddell, Chairman, Canadian Passenger Association, in the statement that in future one-month round trip railway tickets previously good for continuous passage only between departure point and destination, will be valid for stop-over at intermediate points going and returning. For many years Canadian railways have been selling one-month round trip tickets at twice the one-way fare, less ten per cent, good for continuous passage only. Now, the stop-over privilege is granted without any increase in fare and passengers deciding en route to stop over, may do so on application to the conductor. This concession, it is felt by railway officials, will do much to further promote travel by rail in Canada.

W. E. Allison, manager of mail and baggage traffic, Canadian Pacific Railway, has been elected vice-president of the American Association of General Baggage Agents, comprising representatives of all the railways on this continent.

H. C. Groat, general superintendent, Ontario district, of the Canadian Pacific Railway, has been promoted to the post of assistant to the vice-president with headquarters in Montreal. Mr. Groat is a well-known and popular official of the railway in Ontario, where he has been stationed for a number of years.

Figures issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics dealing with operations in August of all steam railways in Canada having annual gross revenue of at least $500,000, reveal that higher gross earnings were offset by increased expenses, including an expansion of over $500,000 in payrolls.

Mrs. A. A. Adams, of Oak Bay Mills, Que., has been awarded first prize in the most beautiful Maple Leaf contest conducted this year by the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways. More than 10,000 specimens were submitted. The largest leaf phase of the contest was won by Richard Chambers of Vancouver, who submitted a specimen with an area of 22½ inches.

Five hundred school-age boys and girls of Montreal recently took advantage of the unique all-expense trip operated by the Canadian Pacific Railway from that city to Ottawa and were addressed in the Parliament Buildings by Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Prime Minister of Canada. Sight-seeing auto-bus trips across Ottawa included inspection of the Houses of Parliament, the Memorial Tower and Hall of Fame, and a special recital of the 53 bells of the famous Carillon Tower.

Bob Murray, Quebec's No. 1 tennis player, and Laird Watt, second ranking provincial player, were singled out for praise by "Big Bill" Tilden, who sailed recently by the Empress of Britain for England. "They are championship players in the making," said the one-time world's champion.

OTTAWA SESSION MAY OPEN LATE IN JAN.

It has been creditably reported from Ottawa that the coming session of Parliament will not open until the latter part of January and that there will be an adjournment in April to permit the Prime Minister to attend the coronation jubilee ceremonies in London in May and prorogation or dissolution will take place in June. It is also stated that the Government plans to amend the Election Act in such a way as to relieve them of the necessity of holding by-elections for the three existing vacancies in the House.

BACON DIFFICULTIES

One of the British retailers, who toured Canada recently, was quoted as saying that he would not stock Canadian bacon, as he could not depend on it. He certainly is right. If there is any Canadian bacon which is dependable, I have not been able to find it. It is not consistently good. We will buy bacon which is just perfect and will hopefully buy the same brand from the same store and possibly the next time it will be so poorly flavoured that it is not pleasant eating. Then, it is keeping qualities. We buy it in small quantities and even then it does not always keep properly for the few days required of it. One of the first requisites of good bacon is that it should keep in good condition. I don't know of anything much more unpleasant than to get a bite of rancid bacon. Whether the packers do not get the right kind of hogs or whether they are using wrong methods in curing is beyond me to know. All I know is that from the customer's standpoint the bacon we get is not what it should be. Bacon is one of the most useful of foods and can be one of the most appetizing and the market could be increased if we could be sure of a good product. This summer we took a motor trip and bought bacon in several towns and small villages and each time we got good bacon. When we came back to the city we had the same luck of getting the too frequent piece of poor bacon. Yet I buy the best brands of recognized packers from the best stores.

DIET OF THE EXPECTANT MOTHER

The old saying that the expectant mother should eat for two is not justified in that she should eat large quantities of food. The amount may be increased slightly but the quality should be changed considerably. It is very necessary that materials required for building bones should be supplied, as Nature is notoriously kind to the young and if the required minerals are not available the bones and teeth of the mother are robbed to supply the deficiency. Calcium (lime) is most necessary and the easiest place to get this is in milk. A quart of milk should be taken each day in some form. A leafy vegetable either cooked or in salad, a day, and plenty of cooked and fresh vegetables. A certain amount of cereal and brown bread which contains the entire grain is advisable, as the outside layers are rich in minerals and add to the roughage. Old-fashioned doctors, and there are still too many abroad in the land, tell their patients to eat good nourishing food but they do not tell the women just what they should eat. Most women do not know this and eat the wrong foods as those who have had considerable trouble with their teeth after pregnancy can testify. Cod-liver oil should be taken daily and exercise in the sun, in the middle of the day in winter, as that is the only time that the rays of the sun will be of benefit in supplying vitamin D. Iodine is necessary as a lack of it affects the thyroid gland and may cause cretinism. Iodized salt will supply this but if there is any suspicion of goitre consult your doctor before using it. A doctor should be consulted immediately, in any case. Most of them charge a flat rate and the mother might as well have the benefit of the extra care. Most women are ready to do anything for their baby after it is born but the trouble is that too many do not start care soon enough.

A PRESSING QUESTION

If clothes are kept properly pressed, they will gain much in usefulness and appearance. Even clothes which look as if they are beyond wearing take on a new lease of life when cleaned and pressed. Frequently it pays to have this done at a cleaner's but often home pressing is all that is required. Tailors have a trick or two which may be of use to us at home. They use a double thickness of unbleached cotton for a pressing cloth and instead of dampening the cotton itself, they lay it in position and then go over it with a wet sponge preferably, but failing a sponge any cloth will do. To press silks or crepes it is sometimes better to run a damp cloth over the ironing sheet than to dampen the material. A very hot iron should be used for woolens and a very moderate one for silks. A hot iron will ruin rayon materials, as many of us have learned by bitter experience.

POT POURRI

When making dressing for chicken, substitute currants for onion, by way of a change.

Try folding the beaten egg white through your pumpkin pie.

Bake your bread-pudding in a pan of water at 325 degrees and it will not fall.

SANDWICH SPREAD

1/2 cup butter
3 eggs slightly beaten
1 cup sugar
3 teaspoons mustard
1 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons flour
1 scant cup vinegar
1/2 cup milk
3/4 lb. grated cheese
1 tin of pimento
2 green peppers
Mix dry ingredients and rub to a smooth paste with the milk. Put pimentos, peppers and cheese through the food chopper. Mix all ingredients and cook in the double boiler until thick and smooth, stirring constantly.

SPANISH LIVER

Brown sliced liver in bacon fat, adding 1 finely chopped onion if desired. Cover with boiling water, season with salt and pepper and simmer, closely covered, for an hour. Remove the liver to a platter and thicken the gravy with flour rubbed to a paste with cold water. Pour over the liver and serve. This may be cooked in the oven if convenient.

found was not hers, but he couldn't help thinking of her. At length his mind turned from his visitor—and traveled back over many other places of the world that had become familiar and pleasant to him in the now distant past. Among them, the beautiful Japanese Island of Tomoshima, in the Inland Sea, enclosing within itself another—a secret sea—shaped like a heart through whose main artery a whole Navy could enter and be well hidden! There in that Oriental atmosphere, with its distinct beauty, one could listen to the bells of the Shinto Temple, and to the softer vibrations that come from the gongs of the Buddhist Temples, and after them, the train of weary workers as they come from their labors in the fields, where the precious growths of the soil have been hung to dry over bamboo poles. There too, in those places, he had stood within the dark shadows of the woods, or around corners—watching, watching—and lonely too! . . . "But then—even if I did teach in one of the great Universities there—bah—that was before—before—but why think of that now! My name was a different one then, as it has been many times, by judicious selection. Those aliases were necessary. And now it is plain Robert Williams, for I am a factory worker. Not much like Otto Hertz—with the rightful Von's prefixed, to be specific."—So ran his thoughts for the last few minutes.

As Robert Williams, Otto had been happy enough here, for there was the pretty little French-Canadian girl next door, sitting often on the verandah, pretending to read, but with her black eyes turned on him. Just so near, at first. Then—

This evening the air is calm and soothing, and its tang is certainly unlike that of the German parts Otto knows best, or the Japanese or Italian coasts; on the French coast, of which he knows most, and where he had watched longest and most carefully. Here in Canada he had also watched, in a sense, carefully. He had done much dreaming; he had actually feasted on the beauties of these ancient hills and their changing seasons. Otto's nature was inherently artistic, as his mind was scientific, and his heart in the right place.

The Western hills of Europe, he continued to think, were also beautiful with their crystal caves; then the billowy hills of Rome, as he had seen them at Easter time in that long ago. Also, there were enchantments of the spot where he had written those two poems, "The Man Who Must," and "The Man Who Didn't"—from hills that always seemed to smile down to the lakes below, behind Cadenabbia. Beautiful Como! . . . That was just before he had been despatched to this part of the world. He was younger then, and was capable of handling larger commissions. They each had their attractions, and he had his memories and his dreams—his religion, and his secrets, and his convictions. Soon, perhaps, he would be advised to return, and he would take with him some Canadian furs, and Indian bead-work for those at home. He would go by Quebec City. He felt young, as if he were young, and robust too, he thought. To get home for even a short time, would be a change.

Otto Kertz never thought of such a thing as death. At least, no-one ever suspected that he did. Death, with its gruesome cold claws and wormy darkness . . . He suddenly came to. The bell of the Catholic Church nearby had called him back from his thoughts, and told him of the passing hour, which he had forgotten in his moments of abstraction.

He had been laid off work now for several days, but he would go just the same and have a look around—just a leisurely stroll around the factory as usual. There had been some rumors within the last few days, of imminent war between Japan and China. There had been crashing headlines in the press, which made things look serious. He should be on his own job. There would be things expected of him by those at headquarters. He had just this morning overheard some remarks, about a truck-load of ammunition being rushed off for Japan. He would not forget to make note of that, in the little book in the inner pocket of the blue waist-coat which he wore always—the vest similar to those worn the world over by his brother Agents. He recalled that he had seen the truck go off, but it had not the required red-flag at its rear as a signal of danger. He wondered why. Perhaps there had been some oversight—or some special reason. However, he would stroll around . . .

When Otto reached the door of the Chief's office, he heard voices—those of the Superintendent and others of the management. Haste and concern sounded in their words. He heard his own name mentioned. Perhaps they were going to need him again. He little knew or suspected why he had been dropped off work. He would listen awhile to make certain of what was being said; and with this intention he slipped into the dense shrubs that grew from the ledges of rock and down the steep drop to the river at its deepest. He made a few notes in the small book.

What he had heard as he listened, startled and shocked him. How had they found out! . . . "Mien Gott!" he exclaimed aloud.

In another moment, too quick for thought, he had apparently lost his footing and plunged down into the deep river, with neither shrub nor twig to hold him.

What Otto's intentions were as he swept downward to his finale, will never be known to mortal man. When he reached the water and the rocks, we believe he still had his own big secrets and his dreams with him.

When his land-lady heard, her mind turned at once to the old trunk standing in the corner of his room . . . perhaps it had nothing of any value inside . . . and his board and lodging for the month were unpaid . . .

School-boys had seen the blue of the waist-coat floating under the bridge. Inside the pocket they found the book, with its data in code which they could not understand, and two poems, written, evidently, by himself:

"For the man who must,
Is a wormy thing
That crawls at the feet of might—
But, the man who didn't
When commanded to,
Stands on the rock of right."
Note: "In case of accident,
I am, 'The Man Who Must,'— also, 'The Man Who Didn't.'"

—THE END—

Dignity in British Courts

(Ottawa Journal.)

It is pretty generally recognized that the courts of Britain reach closer to the ideals of justice than the courts of any other country, and they are surrounded with an unmatched dignity, a ritual which links the humblest citizen with his vested rights and traditional inheritance of freedom.

FIRST BROADCAST OF ROYAL MARRIAGE

Canadians from coast to coast will have an opportunity of hearing the actual ceremony as it is performed in Westminster Abbey of the wedding of H.R.H. the Duke of Kent, fourth son of His Majesty, to Princess Marina on Thursday, November 29. For the first time a royal wedding is to be broadcast, and from microphones in the Abbey the marriage service will be carried to the world.

The Canadian Radio Commission has arranged to pick up, through the Marconi station at Yamachiche, Quebec, the broadcast of the royal wedding, taken and transmitted by the British Broadcasting Corporation. From Yamachiche the broadcast will go directly to a coast-to-coast network. It will be heard in Canada at 10.00 a.m. E.S.T. For the benefit of those who are unable to listen in at that hour, the Commission will repeat the broadcast in the evening by means of its blattnerphone equipment.

Every word of the marriage service will be picked up by twelve microphones inside Westminster Abbey. Other microphones outside the Abbey will be used for the broadcasting of the procession as it approaches and departs from the Abbey.

THAT DEPRESSED FEELING IS LARGELY LIVER

Wake Up Your Liver Bile . . .
Without Calomel, And Feel Like a Million Dollars.

Nothing can put your system out of kilter more quickly than your liver. All it has to do is stop pouring its daily two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels—and life certainly gets grey. That sluggish flow of bile slows up digestion and elimination and makes you "feel punk". Your stomach acts up—gas, bloating, sourness, pain. Your breath is bad and the taste in your mouth is nasty. Your head aches. Skin is blotchy. All, of course, because your system is full of poisons. Here bowel movers like salts, oil, mineral water, roughage, laxative candy or chewing gum are not good enough to correct this condition entirely. You're liver and you must wake up your liver bile to be happy again. Avoid calomel (mercury). The thing for you is a box of Carter's Little Liver Pills. They leave upset, you because they're purely vegetable, gentle and safe; but how they do change your view on life! Don't waste your money on substitutes. Be definite. Ask for Carter's by name—and get them! Look for the name, Carter's, on the red label. 25c. at all druggists. 50

SATURDAY NIGHT TOWNS

Midland Free Press

People who are thinking of locating in an Ontario town for business purposes, should not arrive at a conclusion by visiting the prospective place on a Saturday night. The average town in this Province is a bustling busy little city, so far as the main street is concerned, from 7.30 until 10 or 10.30 every Saturday night in the summer months, but after the latter hour there is a striking change, and many of them are good representations of a deserted village.

Saturday night shopping is so firmly established in the towns that any attempt to discourage it is useless. It does, however, serve to give most of the towns a very business-like appearance for at least a few hours, so that at least is something.

Canada
Province of Quebec
District of Terrebonne.

A session of the Court of King's Bench, holding criminal jurisdiction in and for the district of Terrebonne, will be held at the Court House, in the town of Saint-Jerome, district aforesaid on Tuesday, the twenty-seventh day of November 1934, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon.

In consequence I give notice to all who intend to proceed against any prisoner now in the common jail of the said district, and all others, that they must be present then and there.

And I also give notice to all the Justices of the Peace, Coroners and Peace Officers in and for the said district, that they must be present with their records, rolls, indictments and other documents in order to do the thing which belongs to them in their respective capacities.

Socrates Backed Critics

There is a good anecdote regarding Socrates which merits repetition. A certain gypsy who profited himself on the ability to read the mind's construction in the face once before a group, including Socrates, enlarged on the vices reflected in the face of Socrates. Most of those in the group disagreed with the face reader, the philosopher, however, remarking, "He is right—the vices are there; only reason has detracted them."

First to Girdle Globe

The first to accomplish the feat—girdling the globe—so far as the space but not the time is concerned—was Ferdinand Magellan, son of Portugal, but sponsored by his adventure by the king of Spain, who established the first round the world record in a sixteenth century sailing ship, though the ship returned from its famous voyage without its intrepid master. It was Magellan's evil fate, with victory in sight, to end his career tragically in the Philippines, while the ships that had carried his daring hopes sailed off on the last link of the globe-girdling voyage.

LAKEFIELD HONORS NEWLY WEDS

In connection with the recent marriage of Miss Milly Sherritt and Mr. Lorne Dawson, a series of most enjoyable festivities have taken place. Mrs. George L. Rogers entertained at the tea hour for a miscellaneous shower when about twenty two ladies were present and the happy bride-elect was the recipient of many useful and dainty gifts. After the wedding in Montreal, and the return of the bridal couple, an informal and most jolly evening was spent in dancing and the enjoyment of dainty refreshments.

Then, at the meeting of the Q. W. I. and Farmers' Club held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Rogers, a handsome electric toaster was presented to the happy couple at the close of routine business.

Still another presentation took place at the meeting of Trinity Branch of the W. A. at the home of Mrs. George Peet, when the Vice-President, Mrs. Thos. McCambly, presented a substantial cheque to the bride as a token of sincere love and respect from the ladies of the Branch.

Last, but not least of all the happy events was the assembling of our respected Mayor, Mr. Amos Kerr, with a party of well-wishers at the home of the newly weds, all bringing numerous good wishes in the tangible form of a generous cheque, tendered by the Mayor, as a recognition of the popularity of the bride and groom; and of the good wishes of the donors. Cards, visiting and pleasant friendly intercourse with the serving of refreshments, brought the happy evening to a close.

"Chambered Nautilus"

The nautilus is a deep-sea animal belonging to the class of cephalopoda and lives in a many-chambered shell. The shell of the young animal looks like a small horn, but as the nautilus develops, its home assumes the form of a spiral, each stage of growth indicated by a chamber closed at the rear. Thus the nautilus moves forward as it grows, fashioning a partition behind it when it enters a new chamber; in the outermost compartment is found the living animal.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

The subject of the Lesson Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, November 25th., is "Soul and Body."

The Golden Text is: "The word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart." (Hebrews 4: 12)

The following correlative passages are selected from among those comprised in the Lesson-Sermon to be read from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:—

"God is a Spirit; and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth." (John 4: 24).

"Spirit being God, there is but one Spirit, for there can be but one infinite and therefore one God . . . Soul and Spirit being one, God and Soul are one, and this one never included in a limited mind or a limited body. Spirit is eternal, divine. Nothing but Spirit, Soul, can evolve Life, for Spirit is more than all else. Because Soul is immortal, it does not exist in mortality. Soul must be incorporeal to be Spirit, for Spirit is not finite. Only by losing the false sense of Soul can we gain the eternal unfolding of Life as immortality brought to light." (Science and Health, pp. 334, 335.)

SHE ATE ALL-BRAN TWELVE YEARS WITH FINE RESULTS

Delicious Cereal Relieves Constipation

Read this very enthusiastic letter:

"Something like eleven or twelve years ago, I began eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. When I started, it was called simply Kellogg's Bran, and I believe it was one of the first products of the kind on the market.

"My friends often laugh at my fondness for ALL-BRAN. It gives such a clean taste in the mouth, and I do not feel satisfied until I have had my ALL-BRAN.

"If the Kellogg Company should ever stop manufacturing ALL-BRAN, here is one who would be greatly disappointed."—Miss Amy Person (address furnished upon request).

Science says that ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regularity. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. How much safer than taking patent medicines—often harmful. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily for most types of constipation. For serious cases, try it three times daily. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Sold in the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

ACTIVITIES OF ARGENTEUIL WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

Chatham Branch reports a very interesting address from Mrs. Kuhring, of Lakefield, on Education and Better Schools, the membership answering their roll call with the name of a Canadian river. Sixteen members were present.

Frontier Branch had a pleasant combination meeting with Chatham Branch in honor of Miss McCain, at the home of Mrs. Jas. Murdock. Almost forty ladies were present to hear Miss McCain speak on "Why I am a Canadian". The subject, though interesting, was somewhat disappointing as this branch had chosen for its subject, "How we are governed", a question in which we are all interested; but the Branch were informed that the lecture on that subject had gone amissing.

Jerusalem - Bethany had twelve members and thirteen ladies from Pioneer Branch to take advantage of Miss McCain's interesting talk on different cuts of meat. Mrs. G. W. Kuhring was also present and told them of the work of our County.

Lachute Branch, with twenty-three members present and six guests, had a meeting on the topic of Canadianization and National Events, also an address by Dr. Mason. Their roll call was naming a Canadian magazine, and producing a copy. Plans were made to send a box of clothing to Ste. Agathe Sanatorium.

Lakefield's meeting was especially interesting. A wedding gift was presented to Mrs. L. Dawson, a former president. Nine ladies from Morin Heights shared with them Miss McCain's instructive address on Child Welfare and Public Health, specializing on "The Sick Room. Care of the Patient and Bed Making." Canadianization and National Events was brought forward by the reading of current events from Canada week by week, and the poem "In Flanders Field", by Mrs. G. W. Kuhring. "Something to be thankful for" was the subject of the roll call.

Morin Heights had Armistice Poems in answer to their roll call, and read and discussed the Prov. Conventor's outline regarding agriculture, also the Home Economics Provincial outline. They made plans for taking up some of the suggestions at future meetings. Favorite salad recipes were given by the members.

Pioneer took up Home Economics with Miss McCain, who gave an interesting talk on "Meats and their Food Values." Mrs. Jas MacKenzie read a paper on Immigration. Another paper also was read, giving reasons "Why women should have the vote."

Upper Lachute - East End had sixteen members present and the Lachute Branch as invited guests, to hear Miss McCain give an interesting and instructive talk on "Systematizing Household Duties."

serving a knowledge of the pioneer efforts of the early settlers, tracing the growth to present times and profiting by their experiences. It is hoped there will be an enthusiastic attendance.

LAUDS FRATERNIZING OF FAITHS

HAWKESBURY GATHERING DRAWS COMMENT

We liked that news story which came from Hawkesbury over the week-end—says a recent issue of Ottawa Journal. It told of a Roman Catholic priest, Father Brosseau, celebrating the 25th anniversary of his priesthood with a speech before the local Rotary Club on "The Progress of Rotary." In the chair was Harry Green-spoon, a Jew, and to thank the priest and present him with a bookcase, was Rev. A. J. Back, a Presbyterian minister.

We hear a great deal about religious bigotry. Actually, there has never been a time in our history with less of sectarian bitterness, with more of a disposition on the part of men and women to respect the consciences of their neighbors.

CATTLE BREEDERS TAKE CREDITS AT TORONTO

Following up on the successes won by Argenteuil horses at Ottawa, the Royal Fair at Toronto brought further credit to local cattle breeders. Among the winners are mentioned the names of J. P. Bradley, W. J. Rodger, J. H. Black and Clarence Miller.

In the Ayrshire classes Mr. Bradley took 1st. on 3-year-old bull, 8th. on senior yearling heifer, and 13th. on senior heifer calf.

Mr. W. J. Rodger took 2nd. on senior yearling bull and Mr. Black took fifth with his bull as well as other awards. Clarence Miller won two third prizes, on senior bull calf and junior calf and junior bull calf respectively.

The competition was reported very keen, all local entries meeting strong exhibits in the contest.

W. J. Rodger, Lachute, sold a pair of Registered Ayrshire cows to Mr. Hatch, of New York, for $500.

AMHERSTBURG HAS 60-YEAR-OLD NEWSPAPER

DIAMOND JUBILEE NUMBER REFLECTS CREDIT

Dating its inception from a year prior to the Lachute Watchman, the Amherstburg Echo celebrated last week its diamond jubilee, editing for the occasion a special issue which is a credit to the publisher, Mr. Arthur W. Marsh, his staff and associates.

This jubilee number presents articles of rare historical interest in the community of Amherstburg, which has developed into a town with every evidence of keen vitality and public spirit—a growth in which the Echo has displayed an indisputable role. The genial editor is modest, however, claiming no undue credit for this influence exerted by his newspaper, but to regular readers the fact is self evident.

An article of particular interest to The Watchman was, naturally, the leader descriptive of advances in the Echo publishing plant—advances which have run remarkably parallel to our own—and proceeded farther, in accord with the demands of the territory.

This newspaper joins with friends and fellow members of the weekly press, in felicitations and hearty good wishes to our brother publishers at Amherstburg.

STRUCK BY MOTORIST AT GREECE'S POINT

Mr. A. Dupuis, an aged resident of Greece's Point, while walking on the road a short distance from the village on Sunday evening, was struck by a hit-and-run motorist and left lying helpless by the roadside. Luckily he was soon discovered and taken to his son's house and a doctor summoned, who found that though there were no bones broken the old man was badly bruised and shaken, and his recovery will be a matter of some time.

EUCHRE PARTY

A very successful card party was held at the Catholic Hall last week. Numerous valuable prizes were awarded to the winning parties and a delightfully pleasant evening was spent. Mr. Pariseau in the role of auctioneer disposed of various items of household comfort, and after a serving of the 'cup that cheers', the crowd rolled home in the wee sma' hours.

HUMAN LIBERTY

For no reason, or for various reasons, the question of human liberty is being very much discussed of late. Of course this question is being treated under the term social psychology or some other "ology" more high sounding and less definite than human liberty. Here in the 'Burg we have so many definitions of human liberty that we are apt to encroach one upon another. Every man is the centre of his own universe, and the world being a small place, the radius of our universe is frequently overlapping, or being overlapped by, the radius of some other universe. We call this a violation of our traditions of liberty—an encroachment on our human liberty. Standing in the centre of our imaginary revolving sphere, we survey the ambit of our influence as a farmer surveys the extent of his farm. We feel that any trespass on our circle of freedom is to us what a trespass of some other man's stock, on his farm, would be to a farmer. This agrarian formula is the yardstick which a lot of us apply to the measurement of our human liberty. When the formula fails us, we meet some kindred spirit who has met with a similar situation, and we proceed to discuss this violation of our inalienable rights. We are like the man who sits at the head of the church pew, and resents his neighbor either asking him to move in or to allow him to pass in.

With exception of a few frosty days this locality has experienced a very mild November. Certain evidence of the warm weather was found last Saturday, by Mr. Harry Parkinson, who discovered a pansy in his garden. The flower was in full bloom and untouched by frosts.

Once upon a time a man went to live away up on the mountain side, "far from the madding crowd." As time passed along other men of a similar frame of mind, hid themselves away to the same locality. Eventually the conventions of life forced such unwelcome necessities as education, sanitation, better roads, post office, and railroad, upon this freedom-loving community. These utilities had to be met by taxes, so that ultimately our colony of libertarians found themselves like the man at the head of the pew, either having to move in or being crushed in. There is no such state as absolute liberty—not even in the Galapagos.

HOCKEY

A meeting of considerable interest to hockey fans was held at Lachute last week, at which the work of the Lachute-Brownsburg League Meeting held at Brownsburg the previous week, a summary of which was published in The Watchman, was declared in part null and void. Mr. Carriere and Mr. Raymond, who were deprived of power to vote on matters concerning players, were re-appointed directors with full power to vote on all matters. In addition to the Chairman, Mr. Legault, and Vice-chairman, Mr. MacKimmie, and the two gentlemen mentioned above, Mr. A. Raymond, of Brownsburg was appointed to represent the 'Burg on the League. It is understood that none of the clubs comprising the league were represented, but a general meeting will be held at Lachute on December 4th., when the business of this meeting will be brought forward for ratification. The schedule will be tabled for approval at this meeting.

HISTORICAL SOC'Y CALLS PUBLIC MEETING

A public meeting, under auspices of the Historical Society of Argenteuil, has been called for 8 p.m. on Saturday next, Dec. 1st., in Dansereau's Hall at Grenville. Rev. Canon Garet of Hawkesbury, Rev. Father Brosseau and Rev. K. N. Brue-ton of Grenville, will be the chief speakers. Dr. Kirby of Hawkesbury and Mr. C. T. Kains of Ottawa are also expected to be present.

There is a growing interest in the Society, which has made marked progress since its recent incorporation, and these addresses are serving to impress our people with the importance of acquiring and pre-

MRS. DAGENAIS ACQUITTED AT HULL

POISONING TRIAL LASTED THREE DAYS

At the conclusion of one of the most sensational trials in the province of recent years, Mrs. A. Dagenais was acquitted yesterday at Hull in the Lachute poisoning case—which has been variously referred to in the press as the Candy Killing and other lurid captions. The trial lasted less than three days.

Little evidence was heard that had not been aired previously in the courts. Dr. Rosario Fontaine, medico-legal expert confirmed the facts generally held to be significant in the crime, namely that a hypodermic syringe and a bottle which had previously contained strychnine were found in Mrs. Dagenais' room—but these he thought, were articles which would naturally be in the possession of a nurse and need excite no suspicion.

Oscar Gagnon, K.C., conducted the defence for Madame Dagenais, while the crown was upheld by Ernest Bertrand, K.C., J. A. Plessis-Belair, K.C. and J. A. Parent, K.C. Mr. Justice Louis Cousineau heard the case.

Other witnesses included Gregoire Raymond, father of the two young victims, who was subjected to close cross examination by counsel for the defence; Dr. Alex. Rodrigue and Dr. Sauve of Lachute; Detectives Guyon and Foucault; R. Giroux, employe at the Raymond house; Miss P. Besserer, of St. Andrews East; Miss A. Riddell, postmistress here at Lachute Mills; Miss Jeanne Fournier and Miss Florence El-kington, a former nurse-maid at the home of Mr. Raymond.

The case was carefully summed up by Mr. Justice Cousineau, and the jury retired for 15 minutes at 3.30 p.m. returning a verdict of Not Guilty at around 3.45 o'clock on Wednesday. The court room was crowded during all three days of the trial.

Congratulations were freely extended to Mrs. Dagenais and to her counsel, Oscar Gagnon, K.C.

In the meantime the bodies of the two little children are lying in the cemetery, the cause and perpetrators of the crime still unknown, and it is to be hoped that the authorities will continue their search and bring the guilty parties to justice.

REV. JAS. ADAMS SUCCEEDS REV. McLENNAN

BIBLE SOC'Y. SECRETARY SPOKE HERE RECENTLY

Rev. James Adams, Minister of Montreal West Presbyterian Church, has been appointed district secretary of the Montreal Auxiliary Bible Society. The district secretary is in charge of all branches outside of the island and district of Montreal.

Mr. Adams accepted the appointment subject to being released from his pastoral charge by the Montreal Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church. He will succeed Rev. Dr. McLennan, who was heard here recently in an interesting address.

WON ODDFELLOWS' CHALLENGE CUP

VICTORS IN FIRST BOWLING EVENT

In the opening event of Oddfellows' Carpet Bowling activities, the local Lodge 14 presented a team in contest Wednesday evening for the Challenge Cup at Montreal, and were triumphant. The local delegation consisted of a number of Oddfellows driving down in two cars, and the players—Bros. G. Demerse, L. Morris, H. Cunningham and R. McArthur, met a team from Beaver Lodge, playing at the Maplewood Lodge Room. Beaver team comprised Bros. C. Newman, B. Griffiths, A. Sommers and R. Walker, who lost to Lachute in a score of 12 to 14.

The event was followed by a supper and pleasant social hour.

The cup, now in the possession of Lachute I.O.O.F. 14, will be on display at R. McArthur & Son's show window.

CURLING TO OPEN DEC. 8 AT SEIGNIORY CLUB

Officers of the Seignior Club have announced their winter sports activities will be opened with the annual curling bonspiel on December 8 and 9 on the rink of the club close to the Log Chateau. One of the most important events of the season will be the sixth annual ski jumping competition to be held early in March following the holding of the Provincial and Dominion Championships at other hills.

PRIVY COUNCIL TO DECIDE WHETHER SWITCHBOARDS TAXABLE

The Bell Telephone Company of Canada has advised the Metropolitan Commission of Montreal that it will not desist from its appeal before the Privy Council in London against a judgment of Quebec courts holding that a switchboard is an immovable and thus subject to municipal taxation. The commission is now determined to petition the Quebec Legislature for enactment of a law decreeing that switchboards are immovables, and hopes that it will be possible for all municipalities in the province to tax them as such.

Threat of this action had been held over the company by the commission if it would not refrain from appealing to the higher court. But Charles Laurendeau, K.C., the commission's legal adviser, received instructions from the utility company that it would ignore the commission's ultimatum.

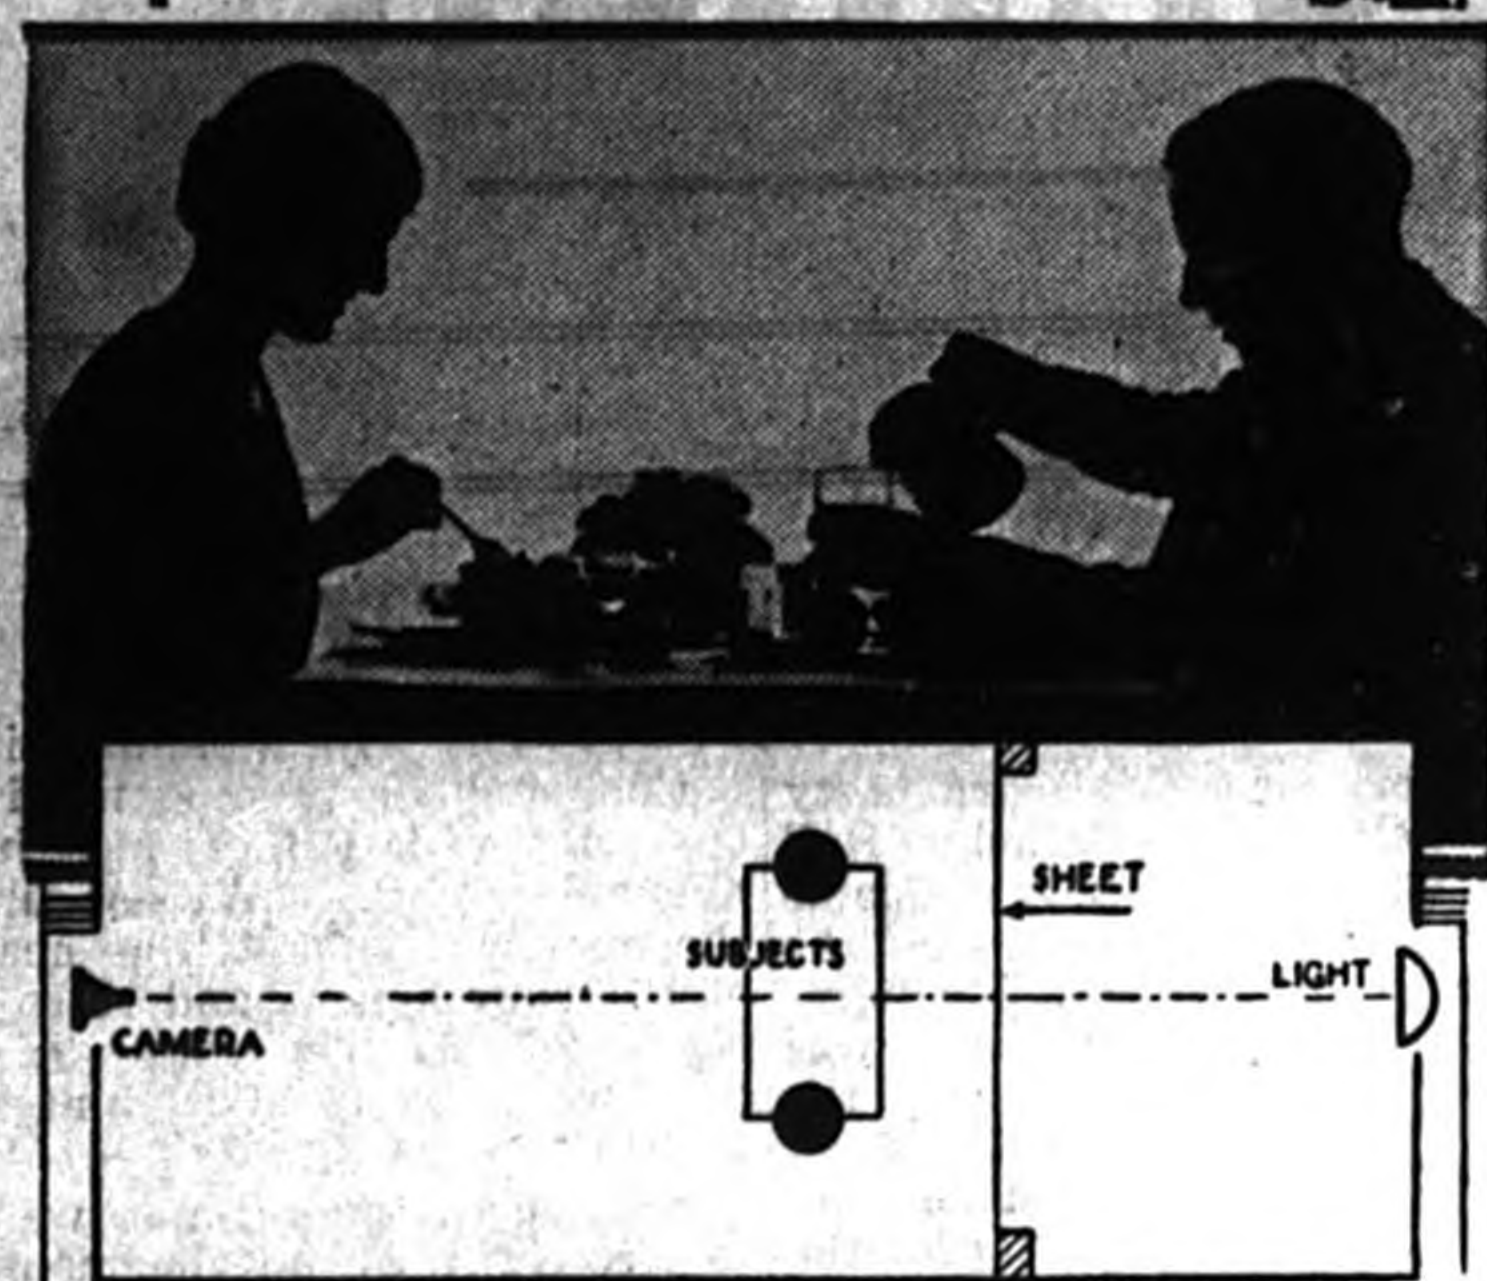

The Town of St. Laurent was the first municipality on the Island of Montreal to assess switchboards as immovables. But a Circuit Court judgment ruled against the town. It appealed, and the Court of King's Bench, Appeal Side, over-ruled the lower court's judgment, and upheld the town's claim. It is this second judgment that the company is appealing in London.

The Town of St. Laurent, through the commission, also sought to have other island municipalities to help it finance its case against the utility company, pointing out that a principle of importance to all municipalities was involved—that of municipal taxation. But there is nothing in the charters of the other municipalities permitting them to become parties to the action, and thus contribute towards its costs, the commission realized, though several municipalities readily indicated their willingness to back St. Laurent in the action.

The Metropolitan Commission decided, then, that it would also ask Quebec for powers to intervene in actions involving the general interests of its supporting municipalities, and to assess costs on all municipalities on the island.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

SILHOUETTES

An arched doorway between living and dining rooms, a taut sheet and a bright light—these were the only special requirements for this silhouette. The diagram shows the relative positions of camera, subjects, sheet and light.

WITH the advent of cooler weather, some photographers assume that the picture-taking season is over. And in so doing they miss a lot of fun and good pictures.

Matter of fact, with the new films and generally improved equipment, the snapshot season is continuous, winter as well as summer, indoors and out. We shall have much to say about indoor pictures. For a starter, let's talk about silhouettes—those pictures in which the figures are solid black on a white background, much like the scissor pictures you see at fairs.

With silhouettes, even more than with ordinary snaps, it is vital that the pictures tell their own story. (Unless, of course, you want simply a profile portrait.) For you have only outlines to work with, unsupported by perspective or detail.

The first essential of silhouette pictures is a perfectly flat background, devoid of detail. And the easiest way to obtain such a background is to stretch a bed sheet across a broad doorway between two rooms. It's important that the sheet be tacked up so that all creases and wrinkles are eliminated.

To light up this background, a strong light must be put in back of it, about five feet away either centered or placed directly back of the major feature of the picture. You have a wide choice of lamps. You can use a couple of ordinary 60-watt frosted bulb lamps, a photoflood-type or photoflash lamp. Both the photoflood and photoflash are available at most electrical or photo supply shops at very low prices. The photoflood lamp, which gives an exceptionally brilliant white light, is probably your best bet.

Pose your subject about two feet in front of the sheet (on the side away from the lamp). Plant your camera on a tripod or table so that it is directly on an imaginary line drawn from the lamp, through the sheet and through the subject. The diagram above explains the layout in the simplest way. When the picture is taken, the light shining through the sheet should be the only light in either of the rooms.

About exposures. If you use the two 60-watt lamps, you will need an exposure of about 10 seconds, with the lens well opened; with a photoflood, a couple of seconds will suffice. Using the photoflash, set the shutter at "time," turn out all lights, open the shutter, flash the flashbulb (which gives only an instant's vivid light), close the shutter—and there you are.

A little practice with silhouettes is worth volumes of instruction. Good silhouettes make excellent material for greeting cards, book plates, place cards and so on.

In making them, you can call all your ingenuity and inventiveness into play.

Those Long Streaks

Q.—Sir: My last few rolls of film have been marred by thin, straight up-and-down lines. The lines were in the same position on all the films. Is this a fault in the film? B. O. McD.

A.—Not a bit of it! Don't blame the film, because those lines or scratches were caused by bits of dust and dirt in the film track of your camera. Take off the back of your camera and clean the surfaces over which your film slides as you roll it up from one exposure to the next. Exit scratches.

Blue Haze

Q.—Sir: I took some snapshots from the top of a high building last week. The day seemed quite clear, but my pictures seem to fade out and to miss much that I saw. What's the matter? D. B. B.

A.—You may have had your lens too wide open but, anyway, for a shot like that always use a yellow filter. A filter is an inexpensive little gadget that fits over your camera's lens and weeds out the blue haze that is almost always present in long shots, whether your eyes notice it or not. A filter, by the way, will help you get clouds—and clouds help any such picture.

QUESTION FOR THE COURTS: IS AN ESKIMO AN INDIAN?

What is an Eskimo? This question has been put to the Supreme Court of Canada to decide at its next term, states the Tourist Department of the Canadian National Railways. The matter came up in connection with payment of relief monies. The Quebec Government contends that the Eskimos are Indians, while the Dominion Government claims that they are a race separate and distinct from Indians. Indians are wards of the Dominion Government and if the Supreme Court finds that the Eskimos are Indians then the Dominion must pay for the relief for the large colonies in the Ungava section of Quebec. The sum of $40,000.00 is involved.

Wake up your Liver Bile

—No Calomel necessary

For you to feel healthy and happy, your liver must pour two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels, every day. Without that bile, trouble starts. Poor digestion. Slow elimination. Poisons in the body. General wretchedness. How can you expect to clear up a situation like this completely with mere bow-moving salts, oil, mineral water, laxative candy or chewing gum, or roughage? TOTTIE'S WISH

The dew has gone to Rain-Bow Town,
To wait until it's warm—
And Old Jack Frost has sneaked right here
To see what he can harm—
He's frozen all the pretty grass,
And made the ground quite hard,
I cannot make mud pies at all,
Or dig in my back yard.
Oh, how I wish that some good elf,
Would chase Old Jack away,
So we could have sweet flowers again,
And in warm sunshine play.
I'd love that good elf, oh so much,
I'd give him all my cake,
If he would use his magic touch
To make Old Jack Frost quake.

alda, her voice slightly shrill. Her conscience was troubling her and she was not enjoying the outing at all. The appealing look in those owl eyes was haunting her.

"That child is perfectly harmless, Donald, I am sure" spoke up Bess, who had been rather silent, "And I am real sorry that we did not let her tag along."

"You are welcome to let her tag along next time—in my name" said Donald loftily, her black eyes shining with hurt pride. It was seldom that Joan and Bess differed with her on any subject and this seeming partisanship with a stranger did not please her. The three girls went back to school with their load of berries very quietly. As they filed into the classroom Dot Blair suddenly called out "Whatever is the matter with you youngsters! Did you meet with some ill omen in the woods? If so I am very glad we did not go with you. You all look as if you had lost your best friend. Fess up now! What happened out in the gloomy dimness of the pine forest?"

"Don't be silly!" exclaimed Donald peevishly, "we were not near the pine woods. Anyway nothing's the matter and nobody's feeling gloomy or anything like that."

The afternoon bell ringing at the moment hindered further conversation, and no-one spoke of the happening at recess or after school.

Donald, sitting with her history in front of her that evening, going over the events of the day in her mind, was feeling just a little uncomfortable. This feeling was not lessened by hearing her father say, "My job from now on rests with the new manager. If he likes me I stick; if he doesn't, I go."

The words settled themselves in Donald's mind. "If he likes me, I stick." Grown up life and school life was much the same, she had just decided, when Ted's voice beside her was saying, "Do you hear that, Sis?" The question startled her.

"Hear what?" she said a bit petulantly. "Dad just said that the new manager's kid is in your school, right in your class, and he thinks a lot may depend on the way you girls treat her. No high-hatting her, mind."

Ted brought his doubled fist down on the table as he spoke, with such a bang that Donald's pencil was thrown up into the air, and from there it fell to the floor. This gave Donald an opportunity to hide the

Making History in Argenteuil

50 Years Ago.

Friday, Dec. 5, 1884.

Mr. James McOuat of Brownsburg suffered a fractured leg this week when, in taking a land roller from the field to stow away for the winter, he dislodged a large rock which rolled down onto his leg.

At Lachute Council meeting the committee in charge of White's bridge — Messrs. Wm. Armstrong, Alex. Murray, and Thos. W. Hammond—reported the requirements necessary for repair of the structure, and the Secretary was requested to advertise for purchase of the materials.

The Canadian Pacific Railway has drafted plans for an extension from St. Thomas, Ont., to the Detroit river.

Mr. Alex. McIntosh is dead at his residence in St. Andrews, at the ripe old age of 74.

Hon. Mr. Robertson, Quebec Provincial Secretary, has entered libel action against the Toronto Globe. The Quebec correspondent of that paper charged Mr. Robertson, while acting as Provincial Treasurer, of borrowing money at 5 per cent and charging the Province 6 per cent for it.

25 Years Ago.

Friday, Dec. 10, 1909.

Hon. Wm. Owens was in town the early part of the week. We understand he is now owner of the Ottawa River Navigation Coy., which he has purchased at a cost of $150,000.

At the invitation of the Canadian Northern, several of our townsmen visited Ottawa over the new road, and speak very highly of the new service and its fine equipment. The line has been a sort of ridicule for some time, and now that they have got down to business there will be some inducement for people to patronize the new line.

Brownsburg—Dominion Cartridge Company, we understand, are simply smothered with orders for the New Year. Their Sovereign Shot-shells have yet to find an equal.

Brownsburg — The Lachute News has, we understand, a new correspondent in our general post-master, Mr. McAllister. Well, well—they needed something to keep them alive.

Rev. Ralph H. Corner of Ottawa is holding meetings in Arundel in the Holiness Movement Church.

guilty flush that covered her cheeks.

"Bitter-sweet" she whispered under her breath. "Oh dear! If Dad loses his job over the way I treated Betty Bell today, it will be a bitter lesson to me."

The sweet part of it came later, when a little pink note lay on each girl's desk on Monday of the next week, which proved to be an invitation to Betty Bell's birthday aptry.

Donalda, Bess and Joan met in the classrooms at recess to discuss the invitation.

"All I've got to say," confessed Donalda, "is that this will be a bitter-sweet lesson to me. I am ashamed, from the crown of my head to the soles of my feet. I feel that I'm not fit to go to Betty Bell's party, because of my meanness to her. But she's so sweet about it there is nothing else to do but go—but I shall never judge by appearances again."

The Ottawa Spotlight

By Wilfrid Eggleston

Ottawa, November 27. Hon. H. H. Stevens struck a popular note in his address at Ottawa to the Junior Board of Trade, when he suggested a gigantic house-building campaign, involving perhaps a billion dollars, to help Canada out of the depression. There are so many slums, so many inadequate homes, so many idle workmen, so much building material available, that at first glimpse it seems almost a miracle that these ingredients do not get together of themselves and build up Canada. If Mr. Stevens keeps on making addresses like those at Ottawa his following will, one supposes, rise steadily. It is already a big one. These are the kind of things which seize the imagination of the people, and a potential public leader needs to have a lot of them up his sleeve.

Private or Public Building?

Of course Mr. Stevens proposal is not new. It was urged a number of times at the depth of the depression. I remember very vividly the studies which George Coote, U.F.A. member for Macleod, made on this subject, and I am sure J. S. Woodworth made a number of such proposals in the House and out. M. J. Coldwell, the Saskatchewan C.C.F. leader, has also advocated the plan. If government assistance to the worker is to be given, then it seems at least as sensible to give it for building houses as for building roads, with this possible exception: that when you build roads you do not enter into competition with private industry, whereas when you build houses, you do. Which brings one to the interesting questions: in this Billion Dollar Housing Scheme, is the idea for the State to do the building, or should private interests be assisted by the State? Or is it merely the hope that the private construction trade will set about on its own accord on this vast enterprise?

Why Haven't They Built?

Perhaps it will clear up the economic background of the building industry if one asks why building of houses has practically ceased in the past three or four years. I don't pretend to originality in these observations, some of them were borrowed from the analysis a leading financial paper made of the slum report recently made in the city of Toronto.

Private builders have been inactive for the following reasons: they have been unable to figure out any way of making proposed houses pay a reasonable return on their investment. Rent has been falling, and it has been difficult to collect. Returns from mortgages have been less secure than for many years. In most provinces a virtual moratorium exists, and any landlord who seeks to evict a tenant for inability to pay rent, or any mortgagee who proposes to foreclose, has both the law and public opinion against him. While building materials and building labor have come down in price, neither of them has come down as much as the capacity of the average householder to pay rent. Money rates for a long time refused to budge: now they are falling, but in only a few cases it is possible even yet to borrow money for building at a rate which makes the venture attractive.

Useless to Expect It

Under these circumstances much building is unlikely, on the part of the private industry. If the state does it, some of these considerations would not apply. It could get money, at least, very cheaply. It would have to pay standard rates, one supposes, for materials and labor. If it were successful, the present owners of houses and apartments would find the government a formidable competitor. Rents would fall further, one supposes, and many obsolete or semi-obsolete structures would have to be written off by their owners entirely. This would not be such a calamity, in many ways, but these owners would certainly look to the state for redress.

Another way to start a billion dollar building plan would be to restore prosperity to the country in such a way that it would again be an attractive proposition for a small householder to build his own home, or for a man with a little money to invest to erect some desirable new houses. In a sense Mr. Stevens' proposal puts the cart before the horse: the right fiscal and financial policies, in this world of improving times, might cause a gigantic building boom to spring up with little more than the paternal blessing of the government at Ottawa.

THE WAGES OF MONEY

(Toronto Telegram.)

The lower interest rate on Government bonds is a welcome development. So long as high returns were available on this form of investment, capital for productive, employment-giving enterprise was not forthcoming. It is necessary before there can be any general revival of prosperity that the wages of money be in line with the wages of labor. This condition now seems to have been reached.

TOO HASTY CRITICISM

(Ottawa Journal)

Most of us are quick to criticize the police. —And our criticism is often unjust. For the miracle of police work, as it is organized today, is not that so many criminals escape, but that so many are apprehended. The public takes note of the few failures; it forgets the thousands of cases where the police succeed.

COSTS MONEY TO BE A CITY

Owen Sound, which became a city after a dispute with the county council in 1920, is now considering a proposal that it revert to the status of a town. It has sometimes been proposed that York township, with its 70,000 people, should assume cityhood, but opponents of the change have invariably contended that it costs money to be a city.

SCHOOL PLANNED FOR TRAFFIC VIOLATORS

The path of traffic violations in Chicago may lead but to the classroom, in a plan now under consideration.

A "Keep Chicago Safe" Sub-Committee has suggested that violators should pay a fine or attend four night sessions of the school. The plan includes illustrated lectures and tests.

TOWN OF HAWKESBURY LOSES APPEAL

Testimony of Montreal Experts Held Unnecessary

Hawkesbury was unsuccessful in its appeal against reduction of its bill of costs, as respondent in an appeal of the International Paper Co against its assessment for municipal taxation. The municipality objected to the reduction of $2,037 that the taxing officer, John MacGillivray, K.C., made in its claim for disbursements for witness fees.

This reduction applied mainly to the claim on account of witness fees paid to John Stad-ier and Herbert Cantwell, Montreal civil engineers, who gave evidence in the case.

By a judgment delivered at Toronto, Mr. Justice Kelly dismissed the municipality's appeal. Dealing with the claim for fees paid to the Montreal engineers. His Lordship claimed it was not shown that the evidence they gave could not have been obtained from equally qualified witnesses in the Province of Ontario. "If such witnesses were available and if the argument of the municipal corporation should prevail," said Mr. Justice Kelly, "it would mean that a witness from would mean that anyone might bring in a witness from any other country, no matter how remote, at a great additional expense and if successful in his litigation, saddle that expense upon the unsuccessful opposing party, a position which seems to me untenable."

It is safe to assume that the merchant with sufficient foresight to advertise has also had the enterprise to lay in the choicest stock of goods for Christmas. In other words—consult the ads for the best places to buy!

If you are in doubt as to a suitable Christmas gift for that friend away from home—make it a year's subscription to The Watchman, the choicest remembrance of home-town days.

DISCARDED TOYS WANTED

For the seventh successive year the 1st. Lachute Troop Boy Scouts will join in the Annual "Christmas Good Turn" engaged in by Boy Scouts all over the Dominion. This year, as in the past, Lachute will form a link in the coast-to-coast chain of Scout Toy Repair Shops.

In order to make the work successful an appeal is made to the public for donations of old, discarded or damaged toys, children's games, books, etc. These will be repaired and renovated whenever necessary and held ready for distribution amongst the needy children of this locality, as well as children of new settlers in other parts of Canada.

To enable this repair work to be done in plenty of time, it is necessary that the toys, etc., be received by the Scouts at the earliest possible date. Anyone desirous of making contributions to this worthy cause is asked to notify one of the members of the troop, who will gladly arrange for a messenger to call for the parcel.

THOSE CHURCH SUPPERS

"Organized to Death"

During the late fall epidemic of church suppers, a farmer wrote to the Toronto Globe as follows:

"I see that someone is again raising the question of church suppers. If folks would give the value, in money, of the stuff they contribute to such suppers, the church would certainly be far ahead, financially. Last year it took nine of our ducks to get us to the church supper, and my wife worked her head off for about two days before, as she had a table. We took two ducks, dressed and roasted; a bowl of gravy, a quart of cream, a quart of pickles, and a cake. We paid, my wife and I, thirty-five cents each for admission and twenty-five cents each for our two girls. The ducks were worth thirty-five cents on the hoof—if ducks have hoofs—so you can figure out how many ducks it took, and we couldn't raise ducks at thirty-five cents each. A chicken of about six pounds would cost seventy-five cents to raise, and my wife says it would serve about six according to what they eat at church suppers. You know, at such functions the majority don't want to be chewing at necks and bones or eating gizzards. A five-pound duck costs about fifty cents to raise, and a goose $1.25. It costs me about $14 to raise a 200-pound pig, and to-day the pigs are worth about $16 alive. Taking everything into consideration, it would cost about thirty cents each to put on a fowl supper. Then there is the work—and oh, boy—what work! The ladies are planning for about two months before, working several days before and a couple of days later. I am an elder in the church, but never was in favor of raising money in this way. I think the church to-day is organized and ladies' aided to death. If we would give as the Lord prospers us, we would have money for everything." Another writer in similar vein expresses himself thusly: "Every one enjoys the church supper, but the tired housewife, who is busily preparing a few days ahead, and is almost exhausted for about a week afterwards. One lady at our church remarks: 'Well, I suppose each one will bring enough to serve about twenty people.'"

Mrs. Smith—My husband gave me a real thrill the last time he kissed me.

Mrs. Jones—Have you cashed it yet, dearie?

Three blood transfusions were necessary to save a lady patient's life at a hospital. A brawny young Scotchman offered his blood. The patient gave him $50. for the first pint, $25. for the second pint—but the third time she had so much Scotch blood in her she only thanked him.

Buckingham Palace Is in Shape of Quadrangle

Buckingham palace is built in the form of a quadrangle. The great pile of stone seen from the Mall forms no part of the original design, but was added by Queen Victoria to inclose the uncompleted quadrangle left behind by Nash. This wing contains the suite of rooms reserved for distinguished guests and their staffs. The first floor contains the main rooms; on the next floor are the bedrooms of equerries and attendants, and the valets and maids are housed in the mezzanine.

The ground floor of the front of the palace comprises a private house. This is the residence of the keeper of the palace, the executive who controls the working of the household. The living rooms of the royal family are in the north part of the palace overlooking the Green park, and it is typical of the modest way in which the king and queen live that their private dining room is about one-third the size of that used by the equerries and ladies in waiting.

This royal dining room, by the way, has a curious wall decoration in the form of huge Chinese plaques, which were brought from that fantastic eastern palace at Brighton now known as the pavilion. From there, too, came the central lights of the room, which resemble a vast umbrella.

PAUL BRAY, PRODUCER, HIKED TO VANCOUVER

MISSIONER FOR CANADIAN CULTURE, WILL PRESENT PLAYS IN LACHUTE

Mr. Paul E. Bray, who is presenting his dramatic troupe in a sensational drama and a comedy on Saturday in the Auditorium, has won recognition as a musical and dramatic promoter.

It was in 1930 that Mr. Bray hiked from Montreal to Vancouver, a feat which took him 14 months, in the interests of Canadian film producing.

Leaving Montreal in March, 1930, with a vocalist companion, the two covered 5105 miles on foot, visiting every city and town en route to Vancouver. They secured wide support in their mission, and with Hollywood as their goal to interest movie magnates in Canadian music, literature and talent, were refused admission into the United States.

To men and women, leaders in all walks of life, Mr. Bray appealed for support during his trip. Through the press and the radio, preaching the gospel of Canadian music and culture, he devoted his energies to enlisting the interests of Canadians in the production of film plays in Canada.

Mr. Bray's dramatic productions here in Lachute are further presentations of all-Canadian talent and creative quality, and it is fitting that they should receive the support of all Canadian-minded citizens. Posters are in circulation giving full particulars of the presentation, for which a full attendance is anticipated.

"I'm afraid, sir," said the young salesman, "I can't deliver this order until your bill has been paid." "Then cancel it, cancel it," said the customer testily. "I can't wait all that time."

Place your order early for Christmas Greeting Cards. An attractive selection at moderate price, at The Watchman Office.

INCREASED BUSINESS

Merchants, generally, are reporting an increased business. Nothing spectacular, but just a gentle steady increase. I know that we are buying more, not so much but gradually replacing some of the worn-out articles. If others are doing the same thing it is easy to see why business is picking up. Fear ruled too many workers. The fear of not knowing what might happen next. Frightened of losing their job, or their savings, prevented people from making legitimate purchases. Feeling that conditions are getting better, people are starting to spend more. That way lies prosperity.

A NEW ONE

Thought I heard most of the alibis for not reducing but here is a brand new one. This young lady is a reporter and has to eat most of her time at restaurants. She says that she is so Scotch that it hurts her terribly to pay for food and then not eat it all. Then she was brought up never to leave anything on the edge of her plate. This and the fact that she likes to get her money's worth makes her eat more than she actually needs. Consequently, she is slowly putting on the pounds and is now considerably overweight. I have put her on a reducing diet and her desire to lose weight is overcoming her Scotch thrift to such an extent that she can leave food for which she has paid, almost without a qualm.

MORE APPLES, FEWER CIGARETTES

Mothers sometimes feel that their young people are smoking too much. Very often they smoke because of a vague desire for something and nothing else being at hand they have a cigarette. The wise mother will have a bowl of apples or fruit of some kind on hand and she will find that the fruit is chosen a good many times rather than the cigarette. A dish of candy occasionally is a help, too. The cure will be most effective if she does not talk about it. Young people hate to feel that they are being driven or coerced. Anyone who is consciously trying to smoke less will find that the simple trick of drinking of glass of water every time they want a smoke will lessen the desire. The system often craves water and the smoker feels that he wants something but does not know just what it is and tries to satisfy it with another smoke.

RICE

Rice is one of the cheaper foods and may be used to advantage in many different ways. Brown rice is more nutritious than the white polished rice as it contains many minerals that are lost in polishing. Rice should be cooked in a large quantity of rapidly boiling water and stirred occasionally to prevent sticking. Use 2 quarts of water to 1 cup of rice and 1 tablespoon salt. Have the water boiling hard and add the washed rice a little at a time so that the water will not stop boiling. Cook until tender, usually about thirty minutes. Put in a strainer and rinse with boiling water. Return to kettle and dry either in the oven or on top of the stove. Rice may be served as a vegetable by adding a little butter. It may be used in combination with other foods as eggs, cheese or tomatoes in a casserole dish, or it may be dressed up a bit as a dessert. Plain boiled rice, served with grated maple sugar and cream makes a delicious dessert. Another favorite is to add whipped cream and pineapple to the boiled rice.

RICE PUDDING

Rice may be baked in milk to make a delicious pudding but if you use gas or electricity it is rather an expensive proposition on fuel. I have found this method of making a pudding very satisfactory. Put a cup of water in the top of the double boiler, and when it is boiling rapidly, add 1/2 cup of washed rice. Cook directly over the heat until the water is absorbed, stirring frequently. Add 2 cups milk, 1/2 cup sugar, bring almost to the boil then insert in the bottom of the double boiler and cook until tender, usually about 1 1/4 hours. When tender add 2 beaten eggs, mixed with 1/2 cup milk, and raisins if desired. Let cook for about five minutes. Cool and serve with cream. It may be necessary to add a little more milk as rice varies in the amount of liquid it absorbs. Use enough milk to prevent the pudding from being thick and stodgy.

RICE KERNELS

Always put rice in rapidly boiling water. Stir rice with a fork to prevent breaking. Use an equal quantity of sugar and rice in a pudding.

POT POURRI

Never have the same food appear twice in the same menu. For example, if squash is the vegetable, do not serve it as pie.

If bread puddings are set in a pan of water and baked in a moderate oven, they will not fall.

If you have 'had bad luck' with several cakes in succession, change your flour. That particular bag may have been too new.

MUSHROOMS IN BREAD CASES

Cut bread in 3 inches slices. Take a 3 inch cube and hollow out the centre, leaving a half-inch wall. Spread lightly with butter inside and out. Put in moderate oven until crisp and brown. Make 6 cases. Melt 3 tablespoons butter and brown 1 lb. mushrooms broken in pieces. Remove the mushrooms and blend 2 tablespoons flour with the butter in the pan (it is usually necessary to add a little more butter). Stir in 1 cup scalded milk and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Add mushrooms and season with salt and pepper. Put cases on a warm platter, fill with mushrooms and garnish generously with crisply cooked breakfast bacon.

THE DEFENCE OF CANADA

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

We in Canada are given to boasting that we have no armed borders or fortifications, forgetting that Canada is very heavily defended just the same. Its defence for the last hundred years or more has been the British army and the British navy, paid for almost entirely by the taxpayers over there. Because we do not see them we harbor the idea that we haven't got an army or navy, therefore, we do not need to pay for them. But it is the fact of the British army and navy standing in the background that has kept Canada a free country.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, December 2nd., is "Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias mesmerism and hypnotism, denounced".

The Golden Text is:—"Beloved, follow not that which is evil, but that which is good. He that doeth good is of God: but he that doeth evil hath not seen God". (John 1:11).

The following correlative passages are selected from among those comprised in the Lesson-Sermon to be read from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:—

"Put on the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil. For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places." (Ephesians 6:11, 12).

"The march of mind and of honest investigation will bring the hour when the people will chain with fetters of some sort, the growing occultism of this period. It requires courage to utter truth; for the higher Truth lifts her voice, the louder will error scream, until its inarticulate sound is forever silenced in oblivion." (Science and Health, pp. 570, 97).

CANADIAN CARS WANTED IN UNITED KINGDOM

The greatest demand in Britain in the case of motor cars is for those between 8 and 9 horsepower, followed by those of 10, 11-13, 14-15 and 16-20 horsepower, states the Industrial Department of the Canadian National Railways. The rapid expansion of the British market for cars should increase the opportunities for Canadian makes. The total number of registered motor cars in the United Kingdom for 1934, it is expected, will reach 1,300,000 as compared with 980,886, in 1929. It is estimated the annual replacement demand is around 160,000 cars, which should increase in the course of a few years.

SCHOOL OR JOBS

(Rotarian Magazine)

"The trouble with youth," a man who knows boys recently commented "is its youthfulness." If the aphorism needs explanation, he added, let it be said that a prime characteristic of youth is an urge for activity. If opportunity for its expression is not given through schools, and jobs are unavailable, it is to be wondered that unadjusted boys and girls experiment in fields that lead to conflict with law and order?

The dangerous age for a youth is the period when he is reaching adolescence and early maturity. Statistics prove this. In England and Wales, forty-two percent of all persons found guilty of indictable crimes last year were under twenty-one. In the United States, according to Department of Justice reports, two-thirds of all arrests for crime involve persons between fifteen and twenty-four and those 19 years old lead any other age group.

No grand social scheme can solve the problem of unadjusted youth at one swoop. Boys and girls, like their elders, are not cut to one pattern. But any adult does a real service who makes it possible for a youngster to remain in school, which is the best agency for life training that society has yet evolved, and when school days are over helps him get suitable employment.

CHILDREN'S CONSTIPATION Ended!

Mrs. S. O. Hartley, who spent last week in Montreal, returned home on Sunday accompanied by her daughters, Miss O. Hartley and Mrs. C. B. Cutten, also Mr. Cutten, Master Hartley Cutten and Mr. I. Willis.

Traffic on the Front Road in this vicinity is much increased of late, on account of its being used as a detour between Chaboro and Grenville, owing to the bad condition of No. 8 Highway between those two points.

GRENVILLE NORTH

Mrs. John Hodgson, of Carillon, was a recent guest of Mrs. James Stewart.

Mr. Hugh Cousins spent Saturday last in Ottawa.

Mrs. Walter Murray was a recent guest of Mrs. Jim Ogilvy.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Johnson visited at the home of Mrs. D. Byrnes of St. Philippe recently.

Mr. John Hodgson and Mrs. James Stewart were guests of Mrs. Hugh Cousins during the week.

CUSHING

Miss Isabel Somerville was the week-end guest of her aunts, the Misses Christie and Margaret Graham.

Miss Annie Weir has closed up her house and gone to spend some time with friends in Montreal.

Quite a number of Cushing people attended the C.G.I.T. service in St. Andrews East Anglican Church on Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O'Brien and Miss O'Brien, of L'Orignal, were guests of Mrs. J. and Miss Geraldine Owens of Stonefield on Sunday.

Mr. Xavier Brosseau, of Hawkesbury, is the guest of his brother, Mr. O. Brosseau, for the present.

Messrs. L. Gaston, O. Brosseau and A. Monpetit have been summoned as jurors to St. Jerome while court is being held there.

This month's meeting of the Frontier W. I. will be held as an open meeting at the home of Mrs. Archie Graham and will take the form of a Bean Supper.

Messdames J. W. Maclean, Wm. Usher, L. M. Gaston, A. Graham and T. W. Weir attended the meeting of the W.C.T.U. in Point Fortune, on Wednesday, where plans were made for packing a box of quilts, clothing and jam for Montreal's needy.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Bryerton, of Carillon, were guests of Mr. Earl Bryerton on Sunday.

BIG GAME PLENTIFUL IN THE BIG WOODS

The big game fully bore out the prophecies of guides and trappers that they would be plentiful this season. Hunters returning from Northern Quebec and Ontario reported an abundance of deer and stated that both moose and bear were also to be had without undue difficulty. In Northern Ontario, it was estimated that four out of every five hunters succeeded in bringing home a deer; but birds were another story. Although all districts reported an abundance of partridge, either they had removed to safer quarters or were more wily than their predecessors, for hunters found them hard to bag. Sufficient were shot, however, to meet camp requirements but not to take home to the family roasting pan.

Bank of Montreal Statement Reveals Strong Position

CASH HOLDINGS AT HIGH LEVEL

Of Total Assets of $759,108,178, Liquid Assets Amount to $419,247,207. Equal to 71.97% of all Liabilities to the Public

The Annual Statement of the Bank of Montreal shows the Bank in its usual strong liquid position. Of total assets of $759,108,178, quickly available resources are $419,247,207, equal to 71.97% of all liabilities to the public.

A feature of the liquid assets is afforded by cash holdings of $87,210,888, up from $78,683,217 a year ago.

The principal holdings are in government and other bonds and debentures, which now amount to $317,936,912, as compared with $316,967,375 at the end of the previous year. The excess of assets over liabilities to the public has increased to $76,538,810.

STEADY PROGRESS

During the last year or more no publication has shown more remarkable strides in the matter of increased circulation than has the Family Herald and Weekly Star. This is not strange for it is evident that in times of stress people are prone to cut down on the number and variety of magazines and papers coming into their home and they find in the Family Herald and Weekly Star a paper which, at $1.00 per year, gives them every variety of reading, for old and young, all combined in this one publication. Every issue overflows with practical farming ideas, up-to-the-minute articles, short stories together with a weekly newspaper section which rounds out a feast of reading without compare. Truly it has been well said that the Family Herald and Weekly Star is the best for the least.

Notwithstanding general evidence of more active manufacturing conditions, current loans are slightly down at $243,477,041 as compared with $251,885,262 at the end of the previous year. This would indicate that a number of Canadian companies still find it possible to finance business in its present volume without leaning heavily on banking accommodation.

Deposits Well Maintained
Deposits are well maintained, especially in view of recent large government bond offerings. Total deposits payable on demand and after notice are $630,218,835, compared with $641,346,710. Notes of the Bank in circulation are up to $35,255,876 from $33,819,807, doubtless reflecting a greater measure of general business activity.

Of special interest is the showing of total assets of $759,108,178 with which to meet payment of liabilities to the public of $76,538,810.

Profit and Loss Account
Profits for the year are reported at $4,105,024, from which are deducted Dominion and Provincial government taxes totalling $900,654, leaving net profits at $3,204,369, equal to 4.23% on the combined capital, rest and undivided profits. From this amount has been paid $2,880,000 in dividends to shareholders, as compared with $3,060,000 in the previous year.

As had been the practice for the past few years, the Bank has issued the statement for the public in an easily understandable form, with explanatory notes for each of the headings under which the figures are grouped.

The report will be submitted to shareholders at the annual general meeting which will be held at the Head Office of the Bank in Montreal on Monday, December 3rd.

Godwit Named Itself

The godwit was named after his unusually call—"go wit! go wit!"— which was perhaps the world's most accident call until the introduction of the saxophone. He was a large bird, measuring two feet in length, with a four-to-five-inch bill that curved slightly upward. He appeared to be a stilt. An excellent wader, the godwit would slush through shallow waters and mire, eating insects and mollusks. More often he would go to the meadows and prairies, there to hunt grasshoppers and other harmful insects. No bird should have commanded more reverence from the farmer. Although akin to the snipe, the godwit was without fear. No doubt this characteristic led to his destruction. Merciless men took advantage of the fact that the birds right and left. The godwit was very good food. During the decade following the Civil war billions of them were killed.—Our Cumb Animals.

Discovery of Newfoundland

Newfoundland was discovered in 1497, by John Cabot, an Italian nav-igator in the English service, but it was not until 1583 that Newfoundland was officially taken over as an English colony, asserts a writer in the Montreal Herald. On June 11, 1583, Sir Humphrey Gilbert, who was a half-brother to Sir Walter Raleigh, sailed from Lymouth, with five ships and Queen Elizabeth's blessing; on July 30, he was off the coast of Newfoundland. It was at King's Bench, St. John's, that Sir Humphrey Gilbert put up his tent on the fifth of August. The harbor was full of ships, both foreign and English. He summoned all the merchants to a meeting, and in their presence he caused to be read publicly the commission under the Great Seal of England, and he then took possession of the adjacent lands. It was also on that date that Sir Humphrey began the plantation of the first English colony.

CAMBRIA

Professor and Mrs. Arthur Willey have been in the city for a few days. Prof. A. Willey, emeritus professor of zoology at McGill University, delivered the annual Somerville lecture on natural history on the evening of 23rd. inst. in Moyses Hall, his topic being "Adaptation in Nature and Art." He has travelled widely for research on his particular subject, and is recognized as an outstanding writer on zoological topics.

Mr. Lorne Morrin and Mr.
Arnold Maxwell, sons Harold and Rowland and daughter Marion, of Lachute, motored here, visiting at Mr. G. A.
Ryan's and Mr. Walter J.
Maxwell's on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Maxwell and Joyce and Donald, also Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Maxwell, motored to visit Mr. Gordon Maxwell in Shawbridge recently.

Mr. Milton Dawson, of Montreal, was a recent visitor at his father's, Mr. Matthew Dawson.

Father of Photography

Made Discovery in 1822

The name of Louis Daguerre is preserved in the word daguerreotype, and that of Fox Talbot is known because he was the first to print from a negative and substitute paper sensitized with iodide of silver for the original silver plate. But the name of the man who actually obtained the first sun-picture and made it permanent, Joseph Nicephore Niepce, is known to few. Yet he was the pioneer of modern photography. He died a century ago, his great discovery was made in 1822.

His first photograph—though he called it a heliograph—was of his house and garden. He was fond of heliography, itself a novelty, and as his son, an artist, had been called up for military training, Niepce, who could not draw, sought a substitute for the pencil and found it in the sun.

He took his first sun-picture on a "liver plate" on which a solution of bitumen and oil of lavender had been spread. He "fixed" it with the vapors of iodine.

Today photography pierces the flesh and reveals the living skeleton; flashes across the world pictorial records of current events; assists the police;
is essential to kinematography; while
bacteriologist to a knowledge of those microscopic organisms which cause cancer, tuberculosis, influenza, and other human scourges.

The Nobel Prizes

The Nobel prizes were instituted by Alfred Bernhard Nobel (1833-1896) the Swedish inventor of dynamite, blasting, gelatine and smokeless powder.
His fortune amounted to about $5,000,000.
With it he established a foundation from which, since 1901, have been awarded international prizes for the most important discoveries in physics, chemistry, physiology or medicine, for the most remarkable book of an idealistic tendency and for the greatest service to peace during the year. The judges are the Swedish Academy of Science, the Stockholm Faculty of Medicine, the Swedish Academy of Literature and a committee of the Norwegian storting or parliament. The prize amounts to a little more than $40,000. All the prizes are not necessarily awarded each year, but only when a work of sufficient importance is accomplished.

THE CHARM OF ST. ANDREWS, N. B.

Of late Canada has been observing the one hundred and fiftieth anniversaries of various events connected with the coming of the United Empire Loyalists whose colonizing efforts so profoundly influenced the course of our history after the Revolutionary War. New Brunswick takes a prominent role in these celebrations, for the peopling of the country adjoining the north shore of the Bay of Fundy and its rivers resulted in 1784 in the separation of New Brunswick from Nova Scotia. Thus the province celebrates its sesqui-centennial in 1934.
And the lovely town of St. Andrews has as proud a place as any in the story of New Brunswick.

On the tip of the peninsula between Passamo-quoddy Bay and the mouth of the St. Croix, which river forms the Maine boundary, St. Andrews was one of the first communities to be populated by the newcomers after the triumph of the revolution. To this day St. Andrews maintains its proud historic traditions and the beautiful little town has all the charm and dignity of an old world community. Naturally it boasts many landmarks which bring close to us the storied past. The frames of some houses still standing were transported at great labor by their owners from their former sites in the United States, and numerous heirlooms date from the earliest colonial days. Few residents are unable to trace their ancestry back to the intrepid pioneers of the 1780's. The Tory settlers of St. Andrews were especially famed for their fervent patriotism; the people like to tell of one father who baptised all of his seven sons "George."

This district, indeed, figures prominently in the history of our country at a period long before the days of the Loyalists. In 1604 the Sieur des Monts and his company, which included Samuel Champlain, chose a little island in the mouth of the St. Croix as the site of the first Acadian colony. But a terrible winter during which nearly half the men died of scurvy convinced them that the island, with no fresh water and a limited supply of wood, was not suited to their purposes. The next summer they moved across the Bay of Fundy to Port Royal.

YOUR GROCER CAN HELP YOU TO Keep on the Sunny Side of Winter

RAW, bleak days bring a change in living habits.
You get less outdoor exercise—less vitalizing sunshine. At this time of year you must maintain your strength and energy to help ward off colds and other winter infections.

Your grocer can help you to sunny living. On his shelves you'll find Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, the cereal that helps keep you free from common constipation, due to insufficient "bulk." This ailment is the most frequent cause of sluggish days, loss of appetite and energy.

You can correct common constipation safely by proper diet. Serve ALL-BRAN regularly. Its gentle bulk, much like that in leafy vegetables, aids elimination. ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B and iron.

Get Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. With each meal, in severe cases. If not relieved in this way, see your doctor.

Unlike cathartics, the same amount of ALL-BRAN continues to be effective when served regularly. Sold by all grocers. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in London, Ont.
