Plans Culminating for Construction New Catholic Churches

FINE STRUCTURES IN THE TWO LOCAL PARISHES

There is every evidence that work in Lachute will not be lacking during the summer. For a long time the Roman Catholic congregation of Ste. Anastasie Church, having outgrown the capacity of their present building, have been desiring a larger and more modern structure.

While some of the older members urged the delaying of building operations until further funds had been accumulated, a largely attended meeting of those interested recently decided to proceed shortly with erection of the new church and specified that the outlay, tentatively, should not exceed $65,000.

Plans and specifications are now being prepared and tenders will shortly be called for. (Continued on Page 4)

The 1st. Lachute Troop Boy Scouts held a skating party at the rink last evening, followed by games, refreshments and a social hour at McArthur's Hall. With their guests the party numbered around 40, and an enjoyable evening was reported.

MORE SKIERS GET FIRST AID ASSISTANCE

SKIING APPEARS A HAZARDOUS SPORT

In this particular district week-end skiing activities took toll of a few minor injuries. But in the more popular Laurentian resorts, where hills were lightning fast, the St. John Ambulance Brigade outposts were kept busy, no less than 32 accidents being reported. Of these only two were serious, being cases of a fractured arm

Nature -- the Double Dealer

Some double dealers are anything but dependable. Here is where nature is different, and wonderfully so.

When nature deals the oyster an irritating bit of sand, she also deals out the ability to turn it into a pearl.

When nature deals out a lonesome windswept hill-top on which an oak sprig must make its home, she also deals out inherent powers which develop tough fibres as the wintry winds howl and the storms rage.

When she deals out darkness, she follows it with a dawn.

When she dealt out blindness and deafness and dumbness to Helen Keller, she dealt out a marvelous sense of touch and a controlled mind and a wonderfully patient teacher.

When she deals a kick-out to the eaglets in the nest, she deals out an instinctive knowledge of how to fly with a little strength, as capital to begin with.

Have you been dealt a raw deal? That's all it may be, unless you look for the double deal -- and play it for all its worth.

You'll never have much strength if you have no obstacles to overcome.

You could not be a victor if you had no enemies to conquer.

and of a fractured leg. There were altogether eight accidents at Shawbridge, four having occurred during the meet of school skiers and four to pleasure skiers. At Val Morin ten skiers were slightly injured; six were hurt at Ste. Marguerite, and three at St. Sauveur.

Two alarms were sounded Tuesday morning for chimney fires in town. At 4 a.m. the firemen answered a call to C. St. Jacques', near the Wilson Paper Mill, and at 7.15 a.m. to the residence of J. Lalonde near the Convent on Grace Street.

Lachute Fire Department Adds New Piece of Apparatus

TRIPLE COMBINATION TRUCK NOW BEING CONSTRUCTED

A man who once was up but now is down should, when remembering, exercise his longer memory -- and recall how once he was lower than he now is and yet did climb.

In their ambition to maintain a fire equipment complete in every detail, the Lachute brigade is adding a new vehicle to replace the original fire pump truck. On a 1934 V-8 Ford truck chassis the old pump and hose wagon have been mounted with a 100-gallon water tank. This auxiliary apparatus will be adequate for chimney fires and small outbreaks independent of water supply from the hydrants. It carries 1,000 ft. of hose and 200 ft. of booster hose, also 24 ft. and 12 ft. ladders. In addition, erected behind the cab of the machine is a compartment to carry items of equipment, such as spare uniforms, tools and salvage covers.

ALDERMANIC SEATS ALL FILLED BY RE-ELECTION

NO CONTESTS YESTERDAY

The usual excitement of civic elections was lacking yesterday -- the date set for balloting on appointment of new councillors in Lachute. All vacant seats had been filled on nomination day, Jan. 25th., by re-election of the aldermen due to retire. These were -- Messrs. K. McQuat and Geo. Muir in the East Ward, J. W. McGibbon in the Centre Ward, and C. Durocher in the West Ward.

PROVINCIAL INCOME TAX IS FORECAST IN QUEBEC

IMPRESSION GAINS GROUNDS THAT QUEBEC WILL INSTITUTE LEVY

Impression is gaining ground -- says Abel Vineberg, parliamentary correspondent to the Montreal Gazette, that the Quebec government is leaning strongly in favor of a provincial income tax, such as has been inaugurated by the province of Ontario.

Hon. R. F. Stockwell, Provincial Treasurer, recently returned from Ottawa where he attended the sessions of the committee of the inter-provincial conference, dealing with provincial finances, and their readjustment and stabilization. No information, even of a semi-official nature, is yet available.

The question of a provincial income tax for Quebec was mooted about two years ago, when it became apparent that the era of deficits was to continue, largely because of the burden of eight millions a year for unemployment, which money is borrowed, but the burden of which is on revenue in the form of interest and sinking fund charges. In addition, there is the regular deficit on ordinary account. However, the provincial government postponed the issue. The city of Montreal incidentally stepped in first with a civic income tax. The latter, however, will disappear, it is expected, even as the municipal income tax in Ontario cities is to make way for the Ontario provincial income tax.

AS KING GEORGE WENT TO HIS FINAL RESTING PLACE

More than two millions of British subjects lined the streets of London and the road through Windsor to St. George's Chapel to pay their respects to the memory of the late King George as his body was borne to his last resting place in the royal vaults at Windsor. At the top, left, are the little Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose returning to London after their royal grandfather had died. At the right is one of the color party of the guards carrying draped colors as a tribute to his late Majesty, while the main picture, sent from London to New York by radio, shows the cortege travelling along the winding road up the hill to Windsor Castle and St. George's Chapel for the final rites.

MEMBERS OF UNITED CHURCH HEARD GRATIFYING REPORTS

ACTIVITIES REVIEWED AT ANNUAL MEETING

A comprehensive survey of the year's work in all departments was received by an attentive gathering at the Lachute United Church last Thursday. The occasion was the Annual Business Meeting, held in the basement of the church, and a fair representation of the congregation was present.

Rev. W. B. Rosborough, occupying the chair, called upon Mr. R. C. Rogers, the Congregational Secretary, to present the minutes of the last Annual Meeting, which were duly adopted with expression of appreciation to Mr. Rogers for his excellent work in drawing up these records. Mr. Rosborough, as Moderator of the Session, then gave his report, which showed gratifying progress and growth in the pastoral sphere of the church. He referred to the part played by the Choir, in adding appreciably to the appeal and effect of the services. Dr. G. A. Clunie, secretary-treasurer, reported the Missionary and Maintenance contributions had somewhat exceeded the amount of the previous year, for which the church had received special mention and acknowledgment.

Reports were heard which gave accounting of the finances and activities in every branch of the church work. The zeal and accomplishments of the Lachute W.M.S., the untiring efforts of Mrs. McNeil on behalf of the Mission Band, and the substantial assistance afforded by the Ladies' Aid, drew special commendation and applause. Reports covered also the East Settlement. (Continued on Page 4)

Brownsburg, Lachute to Meet in 2 Fixtures This Week

FOUR LEAGUE GAMES STAGED SINCE LAST REPORTING

In a good keen game at Brownsburg last Thursday the home team took the short end of a 7-1 score, Hawkesbury being the victors. The first period brought forth an even contest, little suggestive of the one-sided climax; this session was scoreless. In the second, Hawkesbury made four tallies; and in the third boosted their total to seven, while Campbell of Brownsburg saved the home-team's reputation with a welcome tally.

Fans witnessed a busy week-end on the local ice, two postponed games and one scheduled encounter being played.

There was a good crowd on hand Saturday evening for the double-header performance. A sub-zero atmosphere detracted somewhat from the comfort of the customers, especially as the St. Jerome visitors arrived late and delayed the face-off.

Meeting Lachute in the first engagement St. Jerome put on a good game. The home boys took the lead as Cyril Drew, who appears now to be on the regular line-up, scored the opening goal. There was close checking throughout the first and second periods, the score remaining unchanged. It was in the final clash that Lachute had the misfortune to lose two men simultaneously, Drew Jr. and Bill McPaul drawing two of the few penalties in the game. With the home line-up (Continued on Page 4)

Protestant Cemetery on Sound Financial Basis

The 21st. annual meeting of the Lachute Protestant Cemetery was held in the Town Hall on Monday evening, with President A. A. McQuat in the chair.

Secretary-Treasurer, Jas. W. Gall read the minutes of previous meetings and presented the Financial Statement, which showed $17,449.08 of assets with no liabilities. Upwards of $14,000 has been placed in the hands of the Royal Trust Company of Montreal.

Messrs. W. Murray, Dr. G. A. Clunie, J. A. McGibbon and Erskine McQuat were re-elected as directors.

It was decided to make reduction of maintenance rates, as follows: -- $1.50 for two lots; $1.00 for half lot; full lot endowment $30; half lot $20., and $10. for two graves.

Lachute Boy Scout Gave First Aid

While going to press last week we briefly noted an accident, that befell young Clayton Rogers, of Lachute, who broke his leg when skiing on James' Hill. We have since learned that his chum, Jack MacKimmie, who as a Boy Scout had learned the elements of first aid to the injured, gave valuable assistance. He lost no time in making some splints, bound up the injured limb, and placing him on the toboggan, brought the patient down to Dr. Mason, whose work was facilitated by these precautions and the application of first aid. This is another practical demonstration of the good work achieved by the Boy Scout organization.

Quebec Town Seeks to Tax Outsiders

The town of La Tuque will ask the Quebec Legislature at its next session for power to impose a tax on persons coming to the town for purposes of obtaining employment. The municipality will apply to the Legislature for amendments to its charter, for permission to impose a tax not exceeding $10 on persons coming to La Tuque to work.

Royal Commissioner Probes Sherbrooke Rayon Incident . . . Highlights in Opening Session

"THE OTTAWA SPOTLIGHT"

Ottawa, February 4th. -- The Sherbrooke rayon incident gave Ottawa a minor thrill; government supporters were jubilant when it turned out so well and wrote it down as a triumph. The whole affair is under investigation by Mr. Justice W. F. A. Turgeon of Saskatchewan, so any final pronouncement should await his report. But the government here evidently read the announcement that hundreds of men and women -- (Continued on page 3)

PIONEER LADY'S DEATH RECALLS INCIDENT IN "THOMAS' HISTORY"

Cushing -- Mrs. Johnston Smith, one of Cushing's most respected residents, passed away at her home here on Thursday, January 29th., at the age of 80 years, leaving to mourn her loss her daughter, Mrs. Fred Wilson of North River; two sons, Lachlan and home, Pender of Grande Prairie, Alberta; and nineteen grandchildren. Mr. Smith predeceased her six years ago.

Rev. J. W. Maclean, pastor of St. Mungo's Church, of which Mrs. Smith had been a member for many years, officiated at the funeral, which was held at her late residence on Sunday afternoon. A large number of sorrowing relatives and friends gathered to pay their last tribute.

Four of her grandsons -- Percy, Stewart, Sydney and Ernest Wilson of North River, and two nephews, Arthur and Lachlan Campbell, were the pall-bearers. The remains were taken to St. Andrews East cemetery for interment.

Mrs. Smith, who was of a quiet, retiring disposition and "everybody's friend", was formerly Elizabeth McArthur, daughter of the late Lachlan and Mrs. McArthur of Grenville; incidentally she was the child referred to in Mr. Thomas' "History of Argenteuil and Prescott", who with her parents just escaped drowning in Bevan's Lake while on their way to their new Canadian home.

Oddfellows Installed Officers Here on Saturday

The Independent Order of Oddfellows held their semi-annual installation of officers in McArthur's Hall, Lachute, on Saturday. D.D.G.M. Bro. A. M. Starke and his suite of Montreal, officiated, and the appointments filled in the local lodge were as follows: -- L. N. Cruise, J.P.G.; P. Carpenter, N.G.; T. Izzard, V.G.; H. Cunningham, Rec. Sec'y.; G. Demerise, Fin. Sec'y.; W. J. Deacon, Treas.; D. Beers, Warden; L. Morris, Conductor; Rev. W. B. Rosborough, Chaplain; J. Cunningham, R.S.N.G.; W. R. McPaul, L.S.N.G.; W. J. Elliott, R.S.S.; A. Paul, L.S.S.; W. J. Cooper, R.S.V.G.; A. E. McGregor, L.S.V.G.; N. J. Boyd, I.G.; and W. K. McArthur, O.G. Following the ceremony of installation an hour was spent around the festive board, and interesting speeches were heard. (Continued on page 5)

HOW HE KNEW

"I want some collars for my husband, but I forget the size he takes," said a lady at the counter of a hosiery shop. "Thirteen and a half," suggested the assistant. "I think you're right," said the customer. "How did you guess?" "Well, it's a funny thing," replied the assistant, "but I've noticed that men whose wives buy their collars for them are invariably undersized."

Customer: "I don't want to buy your crackers; they tell me the mice are always running over them."

Brushville Grocer: "That isn't so. Why, the cat sleeps in the barrel every night."

There is no social or economic question today which has all the wise and good on one side and only the evil and foolish on the other.

As Old as an Oak

Many people marvel when they see one of the many famous old oaks which still stand in some parts. There is an old Gaelic saying: "Thrice the age of a dog is the age of a horse; thrice the age of a horse is the age of a man; thrice the age of a man is the age of a stag; thrice the age of a stag is the age of an eagle; thrice the age of an eagle is the age of an oak tree." Taking man's "allotted span" of seventy, this gives 1,050 years as the age of an oak. This would mean that oaks still surviving might have been standing while the Romans were in Britain. A good average age for an oak tree, however, is 200 or 300 years. And all from a small acorn!

Acorn Carried as Charm

Acorns carry with them an acorn when flying. Ever since the days of the Druids the acorn has been the accepted charm against lightning. And it is not only acorns which have this belief. Look at the end of your blind cord and you will probably find that the knob is shaped like an acorn. So, too, with your curtain poles and the tassels of your umbrellas. The old idea lingers, though perhaps the very work which fashion these articles have of the reason for their shape.

The Lachute toboggan slide is in good condition and is well patronized by the young gentlemen and ladies who enjoy this sport. Those having the management are deserving of great praise.

St. Andrews reports that George Simpson was elected mayor on Feb. 1st., and the council have called a public meeting of the ratepayers for the 26th inst., to grant the $10,000 bonus to build the branch railway between Lachute and St. Andrews.

Last week Mr. J. C. Wilson of the Paper Mills entertained a number of Montreal contractors and the Mayor of Lachute Town to a dinner at Charlebois' hotel.

We have been asked what has become of our curling clubs. Two years ago we had three good clubs—one here, one at St. Andrews and one at Carillon, where many spirited games were played.

According to a Winnipeg paper whiskey seems to have proved too much for the Farmers' Union, whose last meeting was taken up by the noisy eloquence of a drunken member. Whiskey seems for once to have served the Government's turn.

Statement of receipts and expenditures was then read by the secretary, which was accepted and referred to auditors.

facts ought to be known by all the people. So Hon. Charles Dunning, as head of the tariff department, appointed the aforesaid Mr. Justice Turgeon as a royal commissioner to probe the incident and report. It is significant, read it as you like, that a day or so afterwards most of the discharged employees went back to work, the press announcements issuing from that area saying that Japanese competition was really not so severe as it had been several weeks ago. Another report said the workers had only been laid off for a week, anyway. The conclusion most Liberals drew was that someone had tried to bluff the government, and that the government had promptly called the bluff.

PLENTY MORE COMING

The present Ministry probably has a lot of that sort of thing to face. Every time it lowers the duty on any commodities a few interests which expect to be injured will call attention of the government to the workmen who will inevitably be discharged as a result. When genuine distress on a wide scale is likely to result, the government will be compelled to move slowly and carefully. When the Liberal government reduced the tariff on automobiles in 1927 it was represented that thousands of factory workers at Oshawa and Windsor would lose their jobs. Actually it turned out that employment at both these centres grew remarkably. If a low-tariff government is too susceptible to propaganda from the protected interests, obviously it will be afraid to stir an inch. The artificial silk industry has about the highest protection, short of complete prohibition, of any industry in the country, and some observers think that if the recent episode was by way of demonstration of agitation, it was a blunder. It is true that the rayon industry has recently lost three bricks off its tariff wall: one when the surtax on Japanese goods was eliminated; another when the arbitrary valuation was cancelled; a third when the currency dump duty on the depreciated yen was reduced. But after all these had gone, the protection afforded rayon fabrics is still 36% ad valorem, plus 40 cents a pound, plus a dump duty of about 11 cents per yen plus 9 per cent on the duty-paid value. This adds up to about 150 per cent protection in typical cases; and the average commentator is inclined to say: "Well, if an industry has to shut up shop because of foreign competition in spite of a protection of 150 per cent, there is something wrong somewhere and we had better know what."

CHANGING B. N. A. ACT AT OTTAWA

The provinces and the Dominion have been discussing methods whereby the constitution can be altered at Ottawa in future, instead of Westminster, as at present. At the same time the Supreme Court is hearing argument for and against the validity of the Bennett 'New Deal' legislation, the Farmers' Creditors' arrangement act, and allied bills.

The session begins this week on a sombre note, because of the death of the late sovereign. It promises, however, to uncover a number of lively issues. Unemployment, the railway question, the radio commission, election methods, balancing the budget, lower tariffs, the United States trade agreement, the treaty with Japan, and the renewal of the Empire pacts are all coming up for discussion. Usually these first sessions are short and perfunctory: this may be a lively one, in spite of the small opposition. We have, also the Social Credit doctrines in the federal house for the first time.

Early Settlers' Chests

Considered Best Friends

The chest was the best friend to the early settlers of America, not only after their arrival, but in England before their departure, for these huge, solidly constructed pieces served the purpose of holding a large share of the worldly goods of these adventurous people, says a writer in the Detroit News.

To the master of the house in New England usually fell the task of making the chest and for this reason it was a simple affair, as there was much necessary work to be done that there was little time to spare on making the chests decorative. However, this did not detract from their charm, for in the crudeness of line lay their attractiveness.

The chests made in England were usually of oak and often had paneled lids "hinged" with wires run through holes in the lid and back of the chest.

Oak and pine were often combined in making the chest in New England, the top, back and bottom being made of the latter, and oak for the rest. The reason for this must have been that pine was so much easier to work with, being soft, and it is said that it is the reason so many lids are missing from the old chests, for the frequent lifting soon caused the wearing through of the wire and the lid soon became a separate piece.

The first chests were without legs, but the sides extended lower than the fronts, which allowed it to have the appearance of legs.

Capital Trust Corporation Reports Progress in Year's Activities

Increases in all departments and a continuance of the sound progress of 1934, featured the past year of operations of the Capital Trust Corporation, Limited, the company's annual report shows.

Advances were noted in net profits, in quick liquid assets and in the amount of new bond issues handled.

The steady increase in savings department deposits by the general public has continued, the amount deposited during the past year totalling $5,614,000 as compared with $5,554,000.00 in 1934 and $5,434,000.00 in 1933.

Quick liquid assets, consisting of government bonds at market value, demand loans and cash on hand amount to $2,086,899.32, being equal to 102.36% of the total savings payable on demand. Last year's figures for this item totalled $1,816,518.29, being equal to 94.31% of the total savings payable on demand.

The number and value of estates under administration have increased. Total amount of estates, trust and agency assets under administration have an inventory value of $9,809,000.00 as compared with $10,642,000.00 last year. The difference in the two figures is the result of completion of specific trusts. The total assets, including estates and agencies under administration amount to $16,587,000.00.

During the year, the company was appointed trustee for new bond issues of $6,498,000.00 as compared with $540,000.00 the previous year and $475,000.00 during 1933, an indication of progress.

Net profits for the year were $53,342.09, being equal to 6.032% of the company's paid up capital, as compared with $50,979.47 last year and $49,148.86 in 1933. A depreciation reserve for real estate of $33,921.71 has been created. Other reserves have been increased by $26,594.60.

The balance brought forward in profit and loss account on January 1, 1935, was $42,096.00, to which has been added the current year's profit of $53,342.09, making a total of $95,438.09 available for distribution. This has been appropriated as follows—dividends paid during the year, $26,500.43; provision for depreciation of assets, $16,716.28; depreciation on office furniture and fixtures, $1,514.46 and provision for Dominion and Provincial taxes, $8,000.00; leaving a balance of $42,706.92 to be carried forward.

A dividend of 3% was declared and is payable March 1, 1936, to shareholders of record December 31, 1935.

National Farm Paper Grows in Popularity

Despite hard times, the Family Herald and Weekly Star, Canada's National Farm Magazine, is able to report steady progress. Circulation continues to grow, indicating that there is as great a demand as ever for clean, entertaining and helpful reading matter, as provided by this popular rural weekly.

The Family Herald and Weekly Star aptly meets the general reading requirements of farmers and their families. The information on farm and farm matters it contains is alone worth many times the subscription price. Add to this the delightful stories, up-to-the-minute articles, the Women's and Children's sections, the unique and much-loved Sunday Section, and you have a veritable storehouse of reading to bring pleasure to every member of the family. At $1.00 per year, the Family Herald and Weekly Star cannot be equalled; at the special rate of $2.00 for 4 years the value in reading given surpasses beyond compare that given by any paper on the Continent.

Small investments often bring big returns. "Want Ads" have many times repaid a small outlay several times over.

Iceberg Hunters

—J. W. Holden, in the Argosy Magazine

By far the worst menace to Atlantic shipping are the icebergs which drift from Baffin Bay past Newfoundland directly into the Gulf Stream and important shipping lanes. In these waters a small berg lasts only two weeks, a large one about three; but sometimes there are a great many. The average is four hundred dangerous icebergs a year. In 1912, when the Titanic crashed into one, not less than 1,000 bergs were counted south of Newfoundland. That was the worst year so far. In 1924 only eleven bergs were counted, and in 1933 there were none at all.

After the Titanic disaster with its loss of 1,500 lives, fourteen nations combined to support an International Ice Patrol, the job of berg hunting being turned over to the U. S. Coast Guard. Each February a small boat goes north to investigate ice conditions. Later two regular cutters take over the ice patrol in spells of fifteen days each. These are fast two hundred and fifty-foot steel cutters, electrically driven, and make sixteen knots. A third is kept in harbor for emergencies.

At six in the morning the first broadcast is sent out, giving the position of the cutter and of all icebergs known, beginning with those farthest south — including their speed, which is generally about half a knot per hour. During the day inquiries pour in from near-by ships — as many as twenty or thirty if the weather is foggy. During the summer in this region there is fog about half the time. It is the job of the cutter on duty to steer these ships around the bergs. The same applies to derelicts, if any, and to ships not on their regular tracks. Many tourists sail to Europe and back without realizing that their ship has followed a clearly defined track and returned by another sixty miles to the north. To get off the track is a serious break in the rules.

The actual charting of the bergs, and incidentally of all ships within four hundred miles, is the work of a government oceanographer who stays on duty from April to June, moving from one cutter to the next in a small boat. He is supposed to keep track of each berg till it melts to about the size of a packing box. Experiments have been made to blow up the bergs, but there is not enough TNT in America to do the job. The Coast Guard has taken pride in the fact that no lives have been lost here because of ice since 1912. As a further reminder, a memorial service is held each April 14 on the cutter in service, usually on the site of the Titanic disaster.

Heavier Ocean Travel Reported

Heavier passenger travel from Canadian ports is reported for 1935, when 510 more passengers were carried across the Atlantic by vessels in the Canadian service than in 1934. Passenger liners operating across the Atlantic Ocean to and from Montreal, Quebec, Saint John and Halifax during 1935 carried a total of 45,761 passengers on the eastbound service and 42,396 on the westbound trips. In addition to the passenger liners, a number of freight boats carried passengers across the Atlantic and recorded an exceptionally steady business in passenger bookings. While not included in the Atlantic trade, considerable business was given to the passenger-carrying trade by the vessels engaged in the services to the West Indies.

MECHANICALLY DRUNK

In the closing days of the last British Parliament, Mr. Isaac Foot, M.P., called the attention of the House to a report made by a special committee appointed by the British Medical Association to investigate the question of alcohol and motor driving. The report was not a teetotal tract, but it clearly demonstrated that a man may be "socially sober but mechanically drunk."

THAT MEANS ALL OF US

A survey shows that Canadian farmers are better off today than they were this time last year. All reliable indications point to their being still better off a year from now.

This is good news to farmers, and in fact to all of us. A large portion of our population is rural. Canadian wheat brings a good price in world markets because of its superior quality. When the farmers have surplus money to spend for shoes, furniture, bathrooms, etc., it soon helps all of us.

There is something else in this improved condition of the farmers. When it becomes generally known that comfort-wages, even luxury-wages, can be earned on the soil, more people will come back to it. This will mean a healthier people, for accurate surveys also show that a person living on a farm has one chance in three of living to be seventy. In the congested areas of the cities his chances are only one in eight.

ment and Thos' Gore United Churches and their various departments.

Dr. Clunie's presentation of the financial statement showed a deficit which, it was felt, might be met with a determined response by the church membership. The Official Board made known its decision, that a special canvass in this connection would be preferable to the holding of a Tea Meeting; the gathering concurred with this decision.

In the election of officers, the present Stewards were re-appointed, with three additions, namely W. Black, E. K. Wilson and Silas Elder, to fill vacancies on the existing board.

Mr. Linton Armstrong was elected, on motion of Mr. R. C. Rogers, to occupy his position as Congregational Secretary—Mr. Rogers agreeing to fulfill the duties should the new appointee be unable to do so. Other officers were re-elected for the current year.

Dr. J. R. MacLeod closed the meeting with the Benediction. During the ensuing hour ladies of the congregation served refreshments and a pleasant social time was enjoyed.

Mrs. A. MacAllister, Brownsburg, Succumbed to Illness

The passing of Mrs. Alex. MacAllister removes one of the best known and widely respected citizens of Brownsburg. Her death occurred Saturday morning following a period of ill health.

She was the daughter of the late Peter McGibbon and the wife of Alex. MacAllister, postmaster of Brownsburg for upwards of 32 years. Three sons and one daughter survive, Ward, of Wetaskiwin, Melville, of Montreal, Arthur, and Mrs. David Black of Brownsburg.

The funeral took place Monday afternoon from the United Church at Brownsburg, Mr.

PLANS CULMINATING FOR CONSTRUCTION OF NEW CATHOLIC CHURCHES

With the industrial life of the West End rapidly developing, it became necessary, owing to the distance which intervened, to break away from the original parish some years ago and a new parish was formed. The Church of St. Julien was erected, where the worshippers have since grown to such numbers that the edifice is now inadequate to serve the community. With commendable zeal and a benevolent spirit, certain

NO SCHOOL TAX LEVIED

The school board of Jarrow, Alta., makes a fair bid for fame in the announcement that no school tax will be levied—this being the second successive year the board has needed no money from the ratepayers. It has $2,200 in the bank and the cost of operating Jarrow's one-room school is $1,000 a year.

DEMOLISHING PROPERTIES TO SAVE TAXES

Demolition of buildings in Montreal by owners who, finding no tenants, wish to save City Hall taxes, has attained such proportions as to cause concern among members of the city administration. It was suggested that further demolition might be forestalled by amendment of the city charter, but lawyers advised that a proprietor could do as he likes, and that there is nothing the city could do about it.

ANCIENT UNDERGROUND "CITY" NEAR MOSCOW

An underground "city" consisting of scores of stone dwellings, believed by Soviet archaeologists to have been abandoned 3,000 years ago, has just been found on the outskirts of Moscow. The discovery was made by diggers in a stone quarry, hewing rock for the Moscow subway. A number of crude household articles were in the dwellings.

WOMAN DIRECTOR OF CITY ARCHITECTURE

Mayor-elect S. Davis Wilson of Philadelphia has just appointed Miss Georgina Pope Yeatman as director of city architecture, the first woman ever to be given a departmental post in Philadelphia.

Miss Yeatman, 33, is a registered architect and is in practice. As director of city architecture she will receive $8,000 a year.

PAID BACK RELIEF MONEY

John Timicko, of New Toronto, deserves a special mention for his honesty and sense of public duty — says the Tara Leader — and he should receive as much publicity as the finder of a purse, who returns it to the owner. He was on relief, because of sickness and his inability to get work. He obtained a total of $612.40. As soon as he had returned to work and had saved that amount he repaid every cent.

TAXATION OF PUBLIC UTILITIES

The Associated Boards of Trade and Commerce of Ontario have reaffirmed the position taken by them in 1928 regarding the exemption of publicly-owned utilities from taxation. They are asking that the province place these services upon the same taxation basis as similar privately-owned enterprises.

PROVINCIAL INCOME TAX FORECAST IN QUEBEC

yield some 15 million dollars a year strengthened the probability that the Quebec government was about to do the same. The two provinces, in fact, have been working in harmony of late years in the matter of taxation, as was notably evidenced a year ago when Quebec decided it could not raise its gasoline tax because Ontario refused to do likewise.

It is believed possible that Ottawa will give up its own Federal income tax as far as personal incomes are concerned, in view of the fact that the two main revenue-producing provinces will go in for this form of taxation. The Federal Government was willing to do this a few years ago when the matter was discussed at an inter-provincial conference. The issue then, however, was ways and means of saving the western provinces from financial troubles, and it was found that the revenue from a personal income tax would be small in these provinces.

The decision of the Ontario Government to enact a provincial income tax was announced January 14, the first time a financial measure of such importance was made known to the members of the Legislature and public before the session had commenced. The proposed Ontario rates are one-half those exacted now by Ottawa. The Federal Government is to collect the provincial income tax.

adherents have decided to present the West End with a beautiful new structure of Gothic design, with seating capacity of about 800. The church will be a fire-proof building of Lepine-point-cut stone similar to that used in the House of Commons. Mr. Lemieux, Montreal architect, has been in town conferring on plans this week, and tenders will be called from contractors probably by the end of the month.

Four League Games Staged Since Last Reporting

thus depleted, St. Jerome chalked up two tallies and won the game in a 2-1 score.

In the second contest Hawkesbury triumphed with 3-2 over their opponents from St. Jerome, the latter doubtless jaded after their grilling scrap with Lachute. Two other goals by the Ontario boys were held in dispute, but even so, the victory was fairly theirs.

Payer of St. Jerome stood out in these games as a star on the forward lines. Roland Giroux and Geo. Calder refereed for the initial game, a Hawkesbury official replacing Calder for the second.

Voted one of the best showings on the schedule to date, Sunday's game was attended by only a small crowd. Hawkesbury and Lachute met here in a really fast and exciting set-to. Lachute took the laurels in a 5-2 score. The first period saw the teams tied with one goal each. In the second, Lachute scored again and held their opponents scoreless. In the third, while Hawkesbury made another counter, the home team advanced their count by 3 goals, thus winning the contest by 5-2.

It is noted, Brownsburg remains the only League team unbeaten as yet by Lachute, their old antagonists.

A postponed game is taking place tonight at Brownsburg, and the schedule calls for another here on Saturday, these two teams competing. The games should be rather more interesting than usual, and should draw a full house for each event. A game is billed for tonight between St. Jerome and Hawkesbury here on Lachute ice.

Tuesday's games at Brownsburg and St. Jerome had to be deferred owing to stormy weather. The number of games played by the respective teams is uneven at this stage, Hawkesbury having played the biggest number. In consequence, this team leads in the standing with 12 points, followed by St. Jerome 11, Lachute 10 and Brownsburg 7.

Grenville Man to Stand Trial
TESTIFY AT HEARING

On the testimony of his wife, which was taken under reserve by the court, and of his daughter—Isaie Poirier, 62 years of age, of Grenville, was sent for trial on a charge of arson, by District Magistrate Donat Lalande at St. Jerome last week.

Poirier was charged with having set fire to a house belonging to him at Grenville on April 1, 1935. The house was destroyed, only the four walls remaining. It was proved that Poirier had $700 insurance on the property which was occupied by Arthur Boarnais, who lived there alone but was to have taken a fellow lodger that night.

Marie Poirier, 32 years of age, daughter of the accused, who was arrested on January 13 on a sworn complaint, was the main witness. She testified that her father had several times threatened to burn down the house. On the day of the fire, in the afternoon, he had brought some gasoline to the house in bottles. In the evening he had left at 7.15 o'clock and had said: "I will set the place on fire." He returned at about 7.30 o'clock and went to his room. He left again to go to the church. After his return, said the witness, a boy came to the door and spoke to Mrs. Poirier. Witness said she could not understand what was said, but her mother told her their house, a short distance away, was on fire. Witness looked out the door and saw the blaze.

Mrs. Isaie Poirier, 59 years of age, told the court her husband had brought gasoline to the house during the afternoon on the day of the fire. He had later taken the gasoline in bottles with him, though she did not actually see him.

Witness admitted that she was not on good terms with her husband and that she had been about to have him arrested just prior to his being taken by the Provincial Police.

Witness said she had paid the insurance premiums on the property destroyed. She had been married forty years.

Magistrate Lalande decided there was sufficient matter for trial and committed the accused, who chose a speedy trial.

Lachute Town Council

No weighty deliberations occupied the attention of town councillors last evening in their regular meeting. With Mayor Dr. J. H. Mason in the chair, there were present Aldermen H. Lamarche, W. J. Deacon, J. Constantineau, C. Durocher, and O. Laurin, constituting a quorum.

Alderman C. Durocher was sworn in by the Secretary, having been re-elected with Councillors J. McGibbon, K. McQuat and G. Muir for the ensuing two-year term. Secretary Germain Pilon read his report of the election, as returning officer, and the Mayor extended congratulation to the gentlemen named, considering it a compliment to their services that the town had re-acclaimed them without opposition.

One of the first matters brought up by the chairman was a resolution of sorrow at the passing of the late King George and assertion of affection and loyalty for the new sovereign, King Edward VIII. The motion was made by Ald. Lamarche, seconded by Ald. Laurin.

In thanking the various committees for the responsible manner in which they had handled affairs left to their consideration, the Mayor called for re-appointment of the same bodies. This was duly passed, Ald. C. Durocher also being re-appointed pro-mayor for the next three months.

A resolution was passed authorizing the town attorney to proceed with legal requirements, for the town's application to Quebec Legislature on the annexation of territory. A committee of Aldermen O. Laurin, W. Deacon and H. Lamarche was appointed to prepare plans for redivision of lands and properties in this connection.

On motion of Ald. Lamarche, seconded by Ald. Laurin, the council was authorized to make formal application to the Quebec Electricity Commission, for a downward revision of rates in contract with the Gatineau Power Company.

There being no further business, the meeting was adjourned.

Local History Topic at
W. I. Gathering

The Lachute Women's Institute met on Tuesday afternoon for its regular gathering at Lachute High School.

In the unavoidable absence of Mrs. H. M. Gall, Convenor of Canadianization and National Events for this branch, Mrs. A. Bothwell read Mrs. Gall's excellent paper on "The Early History of Argenteuil County." As the subject was a broad one, Mrs. Gall's topic dealt principally with the early history of Lachute.

Mrs. A. Bothwell added to this interesting account by reading portions from Thomas' "History of Argenteuil and Prescott", telling of hardships endured and adverse circumstances overcome by courageous pioneers in this section.

A Topsy-turvy Bonspiel, for the entertainment of those who are not playing in Montreal, is under way at the club here. Semi-finals are being staged to-day.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

STUDIES IN CONTRAST

Day and Night.

YOU photograph Janitor in his sailor suit, his cowboy suit, dressed for a party and in overalls. You snap Uncle Henry digging in the garden and standing by the car, immaculately garbed to go somewhere. You take a picture of "Sis" in her bathing suit at the seashore and again in her costume for winter sports. You see the same face, but different togs, different activities. These are contrasts which you achieve almost unwittingly with your human subjects, but did it ever occur to you to try for such contrasts with your scenic views?

There is no end of opportunities which nature offers for pictorial studies in contrast. By returning to old scenes at different times and photographing them in the different robes in which they are clothed by the climatic changes of the seasons you will obtain some remarkably different pictures and at length have in your snapshot album a record of entrancing interest. Often such pictorial contrasts are progressive gems of Mother Nature's moods. And in taking pictures at different seasons and under different conditions we enlarge our repertoire of camera tricks—or rather it would be best to say, widen our field of camera knowledge, for really good pictures are rarely the result of tricks.

Perhaps the window from the downtown office exposes a view of a busy city street. Not very inspiring? Well, perhaps not in its everyday dress but haven't you admired its shimmering beauty on a rainy day when taxi tops, umbrellas, rain-coats and asphalt were glistening in the rain? After dark offers other possibilities with the countless electric signs holding aloft their messages, or when some public building or monument is illumined by floodlights. Rain, snow, sleet—nature's changing moods often transform the drab and colorless into scenes of great charm. Such a simple thing as water glistening in the ruts of a country road may make the difference between a routine and an interesting picture of that same road. A picturesque bridge over a park lake may become much more appealing if pictorial comparison of this object is drawn in a different season. A rock-bound coast with the sea calm or in stormy mood reveals, in your album, the power that is at Neptune's command.

Consider the artistic possibilities embodied in a group of evergreens as they look in winter and again in summer; in flower-dotted meadows contrasted with the same scene in winter dress, or the beauty of a thundering waterfall and when muted with scintillating ice.

Look over your album. Pick out those prints which you believe would make good comparison and when the proper season arrives visit that familiar scene and photograph it a second time. You'll be surprised at the opportunities and the results. And don't forget, now is the time to picture the lovely contrasts that winter makes.

JOHN VAN GUILDER

Athens Once Capital of Entire Civilized World

Athens was once the capital of the civilized world. Back of it is the most famous of all hills, the ruin-strewn Acropolis. The Acropolis, observes a writer in the Chicago Tribune, was the site of the early city which grew into Athens. It was fortified more than a thousand years before Christ. Part of the original walls still stand. Here the semi-mythical kings ruled and sat in judgment. Here under Theseus the city on the hill united with the villages that had sprung up on the plain below. Here was laid the foundation of the democracy that is still making its way westward around the world.

In 480 B. C. the Acropolis fell before the armies of Xerxes, who was later defeated in the naval battle of Salamis and he went back to Persia. In the same century the hill saw Sophocles, Euripides, Socrates, Aristophanes, and Pericles rise to immortality. The following century brought on the blight of Philip of Macedonia after he had paved the way for his son, Alexander the Great.

As the town of the greatest sculptors, poets, and dramatists of antiquity and the seat of the schools of philosophy founded by Plato and Aristotle, Athens subsisted for centuries on the intellectual capital it had stored up during the golden age.

For 2,000 years Athens has owed its prosperity to the fame achieved in its early days. It is still reaping the harvest of the intangible factors on which the empire of the mind is built: learning and literature, art and eloquence, philosophy and democracy. Students go there from all over the world, and the visitor stands in awe before the might and majesty of things immaterial.

Gigantic Globe of Stone

Graces 14-Story Temple

India rivals Egypt so far as the marvellous is concerned. The building of the Pyramids provides enough wonder, but they were, despite their size, "piled" up stone by stone, says the Montreal Herald.

India, on the other hand, can go one better by boasting, in Tanjore, a temple which rises to a height of 216 feet, consisting of 14 stories, and upon which rests a gigantic globe of stone weighing some 60 tons. The globe is made of solid granite, and much speculation has been going on for years as to how it got there.

In the case of the Pyramids the heavy is given that the masonry was slowly raised as the building grew in height. In the case of the temple in Tanjore, however, it is believed that the stone, brought from quarries from miles away, was conveyed by means of an inclined plane and 12 years of strenuous labor were needed to accomplish the task.

Origin of Croquet

Croquet, which was one of the most popular of games as early as seventy-five years ago and which is still played in many sections of the country, has its origin in an old French pastime called "paille maille." It originated in southern France during the Thirteenth century and was introduced into England. During the reign of the Stuarts paille maille became very popular. Later the game was modernized in France into croquet as known for the past three-quarters of a century. England quickly took up the revised game and shortly after that it became a popular pastime in America.

Black and Silver Foxes

A black fox is the same thing as the silver fox, that is the same species of animal, and both black and silver foxes are born quite frequently in the one litter from the same parents. The black, or silver fox really came from the red fox; in other words it is a brunette born into a red headed family. The black, or silver fox, however, has been bred on farms for so many generations that the type and color are quite set and permanent.

Can Make Own Photograph

When placed in direct contact with a photographic plate, a butterfly is not only able to produce a faithful picture of itself by a light-like emanation when alive, but also a similar photograph by sulphur gas—arising from slow decomposition of its pigment—as long as 50 years after its death.—Collier's Weekly.

Wet and Wetter Seasons

Most of us are familiar with the fact that tropical countries usually have two seasons, wet and dry. But the Malay peninsula, where we find the Federated Malay states, has so much rain that the seasons are known as the wet season and wetter season.

WERE THEY COLD AND TIRED?

Down—down—down—
In a topsy turvy way,
A host of little snowflakes
Came tumbling one day.

They beat against the windows
And sprinkled Bobby's nose,
As he was trudging homeward,
—Well, so the story goes.

They crept into a barn mow
When the door was open wide,
As though to escape the biting winds
That were roaring 'round outside.

The children found them nestling
In a tiny cone-shaped heap,
And thought they'd crept in to get warm
And fallen fast asleep!

OUTDOOR FROLIC

The Queen of Summer Fairies had just come in from her daily dance on the snow-covered meadows. "What a glorious day it is!" she chuckled to herself, "and what a splendid time I've had!" As she went to hang her sunbeam-colored cloak to dry she noticed a group of listless, discontented-looking fairies sitting idly around. "What is the matter, children?" she asked in her bright, happy way. "You look so sad and weary, not at all like good little fairies should."

"There's nothing to do these miserable cold days," one little fairy answered sulkily.

"Nothing to do!" said the Queen in a surprised voice, "Why, the world is full of things to do."

"But it is too cold to do anything," muttered another little fairy.

Fairies and folks that keep moving do not feel the cold," said the Queen brightly. She wanted to shake the sulky little fairies, but decided to try another plan. "The trouble is just that you stay inside too much when you should be out dancing. Exercise in the fresh air keeps you healthy."

"But there are no rose petals to dance upon," grumbled the Rose Tree Fairy, "how can I dance without rose petals to dance upon?"

"Ask Jack Frost to make you some," giggled a Frost Fairy, who had just popped in at the door to say hello as she danced by. "I dance on the window panes in the moonlight almost every night, and sometimes when there is no moon too. Jack Frost makes flowers and ferns and, oh everything I guess, whether there is moonlight or not. Why don't you come and dance with me tonight, Rosy-Posy?" Rosy-Posy wrinkled her tiny brows, drew up her little shoulders and was just going to say, "It's too cold," when the Queen cried, "What a splendid idea, little Sparkler. That is what she will do. Not only Rosy-Posy, but all these lazy folks of mine who have been sitting idly around, getting more discontented every minute because they cannot do the things they have been used to doing. I have been neglecting them, I'm afraid, but from now on we are going to have outdoor frolics whether it is cold or not. Where shall we meet you tonight, Little Sparkler?"

"Down by the big pine tree. I go there every night and sparkle as brightly as I can, because it sighs so much and seems so lonely. You know the pine tree never has a brightly colored dress like the maples in the autumn. I think if it could have a bright dress once a year like a great many of the other trees, it would not sigh so much. Then I expect that it misses the brook too. Now that it is covered away out of sight it cannot see the water, nor yet hear it sing."

"Well, whose fault is it that the brook is covered up? We cannot reach it either if we want to. If it had not been covered so early I might have had my dear Aster friends much longer. You Frost Fairies dried them up one night; if I could have carried them water from the brook I might have saved them."

"All these things are not within our power," said Little Sparkler shaking out her wings ready for flight. "Mother Nature rules—and Jack Frost, our King, has to obey her. I expect that the brook needs a rest from the hot glare of old King Sol to keep it from drying up completely, and that is why Mother Nature has it covered up. But I must be going or I shall be late for the noon-day dance with all the other Frost Fairies, in the cedar grove. As soon as King Sol hides his face in on the other side of the cloudland, I shall meet you under the big pine tree."

Lovingly, Aunt Jean.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, Feb. 9th., is "Spirit."

The Golden Text is—"The Spirit searcheth all things, yea, the deep things of God." (I Corinthians 2:10).

The following correlative passages are selected from among those comprised in the Lesson-Sermon to be read from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy.

"There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit. For the law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death." (Romans 8:1, 2.)

"Man walks in the direction towards which he looks, and where his treasure is, there will his heart be also. If our hopes and affections are spiritual, they come from above, not from beneath, and they bear as of old the fruits of the Spirit." (Science and Health, page 451).

GOVERNOR OF PUNJAB ON SCOUTING

"Service organized on this scale among the young is something new, and when it is combined with physical exercises and games, it is generally accepted as the most powerful influence in improving the physique and moulding the character of the rising generation. The appeal it makes to Indians lies in the good it is doing for India."—Sir Herbert Emerson, Governor of the Punjab, referring to public service rendered by Scouts in that province.

SCOUTS RENEW A 250 YEAR OLD TIE

A silk Welsh flag sent by the Boy Scouts of Merionethshire, Wales, to the 2nd. Merion Troop of Philadelphia, has behind it an interesting story. In 1682 a band of Welsh Quakers from Lake Bala emigrated to America and established a settlement on the Delaware river. This year the society of Friends of the settlement, now Bala-Cynwyd, Merion County, a Philadelphia suburb, organized a Boy Scout troop, and named as Scoutmaster Edward ap Rhys, direct descendant of one of the leaders of the original settlers. The flag from the Welsh Scouts renewed the tie between the youthful generation of those who emigrated 250 years ago and those who remained in the Welsh homeland.

THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE FOR NATURAL "BULK"

Needed to Correct Constipation*

Most people recognize the seriousness of constipation. But too often they dose themselves with strong cathartics that often actually lead to chronic constipation.

The natural way to check common constipation is to correct the condition which causes it—usually, insufficient "bulk" in meals.

How can you get "bulk"? Fruits and vegetables have some. Bran has more. The most popular product of this kind is Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is gentle in action. ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B and iron.

This delicious cereal is a wholesome food. Serve ALL-BRAN regularly for regularity, with milk or cream—or use in cooking.

Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily will usually correct constipation due to insufficient "bulk." If not relieved, see your doctor.

ALL-BRAN gives you gentle internal exercise. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ont.

WE ENJOY THE THINGS WE DO WELL

There are people so constituted that they will only do the things they do well. If they cannot do it well they do not enjoy doing it. A friend of mine will not play golf because she does not play well. Even the children are sometimes affected with the notion. One small boy would not skate because he could not skate well. He decided he wanted to learn, so just as soon as they made ice, which with artificial ice is long before the usual skating season, he went to the rink and by the time the rest of the boys and girls started to go to the rink he could skate well enough to satisfy his pride and was willing to have the others see him. Some of those who dislike cards probably dislike them because they play so poorly. The converse is not always true because some of the world's worst players love a game of cards. Naturally we all like to do the things we do well but the people who confine their activities to these, miss a lot of fun. I cannot think of any one thing that I feel I do really well, unless perhaps it is cooking, but I try to do a great many things and manage to have a grand time doing them. The more things we are interested in, the more enjoyment we get out of life—unless of course we go to extremes and our interests become a burden.

WHEN THE THREE-YEAR-OLD WASHES

Should a three-year-old be expected to wash himself? How can I get my child to quit dawdling when getting washed? These and various other questions about washing are frequently asked. Parents should try to learn what should be expected of a child at different ages. The three-year-old should help to wash himself and should be made to think that it is his job and that mother is just helping. It is too much to expect him to wash himself thoroughly but he can start the job with mother to put in the final licks. Then this dawdling business. We must recognize that there is nothing more thrilling than water to play with and that in the performance of getting washed there naturally is considerable playing mixed up with it. Recognize this fact, allow sufficient time for a little play and briskly bring the job to a quick finish yourself. In this way washing will be done with a certain amount of pleasure, the child will gradually learn to do it himself. If mother's nerves are on edge it means that the whole family feels upset. Life is a lot easier if we can just know how much to expect of our children.

SOUP

We often hear of a 'good nourishing soup'. That can be true but it very often isn't. If there is a good quantity of vegetables and cereal in the soup then it is a nourishing one. All that comes out of the meat is the flavour, so do not count on the meat to add to the calories in the soup. The meat plays its part in giving flavour and in being a gentle stimulant and appetiser but most of the nourishment is left in the meat. When people are sick it is a great mistake to fill them up with soup. A little of it may be, to act as an appetiser, but there are more nourishing foods for the sick than soup. Beef-tea falls in the same category. Soup has a valuable place in the menu but remember that its food value depends on the extra things which you put in it and not on the meat. Cream soups of course have more food value as they are made chiefly of milk.

CANNED SOUPS FOR FLAVOUR

Do you ever get tired of your own soups, or make one that does not seem to have much flavour? I have formed the habit of adding a can of soup to my soup pot occasionally for variety and interest of flavour. A can of tomato soup added to a soup that is made from odds and ends will change its flavour entirely. Instead of the tomato soup (especially if tomatoes already are in the soup) add a can of vegetable or oxtail soup and see what it does. If you are tired of your stews try adding a can of vegetable soup to them and you will be surprised at the intriguing flavour.

CHOCOLATE WHIP

4 tablespoons cocoa
4 tablespoons sugar
4 tablespoons water
pinch of salt
Cook these together over a slow heat until thick, stirring constantly. Cool. Stir in one half pint whipping cream until thoroughly mixed with the chocolate mixture. Whip until stiff and add 1/2 teaspoon vanilla. Pile in sherbet glasses and chill. I like to add about 5 cookies rolled very finely to this mixture as it makes it less rich, but it is not necessary. Yesterday I made it and added Chocolate Cookies and they are especially good so I will give you that recipe too. Sometimes I use cake crumbs instead of cookie crumbs, sponge cake being especially suitable.

COCOA ICE BOX COOKIES

1 cup shortening
1 1/2 cups sugar
3/4 cups cocoa
2 eggs
3 cups flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
3 teaspoons baking powder
Cream the butter and sugar and add well beaten eggs. Sift in the remaining ingredients and add walnuts. Form into two rolls and let stand until thoroughly chilled. Cut in thin slices and bake at 400 degrees.

Quebec Women's Institutes Endorse National Health Policy

Mrs. J. D. Harvey, Convenor of the W. I. Child Welfare and Public Health Committee, has asked the organization to endorse the National Health Policy recently advocated by Doctor Clifford H. Reason, of London, Ont. This policy takes the stand that prevention is better than cure, and urges a "periodical medical examination made available for every man, woman and child." This, he affirms, would often prevent serious illness and even death. Further, the policy outlined by Dr. Reason would place the responsibility for all who are ill upon the government, so that everyone, regardless of his state of finances, should have proper care and attention. This practice he wishes to see carried out through the whole social order as a step in the direction of protecting the health of the people.

Mrs. Harvey's plans for her work definitely commit the Quebec Women's Institutes to endorse the suggestions of Dr. Reason's National Health Policy.

RECENT INCIDENT IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

"Early one morning we received a call from a neighbor whose confinement was coming prematurely," writes the secretary of the Aldergrove Women's Institutes, (B.C.) "The husband was out of work and there was nothing in the house for the baby, nor any money to buy anything. By five o'clock our members had assembled a very presentable layette. In addition, the president, who has had some experience, acted as a nurse, the baby arriving an hour before the doctor got there. He gave little hope of its living, but I am glad to report that our Institute baby is a strong, healthy boy today."

Eleven hundred Methodist ministers in England have barred the word "oh" in marriage ceremonies.

The Week's Fashion News

Written Specially for The Lachute Watchman
By the Montreal "FASHION SCRIBE"

—Follow the Fashion Scribe's news from the leading store windows and departments. Her notes will afford you interest in 1936 and keep you right up-to-date with seasonal fashion trends.

Montreal — Disappointed because the ground-hog saw his shadow last Sunday? Expecting to find those six more long weeks of Winter rather dull? . . . You musn't, because there's simply no keeping the spirit of Spring out of the busy fashion scene. New ideas are popping up on all sides—inexpensive ideas, too, that you'll delight in adapting to your own particular needs. For instance, a great Jumbo bow in accordion pleated crepe spreads itself about the neckline of almost any Winter frock and lifts it out of the doldrums in a flash. Croisette pink. Aqua blue, new beige and white are among the popular colours seen, any of which are absolutely right with your Winter blacks or browns. Then there are the crisp new organdies in such a great variety of styles including new squared jabots, bibs and bows with any amount of feminine detail such as pleating, lace and frilling. You'll like the new tailored linens and piques as well.

Prints we've mentioned before, but methinks they're clamouring for further notice. A Spring perennial, 'tis true, but not often are we treated with a crop like that of this season. Multicolours . . . photographic types and all sorts of novel designs including gay dog and even music-score effects are being made up into frocks and jacket dresses that soon enter the "sold" contingent. Even if you've never been partial to prints before, it behooves you to at least see the grand Spring 1936 arrivals and that right soon.

Have you a skirt in your wardrobe that's perfectly good and yet hangs there from day to day? You had better get it out and have a look at it for you're going to need it this Spring. It can be straight and plain, pleated (still straight in line) or with a slight flare or cluster of pleats just above the hemline. If it's a suit skirt all the better because predictions promise the biggest suit season in years. But to get back to the skirt and on to the blouse you'll wear with it. Shirtwaists are the rage in New York. They've been seen in cottons, silks, linens, even printed organdy and the more definitely tailored the better. Right-about-face and Dame Fashion in another mood gives us the daintiest, frilliest, most feminine blouse lineup in a long while. Ruffles, pleats, lace, peplums, etc. You'll adore them all, and they'll flatter you, too!

Just a word or two about cottons. 1936 is out to give them a fling and there'll be no objections once the new designs and weaves are seen. The rougher the smarter and the bolder the design, the newer the appearance. Both light and deep grounds are featured and we hear a great deal about their excellent tubbing qualities. You'll be wanting yards and yards for blouses, frocks, sport togs and kiddies' wear.

HOMEWORK AND EXAMS

Homework is closely linked up with the examination system. But examinations themselves are discredited. Other means must be used if the mental powers of the student are to be accurately appraised. The truth probably is that examinations as used to-day are not really for the purpose of testing the pupil, but the teacher. If a large proportion of students pass, then the teacher must be good, seems to be the idea. The natural consequence is that the teacher who spends much time endeavoring to inculcate character rather than scholarship may be adjudged incompetent. When examinations, as we now have them, give place to something better, homework will probably go out of fashion.

Rothschild Loans

In the later Napoleonic campaigns, England gave large subsidies to many of her allies to offset the larger number of troops furnished by some other nations that had men but no money. Nathan Meyer Rothschild of London negotiated drafts made by the Duke of Wellington in his campaigns against Napoleon, which the English government was unable to meet, and also arranged for the subsidies to other nations, including Prussia, to be safely transferred and delivered.

Clapping Hands Is Part of Prayer With Japanese

There are no regular weekly services at Shinto shrines in Japan. Only a great festival once a year, commemorating an emperor's birthday, a heroic deed, boys' festival, girls' festival, rice planting festival, cherry blossom festival, and similar secular celebrations. Sacred and religious ceremonies are held in the Buddhist temples. It seems that Shintoism is for life in this world and Buddhism for the hereafter, observes a writer in the Chicago Tribune.

Before approaching the shrine the devotee washes his hands at a fountain provided for that purpose. There is no kneeling—simply close eyes, bow head, clap hands two or three times, concentrate two or three seconds on prayer. The handclapping is to indicate that one comes to the shrine unarmed and in a spirit of peace and good will; handclapping is not possible while clapping a weapon.

The long lines of school children at the Meiji shrine suggest the thought that every boy and girl in all Japan must be duty bound to visit this great group of memorial buildings.

In the spacious outer precincts of the Meiji shrine is the Jingu stadium, with seating capacity for 55,000 spectators, with the largest and finest arena in the Orient; a baseball diamond and grandstands to seat 50,000; a swimming pool in which 15,000 can disport themselves; a jujitsu or wrestling ring, and plenty of apparatus and paraphernalia for other games and contests. On alternate years the Japanese National Olympic games are held on these ample grounds.

Most Dangerous Farm Is One That Grows Microbes

Not far from the King's road, Chelsea, is one of the most dangerous farms in the world—a germ farm. It is known as the Lister Institute of Preventive Medicine, and the millions of germs in their respective test tubes are guarded more closely than the crown jewels, for if they escaped they would wipe out the entire population of London, asserts a writer in Tit-Bits Magazine.

The function of the Institute is to breed germs with a view to studying them and defeating them during epidemics. They thrive well on certain foods: sugar of malt, and eggs in the form of a flap; potato salad; and a broth made with agar, a form of Japanese seaweed.

Every year the Institute sends more than 5,000 germ cultures to scientists in every part of the world for experimental purposes. Every parcel is carefully packed and there is sufficient food for the germs during the whole voyage. Many human beings would envy the care and attention that is given these microbes, for unless their individual likes and dislikes are studied, they refuse to develop as they should.

Pont Du Gard

There is something ironical in the thought that the Pont du Gard which was built across the Rhone in the First century B. C. should have survived nearly 2,000 years of invasions, revolutions, floods, and other forms of violence, and that it should be threatened with destruction by the vibration of the traffic on a neighboring bridge. Nearly 300 yards long and 180 feet high, the Pont du Gard stands as one of the most splendid relics of the Roman occupation of France. The only damage which the aqueduct has undergone occurred in the Fifth century. The structure, as it stands, is almost exactly the same as it was the time when it was built—Montreal Herald.

The Hymn "Rock of Ages"

The hymn "Rock of Ages," one of the most popular, was written by Augustus Montague Toplady, who was born in 1740 and died in 1778. It is said that he wrote it while sheltering from a storm under a great cleft rock near Cheddar, Somerset. The phrase itself, "Rock of Ages," is, however, much older, and is traced to a note on Isaiah 26:4, where the words "Everlasting strength" are stated to be, in the Hebrew, "Rock of Ages." Wesley used it in one of his hymns, and it also appears in Southey's poetry.—Answers Magazine.

Lachute Ladies Capture the Royal Caledonia Curling Trophy

HONORED HERE AT CLUB SUPPER

In a triumphant home-coming last Friday night, the delegation of Lachute lady curlers brought with them the coveted Caledonia Trophy — a prize open to contestants from the province and neighboring Ontario clubs. The winning team comprised Mrs. J. A. McGibbon, Mrs. G. G. Mitchell, Mrs. J. M. Drew and Mrs. W. M. Cottingham (skip), who, after beating Ottawa in the semi-finals (12-11) at Royal Montreal, stepped up to a final contest with Sherbrooke and took the laurels.

In addition, a second Lachute team won out in the consolation events of the same trophy. The team, namely Mrs. N. McNeil, Mrs. W. J. Deacon, Miss E. Fraser, and Mrs. E. H. Wilson (skip), were victors over Royal Montreal (12-9) in the semi-finals, and over Rideau in the final games, taking the victory with 11-9. The final games were at Thistle Rink.

CUSHING JUNCT. HAVEN FOR TRANSIENTS

C. N. R. POLICE END HAPPY DOMAIN

It was found last week that several men, unemployed and without homes, had taken possession of the C.N.R. station at Cushing. They lived there in a state of comparative luxury—until the arrest of the head of the gang put an end to their enjoyment.

The chief of the band, Charles Lemieux, 33 years of age, who claimed to come from Vaudreuil, appeared last Wednesday before Magistrate Donat Lalande at St. Jerome, and was found guilty of "having taken illegal possession of the Cushing station and of having broken article 4 of the Railway Act. He was sentenced to $25 and costs or one month in jail and, having no money, Lemieux went to jail.

Constable Charbonneau, of the C.N.R. police, arrested Lemieux on Wednesday morning. He informed the court that Lemieux with five or six other men had taken possession of the company's station known as Cushing Junction over a week ago. There is no agent at this station and the place is left open for travellers waiting for trains.

The occupants used the stove in the building and the company's coal to keep themselves warm and to cook their food, which they begged in the sur-

LACHUTE MILLS FAMILY RECENTLY BEREAVED

LATE CHARLES POIRIER

The death of an old Lachute Mills resident, Mr. Charles Poirier, occurred Feb. 2nd., at the age of 74 years and eight months. Mr. Poirier was well known in the county, having farmed for nearly 30 years in the Arundel district.

He is survived by his widow, formerly Rose Delima Bazinet; by four sons, Francis, Godfroy, Athanase and Ovila; and three daughters, Bernadette (Mrs. Philiass Masson), Genevieve (Mde. Hector Chartrand), and Therese Poirier; also 30 grandchildren, all of Lachute.

The funeral was held last Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, conducted by Father E. Labelle, curé of Ste. Anastasie parish. Mass was sung by Rev. Labelle, Rev. Cloutier and Mons. Briere, in the presence of a large gathering of friends and relatives—among whom were present Francis and Raymond, nephews of the deceased, from Westmount, and Mons. H. Bazinet of Ste. Scholastique.

There were many beautiful floral tributes, and expressions of sympathy were received from a distance and from local organizations and individuals. Pall-bearers were Messrs. Godfroy Delorme, E. and J. Lacasse, P. Fournier, R. Trudel and A. Brodeur.

VISITOR PRAISES EFFORT TO MAINTAIN HIGHWAYS

WORD OF ENCOURAGEMENT FOR LAURENTIAN ROADS LIMITED

CORRESPONDENCE

Editor, Watchman, Lachute.

Dear Sir:

Allow me to congratulate The Watchman and the business men of the progressive town of Lachute on their enterprise and business acumen in keeping open the road from Lachute to Montreal during the winter months.

This is work which should be done by the Provincial Government who issue licenses for twelve months' use of the roads. The penny wise and pound foolish policy of hibernating like the bears during the winter months is something no really live community can put up with long.

During the visit of our party we saw four American and some hundred Quebec and Ontario cars.

The opening of this gateway to the Laurentians in winter time, when fully known, will mean a constantly increasing traffic. Each visitor will spend some money and instead of the business man only having eight months in which to make his expenses he will now have twelve. The whole community will benefit. Good work, Lachute!

Yours truly, W. Anderson.

rounding district. They also did the washing of their clothing in the railway station and hung the clothes out to dry in the waiting room, much to the surprise and disgust of the travellers who had occasion to wait in the station. Thus was the complaint made to the railway company and Constable Charbonneau was sent to investigate. When Charbonneau arrived, however, only Lemieux was "at home", and he informed the constable that his companions were out begging. So Lemieux was arrested, it being believed that his arrest, with the presence of a constable to guard the station, would keep others away.

LAC MERCIER PARISH PRIEST BURNED OUT

The presbytery at Lac Mercier, in the Laurentian section, was razed by fire Saturday afternoon. The fire was set accidentally by workmen thawing out a frozen water pipe with an electric machine. The two-storey wooden building was soon in flames and volunteer firemen concentrated their efforts in protecting the wooden church twenty feet away. They were successful but the priest's dwelling was razed. The loss is estimated at $3,500, partly covered by insurance. The parish priest, Abbe C. H. Deslauriers, has been forced to take up another abode.

"The Set of the Sail"

Have you ever seen in the bay a big sailing vessel with all her sail spread? What a pretty marine picture a six-master makes with her canvas stretched out! You can imagine one vessel headed this way, two sailing ships glistening in the sun, bound for opposite ports. They have no engines, no gasoline, no oars, they depend on the wind to sail the ship.

Some ships sail East, some ships sail West. By the selfsame winds that blow. It's not the gale, but the set of the sail. That tells which way they go.

Stop and think. What kind of a ship are you? People complain of the circumstances of their lives and say that it is of no use to try to do anything in their condition. Listen! It is not the gale, but the set of your sail that determines whether you go up or down.

WAKE UP, PEOPLE!

(Renfrew Mercury)

When will people realize that an increase in taxes, whether it be by the town council or by the province, or by Mr. King, is a tax on every one of them. The man standing around out of a job throws up his hat and gives a cheer when any tax-imposing body declares for new and higher taxes. Foolish fellow. The few clothes and little food he does get for himself and his family will be still harder for him to get because of these taxes. And yet a great many people, because they have little, fancy that they should shout for some men, or party, announcing that they propose to take more taxes from those who can pay. Those who can pay! That means you, whether you have $10 or $10,000. And it's time you realized this.

Bennett Opposes Casgrain as Speaker on Grounds of Partiality . . . Sombre Opening of Session

"THE OTTAWA SPOTLIGHT"

Ottawa, February 11.—Parliament opened in sombre and somewhat chastened mood. The recent death of the sovereign was reflected in the absence of much of the traditional glitter of the opening ceremony, and in the cancellation of all social events in connection with it. Members wore black ties and subdued raiment generally. The first word uttered in the new parliament was not, as is usual, the formal motion to appoint a speaker, but an expression of loss at the death of the king, and the desire of the House to convey at the earliest possible opportunity its condolence to the new monarch and the Queen Mother.

What Hon. Ernest Lapointe described as a 'tempest is a teapot' but which nevertheless created some painful moments for all concerned, was responsible for the 'chastened' mood of the opening. Usually it is the unanimous desire of all parties in the House to agree upon the selection of a Speaker, who henceforth is the guardian of the rights and privileges of all members, and is expected to display an impartiality in keeping with the high traditions of the office.

LICENSES NEGLECTED

Because they had failed to take out licenses for radios in their homes, 32 residents of the St. Jerome district will be summoned to appear in court next Monday.

Inspectors of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and of the Department of Marine have been in the district for some time checking up and summonses have been issued at the St. Jerome court house. This is the first time in the history of the county that such cases have been made.

It was learned that residents of Ste. Therese and of Terrebonne were the chief offenders there being ten summonses for each of these towns. St. Janvier residents who will be requested to appear in court to explain why they have no licenses number eight, while Rosemere shows a total of four with two citizens of St. Jerome completing the list.

LACHUTE AHEAD IN LEAGUE STANDING

TEAMS HAVE EACH A FEW GAMES TO PLAY

Winning a triumph which had eluded them thus far, Lachute beat their old rivals at Brownsburg last Thursday. The score was decisive, standing 7-1 at conclusion of the game.

It was a rough and tumble game with many penalties, culminating in a free-for-all towards the end of the match, but there was some fast hockey in evidence. Lachute's strong game was their defensive, including Goaler Patry who made some brilliant saves. These, however, were mostly from blue-line, for there was little close-in play at the Lachute end. Alex. Barker starred again for the Burg, playing a fine game from defence. Lachute had the edge on the play throughout, taking the lead in the first period with 2-0. Through the second clash they held the home-team scoreless and added three more tallies to their record. In the final, Lachute scored two more, and Charlebois chalked up a goal for Brownsburg, saving their reputation with a deficit balance at 7-1.

There were flashes of good offensive in the Brownsburg play, but the team could not seem to get going. A major difference of opinion occurred between Racine and Bidou Patry, but on the whole a good spirit prevailed. The referees were Beauchamp and Charlebois. Lachute's goals were scored by Henri Joly, C. Drew (2), Paulo Patry (2), R. Gagne and P. Lefebvre. G. Lefebvre was absent from the Lachute line-up.

Meeting the same team here on Saturday, Lachute rode home to victory before a considerably larger crowd of spectators. The score this time was 6-0.

In the first period C. Drew and Lloyd Cruise set the home team two goals ahead; in the second, Drew scored again and Joey Berniquier added two tallies to make the count 5-0; Win Drew scored in the final session, leaving the result 6 goals to 0.

Patry put up a good blockade in the Lachute nets, maintaining his recent fine record. The Drew brothers, Berniquier and P. Lefebvre played a good offensive game. On the Brownsburg line, even though Racine and St. Onge were lacking, it Past entertainments and dramatic efforts have proven there is no lack of talent in this town and vicinity, but the Amateur Night staged last Friday by Lachute Women's Institute in the Auditorium, brought forward many little-known performers and provided a rare evening's enjoyment. The event was well attended.

Rev. H. Cousens as master of ceremonies preluded the show with apt remarks, referring to Lachute as a town of famous industries, not the least of which, he added, was the Women's Institute, an enterprise turning out better women, better wives, better cooks — each reference in turn drawing plaudits from male members of the audience.

Settling down to business, the applicants were called upon for their numbers, and the performance took on something of the celebrated Major Bowes' presentation. Items on the program are enumerated briefly in their order:

Harold Kaye, song and tap dance, "An Earful of Music."
Ruth LeCras, piano selections, classical and popular.
Shirley Leggett, Peggy Beveridge, tap dance.
J. C. Chartrand, baritone, song in French.
Sidney Drew, Hawaiian guitar selections.

WILL CELEBRATE HER 98th BIRTHDAY TOMORROW

The Watchman fulfils a pleasant duty in once again congratulating Mrs. Wm. Drew. This venerable lady of Lachute celebrates her 98th birthday tomorrow. Her alertness and good health are a source of wonder to her friends, who confidently hope she may be spared to join the centenary ranks. — Our greetings and hearty good wishes!

THOMAS I. POLLOCK WAS ACTIVE EDUCATIONIST

BROTHER AND SISTER SURVIVE HERE

A native of Lachute and an active figure in educational matters in this province, Mr. Thomas Ingram Pollock died last Saturday in the Western Division of the Montreal General Hospital. He was 64 years of age and had lived in retirement since June, 1934, owing to indifferent health. He was at one time a teacher in the Lachute Academy, and his standing among Protestant educationists is evidenced in the fact that he was also elected a president of the Protestant Teachers' Association of the Province of Quebec.

Mr. Pollock was born at Lachute in 1871, son of Robert Pollock and Mary Ann Smith. Educated at the local Academy, he later taught here before entering McGill University, from which institution he was graduated in 1896 with second rank honors in natural sciences and his academy diploma.

For a year after his graduation he was principal of the Rawdon School. During the next four years, to 1902, he was principal of the school at Aylmer, Que., after which he taught at the Westmount Academy for four years, being made principal of King's School in 1906, and of Roslyn Avenue School in 1910. He was principal of the latter school until his retirement in 1934.

Mr. Pollock also taught night

WILL ONE OF THESE BECOME BRITAIN'S NEW QUEEN?

Only five girls are eligible by tradition to ascend the throne of the British Empire, if King Edward VIII should leave the bachelor rank. Since royal custom decrees that the empire's monarch must not marry a commoner, the eligible princesses are Princess Juliana of Holland; Eugenie, Irene and Katherine of Greece, and the Grand Duchess Kira of Russia.

maintained its rate of interest. Millions of people are taking advantage of this greatest co-operative enterprise—a development that has stood the test for generations. Life insurance funds are the accumulation of small sums administered by insurance companies as the custodians for the people. Due to a misconception, there was still a tendency to excessively tax life insurance companies, which meant that the thrifty were being penalized. The Sun Life in 1935 paid out in taxes, exclusive of those on real estate, a total of over one million six hundred thousand dollars. Policyholders do not realize that taxes imposed on a life insurance company fall directly upon them.

Asbestos is a mineral that is woven into cloth or sheets, and put to various uses because it is incombustible. Asbestos cloth was formerly used as a shroud for dead bodies.

Japanese Chronology Confusing
Early Japanese chronology is confusing and, to say the least, inexact, says a writer in the New York Herald-Tribune. This is sufficiently proved by the earliest histories which give the average age of the first emperors as something over a hundred years. Most confusing of all, up to about 600 A. D. is the mixture of legend and fact, of fairy tales and truth. Actually mythology is so mixed with history that no mortal man can separate the two, no one can say just where the supernatural ends and the natural begins.

Famous Pets' Graveyard
The most famous pets' graveyard in the world is the dogs' cemetery in Paris, one of the tombstones in which bears the famous cynicism: "The more I see of men, the more I love my dog." There is also a dogs' cemetery in Kensington gardens, London. It was started when a dog belonging to the duchess of Cambridge was killed in a road accident, and is now full.—Answers Magazine.

Effects of Moonlight
Scientists long have scoffed at the ancient belief that moonlight can cause lunacy and render food unfit for use. However persistent claims that certain fish caught in the River Nile would spoil overnight if left in the light of the moon have been found to be true.—Collier's Weekly.

"Maid's Money" to Servants
In the Guildhall every January 20, "Maid's Money" is given the maid-servant who has been in service for two years or more in Guildford, England. The old custom is maintained under the will of John How, who died in 1674. Claims are settled by the throwing of dice.

Inscription on Church Window at Dunary

The inscription upon the stained glass window erected in St. Paul's Church, Dunary, is being completed this week. It is upon black glass with bronze lettering, and reads as follows: "In memory of Samuel Smith and his wife, Margaret Macdonald. Also of their deceased children: James, Mary, Jane, Margaret, William, Samuel, Elizabeth, Henry, Sarah, George. — Erected by their Executors and their surviving son, John."

Western Paper Gives Account Golden Wedding Celebration

A report in the "Borderline Budget," of Soverna, Sask., describes the golden wedding celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Doig, a couple who were married here in East Settlement on December 23, 1885. It was the first golden wedding to be celebrated in that western community. The occasion was mentioned in Lachute Watchman at the time.

Mr. Doig was born in Lachute Jan. 26, 1860, and Mrs. Doig, formerly Annie Elizabeth Todd, at East Settlement Jan. 31, 1862. They were married by Rev. Wm. Furlong (the newspaper notes) and their attendants were Grace Todd and John Boa. "To the union were born three sons and three daughters: Mrs. Roberts, Robt. and Henry of Hoosier; Mrs. M. Yeoman, Marengo; Mrs. Harold Steven, Kitscoty, Alta., and Walter S. of Beaufield. There are seventeen grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Doig and family came to the West in 1910, settling south west of Hoosier, where they still reside.

A turkey dinner was served to the family and relatives at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Doig, the family all being present, with the exception of the Steven family and Walter. Congratulations were received by wire and radio during the day.

In the evening an entertainment was tendered in Equity Hall by the community, the hall being tastefully decorated in mauve and gold. A very enjoyable program was presented, bringing back the old memories.

Many gifts were received, including those from the community, Hoosier Ladies' Aid, Greene Ladies' Aid (of which Mrs. Doig is a member); also a three-tiered cake and a blanket from Mr. Doig's nieces in the East.

Insurance Company's Report Is Reliable Index to General Improvement Business Conditions

SUN LIFE ASSURANCE COY. SHOWS ADVANCES, IN ANNUAL REPORT

Definite improvement in general business conditions can be seen from the 65th Annual Report of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada just released by Arthur B. Wood, President and Managing Director. The statement reflects the strength of life insurance, a voluntary co-operative movement which for generations has stood every test.

Life insurance companies' annual statements always considered barometers of general business conditions, have been accurate indicators during the depression and since 1933 have shown, in no uncertain terms, that general business is making headway.

The Sun Life's financial statement for 1935 shows still further improvement. Assets of this company stood at an all-time high at the year-end, an increase of forty-one million dollars for 1935, and are now over seven hundred and seven million dollars.

The Bond Account increased from one hundred and sixty-two million dollars to two hundred and eighteen million dollars and is now over thirty per cent of the assets. Profit from redemption or sale of securities during the year was over five million dollars. Cash in banks was approximately twenty-one million dollars. During 1935 the policy loans repayments took a decided upward turn which definitely indicates a return to better times. These cash repayments on loans exceeded any previous year in the history of the company. Investment income showed a notable increase over 1934, while expenses were further reduced.

Another definite sign of improved business and a lessening of unemployment, gathered at the meeting, is the increase in Group Assurance, designed primarily for commercial and industrial plants. This phase of the Sun Life's business shows an increase for the year of twenty-three per cent.

Payments to policyholders and their beneficiaries since the company was organized 65 years ago exceed nine hundred and sixty-eight million dollars and during 1935 payments of this nature were over eighty million dollars.

New business paid for during the year was over two hundred and nineteen million dollars, and the assurances in force total over two billion seven hundred million dollars. Total income for the year was more than one hundred and fifty-three million dollars, a decrease from 1934, but on the other hand, due to a substantial decrease in total disbursements, the excess income for 1935 was forty-seven million dollars, as compared with forty-four million dollars in 1934. The surplus earnings for 1935 are even better than the previous year and the company is continuing the policy of employing these surplus funds to write down the value at which securities are carried, and in this way strengthen its investments and other reserves, a policy which will naturally benefit policyholders. In referring to the difficulty of making sound investments at satisfactory interest, Mr. Wood apparently feels that the low rates will continue for some time but with increased business activity there should be a gradual improvement. In the face of these difficulties, however, the Sun Life not only

The Town Council resolved that the Mayor and Councillor Fish be appointed a committee to obtain a deed from P. Cruise for a lot of land on which a hospital is to be built.

A meeting of the congregation of St. Simeon's Church held on Jan. 13th., decided upon holding a grand festival and fancy fair at Lachute, on July 1st., in aid of the church and parsonage fund.

Among the special attractions of the Fair will be a "Baby Show" for which three prizes will be given amounting to $25.00. The ladies presiding over the different booths will assume fancy dress for the occasion, either national or historical. Spanish and Japanese Hindu and Swiss peasants will figure in attractive garb, and it is hoped a warm interest will be taken for the general advantage of place and people.

We notice by the Strathcona Chronicle that three of our old hockey boys, Hamton, McRae and McArthur, are still holding their reputations in hockey circles. In reporting the game with Roseland, B.C., the Chronicle dubs young Hamton as "Pinky" and claims our eastern boys as "marvels at the game."

At the adjourned meeting of the Town Council held on Feb. 12th., a letter from the Board of Health of Montreal approving the sewer system on Bethany Street was received, allowing the deposit of sewage anywhere in the North River above Barron's Bridge.

It is reported that the Shepherd Company have at last been persuaded to dispose of the old Carillon and Grenville Railroad the purchasers being the McKenzie and Mann Co., who intend carrying out the plans of "The Ottawa Valley Co'."

he regarded as an unpleasant but necessary duty, objected to the appointment of Pierre F. Casgrain, formerly Chief Whip of the Liberal party, and member for Charlevoix-Saguenay. Mr. Bennett did so because of an incident which was given wide publicity in the press at the time. Over one hundred employees of the House of Commons were given notice that their services would not be required after Jan. 31st., 1936, and a similar number of other persons were notified to come to the parliament buildings to replace them. This wholesale 'firing' was done, it was said, on the authority of Mr. Casgrain, who was then only a private member of the House. On the ground that these were 'permanent' employees and not temporary staff, Mr. Bennett charged that Mr. Casgrain had violated the statutes of Canada, and had shown himself no great respecter of the rights and liberties of parliament. Therefore, said the former premier, he was no proper custodian of these rights; and he was compelled to oppose him as Speaker.

AN UNCOMFORTABLE PERIOD

Mr. Bennett spoke eloquently and incisively, and Mr. Casgrain evidently spent a very uncomfortable hour and a half, while the debate was in progress. Mr. Woodsworth associated himself with Mr. Bennett in the protest. Privately some of the Liberals were also in sympathy with Mr. Bennett. The government itself had subsequently acted to prevent the wanton discharge of a large number of employees of the House; and Mr. Bennett had only praise for Mr. Mackenzie King's action in the matter. But it was obviously a painful situation for the prime minister, who was on the horns of a cruel dilemma. He was compelled to recommend in the warmest terms to the House a man whose conduct in that respect at least he had showed he disapproved, by the action he took to countermand it. He could hardly, however, throw Mr. Casgrain overboard after having given him the post, on an incident of the sort, certainly not without incurring the deep-seated enmity of many French-Canadian supporters. Hon. Ernest Lapointe made a brief but ingenious reply to Mr. Bennett; and the latter avoided a still more ugly turn of affairs by offering to allow the Speakership to be settled without a recorded vote.

NO EXCESS OF PARTY EMOTION

Normally the opening of the House after such a sweeping election might have justifiably seen a certain amount of party preening of feathers and expressions of smug satisfaction. Aside from mild applause when the prime minister entered, there was, however, little or nothing of the sort. Members of the Liberal party realize on the whole that they are in no enviable position, with a serious depression still on their hands, with Liberals in power in eight provinces, and no excuses likely to be accepted by the public if things don't improve. Some of the younger and more aggressive Liberals are saying to each other (I heard some of the expressions on opening day) that Canadian Liberalism is very much on trial, and that if the party doesn't display an active and effective sort of Liberal doctrine now it will be all up with the Liberal party in its time, just as it was with the Conservative party last year.

The Speech from the Throne contained only one surprise. "A full inquiry will be instituted into representations which continue to be made respecting monopolistic control of the importation and distribution of anthracite coal" the speech announced. The wording of the section dealing with the nationalization of the Central Bank suggests that the government proposes to buy out a majority control of the stock now in the hands of the public as well as secure control of the directorate.

"George Washington was a great man."
"He must have been", said Mr. Dustin Stax, "to transact so much big political business with so few brass bands."

Monarch Life Effects Substantial Gains

The Thirtieth Annual Meeting of The Monarch Life Assurance Company was held in Winnipeg on Wednesday, January 29, and the very satisfactory report of the Company's operations in 1935 was received with enthusiasm by the shareholders and policyholders in attendance.

In moving the adoption of the report, Mr. E. J. Tarr, K.C., President of the Company, referred with pride to the substantially increased reserves for the protection of policyholders, the addition of $147,000.00 during the year being the largest increase in the Company's history. Total surplus funds and special reserves available for contingencies, and exclusive of regular policy reserves, now amount to $1,427,674.00. Full provision, amounting to $118,137.00, has been made for accrued dividends on quinquennial policies, and the reserve for unreported death claims is substantially larger. Mr. Tarr also pointed to the very favorable investment position of the Company and to the valuation of bonds and stocks at considerably less than market prices. Notwithstanding these substantial allotments and the conservative treatment of assets, the Company's free surplus reached a new high point.

Mr. Gordon C. Cumming, General Manager, commented on the results achieved during the year. For the second consecutive year (business in force has increased and now stands at $54,490,686.00. Lapses and terminations decreased for the fourth successive year and comparatively, over the past six years, business has persisted better than the general experience. Assets increased by nearly half a million dollars to $11,977,194.00. Premium income also increased while operating costs and expense ratio showed a further substantial reduction. The Company experienced another favorable mortality record in 1935, with death claims well below those incurred in 1934. Mr. Cumming spoke with optimism of the outlook for 1936, referring to the improvement in business conditions and to recent developments and growth in the field organization of the Company. New business for the year to date shows an increase of 30% over the corresponding period in 1935.

Big Words or Little? -- That is the Question

A. P. Herbert, who added to the joy of reading with his "Holy Deadlock" and whose wit and experience have contributed to the lustre of "Punch" for many years, has pointed his pen at the English language in a clever and pleasantly instructive book called "What a Word". In this latest achievement, Mr. Herbert undertakes to talk about what is good English, but he doesn't handle his subject too seriously, and it is to be taken for granted that his mood will not be lost when his book is presented through the keen eyes of Professor J. F. Macdonald, on the regular Book Review period for the Canadian Radio Commission on Saturday, February 15, at 7.45 p.m.

Professor Macdonald, who has a way of making the more serious works vastly entertaining, will inject a little light on current economics, for the second book of his choice for this broadcast is "Rich Man, Poor Man" by R. A. and O. P. Goslin, two authors who have written a corking good primer on economics problems, and have done their work with words and terms that a bright school boy can easily understand. Good news for the men or woman who wants to understand what is happening to money and goods!

Two acquaintances, who had not seen Macpherson for some years, called at his house on Saturday evening. Mrs. Macpherson answered the door. "Does Macpherson live here?" they asked. "Ay", was the woman's reply, "jist carry 'im in!"

"Amateur Hour" Rivalled Major Bowe's for Unqualified Success

Bill Atwill, 21-year-old baritone, singing a touching ballad.

Lorna Giles, 11, and Louise Deacon, 12, tap dance.

May Gordon, 9 years old, singing "When I Grow Up."

Aime Trudel, "Beautiful Lady" and "Silver Threads Among the Gold", on the musical saw.

Kate Smith (age problematical) singing: "Let the Rest of the World Go By", and joined by her fiancé, Elmer, in "Darling I am Growing Old."

Jean Beveridge, tap dance, "Lazy Bones."

Howard Morrison, vocal solo.

Gerald Walker, singing popular number and playing guitar and mouth organ.

Margaret J. Valpy, song, "When I Grow too Old to Dream."

Edwin Gauley, accordion selections.

Herbert Miles, classical selection on the piano.

Georges Belanger, 16 years of age, whistling "An Earful of Music."

"John", attempting violin and cornet selections, also a vocal number—failing which he concluded with a lively dance.

Jean Fournier, popular piano numbers in her own arrangement.

Peggy Beveridge, Champagne Waltz, toe dance.

Ruth Cousens, aged 8, singing "Santa Claus is Coming to Town."

Owen Todd, singing "The Farmer's Lament."

"The Children's Chorus".

Heleen McFaul, singing a popular number to her own piano accompaniment.

For merit of performance, one or two of these numbers ranked obviously in the professional class, and drew warm admiration. Between them and the outstanding numerous numbers, however, the applause was evenly divided. Excelling in the latter class were Kate Smith and her affinity, Elmer, in the persons of Messrs. R. A. Giles and Owen Todd; also "John", a character admirably lined by Maurice Navion. His surname was vague, for a certain imprecision of the speech retarded this revelation and others which might doubtless have been forthcoming from so unique a character. Similar deficiencies prevented his violin and cornet contributions; there was something lacking in his vocal efforts, but his original dance more than made up for the deficiencies. With Miss Smith and Elmer, John had the distinction of nearing the gong—a device which the master of ceremonies used when circumstances demanded.

Contributing to the humor were Miss Aitken in her clever recitation, and the "Children's Chorus", comprising Mrs. C. Graham, Mrs. L. Morris, Miss Edith Morrison, and Miss Cora Miller. For them the gong rang out a plaintive note, and although their song was not quite ended, the melody lingered on in laughter. Mr. Owen Todd, in a costume portrayal of the disgruntled farmer, made known some pertinent farmyard facts, and hit the climax of disaster when he accidentally dropped his clay pipe.

Miss Peggy Beveridge in her dancing number was a graceful performer. Many of her pupils, among the entrants, also exhibited marked skill. Talent was shown in other contributions, from unsuspected sources, and added to the refreshing style of entertainment.

Singling out a few celebrities from the audience, Rev. Cousens called upon members of the ladies' curling teams who had just returned victorious from the city. They came to the stage and graciously "took the bow."

While the audience balloted on their favorite artists, they were entertained with encore numbers. The winners were finally announced, the first prize of $5. being awarded to Owen Todd; second, May Gordon; and third, Lorna Giles and Louise Deacon. Prizes of $1. each were received by—Gerald Walker, Edna Aitken, Peggy Beveridge, Jean Beveridge, Edmond Gauley, "John", A. Trudel, Kate Smith, Helen McFaul, and Howard Morrison. Rev. H. Cousens also received a token of recognition for his services, presented by Mrs. Alex. Bothwell as president of the Lachute W. L., who complimented the chairman on his very able handling of the program.

Among the piano accompanists were Mrs. Beveridge, Miss Peggy Beveridge, Miss Helen McFaul, and Miss Ruth Todd, whose assistance added appreciably to the success of the acts.

Gross proceeds of the evening's efforts amounted to $147. Both the sponsors and those who attended, voted the event an unqualified success.

The Famous Ole Bull

Ole Bornemann Bull was born in Bergen, Norway, February 5, 1810. In childhood he developed a fondness for music, especially the violin, and upon a visit to Paris heard and was encouraged by Paganini. He first appeared on the concert stage with Ernst and Chopin and before long his fame spread over Europe.

Water Delayed Coaches

Delay of mails in the stage coach days was often caused by rising streams which prevented the coaches from fording. All the driver could do in such cases was sit and wait until the bulge in the river lowered.

Education Week Is Dominion-Wide Feature

The Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers of Quebec is again co-operating with the Canadian Teachers Federation in an attempt to show how Canadian citizens are being trained in our schools; to show what progress has been made in recent years and what improvements are needed now to bring the school systems up to a standard to which the teachers would like them to attain.

February 23rd. to 29th., will be Canadian Education Week. The general topic for the week is, "Education, A Training for Citizenship."

Two broadcasts to date have been arranged, one on Monday, Feb. 24th. at 10 p.m., one on Friday, 28th. at 8 o'clock. These broadcasts will be heard over Station C.R.C.M.

The schools have been asked to participate in this Canada Wide Education Week, and to select some course of action such as:

1. Listening to the broadcasts and discussing them at home and at school.
2. Making one day of that week "Parents' Day" and inviting the parents to see how the ordinary school work is carried on.
3. Putting on an exhibit of the work done in such subjects as Art, Geography, Junior Red Cross Handicraft and Portfolios.
4. Making posters which illustrate school activities.
5. Giving a play or a concert.
6. Arranging a debate in the school or with a neighboring school.
7. Having the School Board or the Women's Institute arrange a meeting to be addressed by some speaker on Education.
8. Requesting the clergyman to preach on "Education—A Training for Right Living."
9. Having the School Choir sing in a church or at a public function.

1800-YEAR-OLD STRUCTURE

London—In the cellar of a house on Tower Hill stands, half uncovered and a little crumbled, what is believed to be the ancient postern gate of Roman Londinium through which passed the east and west traffic of the fortress city.

This gate has been unearthed during excavations by the Tower Hill Improvement Trust during an investigation into the state of preservation of the Roman wall round London.

The gate stands under No. 20, Tower Hill. But the excavators had to reach it through the cellar of No. 19.

Built 1800 Years Ago

As the wall in the cellar was uncovered the ancient gate was revealed. It is at least 1800 years old, experts say. The gate is 17 feet wide, and the excavators declare that it must be the postern gate, the ninth gate of Londinium in the wall built during the second century A. D.

The eight gates of London are named as Aldgate, Bishopsgate, Moorgate, Cripplegate, Aldergate, Newgate, Ludgate and Billingsgate.

These eight gates have handed down their names to fame in the modern London, all well known to Londoners and many by repute to citizens of other lands. Billingsgate is known, for instance, for its fish market, and Ludgate Circus as the place where Fleet Street, newspaper land, ends and the road to St. Paul's and the city of London's commerce begins.

The postern gate apparently fell some centuries ago. On its site was built a row of houses known as Postern Row. But new roads for modern London wiped out even that reminder of Roman London—until the hammers rang in the cellar of No. 19, Tower Hill.

"Capital which overreaches for profits; labor which overreaches for wages, or a public which overreaches for bargains will all destroy each other. There is no salvation for us on that road."

—Owen D. Young, Industrialist.

Lenten Topics from Lachute Presbyterian Pulpit

With the approach of the Lenten season we are reminded that many people consider it a season of prayer and meditation. With this thought in mind, Rev. Henry Cousins, minister of the Margaret Rodgers Memorial Presbyterian Church, has selected the subject of "Honesty" for Lenten meditation at the morning services, and has arranged it under the following titles and dates:

Feb. 16th.—"Honesty in Speech."
Feb. 23rd.—"Honesty in Business."
Mar. 1st.—"Honesty in Politics."
Mar. 8th.—"Honesty in Work."
Mar. 15th.—"Honesty in Social Life."
Mar. 22nd.—"Honesty in Belief."
Mar. 30th.—"Honesty in Religion."

In addition to the above, the "Joint Committee on the Evangelization of Canadian Life", which is an interdenominational committee established, approved and supported by the consent of each denomination, recommend a course of studies on the "Holy Spirit", leading up to Easter. The subjects are as follows:

March 1st.—"The Holy Spirit as Power."
March 8th.—"The Holy Spirit and the New Life."
March 15th.—"The Holy Spirit and the Church."
March 22nd.—"The Holy Spirit and the Man of Prayer."
March 29th.—"The Holy Spirit and the Thinker."
April 5th.—"The Holy Spirit and

King's Code Presented to Council

Mayor Sam McBride has presented members of the Toronto City Council with copies of the "King's Code for Living", subscribed to by the late King George V, and commended by him to the Empire's schoolchildren.

It reads:

"Teach me to observe the rules of the game.

"Teach me neither to cry for the moon nor over spilt milk.

"Help me to distinguish between sentiment and sentimentality, cleaving to one and despising the other.

"Help me neither to proffer nor to receive cheap praise.

"If I am called upon to suffer, let me be like the well bred beast which goes away and suffers in silence.

"Teach me to win when I may, and if I may not win, then above all else, I pray, make me a good loser."

Ontario Highways Department Tackles Winter's Icy Roads

Tackling the problem of icy pavements which early this winter kept the hospitals busy patching up minor hurts, the garages and repair shops busy taking out the dents in fenders and changing smashed wheels, and which caused innumerable delays to traffic and bus and truck schedules, the Highway Department at Queen's Park, Toronto, has now built up an organization that enables it to sand 3,000 miles of highway within three hours after the need arises. This represents not only a marvelous feat in getting the work accomplished in the time stated but it is also a step that has not yet been thought of as practical in the United States where we have a tendency to look for precedence and leadership in highway matters.

Fast trucks, mechanical spreaders and a smooth organization directed by wide-awake engineers have made this method of spreading the abrasive an accomplished fact.

The costs were at first prohibitive, but as the problem was studied, new means were devised and the costs came down.

The materials used for the abrasive are sand, cinders and stone chips. Lumps are broken up or eliminated to ensure a smooth flow through the spreaders. Common salt is used in an admixture to keep the sand piles from freezing as they must be available in coldest weather for immediate use. The salt also allows the abrasive to embed itself in the icy surface, thus preventing wind and traffic cleaning the surface in short order. By treating in this manner, the material is held on the pavement, not only providing traction but at the same time tending to tear off the ice and thereby expose the bare pavement.

The department at Queen's Park has the stock piles of the mixture spread at convenient points where they are available in all weathers. Trucks are speedily loaded, mechanical spreaders attached, and with a couple of men shoveling grit into the spreader the road surface is quickly covered with a thin layer of the abrasive. Piles have been so located that one truck can cover several miles of highway or street without the necessity of losing time through running empty over the route.

The department engineers report a wider usage of the roads and a decrease in the number of accidents.

Lachute Ladies Capture Royal Caledonia Trophy

were greeted by the Brass Band and a group of citizens who congratulated them on their prowess. The Ladies' Curling Club having, in two successive years, brought home such strongly contested trophies, speaks well for the brand of curling cultivated on local ice.

In honor of their winning teams the ladies held a dinner Monday evening, at which members of the men's club were their guests. A delicious repast was served. Mrs. A. Middleton, president of the ladies' club, presided; seated at her right was Mr. A. A. McQuat, president of the men's club. The tables were tastefully decorated with flowers and candles; appropriate emblems of St. Valentine's added to the appeal.

The president expressed warm congratulations to the triumphant teams; and members of the two rinks in turn recounted the highlights and experiences of the contest. They paid high tribute to the hospitality with which they had been received in Montreal. Regret was expressed for the absence of Mrs. McNeil one of the winning ladies, owing to her father's illness. Congratulations from the Men's Club were expressed by Mr. McQuat, who hoped that this Caledonia Trophy would come to Lachute to stay. Mrs. R. Hamilton and Mr. W. S. MacKimmie, vice-presidents of the respective clubs, also made brief speeches. Mr. Geo. Hay, who had been an eye witness to the games, told of the excellent work done by the Lachute ladies in Montreal. Appreciation of the Lachute clubs was expressed to Mr. E. H. Wilson for his generosity in donating the handsome trophy to the Caledonia Branch for annual competition. Both the cup and the silver tea service, prizes won by the Lachute players, were exhibited on this occasion.

Mixed games were played during the evening. The winning rink were Mr. Robt. Todd, Mrs. W. LeCras, Mr. D. Bates, and Mrs. Jas. Gall (Skip).

Cake plates were presented to the ladies on this rink and pencils to the men.

Finals in the Topsy Turvy Bonspiel were played on Friday of last week. The winning rink were as follows:

Mrs. J. A. Middleton, Mrs. A. A. Hills, Mrs. W. K. McArthur, Mrs. H. Giles (Skip).

The final game in the doubles is being played today.

was conceded they played a better game than on the previous occasion at the 'Burg. As the schedule nears completion it appears doubtful whether Brownsburg can make the play-offs.

Charlebois and H. Prevost were referees, and the game throughout was fast and clean.

At Brownsburg on Tuesday evening the home team turned the tide of defeat and beat St. Jerome in an interesting encounter, which concluded at 4 goals to 3.

The standing to date finds Lachute heading the list with 14 points and 3 games to play; Brownsburg 12 points—4 to play; St. Jerome 11 points—4 to play; Brownsburg 9 points—3 to play.

His Majesty on the Canadian Pacific

rail lines. Illustration No. 1 shows His Majesty in the typically courteous act of thanking the crew of the Royal Special. No. 2 His Majesty and Sir Edward Beatty, G.B.E., K.C., LL.D., chatting on the station platform at Calgary. No. 3. In the driver's seat, His Majesty on the "right hand side" of Canadian Pacific engine 2231. No. 4. Edward VIII, with the exception of his voyage on H.M.S. Renown, has travelled across the North Atlantic on Canadian Pacific Steamships. The picture shows him with Captain E. Griffith on board the Empress of France.

SLIGHTLY MIXED

"How old are you, my dear?" Someone asked a little maid, Who was gathering purple violets, By the pine tree's rustling shade.

Startled eyes looked up in wonder— Age meant nothing to her yet, And the time passed by so quickly Years were easy to forget.

Running quickly to her mother Who was sitting quite near by, She asked this funny question— "Mother, what time am I?"

There was no more discontent or listlessness in the fairy palace for the remainder of that day. All the little fairies were trying their wings and practising new dance steps. They were quite sure they would have to step different dances from those they had danced on the grass and on the rose petals; sometimes they had left their shawls of cob-web lace behind them, because the night was not long enough to give them all the fun they wanted, and Old King Sol often winked at them over the edge of the willows before they realized that it was morning—time for all good little fairies to be going to rest. . . . What an exciting time it was then, because they just had to be home before the Dew-Drop Fairies. But they were having just as exciting a time now, lining their slippers with dandelion down to make them warm.

"Oh, Jack Frost won't nip our toes tonight" chuckled the little fairy who laughed by the brook all summer. Especially when he knows we are Little Sparkler's guests. He will be kind to us, I am sure."

"I don't think he will spare us because of that," said Rosy-Posy, who was decidedly a warm weather fairy. "Jack Frost is a wicked nipper and I am lining not only my slippers but my shawl too. I am not going out in this gossamer gown. It was never made to withstand the frost." As Rosy-Posy talked she stroked the shining folds of her gauzy pink gown, with fingers that tinkled in the light like the tiniest of rose petals.

"Hurry, Children," said their Queen, "before you know it you will be hearing the boom of Jack Frost's guns over in the forest, and you will not be ready. Little Sparkler may not wait for us if we are late."

"King Sol has not said Good-night yet, Your Majesty" said the fairy who, just like a lot of little children, was in the habit of arguing over everything when there really was nothing to argue about. Without taking time to reply the Queen seized him by the shoulders and turned his face to the west. "Look for yourself, Chatterbox," she said, and sped away to help the littlest fairy tie her ear-muffs on.

One look at the west, convinced Chatterbox that there was no time to lose. King Sol was out of sight; all that could be seen of him was his long flame-colored fingers stretching up and clinging to a cloud-bank as he slowly made his way over to the other side—to wake the little Chinese boys and girls and tell the little Chinese Fairies that it was time for them to hide themselves amongst the rice fields.

Chatterbox was the last one to be ready, and had scarcely finished lacing his slippers and tying them in a queer little knot when "Bang - Bang - Bang" sounded over in the forest. "Jack Frost's guns!" shouted all the little fairies together, and dashed out of the palace, led by their Queen. Straight as an arrow they flew to the big pine tree, and found that Little Sparkler and a company of other Frost Fairies had just arrived. What a merry dance they had! So merry that the big pine tree stopped sighing; it shook and rattled its shining green needles, until they made real fairy music for them to dance to.

Away off in the forest a big owl called "Who, who", but they did not heed him. It was not any of his affairs who they were! "Now for some window-dancing", chuckled Little Sparkler—and led the way towards the town, where curls of dull grey and heavy black smoke rose up from tall chimneys and turned to soft amber and gold in the moonlight, against the deep blue of the sky, before it dissolved and faded out of sight.

The little fairies danced on ferns, tall steeples, tiny stars, and all sorts of things which Jack Frost had painted on the windows of the sleeping town—until Mistress Moon started slowly, slowly out of sight, and the dull darkness that came creeping in her place made them feel chill. Then they danced and twinkled off towards the palace.

When they were safely inside the Queen called the roll, and they were all much disturbed to find that Rosy-Posy was missing. "What can have happened to the dear child?" said the Queen, "I know she was quite safe early in the night, because I watched her, knowing that she expected to find it very cold. But seeing that she was enjoying herself much the same as the others, I did not bother to keep her within my sight. I do hope she is all right, wherever she is."

She was—and in a short time came gently tapping at the palace window for admittance.

"Oh, how happy I am!" she sang, as she flew in and settled in her favorite corner by the little green pool where the gold-fish sported. "I am sorry if you were worried, dear Queen, but you see I found an opening in a window and crept in. A tiny baby lay awake and I danced for it all the rest of the night on the roses that trailed over the walls of its room. I was so busy that I did not see you leaving—and oh, I want to go again and dance for that baby."

"Let's go out and frolic every night. It is such fun to be busy, even if it is cold," shouted all the little fairies together. "Yes", said their Queen brightly, "the busiest people are always the happiest, and particularly when they are busy doing things for others—But go to rest now, dear children, so that you will be fresh when King Sol says Good-night again." So all the little fairies cuddled together, on beds of dried rose leaves and soft down, and were soon fast asleep.

Next story—"Contrary Mary".

Lovingly, Aunt Jean.

BOY SCOUTS THE WORLD OVER

Boy Scouts of Rajputana, India, were highly commended for two days' continuous rescue work during the recent heavy floods in nearby districts.

A UNIQUE ANNUAL GIFT

The annual gift of Australian Boy Scouts to Roland House, the East London Settlement, and Rosemary Home, the Scout Association's convalescent home at Herne Bay, was not overlooked at Christmas. It was, to each, a choice frozen lamb for their Christmas dinner.

OUR COMMONWEALTH OF NATIONS

"I have just made a tour of our great Empire, and no one who has not done this can realize the surprising extent and power of the great Commonwealth of Nations to which you and I belong."—Lord Baden-Powell, opening a South African Scout Jamboree at East London in January.

THE "BRONZE WOLF" FOR B.P.

Upon the proposal of Mr. Walter Head, President of the Boy Scouts of America, a member of the International Committee, the first award of the new International Scout decoration, the Bronze Wolf, for exceptional service to world Scouting, was made to Lord Baden-Powell.

RUDYARD KIPLING AND THE SCOUTS

In the death of Rudyard Kipling the Boy Scouts lost not only a strong supporter and friend, but one who had contributed very importantly to the founding of the junior branch of the Movement, the Wolf Cubs. When seeking a foundation plan for the projected junior Scouts, Baden-Powell found it in Kipling's "Jungle Books"—in the story of Mowgli, the boy-wolf cub, and the laws of the jungle animals. This was the origin of the Wolf Cub promise, "The Cub gives in to the Old Wolf; the Cub does not give in to himself." The first Wolf Cub Handbook was dedicated by the Chief Scout to Mr. Kipling, and at large Scout gatherings the great writer always showed particular interest in the doings of the "Cubs." He was a member of the Scout Council from 1923 to the time of his death.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, Feb. 16th., is "Soul."

The Golden Text is:—"Unto thee, O Lord, do I lift up my soul. Shew me thy ways, O Lord; teach me thy paths." (Psalms 25 : 1, 4).

"The law of the Lord is perfect, converting the soul: the testimony of the Lord is sure, making wise the simple." (Psalms 19 : 7).

"Dost thou love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind?" This command includes much, even the surrender of all merely material sensation, affection, and worship. This is the El Dorado of Christianity. It involves the Science of Life, and recognizes only the divine control of Spirit, in which Soul is our master, and material sense and human will have no place." (Science and Health, page 9).

Morgan's Raid

Gen. John H. Morgan's famous raid into Indiana and Ohio was not a matter of a day, but a campaign of six weeks. It started from Alexandria, Ky., on June 11, 1863, and ended with the capture of the commander and the last of the raiders seven miles south of Lisbon, Ohio, on July 26. Morgan was confined in the Ohio penitentiary at Columbus, from which he escaped on November 28.

PREVENT DANGERS OF CONSTIPATION*

"Bulk" in ALL-BRAN Is Gentle in Action

Common constipation is largely due to insufficient "bulk" in meals. You fail to get your internal exercise. Millions of people have found that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies soft "bulk" with satisfactory results.

Tests in nutrition laboratories demonstrate that the "bulk" in ALL-BRAN can be used with the utmost confidence. Naturally, those few individuals with diseased or highly sensitive intestines should not take "bulk" in any form—either in leafy vegetables or in bran.

Unlike cathartics, ALL-BRAN is natural in its action—nor does this food lose its effectiveness with continued use. Within the body, it absorbs moisture and cleanses the intestines, promoting normal and healthful elimination.

Two tablespoonfuls of this delicious cereal, served with milk or cream, are usually sufficient. Enjoy it also in cooked dishes.

Help your family keep well. Serve ALL-BRAN regularly for regularity. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

WHICH MOTHER WAS RIGHT?

I heard a woman say, "I was furious to-day. Bobby's principal sent me a note saying that if Bobby did a certain thing again he would have to be punished. The very idea of Mr.—saying that he would punish Bobby. Why we have been friends for years." A few days after I heard another woman say, "Jane is in Mr.—'s room. We are great friends, but I told him that Jane was to be shown no special consideration and that it must not make a difference in any way." Which mother was right?

THIS WASHING BUSINESS

Recently we wrote of the difficulties of washing the small child. To-day we will consider the older brother and sister. Somehow this washing business seems to stir up a lot of family arguments several times a day. There are two things parents should recognize. First, that few children like to get washed or see the necessity for it. And the second is that children's standard of cleanliness is very much lower than ours. The average child knows that he must get washed and does it with more or less grumbling. He puts up with grown-ups' foolish ideas of getting washed but his idea is not to get clean but to get washed. Appearing at the table with dirty hands and face he will indignantly tell you that he did wash himself. He is satisfied and cannot see why you are not. I am saying 'he' but most times the same thing applies to 'she', too. Mothers cannot understand why their darling daughters of public school age do not want to be really clean. Of course, some of them do, but most of them are not interested until they arrive at the teen age. There is only one thing to do; remember the difference in standards and realize that it is a period to be gone through, and shortly they will go to the other extreme and spend hours polishing themselves. Knowing the different phases that children go through is a help. We must realize them and live through them in the way to have least family friction. First thing you know they will be through that one, and you will be living through another. Sometimes it will be a worry and an exasperation but there is a lot of fun to be found too, if you will just look for it.

BUILD UP THE HABIT OF EATING

So much has been said about the importance of food that very often the mother becomes over-anxious and defeats her own ends. Children are quick to sense the fact that they can turn attention to themselves by not eating. Eating is a habit, and after a short time of fussing about their meals they get that they actually do not want them. The mother must build up in them the habit of wanting to eat. And the first thing to do is to appear indifferent, no matter how she may feel, when the child does not want to eat. Let them go without a meal or even two or three, until they actually become hungry. It will be far harder on the mother than it will be on the child for it will not hurt him to go without. Care must be exercised that he cannot get anything to eat between meals. When the child gets hungry enough he will eat. Then serve him very small portions. This is most important. Build up the idea of wanting more food and finishing up what has been served. One of the greatest mistakes in feeding small children is in giving too large portions. Let them come back for more. When you are trying to build up an appetite, serve familiar foods and serve them so that they are easy to eat. The child is not interested in food and if it is too much trouble to eat he will not be bothered making the effort. Serve small portions and insist on having the first course finished up before there is any dessert.

GREETINGS TO AGED DALESVILLE LADY

To Mrs. John Campbell of Dalesville, who attained her 94th. anniversary on Monday last, The Watchman extends its greetings. Although not so spry in physique as in her youthful 70's and 80's, Mrs. Campbell still finds much pleasure in life and enjoys good health. On Monday she received the felicitations of her family and a wide circle of friends.

Planning Gardens in Mid-Winter

Even now, in the midst of unusually severe winter conditions, it is a wise plan to think about your garden, what was unsatisfactory in variety or position last year, and outline plans for necessary changes. The mail will shortly be bringing seed catalogues, and with them new ideas.

Quebec Women's Institutes are in many cases already planning flower contests, which have served in the past to improve the surroundings of many rural homes; for where flowers are grown there is nearly always an effort made to live up to their influence by improving the buildings, lawns, fences and driveways.

School flower gardens have been started by the Women's Institutes in many places, and bulbs and shrubs planted. The Institutes are also active in School Fair work, offering prizes for exhibits, in some cases financing and carrying out the whole project without assistance. These prize lists are now being arranged in many branches of the Institute, and will be followed later by distribution of plants and seeds to competitors.

What is a Home?

A home is where you live. It is the place where you eat and sleep. The roof is to keep out the rain and the walls for protection. There may be music, books, and games for amusement, and the same can be said concerning a hotel or an orphan asylum.

But a real home is where personal love and affection is present, and that may be found in a thatched cabin, in a city flat, or in a magnificent mansion on the Avenue.

A real home is made out of happy, harmonious hearts that truly love one another. Any other "home" is but a house.

How Much Is a Million Worth?

Would you risk your life and the health of your children for a million dollars?

Six mothers in Canada are taking that risk. They are competing for the fortune which the eccentric Charles Vance Millar bequeathed, to the Toronto mother who produces the most children, living or dead, in the ten years following his death. The time is up Oct. 31st. of this year.

The Pictorial Review sent a special writer, Sylvia Grace, to interview the mothers. This is how the race lines up, she reports: Mrs. Matthew Kenny is ahead with six children living, five dead, one expected; Mrs. Stefano Darrigo, six children living, three dead, one expected; Mrs. John Nagle, eight children living, one dead; Mrs. Gus Graziano, seven children living, one dead, one expected; Mrs. Ambrose Harrison, eight children living.

Four of the six families are on relief. In only one family are all the children alive and at home. In that family there is not enough of anything for so many people—not enough time, or food, or space, or clothes.

"I'm not good for much, just work, that's about all," says Mrs. Bagnato, mother of twenty-three children, who has found time somehow to make a career as a court interpreter—writes Sylvia Grace.

"We got to get that money, we got to, you see that," says Mr. Darrigo, father of sixteen children.

"Times are going to be better," says Mrs. Nagle, looking anxiously at her brood of ten. "If we should get the money, we'd buy a fruit farm."

"Work is what I like," says Mrs. Kenny. She has had plenty of practice! She started to earn her living when she was eight. Now she has fifteen children and her husband has been on relief for years.

"The fathers and mothers see that million dollars like a mirage in the desert," Miss Grace concludes. "Each mother believes she will win, and the five who do not will believe as long as they live that they were cheated."

Lawyer—I feel sure I can get you a divorce, madam, on the ground of cruel and inhuman treatment. But do you think your husband will fight the suit?

Woman—Fight? Why, the miserable little shrimp don't even dare to come into a room where I am.

You think of Reliability...

as a quality to be desired in articles to use and clothes to wear—but did you ever think how much more important it is to rely on the things you eat? Your very life and health depend on them.

ments of the beer advertisement, as to its food value, and ridiculing others. He cited an illustration: the brewers had placed a poster saying "Beer is Best"; at once the Dairy Commission had placed a poster with the words "Left Alone", in such a position that it read, "Beer is best left alone"—Would that our Dairy Commission could see the wisdom of a campaign boosting the milk industry and decrying liquor traffic.

In England the people are making the press "play the game", he continued. By way of advertising against the liquor traffic they publish the facts of all accidents due to drunken driving and other evils accruing from it; the same should be done in this country. He also stated that a time-honored custom had been abolished since a member of the peerage, having inflicted fatal injuries while driving under the influence of liquor, claimed the privilege of a trial by his brother peers instead of by police authorities. They, of course, acquitted him, and the public were so incensed that this old law was repealed; today all culprits are tried in the same way, and lodged in the police station, whether they be peer or commoner. Rev. Mulligan called the liquor traffic "the white man's curse". We ourselves wonder that our own government should be so blind to the interests of the country. Are they really blind to the danger, or are they just plain selfish and heartless?

Mrs. Arthur Reeve, substituting for Mrs. Mofet Clow of Ireland who had been expected to speak but was detained by illness, also gave an interesting account of her visit to England last May during the time of our late King's Jubilee. Showing pictures of that event, particularly those concerning the Royal family, Mrs. Reeve stated that Princess Marina had been warned to wear a small hat as more befitting to the occasion—and one which incidentally would not keep others from seeing the parade! Princess Marina, having views of her own, wore instead a large picture hat, and had to cling to it all the time to save its being carried away by the wind. Thus, in most of the pictures, the Princess was pictured frantically clutching her hat. "Next time", said Mrs. Reeve, "I expect that Princess Marina will take a telling."

Among other matters that came up in conference was the question of temperance sentiment in the Women's Institutes. Mrs. Roy Blair, of Ormstown, gladly told the gathering that the ruling had been made that

CUSHING

Miss Margaret Canning is spending this week visiting in Lachute.

Mr. R. Evans and daughter, May, spent a short time in Hawkesbury on Saturday.

Messrs. A. Innes, V. Elliott and D. Girling spent part of Saturday in Hawkesbury, Ont.

Mrs. Austin McIntyre, of Grenville, who has been spending the past week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Donaldson, has returned home with her children.

Church meetings seem to have been the order of the day, as three have been held this week: St. Mungo's "Annual" on Monday afternoon in the church, the W. M. S. at the home of Mrs. J. Innes on Tuesday afternoon, and the Ladies' Aid at the home of Mrs. Thomas Weir on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. E. McMeekin, of Ottawa, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. John McMeekin of Stonefield on Sunday.

Temperance could be chosen as one of their subjects if they so wished, and enumerated several Institutes which to her knowledge had held programs at meetings almost entirely on that subject.

A letter of sympathy to Queen Mary was sent from the Conference, also one of homage to King Edward.

Letters of appreciation were also sent the Rt. Hon. MacKenzie King and the Rt. Hon. B. B. Bennett from the W.C.T.U., regarding their attitude of Lord's Day Observance in the matter of not speaking on Sundays during the recent election campaign; also to Payson Sharman, M.L.A., for having based the platform for his campaign on the slogan "No booze, no bribery." As Mrs. John Scott said, "What else would you expect from an old Band of Hope boy?" No one can say that the work of the W.C.T.U. is futile, after an incident of that sort.

The Montreal Daily Star also received an appreciative letter for its editorial which had mentioned that King Edward does not offer intoxicating liquors to guests driving their own motors. The Star had recommended this habit to other hosts and hostesses.

During the devotional period a tribute of silence was observed, to the memory of the late King. Also to his memory a poem entitled "King George the Fifth", by Albert Calman, was read by the president.

Religion of the Eskimos

A statement about the Eskimo religion can scarcely be brief and clear without being misleading. It is not far wrong, however, to say that the idea of worship as Christians understand it is rudimentary or absent. Like more highly civilized people, the Eskimos are, of course confused in their religious thinking. Different answers and confused answers come from the most thoughtful and best informed members of the same community.

KILLED IN LUMBERING OPERATIONS, CALUMET

VICTIM CRUSHED UNDER WHEELS OF VEHICLE

A verdict of accidental death was returned yesterday afternoon at an inquest into a fatality at Calumet, in which Michel Nadon of Buckingham, a man around 45 years of age, was crushed beneath the wheels of a logging truck. Nadon was a truck assistant engaged by J. Renaud hauling logs from a point 8 miles north of Calumet. It was around 10 a.m. that, stepping aside to allow the truck to pass, he had slipped on a snow bank and fallen under the wheels of the heavy vehicle.

Fellow workers lifted him onto a sleigh and he was driven to Dr. Kelly's hospital at Hawkesbury. He was reported to have been conscious and conversing with his friends as they reached Calumet, but at this point he lapsed into unconsciousness and died before reaching the hospital.

The body was taken back to Morrow's Undertaking Parlors at Grenville, where an inquest was held in the afternoon, under District Coroner Dr. J. H. Mason of Lachute. He empaneled a jury and heard the evidence of Nadon's fellow employees, and a verdict was returned to the effect that he had met death accidentally.

MORTON'S BOOK REVIEW-ED FOR LACHUTE W.I. STUDY GROUPERS

REV. H. H. COUSENS WAS GUEST SPEAKER

One of H. V. Morton's finest travel numbers, "In the Steps of the Master", came under review by Rev. H. H. Cousens at Tuesday's Study Group meeting of Lachute W. I. in the High School hall. The occasion was under the convenorship of Mrs. A. Bothwell, who had arranged a pleasing and instructive program. During the session Mrs. S. S. Campbell favored with a piano solo, and Mrs. J. M. Drew and Mrs. E. Beaton played a duet.

On the personal history of H. V. Morton, said Mr. Cousens in discussing this popular travel writer, little was known except that he had been a London journalist. It was sufficient that one knew him through his books, which had been accepted into every discriminating library and would far outlast the present generation. In all his works the historic and the modern were happily woven together by a master hand.

Rev. Cousens read some characteristic portions from "In the Steps of the Master": the traveller's first impressions of Jerusalem; a word picture of Christ, the Master, and of Mary and Martha; also a description of the cemetery where the British war dead had been buried. The speaker recommended the book as one to be highly treasured in the home library—and one that should be read in a leisurely manner when mind and mood could best absorb its beauty.

When a back-draught in the furnace filled the basement of St. Jerome moving picture theatre with smoke, employees ran next door to the fire station and summoned the firemen. Chief Latour entered the theatre by the rear door behind the stage, quietly went down the cellar stairs and soon averted the trouble. No damage was done and a possible panic was prevented among the audience in the theatre at the time.

MONTREAL EXCURSION POPULAR

The C. P. R. 90-cent excursion to Montreal attracted an unusually large number from this section last Saturday. Reports from the city indicate that excursionists from various surrounding points numbered around 11,000.

From Lachute, ticket agents report an exodus of 412 people. Local streets gave evidence of many citizens out-of-town; and while this large number doubtless appreciated the opportunity to visit Montreal, town merchants generally agreed the excursion was "not so hot."

Listeners Impressed With Friendly Personality

A large assembly of Canadian authors and their friends enjoyed hearing Lord Tweedsmuir's address on "Modern Literature", in the ball room of the Mount Royal Hotel on Saturday afternoon.

His Excellency was introduced to the gathering by Dr. Pelham Edgar of Toronto, Dominion President of the Canadian Authors Association, and was thanked for his kindly consenting to attend and address the meeting by Mr. Leo Cox, President of Montreal Branch. Their Excellencies proved very friendly, and so resembled the portraits that have appeared in the papers that it was remarked, "One would almost believe that they had seen them before!"

Would Unseat Alderman Not Naturalized

SUIT TAKEN BY TOWN SEC'Y., STE. THERESE

In the Supreme Court at St. Jerome on Tuesday a writ was taken to unseat Alderman Paul Clin of Ste. Therese, by the legal firm of Beauregard and Beaudry on behalf of the secretary of the town, Antonio Forget.

It is claimed that Clin, a native of France, was not a naturalized Canadian at the time of his election on May 8 last, though he has been living in the country for 25 years and for four or five years in Ste. Therese. It is, therefore, alleged that he has sat illegally on the Council of Ste. Therese, and the petitioner asks that the defendant pay the customary fine of $100 for each time he has sat illegally on the council. Hearing of the case is set for May 4th. next.

EDUCATION WEEK STARTS SUNDAY

Education Viewed in Its Relation to Citizenship

The general topic urged upon those promoting the program of Education Week is—"Education, a Training for Citizenship." On Monday, 24th. inst., Her Excellency Lady Tweedsmuir, with the Hon. Norman man Rogers and Miss Jessie Norris, president of the Canadian Teachers' Federation, will be heard in a nation-wide radio broadcast.

The desirability of training the young intelligence for citizenship is universally admitted—comments an editorial in the Montreal Gazette. Something has already been attempted in the public schools, of course, on these lines. Bringing the idea before the whole community in the manner planned by the Teachers' Federation will stir the wider interest which the

CUSHING RESIDENT IS POISON VICTIM

TRAGEDY OCCURRED ON SUNDAY

Eddie Barron, 55-year-old resident of Cushing, was found to have taken poison on Sunday morning at his home west of Carillon on the "front road." Mr. Barron had been unwell for some time and was believed to have been mentally upset by his sick condition.

Dr. A. L'Allier of St. Andrews was summoned to give medical assistance. It appeared that the man had drunk six ounces of creolin, a poisonous antiseptic often used around livestock. Barron died during the day. He is survived by his wife, a former Miss Rodgers of Pine Hill district, and by a family of six.

Coroner Dr. J. H. Mason was notified of the case Sunday night, and on Monday morning he held an investigation, finding that the victim had taken poison while mentally deranged owing to his ill health.

Mother and Daughter Banquet Held in St. Andrews East

Happy Occasion By C. G. I. T.

(By Our St. Andrews E. Correspondent)

The C.G.I.T. held a very successful Mother and Daughter Banquet in the United Church hall at St. Andrews, on Friday, Feb. 14th. In spite of the heavy snowstorm 35 were able to be present.

The tables and place cards were prettily decorated with the C. G. I. T. colours, blue and gold.

After the banquet Freda Weeks, the president, acted as toast-mistress. After a few words of welcome, she proposed a toast to the King, which was responded to by singing the National Anthem. Helen Weir gave the toast to Canada, followed by the singing of "O Canada." The toast to the Church was proposed by Eileen Morrison, and Miss A. L. Wales gave the response, following which all joined in singing the first verse of "The Church's One Foundation." The next important toast of the evening, the toast to the Mothers, was given by Enid Robertson; Mrs. C. S. Wales responded.

It is 21 years since the C.G.I.T. was first started. Alice Hooker gave a short history of this period of development and

BRAINS, NOT BRAWN, ASSET RURAL LIFE

Agricultural Training Needed, States Dr. Brittain

The mechanization of agriculture is gradually producing the type of farmer in whom intelligence is more important than mere muscle, Dr. W. H. Brittain, vice-president of Macdonald College, and dean of McGill faculty of agriculture, declared in a radio address recently during the Provincial Hour programme.

The old kind of training for agriculturists will not do in the new world of today, Dr. Brittain said. New techniques require a new type of education and vocational training must be secondary to a sound background of general education received in early years at school and college. Formerly nature was the all-important factor in producing crops but, with the application of science and engineering to agriculture, human intelligence is beginning to play a predominant part.

All those who desire to see a more balanced and stable economic system should support movements for the improvement of educational facilities in rural districts, Dean Brittain concluded. Every effort should be made to furnish superior vocational training to the youth of the country districts and to enhance the cultural and educational level of rural populations. In this age, this represents not only a vocational duty but a national necessity.

The following kindly consented to act as judges: Dr. B. N. Wales, Rev. J. Macaskill and Dr. D. T. McColl. A vote of thanks was tendered them by Phyllis Doig, seconded by Dawson Burwash. DEATH CLAIMS MEMBER FAMOUS FAMILY OF INVENTORS

MADE AUTOMOBILES AS EARLY AS 1897

With the death of Hiram Percy Maxim, 67-year-old inventor, one is reminded of the earliest forerunners of the present-day automobile. Maxim was one of a family of inventors who developed many implements of modern warfare. His father, Sir Hiram Maxim, was the inventor of the first machine gun.

Hiram Maxim, who died Monday in Colorado, designed automobiles before turning his inventive genius to firearms. His first "gasoline buggy", produced in 1897, had a top speed of 12 miles an hour. It was an outgrowth of his development in 1894 of a tandem tricycle.

The motor carriage Maxim invented was known as the "Columbia phaeton" and many models of the gasoline tricycle package carrier embodying his ideas were sold under the name of "Columbia."

Unlike many inventors, Maxim lived to see a high stage of development in his early ideas, for the automobile industry has moved rapidly in a short period of years.

Damage Action Against Town Is Withdrawn

Mr. Justice Louis Cousineau, in Superior Court at St. Jerome last Thursday, permitted withdrawal of a lawsuit by Charles Joly, Rosaire Garipey and Romeo Chartrand, of Lachute, who desired to stop their damage action against this town for the sum of $1,000 each.

The plaintiffs had presented affidavits to the court in which they declared they desired to desist from the action. The case arose out of an attempt by the plaintiffs to sue Lachute for damages after they had been arrested for holding illegal meetings. They were later freed and honorably acquitted. Then, they sued the town in damages for false arrest. Being out of employment they asked the town to give them work, but were told they could never get employment from the

M. W. Albright Dies at River Rouge

FORMER COUNCILLOR WAS IN 80th. YEAR

A life long resident of this county, Martin W. Albright, passed away last Saturday at his home in River Rouge. He had been ill but a short time, and was in his 80th. year.

Besides being an able agriculturist, he also served for many years as a St. Andrews East councillor and a director of the Agricultural Society, being interested in the welfare, growth and development of the community. He was also prominent in church affairs.

His wife, formerly Amelia Burwash, predeceased him in 1935; he is survived by one son, Ewen Albright, and three daughters, Mrs. B. H. Robertson, of St. Andrews; Mrs. W. G. Watson and Mrs. John G. Fraser, of Lachute Road. His first son, Charles Albert Albright, was killed during the great war. A sister, Mrs. John McPhee of the Eastern Townships, also survives; and there remain 14 grandchildren.

The funeral service was held Monday afternoon at the St. Andrews E. Anglican Church, conducted by Rev. Rural Dean Booy. The remains were borne to the St. Andrews Cemetery. Pall bearers were James Burwash, Percy Burwash, Wm. Bradley, Joseph Fournier, Eddie Armstrong and Alex. McPhee.

The Golden Text is :—"The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom : and the knowledge of the holy is understanding."

"Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths." (Proverbs 3: 5, 6.)

"With one Father, even God, the whole family of man would be brethren: and with one Mind and that God, or good, the brotherhood of man would consist of Love and Truth, and have unity of Principle and spiritual power which constitute divine Science." (Science and Health, pages 469, 470.)

Edmonton Key City for Northwest Mining Boom

The following article appeared in a recent issue of the Christian Science Monitor, contributed in a despatch from Edmonton:—The growing importance of Edmonton as the key City in the development of the Arctic and sub-Arctic mineral fields discovered in recent years is becoming clear as the number of discoveries increases and the volume of traffic by water, airplane and over the snow trails of the northland grows more important. And the romantic story of gold, pitchblende and silver discoveries in the territories lying north of the city—with its disappointments and jubiliations—becomes more intriguing as time goes on.

There are six major fields under exploitation and exploration now in the area: Cameron Bay, on the shores of Great Bear Lake, under the Arctic Circle, 1000 miles north of Edmonton; Hottah Lake, 875 miles away; Yellowknife, 690 miles northeast; Outpost Island on Great Slave Lake, 640 miles north; Fond du Lac, 590 miles away, and Goldfields on Lake Athabaska, 500 miles from Edmonton.

Airplanes Cut Distance

These distances to the people in older lands may seem tremendous, but in the north country with its wild tundras and rivers snowbound and frigid at this time of the year, the distances are shortened by the regular service of airplane companies, and in the summer are brought nearer by the same means of transportation as well as by rail as far as Fort McMurray, and thence by the water routes.

There is a hum of activity in these northern mining camps this winter and vast sums are being expended by wealthy mining concerns in development work that goes on despite the bitter weather and the blizzard-driven climate. One company at Great Bear Lake is tremendously busy and has spent $600,000 there on its property.

The ancient fur trade, which formerly provided the whole of the wealth coming from the northland, has been displaced by mining as the source of interest.

In Edmonton a new Chamber of Mines has been organized by leading businessmen, and this will hasten development and spur the opening up of the trails by all sorts of transportation in the near future.

The expected rush to the North may not be delayed until spring, some mining men believe, and the lure of mining activity is likely to pass through this city before the ice breaks up. Many will fly north; advance parties will utilize dog teams and skis, and when once the water routes are clear of ice the rivers and lakes are expected to be crowded with boats hurrying northward to the new land of untold wealth.

The new region where gold strikes have been reported around the shores of Lake Athabaska, which lies about 300 miles from the end of the rails, is likely to be a great attraction. Three fields have been discovered in this region—at Goldfields, formerly known as Beaverlodge; at Fond du Lac, 90 miles east of Goldfields, and a still fully unproven field at Neely Lake, 35 miles north of Goldfields. Record development has been made at Goldfields, although staking there only took place for the first time in September, 1934.

At Fond du Lac samples brought out carried considerable free gold in quartz, and the Neely Lake find is considered promising.

In the field along the eastern shores of Lake Athabaska is to be found one of the romance areas of the northland mineral fields. What a "million dollar" outfit, brought in by an Englishman named Dardier twenty years ago, failed to achieve, two prospectors operating on a "frayed shoe-string" successfully accomplished and carried to Goldfields samples from their discovery that assayed as high as $450 worth of gold to the ton.

It has become the most sensational strike of 1935 and the two prospectors, named Caldwell and Duffy, are reported to have sold half of their holdings for upward of $100,000.

Edmonton Booms

The opening-up of these immense mineral areas in northern Alberta and in the Northwest Territories is providing a tremendous impetus to business in Edmonton whose location makes it the natural gateway to northern transportation, as all mining and exploration parties northward-bound secure the necessary equipment and supplies in this city. It is estimated by business firms that approximately $2,250,000 was expended in Edmonton in the past 12 months for goods and services supplied to the gold, silver and radium mining areas in the northland. As more mines are opened up and more workers engaged, this will mean increased demand from the local wholesale and retail firms.

A summary of the "new business" which the opening of the northern mines has brought into this city was recently issued by the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce and among the new items of trade with the hinterland in the last 12 months were the following:

2500 passengers carried by plane from Edmonton to the far north.

30,000 pounds of air mail transported.

600,000 pounds of freight and express carried by airplane to the northern mines which are far beyond the radius of roads or railways.

Over 850,000 miles covered by the aerial transport planes in the past year in carrying goods and passengers to and from the northland.

Furs valued at $2,000,000 brought out to Edmonton by the fur traders.

Those Business Poses

Why is it that a photo of a modern business executive looks as if he is either trying to bite a nail in two, or else as if he is getting ready to spit in your face?

Look at a picture of a good friend. Those who know him intimately have always thought him a fine chap until they see this stern pose. His wife explains, "He does not really look like that, but this is a business photo."

Why the modern idea of trying to make yourself look like a tough guy to do business with?

Look at the photograph of a business man of 30 years ago. See how contented and satisfied he looks. No effort to try and appear stern. You feel you would like to have known him. The modern business face, however, would never attract any business.

Perhaps we have stumbled on one of the major causes of the depression. —Granby Leader

Lord Tweedsmuir Guest Speaker at Canadian Authors' Gathering

Lord Tweedsmuir declared that he was "not going to give an academic address but just a friendly talk—but, upon his word, he had found it difficult to choose a subject." He claimed he was not enthusiastic about some of the modern literature; his subject was "Youth and Age." The youth of today, he said, had come to regard their novels as the very last word in fiction and considered the literature of older people out of date. Older folk, too, rather inclined to regard the younger writers as futile and foolish—whereas each, in a way, should recognize the other's merits. Lord Tweedsmuir liked poetry to evidence solid weight of thought. Some poets, he claimed, were better philosophers than poets, and vice versa. But youth and age must do its own thinking in religion, philosophy and poetry. Any man is a humbug who has not thought things out for himself. Youth and age, he said, must compromise. Life and literature can never be the same thing; one is the raw material for the other. Sooner or later youth must grow up and learn the wisdom of the ancients; their lives must be adapted and remodelled against the strain that they must meet. Life is a process, he said, through which we learn the wisdom of our fathers. Lord Tweedsmuir counted this Canada of ours a wonderful country of many surprises, and he was delighted with the friendly combination of the two languages and literatures—aluding to the French section of the Association, whose president, Mons. Jean Bruchesi, gave a short address in his own language.

Lord Tweedsmuir also paid tribute to the pioneers of both nationalities, who were responsible for the making of Canada; he concluded his speech with the quotation—"Blest are they whose blood and justice are so mingled."

Quebec Winter Sport Mecca

Premier dog-racing event in North America, the International Dog Derby at Quebec City on February 20-21-22 is expected to attract hundreds of winter sports enthusiasts from Canada and the United States to see the leading numbers of the two countries in competition and to enjoy the skiing, tobogganing, skating, and curling centring around the famous Chateau Frontenac. An interesting duel is expected this year between Harry Wheeler, of St. Jovite in the Laurentians, champion last year, and Ovide Carriere, of Quebec City, who defeated Wheeler this year in Laconia, New Hampshire annual derby. A startling contrast to this event in Eastern Canada is the annual golf competition held about the same time at Victoria, B.C., in the Evergreen Playground of the West. Both are sponsored by the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Former Townsman Suffers Bereavement

MRS. T. H. McRAE DIED IN ALBERTA

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth McRae, 46 years of age, wife of Thomas Hector McRae of Huxley, Alberta, died at the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. A. Campbell, in Calgary recently.

Born in Standish, Mich., the late Mrs. McRae moved to Alberta in 1903, settling in the Huxley district, where 26 years ago she married Mr. T. H. McRae, a young man formerly of Lachute. Besides her husband, she is survived by three daughters, Mabel, Margaret, and Alice; and two sons, John and Ernest, all at home.

Funeral services were held in Huxley, at the family residence, and were largely attended, despite the cold and storm prevailing. Many beautiful floral offerings bore tribute of the love and esteem in which Mrs. McRae was held throughout the community.

EFFICIENT MANAGEMENT, based on long experience, and a sound investment policy have contributed largely to the stability of this Corporation, which is privileged to serve an ever-increasing clientele.

SO THIS IS FAME

A beautiful divorcee has been pictured in the newspapers, having merited this distinction by wedding a California jeweler's representative after a two-day courtship . . . It is not hard to understand why more conventional folks shun publicity, considering it a dubious honor to have their "picture in the paper."

MOTORIST OBJECTS TO TOLL

We have every sympathy with the correspondent to Montreal Daily Star, who wrote recently objecting to the toll he paid for use of the St. Jerome-Lachute highway. The whole principle of toll collections is unfair, considering the licence fees paid by motorists for year-round use of their automobiles — whether they use them the year round or not.

However, the complainant is taking a crack at the wrong enterprise. If provincial government can levy tolls ad infinitum on toll bridges which were long since paid for, surely a business concern such as Laurentian Roads Limited can justly raise a toll to meet the expense of its labors. The one is straight profit with no reasonable excuse; the other is a charge to meet operating costs.

The correspondent claims to have "enriched the company for the use of a short connection, over a field, between two stretches of highway." —The short connection, by the way, is a 20-mile stretch of blizzard-swept highway which — as local motorists know — is utterly impassable under ordinary winter conditions.

WHAT HE SAW IN GERMANY

Very different from the noisy optimism of Hitler's republic is Louis Fischer's impression of the Teuton temperament. Underlying the material progress in Germany today, he sees a stolid sentiment akin to despair. Quoting from Fischer's article in The Nation:

"I have been in Germany every year since 1921 . . . I have never known it so pessimistic as it is today, not even in the worst period of currency inflation when the suffering was greater . . . Germans are resigned to a long siege of gloom. No improvement is expected . . . In a Berlin autobus I notice empty seats, yet men are standing up. They are Jews. If they sit down an Aryan woman or man may indicate objection by a move or a grimace . . . Intellectuals especially resent the disrepute into which the government has brought their country and German culture abroad . . . The strength of the regime lies in its enemy's disunion, in its own large armed forces, and in the almost mystic hold which Hitler has over many Germans. The weakness of the regime is explained by the fact that it has redeemed only two of its pre-1933 pledges: it is exterminating the Jews and it is forging a vast military machine which, in the opinion of Germans, enhances the danger of a world war."

CITIZENS WITHHOLD SUPPORT FROM POLICE

Experience has proved that it is where people give least co-operation to the police that conditions are worst. There is a sort of multiplication effect. Citizens refuse to co-operate or to give evidence. Law breakers become bolder and more violent and as conditions become worse the hesitancy on the part of the public to assist the police increases because of fear of personal consequences. Concurrently the work of the police becomes greater and more difficult.

The situation was brought into some prominence by a recent case in Toronto. A young woman was brutally murdered while walking home from her work in a downtown office, the attack being made late at night in the neighborhood of a park. The crime created considerable of a sensation and brought about much discussion about the extent to which police gave protection to private individuals.

The retort of the police was to point out citizens could be of great assistance in controlling and reducing crime by co-operating with the organized forces of law and order.

The task of the police force would be greatly simplified if the people generally were to constitute themselves an auxiliary in the prevention and detection of crime. Many, however, have an aversion to being involved in affairs associated with crime, a situation for which police forces must assume some of the responsibility since they have frequently exhibited suspicion of individuals who have sought to be of assistance.

In the large cities the aid of citizens is vital, but in such communities the law of self-preservation is particularly assertive. People have learned that they escape a lot of inconvenience by minding their own business. They appease their conscience by the reflection that they pay a police force to maintain law and order. When they witness a crime, their first impulse is to get away from the scene so that they will not be subjected to loss of time or expense through being summoned as a witness at subsequent enquiries.

The part of the police in this scheme of co-operation is to show appreciation of efforts to help them and to protect citizens as much as possible from unpleasant consequences.

MAYOR'S BUSINESS TRANSACTIONS WITH VILLAGE HELD ILLEGAL

Emery Quesnel, mayor of the village of Ste. Marthe, Que., since its incorporation in 1928, was removed from office and disqualified from public life for five years by Mr. Justice Fabre Surveur in Superior Court recently, because he had sold supplies to the municipality.

The court held that while the amounts involved were small, there was a principle at stake in legislation forbidding those holding public office from benefitting in any way from contracting with the municipality. This legislation was strict and had received rigorous interpretation and application from the courts, His Lordship ruled.

Suit seeking His Worship's ouster was sought by Ambroise Carriere, elector and property-holder, who told the court that through a period of years the mayor had unlawfully figured in some $200 worth of transactions.

His Worship countered the allegation with a lengthy defence justifying or denying all expenditures made, in one instance asserting that he had gone to Montreal to purchase books for the municipality and felt entitled to charge $1.50 for his train transportation. As a matter of fact, he said, the fare and expenses were a bit more on that occasion, but as he had done some personal business at the same time, he had in all honesty deducted his just claim. The whole business, he said, was "trivial and an abuse of the law" on the complaining elector's part.

Mr. Justice Surveur held that though the transactions may have been small, the law was strict in respect of profiting through a public office, and maintained the action to unseat the mayor.

ONTARIO MUNICIPALITIES IN DEFAULT RESUME INTEREST PAYMENT

For the first time since many Ontario municipalities defaulted on debenture interest, every supervised municipality this year will pay what interest it is able, Hon. David Croll, Minister of Municipal Affairs, has announced.

"Municipal ability to pay has been thoroughly studied by the department during the past year," Mr. Croll said, "and ability to pay is the basis for the resumption of interest payments, even though they be partial. It will go far towards restoring the investing public's confidence in these municipalities."

There are 34 supervised municipalities in Ontario, said the Minister, and all will levy for and pay interest on their obligations.

COSTLY ASPECT OF RELIEF WORKS

The City of London, Ont., is alarmed at the Workmen's Compensation costs resulting from injuries to relief workers during projects in the past few years. These liabilities, it is remarked by a local newspaper, "will prove a due bill on the city for the entire lifetime of many of those who were injured while employed on the jobs." Costs for injuries last year were $13,000.

City Engineer Veitch is preparing a report for the council on the whole question. In many cases, it appears, permanent injuries demand permanent compensation to men who were engaged only a day or two on the relief works.

Under the provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Act, a Board reviews the cases of the workmen, their injuries and the circumstances under which they received the injuries, and informs the city the amount payable monthly. From then on the city pays. In some cases the payment is for a stated period of time or until the man gets better. In many cases the injury has been listed as "permanent."

The result, it has been shown in the case of London, is that many jobs that were listed as costing $3,000 will shortly prove to have cost $10,000 or higher.

"It cannot be beyond the power of man so to use the vast resources of the world as to ensure the material progress of civilization. No diminution in these resources has taken place. On the contrary, discovery, invention and organization have multiplied their possibilities to such an extent that abundance of production has in itself created new problems."

Western-Quebec and Prescott Hockey League Schedule Nears Completion

Continuing the Western Quebec-Prescott Hockey League schedule, St. Jerome drew a 10-5 victory over Brownsburg on the former ice last Thursday. St. Jerome tallied eight times in the first period to Brownsburg's one, and the result was never in doubt.

At the Lachute Arena on the same evening a fast game between Lachute and Hawkesbury brought the honors to the home team in a 5-2 score. The home referee was Geo. Calder. A good crowd attended the event.

In the opening clash "Jim" Drew scored two tallies on assists from Lloyd Cruise. In the second period H. Joly scored on a rebound for Lachute, Hawkesbury having meanwhile scored their only two goals of the game. In the third session C. Drew sent a shot to the net which, coming out on the rebound, was caught by Cruise and driven home for Lachute's fourth goal. The final tally was a slick solo job by McFaul, who took the puck out from the local defence zone and scored through a clear field.

Bernier was absent from the home line-up. Geo. Lefebvre put up a good game on defensive, while Paul Lefebvre, with Joly and P. Patry on the second line, played an excellent game. Ben Patry in the Lachute net is estimated to have saved between 60 and 65 shots, and his superior goal-tending was doubtless a good reason for the local triumph, for the Hawkesbury boys staged a keen game.

Saturday's game here at the Arena gave Lachute another victory over Brownsburg to the tune of 4-1. Brownsburg at this stage was definitely out of the play-offs — which is in no way to their discredit, for they have put up a good series of games and turned out a fine brand of hockey, for which the 'Burg has maintained its reputation through the recent years.

Tonight St. Jerome is billed to meet Brownsburg at the 'Burg rink; and on Saturday Hawkesbury will visit Brownsburg, while St. Jerome and Lachute will put up an entertaining game here at the local Arena.

Another Recognition of Lachute Company's Highway Work

A Letter Published in Montreal Daily Star

Sir,—Our leader's lack of vision cannot hold Quebec Province back much longer. We have the scenic beauty and the environment which appeals to people of all climes. Due to medieval roads and toll bridges Quebec province received some three million less tourists than Ontario during 1935.

The digging in for the winter policy of our roads department is being offset by groups of progressive business men in up-and-coming towns like Lachute, St. Jerome, Joliette, and others. It was our privilege to drive to Lachute over the weekend. The road via St. Jerome is kept in better shape than in the summer months by a group of Lachute's progressive business men. One can make the journey in perfect comfort without chains in less than one and one-half hours.

This ideal gateway to the Laurentians opens up a new vista to the sports and outdoor enthusiasts. This same group of progressive business men told us that the road from Lachute to Arundel could be kept open all winter without any real trouble. We met a number of American cars in Lachute and in the little village of St. Canut we saw over a dozen cars. The garages and gas stations which usually hibernate during the winter are all open and doing a good business. Surely it is time our leaders awakened to the fact that up-to-date modern highways open all of the twelve months are long overdue in this province.

—George Shaw.

subject of school training for citizenship deserves. From the long point of view, therefore, education week, when the main motive so obviously is the public good, should be more than usually valuable.

No better interest could be served than will be rendered by developing a sense of civic right, duty and honor, by spreading sound ideas of citizenship and by directing the mind to civic ideals in the schools, where, next to the home, the foundations of character are laid. It is particularly desirable that the science which deals with the responsibilities of citizenship should be learned at an early age. It is one, surely, that can readily be co-ordinated with the rest of the class work in public schools and the better it is learned in youth the stronger will be the tie of loyalty in manhood and womanhood.

Education, "a training for citizenship," according as it is based on the governing principles of the Canadian Constitution, means the development of democracy by advancing the average level of the young intelligence. It is a laudable objective to which the Canadian Teachers' Federation are directing their effort during the forthcoming education week.

Origin of Honeydew Melons

The honeydew melon on the market in this country is the same as the melon listed by Paris seedsmen as Antibes Winter green fleshed melon. The original seed of the honeydew melon is said to have been obtained from a melon shipped from Africa to New York city. This seed was planted at Rocky Ford, Colo.

Stocks Still Stand

Visitors to England passing through the village of Albury, Hertfordshire, a few miles from London, may see the old village stocks where vagrants, trespassers, poachers and ne'er-do-wells had their ankles pinioned in a pair of notched planks. Several could be seen this cruel type of justice at one time.

Two Islands Remnant of French Colonial Empire

The French colony of St. Pierre and Miquelon consists of two islands lying ten miles off the southern coast of Newfoundland. Together they have an area of less than 100 square miles and are the sole remnant of the great French colonial empire in North America, notes a correspondent in the Chicago Tribune.

At the beginning of the Eighteenth century France was in control of North America, except for the English colonies along the Atlantic seaboard, and the Spanish settlements in Florida and in the region reaching south and west from Texas. When the French attempted to build a line of forts from Presqu'Isle, now Erie, Pa., to the navigable waters of the Ohio river in Pennsylvania, the English moved against them and started what is known in American history as the French and Indian war. The treaty which settled this disturbance stripped France of its American possessions, leaving it the islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon as a fishing station. At that time there were three islands, Great Miquelon, Little Miquelon or Langlade and St. Pierre, but since 1783 the Miquelons have been connected by a mud bank.

England has taken the islands three times since the end of the French and Indian war, but France has been in undisputed possession since 1814. Their usefulness as a fishing station has gradually diminished, but at one time they were in a fair way to become the world's greatest smuggling station. This was checked to a great extent when the British government placed a consular agent on the islands.

City "Lost" 1,000 Years

Once Capital of Arabia

Somewhat to the south of the pipeline from the oil fields of Iraq to Haifa and Tripoli on the Mediterranean sea, lies a city of the forgotten past called Petra.

Not far removed from the Gulf of Akaba on the Red sea was once the veritable crossroads of the Old world, notes a writer in the New York Times. In the year 106 A. D. Petra was made the capital of Arabia. Its population was then about 50,000, and goods were brought from Africa, Arabia and India for storage before being transported by caravan to the Valley of the Nile, Palestine, Phoenicia and the Euphrates-Tigris valley. Of such importance was the city that the Romans built two roads to tap its wealth. With the fall of Rome, however, its doom was sealed.

The metropolis of Arabia was then abandoned except for a small number of desert tribesmen. The Arabs considered it sacred ground and danger menaced any one encroaching upon it. But in 1812 the intrepid Swiss adventurer, John Lewis Burckhardt, reached the city in the disguise of a Bedouin sheik and returned to tell of its mysteries.

A comparative handful of Arabian faithfuls still inhabit the city, and to this day it is only under the protection of British guards that visitors are admitted into its historical and almost mythical confines.

About 30 years ago they were hockey stars who helped Lachute to the triumph of the district championship—when small town hockey was taken more seriously than in recent times.

LITTLE KNOWN FACTS IN CARE OF FURNITURE

Furniture needs plenty of fresh air and moisture. The tone and finish of many beautiful pieces have been destroyed by dry climate and overheated houses. The windows should be opened frequently, and there should be an uncovered vessel of water in any room where there are fine pieces, during the months of artificial heat. The air will save the wood from becoming lifeless and dull, and water will prevent dryness and cracking.

It is easier to keep furniture in good condition than to put it back into shape.

LACHUTE LIONS WIN CURLING MATCHES

Wednesday, Jan. 19th., will go down in history as a day full of excitement, for the local Lions Club. It marked the opening round for the "Mahoney Curling Trophy," and the rinks entered by Lachute were victorious over both the Montreal and Ottawa rinks.

The competition will be continued on Thursday in Montreal and the final round will be played March 3rd. at Ottawa. The local curlers have the support and congratulations of all members and it is hoped that a large representation will attend all the games.

One of the outstanding features of the Wednesday luncheon was the recitation by Lion Mike Mahoney, Ottawa Lions Club, of Robert W. Service's poem, "The Shooting of Dan McGrew." It was most interesting to learn that "Lion Mike" was a companion of Service's and an eye witness to the occurrence which gave the author his theme for this poem. An exhibition hockey game is scheduled to take place shortly for the benefit of the Club's Welfare Fund. In supporting this worthy cause patrons will make it possible for the Lions Club to carry on and expand the good work it is already doing among less fortunate folks of this community.

STORIED SPOTS FROM SEA TO SEA

By W. J. Banks, B.A.

Strange Rocks of Georgian Bay

ONE OF THE "FLOWERPOTS"

Ever since 1615, when Champlain reached it shortly after its discovery by Joseph le Caron, the lovely Georgian Bay region has been prominent in Canada's history. The Bay was familiar to the early explorers, traders and missionaries as a link in the ancient route to the west via the Ottawa and French Rivers. Its almost innumerable islands, which to-day form one of our most famous holiday resorts, were well known to the Indians. To them as to the modern visitor, Flowerpot Isle had a special interest, and it is not surprising that they associated its peculiar rock formation with supernatural explanations.

The island takes its name from two remarkable limestone pillars, which stand in bold relief against the water horizon. Small trees and other vegetation, struggling for life in the interstices, accentuate the resemblance to huge flowerpots. The island belonged formerly to the Chippewas, and is regarded still with some superstition by the older members of the Georgian Bay tribes. They visit it reluctantly and when obliged to do so, leave an offering to the spirit which is said to inhabit it. Old residents of the district declare that in one of the caves which pierce the crumbling cliffs of Flowerpot Isle skeletons were found of so large a size that the tradition of a giant race grew up. The "flowerpots" themselves, legend declares, are the forms in stone of two lovers of different tribes who were forbidden to marry. They eloped, fleeing to Flowerpot Isle, whence they never returned. The island is reached easily via Wiarton, and as a part of the Georgian Bay Islands National Park is dedicated to the perpetual use of the Canadian people and their guests.

Detective, Investigator
A detective, in the proper sense of the word, traces crime or obtains secret information for the detection of crime. His occupation is directly in connection with infractions of law. On the other hand, an investigator, as the term is ordinarily employed, is one who is occupied in the field of research, generally scientific; one who is engaged in seeking facts. A legislative inquiry into certain facts may be conducted by an investigator, and the inquiry may lead to the detection of infractions of law. In such an instance the work of an investigator and that of a detective might be along identical channels, but it is an incidental channel for the investigator, and the occupational channel for the detective.—Literary Digest.

No man likes to work for nothing unless he is the chairman of a committee.

CONTRARY MARY

Grandmother Perry sat knitting, with a worried expression on her usually smiling face. Her needles clicked against each other as the little sock she was knitting for Baby Belle grew and grew larger every moment. "Mary Belle", she said all at once, as if she had been wanting to say something for quite a while. "Yes Mother"—her daughter, who had been standing by the window watching her own little daughter dragging her sleigh across the field to her small chum's house, turned and looked enquiringly at her.

"Mary Belle", said Grandmother Perry again, "I have been thinking that we take too much notice of Mary Wee's contrariness."

"Why, Mother, how could we? I had hoped that by keeping it in her mind we might break her from the habit," said young Mrs. King.

"I am afraid that our notice of it is having just the opposite effect. I have been watching her quite closely since I have been here, and I'm afraid she is getting rather proud of the title 'Contrary Mary'."

"Oh Mother, do you really think so?"

"I'm afraid so, dear. If you listen closely to her conversation when she comes in this evening, you will see that, when she is asked why she does the naughty things that she does, she always replies rather pertly and with a toss of her head, 'Oh just to be contrary.'"

"I hadn't noticed, Mother, but I will watch her and see for myself. I hope she won't be too much bother to you when I am away. I should not be happy in going if I thought that."

"Tut, tut! Go along with you, child, and enjoy your visit. I have not brought up nine of you children and not learned enough to manage one little girl!"

Young Mrs. King laughed at the look of scorn on her mother's face, before saying, "And in all your nine, you did not have one contrary Mary, did you, Mother?"

"Indeed, no! I do not know what I should have done if I had. You were all rather good children I think—but I suppose all mothers think that about their children, I expect that is why you have not seen for yourself that Mary Wee enjoys being called 'Contrary Mary'. I must think up some plan to turn the tide the other way."

In the meantime Mary Wee had reached her friend's house and found a number of other little boys and girls there too. This displeased her, as she had expected to find Stella alone. She was a bit jealous-natured, as well as contrary, and wanted to have her little chum all to herself. No one must slide down hill with Stella but herself, and Stella must not trade sleighs with anyone but herself. Naturally the other children wanted Stella to exchange sleighs and ride with them.

This made Mary Wee so angry that she strode off, saying, "You can have your old hill all to yourselves. I shall go over to Nolan's hill to slide." Stella ran after her and begged her to come back, that Nolan's hill was a dangerous hill to slide on. "Come back, Mary, please do", she pleaded. "Not unless you will promise not to slide with anyone else but me, or lend your sleigh to anyone else," said Mary, her chin thrust out in a stubborn manner.

"But I can't promise that. Mother invited all the other children, and I have to play with them too." "All right, play with them then," said Mary, and trudged on, her head in the air—as shouts of "Contrary Mary, Contrary Mary" reached her.

Lovingly, Aunt Jean.

Receivers Paid Postage

In the days before postage stamps, when letters were paid for by the receiver and postage amounted to 25 cents and more, poor people resorted to all kinds of schemes to get their mail and still avoid paying the post, a favorite method being to send a letter with but a blank piece of paper inside which the receiver refused but when by a prearranged plan was notice of "all is well," "yes," or the like.

Peanut a Legume

The peanut is a first cousin to peas and beans, being leguminous. It has a peculiar habit of blooming above the ground then burying the seed pods in the ground. The peanut is very nutritious, offering fat, protein, and such minerals as phosphorus and iron together with vitamin B.

Found in Blue Ridge

In the Blue Ridge mountains, and nowhere else, are found weird natural crosses of stone. According to local legend, angels cried at the time of the crucifixion and their tears crystallized in this form of stone.

Celestial Visitors

There is really nothing extraordinary about a daylight meteor, except that it must be unusually large and close to the surface of the earth to demonstrate itself against the sun-illuminated atmosphere. These "celestial visitors," as they have been called, are coursing through space constantly, more of them at certain seasons, but some of them all the time. It is only when they come within the air envelope of the earth that they manifest themselves, through being heated to incandescence in their passage. Some are entirely consumed by the heat thus engendered, while others, partly consumed, fall to the surface and explode and in rare instances large fragments of them are found. Some great masses of meteoric material have reached the earth.

Stomach Gas Exploded

In an English medical journal, the Lancet, Dr. T. East reports the case of a man who complained of a stomach ache after supper, but took his wife to a movie just the same. In the wait between shows the man took out a cigarette and scratched a match, but when he applied the light to the end of the cigarette there was an explosion which blew the cigarette across several rows of seats, singed the man's mustache and burned his fingers. Doctor East explains this mishap was caused by the gas from the victim's stomach mingling with air taken in by breathing in just the right proportions to make it inflammable. He literally ignited his breath, causing the explosion.—Wall Street Journal.

"CAPTAIN BLOOD" IS MASTER PICTURE

Next Week

An attraction on next week's bill at the Rex Theatre is a Cosmopolitan production, "Captain Blood", which does full justice to Sabatini's master novel of the same title. It is a thrilling tale of seventeenth century sea pirates. Playing the title role of "Captain Blood" is Errol Flynn, a handsome and dashing young Irishman, who excelled on the London stage. The feminine lead is played by Olivia de Havilland.

The story opens during the period when the Duke of Monmouth was leading an abortive rebellion against James II. Dr. Peter Blood runs afoul of the soldiery and later finds himself a slave in the West Indies. He subsequently becomes the captain of a pirate ship.

His calm effrontery wins the attention, then the hatred and finally the love of the beautiful young noblewoman. This vigorous young daredevil puts down mutinies and scuttles ships with desperate coolness, saving his warmth for the ardor of his love.

Lionel Atwill also stars in the role of a plantation and slave owner who later becomes the governor of Jamaica; Basil Rathbone is the pirate Levasseur, who is eventually slain in a duel by Blood for his treachery; Ross Alexander, Guy Kibbee, Robert Barrat, Frank McGlynn, Sr., and David Torrence are fellow slaves of Blood, who escape with him and form part of his pirate crew.

THE OLYMPIC GAMES

Queer the way things are diverted from their original purpose. The Olympic games is a glaring example of this. As I understand it, the original purpose of the Olympic games was to promote friendship between countries. Judging from what one reads, there is nothing that is more acrimonious than those same Olympic games. The quarrelling begins before the contestants ever leave home and seems to continue all the time they are away and to last for some time after they return. The idea was a good one but it does not seem to have worked out.

THE TUBERCULAR TYPE

When we are born we fall into one of three classes, the thin, the fat or the stocky. Modifications can be made in the weight but our structure is made and there is little that we can do about it. Each type has a natural predisposition to definite diseases. The thin person is more apt to become tubercular. You have heard it said of people that they were the consumptive type! Their bone structure is such that their lungs grow very large and they have more lung space than they fill with air when they breathe, and because of this unused portion they are more liable to become tubercular. Needless to say every slight person does not become tubercular but they are more apt to develop it, and they should never allow a cold to linger nor to continue to lose weight without consulting a doctor. It is foolish to be always looking for trouble but it is just as foolish not to allow for its possibility.

JIG-SAW PUZZLES

When everyone was doing jig-saw puzzles last year (or was it the year before?) I was one of the few who did not do them. The rest of the family were very enthusiastic and occasionally I might fit in a piece or two but I never really did them. Perhaps because I do not do them well. I haven't that kind of a mind. There is another kind of jig-saw puzzle that I like to do and that is to fit in various foods into a harmonious whole. I have just finished one that fitted together rather neatly. We had company for dinner and the next day there remained part of a leg of lamb, a few peas, some celery, and pineapple juice which I had drained off a can of crushed pineapple. The pineapple was mixed with whipped cream and used to fill meringue shells. Oh yes, there was a half lemon. The juice of the other half had gone into the pineapple cream. The next day for lunch we had sliced cold lamb and canned tomatoes which were thoroughly chilled and seasoned. A No. 2 1/2 can requires about a teaspoonful of sugar and a tablespoon of lemon juice. These should be added gradually as some tomatoes do not require as much seasoning. When I surveyed the remains, I drained the tomatoes that were left after lunch and added enough gelatine to make a jelly. The meat I cut off the bones, and out the bones, the skin and any bits of gristle into the soup pot. Then I put in the pulp of the tomatoes, an onion, a few outside pieces of celery, and the gravy. I raided my whole pickling spice and took a bay leaf, a few pepper corns and some celery seed for flavour. After simmering the soup gently for some hours, I strained and left it to chill so that the fat could be easily removed. That gave us a delicious consomme to start a dinner with. The meat I cut in small pieces, added the celery and peas and a little onion and mixed it with salad dressing to make lamb salad. I served the tomato jelly with this. There was nothing left to use up now but the pineapple juice and a little lemon juice. These I used as a part of the liquid with a jelly powder to make a delicious jelly. All my parts fitted together to give us interesting meals. It is wise to plan your meals ahead so that the one food will fit into several places in the menu.

This little bit of fitting together is not worth calling a

Running Town Is Like Managing Home

Mrs. J. Hanley, Mayor of Webbwood, Says Same Principles Apply

Mrs. Joseph Hanley, Canada's only woman mayor, in Webbwood, Ont., says her work is just another step in home life.

"The same principles apply in civic government as in the home, school or neighborhood", said Mrs. Hanley. "Just as a mother with small children governs her 'municipality', my position is only an advanced form of home life."

Outlining plans for her term of office in this northern town, 38 miles west of Sudbury, Webbwood's chief magistrate said enforcement of municipal laws, improved finances and adjustment of relief expenditures would be her three main objectives.

"I believe, in this case," she said, "my Council's co-operation is much better than I have ever known it to be."

"We have very little money", she continued. "Our people are poor, so our big improvement must come under the heading, 'things money cannot buy.'"

"Relief is our big problem right now and I believe we are not alone in this respect. We do not like it, but as it appears to be a necessary evil, we are going to be as happy about it as possible. We are trying as far as we can to give our people work and erase the 'dividing line' between ratepayers and relief recipients."

A Penance Chair

(The Western Mail, Cardiff.)

A penance chair used to be kept in the church of St. Ishmael, near Ferryside. Bearing the date 1655, it had on the back two texts: "Husbands love your wives," and "Let the wife reverence her husband." If a husband and wife quarrelled they were obliged to sit on the chair — which was divided in the middle by an arm — during divine service, with a white sheet over their heads.

puzzle but it is along the same idea. I needed salad dressing and cookies of some sort. So I used the egg yolks of two eggs for my salad dressing and had the whites to make macaroons. I beat the egg whites until stiff, then added 1/4 cup sugar gradually, beating after each addition. I divided this mixture into two parts. To one half I added 1 1/2 cups dates, cut in small pieces and 1/3 cup coarsely chopped walnuts and 1/2 teaspoon vanilla. To the remaining egg white I added 1 1/2 cups coconut and 1 teaspoon almond extract. Drop these mixtures by spoonfuls on a buttered baking sheet and cook in a slow oven of 250 degrees until gently browned. If you like them rather soft inside, increase the heat when they just begin to brown, to 300 degrees.

POTPOURRI

If the meringue of a pie has drops of moisture, it has been cooled too quickly.

If a cake pan is buttered too much the cake is apt to burn.

If porridge is cooked in the double boiler the night before, spread two or three tablespoons of water over the top and it will prevent a crust forming.

SAUSAGE IN YORKSHIRE PUDDING

1 cup milk
1 cup flour
2 eggs
1/4 tablespoon salt

Add milk gradually to flour and salt and rub to a smooth paste. Beat the eggs until very light and add to the flour mixture. Arrange sausage in a greased baking dish and pour the mixture over them. Bake in a hot oven of 450 degrees for 25 minutes.

Written Specially for The Lachute Watchman
By the Montreal "FASHION SCRIBE"

■ VEILS AND EVERYTHING... not for many a long year have they topped so many hats and flattered so many faces. Simply clouds of it, in filmy quality or wide coarse meshes... floating down all the way around... winging out behind... swirling about the crown or tied in "Gay Ninety" bows. You'll see them tight against the face and coiffure with the newest perfectly tailored brims, too. Shop windows and the millinery departments about town portray the attractiveness of this trend.

■ SLEEVES are no longer just a part of a dress. Spring 1936 gives them a dramatic quality. Look for fullness at the top, for myriads of pleats, or for little feminine frills to make a short puff more interesting. If all that should not prove to your liking, wear them long and straight à la Chinese, but whatever you do, see that they have some definite fashion significance if you want your dresses and your jacket frocks to look really new and right.

■ It's JACKETS here, there and everywhere. Delightful little styles bringing us the "Gay Ninety" or "Floradora" charm in a modern spirited manner becoming to the Nineteen-Thirties. Here the sleeve importance mentioned above comes in, to say nothing of the peplums and the saucy back pleats used to emphasize the exaggerated slimness of the waistline.

■ COLOUR AND YET MORE COLOUR — its increased importance becomes more apparent day by day as spring draws nearer. Don't expect to buy a set of accessories in a single shade to go with that suit or coat you are planning. You'll need two or even three definite hues (in the accessories) to complete the picture in a proper manner. How are you going to assemble them? In flowers (on your lapel or under your chin)... in hose (often copper tones), scarfs and blouses... in bags, belts and even in gloves. Match the bag and shoes for instance, and contrast it with a glove and flower.

■ While we're on the subject of colour we must mention gloves most emphatically. They've gone colour-mad this spring, and leathers are to hand in blues, reds, greens, rusts, etc., in both deep and bright tones, and there's a whole line-up of pastels to be seen as well. Your hands will fairly fly to get in to them on sight.

■ Taffeta, lace and crisp nets have been noted among smartest evening dresses.

■ New navy is launching itself again this year as the important volume colour for spring. It's smart! It's becoming! It's practical!

The Smart Woman

Today there is a hair style for every type of face, says Ruth Murrin, beauty editor of Good Housekeeping. Your hair may be any length from four or five inches to down to your waist — whatever pleases you. You may part it on the side, in the middle, or not part it at all. You may wear it in curls, or loose waves, or straight as an Indian's. You may bare your forehead or camouflage it with a fringe. You may brush your hair behind your ears or hide them under a froth of ringlets. With all this latitude of hair arrangement, there are a few mistakes you must avoid, she warns. Don't slant your hair down across your forehead; it dates you badly. Don't choose a bushy coiffure or one that makes your head look big; it is not smart and it ruins the line of a hat.

If your face is thin, try the center part. Be sure to keep the top and back of the head rather flat and curls brushed out and soft. Your forehead may look too high. If so, comb down the short hairs at the center of the forehead in a light, straight fringe or wavy bang.

Perhaps you want to emphasize your classic features. Try the angel coiffure, in which the hair radiates from the crown without a part and ends in a double row of formal ringlets clear around the head.

If curls at the nape of your neck call attention to the fact that the lower part of your face is heavy, you may find a high arrangement effective. Comb the hair up in back with curls at the crown.

If you like a girlish coiffure, try a fluffy bob. Start with a side part, brush the hair back behind the ears, ending in fluffy curls. Be sure you have your hair short enough in back so that it escapes your collar and shows a little of your neck.

If you sit down as soon as the cold weather arrives and hope for spring, you are not as young as you used to be.

CIVIC VIRTUE REWARDED

Ald. Biggar presents to Mayor J. A. Dakin, of Mount Royal, the cup representing the island championship for good government on the island of Montreal. The trophy was originally donated by Ald. Biggar, chairman of the Metropolitan Commission, and was won last year by Lachine. This year, after careful consideration of evidence laid before them by the Metropolitan Commission, a committee composed of L. E. Potvin, T. Taggart Smyth and Clinton Henderson awarded the trophy to the Town of Mount Royal. Their judgment, Ald. Biggar explained, was based on three main points, harmony between citizens and administration; harmony between the administration and the Metropolitan Commission; and success achieved in facing and overcoming difficulties and solving problems.

Residents in the vicinity of Cushing Junction are not disposed to regard the clearing out of the hoboos from there as an unmixed blessing. These poor fellows seemingly have to be somewhere, and the building which, being in an out-of-the-way corner is comparatively seldom used, provided a shelter for many who would otherwise be depending on the unwilling hospitality of the neighborhood. It is the opinion of many in the vicinity that the C. N. officials could have served the public better by leaving them undisturbed, at least during the cold weather. At worst they were a harmless, inoffensive collection of waifs.

HARRINGTON EAST

The United prayer service was held on Monday evening in Mr. G. Campbell's hall at Bell's Falls.

Mr. Dougald MacTavish was in St. Jerome on Tuesday of this week.

Miss Edith MacCallum spent the week-end here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Neil MacCallum.

Miss Marjorie Walker spent the week-end in Lachute.

Miss Marjorie McQuat was the week-end guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. McQuat of Brownsburg.

Miss Hildred Wheeler spent the week-end here at the home of her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. William Kingsbury and little daughter, of Vankleek Hill, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Shaw.

On Saturday afternoon the Y. P. S. hiked to Mr. Dougald MacLean's camp at Slavery Lake. The party found much to interest them in the methods of logging, and after spending the afternoon as lumber-jacks, all partook of a delicious and enjoyable supper.

CAMBRIA

Mrs. Willey is spending a few days in the city.

Miss Annie Morrow returned home from the Royal Victoria hospital on Saturday, accompanied by her brother, Leslie, who spent the week-end in Mille Isles.

There appears to have been an epidemic of appendicitis in Mille Isles, five persons having undergone operations in the past few months from this community.

Friends of Mrs. J. E. Ward are pleased to hear she has returned home from the city. Her recent operation being her seventh in all, Mrs. Ward has certainly had her share of hospital experience.

GRENVILLE BAY

People of this community deeply regret the death of Mrs. Goudie of Grenville; she was loved by all in this vicinity.

Mrs. John Moncrieff, of Brownsburg, spent the week-end with her sister-in-law, Mrs. J. Brechin.

Mrs. T. H. Grey is in Ottawa visiting her daughter and other friends.

Mrs. Austin McIntyre has returned home from visiting her mother, and also has her children home with her.

Mr. and Mrs. T. D. McMichael visited in Calumet on Sunday.

Miss Helen McCullough has recovered from an attack of "grippe", and has resumed her school duties again.

Mr. McCullough was home for the week-end, returning again to his work in Harrington.

Council Allot Another Seat For Representation of West Ward

REDIVISION OF WARDS IS CONSIDERED AT SPECIAL MEETING

At a special meeting of Lachute Town Council on Monday evening the redistribution of voters and civic representation came under discussion. Mayor Dr. J. H. Mason occupied the chair in the presence of a full council.

Numerous accounts were presented by the Secretary, which were duly considered and passed with one exception, which was a matter of insurance held over for enquiry.

In considering the redivision of town wards, which had been contemplated and mapped out by the council, some interesting facts came to light. The present number of ratepayers, the secretary stated, was 204 in the West Ward, 222 in the Centre and 118 in the East, totalling 544. The Mayor remarked that this showed an increase of about 25 proprietors over the 1931 figure. In the proposed division of the municipality into seven wards, each with a council representative, No. 1 Ward would include 115 ratepayers, 133 in No. 2, 65 in No. 3, 40 in No. 4, 95 in No. 5, 49 in No. 6, and 47 in No. 7. . . . There was discussion as to whether all citizens should receive a vote, whether tenants and proprietors, or solely the proprietors; but general opinion favored leaving the franchise with householders and ratepayers as specified in the town charter. The Mayor, Councillor Deslauriers, Mr. L. L. Legault and one or two older citizens recalled that in former years tenants paid a town tax of 2 per cent of their rentals.

Ald. H. Lamarche, seconded by Ald. Constantineau proposed that the redivision of wards be adopted according to the plan drawn up.

An amendment, however, was moved by Ald. K. McOuat, seconded by Ald. Deslauriers that the wards should remain unchanged but that for more equitable representation four councillors should be allotted to the West Ward, three to the Centre, and only two to the East Ward. This amendment was carried with a vote of 6-3.

Hockey Schedule Ends, Play-Offs Start Saturday

LACHUTE HEADS LIST IN SEASON'S STANDING

To complete the W. Quebec-Prescott League schedule, St. Jerome and Hawkesbury, which teams had an engagement yet to play, ceded each other points equivalent to a victory, and the schedule ended with 15 games played virtually by all teams. Lachute stands in the lead with 18 points, Hawkesbury second with 17, St. Jerome third with 14, and Brownsburg fourth with 11.

As the play-off series commence, the third and second teams play for position to meet Lachute, the first line-up. Thus St. Jerome and Hawkesbury play for the best 2-out-of-3, the winners meeting Lachute for the championship in best 3-out-of-5 games.

Saturday is set for the opening of the first series, all two (or three) games between St. Jerome and Hawkesbury being played here — on subsequent dates announced on posters now displayed. It is hoped to stage the first game of the second series here on the following Saturday, March 7th.

Ingenious are the ways of deception. —A Montreal alderman reports how one householder hung a crepe on his door every time a blizzard drifted the snow around his entrance. The road-clearing foreman considerably cleared the snow from the front of his premises for several anticipated funerals —but now he is wiser and less sympathetic.

SEASON OF TRADITIONAL MEANINGS

In connection with Shrove Tuesday, pancakes and Mardi Gras, we are told this is usually taken to mean carnival — which for those unpolished in classical derivations, is Latin for "farewell to meat" Ash Wednesday, the first of the 40 days of Lent, implies the Old Testament symbol of sackcloth and ashes to signify penitence.

Once, the word "Lent" simply meant spring, but like "Easter" itself, which had its pagan connotations, it has come to stand for the fast preparatory to the festival of the death and resurrection of Christ. The Christian world observes Lent, though not with the rigor of earlier days.

COLORFUL COSTUMES AT ICE CARNIVAL

EVENT WELL PATRONIZED LAST FRIDAY

Between 400 and 500 people were in evidence Friday night at Lachute Arena, where the masquerade carnival of the season attracted many festively arrayed skaters and a good crowd of spectators. Among the hundred odd costumes were many which displayed taste and ingenuity, and the rink presented a gay and colorful scene.

Judges of the costumes were Messrs. H. Lamarche, George Murray and Camille Belanger, whose choice of the winners was no easy task. First prize for female costumes was awarded to Mrs. V. Marchand, in a complex attire of Dennison crepe paper, including dress, hat, umbrella and purse all in yellow — a creation which obviously had involved much labor. Miss Antoinette Carriere, her costume composed of numerous Salada Tea packages, took second prize, while Misses Peggy and Jean Beveridge, in old fashioned bonnets and habiliments of crepe paper, took third. Three comely convicts in the persons of Dorothy Cooke, Therese Berniquier and Dorothy Wheatley were fourth prize winners, while Miss Lucille St. Onge took fifth.

Among the male costumes were — a Hot Dog, in the person of Mr. Sauvé (1st.); a phantom unclassified, represented by Henri Lefebvre, (2nd.); J. Fournier as a farmer, and Henri Beauchamp draped in flags. The racing events were keenly contested. The race for couples, three turns around the rink, was won by Miss Isabel Hay and Danl. Tremblay. The ladies' race, over the same distance, was also won by Miss Hay, and Winston Drew was winner in the men's race, five turns around the ice.

It has been arranged to have radios placed in a number of local churches in readiness for the 11 o'clock services Sunday morning, to enable the congregations to hear the King's broadcast message. Following the broadcast the regular services will be held.

TOURISTS MORE NUMEROUS IN QUEBEC DURING PAST YEAR

CUSTOMS FIGURES SHOW MARKED INCREASE

Records of the customs ports of entry show a notable increase in tourist traffic into this province during 1935. United States automobiles entering the province for periods of from two days to two months numbered 235,383, as compared with 196,910 in 1934, an increase of 38,473 cars. A census taken by the Quebec Roads Department on interprovincial highways shows 82,000 United States automobiles and 119,496 automobiles from other provinces of the Dominion entering Quebec by the interprovincial highways. When these figures are added to those of the ports of entry, a total is reached of 436,879 tourist cars entering the province for more than one day.

Cars entering by the ports of entry for less than 24 hours numbered 176,343.

MAN AWARDED DAMAGES AGAINST TOWNSHIP OF HARRINGTON

ACCIDENT OCCURRED ON ARUNDEL HIGHWAY LAST FALL

Josephat Miller, of Barkmere, who was injured on September 25 last when a broken tree pulled the top off his automobile as he was driving past, was awarded the sum of $253.80 in Superior Court at St. Jerome last Thursday before Mr. Justice Louis Cousineau. Miller had sued the Township of Harrington for the sum of $303.85 in damages.

It was established that during a heavy storm which occurred in the afternoon of September 24 at 4.30 o'clock a tree at the side of the highway had been broken and had leaned over the roadway. At five o'clock the following morning, Miller, with a companion, was driving to Montreal and the tree tore the top off his automobile and he suffered a dislocated shoulder. Despite his injury and the damage to his automobile, Miller was able to turn about and to return to Arundel where he obtained medical attention. He claimed in his suit that the township was aware of the danger and had been negligent in failing to remove the tree earlier. In defence the township claimed that the accident was due to Miller's speeding, but the court decided that it was clear Miller had not been speeding, otherwise he and his companion would have been killed.

Opening Week Suggests a Fighting Parliament . . . Minister of Labor Defines Government Attitude on Public Works

"THE OTTAWA SPOTLIGHT"

Ottawa, February 25.—The Liberal party shows signs of being vigorously alive and even in a state of mild revolt. Last week the government received as many jolts from its friends as from its opponents. "Gerry" McGeer (Liberal) locked horns with the authorities on shipping subsidies. Jean Francois Pouliot (Liberal) sought to introduce a bill on the translation bureau over the expressed opposition of the Secretary of State. W. A. Tucker, Liberal of Rosthern, faced right up to the Minister of Finance on the monetary question, and was warmly applauded not only by the 'south east corner' where the Social Credit and C. C. F. members sit, but from practical fringes of the Liberal benches as well. All in all, it looks like

AMATEUR NIGHT DREW RECORD CROWD AT AUDITORIUM

ENTERTAINMENT IN AID OF PARISH FUNDS

The more the merrier — Lachute folks do not grow tired of amateur performances, for each successive show draws a heartier crowd to learn the attainments of local talent. At an Amateur Night arranged by the Enfants de Marie, Ste. Anastasie Parish, the Lachute Auditorium was crowded to the doors Tuesday evening. The affair was in aid of the new church funds, and in every respect was a marked success.

Maurice Navion excelled himself as master of ceremonies, and the program was carried through in an interesting manner. Following are the items in the order given:

Misses Therese Raymond and Isabel Larocque, piano duet.
Convent pupils in an amusing playlet, "C'est trop; c'est pas trop."

CONGREGATIONAL SOCIAL PROVED PLEASURABLE OCCASION

OFFICIAL BOARD OF UNITED CHURCH WERE HOSTS

The annual tea-meeting of Lachute United Church having been dispensed with this year — in place of this time-honored event the members of the congregation were invited to gather on Friday evening to a social "get-together," which proved an unusual success.

At the annual meeting held recently, a deficit of $141.75 was announced at the close of the year; the Board of Directors decided that a special effort should be made to wipe out the debt and solicit funds in lieu of the regular tea-meeting. The committees were formed, and a quick canvass resulted in the deficit of $141.75 being oversubscribed, as the sum of $279.75 was generously contributed. Dr. J. H. Mason as Chairman of the Official Board expressed deep gratitude and on behalf of the collectors, made known their appreciation of this splendid co-operation and the good spirit prevailing. This, he felt, was a great compliment to the Rev. W. B. Rosborough who, with his wife, has labored faithfully during his six and a half years' pastorate of the Church.

Seated around the numerous tables, where song sheets had been distributed, a happy time was spent in singing many old-time songs, led by Mr. C. Duncan. With each new song, the

A brownish deposit which discolored the snow in this Laurentian section Tuesday morning, was found in laboratory tests to be a fine sand. The circumstance was general in this part of Quebec. It is recalled the same phenomenon occurred last year . . . Severe sandstorms have been reported recently in Central and South America; they may be in some way responsible for the dust on Quebec's winter coat this week.

A FORERUNNER OF SPRING

For many years people of this district have noted what is considered one of the first harbingers of spring — the annual return of the Evening Grosbeaks. About 8 inches long, with yellowish wings topped with white, these birds were seen again this year as early as Feb. 12th, in flocks around Lachute. They arrive at the breaking of the cold season and make a pretty sight flying about in search of food. It is evident that they go farther north to nest, as nobody has reported seeing them here at any other season of the year. They seem to be a rare variety.

MONTH'S ACTIVITIES OF ARGENTEUIL W.I.

Chatham Branch had thirteen members, to give as their roll-call reasons for joining the Women's Institute, also to display home made articles which could be made for the small cost of twenty-five cents. Mrs. G. Todd read current events. This Branch has formed a Study Group.

Frontier Branch did not meet this month.

Jerusalem - Bethany had a "Home Economics" meeting in the form of a quilting bee. Combining the theme with Legislation, Mrs. E. Kettyle gave a paper on that subject. Their roll-call was the name of a member of the Privy Council.

Lachute had eighteen members present to enjoy a paper on the Early History of Argenteuil, particularly that of Lachute, given by Mrs. Bothwell in the absence of Mrs. Gall. A sum of money was voted at this meeting towards new books for their library, and the roll-call was, "Why I am Proud to be a Canadian."

Lakefield has not reported.

Morin Heights had a review of significant Empire events for 1935-36 as their Canadianization and National Events programme, also stressed Home Economics in answering their roll-call, "How to make a husband happy", and by having an exchange box of pretty and useful articles made from a flour or sugar bag. This Branch also planned a Leap Year Dance for Feb. 29th.

Pioneer's subject for the month was Legislation, with an interesting talk on this subject as well as an address on "Our Late King". Their roll-call was the name of a famous lawyer of the past or present.

Upper Lachute - East End had seven members and three guests to listen to Nurse Harrison's talk on Child Welfare. Their roll-call was "Child Training."

POST OFFICE

The construction of the new Post Office building is well advanced and decorators are now putting the finishing touches to the interior of this very attractive and well proportioned edifice. Some outside work still remains, but had to be left over for completion till the more favorable spring weather. Mr. Lepine, who had charge of the contract, deserves high commendation for the splendid workmanship of which this building gives evidence.

SNOW CLEARING

This is the first winter during which we have experienced the comfort of well ploughed roads. Whatever doubts were to be heard about the feasibility of incorporation are forever stilled by the results of the first efforts of corporate action and management.

ADULT STUDY GROUPS

A "Study Group" is the name by which McGill University designated a group of persons interested in learning a little about some selected subject. An attempt has been made to introduce the work in Brownsburg, and already some groups are devoting a little time to cultivating the fallow areas of the mind. Groups are composed of five or six persons of like interest in any one subject; meetings are arranged, and material read and discussed which leads interestingly and leisurely along the road of knowledge. Anyone can join, or any five or six persons can form a group, and the Universities very kindly place a wealth of material at their disposal. There are no examinations, no teachers; it is simply a co-operative effort to procure a little knowledge of United W.M.S. Presbyterian Annual Gathering

(By Our Own Correspondent)

The president elected this year by the United Church W. M. S. Presbyterian to replace Mrs. Levys, who resigned upon the death of her husband to accept a position on the Toronto Board, is a general favorite with country auxiliaries — being Mrs. Walter Scott of Montreal, well known for her work among the young people, also having been for a number of years the adviser responding to requests for information through the question box. All out-of-town auxiliaries will welcome Mrs. Scott as head of their Presbyterian.

The finances this year showed a decrease of $1,130.00, which does not reflect upon the auxiliaries but is rather the outcome of the amalgamation of two churches, Erskine and American, which left $1,000 unallocated which had originally been allocated to the American church. (Seemingly when two churches amalgamate, while it may be to advantage of the Presbytery itself, it is not so helpful to the Women's Missionary Society; as a rule, not all the people of the two churches attend the newly amalgamated church, but feeling their

"Mounted" on Motors

ice, but comparatively few of them now ride the ponies usually associated in the public mind with Canada's scarlet-coated force. What is lost in romance is gained in utility. Sir James MacBrien, commissioner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, explained how things are. The men of the famed force have to go in for faster means of transportation than horses now.
There are few places where motor-cycles, automobiles, boats or airplanes cannot penetrate, and so the number of constables on horses has now been reduced to about 300, mostly on the farthest frontiers.

Making History in Argenteuil

Extracted from the Files of

30 Years Ago

February 26, 1886.

On Saturday last the Town Hall of St. Andrews was filled with a gathering of ratepayers to discuss upon advising the Council to enact a by-law for granting a $10,000 bonus to the St. Andrews Junction Railway.
The meeting was presided over by Mayor Geo. Simpson. Mr.
Ireland briefly addressed the meeting and advocated St. Andrews giving the bonus, claiming that both the village and La-chute would benefit materially from the project. J. N. A. Mc-Kay, said, "The question is simply this : the local and Dominion Governments have offered us a subsidy of about $52-000, and if we refuse this road when there is only $10,000 demanded of us, to be paid in about 25 years, it will be a disgrace not to take it. The tax, as I understand it, on present valuation roll would only amount to three mills on the dollar annually to pay off the bonus in 25 years. Should your property increase as it has in the last ten years, in proportion to what Lachute has done, the tax would only be 1½ mills—the increase in value being largely in the villages of St.
Andrews and Carillon."

Remarkable Instance of Harmony Between Canadian and U.S. Border Towns

By L. H. WEBBER, Customs-Excise Officer at St. Stephen, N.B. *

Nowhere along the three thousand mile border between Canada and the United States is more international goodwill and fellowship displayed than by the towns of St. Stephens and Milltown, New Brunswick, and Calais, Maine, separated only by the St. Croix river.

The story begins November 8th., 1603. On that day Henry IV of France granted to Sieur de Monts a patent of all territory between the 40th and 46th parallels of north latitude. He and his company sailed from Havre de Grace on April 7th., 1604, and in July of the same year they landed on an island in what is now the St. Croix river. This island they named St. Croix Island and from this the present name of the river was assumed. The island is now called Dochet Island, and is the property of the United States. The treaty of 1783 established the St. Croix river as the boundary between Maine and New Brunswick.

On this small island, now but a fraction of its then size, within thirty minutes' ride of the business centre of Calais, Maine, and St. Stephen, New Brunswick, the people of the first white settlements on the continent, north of Florida, built their rude log huts.

The subsequent development and growth of the valley of this boundary river is, and always has been, international in every aspect. The first settlement, at what is now Calais, Maine, and St. Stephen, New Brunswick, was in 1779. In that year Daniel Hill and others arrived from Machias, Maine, in search of pine masts for shipbuilding and export trade: thus was the foundation of Calais, Maine, established. Many members of this colony moved across the river and built their homes, so forming the first settlement of what was eventually to be called St. Stephen.

In the years that followed, discharged members of His Majesty's forces settled here in numbers, to be followed by a large number of Loyalists from the United States. The settlement continued to grow until in 1790 the British community outnumbered the American by about sixteen hundred.

Shipbuilding became the business of the community and this, with the export trade in lumber, occupied the time of the settlers. In these early days there was no clergyman, lawyer, or doctor in the settlement; no church, corporation or institution. No elections were held. No troops paraded, no officer exercised authority, no court sat; yet law and order prevailed, friendship grew, peace and goodwill were enjoyed, and the number of its inhabitants gradually increased.

In 1809 Calais, Maine, was incorporated as a town, and in 1871 St. Stephen, New Brunswick, was incorporated as a town.

* Article published last year in the National Revenue Review.

wick, was likewise incorporated. In 1873 the town of Milltown divided from St. Stephen and sought its own incorporation. These three towns still form the settlement in the valley of the St. Croix.

Peace and Goodwill

The continued history of growth and development in this settlement is a tribute to peace and goodwill, for here communities of two countries, living side by side with only a narrow river as the dividing line, have co-mingled and co-laboured for over 150 years without quarrel or disagreement, even though at times their respective countries were actually at war with each other. At the start of the United States' war against England in 1812 there were no regular troops of either country on the border between Calais and St. Stephen. A Committee of Public Safety, composed of citizens from both towns, was chosen to preserve peace. Subsequently troops of both governments were stationed on the border but never a shot was heard and the people continued to carry on the usual commerce of the locality. It is a matter of record that during this time a Masonic Lodge met in Calais in regular session and the Master of the Lodge and several brothers went across from St. Stephen to preside at and attend this session. It is also related of this time that the British brought in a supply of gun-powder and several years later, when a check-up was made, it was found to have disappeared. Upon inquiry being instituted, it was learned that it had all been given to our American cousins for their Fourth of July celebrations. During the scare of the Fenian Raids, a number of irregulars of the Fenian party were stationed in Calais but never crossed the river and never fired a shot, and so was peace preserved, even in times of actual war between the two countries.

International Aspect

Coming down to more recent times, it is apparent that these three towns, two in Canada and one in the United States, enjoy an international aspect that is unique and interesting. A few miles above these settlements is a power development on international waters. The power-house and residences are in United States territory, and until last year the only method of entrance or exit to this settlement was by crossing the stream bed below the dam and entering Canada, and by driving nine miles through Canadian territory, reaching United States soil again at Calais.

Calais is the eastern terminus of the Maine Central Railroad which has a branch line running along the United States side of the St. Croix river to Woodland, about eleven miles a-adhered to as closely as the demands of democratic government, the cries for freer spending and elaborate programs of work will permit. The Ministry will probably set their faces hard against any extravagant spending programs of any sort. The test will come in a year or two, when the employment rolls are counted. The government knows that its fate in the country will not depend on the debates it wins or loses in the House of Commons now; but on the employment and general prosperity of the country when its policies have had time to take effect.

Judging by the remarks made by chief counsel at the beginning of the textiles inquiry, it is going to be a humdinger. The government considers that the whole textile industry is on trial; and must now justify the protection it enjoys in terms of workers' wages and consumer costs.

The government announced that an adjustment to wheat farmers who received less than 60 cents a bushel for their 1930 pool deliveries would be made; it is unofficially estimated this will cost $6,000,000.

Where "Anything" Does Not Go

Occasionally we see cartoons or read articles which suggest that in some parts of the world people think that "anything goes" in the United States, and that Americans are spineless.

Dr. Hanfstaengl, Hitler's ace reporter, found out differently in 1934 when he tried to get a Harvard man to be a paid resident student in Munich. The proffer of a gift from Hanfstaengl of $10,000 was also recently refused by Harvard with a letter explaining that the institution's attitude had not changed. It was explained, the would-be donor's politics were inimical to principles "fundamental to universities throughout the world."

Christ of the Andes Is Most Unusual Monument

The Christ of the Andes is one of the most unusual monuments in the world. It stands at Cambre pass, the highest accessible point on the Chile-Argentina boundary in the Andes mountains in South America. In 1902 Chile and Argentina had a dispute over their boundary line. Through the efforts of the clergy and the women of the two countries involved the dispute was settled by arbitration and the money which was on hand to use for preparations for the war was used for internal improvements.

Under the leadership of Senora Angela de Costa, of Argentina, the women of the two countries raised the money for the erection of a large statue of the Christ in 1904. The bronze used was that of old cannon which had been taken from Spain in time of war. The statue is 26 feet high and is mounted on a granite pillar. A tablet on the base is inscribed: "Sooner shall these mountains crumble into dust than Argentina and Chileans break the peace to which they have pledged themselves at the feet of Christ the Redeemer."

When Memories Froze and Cows Gave Ice Cream

An old timer of Saltcoats, Sask., writes to the Observer:

"In '92 or '93—we are uncertain of the exact year, as our memory itself froze—the ice on Saltcoats lake was so thick that when we watered our cattle—and everybody did, as all wells were frozen—we had to climb down and chop the bottom out. Of course we sometimes got wet, but lived to tell the tale. Also we well remember the young man—we could mention his name if we willed—who slept all winter wearing a heavy cap and mittens, then he had to pull the blankets over his head to keep tolerably warm. It is history, of course, how all farmers had to dry the milk cows to keep them from giving ice cream.

"Cold winter 1935-26? Fough! Had our present generation of cake-eaters existed in old 1892-93, they wouldn't have been thawed out yet!"

In a village near Port-au-Spain, Trinidad, 200 natives daily mill about an outdoor altar, chanting voodoo hymns and beating tom-toms, while a witch doctor intones prayers, to invoke help for Ethiopia in its fight against Italy.

Remembers When Wagons Were Sign of Wealth

Although confined to his bed, John Lennox quietly celebrated his 102nd birthday in Weston, Sask., recently.

"Born 1834, on the old Lennox homestead in Innisfail Township, he was the eldest of twelve children of William Lennox and Nancy Johnston, who had settled there in the bush and had endeavoured to hew a home for themselves out of the forest. He is also the last surviving member of the family, two of whom lived to almost ninety years.

He remembers the Crimean war.

"We had a great boom while the war lasted and wheat went up to over $2.50 a bushel. But a terrible depression followed that war, like many other wars, and wheat slumped to 63c a bushel. Mortgages made the farmer's life unbearable," said Mr. Lennox.

"I don't think people are a great deal happier today, with all their luxury and inventions," he says. "They have made life interesting and easy, but I sometimes think we haven't learned to use them.

"At one time a wagon was as much a novelty as the first autos were a few years ago. The farmers used to carry on with heavy sleds, and oxen were used for the hard-going carts. I remember how we all rushed out one day in 1841 to see the first wagon brought into the district."

the 1926-1930 parliament appeared to have.

A FINE FIRST EFFORT

The government policy on public works as a cure for unemployment was defined with much clarity and eloquence early in the week by Hon. Rogers, Minister of Labor, in a speech which won general commendation, although scored by one member of the C.C.F. party. Mr. Rogers disposed of the idea that this was a government of supermen, all-wise and all-powerful. He disavowed any notion that without help this or any other government could cure unemployment. The government realised, he said, its profound responsibility in the matter; and the expectations of the people. It would not shirk its responsibility. But it believed in enlisting the support of all possible agencies in the provision of work. The government was satisfied that an orgy of government spending did not offer a way out of the depression. On the contrary, if persisted in, it would bring about chaos.

"It is taking a short view of the duty of the government to the people of Canada to assume that we can continue with unbalanced budgets and at the same time expect the co-operation of private and corporate enterprise in supplying more employment to this country... I do not believe public employment through a vast scheme of public works is anything more than a palliative for our present economic ills. I believe that ultimately it would create far greater economic distress than that which now exists," the Minister said.

Students who are curious as to the probable course of this government in the next year or two will probably find the kernel of the matter in a statement of the British government made in October 1934, and quoted with approval by the Minister of Labor:

THE LIBERAL ATTITUDE

"The expression of normal activity will most surely and rapidly be brought about by the creation of confidence by steady policy—in particular, financial confidence by a balanced budget, the lowering of rates of interest with resultant cheap and plentiful capital and, in so far as government action is possible, by the creation of facilities for and the removal of hindrances to trade."

That theory is to be tested by the Liberal government, it will be assailed as timid, as undramatic, as unimaginative. But the indications are that it will be

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police will supervise relief grants in "unorganized" districts in North Alberta this winter, 25 men being sent to the area. Between 15 and 20 provincial inspectors will be dismissed as a result, it is stated.

"RULES OF ORDER" BY-LAW

Designed to curb stormy council sessions a Rules of Order by-law is before the town council of Orillia, Ontario.

At a recent council meeting, it is reported, when Reeve Cramp called the Mayor "high-handed", the Mayor called the Chief of Police to have the Reeve evicted and in the ensuing argument and confusion one councillor became faint and had to be assisted from the chamber.

UNFAIR COMPETITION AMONG FACTORY-HUNTERS

(Cornwall Standard-Freeholder)

The mayor of St. Thomas has declared his intention of appealing to the Premier of Ontario for strict enforcement of the anti-bonusing law, with special reference to a western Ontario city at present unnamed. His story is that St. Thomas had a deal practically closed with a desirable new industry to locate in the city when the other stepped in with an offer of a free plant and $5,000 to repair the building which, he says, could be rebuilt for that amount. He adds that the same city recently figured prominently in taking another concern from Oshawa.

It is not so many years since securing new industries was a sort of auction sale affair. One town would make an offer, then the promoter would shop around until he had boosted the price high enough to suit him or as high as anyone would bid. It became such a scandal that the Legislature was almost forced to step in and order the auctions to stop, making it illegal for any municipality to offer a bonus or anything in the nature of a bonus. Grants of free site and fixed assessment was as far as anyone could go.

That worked out very well while industry was expanding, but during the recent lean years competition has become so keen that some have not hesitated to skirt the line of legality by offering thinly disguised bonuses and have been carrying off the plums while those who played fair have been left in the cold.

The Premier has intimated that strict enforcement of the law is likely and has mentioned that a working agreement in the matter between Ontario and Quebec is under consideration.

MAYOR IN DUAL OFFICE

Mayor La Guardia saw a bus driver ignore a traffic light. He took the license number and by letter invited the law breaker to his office where court was held, the mayor acting as magistrate. He let the fellow off, after good promises, with a two dollar fine.

That a mayor can act in that capacity will be news to many people who have thought that a mayor could direct the general affairs of a city but not be a judge over the specific acts of the citizens.

Possibly there will be a little more respect paid to the wishes of mayors when it becomes generally known that if one doesn't watch one's step—and the traffic lights—one may say to the mayor some blue Monday, "Good-morning, Judge!"

Remarkable Instance of Harmony --

way. This railroad, about midway of this branch line, leaves U.S. territory and crosses the river into Canada, where it continues for about three miles, again entering Maine just below the town of Woodland, its northern terminus.

The various industries of the three towns derive their power from international waters, and electric energy generated at Milltown is transported by transmission line through United States territory for about fifteen miles, thence by underwater cable to the town of St. Andrews, which is twenty-two miles down the river from the source of energy. Industries and homes in St. Stephen using gas for heating and other purposes, secure their supply of this commodity from a plant situated in Calais, the supply being piped across from that place.

The water supply of the combined towns originates in a plant owned by the town of St. Stephen, and is piped through that town and across to Calais, where it is sold to a company for distribution. This American company in turn sells to the city of Calais and to the town of Milltown, and uses its own pipe line in both towns on the American and Canadian sides of the boundary.

In connection with fire fighting arrangements and equipment, these three towns are also unique, in that, for an alarm in St. Stephen or Calais, both departments respond and for an alarm in Milltown or the northern district of Calais, both departments there respond. In the case of a general alarm in either section, all four departments respond and this without any monetary arrangements between municipalities.

River Divides

The St. Croix river, which at this point forms the dividing line of the two countries, freezes over in winter and shipping ceases unless it becomes necessary to break the ice to allow coal boats to discharge cargo. The winter of 1933-34 saw an exceptional demonstration of the international aspect when a United States coast-guard boat was engaged in opening this international boundary river so that a Norwegian steamer could discharge Welsh coal at a Canadian dock for immediate transfer to the United States for consumption in that country. It frequently happens that United States coal is discharged from a ship at St. Stephen after direct shipment from the United States, and transferred to Calais by truck and highway bridges because of the fact that Calais does not possess a dock at which ocean steamers can discharge cargo.

Both Calais and St. Stephen have street decorations consisting of flags on standards which are set in sidewalk receptacles. It is the usual custom upon special days, July 4, Memorial Day and Armistice Day in the United States and May 24, Dominion Day, June 3, and Armistice Day in Canada, that the flags of each country are flown in both towns.

One of the most modern electric power plants in Europe has been built in Rotterdam for the municipal power works.

Men Curlers Had Full Programme

Activities during the current and past week at Lachute Men's Curling Club show no lack of interest, either in the contests or the social sidelights of the season.

The Junior Mackie Cup finals ended victory to W. M. Cottingham's team with a one-point margin over a rink skipped by Ed. Beaton. The line-ups and scores were:

Jos. Belanger, J. Skuffham, F. Earle, E. Beaton (Skip) 12.
L. Cruise, E. Dawson, Geo. Muir, W. Cottingham (Skip) 13

The Houston Cup holders vanquished a challenging team, and Jno. A. MacKimmie's foursome remained proprietors of the time-honored trophy:

Geo. Muir, W. J. Deacon, J. Falconer, Jno. A. MacKimmie (Skip) 11.

G. Duhamel, H. Scott, W. K. McArthur, R. Hamilton (Skip) 6.

Lachute players were aggregate winners by a one-point margin when visiting the Hawkesbury Club last Wednesday. The local teams were:

R. Langille, C. S. Parnell, J. W. Gall, J. R. Charron (Skip).

G. Duhamel, S. Campbell, R. Todd, J. Berwick (Skip).

The aggregate count was 32-31 for Lachute, each visiting team winning and losing one game.

Thursday's club supper was enjoyed by a good attendance of members.

Last Saturday, again, the holders of the Houston Cup were able to retain possession, defeating their challengers as follows:

Holders	Challengers
Geo. Muir	C. Cunningham
W. J. Deacon	Ed. Beaton
J. Falconer	R. Langille
J. A. MacKimmie	J. A. Rice
(Skip)—8	(Skip)—6

Winners of the Shield in Granite Bonspiel were decided on Wednesday, Mr. Hamilton's rink claiming the honors:

W. S. MacKimmie	H. McFaul
W. J. Deacon	H. Scott
J. Falconer	W. K. McArthur
John MacKimmie	R. Hamilton
(Skip)—6	(Skip)—13

The winning team will represent Lachute Club in Montreal at the Elgin Trophy games on March 6 and 7.

The club supper is being held on Friday instead of this evening. Two teams from St. George's Club, Montreal will be the guests. In the evening they will compete with Lachute for the District Medals, and Lachute teams will go to St. George's on Saturday for finals.

Bigger and Better was this Mardi Gras Masquerade

More than usual enthusiasm was noted in the Mardi Gras masquerade, in which 35 ladies and 33 gentlemen vied with each other in startling and ingenious costumes; they presented an attractive scene at the club rooms Tuesday evening. Many famed and notorious characters were portrayed, in costumes which had taxed the originality of the wearer and the skill of the seamstress. It was a gay event, an occasion not lacking in humor.

Prizes for the best costumes were won by Mrs. R. Richardson among the ladies and Robt. Todd among the gentlemen. Winners of the bonspiel prizes were:

H. McFaul, J. Falconer, Mrs. Jas. MacKimmie Jr., and S. S. Campbell (Skip).

Ladies' Curling During the Week

One rink represented the Lachute Ladies' Curling Club in the Sewell Trophy Competition at Seignior Club last week, winning their first game from Rideau, but losing to Toronto Granite and Rideau Clubs. The players were:

Mrs. Ardill, Mrs. G. Mitchell, Mrs. J. M. Drew, Mrs. W. Cottingham (Skip).

Mrs. B. S. MacKenzie's rink from Rideau Curling Club were the winners.

A Junior and Senior Bonspiel was played last week while the curlers were at Lucerne. The winners were as follows:

Juniors:—Mrs. A. A. Hills, Mrs. G. Y. Deacon, Mrs. S. S. Campbell, Mrs. Robt. Hamilton (Skip).

Seniors:—Mrs. Brennan, Mrs. M. Gall, Miss A. Riddell, Mrs. J. A. MacGibbon (Skip).

Three Montreal rinks visited the local club on Tuesday to play friendly games. The players and scores were as follows:

Royal Montreal, Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. Green, Mrs. Peiler, Mrs. Carnell (Skip)—10.

Lachute, Mrs. Charron, Mrs. Hamilton, Mrs. W. J. Deacon, Mrs. Middleton (Skip)—11.

St. Lawrence, Mrs. Forbes, Mrs. Kilgour, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Anderson (Skip)—6.

Lachute, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. H. Giles, Mrs. J. W. Gall, Mrs. E. H. Wilson (Skip)—18.

Outremont, Mrs. Burgess,

Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Hughes (Skip)—8.

Lachute, Mrs. Jas. A. MacKimmie, Mrs. M. Gall, Mrs. G. G. Mitchell, Miss E. Fraser (Skip)—19.

Royal Montreal were the prize winners.

Lions Rink is Sure of Mahoney Trophy

The Michael Mahoney curling presentation drew friendly rivalry between three Lions' Club rinks. The trophy was put up to encourage inter-club visits — and Ottawa, Montreal and Lachute clubs entered wholeheartedly into the contest.

On Wednesday last Montreal and Ottawa Lions curlers visited here, and Lachute were winners in both instances—against the Montreal players with 15-5, and against Ottawa with 16-13, an extra end being played in the latter engagement.

On Thursday the Montreal Lions received Lachute and Ottawa delegations, and Lachute was again victorious over Montreal with 12-9.

As the Montreal Club defeated Ottawa, both these teams stand with two losses, against Lachute's three wins out of four games. Thus the local Lions are sure of the trophy, but will pay their visit to Ottawa just the same on March 3rd.

CARPET BOWLING

gathering were called upon to exchange partners, a feature which helped to promote the friendly spirit of the occasion. Rev. Mr. Rosborough presided over a select programme.

Little Miss May Gordon sang very prettily "When I grow up", and responded with a well-merited encore. Miss Edna Aitkin, talented young elocutionist, related in a humorous manner the experience of "getting her picture taken", and was received with applause.

Mr. A. Fassio, whose violin selections are always a source of enjoyment, played several numbers, the audience being invited to join in singing some of the popular airs. A pleasing contribution was also the musical numbers presented by Mr. Fournier, who produced exquisite melody from a saw. Mr. O. Todd scored a success in his Amateur Hour triumph, "The Farmer's Lament." Miss Ruth Todd proved an efficient accompanist.

Rev. Rosborough thanked all present for the happy manner in which they had come together and ensured the success of this social, and also for the good will manifested in church effort.

Refreshments were served by the gentlemen, sponsors of the occasion, and a pleasant evening was concluded with the singing of Auld Lang Syne and the National Anthem.

At a card party in the basement of St. Jerome Church last week the net proceeds of $1,000 were raised in aid of the poor of the parish.

which we were hitherto lacking. An executive committee has been formed, and the C.I.L. Employees' Social Club have encouraged and assisted the work. Mrs. E. Smillie is Hon. Secretary.

HOCKEY

The final whistle which ended the game between Brownsburg and Hawkesbury, leaving the visitors victors by the score of 6-2, meant more than another game to Brownsburg—it also marked the end of our boys' hopes to make the playoffs. This season has been disastrous from a winning standpoint, but pregnant with experience to meet the need of a thorough reorganization for the coming years. The young blood introduced this season was not able to measure up to the standard required to carry the team through its transition period, with the same glamour which characterized the 'Burg teams of previous years. Nevertheless, its inclusion has justified itself beyond doubt. The experience gained will be of incalculable value in other years; some minor changes remain to be made before the completion of the team as a smooth working unit. Then a period of careful training should produce an aggregation worthy of the Brownsburg tradition. During the present season Brownsburg gave a good account of itself against some splendid, well-trained teams in the new and enlarged league. Now it will be our pleasure to cheer onward our late opponents, and may the best team win.

BOWLING

Brownsburg team leads the Canadian Telegraphic Bowling League in the race for first place, now nearing an end. Several other Brownsburg teams are well up on the lists, and it is expected that numerous prizes will be coming this way when the competition ends.

HOCKEY RAFFLE

A raffle organized in aid of the hockey team and held over from last season will take place at the Social Club on Saturday evening at 8 p.m. The draw will take place in the Library.

Incidentally Mr. Foley's brother, who is now in London, and has been a visitor with his relatives here on previous occasions, was fortunate enough to be present at the Olympics hockey in Germany.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

At Home With Your Camera

This room has medium colored walls and a variety of tones in the furnishings. Taken at 20 seconds, f22, lens focused at 15 feet.

FURNITURE dealers report a substantial increase in business. Are you numbered among those who have refurnished a room or added new furniture or decorations?

If so you should take a picture of this rejuvenated room. Instead of merely writing friends or relatives about the new dining room, bedroom or living room suit you can send them pictures. Maybe you have a new nursery!

Don't put off taking these pictures any longer for making them is not at all difficult; in fact you will enjoy it. Here are a few pointers that may help you in making your first shots.

If you take your interior pictures in the daytime the chances are that you will have to take a time exposure unless your camera is equipped with a very fast lens, say f3.5 or faster. If a time exposure is necessary you will have to use a tripod or else place the camera on some solid support such as a table. Even with an f3.5 lens you should have some substantial support for your camera for you will probably find it necessary to take your shot at 1/5th or 1/10th of a second, and at speeds slower than 1/25th of a second it is extremely difficult to hold the camera steady. Any movement of the camera will cause a blurred picture.

The secret of success in indoor pictures lies in controlling the light reaching the various parts of the room to be pictured. To begin with, never point your camera directly at the window or door through which the greatest amount of light is coming. Keep the light behind or to the side of the camera. If, as sometimes happens, a sunny window is in a particular part of the house you want to take, you can eliminate sun-glare by a very simple trick. Pull the shade of that particular window clear down and keep it down for an exposure long enough to give you the other features and details. Then, close the shutter and run the shade up to its normal position. Now, go back to the camera and, without changing the film or the camera's position, open the shutter again for a half second longer.

It is a good idea to use a very small lens stop in taking indoor pictures, because you want detail. Focus on a point about half-way between the camera and the far side of the room; then, when the lens is stopped down you will find that practically everything is in sharp focus.

Avoid including large pieces of furniture in the foreground, lest they take up more space in the picture than they deserve.

Exposure time will vary, of course, with the brilliance of the daylight and the degree to which the walls reflect light. On a bright day, pictures in a predominantly light colored room can be taken with an exposure of five or ten seconds. On dull days, in dark rooms having only one window, you will need as much as five minutes, with the lens at f16.

Interior pictures serve, too, as "memory insurance" for in years to come when members of your family have "grown up" they will enjoy looking at the snaps of the "old homestead" taken when they were youngsters.

THESE FACTS ABOUT BRAN HAVE BEEN PROVED BY TESTS

Supplies Gently Acting "Bulk" to Aid Regular Habits

Now and then, in talking with your friends, the subject of bran has come up. So that real facts might replace unsupported opinions, the Kellogg Company has aided for some years research in leading nutrition laboratories.

Studies made on a group of healthy women showed that two tablespoonsful of bran daily continued to relieve constipation over a period of months. How different from cathartics—where dosage often must be increased.

Another series of tests on men indicated that, with some people, the "bulk" in bran was much more effective than that found in fruits and vegetables.

Further tests showed that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provided vitamin B and iron as well as "bulk." This "bulk" absorbs moisture, and gently exercises and cleanses the system—the right way to correct constipation.

Serve ALL-BRAN regularly for regularity. Either as a cereal, with milk or cream, or in cooked dishes. It is a natural laxative food. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

Mary did not find Nolan's hill as pleasant a place to slide on as she had expected, for it took her almost out onto the highway, each time. It was a delightfully long slide, but Mary knew she was doing wrong to slide there. Her father and mother had often spoken to her about the dangers of Nolan's hill.

"Oh well, I am Contrary Mary. I can slide here when other children can't," she said to herself with a nervous little giggle. So she went on sliding, taking care to put her brakes on as she approached the bottom of the hill.

"Why are there brakes on a sled—if not to slide on dangerous hills!" she argued. She had enjoyed a number of slides, but the fun of sliding alone was beginning to pall when Jackie Tyndall came over and said, "C'mon, Mary. Come back and slide with the others. You know your dad wouldn't want you to slide here." Mary had thought that Jackie had come because he was sorry for her and wanted her to come back and slide with him. But seeing that it was only to boss her, she would not go. "I'm Contrary Mary," she said, with a proud little toss of her head and slid away from him.

She was so cross and excited that she forgot all about her brakes, and if the driver of the big blue car had not been on the look-out for the small flying figure which he had sighted as he turned the corner, things might have been very much worse. He applied his brakes and stopped, just as Mary's little sleigh came flying onto the highway. But he was not far enough back to prevent her from striking the front wheel with one ankle as her sleigh shot by and landed in the snow bank on the other side of the road. "Contrary Mary, oh Contrary Mary!" he murmured, as he gathered her up in his arms, placed her in the car and drove with all possible speed to Dr. Kelly's house.

"A broken ankle that will keep her in the house for the rest of the winter, Mr. King," said Dr. Kelly, after he had examined Mary very carefully, "and a good lesson too, I hope. These children should know better than to slide on hills that lead out over the highway."

Mary, who had returned to consciousness as Dr. Kelly was bandaging her ankle, cried out "Daddy! what did you hit me for?" Sitting down beside her, her father laughed rather weakly. "It was you who hit me, Mary. What were you doing sliding on that hill?" "I was—I was being contrary," Mary murmured, half ashamed.

"Well, you have paid for it this time, my girl," Dr. Kelly said, "You will miss all the taffy parties and the spring flower-picking, and all the general fun."

Mary's lips quivered. "I don't think that it pays to be contrary."

"I don't think it does either, Mary," said the doctor. "And now, as I have ordered your mother away for a rest you are not to be contrary and cry for her to stay home with you. Why should she be punished because you have been naughty?"

Mary looked at her father with sorrowful eyes. "Daddy," she pleaded, "help me not to be Contrary Mary any more. Don't let Mummy know that I want her to stay with me."

"We won't, Mary Wee," whispered her daddy. "You and Grannie and I will manage this all by ourselves and let Mother have her holiday."

When Mary begged her mother to go on her intended visit, her mother said "Mary, you are just being contrary, I do believe." But Grannie Perry added "But what an unselfish contrariness!"

More Rats Than People

A single rat does far less harm in a year than one of the larger mammals, such as a lion, tiger or wolf; but the larger mammals of prey are comparatively few in number, while rats are exceedingly abundant. North America, or any other continent, has probably as many rats as people—possibly two or three times as many. The destruction wrought by this vast horde of rodents is far greater than that wrought by lions, tigers, wolves and all other noxious mammals together.

Overcoming Faults

It is not so much being free from faults and imperfections as overcoming them that is an advantage to us; it being with follies and weaknesses and errors, as with the weeds of a field, which, if destroyed on the soil where they grow, enrich and improve it, more than if they had never sprung up there.

Only one-tenth the size of its American namesake, Toledo in Spain is nevertheless one of the greatest cities in the world for antiques. For more than a thousand years Goths, Moors, Jews and Spaniards have enriched the city with priceless objects.

responsibilities over when their church is annexed by another, they unite with the church nearest their own home—which makes the amalgamated church the loser in many respects.) Of the 67 auxiliaries, seven reached their allocation and 23 exceeded it, nine of them by a ten percent increase of givings.

The general theme of the meetings was the World-Wide Fellowship of Christians. Mrs. Murray Brooks of Emmanuel Church, welcoming the delegates, claimed that we were a group of women, a part of this movement for World-Wide Fellowship, in spite of the fact that at this time politicians and armament makers seemed intent on ending civilization.

Mrs. J. I. Murdoch, president of the Montreal - Ottawa Conference Branch, brought greetings, stating that 1935 had been an intensely interesting year, and bade us be thankful for the "Joy of Service". The deepening of spiritual life is one objective to which we can measure up. Our W. M. S. is one society in which we can make new starts, said Mrs. Murdoch, and concluded with the admonition that we strive for the four f's—"More faith, more facts, more friends, more funds."

Mrs. R. H. Mitchell, in her report, said that, out of a membership of 24 executive officers, 20 had attended the nine executive meetings of the year, specially mentioning Mrs. Ralph Collins, returned missionary from Africa and a former member of Emmanuel Church, as an interesting and outstanding speaker during the year. Hearing some of Mrs. Collins' tales of her journeys through Africa later, we were equally impressed. One of them related how an entire African village had moved down into a dark valley through their fear of hyenas, which they believed were witches, in animal form with power to take the shape of human beings whenever they wished.

This superstition had grown out of a tradition that hyenas had been responsible for the abduction of a baby one evening in this village of Donga, which had later moved down into the valley. Mrs. Collins told of proceeding to another village, to find that it had moved too, but unlike the first village it had moved up onto the hill and was being built in clean surroundings. She compared this village under Christian teaching, climbing up, while the other fear-ridden, un-Christian village sank down into deep darkness.

Mrs. E. J. McLelland, acting president, said that the W.M.S. Presbyterian were depending upon the local societies and Christian homes to see this work through with individual service, as we are all "His witnesses." Mrs. G. E. Forbes, president of the Dominion Board, addressed the meetings several times and was much enjoyed in her talk on "Tomorrow's Opportunities," also on "College Girls of the Orient," and "Toward a Christian World". Mrs. Forbes had recently attended a World W.M.S. meeting at New York, and passed on many of her impressions. One of her tales followed closely upon the message of Mrs. McLelland, on individual service.

Mrs. Forbes spoke of a community where the villagers planned to give their priest a barrel of wine as a gift. To make it more personal, each person brought a bottle of wine and emptied it into the barrel. When the good priest went to draw out some wine, he found there was nothing there but water. Each of the donors, evidently, had thought there would be so much wine in the barrel that his little bottle of water would never be noticed. Mrs. Forbes compared this tale with individual service in the W. M. S. work, where different members were so prone to stay at home from meetings, thinking that they would not be missed among so many—or to neglect their donating and doing because there would be others

A PLEA FOR PLEASANT FICTION.

One of our Canadian magazines has just arrived and every story seems to be concerned with battle, murder or sudden death. Personally I am tired of unpleasantness in our stories. Life is real, life is earnest, but surely it is not all unpleasant. Probably I am what is termed an "escape reader," that is I want to escape from the realities of life. My own life is not filled with sadness nor unpleasantness and why should I have to read eternally about it. I am not asking for a sugar coated pill but why cannot our fiction writers see some of the success, the pleasantness, the happiness and the comedy of life instead of the tragedy and disaster? The difficult times that the world has been going through may have something to do with the colour of the literature but I think that there are many like myself who do not want to be harrowed either in our reading or our pictures. There are those who enjoy a good cry but I am not one of them.

TOMATO JUICE IN THE MID-MORNING

The small child usually requires something to eat between meals. This should be planned for in relation to the rest of his meals and he should not be given just anything that is handy. It is a good plan to save the orange or tomato juice until eleven o'clock and to give it then. This will satisfy him but will not be enough to spoil his dinner. It is often found that if milk is given between meals, then the appetite for the next meal is spoiled. The fat in the milk is slow to leave the stomach and leaves the child feeling satisfied. It is for this reason the child will often gain more on tomato juice or orange juice than he will with milk between meals even though the milk has added calories. Milk is a most important food but is better given at the end of a meal. When the preschool child awakens up, which should be around two-thirty, he may have a glass of milk then, as it is long enough before the next meal so that the appetite will not be spoiled.

BUTTER SCOTCH SQUARES

- 1/2 cup butter
- 1 cup brown sugar
- 1 egg
- 1/4 cup chopped nuts
- 7/8 cup flour
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Melt butter, blend in sugar and cool to luke warm. Add unbeaten egg and stir vigorously until mixed. Sift the flour then measure it and add baking powder and salt. Sift into the mixture, add nuts and vanilla and stir until blended. Spread in a pan about 10" by 10" and bake at 350 degrees for 15 minutes. Cut in squares. These are delicious chewy little cakes. The last time I made them I used Brazil nuts. They were nice for a change but as they are rather bland they did not have as much flavour as the more unusual walnuts.

CHEESE SOUFFLE

- 3 tablespoons quick tapioca
- 1 cup milk scalded
- 1 cup grated cheese
- 3 eggs
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Add tapioca to milk and cook in the double boiler for 15 minutes stirring occasionally. Add cheese and stir until melted. Cool and add well beaten egg yolks, salt and Worcestershire sauce. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in a greased baking dish placed in a pan of hot water. Bake for an hour in a moderate oven of 350 degrees.

to do what they left undone; thus they lost the joy of serving, and detracted from the achievements of their societies. "We are," said Mrs. Forbes, "charged with responsibilities. Yesterday's achievements are today's tasks and to-morrow's opportunities." Mrs. Forbes also told of the coal-heaver who found such joy in his work, seeing not the lumps of black, dirty coal he was handling, but the light, power and warmth that this coal gave to the world, feeling that in the mere handling of it he was ministering to the world itself.

Mrs. W. D. Lighthall read a letter from far-off India, which told of 50,000 people in the "Valley of Decision" as it were, who were meeting in conference on an appointed day to decide whether they would give up Hindooism for something better. A cable of encouragement was sent them from the Presbyterian.

Rev. David MacLennan, in his greetings, saluted the W.M.S. as one of the societies for the real conservation of mission work. He jocularly referred to back-seat driving, which was usually not appreciated, but in this case he claimed it was a high service which the women were rendering to humanity.

Mr. Guy Tombs, in bringing greetings from the Presbytery, also amusingly remarked that, having in mind some of the gatherings which he had to preside over and noting the gathering before him, he would gladly if it were possible make an exchange. He complimented the ladies of the W. M. S. for the method of handling their finances — getting their money before they spent it, and begged the help of the ladies in their various churches in making those services more interesting and the churches more attractive. Mr. Tombs claimed that one of the greatest crimes of the age was indifference. It was the cause of most of the world troubles. Indifference, he said, is death itself.

Rev. R. G. Katsunoff favored with a solo, and also sang with his quartet, who are open for concert engagements. Mrs. A.W. Schell, well known in this vicinity, favored with a beautiful solo, Mrs. D. Kirk and Mr. M. Brooks also contributing vocal selections.

Mrs. S. Granger, reporting on temperance work, put in a strong plea that all present should write letters of protest to newspapers publishing liquor ads. The young people of the Church of All Nations staged a pageant in song and costume, called "The New Canadian and the Church", which as well as being entertaining, fitted beautifully into the theme of the meetings, namely "The World-Wide Fellowship of Christians."

For Free Education at Public Expense

What are we going to do to eliminate closed schools, the deprivation of children's education and the wageless teacher? The answer to this question (writes Mrs. G. F. W. Kuhring of Lakefield as Provincial W. I. Convenor for Education and Better Schools) would seem to be free education at public expense — justified because this, better than anything else, can make Canada a better place in which to live and a better place in which to make a living. These are the dividends that substantially justify society in making a tremendous investment in education. Education must be free to insure that all youth may be bettered by its programme. This education must be compulsory until each individual is least developed to the point of being a positive asset to society. Ignorance, superstition, want and misery — these education tends to re-

UP AND AWAY FROM THE BROW is the new rule of coiffures. An elongated row of curls gives a continuous roll from front to back, and the rest of the head is kept as smooth as possible. It is called the "Pompadour for Spring 1936", and there are so many variations that it can be adapted to almost any profile. Try it for a new effect and a definite rise in spirits.

TIME FASHIONS—There's no excuse at all for being late this season. WATCHES have become such a vogue that they've deserted the traditional wrist for several newer places in the scheme of things. You'll find them in the belt of the Watch Dress... peeping through tailored pockets... reposing on newest handbags... hanging in jauntiest fob pin style from tailored lapels, or if you still incline to the wrist you may loop them over your sleeve by the fob cord which many of them have acquired.

THE FLOWERS THAT BLOOM IN THE SPRING... they are absolutely everywhere this year. We don't wait for nature to produce them but wear the gayest, happiest copies you ever saw. You'll be putting them spunk in front of your hat... on the lapel of your tailored suit and under your chin on many a frock. You'll want them in the patterns of your prints and in the daintiest of lingerie versions, too.

YOUR MANNISH SUIT, according to latest reports from New York and recent examples about town, will look ever so smart with a dash of feminine detail. For instance—a frilly, ruffly feminine blouse or vestee will be exactly the right touch with an otherwise strictly tailored outfit. Again, the use of flowers on your lapel or a Gay Ninety air about your sailor hat will do the trick.

COPPER TONES are the last word in hose. Bright and definite in hue they team up with the grey, the navy and the other blues you'll be hearing much about as the season advances.

KNITTED WEAR follows the trend to colour. New arrivals for wear under fur coats now stick to the two and three piece versions but you could never mistake them for other than 1936. That because of their colour: vivid but becoming blues, rusts, greens, red and gold tones are in evidence, because of the Chinese influence which Paris has chosen to interpret this way. Dark tones you'll continue to see, but invariably they'll have a highlight in plaid, stripe or monotone to lift them out of the ordinary.

The Homework Question

"To be or not to be". That is the question which every teacher must face and every parent should consider. To my way of thinking there should be no homework in Public Schools. The working-day of the adult has been shortened but the working-day of the child, that is the hours spent in school, remains the same. It is a long enough working day for any child and should not have hours added to it at night. Important as school work is it is not the only thing to be considered in a child's education. There should be time for music, for reading, for any of the hobbies that a child may develop. If there is home work to do something must suffer and too often it is the sleep of the child which is sacrificed. A school child should have a minimum of ten and a half hours sleep and the younger ones eleven. Are your children getting it? The child whose parents can help with the homework has an advantage over the child who comes from a home with lower educational standards and in school work there should be an equal chance for all, as far as is possible. The home-work situation in most High Schools needs attention. Each teacher sees only her own subject and does not realise the amount that is being assigned. The conscientious child is apt to over-work or worry because the work is not being done. Most of them feel the futility of it and end by not trying to do any, or doing as little as they can get away with. I heard a High School principal say that no pupil was expected to do more than two hours homework. No wonder children get tired of school. Any adult who had to work at his job both day and night would get tired of it too. It has been said that homework is the refuge of the lazy teacher. More often it is the device of an over-anxious teacher.

Late Miss Eliza Goudie
of Grenville

Many old friends, relatives and neighbors of Miss Eliza Goudie gathered at Grenville on Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 19th., to pay their last tribute to a beloved member of the community.

The funeral service was conducted at her late home in Grenville, by the Rev. John Back, of Hawkesbury, assisted by Mr. Geo. Porteous of Montreal. Her favorite hymn, "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" was sung as a solo by Mrs. Graham. Miss Goudie was a faithful member of the Presbyterian church and an earnest Christian. She was born 94 years ago at Little Rideau, Ont., the daughter of the late Andrew and Christian Goudie. For the last 36 years she had been a resident of Grenville.

Miss Goudie was highly esteemed by everyone; to know her was to love her. She always had a smile, a helping hand and a helpful word for everyone, and spread gladness wherever she went. Her whole life was one of loyalty, truth and devotion, and her passing caused keen regret to a wide circle of friends and very deep sorrow to those to whom she was very dear.

Left to mourn her passing are one brother, R. F. Goudie, Seattle, Wash., her sister-in-law, Mrs. A. Goudie, Grenville, Que., two nieces and six nephews: Mrs. John MacKay; Mrs. C. W. Place, Ottawa; Messrs. Lorne Goudie and W. K. Goudie, Ottawa; S. D. Goudie, Laprairie, Que., R. F. Goudie, Toronto; Alex. Goudie, Hamilton, Bermuda, and Andrew Chambers, Windsor, Ont.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE
SUNDAY SERVICES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, Mar. 1st., is "Christ Jesus."

The Golden Text is:—"Unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given: and the government shall be upon his shoulder." (Isaiah 9: 6).

"Behold my servant, whom I uphold; mine elect, in whom my soul delighteth; I have put my spirit upon him: he shall bring forth judgment to the Gentiles. He shall not fail nor be discouraged, till he have set judgment in the earth: and the isles shall wait for his law." (Isaiah 42: 1, 4.)

"Jesus was born of Mary. Christ is the true idea voicing good, the divine message from God speaking to the human consciousness. The Christ is incorporeal, spiritual, yea, the divine image and likeness, dispelling the illusions of the senses; the Way, the Truth, and the Life, healing the sick and casting out evils, destroying sin, disease, and death." (Science and Health, page 332).
