Jury Returned Verdict of Accidental Death in Recent Grenville Tragedy

BELIEVE VICTIM WAS DROWNED UPSTREAM FROM LOCK NO. 7

FOUL PLAY THEORY UNSUBSTANTIATED

A verdict of accidental death by drowning was returned by a coroner's jury at Grenville last Thursday in the case of Osias Brisbois, 31, whose body was recovered from the Grenville-Carillon canal in the morning of the same day. An autopsy showed that there were no marks of violence on the body.

The suggestion of foul play, advanced by relatives and friends of the dead man because of his mysterious disappearance the previous Friday, had been scouted by Montreal detectives who had been investigating the case.

Witnesses heard were Dr. J.

Duplessis Demands Honesty in Provl. Civil Servants

PREMIER UPROOTING "PARASITES", RETAINING HONEST EMPLOYEES

Government employees have no reason to fear as to the security of their employment; dishonest employees are in the same class as soldiers who betray their orders on the battlefield.

This—writes Abel Vineberg in the Montreal Gazette—is the dictum which Hon. Maurice Duplessis, Premier of Quebec, issued to thousands of Government employees when he received newspapermen this week and the question of dismissals and resignations arose.

The Premier reiterated what he had said on the election platform, and upon taking office. He referred to the fact that there had been a series of appointments, but emphasized that too much attention should not be paid to such matters, since they were only secondary, for the Government had not come into power to provide jobs. Some inspectors to administer the Old Age Pensions law had been named, in each case on a salary, the Premier remarking this was the better system, and thousands of dollars would be saved by the change.

"We have been probing into various departments, and unearthed many things," commented the Premier. "We found, for example, that the Liquor Commission gave cases of liquor to friends under the pretence of credit accounts."

Another change made was in the payment of the salaries of the whole interior service. It has been the practice to pay such employees in advance, once a month. In future they will be paid twice a month, on the 15th and last of the month, and not in advance. This would mean saving of interest charges for the Government.

"We are continuing the enquiry with a view towards economies, for we mean to uproot the parasites—those, for example, who have three salaries—and to keep the honest people," said the Premier.

Praise makes good men better and bad men worse.

Bible Still Best Seller

The Bible is still the best seller. Last year more than 500,000 copies of the Bible and 355,000 copies of the New Testament were issued by the British and Foreign Bible Society. The Bible, or portions of it, now appears in 700 languages. One of the most encouraging features was the steady increase of sales last year in China.

Nantel Is Probable Candidate for St. Jerome Mayor

Leopold Nantel, new Crown Prosecutor for this territory and a former alderman and mayor of St. Jerome, will probably be a candidate for mayoralty honors in the coming municipal elections of that town.

Mr. Nantel was elected as alderman to the council in 1923 and served three terms. He retired for one year and then was elected mayor for the term of 1929 and 1930. It is stated that Mr. Nantel will be approached to allow his name to be presented, and citizens believe he will accept.

Atrocities in Spain ... Quebec Seeks English Capital ... The U. S. Presidential Campaign and Trade Agreements

THE SPANISH CRISIS.

The present civil war in Spain (there has been a number of them in that unhappy country during the last two decades!) has been marked by some of the most diabolical atrocities, the most execrable murders, and the most horrible outrages which have ever characterized the history of that blood-lust monster, Mars. The bitterness of the struggle is developing into a long drawn out campaign of extermination and revenge, from which a prolonged period of want and misery can be the only outcome. The twin foes of Democracy—Communism and Fascism—have made a devil's playground of this ancient country and its historic landmarks, and with the destruction of its beautiful buildings and cultured civilization, these rival philosophies fight it out for the doubtful honour of possessing the corpse of the once beautiful Spain.

SECESSION OF QUEBEC

The best argument against the separation of the Province of Quebec from the Federal union of Canada is the announcement of Premier Maurice Duplessis that plans are under way to float a large loan on the English money market. During the last election campaign considerable prominence was given to a report that the Union National party favoured secession for Quebec. Very little thought would have been required to discover the futility of such a course, if indeed such was ever intended. Quebec is reputed to be a comfortably wealthy unit, but it has often been proved that capital is a very shy bird and very easily frightened. At the present moment taxes are too high in this province and very little has been done to encourage the honesty and stability which are essential to the progress so much needed. That Canadian security is sound goes without saying, but some rude shocks have been administered to the confidence so necessary to maintain the soundness of Canadian security, by political mountebanks vending the wares of their own selfish advancement.

LOAN EXHIBIT AND HISTORICAL SOCIETY'S ANNUAL MEETING SAME EVENING

Lord Bishop of Montreal to Dedicate Abbott Memorial at Christ Church

The village of St. Andrews East will be en fête next Saturday to welcome His Excellency Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General of Canada, who is to unveil the memorial tablet in Christ Church to the memory of Sir John Joseph Caldwell Abbott. This and other memorial tablets will be dedicated by the Lord Bishop of Montreal, and among the distinguished guests expected are the Hon. Fernand Rinfret, Secretary of State, Hon. Arthur Meighen, Sir George and Lady Perley, Sir Edward Beatty, Sir Charles and Lady Gordon. It is anticipated that the Vice-regal party will arrive about the noon hour, when a welcome will be extended by Mayor W. Pitcairn and members of the Council, afterwards proceeding to the Abbott home where luncheon is to be served.

The service in the church takes place at 2.30 p.m. Loud speakers have been erected in order that everyone may be able to participate.

Immediately following the dedication service a special preview of the Argenteuil Historical Society's Loan Exhibit will be held for the Vice-regal party and other honored guests. This loan exhibit, which includes many rare and interesting curios, will afterwards be open to the public. The Society will hold its annual meeting in the evening and during the interim a pleasant social interlude is expected at the Town Hall, where the exhibition has been arranged under supervision of Mr. Shirley Simpson as custodian of those valuable relics.

SPECULATION ON PROVL. APPOINTMENTS HERE

Following on the displacement of the Taschereau regime in Quebec, covetous eyes have been turned upon the various provincial appointments to be made in this county. Some of these, notably in the roads department, are already filled, with consequent discontent on the part of those who feel they have a prior right to the jobs. There are several good positions yet to be filled, and much speculation is heard as to those in line for the appointments.

News Readers Enjoy Prompt City Service

Subscribers to the Montreal Daily Star are enjoying the new delivery service started recently here in Lachute. In fact, there is something of big city luxury in having one's evening paper delivered at the door, in time for perusal at the supper table if so desired. Lachute folks find the experience a rare treat, after the custom of collecting their daily paper from the post-office. This innovation by The Star, in engaging boys to make door-to-door delivery, is much appreciated by local readers.

Lachute couple Celebrate Their Golden Wedding

Saturday last, September 26, was the occasion of a happy gathering in MacArthur's Hall to honor Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Stevenson, who celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary. About 30 friends and relatives sat down to a dainty meal served by ladies of the Orange Lodge, the Rev. Henry Cousens presiding as chairman. During the evening dancing and cards were enjoyed. Mr. W. S. MacKimmie officiated at the piano. Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson have been residing in Lachute for the past three years. They were the recipients of numerous presents and good wishes for many more years of wedded happiness.

MINING SCHOLARSHIPS GIVEN BY QUEBEC

Mines Minister Gagnon has announced the Quebec Government will award 30 mining scholarships at the Universities de Laval, in Quebec, Montreal and McGill in Montreal, and Queen's in Kingston, Ont., during the present scholastic year.

The Queen's scholarship will be valued at $650 and the others at $500 provided the winning student resides within 25 miles of the city where the university is located. Otherwise the value of the scholarship is automatically increased in the three latter cases to $600.

Winners of the awards and their parents must be British subjects, and winning students will be selected by Mr. Gagnon on the recommendation of representatives from each of the universities.

Trade Agreements Have Brought Definite Benefit to Farmers ... Government Perseveres with Housing Assistance

Ottawa, Sept. 29.—Canadian farmers in various parts of the country appear to have secured larger markets in the United States as a result of the trade agreement signed a year ago. The new tariff rates have been operating since January 1st, and the figures for eight months are quite encouraging. It is always difficult to assign to any one particular cause any national events, because modern life and commerce have become extremely complex. But there seems to be a real relationship between the lower tariff rates given Canada and the enlarged shipments of goods to the States.

Shipments of cheese, for instance, rose from a value of $45,314. in the first eight months of 1935 to $1,109,741. in 1936. Shipments of poultry rose from 77,564 lbs. to 172,473 lbs. Cream shipments rose from seven gallons to 8,094 gallons; horses, from 4,344 head to 14,495 head; poultry, from value of $5,265 to $220,382; cattle, from 81,744 head to 189,407 head; potatoes, from 232,153 bushels to 651,890 bushels; turnips, from 852,629 bushels to 1,206,424 bushels; strawberries, from 250,277 lbs to 678,002 lbs; maple sugar, from 1,539,790 lbs. to 4,736,975 lbs.

In spite of duty reductions, exports of hay, of alfalfa and grass seed, showed a decrease, but with these exceptions, all farm items on the trade agreement showed an improvement. It is quite likely that some of hoped for the coming of compulsory education. To this end it has urged, and in some places undertaken the expense of, medical inspection in schools, feeling certain that, in this Province as elsewhere, the two measures will inevitably be associated. Children cannot be compelled to attend school unless they are well in health. Only regular medical inspection can determine whether or not they are in a condition to attend school. Therefore these measures will follow one another, as beads on a string.

The third bead on the string, incidentally, will be free textbooks. Children unable to provide books for themselves cannot attend school. Therefore, free books must be provided. Other countries have all three. Why not Quebec?

FENIAN RAID VETERAN DEAD AT MILLE ISLES

LATE JAS. McARTHUR

One of the oldest and most highly respected residents of Mille Isles, Que., James McArthur, passed away on Friday, Sept. 25th., after a lengthy illness, in his eighty-sixth year.

The eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James McArthur, of Cote St. Gabriel, he spent most of his life in this vicinity. He was a veteran of the Fenian Raid of 1870. Mr. McArthur's wife, formerly Mary Campbell, predeceased him 31 years ago.

He is survived by three sons—Samuel of Arundel, George and Garfield of Mille Isles, and three daughters—Mrs. O. D. Kirkpatrick and Mrs. Norman Patterson, also of Mille Isles, and Miss Jean McArthur of Ste. Anne de Bellevue, as well as six grandchildren.

The funeral service was held on Sunday afternoon from the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. O. D. Kirkpatrick, to the Presbyterian Church at Mille Isles.

Chapter Reviewed in Connection with Unveiling of Memorial Tablet to Sir John Abbott, First Native-Born Prime Minister of Canada

BY MAUDE E. S. ABBOTT, B.A., M.D., MCGILL UNIVERSITY, MONTREAL

An article narrating the Social History of the Parish of Christ Church, St. Andrews, by Maude E. Abbott, B.A., in "The Montreal Churchman", outlines the biography of one who, born at the St. Andrews Rectory in the year 1821 and brought up in this locality, rose to a position of the highest eminence in his country's councils, alike as statesman, legislator, imperialist, political leader, and finally as Prime Minister of the Dominion—Sir John Joseph Caldwell Abbott, whom his native county of Argenteuil recognizes to-day as her greatest son.

The Old Rectory at St. Andrews East, Que., erected about 1820, in which the late Sir J. J. C. Abbott was born on March 12th., 1821.

The Watchman extracts from this article the following passages and references bearing upon Sir J. J. C. Abbott and facts of outstanding interest to this locality:

Sir J. J. C. Abbott was born some two and a half years after the arrival of his father, the Rev. Joseph Abbott, at St. Andrews, and within a year after the latter's marriage with the eldest daughter of Rev. Richard Bradford, pioneer missionary of the Church of England in the Ottawa Valley, and to his wife, Sarah Jeffery.

Following is the baptismal record from the Parish Register for 1820-21:

"John Joseph Caldwell, son of Joseph Abbott of St. Andrews, Seigneur of Argenteuil, District of Montreal, Lower Canada, Clerk, and Harriet Bradford his wife, born March twelfth in the year of Our Lord Xc., One Thousand Eight Hundred and Twenty One and privately baptised on the same day, in presence of Sarah and Eliza Bradford and publicly received into the Church on the Twenty Seventh of May of the same year. "Sponsors W. ABBOTT H. ABBOTT

"JOS. ABBOTT, Minister."

Family tradition informs us that the name Caldwell was that of the surgeon who assisted at the birth of the future Premier and it thus connotes an interesting association. This was evidently Dr. Hugh Caldwell, one of the three brothers, by name William, Hugh and Martin, who built and occupied at St. Andrews about the year 1817 that picturesque stone bungalow on the street leading to the mill, which afterwards became the residence of Mr. F. Stikeman and then of Dr. W. Maynard, and is now the property of Mr. Edmund Neve. Of these three, two were physicians and one, Dr. William Caldwell, whose name has become famous as one of the four founders of the Medical Faculty of McGill University, had removed in 1818, as we are informed by Neilson's Almanac, "from the country" to Montreal, and in this year (1821) he was occupied there on the Medical Staff of the newly organized Montreal General Hospital. Dr. Hugh Caldwell, on the other hand, remained on at St. Andrews, where he was at this time coroner for the district. His signature also appears several times in the years 1820-22 in the Parish Register of Christ Church

At the end of the seventh year of his ministry at St. Andrews, church and parsonage having been built and the congregation firmly established, Joseph Abbott elected to seek transfer to another charge. He left St. Andrews with his little family and his goods and chattels in the spring of the year 1825 on an arduous trek of one hundred miles across the country to the mission of Yamaska Mountain, which was later called "Abbottsford". No connection then existed either by rail or stage coach with this inland settlement. At this time the little John was just four years old and two other children had been born at the St. Andrews parsonage. A very clear idea of the primitive conditions under which this strenuous journey was made, is best gained by quoting directly from the pages of "Philip Musgrave", a remarkable autobiography published by Joseph Abbott himself.

"I had now a wife and family and our migratory journey was a momentous event. The cavalcade consisting of my dear wife and myself, our children and servants, with our own oxen, horses and cows, was almost worthy the pastoral age, and created quite a sensation in all the settlements through which we passed. We had no roads that deserved the name, except when the snow was on the ground, and accordingly I intended that our journey should have been in the winter. But after I had made all my preparations, sold part of my furniture, and was on the eve of starting, the Spring came upon us, two or three weeks sooner than ever it had been known to do before. The roads in many places were ankle deep in mud. "First in our order of march was a yoke of oxen in a cart loaded with our bedding and books, together with a few articles of household furniture. Then followed three milk cows, driven by a boy hired for the purpose. These were succeeded by a horse-cart laden with the cooking-stove and other kitchen utensils, with a goodly assortment of provisions. This was again followed by a light horse-cart on springs. This contained the nurse, with two of the youngest children, and a boy to drive them. Our own carriage drawn by my own horses, brought up the rear. This contained myself, my wife, and our eldest son, every corner being filled up with trunks, hand-boxes, and endless et-ceteras."

After several delays due to breaking of a spring of the carriage and of the axle of one of the wheels of the light cart, and difficulties in the crossing of two rivers at a season when the ferrymen were not yet out, the party arrived safely at their destination. They were six days and nights in transit. Five momentous years were passed at Abbottsford when, the Church having been firmly established and its edifice completed, Joseph Abbott again became imbued with the thought that he might be more usefully employed in breaking new ground for the Vineyard. A favourable opportunity presented itself, for a new mission was about to be established at Grenville, within the limits of his former one at St. Andrews, and to this he was duly appointed, on the understanding that a Church and Rectory be immediately erected. Accordingly, in June, 1830, the cavalcade again set forth, this time to retrace its steps and with a "new" baby in the cradle. (This was Mr. Harry Abbott of Vancouver, who was born at Abbottsford.) Grenville was only 15 miles from St. Andrews and it seemed best to rent a cottage at that village for the little family until a parsonage house could be built at the new Mission's headquarters. They bivouacked happily along the road and arrived without misadventure. At this time John Abbott was a schoolboy of nine years old, and the following three years were spent at St. Andrews with his mother and the other children. The head of the family meanwhile lodged at Grenville and carried on his parochial duties there while at the same time personally overseeing the construction of that fine old stone building long known as the Parish Rectory, and now the property of Mr. W. C. Crookes. Very little information is available as to when or how this building was completed, but the Rev. K. N. Brueton, Rector of Grenville, states that among the deeds extant at Grenville is a "Bargain of Sale by Edwin Pridham as attorney of Noah Freer of the City of Quebec to the Rev. Joseph Abbott of 160 acres of land (lot No. 4, 1st Concession), dated October 7th, 1833"; but he adds that the house may have been built earlier, for the lot upon which the Church was built was not deeded or granted until 1847, although the building itself had been erected fifteen years earlier. In any event this indicates that the property was bought and the house built originally with Mr. Abbott's personal funds.

In this old parsonage, with its ivy-covered stone walls and spacious garden and its library full of carefully chosen books (for his father was a man of fine literary taste), situated as it was in a sparsely populated neighborhood where reading was the only occupation and amusement when daily tasks were done, John Abbott passed the remaining years of his boyhood. "In this healthful moral atmosphere," wrote an understanding biographer during the days of his Premiership, "the eldest son of Mr. Joseph Abbott grew up to be a helping right hand to his parents, and his care of his younger brothers and sisters was unremitting in those early days as well as in his later life. Throughout many a long winter evening, while storms beat without and fierce winds whistled around the corners of the Rectory, a little group of children were held entranced in the school-room by the voice of their elder brother relating to them thrilling and wonderful adventures with a vivid, boyish eloquence, foreshadowing, and perhaps contributing, to a command of language which, in future years, would attract larger, but not more interested, audiences."

Nor was there wanting, in this formative period, that severer study and keener mental training and those vivid personal contacts, that are the products of the best type of public school life. For Sir John Abbott was one of the many youths of that time and place to whom the highest type of primary education was made available by that eminent pedagogue, Mr. George Wanless, formerly of Edinburgh, who for nearly fifty years conducted the celebrated Wanless Academy at Carillon, where most of the prominent men from Argenteuil and the surrounding country were educated. Such were the Hon. John Hamilton of Hawkesbury, and Thomas Kains of Grenville. Edward Charles Jones and Henry Barclay of Carillon, J. J. C. Abbott and Harry Abbott (late of Vancouver) and many another. Mr. Wanless was a strict disciplinarian (rather too addicted, it was said, to the use of the birch), as well as an excellent classical and mathematical scholar and he taught everything, even to a course in elocution, to his pupils, whom he prepared successfully for matriculation into McGill University. His school was a large stone building which is still standing, on the Chatham side of Carillon, beside the large grove of maples opposite the locks of the old canal. Owing to the

Late John P. Scott Is Laid to Rest

John P. Scott, a well known resident of West Gore Road, passed away in his 77th year on Thursday, Sept. 24th. Mr. Scott had lived in that section for some 37 years, where he settled from Lakefield, the place of his birth. He was married in 1885 to Margaret Patterson of Mille Isles.

His widow survives to mourn his passing, together with a family of four daughters and two sons—Ruby and Mrs. Percy Pearson; Willie of Oxbow, Sask., Wallace at home; Mrs. J. W. Scott and Mrs. Wm. A. Graham of Lachute; also one grandson, Gilbert W. Scott; two sisters and one brother—Mrs. James Arnott of Lakefield, Mrs. James Parker, and Walter, of Lachute.

The late Mr. Scott was a member of Lachute United Church. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. W. B. Rosborough, B.A., B.D., on Saturday, Sept. 26th., from the late residence, interment following at Lachute Cemetery. The pall-bearers were his four nephews and two sons-in-law—Gordon, Edgar and Melvin Scott, Arnold Parker, Wm. Graham and Walker Scott. Relatives attending from a distance included Mrs. James Stevenson of Cowansville, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Spencer of Brome, and Mr. Garnet Rogers of Sweetsburg.

distance of the Grenville Rectory from Carillon, John Abbott spent much of his school year during his later boyhood at the Priory at St. Andrews, where he lived as a beloved son in the family of his uncle, the Rev. William Abbott.

Then came the inevitable parting of the ways, when, in 1838, as a lad of seventeen, J. J. C. Abbott left the paternal roof to make his own way in the world. Proceeding first to Montreal, he secured there a position in a mercantile house but later entered the general business establishment of the Macdonalds at Gananoque. There he remained until 1843, when he returned to Montreal and entered upon the study of law at McGill College. In spite of the industry and devotion to work that always characterized him, his almost equally strong social qualities led him to mix freely in the delightful military society of that day, while at the same time he made a study of vocal music, in which he may be said to have excelled. The voice whose boyish tones had rung so clearly in the little churches at Grenville and St. Andrews now became a feature of the organized singing of the old Christ Church Cathedral Choir, which he directed and led for some six years.

Graduating now as B.C.L. from McGill he studied law in the offices of Meredith and Bethune in Montreal and in 1847 was called to the Bar of Lower Canada.

'ROBOT' TRAFFIC LIGHTS APPEAR AT HIGHWAY INTERSECTIONS

With the development of the motor car it soon became apparent that definite control of traffic in cities was necessary. In its early stages traffic control was in the hands of constables on point duty at the more important intersections during rush hours. This method of traffic control had one definite advantage in that traffic could be kept moving continuously in whatever direction demands were made. With the improvement of motor cars and in the buying power of the general public a tremendous increase in traffic resulted and it soon became apparent that more and still more policemen were needed for longer periods of time. The cost of traffic control was greatly increased on this account, and in addition, in some of the larger centres policemen were becoming poisoned by carbon monoxide gas.

The next stage in the development of traffic control was by various types of Fixed Time Sig-is almost human in its action. Detectors are placed in traffic lanes some distance from the intersection and are connected electrically to the dispatcher. A car passing over the detector sends an impulse to the dispatcher and if there is no cross traffic the car is automatically given the right of way. Should another car approach the intersection at right angles it will also make a demand upon the dispatcher, but the dispatcher will not give the right of way until the first car has been cleared through.

In the City of Montreal where traffic is exceptionally heavy and delays with the fixed time type of signal would result in long lines of waiting cars, the "Robot" type has been installed with wonderful improvement in the movement of traffic. Approximately fifty intersections have been installed.

Other cities are also taking advantage of this new type of traffic control realizing that there is a very definite demand for this class of service, which combines maximum traffic movement with maximum safety and with reasonable regard to the rights of pedestrians.

With the wonderful improvement in roads, tourist traffic in Canada is becoming increasingly greater until now there is a definite need for a "Robot" type of traffic signals on a large number of our highways. The Ontario Department of Highways has been quick to realize the advantages of a reliable "Robot" system of traffic control and has included the installation of "Robot" traffic lights where necessary, as part of their highways program.

The first of these Canadian highway installations was recently inaugurated at the junction of Yonge and Eagle Streets on the way from Toronto to Newmarket, as illustrated here.

nals. While this type of signal eliminated the necessity of policemen on duty at all except rush hours, continuous streams of traffic were not possible and there were delays, to motorists and to traffic generally, even though there was no cross traffic to prevent the flow in other directions.

Realizing the need for the development of a "Robot" Traffic System which would keep traffic moving continuously without unnecessary delays, the Northern Electric Company pioneered in Canada the first Traffic Actuated Signal System. The heart of this system is a traffic dispatcher which

COUNCILLORS RESIGNED IN PROTEST

Three councillors were left to carry on business of East Ferris Township, near North Bay, following resignation of the reeve and an alderman, because of a dispute with the Ontario Municipal Affairs Department over township schools. The resignations were in protest against the alleged delay of the Department in fulfilling a promise that the township would receive Government assistance in maintaining its schools.

bring it within the scope of a few people in more modest circumstances. There is $10,000,000 of Federal money waiting for loan approval, enough to launch a 50 million dollar project. So far only eight or nine per cent of it has been put to work, after 15 or 16 months of operation.

More ambitious housing schemes are being developed by the architects of the National Employment Commission, and we shall have, in the next session, legislation to launch subsidized building of thousands of homes for workers across the country, it is indicated.

This coming session is bound to see a revival of the 1912-13 cry for imperial and Canadian defence—if war hasn't broken out before then. There are growing indications that a body of opinion in Canada believes that we need to strengthen our coasts, and improve our air defence. Even the least jingoistic of newspapers are beginning to say that the League, on which we based our hope of the prevention of war in this generation, has lamentably failed, and that we must find assurance and aid elsewhere now. We shall hear a good deal about the Monroe doctrine, the need of a highly armed British Empire and so on.

We understand that the Lachute Waterworks Company has decided to replace the present wooden pipes with iron ones.

The Judge appointed for the district of Ottawa in place of the late Judge McDougall is the Hon. J. Wurtele. Judge Wurtele will preside at the next term of the Circuit Court in Lachute.

Business Looking Up—From the fact that new machinery has to be added to all the mills and factories in Lachute, and additions made to the buildings, one sees a positive proof that business is improving.

Arundel—A very successful social and entertainment, given by the ladies of Grace Church as a farewell to their pastor, Mr. William Harris, was held in the Township Hall, Arundel, on Thursday evening last.

them would have gained, treaty or not treaty: but it is not likely that he gains would have been so spectacular.

TO THE ANTIPODES

And now Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of Trade and Commerce, leaves for Australia and New Zealand, to negotiate new trade agreements there. Whether the present ones can be improved upon is a question not easily answered. Canada has been enjoying the better part of the bargain, judging from trade figures, with both countries, and Mr. Euler may find it necessary to offer some substantial concessions to Australia and New Zealand in order to retain the present volume of trade.

These agreements were signed in 1931 and 1932, preceding the Ottawa conference. At that time trade with both countries was at a relatively low ebb; it has grown quite remarkably since. With Australia our trade at present is the highest it ever was: with New Zealand it is quite good, but only about 40 per cent of pre-depression levels. Australia is the third best customer of Canadian produce at present; and New Zealand seventh on the list. Which illustrates the importance of the mission upon which the Minister of Trade and Commerce is leaving.

They are tinkering with the Dominion Housing Act again to see if it cannot be made a little more effective. The present government doesn't think the statute is very much use, but they found it there, on the books, and are trying to make it work. Only about 500 applicants for loans have so far been approved, providing homes and apartments for perhaps 700 persons. This doesn't touch the fringe of the housing problem in Canada. The Housing Act only assists that small class of persons with a fairly good income, some capital or land already available, and held up only by the high cost of second mortgage money. The people who need housing the worst get no help at all from the measure.

EDITORIAL

CANADA AND RUSSIA HAVE MADE UP

Russia may now resume sale of goods here and we will again sell them cows, horses, seeds and metals. Trade relations were closed February 27, 1931, because Russia was not then a party to the Treaty of Versailles. Russia may now sell us the following items under similar arrangements as apply to any country having no special agreement with us: asbestos, coal, furs, lumber and pulpwood.

WE HAVE THEM HERE, TOO!

In the presidential campaign across in the States, it appears that President Franklin D. Roosevelt has been confronted with the charge of fostering Communism. At least, he is taking pains to deny any tendencies in that direction, characterizing the Communism cry as a "false issue".

With false issues at election time, we in Quebec are very familiar, through experience. We can recall in recent years one or two such issues, which were not issues at all but mere red herrings drawn across the trail to misguide unwary voters.

There was the so-called Conscription Cry, a perennial ruse which served the ends of anti-imperialists for many a good campaign in this province. It flamed to a head in this county while Italy and Ethiopia were alarming the world with hostilities. In the provincial campaign not so long ago, a cry of Capitalism was raised against an unsuspecting contender—his accusers never, of course, seriously believing that he was allied with the big trusts. . . . Then there is the Race Cry, a time-honored missile for mud slingers in the Quebec arena, which is likely to survive so long as the Province holds elections. . . . And even in civic contests of less general importance here in Lachute, one can recall these "false issues"—such as the waterworks development, which is only now in the stage of definite discussion.

The regrettable feature of these thrusts is that they are usually released in the final stages. They are a last-minute weapon in the campaign. The victim is taken unawares by such unsavory tactics, and has no time in which to combat them. And another deplorable fact is that they swing the unthinking portion of the electorate—and, alas, one is sometimes compelled to believe this portion carries the greatest weight.

A RESPONSIBILITY OF CAPITALISM

There are those who aver that capitalism and the profit motive for supplying human needs are on the way out—yes, verily, are about to be kicked out.

Others, while admitting that ills of the system are several and serious, maintain that it can be purged and inoculated and new parts be grafted on, to the benefit of the body politic.

One of the responsibilities of capitalism should be the financial care of men during slack periods. Funds are budgeted to cover the cost of machines while idle. How much more important is it to budget for the maintenance of manpower in depression times.

Herein lies one of industry's greatest obligations to its employees and to the state. There is more personal freedom under capitalism than under any scheme yet tried in Europe. If personal security were equally assured, the co-operative industry idea would have no show against the merits of private capital.

POTATO DIGGING TIME

Forks, hoes, and plows are turning out potatoes at this time of year. In each hill are found potatoes large and potatoes small. All potatoes are not the same size. . . . Neither are people created equal. Some have large capabilities, and some have small.

Likewise, all do not have the same powers. However, some who are started out with modest powers study and work to cultivate them, while others with a better start allow theirs to dry up and wither.

The inequality of people is brought to our attention by a report of the arrest of Marie Bernard in New York, a person who pretended to cure ills with sacred snakes, which she retailed from $2.98 to $7.00 each. Her business card contained the following: "If you need to consult about love, traveling, business or any other affair, come and see this wonderful medium, Madame Marie, and she will advise you at 24 E. 109th St., Apt. 3."

Compare her, for instance, with Dr. William Hallock Park of the same city, who through his work with diphtheria anti-toxin, has saved thousands from choking to death with that dread disease.

No, people are not equal. Every one has his moral faults, but some have more than others. Let's away with this rot that one person is as good as another, and each strive toward the highest of which he may be capable.

As you are today a greater person in several ways than you were ten years ago—so are you better than someone else, who now stands where you stood ten years ago. And by the same reasoning you may yet become as fine, as worthwhile and important as someone who is now as far ahead of you as you are ahead of others.

Workmen Dig Up Log Pipe

Almost perfectly preserved, an old log pipe, which at one time formed a link in an eight-inch gas or water main, was dug up by workmen excavating a sewer connection for the new Canadian National Railway station at London, Ont. The pipe was made by hollowing a tamarack log.

Police "Racket" Curtailed

Orders have been issued to constables of two Montreal suburbs to discontinue the practice of stopping motorists for the purpose of soliciting the sale of tickets, officials of the Royal Automobile Club of Canada have been advised.

For years this practice by uniformed constables has been an annoyance to motorists and George A. McNamee, manager of the club, claimed that it had actually been detrimental to the tourist business.

This particular method of solicitation is most objectionable from the motorist's viewpoint because it almost never fails to produce results. The driver, stopped by a uniformed officer of the law, naturally believes that he has committed some offence. When he finds that he has not, his reaction is one of relief and he usually purchases the tickets or else does so for fear that he might be charged with some offence by a vindictive constable.

RETURNED VERDICT OF ACCIDENTAL DEATH

Lieut. Detective Francoeur and Sergt. Detective Fitzpatrick, of Montreal, testified that they had investigated all angles of the case and found no proof to substantiate a theory of foul play. They said that they questioned several local residents and friends of the missing man.

After hearing the evidence of the various witnesses the jury, empaneled by the district coroner, Dr. J. H. Mason, returned a verdict of accidental death caused by drowning.

Marriages

BROWNSBURG MAN IS WED IN OTTAWA

JOHNSON — HENEY

At a fashionable wedding last Saturday afternoon in St. James United Church, Ottawa, Miss Ida Roberts Heney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Heney, became the bride of Mr. Edwin Lewis Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Johnson of Montreal, formerly of Brownsburg. Rev. Norman Rawson officiated.

The ceremony in the church, prettily decorated with flowers and foliage for the occasion, was followed by a reception for relatives at the Chateau Laurier. The happy couple left later for their honeymoon at Sea Island, Georgia, and on their return will take up residence here at Brownsburg.

PRETTY WEDDING AT LACHUTE RESIDENCE

HUME — ROGERS

An attractive autumn wedding took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Rogers, Lachute, at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, when their youngest daughter, Margaret Dorothy, was united in marriage to Mr. Stewart Hume, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hume, also of Lachute. The house was decorated with autumn flowers, the wedding ceremony taking place under an arch of the same.

The bride, attended by Miss Eileen Kettyle as maid-of-honor, was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Harry Pollock, cousin of the groom, acted as best man. Rev. Mr. W. C. LeCras officiated, the wedding march being played by Mrs. LeCras.

The bride was gowned in ivory satin and rose point lace, fashioned on long lines; she wore a braided coronet of matching satin and carried a bouquet of Briarcliff roses and maiden-hair fern. The maid-of-honor was attired in pale blue organza with matching coronet, and carried Talisman roses. Mrs. Rogers, mother of the bride, wore a black figured gown of satin crepe, with metallic trimming, and a black felt hat, and a shoulder corsage of American Beauty roses and lilies-of-the-valley. Mrs. Hume, mother of the bridegroom, was gowned in black tulip satin-back crepe, with felt hat to match. Her shoulder corsage was of Talisman roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

Following the ceremony a buffet lunch was served. Among the guests were the following from out-of-town—Mrs. Ben E. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Gunn of Montreal.

WEDDED COUPLE TO RESIDE IN OTTAWA

HAY — McCOY

The marriage of Elinor Mary, youngest daughter of the late Edmund H. McCoy and Mrs. McCoy, to Mr. Donald MacPherson Hay, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hay, took place on Saturday afternoon, September 26th., in Lachute. Rev. W. B. Rosborough officiated. The wedding music was played by Miss Elizabeth MacKimmie.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Lorne McCoy, wore a gown of white Chantilly lace over taffeta, made on princess lines, the skirt forming a short train. Her veil of tulle fashioned with a cap, was held by a wreath of orange blossoms, which had been worn by her mother. She carried a bouquet of red roses and baby's breath. Attending her were her three nieces, Misses Ruth Brennan and Lois McPaul, as junior bridesmaids, and Margaret Swaine as flower girl. The bridesmaids wore

RECRUITING DAYS ARE BACK AGAIN

Britain's new scheme of recruiting for a new army among youths aged 17 to 25 is receiving great response. The youths join the army for six months, after which, they can, if they wish, re-enlist and become regular soldiers, or they can leave the army and go up for 14 days' annual training for five years. A recruiting sergeant points out the advantages of the new scheme to the first recruits to enlist at New Scotland Yard.

gowns of yellow silk organdie, with green accessories, and carried colonial bouquets of pink roses. The flower girl wore green organdie with yellow accessories, and carried a colonial bouquet of yellow roses. Mr. Ernest Boyd acted as best man.

After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Hay left on a motor trip to the eastern States. The bride travelled in a tomato red dress, with brown hat and coat and brown accessories. On their return they will reside in Ottawa.

MARRIED AT SHAWBRIDGE UN. CHURCH PARSONAGE

KIRKPATRICK — SEALE

The marriage of Alberta, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Seale, of Morin Heights, to Lyle, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Kirkpatrick, of Britonville, took place at the United parsonage, Shawbridge, on Friday afternoon, Sept. 25th. The Rev. Geo. Perrigard performed the ceremony.

The bride was gowned in blue crepe, and wore a corsage bouquet of pink roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Louena Seale, who wore a brown crepe dress. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Garnet Kirkpatrick.

Following the ceremony supper was served to the immediate relatives at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Wm. Seale, at Lake Echo. Afterwards a reception was held in the Davis Hall to a large circle of relatives and friends. The bridal couple were the recipients of a large number of wedding gifts.

"THE PASSING SCENE"

velt is the best president Canada ever had", is deserving of a little consideration.

Early this year a reciprocal trade agreement between the two countries was effected. The agreement was ratified by the Ottawa parliament, despite the strong protests of Mr. Bennett, who maintained that too large a price was being paid for what we received. The matter did not come before the U. S. Congress as the power of concluding the treaty is contained in the presidential prerogative when the period of time is limited to three years. It is certain that with the return of President Roosevelt the agreement will run its normal course of three years and then be discussed with a view of renewal. But it is not so certain that in the event of Gov. Landon's election, or the return of Mr. Lemke, that these agreements will not be cancelled.

During the eight months that these agreements have been in force, our Bureau of Statistics has some interesting figures which show the trend of business transacted. When compared with the corresponding eight months of 1935, we increased the value of our exports of items affected by the agreement by $134,000,000. We imported during the same period a corresponding increase of $28,000,000 from the U. S. Here are some of the increases contained in a general figure just quoted. Newsprint increased export $7,000,000. Lumber increased by $2,000,000. Beef cattle by $3,000,000. Horses by $1,000,000 and dairy cattle by almost a million. We imported from the U. S. under the same agreements an increase of over $10,000,00 worth of machinery, over $3,500,000 increase of agricultural machinery, and the same amount in automobiles, though we decreased our purchases of automobile parts by almost $2,000,000.

FARMERS NOT RETIRING

The other day we read a word of regret because present conditions made it impossible in a great many cases for farmers to retire and move into town. Once upon a time it was a debatable point as to the value of retired farmers to a community. Now, when farmers are not retiring there seems to be little doubt about it, and there are few owners that would not welcome once again the influx of a half dozen or so fairly well off farmers retiring from active farm life, which used to be the annual occurrence not so many years ago. Here is how an exchange referred to them recently. "These farmers, many of them comparatively well to do, made excellent citizens. They are quite frequently men of public spirit who are not unwilling to assume municipal and other public responsibilities."

Next Sunday is to be Communion Sunday in Lachute United Church. A Service Preparatory to Communion will be held on Friday evening at 8 o'clock at which the preacher will be the Rev. E. A. Martineau, B.A., of Ste. Therese. Mr. Martineau is a strong, evangelical preacher, and it is expected there will be a large number out to hear his message on Friday evening.

—Don't forget the dance to be held in the St. Andrews East Town Hall, under auspices of the Pioneer W. I., on Friday, October 9th.

Three Distinct Groups

Make Up Cricket Family

There are comparatively few species of crickets, but they represent three quite distinct groups. These can be distinguished as True crickets, Mole crickets and Tree crickets, says an authority in the Montreal Herald.

Mole crickets are so called because they burrow in the ground like moles. The form of their bodies is fashioned for this kind of life. They feed upon the tender roots of various plants.

True crickets are the black creatures seen in the cracks in pavements, or in the paths in the fields. They are common everywhere, some even invading our houses. They usually feed upon plants, but some are predaceous. They lay their eggs in the autumn, usually in the ground and hatch the following summer.

The common name Tree cricket was applied to this group by the fact that they are apt to live in trees; but they are also found on shrubs, tall herbs or grass. The song of the Snowy Tree cricket is often mistaken for that of the Katydid.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches, of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, Oct. 4th., is "Unreality."

The Golden Text is:—"Vanity of vanities, saith the Preacher, vanity of vanities, all is vanity." (Ecclesiastes 1:2)

The following passages are from the Bible and the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures":

"Thus saith the Lord, the Lord, the King of Israel, and his redeemer the Lord of life and intelligence. It dooms idolatry. A belief in other gods, other creators, and other creations must go down before Christian Science." (Science and Health, page 535).

BOY SCOUTS THE WORLD OVER

BOYS OF 15 COUNTRIES CAMP TOGETHER

Small groups of boys from fifteen different countries made up the 120 attending this year's International Y.M.C.A. camp on the grounds of Hatfield House, Hertfordshire, home of the Marquis of Salisbury. The boys included members of a number of "Y" Boy Scout troops.

TWO SCOUT LEADERS BECOME PEERS

Through the death of Lord Trevethin, formerly Lord Chief Justice, and Lord Strachie, two prominent Scout leaders have succeeded to the peerage. Col. the Hon. C. A SCOUT'S PARADISE FOR ENGLISH BOYS

English Boy Scouts may now enjoy real woodcraft, camping and wild animal observation and tracking on a 240-acre, heavily wooded area on Lake Windermere. The area, (Great Tower Plantation) which was officially opened as a National Woodcraft Camp by Lord Baden-Powell, was the gift of Mr. W. B. Wakefield, a lover of the outdoors, and one of the pioneer supporters of Scouting in England.

SCOUTS ON TRAFFIC CONTROL

According to "The Yarmouth Light," a great deal of the credit for the excellent order and control of traffic during the daily parades of Yarmouth's big Anniversary Week this summer was due to the "magnificent work of the Boy Scouts," stationed along the line of march. "The co-operation extended by Scoutmasters and Scouts was much appreciated by Chief of Police Bain."

CORDELIA'S ADVENTURES IN JETTYLAND

When Aunt Fanny was asked if she could not tell a story too, she said, "Well, I think perhaps I can, and one a little bit different than usual too! I have had an exciting experience and a real narrow escape. Yes, a real narrow escape. If I had not been smart and quick-witted I might not have been here telling you how narrowly I escaped death or imprisonment."

Cordelia felt queer little prickles up and down her spine. Aunt Fanny looked so tragic. Clip was not affected in that way though. Cordelia's attention was suddenly drawn to him by some smart bumps against her arm. On looking down she found that Clip was in what her neighbor at school called "a fit of the giggles," which he was vainly trying to suppress. "Look at Aunt Fanny's eyes!" he squeaked faintly, "See how they roll, see how they roll!"

His words made her think of the old nursery rhyme of the three blind mice who all ran after the farmer's wife and lost their tails by her carving knife. Cordelia rather wondered if that had been Aunt Fanny's experience, but decided that her tail was much too long to have had any accident happen to it. She shook Clip gently. "Hush!" she whispered, "I want to hear what Aunt Fanny is saying."

By this time all the mice were watching Aunt Fanny in great excitement. "Yes", Aunt Fanny was saying, "I had a narrow escape. It happened in that little room near the kitchen, where we have so often found food of all sorts sitting about on the window-sill. I warn you! now, I warn you—all of you, keep out of that room... I went in there the other night, crept up on the bed and started to scamper across it to the window to see what I could find. I found an unusual hill in the centre of the bed. Running up it I found myself on something soft, smooth and warm. I stopped to investigate, when a chasm seemed opening under me, and I dashed back and dropped to the floor. Such strange sounds came from that bed while I lay quaking on the floor! After a time they stopped, and I grew brave enough to climb up and try to reach the window again. I found that the hill was still there, but this time I crossed it lower down. I was almost across—when something soft and warm that I had stumbled onto started again to close up until I was almost trapped. I sat there, too frightened to move, until I felt my self being tossed through the air, and I fell with a bang against the window pane. The strange noises were coming from the bed again, and for a long time I dared not move, but kept sniffing and sniffing, and not a sniff of anything familiar reached me. Summoning my courage, I commenced creeping carefully around, and although I crept into every corner of that window sill, nothing could I find but

New Programs for Canadian Radio Listeners

The Canadian Radio Commission has entered upon its fourth season of fall and winter activities with one of the most ambitious program schedules it has ever designed. Nearly every known form of broadcasting will be heard over the regional and national networks, notable among them being special events, overseas programs, and the "Northern Messenger" service. The above composite illustration shows various phases of broadcasting to be undertaken for Canadian listeners. The new schedule commenced last Sunday.

watches and rings and queer-smelling powders that almost blinded me when I crept into the boxes to see if they were good to eat. Deciding that there was nothing fit to eat there, I turned back, to try to reach the floor again.

Lovingly, Aunt Jean.

MICKEY MOUSE MARKS HIS EIGHTH BIRTHDAY

Mickey Mouse's eighth birthday was celebrated on Monday. The anniversary was actually observed with speeches, interviews and congratulatory messages to his "papa", the slim, hard-working Walt Disney, animated cartoon producer.

At the age of eight, Mickey Mouse is the most popular of all movie stars. He has been decorated with 21 medals. He attracts fan-letters from 80 different countries, his studio says.

His natal day came when a real, live mouse made friends with Disney in a backroom studio in Kansas City. "I kept several mice in a cage on my desk", Disney recalls. "One was quite tame. He seemed to have a personality all his own. He used to crawl all over while I was working."

Disney had $40 then. Today, he says, there is well over $150,000 invested in a spacious studio, manned by 175 artists, editors, and "idea men."

U.S. Shortwave Station Starts College Course

On Sunday last "WIXAL" Boston, pioneer American short wave educational station, commenced its second college year of regular broadcasts. This station exists free from advertising and entirely for the benefit and enlightenment of its listeners.

At the opening exercises Walter S. Lemmon, founder of this novel air college, outlined plans for the coming academic year. Dr. Harlow Shapley, director of the Harvard Observatory, spoke on the place of this station in international education, and Dr. Loring B. Andrews of Harvard explained to listeners just how they can obtain greatest value from these educational courses, broadcast direct to their own homes.

Based on the experience of broadcasting more than 300 educational features during the past college year, the scope of the programs has been further enlarged. Each evening's broadcast will develop a central theme maintaining continuity and human interest. For instance, one evening may be devoted to Spain—which would include, historical sketches showing important events in the history of Spain followed by examples of Spanish literature and romance; then a program on the modern Spaniard, the traditions of the country, concluding with an authoritative summary of the present Spanish crisis. In this way the listener can obtain a real understanding of the background behind the present-day news dispatches, and present-day happenings in this European country. Similar programs during the coming month will be devoted to other subjects including Hobbies, the study of Rivers and Geology, Problems of Youth, Sociology, Astronomy and Literature.

During October the schedule of WIXAL will be — Monday and Friday evenings from 7 to 9 P.M. Eastern Standard Time, and Saturday and Sundays from 5 to 7 P.M. Eastern Standard Time.

ANOTHER REDUCTION IN

LONG DISTANCE RATES

On calls to points over 130 miles

Once again we have cut the cost of Long Distance. On September 1st, a new schedule of rates became effective on calls (both person-to-person and station-to-station) to points over 130 miles distant. This reduction will mean an annual saving of over $200,000 to telephone users in Ontario and Quebec alone.

This is the second time this year that Long Distance costs have been reduced. In the past seven years, we have made six substantial rate revisions. At the same time we have constantly improved service, as evidenced by the fact that, while in 1929 it took an average of 3.4 minutes to complete a Long Distance call, today the average is only 78 seconds.

Today, your telephone is within easy reach of any one of 33,000,000 telephones scattered throughout the world. Low night rates from 7 every evening and all day Sunday!

HALIFAX

Here we are in Halifax. What a fascinating city it is. It is old, in some places rather dingy, but substantial and solid looking. When you come to a corner of Barrington Street (the chief street), and look down, there just below you is the harbour. I keep watching for the corners so that I can get another glimpse of the water. At the present moment two American naval training ships are at anchor in the harbour and there are hundreds of midshipmen roaming around. Nice looking youngsters they are. It was thrilling to hear the guns boom out their salutes as the ships came into the harbour. Then at twelve o'clock each day the noon gun is heard and watches and clocks are set. There is a place near the Yacht Squadron where we park almost every evening to watch the lights of Dartmouth, across the harbour, reflect in the water. The view from Citadel Hill at night is like Fairyland. On Saturday afternoon we watched three yacht races start. To see even one sail boat is a thrill but to see dozens at one time is an event to be remembered. Point Pleasant Park is beautiful beyond words. It is on a point on the shore, giving it a long shore-line, and is virgin forest with only the underbrush taken out. Paths are cut through the park and one may walk or drive a horse but not a car. Already we have walked miles in it and I hope to walk many more. Trees and ocean, what more could one want? The first week was rain and fog. Sometimes it was hard to tell the difference. I decided that when I could hear the drops on my hat it was rain; anything else was fog. The weather as been mild and the evenings are much warmer than the September evenings in Ontario, almost balmy in fact. The small son has been haunting the harbour. Ships with cargoes of bananas, molasses, raw sugar, and so on are exciting. He has managed to get aboard almost every ship he has seen. Some of them he has had to leave in quick order, but he was on them first. To roll barrels of molasses is hot work! The praises of Halifax have been sung to me for years and it has all come up to expectations—except that we have not yet been able to find a house!

FLOUR

There are different types of flour made, and to get the best results you should use the kind best suited for your purpose. You should know what you want when you shop because sometimes the clerks do not know the difference. First there is the bread flour, and that, as its name designates, is to be used for bread making. Then there is the flour called household flour, or all-purpose. This can be used for bread making and for cakes and pastry too, but it does not make as light a cake nor as tender pastry as the flours designed for that use. If household flour is used for cake making a smaller quantity of flour should be used as it makes a thicker batter. Pastry flour should be used for pastry and it may be used for cake-making too, but cake flour makes a better cake. This flour is the most expensive but as it is very fine flour, it packs down and there is a greater quantity of flour in the package than would appear. If you are not already familiar with the various types of white flour, learn them and use the proper kind. The millers are doing their part and it costs no more to keep the several varieties on hand.

MARSHMALLOW CAKE

- 1 cup brown sugar
- 1 egg
- 4 tablespoons butter
- 1 cup sour milk
- 1½ cups flour
- 3 tablespoons cocoa
- 1 small teaspoon soda
- 2 teaspoons baking powder

Cream the butter and the sugar. Add the well-beaten egg. Add the sifted dry ingredients and the milk alternately. Bake in a moderate oven of 350 degrees. Cover with marshmallow and put in the oven until soft enough to spread. Spread them over the cake and cover with chocolate icing. One university graduate has made her reputation as a good cook with this particular cake. It is in great demand at all sorority doings.

BAKED SPINACH AND SAUSAGE

- 1 can or 2 cups cooked spinach.
- 1 cup chopped celery
- 1 onion chopped
- 1 egg slightly beaten
- 1 cup bread crumbs

- ½ lb. sausage cut in pieces
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- ½ cup grated cheese

Combine all ingredients but the cheese. Put in a baking dish and sprinkle with grated cheese. Bake in a moderate oven of 350 degrees for forty minutes. This is a good supper dish which may be prepared in the morning.

THE WOMAN WHO UPSET SUPREME COURT DECISION

The little old lady's likeness on Uncle Sam's new stamps which came out last week, shows an expression of firm determination about the lips. Susan B. Anthony set forces in motion in 1872 which upset a Supreme Court decision. In 1872, she and some followers went to the polls in Rochester and voted, claiming that the 14th Amendment which was passed in 1869, gave not only negroes, but also women, the right to vote.

New York Times says: "She was arrested and her case went to the Supreme Court, which disagreed with her interpretation." She didn't take the decision as final, and began to rally the forces of public opinion, which eventually upset that Supreme Court decision by making the Nineteenth Amendment a part of the Constitutional law of the United States.

Daily Care is Required to Win Beautiful Hands

They Are Worrisome Subject, But Attention Will Keep Them Lovely, says Beauty Expert

"The Beauty Box", by Helen Follett
(A Regular Feature for Watchman Readers)

Pale Hands, pink tipped like lotus buds. That sounds nice, but it does not apply to women today. Hands are a worrisome subject to home girls who juggle pots and pans, though they can thank soap manufacturers for better products. In the days of our grandmother, kitchen and laundry soaps were pretty terrible.

Daily care should not be disregarded. There should be one special scrubbing with a brush, followed by a tepid rinsing, a brisk drying and an application of a soothing lotion. At least once a week hands should be massaged with cold cream or lanoline. Lanoline works satisfactorily and costs less than the dainty perfumed creams obtained at cosmetic counters.

Also give special attention to the cuticle. Having the hands in water too much makes the cuticle shred. Snip off hangnails the moment they appear. Precede the treatment with a bit of friction with the orange wood stick to detach the cuticle from the nail base.

Never use a metal instrument on the pretty talons. It will make the inner side of the nail caves rough and dust will cling to them. There are chances also of forming abrasions.

Don't forget that every case of blackheads may be an incipient case of acne. The wax-like plugs cause the walls of the pores to break, bacteria walk in, set up housekeeping and then there is trouble.

Use soap suds freely because it is a good antiseptic, and it dries up the pore deposits. If blackheads must be removed, cleanse the skin surface with alcohol and use a comedone extractor, a small instrument that can be bought at a drug store. If pimples have formed, apply hot compresses to bring them to a head. Then apply powdered boric acid.

Keep the intestinal tract active, drink plenty of water and cut down on starches.

After applying a deodorant to the armpits, keep the area free from the friction of clothing for a time. The flesh should be as dry as possible, so don't apply it immediately after bathing unless it is in powder form.

If one is afflicted with excessive perspiration, friction the entire body surface with one of those nice tonic lotions.

Depilatories come in various forms, powder, paste and wax. Since some skins are sensitive even to the most harmless product of the laboratory, it is wise to make a test on a small area.

If there are a few scattered bristles on the chin, have them removed by means of an electric needle. Also,

DOES FANCY WORK WITH ONE FINGER

Refusing to accept a condition which left her with only one finger as a handicap, Miss Alice Howell, of Regina, has completed 37 pieces of fancy-work and embroidery since the end of February. She has learned to do well many things which more fortunate people find difficult.

The 25-year-old matron lost her left arm in a railway accident when she was 18 months old. On her right hand she has a normal thumb and the stump of her fifth finger.

To "steady her nerves", she started work on fancy-work in quantities that would upset the nerves of an average person. Crocheting is the one thing she admits impossible of accomplishment.

She sews, knits, embroiders, cooks and does any work connected with keeping house. She makes most of her own clothes.

The Dionnes started married life with nothing. Today they are comfortably well off. Dionne is reported to be making $100 a day signing autographs for tourists at 25 cents each, and he has other sources of income.

Having completed 75 years work with one concern in Birmingham, England, Miss E. Williams has just retired at 85.

Fashion Flashes

By Alice Alden

(Copyright, 1936, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

A NICE DISTINCTION from the fur line of last year is found in the very slenderly fitted coat that is the exact opposite of the wide swagger so popular last year. A new caracul model has a very fitted bodice that extends in a deep V to the wide, flaring skirt. The very full collar is silver fox.

NOT SO MUCH glitter marks the new bags. Typical of the fine bag is a melon-shaped model in black antelope-suede mounted on a tortoise frame with shell button and antelope loop.

GOING IN for dinner dates means a variety of dinner dresses. A useful model has a long, flared tunic of copper metallic fabric worn over a slim skirt of brown velvet.

STILL HANGING on to the mode is fringe, which reappears season after season on day, evening and luxurious lounging things. A charming frock is of deep beige silk fringe worked in tiers, the frock having a squared neckline and short sleeves. A matching belt of wide suede has a topaze set with the back formed by a buckle.

A TOAST to romance is suggested by the lovely evening capas now being shown. A most romantic model, full length, is of black Lyons velvet, squared yoke of white ermine done in cape effect, which comes round in a single tie effect under the chin.

HOLD OUT your arms and slip into one of the new coats that feature fur sleeve interest. A slim model of dusty brown tweed has wide melon sleeves formed of kolinsky.

WHY NOT TRY WORK?

S. E. McGorman has an article with the above title in the September fifteenth issue of Maclean's. It is worth reading. So hunt it up if you have not already read it. I heard a group of men talking and three of the four were employers of a good many men. Each of them said that they had difficulty in getting skilled labour and that they could use more men if they could find them. It would appear that the great need is for workmen who are properly trained. My experience is slight but the more people that were out of work the harder I found it to get help. Girls who are old enough to start to work do not bother trying to get it as their families are on relief and they do not need to. Former maids are married and on relief. In other times they would wait until their circumstances permitted it but now they are ready to take a chance because they know they can always go on relief. It is almost impossible to get a worker, either man or woman, for small jobs. If they take a few days work they lose their relief and have to go without until they can go through the red tape necessary to get on again. Consequently they do not bother taking the odd job. It is unfortunate that the present system saps initiative. Too many are losing their ability to help themselves.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Maw, Mr. and Mrs. H. Sleeth and Miss A. Eadie spent Friday evening in Cushing, and together with others from a distance attended the Chicken Pie Supper held in the Stone Hall.

This supper was, as usual, excellent as regards the table set, and the program particularly pleasing. The artists taking part were Mrs. J. L. Maw of Montreal, a soloist, Mr. Chambers of St. Andrews East, who favored with songs of the sea, in solo, and again in duet with Mr. A. Snowden, St. Andrews East, acting out the old familiar song "Madam, Will you walk, Madam, Will you talk with me", in a manner which delighted even the most serious-minded, Mr. Chambers in his disguise making a perfect Madam. Mrs. F. Robinson and Mr. J. Fraser of St. Andrews East in the role of two old friends were pleasingly effective in their rendering of "When you and I were young Maggie"; Mrs. Robinson sang very beautifully "Darling I am growing old". Both were fittingly costumed. Mrs. Graham of Hudson sang old familiar Scotch songs. All artists were enthusiastically encored. Miss Tita Wales of St. Andrews East accompanied at the piano, and the ladies of St. Mungo's expressed their appreciation of her playing and all kind help given—through Mr. I. Fuller, who presented the vote of thanks; this was seconded by Mr. S. H. Beecher.

ROYAL MONTREAL REGIMENT TO ERECT MEMORIAL TABLET

A committee of past commanding officers, and others of the Royal Montreal Regiment, have undertaken the erection of a memorial tablet to the officers and men of the regiment who gave their lives in its service during the Great War.

The tablet will be of bronze and will have a receptacle in its base for a Book of Memory in which will be inscribed on parchment the names of all those to whom the tablet is dedicated. Embodied in the design will be the crests of the 14th Battalion, the Royal Montreal Regiment, the 23rd Reserve Battalion and the 58th Westmount Rifles.

The tablet will be erected within the regiment's armoury, which was also erected and dedicated as a memorial to those who made the supreme sacrifice. The unveiling of the memorial tablet will take place on Sunday, November 8th, this year, following a reunion of the regiment on November 7th.

In order that ex-members of the Royal Montreal Regiment, now scattered throughout Canada, may have an opportunity to participate in the erection of the memorial to their fallen comrades, a subscription list is now open. Contributions should be sent to the Honorary Treasurer, Capt. W. A. Fowler, P. O. Box 352, Station B, Montreal.

"Yellow Streak"

The meaning of "yellow streak" appears to have originated with the idea that things have yellowed through age, disease or other discoloration. Just as a complexion may turn yellow through jaundice; hence the meaning of jaundiced or jealous, melancholy. A later development of this was in the sense of mean, contemptible, cowardly or craven. Another applied meaning is sensational, with regard to news or the press.

Trial of Socrates

At the trial of Socrates, time was divided by means of a water-clock, a kind of hour-glass, with water instead of sand, into three equal portions; the first, to the speech of the prosecutor, the second to that of the defendant and the third, if the verdict was "guilty," to the speech of the prosecutor, the reply of the defendant, together with the decision of the judges.

has recently been confined, by well-informed mining-stock investors, to a soundly managed gold mine.

This property is out of the prospect stage; has a mill, and is producing. The stock is still within the penny range and owing to the remarkable developments and the general situation of the mine, we believe that there will be a heavy demand for these shares.

MEMORY OF SIR JOHN ABBOTT WAS FITTINGLY HONORED IN OBSERVANCE AT ST. ANDREWS

UNVEILED BY LORD TWEEDSMUIR

Colorful Occasion in Historic Old Community

Individuals live or die in the annals of a people not because of monuments and memorials but rather because they have made their mark in the era in which they lived. Such may be said of Sir John Abbott, to whose memory a noble tribute was paid last Saturday at St. Andrews when His Excellency Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor General of Canada, graciously unveiled a tablet in Christ Church, and the Rt. Rev. John Farthing, Lord Bishop of Montreal, consecrated the memorial in the presence of notables representing the State, the Church, and interests with which Sir John's endeavours were ardently associated in his lifetime.

Sir John Joseph Caldwell Abbott, K.C.M.G., D.C.L., Q.C., will live in the hearts and minds of Canadian citizens because he left the country the better for his having served it. The many people of every rank and station who gathered to pay tribute to this son of Argenteuil, who attained the office of Prime Minister in a turbulent period in parliamentary history, felt last Saturday the zeal, ardor and warmth of a personality whose interests were of this little community of St. Andrews and whose ambitions were patriotic, as their own, for a great and noble Dominion.

Mingled in the congregation at Christ Church were leaders in public life and descendants of the pioneers of this territory. Lord Tweedsmuir, representative of royalty, was there united in sentiment and purpose with the farmers and village folk of Argenteuil. Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, former Prime Minister; Sir Edward Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway; Sir George Perley and Hon. Fernand Rinfret, Secretary of State, joined with members of the Abbott family and the townsfolk in honoring the memory of the son of Rev. Joseph Abbott, founder and first rector of the church.

Governor General Entertained By Historical Socy.

His Excellency Lord Tweedsmuir was entertained by the Historical Society of Argenteuil County in the Town Hall at St. Andrews East immediately after the memorial service in Christ Church.

Lord Tweedsmuir was received by the President, Dr. B. N. Wales, and the First Vice-President, Mrs. G. F. W. Kuhring.

The address of welcome prepared by Dr. Wales, a copy of which was forwarded to Lord Tweedsmuir's Secretary, reads as follows:

"Your Excellency:

"On behalf of the Historical Society of Argenteuil County, I extend to you a cordial welcome to our annual Exhibition.

"We welcome you not only as the Viceroy of our beloved King Edward, but also on account of your distinction in the realm of literature and your interest in all matters historical and antiquarian.

"Words quite fail to express our appreciation of your great kindness in consenting to grace the occasion with your presence, which will prove an added incentive to all our members to make our Historical Society and its proposed museum, worthy the rich heritage of Argenteuil's history, and a real attraction to visiting tourists."

Mrs. Walter Windsor, Secretary-Treasurer, Miss A. L. Wales, Secretary at the signing of the constitution, Mr. G. Shirley Simpson, Custodian of the exhibits, Miss Beatrice Robertson, Assistant Custodian, and Mrs. A. Graham, were presented to His Excellency.

Riding on Sidewalk Causes Injury to Pedestrian

YOUNG LADY TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Lillian Marchand, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. Marchand, Grace Street, was taken to hospital in a taxi suffering from internal injuries inflicted when she was struck by a bicycle. The accident occurred Sept. 22nd., when she was knocked down by a young cyclist driving on the sidewalk—a dangerous habit practised by young Lachute people and one which was sure to have disastrous effect sooner or later. This custom should be curbed immediately, before other accidents occur. The girl was knocked down by the handle-bar of the machine and has been ill for two weeks. Alarming symptoms caused her parents to remove her to hospital in Montreal.

SAYS DUPLESSIS TO ABOLISH TOLL BRIDGES

The possible abolition of tolls, a long-standing bone of contention among motorists in this province, is rumored in connection with at least two provincial bridges—the Taschereau and Galipeault Bridges. Dr. D. Bellemare, M.L.A. for Vaudreuil, commenting on this possibility, which will depend on the financial condition of the Quebec Government, stated that if the cost of construction of these two bridges is paid he will try to have the tolls abolished. He further stated that it is the intention of the Duplessis Government to do away with tolls on all bridges in the province.

E. BERTIE RE-ELECTED MAYOR ST. JEROME

Emmanuel Bertie was re-elected Mayor of St. Jerome this week, defeating his opponent, former Alderman J. T. Clement. Voting was heavy; figures issued by the returning officer showed that 75 per cent. of the voters registered.

Mayor Bertie has held office for several years. Contrary to early forecasts, Leopold Nantel, K.C., did not stand for election to the mayoralty.

LAURENTIAN HIGHWAY URGED BY MEMBER

A highway joining St. Jerome, St. Hypolite, St. Margaret's and Ste. Adele was urged as a worthy project for the near future by Hermann Barrette, M.L.A. for Terrebonne, speaking at a dinner given in his honor at St. Margaret's last Sunday. He addressed his proposal directly to Hon. F. J. LeDuc, Quebec Minister of Roads, who was also a guest at the banquet.

Fernand Rinfret, Secretary of State. On his right is the Lord Bishop of Montreal, who dedicated the memorial; Rev. W. LeCras of Lachute, who is carrying the Pastoral Staff; Capt. M. E. Adeannes, A.D.C., and Scoutmaster M. A. Snowdon of St. Andrews East.

Fine Structure, 'Burg Post-Office Now Open

(By Our Brownsburg Correspondent)

Without any flourish of trumpets, or ceremonies of dedication, Mr. Alex. MacAllister, popular postmaster of Brownsburg, declared the new Post Office open to the public on Monday afternoon. The building is a vast improvement on the old one, and a commendable tribute to its founders. Public convenience has been the main consideration of the architect and builders, and the appointments are handsomely conceived and of beautiful design. It is a notable milestone along the path of progress.

High School Pupils Held Sports Day

Saturday was the occasion of the annual field day of Lachute High School, when keen competition was staged by a number of entrants larger than usual. The scholars were cheered by friends and parents among the spectators, and altogether a successful occasion was enjoyed by all who participated.

Maintaining a family distinction in athletics, Sydney Drew took the highest number of points, 36. Starter for the events was Mr. G. L. Drysdale, time-keeper Mr. Winston Drew, and judges Messrs. Hugh Gail, Merton Gile and Herbert Jordan. Winners in the contests will be published in next issue of The Watchman.

Boy's Arm Broken in Hawkesbury "Initiation"

While being "initiated" by senior pupils at the Hawkesbury English High School, Eric Holden, 13-year-old son of Rev. B. Holden, pastor of Hawkesbury United Church, broke his right arm. He was taken to Dr. T. W. Smith's hospital for treatment. The lad with several others was being bounced in the usual manner when he fell into a sawdust pit. As a result of the accident Principal A. C. Douglas has barred any future initiations.

STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE ON HIGHWAY, ST. CANUT

(By Our St. Canut Correspondent)

Jacques St-Vincent, 14-year-old son of Joseph St-Vincent, while driving a buggy not far from his home, was struck by an automobile, which shattered the vehicle and injured the young driver. Occupants of the car picked up the lad, who was in a semi-conscious condition, and carried him to the verandah of the nearest dwelling, which happened to be the home of his uncle, Wilfrid St-Vincent. The car was then driven rapidly away from the scene, and it has been difficult to secure much information about the accident from the youthful victim.

EVENING CHURCH SERVICE DEVOTED TO CHILDREN

Sunday evening last will long be remembered by children of Lachute United Church Sunday School, as well as by parents and friends who attended the annual promotion exercises of "Passing Through the Gates." Rev. W. B. Rosborough spoke most encouragingly of the support given during the past year by the various teachers and urged upon the children always to "play the game," and to be good losers as well as good winners.

The scripture lessons were read by the Misses Helen Deacon, May Gordon and Grace Stein, and two song selections were rendered by the younger grades.

The promotion exercises were most effective, each group singing a verse, and after passing through the open gates, taking their place on the platform.

A reading by Miss Edna Aitken was most capably rendered and enjoyed by the congregation.

PROVINCIAL LOAN OF FIFTY-ONE MILLIONS IS OVER-SUBSCRIBED

Quebec's $51,000,000 "credit restoration" loan, termed the greatest provincial bond flotation in Canadian history—was oversubscribed in less than 24 hours.

Premier Duplessis declared the purpose of the loan was to pay off the province's debts and restore Quebec's "damaged" credit.

The Royal Bank of Canada and the Provincial Bank of Canada launched the loan, and subscriptions totalled more than the $51,000,000.

THREE AUTO ACCIDENTS IN THIS NEIGHBORHOOD

(By Our Brownsburg Correspondent)

Mr. T. Tomlinson met with a painful accident on Sunday last which necessitated the amputation of one of his fingers. Assisting a friend whose car had gone into a ditch near Lakefield, Mr. Tomlinson had the misfortune to get his fingers caught between the bumper and car. He was attended by Dr. J. H. Mason of Lachute.

Mr. Brown of Lachute met with an accident at Brownsburg, happily without injury to the occupants of the car. When going down the decline just outside the 'Burg on the Lachute Road, his rear wheel became detached, the car traveling for a distance of fifty yards before it came to a stop on the side of the road.

A car driven by Raymond Marcu, at a wedding trip on Thursday last, left the road at the head of McMaster Avenue and crashed the fence of Mr. James Davis' residence, ploughing its way through a flower garden till brought to a stop among debris of the verandah of the house, which it tore from its fastenings.

Historical Society Announces Prize Essay Contest

On the evening of Oct. 3rd., the Argenteuil Historical Society held its annual meeting. Dr. B. N. Wales occupied the chair as president. All the previous year's officers were re-elected, Mr. J. P. Lanctot being also added to the directors.

The annual report was presented by the Secretary, Mrs. W. Windsor. Receipts now in hand totalled $745.66, the Society numbering a membership of 325 names.

The gathering was addressed briefly by Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Kains of Ottawa, and by Dr. H. B. Cushing of Montreal.

Decision was passed on a prize essay contest open to school-children of the county. Details are given in the text of the motion, which was as follows:

Whereas, the objects of this society are, to promote interest in the early history of this county and district, to foster an interest in historical matters and Canadian loyalty and patriotism;

Be It Resolved

That, The names of all competitors must be enclosed in a sealed envelope accompanying the essay.

That, The essays be in the hands of the Secretary Treasurer not later than April 1st.

NEXT TO DEATH --- A FIRE

When you stand by and watch your life savings and possessions go up in flames, you are enduring life's worst heartache—save the loss of a loved one.

Fire, the great servant that cooks man's food, protects him from the chill blasts of winter and melts the hardest metals that he may mould them at his will, and to his use, can be man's worst enemy.

Besides millions in property, fire destroys game and timber resources every year which represent a huge national loss.

Fire can be both friend and fiend. Man determines which.

As you abhor death, so abhor carelessness with fire—for the next worst thing to death is fire on the rampage.

Budget Balancing is Out-of-Date, Say Monetary Reformers ... But Ottawa Adheres to Orthodox Policies of Finance

Ottawa, October 6.—There is about debt and money taking form in parts of the country. It is difficult for them to get together on the matter. Another effort is, however, to be made soon. When feasible a Dominion-Provincial round-table conference will again be called on matters of common concern.

Broadly speaking, the difference between the Dominion viewpoint and the other is this: The Dominion—represented in this instance by Hon. Charles Dunning, the Minister of Finance—believes that the rules of the financial game must be observed. If debts are to be

Biographical Sketch of "Argenteuil's Greatest Son"

ARTICLE IN "THE MONTREAL CHURCHMAN"

Owing to his own inherent dislike of publicity and his retiring nature, the important part taken by Sir John Abbott in the development of this country during the thirty-odd years of his public life, has not received sufficient attention from recent historians. The facts, however, are familiar to all careful students of the parliamentary transactions of his time, which covers the momentous years just before and after Confederation under the B.N.A. Act of 1867, and may be readily gleaned also from the contemporary records and the public press of the day. An indefatigable worker, endowed with a powerful mind highly trained in commercial law, Sir John presented in himself that valuable combination in parliamentary life of a great corporation-lawyer, acting within and for the Government. Thus it is that his considered judgment forms the basis of much of the sound financial legislation of the period and as such has become to-day a national inheritance. In his personal, i.e., non-parliamentary with Miss Mary Bethune, daughter of the Very Rev. John Bethune, D.D., Dean of Montreal. During the early years of his married life, the summers of his growing family were passed at Lake Louise, in that beautiful district back of Lachute in the foothills of the Laurentians, in a solidly built log house which has long since passed into other hands, but is still standing, although divided into its two halves, only one of which is now occupied. Active since his boyhood in the local militia under the command of old Lt.-Col. Thos. Kains, he himself raised in the county at the time of the excitement over the Trent affair, the Company entitled the Argenteuil Rangers, and served as its commanding officer with the rank of Colonel. His own early desire to make his home in his beloved native county had soon merged into an ambition to represent Argenteuil in Parliament, and already in 1857 he stood for election and was returned as its member for what was then known as the Cana-long connection with the then newly organized Faculty of Law of McGill University dates from three years before his election to Parliament. In 1854 he was made a Lecturer and the following year Professor of Commercial Law and Dean of the Faculty. These activities he discharged for some twenty-five years, proceeding to the degree of D.C.L., and was made an Emeritus Professor of his subject in 1879. He resigned from the Deanship on account of the pressure of external affairs in 1880, and then became a Governor of the University, and remained a member of that Board for the rest of his life.

It was in fulfillment of an early resolution made as the young John Abbott sailed down the Ottawa to Montreal — probably on the first occasion of his leaving home with his friend Archibald Kains, to take up their first business engagement with the House of Laurie in that city — that he ultimately purchased in the year 1865 the Seigneurie of Boisbriant consisting of three hundred acres of land with the ruins of Fort Senneville and the stone windmill of Jacques LeBer standing upon it.

This beautiful and historic location Mr. Abbott quickly transformed into a well laid-out estate with extensive gardens and a farm and built upon it that fine country house called by him "Boisbriant" after the dwelling on the same spot raised by the original Seigneur. Sir John Abbott and his family after him occupied Boisbriant until the year 1897, when it was sold by his estate to the late Sir Edward Clouston. A portion of the estate still remains in the hands of Mr. A. E. Abbott, son of Sir John.

Mr. Abbott continued to represent Argenteuil in the Legislature until 1874, an unbroken period of some seventeen years. Never a politician in the accepted sense of the word "he loathed and avoided", in the words of an able article upon him in a recent number of the McGill Daily, "public campaigning, nor had he any liking for parliamentary debate. But he was personally popular, a man of dignity and imperturbable courtesy." During his term of office as Solicitor-General, writes the Dictionary of National Biography, "he introduced the use of stamps in the payment of judicial and registration fees in Lower Canada; he consolidated and remodelled the jury law which obtains in Quebec to-day almost as he left it; he drafted and carried through the House an Act respecting insolvency which is the foundation of Canadian jurisprudence on this subject." The year following he published "The Insolvent Act of 1864." He subsequently, in 1868, obtained the appointment of a Commission to consider the management and improvement of this Act, the result of which was an elaborate Report based upon the returns from most of the constituencies in the Dominion, and the Insolvent Act of 1869, which retained the same principles and leading features as that of 1864, while altering a few of its details. "For many years," says another authority, "Mr. Abbott exercised unusual influence in the conduct of the work of legislation in the House of Commons. His proficiency in all branches of commercial law and in the law of corporations made his assiduous attendance at the great standing committees on railways, canals, and telegraphs, and on banking and commerce, of inestimable value. In the latter committee he acted as Chairman for a number of years." About the year 1862 he began, through his appointment to the office of President to the Canada Central Railway, a connection which culminated in the Canadian Pacific Railway. Under his auspices, the line between the Brockville and Ottawa Railway of this road was extended as far westward as Pembroke, and from the beginning of this work, he pressed in public speeches and otherwise the idea that the Canada Central was susceptible of indefinite extension until it reached the Pacific Ocean, and that it might ultimately be the gateway of a great transcontinental system.

Mr. Abbott was one of the delegation of four which in 1874 visited England on behalf of a company which made the first attempt to raise money for construction of the C.P.R.

Mr. Abbott was elected for his old constituency, but was unseated in 1875 by Mr. Lemuel Cushing and replaced in the House by Dr. Christie, Liberal Member. Finally, in the general election of 1880 he was returned to Parliament by a large majority, and from then on he continued to represent Argenteuil until 1886, when he retired from the House of Commons. In the year 1887, he was summoned to the Senate by Sir John A. Macdonald as the Government Leader of that body, with a seat on the Privy Council, of which he subsequently became President.

Associated with Promoters
Enterprise, the C.P.R.

His activities during this later period from 1874 on, had increased steadily. In 1876, while not a member of the House, he was freely consulted in connection with legislation, especially in relation to the Insolvency Law. In 1878, he and Sir Hector Langevin were sent to England as delegates with reference to the dismissal of M. Letellier of St. Just as Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec, and in this connection they rendered a valuable political service in one of the peculiar crises of the time; they also, while there, conducted matters of importance to the Canadian Government. In 1880 matters had at last begun to take shape for the consummation of the Canadian Pacific Railway Co., and it is interesting to learn that the old Canada Central road again figured in the initial proceedings. Mr. Abbott's connection with this undertaking had led to his purchasing a share in the enterprise, and under the energetic management of Mr. Duncan MacIntyre, its principal owner, this road had in the spring of that year, been completed as far as North Bay, and the possibility of extending the Pacific Railway from this point to the Coast was discussed between them. A suggestion to this effect was accordingly drafted by Mr. Abbott, signed by Mr. MacIntyre, and conveyed to Sir John Macdonald, the concurrence of Messrs. Stephen, Angus, Sir Donald Smith and others being meantime obtained. After some preliminary negotiations in England, conducted by Sir John Macdonald himself and Mr. Pope, the Canadian Syndicate was formed and a provisional contract, drawn up by Mr. Abbott, was submitted, and after some two months' negotiations was signed in October, 1880. A special session of Parliament was then called for the enacting of the necessary legislation, the Company was incorporated and the contract proper itself signed. Immediately thereafter, Messrs. Stephen, MacIntyre, Angus and Abbott proceeded to England to make the necessary financial arrangements for the Company and Mr. Abbott was appointed Standing Counsel. "From that time forth until the completion of the road, he took an active part in all its transactions and management. Although not a stockholder, during this period, he scrupulously avoided acting in his parliamentary capacity in any matter affecting this railway, never having voted or spoken on any of its measures, so that although he was universally recognized as one of the most active workers in and for the undertaking, it was never imputed to him that he used his political influence to further its interests. The success of this magnificent Canadian highroad was furthered in no small degree by his labours in the various departments of its organization and his name is always associated with those of the chief promoters of this great national enterprise."

Elected Mayor of Montreal

In 1887, the year of his accession to Senate, he was elected Mayor of Montreal and he was re-elected the following year by acclamation. In 1887 also, he was appointed President of the Corporation of the Royal Victoria Hospital, an institution founded and endowed with princely generosity by Lord Mount-Stephen and Lord Strathcona in commemoration of Her Majesty's Jubilee, and personally supervised the erection of its buildings. In 1888, he was appointed chief of a commission to negotiate with Australia on closer trade relations.

TAIL TORN FROM BODY OF HORSE

Its tail torn right from its body in a threshing accident on the farm of John Bowman, three miles north-east of Linwood, a heavy draft horse is being treated and is recovering, reports the Tara Leader. The animal was standing on the barn floor during threshing operations when it switched its tail. The strands of hair caught in a pulley of the thresher. Before the mishap was noticed and the machine stopped, the tail had been entangled in the pulley, jerking the tail completely away and ripping the skin partly down the thighs of both legs. Dr. G. Manser, Linwood veterinary, suggested the animal be destroyed. The owner, however, desired that the horse be treated in an effort to save its life. It is now reported that the animal is apparently reasonably comfortable and is munching hay in its stall.

DENTISTS INSTALL SIGNAL SYSTEM FOR PATIENTS

While in a dentist chair a Londoner suffered excruciating pains because he could not tell the dentist, with his hand in his mouth, to let up on whatever instrument of torture was being used. This gave the dentist's victim an idea. With the aid of a small battery and some wires and buttons he rigged up an electric switch. The buttons, labelled "stop", "go",

"easy", correspond with small signal lights lettered the same way. This signal system has become quite popular in various parts of Britain.

Scenario treatments of the illustrious lives in history have proven both instructive and interesting. The glamour of such productions is not lacking in Mary of Scotland, the latest epic of royalty, starring Katherine Hepburn in the title role, with Frederick March. See this masterpiece at the Rex Theatre, Oct. 22-24.

Boisbriant—The country residence of Sir J. J. C. Abbott, built by him in 1865. Now the property of Mrs. John L. Todd.

ary capacity, he made an equally great contribution. For his early conception of a transcontinental railroad, which dates from the beginning of his own connection with the old Canada Central Railroad in 1862, may be said to have given the first impetus to the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway, a colossal undertaking which, as was well said in his obituary in the Lachute Watchman owed more to his vision, energy and ability, than to the efforts of any other single individual. He was the legal adviser of this Company and its faithful supporter through all the vicissitudes of its organization, up to the final achievement of the road. Its charter indeed, of which he is acknowledged to be the sole author, has been pronounced to be the most perfect organ of the kind ever written in this country, in that it leaves no possible loophole for error or misconception in securing the rights and defining the obligations of the Company.

The following brief outline of this later period of Sir John Abbott's life and of his legal and parliamentary career has been drawn largely (and frequently verbatim) from the authoritative monograph by Maud Ogilvy in Mr. Taché's "Men of the Day" series cited above, which was published from Ottawa during his premiership, so must have had the benefit of his personal revision, and from a recent article in the Ottawa Citizen by Fred Cook, a former parliamentary reporter, as well as from personal information, kindly supplied to the writer by Mr. Archibald Kains of Ottawa, and others. There is also a very complete account of his life in the Dictionary of National Biography, First Supplement, London, 1901.

After his admission to the Bar in 1847, Mr. Abbott entered into partnership with the Hon. W. (later Judge) Badgley, and on the latter's appointment to the Bench in 1849, succeeded to the large legal business conducted by the firm and quickly became widely known as an advocate in most of the important causes of the time and place. In the same year, 1849, his marriage took place dian Assembly (Upper and Lower Provinces). The nominal majority, however, was against him, and it was only after an arduous contest before a Committee of the House lasting three sessions that he was enabled to take the seat to which he was justly entitled.

In the Legislature, in spite of his arduous law practice, his attention to the work of the House was conspicuous, and in 1862 he became a member of the Executive Council of

Sir John Joseph Caldwell Abbott,
K.C.M.G., D.C.L., Q.C.

the Sanfield Macdonald-Sicotte Government, with the Hon. d'Arcy McGee as his colleague, and accepted the position of Solicitor-General, an office which he resigned a year later on the accession to power of the Macdonald-Dorion Ministry which was virtually a Liberal coalition. His committees on railways, canals, and telegraphs, and on banking and commerce, of inestimable value. In the latter committee he acted as Chairman for a number of years."

About the year 1862 he began, through his appointment to the office of President to the Canada Central Railway, a connection which culminated in the Canadian Pacific Railway. Under his auspices, the line between the Brockville and Ottawa Railway of this road was extended as far westward as Pembroke, and from the beginning of this work, he pressed in public speeches and otherwise the idea that the Canada Central was susceptible of indefinite extension until it reached the Pacific Ocean, and that it might ultimately be the gateway of a great transcontinental system.

Mr. Abbott was one of the delegation of four which in 1874 visited England on behalf of a company which made the first attempt to raise money for construction of the C.P.R.

Mr. Abbott was elected for his old constituency, but was unseated in 1875 by Mr. Lemuel Cushing and replaced in the House by Dr. Christie, Liberal Member. Finally, in the general election of 1880 he was returned to Parliament by a large majority, and from then on he continued to represent Argenteuil until 1886, when he retired from the House of Commons. In the year 1887, he was summoned to the Senate by Sir John A. Macdonald as the Government Leader of that body, with a seat on the Privy Council, of which

Motor Show in Montreal Late November

SUN LIFE BLDG.

The Annual Motor Show of Eastern Canada will open in the Sun Life Building, Montreal, November 21st., according to Mr. Adelstan Lévesque, General Manager of the Montreal Automobile Trade Association Limited, which has been sponsoring this annual event in Eastern Canada for over twenty-five years.

The holding of the Motor Show at this date is proof that the previous move made by the industry to stabilize employment was successful, since this Autumn the experiment in co-operative employment is being repeated—an industrial project undertaken by private capital and management to level off the peaks and valleys of employment in a seasonal industry.

The industry succeeded last year in adjusting production schedules, bringing the lay-offs occasioned by model changes in August instead of November; placing orders for material and parts, thereby steadying that section of the industry as well as the steel and rubber trades; and introducing new models in November—two months in advance of the usual January date which has been practically a tradition with the industry since 1900. It brought such a unanimous response from the public that it will carry the same program this year.

Marriages in Canada during 1935 totalled 76,883, an increase of 3,791 over the preceding year.

Tablet Unveiled by Lord Tweedsmuir

"He was a man who fully served his day and his generation", declared His Excellency in his eulogy. "Surely the most fitting form of commemoration for such a man is in his native place; the church where his father ministered, the church where he worshipped as a boy."

Citing the many links between Sir John and himself, His Excellency declared that neither were "party men" in politics; they were both lawyers, both connected with McGill University, "and both children of the manse."

"Sir John Abbott ranks high among the sons of the clergy, as he ranks high among the citizens of Canada. I am delighted to have the privilege this afternoon of unveiling the kind of a memorial which I think he would most desire," concluded His Excellency.

Represents Government

Hon. Fernand Rinfret, representing the Dominion Government, declared that both on behalf of Parliament "and on behalf of the race to which I belong, I am honored in joining in this well-inspired ceremony."

Right Hon. Arthur Meighen noted that he was "returning after many years to the scenes I knew so well," in coming to the district. As a boy, said Mr. Meighen, he recalled the death of Sir John A. Macdonald and the taking over of the premiership by Sir John Abbott. Speaking especially of his legal services to his country, the Conservative leader in the Senate said of Sir John Abbott:

"He fathered and built the present insolvency act, in essence unaltered after many decades of business evolution. Our present jury system is very largely due to a bill which he carried through Parliament away back in the 70's."

Sir Edward Beatty recalled that Sir John was a graduate and later a leading officer of McGill University, of which Sir Edward is now chancellor, and that the former Prime Minister preceded him in the law department of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Citing the fact that Sir John was a compromise choice for the post of prime minister, Sir Edward continued: "There are those who may believe that such a description of John Abbott's elevation to the leadership of an administration does not reflect great glory upon him. I am not among those. John A. Macdonald was a great man, and it is no small tribute to John Abbott to say that he alone was counted fit at that moment to wear Macdonald's mantle."

Proud Day for this County

Sir George Perley knew Sir John personally, he said, and as Federal member for Argenteuil, he was greatly interested in his career. He declared the unveiling ceremony "a proud day for St. Andrews, for Argenteuil and for the country."

slashed, it must be as a result of a conference between debtor and creditor. Budgets should be balanced as soon as possible, in order that the credit of Dominion and province be maintained as high as possible, and refunding of the debts at a lower rate of interest be accomplished as rapidly as possible. While easier credit and money policies are to be commended, anything smacking of outright inflation is to be avoided.

These doctrines, of course, sound very quaint and old-fashioned in some parts of the country. Debts, obviously—say these monetary reformers—cannot be paid. They must be nered drastically. If the creditor doesn't like the process, then it's just too bad for him. We can't be dictated to by the 'Big Interests'. Budget-balancing is out of date. It isn't important that credit in the outside financial world be kept sweet, because if a community only learns how, it can operate on its own credit, independent of the rest of the world.

THE TWO VIEWPOINTS

That, I think, represents fairly well the two extreme points of view. Ottawa believes that it is operating within the confines of sound law and sound practice, and will get the country out of the woods that way as speedily as possible. Parts of the country, however, feel that Ottawa is simply listening to the dictates of 'Big Business' and cannot be expected to produce any reform or great improvement.

Some opposition critics at the capital see in the $75,000,000 debt reduction scheme in southern Saskatchewan an attempt to block further spreading of Social Credit doctrines. They claim that it followed as a direct consequence of Alberta's debt adjustment scheme; and that the people will be smart enough to see that it is Premier Alberhart who has freed them from bondage, and not Premier Patterson or Hon. J. G. Gardiner. In reply, government supporters say that the

NO SIGN OF YIELDING

Though the rest of the country gets impatient at times at the orthodox methods of Ottawa, there is no sign that any substantial yielding to more radical monetary doctrines is on the way. The government is satisfied that we are rapidly getting out of the depression, and that the best contribution Ottawa can make is to balance the budget, start reducing taxes as soon as possible, lighten the load of the national debt as fast as possible by keeping Dominion credit at its highest, and by refunding at lower interest rates. Also, of course, in encouraging internal and external trade by continuing to lift the restrictions which have bound them, seeking new markets abroad, and providing new markets for the goods of other countries in Canada.

It will be interesting to see whether this rather unspectacular program can remedy conditions in time to satisfy the impatient people of Canada, many of whom want a 'sign' at once. Or will the invasion of new radical and revolutionary doctrines such as Social Credit make it imperative for the government to try new stunts with the currency, or inflation in one form or another? My own guess is that, flexible as Premier Mackenzie King is to popular demand, there will be no unorthodox measures in the early future. One of his lieutenants recently said, with some feeling, that he would rather go out of public life than to defy natural law.

All democratic governments, of course, are susceptible to public pressure, and if the country wants anything badly enough, it will probably get it, good or bad.

The memorial on the wall of the church was designed by Prof. P. E. Nobbs, of the department of architecture of McGill University, and takes the form of a brass tablet imposed on colored marble. It is a gift of friends and colleagues of the former prime minister, and carries with it a donation of $500 to the endowment fund of the church.

The inscription reads:

To the glory of God
and in memory of
The Honourable
SIR JOHN ABBOTT
K.C.M.G., Q.C., D.C.L.
Prime Minister of Canada

Born in 1821 in this Parish of St. Andrews, the eldest son of the Rev. Joseph Abbott, M.A., the founder of this Church. He raised and commanded the Argenteuil Rangers in 1862 and became Solicitor General of Lower Canada in that year. Dean of Law at McGill University and later a Governor, he sat for Argenteuil in the Legislative Assembly and in the House of Commons for twenty years and became Leader of the Senate in 1887 and the first Canadian born Prime Minister of this Dominion in 1891; and died in 1893.

Erected in 1936 by fellow-countrymen in recognition of his great services to Canada.

Other memorials were dedicated during the service by Bishop Farthing. These were engraved plates honoring past benefactors and revered members of Christ Church congregation, the plates being mounted on the handsome memorial board on the southern wall of the church.

Rev. R. S. Booy, Rural Dean and rector of Christ Church, was in charge of the memorial service. The Bishop's chaplain was Rev. W. LeCras, rector at Lachute. Other clergy taking part in the service were:

Canon Garrett, Hawkesbury; Rev. E. G. May, Ste. Agathe; Rev. K. N. Brueton, Grenville; Rev. T. W. Ball, New Glasgow, Que.; Rev. J. Phillips, Port Dalhousie, Ont.; Rev. C. C. Phillips, North Gore, Ont.; Rev. Gordon Addie, Rawdon; Rev. C. H. Stone, Montebello, and Rev. C. W. P. Baugh, Lakefield.

Lord Tweedsmuir was previously the luncheon guest of Dr. Abbott. Other guests were: Hon. Mr. Rinfret, Senator Meighen, Sir George and Lady Perley, Sir Chas. Gordon, A. C. Kains, Ottawa; F. E. Meredith, K.C., Montreal; Sir Edward Beatty, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Abbott, Bishop Farthing, Lt.-Col. Willis O'Connor, A.D.C., and Capt. M. E. Adeannes, A.D.C.

Members of the Abbott family who took part in the ceremonies were:

A. E. Abbott, a son; Arthur C. Abbott, a grandson, and Mrs. Abbott; Mrs. J. O. Plummer, Miss Elizabeth Abbott, Miss Ruth Abbott and Miss Phyllis Abbott, daughters of A. E. Abbott and granddaughters of Sir John; Miss Harriett Abbott, a daughter of Sir John; Dr. Maude Abbott, granddaughter of Rev. William Abbott, brother of Sir John's father; Kim Abbott, a great grandson of Sir John; Harry Hennecker, a grandson; Mrs. Peter Buckley, a granddaughter, and Mr. Buckley; and Miss Maiale Abbott. Dr. Maude Abbott is the last remaining member of the family living in this district.

A guard of honor composed of 15 members of the 17th Duke of York's Hussars, under

GOVERNOR GENERAL ENTERTAINED BY HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Lord Tweedsmuir, and the party were conducted on a tour of the exhibits by the Custodians.

After viewing the exhibits, tea, under the convenorship of Mrs. C. W. Lamb, was served in an alcove attractively decorated with evergreens and autumn flowers.

Mrs. Walter Windsor, presided at the tea table, assisted by Mrs. Duncan McColl, Miss Alice Hooker and Miss Mona Foley. Mrs. Kuhring, as hostess for the Historical Society, entertained Lord Tweedsmuir at tea.

Among the guests in the tea room were Rt. Hon. Sir George Perley, Lady Perley, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Hon. Mr. Rinfret, Dr. B. N. Wales, Dr. and Mrs. Lighthall, Dr. M. E. Abbott, Mr. G. Shirley Simpson, Miss B. Robertson, Mr. G. F. Kuhring.

His Excellency graciously signed the Golden Book. On his departure Dr. M. E. Abbott, representing both the Historical Society and the Abbott Memorial Committee, presented book-ends of Scottish marble, handsomely inscribed, as a remembrance of the occasion.

Among others presented during the afternoon were Mayor W. J. and Mrs. Pitcairn, Mr. A. Graham, Father Delude, Father Brosseau, Mr. Geo. Dansereau, M.L.A., Dr. J. H. Mason, Mr. L. L. Legault, Mr. J. S. Giles, Mr. R. A. Giles and Mr. C. F. V. James.

The Late Wm. Robinson

The funeral of the late Wm. Robinson took place in Smith's Falls, on Saturday last. Deceased gentleman was formerly a resident of Lachute. He was 73 years of age. Left to mourn his loss are his wife at Smith's Falls, and one son, Rupert, of Winnipeg; there remain also three sisters, Mrs. Jas. Carpenter and Miss M. Robinson of Lachute, and Mrs. John Burk of Centreville, and one brother, Mr. Robert Robinson, of Lachute.

Those attending the funeral included Mr. John Burk of Centreville, Mr. Robert Robinson of Lachute, Mr. Roy Carpenter of Montreal, and his son, Mr. Rupert Robinson, of Winnipeg.

Marriages at St. Matthew's Grenville

DEWAR — JOWETT

The marriage of Anne Margaret Jowett, daughter of Mrs. James Fitzgerald of Grenville, Que., to Frederick Adam, son of Mr. and the late Mrs. Adam Dewar, also of Grenville, took place on Oct. 3rd. in St. Matthew's Church, Grenville. The Rev. K. N. Brueton officiated, assisted by Rev. J. Irving, of St. Lambert, Que.

The church was decorated with autumn flowers and foliage. Miss Pearl Dawson, the church organist, played the wedding music. Miss Elizabeth MacLauchlan, of St. Lambert was the bride's only attendant, and Mr. Fraser Dewar acted as best man. The ushers were Mr. Walter Dewar, and Mr. John MacLauchlan.

The bride, given in marriage by her stepfather, Mr. James Fitzgerald, wore a gown of ivory lace over satin, fashioned on princess lines with matching jacket, finger-tip length, with sleeves ending in points over the hands, and wearing silver sandals. Her Mary Stuart hat was of satin and lace. She carried a bouquet of red roses and maiden hair fern. The bridesmaid was gowned in pale blue silk moire, with a slight train, wearing a pale pink silk mohair off-the-face hat and silver shoes. Her bouquet was of American Beauty roses and maiden hair fern.

Following the ceremony Mr. Dewar and his bride left for a motor trip to New York, the bride travelling in a tomato-red fine wool hand-knit suit, matching hat, and black accessories. They will reside in Grenville.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. C. J. Cloutier of Montreal, Rev. and Mrs. J. Irving and Miss Frances Irving, Mr. and Mrs. H. McLauchlan and Miss Margaret MacLauchlan, all of St. Lambert.

SOUTH — BENNETT

At four o'clock Saturday afternoon, Sept. 26th., in St. Matthew's, Grenville, at which church her parents had been married, Miss May Louisa Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Bennett of Ottawa, became the bride of Mr. William James South of Montreal, son of the late W. South and of Mrs. G. Wright of Liverpool, England.

The church was tastefully decorated with autumn flowers. The ceremony was performed by Rev. K. Brueton of Grenville, assisted by Rev. W. J. Ellis of Montreal. Mrs. Eric Thomas of Hull, Que., presided at the organ, and during the signing of the register Mrs. W. Dewar of Grenville sang "O Promise Me."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Dorothy Clarihue of Montreal, as maid of honor and by her sister, Miss Gertrude Bennett, as bridesmaid. Mr. James McColl of Montreal was best man, and the ushers were Mr. George Savage, of Montreal, and Mr. George Kennedy of Ottawa.

The bride wore a gown of honey-dew chiffon. The maid of honor and bridesmaid were dressed alike but in material of different shades.

Mr. and Mrs. South will reside at Stratford, Ont.

Pretty Wedding at Morin Heights

DEY — SEALE

The marriage of Elizabeth Olive, daughter of Lieutenant-Colonel and Mrs. J. E. Seale, of Morin Heights, Que., to Mr. Melvin Ashton Dey, son of the late Robert Dey and of Mrs. Dey of Morin Heights, took place on Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 30, in Morin Heights United Church, the Rev. G. M. Perrigard officiating. Mrs. H. A. Paquette, of Montreal, aunt of the bride, presided at the organ, and during the signing of the register Mrs. W. J. Deacon, of Lachute, sang "Because". Ferns, bronze and blue leaves were used as decorations in the church.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of midnight blue crepe romaine in tunic effect with dolman sleeves and a belt of antique gold. Her off-the-face hat of matching felt had a feather in the back and was worn with a veil and she carried an arm bouquet of deep yellow chrysanthemums and gypsophila.

Miss Edith Gilmour, of Brownsburg, who was the bride's only attendant, wore a frock of Coronation green, after Molyneux, with a jacket having long puffed sleeves and a flared peplum. She wore a mandarin type hat of felt to match and carried rose chrysanthemums and gypsophila. Little Doreen Dev, niece of the groom, acted as flower girl.

Mr. Carl E. Seale, the bride's brother, was best man for Mr. Dey, and the ushers were Mr. D. Dey and Mr. B. Dey, of Montreal, nephews of the bridegroom. Mr. H. Brown of Morin Heights, and Mr. L. S. Brown, of Macdonald College, cousins of the bride.

Mrs. Seale, the bride's mother, wore a gown of purple crepe romaine, with a shoulder corsage of Talisman roses, and a hat of velour to match. Mrs. Dey, mother of the bridegroom, was in a gown of navy blue crepe with a hat to match, and wore a shoulder corsage of deep pink roses.

The reception following the ceremony was held at the residence of the bride's parents, where ferns, autumn flowers and leaves were used as decorations. Later Mr. and Mrs. Dey left by motor for the Maine Coast and New York, the bride travelling in a hand-knit blue two-piece frock under a blue grey tweed coat with a yellow helium and autumn leaves were used as decorations following their trip they will reside in Morin Heights.

IN MEMORIAM

BENNETT—In loving memory of Father, who died October 8th., 1935.

Calm and peacefully he is sleeping—
Sweetest rest that follows pain;
We who loved him sadly miss him,
Trust in God we'll meet again.
—George, Edith and Glena.

MURRAY—In loving memory of Clarence Murray, who passed away Oct. 14th., 1935.

One year has passed
Since that sad day,
When one we loved
Was called away.
—We loved him well,
But Jesus loved him best.

Ever remembered by the family.

LANGILLE—In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Melvin, who passed away October 12, 1934.

In tears we saw him sinking,
And watched him fade away,
God knows how much we miss him,
As it dawns two years to-day.

Ever remembered by Mother, Father, Sisters and Brothers.

SCOTT—In loving memory of our dear mother, who passed away October 11th., 1935. Always remembered by her daughters, Elsie and Ina, and grandson Kenneth.

The memorial on the wall of the church was designed by Prof. P. E. Nobbs, of the department of architecture of McGill University, and takes the form of a brass tablet imposed on colored marble. It is a gift of friends and colleagues of the former prime minister, and carries with it a donation of $500 to the endowment fund of the church.

The inscription reads:

To the glory of God
and in memory of
The Honourable
SIR JOHN ABBOTT
Prime Minister of Canada

Born in 1821 in this Parish of St. Andrews, the eldest son of the Rev. Joseph Abbott, M.A., the founder of this Church. He raised and commanded the Argenteuil Rangers in 1862 and became Solicitor General of Lower Canada in that year. Dean of Law at McGill University and later a Governor, he sat for Argenteuil in the Legislative Assembly and in the House of Commons for twenty years and became Leader of the Senate in 1887 and the first Canadian born Prime Minister of this Dominion in 1891; and died in 1893.

Erected in 1936 by fellow-countrymen in recognition of his great services to Canada.

Other memorials were dedicated during the service by Bishop Farthing. These were engraved plates honoring past benefactors and revered members of Christ Church congregation, the plates being mounted on the handsome memorial board on the southern wall of the church.

Rev. R. S. Booy, Rural Dean and rector of Christ Church, was in charge of the memorial service. The Bishop's chaplain was Rev. W. LeCras, rector at Lachute. Other clergy taking part in the service were:

Canon Garrett, Hawkesbury; Rev. E. G. May, Ste. Agathe; Rev. K. N. Brueton, Grenville; Rev. T. W. Ball, New Glasgow, Que.; Rev. J. Phillips, Port Dalhousie, Ont.; Rev. C. C. Phillips, North Gore, Ont.; Rev. Gordon Addie, Rawdon; Rev. C. H. Stone, Montebello, and Rev. C. W. P. Baugh, Lakefield.

Lord Tweedsmuir was previously the luncheon guest of Dr. Abbott. Other guests were: Hon. Mr. Rinfret, Senator Meighen, Sir George and Lady Perley, Sir Chas. Gordon, A. C. Kains, Ottawa; F. E. Meredith, K.C., Montreal; Sir Edward Beatty, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Abbott, Bishop Farthing, Lt.-Col. Willis O'Connor, A.D.C., and Capt. M. E. Adeannes, A.D.C.

Members of the Abbott family who took part in the ceremonies were:

A. E. Abbott, a son; Arthur C. Abbott, a grandson, and Mrs. Abbott; Mrs. J. O. Plummer, Miss Elizabeth Abbott, Miss Ruth Abbott and Miss Phyllis Abbott, daughters of A. E. Abbott and granddaughters of Sir John; Miss Harriett Abbott, a daughter of Sir John; Dr. Maude Abbott, granddaughter of Rev. William Abbott, brother of Sir John's father; Kim Abbott, a great grandson of Sir John; Harry Hennecker, a grandson; Mrs. Peter Buckley, a granddaughter, and Mr. Buckley; and Miss Maisie Abbott. Dr. Maude Abbott is the last remaining member of the family living in this district.

A guard of honor composed of 15 members of the 17th. Duke of York's Hussars, under Lieut. William Bowen, was inspected by Lord Tweedsmuir prior to his entering the church. St. Andrews East Boy Scouts, under Scouter M. A. Snowdon, acted as orderlies. Mayor Pitcairn received His Excellency on behalf of the municipality.

Lord Tweedsmuir, and the party were conducted on a tour of the exhibits by the Custodians.

After viewing the exhibits, tea, under the convenorship of Mrs. C. W. Lamb, was served in an alcove attractively decorated with evergreens and autumn flowers.

Mrs. Walter Windsor, presided at the tea table, assisted by Mrs. Duncan McColl, Miss Alice Hooker and Miss Mona Foley. Mrs. Kuhring, as hostess for the Historical Society, entertained Lord Tweedsmuir at tea.

Among the guests in the tea room were Rt. Hon. Sir George Perley, Lady Perley, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Hon. Mr. Rinfret, Dr. B. N. Wales, Dr. and Mrs. Lighthall, Dr. M. E. Abbott, Mr. G. Shirley Simpson, Miss B. Robertson, Mr. G. F. Kuhring.

His Excellency graciously signed the Golden Book. On his departure Dr. M. E. Abbott, representing both the Historical Society and the Abbott Memorial Committee, presented book-ends of Scottish marble, handsomely inscribed, as a remembrance of the occasion.

Among others presented during the afternoon were Mayor W. J. and Mrs. Pitcairn, Mr. A. Graham, Father Delude, Father Brosseau, Mr. Geo. Dansereau, M.L.A., Dr. J. H. Mason, Mr. L. L. Legault, Mr. J. S. Giles, Mr. R. A. Giles and Mr. C. F. V. James.

The Late Wm. Robinson

The funeral of the late Wm. Robinson took place in Smith's Falls, on Saturday last. Deceased gentleman was formerly a resident of Lachute. He was 73 years of age. Left to mourn his loss are his wife at Smith's Falls, and one son, Rupert, of Winnipeg; there remain also three sisters, Mrs. Jas. Carpenter and Miss M. Robinson of Lachute, and Mrs. John Burk of Centreville, and one brother, Mr. Robert Robinson, of Lachute.

Those attending the funeral included Mr. John Burk of Centreville, Mr. Robert Robinson of Lachute, Mr. Roy Carpenter of Montreal, and his son, Mr. Rupert Robinson, of Winnipeg.

Marriages at St. Matthew's Grenville

DEWAR — JOWETT

The marriage of Anne Margaret Jowett, daughter of Mrs. James Fitzgerald of Grenville, Que., to Frederick Adam, son of Mr. and the late Mrs. Adam Dewar, also of Grenville, took place on Oct. 3rd. in St. Matthew's Church, Grenville. The Rev. K. N. Brueton officiated, assisted by Rev. J. Irving, of St. Lambert, Que.

The church was decorated with autumn flowers and foliage. Miss Pearl Dawson, the church organist, played the wedding music. Miss Elizabeth MacLauchlan of St. Lambert was the bride's only attendant, and Mr. Fraser Dewar acted as best man. The ushers were Mr. Walter Dewar, and Mr. John MacLauchlan.

The bride, given in marriage by her stepfather, Mr. James Fitzgerald, wore a gown of ivory lace over satin, fashioned on princess lines with matching jacket, finger-tip length, with sleeves ending in points over the hands, and wearing silver sandals. Her Mary Stuart hat was of satin and lace. She carried a bouquet of red roses and maiden hair fern. The bridesmaid was gowned in pale blue silk moire, with a slight train, wearing a pale pink silk mohair off-the-face hat and silver shoes. Her bouquet was of American Beauty roses and maiden hair fern.

Following the ceremony Mr. Dewar and his bride left for a motor trip to New York, the bride travelling in a tomato-red fine wool hand-knit suit, matching hat, and black accessories. They will reside in Grenville.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. C. J. Cloutier of Montreal, Rev. and Mrs. J. Irving and Miss Frances Irving, Mr. and Mrs. H. MacLauchlan and Miss Margaret MacLauchlan, all of St. Lambert.

SOUTH — BENNETT

At four o'clock Saturday afternoon, Sept. 26th., in St. Matthew's, Grenville, at which church her parents had been married, Miss May Louisa Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Bennett of Ottawa, became the bride of Mr. William James South of Montreal, son of the late W. South and of Mrs. G. Wright of Liverpool, England.

The church was tastefully

decorated with autumn flowers. The ceremony was performed by Rev. K. Brueton of Grenville, assisted by Rev. W. J. Ellis of Montreal. Mrs. Eric Thomas of Hull, Que., presided at the organ, and during the signing of the register Mrs. W. Dewar of Grenville sang "O Promise Me."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Dorothy Clerihue of Montreal, as maid of honor and by her sister, Miss Gertrude Bennett, as bridesmaid. Mr. James McColl of Montreal was best man, and the ushers were Mr. George Savage, of Montreal, and Mr. George Kennedy of Ottawa.

The bride wore a gown of honey-dew chiffon. The maid of honor and bridesmaid were dressed alike but in material of different shades.

Mr. and Mrs. South will reside at Stratford, Ont.

DEY — SEALE

The marriage of Elizabeth Olive, daughter of Lieutenant-Colonel and Mrs. J. E. Seale, of Morin Heights, Que., to Mr. Melvin Ashton Dey, son of the late Robert Dey and of Mrs. Dey of Morin Heights, took place on Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 30, in Morin Heights United Church, the Rev. G. M. Perrigard officiating. Mrs. H. A. Paquette, of Montreal, aunt of the bride, presided at the organ, and during the signing of the register Mrs. W. J. Deacon, of Lachute, sang "Because". Ferns, bronze and yellow heliums and autumn leaves were used as decorations in the church.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of midnight blue crepe romaine in tunic effect with dolman sleeves and a belt of antique gold. Her off-the-face hat of matching felt had a feather in the back and was worn with a veil and she carried an arm bouquet of deep yellow chrysanthemums and gypsophila.

Miss Edith Gilmour, of Brownsburg, who was the bride's only attendant, wore a frock of Coronation green, after Molyneux, with a jacket having long puffed sleeves and a flared peplum. She wore a mandarin type hat of felt to match and carried rose chrysanthemums and gypsophila. Little Doreen Dey, niece of the groom, acted as flower girl.

Mr. Carl E. Seale, the bride's brother, was best man for Mr. Dey, and the ushers were Mr. D. Dey and Mr. B. Dey, of Montreal, nephews of the bridegroom. Mr. H. Brown of Morin Heights, and Mr. L. S. Brown, of Macdonald College, cousins of the bride.

Mrs. Seale, the bride's mother, wore a gown of purple crepe romaine, with a shoulder corsage of Talisman roses, and a hat of velour to match. Mrs. Dey, mother of the bridegroom, was in a gown of navy blue crepe with a hat to match, and wore a shoulder corsage of deep pink roses.

The reception following the ceremony was held at the residence of the bride's parents, where ferns, autumn flowers and leaves were used as decorations. Later Mr. and Mrs. Dey left by motor for the Maine Coast and New York, the bride travelling in a hand-knit blue two-piece frock under a blue grey tweed coat with a blue fox collar, a navy blue hat and matching accessories. Following their trip they will reside in Morin Heights.

IN MEMORIAM

BENNETT—In loving memory of Father, who died October 8th., 1935.

Calm and peacefully he is sleeping—
Sweetest rest that follows pain;
We who loved him sadly miss him,
Trust in God we'll meet again.
—George, Edith and Glena.

MURRAY—In loving memory of Clarence Murray, who passed away Oct. 14th., 1935.

One year has passed
Since that sad day,
When one we loved
Was called away.
—We loved him well,
But Jesus loved him best.

Ever remembered by the family.

LANGILLE—In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Melvin, who passed away October 12, 1934.

In tears we saw him sinking,
And watched him fade away,
God knows how much we miss him
As it dawns two years to-day.

Ever remembered by Mother, Father, Sisters and Brothers.

SCOTT—In loving memory of our dear mother, who passed away October 11th., 1935. Always remembered by her daughters, Elsie and Ina, and grandson Kenneth.

"Argenteuil's Greatest Son"

Among the many positions of trust which Mr. Abbott came to occupy at this time should be especially remembered the Fraser Institute of Montreal of which he had been constituted life president under the will of his friend, Hugh Fraser, its founder; for to his indefatigable efforts on its behalf and his personal contributions it was mainly due that the Public Library attained the high standard of efficiency which it has ever since enjoyed. He was also in these years president of the Citizens Insurance Company and a director of the Bank of Montreal and of the Standard Life Insurance Company.

Sir John Abbott was sworn to the Privy Council on May 13th., 1887, and until the death of Sir John A. Macdonald in June, 1891, he acted as the exponent of the Government in the Upper House. "As a Leader of the Senate he was forced to sustain the burden of much of the debate, and as he had to explain and pass through the House bills dealing with the whole thirteen departments of the Government, his speeches necessarily covered a range co-extensive with his entire functions. These speeches were distinguished by their accurate knowledge of the subject, logical argumentation, and well chosen and courteous language. The late Premier frequently said of him that he realized more fully the model of the English Parliamentary speaker than any other member of the Dominion Parliament."

Became Prime Minister of Dominion.

It was on June 13th., 1891, that he was inducted, much against his will, to accept from the Crown the office of Prime Minister rendered vacant a few days earlier by the passing of his great predecessor. He was now in his seventieth year and had begun to long for the leisure of his home and the enjoyment of his books and art treasures, the oversight of his farm and garden and particularly, we may surmise, for the opportunity to cultivate and study his beloved orchids, of which his conservatories already presented the richest variety at that time in Canada. Moreover his innate dislike of political strife and subterfuge made him shrink from taking the helm of the country at a time when the current of opposing forces ran very high. He yielded, however, to the persuasion of His Excellency and the Minister of Justice and to his own sense of duty, and consented to act. All the other members of the Cabinet with great unanimity retained their portfolios, and he carried the Government through one of the most difficult sessions Canada had yet seen, the business of the State being firmly and steadily proceeded with in the face of opposition. He was steadily winning the confidence of the people as a consistent, determined and indefatigable administrator, and on May 24th., 1892, he was knighted by the Queen. In December of that year, however, he was forced by declining health to resign from his Ministry. He passed away in October, 1893, leaving a memory of great ability, personal sacrifice and political honesty. He was the third Prime Minister of Canada to be appointed since Confederation and had the distinction of being the first who was native-born.

Sir John Abbott's early biographer writes, "One of his most prominent characteristics was a strong sense of justice. . . Although remarkable for his dislike of litigation, no sooner was he satisfied that injustice was being done or oppression practised, than with intense concentration of energy, he would throw himself into the case, and press it to the end with indomitable capacity. And it was frequently remarked of him that the poorer and more defenceless his client, the more determined and persistent was the struggle made for him. To his great power of concentration, and thorough training in legal, financial and business affairs, he added a rapid perception of the material points in any matter brought before him, which qualities enabled him during his career at the Bar to accomplish with more than ordinary success a vast amount of business." The author of the Jury Consolidated Act of Lower Canada and the recognized exponent of the Act relating to bankruptcy, his law practice grew, during the course of his long life of incessant industry, to enormous proportions, but his services and shrewd counsel were always at the disposal of anyone hailing from his old county of Argenteuil.

BOY MAKES JOB

A page boy in the New York stock exchange whom nobody knows by any other name than "Abba Dabba", can be counted on to make his own way in the world. In addition to his other duties, he has been going around to the various offices in the exchange building contracting to supply one lapel carnation every morning, except Sunday, for $1 a week. He already has 200 customers and his carnations rarely cost him more than 50 cents a dozen.

Rev. Cecil Boulton, the "flying curate," landed his plane on the beach at Littlestone-by-the-Sea, England, and held a service which was attended by bathing girls.

WHEN THE WIND RAGES

The North Wind's in a tantrum
He's screaming around the eaves
He's tossing Dolly's silver mane,
And breaking off the leaves.

He's carrying them across the lawn,

The wicked, wicked North Wind's
Been doing this for hours.

He took the canvas cover off
My play-house in the yard—
I wish he would not be so cross
Or blow so very hard!

"Yes, I started to cross the hump in the bed once more."

"Was it a camel's hump?"
Flip asked in great excitement.

"Why no, child," her aunt said crossly. She did not like to be interrupted when telling a story. "Whoever heard of a camel in a bedroom?"

"Or a hill either!" Cordelia thought to herself. She was enjoying this story. She knew what the hump or hill in the bed was; she remembered the night quite well. What a tale she would have to tell her cousin Margaret when she got back home—if she ever did. The thought of home made her glance around quickly. The little nutshells that had been full of oil were burning lower, and the room was getting darker. The Soft-Fur family in their excitement were not noticing this. Cordelia stirred uneasily on her stool.

"Hush!" said Mrs. Soft Fur, laying her paw on Cordelia's arm. "We must not interrupt Aunt Fanny until she has finished her story. It makes her so angry."

The friendly touch of Mrs. Soft Fur's little paw lessened Cordelia's terror of the darkening room so that she was able once more to pay attention to Aunt Fanny's story.

"Just as I was crossing the hump again it moved and sat up just like a tree. I slid right off; fortunately I was on the right side of the bed and scrambled quickly down to the floor. As I started to hurry out of the room I heard a voice from the other side of that door that is never open, saying 'Hattie, is Thelma crying?' and far off in the distance another voice saying faintly, 'No, Thelma has been asleep for hours.' Then, said the nearest voice, 'It must be Margaret'. The door—that never-opens swung open quickly; someone came into the room and said, 'What's the matter, Margaret?'"

"Then I knew what had made the hump—for a voice from the bed said 'Aunt Jessie, there's something all the while running over my bed. It ran over my face first, then my hands, and frightened me terribly. Do you suppose it was a mouse?' Sitting quietly in a corner by the door, I said to myself (said Aunt Fanny, her eyes snapping), 'Yes, it was a mouse. A little grey-toed mouse, and I was just as much frightened as you were, but if I had known, what that hump was I would have frightened you a bit more, Miss Margaret.'"

Cordelia did not like the sound of Silly Curly's laugh when Aunt Fanny said that, or his speech after. "Why didn't you come for me, Aunt Fanny; we would have gone back and scared her again. The two of us would have spent the night just hopping backwards and forwards across her. We would have played hide and seek, leap frog, and all the silly little games we see those children upstairs playing, over top of her, until we would have had her in spazms with fear."

"There was no chance to do that, Curly, for Aunt Jessie (whoever she was) took Margaret away and the house was quiet for the rest of the night, so quiet that a burned stick, dropping in the fireplace, sounded so loud that it made me hop right up in the air, it startled me so; my nerves were still a bit shaky from the fright I had earlier in the night."

Lovingly, Aunt Jean.

BOY SCOUTS THE WORLD OVER

NO HITCH HIKERS HERE!

A 750-mile "bike hike" around southwestern Ontario, with pup tent and cooking tent, was the summer holiday of Sea Scout Ted Horton of Owen Sound and Scout Keith Solomon of Meaford. They averaged 70 miles a day, had no accidents, and returned "healthy as a pair of boys could be."

ROPE-FULS OF ORPHANS

One of the jobs of Toronto Scouts on duty this year at the Canadian National Exhibition was showing the sights to a large number of orphans who were enjoying the annual Shriners' treat. To prevent them getting lost, the children were taken round in batches of twenty or more, on a rope, with a Scout at either end.

SCOUT TOTEM POLE HALTS TOTEMSEERS

SCOUT TEXTBOOK IN MANY LANGUAGES

The Boy Scout's textbook, "Scouting for Boys", by Baden-Powell, has been translated into these twenty-six languages: Arabic, Spanish, Hebrew, French, Flemish, Czechoslovakian, Bulgarian, Estonian, German, Dutch, Indian Vernacular, Italian, Japanese, Malay, Polish, Roumanian, Russian, Swedish, Turkish, Yugoslavian, Afrikaans (South African Dutch), Finnish, Danish, Hungarian, Lithuanian and Swahili. There is also an English edition for the blind in Braille.

B.-P. INVESTS GOVERNOR OF CENTRAL INDIA AS A SCOUT

The solemn investiture of Sir Hyde Clarendon Gowan, Governor of the Central Provinces, India, as a Scout, the ceremony being performed by Lord Baden-Powell himself, was a notable incident of the opening by the Chief Scout of the new National Woodcraft Camp on Lake Windermere. The "new Scout" is Provincial Chief Scout of the Central provinces. Distinguished leaders comprised the troop for the ceremony, and Sir Percy Everett, Deputy Chief Commissioner, performed the duties of a Patrol Leader.

KING GEORGE V. AND THE BIBLE

(Contributed)

It seems but a few days ago that the British people throughout the world were filled with deep regret at the news of our late King's death. People also of all nations felt that a great and noble life had passed from our midst.

King George V. was a truly Christian man and drew his strength from his faith in God. When Sunday came round he honored it as good men have always done, and made it a duty to worship in the House of God. His faith was sustained by the Word of God, the daily reading of which he considered his duty and privilege.

"The knowledge that the Bible meant so much to His Majesty strengthened the bond between the throne and the people; and his practice of regular daily Bible reading remains as an invaluable example." From his earliest manhood he was in the habit of reading a chapter every day.

When a young man of eighteen he made a promise to his mother, Queen Alexandra, that he would do this, and more than thirty years later Lord Knollys, the king's private secretary, assured a correspondent that His Majesty had ever since adhered to that promise.

When we ask what the secret might be of his strong and gracious character, are we not justified in saying that it lay partly in his daily study of God's Word?

In 1911, when the three hundredth anniversary of the publishing of the Authorized Version of the Bible was being commemorated, the British and Foreign Bible Society presented His Majesty with a specially bound Bible. The Archbishop of Canterbury read the address and the President of the Society presented the Bible. In his reply the King said, among other things:—"It is my constant hope that my subjects may never cease to cherish their noble inheritance in the English Bible, which, in a secular aspect, is the first of national treasures; and, as you truly say, in its spiritual significance, 'the most valuable thing that this world affords.'"

His Majesty was keenly interested in the Bible Society and

CURIOSITY KILLS CAT

A farmer near Wadney, Ga., killed a rattlesnake near the house and, for safety reasons, buried the rattler's head. Soon afterwards, a cat sniffing about the freshly turned earth, began digging in it and came to the snake's head, which still had enough life in it to close down on the cat's paw. Next day the cat was dead.

After searching for what seemed like hours for his lost ball, the golfer turned angrily to his caddy.

"Why the dickens didn't you watch where it went?" he cried.

"Sorry, sir," replied the caddy, "but it don't usually go nowhere, and it kind of took me unprepared like."

Hints for Homebodies

Specially Written for Readers of The Watchman
By JESSIE ALLEN BROWN

PUTTING ON AN ACT

It is a funny thing the way people put on acts. There is the woman who is so busy. No one else works but her. Then there is the one who works so hard in the different organizations. The Ladies' Aid and the Women's Institute could not exist if she were not on hand. Another woman is the perfect mother. To hear her talk you would think she was the only mother who ever did anything for her children. Another is the woman who is so popular socially, she barely gets time to breathe for invitations. In contrast we have the real home body who loves her home so she really cannot leave. The woman who loves to read but simply never have a minute, is another one we often meet. Those are only a few of the acts I happen to hear most often. The men too, they are just as good at putting on an act. There is a man who lives and breathes business. Then there is the golfer who gives you every play in his last game at golf, up to and including the nineteenth hole. The bowler does his act and plays every bowl in the game. There is the father act, sometimes it is the proud father, sometimes the stern father and the indulgent one who can refuse his children nothing, does his stuff too. There is the man who is the de'il among the women. And we know two or three who won the war. It is a queer thing the way these other people all have acts. I know I haven't one and I am perfectly sure you haven't either.

'SHRINK THE TUMMY TO REDUCE'

Appetites are keener in the fall. Meals are heartier and first thing you know, if you are one of those with a tendency to gain, you have put on a few unwanted pounds. If that has happened take them off immediately. It may take considerable determination to do this but if you really try it is not hard, and need not be too uncomfortable. Keep this in mind. After the first few bites, we eat not because we are hungry but because we enjoy the food and we want to eat until we feel full. So the thing to do is to arrange matters so that we feel full earlier in the meal. Remember always that the stomach is an elastic sack and may be stretched or expanded. If your stomach is normally stretched by eating larger meals than you require the first thing to do is to shrink your stomach to a smaller size so that you will feel comfortably full before you have eaten too much. Start this shrinking by a modified fast of a day or so. A week-end is a good time to do this as one should not do without food while working hard. Take a day and eat practically nothing but drink plenty. Take orange juice, tomato juice or any desired fruit juice, or clear soup with a cracker every two hours. One day of this will be enough to start the shrinkage and continue by eating a little less than desired each meal. In a week or two you will find that if you eat as much as you did before you are uncomfortably full. They say that the best exercise for reducing is to put both hands on the table and draw back. If you need to take off pounds start shrinking the tummy.

GRATED CARROTS

Have you tried grated carrots in your salads or sandwiches? If you have not used them they may sound queer but really they are quite an addition. A bit of grated carrot may be used as a garnish, but to make them a substantial part of the salad is a good idea. Try grated carrot and salted peanuts mixed with salad dressing and serve on lettuce. Good I assure you. If you like to put it in a sandwich grind or roll the peanuts first. This makes a good sandwich for a school child. Try a mixture of ground cold meat, hard cooked eggs, and grated carrot moistened with salad dressing for the school lunch box.

MAPLE WALNUT CAKE

1 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup shortening
2 eggs
1 teaspoon maple flavouring
1 cup milk
1 3/4 cups pastry flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 cup chopped walnuts
Cream butter and sugar, add beaten egg yolks. Sift in flour and baking powder and add alternately with the milk. Add flavouring and nuts, beat well and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in a moderate oven of 375 degrees for about 40 minutes.

APPLE CRISP

Fill a casserole with sliced apples, add brown sugar between layers, the average casserole requiring about a cup. Cover and bake until the apples are tender. Rub together 3/4 cup flour, 1/2 cup brown sugar and 1/4 cup butter. Sprinkle this over the top of the apples and bake uncovered until it is a gentle brown. Serve with cream. To my thinking this is one of the best of the apple desserts.

CHOCOLATE AND COCOA

It is a simple matter to make a good cup of chocolate or cocoa. Yet it is equally easy to make a not-so-tasty one. Why on some occasions does a heavy brown skin form over the top of the liquid; why did some of the chocolate or cocoa drop to the bottom of the cup, or specks of fat sail along on top? Or why did that cocoa you had in the restaurant the other day taste as uncooked as a raw potato? The milk, not the chocolate or cocoa, is responsible for the skin. This same coating forms when the milk is heated, and the greater the heat or the longer the cooking time, the larger and thicker it will be. Of course, some of the chocolate mixes with the coating and thus it seems even more noticeable than on the milk.

Chocolate or cocoa should be cooked first with cold water and sugar over low flame, stirring constantly for several minutes—almost the same process we use in making a flour gravy. Then the cold milk is gradually added, stirring to make certain it is thoroughly blended and heated, not boiled, until the milk is hot. It is best to do this last step in a double boiler, for it is so much easier to control the heat. At this point to keep the "skin" from forming, beat the mixture with a rotary egg beater until the hot beverage froths on top. — Esther Kimmel, in Pictorial Review.

Care in Little Things

He that has "a spirit of detail" will do better in life than many who figured beyond him in the university. — Such a one is minute and particular. — He adjusts trifles; and these trifles compose most of the business and happiness of life. — Great events happen seldom, and affect few; trifles happen every moment to everybody; and though one occurrence of them adds little to the happiness or misery of life; yet the sum total of their continual repetition is of the highest consequence.

Eyebrows Are Returning to Normal State

"The Beauty Box", by Helen Follett
(A Regular Feature for Watchman Readers)

What girls have done to their eyebrows is plenty. Remodeling is on the way. Those that have been scalloped, or made to look zigzag like a streak of lightning, must resume natural lines if a little dearheart is to be truly of the moment. We're getting practical and steady minded in lots of ways. Note, please, how the painted cheek has faded, how the lipstick smear has been toned down and put under restraint. Pass your finger along the crest of the bone above the eye socket. There's a sort of cliff there; it is along the edge that Mama Nature places the eyebrow, scarcely ever varying from that pattern. By tweezing along the under side of the hirsute lambequin over the soul window, the eyebrow has been lifted, giving a girl a look of permanent surprise. She must now tweeze from both borders if her eyebrows are too wide. Back to normal is the high cry in beautydom.

It is no longer voguey to have the eyebrows too widely separated. Believe it or sneer, but it makes the eyes look smaller, less interesting. Of course, there must not be a shadowy trail of fuzzers between them. Grooming is still necessary.

One way of stimulating the growth of the glorious crown and to make it stop moulting is to pick up small strands and give a pull. The hair root rests against tiny muscles which are given exercise that way. The blood streams of the scalp are roused to action.

When massaging, work at the nape of the neck; there are arteries there. Spread out the fingers and thumbs and do a vigorous mauling. It is a good plan to trickle a hair tonic on

THE WOMAN'S PAGE

By Alice Alden

(Copyright, 1936, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

A LOVELY SETTING for the new evening fashions adds to their beauty. Right at home in luxurious surroundings is a full length military cape of snowy ermine with a little fitted, buttoned vest of the ermine showing in front.

A NEW LINE is seen in a hat that has a wide supple brim that is turned away at the hair line to frame the face in extended halo effect. There is a tiny brown grosgrain ruching at the edge of the brim. The hat is of brown hatter's plush.

ANOTHER SHINE for this season of gleaming fabrics is the reappearance of silver and gold metallic cloth. A new evening frock is of silver cloth misted by an overdress of white chiffon trimmed with silver paillettes of various sizes.

A GOOD MATCH for a suit of velvet with white galyak trim is an off-the-face brimmed hat of strips of black velvet and black galyak with an ornament of white and black galyak.

ACROSS THE CAMPUS we notice many two-piece frocks composed of novelty wool tops and velveteen skirts. A typical model has a slim blue velveteen skirt with a striped wool tunic blouse trimmed with blue velveteen pipings and buttons. ALWAYS IN DEMAND by the individual type is the beautifully styled tricorne. Erik shows a neat tricorne of black hatter's plush with a large bow of veiling, a mesh with squared velvet dots, extending on either side.

NEW SHOWS will be the setting for new and glamorous evening fashions. A lovely full-length coat of dark blue velvet has wide silver fox swirled around the dolman sleeves to simulate a capelet.

A GOOD LAUGH at the rain will be the lot of the girl who ventures forth clad in a smart raincoat. A new model has wide sleeves and collar finished with sawtooth edge and is finished down the front with scarlet patent leather piping. The coat is white.

There's nothing like these dusky autumn evenings "steeped in the strong perfume of grain and moist earth, of over-ripe fruit and rotting leaves."

DISTRICT NEWS

LAKEFIELD

Mrs. Thos. McCambly has returned home after a visit with friends in Eau-Claire, Ont.

The monthly meeting of the W. A. of Trinity Church was held at the home of Mrs. Geo. Peet on Wednesday last, with a fair attendance of members. Following the business session refreshments were served by the hostess.

On Thursday morning, October 1st., Very Reverend Dean Arthur Carlisle, of Christ Church Cathedral, Montreal, preached the Thanksgiving sermon here at the annual Harvest Home of Holy Trinity Church. The service was conducted by Rev. C. W. P. Baugh, assisted by Rev. G. May, M.A., of Ste. Agathe, and Rev. W. C. LeCras of Lachute. Rev. H. P. Mount was also in the Chancel. Rev. A. E. Mount, organist and Choir Director, played music very appropriate for the occasion. The Choir rendered "O Lord, how manifold are Thy Works", as the Harvest Anthem. The Church was very tastefully decorated for the occasion, and a true spirit of thankfulness seemed to permeate the building. The offering, which amounted to over thirty dollars, was devoted toward payment of the budget apportionment.

ST. ANDREWS EAST

Mr. and Mrs. George Perks and Mr. and Mrs. Lawson Taylor have been guests of friends at Fulford, Que., for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Cairns motored to Sawyerville and spent the week-end at the home of Mr. Cairns' mother.

NOTES AND COMMENT FROM BROWNSBURG

NEW GARAGE

Mr. McVicar is to be congratulated on the fine structure he has erected to replace the old garage, which will shortly be torn down. The new building is much larger and solidly built, fitted with a first class heating unit, and promises to be an addition to the beautification of this village.

HOLIDAY SEASON ENDING

The disagreeable weather conditions of the past weeks have brought an abrupt termination to the camping season, and with a few exceptions camps are closed for the winter months. The season was a good one, on the whole.

WEDDING BELLS

Mr. Wyman Hazel has joined the benedicts, his marriage to Miss Violet Hewitt having been celebrated last week-end. We wish them many happy years of wedded bliss.

Miss Rose Tassier got to first base with Alphonse Leroux, who is being received into the Catholic Church prior to their wedding this Saturday. Best of luck!

Monseigneur Chartreau paid a visit to the Catholic Church last week for the purpose of initiating a branch of the Action Catholique in Brownsburg. A working committee was formed after an address had been delivered by the Monseigneur, in which the purpose and aims of the Action Catholique were forcefully explained.

—The event you have been waiting for: big bargains for everyone during the Rexall One Cent Sale to be held soon.

—The lecture by Mr. T. W. Jones in the Lachute United Church on Thursday, Oct. 22, will be humorous and entertaining, as well as educational. Come and bring your friends.

ARGENTEUIL PLOWMEN'S ASSN. FIELD DAY NOW IN PROGRESS

Wider Competition and Interesting Features, 2nd. Annual Event

The second annual plowing match sponsored by the Argenteuil Plowmen's Association is in progress today at Stayerville. Held last year adjacent to No. 8 highway on the outskirts of Lachute, the event this year is drawing an interested crowd to the farms of Theo. Murdock, A. Legault and J. Ouellette in Chatham. Unfortunately the event opened under weather conditions far from promising.

Plowing commenced at 8.30 o'clock this morning. An increased entry list is reported in the boys' classes and the tractor events. The interprovincial aspect is more effectively marked in competition put up by entrants from Eastern Ontario. A large crowd are present on the grounds to witness the skill of youthful and veteran plowmen, and the beauty of their teams and turn-outs.

Added interest is noted this year in the displays of equipment and machinery. These include exhibits of tractors, milking machines, plows and potato diggers.

Results of the contests will be published in these pages next week.

Georges Auger, Quebec Legislature member for Gatineau County, has announced that highway improvements in the Gatineau-Mont Laurier district costing around $350,000 will be started immediately by the Provincial Government. Between 700 and 1,000 men will be given employment.

Local Winner At Cornwall Plowing Match

Entrants from this district in the Cornwall plowing match, which excited keen interest last week among agriculturists, included Alex. Doig and J. D. Shaw. The former took fourth and fifth places in the two-furrow events. He was assisted by his daughter, Miss Myrtle Doig, who appears to have won the acclaim of spectators. The Cornwall Standard-Freeholder made the following comment:

Six-foot Myrtle Doig today gave the plowing match a feminine touch as she trudged behind her father's two-furrow machine, coaching him and moving sod by hand when the furrow displeased her.

Myrtle, sturdy daughter of Alex. Doig of Lachute, Que., followed her father's riding plow, only implement of its type in the contest, making sure the three-horse team worked in unison and adjusting the machine at times.

She was asked if she liked the plow and answered, regarding it with the eye of a connoisseur: "I would not sell it for $1,000."

Myrtle has lived all her life on the farm and said she has no desire to move to a city.

LADIES' GOLF CLOSING

A pleasant session was observed in the closing of the Ladies' Golf Club, held on Saturday last at the show-rooms of the Cottingham Supply Coy. The distribution of prizes was made. After a few remarks by the President, Miss M. V. Slater, tea was served. The report of the Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. R. McOuat, was most gratifying and showed a very successful year as regards financial standing.

GOLDEN WEDDING CELEBRATED AT BROWNSBURG

An occasion creating not a little interest in Brownsburg was the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John Graham, who on Monday last, Oct. 12th., celebrated the happy event at the home of their daughter, Mrs. F. Jordan.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham were married in Dalesville by the Rev. John King, at the same time that Mr. Graham's sister (Mamie) became the bride of Mrs. Graham's brother, the late Charles Vary.

The house was prettily decorated with bronze chrysanthemums and following the supper, at which about thirty of the immediate family sat down, Mr. and Mrs. Graham were presented with a purse of gold and congratulations were freely extended.

Wolves Preying On Livestock In Gatineau

Gatineau county farmers have reported many attacks of bears and wolves on their livestock. The menace has become so prevalent that several farmers have sold their flocks of sheep.

J. W. Delaney, Quebec Government agricultural representative for Gatineau and Pontiac Counties, said that "from what I have heard, wolves are the chief cause of trouble, but bears are hungry they will attack farm stock."

Delaney said scarcity of small game or migration of deer on which the wolves feed might have led to their attacks on livestock. He added that he had written to authorities at Quebec asking that some help be given farmers in meeting the problem.

Prima-Donna Is Heard in Brownsburg

SPECIAL SERVICES AT UNITED CHURCH

The services in the Brownsburg United Church on Sunday last were largely attended and of a special character throughout.

Being Harvest-Thanksgiving the Minister, Rev. S. J. Pike, exchanged pulpits with Rev. W. B. Rosborough, of Lachute, for the morning service, who spoke on a Thanksgiving theme, drawing many practical lessons from our varied experiences through life. Mrs. F. Cameron (née Dame Maria Karinska), from Montreal, a Russian Princess and Prima-donna in her musical world, rendered with great dramatic effect and intense spiritual emotion, "On Calvary's Brow" and "All Alone, My Saviour Died". Following her second number Mrs. Cameron made reference to the late Rev. Dr. Jonathan Goforth, under whose ministry she then Dame Maria Karinska became converted, while travelling in her profession as a world figure.

At the evening service, which was conducted by Rev. S. J. Pike, speaking on "Thanksgiving Requests", Mrs. Cameron again sang with a high spiritual tone, "Jesus, Just the Same." In addition to her contribution in song Mrs. Cameron told her story as to her "New Way of Life" — exchanging her costume of $30,000.00 value, and weighing some sixty-five pounds, pre-

QUESTIONED IN MISHAP, DRIVER MAKES HASTY DEPARTURE

On Monday, October 12th., a Graham-Paige of 1927 vintage bearing an Ontario licence plate collided with a truck belonging to the Quebec Roads Department at Chatboro, in this county.

The local traffic officer, in the course of his duties, was called to view the wreck and make his routine report. His curiosity was awakened by three boxes of cheese on the rear seat, and when he asked the driver about these, the latter took to his heels and got away.

The Province is richer by 270 pounds of the best Canadian cheese and a Graham-

LOCAL FIREMEN GET INTO ACTION, CENTRE WARD, IN 3½ MINUTES

Chief Jos. Chavalier, of the Fire Commissioner's Office, Quebec, made his periodical visit of inspection here yesterday and expressed satisfaction with the performance of the local brigade. The siren was sounded at 2.30 o'clock in the afternoon, and within 3½ minutes the firemen had water streaming from a hose laid on Main Street close to the Rex Theatre. The test calls for laying of 100 feet of hose from the truck. The Inspector also made tests on the pump pressure and found everything conforming with requirements of his department.

MONEY VARIATIONS ARE OBSTACLE TO TRADE WITH GERMANY... OTTAWA PLANS TO AID UNEMPLOYED YOUTH AND WOMEN

Ottawa, October 13—Numerous minor matters are being worked out behind the scenes at Ottawa, while Premier Mackenzie King and his colleagues are overseas.

Canadian and German representations are trying to get together on a trade treaty. Germany wants nickel, asbestos, wheat and other raw materials. She wants to sell finished manufactured goods, of iron and steel largely, to Canada. There are several obstacles. Canada feels that she can sell all her nickel, asbestos, wheat, at the moment, without much effort. The market in Canada for external manufactured articles is not unlimited and there is the renewal of the British agreement to think about. Also the United States treaty, and the position of the Canadian manufacturer.

sented to her by the Czar of Russia, and decked with precious stones, for the "Garment of Praise". As a Prima-donna of her day the former Dame Karinska travelled in twenty-eight countries, sang before immense audiences, including Albert Hall, London. Royalty often figured amongst her admiring hearers.

The congregations who heard her on Sunday will welcome the opportunity to come into contact with such a one—once of the world and singing for its glory; now devoting her time and talent to the service of the Church. As Mr. Pike paid tribute in the words of Jenny Lind, "I sing for God", to Mrs. Cameron, who now gives such a glowing spiritual testimony.

SENSATIONAL ESCAPE FROM ST. JEROME JAIL

CONVICT BREAKS FROM PRISON CELL

Striking down the turnkey with an iron bar wrenched out of his cell window, Lionel Maurice, a prisoner awaiting sentence on a theft charge, made his escape from the St. Jerome jail at 6 o'clock Tuesday evening.

The prisoner suffered a blow on the head in the scuffle, but recovered before the turnkey and ran to the door of the jail. He walked out and disappeared. Sheriff J. W. Cyr and local police soon had men combing the district, particularly along the shores of the North River. Police of other towns and of Montreal have been communicated with and requested to be on the lookout.

The turnkey, Adrien Locas, was taking Maurice his supper. As he opened the door of the cell Maurice gave him a shove which sent him spinning to the floor, and at the same time struck him on the head with an iron bar. But as he fell, Locas knocked Maurice down with his heavy key ring. The convict was the first to recover and ran out. At the same moment Locas blew a blast on his whistle, summoning aid.

Jailer Binette arrived in a moment but the prisoner was out of the building and out of sight. Word was sent to Sheriff Cyr and he summoned the aid of St. Jerome police.

SHAWBRIDGE MAYOR'S DAUGHTER DROWNED

Denise Renaud, four-year-old daughter of Mayor Renaud of Shawbridge, was drowned last Thursday afternoon when she fell into a fire-emergency reservoir while playing on the bank with her sister. Coroner J. R. Brais, of St. Jerome, held an inquest and rendered a verdict of accidental death.

The two little girls were at play when Denise slid down the bank. Her sister ran to the nearby plant of the Shawbridge Lumber Company and employees went back with her to the reservoir. After several minutes the body was recovered and artificial respiration was practised for over half an hour before the men gave up hope.

CHECK PETTY THIEVING IN ARGENTEUIL COUNTY

A mild epidemic of thefts around Lachute town has been effectively checked, thanks to rapid and effective work by the Provincial authorities.

Last week, acting on complaints of Lachute residents, the Attorney-General authorized Mr. Georges-H. Heon, attorney-at-law from Lachute, to take necessary measures and curb the activities of the marauders.

With the help of the local traffic officer, Albert Leger, the culprit was arrested, brought before local Justices of the Peace, and the stolen goods were returned to their rightful owners within the space of three hours.

All those who have recently been victimized by thieves would do well to report the fact to Mr. Heon, or to the traffic officer, Mr. A. Leger.

Seek Exchange of Auto Licences In Empire Countries

A resolution seeking co-operation of British and Canadian motorist groups in a campaign for a motor licence exchange throughout the Empire, was passed by the Canadian Automobile Association at its annual meeting.

It was claimed Government regulations and customs barriers to intra-Empire motor touring exceed those relating to travel between Canada and the United States.

Reader Keeps a Promise of Seventeen Years

INTERESTING FEATURE FOR WATCHMAN SUBSCRIBERS

San Diego, Calif.

Editor

Back in 1919 shortly after my return from France, I made a promise to Mr. Robert Giles, your son, that I would some day prepare a story for The Watchman of my adventure with the Emden. Herewith is the story, and I submit it to you, and to the readers of The Watchman.

Although I lived most of my life away from Lachute, it has nearly always been my good fortune to keep in touch by means of your paper. It reaches me a week old, but I enjoy it very much, and do not miss any of it.

If you can use this story in your good paper, I shall feel that I have kept my promise, not only to The Watchman, but to all of my friends and relatives in and around Lachute.

During the War I served with H. M. Scots Guards, from November 1914 to 1919. Was wounded at Passchendaele in 1917 and became a gas casualty in September 1918 in the actions around the Hindenburg Line.

Neal Moore.

The publishers will be privileged to print Mr. Moore's story in a subsequent issue, and readers are assured of an interesting chapter of his experiences as a prisoner of war on the German torpedo destroyer, the Emden.

Barkmere and the neighboring community of Arundel were shocked on Monday by a double drowning tragedy in which two Montrealeers lost their lives. David E. Kay, 46, of Montreal, head of the firm which bears his name, gave his life in a vain attempt to rescue a woman companion from drowning in Bark Lake, when he let go of a broken boat to go to the woman's assistance. Mr. Kay and the other victim Miss Eva Desfosses, 28, of Montreal, both disappeared, and only Kay's body had been recovered up till last evening. The pair were with three others in an outboard motor boat when the bottom of the boat split from end to end as they were 400 yards from shore.

Coroner Dr. J. H. Mason, of this town, held an inquest on the man's body and the jury returned a verdict of: accidental death.

The party had been spending the week-end at Bark Lake. On Monday afternoon they went for a boat trip on the lake. Members of the party were Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Reeve, of the Town of Mount Royal, Mr. Kay, Miss Desfosses, and Ludger Labrosse.

It was 4.30 o'clock and the weather was bad, there being a high wind. But the boat was navigating the choppy waters of the lake with little difficulty when the bottom suddenly split. The occupants jumped for the water as the boat filled and they hung onto the sides of the boat, shouting for aid.

After a few minutes Eva Desfosses weakened and let go her hold on the boat. As she sank Kay, who was holding on close to her, let go also, and went to her aid. He managed to reach her and then attempted to swim back, but both sank before they were able to reach the boat.

Child Hit by Truck, Narrowly Escapes Death

Claude Larocque, 7-year-old son of Henri Larocque, was badly injured when run over by a truck opposite his home on the Brownsburg highway, at Stanforth's road, around 5 o'clock last Thursday evening. With two other children he ran from the side of the road to cross in front of the truck. The two children turned back, but little Larocque continued to cross the road, and Norman McRae, driving toward Lachute with a load of logs, was unable to avoid striking him. The lad was caught by the bumper and fender of the truck, and although the vehicle passed over him he was fortunate in falling between the wheels. Suffering severe scalp wounds, he was carried into his home unconscious. Dr. Alex. Rodrigue was summoned and the child was later taken to St. Justine Hospital, Montreal. From his condition, little hope was entertained for his recovery, but according to late reports the boy is making good progress.

Messrs. H. E. Desjardins, J. I. McDonald, Dr. L. E. Sauvé and J. D. Lepine were in Montreal on Sunday for the purpose of receiving their fourth degree in the Knights of Columbus, at a meeting of this Order held in the Windsor Hotel.

FIGHTING RELIGION WITH CHEMISTRY

In the effort of the Soviet government to destroy religion in Russia, many experiments familiar to the users of toy chemical sets are being employed, according to Rudolph Seiden, in Industrial and Engineering Chemistry.

"Among the experiments shown to young people by the anti-religious lecturers are: turning of water to 'blood' by mixing solutions of ferric chloride and ammonium thiocyanate; the transformation of water to milk by mixing barium chloride and sodium sulphate; making wine from water with phenolphthalein and an alkali; and production of a pillar of cloud with hydrochloric acid and ammonia. Miraculous pictures are made to appear by exposing a cloth or paper previously treated with cadmium, bismuth, manganese, and lead salts to hydrogen sulphide. Fires are made to light themselves by dropping alcohol onto potassium permanganate moistened with sulphuric acid. These and numerous other simple chemical reactions are explained, according to Mr. Seiden, as the way in which the miracles of religion were produced. In this country, children play with chemical sets and perform similar experiments, but without injury to their religion."

DUPLESSIS MADE POLICE CHIEF

Premier Maurice Duplessis of Quebec has been made an honorary member of the International Association of Police Chiefs. Advice to this effect was sent in a letter from the secretary of the recent convention in Kansas City.

BAN THEATRE SMOKING

Smoking in theatres was officially disapproved of by fire chiefs gathered from all over the North American continent for the 64th annual international convention in Toronto.

Danger seemed to be less from fire than from the result of somebody calling "fire" when the end of a match broke off or some girl's dress caught fire, they agreed, but where there was any danger of panic, fire chiefs could take only one attitude. The resolution referred only to the auditoriums themselves, not to lobbies.

MAYORAL GREETING BY PIGEON POST

Greetings from the Mayor of Oklahoma to Mayor McBride of Toronto were delivered after having been carried 1000 miles by pigeon post, in the second annual 1000 mile air race sponsored by the Oakville Homing Club.

Hot weather and other hazards met with by the birds lengthened the time to cover the distance to eight days, whereas it would normally have been covered in about four.

AIRDROME CONSTRUCTION IN NEWFOUNDLAND

An airport under construction at Gander Lake, Nfld., is being built by the British Air Ministry, presumably in preparation for trans-Atlantic flights.

Runway areas when completed at the huge new airdrome will total 242 acres, equal to a road 100 miles long and 20 feet wide. The main runway, lying west of northeast and west of southwest, will be 1600 yards long and 400 yards wide. Three others will be approximately 1500 by 200 yards, lying at 45 degrees to the main one.

Buildings surrounding the field will include quarters for a permanent staff, machine shops, hangars, a hotel and stores of various kinds.

The site was selected last year by representatives of the British and Canadian Meteorological Bureaus.

Montrealer Has Unique Hobby

Gathered Collection of Over 1,000 Watches

TELLS INTERESTING STORY OF WATCHES AND THE WATCH-MAKING INDUSTRY

Watch collecting as a hobby! Not postage stamps or antique furniture, but watches. This is the hobby of John L. Lightstone, of Montreal, who recently visited The Watchman office. Technically he is known as an "horologist" and, as an horologist, is one of the most famous in the world. You may think that watch collecting as a hobby would be devoid of interest or romance. But a talk with Mr. Lightstone will dispel all notions of that type as a more fascinating evening could hardly have been spent anywhere.

John Lightstone's collection boasts of nearly 1,100 watches of every possible type and description ranging in age from some made early in the 15th century to others made in the mid-Victorian period.

It would be impossible here to attempt to describe even part of this vast collection compiled by Lightstone over a period of almost thirty years, but a few of the most famous specimens are of unusual interest.

One of the most interesting of these was a 16th century watch made by A. Kauffman, of Strasbourg, which was one of the smallest in the world at that time and is unique also in that it has a porcelain back.

Another is one made by John Stanton, London, about 1684. It is one of the rarest of its kind in existence due to the fact that it is a bell quarter chime. The chimes were actually heard to ring and the entire movement was in perfect working condition.

An extremely beautiful specimen was one made by Julien Le Roy, of Paris, famous as the inventor of the gong strike repeater, which was made of copper decorated in silver and gold and with a gold finished movement. At present there is a watch made by him at Windsor Castle.

Still another very rare specimen was one by George Prior, London, 1765, depicting Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden, "en resposse".

A watch, still in running order, and made by Thomas Oliver, London, 1780, was a beautiful piece of work. Its jewel was a fair sized diamond. Another with a diamond jewel was one made by John Jardin, of London, about 1770.

A particularly pretty piece is one made by Donald McIntosh in the early 18th. century with the entire upper plate remarkably engraved and pierced.

A complete and unique record system is kept of the entire collection and proof of the authenticity of over 400 of them is contained in a volume which also contains short biographies of their makers.

FIRE PREVENTION CANVASS

As part of the fire prevention week program, members of the Quebec City Fire Brigade made house to house visits in all parts of the city, pointing out fire hazards and demonstrating methods of preventing outbreaks.

BUILDING BOOM IN ONTARIO TOWN

With carpenters, masons, excavators and other contractors busy on many construction jobs, Sarnia, Ontario, has experienced a minor building boom. Several new stores have been erected and older ones extensively renovated. Plans are also afoot for the construction of a theatre costing $150,000.

TRAFFIC-ACTUATED SIGNALS IN OTTAWA

Without a perceptible pause, a steady stream of traffic flowed across an Ottawa intersection recently while a traffic-actuated signal system was placed in operation for the first time in the Capital.

"I hereby declare traffic-actuated control in operation for a period of one year. I hope it works out to the satisfaction of all concerned", said Mayor Stanley Lewis in turning on the switch.

Traffic was quite heavy at the time, and it kept the eyes of the spectators busily employed switching from one set of lights to the opposite set, as the traffic signals smoothly functioned according to volume of traffic.

The control treadle is 95 feet back from the street line. When a vehicle passes over this treadle, if there is no preceding traffic on the intersecting street, the green signal automatically appears. Six seconds are allowed for the individual vehicle to clear the intersection. If another car does not pass over control treadle before this time and there is traffic on the intersecting street, the signal switches to amber, or "caution", and then to red. An individual vehicle, therefore, has six seconds in which to travel from the treadle across the intersection.

The system installed is of the arterial type. That is, it is regulated for a heavier traffic on the arterial thoroughfare, where the green light will remain on for 25 seconds before switching to red for waiting traffic on the cross street.

Members of the Board of Control and the traffic committee of City Council were greatly impressed with the speedy and efficient way in which the device controlled traffic.

And "believe it or not" as Ripley would say, some of the most important devices used in modern engines were used in the construction of many of these watches made nearly three hundred years ago. The chain drive and the worm gear are the two most outstanding examples. The chain drives were a work of art in themselves. Each link was so tiny that they had to be seen through a magnifying glass in order to be observed and even then the tiny rivets holding each link in place could not be seen.

Although the monetary value of the above collection must run into a considerable amount, Lightstone, as all true collectors, refused to comment on this point. He in fact was loath to talk about himself in the least and insisted that only his collection, of which he is very proud, and the craftsmen who made it possible, be given any mention.

Another interesting point is that no two of the 1,100 watches are alike; as compared with the mass production output of our present day time-pieces.

Recently Mr. Lightstone obtained from an Ontario dealer three old watches, a Samuel Busby, Dublin, 1730; a William Roberts, diamond jeweller, 1806, and an early Victorian, James Johnston, also diamond jeweller.

Mr. Lightstone has promised to donate his entire collection to the federal government just as soon as an horological wing is erected at the museum at Ottawa. This, he says, is absolutely necessary in order to properly house a collection of this size.

—It is said by the travel bureaus that Rev. Jones has the best set of colored slides of Britain available.—Come and see them for yourself at the Lachute United Church on Thursday, Oct. 22.

If religion leaves out play, it need. It is life's surplus and leaves out one of the most important aspects of human life.

Harry Emerson Fosdick, D.D.

Nothing beautiful ever came into human experience until people began to play. When primitive man first made pottery he made it as a matter of utilitarian necessity, but when his life eased up a little he began to play with pottery, to mold it, decorate and color it. All art comes from play. It springs from that margin of energy and leisure over and above the stern demands of life.

down too. No doubt Euler will be able to make some compromise which will assist German commerce with Canada.

GERMAN TRADE UP

Canadian trade with Germany for the first six months of 1936 is up 18% in imports and over 50% in exports as compared with the first half of 1935. Most of the gain in Canadian sales to Germany consists of metals and ores (principally nickel), raw wool, sausage casings and lumber. A slight increase has been reported in wheat, though Germany has so nearly become self-sufficient in wheat of recent years that our market there is not what it was once.

Dr. G. H. Barton, deputy minister of agriculture, and Dr. J. H. Grisdale, former minister, are both in Britain. While there they will check up some aspects of the information obtained by Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture, regarding the British market for Canadian products. You remember that $300,000. was voted to assist in the marketing of Canadian agricultural products abroad, and on the basis of the reports brought back by Messrs. Barton and Grisdale, a new marketing organization will be set up. It will have two principal objects, one, to study more closely the needs of Britain and other customers, and two, to maintain a closer check on the quality of Canadian farm products going abroad.

PLANS TO EMPLOY YOUTH

Meantime the National Employment Commission is busy. The chairman of the Youth Employment Committee has submitted detailed plans to the head of the Commission for the employment of several thousand young Canadians at once in forestry, mining, agriculture and aviation. These will go, if approved, to the Minister of Labour and hence to the cabinet for sanction of the necessary expenditure. Then the department of labour will create an administrative body to get the program under way. They will have to make good time if they are going to get anywhere before the dead of winter.

The Women's Employment Committee is to grapple with the problem of finding work for unemployed women. A good deal of preliminary surveying has been accomplished already by Mrs. Mary McCallum Sutherland, the lady member of the commission. She has been from coast to coast since her appointment studying ways and means of assisting girls and women out of work. Many suggestions have come forward for the absorption of men into employment, state or private, but very few to help the women. The most promising project at the moment is the opening of a number of schools for the training of domestic servants. There is a much larger demand for first-class domestics in many parts of Canada than the current supply. There is, however, a glut of teachers, nurses, stenographers and other professional or semi-professional groups. It is difficult to know just how serious is the problem of the unemployed women, because few of them are being counted in the national registration. They live mostly at home and are not officially on relief.

Civil War in Canada

(Contributed)

From coast to coast casualties lie strewn along the highways and byways of every province of Canada. Compared with the Spanish conflict, the Canadian civil war is exacting a far more appalling loss of life. Political demarcations bear no relation to the line-up of the belligerents. Fascists, Communists, Conservatives, Liberals and Nationalists are fighting side by side against Fascists, Communists, Conservatives, Liberals and Nationalists. Husbands and wives are fighting wives and husbands. Brothers killing brothers, and parents killing their children. Civil war knows no quarter and against which the Canadian people are unable to advance; in fact the Canadian people have been beaten back, till now they are with their backs to the wall fighting a losing battle.

While you have been reading thus far, another life has been sacrificed. All through this day unwilling victims have been lowered into early graves. The grim reaper moves swiftly, mowing down almost one hundred Canadian citizens from sunrise to sunrise. The war has spread to every province of the Dominion and shows no signs of abatement. Day after day the grim toll mounts up, until today ten thousand Canadian manhood and womanhood lie mouldering under the cold embrace of their motherland, after only ten short years of computation.

This glowing monster of death rides the highways at varying speeds from twenty to eighty miles an hour. At the twenty mile rate it hurls a Canadian to his death or serious injury every six miles of the road. Every six miles of the road the hopes, the aspirations, the life-work, the responsibilities of a Canadian citizen, are smashed into eternity. Some have escaped with maims or injuries, nevertheless the result is the same. Death and destruction lay strewn along the highways and byways.

Who drives this monster of death? Your mild-mannered neighbor who ordinarily refuses to kill a chicken for his dinner, even at the request of his wife! Your well-bred young miss who jumps upon a chair in dread of the lowly mouse. Your young-man-about-town or the one-hundred-and-one other users of the automobile who become involved in smash-ups along the highways of the Dominion.

And what of the cost, the destruction and economic loss, occasioned by this reckless abandonment? Here is one facet of our financial structure where the depression is unknown. The money spent last year to repair the ravages caused by automobile accidents would have cleared the deficit of our national railways.—Would have provided every automobile owner in Canada with a new car without even requiring him to deposit his present car as a down payment.—Would have given a holiday with full pay to every one of Canada's population.—Would have solved the unemployment question.—Would have provided homes sufficient to house Canada's citizens second to none. Think it over and remember, "This is God's country, don't drive like Hell."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, Oct. 18th., is "Doctrine of Atonement."

The Golden Text is:—"Christ is not entered into the holy places made with hands, which are the figures of the true; but into heaven itself, now to appear in the presence of God for us." (Hebrews 9: 24).

The following passages are from the Bible and the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures":

Blessed be God, even the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of mercies, and the God of all comfort; Who comforteth us in all our tribulation, that we may be able to comfort them which are in any trouble, by the comfort wherewith we ourselves are comforted of God." (II Corinthians 1: 3,4).

"We acknowledge Jesus' atonement as the evidence of divine, efficacious love, unfolding man's unity with God through Christ Jesus the Way-shower; and we acknowledge that man is saved through Christ, through Truth, Life, and Love as demonstrated by the Galilean Prophet in healing the sick and overcoming sin and death." ROMANCE IN INDUSTRY

Travellers in the Maritime Provinces have often observed, standing like sentinels on the sloping roofs of their houses, beautiful black foxes. Fox farming in Canada, after passing through the speculation stage when a single skin brought a fabulous price, has now become a standardized industry, yielding its promoters a comfortable income in most cases. Many in Eastern Canada are devoting their whole time to the raising of foxes on a commercial basis, while a considerable number are keeping a few pairs as a side-line to supplement the regular revenue from their farms.

It needs little prophetic vision to see that fox farming is to become a great Canadian industry. With the reckless killing off of fur-bearing animals has come an increasing scarcity of material for the fur coats which ensure safety and comfort to the traveller in zero weather. Many parts of Canada, both in the East and West, are admirably adapted for fox farming.

SHANGHAI BY RADIO

West Coast listeners report hearing Chinese street songs over XGW, Shanghai, on 10.42 megacycles, between 4 a.m. and 1 p.m. It should also be possible to receive this station on the East Coast as well. The Japanese stations come through regularly and with good signal strength—says an authority on radio reception.

"THE FLOWING TIDE"

Title of Popular Report of the British and Foreign Bible Society

For many years the Popular Report of the British and Foreign Bible Society has maintained a tradition for literary excellence and spiritual power. This year's report in no way belies that reputation. The title, The Flowing Tide, is very suggestive, and every page breathes a calm confidence in the spread of the Word of God and the ultimate conquest of the world by its power. Literary allusions from Sir Walter Scott, Robert Louis Stevenson, Matthew Arnold, Wordsworth and Tennyson, abound in the Prologue, and Shakespeare's great conception of the "tide in the affairs of men" marks its opening. Present day world events are noted. The name and work of William Tindale come in for special mention in this 400th anniversary of his martyrdom. The text on the frontispiece is one especially well known to Canadians: "He shall have dominion from sea to sea, and from the river unto the ends of the earth." Pages are devoted to the tide of Canadian Immigration and of the Scriptures in Canada.

Altogether the report is well worth reading, and the author has again put the Christian public in his debt by the very telling picture of the world-wide work of a great Society.

Reference is made to the deficit of $107,900 in the Society's funds, and an appeal is made to turn a declining income into a rising income—an ebb-tide into a flowing tide.

"But the deeper need is a revival of true religion, a baptism of the Holy Spirit—a fresh dedication of ourselves to the service of the Divine Kingdom." Thus ends a report which will well repay a careful reading, and one which deserves a cordial welcome from all interested in the Christian conquest of the world.

The Nation's Song

"Let me write the nation's songs and I care not who makes her laws" was written by a Scotch patriot, Andrew Fletcher of Saltoun, in his "Account of a Conversation Concerning a Right Regulation of Governments for the Common Good of Mankind," a letter written to the marquis of Montrose and others in 1704. The correct quotation is: "I knew a very wise man so much of Sir Christopher's sentiment that he believed if a man were permitted to make all the ballads he need not care who should make the laws of a nation. And we find that most of the ancient legislators thought they could not well reform the manners of any city without the help of a lyric, and sometimes of a dramatic poet."

Blue Paul

A great many years ago a dog resembling a cross between a mastiff and bulldog was quite popular in Scotland. It was called Blue Paul and was used primarily as a pit dog for fighting. The breed is considered extinct.

SUSTENANCE FROM FELLOW-BEINGS

Sheldon P. Taylor and Geoffrey W. Pope are persevering in their zig-zag course by canoe to Nome, Alaska, indomitable, though doubtless poorer in enthusiasm than when they passed here through the Carillon-Grenville Canal. Their trip from New York, through the Great Lakes and via Canadian waterways, looks on the map like following the curves of a great jig-saw puzzle. Before they reach their destination we fancy they will experience genuine loneliness. "It is a terrible sensation, this feeling of being alone. We get our sustenance from food and also from people." So far these young adventurers have reached as far as McMurray, Alberta.

THE BETTER OF THE BARGAIN

Some Canadians have wondered if our Yankee friends to the south did not get the best of the bargain in the recent reciprocal trade agreement instigated under the Bennett Government. Read the following from a United States paper and cheer up:

"Canada Gets The Breaks. Under the operation of the new reciprocal trade tariffs, Canada has increased its imports into this country 23% in six months, with about half as much of an increase of our exports to the Canadians. Of the total agricultural products those on which the American duties were reduced in the tax showed an increase of 68%, jumping from $5,036,000 to $10,167,000. The principal items of these imports that increased in six months of the Hull semi-free trade scheme were cattle, live poultry, cheese, turnips, sweet potatoes and maple sugar.

"Is it any wonder that the United States farm belt does not like these trade treaties?"

CANADA PRODUCES MOST PLATINUM

The October Scientific American is authority for the following, which we quote with permission. "Platinum first became known to Europeans early in the sixteenth century, when it was discovered with gold in the river beds of what is now Columbia, South America. Later the important deposits in the Ural Mountains were discovered. Then its existence in the copper-nickel ores of the Sudbury district in Ontario, Canada, was noted, and finally it was found that the gold ores of South Africa contained substantial amounts of the metal. Today Canada is the most important platinum-producing country, and Russia is the second."

PARKING PROBLEMS ARE ANCIENT HISTORY

The parking problem, says an exchange, as one of the difficult phases of traffic regulation, is not so new as one would think. It is reported that in 45 B. C. the parking of chariots on the highway caused such a nuisance that Julius Caesar issued a decree that they could not enter the trading centres during market hours.

DEVICE TO END FALSE ALARMS

At the convention of fire chiefs from all parts of the continent held July 27th., at Toronto, an interesting demonstration was given of a new device designed to frustrate false alarms.

The new alarm box sends out a series of loud squawks as soon as the lever is pulled down, attracting immediate attention to the man sending in the alarm.

REGULATES ROAD SIGNS

The Prince Edward Island Government plans to capitalize on road signs and generally regulate advertisements bordering the highways. Signs may be erected 300 feet from the public highways, it was decided at a recent meeting of the Government, but advertisers must take out a licence—at an annual fee of 12 cents per square foot, the minimum to be $1. Application to erect signs shall be made to the Provincial Secretary. All unlicensed signs are to be removed.

ON ROLLER SKATES, INDIVIDUAL BECOMES A "VEHICLE"

Parking and traffic regulations set up by the Board of Selectmen in Amherst, Mass., classify a person who walks as a pedestrian, but the same individual on roller skates becomes a vehicle. The regulations, the result of months of study by the Selectmen, are designed to overcome careless and indiscriminate parking by citizens. Roller skaters are covered by the article concerning indiscriminate parking. The regulations are now in effect.

NEW BRIDGE PLAN CHOSEN

Out of 60 plans considered for a new bridge across the Thames one for a span at Charing Cross to carry five railway tracks and six traffic lanes is recommended in the majority report of the London and Home Counties Traffic Advisory Committee of the Ministry of Transport. The bridge and its approaches would get rid of a troublesome bottle-neck that hampers traffic in the West Strand district. Demolition of many buildings which have been lifetime landmarks for elderly Londoners is contemplated by the committee. Adoption of the plan will permit work on street improvements long held in abeyance.

URGES MASS BUYING BY CITIES

"Hundreds of thousands of dollars can be saved annually by all Pennsylvania cities combined if they buy their supplies in bulk lots", claims Mayor Wilson of Harrisburg, Pa., as quoted by the Borough Bulletin.

"Philadelphia itself, by purchasing all supplies needed for the municipal hospitals under such a plan, has effected a reduction of 27 per cent, from the former cost, when each hospital bought its own goods on separate orders. We found the city was buying a large amount of cleaning fluids, whose containers bore fancy labels, and after consulting the U. S. Bureau of Standards and ascertaining just what the fluids should contain, we started purchasing ingredients and mixing them ourselves.

"By standardizing the writing paper used by the municipal departments and buying it in bulk, we saved $100,000 a year. Another saving of $40,000 was effected by installing a stamping machine for all outgoing mail. Of $5,000,000 appropriated in the current year's budget for supplies, we expect to save $1,000,000."

Maurice had been arrested last August for the theft of cigarettes at a restaurant in Ste. Marguerite, where he lived. He was arrested with two companions by provincial police. They appeared in court, were found guilty and remanded by District Magistrate Lalande until October 26, for sentence.

It is believed that Maurice intended to release his companions and perhaps some other inmates of the jail but the turnkey's unexpected resistance upset his plans.

Lionel Maurice, the fugitive, is 28 years of age; five feet three inches tall; weighs 135 lbs. He has long black hair. When he escaped he was wearing the regulation prisoner's garb, consisting of a blue shirt and trousers in two shades of yellow. He wore no hat or coat.

"There is no greater satisfaction than in owning the piece of land that a man and his family call home."

PRIMA-DONNA IS HEARD AT BROWNSBURG

Mrs. Cameron was accompanied by her husband, to whom she was married two years ago; he also possesses a rich tenor voice, and in the duet, "A Clean Heart", they both sang together. Mrs. Cameron's visit to Brownsburg was secured by Mr. T. Anderson, who met her husband some time ago at Inverness, Que. They were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hazel while in town.

And yet another treat is in store on Friday evening of this week when Rev. Norman Rawson, of Ottawa, will give his latest and popular subject on the European Situation, with special reference to the Spanish Civil War, in the Brownsburg United Church at 8 p.m. Mr. Rawson is a gifted orator and prominent radio preacher.

TRUCK RIDER KILLED AT SHAWBRIDGE

Romeo Lanthier, 31 years of age, of Ste. Adele, was killed in a fall from a moving truck at Shawbridge on Thursday morning last. He was attempting to alight before the truck, on which he was riding home from Montreal, came to a stop. Dr. J. R. Brais, coroner, of St. Jerome, held an inquest, returning a verdict of accidental death.

The victim had decided to stop at Shawbridge to examine a tire. He jumped out of the cab before the truck came to a complete stop and lost his balance. He fell and struck his head on the road, suffering a fracture of the skull, which caused instant death.

PROMINENT CITIZEN OF STE. THERESE COMMITS SUICIDE

A verdict of suicide while of unsound mind was returned by a jury under Coroner J. R. Brais, of St. Jerome, investigating the death of J. Alderic Laurin, proprietor of the Laurin Biscuit Company. Mr. Laurin was instantly killed Saturday when he stepped in front of a train at Ste. Henriette, four miles west of Ste. Therese.

According to evidence heard at the inquest, Laurin, who had been in ill-health for some time, was returning home alone from a trip to Ottawa. On reaching the level crossing at Ste. Henriette he stopped his automobile, climbed out and walked down the track to meet a Montreal-bound train.

When Laurin disregarded the warning whistle of the train the engineer tried to stop, but was unable to do so before the impact.

Laurin, widely known in Ste. Therese district, is survived by his wife and several children.

DROWNING TRAGEDY AT BARK LAKE

Reeve was holding on to the boat and was aiding his wife and was unable to attempt a rescue. Labrosse tried in vain to reach Kay and Miss Desfosses and had to return to the boat.

The three survivors were 22 minutes in their perilous position before people on shore saw their predicament. Miss Marjorie Pope, an employee of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada went to their aid and managed, with assistance of other persons, to get the trio ashore.

A search was started at once but Kay's body was recovered in fifty feet of water only on Tuesday afternoon, not far from the scene of the accident. Thirty men searched for the remainder of the afternoon for Miss Desfosses' body but only her raincoat, which she had carried in her lap, and her hat, were found.

Coroner Mason was informed the boat was a new one purchased this spring and seemed to be in fine condition. No one could give any explanation for the sudden splitting of the bottom. Witnesses were certain that no rock had been struck.

The search for Miss Desfosses' body is being continued and the coroner made arrangements for giving the same verdict upon the same evidence as soon as it is recovered.

David E. Kay was head of the Kay Manufacturing Company, Limited, manufacturers of textile fabrics.

His body was sent to Montreal on Tuesday evening, where arrangements for the funeral were made.

C. L. Reeve and his wife, suffering from exposure and shock, were removed to their home in the Town of Mount Royal and were reported to be recovering.

MARRIAGE SOLEMNIZED AT ST. SIMEON'S CHURCH

CAMPBELL — SCOTT

The marriage of Stella Margaret, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Scott, to Mr. Charles Duncan Campbell, son of the late Samuel and Mrs. Campbell, Morin Heights, took place at St. Simeon's Church, Lachute, on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 10th., at 3.30 o'clock. Rev. W. LeCras performed the ceremony, and Mrs. LeCras presided at the organ. The church was prettily decorated for the occasion with bronze and yellow 'mums, ferns and greenery.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore her travelling costume—a brown British wool suit, trimmed with cross fox, a Rose Valois imported felt hat in earth-red shade, with gloves to match; her shoes and bag were of brown suede. She wore a corsage bouquet of Talisman-roses.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Campbell left immediately by motor for Toronto, Niagara Falls and London, Ont. On their return they will reside in Morin Heights.

—The lecture by Mr. T. W. Jones in the Lachute United Church on Thursday, Oct. 22, will be humorous and entertaining, as well as educational. Come and bring your friends.

ST. JEROME HAS $35,000 GRANT FOR ROADS

A grant of $35,000 for work on roads in relief of unemployment has been given the City of St. Jerome by the provincial Government, Hermann Barrette, member for Terrebonne, announced at a meeting of the Council last week.

The Council decided that work would be started immediately on road projects for which expropriations had already been effected and preliminary work undertaken.

Upon the suggestion of Mayor E. Bertie, the council decided that in families where there are more than six children, a son would be given employment as well as the father, whenever possible.

Mr. Barrette said that he had been notified that the provincial surveyor would begin shortly to prepare the tracing of a cut-off on the Montreal-Mont Laurier highway proposed some three or four years ago. But as this cut-off, though it will shorten the route by many miles, will not pass through Ste. Therese or St. Jerome, Mr. Barrette asked Council to aid him in preventing this project from being carried out.

"My! Those Indians have a blood-curdling yell", said the tourist at Yellowstone Park.

"Yes, ma'am", answered the guide, "every one of them is a college graduate."

BEARS IN NEIGHBORHOOD OF HILL FOOT RECENTLY

Residents of Hill Foot, on the north side of the river, are greatly alarmed over the nightly visits of a team of bears which for several nights have been prowling around the neighboring farms. Messrs. Hume, Pollock and McFarlane have been on the war path and are hopeful of capturing these unwelcome visitors.

MIXED THANKSGIVING EMOTIONS

"I had a happy Thanksgiving," Said Billy, with a sigh, "I had four slices of plum cake, And such a lot of pie..."

"I had some turkey and some nuts, Ice cream and candy too, And I said 'Thank you', oh, so nice, To Ted, and Auntie Sue—

"For giving me a happy day And all those chocolate-creams, But I was not so thankful for Those horrid, night-time dreams!"

Aunt Fanny Longtoes had been telling the mice that Aunt Jessie had taken Margaret away, and the house had grown so quiet that a falling stick in the fireplace gave her a severe fright—Silly Curly gave a shrill squeak. "I'll bet", he sneered, "that you have never been back to that room since!"

"To tell you the truth, Curly, I have not", said Aunt Fanny, "and I shall not be in a hurry to go either."

"Tut! tut!" said Silly Curly. "There's nothing to be afraid of. I wouldn't be afraid of anything that lives there upstairs, not if I lived to be a hundred. I am not easily scared," he boasted.

"A ferret! A ferret!" shrieked Clip, hopping up and down, pretending to be much afraid. All the mice craned their necks and cried "Where, where, Clip?"—That is, all but Silly Curly. He did not wait to ask where, but dashed off into the darkness with a terrified squeal.

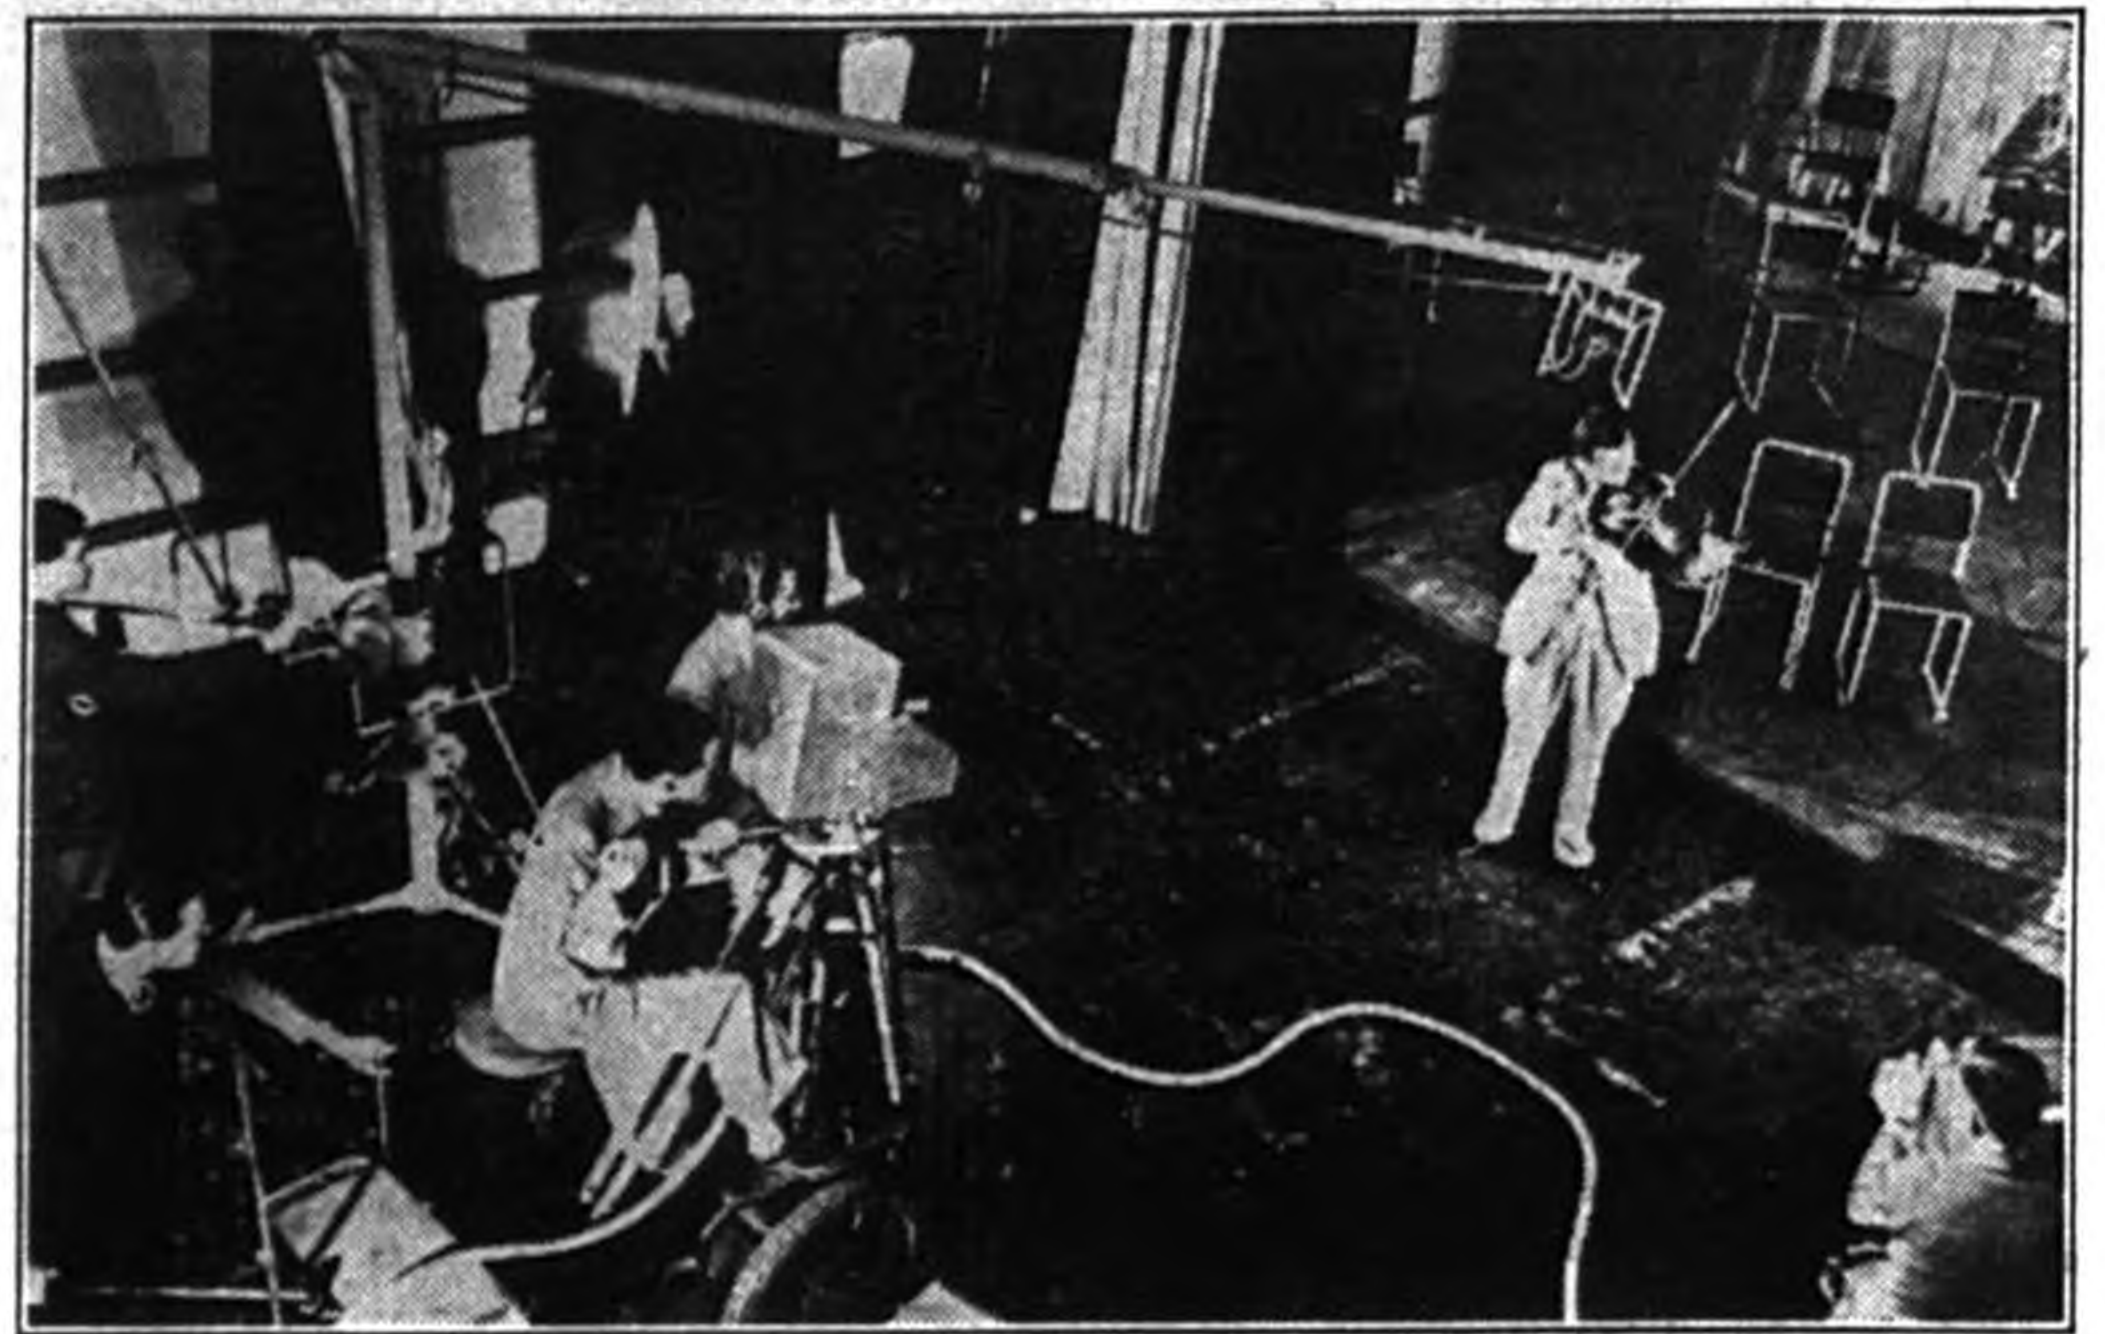

Little Clip lay down on the floor and giggled—such fanny, squeaky giggles that the mice soon realized there had not been a ferret at all, that mischievous Clip had just said that to frighten Silly Curly. "Silly Curly, the boaster," said Uncle Roughie. "Clip, you mischief—get up and stop giggling. He may come back when he finds that we have not followed him, and you know how mean he can be when he's angry."

Clip sat up obediently but he still giggled as though he could not stop. "That's the second scare I have given him today", he said, and he told how he had scared him early that evening, before the friends had come to the party. "The old sneak", he said, "it served him right."

To change the subject, Mr. Soft-Fur said to his wife, "My dear, haven't you a new song or some verses for us? They would be a change after so many stories?" "The only verses that I have composed since Cordelia came to us are about her, but perhaps it would not be polite to her to repeat them."

"Let's hear them—please", cried Aunt Fanny, looking at Cordelia as though she was noticing her for the first time. "Do you mind, my dear?" Mrs. Soft-Fur asked Cordelia. "Not at all", the girl replied, not at all expecting what the recitation brought to pass. Mrs. Soft-Fur began to recite, in a soft sing-song voice:

Cordelia Crooks has left her books, And come to visit in Mouseland nooks;

Chickens Hatched On Ice

Hot house men create the temperature they desire to raise their flowers and vegetables. We recently read of one who raised produce in chemically treated water without dirt.

But Mrs. Charles Fray of Jacksonville, Mo., has hatched chickens with ice. She was determined to have another batch of fryers this fall. The Canton Record says:

"This season Mrs. Fray admits she had more than the usual difficulties raising chickens in hot weather, but when the temperatures soared beyond the 100 mark and stayed there, she placed a bowl of cracked ice under each tray in her incubator and reports getting a good match. Not a chick from eggs so handled has been lost so far."

BOY SCOUTS THE WORLD OVER

A VILLAGE THAT RAN OUT OF BOYS

After a lapse of two years a Boy Scout troop is being re-organized in Queenston, Ont. Reason for lapse,—the village had run out of boys.

A SCOUT'S MERCY HIKE

A seven mile hike over Mount Beacher, 4,400 feet, to secure a doctor for a woman dangerously ill, was a "good turn" of Scout George Harris of Victoria, B.C. Driven by the urgency of the case, Scout Harris covered the mountain trail in an hour under the time usually taken for the crossing. He located the doctor at a camp, and the latter was able to reach his patient in time.

SCOUT TRACKING FOUND THE LOST CHILD

Boy Scout training in track reading brought a happy ending to an 18-hour search by police and some 200 people for a three-year-old boy who had wandered into the bush at Emma Lake, Sask. The sharp eyes of a Scout who had joined the search picked up the impression of a small foot. The trail quickly led to the child, lying under a bush and covered with mosquito bites.

SCOUTS AND MOUNTIES GUARD QUEBEC BIRD SANCTUARY

Boy Scouts and the R.C.M.P. are to share the guardianship of a new bird sanctuary established on Montreal Island by the Quebec Society for the Protection of Birds, with the authorization of the Dominion Government. The sanctuary is situated between the villages of Senneville and Ste. Anne's, and consists of 1,500 acres of woods and lake shore. Scouts share the guardianship of wild life sanctuaries in several of the provinces.

THE PRISONER GAVE THE POLICE A HOLIDAY

A party of English Boy Scouts hiking on the Continent prepared to spend the night on an island campsite. One of the rules was that lighting fires was strictly forbidden unless permission was obtained from the police. The Scouts sought the police station and made their request of the only person about. "Certainly", the man agreed. "Go ahead." The man not being in uniform, one of the Scouts inquired who he might be. "Oh", was the reply, "I'm the prisoner. I'm looking after the island while the police are away."

Hints for Homebodies

Specially Written for Readers of The Watchman
By JESSIE ALLEN BROWN

'CARRY ON'

Friends, editors, and readers generally have asked me if I am going to continue writing my column now that we have moved to Halifax. I have been sending it from Ontario to the Maritimes from the time I started writing it, so I can see no reason why the process cannot be reversed. I am hoping that it will be a more interesting column, as the more one sees the more one has to write about. New contacts should give new material. I appreciate very much the hope that so many have expressed—that I carry on. Some of my paper friends have become very close and I hope that I can make new ones as well as keep those I already have.

'HALVE SOME FOODS AND DOUBLE OTHERS'

Last week we found that the first step in reducing is to shrink the stomach. I hope you have already started the process. . . . The next move is to learn to eat until one is comfortably full and still lessen the calories. You can take off pounds and never leave the table satisfied. This statement may be doubted, but I have done it myself and have helped so many others do it that I know it to be true. People say this will make you fat and the other thing will make you fat. Anything you eat, if it is more than you require, will make you fat. No two people are alike. Each person has a certain number of calories that they require to keep them going without gaining or losing. That amount is called a maintenance diet. If you eat more than your maintenance diet you will gain; if you eat less you will lose. So if you want to lose you must eat less than you require and the rest will be made up from your own store of fat. We need starches, sugars and fats in our diets and when you are trying to reduce do not do without any of them. Simply reduce the quantities. Eat half the usual quantity of bread and butter. Eat half the potato and draw a dividing line down the middle of your desserts and eat one half. To offset this and to make you feel comfortably full, eat twice the amount of fruit and vegetables and salads. It is a good idea to start a meal with tomato juice or clear soup and to eat some celery or cabbage or something bulky to help along the good work. It is not necessary to do without the things you like. If your soul craves a chocolate, eat it. But remember you have had it and balance up by eating something with few calories at your next meal. You have a definite number of calories to spend and use them to fit your own desires and needs.

BANANA CAKE

3 bananas mashed
1/2 cup sour milk
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup white sugar
1 egg
2 cups flour (sifted before measuring)
1/2 cup butter
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt

Cream butter and sugar, add mashed bananas. Add milk and sifted dry ingredients alternately. Mix well and bake either in layers or in a loaf tin. Some like a chocolate icing on this cake. I prefer a butter icing to which a stiffly beaten egg white has been added. Choose your own icing, but whatever you use, it is a specially good cake.

CHEESE BISCUITS

2 cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup grated cheese about 3/4 cup milk

Sift the dry ingredients. Cut in the butter. Add the cheese and mix well. Add milk enough to make a dough as soft as possible, and yet able to be handled. Pat or roll on a flour-board to about 3/4 inch thickness and cut with a small cutter. Bake in a hot oven from 12 to 15 minutes. Butter and serve with the salad course or with afternoon tea. We like them for dessert with ginger marmalade.

"Oh, yes; they even used puffed rice."

"How's the wife, George?"
"Not so well, old boy. She's just had quinsy."
"Gosh! How many is that you've got now?"

By Alice Alden

(Copyright, 1936, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

IF YOU LIKE color, you will enjoy the new velvet turbans made of velvet in two or more strong shades. The velvet, deftly twisted in Oriental turban fashion, often has a towering crown, as with the model done in deep pomegranate velvet draped with deep crimson.

NEW LUXURY is attained by the short, boxy coats of silver fox that are beginning to appear at smart affairs. Generally, they have squared shoulders and the skins are worked vertically. Even smarter is the same type of thing done in sable.

A MILITARY AIR is given to daytime fashions by the many dashing fur capes seen about town. A smart model is in gray astrakhan, falling straight and slim from definitely squared shoulders. It has an upstanding collar of the military type.

IF YOU ARE FORTUNATE enough to have a fur coat this season, you will have a greater diversity of models from which to choose than ever shown before. A good choice is a tunic coat of sleek caracul fitted at the waist. The flaring skirt is marked at the waist by a wide black antelope belt featuring an intricate gilt metal buckle.

IT DOESN'T FOLLOW that because Summer is over the bright and delicate pastels aren't with us any more. One of the successes of the early Autumn is Mainbocher's suit with topcoat and jacket of misty pink tweed to contrast with the black tweed skirt.

A REVOLUTION seems to breed fashions that marked the period of the French revolution and the Empire that followed. For, every time there is an upheaval such as that in Spain, Directorate fashions appear. Creed, showing suits of this mode—with deep swallow tail and cutaway coat—reports huge success.

A GOOD EDGE to fashion is collar has pointed tabs in front.

JUST COUNT how many pelts go to make up some of the new silver fox capes. A new model is composed of eight skins, vertically worked, with the ninth skin thrown, stole-like, about the shoulders and fastened with two large wrought silver buttons.

BRAGGING BETRAYS LACK OF CONFIDENCE

When your child brags it is probably not because he thinks he is so wonderful, but because he is frightened he isn't. It betrays a lack of confidence in his own powers and a consequent trying to conceal this fact from himself and the world at large, by boasting. If you see this tendency developing try to find out where he feels he is lacking, and give him help along that line. Build up a feeling of confidence, and give opportunities for the child to excel in something so that he will not find it necessary to tell the world how good he is. If he actually is good they will see for themselves.

Two Bewitching Dishes For Hallowe'en

—By Betty Barclay

HALLOWE'EN COOKIES

2 cups sifted cake flour
1 1/2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
1/4 teaspoon soda
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup butter or other shortening.
3/4 cup brown sugar, firmly packed.
1 egg, unbeaten
2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
1/2 cup milk
2 teaspoons vanilla
1/2 cup broken walnut meats

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, soda, and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, creaming until light and fluffy. Add egg and beat well; then chocolate and blend. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Add vanilla and nuts. Drop from teaspoon on ungreased baking sheet and bake in moderate oven (350° F) 12 minutes, or until done. Frost with your favorite white or an orange frosting.

BAKED APPLES WITH BRAZIL NUTS AND WINE

6 apples
3/4 cup ground Brazil nuts
1 1/4 cups sugar
1 cup hot water
1/4 cup white wine

Select apples of even size. Core and peel one inch of skin from top. Fill cores with ground Brazil nuts and put in baking pan. Add one cup of sugar dissolved in hot water and bake about three-quarters of an hour in a moderate oven, 375 degrees F., until apples are tender. Baste several times during cooking. Sprinkle tops of apples with sugar and place under broiling flame for two minutes, until sugar is dissolved. Add wine and serve hot or thoroughly chilled.

Nias, One of Dutch East

Indies, "Island of Gold"

Nias, which is one of the Dutch East Indies, about 100 miles west of Sumatra, is one of the most remarkable islands in the world. Its history has baffled students, and, although several theories have been offered to account for its customs and culture, all that is known for a certainty is that at some very remote time settlers of undetermined origin went there and through many centuries their descendants, though cut off from the rest of the world, developed their own laws and art and civilization.

On ancient maps of the East Indies Nias appears as the "Island of Gold," and as far back as 850 A. D. a Mohammedan trader wrote of its great treasure of gold. There is still an astonishing amount of gold to be seen there in ornaments, beads, bracelets and gold leaf decorations.

Golden ornaments must be made for every bride and bridegroom, with the result that much of the gold in private families is melted and fashioned into new articles once in every generation. Besides this, the local chiefs all have their "state jewels"—roofs of mail covered with sheets of solid gold, "krises" with golden hilts or sheaths, umbrellas with golden bands, heavy earrings and necklaces. These "state" articles may be worn only by the chief himself on special occasions, and it is said that the making of each was accompanied by the sacrifice of a slave or the capture of a head from some hostile village.

Naming of Andalusia Is

Yet Shrouded in Legend

Visitors to the southern provinces of Spain find various interpretations of the name Andalusia. The most common derivation is that St. Lucia, who alone of all the saints had no territory under her special protection, was offered some territory by St. James.

Wandering about she came to Spain's loveliest, most fertile province, and seeing it was so lovely; but not wishing to take the fairest of all countries, was in doubt until she heard the voice of St. James saying "Anda, Lucia!" which means "Go forward, Lucia."

More prosaic is the story, notes a Madrid writer in the Detroit News, that the name arose out of the ignorance of foreign travelers who, lost in the province, asked a deaf and unintelligent countryman the name of the place. The old man listened, shook his head, and, addressing his ass, said: "Anda, Lucia!" and ambled on. The travelers, believing he had answered this question, called the place Andalusia, and such it became.

TOWN PRESSES PLEA FOR QUEBEC GRANT TOWARD WATERWORKS IMPROVEMENT

DELEGATIONS MEET PROVINCIAL MINISTER AND QUEBEC FIRE COMMISSIONERS

The fire-committee and town councillors have been stressing the need of improved water-works for local fire protection and, stating their case before the Quebec authorities and Provincial Fire Commissioners, are optimistic in the matter of government assistance.

A delegation of councillors including Messrs. Jas. McGibbon, K. McOuat, H. Lamarche and Secretary G. Filion, met the minister of public works at Quebec last Thursday, another committee comprising Mayor Dr. J. H. Mason, Ald. Lamarche and Fire Chief Geo. Y. Deacon having pleaded their case before the Fire Commission in Montreal. While no promise of a grant was received, it was intimated that Quebec might give aid to the extent of 30 percent on a waterworks project costing $60,000.

In connection with these pleas, Deputy Fire Commissioner Ahern, of Quebec, met the Town Council here on Monday evening. On Tuesday he inspected the Fire Department responding to a test call and connecting hose with a Main Street hydrant. The firemen got into action within two minutes after the summons.

CHILDREN'S DAY HELD IN ANGLICAN CHURCHES

Children's Day was observed very fittingly on Sunday last in St. Simeon's Church, Lachute, at 11 a.m., and at St. George's, Brownsburg, at 3 p.m., the children from both Sunday Schools participating at each service. George Leggett and Gerald Ardill read the lessons, and during the offertory the children's choir sang Hymn 733. Ruth LeCras acted as organist at both services.

The Rector took as his text Eph. VI, 1st. and 4th. verses, and spoke to the children on obedience, and to the parents as to manner of training and leading their children to be devout church members and good citizens.

SCOUTS TO FORM A WOLF CUB GROUP

It is the intention of the Lachute Troop of Boy Scouts to form a Wolf Cub pack (a junior section of the Boy Scouts). This will be open to boys between the ages of 8 and 11 years, inclusive. All boys interested in joining are invited to attend an organizing meeting in the Lachute High School basement on Wednesday evening, Oct. 28, at 7 o'clock.

Bible Society Officers Elected at Annual Meeting

ILLUSTRATED LECTURE ON DAVID LIVINGSTONE

The annual meeting of the British and Foreign Bible Society was held in the United Church on Sunday last, all other Protestant denominations in town having given up their meetings for this special service.

Mr. T. J. Barron, President of the local body, presided and called upon Mrs. R. McPaul to read the minutes of the last annual meeting, which were duly approved.

Officers elected for the ensuing year are:—Mr. T. J. Barron, President; Mr. J. S. Giles, Vice-President; Mrs. R. McPaul, Miss K. Reid, Mrs. L. Morris and Miss L. Goldsworthy in charge of secretarial work, and Mr. J. Skuffham re-elected treasurer.

The sum of $192 had been realized from collections. An expression of thanks was extended to Rev. W. B. Rosborough and the Board of Managers for use of the United Church, and to the lady collectors for their splendid work on behalf of the Society.

The Rev. Mr. Rosborough referred to the death of the late Dr. J. R. MacLeod, paying tribute to the service he had always so willingly rendered.

The illustrated lecture on the life of David Livingstone, proved most interesting. Rev. Jas. Adams, lecturer for the occasion, describing the career and work of that heroic missionary and explorer.

45 Entrants in Plowing Match at Staynerville

CONTESTANTS FROM WIDE AREA

Despite unfavorable weather in the opening stages of last Thursday's plowing match at Staynerville, the event proved an unqualified success. Total entries numbered 45, and fine workmanship was exhibited in the various classes of plowing, although somewhat hampered by the soggy ground.

Specially good work was executed by contestants with Scotch plows. There was particularly good finish in the high cutting class also, and while the entire district and Eastern Ontario farms were represented, St. Eustache farmers qualified for a generous share of the laurels.

Eight teams and turn-outs were shown for the "beauty" class, Douglas A. Rodger of Lachute Road winning first with an excellent pair of horses.

Judges were Messrs Arch. Finlayson, of Montreal, Dougald Cumming of Lancaster, and Robert Leishman, of Lachute.

CARLOAD OF PRODUCE SHIPPED TODAY

A generous response was received to the appeal for fruit and vegetables to be sent to the drought-stricken areas of the West, arrangements for which were handled in this district by Mr. A. McOuat of Lachute.

A refrigerator car in the C.P.R. yards at Lachute was loaded to completion yesterday and will be consigned to Hazel, Sask., today. The car contains vegetables, fruit, canned goods and clothing for relief of the drought sufferers. The shipment is addressed to the Sec. Treasurer of the Municipality of Edwards, Pierson County.

Churches of all denominations, Protestant and Catholic, rallied their forces to assist in this effort, and contributions came in from Brownsburg, Cushing, Grenville, St. Andrews, St. Eustache and organizations in and around Lachute. Many citizens made individual contributions, members of the K. of C. and the local service leagues, the Lions and the One Hundred Club, assisted generously.

The appeal was circulated by the Joint Committee of Churches for Western Relief, centred in Toronto.

Liberal Government Gives Fair Account of Itself in First Year of Administration; Reviewing Election Pledges and Fulfillments

Ottawa, October 20.—On Friday of this week the government celebrates its first anniversary of office. It is interesting to see how many election pledges have been redeemed, how many still await action.

It promised a national commission to deal with unemployment: this has been set up and has made some constructive suggestions to the cabinet, as well as conducting a census of national unemployment.

A national system of unemployment insurance is another pledge. This has not moved since the election. The matter is before the Privy Council.

One of its most important planks dealt with the liberation of external trade and the lowering of tariffs. Though the low-tariff wing of the Liberal party is far from satisfied with progress to date, it is probably true that, counting the United States agreement, the tariff has

LEGISLATURE RESCINDS LIBERAL MEASURES

Repeal of the Dillon law was effected in quick measure and without dissent in the early sittings of Quebec Legislature last week. T. D. Bouchard, Opposition leader, refused to consent to the proposition of Premier Duplessis that third reading be given the measure of repeal at the same sitting, but otherwise there was no hitch in the enactment.

The Dillon Act, so-called because it was sponsored by J. H. Dillon, Minister Without Portfolio in the Taschereau Government, was a series of amendments to the Controverted Elections Act. The main effect was to kill the contestation cases then before the courts and the manner in which it worked was seen in this particular county. Petitions stood against 60 Liberal members elected at the general elections of 1931. Mr. Dillon was one, if not the only, minister whose election was not contested, and though in an ordinary way such a bill would have been presented by Mr. Taschereau in his capacity as Attorney-General, the measure was put in the name of Mr. Dillon, since the then Premier was faced with

AUSPICIOUS GATHERING AT BLESSING OF CORNER-STONE, NEW ST. JULIEN CHURCH

HIS EXCELLENCY MGR. A. E. DESCHAMPS OFFICIATED IN PRESENCE OF

E. DESCHAMPS OFFICIATED IN PRESENCE OF LARGE CONGREGATION

A ceremonial step in the progress of the new Parish of St. Julien Church was observed Sunday afternoon in the blessing of the cornerstone, by His Excellency Mgr. A. E. Deschamps, auxiliary archbishop of Montreal.

A large congregation witnessed the ceremony, and the occasion being held in the basement of the new structure, a spirit of happy anticipation prevailed for the time when this handsome edifice will be opened to the public for religious devotions. The basement will be ready for occupancy in about a month, and it is expected that the church itself will be completed within four months. The steel-work and concrete have already taken shape, and with granite finish the architectural lines of the building, in Gothic style, will afford a noble structure of which the parish may well be proud. A gift of Messrs. W. H. and Ernest Ayers, the building will be furnished and equipped with parish funds.

Assisting Mgr. Deschamps at the service last Sunday were Rev. J. E. Cloutier, priest of the parish, Rev. Ernest Labelle of the neighboring parish of Ste. Anastasie, and Rev. P. Gauthier, Superior of the College of

ROBBERY LAST WEEK AT KERR'S FARM

Police have been investigating a robbery which occurred last week at Kerr's Farm, well known summer boarding establishment on the highway north of Lakefield. It was reported that thieves had forced open the front door during the night. Money and cigarettes to the value of $65 were taken.

An automobile, stolen in Montreal, was found afterwards ditched beside the road near Lakefield, where the two occupants had abandoned it and begged a drive to Montreal from a passing motorist. The stolen car were some packages of cigarettes, giving a direct clue to the miscreants. A good description of the pair was given to the police.

DEATH OF FORMER C.P.R. STATION AGENT

News has just been received of the death of Mr. J. H. Dumouchel, who for several years had served this and the neighboring community of Staynerville as C. P. R. agent. Mr. Dumouchel was considered to be one of the most capable and efficient men on the line. Much sympathy is extended to his bereaved family by old friends in this section.

Fatal Leap From Speeding Car on Laurentian Road

Frightened when she thought her husband was driving his new automobile too fast, Mrs. Oscar Forget, of St. Jovite, jumped from the machine near her home last Wednesday, and was fatally injured. Her sister-in-law, Mrs. Joseph St. Louis, also jumped but escaped with minor injuries.

Oscar Forget, a well-known miller of St. Jovite, was driving home from Montreal with his wife and sister in a new car which he had bought a few days previously. While he was driving down a steep hill the two women thought he had lost control of the machine and jumped.

Mrs. Forget suffered a fractured skull, while Mrs. St. Louis was badly bruised. The former died a few hours later at her home. Dr. Brais, of St. Jerome, rendered a verdict of accidental death.

CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ENGLISHMAN

TOPIC OF LECTURE UNDER AUSPICES OF LACHUTE W. I.

"We English—By One of Us" was the title of an entertaining discourse by Prof. A. Robert George, B.A., B.D., of McGill University, given in the High School Hall on Monday evening, under auspices of the Lachute Branch of the Women's Institute.

Principal C. L. Hall presided and introduced the speaker, who told in pleasing manner the peculiarities of those inhabiting the "tight little island". No greater contrast could be found, said Mr. George, than amazing New York and alluring London—New York with its brilliant youth, and London in its benign old age. Modernity compels scrapping in New York, while London literally goes around, old age being romantic while youth was too busy with discovery to bother with romance.

The English climate, said the speaker in his humorous vein,

DEATH CALLS OLD DALESVILLE RESIDENT

LATE PETER MCGIBBON

An old and respected resident of Dalesville, Mr. Peter J. McGibbon, passed away on Sunday, 18th. inst., in his 83rd. year. Mr. McGibbon was born in 1854, and with the exception of four years spent in the State of Michigan, had lived his entire life around the community of Dalesville. He shared a wide acquaintance and friendship in this county.

Mr. McGibbon was married in the year 1888 to Miss Katherine Calder, who predeceased him 10 years ago. His passing is mourned by his two sons, Melville and Leonard, at home, besides a host of respectful neighbors and friends.

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon, Rev. Elmore H. Young of Brownsburg officiating. Interment was made in the Dalesville cemetery.

A Correction

In connection with the recent report of St. Andrews' historical observance, a list of living descendants of Sir John Abbott was furnished to this newspaper and included in the account. The publishers are informed that two names were omitted from this list, viz: Rev. J. A. Phillips and Rev. C. C. Phillips, who are grandsons of Sir John Abbott and clerical great-grandsons of the Rev. Joseph Abbott, founder of the little church in which the ceremony was held.

THE GERMAN SEA-RAIDER, THE "EMDEN"

(A Canadian's four-day experience with the "Flying Dutchman" during September, 1914)

Specially Written for The Lachute Watchman
—By NEAL MOORE, San Diego, California

—(Copyright)—

On September 10th., 1914, it was the experience of the writer to be an eye-witness, to an important historical event of the World War. At the time it did not seem to be of sufficient importance to be worth recording, and at this late date it is necessary to rely upon memory in order to put it down so the readers of The Watchman might have the benefit of this 22-year-old event.

Attracted by the lure of the sea at the age of 17, and having become bored with a six months' residence in Havana, Cuba, a change was decided upon, and in realizing the decision, a job was found as an assistant engineer aboard the British merchant ship Indus. The Indus was a small semi-tramp and passenger steamer of about 5000 tons, and had called in at the Cuban capital for supplies sufficient to carry it back to Calcutta where a load of natives would be taken aboard for transportation to the large English-owned plantations in British Guiana and other West Indies points.

During fourteen months on the Indus, three round trips were made on a route which brought us through the Mediterranean, Suez Canal and Red Sea to Calcutta, and back around the Cape of Good Hope. On the third and last trip a little deviation from our regular course was enjoyed, and we returned from British Guiana, Martinique, and Barbados via the Cape, calling at Durban, South Africa, for coal.

While we were at Durban the news of the fatal shooting in the little city of Sarajevo, the capital of Bosnia, came to us, as also the news of the declaration of war by most of the European powers. A few days later Great Britain had sent her famous ultimatum to Germany which concerned us more than anything else. The first war news we received was a fantastic tale of a big North Sea engagement between the British and German fleets, and everyone on the Indus was very happy to know that more than half of the German fleet had been disposed of.

Upon our arrival in Calcutta, the Royal Indian Marine commandeered the Indus for the purpose of putting her in shape to be used as a troopship. She was ideally suited for this, as with only slight alterations, which were carried out in short order by a large gang of men working day and night for about a week, she was turned out as fine a trooper as ever steamed from India. After all overhauling was completed the Indus once more headed down the Hooghly River and out on the broad Bay of Bengal. Bombay was the destination this time according to the itinerary of the orders given to the Captain. Troops were to be loaded for further transportation to Marseilles, France. We were merrily on our way anticipating the wonders of Bombay and Marseilles, and secretly hoping that the big war would send us to many others parts.

We had been under way three days and it was September 10th., 1914, all of which didn't mean a thing at the time. We knew that Britannia Ruled the Waves, that our engines were in good condition, that we had plenty of good Welsh coal in the bunkers, that the weather was wonderful for that time of year, and that we were going places. We were all happy and wouldn't have changed positions with anyone.

We didn't know, however, that on July 31, 1914, even before War had been declared, the Emden had left the harbor of Tsingtau, China. Neither did we know that her Commanding Officer, Captain Karl von Muller, had received sealed orders from Admiral von Spee, to detach the Emden from the remainder of the Far Eastern Fleet and operate alone. We didn't know that these orders directed the Emden to the Bay of Bengal, and neither did we know that on or about 8.00 A.M. on September 10th., while we were enjoying breakfast on deck, we would see the smoke of an approaching ship on our starboard side.

Our Chief Engineer, Mr. Evans, had sailed the seas for years, and, whether from long experience, or just a "hunch", he said the smoke looked as though it might be a cruiser. The only thing visible at that moment was a mere smudge on the far horizon, and to the writer it has always been a mystery to know how a sailor can even guess from the color of smoke at a great distance whether it is coming out of the funnels of a Man-of-war or just an ordinary steamer. After considerable speculation and argument it was decided that it must be H. M. S. Yarmouth, which we knew, from our wireless reports, was operating in the Bay at that time. We let it go at that, and went on with our breakfast. However, we were all wishing, if it were the Yarmouth, that it might come close, and we would have the opportunity of seeing some real sailors. This is just what the "smoke" proceeded to do, as if in answer to our unexpressed wish, signalling to us, not to use our wireless, and firing simultaneously across our bows, which according to the rules of the sea means—Stop. We couldn't imagine why the cruiser should be so hard boiled about stopping us, but there was nothing we could do but obey orders.

As the oncoming ship was speeding our way, we were unable to observe the flag that was flying from its stern, and our dismay was complete when finally the newcomer arrived alongside and swung around in the trough of the sea, bringing into painfully plain view the largest German Naval Esign that this writer ever saw before or since. This was our abrupt introduction to the Emden, the fastest and, at that time one of the newest of Germany's fighting ships.

The orders of the Indus were automatically cancelled, and we were all in a state of grave doubt as to what or where our new destination would be. We knew we were about three days, in all directions from land, if we could travel at our usual speed of about twelve knots, and if we had to make the journey in open boats, we would be lucky to come through at all. Our fears concerning our future were short-lived however, when a small boat was seen to leave the Emden, bringing towards us an armed party with an Officer in charge. We lowered our "gangway" and as the German officer came aboard, he explained, in perfect English, that it was his duty to capture and sink our ship on account of the state of war then existing between the government of Great Britain and the Imperial government of Germany. The German Officer immediately dispelled our fears by explaining that no harm would come to any of us if we did not resist him in the performance of his duty, and that we all would be taken aboard the "Markomannia" another ship that had come alongside in the meantime, and which had been serving as a tender to the Emden since it had left its China station. Needless to state, none of us had, at that time, any great desire to do any resisting. On the contrary, we were all grateful to be, not only treated courteously, but even allowed to take some of our personal belongings with us.

It did not take us long to prepare to abandon ship. We lowered our boats, and proceeded to row to the Markomannia, which was lying off about two miles distant. It was then that the writer was very thankful for having learned, a few years previously, on Sir John Lake, the use of an oar. The sea was rough and choppy, and the job at hand soon took our thoughts away from the good old Indus which had been our happy home for many months. The officers and crew of the Indus were made up of 10 Europeans, 70 Laskars, and the writer. The Laskars were all from Calcutta, and the officers came from England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales and Canada.

After we had been safely transferred to the Markomannia, the Germans proceeded to take badly needed supplies from the Indus. One of the greatest necessities at that time among the crew of the Emden was soap, and fortunately for them, the Indus had on board 150 cases of that very useful commodity which was promptly put to good use, as was evidenced by the amount of washing hanging around on the following day. Besides this fine supply of soap the Emden obtained cases of canned goods, sheets, towels, oilskins, paper, pencils, jam, whole sides of fresh beef, lamb, ham, biscuits, wines and liquors. When finally Captain von Muller decided that he had all he needed, he gave orders for the Indus to be sunk.

Explosive charges were placed inside the hull—the sea valves were opened letting the water in with a roar. After the charges were fired our good old ship started to list to port. The armed party were seen to row rapidly away from her, but still she refused to go down, and it was only after ten minutes she had been fired from the Emden's guns that she finally toppled over on her port side, her masts hitting the water with a resounding smack as a final protest for such unusual treatment. Just before her stern disappeared the inrush of air blew out a rear port and scattered a lot of undistinguishable material on the surface of the sea. Then she was gone.

It was now about three in the afternoon, and we were under way once more, but now we were prisoners of war, guarded by German sailors on the Markomannia. We found them much like "Mrs. O'Grady and the Colonel's Lady, just sisters under the skin." They treated us much better than we had anticipated. We did not go far until another "smoke" was sighted on the horizon. This smoke afterwards proved to be the S. S. Louvat. The Emden took out after it and overhauled it in no time. It was getting dark at that time of the afternoon as the moon was beginning, and the crew of the Louvat could be faintly seen leaving their ship hurriedly. Soon they joined us on the Markomannia. The Emden had no need of further supplies from the Louvat, and as soon as the departing crew were at a safe distance the Emden's guns once more were swung into action. Each shot was a strike, and within a few minutes another good ship was on its way to the bottom of the Bay. Just before the Louvat settled down the only voice of protest that could be heard was the weird screeches of the crew's pet monkey that had been kept in a cage on deck, and was either overlooked, or could not be taken along by the startled crew.

The four days that followed, the Emden captured one ship after another, and the population on board the Markomannia began to assume alarming proportions. The problem of feeding and taking care of such a large number on a ship that was not equipped for such an emergency was a real one, but somehow, everyone made the best of it. Our real danger at this time was not what the Germans might do to us, but it was the great possibility of one or a dozen French or British ships that were in the Bay of Bengal at that time and undoubtedly would have made us their targets if they had sighted us.

The Emden did considerable damage to Eastern shipping the four days that the writer was a prisoner on the Markomannia. Most of the ships, however, were practically empty when they were captured, but there was one, the S. S. Diplomat, which it was claimed, had a cargo of thirty seven thousand cases of tea.

This particular ship had to be practically blown apart in order to sink it. The usual procedure was followed in trying to sink her, but the cargo was so buoyant that the ship almost refused to sink, and finally it was necessary to place a tremendous charge of explosive in her hull in order to send her to the bottom. After the Diplomat was disposed of the next victim to appear on the horizon proved to be the S. S. Kabinga which was heavily laden with a valuable cargo consigned to Boston and other U. S. A. ports. The Captain of the Kabinga was accompanied on this particular trip by his wife and little child, and it was getting late when she was overhauled. There was a very heavy sea running at the time, so after von Muller considered all these adverse circumstances, he decided to wait until morning to transfer the crew of the Kabinga to the Markomannia. The next ship that was sighted presented a different problem. It was Italian, the name of which we never could learn. Italy at that time was considered almost an ally of Germany, and von Muller wanted the Italian Captain to take all the prisoners of the Markomannia and return with them to Calcutta, but the Italian skipper stoutly refused to entertain that proposition, and von Muller was forced to allow him to proceed on his way. Long before this Italian Captain arrived in Calcutta he had sent out a warning message to all shipping of the presence of the Emden. This was beyond the duty of a neutral, but by so doing he saved a number of other transports loaded with troops for France that might not have fared so fortunate as the rest of us. For this valuable service the government of India awarded the friendly Italian a medal.

We had been following a Northernly course during these hectic days and nights which brought us very close to the mouth of the Hooghly River from where we so proudly started a week before. We were almost in sight of the pilot ship stationed there, and von Muller must have known that if he remained long in that locality, something would catch up with him, so he decided to transfer all his prisoners to the still waiting Kabinga. We were all informed of this decision, and warned to stand by to leave immediately.

It is difficult to imagine the task the sailors of the Emden had in transferring about 370 prisoners in the middle of the night with a heavy sea in open boats with everything as dark as a cellar. Not even a comforting smoke was allowed. Then too, there was the added handicap of a heavy monsoon which hung over the night like a veil. For the accomplishment of this hazardous task in the face of the unruly elements, the danger presented by nearby French and British destroyers, etc., while it being done, is only one of the many things that made Captain Karl von Muller stand out as a gallant German Naval Officer. His well disciplined crew also deserve great and everlasting credit for carrying out their instructions in a very efficient and business like manner.

After the last prisoner had been safely pulled aboard the Kabinga, the Emden's crew bade us all a cheery "good-night", and then silently disappeared into the inky darkness to continue their merciless mission of ship sinking. The Kabinga, with the salvaged crews of seven ships, proceeded to Calcutta where a big reception was given by Europeans and natives, and here most of us remained about a month at the expense of the government of India. The writer was afterwards sent to Bombay, a never-to-be-forgotten 44 hour train journey across India.

The Emden proceeded on her tour of raiding, shelling the oil station at Madras, and from there she put into the Indian port of Penang. Before entering the harbor of Penang a dummy funnel was rigged up, giving her four stacks, and it was reported at the time that she flew the Japanese colors. She saluted a French destroyer lying at the mouth of the harbor, and the unsuspecting Frenchman returned the salute promptly. The Emden continued upstream and came alongside a Russian cruiser that was coaling at the dock. After turning around, the engines were set full speed ahead, and while passing the Russian a full broadside including two eighteen inch torpedoes were shot into her, causing her to blow up immediately. While passing the French destroyer, and before the Frenchman realized what had taken place, the Emden now threw another broadside into the same ship she had so courteously saluted upon entering the harbor. From Penang the Emden disappeared for some time, and became the main topic of conversation of the world, and particularly in and around India, but on November 9th, 1914, she again made her appearance off the Cocos or Keeling Island with the intention of destroying the wireless station and cutting the cable which would leave Australia without a direct contact with the rest of the world. A landing party was made ready for this task, fully equipped with machine guns, etc., but the lookouts at the wireless station had observed the approach of the cruiser off the entrance to the harbor, and had just time to get a message away before they were rushed. The Germans got there just too late to do any damage. The message read, "Strange warship off entrance", and it was picked up by H. M. S. Sydney. The Sydney at once knew that it was the Emden, and set out full speed ahead for Keeling Island. The Emden observed the approach of the Sydney and at first thought it was a passenger ship bound for Australia, but the Germans were not long in discovering their mistake as the Sydney had her battle flags flying. Still von Muller did not know it was the Sydney, but thought it must be H. M. S. Newcastle, a ship with smaller guns. With this idea in mind von Muller ordered "Battle Stations", "Move in Closer", and "Commence Firing". The Germans' gunnery was excellent as the Emden drew first blood with a direct hit. The Sydney returned the fire immediately, but were unable to find the proper range with the first few shots. However, as soon as the target was found the Sydney poured in salvo after salvo with her six inch guns which brought the gallant Emden down to a shambles in no time. When von Muller realized he was up against a much heavier foe than he anticipated he decided to beach his ship. His engine room had not suffered a great deal up to this time, and with full steam up he ran the Emden ashore. She was a burning wreck, her funnels and masts shot away and her deck strewn with killed and wounded. It was an unequal contest. In the fight the Sydney suffered 18 casualties, while the Emden had 230 killed and wounded. The landing party made good their escape, and somehow they finally reached Germany safely. Captain von Muller and what was left of his gallant crew were taken aboard the Sydney where the wounded were taken care of, and von Muller had his sword returned to him for having proved himself to be a very gallant enemy.

ENCOURAGE PRIMARY INDUSTRY

Another pre-election pledge dealt with encouragement to primary industry and the lowering of costs of production. It also promised state assistance in the marketing of natural products. The elimination of the income tax on young metaliferous mines and the promise that the gold tax will not be increased are two examples of action in this field. The sales tax was, however, raised. Machinery is being worked out for assistance in exporting live cattle and other agricultural products.

The promise was made that a "properly constituted" central bank would be set up. This, as seen by Liberal leaders, means a bank of which the ownership and direction is under the majority control of parliament and the government of the day. To that extent it has been redeemed.

An investment control board was to be established. This is apparently still to come. The integrity of the Canadian National was to be maintained. There is no present talk of amalgamation.

The Liberal party stands for "industrial reconstruction" and a larger share for workers and consumers in industry. Liberal apologists will probably point to tariff developments as an implementation of this plank to some extent. It is difficult, however, to point to anything very tangible as yet, in this field.

The abolition of the "blank cheque" legislation has been carried out, as promised.

FAVORS FREE SPEECH

Section 98 of the Criminal Code was to have been repealed. The substitute clause, in the opinion of some critics, was almost as obnoxious. But this government is unquestionably in favor of freedom of speech and assembly.

The government is pledged to reform electoral machinery so as to obtain a true parliamentary representation, and to reduce the cost of election campaigns. This problem has been studied, but no action has yet been taken.

The government is to balance the budget. Again, minor progress has been made, but there is a long distance to travel yet. The drought made it harder, for this year.

Peace and good-will was to be fostered between nations. The fair and just distribution of wealth with increasing regard to human needs, to the furtherance of social justice and the promotion of the common good was to be stressed.

Not a bad idea to remind ourselves occasionally what the present government promised to do. On the whole the record of the first year is pretty fair, as governments go. Supporters will be more enthusiastic. Critics will be less laudatory. But everyone agrees there is a gigantic job for the government yet to accomplish.

STRIKING CONTRAST, U. S. AND BRITISH COURTS OF JUSTICE

Overton Harris of New York confesses that after five years on the bench he is "disillusioned" with United States courts and that he admires British ones.

Formerly a highly paid corporation lawyer, Harris said: "I took this job out of a sense of adventure and a desire to work with people rather than papers. I felt that I could do a little good and that this would be a sort of genteel retirement."

"I find that the job was neither genteel nor retirement. It has been five years of bitter conflict. I am convinced of the utter hopelessness of accomplishing anything in the city courts and the thanklessness of trying."

"I'm convinced that the New York public does not want anything better than the hippodroming of which Mayor La Guardia speaks. The country smacks of over-sentimentality."

Magistrate Harris said he had recently sat in a magistrate's court in London. "What contrast between courts there and here", he observed. "There, one is impressed with the sense of fairness of all persons concerned. Here, it is a case of one slicker against another, trying to win however he can."

ADMIRABLE DEFEAT (Winnipeg Tribune)

Sir Wilfrid Laurier had a motto to be used in case of defeat: "Not a word of reproach shall pass my lips!" Ex-Premier Godbout has observed it.

MIND-FABRICATED DEPRESSIONS

A few citations by J. N. Bayne of the Local Government Board of Saskatchewan, in an address delivered recently before the Union of Canadian Municipalities at Vancouver, give us wholesome food for thought. Mr. Bayne leaves the impression that it is not well to dwell too seriously on the pessimism of under-nourished commentators, whose near-sighted view of conditions too often imbues them with the premonition of false prophets.

Mr. Bayne remarked — in this connection Macaulay may be quoted, when he wrote: "A wave may recede, but the tide comes in." Some of us in our daily work hear much that tends to make us despondent, but a writer in 1933 asserted that there is really nothing new in the statement that the world is going to the dogs, that civilization is nearing its end and that ruin is staring every world nation in the face. In 1819 Lord Grey believed that everything was tending to a convulsion. In 1848 Lord Shaftesbury said: "Nothing can save the British Empire from shipwreck." In the year following Disraeli exclaimed, "In industry, commerce and agriculture there is no hope." It was two years later in 1851 when on the eve of his death the Duke of Wellington thanked God he would "be spared from seeing the consummation of ruin that is gathering around us." Pessimism is not restricted to the 20th century. The blue ruin forecasts of such prominent men in the British Empire only proved how little any one of us knows of the future. I like to think that the lamentations which we hear today may soon be turned into expressions of joy and gratitude. An authority in the midst of privation stated not long ago that our civilization is no nearer to its close than it was after the French Revolution, the Napoleonic Wars or other upheavals.

A FRIEND PASSES

With the passing of Mr. A. M. Campbell at Carleton Place last Friday, The Watchman shares the feeling of distinct loss which pervades this district. Particularly in Brownsburg, the community of his adoption, as his mortal remains "came home" last Sunday, citizens recalled the smile and geniality, the strength of personality still quiet and unassuming, and most of all the friendship which was his distinguishing characteristic. And one may consider the attainment of this one quality—its inevitable association with one outstanding figure—as a life achievement well worth-while.

We honor the late Mr. Campbell for his friendliness. We pay tribute to his more dynamic virtues, for he was a true Canadian and a constructive citizen—a citizen which any community might be proud to call its own. In the articles contributed by him in this very column, The Watchman was happy to profit by his philosophy, by the wit and wisdom that flowed so generously from his pen. Only last month the publishers were privileged to print a story by him in these pages—a chapter which moved in a youthful tempo but showed a knowledge of values mellowed by rich experience. There are few such vigorous yet lovable figures one may hope to meet in the day's labors.

BLESSING OF CORNER-STONE

L'Assomption. A fitting sermon was delivered by L'Abbe Emile Vezina of St. Ann's Parish, Ottawa. Clergy of the district, both from Quebec and Ontario, were represented in a large number, while members of local firms and enterprises joined with the parishioners in this auspicious gathering. The Lachute Council Knights of Columbus paraded in a body to the church, led by Mr. Gaston Valois, Grand Chevalier. They were preceded by the Lachute Brass Band under Conductor A. Guinette.

With the officiating clergy were present Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ayers, Mrs. W. H. Ayers and Mr. Thos. Ayers; Mr. W. H. Ayers, being absent on the Pacific Coast, was unable to attend the function. Noted also among the large gathering were:

Rev. Messrs. M. Maurice, University of Montreal; C. Dufort, St-Jean-de-la-Croix, Montreal; J. Cloutier, Terrebonne; J. Guilbault, Plantagenet, (Prescott) Ont.; E. Morrisette, S.S.S., Superior, Terrebonne; V. Deuchard, Brownsburg; W. Leonard, St. Bernard; L.-J. Daoust, Prince Albert, Saskatchewan; B. Pressault, St. Columban; H. Babinet, St.

Philippe; L. Lavigne, St-Ambroise, Montreal; C. Gareau, Terrebonne. Rev. Messrs. Cloutier, Bonin, Beaudry, and Lacasse of Montreal, Professors of the L'Assomption College, Rev. L. J. Rodrigue, Professor at the Ste-Therese Seminary, C. E. Baker of the Clercs St. Viator, and C. Vinet, secretary to His Excellency Mgr. Deschamps.

Mr. Ludger Lemieux and Mr. Paul Lemieux, architects of Montreal, who drew the plans for this church, and Mr. Maurice Champagne, architect in charge of construction; Church Wardens—Messrs. E. Lepage, H. Desforges, H. Trichard, G. Delorme, H. M. Lavigne, R. Ledoux, C. Tremblay and others; Mr. P. Chabot and Dr. Alex. Rodrigue of the Catholic School Commission; Mr. Jacques, Mr. Leclercq, Mr. Mercier, of Montreal; Messrs. G. Payette, E. Deslauriers, T. Milne, C. Duncan, F. Sanford, C. Rogers, C. Walker, H. E. Underhill, Geo. Leggett, Daniel Tremblay, R. Joly, A. Ethier and A. Bernier; Mr. W. M. Cottingham, on behalf of Cottingham Supply Co.; Mr. T. D. Titman, representing The Lachute Watchman. Other citizens and business men were present among the congregation.

—Plan to attend the Hal-lowe'en Dance and Masquerade to be held in C-I-L Social Club, Brownsburg, Saturday, Oct. 31. A percentage of the proceeds will be donated to the local Relief Fund.

CITY PAID $271,297 DAMAGES IN TWO YEARS

In two years, the City of Montreal has paid a total of $271,297.07 for damages claimed through sewer and water main floodings, falls on sidewalks and bad streets, according to a tabulation laid before the City Council recently.

FORMER MAYOR SUES TOWN

J. A. Nadeau, former Mayor of Cap de la Madeleine, Que., has taken action against his home town for alleged negligence of firemen during a fire in his home. He sued for $2,000, charging the firemen were tardy and used defective methods in fighting the blaze.

$2,000,000 PARK SUGGESTED FOR VANCOUVER

Erection of a large civic park containing a stadium, swimming pool and docks for small pleasure craft at a cost of $2,000,000 is suggested by Mayor G. G. McGeer for the City of Vancouver. The proposed civic playground and stadium would be developed on the Kitsilano Indian Reserve near the Kitsilano residential district. The city is negotiating with the British Columbia Government for control of the Reserve.

CROWN SERVANTS AND TRAFFIC ACT

To decide the liability of members of His Majesty's Forces in Canada as far as the highway traffic acts of the various provinces are concerned, an interesting point of law will be argued before a judge of the Supreme Court of Ontario. The matter effects the competence of county and police magistrates to convict under the present acts, and the intervention of the Minister of Justice, in his capacity as Attorney-General of Canada, has been decided on and the Dominion Government as well as the Province of Ontario will appear to seek an interpretation of the jurisdiction of magistrates trying such cases under the acts.

The appeal rises out of the dismissal of a charge of reckless driving against Patrick Campbell last month by Magistrate Lester Clayton of Carleton County. The magistrate advised an appeal to settle a point of law that the Crown or its servants were not liable to provisions of the Ontario Highways Traffic Act.

UNAWARE HE WAS OWNER OF BUILDING

George Ortseifen, a real estate dealer in Chicago, was surprised to learn that a six-flat building was included in a parcel of real estate which came into his possession through a mortgage transaction.

He might never have discovered the fact if two of the tenants had not quarrelled and gone to court, where incidental questioning revealed nobody in the building had paid rent for 10 years because nobody knew who owned it. An investigation disclosed Ortseifen's unsuspected status of landlord.

LIGHTNING SET FIRE ALARM

Firemen in Gallitzin, Pa., claim a record for the quickest fire alarm. A bolt of lightning struck a siren on their building, sounding it instantaneously as the structure caught fire.

The most surprising thing about England, in the eyes of Sir Henry Drayton, one-time Canadian Minister of Finance, is the fact that not a single municipality, from one end of the island to the other, defaulted or "went under" during the depression.

ACCIDENT IN SAW-MILL AT DUNANY

Nelson Morrison of Dunany was the victim of an unfortunate accident yesterday morning, sustaining a fractured leg while at work in his saw-mill. The accident occurred at around 11 a.m. Mr. Morrison was alone in the mill, and it is reported he had been starting up one of the machines when his leg became caught in a moving belt. Both bones were fractured between the knee and ankle, the leg being badly twisted and bruised. Dr. Jas. H. Mason was summoned from Lachute to give medical aid.

FORMER BROWNSBURG RESIDENT PASSES

lecturer, a lover of poetry, art and music, a seeker after truth and an admirer of all that is beautiful and good. All who knew him will bear witness to his radiant personality, a man in whose presence one felt happy and at home. He was a true sportsman, as happy in defeat as when he won the game himself. He took a beneficial interest in education, and a leading part in the Victory Loan campaign. He was the inspiration and the soul of the Brownsburg Social Club. When, on retirement, he left Brownsburg, his kindly interest in the good of all his colleagues was sorely missed.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife — Mrs. Z. L. Campbell; five daughters and one son, namely—Mrs. J. T. Robbins (Toronto), Mr. Andrew Campbell (Perth, Ont.), Mrs. A. W. Robbins, Mrs. Wm. King and Mrs. F. Vowles Jr. (all of Brownsburg) and Mrs. Robert Cruise (Carleton Place). To these and to the twelve grandchildren the sympathy of this community is extended. The recollection of Andrew McArthur Campbell is that of one who was, in all respects, a man and a gentleman.

The funeral services commenced with a brief ceremony at the residence in Carleton Place, conducted by the Rev. C. L. G. Bruce, Rector of St. James' Church, and the Rev. D. C. Munro, Pastor of Memorial Park United Church. The remains were then brought to St. Simeon's Church, Lachute, where the burial service was conducted by the Rector, the Rev. W. LeCras, who also spoke words of consolation and hope based on the Gospel of the Resurrection. Interment took place at Lachute Cemetery. Pall bearers were—Messrs. J. S. Giles, A. W. Robbins, F. Vowles Jr., R. Cruise, Wm. King and L. Cruise.

"Returning"

(Written in Memory of A. M. Campbell)

They do not mourn for him—
These Poet Songsters,
Though the song they sing
Is filled with sweetness
Of his lyric melodies,
Because they know that even yet
He will return
To join their singing,
And find his dreaming
In their lilting rhapsodies.

For he was one with Earth
And the returning—
Whose soul again shall seek
And find a song
In stars and wind
And tread the sun-kist woodlands,
Finding Youth again
In some young heart
Through immortality of song.
Reincarnate—in his kind.

was plentiful, comprising fog, mist and rain; sun shines tenderly from skies that are soft and not too high; the average rainfall is 30-40 inches—and that average is in evidence most days! The scenery he depicted as exquisite, and while admitting the grandeur of the Gatineau and the wondrous colorings of our Canadian foliage at this time, he thought nothing was more beautiful than the Dart and Dove, East Anglia and the Sussex Downs.

Most graphic in his description of the ancient English towns and villages, Mr. George carried his audience where builders were in league with nature, and where from the towers they keep watch for that ancient England that ever rises up in beauty and terror to build again the ancient peace.

"The English are rather good at self government, and leaders are truly representative, one of their chief characteristics being tolerance and their love of fair play," he said. During the evening Miss Edna Aitken gave a piano number, and Miss Janet McQuat a song selection, which were much appreciated, and a very entertaining evening was brought to a close with thanks to the speaker and the singing of the National Anthem.

an action against his election as member for Montmorency.

Small property owners in Quebec will be given additional opportunity to hold their homes in virtue of a bill which Hon. Jos. Bilodeau, Minister of Municipal Affairs, Trade and Commerce, put through the Committee of the Whole of the Legislative Assembly also last week.

The effect of the Bill, which repeals one enacted in 1934, is to free city and town corporations from the obligation of selling immovables for arrears of taxes due for two years or more and unpaid, which obligation was imposed in legislation by the Taschereau Government.

Adequate Lighting Is Needed in Class Room

Demonstration given to School Boards in Hawkesbury

Members of the Hawkesbury School Boards and visitors from surrounding districts were treated to a talk and demonstration on Class Room Lighting at the Hawkesbury High School on Monday evening.

Mr. Ward, of the Holophone
Co. Ltd., pointed out that lighting intensities in the home had increased upwards of ten times what it was twenty years ago—whereas in the class rooms no change had been made. He attributed this to the fact that in the home, adults provide themselves with proper light to see what they are doing, but unfortunately if a pupil complains in the class room of being unable to see the blackboard, he is usually moved to the front and another has to take his place at the back.

Mr. Ward also pointed out that some artificial lighting was always required in the class rooms, as on the finest days though the desks near the windows have ample light, those farthest away rarely have sufficient for the work to be done by the student; and as for the blackboard, that part near the windows which has plenty of illumination causes a glare which makes seeing difficult for many of the students even in the front of the class.

To illustrate to those present the difficulty and strain it is to read and copy from the blackboard with insufficient illumination, sentences were written on the board in French, English and Italian, which everyone copied and the time taken. The room and blackboard was then lighted with the modern Holophone system and it was found that the "class" cut their time almost in half to copy another sentence written in Italian.

Mr. Ward pointed out that it should be borne in mind that the younger child in copying from the blackboard has to look at each letter, so with insufficient illumination the strain and resulting fatigue is more pronounced than with the adult class present.

Statistics gathered from various experiments with classes of school children, Mr. Ward said, showed that failures were reduced considerably in classes provided with proper illumination. Without considering any other benefits from adequate class room lighting, the saving of four or five failures a year will more than repay for the cost of improved lighting.

Mr. Kenwood of Canadian General Electric assisted in the demonstration.

ative for the J. R. Watkins Co.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

IN ONE PICTURE

This picture, while striking, is really two pictures in one.

ONE of the faults often seen in the work of an amateur photographer, especially of a beginner, is the inclusion of too much in one picture. He tries to "hog the whole show," as it were, with results that are uninteresting or distracting.

For example, from the top of a mountain or other eminence, he is impressed by a vast panorama of country—several hundred square miles of it spreading to the horizon in a great semi-circle—and promptly tries to compress it into a few square inches of film. The result on the film is little more than a wavy or jagged line—the horizon line—separating a white space from a dark space. He failed to note how all the interesting detail was swallowed up in the vastness of the scene.

Such a panorama may be saved by beautiful cloud effects obtained by using a color filter and, of course, it can serve, and may well be treasured, as a "record" picture of a visit, but vastness unrelieved by nearby detail generally makes a poor picture. Better to let the panorama be a background for something worth looking at in the foreground. A foreground object—a single tree, a human being, a grazing cow, a nearby cottage on the mountain slope, often will make all the difference in a scenic picture between something interesting to look at and little or nothing.

Again, in nearby scenes, there is frequently material for two or even more complete pictures that the picture taker has crowded into one, with the result that the eye wanders from one point to another, producing a sense of irritation rather than of pleasure. All right in a three-ring circus, if you like, but not for a good photograph. Selection, leaving out what is not really required, is a lesson to be learned. The viewpoint should be chosen carefully, remembering that much that is extraneous may be eliminated, or at least made unobtrusive, by moving the camera to the right or left, up or down, nearer or farther away, or by focusing from different planes, or by using different diaphragm openings in the lens.

But sometimes, you say, how can you help getting in several objects of competing interest when Nature or circumstance has them in the picture you want to take. It is true that this situation cannot always be easily avoided but, when you are confronted with it, you may find yourself lucky after all. Go ahead and shoot and then examine your print. Imagine a scene on a river. Your point of interest is a girl in a bathing suit about to dive from a row-boat in mid-stream. You have to snap the picture from the river bank fifty feet distant. You find when the print is finished that interest in the girl is rivaled by that in a small boy in the foreground at the right, fishing from the bank. Beyond, diagonally across the river on the left is a dam and picturesque old mill in a setting of willows. You have three pictures in one. What do you do? You take your print and mark each one of these interesting pictures from the two others, mark them and have the corresponding sections on the negative separately enlarged.

Many a fine picture is made by enlarging a selected portion of a miscellaneous composition.

THE PROOF

"I am quite sure the earth turns round",
Ted said, with eyes a-glow,
"Because last night I went to bed
My head pillowed, just so,

"Right at the top of my small bed,
But in the morning—dear!
There I was, lying at the foot,
It seemed to me quite queer.

"So now I'm certain that this earth
Turns over every day,
And that is how I got upset
Head down, in that queer way."

CORDELIA'S ADVENTURES IN JETTYLAND

"Of course she won't, Silly Curly" exclaimed Mr. Soft-Fur severely, "Cordelia has got nothing against us mice. In spite of all the things we have chewed up of hers. She has been so nice about everything." "Then what is she doing sneaking around Jettyland?" asked Silly Curly. "She is not sneaking around—I brought her here, and I expect you to treat our guest with respect." "Let her tell us what she does upstairs then," muttered Silly Curly. "She has been sitting here all evening listening to our stories; now let her entertain us for a change." "That seems to be fair enough I think, Soft-Fur" said Uncle Roughy Longtoes, "We have been telling stories to entertain her, it is her turn now."

"Will you tell us a story, my dear?" Mrs. Soft-Fur asked, very gently, "You must know of so many things that happen up in the land of daylight and sun that would interest us."

"I do not know many stories" said Cordelia, twisting nervously about on her stool.—If it had been nursery rhymes how different it would have been, particularly that one about the three blind mice. It kept singing through her mind, as though insisting she should recite it, but she felt it would not be very appropriate; so in her haste to escape its persistent sounding in her ears, she started to talk quickly, excitedly, heedless of her subject. "One day", she said, "we went out for a walk, my darling Tabitha and I. I was carrying Tabitha in my arms, when suddenly a horrid dog came bounding along and frightened her, so that she scrambled out of my arms and ran up a tree, and would not come down all day or all night, and we had to get the men from the fire station to get her down. The poor dear was almost starved when we finally got her home again." When she had finished she looked around the circle of mice and found that the pleased look had disappeared from their faces and they were looking at her sharply and suspiciously.

"Who is Tabitha, my dear?" Mrs. Soft-Fur asked very softly. She too sensed the suspicion that had entered the minds of the other mice, and was hoping that Cordelia's next words would set all right.

"I am sure you have no need to ask who Tabitha is", Silly Curly's sneering voice broke in. "If she is the lady I think she is, I hope the big dog catches her and eats her next time."

"How dare you, how dare you," Cordelia cried, "to speak so of my darling pussy cat." "I thought so", sneered Curly, "Cordelia Crooks is a spy. She is down here in Mouseland spying out how and where we live, so that she can go back and tell her cat just where to find us."

Women's Institute Branches Report Recent Activities

Brownburg Branch of the Women's Institutes heard an interesting talk on Education by Principal C. L. Hall of Lachute. Their roll-call was "State Laws Affecting Women". Twelve members and two visitors were present.

Frontier held a meeting on Legislation, with Mr. S. Golds-worthy of Lachute as guest speaker. His subject was "The Value of Life Assurance", which brought to light many interesting features. Their roll-call was "Laws Concerning Women of Quebec." The Provincial Convention's outline on Canadian Industries was also read.

Jerusalem - Bethany featured Legislation, a paper on this general theme being read by Mrs. E. Kettle.

Lachute heard a splendid address on "Pre-Natal Care", by Mrs. T. Don Titman. Their roll-call was, "Children's diseases which we may avoid". They purchased some new chairs for the school, and arranged for a lecture entitled "We English—by One of Us" to be given by Prof. A. R. George of McGill.

Morin Heights' meeting was an educational one, attended by the school principal and teachers, also by the County President, who read a paper along Educational lines.

Pioneer held its meeting on the topic of Legislation, Mr. G. Valois being guest speaker. His address was on the making of wills. Plans were made for a dance and card party.

Upper Lachute - East End held a demonstration on rug-making, Mrs. L. Barron of Lachute being the demonstrator. They also had as a guest the County President, who gave a talk on entertaining.

HISTORIC MAPS BY "LT.-COL. B.-P."

The establishment of a bureau of Government Archives in Southern Rhodesia and the collecting of documents concerning the early days of the colony, revealed a series of maps prepared by Lt.-Col. TWO YOUNG POLISH ADVENTURES

Two 18-year-old Polish Sea Scouts who set out three years ago to voyage round the world in a 28-foot yacht have experienced some of the adventures they sought. The seven weeks' crossing of the Atlantic so battered their boat that they had to dispose of it. They purchased a partially constructed hull, 48 ft. long, finished it, and set off across the Pacific. They were last reported at Sydney.

Echoes of the W.C.T.U. Conference

(By Our Own Correspondent)

At the Women's Temperance Union Convention of the Province of Quebec, held in Cowansville last week, another of our county ladies, Mrs. William Usher of Cushing, was honored with a provincial office—that of first vice-president. Mrs. Usher is already county president of Argenteuil, and president of this organization in Argenteuil and Vaudreuil, better known as Cushing and Point Fortune Union. Mrs. Jas. Mabon, a former Lachute resident, was made provincial president to replace Mrs. Henry Wilson of Athelstan, Que., who retired from that office on account of ill-health. Miss Mabel Kyle, a Montrealeur, who has a summer cottage in Lakefield, was appointed Convenor of Temperance Literature—so, although so many of our county ladies are apathetic on this all-important subject of Temperance, the county is well represented in the Provincial W.C.T.U.; two other ladies, Mrs. J. W. Maclean and Mrs. A. Graham of Cushing, also hold provincial office.

Another link with Lachute was the fact that Miss Frances Carleton, daughter of the Rev. J. F. Carleton of Dunham, was the soloist for Young People's Night. History repeats itself—it was just 25 years ago that Mrs. Carleton's mother, with her sister Violet, sang in duet at a W.C.T.U. convention in Lachute.

Stressing the fact that souls of fellow men and women are of more importance than bridge, golf, and afternoon teas, Madame Giroux of Sweetsburg said, "Surely we women want something more than bridge and the movies, to fill our lives. . . Surely we seek a place in the better things of life with Mary who sat at the feet of Jesus. So many say, 'What can we do?' and forget to look back at the things that have in past years been accomplished. If we do no more than support the work by our fee, our interest and our prayers, we will have had a share in the good work." Rev. Boyd, pastor of Emmanuel Church, Cowansville (where the convention was held) said, "this great work must be continued at all costs. Do not", he said, "let anything shake your faith in God and the temperance cause."

A lifetime of faith in the cause was noted by the presence of an old lady of 90 years, Mrs. S. Henry, of Brome Co., who has been a faithful worker and attended the conventions, no matter the distance which she must travel to attend.

Thirty-two members had been lost by death during the year. A beautiful memorial service was held for them under the convenorship of Mrs. J. W. Maclean of Cushing. Mrs. A. Graham of Cushing spoke in tribute to the late Mrs. John Jackson of Lachute.

One of the guest speakers at this convention was Rev. E. D. Mitchell of Knowlton, who also sang in duet with Mrs. Mitchell on Young People's Night. Rev. Mitchell, well known here as a former minister in Vankleek Hill, was a forceful and humorous speaker. Spawning of the clergy he remarked, when a minister first went to a place he was usually idealized, later he was criticized, and finally he was ostracized—then he knew that it was time to move on! Another witty tale concerned a Greek professor, who claimed that there was nothing he could not translate into Greek, but was outdone when one of his students handed him a paper on which was written, "Pep without purpose is piffle". There was evidently no translation in Greek for pep and piffle. Rev. Mitchell decried the attitude of the church in general towards temperance, and asked why the people of the church were not standing shoulder to shoulder against this common enemy, the liquor traffic. Until the church awakened to her responsibility and presented a united front against the evils of intemperance, it would be uphill work.

According to another speaker, Rev. Thos. Scott of Granby, the people of today claim this is the age of freedom; they claimed the right to be free—but no one was free who was a drinker of liquor; far from it. It was a privilege we had of keeping our hearts and bodies young, but neither could be kept young if we used strong drink; as this "distilled damnation," as John Wesley called it, was a foe to health. Every day one sees the proof; men who do not drink are smiling, alert and clear-eyed, and the men who drink go doddering about, stupid-looking and bleary-eyed.

Dr. C. H. Dickinson, of Erskine-American Church, presented scientific facts claiming that drinking was dangerous; any such harmful indulgence was silly, morally wrong, and un-Christian. It affected the nervous system, loosened the powers of control, and made of us little more than animals.

Madame Giroux of Sweetsburg, a great agitator for women's rights, surprised her listeners by speaking of Communism rather than Votes for Women. In regard to the vote question, however, she remarked, "They tell us to stay at home, but we have no real home now as we used to; our families being scattered to all parts, and engaged in all sorts of jobs, our contacts are much more far-reaching than the boundaries of our own fireside." She regarded Communism as one of the greatest evils in the country. There were 250,000 Communists in Canada today, and 42 Communist newspapers, all seeking to destroy the Christian

FROM STREAM-LINES TO DOG WAGONS

Cars are standardized all over the country, but other types of vehicles are not, and it is interesting to see the various kinds in use. Lately we have seen everything from the very latest stream-lined trucks to wagons pulled by a dog. These last are to be seen in Quebec. We saw milk being delivered by dog-wagon. Certainly the youngsters seemed to be having a grand time scooting along in these wagons. I saw my first oxen when in New Brunswick. Yesterday all traffic was held up in three directions on a corner of one of the very steep hills in Halifax. There was a clatter and noise enough for a cavalcade, but it was only a shaggy weary looking horse drawing one of those low-slung two wheeled wagons, loaded with empty barrels, and rattling over a brick pavement. The horse and driver took their time and all traffic was suspended on this busy corner, until they got out of the way. Quebec and Montreal have various types of cabs, and these caused great excitement as they were something that the youngest member of the family had never seen before. Different types of horse-drawn vehicles are used to take passengers around the Ford village at Dearborn, Michigan, and they seemed to create more interest than anything in the village or the museum. Even the farm wagons are different in the various parts of the country, and each city has its own type of garbage wagon. Cars are all very well, but there is something about a horse that appeals to us all.

THE CARE OF NEW RUGS

When rugs are new there is a certain amount of wool which has not been fastened in tightly, and will come out with cleaning. Some of this is sure to come out; some of it will become matted in with use. Because of this for the first few months of a rug's use, carpet manufacturers advise using the vacuum cleaner and carpet sweeper as little as possible and to clean by gentle sweeping. After the wool has become matted in, the rug will wear longer, if it is cleaned by the vacuum cleaner and the carpet sweeper, as they clean more thoroughly and dirt in a rug will cause wear. Do not be alarmed if there is considerable material removed from a rug at first, because it is loose, and has to come out. There will be much less removed from oriental rugs as the knots are tied by hand. Once a year rugs may be washed. Make a thick lather and use clear warm water. Rub with a dry cloth as the water must never be allowed to soak into the back of the rug.

LIMA BEAN CHOWDER

1 cup dried lima beans
1/4 lb. salt pork
1 cup potato cubes
1/2 cup carrot cubes
1 cup tomatoes
1 quart milk pinch of thyme
salt and pepper to taste

Soak beans over night. Cut pork in narrow slivers, and fry slowly until cooked. Remove pork and save. Add sliced onion and cook slowly. Add beans and enough water to cover, and the thyme, and cook until the beans are tender. Add vegetables and milk and cook a half-hour. Season with salt pepper. Add pork before serving.

GINGER SNAPS

1 cup molasses
1 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon soda
1 tablespoon ginger pinch of red pepper
3 1/2 to 4 cups flour

Stir all ingredients together, and then stir in enough flour so that it may be handled (do not knead). Break off pieces the size of marbles, roll between palms of hands, place on well buttered sheet, giving plenty of room to spread. When baked allow it to remain until cool before removing from pan.

—Whereas the average increase of population in Canada during the last year was 11.3%, in Quebec it was 15.2% and in Ontario, 8.1%.

Mistress — "What has happened to these sausages, Norah?"

Norah — "Well, ma'am, you told me to fry them like fish, and when I cleaned them out there wasn't much left."

society of our Dominion. Madame Giroux made a plea for better church attendance, claiming that the nations of today were like the nations of the past, forgetting God, and they must be brought back to Christianity if they were to progress.

Would that all the people of this county had been present, to hear the frank address given on "Y" night by Mrs. Orr, of the Montreal Women's Jail. She adjured the young folks to "fight the good fight with all their might", with the assistance of their parents, who, she claimed, were more often to blame for their children's sins than the young folks themselves, for they had not trained them into ways of right living and clean thinking. To parents she said, "If your children claim the right to live their own lives and do as they please, never say to them, 'Then get out of my house'. Remember that your children are your responsibility and no matter how erring they are, love them and protect them from the evil effects of their own folly." The majority of cases that passed through the speaker's hands had sinned through the use of strong drink, which had so weakened their morals that they were powerless to withstand temptation. As a special message to the girls she said, "For a husband, demand the best that is to be had in character, and be prepared to give the best yourself."

Much more could be said of convention happenings, of the kind deeds done, the new friends made, the splendid papers given by our women on such subjects as "Triumphant Believing" (which was the topic assigned to Mrs. S. Hartley of Cushing), "The Great Refusal", and "World Peace Among the Nations." The latter subject, by Mrs. J. W. Maclean of Cushing, was ably handled and the entire convention was considered an event worthy of remembrance.

—J. Graham.

Teaching Is No Longer Road to Marriage

A prominent U. S. educationist states that the profession of teaching is no longer "an open road to marriage."

"The fact that teachers are not leaving their profession for marriage as they used to do creates problems for educational leaders", said S. D. Shankland, of the National Educational Association.

"In the days before the war a girl would board in some home and teach school three or four years, then get married," he said. "Today she lives in a flat of her own, and never sees a man—so it becomes increasingly hard for new teachers, with new ideas, new methods, new inspiration, to enter the school systems."

BALANCED DIET KEEPS ONE'S LOCKS HEALTHY

"The Beauty Box", by Helen Follett

Diana Churchill

Diet, she knows, is important in hair beauty.

PROPER FOODS SAVE MONEY ON BEAUTIFIERS

When hair is harsh and dry, has no sheen and looks generally down in the mouth, the cause is usually in some physical condition that is not favorable to health. A diet deficiency is often responsible for unhealthy hair, as well as eye troubles, poor teeth and brittle finger nails.

There's nothing like the balanced diet to save money on beautifiers and to keep the appearance attractive. Everyone needs meat, fish, poultry, cereals, vegetables, green salads and fruits. Yes, and milk, too, particularly when teeth are decaying, hair is crisp or finger nails dry.

To clean the back teeth thoroughly, one needs a small brush. If the bristles are grouped, there is a better chance of polishing the sides of the teeth. If the dentifrice is applied to a dry brush, it is likely to work more effectively than if a damp one is used.

Don't overlook the mouth rinsing. If gums bleed, use a strong salt solution. It's wise to see your dentist when conditions are like that.

No matter what the plump girl says about being a light eater, if she didn't eat fat-building foods she would not line up with the heavyweights. Too much sugar, starch and fat in one form or another are responsible. She needs more green salads and fruits.

Potatoes should be banned and cereals, cream and butter cut down. No cat-naps and no staying in bed late, a three-mile walk each day and some form of vigorous outdoor exercise is what the heavy-weight needs.

Women never spent as much money on their hair as they do at the present time, never gave it so little care. Arrangement, waves and ringlets get all the attention. That is all right, but more is necessary.

Massage the scalp for five minutes every night. Before the shampoo rub in a tonic, or use hot oil the night before. Use the brush vigorously when the finger wave is going limp. Hair and scalp need grooming and thrive under it.

The permanent wave is a godsend and a blessing to women whose hair is excessively oily. It dries it just enough, the hair looks thicker and it doesn't cling to the scalp.

But even the shining top should not have the hard-balled wave too often. Two all-over ones a year will do, with perhaps two touch-ups along the neck line, in between. If steamed too frequently the hair won't respond to the treatment and will frizz up or get alinky. When that has happened, a hot oil treatment is necessary every week to put the glorious crown in condition again.

Fashion Flashes

By Alice Alden

(Copyright, 1936, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

COME ALONG and look at the new fur-trimmed cloth coats. Dramatic and charming is a fitted coat of black woolen with a wide band of silver fox slashed across from the shoulder to opposite side of hemline.

A GOOD THEFT of the styles of yesteryear is the series of fashions obviously inspired by the clothes worn by Mary, Queen of Scots. The long, dashing, wrapped cape in black or dark green velvet is an important member of this series.

QUITE DIFFERENT from grandma's sealskin are the sealskins of today. A delightful coat in safari brown Alaska seal is on loose swagger lines with squared shoulders. A wrought silver button fastens the side-closing military collar.

IF YOU WISH that your new outfit be a dress with matching coat, you can find such ensembles at most smart shops. A useful model, a dress of dark green woolen, has its long, loose jacket trimmed with collar and wide notched revers, as well as cuffs of beaver.

STEP LIGHTLY and try on the good-looking new shoes. A nice afternoon shoe is in dull bronze kid with two-button broad strap. Buttonholes and piping are of narrow gold kid-skin.

CROWNED WITH SUCCESS are those sports hats of fine felt with high, peaked crowns. In peacock blue, one hat has a segmented lemon-squeezer crown with a rolled brim that slopes down in front.

BE YOURSELF in a crisp little youthful frock of black silk or woolen with fitted bodice and full, swinging skirt. A nice model is of black silk crepe, on Directoire lines, with much skirt fullness placed, in back, under a blue velvet bow.

A DOUBLE LIFE is lived by a fitted tunic with long wide, flaring skirts. Of Chinese brocade in white and silver it serves either as an evening wrap or as a tunic over a narrow skirt, making an enchanting dinner dress.

MONKEY SHINES as an important trimming again. Mainbocher uses it to edge the long tunic of a dull black satin frock with black chiffon under-skirt.

CONSTIPATED 25 YEARS, ALL-BRAN BROUGHT RELIEF

Delicious Cereal Corrected His Condition

Here is Mr. Johnson's letter: "I got a package (of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN), and before the package was gone I was very much better."

"So I have been eating it for two or three weeks, and my constipation has gone, and I was constipated for 25 years or more. Hoping this may help some one to better health. I am a new friend to Kellogg's ALL-BRAN."—Mr. J. B. Johnson (address upon request).

Mr. Johnson's letter is one of many. Millions find Kellogg's ALL-BRAN corrects constipation satisfactorily. It supplies the "bulk" missing in the average meal.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is mild and effective. It absorbs moisture, and gently exercises and cleanses the intestines. ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B and iron.

Isn't it more sensible to use this natural food instead of taking patent medicines? Just eat two table-spoonsful daily. If not relieved, see your doctor.

Use as a cereal, with milk or cream, or cook into muffins, breads, etc. It is sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

ARUNDEL

Mr. W. D. Graham, accompanied by Mr. Herman Graham, spent a few days in Ottawa with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Graham.

Miss Viola Boyd, of Morin Heights, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Boyd.

Mr. and Mrs. Alf. Kerr, of Weir, spent Sunday the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Kerr.

The regular monthly meeting of the W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. George Marshall on Friday, Oct. 16th.

Messrs. Gilbert King, of Montreal, and Melvin Graham, spent the week-end the guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Graham.

Mr. Allan Marshall spent the week-end in Ormstown visiting his parents.

A member of the family of the late Rev. William Harris draws attention to an item in the 50 Years Ago feature published in these pages on Oct. 1st. The item, it is stated, is misleading. Mr. William Harris returned to College October 1st, 1886, as a student after his summer's work. He loved the work in Arundel and he returned as pastor (Rev. William Harris). He left for Grenville Parish on May 5th, 1889, but returned to his former field as a guest and a visitor to the lumber camps.

CAMBRIA

The christening of "Dorothy May", infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wood took place on Sunday in Mille Isles Anglican Church, Rev. Dobson officiating. The god-parents were Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Dawson.

Mrs. Overson returned to her home in the city last week after spending several weeks with her niece, Mrs. A. B. Phillips.

Mrs. A. Willey spent a few days in Montreal last week.

Messrs. Wallace and Kenneth Pollock, of Montreal, motored to Mille Isles on Sunday.

Mr. John Madden, of Montreal, accompanied by his wife, and three sisters—Mrs. Funcheon and Misses Mary Ann and May Madden, motored to Mille Isles recently renewing old friendships.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Maxwell and family, of Shawbridge, motored to Mr. G. A. Ryan's on Sunday, also calling at Rosedale Cottage on their way home.

Friends of Mr. Victor Ward are sorry to learn of his misfortune in the loss of a valuable horse which he had only recently purchased from Mr. G. Ivall of Manitoba.

"The neighborhood was also disturbed by news of the recent robbery at Kerr's Farm. There was a time, not so many years ago, when inhabitants of Mille Isles, could boast of leaving doors wide open, always returning to find things as they left them, but it would seem that times have changed and one's property is not safe even under lock and key, as in the case of Kerr's farm.

BROWNSBURG

Mr. George Prosser, of Ste. Anne de Bellevue, spent last week visiting relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Ardill left last week for Ireland, where they will spend some time as guests of the former's father, who is ill at present.

Mrs. C. L. Stephens, Miss L. Kennedy and Mrs. C. E. Prosser were in Montreal on Wednesday of last week, attending the Baptist Women's Missionary Convention.

Our sympathy is extended to friends and relatives of Mr. A. M. Campbell, who passed away on Saturday, Oct. 16th, at his home in Carleton Place. Mr. Campbell was a former resident of Brownsburg.

The Brownsburg Consolidated School field day, which was postponed from Saturday last, was held on Tuesday of this week, all reporting a good time.

Congratulations to Mr. Frank McGibbon and Miss Ena Williams who were united in marriage last Saturday.

SIAM'S EX-KING FLIES SOLO

Looking very happy after landing from his first solo flight, the ex-king of Siam is being congratulated by his nephew Prince Varanand. The former monarch has been learning to fly in England, and his first solo landing was described as the best seen in England this summer by first soloists. He passed his examination with full honors.

CUSHING

Mrs. S. Kinnaird and daughters, of Hawkesbury, were week-end guests of Miss Annie Weir.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Graham spent Tuesday evening in Morin Heights, where Mrs. Graham attended the Educational meeting of Morin Heights W. I.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Leclair and family spent this week with friends in Haileybury, Ont.

Mrs. J. W. Maclean visited Mr. and Mrs. Donald Maclean, of Sherbrooke during part of last week.

A very interesting meeting of St. Mungo's Ladies' Association was held at the home of Mrs. John Innes on Tuesday last.

Do not forget the final spelling bee, at Cushing Community Club Room on Friday evening of this week.

A number of ladies attended the W.C.T.U. meeting on Wednesday and the quilting bee at which two quilts were quilted for the needy.

STUDY PSYCHOLOGY

When you are planning your winter reading do not forget psychology. If you have never studied it you will find it a most fascinating subject. Partly, because it is about people, and people are the most interesting things in the world. Albert Edward Wiggam in his book "Exploring the Mind" sums it up adequately in the following words, "Men and women never needed psychology so much as they need it today. Young men and women need it in order to measure their own mental traits and capacities, with a view to choosing their careers early and wisely; adults need it in order to make the mental adjustments necessary for meeting the stress and strain and keeping the swift pace of modern life; business men need it to help them select employees; parents and educators need it as an aid in rearing and educating children; all need it in order to secure the highest effectiveness and happiness. You cannot achieve these things in the fullest measure without the new knowledge of your own mind and personal ability, that the psychologists have given us". Psychology is not a panacea for all our ills but it does help us understand the people with whom we come in contact. When we are more understanding we will find the give and take of our every day life a much easier thing.

REMEMBRANCE DAY

November 11th. having been declared as Remembrance Day, it is hoped that all will wear the usual poppy emblem. This year the campaign is being handled by the local branch of the Legion, in which a number of the ladies are kindly assisting. A canvass is being made previously, for the sale of wreaths. Any who have not been called upon, however, may obtain information as to prices, etc., by calling the Watchman Office, Lachute.

Ancient News Service

On November 6, 1834, the United States Gazette, of Philadelphia, reprinted election returns from New York morning papers of the same day—"the most extraordinary despatch ever forwarded in this or any other country, for so great a distance, save by telegraphic signals." The papers were carried to Amboy, N. J., by steamboat in two hours and twenty-five minutes. From there, the Gazette explained, a locomotive of the partially completed Camden and Amboy railway "proceeded to the present termination of the road, 56 miles, in 2 hours and 15 minutes, and with a horse and sulky the remaining five miles were performed in 25 minutes"—total running time, five hours and five minutes.

The Statue of Liberty

The head of the Statue of Liberty was completed in time for exhibition at the Paris exposition in 1878, the forearm having been sent to Philadelphia for showing at the Centennial exposition in 1876. Thence it was transferred to Madison Square Garden, New York city, where it remained until the statue was formally dedicated in 1886, three years after the framework and base had been put into place. It rises 305 feet from foundation of pedestal to top of torch. The length of a hand is 16 feet 5 inches. The index finger is 8 feet long. The thickness of the head from ear to ear is 10 feet. The nose is 4 feet 6 inches long. The mouth is 3 feet across.

Forest of Arden

Englishmen claim that Shakespeare's romantic forest in "As You Like It" is the Forest of Arden in Warwickshire, which fits the description. Belgians claim it is the Forest of Ardennes. Either may be right, for both forests are romantic and lovely.

CLEVER ADULT AND JUVENILE PLAYERS IN GRENVILLE CONCERT

The concert given by the Maple Leaf Glee Club, of Montreal, and their friends in Grenville last Saturday, was greatly enjoyed by a large audience, in spite of the bad weather.

The Glee Club rendered several songs, which were well sung and much appreciated. Two old favorites, "To Sylvia" and "The Lost Chord", were especially notable. Three young girls from the Lillian Bliss School of Dancing gave some very graceful performances, both as a group and singly. Miss Betty Hakin's "Minuet" was particularly graceful and well done. Perhaps a more popular number was Miss Dorothy Clements' step dancing. Miss Marilyn Cummings' singing and dancing as a little Dutch girl brought a warm response from the audience. These girls are all 11 years old. Little Joyce Hakin (aged 6) also performed a graceful dance at the beginning of the program.

The two humorous performances of the well-known Walter Wakefield, of St. Clements' Players, were exceedingly clever. Another comedian, Mr. Bobby O'Brien, sang a music hall song very effectively. Especially popular with the men was the performance of Mr. Chas. Flynn (Redfeather, of the Muskegee Radio Program) on the dulcimer, together with his singing partner, "Bob Mac".

The applause of the audience showed how greatly they were enjoying themselves, and the chairman and to discourage repeated demands for encores. Mr. William Hill, leader of the Glee Club, was the chairman, and Mr. Wilfred Hill accompanied most of the numbers.

The proceeds of the concert went to St. Matthew's Church, Grenville, and the ladies of the W. A. served a delightful supper to the performers, with a substantial "snack" after the performance.

Hope was freely expressed that a return visit could be made and the visitors were so satisfied with their reception that this will probably be arranged.

Roads Department Headquarters to Be Removed

Office and Machinery Will Be Centred at Papineauville

The County Council, through its secretary, Jas. W. Gall, has been definitely notified of removal of the Roads Department office from the Court House at Lachute. It is stated that the department, with all machinery and equipment in connection, will be taking its new station in Papineauville toward the 15th. of November.

The local roads division is now concentrating its efforts between Morin and 16 Island Lake, as reported last week, and between Masson and Buckingham, where 120 men will continue until late fall with construction of a paved surface. On the new stretch northwest of Morin Heights another work camp is being established this week.

ST. HERMAS LOSES SUIT FOR ASSESSMENT

Ruling that the Parish of St. Hermas had overstepped its powers, Mr. Justice Philemon Cousineau at St. Jerome quashed an assessment of $2,535 fixed by it on the properties of a number of residents in the parish for deepening of the St. Pierre River and an order for sale of the immovables when the taxes were not paid.

Action was entered, on behalf of those affected by the two resolutions, in the name of Chenier et al versus the Corporation of the Parish of St. Hermas and the municipality of the County of Two Mountains. Through Camille de Martigny, attorney for the defendants, they maintained that they had already agreed to pay a sum of $1,400 for the work, but refused to assume the second charge. It was held that the work covered by the $2,535 was on a portion of the river not situated in the parish limits, and that the corporation had consequently not been empowered to enforce its decisions.

Old Resident of Lachute District Dead

After an illness of only six days, Mrs. Samuel T. Rogers passed away on Saturday morning, October 24th., at her home, near Lachute.

By her gracious personality she had made for herself a host of friends. This was abundantly evident, from the large concourse of people assembled to pay their last tribute of affection at the funeral service, on Monday afternoon at St. Simeon's Church, where she had been a member for the past forty years. The service was conducted by the Rev. W. Le-Cras.

Deceased was formerly Lucinda Woods, daughter of the late Thomas Woods and Mary Ann Burns. She was born in Mille Isles on February 12th., 1876. After her marriage to Mr. Rogers on October 13th., 1896, they came to live in Lachute.

She leaves to mourn her loss a loving husband; three daughters, Mrs. Gordon Pollock of Lachute, Mrs. Allan Griffith of East Settlement, and Mrs. Stewart Hume of Hill Head; two sons, Randolph at home and Benjamin of Montreal; and four grandchildren.

The pall-bearers were Allan Griffith, Stewart Hume, Gordon Pollock, Silas Elder, Alvin Kyle and Russell M. Rogers.

81 Years Old, Visits School-Teacher, 95

It was a unique old-time reunion last Tuesday, when two old and respected county personages, Mrs. Jno. Campbell of Dalesville, 95 years of age, and Dr. Wm. McClure, 81, met and discussed their long lifetimes of experience. As a teacher at East Settlement, Mrs. Campbell started the then youthful William on his educational pursuits—and a career which has reaped rich benefit to humanity in foreign lands, where Dr. McClure has practised as a medical missionary. — Mrs. Campbell and her visitor talked of many interests in common and revived the reminiscences of school days which are not lightly forgotten.

ABANDON SEARCH FOR DROWNING VICTIM

After constant dragging operations for 10 days since the Bark Lake double drowning tragedy, search for the body of Miss Eva Desfosses has been abandoned. On advice of the coroner, a man is making a tour of the lakeshore every day, in case the body should come to the surface and become lodged in brush or driftwood on the shore.

At the inquest held at Barkmere, the same verdict passed on the death of David E. Kay was provided for the case of Miss Desfosses, second victim of this motor-boat tragedy.

Colorful Descriptions Given in Travelogue

On Thursday evening, October 22nd., in the United Church, Lachute, the Rev. T. W. Jones, Minister of Calvary United Church, Montreal, and President of the Montreal and Ottawa Conference of the United Church of Canada, delivered a most instructive and interesting travelogue, illustrated with 150 colored slides, of Ireland, Scotland, England and Wales. The slides were made from photographs taken or secured by Mr. Jones while touring the British Isles.

The subject of the travelogue, "Rambling along the highways and byways of the British Isles", was admirably carried out by aid of the pictures and the illuminating comments and anecdotes told by the lecturer. Ancient castles, royal palaces, historic cathedrals, little chapels, crowded cities and quiet village scenes, homes of poets, writers, reformers alike, were portrayed in this fascinating and informing travelogue. Commencing with the vessel leaving Montreal, touching first

FIRE CHIEF ADDRESSED ONE HUNDRED CLUB

With President J. E. Dumais in the chair, around 20 members of Lachute 100 Club gathered last evening for their regular supper at Desjardins Hotel. Two officers of the International Association — Dr. Meldrum and Mr. Bert Byshe, (1st. Vice-President and District Governor for Ontario, respectively) gave helpful talks on their experience in the Club's work at Ottawa. Geo. Y. Deacon, Fire Chief of Lachute, was guest speaker and interested his listeners with a discourse on local fire protection.

PROGRAM OF COMMUNITY SERVICE UNDER WAY AMONG MEMBERS

Business of the evening included the acceptance of three new members and furthering of the Club's service enterprises, now well under way: the furnishing of Christmas baskets to the needy; arrangements to assist a scholar whose circumstances prevent his attendance at High School; and the purchase of a wreath to aid funds of the local Legion.

POPULATION NEARLY 12,000 IN ST. JEROME

There has been an increase of several hundred in the population of St. Jerome this year, according to Parish Priest Emile Dubois, the total now being 12,000 including pupils at the various boarding schools.

The census taken by the priest shows that there are 2,194 Catholic families in the city and parish for a total of 11,533 souls. In addition there

Startling Fact... 120,000 Out of 750,000 Canadian Farmers Have Sought Relief under the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act... 14,588 Settlements Made

Ottawa, October 27.—Reduction of farmers' debts is still a live matter in various parts of the country. In the three prairie provinces special drought revisions are going on, and the operations of the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act are dealing with individual cases. No accurate totals are available but it is apparent that reductions in the debt-burden of farmers in the West will exceed $150,000,000. through the work of the debt adjustment act in Alberta and similar legislation in Saskatchewan and Manitoba, including, of course, the voluntary reductions which some creditors made before any legislation was passed.

Though the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act was passed as an emergency measure

POLICE FIND CULPRIT IN STATION ROBBERIES

Detective Maurice Menard of the C.N.R. police has stated that seven robberies on the railway, including two points in this county, are now practically solved. The robberies referred to were the thefts from the Hawkesbury freight sheds, from the Vankleek Hill station, from the Grenville freight shed, the St. Andrews East station, St. Polcarpe station, and the N.Y.C. Valleyfield station.

The officer stated that Edmond Côté, alias Paul Tremblay, who was seriously wounded by Valleyfield police a short time ago, had signed a confession that he was implicated in all seven robberies.

BLACK BEAR SHOT AT BROWNSBURG

A black bear which had been attracted recently by windfalls in Wm. Boyd's orchard, off the Brownsburg Road, was shot last Friday night after dark. Hearing his dog barking in the neighborhood of the orchard Mr. Boyd suspected the presence of the bear, and armed with his Lea Enfield rifle and a flashlight, he gave chase. The bear made off to a swamp, the pup holding him at bay, and Mr. Boyd felled him with a shot in the shoulder, at a short range of 15 feet. The animal tipped the scales at 264 lbs.

Fifty Years Ago Citizens Acquired 2 Fire Hydrants

In view of the pressing need of more water pressure for fire protection at this time, it is interesting to recall Lachute's first venture in tapping the mains for this purpose. Under private control, the water-works then comprised a 4-inch pipe-line, which was considered ample for the needs of the town. Today, 50 years later, the Town Corporation is considering the installation of a 14-inch pipe, and leaving an 8-inch auxiliary line from the intake to the town limits.

The Watchman of Oct. 29, 1886, reveals an interesting contrast in conditions. It was reported:

"The enterprising firm of Stewart & Rodrigue, proprietors of the Lachute Aqueduct Co., have made a new departure to supply our town with sufficient water for ordinary use and as a protection in case of fire. They are now putting in a quantity of iron pipes four inches in diameter, and have bought two hydrants of a new design which they will place in the centre of the town to test the usefulness of the water-works in case of fire."

188 KILLED IN 1936 BY MOTOR MISHAPS

In the first eight months of this year, a total of 188 men, women and children met their deaths in automobile accidents in the Province of Quebec while 3,332 were variously injured, according to a report issued by the revenue office and bearing the signature of Hon. Martin B. Fisher, Provincial Treasurer.

In Montreal alone during that period, there were 2,519 motor accidents; in Verdun 17; Outremont, 66; and Westmount 79. These involved crashes affecting both property damaged to the extent of $50 or more, and human beings. Total number of such accidents throughout the province was 4,646, with a tendency to rise in frequency as the warmer weather progressed.

Of those killed, 96 were listed as pedestrians, while 72 victims were reported as passengers in automobiles. Three adults and one child were killed when the horse drawn vehicles in which they were passengers were in collision with automobiles.

Under the heading of injured, 1,284 were listed as pedestrians and 1588 as passengers in motors; 35 adults and 369 children were hurt while riding in horse drawn vehicles.

Octogenarian Here on Furlough from Mission Field

ONE-TIME SUPT. OF MONTREAL GENERAL HOSPITAL

Dr. Wm. McClure has been spending a brief visit with relatives and friends in Lachute and St. Andrews, prior to returning to his mission field in China next month. Though 81 years of age, Dr. McClure is young of heart and has greatly enjoyed his furlough, being privileged to mingle with the people and scenes of his young manhood.—In Mackie's Church, Lachute, 48 years ago, he was given a royal send-off when starting out on his missionary career, and for all these years he has devoted his life to the cause nearest his heart.

Dr. McClure was honored at McGill convocation last week, being awarded the degree of LL.D. He graduated from McGill in medicine in 1884, and was appointed superintendent of the Montreal General Hos-

Province and Town in Conflict over Hawkesb'y Relief

Municipality Squandering Provincial Funds, says Welfare Minister

Hon. David A. Croll, Ontario minister of welfare, he announced provincial relief grants to the town of Hawkesbury will be reduced nearly $8,500. Reason for the reduction, he said, is that a recent investigation into the administration of relief in that town had shown "another municipality squandering provincial funds on unneeded assistance."

"Slipshod administration" and an "utter disregard for regulations" were other charges made by the minister against the municipality. "Relief has been climbing in Hawkesbury", he said, as reported in a Canadian Press despatch.

RELIEF RECIPIENTS DRIVE OWN AUTOS

In his statement the minister said: "Thirteen relief recipients are driving their own cars. No effort has been made to give them the usual alternative: Turn in your plates or lose your relief. In all, about $3,600 in relief has been given to these motorists. That sum will be only a part of the amount charged directly back to the municipality."

MONTREAL LAD SHOT BY COMPANION, DUNANY

William Cuttle, 16-year-old Montreal youth visiting at the home of Wm. Haldimand, Dunany, was wounded in the leg Sunday afternoon, while practising with a gun, in company with a friend. It is learned that his companion had the shot-gun in his hand and accidentally discharged it into the calf of Cuttle's leg. A portion of the flesh was blown away, but fortunately it was a clean wound with no complications. The young victim was brought to Lachute by Mr. Haldimand, and after receiving treatment by Dr. J. H. Mason, was taken to his home in Montreal.

College Students to Visit Here Tomorrow Afternoon

Lachute is to be the port-of-call on Friday for a group of students from Mount St. Louis College, Montreal, who will arrive here by bus. The Rex Theatre has been reserved for a special performance in the afternoon, by way of entertainment for the visitors.

In 1888, with the late Dr. Jonathan Goforth, he was one of a group sent by the Presbyterian Church as missionaries to China. He worked for many years in Honan province, and in 1916 became professor of medicine in the Shantung Christian University at Tsinan. Although he retired from administrative responsibility some years ago, Dr. McClure still teaches daily at the university hospital.

Dr. McClure's wife died some 10 years ago. His son, Dr. R. B. McClure, is one of the best known surgeons in China, and superintendent of the United Church of Canada Mission Hospital at Hwaling, Honan. His daughter, Mrs. Leslie Kilborn, is also a doctor and on the staff of the West China Union University at Chengtu. A dinner was held in Montreal in honor of Dr. McClure, by his former medical colleagues in Montreal and China.

MEMORY OF PARISHIONERS HONORED IN HISTORIC OLD
CHURCH AT ST. ANDREWS

MEMORIALS CONSECRATED BY LORD BISHOP
AT UNVEILING CEREMONY

An interesting feature of the Memorial Service held at Christ Church, St. Andrews East, on the occasion of the unveiling and dedication of the tablet to Sir John Abbott, first Canadian born Prime Minister of the Dominion, was the consecration by the Lord Bishop of Montreal of eleven memorials to other members of the Anglican community who had entered into their long Rest. Ten of these were in the form of small brass plates bearing a dedicatory inscription, each of which carried a donation to the Endowment Fund of the Church of $25.00 or over according to the amount of space occupied. The largest of these was one placed in the centre line of the board to Deputy-Commissionary General and Mrs. Forbes of Bellevue, Carillon. General Forbes was a retired military officer of great importance who had done distinguished service in the Continental Wars of the early 19th century and in the Battle of New Orleans, and was stationed thereafter at Montreal from 1826 to 1836. During this time he took up residence at Carillon and built there a number of massive stone buildings, some of which are still standing including his own fine old house known as "Bellevue", which was in recent times the property of the late General Armstrong and is now owned by Mr. Hungerbühler. During nearly forty years of residence there General Forbes filled many local offices both as magistrate and Federal Member and his home became famous throughout the entire Lower Ottawa Valley as a great centre of colonial hospitality. This tablet, which carried a donation of $90.00 to the Endowment Fund of this historic Church, was subscribed by the following descendants: Miss E. M. C. Forbes of Santa Cruz, California, (daughter); Mr. Stanfell Forbes and Miss Florence Forbes of Los Angeles, Cal. (grandchildren); Miss Marietta Jones and Mrs. John Alison Jones and Mrs. Leigh H. Evans of Toronto, Miss Powell of London, England, (great grandchildren); Miss Katherine Wallis of Paris, France, and Col. Hugh Wallis of Montreal (great grand-niece and nephew). The inscription on this interesting tablet reads as follows:

CHARLES JOHN FORBES
Deputy Commissary General of His Majesty's Forces appointed June, 1815; at Halifax, November 29th, 1824; in Montreal January 10th, 1826 to January 13th, 1836. who died in New York, July 5th, 1933; daughter of James Nicolson and Margaret Farries McLean. Descendant of the Erskines of Mar and the Browns of Haddington and Inverkeithing. "Thine eyes shall see the King in His beauty." Isaiah 33: 17.

In Loving Memory of
JAMES ABBOTT MACKINTOSH BELL, Ph.D., LL.D., O.B.E., F.R.S.C.
Born at St. Andrews East, September 23, 1877. Died at Almonte, Ont. March 31, 1934. Geologist, Geographer, Traveller, Author.—A great Canadian—a good friend.

In Loving Memory of
ALICE FRANCES MACDONALD ABBOTT
Granddaughter of Rev. Wm. and Frances Mary Abbott and beloved sister of Dr. Maude Abbott. Born at St. Andrews, P.Q., July 23rd, 1867. Died at Montreal, October 9th, 1934. "Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God." Matt. V. 8.

The eleventh memorial took the form of a Title-board framed in wrought-iron carrying the words "Christ Church—Anglican—1819", and the inscription:

To the glory of God and sacred to the memory of ROBERT ST. JOHN SIMPSON, L.D.S.
St. Andrews, 1868—Westmount, 1931.

CALENDAR COMMITTEE

Last year at their meetings a number of the Quebec Women's Institute Branches announced the annual sale of the Junior Red Cross calendars and some arranged window displays of calendars and made posters to call attention to the sale.

Since 1919 the Junior Red Cross has financed hospital care for 12,500 handicapped and crippled children from all parts of the Province. The sale of their calendars is the chief means of raising the funds for this work.

The Junior Red Cross calendar sale is being held this year from November 1st. to December 31st. The committee has expressed its appreciation for co-operation received from this district, and enlists further support in the work this season.

Wrong House Torn Down

Winnipeg police have just disclosed how construction workers entered a fashionable River Heights house and began to tear it down. The owner was out, and the men had made good progress before being halted. It was the wrong house!

FIRST IN CANADA'S INTERNATIONAL TRADE
THE TOURIST INDUSTRY

A national asset worthy of the most intelligent cultivation is the tourist business, which brought $202,000,000 into Canada last year and is estimated to bring at least $250,000,000 this year. In our international trade its monetary value to Canada now ranks ahead of that of any of our exports, not excepting those important exportable commodities, wheat and newspaper.

But the tourist industry has potential values beyond its annual money income:

- It fosters exchange of ideas between neighbours, international understanding and co-operation, tolerance and goodwill;
- It accelerates betterment of railway, waterway and airway service, of motor roads and hotel accommodation;
- It awakens interest in Canadian products and opportunities for capital investment.

Through its offices abroad and more than 500 branches distributed throughout Canada, the Bank of Montreal is one of the leading factors in providing service for the tourist trade. Its offices abroad and in Canada are centres to which countless tourists turn for information and guidance. These offices not only extend financial hospitality which facilitates the exchange and transfer of money, but contribute in many other ways to make the visits of tourists comfortable, happy and profitable.

Thousands of customers of the Bank of Montreal do business with visitors from other countries—hotels, transportation lines, service stations, stores, et cetera—and they too find the kind of banking service they need in the Bank of Montreal.

From the General Manager's address at the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Bank, 1935:

"Canada has unexcelled railway and hotel facilities to attract tourists the whole year round, and year by year, as our automobile roads are improved and extended, more and more American cars will be seen in Canada.

"Railway and steamship lines, tourist agencies and newspapers have done a great deal towards cultivating this important trade in the general interest.

"Country hotels, boarding houses and tourists camps are coming to realize the necessity of improving accommodations and service.

"If tourists are given a warm welcome, are comfortably accommodated and treated courteously and fairly, their number will increase annually."

POTATO NEWS

The late crop of potatoes in the United States according to the October forecast is 65,415,000 bushels less than last year. The shortage in the 30 late states that supply the fall and winter market is 50,197,000 bushels. This is the largest part of the total shortage and prices are strengthening.

The latest crop reports for Canada indicate that the shortage in P.E.I. is about 20%, less than 1935. N.B. will be about the same with heavy exports to Argentina and Cuba reducing the quantity left for the home markets. Quebec will be about 25% less than a year ago, which is a keen disappointment as the late crop last year was small and two high-price years have been lost.

Early frost has caught potatoes still in the soil, both in Quebec and in New-Brunswick. Maine has been affected also and dealers are not buying until the extent of the damage is determined.

Maritime shippers are having difficulty in filling their orders and quotations for last week were higher. P./E. I. 90's Cobblers $1.25; Mts $1.30, delivered Montreal.

N. B. 80's $1.05 — $1.10 Green Mountains.

CANADIAN POULTRY MAKE A HIT

Canada's exhibit of poultry attracted favourable attention at the Sixth World Poultry Congress recently held at Leipzig, Germany, where forty-one countries were represented. The type of exhibits shown by the various countries was of a high order, and the general consensus of opinion was that the Canadian exhibit was one of the best.

The Canadian exhibit was made up of sixty-eight birds, and the whole exhibit in its attractiveness and arrangement was worthy of the Dominion. It took in a thirty-foot bay and was divided into three sections which merged gracefully into a continuous panorama, setting forth the story of the high merit of Canadian poultry for breeding purposes at home and abroad.

In keeping with the custom of donating birds to the country in which the Congress is held, all birds sent by the Canadian Government, and a number of other birds, were donated to Germany and sent to the Leipzig Zoo.

A DOLLAR PER HEAD CUT ON ALL HORNED CATTLE FROM MAY 1st, 1937

The following is quoted in a circular recently addressed to all interests concerned in the cattle business by The I & D Council of Canadian Meat Packers:

"For many years efforts have been made to overcome the evil of cattle with horns being marketed in our commercial markets. Various methods of attacking the problem have been tried out. Government officers, livestock exchanges and other individuals and organizations interested in maintaining cattle values have called attention to the damage by the bruising of beef, the consequent reduction of values and the losses that horned cattle cause. Tanners have called attention to the damage to hides, caused by cattle with horns during the process of marketing.

Agricultural scientists have provided a simple, inexpensive and safe method of treating calves to prevent the growth of horns. The methods of treatment have been published far and wide. Other methods of removing horns are a matter of common knowledge. To-day there is not the slightest necessity or excuse for the presence of horns on cattle sent to market. Both beef and dairy cattle are much better throughout their whole lives to be without horns. The logic of all the above is that by this time in the development of our cattle industry no cattle should be marketed with horns.

The facts are that, at present, horns on cattle sent to market are as prevalent or perhaps more prevalent than in any period of the past. Then farmers who raise the cattle pay a lot on account of this situation.

Looking these facts in the face, it is evident that the way to wipe out the evil of horned cattle in the markets is to take action to discriminate in price between horned and hornless cattle.

Therefore, beginning May 1st, 1937, cattle buyers propose to pay $1.00 per head less for all cattle with horns, purchased for slaughter, weighing 400 lbs. alive (or thereabouts) and over this weight, than for cattle without horns.

By bringing this notice to attention at the present time every farmer has ample opportunity to have horns on all cattle removed and to prevent the growth of horns on calves in the future.

(Livestock Branch, Quebec Department of Agriculture.)

FIELD CROPS THIS YEAR

A bulletin issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics giving a first estimate of the area and yield of the potato, root and fodder crops of Canada for 1936 places the production of potatoes at 28,514,000 cwt. from 496,400 acres, compared with 38,670,000 cwt. from 506,800 acres in 1935 and with 44,240,000 cwt. from 543,400 acres, the average of the five years 1931-35. This represents yields of 73 cwt. per acre in 1936, 76 cwt. per acre in 1935, and 81 cwt. per acre for the five year period.

The crop of turnips, mangolds, etc., is estimated at 37,679,000 cwt. from 181,800 acres, or 207 cwt. per acre, compared with 190 cwt. per acre in 1935, and 203 cwt. per acre, the average for the five years 1931-35. The yield of fodder corn is placed at 3,030,000 tons from 408,500 acres compared with 4,078,000 tons from 480,700 acres in 1935 and 3,351,000 tons from 411,500 acres during the five-year period.

All cuttings of alfalfa are estimated to have yielded 1,922,000 tons from 853,600 acres, 2.25 tons per acre, compared with 2.38 tons per acre during 1931-35. The yield of sugar beets is placed at 529,000 tons compared with 463,000 tons during the 1931-35 period.

Naughton MacNaughton Dead in Vancouver, B. C.

WIDELY RELATED HERE

A native of this county, Mr. Naughton MacNaughton, passed away on October 13th. in Vancouver, B. C. Although many decades have passed since his residence in these parts, Mr. MacNaughton revisited this section several years ago, and was favorably remembered among relatives and friends here.

Naughton MacNaughton was born at St. Andrews, Que., May 7th., 1853. He married Miss Mary Green of Arundel, of which union four children survive. Mrs. MacNaughton died in 1917. Of his second marriage to Miss Bea Coughlin, one daughter survives. In the later years of his widowhood, following the death of his second wife, Mr. MacNaughton was married again, to Mrs. Annie Leask of Cranbrook, B. C.

His surviving relatives are his widow, Mrs. MacNaughton of Cranbrook, B.C.; three sons, Naughton M. of Montana, William W. of California, and David G. of Washington; two daughters, Mrs. Maude Peterson of Montana and Mrs. Inez Moore of Oregon, five grandchildren, several stepchildren, brothers and sisters and numerous nephews and nieces.

The remains were laid to rest in Vancouver, where he had lived and labored during many years of his life.

Plowman Only 11 Years Old

Reference was made, in last week's report, to Donald Bradley, youngest entrant in the plowing match at Staynerville. His age was given as 13, but The Watchman is advised that Don is only 11 years of age—which is an early start in the career of a farmer.

sent on to the provincial boards of review, which then made an arbitrary settlement, whereby the total debt was to be reduced so much, the secured creditors cutting their share and the unsecured creditors theirs, in the sums decided upon, with the reductions in interest which the Board of Review approved.

MILLIONS CUT FROM DEBT

The Farmers' Creditors Act had, up to Sept. 1st., dealt with farm debt totalling $91,320,880. Before they had finished they slashed $27,396,264. from this principal sum, and in addition cut the annual interest payments on the remainder by $2,188,200 per year, through reductions in rates.

Although the Act has proved useful for thousands of farmers across the country who were struggling along under an intolerable load of debt, there are requests now arising that it be repealed. Farmers are finding that it cuts both ways, and that so long as it remains on the statute books it is difficult to borrow new money from the banks or other lending companies.

There is some talk at Ottawa of the act being repealed at the end of the present crop year (July 31st., 1937), if farm prices and conditions are such as to warrant it then. Possibly it will, but a good deal will depend on the views of federal members in the farming areas as expressed in parliament next session and privately to the government.

HEALTHIER FARM FINANCES

prices on the one hand and the gradual reduction of farm debt burdens on the other is having a healthy effect except in those areas where the crop was destroyed by drought or other factors. The buying power of the Canadian farm as a whole will be considerably larger this year than for a long time. There is, of course, a desperate amount of catching up to do in essential repairs and equipment before the average farmer will have any spare cash.

Defence is a matter of growing importance even in Canada. It hardly seems possible that Canada is going to launch out on a program of armament including destroyers and even warships. There are conflicting accounts about our intentions. What seems much more likely is that a rather ambitious aircraft and training scheme of a semi-militaristic nature will be started. Canada could justify much larger expenditures on aviation than she is making at present without being accused of getting militaristic. Some military authorities say that training for peace and training for war—in the air—are quite different things, but the government will probably take the view that if Canada had a corps of keen young civil aviators and a body of fast modern machines, they would not come amiss if any enemy did threaten Canadian shores. So far as the naval program is concerned, there will be a considerable body of opinion which will prefer to assist the British navy by cash contribution rather than the extension of Canada's present rather comic-opera navy.

Music Publications Now Issued from Lachute

One of the very few Canadian publishing concerns for music is now established in Lachute, known as the Parnasse Musical, conducted by Angelo Fassio. Mr. Fassio has been publishing music for many years through a New York partnership. The Watchman has received for review one of his first publications from this centre, entitled Les Cloches de Noël or Christmas Bells, a piece suitable for sacred or dramatic rendition in either solo or duet. The lyric is written in English and French. Copies may be purchased at the Rex Bookstore, Lachute.

ORGANIZING FOR IMMIGRATION

The Saskatchewan Immigration and Settlement Convention held last month in Saskatoon endorsed the plan of supervised immigration of British settlers projected by Brig.-Gen. M. L. Hornby, who laid his scheme before the gathering—and appears at last to be rallying support at home for the ideas he has long and ardently upheld in Canada and Great Britain.

The General expressed a hope that the Maritime provinces, particularly Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, would fall into line with Saskatchewan in supporting the project. In an effort to increase the flow of immigrants from Britain it is proposed that settlers be established in Canada with five years in which to "make good." Under the General's scheme various counties in England would purchase selected lands in this country, place settlers upon them with the British Government supplying financial guarantees, and give the new Canadians ownership of the farms after serving a five-year "apprenticeship." The scheme would provide repatriation for those who failed in the enterprise.

THE AIR IS NOT FOR SALE

The Columbia Broadcasting System stated last week: "We will neither give time nor sell time to the Republican Party to broadcast a program in which the President's voice, or any other person's voice, is reproduced on a phonograph record or simulated by an actor."

—Perhaps, after all, radio is not the most mercenary medium of publicity.

TAXES IN DAYS GONE BY

A few decades ago the citizen felt a certain responsibility toward his town. Today it would seem that this attitude is reversed, and far too many townsmen consider their community owes them an obligation.

In no detail is this more apparent in the collection of taxes. An article on Municipal Evolution by J. N. Bayne of Saskatchewan, in October issue of The Municipal Review, published by the Watchman Press, tells the writer's observations in this sphere of civic life.

"When I was a boy," writes Mr. Bayne, "payment of taxes was so carefully looked after by the individual that the collector simply received taxes with little effort on his part to secure. Very few people, according to my recollection, ever allowed taxes to fall in arrears. It was a disgrace, clinging and unforgettable, attached to a ratepayer if his taxes were unpaid after the end of the year in which they were levied. When I was quite young I heard of a collector who in a dispute with a certain man threatened to return the latter's taxes as unpaid to the treasurer; the threat worked, for that maximum of punishment could not be endured.

Don't you members and officials of councils wish for a return of that time? In those days people often did without many comforts to keep their taxes paid up to date. They abjured luxuries altogether rather than be delinquent. Shall we have that condition again? When shall we cease to see pages in our newspapers listing property under tax sale, the owners in many cases caring little as to who may know of their failure to support the community and its services?"

HALLOWE'EN

Do you remember the fun you used to have on Hallowe'en with a lantern made from a pumpkin and a candle? This, with a window tick-tack made out of an old spool, would scare folks half to death—you thought. And if the gang decided to ring the school bell until midnight or put a wagon a-straddle some roof, it was all thought of as harmless fun—by those participating.

Probably some of those who know that Hallowe'en grew out of a religious festival consider such pranks as being in bad taste. November 1st is All Saints' Day. In England, the eve prior to this hallowed day is spent in cracking nuts, and ducking for apples floating in a tub and other harmless sports.

Married at Lakefield Trinity Church

MASLIN — MOUNT.

Holy Trinity Church was crowded on Saturday, Oct. 10th., by friends and relatives assembled to witness the marriage of Miss Marjorie Mount to Mr. Harold Maslin.

The newly renovated old church looked beautiful with its chaste decorations of palms and autumn flowers, with the conventional arch and wedding bells.

The Rev. Allen E. Mount, father of the bride, officiated. Mrs. C. W. P. Baugh presided at the organ. Mr. Sidney Mead sang "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

The bride, who was attended by her sister, Miss Grace Mount, wore a dress of a soft shade of blue with accessories to match and carried a bouquet of Sweetheart roses. The bridesmaid wore a dress of ashes-of-roses and carried a sheaf bouquet of Michaelmas daisies of similar shade. The groom was attended by his brother-in-law, Mr. Walter Shearsmith.

After the ceremony a reception was held at Rosemount, the home of the bride, for the immediate relatives and friends. Unfavorable weather prevented the attendance of several motor-loads of guests.

Many beautiful, useful and valuable gifts testified to the number and sincerity of the good wishes to the happy couple at the beginning of their married life.

Among the showers held by friends in honor of the bride, that of Mrs. C. W. P. Baugh at the Anglican Parsonage should be specially mentioned, as well as the presentation of a completely equipped radio from the Actuarial Department of the Sun Life Assurance Company.

THANKS, SIR PERCY!

(Windsor Star.)

Sir Percy Vincent, reporting on his recent visit to Canada, pays handsome tribute to our country. "Canadians have in a few score years accomplished miracles," says the Lord Mayor of London. "I return filled with an impression of a vast canvas on which they have as yet, with all untiring energy and splendid craftsmanship, but sketched the outline of a great and beautiful picture."

PECULIAR SITUATION IN HAWKESBURY RELIEF

"When people did get work with the largest industry, they were cut from the relief rolls—but were taken back on again the minute their work ended. In a number of cases, people worked for four months and received relief vouchers one week after the period of their employment ended. In direct contravention of our regulations, people operating their own business have been kept on relief. There was no evidence of a check on relief applicants. Our investigator found a number of instances where people had closed out their bank accounts and gone on relief. One of them withdrew $600 the day before he went on relief."

"The town seems to have been running wild in relief administration, in the easy confidence that we'd foot the bills. They're in for a iolt. Every misspent cent will be charged back to the municipality and will come out of the pockets of their own taxpayers."

MAYOR CHALLENGES STATEMENTS

"The department of relief has been acting very strangely in granting aid to municipalities. I only wish that they would do the whole job themselves, do the administration themselves and take over the full responsibility, if they feel that there is any squandering of relief funds in Hawkesbury," Mayor Louis Auger of Hawkesbury told press representatives when informed that the Hon. D. A. Croll had announced that provincial relief grants to the town would be reduced by nearly $8,500.

"The charges made by Mr. Croll cannot be supported by an impartial investigation," he said. "The investigators are still in town; the report was issued by Mr. Croll before the investigation was complete. The investigators, have only visited about 20 of the homes of those who are on relief."

SAYS REGULATIONS MET

"All regulations as set out by the department have been agreed to in this town. I am surprised that Mr. Croll would make such a statement when he must know that an impartial investigation would show the contrary to be the case."

"Relief recipients in this town are only receiving 90 percent of the amount as set out by the Campbell relief report and there are many on relief in other Ontario municipalities who are receiving much more than that."

"Relief costs have been climbing here but not any more than they did last year. Relief figures show that they are lower than last year and employment here has not been as good as last year," Mr. Auger concluded.

CLAIMS ACTIONS OF INVESTIGATORS ILLEGAL

Mayor Auger told the Canadian Press that the entry made by the investigators into the relief office was illegal. The relief office is town property, the Mayor said, and while the Province makes grants-in-aid, its officers are not entitled to force their way into the local premises.

Mayor Auger said the local relief officers were not of his choosing.

"Although nominally they are paid by the town, these men were chosen by Toronto and transferred to us."

Defending the amounts spent, the Mayor added: "We have had an investigation here this year. And when the investigators were sought out by people who thought they were not getting enough, it turned out the investigators were more generous than the local officials."

SPECIAL GUARD OVER RELIEF OFFICE

Hawkesbury, Oct. 28.—Mayor Auger and R. J. Moore, supervisor of municipal affairs, together with two town officials, held a conference in the town hall here this morning, while an Ontario provincial police officer walked back and forth in front of the building.

The conference was held for a talk regarding the regulations on administration of relief in this municipality following the sending here of relief inspectors to go over the rolls after cert.

SOVIET THREAT TO AID SPANISH GOVERNMENT

A crisis looms over the ultimatum of Maxim Litvinov, Russian Foreign Minister, that the Soviet state will abrogate the pact for non-intervention in the Spanish revolution and act as it sees fit unless violations by Portugal, Italy and Germany are immediately halted. Fear exists that Russia might rush its mighty air armada to the aid of the Spanish Socialist-Communist Government unless aid allegedly given rebel forces by Fascist nations is stopped.

Fire Chief Deacon's address brought to light many interesting facts in the work of fire protection, the modernizing of local equipment, and the difficulties encountered through low water pressures in this town. Forty-nine years ago, said Mr. Deacon, Lachute purchased a primitive fire pump; he was informed by the town clerk that final payment on this purchase would be made next year—the item having been included in a loan of several thousand dollars covering 50 years. The speaker recalled one of the early fires in which this equipment was used. A summons was issued one morning at 6.20, and the pump arrived at 7.05 a.m.—in time to save only the foundation of the west-end hotel in which this outbreak occurred.

Enlightenment was thrown upon the growth and present efficiency of the town's equipment, Chief Deacon with all modesty giving credit to Quebec Government for its financial assistance in this respect.

He mentioned the criticism frequently directed to firefighters, notably the accusation that they break too many windows! Windows, he noted, were the cheapest part of construction and cost the least to replace. He mentioned also the fact that, to provide water supply near the North River in winter, 6 ft. cans were sunk below the freezing line and could be readily punched to give access through the ice.

The speakers of the evening were heartily thanked by President Dumais.

tain complaints had been made by relief recipients that they were not receiving enough.

Three special constables who were put on duty by Mayor Auger to prevent relief inspectors from going over the books made an appearance this morning but were quickly ousted by Ontario provincial police. It was stated that the mayor has not the power to employ special constables unless they are sworn in before two justices of the peace, and this procedure was not followed. It was also learned that the men were wearing police badges and were told that they were liable to be arrested as they had not been properly sworn in. No action was taken, however.

CROLL SAYS SPECIAL TAX LIKELY

Toronto, Oct. 28.—Hon. David Croll, minister of welfare and municipal affairs declared that it was "inevitable" that Hawkesbury would have to raise by special levy the money for the misspending of which he claims Mayor L. M. Auger and his council are responsible. Mr. Croll yesterday announced that conditions as revealed by his investigators had already resulted in a cut of $8,500 of the government's grant.

RED CROSS PRESENTATION AND SCHOOL OPENING, THOMAS' GORE

Tuesday evening was an enjoyable occasion for those who attended the school opening exercises at Thomas' Gore. A program consisting of recitations, dialogues, songs and music was well carried out, keeping the audience well entertained, but the height of applause was reached when "The Cook's Tin Pan Orchestra" came on, the music director dressed as a cook and keeping time with a dish-mop, and each member playing on a frying-pan, saucepan or other kitchen utensil.

Mrs. R. B. Shaw, Supervisor of the Junior Red Cross, gave an interesting lecture in which she commended the director, Miss E. Dixon, and the Juniors ("Silver Star"), for the efficient way in which they had carried out their last year's program. She expressed delight at the attractiveness of the schoolroom and grounds. She also touched on the work of the Juniors in other provinces and foreign lands.

Dr. J. H. Mason made the presentation and also congratulated the pupils on their schoolroom and grounds, and remarked on the ingenuity of the Cook's Tin Pan Orchestra.

Mr. C. Hall, acting a chairman, presented the Walker Legacy Prizes, which consisted of scholarships and books. Miss Dixon also presented several prizes for proficiency.

The pleasant evening came to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

CHRISTMAS GREETINGS

They started out as ordinary snapshots but, artfully handled, turned out to be charming greeting cards. A simple, effective and individual solution of the greeting card problem.

SNAPSHOTTERS have a great advantage over ordinary folks at Christmas time, for they can easily produce Christmas cards that are 100 per cent. individual, unusual, and not at all expensive.

What's the purpose of a Christmas card, anyway? Simply to carry a message of cheer and goodwill from one person to another. It is, at its best, a very personal affair.

Snapshots of yourself, your home, your family, your pets or anything else that's part of your life can be easily used in Christmas cards. The result is cards like no one else's.

There are many ways of using snapshots in greetings. The photo finishers in your town are equipped to make greetings for you, using one of your own snaps. They do some beautiful things; it will pay you, at least, to investigate them.

Or you may want to be even more individual. One of the simplest greetings consists of a card with a snapshot pasted on it and a handwritten message below. Nothing can be more personal than that!

The opportunities for unusual and beautiful cards are endless. It's a challenge to your ingenuity. But no matter how clever the scheme, the snapshot itself must be good—and appropriate.

You might use a snapshot of your family, stood up in a row, facing the camera. But is there anything

Christmas about that? Not much. It would be far better, wouldn't it, to have a snap of the family grouped about the fireplace, hanging up their Christmas stockings? Or decorating the tree, or putting up a holly wreath on the front door? A view of your lighted home on a winter night would make a charming card.

Your camera can do just about anything you want, providing only that you give it the right kind of co-operation. For interiors and night views outdoors use a supersensitive film; equip yourself with a few of the inexpensive modern lamps of the photo-flood and photo-flash types; don't forget that auto headlights can be used to light up small outdoor scenes sufficiently for brief time exposures. And so on.

But remember that now, of all times, your picture must "tell a story," must be clean-cut and vivid. The idea is the most important thing. With care you can get the picture you want.

Go into "executive session" with your family now. Discuss ideas, select the best—and get out your camera.

One word of advice, born of experience—simple ideas are best. They are easier to execute and, nine times out of ten, they "click" more effectively than something pretentious or complicated.

JOHN VAN GUILDER.

AUNT JEAN HERSELF

A Column for the Kiddies

TO A JACK O' LANTERN

Last night I saw you growing
Upon your dull green stem,
"Aha!" said I, "for pumpkin pie You'll be a perfect gem."

But now, alas, I see you
In such a dreadful guise,
Coarse jagged teeth and twisted nose
And horrid gleaming eyes.

What unkind fairy met with you
And used her witching power
To turn you to a thing so fay,
A thing so grim and glower?

From out the arbor comes a laugh,
Mischievous Bill and Nell
Have carved this grinning, ghoulish thing

"Cordelia is not a spy" Clip shrieked, springing at Silly Curly, his small, white teeth bared ready to fight for his new friend.

Silly Curly's teeth bared too as he reached for Clip. Cordelia tried to scream, but it seemed as though there was a heavy weight on her chest which kept her silent. She, too, sprang towards Silly Curly; all fear for herself was gone. Clip must be saved, no matter the cost. Mrs. Soft-Fur caught her and drew her back before Silly Curly had time to notice her. Uncle Roughy seized Clip at the same time, and pushed him into a corner saying "You stay there, Clip, and let us older mice settle this matter." "You shall not hurt Cordelia" squeaked Clip again, trying to fight his way out of the corner, but Uncle Roughy had only left a small opening—quite too small for even a mouse of Clip's size to squeeze through.

"Now then," said Uncle Roughy in a loud voice, "Is this Cordelia Crooks a spy, or is she not?" "I'm quite sure that she is not," cried Mrs. Soft-Fur in a quivering little voice. "I know she is not, too," said Mr. Soft-Fur, "because I brought her here. She came only at my invitation." "Then you're a traitor, Soft-Fur," sneered Silly Curly. "I say that she is a spy and shall be treated accordingly." He clicked his teeth together, in a way that made the shivers creep all over Cordelia; she wondered how spies were treated in Jettyland. She was not a spy, she knew, but would she ever make the inhabitants of Jettyland believe it.

But the nice, friendly mouse was speaking. "Friends," he was saying, it will be quite impossible for us to settle this among ourselves. We are too prone to let our own feelings rule our thoughts. Why not take Cordelia before Judge Justice, and let him decide?"

"To the court house! to the court house!" The words were shrieked on all sides of her and before Cordelia realized what was happening she was seized by both arms and was being rushed along a queer, uneven passage where quite often her head was bumped against hard things. But she did mind the bumps. What disturbed her most was the fact that she had been snatched so suddenly away from the friendly Soft-Furs and they had no opportunity to aid her. What chance would she have against this wicked mob, if Judge Justice decided against her! The Soft-Furs had been held back by the other mice, although Mr. Soft-Fur and the other friendly mice smiled encouragingly at her from a distance.

She sank down on something soft and warm when her captors let go of her. They must know, she thought, that she had not strength to run away, even if the way had been clear.

She was not allowed to rest very long, for a loud squeaky voice suddenly shrieked at her, "Prisoner in the box, stand up!"

Trembling and cold, Cordelia stood up and faced what she supposed was Judge Justice. "Who are you?" he said. "Cordelia Crooks," she replied, her voice shaking. "I do not like your name," Judge Justice replied, "Crooks are bad people up in your part of the world. Put a black mark opposite the word crook, Scriber," he added, to the queer-looking mouse with the pen behind his ear.

Scriber made a mark as he was told to, and Judge Justice continued. "What do you do for a living?" Cordelia thought wildly—"What can I say that will please him. I must get something to balance that black mark", but she could only say out loud, "Nothing, your honor."

Those last words ought to please him surely. But if they did, he did not show any approval, rather the reverse. "What!" he cried in a voice that made Cordelia jump, "What, you do nothing? How terrible! I am afraid that you are a very bad character, Cordelia Crooks."

—Lovingly, Aunt Jean.

Here and There

Outstanding success has attended the publication of J. Murray Gibson's book, "Steel of Empire," in which is told the history of transportation in this country. The first edition of this comprehensive and finely illustrated work on Canada's history was sold early and another is now out in preparation for sale as Christmas gifts, for which it is anticipated there will be a heavy demand.

Effective January 1, 1937, contributory pensions for Canadian Pacific employees will replace the 33-year-old non-contributory system. Since the latter system's inception in 1903, the railway has paid out $18,201,640 in pensions. Under the new plan, officers and employees will contribute three per cent. of their wages or salaries. Pension rates will be unchanged and pensioning age will be the same as heretofore.

Twenty-three arrivals from British and continental ports and twenty-three departures by Canadian Pacific liners will constitute the passenger service from Saint John and Halifax during the coming winter season. It is announced from company headquarters. Season will commence November 23 and close in mid-April.

Alan M. Irwin, of Montreal, has been awarded one of the Pamphile Lemay prizes for his book, "and ships—and sealing-wax." It was announced recently by Quebec Provincial Secretary Paquette. The book, written during a cruise around the world in the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Britain, received the only English award in the Lemay prize list. "and ships—and sealing wax," which is published in Canada and Great Britain by Macmillan's, deals with the lighter side of cruising, and is a valuable, informal, aid to would-be travellers.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, Nov. 1st., is "Everlasting Punishment."

The Golden Text is: "Abhor that which is evil; cleave to that which is good." (Romans 12: 9).

The following passages are from the Bible and "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:—

"Submit yourselves therefore to God. Resist the devil, and he will flee from you. Draw nigh to God, and he will draw nigh to you. Cleanse your hands, ye sinners; and purify your hearts, ye double minded. Humble yourselves in the sight of the Lord, and he shall lift you up." (James 4: 7, 8, 10).

"At all times and under all circumstances, overcome evil with good. Know thyself, and God will supply the wisdom and the occasion for a victory over evil." (Science and Health, page 571).

FRESHMEN WEAR GREEN APRONS

During the week preceding initiation, junior girls attending the Home Economics course at the Kemptville Agricultural School are required to wear green aprons at all times, together with small green bows on their heads. They are also required to curtsy whenever they meet a member of the staff or a senior student.

Scout Minstrels Become Boy Radio Stars

Boy Scout minstrel shows proved the step into radio for Wolf Cub Bob Harron and Scout Leonard Robinson, who are playing the leading boy roles in "Lonesome Trail", a safety-promotion broadcast of the Motor Vehicles Branch of the Ontario Department of Highways. Both boys are members of the 30th. Toronto Boy Scout Troop. Bob was noticed during a Scout show by a radio executive, and invited to take an audition. Leonard had taken part in Scout minstrel shows for some years. "Lonesome Trail", a CRCI broadcast, depicts the adventures of two boys in the Northern Ontario woods, and aims incidentally to interest children in greater safety precautions on the street.

Hallowe'en Pranks

Hallowe'en, or the eve of All Hallows, is a survival of pagan times, according to the best authorities. It is associated in popular imagination with the prevalence of supernatural influences, and a child born on Hallowe'en is said to possess powers to penetrate the unseen. It is one of the few festivals that has come down from ancient times and still retained its popularity. And it is naturally one in which children are interested because of its supernatural aspects. Thus they link Hallowe'en with witches and spooks and cats that are invisible in the dark.

How the Prisoner Got Away

Liberty Magazine gives us permission to reprint the following:

Guelph, Ont. — "Clear the court", ordered an official in police court, as Angelo Velerio's case came up for trial. "Proceed", said the judge when all was quiet. But the case had to be postponed: The prisoner had been "cleared" with the others.

The Leaves and the Wind

"Come little leaves", said the wind one day,
"Come over the meadows with me and play:
Put on your dresses of red and gold,
Summer is gone, and the days grow cold."

Soon as the leaves heard the wind's loud call,
Down they came fluttering, one and all;
Over the brown fields they danced and flew,
Singing the soft little songs they knew.

Dancing and whirling, the little leaves went;
Winter had called them and they were content.
Soon fast asleep in their earthy beds,
The snow laid a coverlet over their heads.

—George Cooper.

More Interested in Canadian Leaf Contest

More people than ever appear to be interested in Canada's maple leaf contest which closes Nov. 1st. British Columbia has so far won every contest in the "largest leaf" division. Last year's leaf measured 21½ by 19½ inches.

A MODERN HOUSE

The magazines and newspapers have had pictures of the newest type of modern house and although they were interesting to look at I could not imagine really liking them. It just happened that I had never actually seen one, but I saw one in Quebec — of all places. It was a beautiful house and was not queer looking as the pictures had led me to suppose it would be. The old idea was to build the four walls and make the interior to fit but now they design the nterior of the rooms, with the desired exposure, and then design the exterior to conform. Which after all is a sensible proceeding. Houses have not changed much in generations, and we are due for a good many changes. It was noticeable that it was the modern type of house which took the most prizes in a recent Canadian architectural competition.

GOOD MANAGEMENT

It is a queer thing how some women are always working. Two women with the same sized families, the same sized houses, and living conditions apparently about the same, will differ so in their time of work. One of them will never be through, and the other has plenty of time to do other things. The chief difference is that one is a good manager. Somehow we seem to think of a good manager as one who makes the most of her money. But it is just as necessary to be a good manager of time as it is of money. After all our incomes may differ, but we all have twenty-four hours a day. Some people have the trick of using the odd moment while others must have special times to do a piece of work. There is a man who always has a good garden but who never seems to work in it. He does, because no garden is made without work and plenty of it. But he has learned the trick of using the odd moments. A few minutes in the morning, the five minutes while dinner is being taken up, and a little while in the garden, yet the work gets done. He never thinks that he must weed all the carrots at one time, but he does the few that he can in the minutes at his disposal and first thing he knows they are all done. Women can make their work easier by good management. One trick of a good manager will illustrate what I mean. Her husband cannot always come home for his meals at the same moment each day. She uses her casseroles and oven-glass dishes for serving dishes and if her husband is not home slips her dinner in the oven to keep hot, then takes advantage of these moments to wash her pots and pans. Her dinner is not spoiled by waiting, neither is her temper, and her work is not behind. Try to make use of the odd moments to provide leisure for other things.

ROCQUEFORT FRENCH DRESSING

2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon paprika
1/2 teaspoon mustard
1/2 teaspoon sugar
1/4 cup vinegar
dash of Worcestershire or other prepared sauce
1 cup salad oil
1 clove garlic
2 oz. Roquefort cheese

Mix all the ingredients but the cheese and let stand overnight. It is not necessary to use garlic but if you do remove it in the morning. Break up the cheese and add just before serving. Serve on head lettuce. If this quantity makes more than can be used at one meal, use only a portion of it and add the proper proportion of cheese as the dressing will not keep after the cheese has been added. Add the cheese to the remaining portion just before using.

CRACKER CRUMB MACAROONS

1 cupful rolled cracker crumbs
1 cupful sugar
3 egg whites
1/2 cupful broken walnut meats.

Roll the crackers very fine, mix with the sugar and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Add the nuts. Drop by spoonful on a buttered cookie sheet. Bake in a moderate oven of 350 degrees for about fifteen minutes.

MARRIED AT AMOS, QUE.

SUGARS — HALL

The marriage of Mildred Anna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Hall of Dalesville, to Kenneth, son of Mr. Thomas Sugars and the former Mrs. Sugars, of Grenville, took place at Amos, Que., on October 19, the Rev. Father Lapointe officiating.

The bride wore a gown of coronation blue silk transparent velvet, a little French model hat of the same material, and blue suede shoes. She carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Sugars left on a brief honeymoon, and on their return will reside in Amos, Que.

Filming of literary classics has popularized the movies perhaps more than any other class of picture. The Last of the Mohicans, James F. Cooper's sensational adventure story, appears at Rex Theatre next week, with all its glamor, thrill and pathos upheld by master artists.

Most daughters are quite a help around the house. They keep good numbers on the radio while mother does the dishes.

SMALL WIFE IS BEST — SHE BULLIES HUSBAND

Small women make the best wives, according to Rt. Rev. Frederick Deane, Bishop of Aberdeen. He advised Shetland Islands school boys that if they wished to "live good, useful and long lives", they should choose a bride of about five feet in height.

"It generally is better when a wife is 'top dog' in the home", Bishop Deane declared. "Small wives can 'bully' their husbands but big wives are nearly always bullied, even by small husbands."

RIVERS AND BROOKS

Driving through New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, it is a treat to see rivers and brooks filled with water after the miserable trickles in the Ontario streams. But then the Maritimes have their trees and swamps. Year after year the Ontario streams get smaller. The only time that most of them have much water in them is in the spring. Later on the rivers have a trickle over the centre of the wide river-bed and the creeks may be dried up completely. I was gently corrected when I called one of the little streams down here a "creek". After all, a brook is a much prettier name. And these little streams deserve the prettiest name that can be found. There are a few voices in Ontario crying in the wilderness for re-forestation but nothing comes of it. There are young trees available in government nurseries, there are men requiring work, and there are experts to supervise the work of planting. Yet nothing is done. Here is work for women and their organizations to do. Let the political clubs of all parties stir up something. The rural Women's Institutes could do a lot. If every farm wife could persuade her husband to do something about their own wood lot, that in itself would mean considerable—providing, of course, said husband has not already done it. If he has she might make him feel that he is one of the wise men. If changing weather conditions, drought and dry wells are due to our lack of trees, then it is time something was done about it, and women can help start something.

NOVELTIES ARRIVE in the new velvets. A little afternoon frock is of prune-colored velvet with tiny pin-points in a lighter shade woven in. The belt is a band of gold feathers.

ONCE MORE the evening ensemble of dress and special wrap is being featured. Vera Borea makes a corn-yellow fan-pleated chiffon gown over which is worn a fitted, floor-length wrap, a tailored redingote of small Persian brocade.

OF COURSE, it is nice to have a lovely ermine wrap for evening, but unless one can spend a lot it is much wiser to stick to a fine fabric coat. Smart and lovely is a fitted wrap, a long coat of black velvet lined in white faille. This can be reversed.

JUST PILED ON in smart effects are the fur trappings on the new coats and suits. A nice dark brown suede cloth suit has a knee-length coat with collar of beaver extending into a square capelet effect. Pockets are of the fur.

DOUBLE DUTY is done by a smart evening frock. A fitted, full-length coat of black lace is worn over a satin sheath-like evening frock with high waist and narrow cablestrap shoulders.

NEW LUXURY is expressed in many of the latest afternoon and informal evening suits. A smart model is in black broadcloth, the wide, hip-length cape trimmed with tuxedo revers and collar of silver fox. With the black broadcloth skirt is worn a casquin of white and silver satin brocade.

IT IS WONDERFUL to see how the designers make each year's furs seem quite different from those of previous seasons. Very new is a redingote of black Persian lamb, fitted and very widely flared, with high, pointed shoulders and frilled collar of the fur.

PLENTY TO SEE when looking at the new hats. Most original is Louise Bourbon's wine-colored felt hat with square beret-like crown from which shoots a cluster of flowers. A bow-knot decorates the crown, which is worn toward the back of the head.

LOOK DOWN and you will observe that some of the smartest shoes seen at late afternoon gatherings are satin oxfords. A new model, with high, slim heel, is of black satin with green satin bows and green heels.

ORIENT HOUSEWIVES HAVE THEIR DAY

On October 16th. wives ruled the homes in many parts of Japan while their husbands did the housework, it is reported from Tokio.

The celebration was an annual ceremony during which Japanese men recognized formally the duties their wives must perform on all other days of the year.

At the town of Tamatsu, near Toke, the entire population gathered in the town hall, where husbands scrubbed floors, washed dishes and did the family wash. The wives meanwhile, enjoyed themselves eating and drinking.

CONSTIPATION* MAY CUT DOWN YOUR ENJOYMENT OF LIFE

Long Neglected, It May Even Develop Serious Consequences

Common constipation* keeps you from being at your best. It causes discomfort, and may lead to headaches and loss of appetite. You feel below par, lack your usual vigor.

So many people treat this condition as a slight matter. But it can be the starting point of serious trouble. It contributes to a general run-down condition. With lowered bodily resistance, you are more likely to pick up the first chance infection you meet in your everyday routine.

Common constipation is due usually to insufficient "bulk" in meals. Fortunately, a delicious cereal supplies gentle "bulk." Within the body, the "bulk" in Kellogg's ALL-BRAN absorbs moisture, forms a soft mass, and cleanses the system.

Serve ALL-BRAN as a cereal, with milk or cream, or cook into muffins, breads, etc. Two tablespoonsful daily are usually sufficient. Stomach cases may require ALL-BRAN oftener. If not relieved this way, consult your doctor.

ALL-BRAN is guaranteed by the Kellogg Company as an effective laxative food for constipation.* Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

Do not forget the free illustrated lecture on the Birds of Argenteuil, in the United Church Hall, Lachute, on Nov. 13, under auspices of the County W. I.

A number of Cushing ladies were in Lachute Saturday afternoon when the W. M. S. from St. Mungo's were responsible for the program of the Lachute United Church Thank-offering meeting. Mrs. J. L. Maw, of Montreal, was their soloist.

Miss Doris Leroy and Miss Iris Evans were in Lachute on Saturday, attending a meeting of the rural branch of the P.A.P.T. which has recently been formed, and which was held in Lachute Consolidated School.

Miss Margaret Canning, of Lost River, spent the week-end at her home in Cushing.

An interesting social meeting of the Frontier Branch of the W. I. was held in the Community hall on Friday evening, when a short program was put on in which four departments of the work were featured. Education and Better Schools was featured in the Spelling Match; two of the prizes came to Cushing school pupils, Constance and Angus Greig ranking first in grades five and six, while Miss Jeanette Leclair of Chaboro school, took first prize in grade seven spelling. Canadianization was featured in a short play, "The Jacks that serve Miss Canada", and Canadian Industries by an action song—both being given by Cushing school pupils. Beatrice Barron of Stonefield School recited the experience of a young girl who went to the grocery store for a pot of jam, some eggs, tea, etc., and got the order strangely mixed. This was a difficult recitation, but Beatrice rendered it very well. Mr. Walter Starnes favored with a publicity poem about a "news-paper guy", and Mr. C. Wheeler of Brownsburg gave two of his excellent habitant recitations. Frontier W. I. members are very grateful to Mr. Wheeler for coming so far to assist in this entertainment.

Frontier Branch are holding their next meeting at the home of Mrs. Clarence Dixon, Staynerville, on Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 3rd. This is the "Know Argenteuil" month; members are reminded of the roll call, and poems on peace and war.

Mrs. P. Cumbers has returned from the West.

Visitors are invited to the Brownsburg W. I. meeting on Nov. 5th., at 2.30 p.m.

Delegates representing the Maple Ave. Baptist Church at the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec, held last week in the First Baptist Church, Montreal, were Rev. Elmore H. Young, B.Th., Miss Edythe Brown and Mr. Wm. Petley.

The Baptists of Brownsburg were well represented at the convention last Wednesday evening, over thirty persons motoring down for the evening session. They enjoyed the stirring message by Rev. W. A. Cameron, pastor of Yorkminster Church, Toronto, on the importance of religious education. He related how MacMaster University has supplied a religious atmosphere which is necessary in the training of our modern youth.

Encouraging reports were read from all the boards. Inspirational addresses were delivered by Dr. Dodds of Louisiana.

WEIR

Mr. and Mrs. John MacLean and son, Wendell, of Kilmar, were week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Williams.

Mr. David Owen, of Lachute, spent the week-end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Owen.

The service in the Church of the Redeemer on Sunday morning, conducted by the Rev. W. LeCras of Lachute, was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone present.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Beaven, of Hull, were week-end guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. Larose.

Mr. C. B. Gallupe and Miss Juanita Gallupe, of Kingston, N.B., and Mr. George Lamb, of Montreal, were week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Larose.

Mrs. S. Bigrow returned home on Thursday after spending the past month at the home of her daughter, Mrs. L. Walker at Lacolle.

Miss Inez Williams left on Sunday to spend some time in Montreal.

The minstrel show which took place in the church hall on Saturday evening was a decided success. Much credit is due to Mrs. Jos. Loudin, Mrs. Wray Knight, Mr. Hugh Glasford, and Rev. G. H. Wolfendale for their efforts arranging this entertainment.
