CORPUS CHRISTI PARADES HELD SUNDAY IN LACHUTE PARISHES

1200 PERSONS MARCHED IN STE. ANASTASIE PROCESSION

The different associations of the Parish of Ste. Anastasie gathered on Sunday morning after high mass for the annual Corpus Christi parade, which this year visited the western part of the town, proceeding by way of Grace Street to Dr. A. Rodrigue's residence, where the benediction was administered by Dr. Rodrigue's son, Rev. Louis Joseph, who officiated, with the assistance of Rev. J. S. Savage and Rev. J. Ouimet.

The procession returned via Main Street, Foundry Street and Bethany Road. The Rev. E. Labelle was in charge of the parade, assisted by L. Girard, Wil. Cousineau and J. H. St. Onge, all members of the Sacred Heart League.

First in the order of procession were the students of Ste. Anastasie Convent, who were followed by the pupils of St. Viateur College. Next came the Daughters of Holy Mary, followed by the Ladies of Ste. Anne, the Lachute Brass Band under direction of Mr. A. Guenette, the clergy, the choir, the League of the Sacred Heart, the Knights of Columbus, the Catholic Foresters, the French Artisans, and others. There were approximately 1200 persons taking part. The entire procession was preceded by an escort of Police Officer A. Gervais, Traffic Officer A. Legger of Brownsburg, and three horsemen.

On Sunday evening a spectacular parade was also witnessed

Council Hears Report on Town's Finances

CONTRACT GIVEN FOR HAULING WATER PIPE

The regular session of Lachute Town Council was held in the Town Hall last evening, at which were present — Mayor Dr. A. Rodrigue, Aldermen C. Durocher, K. McQuat, D. Deslauriers, G. Muir, O. Laurin, W. J. Deacon and Jas. McGibbon.

Minutes of the last meetings were read and confirmed.

Financial reports were received and payments ordered, on motion of Ald. McGibbon.

Two tenders were received for hauling of iron pipes from Montebello for the water-works at Lachute. The job was turned over to Jos. Lacasse for the sum of $2.00 per ton.

The Secretary was instructed to have plan of Berry St. made and forwarded to the C.P.R. for the opening of this street to the depot.

The Financial Statement of the town was presented, and will be duly published in next issue of The Watchman.

It was moved by Ald. Laurin, seconded by Ald. McGibbon, that the Council accept the report of the Roads Committee approving the plans of the Bell Telephone Company, under supervision of the said committee.

The committee appointed to consider placing of "Welcome" signs on the town approaches reported progress in this innovation.

Girl Cyclist Injured in Collision at Grenville

Miss Dora Fauteux, 17, of Hawkesbury Mills, was injured Sunday while cycling in Grenville. Struck by a car which was said to be driven by a Lachute motorist, Miss Fauteux was thrown from her bicycle to the road. She was picked up and taken home, suffering from the loss of a number of teeth and cuts and bruises about the in the west end Parish of St. Julien, where large numbers of the faithful joined in the march. The route of this procession was from the church east along Princess Street, north on Milway and turning on Wilson Street to the residence of Henri Trichard, where the devotions were conducted at an altar with suitable decorations and appointments.

The streets and houses along both routes were fittingly decorated, and fine weather favored the occasion.

Water-Main Leaks Kept Men Busy Over Week-End

Inconveniences were experienced last week-end through lack of water supply, which resulted from a break in the old 8-inch main beside the new 14-inch pipe now nearing completion. The leak was traced to a faulty pipe which was laid last year. Robt. Todd, town officer, and his men worked all day Saturday, through the night and Sunday half a mile this side of the intake. Difficulty was experienced through water leaking into the ground around the pipe; no sooner was a hole dug than it caved in at the sides, and finally the men had to build a crib around the break in order to execute the repairs. It proved a strenuous task to combat the sand and water, and while citizens suffered inconvenience in their homes, the workmen on Pollock's flats, reported anything but an enviable time.

During Sunday a diver was also engaged to inspect the pipe crossing the bed of the North River at Barron's Bridge, where a leak has been diminishing the West End water supply.

Lachute's water-system has presented a vexed problem for some years, and although the installation of the new mains is expected to give an adequate supply to all sections of town, it is still thought by many that it will ultimately be necessary to move the intake to Lake St. John. However, the present construction to the town limits is nearing completion, and it is expected that connections will be made by the end of this week.

body. The bicycle was badly damaged but the condition of Miss Fauteux was not serious.

Lachute Boy Receives M.D. from University of Montreal

Jules Lafleur, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Lafleur of this town, received his degree in Medicine last Friday from the University of Montreal. Dr. Lafleur was born in Lachute, had his early education in the local French school, and later attended St. Mary's College in Montreal, where under the instruction of the Jesuit Fathers he received his B.A.; he then went to the University for his Medical Course.

Pay-Day Drama Enacted for Roadside Audience

YOUNG LADY DROPPED MONEY IN RIVER

A near-tragedy occurred at the C.P.R. bridge recently, in the evening hour when most folks were home for supper. It was pay-day at the mills, and a young lady of Foundry Street, stepping home across the bridge, dropped her pay envelope, which disappeared through the railway ties into the river.

A few youngsters and passers-by gathered to learn the cause of the excitement. Victor Larocque of Foundry Street was the hero of the hour. Cycling past the scene, he volunteered to retrieve the lost treasure, though onlookers feared that the current would wash away the envelope and bills before he could reach them. Mr. Larocque waded in, fully clothed. The package was beyond his depth, and the envelope had separated before he could swim out to it. A total of $11.50 drifted away, but the remainder of the $25 was recovered and the distressed owner was much relieved.

MILK SUPPLIES IN SUMMER RESORTS

Safe summer resorts, from the standpoint of milk supply, are being listed by the Health League of Canada. At first, the effort will be confined to Ontario. Questionnaires have been sent to summer hotels to ascertain those which furnish guests with only pasteurized milk, and the list when completed will be made available to the public.

Rush of Activity Is Evident in Lakefield

DETAILS OF TRANS-CANADA AIR SERVICE BEING WORKED OUT... SPECULATION ON FUTURE SCOPE OF THE CANADIAN WHEAT BOARD

"The Ottawa Spotlight"
By Wilfrid Eggleston

Ottawa, June 1st.—Perhaps the busiest spot at Ottawa during the early 'dog days' is the Government Airways offices, where plans are being worked out for the safe and efficient operation of the Trans-Canada service, first section of which is expected to operate this fall. A semi-governmental company will do the actual flying, but the maintenance of the airways, the provision of weather reports, radio beams, landing fields and aeroplane accommodation is the responsibility of the federal government.

Early plans visualize a service from Montreal to Vancouver, with a shuttle service between the Maritimes and Montreal. There will also be a Toronto - Winnipeg service.

Lightning Killed Lumberman from Thurso District

Lawrence Blackburn, of Thurso, Que., 42-year-old employee of the James MacLaren Company, was killed by lightning recently during a severe electrical storm north of Mont Laurier. The team of horses he was driving to a lumber camp was also fatally burned by the bolt.

His body was taken to Thurso after the coroner decided an inquest would not be necessary.

Sent Message Home By Radio Short-Wave

CONVERSATION FROM NORTHERN QUEBEC

A short-wave radio station here was the medium through which Harold Beveridge conveyed news of his safe arrival in Northern Quebec to his parents Sunday evening. Mr. Ted Hammond, amateur short-wave enthusiast in Lachute Mills, has been conversing and experimenting for some time with Beveridge, who is a qualified operator and has his own amateur station here in centre town. Harold left on Saturday for a summer position as operator at CZZ, provincial forestry post some distance from St. Felicien in the Lake St. John region. He established communication through a private transmitter belonging to Capt. St. Martin, an aviator in that district, and Mr. Hammond telephoned his message to Mr. and Mrs. Beveridge later in the evening.

C.P.R. Conductor in District Retires After Long Service

"Good Old Dan" is the happy reference made to Mr. Dan Gannon, who for 52 years has been in service of the C.P.R. in this locality and on Saturday "turned in" his last train as conductor. The spirit of friendship through the years found fitting expression in the greetings of old-timers all along the route of his run from Ottawa to Montreal, and when Conductor Gannon was met at Ste. Scholastique by W. O. Fortier and presented with a bouquet of flowers, Dan remarked that this was indeed the "end of a perfect day."

Mr. Gannon's record is highly creditable, and he retires with good wishes from his host of friends, that he may long be privileged to enjoy the fruits of his labors.

cottages have been rented already for the summer months.

BOOKINGS AND PROSPECTS POINT TO SUCCESSFUL SHOW, JUNE 16-19

SURVEY OF HIGHLIGHTS IN FULL 4-DAY PROGRAM

Entries for the exhibitors' list at Lachute Spring Fair close on Saturday, and Mr. Alex. Bothwell, manager, reports a good number received to date. Activities among breeders, and importations by livestock fanciers during the year, give assurance that competition will be keener than ever. Thoroughbred livestock is the aim and ambition of progressive farmers. The returns from investment in quality animals have never been questioned; now better times are encouraging the realization of this ideal among county agriculturists, and the trend will be reflected as judges match the merits of fine animals at Lachute Fair.

Industrial exhibitors are also showing a lively interest, and the main building on the fair grounds will afford instructive diversion to the visitors. Bookings are coming in for the outdoor booths, where up-to-date farm appliances will be demonstrated.

A gratifying feature to local patrons is the fact that the Lachute Women's Institute has assumed charge of the dining room and refreshment stand. Good quality meals and service are thus assured, the proceeds from which go to a community chest which has already benefited numerous worth-while enterprises in Argenteuil.

The entertainment committee of the Agricultural Society report keen satisfaction in the amusements booked for the Fair dates, June 16-19. Grandstand performances will feature artists proven in fine acrobatics, comedy and vaudeville. Horse races will be run over the ringside track on three afternoons, and fireworks will climax a colorful program at night. The Grenadier Guards under Conductor J. J. Gagnier will furnish music from the bandstand.

Mr. Fred W. Sims, who will again bring his midway outfit for the big event, writes to state that he has added several new properties, including a Kiddie Auto Ride and other shows.

With these provisions made for the County's most spectacular annual event, and the grounds in trim order, patrons may anticipate a splendid show. Officials promise nothing as regards the weather, but they ardently hope for conditions which may crown their efforts with success.

Canadians Enjoy Generous List of Public Holidays

Inquiries to the State Department indicate some doubt as to the King's birthday celebration this year. A proclamation has been issued providing, according to His Majesty's wish, that the observance be on June 9th, even though the birthday occurs in December.

This year there will have been three public holidays in four weeks.

In the matter of public holidays Canadians do well, perhaps better than any other country. In addition to ten national holidays observed throughout the country generally, Ontario has one — rather peculiarly its own — civic holiday on the first Monday in August. This is also a holiday in Winnipeg, known as Arbor Day. Quebec has five religious holidays to itself.

The national series starts at the New Year and then follow Good Friday, Easter Monday, Victoria Day, the King's Birthday, Dominion Day, Thanksgiving Day, Remembrance Day and Christmas.

Quebec's Extra Days

In addition, Quebec's special holidays or fetes are the Epiphany (Little Christmas), Ascension Day, St. Jean Baptiste Day, All Saints' Day, and the feast of the Immaculate Conception.

At one time all these religious holidays as well as the others were observed in the Civil Service. Parliament, however, thought that this was going too far and so modified the list, though allowing time for any civil servant to perform his religious duty.

Widow of Former Baptist Minister Mourned Here

The death of Mrs. Ida Caroline McEwen occurred in Toronto on May 26th, after a long illness. Mrs. McEwen was affectionately remembered here as the widow of Rev. Peter A. McEwen, Baptist clergyman for many years in the Dalesville-Brownsburg-Lachute field. He had held many pastorates in Quebec, Ontario and Nova Scotia.

Mrs. McEwen was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McLeod, pioneer settlers in the district of London, Ontario. She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. A. L. Moore, of Toronto. Mrs. McEwen was esteemed here for her quiet charm and dignity, and for her sympathetic interest in good works of the community.

The funeral was conducted last Friday by Rev. A. J. Vining and Rev. C. J. Cameron of Toronto, interment following in the Mount Pleasant Cemetery at London.

Brownsburg School Softball Team Still Undeclared

Brownsburg, Que.—

Since Mr. Lambertson took over the coaching of the softball team of Brownsburg Consolidated School, in September last, they have had good luck in winning their games. The team have defeated Lachute in two games, and Hawkesbury and St. Andrews in one each. Brownsburg Consolidated is still hoping to keep up the good work, and one enthusiast warns opponents to "keep an eye on Bill Hewitt's curve!"

WASTE PRODUCT TURNS TO GOLD

It is recorded, says B. Leslie Ernslie, that as early as the year 800 salt was prepared commercially from the brine of springs on the site of the present town of Stassfurt, in central Germany, and here the industry was carried on in a primitive way until the beginning of the 18th century when an enterprising engineer sunk a shaft, permitting the salt to be excavated more rapidly in its crystalline state. But overlying the beds of common salt were extensive layers of kainite, carnallite and sylvinite containing salts of magnesium, lime and potash. These waste or "abram" salts had to be removed in large quantities to clear the workings, and they accumulated in large heaps around the pit-heads, for with progress of time other shafts were sunk, and the salt industry flourished.

POTASH FOR PLANTS

In 1860, when Baron Justus von Liebig, the celebrated German chemist, established the value of potash as a fertilizer, he realized the dream and ambition of the alchemists of old by virtually transmuting a baser substance into gold, for immediately the waste salts supplanted the common salt as the major object of the mining operations, and the search for more potash to meet the world's growing demand for the substance was so successful that new mines soon dotted the landscape all over central and southern Germany. Some of the richest deposits were located in Alsace, now again a province of France and source of supply for that country, with enough to spare for export to this side of the Atlantic.

QUEBEC PEARL ASH

Before the discovery of the German deposits potash, required for glass, soap, explosives and other industries, was obtained from wood ashes, seaweed and also from potassium nitrate, which occurs as an efflorescence on soils in certain regions of India, Persia, China and Peru. The forests of Quebec were once the source of much of the potash which found its way to the British market. It was exported largely in the form of "pot-ashes" or "pearl ash", prepared by leaching the wood ashes and calcining the extract, the resultant product being mostly carbonate of potash. So highly was the Quebec potash esteemed that the demand for it continued, though decreasingly, for many years after the cheaper mined product came on the market.

INEXHAUSTIBLE SUPPLIES

There are no known deposits of potash salts in Canada, but sources in the United States have been discovered and developed. From brine springs in Nebraska, from the bed of a dried-up lake in California and from deep workings in New Mexico potash is being recovered and refined. Germany no longer has the monopoly, and potash is being mined in Russia, Poland and Spain, while the unfathomed saline depths of the Dead Sea in Palestine are now yielding up their stores of this vital substance. Chloride of potash, a refined product, known in the trade as muriate of potash, is the chief form in which potash is served to the farmer. In proportions varying according to the needs of the crop, it is combined with sources of nitrogen phosphate to make a balanced fertilizer, and the 4-8-10 is what makes potatoes grow.

Kept Livestock in Cellar

Residents in a Brooklyn neighborhood complained to police a family named Massula, having moved in from a Long Island farm, were keeping goats and sheep in their basement. When the case came up in court Mrs. Massula was there to answer the charge. She admitted they had brought ten goats and two sheep but asked the court's leniency a few days longer since her husband was even then out looking for another farm on which they were to be placed. If forced to sell the animals they would have to sacrifice them, then pay high prices to re-stock their new farm. The judge gave the Massulas three weeks to get the animals out of their basement on to a farm. What the court and complaining neighbors did not know at the time was that the Massula family, in addition to the goats and sheep, also had brought in 65 rabbits, one pony, a mule, three cats, five dogs and some chickens, all kept in the basement.

H.I.P. Loans to Farmers Get Special Consideration

Further details regarding improvements which may be made by farmers on their homes, out-buildings, etc., under the Home Improvement Plan have been issued by the National Employment Commission. The period of repayment for loans of $1,000 or less is three years.

Any farmer desiring to take advantage of the opportunity to improve his property should consult a contractor or a dealer in building materials, and obtain an estimate covering the addition or improvements desired before approaching the loaning institution, it was pointed out.

In addition to built-in modernization of the main residential building, the following improvements are possible under the scheme:

Pumps, windmills, water supply and connections to public sewerage, sewage disposal systems, automatic heating devices, private lighting and power plants, light and power connections on farmers' property to power lines, fencing, fire sprinkler systems, ice-making plants, barn pens, stalls, and other built-in equipment for outbuildings, conveyor systems, grain elevators, feed mills, storage vats, incubators, mechanical cream separators if built in, irrigation system and grading and landscaping.

ALASKA . . . new gold rush

Forty years ago, in 1897, the discovery of gold in the Klondike started the greatest "gold rush" since the California excitement of 1849. Now a new gold rush to Alaska is beginning. A new gold "strike" on Goodnews Bay has brought hundreds of prospectors into that region, and reports come in of scenes which duplicate those of the wild days when "Dangerous Dan McGrew" and other legendary heroes of Alaska's first gold rush held sway.

Not only gold, but platinum and palladium are said to have been found in paying quantities. Naturally, everyone who can do so is trying to get all he can for the least amount of work; and naturally thieves and gamblers are there, trying to get the lucky ones' treasure away from them.

This modern gold strike, however, has some new aspects. For one thing, goldseekers are going in by airplane instead of dog-sleds. But in all other respects, the drama of human greed and sudden wealth is the same as it has been since the world began.

AGROL . . . motor fuel

"Agrol" is a new word which you are going to hear more of. It means motor fuel produced from farm products. The development of agrol is one of the objectives of the chemists who are trying to find ways of making agriculture more profitable, by utilizing farm products and farm wastes for industrial purposes.

In Europe they are using alcohol made from potatoes, corn or what-have-you, to mix with gasoline for motor fuel. Alcohol is cheaper over there than gasoline. So far, we buy gas cheaper than anyone can afford to sell alcohol, but the time may come when we shall have to resort to European practice.

Meantime, there's a plant in Nebraska where they are making agrol, and folks who know about it tell me it works.

SEA-SERPENT . . . here again

A sure sign that Summer is at hand is the recurrence of sea-serpent stories. It is no longer the fashion to laugh at sailors' tales of strange sea monsters. Scientific expeditions have brought back so many specimens of queer things which we used to think were impossible, that I, for one, am ready to believe that anything may live in the sea.

This year the first sea-serpent to reappear is "Cadborosaurus", the sea-serpent of Vancouver Sound. The crew of a tugboat out of Victoria, B.C., reports a good look at "Caddy", who is described as being about 18 inches thick, striped brown and yellow, with a warm and kindly eye and a mouth full of teeth.

Sea-serpents, or the tales about them, used to be among the real terrors of the sea in the days of small wooden sailing craft. In these days of steel steamers they are merely curiosities.

METHODISTS . . . 200 years

Two hundred years ago John Wesley, a clergyman of the Church of England, started a religious revival which developed into the Methodist Church, now almost, if not quite, the largest of the Protestant denominations. The whole Christian world is celebrating Methodism's 200th anniversary this month.

John Wesley had no idea, at first, of starting a new church. His aim was to bring his fellow-students at Oxford into a better way of Christian living. The other students gave them the name of "Methodists" because Wesley and his group were so methodical in their religious observances.

To me it is interesting that so many religious movements have had their roots in the ancient English university of Oxford. The latest, the so-called "Oxford Group Movement", is beginning to spread all over the world. Like Wesley, its founders have no idea of starting a new sect, but merely hope to lead people to better observance of the teachings of whatever church they belong to.

ACCIDENTS . . . and discoveries
Many great scientific discoveries have been made by accident. Charles Goodyear accidentally dropped some sulphur into a pan of melted rubber, and found he had a new substance, rubber that could be molded into any shape. An Italian workman dropped a piece of cheese from his lunch pail into a tub in the DuPont laboratory, and so solved the problem the research scientists had been working on; how to make a lacquer which would dry quick and hard. Failing to find a glass vessel handy, a research worker at the Mellon Institute used a tin can and got what he was trying to get. He couldn't duplicate the product of that experiment until he remembered the tin can. Salts of tin proved to be the essential ingredient.

Accident alone does not often accomplish anything useful. It takes the seeing eye and the understanding mind to grasp the significance of the accident.

spot called Botwood, landing and aerodrome facilities are being provided, and it is expected that the trans-Atlantic planes will hop from Botwood to Montreal.

Montreal, of course, will become an important air junction for the United States, since the trans-Atlantic ships will proceed from Montreal down to New York.

Test flights will be carried out within the next few weeks. The necessary aeroplanes to inaugurate the service have already been ordered. By this fall it may be possible to fly from Winnipeg to Vancouver overnight. Private companies will operate branch lines connecting with the trans-Canada airway, it is presumed.

WHAT ABOUT WHEAT?

The announcement by James R. Murray, chairman of the Canadian Wheat Board, that by the end of the current crop year (July 31st) all stocks in government hands would have been sold, has given rise to a crop of theories as to what the government will do about wheat marketing in the future.

Ottawa, will have, of course, the benefit of the Turgeon royal commission report. But the wheat policy of the government cannot help being affected by political considerations, also. The question arises, will the present wheat board be abolished, and a return be made to the open market, with the private speculator in full charge?

For political reasons, this may be seriously doubted. The wheat board as now constituted, is pretty likely to be left in existence, as a guarantee against disastrous slumps in the price of wheat. All that the government would need to do would be to pass an order in council about the 1st of August, repeating the arrangements of last year.

GUARANTEE AGAINST LOSS

That would guarantee the wheat producer against having to sell his wheat this fall for less than 87½ cents per bushel basis No. 1. Fort William. It might cost the government nothing but a few thousand dollars to maintain the board. At the same time it would assure the farmer against a serious collapse in prices.

My own guess would be that if such a step is decided upon, the price at which the board will buy wheat will not be decided until a date approximately level with the date last year, say the 10th. of August. By that time world conditions and the size of the Canadian crop will be fairly well known, and the possible cost of setting a minimum price capable of being appraised.

The complete abolition of the board is against all the political indications. So is a policy which involves a return to wheat buying and holding on a big and costly scale. The former would antagonize the wheat areas of the West, the latter would antagonize farmers and other producers in other parts of Canada, who fail to see why wheat farmers should be protected by government purchase of stocks, unless a similar policy is adopted for them.

The St. Lawrence waterways discussion appears to be simmering again. Sooner or later, of course, this development is certain to be undertaken.

Never Saw a Train

At 97, Mrs. Sarah Holcomb, living at Line Fork, Ky., has never seen a railway train. During a big birthday dinner on her 97th anniversary, most of it prepared by herself, she declared her one great ambition before she dies is to see "one of them iron horses." She is still in excellent health, does her own housework and is active in the community. She has 13 living children out of 16 born to her, the oldest of whom is 80.

Reason for Buccaneers

The buccaneers, who helped to cast the halo of romance about the Caribbean and its emerald shores, were originally men who preserved beef and pork by "drying" it over a smoky fire. This meat was called boucan, and kept in this preserved state for weeks. When their own cattle supply ran out they began to pilfer the cattle belonging to others and soon became full-fledged thieves, gold and wine being their principal objects.

Arsenical Residue Allowed

The provisions of the Federal Food and Drugs act of 1906, as administered by the United States Food and Drug administration, and as accepted by public health authorities, do not permit an arsenical residue of more than one one-hundredth grain of arsenic, in the form of arsenic trioxide, per pound of fruit. This limit is commonly called the world tolerance for arsenical residue.

HENRY G. HOOKER DIED IN LOS ANGELES

Henry (Harry) G. Hooker of Los Angeles, California, passed away at 4 o'clock Friday morning, May 21, 1937, at his home. He was born at Centerville on June 10, 1864, the son of the late George B. Hooker of St. Andrews East. The cause of his demise was a heart attack.

He leaves to mourn his loss—a wife, Agnes Dripps Hooker, a daughter, Mrs. P. O. Brewster; and two grandsons, George and Lester Coan of Los Angeles, one sister, Mrs. Max Plumb of Oakland, Calif.; a brother, Fred W. Hooker of Oxnard, Calif., and fourteen nieces and nephews in California, besides a number of nieces and nephews around St. Andrews East, Canada. Mrs. Jessie Hooker of Centerville is a sister-in-law.

The remains were laid to rest beside his former wife, Annie Hoare Hooker, at Forest Lawn Memorial Park, Glendale, California.

Late Edith M. Chapman Was Born in Brownsburg

DEATH OCCURRED IN STATE OF ILLINOIS

There passed away on May 15th., at the Geneva Hospital, St. Charles, Ill., Edith Maud Chapman, eldest daughter of the late Alfred and Marian Chapman, formerly of Lachute. Miss Chapman's death was due to a fall at her home on March 16th., which necessitated an operation to release pressure on the main nerve of her arm, caused by a broken collar-bone when she fell.

On May 2nd, she was removed to the Geneva Hospital and due to her weakened condition she died of shock, at the hospital, on May 15th. Edith was born in Brownsburg, Ind., in 1877, and was crippled from birth. She spent her early girlhood in Lachute with her family. She had just passed her 60th. birthday on April 26th.

Miss Chapman had made her home with her sister, Mrs. Raymond C. Weber, (Nellie), for the last nine years since the death of her father, the late Alfred Chapman. Mrs. Gerald Rice (Lena Chapman) of Edmonton, Alberta, came to assist Mrs. Weber in the care of Edith. Both sisters being nurses, made it possible to give her the loving and devoted care which she had. Mrs. Rice returned to the West last Monday.

The deceased lady will be sadly missed in her home. She leaves to mourn her loss three brothers and three sisters—H. E. Chapman, P. R. Chapman, H. R. Chapman, Mrs. Nellie Weber, Mrs. L. Rice and Mrs. Ethel Day.

The funeral service was held from her late residence in St. Charles on May 18th. Interment was in Hill-side Cemetery, Chicago, Ill., where she was laid to rest beside her late father and mother.

Her brothers, Edgar, Leonard of Pembroke, Ont., and Fred of Quebec, Canada, preceded her in death.

PLAY SAFE COME IN TODAY

● A life-saving invention! That's exactly what the Golden Ply, found in every Goodrich Silvertown tire, is. And here's how it gives you and your family real blow-out protection.

● The Golden Ply is a layer of special rubber and full-floating cords, scientifically treated to resist tire heat generated inside the tire by today's high speeds. By resisting this heat it keeps rubber and fabric from separating. It keeps heat blisters from forming. And when you prevent the blister you prevent the high-speed blow-out. So let us equip your car with Silvertowns—the only tires that give you the blow-out protection of the Life-Saver Golden Ply.

Can the Small Businessman Survive?

The above is the title of a valuable article in Harper's for June. Many people have wondered about it. The following paragraph, which we quote with permission, applies to the retailers as well as the manufacturers:

"Overhead charges are the bane of the large corporation. I asked the head of a small manufacturing organization how they had been so successful in weathering the competition of the many giant outfits which exist in this field. 'We are making a profit long before they cover their overhead,' was his answer."

Facts More Eloquent than Figures

The Province of Quebec Safety League has issued statistics which show that 40 per cent of auto accidents in this province are due to the carelessness of drivers: 25 per cent to speeding. But the motorist isn't always to blame; 15 per cent of accidents are due to the carelessness of pedestrians (day-dreaming, hurrying blindly, irritability and panic are all contributing factors). Pedestrians, like drivers, need to concentrate on what they are doing.

Accidents are most frequent between 5.30 and 7.30 p.m., when traffic is heaviest, vitality at its lowest ebb and jumpy nerves at peak. More accidents occur over the week-end, however, than during week days. In the records of urban auto accidents, it is shown that while 41 per cent of mishaps occur at crossings, 45 per cent take place between intersections. Jay-walking evidently doesn't pay.

There are other interesting figures showing the relative fatalities among pedestrian and driver-victims. But editors realize, perhaps most of all, that statistics have small sales value in boosting propaganda. It is up to every citizen to bear in mind the potential dangers of highway travel; and there is tragic evidence to instil that consciousness more surely than an infinity of figures.

Brownsburg Young People Held Banquet Saturday

The Young People's Society of Brownsburg United Church held their closing exercises for the season Saturday evening, in the form of a banquet. The happy company sat down to a sumptuous repast in the church hall, tastefully decorated for the occasion, followed by a varied program of local items. The Maple Avenue Baptist Y. P. U. was represented by Mr. and Mrs. N. Smilie, while the Lachute United Y. P. S. was represented by Mr. Stuart Armstrong. A number of addresses were given, including greetings from the other Young People's groups, as well as Rev. E. H. Young from the Maple Avenue Baptist Church, and the minister, Rev. S. J. Pike, who introduced the principal speaker in the person of Professor W. H. Hatcher of McGill University. Prof. Hatcher spoke on "Youth and What May Become of It". As a friend of long standing Mr. Pike intimated, in his introduction of the speaker, certain incidents in the happy relations of the past, and counted it a pleasure to have the privilege of Professor Hatcher's presence on this occasion. Professor Hatcher presented Youth as a great virile quality moving out into life with all the powers of procreation, rather than being satisfied with a 'prepared' way which was, very often, detrimental to its own spirit of initiative.

Miss Alfreda Zimmer moved a hearty vote of thanks to the speaker. Miss Olive Wheeler occupied the chair in a very capable manner, thanking all who had contributed to the success of the event. Others who took part were Miss D. Steere and Mrs. J. Stewart, with a duet; Mr. Cedric Wheeler in another of Drummond's habitant recitals; Mr. Frank Steere in a popular song, and Mr. J. Duncan with his guitar accompaniment. Miss Ivy Steere, organist of the church, accompanied the various items. The happy occasion was brought to a close by singing the National Anthem.

Not in Florida Either

"A ninety-six year old man recently enjoyed the well-wishes of his many friends. And he didn't live in Florida or California either. Possible longevity does not depend so much on where you live as on how you live. Some say it is also important to pick a good sturdy pair of grandparents if one wants to reach the hundred mark. But, at that, most of us will probably have to console ourselves with the thought 'It isn't how long but how well.' The above mentioned gentleman is Mr. Matthew Scott of Lachute, Que."—Maywood Syndicate comment on a recent item in the Lachute Watchman.

Most Farmers Are Proprietors

A study made by the American National Manufacturers Association indicates that tenant-operators of farms in the true sense do not account for any more than 24 per cent of all farmers; that about one-third of these are closely related to the land owner, so that not more than 15 per cent are independent tenants.

This group in turn divides naturally into three sub-groups — a small group, which may amount to 5 per cent of the total, who are tenants through choice; a second small group which may represent 5 per cent of the total, who are tenants through misfortune or limited capacity (marginal farmer types), and a third group, who may represent the remaining 5 per cent, who are tenants because of youth and who presently in the natural course of events will become owners.

Police Orators

Classes in public speaking have been arranged for policemen in Kansas City. Much ill-feeling between the police and the public will thereby be removed, says Captain Hugh M. Dougherty, who is responsible for the innovation. "The traffic officer," Captain Dougherty explained, "often becomes irritated when a motorist questions his observations with more high-flown language than he can command. If an officer can express himself clearly and concisely, the motorist will have little or no comeback. The officer, being more sure of himself, will not be led so easily into revealing anger."

Apple Pie an Old Standby

Apple pie has stood the taste test of appreciation for the last four centuries and is still the first choice of all pies. The greatest amount proportionally of the sixty million spent annually for baker's pies is spent for apple pie. There is no figure available on the number of pies made in homes and in the smaller restaurants and tearooms, but visits to different parts of our country show that apple pie is the favored one among pies everywhere. In the early building days of New England it was served as a breakfast dessert—a custom still in vogue in some homes of that section.

Value of Cod Liver Oil

Among other things, the cod has a very valuable liver which, when boiled down, yields that delectable cod liver oil. This, like spinach, is supposed to be of great benefit to babies, and child dwellers who see but very little of the sun. It is put up in glass or capsules and sold as "bottled sunshine."

SEASON TERMINATED IN UNUSUAL GAME

The final event of the district carpet bowling league was played last Thursday evening at McArthur's Hall, when the I.O.O.F. bowlers met the Brownsburg United team for the championship game. As the play proceeded, the prospects looked bright for the 'Burg bowlers, but an unusual turn in the play brought victory to the Oddfellows' team, and the count was 18-15 in their favor. I.O.O.F. will therefore hold the trophy, which was won last season by the Lachute United Y.P.S. Thursday's game terminated an enjoyable season,

Distances at Sea

(Christian Science Monitor)
"How far off is the horizon?" one may be asked when making a boat trip or spending a day at the seashore. Standing at the water's edge, if one's eye level is five feet above the surface, his visibility of the sea on a clear day is restricted to 2.96 miles, due to the earth's curvature. If the eye level is 10 feet, visibility is 4.18 miles; 20 feet 5.92 miles; 30 feet 7.25 miles. On a 100-foot promontory, visibility increases to 13.23 miles.

Historical Society of Argenteuil County

NEWS BULLETIN

The continued publication in this column of excerpts from the text book of the American Association of Museums will be postponed till the results are made known of the negotiations now pending between the chosen representative of the Historical Society and the officials of the Federal Government. Furthermore, the proposed organized campaign, to attain the three objectives to which the Society is already committed, and the later commitment to strive for an ideal endowment fund of $30,000, will be delayed till Mr. Lanctôt's plan for conducting this canvass is matured, formulated and adopted. The success of this canvass looks promising. So noble and patriotic an enterprise will have a strong and universal appeal to the four rich, populous bi-lingual counties which form the basin of the Lower Ottawa.

The need of a safe repository for the preservation of the archives and antiquarian treasures of this wide region, is so urgent that the Society looks forward with confidence to an encouraging response.

In the meantime a small committee of interested members in each community could do much towards preparing the ground for this organized drive.

The H.S.A.C. is confronted with no easy task in equipping, endowing and operating a museum, but the Rubicon of difficulties has already been crossed.

Legendary Power of Lough Neagh

According to an Irish tale, Lough Neagh fishermen have petrified legs, and when they want to sharpen their razors, they merely turn up their trousers and use their shins as hones. No child visits Ireland without firmly planting a stick in Lough Neagh and vowing to return in future years, when, like the legs of the fishermen, it will have turned to stone.

Paris Has Flea Market

In addition to its bird market, horse market, diamond market and dog market, Paris has several flea markets. These were so named because their main sales were originally old clothes and rags, but they are jumble sales. A tour of the markets is still considered one of the tourist thrills in Paris.

Canadian Governor Gets

Opinions From Ministry

The governor general of Canada, who is appointed by the king of England as his representative in Canada, is bound by the terms of his commission, and can exercise only such authority as is expressly entrusted him. The Canadian Year Book states that the governor general acts under the advice of his ministry, which is responsible to parliament, and as the acting head of the executive, summons, prorogues, and dissolves parliament, and assents to or reserves bills. In the discharge of these and other executive duties he acts entirely by and with the advice of his ministry.

The royal prerogative of mercy in capital cases, formerly exercised on the governor general's own judgment and responsibility, is exercised pursuant to the advice of the ministry. The practice whereby the governor general served as the medium of communication between the Canadian and the British governments has been given up; direct communication between the Canadian and British governments has been instituted.

BETTY'S MISUNDERSTANDING

"My grannie called me a naughty name."

Cried little Miss Betty Pry. Her tiny cheeks quite rosy red. Big teardrops in her eye.

"I thought my grannie loved me But she does not, it's quite plain. For if she did she never would Have called me such a name."

"She said I was 'a blithesome child' Whatever does that mean? Something so naughty, I suppose. That it gives you horrid dreams."

"I am going to ask my daddy When he comes home tonight Why Grannie calls me names like that."

I am sure it is not right."

THE OLD CORN PLANTER

Mary Belle was playing with her dolls in the little summer house near the tool shed. She was in bad humor. She had wanted to go to the woods to gather trilliums with Daphne, but Daphne just had to catch a horrid cold that morning, and her mother would not permit her to walk in the damp woods, in case she should get wet tramping in muddy places that might sink down and let the water ooze up around her feet.

Mary Belle did want to gather trilliums before it was too late in the season, but every one else was too busy to go with her—so why shouldn't she feel cross! She jerked Mary-Belle-the-Second's best dress off, so quickly that she split it at the shoulders. For a moment she looked at it in dismay. Auntie Ruth had made her that dolly's dress for her Easter gift, and here she had worn it already. Big, angry tears filled her eyes and overflowed them, swelling down her pink cheeks like small rivers.

"Something more to go wrong," she muttered as she folded the dainty bit of pink silk and lace ruffles, placed it down at the very bottom of her tiny trunk, and drew out a little pink gingham dress to replace it. A sudden rattling in the tool shed startled her. She stepped tugging at the pink gingham gown and listened as the noise was followed by a crooning old voice, which sang—

"I've been to de Coronation Along wid Mammy Sun. I saw de King and Queen go by And I was crowned too."

"You were not, Uncle Eb! You were NOT!" Mary Belle cried sharply, springing to her feet and running to the tool shed door as if glad to meet some human on whom to vent her displeasure. "You're telling a story, Uncle Eb. You weren't crowned too, at the Coronation!"

Uncle Eb looked up in surprise at the stormy-eyed little maiden who had so suddenly interrupted his happy song; and a pleasant smile crept slowly over his face. "But I WAS crowned, little missy, I was crowned wid happiness." He spoke so solemnly and so sincerely that even Mary Belle felt convinced that he had been crowned with something.

"What color was it?" she demanded. "What color was WHAT, Missy?" Uncle asked.

"Your crown of happiness?" "Happiness ain't got any color, Little Missy. Not as I know of. It is just something dat yo feels but can't see. Jest the same as when Auntie give you dat pretty pink dolly's dress. You was crowned wid happiness. You could feel it, but you couldn't see it."

Mary Belle did not feel very happy about the little pink doll's dress just now, but wisely kept her thoughts to herself. She could not help understanding, though, what Uncle Eb meant when he said he was crowned with happiness.

"Did you really see the Coronation, Uncle Eb; and why did it make you so happy?" she asked, seating herself on the doorstep of the tool shed and reaching out to stroke the black dog that always followed Uncle Eb around.

"I did not see de whole Coronation, Little Missy, but I saw the King an' Queen, an' dey looked so kind and good dat I knew dat dey loved poor old folks like Uncle Eb and Mammy Sue, even if dey was black folk. I am certain, 'cause the pretty Queen looked right at us and smiled. And now, Little Missy, Uncle Eb must be off to de field to plant yo pappy's corn. It's de fo'th ob June, and I has planted yo pappy's corn on dat day for so many years dat I jes' forgets when I first started. If you asks yo' Mammy, perhaps she'll let you come to de field wid me. Dere's heaps an' heaps ob dose white lily-flowers in one corner ob it."

Waiting to hear no more, Mary Belle rushed to the house to ask if she might go to the corn-field with Uncle Eb, and came back radiant in a few minutes, all her early morning's vexations forgotten as she danced along the path by the side of the old corn-planter.

"LASSIE"

Judy Van Der Veer
(Our Dumb Animals)

"Lassie" is an old dog now. She barks and twitches in her sleep, And dreams of helping on the farm, And bringing home the straying sheep.

She used to follow where I rode, No trail too long, no hill too high; She chased the rabbits through the grass, And made the quail arise and fly.

An old dog's place is by the fire, And Lassie dreams away the days; But sometimes softly she will go To where her long dead puppy lays;

To where the days are sweet and warm, And puppies tumble in the sun, And through the tall bright golden grass Little phantom rabbits run...

We can remember when table tennis was only ping pong.

A LONDON EMBANKMENT GOOD TURN

A "flying squad" of a dozen cars, with reconditioned clothing, food and flasks of hot tea and coffee touring the London Embankment nightly for the benefit of "down and outs" is the eminently practical Scout good turn being carried out by the 165th North London Scout Group. The cars leave the Group's headquarters at 11.30 p.m. each night with a crew comprising a driver and two Scouts.

A "HAT TRICK" IN LIFE SAVING

Three life savings in one day was the record made by Eagle Scout Joseph Holzde of Philadelphia. During an afternoon at Pock's Pond in the Pocono Mountains last summer he rescued a baby, a girl swimmer who had got into difficulties, and a girl who had broken a leg when jumping from a narrow diving board. For the latter he improvised a splint, and saw her safely to a hospital fifteen miles away.

A GARDEN

By Helen Welshimer

A child should have a package Of new seeds every spring From which to raise a pumpkin, Or beets, or anything. And with them goes a garden Where he may pluck the weeds That offer interference To any kind of seeds.

A child should gather beetles While down upon his knees; Watch cabbages and pea pods Perform their mysteries. His soul will stretch in stature Inch after inch, I know, If he may hoe a garden And watch the turnips grow!

Making True Love Safe Through the Mails

Czechoslovakian postal authorities have taken steps to ensure that the course of true love should run smoothly and secretly through the mails.

To this end, the authorities decided upon issuance of a special triangular stamp for love letters.

Postmen delivering such letters must hand them personally to the addressee. Not even members of the addressee's family will be permitted to take such letters from the hands of a mailman.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, June 6th., is "God, the Only Cause and Creator." The Golden Text is:—"In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth." (Genesis 1: 1).

The following passages are selected from the Bible and the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:—"And the earth was without form, and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep. And the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters. And God said—Let there be light: and there was light." (Genesis 1: 2, 3)

"There is but one creator and one creation. This creation consists of the unfolding of spiritual ideas and their identities, which are embraced in the infinite Mind and forever reflected. These ideas range from the infinitesimal to infinity, and the highest ideas are the sons and daughters of God." (Science and Health, pages 502, 503).

APPLE DIFFICULTIES

How quickly the seasons roll around! It seems no time since we watched the boats loading their cargoes of Nova Scotian apples. Now we see vessels bringing in the fresh crop of apples from New Zealand. Perfect looking apples they are, too. The New Zealanders are not just bringing their apples into the country and letting it go at that. They are advertising them in the newspapers and telling us they are here to use. I don't know how you feel about it, but I was literally brought up beside the apple barrel, and it hurts to buy apples by the dozen. The New Zealand apples are 40 cents a dozen. I lived in the centre of an apple growing district in Ontario and most of the time had great difficulty in getting good apples—and by good apples I do not mean apples by the dozen in a fruit store. I mean apples by the box or barrel, that are sound in wind and limb but not necessarily the same size or perfect in shape, but of good flavour with-—because after all, an apple does not care if every apple is the same size. I thought my troubles would be over when I got to Nova Scotia, noted the world over for its apples. Perhaps that was the trouble. Maybe the apples had gone the world over, but it was a difficult thing to buy them in Halifax, and we gave up using apples two months before the apple season was rightly over. Yet the same week the New Zealand apples arrived we bought Spies in good condition at a roadside stand near Windsor for 35c. a 6-quart basket. But just try and buy them in Halifax! There must be many other would-be purchasers and a potential home-market is neglected.

THEY GROW TALL THESE DAYS

If there is an older person present when comment is made that "the present generation of young people are bigger because they are better fed", there is almost sure to be a flare-up and they will indignantly deny that these children were better fed than their own. There is no doubt that this generation is a larger one. If you have children in their teens or older, they probably are taller than you are. Just think of the number of children you know that are taller than their parents. Plenty, I'll wager. This is not a matter of chance. Hasn't just happened. It is the result of more intelligent care. Not more loving care, but better-informed care. The children are more wisely fed, have longer hours of sleep and lead a more regular life. Progress is acknowledged in many lines; why should parents resent the fact that there has been progress in the care and feeding of children?

BOUCHEES

A recipe that can be put to more than one use is a handy thing to have. Bouchées (perhaps you know them better as 'cream puffs'), are just such a one. Now that warm weather is here, you may fill them with ice cream, instead of the more familiar cooked custard or whipped cream. Served with a sauce, fruit-flavored, such as a raspberry sauce; this is a good choice and makes a dessert that is a bit different. You may buy your cream puffs already filled with cream and serve them with a chocolate sauce, and there is a dessert ready in the twinkling of an eye. There are plenty of parties these days and if you want a change from sandwiches, make tiny bouchées and fill them with a salad mixture, such as chicken, lobster or tuna. I am partial to lobster and celery in the bouchées. If you have not made them before, do try them as they are not at all difficult.

1/2 cup butter
1 cup boiling water
4 eggs
1 cup flour

Bring butter and water to the boil and stir in the flour all at once. Stir vigorously and remove from the fire as soon as mixed. Add the unbeaten eggs, one at a time, and stir between each addition until thoroughly mixed. Drop from the tip of a spoon having the batter piled slightly in the centre. Use a tablespoon for large and a teaspoon for small ones. Bake in a fairly hot oven of 400 degrees for 35 minutes. Remove one to test and if it does not fall they are baked sufficiently.

ASPARAGUS CHEESE SHORTCAKE

Cut asparagus in 3/4 inch lengths and cook until tender in salted water. Add to a cream sauce and pour over split and buttered cheese biscuits. Serve hot.

CHEESE BISCUITS

2 cups flour about 3/4 cup milk
2 tablespoons shortening
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup grated cheese

Sift dry ingredients, add grated cheese and rub in shortening. Add sufficient milk to make a soft dough. Turn out on floured board and roll lightly. Cut into rounds and bake in a hot oven of 450 degrees from 12 to 15 minutes.

Women's Institutes Foster Patriotism

There can be no question as to the patriotism of the Women's Institutes when judged by their activities during the recent Coronation. Everywhere they are organized, the Institutes were in the van of the arrangements for the day, and in many places took full control of the program.

School children were organized in parades, and presented in some cases with souvenir medals. Oak trees were secured for school grounds and planted with proper ceremonies, followed in the evening by huge bonfires. Addresses and descriptions of the Coronation proceedings were listened to in many Branch meetings. In some cases the Women's Institute cooperated with the local Board of Trade in preparing a fitting celebration and gave willing and efficient help to whatever might be the order of the day.

Action of Acids on Enamelled Utensils

A memorandum of the British Ministry of Health emphasizes the danger of using enamelled vessels for the preparation of acid drinks such as lemonade—says the Quebec "Bulletin Sanitaire". Numerous cases of poisoning have been reported and the following description of symptoms is given. There usually is a burning sensation in the stomach, colicky pains, nausea, vomiting and sometimes collapse.

The presence of tartaric acid is not necessary in the liquid, the natural citric acid of fresh lemons alone may suffice to dissolve dangerous amounts of antimony from defective enamel.

The memorandum concludes thus: "Now that the use of antimony in place of tin has become common, it is advisable that the public should be warned that enamelled hollow-ware vessels obviously intended for other purposes may be dangerous if used for the preparation or storage of food and drink." Although this applies to enamel ware of inferior quality, it should be pointed out that such vessels even of the best quality may wear out and the antimony may become free to be attacked by acids. None but the best enamelled vessels, and in good order, should therefore be used for household purposes.

THE WOMAN'S PAGE

Nancy Hart's HOME NEWS

Before you get your new permanent wave, be sure the operator knows his business thoroughly. After all, the machines are standardized but your hair isn't. And here are a few tips on permanents—if the ends of your hair seem dry rub a little pomade on the ends alone. As for hair tonic, apply it after the shampoo when the pores are open, rather than before. And don't forget your hair brush.

Brushing won't ruin your permanent wave—it's good for it. In fact, hair needs to have the oil brushed down to the ends even more after a permanent than before. And brushing is the best daily routine to stimulate scalp circulation. Starting from the base of the neck at the hairline, brush up to the crown, working backward from ear to ear several times until your scalp feels warm and tingly.

Brush with a vibrating movement all around the face-line, working from the scalp to the ends of the hair to loosen particles of make-up and dust that become embedded with dried perspiration around the front hairline particularly in summer. Then return to the back of the head, space the hair in small sections, pick up one piece at a time and brush from scalp to ends with a turn of the wrist. Start with the brush sideways against the head and roll the full length of the bristles. Be sure you feel the brush on the scalp, and hold the hair up as you brush so that the bristles get underneath instead of just hitting the highlights.

One more word on hair exercise — be sure you have a good long-bristle brush. The new ones with wave-like bristles that strand the hair are particularly good.

BLOOD BALANCE

Nothing should be appreciated more than perfect circulation of the blood in the body; and very many times we physicians meet with variations from normal, which may be called "imbalance", or engorgements here and there, which may vary from congestions to actual dilations of the vessels—organic disease. People with big abdomens are sufferers in varying degrees, from blood imbalance. There are a great many veins that traverse the abdominal wall and visceral content situated there. Anything that may cause "rush of blood" to these blood-vessels produces immediate and very evident effect on structures elsewhere. A big meal is an example—overeating; intense determination of blood to the stomach and bowel, depleting the brain for the time being, causing dizziness, cloudy vision, staggering gait, stupor, with heavy feeling throughout the already overflashed abdomen. The symptoms may amount to a temporary helplessness, a not very enjoyable feeling in elderly persons.

I believe, without accurate figures, that one-fourth of the blood volume may flow in a great tidal-wave to a ponderous abdomen, from over-exertion, overeating, etc.; and that this condition reacts heavily upon the heart and brain; of course the veins of such an abdomen become much dilated from the constant sagging, making possible, if I may use the term, "abdominal apoplexy."

Methods of correction are slow, discouraging and are seldom persisted in to get the relief possible. Carefully practised exercises are productive of results. Of course free daily evacuation of the bowel must be maintained. Here it is that starches in the diet must be cut down to a minimum. Indeed, the diet must be just what is needed and no more. In chronic cases patients who are short of breath and puff with slight muscular exertion, may wear a well-fitted bandage to support the sagging, indolent abdomen.

LAI D OFF FROM WORK BY CONSTIPATION

"For four years I suffered from constipation. I had gotten so weak I had to lay off from work. My doctor told me to use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Since then, my grocery list has never been complete without it."—Mr. A. W. Murphy (address on request).

This delicious cereal will give you the same, sure relief. Laboratory tests prove it's safe. Within the body, its "bulk" absorbs moisture, forms a soft mass, gently cleanses the intestines. ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B which tones the intestines, and iron for the blood.

Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily. Serve as a cereal or cook into appetizing recipes. Isn't this natural food better than pills and drugs?

When you're at the grocery store today, get a package of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Try it a week, and see if you don't feel worlds better. Made and guaranteed by Kellogg in London.

break? A hot oil manicure once or twice a month will correct this condition. If you do your nails yourself, you'll have to enlist the services of a sister, daughter or friend to tie up your nails for you in bits of cotton soaked in hot olive oil or almond oil. File the nails first; then soak them in the hot oil for five minutes. Then the soaked cotton pads are tied on the finger tips and allowed to remain ten minutes. At the end of that time the nails are scrubbed with warm sudsy water and a nail brush, and the manicure proceeds as usual.

Sun Hottest on Cold Days

Contrary to popular opinion and apparently contrary to natural laws the rays of the sun shine down hottest on a clear cold day. This, explains the weather bureau, is because the atmosphere is filled with dust and vapor on hot days. Water vapor traps many of the sun's rays and the dust particles scatter a good many more. But on cold days there is little vapor or dust to interfere with the journey of the rays to earth.

The 4-H Clubs

The 4-H clubs or 4-H is a project under the direction of the federal Department of Agriculture, the purpose of which is to stimulate the interest of more boys and girls in farm activities. The name 4-H stands for head, heart, hand and health, and expresses the fields of interest covered by the organization. Each member takes a pledge for better thinking, more heart in his work, a busier time for his hands and proper attention to personal health.

Destiny

There are times when destiny shuts her eyes, but she knows full well that, when evening falls, we shall return to her, and that the last word must be hers. She may shut her eyes, but the time till she reopens them is time that is lost.

Codfish Distinguished

by Five Prominent Fins

Although the papa codfish is in no wise admired for his beauty, he can be distinguished by his five fins—three dorsal and two anal, plus a barbule which is found beneath his pugnacious chin. A barbule, by the way, is the fish equivalent of a whisker, notes a writer in the Boston Herald. Sometimes this denizen of the deep attains a weight of 100 pounds; but even in smaller size he is in demand for both the market and the table. The roe of the mama cod has been estimated to contain from 4,000,000 to 9,000,000 eggs, thus indicating a reproductive power intended to provide a supply far in excess of our present-day needs.

The cod is found all over the north Atlantic and in Arctic seas, but he has never been known to wander into the Mediterranean or other semi-tropical waters. Rocky coasts, submarine ledges and sand-banks appeal to him and he seems to frequent them most. He also likes the cool green depths and the largest of his kind are found in 25 or 50 fathoms of water (150-300 feet, to land-lubbers).

Despite his sacredness, the cod has a very ungentlemanly voraciousness and lives only to eat. The more he eats the better he likes it, and small fish, soft-shelled sea delicacies and other tender morsels of the sea serve to satisfy his ravenous appetite.

Hawkesbury Citizen Widely Mourned

Cushing W.—A number from this vicinity attended the funeral at Grenville on Saturday morning of the late Mr. Thos. Parke, who passed away at his home in Montreal, at the age of 80 years.

The funeral was held at St. Matthew's Church, Grenville, the Rev. Mr. Garret of Hawkesbury and the pastor, Rev. Mr. Bruteon, officiating. There was also a large attendance from Hawkesbury, which was Mr. Parke's native place.

His wife formerly, Miss Ruth Sugars, passed away one year ago. They are survived by one son, Mr. Roy Parke of Montreal, and four daughters—the Misses Florence, Hilda and Bernice Parke and Mrs. F. Carroll of Ottawa. Their eldest son, Leslie, was killed in 1916 at the Battle of Ypres.

Kisses May Kill

Students at Denver, Colorado, have decided to think twice about kissing, after their experience with cold beef jelly. Their teacher, T. A. Anderson, gave them dishes of jellied broth to kiss as a bacteriological study. Examining the broth several days later, the students found clusters of germs flourishing in it.

"Johnny", said mother at the dinner table, "are you sure you washed your face? It doesn't look like that when I wash it."

"Well, mother," replied Johnny, "if I rubbed as hard as you do I'd push myself over."

STAGE SET FOR "BIGGER AND BETTER" LACHUTE FAIR, COMMENCING ON WEDNESDAY; GOOD REPRESENTATION OUT-OF-TOWN ENTRIES

DIRECTORS URGE CO-OPERATION OF CITIZENS FOR HOSPITABLE ATMOSPHERE

For many weeks the directors and executive of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society have been laying plans for the big event of the year, the Lachute Spring Fair, which opens on Wednesday next, June 16th, and continues until Saturday.

It is sincerely hoped that the citizens of this town will join heartily in extending a royal welcome to visitors, and show their good will by a gala display of flags and decorations.

This annual event is an enterprise of real merit, and Lachute fears no contradiction in claiming the model show-ground of Eastern Canada, and a leading Exhibition—many of our exhibitors holding trophies awarded from the principal shows of the Dominion.

A full program is arranged for the entertainment of both young and old. Mr. Alex. Bothwell, sec.-manager, assures the keenest competition in all livestock classes. The full entry list is as follows:

John Mason Is Honored on His 64th. Birthday

Brownsburg—A pleasant surprise awaited Mr. John Mason on arrival home from his office in Lachute last Friday evening. About fifty of Mr. Mason's friends had gathered in honor of his sixty-fourth birthday. The evening was spent in singing hymns and songs of long ago. The younger ones present were particularly interested to hear stories of events of half-a-century ago, and of the great changes that had taken place since then. Short speeches were given by Dr. J. H. Mason, Mr. Robert McKinley and others. Rev. E. H. Young spoke on behalf of those present, declaring that one's greatest possession was "friends". Mr. Mason was then presented with a beautiful Parker pen and pencil set from his friends. He thanked the gathering sincerely for their kindness and friendship. Refreshments were served and everyone went home feeling this had been a time well spent in honoring one of the town's respected citizens.

Lachute Couple Honored on 25th. Wedding Anniversary

Out-of-town relatives and friends joined with fellow townsfolk in a surprise party last Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gaetan Valois to honor them on the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage. The happy occasion occurs today, Thursday, but the celebration was planned for a few days previously so as to ensure its complete surprise.

The party attended from as far distant as Montreal, Three Rivers, Vaudreuil, St. Jerome, Ste. Therese, Ste. Scholastique and other points.

Presentation of a grandfather clock was made, a beautiful piece of craftsmanship with three chimers. The presentation was made with a few well chosen remarks by Mr. Clement Tremblay. A reception followed and a very happy time was spent.

The renowned Mignon Trio, of radio fame, took part in the celebration. Dr. J. A. Hébert of Montreal, at the piano, with his three daughters, rendered very appropriate vocal selections. Dr. Hébert is a former college-mate of Mr. Valois.

Theft at Slaughter House Was Promptly Solved

On Friday last at 1 o'clock in the morning Ald. Speight's abattoir, in the rear of his residence on Grace Street, was broken into and 15 to 20 beef and calf skins were taken.

Crown attorney Georges Héon enlisted the services of Town Constable Gervais, who did some effective sleuthing and on Monday afternoon the culprit was brought up for questioning. The hides were traced to the Eastern Abattoirs, corner of Mt. Royal and Ivesville Streets, Montreal, where they had been disposed of; the thief was traced and the robbery duly solved.

Repellents may be concocted from the following ingredients, six formulae being quoted:

1. Oil of citronella, 3 ounces; spirits of camphor, 1 ounce; oil of tar, 1 ounce; oil of pennyroyal, ¼ ounce; and castor oil, 4 to 6 ounces depending on the sensitiveness of the skin.

2. Oil of citronella, 2 ounces; castor oil, 2 ounces; oil of pennyroyal, ¼ ounce.

3. Oil of lavender, 1 ounce; alcohol, 1 ounce; castor oil, 1 ounce.

DOWNWARD MOVEMENT IN TARIFFS BETWEEN TRADING NATIONS SEEN AS POSSIBLE REMEDY FOR UNREST... REVIEW OF TREND AND EFFECTS

"The Ottawa Spotlight"
By Wilfrid Eggleston

Ottawa, June 8.—The news which has been trickling out from the Imperial Conference at London has been scanty but encouraging. If the private reports which have come through to the Gallery here can be believed, a world movement toward lower tariffs is all ready to be inaugurated, with Messrs. Mackenzie King, Roosevelt and Chamberlain as the leaders.

There is no telling how far-reaching such a move might be, on war and peace, as well as on trade and prosperity. A correspondent of mine describes it as much the most hopeful thing that has happened in Europe in the past year. Until recently it appeared as though economic depression was driving certain nations to war, that the fear of internal revolution, due to hard times, was growing so strong among the rulers that a pretext for war would be developed if nothing came along in the ordinary course.

Those who believe that international trade raises the standard of living of all who take part in it, naturally want to see whether by this indirect means a ghastly conflict cannot be avoided.

BITTER TARIFF RACE

It is open to argument to what extent the tariffs of the world were imitative and retaliatory, but there is little doubt that most of them were put on in seeming 'self-defence'. A few years ago there was a tariff race as bitter as the present armaments race. United States put up a layer, and Canada followed suit. Japan and Germany stuck on some more, and even Britain, free trade for three quarters of a century, was induced to place tariff walls around the country.

Now it is hoped to start a similar downward movement. If two or three of the principal trading nations can be induced (Continued on page 5)

"Hundred Club" Represented on Internat'l Board

TWO OFFICERS APPOINTED FROM LOCAL GROUP

At the annual convention of the International Association of One Hundred Clubs, held Monday in the Mount Royal Hotel, the Lachute club won recognition for its notable strides among the younger branches, and two local members were honored with official appointments on the Association board.

Officers elected were—President, Dr. W. E. Meldrum, Ottawa; 1st. Vice-President, Georges Héon, Lachute; 2nd. Vice-President, Dr. G. Johnson, Almonte; Treasurer, W. A. Rowatt, Winchester; Quebec District Governor, Gordon McQuat, Lachute; Ontario District Governor, Christie Forbes, Perth. Each branch has a per capita representation on the directorate, the directors for Lachute being W. K. McArthur and L. Armstrong.

The gathering opened with an invocation by the Very Rev. Dean Carlisle, and Pro-Mayor Ald. Omer Côté extended a welcome on behalf of the City of Montreal.

Luncheon and business sessions were followed by a banquet, floor show and dance at the Mount Royal. The ladies of the party were also entertained at a luncheon and bridge at the Ford Hotel during the afternoon. An enjoyable gathering was reported by the local attendance, which included Mr. Geo. Héon, Mr. and Mrs. W. K. McArthur, Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Titman, Mr. G. McQuat and Mr. Linton Armstrong.

To those attending from Lachute, it was gratifying to learn of the prestige and popularity of their particular community, and an invitation to hold the next annual gathering here during Fair Week, 1938, was warmly accepted by the convention.

Retiring President Alfred Ecclestone, of Montreal, received an ovation for his untiring services during the year, and the Montreal branch under President Centurion G. Laverrière were thanked for their hospitality and entertainment.

THE FATE OF AN IRISH RAILWAY

Canadians who have toured Ireland will probably remember the unusual sight of a train passing through the main street of the village of Acher. This narrow-gauge railway which runs through the Clogher Valley may be scrapped, as authorities consider it is no longer useful as a means of passenger travel.

St. Jerome Woman Dead at the Age of 104

IS SURVIVED BY OVER
230 DESCENDANTS

Survived by over 230 children, grandchildren and great grandchildren, Mrs. Felix Beausejour, one of the oldest residents of the Laurentian district, died at her home in Lesage parish, near St. Jerome, at the age of 104 years. She had been ill only three days, though since last November, following an accident, she had been in poor health.

Widely known throughout the Laurentian section, Mrs. Beausejour was feted on her 100th birthday when special celebrations were held and she was presented with a purse of gold and flowers. Until last November, when she fell in the cellar of her home, she had been able to do housework. In the accident, she suffered a dislocated left hip.

Mrs. Beausejour was born in Pointe-aux-Trembles, in 1833, and was married to Felix Beausejour, a farmer of St. Sauveur. Twenty years ago, her husband died. She was the mother of nine children, of whom only four survive, the youngest being 50 years of age. There are 150 grandchildren, 78 great grandchildren and two great-great grandchildren.

W. M. A. Luncheon for Presbyterial Executive

St. Andrews East — The Women's Missionary Auxiliary of the Presbyterial Church met here Wednesday last, when a luncheon was given for members of the Executive of the Montreal Presbyterial.

The Coronation colors were used in decorating, the centre pieces being very attractive, formed of white lilacs, ferns and small silk flags. The President, Mrs. J. P. Bradley, presided at the head table with the guests, Mrs. Baker, of the Montreal Presbyterial, Mrs. Owen Campbell, the guest speaker, Mrs. H. Cousens, Mrs. Chas. Johnstone, and Mrs. Ashton Kerr. Eight secretaries of different branches were present, and gave reports in a very concise manner; Mrs. M. Gall, and Mrs. Robert McFaul represented Lachute. Mrs. Owen Campbell gave a very inspiring address, her subject being "Christian Homes", and the meeting will long be remembered by all who attended.

Farm and Home Week at Ontario Agricultural College

Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, is throwing open its doors for a special week of visits from the farm folks of the province, on June 21-25 inclusive, and the number of visitors should be larger than ever, since the work of the College and the Experimental Farm grows in extent and in value from year to year.

Special interest will center around the daily live stock parade. Never before has the College had such a fine array of breeding stock.

The ninety acres of field crop experiment plots will include some interesting new things, and the magnificent grounds and gardens will be at their best, with hundreds of varieties of roses and other flowering shrubs and trees to be inspected and enjoyed. Besides these there will be many educational exhibits showing the work of various departments.

Last year more than 16,000 people visited the College at Guelph during Farm and Home Week, and more than 16,000 others at other times during the summer.

Extra Room in the Basement

Any home that is occupied by more than two people will find plenty of use for an extra living room. Space in attics or basements may often be converted to this use and funds for the necessary work may be obtained from a bank or other authorized lending institution under the terms of the Home Improvement Plan. The loan may be repaid in instalments over a period of five years if necessary.

Occasionally little work is necessary to create an attractive room. In one basement, a brick fireplace was built in, to make the focal point of interest. The walls were painted a soft shade of yellow and the floor a deep shade of brown. Composition board was used to close off the corner of the cellar that was being used for the room.

The ceiling gave the effect of beams, the floor beams being joined with false ones to carry out the effect. Curtains were hung at the sides of the small cellar windows, so as not to detract from any light that might enter, and to give the feeling of greater width. Simple furniture was used in this room.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE
SUNDAY SERVICES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, June 13th., is "God the Preserver of Man."

The Golden Text is:—"In God is my salvation and my glory; the rock of my strength, and my refuge, is in God." (Psalms 62: 7).

The following passages are from the Bible and the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:—

"There hath no temptation taken you but such as is common to man: but God is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able; but will with the temptation also make a way to escape, that ye may be able to bear it." (I Corinthians 15: 13).

"The history of Christianity furnishes sublime proofs of the supporting influence and protecting power bestowed on man by his heavenly Father, omnipotent Mind, who gives man faith and understanding whereby to defend himself, not only from temptation, but from bodily suffering." (Science and Health, page 387).

MAN MUST STEP LIVELY TO CHECK INSECT MENACE

Certain insects are commended as examples of industry. The busy bee, for instance; and those of us who are sluggards are told to go to the ant, putting it mildly. But other insects, no less industrious, cannot be ignored, however much we may wish to shun them. They are not black flies or mosquitoes, or the kind one can swat either, but those whose ravages extend to plague proportions and wreak untold havoc in gardens, orchard, field and forest. As B. Leslie Emalie puts it, we have to contend with insects that suck, bite and sting, fly, crawl, skip and hop and must step lively to keep a jump ahead of them. On the principle that "big fleas have little fleas on their backs to bite 'em; little fleas have lesser fleas, and so ad infinitum," parasitic insects have been imported for the purpose of preying on the predatory insects or their larvae. These means are being employed in the fight against the European corn borer and the spruce sawfly which cannot be tackled successfully with poison sprays.

The Tossin Sounds "West Opens Fight on Grasshoppers" heads a press report from Regina, which states that 37 carloads of bran, 50 carloads of sawdust and 40,000 gallons of sodium arsenite are being distributed in the affected areas of Saskatchewan alone. The ingredients mixed together make up the tempting last meal for the hoppers. Messrs. Vigor and Longman, field crop commissioners for Saskatchewan and Alberta, respectively, are experimenting this year with sodium fluosilicate and another substance, known as A-23, in comparison with sodium arsenite, in the poison bait.

Caterpillar Pest Heavy in Ontario "is more bad news in the press, and this time it is the tent caterpillar of which an abundance is promised this year. It seems that once in a decade a plague of these may be expected, continuing diminishingly for three years. Hardwood trees chiefly are affected, and spraying is recommended for the control of the crawlers, with nicotine sulphate for the newly hatched and arsenate of lead for the mature and resistant.

St. Andrews East

LATE MRS. GILBERT HAMILTON

St. Andrews East—Mrs. Gilbert Hamilton, daughter of Mr. William and the late Mrs. Todd of Lachute Road, passed to her reward on May 31st., after a lingering illness of many years. During all the years of physical weakness, and at times great suffering, no murmur or complaint crossed her lips. She was always patient, kind and cheerful, so that the lives of her husband and young daughters were spared much of the gloom which so often accompanies a lingering illness. The welfare of her loved ones caused her a beautiful Christian forgetfulness of self.

The death of her mother, a few weeks previous to her own, was borne by her as only by one whose stay and trust was in the Heavenly Father, and who was able to say, "All things work together for good, to those who put their trust in Him."

Jessie, as she was familiarly known by a host of friends, has left for them all a splendid example. "She rests from her labors, but her works do follow her."

The funeral took place on Wednesday in St. Andrews Presbyterian Church, of which she was a faithful and loyal member. The large concourse of people present, which completely filled the church, showed the esteem and respect held for her and her family throughout the community.

She leaves to mourn her loss, a loving husband and four daughters: Myrtle, Margaret, Elizabeth and Dorothy, all at home; also her aged father, one brother, Stuart, of Lachute Road, and two sisters, Mrs. Arthur Gates of St. Andrews East, and Mrs. Ross Brown of Lachute.

The service was conducted by her pastor, Rev. Dr. Ballantyne, assisted by the Rev. Robert Millar, M.A., a former pastor.

The many beautiful floral tributes were more eloquent than words of the love and esteem of her many friends.

Heresy in 1935

Roger Williams, founder of the Baptist Church in America, went on trial for heresy in Massachusetts Bay Colony in 1635 because he opposed persecution of Quakers. Four years before, Massachusetts had decreed that entrance should be limited to church members. He was found guilty and banished, and the hanging or whipping of Quakers continued.

Twenty Years, Average Reign

A study of the lives of several hundred kings, emperors, czars and other monarchs who have ruled during the past 800 years reveals that their average reign was 20 years, an astonishingly long period considering the fact that the majority lived in constant danger and that about one third met violent deaths.—Collier's Weekly.

The Quiet, Long-Lived Mower That's Easier on Horses and Driver

WE are anxious to have all our friends see the New McCormick-Deering No. 7 Enclosed-Gear
Mower. We think it is one of the finest pieces of farm equipment we have ever sold!

For example: The entire operating mechanism, including drive gears, differential, and countershafts, is assembled compactly in an oil-tight gear housing and runs in a bath of oil. There are four high-grade roller bearings. Operation is so smooth and noiseless that you can scarcely hear the light hum of the sickle!

Special oil seals at the ends of the main axle and flywheel shaft, and the oil-tight gear box prevent leakage and protect all working parts against the entrance of dirt and other abrasive materials. Floating action of cutter bar provides ample play without disturbing knife registration.

Good Example from Ontario

Ontario takes the lead in abolishing one of the nuisance taxes which Canadians have shouldered since the days of the World War. The amusement tax was removed last week, and citizens of this territory feel that Quebec might well follow the example of her sister province. . . . Charity shows were never subjected to taxation in Ontario, as they are in Quebec.

With the prospect of Canada as runner-up in the armament race, and no promise of relief from the railway debt, there can be little easing of the federal tax burden. Any morsel of consolation which the provinces may let fall, will therefore be a boon to the taxpayer. . . . And we suggest that Quebec might look critically upon its amusement tax, its hospital tax, its gasoline tax, its auto tax and several others which could be conveniently pared.

Knows Problems Close-to-Home

It is not generally recalled that the new Prime Minister of Great Britain, Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain, devoted his public activities up to the age of forty-seven almost entirely to his native city, Birmingham. By the time his term as Lord Mayor had expired, he had become a national figure. It is said that while Joseph Chamberlain, his father, rebuilt the city during his term as Mayor, Neville Chamberlain later consolidated the administration of Birmingham and made it an outstanding example of civic responsibility.

In his knowledge of affairs close to the hearts of men and women, and his wider experience in national finance, Mr. Chamberlain combines the qualifications of a proven leader, and should acquit himself worthily as successor to Mr. Stanley Baldwin.

Shapiro Hears the Other Side

L. S. B. Shapiro, New York commentator, recounts in the Montreal Gazette the reaction of an Englishman to America's long-distance views on affairs in Europe. Quoting the Englishman in New York. . . .

"Good heavens!" he exclaimed, "Here they are saying that England is being cowardly. . . . They want to know what England is going to do about the shelling of Almeria. They want to know if England and France are going to let the Fascist powers get away with it. They say it is a terrible thing to have a weaker power pounced upon by bullies. They want something done, about it—and done quickly. Yet the same editorial writers are fanatical in their insistence that America keep out of it; that it is none of their business; that America has no possible interest in the conflict."

"My dear sir, this looks like a profound case of crust. They decline to have anything to do with international action for peace, but find it very easy to sit on this side of the water and raise their hands in horror and practically demand that England go to war for humanity."

Cool the Whole Town

(Public Utilities Magazine)

Mr. Harold A. Lynette, a consulting engineer, is urging the entire practicability of developing a central plan in a city like Knoxville, Tennessee, for a municipal utility that would serve the city both as a heating system in winter and a cooling system in summer.

The Electric Light and Power Magazine speaks rather lightly of the idea but we predict that much more will be heard of such possibilities from now on.

If there is one great contribution that the electric industry can make to human comfort, convenience and efficiency, it is the cooling and air conditioning of homes, offices, factories and other places where people must live and labor during the insufferable heat of the summer months.

We heat our homes, stores, factories, etc., in the winter. It is impossible to believe that with all our technical knowledge and ingenuity and the aid of electricity we cannot cool them in summer.

Air conditioning is a challenge to the electric industry, both public and private, because it is a pressing demand of a long-suffering humanity. We do not believe that challenge will be very long unanswered.

Indeed, we see it already far on its way, and coming fast.

Mr. Baldwin on the Empire

(From the Ottawa Morning Journal)

Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, on preparing to take leave of office, recently spoke a message on the "Responsibilities of Empire". Reading cabled extracts from it, we are made to hope that its full text will be made available to many.

For it is a different sort of "Empire" message that Mr. Baldwin gives us. A message without "blood and iron" in it.

The words "Empire" and "Imperialism" have too often a sinister meaning. They conjure up images of vast possessions, of material conquests, of battles and fleets and armies, of numbers left on the field.

It is not that sort of Empire Mr. Baldwin sees. This Englishman, incarnate of England, does not love England or the Empire for the things too often emphasized in history. His love and his reverence go deeper. They reach down to those intellectual and spiritual things which are the true British heritage.

Too many of us, when we think of England, think of Waterloo, of Trafalgar; we think of her in the thought of Daniel Webster's famous passage:

"A power which has dotted over the surface of the whole globe with her possessions and military posts, whose morning drum-beat, following the sun, and keeping company with the hours, circles the earth with one continuous and unbroken strain of the martial airs of England."

Yet it is not these things, memorable though they have been in England's history, which have made or can make the strongest appeal in the British story. They are found rather in England's contribution to human thought and liberty, and above all to human dignity; found in her cradling of free government, in the majesty and beauty of her language, in the moral, spiritual and political concepts she has given to the world.

It is these things that Mr. Baldwin, putting off his armor, holds up for our reverence. "The British Empire", he tells us, "has demonstrated to the world that difficulties can be resolved by discussion as they cannot be resolved by force." And he adds:

"Science has made such advances and brought such material prosperity and knowledge that we have tended to confuse mere acceleration with civilization."

"Materialism means slavery—slavery of the mind to the things of the body—and slavery in the end means destruction."

"The British peoples have always set before them the ideal of freedom and more than ever today it is their duty to maintain and justify that ideal."

This, not the story of battles, nor armaments, nor parchments, nor statutes, is what holds—and will continue to hold—the British Empire together. Patriotism, in its deeper sense, is not a martial thing. It is something higher. Something that lives in tradition, in common ideals, in the immortal longings of men for truer and higher things. Chaucer, Milton, Shakespeare, the things they wrote and thought and the imperishable heritage they left us—these are what, in the last analysis, make for that Act of Faith which is the British Empire.

It is all what we may call the British Way. An attitude of mind, a belief in the common man, a reverence for freedom, a sense of sportsmanship and fair play. In short, an outlook upon life, and what life is about, that is perhaps different.

That is the Empire, or the conception of Empire, all of us should want to keep. Not an Empire of might and riches, nor an Empire to dominate the world, but an Empire of spiritual and intellectual reverence, of intellectual and spiritual leadership, an Empire of compassion and pity, loving mercy, walking justly and helping peace in the world.

POLICE PLAN TO CURB AUTO PARKING

Yellow footprints painted on the pavement to indicate a pedestrian lane are to be seen in front of the Hull, Que., police headquarters.

The trail, leading from the sidewalk to the police station door, is an innovation of Police Chief Frederic Marengere and is intended to prevent parked cars from obstructing the station's entrance. The idea has already produced the desired results. Pedestrians naturally follow the footsteps and motorists are automatically parking their cars some distance from the imaginary lane.

SEWER DEODORANT MADE FROM TIN CANS

About seventy-five pounds of burned tin cans from the city incinerator of Tucson, Arizona, are used each day to produce ferrous chloride to deodorize the sewer system—says the Public Works Engineers' News-Letter.

A chlorinous solution is fed into the bottom of a 900 gallon concrete reaction tank which is kept filled with the flattened tin cans. The reaction between the chlorinous solution and the tin cans forms ferric chloride which after a longer retention period becomes ferrous chloride, a valuable deodorant.

The plant for the manufacture of ferrous chloride was built primarily to control the odors emanating from a siphon on the sewer line and to control deterioration in the sewer leading from the United States Veterans' Hospital. To accomplish this control, 2400 gallons per day are introduced into the hospital line.

Excuse My Glove!

"Hand Hygiene"
—Article in the Quebec
Bulletin Sanitaire

Of all the parts of the human body, the hand is the most exposed to gather in dirt and contaminations—not only because it is habitually bare but because it touches everything and anything, and is so often carried to the mouth and the nose.

Laboratory workers have made researches which prove beyond doubt that the hand is a most active means of spreading infectious disease.

Hand-shaking especially is an ideal vehicle of germs. A hand which has been put before the mouth or the nose in a fit of coughing or sneezing and is afterwards clasped by another person will transfer germs to the latter. One never remembers what one has touched before shaking hands, or before touching one's mouth or nostrils. Besides this action of transferring germs, and from the mere standpoint of physical comfort, nothing is more loathsome as having to grasp dirty or merely doubtful, moist or sticky hands, or in tramways having to hold straps or bars on which any unknown hand may have left dirt of some sort.

There are men who even during the hot summer day will always wear gloves just to avoid touching directly all kinds of dirt or dirty objects, and who will never remove them although those who may think that politeness requires them to at least say "Excuse my glove" may scoff at them. Wearing gloves at all times in the street or in public conveyances is a practice which should always call for laudatory remarks. One fails to see why it should be impolite to shake hands with one's gloves on. On the contrary, one should always apologize when presenting one's naked hand in shaking hands.

The practice of putting in the mouth anything which the hand cannot hold, as car tickets, transfer slips, even one's pen or pencil, in fact any object at all should be shunned at all times. The mouth is made solely for eating or speaking and nothing else.

Lastly, hands should not only be washed often during the day but as often as it is suspected they are carrying dirt or germs. Never forget that the hand is the easiest means of collecting matter injurious to health.

The truly modest person is never satisfied with his present knowledge or achievement.

to admit foreign goods freely, met by high tariff walls. It is then the other nations will have less incentive to maintain high tariff walls. It is hoped they will co-operate.

The vested interests in all countries, which have been permitted by tariff walls to build up industries and charge higher prices than they could have done otherwise, will naturally put up a tough defence. But if the leaders can be persuaded that a general tariff disarmament is in the interests of the world, they may be able to overcome this.

Some American writers have not hesitated to lay the principal blame for the post-war tariff madness on the inexperience of the United States. During the long period when Britain was the chief creditor nation of the world, she had a free trade system, and debtor countries could freely pay their interest and principal in the form of goods.

The United States went into the war a debtor country, and a high-tariff country. She came out of the war the world's principal creditor, but the tariffs were still there.

CAUSED THE DEPRESSION?

In the post-war decade, the debtors of the United States attempted to pay back their obligations in goods. They were seriously argued that the drain of gold from the rest of the world to the United States, in a secondary attempt to meet these obligations, was a prime factor in bringing about the depression of 1929. Certainly it threw the world "off the gold standard."

It is not even clear that the United States have learned this lesson yet—that payment for goods exported must be by goods imported. We have quite recently seen some of their leaders gravely concerned about the volume of sterile gold which is piling up in their vaults. But debtor countries are still finding much of the old difficulty in paying their debts in the United States in any other way. There is still a high tariff there, although President Roosevelt's treaty-making powers have cut it down substantially.

Now we hear of a serious effort to go further. If the U.S. will take another cent a pound off Canadian cattle, and admit codfish more freely, make perhaps two or three other major concessions, then Canada will agree to Britain varying the terms of the Ottawa agreements, and letting U.S. produce enter the Mother Country without the present tariff obstacles. There would be mutual reductions on British goods. In some such way the tri-partite walls will come down.

NEW AIRPORT TO REPLACE
FOGGY CROYDON

Residents in the neighborhood of Croydon, site of London's terminal airport these past 18 years, will sleep more soundly in their beds, writes Flight Commander A. H. Sandwell, in the Montreal Star. Imperial Airways is shortly to commence using a new airport near Dartford, Kent, realizing too that other lines will doubtless follow. The inadequacy and growing danger of Croydon have been obvious for several years. Croydon never had good transportation facilities into London proper. The new base will have quick electric trains and not so much fog.

IMPROVES

I have a vivid memory of a certain Sunday morning when I was seven years old. My father, a clergyman, had never purchased a Sunday newspaper. On this particular morning he came down to breakfast looking deeply concerned, and said to Mother: "I feel today that I must know the news before I go into the pulpit."

The news that he felt he must know was about the railroad strike in Chicago, where men were killing each other, and Grover Cleveland had ordered out the Federal troops.

We have made a lot of progress in the intervening years. A wise old professor in my college used to quote the following verse from the Psalms: "What is man that thou art mindful of him? or the son of man that thou visitest him?"

Most people, he said, interpret that to mean: "What does petty, futile man amount to, that you (God) should give him any thought?"

A better interpretation, the professor argued, is this: "What a wonderful creature man must be that even God is mindful of him and likes to visit him."

THE COMPETENT ARE RARE

An important New Yorker called me up to ask about two doctors who run a clinic in a little Canadian town. He knew I had visited them some years ago and that they did me much good.

I described them to him in the words of one of their patients. "They are human ferrets," I said. "They seem to be able to discover and correct conditions where even specialists have failed."

The man went up to the clinic and stayed three weeks. Yesterday he telephoned me to say that he had not felt so well in years. He was so enthusiastic that I could hardly get him off the phone.

I sent another man up to Bill Brown's health farm opposite West Point. The man is vice-president of a business that has had plenty of problems. He was nervous and discouraged. He came back from Bill's on top of the world.

I referred a friend to an architect who had done some very clever work for us on our country house. My friend was delighted.

The doctors write me letters of thanks. So does Bill. So does the architect. They think I have done them a friendly service. I reply that, on the contrary, the obligation is entirely on my part. They have given me one of the best pleasures in life, the pleasure of recommending someone who is really competent.

DOMINION STORES
Spent Over $6,000,000
IN ONE YEAR in the Province of Quebec?

TYPICAL YEAR'S EXPENDITURE

Purchases from Manufacturers.....	$5,209,426.17
Purchases from Farmers (Island of Montreal only)....	63,122.08
Taxes, Municipal, Provincial and Special.....	57,922.23
Salaries and Wages.....	663,669.36
Rents for Stores.....	182,203.86
Heat, Electricity, Telephones, etc.....	167,336.83
Total, (Figures as of December, 1936).....	$6,343,680.53

The figures given above indicate the vast sum of money involved in Dominion Stores operation. This money flows through the channels of manufacturer, farmer, landlord, employee and the public utilities to all parts of the Province.

Dominion Stores serve the people of Quebec through one hundred and twenty-four stores situated in the large cities, and in smaller towns as well. Not only are these communities able through Dominion Stores to obtain good food at low prices, but farmers for miles around find a market for their produce: a double-advantage that is eagerly sought and does much to explain Dominion Stores' steady growth.

Dominion Stores' policy is based on quick distribution from the producer to the consumer, therefore no time is wasted in shipping from distant points where we can get the goods close at hand; hence as much of our purchasing as possible is done within the borders of the Province.

Dominion Stores are a great asset to the Province. The money spent within the Province is concrete evidence of their value. The money saved the population served by our stores stays in the Province also and represents thousands of dollars per year. Low prices for good goods — that is the service we render.

AUNT JEAN HERSELF

A Column for the Kiddies

THE VOICE FROM THE WOODS

Mary Belle danced along the path by the side of the old corn-planter until they reached the gate which opened into the field. "Let me undo it! Let me undo it!" Mary Belle cried eagerly; so with a smile the old man stood back and waited for Mary Belle to open the gate. He was certain she could not do it—and in that he was right, for the gate was a heavy one and the hook really too high for Mary Belle's small fingers to reach.

After many attempts to open the gate, Mary Belle stood back and said, "I guess the horrid thing is locked."

The corn-planter chuckled as he stepped forward. "Like me to open it for you, Little Missy?" he asked.

"I guess you will have to, if you want to plant Daddy's corn. I have bruised my fingers on it and have not opened it the tiniest bit. I'll not tell Ted though, 'cause I have always teased to open this gate when we came here, and cried too, sometimes when Daddy would not let me try."

"We'll not tell any one, Little Missy, but jes' keep it a little secret for ourselves", chuckled the old man. "What a chile, what a fairy chile!" he added, as Mary Belle with a delighted shriek dashed off to the corner of the field nearest the woods, where the white trilliums could be seen swaying in the wind. "Hope none of those piney trees get loose on de top and crash ober on Little Missy" the old man murmured when the wind appeared extra rough and boisterous.

The wind did not bother Mary Belle; she loved it—loved to rush along against it and feel it beating against her body and flapping her loose, frilly sleeves. For a time she worked industriously picking the flowers—not breaking the stems off close to the ground, as she should, but digging them out by the roots.

Suddenly a voice from the woods screamed hoarsely—what to her startled ears sounded like "Now, now, now!" It frightened her so that she dropped her flowers on the ground and ran to clutch the old corn-planter for safety.

"What's de matter, Little Missy?" he cried, looking down at her pale, frightened face.

"Something horrid yelled at me from the woods and made me drop my flowers", sobbed Mary Belle. "Dere, now! Dere now!" the old man crooned, seating himself on a stone and taking Mary Belle on his knee. "Here comes Mammy Sue wid a lunch. She'll tell you about dat voice, I guess, Mammy Sue knows mos' ebrything."

When Mammy Sue heard the tale, her eyes twinkled: "I done guess", she chuckled, "dat you must hab been pullin' dem flow'ers out by de roots 'stid o' pickin' dem ceerful like. Flow'ers should neva be pulled up by de roots you know, Little Missy."

"I did not know", cried Mary Belle, "I did not think it would hurt them."

"It does", said Mammy Sue gravely, "No moah flow'ers will eber grow dere again, when you pulls dem up by de roots, so de fairies jest hab to set some one to watch dem. So they sets Ole Mammy Owl up in de pine trees to scream. Shoo! Shoo! at any little girl what am doing dat."

"Was that Ole Mammy Owl", asked Mary Belle. "I never heard her talk before. Can we go back and see her?"

"We can go back, but ah don't say dat we'll see her; perhaps she's gone home to her babies. It's most neah dinner time for dem." As Mammy Sue talked she led Mary Belle back to the corner of the field where the trilliums lay in a heap. Mary Belle clung tightly to her hand as she peeped up into the pine tree, where not a sign of Old Mammy Owl was to be seen. But in a very few moments they heard her hoarse call, deep back in the woods.

BOY SCOUTS THE WORLD OVER

LOST, A LAKE!

"We've lost our lake!" was the unusual complaint of the boys of a projected Sea Scout Troop at Tillsonburg, following the recent severe flood in that part of western Ontario. The bursting of a dam had swept away their training water, Lake Lisgar.

Too Much Tail-Wag

A dog named Duke, of Huron, Dakota, had his own account at a butcher's shop. All he had to do when he felt peckish was to trot into the shop and wag for a juicy steak. His master paid the bill once a month. The account swelled. So did Duke. He has just died of overeating.

Where Mahogany Comes From

Real mahogany comes from one family of trees of which varieties are found both in Latin America and on the west coast of Africa. About a third of the mahogany imported from Latin America is the true Swietenia, which was introduced to fame when Sir Walter Raleigh brought to Queen Elizabeth a mahogany table on his return from Trinidad in 1595.

SIMS' MIDWAY ATTRACTIONS AT LACHUTE SPRING FAIR

The Sims Greater Exposition Shows are again furnishing the midway attractions for the Lachute Spring Fair. This large outdoor amusement organization, which proved so popular at the Fair last year, has been considerably enlarged for this season and will present new and novel attractions in addition to some of the ones presented last year. One of the new attractions is the Kiddie Auto Ride, where small children, seated in small automobiles and trucks, may ride comfortably and enjoy all the pleasures that older people experience in driving their own cars; the Monkey Speedway, where trained monkeys drive and operate their own racing cars over an oval track at a mile a minute clip. Then there is the Jungle Land, filled with strange and wild beasts and reptiles gathered from all parts of the world; also the big Circus Side Show filled with mystifying attractions and where Madam Ella is featured; and the Showboat, with its thrills and joyous entertainment for both young and old. All the old-time popular riding devices, such as the Merry-Go-Round, Ferris Wheel, Merry Mix Up, are surrounded by their new companions the Caterpillar and Tilt-a-whirl. In addition to all this Mr. Fred W. Sims is this year presenting on his midway two spectacular free attractions—Miss Consuelo, the Spanish Queen of the Air in a thrilling high trapeze act, and Captain Oscar Marchand, the white Demon of the air in a daring leap for life while blindfolded, from a high ladder, into a tank of fire containing less than five feet of water. These acts will be presented each afternoon at 2 and 5 o'clock and at 8 and 11 o'clock each night during the Fair. These acts are presented out in the open and are free to everyone. Be sure and arrange to spend some time on the big midway during your visit to the Fair.

FRANCE TRAVELS

France has gone in for vacations in a big way. It has appointed a director of recreation, who succeeded in obtaining reductions in railway fares as much as 40% for week-ends and holidays. It has been a great success and the smaller hotels and boarding houses are doing a big business. The steamship lines have followed suit and the result is that many people who before could not afford to travel are doing so to their advantage, and at the same time are increasing business to those who serve the travelling public.

MADE IN CANADA

People who are catering for tourists naturally want to attract them. When tourists go away from home they want to see something different and yet our restaurants and hotels use American names and decorate with American flags. The Americans must want something different or they would not leave home. Why not give it to them? You drive along and see hotels and restaurants with such names as New York, Washington, Franklin and so on. There are many lovely Indian place names that would give a distinctive character if they were used. Quebec knows how to make the best of what she has. She is different and features it. She features her maple sugar—and she sells it. Hooked rugs are a specialty and there is co-operation. Every woman does not try to sell her own. Through one section of the province, every few miles you will see a sign '600 rugs for sale'. Always 600! The other provinces might well follow Quebec's example and co-operate. There is good work for the Women's Institutes. Figure out the home products and arrange for their production and sale. Tourists want to take something home but they do not want a souvenir of Canada and find it is 'Made in Japan'.

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE

A piece of cake with strawberries and whipped cream is a very nice dessert but it is not strawberry shortcake. Real shortcake means biscuit dough. You make a large shortcake or individual ones but the essentials are the same. Cut your rounds of biscuit dough, large or small, butter one half of them, place the others on top and bake in a hot oven. Split, butter the split surfaces generously, spread one with sweetened crushed berries, cover with the top half, crust side down, cover this with plenty of strawberries and let stand a little while so that some of the juice may soak in. Serve with whipped cream or pour-cream. My vote is cast for pour-cream but whipped cream looks prettier. A good short-cake calls for generosity. Make a fairly rich biscuit dough and don't be stingy with your butter when you are spreading it after baking. The berries require a little extra sweetening as they must have enough to sweeten the biscuit too. Of course, you can add a tablespoon of sugar to the biscuit dough. No law prevents it. You can if you like beat an egg and use it as a part of the liquid. Try all the varieties and then take a family vote.

MAPLE PARFAIT

1 cup maple syrup
3 eggs
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 pint whipping cream
1/2 cup walnuts chopped fine
Beat egg yolks until thick, add syrup and cook over hot water until thick, stirring constantly. Cool. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and whipped cream and nuts, to the egg mixture. Freeze in tray of refrigerator.

After-Care of Flowering Bulbs

To insure good bloom from the bulbs next year, certain rules should be observed, says House Beautiful Magazine. Remove the flower heads as they wither and keep seed from forming—as this saps the strength of the plant. Give a feeding of a complete balanced plant food immediately after the flowering period, and do not remove the foliage until it begins to turn brown, as the ripening leaves restore food to the bulbs for next year. If there are any of these plants naturalized in the grass, do not let the lawn mower cut the foliage until it has become brown and dry. If annuals are to be planted over and around the bulbs to take their places when the spring bloom is over, they should be shallow-rooting ones which will not send long roots down to disturb the dormant plants. Such is lavender Sweet Alyssum, Lilac Queen—white as it opens, then going to lavender and ending in a purple haze; California Poppy is excellent: annual Drummond's Phlox in all its lovely shades; Verbenas and Petunias. As the planting is an intensive one, fertility of the soil must be maintained by regular feeding.

THE WOMAN'S PAGE

The Tale-Bearer

Of all the contemptible people on earth, the tale-bearer is about the worst—the lowest type of humanity. You know the kind. Mrs. A. goes to Mrs. B. and says that Mrs. C. said so and so about Mrs. B. Which makes Mrs. A. worse than the woman who did the talking in the first place. This seems to thrive among families and in laws. People looking for trouble are sure to find it. Parents and teachers should come down hard on the child who carries tales. Certainly, it is very handy to be told who is causing the trouble, but it is bad training for the child. No adult should encourage it. One teacher of the old school always gave the tale-bearer half the punishment. If we train children not to tell tales, we may be saving them from mischief-making when they grow up. There is no more potent influence than example; and see to it that you are one of those who have the reputation of never telling what the other person said.

Ice Cream—Make Your Own

By Betty Barclay

When the family used to clamor for ice cream, busy housewives felt like staging a sit down strike all their own. But nowadays, modern short cut methods qualify ice cream for a place on every cook's easy-to-make list. Nutritionists give this universal favorite an A1 rating for wholesome nourishment and recommend it for everyday use.

The secret of scoring ice cream triumphs with little effort is to use sweetened condensed milk. It's the perfect ice cream mix, whether you use an automatic refrigerator or crank up the freezer. You need only three ingredients and only one cup of cream to produce the smoothest, creamiest ice cream you ever ate. It's positively guaranteed free of ice crystals. Ice cream made with this magic is so economical you can afford to treat the family several times a week. One can of sweetened condensed milk makes two batches of ice cream in your automatic refrigerator.

ORANGE ICE CREAM (Automatic Refrigerator Method)

1/2 cup sweetened condensed milk
1/2 cup orange juice
1/2 tablespoon grated orange rind
1 cup whipping cream
Blend sweetened condensed milk, orange juice, and grated orange rind thoroughly. Chill. Whip cream to custard-like consistency and fold into chilled mixture. Pour into freezing pan. Place in freezing unit. After mixture is about half frozen remove from refrigerator. Scrape mixture from sides and bottom of pan. Beat until smooth but not until melted. Smooth out and replace in freezing unit until frozen for serving. Serves 6.

CHOCOLATE ICE CREAM (Freezer Method)

2 squares unsweetened chocolate
1 1/2 cups (1 can) sweetened condensed milk
1 cup cold water
2 cups thin cream or evaporated milk
Melt chocolate in top of double boiler. Add sweetened condensed milk and stir over boiling water for five minutes until mixture thickens. Gradually add water and thin cream or evaporated milk. Blend thoroughly. Cool and freeze in 2-quart freezer. Remove dasher. Pack in ice and salt for 1 hour or more after freezing. Makes 1 1/2 quarts.

Nancy Hart's HOME NEWS

The pantry may soon become an architectural "has been", as out of date as the front parlor of the Gay Nineties, a survey of recent home building shows. It's all because of the modern kitchen. This miniature food processing plant has become so efficient that it is now taking over all pantry work in addition to doing its regular duties with more dispatch than ever before.

This development is particularly helpful to the architect who must save space and money in building a house within the limits of a moderate budget. With the emphasis so strongly directed to the small, low cost house, the saving is especially welcome.

Scientific arrangement of kitchen equipment helps the serving problem in that it follows the natural order of operations from the time the grocer boy makes his delivery at the back door until the meal is ready for the dinner table.

In the well planned kitchen, the refrigerator is installed near the back door, the sink next and then the range, nearest the dining room door. Each section has its own storage and working space. The tops of all equipment, including even the range top, are planned as continuous working space with not an inch wasted. Sinks and other working surfaces of monel metal are sound-deadened in order to ease the kitchen clatter and are sufficiently resilient to reduce breakage.

Thus, with kitchen traffic reduced to a minimum, with plenty of work surfaces and with ample storage room for everything, the modern kitchen is making the pantry unnecessary in all but large houses in which entertaining on a wide scale is the rule.

The beauty specialists are out to prove that any woman can wear triumphantly any color, no matter how dramatic and daring she may consider it, by harmonizing her make-up to it. The reaction from black in spring clothes should remind you to brush up on color harmonies. Only the very exotic beauties can afford to be indifferent to the subtle color harmonies in make-up.

Use creams and your make-up everyday, but remember you need fresh air, too, for real beauty. The skin must breathe and absorb the air about it, and it will always reflect the quality and purity of the right atmosphere.

At the end of a tiring day nothing can be more refreshing and relaxing than a hot bath to which a few drops of the new pine bath oil has been added. One of the outstanding features of this perfect bath oil is the fact that it will not soil bath towels.

Insurance companies recognize a relation between baths and longevity and one of them has even issued a booklet on the subject.

Household Hint: When washing pet dogs and cats, dissolve one tablespoonful of baking soda in every two gallons of warm water and add mild soap. It makes the hair light, fluffy and soft.

The Family DOCTOR

Dr. JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D., F.A.C.S.

SUMMER FIRST AID

The day's outing for Mamma and the kiddies. Over on the creek four miles west. Shade and grass; trees and flowers; and—emergencies, for Mamma. She should be prepared, wisely.

For there's Bob; he will drive and he's on the sunny side of the Ford; gets sunburn on the left ear, till it looks like a wheat cake right off the griddle.

Then, Junior, always an explorer, picks up a locust thorn in his most prominent muscle—it penetrates half an inch.

And Clarice, fond of butterflies, gets stung on the upper lip by a new species that she finds buzzing over the horse-mint bloom.

Little Mary insists on carrying the lunch basket many times too heavy for her—trips over a bump—takes off a section of epidermis from one fat knee.

Tom, the profound, none too energetic and peppy—picks up at least a pint of chiggers—and they all depend on Mamma for first aid. All run to Mamma when in distress.

On that day's outing take along a kit containing (1) scissors; (2) a roll of clean adhesive plaster; (3) a bottle of iodine; (4) clean muslin or gauze for bandages; (5) a splinter forcep; (6) a jar of carbolated vaseline; (7) a can of antiseptic dusting powder. Don't rely on liquid vegetable antiseptics—most of them are powerless for killing germs. If a cut finger, let it bleed awhile; then pour iodine into the cut and around it. Dry quickly and apply adhesive plaster to close wound. Treat "skinned" abrasions much the same, except use carbolated vaseline on gauze next the wound.

For the thorn in Junior's flesh—pull it out with splinter forceps; soak the puncture with iodine; cover with adhesive. Treat the chiggers and sunburn at home. Soap and cold-cream applied freely.

Help the Child Tell the Truth

Do you, by mistaken tactics, push your child into telling a lie? When you know perfectly well that he did do it, do you ask him angrily if he did? Frightened, he lies, out of self defence. If you know that the child is guilty, make a statement of fact and not a question. Keep anger out of your voice, and fear from the child; and the chance is that you will get the truth. Truth does not mean as much to a small child as it does to its parents. It is very probable that after the lie has been told, the child finds it difficult to differentiate between what has actually happened and what he said has happened. Help the child to tell the truth by the way you put your questions. Do not give it the added burden of a lie.

Mrs. Arthur Bloxham, of Montreal, was a Sunday guest at the home of Mrs. Peter MacQuaig.

The regular monthly meeting of the Brownsburg Women's Institute was held in the Social Club. Owing to the illness of Mrs. P. Martin, president, the vice-president, Mrs. Wyman McGibbon presided. Much business was discussed. Mrs. H. Painter and Mrs. G. Ball gave good reports on work done by the sick committee. Plans were made for the delegates to attend the Convention at Macdonald College, after which Dr. J. M. Drew gave an interesting paper on "Building the Normal Child". Mrs. Wyman McGibbon thanked Dr. Drew for his instructive paper, which was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

On Tuesday afternoon last Mrs. D. McCullough, accompanied by Mrs. P. MacQuaig and Mrs. H. Painter, attended the Frontier Women's Institute meeting, held at the home of the County President, Mrs. A. Graham.

Mrs. McCullough gave an interesting demonstration on the decorating and icing of cakes. Several members tried to copy Mrs. McCullough's handywork but were unsuccessful, for although this work looks easy it is actually very difficult.

VISITORS TAX ACCOMMODATIONS, ADVENT OF COUNTY EXHIBITION

Injured Saturday in Auto Collision, Lakefield Highway

A head-on collision at Lakefield last Saturday is yet another object lesson for careful driving. The accident occurred near Mr. Thos. Evans' property, when a truck and touring car met on the hill. Both vehicles were badly wrecked, and four of the occupants were treated by Dr. McMartin of Lachute. Mr. Karl Fraser, a Montreale, of the Standard Life Insurance Co., suffered greatest injury, and the party were removed by ambulance to a Montreal hospital for further treatment.

Quebec Farm Bureau Loans Three Millions

New Tourist Booklet Covers Lachute and Northern Section of Argenteuil County

"LAURENTIANS ON PARADE" LISTS HOLIDAY RESORTS OF DISTRICT

"Between Montreal and Ottawa no other town can compete with Lachute from either a scenic or industrial point of view." After Montreal and a brief outline of highway tours to the North, Lachute receives first and most generous mention in a new tourist booklet just issued under the title, "Laurentians on Parade". It is compiled by two hotel proprietors of this county, Messrs. W. G. Rees (Director) and E. M. Schipfel, and is published by Tobin's Travel Bureau, Montreal. The descriptions, layout and illustrations are a credit to the editors, and good art-work is combined to present a brochure which has been a long-felt need in this county.

Aside from a few inaccurate references (One notes particularly the acquisition of a 700-acre estate by Argenteuil Historical Society and a projected museum in Lachute—which should not have been extracted too literally from the daily press), we believe this booklet presents a very fair survey of the territory and a presentation of its tourist attractions which, contrary to style, is not exaggerated. It is remarkable, perhaps, that such errors are

Retail Merchants Assn. Branch Formed in Lachute, H. M. Lavigne Is President

A meeting for the purpose of organizing a section of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada, instituted in this district by Mr. J. W. Cyr of St. Jerome, was held Thursday evening in Lachute Town Hall. Officers elected were: President, H. M. Lavigne, Vice-President, W. K. McArthur; Secretary, Arcade Ethier. Directors—S. S. Campbell; A. E. Ladouceur, St. Andrews East. Substitutes for Congress—H. E. Desjardins, Hector Lamarche, G. Raymond, André St. Amant, Pointe au Chêne; J. F. Fournier, St. Andrews East.

Mr. H. M. Lavigne assumed the chair. Messrs. L. R. Daigeneault, chief organizer, and J. W. Cyr, district organizer, spoke in the interests of co-operative effort, Messrs. Lavigne and McArthur stressing the need from a more local standpoint. It was hoped that the organization would prove beneficial to business conditions in this territory.

"Fair Weather for Fair Week" and Successful Outcome Assured

A QUICK SURVEY OF EXHIBITS AND ATTRACTIONS ON GROUNDS

As Lachute Fair embarked yesterday on its opening day, a survey of livestock entries gave assurance of a keen all-round contest. Large lists were recorded in light horses, cattle, sheep, swine and poultry.

The racing stables gave promise of a full entry in the trotting races billed for Thursday, Friday and Saturday afternoons. The race-course is in excellent condition. The Fred Norman vaudeville bookings, the F. W.

Sims midway and the Grenadier Guards band are already affording a lively interlude for fun-seeking visitors. Sunny weather has so far favored the annual show, and a large attendance is expected during the remaining days.

Hunters, jumpers, carriage horses and roadsters are being judged in the ring each evening, presenting a horse-show of outstanding merit and appeal to spectators.

First Fire Loss This Year — One Bedroom Curtain

The 1937 zero record of fire losses in Lachute was not seriously marred by the outbreak Monday morning, at the residence of L. E. Dumais on Main Street, when a bedroom curtain was destroyed and small damage was done by smoke in the premises.

Mr. Dumais' young son ignited a match, which the father had dropped from his pockets while dressing. The bedroom curtain caught fire, and the fire-brigade were summoned at around 10.30 a.m. Mr. Dumais had extinguished the flames before they arrived, however. He suffered severe burns on one hand in subduing the fire.

Local Exhibitors Triumph, Ormstown Agricultural Fair

Exhibitors from the Lachute district took a fair share of the triumphs in keenly contested classes at the Ormstown Fair last week. Noted among the winners from this section are:

Legault Bros., St. Hermas, who captured firsts in eight out of 18 Holstein classes, and won the junior grand championship with their junior yearling heifer Fresniere Inka Carmella.

Gilbert Arnold, of Grenville, who won all major awards in Percheron horses against very strong competition; also several honors for Belgian horses.

E. K. Wilson, of Lachute Mills, taking second prize in the harness tandem class, light horses.

Ottawa Valley Section of United Church W.M.S. Met at Ste. Therese

Over a hundred ladies representing the various auxiliaries in the Ottawa Valley Section of the Women's Missionary Society, United Church of Canada, met at the Ste. Therese United Church on Thursday, June 10th. Lachute, Brownsburg, Cushing, East Settlement, Ste. Therese and St. Eustache were well represented, and several cars of the Presbyterian and Conference officers journeyed out from Montreal to meet the ladies of this district.

Mrs. E. J. Shearman, sectional Vice-President, acted as chairman and called the meeting to order at 2.30 o'clock. The worship service was conducted by the ladies of Cushing auxiliary, which was followed by the reading of the minutes of the last meeting held a year ago in Lachute. The Chairman expressed her gratitude for the election to the office of sectional Vice-President, and also took occasion to thank the "Lachute Watchman" for their kindness in reporting the various meetings in the district and in making announcement of this one. This splendid gathering was due in a great measure to their co-operation.

Hawkesbury Merchant Shot in Attack by Bandit

Albert Lacroix, business man of Hawkesbury, was held up at midnight Saturday by an armed bandit who fired four shots at him. Two of the shots grazed his right leg and the others went wild. Lacroix was on his way home after closing his butcher shop with the day's receipts of around $200, when the attack occurred. He saved the money by running from the gunman to his home nearby. Local and provincial police are searching for Lacroix's assailant.

With Brownsburg School Pupils on a Day's Outing to the City of Montreal

(By Our Own Correspondent)

INTERESTING TOUR DESCRIBED BY MEMBER OF THE PARTY

Leaving Brownsburg early on Saturday morning, I was fortunate in being one of a party of students who were guests of J. P. Lanctôt, Esq., K.C., and Sir George Perley, on a trip to Montreal. Mr. Lanctôt, speaking about the trip some time previously, said that the idea of taking students on educational tours, to places of historical interest or industrial importance within their own country, was a splendid one. It is a well known fact that Canadians in general are given to under-rating their own attributes, and their country's importance and its position among the nations. A sort of inferiority complex which not only does not do justice to their own beautiful land but exaggerates the importance of the work, the resources, the position and prestige of other countries not one whit more advanced and in some respects away behind their own Canada. This is a condition of affairs which should be corrected, and tours such as the present one, which took students to see the important industries and historical beauties of their own land, was one of the best means of dispelling such self disparagement. Mr. Lanctôt was enthusiastic in arranging for the comfort and facilities which enabled the students to make the trip.

Meeting of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Held at Boston, Mass.

Boston, Mass., June 7.—Progress of Christian Science expressed in the organization and recognition of fifty-nine new churches and societies; in sales increases of 66 per cent for the writings of Mary Baker Eddy, Founder of Christian Science; in an increasingly friendly public thought as reflected by legislative bodies when handling measures involving medical and religious freedom; and in much good healing work, featured reports by church officers at the Annual Meeting of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist.

The election of Judge Clifford P. Smith of Newton, Mass., as Church President for the coming year, and of Edward L. Ripley of Brookline as Treasurer, and Ezra W. Palmer of Marshfield as Clerk, was announced. The President is elected by The Christian Science Board of Directors to serve for one year. His duty is to be presiding officer at the annual meeting.

Securing Government Data on Acreage and Agriculture

In June of each year the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, in co-operation with the Provincial Departments of Agriculture, distributes card board schedules to farmers for the purpose of collecting statistics of acreages under crop and the numbers of live stock and poultry on farms. An innovation of 1931 extended this survey to cover the breeding and marketing intentions with regard to live stock. In all of the provinces, except Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, Alberta and British Columbia, these schedules are distributed to the farmers through the rural school teachers. In these four provinces, the cards are mailed direct to the farmers.

The acreage of field crops, in particular, are the real foundation of this scheme of agricultural production statistics; it is also necessary to have correct knowledge of the numbers of live stock on farms. The accuracy of the compilations is largely dependent upon the obtaining of completed cards from a fair sample of the total number of Canadian farms.

Plowing By Night With Headlights on Farm Tractors

At least three farmers in the Vernon district, near Winchester, Ont., have solved the problem of "catching up" with their spring's plowing, which has been greatly delayed owing to a prolonged wet spell. They have equipped their gasoline tractors with headlights and have found out that it is possible to plow, disc and cultivate the land as efficiently at night as in the daylight. So, by working shifts, these tractors are used until midnight during good weather in order to get the land ready for the spring seeding.

As tractors are not manufactured with headlights attached, one of the farmers near Vernon equipped his tractor with a set of automobile lights, complete with generator, and he says it works perfectly.

Sir George Perley, who on a previous occasion arranged for Brownsburg pupils to visit the House of Parliament at Ottawa and the Experimental Farm, was equally enthusiastic in arranging that the Montreal Harbour could be included in this itinerary. Sir George was of the opinion that "such visits provide them with a lot of information which they could not get otherwise, and the more the incoming generation knows about our country, the better for all of us."

Mr. M. V. Trayers, who arranged the trip and through whom Mr. Lanctôt was approached to provide the opportunity of visiting the Shrine of Bro. André on Mount Royal and the Musée Catholique at Côte des Neiges road, as well as a sumptuous repast at the Harbour, left nothing undone to ensure the pleasure and delight, as well as the educational value, of this day's outing.

After leaving the village the long procession of cars proceeded to Lachute, where a short halt was called to check the numbers of pupils and see that everyone was comfortable on the trip to town. Old Sol smiled down on the happy throng and kept the weatherman on his best behaviour. Some of the children had never been farther than Lachute from their native village and though the journey to Montreal was uneventful it was a happy experience for them. At Cartierville Bridge an escort of police took charge of the procession and directed it to the first stop, at the beautiful Shrine of St. Joseph at Mount Royal. Mr. J. P. Lanctôt, accompanied by Rev. Albert Cousineau of the Shrine, were there to receive the party and offer us a hearty welcome to their city. Mr. Lanctôt had cast the cares of a busy day to one side and wholeheartedly devoted himself to entertaining and instructing his guests. Father Cousineau conducted the party to the hallowed basilica atop the mountain where the Miracle Man of Montreal brought honour, fame, and devotion in such generous measure to this great land which is ours. A model of the Basilica as it will look when completed, was shown to the pupils; it is a wonderful work, all the more wonderful when it is understood that the lowly porter, Bro. André, undertook the erection of this beautiful edifice with a material capital of $200.

Much as we should have liked to linger on the beautiful grounds, time was calling, and soon we were examining an exact representation of the Catacombs of Rome, with all their beautiful paintings and frescoes.

Our reception at the Musée Historique Canadien was a delightful experience. The curator welcomed the pupils and described in general the work and object of the museum, the method by which 200 life-size wax figures were placed in such realistic surroundings, and the painstaking efforts required to procure the truthful presentation which we were shown. We regretted how often we had passed this museum ignorant of the beauties displayed within. So interesting was it that several of us registered a vow to return and view its tableaux at greater length.

Once more on the way, and guided by our courteous police escort, we soon reached the Harbour. Various descriptions as "a marvel of modern engineering skill", as "the best example of modern sea-port organization", and as "one of the most daring and sportsmanlike pieces of commercial enterprise", the Harbour of Montreal is among Canada's most valuable assets.

M. J. Duchastel de Montrouge welcomed us with a sincerity that left no doubt we were welcome. Every member of the party was immediately at ease and our best hope is that we acquitted ourselves in a manner worthy to gain the respect of this amiable and courteous gentleman in a slight measure equal to the lasting impression which his delightful association left with us.

Our first interest were the massive grain elevators. I should like to describe our impressions of this vast enterprise in some detail but—as the promoters of this trip recognized the failure of the written word to convey the glory of this country of ours—so, also, it would be useless to endeavor to convey the importance, the magnitude, the necessity of this organization's work. The concrete wharves and piers, the transit sheds, the cold storage warehouse, the electrified railway system, the paved roadways, the well-lighted thoroughfares, the open and accessible storage spaces, the tugs, pilots, dredges, scows, signal service—all that constitutes this super-efficient organization for shipping, receiving, transshipping and storing of merchandise. From the cold storage plant to see the unloading of a boat. To make the acquaintance of some of those tramps which roam the seven seas, to view one which had no home port, and which the fortunes of war condemned to ride the ocean wave except occasionally to enjoy the hospitality of some friendly country, such as ours was offering that day.

Luncheon in one of the shells, which had been prepared for that purpose; a few short speeches; Mr. Trayers' thanking Monsieur Duchastel for and on behalf of us all; thanking Mr. Lanctôt who had expended time and money in entertaining us; and Sir George Perley who secured permission to visit the Harbour. Mr. Staniforth, our genial principal, replying and seconding Mr. Trayers' vote of thanks. Mr. Proulx of the Catholic School doing likewise on behalf of the French. Mr. J. P. Lanctôt telling of the pleasure which it gave him to entertain us, of the good it should lead to, learning of our country first-hand. Mr. Duchastel de Montrouge, concluding with a pleasant resumé of the day's experiences, and a cheery good-bye to the Harbour. Such were the incidents which led us to the conclusion of our visit. On the way home we visited the Chalet on top of Mount Royal, whisked through the streets of Montreal regardless of traffic lights or regulations. The freedom of the City was ours for the day. At the Chalet we said farewell to our genial host, Mr. Lanctôt, and—home.

Among those of our party were—Mr. A. Carrier; A. Brunelle who had charge of the French pupils; Rev. Sister Helene de la Passion, Congregation of the Holy Cross, who had charge of the girls; Mr. J. Lambert, Mr. S. Thompson, Mr. A. Robins, Mr. B. Fariseau, Mr. Hardy and the various teachers of both schools, with over one hundred pupils.

PREMIER HEPBURN'S SPLIT WITH PARENT PARTY NO SERIOUS THREAT TO LIBERAL FORTUNES

"The Ottawa Spotlight"

By Wilfrid Eggleston

Ottawa, June 15 — It is too soon to tell how much damage to the federal Liberal party has been done by the public renunciation of Premier Hepburn, who 'told the world' that he was no longer a follower of Mackenzie King. One rather awkward consequence is that in the past the federal Liberals have always relied upon the provincial Liberal associations for their election organization. Premier Hepburn has made it clear that in cutting the painter from the federal party ship he takes his organization along with him, and it would seem as though the federal Liberals must face the need of setting up their own machinery for the next general election.

There is no doubt, the sweeping victory of Premier Hepburn in 1934 made it considerably easier for the Mackenzie King federal party to secure such a large representation in Ontario the following year. Anything which splits the Liberals in Ontario is equally likely to cut the Liberal standing there. A provincial election will hardly delay making an appeal to the people beyond 1938.

CENTRE DOMINATING PARTY

If the federal Liberal party is doomed to lose thirty or forty seats in the next federal election, there is much to be said for losing them in the central provinces, according to the view of some commentators. During the last session the Liberal party here showed grave signs of becoming much more Tory in sentiment than it used to be, and the explanation which one got was that the Liberal party was now dominated by Ontario and Quebec, instead, as formerly, by Western Canada and the Maritimes. Naturally, such a shift of influence would have profound effects on tariff policies and such things. In other words, it might be a healthy thing for the future of the Liberal party if its representation in Ontario and Quebec did fall a little, so long as it could maintain its strength elsewhere.

This, however, is looking a long way ahead. There are conflicting views here, as to whether Premier Hepburn strengthens his own position by repudiating federal discipleship. He loses some support from the personal followers of Mackenzie King in Ontario, who might now be inclined to view a contest between Hepburn and Rowe with some indifference. The federal observers consider that the Ontario premier hopes to convert sufficient votes from the Conservative rural areas and in big business circles to offset any losses from organized labor and Mackenzie King Liberals. Time will tell whether his calculation is a shrewd one.

A SIGH OF RELIEF

Meantime, after the first shock and realization of loss was faced at the capital, there was a distinct sigh of relief at Mr. Hepburn's announcement. He has been something of a thorn in the flesh of Mackenzie King and Hon. Norman Rogers, principally over his attitude toward organized labour; and his inclination toward a working alliance with Premier Duplessis would have been an equally serious embarrassment to the federal ministry. The attitude assumed by Messrs. Hepburn and Duplessis toward the problems of the day is in many respects the very antithesis of traditional Liberalism. There was always the danger that people would fail to discriminate between the doctrines of Premier Hepburn and those of Messrs. King and Rogers, and the sins of the former might, on election day, be visited upon the latter. So say the scribes.

Indeed, one hears it said that if Premier Hepburn had not come out publicly with his renunciation of Mackenzie King leadership, it might have been necessary for the federal prime minister or the Minister of Labour in their turn to repudiate the labour doctrines of Messrs. Hepburn and Duplessis. Now that is probably unnecessary.

The ripple thrown on Federal political waters, therefore, by the Hepburn pronouncement was much fainter than might have been expected. The federal Liberals feel to some extent that it is Premier Hepburn's funeral, not theirs.

Meantime the report, circulated via a Toronto financial paper, that a Gardiner-Hepburn alliance was looming as the next major move in federal politics has been given little credence. Hon. J. G. Gardiner has made it clear that while he holds no ill-will toward Mr. Hepburn, the rumor so far as he was concerned was more laughable than credible.

Rumor Sauvé For Post of Attorney-General

Following an announcement by Premier Duplessis that he would retain the portfolio of Lands and Forests, it is rumored now that the portfolio of Attorney-General, which is also held by the Prime Minister, will go to Hon. Paul Sauvé, now Speaker of the Legislative Assembly.

The member for Two Mountains, though still a very young man, has been a member of the Legislative Assembly in the two last Legislatures and is considered very highly amongst the leaders of his party. His appointment to the post mentioned would be in accordance with tradition, which, as a rule, awards a portfolio to the first commoner.

Mrs. C. G. McLellan, of Montreal, and first president of the Ste. Therese W.M.S., welcomed the visitors to Ste. Therese. Mrs. Eby also spoke on behalf of the Ste. Therese W.M.S. A number of interesting addresses were heard from the members of auxiliaries in the district and from special speakers. Mrs. Ashbury of Montreal spoke on finance and suggested further use of the monthly envelopes. Mrs. Mitchell reported that the Presbyterian was $1000 in advance of last year for the first quarter and expressed desire that this good work be continued. Mrs. F. S. MacGibbon of Lachute gave an interesting report of the Conference Branch meetings at Cornwall. Mrs. Sutherland of Montreal, and Conference Branch President, gave a number of most interesting word pictures of the visit to the Dominion Board meetings in Toronto. Miss Brand, Home Missionary at the Church of All Nations in Montreal, gave a comprehensive talk on the work among the Ukrainians, both in Montreal and at Smoky Lake in Alberta. Mrs. Richardson urged the use of the Missionary Monthly and suggested its wider circulation and use. Mrs. W. J. Scott of Montreal, and Presbyterian President, brought greetings from the Presbyterian Officers and encouraged the small groups to continue in their efforts in the work of the W.M.S.

Greetings from various other women's organizations were given—the W.C.T.U. by Mrs. Usher of Cushing, the Women's Institute by Mrs. A. Graham, Cushing. Greetings were sent to Miss Mary Lamb, of St. Andrews East, now stationed as a missionary in West China, and Mrs. W. Y. King, missionary on furlough at present residing in Cushing. Tea was served by the ladies of Ste. Therese and St. Eustache auxiliaries at the home of Mrs. W. D. Morris, Ste. Therese.

Funeral Tribute to a Great Statesman

"Canada and the Empire are poorer today by reason of Sir Robert Borden's death, but Canada and the Empire—and All Saints Church and Parish—are the richer for his exemplary life," stated Major the Rev. C. G. Hepburn, rector of All Saints Church, Ottawa, in the memorial service held in honor of the distinguished statesman last Sunday.

"The thought uppermost in our minds" said the preacher, "is not one of sorrow, save for the gallant partner who shared his life so closely and stood nobly by his side throughout his long and distinguished service. This is, then, a time of thanksgiving and sacred remembrance, but it is also a time for dedication. The old guard are passing from us."

"Happily some others like Sir Robert are still with us; such have given and are giving us a noble example. They held fast to Christian truth and to high standards of good conduct. They knew full well that it is 'righteousness alone which exalteth a nation'. They held high the torch of the true nobility of life, the aristocracy of character. May we not therefore—as we remember 'the spirit of just men made perfect', those who have fought a good fight, those who have kept the faith and those who have finished their course upon earth—may we not thank God for their noble example?"

The Human Touch

The fact that Warner Baxter and William Powell stood by Jean Harlow in her last illness will do a lot more for the film folks by way of favorable publicity than a million dollars worth of ballyhoo "copy."

Still Room on the Farm

The young men and women of our graduating classes now going out to sell themselves in the "wide, wide world" are expected to be more successful than those graduated during the past five or six years.

We are assured of this not only by Commencement Day speakers but by economists and industrial leaders as well.

However, for the good of the country, it is to be hoped that not all the available jobs will be filled by this year's graduates.

Thousands of young men and women of the "lost generation", who have entered lines of activity inferior to their training, should be given opportunities to get into normal ways of earning a livelihood.

Many of this year's high school classes in the smaller communities will fit happily into farm life. Two carefree seventeen-year-olds pitching quoits the other day reminded us that forty years ago the majority of young men in country villages expected to be happy in the country. Only now and then did one seek "fame and fortune" in the city.

It is reported that air-cooling has reached such perfection in theatres across the line that patrons pull their coat collars tightly about their necks for fear of catching cold!

Closing Event of Carpet Bowling Season

The last gathering of carpet bowlers for the season was held Tuesday evening at McArthur's Hall, around 60 people enjoying a social evening and dancing. Incidentally, what is considered one of the most interesting games of the year was played between the league champions (I.O.O.F.) and all-star bowlers.

Mr. H. Stansfield, secretary, gave a report of the league standing (published in the preceding column), and Mr. W. Cross, president of the league, presented the trophy to Mr. R. McArthur, Noble Grand of the I.O.O.F. Laurentian Lodge.

Dancing was enjoyed, to the strains of Lowe's seven-piece orchestra from Grenville, and refreshments were served.

Players and scores in the evening's game were:

Workman Fell from Steeple

Both legs broken when he fell 25 feet from the steeple of the new church at Ste. Monique, near St. Jerome, on Saturday morning, Ernest Lamoureux, 22, was taken to a Montreal hospital for treatment. Lamoureux was on one wall of the unfinished steeple of the church being built to replace one destroyed by fire last fall, when he slipped and fell. Other workmen placed him in an automobile and rushed him to the hospital. They thought an arm was also broken but examination showed that both legs were fractured and the arm bruised.

Work Commences Here on Trans-Canada Highway

Mr. George Héon has been informed by the Minister of Roads that the Lachute - Grenville contract has been awarded to Mr. Charles Raymond, well-known contractor of Montreal, who has a summer home at Sixteen Island Lake.

The engineering staff has arrived and the crews are going to work immediately. Men will be called according to a prepared list, and Mr. Héon asks that prospective workers be patient and not call at his offices in too great numbers, so as to give him a chance to proceed unhampered with the organizing of work and distribution of jobs to needy families.

Sequel to Recent Robberies

The suspect in the series of thefts, in which the Attorney-General had ordered an inquiry, was brought before Magistrate Lalonde here at Lachute this morning.

Crown Attorney George Héon informed the Court that the Attorney-General was anxious to give the accused all the safeguards which British justice provides, and that upon the report of the jail physician that the accused had shown signs of mental derangement, the Crown did not feel itself justified in proceeding against him before making sure that he was mentally fit to stand trial.

Consequently, the accused was remanded without bail, to allow physicians to make the usual mental examination.

A Blackfoot Indian Boy Scout, Arthur Yellow Fly, of the Old Sun School Scout Troop at Gleichen, Alta., has been recommended for recognition for rousing and helping save the lives of his father and two young brothers when their home was burned, during a night in April. A baby brother and a farm hand could not be reached in time.

Funeral of Late Mrs. W. Todd, Resident of East Settlement

Lifelong Resident of Dalesville Laid to Rest

LATE MRS. JAS. BIGELOW

The death of Mrs. James Bigelow, formerly Elizabeth Jane MacGibbon, occurred on Friday, June 11th., at the home of her sister, Mrs. Gordon Townsend, Brownsburg, after an illness of three months.

Mrs. Bigelow was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John McGibbon of Dalesville, and had spent her entire life in that community. She was in her 55th year.

She leaves to mourn her loss one son, Maxie, and her sister, Mrs. Gordon Townsend. Her husband predeceased her two years ago.

The funeral was held on Saturday, June 12th., in the Dalesville Baptist Church, conducted by the pastor, Rev. C. Hardie, assisted by Rev. E. H. Young of Maple Ave. Baptist Church, Brownsburg. The pall-bearers were her son, Maxie, brother-in-law, Gordon Townsend, and Messrs. John and Albert Dixon, W. H. Morrow and Robt. Silverson.

Re-opening Services at Brownsburg United Church

Services celebrating the re-opening of Brownsburg United Church, recently decorated, will be held next Sunday at 11 a.m. and 2.30 p.m. The special preacher for the morning service will be the Rev. Chas. Este of Montreal. In addition to the music by the choir Miss Clem Hackett, also of Montreal and a graduate from the Julliard School of Music, New York, will sing. Rev. S. J. Pike, minister, will conduct the service. The Sunday School will meet at 10.40 a.m. in order to attend the morning service in a body.

At 2.30 p.m. there will be a Sacred Recital in the auditorium, when Miss Hackett will render a number of spirituals and other selections. Rev. Mr. Este, who is gifted in poetic verse, will also take part. The afternoon recital will last just one hour. A cordial invitation is extended to the public. In view of the afternoon gathering, the evening service will be cancelled.

New Tourist Booklet

Merchants, hotel-keepers and businessmen have given generous advertising support. Authentic views and photographs add a distinct appeal to the pages, while diagrams are given of the various motor routes. The northern section of Argenteuil receives a well-deserved boost, and it is hoped that "Laurentians on Parade" will fulfill its purpose in attracting a greater tourist trade to the locality.

The editors admit that, with the limited time at their disposal, it was difficult to turn out "a 100 per cent job." They hope to do better next year. Nevertheless, The Lachute Watchman extends its congratulations on this highly commendable effort.

C-I-L DISPLAY PRESENTS AN INTERESTING STUDY

THE INTER-RELATION OF WIDELY DIFFERENT PRODUCTS

The chemical affinity between such widely diversified products as explosives, salt, paint and fertilizer will not be apparent to those who visit the Lachute Fair and glance in passing at the display of these commodities manufactured by Canadian Industries Limited, exhibited at the Lachute Fair booth, yet there is a certain inter-relationship which in practice makes for economic manufacture.

What, for instance, has salt to do with explosives? It is used as a flame quencher in the brand of explosives used in coal mines. And the nitro-cellulose in a modified form used in the making of gelatinous explosives is mixed with solvents and other ingredients in the manufacture of such weather-resisting paints as "Duco" and "Dulux", used so extensively for automobile finishes. Then there is a decided relationship between explosives and fertilizer, for at Beloeil, Que., the fertilizer plant of C-I-L is located on the same property as the explosives plant in order that it may utilize the spent sulphuric acid in the process of making superphosphate, which farmers use with such beneficial results.

The story of the chemical industry is that of basic materials, something like the conjurer's hat, from which the chemist produces all manner of everyday things.

How Are Your Brakes?

You need 40 feet to stop your car at 20 miles an hour; 73 feet at 30 miles and 115 feet at 40 miles. At 50 miles you will need 166 feet—and if you keep on climbing in speed eventually you will need only "five or six feet" — depending upon your height. Moreover, you will be stopped for good.

—Chatham News

Serious-minded agriculturists flock to the annual Exhibition to inspect new livestock—the recent purchases that have brought new blood to county herds, and importations which have added prestige to farmers' stock. These far-reputed additions are a drawing card to animal fanciers. There are Fair-goers who thrill to the action of prize-winning hunters and jumpers—who revel in the pacing of hackneys and carriage horses. There are patrons who gather on Saturday, the final day, solely to witness the grand parade of horses and cattle, a show-ring climax to four days of difficult judging. . . . Visitors of this type are amply repaid, for Lachute Spring Fair attracts a quality of entries which stands comparison with any rural show and, indeed, with several of the larger expositions such as Toronto and Ottawa.

Perhaps younger in years and lighter in spirit are the thousands who visit Lachute Fair for its recreational side-lights, and the fair-grounds offer in this seasonal event an atmosphere that is unique in its gaiety. The glamor of the circus and the rousing strains of a military band are comparatively strange to this countryside. The soap-box oratory of medicine vendors and the ballyhoo of the box-office—they come but once a year; and in this exotic combination, with its flavor of Romany and romance, plain country folks find a rare fascination. . . . Those who attend the Fair for its fun and entertainment may conveniently refer to the following schedule of amusements:

Grandstand Events, Vaudeville, Racing and Midway Features

FREE DANCING in the dancing pavilion. A piper and two fiddlers specially engaged for old-time and modern tunes. Open each afternoon and evening.

TROTTER RACES—A fine list of race entries, running Thursday, Friday and Saturday afternoons, commencing at 2.30 o'clock, on the fair-grounds track.

HORSE SHOWS—Every evening in the show-ring. High-steppers, hunters, carriage horses and turn-outs—one of the prettiest features of the Exhibition—around the judges' box and in full view of the grandstand.

SIMS MIDWAY—The Sims Greater Exposition Shows include such properties as the Merry-Go-Round, Ferris Wheel, and Merry-Mix-Up, together with new additions this year—the Tilt-A-Whirl, Caterpillar, Kiddies' Auto Ride and Monkey Speedway. . . . Jungle Land, menagerie of wild beasts and reptiles, and several exciting side-shows.

TRAPEZE AND DIVING ACTS—Two free spectacles presented by the Sims Shows, at 2 and 5 o'clock each afternoon, 8 and 11 o'clock each evening—Spanish Queen of the Air, trapeze artist; and Capt. Oscar Marchand leaping, blind-fold, into a flaming tank.

GRENADIER GUARDS BAND under Lieutenant J. J. Gagnier, radio performers and famous among military bands of Eastern Canada, playing in the bandstand during the remaining days of Lachute Fair.

GRAND PARADE of all cattle and horses in the ring, Saturday afternoon. Every exhibit in cattle and horse classes to be led in this parade—one of the outstanding spectacles of the agricultural show.

FIREWORKS—A colorful display of pyrotechnics after dark on Thursday and Friday evenings. In the event of wet weather, will be postponed until Saturday evening.

Recital by Music Pupils

(Intended for last issue)

Arundel—The pupils of Miss Mildred Hyde gave a pleasing recital at the home of Mrs. A. J. Staniforth on Saturday evening, May 29th. Selections from Bilbro, Preston, Ketterer, Johnson, Matthew, Rogers, Hins, Englemann, Armstrong, Schubert, Heller, Krogmann, Morrison and Beethoven were played by Janet Henry, Mary MacArthur, Billy Morrison, Val Swail, Vera Evans, Ada Evans, Jean Morrison, Eunice Morrison and the Misses Ruby Cooke, Dorothy Kerr, Marjorie Findlay.

Bedroom Should Be Restful to Occupant

Psychologists claim that the room in which we sleep is important to our rest. Certainly a tastefully decorated room may give us a satisfaction that is restful to the spirit.

How often is there some detail of a room that disturbs the occupant, yet nothing is done about it. A wallpaper that isn't suitable—a badly planned closet—worn floors. It is not necessary for the housewife to feel that depleted finances prevent the righting of such wrongs. Under the Home Improvement Plan funds may be obtained from any Canadian bank for improvements, alterations or additions to homes.

A bedroom in one house was changed from "just another room" to an interesting sleeping apartment. The walls were repapered in soft green with silver flowers. The white woodwork was changed to silvery grey and the floors were scraped, finished and waxed. Electric outlets were placed conveniently, allowing lamps to be placed at useful points.

A novel arrangement of the furniture added to the improvements of the room. A dressing table was placed directly under the window and the beds placed on opposite sides of the room. The rug was the same tone as the walls, and bedcovers were of a soft blue. The furniture was dark walnut. With little expense, a bedroom was obtained that was a source of pride to the owner and a room definitely created for rest.

Human Betterment Foundation

The purpose and activities of the Human Betterment Foundation are to investigate the results and possibilities for human betterment by a safe, conservative application of the discoveries made by science, and to give this information to the public. Its first major problem is to promote the investigation of the possibilities of race betterment. The foundation is not designed to take up original scientific research work.

The First Sleeping Car

The first sleeping car was used in 1830 when the Cumberland Valley railroad of Pennsylvania installed a sleeping car service between Harrisburg and Chambersburg. The sleeping car was an adaptation of an ordinary day coach to sleeping requirements. The first fundamental improvement came in 1855, when George Pullman remodeled two Chicago & Alton coaches into sleeping cars.

Preferred Pronunciations

Nearly all preferred pronunciations have a reason for the preference which real teachers include in their dictation. When we note that the allies are those who ally, the reason for the accent is made plain. Then, precedence is the state of those who precede, no there is no excuse for precedence.

Where Beauty Rules

From time immemorial Arles, France, has been the home of beautiful women. It is one place where feminine beauty is so general that it becomes monotonous.

Marking of Historic Sites

Ottawa—More than a thousand sites of Canadian historic interest have been considered and over three hundred have been recommended for marking and preservation by the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada—a group of eminent citizens who are recognized as authorities on the history of the different sections of the Dominion which they represent. This Board co-operates with the National Parks Bureau of the Department of Mines and Resources in the work of selecting sites worthy of marking, and from the Atlantic to the Pacific stirring events in the history of Canada are being recalled by tablets and monuments erected by the government.

Canada has been fortunate in saving these memorials before it was too late. By the selection of sites commemorative of events of outstanding importance in the history of the Dominion, not only are they preserved for the education of future generations, but as constant reminders of the glories and sacrifices of the past they contribute to national pride and love of country.

Maimonides, Philosopher,

Thinker of Middle Ages

The name of Maimonides, it safely may be presumed, is familiar to thousands of students of history, literature and philosophy. He was the greatest Jewish thinker of the Middle Ages, and the influence of his life and work still is operative in the minds of men.

Maimonides, as it happens, says a writer in the Washington Star, transcended the ordinary boundaries of his profession, place and time. He was, indeed, a universal character. A native of Cordova, Spain, he spent his better years at Cairo serving as physician to Saladin and as leader of the Jewish of Egypt, pursuing researches in the sacred writings of his race, in mathematics and astronomy, and corresponding with scholars and common folk throughout the world as it then was known.

But his inquiring genius reached out to embrace Aristotle, and it was one of his objectives to reconcile Talmudic doctrines with Greek ideals. In the end he constituted in himself a focal point for the richest and most vigorous thought of three different civilizations—Hebraic, Arabic and Hellenic.

Naturally enough, the scholars of the next succeeding era found him useful in their search for philosophic truth. St. Thomas Aquinas, Duns Scotus and Albertus Magnus quoted from him. And their spiritual descendants likewise reproduced the golden values of his teachings, gradually refining them in the light of their increasing knowledge until all the inevitable dross of the Twelfth century had been cleared away. Even Spinoza, the so-called "heretic," preserved his reverence for Maimonides when conscience led him to reject the primitive doctrines of less liberal Hebrew sages.

Britain's Constitution

Marked by Certain Laws

The British constitution is mainly unwritten and customary, observes a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer, but its development is marked by certain outstanding and fundamental laws, of which the principal ones are the Magna Charta, adopted in 1215, which secured annual parliaments and the equal administration of justice; the habeas corpus act, adopted in 1679, securing the liberty of the person; the act of settlement, in 1701, providing for the Protestant succession to the throne; the act of union with Scotland, 1707, the act of union with Ireland, 1800; the parliament act of 1911, which enabled the commons to pass certain acts without the concurrence of the other chamber; the government of Ireland act, 1920, and the Irish Free State (agreement) act of 1922.

The constituent parts of the British constitution describe the sovereign, the legislature, the executive and the judiciary.

BRUCE BARTON Says

IT LOOKS EASY, BUT IS IT?

A friend, who is president of a watch company, tells me that fifty-nine concerns have been engaged in the manufacture of watches in America in the past hundred years, and that only three survive. The automobile industry has a similar story. Count up some day the cars you can remember which now are no more; it will surprise you.

There is no such thing as the terrible "profit system" against which the reformers make so much fuss. There is a "profit and loss system", and the losses in any industry, over a period of years, probably are greater than the profits. Making money is not easy. Since my graduation from college I have taken a speculative shot at about a dozen side-line businesses. They all looked very promising, but with one exception they were total flops.

GETTING THE "BREAKS" MERITS NO PRAISE

About twenty years ago two young men came down to New York from the same New England college. Both were honor men in their class; one captained the football team, and the other set a new college record in the hundred yard dash. In looks, character, and all-around ability there was nothing to choose between them. All through the years they have remained good friends.

The other day an observer remarked: "Those two had an equally good start, yet one of them has made a fortune and the other barely scrapes along."

My reply was that the difference in their financial status has no significance whatever. "Pure chance," I said, and I believe I was right. One of them stepped into the automobile business just at the right moment. To be sure, he worked hard, but the industry was growing so fast it had to have more executives, and every time it expanded it pushed him up. The other went to work in a textile mill. He certainly works as hard as his ex-classmate, but he happened to choose an industry that has been in more or less chronic trouble ever since the war.

My observation of self-made rich men is that about two-thirds of them are good fellows who know they have got along better than they deserve and are correspondingly grateful and unpretentious. The other third think that the Almighty gave them a double quota of brains. They become dogmatic on every subject discussed and are often a public nuisance.

Whenever a successful man develops a case of swelled head, you can take it as a sign that his success is probably an accident. He happened to be under the tree when the coconut fell. He was playing on the beach, and a wave came in and wet him.

Many Uses for Cacti

Cacti are put to many uses. They furnish fruit known as Indian figs. Some cactus plant pulps of the texture of melon rind are made into preserves like orange or citron peel and sold or made into candy. From other cacti drugs used medicinally, or deadly poisons, are extracted. The lophophorus yields peyote that temporarily turns its addicts into irresponsible madmen. Some sturdy cactus structures serve as fence posts, timbers for mine, or even as material for Indian huts. Cacti use really ranges from seeds ground into flour for food to living plants set thickly for impenetrable fences.—Los Angeles Times.

The Gaelic Word "Bailie"

The Gaelic word "Bailie" (pronounced "Bail-ya"), meaning a town, was formerly used to denote any group of dwellings or settlements larger than a mere village and the name of the local chief was added, says Pearson's Weekly. Thus we have Bailie-martin, Bailie-honan, etc. Where there was no local lord or chief of sufficient importance to be thus honored, the town was distinguished by some peculiarity of the surrounding neighborhood, e.g., Bail-na-hinch—or Bailynabinch—"the town-of-the-islands."

SCIENCE ends DANGER of hot homes!

New discovery reduces temperature up to 15° on hottest days

FROM the Johns-Manville laboratories has come an amazing new insulation, a light, fluffy wool-like substance that is actually blown from rock. It looks like cotton, but is a pure mineral, with all the characteristics of its stony origin—clean, fireproof, vermin-proof, permanent, odorless.

When installed in your attic floor or ceiling, it forms a heat-proof barrier more than 3 inches thick.

SOLID ROCK BECOMES WOOL

From solid rock Johns-Manville makes an insulation that is both modern and really livable. Limestone is actually blown into a light, fluffy wool, and felted into bales that have all the appearance of cotton batting.

Results are astounding. Hot homes become delightfully cool, and you can depend on savings up to 30% on your fuel bills in winter. Experts agree that only full-wall thickness rock wool will protect homes against heat and cold in a truly scientific way.

Phone us today, and let us tell you how little it will cost to make your home really livable every day in the year. There is no obligation.

Re-roof with Colorful J-M Asphalt Shingles

PLAY safe and enjoy the security of a beautiful, new roof of weather-proof, fire-resistant Johns-Manville Asphalt Shingles.

Let us tell you how little it costs. And remember, you can finance this and many other home improvements on convenient monthly terms, with no down payment, under the Johns-Manville "$1,000,000-to-Lend" Plan.

A Canadian Locomotive Initiated Service on Vatican Railway

An editorial in the Brockville Recorder and Times some time ago illustrated that the distribution of products from our industries is not wholly known to the average Canadian. One instance of this far-reaching market is revealed in a booklet by the Montreal Locomotive Works. The Brockville newspaper made comment as follows:

We were surprised to learn from a booklet issued by that well known Canadian industrial concern, the Montreal Locomotive Works, that when the Vatican Railway was opened in Rome, the locomotive presented to haul the train of His Holiness the Pope was one which had been built in the Montreal plant for Italian railway service.

This particular locomotive was not, of course, the first to be built in Canada for foreign service. As a matter of fact, of the 2,900 locomotives that have been produced by the Montreal company since it began operations, 421 have been for foreign delivery and locomotives built there are now serving with much satisfaction on the railways of many European, African, Central and South American countries.

When it is remembered that the Canadian locomotive-manufacturing industry is relatively small and that it has not been in existence for more than half a century, before which time most of the locomotives in service on Canadian roads were imported from either the United States or Great Britain, it speaks well for Canadian locomotive design and workmanship that its products should be in such widespread demand. The reason for this undoubtedly lies in the fact, as the booklet well says, that "the modern steam locomotive used in Canada is on a par with the finest locomotive found in any other country. Canadians have designed and applied to the steam engine many features which have increased efficiency and economy in operation, making the steam locomotive pre-eminent in the field of railway haulage."

The locomotive in regular service to-day hauls vastly more tonnage at speed than did the locomotive built even ten years ago. There is a lower rate of fuel and water consumption for each gross ton mile of train haulage. These locomotives are capable of making higher monthly mileage, year after year, than did their predecessors and they show lower maintenance and repair costs. It was a Canadian railway which first adopted the type of superheater that survived all tests and that has since been applied to approximately 55,000 locomotives in America. Canadian engineers were among the first to recognize the advantages of trailing truck locomotives. They introduced the vestibule cab and later the use of high tensile steel for boiler plates.

The Montreal concern is authority for the statement that more than 50 percent of the locomotives now owned by Canadian systems are hopelessly out-dated. Yet with improved business conditions, more efficient operation of both freight and passenger services will be essential especially since traffic to-day goes to the transportation agency which provides the most expeditious delivery from factory to destination. It is quite apparent that a programme of locomotive replacement in Canada is considerably overdue. When it is inaugurated, the system will have the advantage of possessing motive power, built with special regard for Canadian conditions, which will be fully the equal of anything in service elsewhere.

Catches Deer in His Arms

While working on Highway No. 10 at Springhill — reports the Dundalk Herald — Robert Vause, gravel trucker, had the remarkable experience of catching a year-old deer. The animal, which was quite tired, presumably from being chased by dogs, had tried to jump the highway fence but failed. It was walking along the fence, looking for an opening, with its attention drawn to three men who had momentarily left their work to see how close they could get to the deer. In the meantime Bob got in front of the animal and it practically walked into his arms, not realizing that he was there. It put up quite a struggle before it was downed. It was released in a few minutes and almost broke the new speed limit as it rushed down the highway in its regained freedom.

Friendly Insects That Your Garden Needs

The impulse to kill anything seen in the garden that crawls or creeps should be modified, says House Beautiful, as much of this insignificant plant life is friendly in the extreme. The following minute garden visitors are welcome, as they feed on many larvae and adult pests. Lady-bird beetles destroy lice and scale insects; hornets feed almost entirely on insects; frogs and toads go after slugs and insects; lizards live on small beetles; spiders like flies and small moths; wasps not only eat insects themselves but use them as food for their young; ground beetles dig through the earth for insects that go into the soil to pupate (rose bugs); bees carry pollen back and forth and are indispensable to the garden and orchard; tree crickets feed on plant lice; dragon flies hover in the air hunting for injurious insects. All these insects should be encouraged.

A FACT

Employer—My boy, I started out of college on the theory that the world had an opening for me.

Office Boy—And you found it, sir?

Employer—I did. In fact, I'm in the hole right now.

"You've been watching me for three hours," he said. "Why don't you try fishing yourself?" "What, me?" cried the watcher. "Not likely. I ain't got the patience."

FAST AND LOOSE

An old dandy approached the minister cautiously and very lightly tapped his shoulder.

"Parson, suh," he said, "Ah wants you all to pray for me. Ah's in a bad way, suh."

"Well, Rastus, what's wrong with you?"

"Suh, Ah's got a floating kidney, Ah has, suh."

"But, Rastus," replied the minister, "I can't pray for physical things like that; I only pray for spiritual things."

"You all can't pray for a floating kidney? Then how come you all prayed last Sunday for the loose livers?"

BECOMES VISCOUNT
Viscount Samuel, better known as Sir Herbert Samuel, Leader of the British Liberals for many years, who has taken his seat in the House of Lords.

No 'Keeping Up With the Jones' in This Community

Competitionless, debtless, depressionless, crimeless. — Such is the record of Bangor, P.E.I., where 600 souls live in a community as one family. The money that is earned at fishing and farming is deposited in a general fund at Morell. Nobody carries money. Every man is a preacher, in his turn. This experiment is 24 years old and was established by the father of the present patriarch, John Compton. The group is a thrifty one. 217 buildings, a general store, a church and a community hall constitute the village. All have Scotch ancestors.

There are certain things about this community which are just about ideal. How can you account for "no crime", for instance? Is it because there is no "keeping up with the Jones" and hence no temptation to acquire more than is needed to keep body and soul together? Or is it because every man must take his turn as preacher? This fact would of course have a tonic effect on the citizen's attitude toward wrong doing, as he would feel that he would at least have to try to measure up to the ideals he set forth. (The number of clergymen in the jails of any country is a very infinitesimal portion of one percent of the profession.)

Is such a community an advance pattern of what communities will one day be? Or is it just a little more successful remnant of a movement which has been dying out because faulty in its basic principles?

In this day of changing human relationships and social experiments, Bangor, P.E.I., might repay closer study. This much we hazard: The success of the venture is not so much due to the mechanical set-up as it is to the spiritual attitude of the co-operators.

BRIDGE OF SIGH

This is a true bridge story: She was only a beginner, but she meant to keep her end up, and so she was not at all abashed when her partner said, "Do you know you revoked?"

"Well," she replied, after a short but impressive pause, "what of it? I had my reasons."

Ground Sloth Numerous

Millions of Years Ago

Ground sloths, strange lumbering beasts that the first human inhabitants of this continent may have hunted, were immigrants like the men, but they came from the opposite direction. Human migration came from the north west, from Asia; ground sloths came earlier, and from the southwest, from tropical America (where the strange race of beasts had their first home).

Sloths lived long in South America without appearing on the northern continent, because through millions of years of the earlier part of the Age of Mammals there was a wide area of sea between North and South America.

When this closed over, perhaps thirty million years ago, intermigration of animals began between the two continents, and the first sloths appeared in North America. These developed four distinct genera, which ranged in size from a six-month calf to a short-legged elephant. The last of them became extinct a relatively short time ago; the skeleton of one of them found in New Mexico and now in the Yale museum, still has its ligaments and part of its skin.

In South America also the group survived until the coming of man. Faded in Patagonia, in a cave, there were found large pieces of skin of one of these animals, with its coating of hair still on it, together with the sloth's skull. The cave also yielded evidence of human occupation while the sloth was still alive.

Great Rocky Region Made

Up of Oldest Known Rock

The great rocky region that extends all the way from northern Ontario into northern New York forms a single structural unit of the earth's crust and is made up of the oldest known rocks. Geologists do not pretend to place a particularly accurate estimate on its age in years, but one figure, based on the amount of radioactive materials in some of its minerals, is one and one-half billions of years, says Science Service.

This great rock mass, known to geologists as the "Laurentian Shield," contains some of the world's most valuable metal ore deposits—among other things, the world's principal source of nickel, as well as much gold and silver. These as well as the predominantly granitic makeup of the rocks themselves, are evidences that the formation came into being by the slow solidification, far underground, of tremendous masses of volcanic magma, which were subsequently exposed to the light of day by the weathering away of the mountain ranges that once stood above them.

Body of Drowned Man Found in Rouge River

Eugene Lecompte, of Pont Viau, Que., father of nine children, was drowned on Sunday in the Rouge River several miles north of Calumet. His daughter was a witness to the tragedy.

Sitting on a rock fishing, Lecompte was believed to have taken a weak spell, and fell in. He came to the surface and swam about 10 feet upstream. Apparently becoming exhausted he shouted "I can't go any farther", and went down.

Lecompte, with his daughter, Mrs. Noel Legale, and her husband, were picnicking when the accident occurred.

The body was later found wedged between two rocks about 300 feet from the spot where the accident occurred.

Coroner Dr. J. H. Mason was summoned from Lachute, who pronounced the death as accidental, without necessity of an investigation.

Mr. W. J. Boyd has been appointed fish and game warden for the County of Argenteuil.

Stuart Thompson "Outdoors"

Stuart Thompson, the well known Toronto naturalist, will tell CBC listeners something about the mysterious sounds of the fields and forests after dark, in his fifteen minute broadcast, "Outdoors With Stuart Thompson", tomorrow, June 18, at 6.30 p.m. EST. Mr. Thompson will speak on "Voices of the Night", a subject of special appeal to children and all who have known the enchantment of fairy tales, who have heard the hoot of the night owl, or watched the illumination of the firefly on a midsummer's eve.

THE facts of Ford V-8 economy are confirmed by owners' findings. Clyde Young, Emo, Ont., reports: "My Ford V-8 was driven 3000 miles through most trying conditions—snow-drifts three feet high in Northern Ontario. Gasoline consumption—most of which was at high speed—averaged twenty-two miles to the gallon!" J. L. Sayers, Edmonton, Alberta, writes: "Getting an average of twenty-five miles to the gallon of gasoline." R. G. Rottluff, Metisqui, B. C., says: "On one long trip to Seattle and back, I averaged 27.2

Land Valuation and Taxation

(CORRESPONDENCE TO THE WATCHMAN)

My readers recall that I have written before of the unsatisfactory way in which these matters are handled in the Township of Chatham, and indeed in the whole County of Argenteuil, and I have repeatedly asked on what basis we are valued in this county. Those who should know must be asleep for I have never received a satisfactory reply; or if they are not slumbering they are most negligent.

As time goes on matters get worse and more unproportioned, as one set of valuers after another take a hand at a game which they must know nothing about or at which they want to show partiality—for if we look up the matter, the glaring spreads we find show valuations to be so out of proportion that it is hard to arrive at any other conclusion than that our valuers, and the councillors who back our valuers up, are not competent to fill their posts. And so matters go from bad to worse until we are in a chaos of confusion.

Again, what is the standard we are valued on per hundred dollars, and how is this standard arrived at? It should not take men of great mental ability to give this to the public, but time and again I have asked our valuers and our councillors in order that I might make a comparison between properties, only to be told that I would require a power of attorney to get the information I want. Why should any man require a power of attorney to secure knowledge that would enable him to calculate the correctness of valuations in comparison with others in the township or the county, or in any other county in the province?

If things continue as they are and we are kept in such state of tutelage by our valuers and councillors, we will soon require a power of attorney to live here; and then we will have to excuse ourselves for staying here for our mayor and council say they must support the valuers, whatever they do. They must be supported through thick and thin, while the poor ratepayers, with the meekness of Moses and the patience of Job, must endure the poverty of Lazarus.

Repeatedly I have asked the privilege to question what our valuers have done, but they take it upon themselves to say I am weak-minded, or the toughest man they have ever come across. When I point out their unproportioned judgments they vainly endeavor to make my extremes that I have found in their valuations meet, by asking all manner of questions that do not bear on the subject, and which only serve to hedge for a time and get away from the subject. Attempting to head me off, one of the councillors called me two-faced; when I asked him to qualify his statement with proof, he saw he was in deep water, so he beat a retreat under the proposition that I give the council a turkey dinner and they would take up my pleas at the dinner—said proposal causing great merriment among the councillors. When I said that such a just body of gentlemen surely would not deny me the same privilege, they took themselves and invited me to dine with them at the hotel that day on much more humble fare, suggesting they could take my pleas up then. Their merriment turned to humming and hawing, which finally ended in grunting.

On another occasion the mayor said I spent too much of my time attending council meetings; he added that he and his relatives had resided in the locality for a very long time and had seldom darkened the doors of a council chamber. To which I replied, after considerable laughter at my expense among the councillors, if that was their wedding and suited them, it was satisfactory to me, but they must not impose their wedding on me till it became the death of me; that I wanted no funeral just now. I put the mayor's story away in the folds of my memory for future use, and at a later meeting I gave the same story a new hat and stick, and it was not at first known when I told it, only I referred to my own people and their long time of residence here; and as I had anticipated the mayor rebuked my "small talk" and called me out of order. But when I alluded to the source of the story the scene changed, the merriment departed, and nothing was said after the mayor and councillors recognized their own tale. (I would say that this subterfuge did not originate with myself; I read not over a year ago where T. B. MacAuley floor-ed the British Parliament when members were attempting to laugh one of his measures out of countenance; and knocking down his barriers he gained votes in his favor; so he carried his measure with this same ruse.) C. F. KAINS.

Sims' Midway Properties Arrived by Trainload

The Sims Greater Exposition Shows trainload of equipment arrived in Lachute by special train on Monday afternoon and immediately upon arrival the task of unloading and erecting the equipment was commenced, and by Tuesday the space reserved for this large outdoor amusement organization on the fair-grounds had been converted into the largest amusement zone ever erected at the Lachute Fair.

New attractions have been added since the show exhibited here last year, and after making a round of the zone one can readily understand why the Sims Greater Shows are known as Canada's outstanding midway. The high Ferris Wheel and the high tower erected for Capt. Marchand, from which he makes his leap for life each day of the Fair at 5 and 11 o'clock, are brightly illuminated, as well as all other shows and rides.

No one should miss paying a visit to this midway, while attending the Fair. Here one may find diversified entertainment and mingle with the crowds of pleasure-seekers. The thrilling riding devices, sensational shows and spectacular free attractions will be long remembered after the Fair has gone on its way.

"How weary, how weary, how weary"
A tired wee song-bird said,
As she crouched on a limb of the maple

This wee little song-bird sang,
As she flew to a dainty perfumed shrub
As the morn with bird-song rang.

ANOTHER SCARE

Mary Belle sat on a mossy bank watching Uncle Eb planting corn for some time after Mammy Sue had vanished behind the cedar trees that hid the house from her sight. The hot sun and the unusual bit of lunch had made her sleepy. If Mammy Sue had not told her that her mother was going to spend the day with Aunt Mary Belle, she would have gone home with her; but if she had done so, she would no doubt have been taken to Aunt Mary Belle's too—and little Mary Belle was not fond of going to visit her grand-aunt.

"She's too fixey," she said to herself with an impatient shrug of her shoulders. "When I go to her house she is always fixing my hair and pulling at my stockings, trying to make them cover my bare legs, and wishing that she had a bit of stuff like my dress so that she could make it longer. Why, one day she unloosed the hem—and Mama right there! 'Course, Mama put it up again when we got home. Who wants their bare legs covered in hot weather! There's no room to run in long dresses when it's hot. I'd rather be like this, and run and run!"

As she said that, Mary Belle gave a wild little whoop of glee and dashed off across the field, startling old Uncle Eb so that he dropped six kernels of corn into the hole instead of five, much to his disgust. Uncle Eb had planted corn a long, long time, and his fingers knew the feel of five kernels so well that they never grasped more at one time.

"Dat Fairy Chile! Oh dat Fairy Chile!" he muttered, as he stooped to pick the sixth kernel from the hole and put it back in the sack he had slung over his shoulder. "It's just like the half of a tire, or a giant sausage," thought Mary Belle, as she stopped racing about long enough to watch him stuff the dirt back into the hole on top of the corn and tramp it down with his foot. "Dot and go one, Uncle Eb," she chuckled, as she dashed off after a yellow butterfly which had been sitting sipping the sweets from a wild brier rose, and Uncle Eb, remembering the story he had once told her about the little lame boy whom his school fellows called by that name because of the sound his lame foot made upon the pavement, smiled to himself at her sharpness in likening the movement of his feet to the lame boy, as he planted the corn.

Wary at last of running, Mary Belle threw herself down on the mossy bank again to rest and stare up at the oriole building a nest in the elm tree almost above her. . . . The swaying movements of the busy bird made her eyes tired—so tired. Closing them, she fell asleep and dreamed that she had wandered off into the green woods, so far away from home and Uncle that she could not find either of them. The owl hooted at her from a tall tree—such funny hoots, just as if she were making fun of her for getting lost. Little birds danced up and down in front of her wherever she turned, crying "See! See! See!" derisively. Little yellow and brown toads hopped back and forth across her pathway, frightening her greatly. She had always been afraid of toads and was more afraid than ever now, since they seemed to know that she was afraid and were hopping backwards and forwards just to tease her.

Little green lizards popped up out of holes in stumps and stuck out little pink tongues; and what looked like a great big sausage came rolling towards her and stopped right in front of her, straightened itself out, shook itself and turned out to be a prickly porcupine. Mary Belle had never seen a prickly porcupine except in a picture, but was quite sure that one stood before her now. She started to run and had gone but a little way when something caught her short skirts and held them tightly. She tried to scream, but the scream would not come; just a gurgling sort of sound. Waking up in great fright she found that something was holding her short skirts tightly—but that something was only naughty Wag, her own little dog. He had been lonely, and had come to the field to look for her, and was coaxing her to come and play. "Oh, How you scared me, you naughty Wag!" she cried, jumping to her feet and running to Uncle Eb, who had finished his planting and was going home.

BOY SCOUTS THE WORLD OVER

CITY BELL TO SUMMON SCOUTS FOR EMERGENCY SERVICE

A bell call system by which, in an emergency, all Boy Scouts of the district may be called out for public service, has been established in Galt, Ont., by Chief of Police Carson, with the co-operation of the local Scout association. The call will be fifteen strokes, in groups of fives, on the City Hall bell. The step was a result of the splendid work done by the Scouts during the serious spring floods in Western Ontario, and earlier in finding lost children and in other forms of public service.

THE SCOUT CORONATION BEACON CHAIN

Newspaper reports from all parts of the Dominion indicate that the Boy Scout chain of Coronation beacons burning on coastal headlands and inland hills and mountains, was one of the dramatic and most successful features of Canada's Coronation celebration. In many places the lighting of the bonfire was preceded by a torchlight procession, with bands, led by the Mayor and other town officials, and followed by miles of motorcars to the high point chosen. At the beacon pyre there were patriotic addresses and songs, the firing of a Royal salute of 21 rockets, which burst in Boy Scout colours, then the ceremonial lighting of the bonfire by the Indian fire-bow method. In many instances the fire was closed on the serious note, with hymns and prayers, and finally the

TWO POPULAR NON-FICTION BOOKS

Live Alone and Like It, by Marjorie Willis, has been quoted so often and in so many places that, when I finally got round to reading it, it was so familiar that I almost felt I had read it before. It has a lot of sound common-sense whether one lives alone and likes it or whether one does not—live alone. Have you read that other non-fiction book that has swept the country, Dale Carnegie's How to be Popular and Make Friends? What did you think of it? Certainly there is a lot in what he says, but how could anyone go to the lengths he advises and be sincere? To drum up on what strangers are interested in, in order to interest them, verges on hypocrisy. It is difficult to know where to draw the line. That, I suppose, depends on the individual. We all know by experience that if we tell the butcher how good our last porterhouse was, we are more apt to get another good one than if we growled about the tough steak he once sent us. If we remember to mention the crisp head of lettuce, it is more than likely we will get another one. Our ventures into child psychology teach us that we get results by praising the good things our children do rather than by scolding about the bad ones. And we frequently deliberately plan to do this. So, as I said before, it is very difficult to know just where to draw the line. However, that book made me squirm and I know I could not follow it and feel honest.

A SANE LAW

The State of New York has a law before its legislature to give a bonus to every woman bearing a child, the money to be used for doctors and hospitalization. All women get this grant regardless of their financial status, but in order to get it the pregnancy must be reported before the fourth month. That is the crux of the bill. If women see a doctor early enough, a great many of the dangers of child-birth can be averted. Mother and child being under a doctor's care, will save a great many lives and much sickness, thus lessening expenditures later. If governments could only be made to realize that money could be saved by spending it early, to prevent, rather than waiting and spending larger sums in trying to cure. Money spent on institutional care for mental, moral or physical causes could be lessened by using it for prevention rather than cure.

DO NOT THREATEN

One of the difficult things for a teacher or a parent to learn, is not to threaten to do what she is not prepared to carry out. Who among us has not been caught by, "if you do that again I will . . ." Maybe you have threatened to spank them, to put them to bed, to keep them home or to do something or other that you haven't the slightest desire to do and perhaps very little intention of carrying out. You are in a quandary. Are you to carry out your threat, albeit unwillingly, or are you to let them off? If you do the first, perhaps you

THE WOMAN'S PAGE

The 1937 June Bride Knows What She Wants

The June Bride, 1937 model, is a practical young woman who believes that 30 dollars a week as well as love is necessary before embarking on marriage. She also wants a home, children, vacations by herself once in a while and wants to cook well.

This composite picture of what the current bride wants is set forth by Gretta Palmer in June Good Housekeeping, compiled from the answers to hundreds of questionnaires sent to prospective brides in every part of the country, ranging from 17 to 40 years of age.

"Some girls in smaller cities and towns think $1,200 a year is enough for a courageous couple to embark on," Mrs. Palmer says. "Girls from larger cities place the figure a little higher, in most instances. Only a few of the brides from well-to-do sections of the larger cities place the figure as high as $50 a week, although a few mention $4,500 as the minimum. Strangely enough, the girls who demand a high income from the husband are the ones who plan to earn more money themselves in jobs outside the home.

"Less than a tenth of the brides plan to keep jobs outside the home from choice. Those who are going to work believe that they will need the money. Less than half the girls will share a joint account with their husbands. Instead, this year's brides expect to get an allowance. About one-tenth of the girls belong to their grandmothers' school; they want their husbands to handle all the finances and to pay all the bills."

punish unjustly by inflicting too severe a penalty for the crime; if you let them off you weaken discipline. The safe thing to do is to train yourself and learn never to threaten a punishment that you have not the intention of carrying out. If you check yourself on this score, you may be very much surprised to find how often you have been threatening idly.

SUNSHINE STRAW-BERRIES

Wash, hull and weigh the strawberries using only perfect fruit. Measure an equal weight of sugar and put the fruit and sugar in a kettle, layer by layer. Let stand for at least an hour until considerable juice has been drawn out. Cook slowly for ten minutes, stirring very carefully so that the berries will not be broken. Pour into large platters, cover with a sheet of glass and stand in the sun. Stir three times a day. Bring the berries in at night. If the sun is hot, three days should be sufficient to thicken the syrup but if the weather has turned cool, let them stand another day. They are now ready to pour into sterilized glasses and cover with paraffin. They require no further cooking. Choose warm sunny weather to make this preserve. It takes a little time, but the result is worth it. Cherries may be cooked this way too, but weigh the cherries before stoning.

When You're Hard Up You're Irritable Too

In diagnosing a number of last year's divorce cases a man who makes a hobby of that sort of thing plucked out a fact that was more than a coincidence. In far too many cases debt had been the basic cause of the raw-irritability of the parties concerned.

In the next few years let us remember that debts make for irritability, especially when the folks can't see interesting things about them to ease the irritation.

Gratitude in Japan

Forty priests in fine-spun, brocaded robes bowed low before huge piles of old string and threads. More than 5,000 Buddhist worshippers bowed with them in the great Asakusa Kwannon Temple of Tokyo.

While the priests burned incense the temple throngs prayed. But the prayers were neither for themselves nor for their ancestors. The prayers were offerings of gratitude—gratitude to the spirits of silk-worms and cotton plants. The worshippers were thanking the worm and plant spirits for their "sacrifices" in giving silk and cotton to mankind.

Most tangible expression of gratitude to be noted is one offered by Japanese school girls. During the services, thanks are given to the spirits of sewing needles. Then, in the belief that the needles are tired after having faithfully served for a full year, the girls stick the needles in soft bean-curd-so that the points may enjoy a good rest. —Pathfinder

Ambroise Paré, proclaimed the greatest surgeon of his time, had the courage to write his book on the treatment of wounds, not in Latin, but in everyday and "vulgar" French, much to the horror of the surgeons of the long robe.

Origin of Name "White House"

The name "White House" is supposed to have been given the Capitol after it was painted white to efface the blackened walls, the result of its partial destruction by the British in 1814. There is some controversy about this, however, one claim being that it was so named because Martha Custis was owner of "White House" when she and Washington first met. It was first popularly known as the President's House, but by the year 1828 the nickname "White House" had come to be widely used.

Nancy Hart's HOME NEWS

The U. S. General Federation of Women's Clubs is joining with the Public Health Service in a campaign against syphilis. The Surgeon General of the United States, Thomas Parran, Jr., has said: "Our children will hold us criminally careless and incompetent if, with the means at hand, we fail to end this scourge of syphilis within our generation."

The Federation has decided that participation in the conquest of this disease shall be the next objective in their Health Conservation Program and they invite women everywhere to join in the campaign for the following reasons:

1. Syphilis is a destroyer of mankind in the prime of life.
2. Syphilis can be passed on by a syphilitic mother to her unborn child.
3. Over one-half of primary syphilis infections occur between 16 and 30 years of age.
4. The disease is very frequently contracted and spread innocently.
5. Practical scientific weapons are at hand to attack and conquer this plague.
6. Women can be of great service to humanity by enlisting in this great public health battle.

Syphilis can be conquered. Learn! Tell! Work!

Now science has turned against the old-fashioned rainwater barrel and the "soft" water cistern. Chemists have found that most of the supposed advantages of the rainwater barrel and the cistern were only illusions. Tests of hundreds of samples of water from them showed 5 to 15 grains of hardness, and in addition there were numerous forms of bacteria and decayed organic matter collected from roofs and drain pipes and blown in by the wind.

Most cisterns are lined with concrete or brick containing the same elements as the rocks in the soil which give ordinary

THE SAFE, SENSIBLE WAY TO RELIEVE CONSTIPATION

Every one knows the dangers of constipation. Pills and drugs usually bring only temporary relief. That's because common constipation is due to meals low in "bulk."

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN contains "bulk" that does not break down in the body as does that of many leafy vegetables. ALL-BRAN absorbs twice its weight in water and forms a soft mass that gently sponges the intestines.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a food—not a medicine. In addition to "bulk"—it gives vitamin B to tone up the system, and iron for the blood. It is a healthful way to get rid of constipation and all its evils.

Eat two tablespoonfuls daily with milk or cream—three times a day in severe cases. Or use it in making bran muffins, breads, salads or soups. Guaranteed by Kellogg in London.

water its hardness. Few cisterns are so tight that hard-water from the surrounding soil does not seep in to add the undesirable "lime", and as a result cistern water in many hard-water areas is harder than any known to residents of such soft-water regions as New England. Mechanical and chemical water-softeners are very much more efficient than cisterns.

Joan Blondell has her own original beauty treatments. Here is one she uses to keep her skin smooth: Cover the face and neck with mineral oil; then cover it with salt, and on top of that pat on some olive oil. Rub it very gently around the nose or any rough, dried sunburn spots. After the skin is thoroughly saturated with it, remove the mixture, first with tepid water, then with an ice cold rinsing. Two or three of these oil treatments will remove the summer tan, says Joan.

Household Hint: Small fires may be extinguished by sprinkling ordinary baking soda on them as quickly as possible. The fire is extinguished by smothering and the generation of carbonic acid gas which excludes the oxygen in the air.

Among the newer bathing accessories are "loofah mitts" made of the dried insides of a tropical cucumber. They are used for a stimulating rub-down after bathing.

The Epsom Salts bath is very relaxing, and at the same time most stimulating to the blood. Drop a few tablespoons of Epsom salts into a steaming tub—as hot as you can stand it—and soak for about 15 minutes.

MORE FIRST AID

A small boy isn't worth a cent, freely with talcum powder and apply a loose bandage. Keep the wound dry until recovery.

For a "crop" of chiggers, get at 'em early as possible, before they have bored deeply. First a scrubbing with good soap and water; dry, and apply the bug-icide, whatever you have. I use a mixture of carbolic acid, one dram, spirits of camphor, one ounce, menthol, twenty grains, and rose-water, enough to make four ounces. This can be dabbed over the lesions freely, allowing it to dry without wiping off.

Sunburn is not to be sneezed at; it has been accompanied by big doses of the ultra-violet ray—a blessing in disguise. The oxide of zinc, a dram to the ounce of rose-water ointment will soothe the inflamed skin in time. Keep out of the strong sunlight until well.

For a child's "stubbed toe", bruised, torn, bleeding—soak foot in water with a teaspoonful of carbolic acid—or formalin—to the pint. Make the member clean. Then apply dressing or carbolized or borated vaseline and wrap comfortably.

And, oh, green apples! Colic! A big dose of milk of magnesia quick. And who would object to fifteen drops of paregoric for the pain?

DIRECTORS WELL SATISFIED WITH OUTCOME OF ANNUAL FAIR

ALL-ROUND IMPRESSIONS OF FAIR, VIEWPOINT OF PATRONS, DIRECTORATE AND EXHIBITORS

DROP IN THIRD DAY ATTENDANCE, BUT FOURTH DAY ADMISSIONS DOUBLE 1936

Comparative Records

Visitors' impressions of the 1937 Lachute Fair acclaim the event a notable success, despite the turn of weather on Thursday evening and Friday forenoon which boded ill for the final outcome. The attendance on Friday night and Saturday, however, compensated for a falling-off during the bad weather; and on Saturday afternoon all ringside parking was taken, the arrivals after 2 p.m. having to place their cars far back from the ring.

Total admittances were somewhat lower than in 1936, due to wet weather during part of the time. It is interesting to note, however, that Thursday's attendance was higher, and that while Friday's was considerably less than last year, Saturday witnessed a gate admittance twice as large as on the fourth day of the 1936 show. It is also believed this established a new record for fourth day admissions.

The entry list in poultry, sheep and swine was larger than in the previous year. Several exhibitors of horses had to be turned down through lack of accommodation, the numerous race-horse entrants having demanded increased space. The actual exhibits in horse classes were consequently fewer in number, but their quality was high and competition keen.

Mr. A. Bothwell, secretary-manager, reports that many entry forms have yet to be returned, and exhibitors are asked to send these in so as to facilitate reports and disposition of the prize money.

The catering, undertaken by members of Lachute Women's Institute, was very capably handled. The Institute reports an advance on dining-room receipts compared with 1936, and a slight drop in the lunch-room receipts, generally indicating the Fair attendance about the same in numbers during the two years.

Commercial Displays

A gratifying show was arrayed this year in the Main Building, where every available space was taken. Nationally advertised firms and local dealers contributed a varied and interesting display. Outdoor demonstrations were also an asset to the general interest and appeal of the Fair.

The climax to the agricultural show, which was the grand parade of all horses and cattle in the ring, left nothing to be desired among those who had not previously made the round of the livestock stables. Here the princely stallions, the well matched teams, the fine bulls and superb dairy cows gave mass evidence that Lachute Fair had upheld its record for quality livestock.

Fine Entertainment

Notable additions appeared in the equipment stationed by F. W. Sims along the midway, which drew a constant throng of people during Friday night, Saturday and the preceding days when fine weather prevailed.

The vaudeville entertainment staged by Fred Norman, the band music by Lieut. J. J. Gagnier and his Grenadier Guards musicians, and the fireworks display concluding the Friday and Saturday programs, were all of first-class quality.

Saturday's Races

Trotting races were held on two days, and provided a pleasurable distraction for the crowds. The first races were run on Thursday.

Despite the heavy rainfall, which left the traffic lanes a morass of mud across the race track, the course was dragged and put in good shape for racing on Saturday. These afternoon events stirred a warm enthusiasm from the grandstand and ringside spectators.

Mr. Felix S. Vincent was the starter, and due to crowding of the entries had to call back the drivers repeatedly.

Of special concern to local spectators, the County Race was run in three heats on Saturday afternoon. First in two heats was Belle of Lakeland owned by Dr. R. S. Ballantyne of St. Andrews, and second Mac Direct owned by H. M. Lavigne of Lachute Mills. This latter came first in the third heat, and My Guy, owned by L. T. Porter of St. Andrews, second. Other entries were Baldwin Jr., owned by Geo. Scarborough, and Ruth McKinnie owned by Arnold Scott.

In the Free for All Saturday Critttonette (A. H. Hopkins) came first in three heats. In the Trot and Pace a favorite and veteran racer, L. G. Bennett, who won a cup here two years ago for breaking the track record, won two heats with his Tramp Abbe, and C. B. Laurence took the remaining heat with his Midnight Grattan, black pacer.

Livestock Contests

The Hon. Henry L. Auger, Minister of Colonization, who drove from Quebec to visit the fair, warmly congratulated the directorate upon the excellence of the stock and the buildings and grounds.

The Davis Cup for the best draft team, pure or grade, was awarded to the Jersey Health Farms, the presentation being made by Dr. Fowler to Mr. Thompson. The two cups donated by George Heon, K.C., for the best display of Ayrshires and Holsteins were won by W. C. Pitfield of Cartierville and

Lachute Business Firms Advertising on Radio

The surfeit of radio advertising becomes more tiresome than intriguing, but when one hears favorable publicity for the home-town, one sits up to listen more attentively.

Lachute Board of Trade is sponsoring a series of 15-minute programs from Station CKAC, the first of which was heard from 12.30 p.m. on Monday, and will continue at the same hour each Saturday and Monday till early in August.

Brief announcements, interspersed with music and song, were made concerning seven local firms and their products, namely—T. McQuat & Son (unhappily mispronounced), H. M. Lavigne's Store, Cottingham Supply Company, Boyd's Express, J. P. MacKimmie & Sons, Raoul Joly and Desjardins Hotel.

Enlisting Units for Military Camp at St. Johns, Que.

Lieutenant Colonel J. Tellier, O.C., Joliette Regiment, 83rd Infantry, has communicated to Lieut. Guy Legault of Lachute the syllabus of training scheduled for the Infantry camp, to be held at St. Johns from July 6th. to 18th. This syllabus outlines a program of all-round military activities, ranging from lectures to rifle drill and target practice, which should prove interesting throughout.

The recruits for this camp are taken from Joliette, Shawinigan Falls, Grand'Mere, St. Jerome, Lachute, Brownsburg and surrounding districts. A limited number is allotted to the County of Argenteuil, as applicants must be evenly distributed among eight counties, and Joliette and Shawinigan have been furnishing two full companies for the last twenty years.

Young men of this county are eligible to enlist with the Joliette Regiment. There are still a few vacancies. Lists will be closed on July 1st. The recruits will receive their uniforms in Lachute prior to departure. The Regiment looks after transportation, food, and pays a minimum of $1.20 a day to recruits.

A Brownsburg Sequel to Louis-Braddock Battle

Brownsburg—Two prize-fight enthusiasts here wagered on the outcome of the Louis-Braddock championship bout, and the payment of the bet became a community farce in which the villagers took keen delight. P. Goyette, the loser, was obliged, by the terms of the wager, to wheel the winner, Philippe Daoust, in a wheelbarrow around the town; he was penalized 25c. each time he stopped but, with superhuman endurance, he paused only once to regain his breath. Both men wore boxing gloves, Daoust being rigged up to resemble Louis, the new heavyweight champ.

Cars, bicycles and pedestrians joined in the parade, and it required the traffic officer to escort the procession through town.

The ladies' branch of the Golf Club held its usual Tuesday afternoon competition this week, when Miss Freda Mason won the prize for the "surprise competition". Tea was served at the conclusion of play.

Happy is the man who has a set of principles to govern his days, but foolish is he who thinks himself a failure because he cannot always live up to it 100%. If he can, then he needs newer and better principles.

KINGSTON CONFERENCE STRESSES UNIQUE RELATION OF AMITY AND COOPERATION, CANADA AND U.S.

"The Ottawa Spotlight"

By Wilfrid Eggleston

Ottawa, June 22—Orators are fond of pointing to Canada's "three thousand miles of undefended frontier" and recalling that more than a century of peace has been enjoyed between Canada and her good neighbor the United States. Only those who have lived in Europe or Asia can quite appreciate what it means to have across the boundary a nation which wants to be friendly and which for the most part is prepared to adopt policies which will maintain and foster such an attitude.

The conference on Canadian-American affairs, held a Kingston last week, attracted many of the leaders of thought from both sides of the line. It was the second such conference, the series having been opened in 1935 at Canton, New York. The Carnegie Endowment for International Peace has been financially responsible for the meetings, and it is difficult to conceive of any way in which a grant from that fund could be put to better use. Not that there is any imminent danger of Canadian-American relations ceasing to be other than friendly, but sometimes when matters are taken so much for granted as this one is, there is a danger that small grievances and frictions shall be allowed to grow into something much more serious without anything of a remedial nature being done about it.

Lachute Counsel Appealed Superior Court Ruling

WOMAN AWARDED $1,000

The Court of Appeal has awarded damages of $1,000 to Mrs. R. L. Parent, Hawkesbury hairdresser, in her appeal from a Superior Court judgment dismissing her action against John Rutishauser, Montreal, vendor of a permanent wave machine which blew up and injured the appellant and her sister. Mrs. Parent had asked $2,078 damages for injuries she and her sister received in the explosion, claiming the machine was defective, had no safety valve and no pressure gauge.

In the Superior Court, Rutishauser claimed no gauge or safety valves were needed because the machine was not supposed to develop a pressure, but had exploded because a pipe was blocked. His defence was upheld and the action dismissed.

The Appeal Court found no instruction had been given the appellant about the machine or information regarding possibility of the pipe blocking. Under these circumstances Mrs. Parent was entitled to $1,000 on her claim, the judgment found.

Counsel for the appellant were Messrs. Legault & Legault, Lachute.

Slight Errors!

(July Re-Vue Magazine)

A blind newsboy in Arizona went upstairs, took a bath, and was annoyed because he couldn't find the soap and towels. When a stranger came in, the boy discovered he was bathing eight blocks away from his own home.

Burglars who held up a New York barber shop told the customers to go into the back room. Two of the customers were policemen, who went out the back door and met the thugs on the outside.

A police dog, when his master's candy store was being held up, became so excited that he bit his master instead of the burglars.

"What's that bump on your forehead?"

"Oh, that's where a thought struck me."

HIGH LEVELS

The basic idea of the conference is that leaders of thought on both sides of the line shall meet at a common table, eat, drink and sleep in the same buildings, stroll on the same campuses or lawns, and get to know each other better. Many of the heads of American educational institutions are Canadians by birth, and some of the Canadian educators originated in the United States, so that there is from the first at these gatherings a very high level of intellectual and emotional communion.

At the first conference, in 1935, Andre Siegfried, the eminent French economist, who has attended numerous gatherings of peoples at Geneva and other places in Europe, rose when the last meeting was over to give the impressions of the conference as they were made upon an outsider.

Siegfried's major impression was this, that any differences or disagreements which might have cropped up or have been dug up for examination at the conference, were of a superficial nature. He found that Canadians and Americans spoke and thought the same language and enjoyed a common fund of ideas. He saw no reason why such people should not continue indefinitely to live in harmony and co-operation. It was, he said, such a contrast with the situation in Europe, where people living across from each other were separated by a gulf of ideas and profoundly different conceptions of life. Such peoples had first to find some sort of common ground, before they could begin to discuss problems, whereas Canadians and Americans were already on common ground. He was much more hopeful of a state of perpetual friendliness here than in Europe.

DESIRE TO BE FRIENDS

The same spirit of almost eager desire to be friends was evident last week at Kingston. Tariff relationships, the investments made by Americans in Canada, and vice-versa, the movements of population, the common cultural heritages, the organization of labour, the foreign policies of the two countries, were all discussed in the most helpful and co-operative spirit.

Since the first conference

ed, run north and south, whereas the political lines run east and west. This of itself makes friendly relations imperative if we are not to court disaster. If meetings like that at Kingston and Canton can do anything to bind still closer the 'Good Neighbors' they are very much worth while.

The woman who drives from the back seat of a car, says a cynic, is no worse than the man who cooks from the dining-room table. —The Bluebell

The strongest living thing in proportion to its weight is the beetle, which can carry a burden 850 times heavier than itself.

Road Surfacing Experiments

Promise of smooth, dustless surfaces on secondary roads at no greater cost than the gravel roads in use at present, has come out of experiments at the Nova Scotia Technical College. President Dr. F. H. Sexton declared at the annual convocation ceremonies of that institution.

Clay, salt and carefully graded gravel would go into the new road surfacing, it was explained. A section of the highway was being tested at present, following experiments at the technical college in which all similar construction systems were analyzed, materials examined and results tabulated.

A substantial return was likely to be made to the province in this way for the outlay made by Nova Scotia for technical education, the president declared.

Do You "Reune" in Summer?

In the summer time Sally and Jim, and the little Sallys and Jims, come back to the old homestead to review experiences and look over each other's clothes and cars. Probably no family in Canada, however, will have a greater gathering than the Ligon family of Richmond, Va. "Sponsors expect 2,000 of the 4,250 direct blood descendants of Col. Thomas Ligon who settled in Virginia in 1642".

Quebec Has All Canadian Zoo

A thousand wild creatures, representing 96 Canadian species and forming one of the most interesting zoological collections, have been gathered in the new and picturesque Quebec Zoological Gardens at historic Charlesbourg, some seven miles from the provincial capital. One or more of almost every animal, bird or fish in Canada can be seen here, says a writer in the June issue of C-I-L Oval—from polar bears to porcupines, pelicans to cormorants, salmon to snakes. One of the greatest difficulties experienced by the director and his staff was in the proper feeding of mountain sheep and moose, whose food requirements differed with the seasons. Finally a diet of marsh hay, a mixture of grains and alfalfa, and phosphated salt to prevent rickets and bone sickness was arrived at. The Quebec Zoo occupies at the present time 30 of a site of 75 acres, which has been described by a Berlin zoologist as one of the finest of its kind in the world.

Poet's Corner

The Picton (Ontario) Times, besides many other interesting features, has a Poet's Corner, which must be a source of inspiration, bringing many happy recollections to its readers. The June 11th. issue carried the following from James Russell Lowell's The Vision of Sir Launfal:

Bubbles we buy with a whole soul's tacking
This only God may be had for the asking,
No price is set on the lavish summer,
June may be had by the poorest comer.

Strange as it may seem, Canada holds a prominent place in the export of vermicelli and macaroni. The bulk of the vermicelli and macaroni imported into Hongkong comes from Canada, according to the Industrial Department of the C.N.R.

Special Services Held at Brownsburg United

The services in the Brownsburg United Church last Sunday were of a special character, it being the re-opening of the church following the recent re-decorating, by the Ladies' Auxiliary.

The special preacher for the occasion was the Rev. Chas. Este of Montreal, who took as his text, John 21:3—"I go a-fishing". Mr. Este developed a very fine treatment of the scriptural passage, being applicable to the new surroundings of present experiences.

Other features of the morning service were the musical numbers rendered by Miss Clem Racker, also of Montreal and a graduate of the Juillard School of Music, New York, and a spiritual, "Were You There When They Crucified My Lord", rendered in a richly cultivated soprano voice. Miss Racker won the hearts of her hearers, not only in her rare ability as a soloist, but also by her winsome manner, exhibiting the very soul of the music which she makes a part of her being.

In introducing Mr. Este, Rev. S. J. Pike expressed his delight in having him as the preacher for this special occasion, their association covering a number of years in the city of Montreal and having exchanged pupils with him on former occasions. The afternoon service was in the form of a sacred recital, in which both Mr. Este and Miss Racker took leading parts. Selections by Miss Racker included, as solos, "The Holy City", "Alla, Be With us" and "Singing in God's Acre" and as spirituals, "He is Coming" and "Sometimes I Feel like a Motherless Child", while Mr. Este recited "When All is Done" and "The Dying Pauper". The Choir rendered "Ye Gates, Lift Up Your Heads on High". A display of beautiful flowers and ferns adorned the choir niches and rostrum. It has been a magnanimous effort on the part of the Ladies' Auxiliary to put the church in such a fine condition; to them the officials and congregation extend their deep appreciation.

Meaning of Elsteddfod

Elsteddfod is a Welsh word which means a sitting or season, impliedly of birds. As a bardic term it is probably not older than about the eleven hundreds, although the present scope of the national Elsteddfod dates back to the departure of the Romans in the Fourth century. There have been interruptions in its long history, but since the remarkable Welsh revival that followed the Napoleonic wars it has been held almost every year.

Guns powder Substances

In gunpowder there are two combustible substances, sulphur and charcoal, mixed with a powerful oxidizing agent, potassium nitrate. The reason for the exclusive use of these particular constituents for such a long time lay in the fact that until about fifty years ago potassium nitrate was the only solid oxidizing agent available in sufficient amount.

Labor Unions Know no Bounds

It seems that Buck Jones, the actor, has just built himself a nice home in California. Ordinarily that would be no business of Canadians. But union members know no international boundaries, and so the Montreal Trades and Labor Council recently wrote Buck a letter of protest because he built without benefit of union labor. They did plan to boycott his pictures, but decided not to, as every wallop at Jones would mean a swat at some union picture worker.

Farm Forsaken

By Jessie Muriel Scott

The old gray gate upon its hinges creaks,
Rusted and rigid and reluctant to move,
Its weary frame, settled from long disuse—
Between its posts to stand till time remove.
A narrow lane still points the homeward way,
Its stones no longer bared by hoof and wheel,
Be-sprinkled now with grasses growing close—
As if some vanished footprint to conceal.
An homestead nestles close to sheltering pines
(Hewn of the very woods which still surround)
Beaten by summer's heat and winter's blast,
Yet standing firm against the hills around;
Hills that long years in man-made order stood
Neatly in shades of green, with golden grain,
Fragments of fence now mark the ragged fields
And countless rocks possess the land again.
The weary buildings hold their sagging roofs,
And windows stare out darkly, without light,
And chimneys yield no friendly puff of smoke
To help dispel the chill of coming night;
No sound of tinkling cow-bell greets the ear
Nor bleat of lamb, nor barnyard cackle shrill,
No note to break the slowly gathering gloom
Save the soft calling of a whip-poor-will.
Now darkness drops her curtain on the scene,
The stars gleam out, an ancient moon appears,
Reflecting on the ghosts of man's vain effort,
And on earth's beauty, marred not by the years;
Thus days and nights and seasons wear away
With constant rain and frost on creek and sod,
Time doth erase the handiwork of mortals—
But not the miracles of nature and of God.

W.M.S. Program and Tea Held at St. Andrews East

LACHUTE WATCHMAN RECEIVED TRIBUTE

St. Andrews E.—A fine and impressive program was presented here at the June meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church, which took place on Monday afternoon.

After the opening exercises a dramatic recitation on the early Christian martyrs was delivered by Miss Mabel Green. Mrs. Maclean of Cushing gave a full report of the sectional meeting of the W. M. S., including highlights of the leading speeches. She repeated a tribute to our county press, The Watchman, which has been so generous in reporting the work of the women's organizations, and praised its high standards in quality of news and matters of advertising. A beautiful duet was rendered by Mrs. Yale and Mrs. Bezanson.

At the close of the meeting those present remained for a special tea in celebration of the birthdays of several members—the senior member, Mrs. B. N. Wales, Mrs. E. Charman and Miss Jeannette Wales, all of whose birthdays fall on June 21, and several others whose birthdays fall within the month. Beautiful decorations had been arranged by Miss Cather and others. A birthday cake was presented by Miss Hendrie and Miss Green. The president, Mrs. Lilly, was a graceful mistress of ceremonies.

Unfavorable Publicity

Those who are interested in the growth of the tourist business are genuinely alarmed at the resentment and unfavorable publicity which is being directed toward this province on account of the condition of our roads.

Tourists have been very bitter about Quebec roads this spring and have carried away reports that are going to keep many would-be visitors away from here this summer.

It is feared that unless the new Government does something at once to do away with dusty gravel roads full of holes and washboarded, the tourist business, so far as this province is concerned, will be entirely ruined. It is a matter that deserves to be considered seriously.

The housewife deals with her neighborhood Dominion Store because she finds it a dependable source of fine foods — cleanly stocked and pleasantly sold — at money-saving prices. She — plus our own wide experience — sets our standard of quality and value.

Every purchase from Dominion Stores helps provide work for thousands in the factories from whom we buy so much of our goods; and when the purchase is fresh fruit or vegetables, it means revenue to Quebec farmers, in season.

Dominion Stores are an asset to the housewife, farmer and worker, and to the Province as a whole.

She was formerly Miss Adella Morin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Morin of Monalea.

The funeral was conducted on June 16 by Rev. Father Bouchard, assisted by Rev. Father Bazinet and Rev. Father Clouthier, in the Church of St. Louis de France, Brownsburg. There were a large number of spiritual and floral offerings from friends in this town and from a distance. The pall bearers were Messrs. Among those attending the funeral from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Courtemanche and Mrs. Delia Courtemanche of Waterbury, Conn., and a large number of relatives and friends from Montreal, Ottawa, Hammond, and other points in Quebec and Ontario.

Mrs. Guilbert leaves to mourn her loss a loving husband, two sons, L. Gaetan and Bernard, and two daughters, Rita and Cora, also her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Morin; Miss Rose Morin, sister, and Thomas of Monalea, and Aldege of Montreal, brothers. The funeral was attended by friends from all denominations. Interment was at the cemetery of St. Louis de France.

Gems from Exam. Papers

The advancing years may or may not have increased our store of wisdom, says Jemima Remington in "Animal Life", but the frivolous and unseemly hilarity with which we will still greet schoolboy "howlers" is, we feel, a source of anxiety to our more serious-minded friends. Here are a few gems:

The objective of "he" is "she".

A plagiarist is a writer of plays.

Chivalry is the attitude of a man to a strange woman.

A deacon is a mass of inflammable material placed in a prominent position to warn the people.

Electromagnetic Induction

Beginning his scientific career as assistant to Sir Humphrey Davy in the Royal Institution, London, in 1813, Michael Faraday won recognition as the most outstanding experimentalist of the Nineteenth century in the field of electricity and magnetism. Most notable of his discoveries was that of electromagnetic induction, namely that a magnetic disturbance can produce an electrical disturbance. At about the same time Joseph Henry, working independently in America, discovered the same principle. To this discovery, he converse of that which Faraday had made, may be traced the invention of the dynamo and the power transformer, which laid the foundation for the electric light and power industry of today. In the field of electrical communication his contributions to progress were hardly less noteworthy. The induction coil and the repeating coil trace their origin to his researches. Without these, many of the communication achievements of recent years would have been impossible.

THE PROVINCIAL CONVENTION OF QUEBEC WOMEN'S INSTITUTES AT MACDONALD COLLEGE

Mrs. Ashworth, in reporting on work done during the year, claimed added interest in immigration, and particularly in Colonization—the Back-to-the-Land Movement—evidently interesting to all. Her speaker on the subject was Dr. Carl A. Dawson of McGill University, who claimed that it was not philanthropic help so much as recognition that immigrants wanted. Immigrant colonies throughout the Dominion were compared by the speaker to a patchwork quilt effect. "Treat the immigrant as a neighbor," Dr. Dawson said, and remember he often patterns his behaviour by yours.

Mrs. Cross, on Canadianization, claimed more interest among the Branches in local history and more recognition of world events. Dr. W. L. Stewart's address, broadcast from Dalhousie University, on International Relations, was later discussed and analyzed by Dr. H. D. Brunt of the College.

Wednesday was the day of highlights because of the fact that, after the morning session, Dr. Brittain welcomed the delegates to the College—the welcome being replied to by Mrs. Cameron Dow of Port Daniel, Que. Mrs. Petch of Hemmingford, Provincial President, presented her annual address, at the same time requesting that a special effort be made this year to form new branches in the province in observance of Coronation Year. The W.I. has 89 active branches at present, and eleven more would bring this number to the 100 mark. Miss Abbie Pritchard presented the Financial Report, claiming a balance on the right side of $476.31. Miss H. B. McCain, Quebec Superintendent, also presented her annual address Wednesday morning just before the luncheon, which was arranged by the School of Household Science, Macdonald College, assisted by the Macdonald Women's Union, Her Excellency Lady Tweedsmuir was a guest.

Miss McCain reported four new Branches formed during the year and a total of $13,983 raised by the Branches, with $10,989.88 expended on educational and charitable projects. Miss McCain stated that the Dept. of Child Welfare and Public Health would in future be known as "Canadian Health Department", and our slogan should be "Healthful Living". Two other admonitions of Miss McCain were, "Teach appreciation of our own Canada", and "Teach appreciation of public officials".

Her Excellency Lady Tweedsmuir, and party, were greeted at the main entrance by Dean Brittain and taken for a car drive over the beautiful college grounds before stopping for a few moments at the public school, where all the children were assembled on the steps to greet her; and from there to the college, where the heads of the institution were presented to her and little Miss Bonnie Brittain, on behalf of the Quebec Women's Institutes, presented her with a large bouquet of American Beauty roses.

All of the delegates were presented in the reception room before the party assembled in the dining room for luncheon. Here Dean Brittain proposed toasts, first to His Majesty the King, then to Her Excellency, stating that this was a day long to be remembered in the history of the College. Miss B. M. Philp proposed a toast to Quebec Women's Institutes, and was thanked by the Provincial President, Mrs. C. E. Petch. Her Excellency addressed the audience on the work at home and in Canada, and wished that she might talk with each one present.

Delightful musical numbers were rendered by Mrs. W. H. Lewis of Montreal, accompanied by Miss G. E. Watt of Ste. Anne de Bellevue. Mrs. M. E. Honey presided at the afternoon session, which was held under the sponsorship of Mrs. R. S. Walsh of Hemmingford and Mrs. Vivian Rose of Shawville. Mr. Henry Birks of the firm of Henry Birks and Sons, in the theme of Home Economics gave a most interesting address on "A Bit of Old Silver", explaining the processes used in making different kinds of silver, and tracing the history of the craft back to ancient times as far as Ur of the Chaldees, mentioned in Bible history.

Dr. J. S. Booth, speaking on "Development of Co-operation", had memories of his stay in Oneida, U.S.A., stirred by Mr. Birks' address and told how we came to have Oneida silver. The project of silver-making in Oneida he said, was first started as a relief measure, and to keep young people at home by giving them something to do.

Wednesday evening's session was also presided over by Mrs. Honey, the first Vice-President, and was under the sponsorship of Mrs. G. F. W. Kuhring, Provincial Convenor of Education and Better Schools, and Mrs. G. Harvey of Dunham, Convenor of Child Welfare and Public Health.

Mrs. Kuhring's speaker was Mr. G. V. Haythorne of McGill University, who dealt with the Development of Rural Education, suggesting that an improvement in rural education meant an improvement, too, in what he called "the slums of the farm". Mr. Haythorne was decidedly in favor of consolidated schools, because of the adequate facilities provided for the pupils in many ways that were not possible in the "little red one-roomed school-house." Mr. Haythorne also stressed the importance of Adult Education in these changing times, and advocated summer schools suited to the requirements of the community as a means of adult education.

Dr. J. Wylie, of Queen's University followed this address with an illustrated lecture on "Air and Water", some of the illustrations being pictures of the water filtration plant at Ottawa, and others showing how easily the water supply of the farms and villages might be contaminated. Dr. Wylie added that many stomach ailments which could not be diagnosed by X-ray were caused by drinking water that was impure and sometimes contained poisonous substances.

Some of Wednesday's notices were that Col. Bovey of McGill had consented to act as Honorary Council to the Women's Institutes; that the Institute resolved to write the Dept. of Education at Quebec asking that pensions of retired teachers in the province be restored to their full amount; enforcement of the law regarding lights on vehicles in this province was once more agitated.

Mrs. Cameron Dow, of Port Daniel, Que., Vice-President, presided over Thursday's meetings. Interesting reports were given by county presidents concerning the work done during the year, and by Mrs. McCurdy, Provincial Convenor of Publicity and Editor of Home and Country.

Two exceedingly interesting addresses were the order of the day. Leslie Gordon Barnard spoke on the topic, "Your Bookshelf—and Beyond"; quite a number of the delegates had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Barnard at the close of his address. Mrs. Mary Sutherland of Ottawa, held her audience with an illuminating address on "The Rural Girl", in which she suggested several remunerative occupations to keep our girls on the farm. Mrs. Sutherland claimed there were more marriageable men in the province than eligible women, and that if girls were given a good education and occupation, coupled with financial returns, there would not be such an influx into the city of girls between the ages of 15 and 24—which caused a lack of balance, socially in the country, and industrially in the city.

Dr. Maurice Ollivier, K.C., law clerk in the House of Commons, was introduced by the Convenor of Legislation, Mrs. R. H. McCrae. He gave a clever but lengthy address, explaining to the delegates how laws were made. He reviewed the progress of government and private bills from the time they were introduced until they were sanctioned.

Mrs. Petch was re-elected President for a second term of office; Mrs. Honey, first Vice-President; Mrs. C. Dow, second Vice-President; Mrs. Lipsey, of Lennoxville, Secretary; and Miss Abbie Pritchard Treasurer. Provincial Convenors remain the same, except for the appointment of Mrs. W. R. Matthews of Hudson Heights for Canadianization and National Events, and Miss Alice Dresser for Education and Better Schools. Miss Dresser not being present at Convention, this appointment remains to be verified. Mrs. Kuhring, the former Convenor, having resigned, made it necessary for the appointment of someone in her place.

The sessions closed with a high-class musical entertainment in the assembly hall, under the arrangements made by Miss Philp, head of the Household Science Department of the College.

ERNEST C. SYMONDS SUCCUMBS TO HEART ATTACK AFTER RECOVERY FROM OPERATION

St. Thomas, Ont.—

The sad and untimely death of Ernest C. Symonds of St. Thomas, Ont., occurred Monday evening, June 21, at Welland General Hospital. Just over two weeks ago Mr. Symonds had undergone a serious operation in the Niagara Falls General Hospital which had been considered successful, but unfortunately was followed by an attack of pneumonia. For the past few days, however, his recovery had been apparently rapid and his attending physician at Niagara considered he was fit to be allowed to return to his home, 30 Wellington street, St. Thomas. Reaching Welland in time for the evening train for St. Thomas, Mr. Symonds was seized with a heart attack and rushed to the Welland hospital, where two physicians worked unceasingly for a couple of hours to save his life, but he passed peacefully away.

Mr. Symonds went to St. Thomas from Orillia with his family in 1919, and joined the Pere Marquette train forces, and at the time of his death was working as conductor out of Montrose yards. In 1925 he married Vera Hill, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hill, who survives with a young daughter, Kathryn Jean, aged seven. Others left to mourn his early death are his parents, R. C. and Mrs. Symonds, 45 East Street, a sister, Mrs. Violet Henderson, at home, and a brother, Bruce, of Brantford, Ontario, also three nephews, Maxwell and Ray Henderson, and Graydon Symonds at Brantford. Mr. Symonds was a native son of Lachute, born September 2, 1901, the elder son of his parents, and was in his thirty-sixth year.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Laird of Knox Presbyterian Church, assisted by Rev. Mr. Olmstead, of Centre Street Baptist Church.

OLD GRAVEYARDS

There are many old graveyards through the country that are disgracefully run down and dilapidated. Not as many as there were a few years ago, but still too many. It is a problem sometimes to know just what to do with them. I have found two cemeteries that have solved the problem of the old-fashioned flat tombstone. In one a cairn was made of field stone and the flat tombstones. The other was a family plot and it had a low stone wall built with the tombstones let into it. They were built in sideways, not upright. It made a very solid, neat use of the tombstones.

YOUR SPECIALTY

Have you at least one food that you cook especially well and that your friends love to get? We crave to give our friends our best and yet we often strain to give them some novelty that is not half as good as the old stand-by. Naturally every woman loves to have something that is a bit different but that should not be our chief aim. Think over the foods that you serve your guests and pick the one most are enthusiastic about, and make that your specialty. Looking back over my friends who have reputations for their food, I am struck with the fact that it is not the expensive foods that have made these reputations. One friend makes hot biscuits to such perfection that her friends feel rather let-down if she does not serve them. Usually she makes them in tiny muffin pans, probably because the dough is too soft to keep its shape well. That is what makes them so good — biscuit dough must be very soft. Another friend makes delicious brown bread and usually manages to have it for special occasions. Another makes lemon tarts. Another has supper parties with fish chowder as the pièce de résistance. And do the men go for it! So you see, none of these dishes are exotic nor expensive. What is my specialty? Well, there are friends who feel rather cheated if I have had a party and have not made meringues. Then again there are others who think I have failed them if I have not made rolls.

MERINGUES

To make meringues, beat egg whites until stiff and dry, then add sugar gradually, beating between each addition. Most recipes call for 1 1/4 cups of sugar to 3 egg whites but I prefer 1 cup as this makes it less sweet. Bake in a slow oven until dry, about an hour. If the meringues are to be used as cakes, drop them from a teaspoon and then after baking, put them together in pairs with sweetened and flavoured whipped cream. If to be used as a dessert, drop from a tablespoon and shape into ovals. The correct thing to do is to remove from the oven when firm, cut a piece from the bottom, remove soft part and return to the oven to complete drying. This is fussy work and takes time, so I have adopted a lazy method and let them dry out without removing the inside and as I said above, this takes an hour or so. To serve I put the filling on top and cover with whipped cream. They may not look quite as nice this way as when the filling is inside but they are satisfactory and much less trouble. On the other hand, if you have difficulty with the meringues breaking when removing the centres, they may look much better. Now as to filling. Crushed sweetened strawberries are just about the last word. But I make them the year round when strawberries are not always available, and use various other fillings. A generous spoonful of raspberry or strawberry jam is my most frequent filler. Pineapple is good and so is a lemon pie filling. Sometimes if I want them very grand I top them with ice cream and then whipped cream but the whipped cream, sweetened and flavoured, must always be used as it seems to have a natural affinity for meringues. These keep very successfully if stored in a tin box.

STRAWBERRY PINEAPPLE CONSERVE

2 quarts strawberries
2 cups diced or shredded pineapple
1/2 cup water
4 cups sugar
Cook strawberries and pineapple with the water slowly until the water has almost evaporated, stirring frequently. Add the sugar and cook until the mixture has thickened. Pour into sterilized glasses and cover with paraffin.

Spinach — The Vitamin Source Superlative

Two Danish doctors, Friderichsen and Edmund, have demonstrated the marked superiority of spinach over halibut and cod-liver oils as a source of Vitamin A. Vitamin A is the one that prevents the night blindness of children and adults. It has been amply proved that lack of this vitamin will bring on the affection of children known as hemeralopia or night blindness, a disease in which the vision is abnormally poor in a dim light although there is nothing in the condition of the eye to explain this.

The test applied to the solution of the problem by these Danish doctors was as follows: One hundred and six children between the ages of two months and two years were selected for the experiment. The children who remained well and who were nursed by their mothers either wholly or in part, were found to have proper vision. But those who were fed on a mixed diet or who suffered from some disease, had varying degrees of night blindness. When Vitamin A was given to these children, their eyesight showed an improvement in from 10 to 15 minutes. The normal condition of sight was reached in from 20 to 30 minutes.

Nancy Hart's HOME NEWS

FIRST AID HELPS FOR BRIDES

It wasn't long ago that a bride stepped into her new kitchen with misgivings as to the success of her forthcoming cakes and pies and roasts and stews. Experience too often proved a dear teacher, and the waste of good materials was disturbing to the balance of the food budget. Now modern methods used with modern equipment and food products have demonstrated that long practice is not necessary. Accuracy in measuring and in following tested and reliable recipes is the keynote of good cooking.

There are three factors which must be measured accurately every time a meal is prepared or a batch of baking is to be done. Time, temperature and ingredients painstakingly measured all determine the goodness of the finished product. A reliable recipe will give the amount of each ingredient, length of cooking time and temperature at which to cook the concoction.

Standard measuring cups and spoons are also highly important. An ordinary coffee cup or teacup seldom holds one-half pint, which is the standardized one-cup measure today. When it comes to accurately measuring fractions of a cup, the standard cup with the graduations plainly marked is imperative.

Two measuring cups, one for liquids and one for dry ingredients, are convenient.

Flour is sifted once before measuring. All dry ingredients such as sugar, salt, soda and baking powder are sifted before adding to other materials. Baking powder and soda usually are added to the flour after it has been sifted once and measured. Then this mixture is sifted several times before blending in the batter or dough.

When baking or using the oven or broiler in any way, be sure that the oven is preheated to the correct temperature. If your oven is not equipped with thermostatic heat-control, get a portable oven thermometer to guide you. Don't forget to preheat the broiler when you broil steaks and chops.

The time element is a bit more difficult to settle arbitrarily because many things such as atmosphere, condition of ingredients and the materials used in cooking utensils enter into this side of the question. However, most recipes give the time within a few minutes and with this knowledge the cook must use her own judgment.

A recipe is really a formula, quite as definite as any formula in chemistry. Too much of one thing and too little of another will destroy the proper proportions which have been worked out to give perfect results. Once the habit of accuracy is acquired, uniformly perfect results will be assured.

The size of cooking utensils is of far more importance than most people realize. The larger the surface exposed to heat the more rapid the evaporation. This accounts for many thick lumpy sauces and burned or over-cooked meats and vegetables.

All summer long fresh fruits lend themselves to delicious desserts, but shortcakes hold first place. All the berries, peaches and apricots make delectable old-fashioned shortcakes. The following recipe will make enough shortcake for two; if wanted for four, multiply each ingredient by two.

Strawberry Shortcake (For Two)—1 pint strawberries, 1/4 cup flour, 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons sugar, 2 tablespoons butter or other shortening, 1/2 cup milk (about).

Wash and hull berries, reserving six or eight for garnishing. Slice remaining berries and sprinkle with 2 or 3 tablespoons sugar. Let stand in a warm place to dissolve sugar. Mix and sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Work in butter with pastry blender or tips of fingers. Cut in milk with a knife, using enough milk to make a soft dough. Divide into halves and roll on a slightly floured molding board into round sheets about one-half inch thick. Put one half on an oiled and floured pie tin and brush the top evenly and generously with softened butter. Cover with second half and bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) for twenty minutes. Separate the halves of the cake. Put the bottom layer on a serving plate and spread with butter. Cover with sugared berries and add top layer. Cover with remaining berries and garnish with whole berries. Serve with sugar and plenty of rich cream.

Whipped cream can be spread over the top of the cake before the whole berries are added.

Household Hint: Honey or maple flavored corn syrup makes a good sauce for either chocolate or vanilla ice cream. The syrup stiffens as it is poured over the cream.

How Do You Walk?

Do you walk from your hips or your knees? Watch the movie stars and the models and you will see that they all walk from the hips. If you are not sure which you do, walk across the room right now and find out. Most of us seem to walk from our knees. If you are one of the many, and are very tired, try walking from the hips; it seems to give a different feeling, more peppy and vital. And you have to walk straight. When we are tired, we make it worse by slumping and even to straighten up makes us feel better. Tiredness is often mental, and by holding ourselves properly, we know that we look better and unconsciously it makes us feel better.

—Jessie Allen Brown.

To Outline Principles of Health Insurance

During the election of June 1, the people of British Columbia voted in favour of the principle of health insurance after a referendum on the subject had been submitted to the electors. The meaning of this referendum and a description of the principle of health insurance will be given by Dr. G. G. Sedgwick in a talk to be broadcast by the CBC from Vancouver tonight, June 24, at 9:30 p.m. EST. Dr. Sedgwick is Professor of English at the University of British Columbia and a keen student of public questions.

POISON IVY

In most rural communities this spiteful plant is common. It gets in its baneful work on tourists, campers, vacationists, as well as the native rural folk, and in the warm weather it is a very painful affliction. I have seen patients literally on fire, eyes swollen shut, high fever, and sometimes delirium, and all from ivy poisoning. It is not to be accepted lightly. Severe cases call for skilled medical attention.

Look out for poison ivy with its lance-head leaves, three in a group, growing vigorously over blighted trunks of trees, upon old fences and in neglected places. It is easy to know and avoid, if one tries.

Vigorous scrubbing with plenty of soapy water will sometimes ward off or lessen an attack after one has come in contact with the plant. Bear in mind that this is an acid poison and it takes "alkalies" to neutralize acids.

My best success with ivy poisoning has been with equal parts of grain alcohol and lime-water. The alcohol, with its affinity for water, rapidly eases the inflamed skin, and the lime-water counteracts the acid. Apply by cloths soaked in the solution until the trouble is corrected. Calamine lotion, which can be prepared by your local druggist, is also successful in many cases.

Never treat poison ivy with ointments or "salves"; they simply hold the poison in the tissues. Sugar of lead is sometimes used, but is dangerous because of lead poisoning. If you are extremely sensitive to ivy poisoning, consult your physician on the advisability of the immunizing serums or antigens.

Sold—14,000 miles from home

It's a long way from any dairy farm in Canada to Chienmai, Siam.

By railroad and steamer and pack train the distance is more than 14,000 miles. Yet products from Canadian dairy farms are used in Siam. Each year millions of pounds are bought and used in remote places throughout the world.

In 1857 Gail Borden's "canned" milk first opened the way for world-wide selling of dairy products. Foreign outlets for Canadian milk are the result of modern sales and research pioneering. Every million pounds of milk produced that finds a market in foreign lands, further supports the flow of milk money back to the farms of Canada.
