SIR GEO. PERLEY ACCEPTS CONSERVATIVE NOMINATION

SENATOR A. SAUVE AND JEAN PENVERNE
PRINCIPAL SPEAKERS

Cons. Convention Drew an Enthusiastic Attendance
From Throughout the County

Sir George Perley was chosen again to represent the Conservative party in this riding, at a convention well attended from all sections of the county, in Lachute Auditorium last Saturday.

In the absence of Mr. Harry Slater due to ill health, it was decided to appoint a new president of the Conservative Association, Mr. Wm. M. Scott being elected to this office. Mr. A. Lamarche of St. Philippe was elected joint vice-president with Col. J. E. Seale, Morin Heights, and Mr. R. A. Giles was also elected joint secretary with Mr. J. F. Lavigne.

SIR GEORGE THANKS CONSTITUENTS

Thanking the electors for their renewed faith in him, Sir George recalled that the Conservative party had come into power during the most difficult conditions, but although the Conservative Government had weathered these trying years with colors flying and had emerged with Canada in a better position than before, the

SIDEWALKS LEVELED ON MAIN STREET

IN SPRING THAW

The marked improvements made on the Main Street of Lachute have been augmented by the leveling of sidewalks, which latter have been raised in the low sections. This move, although meeting with general approval, incurred displeasure of one or two proprietors—who were, perhaps pardonably, incensed that the work was not executed at the time the surfacing was in progress,—when they might have had the earth excavated from the street to build up their properties to the new level, thus saving expense and haulage. However, it is impossible to foresee every detail of this nature; and it must be recalled that pedestrians had previously waded through mud and water at these spots—a condition unbecoming to a populous town.

It is now hoped that the Roads Department will soon apply top coatings to complete the surfacing of the street. Improvements have added much to its appearance and serviceability, and it will need only a modern street lighting system to complete the general effect of this section of town.

Edmonton Journal of Sept. 17th. notes the diamond wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William Green, who were married here in Lachute in September 1875. Mr. and Mrs. Green lived at Brownsburg, prior to taking up their residence in Edmonton 25 years ago. They have 35 grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren. Mr. Green is a veteran of the Fenian raids. Both he and his wife are in excellent health.

CELEBRATE THEIR 25TH. ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Dumais were guests of honor at a reception, held at Ayers' Vale, Fraser Lake, on Sunday, Sept. 22nd., in celebration of their silver wedding anniversary. A goodly number of friends were present to extend congratulations, and they were the recipients of some very nice cutlery and a silver tray.

HUBERDEAU RESIDENTS IN ODD MISHAP

AUTO RUNS INTO TREE
OVERHANGING ROAD

Two men were injured, one of them seriously, when the automobile in which they were driving struck a tree overhanging the highway south of Arundel early last Friday morning. The tree had been damaged by an electrical storm the previous night.

Joseph Miller, farmer of Huberdeau, suffered a fracture of the left shoulder and severe cuts and bruises, while Omer Perrault, laborer, also of Huberdeau, suffered from general contusions and cuts.

Miller was treated at Huberdeau by Dr. A. Turcotte and was then sent to a hospital in Montreal. He was later reported to be doing fairly well.

The men were on their way to Montreal. They were travelling in Miller's automobile and apparently failed to see the overhanging tree. The body of the automobile was pressed down and pushed back, being almost torn from the chassis of the vehicle. Every pane of glass in the car was smashed to bits. Despite the severe shock Miller was able to stop the car and drive it back to Huberdeau. His companion was able to go home after treatment.

LOCAL VETERANS AT RE- UNION OVERSEAS ASSN.

Including representatives from Ottawa, Ste. Agathe and Lachute, the 6087 Overseas Association, composed of veterans of the 60th and 87th Battalions, C.E.F., paraded with the Canadian Grenadier Guards at their armory in Montreal on Sunday afternoon, for the regiment's annual Memorial Service, marking the anniversary of the battle of Canal du Nord, 1918, one of the regiment's battle-honors. Wreathed colors were carried in commemoration, at the drumhead service conducted by Major (Very Rev. Dean) Arthur Carlisle, regimental chaplain, in the presence of Brigadier R. O. Alexander, D.S.O., the new District Officer Commanding, who was attended by Lt. Col. B. W. Browne, D.S.O., M.C., A.A., & Q.M.G.

On Saturday, the 6087 Overseas Association held its first lunch of the 1935-36 season at the Queen's Hotel, when mem-

Curlers in Golf Tournament at Seigniory Club

One of the first gatherings of curlers this season will take place at the Seigniory Club during this week-end. The occasion is the first annual curlers golf 'spiel over the Seigniory course. And although the club's artificial ice will not be in use, many devotees of the roaring game will be competing for honors on the links.

The tournament opens Saturday, when eighteen holes will be played, prizes being offered by the Seigniory Club for the best 18 holes gross and net. The Seigniory Challenge Trophy will be competed for Sunday. Teams of four from the same curling club may compete for the trophy and there is no limit in the number of teams competing from the same club. The winning four will be decided on the best aggregate for 18 holes gross. Replicas of the trophy will be awarded the members of the winning team. Entries close today.

ST. JEROME HAS 11,500 POPULATION

RESULT OF RECENT CENSUS GIVEN

It was announced in church, by the parish priest of St. Jerome, that the recent unofficial census of that town and parish showed a population of 11,500 persons.

Figures showed that in the town there were 1,109 Roman Catholic families, representing 9,319 persons, while in the outside district there were 333 families with a total of 1,884 persons. In the town there were 21 Protestant, three Jewish, three Greek and two Syrian families, while various nationalities were living in the rural section.

11-YEAR-OLD BOY IS "SOLO" FLYER

PLANE UNAIDED

A Canadian Press despatch tells how Thornton Tweed, 11-year-old son of Pilot Charles Tweed, flying instructor at Lethbridge, Alta., flew "solo" last Saturday in his father's monocoque airplane.

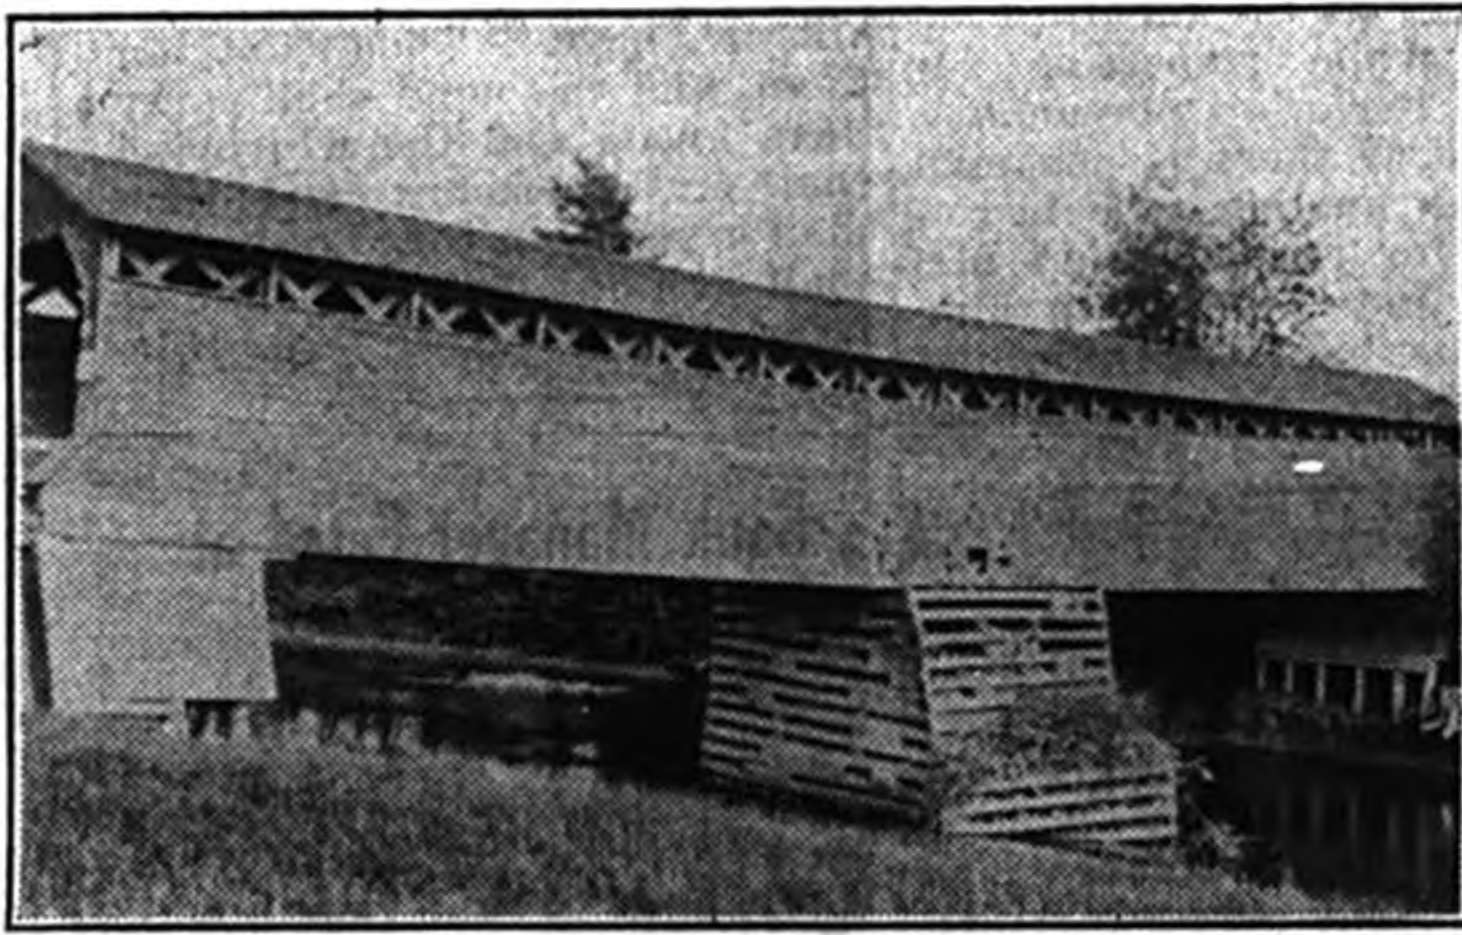

The lad, a pupil in grade VI at high school, took his first flight in December 1934, and had received only six hours and 55 minutes of dual instruction before venturing aloft alone.

Lexicographic note with a British twist to it: In the Shorter Oxford Dictionary, "to make whoopee" is defined as "to go on the razzle-dazzle."

THURSO BRIDGE A MENACE TO TRAVEL

Another Eyesore on Montreal - Hull Route

The Thurso Bridge

(CORRESPONDENCE)

Sir,—

As one of your readers, I wish to compliment you on your civic spirit and the interest taken in everything that is progressive in your community at large.

In a recent issue of your newspaper, you drew the attention of the Provincial and Federal authorities to the promised construction of a new bridge over the Rouge River at Pointe au Chêne, which, to my mind, will fill a long felt need.

Is it not the proper time to undertake a construction of this nature when materials and labour are at their lowest? Needless to say, it would be a great help in relieving local unemployment.

With regard to the necessity of the project, there can be no better argument than the condemnation of the present structure made by the Government's own engineers.

While on the subject, may I be permitted to bring to your attention another bridge on the Montreal - Hull Highway, the Thurso Bridge, which is in a deplorable condition. I understand that the construction of the latter was also promised a few years ago, but nothing has been done since then. Well, I believe it is time now, more than ever, for otherwise it may be the cause of very serious and regrettable accidents.

The condition of the Thurso bridge was such that I was tempted to take a photograph, which I am enclosing.

BENNETT'S RADIO CAMPAIGN WINNING POPULAR SENTIMENT

STEVENS CLAIMS LARGEST OPPOSITION GROUP

GROWS IN WEST

Ottawa, October 1st.—The enthusiasm with which Hon. H. H. Stevens has organized a national party and prepared the way to contest virtually every seat in the Dominion on October 14th is one of the features of the present campaign. Much scepticism was expressed when the new party was formed over the possibility, in such a short time, of getting sufficient momentum built up to become an important factor in the campaign. In some respects at least Mr. Stevens has succeeded beyond the expectations of his own friends. Whether the hopes which have been raised in the breasts of his supporters will be realized on October 14th remains to be seen. Meanwhile his headquarters staff and organizers are full of high spirits and hopes. Warren K. Cook dropped in the Ottawa office this week to tell them that Mr. Stevens would get from 45 to 60 seats in Ontario. Jacques Cartier, the Quebec organizer, who succeeded in making big inroads for the Conservatives into the "solid Quebec" of 1930, now promises for the Reconstructionists a minimum of 30 seats. Even at that, the party claims that they are best organized in the Maritimes, and are as hopeful there as anywhere else. Skipping over the prairies, they also believe British Columbia will yield them several seats.

Week-End Hauls Include Black Bear and Big Moose

REPORTS FROM BROWNS-
BURG AND ARUNDEL

A 300-pound black bear is reported to have been shot by two Brownsburg men in the Half Moon Lake district, west of the village, on Saturday. Ross Keatie and Wilfrid Stone were out hunting deer when they came upon the big bear, and it is hard to say which was more surprised, the hunting party or the animal. The bear made a bee-line for the intruders and they were forced to shoot in self-defence. When they examined their prize, they found it a magnificent specimen, weighing 300 lbs.

From the northern section of the county comes the report of a big bull moose shot on the highway a quarter of a mile from Arundel, on Sunday morning. After being wounded the animal staggered through the village and died some distance from the southern limits. This prize was secured by M. Hayes, W. Bowden and S. Aird, of Montreal, who were on a hunting trip. The weight of the animal was 900 pounds and it had a good spread of horns. It was shipped to Montreal.

Appearances indicate that game is plentiful and that hunting in Argenteuil and district will be good this season.

"FADS AND FRILLS," OF MODERN EDUCATION

PUBLIC LIBRARY UNDER DISCUSSION

At the regular meeting of the Lachute W. I. on Tuesday, Mrs. G. F. Kuhring, County President, dealt in an efficient manner with arguments frequently heard against the so-called "fads and frills" of modern education. Mrs. Kuhring stressed the fact that the "three R's" were no longer sufficient. The purpose of education was not entirely to teach us how to earn our living, but rather how to live or how properly to spend our leisure.

Following along this same theme, Principal Hall gave a short address, stating that education did not cease, but rather had "just nicely begun" with the winning of the High School Leaving Certificate.

To supplement the privileges of adult education, Principal Hall suggested a Public Library in Lachute. This could, for the present, be located in the High School building, be open to the public once a week and have volunteer librarians for that day. This was offered as a mere suggestion, opening the subject to further discussion by the interested citizens.

Mrs. Kuhring mentioned the Carnegie Fund for Public Libraries as a source of financial aid. This had been secured for other small towns; so why not for Lachute?

2,068 AUTOS ENTERED BY LOCAL REGISTRAR

INCREASE

Records of the district auto licence registrar, Mr. P. Chabot, show some interesting facts regarding the licences issued this year in Lachute. The total of these reaches 2,068—which will strike the casual observer as a high mark in local vehicles. It is presumed, however, these cars are not confined to the geographical limits of the county; many doubtless come from outside Argenteuil, in the same way as Argenteuil cars are registered elsewhere, in St. Jerome or nearest centres. The number of markers issued includes:

1050 small cars
198 heavy cars (H)
9 motor cycles (M)
148 taxis (T)
288 farmers' private cars
67 tractors
60 farmers' trucks
139 commercial vehicles
4 heavy commercial vehicles
83 delivery trucks
3 heavy delivery trucks
4 service trucks
15 dealer's plates (X)
2068 total markers issued

Operators' licences were issued to the following number:

8 dealer's licences
20 garage licences
355 chauffeur's licences
1705 operator's licences

AUTUMN MAPLE LEAF CONTEST ANNOUNCED

Exclusively and uniquely Canadian, the third annual competition for the most beautiful autumn tinted maple leaf is announced by the Canadian Government through the Canadian Travel Bureau at Ottawa, in co-operation with the C.N.R. and the C.P.R. Doubled prize money, and new rules permitting visitors to Canada to enter maple leaves, mark the 1935 competition.

The competition for the most beautiful autumn tinted maple leaf was originated in 1933.

The prize list for the 1935 competition provides for an award of $100.00 to the person sending in the most beautiful leaf; in addition, a second prize of $40.00, and a third prize of $20.00. The person sending in the largest leaf will be awarded a prize of $30.00; the second largest, a prize of $10.00. Brit-

Rare Collection of Antiques at Loan Exhibition

A list of the exhibits displayed on occasion of the Historical Society annual meeting at St. Andrews, reported in these columns last week, shows an unusually interesting number of antiques loaned to augment the Society's collection. The display was enjoyed by the large gathering in attendance for the business proceedings and program in connection with this meeting. The items included—

Large framed oil painting of St. Andrews one hundred years ago. From the Priory Hill. Donated by Mrs. Phillips, of New York, through Dr. B. N. Wales.

Official Plan of the Parish of St. Andrews, formerly the property of Henry Howard, N.P., now in the possession of the Council.

Lithographs of drawings made in 1861 by Duncan: (a) Of St. Andrews at Riviere Rouge Bridge; (b) Of Carillon. Loaned by Mrs. W. J. Pitcairn.

Tribute to a County Benefactor

"THE INSIDE OF THE CUP" (CORRESPONDENCE)

While reading last week's issue of The Lachute Watchman we note, with mixed feelings of pride and anger, that a prominent speaker at the Liberal Convention, while respecting Sir George Perley's personality, says "But if there is one man more than another who is responsible for the policy of Mr. Bennett, and attached to him, because he has been his chief lieutenant and prime minister during the illness of Mr. Bennett, that man is Sir George Perley."

Our feeling of pride comes from the fact that without Premier Bennett at the helm during these years of depression to lead us out of the tangled maze of falling finance and keep Canada's credit intact, where would our Dominion have been? Probably placarded with posters saying "Country for sale to the highest bidder." If Sir George Perley's advice is responsible for that, then the right-thinking people of Argenteuil have every reason for pride. We read that Premier Bennett has restored trade in Canada, lost to our Dominion by those in power before him; and with eyes and ears alert to what is going on in Canada today, we know this fact is true and feel we can never show sufficient gratitude to Premier Bennett.

Our feelings of anger arise from the speaker holding Sir George Perley responsible in the matter of Premier Bennett's policy. We realize these words are an attempt to denounce and decry Sir George Perley, a man whom His Gracious Majesty The King has seen fit to honor.

These Liberal speakers would do well to look to the inside of their own cup, stir it up from the bottom, and expose its contents to the public gaze. They speak as to those familiar only with the exterior of things.

Premier Bennett was handed a tangled web at the beginning of his ministry, and harassed on all sides as he was, he has done much to smooth it out—and, according to the worthy Liberal speaker, with Sir George Perley's help.

The people of Argenteuil are proud of Sir George Perley, as a man who goes about doing good—in such an unostentatious way that few people but those really benefited know of it.

Many an underprivileged child owes the greater part of his education to the fact that Sir George Perley has provided scholarships; prizes too, and aids of all sorts for Academy and Public School work, without question as to whether the recipient is a Conservative or a Liberal; Sir George's gifts are free to both. The laughter of one who has voted against Sir George Perley all these years, and intends to keep on voting against him, still rings in our ears as we write; laughter because the cost of a certain piece of furniture had been sent immediately and without demur by Sir George, even though a staunch Liberal had written and requested it. Sir George Perley was doubtless aware of this person's Liberal views, but all that mattered to him was that the children of this particular school in his constituency needed this piece of furniture and out of the kindness of his heart he gave it. Such are the ways of Sir George Perley. No letter or request was ever left unanswered, no matter to what party the writer belonged.

All this makes us very proud of our County Leader; and beaten or unbeaten at the coming election, in years to come we shall always be able to regard Sir George Perley with unabated admiration.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, October 6th., is "Unreality."

The Golden Text is:—"What is the chaff to the wheat? saith the Lord." (Jeremiah 83: 23).

The following correlative passages are selected from among those comprised in the Lesson-Sermon to be read from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:—

"Behold, I will make thee a new sharp threshing instrument having teeth: thou shalt thresh the mountains, and beat them small, and shalt make the hills as chaff. Thou shalt fan them, and the wind shall carry them away, and the whirlwind shall scatter them: and thou shalt rejoice in the Lord, and shalt glory in the Holy One of Israel." (Isaiah 41: 15, 16).

Bank Manager Feted at St. Andrews East

(Contributed)

St. Andrews—An enjoyable evening was spent at the camp of Mr. Jack Bridge, genial bank manager, by a large number of the male residents of this village—the object being to express, not merely in words but in a more tangible manner, the wide respect with which he is regarded, and to wish him "Bon Voyage" in the Good Ship "Matrimony" on which he will shortly embark.

During the sumptuous repast, at which Dr. Lalonde of Lachute presided as toast-master in a most efficient and jovial manner, humorous speeches were made by the Rev. Father Dulude, Rural Dean Booy, Mayor Pitcairn, Ex-Mayor Ladouceur and others. The great event of the evening came when Dr. Lalonde asked "Jack" to accept a very handsome chest of silverware, on behalf of the residents of the district, as a token of their sincere goodwill and good wishes for the future of himself and his bride-to-be. It must be added that Mr. Bridge, although very much embarrassed, made a bright though brief response, in which he thanked one and all for their kindness.

A word of congratulation must be given to Mr. Entwistle and to all those who helped to make this event such an unqualified success.

British Educationists Tour Canada

In Canada for a seven weeks tour as guests of the National Council of Education, twelve British Directors of Education are at present touring the Dominion. The visit has been arranged to celebrate the 25th Anniversary of the Overseas Education League, which organizes annual visits of Canadian students and teachers to Great Britain, and is a return of the hospitality extended by British educators to the Canadian visitors.

The British group arrived at Quebec in the Canadian Pacific liner "Empress of Australia", September 4, and their spokesman stated they hoped to "learn quite a bit while in Canada". Photograph shows commencement of the educational process with Captain Arthur Rothwell, Commander of the Empress of Australia as the dominie. He is pointing out scenic beauties of the St. Lawrence river.

The party's itinerary includes, Quebec, Montreal, Fort William, Kenora, Winnipeg, Edmonton, Calgary, Banff, Lake Louise, Vancouver, Victoria, Regina, Saskatoon, Sudbury, Toronto, Ottawa, Fredericton, Saint John, Digby and Halifax, and ends at Quebec where the party embarks for Southampton in the Empress of Britain, October 25th.

Toyne, Education Officer for Brighton; W. A. Brockington, C.B.E., Director of Education for Leicestershire; J. A. Peart, Director of Education for Winchester; Dr. J. E. Smart, Director of Education for Acton, London; Thos. B. Tilley, Director of Education for Durham; W. A. F. Hepburn, M.C., Director of Education for Ayrshire; G. T. Hankin, Staff-Inspector, Board of Education; E. Salter Davies, C.B.E., Director of Education for Kent; D. D. Anderson, M.C., Inspector of Schools, Scottish Dept. of Education; E. M. Rich, Education Officer for London; and Major Fred J. Ney, M.C., Vice-President and Honorary Organizer, Overseas Education League, Winnipeg.

Adding these hopes together, it is evident that the Stevens party is now claiming something more than the largest opposition group. They are aiming at the formation of a government. It is the most ambitious bid of a third party for power in the political history of Canada. The C.C.F. which had two years start on Mr. Stevens, has not extended its forces anything like so completely across the Dominion.

Of course the predictions of all party headquarters must be taken with a grain of salt. They are all claiming victory. The results will show that some of them were badly fooling themselves.

Two of the recent candidates under the Reconstruction banner are newspaper publishers, one in Ontario and one in Manitoba.

The Stevens party is drawing its votes from several sources, according to an analysis made by one of the headquarters staff here. I was told that many people who had not intended to vote at all were now supporting the Stevens platform. In addition the other parties are being affected by the entry of Reconstruction candidates.

Among the Stevens candidates in Ontario, I was told by the same spokesman, there are 29 former Liberals, 24 former Conservatives and 11 of other affiliations.

DUNNING CHEERS LIBERALS

Meanwhile the Broadcast address by Hon. Charles Dunning brought new heart to a lot of Liberals, who were beginning to get pessimistic about late developments. The defeat of the former minister of finance in 1930 and his retirement to public life was regretted by many people with no strong party sentiments but who welcomed public men of integrity and capacity. In practical affairs there was no more capable man in the Mackenzie King administration than Hon. Charles Dunning, and the prospect that if the Liberals win he will again be the Minister of Finance has had a cheering effect in many quarters.

Western Liberals are aghast at the inroads made by monetary reform sentiment, but a report comes in from one politician who usually sees things in a detached way that they ought to capture 30 to 35 seats west of the Great Lakes. This is considerably more than federal headquarters have been expecting, since the Aberhart sweep. One list of 'sure seats' which I saw enumerated only 21 in the four western provinces. But with so many ridings in which a minority candidate will win the seat, through the division of his opponents, it seems quite futile to predict results in any precise way.

PLENTY OF CONFUSION

In rapid succession the other day I heard (a) that there was a wonderful swing back to R. B. Bennett (b) that both the old parties had lost ground heavily in the past four weeks and that it was unlikely that either of them could secure a majority; (c) that Hon. H. H.

Stevens would capture most of the old Nationalist vote in Quebec, and ought to win 20 seats at least; (d) that there wasn't a single seat in Eastern Ontario where the Reconstruction party had a good prospect of winning; (e) that the Liberals were seriously disturbed about things in Saskatchewan; (f) that Bennett was out to 'get' King at all costs, creating a deadlock which would make a national government possible. These comments for the most part came from professional commentators on national affairs. So what can one believe?

Movie Goers Enjoyed Fight Pictures

Before the big majority of city theatres could secure the Louis-Baer fight pictures, Rex Theatre was able to present them on the local screen Saturday and Sunday — only four days after the big event. Record attendances filled the house and rewarded the theatre management for this enterprising coup.

One Way to Figure It

Cornwall Standard-Freeholder makes the following statistical computation, with its inevitable reflection upon the extremes to which we have gone in making people financially dependent upon the public exchequer:

Population in Canada	10,000,000
Eligible for Pension Fund	3,000,000
	7,000,000
Number who are prohibited from working under Child Labor Laws	1,500,000
	5,500,000
Number who are working for Government Agencies	2,000,000
	3,500,000
Number of Federal and Dominion members with their staffs and yes men and lobbyists	1,500,000
	2,000,000

TAX IS BIG PART OF GASOLINE COST

Comments on the price of gasoline in Canada disregard the effect which gasoline taxation plays on the price; and motorists' organizations, interested in this question, have given some thought to this phase of the price situation in an effort to determine what effect it has on the consumers' idea of prices.

Based on prevailing retail prices, the following list gives an accurate idea of the percentage of the general average retail price in each province which gasoline taxation in that province represents:

Prince Edward Island	32 %
Nova Scotia	32 %
New Brunswick	32 %
Quebec	24 to 31 %
Ontario	25 to 33 1/2 %
Manitoba	30 to 33 %
Alberta	28 to 33 1/2 %
Saskatchewan	29 to 32 %
British Columbia	27 to 43 %

EDITORIAL

PEOPLE WILL READ THEM

THE FOLLOWING from the Drumheller Mail takes the prize for stressing the value of advertising: "The Cowichan Leader, published at Duncan, Vancouver Island, recently experienced something unique in long-distance advertising. It appears that a subscriber in Scotland desired to assist a friend at Duncan by way of sending provisions with his greetings. Perusing the columns of the Leader, his eyes scanned the advertisement of a leading grocer. He made out a list of provisions he wished his friend to have, enclosed the cash to cover the order and mailed it to the advertising grocer."

FLAPPERS HAVE FOLDED THEIR WINGS

DR. FRANCES GAW, psychologist of Seattle, says that the ex-flappers (girls who would occasionally break a convention) have developed into sensible mothers "either ultra-conservative or sanely liberal, convinced that the freedom they took in their youth was ultimately a good thing." A harvest from wild oats may be crowded out by sowing good seeds and exerting extra care in the later years—but we might strongly emphasize the word may.

ONE COMMUNITY GETS TOGETHER

IN CONNECTION with a community skating rink being erected by the citizens of Waden, Sask., the Waden News says the following:

Let's All Work Together

"If the citizens want a skating rink, and there does not appear to be anyone who does not, then the way to get the rink is by our concerted effort and mutual assistance. Let us get together on this and put it over. If every little detail does not agree with your individual ideas, forget them and give this, our main community project, a hoist along to completion."

Thanks to this whole hearted enterprise in a Saskatchewan town, older girls and boys can enjoy the pleasures of indoor skating, and the fast growing population of little folks will share that pleasure in the future.

Pretty Wedding at Avoca, Que.

DOBBIE — BATES

The marriage of Jean Fay, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Bates of Avoca, to Mr. John McGalliard Dobbie, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Dobbie of Lachute, took place Saturday afternoon last in St. Andrew's United Church, Avoca, Rev. J. H. Lynn officiating. The church was decorated with autumn flowers, the guest pews being marked with asters and bows of white ribbon. Mrs. Ernest Graham of Hawkesbury played the wedding music and during the signing of the register Miss Agnes Ross sang "O Promise Me".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white lace made with long bishop sleeves, the skirt lengthening to form a short train; a turban of lace and net with a waist-length circular veil, lace gloves and white slippers. She carried a bouquet of deep red Temp-lar roses. Miss Maud Bates, who attended her sister as maid-of-honor, wore a gown of blue net with hat, shoes and gloves of darker blue. She carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses. Mr. Gordon Dobbie acted as his bride's best man, the ushers being Mr. Hugh Bates and Mr. Kenneth McLean. The bride's mother wore a gown of rust crepe with old gold trimmings. The mother of the groom wore black with touches of white. Mrs. McGalliard, grandmother of the groom, wore black satin. Each had a shoulder bouquet of Johanna Hill roses.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where autumn flowers were again used in decoration. Later Mr. and Mrs. Dobbie left for a trip to the Gaspé Coast. For travelling the bride wore a dark brown knitted suit under a fur trimmed coat of the same shade, a small brown felt hat and suede accessories to match.

No Outstanding Matters Heard At Town Council Meeting

The regular meeting of Lachute Town Council was held in the Town Hall on Wednesday evening, at which were present Mayor Dr. J. H. Mason and Aldermen O. Laurin, G. Muir, F. Deslauriers, C. Durocher, H. Lamarche, W. J. Deacon and Jas. MacGibbon.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed, also reports of the finance committee.

Complaints were received concerning the annoyance of radio static which is said to be caused by leaky power transformers, and a resolution was passed instructing the secretary to write the Gatineau Power Company to try and remedy this trouble.

Geo. Laurin appeared before the Council requesting a permit to proceed with building operations in the West End on which he is engaged. The building committee have the matter under consideration and decision will be made known on Wednesday next.

Three tenders were received for sewer improvements, and the council, with a view of conserving some of this work for the winter, requested those tendering to submit the additional cost for winter work starting about New Year's.

The secretary was instructed to write the Roads Department to rush the completion of the Main Street, as the proprietors were anxious to have their proper approaches made, which work was now being held up.

Our formula should be to see what is going on in the world, to think about what we see, and then to do something about our thinking.

Sir George Perley Accepts Nomination

Liberals still sought to put the blame for these economic ills upon the government in power.

In a personal tribute to his Leader, Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Sir George drew warm applause. He forcefully contradicted the Liberal claims that Mr. Bennett was an autocrat and a dictatorial ruler.

Hon. Arthur Sauve, former Postmaster General, representative of the neighboring constituency of Two Mountains, and now a member of the Senate, proved an agile speaker in the French tongue. He stressed with sincerity his esteem for Sir George Perley, both as a statesman and as a gentleman. His personal regard for Sir George, he said, had been so complete that, in the redistribution of electoral areas, he had gladly relinquished a part of his riding to the constituency of Argenteuil — knowing his people would be equally happy under Sir George's representation.

Mr. Sauve demonstrated how Liberal extravagance during the previous regime had intensified the depression in Canada, especially high taxation—circumstances which the Bennett Government had fallen heir to—but were being directly blamed for, in present Liberal propaganda.

Jean J. Penverne, Conservative candidate for Outremont, was the next speaker, addressing the audience at length in both English and French.

"With nothing but an old programme which they had tried for nine years to put into force, the Liberal party is vainly endeavoring to keep the sympathies of Quebec by rattling the bones of Sir Wilfrid Laurier."

Showing that depression and loss of foreign markets had been a world condition, he said that the world faced a new situation, one that must be faced squarely by men who would do things and enforce new remedies to meet it. There was no doubt that Mr. King was a man of ideas, but he had failed to put them into practice.

Pointing to division in Liberal ranks, Mr. Penverne said that Bennett had been variously called a dictator and a communist. Mr. Dunning, in a radio address in support of the Liberal party, had declared that the social legislation which Mr. Bennett proposed was unnecessary and the country would very well get along without it. Was this many-sided Liberal argument a trick to get the votes both coming and going? the speaker asked. He warned his listeners not to let the Liberals take them by surprise in this fashion.

King was coming back to the country with the same old programme which he had talked for nine years but never put into effect. It had taken Bennett to put King into practice. The Liberal party had suddenly realized that discontent with present conditions alone would not be sufficient to put them back in power; defeatism would not mean a Liberal vote.

LOCAL VETERANS AT REUNION

bership was reported grown to 400, by the addition of 54 new members during the summer. The organization was founded less than a year ago, with a membership of 19. Major Scott told the meeting that organization work was being carried on in the Maritimes, in Gaspé, in Ottawa and in Toronto, the ultimate idea being to make the association a Dominion-wide body.

Addresses were given by Col. C. B. Price, D.S.O., M.M., president of the Canadian Club and Lt. Col. C. F. Ritchie, D.S.O., M.C., president of the Rotary Club, each explaining the ideals of their own organizations and offering suggestions for their application to the development of the 6087 organization.

The next meeting is to be on Saturday, Nov. 9th., when an Armistice Day buffet will be held, for which members are invited to lend any war trophies or overseas photographs they may have in their possession, for the decoration of the dining room.

ish Columbia has twice supplied the winning leaf in this connection.

This year's contest is open to all Canadians, and to visitors to Canada, but the entries must be gathered and sent in from a Canadian point.

The rules are easy to follow. Each leaf must be mounted on a separate card with a gummed paper over the stalk only. They must be packed flat between two pieces of stiff cardboard, accompanied by a sheet of paper 5 x 7 inches on which must be written the name and address of the sender and the date and place of gathering. The name of the contestant must not be written on the card on which the leaf is mounted. No entry is to contain more than three leaves, though one person can forward as many entries as desired. Damaged or broken leaves will not be eligible. Color and shape will be the governing factors in determining the most beautiful leaf. The decision with respect to the largest leaf will be guided solely by surface area. Employees of the C.N.R., the C.P.R., or the Canadian Travel Bureau, are not eligible to compete, but members of their families may submit entries. These must be forwarded express prepaid or postpaid, to Canada's Maple Leaf Contest, P. O. Box 1500, Montreal, Quebec. The contest closes on November first.

It Costs so Little

-- Worth so Much!

Nothing you buy gives such value for what it costs as a home telephone.

Note how inexpensive it is:

	2 subscribers on a line	A line all to yourself
Wall Telephone	$1.85 per month	$2.05 per month
Desk Telephone	2.05 per month	2.25 per month
Hand telephone	2.35 per month	2.55 per month

If convenient, call at our office and let us talk it over with you! Or fill out and mail us the card which will be left in every Lachute home where there is now no telephone.

A home telephone will mean so much to you - and its cost is only about 6 cents a day.

A VOTE FOR SIR GEORGE PERLEY IS A VOTE FOR THE FURTHERANCE OF PREMIER BENNETT'S REFORM PROGRAM

Sir George Perley Receives Well Deserved Honor

AGAIN CHOSEN CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATE FOR ARGENTEUIL

The Argenteuil Conservative Convention, held in Lachute Auditorium on September 28, did what was the right thing to do—and did it handsomely—re-nominating, without dissent or opposition, the well-known statesman and parliamentarian, the Rt. Hon. Sir George Perley, P.C., and acting Prime Minister, as the standard-bearer of the party. So far as the party is concerned it was a foregone conclusion that no other candidate could replace Sir George in the party councils or in higher esteem with the electorate.

It would take a lengthy article to review the part Sir George Perley has played during his long term of office at Ottawa and the remarkable influence that he has wielded in Federal affairs. One need not fear contradiction in the statement that, from every section of the county, deep regret would have been felt had he not decided to again accept their urgent request, to continue devoting his time and services to his country.

HIS PERSONAL PART IN GOVERNMENT

It is scarcely necessary to dwell on what Sir George has done during his term of office. There are few members of the House of Commons who can lay claim to such a record of accomplishments to the benefit, not only of a section of the country, but of the entire Dominion. The name of Perley is known from coast to coast; no member of the Federal House is more respected or held in higher regard.

Not only is Sir George Perley a student and master of Canadian national affairs, but his knowledge of international relations is invaluable to this country's connection, financial and commercial, with all other nations; particularly is this true in affairs and trade relations within the Empire.

For many years past Sir George has devoted practically his entire time, both in and out of Parliament, to interests of this particular county. He has also been called, on many occasions, to preside over the destinies of the Federal Cabinet itself. And let us frankly ask the people of Argenteuil—has any other member of Parliament, outside the Prime Minister himself, been so honored by his colleagues or given such confidence by those men at Ottawa who know him best?

Some may give their opinion that Sir George has not visited his constituents as frequently as they might have desired; but in answer it may be pointed out that he has, nevertheless, kept closely in touch; he has always maintained his interest in the county as his generous donations and assistance to many of our organizations bear ample evidence.

CONFIDENCE RESTORED ABROAD UNDER THE BENNETT REGIME

Nor is it necessary that we should review for our readers the remarkable reforms enacted by the Conservative Government, and the manner in which, considering other nations, Canada has come through the years of depression most favorably.

One might, however, consider the position of this country today, as compared with 1930 when the Conservative Party came into power. Canada's financial status five years ago was none too promising. Since that time the Canadian dollar has sunk as low as a 22 p.c. discount under the United States dollar; but thanks to the general improvement in business conditions the Canadian dollar now stands at par, 100 cents, alongside the American dollar. It will be remembered moreover, that for the past twenty years English investors and financial corporations had held back subscriptions or loans to the Dominion, and hardly a dollar of British money found its way into Canada; for the English bankers had been disappointed in the meagre returns, in some cases the absolute failure in payments, for money previously invested.—What has happened? Hardly a year has passed since the Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett and his colleagues at Ottawa, knowing that financial and business conditions generally throughout Canada had improved, decided to place a short term loan of $75,000,000 on the British market. Sceptics doubted the advisability of doing this—but it was done; and with what result? The books for subscription in London had hardly been opened an hour, when no less than 400 million dollars was subscribed to take up the loan of only 75 million! Was this not a remarkable evidence of reversal in the attitude of financial Britain—and could anything be more convincing of the confidence placed in the Bennett Government by London, showing as it did the British reaction to improved conditions in Canada during the administration of his government?

WHAT OF FARM INTERESTS FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS, AND TRADE?

Our agricultural readers may next consider Mr. Bennett's prediction some time ago that Canadian wheat, before expiration of the present term of his government, would be selling at $1 a bushel. Has not this prediction been fulfilled?

It will also be remembered that in 1934 hundreds of United States banks and trust companies closed their doors, leaving millions of American people practically on the street who up to that time had enjoyed a measure of financial independence. Meanwhile, in Canada not one bank or trust company failed or defaulted, in any part of the Dominion; thanks, undoubtedly, to the Bennett administration. Is this not something of which the Canadian people can be proud?

Taking a further glance into Canada's trade conditions—suffice to say that, early last winter the Industrial Committee at the League of Nations in Geneva paid a compliment to Canada, pointing out that this country was the first to show marked improvement in business conditions—this was due largely to the Ottawa Trade Pacts which the Bennett Government had arranged with Empire countries at the Ottawa Conference. That improvement still continues, not only in trade with the Empire, but with other countries, particularly the United States.

EMPLOYMENT

Today employment is improving throughout this country; relief work is becoming less burdensome; and, last but not least, both the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian National Railways are showing gratifying increases in earnings, as compared with a year or two ago, while revenues from all sources in Canada are mounting every month.

A FAIR CONCLUSION

Considering all these facts, which must give encouragement to the Canadian public whatever their political leanings, we stress the statement that Argenteuil County's representative, Sir George Perley, together with his colleagues in the Bennett cabinet, has played a prominent part in bringing this country through the depression, into happier conditions.

New Industries Put Thousands Back on Canadian Payrolls

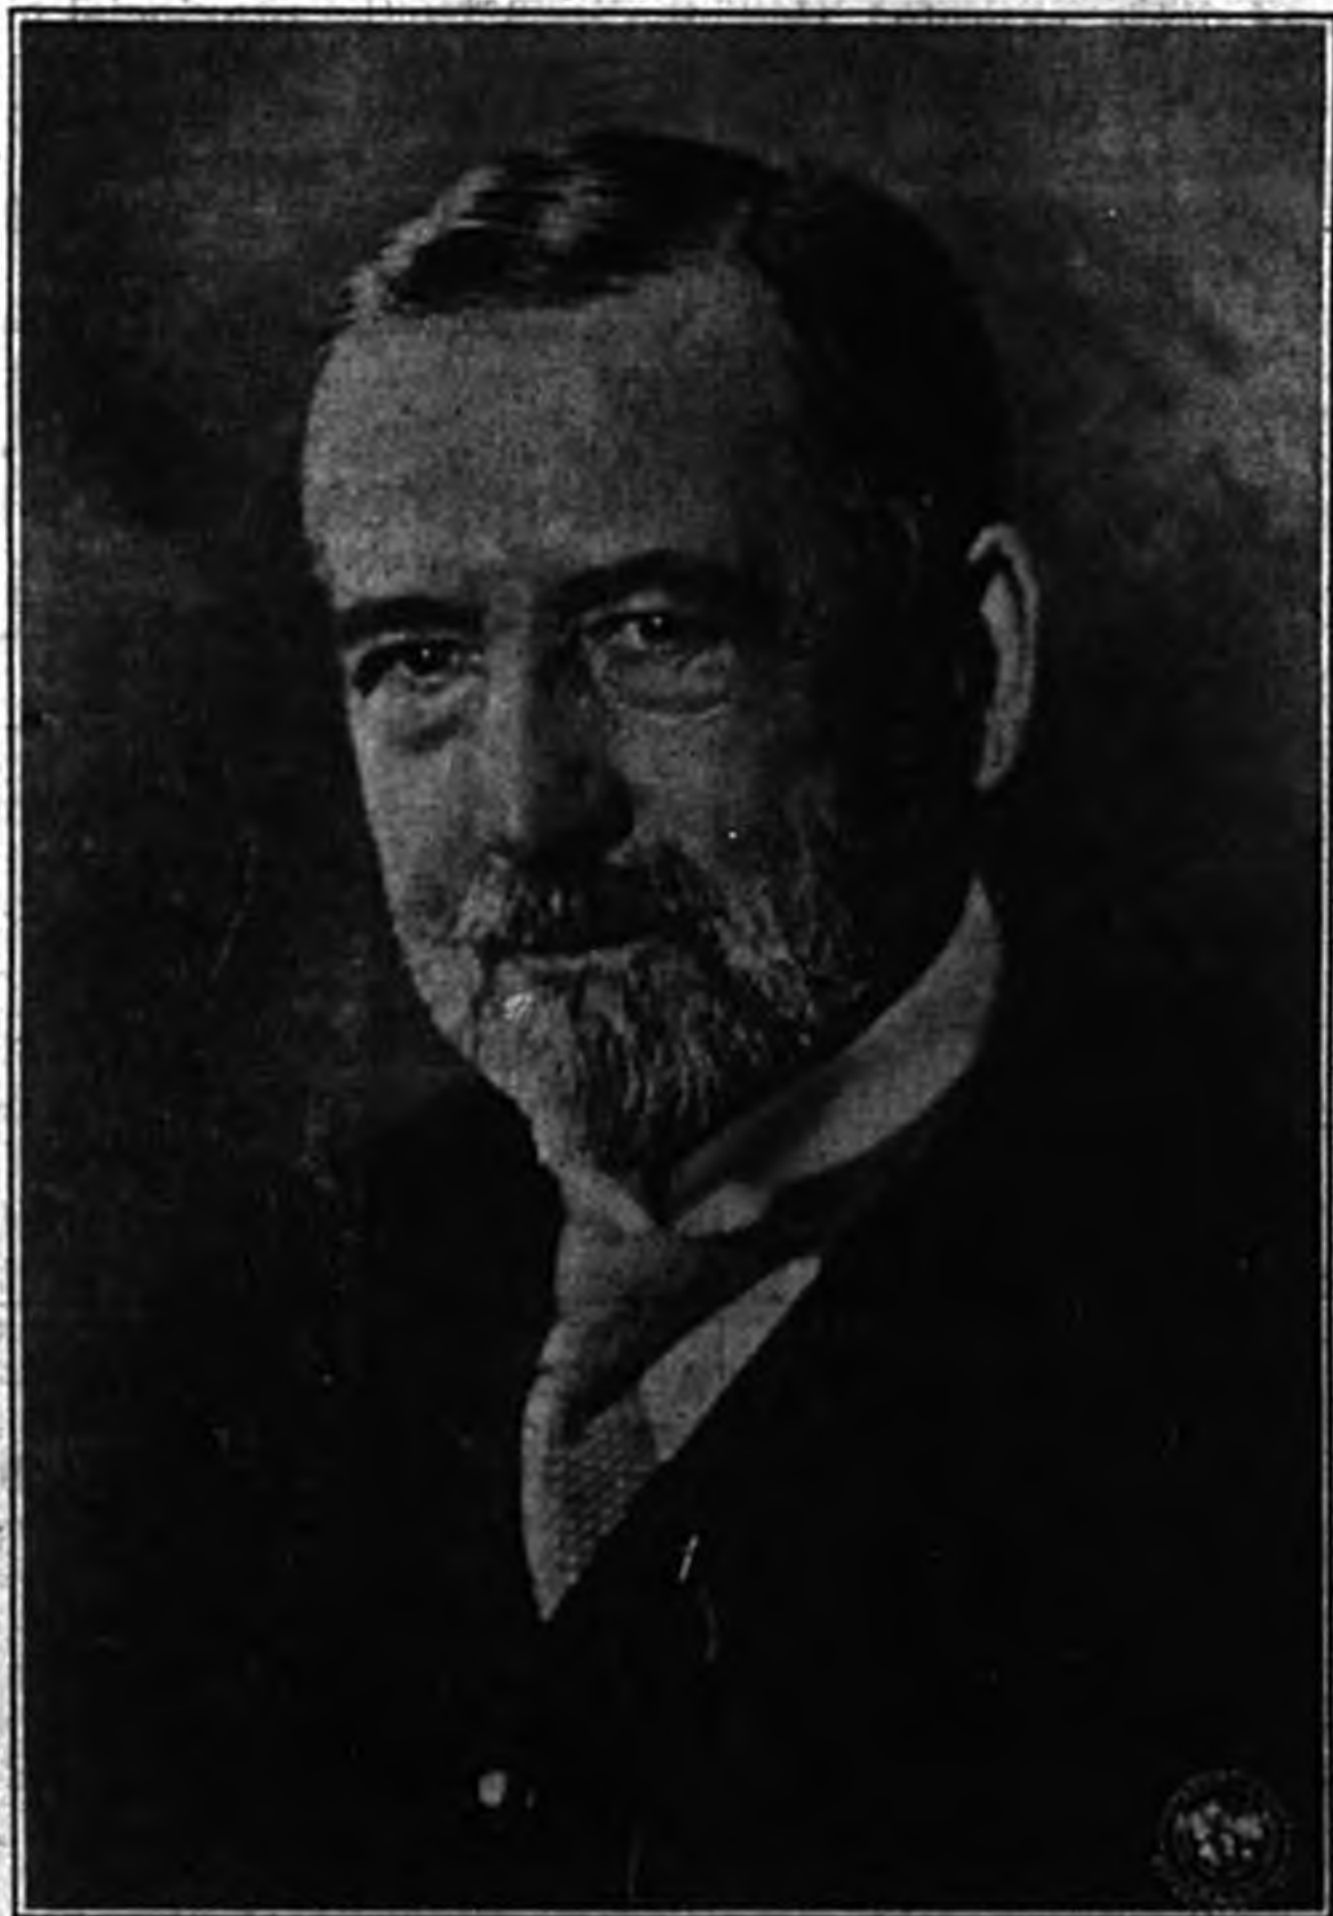

Prime Minister R. B. Bennett's policy did this for Canada. That policy made possible trade agreements between Canada and the United Kingdom, Irish Free State, British South Africa, New Zealand, Southern Rhodesia, and Australia, which had the effect of bringing into the Dominion many new industries from the United States and other foreign countries, and the United Kingdom.

Many of the branches opened up in the Dominion since the Bennett government assumed office, represent some of the largest firms in the world, with a capital investment running into the millions. Approximately ten thousand people were given employment through the establishment of these branch plants in Canada. Recognized the business advantages to be gained through Mr. Bennett's policy of Canada First, and the opening up of more favourable trade channels as between Canada and the other parties to the Empire agreements, along with the excellent treaties entered into with other foreign nations, these firms believed the most practicable move was to set up plants in the Dominion. They made no miscalculations. They are still operating in the Dominion. They are employing Canadians.

Practically every phase of industry is represented in the branch plants erected in Canada by outside firms since August of 1930 when the Bennett Government swept into office—vegetable products, animal products, textiles, wood and paper products, iron and its products, non-ferrous metals, non-metallic minerals, chemicals and allied products, mining companies, merchandise companies, and others under the heading of miscellaneous.

United States companies opened up 252 branch firms or plants in Canada during the first four years the Bennett government was in office; British firms established 23 branches; other branches of foreign origin totalled seven, making a grand total of 282. Capital invested by the United States companies was $22,748,383, by the British branch firms, $2,917,457, and others, $371,676, a total of $26,037,515. More than twenty six millions of dollars invested by British and foreign companies in the Dominion of Canada! And all since the Bennett government has been in office.

Seventy-five of the 252 United States branch firms that opened up in Canada were established in this country after the Empire agreements were negotiated, while nine of the British firms were established after the signing of the pacts. The firms put their plants in cities and towns from coast to coast, with the manufacturing industry taking the lead, there being 188 United States manufacturers, twelve British and four others of foreign origin; all creating a great volume of trade inwards and outwards that would result in larger employment and, by consequence, greater prosperity.

To the Electors of Argenteuil County

Having again the honor of being elected the Conservative standard-bearer for Argenteuil in the coming Federal Elections, I take this opportunity of thanking you for this further proof of confidence.

During the many years I have been the representative of this party in Parliament, I have done my best to faithfully perform all the duties imposed upon me in that position, and I appreciate this renewed evidence of your confidence.

The times through which we have passed have, indeed, been most trying; but individually and collectively we have not faltered in our duty, but have striven to give our utmost in the best interests of our country.

We ask you to study well the momentous questions of the day, consider them in the light of Conservative policies as outlined on these pages—and in this way we shall feel confident of your support at the polls.

Sincerely,

George A. Perley

Let us Consider the Facts as a Patriotic People

DESPITE LIBERAL ASSERTIONS, MR. BENNETT NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR DEPRESSION

It is the recognized Canadian habit of thought, especially in political matters, to weigh all the evidence carefully, and then to return a verdict after due deliberation.

Already there are many clear indications that the plan of being followed by the Leader of the Opposition and his party during the present Dominion general election aims to blame the period of world depression from which Canada is now steadily emerging, upon the Government elected in July, 1930, headed by Premier Bennett. The most vociferous of the Opposition spokesmen are striving frantically to persuade the voters that the difficult experiences of the past four years, unemployment, business lassitude, even drought conditions in the West, are directly chargeable to Mr. Bennett's administration.

It is essential in order that a clear and accurate view of the situation as it exists to-day may be obtained, to keep continually in mind the basic fact that the depression was NOT Mr. Bennett's responsibility.

MR KING'S RECORD

Let us study for a moment some recent Canadian political history. The Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King led his party to power in the general election of 1921. In that year Mr. King became Prime Minister of Canada for the first time. He continued in office until 1926. Between July and September, 1926, a Conservative government was in power with the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen as Premier, but the general election of the autumn of that year again returned Mr. King's party to power and Mr. King to the Premiership. He remained in that high office from 1926 until the summer of 1930, when the Liberal-Conservative Party, with Mr. Bennett at its head swept the country.

With the exception of those three months of 1926, Mr. King was at the head of the Dominion government from 1921 to 1930. His administrations enjoyed all the advantages of the so-called boom years; he must also accept the responsibility for them. His administrations steered the course which dashed Canada on the rocks in 1929. While the King governments cannot in fairness be blamed for adverse conditions in Canada directly due to adverse conditions in other parts of the world, they must accept responsibility for those adverse domestic conditions which clearly are the result of their extravagance, maladministration and recklessness while they were in control. Whatever was lacking in leadership between 1921 and 1930 was lacking in the leadership of Mr. King. The follies of the "boom" years are the follies of succeeding King governments. The bubble that burst on the Montreal and Toronto stock exchanges in the autumn of 1929 was Mr. King's bubble—NOT Mr. Bennett's.

Mr. King's friends will claim that none of the 1929 debacle was his fault. That no human being could have foreseen the crash, or have in any degree averted it. Not so.

MR. BENNETT'S WARNING

In June, 1928, sixteen months before the collapse of October, 1929, Mr. Bennett, on the floor of the House of Commons issued a clear concise and unmistakable warning of the disaster ahead. The date was June 8th (Hansard, 1928, Page 4044) and this is what Mr. Bennett said:

"Do you realize, sir, that this great speculative era that we now have on the American continent is one fraught with possibilities of the gravest disaster for this country. The brokers' loans alone in New York last week were over $5,000,000,000, an unheard of figure. In this country speculation is rampant. Some people imagine that trading pieces of paper upon which are engraved words and figures constitutes the creation of new wealth. It is not so. The new wealth of the country is being created by the application of labour and capital to the natural resources of the country, and this trading in stock certificates, this great era of speculation in this country, and on this continent, is one fraught with possibilities of the gravest dangers to Canada, because we have not, as they have in the United States, a vast accumulation of wealth that will enable us to meet the approaching conditions with ease.

"Look at the movement of securities; look at the movement of gold; look at every indication there is with respect to speculation in this country. I know great brokerage houses that have declined to take new accounts in this country for over twelve months, one perhaps the greatest brokerage house in this country, because they fear what they see in the distance. But no one in the government seems to care, and if we point out the conditions we are 'pessimists', if we venture to direct attention to the conditions we are 'decrying our country'. That is the talk that the honourable gentlemen hurl at us and before the country. But I recall the language of one who was regarded in after years as one of the very greatest of British statesmen, who observed that when their orgy was through, when they had at last recovered from the debauch in which they were then enjoying themselves, possibly, then in their sober and quiet moments they would look back and recall the warning that had been given by those who, looking into the future as best they could, guided by those economic signs that were apparent, and by beacon lights warning of the future, had pointed out the conditions as they also had come to pass. You perhaps will look back upon our warnings, and perhaps remember with at least some degree of fair minded justice the observations that were made by those of us who have pointed out the national disaster that is inevitable if this orgy of mad expenditure continues."

LAISSEZ FAIRE

Surely no words of warning could have been spoken, more definite, more sincere, more positive than were contained in that speech of Mr. Bennett's, made more than a year before the crash of 1929. What did the King government do? The King government politely disregarded Mr. Bennett's admonitions. The King government went serenely upon its way, blandly assuring the country that everything was for the best in the best of all possible worlds. The King government spent money like the proverbial drunken sailor—money borrowed at high interest rates, against mortgages on future taxation—on extravagant and unnecessary railway and hotel projects, on surplus public works. The King government increased the cost of living, and multiplied taxation even in prosperous years with no such demands on the treasury as the present government has been called upon to meet. The recklessness of the margin stock speculator was paralleled by the recklessness of the administration, right up to the day of the crash, and afterward.

Canadian citizens, proud of their country, loving their country, can never forget that it was Mr. King who piloted the ship of state on to the reefs of the depression in 1929.

"Laissez faire" and Unemployment

One of the most glaring examples of laissez faire policy ever exhibited by Mr. W. L. Mackenzie King was his method of NOT dealing with the unemployment problem in the spring of 1930. He answered all the pleadings submitted to him by municipal and private authorities with empty abstractions; filled pages of Hansard, but all to one end—INACTION.

Unemployment was not slow in developing after the stock market crash in the autumn of 1929. By the time the last session under the King régime had opened, thousands of men were walking the streets of the larger cities of Canada, looking for work, unable to find it. Their shadows lengthened on the walls of the House of Commons as the sun of prosperity waned, and members began to inquire as to what the government of Mr. Mackenzie King intended to do about it.

He should have known

Six days after the fourth session of the Sixteenth Parliament opened on Feb. 20, 1930, mayors of the leading western cities met with Mr. King and his government, with the authority of their provincial governments, and asked assistance in caring for the throngs of unfortunate individuals who were even then forced to ask for help in order to maintain an existence.

The only record of the proceedings when the government and the delegation met is that of the Canadian Press, which says in effect that Mr. King told the mayors unless the provincial governments would confess their inability to meet the situation, it was no responsibility of his (Mr. King's). Unemployment relief was purely a provincial matter, he told them.

Certainly, after resolutions, letters, petitions and pleadings had been poured into the Prime Minister's office and to his ministers during the winter of 1929-30, and then after these mayors of the western cities had taken the trouble to come to Ottawa to talk over the situation and to beg for help, Mr. King could not deny knowledge of the existence of unemployment.

Yes, Mr. King must have or should have known that unemployment had become an acute problem even then. But what did he do about it? He made his notorious "Five Cent Speech" in Parliament! The

The Five-Cent Speech

During a discussion in the House, when some of the Opposition members had been asking what Mr. King intended to do about unemployment, and Mr. King was giving his statement of policy, he uttered these remarkable words (Hansard 1930, pages 1227-8):

Mr. Mackenzie King: "May I conclude what I have to say? So far as giving money from this federal treasury to provincial governments is concerned, in relation to this question of unemployment as it exists today, I might be prepared to go a certain length possibly in meeting one or two of the western provinces that have Progressive premiers at the head of their governments—"

Some hon. Members: "Oh!" Mr. Mackenzie King: "But I would not give a single cent to any Tory government."

Mr. Bennett: "Shame!" Mr. Stevens: "Shame!"

Mr. Mackenzie King: "Do my hon. friends say 'shame?'"

Mr. Bennett: "Yes, Shame!"

Mr. Mackenzie King: "What is there to be ashamed of?"

Mr. Stevens: "You ought to be ashamed of that."

Mr. Mackenzie King: "My hon. friend is getting very indignant. Something evidently has got under his skin. May I repeat what I have said? With respect to giving moneys out of the federal treasury to any Tory government in this country for these alleged unemployment purposes, with these governments situated as they are today, with policies diametrically opposed to those of this government, I would not give them a five-cent piece."

Again during the same debate (Hansard, 1930, pg. 1225) we find these priceless words of Mr. King's:

No Emergency in 1930?

"... The fact that hon. members are obliged to restrict themselves to naming individual municipalities and are able to name them in numbers that can be counted on one hand so far as the Dominion of Canada is concerned, demonstrates more strongly than words could how little we have a national problem of unemployment in this country at the present time."

"... I submit that there is no evidence in Canada today of an emergency situation which demands anything of the kind (federal assistance)."

Hon Hugh Guthrie (Hansard 1930, pg. 1245) expressed very well the folly and shamefulness of these words of Mr. King later in the debate:

"Was there ever a more glaring piece of impropriety on the part of a prime minister? What does that language amount to? It is a threat or a bluff against five of the great provinces of Canada, and an inducement or a bribe to vote Liberal, and that from the lips of the Prime Minister! Surely that is a 'vicious principle' to proclaim in public. It is an exposure of the narrow partisan mind of the prime minister himself. Language of that kind might be worthy of a Tammany leader in the lower wards of New York, where they say: you will vote the whole ticket or you will get no money; but it is unworthy falling from the lips of the prime minister of this country...."

Now let us pass on to the scene a few weeks later. Mr. Bennett was elected to power that summer, and fulfilling his pledge to the people of Canada during the campaign, he called his new Parliament together for a special session on September 8, 1930. And what did Mr. Bennett find as the situation existing at that date? Here are government figures (Hansard 1930, Special Session, page 63.)

Facing the Facts

"Consulting the numbers which were provided from the various provinces by the various provincial governments, I find that at present in the province of Alberta there are 5,155 unemployed; during the winter it is contemplated that that number will reach 6,650. In British Columbia, at the present time the unemployed number 7,692 and it is expected that during the winter that number will increase to 14,700. In the province of Saskatchewan the present number given is 5,276, and it is expected to rise during the winter to 8,201. In Manitoba the figure is now 6,950, with a possible 9,600 in the winter. In Ontario, the figure is given as 49,367, rising to 82,214. In Quebec the present number is 41,190, as against an anticipated number of 49,290. In New Brunswick the present number is 500 and it is expected it may reach 2,850. In Nova Scotia the present number is 1,800, and it may rise to 2,350."

Mr. Bennett explained that his figures were supplied either through the employment offices, set up by Hon. Peter Heenan (Liberal) Minister of Labour, or direct by the provincial governments, and that they represented registered unemployed only, and there were other hundreds of thousands not registered.

He further stated that trade unions and other organizations in a position to know something of the situation had estimated 200,000 as being nearer the actual number unemployed at that time, than the figure of approximately 117,000 reported to the government.

In any case, Mr. Bennett put his bill to provide $20,000,000 for relief through at that special session.

Montreal Herald Warns Against Adoption of Untried Principles

While there has been a general reticence of expression as to the probable outcome of the forthcoming election, owing to the complication arising from the tangle of four party issues, the electors are now warming up and taking sides in the struggle for supremacy of the varied leaders in their choice. Attributable to the troublous times of the past few years there has never been an election in Canada with such divergence of thought confronting the electors and in order to help the bewildered electorate, the Montreal Herald under date of September 24th. published a leading editorial, in which it says:—

Those who vote for a C.C.F. candidate, or for a Reconstruction candidate, or for a Social Credit candidate, or for a candidate representing any of the new parties that are constantly springing up, will vote for the tearing up by the roots of democratic government in this country as it has been practised in Canada ever since Confederation.

Hitherto the Conservative party or the Liberal party, whichever has been in power, has administered this country upon the broad principles of the best form of government this world has ever known, namely the British parliamentary system, which recognizes the vital principle of individual liberty and the inalienable rights of minorities.

That is the essential of true democracy, and any temporary departure from it by any party has always proved disastrous, and has always resulted in a purging of the party and of that party's return to the bedrock democratic principles.

As between these two parties in Canada at the present time and all the other parties seeking the vote of the electorate there is a wide chasm.

The Conservative party and the Liberal party differ upon details, but cling to fundamental principles.

The other parties differ profoundly from Conservatives and Liberals upon fundamental principles, but all these other parties agree in this respect namely, that they would abolish the system of government under which we have grown up and establish one which is the invention of some one individual who believes that in him and him alone is embodied the wisdom of the ages.

A peculiarity of each of these new parties is that without exception they have picked out a class or classes which they have marked out for oppression or destruction.

Instead of governing Canada for the benefit of the whole Canadian people, they would deny the rights of minorities and govern it for the benefit of their particular followers; in other words, they would not follow the established principles, but would set up a new economic order, in the application and interpretation of which the rules of some self-appointed Messiah would prevail.

That is the difference between the various new parties and the two great historic parties.

Now as between the two latter the main difference in Canada centres around the question of the customs tariff.

The Conservative party holds that a policy of high protection is essential to the well-being of this country.

The Liberal party maintains that while a reasonable amount of protection is necessary in these days, a lowering of the present tariff schedules would make for greater prosperity, not only because it would result in relief for consumers, but also because if we bought more from other countries, these other countries would buy more from us, and thus would be created a great volume of trade inwards and outwards that would result in larger employment and, by consequence, greater prosperity.

The Conservatives say other countries will not buy more from us unless we force them to do so by hard tariff bargains. The Liberals say other countries will buy more from us if we buy more from them.

Those who feel that their choice lies between Conservatives and Liberals will have to decide for themselves whether the higher protective tariffs of the past five years have had satisfactory results or not.

If they consider the results have justified the raising of the tariffs they will vote Conservative; if they consider these results unsatisfactory they will vote for a return to the moderate tariffs that have always characterized Liberal administrations.

Plans which lead away from common sense, which raise the popular hopes to such heights that they become dizzy, which scatter energies that should be concentrated upon feasible progress, do real damage.—Margaret Culkin Banning.

The Pilot Has Brought Us Through

Canada, despite her comparatively small population, defying the world wide depression, now stands fifth among the nations in export trade. Only Great Britain, the United States, France and Germany are ahead. In degree of industrial advance, Canada has led the world since 1933, according to League of Nations reports. Employment figures show a steady increase—43,097 more men and women employed in Canadian industries at the end of July than at the same period in 1934. With Bennett at the wheel, Canada has weathered the storm.

THE DRAWBACK

UN VOTE POUR SIR GEORGE PERLEY APPUIE LES REFORMES DU PREMIER MINISTRE BENNETT

Heureux et Rapides Resultats des Accords Impériaux de 1932

Ces traités historiques, les plus importants des annales, canadiennes, nous assurent la permanence du plus riche marché du monde

Lorsque M. Bennett prit le pouvoir, en 1930, le commerce canadien était dans le plus pitoyable état; il avait perdu presque tous ses marchés étrangers, notamment celui des Etats-Unis. Soixante-quatre pays étrangers avaient haussé leurs barrières tarifaires; seul de tous les grands pays commerciaux, le Canada ne l'avait pas fait. Il fallait agir, et agir vite: nous protéger contre le dumping des produits étrangers et conquérir des marchés nouveaux. La protection nous fut donnée sans retard, à la petite session d'urgence de 1930. Immédiatement après cette session, les députés canadiens partaient pour la Conférence Impériale de Londres.

A cette Conférence Impériale de 1930, M. Bennett fit retentir le cri nationaliste le plus vibrant qui ait jamais été lancé en pareille circonstance: "Le Canada d'abord!" Il y eut une grande commotion chez les impérialistes londonniens, la conférence échoua et fut remise.

En 1931, M. Bennett invitait les chefs politiques de tout l'empire à se réunir à Ottawa. En 1932, le centre impérial se déplaçait de Londres à Ottawa, M. Bennett avait amené l'assemblée et la discussion sur "le terrain de son choix".

Ce que Sir Wilfrid Laurier avait demandé sans l'obtenir en 1905, ce que M. King avait vainement demandé en 1923, M. Bennett le gagna complètement en 1932. Il ne se contenta pas de demander, il travailla d'arrache-pied, lutta sans relâche et sut tenir tête à des oppositions acharnées qui, à certains moments, menacèrent de faire sombrer la Conférence. Cinq minutes avant la fin de cette historique Conférence Impériale, après trente jours de labeurs épuisants, M. Bennett obtenait des concessions qui nous donnaient d'immenses avantages accordés jusque-là à la Russie Soviétique. C'est dire que le premier ministre canadien sut se battre pour son pays jusqu'au dernier moment.

La Conférence Impériale de 1932 nous a gagné le plus grand marché commercial du monde: l'empire britannique, qui comprend le cinquième de la surface terrestre et le cinquième de la population mondiale. Ce marché est protégé et nous y avons des avantages qui empêchent les pays non-britanniques de nous faire une concurrence déloyale ou même simplement sur un pied d'égalité avec nous. Nos produits agricoles et industriels y ont le premier choix et la première protection. Si M. King, qui a demandé la même chose sans l'obtenir, pour ne s'être pas assez vigoureusement battu, se déclare aujourd'hui l'ennemi de ces accords, c'est par dépit de ce qu'un autre a réussi là où il avait échoué, comme le déclare M. Bennett à la Chambre des Communes dans son mémorable discours du 3 novembre 1932.

M. Bennett ne s'est pas contenté du magnifique succès des accords impériaux. Il a travaillé à nous gagner d'autres marchés à travers le monde, que M. King avait perdus. Il a signé des accords avec la France, l'Allemagne, la Pologne, le Danemark, le Brésil, etc., et il est sur le point de conduire au succès un nouveau traité avec les Etats-Unis.

Pour juger de la valeur des accords impériaux de 1932, on la statistique officielle. Elle nous démontre que, en deux ans, notre commerce d'exportations a augmenté de plus de 54%.

La statistique officielle indique aussi que 1935 enregistrera des augmentations encore plus considérables. Si Québec a moins profité de ces splendides augmentations commerciales, en temps de crise mondiale aigue, c'est que le gouvernement provincial est moins agressif, a une moins bonne organisation commerciale, et surtout qu'il a constamment montré sa mauvaise volonté, persistant à "jouer la politique" avec un homme d'affaires.

Les chiffres, beaucoup plus que des discours, disent les avantages des accords impériaux signés par M. Bennett. Ce qu'on ne peut comprendre, c'est que M. King veuille détruire ces accords, s'il prend le pouvoir. On se demande si c'est simplement pour le plaisir de détruire, lui qui avait détruit tous nos marchés de 1921 à 1930. Toute la politique de M. King atteste qu'il a été un destructeur; celle de M. Bennett, qu'il a été un constructeur et un grand homme d'affaires. C'est là la différence entre les deux hommes, et le choix n'est pas difficile à faire.

La Pire Menace

L'attitude de M. King et l'attitude de M. Bennett devant la montée du communisme

Jamais les races occidentales et les peuples chrétiens n'ont connu, dans toute l'histoire mondiale, de pire menace que celle du communisme.

Cette menace va grandissant tous les jours. Depuis 18 ans, elle s'est emparée du Sixième du monde entier (les Russies, l'Ukraine, Georgie, Arménie, provinces de Chine et du Turkestan, etc.). Et, chaque jour, cette horrible menace s'insinue, s'infiltré et se répand dans tous les autres pays. La formidable puissance conquise par le communisme ne sert qu'à une chose: répandre partout la propagande communiste, afin de soumettre tous les peuples au joug soviétique, qui est réellement le joug de l'Antéchrist.

Sous toutes sortes de prétextes trompeurs, le communisme ne travaille qu'à un but et ne poursuit qu'une seule oeuvre satanique: la destruction de la civilisation, des traditions et du christianisme. Comme le prouve l'exemple de la malheureuse Russie et d'autres pays tombés aux mains de cette mafia internationale, le communisme aboutit simplement aux résultats suivants:

extermination des classes instruites; esclavage de toutes les classes sociales, sous la Terreur érigée en système légal; abolition du droit de propriété, confiscation des maisons et des terres; destruction de la famille; abolition de la religion chrétienne et extermination ou exil du clergé; destruction des églises et propagation de l'athéisme (en opposition avec la propagation de la Foi); retour des humains à la vie des bêtes sans âme.

En un mot, c'est le règne de l'Antéchrist que l'on veut étendre à toute la terre.

De ce désordre moral, spirituel et matériel jaillissent la désolation, la misère, la mort. On estime officiellement à vingt millions le chiffre minimum des victimes mortes au cours des massacres et des famines qui ont eu lieu en Russie depuis la révolution communiste de 1917.

Dans la seule province soviétique de l'Ukraine, huit millions de cultivateurs et membres de leurs familles, producteurs de blé, sont morts de faim depuis 1933, parce que tout leur blé avait été confisqué pour exportation à l'étranger, afin de se procurer des fonds pour la propagande mondiale.

Il n'y a pas un seul pays où le communisme soit arrivé au pouvoir par des moyens légaux. Partout où il règne, il a conquis le pouvoir en usurpateur, par la violence, l'émeute, la révolte armée.

Au Canada comme ailleurs, les communistes (de même que de nombreux chefs socialistes de la C.C.F.) prêchent la prise du pouvoir par la force et la violence.

Une seule loi nous protège contre cette propagande du système communiste. C'est l'article 98 du Code Criminel, qui déclare illégales toute propagande et toute organisation approuvant et recommandant l'usage de la violence.

Communistes, socialistes et libéraux radicaux ont fait plusieurs tentatives, aux Communes (à suivre à la page 8)

Un Choix Facile à Faire

Le Très Hon. R. B. BENNETT, Premier Ministre du Canada

Le débat politique auquel le peuple canadien assiste depuis quelques semaines est assez avancé pour permettre à l'électorat de rendre un sûr et sain jugement.

Le passé: Nous avons, d'un côté, le Gouvernement Bennett, qui a sauvé le Canada de la ruine économique; qui a accompli d'immenses travaux; qui, suivant les statistiques de la Ligue des Nations, a mieux fait que n'importe quel autre gouvernement durant la crise; qui a donné au pays plus de réformes sociales que tous les gouvernements combinés depuis la Confédération; qui a placé le Canada à la tête de tous les pays du monde dans la reprise économique; qui a été bon et généreux pour toutes les classes affectées par la dépression; qui a ouvert à nos produits de grands et riches marchés comme le Canada n'en a jamais eus; un gouvernement qui a raplombé les finances nationales et contre lequel on n'a pu soulever aucun soupçon de scandale.

De l'autre côté, des groupes politiques qui, en Chambre, ont dû voter avec le Gouvernement Bennett sur toutes ses mesures importantes; des groupes politiques qui ne critiquent rien de ce que M. Bennett a fait, mais seulement la façon énergique dont il a rapidement mis en pratique son programme approuvé par le peuple; des groupes politiques qui se plaignent de ce que nous avons enfin un gouvernement fort, ferme, gardien jaloux de l'ordre et de la légalité; des groupes politiques qui, depuis cinq ans, n'ont fait œuvre que de négativité, passivité, opposition futile et obstruction irraisonnée.

Le présent et l'avenir: Nous avons, d'un côté, le Gouvernement Bennett qui propose de compléter son programme de réformes sociales; de répandre un crédit plus facile et meilleur marché à toutes les activités nationales; de corriger les erreurs et réprimer les abus du système capitaliste; de nommer un Conseil Économique pour résoudre les grands problèmes pressants de notre structure économique

De l'autre côté, nous avons des groupes politiques qui demandent la liberté d'action pour le communisme; qui proposent des mesures économiques dont l'issue inévitable est le socialisme; le parti libéral dont le chef se contente de critiquer et ne propose rien à l'électorat, se fiant encore à sa politique de laisser-faire et s'imaginant que les choses vont s'améliorer d'elles-mêmes sans que le gouvernement n'ait rien à faire; d'autres dont les propositions financières suffiraient à ruiner le Canada en quelques mois s'ils avaient l'occasion de les mettre en pratique.

Vous savez de quel côté sont le bon sens, la saine raison, la clarté de la vision, la réalité des faits exacts, la formule de redressement et d'action, la certitude de succès et d'amélioration, votre protection et votre sécurité: avec le Gouvernement Bennett.

Ne risquez pas votre avenir ni l'avenir du Canada. Ne jouez pas à l'aveuglette avec la sécurité nationale.

es et dans des délégations auprès de M. Bennett, pour faire abolir cet article 98 qui ordonne le respect de l'ordre et de la légalité. L'hon. Ernest Lapointe a prononcé depuis 1930 des discours passionnés pour le rappel de cette loi. Au parlement comme devant les délégations, le premier ministre Bennett à toujours été catégorique et ferme dans son attitude. Chaque fois, il a répondu, en somme, ceci: "Que les communistes, les socialistes et les libéraux tempèrent autant qu'ils voudront, l'article 98 du Code Criminel restera en force aussi longtemps que mon gouvernement sera au pouvoir."

Et M. Bennett a agi en conséquence. Il a sévi contre les communistes qui veulent désorganiser notre civilisation chrétienne et canadienne, et répandre la désolation, la ruine et la mort dans notre pays. Et il s'est servi de l'article 98 pour mettre à la raison le Juif communiste Tim Buck et autres agitateurs de Moscou.

Devant le grave péril du communisme, l'hon. Mackenzie King a une toute autre attitude. Comme les communistes et les socialistes, il veut abolir cet article 98 qui forme notre seule protection légale contre l'œuvre de Moscou. Au nom de la "liberté", il veut que les bolchevistes soient libres de poursuivre leur travail d'empoisonnement, et il réclame le renversement de la barrière qui les en empêche.

Il n'y a rien d'étonnant à cette attitude du chef libéral, car le libéralisme ne s'appuie que sur le mot "liberté" telle qu'elle est définie suivant la conception antichrétienne et matérialiste de la révolution de 1789. Liberté illimitée pour les immigrants étrangers de venir troubler notre vie nationale; liberté illimitée pour les spéculateurs étrangers de venir enlever nos marchés à nos producteurs; liberté illimitée pour les capitalistes, les spéculateurs et les profiteurs d'exploiter la nation; liberté illimitée pour les agitateurs de Moscou de venir saboter nos institutions! Du moment que ça s'appelle "liberté", même si c'est une liberté pour le mal, pour la désorganisation, pour le chaos, le libéralisme la soutient!

L'hon. M. Mackenzie King se dit contre le communisme. Mais, à cause du mot "liberté", il est en faveur de la propagande communiste.

En effet, le communisme est présentement proclamé par la loi comme une "association illégale", aux termes de l'article 98. Mais, aussitôt que l'article 98 serait abrogé, les communistes pourraient légalement, ouvertement et publiquement opérer au même titre qu'un parti d'ordre, qu'une religion, qu'une société nationale; ils pourraient légalement parader dans nos rues avec le drapeau rouge et leur étendard de la faucille et du marteau; ils pourraient légalement nous parler à la radio, tenir des assemblées dans nos parcs publics; ils pourraient légalement inonder nos villes et nos campagnes de journaux, livres, tracts, affiches, etc. Bref, toutes les formes de propagande et d'organisation communistes seraient légales.

La C.C.F. socialiste, condamnée par l'archevêque de Montréal, publie dans son programme officiel, à l'article 12:

"12.—Liberté politique et économique.—Liberté de parole et d'association; révocation de la section 98 du Code Criminel; amendement à la Loi d'Immigration tendant à interdire dans l'avenir la politique inhumaine de déportation. Egalité devant la loi de tous les résidents du Canada, quelles que soient leur race, leur nationalité, leur religion ou leurs idées politiques."

Débordé par l'élément radical de son Parti, influencé surtout par l'hon. Ernest Lapointe qui est un ennemi juré de l'article 98 du Code Criminel, l'hon. M. Mackenzie King, dans l'espoir de capter le vote radical d'extrême-gauche, demande solennellement à l'électorat canadien le pouvoir afin d'abolir cet article 98, la dernière protection civile qui nous reste contre la marée montante du communisme.

La "Fédération Libérale Nationale du Canada" (rue Wellington, Ottawa) a tout récemment publié un manifeste officiel du programme du Parti libéral. Les principes que M. King veut faire approuver par le peuple canadien y sont exposés en "Quatorze Points," dont le dixième se lit comme suit:

"Le Parti libéral croit que, prenant prétexte de la présente crise, le gouvernement a violé les droits de l'individu. Or, c'est la tradition du Libéralisme de défendre le principe britannique de la liberté de parole et d'association. Et c'est pourquoi le Parti libéral fera abroger l'article 98 du Code Criminel et mettra fin au régime actuellement en vigueur des déportations arbitraires.—Extrait, en substance, du discours de M. King aux Communes le 27 février 1933."

Et M. King a l'audace de venir devant le peuple pour s'engager solennellement à accorder la protection officielle de son parti aux communistes athées! Il en fait une question de principe dans la présente élection.

Nous avons ici une autre preuve tangible et claire de la vérité des paroles du Pape dans "Quadragesimo Anno": "Le socialisme a le libéralisme pour père et le communisme pour héritier". Sur la question la plus grave, en ce qui concerne l'avenir de notre civilisation, le Parti libéral, la C.E.F., socialiste et le Parti communiste s'entendent parfaitement, ont les mêmes conceptions et définitions, font entendre les mêmes réclamations.

Les textes officiels cités ne sauraient être plus clairs. La "liberté" libérale doit tout permettre: la propagande pour le mal, l'association pour le mal, et il ne faudra pas déporter les agitateurs révolutionnaires et Sans-Dieu que nous enverra Moscou!

Si M. King est vraiment contre le communisme, comment peut-il être en faveur de la propagande, de l'association et de l'organisation légales de ce qui doit amener le communisme chez nous? Ou il est volontairement aveugle, ou il est de complicité avec les communistes, ou il trahit ses propres convictions pour des avantages de parti. Quelle différence avec la conduite de M. Bennett, qui se proclame contre le communisme, lui aussi, mais qui reste conséquent avec ses principes et prend les moyens voulus pour affirmer ses convictions!

Toutes sortes de questions politiques, sociales et économiques feront l'objet de la prochaine élection fédérale. Mais il n'y a pas une seule question qui soit plus importante et plus grave de conséquences que celle qui concerne l'abrogation ou la conservation de l'article 98.

Du triomphe ou de la défaite du communisme dépend le sort futur de l'humanité; et, en notre pays, de l'article 98 ou son abolition dépend l'illégalité ou la légalité du communisme. Permettra-t-on à l'athéisme révolutionnaire de lutter librement contre le christianisme et nos institutions occidentales, chez nous? M. Bennett dit non. MM. King et Lapointe disent oui, avec les communistes et les socialistes.

Le Pape, le cardinal-primat, nos évêques et le haut clergé protestant ont mis les chrétiens en garde contre le communisme, qu'ils ont condamné sans réserve, demandant à tous les fidèles de se lever et d'organiser une Croisade pour le combattre. Ce n'est pas en légalisant la propagande communiste, comme le veut le Parti libéral, que l'on pourra aider à la Croisade. Au contraire, cette politique néfaste ne pourra que donner plus d'audace au communisme et hâter sa venue.

—La Renaissance Canadienne.

Sir George Perley Choisi de nouveau comme Candidat Conservateur pour le Comté d'Argenteuil

La convention conservatrice d'Argenteuil a eu lieu le 28 septembre, à l'Auditorium de Lachute. Elle a choisi sans dissension ni opposition, l'homme d'état et parlementaire bien connu, le Très Honorable Sir George Perley, P.C., premier ministre intérimaire du Canada, comme le porte-étendard du parti conservateur dans le comté d'Argenteuil. Il était évident qu'il ne pouvait être question d'aucun autre candidat que Sir George Perley, tenu en si grande estime par l'électorat.

Un article très long serait nécessaire pour passer en revue la part que Sir George a prise pendant son terme d'office et l'influence remarquable qu'il possède dans les affaires fédérales. Aucune contradiction n'est à craindre en assurant que dans toutes les parties de ce comté, un regret unanime aurait été ressenti si, à la demande pressante des électeurs, Sir George Perley n'avait pas, de nouveau, accepté de continuer à consacrer son temps au service de son pays.

SA PART PERSONNELLE AU GOUVERNEMENT

Il est à peine nécessaire d'insister sur ce que Sir George a fait et accompli pendant son terme d'office. Peu de membres de la Chambre des Communes peuvent autant que lui, s'honorer d'un dossier contenant autant d'actes favorables non seulement à une partie mais au bénéfice du Canada tout entier.

Le nom de "Perley" est connu d'un océan à l'autre; aucun membre du Gouvernement n'est plus respecté et estimé que lui.

Sir George Perley est non seulement un homme d'études et un maître dans les affaires nationales canadiennes mais sa connaissance des relations internationales est inestimable dans les rapports de finance et de commerce de ce pays avec les autres nations et particulièrement avec tout l'Empire britannique.

Depuis un grand nombre d'années, Sir George Perley a consacré pratiquement tout son temps, au Gouvernement et en dehors, aux intérêts de ce comté. Il a aussi été appelé, à plusieurs reprises, à présider aux destinées du cabinet fédéral. Et, demandons franchement aux électeurs d'Argenteuil: y a-t-il un autre membre du Parlement en dehors du premier Ministre lui-même, qui ait été aussi honoré par ses collègues ou qui possède autant que lui, la confiance des parlementaires d'Ottawa qu'il rencontre chaque jour?

Quelques-uns émettront peut-être que Sir George n'a pas visité ses constituants aussi fréquemment que ceux-ci l'auraient désiré. En réponse, on peut faire remarquer que néanmoins, il s'est tenu le plus possible en contact avec eux; comme le prouvent ses dons généreux à toutes nos organisations, il a toujours songé aux intérêts de ce comté.

CONFIANCE RETABLIE A L'ETRANGER SOUS LE REGIME BENNETT

Considérons ensemble la position du Canada aujourd'hui comparativement à 1930, lorsque le parti conservateur vint au pouvoir. Il y a cinq ans, l'état financier était loin d'être encourageant. Depuis, le dollar canadien a baissé jusqu'à 22% d'escompte en bas du dollar américain; mais, grâce à l'amélioration des affaires, le dollar canadien est maintenant au pair et est coté à 100 cents vis-à-vis du dollar américain.

On se rappellera de plus que dans les vingt dernières années, les compagnies financières et les courtiers anglais avaient laissé en suspens leurs souscriptions ou leurs prêts au Dominion, et à peine un dollar de monnaie anglaise pouvait-il se trouver au Canada, car les banquiers anglais avaient été fort déçus en recevant de très faibles remises

Ayant de nouveau été choisi comme le porte-étendard du parti conservateur pour le comté d'Argenteuil, aux prochaines élections fédérales, je m'empresse, à cette occasion, de venir vous remercier de la nouvelle preuve de confiance que vous m'avez donnée.

Depuis que je représente ce parti au Parlement, c'est-à-dire depuis un grand nombre d'années, je me suis toujours efforcé de remplir fidèlement tous les devoirs inhérents à ma charge, et j'apprécie hautement la marque de confiance que vous m'avez de nouveau donnée cette année.

La dure époque que nous avons traversée, nous a certainement mis à l'épreuve; individuellement et collectivement, nous n'avons pas failli à notre devoir. Nous nous sommes efforcés de faire tout ce qui était en notre pouvoir pour sauvegarder les intérêts de notre pays.

Nous vous demandons de bien étudier les questions importantes du jour et de les considérer à la lumière de la politique conservatrice en lisant attentivement ces pages. De cette façon, nous sommes assurés de votre support et de votre appui le jour de la votation.

Sincèrement à vous,

sur l'argent déjà investi, et même, dans certains cas, d'un défaut absolu de paiement.

Qu'est-il arrivé? Un an s'était à peine écoulé que l'hon. Bennett et ses collègues étaient à Ottawa, que, sachant que les conditions financières à travers tout le Canada s'étaient améliorées, ils décidèrent de mettre sur le marché de Londres un emprunt à courte échéance de $75,000,000.

Les sceptiques doutèrent de l'opportunité de cette manière d'agir, mais ce fut fait; et avec quel résultat? Les livres de souscriptions à Londres étaient à peine ouverts depuis une heure que pas moins de $400,000,000 furent souscrits pour l'emprunt de $75,000,000. Quelle remarquable évidence d'un renversement dans l'attitude de la Grande Bretagne! Peut-il y avoir une preuve plus convaincante de la confiance placée dans le gouvernement Bennett par Londres.

Il sera aussi rappelé qu'en 1934, des centaines de banques et compagnies américaines ont fermé leurs portes, laissant sur le pavé des millions d'Améri-

Vous Devez Confier Vos Intérêts à un Homme d'Affaires

Si vous aviez à confier à quelqu'un l'administration de votre terre, de votre magasin ou de toute autre entreprise qui vous appartient, à qui feriez-vous confiance? A un écrivain, à un rêveur, à un idéaliste? Non. Pour administrer vos affaires, vous choisiriez avant tout un homme d'affaires, un bon administrateur, pratique, sage, qui a le sens des affaires.

Les affaires du pays, immensément plus importantes que n'importe quel intérêt particulier, sont vos affaires; ce sont vos intérêts, c'est votre argent qui s'y administre. Le sort du pays est votre propre sort. Si sa structure économique sombre, vous sombreriez avec elle; si l'argent et les valeurs canadiennes croulaient, votre avoir croulerait dans la même proportion. C'est dire que vos intérêts nationaux ont une influence immédiate et directe sur vos intérêts privés.

Il est donc de la plus grande importance, surtout en ce moment critique de notre histoire, que la structure économique du pays soit confiée à un homme d'affaires.

Dans le monde nouveau qui se forge en ce moment, pour remplacer le monde terminé avec le krach de 1929, le problème spirituel et le problème social ont une importance capitale, mais le problème économique reste aussi au premier plan, et le moindre coup de barre défectueux peut occasionner une catastrophe irréparable.

Par les principes qu'il a énoncés depuis cinq ans et qu'il énonce durant la présente campagne électorale, M. Bennett prouve qu'il comprend parfaitement le problème spirituel tel qu'il se pose aujourd'hui.

Il a aussi prouvé qu'il comprend parfaitement le problème social tel qu'il se pose, par ses mémorables discours du mois de janvier à la radio, par les législations sociales qu'il a fait voter, par le magnifique programme de renouveau qu'il soumet présentement au peuple afin de compléter l'œuvre gigantesque qu'il a entreprise il y a cinq ans.

L'œuvre sociale de M. Bennett, appuyée sur des moyens nombreux et divers, vise à une solution unique: une meilleure répartition des profits de l'activité nationale, afin que chaque classe reçoive la pleine mesure de profit et de justice qui lui est due. Il y a des moyens de soulagement des classes trop chargées ou trop négligées, comme la réduction générale des taux d'intérêts, le concordat agricole, le crédit agricole, la protection des producteurs des villes et des campagnes par des tarifs salubres, les pensions de vieillesse, l'assurance-chômage, l'élimination de l'exploitation dans le commerce, la journée de huit heures, la semaine de quarante-huit heures et le congé hebdomadaire obligatoire pour l'ouvrier, etc., etc. Il y a, en plus, des moyens de meilleures possibilités, avec les nouveaux marchés extérieurs qui ont été conquis, la conservation de la structure financière du pays, la préservation d'une monnaie saine, la reprise complète du marché canadien qui avait passé aux mains des producteurs étrangers, etc., etc. Dans cette œuvre sociale, on ne saurait trop souligner la Loi ains qui avaient jusqu'alors, jout, dans une certaine mesure, d'une indépendance financière. Pendant ce temps, au Canada, aucune banque ou compagnie financière n'a fait faillite, dans aucune partie du Dominion; sans doute, nous devons en remercier l'administration Bennett. Cela n'est-il pas quelque chose dont le Canadien a droit d'être fier?

Jetant un nouveau coup d'oeil sur les conditions du commerce au Canada, il nous suffit de dire qu'au début de l'hiver dernier, le comité industriel de la Ligue des Nations à Genève a félicité le Canada en faisant remarquer que notre pays était le premier qui annonçait une amélioration marquée dans les affaires. Ceci était dû surtout aux traités et pactes que le Gouvernement Bennett a signés avec les pays de l'Empire à la conférence d'Ottawa.

l'organisation du Marché des Produits Naturels (Marketing Act), qui permet enfin à chaque classe de producteurs de s'organiser en corporation capable de contrôler son propre sort, de contrôler le marchandage de ses produits et d'éliminer les parasites et intermédiaires qui ont jusqu'ici tiré le meilleur du profit entre les producteurs et les consommateurs.

Dans le problème économique et financier, M. Bennett ne s'est pas montré moins grand et habile administrateur et homme d'Etat. Alors que, dans un pays riche comme les Etats-Unis, 4 800 banques faisaient faillite, alors que la plupart des autres pays perdaient leurs marchés, M. Bennett conquiert d'immenses marchés nouveaux pour le Canada (Empire britannique, traités avantageux avec la France, la Pologne, le Brésil, l'Allemagne, etc.) et gardait intacte une finance canadienne saine qui n'a pas fléchi ni bronché durant toute la crise, ce qui a maintenu au sommet le crédit du Canada dans le monde entier.

Il suffit de lire ce que disent de M. Bennett les plus grands observateurs étrangers pour se faire une idée de la valeur du premier ministre du Canada. Donnons quelques citations:

Extrait du rapport officiel de la Ligue des Nations, Genève, 1934: "Dans la reprise industrielle, le Canada est à la tête du monde entier."

Déclaration de M. Cordell Hull, Secrétaire d'Etat des Etats-Unis, juillet 1933: "La Conférence Internationale de Londres a été sauvée grâce à la sagacité et au génie politique de M. Bennett."

Déclaration de M. Pierre-Étienne Flandin, ex-premier ministre de France, aux fêtes de Cartier, 1934: "M. Bennett est une des grandes figures du monde politique internationale."

Déclaration de Lloyd George, chef du premier ministre d'Angleterre, automne 1934: "Les ministres d'Angleterre se sont fait rouler par M. Bennett, lors des négociations des accords d'Ottawa."

Article de la revue "France-Amerique", de Paris, avril 1935: "Le redressement économique est beaucoup plus prononcé au Canada que dans la plupart des autres pays." Statistiques de Babson, New York, 14 novembre 1934: "De tous les pays du monde, le Canada est l'un de ceux qui est sorti le plus vite de la crise."

Le colonel Ayer, la plus grande autorité économique d'Amérique, dans le bulletin du Cleveland Trust, 15 novembre 1934: "Le relèvement continue avec plus de progrès au Canada qu'aux Etats-Unis."

Voilà des témoignages impartiaux de l'étranger, venant de la part d'hommes et d'organisations mondialement connues. Jamais un chef politique canadien n'en reçut de semblables.

M. Bennett les a reçus parce qu'il est d'une envergure supérieure à la moyenne des grands hommes d'Etat, parce qu'il est un cerveau puissant, un homme aux vastes conceptions et au courage à tout épreuve et, par-dessus tout, un homme d'affaires excessivement habile.

—La Renaissance Canadienne.

Aujourd'hui le travail est augmenté dans toutes les parties du pays; les travaux de secours deviennent moins accablants et enfin, ce qui n'est pas la moindre des choses, le Canadien Pacifique et le Canadien National montrant un accroissement de recettes en comparaison avec un an ou deux, tandis que les revenus de toutes parts au Canada, sont plus élevés de mois en mois.

CONCLUSION JUSTE

Considérant tous ces faits qui doivent encourager le public canadien, quel que soit leur penchant politique, nous disons que Sir George Perley, le représentant du comté d'Argenteuil, avec ses collègues dans le gouvernement Bennett, a joué un rôle très important en contribuant à ramener le pays, malgré la dépression, à des conditions plus prospères.

Death of Well Known Lachute Resident

LATE JOHN M. CAMPBELL
After a comparatively short illness, John McArthur Campbell passed away at his home here last Tuesday evening. Deceased gentleman, who was 70 years of age, was born in Dalesville, son of the late John and Mrs. Campbell. Since youth he had shown a keen interest in the lumbering business, which he followed during his lifetime. In his earlier years he spent some time in the West, then returning East he operated numerous mills in the County of Argenteuil, and for the past 10 years owned a saw and grist mill in Lachute. In his younger days he took a great interest in sports, and was himself a fine athlete.

He was married in 1895 to Miss Sarah Black of Mabel, who survives, with two sons, Dave and Kenneth of Montreal, and two daughters, Doris of Montreal, and Mrs. (Dr.) Cassidy of Lewistown, Penn.; his mother, Mrs. Jno. Campbell of Dalesville, three sisters, Mrs. Geo. Murdock, Dalesville, Mrs. Jas. MacKenzie, Lachute Road; Mrs. H. Fuller, Le Pas, Man., also five brothers, Daniel R. and Peter C., of British Columbia; William Edward, formerly of Vancouver; Arthur, of Dalesville, and Stuart of Lachute.

The funeral took place in the United Church on Thursday afternoon, conducted by the Rev. W. B. Rosborough, assisted by the Rev. T. C. Cassidy, and was largely attended by many sympathizing friends and relatives. Interment was made in Lachute Cemetery.

Nonagenarian Resident Laid to Rest

LATE MRS. ROBT. DOIG IN 92nd. YEAR
There passed away on Sept. 29th. one of the oldest and most respected residents of this town, in the person of Mrs. Robert Doig Sr. She was in her 92nd. year, and was formerly Marion Fraser, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fraser of Lachute.

Mrs. Doig was of a quiet, retiring disposition, loved by all who knew her; possessed of a strong Christian faith, she was cheerful and always willing to do for others.

She leaves to mourn her loss two daughters—Mrs. D. Stalker and Mrs. Robt. Doig, also a daughter-in-law, Mrs. William Doig, all resident in this town; 13 grandchildren; 15 great grandchildren; three sisters—Mrs. John White and Mrs. Wm. Banford of Lachute, Mrs. (Dr.) Wm. Innis of Virginia, U.S.A.; and a brother, James K. Fraser, of Detroit, Mich.

The funeral was held at the home of Mr. D. Stalker, the service being conducted by the Rev. W. B. Rosborough of Lachute United Church. Many floral tributes testified to the love and esteem with which the deceased was regarded.

Death at Brownsburg

On the outskirts of Brownsburg, where he had resided for over three years with his family, Mr. Arthur Farnell Bloxham died Tuesday afternoon, in his 54th. year. He had retired to this section from Westmount on account of ill health, having formerly held a responsible position in the contractors' supply business for many years. The remains were taken to Montreal, funeral being held this afternoon at Wray's Undertaking Parlors, followed by interment at the Mount Royal Cemetery.

Mr. Bloxham was a native of Birmingham, having come from England to Canada 32 years ago. He was a member of the Anglican Church, and had made many friends during his residence in Brownsburg. His widow, two sons and a daughter remain to mourn his passing.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

School's Ahead. Snapshot When You Go.

In later years, when you are an alumnus, you will get your greatest enjoyment as you look back over the pictures you snapped at school.

WITH the opening of schools a new season arrives for snapshotting and what a paradise for the boy or girl who owns a camera.

Whether you go to a little country school with one room or a great university your opportunity for snapshotting is unlimited, providing you use your eyes and the proper amount of good judgment. Just as a newspaper reporter develops a "nose for news" just so you should develop an "eye for snapshots."

There are, of course, the obvious shots of the school building or buildings, as the case may be, and you will want them; but what about pictures of new classmates, teachers, old friends, baseball and football practice, the basketball team leaving for a game out of town and many other interesting story-telling pictures?

It doesn't make any difference what kind of a camera you have you can take pictures under certain conditions with a dollar box camera that, for record purposes, are about as good as those made with an expensive folding model.

Did you ever think of taking action pictures with a box camera? It can be done. Suppose you are sitting in the grandstand watching an exciting football or baseball game. You anticipate an exciting play—full of action. If the light is good and you are two hundred or more feet from the scene of action you will get your picture. At that distance, of course, your images will be small but an enlargement of the point of interest in the snapshot will give you a picture you will be proud to show to your friends.

When taking action pictures with a box camera don't snap the picture while the subject is whizzing directly across your line of vision. Always shoot at an angle of approximately 45 degrees.

For those who are not familiar with diaphragm openings and shutter speeds let me explain that a box camera opened to its largest "stop," or lens opening, is comparable to approximately f.11 on a folding camera and the shutter works at approximately 1/25 of a second.

If you are fortunate enough to own a camera with a fast lens and shutter, that is a different story. Suppose, for instance, that your camera has an f.6.3 or f.4.5 lens with shutter speeds up to 1/300 of a second. You are a fortunate person for you can get much closer to the scene of action. Open the diaphragm to its largest aperture, set your shutter speed at 1/100, 1/200 or 1/300, depending on the speed of the action and fire away.

In school you study and experiment to gain knowledge of your subject. The same system applies to snapshotting. Study your camera and experiment and you will find it will pay you profitable dividends in interesting, story-telling pictures that you will enjoy looking at for years to come.

OUR FINER CIVILIZATION

(Buffalo Courier-Express)

"Planes roar in army's first mass air attack," is another piece of evidence in the headlines that our civilization is much finer than that of bow-and-arrow days.

WIND SHIPS OF NOVA SCOTIA

Those who love a long fine curve in the hull of a boat would have delighted in the wind ships of Nova Scotia, which gave the province wide fame. During the years from 1840 to 1886 the industry of wooden shipbuilding was at its height in Nova Scotia, and the boats they built were renowned for their buoyancy, a quality which was often lacking in ships built elsewhere. The Nova Scotian shipbuilding industry began at Yarmouth in 1761. At the height of the shipbuilding era, 3,025 vessels, a tonnage of 558,911, were registered in Nova Scotia—1 1/4 tons of shipping per capita of the population, a larger holding than any other country in the world. Those splendid wooden ships, of great tonnage for the times, were constructed by local workmen in villages far removed from great cities.

The wooden fleet of Nova Scotia, manned by iron men, sailed on every ocean. Active and resourceful seamen were bred on the farms and trained in the ships. The tang of the sea permeates Nova Scotia, and from the sea the Bluenose breed have learned the largeness of vision, the freedom of thought and the spirit of adventurous daring that is so much a part of a maritime country. While the era of wooden ships has passed, the shipbuilders of Nova Scotia have not lost their cunning. The "Bluenose," queen of the Atlantic fishing fleet and the fastest fishing schooner in the world, was built in 1921 at Lunenburg. Finely constructed and appointed yachts and schooners are also being built at Shelburne and Mahone Bay.

Transmitting Speech by Wire Was Great Problem

The electric speaking telephone was invented by Alexander Graham Bell in 1875. The principle, as conceived by Bell at that time, was embodied in a pair of crude telephone instruments connected by about 100 feet of wire, by means of which speech sounds were transmitted from one room to another in a building in Boston, hearing being accomplished only with the greatest difficulty.

For many years before Bell's invention, writes a correspondent in the Indianapolis News, scientists and inventors had been striving to transmit speech electrically. They succeeded in transmitting musical sounds, but because they were dealing with "make-and-break" electrical current, they failed to transmit intelligible speech. The work of a German named Philipp Reis, one of the early experimenters with a "make-and-break" current, was subsequently brought forward in an attack upon the validity of Bell's patent, but the United States Circuit court said:

"A century of Reis would never have produced a speaking telephone by mere improvement in construction. Bell discovered a new art—that of transmitting speech by electricity."

In 1874 Bell and Elisha Gray were striving independently to invent a musical or harmonic telegraph which would enable several telegraph messages to be transmitted simultaneously over a single wire, and it was during the course of this work that Bell made his invention of the telephone.

Rome Erected Aqueduct for Mimic Sea Battles

A special aqueduct had to be built to care for the ancient Romans' mimic sea fights, according to a booklet issued by the Carnegie Institution, says a United Press correspondent.

When the Romans turned from chariot racing and gladiatorial contests to the new novelty of sea battles on enclosed lakes or flooded arenas, the Aqua Alsetina was built to bring enough additional water to float the ships.

Rival fleets were manned by criminals or prisoners of war. Frequently they fought until one side was exterminated amid the cheers of the bloodthirsty spectators.

The Aqua Alsetina was the seventh of the eleven great aqueducts which were built by the Romans during the five centuries that they ruled the ancient world. The first was started 312 years before Christ and the last completed about 226 A. D.

Visitors in Italy drive along the Appian Way for miles just outside Rome and see the ruins of the Aqua Appia, first Roman attempt to bring water to their city. It was modeled after underground sewers which had been discovered by the Romans some years earlier.

The "Virgins Aqueduct" was built in 19 B. C. to bring in needed waters for the expanding public baths which the Romans favored. These baths were much like a combination of present day Y. M. C. A. clubrooms rather than strictly bathing rooms.

BETTY'S GAME

"When I am out, I'm out,
And when I am in, I'm in",
Betty sings quite gaily,
With a little grin.

She's playing hide and seek
With her little dog,
Hopping in and out the stump,
Of a hollow log.

Spot is yapping, yapping,
Shaking soft brown ears,
Cannot find out where she goes,
When she disappears.

Claws the stump quite fiercely,
When Betty is inside.
While Betty laughs, delighted,
With the splendid place to hide.

HOMEWARD BOUND

The bears had disappeared and the campers were having breakfast. "Let's all give a reason for those bears being here, where bears have not been seen for years," spoke up Billy. "All right," said Uncle Ned "you give your reason first."

Billy began "Well—well—" "Aw—you and your wells", chimed in Dick, "How many wells would it take to make a river?"

"I was just getting my thinking cap settled, Dick, when you interrupted me and made me forget what I was going to say," said Billy, "now someone else will have to give their opinion first."

"I think," said Madge, "it is because so many people have left their farms for the city, and these farms have gone back to woods again and so the bears and wolves will keep coming closer all the time; this mother and her cubs have found their way out first."

"I think Madge is right," said Frances, "we found the ruins of an old log house at the edge of the woods and some straggling hollyhocks where there had once been a garden."

"Hurrah!" shouted Billy, "I've got it! The bears came here to gather hollyhocks."

"Silly," laughed the girls together. Uncle Ned's eyes twinkled. "What do you say, Dick?" he asked. "I think they were out to gather beech nuts," said Dick. "That is more like it," said Frances holding out her hands to Billy for some of the beechnuts which he was rattling in his pocket. "If the bears love beechnuts as much as I do, they would go a long way for them." Her words finished in a shriek and she dropped something from her hands, exclaiming "Billy! you horrid boy to put that slimy snail in my hand, instead of the beechnuts I was expecting." Billy lay rolling about on the ground helpless with laughter.

Uncle Ted had finished his breakfast and was now standing sniffing the air. "I think I can tell you what brought those bears here," he said, "there is a heavy bush fire up North, and the mother bear has brought her children to the lakeside for safety."

"Do you think the fire will get us, Uncle Ted?" cried Frances.

"It is too far away for that. We will have time for more fishing and bathing and all sorts of fun before it gets in this direction. But I hope the firefighters will have it beaten out before long. It is dreadful to see beautiful trees burned into shapeless black stumps. Wind and fire together certainly can ruin the beauty of any landscape."

"Oh, look at the deer under that big maple!" cried Frances suddenly, "What will we see next, I wonder."

"Wolves, I guess," said Dick. Madge shivered and turned towards the woods as though she expected to see a pack creeping up on them from behind.

"Shall we sleep here again tonight, Uncle?" she asked, rather nervously. "I think not," said Uncle Ted, "Madame Elizabeth is getting lonely for her garage. I know by the way she is sinking in to the ground, as if really down-hearted about things in general."

"I had not noticed the ground was soft in that particular spot. I shall have to move her." Getting inside, Uncle Ted started the engine. Madame Elizabeth made a great pretence of being in a hurry to depart, but only heaved about for a few times, then settled down into the ruts again. "That means that we must help her if we don't want to be marooned here for a week," laughed Uncle Ted.

"I love to be," cried Frances. "You would?" said Madge, looking at her in astonishment, "with bears and deer all around us. Frances you can't mean that?" "But I do," laughed Frances. "We are safe with Uncle Ted and anyway those bears and deer will be far away before night falls." "I am not so sure about that; I think this place is well named, Wild Wood Cove. It is beautiful though, I must admit," said Madge.

Uncle Ted and the boys had not been idle; rails had been brought to give Madame Elizabeth a "toe-hold", and Uncle Ted was in the car once more coaxing her to start. With great sputtering Madame Elizabeth crawled out of the ruts to higher land, and from there to a flat rock, where there would be no danger of her being mired in soft earth again.

As if someone, greatly amused at the proceedings, was watching from the opposite shore, the sound of weird, high pitched laughter floated over to them. Frances clutched Madge in sudden fright. "I am getting to be as nervous as you Madge", she said, "but who can be laughing so loudly over there?"

The boys were as much puzzled as the girls, until Uncle Ted, who had not heard the sound as he was busy examining Madame Elizabeth's insides, shut down the cover of the engine and came round the back of the car as the weird laughter rang out again. Seeing the children's puzzled faces he said, "It's only a loon, young folks, looking for his dinner over in the marshes. Perhaps he has caught Grandfather Frog and is calling to his mate to come and have a bite."

"She is accepting his invitation, I am sure. Listen to the laughing or shrieking over in that corner." With a flapping of wings a large bird suddenly rose up from the bay and winged its way to the spot from which the first sound had come, and the two loons settled down to enjoy their meal together.

THE WOMAN'S PAGE

Specially Written for Readers of The Watchman.
By JESSIE ALLEN BROWN

THE ENGLISH CONSTITUTION GROWS

Our Home and School Council are sponsoring a series of three lectures on the Constitution, Parliamentary Procedure, and so on. Among the interesting things we heard was the difference in American and English methods. When the Americans meet together to take common action the first thing they do is to form a constitution. The English have a different method. They start their organization working and after it has been going they make a constitution gradually to suit the conditions as it arises and when anything goes wrong it is a simple matter to change it.

AVOID TALKING ABOUT WORRYING TRIFLES

Once upon a time, I thought a woman should tell her husband all that went on about the home and with the children, but I have changed my mind on that score. I think that it is the woman's job to run the house and look after the children and to take care of the trivial difficulties herself without bothering her husband. No man who amounts to anything brings home all the little details in his business life that are a worry to him, and most of our difficulties are small, in the final estimate. Why should a woman expect a man to listen to all the trifling difficulties about her job? When it comes to important things both a man and woman may be better for talking things over and getting another opinion. A woman expects to choose and serve meals that will not irritate and disturb her husband's digestive system. Why should she feed him worries that will irritate his mind, any more than she would feed him irritating meals? When nothing can be done about a matter what is the use of talking it over and causing useless irritation. I do not mean that there should be a lack of frankness but I emphatically believe that a woman should look after her own job.

STOMACH DIGESTION

Our digestive system has two actions—voluntary and involuntary. It is mostly involuntary because after you have chewed and swallowed the food (which is a voluntary action), there is nothing you can do about it as it is purely involuntary. We may think that our stomachs remain quiet, yet they are in motion most of the time. The stomach has two motions. One is a series of contractions which moves the food slowly along from its entrance point to the pylorus, which is the opening from the stomach to the small intestine. In addition to this action, the stomach has a rolling action which churns the food about and mixes it thoroughly with the digestive juices. The digestion of food in the stomach is partly mechanical from the motion of the organ and partly chemical from the action of the digestive juices. Altogether it is a very marvelous process.

MIXED FRUITS

We are very fond of canned salad fruits as a dessert, so I tried an experiment which has turned out quite successfully. There was part of a basket of peaches and about the same quantity of pears. I cooked each separately, then put them together and added two cans of sliced pineapple, cutting each slice into 6 wedge-shaped pieces, and two bottles of marachino cherries. As lemon juice brings out the flavour of other fruits I added the juice of two lemons, brought the mixture to boiling point and put into sterilized sealers. It is quite a delicious mixture. The same thing could be done with your canned fruits which are already bottled if you wanted the mixture. Put the desired quantity together, bring to a boil and seal. It makes a pleasant change for winter use. Canned cherries could be used in place of the marachino at much less expense, but at a sacrifice of flavour.

CHOPPED MUSTARD PICKLE

2 quarts large cucumbers, 1 cauliflower, 4 green peppers, 1 quart large onions, put through chopper, let stand in salt and water overnight, using 1 cup salt to 2 cups boiling water. In morning drain and add 1/2 gal. vinegar, 8 cups sugar, 2 oz. mustard seed. Bring to a boil. Make a paste of 2/3 cup flour, 1/4 lb. mustard, 1/2 oz. turmeric and add slowly. Stir until it boils, then seal in sterilized bottles.

PEPPER PICKLE

1 large head cabbage, 6 onions, 9 green peppers, 9 red peppers, put through the grinder. Stir in 1/2 cup salt and let stand overnight. In morning drain well and add 3/4 cup mustard seed, 1 tablespoon celery seed, 1 quart white sugar, and cover with white wine vinegar. Let stand on the stove until sugar is melted but do not boil. Stir well and pour into sterilized jars. Seal. This recipe and the one above are ones that I like to make year after year as we think they are specially good

FAMILY RELATIONSHIPS

Family Relationships is a study that is being stressed at the present time by the Women's Institutes. In times of economic difficulties our homes play a very important part in keeping the proper perspective before us. The nation's problems are really solved first in our homes. Let us examine some home conditions, and point out the effects produced by them.

A boy, or girl, finishes school. He can get no work, or, if any some that does not interest him, and remuneration that will barely keep him, if it does that. If he goes home to a cheerless home, with continual nagging and grumbling, improperly cooked food served in a careless manner and without the necessary ingredients to keep him well, he is soon demoralized. He may land in the criminal court or become merely a disgruntled, undesirable citizen. On the other hand, if he goes to a home, no matter how humble, where it is tidy and cheerful, where someone is interested in him and his problems personally, where he is served attractive nourishing food, however simply—it inspires him to do his best. It helps him to feel that he has a place in the world, and will in time be in a better position and able to do good for others.

A different type of home is one where the mother does everything for her family, making them completely dependent on her for their physical care, and in many cases even for their opinions. How much better if she developed in them self-reliance and clear thinking, and had them look on her as an individual with interests of her own but working with them to make a comfortable home.

A father who considers that when he provides his family a comfortable living his obligations are fulfilled, has only accomplished part of his job. More important still is the moral influence he can exert on his children, his companionship, and his co-operation with the family. How different the attitude of a child who looks on his father as a source of understanding, than the one who must not bother Dad with his troubles.

These few examples give a little idea of some of the ground this subject covers. Any thought, study, or teaching to improve family conditions is very well repaid in the present, and also in the future when the children of today have their own homes.

FOUNDER OF WOMEN'S INSTITUTES TO BE HONORED

The Women's Institutes are to recognize the founder of the movement, Adelaide Hoodless, by setting apart an annual day, to be celebrated in honor of her and the first organized Institute, about thirty-eight years ago. It has been suggested that the February meeting of the Women's Institute be set apart for this purpose, when the programme may include a study of the origin, history and growth of the Institute movement.

The Institute of British Columbia are the first to adopt the plan, and to carry it successfully into effect in several of their Branches.

WASHINGTON, JUNE, 1936, GREAT TRIENNIAL CONFERENCE

It has been decided that the next Triennial Conference of Associated Country Women of the World, with whom the Federated Women's Institutes are affiliated, will be held in Washington, D.C., in June, 1936. It is the first time this world conference has been held on this side of the Atlantic and it is to be hoped that Canadian Women's Institutes will give it generous support. Plans are being made by Quebec and Ontario W. I. to entertain some of the international delegates following this conference. It is of interest to note that the President of the Associated Country Women of the World is Mrs. Alfred Watt, the Canadian woman who introduced Women's Institutes in England and Wales. The first President of this world association was Lady Aberdeen, who during her husband's tenure of office as Governor General of Canada, was keenly interested in Canadian activities.

Sign Posted Applan Way

History records the fact that the ancient Romans sign posted the Applan Way 2,000 years ago, according to the Automobile Club of Southern California. Some twenty centuries back, engineers of the Roman empire placed a milestone every 1,000 paces along the highways. Beyond 100 miles from Rome and in the provinces, these markers indicated the distance to the nearest principal town. The Applan Way is still traveled today.

"Little House of Divine Providence"

The "Little House of Divine Providence," a home for the sick and destitute—in Turin, Italy, is a monument to faith in humanity. It was started more than 100 years ago with four beds. It takes care of 10,000 inmates at a cost of more than $15,000 a week. Yet every cent that it has received in its history has been voluntarily deposited by benevolent souls in a money box stuck in the wall near its front door.—Freling Foster in Collier's Weekly.

"What a lot we will have to tell the others at school on Monday," exclaimed Frances. "But will they believe us? All these strange things that have happened, would sound decidedly fishy to me if I had not witnessed them all" said Frances. "We'll give an At Home" chuckled Dick, "and have Uncle Ted come and tell them the tale. They won't dispute his word, I am sure."

After their swim, they ate dinner and climbed again into Madame Elizabeth, who noisily climbed the slope from the lake, out to Feather Bed Lane and on to the highway which soon led them home. "Hey, Bill!" called Dick, as he and Madge climbed out at their own gate, "that was a great game of yours" "Game?" queried Bill. "Guess What!" called his friend, and ran to the house.

Next story—"The Naughty Rooster."

Lovingly, Aunt Jean.

The Week's Fashion News

Written Specially for The Lachute Watchman
By the Montreal "FASHION SCRIBE"

If you'll let "Fashion Scribe" have any say in the matter, you'll find that being out of Montreal does not mean being out of touch. The end of her pencil is simply quivering with news about fashion happenings . . . to tell you what's being worn, what shows indication of being worn, even what the newest ideas are in home furnishings and kitchen gadgets.

Montreal, Sept. 28. — At a dance the other night, there was much nudging and nodding at the appearance of a blithe young person in a velvet gown with a coiffure topped by a tiny cap. It looked at a distance like closely crocheted lace. A close-up view, however, yielded the fact that it was made of tiny pearl beads strung together in a way very reminiscent of the type of quaint headgear worn by Juliet of Shakespearean drama. Paris has been holding forth on the virtues of such caps with evening wear . . . but so far they have not been seized upon as a "mass" fashion. This type, and the metal-mesh "snood" worn low to envelope the whole back of the head, indicate that something decorating the coiffure is the vogue for parties. Feathers, flowers, bright clips . . . almost anything does, as long as it is becoming and suited to the type of frock it accompanies.

■ The modern woman is supposed to be able to do more things at once than her forbears. She can cook a whole dinner on the kitchen range while she is downtown shopping . . . thanks to the waterless cooker. She can learn a new recipe for a pudding, if the radio is on—while she is buttoning Junior into his new overcoat. The latest is . . . she can mix the cake batter with one hand and work her flour-sifter with the other. This new kitchen-help of a Sifter is so made that it sifts the flour twice too.

■ It beats all . . . the way people are inventing things like an egg beater that is also a lemon reamer. Yes, the one is easily converted to the other, using the same large covered glass jar for both operations.

■ What are the store windows saying? That Morgan's have a new group of sportswear fashions . . . those featured as Lucky Stripe Modes. That Holt Renfrew's seem to realize that the beginning of the rugby season calls for bright wool dresses to keep people snug under their fur coats. That Simpson's corner window with its evening dresses stressing draped lines is keyed to the new elegance. That Eaton's devoted much thought to the fact that Persian Lamb is the favored fur of the season . . . witness a big window display.

■ Have we mentioned the quantities of suede we have been seeing all over the place? Ever since the first hint of autumn, suede has been everywhere . . . in shoes and bags and gloves. The velvety look it has makes it look as warm and soft as a fur pelt, and that no doubt accounts for the way it has been "taken up" by so many smart people . . . it seems just right with velvets and the other materials that go so well with cooler weather.

■ Eye make-up . . . do you or don't you indulge? It sounds "extreme" to many people even to suggest the application of colour to eyelashes . . . and eyeshadow under the brows. If you are very modern as to beauty aids, you will however know that green eyeshadow and green eyelash make-up is being sponsored for blondes . . . and blue ditto for auburn-ites.

A United Canada

The best solution of our grave national problems

The Liberal party is the only responsible political group in the country capable of giving effect to a programme designed to meet adequately the pressing needs of Canada today. The Liberal party is assured of the fullest cooperation of the provinces . . . for the simple reason that eight of the nine are today enjoying the benefits of Liberal administrations. The fourteen planks of the Liberal platform represent the views of all members of the party and constitute a guarantee of national unity.

THE FOURTEEN PLANKS OF THE LIBERAL PLATFORM

1. A representative national commission for the purpose of administering relief funds and to find work for the unemployed; a system of national unemployment insurance.
2. Reciprocal treaties with other countries; the abolition of excessively high tariffs; the lowering of supplementary tariffs on imports; British preference.
3. Liberation of domestic trade and commerce by putting an end to the arbitrary control of prices and to agreements that are strangling business.
4. Reduction of the costs of production in our basic industries and the opening up of wider markets.
5. The control of credit by means of a national central bank.
6. A bureau for the control of investments to put an end to the exploitation of the public.
7. The maintenance of the national (railway) system as an independent public institution.
8. The introduction of the democratic principle into industry by according to the workers and to the public a larger voice in the control of industry.
9. The restoration of responsible Government and the repeal of all legislation enacted by the present administration which deprives Parliament of its control over expenditures and invest the executive with unwarranted arbitrary powers.
10. The restoration of individual liberty, freedom of speech and the right of public assembly by the repeal of Article 98 of the criminal code.
11. Electoral reform.
12. A balanced budget made possible by cutting public expenditures, reducing interest charges and taxes, and increasing revenues through the encouragement of trade and commerce.
13. Peace and friendliness in all international relations.
14. More equitable distribution of wealth, based on the belief that the individual is more sacred than property.

VOTE FOR KING

His party is the only political group today able to bring about national unity and restore to Canada normal economic conditions.

CENTRAL LIBERAL COMMITTEE, 10 St. James Street West, Montreal.

Valparaiso

Valparaiso is Spanish for Vale of Paradise. The chief seaport of Chile, it dates back to 1535. Immediately behind the shore the hills begin to rise, and the city, containing a quarter of a million persons, is built on these hillsides. On clear days Mount Aconcagua, the highest point on this hemisphere, may be seen towering above its Andean brothers. In Valparaiso women work as conductors on the street cars, which are double deckers. Santiago, the capital of Chile, is reached by train from the seaport. It is a combination of Paris and Madrid, and its site is second in beauty to that of Rio de Janeiro. Santa Lucia hill overlooks the entire city. In Santiago the women are extremely religious, while the men are inclined to agnosticism.

Tobacco Quality

Tobacco quality is related directly to the nitrogen content of the soil in which the "weed" is grown, the United States Bureau of Plant Industry has determined. The soil's nitrogen content must be high for quality cigars and low for quality cigarettes. Maryland tobacco, it was found, is lower in nicotine content than tobacco produced in other states.

Tribune d'Argenteuil, Local Liberal Organ, Makes Bad Job of Supporting Its Party

Disgusting Attitude Will Sway Sentiment to Sir George Perley Throws Discretion to the Winds

A regrettable factor in the election contests is the evidence of suspicion and cynicism toward our public men. The respect that should be shown is deplorably lacking, and in its stead there is a propensity to scoff—to discuss public questions in a spirit of mockery and public characters with the slur of insult.

An instance of this contemptible practice appears in last week's issue of the Tribune d'Argenteuil, which is now championing the Liberal cause. This paper started out in Argenteuil several years ago, with good prospects, but it fell into indifferent days. Printed in Hull, it has been sending a few copies into the county irregularly; but last week it enlarged its scope by a full front page of Liberal propaganda—in which we remark an article against Sir George Perley, Conservative candidate, the translation of which reads:

"One must respect old age. But just because we respect it, we do not want to see it in our public life, where old men are as useless and a hindrance to themselves as to their fellow citizens."

(One may here recall that the Liberal candidate himself is no youngster! Nevertheless we respect him as a gentleman and believe he is in no way responsible for attacks of this kind).

We cite this paragraph, not only as an instance of puerile argument, but also as illustration of a so-called newspaper descending to tactics of RANK DISRESPECT and SCURRILOUS JOURNALISM.

The Tribune plays noisily on the Ethiopian crisis as a threat to Canadian peace; it says—

"A vote for Messrs. Perley and Bennett is a vote which will send Canada to war" and further—

"What attitude will Sir George Perley take on conscription or Canada's participation in any war?—Bennett has declared he was not of the opinion Canada should participate in war UNLESS CANADA'S INTERESTS BECAME INVOLVED. What are these interests? For Mr. Bennett and Perley, imperialists, these may be interests which do not interest us very much—but which concern the Bordens, the Meighens, the Bennetts and the Perleys, who profit by wars to enrich their friends."

Ignorance here gives way to indiscretion. Statements of this kind are libelous and apt to prove costly to the publishers. But overlooking this last sentence, which displays the lowest grade of intellect, we would remark that the conscription cry is worn out; it is the babbling of infant minds, generally the tool of those who shun empire adherence because they do not know what it means.

Our anti-conscriptionists are anti-imperialists—but let them remember this fact: If Canada were not a unit in an empire, her boundaries would very soon be invaded by covetous powers; and if this Dominion were not a unit in an empire, neither Great Britain nor any other friendly power would have reason to lend a hand—and Canada, with her negligible military and naval strength would promptly lose her identity.

"Your paper is like a letter out West to some of our friends who were formerly residents of this section"—a district reader in submitting social items for publication in The Watchman.

210-lb. DEER SHOT IN AVOCA WOODS

Two young men of Lachute Mills, Ben and Harold Maiden, met with luck over the weekend while hunting in the district of Avoca. They shot a splendid specimen of deer weighing 210 lbs.; the animal was a handsome buck with a goodly spread of horns. The Maiden brothers carried their prize through the woods over three miles before they could secure the aid of a farmer, who with his horse brought the trophy out to the highway.

LUCKY FOR A WHILE (Brandon Daily Sun)

Some men are lucky. A Chicago chap went to jail for receiving relief under two names while earning $100 a month and drawing a war pension.

TRIBUNE D'ARGENTEUIL STRONGLY CRITICIZED

CORRESPONDENCE
Editor, The Watchman.

During the past two or three weeks I have received, gratis, copies of the "Argenteuil Tribune", which publication, I presume, was intended to be a newspaper of interest to French Canadians residing in the County of Argenteuil.

Not being particularly adept at either reading or writing in the French language I was not at first as interested in this paper as I might otherwise have been. However, after briefly scanning the contents of the last issue I was amazed to find that "The Tribune" had presumably become, for the time being, the official mouthpiece of the Liberal Party in the County of Argenteuil for the purpose of what is commonly termed "MUD SLINGING."

At the bottom of the front page in the issue referred to the following statement appears in bold type. "A vote cast for The Honorable R. B. Bennett and Sir Geo. H. Perley is a vote for Canada's entrance with England into the war between Italy and Ethiopia." I do not think that a statement of this sort should go unchallenged as it is both malicious and cowardly; the idea of course being to scare the electors to vote for the Liberal candidate.

PLANS TO MAINTAIN WINTER HIGHWAY

GIVEN AUTHORITY BY PARISH COUNCIL

The regular meeting of St. Jerusalem Parish Council was held on Monday, with the following members present—Mayor J. E. Walker, Councillors J. E. Armstrong, A. J. Scott, A. Nicholl, J. S. Pollock, J. G. Hadley and the Secretary, J. W. Gall.

After considerable routine business, discussion was heard and a motion advanced by Coun. Nicholl, seconded by Coun. Scott, that the Laurentian Roads Ltd., represented by Messrs. Geo. Y. Deacon and W. S. MacKimmie, be given permission to keep the Upper Lachute road open during the winter, they to assume all damage resulting from the keeping open of this road. The body which Messrs. Deacon and MacKimmie were present to represent, will comprise men of Lachute, Brownsburg and Grenville interested in maintaining transportation by road all winter, between Grenville and St.

HORRORS OF THE PAST —HAZARDS OF THE PRESENT

We read with horror recently an account of a form of punishment meted out to some criminals during the "dark" ages. The miscreant's arm was chained over a flame. When the wrist was roasted the hand was twisted off.

We have come a long way since then in our humanitarian development as human beings. We shudder to think of man's inhumanity to man, indicated in such tortuous punishment and in burning witches and others at the stake.

And yet for many years after such fiendish practices were abandoned men let other men, women and children roast to death through neglect.

This is Fire Prevention Week Let it stimulate our resolve to co-operate, year-round, with the Fire Department —by keeping our premises free of refuse and fire hazards.

By not doing anything about fire hazards men—until quite recently—were just as responsible, though indirectly, for torture by fire.

Precautionary measures and fire-proofing materials have made the work of firemen less dangerous and less heroic.

And yet every community owes a debt of gratitude to those men, volunteers or paid, who torture their lungs with smoke, risk falls from ladders, work through icy cold nights or too near hot flames, to save human life and property and jobs.

Here's to the man who stands ready at all times, to sacrifice his comfort, to risk his life, for the protection of your property and mine from destruction by fire.

Historic Old Building Being Renovated

By our Cushing Correspondent

The Stone Hall in Cushing, built in 1830 as a Methodist Church, has changed hands again. Recently the property of the late Frederick Cushing, later of the late Walter Cushing of Montreal, it has been purchased by Miss M. Douglas of Montreal and Cushing, who is having it repaired and redecorated, thus conferring a boon upon the community from a historical point of view as well as in other ways.

The Hall served the early Methodists for slightly over thirty years and is well situated overlooking the Ottawa. One can easily picture those early worshippers coming out from their service, still worshipping God in Nature as they looked up and down the vista of the Ottawa River.

Frontier W. I. Held Bird Contest for Children

Prizes were given last Tuesday evening in the Contest on "Birds of Canada" held by the Frontier Women's Institute. This contest was arranged with the purpose of interesting the children of the district in our Canadian birds and their usefulness. Quoting "Uncle Henry" of the Ottawa Farm Journal, "Birds were not created for beauty alone but to eat the insects and grubs which would otherwise destroy our crops." Uncle Henry makes a strong statement in the assertion that "were all bird life to be destroyed, then man would die too as the grubs and insects would destroy all food stuffs."

Quite a number of school children responded to the call for essays and bird-lists, and prizes were given to the following: (Continued on page 7)

"ENERGY INCREDIBLE" SAYS EGGLESTON, VIEWING BENNETT'S CAMPAIGN TOUR

Indecisive Result Will Mean National Government or New Election
Quebec and Ontario Hold the "Fate of Governments"

Ottawa, October 8.—As the campaign swings into the final stages the claims of all contestants grow louder and more confident, and in the hectic swirl of party propaganda it is next to impossible to see the real underlying trends. The strength of the Liberals seems to be the general impression that they have the best chance of forming a government; and that the alternative to them is a jumble of small parties, no one strong enough to set up a cabinet and get through a session of parliament.

An indecisive result means either a national government or a new election. The Liberals have said they will not combine with any other group. If Mackenzie King cannot form a government it is, of course, possible that a fusion of Conservatives, Stevensites and Social Credit candidates could form a majority in the new House. The strength of the Conservatives lies almost entirely in the dynamic personality of the prime minister, who has swept from coast to coast with energy almost incredible, especially in view of his heart condition in February. While showing at times more brutal force than finesse, on the whole it has been a magnificent effort, and, with better times and a few more cogent arguments, he might easily have counted on sweeping the country. It is still too soon to say that he will not, but if he does, he will confound many of the detached observers.

The Stevens party has appeared to rise and fall; and among some quarters at least, here at Ottawa, there is a feeling that it has hardly "taken

"Mr. King will have his work cut out, to convince the electorate that he is able to steer a better course than the one he followed when in power." —Montreal Gazette.

Jerome. The organization will be incorporated as the Laurentian Roads Limited, or under some similar name. It is understood their petition to the Chatham Council for this same purpose, was duly granted.

Various accounts were next presented and passed for payment.

The monthly report of work performed on the new construction of the North River road amounted to $1314.66; this was passed and ordered to be forwarded to the Provincial Roads Department.

Mr. Walker Dawson was named road and rural inspector to finish out the term of Mr. Conrad Laurin.

Every man has a responsibility toward his neighbors; he should permit no condition to exist on his premises that will invite the visitation of fire. This is Fire Prevention Week!

Nomination Day Opens Three-Party Contest as Stevens Candidate Bids For Honors

LINEMAN INJURED AS POLE CRASHED

An employee of the Gatineau Power Company, Leo Legault of Rivière à Simon, was badly injured when he fell 40 feet to the ground as a pole on which he was at work collapsed. The man suffered severe injuries to his back and was removed to a hospital in Montreal.

Legault was at work near Mont Rolland with other men, removing wires from a pole that was to be replaced because it was unsound. Legault was detaching the last wire from the pole before climbing down when the pole suddenly collapsed. The man, hanging to the top of the pole, was unable to save himself and crashed to the ground on his back. He was picked up by other workmen who summoned a doctor.

FORMER MAYOR OF HARRINGTON DEAD

MR. JAMES BENNETT WAS IN HIS 70th YEAR

The people of the Township of Harrington will regret the passing of Mr. James Bennett, one of its oldest and most respected citizens.

After five years of seafaring life Mr. Bennett settled in Harrington forty-six years ago. He took an ardent interest in municipal, educational and church affairs. Through his efforts, while holding office as Mayor, a good road was brought into the country. His interests were ever with the church. His strong, simple faith in God left a lasting impression on the community and those with whom he came in contact.

He is survived by his family of four daughters and five sons, Mrs. David McVicar, Grenville; Mrs. Earl Duffield, N.Y.; Mrs. Herman Johnston, Spenceville; Mrs. James B. MacGregor, Ottawa; Mr. Herbert and Mr. Geo. Bennett, Harrington; Mr. Gordon and Mr. Lloyd Bennett, Montreal; Mr. Harold Bennett, Los Angeles, Cal.

District Returning Officer Announces Liberal, Conservative and Reconstruction Entrants

Meetings are Well Attended

The rumors of a three-cornered fight were confirmed at the Nomination proceedings last Monday when Gaetan Valois, District Returning Officer, announced Messrs. Pierre-Albert-Arthur Fortin, Advocate, Louis-Lorenzo Legault, Advocate, and Rt. Hon. Sir George H. Perley as candidates for the Federal seat.

Lachute Auditorium was crowded to overflowing, a large number of ladies being present among the audience at the Joint Meeting.

Ex-Mayor Clement Tremblay was called on to preside over the meeting, which was most orderly throughout. Each party represented was allotted an hour and twenty minutes in which to make its appeal, and honors were well divided in their arguments. It was a controversial meeting in the true sense, with prominent speakers for their respective parties, all of whom received favorable hearing.

Sir George Perley, the first speaker, dealt with the highlights of the Bennett administration and what the Government had accomplished since coming to power in 1930. To the charge of Premier Bennett being a dictator, Sir George gave strong denial and paid tribute to the energy and wisdom displayed by the Premier, who had brought Canada so ably through the crisis of world depression. He praised the Conservative administration for putting into effect policies designed to help the industries of the country.

Mr. L. L. Legault, K.C., the Liberal candidate, followed by denouncing Premier Bennett's failure to keep his promise to end unemployment, stating that there were upwards of 500,000 now unemployed. "Think back to 1930 and of all the suffering you have experienced. If Bennett should be voted back again the next five years will be worse. His trade policies have contributed more than any other factor to the hardships and distress that Canadians have had to endure," he said.

Other speakers were Paul Lacoste, Chas. Edward Bertrand, Paul Vallee, Capt. Baudry, G. Mann and Mr. Munich.

The programme had been arranged before Mr. P. A. Fortin, the Stevens candidate, arrived and as no time had been allotted to him Sir George offered him 10 minutes of reply. Mr. Fortin then briefly expressed his thanks for candidacy.

OFFICERS IN PROTESTANT TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION

Many county teachers attended the 71st. annual convention of the Provl. Association of Protestant Teachers of Quebec, for which schools were closed on Thursday and Friday last.

Among the officers elected for the ensuing year are noted—Mr. C. L. Hall, principal of Lachute High School, as representative of high schools outside the Island of Montreal; Miss Ivy M. A. Graham of Verdun, honorary secretary, and Mr. J. W. Brunt, Westmount, honorary treasurer—both the latter being well known in this section. Various committees were appointed for specialized activity within the organization.

Many interesting talks were heard and discussions held during the sessions of the convention.

the subject, also presented the prizes in the W. I. Bird Essay Contest.

Mrs. R. McPhail and infant daughter are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Donaldson of Chaboro.

ST. ANDREWS EAST

Mrs. M. Yale visited friends in Montreal last week.

Mrs. Booy and Miss Booy spent Thursday in Montreal.

Miss Bessie Rodger spent the week-end at her home on Lachute Road.

Miss Mabel K. Simpson spent the week-end at the home of the Misses Hibbard.

The Misses Hooker spent Tuesday with friends in Lachute.

Mr. Dent Harrison showed moving pictures and gave a very interesting talk in the Town Hall on Saturday evening. While here, he was the guest of Mr. C. A. Pease.

Among those who went to Montreal to attend the 10th. Anniversary meetings of the United Church were Rev. J. Macaskill, Mr. C. A. Pease, Dr. B. N. Wales and Mr. A. Snowden.

Mrs. Coleman motored to Montreal on Sunday. Mr. Coleman returning with her to St. Andrews on Monday to spend some time here.

Miss Carson, Miss Morrison, Miss Morrin and Miss Leroy all attended the Teachers' Convention in Montreal last week, and the School was closed on Thursday and Friday.

The C. G. I. T. held its first meeting of the season on Sept. 20th in the United Church Hall.

The first part of the meeting took the form of a Memorial Service for Mrs. Macaskill, who was for so long a devoted and faithful leader for the group. The Leader's empty chair was draped in black and a bouquet of flowers was placed upon it. After a tribute of appreciation from the Assistant Leader, Miss Alice Hooker, a short poem entitled "In Memoriam" was read by Miss Janet Watson. The service closed with the singing of an appropriate hymn.

The C.G.I.T. officers for the coming year are: President, Freda Wales; Vice-President, Margaret Hamilton; Secretary, Monica Foley.

The group are fortunate enough to have Mrs. McColl for Leader and Miss Alice Hooker for Assistant Leader.

Ever since the termination of the Great War we have had to listen to the wailing and moaning of Liberal candidates throughout the Province of Quebec, telling us what they would not do in the event that Great Britain became involved in another war. It is hardly necessary for me to say that of all the nations of the world Great Britain stands supreme in her efforts to establish peace. We English speaking people know all too well the sufferings and privations that were endured throughout the last war; and furthermore, we have the utmost confidence in the sincerity and integrity of our statesmen to avoid a repetition of anything approaching the catastrophe of the years 1914-1918.

There is a saying "all the world loves a hero", which remark if applied in the opposite sense would read, "all the world loathes a coward". I am certain that we cannot apply the term coward to either The Honorable R. B. Bennett and Sir George H. Perley. During the Prime Minister's recent tour of the Western Provinces we have received ample proof of his fearlessness in dealing with hoodlums who gathered at his meetings with the expressed intention of upsetting things generally, but who met with no success whatsoever. The same fearless attitude has characterized the length and breadth of Mr. Bennett's whole parliamentary career; and no-one, not even the bitterest oppositionist, can truthfully say that he has ever attempted to avoid the responsibility of his important office.

Likewise with respect to Sir George Perley who has been our trusted representative for upwards of twenty years, during which time he has enjoyed the confidence of friend and foe alike. In no election has he resorted to cowardly tactics, such as the opposition have used and are still using, in order to hoodwink the electors. We know from experience that Sir George serves the people of his constituency without fear or favor, whether they be French or English speaking Canadians.

This is no time for "mud slinging" and it is high time that we used our franchise to rid Ottawa of all such scheming individuals and parties. At no time in the history of our Dominion are we more in need of representatives who are known to be beyond reproach. Therefore, before casting our vote let each one of us consider well the man who will represent us in the next House, and vote intelligently.

Yours truly,
ONE WHO SERVED.

HARVEST FESTIVAL SERVICE AT LOUISA

The Anglican Church at Louisa was beautifully decorated for the occasion of its Harvest Festival service on Sunday afternoon. A large congregation was in attendance, Rev. C. W. P. Baugh, assisted by Mr. H. G. Baugh, student minister, conducting the service. Rev. Baugh spoke particularly on the words from his text "Man doth not live by bread alone." The offering was devoted to the church budget.

Making History in Argenteuil

Extracted from the Files of

50 Years Ago.

Friday, Oct. 9, 1885

Our friends in the back townships, who usually receive their Watchman on Saturday, will please excuse us this week as we could not get our paper printed in time to catch the mail.

Much discussion is heard on the merit or ineffectiveness of vaccination, during the present small-pox epidemic in the district of Montreal.

The census of Lachute Town shows 1311 persons residing in the municipality. Taxable property is assessed at $454,647. Untaxable property $29,900.

Drafts of by-laws have been drawn up by a committee of the Town Council as follows: 1. By-law to preserve peace and good order in town. 2. By-law concerning offences against good morals and decency. 3. By-law concerning dogs. 4. By-law concerning public nuisances. 5. By-law for public bonds.

There will doubtless be a large gathering of the yeomanry of Argenteuil for the opening of the splendid new iron bridge at St. Andrews on Tuesday. The christening of same will be followed by fireworks in the evening. Our parliamentary members, Hon. J. J. C. Abbott and Wm. Owens, Esq., have been extended invitations.

25 Years Ago.

Friday, Oct. 7, 1910.

Mr. Gordon Hampton has returned from the West, where he spent a pleasant few weeks looking up many of the town boys.

Mrs. Parris and Mrs. Given were hostesses at a handkerchief shower and Mrs. T. Christie entertained at afternoon tea this week in honor of Miss Jessie Christie.

Miss Prime, who has been the guest of her mother, Mrs. Squires, for the past few weeks, has returned to New Orleans.

Mr. Bishop has just completed his new hall on Main Street and announces its formal opening on Oct. 13th. He has secured The Passion Play for that occasion. The hall will be known as the "Albert Hall", and Mr. Bishop has spared no pains in making it comfortable and attractive for his patrons.

Last issue of Renfrew Mercury states: It is doubtful if Canada can produce a better all-round horse judge than Mr. Geo. Hay of Lachute.

Brownsburg. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fletcher gave a party and dance last week.

Brownsburg. We would suggest that those responsible for the wretched conditions of the road between here and the Village of Lachute, be given a free trip over it in a springless rig.

hold' as effectively as at one time seemed possible. It goes without saying that the Reconstruction party will poll many votes. Perhaps it will poll a million votes. These will be scattered among 200 seats. Can it copy the Progressives of 1921 and elect 64 members; or will it go down under the handicap which our single-vote system imposes on the smaller parties, and fail to elect anything like the number its popular support would justify? Even sweep for Stevens cannot be dismissed; but a poll of the correspondents just before the election date shows that if he does, he will take the professional forecasters by complete surprise. Liberal headquarters, which had prepared large quantities of anti-Stevens literature for use in Quebec, decided at the last minute they did not need to use it. Of course they may be fooled. Time will tell.

The strength of the Stevens appeal lies not only in his denunciation of the 'fifty Big Shots', of deplorable wage conditions, of monopolies, trusts and mergers, but equally in the disgust of many Canadians at both the old parties, each of which has tried its hand at solving the problem of unemployment and the depression; neither of which was able to cope with it. Its weakness lies in the similarity of many of its planks to those of the major parties; and the fact that its leader, unlike Mr. Aberhart, for instance, has been a member of one of the old parties all his life.

The C.C.F. has been driven off the front page by Messrs. Stevens and Aberhart; but in Ontario, Saskatchewan and British Columbia it may make more of a stir than is generally expected. Mr. Woodsworth at least offers a variant from the others. Bennett, King, Stevens, Aberhart all stand for the maintenance of capitalism in one form or another. Mr. Woodsworth wants a new order of society based on a new principle. Those who honestly believe that capitalism is decadent and can no longer serve mankind can hardly vote for anyone but Mr. Woodsworth or the Communists; and as few Canadians are attracted by the Marxian philosophy, Mr. Woodsworth ought to pick up a substantial radical vote. To what extent this vote will be sufficiently concentrated to get him seats will be seen next week.

Ontario and Quebec hold the fate of governments in their grasp next Monday. If Ontario stays loyal to Mr. Bennett and Quebec avoids the 'solid bloc', Mr. Bennett's chances of staying off utter defeat will run high. If the Liberals can, as they think, win back Quebec and capture half the Ontario seats they are virtually assured of a clear majority in the next house. In both provinces the vital question arises: what will the Reconstruction and C.C.F. entries do? Will they beat both the old parties, or will they divide the opposition?

11 Georgia Editors on Federal Payroll

The Governor of Georgia has issued a list of 11 Georgia newspaper editors who, he said, were on the federal payroll with jobs "paying up to $10,000 a year."

Among them were "Harlee Branch, former writer for the Atlanta Journal, appointed assistant postmaster-general; Clark Howell, editor of the Atlanta Constitution, appointed member of the aviation commission with trip to Europe; Thos. J. Hamilton, editor of the Augusta Chronicle, Augusta postmaster; W. E. Page, part owner of the Columbus Enquirer, collector of internal revenue for Georgia; Henry T. McIntosh, editor of the Albany Herald, appointed on PWA board and later on a planning board."

In a speech at West Point, Ga., last week Talmadge said 23 "great big Georgia newspapermen have been given jobs by the Federal Government and you can see it reflected in the news and editorial columns." He said he would name the other 12 later.

Quebec Motorists Pay Out $10,000,000

The claim, constantly reiterated by motorists' organizations throughout Canada, that automobile owners are paying far more than their just share of taxation, is confirmed by figures released recently by the Provincial Treasurer of the Province of Quebec.

The total revenue of the province for the year 1934-35 amounted to $31,984,885, to which motorists contributed $5,506,096 for motor licenses and $5,506,519 for gasoline tax—a grand total of $11,012,615, representing an increase of $625,541 over the previous year or 34.4 per cent of the total revenue.

There were only 165,526 motor vehicles registered in the province of Quebec in 1934; therefore the individual motor owner paid on an average $66.53 in gasoline tax and registration fees. These cars were owned by 5.5 per cent of the population and this small percentage of the population of the province paid 34.4 per cent of the total revenue.

While the increase, in total revenue from these two taxes was $625,541, the number of cars registered only exceeded 1933-1934 registrations by 5,514.

EASTERN CANADA MOTOR SHOW IN NOVEMBER

Marking a new departure from the practice of previous years, the annual National Motor Show of Eastern Canada will open in the Sun Life Building, Montreal, November 23rd, instead of the usual January date.

This new move by the motor industry will signalize the start of perhaps the greatest experiment in co-operative employment—an industrial planning project undertaken by private capital and management with a view to levelling off the peaks and valleys of employment in a seasonal industry.

A Choice That Is Easy To Make

The Right Hon. R. B. Bennett
Prime Minister of Canada

The Political Debate in which the Canadian People have been participating for the last few weeks has now advanced to a point where the electorate can render a sane and well-founded judgment.

The Past :

We have on one hand the Bennett Government which has led Canada out of economic ruin; which has accomplished most important works; which, according to statistics of The League of Nations, has done better than any other Government whatsoever during the crisis; which has given to the Country more social reforms than all Governments combined since Confederation; which has placed Canada in the first place among the countries of the world in economic recovery; which has been open and generous to all classes affected by the depression; has opened to our products important and rich markets never before enjoyed by Canada; a government that has straightened out the National finances and against which no one has been able to whisper a word of scandal.

On the other hand, we find in Parliament, Political groups that have been forced to vote with the Bennett Government on all important measures; political groups that cannot criticize anything that Mr. Bennett has done, but who carp only at the energetic manner in which he has so rapidly put into force the program approved by the people; political groups that complain because at last we have a government that is a strong and jealous guardian of law and order; political groups that for the last five years have shown signs of nothing but negative purpose, passive opposition and unreasonable obstruction.

The Present and the Future :

We have, on the one hand, the Bennett Government that proposes to complete its program of social reform; to make available an easier and better credit for all National activities; to correct any errors and eliminate any abuses that may be found in the Capitalistic system; to appoint an Economic Council to solve the immediate and pressing problems that afflict our economic structure (exchange, credit, transport, natural resources, communications, commerce, industry, etc.); to absorb the youth of the Nation as it comes out of school; to protect and aid old age; to prevent our participation in any war where the very existence of Canada is not at stake; to assure to the working classes definite protection; to hasten the complete return of normal prosperity to agriculture; to open new markets and to sign further Commercial agreements on a basis of give and take.

On the other hand, we find political groups that ask for freedom of action for communism; that propose economic measures which would inevitably result in socialism; we find the liberal party whose chief can only criticize and has nothing to propose to the electorate, ever trusting to his politic of "laissez-faire", and thinking that things are going to improve by themselves without any intervention on the part of the government; other parties whose financial propositions would be enough to ruin Canada in a few months if they had the opportunity to put them into effect.

You know on which side you find good common sense, matter-of-fact reasoning, a clear vision of things as they are; a formula for recovery and action, a certitude of success and improvement, your security and protection; all these you find with the Bennett Government.

You know on which side are found the obstructionists, the dreamers, the dangerous formulas, the exaggerated and unreasonable projects, the revenue that has gone to different countries; these are all found in the different groups that make up the opposition.

Do not risk your future or the future of Canada

WHY FAVOR THE EDITORS!

IN COUNTRIES under dictatorships, notably Italy, Germany and the Soviet, it would appear that the press is muffled to suit the government. . . . In the State of Georgia, Governor Talmadge notes that 23 "great big Georgia newspapermen" have been given positions on the federal payroll, a circumstance which is reflected in the news and editorial columns.

—Have our neighbors at Washington found a better way of winning publicity?

SMALL-TOWN MINDS ARE NOT ALL RURAL

A CORRESPONDENT to the Ottawa Citizen, in discussing tariffs on merchandise between Ottawa and surrounding towns in a 25-mile belt, refers to the "small-town minds" of some people.

We might correct this writer on his mistaken impression. Small-town minds in many instances, including the example of Lachute, have been big enough to realize that inter-city tariffs get you nowhere, and it means a saving of time, temper and disrupted business to drop the matter completely.

There are probably more "small-town minds" in Ottawa than in all the rural hamlets in that same 25-mile area.

WHO SHALL VOTE?

THE GROWING sentiment that relief recipients should lose their civic franchise is reflected in an editorial by the Amherstburg Echo (Ont.), which newspaper was foremost with an outspoken suggestion on the subject. Says the Echo:

Judging from the number of newspapers that reproduced The Echo editorial suggestion that relief recipients should lose their franchise, and the favorable comments made, there is a general feeling that all relief recipients should be disfranchised during the period on which they are on relief. The argument upon which the editorial was based concluded as follows: "Relief recipients are not taxpayers. They are charges of the government. They have nothing to lose if the town goes into debt; they have no property; no money; no community spirit; no ambition. They should not be allowed to say whether a taxpayer has to add to his burden of debt nor should they have any say as to the personnel of the councils."

The argument has much in its favor but it is one of those arguments which cannot be drawn to a logical conclusion.

Relief is a concern not only municipal, but also provincial and federal; moreover, if the municipalities have their way, it will ultimately fall to Ottawa to both finance and administer this relief. The governments already pay their share toward relief; are the unemployed, in consequence, to lose their provincial and federal vote on the policies of government and the spending of public funds?

The relief recipient is a protegee of all the governments that contribute to this relief. If he buys so much as a box of matches, he is a taxpayer through excise. If he pays rent, indirectly he is a taxpayer through the assessed property

ON MONDAY NEXT the electors of this county will be faced with the responsibility of choosing one of three candidates to represent them at Ottawa. Just who it will be remains to be seen.

From time to time we have had occasion to refer to the important part played by our esteemed member, Sir George Perley, in the national affairs of the Dominion. It is not often given to members of the Federal House to play such an important role in public affairs—and to be accepted and acknowledged as one of the real leaders in our Federal administration. From Atlantic to Pacific, the press of this Dominion has referred flatteringly to the part which Sir George has played in matters concerning the progress and development of this country. He has never hesitated to take on the heaviest task as a member of the House of Commons or as a member of the Cabinet, when called upon to do so.

NOT ONLY THE ELECTORS of this county, but Canadians in general, recall that on many occasions he has taken upon himself leadership of the Conservative party, and has guided the ship of state during the absence of the Prime Minister when called away on important matters relative to national affairs. This, in itself, is clear evidence of the confidence which the Prime Minister has in Sir George Perley; it is an indication of the esteem in which he is held by the Cabinet—chosen men and public leaders. Indeed, there is no man in Parliament who is held in higher admiration, not only for his personal qualities but for his administrative ability.

The past session has shown up clearly Sir George's grasp, not only of the Canadian political situation, but of international matters that have come before parliament practically every day.

Sir George Perley has gone along leading the government with a clear mind, keen foresight, and with an understanding of what is best suited to the development of Canada. This in itself is no easy task, while entanglements are distracting the greatest minds in every country and continent.

ARGENTEUIL, through Sir George, has become a household word in this Dominion. Moreover, his work and reputation are topics for congratulation away beyond the bounds of this country. He is referred to as a model statesman, clear-headed and broad-minded. He plays no favoritism, but like Sir John A. MacDonald and Sir Wilfred Laurier, he has expressed the wish to see a united Canada of all nationalities, bonded together so that our people will live in harmony and understanding.

THIS IS THE RECORD of the man who again seeks the mandate to represent this county in the next parliament.

The policies of both the Bennett and King governments have been placed before the electors, the questions have been thrashed out in controversial and other meetings; followers of both sides have had ample time to consider the issues—and it is now up to the voters to decide upon the man of their choice.

Which will it be?

GOD GIVE US MEN!

By J. G. Holland

God give us men! A time like this demands Strong minds, great hearts, true faith and ready hands; Men whom the lust of office does not kill; Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy; Men who possess opinions and a will; Men who have honor and who will not lie; Men who can stand before a demagogue And damn his flatteries without winking! Tall men, sun-crowned, who live above the fog In public duty and in private thinking. For while the rabble, with their thumb-worn creeds, Their large professions and their little deeds, Mingle in selfish strife—lo! Freedom weeps, Wrong rules the land, and waiting Justice sleeps.

—Selected

of a landlord—and the merest taxpayer may expect a hearing and a vote . . . The jobless are judged today by the masses who shun employment, but their franchise cannot be lightly lifted on the assumption that all the workless are shirkers. Altogether the issue is too involved.

"For Mr. Bennett and Perley, imperialists, these may be interests which do not interest us very much", says the Tribune, organ of the Argenteuil Liberals.

We know of no better reasons than these, for supporting the common-sense ideals of Conservatism in this county.

In the heat of party conflict we are all of us liable to say things that are more vigorous than sensible, but even at our worst there is surely a duty upon us—the duty of sportsmanship and fair play.

We feel assured that citizens will resent this unwarrantable allusion to our representative, who at great personal sacrifice has devoted himself to the service of his country.

The Annual Meeting was held after the presentation of prizes. In her address the retiring President, Mrs. Cottingham, thanked the members and officers for their co-operation during her two years in office.

A vote of thanks was tendered the retiring President, and Vice-President, Mrs. A. A. McOrat, also to Mr. Cottingham for the use of his premises for the closing.

The Secretary Treasurer's report showed the Club to be in a flourishing condition, with a ladies' membership of thirty-six for 1935.

At the conclusion of the meeting, tea was served by the Social Committee.

Brighten up with ALL-BRAN!

You've had days when you've felt discouraged and low. Nothing seemed to go right. Frequently these dreary days can be traced to common constipation, due to lack of "bulk" in your meals.

This ailment may cause headaches and loss of energy. Correct it by eating a delicious cereal.

Laboratory research shows Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B and food-iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN resists digestion better than the fiber in fruits and vegetables. It is gentle, and often more effective. Isn't this natural food better than taking patent medicines—often harmful?

Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. With each meal, in chronic cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Brighten days with ALL-BRAN! Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

THE NAUGHTY ROOSTER

"Muriel, come quickly and see what Daddy brought home last night!"

Muriel had lingered longer than Bob at the breakfast table. She was a dreamy sort of little person and liked to eat slowly. As she heard her brother's excited call she hastily drank her cocoa.

Lingered just long enough to fold her napkin with the bunnies on it and set her chair just as carefully back against the wall, Muriel hurried out through the back entry to where Bob sat on the old rail fence watching something over by the well house. "Isn't he a peach!" he asked as Muriel climbed up on the fence and seated herself beside him. "Isn't who a peach?" she asked. "That big giant of a rooster there. Watch him strut around just as though he owned the world." "I never imagined there was a rooster as big as that, Bob. I'm sure he stands as high almost as Brindle's baby calf," exclaimed Muriel.

"He is just as black as the calf, anyway. What are we going to call him, Muriel?" "Isn't Rooster name enough for him, Bobbie?" "It's all right for just any kind of a rooster, but this is a special one, so he ought to have a name. I think Nigger would be a good name for him. See, he must have heard me and is coming over this way." "Nigger, Nigger, Nigger!" Bobbie called again.

The rooster came close to the fence and stood looking up at the children. "I wouldn't call him that," said the little girl. "I'm sure that he doesn't like it. He looks quite angry."

A great cackling amongst the hens attracted the rooster, who dashed off to see what it was all about, leaving Muriel and Bobby staring after him in surprise. "He sounds just like a horse running!" said Muriel.

"Then let's call him Dinkie after our wee colt!" Bobby said. "I think Old Nick suits him best!" said Cousin Ted who came along just then; he was spending a week-end at the farm. The children were not familiar enough with the meaning of the name to understand why Ted thought Old Nick suited the rooster; but the name appealed to them, so the big black rooster was christened Old Nick, with ceremonious proceedings.

Bobby stood on the barn steps with a handful of corn while Muriel held a can of water in her hands. "Chuck, chuck, chuck, chuck!" called Bobby gently.

Old Biddy Topknot came racing at their call, followed by Baldy, an old hen whose left toes had been nipped off in a rat trap. But for a time Old Nick pretended not to hear their call.

"Why won't he come?" Muriel asked crossly. "Rattle the corn in the dish, Bobby, like Daddy does when he wants to catch Floss in the pasture. Perhaps that will make him come."

The rattle of the corn must have decided Old Nick, as he wheeled suddenly and came running toward them. "Give him the water, Muriel, quick!" shouted Bobby, dropping some corn down in front of the big black rooster.

Splash, splash went the water over the bird's back, as Muriel chanted: "Old Nick, Old Nick, I'm naming you, You great big black old thing, When you are naughty I shall catch And hold you by your wing."

"SINGING LADY" CONTEST OFFERS SCOPE FOR NEW IDEAS

GENEROUS PRIZES TO BE AWARDED

The Kellogg Company is offering $10,000 in cash prizes to be awarded in one of the most unusual contests ever announced.

Very few Canadian children are not familiar with the voice of Irene Wicker in "The Singing Lady" program five nights a week. For more than five years she has been telling youngsters charming stories—stories which have won a juvenile audience beyond estimate.

Now she's searching for new ideas, and she wants the help of every parent. She wants plots for new stories, suggestions which can be used to improve her program; letters telling her the kind of stories that children like best; what type of characters they want for their heroes and heroines. For the best of these there are substantial cash prizes starting with a grand prize of $1,000, a second of $600, a third of $400, ten more prizes of $100 each, 20 more of $50 each and 1,000 prizes of $5 each.

Few radio programs have appealed to a larger or a more loyal audience than those of Kellogg's Singing Lady. Radio editors voted this program the best children's entertainment, and this year the Singing Lady received the Radio Stars' Award for distinguished service to radio.

Prizes will be awarded for the most helpful letters. Any one of three types can win: (1) a letter with ideas for new stories; (2) a letter telling what kind of stories children like best; (3) a letter giving constructive ideas for the Singing Lady programs. All suggestions become the property of the Kellogg Company. Put your grocer's name on your letter. If you win one of the big

When you lay eggs don't scream too loud. Don't scratch up all the seeds I'm planting in my garden, sir, Which lets it grow to weeds."

The rooster did not wait to hear the end of Muriel's song but dashed away shouting "See here! see here!" as loudly as he could.

"I don't think Old Nick liked your song," laughed Bobby, "and another thing, Muriel, roosters don't lay eggs; no wonder he was offended and ran away."

"His family do, so it's all the same thing," Muriel said, dropping the dipper at Bobby's feet. "If you don't like the way I christened your old rooster, you can christen him over again."

With a rush Muriel was off down the lane to meet Betty Brown who was coming to spend the afternoon with her.

Bobby picked up the dipper and carrying it to the dairy rinsed it in the running water and hung it on its peg "Girls are so easily upset," he murmured. Grandma Tucker, who came to visit them next week, was sitting the second afternoon rocking and knitting socks for their daddie, when Muriel came tumbling headlong through the open doorway and slammed the door behind her. "What is the matter, child?" Grandma Tucker asked, seeing Muriel's white frightened face.

"Old Nick was chasing me!" gasped Muriel, still breathless. "What!" cried her Grandma in surprise, looking a bit afraid herself. She thought Muriel must have taken leave of her senses. "I said that Old Nick was chasing me, Grannie," said the girl, going over to the window to look out.

Grannie Tucker followed, and with her soft hand brushed the hair back from Muriel's forehead. "It isn't fever," she murmured, "I guess I had better tell her mother. Lie down, dearie," she said coaxingly. "Grannie will go upstairs and get you some peppermints."

"But I don't want to lie down, Grannie, I'm going out to play just as soon as Old Nick has gone back to the barn." Grannie Tucker's lips quivered—she hurried off in search of Muriel's mother.

Muriel was just going out when they returned. Her mother cried out "Why, Muriel, Grannie told me you were ill."

"I did not tell Grannie that I was ill, Mummie!" Muriel said in a surprised voice. "Grannie" she said turning to look at the old lady who was watching her very closely. "No, dearie, you did not say that you were ill." Muriel looked surprised, then enquiringly at Grandma, "but you were talking about Old Nick—and I thought—"

Grannie Tucker did not get time to say what she thought, for Muriel was talking eagerly. "He did chase me, Mummie." And she told how the new rooster had flapped his wings at her bare legs. "The mean thing," she concluded. "Old Nick—a rooster!" exclaimed Grannie, sitting down in her chair. Muriel and her mother joined in her laughter.

WAINWRIGHT PAGING MR. RIPLEY

We do not vouch for it as true—but as told to us we tell it to you.

The Wainwright Star says: "Some years ago Mr. William Holt, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Holt, of the Battle Heights area, moved from that district and went to work in the lumber camps of Duncaster, B. C. During the present summer holidays, the school grounds at the Battle Heights school was newly fenced with posts bought from one of the Wainwright lumber yards. A few days later Mrs. Holt was walking around the grounds, and found one of the fence posts was inscribed with her son's name, 'William Holt, Duncaster, B.C. 1931', also his former Irish address where the family used to live before coming to this district."

REAL CHARITY

There are some very wonderful people in this world. A woman who does a good deal of visiting for the charity work of her Ladies' Aid found a case which aroused her compassion. It was a woman who was carrying on bravely though so crippled with rheumatism that she spent her whole life either in bed or in a wheel chair. Somehow she managed to do most of her work and keep the place remarkably clean. Over a period of years this charitable woman as gone every Friday afternoon and baked for the woman in the wheel-chair. She says that the gratitude that she has received has more than balanced all the complaints and the disappointments that she has met in the rest of her work. The attitude of too many is that they have a right to everything that is being done for them, so that it is a pleasure to meet some one who is truly grateful. This woman is a busy woman as she has a family of her own to care for, and there are not many who would so faithfully and continuously give of their own time and strength for years.

A CHANGED METHOD OF LIVING

A man who occasionally comes to my door to sell me something, remarked that he was a different man. He said that in the last year he had eaten no meat and lived chiefly on fruits, vegetables and dairy products. He said that he felt much more active. All the credit was given to the change in diet. He was over-weight and had taken off twenty-five pounds; instead of working on an average of sixteen hours a day, he took time off for recreation; and he walked at least five miles a day rather than driving. Yet he gave all the credit for his improved condition to the change in diet. Diet can do wonders but it is not the only consideration. Any over-weight person who will take off twenty-five pounds and will walk five miles a day, will naturally feel more active and better for it. The increased quantity of fruits and vegetables and dairy products will be good for any person but I cannot think it necessary to live on them exclusively.

THE DISCIPLINE OF ROUTINE

Discipline is a word which finds favour with educationists these days. For a while discipline was thrown to the winds and freedom was the thing most talked about. The pendulum has swung and now the ideal is a judicious mixture of discipline and freedom. The greatest freedom can be developed by discipline — the discipline of routine. It takes hard work to establish a routine with children but once established, life is a lot easier for all concerned. We all know that a baby that is fed on time, goes to sleep, or perhaps I should say goes to bed at a certain time, is a much easier baby to look after. The same holds true with the older child. If a definite routine of meals, play, work and sleep can be established, the house will run as if on wheels. It will save endless discussions on such burning subjects as, 'do I have to get washed', or 'can't I stay in just ten minutes longer'. Each time we let them have the extra ten minutes we make it harder to establish the fixed routine. There are times when rules are made to be broken but a mother will make life much easier for all concerned if she succeeds in establishing the discipline of routine.

A ROTARY EGG-BEATER

The egg beater has many uses besides that of the original business of beating eggs. Any mixture which has curdled such as a custard sauce or a salad dressing may be put together again by beating. Sometimes mixtures such as sauces thickened with flour may be lumpy, a vigorous beating will make them smooth. Corn-starch puddings may have been cooked at too high a temperature or not stirred at the proper moment and instead of being smooth may be unpleasantly lumpy. There again the egg-beater will save the day.

RICE DE LUXE

Boil $\frac{1}{2}$ cup rice in salted water until tender. Put in strainer and run cold water through it. Drain. Whip 1 cup cream, add five tablespoons crushed pineapple, fold into rice and sweeten to taste. Put into sherbet glasses and chill.

DREAM CAKES

Rub $\frac{1}{2}$ cup butter into 1 cup flour. When mixed pat into a cake tin about 8" by 8". Bake in a moderate oven of 375 degrees, until slightly browned. When cool spread with the following—2 eggs well-beaten, $\frac{1}{4}$ cups brown sugar, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup chopped walnuts, 1 cup coconut, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 teaspoon baking powder. Return to the oven and bake in a slow oven of 325 degrees until browned. Cut in strips when cool.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE WORK IN NEW ZEALAND

Continuous and sustained development has been the history of the Women's Institutes in far away New Zealand, the last year being no exception to the rule of progress. The increase in the number of Branches has been the reason for the forming of several new Federations, of which there are now twenty-seven in the country, these being administered by a central Dominion Executive committee. There are now eight hundred and thirty-one Institutes in New Zealand, and the result of these rural organizations upon the educational and social life of the communities where they are organized is almost incalculable.

In Quebec, Children Forgot Use of English

Ten-year-old Edmund Robert and his eight-year-old sister Noella, of Albany, N.Y., are hard at work in their school room these days learning to speak English. They lived with an aunt in Princeville, Que., for the past five years, attended a French school and spoke French with the rest of the children. This summer they returned home, could not speak English, and Armand Robert, their father, had to act as interpreter for them.

Seven sisters of Rose Marie Hannetta acted as her bridesmaids the other day in Boston.

Catherine Cook (Cushing School) first in the Essay contest; Elizabeth Burke and Gladys Donaldson, equal for second place (Chatboro School); Beatrice Barron, third (Stonefield School); Eleanor Hutchins of Brownsburg and Gertrude Wilson of North River receiving books donated by Mr. J. S. Giles of Lachute who, with Mr. R. A. Giles, judged the essays. First, second and third prize winners in the bird-listing contest were Mabel Beattie, Robert Bradford and Glenys Bradford of North River School, with Rhoda Bradford a close fourth, receiving a prize donated by Mrs. A. Graham. Others sending in bird-lists are named according to their rank: Muriel Villeneuve, Billy Loughren, of Stonefield School. Ellen Chambers, Jas. Chambers and Clover Cox, of Chatboro. All children received a small reward of merit, and the Frontier Women's Institute members express the hope that their interest in birds will not end here but that they will endeavour always to make the lives of our birds safer and happier.

The entries were corrected with a list furnished by Mr. Lewis of the Divn. of National Parks, Ottawa, who advised that the Bird-listing contest should cover only the birds of Argenteuil, inasmuch as listing the birds of Canada would be a task too heavy for children in Grade 4 and under. The list furnished by Mr. Lewis appears on the Children's Page opposite.

DULSE — A QUESTIONABLE DELICACY

My friend Charlie was a Scotchman. Although I have known Charlie for a number of years there are a lot of things about him which I have never been able to comprehend. He has a fair knowledge of English but will never be able to pronounce it properly, hence I have trouble in understanding him most of the time. This, of course, isn't Charlie's fault. It just happens that I speak English and he doesn't.

The other day, when I called on Charlie, I found him seated in his private office eating large chunks of stuff which looked like dried tobacco leaves.

He asked me to sample some. I did, very gingerly. It tasted—and smelt—like nothing I had ever met with before.

"What is it?" I asked. "Dulse," answered Charlie, with a wide grin.

"What's dulse?" I asked. "Seaweed," he answered.

At first I thought Charlie was kidding. But I soon discovered he wasn't. When I thought of the seaweed I had eaten I became faintly ill.

Looking dulse up in the dictionary I found it described as an edible seaweed having bright red, deeply divided, fronds. It was cooked, so I learned, by twisting around on tongs fired to red-heat. The Gaelic name for it was dulseas, and the Welsh call it delysg.

Lots of Scots, and Maritimers, I am told, consider dulse quite a delicacy. Which, as far as I'm concerned, explains a lot. People who eat seaweed can't be expected to be, well... the same as people who don't eat seaweed.

So, from now on, whenever there is anything about Charlie that I find more incomprehensible than usual, I'll think of him eating bright red seaweed which has been twisted on a red-hot iron—then I'll say to myself: "No wonder!"

The Week's Fashion News

By the Montreal "FASHION SCRIBE"

If you'll let "Fashion Scribe" have any say in the matter, you'll find that being out of Montreal does not mean being out of touch. The end of her pencil is simply quivering with news about fashion happenings... to tell you what's being worn, what shows indication of being worn, even what the newest ideas are in home furnishings and kitchen gadgets.

Montreal, October 5.—Rah! Rah! Rugby! Last Saturday thousands of throats grew hoarse with shouting as the score mounted to 9-7 and the Red and White triumphed over the Queen's Tri-colour. The first rugby games always bring out the first furs—in abundance. Several new looking coats made the eyes of fashion reporters glisten. 'Tis said a leopard never changes his spots—but one appeared to have done so, with a more lavish sprinkling of rakish markings than usual. This is the effect often given new lapin (or rabbit) coats. The garment admired had a stand up collar that was squared off at front in little-girl fashion. Several Persian lamb-trimmed coats proved that this much-talked-of fur is coming to the fore as predicted. One all Persian lamb coat was cut in loose flowing swaggar style, three-quarter length.

Anyone unacquainted with the fact that children are admitted to Eaton's Knitting Classes would have gaped at the youthfulness of the throng congregated there last Saturday. It looked like a boarding school assembly, and every finger flew. We caught the glitter of cellophane woven through one seemingly popular wool... and other wools in the process of being clicked into new sweaters and scarfs were boucles, deeper tones and heavier than summer types.

Dance orchestras are tuning up for the season... and new evening jewelry is rapidly being transferred from store counters to the necks of fair charmers. A new vogue is the "collar" with four strands of large graduated pearls tied on with contrasting velvet ribbon. There are bracelets that match. Rhinestones everywhere... in the hair... as twin clips, bracelets, earrings... are an unailing recipe for party-time glamour.

Shoes are not always as they seem. You view them going trip-tripping down Sherbrooke street... the leather apparently dressed up with many rows of military braids. But fabric braid wouldn't stand up under wear, you think, and look closer. It turns out that the "braid" is really strips of stitched down contrasting leather. This is just another phase of the fashion for everything military.

If you have some bathing towelling you don't know what to do with, try an ensemble like this. Cut strips and fit them over leather soles, and other strips for over the toes. Presto, bedroom slippers! The same material runs up colorfully into bathrobes, and business-like looking bags—some to carry toilet articles, the larger bags for laundry.

Political Rally in Hawkesbury Ends in Battle

Fighting broke out at a meeting in Hawkesbury last Monday among supporters of Louis Auger, Independent Liberal candidate in Prescott constituency. After police had quelled the combatants inside the building, several private fights were continued outside the hall. No one was reported seriously injured.

It was a quarrel among supporters of Auger on the "best way" the candidate should finish a verbal skirmish with Reeve Ovila Labelle, of Hawkesbury. Auger had read a letter he said Labelle wrote him when Auger was elected to Parliament in 1926. The letter asked for a favor which he had granted, Auger said, asking Labelle if he would identify the signature. Labelle, seated on the platform, refused to verify the writing.

A section of the audience crowded the platform, with most of the women threatening Labelle, and most of the men urging Auger to make some retaliation upon Labelle. Arguments arose; fists began to fly; in the midst of it all Auger drove off in a car and Labelle did likewise.

The Right Honourable W. L. Mackenzie King belongs to that same school of political thought that gave to England, Gladstone - - - and to Canada Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

HEIR TO A GREAT TRADITION

Hon. Mackenzie King's record as a leader, his policies, his grasp of national problems derive from those whose names have been written large in the annals of statesmanship. To the glorious traditions of the Liberal party, Mr. King is the natural heir.

Through a lifetime of study, he has prepared himself for the task he is now called upon to shoulder; to tireless labour and studious application may be largely attributed the brilliant career that is his.

Mr. King is a man of the highest moral and intellectual integrity - - - to whom intolerance is a thing unknown. Deeply sensible of the virtues of this democratic principle, he appreciates the need for the freest possible discussion of our grave national problems and solicits the help of all responsible men in their study and solution.

Mr. King believes wholeheartedly in reform - - - but reform through the safe, sane process of evolution.

His thoughtful attitude towards the problems of the hour stands in striking contrast to the recent outbursts of the Conservative leader who has governed this country for five long years in defiance of his Cabinet and without regard to the wishes of the people of this country.

The Tory regime has pushed this country to the brink of dictatorship . . . clamping the heavy hand of the state on our sources of production.

The Conservative government had no respect for the rights of this province and sought to control industry through autocratic methods.

No government could possibly carry out the promises and reforms made by the leader of the Conservative party, because they fail to serve the needs of the country and the welfare of its people.

Vote for the Liberal party! The liberal programme safeguards the freedom of Commerce and Industry and protects the rights of the individual provinces, in this country.

VOTE FOR KING

His party is the only political group today able to bring about national unity and restore to Canada normal economic conditions.

Triumph For County Cons. Candidate While Fellow Parliamentarians Lost Heavily

LOCAL VICTORY STRAIGHT TRIBUTE TO RECORD OF SIR GEORGE PERLEY

Third Party Polled a Negligible Vote

On Monday last the Canadian electorate were called upon, for the eighteenth time since Confederation, to decide as to which party and which leader should guide the ship of state.

For the last five years Premier R. B. Bennett has been the pilot, ably navigating his craft through troublous seas. But by an overwhelming majority the electors have decided on a change and the Rt. Hon. MacKenzie King is entrusted with the powers of government. With Liberals, Conservatives, Reconstructionists, Co-operative Commonwealth, and Social Credit parties in the field great confusion has confronted the public, these groups having earnestly striven to advocate their causes; but it is notable that the country at large swung back to the two-party lines, passing a decisive vote for a change—a mandate and a majority which gives the Liberal Party no possible excuse for non-fulfilment of the program they have laid down.

Once again Rt. Hon. Sir Geo. H. Perley has been returned as the honored member for Argenteuil. It must be a matter of keen satisfaction to him that he did not suffer the fate of so many of his colleagues, and that he will remain in the House to lend support to his leader, Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett.

As expected in this constituency, the Stevens candidate, did little to disrupt the regular division of voting, so that the conflict ranged virtually between the two remaining candidates, Sir George Perley, Conservative, and his Liberal opponent, Mr. L. L. Legault, K.C.

The election returns for Argenteuil are given on page four.

Bennett Accepts Defeat

Premier Bennett in a statement issued at Ottawa noted the decisiveness of the anti-government sweep but also that many candidates had been elected by a minority vote.

"The Liberal party," Mr. Bennett said, "has been entrusted with the responsibility of governing Canada. I wish them well. Although the electors have expressed their dissatisfaction with the services I have been able to render to Canada, I still regard it as a high privilege to have given my best to the Dominion during the past five years."

In the 1930 election, 95 per cent of eligible voters in Argenteuil recorded their votes. It was the largest percentage of any constituency in the Dominion. This year, however, the percentage was not so high; the complete records are not available at the time of writing.

It is interesting to observe that the six polls in Lachute aggregated a majority of 12 votes for Mr. Legault. The outside divisions ceded the victory to Sir George Perley, and there were only small variations in local returns as compared with the 1930 figures. One exception was Calumet, where two polls reversed Mr. Legault's substantial majority of 1930 in favor of Sir George. In Huberdeau Mr. Legault made a substantial gain on his previous majority.

REPORTED IN PAINFUL CONDITION AS RESULT OF STREET FIGHT

Constable Osias Pagé of Grenville is in the Notre Dame hospital, Hawkesbury, in a battered condition as the result of a street fight Monday evening in which he was knocked unconscious. He is suffering from head injuries, a broken right leg, facial lacerations and severe bruises.

Constable Pagé's assailant, it is reported, was Herbert Larose, laborer of Grenville. The constable had taken in charge two young boys, one the son of Larose, and the other named Tassé, for stealing a purse from a young lady at the church bazaar in Dansereau's Hall. The young miscreants snatched the purse and ran outside. Removing the money and contents they hid the purse.

Constable Pagé was called and took the lads in charge. He was removing them to the town jail when he encountered Larose. When the constable met him on the street it is alleged that Larose kicked him, the constable struck back and a fight ensued.

SUGGESTIONS SENT TO PREMIER TASCHEREAU

It is learned that the Honorable L. A. Taschereau has promised to bring before his Government for careful consideration the letter referred to in The Watchman of 12th. Sept. (pages 1 and 5) concerning storage and control of waters in some of the medium-sized lakes in this Province.

The following is a copy of the letter, approved unanimously by the Township Council of Grenville and Augmentation, containing constructive suggestions, and on the approved advice of the Mayor it was conveyed for consideration by the County Council on 11th. September, when it was also unanimously approved by that body and used as the basis for the communication submitted to the Premier.

The Hon. L. A. Taschereau
Premier of Quebec,
Sir:

In full sympathy with your policy of trying to get useful work done where public money is spent for relief of the needy unemployed, this Resolution of our Council is to be sent you, respectfully suggesting that

St. Simeon's Choir at Lakefield

Nearly 100 people filled the beautiful Holy Trinity Church at Lakefield, Sunday afternoon, for a special service with the choir of St. Simeon's, Lachute, in attendance. The entire service was conducted by the student minister, Mr. H. G. Baugh, in the unavoidable absence of the incumbent, and of the guest speaker invited for the occasion. Mr. Baugh spoke on the text, "Delight thou in the Lord, and He shall give thee thy heart's desire,"—Psalms 34, v. 4.

The choir rendered special hymns, and during the taking of the offertory sang "Praise my soul, the King of Heaven." Mr. C. L. Hall of Lachute acted as organist. The offering was devoted toward the church budget.

PRODUCED IN CANADA EXHIBITION IN MONTREAL SHORTLY

Largest annual exhibition in Canada devoted exclusively to the display of Canadian products, the eighth National Produced in Canada Exhibition, will be held in Montreal, November 6-16. Departments of the Government of the Province of Quebec and leading Canadian industries will be represented, the increased demand for space at this year's show being regarded as a strong indication of improved business conditions in Canada generally. Educational and industrial displays will occupy two floors in the Sun Life Building, one of the largest buildings in the British Empire. Highlights of the exhibition will be lavish industrial exhibits by leading Canadian companies, including an extensive chemical display in which chemistry's contribution to the home is fully outlined, an art gallery

ELECTION RESULTS WERE FLASHED ON LOCAL SCREEN

Election returns as reported from the county polls were flashed on the Rex Theatre screen periodically during Monday evening's program. The results were furnished by the Watchman Office, which was linked in turn with the Canadian Press, through Montreal Gazette. The Canadian Press gave running reports by radio from all sections of the Dominion, commencing at 6.10 p.m. as the first results drifted in from Maritime sections.

'Twas a Great Day for St. Andrews

NEW BRIDGE PROJECT RECALLS OPENING OF IRON STRUCTURE HALF A CENTURY AGO

An advertisement in this issue calls for Tenders for the construction of a cement bridge at St. Andrews East.

Watchman files reveal that it is just 50 years since the iron bridge at St. Andrews was completed by the Dominion Bridge Company at a cost approximately $9,500, and thrown open to the public.

It was no mean ceremony, this opening of a "magnificent Bridge unsurpassed in the whole Province". The Band played the "Old Folks' Quick Step" and "Old Black Joe"—nor was the band to be underrated, for "the Argenteuil Rangers must feel exceedingly proud to think they have such a fine band; we consider they are not surpassed by any country Band in the Province."—So says The Watchman (Oct. 16, 1885).

Mutual admiration added to the enthusiasm and detracted little from the dignity of this occasion.—If the old iron bridge could voice its recollections!

Geo. Simpson, Esq., Mayor of St. Andrews Parish, opposite whose store the gathering first assembled—announced to the large crowd present that the name of the Bridge was Victoria Bridge. Miss Aggie Simpson; W. Owens, Esq., M.P.P.; L. Lyman, Esq.; and A. Bell, Esq., acted as sponsors (—the gathering has now approached the bridge), and Miss Simpson in her usual graceful manner pulled the silken cord and christened the Bridge by breaking Champagne on it. (Ho-hum; it takes an ocean liner nowadays to command such extravagance!)

Speeches appropriate to the occasion were made in the Town Hall, the weather being inclement. One of the oldest residents of the Parish, D. Dewar, Esq., gave an account of the Bridge over to this date... A. Bell, Esq., considered this the best Bridge of its kind in Canada; the only repairs it would require would be the flooring which would need to be renewed from time to time. (Here the Band played another selection). M. Wanless, Esq., contractor for the stone work, considered he had saved the Parish much expense although not making a fortune himself. "The Wall is 6 ft. 9 in. at the bottom, tapering to 5 feet at the top; both bridge and pier will doubtless last longer than any person in this room could think of."

A letter is read from Hon. J. J. C. Abbott, and speeches given by notables including W. Owens, Esq., M.P.P., and others. The occasion is climaxed by a fireworks display and a banquet at the Hotel of L. Sauvé, Esq.—at which many toasts are proposed, and "mine host" is last but not least to be complimented on the excellence of his dinner.

Duties Await New Government . . . Dominion Finances . . . Trade Relations, U.S. and Japan . . . Dominion and Provincial Problems

"THE OTTAWA SPOTLIGHT"

Ottawa, Oct. 16.—The Eighteenth Parliament since Confederation takes office at a time when the national problems are numerous and grave; and the new government will have plenty to do. Swift decisive action is needed on many matters. A session of parliament will be called at an early date; but the need of drawing up a legislative program and attending to urgent matters may defer this until after the New Year.

The formation of a cabinet is always the first duty of a government. Where there is a complete swing and the old government is defeated there is always more of a problem, of course, since a government which is sustained usually carries on with the nucleus of the cabinet with which it went to the country, merely adding or changing here or there to make the ministry truly national, representing all provinces if possible; or providing seats for those prospective members who have been defeated at the polls.

One of the more important

DISTRICT DELEGATES AMONG OFFICERS ELECTED

DIOCESAN COUNCIL OF ANGLICAN YOUNG PEOPLE'S

The annual conference of the Diocesan Council of the Anglican Young People's Association met in Montreal on Saturday last. Delegates assembled from Montreal, Eastern Townships, Portneuf, Lachine, Arundel, Calumet and Lachute.

The conference opened at 8 a.m. with a celebration of the Holy Communion at the Church of St. Columba, Rev. N. Peterson being the celebrant. Breakfast being served, the delegates met in the parish hall for routine business and the election of officers. It is pleasing to note that three of the officers for the ensuing year were chosen from St. Andrews Deanery, viz Mr. John Owen of Arundel, president; Mr. Gerald Taylor of Lachute, vice-president of the arch-deaconry of St. Andrews and Clarendon; and the Rev. K. N. Brueton of Grenville, Chaplain.

The first item of importance at the afternoon session was the installation of officers by the retiring chaplain, Rev. E. S. Reed of Cowansville. This took

NEW YORK MARRIAGE OF INTEREST HERE

BRYCE — MOSELEY

The marriage of Miss Gladys Moseley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Moseley of Brownsburg, to Major Francis Bryce, O.B.E., of Hamilton, Bermuda, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Bryce of Devonshire, England, took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Megear, in New York City, on October 11. Rev. Dr. Saxon officiated.

The bride was given in marriage by Mr. Megear. She wore a princess gown of dull white satin and silver lame. The skirt was draped to form a train, and her hat matching her gown was fashioned in turban style. She carried a sheaf of calla lilies. Miss Annie Pearl Johnson, of Thetford Mines, Que., was the bride's only attendant. She wore a gown of hyacinth blue velvet with a corsage of orchids. Mr. Lansing MacVicker, of Long Island, was best man. The bride's traveling costume was a navy blue tailored suit with antelope accessories, and she wore silver fox furs. Major and Mrs. Bryce will reside in Hamilton, Bermuda.

Married at the Capital

ROGERS — ROBERTSON

A very pretty wedding ceremony took place at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McGill, Ottawa, Tuesday afternoon Oct. 8th, at two o'clock, when Miss Anna Marjorie Herbert, younger daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. Herbert Robertson, was united in marriage to Mr. Benjamin Edgar Rogers of Montreal, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Rogers of Lachute.

Rev. Dr. T. J. Thompson, minister of the Glebe United Church, officiated and the wedding music was effectively played by Miss Dorothy Thomas. During the signing of the register Mrs. Roby Brown Selleck sang sweetly "Because". The bridal party stood before

TRAGIC DEATH OF WIDOW LADY, RESIDENT OF ST. HERMAS

Inquest Postponed Until Saturday

Mrs. Joseph Cyr, of St. Hermas, 58 year old widow, was the victim of a highway fatality five miles east of Lachute on the Montreal highway Saturday night and her 18-year-old daughter, Antoinette, suffered severe shock following a crash between an express wagon in which they were riding and a gasoline truck driven by Jérémie R. Forget, 45, of Ste. Scholastique, Champlain Oil agent. The truck driver did not stop, but was overtaken at St. Hermas by H. Crepeau, lawyer of Montreal, who came upon the scene of the mishap on his way to a political gathering here.

Mrs. Cyr had been selling eggs and supplies in the town and was on her way home to St. Hermas. The truck driver was also going eastwards toward Ste. Scholastique when, it is reported, he ran into the rear of the express. The two injured were brought to Dr. L. P. Sauvé for treatment by René Laurin of Lachute who also drove them back to their home. The older woman was unconscious, suffering from a fracture of the skull to which she succumbed that night. Reports indicate that the younger woman shows little improvement.

Dr. J. R. Brais, of St. Jerome, coroner for the district of Terrebonne, made enquiry into the circumstances but set the inquest back till after the funeral. The inquest was opened yesterday.

There were conflicting reports as to whether the horse-drawn vehicle was lighted. Observers in Lachute who had seen the woman during the day said that the express was equipped with a lantern. Mrs. Cyr was well known around Lachute having sold farm produce here for many years. The horse was killed by the impact and the vehicle was a mass of wreckage.

Wagon Was Unlighted

At the inquiry held yesterday it was established that Mrs. Cyr carried a lamp on her rig, but that it was unlighted at the time of the accident. Over a dozen witnesses were heard at the inquest held at the home of H. P. Cyr, brother-in-law of the victim. Miss Antoinette Cyr could give little information as to the circumstances. Mr. Gannon of Montreal, considered the most important witness, was absent, and the inquest was consequently postponed until Saturday afternoon awaiting his evidence. Dr. Antonio Pagé of St. Hermas was coroner over the enquete.

Mrs. Cyr was a widow and leaves a family of five or six children. The funeral was held on Tuesday morning from St. Hermas Church.

Forget was released, with instructions to appear at the inquest.

Miss Elizabeth Wales has accepted a position on the teaching staff of Knowlton Academy.

The Reading Circle met at the home of Mrs. W. J. Pitcairn on Monday evening.

CUSHING

Mrs. Irving Fuller and son, Donald, are spending a week in Verdun with her sisters, the Misses Bryerton.

Miss Dorothy Weir, of Montreal, was the week-end guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Weir.

Miss Margaret Canning, of Aylwin, Que., spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Canning.

The Misses Bryerton, also Mr. A. Bryerton of Verdun, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bryerton of Carillon.

Mrs. E. Poole, of St. Laurent, spent the week-end with her sister, Mrs. W. Villeneuve of Carillon.

Mrs. F. Douglas and Miss Mildred, of Montreal, were the guests of Mr. B. Noyes the latter part of last week.

Mrs. D. Byrne spent the greater part of last week in Montreal, the guest of Mrs. Milway.

Mrs. G. Burton, of Montreal, was a Sunday guest of the Misses Cleland.

Mr. and Mrs. Thorpe and family, of Montreal, spent the week-end at their riverside cottage.

Miss Dorothy Holmes, of N. D. G., was the week-end guest of Mrs. C. Cooke.

The Misses Cleland are spending the greater part of this week in Montreal.

Mrs. A. Graham and Mrs. J. W. Maclean attended the annual Fall Convention of the W. C. T. U., which was held in St. Andrew's Church, Westmount, this week. Mrs. Graham also attended the first monthly meeting of the season of the Canadian Authors' Association, which was held at the Ritz Carlton with Miss Finlay of New York as guest speaker. Her subject was Musical Compositions and the Lyric.

Mrs. S. Kinnaird and daughters, of Hawkesbury, were week-end guests of Miss Annie Weir. Mrs. Drysdale, who has been spending the past month as her guest, has returned to Montreal.

CUSHING WEST

Miss Dorothy Weir was home from Montreal for the week-end.

Mr. A. C. Pinkerton visited his parents here on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Hartley and son, Kenneth, occupied their cottage over the week-end.

Mrs. Lindley Kerr and little daughters, Jean and Helen, spent the week with friends in Montreal.

Misses Grace and Katie Whelehan, and Messrs. Charlie Kelly and Eddie Whelehan, of Montreal, spent the week-end here. Mr. and Mrs. S. Whelehan also spent Sunday at their residence here.

Miss Tessie Robert, of Monalea, arrived home last week, having spent the summer with relatives at Forest Hills, L. I.

Mr. W. H. Robert and Miss Whelehan motored to the city on Friday.

Mrs. S. O. Hartley will be the hostess at the monthly meeting of St. Mungo's Ladies' Aid on Thursday afternoon of this week.

Messrs. F. Keatley and Ted Knox, of Ottawa, were motor guests of the former's mother, Mrs. Usher, on Sunday.

Mrs. Usher arrived home on Sunday after an absence of three weeks, during which she visited friends in Ottawa, Belleville and Pittsburg, Pa. On her trip by motor to the latter place she was accompanied by her son, Mr. Franklin Keatley of Ottawa, and her daughter, Mrs. Geo. Wishart of Belleville, Ont.

The poll for this district was held at the residence of Miss C. L. White instead of at Greece's Point school as heretofore. An unusually heavy vote was recorded, as almost every voter on the list turned out. Another unusual feature was that the majority went to the Liberals, Mr. Legault leading by twelve votes. The Reconstructionist candidate received six, which was a fair average considering the result in the rest of the country. An individual claiming to be a representative of Sir Geo. Perley appeared in the poll and insisted on examining the ballots during the counting after closing, but as he had no written authority to show he was given the "bum's rush" with the unanimous consent of those present.

tention is the state of affairs between Canada and Japan. While earlier negotiations came to a cul-de-sac, there have been indications that with a sensible handling of the matter on both sides, an agreement can be concluded which, without, exposing Canadian manufacturers to unfair competition from Japanese goods, will ensure the continuation of large sales to that country of Canadian wheat, lumber, fish, paper and other products. Both countries seem to need the trade; and the basis for a satisfactory arrangement seems to be already there.

CANADA'S FINANCES

The finances of the country, while in better state than they were, demand the immediate attention of the new government. The minister of finance has been empowered by parliament to conduct extensive re-funding operations; and as soon as the money market is favorable, there is no doubt that large maturing issues will be refunded at a lower rate of interest. With a continuation of the higher level of business which has been apparent lately, the national revenue should go on showing an improvement; and while another deficit on the present fiscal year is inevitable, it should be much smaller than in the past four years; and in any event it will be confined to special expenditures and the Canadian Railway deficit. On ordinary account there should be a few millions surplus. The taxation rate is so high now that any further revival of business should serve to bring in many millions additional to the federal treasury.

The program of social legislation launched last session needs a good deal of attention before it can serve the people as was intended; and the co-operation of the provinces will be needed if it is to survive an appeal to the courts. This in turn suggests the immediate need of a conference between the Dominion and provinces to provide

The British Army Officer and the Chief Radio Operator leaned across the rail of the deck, taking an intensive look at those pointed outlines of battlements that reached up into the sky over the historical old city of Quebec.

"Atop of the world, it seems—three hundred feet or more above that waterline!" remarked the Operator.

Without answering his companion, Austin Churchill, took a further look in the direction, thinking, "Up there, somewhere, is my illusive quarry and in all probability is already making his observations."

"Yes," he again heard the Operator speaking—answering belatedly his last remark made just before coming out on to the deck. "You're right, sir, there is a lot of intensely human interest in wireless messages—for, as you know, they're not used excepting in matters of importance and expediency."

In another few minutes they would dock.

"I'd better go in and get duds together," remarked Austin abstractedly to his new friend of the ship's wireless, as he sauntered off after a polite hand-grip, and "see you again."

Colonel Austin Churchill had talked considerably with the chap on the way over, for Williams, the operator and his wireless facilities, had fitted nicely into his every-day requirements, as it happened, in a way more than ordinary. And he had, through him and the Operator of that other wireless, received much that was informative in messages from that other boat that had run ahead of them all the way over, until the definite assurance had at last come, and there was no further need. His spotter had kept well on to the trail as, two days before, he had transmitted to him the definite certainty of the man's identity, in the message: "Don Marquis here okay."

And "Don Marquis", as they had specifically named him, was at that very moment, as his pursuers suspected, already making his observations and more—above that great rock cliff hundreds of feet high at a point from which he could, if he wished, be looking down on them as they were looking up to him.

Immediately after registering the name "Robert Gulliver" at the office of the palatial Chateau, the newly arrived Ober Lieutenant had gone out. Deliberately, and casually, he strolled along, deep in thought, apparently; and he was.

"What matters anything! What is anything!" he declared, and questioned himself resignedly, every little while ending up with a deep sigh. Any sympathetic observer could see at once that he was in trouble.

He had not been able to shake himself free from what had happened a few days before sailing, when the lovely Fraulein Ulmer had rejected him as a suitor for her hand in marriage. The affair had attached itself irrevocably to his imagination. And this business that he was about now, was his one alternative to forgetfulness. In his despair he had consented to undertake it for his Fatherland. He would go through with it, he decided; although it was not in accordance with what his mother would have wished had she been alive. His conscience bothered him somewhat, for his home life had been a method of getting along in these social problems while the basis is being laid for the amendment of the British North America Act.

THE WHEAT PROBLEM

The wheat problem is also less acute than it was, but the stocks on hand are still very heavy; and although the war scares overseas and the drought better than some. And then, his mother had had English blood in her veins.

"Strange," he thought, "that I should be doing this—and in Canada."

For some reason unknown to himself, some lines of Julian Huxley's creation in verse, persisted in running through his head: "Ego—I am the self that cannot die"; Energy, "I am ail destruction, all creation"; Time—"I am eternal time, you see my ageless face"; Space—"I am the vast of space that provides resistance"; Super-ego—"Without me you were only dust. By my fierce imperative I drag you up and make you live!"

"I drag you up and make you live," he repeated in a whisper several times, thinking deeply.

He had come to one of the highest points of the Citadel's fortifications, overlooking the quaint historical city of ancient churches, and the sign of the Chien d'Or, with its wonderful vistas to far stretching distances. Immediately below were the irregular short, hilly streets that zig-zag here and there in lattice pattern, and mostly named for the different Saints. Over their pebbly surfaces, calèches rattled to the click-click tune of iron-shod old white Dobbins. Everything else from this view-point of the city seemed to be settling down. A hushed drowsiness whispered from beneath those many shingled roofs. A bat, and one belated swallow flew by. Over in another direction, nestled Sillery Cove, the ancient Mission of the Jesuits. And in another direction across the bay, was Pointe Lévis.

A few gulls circled over the water in full view. The broad expanse of river was dotted with boats of all sizes and kinds, some sending spirals of smoke against the blue of the sky. Steeples of ancient churches and typical styles of architecture met his eyes pleasantly, for they all spoke of Time and its Doings. And, more than anything he had ever seen in all his travels, Lieutenant Goering thought, those long sweeps of hills and their surrounding atmosphere reminded him of the pictures he had seen of Gethsemane. "What a spot this would be for just such another enactment!" he thought as he stood entranced. There were those far stretching valleys that rise up to evenly formed hills, usually over-hazed with mellow splendors of the setting sun at a certain time of the evening; and from the darkening blue of the crypt seemed to come echoes of his own thoughts. Thoughts that in one moment, like a flash of lightning had turned all of his Ego into a Symphony of understanding and decision—he had changed his mind.

"This is the greatest moment of my life's career!" he declared to himself with a dramatic swing of his arm and closed fist through the air, indicating a decisiveness that was final—and as if performing a striking act that had as much resistance in it as force.

"What matters all else! Therein is the ultimate!" My super-ego says, "I drag you up, and make you live."—So be it! Then should I cause my fellow-man to die—even in the name of patriotism? No! . . . Neither will I!—Patriotism, in itself, is but a name—a false, selfish, brutal thing, man made. The world should be our home! Patriotism, as has been said, is never so much love for one's own country, as it is a childish hatred of another country, and stimulated by a play on the emotions. The great English scholar, Dr. Johnson, defined the word as meaning: "The last refuge of a scoundrel." . . . Jesus is said to have made the

Tale of Heroic Achievement Marks C. P. R.'s 50th Anniversary

Craigellachie Day, November 7, next marks the fiftieth anniversary of the driving of the last spike, final completion of the Canadian Pacific line from Montreal to Vancouver and the final consummation of Canadian Confederation. Arrangements are now being made for its fitting celebration so that Canadian Pacific people and the country in general may be reminded of the part this Company has played in national development.

It is particularly fitting that the Company's jubilee year should be marked by the appearance of an important book bearing on its history and the new volume by J. Murray Gibbon, whose picture is shown above, will be the more welcome on that account. It is entitled "Steel of Empire" and apart from its special interest to Canadian Pacific people as a most complete and interesting history of their own Company, it is so comprehensive and fascinating a tale of the discovery and development of Canada that it will make a strong appeal to all who are interested in this country. It is published by the Bobbs Merrill Company in the United States and by McClelland & Stewart in Canada and appears as an extremely handsome volume. Sixteen full color illustrations and over two hundred in black and white help carry the interest throughout, aided by a series of explanatory maps. It sells at $2.50 a copy. Despite its wide range of information and the vast amount of reading and research that clearly has gone into its making, it is full of human interest and is an absorbing record of the human desires and ambitions that have become the foundation stones of Canadian nationality.

History of the Canadian Pacific as it may be, it is a fascinating and important book long before the author gets around to that great institution. The early history of transportation by trail and canoe is told with a wealth of chatty incident and in the light readable style that one would expect from this accomplished author.

Mr. Gibbon very largely ignores the common-place history book stories of early settlement and lays before us new incidents and hitherto neglected movements that led to the exploration and final conquering of the Canadian wilderness. Thus, he recalls that in the time of Queen Anne the new demand for tea and the tremendous vogue for Chinese porcelain and for Chinese house decorations turned merchant eyes towards the Orient and sharpened the desire to find the North West passage. In a large sense the book is the story of the search for and the ultimate building of a new road to the Pacific. The fur trade, gold discoveries and ultimately the opening up of the country as a land for settlement each played their big part in the development of Canada, but it was the search for the road to the "East" that drew adventurous pioneer souls forward until Canada had become a Dominion and the Canadian Pacific Railway had been built.

50 Years Ago.

Friday, October 16, 1885.

The weather for the past few days has been stormy and cold. The trees are almost bare of foliage.

It is our painful duty to announce the death of Archibald McQuat, son of Mr. Wm. McQuat of Thomas' Gore who died from that fell disease, the small-pox. It is supposed that Archy caught the disease by rooming with a person from Montreal in whose family the disease had been. This was the only case of small-pox in Lachute.

New bonds placed on the English market by the Quebec Central Railway have been negotiated in London on most favorable terms.

In Kansas the farmers are chopping down walnut trees and selling the wood for fuel at $5 a cord.

The magnificent new iron bridge at St. Andrews, considered "the best structure of its kind in Canada", was opened with spectacular ceremony on Tuesday last.

25 Years Ago.

Miss McQuat of Renfrew, Ont., is the guest of her brother, Mr. Thos. McQuat, this week. Mr. Fraser McQuat of Casselman also paid a flying visit to his home.

Social item.—Any person wanting young Ayrshire heifers and calves, apply Jas. S. Boyd, Mile End Grove.

McFaul Brothers are through with their season's cut of some 75,000 logs. They have yet about 90,000 logs in the river which they were unable to get down.

Mr. Felix Paquette wishes to inform the public that he can supply the public with all kinds of Fresh Fish and Oysters.

Former residents coming back to Lachute will look with surprise at the transformation that has taken place on the store of Mr. J. R. McQuat, which is now occupied by the Provincial Bank. The interior is of real chestnut, the work having been executed by Messrs. O. B. Lafleur & Son.

Dr. Arthur Stackhouse is moving to Montreal, having rented the house of Mr. Chabot, manager of the Lachute Electric Light Co.

STORAGE AND CONTROL OF LAKE WATERS

such men be employed on the Construction or Renewal of Storage Dams on the more convenient lakes of medium size emptying into the smaller rivers, running through the better-settled valleys, preferably between the Gatineau and St. Maurice rivers.

For instance, there are a couple of lakes near the headwaters of the Maskinonge River (a tributary of the Rouge) on which dams were renewed by the Canadian International Paper Co. (but not maintained by them).

If these and other such lakes, on similar cut-over forest lands, in that and other parts of the Rouge and other valleys in this Province, were also dammed and controlled by the Quebec Streams Commission, so as to "reduce the peak of the floods" if only a few feet, for a week or two in April, and again in May, damage now done to farmers' lands and public roads would be prevented, and the latter could be properly repaired and maintained, mostly on their present sites, at less cost than now; after which tourist and commercial travel would be encouraged, and saved many a dollar, with time and healthy pleasure gained.

As for the cost of constructing, or in some cases only repairing those many small storages, much of relief money could be spent during slack seasons each year, till prosperity returns, and would likely be approved by the tax-payers as being a "gain all round" with the work being done in several scattered places, using much of the material needed in the rough form and near at hand, instead of costly materials and machinery from a distance, as would be if for two or three large storages.

Though "shore-rights" on some lakes might be harmed a little by storage in Summer and ruary and March, nor again in April and May when stored for a week or so in each of those months to prevent flooding of farm lands and public roads; and the cost of maintaining those dams could likely be provided from a yearly tax, levied equitably on those chiefly benefited.

Hoping this letter may prove helpful in these trying times,

We remain, Sir,

Yours Respectfully . . .

Whither is The World Heading?

A TIMELY QUESTION AND AN APPEAL

It has been well said that where a man stands does not matter so much as the direction in which he is moving. Every one of us is liable to make grievous mistakes and the best of us have grievous faults; but allowance will be made for these if only we are moving in the right direction.

The direction in which the ocean tide is moving is far more important than that of the separate blustering waves. The same truth applies also, no doubt, to the many world movements going on around us today. The blustering threats of a Mussolini and his ruthless war against a weak and underprivileged nation does not indicate the direction of the great tide of human opinion and feeling in the matter. This war is like a disconnected, boisterous wave. The great tide of human opinion is moving in the direction of peace and good-will among men.

The most powerful force in the world that tends to bring peace and good-will among the nations has always been, and still is, the unchangeable Word of God. The more widely the scriptures are circulated among the children of men, and the knowledge of God and the truths of Christianity disseminated among the nations, the sooner will come the time of universal peace.

It is acknowledged by all that there is no greater or better means of spreading God's Word among the nations than the work of the British and Foreign Bible Society and its sister societies in Scotland, America and other countries. Since its foundation over one hundred years ago this society has issued 494,000,000 copies of the scriptures (Bibles, Testaments and portions), and has translated portions of them into 695 languages. Last year alone (to March, 1935) about 11,000,000 were distributed in the world, and 14 new languages were added. Great joy was manifested by thousands of benighted people on receiving the Scriptures in their own mother tongue.

It is the aim of the Society to give to every man, woman and child in the world the Word of God in their own mother tongue. This society prints and distributes probably about two thirds of all the scriptures issued. Last year its output was about 11,000,000 copies; if we add to this one third for the other societies, there would be something like fifteen or sixteen million scriptures distributed. If the total population of the world be placed at 1,600,000,000, this would mean about one copy for every hundred people.

It would be difficult to imagine any more effective way of promoting the cause of Christianity in the world than by helping on the work of the British and Foreign Bible Society in every way possible.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, October 20, is "Doctrine of Atonement."

The Golden Text is: "We are ambassadors for Christ, as though God did beseech you by us: we pray you in Christ's stead, be ye reconciled to God."

The following correlative passages are selected from among those comprised in the Lesson-Sermon to be read from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:—

"Behold, the Lord's hand is not shortened, that it cannot save; neither his ear heavy, that it cannot hear: But your iniquities have separated between you and your God, and your sins have hid his face from you, that he will not hear." (Isaiah 59: 1, 2).

"The atonement of Christ reconciles man to God, not God to man; for the divine Principle of Christ is God, and how can God propitiate Himself? Christ is Truth, which reaches no higher than itself. The fountain can rise no higher than its source. Christ, Truth, could conciliate no nature above his own, derived from the eternal Love. It was therefore Christ's purpose to reconcile man to God." (Science and Health, pages 18, 19).

An Election Maxim

MONEY CANNOT BUY
TRUE LOYALTY

Voters have been known to accept money for their votes from a candidate seeking election and then vote against him. Men have been known to accept pay to work in the interests of a candidate and have thrown their weight the other way. But imagine the embarrassment of one of the contestants in the recent Albert election who paid a scrutineer to guard his interests at a poll in one constituency. When the returns came in, he had not received a single vote. Even his scrutineer had voted against him. His aide had gone Social Credit with the rest of the voters. All of which goes to show that voluntary workers and willing voters are the ones to be relied upon. —Sudbury Star.

MOURNED BY MISTAKE

"LEIF ERICKSON DAY"—in honor of the Norse explorer said to have been the first European to set foot on the American continent—was observed by dropping flags to half mast, on Washington's public buildings. It was just a little mistake on the part of the caretakers, and the error was soon rectified. But why mourn? He's too dead to realize the outcome of his explorations!

THE HIGH PRICE OF NEGLECT

THE OUTCOME of yesterday's inquiry into a highway tragedy which occurred Saturday night on the outskirts of Lachute, was not reached—pending the hearing of important evidence.

One vivid circumstance, however, was established—namely that the horse-drawn rig in which an elderly woman was fatally struck was unlighted. . . . This fact should blaze itself indelibly on the mind of every farmer in this province; for it is the farmers or their families who court peril in this way.

However seriously motorists may be at fault, they are unwilling killers. But they are using the highways against heavy odds while unlighted vehicles are allowed to roam abroad at night.

Quebec Legislature is impervious to pleas and entreaties. The apathy of our legislators should bring lasting shame on their heads. . . . But while this condition is still permitted editors and safety workers implore the farmers, continually, to protect themselves from the imminence of a horrible death. It is a strange state of affairs indeed; but it is true.

EVEN THE CONSERVATIVES REJOICE

HIGH EXULTATION, bitter disappointment—whatever may be the reactions to Monday's political shuffle, Canadians will rejoice with few exceptions in the utter ineffectiveness of radicalism in this election. Social Credit, newest of the new-born parties, made the biggest claim for recognition; at that it was confined to the two prairie provinces, and generally speaking the Liberals and Conservatives remain unchallenged. In other words, Canada has rejected in no uncertain terms the many radical projects seeking power of government.

"Between Canadian Liberals and Conservatives the difference is not great on Imperial issues," says the London Daily Mail, while another English journal, the Daily Express, voices more effectively the general sentiment of Canada, as follows: "The wildcats and the freaks are sunk. It is a fine tribute to the common-sense of these Dominion folk. Twenty-five years ago they banned alien immigration and stuck to Anglo-Saxon stock and kept the herd clean. No nostrums or patent medicine cures for these voters, despite hard times."

The most likely of the newcomers was Mr. Stevens—this thought appeared general, but election day disproved it very thoroughly, and surprisingly. Many Canadians might have ceded the reins of government to Mr. Stevens (had he the assurance of a working majority), recognizing his business instincts, his ability and, most of all, his sincerity. . . . To his followers the result was a keen disappointment.

But it is well—the emphasis remains, whether Liberal or Conservative, Canadians will tolerate no radical departure in their constitution or their government.

Maybe now there will be a trek of genuine job seekers to the Dominion capital.

Seven people, besides the constable, were injured in the melee in which spectators joined. Page was the only one who required medical attention and injuries of the others were bruises and slight cuts.

Other bystanders joined the fracas, some in support of Larose and some helping Constable Page. The fight occurred in front of the residence of H. Gascombe. Larose escaped injury. Up to last reports no arrest has been made, although the affair is supposedly under investigation by Quebec police authorities to whom it was turned over by the Hawkesbury police.

Laws That Helped

(Christian Science Monitor)

The Municipal Corporations Act, whose centenary Great Britain is now celebrating, should be of especial significance to those who hold to an unqualified degree the theory that men cannot be made good by act of Parliament. For the history and consequences of this measure suggest that, if an act of Parliament cannot make men good, it can at least restrict their opportunities for doing evil.

A hundred years ago the civic life of England was in a deplorable state. Civic government was in the control of a small minority of the population. In one town of 50,000 inhabitants civic administration was controlled by less than 120 people. Neglect of duties on the part of high officials was common; the recorder of a Welsh borough is said not to have carried out his functions once during his fifty years' tenure of office. Bribery and corruption were rife; moneys for the public service often went into private pockets.

This state of affairs was the reflection of a moral attitude. Britain's fine tradition of public service had not yet been applied to municipal government. To improve the personal character of civic servants was no part of the aim of the framers of the Municipal Corporations Act. But they were determined to prevent that character from manifesting itself to the detriment of civic life.

How magnificently they succeeded is patent to all who know the superb record of absolute integrity which is typical of British town government today. It is an inspiration to other countries who have similar civic problems at the present time; and it shows convincingly that legislation which is often derided by its opponents as "moral", triumphs if it is afforded fair opportunity.

Yet possibly the poets in question would refuse a subsidy for their dream, for their "huge, cloudy symbols of high romance," and, bowing low, fling the sackcloth of their independence about them and dash off another sonnet that will never be sold.

GLASGOW WILL BUILD 70,000 HOUSES

Elimination of slums has been taken up by the United Kingdom with the determination to have work completed at the earliest possible date. Scotland will see builders busy during the next few years carrying out the schemes drawn up. The corporation of the City of Glasgow will build 70,000 houses in the next 10 years and the Paisley corporation 2,000 according to the Industrial Department of the Canadian National Railways. Canada ranks second as a source of supply for softwoods for the Scottish market, excepting pit props, box boards and sleepers, etc., Latvia being the largest source of supply.

CITIZEN TAKES TO TAX COLLECTING

To help defray his road improvement taxes, Samuel Swerdon, a property owner in New Jersey, thought it was a good idea to set up a barricade on the highway in front of his house, and in this way he attempted to collect tolls with which to pay taxes. His venture was rewarded with a 15-day jail sentence.

Swerdon used bed springs, mattresses, boxes and an old fence for his make-shift toll gate after he had received a $300 assessment for road improvements. Neighbors complained and police cleared the highway and warned Swerdon.

Several hours later the barricade reappeared, higher and more formidable; and Swerdon was promptly taken to jail.

A PARKING METER

Oklahoma City is experimenting with an interesting device for controlling over-time parking—the parking meter. This is described in the August number of The American City as follows: "The curbs in the parking blocks of the downtown area are marked off in 20-ft. lengths, with a meter mounted 4 feet high commanding each of these intervals. At present there are 200 meters, with the possibility of 1,000 later. The driver cruises until a space is discovered, pulls in and deposits a nickel in the meter. A green indicator then rises and remains in view for the legal parking period, the meters being adjustable for a range of ten minutes to two hours. One motorcycle patrolman can inspect the entire area. The attitude of the public is indicated by a first day's take averaging 50 cents per meter, despite the fact that only 20 per cent of the area was equipped, and all the rest of the area was free as usual. The legality of the parking-meter ordinance has been sustained in the district court.

cussions each one incurred. Right Rev. J. C. Farthing, Lord Bishop of Montreal, was the special speaker at the banquet in the evening.

Those privileged to attend came away enthused and inspired for better work "For Christ and his Church"—which, incidentally, is the A.Y.P.A. motto.

Motor Show in Montreal Next Month

"With the National Motor Show of Eastern Canada to be held next month, there is considerable comment in the trade and among automobile owners whose thoughts run to new cars," said Mr. R. H. Pattison, Vice-President of the Montreal Automobile Trade Association Limited, who stage this annual event. Just what the new 1936 product will reveal when the show opens in the Sun Life Building, Montreal, November 23rd. (the first time ever staged as an autumn event) is a rousing great curiosity.

Once again the automobile designer and specialized engineer, through technical co-operation, will bring forth something new in the way of construction and performance; in safety, ease of handling, fuel economy, long life and lower original and upkeep cost. The secrecy with which manufacturers are surrounding their new models, and the rumors which are circulating are stimulative interest in the show.

As features for the promotion of safety, progress has been made in the construction of steel bodies—the welding of steel tops, which not only greatly improve the appearance of the car, but add materially to the body structure. Greater factors of safety are built into the cowl, windshield pillars, forward section of the roof and doors, etc. Numerous refinements and improvements will be shown in brakes, which have been redesigned to conform more to present-day conditions. Among these is a development that may be called an entirely new application of pressure which, coupled with greater lining surface, has aroused unusual interest on the part of engineers. Advance information promises softer pedal action and new methods of cooling the drums.

Smother riding is promised through new developments in spring materials and new design. There has been considerable discussion in trade circles as to the effect that earlier models this year may have upon factory activity. It is considered the production peak will come in April and May. Most of the executives seem agreed that by advancing the introduction of new types, a great deal can be done to benefit automobile workers during the winter months when living costs are higher.

Study Group Meeting

The Study Group of Lachute Women's Institute met Tuesday afternoon in the High School building, and enjoyed an interesting program along literary lines under sponsorship of Mrs. G. Leggett. Two short 1-act plays were read by Mrs. Leggett, who also discussed the drama and its value in community life, where it serves to unearth latent talents and put them to good service. Mrs. S. S. Campbell added to the success of the program with pleasing piano selections.

Local Boy Scout News

The regular Wednesday night meeting of the 1st. Lachute Troop Boy Scouts brought out a full attendance under the leadership of Mr. C. Duncan, Scoutmaster, Mr. G. Leggett and Mr. Taylor, Assistant Scoutmasters. Kennett Plunket passed his tenderfoot badge.

Capt. L. Hooker extended an invitation to the Lachute troop to participate at a camp fire at his home on Lachute Road next Wednesday night.

On Wednesday night, October 30th., the troop will hold their annual Hallowe'en Party at McArthur's Hall.

was long and flaring, forming a train at the back. A pleated coronet of matching satin was worn and the bride carried a bouquet of Talisman roses with lilies-of-the-valley in shower.

A gown of imported velvet in an autumn brown tone was worn by the bridesmaid, with hat and shoes to match; she carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses and bronze chrysanthemums.

Mrs. McGill, aunt of the bride, wore a becoming gown of crepe remain in a claret shade with cut velvet sleeves and gold trimming and hat to match. She wore a shoulder corsage of Sunset roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

Mrs. Rogers, mother of the groom, wore a gown of black triple sheer crepe. The sleeves were of cut velvet and touches of cut velvet on the bodice; she wore a hat to match, also a shoulder corsage of American Beauty roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held and later Mr. Rogers and his bride left for New York, whence they will sail for Bermuda.

For travelling Mrs. Rogers wore a semi-tailored frock of crepe cruequille in a marine blue shade under a coat of black French bark cloth with a cross fox collar and black accessories.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Rogers will reside at 5967 St. Antoine Road, Montreal.

Out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. G. Pollock, Miss Margaret Rogers and Mr. Stewart Hume, all of Lachute.

First President of Arundel Women's Auxiliary Dies

LATE MRS. MARY SCOTT

In the passing of Mrs. Mary Scott on Friday afternoon Arundel lost one of its oldest and most respected inhabitants. Mrs. Scott, formerly Mary Dobie, though born near Lachute had lived most of her life in Arundel, and her position in the community was testified to by the large congregation which assembled at Grace Church to pay their last respects. The service was taken by the Rev. Gordon W. Phillips, parish priest, and the sermon was preached by the Rev. Cyrus W. P. Baugh of Lakefield who had been her parish priest in Arundel a quarter of a century ago. In his sermon Mr. Baugh pointed out that Mrs. Scott was one of those responsible for the inauguration of the Grace Church Woman's Auxiliary, and was its first president. She, until delicate health rendered active work impossible, was an ardent church worker and had charge of "The Little Helpers", a junior branch of the W. A., and even after she was unable to

The altar, lectern, prayer-desk, and pulpit were vested in black and silver for the funeral, and purple flowers were placed on the altar, purple being the W. A. colour for this Diocese.

Mrs. Scott leaves six children, Walter and Wesley of Penhold, Alberta, Annie, of Innisfail, Alberta, Elsie, Montreal, and Arthur and Ina, Arundel; six grandchildren, and three brothers, James, John and George Dobie, of Arundel, and two sisters, Mrs. Gallie of Montreal, and Mrs. Alexander of Arundel.

Floral tributes were received from the family, her grandson Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Kerr, Mrs. Gordon and Mrs. Rathwell, Annie Givan, Mrs. Rose and Mr. Gooding, and from her fellow-members of the W. A. of Grace Church.

Month's Report of County W. I. Activities

Chatham Branch, in stressing Education and Better Schools, had an interesting talk from Rev. E. G. Baxter. Ten members were present to answer the roll-call, which was "Your personal opinion of June exams."

Frontier Branch had for its subject Publicity, Mr. J. S. Giles kindly giving a talk on the subject, which was decidedly interesting. The roll-call was answered by naming a Canadian newspaper and reading a non-sense verse. Publicity also was given to birds—in reading the first prize essay on "Our Canadian Birds" and the presenting of prizes given in the contest. There were seventeen members present and a large audience of visitors, which included children. Current events were given by Mrs. A. Heatlie and Mrs. A. Graham, touching on many departments of the W. I. work.

Jerusalem - Bethany had an interesting bus trip to Rosemount, Lakefield, and donated two prizes for the Boys' Classes in the plowing match held under the Argenteuil Plowman's Association. The subject of their regular meeting was Economics, "The Family Income" being the title of the paper given by Mrs. G. Walker, and "Hospitality" by Miss M. Walker.

Lachute under the convenorship of Mrs. J. Mason devoted their meeting to Education and Better Schools, their speaker being Mrs. G. F. W. Kuhring, County President, also Prov. Convenor for that Department, who dealt with the "Frills and Fads of Education". She also stressed Adult Education. The roll-call was "Interesting facts about a famous Canadian woman."

Lakefield made arrangements to provide books and tooth-brushes for needy children, also planned the dinner for the annual plowing match.

Morin Heights in the interests of Education and Better Schools listened to an interesting address from Principal C. L. Hall of Lachute Consolidated School, in which he gave the history of examinations, his talk being "The advantages and disadvantages of June Examinations." Mrs. G. F. W. Kuhring was also present in her capacity of Prov. Convenor of Education and Better Schools. The roll-call was "Do's and Don'ts in Training Children". A welcome was given the teachers and prizes presented in a Drawing Competition held for the children.

Pioneer interested their members in Canadian Industries by having them visit Ayers Woolen Mills in Lachute.

Upper Lachute - East End had seven members to answer the roll-call by naming a Canadian tree. This being Agriculture evening a paper on Canning Fruits was read, and the members gave their favorite canning recipes.

—Dancing on Friday evening in the Lachute Auditorium will be a real treat for those who attend. Eddie Sanborn and his orchestra will supply the music.

The ladies of the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church held a very successful Harvest Supper, on Thursday last. The proceeds amounted to $90.00.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

MEMORIES OF HOME

Pictures, such as this one, are not difficult to make so let your camera furnish you with "Memory Insurance."

DO YOU remember 'way back when grandmother's "parlor" was furnished with the very latest horse-hair furniture, the lovely round "center table" with its marble top, the huge portraits with their deep, heavy gilded frames and the always present "what-not" with its assorted display of "bric-a-brac"? Wouldn't you like to have a picture of it to help recall fond memories of days gone by?

Believe it or not but it will not be many years until you will be trying to picture in your mind some of the furniture and furnishings you had in your home when you were a child or perhaps when you were first married. Interior snapshots will serve as "memory insurance."

Don't put off taking these pictures any longer for making them is not at all difficult; in fact you will enjoy it. Here are a few pointers that may help you in making your first shots.

If you take your interior pictures in the daytime the chances are that you will have to take a time exposure unless your camera is equipped with a very fast lens, say f.3.5 or faster. If a time exposure is necessary you will have to use a tripod or else place the camera on some solid support such as a table. Even with an f.3.5 lens you should have some substantial support for your camera for you will probably find it necessary to take your shot at 1/5 or 1/10 of a second, and at speeds slower than 1/25 of a second it is extremely difficult to hold the camera steady. Any movement of the camera will cause a blurred picture.

The secret of success in indoor pictures lies in controlling the light reaching the various parts of the room to be pictured. To begin with, never point your camera directly at the window or door through which the greatest amount of light is coming. Keep the light behind or to the side of the camera. If, as sometimes happens, a sunny window is in a particular part of the house you want to take, you can eliminate sun-glare by a very simple trick. Pull the shade of that particular window clear down and keep it down for an exposure long enough to give you the other features and details. Then, close the shutter and run the shade up to its normal position. Now, go back to the camera and, without changing the film or the camera's position, open the shutter again for a half second longer.

It's a good idea to use a very small lens stop in taking indoor pictures, because you want detail. Focus on a point about half-way between the camera and the far side of the room; then, when the lens is stopped down you will find that practically everything is in sharp focus.

Avoid including large pieces of furniture in the foreground, lest they take up more space in the picture than they deserve.

Exposure time will vary, of course, with the brilliance of the daylight and the degree to which the walls reflect light. On a bright day, pictures in a predominantly light colored room can be taken with an exposure of five or ten seconds. On dull days, in dark rooms having only one window, you will need as much as five minutes, with the lens at f.16.

"Memory Insurance" costs but little; so load your camera today for interior pictures that in later years will be worth a lot.

BOY SCOUTS THE WORLD OVER

"Boys of today seem to be better physically than they ever were," declared Lord Baden-Powell, in an address during his Canadian tour.

ROVER SCOUT SCIENTISTS

Combining hiking and scientific research, Rover Scouts of Sydney University, Australia, organized an expedition, under one of their college professors, to survey the district surrounding Myall Lakes. The party included botanists, geologists and entomologists.

APPRECIATION SHIELD FOR SIERRA LEONE SCOUTS

As a result of the impression made upon him by their "behaviour, work and courtesy" the Boy Scouts of Sierra Leone have been presented by Mr. Alfred C. Blossom, M.P. for Maidstone, with a handsome Challenge Shield. The shield will be awarded annually to the troop earning the highest percentage of Scout proficiency badges.

STOUT SOLDIER, STOUT PEACEMAKER

A unique angle of Scouting as a world peace movement was emphasized by its originator, Lord Baden-Powell in an address at Winnipeg, when the "hero of Mafeking" declared that the movement in South Africa had made an important contribution toward healing the breach between the British and Dutch, of which Mafeking was one of the historic struggles.

HE COULDN'T TALK—BUT COULD HE WALK!

"Lost Children" duty at fall fairs brings Boy Scouts varied experiences. At the Ottawa exhibition this fall a 4-year-old picked up and "not called for" could give neither name nor address. Did he know his way home? Yes, and he pointed, apparently, down the nearby street. Holding his hand, a Scout set out to take him home. Some hours later a wilted Scout returned. Very slowly, but surely, the small hiker had led him on, and on—to a home several miles in the country.

Marathon Races Started With Olympic Contests

The ancient Marathon was a small town on the eastern coast of Attica, about 20 miles northeast of Athens. There is a modern village of the name, but the site of the ancient Marathon is occupied now by a town called Vrana, says a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Along with neighboring towns, the old Marathon belonged to an ancient Hellenic league called the Tetrapolis. This league claimed a very early origin, legend carrying it back to the time of Theseus, and it survived until after the Fourth century B. C.

The plain of Marathon is famous as the scene of the decisive battle in which Miltiades led the Athenians and Plataeans to victory over the army of Darius under command of Datis and Artaphernes in B. C. 490. The Greeks numbered about 10,000, while the Persians had a much larger force. But the invaders were put utterly to rout with heavy loss, while the Greeks lost only 32 men. The great mound in which the remains of these dead were placed is still conspicuous on the plain. The battle turned back the eastern invasion of Europe and saved Athens; and, according to tradition, a Greek runner sped without stopping from Marathon to Athens bearing the tidings of victory.

The modern Marathon race, commemorating this feat, originated with the first Olympic games, at Athens in 1896. It is a run of 40 kilometers (24 miles, 1,406 yards), held mostly on the open road. The name is also applied to any similar long distance race.

JOHNNY RABBIT'S FRIGHT

Little Johnny Rabbit
Went out hunting kale,
So early in the morning
One could only see his tail.

This wee white knob went bobbing
Across the frosty fields,
As Johnny hopped and scampered
Kicking up his heels.

He wakened Mr. Blue Jay
Who called out "Stay, stay, stay,"
But Johnny would not listen
And calmly went his way.

He found the kale all frozen
And sat upon his heels
Sniffing all about him
Till he found the carrot fields.

Over there he scampered,
Found a juicy carrot
When a voice began a-calling,
The voice of Old Dan Parrot.

"Get out, get out," it shouted
And gave him such a scare
That he dropped the juicy carrot
And bounded in the air.

Old Blacky Crow was sitting
Just where he could see
On the knotty branches
Of a hollow tree.

As Johnny Rabbit scampered
Without his carrot raw Old Blacky chuckled loudly
"Haw-Haw, Haw-Haw!"

JUST FOR FUN

Grade Five boys of the old Stone School were gathered in Bob Chalmers' wood shed, their usual place of meeting when there was anything special to be considered. The shed was roomy, light and so close to the house that Irish Molly could easily slip out a plate of her hot doughnuts or crisp ginger cookies to them as they sat making plans.

This evening they were planning Halloween stunts. After they had made their plans to meet at Chalmers' as usual and duck for apples and play the usual Halloween games, Ted Malony, a new and very mischievous boy, said "Aw, fellows! why do all that stale old stuff. Why not have some real fun when we are at it?"

All eyes turned inquiringly in his direction, and several boys asked at the same time 'what he called read fun'?

"Why," said Ted, "let's play tricks on folks; this stay-at-home stuff is only for kids."

The boys felt their chests swell at Ted's words, they had never considered themselves as grown up before, but Ted evidently seemed to think they were; and being a new boy and much taller than they, all were ready to be led by him. Seeing this, he asked them to draw in closer, so that he could tell them his plans. "First of all" he said, "old Mrs. Jenkins does not lock her gate at night, and more than that, she has no dog, so we can very easily play tricks on her." A feeling of uneasiness swept over the other boys. They felt it would not be sporting to play tricks on Mrs. Jenkins, whose cheery smile had warmed more than one of their little frightened hearts as they had trudged with unwilling feet by her door on their way to school for the first time. Finding that no one spoke Ted said, "Of course if you're going to act babyish over this I won't tell you any more of my plans."

No boy likes to be considered a baby, however small he is, and all were eager to at least hear Ted's plans. "Just a minute," they said, "We'll help you if you are not going to do anything really mean."

"Playing Halloween tricks isn't mean" answered Ted with a scowl. "It's just for fun." "Depends on the sort of fun," said Roy Moore, "What were you planning to do at Mrs. Jenkins place?" "Hide her front gate perhaps. Swipe her grapes." "Steal!" cried Roy in horror, "and you call that fun!" "Swiping isn't stealing", said Ted angrily, his face slowly reddening, "it's just taking things for fun. If I was to go all alone and not tell anyone that I was going to take them, that would be stealing, but a bunch of us lads swiping them for a lark on Halloween night wouldn't be stealing."

"If a bunch of lads came and swiped the mistress' cherries I'd call it stalin', no matter, if it wuz the month av May or the ind o' December. Swipin' and stalin', there's no difference!" Mollie's rich Irish voice was boiling over with scorn as she stood, dish in hand, looking in at the shed door, "an' more than that, what I hiv in me dish is not for the loikes of ye if that's the Halloween fun ye've been planning." With a proud toss of her head Mollie turned as if to go back to the house. A wail of "Molly! oh Mollie please. We'll be good" rose from the boyish throats, and Mollie turned to survey them, still scornful. "For how long?" she shot back at them, "till me back's turned I suppose. That's how long ye'll be good."

"Now Mollie" said Bob coaxingly, "you know that our gang are always good". "If what I heard one of ye're gang planning a minute ago is called goodness, thin 'tis not Molly O' Farrell that knows the right meaning o' the word 'Playin' tricks on a helpless old lady is not my oidea o' goodness, nor playin' trcks on anywan for that matter. Why, if ye were in the ould country the banshees would be after gettin' ye for plannin' mischief loike that, so they would. And it's promisin' me that ye'll play not wan single mane trick on anywan this comin' Halloween ye'll be, or 'tis niver a bite nor sup of anything will Molly O'Farrell be givin' ye again at all, at all."

Faced with Molly's threat and rather glad to know that no harm was going to come to old Mrs. Jenkins' property through their gang, the boys with up-held hands solemnly promised Molly to abstain from all nasty tricks and do only kind deeds. "There's a heap o' dead wood scattered along Mrs. Jenkins' river shore that would just look foine in her shed, boys" suggested Molly, with a twinkle in her eye as she gave each one a nice warm apple tart, "and more apple tarts where these came from if the fairies find it there on Halloween morn. And there are lots of other kind tricks that you lads could be foindin' t' do for poor people on Halloween night if ye'd only be after huntin' for them . . . You could be doin' thim just for fun and enjoyin' yerselves at it too!"

As Mollie retraced her steps to the house she muttered to herself, "Drat that Malony chap anyway! May the saints remove him and his family to some other part o' the globe before he does be after spilin' the hearts and minds of the good little lads around here."

—Fun's fun, children, but nasty tricks on Halloween night is just plain mischief.

"Er—well, because I am very fond of the subject. It gives me a new insight into the problems which—er—I'm called upon to meet in every day life. It has been an inspiration to me."

MORSE FOR MOTOR HORNS?

While half the world concentrates on eliminating the noise of motor horns, the other half ponders new ways to increase it. Old London put a ban on "hooting" between 11 p.m. and 7 a.m. Now Toronto and other Canadian cities are in the throes of plans to do the same thing. Meanwhile, a British motorist, quite unaware of all this anti-noise crusade, steps forward and advocates a code of signals for horns which would enormously multiply the number of toots. He suggests something like an alphabet: For instance, two long toots and a short might mean "look out cyclist, I am really passing this time"; or two shorts and a long might mean "I resent your cutting in, old chap". The worst of it is, with a bad memory he might have to pull over to the curb and consult the code book.

DIDN'T GET THEM CASHED

Albert Corrieri, who jumped from a $3.15 delivery boy to a position in the cashier's department of C. F. Childs and Company, brokers of New York, was not like a boy we recently heard of. The boy had found a $5 bill but had it "broke" so the owner could reward him. Corrieri found $150,000 in bonds but returned them to the Childs company intact.

CHANCE

There is no question but chance plays a great part in our lives. Some people seem to have plenty of good luck, yet when it is analysed it is found that they have the ability to make the most of their chances. Lord Dewar, Sir Harry Lauder, and Sir Thomas Lipton were great friends. One time they were discussing the part chance had played in their success. Lord Dewar said that his success was due chiefly to the fact that he had happened to come to England at a time when the English wanted Irish whiskey. Harry Lauder said that a great part of his success was due to the fact that he happened to be singing at a time when gramophone phones were very popular. Thomas Lipton characteristically would have none of it. He felt that chance had had nothing to do with his success but it was due entirely to his own abilities.

MAN SPENDS MONTH IN A JAR

A Fakir from Brazil has spent a month sealed up in a glass jar without food at an exhibition in Genoa, Italy. His name is Gentil Cadranel, and he has emerged from his ordeal apparently little the worse. "I was very thirsty the first day and hungry for some time," he said on emerging. "After that I settled down comfortably."

LOCKS AND LIGHTS

The inconsistency of mankind is delightful to contemplate. People put expensive locks on their front doors and the flimsiest affairs on their back doors. Then they leave the cellar windows open and do not lock the door leading up from the cellar. Yet who ever heard of a burglar coming in the front door? An experienced police chief says that light is the best protection and that breakers-in avoid a house that has lights turned on.

WHY PUNISH TWICE?

A small boy was told that if he got into trouble at school he would be punished at home too. One day when he came home from school he went directly to the bath room and came down with the label from the iodine bottle pasted on his forehead. It read "Poison Do Not Touch". He was in trouble at school! That idea of punishing at home for things which have happened at school never seems to be quite the thing. It isn't British justice to punish for the same crime twice. Most parents wish their children to confide in them but they cannot expect it if when the child does tell, he is punished.

PIE

Now that the cooler weather has arrived, pie appears more often on the menu. Recipes for pastry are pretty much the same, it is the differences in handling that make the pastry. The ingredients. Pastry flour should be used as it is not possible to make as tender a pie with either general purpose, or as it is often called, household flour, or bread flour. Now as to shortening, that is a matter of individual preference as good pastry may be made with any of the reliable shortenings, but I must say that I prefer to use lard and butter. Too high a proportion of butter is apt to make the pastry tough. I find that about 3/4 of the shortening lard and the other quarter butter is very satisfactory. Baking powder may or may not be used, but a little makes a lighter pastry. The water should be very cold. If all the ingredients and the mixing bowl are thoroughly chilled better pastry may result. I like to mix my pastry directly after breakfast, then let it chill until I am ready to make it into pies. Pastry improves with keeping and it is better to make a pie at a time. It is so easy to handle after keeping that it is not much work to use as required. Now as to methods. Sift flour, baking powder and salt, and rub in the lard. This may be done by the time-honoured method of using the fingers or by the more efficient modern way of using a pastry cutter. When there are no lumps of shortening left, add water a little at a time, until enough has been added to be able to handle the pastry. The exact amount cannot be given as flours differ greatly. This is one of the most important things about the whole performance. Use as little water as possible. This cannot be emphasized too much as more pies are spoiled by using too much water than by any other way. Too much water makes a tough pastry. Roll out into an oblong and dot with about a third of the butter. Fold the pastry over and press the edges together to hold in the air possible. Do this three times, until all the butter is used. Pastry should be handled as little as possible and rolled very lightly. When rolling the pastry, if a mistake in size has been made, dot butter over the surface as before, because re-rolling pastry will make it tough. I would rather have a patched pie any day than a re-rolled one. The next thing is the baking and pastry must have a hot oven. Double-crust pies should bake at 450 degrees. Pumpkin or custard pies or any of a similar nature bake 10 minutes at 450 degrees and then reduce the heat to 325 degrees for 30 minutes. Pie shells require a still hotter oven—500 degrees for 12 minutes. To sum up: cold pastry and a hot oven, plenty of shortening and little water and handle lightly.

3 cups pastry flour
1 cup shortening
1 teaspoon baking power
1 teaspoon salt cold water

AMBROSIA PIE

Combine 1/2 cup flour, 3/4 cup sugar, 1/4 teaspoon salt in the top of the double boiler. Add 1 1/4 cups water and 2 egg yolks slightly beaten. Cook over hot water for 10 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from the fire, add 1/2 cup orange juice, 2 teaspoons lemon juice, 2 teaspoon grated orange rind and 1/2 teaspoon lemon rind. Chill and pour into a 9 inch cooked pie shell. Beat 2 egg whites, 1/2 cup sugar, dash of salt, 2 tablespoons water in the top of double boiler with a rotary egg beater, until thoroughly mixed, then put over hot water and beat for one minute, remove from the fire and continue beating until meringue will stand in peaks. Put the meringue on the pie, garnish with orange sections and sprinkle with coconut.

SCALLOPED BEANS

Fry some green pepper and onion in butter or bacon fat until gently browned. Add a can of baked beans and mix. Put in a casserole and cover with buttered crumbs and bake until the crumbs are browned. This is an appetising supper dish that can be prepared ahead of time and popped into the oven while the table is being set.

JUNE EXAMINATIONS DISCUSSED BY W. I.

Under the departments of activity in the Women's Institutes is that known as Education and Better Schools, which covers phases of interest in education outside of the actual school room itself. During the past year this interest has taken form in discussions, in W. I. Branches all over the province, concerning the June examinations.

Many are of the opinion that these should be discontinued and that the standing of pupils should be determined from the current marks of the year. Others are of the opinion that this cannot be done, and that the only fair way is to continue the annual examinations.

Whether these discussions reflect popular opinion of not, it is certain that there is an awakened interest in the matter, which may or may not crystallize into definite action.

Ancient Egyptians' Love for Cats Never Equaled

C-A-T spells Cat.

From the blackboards of little red schoolhouses and those of metropolitan cities, this line brought our first lesson in spelling. It started our education, observes a writer in the Los Angeles Times, which later brought us through the historical stories of the ancient Egyptians, who accorded Miss Puss their whole-hearted worship. We learned of their religion, which decreed that whole families and whole cities go into mourning at the death of a cat; learned that the death of a kitten called for the shaving of the worshiper's eyebrows; that troops of cats were maintained within temple walls, choicely fed; that any "noble Roman" causing injury or death to a cat, whether it be accidental or intentional, was torn to pieces. Later, we learned that Miss Puss served as a symbol of witchcraft.

In the cat can be found a more universal response to her prime utility. Long haired or short haired, Siamese, Manx, Persian, or just "common alley cat," she offers the best self-setting mousetrap that has been found in all her 3,000 years of domestication. In this utility, she has saved a world from vermin that might have otherwise destroyed it.

Behind the intense glance of attentive big eyes is a brain, centuries old in intelligence, responsibility and resourcefulness that has brought her triumphantly through the long period of maltreatment by humans, pursuit by larger animals and battles for existence.

CHATHAM W. I. STRESSES CONCERN FOR SCHOOL WELFARE

PRESIDENT SPOKE AT BROWNSBURG SCHOOL OPENING

The spirit of co-operation between Women's Institutes and school boards is prominently marked in this county, various branches proving not only sympathetic but most effective and practical in their aid to the progress of education.

Chatham Women's Institute was represented at the recent school opening exercises in Brownsburg; and a brief address by Mrs. Lemuel Wilson, president of the branch, has been received by The Watchman—the text of which was as follows:

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen, Boys and Girls—

I have the honor and privilege of bringing you greetings from the Chatham Women's Institute. We are indeed pleased to have the privilege of helping in some way to make our school a better school for our children. We have helped in the past by giving meals and books to needy children; we hope to be able to do much more in the future.

We want you—Mr. Dixon, as Chairman of our School Board, and Mr. Stanforth, our Principal—to know that we as a Branch of the Women's Institute stand ready at all times to help and co-operate, in any way and every way possible for Education and Better Schools, so that our children may grow up to be true, upright men and women and worthy citizens of this fair Canada of ours.

Canada is rich in gold and silver,
In timber and fishes galore—
But the very best asset of all our Nation,
Are the children who play around her door.

Speeding down a Cleveland street with his wife, John Gilbert was stopped by a motorcycle policeman. Gilbert explained his great hurry by saying he was on his way to the hospital with Mrs. Gilbert as they were expecting the stork. Wishing to be helpful under the circumstances, the cop told Gilbert to follow him while he dashed off toward the hospital, siren screaming to clear a way for the Gilbert car. Reaching the hospital, it was found the Gilberts had made no reservations. Then the "expectant father" broken down and confessed he had simply told the cop a tall tale to get out of paying a fine for speeding. Now he will have to pay something extra on top of his fine.

The Week's Fashion News

By the Montreal "FASHION SCRIBE"

If you'll let "Fashion Scribe" have any say in the matter, you'll find that being out of Montreal does not mean being out of touch. The end of her pencil is simply quivering with news about fashion happenings . . . to tell you what's being worn, what shows indication of being worn, even what the newest ideas are in home furnishings and kitchen gadgets.

Montreal, Oct. 12—When society "debs" began appearing on fashionable beaches with their toe-nails enamelled a brilliant shade of red, many a man was heard to observe, "What will they be up to next?" Apparently the idea pleased the fair sex at any rate . . . for they have adapted it to evening fashions . . . and this is how it was done. By having the toe-cap reinforcing of sheer chiffon stockings the same gay color that used to cause such a sensation on the silver sands! Of course, it's not practical to wear such stockings unless one's evening shoes are toe-less so the red can show. And anyway such gewgaws have a limited appeal . . . not "taking" with the more conservative woman.

What does a mink look like? Did you ever stop to think whether it was big or small, ferocious or tame, dark or light? Maybe the children can tell you about it . . . having seen it in their natural history books. Or if you were passing along St. Catherine street last week you saw some of these tiny animals in a Morgan window display. People were almost flattening their noses against the pane to view the cages and their inmates. Mink are about the same size as weasels and are deep brown in colouring.

Time was when you'd hardly ever frame a picture in anything but metal. In Victorian days, the more design you got into the frame the smarter. Today the tune has changed. Pictures, like furniture, are going modern. Not post-war moderne . . . that "jazz" moderne of meaningless slants and angles . . . but a sane, attractive modern that calls for plain but unusual framings. "Ivory" is one of the latest of these . . . a wood with a creamy texture that goes exceedingly well with neutral wall tints. A window display at Eaton's showed how likeable this can be.

A little girl asked her mother the other day, "Where do they get all the bunnies from to make all that rabbit's hair wool?" They were both standing looking at a big window display of coatings and dress materials in a St. Catherine St. store. The mother was at a loss. "And do they have to kill all those poor bunnies too?" further demanded the child, almost in tears. The card in the window read "The New Rabbit's Hair Woollens." In reality it is only a long soft hair that is pressed in here and there through the fabrics that is fur. The rest is wool. So the youngster needn't have been so worried about all the needless massacre of rabbits after all.

One of the toys that is an immense favourite with children nowadays is the Mystery Car. You wind it up and start it off on the smooth surface of a table. It goes whizz-z-z-z-z right for the edge, but instead of falling off it changes its direction and heads for the other side. There it does the same trick. Can you explain it?

supreme sacrifice in just such another setting as this... and I... He paused in thought. "I am the self that cannot die—my spirit will continue on!" He took a quick glance around. "What if I am suspected?" A feeling of apprehension gripped him. Nothing moved. He raised his head to listen to the chiming of the bells that had suddenly broken in on the quietness and then floated away in waves of harmony that gradually melted into the surrounding ether and faded into the mountain-lines that seemed to touch the invisibility of the sky beyond. His eyes wandered out across the blackness of the big river. He turned one ear, then the other, to catch the full sweetness of the music. As its strains died away, his sublime self returned to the more prosaic things awaiting. It seemed like a rough handling of the beautiful things of the spirit to be thus interrupted.

His mind turned now, to the recorded history of turmoil and bloodshed and human sacrifices that had, in former times, been enacted on the very spot on which he stood, by man's inordinate desire for conquest. There, right under the shadows of those steeples and their lovely bells, many glowing souls had been prematurely extinguished before the tapestries of their mortal lives had been full-spun. Possibly that was why the flowers bloomed so red. He touched a great bunch of crimson-geraniums with the point of his cane—a cane that held a concealed weapon.

The beautiful red flowers suggested to his mind those immortal lines of the great Persian poet, "There never bloomed a rose so red, as where some buried Caesar bled." "Man has made a colossal mess of things on this earth, by his vain-glorious desire for conquest through brutal prowess, tactics, manoeuvres, camouflage, robbery, and butchery," the Herr concluded, for the time.

The sacred bells had ceased their chiming, and the last of the weary workers, heavy-footed, were dragging themselves homeward to the peace and love awaiting them. That was their life in peace-time. The unbroken lines of hills had faded into the dimness of twilight.

"And one could easily think of this as a place of mere simple sweetness where nothing ever happens! Nothing, excepting the simplest of household and pastoral duties, and religious devotions. All hereabout is heavenly peace and quietness, and simplicity of living, like a soothing dream that lulls the tired mind... I wonder if I am becoming home-sick or sentimental!" The Ober Lieutenant laughed mirthlessly.

"Gott!" he exclaimed aloud, and gripped his closed fist tighter, "why should life be so hellish and belligerent throughout, when it might as well be beautiful?"

His mind had slipped off at a tangent for a moment, and then commenced thinking of what sometimes happens in just such a place as this. "There is Singapore for instance, another area of this old sod with potent significance awaiting the twist of destiny. Always easy enough to manage, apparently. Also, there is Sarajevo—what did happen there; and Manila Bay—what did happen there; the Transvaal—what did happen there; Sasebo—what might easily happen there; and so on... Always something lurking behind the smiles of diplomacy. Always pretexts in the making... Then, further, there was a Crown Prince's official visit in a battle-cruiser, ostensibly friendly; but, just when welcomes and demonstrations were at their height, the scene suddenly, mysteriously, became one of disaster and international suspicion. A spark at the end of a time-fuse did it. 'In all probability an earth-quake, or a meteor, was the cause.' So read the head-lines..."

"Coming events cast their shadows before them," he quoted, as he looked over the heights and thought further of the fate awaiting this part of the great Canada to be; and of man's inordinate inclination to possess those crowns of glory manufactured in the workshops of historians and biographers, regardless of the fact that millions of crucifixions are the cost of them. "Twas thus that the spirits of Frederick the Great, Nelson, Wellington, Napoleon, and others, as immortalized heroes, live with us today. Immortalized great ones, whose martial tread we almost think we hear above the din of all other world-events, no matter how long since they have ceased. Hereabout, one feels a breathing nearness to General Wolfe, Montcalm, and others, because of what has been commemorated in marble and granite, everlastingly. But, of those thousands of others who bled and died in the front lines nothing is conserved, excepting: 'So many men lost on that occasion'..."

"This big river undoubtedly has portentous events of the like now in formation. It is easy enough for one to surmise. Man still possesses visions of conquests, glorified by Fame. All this loveliness of nature in the throes of war's beastliness is unpleasant to think of, and yet it is assuredly bound to come, in time. Most of this will vanish, even as the wig-Wams and camp-fires of the once picturesque red-man. And vainglorious professing Christians shall do it! The onslaught will no doubt be in the nature of a volley of guns from the river, near Pointe Lévis, as before—or, a scramble up the cliffs at Sillery, as a preliminary to an immense fusillade of bombs from the air. One cannot help sensing the menace. That great rock cliff and harbor—they have in them possibilities of advantage to an enemy."

Hawaii Is Farther Away

From Land Than Others

Hawaii is situated in the middle of the Pacific ocean, farther away from the nearest land than any other spot on earth, writes a correspondent in the "Chicago Tribune." It has been filled up by volcanoes until now the heights of Mauna Kea rise 14,000 feet above sea level and more than 32,000 feet above that profound abyss known as the ocean floor.

If the position of Hawaii is unusual, its people are even more so. They include almost every race on earth, orientals predominating. Sugar is by far the most important industry in this isolated land, and its cultivation requires a squatting position for the worker. Orientals, the prime squatters of the world, were therefore induced to go to Hawaii. A century or so ago it was Chinese who predominated. Then came a wave of Japanese, after their crowded country was opened to the world in the sixties and seventies. When the immigration restriction law on orientals was passed, a tremendous labor problem rose. Hawaii was now (1898) a territory of the United States, and labor was sought all over the world. They tried everybody from Cubans to Portuguese, but a solution was reached only with the comparatively recent importation of Filipinos (not affected by the immigration laws) who are now squatting all over the place, and mixing up with the others.

A school inspector visiting a school said: "Now, children, who loves all men?"

The question was hardly put before a little girl answered: "All women."

Mrs. J. Reid and Mrs. A. Campbell, of Carleton Place, were visiting at Mrs. Wyman McGibbon's last week.

Mrs. E. G. Baxter, Mrs. J. A. Campbell, and Mrs. C. L. Stephens, of Maple Ave. Baptist Church, Brownsburg, were in Ottawa last week attending the annual convention of the Women's Home and Foreign Baptist Missionary, East Division. Mrs. Baxter replied to the address of welcome.

Masonic Service at Brownsburg

On Sunday last Argenteuil Lodge No. 67 attended the Baptist Church at Brownsburg.

There was a good turn-out of some 50 members who were extended a very cordial welcome by the minister, Rev. Mr. Baxter. An inspiring address was given by the Chaplain of the Lodge, Rev. W. B. Rosborough, who spoke on some of the more important ideals of Free Masonry. Rev. Bro. Hagar, of Brownsburg, was also present on the platform. Music was rendered by the Brownsburg Quartette. Appreciation was expressed by Rev. Mr. Baxter for the pleasure given in having the Lodge present on this occasion.

On Wednesday evening the Past Masters took charge of the Lodge work, under the supervision of Past Master Bro. Dr. J. E. Christie. Several visitors were present and the officers were congratulated on the very efficient way in which the work was done.

DOCTOR SAID SHE NEEDED "BULK" FOR HER CONSTIPATION

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brings Relief to Mrs. Maneely

Read the following unsolicited letter:

"Up to five years ago, I knew no end of suffering caused by constipation. I used all kinds of laxatives but only found relief till I got used to them. My physician told me to get some Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, and instructed me how to use it.

"I did just as I was told by my doctor, and today I send my highest praise for what your ALL-BRAN has done for me."—Mrs. J. S. Maneely, Jr. Address upon request.

"Due to insufficient 'bulk' in meals.

ALL-BRAN provides gentle "bulk" to help overcome common constipation. It is also a good source of vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" of ALL-BRAN is often more effective than the "bulk" in fruits and vegetables, as it does not break down within the body. Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. If not corrected this way, see your doctor.

Isn't this food much pleasanter and safer than risking patent medicines? Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

Plowing Match Drew Entrants From Three Counties

SUCCESSFUL FIELD DAY
BY NEWLY FORMED
ASSOCIATION

The first plowing match held by the Argenteuil Plowmen's Association drew a crowd of over 1500 spectators to the farm of E. T. Kettle on No. 8 Highway last Thursday. The association was formed this year under the presidency of Mr. Geo. Hay, with Mr. Alex. Bothwell as secretary, and the success of the event suggests that a fall contest will become an annual feature of the society's activities. It was a matter of regret that Mr. Hay, who had put much effort into the arrangements, was unavoidably absent in the West.

Fifty-one entrants appeared on the field, and the contest in different classes of team and tractor plowing took the form of an inter-county competition, there being entrants from Two Mountains and Vaudreuil, as well as a splendid representation from Argenteuil. The plowmen ranged from a youthful teamster of 13 years up to a veteran 77 years of age. Those competing for the best turn-out showed some fine teams and equipment. Winners in the various classes are published on page 3.

The prize list amounted to around $500, comprising sums given locally and contributions from both the Provincial and Federal Departments.

The judges were Robert Leishman of Lachute, Donald Cummings of Lancaster, and Eldem Charbonneau of St. Hermas. Mr. Heinzel, Professor of Engineering at Macdonald College, was present on the field among interested spectators.

CENTERVILLE FARMER IS CALLED BY DEATH

LATE WM. JAS. BROWN

A gentleman well known in Centerville and farming communities of the neighborhood passed away on Sunday last, in the person of William James Brown, aged 70 years. Death occurred at the home of his son-in-law, Arnold Parker, Lachute Road, where he had made his home during the past year. Mr. Brown had been in failing health for some time, but succumbed to pneumonia after catching a chill just a week previously.

Married in 1912 to Elizabeth Wilson of North River, who predeceased him seven years ago, Mr. Brown farmed for many years in Centerville. He was a native of this county, born at Louisa. He is survived by his daughter, Elsie (Mrs. Arnold Parker), also by his sister, Mrs. F. A. Burden of Ottawa, and a brother, Alex. Brown of Brownsburg.

He was a Presbyterian by faith, and a largely attended funeral service was held Tuesday afternoon in the St. Andrews E. Presbyterian Church, Rev. Dr. R. L. Ballantyne officiating assisted by Rev. W. LeCras of Lachute. The pallbearers were his good friends and neighbors — Messrs. Bert Mitchell, Jas. McKenzie, Robt. Morrison, Duncan McDougall, Jas. Hammond, and Peter Bryce. Interment was made in the Lachute Cemetery.

When asked if he would take a certain city if he had the opportunity, Alexander thundered "I make opportunities". Many people today wait for someone else to provide an opportunity, while they could be making their own.

PT. FORTUNE MAN ON TRIAL AT L'ORIGNAL

Charged with Attempted Murder

John Angus McKinnon, 27, of Pointe Fortune, stood for trial on Tuesday before Justice Hope, of the Ontario Supreme Court, on a charge of attempted murder and arson arising from a fire and shooting last July 18.

McKinnon is alleged to have fired the home of John Smith, a neighbor at Pt. Fortune, by hurling through a window a can of ignited gasoline. When the Smith family escaped, police claim, McKinnon opened fire with a rifle, wounding Arthur Smith in the chest and right arm.

McKinnon was committed for trial July 29. He has been examined by four alienists but their findings had not been made public previous to the trial, reports of which are not yet made known.

HEAVY LOSS BY FIRE AT BROWNSBURG

DWELLING OVER STORE SCENE OF OUTBREAK

In the residence above the store of Jos. Malackiet, occupied by the proprietor and his family, occurred one of the worst fires seen in Brownsburg for some time.

The village firefighters responded to a call on Monday morning, and applied three lines of hose on a blaze of considerable proportions, which swept through the second storey of the structure in quick time. The efforts of the firemen kept the flames in bounds and saved the downstairs section. Much damage, however, resulted to the stock and store fixtures through water poured into the building; the upstairs interior was a scene of destruction and the total loss to property and contents is roughly estimated in the neighborhood of $3,000.

The fire was reported to have caught when a can of tar, being heated on a stove, suddenly ignited.

Three young men in the neighboring town of St. Jerome who pleaded guilty on Saturday before Magistrate Lalande to the sounding of a false alarm, were released on bail of $25. each. They will be sentenced on October 28. The men were 17, 24 and 25 years of age respectively.

A London man has received a postcard which his sister posted in Hong Kong on December 24, 1889, that is, forty-six years ago.

The way some of these radio commentators magnify the worst features of war possibilities, one would think they were whooping up a sports season.

Local Snapshot in Big Advertising

Quite recently, a young lad in this vicinity was photographed while carrying home two pails of Domestic Shortening. The picture came into the hands of Canadian Packers, Ltd., who, we understand, are featuring it in their fall advertising.—Our enterprising merchant, Mr. C. Stephens, will have an enlargement of the picture on exhibition next week.

CHILDREN'S DAY SERVICE AT ST. SIMEON'S

The Annual Children's Day Service for St. Simeon's Church, Lachute, was fittingly observed last Sunday, at the eleven o'clock service.

The children formed a procession into the church, preceded by the S. S. banner and flag, which were placed by the Rector on either side of the altar. Children formed the choir and sang a hymn very creditably during the offertory. The lessons were read by George Leggett Jr. and Kenneth Patterson respectively. Ruth LeCras presided at the organ. The Rector took as his text Prov. 22-6, "Train up a child in the way he

EUCHRE HELD IN AID OF PARISH FUNDS

The Euchre held on Tuesday evening in Lachute Auditorium, in aid of the Ste. Anastasie Parish Church funds, attracted a large gathering. Net proceeds of the effort amounted to something over $200.

BARN BURNED ON ST. PHILIPPE HIGHWAY

A large barn on the St. Philippe highway was ignited by a spark from the steam shovel engaged on road construction, and was burned to the ground recently. The barn was on the Lemay property, near the four corners east of St. Philippe. The road had been considerably widened and the building was close to the road excavation where a spark from the shovel set fire to the roof. Sand was thrown onto the barn and water pumped from a tank truck, part of the contractors' equipment. The Lachute Fire Brigade were called to the scene, but there was no other source of water supply, and the fire equipment was of little service. The barn was burned to the ground.

LINER HAS INTERESTING FREIGHT

A magnificent limousine—the property of Lord Tweedsmuir, Canada's new Governor-General—was unloaded Sunday morning from the Canadian Pacific liner Montrose, at Montreal.

The auto, an Armstrong-Siddeley, was quickly swung from the hold of the liner by booms, and was soon on its way to Ottawa, where it will be in readiness for the arrival of Baron Tweedsmuir on November 2.

It is understood that the machine will be used as the Governor-General's private car and will be kept in the garages at Rideau Hall for his service. It was the object of interest and curiosity as it was swung into the shed.

Good Material for Cabinet among Liberal Members . . . Government Unhindered by Sectional Influence.

"THE OTTAWA SPOTLIGHT"

Ottawa, October 22.—The selection of a cabinet is the first of many problems to be faced by the incoming premier, Mackenzie King. The election of 175 followers, with every province represented, has made the geographical representation in the cabinet relatively simple. There is a wealth of material to choose from. In the past many a mediocre member has found himself in the Cabinet simply because he was the least impossible representative of a part of the country which had not sent more than two or three government members to Ottawa. But in all provinces except Alberta Mr. Mackenzie King has a choice which includes one or two men of experience and capacity at least; and in Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes there is a positive plethora of talent waiting to be chosen. This wealth is not without its embarrassment either. There are a number of party veterans, who have been in cabinets before, who are old friends, and who demand attention. Their supporters and their provinces urge that they be placed in the cabinet. But at a time like this, with urgent and weighty problems to be solved and the policies of Liberalism to be put into effect as rapidly and effectively as possible, Mr. Mackenzie King has to avoid loading up his ministry with men whose best days are past; and whose Liberalism has waned.

END OF SECTIONAL INFLUENCE

High School Commissioners "At Home" to Parents

PROTESTANT SCHOOL TAX NOW LOWEST IN 25 YEARS

Co-operation between parents and school instructors—a theme stressed at the High School closing exercises here not long ago—found an early impetus in the function held last week, when the parents of school children were guests of the commissioners and staff.

The invitation was extended for Friday evening. Over three hundred parents were present in the High School buildings and were welcomed by the chairman, Dr. J. H. Mason.

Principal C. L. Hall in a brief address said the purpose of the gathering was to cultivate the spirit of co-operation, by bringing the parents into personal contact with the teachers, and that they might have the opportunity of visiting the classrooms and seeing for themselves the splendid conditions under which their children were being given instruction.

About 400 pupils are enrolled, of whom 120 are in the high school grades from 8 to 11. That Lachute High School is doing good work is evidenced by the report of the inspector, who gave a 95 per cent standing. In spite of all fears expressed in the new venture of consolidation, the board are able to announce that the taxes are now lower than for the last 25 years.

The staff, comprising C. L. Hall, M.A., G. H. Taylor, B.A., Misses Margaret Lacey, B.A., Freda K. Mason, B.A., Muriel V. Marshall, French Specialist, Lillian Webster, B.A., Dorothy E. Labelle, Mrs. E. R. Graham, Elizabeth Bruce, Gertrude McMahon, Eleanor McCoy, and

MISSIONARY SPEAKER AT THANK-OFFERING

One of the largest Thank-Offering meetings ever held under auspices of the W. M. S. of Lachute United, filled the church hall Tuesday afternoon. Following the proceedings and an interesting discourse by Mrs. Ralph Collins, missionary on furlough from Africa, a pleasant social time was spent around the tea tables. Proceeds amounting to a little over $100 were the gratifying result of this effort.

Mrs. J. Falconer occupied the chair in absence of the president, Mrs. R. Bradford. Mrs. Collins read letters from the native children and women of her West African Mission field—letters appreciating the efforts of Canadian helpers and affording a stirring example of world kinship in Christ. She spoke at length on her mission work, the habits and customs of the people in Angola, south of the Congo River, where the mission is located. Handicraft executed in the mission school, and other exhibits peculiar to the territory, were displayed; they added much to the instructive appeal of her topic.

Mrs. Collins was tendered a vote of thanks by the gathering.

ients of which were extremely pleased. Balloons, paper hats, whistles, etc., added fun to the gay party. The only regrettable part of the evening was that "Bill", who is still confined to hospital, was not able to be present.—It was our privilege however, to visit him on Wednesday, when we found him in the best of spirits. He is truly grateful of the many kindnesses that have been extended him while sick, and wishes to thank his many friends for their thoughtfulness.

FIRE TESTS ARE HELD IN ST. JEROME

Drills Held in Schools and Factories

Six tests have been made by St. Jerome firemen under the supervision of J. M. Leslie, of the Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association, at the request of the association following demand to have the insurance rates reduced in the town. These tests included the sounding of the alarm and the response of the firemen with their apparatus and the vacating of the building supposed to be on fire.

The pupils of three schools, on the same square, marched out of their buildings in two minutes on a given signal. There were 500 children in all. At another school, the two hundred pupils marched out in two minutes. The record however, went to the St. Jerome College where the pupils and brothers to the number of five hundred got out in less than a minute after closing all fire doors.

TRUCK DRIVER WILL STAND TRIAL

HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR HIGHWAY FATALITY

Hearing four important witnesses on Saturday, a jury at St. Hermas returned their verdict, concluding the inquest into the death of Mrs. Joseph Cyr of that village, killed a week previously when struck by a gasoline truck on Highway No. 8 near East Settlement.

Jeremie Forget of Ste. Scholastique, driver of the truck, was held criminally responsible and ordered to stand trial. He was released on bail with instructions to appear October 29th. before District Magistrate Donat Lalande of St. Jerome.

The inquest opened on Wednesday of last week, under Dr. Antonio Pagé of St. Hermas, coroner for that district. In the absence of important witnesses the inquiry was adjourned. Concluding evidence was heard on the Saturday from four witnesses, two from this locality, and two from Montreal, who were among the first to arrive at the scene following the mishap. Evidence showed that Mrs. Joseph Cyr had been driving her express wagon unlighted on the highway. Forget, driving a heavy gasoline truck, had struck the vehicle from the rear, causing injuries to Mrs. Cyr which proved fatal. Mrs. Cyr's daughter, Antoinette, was also badly shaken, and the horse was killed by the collision.

Jeremie Forget, in his testimony, claimed that the lights of a car approaching him in the opposite direction had not been dimmed, and the glare had temporarily blinded him so that he could not see the rig in which Mrs. Cyr was riding. Forget had not stopped after the collision, but was overtaken at St. Hermas.

Successful Dance in Auditorium

OR IN COOKING

it's FINE either way!

It's so handy to have a package of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in the kitchen. Serve it as a cereal. Use it also as a wholesome ingredient in your muffins, breads, omelets, waffles, etc.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk" to aid regular habits. ALL-BRAN is also rich in vitamin B, as well as iron, an element of the blood.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will correct constipation, due to insufficient bulk in the diet. In severe cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

The "bulk" of ALL-BRAN does not break down during digestion as does that of leafy vegetables, and is therefore more effective for furnishing the needed "bulk." It is a delicious laxative food... far better than patent medicines.

Get the red and green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

Miss Elsie Lawson, of Montreal, was a week-end guest of Mrs. J. DeWitt.

Miss H. V. Wales is spending the week in Montreal.

The many friends of Mrs. Booy are very sorry to hear of her removal to the hospital, and trust she will soon be back in St. Andrews again.

Messrs. Howard and Ralph Lalonde were guests of their mother at her cottage here for the week-end.

GRENVILLE

THE PASSING OF CLARENCE MURRAY

This entire community was deeply stirred by the passing of little Clarence Murray, only son of Mr. Frederick Murray, on Monday morning, Oct. 14th., after a few days' illness from appendicitis. He was only 11 years, 9 months and 16 days old.

Clarence was a kind, bright and active child, beloved by his family and school-mates who miss him sadly. He was a regular attendant at the Baptist Church and Sunday School.

On Oct. 16th. a short service was held at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Murray, followed by a very impressive funeral service in the Grenville Baptist Church conducted by his pastor, Rev. E. G. Baxter, which was largely attended, the church being filled with sympathizing relatives and friends. He was laid to rest in the Ogdensburg Cemetery beside his mother. Deepest sympathy is extended to his father, Mr. Fred Murray, his sister, Frances, his grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Walter Murray, Mr. and Mrs. George Perks, and many other relatives. Beautiful flowers from friends and relatives showed how much he was loved. These included—wreaths from the family and from Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Arnold; spray, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Matthew and Walter; spray, Mr. and Mrs. George Perks, Uncle Lawson and Helen Taylor; spray, Mrs. Hugh Cousins, Lois and Beatrice Perks; spray, Mr. Willie Murray and Ottawa cousins; spray, cousins Reta, Thelma and Dorothy.

The pallbearers were his cousin, Junior Heatlie, his school-mates, Glen Gauley, Walter Loughren, Russel Gauley, Emmet Lowe, Ulysses Beauchamp. Clarence's favorite hymn was sung—one which he often sang, "Love Lifted Me."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, October 27th., is "Probation after Death."

"Enter ye in at the strait gate: for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat: Because strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it... Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven." (Matthew 7: 13, 14, 21)

"We cannot spend our days here in ignorance of the Science of Life, and expect to find beyond the grave a reward for this ignorance. Death will not make us harmonious and immortal as a recompense for ignorance. If here we give no heed to Christian Science—which is spiritual and eternal, we shall not be ready for spiritual Life hereafter." (Science and Health, pp. 409, 410).

It Sometimes Happens

By MARY A. CATTON

The Lieutenant's survey showed that he had given a good deal of thought to this particular situation, and the part it might play in world affairs.

He continued: "As for myself at this part of the game, I am going to do as my super-ego advises, and henceforth keep out of the whole savage business. What in the name of common-sense are we here for, anyway! Not, surely, to fight like hungry animals for possession of a bone. No, mien Gott! And that life-extinguisher which I have planted over there, must have its energy interrupted." His right hand touched against a cold steel thing in his coat pocket.

Instantly his mind turned to a dream he had had shortly before sailing. A chill went over him as he thought of the details that seemed so vividly real. For what had then seemed to have happened to that American professor, could as easily happen to himself, now.

"That professor and spy might not have deserved what he got, any more than I, if all were known. Fate is never late at the gate! The American college professor had just gone out as I am doing, ostensibly to have a little casual stroll. And that same Nagasaki, where the inner-sea of the Island of Tomoshima is a sea within a sea, and an impenetrably built and well guarded naval harbor for the warships of the little nation, might easily be another place like this, where things could as suddenly happen.

"There, the professor had walked casually enough, smoking his pipe, hands folded behind his back, followed by his dog, and looking mostly skyward—thinking of his class-schedules for the next day probably, but never of death. Death would be the very last thing his mind would dwell upon, most likely..."

Suddenly, the Lieutenant's thoughts were interrupted by a flash of light, swift as a phantom, from a boat creeping away from a spot where it looked as if something might have been planted—or was this too a part of the dream, a delusion stimulated by what he had, a short time ago, done himself, when he planted that bomb...

He commenced to feel detached from his immediate surroundings in a way he could not quite account for, when his mind again returned to the dream: "That professor must have felt a sinister approach of something from the silence of the depths below, where he knew there were guns and sensitized grounded things that could send an intruder into fragments without a breath of sound. Yet, there he stood, because he wanted to know more of what was there. There were ominous clouds on the horizons of that beautiful country of the 'Yellow Peril' and recently his own Republic, he was no doubt thinking—when, in a second's time, he knew that his brain had made its last survey, feeling himself mysteriously transported from the heights. In that moment, he no doubt thought he had just lost his footing—if he thought at all. But, it wouldn't matter then, for it is easy to imagine how he would be lifted bodily, slipped head-first into a sack and dumped, without as much as a Te Deum, into the Bay—by two agile yellow-skinned performers, who, with shrewd slanting eyes set in expressionless faces, fulfilled a duty without as much as a whisper between them. The professor tasting the salt of the water soon after, and no doubt struggling, until he would commence to dream that he was scrambling up the cliff-side to the Presidio. And then, next day, the ringing of the Shinto Temple bells would carry a dirge to the ears of those who sorrowed for the death of a friend 'accidentally drowned in the Inner-bay." The great guns, also, would boom an official announcement in honor of "the learned foreign gentleman who had become so deeply established in the hearts of the people." Such announcement would be a friendly gesture from that land of cherry-blossoms to those across the Pacific—knowing well the diplomatic differences existing. "The Professor had lost his footing."—a little thing like that...

The Herr Lieutenant raised his eyes for a brief moment to the glowing skies without seeing them, for his thoughts were encompassed by other things which for the moment he seemed unable to escape. There was that "Disaster", so labelled at the time, that happened not so far from here—just a puff or two up the gulf from here, in the harbor at Halifax. "Collision between a French ship with thirty tons of TNT and a Norwegian freighter, in the harbor. Fourteen hundred killed, four thousand wounded, twenty million dollars damage done, and three quarters of the city destroyed."

"And here I am, 'Robert Gulliver', Scotsman, sight-seer, story-writer, artist, and what-not, on a world tour as it may appear... Gott, and I stand here ruminating on these things—on this spot where Indian first met beast, and later, white-man, in contest for possession, when the red-man's religion sustained him to the last. By that noble picturesqueness the spirit of him stands near, as when he scouted the enemy amid evergreens on this hillside, and with quiver and bow in readiness. What hero's blood was spilled perhaps in that very spot where the votive-lamp burns perpetually before the altar of the Ursuline Chapel over there..."

Thus, as one alone within the forests communing, stood the young Lieutenant under the influence of that atmosphere that surrounded him, charging him with an intenseness he could not have explained. It was as if he stood between all the living and all the dead of the world, and that something indefinable from the beyond had taken possession of him. All material things losing their importance as the moments went by, and mind grew in harmony with Mind.

For the first time in his life, the Lieutenant felt an intense buoyancy of soul, that brought conviction and sustained determination.

"Why shouldn't I stand here, as others do whenever they wish, and without causing suspicion?—A guest newly arrived at the palatial Chateau over there, where Von Wedden and his Frau stayed for a week a few years ago. How my beloved Kathryn would have enjoyed seeing this!..."

Again, he felt the cold steel-thing in his pocket touch his hand, reminding him of something. Plenty of time yet, he decided, after consulting his wrist-watch.

"Fatherland I shall never see again, unless a miracle happens. These clothes I am wearing I shall leave at the river's edge, and let those who may think as they like. I shall, also, leave a handkerchief in one of the pockets for identification at headquarters. And I, myself, shall go on traveling some indefinite paths, known still as 'Robert Gulliver'."

"Strange that there is always one particular spot on earth where one makes his best resolution in life."

He looked at his wrist-watch again. He had almost forgotten the time. "Gott!" he exclaimed aloud, "only ten minutes left!"

Stooped in the act of cutting something in the grass, the Lieutenant heard a voice. A familiar voice! He felt as if a hand had touched him on the shoulder. He raised himself up, and put his right hand quickly into his coat pocket. He saw that Colonel Churchill was not alone. He knew by their poise who they might be though they were in civilian clothes. In that instant he knew that Time, Energy, and Matter, had all conspired to play a colossal trick on him, (Concluded on page 4)

abled the King government to exist; and whether true or not it was always felt in some quarters that Mr. King was unduly influenced by the French members. In 1921-26 there were times when other parts of Canada thought the government unduly influenced by a small number of members from the West who held the balance of power. Now Mr. King holds office by virtue of a large representation from every economic area in Canada, and cannot very well be charged with undue concern for one part at the expense of another, for political reasons, at least. And the existence of eight Liberal provincial governments gives the government a golden opportunity for swift and decisive action along many fronts. Only an unfriendly Senate stands in the way: and with such an overwhelming majority in the Commons it is probable that the Senate will be careful about anything which ever appears to be obstruction.

If the new government is able to carry out its pledges the country can look for a period of intense activity. A great many things are waiting to be done. Trade negotiations will be carried on with the United States, with Japan and with the British Commonwealth of Nations. Afterwards, also, with other nations, the idea being the enlargement by all legitimate means of Canada's international trade. The Ottawa agreements will be amended in such a way as to allow Canada to regain control over the lowering of its tariffs. Numerous trade restrictions and obnoxious regulations will be abolished, and the power now vested in the executive to raise tariffs by arbitrary valuation and other means will be removed.

MARKETING ACT AMENDMENTS

Amendment may be expected at the first session of the Marketing Act. The power of the executive to restrict or ban import or export trade in regulated products will be taken away, it is expected; and the imposition of a jail sentence for failure to obey the regulations of a local board will also be eliminated. Another clause which the Liberals vigorously protested was that which found a producer guilty unless he could prove himself innocent, if he was charged with having goods produced in a regulated area. This is certain to go.

The abolition of Section 98 is on the program and unquestionably will be passed by the Commons at the first session. What the Senate will do to it is another matter. It may be recalled that it was placed on the statute books at the instance of the man who now leads the opposition forces in the Senate—Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen.

Improvement of Canada's electoral laws so that they more nearly represent the wishes of the people is also one of the pledges of the Liberal party. Proportional representation for the cities and the single transferable vote for the rural areas are the two reforms most often mentioned in this connection.

The lowering of duties will, probably, be most noticeable on textiles, boots and shoes, gasoline, automobiles, certain electrical apparatus, radios, farm machinery, fertilizer, barbed wire, fishing tackle and equipment and other requirements of primary production.

New Cancer Cure

The Canadian Medical Journal recently told of a new treatment for cancer being administered by Hendry C. Connell, M.D., of Kingston, Ontario. The Journal says that the work of the doctor cannot be lightly passed by although in tests with 29 humans having cancer four died; two have gone back to work. Five have been relieved of pain and the pain of nine others has diminished.

More Blame for Russia

Russia has been rightly and wrongly held responsible for many unpleasant things. However, no one thought of blaming the weather on her until recently. To be more exact, the cause for incorrect reports concerning the weather is that most of it comes across Bering Strait and Alaska from Siberia. It has not been possible heretofore to get good reports from the land of the Soviet on pressure, winds and precipitations of Siberia. But Russia is willing to correct the situation. Through the good offices of Will R. Gregg of Washington, daily radio weather reports will soon be available from Moscow.

News from the East is more war-like than ever. Greece refuses to recognize the union of Roumania with Bulgaria. The populace refuse to revolt against the Turkish Government before Greece declares war.

Craving a short space J. R. writes to protest against a poster calling a market day for the 28th. This takes the place of the usual fair once a year, which was instituted by the late John Meikle, some 40 years ago and which has served its day. There is at this moment thousands of pounds of butter of fair quality lying on the hands of our farmers which, if we had a market day would not be the case, because cash buyers would be attracted to the town.

A Chambly clergyman married his mother. She was a widow and he married her to her new husband.

The safe of Mr. Edmund Rodrigue was last night robbed of $800 by a boarder of the house who departed on the 7 p.m. train.

Saturday, Nov. 7th. has been appointed as Thanksgiving Day.

Sherbrooke sets up a claim for the Dominion Exhibition to be held there next year and claims the annual Federal grant of $10,000 towards it.

What might have been a serious accident happened on Sunday afternoon, when Mrs. P. Monette and Miss Blanche Rodrigue were out driving on Princess St. The sudden appearance of Mr. Dorion's automobile frightened the horse, which bolted and threw the occupants out of the rig. They were not seriously hurt and were driven home in the motor which caused the accident.

The steam barge "Roberval" ran on the shoals opposite Greece's Point on Saturday sustaining such damage that she foundered a mile farther down the river and now lies half submerged opposite the old locks.

Much sorrow is felt in Cushing over the sad and sudden death of Miss Maggie Chambers of St. Philippe. She was a favorite among her friends.

Just how much the people of this community lost in the Sheldon speculations is hard to say, but it is in the many thousands. Mr. Gall is being complimented upon putting Mr. Egg (whom as Sheldon's agent he characterized as rotten) out of the post office. Everything was not lost, however, as the investors found they had bought the experience that one cannot net from 30 to 40 p.c. per month in such luring speculations.

THE MODERN CAR

THE NEW FORD V-8 FOR 1936

Why do we say The New Ford V-8 for 1936?

What is new about it?

Of course, the newest engine in the low-price car field is still the V-8 engine. Since Ford made it available to all car users (keeping it as economical as cars with fewer cylinders) the Ford V-8 has been the newest engine on the market, and remains the newest for 1936.

You may buy a car on minor "talking points"—some specially advertised feature "with the car thrown in"—but after all, it is the engine you buy when you buy a car. Hence we put the engine first.

Other new points about the car make a long list.

Its lines are much more beautiful. The hood is longer and sweeps forward over the distinctive new radiator grille, giving the car a length and grace that are instantly impressive. The fenders are larger, with a wide flare. Horns are concealed behind circular grilles beneath the headlamps. New steel wheels.

Ford upholstery—always of sterling quality and excellent taste—is rich and enduring. The appointments of the car have a new touch of refinement. There is no question about the increased beauty of the Ford V-8 for 1936.

In more practical matters, many improvements have been made—Steering is made easier by a new steering gear ratio. The cooling system circulates 4½ gallons of water through a new, larger radiator. Natural thermosyphon action is assisted by two centrifugal water pumps. New style hood louvers permit a rapid air-flow around the engine.

Easier, quieter shifting of Ford gears—The gear shift lever now travels a shorter distance.

The two qualities you want in brakes—Brakes that stop the car with ease and certainty. Ford Super-Safety Brakes of the long-tested, fool-proof, mechanical design.

Safety—as always—in the electrically welded genuine steel body. Safety Glass all around at no extra cost. Hundreds have written grateful letters because this glass has protected the safety of their families.

A car you can drive without strain all day, if you like, in city or country. Steady, holds the road, responds to the driver's touch like a well-trained horse. You don't have to "push" or "fight" the Ford V-8—driver and car easily get on terms of good understanding with each other.

An engine has much to do with the roominess of a car. Very much indeed. A long engine uses up car space. The compact V-8 engine permits much of the ordinary engine space to be used by passengers.

It really is a great car in every way, this 1936 Ford V-8—the finest, safest, most dependable Ford car ever built. Get complete details at your nearest Ford dealer.

WITH THE TURMOIL of elections over at last, and Mr. King organizing his forces—we can sit back and await that era of industrial progress and national prosperity we have heard so much about.

VARIATION TO AN OLD CONTROVERSY

"WHATEVER the relative morality of city and country", says Prof. Chester Maxey, Whitman College, "the sublimest efforts to ennoble and uplift humanity are centered in the cities. Organized altruism has its headquarters in the city and radiates power from city to country. The strongest religious institution and the most potent reform organization are invariably found in the cities. Without the support which comes from the city the country church would be doomed to extinction. Without the leaders who, if not born in the city, are almost without exception trained in the city, practically all movements for social and moral amelioration will quickly wither and disappear".

Professor Maxey may be right; (professors are not so liable to contradiction). But however much the culture, the facilities and the organization of urban life has sponsored well meaning efforts for social benefit—it is a difference of effect rather than of spirit. For it is doubtful whether altruism could be found anywhere more concentrated, more wholesome and sincere than in the small rural town. Cities, of course, have the resources to crown public effort with greater achievement—but in actual public spirit and unselfish enterprise, they are no whit superior to our smaller centers.

THE LEAGUE HAS JUSTIFIED ITS EXISTENCE

A LAWYER said, "The more I study the Italo-Ethiopian situation the more confused I become. I read from two to four hours a night trying to get at original sources. However, I cannot countenance Italy's actions in the light of her principal excuse that she needs breathing space for her people. If she does, let her buy it. It will come dearer the way she is taking to get it."

We sometimes hear Italy's program compared to ours against the Indians. There is some similarity. But do moderns condone the actions of the forefathers who "first fell on their knees and then on the aborigines?"

To justify a modern international hold-up on the cry that it was once done, would be like snickering up your sleeve at a modern pirate ship endangering life on the high seas because it was once done.

The league would have been the laughing stock of all time if it had failed to function in this case. As it stands it has established a precedent which will prove very helpful when and if some other nation in the future decides to go gangstering.

Italy may have had grievances but she didn't need to go about righting them as she has, in this day of enlightenment. Wars of conquest have been outlawed by a world struggling upward to true civilization.

Most Peculiar Administration In The World

The City of London—the "one square mile"—traces the foundation of its government to the time when the Romans were in Britain. Its first charter of freedom was granted by William the Conqueror, and the Courts of Law which still operate within the borders of the city perpetuate a method of judicial administration established more than eight hundred years ago. The Corporation of London to-day is as jealous as ever in preserving its ancient institutions and special privileges. Its resistance in olden days to despotic actions by the sovereign is still symbolized in the fact that when the King pays a state visit to the city, he is met at Temple Bar by the Lord Mayor, who hands him the City Sword in token that the King enters with the goodwill of the citizens.

In the modern municipal government of the city there remains much which, at first sight, seems to be archaic. The aldermen are elected for life, and are irremovable. The Court of Common Council conducts the ordinary administrative work of the city, and although representing only 27,000 electors, it has a membership of 206, or 62 more than the London County Council.

—The Municipal Review (London).

Anti-Noise Drive Is World Wide

Rome, Paris, Berlin, London, Florence and Naples are among European cities that have taken steps to subdue noise at night, particularly in prohibiting the use of auto horns.

In Palestine, in the cities of Jerusalem, Jaffa and Tel Aviv, authorities have not only prohibited auto horns but also such warning devices as are used on bicycles, between specified hours.

Chicago authorities, it is noted, are applying the new Illinois law which gives policemen the right to judge whether a motorist is making an undue disturbance.

New York is also in the midst of an anti-noise drive. "Not another foot of elevated track will be constructed in my time, and many miles of it will be torn down", promised Mayor La Guardia, of New York, as his contribution to a noiseless city. "There are still some cabarets in our residential districts," he added. "There is no reason why they should annoy the neighborhood with what they call music late at night."

The Toronto Board of Control has prohibited the use of auto horns between 11 p.m. and 7 a.m.

In Ottawa, meanwhile, an old by-law just unearthed by city clerk, Norman H. Lett, specifically states that no one shall blow any horn, toot any whistle, shout in the public streets, or otherwise make noise calculated to disturb inhabitants. It does, however, make allowance for the ringing of church and chapel bells, the sounding of whistles or sirens on fire apparatus and for any other noise necessary to the safety or well-being of the public. In the city clerk's opinion the clause with regard to horn blowing would include horns on motor cars, although autos were unknown at the time the by-law was drawn up.

SCHOOL COMMISSION "AT HOME" TO PARENTS

Mr. Gordon Drysdale were in their respective class-rooms; they took pride in showing much of the pupils' work, and great interest was manifested as the parents slid into the seats of the youngsters with real satisfaction, their memories harking back to earlier days.

It was in 1892 that the old Academy was built, to accommodate 200 pupils; we are told there was much criticism at that time on account of the extravagance. The sum of $10,000 was borrowed for the purpose, payable in 30-year debentures.

In 1932 the present building was erected to accommodate 500; every room is attractively bright and cheery, with lofty ceilings and ample fresh air. It is notable that the teachers are cultivating the love of flowers; these appeared tastefully arranged in the spacious windows.

Following the tour of inspection refreshments were served in the large dining room, in which pupils bringing their lunches to school are able to take their noon-day meal in comfort; there is also ample provision for recreation in inclement weather.

This is the second occasion on which the School Commissioners have invited the parents to take real personal interest in this way, and the proof of its favorable acceptance was shown in the large gathering present.

CANADA INTRODUCES GAITERS TO SCOTCH

Canadians are generally accustomed to the wearing of rubbers as a protection in wet weather. In the British Isles rubber coverings for the feet are not so common, the general practice being to wear heavier soled boots and shoes. This is particularly the case in Scotland. The women of Scotland are taking to the wearing of rainettes, or gaiters, introduced by Canada to the market last year in place of the old Wellingtons, which are now being relegated to the country and for use by children. Canada supplies the major proportion of the rubber footwear imported into Scotland, with Kongkong occupying second place.

It Sometimes Happens ...

notwithstanding all his good intentions and resolutions Stealthily Time had walked over his momentarily abstracted brain, to where Energy and Matter stood waiting only a few minutes ahead. Unfortunately, the outcome would have to effect so many others who were totally innocent. He would have had it otherwise, but fate had placed her strong hand on the lever; so it must remain. His thoughts turned once more to the American professor's fate. He saluted the Colonel—human instrument of his finale—who briefly acknowledged the formality. Then their eyes met, and locked—eyes into eyes—with mute interrogation: Literally, "You here! and for what?"

Finally, "What's the big idea, Goering?" demanded the Colonel, with a tone of authority and self-assurance.

To the Lieutenant there was more than authority and self-assurance in the attitude of his one-time friend, his recent rival for the hand of the same woman. Hatred and revenge were there unconcealed.

"Too late for explanations now, Austin," answered Rudolf Goering. "I haven't yet cut that wire leading to the canned-energy lying over there in the ground, as I had intended doing, had you not interrupted my good intention. Will you permit me to do so now, sir?" He turned towards the spot.

"Halt!" resounded from the Colonel whose hand at the same time flashed a weapon threateningly towards him.

"Then, good-bye, Austin I forgive you."

Their souls passed with hundreds of others into the Unknown.

Next morning, great headlines in the press announced "Historical city of Quebec laid in ruins by a mysterious explosion that shattered the ancient fortifications and Citadel into fragments, along with a large part of the surrounding area. It is believed to have been caused by a bomb either inside or outside of the Citadel itself; though the opinions of investigators throw doubt on the theory that it was caused by other than some natural phenomenon—an earthquake or meteor perhaps. The former supposition is not regarded as probable."

THE END.

HOWDY

It doesn't cost a single cent To pass the time of day, (speed) And yet your smile perhaps may Some tramp upon his way.

He may be lonely, 'reft of friends, Starved for a kindly nod, Your inexpensive "Howdy, Bill," Will seem a gift from God.

So never say you are too poor The road with smiles to strew, Some lonely heart may beat again In gratitude to you.

HANGING TOGETHER

by John Edwin Price

Local business-men are more than mere money-makers. By ordering, unpacking and having handy the common necessities of life, they are a community asset.

In a small town known to us there is a hardware store. At the beginning of the depression the owner did not at once get in a cheap line of goods to meet the stringent-purse conditions. Many men felt things would soon be better. He stuck to his medium grade and high grade merchandise. In looking over mail-order catalogues, folks would compare the cheap built-to-sell-at-a-price stuff with the local man's medium grade goods. Others would drive to the nearest bigger town where the merchants had quickly gotten in the cheap goods. Gradually the home merchant had fewer and fewer calls for certain goods, until it became no longer profitable to carry them in stock.

In referring to him the other day, a local buyer said, "Can't get much at George's any more. He hasn't any chain links now. 'Spouse I oughtn't to kick though. He charged a cent a pound more for horse-shoe nails at the beginning of the depression and I got to buying them and other hardware in Blankville ten miles away. Now I gotta drive twenty miles to get twenty cents worth of chain links and I'm in a hurry too."
At that old Bill Bosworth piped up and said, "At seven cents a mile that would have paid the other cent on quite a lotta nails and George could have kept on stocking stuff."
It is conceivable that many local business and professional men and women could be gradually deprived of enough trade so that eventually it would not pay them to carry what we want, or render us a valued service when greatly needed.

A Quick Eye for Speculation

A Montreal car recently collided with the railing of a bridge near Brownsburg on the road to Lachute, and it was not long before an alert neighbor had exploited the circumstance and added $5 to his cash balance.

The automobile was not only a complete wreck but apparently on the verge of collapsing into the creek. The nearby resident is reported to have bought the derelict for the sum of ten dollars, and without so much as removing the machine, sold it again to a neighbor for fifteen dollars—all within a few hours' time.

WHERE EVERYTHING DATES "FROM THE FLOOD"

"In the State of Vermont, and particularly in the Winooski Valley, everything dates from the Flood. Not the deluge that made Noah famous and put Mount Ararat on the map, but the Flood of 1927 when many lives were lost and millions of dollars worth of property destroyed", says Robert Ayre in the Canadian National Railways Magazine. Railway bridges and line were washed away but in three months trains were again steaming through the State. The residents of towns in the devastated area thought it would take a year, and the return of the engine whistle was a never-to-be-forgotten sound. Today there is no sign of the disaster beyond "high-water marks" on station buildings and in the farmhouses of the beautiful Winooski Valley.

The Valley of the Mouse

One of the loveliest regions of France is near Mesieres, the capital of the Ardennes, founded in the Ninth century. Beyond the town lies a series of beautiful gorges with the river flowing 200 and 300 meters below the level of the plateau. Every valley, every rocky crag is filled with luxuriant vegetation and the dark red and gray cliffs of several hundred feet often approach too close to each other to allow a footpath on its banks. The district is the legendary home of "The Four Sons of Aymon," heroes of the Middle Ages, who rode one behind the other on the wonderful horse Bayard, gift of the fairy Orlando.

DESERVING OF HONOR

It is fully expected, now that the Liberal Party is entrenched at Ottawa, that Lachute's respected citizen, Mr. L. L. Legault, K.C., will at first opportunity be honored with a judgeship in recognition of the years of service he has rendered to his party. That he is well qualified no one can dispute, and the appointment would be most agreeable, not alone to himself but to his many friends.

DEATHS

BROWN—At the home of his daughter, Lachute Road, on Oct. 20th., 1935, William Jas. Brown, in his 71st. year. Funeral Tuesday afternoon and interment at Lachute Cemetery.

MURRAY—Suddenly, on Oct. 14, 1935, at Grenville, Que., Clarence Frederick Murray, son of Fred Murray and the late Violet Perks Murray, aged 11 years and 9 mos.

CARDS OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Parker wish to express thanks to friends and neighbors, for sympathy and assistance in the illness and death of the late Mr. Wm. Jas. Brown.

Mr. Fred Murray and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Murray and family wish to thank their many friends and relatives for kindness and floral offerings and sympathy in their recent sad bereavement.

WHERE THE PHONE WAS BORN

The invention of the telephone was not an isolated incident in the development of rapid communication. So much of the progress that has made our age one of wonders can be traced back to the principles involved in the telephone that this discovery may be regarded as one of the most significant achievements in human history. All Canada is proud of the fact that Dr. Bell's experiments leading to the perfection of the telephone were made in this country, which he loved and in which he died.

Alexander Graham Bell was born in Edinburgh in 1847 and came to Canada in 1870 with his father who became professor of elocution at Queen's University. Soon the younger Bell was prominent in New England as a leader in work with the deaf, and meanwhile his inventive genius matured. During visits to his father's home on Tutelo Heights at Brantford the theories of the telephone which had been forming in his mind crystallized, and there he proved their practicability in 1874. Afterwards came the historic conversation between Brantford and Paris, Ont., the first over a considerable distance.

In subsequent visits to Brantford Bell recognized the city on the Grand River as the true birth-place of the telephone and confirmed its right to be called "the telephone city." The Bell home on Tutelo Heights has been carefully preserved and visitors flock to it from all over the world. Rooms open to the public display furniture, pictures and documents relating to the lives of Dr. Bell and his family, along with apparatus used in his experiments and early telephonic equipment.

"CLIP" SHEEP WITH CHEMICALS, BUT ANIMALS CAN'T STAND IT!

If hair can be removed from the human skin by depilatories, why isn't it possible to remove wool from sheep by the same means? It was thus that Professor Iljin of the Soviet Animal Breeding Institute reasoned about two years ago. Bigger "clips" and reduced costs were the obvious advantages. It was predicted that four times as much wool would be gathered.

The proposal appealed to the government, and a million rubles was granted for experimenting. Professor Iljin has spent the money, but has little to show for it. How the sheep would take to chemical de-wooling had played no part in his scheming. Gallium was the depilatory that Professor Iljin adopted—a metal closely related to zinc and aluminum. Considerable sums were spent in extracting it from zinc ores. Wool was stripped according to predictions. New wool grew with the expected rapidity. But, alas, the sheep could not stand the treatment.

Newspapers began to hint that the government had received nothing in return for its donation of a million rubles. Some justification was demanded and Professor Iljin admitted failure.

Still believing in the chemical method of removing wool, the government is willing to appropriate 200,000 rubles more for research. Most of this money will be spent to find out what happens to a sheep after it has been treated with gallium and how its health can be preserved. —New York Times.

CREEPY SHADOWS

Some creepy shadows flitted Across my bedroom floor, Crept up upon my little bed And over to the door.

I drew the quilts up closely, And looked at them in fear. They moved about so softly. They made my throat feel queer.

I called loudly for my mother To come quickly to my room, And found, they were only clouds outside Playing cross-tag with the moon!

WHAT WAS PEEPING IN AT THE WINDOW

The children had gathered to enjoy Maybelle's Hallowe'en Party and were just going to begin the games, when Lulu said, "We are not all here yet, are we?"

"All the little tags which I had made for my guests are used up, so the 'gang' must all be present", laughed Maybelle. Little Rosie May, who had been furtively looking out of the window, said "We can't all be inside the house. Some of us are outside the window peeping in." There was a united cry of "Where?"

"At this window, at my back" said Rosie May, "someone with a false face on! Don't you see their eyes shining through the glass?"

"It's the old Hallowe'en Witch herself" shouted Bob Scott. "Duck, everyone, before she finds out who we are!" Some of the smaller children obeyed much to Bob's delight. He sat chuckling to see them ducking, yet turned to stare himself as someone placed a lamp directly opposite the window and the shining eyes outside seemed to shine more distinctly. "Hey, you fellow! whoever you are, come in here until we get a look at you!" he shouted, going closer to the window and shaking his fist at the apparition outside. "Whoever he is, he doesn't scare easily" he continued, as no movement was made outside the window. "Let's go out and see who it is! It must be someone playing tricks on us" Bob looked around at the others to see if anyone were willing to accompany him outside. No one offered to go.

"Surely you are not all scared?" he said, in his most scornful voice.

"I won't say that I am scared, really" said Bill Brown, "but still that looks to be a husky chap outside and one who's not afraid of anything; he did not move when you shook your fist at him." A nervous chorus of giggles was heard from the children. Bob Scott was the biggest boy in school and the self-styled "King of the Castle". "Why don't you go yourself, Bob?" one of the tiny chaps called out "—if you're not scared" he added shyly. "I'm not scared, huh no!" said Bob, but his face reddened and he made no move to go out alone.

How long the children would have stood arguing, it is hard to say; Maybelle's mother came into the room to see why they were so quiet. She had expected to hear them shouting with laughter and talking excitedly together.

"What! no one ducking for apples yet? Why children, what is the matter; is the water too cold? I'll put some warmer water in for you." As she turned to leave the room Maybelle caught her by the sleeve. "Don't go, mother. It's not the water that is bothering us, but that big black person outside with the shining eyes."

Her mother looked astonished. "Big black person?" she said, looking slowly from one to the other, "why whatever can you mean?"

"Look out the window, Mrs. Farrell!" cried Rosie May excitedly.

Mrs. Farrell stared at the window for a moment in silence. Then turning to the children she said "If I had had any idea that you'd be frightened by my big white-flowered begonia plant—why, children I certainly would not have set it there."

"Your big begonia plant!" The words came like an explosion from every child's throat.

"Your big begonia plant!" echoed a shrill cracked voice from the doorway. Some of the girls shrieked as they turned and saw a hideous-looking old squaw looking in at them. Her hands held a big wicker clothes basket which seemed to be filled with smaller baskets. "Who wants to buy a basket to help a poor woman?" This time the voice was a whine. Even Mrs. Farrell looked surprised. Who could it be?

"This pretty little girl wants a basket, I know", said the old squaw, coaxingly. Coming further into the room, she held a basket out to Rosie May. "No! no!" gasped the little girl stepping backwards, right onto Bobbety's tail. Bobbety howled and dashed out to the kitchen, barking and growling. This brought Mr. Farrell in to see what all the noise was about. The old squaw darted towards him. "Good kind man" she quavered "buy um baskets."

"Not tonight I think" Mr. Farrell replied, blinking in surprise at this unexpected approach. Maybelle, who had been tiptoeing around to the back of the old lady, suddenly called out "Uncle Robert, you mischief!" and threw her arm around the squaw's shoulders trying to loosen the head-dress at the same time. A sigh of relief swept through the room; if Maybelle was not afraid to touch the squaw it must be someone she was not afraid of.

From out the array of fuff and feathers came the laughing face of Maybelle's youngest uncle. "How did you recognize me, Maybelle?" he asked, "I thought that my disguise was perfect."

"Bobbety gave me the clue" Maybelle laughed.

"Bobbety?" her uncle exclaimed. "What has Bobbety got to do with it?" "I heard daddy say once that Bobbety never barked at any member of the family, and Bobbety never made a sound until Rosie May stepped on his tail. I knew then it was one of the folks, and investigated. I thought my little guests had had scare enough already with mother's begonia plant like a monstrous bug-a-booo outside the window, then you coming in right on top of that."

"Well, well!" said her uncle. "I'll have to make it up to them. We will make this Hallowe'en party just the jolliest ever, and when it is over perhaps you little folk will be willing to accept as a gift these baskets and their contents." "Well!" exclaimed Maybelle, "What witch or fairy told you that I was having a party tonight?"

"Neither", chuckled her uncle "I passed by here this afternoon and I smelled Hallowe'en party all the way to the road, so I decided to come, even if you did not invite me. Now I hope you are glad that I did."

"We are!" said Maybelle. Next story "What comes after Hallowe'en."

BOYS AND BICYCLES

Emile Joliat, chief of the Ottawa police force, is starting a campaign for the safe and sane riding of bicycles. He is beginning with the schools, by sending a police officer to instruct the boys on the precautions necessary to prevent accidents, and to give warnings also on the dangerous manner in which children ride bicycles on the city streets.

The master electric clock in a Minnesota power plant is paced by a good spring clock so people can hook up their electric time-pieces and get accurate impulses. How humiliating! —And they even figure the strength of an automobile in terms of horse power.

According to Rabbi Louis Mann of Chicago, "It costs that city $6 a year to maintain a Boy Scout, and $5,500 to apprehend and confine a juvenile delinquent." The figures do not greatly differ in Canada.

AN HISTORIC PUSH-BUTTON

A silver-gilt push-button used by King George to light the Jubilee Scout Beacon in Hyde Park has been presented by His Majesty to Imperial Scout Headquarters. THE PONY EXPRESS RIDES AGAIN

The rare make-believe adventure of "riding pony express" in swift relays over mountain and desert trails, 1900 miles from Sacramento, California, to St. Joseph, Missouri, fell to the lot of 190 American Boy Scouts this summer. The revival of the historic mail route of '49 was a commemorative feature arranged by the Oregon Trail Memorial Association. With his bag of dispatches, each Scout rode, all out, for ten miles, keeping a sharp eye for Indians and stage-coach robbers. Unfortunately none were encountered and the trusty six-shooter was not drawn.

WHERE DID HE PUT THE INCOME TAX?

A group of men were discussing budgeting the family income. "How do you manage it?" one said, turning to a member of the party who had not taken much part in the discussion.

"Well," he replied, "I spend about 30 per cent for shelter, 30 per cent for clothing, 40 per cent for food, and about 20 per cent for amusement."

"But", reminded one of the party, "that makes 120 per cent!"

"That's right," the other replied. "That is the way it goes."

POSSESSIONS

Possessions. Our lives are cluttered up with them. Our wings are clipped. Women spend most of their lives caring for them. Yet the chief struggle in life is for more possessions. Yes, I have been moving. And I tell you now that we do not own nearly as many things as we did this time last month. I threw away with abandon before we moved and then when I tried to find places for all our stuff, I threw away more. I judged by the acid test—had we used it in the last five years? But that did not always work. We have lived in our last house almost five years and things that were of no use in that house were quite useful in this one. Already we find that some of the things we threw away could have been used here. I dread seeing any member of the family go near the garbage because they are sure to find something they treasured there. There never was a house with enough shelf room. I will qualify that statement, because I know one woman who says she has more cupboard space and more shelf room than she can fill in her newly-built house. But then she has no children. Moving is a dreadful performance, but maybe it is a good thing to move once in a while and get rid of some of the excess baggage.

NATURAL FOODS

One of the best ways of promoting health is to eat natural foods. It has been said that modern foods are refined to death. Not so long ago it was difficult to get a flour or a cereal which contained the outer layers and the germ of the wheat but the demand has been created and millers are supplying it. If you can buy it freshly ground from your local miller so much the better but you will find that the chain stores carry

Fifty-first Annual Convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union

Mrs. J. W. Maclean of Cushing, Evangelistic Superintendent of the W.C.T.U. in Quebec Province, consecrated the convention at the opening meeting, in St. Andrews Church, Westmount, on Tuesday afternoon of last week. Mrs. H. Wilson of Athelstan, Provincial President, being in the chair. After the devotional services a Thanksgiving Service for the Jubilee year of their Most Gracious Majesties the King and Queen was conducted by Mrs. Maclean, Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Murray Gardiner, superintendent of medal contests. Mrs. Maclean in speaking of His Majesty stated that no king had ever reigned in a more restless and critical age. "We are hardly conscious of the serious consequences that might have befallen us if King George had not been a good and wise man, one so worthy of the warmest affection and confidence of his people, who seemingly take him for granted." Queen Mary's influence was given prominence in this service, as infinitely greater than can be traced to any of her predecessors, standing as she does before the world as the embodiment of all good womanhood.

In speaking of our recent sovereigns, Mrs. Maclean classed them thus: "Victoria the good; Edward the peacemaker; and George, the beloved," quoting also King George's recent reference to the bible, in which he said: "It is my confident hope that my subjects may never cease to cherish their noble inheritance in the English Bible which is in its spiritual significance the most valuable thing that this world affords."

Mrs. Gardiner's tribute was to the Queen, reading from the Woman's Letter-Box column of the Christian World, which claims her as being "the very mother of her people, a right royal lady of unassailable dignity and charm."

stirring occasionally. Pour the custard over 2 egg yolks slightly beaten and return to the fire for a moment longer. Fold in 2 egg whites beaten until stiff. Add a dash of salt and 1 teaspoon vanilla. If the mixture is too thick add a little more milk as flour varies in thickening. Put in sherbet glasses and sprinkle with 1/2 cup cocoanut which has been toasted in a slow oven until gently browned.

GRAPE JUICE CREAM

2 tablespoons gelatine
1 pint grape juice
sugar
4 egg whites
3/4 cup cream

Soak gelatine in 1/4 cup cold water for five minutes then add to hot grape juice. Add sugar to taste. Chill until it begins to thicken then fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour half this mixture into a mould or into individual moulds. Fold in the cream whipped and fill moulds. Chill. This may be served with whipped cream if desired.

POTPOURRI

Peel onions under water and they will not irritate the eyes.

If a kettle is in danger of boiling over add a little cold water and it will check the boiling.

To remove the flavour of fish or onions from a utensil after it has been washed, boil a little vinegar and water in it.

After Mrs. Wilson's quotation of the verse given below, a cable of felicitations and expression of loyalty was sent from the Convention directly to their Majesties.

The King.

The Royal burden—pomp and care entwined—
Royally borne through the long fateful days:
The storm and sunshine faced with equal mind
And steadfast soul, heedless of blame or praise:
Kingly in all: right kingly in the heart
That shares his people's joys and sorrowing:
And kinliest in the spirit held apart
For his Lord's service
—Ladies, the King!

A letter was also sent to Mr. Jack Miner in appreciation of his missionary work amongst the birds. He not only cares for their bodies by feeding them and providing resting places but he sends the Word of God to all parts of the earth by attaching tags, with bible verses stamped on them, to their legs when he sets them free.

Mrs. A. Graham, of Cushing, gave a short talk on Mr. Miner's work in this way, also on another subject, "The Child."

A resolution to continue supporting the League of Nations Society was adopted by the W.C.T.U., also a resolution sent the new premier-elect from the Young People's Band, on the liquor question, seeking his aid and sympathy in this matter.

The prize presented by Mrs. Wilson to the Young People's Band arranging the best yearly programme went to Brome Centre "Y", and the banner to Madison "Y" for the greatest increase in membership. Mrs. Wilson's prize for the best two-minute speech by a "Y" leader to Miss Gertrude Hawley, of Sutton, and for the best two-minute speech as to why she became a member of the W.C.T.U. to Mrs. Coddling of Hull—Papineau County, wife of Rev. E. (Continued on page 8)

BUY EGGS BY POUND IN MICHIGAN

Michigan housewives received a shock when they learned that after November 1 eggs will be sold by the pound—not by the dozen.

The order revolutionizing the egg buying habits of the entire state came from James Thomson, Agricultural Commissioner. He pointed out that after the change goes into effect dealers will have to grade their eggs according to size and quality.

"Housewives then will be able to get what they pay for," said the Commissioner.

INSULTING GOD

Rev. Dr. Jonathan Goforth, Toronto's blind Presbyterian minister, affirms that it is an insult for women to be found in churches singing the praise of God with make-up on. However, if the blind brother could see some women's morning faces he would urge more paint—not less. There is one encouraging thing about the situation—the women often keep the churches going—paint or not paint—criticism or no criticism.

The Week's Fashion News

By the Montreal "FASHION SCRIBE"

If you'll let "Fashion Scribe" have any say in the matter, you'll find that being out of Montreal does not mean being out of touch. The end of her pencil is simply quivering with news about fashion happenings... to tell you what's being worn, what shows indication of being worn, even what the newest ideas are in home furnishings and kitchen gadgets.

Montreal, Oct. 19.—Jewelry designers seem to have a positive genius for making necklets that send one's self-confidence, and the pulses of one's admirers, up several hundred percent. The latest is, that you clip a half-collar of rhinestones into the neckline of your afternoon or dinner dress to make it look still more formal. There are tiny clips at each end of this trinket that fasten easily into cloth.

We Canadians have to put up with so much cold and snow that it's no wonder we love carrying, or rather wearing, muffs. Wearing seems the better word, for many of the newer types are long enough to be called armlets. Many people are getting exceedingly fond of the purse type of muff too... With a metal frame. Several St. Catherine window displays are showing both these types of hand-warming fashions for winter.

At the Six-Day Bicycle Races (everybody seemed to go this year) we saw several new types of perky little hats. Many of these perch on top of the head and have jaunty wee peaks and folds. The cap-like hat is very youthifying, and is a law unto itself in that it doesn't remind one of a milkmaid's bonnet, or trench helmet or anything, but is refreshingly individual and modern looking. Besides which, it has the advantage of being minus a brim... and brims are apt to fight with the generous size collars being carried by winter coats.

At this news, every girl who likes going to parties should feel like throwing her hat into air and giving a whoop of joy. Evening wraps are usually capes this year... and many of these capes have hoods that are drawn up over the hair in Red Riding Hood fashion. If you have ever tried the effect you know how captivating it is, making a lovely line to frame your curls.

If you are the sort of person who likes having a good "read" of an evening, crawling first into something soft and warm that can stand lounging about in... then you probably know all. I can tell you about how comfy ribbed velveteen pyjamas are. College girls like them for the way they keep cool breezes off the ankles (dormitories seem to specialize in cold breezes) and business girls are equally fond of their smart warmth. The latest version presented in a St. Catherine Street store window was made with a wide Peter Pan collar, buttons down the front and a self belt, all this in one-piece style.

Fifty-first Annual Convention of Women's Christian Temperance Union

Coddling of Aylmer. Hull and Papineau Loyal Temperance Legion also had the honor of being counted the Banner Legion of the province.

Several important speakers brought greetings to the convention, including Dr. Kerr, pastor of the church; Col. W. Peacock of the Salvation Army who claimed that the Army was behind the W.C.T.U. one hundred per cent in this great work; Rev. Laval Smith, who remarked that one of the greatest problems that we had to face was the terrible problem of social drinking, particularly amongst the young; Miss Idola St. Jean, that great advocate of women's rights, who addressed the convention at some length revealing many of the unjust laws regarding women; Miss Cora Sifton, also Mr. Delavan, both of the Quebec League Against Alcohol; the Mayor of Westmount; Rev. MacLean of Outremont; W. T. Jones of Calvary Church who preached a stirring sermon on Mixed Marriages, ideas born of heart-breaking experiences of those of his personal acquaintance who had united in marriage with persons of other religions. Mr. Guy Tombs brought greetings from the United Church Presbyterial; Mr. Tombs is also head of the Sailors' Institute in which some of the good works of the W.C.T.U. are done. Mr. Tombs was an Argentineuill boy so we take pleasure in giving his welcome to the W.C.T.U. in full.

"Madam President, Ladies and Gentlemen:

It is a great privilege to appear before such an attractive and capable audience. I congratulate the Women's Temperance Union on having entered into the second half of its century after a successful but somewhat tempestuous voyage. I am sure that the formation at the W.C.T.U. was the forerunner of this noble army of workers throughout the world. Ever since man in some distant age discovered the process of fermentation by which sugar is converted into alcohol and carbonic acid, and experienced the intoxicating effects of liquor, there has in a sense been a liquor question. Biblical and other records of ancient civilization contain many references to it, but the evil was probably never so great as on the bleaker northern countries of our own time.

The temperance movement made its initial rapid progress mainly under the influence of the churches, so when it was graciously suggested that I present the greetings of the United Church to this gathering, I was very glad of the opportunity of meeting this faithful group. The United Church devotes much time to consideration of the temperance question, but I fear it is as much perplexed as anyone over the best procedure; some favor moral influence, others education, and still others legislation, to which I would add, example, and the fullest co-operation with other agencies, not forgetting modern economics.

The world is flooded with insidious propaganda which we cannot combat by force, but false ideas can be fought and fought successfully with upright ideas. I need hardly say that in addition to persistency this matter requires the greatest skill and tact, especially with our young people. I have recently been receiving letters from friends who have visited Russia, Germany and Italy, and it is surely significant that each one stresses the eager response of the youth of these lands to leadership, because they believe in its sincerity and courage. This should cause us at least to reflect. The tide of battle sways here and there but you are on the winning side. There is time only for one illustration of that fact—I am closely in touch with the great port of Montreal. May I assure you that the traditional drunken sailor is rare indeed, although it requires considerable moral courage to steer a clear course through a modern city of this size, and a sober navy is a great national asset. The W.C.T.U. and the Church must continue to take a long view. They each have an uphill road to travel, and may these roads lie together."

(Mr. Tombs might well mention the liquor question as being of ancient vintage, so to speak. Queen Victoria expressed her horror, back in 1893, at the intemperance of those days, saying, "I feel like giving up everything else and going in a Holy Crusade against it.")

Mr. T. C. Kerby, of the Montreal Motorist League, was expected to address the Convention, but did not appear. Mrs. John Scott, who had the task of securing speakers, expressed her disappointment, remarking that this was proof of the saying, that 'men were deceivers ever'. "When a man begins to flatter you," said Mrs. Scott, "You may look out, for he does not mean a word of it". Mrs. Scott had received a flattering acceptance of her request that Mr. Kerby should address the convention. Rev. T. W. Jones, at the opening of his speech, followed this theme with a humorous reference to himself and his address.

A Communion was held after the Memorial Service conducted by Mrs. Maclean of Cushing; Rev. Dr. McCutcheon of the First Baptist Church and Dr. Kerr officiated and women of all denominations and creeds sat down at the Lord's Table together.

The officers, of whom two, Mrs. Maclean as Evangelistic Supt., and Mrs. A. Graham, Quebec Page in Tidings, are of this vicinity, were re-elected, with the exception that Miss Mabel Fetterly of Montreal, replaces Miss Lora Robinson of Cowansville, as Young People's Band president.

Mrs. W. W. Robertson, of 3495 Van Horne Ave., Montreal, who is Coupon Superintendent, will be pleased to receive soap wrappers, Magic Baking Powder, Gillett's Lye, and other coupons, in aid of W.C.T.U. work. After many interesting discussions the Convention closed by singing "God Be With You till we Meet Again", the members realizing that alcohol is a habit-forming racial poison; the more you drink it the more you want, and the more you drink the more likely it is that your children will be handicapped for life, also that the point is not what the law allows or does not allow, or who wants to drink or who does not, or whether the drink is beer, wine or hard liquor—so much as that Alcohol is a Poison, and the more it is taken into the human system, the more poison is taken in to the destruction of our healthy bodies, our clear mindedness, and our own hope of a future salvation.

Naval Guns of 1812 and

Civil War Short Rangers

Naval guns of the War of 1812 were weapons of short range compared with some of the land guns constructed at an even earlier period. The American frigate Constitution and its British antagonist, the Guerriere, carried long guns capable of shooting a mile, and short guns, or carronades, with a range of a quarter to a half mile, says John A. Mennigh in the Chicago Tribune. The Constitution had 30 long 24-pounders and 22 carronades shooting 32-pound balls, while the Guerriere had 30 long 18-pounders and 16 32-pound carronades. But ranges meant very little to the naval heroes of old, who brought their ships together for close action, who maneuvered their vessels about to butt each other like billy goats, who ordered boarding parties to clear the enemy's decks with flaming cutlasses, and who often resorted to the firing of red-hot shot into the enemy's hold in order to set fire to his wooden decks and stanchions or explode his magazines.

The Civil war found naval engagements still carried out at fairly close quarters. The Kearsarge and Alabama, typical of naval development of that day, both carried smoothbore Dahlgrens and rifled cannon, the extreme range of the most powerful of the weapons being about a mile. The Kearsarge had four short 32-pounders, two 11-inch pivot guns, and one 30-pounder rifle. The Alabama had six short 32-pounders, one 100-pounder rifle, and one 8-inch shell gun.

Mars' Temperature Mean

40 Degrees Below Zero

Mars is 141,546,700 miles distant from the sun. Accordingly, notes a writer in the Chicago American, it receives a great deal less heat than Venus or the earth. Science estimates that the mean temperature of Mars is about 40 degrees below zero Fahrenheit. Conditions appear much less favorable for supporting life than on Venus. The atmospheric blanket of Mars is very thin. Around its North and South poles are heavy ice caps which appear to spread further downward toward its equator as winter sets in. The planet is believed to have very little water.

Only about half as big as the earth, Mars presents nevertheless a beautiful sight in the heavens. It shines not unlike the ruddy glow from a fire, dominating the sky with its brilliance. Through a telescope it looks like a round disk, with swirls of greenish blue and yellowish lines spreading across a large part of its surface.

Astronomers have found many likenesses between the earth and Venus so far. An observer, looking at the two planets from another, would find they were almost exactly alike as to size. Venus is held to be roughly about 327 miles smaller in diameter than the earth. The mass of Venus is practically the same as that of the earth. The force of gravity is not much different between the two, it being only about 15 per cent less on Venus. Mars, being only about half the earth's size, and with a density of about three-fourths that of the earth, has as a result a vastly lesser gravitational force.

BLACK BEAR TEMPTED MONTREALERS AT BROWNSBURG

HUNTER SECURED FINE TROPHY

While on a hunting expedition in the bush five miles north-east of Brownsburg, Dawson Keatley had the satisfaction of bringing down a fine specimen of a black bear, weighing between four and five hundred pounds. This is reported to be his third bear secured this year; so the northern section of this county may well be advertised as a "sportsman's paradise".

Dawson hung the carcass in front of Doran's Garage, Brownsburg, where it proved a great attraction—until a party of Montrealers passing by found the cost of $20 not too high, and proudly carried off the trophy to the city. Now they are doubtless relating the thrilling experiences of their capture!

TOKEN TO MINISTER LEAVING LACHUTE

At a social evening following the regular meeting of the Young People's Society of Lachute United, on Monday last, a pleasing event took place in the presentation of a fountain pen to Rev. Robt. Strange. Mr. Strange leaves today (Thursday) for his new charge at Apple Hill, Glengarry County.

The token was presented by Mr. Allan Biggar on behalf of the Society, with which Mr. Strange has joined heartily and given willing aid when occasion called, during his sojourn in Lachute.

UNION SERVICE MARKED ANNUAL SERVICE OF BIBLE SOCIETY

NEW DISTRICT SECRETARY WAS SPEAKER

The Lachute branch of the British and Foreign Bible Society held its annual meeting on Sunday evening in the United Church, other denominations having waived their services for the occasion.

Mr. T. J. Barron, as President of the Society, conducted the proceedings, assisted by Rev. R. Strange, Rev. H. Cousens and Rev. W. B. Rosborough.

Miss Valpy, the secretary, read the minutes of the Society's last meeting, which were duly approved. The officers, namely,—President, Mr. T. J. Barron; Vice-President, Mr. J. S. Giles; Secretary, Miss J. Valpy; Cor.-Sec'y., Mrs. R. McFaul; Asst. Cor.-Sec'y., Miss K. Reid; Treasurer, Mr. J. Skuffham—were all re-appointed.

The Rev. Dr. McLennan, who for so many years had rendered faithful service as Secretary of the division, has now been replaced by Rev. Mr. Adams, who has taken over the work, and made his first visit on this occasion. He was introduced in kindly manner by Rev. H. Cousens, and the speaker gave a most interesting address which was accompanied by a number of lantern slides depicting the peoples among whom the work of the Society is being carried on. It was stated that over 11,000,000 copies of bibles and of the scriptures have been distributed throughout the year.

Thanks were expressed to those who had so kindly lent their services as collectors. Although returns were not all in, it was expected the amount would not be far short of last year; already approximately $140 has been reported collected.

ANOTHER HIGHWAY CRASH NEAR EAST SETTLEMENT

Two new 1935 cars came to grief in a collision at the four corners on Highway No. 8 near East Settlement, on Thursday last. A new Ford in which Mr. and Mrs. Russell of Montreal were driving westward toward Lachute, was side-swiped by a new model Chrysler car in which two occupants were traveling toward Montreal. The latter car swerved to avoid a motor-cycle at the side of the road. Mrs. Russell sustained a bad cut on the leg, but otherwise the passengers of both cars escaped lightly. In the back seat Mr. Russell was carrying a number of wire-hair-

OUTBREAK OF FIRE ON BEDARD BOULEVARD

At 7 o'clock Saturday morning the Fire Brigade were summoned to a small fire in a four-tenement property on Bedard Blvd., owned by Amédée Normand. The outbreak had occurred in a clothes closet in one of the downstairs dwellings, occupied by Isaie Denault, where children having risen at an early hour were said to have been playing with matches. Little damage was caused and the flames, which had spread to the ceiling, were promptly subdued with a chemical extinguisher.

ed terriers and puppies; these although badly frightened, also escaped injury.

DUNANY CHURCH UNDERGOES IMPROVEMENTS

For the past several weeks St. Paul's Church, Dunany, has been the scene of continual activity. The church has undergone extensive repairs, while no change has been made in the main structure of the building.

A new roof of the best cedar shingles has been put on, the tower has been clap-boarded, and three new Gothic windows have been added to the porch tower. The steps have been improved and enlarged in cement. Improvements to the church building are now practically complete. An amount of several hundred dollars has been expended to date.

AYERS LTD. PRODUCTS AT PRODUCED-IN-CANADA EXHIBITION

Lachute will be represented among the exhibitors at the eighth annual National Produced in Canada Exhibition, being held in Montreal from November 6 to 16—it is announced by exhibition officials. The exhibition, largest annual show in Canada devoted entirely to the display of Canadian resources and products, will be held in the Sun Life Building.

First Lachute firm to secure space for the exhibition is Ayers Limited, which will display a number of its woolen blankets and other products made here.

NEW SNOW-PLOW OUTFIT PURCHASED BY LOCAL CORPORATION

LAURENTIAN ROADS LTD. EQUIPPING FOR WINTER

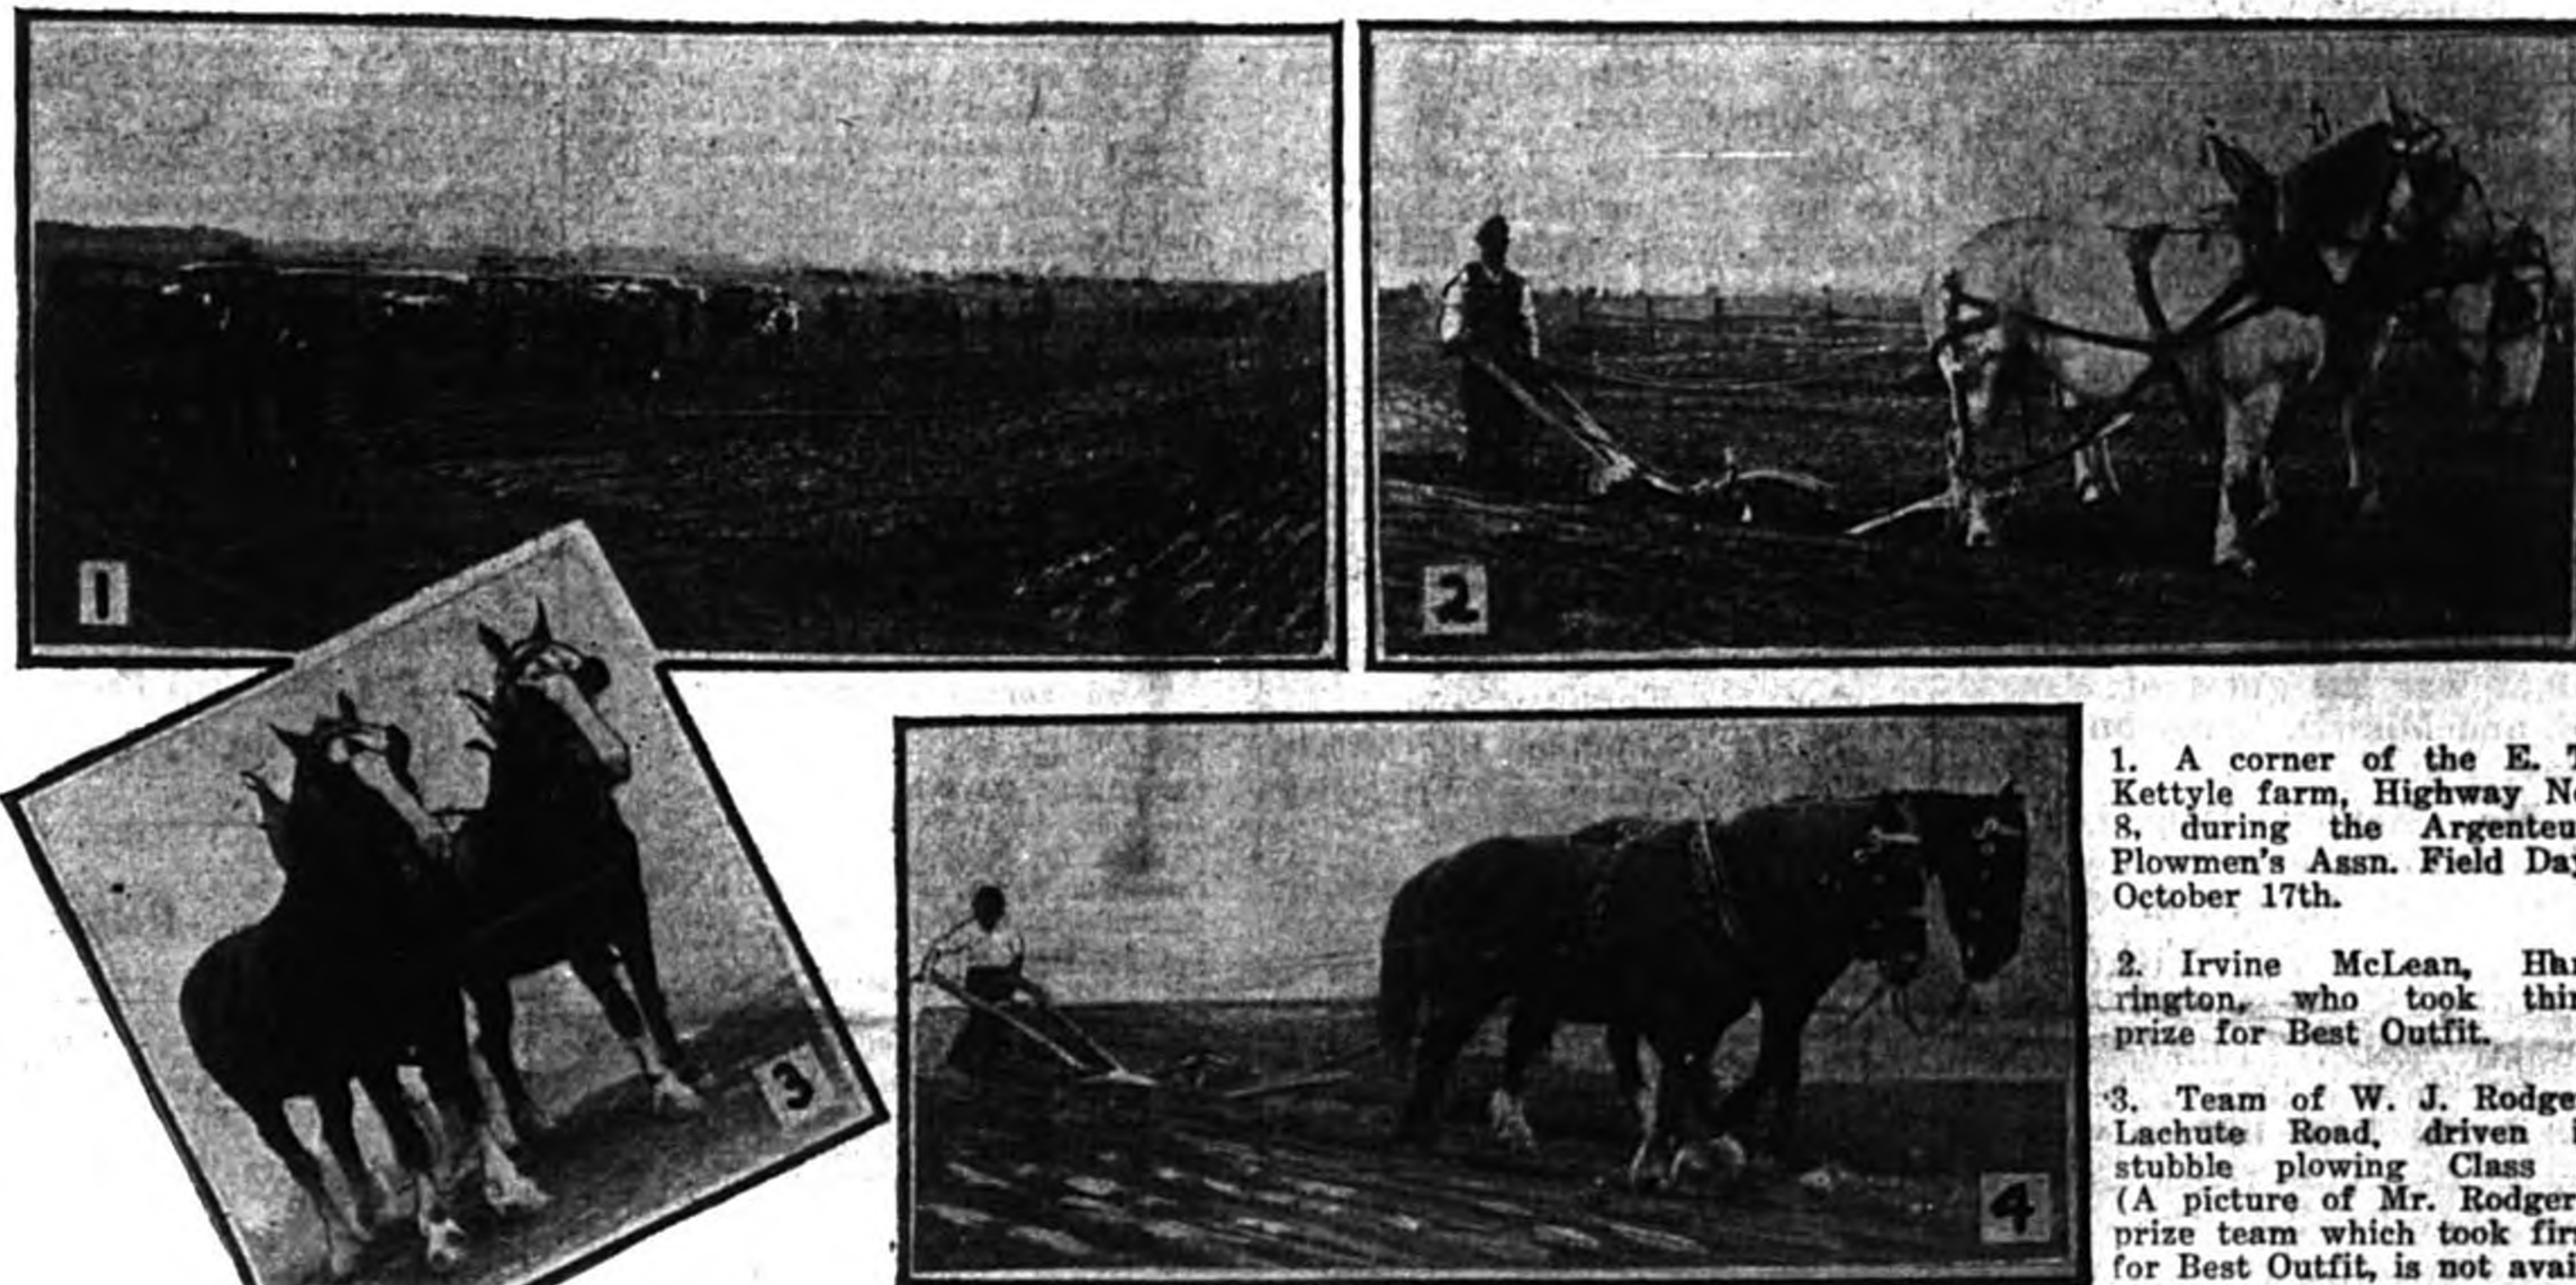

The company of business men from Lachute, Brownsburg and Grenville recently formed for the purpose of maintaining an open winter highway to Montreal via St. Jerome, has effected the purchase of a powerful tractor and snow-plow in readiness for the coming winter.

The tractor is a Bear catapillar-drive model weighing 5 tons, and the plow has a 12-ft. sweep. The outfit was used last season by a private enterprise clearing a 16-mile road outside of St. Hyacinthe. Here it was inspected last week by Messrs. N. Boyd, W. S. MacKimmie and W. J. Deacon from Lachute, and the purchase was made.

Another powerful Ford truck specially equipped with Marmon-Harrington four-wheel drive, was brought to Lachute to demonstrate to the company. This outfit is made at Indianapolis and distributed by a Montreal concern.

It is expected the tractor and plow will be delivered in Lachute this week.

Liberals Approve New Cabinet Election . . . Trend To Youthful Leadership . . . Average Age Reduced From 61 to 52

"THE OTTAWA SPOTLIGHT"

Ottawa, October 29.—There was genuine pleasure and satisfaction in Liberal circles when the new cabinet was announced. It was felt that the government was to be congratulated on having been able to gather together such a capable and promising ministry. There was, also, a feeling that Mackenzie King, in his first major trial, had come out triumphantly. He showed, in his selections, both wisdom and courage—it was felt—both as to those he took in, and those he left out. The spirit of willingness to mould the system to meet the needs of the day was evident. The tradition that all provinces must necessarily be represented, even if the general level of the cabinet be lowered thereby, was ignored. The cabinet was condensed, in fact, so as to increase its concentration and mobility. The decision to adopt a system of under-secretaries which has served well in Britain was also applauded. If it serves to free the major portfolios from a welter of routine and petty detail, leaving the ministers better able to cope with broad lines of policy in these grave days of depression it will, one ventures to think, prove to be a valuable addition.

The success of Premier Mackenzie King in persuading Hon. Charles Dunning to come into the cabinet as Minister of Finance was, it is felt generally, a master-stroke. It shows a number of things; the spirit of public service in Mr. Dunning, the confidence in the King government displayed by the new minister, the determination of the prime minister to leave no stone

Officers of New Local A. Y. P. A. Council Are Invested

Many members of the A.Y.P.A. branches of Calumet, Arundel and Lachute, and members of the congregation, gathered in St. Simeon's Church, Lachute, Tuesday evening, to attend the special service of induction of A.Y.P.A. officers of the local Council of this Diocese.

The service was ably conducted by Rev. W. LeCras, Chaplain of the Local Council, assisted by Rev. Phillips of Arundel and Rev. K. N. Brue-ton of Calumet. Mr. G. Taylor, Vice-President of the A.Y.P.A. Diocesan Council and Hon. Pres. of Local Council, read the Scripture Lesson. Rev. W. LeCras invested the following officers—R. Sancton, Pres.; C. Hall, Vice-Pres.; M. Marshall, Sec'y.; G. Martin, Treas. Special music for the occasion was rendered by the choir.

The service was followed by a social gathering in Margaret Rodger Memorial Hall. Those present entered heartily into

VILLAGE OF PIEDMONT WAS SCENE OF BIG FIRE

THREE HOUSES BURNED TO GROUND

Three summer homes were destroyed early Sunday morning in a fire which threatened the entire village of Piedmont. No cause for the fire was discovered, but as the three wooden houses were vacant at the time it is thought that someone must have entered and accidentally set the fire.

There was a strong wind blowing when the blaze was discovered at 4 o'clock, and at 8 o'clock the danger to the village was so great that the parish priest passed through the street bearing the Blessed Sacrament. The flames died down shortly afterwards, having razed three dwellings to the ground.

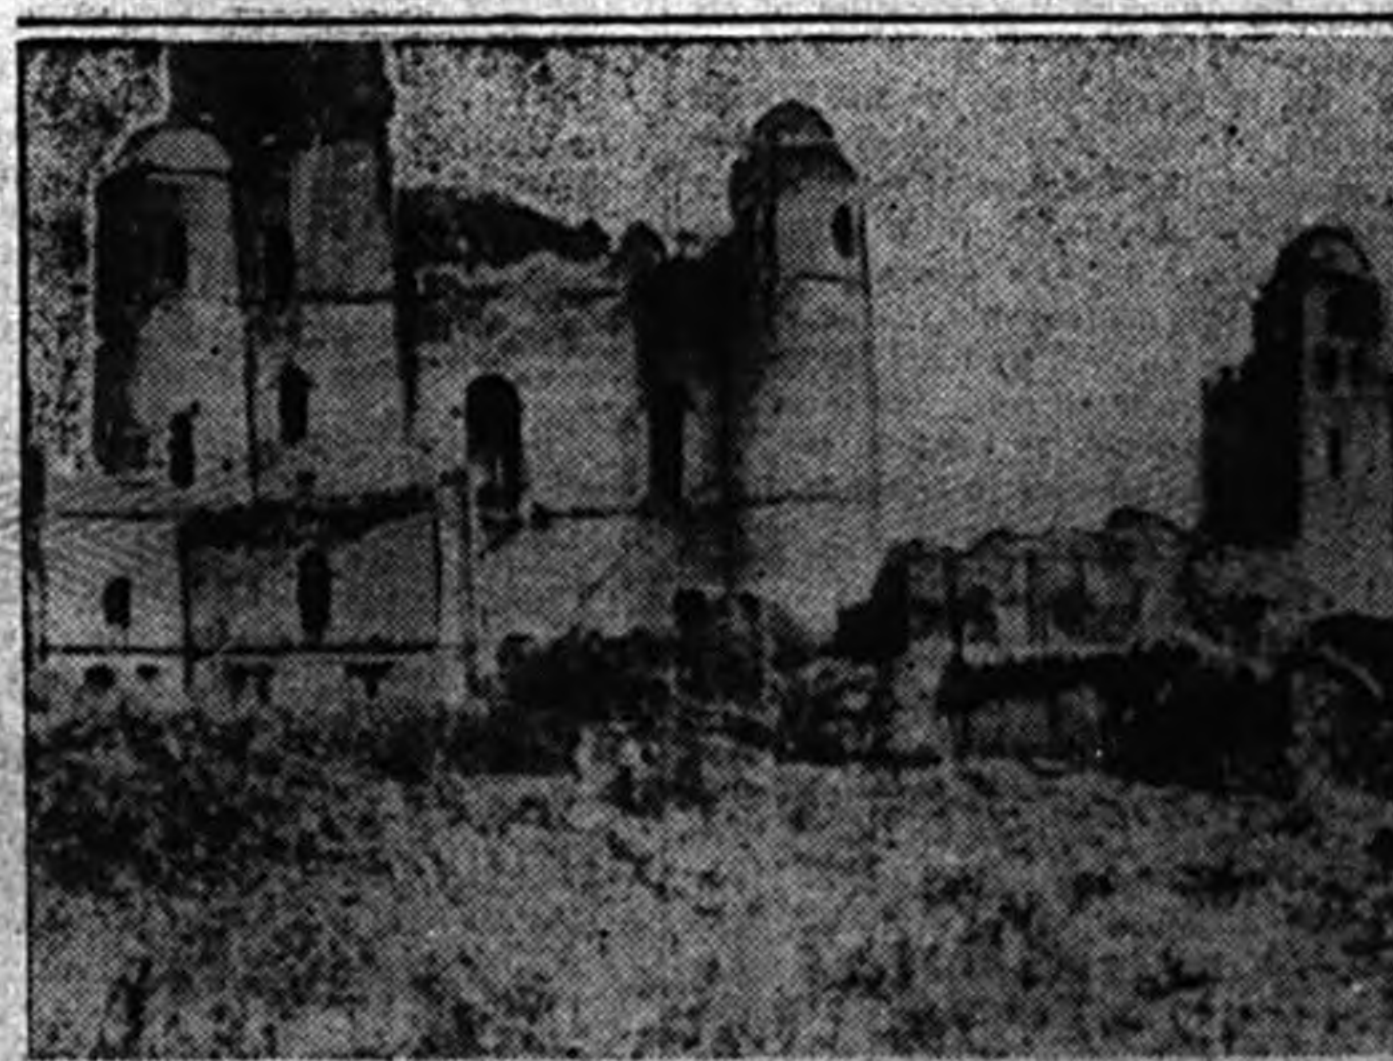

Volunteer firemen of the village fought the flames and volunteers from Ste. Adele, armed with chemical fire extinguishers, went to lend their aid.

ONLY 68 PER CENT OF VOTERS CAST BALLOTS

Although more Canadians voted in the recent federal election than in any previous contest in the Dominion, only 67.98 per cent. of those entitled to vote cast their ballots.

Statistical experts state that 4,022,567 persons voted on October 14, according to Canadian Press tabulations, out of a possible 5,917,387. This is said to be 67.98 per cent., and compares with 76.11 per cent. in 1930, 70.23 per cent. in 1926, 68.77 per cent. in 1925 and 70.16 per cent. in 1921.

It would also seem that, although the electors were bombarded with political arguments by radio, this had no effect in increasing the vote.

ITALY'S NEXT WAR OBJECTIVE

This is one of the few photos in existence of Gondar, capital of Amhara Province, 140 miles southwest of Addis Ababa. Ethiopian defense forces are expected to convert the ruins of the above castle, once occupied by the late King Fasil, into a fortress.

"TOOK ALL KINDS OF PILLS, THEN CEREAL BROUGHT RELIEF"

Constipation, Due to Insufficient "Bulk," Relieved by Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

A fine letter from Mrs. Snyder: "I have had trouble with my bowels for years, taking all kinds of pills and drugs, with no relief."

"One year ago, I saw Kellogg's ALL-BRAN and bought a package. I have good movements every day. I am 73 years old. I am telling my friends what bran has done for me."

—Mrs. Sallie Snyder. Address upon request.

"Constipation due to insufficient 'bulk' in meals. Research shows that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes 'bulk' to exercise the intestines. ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B, as well as iron, an element of the blood."

Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient to correct common constipation. With each meal, in serious cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN resists digestion better than the "bulk" in leafy vegetables. How much better to use this food in place of patent medicines.

At all grocers in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

Mr. G. Secord, of Alfred, Ont., was the guest of Mrs. O. E. and Miss D. Leroy on Saturday.

Mr. Stanley Donaldson, of Chatboro, spent Sunday, Oct. 20th., with friends in Verdun.

The sincere sympathy of Cushing residents is extended to Mr. Robert Pinkerton and family in the loss of his wife. She will long be remembered by all, as a kind friend and good neighbor to all in the vicinity.

St. Mungo's Church held an interesting Thanksgiving supper on Wednesday night with Miss Heese of Verdun, a very entertaining elocutionist, and Grant, also of Verdun, a very fine baritone, as special entertainers on the program. Mr. Keith Canning recited "Let me live in a house by the side of the road and be a friend to man". Rev. Mr. A. E. Hagar of Brownsburg, gave a splendid address, and Miss R. Todd of Lachute was the pianist for the evening.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, Nov. 3rd., is "Everlasting Punishment".

The Golden Text is:—"Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me." (Psalms 51: 10).

The following correlative passages are selected from among those comprised in the Lesson-Sermon to be read from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:

"Have mercy upon me, O God, according to thy loving-kindness: according to the multitude of thy tender mercies blot out my transgressions. Wash me thoroughly from mine iniquity, and cleanse me from my sin. For I acknowledge my transgressions: and my sin is ever before me." (Psalms 51: 1-3).

"It is 'easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle', than for sinful beliefs to enter the kingdom of heaven. Through repentance, spiritual baptism and regeneration, mortals put off their material beliefs and false individuality. It is only a question of time when 'they shall all know Me (God)', from the least of them unto the greatest." (Science and Health, pages 241, 242).

On Making Mistakes..

The merchant, on checking his cash register at the close of the day's business, rarely finds that the total of the cash in the drawer tallies with that on the recording tape. Someone in his employ—sometimes the merchant himself—has given the custom-er the wrong change. He can recall a dozen instances in each day's business when customers have complained about getting the wrong goods, or being overcharged, or being compelled to await tardy deliveries.

Housewives make mistakes. They forget the salt for the potatoes, the soda for the biscuits, the extract for the lemon pie.

Everybody makes mistakes. Doctors, lawyers, plumbers, tailors, teachers, sailors, soldiers, dentists, grocers, laborers. There is no such thing as a perfect human being.

But almost everyone can get away with little slips without the general public finding out about them. The merchants put down their mistakes to profit and loss, and no one is the wiser. The housewife dumps the spoiled biscuits in a garbage can, and no one knows about her mistake, but the garbage collector. Doctors bury their mistakes under six feet of earth and lawyers hide theirs under 600 or 6,000 words of legal terminology.

But the poor newspaperman just can't get away with it. His mistakes stand out like a sore thumb on the middle of the front page or in the opening sentence of his cherished editorial. And all the other folks who make mistakes point the accusing finger at the poor newspaperman with an "Ah, hah! We caught you!" attitude that makes it all the more unbearable.

We deserve your sympathy, not your scorn.

The Women's Guild of the United Church met at the home of the Misses Hooker on Thursday.

Mr. H. G. Baugh, who has been the student minister in Lakefield Parish for the past several months, completed his summer duty assisting at the services on Sunday last. Mr. Baugh will take up church work in Montreal during the winter months.

Airplane Machine Gun Inventor

Roland G. Garros, French aviator, is credited with the invention of the synchronized airplane machine gun. He is known in France as the father of air duelling, which changed the mode of air fighting considerably. In February of the year 1914 he mounted a gun in such a position that it was able to fire through the propeller of an airplane, which was a mode of fighting. In 18 days he is credited with shooting down five enemy planes. He was brought down on the day of his last victory, April 19, 1915, and was taken prisoner by the Germans. He was unable to destroy his plane, which the Germans copied, and his invention was no longer a secret. He later escaped and returned to France. He was killed in aerial combat in October, 1918.

Worship the Buffalo

Experienced and hardened world travelers not infrequently giggle themselves into a state of hysterics when they get around to visiting the Todas of India, says the Detroit News. In cone-shaped temples the Todas bow down and worship the buffalo. The notion that the buffalo is sacred is only one of their many ideas. Among the Todas women occupies a very inferior position and upon meeting man greets him by touching his feet with her forehead. On the other hand, polyandry prevails. It is customary for several brothers to share the same woman.

Here and There

Our vanishing wildernesses have for some time elicited the concern of conservationists, but now science is bespeaking our solicitude in behalf of some of the glaciers which bid fair to disappear within a few decades. If scorching summers succeeded by mild winters became the rule, Dr. Francois E. Mathes, of the United States Geological Survey, fears that within another 30 years Glacier National Park, Montana, may be minus its glaciers. Mount Rainier National Park, Washington, also has suffered from heat prostration. At no time within the memory of living persons has the recession of the ice rivers in these areas been so rapid as during the long-protracted heat wave of 1934. During normal winters snowfall and frigidities are wont to replace to a large degree the melting snows of summer.

Third annual competition for the most beautiful autumn-tinted Maple Leaf is announced by the Canadian Government through the Canadian Travel Bureau at Ottawa in co-operation with the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways. The prize list for the 1935 competition provides for a total of $200, of which $100 goes to the person sending in the most beautiful leaf; a second prize of $40 and a third prize of $20. In addition a prize of $30 for the leaf with largest area, and for second largest $10 will be awarded.

"Steel of Empire," the recently published work by John Murray Gibson, while really the story of the Canadian Pacific Railway, has so much of other Canadian history that it will find a permanent place as one of the outstanding contributions to the records of the Dominion. Starting with the first known arrival on our shores, a Chinaman, Hui Sien, in British Columbia at the end of the fifth century, Mr. Gibson traces the romantic growth of the Canadian Pacific, many centuries later, with a wealth of incident and detail, the author's long association with the railway having been of the utmost value.

Possessing one of the finest collections in the world of colored pictures of scenes in the heart of the Rocky Mountains, T. H. Lonsdale, of Banff, recently exhibited them to the Women's Canadian Club at an illustrated lecture at the Vancouver Hotel. The pictures included scenes of mountains, valleys, lakes and bird, animal and flower life.

Evangeline Booth, 69-year-old commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army, told the "story of the Army" to the Men and Women's Canadian Club at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, recently. "I was born in the Salvation Army," she said, "but it has never become a common thing to me. It has always been a miracle." A capacity audience gave her an ovation.

Keen outdoor man, enthusiastic member and past president of the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies and a leading stalwart in the ranks of the Trail Hikers, J. M. Wardle, chief engineer, National Parks of Canada, has won well-deserved promotion to the post of deputy minister of the Department of the Interior, Ottawa.

Premier Dwyer, of New Brunswick, was the chief speaker recently when the City of Saint John played host at a dinner in the Admiral Beatty Hotel to New Brunswick's guides at their 27th annual convention. Heavy fall guiding affected attendance, but a good membership under the chairmanship of William T. Griffin, of Boiestown, president of the Association, enjoyed a successful gathering.

Fond Mother: "What do you think baby will be when he grows up?"
Exasperated Father (fed up): "I don't know—town crier, most likely."

Bert (passionately)—Life to me was a desert until I met you!

Doreen (coldly)—Is that why you dance like a camel?

Golf is the tie that binds many a husband and wife by separating them on Saturdays, Sundays and other fighting holidays.

turned in grappling with the problems of the day. Mr. Dunning has impressed those who deal with him as a man of rare capacity and integrity; and there was no one in the political world whom Mr. King could have secured so likely to win the confidence of the people generally. He is acceptable to the big interests; and at the same time he enjoys the respect of the masses of the people. He is a low tariff man and yet is sufficiently familiar with the processes of commerce to refrain from taking action calculated to destroy or unsettle industry.

There are other notable choices. The selection of Hon. C. D. Howe in one sense is a gamble; he has had no political experience. But he comes as a brilliant engineer, and as a successful business man; and in one sense at least it is a distinct advantage to have over the railways department a man who has never dabbled much in the purely political field. The less politics enters into the railway problem the better.

The choice of J. L. Hsley as Minister of National Revenue is a rather daring stroke also, quite justified by Mr. Hsley's performance to date. The portfolio is among the heaviest of all in administrative character and the fact that it was given to a man of 41 is a tribute to Mr. King's vision. It is, also, a diplomatic stroke that the post which governs to a considerable extent the height of the tariff wall should have been given to a man from the Maritimes; while the tariff-making portfolio went to one associated mostly with the West. This alone will help to convince many people that the Liberal party was in earnest when it proposed to lower tariff walls and give business a chance to flow once more between Canada and other countries.

PROMISING NEW MEN

Hon. J. E. Michaud of New Brunswick has had a long and quite distinguished parliamentary career in his own province; and he has struck the Commons as being a man of considerable capacity. The Quebec men are already tried and proven; the addition of Major Chubby Power adds a younger colleague of notable vigor and ability. Professor Norman Rogers is a brilliant economist and scholar; and it is a tribute to him that he has been given a post which will demand very heavy and able service during the depression. He was Mr. King's private secretary for a while; and it is likely that he will more than measure up to expectations. His background is quite similar to that of the prime minister who was, it is recalled, the first deputy minister of labor and the first minister too.

Hon. W. D. Euler takes to Trade and Commerce, a portfolio which in view of the Liberal program of stimulating trade is of especial importance, a fine record of integrity and capacity; and there will be unlimited scope for his business outlook and administrative genius in the development of new trade contacts with other countries as well as the encouragement of business at home.

The average age of the new King cabinet is 52. The average age of the Bennett cabinet in 1934, before the reorganization began, was 61. This indicates the stress being placed on youth. The oldest member of the new cabinet is 63; and there are six men in the forties.

A meeting of Lachute Council was held in the Court House on the 22nd., at which were present J. Fish, pro-Mayor, and Councilors G. L. Meikle, P. Lane, T. Christie, T. McOuat, T. Bedard, F. X. Bertrand and G. J. Walker.

It was moved by Coun. McOuat, seconded by Coun. Fish that the salary of Health Inspector and Town Officer be fixed at seven dollars per week for seven days and that said salary shall include all services that he may be required to render to this Council and Board of Health.

Doctors Christie and Smith are going from house to house vaccinating all those not previously vaccinated as a precaution to the spread of smallpox.

Mr. Joseph Davis' tender for building the hospital for Lachute was accepted by the committee yesterday and it is to be rushed to completion.

A letter from Dr. Stackhouse takes exception to one appearing in previous issue, from Thos. Jefferson of St. Andrews, who gave a pleasing description of a trip he and his wife took to Toronto. In this write-up he questioned the values of false teeth, claiming there was neither worth nor material in a set of teeth. The error is pointed out by Dr. Stackhouse, who says: "My agent sent me an old set of upper teeth this week that had been worn for years, and after breaking the teeth off I offered $19 for the old material alone. Will Mr. Jefferson say there is no difference between

The Fraser property was sold at Ste. Scholastique on Monday last and purchased by Mr. Geo. Fraser for $11,500.

On Sunday morning fire broke out in the Temple Barber Shop and Billiard Parlor at Brownsburg. The damage was between $400 and $500, fully covered by insurance.

The death of George Seale occurred at his home in Louisa on October 16th. at the age of 86 years.

Last week we recorded the death of the late Nelson Albright and now we have to record the death of his son Martin S., at the age of 53 years. Last Saturday the family removed from the homestead at La Baie to St. Andrews and that same night he died somewhat unexpectedly.

The Rev. Thos. Mitchell gave the Thanksgiving address in the Lachute Baptist Church last Monday.

The Concert given by ladies of St. Simeon's Church in the Town Hall was a great success. The ladies' quartettes, sung by the Misses Carr, McConnell, Joss and Plaisted were beautifully rendered. Messrs. Charters, McBurney, Walland, Jousse and Giles also appeared in several quartettes that were most acceptable. A monologue tableau by E. Jousse of his old sweethearts was quite a feature. In this parts were taken by Misses L. Garretsee, B. McOuat, R. Hampton, Norah de Lisle, Gladys McOuat, Marion Slater, Miss Plaisted, Lilly Hampton and Eleanor Hay.

the cost of the material in this set and the ones he got for $6.50?"

My Debt to my City

MY City owes me nothing. If accounts were balanced at this date, I would be the debtor. Haven't I, all these years, lived within the limits of the City and shared all its benefits? Haven't I had the benefit of its schools and churches? Haven't I had the use of its libraries, parks, and public places? Haven't I had the protection of its fire, police, and health department? Haven't its people, during all this time, been gathering for me, from the four corners of the earth, food for my table, clothing for my body, and material for my home?

"Hasn't my City furnished the patronage by which I have succeeded in my business? Hasn't it furnished the best friends of my life, whose ideals have been my inspiration, whose kind words have been my cheer, and whose helpfulness has carried me over the greatest difficulties?"

"What will I give in return? Not simply the taxes which cover so small a part of what I have received. I want to give more; I want, of my own free will, to give enough that I can rightfully say, 'This is my City,' so that I can take pride in 'my City,' so that I can take pride in its prosperity, in the honors which come to its citizens, and all that makes it greater and better.

"I can do this only by becoming a part of the City—by giving to it generously of myself. In this way only can I, even in small part, pay the great debt I owe to my City."

Irritation of Mantle Is Cause of Pearl's Growth

A pearl is a growth in a pearl oyster or other shellfish caused by a persistent irritation of its mantle. The persistent irritation which causes pearl formation is usually due to the presence of some foreign matter which has entered the shell—sometimes a grain of sand or a fragment of broken shell.

Probably in most cases it is the larvae of a parasite worm or a minute crustacean. Whatever the nature of the cause, the mollusk endeavors to reduce the irritation by inclosing it in a layer of the same kind of matter of pearl nacre of which the inside of its shell is made. Once started, the covering of nacre continues to grow by the addition of layer over layer until after a lapse of years the minute seed pearl formed may have grown into a pearl of large size.

As a natural pearl is a consequence of the accidental introduction of an irritant, it would seem that pearls could be cultivated by merely introducing the irritant by artificial means. But the successful cultivation of pearls has proved to be a complicated process accomplished by the Japanese only after years of study and experiment. The nucleus of the culture pearl is a small seed pearl or it may be a minute ball of mother of pearl or other substance. This is first inclosed in a sack made from the mantle of a pearl oyster.

Changing Civilizations

Jerusalem and the Holy Land have been violent enough, from the days of Isaiah and Sennacherib to the present, but the marks of violence are overshadowed by the peaceful reverence that lies over the land. A crusader's tower reminds one of the Saracens and Richard the Lion-Hearted. The British cemetery recalls the World War. Jaffa was besieged by Napoleon. But the most important memories are those surrounding the many Christian, Jewish and Mohammedan shrines. Bethlehem, the Mount of Olives, the Garden of Gethsemane, the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, the Mosque of Omar, the Walling Wall, Rachel's tomb, Bethany, the Sea of Galilee, round out a picture of changing civilizations.—Chicago Daily News.

Hitler and the Universities

"The German people are the smartest people in the world. How can Hitler fool them?"

The statement and question came from an American. The answer may be two fold. First Hitler has done and is doing much to bring certain comforts and luxuries to the masses.

Second, he has apparently won over or frightened over one group at a time. According to the New York Times the last groups to be put in Brown Shirts are the university fraternities. Half of them are to be abolished immediately. The rest are soon to go. There used to be debates between Nazis and aristocratic frat men. The government has decided the debate.

The Times for October 13th said in part:

"The houses of the 110 fraternities are being turned over to the Nazi Student League to be used as meeting halls for political discussion. The change is being marked, it was announced last week, by a final ceremony in the Wartburg, near Eisenach.

For more than a century German fraternities played an important role at the universities. Their customs and regalia, their celebrations and pranks, provided the most colorful aspects of life in university towns. Fraternity duellists fought battles to prove their mettle; one of the best in his students days was Bismarck.

In holding a final ceremony at the Wartburg the German Burschenschaften are going back to their origins. They arose after 1815 in protest against the suppression of liberty. They hated the tyrant princes who ruled over them.

On Oct. 18, 1817, the members of the Burschenschaften staged a great celebration on the Wartburg, where 300 years earlier Luther had sought refuge. Patriotic addresses were made; the young students built a bonfire and tossed into the flames reactionary books, a corporal's baton and an officer's wig, symbols of tyranny.

The Wartburg Festival caused consternation among the princes. They feared a revolution. The Burschenschaften were ordered dissolved. They survived that threat. Now, once again, they are threatened with extinction.

Conducted Tours - a Dream Come True for Canadian Schoolboys

MONTREAL BOYS TO VISIT THE CAPITAL

cost all-expense trip leaves Windsor Station at 8.00 a.m., Westmount at 8.06, and Montreal West at 8.12 on November 9, returning the same evening to Montreal West at 6.35 p.m., Westmount at 6.42, and Windsor Station at 6.50. It provides for more than five and a half hours in Ottawa.

The part of the trip that will probably be of greatest interest to most of the young Canadians is the visit to the stately Gothic buildings of Canada's House of Parliament, where Canada's law-makers run the country. Out of them rises the beautiful Peace Tower, containing the famous carillon of 53 bells. Visits will also be paid to the Memorial Chamber which is dedicated to Canada's Great War heroes, Hall of Fame, and Library of Parliament, concluding with a tour of the spacious grounds on Parliament Hill which are adorned with statues of Queen Victoria, Sir John A. MacDonald, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Alexander Mackenzie, Sir George Etienne Cartier, Thomas D'Arcy McGee, and other historic figures.

At Ottawa where are many beautiful parks and driveways, Rideau Hall, the official residence of His Excellency the Governor-General, the Royal Mint, Archives, Victoria Museum, and Experimental Farm. The sight-seeing drive provided for members of this tour will include visits to many of these centres of attraction and also to the city of Hull and the Inter-Provincial Bridge, from which a splendid view can be obtained of the Supreme Court of Canada, the Library of Parliament, the locks between the Ottawa River and Rideau Canal, and Earncliffe, the home of the late Sir John A. MacDonald.

The schedule has been arranged so that return is made to Montreal in time to dine at home, but for the convenience of the passengers a restaurant car will be operated on the train where sandwiches and light refreshments will be on sale at nominal prices.

Cow Tied to Freight

To keep his cow from getting up on the railroad track while grazing on the right-of-way, a Fairview, Kan., man tied her to a freight car standing on the siding. Later in the day, the brakeman of a freight train pulling out of town saw what he thought was a cow chasing his train down the track. He signalled the engineer, who stopped the train and found the cow tied to the last car, which had been picked up by the passing freight.

EDITORIAL

MORE TRUTH THAN FICTION

"MANY MODERN cities are really governed by those who do not vote, who never concern themselves about candidates and who are more vitally and continuously concerned about golf, moving pictures, chewing gum, radio, jazz, news-funnies, etc., than about public education, public health, public welfare, crime prevention, town planning, slum clearance, etc. . . .

"In the past some countries and some cities are said to have suffered from absentee landlordism. In the present many cities are suffering from absentee citizenship—absence in mind rather than in body."

—Dr. H. L. Brittain, Director of the Citizens' Research Institute of Canada.

GO RADICAL AND SEE RED!

MORE AND MORE this modern liberty under dictatorships suggests the oppression and intolerance of medieval times.

We cannot recall an instance in history when it was actually criminal for a man to embrace a maiden of another nationality, providing both acted voluntarily in this display of sentiment. Even Judge Jefferies of the Star Chamber would have been subtle enough to distort the issue and convict his man on another count.

However, under Hitler and by constitutional and legal procedure, a Jewish merchant has been found guilty of kissing a German salesgirl—a crime which, although the girl offered no objection, has been interpreted as an insult both to her and to the entire Aryan people. The Jew was sentenced to a month in jail.

All the fondest ideals of Nazi-ism cannot justify this one small instance of individual suppression.

REVIVING THE CURFEW

THE LATEST to manifest an interest in the revival of curfew laws are the Quebec Women's Institutes.

Among Quebec towns a short time ago there was a mild epidemic to establish curfew by-laws. One still reads of communities following the example and enacting these by-laws. But they will very soon discover that nowadays the curfew bell carries no weight; the stern old-time authority of that institution is a mere object of historical interest, regarded lightly in these days, like so many earnest customs of early times.

Observation leads us to believe that curfew is just another of those rulings which burden the statute books but have little meaning. In Lachute it is not enforced. Even Ottawa has a curfew law which is not enforced. And it would be interesting to learn if any town has a curfew which is regarded seriously.

—Tonight (Hallowe'en) will tell!

THE SAME HERE, MR. HEENAN!

THE HONORABLE Peter Heenan, Ontario Minister of Northern Development, recently concluded a five week tour inspecting the road work in his Province; the tour covered 6,000 miles.

Charging that in the past these roads had been built "to meet the wishes of the politicians", and not according to specifications of competent engineers, Mr. Heenan has come to the conclusion that they all needed to be rebuilt from the foundations up. He declared that because of inaccurate routing, poor material and flimsy bridges, the roads now constituted a menace to public travel.

Mr. Heenan, without blaming any particular government, avowed that in former years too much attention had been paid to demands of politicians in the North, and too many roads put down purely to secure votes. From now on, he said, roads in the North, must be dealt with systematically, in accordance with the surveys and estimates of the best engineers available.

PUBLIC BUILDING SCHEME IN OTTAWA

A building programme involving the spending of three-quarters of a million dollars in Ottawa during the next six months was approved last month by the Dominion Government. In addition to the work already provided for and under construction a new $400,000 records building at the experimental farm and a $100,000 barracks for the Royal Canadian Mounted Police at Rockcliffe is contemplated. A new quarter of a million dollar biological building for the Department of Agriculture and a new machinery building will also be erected. In addition work is progressing on the government buildings at present under construction, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police building on Wellington street, the new postal terminal, the addition to the Royal Mint and the office building at the experimental farm all being rushed to completion.

HEALTH INSURANCE IN PRACTICE

Out in Los Angeles there is an organization which is said to have 45,000 members enrolled who are paying two dollars a month for medical service. A number of leading physicians, diagnosticians and specialists are invested with the responsibility of administering to those who need health-building advice.

That two dollars a month includes every attention that might be needed by every one of the members of this organization. They can go to a hospital if necessary and whatever is advised in their case is complied with in detail without any additional cost whatsoever.

Perhaps this health insurance system could be adopted with great benefit in every well populated community throughout the country.

OVER-RIDING TRAFFIC LIGHT, MOTORIST ACQUITTED

A decision of importance to English motorists was made at the Bromley Police Court when a motorist's contention that he was not bound to stop at a traffic light which did not show the word "stop" was upheld.

The motorist was summoned for failing to conform with the indication given by an automatic traffic signal. A police officer established that the lights changed to red when the motorist was six feet away and he drove his car over the crossing while they were against him.

Police agreed that the word "Stop" was not displayed on the red lights.

The prisoner quoted from a section of the Road Traffic Act and contended that no offence was committed if a motorist drove past a signal that had not displayed upon it the word "stop".

The Bench upheld this contention and the case was dismissed, awarding costs of two guineas.

It was learned at the Ministry of Transport that the matter had already been brought to the attention of the Ministry, and that the legal department was considering how the situation might be dealt with as promptly as possible.

SAFETY LEAGUE URGES TRAFFIC LAWS APPLY TO FIRE VEHICLES

Authorities of municipalities about Montreal will be requested by the officials of the Province of Quebec Safety League to remind members of their police and fire forces that they must observe great care to avoid accidents on the streets. An accident recently in a suburb of Montreal, in which a police auto figured in a collision, provides a case in point.

J. J. Cosgrove chairman of the league's inter-fleet contest committee, told members of the board of directors that the accident was conclusive proof that no one had the right to speed.

Mr. Cosgrove claimed that the sounding of the siren by the police or fire apparatus is not sufficient for a pedestrian or the driver of another vehicle which is travelling on a boulevard where he believes himself protected on each side by stop signs.

In the winter season, conditions are still more difficult, Mr. Cosgrove added. Windows in autos were closed thus making it impossible for the driver to hear the sirens. He also noted that there was nothing in the laws to permit the driver of a police or fire auto to speed. The great worry of the driver of a police or fire auto, said Mr. Cosgrove, was to get to the point of destination and give fast service.

In earlier days with horses it was hard to slow down the speed of the animals and pick it up again but with motor vehicles it is easy if the machine does not come to a complete stop. The point was that all emergency vehicles should reach their destinations as fast as possible but also as safely as possible. There was no need to risk the lives of citizens or to injure people in answering emergency calls. An accident, in fact, would cause the vehicle not to reach its destination at all.

Arthur Gaboury, secretary-general of the league, added that he believed fire trucks and police autos should stop at red traffic lights. At least he thought the drivers should slow down and make certain they could pass with perfect safety.

Sentenced For Robbery At Pointe-au-Chene

MAN INCITED JUVENILES TO COMMIT CRIME

Found guilty of counseling and inciting two juveniles to steal, and with having received the stolen goods, Gordon Gardiner, 22 years of age, of no address, was sentenced on Monday by Magistrate Donat Lalonde to three years in St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary. The two juveniles, aged 15 and 16 years, were sentenced to two years each in the Reform School. The trial was heard at St. Jerome.

The burglary occurred on October 7 in the summer home of H. L. St. George, at Pointe au Chene, when revolvers, rifles, flashlights, clothing and other articles were stolen. The value of the stolen property was estimated at $180. The accused were arrested the following day by provincial detectives.

An Effort That Deserves Support

HISTORICAL SOCY. HAS NOBLE OBJECTIVE

Along the corridor of Time great events stand in prominence, dwarfing the humdrum affairs of everyday life. In the brief history of this section we have passed the century mark and two generations have had time to leave the imprint of their labors upon us.

Yet the years pass, and with them the inevitable changes which Time and the consistent labor of those now gone have evoked, leaving to us the memory of a wilderness transformed into one of the beauty spots of the Province of Quebec. It is well that this memory should not be lost.

The transformation reads like a romance, yet behind it all was the quiet perseverance, the courage and endurance of our pioneering forebears who left us such a heritage.

Looking back on their history, a history which is now our own, we are glad to know that a movement started about a year and a half ago is maturing and that the Historical Society of Argenteuil has been duly incorporated. This organization has for its aim the establishing of a Museum in St. Andrews, which in the early days was the county seat, and at a most representative meeting held in Lachute some time ago, it was unanimously resolved that the Museum should be called the Abbott Memorial, to the honor of one of our county's sons, the Hon. J. C. Abbott, a native of St. Andrews who for his marked ability and integrity was elevated to the office of Premier of Canada in 1891.

The executive of the organization are devoting much time in the furtherance of this most worthy project, and last Saturday another meeting was held in the Social Club rooms of the C. I. L. at Brownsburg. Here were discussed further developments, and committees are being appointed in all sections of the county for the purpose of creating greater interest.

All one has to do to become a member is to forward 50 cts. for one year, or preferably $1. for two years, to the secretary, Mrs. W. Windsor, St. Andrews, who will acknowledge same. Citizens will thus manifest their interest and line up with those who are endeavoring to preserve the historic interest of the good old County of Argenteuil.

Sentence in Point Fortune Trial at L'Original

JURY RETURNED VERDICT ON ONE CHARGE

The trial of John Angus McKinnon, 28, of Pte. Fortune, on a serious charge of attempted murder which was subsequently reduced, was held last week at the Fall Assizes in L'Original. McKinnon was acquitted of a charge of arson and found guilty on a charge of wounding, reduced by the jury from the more serious charge of attempted murder.

Sentence was passed by Mr.

Justice Hope. Two years less one day in the Ontario Reformatory was the penalty imposed for the charge upon which he was found guilty, the sentence to date from the day he was arrested, July 19th.

Before finally bringing in its decision, the jury returned to ask if the attempted murder charge could be reduced. After the two minutes in which the judge informed them of the law, the jury again retired. The jury deliberated two hours and 25 minutes.

After the verdict had been returned and before sentence was passed, the accused's counsel, J. B. Woods of Hawkesbury, called character witnesses, which included a Presbyterian minister, the governor of L'Original jail, police constables and several prominent residents of the vicinity. All gave McKinnon a very high recommendation. Justice Hope intimated that he was taking this evidence into consideration and tempering his sentence with leniency.

McKinnon was charged with setting fire to the home of Mrs. Mary Smith at Pointe Fortune on the night of July 18 or morning of July 19 and of having attempted to shoot the occupants of the home as they were trying to escape from the building. The Crown, represented by W. A. Marion of Rockland, sought to show that McKinnon's alleged actions arose out of anger because a daughter of Mrs. Smith had refused to keep company with him alone.

Obviously affecting most of those who heard him, McKinnon had many persons in the packed courtroom in uncontrolled tears during recital of his relations with Miss Eureka Smith and events which led up to his arrest, when he gave testimony in his own defence.

One High School Sports Record Broken

KEEN COMPETITION AT ANNUAL FIELD DAY

A cool autumn day and clear weather marked the Field Day held by Lachute High School last Saturday, when pupils rallied on the recreation field for their annual sports.

A fair brand of performance was evidenced in the events. The school records—representing the peak of performance in the history of sports at Lachute High School, venerable marks to be aimed at each year and infrequently excelled—these records remained unbroken with one exception. This instance was the Broad Jump for boys 10-12 years old, an event for which Willard Langille, set a new mark, namely 14 ft. ½ in.—a decided improvement on the previous record of 12 ft. 10 ins. established in '29 by Harry Lister.

Winners in the various classes were as follows:

Baseball Throw—Sydney Drew, L. Bates, Elmer Hooker.

Broad Jump, Intermediate—Sydney Drew, David Morrison, Elmer Hooker.

Broad Jump, ages 10-12—Willard Langille (new record set 14 ft. ½ in.; previous record Harry Lister '29, 12 ft. 10 in.; Robert Shepherd, Granger Tillotson).

Broad Jump, 8-10—Granger Tillotson, George Deacon, A. McFaul.

Broad Jump, 8 and under—Gerald Bernier, Basil Riddell, Vernon Martin.

Hop, Step and Leap, Intermediate—Sydney Drew, Elmer Hooker, George Leggett.

Hop, Step and Leap, Junior—Willard Langille, Junior Cousens, Billy McMartin.

High Jump, Intermediate—Sydney Drew, Elmer Hooker, David Morrison.

High Jump, Junior—Willard Langille, Granger Tillotson, James Shepherd.

Vaulting (open)—Sydney Drew, Roy Bedard.

75 yard dash, 8 and under—Gerald Bernier, Owen Stephens, W. Ward.

75 yard dash, 8 to 10—Granger Tillotson, Archie McFaul, Keith Armstrong.

100 yard dash, 10 to 12—Willard Langille, Irving Cleland, Edmund McFaul.

100 yard dash, Intermediate—Sydney Drew, Elmer Hooker, David Morrison.

Girls, 75 yards dash, over 14—Alberta Dorion, Margaret MacKenzie, Dorothy Stewart.

Girls, 75 yards dash, 12 to 14—R. Armstrong, Edna Kettyle, Anna Brennan.

Girls, 75 yards dash, 10 to 12—Geraldine Bernier, Mildred Sly, Florence Jenkins.

Girls, 50 yards, 8 to 10—Yvonne Bedard, Elma Cleland, Winnifred Black.

Girls, 50 yards dash, 8 and under—Joan McMartin, Ruth Cousins, Joan MacKimmie.

440 yards dash, Intermediate—S. Drew, David Morrison, Elmer Hooker.

Hurdle Race, Intermediate—Sydney Drew, Kenneth Patterson.

Shot Put—J. Lamarche, Sydney Drew, Elmer Hooker.

Chicken Supper By Lakefield Women's Auxiliary

The Chicken Pie Supper held by the Holy Trinity Church W. A. of Lakefield was an unusual success. The large number seated at the tables in Gibb Parish Hall did justice to the bountiful spread. Following the supper an impromptu program was put on, to the enjoyment of all present. Rev. C. W. P. Baugh, as Chairman, entertained the audience with his humorous remarks, while Rev. A. E. Mount, next speaker on the program, briefly reviewed the necessity of immediate repairs to the parsonage and premises.

A recitation by Ralph Thompson, followed by a song rendered by Harold Maslin, came next. Mrs. Pollock sang several songs, followed by the singing of "rounds", an item which brought roars of laughter from the audience. Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Mount, Mrs. C. W. P. Baugh, and Harold Maslin joined in singing these "rounds." The evening wound up with a social gathering and God Save the King. The event proved a success, both socially and financially.

Brownsburg, Que.

It is surprising the amount of latent talent that keeps hiding its head under a bushel in the 'Burg! Not until a happy thought motivated the Women's Institute to put on an Amateur night on last Thursday did we discover the many accomplishments possessed by our people. The event was a great success financially, as well as being most entertaining. The items ran the whole gamut from recitations to harmonica playing, and their presentation and reception were such as would make Major Bowes turn green with envy, or Ray Perkins at a loss for a wise-crack.

Married At Brownsburg United Church

The marriage was solemnized recently in the United Church, Brownsburg, Que., of Gertrude Margaret Gilmour, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Townsend, of Brownsburg, to Mr. John Edward MacLeod, son of Mr. and Mrs. John MacLeod of Pointe au Chêne, Que., the Rev. A. E. Hagar officiating.

The church was tastefully decorated with autumn leaves. The bride, given in marriage by her stepfather, wore a gown of blue transparent velvet with rhinestone trimming and velvet hat to match, and carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Hilda Townsend, sister of the bride, was gowned in maroon transparent velvet and small velvet turban with circular veil to match, and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses.

Mr. Victor McKale, of Pointe au Chêne, acted as best man, and the ushers were Mr. Fred Handy, of Montreal, and Mr. Roy Jackson, of Brownsburg. Mrs. Roy Jackson presided at the organ, and during the signing of the register Rev. E. G. Baxter sang "O Perfect Love."

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Later Mr. and Mrs. MacLeod left on a motor trip to Toronto and Niagara, the bride wearing a brown crepe dress and brown coat, with hat and accessories to match. On their return a reception was held at the home of the groom's parents at Pte. au Chêne.

The biggest money saving event of the season is coming soon. Get ready for Big Bargains at the Rexall Drug Store, Nov. 14, 15 and 16th., when the Fall Rexall Original One Cent Sale will be held.

the spirit of the games, led by Mrs. Phillips of Arundel. Mr. R. Sancton tendered a vote of thanks to those who had helped to make this occasion such a success. The singing of the National Anthem brought an enjoyable evening to a close.

Dalesville Lodge Winners In Contest

Saturday, October 25th., was a notable day in the affairs of Primary Lodges throughout Argenteuil, when a large gathering assembled in Mr. James Donaldson's Hall at Brownsburg to compete for a handsome silver cup, named the "Jubilee Trophy" in commemoration of the twenty-five years' reign of King George the Fifth.

The competition is open to all Primary Lodges within the jurisdiction of the County, and the cup is held for one year by the Lodge whose degree team is adjudged the best in the exemplification of degree work.

This being the first year of the contest, a number of Lodges were unable to round their degree teams into shape; but nevertheless a keen interest was shown by all in sending large delegations which taxed the accommodation of the hall. In addition to the splendid support given by the Primary Lodges there was also a delegation on hand from the Provincial Grand Lodge of Quebec, which included the Grand Master, Right Worshipful Brother Rev. W. J. H. Lummis, R. Wor. Brothers J. H. Brady, L. W. James and R. H. Butler, also other representatives from Montreal County.

Commencing at 8 p.m. the various teams followed one another in staging the chosen degree in quick succession, the last team finishing at 11 p.m. The awarding of points came under three headings, ritual perfection, ritual delivery and deportment, and the honour of holding the trophy for the first year fell to Dalesville Lodge, No. 1453, with the splendid score of 137 points out of a possible 150.

Right W. Bro. Rev. W. J. H. Lummis, in presenting the cup to the Master of Dalesville Lodge, Brother Stanley Holt, complimented the team on the very efficient manner in which their work was carried through. He also had an encouraging word for the losers and remarked on the keenness of interest exhibited by all competing teams.

From the exceptional interest shown in the inauguration of this contest it is evident that the spirit of true Orangeism is very much alive in the County of Argenteuil, and it is generally conceded that competition will be very keen in the years which follow.

After the presentation of the trophy refreshments were served, followed by speeches from prominent members of the Association, and a most enjoyable evening was brought to a conclusion by the singing of God Save the King.

Thanksgiving Day passed by on Thursday with little evidence of the thankful spirit, but on Sunday all church services stressed the theme of, thanksgiving in a fitting manner. In Argenteuil county, and especially in the town of Lachute, there is much cause for true gratitude—for while there has been keen privation and want in other parts, this section has largely escaped; here the crops generally speaking, have been good; our industrial institutions have endeavored to keep their mills and factories in operation, spreading the work around and keeping the help busy. The ability to see and understand each other's need, has been a characteristic in our leaders to which local communities may well give recognition.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Miss Edna Aitkin visited friends in Lachine over the week-end.

Mrs. John Hay spent the week-end visiting with friends in Ottawa.

Mrs. William Doig and Mrs. David Stalker spent the week-end visiting in Montreal.

Miss Eleanor McAdam, of St. Canut, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Geo. Hills, this week.

Miss Marie-Paule Robin, of Montreal, spent Sunday last visiting friends in town.

Dr. and Mrs. T. Fisher, of Ottawa, were guests of Mrs. John Hope on Sunday last.

Mr. and Mrs. George Preston, of Montreal, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. Roberts.

Mr. Howard Jones and Miss Siddall, of Montreal, were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. Jones.

Mrs. G. Creswell spent last week in the city. Mr. Lloyd Creswell was home from Montreal for the week-end.

Miss Juliette Rodrigue spent Thanksgiving with her brother at Bordeaux, and also spent the week-end with friends in Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Champagne and daughter, Lise, of Ottawa, and Mrs. Arthur Sauve, of St. Eustache, were week-end visitors of Mr. and Mrs. G. Lacasse.

Mrs. P. A. Lafleur, of Verdun, Messrs. Ernest and Lionel Lafleur, of Sherbrooke, and Mr. Jules Lafleur of Montreal, were visitors in town over the week-end.

Mrs. Gruer and Miss Margaret Gruer left last week for their home in Ottawa. They were accompanied by Mrs. T. Fraser, who will spend the winter months in the Capital.

Mrs. Ruby Picken was in Montreal on Thursday attending the funeral of her father-in-law, the late Mr. John Belfrage Picken, who passed away at Wilfrona, Ont., on Tuesday in his 84th year.

Miss Hazel McCain, Supt. of W. I. for the province of Quebec, was in Lachute and vicinity this week visiting the various Institutes. During her stay, she was the guest of Mrs. Alex. Bothwell.

Rev. and Mrs. Robt. Strange and daughter, Miss Maureen Strange, leave today for Apple Hill, Ontario, where Mr. Strange assumes a new pastoral charge. They are accompanied by the good wishes of this community, where they have made many friends in the past year.

The Ladies' Missionary Society of the Margaret Rodger Memorial Church held their Thank-Offering meeting on Wednesday afternoon last. A most inspiring address was given by Mrs. Owen Campbell; greetings were brought by Mrs. Baker, President of Montreal Presbytery and a talk was given by Mrs. Johnson, whose son has lately left for Manchuria, China. During the afternoon a solo was sung by Mrs. R. A. Giles and at the close tea was served by the ladies.

Now that the dates of the Provincial election have been set for Nov. 25th. and Nominations for the 18th., there will necessarily be a swift show-down in possible claimants for representation. Although taking no responsibility for local forecasts the current gossip gives quite a number of aspirants.

As Conservative contenders there are mentioned only the names of Notary F. Lavigne and Albini Lamarche, while the Liberals have a rare choice, among whom are mentioned Dr. E. Lalonde, Jas. McGibbon, Geo. Dansereau, Dr. Touchette, A. E. Ladouceur, H. Parizeau, W. Beauchamp. No forecast can yet be made, but it is fully expected that both parties will arrive at an amicable settlement and concentrate each on one candidate.

STORIED SPOTS FROM SEA TO SEA

The Hoodoos of Yoho

Yoho National Park, which adjoins Banff Park on the west, is perhaps less famous than its neighbor, but nevertheless can claim just as magnificent scenery and rich historical associations. Through its heart runs the turbulent Kicking Horse river, with its mighty canyon through which engineering genius has built that most amazing of motor roads, the Kicking Horse Trail. The whole region recalls to the traveller the early pioneers such as Sir James Hector who discovered the pass and christened it "Kicking Horse" because he suffered injury in rounding up a stray mount. Then, later, it was chosen as the route for the first transcontinental railway which made possible a strong, united Dominion stretching from sea to sea.

Near Leanehoil, in the western part of Yoho, are the curious "hoodoos", queer eroded pillars carved in the glacial silt, so hard that they will dull the sharpest pick. Perched on the top of many of these pillars are large rocks of contrasting nature, which give the appearance of having been placed there by some powerful human, or even supernatural, agency. They provide one of the most interesting and puzzling geological phenomena in all the mountain country.

There are also groups of "hoodoos" in other parts of the Rockies. These natural monuments sometimes take strange shapes and suggest the crude attempts of some savage but colossal artist to represent his primitive deities. One, near the Bow river, strikingly resembles the typical couchant British lion. Little wonder that the Indians have always regarded the hoodoos with superstition and woven about them many age-old legends. To this day the Stoney give them a wide berth, and indeed, they present by night an appearance sufficiently eerie to send little shivers up the spine of the most unimaginative pale-face.

A WHISTLED GOOD NIGHT

A rollicking wind went capering, Right through the maple trees, Serenading its branches, And coaxing away its leaves.

They danced along behind him, Now high, now fast, now low, And did not seem to question The way that he should go.

He scattered them in by-ways, Where tiny roots asleep Were glad to have the covering warm Formed by each leafy heap.

He littered all the footpaths With faded leaves and bright, And whistled, as he sped away, A rollicking, gay goodnight.

WHAT COMES AFTER HALLOWE'EN

The children were sitting resting after some rather strenuous games — "healthy exercises" Uncle Bob had called them at the Hallowe'en party. "Best things going for Hallowe'en" Uncle Bob continued, "a good romp indoors is far better than wild doings outside. Many times I've been ashamed of the pranks I played when I was a lad myself, but I hated to be thought a softy by the older lads, so every year found me out doing things that I knew were wrong, just because the other lads were doing them. — And perhaps we all felt that same way about it, but were too shy to say so . . ."

"Teacher said today that we children were regular contradictions, Uncle Bob," said Lila. "Do you suppose she meant something the same as you speak of? We do not want to do wrong, yet for want of courage we just go ahead and do it." "You are very near to the truth, girlie, I am sure — but this toasting by the fire is making us lazy. Shall we play Jacob and Rachel just once more before we go home?"

"Oh, no-one is planning to go home yet," cried Teddy.

"I am, very soon," said Uncle Bob. "I do not want to meet all the spooks and witches getting back to their homes before the clock strikes twelve. Just think, in an hour it will be a new day — and while I think of it, children, can anyone tell me what comes after Hallowe'en?"

"Bad dreams! — I know that I shall have them anyway," said Rosie May. "I shall imagine that big-eyed begonia outside the window has turned into a real witch and has invaded my bedroom" — this with a shudder. Although she had been told what it was that was peeping in at the window, the girl just could not help looking at it, and funny prickles ran down her spine.

"Pains in the stomach," said Bob Scott making a wry face, Bob was extremely fond of candy, fruitcake and nuts, and was already beginning to feel that he had had more of all three than he could comfortably hold.

"Thanksgiving!" giggled Bess Pratt, who, as Rosie May said, was always behind with her ideas.

"Thanksgiving is past, you dreamer, and next year's Thanksgiving a long way to look forward to," said Bob Scott, tartly.

The children ventured other replies, until Uncle Bob said "You are not very good guessers. Shall I tell you?"

"Do!" they all shouted.

"The first day of November" replied Uncle Bob, his eyes twinkling.

Their shout of laughter so disgusted Bobbety that he got up, and with a scornful look at the noisy group toasting marsh-mallows as a final treat before the fireplace, walked out and lay down behind the kitchen stove.

"Just imagine us not thinking of that," said Rosie May. "And trust Uncle Bob to catch us with just such an easy question as that," chuckled Maybelle, dropping a kernel of popcorn into Puss Wink's mouth. When Bobbety went into the kitchen Puss Winks always moved out. She had never forgotten how, when she was a helpless kitten, he would seize her by the back and parade around the house with her — until, with all his puppyish egotism, he would decide to drop her. As she grew old enough to fight for herself she would scurry up trees and fence posts at his approach, and sit and glare down at him. Her steady stare was so amusing to Maybelle and her brother that they would call teasingly, "Puss, wink! Puss, wink!" — but Puss did not wink; she just kept on staring. From those little incidents came her name. Maybelle was thinking of this as she watched puss crunching the pop-corn, and she did not hear Rosie May ask her uncle why the first of November was called All Saints Day.

The kettle suddenly boiled over in the kitchen, and Bobbety darted to his feet and trotted back into the room; Puss Winks as suddenly dashed out, leaving Maybelle free to listen to the conversation. "Has my party turned into a question-box?" she asked, as she heard Uncle Bob repeating Rosie May's question about All Saints Day. "I hope not" her uncle replied. "If it is, I'm going home at once." "Not before you have answered my question," pleaded Rosie May, grasping him by the coat as he made a playful attempt to rise to his feet — "that is, if you can" she added mischievously.

"Now, girlie, I call that a challenge, so I'll stay long enough to tell you that according to 'Chamber's Book of Days' there were six saints who died in martyrdom, years ago before anyone whom you and I know were born. One of them was St. Harold, King of Denmark, the death of whom the church wished to honor; and they did so by dedicating a heathen temple in Rome, called the Pantheon (then a temple to all the heathen Gods) to the martyrs and to the Virgin, thus converting it into a Christian Temple. . . . The anniversary, festival of this used to be on the first day of May, but was changed to the first of November, so that is why that day is called All Saints. The ancient Saxons used to call November Wint-Monath, meaning wind month, because of the fierce gales that swept the ocean at that time, when all boat owners were advised to lay up their boats until the weather became mild again . . ."

Another name for November, too, was Blot-Monath, or the bloody month, because so many cattle and oxen were slaughtered and salted away for winter use in that month. In some places sacrificial rites were performed in November, which also helped to give rise to the name of Blot-Monath. Thomas Hood has a long poem on the month of November, which starts —

No sun—No moon,
No morn—No noon,
No dawn—no dusk—no proper time of day . . .

This was because of November's foggy; but of course he was an English poet, and we do not have such fogs in Canada as there are in England."

"Thank you so much, Mr. Bob," said Rosie May, as he finished. "I shall always remember what comes after Hallowe'en, now that you have told us so much about the month of November."

"I move," said Bob Scott, "that we give three cheers for Maybelle and her Uncle Bob, for giving us such a splendid time." "And for her mother's fruit cake too, eh Bob?" said Dick Burns, poking him with his elbow. "For everything" said Bob, and started the cheer with a loud "Hurrah for Maybelle!"

Lovingly, Aunt Jean.

EXCHANGE PHOTO-GRAPHS INSTEAD OF DIMES

A new chain letter system—the participants exchange photographs instead of dimes—has come to light in Milwaukee. Three photographers — members of the International Stereoscopic Society, boasting a membership of 44 persons in the United States, Canada, the British Isles, New Zealand, Australia and Tasmania—explained the mode of operation.

Most of them have never met personally but they enjoy a common enthusiasm for taking snapshots. This is the way their organization works:

Each member selects his best photo of the month, makes notes on the conditions under which it was taken and how it was developed and mails them to the next man on the chain. The recipient writes out his criticism, appends it to the original communication and forwards the letter to the number three fellow.

Ultimately the originator receives his snapshot back with 43 critiques attached.

THE MODERN GRAND-MOTHER

There are a great many changes in the world but I doubt if anything has changed more than the modern grandmother. What a change from the days when the grandmothers wore bonnets and were old at forty. No retiring to the chimney corner these days. One of my friends tried to get her mother by phone one morning and was not able to do so. She tried at intervals all day and could not get no answer. Finally becoming worried she located her son and got him to go to his grandmother's to see if she were all right. He reported that there was no one home. Eventually grandmother came home. She had been out at the Golf Club, had lunch and played eighteen holes. She was indignant when they asked her if she was tired and yet "eighteen holes" tires many a younger person. I heard a girl in her late teens say that as she so seldom wore a hat it was a waste of money buying them but when she had to have one for a party or something and wanted a specially swanky one she borrowed one from her granny. "Granny buys the smartest hats, and has the best taste". It is quite true. When asked if she ever wore her mother's hats, she said, "Oh, no, I don't like mother's hats." Her mother wears fussy clothes but the grandmother and grand-daughter wear the same type of plain tailored clothes and the hats are equally becoming and suitable to any age. Maybe we are as old as our hats but I do admire those people who refuse to let age daunt them.

IT IS UP TO THE WOMEN

In Canadian politics there is no such thing as a Woman's Party, and very rightly so. But we feel very strongly that there is a need for women in our parliaments. We sighed with relief when we heard this Miss McPhail had been re-elected. Canadian women are fortunate in being represented by Mrs. Black of the Yukon. She is charming, experienced in the ways of politics and capable. We have two women senators, Senator Corine Wilson and Senator Ivy Fallis—women of different types and both valuable. Now is the time to start preparations for the next election. And the best way is to gain experience in municipal affairs. We need women in our Councils and Boards of Education and possibly from these experienced women we can obtain suitable candidates for our parliaments. Women, it is up to you. The men will never do it for you.

THE WELL-RESTED CHILD

I heard a very clever teacher say at a Regional Conference of Home and School Clubs that the greatest help a parent can give a teacher is to send to school a well-rested child. Never was a truer word said. If you watch your children closely you will find that emotional disturbances come when the child is tired. The tired child is the cross unruly child. Check up on your children's colds and you will find invariably that the child has been over-tired when he has caught cold. The school child requires at least ten hours sleep; the younger ones and some of the others require eleven hours. It is a part of a mother's job to see that he gets it.

SAUSAGE STUFFED SQUASH

Cut a squash in halves and remove the seeds and pithy centre. Fill one or both halves, depending on the quantity required, with sausage meat, and bake in a hot oven of 450 degrees for an hour or more until the squash is tender. Scalloped potatoes go well with this and may be baked at the same time.

SALMON AND EGG SANDWICHES

Salmon sandwiches and egg sandwiches have come up in the world. When we were youngsters how disgusted we were if we had the bad luck to get either kind and someone was sure to bring them to a Sunday School picnic. But things have changed nowadays. I had a salmon sandwich at a tea at no less a place than Rideau Hall. Everyone seems to like egg sandwiches these days. Was at a very fussy tea the other day and I noticed the ladies choosing the egg sandwiches. Not only the ladies like them. One Sunday some of the young people dropped in and stayed to tea. Not having enough other sandwich materials on hand I finished up by making egg sandwiches. Both boys and girls very frankly looked them over and chose the egg ones and left the rest, the ones I thought were more attractive, until there were no more egg ones. Both salmon and egg need additional salt and pepper as the seasonings in the salad dressing are not enough. Salmon filling is greatly improved by a little lemon juice and a dash of scraped onion does wonders for the egg. A mixture of egg and anchovy paste makes a good sandwich and is especially good when toasted.

"Home-Made" Products at the Fairs

(Edmonton Journal)

The Fergus News Record, an Ontario weekly newspaper, reports that a lady who was judging "home made" cakes at a fair in a town north of Fergus found a piece of cellophane sticking to the icing bearing part of the trademark of a well-known cake manufacturer, and "at the same show one exhibit of preserved fruit contained some which had been bought in cans and emptied into sealers to be exhibited." Dear me! And here we had an idea that such things would only be done by the "fifty big shots" and other such nasty persons. Incidentally, the item illustrates the advances made in the canning industry. Canned fruit and vegetables now can stand right up to "the kind that mother used to make."

New Garbage Disposer

A device that may put the garbage man out of business was publicly demonstrated for the first time at Schenectady last week before 60 industrialists and engineers. The garbage disposal device is a macerator attached under the kitchen sink which chops fine and washes down the sewer anything from bread crumbs to meat bones. It was made possible by the development of carbolly steel, an intensely hard metal used in the knives which cut up almost any substance delivered to it by the centrifugal force of water from the sink.

Check Up on Radio Pronunciation

The radio is becoming a very powerful influence in our lives and it must have a decided effect on our pronunciation. Many of us are too apt to think that because a radio announcer has pronounced a word a certain way that it is the correct way. This is far from so, especially the pronunciations heard over the American stations. Many of them are wrong even by American standards. Buy and use an English dictionary. We are proud of our British heritage. Let us extend it to our language. Many times there is a choice of pronunciations—the English and the American. By all means let us stick to the English pronunciation and spelling. When you hear a word pronounced over the radio come as a bit of a shock because it is not the way you would pronounce it, hunt it up in a good dictionary and do not take for granted that the announcer is right.

Shy Child Sensitive

Shy children are very likely to be sensitive. They are afraid of being rebuffed. They have to study a group before they join it. They have to know something about the house they are approaching before they go inside. They like to feel that they are wanted and must feel more or less acquainted with people, places and things, before they are friendly.

Spanking won't help the sensitive little child, nor will scolding. In fact punishment will lead to more shyness, more shrinking, more uncertainty. One must be gentle with a shy child. Let him wait, let him ponder without being prod. It is his nature to move slowly in making acquaintances. Give him time and he will make his own advances.

Wanted -- Women Song-Writers

Why are there so few women song-writers? The Editor of Pictorial Review will give one thousand dollars to find out. Amazed at the dearth of women in the list of writers and composers of popular song hits, Herbert R. Mayes, the editor, offers a prize of one thousand dollars, for the best song written by a woman who has never before had a song published.

The object of the competition, he explains in the November issue of the magazine, is to stimulate women's interest in musical composition, and to encourage them to become creators as well as patrons of music. Already, he points out, women support the symphony orchestras, and concerts, buy most of the sheet music and phonograph records, and see that their children take music lessons. But the number of women song-writers is very small, and he believes it is time to discover and develop talent.

Judges of the contest will be Paul Whiteman, king of jazz, Rudy Vallee, singer and composer, Deems Taylor, composer, Nathaniel Shilkret, conductor and composer, and George Marek, musical editor of Pictorial Review—songs being judged on the basis of originality and excellence of words and music.

What Children Think of Their Parents

WHIPPING IS THEIR WORST FAULT

"Spare the rod and spoil the child" may be a good axiom, but not if you ask the children themselves.

From what children wrote about their home training, Dr. Fred McKinney, of the University of Missouri, concluded that they regard whipping as one of the chief faults of their parents.

Speaking at a parent education conference, Dr. McKinney, a psychologist, said children also objected to domineering attitudes, nagging and ridicule, pleas for sympathy and stifling of discussion.

On the other hand, he said, they praised their parents for being intelligent companions, for earning their respect and confidence, for free discussion of the many questions perplexing youth, and for setting high standards and ideals.

And Here We Are

A Russian fanatic predicted the end of the world in 1906 and caused one of the greatest mass suicides in history. Within a few days, says J. W. Frost, Los Angeles, Calif., in Collier's Weekly, a wave of paralyzing fear swept over all northern Russia and the inhabitants of many whole villages killed themselves at once. In some towns large areas were soaked in pitch and bitumen, set afire and hundreds of persons at a time, holding hands, ran into them and were burned alive.

The Week's Fashion News

By the Montreal "FASHION SCRIBE"

If you'll let "Fashion Scribe" have any say in the matter, you'll find that being out of Montreal does not mean being out of touch. The end of her pencil is simply quivering with news about fashion happenings . . . to tell you what's being worn, what shows indication of being worn, even what the newest ideas are in home furnishings and kitchen gadgets.

Montreal, October 26.—It's very pleasant . . . around five of a Saturday afternoon, after a rugby game . . . to drop into the Mount Royal or Wind-sor for the tea dance. This season there seems more metal being worn than one would have thought the mint could turn out for such frivolous purposes. Not just all-metal outfits! Long metallic tunics shimmering as with gold or silver, over velvet skirts, sometimes street length, sometimes to the ankle. Shorter blouses, peplum or waistcoat style, with velvet or satin skirts, Metallic collars and scarfs on dark dresses. Metallic belts. Metallic bags.

■ If you are one who finds children's dresses all more or less of a pattern, lacking the originality shown by grown-up fashions, then you should view the new Quintuplet Outfits. Several of the stores give them front-window displays. There are adorable coat, hat and legging sets in bright wools. There are short, fluffed-out dresses with embroideries and contrasts that have a quaint newness. And each dress or set bears a tag with a picture of the famous quintuplets.

■ If you are a dyed-in-the-wool supporter of the vogue for tinted evening shoes you may be shocked to learn that silver and gold kidskin sandals are leading among party footwear trends. Some heels are skyscraper height and some are non-existent, and then there is the happy-medium type.

■ It is ruffling to the temper to give a cocktail party and have ice-cube trouble. You know . . . finding that the supply brought in the ice pail has shrunk away to nothing! Avoid those marathons to the kitchen by hook or by crook . . . sudden dashings to and fro are so tire-some for the guests. A new remedy has been suggested. I viewed it in a recent window display. The solution, according to this display, is a thermos ice tub that will keep the ice cubes several hours longer than the usual receptacle.

■ Fashion briefs: Fur hats that take their cue from the fur on coats are style news. So are "big" jewels with "little" dresses. Military red, bright as the brightest scarlet, is suggested in several window displays of hats. Even handbags are often fashioned in larger sizes.

FASHION SCRIBE.

a deep interest in the proceedings and had a few words of praise to say for the promoters and encouragement for the artists, after which the ball was set rolling. Mayor H. Parizeau became so enthusiastic during the concert that he gave an exhibition of dancing à la Fred Astaire. Mr. Tom Anderson was heard to good effect in the finale and Lammy was a courteous and efficient C.O.V. Mrs. L. Wilson, President of the local branch of the W. I. thanked all who had contributed in making the event such an outstanding success. The President also thanked the numerous donors of prizes—the Arlington Coy., Brownsburg; the Wear-Ever Company; and P. O. M., Montreal, as well as all the local merchants, whose beautiful prizes were on display and were so numerous that every artist competing was rewarded with a prize.

The judges were Messrs. J. Lambertson, T. Anderson, M. Trayers, A. Brunelle, H. Parizeau and Rev. Father Bouchard. Winner of the lucky ticket was Miss Edith McKenzie of Stanyerville, who was presented with a 2-storey fruit cake donated by Mrs. Lemuel Wilson, President of the Institute.

It would be invidious to single out any of the competitors for particular commendation and impossible to appraise the merits of such widely divergent entertainers. For while "Pun" Quessel was exceedingly funny in his rendition of "The Man from Quebec", Miss Parizeau's effort in "Waterloo" was a finished performance in both elocution and deportment. Mr. Omer Danis' interpretation of "The Stutterer" was a delight, whilst his wife gave a beautiful rendering of "Play, fiddle, play", sung in the vernacular. Mrs. J. Thompson transported us with paeans of joy to the hills of Kentucky, after which Mr. Roger Williams made us long for dancing space with his splendid harmonica tunes. Mr. A. Carriere tapped the boards amidst lusty plaudits of appreciation, and Miss Steere in native costume was very effective in a Highland Fling. In the children's class Marian Cumbers tickled the ivories to open the show. Her Sonata was very well executed and loudly applauded. Pete Forget and his violin, is an old artist who improves with each appearance. Enid McAdam dressed in cow-boy ensemble, was a popular entrant and polled the highest number of votes. Laura Lonsdale, in Chinese attire, was very effective and displayed signs of careful training. The Misses Birch, Quessel, and Williams were unfortunate in selecting the same number, which detracted somewhat from an otherwise enjoyable item. There goes the gong, so we are obliged to sign off.

Odd, If True

The quantity of current consumed by the average electric clock is so small that it does not register on the meter when all other electrical devices and lights are turned off. Thus about 10,000,000 of these clocks—in homes, stores and offices—operate during part of the night at the expense of the central electric stations.—J. K. Thomas, Ithaca, N. Y., in Collier's Weekly.

San Salvador

San Salvador, where Columbus first set foot on American soil, is an island of the Bahamas group and is about three-quarters the size of Staten Island, the gem of New York bay. It is 12 miles long and from 5 to 7 miles wide.

Art of Suggestion Effective

The marvelous rapidity of communication of ideas between savages has been remarked upon as showing the force with which the art of suggestion works among the members of primitive community.

The Sudden Passing of Mrs. Robt. Pinkerton

(By Our Cushing West Correspondent)

Cushing West—During the past few days the people of Cushing and vicinity have been called upon to mourn the loss of one who has been for many years a loved and respected member of this community. The passing away of Mrs. Robert Pinkerton on Saturday last came as a surprise and shock to her many friends. She had entered the Montreal Western Hospital on Oct. 18th., to receive treatment for an intestinal ailment, which was not expected to prove serious but when the doctors there decided to operate her condition was found to be so grave that no hope was held out for her recovery and she passed away on Saturday. The remains were brought to her home here Sunday evening, the funeral service being held on Tuesday afternoon at St. Mungo's church, where she had been a lifelong worshipper. Interment was in St. Andrews Cemetery. Mrs. Pinkerton had spent all her life in this immediate vicinity; she was born at Stonefield Nov. 19, 1857, shortly after her parents, the late Robert Sittlington and his wife formerly Agnes McComb, had arrived in this country from County Antrim, Ireland.

The number from near and far who assembled at her funeral and filled the church to overflowing would seem to refute the idea that in these later days people place more value on pride and show than on genuineness of character, for truly here was one who had followed in all humility the teachings of the Master in whom she believed. The lines from Goldsmith would apply to her, "Remote from towns she ran her godly race Nor ever changed nor wished to change her place".

The Rev. Jas. Fraser of Picton, Ont., motored down to attend the funeral of his old friend and assisted Rev. J. Maclean at the service. He preached a touching and beautiful sermon, taking his text from Psalm 27: "I had fainted unless I had believed to see the goodness of the Lord in the land of the living."

Others who came from a distance to attend were the Rev.

and Mrs. Norman Dowd of Ottawa, the Misses Harcourt of New Glasgow and Montreal, Mrs. W. Nichols and daughters, Miss Muriel Nichols and Mrs. McDonald of Montreal.

Besides her sorrowing husband Mrs. Pinkerton is survived by her son, Mr. A. C. Pinkerton of Montreal, a daughter Mrs. Jas. Harcourt, of New Glasgow, and a brother Mr. Wm. Sittlington of Carillon, also two grandsons, Master Grant Harcourt of New Glasgow and Douglas Baxter of Winnipeg.

Her pall-bearers were selected from amongst her old friends and neighbors, and included Edward Gauley, J. Donaldson, Leonard Gaston, Wm. Canning, C. F. Watson and Edward Whelehan. The floral offerings were beautiful and numerous.
