Curfew By-Law Passes Council

Roll Homologated ... Tax Rates are Struck

LAST MEETING IN MAYORALTY TERM

The closing meeting in Mayor Larocque's term of office ended with the passing of the Curfew By-law, No. 134, which comes into force fifteen days after publication of a notice to that effect. The by-law is published elsewhere in this issue, and will doubtless arouse considerable comment; while it was not the unanimous opinion of the Council, yet it was substantially carried, and parents are urged to co-operate with the authorities in lending their support to its proper enforcement.

Mayor Larocque presided, and the following Aldermen were present: Messrs. G. Muir, C. Durocher, O. Laurin, E. Legault, J. McGibbon and J. A. Rice.

The minutes of previous meeting, held Dec. 28th., were read, in which the valuation roll was homologated and showed a total valuation of $2,262,250.

The tax rate was set as follows:—General Tax 90c. per $100; Protestant School Tax 60c; Special School Tax 10c; Catholic General Tax $1.10; Catholic Special School Tax 30c,—the whole figured according to the valuation roll in force for 1935.

Mrs. M. Belanger appeared again before the Council, for the purpose of having the light replaced on Bethany Street, which was removed from opposite her property some time ago. She read a petition, but the Mayor stated a committee had made investigation and reported unfavorably, so that the matter was dropped.

This being the closing meeting of the aldermanic sessions, the Secretary extended his personal thanks to the Mayor and retiring aldermen, for their hearty co-operation and help.

Alderman MacGibbon, seconded by Alderman Durocher, also moved a hearty vote of thanks.

Mayor Larocque briefly stated that the years had been somewhat strenuous, but he had executed his duties to the best of his ability and took this opportunity to express grateful thanks to the council and office staff, as well to Fire-chief Deacon for his able support, to whom, with his men of the fire brigade, the Town owes a debt of gratitude.

THREE CANADIANS GIVEN KNIGHTHOOD

MAYOR HOUE HONORED

Three Canadians, one a Montrealer, have been honored with orders of knighthood, bestowed by His Majesty the King. Forty-four other Canadians, from all parts of the Dominion, including eight women, are recipients of lesser awards. The King's New Year's honor list is the third to include the names of Canadians since the custom was revived in Canada by Premier Bennett a year ago.

Charles William Lindsay, of Montreal, blind piano manufacturer and philanthropist, is named Knight of the Order of the British Empire; Chief Justice J. A. Chisholm of Nova Scotia, is made a Knight Bachelor; and Col. Albert Edward Gooderham, Toronto distiller and philanthropist, is made a Knight Commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George. All these three will be entitled to the appellation "Sir."

Other Montrealers included in the King's honors are: Mayor Camillien Houde who is made a Commander of the Order of the British Empire; William Wallace Caven, for many years connected with the Department of Inland Revenue, who is given an O.B.E.; Romeo Girard, prison guard at St. Vincent de Paul, who is given the Order of the British Empire's silver medal for his conduct during prison riots; Miss M. F. Hersey, night superintendent at the Royal Victoria Hospital, and Miss Jennie Webster, now of Winnipeg, former night superintendent at the Montreal General Hospital, who are made officers of the Order of the British Empire; and Miss Sarah Feeney, of the C.N.R., who is made a member of the Order of the British Empire.

BIRTHS, DEATHS DECLINE MARRIAGES INCREASE

Live births in Canada during the second quarter of 1934 numbered 55,689 giving an equivalent annual rate of 20.6 per 1,000 population as compared with a rate of 22.1 for the second quarter of 1933. Deaths totalled 25,378, with a rate of 9.4 per thousand population as compared with a rate of 9.7. There were 19,487 marriages or a rate of 7.2 against 6.0 in the second quarter of 1933.

FIREMEN'S BALL WAS SUCCESSFUL EVENT

The "Firemen's Annual", considered a highlight of the season's social events in this town, was voted one of the best yet. The event, on New Year's Eve, attracted a comfortable crowd, who participated in the dances with ample room and keen enjoyment to all.

Fire Chief Geo. Y. Deacon was gratified, both in the social and financial outcome of the Firemen's Ball. Gross receipts amounted to $140, which will contribute materially to the fund for fire equipment, from which the town receives ultimate benefit.

Messages of regret and good wishes were received from distinguished patrons unable to attend, including Sir George and Lady Perley, Chief R.N.O. Harrington, Hon. Secretary of the Prov. Quebec Police and Fire Chiefs' Assn., Director Dufresne of Montreal, and Chief Dubeau, who are respectively President and Vice-President of the same organization.

A Montreal orchestra provided the music, and the Ball was generally speaking a great success.

PAID FINAL TRIBUTE TO GEO. DANSEREAU

FUNERAL OF LATE MAYOR OF GRENVILLE AND ARGENTEUIL M.L.A.

Despite the severe weather, hundreds of residents of Grenville and district attended the funeral of the late Geo. Dansereau, M.L.A., on Saturday last. Leaving his late residence at 10.30 a.m., the lengthy cortege proceeded to Grenville church where solemn requiem mass was chanted by Father Larocque of St. George, Que., assisted by Canon Archambault

GOVERNOR GENERAL TO BROADCAST

His Excellency, the Governor General, will be heard in a five minute address on the CRBC national network at 8.55 p.m. on January 11. His Excellency will speak on behalf of the Boy Scouts' Association. He is Chief Scout for Canada. Mr. E. W. Beatty will speak for the same organization from the Commission's Montreal station, CRBC, at 10 o'clock on February 18.

MISS C. DUROCHER WON POPULARITY CONTEST

An enthusiastic crowd attended the recent presentation of La Petite Chocolatière at Lachute Auditorium, an event which marked the conclusion of a Popularity Contest. This event in which Misses Cyprienne Durocher and Claire Lemay were the outstanding contestants, had aroused considerable interest around town.

With the counting of the votes Miss Durocher, with 1364, was ceded the crown as Queen of Lachute. Miss Lemay drew 618 votes. The winner will enjoy a trip to New York, incidental to the honor of being proclaimed the most popular young lady among our French Canadian citizens.

The contest was sponsored by Mons. E. A. Binet, producer of the evening's performance.

LADIES' CURLING ACTIVITIES

The opening of the Ladies' Curling Club was held Wednesday with a good number of members and visitors present. The opening game of the Club Bonspiel was played, after which a social hour was spent of Gatineau Point as deacon, and Father Leroux of Aymer, Que., as sub-deacon, two former curates of the parish. The choir was under the direction of Father H. D. J. Brosseau, parish priest.

Among the priests seated in the sanctuary were Father Charon, principal of the Holy Cross Order, Montreal; Father Rolland, Calumet; Father Bazinet, St. Jovite, and Father Rolland, Pointe au Chene. Interment was in the Grenville Catholic cemetery.

Grenville Shocked by Tragedy

Gloom Overshadows Festive Season

WILFRED MORROW DIED OF BULLET WOUND

Tragedy overshadowed the holiday season in Grenville, which was already mourning the demise of Georges Dansereau, a leading citizen of the community and respected representative of this County. The neighborhood was shocked last Friday when news spread abroad of the death of Wilfred Morrow, a popular young resident, who had been found dead in his room during the early hours of the morning. The young man had succumbed to a bullet wound in the head, and a revolver was found lying nearby.

Mr. Morrow, aged 33 years, had returned from a hockey game at Hawkesbury, where he had acted in the capacity of manager to the Grenville team. He reached home about three in the morning. A few hours later his family heard a shot from his bedroom, and the father, William Morrow, rushing upstairs, found his son lying on the floor.

Dr. P. Joly, of Montreal, who was visiting his family in Grenville, was called, and pronouncing Mr. Morrow dead, summoned Dr. J. H. Mason, of Lachute, coroner for this district, who made an immediate examination. An inquest took place at the Morrow home early Friday morning and the jury brought in a verdict of accidental death with no blame attached to anyone.

Wilfred Morrow, who was

HERCULEAN BATTLE WITH SNOWDRIFTS

DETERMINED EFFORT TO OPEN ST. JEROME HIGHWAY

Laté arrival of the snowplow, ordered by Boyd's Lachute Express to maintain a passable highway to Montreal via the St. Jerome road, has made this undertaking one of extreme difficulty. The battle with heavy snows has been proceeding for several days, and up to yesterday evening the plow had cleared from St. Jerome to a point beyond the electric power transformers, about 8 miles northeast of Lachute.

This, so far, is a conquest roughly half the distance, surmounted in face of extreme cold, repeated mishaps, and a blockade of packed snow from 1½ to 2 feet deep, with drifts measuring up to 4 feet.

Together with Boyd's Express and other transport agencies, Geo. Y. Deacon and his garage-men have labored tirelessly to open the road. The new plow is mounted on a 1935 Ford Truck which, although designed for heavy service, is not geared for work of this particular kind, and breakages have occurred which it has taken super-human endurance to repair, outdoors, in the severe weather which has prevailed.

Starting from St. Jerome on Saturday night the truck was supplemented by a Laurin Transport conveyance, which, connected to the Ford by means of a pole, gave added power. The Laurin truck, however, was the first to break down under the strain, burning out its clutch; the machine was driven back to Montreal for repairs. Since then the venture has presented a series of mishaps and accidents, including also the disapproval of civic authorities at St. Canot.

The work is continuing in spite of heavy drifting in the recent day or two, and it is hoped that success will reward prominent in sports, was taking the place of Georges Dansereau, Jr., as manager of the Grenville hockey team which was playing Hawkesbury R.A.A. team on the latter's ground. Georges Dansereau's absence was occasioned by the death of his father. The Dansereau home is across the street from the Morrow residence, and Dr. Joly of Montreal, son-in-law of Georges Dansereau, was visiting his wife's family at the time.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. William Morrow, Wilfred was born in Grenville and attended Grenville public school, later graduating from Hawkesbury high school. Following his graduation he entered the general store business in Grenville, which is operated by his father and his uncle, Thomas Morrow.

A member of St. Matthew's Anglican church, he also belonged to Grenville Lodge, No. 101, A.F. and A.M., and the Hawkesbury Badminton Club. Interested in all athletics, and a keen horseman, he was one of the most popular and best-

OFFICERS INSTALLED AT MASONIC GATHERING

The annual St. John's Night festival was celebrated by Argenteuil Lodge, No. 67, A.F. & A.M. at Lachute last Thursday evening. Owing to the heavy snowstorm a large number were prevented from attending but the immediate vicinity was represented by about 50 members and visitors. The work of the evening consisted chiefly in the installation of officers, which was in charge of Rt. Wor. Bro. H. M. Gall. The various committees and auditors' reports were most satisfactory and showed the lodge to be in a flourishing condition.

Following are the officers for the ensuing term: Worshipful Master Wor. Bro. F. J. Sanford; I.P.M., Wor. Bro. R. A. Giles; S.W., Bro. R. Kennedy; J.W., Bro. G. P. Dobbie; S.D., Bro. R. C. Rogers; J.D., Bro. J. W. McGibbon; I.G., Bro. S. Rodgers; Tyler, Bro. W. McFaul; Secretary, Rt. Wor. Bro. J. N. A. Rice; Treasurer, Wor. Bro. R. P. Fraser; Chaplain, Bro. Rev. W. B. Rosborough; D. of C., Rt. Wor. Bro. H. M. Gall; Organist, Bro. J. F. Gorman; Steward, Bro. C. Duncan; Steward, Bro. J. D. Davis.

After the ceremony of installation the Brethren retired to the banquet hall where an enjoyable hour was spent around the festive board.

A short program of amusements and entertainment was given later in the evening.

The retiring Master, Bro. R. A. Giles, was the recipient of a beautiful Past Master's Jewel presented as a token of goodwill and esteem from the Brethren of the lodge. Sincere thanks was expressed for this kindness and good wishes extended to incoming officers.

the tireless efforts of those concerned, and that, through a passable highway to St. Jerome, local trucking companies will benefit by access to the city throughout the winter.

This (Thursday) morning it is understood the plow and truck are being towed by teams to Lachute and the work will be recommenced from this end of the highway.

SHARP GAME LAWS IN QUEBEC LIKELY

FISH, DEER, TO OBTAIN FURTHER PROTECTION

Fish and game in the Province of Quebec, particularly moose, deer and trout, will be given further protection as a result of amendments to the fish and game laws of the province to be introduced by Hon. J. N. Francoeur, Minister of Public Works, Game and Fisheries, at the forthcoming session of the Legislature.

Changes will be made in existing legislation with the double object of protecting certain game now in danger of disappearing from the forests, and also the trout, which, due to unstocking, is decreasing in soem of the province's lakes and rivers. The amendments are expected to bear mostly upon the shortening of the regular hunting and fishing periods and the paring down of the limit of the bag allowed.

The number of trout that a fisherman may catch per day will very probably be reduced and fishing in certain Laurentian lakes will be prohibited for undetermined periods to allow the bodies of water to be replenished.

Moose and deer, brought down in considerable numbers annually by hunters throughout Quebec, will be protected by having official hunting periods made shorter in certain sections where they are known to be scarce, while other changes will be made in the season in some cases, to open later or close earlier.

RURAL HOTELS WOULD HANDLE LIQUOR

Sale by rural hotels of this province of liquor by the bottle will be sought of the Quebec Government by the Country Hotel Keepers' Association of the Province of Quebec.

The association would have its hotels become agents of the Quebec Liquor Commission, holding that if they could sell liquor by the bottle the tourist trade of the province would be ameliorated, and the cost of liquor would be reduced—"such a change would place us in the position of being able to sell at a lower rate than that of the Liquor Commission at the present time, which must spend upwards of $1,500,000 a year for maintenance and upkeep of its stores."

"Rooms"

By H. Napier Moore
Editorial in the December Chatelaine

"TO HAVE seen her enter a room is quite enough excuse for having lived."

The quotation is from the autobiography of Mr. F. E. Baily, English author and editor. The reference is to Lady Diana Cooper.

Mr. Baily is bothered by his conviction that the art of entering rooms has been completely lost by women. Excepting Lady Diana. Says he, "After one has seen her enter a room, to see any other woman do it merely gives one a pain in the neck."

I cannot very well smite Mr. Baily, who has been my host at pleasant luncheons, or be ungallant to Lady Diana.

And it would be idle to deny the arresting value of a graceful entrance. But I shouldn't feel the urge to go out and die contentedly because of one.

Two of the most charming women I know can't walk at all.

Among other things, possibly the manner in which a woman enters a conversation is of more importance than the manner in which she glides or zooms into a room.

And most women who show to disadvantage in a mixed conversation do so it seems to me, because their attitude toward matters of broad, general interest is an impersonal one. In matters of less universal interest and among their own sex they talk confidently and well because the subject of discussion touches directly or indirectly upon their own experiences.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Don't Let Winter Stop You

Watch your exposure and you will get pleasing pictures. The snapshot at the left, taken with a folding camera at f/8 and 1/25th of a second, is properly exposed. The one on the right simulates the effect of under-exposure from two small stop opening or too fast a shutter speed.

A LETTER received the other day opened my eyes and made me realize that sometimes we take too much for granted. A reader of this column wrote in saying she enjoyed the Snapshot Guild immensely and would be so happy when winter was over and spring arrived so that she could take some good pictures again.

Here I have been taking it for granted that everybody knew that with present day fine film it is possible to take good pictures the year 'round—winter included. Well, if Mrs. ——— thought she would have to wait 'til spring to take pictures doubtless there are hundreds more of the same belief.

Believe it or not, picture taking in the winter is just as easy as in summer, opportunities as numerous and scenes just as beautiful.

There is one important thing, however, to keep in mind when taking pictures in the winter—WATCH YOUR EXPOSURE! Many seem to think that because snow is white, exposures should be much shorter than in summer. This would be true if there were nothing but snow in the picture and if the light were as strong in the winter as in the summer. Neither condition exists, however. Trees, houses, buildings, animals, etc., retain their usual color, so exposures must be timed accordingly.

The old rule—expose for the shadows and let the highlights take care of themselves—is still worth following. Although objects are brightened somewhat by greater reflection from the snow, this is frequently fully offset by the lesser intensity of the sunlight in the winter.

Where snow is not smudged by foot it remains a glorious mantle of white, clothing familiar scenes in new guises and lending a peculiar charm to trivial objects that fail to attract attention at other seasons. With photography as the medium of expression, winter scenes are more truthfully rendered in black and white than summer scenes. Color is absent for the most part in the former and the monochrome print conforms very closely to the predominating whites, grays and blacks of Mother Nature's winter dress.

Here is a suggestion that will help you get better results, that is, if you follow it. When taking a picture make a note of the "stop" you used, that is—the first or second, or third opening, if you have a box camera, or, if you have a folding camera note f.8, f.11, f.16 and so on, or just 4, 8, 16; and with a folding camera also make note of the speed of the shutter, that is, 1/25th of a second, 1/50th or whatever it may have been. When prints are returned you can say to yourself—"This one is awfully light and does not show up as I expected. Let's see now—I took this picture at noon at 1/50th of a second and had the diaphragm set at f.11. A little too fast to get the proper exposure under the hazy winter sky on that day. The next time under the same conditions, I'll either set the diaphragm pointer at f.8 to let in more light or else leave the diaphragm opening at f.11 and set the shutter speed at 1/25th of a second so as to give the picture a longer exposure." It's really valuable information to have and will help improve the quality of your pictures.

It might be a good idea to cut out the pictures printed above and keep them for future reference. They will help you in judging your own pictures if you are not quite sure just what is wrong with your prints.

So—don't let winter stop you. There are countless pictures to be taken and by giving a little thought to light conditions plus a little experimenting you'll get good pictures. Go ahead and shoot.

The Kent Boy Scouts sent an illuminated address to the Duke of Kent, with the inscription: "May it please Your Royal Highness, the Commissioners of the Boy Scouts Association of the County of Kent assembled in conference representing 17,000 Boy Scouts of Kent, desire to express the heartfelt pleasure at which they received the news of the conferring upon Your Royal Highness of the dignity of the Dukedom of Kent."

Fortitude

Steady fortitude, courage and cheerfulness during nine years of painful illness has won the seldom-given Cornwell Scout Badge for Patrol Leader Bridges of the Scout troop for handicapped boys at St. Mary's Hospital, Carshalton, England. A serious operation left Scout Bridges paralyzed below the waist, but in spite of this and his suffering the lad was credited by the hospital authorities with valuable helpfulness in maintaining a cheerful spirit among the other boys in the wards.

Origin of "Hot Dog"

Although the making of sausage has not attracted the attention of historians, we know that the name "frankfurter" originated from the fact that these sausages have been made according to a particular recipe for over 80 years as a specialty in Frankfurt, Germany. Frankfurt was the first town to make sausages for simmering. Undoubtedly this is how the name frankfurter originated. In Frankfurt they still make their Frankfurter Wurstchen according to the recipe of their grandfathers. While the first recipe includes only pork, the frankfurter as made in America contains selected beef as well as pork.

Non-Poisonous Toadstools

None of the shelf toadstools which grow on trees and logs and stumps are poisonous, but the majority of them are too leathery or woody to be eaten, says a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. There are some notable exceptions, and of these the commonest is the so-called "oyster mushroom" (Pleurotus ostreatus). Far less abundant is the "chicken mushroom" (Polyporus sulphureus). A monster among mushrooms, but rare, is the "branched polyporus" (Polyporus frondosus). This last is not readily recognized as a shelf mushroom, for it is much branched and convoluted. It is dry and meaty, and has an excellent flavor. Another edible shelf toadstool, is the "beefsteak mushroom" (Fistulina hepatica).

WHAT HAPPENED TO THE CHRISTMAS TEDDY

"Where is Teddy, brother?" Said Lila May to Ted.
"I left him by the parlor door When I went up to bed."
No-one seemed to have seen him.
Not even Lila's mother.
Although they searched the house all through Questioning each other.

Little Fritzie wagged his tail Looke quite meek and shy.
"He knows! I'm sure he does", said May.

"By the twinkle in his eye." They searched inside his kennel

And found the poor wee bear, Eyes gone, ears gone—
And oh! such mussed-up hair.

"Oh Fritz—You naughty rascal!"

Cried little Lila May,
"You've spoiled my Christmas Teddy
In a very cruel way."

SHINY SHOES

"Happy New Year!" shouted Bob, rushing in to breakfast on New Year's morning.

"Happy New Year, dear", his mother replied, "but how I wish that you had formed a new resolution to keep your shoes clean and shiny. That's what Santa brought you that shoe-shining kit for, to teach you good habits."

"Aw rubbish", growled Bob, half under his breath.

"Robert!" his father said quite curtly, "You must be more polite to your mother. Do not answer her in that manner. Apologize to her at once." "I'm sorry, Mother" Bob said, in a queer muffled voice, following it up with "Excuse me from the table, please."

Not waiting to listen to his mother's "But dear, you have not eaten your breakfast," he dashed out of the room.

"Breakfast!" growled Bob, as he closed the dining-room door behind him. "Who wants breakfast when his Happy New Year is spoiled right at the breakfast table. Good habits! especially shining your shoes! Aw bosh! Who wants shiny shoes anyway!" As Bob said this he kicked the snow-drift in front of him, sending the snow flying in all directions.

As the last flurry of snow sank down to the ground he kicked the drift again, with the same result. "I couldn't do that if I had shiny shoes," he said. "Who wants shiny shoes anyway! I'll bet there's very few of the fellows at school have shiny shoes."

When school started a few days later, he glanced at the rows of feet as he walked by them to take his place as leader of the row. He was at the head of the class this month, so had to lead the grade up to the class room. He was surprised at the number of shiny shoes he saw. They were not all shiny. Some were grubby looking, like his own, but very few. Shrugging his shoulders, he started the march, muttering under his breath, "Santa Claus must surely have brought most of them new boots for Christmas. I am sure all those chaps no not bother to shine their shoes."

His seat-mate was wearing shoes that were very shiny but showed such decided signs of wear that the idea of their being just new at Christmas had to be given up.

"Why do you shine your shoes?" he asked him rather abruptly at the noon-hour.

"I am sure I do not know" chuckled Dick. "It's a habit I suppose. I can't remember when I first began. Must have been born with a shoebrush in my hand, I guess. Anyway I always do it, and always will. It gives a fellow confidence to have shiny shoes."

"Aw, bosh!" Bob said again, and turned away.

Three weeks later the local paper advertised for a boy to deliver papers. Ted, all enthusiasm, applied for the job. So did others of his grade, as the delivery took place after school hours.

Dickie Barnes, his seat-mate, got the job. Bob was a bit surprised and not a little displeased. "How did you happen to get the job ahead of me?" Bob asked, "I came first in my grade."

"I don't know, myself," replied Dickie. "All I know is that I have the job—and I'm glad of it."

It was not until some weeks later that Bob found out, by overhearing his Uncle, who worked in the paper office, telling his mother that they had chosen Dick Bradley because of his shining, happy-looking face and his exceptionally shiny shoes. A boy who was so very particular about his shoes would be quite as particular about his master's work.

"Shiny Shoes again," muttered Bob. "Who would ever think that they'd have any bearing on a fellow getting a job. In that case I shall have to get busy with my Christmas kit, and shine my shoes. Aw shucks! but a fellow has to work hard 't get a job."

Enemy of the Prickly Pear

A natural enemy of the prickly pear, an importation into Australia of as great notoriety as the rabbit, the cactoblastis insect has proved an inestimable boon. Since the insect was introduced a few years ago from the United States, it has cleared 80 per cent of what was an impenetrable mass of prickly pear in Queensland and from 50 to 60 per cent in New South Wales.

Russian Bears Fooled

When they built one of the first telegraph lines in Russia the engineers were surprised to find shortly after the job was finished that the poles began to fall down. It was found that they had been gnawed through by some creature. When the poles were replaced the same thing happened again. It was a great mystery. At last it was discovered that bears had heard the poles humming. They had no doubt imagined there was a nest of bees in every pole, so they had gnawed through to get at the honey.

MIGHTY LOUISBOURG

On a large, narrow-mouthed harbor, near the south-eastern corner of Cape Breton Island, a few crumbling ruins of stone and brick may be seen. They are all that is left of Louisbourg, once the most formidable fortress in America and the greatest French stronghold in Acadian history. After France lost the mainland and Nova Scotia became British in 1713, she determined to build here a headquarters for future stages of the struggle against the encroaching foe. The British in turn fortified Halifax whose present greatness, as contrasted with the ruins of Louisbourg, is like a symbol of the final conflict and its outcome.

Unlike most of the French settlements, Louisbourg was never a centre of missionary endeavour. Its industries were warfare and the fisheries whose noisome refuse kept the pigs busy in the streets. By 1745 the civil population had reached 4000, and the powers were at war again. To attack Louisbourg New England raised an expeditionary force under Colonel William Pepperell, supported by a small British fleet. It looked like a foolhardy attempt. But the expensive fortifications were ill-built and incomplete. The defender, Duchambon, was incompetent and the New Englanders fought surprisingly well. Louisbourg fell, but was handed back to France when peace came in exchange for far-away Madras, to the disgust and alarm of New England.

Again Louisbourg became the foremost French stronghold east of Quebec. And in 1758 the climax of its drama arrived. Under the indefatigable Pitt, Britain sent out armies such as had never been seen before in North America.

Amherst's powerful division, heavily supported by warships, moved upon Louisbourg. This time the fortress was ably defended by the brave Drucour. But the attack, in which the young Brigadier James Wolfe won distinction, was overwhelming. Drucour had to capitulate, and the great days of Louisbourg were over.

The Revd. James Fraser — A Biography

Before ending this account, I must narrate an incident that occurred at the house during the stay of the lady "guest" whom I previously referred to. The incident was both funny and ridiculous.

One very cold winter night it happened that Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Fraser were both away in the city, attending special meetings of some sort. We had some friends calling from near by. Though this was an impromptu gathering it was quite a large one, as was often the case. According to the order of the house before leaving they should be proffered a cup of coffee, some sandwiches and a couple of pieces of cake. To provide the refreshments, "Old Mary", as we all called the housekeeper, had opened a couple of salmon cans, the "women's refuge." Everyone ate well and drank liberally of the coffee, that flowed freely, and Good Mornings were said about one o'clock a.m. We had retired to blanket square and were trying to retrieve some of our lost beauty sleep, when we were suddenly awakened by a thundering noise down in the kitchen. The dog, which always slept in the kitchen and had the reputation of being very ferocious toward unwelcome characters (I had trained him to it, for I had come to think that my uncle and aunt were too easy a prey to the travelling public) simultaneously yelped as though he had been hurt. As the dog commenced to howl I jumped from my bed, seized my gun, which I had recently loaded for a fox which was hanging around in the neighborhood—and when Old Mary put in an appearance I was armed with my gun and a large ebony ruler in case I should be caught at close quarters and not be able to shoot to advantage.

When she saw me with the gun she said, in her half Scotch and Irish accent, "Tutt, tutt, put away your gun, folk will think you crazy! There is no-one there to shoot; the poor dog has got caught in something and he's hurt." The howling and thundering kept up, and she prevailed on me to discard my gun, but I still clung to the ebony ruler; thus the night-robe procession started downstairs, myself in advance with the ruler and Mary bringing up the rear with the lamp in her hand—smiling, for she feared nothing neither drunk or sober or beast of any kind. Following behind were two frightened children also in their night-gowns, and the thundering continued in the kitchen. Pots, pans, saucepans, water pails, flat irons, and preserve jars fell to the floor, and goodness knows what else fell in much less time than it takes to write it. It was anything but a merry din, I can assure my readers, and when the night-gown procession was half way downstairs the climax was capped, when from one of the bedrooms suddenly commenced the most hideous screeching and moaning. What had happened in the bedroom we could not divine, but the procession continued on its way. On arriving at the kitchen we found the floor strewn with broken glass bottles, pots, pans and tinware of every description. The dog was lying on his sheepskin, in his regular place in the corner, frightened almost out of his life—and the cat had his head in one of the freshly opened salmon cans, backing up as fast as it could, fitfully raising the can with its head and threshing it about madly in an attempt to free itself from the can. We caught the cat, and while one held it the other tried to pull off the can—but to no purpose. And all the while the

New Body Lines and More Room in 1935 Ford V-8

THE largest and roomiest cars Ford has ever built, with new body lines of advanced streamline design, are illustrated above in this Ford V-8 de luxe Tudor sedan for 1935. Sedans seat six passengers in comfort. Luxurious appointments are new. The eleven body types are all finished in new baked enamel which is said to need only washing to restore its high lustre. Cars are approximately eight inches longer from bumper to bumper and seats are wider. Chassis improvements, including moving the engine forward more than eight inches and new spring suspension, add to riding comfort, especially of rear seat passengers. Directed-flow crankcase ventilation is an improvement of the 90 horsepower V-8 engine.

PLAN TO SUPPRESS PAN-HANDLING IN WINNIPEG

Robert Jacob, K. C., Chairman of the Winnipeg Relief Commission for Unemployed Single Men, Outlines Present Meal Ticket Plan.

One of the most difficult problems that the Winnipeg Relief Commission has had to face is that of caring for the transients who have no fixed local abode, states Robert Jacob, K.C., through the medium of the Winnipeg Magazine. If these men make application for assistance they are given two days' temporary relief which consists of a place to sleep for two nights and two meals per day for two days. During this period they are given the opportunity to apply for placement in a relief camp or, during the winter months, on a farm. If they make this application they are medically examined and are placed in a camp or on a farm where work suitable to their physical condition is provided. If at the end of the two days they have not made such application no further relief is granted. This sometimes results in them adopting the methods of pan-handling or begging in order to secure assistance.

This pan-handling or begging, however, is not confined to transients as it is known that many local residents who have been offered the means of subsistence by going to a camp or farm and who have refused to do so are using this means of getting by.

All single men who are destitute and who are physically unfit for work on a farm or in a camp are placed on regular relief and are provided with two meals per day, shelter and necessary clothing. Some of this latter class are also known to be asking citizens for further assistance.

To keep pan-handling down to a minimum and if possible eliminate it entirely, the Commission made available some time ago to all drug stores and clubs in Winnipeg tickets which could be given to persons asking for assistance and which would entitle them to one meal and one bed. These tickets are sold in practically every drug store in Winnipeg in strips of five at a cost of 10 cents per ticket or 50 cents for the strip of five. When these tickets are presented to our dining hall officials they are in every moaning and screeching continued in the bedroom! But the cat had to be relieved first said Mary, so I had to put on my boots and clothes, light my lantern at about three o'clock in the cold, clear morning, and go to the barn for my tin shears. I eventually cut the tin and liberated the cat's head from the salmon can,—incidentally, in doing so, I cut an ear off the cat! This done, we then turned our attention to the howling and screaming from the bedroom. We quietly went to the door and rapped; but getting no answer but a howl, we opened the door and there, crawling out from under the bed, was the Scotch music teacher. Her first rational words were "Is the danger all over?" and on being assured that it was, her next were, "Oh my, but I am thankful," in her rich, peaceful, warm Scotch cadence.

But the end was not yet. We had commenced to settle down to bed once more, when the door bell rang, and downstairs I went, to see what was next on the tapis. It proved to be a neighbor who had a horse with the colic, and he had been up all night. He had observed the case honored to their face value but the case of the man presenting them is investigated and if it is found that he is not justified in obtaining these tickets from the citizens, due to the help which is already being given or offered to him, further tickets obtained by him will not be honored.

The Commission has thus placed in the hands of the citizens of Winnipeg a method of controlling the matter of indiscriminate pan-handling by single men and if the people of Winnipeg will only co-operate by keeping on hand a supply of these tickets and giving out no other form of assistance, incentive for pan-handling will rapidly disappear and this objectionable practice will be practically wiped out.

Many men who have been refused assistance by the Relief Commission, due to their refusal to work for the relief given to them, have been able to obtain their living through the kindness of soft-hearted people who probably are not aware of the situation and in this way the objects of the Commission and its efforts to protect the people of Winnipeg from this practice have been handicapped.

ESCALATOR CONTROL

Engineering (London.)

The heavy wear and tear on the mechanical parts of escalators can be reduced by running them at much less than normal speeds when no one is using them and speeding them up as soon as passengers arrive. Provision has been made for this at Manor House station on the Piccadilly Railway, London, by installing photo-electric equipment, manufactured by the General Electric Company, Limited, Magnet House, Kingsway, London, W.C. 2. This enables the speed to be increased by six smooth steps as soon as the intending passenger crosses the controlling beam and to be maintained at full volume by a time switch until he has reached his destination. The arrival of a second passenger before the end of this period re-sets the time switch, so that the escalator continues to run at high speed as long as anyone is using it.

lights going round the house outside, to and from the barn, his horse, I had, and I mixed so knowing that we must be up and gave it to him, and again and about he had thought perhaps I might have something I turned in for a short snooze.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, January 6th., is "God."

The Golden Text is:—"Now unto the King eternal, immortal, invisible, the only wise God, be honour and glory for ever and ever." (Timothy I: 17).

The following correlative passages are selected from among those comprised in the Lesson-Sermon to be read from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:—

"And when he was demanded of the Pharisees, when the kingdom of God should come he answered them and said, 'The kingdom of God cometh not with observation: Neither shall they say, Lo here! or, lo there! for, behold, the kingdom of God is within you.' (Luke 17: 20, 21).

"The days of our pilgrimage will multiply instead of diminish, when God's kingdom comes on earth; for the true way leads to Life instead of to death, and earthly experience discloses the finity of error and the infinite capacities of Truth, in which God gives man dominion over all the earth." (Science and Health, page 202).

Civilized nations seem to be the ones that simply can't endure wrong or injustice except at home.

Agricultural Studies in Sixteenth Century

Agriculture began to be studied, as a science, in the principal countries of Europe, about the middle of the Sixteenth century, notes a writer in the Montreal Herald. The works of Crescenzo in Italy, Olivier de Serres in France, Hereshbach in Germany, Herrera in Spain, and Fitzherbert in England, all published about that period, supplied the materials of study, and led to improved practices among the reading agriculturists. The art received a second impulse in the middle of the century following, after the general peace of Aix-la-Chapelle. Then, as Harte has observed, "almost all the European nations, by a sort of tacit consent, applied themselves to the study of agriculture, and continued to do so, more or less, even amidst the universal confusion that soon succeeded."

During the Eighteenth century the march of agriculture was progressive throughout Europe, with little exception; and it has attained to a very considerable degree of perfection in some districts of Italy, in the Netherlands and in Great Britain. In Spain it has been least improved, and it is still in a very backward state in most parts of middle Europe and, of course, Russia.

In front of my house, when I moved into it many years ago, stood the gaunt skeleton of a tree. There was a big hole in its trunk, and the branches were lifeless. I was on the point of chopping the ugly thing down, when an old man came by. He shook his head at the axe in my hand. The tree was not dead, he told me. Furthermore, it was a Balm of Gilead tree, and very rare. So I plugged the hole with concrete, and each spring since, that tree has bloomed in gorgeous color. It is cheering, in these dark days, to reflect that whatever may come of the political bickerings and squabbles of Nations, nature continues serenely on her way. There may be holes in the trunk of our economic system, but there is sap still flowing deep inside; and if we plug the holes with a cement made of energy and hope, there will be blossoms on the branches again.—Selected.

G. B. S. PROPHECIES, BUT ONLY AT A PRICE

George Bernard Shaw won't do any sooth-saying concerning 1935—at least, not unless he's paid for it.

"I'm sorry," he said, when asked what he thought the new year held in store for the world, "but I'm not God Almighty."

"Haven't you even a little idea about what the year might bring?" he was asked.

"Young man," came the Shavian reply, "I never have little ideas. It would take me a month to write them down for you. How much will you pay me for them?"

That George Bernard Shaw was not joking was quite obvious.

FEWER FINANCIAL WORRIES FOR GOVERNMENTS IN CANADA DURING 1935

Governments in Canada will have fewer financial worries in 1935 than in 1934, in the way of maturing bond issues. According to estimates prepared by A. E. Ames and Co. Limited, the amount of Canadian bonds maturing this year will be about 30 per cent less than in the year just closed.

Total issues maturing in 1934 were $415,813,957, while expected maturities in the present year will amount only to $291,752,611 exclusive of the possible redemption of $137,053,841 of Dominion of Canada 3½ per cent stock redeemable in London July 1 at par and $47,519,000 seven per cent railway bonds due in 1940 but callable now at 1.02½ in New York.

Provincial maturities will be higher this year than last, but the Dominion Government's maturing obligations will be about $150,000,000 less. Municipalities and private corporations also have considerable lower amounts to provide for retirement of obligations. More than 55 per cent of the 1935 maturities come due in Canada, the balance being payable in New York and London.

EXCEPTION TO FORM OF SUIT DISMISSED

An exception to the form of the action instituted against the Town of Montreal North by A. Leonard, laborer, for $40,000 damages for injuries suffered while employed by the municipality in the excavation of a sewer trench, was dismissed by judgment of Mr. Justice Curran in Superior Court.

The municipality sought to have Leonard's action thrown out of court on the ground that he had not given notice of his claim within the delays specified by law. The Quebec Cities and Towns Act requires damage claims against municipalities to be preceded by a written notice within 15 days after the mishap.

The laborer admitted that no formal notice had been sent, but urged that the act provided exceptions where the claimant is prevented from complying with the act. Mr. Justice Curran ruled that the municipality was aware of the accident, inasmuch as its doctors attended the injured man, and arrangements were made by the town for his hospitalization. The municipality gave Leonard to believe it was acting in a friendly manner, looking after his interests, said His Lordship, and this obviated the necessity of formal notice. Effect of the judgment was to allow the case to proceed upon its merits.

The Ottawa Spotlight

A Weekly Review of National Affairs
Specially written for The Watchman
By Wäfrid Eggleston

Ottawa, January 2.—Here on Parliament Hill we look back upon one eventful year and forward into another. Only when one begins to list a few of the highlights is the richness of 1934 in momentous happenings fully evident. Just to review them hastily, here they are:

The formation of a Central Bank
The legislation of a Marketing Act, with all that that means to organized agriculture.
The 'new deal' for the debt-ridden farmer.
The sensational mass-buying and price-spreads inquiry.
The resignation of Mr. Stevens.
The restoration of titles.
The impressive defeat of the government in the September by-elections.

The Liberal swing in Ontario and Saskatchewan.
The appointment of Earl Lawson M.P. as Conservative federal organizer.

The socialistic tinge apparent among government leaders, mentioned last week.

Quite possibly I've overlooked one or two. But without any others that stands out as an impressive list.

Jus for a hasty glimpse forward:

What about 1935?

A hectic session? Probably.

A hot campaign? Certainly.

A general election? Without fail.

Unemployment Insurance? Well, an attempt, anyway.

A Provincial-Dominion Conference on the B.N.A. Act? Possibly.

A swing-about in fiscal policy? Not unlikely.

Continuation of the upward trend in business? Let's all hope so.

End of the five year wheat glut? Some relief, anyway.

It's Being Worked Hard

Some of us have our doubts whether the new marketing legislation will prove all that its admirers claim. But whatever its merits, it looks like being given a thorough work-out.

At the end of the year, there were five marketing "schemes" already operating, three more about to be set up, and eight or ten more which have got so far as a preliminary application.

Those already working deal with the tree-fruits of the interior of British Columbia, the export of apples and pears, the export of western red cedar shingles, the export of dry salt herring and dry salt salmon (from British Columbia to the Orient) and the marketing of bright flue-cured tobacco (principally grown in Norfolk and Essex counties of Ontario). In addition the three schemes more or less advanced deal with poultry in the three prairie provinces, livestock in Alberta and Saskatchewan, and potatoes in the Maritimes and Ontario.

The idea of all these schemes is to provide the machinery whereby the marketing of the regulated product can be controlled 100 per cent. It aims to do what voluntary associations have often been unable to do because of the upsetting effect of a small minority which has refused to go in to the plans. Every producer of the regulated product may be registered, and the quantity and quality of the article which he places on the market can be set by the local marketing board.

The Dominion Board, consisting of a number of highly trained agriculturists and all members of the federal civil service, have been very busy considering the schemes proposed from various parts of Canada. Th initiative for setting up schemes usually rests with the producers although the Minister of Agriculture (Hon. Robert Weir) has the power, if he thinks it advisable, to create schemes without application from the producers.

The Year 1934

The economists seem to think that 1934 was a year of satisfactory recovery. A few areas in Canada, notably the drought-stricken region in Saskatchewan, a few places in Alberta and Manitoba—possibly others—went back; the rest of Canada made at least some forward movement. Most of the measuring-rods which the experts apply to the figures for trade, employment, finance and so on, show advancement.

We're not out of the woods yet, but here's hoping 1935 will be a red-letter year in our history.

WATER TURBINE

Turbine turning under falls,
Under booming water walls,
From the roar of where you live
Comes the motor hum you give.
Turbine turning under tons,
Under spurting water guns,
From the river's plunging gust
Leaps a mighty motor thrust.
Turbine turning in the storm,
Turning, turning, giant form—
From the water snap and splash
Comes the gear and pinion clash.
Turbine turning to the flood,
Robbing from the river's thud,
From the shout of city walls
Comes an echo of the falls.

PUBLIC NOTICE To the Citizens of Lachute

Province of Quebec,
District of Terrebonne.

Corporation of the Town of Lachute.

By-Law No. 134.

Re: CURFEW

Whereas the Town of Lachute, has become an important crossroad through which day and night automobile travellers and highway tramps go by.

Whereas the Municipal authorities of the Town of Lachute, received and do receive quantities of complaints referring to serious troubles at night, which were caused by children under fourteen years of age.

Whereas the frequentation of the Town streets by night constitute for children a bad example, teaches them a pernicious knowledge and is an inducement to do wrong.

Whereas many children are not sufficiently protected through the authority of the family, the holder of such authority not exercising any watch whatsoever at night over their children, who should be kept at the house.

Whereas it is the duty of the Municipal Council of the Town of Lachute, to see that good order is maintained within the limits of the Town, and that people behave according to good public morals, and that children be protected, even against themselves.

Whereas the Corporation of the Town of Lachute, acting through its legally constituted council has the right, as conferred to them by the charter of the Town, and by the general rules of the City and Town's act of the Province of Quebec, to enact police regulations for the maintenance of good order and peace;

Whereas it has been deemed useful, wise and timely to protect children against themselves, in order to prevent troubles which they may create at night, as above related, by establishing a curfew, which cur-few shall be tolled by means of a siren, at nine o'clock Standard Time every night in order that all children under fourteen years of age be and stay at home until five, next morning.

Whereas it was deemed, wise that the chief of police of the Corporation or the representative of the Town give to parents, tutors or guardians, who would not comply with the present regulation and would commit a first infraction, a solemn and final notice.

Whereas it seems wise and just to impose a fine not exceeding $20.00 to parents, tutors or guardians, for every second or subsequent infraction to the present By-Law, that is, by not keeping their children under fourteen years of age, at home after nine o'clock, P.M., this fine being collected by means of summary conviction before a justice of the peace.

It is regulated, decreed and promulgated that from the date on which this present By-Law will come into force;

1. That a curfew be tolled every night at five to nine o'clock P.M., in order that parents, tutors or guardians, be notified to keep at home their children under fourteen years of age from nine o'clock P.M. to five A.M. in the morning.

2. That a fine not exceeding $20.00 for the second and every subsequent infraction be imposed on parents, tutors or guardians, not complying with this present By-Law after they have been found guilty in a summary conviction charge before a justice of the peace.

3. That the costs resulting from such conviction be also charged against the parties transgressing this By-Law.

4. That the Secretary-Treasurer of the Town of Lachute, the chief of police, or chief constable be authorized to sign the complaints in accordance with this By-Law.

PAY FINAL TRIBUTE TO GEO. DANSEREAU

Pall bearers were Jos. Cote, Leo Clement, J. L. Morin, L. Allard, J. H. Laurin, Romeo Monty, A. Larose and E. Chantal.

The chief mourners were his widow, whose maiden name was Hermine Larose of Vercheres; two brothers, Charles and Omer Dansereau of Montreal; three sons, George Etienne, Gaetan and Stanislas, of Grenville; four daughters (Yvonne) Mrs. P. Joly, Montreal; (Gabriel) Mrs. J. P. Paul, Montreal; and Antoinette and Cecile at home.

Among the host of floral tributes received from members of the family and friends were wreaths from the speaker of Quebec Legislative Assembly; Corporation of the town of Grenville; Agricultural Society of the county of Argenteuil; employees of the road department of Lachute; J. C. H. Turcot, M.L.A., Sorel; Hon. R. Grothie, Montreal; Col. J. B. White, Montreal; the Bridge Club of Grenville, and the Gatineau Power Co., Hawkesbury.

Geo. Dansereau, although a public and business man and consequently most widely known, was of a retiring nature. He belonged to few public organizations or clubs, preferring the quiet of home and family. Perhaps the words of Rev. H. D. J. Brosseau, parish priest of Grenville described him best: "He was a man of Christian principles all his life and in his last sickness, I saw in his life a beautiful manifestation of what a Christian life means to an individual and to a family because to me he was a perfect Christian man."

Although in ill-health for some time, Mr. Dansereau's death was a distinct shock to the community.

Autumn

Autumn is not a time of death and sadness in the forests, observes a writer in the New York World-Telegram. "A things that make a woodland walk melancholy in the fall to many sensitive folk do not lie in the yellow sunlight, garish foliage, sweet peacefulness of old pastures clothed in hay-scented fern and bull thistles; in falling pale-gold leaves of tulip, birch and sassafras. They lie deep in the abyssal depths of the human heart, that storehouse of old subconscious memories of glaciers grinding outside Neanderthal caves; of vestiges of emotions aroused in our superstitious neolithic ancestors by the approach of bitter cold, starvation and the terror of pristine winters. It is the signal of the subconscious mind to the intellectual mind to gather a store of food, firewood or warm skins against the snow and ice. To the forest autumn is simply the time of fulfillment; of ripened fruits and seeds of approaching sleep, followed by spring reincarnation—and happiness.

Cricket Sings by Telephone

That a cricket possesses hearing apparatus in its forelegs, and that a female cricket will hop toward a male cricket when the latter produces his love song by rubbing his wing casings together has been known for some time. But scientists have thought it possible that other factors, such as smell, vision or vibration might also be involved in this response, until experiments recently described proved this was not true. A male cricket was induced to chirp into the telephone and the receiver at the other end of the line was left off the hook within hearing distance of a female cricket. As soon as the chirping began the female cricket rose into the air and settled down beside the receiver.—Detroit News.

Besides his parents and uncle, Thomas Morrow, he is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Charles Chase (Enid), of Kilmar, Que., and the Misses Eileen and Dorothy at home.

The funeral was held on Sunday, and was largely attended by friends from the entire district, including Masonic brethren, who conferred the last rites of the order. The Masonic ceremony was held at the residence, prior to the funeral service. A considerable number were present from the Lachute Lodge.

The Cross by Lake Erie

In the summer of 1669 a little expedition, led by three remarkable men, travelled up the St. Lawrence from Montreal in seven canoes. Francis Dollier de Casson and René de Bréhant de Galinée were young Sulpicians, men of good birth who had scorned secular careers to risk martyrdom in the wilderness of a strange world. Dollier, who later became head of the Sulpicians in Montreal, was so strong that he could carry two men sitting on his hands. To Galinée we owe the narrative and maps of the expedition. The third leader needs no introduction. He was Robert Cavalier, Sieur de la Salle, now starting on his first search for the great river of the west.

The party travelled leisurely via the south shore of Lake Ontario and near the present site of Hamilton met another group under a young Canadian, Louis Jolliet. Here La Salle broke away, tending southward in the direction where his river was said to be. The priests reached Lake Erie by the Grand River and wintered at Port Dover, far enough up the little river there to escape the winds of the lake. The outline of their building is still discernible on the ground. As far as we know they were the first white men to visit the Long Point region or to winter by the shores of Lake Erie.

In the spring the Sulpicians and their seven French companions proceeded by way of the Detroit River, where they were again blazing new trails. Their missionary zeal took them to Sault Ste. Marie though here they were intruding upon the territory of the Jesuits. Thence they returned to Montreal by way of the Ottawa. But before leaving their winter home they erected on Passion Sunday a great wooden cross bearing the arms of France. To-day the site on the lakeside cliff is marked by a fine stone cross which may be seen from afar, recalling to modern travellers the remarkable journey of these brave missionary-explorers.

ST. ANDREWS PHYSICIAN MARRIED AT OTTAWA

McColl—Johnston

The marriage of Miss Mary (Molly) Kathleen Johnston, eldest daughter of Very Rev. Robert Johnston, D.D., and Mrs. Johnston, to Dr. Duncan T. R. McColl, of St. Andrews East, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McColl, of Blenheim, Ont., was solemnized at half-past two on Saturday afternoon in Knox Presbyterian Church, Ottawa, which was prettily decorated with palms, ferns and white lilies for the occasion.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. H. Leatham, D.D., of St. Andrew Presbyterian Church, Ottawa assisted by Rev. Dr. Ballantyne, of St. Andrews East. Dr. F. L. Harrison presided at the organ and, as the bridal party entered the church, played the Wedding March from Lohengrin, and at the close of the ceremony Mendelssohn's Wedding March. During the signing of the register the choir sang "O, Perfect Love". The bride was given in marriage by her father, who is pastor of Knox Church, and she wore a very lovely gown of ivory velvet made on long graceful lines. Her veil of Limerick lace, which was held with a wreath of orange blossoms, fell very prettily down over her train, both veil and orange blossoms having been worn by her mother and also by a great aunt at their wedding. She carried a bouquet of white lilies.

The bride's two sisters, Miss Claire and Miss Margaret Johnston, were the bridesmaids, and both were gowned alike in American Beauty velvet and turbans of the same with touches of silver. They wore silver slippers and carried old-fashioned nosegays. Dr. McLaughlin, of Buckingham, Que., was groomsmen, and those acting as ushers were Mr. Hugh Graham and Dr. S. Kenny.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the manse on Carling Avenue, Ottawa, where the guests were received by the bride and bridegroom, and by Dr. and Mrs. Johnston, the latter wearing a handsome gown of midnight blue velvet with a wide brimmed hat of the same and a corsage bouquet of roses.

Dr. and Mrs. McColl left later for Quebec, the bride travelling in a smart brown crepe dress with a brown cloth coat trimmed with a large fur collar and a brown felt hat.

The out-of-town guests were Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Ballantyne, of St. Andrews East; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Stephens, Brownsburg, Que.; Miss Elizabeth Baird, of Picton, N.S.; Miss Archibald, Miss Vail, and Miss Margaret Richmond, all of Montreal.

Aye, Aye, Sir—There are four "T's" in individuality. They stand for industry, intelligence, initiative and imagination — not inertia, ignorance and intolerance.

"What a big family you have, Mrs. Jones," said the visitor.

"Yes'm, and the funny thing is that all the names begin with a haich. There's 'Orace, 'Erbert, 'Enry, 'Ugh, 'Uberty, 'Arold, 'Arriet and 'Etty—all except the last one, and we 'ad 'er named Hallice."

HARRINGTON EAST CHRISTMAS TREE

In spite of a bad storm prevailing, the Hill Church Christmas Tree was well attended on Wednesday evening, Dec. 19th. A splendid program was given by the young people, consisting of carols, recitations, dialogues, and readings and a number of selections were played on the guitar and sung by Henry Joly and Stewart Poulter.

A one-act play entitled From Down East brought great laughter from the audience. The cast included: Madeline Maclean, Florence MacTavish, Mrs. Emily MacTavish, Lorne MacTavish and Evan Fox.

Another dialogue entitled Frank Glynn's Wife was well acted by Mrs. John Marshall, Elsie MacTavish, Madeline Maclean, Edna Poulter, Gertie Hoyle, Evan Fox and John Marshall.

Another one-act play, well carried out, was also featured under the title Joshua's Proposal. The cast included Beatrice Campbell, Stanley MacTavish, Louis Lormier and S. Poulter.

Much credit is due to those who decorated the church and tree most tastefully for this occasion. At the close of the program, Santa appeared on the scene, distributing many gifts to both young and old folks in attendance. The evening was concluded with the National Anthem.

CHRISTMAS CARDS

One of the pleasantest things about Christmas is the Christmas cards—to get them and to send them. What a thrill it is to receive a card from an old friend from whom you have not heard for a long time, or to get one from a new friend, that because of some unaccountable lapse of memory, you have forgotten—someone you would specially have liked to remember. We all do it. To me it is inexcusable to 'exchange' cards—to send someone a card merely because they have sent you one. Have you noticed the way your friends change even in the short space of a year? People, with whom you were in frequent contact last year and to whom it was the natural thing to send a card, are out of the picture this year and it is quite unnecessary to remember them by any attention. This year it has been possible to get Canadian cards at a reasonable price. I have tried for years to send Canadian cards but there were times when I simply could not do it because of the prohibitive price. We savour them for quite a time as they begin to arrive days before Christmas and we keep them in view for some time afterwards, then we tuck them away in a box to help us with our addresses the next Christmas.

WHAT IS ONE MAN'S MEAT

People differ in their food requirements and that seems to be a difficult thing for many to understand. The thin and the fat, the stocky and the slender, the placid and the nervous, and those with a tendency towards a special disease all require different foods. That does not mean that different meals must be prepared for the special types in your family but it does mean that they require a different choice, which may be accomplished by juggling the servings. It is quite possible to put weight on one person and to reduce the weight of another with the same meals. I have done it, so I know. The thin person was served with more potatoes and meat with fat, the overweight got a skimpy portion of potatoes, a big helping of string beans, cabbage, spinach or whatever vegetable there happened to be, and no fat. The thin one gets an extra large helping of dessert and plenty of cream, with perhaps an extra dash of cream in the glass of milk. And so on. Study the food requirements of your family and do not try to feed them all the same. Do not rely too much on their desires as they are partly responsible for their condition. The thin person likes plenty of meat and milk and the fat one loves the sweets and the butter.

FOR THE THOUGHTFUL

Just a few lines on "pessimism." Are you a "carrier" of pessimism of optimism? You know! Your mirror will tell you. Are you broadcasting smiles or are you spreading gloom? Are you plugging along day after day, sure that everything is all right, therefore assuring those about you of good times ahead? So many of us talk "pessimism" which we ourselves do not believe, doubtless to further some scheme we may have in mind. Optimism is like

HOLD YOUR TONGUE

There is an old saying that 'if you cannot find anything good to say, hold your tongue'. If we could just live up to that, how much happier we would be. We are all conscious of criticism, which does not always even have to be spoken to be felt. We would make others happier by not criticising and we ourselves would be happier because we would have a happier frame of mind. Adverse criticism is partly habit and if we could just refrain from speaking it, we gradually would get the habit of not thinking it. The trouble is that so often the criticism is unjustified. We do not know all the facts and in our ignorance quickly jump to conclusions. I am sure every reader has felt guilty about having too much to say and then finding you were mistaken. Let your New Year's resolution be to hold your tongue and you will find that it will make for the happiness of you and your friends.

1 package lemon jelly powder
2 cups boiling water
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 cup shredded cabbage
1 cup raw carrots chopped
1 teaspoon chopped onions
Mix the first five ingredients and stir until dissolved. Chill and when starting to set stir in the vegetables. Pour in a wet mould and chill until set.

ECONOMICAL OMELET

2 tablespoons quick tapioca
¾ cup milk scalded
1 tablespoon butter
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 cup chopped celery
4 eggs
Add the tapioca, salt and pepper to the milk and cook in a double boiler for 15 minutes, stirring frequently. Add butter. Add well-beaten egg yolks stirring constantly. Fold in egg whites beaten until stiff. Pour into a hot buttered 9" frying pan and cook over slow heat for 3 minutes. Then bake in a moderate oven of 350 degrees efficiently cooked when a knife for 15 minutes. Omelet is sufficient comes out clean. Cut across at right angles to handle of pan and fold. Turn out on hot platter.

perfume, we cannot sprinkle it upon others without getting a little ourselves, but pessimism is like mud; we cannot throw it without getting our hands dirty. We owe it to ourselves, our neighbors, in fact everybody with whom we come in contact to be "carriers" of optimism. Success breeds success and optimism creates optimism. Let's forget yesterday and yesterday year and start planning just what will be best for this next one. You yourself must decide which you will be, pessimist or optimist. No one can be neutral.

FOR INSTANCE, and to clear away any possible confusion, if a group of average wives are discussing the maid problem, or children's ailments or a new way of serving tapioca, almost any one of them can converse freely and intelligently, and often with originality. Because they instantly apply the subject to themselves.

It's the same with operations. Not a few members of the group will converse well in the matter of books, music and other cultural things. But here again there is a personal application. They have read the book, heard the music, and participated to some degree in the other activities. Up to now, of course, they haven't differed one bit from the average man.

It is when a conversation gets on to broader affairs that very often there is a difference.

To instance but two subjects, there are international and national affairs. Usually a man, consciously or unconsciously, associates himself with them. He may see himself enlisting again. He sees himself as an elector or a taxpayer.

Generally, a woman does not. She is more of a passive spectator.

In our own national affairs, most women read about the railway problem, about Dominion, Provincial and Municipal Debts, about Taxation, and consider them as matters that may well be left to the menfolk.

Did they apply them personally, they would undoubtedly find them of no small interest.

NOW I am not suggesting that a young matron who cannot enter a room to Mr. Baily's satisfaction can become a social sensation by chatting knowingly for hours on such subjects as debt refunding and tax notices.

The point is that you as a housewife, present or future, might have more rooms of your own to walk in and out of, were some of our tangled national affairs untangled.

In other words, you, as a person, as a wife, as a mother, are personally affected by those tangles.

Government of a country is the country's house-keeping. It is supposed to be conducted on a budget system.

For a number of years now, Canada's multitudinous governments have been spending $135 for every $100 they have taken in.

Boiling all the results down, the effect is that every time you buy anything to eat, anything to wear, anything for the house, for yourself, your husband or your children, you pay extra for it because of government taxes.

When you read of the Dominion's per capita debt, think of it as a $500 mortgage on your house for every person in it. If there are three in your family, it means $1,500.

Regularly you contribute to the interest payments, but the principal is growing all the time. Your great grandchildren will be worrying about that.

THROUGH interest charges and operating losses, the Canadian National Railways have been costing the country as much as $200,000,000 a year.

If your husband doesn't earn enough to pay income tax, do not rest easy in the belief that those with larger incomes are helping to make up that amount and that you are not.

Every time you buy a jar of face cream, a bar of toilet soap or a can of soup, you contribute directly.

Your cosmetics and toilet goods carry a ten per cent luxury tax and a six per cent sales tax.

Sales taxes and such may be painless for the consumer, but you part with the pennies in one way or another.

IF, ONCE a month, you had to hand over your husband's weekly pay envelope or cheque to a government inspector you would feel an urge to say something, wouldn't you?

Yet that is what you are doing. Canadian wage and salary earners, on the average and in one way and another, give one week's earnings each month to the various governments of this country.

The firm employing your husband or your fiancé cannot give him an increase in salary unless it is making a profit. It cannot make a profit if it is overburdened with taxes.

Nor can it expand and give employment to men now out of a job.

WHAT about the solutions to all these problems? Why cannot our governments cope with the railway train, the matter of over administration—ten parliaments, ten series of duplicating services?

The reasons is that practically every plan for the solution of our basic problems is blocked by fear of political consequences.

Your welfare takes second place to the desirability of making such and such a constituency or such and such a province safe for the Party.

Figure these things out for yourself. Consider your own interests and the interests of your family.

And whenever you vote, use it as an individual who is directly affected by the results, not as a carbon-copy member of any Party's ladies' aid.

Which is a long way from where we started. I hope I haven't kept you too long.

50 Years Ago.

January 2nd., 1885.

Mr. McRae has had another letter from his son, William. It is dated Ambukoo, Nov. 24th., and says all the Canadians who went to the Nile Expedition are well and had a most pleasant trip. "We started from Wady Halfa for Dongola with the small boats, each boat containing a crew of nine soldiers and a cargo of about two tons and a half. The progress is very slow owing to the roughness of the river, not having on an average two miles of smooth water between each rapids. Several men have been drowned, both soldiers and Canadians, and several accidents—such as breaking boats, losing part of the cargo and men getting hurt." McRae was in one of the boats when she sank in the rapids, another boat coming to their assistance and taking off the crew. In describing the country, he says, you would scarcely believe it if you did not see it, as in the daytime the sun is so hot and the flies so bad you can hardly stand it, the nights being just the reverse, severe and cold. The sand-flies in a sand storm almost blind one and you hardly ever see a tree.

25 Years Ago.

January 3rd., 1910.

The man who edits the average country newspaper cannot well avoid treading on somebody's toes continually; must expect to be censured often for unintentional failures; must expect hard work and little thanks; must expect to be called cowardly because he doesn't pitch into everything that somebody thinks is wrong, and a fool if he speaks out too plainly on public evils. It is the business of the newspaper to give every local enterprise enthusiastic and frequent "send-offs." Do you wonder there are so many cranks in the newspaper business? It is bound to make either a crank or a philosopher out of a man.

Fools are not all dead yet, but there is one less than there was last week, because of having disregarded the warning given by a foreman in charge of some excavation work not to proceed till a blast was discharged. But he thought he could get beyond the danger point in time, and just as the mine was reached, it exploded and killed the chauffeur and the six passengers.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTES FORM LINKS OF FRIENDSHIP

One of the most significant movements of the Women's Institutes has been the formation of what are known as "Links of Friendship." These contacts are made between Branches separated by wide distances overseas, and consist of friendly and sisterly messages, with at times small gifts of some product peculiar to the section of country in which the Branch is situated. Copies of the official organs of the countries, and reports of activities are exchanged with mutual benefit.

For example, a Branch in New Zealand has a "Link of Friendship" with another in Rhodesia. Scotland Women's Institute Branches have formed several Links in Quebec Province, and the British Institutes have done the same thing. Some countries have a special secretary for this purpose, who travels and lectures to encourage the formation of "Links of Friendship."

There can be no doubt of the value of these contacts in the international life of the world. A truer spirit of co-operation and a better understanding between countries are having a path blazed for their progress by means of these contacts between the basic forces of their rural life.

Canada Makes Progress Says Beatty

C.P.R. President Reviews Past Year and Finds Evidence of Permanent Economic Improvement in Advances so far made—Predicts Canadian Wheat as Best in the World will find Steady Market.

THE course of our recovery from the economic catastrophe which swept over the world in 1929 and 1930 has been markedly different from that of any of the previous cases of business expansion in this country. This time we seem to be experiencing a process of slow rebuilding, and, as far as I can see, one of permanent re-adjustment of our economic activities to conditions which have radically and permanently changed. What we are today experiencing is a process of steady, and I hope permanent, growth.

E. W. BEATTY, K.C.
Chairman and President
Canadian Pacific Ry.

This to my mind would be an entirely normal result of the causes which led to the great collapse of Canadian business. The boom conditions which followed a temporary depression after the Armistice were, as far as Canada is concerned, chiefly the result of forces and conditions in other countries. Actually our productive boom resulted from tangible demand for Canadian products, and from conditions in other countries which directed a flow of capital into Canadian development. Equally the economic collapse in Canada resulted chiefly from forces operating in other countries.

Nothing is more important in our economic life than our great exporting industries. In the case of wheat I have never accepted the alarmist views which have been freely expressed. The world surplus stocks, produced partly by active encouragement of production in many importing countries, and partly by a series of unusually favourable seasons in Europe, seem to be needed to meet the marked shrinkage in production in 1934. While complete recovery of world commerce in wheat must depend on some limitation of excessive economic nationalism, on greater stability of monetary exchange, and on increase in the total volume of other forms of world commerce, I see no reason to believe that Canadian wheat, the best in the world, sold at fair prices, will not find a steady market.

Other primary products, such as minerals, lumber, and bacon are being exported in increased volume and at better prices, largely owing to the Imperial trade agreements of 1932, and the newsprint industry shows clear sign of recovery.

It is to be regretted that the past few years have seen further increase in the debt of the Dominion, the Provinces and many municipalities. Much of our public debt has been incurred for purposes obviously legitimate as part of the ordinary government of the country, but much has resulted from experiments in the direction of governmental participation in business. Regrettable as is the loss occasioned by errors on the part of private enterprise, this type of loss is corrected by a reduction in the income and capital holdings of those who finance the enterprises. An unwise investment by a public body means a permanent charge on the tax-payers. I recommend this thought to those who believe that further expansion of governmental activities is the best method of protecting the ordinary citizen from exploitation by capitalists. In actual fact the safest policy for great capitalists is at present to buy securities issued by public bodies and to leave the chance of loss to be carried by the mass taxpayers.

Throughout the past year the matter of the country's railway problem has received an increasing amount of public attention, and I am convinced that proposals for its solution along the lines of unified management for the two great companies have made decided progress. In all directions are observable a greater willingness on the part of the public to enter upon an unprejudiced consideration of the case, and even among those classes whose interests might at first glance seem to be threatened by any such proposals, I discover a growing desire to examine their possibilities and to find out if they really are as dangerous as those who early rushed into print to attack them would seem to believe. This is all to the good. If unified management will not stand up under the most searching criticism, obviously, it should not go forward. But the criticism should be fair and honest and it should be based upon a fairly sound understanding of railway economics and not upon personal interest or prejudice. I say nothing less than the truth when I affirm that most of the criticism that has come out so far will not stand up before any one or even two or three of the above tests. I shall not further deal with the matter here, except to say that I can see no other way than unified railway management in which the country can put a stop to the continual cumulative wastage of vast sums of money and can safeguard the future of both railways while adequately preserving the property rights of the Canadian people in the Canadian National, and those of the shareholders of the Canadian Pacific. In a word this is my proposal for unified management—it is a partnership between public ownership and private ownership with the added advantage of private operation free from political control.

Both Canadian Railway systems as well as the railways of almost every modern nation, have suffered to some extent from the growth of highway transportation. The general use of privately owned motor cars, and an increasing amount of pleasure travel in prosperous times, have led to the construction of a great network of modern highways, which in turn have been used as the right of way for a great number of freight vehicles. To a great extent the operations of these vehicles and their policy in setting their charges, have not been subjected to the same close supervision which public authorities have long given to railway operations and tariffs. In this case also public opinion is pressing for better handling of the situation. The railways do not question the advisability of building good roads, or of permitting them to be used for commercial transportation, but the perfection of the present attempts to proper control of this operation will, in my opinion, return to the railways at least some of the business taken from them by highway transport and place both highway and rail transportation on a sounder basis.

It is also interesting to note a growing public sentiment in the direction of demanding some contribution to the upkeep of our great and costly inland waterway system from those who use them—especially in the case of ships of foreign registry.

With every correction of these special cases of unfair competition, the Company must depend chiefly for a restoration of its normal business on a recovery of Canadian prosperity in general. The outlook in that respect is comforting. The very careful studies prepared by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics indicate a condition far from as alarming as some authorities would make it.

In this great and scantily populated country we should not, however, be talking only of recovery. Canada should look forward to expansion in every direction. To my mind the policies needed to insure this are very simple. I should list them as: scrupulous care to prevent the debts of public bodies and resulting destructive taxation from any further increase; concentration of our efforts both in public policy and private business on the increase both in volume and prosperity of our primary industries—especially agriculture; public and private business policies looking to increase the population of Canada—especially in the agricultural areas; and, as I have repeatedly said, an immediate correction of the burdensome and costly duplication of transportation facilities.

It appears to me that we can look back on 1934 with some contentment, as a year during which we found that the world was not ending, and that by industry and thrift nations and individuals could still prosper. What interests me more is that I believe we can look forward to 1935 and successive years with confidence that under Providence we shall see in them a period when Canada will revive that faith in her future which too many of us seemed to lose, and that we shall again come to realize that all that is wanted to set this country on a forward path of progress are such simple virtues as energy, honesty, and ordinary common sense.

A Man who "Had no Religion"

By Mary A. Catton.

"A very nice quiet man, but he hasn't any religion—never goes to church!" was a frequent comment when two or more of his neighbors were gathered idly together. He was only a mill-hand—a washer of wool in one of the factories of Finlayville for many years; and, though not an old man, he had lived for over forty years in the same neighborhood. He was not intimately known to many of the neighbors, and comparatively unknown in one sense of the word outside of his small home environment and the mill where he had worked. He and his wife were devoted companions; they lived alone in a cosy little home which they owned, by their thrift over the years from the time they were married. Both of Scottish parentage, they had early learned the advisability of being economical and careful. And now he was ill—seriously ill—he was not expected to recover, in fact. "Sinking rapidly," was the verdict of the doctor on his last call.

"Too bad the man hasn't any religion, and he so near death, too!"—the comment ran, as if the speakers themselves had attended to their own spiritual affairs, with a righteous forethought that justified their complacency for that contingency of Death that must come to all, sometime.

That the man did have a religion, and an abundance of the spiritual essence, was not recognized by those who held judgment on his shortcomings. He had a heart that felt compassionately for the helpless and distressed but in these virtues they did not see any religion—for, how could they? Their idea of religion consisted of going to church on Sundays. They had their limitations. This man's thoughtful kindness in feeding the birds, made no impression on them. They could see the flocks of pigeons festooning his roof-tops and fences at regular hours each day, as promptly as they knew that he would be there to feed them; but that was looked upon as a mere "fad" of the man, to which they gave only passive consideration. It hadn't, to their way of thinking, anything to do with religion, or preparation for heaven. Nor did the man himself consider any of this as religion. He naturally loved the simple, kind ways of life, and all that was beautiful in nature; he cherished the happy homelife, and loved the flowers as he had a compassionate heart for all dumb animals and things. But, most of all, he loved pigeons. He never was more happy than when watching their silver-wings, shining and circling in the sunlight when he was feeding them. And they seemed to know it. If he had never said to himself, "This is my religion," at least the pigeons knew, and came devotedly every day during his illness at the usual hours, though the food wasn't there—nor he to feed them. He perhaps wasn't even thinking of them, nor of the fact that he had perforce relinquished his job in the mill to a younger man, and that nothing now mattered to him—all things had lost their importance. He had, some time since, been advised of the seriousness of his condition—a fact which he himself had sensed long before, even that day which had marked a definite crisis when he had collapsed in the mill, and had made his surrender to the inevitable, without complaint or question. He was now wasted to skin and bones—unable for some time past to retain any nourishment.

Finally, one day, the long procession moved solemnly down the street. There was no beating of drums—no flags flying at half-mast—but a flock of silver-wings hovered near. And, each day thereafter, at the usual hours when he had been in the habit of feeding them, they came as in requiem to his late home and circled about with the sunlight silvering their wings. In this, they proved that they too had their religion. The neighbors remarked on it to each other. The birds did not forget his kindness of heart—which was his religion, and theirs in remembering.

"Millions of young men are glad to follow leaders who clothe and feed them and flatter them by telling them they are the salt of the earth."

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

An important change is announced in C. P. R. train schedule commencing Sunday, January 6th. Train No. 424 will leave Ottawa at 5 p.m. daily, Calumet 7.03 p.m., Grenville 7.07 p.m., Marelau 7.11 p.m., Staynerville 7.23 p.m., and Lachute 7.32 p.m., arriving at Park Avenue at 8.45 and Windsor Station at 9.15 p.m.

The Laurentians, Eastern Canada's winter playground, face the biggest season in their history with an ambitious programme of ski events calling for 19 meets of various kinds, not counting the Dominion and International inter-collegiate championships extending from January 1 to April 21. It is announced by the Laurentian Zone committee of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association.

Recommendation of immediate implementation of the Beatty Commission's report for professional ranks of the Civil Service of Canada was unanimously concurred in at a business session of the Professional Institute of the Civil Service held recently at Ottawa.

First Books

The earliest known records in the form of writing are the inscriptions on tablets of baked clay excavated from the ruins of the Chaldean city of Nippur and believed to have been in use about 6000 B. C. Some of the oldest Egyptian papyrus manuscripts date from about 2000 B. C. The Chinese printed on paper by means of engraved blocks probably as early as 50 B. C. The first known book printed from movable type was the Gutenberg Latin Bible, completed in 1455. The first book printed in English was a history of Troy, printed by William Caxton in 1474.

CUSHING WEST

Mr. Jack Greig has returned to Montreal, after having spent the Christmas vacation at his home in Greece's Point.

Mr. Douglas Hartley, of Montreal, was a guest of his mother for New Year's. Miss Olive Hartley spent the Xmas vacation at her home here.

Mrs. Jas. Harcourt, of New Glasgow, visited her parents,
Mr. and Mrs. R. Pinkerton, on Thursday last.

Mrs. A. Viau and Miss R.
Ranger, of Greece's Point, are spending New Year week with friends in Montreal.

Mr. and Miss Whelehan had as guests for the New Year, their sister, Mrs. R. Funcheon,
Miss Tessie and Mr. Sylvester
Robert, of Monalea, Mr. J. Derrick, also Mrs. E. J. Mahoney and sons, of Montreal.

Capt. and Mrs. T. Weir and daughters were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Higginson, of Hawkesbury, for New Year's.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gaston returned Saturday from a week's stay at Lacolle, where they visited Mrs. Gaston's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Boyce.

Mrs. S. O. Hartley returned on Saturday from a week's visit to Montreal; she also attended the funeral of her cousin, the late William Oliver, of Cowans-ville, who passed away at his home there on Christmas Day.

Mr. Geo. Wishart arrived on New Year's morning from Ottawa, where he had spent part of the Christmas vacation, and joined Mrs. Wishart and their little daughters at the home of her mother, Mrs. Usher, where they will spend a few days before returning to Ste. Anne de Bellevue.

The Misses Florence Holmes, of Montreal, and My a Robinson, of Lachute, were guests of Misses Catherine and Norma
Cooke, for New Year's.

The Misses Menard, of Montreal, spent New Year's at their home here.

Quite a number from this vicinity braved the stormy weather and bad roads on Friday evening to join the gathering which assembled at the home of Mr. Roy Dobbie, to present their felicitations to him and his bride. The sentiments of the company were gracefully voiced by the Rev. Mr. Maclean, and a very pleasant evening was spent.

"Chained", a gripping drama which features Joan Crawford and Clark Gable, will prove an enthralling feature in the Rex program, next Sunday to Tuesday.

Boyd are in Montreal this week attending the funeral of the late Mrs. Ernest Dey.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Brownlee spent the Christmas holidays in Montreal, returning to their home for the New Year.

The death occurred, on Monday, Dec. 24th., of another old resident of this place in the person of Dr. J. H. Bourdeau. The funeral was on Friday, Dec.
28th., in Montreal. The community extends deep sympathy to his widow and family.

Mr. Harold Robb is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Syvret this week.

The funeral of the late Mr.
E. Christie took place on Friday, Dec. 28th., in the United Church here, and was conducted by the Rev. Geo. Perriguard.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Brown, of St. Donat, were here for Christmas and New Year's.

The Misses Phyllis and Marjorie Jowett spent the New Year holiday with their aunt, Mrs. J. D. Davis.

Many Birds Have Happy

Hunting Grounds in Air

The strongest and fiercest of birds have their favorite happy hunting grounds, where they have only to perch and peer, while tasty morsels of bird and butterfly flesh wing past.

For to the cleverest birds, and the stoutest and swiftest of wing, go the juiciest bits. It is a race where wits count even more than wings, though the hunting grounds are in the air.

The shrewd birds perch in wait along the great cross-country air routes traveled by all the feathered and winged creatures who prefer to win in the south and summer in the north. Always by the same familiar routes, the birds and dragon flies and moths travel, stopping over at the same islands, crossing the hills through the same valleys, a stream of fresh and delicious tidbits for the watchful hawks who have only to wait and dart after their favorite foods.

The pigeon hawk is one of the cleverest and fiercest of these bird hunters. He is only about a foot long, and yet even the swiftest birds are not safe from his beak, and he has been known to tackle creatures larger than himself with ease and courage.

Privateering Business

Good During Revolution

Sidelights on the business of privateering during the American Revolution are presented in letters which have come into possession of the Business Historical society of Boston. The owners who furnished the ships ordinarily received one-half of the value of the prizes taken. The crew received a certain stipulated portion of the prizes as pay.

Among the papers of a distiller,
John Heard of Ipswich, are more than 40 agreements with members of privateering crews whereby, upon the receipt of a certain amount of money, these individuals transferred a portion of their share in the prizes taken during a certain voyage. Here is one of the agreements:

"Know all Men by these presents
That I Jonathan Galloway of Ipswich in the County of Essex in New England mariner, in consideration of thirty pounds which I hereby Acknowledge to have Received of John Heard
... Do hereby Sell & Convey unto him & his Assignes one full half of a Share of all Prizes & Effects that may be taken by the Privateer Neptune William Friend Commander During the Cruise she is Now Bound on Supposed to be about fore or Six Months.
& I Do hereby Impour him & his As-signes to Receive the Same of Whosoever Shall pay off the Shares Whose Receipt shall be good for ye Same in Witness where of I have hereunto Set my Hand & Seal this fourth Day of August Anno Domini one thousand seven hundred & Seventy seven.

"JONATHAN GALLOWAY."

Privateering played a large part in the successful culmination of the war.
American ships captured about 800 vessels during the conflict; by far the greater number of these were taken by privateers.—New York Times.

FORD V-8 FOR 1935

The New Ford V-8 for 1935 is the biggest and roomiest Ford car ever built. It is a strikingly handsome car, with modern lines and new, luxurious appointments.

But most important of all it is especially designed to give you smooth, easy riding over all kinds of roads—"a front-seat ride for back-seat riders."

This ease of riding is achieved by the use of three basic principles never before combined in a low-price car.

1. Correct distribution of car weight by moving engine and body forward eight and a half inches.

2. New location of seats by which the rear seat is moved forward, toward the centre of the car away from the rear axle and away from the bumps.

3. New spring suspension which permits the use of longer, more flexible springs and increases the springbase to 123 inches.

A New Ford V-8 That Brings New Beauty,
New Safety, and a New Kind of Riding
Comfort Within Reach of Millions of People

The result is Centre-Poise—which not only gives you a new riding comfort but adds to the stability of the car and its ease of handling. You can take curves from seven to eight miles faster with perfect safety.

There are many new features in the Ford V-8 for 1935 which make the car still easier to drive. New brakes give more power for stopping quickly with far less foot pressure on the pedal. A new type of easy-pressure clutch employs centrifugal force to increase efficiency at higher speeds. New steering mechanism makes the car still easier to handle.

The New Ford V-8 for 1935 retains the V-8 engine which has demonstrated its dependability and economy in the service of over a million owners. There are refinements, but no change in basic design.

You buy premium performance when you buy this Ford
V-8—full 90 horsepower and 85 miles an hour.

We invite you to see this
New Ford V-8 at the showrooms of Ford dealers. You will want to ride in it—to drive it yourself. You will find it a new experience in motoring.

Nomination Prospects for Municipal Elections

MAYORALTY OPEN FOR NEW APPOINTMENT

Aldermanic Vacancies in Three Wards Contests Likely

The Lachute Town Council meeting of last week concluded Mr. Arthur Larocque's term of office as mayor. Following the established custom of French and English alternating, the seat will be occupied by English representation next term. There has always been a spirit of reciprocity in this matter, — a condition which is most necessary in the upbuilding of any community, wherein bilingual interests exist.

Four years ago the Editor of the Watchman was presented with a largely signed petition from leading citizens of the town, urging acceptance of the position as Mayor. At this time we had recently effected the purchase of an influential magazine, "The Municipal Review of Canada" with Dominion wide circulation — a venture which commanded close attention to our business, and we felt unable to assume further obligations. The Editor thanked his friends for their confidence at the time, and called at the home of Mr. P. Dobbie, for whom another petition had been circulated, and assured him the field would be uncontested.

With elections not far distant, scheduled for Feb. 1st., for some time past a great number of friends have urged upon the Editor again to accept the nomination — to which we have consented.

Fully recognizing that this is a patriotic duty carrying with it a deep responsibility, the Editor accepts the tribute extended to him, and assures his readers that in the event of his election to office his aim and object will be to conduct the affairs of this town in the best interests. In ardor for the welfare and advancement of Lachute, at least, there will be found none more hearty or sincere.

Whatever the outcome, the Editor takes opportunity to thank his friends. He finds a kindly gesture and a real tribute in the support of certain interests with which he has been at variance in past years, (Continued on Page 4)

PARISH COUNCIL SETS TAX RATE

OPPOSED TO OPENING OF HIGHWAY FOR CARS

The regular monthly meeting of the Parish Council of St. Jerusalem was held in the Court House, on Monday afternoon, presided over by Mayor J. E. Walker, there being also present Councillors J. G. Hadley, Albert Scott, and Nicoll, J. E. Armstrong, Leonard Boa, and the Sec.-Treasurer, Jas. W. Gall.

Minutes of previous meeting were read and confirmed.

The business collection roll was homologated and adopted, and the tax levy for the year was set at 35c on the $100.

The council, after much discussion, voted not to allow the roads opened for automobile traffic during the winter months. Councillor A. Nicoll dissented from this motion.

The Engineer's report following survey of the town and parish limits, in which the properties of Messrs. George Staniforth and R. L. Calder were settled as falling within the limits and valuation of Lachute Town, was read and discussed, being again left over for consideration at next meeting.

What's become of the old-fashioned grocer who used to blow into a small paper bag to open it?

ARUNDEL FOLKS HELD HOLIDAY DANCE

Between the celebration of Christmas and the advent of the New Year, the Arundel young people witnessed a very enjoyable dance in Staniforth's Hall on Thursday, the twenty-seventh. Many Montreal visitors were in the vicinity and profited by the occasion to dance to the music of the "Knights of Melody", a four-piece orchestra which rendered some very fine music, suited for both round and square dances.

The hall was decorated in red and green, with additional touches for "moonlights" and the usual frills. A program of twenty-six dances was carried out in a well balanced fashion, and a most versatile orchestra readily responded to those who were a little dubious as to their ability to produce square-dance music. Refreshments were served after midnight.

The committee was composed of: Leslie Cooke, Alex. (Sandy) Dewar, Alf. Dunn, Stanley Cooke, Geo. Thompson, Corl Swail, Jas. Smellie, and the Misses Lillian Bennett, Dorothy Kerr and Stella Cooke. The refreshments were generously donated by townspeople. So enthused were the boys over the event, that it is being considered to have the same group return to provide music for a Valentine Dance in February.

I.O.O.F. CEDE FRATERNITY CHALLENGE CUP

Lachute Lodge No. 14, I.O.O.F. sent a team to Montreal Monday evening, who were guests to the bowlers of Mount Royal Lodge No. 1. The carpet bowling trophy which had been in local possession for several weeks, displayed in R. McArthur & Son's show window, was ceded to Mount Royal on this occasion after a keen game which ended in a defeat for Lachute, in a narrow margin of 12-11.

Teams competing for the Fraternity Challenge Cup were as follows:

Mount Royal I.O.O.F. 1—Bros. Nicholson, Stevens, Churchill and Short (Skip)—12.

Lachute I.O.O.F., 14—Bros. G. Demerse, W. K. McArthur, H. C. Cunningham and R. McArthur (Skip)—11.

LACHUTE ROAD FARMER BEREAVED

DEATH OF MISS YVONNE LEMAY

Wide-felt sympathy has been expressed for Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lemay in the passing of their daughter, Yvonne, at the early age of 22. Her death occurred at home on Friday last, 4th. inst., following an illness which was the brief climax to several months of indifferent health. Miss Yvonne was educated here at the Convent in Lachute, and had spent all her life in the community.

Left to mourn her death, besides her parents, are five sisters, Mrs. Lorenzo Fournier, of Beech Ridge, Mrs. Roland Paquette of Lachute, Misses Marie and Grace in Montreal, and Cecile at home; also three brothers, Albert, on a neighboring farm at Lachute Road, and Josephat and Alfred at home.

The funeral, on Monday, was very largely attended, in spite of bad roads in the district. The service was conducted by Rev. Father Dulude at the St. Andrews parochial church, the cortege proceeding afterward to Lachute for interment in the local Catholic Cemetery.

A THOUGHT FOR 1935

When emulation leads us to strive for self-elevation by merit alone, and not by belittling another, then it is one of the grandest possible incentives to action.

—Dr. Johnson.

OUT-OF-TOWN FIRE SERVICE CHARGES LOW

Noting a lawsuit by the Town of Laval des Rapides, now in the Superior Court, for services of its fire department to the neighboring village of l'Abord à Plouffe — it is remarked that charges of this kind made by our Lachute Fire Brigade are modest indeed, as compared with fire departments of a similar strength in other Quebec towns.

Laval des Rapides is claiming money for services rendered at five fires which took place at l'Abord à Plouffe and bases its charges on a schedule of $75 for the first hour and $50 for subsequent hours of fire fighting.

Lachute Fire Department, in contrast, charges at a rate of $10 for the fire pump and $2 for each fireman, amounting to $22 per hour for services given out-of-town, and $15 for subsequent hours. These charges are billed to the municipality in which the outbreak occurs.

ONE CLOSE CONTEST AS HOCKEY PROCEEDS

With the district hockey schedule nearing the half way mark, a highlight in the three games played this week was last Thursday's tie between Independents and Brownsburg, the former considered a problematical line-up and the latter a recognized leader. The tie, at 1-1, was still unbroken after an overtime session.

On Saturday, Brownsburg beat L.A.A.A. with 9 goals to 3, and on Tuesday L.A.A.A. were losers to Ayers, again with a one-sided count of 9-0.

Tonight's game, the second clash between Ayers Limited and Brownsburg, is expected to feature a closer contest. The Lachute team were winners in the previous engagement, December 22nd., with a narrow margin of 3-2.

LOCAL LIONS HAVE THEME SONG

HELD REGULAR MEETING IN LACHUTE

The Lions' Club of Lachute held their regular meeting Saturday last, January 5th., at the Cosy Inn.

Lion Germain Filion was Booster of the meeting, boosting Lion Philippe Valois, and was able to recall incidents in his career which had long since been forgotten. The members drawing the lucky numbers and receiving Lion Valois' gifts on this occasion were Lions Fassio and Johnson.

One of the objects of Lionism is the promotion of good fellowship, and community singing is the rule at all meetings. The Lions Club of Lachute holds the distinction of being the first Club in Quebec, and as far as we have been able to learn, in the Dominion of Canada, to have their own Lions' Song. For this honor the organization has to thank none other than Lion Pres. Gaëtan Valois, who composed the words, which were duly set to music by Lion Angelo Fassio.

The next meeting will be held at the Cosy Inn, Wednesday evening, 16th. inst. Items of vital interest will be under discussion.

Throne Speech Sheds No Light for Taxpayers

GASOLINE AND SOFT DRINKS FORECAST FOR ADDED REVENUE

Lieut-Governor Sees Only Alternative to Mortgaging Future

The speech from the Throne by Hon. E. L. Patenaude, Lieutenant-Governor of the province of Quebec, which opened the session of Legislature on Tuesday, offers encouragement for those with hope and vision in spite of the logical remedy which alone can avert further borrowing and a posterity "mortgaged to the hilt" in this province, namely added taxation.

EXPORTS, NEWSPAPERS, DISCUSSED AT MEETING

LACHUTE W. I. HEARD INTERESTING TALKS

At the January meeting of the Lachute Women's Institute, held Tuesday afternoon in the High School building, a most interesting letter was read by Secretary, Mrs. F. McGibbon, from the president of a sister branch of the organization in Wingo, Kentucky. Mrs. Covington, the correspondent, described rural conditions in that State, revealing that her locality had never really recovered from the effects of the Civil War, and a condition of actual poverty prevailed.

Mrs. G. Leggett gave an interesting paper on Canadian Exports, telling much of educational value. Mrs. Leggett also introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Chas. Duncan, who gave an enlightening discourse on "News Gathering in Canada by the Canadian Press." The topic proved one of unusual interest, unfolding the activities of a country-wide organization which contributes to the current knowledge of every newspaper reader, but with which few are actually acquainted in its methods of gleaning and distributing news.

The Study Group of this branch will meet next Tuesday, poems of Tennyson being the subject under consideration this month.

MANY SURPRISES AT MONTL. MOTOR SHOW

EARL OF BESSBOROUGH AT OPENING

His Excellency, the Earl of Bessborough, Governor-General of Canada, has graciously consented to give his patronage to the 1935 Montreal Motor Show and will preside in person at the official opening of the National Motor Show of Eastern Canada, on Saturday evening, January 26th., in the Sun Life Building. This interesting news has been released to the newspapers by Mr. Adelman Levesque, General Manager of the Exhibition, on his arrival in Montreal this week.

Mr. Levesque and other Directors of the Montreal Automobile Trade Association Limited have spent a few days in New York to visit the Motor Show in the Grand Central Palace this week. They were all enthralled by their trip and they were unanimous in stating that the New York Motor Show was more interesting this year than ever before.

The fact that the Governor-General of Canada will preside personally at the opening of the Montreal Motor Show enhances the importance of this annual event. The Earl of Bessborough will visit the two floors of the Sun Life Building and will examine all the cars exhibited. This will be followed by a reception in the offices of the Board of Directors. The (Continued on Page 5).

The people, His Honor declared, must expect new taxes. This fact stood out clearly in the Speech; there was no equivocation about it.

However painful the remedies, they must be resorted to. There must be an end of mortgaging the future of those to be born, runs the message from the King's representative. Put in more blunt language it means that Premier Taschereau has decided on a policy of "pay as you go" to a still greater extent than has been the custom in the past, and since the public accounts show that the province is paying some ten millions in interest and sinking fund on debt, as compared to less than half that amount in a five-year period, it may be expected that the glamorous days of borrowing for current needs have ended.

As to the taxes which are to come, there is no certainty, since the Government itself has not come to decisions. However, it is being assumed that there will be an increase in the gasoline tax. It costs little for the collection, and each cent per imperial gallon means one million dollars more yearly revenue. Next, there are the amusements. There will be undoubtedly an upward trend in that direction. Still more, there is the matter of a tax on soft drinks which are bottled. In this respect the matter is being studied, and re-studied, and it appears likely a tax will be imposed during the session.

LOCAL TEAMS LOSE IN EDINBURGH TROPHY

BUT "GOOD TIME WAS HAD BY ALL"

Guests of the Montreal West, Heather, Thistle and St. Lawrence Curling Clubs respectively, four teams from the local club visited Montreal on Saturday to compete for the Edinburgh Trophy, major event of the Granite Curling Association and one of the biggest competitions of its kind. The contests ended in a three-way tie, when Heather, Caledonia and Ste. Anne de Bellevue finished even with 10-point margins.

The Lachute teams were out of luck, and credited a high quality of play in their opponents. The highest bid for laurels was made by S. S. Campbell's quartet at Caledonia, who marked up a score of 12 against 15. Detailed scores were as follows:

At Montreal West
Huntingdon—R. Rowe, H. T. Cunningham, D. J. O'Connor, D. J. Kelly (Skip)—15.
Lachute—D. Bates, W. Scott, W. S. MacKimmie, J. P. MacKimmie, (Skip)—4.
At Heather Club
Heather—Dr. E. M. Morgan, G. W. Robinson, C. Cook, H. W. Munday (Skip)—16.
Lachute—L. J. King, R. Vickery, R. McArthur, W. J. Deacon (Skip)—8.
At Caledonia Club
Caledonia—G. W. Boright, S. B. Williams, W. Kierman, R. H. Paul (Skip)—15.
Lachute—J. R. Charron, G. Hay, R. Todd, S. S. Campbell (Skip)—12.
At St. Lawrence
St. Lawrence—H. Phillips, W. Hodge, W. Robertson, A. H. Campbell (Skip)—11.
Lachute—T. K. Haller, C. E. Richardson, A. A. McQuat, J. W. Gall (Skip)—6.

Hawkesbury, sending two teams for the contests, made a good showing against Outremont on the latter's ice, scoring 18 to 8, but at Heather fell down with 10-9 against the home rink, thus losing out in the final count.

CURFEW RULING DRAWS DISAPPROVAL

CORRESPONDENCE

Lachute, Que.

To Editor of the Watchman, Lachute, Que.
Dear Sir:

Please accord me space in your paper for a few comments relative to the subject of Curfew, publication of text of by-law relating to which appeared in your issue of Jan. 3rd., duly blessed, and the hearty cooperation of the parents solicited.

When and where did this idea of a Curfew by-law in our town arise? I leave it to you of our citizens who are sufficiently interested to inquire for yourselves. Suffice it to comment here that a small group of individuals, almost entirely unaffected by the proposed legislation, whose families, or foster families, had graduated from the age-group selected for persecution, presented themselves at the council meeting of Nov. 7th. petitioning that a Curfew by-law be passed in Lachute. The motive behind this action on part of these gentlemen is not clear, but it would appear to have been prompted more by a spirit of intermeddling than from any other valid reason, and quite oblivious to the affront they were offering to the vast majority of the parents of our town who take a lively interest in everything appertaining to their children, an affront, further, to the children themselves, most of whom are not in the least measure bad though they may love to prolong their hours of play, like all of us in our day, our present group of would-be reformers not excepted. In fact it is not (Continued on Page 5)

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Respect Your Box Camera

Don't think for one minute that you cannot use your box camera in the winter. The snow scene was snapped with a box camera, using the second stop. In the fire-side scene a time exposure of one second was made, using the largest stop, with the aid of three photoflood lamps.

THOUSANDS of people of all ages are very much interested in the fascinating hobby of picture taking, own box cameras but, believe it or not, have permitted an inferiority complex to creep upon them, as far as respect for the performance of their cameras is concerned. Now that really sounds ridiculous. It is true, nevertheless. Readers have written to the Snapshot Guild with a tale of woe about waiting for spring to arrive to make a concerted effort to improve their pictures. So many owners of box cameras seem to be of the opinion that the sun must be shining like blazes before they should try to take a picture.

What is to follow is directed right straight at you, and you and you... with a box camera. If it is hibernating in peaceful slumber on the closet shelf awaiting the arrival of spring and bright sunshine, go get it, dust it off—and be sure you wipe off the lens carefully with a soft, dry cloth—get yourself a roll of film and start shooting. There are more interesting winter pictures waiting to be made with a box camera than you will ever be able to take if you live to be as old as Methuselah. Remember, too, that the old Biblical passage still holds good—"Seek and ye shall find"—and it will not take much seeking if your eyes are open.

Under ordinary conditions you can take instantaneous snapshots outdoors in the winter, or, if the day is too dark and dreary, there is always the old reliable time exposure. If the day is clear and bright you can take action pictures providing you snap the picture at the right angle and are not too close to the subject.

Pictures can be taken indoors at night with a box camera if you use one of the inexpensive photoflood lamps. A little experimenting may be necessary until you know what you can and cannot expect from your box camera, and if you are a real amateur you will get a lot of pleasure out of the experimenting.

The fellow with a lot of fine equipment doesn't deserve half the praise for an unusual picture as the real amateur, who owns a box camera and who, through perseverance and thought, gets a "knockout" picture under adverse conditions. Look at the heading of this column this week. If you have belittled your camera by discarding it for the winter you owe it an apology for forcing it into the army of unemployed.

The average box camera on sale today has two stops and a time exposure adjustment. The stop openings control the amount of light passing through the lens. Number one—the larger stop, or opening, is for snapshots of ordinary subjects in sunlight. The second opening, or smaller stop, is for snapshots of distant views, beach scenes, snow without prominent dark objects in the foreground, and clouds, only, in bright sunlight. During the winter, on days with hazy sunlight it is best to use the first, or large stop and on dark days use the second stop and a very short time exposure.

When making time exposures the camera must be placed on a tripod, table, fence or something solid so that the camera will not move when the picture is taken.

You are overlooking a lot of pleasure if you are not making use of your box camera, so get it out. If you are really interested you can stop in most any store that sells cameras and photographic supplies and get free literature on taking pictures at night indoors during these long winter evenings, and you will find it is one type of indoor sport the entire family will enjoy.

And speaking of the family—that's a hunch for a mighty important picture. You will have a lot of fun taking a picture of the family group and in later years the result will be numbered among your prize possessions. Try it.

JOHN VAN GUILDER.

BILL LIKES THE COUNTRY

Oh, it's up in the morning early And off to the woods in a sleigh,
To the chime of bells and jingling chains,
And the scream of a blue-capped jay.

Zing-zong, zing-zong, the cross-cut sings

As it cuts thro' the sturdy oak. Bill and Dad at the ends of the saw

With its steady, rhythmic stroke. Down comes the tree with a mighty crash

And Bill shouts aloud in glee, As he scrambles along the trembling bole

Of what once was a giant tree. "Some chaps don't like to live here,"

Said Bill with a puzzled frown, "But give me the woods in winter, Instead of a flat in town."

KRINKLY KRUM

"Who's dat peepin' in ma window?" sang Mammy Sue, for (so it seemed to Marjorie studying her lessons in the sitting room) the fiftieth time. Mammy Sue was busy setting bread in the kitchen and every few minutes she burst into song, never getting any further than the first line, so intent was she on her work.

Marjorie, who was alone in the house but for Mammy Sue, felt that the song was getting on her nerves. She found herself glancing fearfully over her shoulder, at the frost-covered window behind her, every time the song floated in to her.

At first she giggled rather nervously at the thought of anyone being able to peep in thro' the heavy coating of frost, but she was getting less and less sure about it. There did seem to be darker shadows in certain corners of the panes than in others. Perhaps if Mammy Sue would stop singing that song, she would not have such a queer, creepy feeling. "Mammy Sue!" she called suddenly. "Don't sing, please."

Something fell with a crash in the kitchen. Mammy Sue's voice came suddenly with a little scared note in it. "Laws-a-massy, Chile, what fo' yo' scare me like dat? Youse done gone an' made me drap dat big yaller mixin' bowl dat your Uncle Ab. done brung yer ma for Xmas! I've plumb forgot dat dere wuz anyone in da house but ma-sef, an' I wuzn't expectin' no speakin', specially speakin' so sudden-like."

Marjorie slipped from her chair and ran to the kitchen. "I am sorry Mammy Sue!" she said. "I did not mean to frighten you. I was just so nervous myself in case someone was peeping in the window, that I did not think." "Laws-a-massy, Chile, wuz I singin' dat ole song?" My own mammy used to snig it to us chillums when we did not want to go to bed at night. We all wuz so scared dat we used to pile into de bedroom mighty quick. Dat bedroom had no window fer anyone to peep into, so we all felt real safe dere." Mammy Sue laughed a jolly, shaky laugh. She was so stout that Marjorie always felt that when she laughed she laughed all over herself!

The kitchen floor, too, was a mess with buckwheat batter and broken pieces of bowl.

Marjorie looked down at it in dismay for a moment before running to get the fire-shovel to scoop up the mess. Mammy Sue, after much puffing and panting over getting down on her knees, managed to get the floor clean. While she was mixing more buckwheat cakes for breakfast Marjorie went back to the sitting room and still feeling nervous, turned a comfortable rocker around and sat down to watch the window. Going to her bedroom would not help her any, as her room had two windows in it and one of them was always open a bit, to let fresh air in the room.

As she sat watching, she noticed that on one of the lower panes Jack Frost had left quite a space uncovered, and the moonlight was streaming in through it. All in a moment, the moonlit space was darkened! Such an odd-shaped little creature was standing there peeping in at her. His eyes were like diamonds in brightness. His nose was almost flat, so flat that he pressed his face right against the pane, apparently without any trouble. His cap, in fact his whole white suit, was rough and crinkly, just like rough crusted snow.

He stuck out one funny little hand and beckoned to Marjorie, his mouth parting in a comical little grin. In spite of herself Marjorie felt drawn towards the window. She clung fast to the arms of the chair, which seemed to be moving. It moved until it was quite close to the window. "Who are you?" she found herself asking. A raspy little voice which seemed brimming over with chuckles, answered—"I'm Krinkly Krum."

PUBLIC NOTICE To the Citizens of Lachute

Province of Quebec,
District of Terrebonne.

Corporation of the Town of Lachute.

By-Law No. 134.
Re: CURFEW

Whereas the Town of Lachute, has become an important crossroad through which day and night automobile travellers and highway tramps go by.

Whereas the Municipal authorities of the Town of Lachute, received and do receive quantities of complaints referring to serious troubles at night, which were caused by children under fourteen years of age.

Whereas the frequentation of the Town streets by night constitute for children a bad example, teaches them a pernicious knowledge and is an inducement to do wrong.

Whereas many children are not sufficiently protected through the authority of the family, the holder of such authority not exercising any watch whatsoever at night over their children, who should be kept at the house.

Whereas it is the duty of the Municipal Council of the Town of Lachute, to see that good order is maintained within the limits of the Town, and that people behave according to good public morals, and that children be protected, even against themselves.

Whereas the Corporation of the Town of Lachute, acting through its legally constituted council has the right, as conferred to them by the charter of the Town, and by the general rules of the City and Town's act of the Province of Quebec, to enact police regulations for the maintenance of good order and peace;

Whereas it has been deemed useful, wise and timely to protect children against themselves, in order to prevent troubles which they may create at night, as above related, by establishing a curfew, which cur-few shall be tolled by means of a siren, at nine o'clock Standard Time every night in order that all children under fourteen years of age be and stay at home until five, next morning.

Whereas it was deemed, wise that the chief of police of the Corporation or the representative of the Town give to parents, tutors or guardians, who would not comply with the present regulation and would commit a first infraction, a solemn and final notice.

Whereas it seems wise and just to impose a fine not exceeding $20.00 to parents, tutors or guardians, for every second or subsequent infraction to the present By-Law, that is, by not keeping their children under fourteen years of age, at home after nine o'clock, P.M., this fine being collected by means of summary conviction before a justice of the peace.

It is regulated, decreed and promulgated that from the date on which this present By-Law will come into force;

1. That a curfew be tolled every night at five to nine o'clock P.M., in order that parents, tutors or guardians, be notified to keep at home their children under fourteen years of age from nine o'clock P.M. to five A.M. in the morning.

2. That a fine not exceeding $20.00 for the second and every subsequent infraction be imposed on parents, tutors or guardians, not complying with this present By-Law after they have been found guilty in a summary conviction charge before a justice of the peace.

3. That the costs resulting from such conviction be also charged against the parties transgressing this By-Law.

4. That the Secretary-Treasurer of the Town of Lachute, the chief of police, or chief constable be authorized to sign the complaints in accordance with this By-Law.

CANADIAN GRAPHITE NOW USED FOR LEAD PENCILS

For the first time in history, Canadian graphite from the well known Black Donald Mine at Calabogie, Ont., is now being used in the making of leads for pencils.

Canadian graphite has always been noted for its strength, high purity, and true intensity of color, but, owing to its texture, it could not successfully be employed in pencil lead making as ordinary methods of refining and pulverizing would not prepare the Canadian graphite in workable form for pencil leads.

Success, however, has finally crowned the efforts of the technical staff of The Dixon Pencil Company, Limited, of Newmarket, Ont. By applying a patented process called "Impact Pulverizing", license for which is held exclusively by The Dixon Co'y., Canadian graphite is now being made into leads for Dixon pencils. The result is said to be stronger, smoother writing lead of true black color.

MANY SURPRISES AT MONTREAL MOTOR SHOW

Earl of Bessborough will make a speech over the radio giving his impression of this great automobile exhibition. Other speakers will be heard after him. Complete details of the vice-regal reception will be published shortly.

Though he is much "in the know" regarding what is going on in the automobile industry, since he is Manager of the largest and oldest National Motor Show in America, Mr. Levesque did not hide his bewilderment at the New York Exhibition and his astonishment at the interest shown by the public towards the new creations of industry. Advance notices of the manufacturers were not indicative of the vast improvement in their products. This reticence excited a desire to visit the Show and to see the new cars which this year have undergone radical transformations both in bodies and in mechanical equipment.

The manufacturers have been successful in perfecting and enlivening their respective exhibits. This year, it is stated, many things absent from previous exhibitions will be included: new processes of manufacture, motors in operation, tests for the resistance of both body and frame, details of new suspension systems and new automatic transmissions, etc.

These various changes and improvements which rendered the New York Show so interesting for its visitors have been incorporated in the offerings of the Montreal Motor Show, according to Mr. Levesque and it is for this reason that it will be more interesting for the Montreal public.

As the exposition in the Grand Central Palace in New York closes January 12th., and as the Montreal Motor Show opens in exactly two weeks thereafter, the organizers of the local exhibition have been successful, during their stay in New York, in arranging that the special models and exhibits presently on display in New York will be sent direct to Montreal. Accordingly, everything will be ready in ample time for the opening of the doors in the Sun Life Building, at noon, on Saturday, January 26th. Thus visitors of the first hour will see exactly the same thing as those who come during the following week, the Show being open until Saturday night, February 2nd.

Special Railroad Fare from Lachute

It is expected that many thousands of people will take advantage to visit Montreal and see the Motor Show at the same time over the weekend of January 26th. when special railway excursions at reduced prices will be in force from various districts of the Province of Quebec, the Province of Ontario and many other points.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, Jan. 13th., is "Sacrament."

The Golden Text is: "A new commandment I give unto you, That ye love one another; as I have loved you, that ye also love one another. By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another." (John 13: 34, 35)

The following correlative passages are selected from among those comprised in the Lesson-Sermon to be read from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:—

"And this is his commandment, That we should believe on the name of his Son Jesus Christ, and love one another, as he gave us commandment." (I John 3: 23).

"Our heavenly Father, divine Love, demands that all men should follow the example of our Master... Through the magnitude of his human life, he demonstrated the divine Life. Out of the amplitude of his pure affection, he defined Love." (Science and Health, pages 40, 54.)

We Should Know Each Other Better

By S. L. Squire

Paper presented before the Canadian Good Roads Assn. Convention, Murray Bay, September 1934.

It was recently my privilege, in company with Mrs. Squire, to visit the Mother Country and Ireland. We all found the trip most interesting and instructive, and while we were gone less than two months, we were delighted with what we saw and the very gracious manner in which we were everywhere received.

The purpose of our going was non-commercial—and while this was my first trip to the Old Land, I certainly hope it will not be my last.

We had the privilege of motoring over many of the roads of all parts of the Mother Country and while they have many miles of splendid bituminous macadam roads and comparatively few miles of cement highways, the roads of Great Britain are not to be compared with the hard surfaced roads of Canada, nor is the motor traffic on any of the highways on which we were privileged to motor comparable with the motor traffic which we have on the principal roads of the Provinces of Canada.

It must be remembered that many of the roads of Great Britain were a thousand years old before America was discovered and that many of them are the foot-paths of early days. The roads in England can be described as being regularly irregular, both as to width, type and direction. Some of the roads or streets forming connecting links on the main highways were less than 10 feet in width, while roads fifty feet wide were the exception. Naturally, on some of the narrower portions of the highways, wider portions were often encountered, making passing places for motor cars or other vehicles. This was necessary.

Motor traffic was nowhere found on the the highways of Great Britain comparable with the traffic found on our main roads, while horse-drawn vehicles are much more in evidence.

We first had the privilege of motoring over the roads of the southern part of England, motoring to Lands End from London. It was difficult for us to become accustomed to the style of the homes here seen, those of the farm laborers being largely with thatched roofs—these grass or straw covered roofs having a covering in some instances of two feet in thickness and in themselves would bind the present to the past. Most of these cottages were white-washed and generally had two front windows, one on each side of the low narrow door. It must not be thought, however, that these homes were the only ones found, for everywhere we went we also saw many up-to-date homes and apartment houses. None of them, however, were of the many storied types found in Canada's larger cities.

The rural districts of the Mother Land are most interesting. Thinking of the many millions living today in England, Wales, Scotland and Ireland, I had pictured this as being a country continuously peopled by village, town, hamlet and city, with a few parks or open spaces, but generally speaking that the people of this wonderful country would be living in close proximity with their neighbors. Think, then, of our surprise when we found wide open areas, some of these open spaces extending as far as the eye could see, with perhaps only one or two homes visible. And then such fields of golden grain! Wheat of such growth and headed most fully! It would not surprise me if many of such fields would yield from 40 to 50 bushels of wheat per acre. Other grain crops were likewise attractive. Potatoes in Ireland? Yes, but also in Scotland and England, while the cattle and sheep seen pasturing mile after mile as we motored were in themselves a revelation: Holstein and Shorthorn cattle, Durhams and Herefords and many others, all apparently contented, living well on the splendid pasture.

Then, too, beautiful roses and other cultivated flowers are seen everywhere. We found also mile after mile of hedges and stone walls. Some hedges were trimmed most beautifully, but many of them, however, have been allowed to grow, thereby shutting off this picture of lawn, flower garden or attractive home. We all felt that even in the Mother Land there might be started a contest of front yard beautification that would in itself furnish profitable employment, adding to the value of the property and making a motor tour in many sections even more attractive.

How courteous and obliging the people proved to be everywhere in the Mother Land! Ask a question of man, woman, or child having to do with the section you were visiting, and how different are the people in this country than are many of us Canadians. Those asked are most

A MAYOR AGAINST RADICALISM

"When a gang of radicals tries to run the city, it is time something was done about it," said Mayor H. E. Wilton of Hamilton, Ont., in discussing a threatening letter sent to him recently by a member of a radical organization. Speaking of the writer, the Mayor continued, "Just let him try it. I will issue a warrant against every one of them, and will try to see that they get the maximum sentence on the most serious charge that I can lay."

obliging and seem everywhere to have time to give an intelligent answer to your question, often walking a distance with you in order that the answer may be better understood.

There is no doubt that we in Canada, boasting as we do of that undefended border without a fort or a gun, which separates us from our American cousins, are influenced in many ways by our southern neighbour. We certainly are proud that such a splendid understanding exists between ourselves and our American neighbours, nor can we imagine the influence which would or could raise a serious barrier between us. It is not true that nine times out of ten when we Canadians are considering a trip that we will select some American destination? It may be a convention or a game or a holiday. We will say, let us go to New York, to Buffalo, Detroit or Chicago, to Florida or California. It is there that we have relatives, friends, or perhaps commercial interests, and how seldom we think of a trip to the Mother Land, separated as we are from that great land by a wide expanse of water, which in the crossing is a challenge and takes considerable time.

There is no doubt that we Canadians worship to a degree the cross of gold and are more desirous to obtain control over gold and the almighty dollar than to see the Mother Land. This desire for gold is more apparent in America than in Great Britain.

I have often said that our transportation problems can only be settled by the closest and most friendly co-operation, and that a tourist to see the beauties of any country must use highway, railway and waterway.

While in London, we took a boat trip down a portion of the Thames, getting a different view and idea of this wonderful city, so free from the fog which we were told is always to be found there. And while making a trip which took less than two hours, we passed under no less than twenty-one magnificent bridges, another link binding the present with the past.

The highways in Northern England and Scotland are wider and more modern than are the roads of the southern part.

Motoring as we did from Cardiff to Harlech in Wales, we went up the side of a mountain, which gave us a view of this splendid section, lake after lake, river after river coming into view, all adding to the interest of the trip. Reaching the top we looked across the bay or inlet and saw the location of the home of the Hon. Lloyd George. This well known world character we found had, because of his definite opinions, many friends and likewise some enemies. People with opinions did not speak as highly of him as we Canadians might expect.

We saw mined coal, like small mountains, and one unaccustomed to seeing such sights cannot but be amazed at the same, some of these mountains of coal containing over 1,000,000 tons.

The English language is spoken so as to be much more easily understood in Scotland and Ireland than in London or the southern parts of England.

The railroad trains of Great Britain are very different from our Canadian trains. The passenger cars are mainly of compartment type, side entrance, without an aisle and without communication with other sections. The tickets are taken as you leave the station. The track is very smooth and the starting and stopping of the trains is of a very even nature, nothing jerky whatever about it.

POWER COMPANY'S CLAIM DISALLOWED

Claim of the Quebec Power Company for $13,500 from the City of Quebec was disallowed by the administrative committee last month.

The company claimed $9,000 as the cost of damage done to one of its viaducts when the city enlarged a street, and $4,500 as part payment for injuries done to a worker engaged in repairs. Since the city agreed to pay half the cost of the street repairs, the company claimed, it was obliged to pay half the damages allowed a worker injured while at work on the repairs.

G. G. McGEER, K.C., WOULD END EASTERN DOMINATION

The election of G. G. McGeer, K.C., to succeed Louis D. Taylor as mayor of Vancouver, had more than usual interest for eastern Canada, for throughout his campaign Mr. McGeer hurled defiance at what he called "eastern domination" and one of his main planks was that he would end the economic isolation of the west. He asked for a majority that "would be heard in St. James Street, Montreal, and in all the seats of government in Canada."

Mr. McGeer, Liberal M.L.A., freight rates specialist, banking reformer and Oxford Group member, pledged himself to progress, a programme of interest rate reduction, city hall organization and police department reform.

HENRY FORD TALKS TO HIS DEALERS BY TELEPHONE

(1) Henry Ford, world-famous Automobile Pioneer, is here seen at the microphone in his Dearborn office.
(2) W. R. Campbell, Canadian President, addresses the dealers of the Continent through the newest Studio Microphone on his desk in Windsor, Ont.

HENRY FORD, always a pioneer, has inaugurated the modern method of holding dealer meetings — by telephone. Last year was the first time this was tried. It was so successful that on December 27th last, he, his son Edsel, President of the Ford Motor Company, Wallace R. Campbell, President of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, and other officers, were linked by the voice highways of the Continent to ten thousand Ford dealers gathered in forty-one cities to hear about the new car.—The largest dealer meeting in the world's history.

For this great hook-up, using 15,000 miles of wire circuits, and requiring more than 250 telephone employees to complete and maintain the 60-minute connection, the latest model studio microphones, as used in all leading broadcasting stations, were employed. Also, by special arrangement with the Northern Electric Company, in co-operation with the trans-Canada Telephone System, the voices were picked up from the telephone lines in the leading cities of Canada, and were put through amplifiers and loudspeakers in order to accommodate the large gathering of dealers in the larger centres of the Dominion.

BAD HABITS

Correct posture exercises its influence on the physical and nervous condition of human beings to an extent not generally realized. Yet at the tender age when life-long customs are formed, that is, at the school age, this habit of posture is one usually ignored in the class-room. Jessie Allen Brown in her Hints for Homebodies, on page six of this issue, suggests that it might be considered a detail of juvenile instruction just as important as the intellectual development of the child. It is a small matter, but one upon which health and happiness depend immeasurably in adult life.

A GOOD REGULATION GONE WRONG

One humorous aspect in the provincial police order that all revolvers and pistols must be registered, lies in its effect upon museums and antiquarian collections. Old flint locks and obsolete firearms come within the scope of the order, so that anyone having weapons of this nature within the dimensions of a pistol or revolver, are called upon to register them in provincial police records.

At a casual glance the regulation would appear to be one of those measures enacted without a clear foresight as to its limits or exactly what is involved. And if every antiquated relic and heirloom in the province is entered in this official record, the list will be so comprehensive as to defeat its object—which is, presumably, to keep track of weapons which might be used with criminal intent and danger to the public.

TAKING STOCK AND MAKING PROVISION

Business affairs, in review and in prospect at this season, afford rare optimism in contrast to the conditions of recent years. Noting the general outlook through these columns last year, we did so with a querulous confidence and an optimism not wholly substantiated by the facts. This year, however, matters are different. Things have definitely "turned the corner," and there need be no doubt that steady improvement will follow in the approaching months.

If Christmastime may be considered a census of public buying power, there are convincing flashes which stand out from the recent celebrations. Record mails, with a rush period staff of 5,375 additional hands in the Post Office Department. Hotels, restaurants, places of entertainment pressed for accommodation. Prairie cities reporting Christmas trade 100 per cent better than in 1933. In Montreal a departmental store transacting greater business in one day than in any previous day for 68 years. These are facts reminiscent of boom times; they indicate that Canadians have money to spend—that business and industry are on the threshold of a revival.

Whether we accept the fact or not, the depression has definitely waned. Around us "all is peaceful, all is bright." But there is one doleful possibility in the offing, which—since the pessimists have cried havoc so long and so lustily—one almost hesitates to mention. However, just as the depression is subsiding, quietly and unobtrusively, there is also the danger that its lessons may leave us unmoved. We may be materially worse off for the lean and difficult years, but morally we should be stronger, in wisdom richer.

Individuals, institutions, governments—all

"I am done with leadership. It is a worrying and unsatisfying business."

Ronald Coleman is booked for January 17-18-19 at the Rex in "Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back", an outstanding production which won high popularity in recent Montreal programs. See announcement.

The Ottawa Spotlight

A Weekly Review of National Affairs
By Wäfrid Eggleston

Ottawa, January 8.—The radio address made by Premier Bennett the middle of last week is regarded by observers of all parties to be the most significant he has delivered since 1930. It commits the Conservative party in Canada to a new policy, namely, government intervention into business. Government control of business, in some cases. It hints of an offer to form a union government: it definitely announced Premier Bennett's decision to retire from politics should he be defeated in the next election; it suggests an early election. Considering that all this was crowded into 30 minutes, it will be realised what a meaty affair it was.

The subsequent addresses in which the details of the new policy are being set forth, are being followed with avidity. Premier Bennett certainly put on the right kind of a curtain-raiser. He whetted the appetite of all Canada for more. Not that all his listeners will be sympathetic by any means, but they all want to know what he will say next.

The Issue in the Open

The "higher ups" in the Liberal party seem to be considerably relieved to have the issue in the forthcoming election set forth so clearly by Mr. Bennett. The prime minister sought to brand his opponents as believers in pure laissez-faire, as against his own party, which was to nail the flag of reform to the mast and go in for government control. But one may be sure that Mackenzie King will not let the issue take this particular slant if he can possibly help it. Of course, as Mackenzie King said in the House last winter, the Liberal party is not an advocate of unmodified laissez-faire. The Liberals have in this country and across the sea sponsored social legislation, placed restraints on industry. They conceive it to be the duty of the government to put stop lights on the streets, as an American leader phrased it, but not to put a driver into every car. They profess to believe in as little interference as possible, while the Conservative view has become that much government intervention is needed and must be applied.

Fascism versus Freedom

When it comes down to grips in the election campaign, these generalities and abstractions will, probably, be abandoned for much more picturesque tactics. The Liberals will brand the new 'Reform' policy of the Conservatives, as "Fascism" and will call upon the electors of this country to strike a blow for human freedom. The Liberal leader is at his best in reciting the struggle for political freedom from Runnymede to the last Suffrage Act, and in calling upon all men to resist the enslavement of dictators. Mr. Bennett could not have given his opponent a battle ground which MacKenzie King would relish more.

That is one view. To be quite fair and complete, there is another feeling on Parliament Hill, namely, that this new policy of Mr. Bennett's allied as it will be by the eloquence of Mr. Stevens, will make a colorful and attractive contrast with Mackenzie King's lack of constructive policy.

No Bennett-Stevens Rift?

Some say that the effect of Mr. Bennett's new policy will be to avert the threatened clash between him and Mr. Stevens. If so, it is a victory for Mr. Stevens, who has thus seen the whole party move right and join him in his hitherto isolated position. It is, also, a slap in the face for Mr. Cahan. Big Business will not relish, one feels certain, this warning that its activities are to be seriously restrained. St. James St. may line up with the Liberals: if so, that may be a political disadvantage for the Liberals. As a matter of fact, the manufacturers are in rather a sorry way. Mackenzie King threatens to reduce the tariff: Bennett means to control industry! What a cruel dilemma.

The voice the other night was most certainly the voice of the prime minister; but the author, was, I hear, a dual personality, the 'Ghost Writer' on this occasion being the Canadian Minister to Washington. From the philosophy of the address, I wouldn't wonder this matter is right.

have suffered, through their improvidence in the more liberal years; and now, in the dawning of another possible boom, the Great Mistake must never be lost to view. The time is ripe for wise investment, such provision as may offset the disaster of another depression. As we take stock at this season, let us also visualize the future and bear in mind these follies that have saddled our administrations with debt. The lesson has a general application, whether to the state, the community, or the individual.

NOMINATIONS FOR ST. JERUSALEM COUNCIL

MAYOR RE-ELECTED BY ACCLAMATION

Nominations for the St. Jerusalem Parish Council were held on Wednesday morning, Mr. J. E. Walker being acclaimed Mayor for his third term. Alderman Andrew Nicoll was re-elected and J. S. Pollock acclaimed for seat No. 1 to replace Matthew Elder. A contest is likely for seat No. 6, with W. T. Jackson opposing J. E. Armstrong who has held the office for the past four years. Elections will take place on January 14th.

through principles involved; and in this gesture he welcomes a more general concern for the welfare and advancement of this town.

Retiring aldermen in the West Ward are G. Raymond and E. Legault; in the Centre Ward, J. A. Rice, and H. Lamarche; in the East Ward, O. Laurin; for the last named papers are already deposited for re-nomination.

More authentic advice will be published after nomination day, January 25th., which will give forecasts of the appointments both for the mayoralty and aldermanic seats. Elections will be held February 1st.

SCHOOL GIRL KILLED BY FALLING ICE COLLEGIATE STUDENT IN OTTAWA

Janet McCready, of Rockcliff Village, 17-year-old student, was killed on Monday last by falling ice from the roof of the Lisgar Collegiate building, in Ottawa.

The school was closed on Wednesday out of respect for the girl, who was popular with her school-mates and the younger set of Rockcliff.

The school board's investigation will follow the coroner's inquiry, which is being resumed today.

OLD CHATHAM RESIDENT DIES IN IDAHO

LATE DONALD MCINTYRE DEWAR

News has just been received of the sudden death of Donald McIntyre Dewar, on Sunday, January 6th., at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. L. Mercer, at Buhl, Idaho.

The late Mr. Dewar was, for over fifty years, a well known and highly respected citizen of Chatham (front). He was the youngest son of the late Colin Campbell and Jane McIntyre Dewar, born June 27th., 1857. Mr. Dewar was twice married, first to Eliza Mullan and secondly to Mary Agnes Mullan, who both predeceased him. By his first marriage, six children were born, three of whom still survive; by his second marriage two children were born, both surviving their father.

Having lived in Chatham from his birth for a little over fifty years, he sold his farm and moved to Dewar Lake, Sask., where he resided for around twenty years; he then returned East to take up residence in Hudson Heights, Que., until the death of his wife Mary Agnes, a little over a year ago.

Throughout this community, Mr. Dewar may be remembered as one of the township's Builders, one who always took a keen and active interest in civic and social welfare. In religion, he was a Presbyterian, and for many years an Elder of St. Mungo's Church, Cushing, during the time of the late Rev. James Fraser. He was a charter member of the Lachute Lodge of the Order of Masons.

Coincident with the time of his death, it might be interesting to recall the passing of his mother, on the same date forty years ago.

He leaves to mourn his passing two daughters, Mrs. S. J. Stanforth of Westmount, Que., and Mrs. J. L. Mercer, of Buhl, Idaho; three sons, Stewart of Dewar Lake, Sask.; Kenneth and Ronald of Temagami, Ont.; one sister, Mrs. James Hawking of Vancouver, B.C.; and one immediate relative in this district, a niece, Mrs. John Douglas of Chatham.

On arrival of the body, burial will be made at St. Andrews East.

PATHFINDING

Established in 1817, the Bank of Montreal was the first permanent bank in British North America.

Inaugurating branch banking in Canada, it was the first bank in the capital of Lower Canada, first in the capital of Upper Canada, and first of the present banks in Bytown, afterwards Ottawa, the capital of the Dominion. It was the first permanent bank to be established west of the Great Lakes and the first to achieve a transcontinental system of branches. It was also:

The first institution to provide Canada with a domestic currency, both bills and coinage.

The first bank to assist in financing the foreign trade of Canada.

The first banker for the Government of Canada.

The first bank to help finance the improvement of the St. Lawrence Waterway, through the assistance it gave to the building of the first Lachine Canal.

From its inception the Bank of Montreal has held the confidence of the Canadian people. Today that confidence is expressed in the fact that the Bank holds more than one million deposit accounts, equal to a deposit account for one in every ten persons in the entire Dominion.

Canadians naturally expect, as the sequel to such a record, that this Bank will retain the spirit of the pioneer in co-operating with the future business life of the nation.

POST OFFICE RUSH GAVE 5,373 WORK

CHRISTMAS SEASON EX-TRAS COST FEDERAL DEPARTMENT ABOUT
$125,000

A total of 5,373 extra men were employed by the Post Office Department throughout the Dominion for the Christmas rush period at the end of 1934 at a total cost of a little more than $125,000. This last figure, it is pointed out, while nearly $30,000 more than in the previous year, might have been considerably reduced had the department used its own men on the extra shifts, but the policy adopted in the last two or three years of "staggering" the work and employing additional men required from outside has been a substantial relief for unemployment. In 1933, the actual total of extra men employed was 5,072 at a cost of little over $95,000. The figures already given for 1934 are based on estimates as only about one-half of the city post offices have sent in their return.

Another feature of the post office service in the Christmas rush period has been the already extensive use of the advance mailing bureau. Two years ago, the department began experiments at the Winnipeg post office with this means of dealing with the last-minute jam of mail before Christmas Day. The department informed the public that there would be a special receptacle provided at that office, in which people could mail letters and post cards a number of days in advance with the assurance that they would be delivered the day before Christmas. In December, 1934, this experiment was extended to Toronto and Halifax. In the Toronto office this last Christmas over 200,000 pieces of mail were handled through this advance bureau, over 100,000 at Winnipeg and about half this latter number at Halifax. The department is gratified over the success of this scheme and it is likely to be extended to many other cities next December.

something of a miracle that the present group of reform Crusaders ever reached the positions of prominence and responsibility they occupy in our community without the aid of a Curfew? Apart from the insult just consider for a moment the nerve-strain or nervous strain which a measure of this nature imposes upon the parents and children alike, detrimental to the health of both. Imagine, if you can, an innocent child being taken to the police station, for no misconduct whatever, except that they have been found on the street after nine p.m. What will be the reaction (a) on the parents, (b) on the child? Why treat our children as potential criminals? Why handicap a harmless child with a police or court record?

When the draft of the by-law was first taken in the council meeting, all aldermen being present, it met with a veritable storm of criticism so that Mayor Larocque, sensing the possibility of defeat of the measure, without either calling for a motion to proceed to a division or for a motion to lay on the table, as it is contended he should constitutionally have done, took it upon his own responsibility to lay it on the table stating that it would be taken up again on some future occasion. Now let us see and examine the occasion which was selected for its re-introduction. On Jan. 2nd., during the holiday season, a bare quorum being present, and only Alderman Muir of those known to be openly opposed to it being present, it was again brought up, railroaded through three readings, and a decision taken to put it into effect January 17th. Alderman Rice is reported as being present at this meeting, regardless of the fact that he only arrived after all the business had been transacted. Now I ask my readers whether in their opinion the matter has been handled in a manner beyond criticism or reproach.

In addition to the objections already cited in passing, the writer takes strong exception to the unnecessarily severe tone of the by-law as drafted, leaving its application open to all sorts of blunderings, abuses, and injustices (verbal re-assurances to the contrary being idle and superfluous), even to legal entanglements and permanent ill-feeling.

If any of our citizens or aldermen are solicitous regarding "Protection of our children against themselves", let them take cognizance of the unfortunate fact that this town is without a proper playground or a gymnasium of any sort, and no amount of legislation of a restrictive nature is going to relieve us of the duty we owe to the children in this respect. Let us provide proper amusement for our youth and the number requiring police surveillance will be found to be very small indeed.

In conclusion, let me exhort our rate-payers and citizens in general to keep in closer touch with the problems confronting our aldermen, and in the present instance to insist on a vote of the rate-payers before the by-law becomes effective.

I thank you Mr. Editor for the use of your columns and I trust you will understand that it is because of no desire to hide my identity that I sign myself as and loves children.

Nine new members were received last Sunday morning into the Lachute United Church. The communion was administered to a large congregation, the pastor, Rev. W. B. Rosborough, conducting the service.

Mrs. Robt. McFaul and Mrs. H. Stansfield were in Ottawa last week, the guests of Mrs. A. Miller. They were accompanied by Miss Ethel Stansfield and Miss Helen McFaul, who are now probationers for training in Grace Hospital, Ottawa.

Miss Stalker has received word that her cousin, Dr. R. W. Graham, of Los Angeles, Calif., died on Dec. 30th., 1934.

A graduate of McGill University, Dr. R. W. Graham later went over to Oxford for a year. He practised for three years in Prescott, Arizona, following which he went to Germany, and returning, he settled in Los Angeles and became one of the leading specialists of that city. Dr. Graham was well known here in Lachute.

Colds Leave Impurities in the Blood

That is one reason why you are often tired, listless and weak after a cold.

To dispense these impurities, take a bottle or two of Fellows' Syrup Compound of Hypophosphites.
Fellows' Syrup contains the "Vital 3" (calcium, phosphorus, iron) and other blood purifiers that science has proved to be effective in helping to reduce blood impurities. It aids in enriching the blood corpuscles with new energy and vitality.

The restorative effect of the "Vital 3" on blood, nerves, muscles and bones is so vigorous that you'll surprise yourself with your quick "pickup" after taking a bottle or two of Fellows' Syrup.

LIVE AND LET LIVE

It is a queer thing the way we try to make over our nearest and dearest. A girl falls very much in love, gets married and the honeymoon is scarcely over when she begins to try to change her husband into what she wants. Tries to cut him by a new pattern, so to speak. Yet the very qualities which she tries to change may be the very ones that attracted her in the first place. She is due for disappointment because by the time a man is old enough to be married he is not so plastic. Men do the same thing. They fall in love with a girl who is bright, gay, with an eye for clothes that are a bit different and they immediately expect her to settle down to a life of drab domesticity, with few, if any, outside interests. Married people should realise that everyone is entitled to his own characteristics and not try to do too much alteration. If you do not love them because of these, love them in spite of them. It will make for fewer family dissensions. This making-over business is not confined to married people. Every parent has a fixed idea, or we might better say ideal, of what they wish their children to be and we all try to mould them into that, sometimes with disastrous results. Children, when they grow up, very often are not satisfied with their parents and try to change their ways. Usually it cannot be done. Live and let live. Do the best you can for yourself, and try to look at yourself introspectively. Probably you will be so busy correcting your own mistakes that you will not have time to meddle with the lives of others.

THIN PEOPLE DIFFER

There are two types of thin people. There is the wiry type, the kind who seem to stand so much. Then there is the thin person who never seems to be really well and who is a ready victim for every germ that comes along. Both types are apt to be nervous. The greatest difference is apt to be one of posture. The wiry person holds herself erect and the delicate one will be droopy, as if there was not enough strength to hold the body up. If the body were held erect, the strength would probably come. The chest is compressed, the breathing is shallow instead of deep and consequently there is not sufficient oxygen breathed in to allow the body to do its proper work. The slouchy posture allows the abdominal organs to sag and many minor difficulties may develop. The sort of thing that keeps a person feeling never very well. They may go full steam ahead, especially in the evening, and when the spurt is over, be all in and irritable, and find it very hard to get going in the morning. Both types would be better with a few more pounds, to provide a layer of fat around the nerve centres in the abdominal region. The droopy ones would find it easier to stand erect if they had a little fat to help hold the organs in place. As long as they continue to hold themselves as they do, they will find it difficult to gain. So improve the condition of the nerves and the health generally by correcting the posture. Children are in school so much of the time yet there is very little attention paid to correcting posture mistakes. The teachers have to spend so much time cramming the heads for examinations that they have no time to spend on the all important subject of health.

VANISHING CREAM

A cosmetic expert says that no one with a dry skin should ever use vanishing cream, as it has an alkaline base, and has a tendency to make the skin even dryer. Notwithstanding the advertisements, no cold creams 'nourish' the skin. It will clean and lubricate and keep it soft and pliable but the skin cannot be fed from without. Skins differ in their requirements and it is wise to try different products until you find the one that suits you—then stick to that particular brand.

SPANISH CREAM

Soak 1 tablespoon gelatine in 1/4 cup cold water. Scald three cups milk in the double boiler and pour it over 3 beaten egg yolks. Add soaked gelatine and stir until dissolved. Stir in 1/4 cup sugar. Stir well and set to chill. When jelly is slightly set, beat until frothy and fold in evenly a meringue made of the stiffly beaten egg whites and 1/4 cup sugar. Pour into a cold wet mould and chill until set.

GINGER FORK COOKIES

3/4 cup shortening
1 cup brown sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon cream of tartar
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon ginger
Cream shortening and sugar. Add beaten egg. Sift in the dry ingredients. Pinch off small piece of dough about the size of a walnut and press down with a fork two ways. Bake in a moderate oven of 350 degrees for 10 minutes.

TO TAX CHILDLESS WOMEN

A proposal that all married women who refuse to have children should be taxed was made at the Yugoslav medical conference at Bled, Slovenia. Dr. Zelitch, of Belgrade, who made the proposal, suggested the tax should vary according to the means of the woman, and the proceeds should be used to help support the children of poor mothers. The proposal was warmly welcomed by the conference, and will be submitted to the parliament.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTES INTERESTED IN INDUSTRIES OF CANADA

A recent survey of industries within counties, provinces and the whole of Canada, and of trade within the Empire, made by the Women's Institutes, revealed much valuable information and resulted no doubt in benefit both to those who carried it out, and in bringing about a better understanding of international industrial problems. The survey covered food, clothing and housing conditions, production, home consumption, exportation and importation, quality standard and value of

Care of Her Busy Mate

It takes a lot of husbands to keep a female crested tinamou happy, officials of the California bureau of game propagation have decided after two years of trying, without success to propagate this South American game bird species in California. They have found that as soon as a hen has produced a clutch of eggs she leaves the matter of incubating them entirely up to her mate and immediately goes in search of a new husband. If plenty of males are available she will produce clutch after clutch of eggs for them to hatch, but if she is provided with one mate she will neither assist him to incubate the eggs nor leave him alone so that he can perform this duty properly himself.

Efforts to propagate the tinamou in California were begun when a sportsman of that state brought back several live specimens on his return from a hunting trip in the Argentine and Uruguay and presented them to the bureau of game propagation. The flesh of these birds is highly esteemed in their native countries and it was thought that they might prove a valuable addition to domestic wild game in California.

Although the report describing the unusual habits of these birds refers to them as pheasants, this is a wrong classification, according to most ornithologists who have anything to say about tinamous in their records. The birds are frequently classed with the pheasants and partridges, they say, but are in reality much more closely related to the ostriches.

Columbia River Starts

in Canada, Winds South

The present Columbia river starts in Canada, and winds south for 300 miles until it reaches that elevation of land known as the Columbia plateau. Faced with this obstacle, the river turns first west and then south again as it skirts the plateau on its western edge. Finally, at the junction of the Snake river, it once more turns west and finally enters the Pacific.

The Columbia river did not, however, always have this course. During the ice age one lobe of the ice sheet known as the "Cordilleran" came down and blocked the pre-glacial Columbia at the western end of the Columbia plateau. With no outlet the river started to back up. Its waters were raised nearly a thousand feet by the melting of the glacial sheet until they finally were high enough to find a path over the high plateau at Grand Coulee. This outlet had to drain what by this time was an enormous body of water known as glacial Lake Missoula, 2,000 feet deep and containing some 500 cubic miles of water.

Flowing over the plateau these glacial waters came to a "jumping-off place" about half-way down the present canyon of Grand Coulee, where the land falls 500 feet in two miles. There a giant cascade was formed that eventually cut through the rock to form a cataract 600 feet high, with a mile and a half crest. In addition a gorge was dug out above the falls that is three times as deep as that of Niagara and at a maximum nine times as wide.

Number Seven

Every number, according to the ancients, had special qualities—just as each number had sex, the odd numbers feminine. Seven owed its place as the symbol of good fortune, not to any quality of the number as such, but because it consisted of three and four and possessed the merits of both. Three was important because it consisted of one, which stood for man and so was the symbol of life. Four was the number sacred to Jupiter, king of the gods, and the symbol of effort rewarded. Seven, therefore, contained all the spiritual importance of three and all the material importance of four, and any matter in which that number entered could not but be fortunate! Especially lucky and gifted of course, is a seventh child, while the seventh child of a seventh child is blessed by the gods themselves! Incidentally, the number is mentioned more than 300 times in matters of importance in the Scriptures.

A MATTER OF ACCENTS

In Radio drama most directors rely on the actors' ability to imitate accents, but in his new series of sketches over CFCF on Monday and Friday Henri Gonthier is taking no chances. He has found actors who speak with a natural accent for the parts of the Irishman, Scotsman, Englishman and French-Canadian in the sketch. So the accents must be perfect. The new series of sketches are unusually interesting.

ARUNDEL

Miss Gertrude Morrison and Miss Hazel McMahon returned on Friday to Lachute, where they are attending the Lachute High School.

Hon. Senator Smeaton White and party, after spending a few days at the Senator's summer home, returned to the city on Tuesday night.

The annual Warden's Dance of the Anglican Church was held in Stanforth's Hall on New Year's Eve. Despite bad roads and cold weather, a good attendance was noted and a splendid time was enjoyed.

After many futile efforts to get the rink in readiness, the unusual weather has created many set-backs, but it would appear that skating and hockey will soon be a popular substitute for an otherwise crowded period of social activities. A hockey meeting will be held this week, and it is considered likely that Huberdeau and Weir might join Arundel in forming a local league.

Among the arrivals and departures for the holidays were the Misses Ethel and Gertrude Cooke, of the nursing staffs of the Social Service and of Lower Canada College, respectively; Miss Edna Moncrieff, Royal George High School, Greenfield Park; John Owens and W. Graham, of the Diocesan College, Montreal; and Miss Grace Boyd, Montreal. Miss Ruth Simon, Mr. George Thompson, Mr. Eddie Graham, and Mr. Gordon Cook spent New Year's Day in the city.

The Bridge Club met at Mr. Hugh Cooke's home on Thursday evening, January 3rd. It was a rough night for the sleigh ride, but in spite of all, it was possible to make up four tables of bridge. Among the challengers of the "winter's worst" were: Miss Gertrude Cooke, Mr. W. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Veit, Stanley and Stella Cooke, Miss G. Taylor, Mrs. Smellie, Leslie Cooke, Mrs. Roy Cooke, Rev. and Mrs. C. Cushing, James Smellie, Melvin Graham, Gordon Cooke, Mrs. Bulley, (Montreal).

The local social and church clubs are closing their books on a rather active year, and among the meetings noted this week were those of the A. Y. P. S. (United), Ladies' Guild (United), and also the Ladies' Auxiliary. The Auxiliary Group met at the Manse on Thursday afternoon and returned the same officers to lead them throughout 1935. The A. Y. P. S. consolidated their bi-monthly social evening with their quarterly meeting, and there and then elected new officers. Miss Lillian Bennett was elected President of the Ladies' Guild for the year 1935. The Ladies' Guild were received on Wednesday by Mrs. Melvin Cooke. The usual business matters were attended to and afternoon tea was served. Those attending were: Stella Cooke, Lillian Bennett, Dorothy Kerr, Pansy Proudlock, Laura Stanforth, Mildred Cooke, Margaret Cooke, Viola and Velma Moncrieff.

ANGLICAN CLUB CHICKEN SUPPER AT ARUNDEL

Among those attending the Chicken Supper, given by the Anglican Young People's Association, at Arundel on Saturday, Dec. 29th., were: Kathleen Morrison, Jas. Smellie, John Owens, Ross Swail, Hugh Boyd, Grant Simons, Gertrude Morrison, Alf Dunn, G. Loughren, Grace Loughren, Earl Morrison, Eleanor Morrison, Grace Boyd, Robert Simon, Winnie Graham, Eric Moss, Mary Weeks, J. Lasarre. Games and community singing were enjoyed, both before and after the repast. Rev. and Mrs. Gordon Phillips were hosts to the occasion.

A dusky highwayman stepped out into the road and called to another darky: "Throw up yo' hands, brudder." "Can't do it, cause ah get rheumatics in mah hands," was the reply. "Nebber mind dat. Ah's got automatics in mine!" "Yo wins, brudder, yo' w'--"

GRENVILLE NORTH

The Misses Lilly and Frances Murray were recent guests of Mrs. Eddie Matthews of Kilmar, Que.

Mrs. Cecil Bates has returned to Montreal, having spent the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Stewart.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Cousins spent a day recently in Ottawa.

Mrs. Earl McIntyre, was a welcome guest at the home of her sister, Mrs. Coral Gauley, recently.

Mr. Leo Fachette spent Xmas Day in Brownsburg with relatives.

Miss Lilly Larocque spent the holidays at her home here.

Miss Dorothy Cousins spent the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Cousins.

Friends of Mrs. J. Brechin, in this locality, trust she will soon be well again. She has been confined to bed for some time.

WHAT COMMUNISM IS!

(Sherbrooke Record)
Communism is the food for the sub-normal mind, the person whose mind can absorb so little after being filled with class hatred, animalism, jealousy and envy. In everyday life he is the admitted queer duck who excites curiosity.

The interesting street car service of London is found in the tubes. This underground means of transportation is naturally not disturbed by cross-city traction, is safe, speedy and different from any we have in Canada. It is true there are miles of underground railways in some of the larger American cities, but we know of no other such traction lines in the British Empire, and the service rendered is of a type which appeals to the most particular.

We had expected to see a congested motor traffic, but nowhere in Great Britain was there any evidence of this. The annual fee charged the owner of a motor would seem to be excessive in Canada, while the tax on gas of 8d or 16 cents per gallon would scarcely be permitted in one of our Provinces. No doubt the influence of the railroad magnates and the owners of other means of transportation has never been used to keep the gas tax down.

When going to Loch Lomond and the Trossachs and visiting that beautiful section of Scotland, we were in company with many others being driven to these heights behind a four-horse team. This was interesting and different.

As before stated, the highways of Scotland were more modern and as we motored north some of the highways were in easy distance from the sea shore, adding to the picturesque interest of the trip.

We were all deeply interested in both Glasgow and Edinburgh—Edinburgh with its wonderful monuments, its towers and its castles, joining, as they do, the present with the past. Some of these castles and estates are for public inspection and the tourist is given an opportunity of looking over some of these wonderful old places. We visited Warwick Castle, another link which binds the intriguing past to the present. Not only are castle and surrounding buildings magnificent and inspiring, but the furniture is of a type which must be admired. We who think that the present or modern times possess a superior intellect and understanding should avail ourselves of the first opportunity of seeing the wonderful cathedrals and other beautiful buildings found everywhere in this inviting country. We would not attempt to name them but when visiting St. Paul's Cathedral (designed by Sir Christopher Wren, Architect) and this is only one of many, we were inspired by its architectural splendor and wondered at the ability of the builders of that time in that they were able to elevate the marble slabs and granite blocks which are found in the towers of these massive buildings.

It was suggested to our party before leaving Canada that since our stay in Great Britain was necessarily short we confine our visit to England and Scotland and not visit Ireland. We, however, conserved our time and spent a few days on the Emerald Isle, motoring north of Belfast to Giant's Causeway, returning south through Londonderry and a most interesting section of this wonderful country to Belfast.

The roads of Ireland are wider than many

During the first eight months of 1934, gasoline sales in Canada amounted to 333,186,000 gallons, as compared with 316,803,000 gallons in the corresponding period of 1933.

"Salubrious," said the tourist, putting his head out of the train window. "Exhilarating!" said his companion. "Ye're baith wrang," remarked a fellow-traveller. "It's Kilconquhar." —London Evening News.

An impression prevails in certain quarters that the great enterprise of connecting the Pacific Ocean with the Gulf of Mexico will eventually fail, owing to the engineering difficulties in the way; but Lieut. H. Goring, late of the American navy, who understands the situation thoroughly, has no doubt but that the great work of De Lesseps will be completed and in working order by 1890. He recalls the fact that eminent English engineers predicted the failure of the Suez Canal; but the knowledge gained in that enterprise, insures, he thinks, the success of the Panama Canal. He says:

The substitution of mechanical appliances for manual labor is the real solution of the problem. The cutting of the Suez Canal dragged along for eight years, during which only 22,000,000 cubic metres were removed. During this time the prophecies of failure were as persistent and as positive as the prophecies of failure to complete the Panama Canal are today.

Mr. Bishop says that his aim will be to run these entertainments with the greatest care. Tonight's program consists of the following—The Molly Maguires, Boots and Saddles, Parted but United Again, Adventures of a Drummer Boy, Story of a Gentleman's Jacket, A Duel with Dynamite, How Glue is Made, Brahmin's Miracle, The Gambler, An Odd Pair of Limbs. (—A real snappy program, Mr. Bishop.)

Brownsburg—We have received a printed record showing the wonderful success of Nobel's Empire smokeless powders at Monte Carlo. They carried off the Casino Prize and La Grande Poule d'Essai. These are the powders so much used by Dominion Cartridge Co., in loading their now famous shot-shells.

of the roads in other portions of the Old Land the citizens and municipal and government officials everywhere seem to sense that you are strangers and extend to you a hearty welcome.

We spent one day in Dublin and found this city also most interesting, nor could we discover in our short stay on the Emerald Isle why two Federal Governments should be necessary, with two systems of coinage and currency, with two Post Office departments and the need of passing through a Customs Department and showing our citizenship papers. However, that is their business. We would say, however, to any of our Canadian or American friends who may be planning a trip to England and Scotland to be sure and include in their itinerary Ireland and Wales.

The papers published in the larger cities are of an interesting and instructive nature and these added greatly to the pleasure of our trip, pointing out as they do the historic and interesting places which should be visited in the various sections in which they are located. Many of these papers are deserving of the highest commendation.

While I am of the opinion that Canadians should see Canada first, that the problems of our Provinces can better be understood and that we may plan and make a united effort to develop our natural resources and our community interests, nevertheless, I am satisfied that more and more Canadians should plan to visit the Mother Country that we may give to that land which gave us our language, our birth-right and our flag an ever-growing loyal support.

The work of our Association is Dominion wide and it seems to me that in view of tourist business we should encourage uniformity of road signs and the placing of same—that we might make this a part of our work; also that we endeavor to have common practice of road use also uniform.

We in Canada and the United States have always used the right hand side of the highway when passing. This is also the rule throughout Europe, but is not the practice in Great Britain or Ireland. I do think that we as an Association should use our influence everywhere that we might have passing on the right made a world wide practice,—this in the interest of safety and a better understanding. Roads speak a common language and this should be understood everywhere.

Then, too, in the interest of safety and in order that work may be found for honest labor the Governments of Canada, both Federal and Provincial, should undertake to have a reasonable number of level railroad crossings removed each year. Subways or overhead crossings should be made and by making a survey of traffic and considering their importance, these could be allotted in the various Provinces and all of Canada benefited. Let us co-operate with the Government and the Railways in doing this necessary work.

SUGGESTED CHRISTENING

(The New Yorker)

The mother of one of our friends, a forthright old lady who spent the summer in England, was looking over some rugs in a London establishment one day when she became conscious of an unusual bustle and commotion about the place. Her salesman excused himself for a moment to investigate, and then reappeared, excited, telling her it was due to nothing less than the arrival of Queen Mary, who had come to do a little rug-selecting herself. Our friend's mother not unduly moved, remarked that she hoped the Queen wouldn't want one particular rug, which she had just about decided to order, and at this the salesman made her a dizzying suggestion. "In that case," he said, "may I spread it out? Wouldn't you like Her Majesty to walk over it for you on her way through the shop?"

Bulldog Drummond, hero of the gripping detective series, is featured in a thrilling role personified by Ronald Coleman. See Rex Theatre program.

SUDDEN DEATH AT LACHUTE MILLS

LATE GEO. HAMMOND WAS LIFE-LONG RESIDENT OF CHATHAM

The late George Hammond, whose sudden accidental death on Friday morning last has been a shock to his many friends, was the second son of the late Henry Hammond, Sr. and Eliza Ann Bradford of Chatham.

He was born in Chatham, February 22nd., 1858, on the farm which he lived upon and owned for many years prior to his death. He had been in poor health for a number of years.

He devoted his life to farming, and with the exception of a trip to Vancouver and other shorter travels which he much enjoyed, spent practically his whole life upon his farm.

Mr. Hammond never married. He was one of a family of five, namely, the late Mrs. Dr. Wm. Smith, the late Henry R. Hammond, the late Wm. J. Hammond, also Mrs. E. H. D. Robinson, of Hamilton, who is the last survivor. He was a member of the old Methodist Church until Union, when the membership in a body joined in with the Lachute United Church. He remained a member until the time of his death.

Besides his sister, Mrs. Robinson, and sister-in-law, Mrs. H. R. Hammond, he leaves to mourn his departure twelve nieces and nephews, with their families.

The accident which resulted fatally to Mr. Hammond, a well known and respected figure in this vicinity, occurred in the early hours of Friday morning. His body was found under the window of his home, from which he had fallen. Dr. J. H. Mason was summoned, who found that life was extinct, and as coroner empanelled a jury. A verdict was returned to the effect that Mr. Hammond died from having fallen from the upper window of his home, probably while under influence of an epileptic attack, and no blame was attached to anyone.

FULL WEEK IN MEN'S CURLING

The Houston Challenge Cup changed hands in Saturday evening's play, Mr. J. Bernier's quartet ceding their prize to a team skipped by G. Valois. The outcome was only a narrow triumph standing at 9-8.

D. Bates	Jas. McGibbon
W. J. Deacon	L. McMartin
J. W. Gall	Jas. MacKimmie Jr.
G. Valois	J. Bernier
(Skip)—9	(Skip)—8

Monday night saw the finals for the Stackhouse Cup, won by Mr. J. Falconer's team. The line-ups were as follows:

F. E. Earle	Angus Taylor
E. Walker	C. Stephens
Jas. MacKimmie Jr.	S. Campbell
Jno. Falconer	F. A. Brennan
(Skip)—13	(Skip)—8

The first round of the Jubilee Games was next on the week's program, commencing Tuesday evening when Mr. Bernier's team lost again to the MacKimmie quartet, skipped by Mr. J. P. MacKimmie. The score in this game was 11-8.

Jas. MacKimmie Jr.	W. J. Deacon
W. S. MacKimmie	A. A. McOuat
Jno. MacKimmie	R. McArthur
J. P. MacKimmie	J. Bernier
(Skip)—11	(Skip)—8

Finals of this elimination series were staged on the following evening, Mr. MacKimmie and his three stalwart sons contesting for the honor of representing Lachute, their opponents being a team skipped by Mr. R. Todd, the latter winning in a closely contested game.

NEW LICENSE PLATES WHITE ON GREEN

BUT PRICES ARE THE SAME

The new 1935 Quebec licence plates were issued on January 1st., which is one month earlier than in previous years. This earlier issue of auto plates is designed to alleviate the last minute rush of car owners, who usually invade the registration offices in large numbers around the latter end of March. A more effective remedy for this evil would be to accelerate the arrival of Spring—which is a matter even beyond the control of our provincial Revenue Department. Another alternative would be to offer a discount to early shoppers; but with the taxing of automobiles, this province is reputedly backward in the matter of concessions.

Quebec's 1935 plates show white figures on a green background.

LOCAL FIRM ENJOYS A WIDE REPUTATION

ORDERS EXECUTED FOR CANADIAN CONCERNS

When visiting the machine shops of T. McOuat & Son last week, the Editor found them busily at work on a new safety device for use on paper machines, and in conversation we were especially pleased to learn that the patentee was none other than our former townsman, Russel Carpenter, who is master mechanic with the Canada Paper Corporation at Three Rivers.

In further evidence of the popularity of T. McOuat & Son, and the wide scope of their business, we saw work in the course of execution for the Willis Piano Co'y. of Ste. Therese. The order comprised an exacting set of jigs made from an original drawing, to be used in drilling the thousands of holes necessary for stringing the pianos made by the Willis Company. That this intricate work should be entrusted to our local founders and machinists, is a tribute indeed to the firm's reputation. This is further evidenced in an order just dispatched to Toronto, being the consignment of a full set of ladies' curling stones. This speaks good workmanship, and Lachute may well be proud of its industrial leaders.

15th ANNIVERSARY OF LADIES' CURLING

A bridge and tea, celebrating the 15th Anniversary of the Ladies' Curling Club was given by the Social Committee on Wednesday of last week.

Finals for the Club Trophy were played on Saturday afternoon. The winners were Mrs. Ian Hay, Mrs. H. Cousins, Mrs. H. McFaul, Mrs. E. H. Wilson, (Skip).

The first game of the season for the Wilson Challenge Cup was played on Tuesday, Miss Riddell's rink winning. The players were:

Mrs. H. McFaul	Mrs. R. Charron
Miss Barron	Mrs. G. Mitchell
Miss E. Fraser	Mrs. W. Cottingham
Mrs. E. H. Wilson	Miss A. Riddell
(Skip)—8	(Skip)—9

ARUNDEL AND MORIN AFFORD SCENES FOR ART EXHIBITION

WATERCOLORS SHOWN IN MONTREAL

Henry Simpkins, prominent Montreal artist, has found a happy choice in the scenery of Argenteuil County, which is in a large measure the subject of an exhibition this week at the Watson Art Galleries, Sherbrooke Street West. Mr. Simpkins is a master of water-color, for which he was awarded the Jessie Dow Prize last year.

Those familiar with the scenery of our country north of Lachute need no stimulus to their appreciation; the selection of this district by a prominent artist, however, may be taken as an authentic tribute to its charm and appeal. The lure of the Laurentians is aptly characterized in Mr. Simpkins' pictures. Among his collection now on display are the following scenes, many of which have arrested our attention and evoked admiration: Bark Lake beneath storm clouds, in a picture entitled "Arundel Valley"; a haycart beneath noble elms, in "Late Afternoon, Arundel"; "The Narrows, Bark Lake" with a motorboat disturbing the water; wooded, rocky shores, in "The Gorge, Rouge River"; a tumble of white water, and

IMPORTANT YOU SHOULD READ THIS

Several of our readers, upon receiving a bill for subscription to the Watchman, have expressed great surprise that their account was owing for so long. This is a matter in which there can be no element of surprise, for the date printed on the address label states clearly when the paper is paid up to.

Watchman subscriptions are payable in advance. To bill our readers automatically as their year expired, would entail almost the full time labor of one clerk—a luxury which the Editor cannot afford. With the Watchman Office staffed in this manner, subscription rates would need to be raised to two dollars.

It is therefore left to the conscience and the honesty of our readers to send in their subscription, the date on the label being our informal rendering of account. If this date is overstepped by several months, or even years, it is a matter of wilful disregard on the reader's part. When our bill is rendered, it can be no matter of surprise, for the reminder has gone ahead regularly every week in the addressing of the paper.

CARPET BOWLING COMMENCED TUESDAY

Tuesday evening saw the commencement of carpet bowling activities, when some 75 enthusiasts and friends gathered at McArthur's Hall. This number included members of the four clubs in the local League, for which a schedule has been prepared and the season's play will proceed immediately. The teams will include the Young People's Societies of the United, Presbyterian and Anglican Churches in Lachute, and the I.O.O.F., at whose lodge room the first gathering assembled.

A friendly bonspiel was won on this occasion by the Presbyterians, the four clubs participating. A feature of the evening was the presentation of the cup won last year by the United Young People's Club. This Club will hold the trophy pending the outcome of this season's bowling, the schedule of which is published on page 5.

Refreshments were served, and the occasion in its social aspects proved enjoyable to all.

EQUIPPED THE TOWN OF HAWKESBURY WITH ELECTRIC LIGHT

JAMES ROSS DIED THIS WEEK

One of Hawkesbury's most widely known citizens, James Ross, died January 13 at the age of 74. He was instrumental in equipping Hawkesbury with electric light and power in the days when towns of that size did not have such conveniences. Mr. Ross is survived by his widow, formerly Maud Lawlor, and two sons, Gordon and William, of Hawkesbury.

lumbermen, in "Logging, Rouge River". Other scenes represent "St. Mary's Falls, Montfort"; "Mirror Lake, Montfort"; "Habitat Homestead"; "Late Fall, Rouge River"; "The Falls, Labelle" and others from the same locality.

In the surroundings of Morin Heights the painter has found inspiration for impressive scenes. Here his winter studies include: "After a Snowfall, Morin Heights"—a cluster of spruces under snow, the true portrayal of sunny winter day. Ranges of wooded hills flushed by the sun make an attractive scene of "Early Morning, Morin Heights", and sunlit birches and spruce with distant hills are the elements of "February Afternoon, near Morin Heights". Shacks, barrels and men at work, with a team of horses and trees throwing blue shadows on the snow, are seen in "The Sugar Camp".

EDUCATIONAL WEEK A NATIONAL FEATURE

All the Protestant Clergy in Canada are asked to preach on some aspect of Education on February 3rd. School Choirs will be present in some of the Churches on that date.

On Monday, the following day, there will be a national broadcast, through the courtesy of the Radio Commission.

On February 8th., there will be a broadcast of school choir music from C.K.A.C. at 5 p.m., and on the same evening, prominent Quebec Educationalists will speak over C.R.C.M.

Throughout the whole country, public meetings are being arranged, in some districts the schools are having special parents' days, with exhibition of school work, in others social evenings are being held with all members of the community present. Many other plans are still in formation.

The object of this "Education Week" is to intensify the interest of all citizens in Education, and to encourage citizens, school boards, and teachers to consult with each other about the danger to education and to devise some way of protecting our young people from the loss of their rightful heritage.

FOUR LEAGUE HOCKEY CAMES THIS WEEK

Last Thursday's encounter between Ayers Limited and Brownsburg proved, as forecast, the closest contest of the week, when Ayers repeated their previous 3-2 triumph after a close and interesting game.

L.A.A.A. met Independents last Saturday on the local ice, taking the short end of a 3-0 score, the result being protested by L.A. management. They were defeated again by Ayers, on Tuesday, the count being 4-0. L.A.A.A. hold the low scoring record, the brightest spot on their schedule to date being a 3-1 victory over Independents last month.

Brownsburg was the scene of another league game on Tuesday, when the home line-up scored 9-4 over the Independents.

CHAPTER OFFICERS INSTALLED

On Saturday evening last the officers for the coming term in Laurentian Chapter No. 24 were installed by Rt. Ex. Comp. Griffiths, of Montreal, assisted by Rt. Ex. Comps. C. W. A. Moore, Rt. Ex. Comp. W. Brown, Ex. Comp. C. Fawcett, and Rt. Ex. Comp. T. Kynman, also of Montreal.

The retiring Principal Ex. Comp. A. A. Middleton was the recipient of a beautiful jewel presented to him as a token of esteem, and in recognition of faithful services rendered during his past two years in office.

Those taking hold for 1935 are: Ex-Comp. F. A. Brennan, 1st. Principal; Ex-Comp. F. J. Sanford, 2nd. Principal; Ex. Comp. H. G. Brannan, 3rd. Principal; Comp. J. A. MacKimmie, Prin. Sojourner.

After the work of the evening a pleasant hour was spent at the festive board when the brethren were entertained with short addresses and vocal music.

THEODORE R. HAMMOND DIED IN 47th. YEAR

RESIDENT OF THE SEIGNIORY

It is with deep regret that we record the death of Theodore Richard Hammond, who passed away on January 11th., at his late residence in the Seigniorie, Que. Although Mr. Hammond had been incapacitated by ill health for a long period, his death came as a shock to his family and friends.

He leaves to mourn his loss a loving wife, two daughters and three sons, also his mother, Mrs. Thos. Hammond, and one brother, Lemuel, of Riverside, Que.

Deceased was in his forty-seventh year.

ACCLAMATIONS ARE THE ORDER OF THE DAY

FEWER CONTESTS IN DISTRICT COUNCILS

Nomination day for the smaller neighboring municipalities, Wednesday of last week, forecast fewer contests than in previous years, and acclamations for aldermanic vacancies were the order of the day. In one or two instances where contests appeared probable, by mutual agreement or otherwise the seats were satisfactorily filled, as one or other of the candidates withdrew. Election day, Tuesday 15th. inst., saw little excitement in consequence, Morin Heights being the only municipality to stage an election.

In the latter instance, successful candidates were J. D. Davis, Max Baumel and Oscar Forget, securing aldermanic vacancies with 80, 77 and 73 votes respectively.

In St. Jerusalem Mayor J. E. Walker was re-elected by acclamation for his third term. Messrs. Andrew Nichol and J. E. Armstrong being re-elected by acclamation and J. S. Pollock acclaimed for Seat No. 1, to replace Matthew Elder.

In the Village of Calumet, Mayor R. Legault and Councillor W. Bridgen retained their office without contest, and new councillors were appointed by acclamation in the persons of Messrs. Jas. and Walter Welden.

Mayor W. Beauchamp was returned by acclamation for his third term as Chairman of Grenville and Augmentation Municipal Council, while John Prophet and Jos. Arthurs were re-elected and Jno. B. Deslauriers elected, all by acclamation, for aldermanic vacancies.

ANNUAL MEETING OF AYRSHIRE BREEDERS

FULL SESSION AND INTERESTING SPEAKERS

The 14th. Annual Meeting of the Laurentian Ayrshire Breeders' Club was held in the Lachute Town Hall, on Friday afternoon, Jan. 11th., the meeting being presided over by J. P. Bradley, President, with about 35 members present.

The secretary, W. E. Rodger, read the minutes of last annual meeting, and presented the financial report showing receipts $257.97, expenditures $116.67, and a net balance of $141.30.

Mr. Alex. Bothwell, Agronomist, was the first speaker to be called upon. He stressed the importance of combating the warble fly, of buying bulls subject to government policies, and other matters affecting higher breeding standards.

Nominations followed for judges at the Lachute Fair; Mr. Brodie Ness, of Portsmouth, Ont., was nominated as judge, with Donald Cummings, of Lancaster, Ont., as reserve.

Mr. Napier, secretary-treasurer of the parent association, spoke most interestingly of his work during the past year, and introduced the guest speaker Dr. Charles A. Mitchell. His subject touched upon a few diseases of cattle of economic importance, with special emphasis on contagious abortion and its destructive effects upon the livestock industry. As yet no cure has been found, he said, but every precaution to prevent the spread of this disease should be taken, in segregation, cleanliness and the use of the blood test. Many questions were asked, to which the answers proved most interesting and profitable.

Mr. Napier proceeded with a demonstration of tattooing. The club has two sets of tattoos and is desirous that the members shall use them.

A hearty vote of thanks was extended to all the speakers.

The election of officers resulted as follows: J. H. Black, Hon.-President; J. P. Bradley, President; Allan Walker, Vice-Pres.; W. E. Rodger, Sec.-Treasurer; Directors, Stanley Rodger, Irwin Bain, Melville Smith, D. Simon, Erskine McOuat and C. J. Miller.

PRETTY HOUSE WEDDING AT LACHUTE

DAVIS — OLSEN

A wedding of much interest took place at high noon Saturday, Jan. 12, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Deacon, Lachute, Que., when Miss Edith M. Olsen, R.N., of Victoria, B.C., and Mr. John H. Davis, of Morin Heights, Que., were united in marriage, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. W. B. Rosborough, B.A., B.D., of Lachute. The bride was charming in her long princess gown of midnight blue rippled matelasse crepe and wearing a corsage of orchids and lilies of the valley. A smart little silver cocktail hat, silver slippers and gloves, completed the costume. The bridesmaid, Miss Evelyn E. Olsen, of Victoria, B.C., sister of the bride, looked smart in a long triple sheer georgette gown of Marina green and black ribbon hat. Her corsage was of Talisman roses and lilies of the valley. The groom was supported by his brother-in-law, Mr. Wm. Deacon, while the wedding march was played by Mrs. Wm. Deacon who was be-

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

ENLARGEMENTS AS GIFTS

Enlargements make just about perfect gifts for any occasion. Here are two different enlargements from the same snapshot negative; one for Dad's desk at the office and the other for the living room out at Grandma's.

EVERYTHING considered, snapshot shooters are a lucky lot. As we have seen, they have the edge on ordinary mortals in the matter of really personal, meaningful Christmas cards. And snapshot shooters are lucky in that they have the means of creating gifts of exceptional charm and value for any occasion.

These particular "means" are the snapshot negatives from which beautiful enlargements can be made. If you haven't yet experimented with enlargements, now's the time. If you have a darkroom of your own, where you develop and print your own pictures, one of the simple modern enlargers will make it a vastly more fascinating place. But you get practically the same pleasure—and uniformly excellent work—out of enlargements made from your films by any regular photo finisher.

In enlarging a picture you get not only a bigger, more realistic image but the opportunity to select the best part of any negative for magnification. Suppose you have a good negative of the youngsters at play in the sandbox—a picture which their grandparents would be delighted to have, enlarged, as a gift. But suppose there's something incongruous—a wash on the line, a lawn mower or anything else that doesn't add a thing to the charm of the view—to the right or left of the children. With an enlargement, that distracting, unnecessary feature can be completely eliminated.

There's nothing complicated or difficult about enlarging. It's exactly like a "magic lantern" or stereopticon. The only difference is that you use a negative film instead of a lantern slide and project the image on light-sensitive paper instead of a silver screen. By masking out the undesired parts of the negative you keep them from reaching the paper. Any photo shop will explain this and other details more fully for you.

Enlargements may be of almost any size. Any good negative, no matter how small, may be "blown up" to make a picture five or six times the size of the original. A sharp 2 1/4 x 3 1/4 inch film will easily give you a sparkling 8 x 10 inch enlargement. But that is by no means the limit. Enlargements have been made to cover an entire wall of a room. But such jobs are not recommended for folks such as ourselves. (Not unless you're wealthy.)

A word about subjects for enlargements—particularly if they're to be used as gifts. Choose pictures that will mean something to the recipients. A shot of Fido trying to climb a tree after Cleo, the cat, will be vastly appreciated by big brother or sister away at college, but it won't mean very much to Aunt Cynthia who doesn't care for either dogs or cats.

Some of the best enlargements we've seen have been landscapes—or seascapes. Mountains usually make good pictures. But if they're to be given as remembrances, choose landscapes familiar to those who will get the pictures.

JOHN VAN GUILDER.

BOY SCOUTS THE WORLD OVER

Holy Land's Old Hatreds give Way before Friendly Code of Boy Scouts.

That the youth of Palestine—Jewish, Moslem and Christian—are forgetting the age-old antagonisms and hatreds of their elders and accepting and living the brotherhood code of the rapidly growing Boy Scout movement, was the statement of Stephen A. Haboush, world traveler, and formerly a Galilean shepherd.

"The Boy Scout movement in Palestine is breaking down the religious and racial barriers that have existed throughout the centuries, and already has eliminated many bitter prejudices and misunderstandings between Moslem, Christian and Jewish boys," the visitor from Palestine declared.

"When I was a youth, Moslem and Christian boys never thought of greeting one another with a friendly word. We were enemies, by virtue of ancestry and religious beliefs, and when we met it usually was to fight."

"Today, thanks to the Boy Scout movement, boys from Moslem, Jewish and Christian homes are meeting on a basis of mutual brotherhood and understanding. Through their association in Scouting, and instruction in the world brotherhood principles of the Boy Scouts' code, the boys are learning to play the game of life together, and to forget the differences of race and creed."

This was true not only in Palestine, according to Mr. Haboush, but equally amongst the youth of Trans-Jordan, Syria and Iraq, and promised to play a possibly important part in the ultimate solution of the racial and religious problems of the Near East.

The schools, colleges and universities established by missionaries and missionary societies were credited by Mr. Haboush with fostering the development of the various Boy Scout troops. St. George's Cathedral and School at Jerusalem and the American University at Beirut were mentioned as notably active sponsors of the movement.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, January 20th., is "Life."

The Golden Text is:—"The life was manifested, and we have seen it, and bear witness, and show unto you that eternal life, which was with the Father, and was manifested unto us." (John 1:2).

The following correlative passages are selected from among those comprised in the Lesson-Sermon to be read from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:—

"O Lord my God, I cried unto thee, and thou hast healed me. O Lord, thou hast brought up my soul from the grave: thou hast kept me alive, that I should not go down to the pit." (Psalms 30:2,3).

"Let us feel the divine energy of Spirit, bringing us into newness of life and recognizing no mortal nor material power as able to destroy. Let us rejoice that we are subject to the divine 'powers that be.' Such is the true Science of being. Any other theory of Life, or God, is delusive and mythological." (Science and Health, page 249)

Hiram—"Yes, I've seen a few bad crop years in my time. One year our string beans were so poor that the crop didn't even pay for the string."

Silas—"That's nothing, Hi. In 1914 our corn crop was so bad that my old dad, who had a very poor appetite, ate up 14 acres of corn at a single meal."

Marjorie stared at the little speaker in amazement for a few minutes before bursting into a merry peal of laughter. "Krinkly Krum!" she said, and laughed again. Instead of being vexed with her for laughing at his name, the funny little fellow wrinkled up his nose, threw back his little head and laughed too—a queer, crackling laugh which sounded to Marjorie quite like the rattling of little icicles on the roof.

"I beg your pardon," she said, quite politely when they were both quiet once more, "I should not have laughed at your name."

"Why, of course, you should," he chuckled, "laughter is good for us. Laugh at everything that comes your way—laugh, laugh, laugh, that's the way to live. Perhaps I would laugh at your name too, if I knew it."

"My name is Marjorie Black," she replied readily. "He, He! Ho, Ho! Ha, Ha!" laughed Krinkly Krum, until Marjorie was afraid he might shake to pieces if he did not stop.

"Oh please, please don't laugh so hard," she begged. "You will split your sides if you do. Anyway, what do you find so funny about my name? Marjorie Black is as good a name as any."

"Marjorie Black, Marjorie Black" chuckled Krinkly Krum again. "That's a good one. I must tell Princess Snowball about that. Won't she laugh at the idea of a girl with pearly white skin and golden hair being called Marjorie Black. The name doesn't suit you at all. You should have been called Golden Locks, but maybe you are Golden Locks come back to life. Are you?" "I am sure I don't know," said Marjorie, with a puzzled frown. She had heard Dad and Uncle Dick talking about people "coming back again re-re-re—" she could not remember any more of the big word they had used, and did not have an opportunity to think about it again, for Krinkly Krum was calling to her quite excitedly. "Don't frown, oh don't frown. It makes your face so ugly and leaves horrid wrinkles. Rub your forehead quickly, Golden Locks. Not that way!" as Marjorie, rather puzzled, was rubbing the place where the frowns had been, straight up and down.

"Rub cross-wise and around and around. Here, let me do it for you." Before Marjorie had time to say no, Krinkly Krum was standing on the arm of her chair, rubbing her forehead with his cool soft fingers.

"Oh!" exclaimed Marjorie in surprise, "how delightfully soft your hands are. I thought—I thought," she began hesitantly. "You thought!" chuckled Krinkly Krum, "that my hands would be as rough as my name and appearance eh?" "I suppose so," Marjorie said, getting quite red and confused-looking. Krinkly Krum was watching her so closely with his sharp bright eyes.

"The reason my hands are not all rough and wrinkled is because I could not frown with them. I used to be called the Frowning Snowball, until the Princess thought up this fine name for me, being Princess Snowball herself, she did not like to hear of a Frowning Snowball, so she named me Krinkly Krum. It is a real stylish name, I think. Don't you think so too?"

"I do indeed," said Marjorie "now that I am getting acquainted with you. I think it suits you very well, and is much nicer than Frowning Snowball. That was a rather horrid name." "It was, but I deserved it. I frowned at everything instead of laughing, and made my face all wrinkles."

"But your body?" began Marjorie. "Oh! the frowns spread," said Krinkly Krum. "All over me, just like measles. Frowns are terrible things for spreading. That is why I hated to see you frowning just now. But let's not talk any more about frowns; let's get outside and have some fun instead."

"Outside!" said Marjorie in a startled voice, "in the dark?" "It's not dark," chuckled Krinkly Krum, "and if it was, there is nothing in the dark to be afraid of. You ought to see us Snowball people fly around in the dark. We have wonderful times. Last night we played tag almost all night, around and around the pine tree as fast as we could go, while Princess Snowball sat up on a limb and laughed at us. Come along, Golden Locks, please do."

Marjorie took a quick look around. Old Mammy Sue was nowhere to be seen. All was quiet in the kitchen. "I'll go," she whispered softly, and followed him through the window which opened quietly to let her through. As she heard it close softly behind her she was almost rooted to the ground with a feeling of panic. She stood still so long that Krinkly Krum called, "Oh come along do. We are going to have loads of fun!" To be Continued.

Lovingly, Aunt Jean

Governor General a Strong Advocate for Boy Scouting

SEEKS CO-OPERATION OF PARENTS IN YOUTH MOVEMENT

Address delivered at Ottawa, January 11th., by His Excellency

I am now starting my fifth and last year in Canada as Governor-General.

During every one of the past four years, I have travelled many thousands of miles throughout this wonderful Dominion. As the representative of the King in this country, I have endeavored to testify to Canadians of all ages, in your great cities and in your remoter country districts, the close personal interest that His Majesty feels in all his Canadian subjects.

In my travels, I have met a very great number of the men, women, and children of this glorious country. I have seen many sides of Canadian life. I have seen, I hope, something of the hearts and minds of Canadians, as well as much of their outward activities. It has been, as you can imagine, a very agreeable, but also a very moving, and a very illuminating, experience. From that experience, one impression stands out more vividly, perhaps, than all the others I have gathered—and that is that Canada, as a country, is vitally instinct with the spirit of Youth.

By that, I do not mean that Canada is, historically, a young nation, as nations go. I do not mean, either, that Canada at the present moment offers greater professional opportunities to Youth than do other countries. What I do mean is that Canada today seems to me pre-eminently conscious of the needs of Youth, anxious to give Youth a fair chance, proud of its own boys and girls, and determined to make the most of the fine raw material of citizenship which those splendid boys and girls provide; and this explains what I have also noticed everywhere—that in Canada, the elders seem to stay younger, to keep Youth in their hearts longer than they do in most countries. There is, in fact, throughout this great country, a deep seated sympathy with Youth, a realization of the obligations of Age to Youth, which is one of Canada's greatest national assets.

There are in the world today many so-called "Youth Movements"; but of all those of which I have any knowledge the one for boys that appeals to me most is the Boy Scout Movement. In my opinion, this organization which lays such stress on honour, on loyalty, on neighbourliness, and on "playing the game", is the one that is the finest and is best suited to Canada. Naturally, its emphasis on loyalty appeals to me, for is not life made up of loyalties—loyalty to one's friends; loyalty to those things that are beautiful and good; loyalty to one's country; loyalty to our King; and above all, and most important of all, loyalty to God.

Doubtless you have heard that the Chief Scout of the World, Lord Baden-Powell, is coming to Canada next spring, and that I have challenged the Scout Organization to celebrate what may be his last visit by laying plans for a considerable expansion and improvement of the Movement. Canada has 65,000 excellent Scouts, but I know that is not enough. There should be at least one hundred thousand in this country, and Scouting should be made available to the hundreds of smaller communities which at present have no organized activities of any kind for their boys.

QUEBEC CITY'S TAX SUGGESTION IS OPPOSED

PROPOSED LEVY ON LINER PASSENGERS

The suggested imposition of a tax on all passengers arriving at Quebec in liners from Europe, which has been proposed by a Quebec city councillor and will apparently be brought before the council in the near future, has created a certain surprise among steamship companies interested in the trans-Atlantic travel via the St. Lawrence route.

In the move prevalent among municipalities the world over to explore every possible avenue for revenue, there is, at least, something unique about the effort of the Quebec alderman, for none of the other ports of the world, used for passenger traffic, have such a tax for municipal revenue purposes, according to Montreal steamship authorities.

Some European nations do impose a small tax on travellers disembarking at certain leading ports, such as Cherbourg and Havre, as well as Italian ports, but they are not for local municipal purposes, and some doubt is expressed as to the right of any city in Canada to collect such a tax. The harbor of Quebec, as of Montreal, is federal property, it is pointed out, and the extent to which this fact would affect collection of the proposed tax, which is said to be opposed by Mayor Gregoire, is worthy of consideration.

It is the opinion of steamship authorities that, with a competitor for west-bound traffic of the importance of New York, a tax, included among the list termed in passenger traffic parlance, "annoyance taxes" placed on any passengers coming by the St. Lawrence would, on the face of it, seem a mistake, especially at a time when this country is making every effort to encourage tourists to visit her places of beauty and interest.

Already the Empress of Britain is said to be gaining for Quebec City the increased interest of people in all parts of the world, and the Canadian Pacific includes in its many enquiries from prospective travellers references to the ancient city which lends so much attractiveness to the St. Lawrence route.

REMAINS CARRIED HOME BY OCEAN WAVES

There have been some strange happenings which have been recorded from time to time and one such had to do with the hurricane which resulted in the Johnstown flood where 3,000 persons were drowned, a material loss placed at $20,000,000. The incidents were 2,000 miles apart, taking in Galveston, Texas, at one end of the narrative and Prince Edward Island, in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, at the other, according to a report reaching an official of the Canadian National Steamships, whose vessels are conducting a series of winter cruises from Halifax and Boston to the beautiful tropical islands of the Caribbean Sea.

On September 8, 1901, a West Indies hurricane commenced which blew steadily for eighteen hours and reached a velocity of at least 135 miles per hour. The waters of the Gulf of Mexico rose in enormous waves that swept across Galveston, Texas, and resulted in the worst cataclysm in the history of the United States, included in which was the Johnstown flood. Lying peacefully in the cemetery at Galveston were the mortal remains of an expatriated Prince Edward Islander. The surging waves forced the coffin from its grave, washed it out to sea and, caught in the Gulf Stream, it was carried to the shores of Prince Edward Island where, upon examination, it was found the coffin bore a name plate identifying the remains as those of Charles Francis Coughlan, a native of Prince Edward Island, where they at last found a resting place.

Dr. George Christie has removed into his new brick building situated between Medical Hall and the English Church.

As we had predicated, Messrs. P. Dunbar and Wm. McOuat were again unanimously re-elected to the Parish Municipal Council on Monday.

At last there is a prospect of Lachute being incorporated as a Town. The preliminary steps are being taken and a petition to the Legislature for an Act of Incorporation is in the course of signature.

Messrs. John Chambers and Wm. Strong were unanimously re-elected as councillors for the Parish of Gore.

We had a narrow escape from being killed the other day. The sidewalk being slippery, we were walking on the street, when a runaway horse brushed past us, grazing our shoulder. The horse belonged to Mr. Duncan Paul and was in charge of his brother, when it broke loose from the sleigh and bolted.

WE ARE RIDICULOUSLY OVER-GOVERNED

Interesting and provocative figures have been compiled by the Financial Post of Toronto to show the amazing extent to which Canada is over-governed.

As a result of careful study the Financial Post is able to publish the following illuminating table as to the number of law-makers in various countries:—

Japan 1 law-maker for 78,275 people.	Portugal 1 law-maker for 75,843 people.
Poland 1 law-maker for 57,564 people.	France 1 law-maker for 43,857 people.
Czechoslovakia 1 law-maker for 37,724 people.	South Africa 1 law-maker for 36,466 people.
Great Britain 1 law-maker for 33,907 people.	Norway 1 law-maker for 18,761 people.
Finland 1 law-maker for 18,335 people.	Greece 1 law-maker for 16,769 people.

This is a ridiculous and dangerous position for Canada to find herself in. It is a condition which should not be allowed to continue.

It is high time that a serious effort was made to tackle this problem. As a start, the number of members of the House of Commons should be reduced from the present 245 to 100 or thereabouts.

The House of Commons in Great Britain has 615 members to legislate for about four times our population in the British Isles, plus the millions of British subjects living in colonies which are not self-governing. The United States House of Representatives has 435 members to legislate Federally for about 125,000,000 people.

On the American basis we would have only about 50 members in our Dominion House of Commons. On the British basis we would have about 160 members.

The American basis would provide too small a Federal legislature body and the British basis a house somewhat too large to effect any real saving. A house of about 125 would seem to adequately fulfill the requirements of our case. This would be roughly half the size of the present house.

A reduction in the size of the Dominion House can soon be brought about if the people are determined to end the present stupid superfluity of legislators. Never have political candidates been so eager to placate the voters as they are today. A little organized agitation in favour of fewer members of parliament would accomplish wonders.

The man who starts the ball rolling in this reform will emerge a national hero. Here is a chance for some reader to achieve greatness. We shall be delighted to assist him in any way possible.—Cobourg World

FORD ADDS 10,000 MEN AS RESULT OF NEW CAR

More than 10,000 men have been added to the Ford Motor Company payroll since its new car introduced December 29, creating the best employment mark since 1929, it was stated today.

According to officials, approximately 70,000 men are now at work at the Rouge plant and production is running at the rate of 3,000 cars daily, with the hope of achieving 5,000 per day before the end of the month. Schedules call for 110,000 cars in January.

Sales volume, particularly in the agricultural sections, had been stepped up greatly, an executive said. Some sections, he declared, were reporting 50 per cent. more orders than a year ago when a new model was introduced.

QUEBEC PROCEEDS AGAINST LOTTERY

SHERBROOKE SWEEPSTAKE SUBJECT OF PROSECUTIONS

Certain of the promoters of the Sherbrooke Hotel Dieu Sweepstake, held in connection with an Australian race run on January 1, have been prosecuted and further prosecutions are in process of enactment, according to announcement made by an official of the Quebec attorney-General's Department.

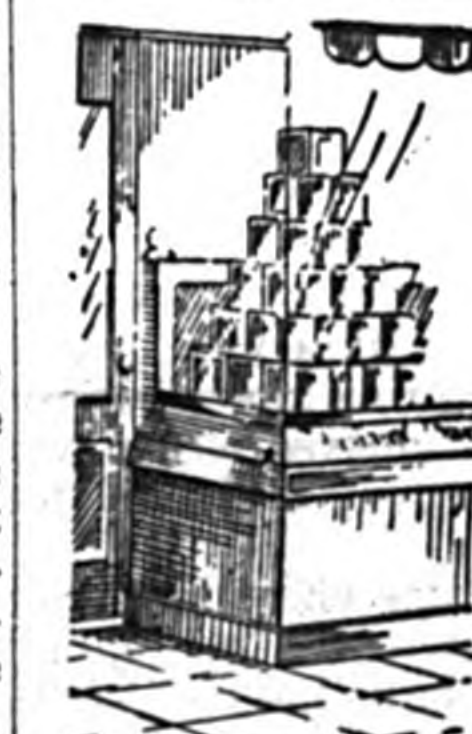

It is added that some of the winning money has been seized and confiscated by the Government under the provisions of the law, as being the property of the Crown.

This information, the official said, had been forwarded to the Canadian Legation in Paris from whence enquiries had come, presumably on behalf of ticket holders in France, of the legality of the lottery. The Attorney-General's Department notified the legation of the illegality of the drawing, pointing out that prosecutions had been started against the promoters.

It is stated that none of the money seized will be returned, not even in the case of cash for tickets, because the law provides that the purchaser of a ticket in an unlawful lottery, is just as liable as the seller.

You wouldn't board up a Show Window?

It's just one of the splendid ways of advertising good values.

There isn't any business man who would even consider the idea of boarding up his show window and stopping this splendid means of telling people the values and the goods he has to offer them. There is scarcely any retail business that does not put a great deal of time in dressing the windows and having them properly lighted.

And yet, not a fifth of your customers pass that show window on an average of once a week! You may have a fine window and great values and the best of goods, and yet, if you depend entirely on that one means of reaching all possible customers, you will fall far short of the objective. There are hundreds of busy housewives who do not have time to go walking every day.

These housewives arrange the family buying. If they can't window shop, they do their buying through the advertisements. Even the window shoppers know they will miss many excellent values if they fail to scan the advertisements.

When the merchant does not use the advertising columns he is boarding up the means of selling his goods to a number much larger than the window shoppers. Progressive merchants like to invite all classes to their store. Most people like to shop where the merchants display their goods and values. The day of buying unknown articles has gone.

Every week there are thousands of readers in this County waiting for an invitation to shop at your store. Are you boarding up the Advertising Show Window and telling them you have nothing for sale? They will never know of your values if you do not remove the boards.

Invite new customers to your store.

FRENCH-CANADIAN A PURE TONGUE

Those who are apt to confuse the habitant tongue with the genuine French-Canadian, may find enlightenment in the opinions of certain Frenchmen who recently visited Canada. They claim that their language is spoken in its purest form, not in France but in Canada!

Allowing for overdrawn opinions, the general suggestion is that the language of French Canada is in no way inferior to the Parisian. Opinions contrary to this have invariably taken the Quebec tavern dialect as representing educated French Canadian speech.—Which is equivalent to the belief that Canada distorts the King's English, merely on a comparison of Downing Street accents with the jargon of Montreal Docks.

SUBDUING A BAD PRACTICE

Until last week the "Ambulance Chaser" had been, in our mind, but an interesting product of these racketeering days in the U. S. It appears, however, that certain less scrupulous lawyers have fallen for these get-rich-quick tactics here in Canada.

The Council of the Bar Association of Montreal has requested, and Attorney-General Premier L. A. Taschereau, K.C., has authorized, a sweeping investigation into these unethical law practices in the province—the penalty of which will be suspension from professional standing.

"Ambulance Chasing" methods are generally known; their origin was ingenious, but like other rackets they seem to have been overworked. Unscrupulous lawyers allegedly have a "pay-off" system whereby they "tip" constables, hospital orderlies or other agents to advise them immediately when an accident occurs; they then rush to the hospital or the victim's home, it is charged, and obtain authorization to institute civil actions for recovery of damages.

In connection with the investigation, it is interesting to note that Montreal, which has sought legislation to curb damage suits for sidewalk accidents at the city's expense, will seek to unearth slick and illegal practices by lawyers pressing charges of this nature. It is alleged that writs have been issued against the city without the victims of sidewalk falls giving their lawyers authorization to take such action. In certain cases, prior to issuance of court writs, the city might have settled with the victim for a reasonable amount. But settlement without resort to a court hearing means that the citizen's lawyer reaps no court costs. And it is charged that some lawyers, with their eyes on fat fees as result of pleading the case in court, have gone ahead and issued writs against the city—without obtaining their client's approval or authorization. These actions in the civil courts mean heavy costs to the municipalities, which are in no position to stand the burden at this time.

The investigation should do much to discourage an evil foreign to the ethics of the legal profession in this country.

The Province of Ontario will not renew any insurance policies covering its public buildings, and will create a sinking fund to provide for any fire or other losses, according to announcement by Premier Mitchel F. Hepburn.

LICENSING BICYCLES

Emile Joliat, chief of police of the City of Ottawa, is advocating a system by which all bicycles owned in the Capital may be licensed and tagged. He points out that the advantage of licensing lies in the fact that a definite check on ownership is made possible, thus enabling police to cope efficiently with the steadily increasing number of bicycle thefts. While the system would not be a 100 percent deterrent, he believes that it would have a valuable effect.

The Ottawa Spotlight

A Weekly Review of National Affairs
Specially written for The Watchman
By Wilfrid Eggleston

Ottawa, January 15. If the session opening this week needed anything to make it the classic of recent years, Premier Bennett's five radio addresses certainly supplied it. The eyes of Canada are going to be focussed on Parliament Hill the next few weeks. Sometimes these much advertised performances turn out to be a dud. We shall be surprised if this one fails to live up to advance notices. As has been said in this feature before, the present session has "all the makings."

It may be brief and stormy, winding up with the announcement of a general election. It may be long and contentious, full of important legislation. Two quite contradictory views on this subject have developed.

The point is: Will Premier Bennett attempt here and now to place on the statute books his New Reform program?

Or will he seek a mandate from the people first?

A Dramatic Scene

Those of us who like to construct beforehand the probable events see this possibility: Bennett may bring forward one or two of the major items of his program to see what the House thinks of them. Mr. Mackenzie King may oppose them, on the ground that the government has lost the confidence of the people, and should forthwith resign.

Mr. Bennett may thereupon seize the opportunity to brand the Liberals as obstructionists, followers of a policy of inaction; and may make that his excuse to dissolve parliament and go to the people. But the Liberal leader is no mean strategist himself, and a good deal of skilful manoeuvring may be looked for.

We are getting, this year, more hints than usual as to the proposed legislation. Usually we have to wait until the Speech from the Throne, or later. This year we have already been told most of it.

Projected measures include:

- A National Unemployment Insurance Scheme
- Creation of a Department of Communications
- Creation of an Economical Council
- Further Extension of the Farm Loan Act
- Abolition of No-Par shares in federal company charters
- Reform of the Civil Service

When you add those items to the odds and ends left over from last session you have the raw material for a good 'long session. And yet they say the Printing Bureau has been ordered to have the voters' lists ready for a possible election in April. Some people think a vote in that month is indicated. Others think that the government doesn't want to be hampered either way in its choice of a date. My own guess in the meantime is July.

The House meets with some changes apparent, some familiar faces gone. The kindly white-haired dentist from Long Lake, Colonel Herb Lennox, one of the three members who wore a hat in the House regularly (his always had a red ribbon on it). Nicholson of Algoma W., and Black of Halifax, the oldest member of the House. Several new members are to be introduced. One is Col. Mulock, grandson of the Postmaster General in Laurier's cabinet, now the Chief Justice of Ontario. Colin Campbell from Frontenac Addington, the first Liberal to represent that seat in its long history. One familiar face back again: "Tommy" Church of Toronto, the despair of Hansard, whose speeches, full of meat and fury, intelligible, until printed, chiefly to himself. In the Senate there are 11 vacant seats, through death, some perhaps to be filled in the interim; all before a general election.

On the ministerial benches we lack Mr. Stevens: but he will be there as a private member, ready to speak out his mind. In his place we have another "R.B."—this time R. B. Hanson, from York-Sunbury.

Murray MacLaren has gone to New Brunswick to be Lieutenant Governor: Dr. Sutherland has taken his seat, and Hon. Grote Stirling, a quiet cultured gentleman from British Columbia, sits in as Minister of National Defence. If circumstances should ever make him Minister of War, it would be a strange thing, for he is the mildest mannered of men.

The Sixth Session of the Seventeenth Parliament it is: with a general election around the corner. I expect to have plenty of material for some searching Spotlights before many weeks are past.

SMILE AND SAY THEM.

If smiles were hard to form, and dear,
We all would greatly buy
This emblem of goodwill and cheer
To help the shadows fly;
And if we all would practise smiles—
Some faces grim would crack—
We'd scatter sunshine round for miles
And gather sunshine back.

If kindly words are made of gold,
And, somehow, this seems true,
We'd rush about to hear them told,
And strive to gain them, too;
And when we gained them we would learn
That they grow dull and cold
If quickly we do not return
Our kindly words of Gold!

So smile and show good-will and cheer,
And seem a kindred soul
To those oppressed by doubt and fear,
Who weakly press their goal;
Say kindly words, and scatter hope
Along a rugged way
Whereon weak toilers could not cope
Without a cheering ray.

How Farmers Blocked Road to Snow Plow

Efforts to clear the Lachute-St. Jerome highway by means of a snow-plow, were held up by the objections of civic councillors in two municipalities. Fortunately there was no ill feeling, and the weather has since solved the problem, enabling trucks to break through and join the city highway at St. Jerome.

In this connection it is interesting to read of road-clearing activities in the neighbourhood of Huntingdon, reported in last week's Gleaner as follows:

The parishioners of Ste. Philomene decided that the railways would have increased trade, and stopped the milk transport snow plow from clearing the road through that municipality, enforcing their decision by physical action. When the Côté snow plow attempted to come this way through the parish of Ste. Philomene a week ago Sunday, operators were confronted by farmers, armed with shovels and other instruments of agriculture. The farmers plied their shovels and piled the snow high in the centre of the road—so much so that the milk-dealers' plow could not pass.

But Ste. Philomene is on the route of the Provincial Transport Company service from Montreal to Huntingdon, which runs all the year round, and it happened that on Sunday morning there was a bus on the Huntingdon end of the route when the farmers put their resolve into action. And so the bus and its passengers were stuck at Ste. Philomene. Appeal was made to the municipal authorities to allow the plow to go through the parish so that the bus could reach its terminal. But the inhabitants were adamant. The road was going to remain closed—no plow should go through.

In despair the driver of the bus called the head office in Montreal. The prospect of having one of their buses frozen in for the winter at Ste. Philomene was not one the Provincial Transport Company favored, and so they sent out from Montreal one of their own powerful snow plows. And the barricades that the farmers had erected were scattered over the countryside, despite the protests of the defenders. The bus got through near midnight, and so did some of the milk trucks.

But every municipality is lord of its own domain, and al-

MEETING OF THE GORE FARMERS' CLUB

Over sixty persons turned out to the Fourteenth Annual Meeting of the Farmers' Club of Gore, which was held in Lakefield at the home of Mr. A. Tomalty on Tuesday.

After the adoption of reports and other matters pertaining to the Club for the past year, the following officers were elected for the year 1935:

President, A. O. Kerr; Vice-President, George Peet; Directors, G. F. Kuhring, A. F. Kyle, G. L. Rogers, Thos. McCambly, Lorne Dawson; Sec'y., Albert Tomalty.

An important feature of the evening was a debate on the following subject: "Resolved that the railroads have done more for the development of the country than the trucks." Each debating team was composed of three men, and after a well fought contest the judges, while not unanimous, gave the decision in favor of the affirmative.

Ever since this Club was organized close co-operation has always existed between the organization and the local Women's Institute, and on this occasion the ladies spared no effort in providing a splendid banquet, which concluded the activities of the evening.

The swashbuckling heroes of Baroness Orczy and Rafael Sabatini are recalled in a delightful film presentation, The Affairs of Cellini, next week at the Rex. Frederic March, as Cellini, "would be hanged if he'd kiss the Duchess... and he'd be hanged if he didn't!" Ludicrous situations of this kind make the picture one of interest from end to end.

Assault Case Tried at St. Jerome

The case of Lachute Town against Jas. Donlon, for common assault upon one of the towns' respected citizens, was heard at St. Jerome last Friday. Donlon was committed to a fine of $50 or 15 days in jail, and furnished a bond of $500 to keep the peace.

COAT THIEF IS QUICKLY APPREHENDED

ARRAIGNMENT THIS AFTERNOON

Excitement prevailed in town last evening, when one Olivier Lasalle, arrested for stealing a coat from the K. of C. Hall on Main Street, staged a get-away from Constable Brunelle while being taken to the lock-up. With his wrists manacled he suddenly bolted through S. S. Campbell's lane over the C.P.R. track, where he dodged around the freight cars and finally was caught near Paquin's Garage, but not before several shots had been fired.

It appears that Mr. Bourgeault had been at the K. of C. Hall, and when ready to go home he could not find his coat. Thinking that someone had played a joke on him, he walked across to Desjardins' Hotel. A young fellow happened to meet in with Mr. P. Lahaie on the street and pleaded for a dime with which to procure a cup of coffee. The coat he was wearing looked familiar and Mr. Lahaie invited the man to accompany him to Desjardins' Hotel. Here, upon entering the hotel, Mr. Bourgeault immediately recognized his coat, and the arrest followed. On Thursday afternoon Lasalle was brought before W. G. Rodger, Justice of the Peace, who, after hearing the evidence, committed him to stand trial at St. Jerome.

comingly gowned in a Cariocha red dress. Following the signing of the register the wedding party, which included the bride and groom, the mother of the groom, Mrs. Arthur Davis, of Morin Heights, Que., Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Deacon, Miss Louise Deacon, Miss M. Davis, Ottawa, Ont., Miss Evelyn E. Olsen, Victoria, B.C. and Rev. and Mrs. W. B. Rosborough all sat down to a full wedding breakfast.

The drawing room where the ceremony was performed was artistically decorated with talisman roses, ferns, daffodils and freshias, and an arch of tulle and wedding bell, under which the bridal party stood. The artistic effect was carried out in the dining room with American Beauty roses and lovely spring flowers. The table was very dainty, with white ribbon streamers and centered by the wedding cake.

A reception followed in the afternoon, when many friends came to offer their good wishes and congratulations. The Truck in Ditch is no Mere "Local Incident"

By R. T. Barrett in The Blue Bell

Never do the importance and extent of the country's telephone service become fully apparent until they are thrown into sharp relief against the background of everyday routine by the spotlight of an emergency. Often this emergency arises from some incident, trivial enough in itself and apparently purely local in its effect. A truck rolled into a ditch along the highway, recently, and caught fire. As a result, the telephone map underwent important, though temporary, changes and became dotted with detours. Flames, which licked skyward from the blazing truck and cargo, had put important coast-to-coast circuits out of service.

The truck crashed into a ditch about ten miles northeast of Fremont, at a point directly beneath two cables. It was loaded with hospital supplies. Two tanks of ether gas exploded and, almost instantly, giant flames were licking around the cables, melting the sheath and putting their circuits out of service.

The truck caught fire at 3.45 o'clock in the morning. Within a few minutes, the intense heat had eaten through the protective cable sheath, causing the gas pressure within the cables to drop and thus sounding a trouble alarm at the test-board at Toledo, forty miles away.

As dawn was breaking, telephone men left their beds to cope with the situation.

Quick action was imperative. The break had destroyed 542 pairs of telephone wires in both cables, including important press telegraph circuits and six pairs of special radio program wires.

The staff in the telephone bureau immediately began the job of setting up alternate cable routes. Lines were cleared for the early radio programs and press dispatches, and, throughout the day, facilities were provided for the heavy, long distance traffic. More than 140 "patches", or re-routings, were ordered by the bureau.

Meanwhile, the plant forces were busy restoring the damaged cables. The first pair of wires was put back in service four and a half hours after the break was reported and both cables were completely restored on a temporary basis within eighteen hours.

The weather has been favorable recently to automobile travel, and nearly all neighboring points are reported to be accessible by road. The St. Jerome highway, which presented untold difficulties to those who had endeavored to plow through, was opened up by trucks with little trouble, and local transport companies are running their regular express traffic to Montreal by this route. A sudden change today (Thursday) with a blizzard in force and heavy drifting of snow on the roads, will detract from the comfort of driving and present new difficulties in the way of motor travel.

Rev. H. H. Cousens was among those who officiated this week in the Service of Witness, attended in the Forum by immense crowds from the congregations of all Protestant bodies in Montreal. Rev. LIONS CLUB MEETING

The Lions Club of Lachute were fortunate in having as guest speaker, at the meeting held on Wednesday evening, Rev. Curé H. D. J. Brosseau, of Grenville. Curé Brosseau's address was found most interesting and thoroughly enjoyed by all.

In moving a vote of thanks to the speaker, Lion Rev. Henry Cousens expressed the hope of the Club that Curé Brosseau would honour them again with his presence at the first opportunity.

Lion Pres. Gaëtan Valois was boosted by Lion Henri Lavigne, Lion Valois' gifts being won by Lions T. K. Haller and Philippe Valois.

The next regular meeting will be held at the Cosy Inn, on Wednesday, February 6th.

DEATHS

HAMMOND—On January 11, 1935, at his late residence, George Hammond, son of the late Henry Hammond Sr. and his wife Eliza Ann Bradford, of Chatham, in his 77th year. The funeral took place on Monday, Jan. 14, from his late residence.

Hints for Homebodies

Specially written for Readers of the Watchman.
By JESSIE ALLEN BROWN

TRUTH IS STRANGER THAN FICTION

This story sounds improbable but it really is true. Many years ago a family living in one of our small Ontario towns bought a new table to replace one which they thought was too old fashioned. Not knowing what else to do with it, they stored the old one in the barn and it stayed there for some time. The boys of the family built a club house and the table was used in it for years with no thought of its being anything valuable. Later on the family scattered as families have a way of doing. After some time the daughter of the house became very much interested in old furniture and as she learned something about it she realized that the old table had been an exceptionally good piece and they often wondered what had become of it. Not long ago she and her brother were in New York and they went to one of the best antique shops for the joy of seeing some good furniture. To their amazement they found their old table priced at a fabulous figure. There was no mistaking it as marks and disfigurements which it had acquired in its club-house days were to be plainly seen. There are a good many who wish they could have the furniture their mothers or their grandmothers discarded as old-fashioned, even though they might not be as valuable as this particular table.

DISHES

To many housekeepers dishes are the bane of their existence. If they did not come so often, it would not be so bad. Lately I have been doing more housework than usual and I found that dishes were taking too large a proportion of time. I don't mind dishes. If I have to work I would about as soon do dishes as anything else. But it was taking too much time, so I tried to see what could be done about it, and I have lessened the time. In the first place, I found that I was making altogether too many trips from the dining-room to the kitchen when clearing up. Now, I stand at the table till everything is packed up, put the dirty dishes on a tray, and make one trip take the place of a dozen. That saves time. My next time-saver was to buy a dish drainer which cost 35 cents. I wash and dry the glasses, silver and any odd shaped dishes. Then I stack the rest of the dishes in the drainer after washing them and pour boiling water over them. Then they do not require drying. For this method to be successful, the rinsing water must be boiling and there must be plenty of it as the dishes dry themselves by evaporation. They are bright and shiny and certainly more sanitary than if dried by a towel. There are a few little tricks which make the work easier. If the dish water is heated in the dish-pan it will stay hot much longer as the hot pan holds the heat. Steel wool or a metal cloth is a great help with the pots and pans. I prefer steel wool as it is cleaner. When it has been used it can be taken. The quantity of dishes discarded and a fresh piece may be lessened by using oven dishes as much as possible. If you have not a supply, gradually add glass, pottery, or even enamel dishes to use in oven cookery, but which are nice enough to put on the table. If you feel that your dishes are taking too much time, pretend that you are a high-priced efficiency expert and inspect your own work with a critical eye to see where steps and extra work might be eliminated. I am enthusiastic about the dish drainer, but if your family is a large one you might need two of them as the dishes cannot be too crowded.

THOSE IMPERMANENT WAVES

Sometimes, it seems to me, that the term permanent wave is very much a misnomer. The first few weeks after a permanent, your hair is never at its best, no matter how good the permanent. Then it is just a matter of a few short months, and how few and how short they are, until it is difficult to keep the wave in the hair. During the period when the hair will still take a wave but will not retain it very long you will find that a comb wave will stay in considerably longer than a finger wave. Before you have a comb wave, see that the operator is using rubber combs and not celluloid ones as some do. I would hate to have my head under a dryer with celluloid combs in it. If you use combs to set your own hair that is a different matter as it will not be subjected to the same intense heat.

CHEESE SOUFFLE

- 3 tablespoons quick tapioca
- 1 cup milk scalded
- 1 cup grated cheese
- 3 egg yolks
- 3 egg whites
- teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Add tapioca to milk and cook in the double boiler for 15 minutes, stirring frequently. Add cheese and stir until melted. Cool. Beat the egg yolks until thick and lemon coloured and add to cheese mixture, blending thoroughly. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in a greased dish, placed in a pan of hot water, in a moderate oven of 350 degrees, for 50 minutes. Souffle is done when it shrinks slightly and is brown. This is one of the best cheese dishes and I recommend it specially.

CRANBERRY SAUCE

This sauce is not to serve with meat but to eat as a preserve. Bring two cups of sugar and 3 cups of water to a boil. Add 1 lb. of cranberries which have been picked over and cook until soft. Chill well before serving.

PATIENT SEES HIS OWN BRAIN

In a recent brain operation in New York, the patient, under a local anaesthetic, held up a mirror and watched the surgeons open his skull and work on his brain. It was said this was the first time in history such a thing had happened, but Dr. Samuel Miller, of Middletown, N.S., denies this. The doctor, who is 84, says he operated on one John Lee for abscess in the crown of his head before the time of modern surgical instruments. The instrument used by Dr. Miller and an assisting dentist had been made at the village blacksmith shop. Lee refused chloroform but took a large dose of opium instead. By holding up a mirror, he was able to look at his own brain after the doctor had laid open his skull. In three days Lee was back at work, and during the rest of his lifetime boasted of being the only man in the world ever to see his own brain.

BANFF BEAUTY WINTER QUEEN

Ski-joring behind a fast running horse; muscling with a team of huskies; skating; or skiing on the mountain trails all come under the heading of real sport, according to Miss Dorothy Standish, who reigns this year during the winter sport season in the Canadian Rockies. Visitors from many United States cities as well as from Canadian centers are enjoying all the thrills which only this area can provide, and which reach a peak during the annual Banff Carnival held this year February 13-17 inclusive.

GOVERNOR GENERAL A STRONG ADVOCATE FOR SCOUTING

Mr. Beatty, the President of the Scout Organisation in Canada, is just as much in earnest about this matter as I am. With his co-operation, an all-Canada Conference of Scout Provincial Presidents, and Provincial Commissioners, met in Ottawa last September, and decided to accept my challenge.

Organization for the Campaign, with this object in view, will begin tomorrow, and I am calling upon every adult member of the Association in every Province, and upon everyone who loves Canada, to lend a hand with this big task.

May I ask the people of the Dominion to do this for me? I would feel a great deal happier on the sad day when I return to England, on giving up my office, if I could report that the Scout Movement, which lays stress on loyalty to the Throne, had been firmly placed upon its feet for the next five years, and that plans had been completed for greatly extending and increasing its usefulness to Canada.

To be a good Canadian and a good Scout will always, I feel sure, be synonymous terms.

"EAT MORE BREAD" CAMPAIGN ON FOOT

In Canada we have our "Fish Week." Now a movement is on foot to get the people of the United Kingdom to eat more bread. A five year campaign is about to get under way with this object in view, according to the Industrial Department of the Canadian National Railways. The millers and bakers are said to be joining forces to endeavour to put the scheme across. If successful, it should mean greater imports of Canadian wheat.

The Revd. James Fraser — A Biography

The Watchman's recent announcement of the passing of our old neighbor, Donald McIntyre Dewar and the death this week of James Ross, gives opportunity for a little variety in recording the many activities in and around St. Mungo's manse in my uncle's time; not only was Donald Dewar, for a very long time an elder in old St. Mungo's Church, but he and his first and second wives were among very earliest attendants of the singing school which my uncle taught in the early days of the tonic sol-fa system. They continued to be regular attendants till it was finally closed. For over twenty years there were two classes a week, during the winter months, on Monday evening for the Juniors and Friday evening for the Seniors. After the regular lesson was over the choir practised the hymns for the church service on the following Sunday and often the good old songs and occasional new ones were sung with great merriment, for others who did not sing dropped in to listen and to take part in the social chat afterwards, while the coffee and cake were being served—or sometimes an apple, an orange, or a banana. At such times my uncle would read aloud the latest jokes from the Graphic, the Illustrated London News, or Punch, which some of his better-off friends had sent him from the city. He took this means of giving it the largest and quickest circulation, while he in turn sent them a long to brother ministers in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, where they doubtless enlivened the lonely homes of the prairies.

Thus old St. Mungo's every Friday evening was the rendezvous of the old Cushing families of Dewar, Noyes, McConnell, Bradford, Stephens, Smith, Mullin, Nichols, Nicholson, Webster, Cushing, Morrison, Davidson, Fuller, Schagel, Graham, Paton, Martin, Robinson, Fletcher, Miller, Gaston, Knox, O'Brien, Douglas, Cooke, Ross, Foreman, McVane, Owens, Byers, Innis, Welden, Conway, McKinnon, Foster, McCormick, Clark, Warwick, McGibbon, Canning, Sittlington, Wade, Lindlay, Brodie, Gownlock, McAdam and Craig. Occasionally the Kirbys, the Wymans, and the Greys joined this group at tea-meeting time and during the life of the Mutual Improvement Society, of which I will write later. It would now be much easier to write about the few still living, than to write of those of the past, when these social Choir Meetings dispersed, to rally again the following Sunday morning for church service. The choir was led by Miss Bradford, now Mrs. Jas. McAllister of Ottawa, at the organ, Benjamin Mullin, Alexander McKinnon, Donald Dewar, Robert Robertson, William and Alexander Wade, John Sittlington and James Miller in their rich male voices and the opposite sex joined harmoniously in the sounding chords, as pealing anthems swelled the note of praise.

OLD ARMOR IN MUSEUM

Ontario Institution Acquires Suit Made 600 B.C.

Hammered from bronze about 600 B.C., the only suit of scale armor in the world, a military uniform of the type worn by the Roman legions, is now the property of the Province of Ontario and is on exhibit at the Royal Ontario Museum at Toronto.

It was found in London by Professor C. T. Currelly, director of the museum, who has a flair for seeking out historically important objects.

The suit of armor was discovered 50 years ago in Lake Trasimene, to the bottom of which some poor soldier likely was dragged by its weight.

The scales are of bronze, hammered by hand, and graduated in size from the neck downward. The suit has one-piece epaulets of bronze, and the belt, which has medallions of bronze, also has a buckle which indicates it was made about 600 B.C. The suit formed good protection for downward blows, but offered little resistance to upward thrusts.

Old London Follows Montreal in Traffic Signal System

The official records of the Annual Meeting of the Canadian Railway Club has now been published, and we are interested to note, in the course of his address to that body, Mr. D. E. Blair, a past President of the Club, and General Superintendent of Montreal Tramways Company, who recently visited England, refers to the efficiency of the traffic regulation in the following terms:—

"I would like to refer to the efficiency of the traffic police, not only in London, but in all the larger English cities. They are agreeable, well-trained, polite, efficient and capable, and no one dares, or seems to care, to take a chance in disregarding the slightest signal from a policeman. The traffic light signals are being adopted, slowly over there. There are much fewer of them than in this country, but I was pleased to see that the automatic or traffic operated system that has been adopted in Montreal, is very strongly favored not only by the parliamentary committee handling these things, but by the municipal authorities. You see very few lights of any other kind in England."

It has been revealed in newspaper reports that London Traffic authorities sent envoys over here to observe how traffic was handled in Montreal, where an extensive system of automatic, traffic actuated lights, is in use. They reported favorably and the same system was installed at the strategic corners of the ancient city, and is now being extended to the Marylebone area, where fifty-five road junctions are being equipped with similar "robot" signals.

These signals, however, are somewhat different from those in use in Montreal, being modified to meet the special requirements of London traffic.

The proposed location of these first units of the new traffic system are shown in the accompanying diagram. Those who know their London will no doubt be able to amuse themselves by conjuring up the picture of any one of these familiar intersections, as it will now appear, compared with the good old days when their "Handsomcab", with supreme grace, drifted across the traffic junction without the guidance of signals.

Modern traffic conditions, however, have brought about a problem which can only be controlled by such traffic actuated "robots."

ANNUAL VESTRY MEETINGS IN THE PARISH OF LAKEFIELD

St. Paul's, Dunany

As is usual with this congregation, a spirit of quiet hopefulness prevails—a spirit fully justified by the splendid reports presented by the wardens, Messrs. Melvin Boyd and Leonard Gain.

The total receipts were considerably augmented by the addition of $50.00 raised by donations at Mr. D. T. Main's Regatta, and by $53.25 collected through the efforts of Mrs. Oscar McDougal.

The total sum raised in 1934 was $201.28. Included in this is $45.13, raised for the Missionary Budget of the Church. There is a substantial balance to begin the new year with, after all expenses are paid.

At the request of the Vestry, the Chairman expressed thanks of the meeting to Mrs. Oscar McDougal, in person, and to Mr. D. T. Main, in writing, for their kind help. Mr. J. Parkes, as usual in his unostentatious manner, helped forward the interests of the Church in every way. The officers re-elected were: Wardens, Mr. Melvin Boyd and Mr. Leonard Gain; Lay Delegates to Synod, Mr. F. Gain and Mr. James Parkes. Sincere appreciation was expressed for the services of Miss Marion MacVicar, as organist.

The Chairman, in closing, congratulated the Vestry upon the acquisition of a new stove and pipes, new lamps, etc., and for the cleanliness and comfort of the church building; on the exquisite condition of everything in connection with the altar, the tasteful decorations at Christmas; on the formation of the Women's Guild; the generous Christmas offering for the clergyman, and the grant towards transportation expenses. All these tokens of God's blessing were to be gratefully remembered. The Rev. Allan E. Mount, Locum Tenens, presided.

St. Aidan's Church, Louisa

This congregation reported steady progress at its Annual Meeting, held recently. The Wardens for 1935 are: Messrs. Joseph Boyd and Henry Neill; Lay Delegates, Synod, Messrs. Fred Newell and H. W. Mount. The Warden's report of finances showed a satisfactory balance for 1934 after all expenses; including $66.19 raised for roofing for the large church shed, the total raised by the congregation was $237.06.

The Chairman congratulated the congregation upon the amount of work accomplished by the few but faithful members, and referred gratefully to the generosity of members of Louisa L.O.L., who had donated $20.00 toward the expenses of re-roofing the shed. He also thanked the men who had voluntarily given of their time, strength and skill in this repair work, thus saving much expense. The energy displayed by the Wardens, loyally supported by the congregation, is example of what can be done by a few folk when all work unitedly together.

The contributions to stipend, Missionary Budget, transportation, Christmas offering, all were mentioned with appreciation by the Chairman.

St. John's Church, Shrewsbury

On account of the bad condition of weather and roads, it was thought best by the few present to postpone this meeting. It was therefore adjourned, but details will be supplied later.

CORNWALL VOTES AGAIN

Under an order issued by County Judge Francis I. Costello, who announced a decision setting aside the election of the reeve and deputy reeve of Cornwall township on December 3, it was announced that the new election to fill these offices will be held on January 23.

CANADIAN TOWN PLANNER AMONG DISCOVERERS OF MIGHTY FALLS IN BRITISH GUIANA

Mr. Leonard E. Schlemm, town planning expert, of Montreal was among the group of explorers to discover a great waterfall in British Guiana's hinterland last month. The falls, tumbling 500 feet into a rocky gorge, was named after the Duchess of Kent—and will be known as Marina Falls. This name was given to the immense sheet of water by the Canadian and American exploration party which discovered it dropping into the canyon through which the Potaro River rushes at a mighty speed toward Kaieteur Falls—tallest in the world—just 12 miles downstream.

To the Canadians it was a "spectacular and thrilling" sight. The huge waterfall, 100 feet wide, sent up great cascades of spray as it struck the waters below with a steady roar that drowned out the sound of their swooping aeroplane.

The party was searching for gold-bearing territory when the waterfall was discovered. E. Horne, of Montreal, representing a Canadian mining company, was in charge of the flight and with him were Leonard E. Schlemm and J. R. Lighthall, of Montreal, and W. Bracewell, chief of the British Guiana Geological Survey. The airplane was piloted by J. Arthur Williams, a United States flier.

DIRECT RELIEF DROPS

Direct relief distributed in Nova Scotia in the first 10 months of 1934 dropped by $378,000 from the same period of last year, according to announcement by Deputy Minister of Labor E. B. Paul.

Exclusive of wages received by workers on public relief projects, $1,226,249.51 was paid over to needy residents in the 1934 period, as compared with $1,604,621.36 last year.

The difference, according to the minister, was accounted for partly by improved industrial conditions in the province and in part by a closer regulation of relief distribution.

One element entering into the improvement was the curtailment of relief to single men living with their families. In such cases relief went to the head of the household only.

THE ANNUAL FARCE

The season for heavy reports to be sent to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics will soon be here and the annual practice of cooking up a few figures will have to be done.

This wonderful department has just issued a report on the Printing and Publishing Industry in Canada for 1933, which is pretty fair speed for this department to get out a report.

This report states that there were 767 establishments engaged in the printing and publishing industry in 1933, of which 68 were in Quebec.

This, on the face of it, is shooting far from the mark. There are 183 printers listed in the Bell Telephone Business Directory for Montreal alone.

McKim's Newspaper Directory lists 307 publications in the Province of Quebec. Of the latter, no doubt there are many cases where two or more publications are printed in one place but this would be more than offset by the large number of places doing general printing which do not publish a journal.

A very conservative estimate of the number of printers in Quebec would be three hundred. Evidently any figures which only cover less than a third of the industry must be useless.

Where is an M.P. with courage enough to show up the annual waste of millions of dollars to the Canadian taxpayers in keeping up the Dominion Bureau of statistics in its present form?

Holy Trinity Church, Lakefield

A well attended Vestry Meeting was held in the Gibb Parish Hall last Wednesday evening, when between 30 and 40 were present.

The Wardens' financial report showed a good balance after all expenses had been met. Total receipts were $528.86; expenses $371.55, leaving a balance of $157.31 for 1935.

In addition to the general receipts the sum of $436.63 was raised by the Trinity Branch of the W.A., $76.87 for the Missionary Budget.

The Wardens, Messrs. Wilbert Sherritt and George L. Rogers, were re-elected, as were also Messrs. Laurence Overing and Wm. Rogers as Lay Delegates to Synod, and Mr. Leonard Legg as Sexton. A hearty vote of thanks to the ladies of the W.A. for all their valuable help in carrying on the work of the church, was passed by this meeting.

The ladies served refreshments, after the meeting had been adjourned.

Much appreciation was expressed by the Chairman for the blessing upon the efforts of the congregation during 1934, especially as it had been a difficult year in some respects; their contribution to Missionary Budget, Christmas offertory, and in every need of this Church, the response had proven gratifying and worthy of all commendation.

MR. BENNETT.

(Financial Post)

Yes, indeed, Mr. Bennett has worked hard and even if the people of Canada, from their impatience with continuing depression, should fail to return him to office next year, Mr. Bennett should not regard this as an indication that Canadians feel that he has worked ineffectively or in vain. People do not always express their gratitude to their public servants in votes.

DISTRICT NEWS

CUSHING WEST

Mrs. J. F. Owens and daughter, Miss Geraldine Owens, of Stonefield, were guests of Mrs. Usher on Wednesday.

Mrs. C. F. Watson and Mrs. Usher were among those from this vicinity who attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Adam Dewar, at Grenville on Tuesday afternoon. The deceased lady, who had been ill for some time, was the mother of the popular and obliging mail-driver, Mr. Walter Dewar, of R. R. No. 1, Grenville.

The Messrs. Grundy, of Montreal, spent the early part of the week with their parents at Greece's Point, and also attended the funeral of their aunt, the late Mrs. Dewar.

CUSHING

Miss Alma Warwick is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Roy Dobbie, at present.

Mr. Wesley Morrow was in Lachute on Friday.

Mrs. Joseph Bradley and son, Ian, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dobbie on Friday.

There has been a turn-over in property recently here in Cushing. "Mair Farm", recently occupied by Mr. D. Lemay, is now the property of his brother-in-law, Mr. Desforages, Mr. Lemay having moved away.

A very pleasant meeting of St. Mungo's W. M. S. was held at the Manse on Tuesday afternoon of last week, and, as a good omen, the first meeting of the year brought a new member who was cordially welcomed to the ranks. Kind messages from absent members were read at this meeting.

Rev. J. W. Maclean attended the funeral of the late Mr. Walter Cushing in Montreal, on Tuesday of this week. Cushing residents extend their sincere sympathy to Mrs. Cushing and other relatives, in the loss of a kindly figure who was not only a real friend to Cushing people but to hosts of people with whom he was associated in Y.M.C.A. and other good works.

Sympathy is also extended to Mr. Dewar, faithful mail-carrier for this route, and to his relatives, in the loss of his mother, Mrs. Adam Dewar, whose funeral was held on Tuesday. The same expression of sympathy is extended to relatives of Mr. Donald Dewar, best known here as "Uncle Dan", a one-time highly respected resident of this place. A number of Cushing and Chateauboro residents braved the severe weather of Saturday, Jan. 12th, to pay last respects to their old neighbor and friend.

MORIN HEIGHTS

The W. I. met at the home of Mrs. J. D. Davis on Tuesday. Owing to bad weather not many ladies were present. It was arranged to hold a Valentine's Dance on Feb. 15th.

Mrs. Connely, who has spent part of the winter in Montreal, has returned home.

The Rustic Bridge Club brought another month's activities to a close on Wednesday evening last at the home of Mr. Chas. Campbell. Prize winners were as follows:

Ladies, 1st. Mrs. F. Watson; 2nd., Miss Hazel Watson; Gentlemen, 1st., Rev. W. J. H. Lummis; 2nd., Mr. Charles Campbell.

Consolation prizes were awarded to Mrs. H. Kilby and Mr. M. Seale.

Mr. H. Bragg and son, John, of Montreal, spent Sunday with the former's mother.

The Morin Heights hockey team played at St. Adèle on Friday last, the game resulting in a defeat of 6-3 for the Morin team.

Miss Edna Edge, of Montreal, spent the week-end with her sister, Mrs. A. Stapleton.

The January meeting of the Anglican W. A. was held at the home of Mrs. Kennedy on Thursday afternoon last. Plans are under way for a Sleigh Drive and Parcel Post Sale on Saturday evening, Feb. 2nd.

Mr. Douglas Cooke returned to Montreal, to his duties at the Montreal Technical School, on Sunday, after spending the past three weeks at his home.

Rev. C. Cushing spent a couple of days in Montreal this week, attending the funeral of his cousin.

Mr. Howard Dixon, of Dalesville, Que., was the week-end guest of Mrs. Wm. Swail, returning on Sunday accompanied by his wife and daughter, who have been spending the past two weeks here.

The Bridge Club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Veit last Thursday evening. The highest score was obtained by Mr. S. Cooke.

An Executive meeting of the Y. P. S. was held at the manse this week, for the purpose of drawing up a programme for the next three months.

The Y. P. S. and Girls' Guild were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carmen Grey, of Grey Valley, last Saturday evening. In spite of the 20-below-zero weather most of the young folks turned out and the sleigh load was on its way at an early hour. Upon arrival, and after a warm greeting by the host and hostess, games were played and an unusually enjoyable evening was spent by those present. Refreshments were then served and the young people left for home shortly after midnight. Much credit is due to Miss Lillian Bennett, who organized this party.

unto himself a bride, in the person of Mr. John Davis, whose marriage took place on Saturday, Jan. 12th., to Miss Edith Olsen of Victoria, B.C., a former resident of this place. To the newly weds the entire community take this opportunity of extending heartiest congratulations.

Two of our oldest residents, Mr. John Seale and Mr. Wm. Lacken, are on the sick list. Their many friends wish them a speedy recovery.

Mr. Richard Brown and family, also Mrs. D. Brown, have moved to the village for the winter.

The Ladies' Aid of the United Church met at the home of Mrs. J. E. Seale on Tuesday afternoon.

Monday, Jan. 14th., was an exciting day in this village, being the occasion of the election of councillors for 1935. The successful candidates are as follows: J. Douglas Davis polling 80 votes, Max Baume 77, Oscar Forget 73.

Miss Norah Coram, of Montreal, spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Syvret.

The Annual Vestry Meeting of Trinity Church was held on Tuesday evening, Jan. 15th. The Rev. W. J. H. Lummis presided. The report for the past year was fairly satisfactory. The Church Wardens were re-elected namely: Mr. Max Baume, Minister's Warden, and Mr. T. McCullough, People's Warden; Sidesmen, Mr. Paul Baume and Mr. Arthur Turner; Delegates to Synod, Mr. V. Harvey and Mr. E. Greene.

The Dramatic Club are holding a dance in Mr. Boyd's Hall, on Saturday, Jan. 26th. Keep the date open.

Mr. Gerald Boyd spent the week-end renewing old acquaintances in Lachute.

Alberta newspapers report that the cheaper motor car licences for 1935 have resulted in a rush to secure the plates thousands already having been sold. The reduced charges apply especially to cars up to 115-inch wheel base, and owners of such express high approval, which is natural. Perhaps the Government made a wise move in lowering the auto tax, while raising the gasoline tax a cent a gallon to seven cents. If more cars are out this year more fuel will be used.

Seed of Pine Trees

The spruce or Virginia pine bear seed early in life and make a fair seed crop each year. The shortleaf and loblolly pines bear few seeds before reaching 20 to 25 years of age, and then produce a heavy crop of seed every three or four years, with the intervening years being somewhat blank. The longleaf pine has a wait of six to seven years between its seed producing periods.

Envelope of Olden Days

Not Made to Be Licked

In the old days the flap of the envelope was not gummed as it is today, and every letter writer had to have a tiny wafer of sealing-wax on hand for fastening even a regular bought envelope. In 1840, however, an envelope with a piece of gum about a half-inch square fastened to the flap was put upon the market, and this proved so popular that the other kind went out of fashion.

When, about 1845, envelope makers began to gum the entire flap there was loud complaint that the glue required too much licking and also had an unpleasant taste. But in 1850 the use of mint in the gum had largely overcome this prejudice, and those who wished to seem up-to-date, especially in business circles, bought the new-fangled envelope. As late, however, as 1850 more than ten out of every hundred letters mailed in Great Britain used the folded last page instead of an envelope, and as late as 1855 such a substitute for the envelope was still exceedingly common in America.

Norwegian Elkhound Is Good Hunter, Watch Dog

The most ancient lineage among our domestic breed dogs, the Norwegian elkhound bows to no other, says an authority in the Detroit News. It was the companion of the Vikings, and has come down through the ages unchanged in conformity, bone and sinew. And yet it is strange that a dog with so many excellent traits to recommend it to the sportsman or home-owner should be among the least popular of our transplanted breeds.

In speaking of this dog, Bayard Boyesen, Eastern authority, says: "In Norway, until recent times, there was only one breed of dog. His skeleton was found in a stratum which geologists date 6000 B. C., and we are, therefore, safe in saying that he has come to us pure Nordic, with all his Nordic traits untainted. Hunter always, he was a comrade to the Vikings, has been herder of flocks and defender from wolves and bears, an aggressive guardian of lonely farms and a roamer with hardy men."

In his native land the Norwegian elkhound is still the peerless hunter of big game, especially moose, but serves his master equally well in hunting all game, even down to the lowly raccoon. It possesses the keenest of noses, plenty of stamina and heart and is a tireless worker. A friendly disposition and staunch loyalty for its friends stamps the breed as trustworthy and companionable.

Mollusks of Varied Color

Though the oyster is rather a drab creature for all his popularity, the mollusks of the tropic seas are of varied form and color. Most of them have single shells whose fancy shapes and brilliant colors have made them highly prized by collectors, and the structure of their bodies is often as singular as the striking beauty of their shells. For there are species with a distinct head, eight or ten pairs of tentacles, and highly colored eyes that have a pupil and double iris capable of keen vision. Coiled back in the throat is a tongue armed with rows of hooked teeth, while the tongue of snails and slugs are covered with tiny teeth too numerous to be counted. Not having the protection of two shells, as has the ordinary bivalve, they close the entrance to their home with a shell plate attached to the upper surface of their foot, a foot on which they crawl about like their relatives—the garden snails.

Ashburton Glassware

Ashburton is heavy brilliant glassware, and was said to have been shipped in large quantities to California during the gold rush of '49. It was made for beer, sarsaparilla, soda, lemonade and water, also sizes for cordials and champagne. This pattern is easily recognized, for it has a large loop below and an oval above, the stem being hexagonal. The pattern varies a little in that in some the top row of ovals connect, whereas in others they are separated. All are Ashburton, however. This was usually found in clear glass only, although there are a few rare pieces in green, amber and opaque white.

Freak Painting in Capitol

One of the paintings in the Capitol rotunda at Washington, which guides do not permit the visitor to overlook, has three arms. Lest tourists from abroad gape the impression that three-armed girls are the common thing in America, it is explained that the artist was probably dissatisfied with the position of arm No. 1, as first painted, and that after placing it in another pose, he either forgot to paint out arm No. 1 or painted it in colors that faded, exposing the original outlines from shoulder to finger ends.

No. 4.

Meeting of Agricultural Society Was 109th Annual

LONG HISTORY CROWNED BY RECENT YEARS OF MARKED PROGRESS

1935 FAIR DATES SET

It was evident that greater interest is now being manifested in the Lachute Fair, by the large attendance of members who gathered in the Court House last Tuesday for the Annual Meeting of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society. The organization thus marks its 109th annual gathering, and the latter years have shown marked strides in its standard among Agricultural Fairs, until Lachute has gained a very enviable distinction, not only from merit of its exhibits but because of the well-kept and spacious accommodations on the Fair Grounds. It is no idle boast to state that the grounds are unexcelled, anywhere.

Secretary-Treasurer Mr. A. Bothwell read the minutes of the previous meeting and presented his annual statement of finances, which was a most encouraging one. While there had been heavy outlays for rewiring of the grandstand and other necessary improvements, the Society still has a leeway to start preparations on this year's fair.

The election of directors then followed. Messrs. W. H. Ayers, J. H. Black, C. Tremblay, G. Mitchell, W. J. Rodger, James Hay, E. K. Wilson, Wm. Heatlie, Simon Wilson, Wm. Morrow, Jas. McKenzie, Geo. White, M. Maisonneuve and Jas. Murdock were appointed for the ensuing year.

The dates of the coming fair were set for June 12, 13, 14, 15.

Mr. Walter Nesbitt of Montreal, was present, and offered several valuable suggestions which were adopted, one of which was that the judging of light horses should be started on the opening day of the fair and that the rule of entries should also be strictly observed. This measure might cause a little hardship in the first year of its practice, but Mr. Nesbitt contended that, when it was recognized as an established rule, everyone would conform and much trouble would thus be eliminated.

Invitations are to be extended to the Federal and Provincial representatives to be present this year.

The new board are meeting on Monday, Feb. 4th.

CARPET BOWLING SCHEDULE UNDER WAY

The first two games of the Carpet Bowling League Schedule were played this week, the United Y.P.S. defeating Anglican Y.P.S. in the final count of 13 to 8. An enjoyable time was spent by all present, the engagement being filled at the United Church hall. The lineup was as follows:

Anglican Y.P.S.	United Y.P.S.
Miss M. Bernier	Miss V. Belanger
Mr. H. Sutton	Miss C. Miller
Mr. Cross	Mrs. P. Matthews
J. C. Skiffham	(Skip)—6

F. Sanford	A. Paulson
F. Stansfield	Mrs. L. Morris
Miss J. Valpy	Miss E. Jones
H. Stansfield	Miss E. Morrison
(Skip)—2	(Skip)—7
Totals—8	13

The second game was played between the I.O.O.F. and the Presbyterian Y.P.S. teams, on Wednesday night, the latter winning with a total score of 17-14. All present report a very good time. The teams comprised the following:

I.O.O.F.	Presbyterian Y.P.S.
G. Demerise	George Morin
L. Cruise	Miss B. Fazio
L. Morris	Mrs. H. Cousins
H. Cunningham	Cecil McFaul

FOOT AND MOUTH DISEASE IN ENGLISH CATTLE

A new outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease has broken out in England near Weymouth and Dorchester. Last week these two districts reported 500 horses, cattle and sheep were killed and burned in an attempt to blot out the animal plague.

Over the week-end 54 were destroyed at Weymouth and 30 at Dorchester. New cases have been reported throughout the district, and farmers have been forbidden to turn their livestock out into the fields.

PUBLICITY

The respective merits of newspaper and radio publicity are concisely summed up by a contemporary as follows: "An 'ad.' in the eye is worth ten in the ear." Aylmer Express

SKIERS IN MISHAP AT ST. SAUVEUR

Two Montrealers were injured—one of them seriously—in ski mishaps in St. Sauveur last week-end. Both injured men, experienced skiers, were taken to Montreal hospitals.

Henry Galley, of Montreal, 33 years of age, lost his balance and landed on a rock, while skiing down the famous "Hill 70." Companions rushed to his aid. He was conveyed to the Jewish General Hospital at Montreal, by train, and is reported as suffering from injuries.

Sydney Murray, 34, of Montreal, was also injured on the same hill. He was taken to the Royal Victoria Hospital suffering from injuries to his back.

MEN'S CURLING CLUB

The second round in the Jubilee Trophy games was played on Wednesday last between rinks skipped by J. P. MacKimmie and R. Todd, the result of which was but briefly mentioned in last Watchman, being the last game of that week. The play was tied at the fourteenth end, necessitating another end. With Mr. MacKimmie's rink lying shot and guarded, Mr. Todd delivered his iron and after a double wick lay shot, thereby winning 11-10, in what is considered a very rare and unusual game. Mr. Todd's quartet plays at Caledonia Rink on Thursday night. The teams:—

J. A. MacKimmie	S. S. Campbell
W. S. MacKimmie	Geo. Calder
Jno. A. MacKimmie	J. A. Rice
J. P. MacKimmie	Robt. Todd
(Skip)—10	(Skip)—11

The Houston Challenge Cup again changed hands on Saturday night. The challengers, under J. R. Charron, won by a score of 9 to 7. The teams were as follows:

D. Bates	S. S. Campbell
W. J. Deacon	R. Todd
J. W. Gall	J. A. Rice
G. Valois	R. Charron
(Skip)—7	(Skip)—9

Play for the Dunany Cup is still in progress, and is being played in the group system.

ANNUAL VESTRY MEETING, ST. SIMEON'S

The Annual Vestry Meeting of St. Simeon's Church was held on Monday, Jan. 14th., when reports were read from the Wardens and Societies belonging to the Church. While the total amount of receipts were lower than the previous year, all obligations were met and a balance carried forward into the present year. Election of officers resulted as follows:—Rector's Warden, Alex. Bothwell; People's Warden, S. Holt; Lay Delegates to Synod, And. Elliott and Jas. Morrison; Vestry Clerk, Robt. Miller.

Dave Campbell a Veteran of Hockey Campaigns

D. A. S. MacDonald, who writes a feature for the Montreal dailies entitled "Turning Back Hockey's Pages", last Saturday had an interesting tale to tell of Dave Campbell, a native and graduate from the athletic ranks of this town. Dave has served his time in hockey; he is well-known to hockey enthusiasts of a decade past, or even later, but the highlights of his sporting career are brought back in a refreshing vein, through the contributor's recent sketch to Montreal Star. Here it is:

Dave Campbell, referee and former amateur hockey player, knows his province of Quebec. Born in Lachute, he was the

FIRST HEALTH UNIT NOW OPERATING IN ONTARIO

Following the constructive example of health centres in Quebec, Ontario has adopted the plan, and the first unit of its kind in the province was organized last week in the County of Glengarry, not far distant from this section. Although apparently with headquarters in Glengarry, the Health Unit will cover the adjacent areas of Stormont, Prescott and Russell.

A limited measure of medical treatment and bedside care will form part of the Unit's program, and in public health work its personnel will work systematically in co-ordination with the municipal authorities.

LADIES' CURLING CLUB

Among activities of the Ladies' Curling Club, the final game for the President's Prize was played on Friday. The winning rink were:

Miss Janet McOuat, Mrs. H. Cousins, Mrs. F. A. Brennan, Mrs. Wm. Cottingham, (Skip.)

Doubles are being played for the Vice-President's prize.

Points for drawing are played every Monday.

MONTH'S ACTIVITIES OF ARGENTEUIL W. I.

Several branches, namely Frontier and Jerusalem-Bethany did not hold meetings this month, on account of stormy weather and the distance to be traversed by members attending.

Branches more favorably situated carried on, and Chatham reports a splendid attendance of sixteen members and five visitors, meeting at the home of Mrs. C. H. Jackson. The subject for the day was Child Welfare and Public Health. Dr. J. H. Mason was the speaker and dealt principally with the one of our most dreaded ailments, cancer. The roll-call was "Famous Mothers." A card party to be held for Relief Aid was planned for Feb. 1st. The members of Frontier Branch regret their inability to be present, and tender sincere thanks to the hostess and to the branch for the invitation.

Lachute received two new members into their ranks, and numbered an attendance of twenty-six, one being a guest. Their subject, Canadian Industries, was brought forward by the Convenor, Mrs. Leggett, who gave an interesting paper on "The Imports and Exports of Canada." Their roll-call was answered with Exports of Canada. Mrs. C. Duncan also gave an interesting talk on

CENTENNIAL PAGEANT WINS ACCLAIM
AUTHORS FOUND INSPIRATION IN LOCAL SURROUNDINGS

In the quiet, rural charm of this County last summer two men were tuning the note and plying the pen along the theme of a great presentation. It was to be produced in New York—a pageant—and in this city where demonstration must be spectacular and performance of the highest merit, their pageant must fill exacting standards. Yet there could be no sensational theme... no uproarious showman tactics... their composition must embrace the dignity and sanctity of great occasion, namely the centennial of St. Bartholomew's Church, New York.

Both Mr. Leonard Young, summer resident of Greece's Point, and Dr. David McK. Williams, in his country home here at Lachute, were aptly qualified for the undertaking. They visualized the distant setting, the celebration of the approaching January, and in quiet communion with these rural haunts they found inspiration for their pageant. It must be a work of rare quality; it must succeed... It did. The celebration was observed last week. The New York Sunday Sun pays tribute to its dramatic climax, in the pageant—an idea which crystallized and developed here in Argenteuil.

The week-end celebration of the one hundredth anniversary

GOVT. OUTLINES SYSTEM FOR UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE

30 CENTS A WEEK FROM BOTH WORKER AND MASTER, IS PLAN

The system of unemployment insurance which the government is providing for in legislation to be proceeded with this week, is not designed to take care of all the obligations of a person thrown out of work, but rather to help out the situation. Broadly speaking, it is understood, a man with a wife and three children would receive about $12 per week. In order to qualify for these payments it would be necessary to contribute to the fund for a period in excess of one year, although the period in which benefits may be derived would be somewhat proportionate to the period of contribution. The age and the sex of the contributor are also taken into account.

The benefits of the insurance scheme are not to be applied for by individuals. Instead it will be automatic in its application to industry in general. An exception could be made, probably, in the case of people who already have the protection of an allowance in times of unemployment. Many trades unions have such provision. It would hardly be applicable to those employed in the government service, but rather is designed to be for the benefit of workers in general.

Roughly, it is proposed that an employer should deduct from the pay of each worker 30 cents per week and to set aside a like amount as to the contribution of himself or his industry. The government would make a similar contribution.

These contributions will be the basis of the fund against unemployment and the same contributory principle will apply to protection against sickness and accident. The government will assume the cost of administration, which will be through a commission to be of the founding of St. Bartholomew's Church, came to an impressive climax with the presentation of the centennial pageant, "The Vision of St. St. Bartholomew."

The gorgeous costumes of the participants, with the marble and mosaic interior of the great church building, combined to make the spectacle one of the most splendid of its kind ever presented in New York City.

The performance was witnessed by members of the parish and their guests, who filled every seat in the vast church. Filling the first few rows of pews at this rare performance were the rectors of other Protestant Episcopal churches of the city, and a number of other distinguished clergy, all in full canonicals.

Written by Church Folk.

Leonard Young, dramatic instructor of St. Bartholomew's Community House, wrote the libretto of the pageant (says the Sun), while the music was composed by Dr. David McK. Williams, organist and musical director of the church. More than 200 of the younger members of the parish were in the cast.

The pageant portrayed the progress through the ages of the church in its development of the Christ ideal, using the figure of St. Bartholomew, and his questions to the Spirit of Christ, to point the story. The narrative dealt, not with Christ in Heaven, but Christ on earth, living eternally in the hearts of men. It depicted the church being led through the ages to "a recognition of the truth that there is no God higher than the God who dwells always in the midst of humanity."

INDEPENDENTS' SPURT IN WEEK'S HOCKEY

A refreshing turn in the week's hockey was an evidence of growing strength in Lloyd Cruise's squad of Independents. In two instances they have given Brownsburg a good run for their money, taking a narrow defeat at each game. On Thursday last the score was 2-1, and on Tuesday 6-5. The latter was an interesting and close game, as Independents caught up on a three-goal setback, and the score advanced to 4-4 and 5-5, Brownsburg scoring the decisive count only in the last minutes of play, which ended 6-5.

Independents' 3-2 victory over Ayers Limited on Saturday was somewhat less of a triumph, as Ayers were admittedly short-staffed.

The remaining game was between L.A.A.A. and Ayers Tuesday on local ice, while Independents were playing Brownsburg at the latter's rink. L.A. took the short end of a 6-2 score.

Tonight's fixture, in which Independents clash again with the Mills team, should afford a good-keen match.

STUDY YOUR COMPOSITION

It is quite obvious that pictures of groups of people, or animals, such as the horses shown above, should be taken with the camera in a horizontal position, while arches, high waterfalls, etc., should be vertical.

NEWSPAPER cameramen are sometimes sharply criticized by those who consider photography as an art, for various faults in composition, lighting, shadows, etc. These critics may be right but they do not stop to consider that the news cameraman must take his picture when he can get it and often on the run. It's the picture of an individual or action he is after and heaven help him if he returns to his city editor and says, "Sorry chief, but I didn't get that picture of the mayor being slugged. The sun was in the wrong position, the shadows terrible and the mayor was in an atrocious pose when he was struck". Ooh!—Shudder to think of what would happen to that cameraman!

There is one point, however, we can all learn from the news cameraman and profit by it in taking more interesting pictures. It is this. Include only the principal subject in a picture. In other words, if you are taking a picture of an individual or a group, focus the lens on the principal subject and forget about the sharpness of the background or the surrounding scenery, building, or whatever it may be, unless the background is of some importance and is part of the story.

If you are taking a landscape picture determine before you "shoot" the most attractive view and concentrate your focusing on that spot. Two pictures showing two well composed and attractive scenes are worth many snapshots with innumerable points of possible interest. Then there is the shape of the picture to consider. First of all this is controlled by the way the camera is held—vertically or horizontally.

A high waterfall for instance, or a single figure standing in a high doorway, obviously should be taken with the camera in a vertical position, while, on the other hand, a landscape, a herd of cattle or a scattered group of people should be snapped with the camera held horizontally.

Although the right camera position has been chosen, trimming may be advisable to cut out unattractive or unnecessary details which were not noticed in the finder when the picture was taken. This can be done by masking the film when it is printed to eliminate too much sky or objects at either side of the picture that may distract the attention from the view you had in mind at the time you took the picture. Occasionally, it is advisable to trim away the background altogether and mount the principal subject as a cut-out on the album page.

Ovals, circles and panels are shapes which suit various types of subjects, circles making attractive frames for portraits. The size of the circle and its position with regard to the head must be left to individual taste, but where the head is not shown in full front view, more space should be left on the side toward which the face is turned.

Trimming will often enable a drastic change to be made in the composition of a picture. Trimming the print at top and bottom to make a long, narrow, horizontal panel is often very effective. If you are not quite satisfied with your print use four pieces of paper as a mask and you will readily see if trimming will make a great improvement. Try it.

BOY SCOUTS THE WORLD OVER

A Modern "Man Friday"

Emulating Robinson Crusoe's "Man Friday", Lord Baden-Powell, while visiting Kuala Lumpur, Malaya, on his way to Australia, stepped in some clay. The footprint was baked in a fire, and is being kept as a memento by the Scouts of Malaya.

Youthful Ambassadors of Commerce

The State Council of Ceylon granted 3,000 rupees to the contingent of Ceylon Boy Scouts attending the recent Australian Scout Jamboree, the money to be used for the purchase of Sinhalese goods for exhibition at the international gathering.

Mental Cases Helped by Scouting

The utilization of the Boy Scout training, suitably modified, for handicapped boys in various institutions in England, includes a troop in Nottinghamshire for mental cases. The troop has achieved marked success, eight boys having passed the First Class and seven the King's Scout tests.

No Indian "Caste" for Scouts

The All-India contingent at the Australian Scout Jamboree

included boys from the North-West Frontier Province, the United Provinces, Dhenkan and Assam. Although of many different religions, the boys ate together and shared the same meals. Before the boys became Scouts "caste" would have made this impossible.

Filling B.P.'s Stockings

While not aspiring to "fill Baden-Powell's boots", candidate Scouts of the 7th North Brighton Boy Scout Troop, England, will hereafter, at least temporarily, fill his stockings. They will be invested as members of the Scout movement while wearing a pair of Scout stockings formerly worn by the Chief Scout. The stockings were offered by "The Scout" magazine to the troop suggesting the best use of them.

SNOW THAT PACKED

Little Freddie made a snowball. Oh so large and round, That his fingers could not hold it. And it tumbled on the ground. It rolled and rolled down the hill, And what do you suppose? It grew and grew and grew, until, A huge snow-boulder rose. Wee Freddie watched it grow and grow, Then to his mother ran, To ask, if he rolled down that hill Would he grow into a man?

KRINKLY KRUM

"Follow me!" shouted Krinkly Krum with a chuckle, and sped away towards the pine tree.

Marjorie wanted to follow him very much and tried to do so, but she sank deeply in the soft snow. She did not know why she laughed as it was not a time for laughter, at least not for Marjorie, who as a rule hated plunging through snow. But she found herself laughing heartily at her clumsy attempts to follow Krinkly Krum to the tree. Echoes of her laughter sounded on all sides of her. She stopped to listen. "Where do all those echoes come from?" she said, half-aloud, making another effort to extricate herself from the snowbank.

"Laugh again and see!" said a mocking voice from somewhere behind her. She looked over her shoulder but could see nothing but snow gleaming in the moonlight. "Krinkly Krum, Where are you?" she called. "Where do you suppose?" said another voice from somewhere beside her. "I have never been very clever at guessing riddles," Marjorie called back in a gay voice. She was beginning to enjoy the situation. "Voices, voices, everywhere there's voices", she sang gaily, and laughed again. Immediately her laughter echoed from all directions. At least it appeared to, but Marjorie listening intently could tell that the sounds were not just echoes of her own laughter but the laughter of little snow fairies whom she could not see.

"Come out all of you!" she challenged. "I have guessed who you are." "Have you indeed?" a saucy voiced called back, "if you have guessed, you might gratify our wishes by telling us who we are." "You are the subjects of Princess Snowball and friends of Krinkly Krum", said Marjorie. "You are quite right" said a voice so close beside her that she turned quickly to look and, losing her balance, went plop down into the snow. "Here, here!" said the owner of the laughing voice, "that's not the way to walk in snow. You should walk on top of it, as I do." "But you are so light!" Marjorie objected, "it is quite easy for you to walk on top." "It will be easy for you too, when we get you shod."

"Shod!" echoed Marjorie in surprise. "Yes, shod!" mimicked another little cracked voice from the other side of her. "Krinkly Krum has gone to get your shoes right now. It will take our shoemaker longer to fix your shoes, for your feet are so immense."

At any other time Marjorie would have been offended if anyone had told her that her feet were immense, but being told at this time struck her very amusing; she sat down on the snow bank and laughed until the tears ran down her cheeks. The little snow fairies laughed too, and danced about her until one of them noticed her tears. "Diamonds, diamonds!" he shouted, "Golden Locks is a diamond mine." All the little snow fairies darted forward to catch the diamond teardrops before they reached the snow, until Marjorie was surrounded with them. They crowded each other until they were dancing lightly on her knee, on her shoulders, and touching her cheeks and hair. She was beginning to feel almost smothered, and wished that Krinkly Krum would hurry back. "Oh Goody!" she said suddenly, "here he comes." She had seen him skipping towards her from behind the pine tree.

"Hey! all you folks!" he shouted. "Why are you crowding Golden Locks so! You are making her quite uncomfortable. I did not coax her out to be made uncomfortable."

"We were just gathering diamonds," one little fellow replied. "Look at all these diamonds she has brought us." Marjorie looked at the speaker, who held a shallow basin of moonbeam gold in his hands, and saw it was filled to the brim with tiny diamonds. "Tears of laughter," said Krinkly Krum quite softly, "crystallized into diamonds. How pleased Princess Snowball will be. We must take you to her at once. Now if you will sit quite still Tinker Tom will put on your shoes. . . Once shod with these fairy shoes, you will be able to travel as swiftly as we can, and dance just as lightly."

Marjorie sat very still, although it was quite hard to do so, as Tinker Tom's queer, claw-like fingers tickled her feet right through her shoes; these were shaped like skis, yet were quite small and light. Marjorie just sat and admired the dainty whiteness of them, and the dear little curled-up tassels which looked like miniature icicles as they glistened in the moonlight.

Quite suddenly above her head a voice started chanting "Away we go, away we go, Over the garden wall, And over the tree-tops tall."

Before the singer had finished chanting the first line a great flurry of little snow-fairies began. Up and up they went, away over the garden wall. Up and up and up Marjorie went, with them. What a delightful feeling it was to be hurrying through the air like this. Marjorie did not stop to wonder where she was going; she just fluttered happily along with the others, over the pine tree where Hootie sat glaring at them with his big yellow eyes. Over the big barn roof, on and on and on.

Flagship Santa Maria Ninety-Five Feet Long

The dimensions of the Santa Maria, the flagship of the squadron of three vessels commanded by Christopher Columbus during his famous voyage of 1492, which led to the discovery of America, were as follows: Length between perpendiculars, 74.12 feet; extreme length of ship proper, 95 feet; length over all, 128.25 feet; breadth, extreme, 25.71 feet; depth of hold, 12.46 feet; displacement, fully laden, 23 tons; weight of hull, 90.5 tons; burden, about 100 tons; complement, 72 men.

Her armament consisted of eight pieces, two lombards firing stone shot weighing two pounds, and six falconets of wrought iron firing stones 13 ounces in weight.

These dimensions are from a description of the ship given in a catalogue of the collections in the Science museum of South Kensington, London, compiled by G. L. Overton, A. R. C. S. A rigged model of the Santa Maria was presented to the museum by the Spanish government in 1923.

Descriptions of the other vessels forming the squadron—the caravels Pinta and Nina—are not so readily available, records only disclosing that they were of about 50 and 40 tons burden respectively, and each having a complement of 18 men.

THIS ITEM TRAVELLED

Here is something new, if not something out of the ordinary. It comes from a writer in The Amherstburg Echo who suggests that unemployed be given work on the farms, not as ordinary hired men, but in painting barns with paint supplied by the government, or putting up fences, with wire supplied, and generally fixing up properties whose owners have been unable to spare the cash lately. He said he got the idea in Quebec where he saw so many white barns that he asked the reason and was told that the provincial government supplied the paint, providing the owner would put it on the barn.

RADIO PROGRAMS FOR BURNS' NIGHT

The Radio Commission's Cotters' Saturday Night program which is to be broadcast on January 25 at 10 p.m. EST. from Sydney, will be in keeping with accepted Burns' lore. The quartet will sing "There Was a Lad Was Born in Kyle" and the numbers will include "Scots Wha Hae" and the "Star of Robbie Burns". The program will conclude with the ensemble in "Auld Lang Syne". Excerpts from Burns' poems will be read in the course of the program.

TAY BRIDGE DISASTER

(Ottawa Journal)

There have been a few outstanding tragedies in the world's story which have photographed themselves on men's minds so that neither time nor circumstances seem able to obliterate them. The Lisbon earthquake, the last day of Pompeii, the loss of the Titanic, these are instances of them. What happened this night in 1879 is yet another.

It is one of those stories which are quickly told yet leave much to the imagination. The necessary facts to bring it to the mind, to conjure up the horror of it, are few indeed. We need only to know that in 1878 the first great bridge over the River Tay, in Scotland, was built. It was nearly two miles long, and 80 spans, and was 90 feet high. One of the wonders of the world at that time, it was destined to stand but a few months. On this night in 1879 the sun went down in a wreck of scattered clouds. There was a high wind which increased in velocity till it blew with tremendous force sweeping up the river at incredible speed.

In the blackness of that terrible night a train with its human freight rushed across the bridge, but never reached the other end. In an instant 13 of the great spans were lifted bodily, swayed a moment over the black waters of the river, and then crashed with the train and all who were in it.

Out of time into eternity they went. The world shuddered. So, at that great price, was brought the knowledge whereby a stronger bridge was built.

Yes! PLYMOUTH

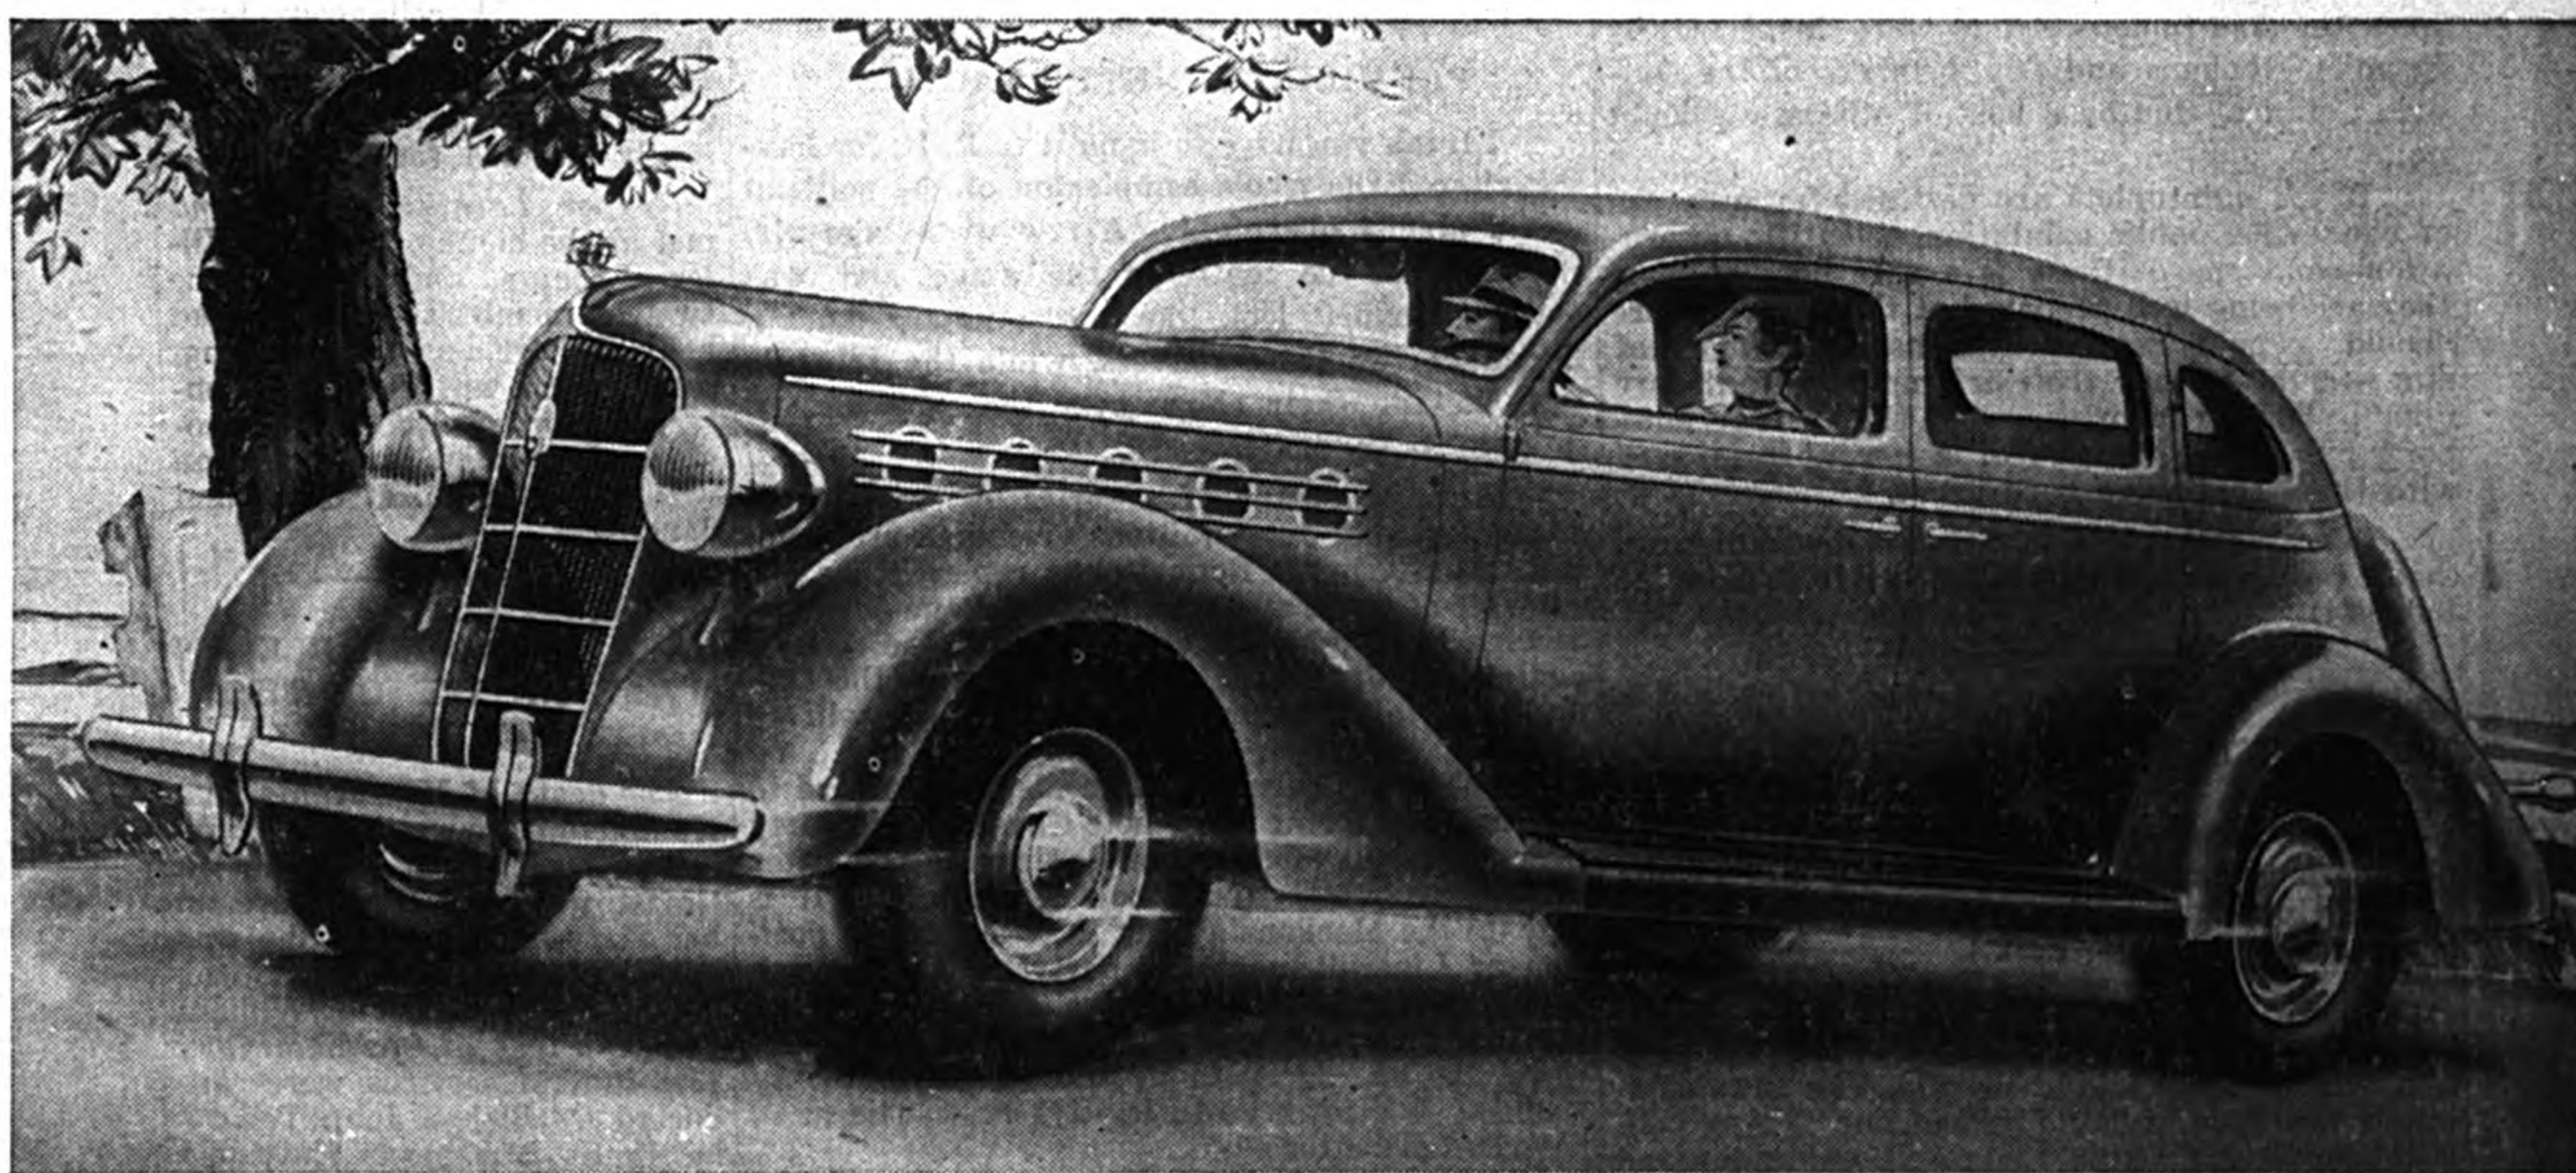

has adopted many of the Engineering Principles which made Airflow Chryslers the easiest riding cars on the road . . . anywhere . . .

EVERYBODY wants a car that glides along, even over the roughest roads. . . A car that you can ride in all day and arrive fresh. . . A car in which you never feel engine vibration. The new PLYMOUTH with Floating Power Engine Mountings gives these qualities to an incredible degree.

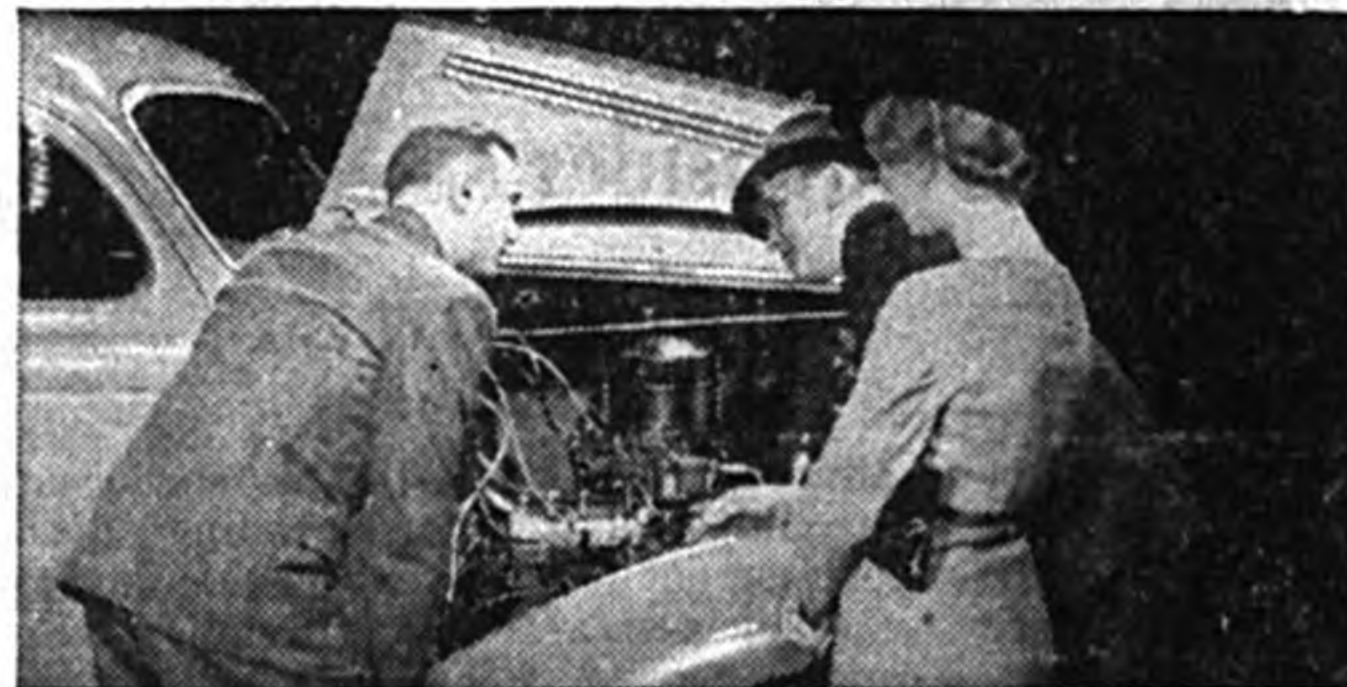

PLYMOUTH gives you 6-way safety. No other car in the lowest price field does. (1) Plymouth has an All-Steel Body, reinforced with steel. . . (2) More powerful Hydraulic Brakes, that prevent your car from swerving when the brakes are jammed on hard. . . (3) Double-drop X-type frame, built to conform to the shape of the body and bolted to the body at 46 points, making the body and frame reinforce each other. . . (4) Lower centre of gravity, causing the car to hug the road. . . (5) Plymouth is equipped with a new type front end Sway Eliminator that holds the car level on the turns and over rough roads. . . (6) It has sensational "pick-up" and "get-away" to pull you out of any tight spot you may be in.

Now you have Sensational Beauty, Smoothness, Safety, Economy and Long Life in the New Plymouth. . . But you really cannot satisfy yourself that these things are true until you SEE the car—and RIDE in it. By all means Ride in the New Plymouth. . . Do it today!

Compare All Three Lowest Priced Cars—Ride in all three. . . We know if you do that you'll pick PLYMOUTH.

These advancements make PLYMOUTH an amazing value

The Plymouth Engine is NEW. It has water jackets extending the full length of the cylinders—Vacuum controlled spark—Floating Power engine mountings.

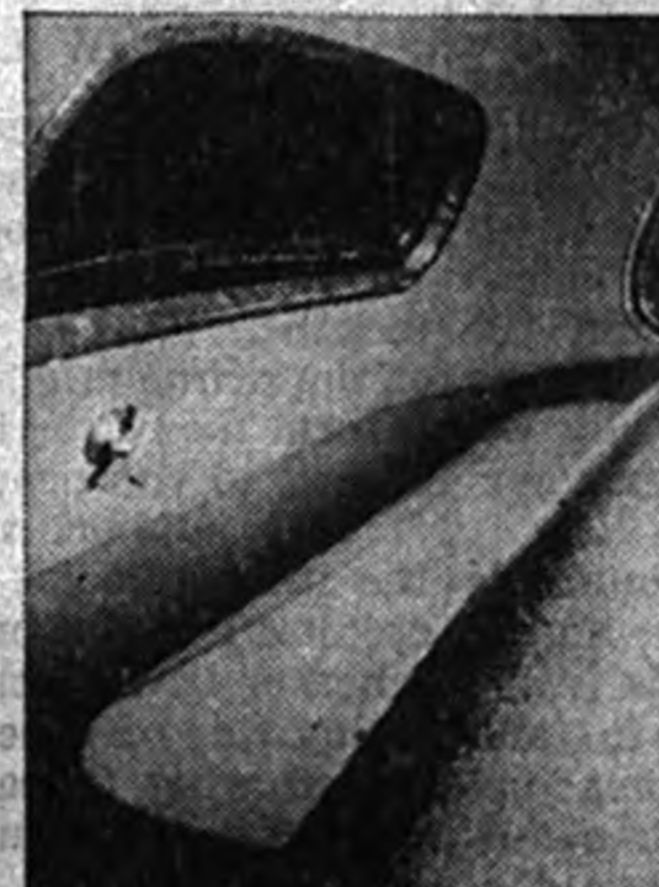

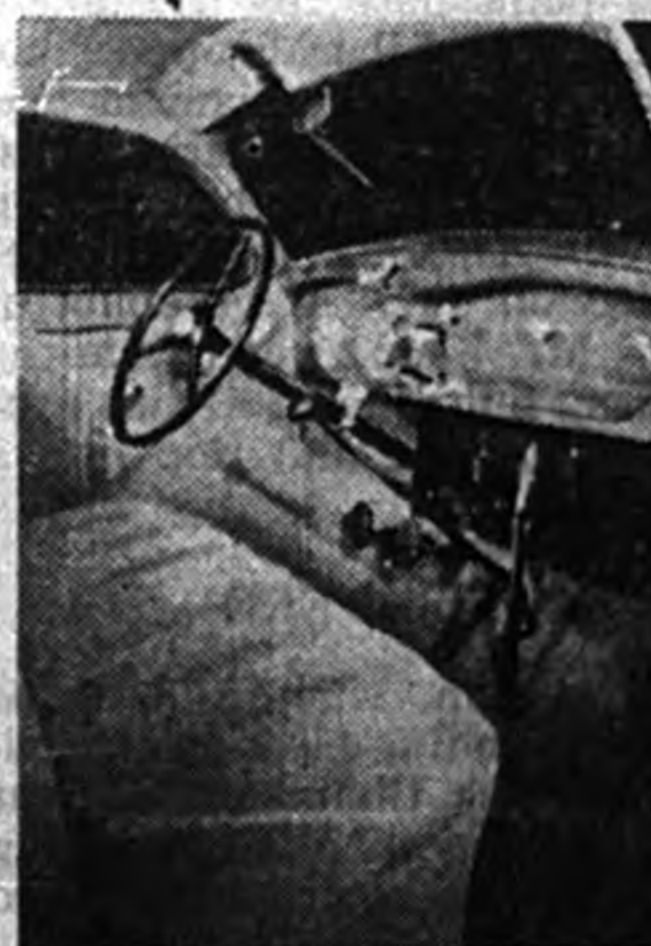

A glance at this instrument panel tells the story. Speed, temperature, gasoline, oil pressure, are instantly visible. The extra large glove compartment has a thousand handy uses.

A symphony in streamlines—Fenders, rear lights, spare tire and flaring tail accentuate the aerodynamic styling that makes Plymouth the most beautiful car in the lowest priced field.

Wider than in any previous Plymouth, this comfortable front seat assures Plymouth drivers of added ease—and comfort never found before in a car of Plymouth's price.

Fully eighteen inches wide, this handy shelf in the coupé models is a convenience that will win the instant approval of every owner.

Beauty unmatched in other low priced cars—New louvers trimmed in modern chromium add an air of flashing speed.

WAS THERE LIGHT IN THE DARK AGES?

Over 35 members of the Quebec Legislative Assembly visited the Provincial Museum last week. The most antiquated exhibit was that freak of legislation which leaves unlighted vehicles a menace to modern highway travel.

SOME ARE BORN GREAT . . .

—And some have greatness thrust upon them.

It is probably in this latter class the Dionne babes will find themselves, in their adult years when peace becomes precious at any price. This week the five famous sisters were inspected by Premier Hepburn and two members of the Ontario Cabinet—and by a host of others, we doubt not.

If the quintuplets are destined for a career of vaudeville, public exhibition, scientific observation—and one of these is a safe bet—at least they are being well prepared at the start. There should be no nervous symptoms, no tremors of stage-fright to mar their triumph. Infants are notably lacking in privacy, but the average newborn babe lives the life of a hermit compared with these that were born great.

(The Watchman also claims a distinction . . . this is positively our first reference to the Dionne babies!)

WHY THESE ACCLAMATIONS?

(This has no relation to elections in Lachute; nominations have not been entered, and results are still open to conjecture as these thoughts occur at the editorial desk.)

There are elections and elections. Parliamentary seats are filled invariably by an election with a contest, and usually, like the Scotsman's beverage, a "guid strang one." Any constituency that fails to raise a tussle and a tall expense sheet for the honors entailed, is considered flat and of little consequence beyond one vote in division. So long as party politics play their part in government and drag upon the course of national legislation, elections for parliament will continue to be elections.

But in municipal and county government, things are different. Contests are becoming fewer every year, particularly in the smaller communities and rural sections. Why is this? Municipal affairs, for one thing, have discarded party politics. These may have their influence in city and metropolitan appointments, but the typical Canadian town has done with politics as far as its own administration is concerned. We believe this statement is, in general, not exaggerated.

Another factor which we believe accountable for fewer contests, is the indisputably higher grade of service among our civic officials in recent years. The golden years of graft and racket brought the worst type of public men into service, and by their fruits they were condemned. Subsequent years of depression have focused our gaze upon civic government as a business more directly concerning us as taxpayers. We have elected our representatives accordingly, and, as noted, with fewer campaigns, conflicts and arguments with our neighbors. So, as our leaders have been purged in the fire of closer scrutiny, the finer type of servant has come forward for office. He is one usually recognized as a community builder, a selfless man with his community close to heart . . . And there are fewer contests; for a good man commands respect where public opinion is the strongest.

Our conclusion may be wrong. But these acclamations are certainly no sign of public indifference; a healthy interest in public affairs is everywhere self-evident . . . We prefer to believe that, though an era of distress and hardship, we have come to govern our towns with greater harmony. We have brought to light the finer civic spirit, and to office a finer public servant—one whose election costs us less and causes fewer uproars in our neighborly progress.

The Ottawa Spotlight

A Weekly Review of National Affairs
Specially written for The Watchman
By Wüfrid Eggleston

Ottawa, January 22.—Parliament opened in the wildest blizzard of the winter. Possibly a symbol of the kind of political weather we are heading into. The snow flurries cramped the style of the pageantry outside, but the show inside was as fascinating as ever. The Senate Chamber was a casket of color and design: Bessborough picturesque as ever in his plumed helmet; Lady Bessborough queenly in a blue gown; young master George Neuflyze, two and a half, listening to his father read the Throne Speech: the justices of the supreme court in crimson silk and ermine, seated on the Woolsack: the Galleries a mosaic of costly gowns: the war murals along the Chamber looking a bit out of place with their scenes of conflict and their shell-wrecked edifices.

The pomp and luxury of the opening don't seem exactly to match the tales of hard times which still flow in from all parts of Canada, but if you criticize the extravagance, people say: "It means work for the florists, the dressmakers, the caterers and the photographers."

THE SPEECH FROM THE THRONE

The Speech from the Throne was quite meaty. Where are those guys who said that the legislative program would be light? Check over the main items: unemployment insurance, health insurance, improvement of old age pensions, reform of the civil service, regulation of trade and commerce, legislation against the high-pressure salesman and the company promoter, an Economic Council, an inquiry into the Borstal system of paying inmates of penitentiaries for their labor . . . Is that a light program.

Of especial interest to the farmer is the announcement that some further extension of farm loan and other credits is in mind. Also the promise of an inquiry into the whole national debt problem to see if the burden of interest can't be lightened.

PREMIER BENNETT'S TACTICS

I think you have to hand it to R. B. for having altered the whole complexion of the political world almost overnight. A few weeks ago Mr. Stevens had the centre of the stage and was making Bennett look like a reactionary and a friend of the Big Interests, while the Liberals were licking their chops over the easy victory in sight at the polls.

Now, by means of a series of radio addresses and an ambitious reform program, R.B. 'Shaftesbury' Bennett has replaced the ex-minister of trade and commerce on Page One, has become overnight the champion of the people against St. James St., and has some of the Liberal chieftains worrying about what he will do next.

One thing sure, the Liberals can't afford to let him handspring the whole Conservative party over the heads of the Liberals, leaving the latter holding the tattered banner of Reaction. It is now up the Mackenzie King to re-assort the position of Liberalism as the party of the masses and the party of progressive action. In this business of party outbidding party toward reform, the average man in the street is pretty tickled. Let them go to it, says he. The more reform the better.

And the 'south-east corner' of the House, where the C.C.F. members, the United Farmers and the Labor members sit, can do a little quiet chuckling, too. They have been the pioneers of a lot of the measures which are now to get governmental sanction.

HOW LONG A SESSION?

The announcements in the Throne Speech suggest a long session. Surely an ambitious revolutionary program of that sort couldn't be placed on the statute books in less than six months. And at this point note the astuteness of the prime minister. If the Liberals oppose his reform measures he can dissolve parliament and appeal to the people to defeat the reactionaries. If they support the measures, and they get on the statute books, he will naturally expect to get credit for them on election day. It is doubtful whether by any means Mr. Bennett can stem the rising tide of Liberalism, but at least he has converted what threatened to be a dull flop into a fairly exciting contest.

ELECTION ATMOSPHERE

All through this session, whether long or short, the ghost of an impending election will always be hovering about the Chamber. It was there even on the opening day. Mackenzie King wanted to know how soon the voters' lists would be ready.

Too bad about Speaker Black. Bowman will be a good man, I think.

MONTH'S ACTIVITIES OF ARGENTEUIL W. I.

"The Gathering of News in Canada by the Canadian Press"

Lakefield's special subject was Immigration, a paper being given by the convenor, Mrs. G. L. Rogers. The Roll-Call was answered with the name of a noted immigrant. This branch entertained the Farmers' Club at a banquet, at which over sixty sat down in honor of the Farmers' Club Annual Meeting. The latter organization staged a debate, "Resolved that the railways have done more for the development of the country than trucks." The affirmative side won.

Morin Heights featured three subjects on its program—Agriculture, by a discussion on Conservation of Wild Life and Reforestation; Canadian Industries, by a talk on the Balance of Trade, showing increases over previous years; Canadianization, by a review of National Events during the past year, by Miss Bragg. The roll-call was "Noted Canadian Women". The study of Legislation brought to notice the change in parliamentary act whereby children born in Canada will be designated as Canadians. Possible contact with a branch in Wingo, Kentucky, was introduced by the reading of a letter from Mrs. Lewis, giving information concerning their Club, their industries and agriculture, and soliciting return information on Quebec Institute activities.

Pioneer had thirteen members, naming some foreign race in Canada in response to their roll-call. Miscellaneous business took up the remainder of the time, preventing the program of Legislation night previously planned for.

Upper Lachute - East End met at the home of Mrs. G. Miller, Lachute, and after the twelve members present had held a short business meeting, the evening was devoted to entertainment of the young people and friends in connection with this branch, at cards and dancing.

LATE MRS. HAMBLETON WAS NATIVE OF THIS TOWN

The death of Mrs. Annie Law Hambleton occurred on December 27th., 1934, at her home in Goffstown, New Hampshire, in her sixty-ninth year. She was born here in Lachute, Dec. 5th., 1866, the daughter of William and Jean Law of Chatham, Que. The funeral services were conducted by Bishop John T. Dallas in St. Matthew's Episcopal Church in Goffstown.

Members of the immediate family include the widower, George Hambleton; a daughter Ariel, Mrs. Lewis Richards of Nashua, New Hampshire; two sons, Maurice W., also of Nashua; A. Kenneth Hambleton of Goffstown, and three grandchildren, George and Winston Hambleton of Nashua, and Kathleen Mary of Goffstown.

Mrs. Hambleton is also survived by three brothers, William, of Montreal, Que.; Allan of Wabeno, Wisconsin; Charles of Fillmore, Calif.; and five sisters, Mrs. Mary Miner of Denver, Colorado; Mrs. Emma Reynolds of Hanna, Wyoming; Mrs. Allie Appleyard of Saranac Lake, New York; Mrs. Isobel Guibord of Somerville, Massachusetts, and Mrs. Demeritt of Waterbury, Vermont.

WRITTEN IN ARGENTEUIL, DRAMATIZED IN NEW YORK

While Dr. Williams was responsible for the musical arrangement, Mr. Young himself took a leading part in the dramatic role, portraying Archangel. In the rotogravure section of New York Times, a charming picture is produced of Joan of Arc as appearing in the pageant. This character was played by Mrs. Haddon Robbins, who is also a frequent visitor in Lachute and St. Andrews.

The following officers were elected: Hon. Presidents, Mrs. W. E. Richards and Mrs. Allan E. Mount; President, Mrs. Thos. McCambly; Vice-Pres., Mrs. G. Peet; Secretary, Mrs. Ross Williams; Treasurer, Mrs. George L. Rogers.

The annual report of the Treasurer showed total receipts amounting to $444.58, expenditure on the graveyard, etc., $189.25, leaving a balance of $255.33 towards sheeting of the interior of the church, etc.

All felt encouraged and hopeful for the outlook for another year's work.

CANADA'S CIGARETTE SENSATION

No cigarette offered to smokers in the last twenty years has ever received the enthusiastic approval accorded to Sweet Caporals—and no other cigarette is enjoying such sensational increases in sales. To all smokers seeking a cigarette that is round and fully packed with choice, aged tobacco—a cigarette that is really mild yet with a flavour rich and satisfying—we say, smoke Sweet Caporal. We promise you it will be a pleasant experience.

Consider the Cow...

If your advertisement were in this space as many people would read it as are reading this. But your advertisement isn't here, and people do not worry whether you are selling real estate, gasoline, peanuts or popcorn.

Did you ever sit down in the pasture with a pail between your knees and wait for a cow to back up and be milked?

Of course not. You know better than that.

Well, business is somewhat like a cow. You've got to go out after it and round it up. The fellow with the milk pail between his knees may get some milk, but the odds are all in favor of the fellow who drives up the cow and feeds her.

Some kind of advertising must be done if a business is to amount to anything. Either walking and talking, or writing, or printing. But the least costly, most profitable and dignified way is by the regular newspaper—people pay for it. They value it and have faith in the advertisements in it.

SEMI-ANNUAL LODGE MEETINGS

The semi-annual meetings of the Orange Lodges of the County of Argenteuil and Scarlet Chapter was held in McArthur's Hall, on Saturday last, and was presided over by Rt. Wor. Bro. S. Holt, County Master of Lachute.

Reports were received, showing an increase in membership, also a statement from the treasurer showing a balance on hand.

The Rt. Wor. Bro. Rev. W. J. H. Lummis, of Morin Heights, Provincial Grand Master for the Province of Quebec, conducted the election and installation of officers for the ensuing year, Rt. Wor. Bro. S. Holt, being re-elected as County Master.

The ladies of the L.O.B.A. of Lachute served supper, which was much enjoyed by those present. The next place of meeting will be Shrewsbury, on Saturday, June 15th.

COAT, THIEF CONVICTED AT ST. JEROME

SENTENCE DELAYED

The case of the Crown vs. Olivier Lasalle, a youth of no fixed residence, for the theft of a coat here in Lachute, was heard at St. Jerome yesterday by Mr. Justice Philemon Cousineau. Lasalle had been held for trial, following arraignment before W. G. Rodger, J.P., at the Lachute Court House on Thursday. The charge was one of robbery, laid by the Town, in connection with the theft of a coat belonging to Mr. Bourgeault from the Knights of Columbus Hall.

After hearing the evidence of several witnesses, the prisoner was convicted, Justice Cousineau withholding sentence until the man's previous record could be ascertained from the police authorities.

DAVE CAMPBELL, VETERAN OF HOCKEY CAMPAIGNS

court case developed before he was reinstated upon his return here. A checkered career was Campbell's and one which he can look back upon with many a good laugh.

Lucien Riopel, the wrestling promoter, brought Dave in from Lachute, where he was born and brought up, to play for the old La Casquette club in 1912. Lucien then in his late 'teens, couldn't talk a word of English and, despite the good old Gallic name of his club, none of the players could speak French. Bryce Muir, Eric Parsons, Carson Kendall and Ernie Crawford were team-mates of Campbell. It was not long before Lucien could speak English and Dave Campbell's hockey wonderings had started.

Leaving La Casquette after three years' service, Campbell played with Laval, Northern Electric, and Light, Heat and Power, in turn. Then he moved on to Farnham and, when the war broke out, he went overseas. Returning in 1919, he joined Nationale but his activities in the old city league did not interfere with his periodic tours, some of which carried him into eastern Ontario. In 1921 he joined Shamrocks but before the season was over he was with Canadiens in the N.H.L. He regained his amateur status after a short turn at pro hockey and went to the States to play amateur hockey in hockey in Boston. The court case developed when he returned and rejoined Nationale.

Dave played with Nationale from 1922 until 1926. The 1922-23 aggregation is the only Nationale Club which has ever won a provincial title. Oddly enough, although he was a star in his own right in those days, Dave never moved up permanently to pro ranks. Perhaps it was because his tourist activities took all his time. There was as much money to be made then in amateur hockey as in pro anyway.

In 1925-26, Dave joined Victorias. Early in 1926, Victorias embarked on their European tour, the first Canadian team to cross the ocean other than an Olympic representative. Campbell was going in for travelling in a big way. Vics went from Sweden to Italy, playing over 30 games en route. When the team returned home, Dave signed a pro contract with Philadelphia Arrows and ended his playing career in the Canam loop.

Twice Campbell turned his hand to coaching with success. From 1923-26, he managed the Sherwin-Williams team in the old Industrial League and won three straight titles. In 1928, he took over the M.A.A.A. club and in 1930 he brought it to the Allan cup.

Dave's reminiscences of those tourist hockey days would fill a book. Suffice it to retell one of them. One night, Dave was playing for Smith's Falls against Brockville in the latter town. He was down on the line-up as "Guard." At the end of the first period, a stranger entered the Smith's Falls dressing room and inquired, "Where's Guard?"

"Right over there," Dave's teammates replied, indicating him.

"That's not Guard," retorted the stranger, "Guard's my cousin." They looked the intruder in the dressingroom when they returned to the ice and didn't release him until the game was over.

As regards the difficulty of getting out of bed in the morning, 1935 is no improvement on 1934. Toronto Telegram.

Town Locals.

Mrs. Vender visited her sister in Montreal on Monday.

Mrs. L. Morris is in Montreal for a few weeks visiting with friends.

Mrs. Wm. J. Deacon returned home on Sunday from Morin Heights.

Mrs. A. F. Aitkin spent the week-end visiting friends in Toronto, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Christie of Montreal, were week-end visitors in town.

Miss Alice MacNown, of St. Laurent, spent the week-end visiting with friends in town.

Miss Hazel LeCras, of Montreal, was the week-end guest of her parents, Rev. and Mrs. W. LeCras.

Mrs. Wm. Cooper, of Brownsburg, was visiting with friends in Chicago for a few days this week.

Little Jimmy Mitchell, three year old son of Major and Mrs. G. G. Mitchell, considers the surgeons are starting this sort of thing altogether too young. He was taken to a Montreal hospital this week and underwent an operation for appendicitis, from which he is now making good recovery.

The Word "Process"

The preferred pronunciation of the term "process" is pros'es-o as in not, says the Literary Digest. The plural is formed by adding es, but the accent is not shifted. The pronunciation "pro-cess" is an affectation without standing. A secondary pronunciation is preferred in England, but the Universal English Dictionary, published in London, which aims to give the pronunciation common to and preferred at Oxford university, does not recognize a plural form with stress of the third syllable, nor the pronunciation of the termination es as eez in processes.

Where Spices Come From

Many of the world's spices come from Singapore's putney groves, cinnamon and clove plantations and vineyards which produce white and black pepper berries. Coconuts and coffee beans grow abundantly on this verdant isle. Being near the equator, the sun rises and sets at the same time throughout the year. The air is fragrant with the odor of growing spices and the temperature is always like that of moist July. The Southern Cross, most famous of constellations, is visible there and natives claim that no night is as beautiful as one of Singapore's.

Blind Fish Is Native of Subterranean Pools

The blind fish is a fish without eyes. It is of the genus Amblyopsis, (which really means "pale eyes"), found in subterranean waters of Indiana and Kentucky. In Mammoth and Wyandotte caves and others, says the Indianapolis News. It is described as resembling nothing so much as a "skinned catfish, swimming on its back." Its color, usually spoken of as a "ghostly white," is in reality a delicate pink, due to the show of blood color seen through the translucent and slightly iridescent skin. It ranges in average size from two to five inches. The eggs, which are quite large, are deposited within the gill chamber, where the young remain until they are able to lead a separate existence. It has been determined that the fish is permanently bleached, so that individuals reared in the light do not change color. It is hereditarily blind. If reared in the light, even through repeated generations, it may never become a seeing fish. The bleached condition, as well as the loss of sense organs, is the result of an individual hereditary adaptation, which is transmissible and becomes hereditarily fixed. If placed in the open, the fish will live in the shade. It obtains its food solely through the tactile sense; it has an arrangement of tactile organs which appear about the head and inform it of any disturbance in the water. Though it has well-formed ears, it is apparently as deaf as it is blind and no sound appears to disturb it.

Pine Gives More Heat Than Heavy Hardwoods

Pound for pound, pine wood gives off more heat than hickory. There is a widespread belief that hickory or other heavy hardwood has a higher fuel value than pine. Tests by the forest products laboratory of the United States Department of Agriculture show the fallacy of this notion, which probably has held sway since stoves first came into use.

A cord of hickory wood, being heavier, may give off more heat than a cord of pine. But most resinous woods, like pine, have a higher heat-production value per pound than nonresinous woods.

Another mistaken idea about fuel wood is that sapwood of long-leaf pine contains more resin than the heartwood. This notion comes probably from the frequent sight of "gum" glistening on the freshly cut sapwood, but not on the heartwood. Although the resin is formed in the sapwood, it is stored mostly in the heartwood, according to the forest service.

Famous Cassie Chadwick

The famous Cassie Chadwick was regarded as one of the cleverest women to succeed in swindling of bankers and others, for which she was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment in 1906; she died two years later in the Ohio state penitentiary. She was born at Eastwood, near Woodstock, Ont., in 1877, as Elizabeth Bigley and she was first tried for forgery at the age of sixteen. A short sketch of her criminal life is given in Charles Kingston's "Remarkable Rogues." For a time she practiced clairvoyance; she posed as the daughter of a former American President, the widow of an earl, etc. She forged the name of Andrew Carnegie to get a big bank loan, while the frauds led to the failure of one Ohio bank. Her cleverness in extracting large sums from millionaires through her impostures gave her the name of the "Madame Humbert of America."

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE INVOKES LAW FOR ABUSED HORSE

The law for the prevention of cruelty to animals was invoked through one of the Provincial Women's Institutes recently, when it became known that a horse in the community was receiving brutal treatment and suffering for want of food and care. Information was given to the city constable in charge of this department and the matter was brought by him to the notice of the Attorney-General of the Province, with the result that the practice was speedily stopped.

contribution must be made and the precise time over which payments would be spread is understood to have been the subject of much consideration. The qualifying period will, as stated, be in excess of a year, and the period in which payments are to be made will be somewhat longer.

It is understood that the measure contemplates future conditions rather than those which now prevail when so many people are out of work and are not in receipt of any wages from which the qualifying deductions for unemployment insurance could be made.

Totem Poles Used in Florida
The average person usually thinks of totem poles in connection with Alaska or the Far North, yet a genuine eagle totem rudely shaped from heart pine was unearthed in south Florida. The specimen was found near the south bank of Fisheating creek, about four miles on a line west of Lake Okeechobee. The exact spot where it was found is 100 feet east of a large Indian mound called Fort Center, in Glades county, Florida.—Scientific American.

A HANCOCK CHAIR

Some years ago we were given a chair which had come from the home of my husband's great-aunt in Nova Scotia. The chair is over a hundred years old and is as firm and rigid as a new chair. The seat is a rush-bottomed one, and was not in good condition. We were unable to find anyone to replace it. We could get imitation rush but not the real thing and it would never do to insult a fine old chair with a substitute. We bided our time and have now found a place where they do the work, and just yesterday our chair came back re-seated to our satisfaction. Shortly after we were given the chair we were studying a book on antique chairs and were quite thrilled to find the exact picture of our chair. It is called a Hancock chair after a man named Hancock in Massachusetts who made chairs of this type and peddled them through the country. We have no way of knowing if this chair was actually made by Hancock but we do know that it is like the picture in every detail. The chair is a side-chair and is painted black with a cross-panel with leaves and fruit painted on it. The colours are faded and softened but are plainly discernible. Our next move is to have the chair re-finished with, of course, the painting on the panel left as it is.

YOUR CHILD'S REPUTATION

There is many a child who suffers from the reputation that its mother gives it. She does not mean to damage it but she does it unthinkingly and this reputation may stick for a long time and not be really deserved at any time. You will hear a mother say, 'Mary is so lazy. We simply cannot get her to do a thing.' Mary may not be so lazy, not more than the average child. She may have nothing interesting to do or her mother may expect too much. But by continual repetition of this remark, she is definitely labelled lazy. She may say, 'John said they came home after the dance, but I don't know whether they did or not.' Implying doubt and damaging a reputation. I heard a mother say, 'I never send any money with Jack to the store, for I might never get my change.' All these casual little remarks that really do not mean much but when they are repeated all too frequently cannot fail to damage a child's reputation. Family loyalty should not permit any mother to parade her family's shortcomings to the world. Of course, some of them go to the other extreme and rave about their wonderful children until they are cordially disliked by all within sound of the mother's voice. If you must talk about your children, do use a little judgment.

RICKETS

One of the trials which beset the winter babies is rickets. Unfortunately it is often in a slight form without being recognized. The rickety baby is not a thin baby always but may be a fat healthy looking child. Rickets is caused by a lack of vitamin D to act on the calcium and phosphorous which are necessary to make good strong bones. Even a small degree of rickets is bad because it leaves the baby in a condition ready for other infection. The rickety baby is apt to be a restless one, the kind that moves its head until it rubs the hair off. It is fretful and cries a great deal. Rickets is specially dangerous for girl babies as the pelvic bones are weakened, and instead of the pelvic opening being round, it is elliptical and makes child bearing more difficult. Rickets may be prevented by sunshine and cod-liver oil. In the winter it is difficult for our babies to get sufficient sunshine, so that they need cod-liver oil each day. The month old babies get a few drops and the dosage is gradually increased. Most babies like it. Cod-liver oil makes a stain that is very difficult to remove, so that the bath is a fine place to give the oil. Cod-liver oil will prevent and cure rickets. In Europe it is called the English disease, as so many babies have it there, presumably because of the lack of sunshine. The poorly shaped jaws and mouths of so many English people may be due to a rickety condition in infancy.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, Jan. 27th., is "Truth."

The Golden Text is: "Teach me thy way, O Lord; I will walk in thy truth: unite my heart to fear thy name." (Psalms 86: 11)

The following correlative passages are selected from among those comprised in the Lesson-Sermon to be read from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:—

"But whoso looketh into the perfect law of liberty, and continueth therein, he being not a forgetful hearer, but a doer of the work, this man shall be blessed in his deed." (James 1: 25).

"Truth brings the elements of liberty. On its banner is the Soul-inspired motto, 'Slavery is abolished.' The power of God brings deliverance to the captive. No power can withstand divine Love. What is this supposed power, which opposes itself to God? Whence cometh it? What is it that binds man with iron shackles to sin, sickness, and death? Whatever enslaves man is opposed to the divine government. Truth makes man free." (Science and Health, pages 224, 225.)

Safety a Responsibility of the Housewife

MOST ACCIDENTS OCCUR AT HOME

Recently a large insurance company concluded a study of 117,000 accidents, with the opinion that the risk from injury at home is almost seven times as great as when riding on buses, taxicabs, boats, airplanes, trains and other public conveyances.

How can we lessen these accidents and make our homes safer for living? Perhaps we can best answer this question by considering the different kinds of accidents that occur in the house, their causes and cure.

Falls lead this list of accidents. The chief offenders can be listed briefly:

Rugs. Worn spots and curling edges that catch the heels should be fixed, rugs on slippery floors should be equipped with anchors to keep them from sliding.

Misplaced Objects. Playthings left around the floor, articles left at head or foot of stairs to be carried up or down later.

Poor Light. Dark stairways invite falls, especially cellar and porch steps.

Bath tubs. People often fall in getting into and out of bath tubs. Accidents could be prevented by the simple use of a hand rail at the side of the tub and a non-skid bath mat.

Another kind of accident that too often occurs in the house is that resulting in a bad burn. Pots and kettles with boiling liquid in them should be kept in a place on the stove where they will not tip over and where they are quite out of the reach of children.

Never use gasoline or other highly inflammable materials for dry cleaning or spot removing. Even non-inflammable spot-removing materials such as tetrachloride are toxic, and should be used sparingly, and then only in well ventilated rooms.

We sometimes hear of accidents in using electric appliances. Don't handle electric fixtures with wet hands. Don't leave the smoothing iron connected when the ironer goes to answer the bell or telephone. Replace electric cords when they become frayed.

A few more points in your safety programme:

Don't put pins in your mouth. Keep scissors in sheaths when not in use.

Keep kitchen knives in a rack, not in a jumble in a table drawer.

Use a can opener that works with ease in such a way that the fingers are kept away from the cutting edge and one that does not leave a jagged edge behind it, for it is easy to get cut on such an edge.

Is there a gun in your house? Remember it is always loaded until proved innocent.

Accidents don't happen. They are committed. That is why they can be stopped.

The Quebec Women's Institute are anxious to enlist all readers in this work. Make your own home as safe as possible by removing all hazards. Go still farther and aid in carrying the message of safety to your community.

Rural Mail Service in Canada

(Contributed)

Some time ago I noticed a letter in your columns about the poor mail service to the country villages, and have been waiting for someone to reply to the same, either pro or con.

Rural mail service, in my estimation, is the greatest thief of money and time that could be turned loose on a free people. I have thought this for a good while, and have been intending to write about it, when the thought struck me that perhaps I might do as much good if I were to write for you a history of our mail service from the year 1759, when Canada fell into the hands of the English, to the present day—for I know, all too well, that the opinions of a critic are never found palatable, even by his own party.

For a time I was at a loss to secure authentic information about the early mail service of Canada, I did not know exactly where to seek this information, and a number of letters came back to me saying there were no records of what I wanted. I was wondering what next move to make in the matter, and someone had helpfully told me that there were "no minutes before the flood," when my friend, the Rev. Dr. MacLeod of Lachute, suggested where I might expect to find what I wanted, and a letter and a few cents brought me the information I had been seeking. I will therefore spare the public my opinions, and hope at an early date to offer readers of The Watchman (if the Editor can give me space) some interesting facts concerning our mail service, its origin and growth in Canada.

—C. F. Kains...

The Magi

The Magi means literally "wise men," or magicians or soothsayers—a priestly order of ancient Media and Persia. The three Magi of the East who brought gifts to the manger of Christ were, traditionally, Melchior, Caspar and Balthazar, three kings of the East. The first offered gold, the emblem of royalty; the second, frankincense, in token of divinity, and the third, myrrh, in prophetic allusion to the persecutions which awaited the Child. Melchior is said to mean "king of light"; Caspar, or Caspar, "the white one," and Balthazar, "the lord of treasures." Medieval legend calls them the Three Kings of Cologne, and the cathedral there claims their relics. They are commemorated on January 2, 3 and 4, and particularly at the Feast of the Epiphany.

Formation of Oil

Mineral oil or petroleum is stored in the earth in sands, which are embedded between layers of rock through which the oil cannot pass. When wells are bored into this sand, the oil rises in the wells. There are two main theories as to its origin. The inorganic theory holds that the hydrogen and carbon contained in rocks of the earth have been brought together under great heat and pressure to form these oils. The more widely accepted organic theory holds that it has been formed, like coal, from pre-existing animal and vegetable life, chiefly microscopic marine and swamp life, under enormous pressure.

"Don't Give Up the Ship"

Capt. James Lawrence of the U. S. Frigate Chesapeake used the words "Don't Give Up the Ship" as he lay on the deck mortally wounded during an engagement with the British Frigate Shannon June 1, 1813, off Boston. These words became famous and a group of ladies sewed them on a flag for Commodore Perry's flagship, Lawrence, for his use in his lake campaign. This flag was afterwards sent to the Navy department and then transferred to Memorial hall at the Naval Academy in Annapolis.

Ancient Sundial Found to Be an Egyptian Model

History first mentions a sundial in the Old Testament. The date of this is probably somewhere around 700 B. C., but the earliest one that has been found is an Egyptian instrument now in the Berlin museum, says Pathfinder Magazine. It is an angular bar with cross piece on the short upright which throws longer or shorter shadows along the horizontal limb which is divided into six hours. The ancient Chaldean's sundial was called a hemicycle, that of the Greeks a gnomon, and the Romans had 13 different kinds, among them a portable dial, an adjustable circle dial, and a "ham" dial which when hung in its proper position looked like a ham curing in the smokehouse. The early Anglo-Saxons were found to have sundials when the Romans arrived in Britain, their dials, called Scratch or Mass dials, were placed mostly on the walls of churches—very crude affairs, but still capable of telling the important times of day.

With the adoption of striking clocks at the beginning of the Fourteenth century certain changes were made in the construction of the sundial, which was the reckoning of time by equal hours instead of by temporary hours as had been done up to that time.

In the early part of the Eighteenth century the extended use of clocks and watches largely superseded the use of sundials, and from that period on they remained in gardens more as ornaments than as utilitarian objects.

A feminine writer says man has no business in the kitchen. Except of course, when daughter has a date.

HADN'T MET HIM

Sir Hall Caine was the guest of honor one day at a literary dinner, and it fell to Thomas Nelson Page, the American novelist, to introduce him.

Just before rising to do so Page passed his menu card to Caine with a request that he autograph it.

"After you have spoken," whispered Sir Hall.

"No, no—do it now," said Page.

"Caine obeyed, and later he asked his introducer why he had been in so great a hurry to obtain his signature.

"Well," said Page, "if you must know, it was because I wanted to be able to say truthfully that I had read something you had written."

Mrs. W. Usher, of Cushing West, was the guest of Mrs. O. E. Leroy on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Watson and son, Angus, also Mr. and Mrs. E. Boa, were recent Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. Gaston.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Matthews, of Stardale, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Weir on Tuesday of last week.

Mrs. J. Gurling spent a few days recently with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Macadam of Papineauville.

Mrs. S. O. Hartley entertained the Bridge Club at her home on Wednesday evening of last week.

Mrs. W. Usher, Mrs. A. Graham and Mrs. W. Canning attended a very interesting meeting of the W.C.T.U. at the home of Mrs. Beggs, Point Fortune, on Wednesday last. Letters of appreciation were read from the Friendly Home, for a box of clothing sent, also from absent members who had been remembered. Two courteous letters of reply to the communication to seventeen members of the clergy, asking them to preach Temperance sermons, were also read with appreciation.

Correspondent has received in the mail a clipping entitled "Get The Women Interested." The writer wonders why we sit back and watch the nations of the earth heading for war and destruction, — while humanity itself is at stake. We surely need to get the women interested—and the men too. One woman said, "We need another war, to send the prices up." This is a mistaken idea to harbor in one's mind; for those who remain after another war it will not matter whether prices are raised or not. Even though war should occur in "Far-distant Europe", no-one will be safe. And even if Canada escaped harm, we should be plunged into another depression even greater than the last. Local Women's Institutes are in correspondence with an American branch, who tell that the part of the State in which they live has never recovered from its last war, which happened so long ago now that many do not even remember it.

A crusade against war is being launched in Canada by an acceptance of the following pledge: "I renounce war, and never again, directly or indirectly, will I support or sanction another war." Readers are now urged to copy and sign this pledge, and mail it to Rev. J. Lavall Smith, 242 Kensington Ave., Westmount, Que. Rev. J. Smith had three and a half years of army experience during the war. He was with the army of occupation on the Rhine at its close.

GRENVILLE VESTRY MEETING

The Annual Vestry Meeting of Grenville Parish was held on Tuesday, January 15th., the Rector, Rev. K. N. Brunton, occupying the chair. Representative members were present from St. Matthew's and Trinity Churches. The annual financial report was presented, showing an increase in contributions, but a deficit still remains on the year's activities. The Rector's report showed that attendances had been maintained and that the number of Communion was slightly increased. Reports from various societies indicated that these were in a healthy state.

Several matters of business were discussed, among which was the adoption of rules governing the Memorial Endowment Board. Votes of thanks were passed to the Masons for the use of their Hall, to Mr. G. E. Higginson for the lighting of Trinity Church, and to the many industrious workers and the officials of the Parish.

All the former office holders were re-elected, with one exception. Mr. Adam Clarke was elected Financial Secretary for St. Matthew's in place of Mr. W. M. Bradshaw, whose absence from the Parish for part of the year makes it impossible

"PAVEMENT FENCES" PROPOSED IN LONDON

Mr. Hore-Belisha, whose "Belisha beacons" in London streets have done much to prevent accidents, now proposes the establishment of "pavement fences" with gaps in the railings which would allow the street to be crossed only at appointed places. The experiment is already being tried in Wolverhampton and is proving a success, it is claimed.

CITY SEEKS VISIT BY FOUNDER'S KIN

Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Canada's High Commissioner in London, is co-operating with the city of Sydney, N.S., in an effort to have two direct descendants of Lord Sydney, Colonial Secretary when this city was founded 100 years ago, visit there during the sesqui-centennial celebration next summer.

HIGHWAY MAP 153 YEARS OLD

Highway maps, with route mileages, are nothing new, it appears, but were in use long before the automobile was thought of. A citizen of Vancouver is in possession of a 153-year-old route map of England, used by stage-coach travellers. The mileage from point to point is marked as in modern maps.

WINNIPEG HAS AMBITIOUS HOUSING SCHEME

A self-liquidating scheme of home reconstruction, supported by the Federal Government, has been proposed in Winnipeg by the special civic committee on housing, as its first move to rehabilitate houses and eliminate overcrowding conditions.

The committee will ask the Manitoba Government for assistance in obtaining a loan of $500,000 from the Dominion at not more than four per cent. interest, repayable in ten years. They will also ask for a direct federal contribution of one-quarter of the amount.

If the Dominion approves the law the committee proposes to lend the money to citizens for needed repairs or alterations to their homes at an interest rate not exceeding six per cent. No decision was reached on giving assistance to builders of new homes.

Officials of both parties are hustling to prepare nominations for the Local House. These nominations are called for Feb. 26th., with polling on March 5th. There is great speculation, and the name of Mr. H. Slater is freely spoken of as a possible candidate for Conservatives, while Messrs. P. R. McGibbon, John Hay, J. E. Valois, A. H. Turner, W. G. Rodger and G. J. Walker are mentioned in connection with the Liberal candidature.

AUTOMOBILE HORNS FORBIDDEN IN ROME

One of the noisiest cities in the world became almost silent as the law forbidding sounding of automobile horns in Rome went into effect last month.

The experiment began in the Piazza Venezia before Premier Mussolini's office building. It was later extended throughout the city.

CALGARY'S TRAM FARE

Calgary is experimenting with a straight five-cent fare on its street railway. The 20-for-a-dollar schedule was launched on a two-month trial only on November 1, and the straight five cent fare was later put into effect. It is the opinion of Edmonton Journal that Calgary will discover, as has Regina, that while the number of passengers may increase so will the deficits. Calgary taxpayers, it contends, are in no position financially to subsidize their street railway, and it is a safe prediction that the five-cent fare will not last many months.

POPULATION LOWER IN SASKATCHEWAN

Possibly due to migration from the drought area, Saskatchewan's population dropped 5,000 during the past year, a provincial Government survey indicates. The population in 1933 was 971,000. In 1934, 966,000 residents were registered.

FIREMEN CALLED FOR UNUSUAL RESCUE

Besides fighting fires, firemen have been accustomed to rescuing cats from trees, capturing lost parrots, aiding people who have locked themselves in or out of their homes—but they added a new service to their long list of accomplishments in Montreal when they gallantly served a lady by retrieving her purse from a city sewer.

Walking across St. Catherine street, a nurse fell and her purse disappeared down a sewer entrance. In despair she appealed to Captain Cullen of No. 5 Fire Station. In a few minutes a fireman armed with a long scoop was on the scene, and half-an-hour later, dirty and weary, he returned to the station with the missing purse.

REPORT OF QUEBEC DEPT. OF MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS

One of the most interesting reports laid before the Quebec Legislative Assembly, for the year 1933-34, deals with the operations of the Department of Municipal Affairs.

During the fiscal year ended on June 30, 1934, the department reported as follows:

Eighty municipal loan by-laws, representing a total of $14,498,049.47 received the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council.

The loans were as follows:

Country municipalities, $8,000; unclassified municipalities, $62,250; townships, $222,600; parishes, $184,243.29; villages, $90,300; towns under the control of the Montreal Metropolitan Commission, $330,700; other towns, $443,900; cities: City of Montreal, $9,430,000; cities under the control of the Montreal Metropolitan Commission, $684,700; other cities, $1,524,100; Montreal Metropolitan Commission, $1,517,256.18.

These loans were for the following purposes: New loans, $12,228,799.47; consolidation, $1,963,950; renewals, $305,300; total, $14,498,049.47.

Thirty-seven school loans, representing a total of $1,296,450, likewise received the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council for the following purposes: New loans, $782,400; consolidations, $392,650; renewals, $121,400; total, $1,296,450.

CUSHING WEST

Messrs. Wilfrid and Douglas Hartley and Mr. S. Whelehan, of Montreal, spent Sunday with their relatives in this vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Matthews, of Stardale, were visitors of Capt. and Mrs. T. Weir on Wednesday of this week.

Mrs. Brady, of Montreal, was the week-end guest of her daughter, Mrs. G. Aillard.

Mrs. T. Murdoch and Miss Norma Cooke visited friends in Hawkesbury, on Tuesday of this week.

The Ladies' Aid of St. Mungo's held their January meeting on Wednesday afternoon at the home of the President, Mrs. W. Canning.

Mr. C. S. Watson took advantage of the Excursion over the C.N.R. last week-end travelling to Detroit, where he was the guest of his brother, Mr. Murray Watson.

ARUNDEL

Mr. Alfred Dunn, local station agent, is spending this week at his home in Montreal.

Dr. W. L. Morrison and Mr. Leslie Cooke spent last week in Montreal, attending the Annual Poultry Show.

Miss L. Rolland and Mr. Ken. Moore were week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Cooke.

Rev. G. Phillips is spending a few days in Montreal, receiving medical treatment. Mr. Stone, of the Diocesan Theological College, Montreal, took charge of the services of the parish last Sunday.

The Annual Meeting of the United Church is taking place this Sunday, after the evening service.

The Y. P. S. held its regular fortnightly meeting last Friday with a good attendance. The programme for the evening was a two-minute impromptu speech from each member, to which everyone responded in a fitting manner.

On Saturday morning nine of the members left on a ski hike to Otter Lake, a distance of some four or five miles, arriving in time to enjoy a delicious dinner prepared by Mr. and Mrs. H. Ebbertman at Otter Lake House.

The afternoon was spent in skiing on a nearby hill, after which the party returned home, somewhat tired but feeling that the day had been well spent.

BROWNSBURG

Mrs. Wm. Mott and baby are spending a few weeks with her parents at Bebe, Que.

Mr. Duncan McKiddie, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia, has made a splendid recovery. He is up and around, apparently as fit as ever.

Fine loads of blue ice are being hauled into the village from the direction of the Dalesville road.

MORIN HEIGHTS

On Tuesday, Jan. 15th., St. Adèle hockey team played at Morin Heights. The game resulted in favor of the Morin players, with a score of 3-2.

The Rustic Bridge Club met at the home of Mrs. F. Watson on Wednesday evening last.

Davis' Hall was the scene of a very enjoyable gathering on Saturday evening last, in celebration of the home-coming of Mr. and Mrs. John Davis (the bride being formerly Miss Edith Olsen, of Victoria, B.C.). Dancing kept the guests lively until 12 o'clock, when dainty refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. Davis received the congratulations of a wide circle of friends.

Mrs. Murray and Miss Mildred Davis, of Ottawa, were here over the week-end, also Mrs. Wm. Deacon of Lachute, and Miss Evelyn Olsen, of Victoria, B. C., attending the Davis-Olsen reception. They all left for their respective homes on Sunday evening last.

Miss Olive Seale spent the week-end with her parents.

Mrs. Chambers has gone to Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Morrow, of Pilot Mound, Manitoba, are visiting their many friends in this locality.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur LeGresly and daughter, Marion, of Moncton, N.B., are at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Syvret at present.

Mr. Raymond Campbell, of Montreal, was the guest of his mother over the week-end.

CAMBRIA

Another young lady of this neighborhood has entered the state of matrimony, in the person of Miss Carine Martha Jane Elder, daughter of Mr. Albert Elder and the late Mrs. Elder, who was united in marriage to Mr. Cecil Roy Graham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Graham, on January 5th. The ceremony was conducted in Montreal, by Rev. Dr. W. D. Reid of Westmount. The young couple have the best wishes of this community.

Mr. Samuel Dawson has resigned his office as mayor of Mille Isles, and Mr. Arthur Dawson was elected to the mayoralty by acclamation.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Morrow of Lakefield, were guests of the former's father, Mr. R. Morrow, on Sunday.

Mr. Freeman Kirkpatrick, accompanied by his cousin, Elmer Kirkpatrick, motored from St. Jerome last week. It is unusual to see a car on the road here at this time of the year, but following the previous thaw, the visitors appeared to have no trouble.

"What sort of a business man is he?"

"The only thing he has got honestly is his rheumatism."

MONTREAL'S OUTSIDE STAIRCASES

Montreal's outside staircases, which have long been a topic for criticism and ribald jest, have at last found commendation from a sanitary viewpoint.

Aimé Cousineau, engineer of the City Health Department, claims these "horrors" have been a blessing in disguise, and save Montrealers of today and of the future having to spend millions in demolishing slums. The much-condemned outside staircases he contends, has provided every dwelling with an entrance direct to the open air. It has prevented Montreal from being cursed with thousands of those buildings, condemned everywhere as breeders of disease and worse, in which dwelling after dwelling gives onto a long, smelly ill-lighted corridor with each family living in the kitchen odors of neighbors around. Tenements of the nauseous European variety are practically nil in Canada's metropolis, says Mr. Cousineau. And he knows, for his men have surveyed every house in town.

Viewed as unsightly, old-fashioned, and a menace to public safety, it was once proposed to levy a tax of $5 a year on all exposed staircases in the city.

"Jimmie" Walker, former mayor of New York City shorn of political power, now lives in retirement at Dorking, on the outskirts of London. He writes a Sunday column for a London newspaper.

ANNUAL MEETING OF ARUNDEL W. A.

The Annual Meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of Grace Church, Arundel, was held at the home of the president, Mrs. J. C. Veit, last Saturday afternoon, for the purpose of electing officers for the new year.

The following were elected: Hon. Pres., Mrs. G. Phillips; Pres., Mrs. J. C. Veit; 1st. Vice-Pres., Mrs. J. P. Gordon; 2nd. Vice-Pres., Mrs. M. Smellie; Secretary, Mrs. J. Boyd; Treasurer, Mrs. H. Skinner; Dorcas Sec'y., Mrs. H. Boyd; United Thank Offering, Mrs. H. Kerr; Flowers, Mrs. M. Simon; Delegates to Synod, Mrs. Veit, Mrs. H. Boyd and Mrs. Chas. Tutching. The annual reports were unusually satisfactory, and showed a marked gain over recent years. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess.

GRENVILLE BAY

Visitors at the Cottage on Sunday included Mrs. R. B. White of Grenville, Mrs. Earl Grey and Mrs. Frank Bennett, of Montreal, Mrs. Moncrieff and Mrs. Enlow, of Montreal.

Mrs. W. J. Fletcher visited Mrs. J. Brechin lately.

Miss McCallum, of Montreal, is visiting her uncle, Mr. W. McCullough.

Mr. Arthur Lancaster, of Montreal, is spending a few days with his uncle, Mr. J. Carson.

The community welcomes Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gill as new neighbors here at the Bay.

Mr. Earl Grey has been commissioned for installation work at Ottawa, for Bell Telephone; he will return home to Montreal this week.

Mrs. Earl Gray was a guest at the Cottage recently, also Mrs. Hugh Cameron and her son.

A good number of skiers patronized the Laurention Ski Club during the week-end.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is accepted by Canadian Physicians, has been Tested and approved by Canadian Dietitians.

Hundreds of thousands of Canadians have discovered that this delicious cereal corrects constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in meals. Unless checked, this ailment may cause headaches, loss of appetite and energy. You feel below par—fail to get the best out of each day.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies a generous quantity of mild "bulk" to aid regular habits. ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B and iron. Unlike cathartics, this tempting cereal continues to be effective when used for months.

Isn't it pleasanter to enjoy a gentle, natural food instead of weakening your system with patent medicines? Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal. Serve with milk or cream. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Serve as a cereal or use in cooking. Appetizing recipes on the red-and-green package. Remember, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is much more effective than part-bran products. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Canada.

AMMUNITION STOLEN AT BROWNSBURG PLANT

The Provincial Police were able to trace that ammunition had been stolen from the Plant of Canadian Industries Limited at Brownsburg, P. Q. Henri Raby, an employee of this concern, was suspected and put under arrest. It is understood that he pleaded guilty at St. Jerome, and sentence will be pronounced on February 18. Zoel St. Denis, a resident of St. Joseph du Lac, is accused of being the receiver of these stolen goods, but has pleaded "Not Guilty" to the charge. His preliminary hearing has been set for March 1, and it is said he has been released on bail of $400.00.

LACHUTE MOTORIST IS GOOD SAMARITAN

The open road between Lachute and St. Jerome proved a blessing in disguise to a sick resident of St. Canut, who in the bitterly cold weather of Saturday night last, was about to be hauled on a bobsleigh to St. Jerome.

It was at around ten o'clock that night, when Mr. Nat Boyd, driving home from Montreal, was stopped on the road by a man with a lantern. A sick patient had to be driven to St. Jerome, and the sleigh-load were just starting out, when the motorist's timely arrival afforded a more comfortable mode of conveyance for the suffering man. Mr. Boyd, with his customary willingness in times of emergency, turned his car, carried the man to friends at St. Jerome, and went still further to summon a doctor to his aid.

ONTARIO WILL NOT RAISE GASOLINE TAX

Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Ontario Minister of Highways, has stated that so far as he was concerned, the present tax of six cents a gallon on gasoline would not be increased.

The minister was commenting on despatches quoting Premier L. A. Taschereau of Quebec, telling newspapermen he had something "very important" from Ontario in regard to the tax. Members of the Quebec Legislature were inclined to believe that the two provinces would join in increasing the tax one cent.

Premier Hepburn is opposed to any increase in the gas tax, maintaining that an increase would defeat its own end—a viewpoint which applies with equal logic in this Province.

PASS REMEMBRANCE DAY BILL

The House of Commons has now made it doubly sure that Canadians should observe Remembrance Day as a public holiday. The House gave its third reading to a bill, sponsored by Minister of Justice Hugh Guthrie, which included the definition of Remembrance Day in the General Interpretation Act along with all other public holidays. In 1931 a separate act was passed making Remembrance Day a holiday.

The bill would force business firms to suspend operations on the anniversary of the Armistice.

ANTI-GLARE DEVICE IS COMPULSORY IN SASKATCHEWAN

Compulsory carrying of a device on automobiles to protect drivers against glaring head lights was written into the Vehicle Act of Saskatchewan when the bill to amend this measure came before the Legislature recently.

The device is attached to the windshield and may be put aside when not required.

BENNETT SAYS RAILWAY PROBLEM IS NATIONAL NOT PARTY ISSUE

(By The Canadian Press)

Toronto, Jan. 28. — There would never be any solution to the railway problem in Canada, Prime Minister R. B. Bennett declared in a speech here tonight, "so long as you have men thinking in terms of party politics. It far transcends the importance of any political party; it is your problem — not Bennett's and not the Government's," he said.

Mr. Bennett was addressing the annual banquet of the Toronto Board of Trade and he charged his listeners with themselves failing to look upon the railway problem as one that must be dealt with in the interests of Canada as a whole.

It was useless for men to come to the easy solution of having the Government "tear up 4,000 miles of railroad," Mr. Bennett declared, "and then go to the people and say, 'Just look what the Government has done to you.'" The lives and hopes of the thousands who had settled along the railroads had to be considered.

Mr. Bennett touched upon the trade agreements negotiated by his Government, tariff and other international trade regulations, and declared he had "neither apology nor excuse" to offer. He dealt only briefly with his reform policies, stating that in his belief Socialism or Communism would be the alternative to the measures he proposed.

Canada's railway difficulties had come "because in a moment of madness we thought we were 50,000,000 people," said Mr. Bennett. "We saw a vision that turned out to be only a mirage. Are you fair when you talk about lifting thousands of miles of track without thinking of the thousands who have gone with their families to settle along those tracks?" he asked.

The Royal Commission on Transportation had been given an absolutely free hand, Mr. Bennett said, and its recommendations had been carried out regardless of politics, resulting in the establishment of the Canadian National Board of trustees and attempts to secure correlation and co-operation of services for reasons of economy.

"Our madness has not entirely left us and will not leave us so long as problems of this kind must be settled by purely political bodies," Mr. Bennett said, and he would welcome suggestions from any quarter. "It is the problem above all others that threatens our national life."

Mayoralty and Aldermanic Elections Tomorrow

PARTICULARS, TIME, AND LOCATION OF POLLS

Tomorrow, February 1st., citizens of Lachute will be called upon to select men to represent them in the new council.

Dr. J. H. Mason, physician and coroner of the district, and J. S. Giles, publisher of this newspaper, are candidates for Mayoralty honors,—an appointment for which all property owners and householders in the entire town are entitled to vote.

Ex-Alderman O. Laurin has been given an acclamation in the East Ward, and Mr. W. J. Deacon an acclamation in the West Ward. Keen contests, however, are expected for the two Centre Ward seats. For Seat No. 3 Ex-Alderman J. A. Rice and P. Chabot are contending; for Seat No. 2 J. P. Paquin and Ex-Alderman H. Lamarche. For these candidates, property owners and householders in Centre Ward only may vote.

Civic voting lists number over 1,000 persons, and a heavy vote is expected for all vacant seats.

The polls will be conducted as follows, with voting from 9 a.m. until 7 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 1st.

East Ward: At Mons. Jos. Lavigne's, Main Street. Returning Officer, Mr. Jno. McGibbon. Voting for mayor.

Centre Ward: At Victoria Hall. Voting for mayor and councillors, two double polls. Returning Officers for mayoralty ballots, Dr. J. Clunie, Omer Paquette. Returning Officers for councillors, Raoul Joly, H. Scott.

LADY CURLERS MADE BID FOR CALEDONIA

They were—Mrs. MacNeill, Mrs. W. K. McArthur, Miss E. Fraser, Mrs. E. H. Wilson (Skip).

Mrs. J. R. Charron, Mrs. G. Mitchell, Mrs. J. A. MacGibbon, Mrs. Wm. Cottingham, (Skip.) Mrs. Wilson's rink won an extra end victory from Montreal West on Friday in the Preliminary Round, and won from Pointe Claire on Monday, but lost an extra end game on Tuesday to Outremont.

Mrs. Cottingham's rink won from Quebec on Monday by default, but lost to Aberdeen on Tuesday.

The Junior Bonsel for Mrs. Rosborough's Trophy was played this week. As there were only two rinks, the one winning two games out of three are the holders. They were Mrs. MacDonald, Mrs. McMartin, Mrs. S. Campbell, Mrs. Ian Hay, (Skip.)

Doubles for the Vice-President's Prize are still being played, semi-finals to be held on Thursday and finals Friday.

LACHUTE CURLERS IN JUBILEE CONTESTS

Lachute's representation to the Victoria Jubilee Trophy contests in Montreal on Friday comprised Messrs. S. S. Campbell, G. F. Calder, R. Todd and J. A. Rice (Skip). The team scored an encouraging victory of 15-11 at Mount Royal, playing against Lennoxville, and were optimistic with the semi-finals in view. Their lead, however, was dropped at Caledonia, where they lost to St. Lawrence with 11-15, and the latter quartet, skipped by Mr. Paton, stepped up to the semi-finals on Saturday. The Lachute players returned home in search of easier game among their fellow club-men.

A club supper is being held on Saturday, when the local curlers expect a visit from St. Lawrence Club of Montreal.

Play for the Dunany Cup is still in progress.

Lachute Fire Calls

LOCATION OF FIRE INDICATED BY SIREN BLASTS

It has been brought to our attention that signals used by Lachute Fire Brigade are not yet generally known. Long and short blasts of the siren indicate the location of fires to which the brigade is summoned, and in order that the public may become familiar with the various calls, we publish them again, as follows:

- 1 long—1 short, north of C.P.R. track, east to Barron's Bridge.
- 1 long—2 short, north of C.P.R. track, from Barron's Bridge to Bethany St.
- 1 long—3 short, north of C.P.R. track, Bethany St. to Protestant Cemetery (town limits).
- 1 long—4 short, south of C.P.R. track, Bethany St. to town limits.
- 1 long—5 short, south of C.P.R. track, Bethany St. to North River.
- 1 long—6 short, south of C.P.R. track, North River to Dominion Shuttle Co'y.

Readers would be well advised to clip these signals from the paper and post them in a convenient place.

RECORD OF 51 INCHES SNOW, LAURENTIAN MOUNTAINS

A record snowfall was noted at Ste. Agathe des Monts during the month of December, a fact which accounted for a heavy patronage of skiers, for which conditions have also continued suitable during January. In Ste. Agathe the depth recorded was 51 inches. St. Jerome had 30 1/2 inches, Lucerne in Quebec 22 to 30 inches. The low record was noted at Huberdeau, where only nine inches of snow fell in the same period.

TWO SERIOUS FIRES IN TOWN THIS WEEK

BRIGADE BATTLES OUTBREAKS IN SUB-ZERO WEATHER

The lot of the firefighter has not been an easy one, in the two outbreaks which occurred here this week in bitterly cold weather. The most disastrous blaze completely gutted the Medical Hall on Main Street, an old county landmark which in recent years had taken on a bright and active appearance. The old building is now scarred and desolate.

A little after 6 a.m. last Friday, Mr. Matthew Jones, on his way to attend to the High School furnaces, noticed smoke and gave the alarm that the drug-store was on fire. The fire brigade were soon on the scene, and after a little delay owing to frozen hydrants, had large volumes of water playing on the blaze. The highly inflammable contents of the store, however, caused the fire to spread quickly, and the entire interior of the building was destroyed before the flames were subdued. Clouds of smoke and steam, as the cold water pounded the blazing structure, attracted many people to the scene.

The actual cause of the fire could not be ascertained, but starting in the basement and rear of the shop, it is surmised the furnace pipes became overheated. The efforts of the firemen were responsible for keeping damage within the coverage of insurance, which was fortunately enough to meet $1,950 loss on the building and $2,550 on the stock, as appraised by the adjustors.

BLAZE NEAR C. N. R. DEPOT

The residence of Omer Guindon, barber, was the next structure to fall prey to flames. The house is of logs, brick-covered, located near Campbell's Mill across the C. N. R. track. Here a neighbor, Mr. Prevost, noticed the fire at 8.45 a.m. on Sunday. The house was closed, Mr. Guindon having gone to mass, and by the time the firemen received the summons the whole interior was ablaze and flames issuing from the roof.

Two streams of hose were connected and the fire was confined to the dwelling. An adjoining garage, with a car inside was badly scorched. Insurance of $1,000 on the property and a similar amount on the contents, was considered sufficient to cover the loss.

It was learned that Mr. Guindon had built up the fire before going out. His wife and family were away from home at the time, and the house was unattended. A cat and dog were said to have perished in the blaze.

DIES FROM INJURIES WHILE SKIING

VICTIM OF MISHAP AT ST. SAUVEUR

As a result of injuries suffered a week ago last Sunday (a mishap reported on this page last week) Henry Galloway, 34-year-old-Montrealer, died at the Jewish General Hospital. A determined effort to save his life proved unavailing when poisoning set in after it had seemed possible that he might recover.

According to friends who were present at the time of the accident, Galloway was skiing down "Hill 70" at St. Sauveur when one of his skis struck a partially covered rock. He was tossed in the air and landed on his back on top of a sharp tree trunk. He was carried on a toboggan to the Red Birds clubhouse and later removed to the train on the top of the table on which he had been placed in the house. At Montreal he was rushed to the hospital, where an operation was performed. Three blood transfusions were given during the week, but poisoning set in, and the young man died on Sunday.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

UNUSUAL ANGLES

Individuality can be shown in your snapshots by taking some of them at odd angles. Such pictures are often much more attractive than conventional, straight-on views.

YOU will be amazed how an odd slant or angle will make an interesting picture of a commonplace scene. Like so many other things we do day after day, we can easily get into a rut in taking pictures. Usually we take just the normal, conventional view—straight at the subject—as if it were a sacred rule of picture-making to do this. It is not at all necessary to take pictures that way every time. Variety is the spice of live photography!

Street scenes—the scurrying crowds, the repair gang at work, the traffic jam—are usually more striking if taken from a high level. We are, of course, familiar with the reverse view—the pictures of skyscrapers with the camera pointed directly up. The buildings appear to be leaning backwards and about to topple off their foundations. Such pictures are frankly intended to be bizarre distortions, but if you like them, by all means "shoot" them. Some of them will at least be funny.

Parade scenes are effective if the camera is held low, or on the ground, for you will get the effect of feet marching into the camera—realism. This applies, too, in taking pictures of running or trotting races. Swimming pictures are better if the camera is at a high level and you "shoot" almost directly down on the subject. From this angle you get the ripples of the water and the light playing on them. Another out of the ordinary picture is that of action on a toboggan-slide, such as you see at bathing beaches and amusement parks. Get set with your camera at a high level within range of the spot where the toboggan strikes the water. When you snap the picture you will get a fantastic and attractive effect as the water splashes high above the occupants. Slides in swimming pools or at the beach offer the same opportunity as the bathers strike the water. But if you are close up, be sure and don't let the water splash on the lens of your camera.

Winter offers exceptionally fine opportunities for picture taking at odd angles. For instance, there is the old mill and the mill pond hidden in the summer by the foliage of the willows. You can't get it at any angle. But in the winter from high up on the hill you can get the full picture. Old Jack Frost and King Winter solve many picture problems by removing the leaves and the chances for getting artistic effects are often much more in your favor than in the summer.

In suggesting that you take some of your pictures from high levels, it does not necessarily mean that you should be on a balcony or on top of a building every time. You can perch on a chair, a fence, or the top of your automobile, and get perspectives that will make attractively distinctive pictures.

But all pictures do not lend themselves to this type of photography so don't make it a habit. You would get some queer results sometimes. Just as a good newspaper reporter develops a "nose for news" that tells him what is and what it not news, so the successful amateur photographer should develop "an eye for pictures." It is that which instinctively tells him the subjects that make good "angle" shots and which should be taken in the conventional manner. "Keep shooting" does it.

PETER'S TEA-TIME CLOCK

"I am going to help my mother" Said Peter with a grin, As he tucked a pink-checked apron 'Neath his chubby, dimpled chin.

"My mother has no little girls, So I like to help, you see, I am not really fond of dishes, But I love to make the tea.

The kettle tells me when it's time, I hear it start to purr, Then it sings a little song to me Like our canary's chir-r, chir-r, chir-r.

I laugh, and so does mother, When I hear it calling me 'Pe-ter, Pe-ter, Pe-ter, get the tea pot hot, It's time to make the tea."

Marjorie laughed softly to herself as she soared over the pine tree. She knew just what Hootie was thinking as he stared up at them. He was wishing those silly snowflakes would stop flying around, so that he could find something to eat. It was useless for him to hunt for food when it was blowing and snowing, as the Little Blue Bunny and all his family would stay in their snug warm beds until the storm was over, as well as the other little woodland and feathered folk.

Marjorie knew just how often she had felt quite the same way about a snow-storm when she wanted to go out to play, but now that she was soaring along with them she did not feel a bit silly, nor her companions either.

Quite often they came to rest, once in the hollow where she had so often picked daffodils in the spring, and later they leaned against Dell Higgins' grape-arbor. How surprised Dell would be if she knew, thought Marjorie to herself, and could scarcely keep from sounding the old call, "Hoo-ee, hoo-ee, D-e-l-l." In fact she started to, without thinking, but the sound was smothered by the fierce blast of wind that seemed to pour right down her throat when she opened her mouth; and immediately the chant began again, "Away we go, away we go—" and once more they were off.

"How far is it to where Princess Snowball lives?" she asked Krinkly Krum, who kept very close to her side.

"Why, are you getting tired? If you are, I shall have to speak to Tinker Tom about it, I ordered him to make you the best pair of flying shoes that could be made—and if you are tired so soon he could not have done that."

"I am not getting tired. I am just inquisitive, I guess," said Marjorie, with a laugh.

"Inquisitiveness—a strange and unpleasant malady. It leads folks into all sorts of mischief, my dear," said Krinkly Krum with one of his queer crackling laughs.

"What is all the fun about?" asked a big, crooked Snow-flake fairy, slowing down until he came close to Marjorie on the other side. She rather wished that he would keep away; he made her feel quite uncomfortable.

Turning his little head around and winking slyly at Marjorie, Krinkly Krum replied "We were laughing about inquisitive people."

"Oh you were, were you?"

said the crooked Snowflake, blowing his icy breath right into Marjorie's face. His voice had a hard, sneering sound. Marjorie felt that this was not a very kind member of the Snowflake and Snowball family.

"See here, Iceberg!" said Krinkly Krum, his voice snapping, "Golden Locks is not only my guest but the guest of Princess Snowball, to whom we are taking her, so no more of that chilling process, if you please."

"So!" said Iceberg, "that is why we are flying in this direction? I might have known. Are we to be put on the rack tonight and made to confess our faults and our failings? If so, I hope the wind changes as I am not fond of Madame the Princess and her icy glare."

Marjorie shivered at his words. "Confess our faults and failings?" she whispered to herself. My, what a lot she would have to confess. She wondered if she would remember them all. She found herself wishing that the wind would change too. But Krinkly Krum was speaking. "As to the inquisition, Iceberg, only the guilty fear it. When one has done no wrong there is nothing to fear. Our dear Princess looks only for the good in her family."

Marjorie felt comforted. She had some good deeds to her credit. Oh, how she wished there were more!

"All at once they seemed to be sinking, sinking, sinking, until they came to rest on a sheet of ice so covered with moonlight that it looked like a huge golden mirror. She saw her own reflection in it—a little frightened face surrounded with curls as golden in color as the ice on which they stood. Her dress was snow white and all a-sparkle; it made her look just like a bat, only bats were mouse-colored and she was white. She stood quite still, staring at herself. She certainly looked little like the Marjorie Black who (it seemed quite a long time ago) had sat listening to old Mammy Sue singin."

She was startled at the sound of Iceberg's voice quite close to her. But she discovered he was not talking to her, and it gave her an opportunity to see just what he looked like. He looked oddly familiar, and seemed to be associated in her memory with severe aches in the fingers and pains in her toes, which had been frost-nipped on her way to school. He turned and looked into her eyes. "What horrid eyes you have!" She had uttered her thoughts aloud.

If possible his eyes took on a meaner, more wicked look. "Just wait!" he hissed. "Just wait!"—Marjorie felt that she would rather not wait, and started to move away from him.

CAN PICK SCOUTS IN SCHOOL ROOM

That he could pick out in the school room boys who had been or were Scouts was the declaration of Principal J. L. Forster of the Sandwich, Ont., High School, before a gathering of Border Cities Scouters. "In one of my Third Form classes," said the principal, "I was so impressed with the scholastic ability of the boys that I asked those who were Scouts to stand. All but two arose."

Garbo Stars in a Master Film at Rex Theatre

In "The Painted Veil" Greta Garbo returns to a modern role and achieves what is likely to be the highest dramatic effort in her career. This is Garbo's twentieth starring film in the nine years since she came to North America.

The story, from the pen of the master novelist, Somerset Maugham, begins in the dreary home of an Austrian scientist and, following the star's marriage to a young British doctor, it ascends to most gripping episodes of love, hatred and sacrifice in a cholera-infested district of interior China.

The picture, fraught with the mystery and intrigue of the Orient, serves as an admirable successor to Miss Garbo's last production, "Queen Christina," which brought her out of seclusion after an absence of two years from the screen.

"The Painted Veil" also introduces to the theatre world a new leading man for Garbo. In the past, such names as John Gilbert, Clark Gable, Robert Montgomery, Ramon Novarro and a dozen more of the screen's handsomest men have been linked with the name of Garbo over thousands of box-offices. This time, Herbert Marshall portrays Dr. Walter Fane, the young medical scientist who marries the Austrian girl and takes her to China, where he quickly neglects her for his scientific business.

Altogether, the picture is a master production, which should attract every movie-lover in the district to its appearance this week at the Rex Theatre, Lachute.

Improvements have been made in the radio pick-up facilities at the Mount Royal Hotel with which Charlie Dornberger anticipates improved radio broadcasts. Because of the size of the dining room, it has always been difficult to broadcast, but now the band is on a higher platform, with a canopy erected over it.

Must Have Ethical Training for our Youth, says H. H. Stevens

Ottawa—The serious importance to Canada of assuring high ethical standards in the training of our future citizens was referred to by the Hon. H. H. Stevens in an interview with reference to announced plans for the extension of the Boy Scout Movement.

That Canadian youth never before has played so important a role in shaping the Dominion's destinies, and at the same time never have presented so difficult a social and economic problem, was the declaration of the former Minister of Trade and Commerce and first chairman of the Price Spreads Commission.

Said Mr. Stevens: "Never in the history of this country has youth been more prominent in its effect upon the future of the country."

"On the one hand trained and informed young men and women are taking a larger part in the major activities of the country.

"On the other hand one is forced to admit that the most serious social and economic problem we have today is how we are to care for, in useful occupation, the thousands of youths that are leaving our educational institutions year by year.

"The Boy Scout movement has been one of the greatest factors in the development of character in youth; and character, after all, is the most essential element in the upbuilding of a true citizen.

"No greater contribution could at this time be made to the country's welfare than just such contribution as is being made day by day by the Boy Scout movement."

AMATEUR RADIO PROGRAMS

There is a vogue these days, even on the major networks, for programs by amateur radio artists. While the development is commendable from the fact that it gives many more people a chance to make good on the air, the chances of making good on the air are extremely slim. It was Paul Whiteman who estimated the odds against making good on the radio at about 20,000 to one.

CKAC in Montreal has always been ready to give the amateur a chance to make good, and so a new feature called "Amateur Night" will be heard on February 6 at 9.30 p.m. for the first time. Anyone desiring to try out on this show, should communicate with the station. The studio is making a small payment to each artist used.

A Short Story

BY L. C. ALLAN

Jake Benson relaxed luxuriously in front of the crackling grate in the Old Boys' Club, and contemplated his lit cigar. "I'll tell you, Hank," he declared stubbornly, "that the world just as well may be flat as round."

Henry Temagami Brown—"Hank" to Jake Benson since boyhood—pulled at his pipe impatiently.

"Off that limb?" he invited.

"Limb my eye," Jake countered heatedly, sitting bolt upright. "I've been asking you for an hour now to prove to me that the world is round, and all you can say is, 'sure it's round; certainly it's round; of course it's round!' What I want to hear from you is how you know it's round. You're just repeating what somebody told you, like a . . ."

"Now don't say that about the parrot again," Hank warned.

"Hmph! You're sore because the cap fits."

"Aw, nonsense, Jake; lay off that foolishness," Hank pleaded irritably, rising to stretch himself. "This is my birthday, and I'm all for enjoying it."

"Just the same, the world may just as well be flat as round," Jake persisted, doggedly.

Hank peered at him intently, in the middle of stretching. Then, abruptly, he took several strides in the direction of the door and called good-bye.

"Where are you going, Hank?" Jake teased.

"Out to let the wind blow my hat off," Hank responded with heat. Nor was he pleased, as he strode through the door, to hear Jake chuckle.

Outside snow was falling fast, and the streets were crowded with hurrying shoppers. Hank made his way through the crowd slowly, stopping at intervals to view the pretty window displays. They were of no particular interest to him; about as much so as a window demonstration of an electric washing machine is to the average bachelor on the street. Hank looked because others were looking. Then he went on because others went on, only to stop again a little further ahead. Eventually he arrived at his office; it was mid-afternoon.

Half an hour later Hank was trying to dictate a letter to his stenographer, but his mind wandered.

"Can't seem to keep my wits from wool gathering, Miss Francis," he said. Then, smiling: "You'd hardly think I'd touched the half-century mark today, now would you?" Involuntarily he straightened his tie.

Miss Francis expressed surprise. "Congratulations," she offered. "You certainly are holding your years well."

Her employer appeared pleased. "Never felt better in my life," he declared. "I was just telling an old friend of mine—Jake Benson—that a man's as old as he feels. Of course Jake had to argue about it; he argues about everything under the sun. Maybe you know the fellow I mean—a middle-sized little up-start . . ."

"Oh, yes," Miss Francis interrupted uneasily, coloring. "I know Mr. Benson; that is, you mean the slightly-built gentleman who . . ."

"Argues," Hank supplied, not noticing the girl's confusion. "Morning, noon and night he's ready to argue. In some ways Jake is a pest, but he and I have been friends for a good many years. We both were raised in the same town; went to school together when we were nippers this high." He indicated the height.

"The only time Jake and I ever quarrelled though," he continued, "was a good many years ago when we found out that each was rushing the same girl." Hank laughed.

"Don't mind me telling you all this nonsense, do you, Miss Francis?"

While the stenographer declared that she didn't object, yet she was uncomfortable, obviously.

"But," Hank laughed, "the girl, married another fellow and poor old Jake and I are still bachelors, free, white and twenty-one."

Miss Francis looked down at her typewriter, seeking some sensible thing to say, then asked if the marriage turned out a success.

"For a while," Hank explained reminiscently. "But it was cut short. She was still a widow the last I heard, and teaching school again in the old home town."

Miss Francis realized that at the moment she was in the confidence of her employer to an extent that would be amusing were he not in a birthday mood. And, while a discreet young lady, she felt that she might dare suggest her surprise that neither her employer nor his friend, Mr. Benson, had corresponded with their widowed girl friend of earlier years.

"Well, we haven't written," Hank declared. "At least, I haven't, and I don't suppose Jake has or he would have told me. He tells me everything."

At this evidence of misplaced confidence, the stenographer smiled. "No, I wouldn't think Mr. Benson would write," she said, a trifle uncertainly. But her uneasy attitude of mind was not apparent to Hank. He was pre-occupied with a romantic idea. He stared at Miss Francis, yet was but vaguely conscious of her presence. And the romantic idea developed rapidly.

"Say, by Jove, Miss Francis," he finally exploded, "I'd like to steal a march on Jake Benson. How would it be if I took a little birthday holiday a—few days—in the old town without telling Jake that I was going?" he asked, winking both eyes, and grinning. "Nothing serious in the trip," he pursued; "I'd just drop in on the old place unexpectedly and, well, you know, call around to-morrow morning and surprise her at the school-house."

"I think that would be splendid," Miss Francis agreed with enthusiasm. "I'm sure she would be delighted to see you again."

"Of course," Hank went on excitedly, "since it's a special occasion, I would have to take along some little gift."

"Of course," Hank went on er agreed.

"What I'm getting at is that I never was very good at choosing presents. Now what would you suggest as a suitable gift for a lady not too young?"

Miss Francis considered. Finally she enquired, "You say she teaches school?"

"Yes."

"Well, why not a school globe—an atlas—you know what I mean: one of those big balls with the world painted on it."

"Very appropriate," Hank responded with conviction. "Very appropriate, indeed. Nothing sentimental nor silly about it. Very practical. Thank you. Now we'll just finish these letters," he added.

He dictated for a quarter of an hour, gave instructions as to enclosures, then leaned back in his swivel chair. "That will be all, Miss Francis," he said at last. "Oh, by the way," he concluded, as she was about to withdraw, "not a word about what we were discussing, eh?"

"Oh, certainly not!" Miss Francis promised.

"Thank you," he said. "I wouldn't want Mr. Benson to get wind of my plans, in case he decided to come along too. It's just what he might do, if he knew what I was up to."

It was snowing heavily as Hank made his way to the postal pillar box in front of the depot. A last minute urge of mailing a funny postcard to Jake was being acted upon. The card deposited, he grinned boyishly, shook himself to rid his overcoat of snow, stamped his feet, and made his way through the throngs of travellers to the ticket window, a globe atlas under his arm.

The train journey represented a ten-hours' ride, and as no berths were vacant, Hank dozed not so comfortably as he would have chosen. He longed for the tedious journey's end. Finally, at ten minutes to three in the morning, the brakeman warned him that his destination was being approached, so he got into his overcoat, pulled down from the rack his club bag and the parcel containing the globe, and staggered to the door. The train stopped and the brakeman helped him down the steps to the snow-packed wooden platform.

The station was in utter darkness, but for a cold moon across which clouds scudded at intervals, no light was in evidence at all. In these early morning hours of winter, Hank's old home town seemed strange, unlike his boyhood home. The wind blew bitterly cold about him, as he trudged along the desolate platform, trying to recall the direction of the hotel of the place.

He felt his way along the ice-covered street carefully and came to a large frame structure, above the front door of which were the words, "Boarding House." A sign in the window, discernible in the vague moonlight, told him that lodgings, also, were available by the day or week.

Hank climbed the frost-creaking steps to the landing of the place and pounded upon the door. In a few minutes a window opened above, and someone called "Hello, there."

Having made his requirements known, Hank was met, presently, at the front door, by an elderly man in a flannel night gown, who held a coal-oil lamp in one hand. And in good time Hank was directed to a bedroom.

His blood was not circulating with sufficient abandon to win sleep at once. After half an hour he crawled out of bed and added his big overcoat to the quilts, and a clock somewhere had struck four before he fell asleep. When he awakened the morning was well-advanced. His room was warm, for downstairs fires were lit. He shaved, washed and went downstairs.

The proprietor met him at the entrance to the dining room. "Morning, stranger," he welcomed, "Sleep well?"

Hank said he had slept soundly.

"Guess I'll have to get you a bite of breakfast myself," the proprietor apologized. "Women folks is all away this morning. There's a big wedding on—our school mam's getting spliced."

Hank's heart missed a beat. "That so?" he asked, trying to be casual. "What's the happy lady's name?"

"She'll be Mrs. . . ." the hotelman commenced, but Hank interrupted.

"What's her maiden name?" he demanded impatiently.

The name was given, and Hank's face took on a somewhat livid hue. For a few moments he tried to speak, but no intelligible words came. Finally he managed to ask, in a weak voice, "Is there a train back to the city soon?"

"In half an hour," the proprietor explained, after consulting his watch. "You're not staying with us for long, Mister?"

"No," Hank said, firmly. "There will be just time for a cup of coffee, thanks. I must catch that train. No, nothing at all to eat, thanks; I'm not at all hungry; just a cup of coffee."

AN ADVERTISEMENT KILLER

The Managing Director of a factory decided to spend $3,000 on advertising. So he engaged a very efficient Advertising Agency to draw up a dozen advertisements.

A week later, the Advertising Agent appeared in the office of the Managing Director with the advertisements.

The Management Director looked them over with eyes of disapproval. "I don't like these advertisements at all," he said.

"I don't like these catchy headlines. I want the name of the firm at the top of every advertisement."

"These photographs of people using my machines—I don't like them at all. You must put in every advertisement a wash-drawing of the factory."

"The copy, too, is too conversational. It is undignified. I want you to put in a technical description of my machine. You might quote from the patent."

"This offer of a pretty booklet at the end of each advertisement—I don't like it either. I'd have to take on an extra girl in the office to send the booklets out. Better say: 'Call at nearest dealer's.'"

"Now just make these corrections and get on with the job."

The poor Advertising Agent—what could he say? He said nothing. He sent out the murdered advertisements.

Two months later, the Managing Director said: "No, Sir, advertising doesn't pay. I tried it and I lost $3,000."

THE FIRST REAL CANADIAN MONEY

History relates that Canada, in 1817, "was too poor to afford the luxury of a metallic circulating medium, and the development of trade and agriculture was hampered by the lack of facilities for exchange."

American money, also British and French and some Spanish and Portuguese, was used—all subject to fluctuating rates of exchange and causing monetary confusion. There was no Canadian money, either coin or paper.

But in 1817, when the Bank of Montreal was started, its directors—merchants who knew what Canadian business urgently needed—immediately provided a paper currency (the Bank's own bills in small denominations) and later copper coins. These Bank of Montreal issues were the first real Canadian money.

Through 117 years since then, the Bank of Montreal's notes have performed a useful function, as Canadian business has grown from small beginnings to its present extensive proportions. These notes have provided a sound, dependable and elastic currency, their volume automatically expanding and contracting with the changing demands of trade.

Notes of the Bank now in circulation amount to $35,000,000, or about one-fourth of the entire commercial bank note currency of Canada.

The Bank's resources ($739,000,000) are likewise about one-fourth of the total resources of the Canadian commercial banks. These figures indicate the extent to which the Bank of Montreal participates in Canadian business activity.

REFORMS IN TORONTO VOTING (Montreal Gazette)

Mayor Simpson announces that one of the reforms he will urge for Toronto will be extension of the municipal franchise for everyone 21 years of age and over. This will be a departure from the common civic plan that the taxpayers should be the ones to choose the men to look after their interests. Its enforcement would make more voters but would hardly improve the municipal situation. Toronto, like other places, needs efficient management rather than more vote-casters.

LESS FAVORED WORKLESS (Brandon Daily Sun.)

There is one phase of the unemployed problem that should be considered more carefully in the various relief measures to provide work for the jobless. All work-providing plans are designed to give jobs to those on the relief lists. That is quite proper, of course, from the point of view of those who watch the interests of the taxpayer—who must pay every cent given out to unemployed. At the same time there are unwilling workless and willing workers who are not named on relief lists. Some families and some rugged individuals abhor the idea of taking public relief. They honestly strive to live through the stress and would rather earn than take pay for not working. Nevertheless, these good citizens are not eligible for most work now offered—because they do not accept public relief. It would be degrading if all unemployed must "go on relief" to get work. Still the civic rule, provincial method and Dominion regulations all favor those who register for public funds for relief purposes. The unfairness of the system and non-recognition of honesty could be observed with discretion and from justice.

ENCOURAGEMENT

Encouragement—the winning word—is uplifting to the recipient; it reacts to the credit of the giver. "Give and it shall be given unto you" does not refer to material things. That which a man does for himself dies with him, but that which he does for others is immortal. "Life is a place of service—but the joy (of service) can only be real to those who look upon their life as a service and have a definite object outside themselves and their own personal happiness." —Tolstoi.

THE BUILDER

An old man going a lone highway,
Came at the evening cold and gray
To a chasm vast and deep and wide.
The old man crossed in the twilight dim,
The sullen stream had no fear for him.
But he paused when safe on the other side
And built a bridge to stem the tide.
"Old Man," said a fellow pilgrim near,
"You are wasting your strength building here,
Your journey will end with the closing day,
You never again shall pass this way.
You've crossed the chasm deep and wide,
Why build you this bridge at eventide?"
The builder lifted his old gray head,
"Good friend, in the path I've come," he said,
"There followeth after me to-day
A youth whose feet must pass this way,
This chasm that's been as naught to me
To that fair-haired youth may a pitfall be;
He, too, must cross in the twilight dim,
Good friend, I'm building this bridge for him."

The Ottawa Spotlight

A Weekly Review of National Affairs
Specially written for The Watchman
By Wilfrid Eggleston

Ottawa, January 29.—The present session get down to brass tacks faster than any of recent years. The Debate on the Address is usually good for three weeks: this year it collapsed, through lack of opposition, in less than two full days and a half. Moreover—which seems to constitute a record—there was no 'want-of-confidence' motion introduced by the Opposition, and it was adopted without one single dissenting voice. Almost like the spirit of a Union Government.

Mr. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, gave the House on Monday what the Liberals seemed to think was a masterly address, one of his best. It started out before the dinner interval as though it was going to be the world's worst, and then after dinner turned into a model of good sense, sweetness and light, plus one of the shrewdest moves in political strategy seen here for some time. As I indicated in recent letters, it was obviously Premier Bennett's tactics to manoeuvre the Liberals into a position of opposition and reaction to the New Deal, or 'Reform Program.' Not only did Mackenzie King skillfully avoid the trap, but he caught the government leader offguard by proposing to wind up the Throne Speech debate without delay, shorten private members' days, and set immediately about this new Reform program—knowing full well, I suppose, that the reform legislation is of such recent origin that very little of it is yet ready for presentation.

LIBERAL LEADER'S FAUX PAS

The Liberals up on the Hill seemed to think that MacKenzie King demonstrated beyond question where most of the reform legislation originally came from, who had been urging it for years, and who would be the obvious man to place it on the statute books. The Liberal leader made a faux pas about 'putting it in a book' about which he will hear plenty, but he seized the opportunity to review his own endeavors in behalf of labour, and personally I think he made out a good case.

The obvious weakness of the Liberal position—as Mr. Bennett proceeded to show in his reply, was that though they had talked a lot about social reform in the past, they had been jolly slow about putting it on the statute books.

Of the private members' addresses on the Throne Speech, the palm must be given to a touching half-hour address by the venerable old Nationalist, Henri Bourassa, who pleaded for co-operation from all in behalf of the country and the suffering masses.

AN EVENTFUL WEEK

'Twas an eventful week. The announcement that the United States proposed to negotiate a trade treaty with Canada at an early date was announced in the House. The estimates were tabled. We had a debate on the desirability of a Canadian flag, following ancient lines, ending up with a promise by the Secretary of State to discuss the matter in Cabinet. In the Senate the Speech from the Throne was rapidly disposed of, and Senator Meighen made a long statement about his position in respect to the purchase of the Ontario Power Service Bonds by the Ontario Hydro, at a time when he was on the Hydro Commission and at the same time the investment corporation in which he was interested held quantities of the bonds.

The estimates show a mild inclination to spend a bit more freely. The civil servants are to get one-half of their pay-cuts (of 10 per cent) back beginning April 1. Aviation, agriculture, national defence and public works, all departments which suffered especially severely from the axe and the pruning knife in past days, found the treasury inclined to be more generous with them this year. A saving of four million dollars a year in interest on the public debt permitted the government to plan the spending of a little more money without swelling the total appreciably over last year's figures. Of course, there are still the supplementaries, which sometimes are generous, especially just before a general election.

Speaking of elections, there can't be one till mid-April, it seems, on account of the lists not being ready. And Premier Bennett is of the opinion the people don't want an election at an early date—so he told the House.

LAI'D TO REST AT GRENVILLE

The funeral took place on Sunday at Grenville of Miss Winona M. Robinson, only daughter of Rupert N. Robinson, and Hazel Winona Williamson, of Montreal. Only in her 23rd. year, Miss Robinson was taken ill with peritonitis and was operated on at the Royal Victoria Hospital, where she died on Friday. She was the granddaughter of the late Capt. James Williamson of Grenville, and after a funeral service at the residence on Hutchinson street, conducted by Rev. W. J. Ellis, former rector of Grenville, the body was brought to Grenville for interment. Miss Robinson is survived by her parents and three brothers, Donald, Gerald and Jim Robinson.

VICTORIA set for WINTER GOLF FESTIVAL

Golf on sun-shine flooded courses over fairways and greens as springy and smooth as in summer, but with a minimum of rough, is the lure for the seventh annual renewal of the Empress Midwinter Golf tournament to be played over the scenic and championship links of the Oak Bay course at Victoria, B.C., February 18-23.

The lure of midwinter golf brings the ardent golfer from all parts of Canada and the United States, not to mention Europe, to compete in this now famous tournament, inaugurated seven years ago by the Empress Hotel, Victoria and the Canadian Pacific Railway with a view to telling the world that Canada has in its courses on Vancouver Island, weather conditions that rival those farther south in winter time. There is no lack of prizes, and some of them rank high in the world of golf trophies.

The E. W. Beatty Trophy still remains the chief award, but the prize list has been augmented greatly. The Victoria Chamber of Commerce set up its fine cup as the reward for an open amateur championship — the Beatty Cup being for handicap play in men's and women's divisions; the late Jack Matson, noted British Columbia sportsman, added his cup for inter-district team matches played for by four-men teams, and the Victoria Rotary club put up a handsome rose bowl to reward the fair golfer who turned in the best gross qualifying score, and the Victoria Golf Club and Royal Colwood Golf Club also have been helpful in increasing the array of silver ware to more than fifty fine pieces.

For 1935, the sea-girt, short and tricky Oak Bay course of the Victoria Golf Club has been chosen as the scene of the 7th Empress tournament, with dates February 18-23 inclusive.

Lay-Out shows the first Green; the E. W. Beatty Cup; the Oak Bay Club House, and the Empress Hotel.

The Misses Joy and Dorothy Oswald, accompanied by their friends, Miss Lorraine How and Miss Mary Grant, of Montreal, spent an enjoyable week-end with their aunt, Mrs. Jas. Hamilton.

Mr. Louis Lafleur and daughter, Miss Suzanne, were in Montreal over the week-end visiting Miss Jeannine Lafleur, who is in a Montreal hospital recovering after an operation for appendicitis.

The Motor Show and other attractions have been attended by many from this district, visiting the city by car as well as by train. It is reported a considerable traffic has used the highway to St. Jerome, which thanks to consistent efforts with the snow-plow has been kept in good shape. Both for sleighs and automobiles the road affords good travelling, and the farming communities have found no cause for complaint.

Excursion trains to Montreal were well patronized last week-end, some 200 adults and many children boarding the trains at Lachute. The opening of the Motor Show drew large crowds to the city, while ideal conditions in the Laurentians attracted many city folk via the "Ski Special" to Shawbridge, Ste. Agathe and neighbouring resorts. Altogether it was a week-end of comings and goings.

A DIVERSITY OF INTERESTS

Occasionally I do some speaking and I have been impressed by the diversity of people's interests. Afterwards there are usually quite a few people come to make comments or ask questions and seldom do two comment on the same thing. They are interested in the thing that has touched them personally and not two people have the same experiences. I was amused after my last talk. I had answered questions for some time and one of them had been on the advisability of using sugar with grapefruit. A woman from Texas was in the audience and she immediately came forward to say that if we used Texas grapefruit we would find that they were so sweet that they would not need sugar. She went on to give facts and figures on the fruit situation generally and the grapefruit in particular. Did you ever see anyone from Texas or from Florida who missed an opportunity to advertise their own state? It might be a good thing for all of us if we were sufficiently interested to find out very definitely all about our own province.

VITAMIN C

Vitamin C is to be found in fresh foods and is the one which prevents scurvy. There are not many people who have scurvy, these days, but there are a great many whose health is affected by lack of vitamin C. They may not be actually ill but they lack the definite good health which all of us should have. Vitamin C cannot be stored in the body, and for this reason we should include something fresh in our food each day. Few people lack vitamin C in the summer time but in the winter it is a different problem. Partly because it is difficult to obtain, and partly because fresh foods are expensive. To-day we will consider some of the cheaper sources. Leafy vegetables are one of the best sources of vitamin C and cabbage of course comes under this class. This vitamin is destroyed to a large extent by cooking so have a cabbage salad as often as you can. Cabbage may be used to take the place of lettuce in winter salads, so instead of the usual lettuce leaf, use a base of finely chopped cabbage. Vary the salad-dressings, add a spoonful or two of mayonnaise to your boiled dressing, or mix a little catsup with your dressing. Grated raw carrot adds colour, flavour and vitamin C. Tomatoes are rich in vitamin C. Instead of buying tomato juice, buy a large can of tomatoes and drain off most of the juice and use the remaining pulp in some other way—in soups or scalloped for example. Chill canned tomatoes thoroughly and season with salt, pepper and sugar and a little lemon juice. If you lack the lemon juice use a few drops of vinegar but the lemon juice is preferable. If you are substituting tomato juice for orange when feeding your baby, remember that the vitamin C in tomato juice is just as good as in orange juice but there is not as much of it present, so double the quantity of tomato juice. Turnip juice has been found to contain a good quantity of vitamin C and has been used successfully in infant feeding. I have never extracted it but I imagine that the easiest way would be to put it through the grinder. Have you ever served carrot sticks? They are surprisingly good. Cut carrots in strips suitable for serving, crisp them in cold water and serve as you would celery. I often have them with head lettuce. I separate the leaves of of lettuce and pile them on a serving plate and garnish liberally with carrot sticks. Most children like a piece of raw vegetable. A chunk of cabbage, a piece of turnip, or a raw carrot left casually on the kitchen table are often eaten eagerly. Oranges, lemons and grapefruit are the most frequently used sources of vitamin C but they are not the only ones. I have not mentioned the apple, but you cannot do better than to have a dish of apples handy, all through the winter.

THE LINEN SALES

Many people take advantage of the winter linen sales to replenish their stocks. There are two ways of keeping the stocks up. Some women buy a pair of sheets, two pairs of pillow cases and towels and so on each year. Others like to buy a quantity of one thing each year so that their supplies will be the same. I like the latter method myself as I prefer my sheets, towels and so on to be the same size. Remember that when you are buying sheets you must allow for shrinkage. Sheets will sometimes shrink as much as five and a half inches in length and may stretch an inch or two in width. If you want to be sure that your sheets are long enough you had better purchase them in three yard lengths and that will allow plenty for hems and shrinkage and still leave sufficient to tuck in well. A short sheet is a continual aggravation.

TOMATO SOUP

2 cups tomato pulp
2 teaspoons butter
Speck pepper
1 teaspoon sugar
4 crackers rolled
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 cups milk
1/4 teaspoon soda

Empty a No. 2 1/2 can of tomatoes into the colander and drain off part of the juice, reserving it to serve as tomato juice. Measure 2 cups of the remaining pulp, filling up with tomato juice if necessary. Add cracker crumbs, butter and seasonings to the tomatoes and bring to the boil. Heat the milk and when both milk and tomatoes are just at the boil, add the soda to the tomatoes, and stir until thoroughly mixed. Add the milk slowly and stir. Do not allow to boil. Taste to see if additional salt and sugar are required as the tomatoes differ in flavour and additional seasoning may be necessary.

BAKED TOMATO AND SPINACH

Put a layer of seasoned fresh or canned spinach in a casserole then a layer of well seasoned canned tomatoes. Repeat, and top with buttered crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven of 375 degrees for twenty minutes.

REX THEATRE ANNOUNCES MATINEES

GARBO IN OPENING FEATURE, SATURDAY

In response to public request, the Rex Theatre Saturday afternoon Matinees will recommence this week. Reduced prices 25c. for these popular performances. As an outstanding feature to herald this matinee re-opening, Greta Garbo in The Painted Veil will be shown on Saturday—affording a rare program at a modest admission price.

Next spring, the fashion experts say, skirts will be shorter. Women will still dress in the height of discretion, but the height of discretion will be raised a few inches.

Ginseng Popular in Orient
Ginseng is a plant of the species Panax, the root of which is used in the preparation of medicine and it is most widely used in the Orient. It is native to Korea and Manchuria but the product of Korea is considered the best quality. American ginseng is extensively exported, the wild variety generally considered the best and bringing the highest price. Prices vary with the market and quality of the roots but they generally range from $5 to $15 per pound. There have been times when prices have been many times that per ounce.

Rice Most Important

According to a professor of botany at the University of California, Los Angeles, rice is the most important crop in the world, as it furnishes the basic diet for over a billion people and is almost the only food of millions. It was grown and cultivated in China as early as 2800 B. C. It is estimated that there are from 5,000 to 7,000 rice varieties under cultivation, some maturing in 60 days and some requiring a year. Rice production in the United States is small compared with that of other cereals, but still it ranked eighteenth in the list of cultivated crops in 1924.

"Passion Flower"

The name "passion flower" (flos passionis) arose from the supposed resemblance of its corona to the crown of thorns and of the other parts of the flower to the nails and wounds of Jesus Christ at His crucifixion, while the five sepals and five petals were taken to symbolize the ten apostles; Peter, who denied, and Judas, who betrayed, being omitted. Passion is the term given to the sufferings of Christ during the last days of His life.—Washington Star.

Plane Like Bat

One of the curious flying machines of the early 1890's was constructed in imitation of a bat, with a frame below for carrying the driving power and the load. The wings, made of bamboo, covered with silk, were made to oscillate and given a rocking motion. A means of propelling this machine by an electric current from lines on the ground dispensed with the weight of batteries. Of course, no great distance could be covered.

HER CURIOSITY WAS AROUSED

"Kansas Municipality" is authority for the story of a western mayor receiving a letter from an eastern resident, the contents of which are as follows:

Kind and respected Sir:

I see in a paper that a man named John Sipes was attached and set up by a bare whose cubs he was trying to get when the she bare comes up and stooped him by eatin him up in the mountains near your town. What I want to know is did it kill him or was he only partly et up and is he from this place and all about the bare. I don't know but what he is a distant husband of mine. My first husband was of that name and I supposed he was killed in the war but the name of the man the bare et up being the same I thought it might be him after all and I ought to know it if he wasn't killed either in the war or by the bare for I have been married twice since and there ought to be divorce papers got out by him or me. He sings base and has spread eagle tattooed on his front chest and a anker on his right arm which you will know him by if the bare did not eat up these sines of its being him. If alive don't tell him I married Joe White for he never liked Joe. Maybe you'd better let on as if I am ded but find out all you can about him without his knowing anything what it is for. That is if the bare did not eat him up. If it did I don't see as you can do anything and you needn't take no trouble. My respect to your family and please ancer back.

P.S. Was the bare killed? Also was he married again and did he leave any proptly wuth me laying claim to?

A NEW DEAL FOR THE LUNCH BOX

By Barbara B. Brooks

The mid-winter season might be called the "zero-hour" when it comes to school lunch boxes—for those who open them as well as those who pack them. If you must pack lunches every day, or even just occasionally, a "new deal" is probably in order. It has been long enough since the beginning of the school year for lunches to become monotonous to plan and to eat.

First of all, check the equipment. Do the necessary repairing or replace the old lunch box with a new one. Are the lids of jars for liquids tight. If they have rusted, get some new ones. If there is a thermos bottle, it may need a new cork. Printed waxed paper and attractive paper napkins will help to brighten up the box, too.

After you have done the best you can for the equipment, consider the possibilities for variety in your lunch box menus. This is especially important if the lunch is not supplemented by a hot dish at school.

In the winter season the choice of fruits and vegetables is limited unless one lives in the larger cities. Stewed dried fruits or canned fruits are good and if small jars with tight fitting lids are used, can be packed satisfactorily. Give all the variety possible in canned fruit. The dried fruits may be made different by combining several kinds, such as apricots and prunes, or raisins, apricots and pears. Do not sweeten them too much. Drying develops the natural sugars of fruits so that most of them are sweet enough without adding sugar in cooking. Long soaking and little cooking will give firm fruit. Spices, such as cinnamon with a dash of cloves for prunes or apricots, nutmeg with pears, give new flavors. Fruit juices, especially lemon or orange are good. Some of the grated rind should be used or a piece of the rind can be cooked with the fruit.

Sandwiches are ideal for packed lunches, but they do get monotonous. Fancy breads made with nuts and fruits are good for a change and a simple cheese filling or plain butter or jam is all that is needed with them. Don't overlook the possibilities of chopped, raw vegetables, such as carrots, radishes, celery and cabbage. These will satisfy the craving for something fresh and crisp and can be used often without monotony.

Ready-to-eat cereals can be substituted for sandwiches occasionally. Some children enjoy a cereal lunch every day. Be sure the cereals are fresh and crisp. In damp weather toast them in a hot oven if the package has stood open for several days. A wide-mouthed half pint jar is good for packing. Fill the jar about half full and cover tightly. If sugar is desired, it can be put right on the cereal. Milk or cream should be carried in the thermos bottle or in a container which can be kept in a cool place. Often, milk can be purchased at school. Hot milk is good with the cereals, too, and can be carried in a thermos or heated at school. A combination ation of two cereals, such as corn flakes and bran, or the addition of fruits gives further variety.

An important advantage of a cereal luncheon is that many children will use milk on cereal, although they do not like it to drink. Cereal and milk makes a satisfying luncheon which is nourishing and easily digested. Some cereal lunch box menus and other suggestions are as follows:

Tribute to the Passing of Baptist Missionary in India

MISS ELLEN A. FOLSOM KNOWN AND RELATED IN THIS SECTION

"IN MEMORIAM"
From our Grenville Bay Correspondent

It was with deep feelings that residents of this section read, in the Canadian Baptist of Jan. 17th., news of the passing of Miss Ellen A. Folsom.

Following is the report which pays tribute to her full and useful life:

MISS ELLEN A. FOLSOM

The following is taken from the October-November issue of "Field News", a small monthly journal published by the Canadian Baptist Missionary staff in India.

On November 22nd., at 1.30 in the morning our beloved little Miss Folsom entered into rest. Miss Folsom had been able to attend service on the previous Sunday. She was confined to bed for only one day, during which she suffered a great deal. But the end came very peacefully. The funeral service which was attended by a large and representative group from Waltham and Bizagapatnam, and also by Dr. and Mrs. R. E. Gullison, Dr. and Mrs. R. B. Gullison, Mrs. H. D. Smith, Misses Clague and brothers, and Dr. O. E. Daniel, was conducted by Rev. R. E. Smith. At the service at Miss Blackadder's bungalow we sang "Abide with Me", and Dr. R. E. Gullison led in prayer. At the grave Mr. Smith briefly recalled the story of Miss Folsom's life. Born in Vermont on Feb. 2nd., 1848, she answered the call to service in India in 1880. From the Balasore Mission, where she labored with her cousin, Mrs. Smith, Miss Folsom came to take charge of the Cocanada Free School, which later became the Timpany Memorial School. There Miss Folsom, by labors abundant and unflinching faith, built up a work far reaching in its influence. She was greatly beloved by her former students, many of whom kept in touch with her throughout the years. The service was closed with prayer by Rev. A. A. Scott and by Mr. Abelin Telugu. Dr. Daniel pronounced the benediction.

For all the saints who from their labors rest,
Who Thee by faith before the world confessed
Thy name, O Jesus, be forever blest Hallelujah.

—Muriel I. Brothers.

When Miss Sarah E. Morrow, of Grenville, first went to India as a missionary she made her home with Dr. and Mrs. Chute, and also spent some time in Miss Folsom's school. She told that Miss Folsom was always so cheerful, and would come downstairs each morning with a cheery "Good morning, girls"—and they experienced long, dreary, rainy seasons in that section of India.

She spent a few years in Ottawa with her sister, Mrs. Amanda Folsom Hudson, and gave music lessons. Many of her pupils visited her whenever she came home to Vermont and Ottawa.

She leaves a niece, Mrs. J. D. McLean, of Ottawa, member of the Baptist Women's Mission Board, and a nephew Mr. Dunbar Hudson, of Winnipeg, who once sent her a large contribution to finance an addition to a hospital for children in India. Mrs. Hannah Folsom Weymouth Prentiss, of Ottawa, was her first cousin, and Dr. G. W. Prentiss of Grenville, a second cousin. When she first went to India she took her piano; she paid her own expenses, Ottawa friends later sending aid for her work, until she came under activities of the American Board. She wished to live and die in India. She fulfilled her desire in a long service of fifty-four years. She was aged eighty-four years at the time of her death.

Half of us are unhappy because we can't have the things that make the other half miserable.
—Brandon Sun.

DISTRICT NEWS

GRENVILLE

Mrs. Geo. Foreman is visiting at the home of Mrs. R. B. White.

The Rev. K. N. Brueton attended the Annual Meeting of the Deanery of St. Andrews in Montreal last week.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Chase were recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Morrow.

The friends of Mrs. James Fitzgerald will be sorry to hear that she has had to go to Montreal for treatment in the Royal Victoria Hospital.

Mr. Geo. Dansereau was recently elected by acclamation as Mayor of the Village in place of his father, the late Georges Dansereau, M.L.A.

Work has been commenced on the winter repairs on the canal. This affords employment for a number of our citizens when things are "slack" in other spheres of activity.

The recent snowfalls have blocked the roads for automobile traffic out of Grenville, except that to Hawkesbury, which has been kept open. From there one can motor all over Ontario, but there is no road to Montreal.

The burial took place on Sunday of the remains of Miss Winona Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Robinson, of Montreal and grand-daughter of the late Capt. James Williamson. Interment was in Capt. Williamson's lot in the Presbyterian Cemetery, and was conducted by the Rev. A. J. Back of Hawkesbury.

St. Matthew's W.A. held an open meeting last Thursday, a number of visitors being present. The Rev. W. LeCras, of Lachute, addressed the meeting, pointing out the value of the work women do in the Church. He instanced their efforts in raising money, their prayers, their care for the Sanctuary and their interest in and work for the missionary activities. The address was much appreciated and Mrs. R. B. White, the President, moved a vote of thanks which, seconded by Mrs. Brueton, was carried with applause. Several ladies expressed their intention of joining the W. A. After the meeting, a social time was held and tea was served by the members.

CUSHING

Mrs. L. M. Gaston entertained the Bridge Club on Friday evening.

Miss Margaret Canning, of Ogdensburg, spent the weekend with her parents.

St. Mungo's Congregational Meeting will be held in that church on Monday afternoon, February 4th.

Capt. J. D. Weir, of St. Anne de Bellevue, spent Sunday in Cushing.

The Frontier Branch of the Women's Institute will meet at the home of Mrs. Theodore Murdoch, Staynerville, Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 5th.

On Tuesday afternoon of the next week Cushing W. M. S. will meet at the home of Mrs. W. H. Canning.

Cushing hockey boys, after much hard labor, have succeeded in making a rink, although the weather fills it with snow periodically. Several exciting games have been staged, as well as impromptu ones. Cushing figured in one of these as a first game with Chute à Blondeau boys and proved victorious; they also won in their game against Stonefield later in the week. At Brownsburg on Thursday night they were defeated with quite a high score by the more practised players, but came home in good spirits deciding that they had had a real good game, also with the promise of a return game.

Brownsburg at Cushing on Saturday night of this week, weather and rink conditions permitting. The Cushing boys have planned an evening of frolic in the Community Club Room for Friday night of this week.

Last Saturday night saw a hotly contested match between Single and Married men, resulting in the defeat of the latter.

Teams from Chute à Blondeau and Greece's Point played on Cushing rink Saturday afternoon. The three sessions resulted in a draw, but an overtime period gave the game to Chute à Blondeau.

"Young married couples are now more popular in society than single persons," says a gossip-note writer. It's the turn of the tied, in fact.

NAVIGABLE WATERS PROTECTION ACT, R. S. C., CHAPTER 140.

The Shawinigan Water and Power Company, hereby gives notice that it has, in accordance with the said act, deposited with the Minister of Public Works at Ottawa, and in the office of the Registrar of Deeds for the Counties of Laval and Two-Mountains, a description of the site and the plans of an overhead transmission line to be built over the Mille-Iles River (Jesus River), in the parishes of Ste. Rose and St. Eustache, situate in the respective counties of Laval and Two-Mountains. And take notice that after the expiration of one month from the date of the first publication of this notice, the Shawinigan Water & Power Company will, under Section 7, of the said Act, apply to the Minister of Public Works, at his office, in the City of Ottawa, for approval of the said site and plans and for leave to construct the said overhead transmission line.

Dated at Three-Rivers, this 25th. day of January, 1935.

THE SHAWINIGAN WATER & POWER COMPANY.

The World is Flat

On the journey back to the city, the globe on the seat beside him, Hank had time to dwell on the situation very leisurely. From being depressed at first, he looked for something to be thankful for in the proceedings, and finally decided he was grateful for having enjoined Miss Francis' silence concerning this ill-advised trip. Consoling thought — Jake would never know. And furthermore, the purchase price of the globe need not be considered wasted, for he could present it to his argumentative friend as proof that the world was round. He chuckled as he thought of their meeting again in a few hours. He would say something like this:

"Well, Jake, here's a little present for you." Then later, in an indulgent mood he might go so far as to admit to Jake that in some respects the world could be very flat. He expected that Jake, with no one to argue with, and wondering where Hank had got to, was finding the day pretty flat. Poor old Jake. Shabby trick to have deserted him.

At the Union depot he called a taxi and directed the driver to the Old Boys' Club. It was nine-thirty p.m. Jake would be at the Club, and worried, maybe, at Hank's disappearance. He alighted, paid the driver, and carried his bag and the globe inside. Smiling, he glanced about for Jake.

The fire in the grate was burning briskly, but there wasn't a soul in the room but himself. He asked the doorman if Mr. Benson had been around, and learned that Jake last had been seen leaving the club early in the afternoon.

Hank was annoyed. He pulled one of the big chairs closer to the fire and settled down to await Jake's return. Under the hypnotic play of flame and shadow he fell asleep. On waking he glanced at his watch, to find that it was nearly midnight. Jake had just entered the room and was approaching with an alacrity that was unusual in him. He was smartly dressed, and profuse in his apologies for his absence.

"It's all right," Hank declared irritably, waving aside Jake's excuses. "I have a little present for you, Jake," he stated, unwrapping the globe jubilantly, and holding it out for Jake's inspection.

"I don't want it," Jake replied, candidly.

"Well, by Gosh! I thought the shape of the world was your biggest interest in life," Hank declared in disgust.

"The shape of the world doesn't interest me at all," Jake asserted, slapping his friend on the shoulder.

"Say," enquired Hank suspiciously, "What's the matter with you? What are you all fussed up about?"

"Well," Jake countered, "if you promise not to fire her for a while, and not to try to flirt with her any, I'll answer both your questions. I have been out since early afternoon this beautiful winter's day, and have got myself married to your very charming stenographer."

THE END.

CALUMET

Miss Rosemary Higginson, of Farnham, was a recent visitor at the home of her father, Mr. J. Higginson.

This village is not completely isolated as regards automobile traffic. Some have gone across the river to L'Orignal in cars. The "snow cars" are also running along the Highway and other roads. There does not appear to be so many this year.

Mrs. James Welden was host to the Trinity W. A. last Wednesday. There was an exceptionally large attendance, many visitors being present. After the work was completed a very enjoyable tea was served, which was greatly appreciated.

His many friends will be sorry to hear of the recent accident to Mr. Ralph Robinson. It seems he was working on some machinery and injured his hand so severely that he had to be taken to hospital.

Montreal may have its Motor Show, but we have a lot of shining new "Plymouths" on display at the showroom of one of our enterprising dealers.

Great Dane Is Not as

Fierce as He Appears

The absolute fierceness of the Great Dane's appearance is not due to the expression of his eyes; they are intelligent and vivacious, lacking the hardness of the terrier. Nor is it attributed to the clean, well-arched neck, snakelike in its carriage, supporting a large, powerful and excellently modeled head. Nor to the elegantly outlined massive form that combines the grace of the greyhound with the almost tigerlike power of the mastiff. His high leg action effecting a lithe, free and springy gait is far from fierce, as is the graceful carriage of his strong tail that suffers serious injury when it strikes with force, obstacles encountered on its pendulous swing of happiness.

None of these is responsible; the vital point of deception is the cropped ears. No less beautiful, Great Danes with wide flapping uncut ears possess a friendlier and more gentle appearance.

It is Germany that lays greatest claim to the dog's development. In forming the new German empire in 1870, dog lovers of the patriotic populace, craving an emblematic national dog, selected, because of his elegance and power, the Deutsche Dogge, or Great Dane as he is still known in the English speaking countries.

His origin is obscure. However, representatives of a breed sufficiently similar to be his ancestors, are to be found on the oldest Egyptian monuments. Most claims suggest the Irish wolfhound and mastiff as foundation but all claims are still questionable as is the derivation of the name Dane. It can be assumed only that at some time or other he was a Danish breed.—Los Angeles Times.

Pawpaw Contains More

Protein Than Banana

The pawpaw (custard apple) grows wild in the woodlots in some sections of the country. In flavor and general character it resembles tropical fruits much more than fruits commonly grown in temperate climates. In many respects it resembles the cherimoya (a Mexican and West Indies product) and the soursop of Florida. The creamy-white flesh which melts in your mouth has a rich, most delicious flavor, which suggests a sort of glorified banana, although far superior to the latter in flavor.

The pawpaw is superior to other fruits, according to an authority, in the amount of protein it contains which is four times that of the banana. The flesh is soft with no fiber and requires no mastication. It has never been extensively cultivated though there is no reason why it shouldn't be. The tree grows rather rapidly and attains a height of about 30 feet. The flowers in spring resemble those of the wine-colored blossoms of the wild ginger. The fruit resembles an over-stuffed banana, first green and then turning brown in fall. The first nip of frost imparts a delicate flavor to the fruit and this is the best time to eat it. The wood of the pawpaw has little commercial value being light and soft and subject to rapid deterioration.

Animals of British Malaya

The more common domesticated animals in British Malaya are cattle, water buffaloes and goats. The cows suckle their calves and also provide milk in very limited quantities for the coolies. The buffaloes are mostly used for transport and agricultural purposes, so also are the buffaloes. The goats are mainly bred for killing and the milk is seldom used.

HAVEN'T you noticed that your happiest hours occur on days when you feel your best?

Have more of these happy days. You and all your family. Guard health while you have it. Keep on the sunny side of life.

The greatest enemy of health is common constipation. It may cause loss of appetite and energy. Certainly it kills enthusiasm! Yet it can be banished by eating a delicious cereal.

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's All-Bran supplies "bulk" and vitamin B to relieve common constipation. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. How much pleasanter to eat this delicious ready-to-eat cereal than to take patent medicines. Two table-spoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

A Noble Column

Often Canada has been rather neglectful in the matter of suitable commemoration in tangible form of standing personalities and stirring deeds in her history. Not so in the case of Sir Isaac Brock, hero of the early days of the War of 1812 and one of the most brilliant soldiers that this country has seen. The magnificent monument which crowns Queenstown Heights above the spot where Brock fell as he gallantly charged the enemy who had gained temporary possession of the Hill is worthy of its high purpose. Perhaps the most outstanding man-made landmark of the Niagara district, its impressive column dominates the lower river and in clear weather may be seen from vantage points at Toronto and elsewhere on the north shore of Lake Ontario.

The first Brock's monument, erected some twelve years after the costly victory of Queenstown, was destroyed by miscreants from across the border in 1840. The deed, of course, was as strongly deprecated by the vast majority of Americans as by the most loyal Canadian. In that same year a great gathering of the regular troops and militia of Upper Canada was called together on the Heights. The stirring ceremony launched a drive which raised $50,000 by private subscription, and a new and finer monument arose, to be completed by 1854.

Meanwhile the body of General Brock had been placed in a private burying ground in a lovely garden at the foot of the hill. And in 1860 the last stone of a cairn marking the exact scene of the hero's fall was laid by Edward VII who, as a youthful Prince of Wales, was then touring Canada. Some 160 survivors of the volunteers of the War of 1812 attended this significant ceremony.

Consider the Cow...

If your advertisement were in this space as many people would read it as are reading this. But your advertisement isn't here, and people do not worry whether you are selling real estate, gasoline, peanuts or popcorn.

Did you ever sit down in the pasture with a pail between your knees and wait for a cow to back up and be milked?

Of course not. You know better than that.

Well, business is somewhat like a cow. You've got to go out after it and round it up. The fellow with the milk pail between his knees may get some milk, but the odds are all in favor of the fellow who drives up the cow and feeds her.

Some kind of advertising must be done if a business is to amount to anything. Either walking and talking, or writing, or printing. But the least costly, most profitable and dignified way is by the regular newspaper — people pay for it. They value it and have faith in the advertisements in it.
