LARGE ASSEMBLY, HIGH SCHOOL CLOSING EXERCISES TUESDAY

Inspiring Session as Scholars Embark on New Term

PRIZES AND SCHOLARSHIPS AWARDED

It is on rare occasions that the seating capacity of the United Church is taxed to its gallery accommodation. Lachute High School closing exercises on Tuesday night marked an occasion of this kind which drew a large crowd of children, parents and interested citizenry.

Dr. J. H. Mason, Chairman of the Protestant School Board, presided at the distribution of the many prizes, assisted by Principal Clifton Hall, fellow members of the board, and clergy of the town. On the platform also were the donors of special prizes, or their representatives, who were called upon to make the awards, and there were many proud scholars named to receive recognition of merit in their school work.

The theme of the various addresses was co-operation, in which the efforts of the school, commissioners, of the teaching staff, the parents and the children, were exhorted for a closer understanding and achievement of the best possible results.

Dr. Mason referred to the offer of $200 for two successive years, which the Department of Education had tendered for improvement of school playing grounds. It was the desire of the Department, he said, to make this school one of the educational show places of the province. The chairman also read letters of regret from Dr. Percival, of the Department, from Sir G. H. Perley, Mayor J. E. Walker of St. Jerusalem, and Mr. P. Chabot, chairman of the Catholic School Board, who were unable to attend this function.

Principal Hall touched upon a new system of 2-monthly reports, by which the parents would henceforth be better able to follow the progress of their children in the various grades.

Rev. W. B. Rosborough directed his remarks to the children present, stressing the fact that the prestige and reputation of a community follow its educational progress to no small degree.

Introduced with the remark, "The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world," Rev. H. H. Cousens followed with a forceful address to the parents. In a few home truths substantiated by everyday experience, he illustrated ways in which our adult population could assist their children most practically in the pursuit of their education. Night-time detective stories, sleepy pupils, and meal-time school gossip were aptly mentioned; and parents were urged to discourage behaviour which might detract from the efficiency of both school and scholars.

The distribution of prizes, listed in detail on page 2 of this issue, occupied a considerable time, at the conclusion of which Rev. W. LeCras pronounced the Benediction and, accompanied at the pipe organ by Mr. Hall, the gathering joined in a rendering of the National Anthem.

WHAT GOOD TEACHERS CAN ACCOMPLISH

Teachers who are devoid of fear and who will take responsibility with full knowledge that they will be supported by the administration; teachers whose corpuscles move freely through their arteries; teachers who can laugh below the diaphragm; teachers who vote for whom they please; teachers who love life and children above all; teachers who have their routine duties reduced to the point where they can instruct, guide, exemplify and train—such teachers will do more to solve the moral education problem than bureaus of research, organizations of business men, boards of moving picture censors, and hard working tenement-house sanitary engineers put together.

GAS, AUTOS BRING ONE-THIRD PROVL. REVENUE

SHOW INCREASE OVER PREVIOUS YEAR

A detailed statement has been given of revenues and expenditures for the year 1934-35 in Quebec.

The motor vehicle law and the gasoline tax alone brought in over $10,000,000, nearly one-third of the total amount collected by the province. In the case of the motor vehicle law the revenues reached $5,506,096, and the gasoline tax $5,506,519. This means an increase of a few hundred thousand dollars over the preceding period, when from the first source the revenue reached $5,204,992, and in the second case $5,182,082.

Liquor permits and duties brought in $1,750,138 as compared with $1,245,569. There is another reduction in the revenues from the Quebec Liquor Commission trade account, which was $2,226,927 in 1933-34, and for the last year was $2,087,254.

The mines have enriched the province by $612,055, an increase of nearly $100,000 over the last year. Showing a renewal of activity in the timber and lumber industry, the revenues from that source amounted to $3,621,109.

Enthusiastic Congregations at Dunany Church

The record of church attendance and offerings at St. Paul's Church, Dunany, during the summer months has been one that every member of that church should feel proud about. Reports of the beautiful services held at St. Paul's seem to have spread throughout the district, and every Sunday evening a large number of visitors have flocked to worship in the "Little Red Church." On Sunday evening last the service, conducted by the rector, Rev. C. W. P. Baugh, assisted by H. G. Baugh, student minister, was a service which one seldom witnesses in a country church, even on special occasions. The church was filled to overflowing, and the special soloist for the evening, Dr. Dumbrell of Montreal, held the congregation in a spiritual trance as he rendered in a beautiful way, that wonderful song, "The Old Rugged Cross", the congregation joining in the chorus.

NEIGHBORING TOWN WINS APPEAL IN LIABILITY CASE

MAN FATALLY CRUSHED IN GRAVEL PIT

A decision by the Supreme Court of Canada affirming the ruling of Court of King's Bench, appeal side, for the Province of Quebec, in the case of Mrs. Aldas Chaumont vs. the Corporation of Ste. Anne des Plaines, was made known in St. Jerome last week.

The action was instituted by the plaintiff in 1932, suing for the sum of $15,000 in compensation for the loss of her husband, killed in a cave-in while engaged in carting gravel for the town. Plaintiff claimed the accident was due to the fault of the town because the latter had permitted formation of a cave in the gravel pit in which the carters were working. It was claimed that the use of dynamite had weakened the roof of the cave and that no supports had been erected.

The town had claimed that the victim was not the employee of the corporation and that the accident was due to his own neglect.

Mr. Justice Louis Cousineau, in Superior Court, decided on September 12, 1933, in favor of the plaintiff awarding her the sum of $7,000.

In 1933, the case was taken to appeal by the town's lawyers, and decision was given maintaining the appeal, the court deciding that the victim had been guilty of negligence. Appeal was then carried to the Supreme Court, whose decision upheld the judgment of the Quebec appeal courts.

COUNTY FARMERS HIGH IN PROVINCIAL CONTEST

RESULTS ANNOUNCED, BEST-KEPT FARM COMPETITION

The Quebec Department of Agriculture has just published the prize winners in the Best Kept Farm competition, which was held this year in Section No. 1 of the Province. This district is composed of fourteen counties in Western Quebec.

There were some sixty odd competitors, and the competition was divided into three sections; namely for Gentlemen Farmers, who farm for a hobby; Demonstration Farm Managers, who operate their farms under a definite policy outlined and directed by the Quebec Department of Agriculture; and thirdly, Average Farmers, who operate their farms themselves. In this latter class there is a sub-division with each farmer competing for a silver medal and five years later for a gold medal. This year the winner of the gold medal was a resident of Chateauguay County, and while his total score was 941 points out of a possible of 1000, some of the Argenteuil County farmers were not far behind. W. J. Rodger of St. Andrews East had 866 points; W. E. Rodger of St. Jerusalem had 865½ pts; George S. Armstrong also of St. Jerusalem, scored 860; and H. W. A. Boyd of Arundel had 833½ points.

The committee of three who did the judging of these farms took into consideration each competitor's general lay-out of farm, drainage system, fences, crops, livestock, farm machinery, buildings, book-keeping and, in the Gold Medal division, general improvements made on the farm since the last competition.

at Lakefield on Sunday morning by Rev. C. W. P. Baugh, was largely attended, while his afternoon service at Shrewsbury was equally satisfying.

COUNTY TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP GAMES CONCLUDED

FINAL ENGAGEMENTS ON LACHUTE COURTS

Finals of the Argenteuil Tennis Championships were conducted on the excellent courts of the Plaisez-Vous Tennis Club, Lachute, on Thursday evening. The courts were fast and the flood lights gave perfect illumination for the games.

A large and enthusiastic gathering witnessed two interesting well contested events. Miss Marthe Larocque of the Plaisez-Vous Club gave a splendid exhibition of tennis in defeating Miss Roy of St. Andrews, while John Cheley also of the local club, won in straight sets from Keith Pitcairn, of Montreal and St. Andrews East. Many beautiful rallies featured this event.

Mayor Dr. J. H. Mason, who purposed presenting the trophies, was unavoidably detained, and in his absence Messrs. J. R. Charron and G. J. Cheley were requested to make the presentations and offer their congratulations to the winners.

PRETTY HOUSE WEDDING AT GRENVILLE

WOODBURY — DENNISTON

The home of Mr. and Mrs. John Stewart of Grenville was the scene of a very pretty wedding on the evening of Tuesday, Aug. 27th., when Miss May Alice Denniston of Ottawa was united in marriage to Mr. Eadley Woodbury of Grenville. The wedding took place in the parlor under an arch decorated with phlox and golden-glow.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. G. Baxter, pastor of the Grenville Baptist Church. Miss Kathleen Bradshaw played the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin.

The bride's gown was powder blue flat crepe with sleeves and trimmings of radium lace; she wore blue slippers and gloves and carried a bouquet of gladioli, white phlox, roses and ferns, tied with a pink ribbon. The bride was attended by Mrs. John Stewart as matron of honor, and the groomsmen were Mr. John Stewart.

After the ceremony a daintily served supper was enjoyed by relatives and friends. Table decorations were roses and ferns. The young couple left soon after for a motor trip, the bride travelling in a navy blue crepe dress, with hat and coat to match.

Married at Church of Ste. Anastasie

ROUSSEL — ETHIER

The marriage of Miss Claire Ethier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arcade Ethier, to Mr. Romeo Roussel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Roussel of Montreal, took place at Ste. Anastasie Church, Lachute.

Curé Rev. J. B. Ethier of Montreal, uncle of the bride, officiated at the wedding; he was assisted by Rev. G. Sanche, curé, of St. Placide, and Rev. R. G. Raymond of Elke, cousins of the bride. During the ceremony communion was given to the bride and groom. Special music was rendered by the Enfants de Marie.

The bride wore a white crepe dress, the skirt of which formed a train. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, the rooms being decorated with autumn flowers. Later Mr. and Mrs. Roussel left for a trip down the Saguenay River. The bride

ODDFELLOWS TO HAVE INTERNATIONAL BROADCAST

The Independent Order of Oddfellows are to have a half hour coast to coast broadcast over 95 stations by courtesy of the Columbia Broadcasting System for the 26,000 bodies of the Order who will be meeting at the same time in the United States and Canada.

The Canadian Radio Broadcasting Commission has consented as a compliment to the Oddfellows in Canada, to join with the Columbia Broadcasting System in this broadcast with its 38 national network stations, thereby making a great international broadcast of 133 radio stations, probably the greatest broadcast ever attempted.

This program will come from the Sovereign Grand Lodge Session in Atlantic City, Tuesday night, Sept. 17th. United States Senator M. M. Logan, Past Grand Sire, and other prominent members of the Order will be the speakers, interspersed with appropriate Oddfellows' music.

The broadcast will be heard over the various stations in United States and Canada at 10.30 E.S.T.

NEW ANGLICAN CHAPEL AT MONTEBELLO

EQUIPPED BY FRIENDS AND MEMBERS OF SEIGNIORY CLUB

Christ Church chapel, the new and permanent centre for the Anglican parish of Montebello, was dedicated by Bishop Farthing on the grounds of the Seignior Club on Sunday. Adjacent to the old Manor House that was once the home of Louis Joseph Papineau, the rebel patriot of 1837 fame whose name is known and honored throughout French-Canada, a spacious stone building has been converted into a chapel and several members of the Seignior Club and of its staff and local residents have contributed to the appointments.

Among those who have contributed to the church have been: oak altar, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Long of Bala-Cynwyd, Pa.; lectern, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Bates of Montreal; prayer desk, James Davidson and Son of Ottawa; organ, Willis & Company, Ltd., Montreal; lectern bible, Dr. and Mrs. Pedro Platou; alms basins, Venerable Archdeacon J. M. Almond of Trinity Church, Montreal; flower vase, Edmund Boden, Montreal; altar cloth, Rt. Rev. J. C. Farthing, M.A. D.C., D.C.L., LL.D.; paint, W. C. Hunter, Montreal; altar rail Rev. G. Phillips, Arundel; crucifix, Mr. and Mrs. Cal Taylor.

With the Ottawa River visible from its door, and the green lawns and flower beds of the Manor surrounding it the chapel will be in a setting difficult to surpass on this continent. Rev. Cyril Stone, who has conducted services there and in the town hall of the village of Montebello previously, will be minister in charge and a small but active parish will likely take shape under his care.

Herbert Davis, and M. D. Stewart have been appointed wardens, and Cyril Chapman and R. W. Teagle sidesmen.

travelled in a navy blue suit and stone marten fur. On their return they will reside in town.

Mayor Mason's Plan Climax to Busy Session

ROUTINE MATTERS DISCUSSED

Town Council last evening formed the nucleus of a plan to fill a need long felt and often discussed, namely the establishment of a hospital in Lachute. Mayor Dr. J. H. Mason was responsible for the proposal, stressing its need in a manner which left little doubt, and further outlining what appeared a reasonable plan for its inauguration. It was agreed that the project, although germinating in Lachute, could be possible only through action by the County Council, all county municipalities thus collaborating in a venture which would be of benefit to the entire district.

The Mayor presided, in the presence of Aldermen K. McQuat, O. Laurin, R. Muir, F. Deslauriers, Wm. J. Deacon, J. McGibbon and the Secretary, G. Filion. Routine matters demanded considerable attention from the councillors.

It was reported that a building was under construction by one René Laurin, in contravention of approval by the building committee. It was moved by Ald. O. Laurin and seconded by Ald. J. McGibbon, that Mr. Laurin receive warning, that if he continues to construct in defiance of the committee and city by-laws, the matter would be placed in hands of the city attorney.

Accounts for June, July and August were presented by the Secretary, and duly passed by the Council.

An application by Imperial Oil Company, to erect a tank adjacent to their existing fuel tanks near the C. P. R. track, was duly granted.

On motion of Ald. Muir, seconded by Ald. Laurin, Councillors McQuat, Deslauriers and McGibbon were appointed a committee to investigate the gasoline filling pumps erected on Main Street likely to cause inconvenience during and after the completion of paving—the proprietors of which had ignored the Council's request to set these pumps back from the roadway.

Bishop of Montreal at Montebello

DEDICATION OF NEW CHRIST CHURCH

On Sunday last the Bishop of Montreal visited Montebello, for the dedication of the new church, and gifts for its furnishing, situated near the Manor House in the grounds of the Seignior Club.

The day's proceedings commenced with a celebration of the Holy Communion, in which His Lordship was assisted by the Incumbent, Rev. C. H. Stone. The Bishop then visited the churches at Papineauville, Avoca and St. Amédée.

During the afternoon the Bishop and Rural Dean Booy, (acting as Bishop's Chaplain), Rev. Gordon Phillips, Rev. C. H. Stone and members of the choir proceeded to the Manor House to don their vestments and rehearse for the evening procession, also to allow a representative of the Associated Press to take pictures.

In the evening the Bishop and clergy, augmented by the Rev.
W. C. LeCras, Rector of La-chute and Hon. Secy. of St.
Andrews Deanery, Rev. K. N.
Bructon, Rector of Grenville and Calumet, and the robed choir entered the sacred edifice to the strains of that grand old hymn, "The Church's one Foundation". Evensong was said, after which followed the service of dedication, first of the church, then of the gifts;
this was conducted by his Lordship in his usual impressive manner.

The gifts presented were—an altar, altar rail and lectern, all of oak; dossal, lectern Bible, communion cruet, altar cross and alms basin. The pews were subscribed and paid for by parishioners, while the lighting and heating systems were donated by the Club Management, who also were responsible for fitting up and decorating the building.

During the course of an eloquent yet simple sermon, in which he stressed the meaning of the words "God's House" and "God's Men", the Bishop explained the true purpose of churches, and what they were meant to be to God's children; also the high calling of God's men and women, and what their influence should be in the world of today as living witnesses of His love and power.

His Lordship also paid a fitting tribute to the Club Management for their generosity;
also to the donors of the various gifts, and to the leadership of the new Incumbent.

The Church was filled to capacity; and the singing, led by the choir and efficient accompanist, the reverent responses of the congregation, and the practical sermon—all had a part in making this dedication service one which will long remain in the memories of those privileged to be present.

Italy is evidently determined to civilize Ethiopia, even if the only form it takes is administering the last rites.

GIVEN RELIEF WORK, HIRES MAN TO DO IT

Speaking recently before the Smith's Falls (Ont.) council, Councillor T. C. McNabb, chairman of the property and police committee, drew attention to the fact that when men on relief rolls of the town were being given employment in tearing down some buildings, one man who had been asked to report for duty had been too busy to work but had hired another man to take his place.

FIRST AIR POLICEMAN

Great Britain has just appointed her first air policeman, reports the N. Z. Board and Council.

He is Captain V. H. Baker, war aviator, and one of the best known flying instructors in England, and his job is to prevent people from undertaking dangerous stunts, and he has the power to arrest and lock up any one who breaks flying regulations. He can also keep aeroplanes on the ground if he considers they are unfit to fly, or their pilots are unfit.

His duties are confined to the big airport of Heston, north of London, where he for many years has been chief pilot. He was responsible for establishing a system of traffic control for Heston aerodrome.

Anyone who disobeys his instructions as to flying or tries to do anything "likely to imperil the safety of aircraft, passengers or third parties," can be clapped into gaol for trial. He can arrest and bring to justice anyone whom he considers guilty of dangerous flying.

ONTARIO MUNICIPALITIES WILL SHARE GOVERNMENT LEVIES

Ontario municipalities in which beverage rooms have been established will receive from the Provincial Government this fall 20 per cent. of fees paid by beverage room owners, according to announcement by Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn. In addition, they will receive 20 per cent. of the profits the board derives from beverage rooms selling in excess of $5,000 worth of beer and wine. Payments will cover the 12-months period from November 1, 1934.

Diminishing birth rates and a surplus of old people are two factors which will contribute to the problems of social workers in the very near future, according to speakers who addressed a Child Welfare League meeting recently in Montreal.

Louisiana has no counties; the term "parish" is given to the civil territorial divisions in that state.

OTTAWA BOARD OF CONTROL WOULD RECLASSIFY EMPLOYEES

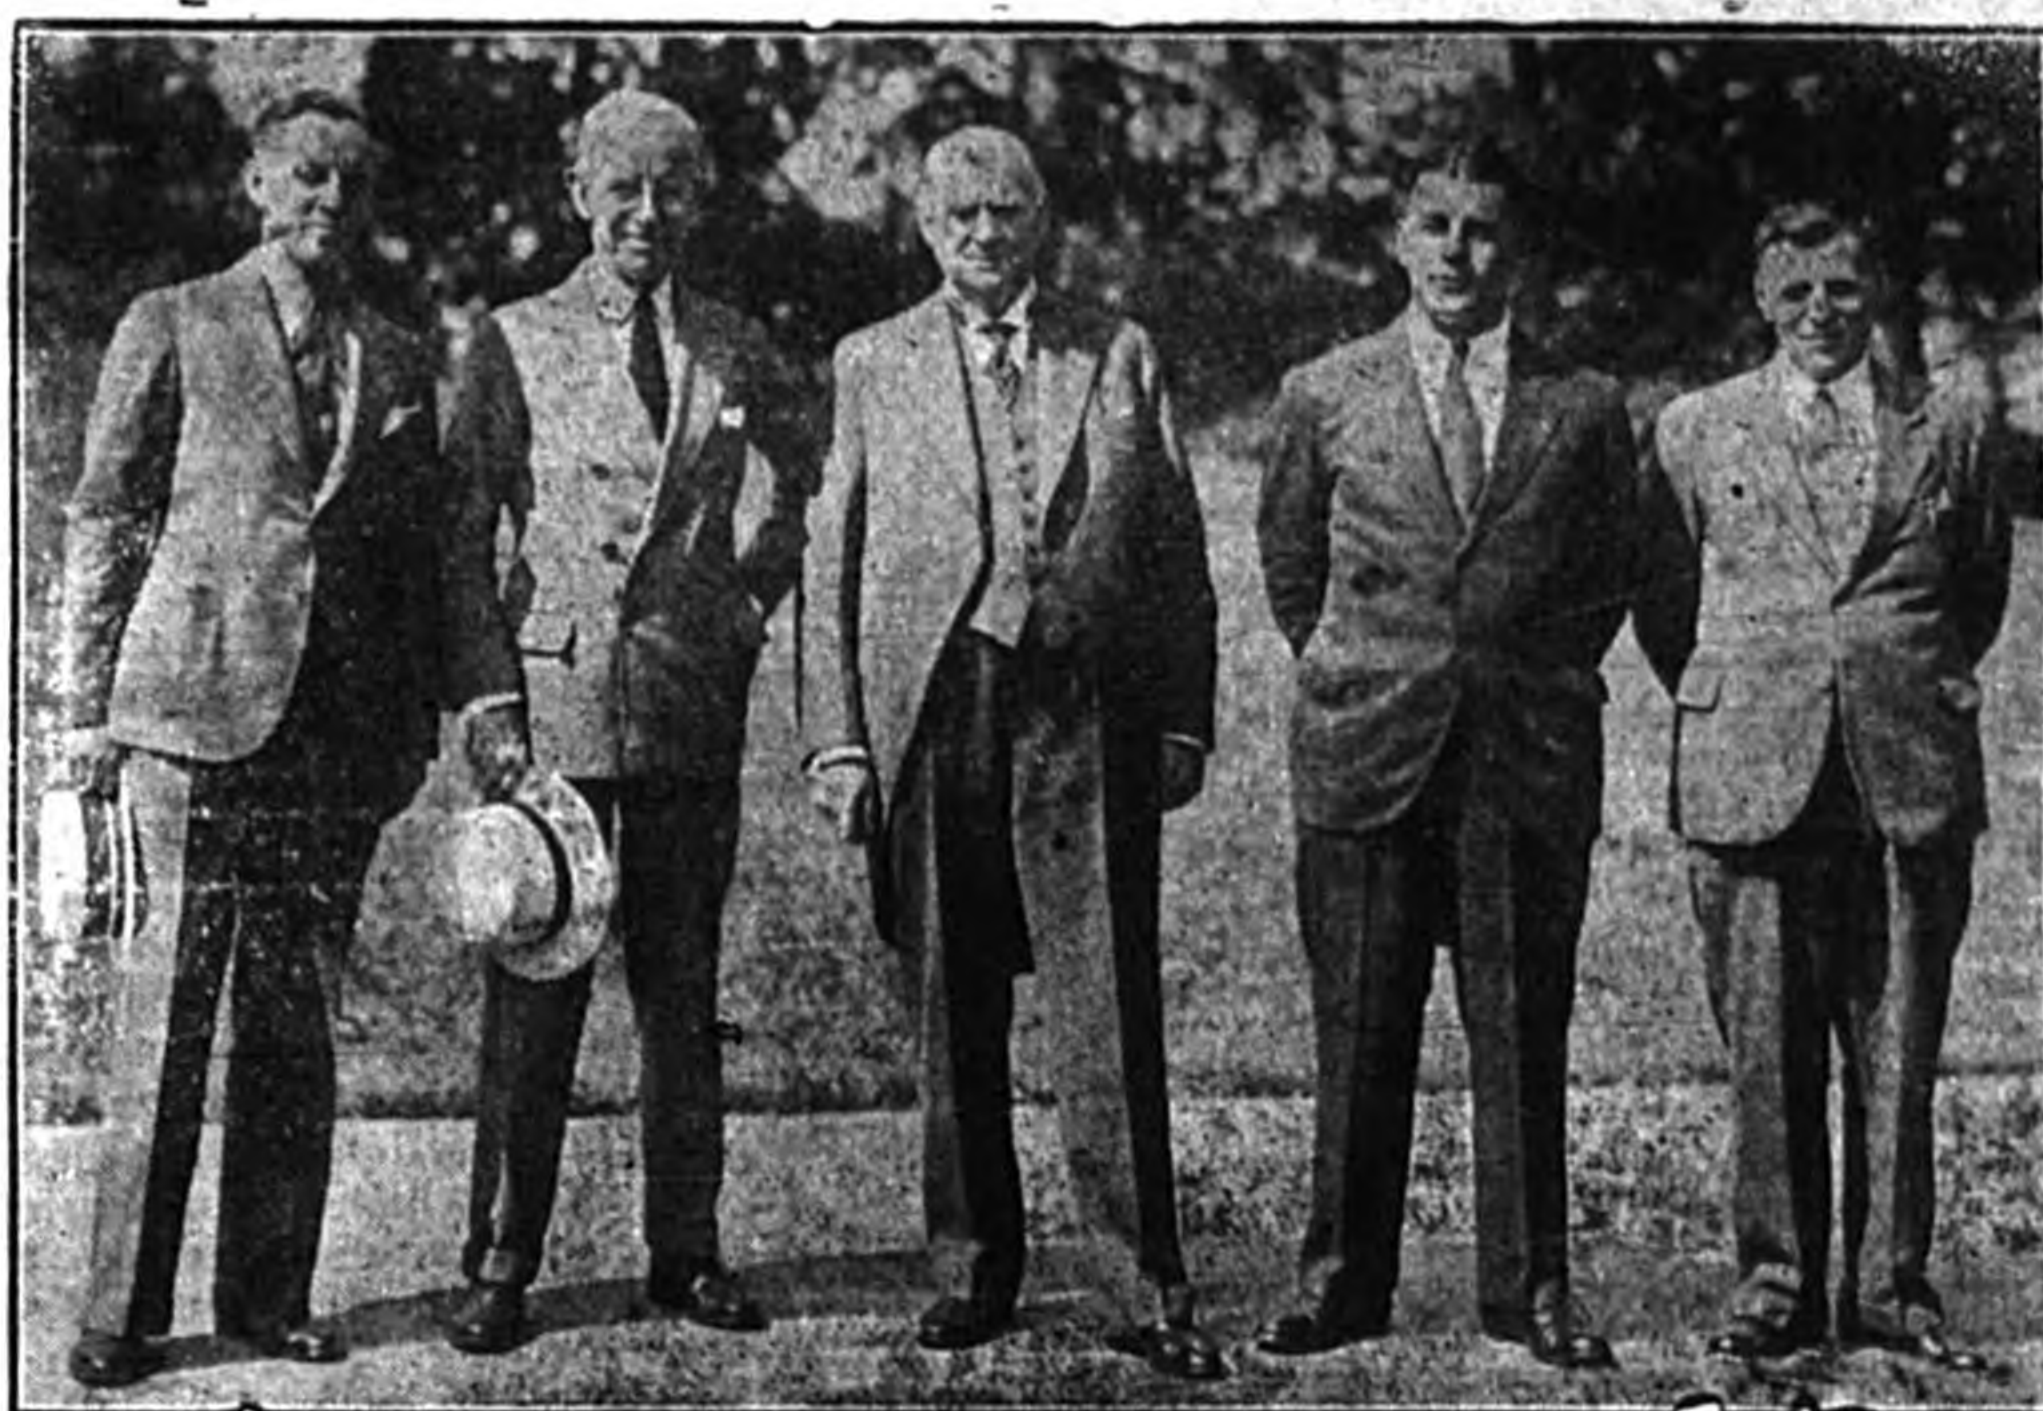

Reclassification of Ottawa civic employees will be considered in the near future, Ottawa Board of Control having initiated enquiries into to cost of the services of an expert to reclassify the service. The board also decided to investigate what benefit if any would accrue if the taxpayers paid their taxes by monthly instalments instead of twice yearly as at present.

ANOTHER LINK IN ALL-CANADIAN ROUTE

Dominion Day marked the formal opening of that section of the trans-Canada highway between Winnipeg and Fort William-Port Arthur. The opening of this particular link of the inter-oceans highway is a highlight in the history of Canadian road-building as it enables motorists for the first time to drive their cars from Halifax to Vancouver and vice versa over an all-Canadian route. In order to do this motorists must use the car ferries between the twin ports of Port Arthur and Fort William, Ontario, at the head of the Great Lakes, to Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, pending the construction of the remaining links of "Canada's Main Street" between Schreiber and White River, a distance of 125 miles, now under contract and the ultimate link or twin links between White River and Sault Ste. Marie and Hearst. There is also a short gap in British Columbia where cars are being carried by trains until the highway is completed.

The Winnipeg-Port Arthur section of the trans-Canada highway is 452 miles in length. It is gravel surfaced, the travelled portion being thirty feet wide, and it has been driven in ten hours. The radius of curvature is generous and the gradients easy. It intersects some of the continent's finest fishing and hunting country as well as scenic summer playgrounds. The Kenora and the Lake of the Woods districts with their primeval forest and myriad lakes and streams are world famed.

The trans-Canada highway will be approximately 4,200 miles long, and will provide motorists with diversified scenery unequalled by any other of the world's great trunk roads. There now remains only approximately six per cent. to construct in order to bridge the gap northeast of Lake Superior, and a short section in British Columbia, and part of this is now under construction. In addition to its scenic attractions which embrace the historic maritimes, the old-world charm of Quebec, the mineral forest and agricultural wealth of Ontario and the Prairie Provinces, and the grandeur of the Rockies, to mention only some of the more outstanding, Canada's trans-continental highway will provide motorists with an interesting and climatically comfortable travel route from ocean to ocean.

CRATE FEEDING OF POULTRY

Crate feeding of poultry gives the highest quality of flesh, and feeding in clean, sanitary pens makes the best substitute—says an Experimental Farm note this week. Only healthy birds of any kind will pay. Before confining the birds in crates or pens they should be given a laxative and freed of lice. Feed sparingly at first. Two to four weeks are required for finishing. At the Central Experimental Farm, it has been found that almost any good mixture of home-grown grains, finely ground and mixed with milk, will answer.

A satisfactory finishing ration may be composed of the following: one part finely ground whole wheat; one part finely ground whole barley; and one part finely ground whole oats. Fresh skim-milk, whole milk or buttermilk should be used as a mixer.

CANADIAN ELECTIONS NOT SO BAD!

(From the Blue Bell)

Business men are never very enthusiastic when a general election looms ahead. They say it makes for unsettlement and uncertainty—bad for business. That is perhaps true, but compare conditions under democratic government, as we have it here in Canada, with those in countries in which dictatorship, of whatever kind, is in fashion. With newspapers under rigid control or altogether suppressed, and all sources of general enlightenment in the hands of a despot or an autocratic group, the individual citizen counts for nothing at all in determining the conditions under which he and his family must live. His appraisal of the significance of events, at home and abroad, must be made up on just what the autocrats decide he should know.

How blest are we by comparison! How zealous we should be to exercise the franchise we have, so that those elected to register the popular will in legislative enactment should be the true choice of the great body of electors. Good citizenship may well be stimulated these days by quiet contemplation of what we, of the British Commonwealth, have thus far escaped.

GERMANY CHIEF SOURCE OF SUPPLY FOR FRANCE

Germany has ousted the United States as the chief source of supply of goods to France. The United States takes second place, with Great Britain third, Belgium, and Luxembourg fourth, Australia fifth, principally wool. Imports from the United States dropped over one-third for the first six months this year as compared with last. Canada rose from 17th position to 13th, and registered the greatest increase as regards any nation, according to the Industrial Department of the Canadian National Railways. Of 39 countries listed, imports from 31 decreased and only 8 countries registered an increase.

MISS MASPHAIL TO AID STEVENS

It is not disclosing any political secret to state that Miss Agnes MacPhail has told Mr. Stevens that if elected to the next Parliament of Canada she would co-operate with him to the fullest extent. It is now simply a question of whether Miss Macphail is going to run as a Stevens Reconstruction Party candidate or under her former U.F.O. colors. Miss Macphail's intentions are no longer a political secret. This week Reconstruction Party chieftains will decide the question of whether Miss Macphail must run as a Reconstruction candidate or be opposed by a Stevens' candidate. The latter is not to be expected.

There is no question in the minds of shrewd political observers that Miss Macphail will come back to the House of Commons as the representative of the new riding of Grey-Bruce, and there is no doubt that Mr. Stevens will in the future be called on to decide between the capabilities of Miss Macphail, Controller Nora Henderson and Dr. Frances Fish as cabinet material. Canada is only duplicating the political history of the United States in which Frances Perkins, as secretary of labor, became the first woman cabinet minister of the Republic, and made such a complete success of the job that the political significance of women was given an impetus in the United States that has not been seen since women's suffrage was won.

HOLLAND TAKING MORE GOODS FROM CANADA

Holland took from Canada more wheat, buckwheat, oats, flour, fresh apples, undressed furs, salmon, bronze and used bags for the first six months of this year as compared with the previous six months, according to the Industrial Department of the Canadian National Railways. There was a total increase in imports from Canada as between the periods mentioned of 13.2 per cent.

EDITORIAL

G. B. S. WRONG AGAIN

George Bernard Shaw is credited with an assertion that Emperor Selassie had only one recourse to escape war, namely to accept the position of a native prince under the Italian Empire. Issued by the Literary Lion, whose roars are accepted more readily as edicts than opinions, this utterance was a last-minute statement which should have been non-committal, for hostilities seemed a certainty at that stage. Nevertheless, Selassie hit upon another move — which, although it may not prove quite effective to discourage the designs of Mussolini, shows at least there is one situation which G. B. S. doesn't know everything about.

SPEED COPS CRITICIZED

Our good contemporary, the Cornwall Standard-Freeholder, decries the underhand practices of traffic police in Quebec. The "speed trap" in which motor-cycle officers lurk unseen in lanes and side roads ready to pounce on motorists driving past at more than 30 miles an hour—is considered a mean and unsporting method of apprehending the speeder. The motorist is unaware of the officer's proximity until he hears the scream of a siren behind him and the khaki-clad arm of the law signals him to a halt.

"Speed traps are no longer employed in Ontario," says the Freeholder "except in small communities where advantage is taken of the traffic laws to fatten municipal coffers. Ontario highways are patrolled by a group of efficient motorcycle patrolmen, who carry out their duties in an open and above-board manner. They are respected by motorists in general. Yet, speeding is less common in Ontario than in Quebec, and highway accidents are less numerous."

We could cite instances of tactics by Quebec patrolmen which are far less sporting than this, and would not be upheld by any self-respecting court. We are strongly in accord with the Freeholder's sentiments, excepting the observation that speeding is less common in Ontario than Quebec. We believe not; the surface and straight ways on our average highways are not good enough to permit fast driving as in Ontario—despite all the money contributed to the maintenance of Quebec roads.

The Watchman would also remark that, in the policeman appointed for traffic regulation in the Lachute and Brownsburg section, the public recognize a vigilant but thoroughly fair-minded officer.

"Life is cheaper in a century-old hick town. Most of the merchants are relatives or in-laws."

"We need better distribution. The world's best jumpers are in Africa where there aren't any cars."

Ottawa firemen must retire at the age of 60 years as a result of the City Council's action in approving a recommendation from the firemen themselves on this point.

AN AMERICAN FALLACY

According to the Commission of Inquiry on Public Service Personnel, one of the fallacies in American thinking is the assumption that "patronage is the price of democracy", that the parties needed for self-government cannot exist without spoils. There are, it is true, large cities, certain states, and other areas where political parties and political activity are at present sustained by patronage. But in great sections of the United States, and in other democracies of the world, democracy exists, political life is maintained, parties thrive, without the spoils of the appointive administrative services. The truth is, as Theodore Roosevelt once observed, that patronage is the curse of politics. It is the selling-out price of democracy, because of itself it turns the political party into a job-brokerage machine, creating a mercenary army of occupation, which, under the guise of democracy, robs us of self-government.

—Better Government Personnel.

The Ottawa Spotlight

Weekly Review of National Affairs

Specially written for The Watchman

By Wilfrid Eggleston

Ottawa, September 3rd.—This week sees the election campaign in full flower. Mr. Mackenzie King tours the Maritimes, with addresses at St. John, Halifax and Charlottetown. Mr. Bennett on Friday opens what is said to be another dramatic series of radio broadcasts. The other two leaders are busy cultivating the electorate, and out in Alberta the newest movement of all—Social Credit—plans to make an assault on the federal field. The injection of third party surprises is the only thing which has saved this campaign from being the draggiest and most tedious on record. We all know eight months ago what the issues were between Messrs. Bennett and Mackenzie King. The latter stands pat; and there is not much new the former can say. It seems incredible after all the skirmishing in the past two years that a general election is still nearly six weeks away.

It looked for a few days after the Aberhart triumph that an alliance might be worked out between the Social Credit forces and the Reconstruction Party which might have made the fur fly in the west at least. A combination of $25. a month with the "underdog" motif of Mr. Stevens might have gone a long way toward jolting the older parties out of their complacency. It is still possible that an alliance either before or after the election, may be worked out between these two. But for the meantime they have apparently decided to go it alone. The party headquarters here are not blind as to the significance of the overwhelming Aberhart victory in Alberta: they realize that it probably spells a federal triumph for Social Credit, so far as Alberta is concerned. The U.F.A. and the Conservatives have most to lose from such a development. The Liberals only had two seats there, and now they have dismissed Alberta as a promising field and are going to concentrate on other parts of the country.

GAVE OTTAWA A SHOCK

The Social Credit win gave Ottawa a shock; and whatever else it does or doesn't do, it has started a lot of people examining the theories of Major C. H. Douglas and William Aberhart. The federal authorities are wondering what repercussions the Alberta experiment will have on them. Certain of Mr. Aberhart's proposals are regarded here as a distinct invasion of the federal sphere. Of course before they are tried out there will be a new government, whether Conservatives, Liberals, or some other stripe, so that it is premature to speculate what stand Ottawa will take. Provinces are not, under the constitution, supposed to set up banks. Mr. Aberhart, of course, says that his State Credit House is not a bank, and that his 'non negotiable certificates' are not cheques or money instruments. There seems to be room for discussion on this point. Also, Mr. Aberhart, in his pre-election manual, has in mind the control of interprovincial trade. This also clashes with the B.N.A. act. The federal government has the power to disallow provincial legislation, if it regards it as contrary to the well being of Canada as a whole. This power would, of course, only be used after all other efforts at peaceful settlement had failed. Meantime the developments out there are being watched by Ottawa with the keenest interest.

SCRAMBLE FOR THE AIR

The radio is being used more than ever before in the present campaign. The Conservative party plans at least 20 national hook-ups. Mr. Mackenzie King's addresses will be broadcast regionally, wherever he is speaking. Hon. H. H. Stevens hopes to use the radio fairly frequently. A national hook-up costs from $2,000. up, and the Reconstruction party so far hasn't tapped any great treasure chest. The C.C.F. is in the same position. There will be a bit of a scramble toward the end for the best hours on the radio. Obviously the several parties can't all be on the air in a national hook-up at the same time, because in many districts there is only one broadcasting station which serves the whole adjacent territory. The Canadian Radio Commission has some diplomatic compromising to do on this score. The program is already almost complete, however, and the commission will know exactly how the time has been apportioned right up to October 12th.

The price of wheat and the reciprocal trade agreement with the United States are the big news topics behind the scene these days. If one could discover all the 'back-stage stuff' which has occurred while these were being worked out—the irons and cons, the manoeuvres, the compromises and the obstacles, he would have a great yarn. But all we shall see will be the bare results.

HEAVY INCREASE IN EXPENDITURES

(Chesley Enterprise)

In Ontario there are 38 counties, 28 cities, 146 towns, 155 villages, and 571 townships. Is it to be wondered at that many municipalities are bankrupt and their expenditures are being regulated by a provincial board when one gleams from statistical reference blue books that the expenditure of these 938 organized municipalities increased considerably over 8 millions in 1933 over the previous year?

Deanery W. A. Has Annual Gathering

The annual W. A. meeting of the St. Andrew's Deanery is being held at Weir today. Addresses are to be given by Mrs. Alex. Strachan, diocesan W. A. president; Mrs. A. E. M. Warner, diocesan junior W. A. secretary; and Mrs. E. J. Loiselle on behalf of the jubilee campaign.

Presentation Made to Mr. J. Bridge at St. Andrews

On the occasion of his forthcoming marriage, at the conclusion of the annual meeting of St. Andrews East Tennis and Badminton Club on Saturday last Mr. Jack Bridge and his fiancée, Miss Giroux, were presented by the members of the Club with a beautiful standard lamp. The presentation was made on behalf of the members by the President, Mr. W. R. Jeffrey, who referred to the assistance so readily given to any project by Mr. Bridge, and the esteem in which he and his fiancée were held by the Club. Mr. Bridge made suitable reply. Afterwards the Ladies' Committee, under the direction of the Vice-President, Miss Kathleen Bradley, served refreshments to those present. Amongst these were—Mayor and Mrs. Pitcairn, Dr. Wm. Pitcairn, Dr. and Mrs. Ashton Kerr, Mr. H. Rejall, Mr. and Miss Simpson, Misses Roy, Miss E. Walsh and many others.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, September 8th., is "Man."

The Golden Text is:—"Blessed is the man that trusteth in the Lord and whose hope the Lord is." (Jeremiah 17:7).

The following correlative passages are selected from among those comprised in the Lesson-Sermon to be read from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:—

"Thus saith the Lord, the Holy One of Israel, and his Maker, Ask me of things to come concerning my sons, and concerning the work of my hands command ye me. I have made the earth, and created man upon it: . . . I have raised him up in righteousness, and I will direct all his ways":

"The creative Principle—Life, Truth, and Love—is God."

There is but one creator and one creation. This creation consists of the unfolding of spiritual ideas, and their identities, which are embraced in the infinite Mind and forever reflected. These ideas range from the infinitesimal to infinity, and the highest ideas are the sons and daughters of God." (Science and Health, pages 502, 503.)

Town Council Discuss Routine Business

Similarly, Ald. Laurin as chairman of the roads committee, was instructed to report on the building of sidewalks, certain activities in this direction being considered inconsistent with town by-laws.

Regarding the need of an adequate sewer on Wilson and Princess streets, a lengthy report was read from Mr. Cyr, engineer. Unsanitary conditions were confirmed and it was agreed that a sewer installation was badly needed. Mr. Oumette, engineer, was here consulted on the lay of the land, and together with the Town Secretary, was delegated to approach Mr. E. H. Wilson, proprietor of the property, concerning right of way and necessary arrangements.

Mr. Assaly appeared again with a lengthy petition, in which merchants asked a repeal of the early closing amendment, to permit business as before on Wednesday evenings. The request drew curt consideration; it was declared that if said merchants would defray the cost of a new by-law, the measure would be considered by Council.

Mr. L. Barron appeared, stating that he had a deed prepared for the transfer of Isabella St. to the Town Corporation, and asked the council to install a water main for two residences on that thoroughfare, from Bedard Blvd. to the town line. This matter was left to the committee in charge.

Other applications for assistance were referred to the Relief Committee; and a plea by Mr. Paiement, who had lost out on his contract for purchase of wood from the town lot, was promised fair consideration when the agreement had been fulfilled.

Mayor Outlines County Hospital Project

Mayor Dr. J. H. Mason here unfolded his idea for establishment of a hospital in town. Every town of importance in the province, he claimed, had its own hospital. Governments had given liberally to public works in other cities; Lachute had plodded ahead on its own resources and now, he claimed, the community was justified in asking assistance to a venture of real humanitarian necessity.

His conception was a fire-proof structure to house thirty beds, with the necessary staff, administration, X-ray and laboratory buildings. As an undenominational institution, this would employ a staff of nurses, French and English speaking, a janitor, and a secretary.

Treatment of patients would be conducted on a basis similar to the Montreal hospitals, the institution receiving fees from private patients, or from the neighboring municipalities in the case of indigents, the province sharing the cost through operation of the Quebec Public Charities Act. Patients admitted from outside the County would pay special rates.

It was a big proposition, one not to be undertaken hurriedly, and His Worship's plans as outlined on this occasion were necessarily brief. He touched, however, on the financing of the scheme, which sounded very feasible. To initiate the project satisfactorily an investment of $100,000 would be necessary, he claimed. This estimate covered cost of a building at $60,000, cost of equipment $20,000 and a working capital of $10,000 to $15,000. Mayor Dr. Mason foresaw no difficulty in the financing; he made concrete suggestions which the councillors found worthy and believed practical.

The object of these plans would be an institution to provide facilities for any kind of operation or emergency treatment, without recourse to Montreal—except in the need of specialized surgery, where a specialist, of course, would be called. Every equipment however would be available here. Laboratory, X-ray and incidental departments would make the institution self complete—and the result would be an inestimable boon to the people, the saving of mortality in numerous maternity and other cases which occur in the more remote countryside.

Mayor Mason's proposition was favorably received by Council, and the outcome was a decision to present the matter before the County Council at its meeting this month, when the viewpoint of the 15 odd component communities might be learned. On motion of Ald. McGibbon seconded by Ald. Laurin, the Mayor, Alderman K. McQuat, and the Secretary were appointed to place the scheme before the County Council.

Women in Andorra Work Side by Side With Men

Women of Andorra, that vest-pocket republic tucked in the mountains between France and Spain, work side by side with their men. The necessity of wringing a livelihood from its soil exacts every ounce of effort from those it sustains. These women of Andorra are neither large, muscular nor masculine. They are small and lithe, with fine, sharp features. Their bodies are of the compact, sinewy flesh of mountaineers, and they are trained to their work from childhood, the National Geographic society reports.

They are always clothed in black. In the fields they wear long black dresses that set off their slender forms, and black shawls and scarfs over their heads. On Sunday for church their costume is the same, but the black of their cloth seems newer.

But this is not true of their younger daughters. Girlhood is the time of bright colors, of the dance, of the promenade on the days of the festa. And likewise of work. In Andorra it is not bright colors, prettiness or coquetry that win the man; it is a reputation for being a worker. And so the Andorra girl who would marry well sets out most industriously to acquire it.

STORIED SPOTS FROM SEA TO SEA

The Coming of the Scots

In 1773 the ship "Hector" arrived in the lovely harbor of Pictou with a small company of Highland settlers. It was the beginning of that Scottish immigration to Nova Scotia which was destined in years to come to dominate the history of the province and provide a major factor in the life of a nation. Every Canadian knows how large a part the descendants of the Scots who came to the Bluenose province have played, and are playing still, in every field of national endeavor. The arrival of the "Hector" is regarded as the real birth of the Pictou district, though a few settlers from Philadelphia had come in the brig "Hope" six years before.

In the days of the sailing ships Pictou was an important seaport. Its harbor, into which flow three rivers, is one of the most beautiful in the land. Built on the site of an ancient Indian village, the town owes its pleasing name to the Micmacs. In the early years of white settlement a variety of old country names were given to the new centre, but it was the original Pictou which had survived when it became a county town in 1792.

When the Highlanders landed with pipes playing in 1773 they must have soon ascended nearby Green Hill, a shaggy bluff reminiscent of the shores they had left behind. From its lofty plateau they saw, as one may see today, one of the finest panoramas in all Canada. Seven mainland counties lay spread before the present visitor, who sees also the rugged north-west shore of Cape Breton and the Garden of the Gulf, Prince Edward Island. For ages preceding the rule of the white man, the Indians gathered on the hill to hold council, to carry out their savage ceremonies, and to smoke the pipe of peace.

A candy is made in China of sugar and rose petals.

"Why don't you get a wider brush?" asked a passerby of a negro painting a fence. "You could do twice as much work."

"Cause ah ain't got twice as much work to do," the painter answered.

A man who was always being sponged upon for cigarettes hit the idea of carrying two cases. One which he kept empty he named "The World." The other full, he named "Providence." When asked for a cigarette, he would reply: "I haven't one in the world."

"What do you do for a smoke?" was the query. "Oh, I trust to Providence."

THE EXCITABLE BUMBLE BEE

"The kettle is stuttering — Oh dear me!" Cried a very excitable bumble bee.

Watching the lid flop up and down. The chills running over his coat of down.

"Bub-bub-bub—What's it trying to say?"

I think I had better just hurry away.

Before it says another word more.

I've no business here by the kitchen door."

A burst of steam made the water pour

Over the stove to the oaken floor,

"Dearie me!" said the bumble bee

"That kettle's blaming it all on me.

Hear it hissing—Bee-bee-bee,

This is surely no place for me".

With a frightened buzz the bee was gone,

WILD WOOD COVE

The children rather wondered at the size of the baskets that Uncle Ted was stowing away in the parcel locker of the car, also at the large lumpy-looking bundle that he had strapped to the running board, and the row of poles that were fastened on the roof. "It looks as if we were moving," giggled Madge. "It certainly does," Frances replied "I am just bursting with curiosity, but I dare not ask Uncle Ted. If it is a surprise I know that he prefers to keep it that way until he feels like telling us."

"It cannot be a secret, Frances, we all know that we are going to Wild Wood Cove for a picnic, there is nothing secret about that."

"Wait and see," said Frances wisely, "There is something more in the wind, I am sure, but I cannot guess what it is."

Her mother came running over to the car and gave both her children a big hug. "Be good, sweethearts," she said, "and be careful as well—and I hope you won't get lonely."

"Lonely!" Frances' eyes flew open wide in astonishment, but her mother only smiled mysteriously as Uncle Ted said, "Well, we are off, Mrs. Frances." Uncle Ted always called her mother Mrs. Frances — as he jokingly said, so that he would not get the two ladies named Frances mixed.

"Madame Elizabeth" purred contentedly along the road. The children chatted happily, sang and laughed by turns, and Uncle Ted sat holding the wheel, his eyes twinkling merrily as he heard the children planning, to meet by the old pine tree when they got back home in the evening and have a riddle contest. "That is—if we get home in time", added Madge.

A broad smile chased itself all over Uncle Ted's face. "I doubt if that riddle contest will take place tonight," he murmured under his breath, then chuckled out loud.

"What are you laughing at, Uncle Ted?" asked Billy. "Was I laughing?" Uncle Ted looked down into Billy's eyes with a very sober face. "I must be getting old and feeble, son—to be laughing at nothing, eh?"

The two little girls in the back seat looked at each other. Frances nodded her head. "I told you so" she whispered to Madge, "there is another secret hidden away down in the depths of Uncle Ted's mind."

"I would like to know what it is. I wonder if Mother knew about this when she was so anxious to have us come over to your house this afternoon! Dick wanted to go to town with Dad, but Mother insisted that he come to your house with me."

"I expect she did" said Frances, "Uncle Ted often says that the ladies are always in league with him, so I feel quite sure your mother knew all there was to know about it, long ago."

"Mothers have a way of knowing things" sighed Madge, "even the naughty things that we do. I never seem able to hide anything from my mother. I am glad too, in a way. I think it would make me terribly unhappy to have done something naughty and have to carry the secret around with me."

"Madame Elizabeth" suddenly started heaving from side to side, which startled the little girls so that for a moment neither of them spoke but clung very tightly to the seat.

Billy looked around, his eyes dancing. "We are almost there now, Chicks. We have turned off the main road and now we're bumping along down Feather Bed Lane."

"Feather-Bed Lane?" Frances tried to speak loftily; she resented being called a Chick, especially when she knew that her brother, who was not quite two years older than herself, called her that when he felt that he was quite a man and she only a little sister. "Yes, Feather-Bed Lane" Billy chuckled back, "Isn't it soft?"

But again the car was running smoothly. They were out of the lane and rolling along by the shore of the lake, to come to a stop where two arms of beautiful wooded shore stretched down into it.

"Isn't it lovely here?" cried Madge, stretching out her arms to the lake, "and those two stretches of land jutting out into the water make it appear as though the shore loved it too, and was holding out its arms to the water." Madge and Dick had never been to Wild Wood Cove before, but Frances and Billy had been with Uncle Dick and other members of the family quite often.

Lovingly, Aunt Jean.

Speediest of Birds Can

Fly 100 Miles Per Hour

Come birds, such as the quail, prairie chicken, ruffed grouse, snipe, mallard, black duck, spoonbill, pintail, wood duck, and pigeon, fly 60 feet a second, or at the rate of 40 miles an hour. Geese and brant in flight fly 70 feet a second, or at the rate of 47 miles an hour. Redhead ducks and bluebills fly 88 feet a second, which is a rate of 57 miles an hour. Canvasback ducks attain a speed of 61 miles an hour in flying 90 feet a second. Blue-winged and green-winged teal are capable of 100 feet a second, a speed of 68 miles an hour.

Rapid as are the rates of flight of the above mentioned birds, says the Chicago Tribune, they are by no means the greatest for feathered flyers. Speediest of birds are credited with flying as fast as, or faster, than 100 miles an hour. The duck hawk, for instance, according to apparently authentic records collected by the American Museum of Natural History of New York, does well over 100 miles an hour, or more than 146 feet a second.

The rate of speed of birds on the wing depends a great deal on whether they are flying with or against the wind and on the velocity of the wind at the time. It is recalled that in a famous pigeon race in Europe in 1876 the winning birds flew 270 miles in 84 hours, flying at the rate of 33 miles an hour. All conditions were favorable for record speed. In the race of 1877 it took the pigeons 90 hours to fly the same 270 miles.

500 boys, non-Scouts, from the distressed areas of Monmouthshire and South Wales, were given a free ten days' Scout camp outing at Dawlish, South Devon, through the co-operation of the King George Jubilee Trust, Major Ralph Raynor and district Scouters. The boys came in two groups of 250.

INDIA SCOUTS AT QUAKE DISASTER

Further news from the earthquake disaster at Quetta, India, emphasizes the splendid work done by Indian Boy Scouts following the catastrophe. A group of 50 Rovers came up from Lahore, to offer their services, and, in gas masks, were used to recover bodies of the dead. When exhausted they were relieved by a second 50.

THE BOY SCOUTS OF SIERRA LEONE

This was the tribute paid the native Boy Scouts of Sierra Leone, East Africa, by a woman round-the-world tourist: "I don't think I shall ever forget their jolly chocolate-coloured faces or the way they looked after us. At other places we had been pestered by people who wanted to sell us things or act as guides. At Sierra Leone a party of Scouts met the boat, kept off troublesome people, showed us around, and refused to take a tip. We were two women traveling alone, and my sister was an invalid. You can imagine how thankful we were for those Scouts."

Near-sighted Old Gentleman: "Waiter! You told me you had no asparagus, but surely that lady over there is eating some".

Waiter: "No, sir, beg pardon, sir; she's only using a lip-stick."

There was a young lady named Hyde, Who ate so many green apples she died; The apples fermented inside the lam-mented And made cider inside 'er inside.

"Daughter," said the dad, "how does it come you go out with a different young man every night?"

"Oh", she yawned, "most of my boy friends have their salaries cut, and they can't afford more than one date a week with me now."

SEPTEMBER

Isn't September the grandest month? Even the weather, which has so much to do with the way we feel and the things we do, is at its best. Sunny days and cool nights for sleeping. Poets sing of April and of June and when they are good they are very, very good, but when they are bad, they are horrid. September weather usually can be depended upon. The gardens are a riot of colour with the annuals at their best and the gladioli and the dahlias bringing feasts for the eye. When the first frost comes it turns the trees into flaming beauty. We may be very mundane but aren't the meals good in September? So many vegetables and fruits to choose from. Some of them we may get during many months but now is the time for corn and melons and peaches and new honey. And the cooler days give us an appetite to enjoy our food. I am all for enjoying food. Even the smells are good. Such contrasted ones as the fragrance of chilli sauce wafted through the air, to the acrid smell of the bonfire of leaves. Our duties and our pleasures start afresh in September. Yes, it is a grand month.

AN OPPORTUNITY TO DEVELOP CAPABILITIES

School is starting again and many children are going back without much zest because they are not getting the kind of education most suited for them. Unfortunately in the smaller towns and the rural districts there is no choice. The sooner parents do some constructive thinking on what they would like their children to have, the better. Most of them are vaguely apathetic about it. Know what you want — and then set about getting it. Education at the present time consists chiefly of cramming the pupil full of facts and with little education for living. Many parents demand too much from their children and because of this the child does even poorer work because he is discouraged through the disappointment of his parents. The old-fashioned way of putting it was that so-and-so 'could not take an education'. I do not believe it can be bettered. Capabilities are inherited and many a parent who had difficulty in learning at school demands too much of his children who often have the same difficulty. The parent is conscious of his own limitations and this intensifies his ambition for his children. People who have difficulty at school have capabilities which lie in another direction and the trouble with our school system as it now stands is that they have not the opportunity of developing these capabilities while at school.

BE SURE AND VOTE

Not many of us will ever have the chance or even the desire to run for parliament but we can all vote. Try to listen and to read carefully so that you will be able to follow the election speeches intelligently. Some of the speakers talk a lot and say little but do not let sentiment alone rule your vote. There is nothing compulsory about voting the way your grandfather did. Women, whatever you do, vote.

RECKON THE COST PER PORTION

Now that meat prices have gone up so high, most of us will need to buy more carefully. The price per pound of meat is not really a guide to its actual cost as the amount of bone and fat in that particular cut must be considered. The best method is to calculate the cost per portion. If you have not been doing this you are due for some surprises. Some of the meats that you have thought cheap are actually dearer than the meats that seemed expensive because they cost more per pound. Pork tenderloin is a good example of a meat that is less expensive than it seems because there is no waste in bone and fat. I have bought stewing meat at a few cents a pound that was really expensive because there was too large a portion of bone and fat.

PLUM JAM

Remove stems and weigh plums. Add water until it just can be seen through the plums. Bring to a boil for twenty minutes. Add an equal weight of sugar, bring to a boil and boil for five minutes. The pits will come to the top after the sugar has been added and may be easily skimmed off. Pour into sterilized jars and seal with wax. This is a delicious jam of a jelly-like consistency and may be made from any plum, but the damson is specially good.

SPICED GRAPES

5 lbs. tart grapes
4 lbs. sugar
1 pint vinegar
2 tablespoons cloves
2 tablespoons cinnamon
Wash and stem the grapes and separate skins from the pulp. Cook the pulp slowly until the seeds will separate. Put through sieve and remove seeds. Add the other ingredients and cook slowly for 1 1/2 hours. Pour into sterilized glasses and seal with paraffin.

A SIMPLE TEST FOR CHARITY SEEKERS

The recognition of Labour Day as a holiday, in view of the prevalence of unemployment at the present time, appeared to be more or less of a farce. Why set apart a day in honor of those who are carrying on the world's work, and of work itself, when so many cannot find any kind of occupation, and so many more are rapidly losing all desire to work, even if they could find something to do?

To this latter class belong chiefly the "knights of the road" who wander aimlessly over the country, bearing the unmistakable personal stamp of the workless. Many of these have lost whatever desire they may once have had to earn a living, for to this extent the great army of unfortunate "hikers" has now simmered down. A housekeeper found a very simple but potent cure for the constant presence at her door of someone asking for charity. One of these, after a free meal, offered to do any work possible in return. A heavy lawnmower and some tough grass dampened both his ardor and his shirt, and a hasty departure followed a half-done job. From that day, early in summer, to this, not a single applicant for charity has been seen on that street!

A very definite task lies before all organizations of society, from government to the smallest club, to combat this growing menace in the life of Canada. While it is unthinkable that the hungry should be refused food, yet to ask for the doing of some simple task, as a prod to awaken the self-respect of the recipients, is one way of helping to restore the desire to earn one's own living, however simply.

Six Species of Hickory

Six species of hickory are native to the woodlands of the eastern states. The wood of all six species possesses a combination of qualities not found in any other hardwood. These are extraordinary hardness, strength, toughness and flexibility. In addition the wood is straight grained and moderately elastic. It is, however, hard to split, difficult to season and work, and does not hold its shape.

Buckingham Palace Was

Not for Royal Residence

Buckingham palace was not planned as a dwelling place for Britain's kings, observes a writer in the New York Times. It became a royal residence by accident rather than by design. In 1699 James I decided to try his hand at producing silkworms, which were thought to have possibilities in commerce. So he set aside some ground near Westminster for the planting of mulberry trees, upon which silkworms feed. The plan failed, but the ground had become established as a garden, which later became a place for public entertainment and remained a fashionable resort until after the Restoration.

The first house known to have been built on part of the site of the present palace was Goring house, named after Lord Goring. It was later burned and Lord Arlington, who purchased it from Lord Goring's son, built another. This was bought by the duke of Buckingham, who later pulled it down and built a house of brick and stone in Dutch design, called Buckingham house.

Buckingham house first came into royal hands when George III in 1761 bought it for £20,000 from Sir Charles Sheffield (a natural son of Buckingham's) and moved there from St. James' palace. An act of parliament settled the palace on Queen Charlotte in 1775, and it was then known as the Queen's Palace. George IV had Nash rebuild almost the whole of it.

CHILD TRAINING

We have been greatly impressed of late by the newer psychological methods of child training, says a writer in "The Printed Word." "Conditioning the child to his environment" and "adjusting neuroses" seemed impressive phrases to us, indicating a proper scientific approach to the problem.

Amongst our own nieces and nephews we had noted defects in the educative efforts of their parents. We had long wished to offer advice to our relatives but a shyness not unconnected with our own single blessedness restrained our desire to be of assistance. But an opportunity recently offered itself to obtain the low-down on what science has been able to accomplish in education.

Walking to the office one morning, we encountered a distinguished psychologist on his way to the University. To him we mentioned the problem of our nieces and nephews, pointed out they contradicted their elders, refused to go to bed when asked to do so, and generally behaved as if they had not benefited by this scientific age.

After telling our worries, we asked him how he obtained results from his own youngsters who were paragons of virtue compared with the objectionable brats of our relatives.

The psychologist seemed non-plussed for an instant. "As a matter of fact," he said, "I always get my best results with chocolates."

FASHION SLANTS

(From the Blue Bell)

Be seated, ladies, please (do take those nice leather chairs right up front!), and we'll hold our fall fashion talk.

To begin with, the style picture this season is definitely vivid. Lines are well defined; fabrics carry patterned effects that are new and stimulating; colors are rich and full-bodied. Renaissance is the term applied to the new shades because they follow to some extent the intense glowing tints seen on the canvases of the Italian masters of the 15th and 16th centuries. Leaf green and cactus green—two of the new tones—may have been inspired by the cloak of a Botticelli madonna. Grape red, another lovely autumn shade, calls to mind in its depth and gorgeousness the superb color-sense of the Venetians.

Thus attired, we may be permitted a pardonable swagger in the face of Nature's own brilliant palette. The gold and crimson leaves should admit, if they're fair, that we can put on an excellent show in our own right! Of course, black still remains splendidly correct, and deep brown will likewise carry off high honors.

As for fabrics — tweed and more tweed, and, to make it even more perfect, velvet touches. Other soft woollens are equally popular for outdoors, for business, for general livability. Soft suede finishes in the heavier materials allow for drapability, an important factor.

Skirts are shorter, neater. The silhouette remains trim-waisted, broad-shouldered, universally becoming. Sleeves have intriguing new features and collars do things, too.

"Eyes front" on dresses, are just everywhere, either the whole length or in the skirt only. Low-placed flares are another way of achieving front interest.

Hats see-saw in true Latin abandon. Between the Scylla of the stovepipe and Charybdis of the pancake, the majority of us will probably steer a safe middle course, looking not very different, chapeau-ishly, from usual.

Dark ribbed wool stockings are being pushed. They still look bizarre to our silk-accustomed eyes, but they may yet go to tea on the avenue. Stranger things have happened.

The Week's Fashion News

Written Specially for The Lachute Watchman
By the Montreal "FASHION SCRIBE"

If you'll let "Fashion Scribe" have any say in the matter, you'll find that being out of Montreal does not mean being out of touch. The end of her pencil is simply quivering with news about fashion happenings... to tell you what's being worn, what shows indication of being worn, even what the newest ideas are in home furnishings and kitchen gadgets.

Montreal, August 31.—Before long you'll be finding everyone standing at attention for the new Military styles. We don't know who fired the first shot in La Mode Militaire, but we think it will win decisive victory in the battle for fashion supremacy. There's already many signs of these new fashions in Montreal. You see wool dresses gay and gallant beyond description with lashings of soutache braid or military frogs. You see hats with the dash of a field marshal's headgear... surrendering to the vogue of plumes. You find that the glitter of gold and metallic cloth is everywhere.

Anything to help lighten the duties of a hostess always catches my eye. The other day I was snooping around the kitchenware section of one of the big department stores and struck an item that brought me to a quick full stop. It was a very new type of wooden serving tray, with a big square depression in the centre flanked by two round ones at each end... these four rounds holding small circular glass dishes that fitted in exactly. I was told that these were used for cheese, relishes, and what not, while the centre section was for crackers, cakes and the like. The whole was under the dollar-fifty mark.

A new dress now is in the nature of a tonic... and can change one's whole outlook on life. I asked a Montreal store fashionist the other day if it was true that skirts were going to be a little shorter this Fall, and she was quite decided in her opinion that they would be several inches shorter than heretofore. In the case of sportswear the hem is often about 14 1/2 inches from the ground... and street frocks are usually about 12 to 13.

At a dance the other evening we ran into a type of dress that up until now has only started at us from the pages of the fashion books. It had a draped front... that is a centre panel pleated and draped upward to tuck under the belt at centre. It was in velvet, and velvet as you know is going to be worn from 12 noon until 12 midnight. The draped idea is firmly entrenched in autumn fashions, sometimes Greek in inscription, sometimes Hindu.

What about the new bags? I can almost hear you asking it... and it is a phase I have neglected to mention. Bags are often flatter, and many have top handles. The newest thing you can do is to ensemble a red or green suede bag with a matching colour suede glove—that's what the Paris reports say. In a window display at Morgan's the other day I saw several model bags... all large... one with saddle stitching all around, another with a complicated arrangement of straps.

DON'T RISK BAKING FAILURES!

"IT'S POOR ECONOMY TO RISK FAILURES WITH INFERIOR BAKING POWDER. MAGIC NEVER VARIES. AND LESS THAN 1¢ WORTH MAKES A DELICIOUS CAKE."

says MISS LILLIAN LOUGHTON, dietitian and cookery expert of the Canadian Magazine

Canada's best known cookery authorities caution against trusting good ingredients to second-rate baking powder. They advise MAGIC for fine baking!

HAVE'N you noticed that your happiest hours occur on days when you feel your best?

Have more of these happy days. You and all your family. Guard health while you have it. Keep on the sunny side of life.

The greatest enemy of health is common constipation. It may cause loss of appetite and energy. Certainly it kills enthusiasm! Yet it can be banished by eating a delicious cereal.

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk" and vitamin B to relieve common constipation. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. How much pleasanter to eat this delicious ready-to-eat cereal than to take patent medicines. Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor. Made by Kellogg in London, Ont.

Hugh Robertson has left for Owen Sound, where he will make his home with his uncle, Mr. Arthur Robertson, and attend the High School there this winter.

Next Sunday, Sept. 8th., at 7.30 p.m., Rev. Harry Trust D.D., L.H.D., of Bangor Theological College, Maine, will occupy the pulpit in the United Church. Dr. Trust is President of Bangor College and professor of oratory in that institution. Dr. Trust will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Stenard of this place.

On Sunday morning last Rev. J. R. Heywoth preached a very impressive farewell sermon for this summer in the United Church. The subject was "The Cross as the Center of the Christian Religion." In a simple but philosophical way Mr. Heywoth worked out the idea that in the nature of things spiritual progress has to be won through the willingness of the individual to make the supreme sacrifice. Mr. and Mrs. Heywoth and their daughters are leaving for Chicago this week.

Those who attended the special service at St. Andrews United Church on Sunday evening enjoyed a rare musical treat. Mr. George Flower gave two very brilliant organ solos and skilfully accompanied the vocal solos and duets. The congregation joined heartily in three familiar hymns, accompanied by organ and violin. Mrs. Petford of Montreal gave an exquisite rendering of two solos "Rock of Ages", and "How Lovely are Thy Dwellings." Mrs. Petford and Miss Nora Christie sang impressively the duet "The Plains of Peace".

"Crossing the Bar" was beautifully sung by the quartette. Mrs. Petford, Miss Nora Christie, Mr. Flower, and Mr. George Flower. Mr. Flower of Montreal, well known to St. Andrews and Lachute audiences, contributed three very fine solos, "Nearer my God to Thee", "Thy Will be Done", and "The Lord is my Shepherd."

On Sunday, Sept. 8th., Harvest Festival will be celebrated at Christ Church, St. Andrews; services at 11 a.m. and 7.30 p.m. The Rector, Rev. R. S. Booy, M.A., will preach. A special Thank-offering will be taken.

First Hunting Fatality in District

MAN DIED IN WOODS NEAR MORIN HTS.

With a bullet wound in the back of the head, Denis Timotheos, a summer resident at Christieville, was found dead in the woods three miles away on Sunday afternoon. He had gone hunting with a companion, who had become separated from him for some time and found him in a pool of blood nearly dead. His rifle lay a short distance away.

Coroner Dr. J. R. Brais, of St. Jerome, was notified and went to the spot.

Timotheos' companion said he decided to go nearer to his friend some time during the afternoon and he closed in. He had heard no shots from that direction for some time. He suddenly came upon the prostrate form of his companion. The man was bleeding from a wound in the head and his rifle lay a short distance away. The companion gave first aid as best he could and started to carry Timotheos to Christieville but the victim died a short time after the discovery.

AUTO MISHAP NEAR LOST RIVER

BAD ROAD REPORTED
CAUSE OF CRASH

Striking a hole in the road where gravel had been washed out by recent rains, a Chrysler touring car driven by Mr. Welcher of Verdun, somersaulted into the ditch half a mile north of Green Lake on Saturday morning. Coming toward Lachute on this section of the road above Lost River, the driver and three occupants had a narrow escape in passing a car which was proceeding in the opposite direction.

Mr. Welcher was the most painfully injured member of the party, receiving cuts about the face and head. Mrs. Welcher received only minor abrasions.

FISH STORIES ROLL-CALL AT W.I. PICNIC

Lachute W. I. began their autumn activities on Tuesday with a picnic at Dunany. The event was characterized by a happy, homelike atmosphere that had for its setting the cosy summer cottages at Clear Lake, where the ladies were guests of their president, Mrs. A. Bothwell, and of Mrs. J. W. Gall and Mrs. F. A. Brennan.

The roll call was most appropriate to the setting of the meeting, the ladies responding with "Fish Stories".

The Social Committee, under Mrs. J. W. Gall, prepared a delightful luncheon, enjoyed in front of the open fire at Mrs. Gall's summer home.

Boats were available for all who chose to take advantage of them.

Mrs. J. S. Giles read a paper on Immigration, bringing before the Institute the possibilities of Canada's future if only the proper people can be placed on the vast unsettled areas.

HUNDRED AND THIRTY AT DEANERY W.A. MEETING

A. T. Graham Winner in M.A.A.A. Fall Handicaps

At the M.A.A.A. annual fall handicaps held Saturday at the Westmount Grounds, one of Argenteuil's youthful stars, A. T. Graham of Cushing, won laurels against a keen line of competition. He secured individual honors with a triple win.

Starting with an 8-yard handicap, Graham captured the 100 yards, with Don Miller, M.A.A.A., three yards, as second, and Frank Simpson, a fast third. The time was 10.1 seconds. Graham came back to take the 220 yards from the 15-yard handicap in 22.4 seconds, with Miller again second from eight yards and Whalley of Valleyfield third from fifteen yards. Then Graham, "the husky farmer", (as he is termed in a press sports write-up), took to the field and captured the shot-put with the aid of a six-foot handicap, defeating the police stars, Guindon and Arteau.

These victories are a distinct credit to the prowess of young Graham, who has several times beaten city athletes who have entered with every advantage of training and thoroughly coached for their events.

Speed Fashions Change

The first motor car to reach a speed of two miles a minute was a Stanley Steamer — in 1904. It was a streamlined car, too, but it is a far cry from the Stanley steam car to the Bluebird's five miles a minute.

BROWNSBURG MAN IS CONTRACT PARTNER

The contract for construction of the new Post Office in Brownsburg has been given to Messrs. Lalonde & Lepine, the latter from Brownsburg, and as intimated last week, the work is already in progress. This good news has been anticipated a long time by the unemployed of that municipality, who, according to advice by Mr. Lepine, will be engaged alternately, so that everybody gets a chance to profit by the good wages being paid on this job. Friends and fellow citizens of Mr. Lepine wish him success in the undertaking.

Three Month Sentence for Robbery at Local Garage

FORMER EMPLOYE IMPLICATED

A sequel to the theft of a car, at 3 o'clock one morning recently from the Argenteuil Motor Sales, came in a three-month sentence imposed on one of the offenders in court on Tuesday.

The car and goods valued at $150, including tires, tubes and auto accessories, were recovered on August 29th. at Verdun, where the four robbers were arrested. At six o'clock in the morning suspicion was aroused by two cars together on the Verdun streets, one of which had apparently stalled. A policeman approached and three of the occupants fled. A shot was fired and the officer succeeded in making arrest of the miscreants, who were lodged in jail. The man who had

Contractors Nearing Completion of Grace St. Sewer

Work is nearing completion on the Grace Street sewer, which undertaking was given to the contracting firm of Frascari & Palango, Montreal, for the sum of $13,500. They are now operating in front of the Court House and Convent and will shortly be finished. They have been steadily working for the last 12 weeks, with an average of 20 men and one compressor machine, their average depth of installation has been between 9 and 9½ feet, 80 per cent of which has run through solid rock which required heavy blasting. It is a tribute to the firm that during this excavation there has been no accident of any kind and the greatest care has been exercised in the blasting proceedings.

Premier Bennett's addresses shadow forth what may become the major issue of the campaign, namely, wider markets versus further experimentation in economic self-sufficiency. A careful study of the prime minister's first radio speech indicates that whatever changes five years of depression have made in this philosophy, he still believes as passionately as ever that the salvation of Canada lies in her being a high protectionist country. He will not budge an inch on this. He actually and sincerely believes that Canadian workers are protected against low wages and unemployment by the process of shutting goods out of the country. He refutes the belief that in consequence of such prohibitory action the barriers which shut out foreign produce will just as effectively shut Canadian goods in, resulting in

WEIR RESENTS COWARDLY ATTACKS ON PREMIER

Prime Minister Bennett is a great Canadian who has served Canada well and deserved "decent treatment and ordinary fair play," believes Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture.

There was "a growing resentment against cowardly attacks" being made on the Conservative party leader, said Mr. Weir in an address at Brandon, Man.

Mr. Weir warned the electors against what he described as misrepresentation of the Government going on from one end of Canada to the other, with Mr. Bennett particularly singled out for a "lying barrage of abuse."

PARISH COUNCIL HELD REGULAR MEETING

No business of great importance came before the St. Jerome Parish Council meeting, on the 3rd. inst. A proposition by the Gatineau Power Company relative to installation of power in sections of the parish beyond Lachute Town was tabled for discussion at next meeting, pending the receipt of further information.

An application by Sharman Doig, for the establishment of a gas station on his property in Upper Lachute, was duly granted.

The Council at this meeting went on record as having strongly urged the government, by requests and largely signed petitions, to build a permanent bridge across the North River, opposite the Vide Sac Road, this being considered the most logical point as regards river conditions and for traffic to all points north.

$40,000,000 SPENT AT TORONTO EXHIBITION

A $40,000,000 turnover was registered at the Canadian National Exhibition for the two weeks' show which closed last Saturday. The show gave employment to 7,000 people for the two-week period. About 650 exhibitors rented space on the grounds and premises.

St. Andrews East Minister Bereaved

MRS. JOHN MACASKILL
DEEPLY MOURNED

The death of Mrs. (Reverend) John Macaskill, formerly Viola Pearl Bezanson, has come as a great grief and loss to her family and her wide circle of friends. She leaves her husband, the Reverend John Macaskill, one daughter, Fauness Mary, her mother, Mrs. H. P. Bezanson, and one brother, Mr. L. H. Bezanson, all of St. Andrews East, Que.

Mrs. Macaskill was born in Halifax, N. S., and educated at Dalhousie College. In September, 1916, she married the Rev. J. Macaskill, then over a church in Musquodoboit Harbor, N. S. With consecrated purpose she shared her husband's labors there and subsequently in Hopeville and St. Croix, N. S., and in the threefold charge of St. Andrews, Point Fortune, and St. David's, Que. She was a devoted wife and mother and a tireless worker for church and community. Her gifts in music and elocution contributed to programs all over the countryside. She was the organizer and leader of the St. Andrews C.G.I.T. unit, which drew its membership from three denominations; and she presided over

DEFENDS QUEBEC SPEED COPS

In the following letter a Montrealer replies to Cornwall Standard-Freeholder's editorial concerning Quebec speed cops, which The Watchman commented upon last week.

—In your recent editorial on "Speed Traps", you seem to have denounced the Quebec provincial police, especially in regard to their manner of enforcing highway regulations. You have labeled them as "snoopers" who hide in lanes ready to pounce upon their prey. We

The regular quarterly meeting of the County Council was held in the Court House, Lachute, on Wednesday afternoon, with Warden J. E. Walker, Mayor of the Parish of St. Jerome, presiding.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved on motion of Ald. Kerr, seconded by Ald. Dawson.

The Council secretary presented a letter from the Township Council of Grenville and Augmentation, suggested that consideration be given a recommendation they had approved, and enclosed, regarding storage and control of waters in the many medium-sized lakes on the various smaller rivers in this Province. The County Council, after approval of the matter, resolved that a copy of this letter be respectfully submitted to the Honorable L. A.

JAILED FOR THEFT AT ST. JOVITE

At St. Jerome on Monday three young men of St. Jovite were sentenced to a 3-month term for robbery at the golf course club house at Gray Rocks. The three men are Sixte Coupal, 18, Ed Brown, 18, and Arthur Forget, 19 years of age; they had pleaded guilty before Magistrate Lalande at St. Jerome on August 22, to having broken into the clubhouse at Gray Rocks Inn golf course in July. Besides a sentence of three months they were ordered to pay the costs and put up bail to the amount of $500 with the promise they would keep the peace for one year.

The trio had broken into the hotel's club house and had taken a quantity of cigarettes and candy and the sum of $6. in cash.

Prescription For An Unhappy Life

Strategy in the presentation of a somewhat trite theme made the message of Rev. W. B. Rosborough's sermon, Sunday morning at the United Church, one perhaps more readily accepted than the usual. Prescriptions for the happy life are rather too frequent a tonic to stir the lethargy of mankind. It was with this realization that the minister reversed the order of his discourse, and handed out a pointed recipe for misery and unhappiness!

"Why art thou cast down, O my soul? and why art thou disquieted within me?" from Psalms 42: 11; caused one to observe that many people are chronically depressed; they have not learned how to organize their desires and aspirations in a wholesome way. "We are in the habit of giving positive prescriptions by which people may attain unto a joyous and happy kind of life," said Rev. Rosborough, "but they are often very diffident about taking such advice. It occurred to me, therefore, that we might be listened to more seriously if we

Results of the Best Kept Farm contest were published erroneously last week. It is noted that W. J. Rodger of St. Andrews East took 926 points, instead of 866, out of a possible 1000, being only a small count behind the winning score of 941. J. P. Bradley took next position among Argenteuil entrants, with 866 points. The latter name was omitted in last week's report.

A largely attended meeting of Frontier W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Theodore Murdock Wednesday evening of last week, to enjoy Miss Freda Mason's Travel Talk. Miss Mason is to be congratulated on her retentive memory and ability to make her audience feel as though they were travelling with her as she in story retraced her steps, aboard ship and about the European trails which she had visited in company with her parents a few years ago. Frontier Branch are grateful to Miss Mason for the evening's entertainment.

Quite a number of Cushing residents joined with mourners in paying last respects to the remains of their beloved friend, Mrs. J. Macaskill of St. Andrews East, on Monday afternoon. Mrs. Macaskill was popular in Cushing among the younger girls, many of whom had attended St. Andrews East Consolidated School, and had been closely connected with her as their C.G.I.T. leader; also a general favorite with the ladies of the Missionary Society. The last missionary meeting she was able to attend was a sectional meeting held in St. Mungo's Church, Cushing, with Mrs. Macaskill presiding, being Sectional Vice-President. Mrs. Macaskill and her mother, Mrs. H. P. Bezanson, favored with sacred duets on that occasion, although, being in ill health at the time, it must have been a task too great for Mrs. Macaskill even then. But it is evidence of the spirit which apparently permeated her life, "Not myself but others." Cushing as a community very deeply mourns the passing of this estimable lady and offers sincere sympathy to the bereaved family.

BROWNSBURG

Mr. and Mrs. Wyman McGibbon and son, Kenneth, have returned from an enjoyable motor trip to Quebec City.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Kettyle spent the week-end and holiday visiting friends in Mountain and Perth, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Carpenter and Mrs. J. Maitland have motored to visit friends in Buffalo.

Mrs. Thos. Barley had the misfortune Sunday afternoon to fall in the street near her home injuring her left arm and shoulder.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Gardiner and Mr. and Mrs. H. Gardiner have left on a motor trip for a few days.

Mrs. Cafferty and son, John, have left for home in Ottawa after a month's holiday at the Lake and among friends in Brownsburg.

Mrs. Jas. Reid spent a few days visiting friends in Montreal.

GRENVILLE

Mrs. Ernest King and two little daughters, Virginia and Irene, of Beaurepaire, Que., visited Mrs. A. V. Gaudry on Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Lorne Cooke and Miss Lois Cooke returned home on Saturday, after spending most of the summer at Pogan Falls with Mr. L. Cooke.

Mr. Willie Dodd spent the week-end with his grandfather, Mr. W. Pickett, returning to Pogan Falls on Monday.

Mr. Weymouth Gaudry and two little sons, Harold and Victor, of Greenfield Park, visited his mother, Mrs. A. V. Gaudry, last week-end.

Mrs. Hugh Cousins and Miss Francis Murray spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Perkins at St. Andrews.

Anniversary service was held in the Grenville Baptist Church on Sunday morning, conducted by the pastor, Rev. E. G. Baxter; the sermon was preached by Rev. Mr. Owen of Rockland Ont. It was a very impressive occasion, and one which stirred the hearts of the congregation.

Harvest Festival at Dunany

One of the most beautiful Harvest Festival Services held at St. Paul's Church, Dunany in recent years, took place on Sunday afternoon last. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion, and a large congregation was present. The service, conducted by the rector, Rev. C. W. P. Baugh, assisted by H. G. Baugh, student minister, presented the theme of a joyous harvest the sermon on the text "Seed Time and Harvest", being most suitable for the occasion, while the harvest hymns added admirably to the spirit of thankfulness.

CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAYS.
A Great Agency of Public Service.

The C. N. R. is one of the world's greatest transportation systems. Its length of track alone entitles it to that distinction, but its chief claim rests upon the nature and extent of the services it renders. While entering practically every important centre in Canada it also serves widely diversified and distant areas, and in very many instances is the sole agency providing railway facilities.

The C. N. R. is a large direct employer of labour, and indirectly, by virtue of the nature of its freight and other services, also enters importantly and indispensably into the commercial and industrial activities of the Dominion... creating new wealth... distributing raw and manufactured goods... enabling more employment and wages to be provided.

Notwithstanding the sparsely populated condition of much of the territory from which the C. N. R. obtains its freights of grains, minerals, forest products, etc., its charges for haulage are very low... Canadian railway freight rates are probably the lowest in the world. On an average the C. N. R. receives less than one cent for hauling a ton of freight one mile.

Of every dollar of revenue received the C. N. R. pays more than one half to its employees as wages, and it purchases every year many millions of dollars worth of Canadian made or produced materials. The C. N. R. also pays in the course of a year over six million dollars in various taxes.

These facts, although thus briefly stated, are of tremendous importance to Canada and Canadians. They are here presented in the hope that greater patronage will follow a wider appreciation of the part this great railway system is performing in the commerce and development of the Dominion... and of its vast potentialities for future service. Standing as we are at the beginning of an upward swing in business generally, renewed and enlarged opportunities to use transportation facilities present themselves. The C. N. R. is ready and anxious to serve... efficiently and economically. Its departments embrace passenger and freight transportation, express, telegraphs, steamships and hotels.

During the present season the C. N. R. is providing special fares and excursions between points throughout Canada. These are exceptional travel bargains. The nearest C. N. R. Agent will be glad to give full particulars.

Economists as a class will deplore the Bennett attitude. As a rule they look upon things with a detached and scientific approach, and it is quite obvious to them that economic nationalism is a suicidal policy for a country erected, as Canada was, on the possession of vast resources of a rather limited range, which might be exchanged for the wealth of other countries to build up a high standard of living. An uncompromising stand by such a country on the policy of exclusion obviously spells grief, and plenty of it. The lumbermen and fishermen of British Columbia are already suffering the consequences of our trade war with Japan, and thousands of railwaymen and farmers and others have already paid the price of our traffic differences with the United States and other countries.

SOCIAL CREDIT TO FORE?

It is not clear whether the fiscal issue will manage to keep Social Credit and monetary policies in the background, or whether these will insist on stealing the stage. There are signs that third-party strength is growing, and the early stages of the Liberal campaign have not been particularly spectacular. The younger members of the party are said to be receiving a warm reception. Mr. Mackenzie King is drawing large crowds in the Maritimes. But the strength of the Liberals at the moment seems to lie more in the division of its opponents rather than in any spectacular appeal to the masses in the Liberal platform.

Premier Bennett's generous treatment of the Social Credit government in Alberta is creating a contradictory reaction, East and West. In Alberta and in radical monetary areas the spectacle of the Ottawa government lending a sympathetic hand while Mr. Aberhart gets his $25. a month program going adds, no doubt, to his general popularity; but the East, especially St. James Street and the farmers of Quebec, seem to feel rather keenly that it is the money of the rest of Canada, not Mr. Bennett's own personal funds, which are being endangered by the Alberta experiment.

The Liberal leader may develop more fire and fury after he has digested Mr. Bennett's addresses. There is plenty of raw material in them for an aggressive reply. It begins to look as though the campaign will be livelier than it gave early signs of being.

A LITTLE "TEACHED" IN THE HEAD

The finding of John Hamilton's body in a gravel pit not far from Chicago accounts for the last unknown quantity in the Dillinger gang. Possibly that statement is wrong, for the unknown quantity was brains. The brains of any outlaw gang is an unknown quantity. The fact that the U. S. government has checked off like clockwork every important gangster of two years ago, proves that those who go in for crooked ways are lacking in brains.

For surely it couldn't be called "luck" that makes the criminal detective squads so absolutely certain in their final results.

In the face of the facts any youth who now goes in for the gangster life must be a "little taught in the head." John Dillinger had, as many brains as any of them and they were clicking on all cylinders when they made his lips say: "A guy in this racket is living on borrowed time."

were to tell them how they should proceed should they desire to become miserable and unhappy. Following the theme of the sermon, rules were enumerated for the attainment of a morose and joyless existence.

"Always keep your thoughts turned inward: never try to develop what someone has very well described as 'a healthy objectivity.' If you would wish to be miserable," says Charles Kingsley, "You must think about yourself, about what you want, what you like, what respect people ought to pay to you—then to you nothing will be pure. You will spoil everything you touch: You will make sin and misery for yourself out of everything which God sends you; you will be as wretched as you choose."

"Secondly never willingly do anything that is kindly and helpful for others. Just live selfishly and exclusively for yourself and your moroseness and loneliness will soon be lamentably and utterly complete."

"Thirdly, always be looking to the past and brooding over the opportunities which you seem to have missed. Always be fighting over again the battles which you seem to have lost, and you will become as weak as a rag, and as miserable as any human being can possibly be."

"Fourthly — always be discontented with the position which you occupy, and always rebellious at the apparent unfairness with which you are being treated by your fellowmen. —Think of how your abilities are underrated — your true worth unappreciated, and of how people conspire to keep you from attaining that position in the world to which you think you are entitled."

"Fifthly, always be borrowing trouble for the future and crossing your bridges before you come to them. Be always imagining the trouble and disaster which might possibly overtake you or those who are bound together with you in the bundle of life. For, as someone has very well said, 'It is the troubles that never come that make most men miserable.'"

"Sixthly — never try to live up to the highest that you know in the way of moral and spiritual excellency. Just follow the path of least resistance—grasp at anything that seems to offer a pleasurable thrill, irrespective of the loss of self-respect and the suffering on the part of others that might be entailed. Thus, before long, you will be as joyless and conscience-stricken and miserable as any person can possibly be."

"In short, leave all thought of God and of your obligation to others and concern for your own highest development completely out of account and, before long, your dejection and disquietude will be such that you will rival the ancient Psalmist in thinking and exclaiming about it."

With the prescription complete, the sermon of course did not end at this point. There was no hint of irony in the presentation of these facts, but in their refreshing order of delivery they doubtless found the mark with finer precision than a straightforward lesson on virtues contributing to Christian happiness.

Rev. Mr. Rosborough continued: "It would be a simple matter to turn these prescriptions the other way round, to find therein the essentials of a happy and buoyant kind of life." In this way he reviewed the points he had discussed—showing how the altruist was infinitely happier than the egotist. In the words of Thomas à Kempis, "It is a great wisdom and perfection to esteem nothing of ourselves and to think always well and highly of others." Similarly, one must grasp every opportunity of kindly and helpful service to others. Reversing the third point of discussion—one must look to the opportunities of the future, thinking of the victories which, with God's help, may gladden the days to come. Fourthly, one should be thankful for the position one holds in life, however humble it may be, for there are thousands in less favorable circumstances than ourselves. Then, instead of borrowing trouble, one must consider that, should trouble come, the Creator affords us strength with which to meet it. And finally, a high standard of moral excellence must be a guide to our endeavors, pressing us onward toward the example of Christ Jesus.

The minister concluded his remarks in a manner which proved these ideals practical, showing them to be applicable to man's everyday activities, and leaving no doubt as to a logical choice of the prescriptions he had given.

INTEREST TOO INTENSE

NO ELECTION to any city office can justify such actions as marked and marred Tampa's mayoralty contest last week. Four men were shot (though not seriously wounded) and dozens of clubbed heads needed hospital attention. It would appear that the drive to interest citizens in government is succeeding too well!

A MAGNIFICENT CONTRIBUTION

MANY PEOPLE have made generous gifts to peace societies but when the Vacuum Oil Company announced that they would give up their Ethiopian oil plans they made a magnificent contribution to the peace of the world. American fathers and mothers of boys who might be eligible to fight to protect those oil rights in Africa are particularly happy. The consensus of opinion in the U. S. at present appears to be that European quarrels are none of their business.

CONQUER THE EARTH

THE BIBLE commands man to "replenish the earth and subdue it" and tells him to have dominion over all things. Man has done pretty well so far as earth itself is concerned, but the atmosphere that envelops the earth is another matter. The people of Florida were the ones to have this fact pounded home recently. Airships have done much to conquer the air and so have electricity and radio, but outside of creating a little artificial thunder and lightning man has not done much to demonstrate his dominion over the elements.

PROSPERITY FOR MARITIMES

THE MARITIMES enjoyed a very good tourist season this year. There was an increase in Canadian and United States tourist trade. For that matter other resort sections also showed some increase. Much credit is due to improved facilities by road, rail and water to get to our scenic wonderlands. Much favorable publicity has resulted from the activities of the publicity departments of the Canadian Railways. The Railways did $124,664 more business for the week ending August 14th than for a similar period last year. The Maritimes particularly benefited this year. But on top of a fine tourist season they have something else for which to be thankful. They are facing what bids fair to be a very good fur season. Supplies are low in London and elsewhere and the demand is strong. Increased tourist trade and demand for luxuries would indicate that times are distinctly better.

A BALANCED MIND AND STEADY NERVES

WE NEVER KNOW when life is unexpectedly going to put us on the spot. When it does we may be glad that we picked a pair of grandparents with steady nerves. Moreover we will then be glad that we have lived soberly and wisely.

Only a fine physique and a well balanced mind could have stood the test of the ordeal through which Paul Cardoni passed on September 3rd. and 4th. According to the Associated Press dispatch this young surveyor was caught on a mountain ledge which afforded standing room only. The snow and wind pelted him in an out-of-the-way part of British Columbia for a day and a night and a day. He was then rescued by means of a rope let down from five hundred feet above.

The Boy Scouts' motto is "Be Prepared." It is a good motto for anyone. We never know when life will put us on the spot. Only by keeping oneself "physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight" can one be prepared for life's emergencies.

Good Business Rules

A man who has a large number of employees under him has posted up in the various departments of his establishment cards which bear the above caution and the following rules:

1. Don't lie—it wastes my time and yours. I'm sure to catch you in the end, and that's the wrong end.
2. Watch your work, not the clock. A long day's work makes a long day short, and a short day's work makes my face long.
3. Give me more than I expect and I'll pay you more than you expect. I can afford to increase your pay if you increase my profits.
4. You owe so much to yourself that you can't afford to owe anybody else. Keep out of debt or keep out of my shops.
5. Dishonesty is never an accident. Good men, like good women, can't see temptation when they meet it.
6. Mind your own business and in time you'll have a business of your own to mind.
7. Don't do anything here which hurts your self-respect. The employee who is willing to steal for me is capable of stealing from me.
8. It's none of my business what you do at night. But if dissipation affects what you do the next day, and you do half as much as I demand, you'll last half as long as you hoped.
9. Don't tell me what I'd like to hear but what I ought to hear. I don't want a valet to my vanity, but I need one for my dollars.
10. Don't kick if I kick—if you're worth while correcting, you're worth while keeping. I don't waste time cutting specks out of rotten apples.

Paint Prices Sharply Reduced

A sharp reduction in the price of first quality house paint to $3.75 per gallon is announced by the manufacturers of some of Canada's best-known brands of paint, the reduction to take effect immediately.

In making the announcement, the companies state the reduction is not justified by any change in market conditions or manufacturing costs. They point out, however, that during the past few years householders have been misled by "bargain" prices into using inferior paint, with results that reacted unfavourably on the whole industry. Drastic action was felt to be necessary to check a situation that seriously threatened property values all over the country.

The new low price is designed to make it easier for property owners to use first quality paint only, with resulting benefit to property and to the community in general.

The companies announcing the reduction are Canada Paint, International Varnish, Martin-Senour and Sherwin-Williams.

OTTAWA FIRE DEPARTMENT SEEKS NEW ALARM SYSTEMS

Ottawa fire department has declared that the Capital needs a new fire alarm system; the present one which has been in use for a quarter of a century is becoming obsolete. W. J. Lalonde, fire alarm superintendent, has requested the Board of Control to take action without delay, contending that the machinery is old, overloaded and worn. Millions of taps have been sounded over the present system, which consists of more than 200 miles of fire alarm circuits and 242 boxes. Officials informed the Board that recently an alarm was not properly recorded because of the worn condition of the system.

THAT GRAND OLD MAN—THE TAXPAYER

(Swanton Courier)

Some one should start a movement to build a monument to the skies to the average tax payer. He is the man who keeps the home fires burning and makes the wheels of government go round. He has gotten himself into the position of a taxpayer by thrift, by spending less than he makes, by building a home, by investing in the home town. To do it he has denied himself pleasures and luxuries that the spend-thrift had in plenty. In every community he is roundly abused and referred to slightly on many occasions, but in good years and bad years he is the backbone of the country and without him there would be no government and no relief. He carries the burden that others shirk, many times without complaint, which he would often be justified in voicing. He is deserving a monument—a tall, enduring monument, for he, like Atlas of old, bears the world upon his shoulders.

Married at Mille Isles

ELDER - PATTERSON

The marriage of Miss Myrtle Patterson to Mr. Silas Elder, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Elder of Lachute, took place at the home of Russell Patterson, Mille Isles, on Saturday afternoon, the Rev. W. J. Lummis officiating. The bridal march was played by Miss Bertha Crussel of Montreal.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Oscar Patterson, wore a gown of white satin, also a veil held in place with lilies-of-the-valley, and carried an arm bouquet of pink roses and baby's breath.

Immediately following the ceremony a dainty lunch was served. The table decorations were sweet-peas and ferns, the bride's cake forming the centerpiece.

The bride and groom left shortly after for a boat trip, the bride wearing a suit of navy blue with matching accessories and a stone marten fur, the gift of the groom. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Silas Elder will reside in Lachute.

are told that they "sneak" up suddenly, blow a siren and signal the motorist to the curb. May I inquire, is this in any way different from the manner in which it is done on the Ontario highway? Ask any motorist who has been held up by Ontario motorcycle patrolmen and they will confirm my statement. They will also tell you that if the patrolmen had not been playing the "Speed Trap" game, they would not have been caught.

Your editorial is also misleading when you state that speeding is more prevalent in Quebec, also highway accidents—which in reality is just the reverse. I would also like to point out that the Quebec Provincial Police are held in as great esteem, if not higher than the Ontario police, in the minds of tourists. Many letters of appreciation on behalf of our police received by our citizens press, etc., bear testimony of this fact.

LEADING PAINT MANUFACTURERS ANNOUNCE

PRICE REDUCTION

First Quality House Paint

Now

$3.75

per gallon

$1 per quart

The Quality Remains Exactly The Same. Only The Price Is Changed.

Dating from to-day, the price of first quality house paints manufactured and sold by the undersigned companies is reduced from $4.65 to $3.75 per gallon.

There has been no change in market conditions or manufacturing costs to justify this step. We feel, however, there is urgent need for action that will make it possible for householders to obtain the highest quality paints at the lowest price consistent with strict maintenance of quality.

Thousands of people all over the country have been forced to put off much needed painting. Thousands more have been misled by "bargain" prices into using inferior paint of little or no value. We want to make it easier for you to enjoy the advantages of painting with first quality paint only, and are confident that the generous reduction in price now announced is the best way to accomplish this.

Meeting of County Council

Taschereau asking that consideration be given to the carrying out of such work by employing some of the young and middle-aged men now on relief to construct or repair the necessary rock-filled timber dams for that purpose.

This control of waters, now so destructive through deforestation, would prevent much of the damage done every spring to farmers' lands and public roads, and would encourage tourist and commercial travel; it would be one way of carrying out the Premier's policy of endeavoring to secure actual work for moneys now spent for relief.

Mayor Dr. J. H. Mason, Alderman K. McQuat and Secretary G. Filion, on behalf of Lachute Town Council, addressed the meeting in connection with proposed establishment of a county hospital at Lachute. The mayor, in his capacity as a physician with 29 years of experience behind him, realized the necessity for an institution that would be able to take care of the sick in this County. He had given the project much careful consideration and felt quite sure that provincial assistance would be secured if right approaches were made to the Hon. A. David. Knowing full well that an institution of this kind could not carry itself, even if grants were sufficient for the erection of the hospital, he felt sure that a 5c. or 10c. tax on the $100 would furnish all necessary resources for its maintenance. General discussion followed, and there was not a very hearty response to the suggestion made, but the county representatives will take matters under consideration in their respective councils.

PREMIER FLAYS TALK OF LOWER TARIFF RATES

Bennett Also Declares Canadians "Would not be Embroiled in any Foreign Quarrel Where the Rights of Canadians are not Involved."

Ottawa, Sept. 7.—Scoring the Opposition for "talk of free trade in a world where national tariffs mount ever higher and economic nationalism loudly commands," Prime Minister Bennett has declared the Conservative party will not abolish protection. Such action, he declared, would "wreck our domestic business and not get us a single dollar more in foreign business."

Opening his general election campaign, the Prime Minister cited that trade dispute with Japan as an instance in which, he said, a foreign country sought to break down the restrictive regulations which prevented foreign goods flooding the Canadian market at prices with which producers could not compete. He accused Liberal leader Mackenzie King of "strengthening Japan's hand" by publicly criticizing the Government for failing to meet that country's demands.

"In these days of dreadful anxiety and of national danger" he said at one stage, "we must remember that political partisanship, the presentation of competing economic views, the violent, if you like, differences of opinion as to what should be done, are no barriers to the more permanent forms of association, and never can create a harmful division among Canadians."

"There was little politics in the trenches. There should be (Continued on Page 8)

EVERY MAN FOR HIS OWN TRADE

An electrician may be a smart man but in some things he is not as wise as a farmer. Cows stand best to be milked when the milker sits on their right side. Harold G. Hoffman, Governor of New Jersey, had his picture taken on his Sea Girt estate lawn milking a cow from the left side. It was a mechanical critter that "moored, chewed her cud, and swished her tail under the influence of electric motors." The electricians not being farmer-wise had their hook up on the right side, which forced the governor to the wrong side.

Reader, how is the date on your subscription label?

Smooth, Smooth

There is no known reason for spelling smooth without a final e, for it rhymes with soothe. In the period about 1870, in England, an attempt was made to introduce a final e, but the effort gained no permanent following. In 1830, the verbs to breathe, to soothe, to seethe, and to soothe, were all spelled without a final e, although breathe, bathe, sheathe, and clothe (though spelled clothe) had the final e to indicate a soft th. This inconsistency was remedied in most instances; but we still have the verbs to mouth and smooth, and the prepositions beneath and with without a final e, though in each instance th is properly soft.—Literary Digest.

Quebec Provincial Government has appointed a commissioner with arbitrary powers to stamp out the smallpox epidemic in Montreal.

Mr. James Rogers, of Lakefield, informs us that bears were never so numerous in that part of the country as at present.

Late grain is suffering in consequence of the frosts during recent nights.

At a meeting of Lachute Fire Protector Company it was the unanimous opinion that the Town Council should provide our carters in town with water carts, puncheons and ladders to assist in case of fire.

The Provincial Agricultural Exhibition, usually held in Montreal, will not be held this year owing to the smallpox epidemic. Doctors of Lachute are kept busy just now vaccinating citizens, both young and old.

A note of thanks to the Canadian boatmen who served on the Nile expedition has been published in the Canada Gazette.

Four men had a miraculous escape from death when a raft of lumber, being floated down the rapids at Grenville, struck a rock and went to pieces. The men saved themselves by clinging to pieces of the timber.

Some malicious person has raised a false report that Mr. John Raitt, tinsmith of this place, and his family, have the smallpox. There is no shadow of truth in this report.

An interesting event took place in St. Andrews Town Hall, when Dr. M. E. Abbott was presented by citizens of the village with a beautifully illuminated address accompanied by a necklace of amethysts and pearls. In making the presentation Dr. G. F. Shaw referred to the honors conferred upon the recipient, both at home and abroad, the most recent of which was the honorary degree of Doctor of Medicine and Master of Surgery by McGill University.

Death. At Isle-aux-Chats, Sept. 3rd., 1910, Mary A. Taylor, widow of the late James Taylor, in her 72nd year.

At a meeting of the Town Council complaint was heard from Mr. Henry Sutton concerning the odor of stables from Mr. Eugene Lefave's premises. A petition was received from rate-payers requesting the opening of Grace Street, from Mary Street to McFaul's Store. The citizens' committee on Waterworks recommended the borrowing of $60,000 for purchase of the waterworks system.

Mr. H. M. Gall, chairman of the School Board, presided at the Lachute Academy prize distribution in the Presbyterian Church. Principal McBurney gave his report and Inspector McQuat addressed the meeting.

SPIES NOT WANTED

Mother said that Betty Must not shake the tree Of golden russet apples And make them fall, you see.

Naughty little Betty Decided, she just would, Cause the golden russets Tasted—oh! so good.

To the tree she scampered One sunny autumn day, Tried to climb and shake it, When her mother was away

A little birdies saw her, Whistled "See-See-See", Until Betty stamped and shouted, "Don't you dare spy on me!"

THE SECRET

It seemed as if Frances and Madge could do nothing but drink in the beauty of the scenery at Wild Cove, sometimes exclaiming over some particular point that they admired, and again sitting as though too much overcome to speak. Not so the boys. "It's pretty all right," Billy had said, "but it will be just as pretty when we have had our swim. You can look at it all you want when that is over," and they started pulling off shoes and stockings.

"How about some work first, boys?" asked Uncle Ted.

"Work!" Both the boys exclaimed at the same time, Dick adding "What kind of work?" "Making us a covering for the night! Madame Elizabeth as much as told me that she had no intention of taking us back home before tomorrow," explained Uncle Ted.

"Oh, Uncle Ted!" cried Frances, darting over to clasp him with her arms, "does that mean that we are really truly staying here all night?"

"And all day tomorrow too, my dear, unless I get lonely and cry to go home," Uncle spoke gravely, although his eyes twinkled.

The children shouted with laughter at the idea of Uncle Ted crying with loneliness. "Unlikelier things have happened," he said in reply to their comments, "but at the same time I hope I won't get lonely, as I have planned for some time now to enjoy this holiday to the limit."

"You won't get lonely, Uncle Ted" the children said, and felt that they were assuring themselves too, as this was really their first night away from home.

"All right then, let's work" he said, and everyone sprang up ready to do whatever Uncle Ted should tell them.

It was almost noon when the two tents were ready for occupancy. "Just time for a swim before dinner" cried Uncle Ted, and laughed to see the scramble the children made to get into bathing suits.

The swim and dinner over, the children lay in the sun watching the white clouds float lazily overhead until the angry chattering of squirrels attracted their attention. Sitting up to look about them they saw that two squirrels were "having words," as Billy termed it, over some nuts at the foot of a huge butternut tree.

After considerable scolding and flirting of tails the two squirrels sprang at each other and engaged in a bitter fight. The boys laughed and watched them with excitement, eager to see which one would win, but the girls pleaded for Uncle Ted to stop them before they hurt each other.

Pulling on a pair of leather mittens, Uncle Ted crept up quite close to the fighters, and before they realized what was happening had caught each of them by the back of their necks. The new danger made them forget their anger at each other and struggle to free themselves from this monster who held them prisoners.

"Shall we take them home with us?" Uncle Ted asked as he brought the struggling squirrels over to where the children were watching.

"I'd love too" cried Madge. "Daddy had a pet squirrel when he was a boy. I've heard him speak of the funny tricks it could do."

"Aw, Sis! who would feed it and look after it?" Dick asked. He, for one, was not anxious for the task.

"We could, when we were around home. Then mother would have to when we were away I suppose. Perhaps we had better not take one, Uncle Ted, thank you, but I would love to have one for a pet just the same," she added wistfully.

"I say let them go" said Frances, "the poor little mites would be lonely for this beautiful place. I, for one, wouldn't like to be taken away to a village and kept captive, once I had lived and roamed freely here."

"I think you are right, Frances; the squirrels have been punished for fighting by the bad scare I have given them, and no doubt they'll behave themselves in future." Walking over to the butternut tree Uncle Ted let one squirrel loose and laughed to hear it scold as it raced up the trunk and out on a limb at the very top of the tree. "Now," he said, "who is coming with me to find another nut tree for this one?" There was a general scramble as the children raced to get near him, which frightened the squirrel he held so that it struggled hard to get free and attempted to bite.

"Now I know why Uncle Ted wore those gloves," remarked Frances "I wondered what he put them on for, unless he was being polite and 'handling the situation with gloves' as our teacher so often says."

"Silly!" scoffed Billy, "why, anyone would know it was not safe to catch hold of a squirrel without gloves."

Quite a distance back in the woods they discovered another butternut tree and freed the remaining squirrel, who dashed away as quickly as the other one had done, scolding just as loudly.

As they walked back to the lake Uncle Ted ruminated—"Those poor squirrels are just like human beings—fighting over little things, so afraid that someone will get more than they will. Greed causes most of the wars that have been in this world, and so long as there is greed and foolish pride there will be wars, until people start educating their children against them—proving to them the wickedness of killing fellow men to satisfy their own greed, also that war leaves nothing but poverty, and depression in its wake, and bitter feelings that are never forgotten, but smoulder until eventually they create another war in later years."

The children had never heard Uncle Ted speak like that before, and surrounded as they were by dark woods, it filled their little hearts with gloom until Uncle Ted noticing their silence called suddenly "Who will race me to the lake shore?" Immediately the gloom disappeared and all were laughing gaily as they drew up in line behind Uncle Ted, the boys in front and the girls behind; in front of the tents. "Now for some fishing!" said Uncle Ted.

MOTHER-MADE FEARS

No mother wants to make her children frightened, yet if some of them deliberately tried to build up a state of fear they could not make a much better job of it. One of the most familiar mother-made fears is the fear of thunder and lightning. If a child does not see people about him frightened the natural re-action will be one of interest and not fear. Yet I am sure we all know children who are terrified of storms, simply because their mother is. On the other hand we know mothers who nobly suppress all evidence of fear to re-assure their little ones. Mothers can teach their children not to be frightened and incidentally take away their own fears by taking the children to a window to watch with interest the beauty and the majesty of a storm. But fears of a storm are not the only ones for which mothers are responsible. I was in a car when the traffic after a parade was very heavy. The driver was a careful one but the mother of the four year old seemed to feel that every car that moved was going to collide with theirs. Finally the youngster said, 'we should have an accident, shouldn't we, mother?' And the mother could not understand why the child would say a thing like that! Mothers should try to build up courage and strength. Physical fears are not the only ones to be avoided. Frequently mothers harp on a child's weakness until she sends them out timid and fearful of their own abilities. Mothers, suppress your fears and equip your children for the battle of life.

POTATOES ARE A GOOD FOOD

For some reason or other people are not eating as many potatoes as they used to eat. Possibly it is because of the vogue for reducing. When it comes to a choice of white bread or potatoes, the odds are all in favour of the potato. White bread is nothing but starch but potatoes have valuable minerals to add to the diet, as well as the starch. The starch in the potato is one of the most easily and quickly digested forms of starch. If the potato is properly chewed and mixed with the saliva, it will be almost digested before the meats stimulate the flow of gastric juice in the stomach. Starch as you know is not digested in the stomach. That is the reason that thorough mastication is necessary, especially for starchy foods as the saliva does digest starches. The portion of the potato next to the skin is richest in minerals and when we pare them we lose some of these. Another lot goes down the sink when we boil our potatoes. So it is not hard to see why baking is the best method of cooking potatoes, if we want to get our money's worth.

PEACH CREAM

1 package orange jelly
1 cup boiling water juice and rind of 1 orange 1/2 cup cream juice 1/2 lemon

about 1/4 cup sugar
3 peaches
Dissolve jelly in boiling water. Add grated orange rind, and put juice of orange and the lemon juice in a cup and fill up with cold water to make 3/4 cup. Add to jelly mixture and chill until it begins to thicken. Beat with a rotary beater and then add the cream whipped and the peaches cut in small pieces and the sugar. Taste to see if it requires more sugar. Mould and chill.

GRAPE JUICE

10 lbs. grapes
6 cups sugar
1 cup water
Wash grapes and remove from stems. Add water and cook slowly until soft. Let drain in a jelly bag over night. Add sugar and bring to the boiling point. Pour into sterilized bottles and seal. Small-necked bottles which may be corked are suitable. I like to dip the corked bottle into wax.

BEFORE AND AFTER

A news item states that the demand for eggs this summer was greater than last year. Which reminds us of the statement made by Rastus: "D, chicken am a wonderful animal. Yo ken eat him befo he am born and aftah he am dead." By the way, did you ever have trouble with eggs cracking while boiling? A famous cook says that this can be averted by pricking the large end of the egg with a pin, just through the shell but not through the membrane. The air is let out of the small compartment and room is thus provided for expansion.

Late Mrs. John Macaskill Deeply Mourned

its first summer camp. She worked faithfully in the Women's Guild, organized and directed a young people's dramatic group, and took indispensable parts in the local (undenominational) choral and dramatic society. Her home was always open to all these organizations. Mrs. Macaskill was at one time president, at other times corresponding secretary, of the local Women's Missionary Society, one of the vice-presidents of the Montreal Presbyterian, and also president of the Sectional W. M.S. for two years. All who knew her and worked with her have felt the inspiration of her devoted service, beautiful disposition, and absolutely unselfish Christian character.

The funeral service took place on Monday afternoon, September 9th, in the St. Andrews United Church. Rev. W. B. Rosborough of Lachute, officiated, assisted by Rural Dean Booy of St. Andrews, Rev. A. E. Hagar of Brownsburg, and Rev. A. W. Williamson of Point Fortune. The Presbyterian and Church of England choirs assisted in leading the hymns. "Now the laborer's task is o'er", "For those we love within the veil", and "The sands of time are sinking." Mrs. C. S. Wales rendered sympathetically as a solo. "We cannot think of them as dead, who walk with us no more." The C. G. I. T. unit attended in uniform, and large representatives were present from Point Fortune, St. David's, Lachute, Cushing and other neighboring places. Among the clergy present were Rev. E. M. Carter of Hudson, Rev. E. G. Baxter of Brownsburg, Rev. R. Miller of St. Andrews, Rev. Dr. MacLeod, Rev. H. Cousens, Rev. R. Strange, all of Lachute, Rev. J. W. Maclean of Cushing, and Rev. Norman McCausland and Rev. D. H. MacFarlane of Vanleek Hill. Widespread grief and sympathy found expression in a crowded church and beautiful floral tributes.

IS LATIN NECESSARY?

There is a very decided difference of opinion on the advisability of requiring pupils to take Latin in the secondary schools. Those who cling to the old order feel that it is a necessity. Others feel that its value is highly over-rated—count me among the latter. I have seen too many boys stop school because they cannot 'get' their Latin. Too many others have such difficulty that they spend an undue proportion of their time on it and their other subjects must suffer. Advocates of Latin feel that it is a great aid in the study of English. Undoubtedly it is. But if the same amount of time that is spent on Latin were spent on English we would not be turning out pupils from our Collegiate who cannot use correct English. We have teachers in our Public Schools and teachers in our High Schools who do not use correct English and do not speak it properly. They tell us of the joy of reading the classics in the original language. I doubt if any school turns out a pupil once in five years who ever reads them after the necessity for knowing them for examinations is over. Advocates of Latin tell us that it is an excellent discipline for the mind. There is no question of that, but as ideas of discipline have changed in other ways why should we have to cling to Latin? Those whose interests and abilities lie along the direction of Latin should be able to take it, but to those others an equal opportunity of acquiring an education without it should be provided.

QUEBEC WOMEN'S INSTITUTES DISPLAY INTEREST IN EDUCATION

Renewed interest in school needs and problems is apparent in the Quebec Women's Institutes with the opening of the school year. Scholarships and prizes, in some Branches the latter amounting to $20.00, are being arranged for in the majority of schools, and needed sanitary equipment is being supplied. Gramophones and records of an educational nature have been provided for many schools, as well as Traveling Libraries available for school purposes at McGill University. Within the Branches increased interest is being taken in Adult Education. Study groups have been formed and it is confidently expected that more of these will function during the coming winter than has ever been the case previously.

Hundred and Thirty at Deanery W.A. Meetin

Rev. Cyril Stone, Montebello, The Rev. G. F. Leigh, Grace Church, Montreal, Rev. C. W. LeCras, Lachute, Rev. James Lummis, Morin Heights, Rev. K. N. Brueton, Grenville, Rev. C. W. P. Baugh, Lakefield, and Rev. G. W. Phillips, Arundel. The session opened with 130 in attendance at a choral celebration of the Holy Eucharist in the Church of the Redeemer with the Rev. Gordon Phillips, Parish Priest, as the celebrant, assisted by the Rev. Rural Dean Booy as Gospeler and the Rev. Cyril Stone of Montebello as Epistoler and preacher.

After the service a luncheon was provided in the Redeemer Parish Hall by the combined W.A.'s of the Parish of Arundel.

The afternoon session opened in the Church at two o'clock, under the presidency of Mrs. G. W. Phillips, who welcomed the delegates to the Parish, Mrs. Dakin of Calumet, who has been secretary-treasurer of the St. St. Andrews Deanery for years, being in her accustomed chair. The devotional exercises were opened by Rev. K. N. Brueton, after which the meeting heard addresses of high caliber from the Diocesan officers as follows:

Mrs. Strachan, in giving her Diocesan Presidential report, spoke on the conduct of branch meetings, urging that they be made both interesting and cheerful, as well as prayerful. Mrs. Warner spoke on the work of the Junior W.A., pointing out that the junior members of today are the senior members of tomorrow and, for that reason if for no other, their work should be given careful thought by members of the present senior branches.

Mrs. Dickerson spoke on the W. A. and Missionary Literature, pointing out the wealth of such material, and its benefits both to the individual and the church, which an intelligent reading is sure to produce.

Mrs. Loiselle gave an interesting talk on the W.A. Jubilee Year and urged the importance of the Jubilee membership campaign, pointing to the need for concerted individual effort to reach the objective of one hundred thousand members by the end of the year.

The Deanery was invited to Brownsburg for its 1936 meeting. Mrs. C. W. LeCras of Lachute was elected president, and Mrs. Dakin was re-elected secretary-treasurer. Mrs. J. C. Veit of Arundel is the Deanery Librarian.

The meeting closed with a benediction given by the Rev. James Lummis after which a light tea was served before the delegates returned to their various parishes.

BEAUTY SHOULD BE SPARED

There is much beauty in this world and yet we have none to spare. As we gazed on the portrait of Astrid, Queen of the Belgians, who was recently killed in an auto accident, it shocked us that such rare beauty should be snatched away from earth so soon. Queen Astrid's beauty was deeper than the physical. The depth of the beauty of the self was caught by the artist. As thousands thought of Marie Antoinette so we thought of this lovely Queen—she was too beautiful to die.

The Watchman's fashion correspondent being out of town last week, the regular Montreal fashion news is missing from this issue, but will reappear in next week's edition.

SUNNY LIVING starts at the table

How you feel and how you look depend largely on the foods you eat. The balanced menu provides the "bulk" to prevent common constipation—caused by lack of this essential fiber.

Common constipation frequently causes headaches, loss of appetite and energy. Yet, in most cases, it can be overcome pleasantly and safely by eating a delicious cereal.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a natural food for normal individuals. It furnishes "bulk" in convenient and concentrated form. ALL-BRAN also provides vitamin B and iron.

Isn't this sunny way better than taking patent medicines? Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal. If relief is not obtained, see your doctor.

Serve ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or use in cooking. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

no more politics here today. There should be no place for bitter prejudice. There should be common agreement that in matters fundamental to our welfare a sharp divergence of views is lawful, but unreasonable hostility is a crime."

Mr. Bennett spoke of the warlike activities in Europe and promised that Canadians would not be "embroiled in any foreign quarrel where the rights of Canadians are not involved." If trouble arose it would not be the fault of Canada and he felt it to be the duty of the Dominion Government, "by all just and honorable means, to see that Canada is kept out of the trouble."

Of the electors Mr. Bennett asked fair play, not "sympathy or thanks". The Government, through the depression years, had done its best and he felt that Canada had fared comparatively well, although there was not the evidence of permanent improvement that was desired.

Mr. Bennett paid tribute to Mr. King for his years of public service and his personal kindness and consideration, particularly during the Prime Minister's illness. He declared ed that however vehemently he might condemn and criticize the Liberal leader and his party in the campaign arguments, "I shall not forget his kindness nor cease to be grateful for it."

He mentioned seven points as being what he considered among the most important of the ways and means of "safeguarding our high standard of living." They were:

- 1.—By returning agriculture and industry to prosperity.
- 2.—By decreasing our burden of debt.
- 3.—By restoring the labor market to a sound condition.
- 4.—By removing unnatural and unjust inequalities.
- 5.—By better utilization of our natural resources.
- 6.—By better distribution of the products of agriculture and of industry.
- 7.—By strengthening the Confederation, and so increasing our power to work together to achieve these purposes.

REVISION OF LOCAL FIRE INSURANCE RATES IS PROMISED

Objective Long Sought by Town Fire Department

When Lachute became the possessor of its new fire pump and equipment, it was largely attributable to the energy and enterprise of Fire Chief Geo. Y. Deacon. There was much opposition at first to these innovations; a few citizens felt it to be a foolish venture; but it has already proven its worth and Chief Deacon and his men are to be congratulated upon the successful upbuilding of their fire system for protection of town properties.

One of the prime motives behind this investment in a pump and new apparatus, was that an up-to-date fire fighting system might be helpful in securing a reduction of local insurance rates. This supposition was received with a pinch of salt by many, but Mr. Germain Filion, town secretary, has recently received word from Montreal stating that such reduction of rates has now been authorized. The letter reads as follows:—

Montreal, Que.,
Sept. 6, 1935.

Mr. Germain Filion, Sec.-Treas.
Town of Lachute, Que.

Dear Sir:

With further reference to your favour of the 9th. ultimo relative to fire protection and fire insurance rates in your Municipality, we would advise that this matter has now been placed before our Rates Committee, which has authorized us to issue a new tariff showing reduced rates. We regret that this may take some little time as it will be necessary for us to have the insurance plan revised following which our rating inspectors will visit your town and re-inspect all risks therein, after which the new tariff will be issued at as early a date as possible.

Yours faithfully,

G. Hollgate, Sec'y.
Canadian Fire Underwriters

Citizens of Lachute are asked to co-operate with the fire department by keeping their premises clean and in order, so that the underwriters' officials on their tour of inspection will be favorably impressed by the care and precision surrounding the homes and business houses of our community.

Harvest Services at Lakefield and Shrewsbury

The splendor of nature was portrayed in decorations arranged at Holy Trinity Church, Lakefield, on Thursday morning last, on occasion of the Harvest Festival. A true spirit of thankfulness was evident in the abundance of vegetables and flowers in the church. An arch, covered with apples, formed the entrance to the chancel, while the altar was completely banked with flowers.

Rev. E. G. May, M.A., of Ste. Agathe, preached the sermon, while Rev. C. W. P. Baugh conducted the service. Rev. A. E. Mount acted as organist, and Rev. J. A. Lackey, L.Th., assisted in the service—following which the ladies of the W. A. served dinner to a large number in the Gibb Parish Hall.

A beautiful Harvest Festival Service was held in St. John's Church, Shrewsbury, on Sunday afternoon. This service was also conducted by Rev. C. W. P. Baugh, rector, assisted by H. G. Baugh, student minister, and was the best attended

FIRE IN SUMMER HOME AT OKA VILLAGE

Fire destroyed part of a summer bungalow at Oka on Monday night, with a loss estimated at $1,200 partly covered by insurance. The flames were extinguished in half an hour by the firemen. The proprietor of the house, who was residing a short distance away in another of several bungalows he owns, had worked in the bungalow during the day and had left the place at six o'clock. At 10.30 o'clock neighbors noticed flames coming through the roof, and summoned the firemen.

UNUSUAL RECORD BY LACHUTE COW

AYRSHIRE OWNED BY W. ERSKINE RODGER

Canadian Ayrshire Breeders' Association has advised that Thornhill Effie, 17-year-old Ayrshire cow owned by W. Erskine Rodger of Lachute, has joined the ranks of animals which have produced more than 100,000 pounds of milk. This cow's record, made in 10 lactation periods or 3,314 milk-days, was 109,586 pounds of milk, 4,504 pounds of butterfat, average test 4.07 percent.

Thornhill Effie was born in Scotland and brought to Canada at the age of three when she became the property of Mr. Rodger's father. Her actual production is greater than indicated by the figures, as her milking when she was six and seven years old was off the record. The performance has won for Mr. Rodger the Association's "meritorious production" gold seal certificate and membership in its "hundred thousand pound club."

Dog Gave Alarm, Dwelling-House Fire

GRENVILLE LANDMARK DAMAGED BY FLAMES

By our Grenville Correspondent

The historic Pridham house, now occupied by Mr. MacI. Pridham, was the scene of a fire last Friday night. The fire originated in the chimney and had made considerable progress behind the plaster on the walls before it was discovered. It was a small Pekinese dog, owned by Miss Helen Pridham, that gave the alarm by waking its mistress. The Grenville fire brigade, under the direction of Mr. R. White, did remarkably efficient work in checking the fire and saving the house and its contents from destruction. Being in the walls and attic, the fire was particularly difficult to get at. The Masonic Lodge was in session across the square and, at the alarm, the members went across and gave valuable assistance. The damage to the house is considerable.

DOG SHOW TRIUMPHS FOR BROWNSBURG BREEDER

Brookcroft Kennels, owned by Basil E. Jackson of Brownsburg, have won still further successes. A dog from these kennels, Puck III, a black cocker spaniel, has recently made a tour of the Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton and London Exhibitions, where he won a total of eleven prizes—four firsts, one second, three thirds, two best of winner, and one winner dog—which is considered one of the most coveted awards.

With two more wins this dog, Puck III, will complete his championship.

One judge remarked that, with a little more care, the dog would be in shape to enter the Madison Square Garden, which is one of the biggest dog shows in the world.

Mr. Jackson is to be congratulated on the many wins to his credit. It is noted that in certain shows which he has entered, his exhibits have competed with as many as 57 dogs of the same breed and taken second place.

ARSON TRIAL ORDERED IN ARUNDEL CASE

Alfred Earle, of Arundel, charged with arson in connection with a fire that destroyed the outbuildings of Geo. Dobie at Arundel on the night of Aug. 1st, to 2nd., was committed for trial by Magistrate Lalonde, at an arraignment in St. Jerome last week.

The witnesses against the accused, who is a veteran of the Great War and was at one time a patient at the Ste. Anne de Bellevue military hospital, were his brother-in-law, Francis Simard, and George Dobie.

Simard, who resides in Montreal, stated that on July 29 he had gone, at Earle's request, to Arundel where they were to build a house for George Dobie. For some reason or other Dobie had changed his mind and Earle had mentioned he would "get even." That night as their truck was stopped on the highway near Dobie's home Earle had asked for two matches, which had been given him. He had gone away for a few minutes and when he returned he asked witness: "What do you see?"

Ontario Straw Vote Favors King ... But Premier Bennett's Radio Speeches Favorably Accepted - May Draw Votes

Stephens' Biography is Published

"THE OTTAWA SPOTLIGHT"

Ottawa, September 17th.—

Election issues grow more complicated as the day of voting draws near. There has never been a general election in Canada in which the number of candidates has been so high nor the issues so complex and varied. When all the names are in there will be between 900 and 1000 candidates, and at least six parties: Conservatives, Liberals, C.C.F., Stevens, Social Credit and Communist. Premier William Aberhart, Social Credit leader of Alberta, says that this party will run 16 candidates in Alberta (omitting an opponent in the case of Mr. Bennett) and that he will win every seat he contests. He also predicts that 30 to 35 Social Credit candidates will be elected also.

MRS. JANE COOKE DIES AT BEECH RIDGE

FIRST PRESIDENT OF PIONEER W. I.

Jane Loynachan, widow of the late J. B. Cooke, a life-long resident of St. Andrews district, passed away on Monday last.

Mrs. Cooke was born in 1852, the daughter of Donald Loynachan and Margaret Dougall, of Linlithgow, Argyleshire, Scotland. Educated at Lachute Academy and Normal School, she taught school for a number of years.

She was one of the Charter Members of the first Women's Institute in Argenteuil County, now known as Pioneer Branch, being its first president, and for a number of years its secretary. She was made a life member on her 80th birthday.

A family of six children survive her, D. E. Cooke, Lachute; L. L. Cooke, Toronto; J. L. Cooke, Saskatoon; O. A. Cooke, Prince Albert; Mrs. C. F. Kendall, Montreal, and Mrs. G. C. York, Vancouver.

Funeral services were held yesterday, conducted by the Rev. W. B. Rosborough. Interment followed at the St. Andrews Protestant Cemetery.

ARGENTEUIL LIVESTOCK TO FORE, STE. SCHOLASTIQUE EXHBN.

Local Breeders at Top, Horse and Cattle Classes

Unusual interest was created by the Ste. Scholastique Fair this year. It is considered to have been one of the best years for some time, and one is pleased to note among the successful contestants quite a number of our Argenteuil County breeders. These include—A. Cleland of East Settlement who made a complete clean-up in the Registered Clydesdale class of horses, winning five first prizes on five animals shown. The prizes were—1st. on mare and foal, 1st. on mare without foal, 1st. on year-old filly, 1st. on pair registered mares in harness, 1st on foal of 1935, Senior and Grand Champion female, Junior Female Champion and Junior Male Champion.

Wm. Todd of East Settlement secured 1st. on general purpose mare and foal, and 1st. on foal.

Albert Stewart rounded up four firsts, two seconds, and two thirds; taking 1st. on Roadster, Hackney and pair of Hackneys, 2nd. on pair of Roadsters, 3rd. on General Purpose, 3rd. on mare without foal, 1st. and 2nd. on saddle tandems.

R. Lemay of St. Andrews won 1st. on Clydesdale stallion, Grand Champion and 2nd. on mare and foal.

G. R. McCall—1st. on single horse, General Purpose, 2nd. on team in harness. In cows Mr. McCall carried off 2nd. on his three year olds and 3rd. on two year old heifer, also 3rd. on calf.

Erskine Rodger with 13 cattle won—1st. prize Senior and Grand Champion on aged bull, 1st. on junior bull calf, 1st. on milk cow, 2nd. on two and three year olds in milk, 3rd. on two year old dry heifer, 1st. prize junior and reserve, Grand Champion on yearling heifer, 1st. on junior calf, 1st. on senior herd, 1st. junior herd, 1st. on progeny of dam, 2nd. junior get of sire, 3rd. senior get of sire, all of which are in Pure-bred Ayrshire Class. In Grade Dairy he captured 1st. on best herd, 1st. on three year olds, 1st. on 2 year olds, 1st. on yearlings, 2nd. on calves; also 1st. and 2nd. on White Wyandotte Chickens in four different classes.

Several other exhibitors were keen contestants from this County, but The Watchman has been unable to procure their results.

The Measure of a Man

Not—"How did he die?"
But—"How did he live?"
Not—"What did he gain?"
But—"What did he give?"
These are the units
To measure the worth
Of a man as a man
Regardless of birth.
Not—"What was his station?"
But—"Had he a heart?"
And—"How did he play
His God-given part,
Was he ever ready
With a word of good cheer
To bring back a smile,
To banish a tear?"
Not—"What was his church?"
Nor—"What was his creed?"
But—"Had he befriended
Those really in need?"
Not—"What did the sketch
In the newspaper say?"

CAMPAIGN AGAINST SLOT MACHINES, ST. JEROME

Magistrate Donat Lalonde, sitting at St. Jerome, issued a warning to local owners of slot machines to the effect that he would no longer be lenient with them. He asked newspaper representatives present to publish the warning so that no one would be caught unawares. He also asked the police authorities to do their best to wipe out the existence of this gambling device.

There were 20 owners who appeared on Thursday last and pleaded guilty; they were each sentenced to a fine of $10 and costs or one month, and the machines were ordered confiscated.

Magistrate Lalonde stated that in the future he would impose a sentence of $100 fine and costs and proportionate imprisonment. He said that he had seen cases where young boys stole money to play these machines.

HOUSE WEDDING IN LACHUTE

HOCQUARD - WINTERS

The marriage of Miss Mary Ethel Winters, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Winters of Brandon, Manitoba, to Mr. Charles Godfrey Hocquard, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. F. Hocquard of New Carlisle, Que., took place on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 14, at the home of the bride's cousin, Mrs. W. G. Walker, Lachute. The Rev. Henry Cousens officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her cousin, Mr. Douglas Simon, wore a gown of white triple sheer over flat crepe, with hat and accessories to match.

The gift of the groom was a yellow gold brooch set with a diamond. She carried a bouquet of briarshire roses and fern. The bride was attended by Miss Leona Walker, wearing a gown of flowered silk chiffon, with black hat and shoes to match, and carrying a bouquet of talisman roses.

Mr. W. H. Heusten of Montreal acted as groomsman. The Wedding March was beautifully played by the groom's niece, Mrs. F. Scott of Montreal. The living room was tastefully decorated with autumn leaves, asters and calendulas.

After a luncheon, the bridal couple left by motor for Boston and other points, the bride travelling in a brown bramble knitted suit with brown accessories. On their return they will reside at New Carlisle, Que.

Poland's Salt Mines

For more than ten centuries miners toiled in the salt shafts near Cracow, Poland, and being deeply religious, they spent their spare time in carving marvelous figures in salt. A complete cathedral, containing giant chandeliers, beautiful statues of the saints, altars and other Biblical figures and objects, is one example of the workers' skill. On feast days of modern times, mass is held in the underground cathedral. Among the statues is that of the Virgin. In one part of the mine a giant statue and a beautiful hall appear, monuments to the devotion of the miners.

Getting Ahead of the Joneses

Now that many people are again making a little money, the question of thrift arises. The new economics takes the stand that money distributed in good wages will best serve mankind since wage earners want so there may be some satisfaction many things which they understand people of means enjoy. In keeping up with the Joneses in house furnishings, cars, etc. (Note the Sunday afternoon fever to pass the car ahead).

One of the surest ways of getting ahead is to go without today that more may be enjoyed tomorrow. This is good to a degree. Many of us would have been saved much embarrassment had we practised it more. But when health is sacrificed to pile up "tomorrow's" satisfactions then the thrift-idea, which prompted the rashness or intenseness or speed or too long hours, is an evil. Tomorrow didn't come for millions of folks who died last year under thirty.

Legislating for Country -- not Party

Difficult though it may be to suppress the frequent charge of "party politics", and especially when a general election is at hand, it has been apparent and widely admitted that Premier R. B. Bennett is more concerned with the recovery of Canadian business and general welfare than with mere "party" success.

This fact is noticeable when one examines the record, scrutinizing legislation already written into the most commendable national program ever presented to the Canadian voter for his endorsement. That the present Government is thoroughly conversant with world conditions is demonstrated by the field covered in proposed enactments in this bold but necessary at-House of Commons.

Fifty years ago, or less, introduction of similar legislation would have occasioned much surprise among the people, but today some of the same people and their descendants understand only too well that drastic measures must be employed to correct desperate circumstances. In this bold but necessary attack on restraining influences that interfere with progress, Premier Bennett has shown neither desire nor inclination to relax until the object of his mission is secured.

thought is for "country — not party".

But great undertakings have never been hastily accomplished. The present Government has surely had its full share of hostile intrusions and criticisms of its program. But it has never yet digressed from its course to national recovery, visualizing complete success at the end of its struggle.

Tympani Have Pitch; Not Like the Ordinary Drums

The tympani, or kettledrums, belong to that group of percussion instruments which possess definite musical pitch. They resemble huge copper kettles, observes a writer in the Washington Post. Over the top of each is stretched a layer of sheepskin called "the head." Around the rim are six set screws which are turned to tighten or loosen the head, so that it can be kept in tune.

Two tympani are usually used, although four and sometimes six are employed in certain orchestral compositions. Tympani, in Italian, means "drums." Other drums only make noise and do not have a definite musical pitch. In order to show the difference in musical quality, they are called tympani.

Not only do the tympani have pitch, but a skillful player can make their tone vary in quality also. Several pairs of sticks are employed to play the tympani. The sticks are tipped at one end with felt of varying degree of thickness and weight, enabling the player to produce loud or soft tones.

The performer can vary the tone of the tympani by striking it at different places. A stroke near the side gives the sharpest and brightest tone, while the one in the middle is duller. The usual spot is about halfway between these two.

The tympanist has few notes and long rests in orchestral music. He must count these, but in practice he either knows the music, or has a bit of it written out to give him the cue, or gets the signal from the conductor.

Island of Rhodes Still

Point of Great Interest

In the beginning of the Fourteenth century the Crusaders and the Knights of St. John occupied the Island of Rhodes, crossroads of the occident and the orient and once the great intellectual center of the ancient world, and made it one of the strongest fortresses of the Middle Ages. About 200 years later the knights were overwhelmed. Then for centuries the island was forgotten, until in 1912 the Italians defeated the Turks and occupied the island and kept it by the treaty of Trianon after the World war. With such a colorful background, the place retains many influences of its early history. Wandering around the mighty walls visitors have to look out not to stumble against one of the stone cannon balls which are lying in the grass, half or all covered by the earth of 300 years.

Nearly every peasant has his own windmill, and on Sunday evenings the whole population gathers on the terrace in front of the old orthodox church. In their colorful, gold-embroidered costumes. They are a simple people, satisfied with the pleasant routine of life on an island in the Mediterranean, and oblivious to the fact that their home is a half western, half eastern city with fascinating medieval fortifications and walls.

CONSTITUTIONAL LIBERTY vs. EXECUTIVE DESPOTISM

CORRESPONDENCE

In the old log school house at the crossroads in Middlesex County, under my fifteen-year-old teacher without a diploma, on the rough black board I read Benjamin Franklin's remark to the effect "that one drop of printer's ink could make ten million people think," and I have never forgotten it. There I read, also, that freedom under the law was the finest fruit that ever grew on the true British Liberty. Think of it, my friends, for the time is fast approaching when we will be called upon to exercise that liberty wisely according to the rules of our constitution, and we will all unite in a common effort for a common good. All too must bear in mind this sacred principle, that though the will of the majority is in all cases to prevail, that will to be rightful must be reasonable; that minorities possess their equal right which equal law must protect, and to violate would be oppression. Let us then, with one heart and one mind—let us restore to social intercourse that harmony and affection without which liberty and even life itself are dreary things.

We are a rising nation spread over a wide and fruitful land, traversing all the seas with the products of our industries; engaged in commerce with nations that feel their power and forget right; advancing rapidly to destinies beyond the reach of mortal conception; and there is no knowing our possibilities—But there is one thing more, my readers, what we need is a wise and frugal government which will restrain men from injuring one another, shall leave them otherwise free; and we must in no case take from the mouth of labor the bread that it has earned. What our Canadian workmen want is steady employment at reasonable wages. Tariffs we must have, to run our country, but they must be reasonable—for tariffs are to government what the meal tub is to the family; but if the tub gets too full we become wasteful; it takes away the right of every individual freely to exchange the surplus of that which he makes for the surplus of that which his neighbor makes. And his neighbors, my friends, are the world. Trade is not war; trade is peace. Commerce knows no nationality. "Change just for change is like the big hotels, when they shift plates and let you live on smells."

We are in need of some regular changes, for no government can endure in which greed not only makes the laws, but decides who shall construe them. Under these conditions many of our best citizens are beginning to despair of our Dominion.

HISTORICAL SOC. REVIEWS ITS CONSTITUTION, AIMS AND OBJECTIVES

In view of the wide interest awakened in the Historical Society of Argenteuil County, the directors make known its commitments and proposed plans, in order that members' relation to the Society may be clearly understood and that the payment of fees, and any contributions in the way of gifts or loans to the museum may be given with full understanding.

This Society, now incorporated by legislative enactment, is quite free from political, racial and denominational boundaries, and is organized on a democratic basis; hence its members share equally in the enjoyment of its privileges and have a voice and vote in the annual election of its officers, and the amendments of its by-laws. Its membership is not confined to residents, or even to the descendants of residents of the county.

Although it is a county organization, there is no reason why it should not serve the neighboring counties by housing loan collections until such time as these other counties are ready to establish similar institutions of their own.

Heretofore the labour of the executive has been free of cost and will continue to be so until a curator is appointed for its Museum. No debts will be incurred; hence its plans will materialize only as fast as its income will permit.

The organization is a non-assessable corporation and will never pay dividends. For the sake of economy and convenience members are invited to send membership fees in lump sums for two or more years, and an opportunity to become life-members by a contribution of $20. is offered to those who prefer to be exempt from future fees. The annual fee is 50 cts., payable at time of the Annual Meeting. The mailing list will cover all members who will be entitled to financial statements and reports of the important transactions of the Society as long as they are in good standing.

It is hoped that among the numerous and prosperous descendants of the old families, a group of wealthy ones may line up with generous gifts towards the erection and endowment of the proposed Museum, and the establishment of a basis that would entitle it to an appropriation from the Carnegie Corporation devoted to historical museums.

The trend of Historical Societies both in the United States and Canada, is towards centering their objective in museums which reveal, more impressively than the printed page, the story of the past.

The example of other historical societies in this respect might well be followed, in enlisting the co-operation of the teachers and scholars throughout the county, in combing their districts for old documents, diaries, journals, scrapbooks, letters, family genealogies, reminiscences of the past and passing generation, maps, photographs, and pictures that have historic significance. The old homes and garrets of Argenteuil could bring to light curios, antiques, weapons, tools, and labour-saving devices that speak eloquently of the way our forefathers lived and loved and laboured in the long ago.

To this end, it is the purpose of the executive to have a re-

the parties will be wiped out? In the straw votes taken in Ontario so far, Mackenzie King appears to be the favorite. Liberal headquarters are also quite pleased over reports from lieutenants in the Maritimes and Quebec. The prairies, they admit, make another story. No one knows what will happen out there, they say, except that some Social Credit candidates are a safe bet.

Can any party secure a majority over all, under these circumstances? A few weeks ago most observers were ready to concede to the Liberals a clean sweep. They still obviously have the best chance. But what will happen in these constituencies where there are four or five candidates? Obviously in a five-candidate riding so small a vote as 21 per cent would be enough to elect a man if the remainder of the votes were evenly distributed.

VOTES VERSUS SEATS

Popular vote and the election of candidates are two different things. In Prince Edward Island the Conservatives secured 43 per cent of the popular vote—and did not elect a single member! Such an event is not likely in a federal contest where the number of members is much larger and the issues differing widely in different parts of the country. Just the same, one of the newer parties might poll 10 per cent of the total vote and still not elect a single member!

Premier Bennett has been flooded with messages of congratulations about his radio addresses. He is far from being 'out'. But unless he can poll more votes than he did in 1930 he will be trimmed. There is a normally silent vote of three-quarters of a million to a million which is going to come out on October 14th., and it all depends on which scale that additional weight is placed. Whom are the young men and women going to support? That's another important question.

THE LIFE OF MR. STEVENS

A full-dress biography of Hon. H. H. Stevens is being released this week in instalments for the newspapers, thus bringing the Reconstruction leader presentative visit the county schools to canvass its aims and methods.

While the president, Dr. Wales, and the vice-president, Dr. Maude Abbott, have been appointed temporary custodians of the museum contributions, contributors are advised that if they prefer to hold their treasures for the present, they should catalogue and report them to the Executive, whether as gifts or loans, to be transferred as soon as the cabinet bureaus are ready for their proper classification.

This association is auspiciously launched with a membership of over 200, has a future which looks bright for a Museum that would be a tribute worthy the traditions of the past, a source level with Mackenzie King, Bennett and Woodsworth in this respect. They have all had their 'lives' published within the past two years. Mr. Stevens' career in some respects is the most colorful and exciting of all, especially in the early passages.

The reaction on Parliament Hill to Premier Bennett's radio series was that he gained ground with some parts of it and lost ground in others. His resourcefulness and constructive ideas will win votes but his return to the 1930 attitude about tariffs, money and capitalism will not help him much among the younger more radical elements. For every supporter he wins on such things as retirements at 60, he loses another. The mortgage companies and the private mortgage holders were alarmed at the proposal of a 'bankruptcy law' for the home buyer. The monetary reformers shied at his 'loan council'. The bondholders here and abroad were disturbed at the thought of a wholesale debt conversion. The western producers, hearing that the wheat farmer had had his costs guaranteed, wanted to know what would be done for them. All these things cut two ways.

MORE HASTE — MORE WASTE

(Hamilton Spectator)

The toll of human life taken by reckless driving on our highways; the injuries and inconveniences due to unnecessary speed, are forceful enough arguments in themselves to urge caution on motorists. And the United States Bureau of Standards has compiled significant data to show that speeding is also a waste of money, in that the faster an automobile is driven the more gasoline it consumes.

A car capable of getting 18 miles out of a gallon of gasoline, when driven 30 miles an hour for example, will get only 16.4 miles to the gallon, according to the bureau figures, when pushed up to 40 miles an hour.

At 50 miles an hour the same car will get 14.6 miles to the gallon, at 60 miles an hour it of pleasure and pride in the future, and destined to be a resort for antiquarian research and a veritable shrine to travellers returning to their native heath.

For this rich and populous county, the enterprise is none too ambitious. It becomes a sacred obligation of the present generation who are enjoying the fruits of the toils and hardships of our pioneer ancestors, to thus honour and preserve their memories.

It is suggested that the regular annual meeting of the Society be held in September and that the occasion be made an old-timers' Commemoration Festival, with a programme in harmony with the spirit of its aims.

will get 12.6 miles, at 70 miles an hour it will get 10.6 miles, and at 80 miles an hour it will get 8.6 miles per gallon.

In addition to this, nearly seven times as much oil is used up at 55 miles per hour as at 30 miles an hour. These are facts well deserving of publicity.

SALT IN ROAD CONSTRUCTION IS CANADIAN INVENTION

COMPOUND NOW KNOWN AS "MICHIGAN ROAD"

Sir Malcolm Campbell, in breaking the world's speed record, centred the spotlight again on the use of common salt in road construction. This new type of highway, it is noted, has been built in the Maritimes, Ontario and Michigan and is standing up well under weather and traffic. Among its chief virtues are low initial cost and low maintenance cost. Common salt, with which Canada is abundantly supplied, may solve the financial problems of many Canadian municipalities contemplating road-building programs. At the same time, the smooth, hard waterproof surface of this new type of road not only improves highway conditions at low cost but also reduces the upkeep of tires.

The work of a Nova Scotian engineer, seeking a solution to the dust problem of roads in that province, resulted in what is generally accepted today as a valuable contribution to highway science and one that may save Canada thousands of dollars in road-building.

A. R. Chambers of New Glasgow, Nova Scotia, knew that for centuries the ceramic industry had added common salt to improve the drying qualities of clay. Using this principle, he constructed test stretches near Truro and Elmsdale. His experiments were successful in eliminating the dust nuisance. Michigan engineers later made a special journey to Nova Scotia to examine the new type of highway. They carried Chambers' experiments with the salt-clay combination further. After research, they found they had developed an entirely new type of road surfacing known as soil-concrete.

This uses the common materials—gravel, clay and salt—but binds them into a hard, waterproof and traffic resistant surface. Tests in Ontario, the Maritimes and Michigan indicate that soil-concrete highways are satisfactory and economical. Despite the fact that the first and most important experiments were conducted by a Canadian, this type of surfacing is today known as the "Michigan Road."

U. S. Federal authorities have named a committee to study salt as a cheap but stabilizing chemical for use on clay-gravel roads. Coincident with this, the Canadian salt industry has undertaken further research for the benefit of builders of Canadian highways.

PROTEST DIVERSION OF AUTO TAXES

ADVERSE CRITICISM of provincial governments that are diverting motor vehicle taxation revenue to other than road improvement purposes was voiced at the 21st annual meeting of the Canadian Automobile Association, federation of motor leagues of all provinces.

DICTATORS DON'T DIE NATURALLY

THOSE FOUR words should sear themselves into the consciousness of any aspirants to political power who plan to ride rough-shod over the peoples' right to fairly ballot a man out of office. Millions of Americans who were opposed to some of Huey Long's methods deplore the fact that he was shot. Many of Mr. Long's ideas of fair play for the common people were not far out of line with the thinking of present day leaders, but his method of gaining his objectives turned men with similar aims away from him.

The manner of his going has made millions of his countrymen humble. We thought such methods were, in this century, only for backward races. What the editors in other countries outside the United States are saying is not flattering. But possibly the whole situation can be a lesson to all of us, and particularly to would-be dictators, everywhere.

DIFFICULT PERIOD IN ALBERTA

MAYOR A. DAVISON of Calgary has stated that his city would be obliged to default on bond interest payments and stop payment of tax revenue monies to the Bank of Montreal if the Federal Government refuses a $500,000 loan.

Mayor Davison said the city's estimated revenue for the balance of the year would fall short of expenditures by $514,827. Refusal of a loan, will also mean a return to the voucher system for unemployed relief payments, he said. At present Calgary has a cash relief programme.

Meanwhile, ex-Premier Reid had announced temporary suspension of payments of provincial savings certificates because of a drain on the liquid funds of the Government.

MUNICIPAL BANK SCHEME READY

MAYOR J. B. JOHNSTON, of Orillia, Ont., states that "the machinery is all ready to begin as soon as the council says the word," for the establishment of a municipally owned bank.

Mayor Johnston urged establishment of such a bank shortly after his election last winter. It was said a bank allegedly refused to advance money to Orillia until it was satisfied as to the manner in which the money was going to be spent.

"There is no reason for us to pay five per cent to borrow money when we can open our own bank, and receive deposits from our taxpayers, pay them two per cent interest, as much as other banks pay them, and save money by doing it," the mayor said.

"Taxpayers will be glad to deposit their money in the town bank as soon as they will see they will be getting just as much interest as they can get anywhere else and on just as good security. At the same time they will cut down their taxes by saving interest."

ARSON TRIAL ORDERED

Witness had looked and had seen flames in the Dobie out-houses and had said so. According to Simard, Earle had said then: "I'll fix that guy."

In his evidence Dobie said that two barns and one stable with some machines had been destroyed by the fire and that one horse, which had been saved, had since been ill.

The court decided there was sufficient evidence to warrant trial and fixed bail at $950, which was not forthcoming.

Old Magazines Wanted

The Sailors' Institute, Montreal, is anxious to secure all copies of magazines, etc., and can use them to good advantage. Any old copies left with the Watchman Office, Lachute, or with Rev. A. B. Hagar, Brownsburg, will be disposed of according to this request during the month of October. S26-2p.

CANADIAN FAILS TO PASS ENGLISH DRIVING TEST

A Canadian failed in the stringent new motor-driving test regulations in the first case of its kind tried in England.

Frederick Charles Townsend, who failed to pass a driving test on arrival in Huntingdon, Eng., made application for a fresh test within a month. It was dismissed.

Townsend said he had held a driving licence in Canada for 16 years, had never had an accident although he had driven so many miles he couldn't estimate them. He drove his last car for 34,000, he said.

He complained the test given him was not according to regulations, and he could not understand the questions put to him by the woman examiner.

A garage proprietor who accompanied Townsend on the test said that under similar conditions 99 per cent. would have failed. Townsend was a competent driver, he added.

Bessie Holmes, the examiner, said she had tested about 200 applicants and 40 had failed. She was of the opinion Townsend had not passed the test "as a whole."

ENGINEERS TO STUDY WATER INTAKE

Five engineering experts of Montreal have been appointed by the Executive Committee to investigate the waterworks intake at Ville LaSalle, and to report to the administration what amount of money is necessary to equip the aqueduct properly in this connection.

The Montreal Water Board, roused by reports that the present intake had been inadequate for years, received reports from Mr. Des-Baillets showing that as far back as 1921 the authorities at the City Hall were being told, first, that Montreal's consumption was passing intake capacity and that shore water was being used; second, that the shore water used was undesirable for domestic purposes unless purified by means of coagulation basins which would cost more to operate than the annual interest and sinking fund on a new and extended intake passing the Ottawa River inflow and reaching the desirable St. Lawrence River water; thirdly, that the city could not much longer turn its back on a new intake and that it would have to be of 300,000,000 gallons daily capacity to match the rest of the waterworks plant.

HOPE SEEN IN HOARE'S ATTITUDE

On September the eleventh, Sir Samuel Hoare, speaking in Geneva, let it be known in firm tones that John Bull is standing steady for peace in Africa. He set forth in general terms, but none the less forceful, the affirmation which has been a strong hope in the hearts of millions the world over, that other means than a resort to arms can still save lives and avert bloodshed in the dark continent. He left the way open for Italy to retrace steps so far taken without "losing face", by making it clear that war nor a threat of war are necessary now on the part of anyone.

What would it profit Italy though she gain the whole half of Africa and lose humanity's respect? Or, if she is out to avenge a wrong of many years ago which occurred on another's soil, what would stop a similar attitude from dominating the colored races of the earth when, as is not impossible, they are some day top-dog?

Or, take Mussolini's other argument that other nations "took theirs" by conquest in other days. Does the fact that pirates once roamed the high seas unhindered make it right for someone to start the practice in this enlightened era? On the other hand there are intelligent folk who maintain that rather than allow this situation to bring on another and possibly worse world war, there had better be a reappointment of the task of "civilizing" Africa.

The unborn grandchildren who will have to live in the world which Mussolini and the rest of us leave to them should be entitled to some consideration.

MUNICIPAL DEFAULTS HARM CANADA ABROAD

High standards of municipal credit in Canada have been weakened immeasurably by foreign advertising of defaults, stated L. A. Winter, treasurer of the Manufacturer's Life Insurance Co. to delegates of the 37th annual convention of the Ontario Municipal Association in Toronto.

"It is damaging to our credit abroad, not only in regard to municipal obligations but also to those of our governments, and affects seriously the operations of Canadian financial and commercial companies doing business overseas," said Mr. Winter.

The speaker said that Canada was the only part of the Empire where there were municipal difficulties; he remarked that there was not a single case of default in the Maritimes.

Month's Activities of Argenteuil County W. I.

Fourteen members and one visitor attended Chatham Branch meeting, and responded to the roll-call "Sing, say or pay". Quite a number, incidentally, paid the five-cent fine; others responded by reading poems. This branch is planning an Amateur Night in October.

Frontier Branch enjoyed an interesting travel talk by Miss F. Mason. Members gave their personal opinions on June Examinations and the majority were in favor of pupils passing, or not passing, on their year's work. A reception was also given for the teachers present.

Jerusalem - Bethany meeting was of exceptional interest to flower lovers, featuring Agriculture. Mrs. Kenneth Sly gave an interesting paper on "The Perennial Border."

Lachute Branch meeting took the form of a delightful picnic at Dunany with "Fish Stories" as their roll-call, some very interesting tales being related. Immigration was brought to the fore, Mrs. J. S. Giles reading a paper which stressed the possibilities of Canada's future if only the right people can be placed on her vast unsettled areas.

Lakefield's principal feature was the presentation of a prize of money to Miss Amy Kyle, a High School student from that district, who had obtained the highest marks in her grade last year. A "500 Card Party" was also planned.

Pioneer enjoyed, in the interests of Education and Better Schools, an address on, "Are June Examinations an advantage to the pupil or not?" by Rev. Mr. Miller, their roll-call being personal opinions on the same subject. A reception for the teachers was also given.

Morin Heights, in the interests of Child Welfare and Public Health, are still agitating on the matter of Garbage Collection. Their Secretary again wrote the Council on this subject. Canadianization was featured in a talk on Canadian Birds, the insects they destroy, and weed seeds they eat. Colored pictures of birds were shown. This subject is to be continued later. Speakers enlisted for talks on Legislation were unavoidably absent. The members were much interested in Mrs. Kuhring's resumé of the Board Meetings at Macdonald College during Convention days.

Upper Lachute - East End had a general discussion on Education and Better Schools and the advantages and disadvantages of June Examinations. Twenty-one members were present to enjoy this topic. The Branch also held a "Grandmother's Day" in August.

DISTRICT NEWS

CUSHING

Mrs. Drysdale, of Montreal, is the guest of Miss Annie Weir for September.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Beecher and family, of Montreal, also Miss Helen Maw, spent the week-end at Lilac Cottage.

Capt. and Mrs. J. D. Weir, Miss Eileen and Master Bobbie Weir, of Ste. Anne de Bellevue, occupied their summer home here for the week-end.

Mrs. Effie Greenleese, of Montreal, and Miss Annie Fuller of Ottawa, were guests of their brother, Mr. F. Fuller, last week.

Mrs. Wesley Morrow, who has spent the last few weeks with friends in Ottawa and Poltmore, returned home Tuesday, bringing her sister, Joy Hickey of Poltmore, to be her guest for several months.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Graham and Mr. A. T. Graham were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Kuhring of Long Lake Lodge.

Congratulations are extended to Miss Dorothy Weir, who was reported in last week's Watchman as having won the Ottawa Valley Graduates' Society exhibition prize, value $75, in graduating from Lachute High School in June—and who has been so modest about it that her friends had to learn it from the newspaper.

MORIN HEIGHTS

Among those who spent the week-end at their homes here were—Miss Olive Seale of Montreal, and Mr. Lorne Brown of Ste. Anne de Bellevue.

The Annual Thanksgiving Services were held in Trinity Church on Sunday last and were well attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Doherty spent the past week-end in Cornwall, Ont.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Bethel and family have returned to the city after spending the summer months here.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Lacken and family are again occupying the Christie House for the winter.

The Annual Thanksgiving Supper, under the auspices of Trinity Church W.A., is taking place on Friday evening, Sept. 20th. A good time is expected.

A number from Morin attended the reception held in Ward's Hall, Mille Isles, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Elder.

Conservative Policies Saved Lumber Trade

Over 80,000 men who were at work in the bush during the winter of 1933-34 know exactly what the Empire Agreements did for them. Those Agreements put them back to work; either took them off the relief rolls or stopped the gradual draining of savings to sustain life.

Tens of thousands of workers in other trades benefited from increased lumber production. Railways hauled the products to ocean ports, truckers brought it out of the bush and hauled it to the railways, camp supply companies suddenly found orders pouring in again, hardware merchants found the same, manufacturers, wholesale and retail sales staffs were increased to take care of greater business, and so forth. Yes, even these people benefiting indirectly from the sudden boost in the industry, know their story is essentially the same as is the lumberjack's in the bush. They were put back to work.

Employment in woods operations, including the extraction of pulpwood, was 130,000 men during the winter of 1933-34 as compared with 48,000 men the previous winter—before the Agreements had time to register their effect on the industry.

iation, Montreal, February 6, 1935).

Early this year the Prime Minister reviewed the results of the Ottawa agreements, in these words:—

"Had it not been for the markets thus afforded in Great Britain and other parts of the overseas dominions we would not under the conditions that obtained have been able to survive. I think that is fair, and yet in season and out of season the gentlemen opposite have seen fit to decry these agreements and to render it difficult, indeed particularly with respect to one commodity, lumber, to maintain the position of Canada with respect to the English importer. We are told that the agreements and arrangements with respect to preference did not represent the view of the Canadian people; that is what the traders were representing, and that the real view of the Canadian people was that put forth by hon. gentlemen opposite."

"The public man who permits himself to pause long enough to inquire whether a thing is popular or unpopular, instead of seeking to know whether it is right or wrong, is not only useless, but dangerous to his country. He is a coward to begin with, and a menace always."

STORIED SPOTS FROM SEA TO SEA

By W. J. Banks, B.A.

Fort Victoria

In the spring of 1843 the sturdy little "Beaver", pioneer steamer of the Pacific coast, entered the harbor at the Indian village of Camosun on southern Vancouver Island. She carried Chief Factor James Douglas and fifteen men, come to establish a new trading post. Already the Father of British Columbia knew that the days of Fort Vancouver, at the mouth of the Columbia river, were numbered as headquarters of the fur trade. Encroaching settlement and American claims to sovereignty dictated his choice of a suitable location farther north.

Tradition has it that Douglas landed knee-deep in clover at what is still known as Clover Point. The work of building began immediately while Father Bolduc, pioneer missionary of British Columbia, made converts among the natives who gathered at the scene. An 18-foot stockade, 150 yards square with bastions at the corners, enclosed Fort Camosun's numerous buildings. For economy the builders used wooden pegs in place of nails or spikes. The name was later changed to Fort Albert and finally to Victoria, in honor of the young Queen. What are now populous islands were often valued cheaply in their early days. We are told that the Indians sold Manhattan for a few drinks, and now the British Government granted Vancouver Island to the Hudson's Bay Company for seven shillings a year.

In 1849 Victoria became the Company's headquarters on the coast. Settlement progressed slowly at first, but by 1852 the town was laid out in streets and ten years later was incorporated. On the busy Causeway of the lovely city of to-day a cairn commemorates the building of Fort Victoria, its prominence as trading centre and colonial capital, and the inauguration there of the first government, courts of justice and legislative assembly of the Great Lakes in what is now the Dominion of Canada.

Engineer From Rocky Mountains Becomes Deputy Minister of Interior

Keen outdoor man, enthusiastic member, and a past president of the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies, and a leading stalwart in the ranks of the Trail Hikers, J. M. Wardle, chief engineer, National Parks of Canada, has won well deserved promotion to the post of deputy minister of the Department of the Interior at Ottawa.

Although only in his "forties", Mr. Wardle has been rated as one of the most efficient officers of the Department of the Interior for many years. He was born in Chilliwack, British Columbia, on June 26th, 1888, receiving his education at New Westminster, B.C., and Queen's University, Kingston, where he graduated with the degree of bachelor of science. Mr. Wardle joined the Department of the Interior in 1913, and was appointed Superintendent of Banff National Park in 1918, continuing in that office until 1920, when he was transferred to Ottawa as engineer in charge of National Parks construction. He was given the post of chief engineer in 1923.

An expert on mountain highway construction, Mr. Wardle has supervised the building of practically all main highways in the National Parks of Canada. Under his direction the Banff-Windermere highway, the first motor road across the Central Rockies, was completed in 1923, and in 1927 the road known as the Kicking Horse Trail, from Lake Louise, Alberta, to Golden, British Columbia, was also completed. He has supervised the building of the "east leg" of the Big Bend highway along the Columbia River from Donald, B.C., to Boat Encampment, and recently was placed in charge of the construction of the "west leg" from Revelstoke, B.C., north to Boat Encampment. This highway when completed will form the final link in the western section of the trans-Canada highway.

The latest highway project to come under Mr. Wardle's supervision was the road now under construction from Lake Louise to Jasper, Alberta. Mr. Wardle has also had charge of all other construction work in the National Parks. He takes over his new duties with the best wishes of his many friends in the Rockies, and, indeed, throughout Canada.

THE LEGAL STENOGRAPHER

By Dorothy Plummer

If you can keep your head while worried lawyers Dictate about two hundred words a minute, And type from shorthand an agreement swiftly, Nor ever make a single error in it; If you can take, correctly, learned letters Explaining different legal points of view; Elucidate your chief's elusive figures When he writes out a "bill of costs" for you; If you can make nice, plausible excuses, When wives or creditors come raging down, And murmur gently "He is at the Court House," And to the latter—"He is out of town"; If you can fill farm leases out correctly, And not confuse the "lessor" and "lessee"; Draw up "administration papers" neatly, And place each detail where it ought to be; If you can read illegible hand-writing, Find missing papers and lost files with speed; And do each partner's work as each prefers it, You'll be a crack stenographer indeed.

Making History in Argenteuil

Extracted from the Files of
The Watchman

50 Years Ago.

Sept. 18, 1885.

Several new buildings are going up on the west side. Mr. Alex. Riddell is erecting one with a Mansard roof on Princess Ave., but there are several families without houses in the west ward and unless some are soon finished for winter use the families will necessarily be forced to move from here.

At the Toronto Exhibition last week four first prizes and a medal were awarded Fish and Ireland, and a letter from the Antwerp Exhibition has just been received stating that a bronze medal has been awarded the "National Foods" there. This now makes seven medals and twenty-four first prizes to the Lachute manufacturers of prepared cereals in three years.

Mr. C. S. Burroughs, has entered joint-action in the Superior Court at Ste. Scholastique, against Joseph Palliser and the proprietors of the Watchman for publication of a letter signed by Mr. Palliser, being a reply to a communication from Mr. Burroughs published in this journal on the 21st. August last in which Mr. Palliser considered himself injured. Mr. Burroughs has computed his reputation as a lawyer and landowner was injured by the publication of Mr. Palliser's letter to the tune of $15,000. Mr. Burroughs seemed to be very sensitive in regard to his own reputation but is not so particular as to his animadversion on others. It now remains for court decision.

25 Years Ago.

Sept. 16, 1910.

Now that school has started again we must not forget that our children are still ours and the more interest we show in their school the more efficiency is increased.

Regular meeting of County Council was held on Wednesday last at which were present M. J. Strong, Warden of County, and Councillors H. Dixon, Dr. Legault, Daw, Black and R. Dobbie and P. Dobbie. The secretary reported judgment in the ditch case had been given against the council and he had now been served with another suit in the same case. J. L. St. Jacques was secured as counsel.

On motion of Coun. Dobbie, seconded by Coun. D. Black it was decided to have the Court House installed with 15 electric lights at places designated by the registrar.

Messrs. O. B. Lafleur & Sons have secured the contract for erection of the large Government School at Caughnawaga. It is pleasing that the work will be executed by Lachute's business men, as Robt. McArthur has been awarded the heating and G. Deacon the roofing.

The many friends of Mr. R. Styan are pleased to see him in town again. Since going west, Ray was worked himself into a position of trust with the International Harvester Company and is on a fair way to the success which always follows those who give themselves over to duty and honor.

BOY SCOUTS THE WORLD OVER

"Old Scouts form a useful body, and can be relied upon to be a good influence in their communities." —Lord Baden-Powell.

ROVER MOOT RUGBY

A rugby match between a team representing the Swedish Rugby Association and British Rover Scouts was a sporting event of the recent World Rover Moot in Sweden, before a large gathering of spectators. The Rovers won, 12 to 3.

SCOUTING A SUBSTITUTE FOR DISCIPLINE

"The boys of today in many instances lack the discipline which normally would have been theirs, under elder brothers and fathers who were lost in the Great War. Here is where Scouting can help a great deal." —Lord Baden-Powell.

SCOUT FALL FAIR USHERS

Selected King's Scouts again this fall did the grand stand ushering at the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto. Since the first experiment some years ago the C.N.E. management annually has asked for Scouts, because of their courtesy and efficiency.

THE SCOUTS' TENTS STOOD

As a little example of the practical effectiveness of Scout woodcraft training, Lord Baden-Powell tells of an incident at the Australian Jamboree. During the night a violent wind storm blew down most of the refreshment and other "concession" buildings and marquees. Not a Scout tent fell, and in the morning the boys were cooking breakfast over their fires as usual.

FINDERS OF LOST CHILDREN

The finding and care of lost children at our annual fall fairs has become a well established Boy Scout responsibility. During the present season a thousand or more such strayed kiddies have been picked up and looked after by uniformed Scouts until claimed at the various exhibitions. Children's days are the big days, the Scout fair headquarters sometimes looking like a busy kindergarten with young Scout instructors entertaining somewhat tearful guests.

AN UNEXPECTED FRIGHT

Two little roly-poly bears
Were out one day a-walking,
When they spied a group of children

And listened to them talking.
Said Growly Wowly Cubbie
"I don't like that sound",
And ran towards the forest
With a funny, scrambling bound.

He kept going, faster, faster,
As though he'd never stop,
Until he reached a pine tree
And climbed right to the top!

Wee Fuzzie's legs were shorter,
She did not move so fast,
But—growling, puffing, grunting—

She reached the top at last.

The children laughed and shouted

When they saw the cubs afraid
And the poor, scared cubbies shivered,

At the dreadful noise they made.

MADGE ALARMS HER FRIENDS

Uncle Ted and the children fished until it was almost time for supper and of course the boys had caught more fish than the girls, who were too afraid to take them off the hook when they did catch them.

Frances and Madge gathered pieces of cedar for the fire, which Uncle Ted lighted in a tiny fireplace made of stones.
"We can watch our fire better there. One should always be careful of fire in the woods," said Uncle Ted, "Fire is a good friend but a bad master—Almost all the bush fires, that are such a loss to our country, are caused by people being careless of their camp-fires, cigarette butts and burning matches.
They throw them down any old place and never look to see what harm they have done."

"Our teacher is always telling us that at school" said Madge, "but I have never paid much attention. I thought that other people's fires did not concern me."

"Fire concerns every one!"
said Uncle Ted. "It spreads so rapidly, especially when everything is dry, as it is now."

The supper of fried fish was a wonderful treat to the children and the dish-washing and story-telling hour afterwards was a great treat too, yet no-one objected to going to bed when Uncle Ted suggested it.
The fresh air and exertion had made them tired.

"The beds do smell so woody!"
said Madge, as she and Frances snuggled down to sleep. But at first Madge could not sleep.
She heard Bobby Coon calling to his little brother, such a mournful cry; then a loon cried away across the lake; something splashed quite close to the shore, Uncle Ted told her next morning that it had been a fish.
After listening to the strange outdoor noises for some time she wondered if Frances was sleeping. "Frances", she whispered softly, then "Frances" again, slightly louder. At last a sleepy "Ye-s" came from her lips. "Frances" Madge said again, "are you afraid?" This really awakened Frances. "Afraid!" she scoffed, "with Uncle Ted so close that I could reach my hand out under the flap and touch him in their tent? Afraid! I should say not! Besides I'm too sleepy to worry about anything just now. Surely you are not afraid, Madge?"

"Well I must confess I'd feel safer if there were four walls around me" said Madge. At length she snuggled close to her friend and soon they were both asleep.

Uncle Ted and the boys were awakened in the morning by Frances calling in a frightened voice, "Uncle Ted, where's Madge gone?"

Uncle Ted came dashing out of his tent followed by the boys
"Isn't she in the tent with you?" he asked lifting the door and looking in. "No" sobbed

Frances, "and I never felt her moving away from me either.
She was feeling nervous last night and I put my arms around her, and that is the last I remember."

"I guess Mother forgot that Madge walked in her sleep sometimes when she was very little," said Dick, "or she might not have let her come. But then, she did not know of course that we would be sleeping so close to the lake." As Dick spoke all eyes turned to the lane and Uncle Ted's face grew grave and white. "That would be too terrible" he muttered "surely she would never have walked into the lake, poor child"
We must search the woods for her, right away." "Perhaps if we called her she might hear us," said Dick. Without waiting for a reply Dick shouted, a regular Indian war-whoop.
From the direction of Madame Elizabeth came a shrill frightened scream. The car door opened and Madge came rushing towards them still screaming.

Uncle Ted ran to meet her,
and caught her up in his arms
"Hush, hush, child", he said,
"you are all right now. But what happened, and why did you leave the tent?"

"I didn't", sobbed Madge, somebody must have moved me!" "Huh!" scoffed Dick, no-one moved you. You just played your old trick of walking in your sleep."

Madge stopped sobbing and stared at him for a minute. "Do you suppose that is what happened?" she asked, looking at Uncle Ted.

"I'm afraid that is just what did happen, child, and it was Providence that directed your steps away from the lake instead of into it."

"I know what took her to the car," said Frances excitedly,

MONKEY BUSINESS

C. W. Coward of Manning, S. Carolina, slept in trees for six nights recently. It may sound like monkey business to you but it was no circus for this sixty-year-old railroad worker. He had gone hunting with some friends and wandered off, becoming lost in a swamp. Score one for the airplane. By flying low an aviator located the unwilling tree-sitter.

A scientist says it is the lower part of the face, not the eyes, that gives away one's thoughts. Especially when one opens the lower part of the face!

THE HABIT OF WORK

A man who was working on the new federal construction said that the work was too hard. He guessed he had better go back on relief. Most of us get rather disgusted and a bit impatient when we hear of things like that. Yet considerable forbearance and patience will be required for those who have been on relief for some time, because they have lost the habit of work and it will take time to get back into it. You know yourself if you are away from work for even a few days that it takes a little while to shake down into it again. Think what it must mean to those who have not been working for a long time, possibly years. Undoubtedly there are shirkers and they should get short shrift, but even the best of them will have to regain the habit of work.

ELECTRIC FIXTURES

A reader has asked if I know anything about electric mixers. I have used one to my great satisfaction for the last three years. She asked specially about cake making and if I used the mixer for the whole process. Sometimes I do but I think that I get a better cake if I fold in the flour by hand. My procedure for cake making is as follows: Beat the egg whites in a small bowl (if the egg whites are beaten first the beaters do not have to be washed), cream the butter and sugar, add the egg yolks and beat. Fold in the flour and milk alternately, then the egg white by hand. The work of cake making is very much lessened by using the mixer. When it comes to making fruit cakes or short bread, there is no hard work at all, and the mixture is so creamy it is a joy. It is used almost daily to mash a vegetable, potatoes or turnips or parsnips in the winter. The mixer makes them much lighter than you can do by hand. Perfect mayonnaise is easy to make. It does not take long to become so accustomed to mechanical aids that you feel helpless without them. One day, the plug for the mixer was broken. My maid came in quite perturbed and said that she could not make a cake because she could not use the mixer. And she grew up on a farm! When I laughed at her she saw the funny side too and made a good cake by the use of an egg beater and a strong right arm. There are light powered mixers on the market at a cheaper price which I would not advise buying as they would not be strong enough to beat candy or icings or for many of the uses to which you will want to put your mixer. If you do not own one, it is not too early to make Christmas suggestions.

SWEET GREEN PEPPERS

Green peppers are a welcome addition to many salads but if you have not used them in your meat cookery, do try them. I like to fry green peppers and onion to a golden brown and then add to a stew, hash or any meat dish of similar nature. It gives a very intriguing flavour. I like a ring of green pepper served on a slice of tomato.

SALMON AND PEPPER

1 small can salmon
1 cup celery
1/2 green pepper
salad dressing
Drain salmon and remove skin and bones. Cut celery in small pieces and pepper in thin strips. Mix with sufficient salad dressing to moisten. Serve on lettuce.

MUSTARD PICKLES

1 quart cucumbers
1 quart small onions
1 quart cauliflower
6 hot red peppers
1 quart celery cut fine
5 tablespoons mustard
1 cup flour
1 oz. curry powder
1/2 oz. tumeric
5 cups brown sugar
3 pints vinegar
Put first three ingredients in brine (1 cup salt to 2 cups of boiling water) for 24 hours. Bring the vinegar and brown sugar to a boil and boil for ten minutes, then add vegetables and let boil up, then add a paste made of the mustard, flour, curry and tumeric moistened with vinegar. Cook for 3/4 hour, stirring frequently. I haven't had a chance to try this yet, it comes from a friend who says it is specially good.

SIGNIFICANT STATEMENT OVERLOOKED

In the excitement concerning which Toronto mother shall receive the half million dollars left by the late Charles Vance Millar on condition of having born the most children during the ten years since his demise, a significant statement has been overlooked. In the will Mr. Millar said, "What I do leave is proof of my folly in gathering and retaining more than I required in my lifetime."

If income and inheritance taxes keep on increasing it won't be long before it will no longer be profitable for a person to gather more wealth than he can use in a lifetime.

On the other hand if old-age insurance and pensions become more and more dependable people will be relieved of those fears of old-age-want which make them over eager to amass huge fortunes.

Speed of Comets

Comets do not have constant rates of travel, speeding up as they near the sun. Those that approach the sun closely attain speeds in that position as high as 300 miles a second, or more than a million miles an hour. Meteorites travel at speeds as great as 40 miles a second (144,000 miles an hour), but slow up when they invade the earth's atmosphere, striking the earth at rates of speed of from 400 to 500 feet a second.—Chicago Tribune.

Many Kinds of Sausages

While the number of kinds of sausages in common use in the United States may not be more than 50, at a fair in Germany a few years ago there were 1,785 distinct varieties entered.

Early Spectacles

The earliest spectacles were designed to improve "old sight," and hence were worn almost exclusively by the aged.

AUNT JEAN

"she was looking for the four walls she was talking of before she went to sleep."

"Four walls?" Uncle Ted's voice was full of curiosity as he waited for Frances to continue. "Yes, Madge said she's feel safer if there were walls around her, and she got them by going to the car."

"I believe you have solved the mystery—but you have not told us what made her scream so when I wakened her" said Dick.

Madge's face grew rosy red. "Let's hear it Madge," pleaded Frances. "It will help you to forget it, if it was something that scared you."

"I was dreaming that I was being kidnapped, when Dick wakened me with that terrible yell, I found myself in a car, and did not wait to examine it; I opened the door and dashed out!"

Of course, they all laughed—except Madge who looked a bit ashamed, until Uncle Ted said there was nothing to be ashamed of, everyone has silly dreams. "If you laugh about it, it will not linger in your mind as some dreams do. But now we must get to work and make breakfast."

"Madge and I will gather sticks" said Frances. "If she is not afraid of being kidnapped," laughed Billy. "I'll keep hold of her this time" Frances replied, as the two girls went off hand in hand to gather cedar sticks.

HAS THERE BEEN TOO MUCH EMPHASIS ON "INTEREST?"

Sometimes I wonder if this business of interesting pupils in their work has not been overdone. Naturally they need to be interested but has it been emphasized too much? Look back over your own teachers, and isn't it the teacher that made you work, that you remember best? It is a well known fact that children have a liking and respect for the person who demand a reasonable discipline, whether it be teacher, Scout or Girl Guide leader, or parent. Anyone who tries to win a child's love and respect by giving in to them and giving them everything they want is going at it the wrong way. Children should not be thwarted at every turn but they should have discipline in their lives. Discipline is not to be confused with punishment. It may be termed a pattern of life and is really a regular orderly way of living. Teachers must make their work interesting but that does not mean that they need to spoon-feed the pupils. If they have to dig some of it out themselves they will be more interested in the end.

FOR MEN ONLY

A contemporary laments that nothing is being accomplished in the way of providing more sensible attire for the men of the land—says Glengarry News. While the ladies have succeeded in reducing the weight of their summer habiliments to a mere few ounces, the men wear nearly as many pounds of clothes in the summer time as in the winter time.

True, the weight of a summer suit is somewhat reduced, vests are generally discarded, and the straw hat is bit lighter than the felt worn in the winter time. But we ask, where is the Moses who will be the leader in doing away with stiff collars of any kind, ties, socks, braces, heavy shoes and substitute shorts for trousers and sandals for shoes? We all know what is needed but we suppose we lack the courage of the ladies to do what health, comfort and common sense indicates. And what would we look like? Don't spoil it all by asking.

Husband (at dinner) — Do you mean that there is only one course tonight?

Mrs. Youngbride—Yes, dear. You see, when the chops caught fire and fell into the pudding I had to use the soup to put it out.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, Sept. 22nd, is "Matter."

The Golden Text is:—"Blow ye the trumpet in Zion, and sound an alarm in my holy mountain: let all the inhabitants of the land tremble: for the day of the Lord cometh, for it is night." (Joel 2: 1).

The following correlative passages are selected from among those comprised in the Lesson-Sermon to be read from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:—

"Thus saith the Lord the King of Israel, and his redeemer the Lord of hosts; I am the first, and I am the last; and beside me there is no God."

The Week's Fashion News

By the Montreal "FASHION SCRIBE"

If you'll let "Fashion Scribe" have any say in the matter, you'll find that being out of Montreal does not mean being out of touch. The end of her pencil is simply quivering with news about fashion happenings... to tell you what's being worn, what shows indication of being worn, even what the newest ideas are in home furnishings and kitchen gadgets.

Montreal, Sept. 14.—Fashion Openings are as much the news these days as political speeches, harvest records, or the latest stunt in flying. Everyone is gazing with absorption, the male element too, at windows full of lovely clothes. Morgan's have a display of velvet dinner and evening gowns "as dusky as night or glowing as jewels," as says the delectable card. There's no question of the up-and-comingness of velvet. It has been seen around places dancing already... that smooth as a sheath type of outfit that makes a woman look a goddess, often with but one touch of colour accent, and that as the wide Renaissance jeweled belt, or the large metal buckle studded with gem-like stones.

At Eaton's, the curtains went up to-day on the big window show that always comes just before the Fashion Week staged by this store. Probably the most gaped-at display was the one with evening dresses draped to have as many folds and as flowing a line as the togas and chitons of early-era Grecian belles... you know, those superb damsels pictured in statue form by Phidias and all the other master sculptors. This draped theme is the most dramatic change to come over the Fall fashions.

Next door, there were three black coats for 'teen age girls, and all three as militaristic as you please! Yes, it's the thing to look as done up with braid as a drum major. And as for decorative frogs and metal buttons, you can expect to see whole regiments of them everywhere this autumn.

What with photographs by radio, and planes that fly without pilots, no one seems much surprised with a toy balloon that won't "bust", no matter how hard you pummel it. Junior discovered it for us in one of the Toy Departments the other day and brought it home in great glee. You buy it for almost nothing—there are two balloons in fact—blow them up and go at them as though they were boxing exercise helps. Wonderful the muscle they give a lad... and Junior loves the sensation of being able to punish what looks like a perfectly ordinary balloon without having it break.

If you have any Persian lamb lying around the house, the derelict remains of some old, much-loved coat or suit, for goodness' sake resurrect it. You could have a Russian cap made of it, and repeat the fur accent as small pockets on your dress. Or make bands of it to look something like frogs—three or four bands one above the other stretching across the bodice of coat or dress. Or have a jaunty cape fashioned—you can wear it as evening wrap or daytime ornamentation. The amount of Persian lamb being shown by all the stores makes it very plain how intensely important this fur is for the coming seasons.

Letters to the Editor

ROADS IN TOWNSHIP OF GORE

Editor, Lakefield, Que.
The Watchman
Dear Sir:

In reply to a letter by Mr. Jas. Parkes in last week's Watchman—may I assure your readers that this matter has been aired well in the Council deliberations and your correspondent has no logical cause to give his complaints publicity in the press. His sarcasm and personal allusions to myself, in a matter which is purely of community concern, are also tactics which ill become any right-thinking citizen.

APPRECIATION FOR FLOWERS

To the Editor:

At the close of another successful season may I, on behalf of the Flower Committee of the Montreal Council of Social Agencies, thank the many kind people of Lachute who participated in the work of gathering and shipping flowers to Montreal for distribution among the sick and underprivileged. Your flowers were a source of comfort to those in trouble and brought a note of brightness into many a dreary household. The plants were gratefully received and will be given. I am sure, tender care throughout the long winter months.

Thanking you all most sincerely for your co-operation.

Hazeldine S. Bishop,
Sec'y., Flower Committee.

Silver Wedding Anniversary
at Dalesville

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Campbell of Dalesville observed their 25th. wedding anniversary on Saturday evening last, when about 40 guests were assembled to celebrate the happy event. Many beautiful gifts were received; congratulatory speeches were made and good wishes for many more years of wedded joy were extended to this esteemed couple.

CHURCH NOTES

Curacao
Curacao is 40 miles long and three to seven miles wide. It lies 41 miles north of the coast of Venezuela. The island is very dry and produces little vegetation. Sometimes there is no rain for several months. Nearly all food has to be imported, even drinking water being brought from the mainland for those who can afford it. Others, as in the case of Bermuda, drink rain water caught from the roofs of houses and stored in immaculately clean cisterns. The most conspicuous tree in Curacao is the sapodilla, the fruit of which is delicious, but peculiar in flavor. Here also grows the bitter orange, the peel of which is shipped to Amsterdam or Hamburg for the manufacture of Curacao liqueur, popular throughout the world, but not made in Curacao.

There's nothing new under the sun—least of all in arguments heard at campaign speeches. Here's a remark, however, with a rather original touch. . . J. A. Savard, bidding for labor support to the Liberal presentation for Laurier division, stated that there were too many lawyers in the Ottawa House . . . Judging by the mountains built up around mole-hill technicalities during each session, Mr. Savard may be right.

The Liberal Policies will correct the Misdeeds of the Conservative Dictatorship

Voters of the Province of Quebec . . . put no faith in hollow promises! In your own interests beware of renewing the mandate of a Government that has misled you and which has chosen to flout until the very eve of the election the clearly expressed wishes of the electorate. The plutocratic Mr. Bennett wanted to govern Canada, alone, scorning the political traditions of his party which he has led to its downfall. He has sought to impose on the country a radical dictatorship incompatible with those sane principles of Government his electors have a right to expect. His regime has sown discord among the members of his own party, intensified the depression, and prolonged the moral and physical distress of the Canadian people. In the coming elections, cast your vote for the Liberal Party, the only party today capable of administering this country with economy, and in the interests of agriculture, trade and industry. Its policy has always had for its purpose the direction of the country along the road to stability and economic progress.

THE LIBERAL POLICY IS CONCEIVED IN THE BEST INTERESTS OF THE COUNTRY

1. It respects individual liberty, at the same time admitting the need for the reasonable regulation of the forces of production under parliamentary control—not through ministerial orders which flout the wishes of parliament.
2. It seeks to foster world trade through lower tariffs. No country in its dealings with other nations can expect all the advantages and give nothing in return. Commerce is above all the fair exchange of merchandise and primary products.
3. It is based on social justice and favours the greatest possible measure of social well being.
4. The Liberal policy is the result of long, serious study of the most pressing needs of this country—a study that permits the application, when the time is ripe, of reforms compatible with ordered development, prudence and national safety.
5. The Liberal party is the only political group in the country in whose ranks exist that loyalty and solidarity which inspire confidence and command respect. Its individual members have had long years of parliamentary experience; their actions are based on principles that are just, and inspired by a goal that is possible of attainment.

VOTE FOR KING

His party is the only political group today able to bring about national unity and restore to Canada normal economic conditions.

No Injury or Loss of Life as Cyclone Hits Outskirts of Town

Trail of Destruction Amid Farm Homes and Buildings

TERRIFIC WIND FOLLOWS ELECTRIC STORM

The electric storm which swept over here early last Thursday evening appears to have visited the Laurentian sections with varying severity. Minor damages were reported from Montreal and communities to the north, the worst having been the fire which destroyed the Labelle Hotel following a stroke of lightning.

The accompanying gale attained the force and violence of a cyclone here on the outskirts of Lachute, where it left the heaviest toll of damage in its path. The Copeland properties just east of town suffered destruction amounting to thousands of dollars. The home of Melvin Copeland and his father, William Copeland, was considered one of the finest farm dwellings in this area, choicely located on a rise from the North River. Here the twister struck and tore off a section of the roof, also demolishing a recent addition of kitchen and bedrooms which constituted the rear of the home. This was a frame structure. The main part of the house, being of brick, was undamaged except in the roof, windows and veranda.

SON TRAPPED IN DEBRIS

A consoling circumstance in this misfortune was that no personal injuries were sustained—which is considered a freak of luck. The Copeland family were sitting down to supper as the gale swept down on their home. A heavy door was swung off its hinges by the force of wind. Next the roof was torn

PROGRAM AND EXHIBN. AT HISTORICAL SOCIETY MEETING

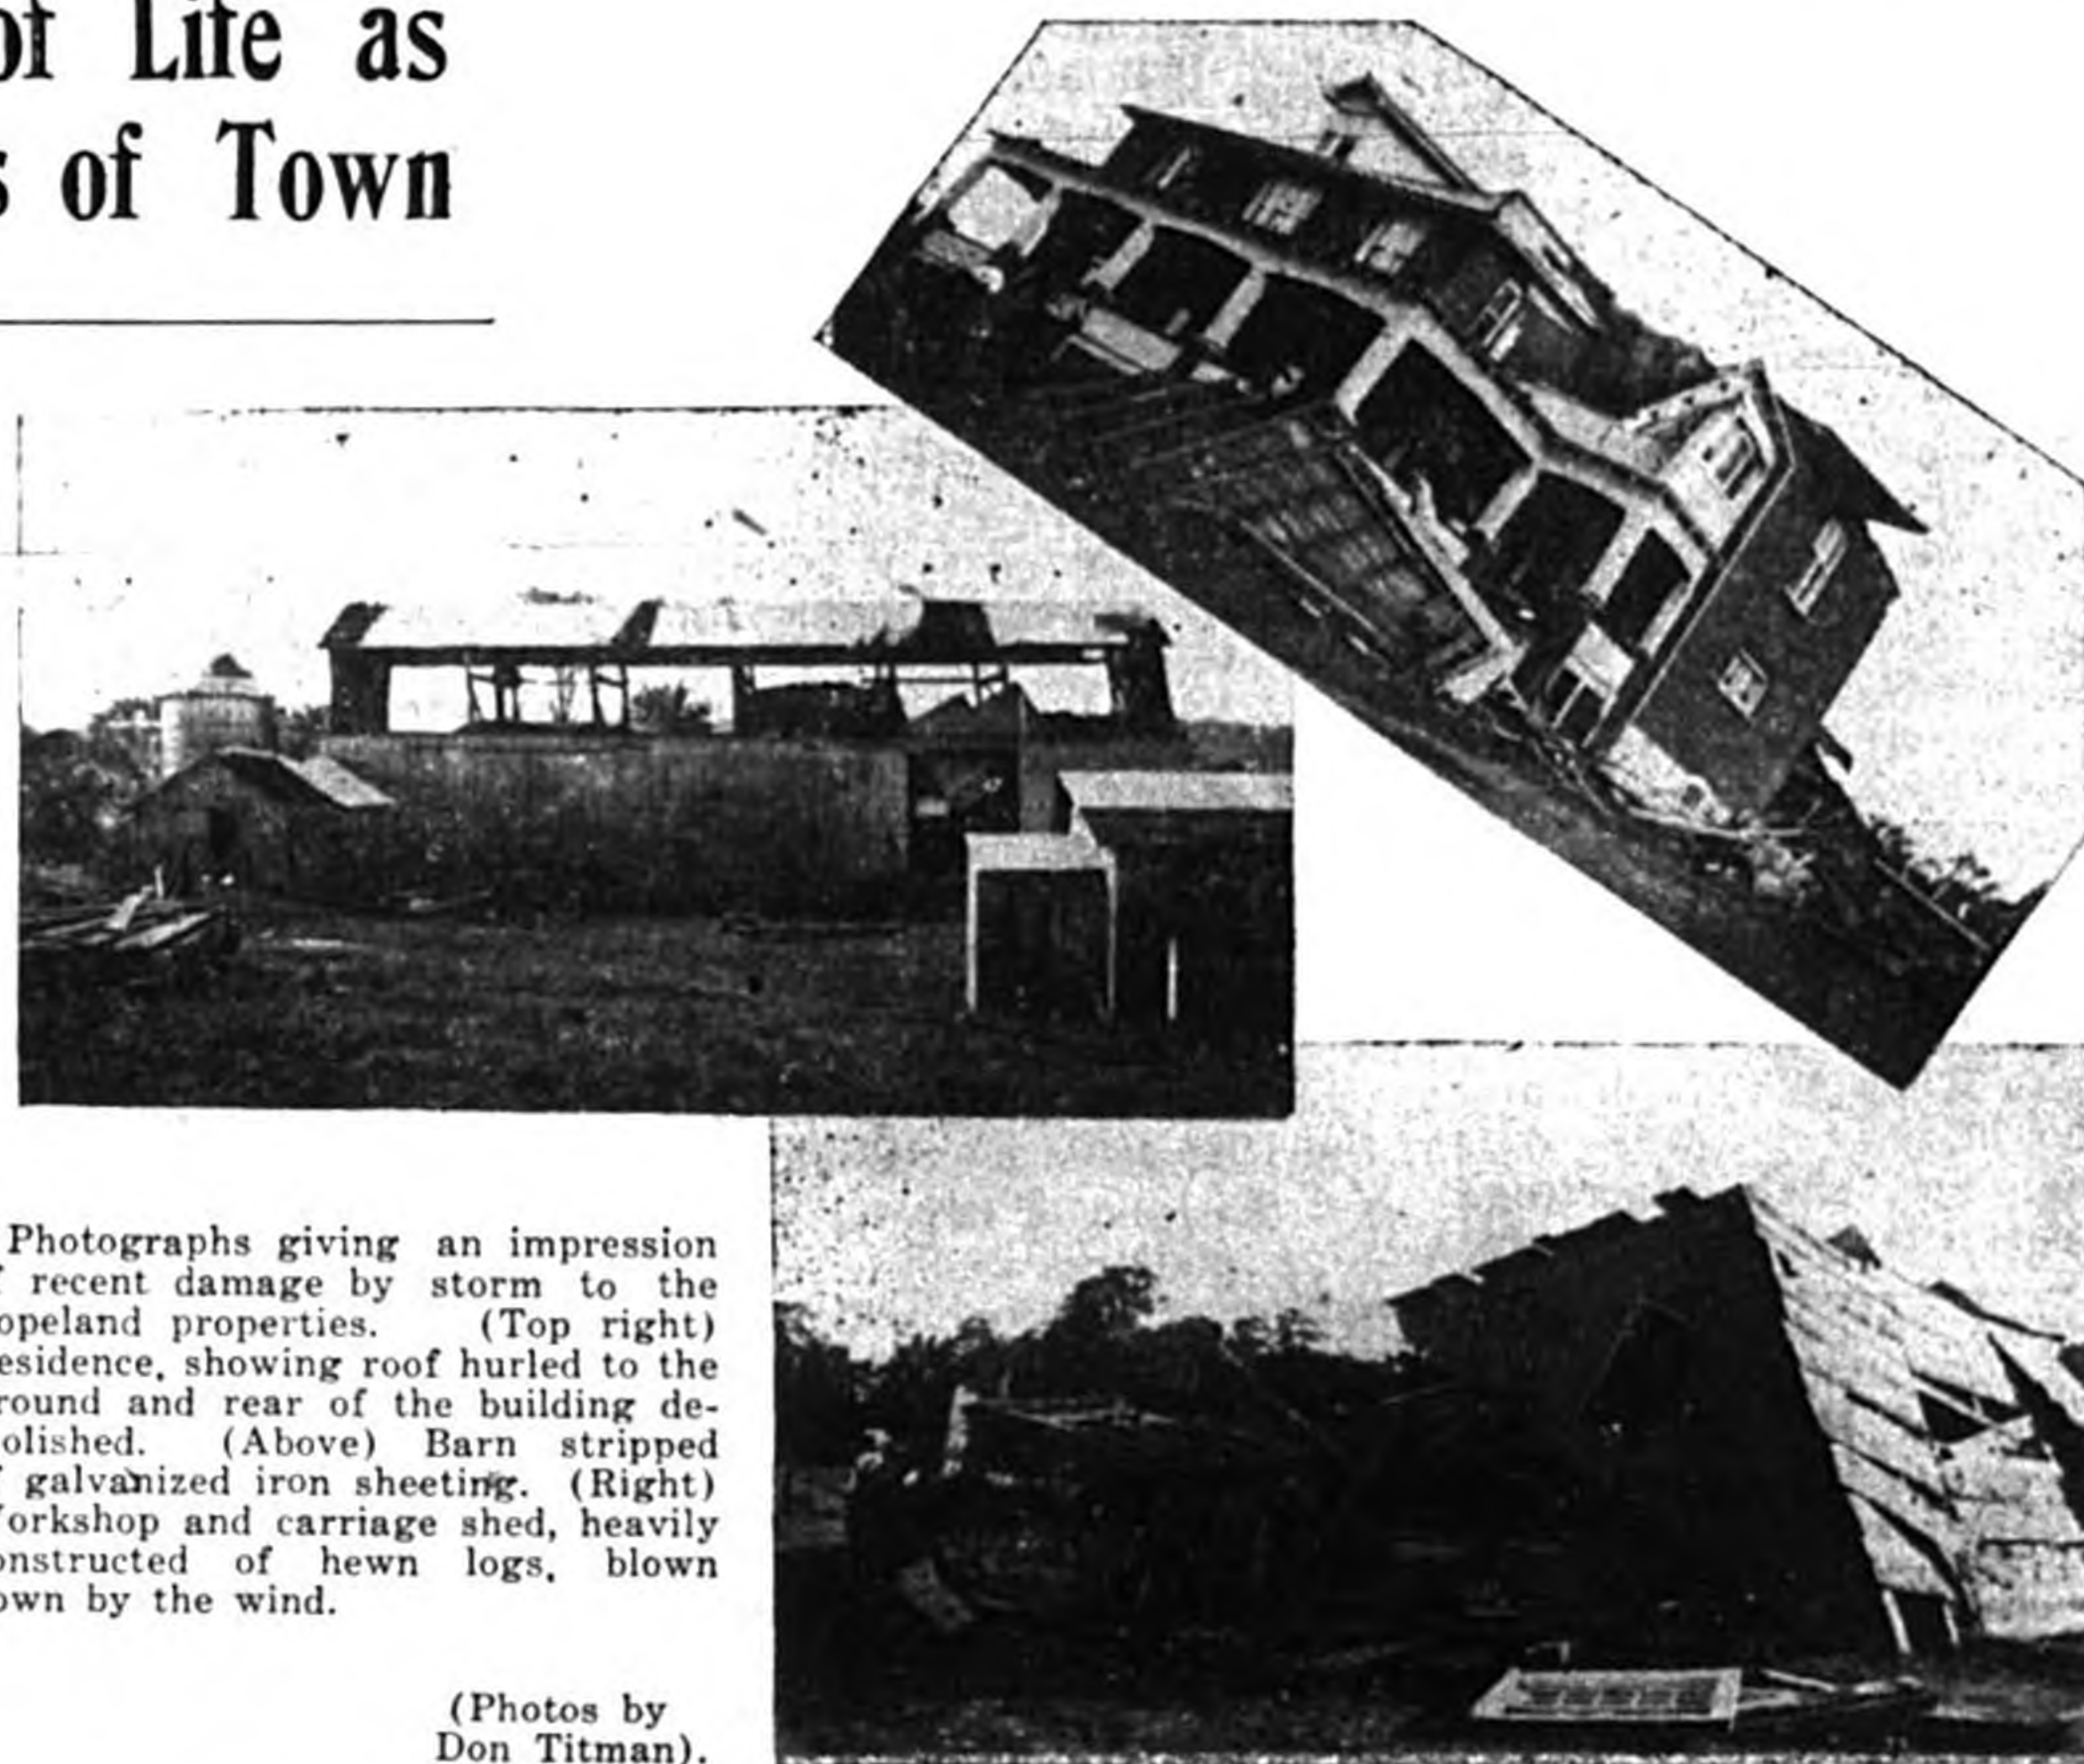

The annual meeting of the Historical Society of Argenteuil County was held in the Town Hall at St. Andrews East on Saturday afternoon, with some 75 members present, including representatives from various parts of the County, from Hudson and Comor, as well as a number of St. Andrews residents.

With the President, Dr. B. N. Wales, in the chair, the meeting was opened by the singing of O Canada.

The Secretary, Mrs. Walter Windsor, read the minutes and presented her reports, stating that during the past year four public and four executive meetings had been held. The membership had now reached 235 and the treasury showed a balance of $123.14.

At the meeting held in the Lachute Auditorium on May 14, an important step was taken in a resolution to establish a Historical Museum, to be known as the Abbott Memorial Museum in memory of Sir John Abbott, a native of St. Andrews East, having been born at the Rectory in 1821. Sir John Abbott became one of Canada's most outstanding leaders; for 17 years he represented Argenteuil in the Legislature and in June 1891 became Prime Minister of the Dominion.

Officers elected for the ensuing year were Honorary President, Archibald C. Kains; President, Dr. B. N. Wales; 1st Vice-President, Mrs. G. F. W. Kuhring; 2nd Vice-President, Dr. Maude E. Abbott; Additional Vice-Presidents, W. J. Pitcairn and A. E. Ladouceur, J. S. Gies, Dr. H. B. Cushing and

NEW WEEKLY PAPER HAS HAPPY THOUGHT

IS STRONG IN USE OF SUPERLATIVES

French newspapers may come and go but the Lachute Watchman, although making no claim to eternity, maintains a steady gait.

"Le Progres de Lachute" made its appearance in town last week. We wish it success, along with its rivals and contemporaries—but would suggest that extravagant claims, so early in the game, bear ill portent and give a first impression of unreliability—a quality least desirable in newspapers. "Le Progres", in its very first issue last week, makes its bow as "the biggest, the most important and the most powerful publicity medium in Argenteuil County."

The Watchman, with a paid circulation exceeding all other Lachute locals put together, overlooks this discourtesy to itself, but would remind its new contemporary that other weeklies in this town have waxed and languished under the same lurid slogans. Since the stock-market crash the local public is not so gullible as to be misled by loud noises.

10th ANNIVERSARY CONVENTION SERIES

UNITED CH. CONTINUES OBSERVANCE PROGRAM

Meetings continuing the tenth anniversary of the United Church of Canada are to be held in Emmanuel Church, Montreal, October 3 and 4, under auspices of the Montreal, Glenarry and Quebec-Sherbrooke presbyteries.

Major objectives of the United Church for the next ten years will be presented in addresses by the Moderator, Dr. Richard Roberts, assisted by Dr. James Endicott, former Moderator, and other leaders. This convention is one of a series of fourteen to be held in as many cities of Canada during the autumn. Ministers and laymen will attend.

John Irwin. The two retiring Directors, Col. L. M. Hooker, V.D.R.O., and Howard Crooks were re-elected for four years. The other Directors are: Col. J. E. Seale, and Mrs. Archie Graham, (3 years), Miss Minnie Brophy, and C. J. Staniforth (2 years), Mrs. W. J. Pitcairn, (Continued on Page 4)

GRENVILLE CH. HOLDS 103rd ANNIVERSARY

The 103rd anniversary of the founding of St. Matthew's Anglican Church was observed Sunday in the Masonic Hall at Grenville, and at special services in the church.

Rev. K. N. Brueton, rector, after the opening, was forced to leave for Montreal, where he exchanged pulpits with the Rev. W. J. Ellis, rector of St. Aidan's. The Rev. Mr. Ellis is a former rector of St. Matthew's, having occupied the pulpit there for twelve years.

During the evening addresses were given by Mr. Ellis and by E. C. Kains of Ottawa, and a musical program was rendered by local and visiting talent. Also a supper was served later.

The special services at the church Sunday morning were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Ellis, who during his sermon referred to his old association with the community.

St. Matthew's Church was erected in 1832 from subscriptions gathered from members of the community and the Royal Engineers, who at that time were building the Grenville-Carillon canal. The late Rev. Joseph Abbott, father of the

The wedding took place yesterday afternoon at St. Andrew's Church, Ahuntsic, of Agnes Lillian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Butler, Ahuntsic, to Mr. Russell Patterson, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Patterson, of Mille Isles, the Rev. W. M. Trivett officiating.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin, and carried a bouquet of Briarcliff roses. Mrs. E. A. Doherty, sister of the bride, was her only attendant, gowned in apricot taffeta cut on colonial lines; she wore a brown hat and carried a colonial bouquet. The best man was Mr. Oscar Patterson, brother of the groom; the ushers Mr. Jack Butler and Mr. Albert Butler, brothers of the bride. The bride's mother was gowned in prune sheer crepe and wore a matching toque of velvet.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Among the guests from Lachute were Mr. and Mrs. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. M. Elder, Mr. and Mrs. W. Dawson, Mr. and Mrs. S. Elder, Miss Alma Riddell and also Mrs. Shearer, Mille Isles.

"THE OTTAWA SPOTLIGHT"

Ottawa, September 24.—The present election campaign is conceded to be the most baffling to chart, because never before in Canadian history have so many parties appealed to the people for votes. But the smoke of battle has cleared away momentarily long enough to permit the several groups to make a preliminary survey of the Dominion, and to discover those areas which must be stressed in organization work still possible.

HAWKESBURY BARRISTER RE-INSTATED

After hearing an appeal of John B. Woods, Hawkesbury, whose name was stricken from the roll of Ontario barristers and solicitors in January, 1934, the Benchers of the Law Society of Upper Canada decided the lawyer's name should be restored to the roll and that he should be allowed to resume practice—according to recent announcement from Toronto.

Disbarment was announced by the society after Mr. Woods was defendant in a court action. After a second trial of the suit against him, the lawyer obtained an order setting aside the disbarment order from the Ontario Supreme Court.

HOME NEWS FROM ACROSS THE GLOBE

It has come to light that news of the fatal accident to Hollywood's screen star and America's famous aviator was received in sections of Alaska, not direct from the scene of the tragedy, but from the other side of the globe, through a powerful short wave station in London, England. It was in this manner that residents of Skagway, Alaska, heard of the death of Will Rogers and Wiley Post—according to L. B. Jones, general agent for the Canadian National Steamships in Alaska, who has just returned to Vancouver. Mr. Jones explained that long wave reception was very poor in Alaska on that particular day and the powerful United States stations were not coming through immediately after the disaster. The Skagway folk, where Mr. Jones makes his headquarters, were therefore using their short wave sets to pick up what they could in radio broadcasts.

THIS FACT WE MUST RECOGNIZE

(Sherbrooke Record)

The Canadian Prime Minister has erected one monument by which he can be measured as a statesman. That was his grim upbuilding of the Trade Treaty with the British Commonwealth of Nations.

First termed "Humbly" by the Labour Government in England, the trade convention was adjourned for a period. But on the completion of this period of digestion, all the delegates from all the Dominions of the Empire embraced the project with enthusiasm.

There may have occurred kinks in the working of the details, but none that could not be straightened out by loyalty and good-will towards the pacts arrived at.

Few people realize the tremendous strain and the breadth of understanding necessary to the completion of this vast Empire pact, and the unity of purpose which ever stood behind it.

Choice of Candidate Puts End to Speculation and Uncertainty

CONSERVATIVES WILL CONVENE SATURDAY

After long discussion and divided opinions as to who would carry the Liberal standard in this constituency, the Liberal Association Convention here on Saturday made its choice emphatic, selecting a respected party veteran, L. L. Legault, K.C., by a 54 majority vote against Gerard Raymond, young contender for the honors and only other nominee of the 117 delegates in attendance. The vote was 85 against 31. Every polling division was represented throughout the county.

Mr. L. L. Legault thanked his supporters at a meeting in the Court House following the decision, and Mr. Gerard Raymond, who put up a strong fight at the convention in opposition to Mr. Legault's candidacy, is now out of the running according to the statement made at the nomination proceedings when he said "The delegates have spoken and I presume they have voted in the best interests of the county."

The Conservative Convention is called for this coming Saturday and it is fully anticipated that the Rt. Hon. Sir George H. Perley, who for so many years has been the honored representative of this county, will again be the unanimous choice. Present indications are of a two party fight, although there is talk that nomination day will find a Stevens candidate in the field.

PROMINENT SPEAKERS

Adjourning to the Auditorium, the delegates found an enthusiastic crowd awaiting announcement of the candidate. The verdict, given from the platform by Mr. W. D. Graham, president of the Argenteuil Liberal Association, drew warm applause.

LACHUTE TWO STEPS AHEAD OF NEIGHBORING TOWN

ST. JEROME FOLLOWS SUIT IN RECENT MOVES

The town of St. Jerome may be a city in respect of its civic appointments—public buildings, industries, government grants and modernized services such as door-to-door postal delivery—but in two or three measures lately this neighboring town seems to have taken a leaf from Lachute's community ledger.

It was not long after the local fire department had agitated for, and procured, new equipment that St. Jerome followed suit and purchased a modern fire truck. Lachute was recently advised, in consequence of its efficient service, that lower fire insurance rates would be authorized by the underwriters; and by coincidence a few days afterwards the Council of St. Jerome also decided to enter application for lower rates.

Another recent move in which Lachute was ahead of her neighboring town was the introduction of a curfew by-law.

It is interesting to note, the St. Jerome Board of Trade has made advances to link up with the boards in neighboring towns, suggesting that joint gatherings might be held in these towns by rotation, and helpful hints exchanged. St. Jerome has the right idea. The motive underlying all municipal leagues and unions is to disseminate the fruits of experience and pass along helpful notions.

Quite a number of Cushing members of the Historical Society of Argenteuil attended the annual meeting and tea at St. Andrews East, and heard the interesting minutes of the past year's work. An enjoyable programme followed the meeting.

Frontier Women's Institute will hold this month's meeting at the home of Mrs. Roy Dobbie. Prize-winners in the essay on Birds of Canada, also birds listed in Argenteuil by the smaller children, will be announced and prizes presented. Mr. J. S. Giles will be guest speaker for the evening, the subject being "Publicity". Members are requested to bring "nonsense verses" to add to the enjoyment of the evening, in accordance with the previously planned programme.

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Evans on Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. W. Morrow of Monalea, Miss Joy Hickley of Poltimore, Mr. and Mrs. J. Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Le-favre, Mr. and Mrs. Deslauriers, Mr. and Mrs. Lepage and daughters, all of Cornwall, Ont.

Mrs. W. Usher, Mrs. L. C. Cooke and Mrs. A. Graham attended the monthly meeting of the W.C.T.U. on Wednesday of last week at the home of Mrs. Nowlan, Carillon, where some interesting facts were brought to light as the roll-call was answered with temperance items. One of these responses divulged that in the time of Henry the Eighth, maids of honor were preferred "plump" and in order that they might keep their plump figures they received an allowance of several gallons of beer per day. (Ladies with the slimming idea in mind should take note of this and not be deceived when the brewer advertises that beer-drinking makes you slim!)

TRUE STORY OF THE OTTAWA AGREEMENTS

Foreign markets to help Canadian workmen and farmers worried Conservative members of parliament most when in 1930 they came to Ottawa and found tariff walls sky high against Canadian products practically the world over.

Said Joseph Chamberlain, noted British statesman, in 1904: "London is the clearing house of the world."

Said R. B. Bennett, the young M.P. from Calgary, in the House of Commons in 1911: "It is important that if we are to bring about that commercial and organic union of the British Empire, of which I think we all have a strong and abiding hope, it must be done through commercial means."

Perhaps it was Chamberlain's words that caused Prime Minister R. B. Bennett and his new government to turn their eyes toward Great Britain and other parts of the Empire in 1930 and the two years following, when the Ottawa Conference saw the forging of a real trade chain among important countries of the British Commonwealth.

In any event, no stone was left unturned to keep the markets of the Empire for British workmen and farmers.

EMPIRE EXPORTS INCREASE

Fruits of the efforts of Mr. Bennett and his colleagues are found in Canada's export figures for the fiscal years 1932 and 1935. Total Canadian exports to all Empire countries in 1932 amounted to approximately 220 million dollars. In 1935 they had climbed to 342 million dollars. But total Canadian exports to the six Empire countries with which Canada had signed mutual trading pacts totalled 194 million dollars in 1932, and had reached 316 million dollars in 1935.

The increase in both cases was 122 million dollars, proving the increase was directly attributable to the six Empire agreements.

Proof that the increased markets with Empire countries were not merely the reflection of a general world increase in trade is found in the total Canadian exports to foreign countries. These dropped by 42 million dollars between 1932 and 1935.

Liberalism had failed in 1930. In fact, it had fallen signally on major issues during nine years of office. Its failure brought about its downfall at the 1930 general election.

Not the least of Liberal leader King's failures was the traditional laissez faire policy he pursued during those years in regard to Canada's trade. This country and that, raised tariff barriers again Canadian products. Mr. King and his colleagues accepted these set-backs without retaliation, refusing to heed pleadings of Canadian farmers and manufacturers affected. In short, they failed utterly to grapple with the problems of dwindling possibilities for marketing Canadian products.

That was but part of the picture. Countries that closed their doors to Canadian products were very busy otherwise.

Right under the noses of Do-nothing Mr. King and his equally inactive cabinet, they were flooding Canada with their surplus goods. No defence or products were very busy otherwise.

British Columbia is another dark spot, they admit. The Liberals, C.C.F. and Recon-structionists will battle for every seat there. The Social Credit factor in Alberta and Saskatchewan is fully admitted by the Conservative headquarters, just as with the Liberals.
Quebec is still an enigma for Conservative forces. A lot depends on the anti-Taschereau Liberals, and the success of the Stevens party in making a coalition there, they say.

STEVENS COUNTS ON THE MARITIMES

Reconstruction headquarters now think that the Maritimes will support them heartily. A few days ago Quebec seemed the most promising territory, and before that, Ontario. Mr.
Stevens' hopes and ambitions are said to have risen substantially since he came back from the West. The Liberals concede that he has made an impression upon Quebec. The Reconstruction leader is not thought to have much chance on the prairies, but he is going back there again, and may be able to improve his position. In his own province he will meet with stiff opposition from the other parties, but hopes to win several seats.

The Liberals have got to the point where they are counting safe seats. They look for a fairly solid New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, eight seats in Nova Scotia, 40 in Quebec, 40 in Ontario, seven or eight in Manitoba, eight or nine in Saskatchewan, at least one in Alberta, and four or five in British Columbia. Thus they add up to 125 safe seats, which would be, if their calculations are correct, sufficient with which to form a government without any assistance from other parties.

A widower describes his second marriage as "The triumph of Hope over Experience."

A few weeks ago some Liberals were talking about 175 seats, but the entry of Social Credit is doing their prospects considerable damage on the prairies, and Quebec is not so encouraging as it was.

PROSPECTS FOR THE C.C.F.

The C.C.F. has no national headquarters at Ottawa, and it is more difficult to discover what their appraisal of prospects is. But British Columbia, Saskatchewan and Ontario are said to be the most promising areas. British Columbia perhaps a little the best of all.
Earlier it was anticipated that Alberta might again send eight or ten United Farmer members to affiliate with Mr.
Woodsworth's party, but the entry of Mr. Aberhart has confused the situation, and the prospect is uncertain now.

The Social Credit has no national headquarters either, but we have Mr. Aberhart's prediction that 25 or 30 Social Credit members will come to Ottawa, and that the Social Credit party will win every seat it contests in Alberta. A dozen seats there, at least, seem to be indicated, and if they have not entered too late in the other prairie provinces and in British Columbia it is quite possible, according to the Ottawa view, that they will succeed in getting some seats in each of them.

A hybrid parliament is virtually certain. While many hopes will be sadly dashed on October 14, it is hardly conceivable that parties which run from 100 to 245 candidates will be defeated in every riding.
What can well happen, judging from recent provincial contests, is that the number of seats captured may bear little relation to the total popular vote.

Gordon C. Cumming General Manager of "Monarch Life"

The Monarch Life Assurance Company announces the appointment of Gordon C. Cumming of Winnipeg to the position of General Manager of the Company.

Mr. Cumming has had a broad experience in the life insurance business. He joins the Monarch Life from The Great-West Life Assurance Company, with which concern he started his career as a representative in the City of Winnipeg. His advance has been rapid and he has had contact with important functions of agency development. He is the author of many articles on insurance including most phases of management. His duties in supervising activities of branches in every Province of the Dominion and several States of the Union have given him an unusually wide experience.

Mr. Cumming served throughout the war, ultimately commanding a battery of field artillery. He was born in Manitoba, practised law in Winnipeg for several years until he became Superintendent of the Manitoba Land Settlement Branch of the Dominion Government.

Mr. Cumming, in taking over

"I used to think I knew it all.
Now, I know I am only right about 99% of the time. During the next 50 or 100 years I expect to come down to earth enough to be almost human."

Cow Has Right of Way over Auto

A cow absolutely has the right of way on a highway, Magistrate Harold Putman declared in police court at Truro, N.S., convicting a driver charged with operating a car with faulty brakes. The driver had injured a cow that later was shot.

"A man who does not stop his car when a herd of cattle is on the road is a menace and a fool", the magistrate said. No one could determine what a cow was going to do and it was up to the driver to protect it.

Roads in the Township of Gore

CORRESPONDENCE

Woolstencroft Farms, Dunany.
Sept. 21, 1935.

Dear Mr. Editor:
Noting Mr. Kerr's letter in your issue of 19th., I regret that he has taken my letter of 12th.
in a personal sense; it was addressed to him solely as Mayor of the Gore.

In the matter of the West
Gore Road, I am informed that he received a number of letters of complaints from his constituents early in the year and that these letters were all read by him at the Council meeting held in June and without inviting discussion or making further enquiries as to the grounds of complaints, he dismissed the matter and consigned the letters to the municipal wastepaper basket.

Is this what Mr. Kerr calls
"being well aired in the Council deliberations?"

Is this the reason Mr. Kerr objects to publicity?

It is a fact that, not receiving any reply to their letters, the taxpayers took legal action and the day the action was to take effect, two men were put on the road and I am informed that the Inspector was given permission to spend $145. on three miles of road and warned that he would be held personally responsible for every cent over and above that amount; so that to economize most of the time of these men was spent shoveling muck out of the ditch on to the road, a method of repairing roads that was discarded years ago by other municipalities.

One word more; I have been asked to say a word on behalf of the storekeepers and their helpers. Do you not think that it would be more in the spirit of the times to limit them to an eight-hour day rather than ask them to work 70 to 75 hours a week for the odd chance of selling an extra package of tacks to a belated shopper?—giving the young assistants a chance to build up their vigor in manly sports, that at some future day they may emulate or maybe excel their Callander brother.

Yours very truly,
Jas. S. Parkes.

his duties as General Manager, will accompany Mr. E. J. Tarr, K.C., President, on a visit to all the branches.

Skunks Invading Brockville

Skunks have entered the western part of Brockville in such numbers, and taken up quarters under sheds and ver-andas with so much annoyance to householders, that permission of the provincial authorities is being sought to allow destruction of the animals, which are protected under the game laws of Ontario. Facilities of the fire department and services of trained trappers were employed last winter to root skunks which had become established in the same area.
They are believed to enter the town from nearby woods.

True Story of the Ottawa Agreements

tection was furnished the Canadian producer and manufacturer against this influx of foreign goods, some of which were produced under cheap labour and sweatshop conditions that would not have been tolerated in this country.

TARIFF BARRIERS AGAINST US

Thus the influences which impaired Canadian marketing abroad before the Bennett administration took office were two-fold—the action of foreign countries in tariff-walling their territory against Canadian goods, and the failure of Mr.
King and his trade and commerce lieutenant, Hon. James Malcolm, to perceive the trend of international commercial relations and to safeguard Canada against it.

The result? Merely that Canada was buying more from overseas countries than she was selling to them. According to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, Canada bought goods to the value of approximately 103 million dollars more than she sold during the twelve months ending August, 1930. That was the month before Mr. Bennett and his government acted to stop this victimization of the Canadian workman, farmer and manufacturer by foreign traders.

TOUS SONT CORDIALEMENT INVITES

MEN OF CANADA

Men of the Northland,
Happy in song,
Tolling together,
Valiant and strong,
Men of high honor,
Freedom and light,
Marching together,
Championing right,
Sturdy in hardship,
Staunch in defeat,
Standing together,
Scorning defeat,
Noble crusaders,
Facing the foe,
Fighting together,
Forward you go,
Men of the Northland,
Happy in song,
Conquering heroes,
Valiant and strong.

CAMPAIGN SPEECH OBSERVATIONS

As the Holy Scriptures have been interpreted in divers ways, to substantiate every sect and creed in Christianity—so we find the affairs of the nation disguised to suit the arguments of every platform speaker and justify his particular party. Studying campaign speeches with an open mind—were we oblivious to the monetary extravagance of the party system, these contortions might be merely humorous.

Liberals are pointing to heavy declines in Canada's international trade, between the Liberal and the Conservative regime—which just doesn't mean a thing, for this was the period of decline from boom conditions to depression, when all countries fared alike. No government was to blame. . . . Bennett, meanwhile, translates the same figures to the credit of Conservatism, showing that the percentage of Canada's trade losses was the least among the nations of the world in that period. . . . Of the two interpretations we prefer Mr. Bennett's.

The Premier has practised similar strategy on that Liberal slogan which says, "The Depression will kill Bennett." "Elect Mr. King", replies the Hon. R. B.—"and the Depression will kill you".

It's all in the game. Bennett and King, personally, are the best of friends. These knife-plots are all figurative.

THE COMING ELECTIONS

DOWN IN Louisiana the other day a bullet was used instead of a ballot. Rumor has it that the political situation was so monopolized by Huey Long that people could not be sure of having their ballots counted. It was a freak situation in a country that heretofore has not known such conditions.

In Canada the people can register their convictions at the polls and be sure that the will of the majority shall be done.

Only when citizens become careless of their sacred privilege of determining who and what policies shall govern them do they invite a dictator to arise and suppress their essential liberties.

We do not tell you how to vote but we sincerely urge upon you that you think the situation through, and then vote for those who you think will safely see us through. And it may be well to remember at this time, the franchise is a heritage to be treasured and made use of; no man who is too indifferent to vote need stand up and criticize his government afterwards. The ballot is an instrument with which to appoint administrators of his own choice.

CONFIDENCE IS CATCHING

The other day a man yawned in the theatre between pictures. The person next to him happened to notice him. He yawned. Then another did the same. Another and another! No, the whole theatre crowd didn't do it, or they might have been at it yet on a sort of endless chain plan.

However, very few people can resist the yawn suggestion—and that is what it is, a mental suggestion. When someone suggests onions and salt and pepper and vinegar, the saliva starts. We hear the God Save the King on the radio and our "rising" muscles start to act.

By the power of suggestion an expressed confidence, or better still, an act revealing confidence in another or in one's community, results in much good.

Prominent Speakers at Liberal Convention

Local party enthusiasts who addressed the gathering, including Messrs. L. L. Legault, W. D. Graham and David Black, were supported by prominent speakers for the occasion. Hon. Fernand Rinfret threw out a hint that the return of MacKenzie King would mean relieving the municipalities of the burden of unemployment relief. Mr. Rinfret expressed esteem for Sir George Perley, but also urged the electors to remember how close he has been during the last five years to Prime Minister Bennett.

A. Kirk Cameron, Liberal candidate for Mount Royal, characterized Premier Bennett as "a dangerous man"—a man who acts on impulse and does his thinking later.

The Liberal program in regard to unemployment had been outlined clearly by Mr. King, said the first named speaker.

"We know from experience in Montreal," continued Mr.

Rinfret, "that one of the fundamental vices in regard to unemployment is the delay caused because of the municipality having to go to the province, and the province going to Ottawa and Ottawa going to the municipality and so on. In Montreal it has become almost impossible to meet the problem of unemployment. A commission at Ottawa will have all facilities, and evidence to demonstrate to the federal government that it is a federal matter to look after unemployment, and I am sure we will make a great step forward as regards making it clear that the matter is one of federal concern, and thereby we will be taking a step towards freeing the municipalities of the burden. With a Liberal Government, and a Commission, I am convinced that the effect will be to free the municipalities of a burden that has become almost unsupportable."

Speaking of Sir George Perley—"I have great respect for his personality," said Mr. Rinfret, "but if there is one man more than another who is res-

Cyclone Hits Outskirts of Town

off and the family heard the back of the building collapse. Investigating here, they found that Colin, young son of Melvin Copeland, was trapped among the falling timbers. Seeing the approach of the storm outside, he had rushed to the back door for shelter, entering the house just as this section was torn down. Happily he was not hurt.

The farm livestock were all housed in the stables under the barn. They also escaped the fury of the storm, although the building above them, stored full of hay, was practically dismantled. Timbers and sheeting were twisted from the barn and hurled, in some cases, over half a mile away.

At the rear of this building was the carriage shed and workshop—which had been the original Copeland homestead. The hewn logs had been carefully numbered and transported by Mr. Wm. Copeland to erect the building, which like most of the pioneer structures was both heavy and solid. This house also fell like a pack of cards before the devastating sweep of the gale, and after the storm the surrounding countryside was scattered with wreckage, timbers and galvanized iron twisted beyond belief.

Along this section of the river road, immense trees had been felled by the wind. Watchman representatives found one of these to be over ten feet in girth. Electric power and telephone communications were disrupted—the power service being also effected within the town limits for a considerable time.

The home of John Wason, next to the Copeland farm, presented a sorry spectacle hemmed in by a labyrinth of torn and twisted trees. Fine old elms and willows, trees which had been planted by Mrs. Wason's parents, had been snapped and uprooted, falling in all directions and obstructing access to the yard from the highway. It was here that evidence pointed to a cyclone of the "twister" variety, for the force of the gale seemed to have struck from every direction. The Wason home was undamaged. Premises in the surrounding neighborhood were reported to have been struck, with only minor damages resulting.

FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS RALLY ROUND

As Providence throws a gleam of light on most disasters, so the scene next morning evidenced the staunch loyalty of friends and neighbors who rallied to assist the distressed homes. Farmers from far and near could be seen at the spot, also many friends from the town, having left their duties to help in setting these ravaged properties in order. Fallen trees were moved back from the road, new roofs were soon under construction and the whole scene presented a more cheerful aspect as willing hands made the work much lighter.

Annual Meeting of Historical Society and Robert Barron (1 year). Mrs. C. W. Lamb was made Convenor of the Publicity and Entertainment Committee and Miss Beatrice Robertson custodian of the annual Loan Exhibit.

Dr. B. N. Wales presented a form letter shortly to be circulated, setting forth the aims, plans and commitments of the Society and announcing that a county-wide campaign will be inaugurated in the near future which is to take the form, by unanimous vote of the Society, of a memorial to the late Sir J. J. C. Abbott.

Mr. Archibald C. Kains of Ottawa complimented the Society upon its progress and presented a letter from Mrs. A. C. Kains, past President of the Women's Historical Society of Ottawa, expressing her interest in the movement in Argenteuil County. Reverend Father Dulude, Parish Priest of St. Andrews East, offered his congratulations and stressed the fact that the society is free of political, racial and denominational boundaries, expressing also the hope that the French-speaking members of the population would support the society's aims and take part in its activities.

Mrs. Archie Graham of Cushing recited one of her own poems, "The Old House", which was very apropos, being an appeal to save the old treasures and not destroy them.

Rev. R. S. Booy, Rector of St. Andrews, sang "The Veteran's Song", in a very pleasing manner.

Two solos by Mr. G. Shirley Simpson, "The Lonely Heart" and "Rose in the Bud", were very much enjoyed, as were recitations by Miss Aitken of Lachute, whose first selection was "Kate Borlass", and her humorous selection, "The Shoe Shop", was very well executed. Miss Green, of Carillon, recited "The Angel in the Studio" in a manner which showed fine dramatic ability.

An interesting feature of the meeting was the wide and representative loan collection of 50 exhibits of artistic and pioneering relics sent in from all parts of the district and a special loan by the Bytown Museum, Ottawa—exhibited under the custodianship of Miss Beatrice Robertson. The collection included photographs of rare miniatures of descendants of Sir John Johnson, Bart., pottery, medals and oil paintings, some more than a century old. There was also a large oil painting of St. Andrews of a 100 years ago, as seen from Priory Hill. This is the gift of Mrs. Phillips, of New York.

A committee composed of Mrs. C. W. Lamb, Mrs. Archie Graham, Mrs. W. J. Pitcairn and their assistants served tea at the close of the meeting.

Caughnawaga's curfew law, passed by the local council, has been disallowed by the Dominion Government.

Who will negotiate on your behalf?

Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett Prime Minister of Canada

IN 1932, thanks to the initiative and efforts of Prime Minister Bennett, the center of the British Empire was transferred from London to Ottawa. The representatives of every part of the British Empire during thirty days negotiated pacts and business agreements. The British Empire, which previously had been only a political organization, was transformed into one great economic unity.

For Canada, the British Empire became a rich, advantageous and well protected market, the greatest of all the markets in the world, comprising a quarter of the population and of the total area of the globe.

The following, taken from official statistics, are the comparative figures of our business within the Empire since the signing of the Ottawa agreements.

EXPORTATION OF CANADIAN PRODUCTS WITHIN THE EMPIRE

	1932	1933	1934	Increase over 1932
England	$178,171,000	$210,697,000	$270,333,000	52.7%
South Africa	4,415,000	5,900,000	12,174,000	174.6%
India	2,732,000	2,661,000	4,678,000	75.8%

The Empire agreements, signed at Ottawa for five years, will have to be negotiated and renewed again at an imperial conference in 1937.

To whom will you entrust the task of watching over your commercial interests, strengthening our markets in the British Empire for the products of our agriculture and industry? This question is a vital, urgent one for every Canadian.

You have the choice between two formulas, and between two different leaders:

1. THE HONOURABLE R. B. BENNETT, to whose genius we owe the above increases; who seeks to maintain and continue his policy of mutual trade; who will not accord any preference to any country, whichever it may be, if that country will not accord us an equivalent preference; who absolutely will not give anything for nothing, and who allows a dollar out of the country only if Canada receives back a dollar in exchange.

2. THE HONOURABLE W. L. MacKENZIE KING, whose desire it is to destroy the empire treaties and to replace them by preferential tariffs without reciprocity; he has declared for example that he would increase by 50% the British preference, without asking anything in return for Canada.

The Ottawa agreements of 1932 are both good and advantageous, they assure us the first place in all British markets, and that in these markets our own products are protected. Due to these agreements, the British Empire has become our distributing center to a population of 800 millions.

As is proved by numerous and important business agreements, which have been arranged by Mr. Bennett with other great nations outside the British Empire, the Ottawa agreements in no way prevent us from doing business with foreign nations.

These treaties have proven themselves, they are absolutely in the interest of our farmers, our workmen and industries.

Take no risk, vote for your own interests, vote for Canadian business, vote for your own country.

Former Beech Ridge Lady Made Many Friends

MRS. A. B. LEROY DIED AT CALIFORNIA

On September 17th., at the Lying-In Hospital, Oxnard, Ventura Co., California, there passed away one of the town of Moorpark's best loved citizens, Florence Hamilton, beloved wife of Austin Bernard LeRoy, at the age of 52 years. Interment took place at Oakwood Memorial Park, Chatsworth, Calif., on Sept. 19th.

The late Mrs. LeRoy was born in Montreal, Que., Sept. 2nd., 1883, later moving with her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hamilton and family, to Beech Ridge, Que., where she resided until Oct. 1905. Then, accompanied by her life long friend, Miss E. Burwash—who has remained with her to the end—she left for California to meet her future husband. Upon their arrival in Los Angeles, Florence Hamilton and Austin Bernard LeRoy were married by Rev. B. P. Lee, Rector of First Christ Church of Los Angeles.

Mrs. LeRoy leaves to mourn her loss a loving husband; two children; one grandchild; one sister and five brothers, who are respectively—Austin Bernard LeRoy, of Moorpark, Leslie O. LeRoy, Los Angeles, Mrs. Bernice Mahon, Moorpark, Duane LeRoy, Los Angeles; Mrs. Gertrude McBride, Vancouver, B. C., Albert E. Hamilton, San Francisco, Gilbert E. Hamilton, St. Andrews East, Que., Walter W. Hamilton, Oxnard, Wm. E. Hamilton and Harry A. Hamilton, both of Los Angeles.

Generous to a fault, charitable and loving, always helping those in need, even though it meant sacrifice to herself, Mrs. LeRoy will be sadly missed and deeply mourned, not only by her bereaved family and relatives, but by a host of friends both in Argenteuil and Ventura Counties.

THANKS
Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Wason and family wish to tender their sincere thanks to the kind friends who helped to clear some of the wreckage when their grounds were destroyed by the cyclone of Thursday, Sept. 19th., and also to all friends, acquaintances and strangers for expressions of sympathy.

Youthful Victim of Shooting Mishap

LACHUTE YOUNGSTER SHOT IN THIGH

Guy St. Onge, 11-year-old son of Henri St. Onge, Lachute, was the youthful victim of a "hunting" accident on Saturday, escaping with a flesh wound from a 22-bore cartridge, which might easily have proven more serious.

With his two friends, Yvon Rockbrune, 15, and E. Gagnier, 16, who had borrowed a 22 rifle from a neighbor, the lad pooled his funds and the three together invested in a box of 50 cartridges. They spent a thrilling hour on the mountainside, and at about 4 o'clock, having come to the last cartridge, Rockbrune and Gagnier were clamoring for the last shot and struggling for possession of the rifle. At this stage the shot was fired accidentally and pierced the youngest of the trio, who was standing nearby. He was taken to Lachute and treated for a wound in the thigh, from which he is making good recovery.

Glimpse at Stone Island

Meant Death to Indians
Isle Royale, farthest outpost of Michigan, is not only an island of natural wonders, but also an island of freaks, says a writer in the Detroit Free Press.

Foremost of them is an Indian's head which nature has formed of the island's jagged shoreline rocks. It is similar in type to the famous Old Man of the Mountain and Indian's Head in the White mountains, but is unlike them in that nature has carried her limning a step further and given the Isle Royale Indian a feathery headdress—actually a tree growing on top of the bluff in which the head is carved.

Discovery of the face by white men recalled an ancient Indian legend among the North Shore tribes, who believed that any brave who saw Isle Royale would perish.

Another of the island's freaks is a "devil's pitchfork." A fisherman found a strangely formed stunted spruce behind his cabin. The tree took the shape of a three-pronged pitchfork, the tines growing skyward. He cut it down and peeled away the bark, finding the wood underneath solid, which is unusual. Such freaks often are the result of dead branches forcing the tree to grow in other directions.

DOUBLE WEDDING

The marriage of Miss Nellie C. Hay to Mr. Henry L. Ross and Miss Janet Hay to Mr. Archie J. Cowan took place quietly on September 21st., at Lachute, Que. Rev. Henry Cousens officiated.

possible for the policy of Mr. Bennett, and attached to him, because he has been his chief lieutenant, and prime minister during the illness of Mr. Bennett, that man is Sir George Perley.

Mr. A. Kirk Cameron blamed Premier Bennett for a lot of things, including his policies in regard to industry and trade, but appeared to criticize chiefly the Premier's impulsive make-up. "Mr. Bennett cannot sit down and discuss, either with a cabinet, or with an organization, or even with an individual. When he meets an individual or an organization, they never get a chance to tell their story," he said. "Mr. Bennett acts on impulse, but he does not consult, nor take advice."

From this picture Mr. Cameron turned to Mackenzie King, "a man of prime experience." "He is not as spectacular as Sir John Macdonald, or as picturesque as Sir Wilfrid Laurier, but he is trained in science of government. He is a man who will listen to advice, who will take advice, who will govern, not in spite of the people, but with the consent of the people. Mr. King is the greatest protagonist of government, of the people by the people for the people that we have in public life anywhere. He is the only man on the stage of politics anywhere who has not departed from the basic principles of democracy of government. I can pay him no higher tribute than that."

The speaker might here have concluded, leaving this impression of his leader with the audience, but a return to criticism of Mr. Bennett and his trade negotiations, somewhat detracted from the glowing climax.

BOY SCOUTS THE WORLD OVER

England has a special campsite for "Special Test" (physically or mentally handicapped) Scouts, Woodlarks Camp, near Farnham, Surrey.

MONCTON MAYOR JOINS THE SCOUTS

In the presence of a large gathering of Boy Scouts and visitors from the city, His Worship Mayor T. H. King of Moncton was invested as a Scout at the district summer camp. The impressive ceremony took place about the camp fire.

AN ANTIDOTE FOR DISCOURAGEMENT

"The danger of boys of adolescent age becoming discouraged because of inability to find employment is greatly lessened by Scout training. Scouting builds up a boy's character, enabling him to stand up against misfortunes, and to look beyond himself." —Lord Baden-Powell.

STAR GAZING FINANCE

Again illustrating the traditional Scout resourcefulness, the boys of the Bolton, Ont., Scout Troop, to raise camping funds, secured the loan of a large telescope and advertised "peeks into the heavens" at a moderate fee. Their announcement in the local paper described the stars "now showing."

HELPING HANDICAPPED BOYS

The last Scout census showed 4,740 Special Test (handicapped) Boy Scouts in the British Isles. They comprised 2,062 crippled boys, 438 blind, 592 deaf and dumb, 1,466 mentally deficient and 182 epileptics. The Scout training and atmosphere has been of great value to these boys, in many cases giving them an entirely new outlook on life.

A WORLD LEAVEN WORKING FOR PEACE

"The 4,000 Boy Scouts and Girl Guides throughout the world, all imbued with the spirit of friendliness, are a great leaven working for world peace and brotherhood. In addition are the several millions who have gone through Scout and Guide training. The young men have a will for peace, and the application of the Scout Law in business life makes for better standards."

—Lord Baden-Powell.

If the trend for gigantic liners continues, the world may yet boast another ship as big as the Mayflower must have been.

TED'S AMBITION

Teddie loved to watch his neighbors filling silos in the fall—Loved to watch the knives go clipping Through the cornstalks great and small. Thought his sister was so silly 'Cause she'd rather play with dolls Than listen to the whirring engine From behind the silo walls. He loved to watch the blower And shout, "Oh, boy! what speed!" As the corn came pouring, pouring Down the chute,—for cattle feed.

With the first sound in the morning Teddie gobbled bread and jam Shouted gaily "Good bye, Mother, When I grow up I'm goin' to be —a silo-filler man."

UNEXPECTED COMPANY

Frances and Madge came running back from gathering sticks, white-faced and breathless. "Oh Uncle Ted!" cried Frances "we heard something snorting in the woods. What could it be?"

"Nonsense, honey girl, you are still nervous and imagining things."

"Indeed, we are not, Uncle Ted. We both heard it!"

"Yes, Uncle" said Madge, "it was a funny-sounding snort. I never heard anything quite like it before. It seemed to come from over by the big beech tree."

"Well, all I can say about it" said Billy "is that we had better not do any investigating until after we've had breakfast, I am hungry as a bear this minute. What do you think, Uncle Ted?" "I think that you are right; the coffee is just ready and the fish are almost baked. Whatever is snorting over by the beech tree can just keep on snorting until after."

"Uncle Ted!" said Frances "I just believe you are laughing at us; that you do not believe we heard anything at all. I am just going back by myself to see what it is." As Frances finished speaking she was off like a little whirlwind towards the woods, but Billy was too quick for her. He was not the champion sprinter of his grade for nothing. Catching her by the arm he said coaxingly, "Now, Fran, be reasonable. Uncle Ted was kind enough to bring us here to camp, and it is up to us not to go scampering off by ourselves and upsetting things in general. Supposing something did snort over that way, let it snort. Perhaps its Prickly Porky and will throw its spears at you. How would you like that?"

Frances stopped trying to free herself, long enough to say, "Oh so you admit that there might be something there."

"Of course, I'll admit that, if you will come back quietly and not dash off. I will even admit that it might be a bear, Silly."

"And you will admit right, Smarty!" said Frances who was facing the woods. "Three of them—a big one and two little ones!"

"There are no bears in these woods" said Billy, turning to look. His grip on Frances' arm tightened. "Say, am I seeing things?" he muttered, "or are those really truly bears? Let's get back to the others as quietly as we can. We can keep in the shadow of these shrubs until we get close enough to call Uncle Ted to get his rifle ready."

"You do not need to tell me to keep quiet" whispered Frances. "I'm too much afraid to make a sound. Can't we go a bit faster?"

"Not without making a lot of noise; but the bears won't catch us before we get there anyway. They are not in any hurry, seemingly."

Running up to her uncle, Frances whispered in his ear, "Oh Uncle Ted, there are three bears coming!"

Her uncle's face lighted up with sudden laughter, but before he could give voice to it Frances clapped her hand over his mouth, "Hush! hush!" she whispered, "they'll hear you."

Uncle Ted did not laugh but whispered back with a great show of secrecy. "First snorts, then bears; we are being honored aren't we"; then aloud, "Why Billy! what are you doing with my rifle and ammunition? Billy had stopped at the car and brought the rifle to his uncle. Handing it to him Billy whispered excitedly, "Bears, Uncle Ted. They are just around the back of those bushes by the car coming towards the lake. Shoot, shoot them quick before they get us."

"They won't get us, Billy Boy, never fear. They are probably coming to the lake for a drink and a swim. Come behind these cedars and watch them. They have not caught our scent yet. The wind is blowing the wrong way." Catching Madge by the hand Frances tip-toed behind her Uncle to the look-out, followed by the boys.

"Now we are all right" grinned Uncle Ted reassuringly, "the bears won't even know we are here. What size are they?" he asked after a brief silence. "One big one, a father bear I expect, and two little ones", said Frances. "Whew!" whistled Uncle Ted, "It wouldn't be so funny if it was a mother bear and her two cubs. If she should find us and decide to be nasty, you children can skip around these bushes and get into the car. But I am sure that all will be well. Bears seldom attack human beings unless they are very hungry, or are cornered. Mother bears are more apt to when they have cubs. They are afraid someone might hurt the cubs, and they fight for them just as human parents do. But where can they have come from? There has not been a bear around for years."

By that time the bears had reached the water. The big bear stopped to drink, but the little bears splashed right in and chased each other around, much to the children's delight. Suddenly the big bear lifted her head and sniffed the air. "She smells our baked fish, the brute", chuckled Uncle Ted. "I hope she does not find it."

But that hope seemed futile, for the big bear was leaving the water and edging her way to—

TRAINING SCHOOLS FOR HOUSEWORKERS

To read the papers one would think that any out of work man could be a farmer or any woman a maid. Yet both are trades. There are times when an inexperienced man might be more bother than he was worth on a farm. All women cannot do housework. Some from lack of experience and some never could learn. It is a pity that there is not some way of training maids in general practise of housework. They seem to feel that if they have done any house work, any place (and what girl hasn't?) that they can qualify as experienced maids. One maid we had, who claimed to be experienced, boiled the eggs for the required four minutes, then left them standing in the water until we were ready to use them. Every maid I have had, with the exception of one, has worked in a factory, and has felt that she was better off doing housework. They make more money and do not have to work so hard. Yet none of them has been thoroughly trained. If I could just get one that was really clean I think I would be satisfied. I have been having a holiday from inefficiency this summer and have been doing my own work as our family was small. I won't say that the house has been clean because it hasn't been, always. But at least it was clean dirt. It was a relief to know that the knives and forks and the rest of the dishes were clean, and every time I used a pot or pan it did not have to be washed again before using. Training schools for housework would be a great help both to workers and their employers.

Brighten up with ALL-BRAN!

You've had days when you've felt discouraged and low. Nothing seemed to go right. Frequently these dreary days can be traced to common constipation, due to lack of "bulk" in your meals.

This ailment may cause headaches and loss of energy. Correct it by eating a delicious cereal.

Laboratory research shows Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B and food-iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN resists digestion better than the fiber in fruits and vegetables. It is gentle—and often more effective. Isn't this natural food better than taking patent medicines—often harmful?

Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. With each meal, in chronic cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Brighten days with ALL-BRAN! Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

KNOW THE WEIGHT OF PACKED FOODS

If we want to spend our food money to the best advantage we need to know the weight or size of the article we buy. I was buying Roquefort cheese at 60 cents a pound and a friend who was with me seemed to think that it was rather expensive, which it was. However, it is one of those cheeses that you cannot eat a very large quantity of, so the price is evened up that way. We went on talking about cheese and I found that she used two varieties of packaged cheese in considerable quantities. One of these packages weighs 3 ounces and the other 4 and sells at 15 cents a package. Yet she thought I was extravagant paying 60 cts. a pound for cheese! Most of us are guilty of buying a package without knowing its weight and sometimes we pay appalling prices without realising it.

MUSTARD PICKLES

5 quarts small cucumbers, 3 quarts silver skinned onions, 3 cauliflowers. Let stand overnight in a brine made in the proportion of 1 cup salt to 2 cups boiling water. Drain and scald in a mixture of vinegar 10 cups brown sugar, 1/2 cup salt, 16 tablespoons mustard, 3/4 cup flour, 1 oz. curry powder, 2 tablespoons mustard seed, 2 tablespoons celery seed. Bring this to a boil and cook for five minutes, stirring constantly. Add vegetables. Put into sterilized jars and seal while hot or keep in a covered crock. This recipe makes a large quantity and is one that I make year after year, and everyone seems to like it.

GINGER PEARS

8 lbs. pears
4 lbs. sugar
1/4 lb. preserved ginger
4 lemons

Cut the pears in small pieces. Put the ginger and lemon through the chopper. Add the sugar and let stand overnight. Cook slowly three hours. Pour into sterilized jars and seal while hot.

SWEET PICKLED PEACHES

1/2 peck peaches
2 lbs. brown sugar
1 pint vinegar
1 oz. stick cinnamon
Cloves

Boil sugar, vinegar and cinnamon twenty minutes. Dip peaches quickly in hot water and rub off fur with a towel. Stick each peach with 4 cloves. Put into syrup and cook until soft, doing one half the peaches at a time. Put into sterilized jars and fill with the syrup.

Eggs Go to Market in "Cellophane"

If you drive from Montreal up into the Laurentians, you will pass a farm standing in an expanse of acres that stretch along up the slopes of Piedmont, Quebec. And near the driveway leading from the road to a group of white, immaculately kept buildings, you will see the sign, "Cedar Spring Farm." There is no chance of your missing it, nor is there any possibility that your eye will not be drawn irresistibly to a second glance at this attractive property.

Cedar Spring Farm belongs to Nouralla Lutfy, who, incidentally, is by no means an ordinary farmer. For having made a fortune through his own sheer concentrated energy and efforts, he is wise enough to place more value on contentment of spirit than on the accumulation of more money. Although still in his forties, he has handed the reins of his business over to his son and is devoting most of his energy and talent to the directing of his farm at Piedmont.

Nor is it an ordinary farm, unless you are sufficiently blasé to call a daily output of 150-200 dozen of eggs ordinary. By next fall, this total will have increased to 275-300 dozen. And every one of these eggs, pure white, from fine, white Leghorns, is carefully washed, candled and weighed before it is sent on to the consumer. Each carton of Grade A-1 eggs bears the Government seal, the "Who's Who" of the hen world.

Pure-bred birds - immaculate buildings, - regular, careful feeding, - the Government guarantee, - you might think that this would satisfy the most scrupulous of model-farm owners. But not so Mr. Lutfy, who is a man of rare foresight and with whom no improvement, so long as it is practical and will be to the benefit of his customers, is allowed to pass untried. He could not improve the quality of his eggs as they left his farm and so he set about improving the package. And after a certain amount of experiment, he found that he was able to knock old enemy hazard on the head by using for the protection of his customers the new window carton overwrapped in "Cellophane."

The new put-up combines every feature necessary to enable the housewife to see at a glance the size, colour and general desirability of "Cedar Spring" eggs without breaking the Government seal guaranteeing their quality. Dealers have found that the distinctive package leads to repeat sales. Moreover, its attractive appearance secures decided preference in display position.

But the success of this new idea is, in the main, due to the fact that the features of the package, together with the Government seal, spell the highest possible quality for the eggs and guarantee real value for her money to the housewife who purchases eggs put up in this modern way.

Old Magazines Wanted

The Sailors' Institute, Montreal, is anxious to secure all copies of magazines, etc., and can use them to good advantage. Any old copies left with the Watchman Office, Lachute, or with Rev. A. E. Hagar, Brownsburg, will be disposed of according to this request during the month of October. S26-2p.

BRAINY GIRLS WIN

A good mathematician will make a better wife than a good cook! This is the opinion of Dr. E. H. Lehmann, of New York. The doctor says a good mathematician will make a better wife, not merely because she is a good mathematician, but because her success in that direction indicates that she has a higher degree of intelligence. It is still widely thought that there is only one way to a man's heart - through his stomach. There is a better way—through his mind.

ward the fire, sniffing eagerly. Putting out one huge paw she snatched a fish from the hot coals. "There, she's got one!" breathed Frances, "I hope she gets well burned for meddling with our breakfast." Just then, a howl of pain from the bear, followed by angry snorts, told them that Frances had had her wish. The bear dashed wildly to the lake and stuck her burned paw into the cool waters. The children wanted to shout with laughter, but dared not draw attention to themselves in that way. In a few minutes Mrs. Bruin, followed by her cubs, her little eyes snapping with anger, came towards the fire; she rose up on her hind legs and appeared intent on smashing things—when, standing up Uncle Ted shouted and fired two shots into the air. The noise and the crashing echo which followed startled the bears so that, with frightened woofs, they dashed off towards the forest. "I just had to save our breakfast, children," Uncle Ted said by way of apology for startling them. "That's O.K., Uncle," laughed Billy, "You saved us too, I guess. That old bear was angry enough to do anything."

He Week's Fashion News

By the Montreal "FASHION SCRIBE"

If you'll let "Fashion Scribe" have any say in the matter, you'll find that being out of Montreal does not mean being out of touch. The end of her pencil is simply quivering with news about fashion happenings... to tell you what's being worn, what shows indication of being worn, even what the newest ideas are in home furnishings and kitchen gadgets.

Montreal, Sept. 21.—Midway between summer pastels and furs come velvets, and often they're novelties like washable and uncrushable types. The most unusual of all are cellophane velvets. They look as though the cellophane coverings of candy boxes had been shredded into lengths as Christmas tinsel is, then woven through the finest velvets you can buy. The effect is of moonlight shining on midnight waves. You can imagine how lovely this is for evening.

At a recent tea dance we counted no less than five gem-studded belts. They make people look as though they had suddenly inherited the family jewels. In reality they are usually just made of coloured stones inserted here and there into suedes or other leathers. You see them at the smart stores.

A fish story that is going the rounds is about some new French dinnerware being shown in the china department of a Montreal store. Instead of a linen cloth the table is spread with a drapery "fish" net over deep sea blue cellophane, and all the plates and vegetable containers are shaped like fish. What could be more original for a hostess serving a "shore" dinner! Even the side dishes are like fish, complete to fins, and curve as though with affection towards the big plates. The subdued colourings are much like those of the flounder.

Beaucoup de chic describes the fashion shows put on by Eaton's this week. There were several afternoon and evening promenades with mannequins, and everything from riding habits to evening gowns came out on the runway. Doreen Day, the fashionist, who spoke while the mannequins pirouetted, wore a light green velvet dress with soft flowing sleeves, and a little black toque, black gloves and shoes. Many of the evening dresses were draped in the Grecian manner, and there was much glitter of metallics and sheen of velvet. Colour was the big idea whether in knitted suits or afternoon costumes.

We have seen so much deep red silk hose being worn lately that we checked up. "Yes, it is a new vogue" we were informed. Yes, New York is going in for it, green or red lisle with sportswear, green or red silk stockings with streetwear. But be careful what you ensemble it with! Wear, for instance, dusky red hose and matching colour belt and gloves with a black dress. Or green hose, gloves and bag with a brown or deep red dress. Don't think you can do your colour ensembling without great thought.

As for the exposition of French art at Morgan's, it must be much in everyone's mind. It covers so many angles, from French dolls to French tapestries. We adored especially the Lalique display, and felt like walking off with a wide fruit dish that looked like petrified soap bubbles.

The Fall Show Racket

A writer for the Huntingdon Gleaner comments as follows: One of the complaints from Havelock which is not a complaint of that particular show but of country shows in general, is the way exhibits are stolen and then displayed again at a later fair. This, it seems, happened at Havelock when apples and flowers were stolen and exhibited at Huntingdon. An exhibitor doesn't mind so much when he has to compete against fruit taken from his own orchard, or flowers taken from his garden, but when his exhibits are stolen at one fair, and he has to compete against them with a secondary entry at the next, that seems to be going too far. One suggestion has been to plant spy apples all around the outside of the orchard so that the farmer, in this way, could keep his eye on the marauders. This type of tree also has a good bark, so this should help to keep the timid away. No man likes to see the fruits of his hard labour taken away like that.

THE LIBERAL POLICY IS CONCEIVED IN THE BEST INTERESTS OF THE COUNTRY

1. It respects individual liberty, at the same time admitting the need for the reasonable regulation of the forces of production under parliamentary control—not through ministerial orders which flout the wishes of parliament.
2. It seeks to foster world trade through lower tariffs. No country in its dealings with other nations can expect all the advantages and give nothing in return. Commerce is above all the fair exchange of merchandise and primary products.
3. It is based on social justice and favours the greatest possible measure of social well being.
4. The Liberal policy is the result of long, serious study of the most pressing needs of this country—a study that permits the application, when the time is ripe, of reforms compatible with ordered development, prudence and national safety.
5. The Liberal party is the only political group in the country in whose ranks exists loyalty and solidarity which inspire confidence and command respect. Its individual members have had long years of parliamentary experience; their actions are based on principles that are just, and inspired by a goal that is possible of attainment.

● Agitation and unrest, spread throughout the country because of the political instability of Bennett government, constitute a serious challenge to the electors of this country. Beware of committing the fatal error of entrusting the Government of Canada to a dictator, or to those so-called reconstructors... the children of discontent... who have come to life through family rows in the ranks of the Conservative party.

VOTE FOR KING
