$10,000 LOSS IN SAWMILL BLAZE; FIREMEN CALLED TO ST. CANUT

Outbreak at Robertson Mill Started in Engine Room

The Robertson saw-mill near St. Canut, seven miles north-east of Lachute, was completely destroyed by fire on Monday afternoon. The outbreak occurred soon after the noon hour, starting in one end of the mill near the steam engine, where it had gained a strong headway before it was discovered.

James Robertson, proprietor of the mill, gave instructions to summon the Lachute Fire Brigade when it was found that his sons and willing helpers were powerless to stop the spreading blaze. The brigade's subsidiary fire truck arrived on the scene in short order and laying hose to the North River, not far from the mill, were able to save the stacked lumber, and the nearby house and barn.

The boiler was the only part of the engine room and mill left standing. The machinery was totally wrecked. Furnishings were removed from the home, which seemed to be threatened by flying embers. The total loss is estimated at $10,000, on which there was reported to be no insurance.

Mr. Robertson's two sons were both severely burned in escaping from the mill. The Lachute firemen played water on the ruins, from two lines of hose, until a late hour Monday night.

Succumbed Two Weeks After Her Husband's Death

THE LATE MRS. E. M. PATTERSON

After a lengthy illness, Mrs. Edward M. Patterson passed away on Monday, May 2nd, at the age of 79, exactly two weeks after the death of her husband, the shock of which proved too severe for her ailing health.

Formerly Susan Georgianna Brown, she was the daughter of the late James and Mary Brown of Rawdon, Que., and had been married for 43 years.

She is survived by three sisters — Mrs. Duggan, of Montreal, Mrs. J. N. McWood and Miss Bella Brown, of Ottawa; one brother, Thos. Brown, of Prosper, Vt.; two sons, Kyle, of Ogden, Alta., and Douglas at home; one daughter, Ida, of Montreal; and one grandson, Robt. Patterson, of Ogden. Service was held Wednesday afternoon at the home, on Brownsburg Road, by the Rev. W. B. Rosborough, and the remains laid to rest beside her late husband in the Lachute Cemetery. Sympathizing friends and relatives attended, and the pallbearers were Messrs. Geo. Hay, E. Walker, W. Cross, S. S. Campbell, J. Fraser and A. A. McGibbon.

Town to Purchase Truck; Council Appoints Valuers

The monthly meeting of Lachute Town Council was held in the Town Hall last evening, with Mayor Dr. A. Rodrigue in the chair. Aldermen Jas. McGibbon, W. J. Deacon, C. Durocher, E. Prevost, K. A. McOuat, F. Deslauriers and O. Laurin were present, with the secretary, Germain Filion.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Ald. J. A. McGibbon was appointed pro-mayor for the ensuing quarter.

On motion of Ald. W. J. Deacon, seconded by Ald. K. McOuat, Alcides Laurin, Geoffroy Bedard and Harry Scott were appointed town valuers for 1938.

Ald. Deacon gave notice of motion that at next meeting he would introduce a by-law levying a special tax on the interested property owners in "Laurinville" for the sewer installation in that section.

On motion of Ald. McGibbon, seconded by Ald. O. Laurin, the secretary was instructed to advise the council every month of the number of public charity cases in the town.

Ald. Prevost moved that the town purchase a new truck and trade-in their old vehicle to best advantage.

Bus Service Resumed

Brownsburg — The frost was declared to be out of the roads on Saturday, midnight. Flagmen were removed and the highways opened to heavy traffic. After a considerable lay-off, the Provincial Transport Company's buses to this point were again put into operation.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS HAVE NEW QUARTERS

The local Council of the Knights of Columbus is now occupying its new hall and offices, located in the building owned by the Farmers' Supply Company on Foundry Street. The interior of the building is newly painted and decorated, and has been remodeled to meet the requirements of the K. of C. Order. The change is reported to be a great improvement and members of the local Council will appreciate the added convenience afforded by these new quarters.

Old "Beaverboard Avenue" in Brownsburg Is Rapidly Disappearing, Homes Rebuilt

C.I.L. PROVIDES FACILITIES FOR WOULD-BE HOME OWNERS

Brownsburg — That picturesque variegated street known as "Beaverboard" is fast disappearing, and at the present rate of demolition, before long it should be but an unpleasant memory. Like all primitive and un-stabilized pioneering endeavors, it was a product of the times. Dwelling accommodation had to be procured, and quickly. Speed was the essence of its birth and scant attention could be applied to its sanitary arrangements, or to the conveniences of modern civilization. Hence its conception was on the lines of a gypsy encampment more than a permanent habitation. Today, surrounded by modern, well-built homes and despite a shortage of housing facilities, the need for "Beaverboard" is disappearing. Alternative accommodation is being made easily procurable and in a very few years it will have given way to a more sanitary system of homes, and one less menacing from a public health point of view.

With commendable zeal and public spirit the Canadian Industries Limited have made the procurement of homes moderately easy for all who have foresight and courage to grasp the opportunities offered to them. Some there are who prefer the old order; some there were who traveled the streets of "by and by" and arrived at the house of "never." But to the prudent, enterprising would-be house owner, the plan offered by C.I.L. to its employees offers advantages which cannot be gainsaid.

Well Known Citizen Struck By Taxi on Main Street

A well known townsman, Lemuel Barron, was the victim of a street accident last Friday afternoon. Mr. Barron had been riding on a truck driven by Jean Theoret. Arriving at the Barron home on Main Street, Lachute, he had disembarked from the vehicle when he was struck by a taxi being driven in the same direction by Chas. Campeau.

Knocked unconscious, Mr. Barron was taken to the office of Dr. J. H. Mason suffering from severe head wounds. He was later removed to his residence on Barron Avenue, and is now reported to be making a good recovery.

"THE OTTAWA SPOTLIGHT"

Ottawa, May 3rd. — The annual parliamentary budget, always an event of interest not only to parliament but to the whole country, will probably be presented to the House of Commons within a few days. The exact date is still conjectural. Budget provisions are always carefully guarded until the Minister of Finance makes his speech, but it may be assumed that the budget will practically be balanced. There may even be a small surplus, with all that that means to the country's credit at home and abroad. The rumor persists that there will be very little change in rates of taxation. Income taxes are almost certain to remain at present levels. The government has been pressed by some members to lower the sales tax rate, and by

Big Attendance at Sale

At the cattle dispersion sale held by D. A. McPhee at Vankleek Hill Wednesday of last week, a record crowd of 1,500 people are reported to have been present. They came from different parts of Canada and the United States. Forty head of cattle were bought by U. S. buyers.

STORE WINDOW DRESSED IN NEW SUMMER VEIN

Not only in line with the season, but somewhat ahead of the summer months, John McFaul & Son have introduced the camping theme in dressing their Main Street store window. One of their show-windows strikes a happy thought in the mind of the passer-by. It represents a camping site with a miniature tent (lighted at night), a canoe on mirrored glass suggesting the water's edge, camp tools and fishing equipment on a mossy floor. The merchandise is aptly displayed in the handling of this exhibit, which impresses one as a picturesque scene rather than a sales lay-out. The store is to be commended on its superior window decorating.

Break-Up This Spring Played Havoc With Louisa Boat-Houses

EARLY CAMPERS DISMAYED ON FIRST VISITS TO LAKE

The ice-break at Lake Louisa — a matter of annual conjecture and mis-giving among many summer residents — took a vindictive turn this spring and twisted many boat-houses and wharves on the south-east shoreline. Landing stages were twisted bodily and boat-houses tipped to a precarious angle; in one case a boat-house was thrown completely over on its side.

This stretch of shore is particularly prone to vagaries of the weather. While other exposures enjoy a natural protection, the heaviest winds sweep from the north-west and premises on the opposite shore suffer the worst effects.

One explanation of the havoc this spring is that the ice in the farthest extremity broke earlier, while the lake remained frozen solid at this side. The pressure of the ice floes, forced by high winds, moved the unbroken mass bodily, shifting everything that was locked still in its grasp. The lake water is reported to be low, but apparently it has not varied, so the damage cannot be explained by any rise or fall of water-level.

St. Jerome to Brighten Town, Re-Garb Fire and Police Force

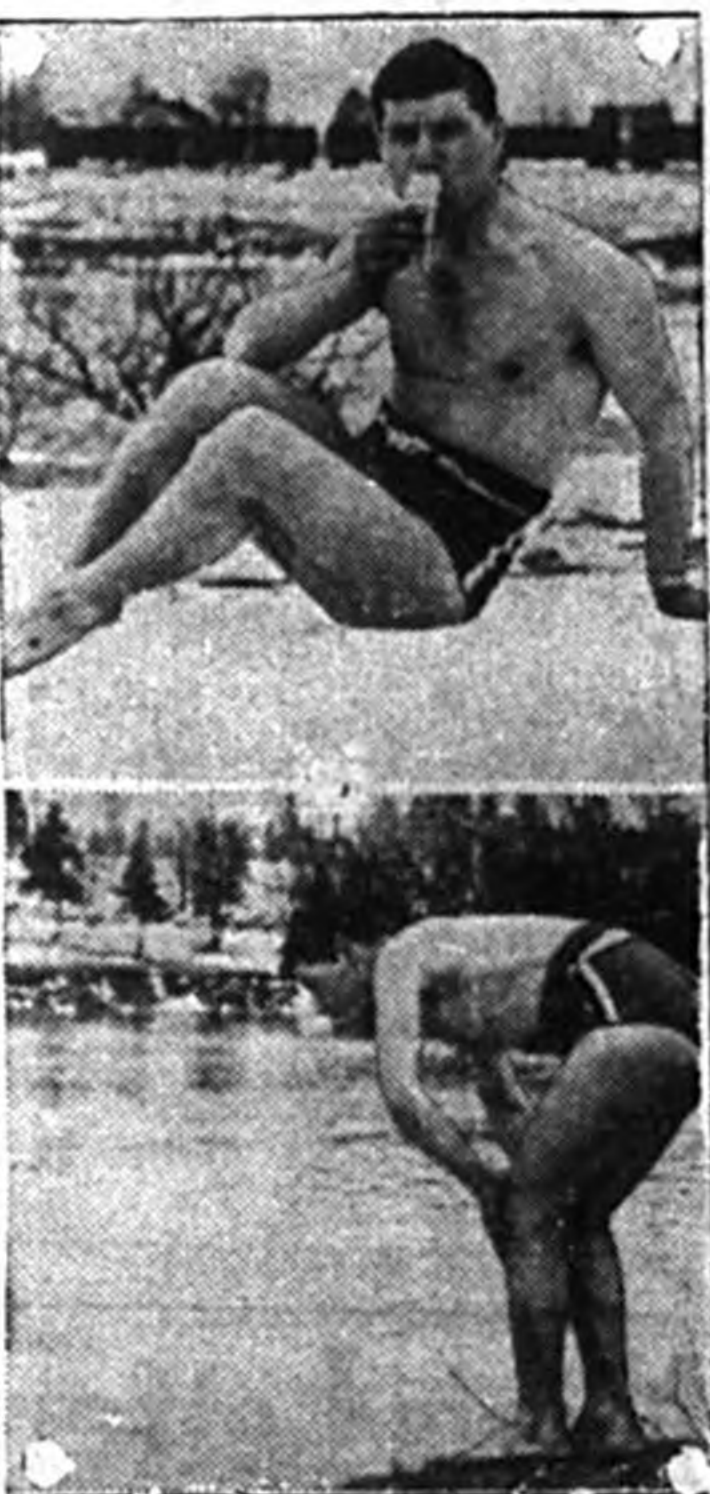

St. Jerome Council at its last regular meeting decided to make an effort to brighten up the town at night.

The Gatieneau Power Company will be requested to give citizens a special low rate for verandah and gallery lights and, if this is granted, council will ask that citizens leave these lights turned on all night.

Council also decided to provide new uniforms for the 12 members of the police and fire departments and for Chief Latour and his assistant, Herve Desjardins. These will be grey with brass buttons with a military tie and cap. The Sam Browne belt in yellow will be worn.

Intrepid Swimmer Likes Water Near Freezing Point

HUMAN SEAL WILL PERFORM EXHIBITION SWIMS HERE AND AT CARILLON

A brawny Armenian by the name of Krikor Hekimian, a naturalized Canadian after eleven years in this country, delights in the pastime of defying ice-cold temperatures. A lifeguard and professional swimmer, this young man can scarcely wait for the ice to break before he is frolicking in some Canadian waterway. Known as a "human seal" he claims to have dipped in nearly every river of importance from coast to coast.

Last Sunday police prevented him from diving off the Perley Bridge at Hawkesbury, but he gave an exhibition of stunt swimming in the rapids and the canal, witnessed by a large crowd of people.

Next Sunday Hekimian will open the swimming season here in the North River at Barron's Bridge, at 2:30 p.m. At 3:30 o'clock he will swim the Ottawa River at Carillon, and has already made bets on the time it takes him to cross the swirling river. He offers $25 to anyone who can stay in the water as long as he can. . . . By way of variety, Hekimian also pulls a car along with his teeth.

The Armenian is 23 years of age. Newspapers in the section near Chilli-wack, B.C., claim he is the only man who ever swam the treacherous Fraser River at that point and lived to tell the tale. He uses no grease or oil, his body being impervious to cold. In winter he wears no underwear, hat or gloves, and never catches a cold.

The One That Got Away

Brownsburg — The fishing season opened with a bang — or was it a splash! — over the week-end. Some very large catches are reported — the largest of which just "came to the top."

House of Commons seeks authority for the Minister of Finance to refund "matured, maturing and callable obligations" of the Canadian National Railways, and to issue in their place new securities guaranteed by the Dominion Government to an amount not exceeding 200 million dollars. The new securities will bear lower rates of interest than the maturing bonds, which of course means a saving to the Government in annual interest charges.

The annual banquet given by pupils of Grades IX and X and the teaching staff of Lachute High School to the graduating class, was held in the school last Friday. This event is anticipated with keen pleasure each spring. Last week's gathering was the eighth annual function of its kind, and proved that the idea is growing in popularity with each successive year.

The spacious banquet hall was tastefully decorated with the school colours, blue and white, and a happy time was spent around the tables.

Principal Clifton L. Hall, as chairman of the evening, spoke briefly of the splendid co-operation evidenced between scholars and staff. The gathering rose in response to his toast to the King, followed by a toast to the graduating class, proposed by Miss Therese Bernier. This was given in the following terms:

"We are gathered here tonight to do honor to our graduating class. They are the ones who have passed through each of the various school experiences just ahead of us, and they are the ones to whom we have looked for guidance in any time of doubt. Tonight it is most fitting that we should pay tribute to them, as they prepare to leave us and enter a larger sphere of life. There they may find new and strange experiences, but our greatest wish for them is that they may find their new life as happy as their old has been, and that they may make friends who will be as true to them and as inspiring in their friendship as they have been to us."

"We of the classes succeeding them assure them that, as we in our turn shall stand where Grade Eleven stand tonight, we shall be satisfied if only we can pass on to succeeding grades the very high example that they have set for us. I ask you all to rise and join me in drinking the health of our graduating class."

Hawkesbury Youth Struck By Hit-and-Run Driver

Struck by a hit-and-run driver on the main street of Hawkesbury Saturday night, Paul Emile Cuenier, 17, was picked up by passers-by and rushed to Dr. E. P. Kelly's Hospital, where he was found to be suffering from severe cuts about the face and body and possible internal injuries.

The boy, who was an employee of the Dominion stores, was returning to the store on his bicycle, when he was struck by a car travelling in the opposite direction. The car made no attempt to stop and the victim was unable to get the license number.

Ste. Therese in Mix-Up Over Advanced Time

Because the Ste. Therese town council decided to adopt Daylight Saving Time only on June 19 to meet the needs of various religious institutions, and because a number of local factories, to adjust themselves to conditions in Montreal, commenced operating under Daylight Saving Time when the change became effective in other places, the population of Ste. Therese found themselves in a general mix-up last week.

In one factory the men started work on Daylight Saving, while in another next door they were on Standard Time. It caused much annoyance to housewives whose husbands were working on Daylight Saving while the sons worked in a plant on Standard Time.

So many complaints were received that the Council decided some measure must be taken to remedy the confusion without delay.

Oddfellows From Lachute Pay Fraternal Visit

Last evening a number of Lachute Oddfellows responded to an invitation and accompanied Mr. W. D. Stewart of this town to Grenville Lodge No. 279 at Kemptville, Ont. After the regular routine of business, the visitors were escorted to the banquet hall in connection with the lodge, where a program of entertainment and community singing was enjoyed. The presentation of 25-year veteran jewels was made to two members of the Kemptville Lodge, Mr. Stewart is Noble Grand of the Lodge, having moved here from Kemptville during his term of office.

$3,000,000 BRIDGE BEING BUILT

Late this year a new 8,000 foot international bridge costing $3,000,000 will link Canada and United States. The new structure is the "Blue Water" bridge stretching from Sarnia, Ont., on the Canadian side to Port Huron, Mich., on the American side. It will tower 152 feet above the St. Clair river, giving ample clearance for all boats navigating the Great Lakes. The picture was taken from the Port Huron end of the new span.

Our Farm News Letter

Contributed by

B. Leslie Emslie, C.D.A. (Glas.) F.C.S.

TIDING GRAIN OVER THE WEANING STAGE

"Grain sown in this field would sprout and come up as quickly as in any other field but, when nicely greened over, it would seem to stand for weeks without much change; then it would thin out and produce a light crop." Thus wrote a farmer when sending samples of his soil for analysis. Tested in the laboratory, the soil sample from the area described was found to be low in organic matter, very notably deficient in available phosphoric acid, as well as in potash. In other words, it was a poor soil, lacking the available plant food needed to start and produce a normal crop.

This farmer was observant, having noted the symptoms and made a request for a diagnosis. It is a case of general debility, but not an incurable one, says B. Leslie Emslie, well known soil expert. Many, too many, farmers have had a similar experience with their grain crops, some accepting the situation as a matter of course or regarding it as a natural phenomenon. Here is the interpretation, and it's no dream: The seed grain germinated and came up "as quickly as in any other field." Seed will germinate in any soil if provided the necessary moisture and proper temperature, for the young seedling derives its initial nourishment from the store in the seed itself. Then comes the weaning stage: when the supply of baby food is used up, and the tender plants must begin to forage for themselves. Unless the soil can furnish readily available nutrients — nitrogen especially at this stage — the young plants become starved and stunted, turn yellowish and resume growth only when the soil temperature reaches the point where nitrification of organic matter commences and liberates nitrogen for assimilation by the crop.

Fall wheat and other grain crops, even in normally fertile soils, may be deprived of nitrogen in early spring, having to wait for supplies until the bacterial process of nitrification gets going, unless help comes from another source; the early spring application of nitrate of soda at the rate of 100 or 125 pounds per acre. As its name applies, this fertilizer contains its nitrogen as nitrate, the form in which the element is absorbed by plants, and there's no waiting. Many a field of fall wheat that has wintered poorly has been saved by this means. Other nitrogen fertilizers, somewhat slower in action, are sulphate of ammonia and cyanamid, and the latter may be made to serve a dual purpose where wild mustard and certain other rough-leaved weeds are to be suppressed. In England the spring application of a nitrogen fertilizer to winter wheat, as a supplement to the dressing with a phosphate-potash fertilizer at seeding time, is standard practice.

While nitrogen is of primary importance in early spring, plentiful supplies of available phosphate and potash are essential to the proper crop. If with the spring-sown grain a fairly liberal application of 2-12-6 or 2-16-6 be drilled in, no additional nitrogen is likely to be needed on soils well supplied with organic matter.

As a supplement to the initial fertilizing, nitrate of soda applied to mangels and turnips at thinning time has been found to stimulate remarkably the re-establishment and vigorous growth of the disturbed and temporarily weakened plants.

It is no disgrace to occasionally say, "I do not know." To assume any other attitude at certain times is to make men doubt your veracity part of the time and be sure of your asininity most of the time.

Today and Tomorrow

FRANK PARKER STOCKBRIDGE

AMATEURS . . . lose shirts

The ablest and shrewdest financier I know is Bernard M. Baruch. He has made more millions than most men of our time by buying and selling securities in Wall Street. For years he made that sort of trading his whole business, devoting all of his thought and effort to it. Once he was asked to tell how an ordinary person could make money in stock speculation. "You can't," he said, "No amateur can. You'll lose your shirt if you try."

The other day Mr. Baruch told a Congressional Committee "the public is always wrong in trying to speculate successfully in the stock market. The public buys at the wrong time and sells at the wrong time."

I think that is true of most people who try to make money in lines in which they have little training or experience. It looks easy to an outsider to run a grocery store, but 95 per cent of people who try it fail. Nothing looks easier than Toscanini conducting a symphony orchestra, but he gets $40,000 a year because there are few men who can do it at all and none as well.

RUSSIA . . . still "purging"

The news coming out of Russia of the "purge" of the Communist party by the execution of some of the men who have been leaders in governmental activities because they are alleged to have been unfaithful to party principles, ought to make a lot of young Canadians stop and think. What happens whenever a single group tries to control the thoughts and actions of a whole people is that every so often a lot of people whose thoughts and acts might threaten the control of the group in power have to be killed off.

There is no means short of physical force to make people conform to regulations which run contrary to their belief, traditions and customs. All "authoritarian" governments use similar methods.

In Italy, Mussolini uses castor oil in huge doses instead of bullets. To insure his control of the government, voters are given ballots containing only one name for each office. To insure a unanimous vote, posters are put up declaring that "anyone who does not vote is sick. Anyone who is sick needs castor oil." That method is effective in keeping Fascism in power by "popular" vote!

RADIO . . . since 1921

I heard my first radio broadcast in 1921, less than 17 years ago. Nobody else had heard a radio broadcast much before then. There were three radio broadcasting stations in the United States at that time and none anywhere else in the world. The receiving sets were primitive contraptions in which a small wire, known as a "cat's whisker" had to be adjusted to touch a piece of rock crystal at a particular time.

The other day I saw a statement issued by the International Broadcasting office in Geneva stating that there are 69,700,000 receiving sets in use throughout the world. In America there are more than 600 broadcasting stations.

Therein is a conclusive answer to the pessimists who are always bewailing that progress has stopped and opportunity with it. An entire great new world-wide industry has been created in less than 18 years with nothing but an invention to start with. Billions of capital have found profitable investment, millions of men and women given employment. At this moment there are hundreds of new inventions under development, any one of which may hold the same sort of opportunity.

HEAT . . . electrically

I talked not long ago with a great electrical engineer. He told me a new method of using electrical energy to produce heat which is still in the experimental stage. Laboratory tests, my friend said, indicate that the time is close when heating buildings by electric current will cost only a quarter as much as coal or oil.

A new and far more economical way of carrying electricity over long distances was announced the other day. When such new inventions become commercially available, what a revolution will come about in our methods of building and living!

Snores From Morgue

Deputy coroners going through Philadelphia's morgue in a dark basement were startled to hear snores from the crematory adjoining. The crematory had not been used for some time and was cold. After collecting their wits, the coroners' men made investigation and found the source of the snores to be a man lying on the floor asleep. Awakened, the trespasser said he was Clarence Allen, 55, a transient. Looking for a place to take a nap, he said he found a basement door open and wandered in, made himself as comfortable on the floor as he could and was soon dead to the world, regardless of his surroundings.

In the discussion over this bill in the House, the Minister of Finance mentioned that the bonds of the Dominion Government now bear an annual interest of from 3 1/4 to 3 1/2 per cent on the average and that the Canadian National obligations, most of which are guaranteed by the Dominion, have an average interest rate of about 4 per cent. Through the process of refunding the national debt at lower interest rates, which has been going on for some years, the total indebtedness, although now 1,000 million dollars in excess of the amount of the debt 15 years ago, has a total interest charge no higher than it was in 1924. Where the greatest saving has been effected has been in refunding bonds issued in the war period when interest rates on government borrowing were 5 to 5 1/2 per cent. In some cases these issues were tax exempt.

To get the lower rates on money it borrows will continue to be the policy of the Government, the Finance Minister told the House, but it will not break its pledged word.

IMPORTANT QUESTIONS BEFORE PARLIAMENT

Among the important questions before the Dominion parliament on which debate has already been resumed, or will shortly come again before the houses, are: (a) unemployment relief. Earlier in the session the minister of labour, Mr. Norman Rogers, made a general statement on unemployment conditions throughout the country and the measures of various kinds which the government has been employing to deal with the conditions. The new bill, introduced in the House of Commons, as explained by the Minister, does not differ materially from the Unemployment and Agricultural Assistance Act, 1937; (b) Mr. Howe's transport bill; (c) measures of electoral reform; (d) a measure for the control and regulation of the operations of loan companies. There are also a number of other bills, one to amend the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act, one dealing with seal fishing in the Pacific, another with radio, another coming later to amend the criminal code and so on. In the senate a committee will investigate the railway situation in Canada. Leading officials of both railway systems will be heard before this committee, their views on unification and other questions will be given, and perhaps further light will be turned on this most perplexing of problems. In the Commons, interest will attach to further discussions on departmental estimates, those of the National Defence Department being probably of most vital public interest.

BRITISH AIRCRAFT PURCHASES IN CANADA

The approaching visit of the British Air Commission to Canada after it has completed its survey of United States aircraft plants continues to be the subject of speculative interest. It has become quite clear that Canadian manufacturers would welcome the opportunity of supplying aircraft to the United Kingdom. It seems not at all improbable that in future the immunity of Canadian plants from the danger of aerial attack might be a factor in the establishment of an important industry in Canada to supplement the aircraft industry in Britain. It has been further suggested that the same thing might apply to French aircraft needs. In any event Canadian factories, away from the immediate orbit of bombing planes, and also removed from the operation of United States neutrality regulations, would seem to be a normal and logical source of aircraft supply for the British force.

Blind Man's Village

Nine years ago, King Alexander of Yugoslavia ordered purchase by his government of a tract of land, in the centre of which a model village was established named Vetronik. A group of comfortable cottages was built and each given to a veteran blinded in the World War, along with a small acreage of ground on which to grow food. The government then advertised for wives for these blinded ex-soldiers. Twice the number of women and girls needed replied. A physician serving as mayor of the community, did the match-making, and soon every sightless veteran had a wife. The experiment has proved a pronounced success in rehabilitating these victims of war.

McArthur & Co. have just opened a meat market in Boas Block, Centre Ward — and don't you forget it. Orders can be sent from all parts of the town by telephone. (Adv't.)

A large delegation from Quebec interviewed Sir John Macdonald for the purpose of obtaining government aid for construction of a bridge over the St. Lawrence from Quebec to Point Levis.

Brownburg — Mr. Warwick, the contractor who is building the new bridge near the Dominion Cartridge Co's shops, has cedar and stone already drawn for construction.

The first young lady to receive the degree of B.A. from McGill University was Miss Blanche Evans, daughter of Rev. H. J. Evans, formerly of Lachute. Miss Evans graduated in Natural Science.

Mr. F. W. Hills has recently purchased from the Hills Estate the stone residence now occupied by him, the large tannery and land attached.

The Banque Ville Marie has declared a half-yearly dividend of 3 1/2 per cent.

Miss McNab, of Douglas, Ont., is now a guest of Mrs. Clunie.

According to a town council ruling, carters in this town are to be supplied with numbers by the Corporation.

Stonefield — John Hayes and Charles Cameron are busy rafting timber for Quebec.

Historical Society of Argenteuil County

NEWS BULLETIN

The answers to the question, "What are the factors which urge and make feasible the conversion of the Capillon Barracks into a history teaching museum?" may not be numbered according to their importance, but each of them should be weighed thoughtfully by present and future members of the Society, and by contributors towards its endowment fund, chiefly those at a distance who cannot study at close range the problems involved.

1. The obligation to honour the trust of the donor for so splendid a gift.

2. The equally binding obligation to honour and preserve the memory of our ancestors, who by their toils and hardships bequeathed to us so rich an inheritance, and to create a museum to preserve in concrete form the story of our pioneer civilization.

3. The urgent need of a burglar-proof and fire-proof repository for relics and documents is evident. Antiquarian treasures and historical records are things which cannot be replaced, and are of increasing value with the passing years; without such a structure they are in danger of being lost to posterity.

4. The old mill-pond, at the head of the gorge, gives promise of forceful hydrants for protection from fire and for a playing fountain to beautify the proposed park.

5. The structure built for a garrison during the second decade of the last century, is in a state of preservation which reveals that the Royal Engineers and their stone masons built for posterity when going down to primitive rock to lay its foundation, and it is a remarkable coincidence that its design should so well meet the need of a well-planned museum. The arrangement of its walls and chambers could not well be improved upon for the convenience of its varied activities. An auditorium for lectures and educational pageants of historic portent, could easily be attained by the removal of one or two partitions from the large chambers of the upper flat. Equally promising is the northwest section of the building for a well appointed residence for the administrator. The attic bedrooms with their picturesque windows are worth preservation for old-timers' home-coming festivals.

6. The importance of its function as a history-teaching centre for the public schools of this region.

7. Its prospect as a fertile source of revenue, on account of its strategic location, tapping the tide of pleasure tourists who frequent these popular river-view highways connected by the Carillon ferry.

8. The fact that the enterprise is sponsored by a chartered corporation, quite free from class, racial, and political boundaries, and has a universal appeal and an opportunity for cultural enjoyment as alluring to the mature as to the youthful mind.

9. Equally important is its patriotic purpose in strengthening the "entente cordiale" of two great races of common Norman ancestry, blending their cultures in a noble institution and giving it an Ottawa Valley colour and atmosphere all its own.

10. The assurance that can be extended to members, new and old, that there is no risk of becoming involved in burdensome liabilities. The gift is free of all encumbrance, and exempt from future taxation; hence the property becomes an asset instead of a liability from the outset in the light of the decision that no debts be allowed and a balanced budget be preserved.

In the interest of a widening membership and a growing endowment fund it is important that these facts be broadcast.

At the same time, the condition of the structure warrants the appeal to the Federal Commission for the Preservation of Historic Sites for the needed $16,000 to make it and its surroundings worthy of its high destiny as a shrine for generations to come.

In the possession of this structure, so rich in historic interest and so favorably placed, the Rubicon has been crossed, where comes into vision the promised land of a notable achievement, "a factor of tremendous power in education" (Parker's manual, page 7).

There are other rivers to cross, but the charts and compass provided point the way.

While an adequate endowment is important, what is of paramount importance to assure a perennial interest is an active and growing membership, for experience has proved that members take more interest in what they do for themselves than in what is done for them.

The consideration of other important factors had better be delayed till the matter of government co-operation is settled.

Figures With A Moral

A recent news story from Washington contained the following sentence: "Canada, which took merchandise valued at $510,000,000 (in 1937) or 33 per cent more than in 1936, was the second largest foreign market (for American exports)." At the other end of the scale American imports from Canada were worth $399,000,000, or six per cent more than in 1936.

An adverse trade balance with the United States of $111,000,000 in one year is one which should give Canadians cause for thought. These imports are equivalent to a per capita expenditure of practically a dollar a week for every man, woman and child in this country. That, of course, is theoretical, because the American goods included raw materials necessary to manufacturers in Canada. However, it is interesting to speculate that if the dollar a week had been spent on Canadian merchandise, wherever possible, it would have meant a tremendous increase in sales and lead to the absorption of many of our unemployed.

A few years ago, in an advertisement released by the Dominion government, it was estimated that manufactured goods with a value of $5,610 provided work for one man (presumably for one year). If that estimate is true, then our imports from the United States last year represented employment for 9,090 Canadians. Of course, this is only one side of the picture. Canada obviously cannot expect to maintain trade without imports and exports, but it would be worthwhile finding out what percentage of those American imports competed, right on our own hearth, with the products of the Dominion and to what extent their sale in this country deprived our own people of employment. Without in any way damaging our friendly relations with the United States, our people would be helping themselves in a practical way if they became imbued with the "Buy Canadian" idea where price and quality are satisfactory.

Mass Hatred!

To a visitor from Mars this Earth must be a strange and confusing place. The first question a Martian would ask would be: "Why does everybody hate everybody else so?"

Not in many years has hatred been as widespread and worldwide. It is manifested everywhere. Groups hating other groups. It almost seems as if the world has made no progress toward real civilization since the traditional episode of the Tower of Babel, when men suddenly found themselves speaking in different tongues and fighting one another because no man could understand his neighbor, and everyone feared everybody else.

That is the situation of the social order today. We do not understand each other and we fear that which we do not understand. If the whole world spoke the same language it would not help much. Some of the most bitter hatreds are between classes and groups, all of whose

A Mother's Hands

A benediction lies within her hands,
To soothe and guide our childish steps a-right,
And by their tender touch, and magic love,
Give to the darkness an unfailing light.

They lift the cup, to cool our fevered thirst,
And give us strength life's enemies to face,
They smooth away the thorns that line our path,
So subtly hidden, only love could trace.

Some-day, they will be folded on her breast,
With flowers strewn upon them lying there,
O, let us on this "Mother's Day," take heed,
And bring to living hands, our blossoms rare.

— Dorothy Sproule.

members converse in the same tongue; the most serious war now going on is in Spain where both sets of combatants have a common speech. Nor are racial differences and prejudices entirely at the bottom of the prevailing mass hatreds. Again we have the example of Spain.

The explanation of such hatreds as cause wars and keep peoples and groups apart lies deeper than any superficial or external difference. At the bottom of it all are differences of fundamental beliefs and principles. Men hate each other because they have divergent and irreconcilable ideas about morals, ethics, behavior and religion. Classes hate each other because each fears that the other class is trying to deprive it of what it conceives to be its rights or privileges. Nations and races hate each other for similar reasons.

At the root of it all is intolerance and inability or refusal to recognize the right of every man and every social group to have its own ideas and to live in accordance with its own standards without interference from outside. The intolerance which seeks to impose its own ideas upon others is the basis of most of the hatreds in this troubled world.

Illicit Train-Riders Increasing

A total of 2,569 illegal train riders and other trespassers on railroad property lost their lives in 1937, according to complete reports for 1937, just received by George A. Shea, Director of Investigation, C.N. Railways. At the same time, 2,629 trespassers were injured. The prevalence of vagrancy, which looms large in the figures quoted, therefore presents a safety problem as grave as the unemployment and relief situation which is taxing Canadian municipalities.

Trespassing on railway property has materially increased in recent years. Accident studies show that approximately 50 per cent of the accidents to passengers result fatally. Because of that fact a concerted drive is being made by the railroads to reduce trespassing as much as possible.

Reports show that approximately 3,600,000 illegal train riders or trespassers were removed from trains, prevented from getting on trains, or ejected from railroad premises, but not arrested, by eighty of the principal railroads in North America during 1937. This was an average of 300,000 trespassers per month.

In January, this year, 211,561 trespassers were ejected from trains or from railroad premises, an increase of fourteen per cent compared with January, 1937; and in February, this year, the number was 211,035, or an increase of twelve per cent compared with February, last year.

Brownsburg Council

Mr. Lepine — "If you get a parking lot, it would be free, I presume?"

Mr. Graham was not in favor of providing a parking lot. "We have a by-law, but can we enforce it?" he asked.

Secretary — "Yes. The road officer, Albert Legault, kept our parking reservations clear at any dangerous corner, but he would not attend to right-of-way or thoroughfare prohibitions."

Mr. Graham — "If you have the authority, I am in favour of enforcing the law. It will be fairer to all concerned."

Mr. McPaul — "Put signs on one side and leave the other side free. If we go to other towns we may have to travel a mile for a place to park."

Mr. Ouellette — "We should not provide parking grounds."

Mr. Lepine favored a 30-minute parking privilege, but the Mayor enquired who was to check on the time. It was eventually decided to have the Council's solicitor, Mr. G. Héon, M.P., draft a by-law to cover the matter of parking in certain sections of the village.

DOGS

Secretary — "Now we come to the famous By-law No. 10, of which notice of motion was given at last meeting. Mr. Héon has perused the draft which we presented to him, and finds that it is entirely in accordance with the law except that the amount of fine for infringement should be $20 and not $5."

The provisions of the by-law permitted a tax of $2 for the keeping of any dog, male or female; a tax not exceeding $2 for each dog found in possession of any person from May 15; a fine not exceeding $20 for any dog, male or female, causing a public nuisance by following cars, or annoying petitioner or resident, or causing damage — to be imposed following a signed affidavit by the injured party, in addition to the fine, a jail sentence of 30 days, or both fines and imprisonment may be imposed.

Mr. W. J. Graham, who had handed in the previous notice of motion, withdrew his motion. The present notice of motion, as corrected according to the lawyer's advice, was handed in by Mr. L. Ouellette.

Mr. H. R. Ardill wrote asking the Council to install some road lights on Maple Avenue South, for the purpose of abating the nuisance of parking along this highway and in the vicinity of his entrance gate.

Mr. Ardill further called attention to the practice of dumping refuse on the Canada Safety Fuse Company's property along by the river. The privilege of using this ground to reach the river was abused by this practice.

Mayor Ball — "The Canadian Safety Fuse Company left this ground unfenced to accommodate the people on the other side of the road in getting water, and this action deserves to be appreciated." Mr. Ball said he would personally call on all the residents and see that the practice was discontinued.

On the suggestion of Mr. Lepine, the matter of additional lights was referred to the electric light company.

The Council accepted the offer of Canadian Industries Ltd., to hand over three roads adjoining the company's property, to be maintained by the Council.

A letter was read from the Provincial Government, stating that an inspector would visit Brownsburg to look into the question of waterworks.

CREDIT

It belongs to you—the community does not own it.

* *

BANKS live by lending.

That is their major source of income, their principal business. They are always on the lookout for good risks. They have to avoid poor ones.

Let us give an instance. Suppose, say, a man seeking a bank loan, is known to the banker as having no business capacity to carry out the purposes for which he wants the money. He is not credit-worthy—he has accumulated nothing, has no stake.

The banker, anxious though he is to make loans, knows there is not the remotest chance that this man would succeed in his purpose and tells the would-be borrower that the bank cannot take the risk.

But this man has a friend—a man who has accumulated something and has a stake. Hearing of his neighbour's difficulty, he goes to the bank and urges that the loan be made.

"Whose money would you have me lend him?" asks the manager. "You have a deposit here. Would you lend your own money?"

"Not on your life," retorts Mr. Blank. "Lend him the bank's money."

The bank manager, as custodian of this very man's own money, then takes pains to point out that what the substantial citizen is really expecting, is that the bank should make a loan which the citizen's own common sense and caution would compel him to refuse.

Before such a man leaves the bank he usually agrees that he had expected the bank to lend where he himself would be unwilling. Banks have no magic source of credit.

Here is the core of the whole business of a bank's extending credit. Because of the bank's responsibility to its depositors it can make loans only where repayment is reasonably certain.

To obtain a loan from a bank a borrower must have credit of his own. Seldom, if ever, is his credit spendable. You cannot spend cattle, goods in process of manufacture, uncaught fish, uncut timber, or wheat in the granary.

The bank has credit too. Millions of small depositors have, in effect, lent it their money. A percentage of this money, based on bank experience of withdrawals, is kept in cash, some more in items of a cash nature, more still in assets quickly convertible into cash, and more in safe investments such as marketable government and other bonds. Based upon this, the bank can extend credit.

Because people have confidence in bank credit, and because every promise-to-pay of a chartered bank is redeemable in cash, on demand, or on a fixed date, this form of credit is spendable.

In the case of the borrower, credit is the personal possession or attribute of the individual—you yourself, if you are the borrower—in character, goods, possessions, integrity, ability and willingness to repay.

Your credit is not social, in the sense of belonging to the community. When you have credit, it is your own just as your money in a savings account is your own. The people at large have no conceivable claim upon it.

Who exchanges non-spendable credit for credit that can be spent?

The answer for all practical purposes is this: The man who owns and therefore controls his credit takes the initiative. The bank does not go to him. He goes to the bank and asks it to enable him to obtain credit in spendable form in exchange for his own unspendable credit. The bank does so; and charges him a rental in the form of interest, until he repays.

What happens when he secures this credit in spendable form?

He spends it. He pays the wages of labour, the cost of raw materials and of manufacture; the cost of seed, of feed for hogs and cattle, or the expenses of cultivating and harvesting; of buying bait or catching fish; of cutting trees or transporting goods.

The whole banking process is made possible by the concentration and cautious handling of other people's money.

Banks simply dare not risk their own solvency and so jeopardize the safety of their depositors' funds, by making loans to people who have neither character nor credit—nor by making loans even to those who have both, without taking every reasonable precaution to ensure repayment.

HOUSE CONSTRUCTION IN GREAT BRITAIN

According to the latest reports 3,358,473 workmen's dwellings have been constructed in England and Wales since 1919. Of this number 1,971,851 have been built by private enterprise, principally with the aid of the building societies, and 1,386,622 by the various municipalities with the help of government funds. In Scotland the total number of working class houses completed by municipal authorities since 1919 is 186,404.

CITY SLIPS DOWN HILL

The courts of Arizona will soon be called upon to decide which of two large copper companies removing ore from a mountain, is responsible for the shifting of the site of the town of Jerome. Several years ago it was noticed the mountainside on which this town, with a population of 6,000 persons, stands, had begun to move. At first it shifted only a few inches a year. In the last few months, the city has slipped down the mountainside 25 feet causing damage to many buildings, some of which had to be torn down because they threatened to topple over. The case to decide where the blame for this landslide belongs will be one of the most unique in court history. When a decision is reached one or both of the copper mining companies will be sued for damages.

In Canada there are about 130 museums open to the public for the study of art, history, science, or industry.

ARISTOTLE'S "IDEAL MAN"

He does not speak evil of others, even of his enemies, unless it be to themselves. He bears the accidents of life with dignity and grace, making the best of his circumstances, like a skillful general who marshals his limited forces with all the strategy of war... he is his own best friend, and takes delight in privacy, whereas the man of no virtue or ability is his own worst enemy, and is afraid of solitude. —Aristotle in The Ethics.

THE BURGOMASTER IN GERMANY

In German municipalities there are two important people, the Burgermeister and the local representative of the National Socialist Party. If the post of Burgermeister falls vacant, it has to be publicly advertised. Candidates must have passed certain State legal examinations. The Burgermeister is appointed for 12 years, and has power to appoint all municipal officials, except for finance. The Burgermeister is responsible for local administration, but in certain matters he has to consult the local representative of the National Socialist (Nazi) Party.

Membership of the National Socialist Party is not compulsory for officials; most of them, however, belong to an affiliated association of the party, the German Officials Association. This looks after their special interests, provides for insurance and social activities, and maintains academies for the further training of officials already in the service. —Dr. Erich Kordt.

Gentlemen:—

The Checker Cab Company Windsor Limited, at this particular time, have had occasion to review its operation of the last seven years, during which period we have enjoyed a close connection with your Company and appreciate your fine co-operation.

In our seven years continuous operation we have covered over eleven million (11,000,000) miles, and upon making a close checkup find to our amazement that we have not had occasion to replace Rods or Bearings in our cars due to improper lubrication. Our experience in this extent has so impressed us that we are prompted to make a statement to this effect, thinking it might be of interest to you. Further, during the aforesaid period, we have used your Autolene Oil exclusively in our fleet of forty-eight cabs.

Only Dickens Statue
A statue of Charles Dickens and little Nell, one of his famous characters, is in Clark park, at Forty-third street and Baltimore avenue, in West Philadelphia. It is the only one ever made of the novelist, says a writer in the Philadelphia Inquirer, because his son discovered a clause in his will asking "never on any account to make me the subject of any monument, memorial or testimonial whatever." The work is by F. Edwin Elwell. It was exhibited at the World's Columbian exposition, where it received a gold medal.

The Tragedy of the White Collar Man... The Predicament of the Municipality

RADIO ADDRESS BY MAYOR GEO. MILLER OF VANCOUVER, B.C.

Let me speak to you for a moment about one of the most tragic phases of the economic earthquake that struck this nation seven years ago.

You will remember that municipalities were the stretcher-bearers when the toll of unemployment first began to soar. We were closest to the scene when our citizens found their livelihood collapsing under them.

We did not hesitate. We nurtured the casualties of that tremendous commercial debacle. The jobless, the incapacitated and the aged had a compelling hold on our compassion at a time of national emergency.

They had to be fed, and we poured out our resources without stint. To us, it was a question of first aid. We find, however, that we were not setting up temporary dressing stations as we had thought. Now the senior governments have cast the municipalities in the role of permanent boarding homes and hospitals for the idle victims.

Whereas the Dominion and the provinces formerly contributed toward their support, only last month we were told in my own city that from now on we must carry alone the burden of caring for jobless citizens whom the province might class as unemployable.

Broadly speaking, an unemployable man is to be one who is no longer capable of manual labour. But manual labourers were not the only people thrown out of jobs during depression. What of the enormous number of middle-aged white-collar employees; the salesmen, clerical workers, and small executives? Is the pick-and-shovel test to be applied to them?

Many of them were shell-shocked by the explosion of their own fancied security. They have lost morale under the stress of misfortune. Others are unfitted by advancing age to re-establish themselves in the hot pace of present-day industrial competition. They are capable of many years of gainful employment if only their accustomed tasks could be reopened to them. But as far as physical work is concerned, they are the lame, the halt, the stragglers, and the misfits of a relief system that puts emphasis on muscle and ignores the other attributes of business life.

They are the forgotten men of this period in Canadian history. Their plight is pathetic. In my city we have cause to know just how serious the situation is. The warm sunshine and soft winds of the Pacific have lured large numbers of these people from other parts of the Dominion.

The climate is attractive, but their outlook is bleak.

If they can't get jobs in private commerce, then they are to be pushed into the oblivion of perpetual public charity.

The amount of that charity will be stupendous. It is certainly far beyond the ability of the cities to provide. If these people are technically the charges of the municipalities under federal or provincial law, then those laws must be changed or ignored.

Municipalities played no part in bringing on the crisis of which this problem is the lamentable result.

Municipalities, let me emphasize, did not contribute toward the causes of the present catastrophe. They are also powerless to develop projects that will reclaim or absorb the class to which I refer.

Through trying to carry a relief load already beyond their financial strength, the cities and towns of Canada stand today on the brink of ruin. My plea, therefore, is for a nation-wide scheme that will re-establish this class of unemployed citizen. Failing that, the nation, not the municipality, must assume the entire burden.

Municipal Crematoria Opened Recently in Great Britain

That the crematorium movement is making steady headway in England is apparent from the consideration which is being given to it by several municipal authorities and by the new crematoria which are being opened. Just recently, schemes have been brought to completion at Birmingham and Islington.

Somewhat special importance attached to the opening of the new chapel and municipal crematorium at Selby Oak, Birmingham, last September, in that delegates from fourteen countries who had been attending the International Crematorium Congress in London were present.

There has been a private crematorium in Birmingham since 1903, but it has been recognized that this did not relieve the city council of their responsibilities to the public, and thus the new crematorium has been established.

Although the principle of a municipal crematorium was approved in 1930, it was not until 1935 that the Parks Committee was authorized to proceed with the erection of the building at a total inclusive cost of £9,000. As the result of an architectural competition Mr. Holland W. Hobbiss, F.R.I.B.A., was appointed as architect.

In October last, a simple ceremony marked the official opening of the crematorium erected by the Islington Borough Council at their cemetery at East Finchley in the London suburbs.

In conformity with the growing practice of dispersing the ashes after cremation, a Garden of Remembrance is laid out in the grounds adjoining the crematorium. A large area is reserved as a lawn on which cremated remains may be scattered. Seats are provided and friends and visitors may rest in quietness and seclusion.

The number of cremations in the three Scottish crematoria, at Glasgow, Edinburgh and Dundee, during 1937 was 1463—a large increase on the preceding year's figure, 1084, while in 1928 only 141 cremations were carried out in Scotland. It is expected two new crematoria at present in course of construction at Aberdeen and Paisley will be completed in a few months.

EXCESSIVE TAXATION (Financial Post, Montreal.)

Students of taxation are convinced that property taxes in Canada are too high, that they are, in fact, destroying property values. It was never intended that real estate should be taxed to provide funds for social welfare expenditures of present proportions.

Transatlantic telephone calls between Canada and countries in Europe and Africa averaged about seven a day during 1937, and showed an increase of about 70 per cent over the previous year.

TENDERS FOR COAL AND COKE Federal Bldgs., Prov. of Quebec

Sealed Tenders addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Coal for Province of Quebec," will be received until 12 o'clock noon (daylight saving), Wednesday, May 25, 1938, for the supply of coal and coke for the Federal Buildings in the Province of Quebec, except Montreal.

Forms of tender with specifications and conditions attached can be obtained from the Purchasing Agent, Department of Public Works, Ottawa; the Clerk of Works, 150 St. Paul St. West, Montreal; the Superintendent, 150 St. Paul St. West, Montreal; and the Clerk of Works, Customs Building, Quebec, P.Q.

Tenders should be made on the forms supplied by the Department and in accordance with departmental specifications and conditions attached thereto.

In the case of tenderers quoting for one or more places or buildings and when the total of their offer exceeds the sum of $5,000.00, they must attach to their tender a certified cheque on a chartered bank in Canada, made payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to 10 per cent of the amount of the tender, or Bearer Bonds of the Dominion of Canada or of the Canadian National Railway Company and its constituent companies, unconditionally guaranteed as to principal and interest by the Dominion of Canada, or the aforementioned bonds and a certified cheque if required to make up an odd amount.

The Department also reserves the right to demand from any successful tenderer a security deposit in the form of a certified cheque or bond as above, equal to 10 per cent of the amount of his bid, to guarantee the proper fulfilment of the contract.

By order,
J. M. SOMERVILLE,
Secretary.

Department of Public Works,

THE FORESTS OF THE PROVINCE OF QUEBEC

Statistical Data

Setting apart the New Quebec (Ungava), the forested area of this province is estimated at 259,000 square miles, roughly 30% of which is now under cutting license. The balance acts as a reserve for future needs.

A compilation of the forest inventory reports on hand, gives the following quantities of standing timber on the accessible area:—
Softwoods 44,000,000,000 cubic feet
Hardwoods 10,300,000,000 cubic feet

The volume of annual cutting on Crown lands has always shown an increasing trend. It is estimated that this year's cut will most likely reach an all-time record.

The revenue accruing from the forest operations will consequently follow the same upward trend.

Administration

The Forest Service of the Lands and Forests is entrusted with the provincial forestry interests. Its activities are based on a proper inventory of the forest.

On the most important tracts of forests the cut is regulated in accordance with the increment and the surplus stock.

Cutting operations are carried out under the continuous supervision of inspectors and forest rangers, whose dual function is to enforce the laws and regulations and to check the scaling of the timber cut.

Special inspectors have been appointed to ensure the enactment of recent legislation regarding the wages of forest workers and their working conditions.

The English Aspire

"A MATTER OF ACCENT"
(from "The Printed Word")

One thriving industrial community in Ontario, like many others, prides itself on its hockey team. For many years local manufacturers have patriotically been ready to give jobs to likely looking boys who could show dexterity in handling a stick and the town turns out in force to root for the team whenever it plays on the home ice.

Although the town has only a few thousand inhabitants, the team calls itself the National. The name itself is an indication of its self-esteem, and never seemed incongruous to the team's supporters.

Some years ago, the National's weavers were showing signs of the savvy usage they had endured, and the boys were measured for new garments at the local knitting mills. The mill-owner, an Englishman, made special rate for the work as a gesture of pride in the team.

Unfortunately, one detail of the weavers' design had been omitted when the order was given, so a few days later, the team manager telephoned the mill owner to see if the team's initial letter, N, in red could be placed on the chests of the sweaters. The manufacturer said it could easily be done.

So that season the Nationals played hockey in sweaters tastefully decorated with red hens. They won the championship of their league.

Speed of Comets
The speed of comets, while not perceptible to the casual observer, is much greater than that of the planets, writes Dr. Thomas M. Beck in the Chicago Tribune. Moreover, comets are not limited to any particular part of the sky. They may appear in any part of the heavens and come from any direction. In general they move toward the sun, sweep around it in a wide curve, and then move back in the direction from which they came until they fade into darkness. The most striking thing about them is the fact that as they approach the sun they drag their tails behind them, but as they retreat they push their tails ahead—that is, the tail, instead of following the comet, always points away from the sun.

Man-eating fish can be frightened away by bubbles, according to an undersea explorer.

Brownsburg United Y.P.S. Were Hosts

Brownsburg — The Y.P.S. entertained the young members of the Lachute United Church on Wednesday evening. Following the opening exercises, a program of interesting items was rendered, after which games were played and refreshments served. A sing-song also added to the enjoyment of the evening. A delegation of the young people will attend a convention of the United Church Youth Council, to be held in Montreal next week-end.

Sidelights on the Orient, Address at St. Andrews

St. Andrews E. — The Y.P.C. of the Presbyterian Church met in the Church Hall on May 2nd. Owing to the busy season, the attendance was smaller than usual. Those present listened to an exceptionally fine address by Rev. J. A. Mowatt, M.A., on the situation in China and Japan. Mr. Mowatt traced the history of these two nations back for more than a century and showed conclusively, that any conquest made by Japan in her invasions into Korea and Manchuria were, owing to climatic conditions and lack of natural resources, a weakness to Japan. He saw that China was steadily and surely becoming a Christian country, and it was his firm belief that she would eventually emerge from the present invasion by Japan a victorious nation. "He that killeth with the sword, by the sword shall he be killed." A hearty vote of thanks from the Club was tendered to the speaker, and the wish was expressed that he would address them again at an early date.

'Cavalcade of British History' Lecture by Rev. T. W. Jones

The history of the British Empire from the days of the fearless Queen Boadicea, over two thousand years ago, to the coronation of King George VI, was thrillingly reviewed by Rev. Dr. T. W. Jones of Calvary United Church, Montreal, in his lecture entitled "A Cavalcade of British History." The event was held in the Lachute United Church on Monday evening, sponsored by the Young People's Society of the church. The stirring tale of empire-building was forcefully told by this eloquent speaker, whose talk was also illustrated by screen views of interesting and historical scenes.
An outstanding feature of this story of empire evolution was the intermingling of religion, and the important part it has played in our Empire's history.
Dr. Jones was introduced by Rev. W. B. Rosborough, and on behalf of the Y.P.S., under whose auspices the lecture was brought to Lachute, the president extended hearty thanks. The evening closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

High School Banquet To Graduating Class

Mr. Victor Thorburn was spokesman for the graduating class, and conveyed their appreciation in a few well chosen remarks:
"Mr. Chairman, honored guests and fellow-pupils — On behalf of the graduating class of 1938, I wish to thank the pupils of Grades IX and X, and the members of the teaching staff of the school, for providing this splendid banquet in our honour. I have attended several banquets in the previous years but I think this is the best of them all. Congratulations to your Decorating Committee who, as you can see, have the room beautifully decorated, and also to your Social Committee, who have tried their best to make everyone feel at home."
"During the past year we have enjoyed many school activities. Perhaps too many; however, time will tell. Softball, well it was not a success, but we managed to defeat our old rivals up on the hill, Brownsburg High School. This winter, all in all, we played nine hockey games and reports show that we had a better team than last season. Our High School Bulletin, something which this school has never had before, was a grand success. Some nine editions were published at five cents per copy, the funds of which totalling forty-two dollars were given to Mr. Hall, our principal, to be used for school activities. 'The Annual', our school magazine, is to be published a few weeks hence. Last, but not least, were our numerous parties—including a sleigh-drive which everybody enjoyed. Again, I extend my heartiest congratulations—to Miss McFaul, our pianist, who provided the entertainment for the majority of our parties; to Mr. Pibus, our hockey-coach; to Ruth Brennan, our class secretary; to Gerald Walker, our secretary of sports, and to the pupils for taking their part in the good old Lachute spirit."

"I wish to thank the School Commissioners for their kind co-operation. They willingly gave us the use of the Lachute Arena for two nights a week from the hours of 4 to 5 p.m. They have always supplied our ball teams with equipment, aided us in publishing our 'Annual', and I know their efforts have been greatly appreciated by the pupils of the graduating class.
"I know—you know—and we all know, that at some time or another during our lives, let us say, when we were little tots, we have said, or perhaps have just thought to ourselves, that teachers were terribly mean! But now that we have become better acquainted, we find they are not such horrid creatures. We are now old enough to realize that our teachers are human beings, although if you were to ask some of them, they would probably tell you that they sometimes think we are still too young. Many thanks to them for taking such a great interest in our education. And when we go out into this Wide World, to some other school or university, we will be proud to say we once attended Lachute High School."
"Many thanks to the pupils of Grades IX and X for their kind good wishes. The name of our school means something in the Province of Quebec. We have tried our best to improve on it, and I hope when your turn comes you will do the same."

A toast to the guests was proposed by Eleanor McQuat, whose brief address conveyed the scholars' appreciation for the friendship and collaboration extended in their activities:
"Mr. Chairman, Honoured Guests and Fellow Students — We are delighted to have present this evening the guests who have come to participate with us in this joyful event of the school term. To most of us, Mr. Greaves is no stranger. Our contact with the Longueuil High School through the soft-ball and hockey games, has made us regard its principal and pupils as next-door neighbors and close friends. It is as such I welcome him this evening. There is another friend, too, to whom I extend our most hearty welcome, one who has shown the greatest interest in us and in our welfare. I am speaking of our fellow-townsmen, Mr. Héon, who represents our county at Ottawa. To him, to the members of the school board and their wives and to all other guests I extend, from the pupils of Lachute High School, our heartiest welcome, and I ask you all to rise and join me in drinking to the health of our guests."

Goathead Finds Oracle Site

The site of the oracle at Delphi, Greece, was discovered, legend says, by a goathead who found his herd crying and prancing wildly about a chasm from which issued a stream of intoxicating air. The priestess who made the prophecies of the oracle used to sit over this, but either the chasm itself was legendary or it has disappeared in modern times.

WHY THE CROW LAUGHED

Two little lambs ran a gay little race
Up the hill and over,
To see which one would be the first
To reach the fresh, sweet clover.

Bob Tail went skipping by Black Nose
Right to the old pine stump, Black Nose was vexed and said he could Beat Bob Tail on the jump.

He tried to jump across the creek,
But went in with a flop,
And the old black crow, high in a tree
Haw-hawed, and could not stop.

When the little lost bunny saw the mother groundhog coming towards him through the opening, he foolishly stood up on his hind feet and thumped fiercely. If he had not done that, Mother Groundhog might not have noticed him, as she herself had had to scamper home very quickly to escape the fox, which while pursuing the bunny had come upon the mother groundhog instead as he dashed the stone pile.

When the little bunny thumped at her, the mother groundhog dashed towards him showing all her teeth, then whirled around and faced the old fox who was trying to dig his way into her home, barking wickedly as he worked to move the heavy stones.
Fortunately for Mother Groundhog and her babies, the stones were much too heavy for him to move, and after lying in wait for a long time outside the hole, the old fox had to go home hungry.

Meanwhile, the little bunny had dashed back down to the bottom of the groundhog's home and when the mother groundhog rushed at him, he had been hopping about among the baby groundhogs in an attempt to escape their sharp teeth. In darting into a narrow hole to hide, to his great joy he found that it grew wider as he darted along it. With his heart thumping in his little body like a heavy hammer, he kept on going, until suddenly it became light and he was once more outside the woods.
Darting under some low-hung cedar branches he turned around and peeped out from beneath them. He fully expected to see the old fox but he was away behind a little hill still watching Mother Groundhog's home.

A rustling, fluttering sound in the cedar branches above him made the rabbit quite nervous, but that was just a pair of swamp swallows building their nest, and they were much too busy to bother about a little lost bunny.

A tufted lynx stood sniffing the air on the other side of the big pine tree which sighed and made such a silky sound, rasping its dark green needles together. This lynx was much more to be feared than the sparrows, and it might have fared badly with little bunny if the sound of chopping close by had not frightened the tufted lynx so that he hurried away to the centre of the woods where the dense underbrush made a splendid hiding place.

The little bunny heard the chopping too but did not know what it was, and being rather inquisitive he hopped off in the direction from which it came. So intent was he upon this curious sound that he did not trouble to look where he was going and hopped right onto a pair of fat brown legs; and he sat there quivering in indecision, as the legs began to move about.

Little John, who had been lying on his stomach and gathering and eating the delicious wintergreen berries that grew thickly on this little dry mound, squealed in fear as the little bunny hopped on his legs and sat

TRANS-CANADA AIRWAY PILOTS MAKE FIRST NIGHT FLIGHT CARRYING MAIL

The honour of making the first night flight on the western route of the Trans-Canada Airways fell to pilots J. H. Sandgathe and H. M. Kennedy, above, when they made a flight from Winnipeg to Regina and back to Winnipeg, 660 air miles, in four hours and thirty minutes flying time. They left Winnipeg at 7.55 p.m. and were back at 12.35 a.m. after carrying 400 lbs. of mail between the two cities. The pilots are pointing out their route on the map, Sandgathe on the left pointing to Regina and Kennedy with his finger on Winnipeg.

MOVIE STAR SCOUT FIRST AIDERS

The Mauch twins, of screen fame, are active Boy Scouts, and especially keen on first aid. For weeks they hopelessly carried first aid kits in their car, and finally the desired opportunity came to do real first aid work when two cars near them crashed head-on. They ran to the scene, and had used up all of their bandages on the victims before the ambulance arrived. The victims only later discovered that the eager Scout first aiders were two young movie stars.

A MALAYAN SCOUT MISSIONARY HERO

Ooi Peng Guan was a Boy Scout in the 2nd Anglo-Chinese School
Troop of Penang, Malaya. In 1924 he contracted leprosy, and was sent to the Government Leprosy Asylum on Jerejak Island. Instead of moping over his misfortune, Guan organized a Scout troop of boys of the leper settlement, obtaining assistance from his brother Scouts in Penang in the form of old uniforms and equipment, and some footballs. Today Scoutmaster Ooi Peng Guan is still carrying on, although cured, preferring to remain with his boys of the leper settlement troop, and working as a Government Dresser or a Scout missionary.

REMOVING STICKINESS FROM FRICTION TAPE

It is sometimes desirable, when a splice has been made in a wire that is frequently handled, or when a metal socket or other accessory has been wrapped with friction tape as a protection or binding, that the outside stickiness be removed. This can be done by rubbing talcum powder into the tape. Removal in this manner is permanent. This method is equally useful when friction tape has been used for re-enforcing a split handle or for a similar purpose.

DIVISION OF EPIDEMIOLOGY

RE: REPORTING POLIOMYELITIS

Without giving as a prediction that the province will experience an epidemic of poliomyelitis at the end of the coming summer and during next fall, it must, however, be realized that we have reached one of the critical years in the epidemic cycle of this disease.

The Ministry of Health wishes to help the victims of this malady, but as a prerequisite of the measures to be taken, must have full knowledge of the existing cases.
A special appeal is hereby made to every physician of the province, earnestly requesting him to report each case of poliomyelitis, to send in his notifications early and to declare even doubtful cases, making necessary corrections later on. The notification must be made to the local bureau of health or to the proper health officer.

On the first of January of this year, we adopted an international agreement to exchange the notification of poliomyelitis in paralytic and non-paralytic cases. Our figures will thus be comparable with those of the other countries, and the Honourable the Minister of Health will then know the actual number of paralyzed children and will be in a position to order appropriate measures of relief.

A. R. FOLEY, M.D., D.P.H., Epidemiologist.

Hints for Homebodies

Specially Written for Readers of The Watchman
By JESSIE ALLEN BROWN

BLOSSOM BY BLOSSOM

"Blossom by blossom the spring begins." So beautifully does Swinburne express what we all have seen. If you want to see blossoms en masse, nothing could be more beautiful than the Annapolis Valley in apple blossom time. Miles and miles of trees, fairy-like in their blossom dresses. The main highways are a picture but the back roads are even more beautiful. The roads are narrower and the blossoms on both sides fairly surround you. There are practically no fences and the open orchards seem to be more fully yours to enjoy. We were fortunate enough to drive through the Valley in harvest time. The early apples had been picked and we had seen many of them loaded on the boats for England. We know, of course, that so many blossoms must bring many apples but until you see mile after mile of orchards with literally hundreds of barrels, waiting to be filled, in each orchard, you cannot realize the number of apples that have been grown. We have watched them from the blossom to the shipping. The last shipment we saw was one of Baldwin apples from Collingwood, Ontario. And now the New Zealand apples are arriving. They are perfect in form and color but for flavor cannot compare with our Canadian apples.

CHANGE WITH THE TIMES

There are those who view with alarm any change in the Canadian constitution. Actually, the wonder is that it requires so little changing. What a grand job the Fathers of Confederation did in framing our constitution. The world is a very different place than it was seventy years ago at the time of Confederation, and yet very few changes have been necessary. The English have no constitution. When a change is needed, they try it out, and if it works it is continued by precedent. If it does not work, all they have to do is to stop doing it. The United States has a constitution and the first thing they do is to pass a new law. Then, frequently the next thing they do is to pass an amendment. Different conditions require different rules and the person or country which cannot change with the times cannot be progressive.

LEAF LETTUCE

Different salads require different dressings, and to our way of thinking the following is the best dressing for leaf lettuce: Wash the lettuce and dry it gently. If it is then put into the refrigerator for a few hours to crisp, it is improved. Cut into pieces with the scissors, add chopped hard-cooked egg and finely cut green onions, and mix with sufficient dressing to moisten but not enough to be soggy. If you can get the lettuce out of your own garden so that it is really fresh, then this is the best salad of them all.

2 tablespoons flour, 4½ tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon salt, 3 teaspoons mustard, 1 egg, 1 cup vinegar and water, 1 cup milk, 3 teaspoons butter.

Mix the ingredients. Use from ¼ to ½ cup vinegar, depending on its sharpness and your individual taste, then fill the cup with water. Moisten the dry ingredients with some of this diluted vinegar, stir until smooth then add the remainder, the beaten egg and the butter. Cook over a slow fire until it begins to thicken, stirring constantly. Add the milk a little at a time and stir until it almost begins to boil.

HOUSE AND HOME

By Mary E. Dague
Author of Sister Mary's Kitchen

MATCHING COLOR SCHEMES

The smart woman studies the color in her garments. She selects them for their becomingness to herself, and makes up her mind when she is satisfied on these points. And so when you shop for draperies and floor coverings and furniture keep these same essentials foremost in your mind. You are actually "dressing" your house. The lines and color of the draperies, the color of the carpet, the size and shape and color of the furniture, and the lines and size of the furniture should be chosen with careful regard for style and good taste.

You can introduce a definite scheme in your bath-room, powder-room or milady's chamber with your bottles of toilet water and perfume. A most attractive array of perfume, powder and cosmetic containers are available in mottled red, alabaster, green and burnt orange. A delightful perfume bottle is inspired by the tall, colorful domed mosques of ancient Deltah. Both the bottle and the perfume are as subtle and mysterious as India herself.

SQUEAKY FURNITURE

The artificial heat of winter has a way of loosening joints in furniture to such an extent that chairs squeak disconcertingly when subjected to even a slight weight. With dining room chairs especially, probably the only remedy is to take them apart, thoroughly clean out the old glue and reglue them. Be sure you are using a good quality of liquid glue or your work will be for naught.

Coat both parts of a joint, return them to their exact position and bind them firmly and securely with heavy soft cord to hold them in place until the glue hardens. A slightly loosened joint can often be remedied without taking the piece of furniture apart. Soften the old glue with vinegar and scrape out as much as possible. Then force in new glue or cement or whatever you may prefer with a toothpick. Bind firmly until the cement hardens.

Your task is probably not too difficult if you focus all your powers upon it or some one portion of it.

The Adopted Child

People who adopt children usually give them love and the best of care, often being even more conscientious because the child is adopted. Out of their very kindness they often do the cruelest thing of all. They do not tell them they are adopted. If a child is told from the very first, when it is too young to really understand, it grows up with the idea and it does not come as a shock. Two different ways of handling the situation have come to my notice recently. A man who had adopted two children died without a will and in the ensuing legal entanglements, the children learned for the first time that they were adopted. They, a boy and a girl in their late teens, got a severe shock when they found that their parents were not theirs by birth and that they were not brother and sister. They love their parents devotedly, but were very distressed at not having been told. Other parents who adopted a little girl often used "adopted baby" as an endearing term. They told her that they had seen lots of babies and after seeing them all, picked her out for their very own. The little girl had a very superior feeling. Other children's parents had to take what they got, but she was specially picked! No good can come of it, unless perhaps pandering to a parent's pride, and much misery may be given the child who is not told of its adoption.

— Jessie Allen Brown.

Quebec Women's Institutes Show Marked Interest in Legal Questions

That the members of the Quebec Women's Institutes have an intelligent interest in the laws by which they are governed, (even though they have no voice in the making of those laws in Quebec Province), is proven by the choice of subjects discussed and lectured upon in their monthly meetings.

Among these have been the Old Age Act, Laws Affecting Quebec Women, Life Insurance, Protection of Women and Children, Banking, Traffic Laws, Wills and the Settling of Estates, Pensions for the Blind, and many others.

Better Be Careful!

The Fergus News-Record tells of an official of a rural telephone system, who paid a surprise visit to a farm home, and caught the farmer's wife in an embarrassing situation. "Listening In" has its attraction, but it's tiresome standing up at a rural telephone for a long period, and besides this lady had some work to do at the table. So she drew her table over near the telephone, sat down at her work with the receiver tied to her ear with an arrangement made out of string. She was able to go on with her work and all the while she could pick up the news of the district. But was her face red when the official caught her with this improvised ear attachment!

Funeral of the Late Mrs. Eva May Forbell Held in Arundel, Que.

On Saturday afternoon, April 23rd, there took place in Arundel the funeral of Mrs. Eva May Forbell, widow of the late Van Arsdale Forbell, of St. Jovite, Que.

It was a largely attended service, bringing together an unusual number of relatives and friends, and the floral tributes were many, expressive of the esteem in which Mrs. Forbell had been held by all who knew her.

The news of Mrs. Forbell's death came as a shock to many. Although for a number of weeks she had been confined to her bed, and at one time it seemed that her condition was critical, she had apparently rallied, and the general anxiety on her behalf had lifted. The sudden announcement of her passing came as a severe blow.

The funeral was held from the home of her brother, Herbert C. Cooke, proceeding to the United Church in Arundel. Rev. Charles Cushing, minister in Arundel, conducted the service, and Rev. Albert Johnson, of Coaticook, for many years a close friend of the family, paid feeling tribute to the memory of the deceased. Following the service, interment was made in the family plot in Arundel Cemetery.

Mrs. Forbell, née Eva May Cooke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Cooke of Arundel, had been predeceased by her husband just nineteen months earlier. Three sons — Stuart, Charles, and Harold — all of St. Jovite, now survive. Her father, now in his ninetieth year, was among those present at the funeral service; also three brothers, Herbert, Hugh, and George Cooke, and one sister, Mrs. W. L. Morrison.

The pall-bearers were Thomas Wheeler, Arthur Graham, W. L. Morrison, Gordon Cooke, Homer E. Cooke, and Stuart Cooke.

Church-Going Was Once Compulsory

In gay and balmy Bermuda, life was a sober business indeed during the reign of Cromwell. Stage performances, playing with dice, swearing and even the singing of merry songs were all prohibited. Swearing cost one shilling per oath, however mild.

In those days Bermuda church-wardens, "upright, honest and sober in their carriage, were instructed to look into the lives and conversations of the people and to search the worst and most suspected places with a view to forcing people to attend divine service."

Today Bermuda is a land of liberty where thousands of tourists, many of them arriving by "Lady" liners from Montreal, Halifax and Boston, make merry or live quietly according to their inclinations.

Housewife, Farmer, Landlord, Worker All benefit from CHAIN STORES

The housewife knows from experience what the chain stores mean to her. They give her unfailing sources of supply for dependable merchandise to meet practically every personal and household need. They sell her these tested goods in pleasant surroundings at economy prices. They save money for her every day of the year. They simplify shopping for both men and women.

The workingman, farmer and property owner profit in other ways from chain store operation. The landlord enjoys assured rentals and increased property values. The farmer has a dependable market for his produce. The workingman has steady work right here at home in plants from which the chain stores purchase huge volumes of goods for resale to the consumer in other provinces as well as in Quebec.

The chain stores mean work, a better standard of living and money saved — to thousands.

The DOCTOR Tells the Story by W.E. Aughinbaugh, M.D.

THE HUMAN EYE

The eyes are the essentials of the human body. There are running eyes, roving eyes, leaping eyes, bold eyes, asking eyes, asserting eyes, eyes full of fate, eyes of good and bad omen. Eyes converse more than the tongues of men.

Infants are born mentally blind, despite what doting mothers may think. To the newly born the world is a hazy blur and they cannot coordinate or appreciate what they see until mental vision is developed, which is usually about three months after birth. By that I mean to say that the child does not recognize objects or individuals, or even its mother, until that old.

How Seeing Develops

Both eyes are not used simultaneously until this age, when coordination of accommodation and convergence occurs with correlation of mental images to the outside world. If the faculty of seeing with both eyes is not developed after three months, children usually squint and ultimately may lose the sight of the crooked eye. The ability to see accurately with each eye is acquired early in life and the ability to see with both eyes together, later in life.

Formerly it was the popular belief that if a child squinted or had eye trouble the thing to do was to wait until about the fourteenth year, when the oculist should be consulted. Unfortunately these children do not grow out of this condition, but it becomes more fixed. Cross eyes have done much to ruin the future of untold thousands of persons.

Correcting Crossed Eyes

The right thing to do with the cross-eyed child is to take him to a physician who specializes in diseases of the eye. Under proper, scientific care fully 70 per cent of cross-eyed children can be certain that their eyes will be straightened, by the use of proper glasses and appropriate exercises. No qualified doctor will operate until other methods of treatment have been tried. Remember that the correct thing for the parent to do is to take the child to a doctor as soon as a squint is observed, even if the child is only three months of age.

The Base for Paint

Paint generally is composed of a base, a vehicle and a drier. The base is the chief ingredient of the paint, and may be one or a combination of several different compounds, such as white lead, zinc lead, zinc white, red lead, iron oxide, and others. When the desired color is not obtained by the use of bases, additional coloring pigments, such as chrome green, Prussian blue and the like, may be incorporated. The vehicle is the liquid portion of the paint, which gives it its covering quality; the commonest is linseed oil.

Gashed By School-Mate With Razor Blade

The gashing of a Hawkesbury school-boy with a razor blade last week recalls a number of school mishaps which have been the cause of concern among citizens in that town. Madore Fauteux, aged 12, was sent to hospital from St. Joseph's College last Thursday afternoon suffering with a wound inflicted by a rusty razor blade. The boy was later sent home after the wound had been thoroughly cauterized.

From several sources it was gathered that the boy was attacked by an older student following an argument on the campus of the college. This was denied by officials of the institution. One teacher declared that the wounding was accidental and that there was no question of a quarrel. The teacher further added that the incident occurred in one of the class-rooms. "Several boys had been called to clean the black-board," he said. "Two students quickly responded. Another, who was sharpening a pencil with a razor blade, accidentally cut his fellow-student."

About a year ago, John Hoffman, pupil of Grey School was stuck in the leg by a classmate, who playfully threw a pen at him. The ink-smeared nib poisoned the boy's leg and he has not walked since. It was learned that little hope is held for the Hoffman boy.

Two years ago, Eric Holden, 13-year-old son of Rev. B. T. Holden, of Hawkesbury, suffered a fractured arm when students threw him into a stone and sawdust pit during an in-

Move to Observe Annual "24th" On A Monday

Mayor Ralph Day of Toronto announced his intention to ask Prime Minister Mackenzie King to set Monday, May 23, for the observance of Victoria Day, regularly observed May 24.

A request that the holiday be brought forward from Tuesday to Monday was contained in a letter sent to Toronto and other municipalities by St. Catharines city council, which recently passed a resolution setting its observance for Monday. The resolution said that "public holidays being observed on any day but a Monday causes considerable inconvenience" and "if public holidays were observed on Monday in the week in which they fall, considerable public benefit would ensue."

Quebec Guards Frogs As Allies of Farmers

Frogs are to be protected in this province, since it has been recognized that they constitute an aid to agriculture.

An order in council was approved Saturday to the effect that frogs may be hunted only from July 15 to September 1 of each year. In the counties of St. Jean and Missisquoi, they are to be left alone entirely for two years.

The Minister of Agriculture states "it is desirable to protect frogs during the mating season" as is done in other provinces and in certain states so as to assure the permanency of a remunerative trade. As matters are now in Quebec, frog life is menaced to the detriment of agriculture, "to which it is a helpful ally."

Things That Keep A Small Town Small

(Kiwani Magazine)

One of the things which keep a small town small, and which makes doing business or practicing a profession so hazardous, is the number of people in that town who earn their income there and spend it in the nearby large city.

The small town dentist is irritated by the local citizen who goes to the large city to patronize the cheap advertising dentist, when he himself goes to the big town tailor to have his clothes made. The small town lawyer complains when the big city lawyer is called in on an important case, but when he is getting married, he goes to the big city to buy his fiancée's engagement ring. The local druggist is annoyed when the woman who runs the beauty parlor goes to the big city for her soap and creams, yet he allows his wife to go to the same big city for bargain permanent waves.

Let him among us who is without sin, cast the first stone. When a man makes his living out of the citizens of a town, it is his duty to spend every dollar of that income in the town, if possible. If he expects the people of that town to do business with him, then he should realize his own obligation to do business with them.

Of course women are the worst offenders. The larger stocks, the good advertising, the bargain days and all the other attractions of the big stores in the city have an almost irresistible appeal to them. If a husband would only point out to his wife that the money she is spending was put into his hands by the local people, and that if they, too, began to deal in the big city, she would starve, she might be cured of this bad habit.

Reduced Charge Against Calumet Auto Driver

A charge of manslaughter against Victor Bouge, of Calumet, was reduced to one of criminal negligence when he appeared before District Magistrate Donat Lalande at St. Jerome last Thursday. Bouge was ordered to stand trial at the next session of the assizes. The charge was laid after the death of Alexander Pilon, on November 15 last, in an automobile accident.

YOUNG LACHUTE MAN IS DROWNING VICTIM

Gordon Brown, 27-year-old son of R. J. Brown, of Lachute Mills, was accidentally drowned near Port Arthur, Ont. The mishap happened on April 26th. Brown had been an employee of the Pidgeon Timber Company for the last four years. The accident occurred while he was in a boat in the rapids with his friend, Howard Hall, formerly of Dalesville. Hall escaped unharmed. As yet there has been no trace of the body.

The sympathy of this community is extended to the bereaved family.

Man Held For Trial in Burglary of Summer Home

Bail of $500 was set in the case of Edmund Massie, 25, of Lachute, charged with burglarizing a summer home at St. Jerome in March, 1937, and stealing goods to the value of $200. The accused appeared last week before District Magistrate Donat Lalande at St. Jerome. Massie was unable to raise bail, and was ordered held for trial on May 31 after he had entered a plea of not guilty.

The trouble was promptly repaired.

Railway Problem to the Fore at Ottawa

Regulation of Shipping Charges Under Discussion

SPECULATION ON BUDGET CONTINUES AS EMISSARIES STRUGGLE WITH WASHINGTON AGREEMENT

"The Ottawa Spotlight"

By "Spectator"

Ottawa, May 10th. — Railway matters are very much to the fore just now in the parliamentary forum. A committee of the Commons is discussing Mr. Howe's transport bill and a committee of the Senate has begun a general probe of the whole railway problem.

THE NEW TRANSPORT BILL

In the committee on railways, canals and telegraphs of the Commons, the Railway Association of Canada has given its endorsement to the administration's transport bill, which would create a transport board and would bring control of air traffic and inland water traffic (with the exception of bulk commodities) under the authority of this board. The Board of Transport Commissioners would be the Board of Railway Commissioners with increased jurisdiction.

The Railway Association's approval of the bill, which means approval of the railways themselves, is given because the provisions of the bill would create "a more balanced economy in transportation." The point is that only railways have hitherto been regulated. A difficulty with the transport question in Canada is that trucking, except where the traffic crosses international or international boundaries, is not under the Dominion jurisdiction. Trucking is left entirely out of the sphere of duty of the new transport board. The brief of the Railway Association presented to the committee says, however, that the regulation of air and water carriers is in the interest of the shipping public, the general public and the carriers themselves.

"Give Them A Place To Play"

Plenty of room for dives and dens (glitter and glare and sin)!
Plenty of room for prison pens (gather the criminals in)!
Plenty of room for jails and courts (willing enough to pay)!
But never a place for the lads to race; no, never a place to play!

Plenty of room for shops and stores (Mammon must have the best)!
Plenty of room for the running sores that rot in the city's breast!
Plenty of room for the lures that lead the hearts of our youth astray,
But never a cent on the playground spent; no, never a place to play!

Plenty of room for schools and halls, plenty of room for art;
Plenty of room for teas and balls, platform, stage and mart.
Proud is the city — she finds a place for many a fad today,
But she's more than blind if she fails to find a place for the boy to play!

Give them a chance for innocent sport, give them a chance for fun —
Better a playground plot than a court and a jail when the harm is done!
Give them a chance — if you stint them now, tomorrow you'll have to pay
A larger bill for a darker ill, so give them a place to play!

Canadian War Veterans In England Organize

The Canadian Ex-servicemen's (England) Association was formed recently at a meeting of veterans of the Canadian forces at Leicester, England. Baron Cromwell, who was engaged in ranching in Canada at the outbreak of the Great War, was chosen president. Lord Cromwell went to England as a trooper in the Lord Strathcona's Horse of Winnipeg and was subsequently promoted to the rank of major.

Provincial Police Stations Have Traffic Barriers

All stations of the Provincial Police traffic branch are now equipped with compact portable barriers, to be used in halting traffic in emergencies, particularly in the case of accidents on highways when traffic has to be stopped.

The barriers are in nine sections and the bars can be assembled in short time. When assembled they measure 15 feet in length with a "Stop, Arrete" sign in the centre, flanked by two flags.

Quebec's highway and tourist map may be obtained free of charge by all who apply to the Province of Quebec Tourist Bureau, Parliament Buildings, Quebec.

Fined For Theft of Power From Gatineau Electric Co.

Pleading guilty to a charge of stealing electricity from the Gatineau Power Company at St. Jerome last March, Arthur Auclair was sentenced to a fine of $50 and costs by District Magistrate Ladouceur, of Joliette.

Witnesses stated that employees of the Gatineau Power had gone last March to the accused's home to change the meter and had found it was not connected, though there was light in the house. A check revealed that another connection, which did not allow the electricity to pass through the meter, had been made. The employees reported the matter to company officials, who laid the charge.

Mother's Day in the Churches

Mother's Day was fittingly observed here last Sunday. In church services over the entire county the theme of devotion and appreciation to Mother was stressed in appropriate sermons.

Old County Resident Passed to His Reward

LATE ALEXANDER CALDER

Grenville — An old and respected citizen has passed away in the person of Alexander Calder, whose death occurred at Grenville Bay on Friday, April 27th.

Mr. Calder was born in Mount Maple in 1857, son of the late Robert Calder and Margaret Gunn, and was the last survivor of the family of six. He spent the greater part of his life farming in that district. He had a quiet, retiring disposition and was honourable and honest in all his dealings.

He is survived by two nieces and two nephews.

The funeral service was held Sunday, May 1st, in the Brownsburg Maple Avenue Baptist Church, and was largely attended by relatives and friends. Rev. J. R. Simpson officiated. The hymns sung were "Rock of Ages" and "Abide with Me."

Interment was made in the family plot at the Dalesville Cemetery. The bearers were P. Gilmour, R. McCullough, A. Campbell, A. Pollock, W. Gunn and B. McCullough.

TEXTILE PAYROLL LARGEST IN QUEBEC

According to figures compiled by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, the textile industry in Quebec provides employment for more people and pays a larger sum in wages than any other manufacturing industry in the province. In gross value of production, textiles also lead all others. The cloth yarn and cotton division forms nearly 50 per cent of the entire industry.

The University of Wisconsin is going to offer a course on how to get along with relatives, and now some adult education college ought to offer one on how to get along with college students.

MANY SECTIONS WERE REPRESENTED

The semi-annual meeting of the Provincial Association of Protestant School Boards was held in Lachute High School on Saturday, with Dr. R. Stevenson of Danville presiding. Those in attendance were J. Webster and R. E. Hodgson, Hudson Heights; Chas. W. Stack, Waterloo; D. R. Wilson and A. R. Meldrum, Shawinigan Falls; H. W. Jones, Bedford; T. G. Stocks and A. Whitehead, Bury; H. B. Lee and Thos. Gregor, Longueuil; A. N. Miller, W. E. Dow, A. J. Danish, Sutton; E. M. Turner, Longueuil; Geo. Y. Deacon, Dr. J. H. Mason, Dr. G. Clunie, Jas. W. Gall and J. S. Giles, Lachute.

The membership of the association now takes in all but 13 of the high and intermediate schools and it was decided to concentrate on bringing in those outstanding.

Teachers' training and recommendations were discussed at length and it seemed to be the general opinion that the association should have a clearing house system for teachers. The secretary was requested to supply school boards with information on films available for visual education. Consolidation of schools was favored wherever possible.

Thursday, September 15, was set as the date for the next annual meeting, in Granby. The Lachute branch of the Women's Institute furnished dinner for the gathering, and appreciation was expressed for their kindness.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER BANQUET IS HELD BY UNITED C.G.I.T. GROUPS

The members of the Senior and Intermediate C.G.I.T. groups of Lachute United Church held a very successful "Mother and Daughter" banquet last Saturday, on the evening preceding Mother's Day. About 75 persons were present including the girls, their mothers and guests.

The seven tables were tastefully decorated. The head table represented the four seasons, the other six represented, respectively, St. Valentine, Easter, Graduation, Summer Scene at Lake, Hallowe'en and the Birth of Christ. The prize, presented by Mrs. McNeil, was won by the St. Valentine table. Captain of the winning table was Margaret Dorion; she was assisted by Shirley Hebble, Ruth McNaughton, Margaret Aitken and Florence Lyster. Former C.G.I.T. members served at the different tables.

Following the banquet, various toasts were proposed. A toast to the King was given by Ruth Brennan, and the National Anthem was sung in response. A toast to Canada was proposed by Helen Deacon, responded to by the singing of "O Canada"; Lillian Falconer proposed the toast to "Mother," which was answered by Mrs. Geo. Y. Deacon; the W.M.S. was proposed by Margaret Aitken, responded to by Mrs. F. S. McGibbon; the C.G.I.T. by Mrs. Wm. J. Deacon, response by Margaret Dorion; the Guests by Beryl Underhill, response by Mrs. Hall; the Girls who leave the C.G.I.T. this year, by Lorna Giles, responded to by Helen Weir; the former C.G.I.T., by Bernice Ogilvie, Miss M. V. Marshall responding.

A short sing-sing followed, under the leadership of Miss Cora Millar, leader of the Intermediate group, and the happy evening was brought to a close with the singing of "Taps."

Radio News Notes on "Spring Gardening"

Gardeners and field cultivators interested in fruits and vegetables will be offered helpful hints by a Canadian garden expert during the CBC broadcast, "Spring Gardening," Wednesday, May 18, from 4.45 to 5.00 p.m. A. B. Cutting, author of "Canadian Home Gardening the Year Round," will give his fourth talk on planting and cultivation and will speak especially concerning work in the annual and perennial flower beds, in the vegetable garden and in the fruit orchard. The value of several little-known vegetables and the successful treatment of strawberries will be discussed. For the horticulturist there will be suggestions on the attractive massing of colour and the use of novelties, currently in vogue. "Spring Gardening" will be heard from Toronto and will be broadcast over the national network.

IMPROVING THE DRAINAGE OF FARM FIELDS

By Prof. L. G. Heimpe, Head of the Department of Agricultural Engineering.

In spite of the objections to them, open ditches will for a long time have to be a part of the draining facilities for Quebec farms. Farmers should remember, however, that they cannot realize on their expenditures of time and money on outlet ditches without improvement of the drainage of land within the farm.

Such improvement may be affected in two ways: first, by improving surface drainage; and second, by means of under-drainage with tile drain.

Improved surface drainage by means of deepening dead furrows, rounding and heaping of lands in a field, and the construction of cross furrows, is worth-while. Such improvement represents no cash outlay, and careful observation shows that the increased crop yields resulting from it will repay the cost. Works within the farm which improve the surface-drainage conditions are recommended; first, to help the farmer make immediate use of improved outlet facilities; and, second, as a means of temporary improvement of field drainage for such exigencies as times of depression, when financial conditions may prevent the installation of the more effective, permanent tile drainage.

When comparing surface drainage and under-drainage, the following points should be borne in mind:—

1. In order to be kept in working condition, dead furrows and regals will have to be cleaned annually.

2. All systems of surface drainage will interfere more or less with the use of tillage and harvesting machinery.

3. While surface drainage will improve yields of shallow-rooted crops such as timothy and some of the grain crops, it will seldom provide sufficient drainage for clover and alfalfa.

4. Heaping or rounding of plow lands which calls for the deepening of dead furrows considerably below the usual plow depth may be harmful because subsoils are frequently devoid of organic matter and the elements of plant food necessary to the crop growing layer.

5. Under-drainage removes excess water not only from the surface but also from within the soil, thus increasing greatly the depth to which plant roots can penetrate. This is particularly important in the growing of clovers or of fall-sown crops of any kind, and in orchards.

6. With tile drains the first cost is practically the only cost. Once installed, the only attention required is to keep the outlets clear. Tile drains constitute a permanent improvement on the land they drain. In Western Ontario tile drained land sells at a premium which is higher than the present cost of tiling.

7. There are often low areas of good land for which adequate surface drainage is practically impossible; but with a tile drain, water from a hollow can readily be carried through a hill. Springy spots on hill sides can be adequately dealt with only by means of tile drains.

Under-drainage systems must, however, be carefully planned; any farmers contemplating their installation should apply to the Department of Agriculture at Quebec for assistance in making surveys of their lands for this purpose.

He Forgot His Hat

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

There is a Hungarian "lightning calculator" named Lorenzo Olgo, who has just sold his head to an American group of scientists for $25,000. He does such astonishing feats of instantaneous calculation that they want to know what his brain has that other people have not got.

When Lorenzo was five years old, his father was trying to measure a piece of land. The child pestered his father to know what he was doing, and when the father told him not to interrupt as he was trying to calculate how much 79 metres by 13 amounted to, the boy, who had not even begun school, said simply, "It's 1,027, father." "You're mad," said the father, who took him next day to a specialist who said he was not mad; just had a gift.

Talking to a reporter the other day the newsmen multiplied 7,271 by 7,271, then multiplied the result by 7,271. In two seconds Lorenzo gave the answer 384,399,163,511. When the reporter gave the date of his birth, Lorenzo not only told him the day of the week, but how many seconds he had lived since then. Mr. Olgo does his sums by algebra, knows the squares of all double numbers and does equations in his head—instantly.

When the interview was over, this man with a super-brain went to go out. He returned a moment or two later—he had forgotten his hat!

MAKING CANADA A Better Place in Which to Live and Work

Letters from Distinguished Canadians on Problems Affecting the Future Welfare of Canada

LETTER NO. 6

"What can weekly newspapers do to make Canada a better place in which to live and work?" The question correctly implies a special sphere of influence, for the weekly goes collectively into the homes and is close to the hearts of hundreds of thousands of people where the basic factors of a congenial existence should be found.

If "to be honest, to be kind, to earn a little and to spend a little less, to make upon the whole a family happier for his presence," if this is the test of a man's life and work, as Stevenson says, making Canada a better place depends upon the character of its citizens.

The weekly has an opportunity through its community service to keep alive the spark of human sympathy and interest, antidotes for greed and repression, which are responsible for so much despair. Church, school and home are within the range of its interpretation. A large proportion of its readers has the wholesome privilege of living close to nature, man's inspiration and model. Can the weeklies do more to cultivate an understanding of these advantages?

Canada is a good place in which to live because it is not yet overwhelmed by individual and collective barbari-ties. Perhaps more than any other class of publications the weeklies can strengthen the ideals for human betterment by keeping the virtues and their means of expression in the foreground. The audience to which they appeal, promoting the finer instincts, can continue with the aid of press-leadership to be the nation's defence against the vices in high and low places.

If sincerity in human relationships is the basis of happy citizenship, willingness to let live accompanies the right to work and to assert individuality with self-reliance. Promotion of such ideals may not be a distinctive prerogative of the weekly press but its field is responsive. Respect for individual capacities is being endangered by over-regimentation. Canada would be a better place in which to live if the tendency to centralize were reversed, and smaller communities provided with a greater share of industrial activity, enabling more people to enjoy the neighborly intercourse which seems to be denied to a great extent in the impersonal atmosphere of the more congested area.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

"Mortals and Immortals" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, May 15. The Golden Text is: "As is the earthly, such are they also that are earthly: and as is the heavenly, such are they also that are heavenly." (1 Corinthians 15:48).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "For all flesh is as grass, and all the glory of man as the flower of grass. The grass withereth, and the flower thereof falleth away: But the word of the Lord endureth for ever. And this is the word which by the gospel is preached unto you." (Peter 1:24, 25).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "With its divine proof, Science reverses the evidence of material sense. Every quality and condition of mortality is lost, swallowed up in immortality. Mortal man is the antipode of immortal man in origin, in existence, and in his relation to God." (p. 215)

Practically everyone in this country is working for the automobile industry, the Metz Times has discovered. Those who are not engaged in making motor cars are working to make payments on one.

TURNING THE BLIND EYE

Across the dark anxieties of a war-ridden world falls the following gleam of humor — albeit official. A friend lately received a letter from her brother, resident in one of the countries now at war. He wrote: "I will not tell you about the war, as our letters are sure to be read." Across the back of the envelope, outside, was officially written: "You are wrong, your letters are not read." Perhaps the censor had a sense of humor.

FROM SEED TIME to meal time

Financing the food supply of the nation is a continuous process of extending bank credit.

Farmers borrow at the Bank to buy seed and sow it; to cultivate the grain and reap it; they borrow on security of the harvest.

Grain dealers borrow on security of warehouse receipts over grain in the elevators.

Grain processors borrow against grain supplies, pending the sale of flour, feed, prepared cereals and food specialties.

Shippers of grain and grain products borrow to finance shipments at home and abroad.

Wholesalers and retailers borrow to keep the grain foods moving to their customers, and so on—until the tables of millions are reached, in Canada and overseas.

Making loans to such borrowers is one feature of our modern, experienced banking service—the outcome of 120 years' successful operation.

BANK OF MONTREAL

The Association also supports the "agreed charges" of the bill, which was opposed by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. The clause would allow a transport company to make special rates with a shipper if the shipper would agree to send all his goods by the one transport company. The Canadian Manufacturers' Association said this would lead to discrimination and "chaotic" conditions. The Railway Association on the other hand claimed it would give the railways and other forms of transport a fairer opportunity to compete with unregulated traffic. Agreed charges were used universally in water and truck traffic, the association argued.

THE SENATE INQUIRY

The Senate probe of the railway question will likely be a long and thorough affair. It began with an attempt to find out why the co-operative economy measures provided by the railway act of 1933 have resulted in such a small saving compared to what was promised. The saving has been not more than one-tenth of what was expected and certain specific suggestions for the elimination of duplicating lines have not been carried out. The committee will hear full explanations of the unified management plan for the two railways, and any other approaches by railway experts to this perplexing problem.

UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF

For the first week or so after the reopening of the parliamentary session, and until the railway questions came more clearly into the limelight, members of the press were rather hard put to find much grist for the newspaper mill. Unemployment relief is a more important subject to everybody in Canada but speeches on the subject, at this stage, do not provide much "copy." It will be a different matter when the supplementary estimates, giving actual appropriations for various projects, are placed before the House. Then members will have something to debate about, but discussions on the general bill "to assist in the alleviation of unemployment and agricultural distress," following in its general lines the bill of last year and without as yet the actual appropriation figures, have been in large measure "shadow boxing." The debate has served, however, to paint a picture in its true colors, of the serious problem still confronting the people and government of Canada.

The principles underlying the relief policy are the same as last year, assistance and co-operation with the provinces and municipalities, relief of the needy in town and country, and the adoption of carefully thought out measures designed to pour out life's blood into the industrial life of the country. The "boot strapping" and "pump priming" schemes tried out in the United States have not met with such signal success that they have any attraction for our parliamentarians. The soil must seem fertile before we can afford to water it with the money from our treasury. While the policy of the department of labor has been subjected to severe criticism, no one in the House of Commons seems to have anything but sympathy and regard for the sincerity of the Minister, Mr. Rogers, who is bending a most earnest effort to his far from light task.

THE BUDGET

The Dominion budget seems some little distance off, naturally the finance minister would like to have the tariff provisions of the new treaty with the United States in his budget. Our emissaries are hard at it in Washington, but no one can be quite sure when the negotiations will be completed. Aside from or as a part of the treaty will the budget have reductions in the farm implement duties? That is a question which is occupying the attention of Western members.

Lightning, Long a Puzzle, Now Under Man's Control

Primitive man reasoned that lightning was fire from Heaven. Fire was destructive, but it was also the greatest gift of the gods to man. It provided warmth, protected him from predatory animals and gave savor to his food. Lightning filled him with awe, for it also could produce destruction and was a manifestation of the giver of life and must be propitiated with sacrifices. Modern science, however, not only knows just what lightning really is, but knows how to handle it and control its great powers. Artificial lightning of millions of volts power is now generated and so "tamed" that a man can be enveloped in the crashing, snapping, darting volts and emerge from the electrical flames unharmed. Scientists also know how to measure the power of lightning. A single severe stroke probably lasts not more than 150 one-millionths of a second, the average current in the stroke during this time to pass this much charge to earth must be 100,000 amperes, or about the current required by 200,000 lamps. The maximum power in a severe stroke when it hits a conducting rod, such as a transmission line, is of the order of two billion kilowatts.—Montreal Herald.

Three Men Fined for Owning Slot Machines

Even though he had taken a slot machine out of use and placed it in a cupboard in his father's home, Gerald Lessard, of Ste. Adele, was found guilty of having been found in possession of a gambling machine, by District Magistrate Ladouceur, at St. Jerome recently. Court held that despite the extenuating circumstances the accused came under the scope of article 779 of the criminal code, and found him guilty. But because he had shown good faith and it was his first offence and he was a member of a good family, the District Magistrate imposed a sentence which was not to exceed the sum of $65 in fine and costs.

Two other slot machine owners pleaded guilty to possession and were fined each $50 and costs. One was a Lachute man and the other from Ste. Scholastique.

Vital Statistics --

Where Does Quebec Stand?

Why does the death rate from one disease go up in one province and down in another? Analysing the vital statistics of the whole Dominion, many such questions present themselves. A report for the first nine months of the year 1937 has just been issued by Hon. W. D. Euler's Department and the figures evidence the need of a wider knowledge of public health.

Typhoid fever caused 180 deaths during the period mentioned, equal to 240 for the year. That means a practical standstill, for in 1936 the number was 243. The question here is, why so many deaths when typhoid fever is supposed to be a vanishing pestilence? As contaminated water and milk are the chief causes of infection, lack of sanitation and absence of milk pasteurization must have been responsible, so that it should have been possible to prevent most of these deaths. Incidentally, why should Quebec show half of all the deaths in Canada from typhoid fever? Possibly the reason is that Quebec's health protection, from the standpoint of water and milk, is behind that of other provinces. This would seem to be confirmed by the mortality figures for enteritis, which carried off 3,301 persons in Canada, of whom 2,042 were in Quebec, as compared with 415 in Ontario.

In most other communicable diseases, Quebec's figures are also out of proportion. Why should that province lose 193 children from measles as against Ontario's 25? Why should there be 95 deaths from scarlet fever in Quebec and only 37 in Ontario; 156 from diphtheria in Quebec and only 18 in Ontario; 310 from whooping cough in Quebec and only 85 in Ontario? One reason is that Quebec's proportion of children is so much larger than that of other provinces. As to measles, Saskatchewan was worse than Quebec, per capita, having had 190 deaths. On the other hand, that non-preventable disease, infantile paralysis, claimed 104 victims in Ontario as against only 17 in Quebec during the period under review.

Why should Quebec have more than twice as many tuberculosis deaths than Ontario — 2,227 as against 1,040, out of a total Canadian mortality of 5,227?

On the other hand, among certain adult diseases, Ontario had much the worse showing. Of 8,866 deaths from cancer, 3,374 were in Ontario and 2,260 in Quebec.

Why should Ontario have had nearly 45 per cent of all the cardiac deaths in Canada? For the same reason that Quebec leads in children's diseases, Ontario has more deaths from cancer and heart diseases, having a large proportion of the population in the advanced age groups.

Vital statistics, indeed, present a wide range of problems to those interested in the progress of the race.

Time Signals Needed — The New York Electrical Society has demonstrated signal lights to be used in public auditoriums, indicating to the orator whether his voice is too low or too loud to be heard with ease in remote parts of the hall. — A speaker's "stop and go" light, set to a prescribed length of time, would now be appreciated by the audience.

Max—Still Burgomaster

One of the great heroes of the World War was Adolph Max, Burgomaster of the city of Brussels. Burgomaster Max's name became almost as familiar to newspaper readers as that of any of the great generals. He took no part in the fighting, but at the risk of his life managed to maintain the civil government of the Belgian capital in the face of the German invasion.

Most people have forgotten Burgomaster Max. I know that I had, until I saw his name in a newspaper dispatch the other day, as heading the committee which welcomed former President Hoover to Brussels. The same Burgomaster Max—and still Burgomaster of Brussels, after nearly twenty-four years.

To me that points the difference between municipal politics in Europe and in America. Imagine, if you can, a mayor of a great American city holding office for 24 years, no matter what his record. I can't. We don't do things that way in America. We throw our best public officials out because some politicians want the job for their own gang.

Worry -- A Poison

We are all prone to worry, yet worry doesn't help in any situation. When worrying, we always picture the calamity at its worst. So we suffer the thing many times before it ever happens, if it does. But most often it never occurs; we have just tortured ourselves for no reason at all. And if it should happen, we find that it wasn't nearly as bad as we had pictured it.

Worry has a pernicious effect on the nerves and the vital organs. Some say it generates a poison which makes the habitual worrier ill. Then, too, by distracting the mind, it causes accidents. We know it is easy to say to the other fellow "Don't worry." But we are going to say it anyway. It is good advice. And the way to keep from it is just to quieten oneself with the thought that ten chances to one it will never happen. If it does, it will be time enough to face the situation then.

Breeding Cannon-Fodder

The German government, in the past five years, has granted more than 900,000 "marriage aid" loans of 700 marks to young couples starting out in life, and calculates that there have been 450,000 more marriages and 1,200,000 more children, as a result of this policy, than would have occurred at the rate of increase prior to 1933. Now the Nazi state announces that couples who, when married, have worked on the land since leaving school, will not have to repay the loans until they are thirty. and if they are still farmers then, the debt will be cancelled.

Coming from a nation whose grievance against the rest of the world is that it has no room for its surplus population, this looks on the face of it like a fantastic scheme. Why encourage more babies when there is not room enough for the present population? And when a nation is unable to pay its bills, as Germany is, constantly pleading poverty to its creditors but constantly bearing down on its people for more taxes with which to build up its military forces, how can it spend money so freely to encourage matrimony?

The most plausible answer is that the German government is anticipating the next war and looking forward to the deaths of another ten or twelve millions of its young men, and so is taking precautions against depopulation by seeing to it that there are enough children left to carry on after their fathers have been sacrificed on the altars of the War Gods.

That is not too far-fetched an explanation when it is remembered that in the Nazi scheme of things the individual counts for nothing, the State for everything. There are no personal rights or liberties left; everybody is the servant of the Government, whose will is supreme.

There are Canadians who honestly believe that this country needs a more disciplined and regulated social system. Well, one of the results of a regimented and controlled social system is that young men and women are bribed to marry so that they can breed more children to grow up into cannon-fodder for the greater glory of the dictators who control their nation.

DEPARTMENT of AGRICULTURE
of the PROVINCE OF QUEBECAn Efficient and Well Established Agency of Progress

The Department of Agriculture is Quebec's most efficient, best equipped, most important and best established agency for agricultural progress. Too many rural people fail to understand this; too many of our leaders ignore it. This should be the most important Department of all, the one having at its disposal the most powerful financial resources — since it stimulates the most important of all industries.

The Department of Agriculture is the soundest investment the Province has. All our citizens and, naturally, more particularly all our farmers, should realize fully that the safeguarding and the advancement of our agricultural interests are entrusted to this Department; that nothing should be done relative to agricultural policies that has not been studied and encouraged by it; that its officials, its agronomes, and its experts are absolutely at the service of rural dwellers. In all branches of agricultural practice, they give clear and profitable leadership; prosperous municipalities, like individuals, should ask for and follow the methods advocated by them, which the different Services making up the Department initiate, supervise, stimulate, guide, protect and encourage morally and financially for the benefit of the agricultural undertakings of our people, be these undertakings public or private.

HONOURABLE M. BONA DUSSAULT,
MinisterALBERT RIOUX,
Deputy - Minister."MANGEONS PLUS DE LEGUMES"
(BULLETIN No. 136)

S'il est un point sur lequel médecins et hygiénistes s'entendent parfaitement, c'est bien sur la nécessité d'inclure plus de légumes dans l'alimentation humaine. Là-dessus pas de divergences d'opinion. A grand renfort de qualificatifs, on nous prouve que les légumes ont le plus heureux effet sur l'organisme: ils sont tonifiants, rafraîchissants, laxatifs, sédatifs, dépuratifs, etc., etc. Cette assertion n'est pas pour déplaire aux gastronomes, loin de là, car mieux que tous ils savent qu'il n'y a pas de vraie bonne cuisine sans légumes. Le même assertion n'est pas d'avantage de nature à déplaire à nos agriculteurs, car ils sont en mesure de produire des légumes excellents et même supérieurs, en certains cas, à ceux des autres provinces. C'est pour ces raisons que le ministère de l'Agriculture recommande chaleureusement au public, tant des villes que des campagnes, de consommer plus de légumes. Tel est donc l'objet de la présente brochure. Elle contient des recettes simples, économiques, et chose essentielle pour des recettes: elles sont délicieuses.

On assure qu'il y a des centaines de manières d'appréter les légumes, et il ne s'agit souvent que de penser à varier les ingrédients pour présenter des plats pratiquement nouveaux. La succulence — et l'abondance donc! — de notre cuisine dite canadienne est admise par tous. Reconnaissons cependant qu'elle gagnerait fréquemment à comporter plus de légumes. Que nos ménagères placent donc bien à la main ce petit recueil dans leur cuisine. Qu'il leur devienne familier et les inspire dans la préparation de ces savoureux petits plats qui, à l'heure des repas, ramènent autour de la table une maisonnette heureuse.

MONTREAL BROTHERHOOD FEDERATION REPRESENTED

Another special event in the program of the Men's League took place last Sunday afternoon in the form of a public service under their auspices. It was also the occasion of affiliation with the Montreal and District Brotherhood Federation. For this purpose a delegation of ten from Montreal were present and conducted the service. Mr. A. H. Veale, president of the Federation, led the service, assisted by Mr. R. Beeton, who offered prayer, Mr. R. B. Clarke, reading the scripture lesson, and Mr. R. McCall, who contributed a solo.

The affiliation ceremony was taken by W. W. Guynan, general secretary. On behalf of the League, Messrs. L. Bullock, president, R. Graham, vice-president, and C. Wheeler, secretary-treasurer, were called upon to accept from the Federation a copy of the Bible, at the hands of Mr. Racine, who described it as the Charter, Constitution and By-laws of the Brotherhood movement. Mr. Guynan presented a number of Brotherhood pins and pamphlets. He later spoke on the local connections of the Federation, Mr. Veale dealing with its world-wide application, and pointing out a unique aspect of this affiliation in the fact that, while the Federation went out to form groups and thus increase its branches, here was a group already formed and seeking to become part of the parent body, this being the first time in its history such an occasion offered.

The choir was present in almost full strength and rendered appropriate music. Following the service, a further gathering was held downstairs, where refreshments were served. The thanks of the delegation were voiced by Mr. Veale to the ladies for their kind hospitality, to the choir for their fine service and the Men's League for making another enjoyable visit possible. Other members of the Federation also paid tributes, to which the president and several of the League replied. The singing of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" brought the gathering to a close.

Mr. J. M. Carver, vice-president of the Federation, was the speaker at the morning service, which was conducted by the minister, Rev. S. J. Pike. Being Mothers' Day, the choir rendered several very acceptable and appropriate numbers.

CBC Players To Do "The Perfect Marriage"

Toronto. — The third production of the "CBC Summer Theatre," under the direction of James Harvey, will be presented to national network listeners next Thursday, May 19, from 8.30 to 9.00 p.m. The play selected for performance is Leonard White's sparkling domestic comedy, "The Perfect Marriage," adapted for radio by Horace Brown.

"The Perfect Marriage" deals with ideals and realities in entertaining contrast, the ideals being those of the hero who writes a book on his conception of what an ideal marriage should be, then marries to find out that no matter how good intentions may be, realities creep in to change the perfect pattern.

How the ideal becomes reconciled to the reality of this particular marriage is revealed in a cleverly constructed comedy which will feature a number of leading Toronto dramatic artists.

A little fairy dances
Upon the babbling brook,
Where the sun peeps shyly through

Who does not like the dark.

She waves and smiles and ripples,
This little golden gleam,
Making a shiny, twinkly spot

Continued

John held out his arms for the bunnies, but his father said "You must hold its hind legs closely, son, or it will hop right out of your arms and run back to its mother." John took hold of its hind legs but his eyes held a strange frightened look as he did it. "You are sure it won't bite, Daddy?" he asked.

"Of course it won't bite," his father said, laughing heartily. "It is just as much afraid of you as you are. Hold its feet firmly and stroke its head and ears softly."

Sitting down on a stump, little John hugged the bunnies close to him and stroked it until it stopped shivering and settled down in his arms. "I've tamed it, Daddy! I've tamed it!" he cried in delight, but his father's laughing answer came back: "Don't be too sure of that, son. Little bunnies are not so quickly tamed as that."

Little John found out very soon the truth of his father's remark. When Daddy called from the upper end of the fence that he had finished his work and was going home, John started to run to his father with the little bunnies in his arms. Forgetting that he had been told to keep a firm hold of its feet, he had let go of them to stroke it, and when he jumped up to run to his father the little bunnies sprang out of his arms and hopped away. John ran after it, splashing himself with mud and water, until he came to a pond much too deep for him to venture into, but over which the little bunnies had hopped quite easily and disappeared under some brush on the other side.

John's cries brought his father again, but the wee rabbit was much too well hidden for them to find it, so they were forced to go home without him, much to little John's sorrow. They did not know that the little bunnies had hopped along under the brush until it had come to a hollow fence rail lying on the ground and had crept inside it. As they walked by the rail on their way home John's daddy hit the rail with his axe and said "Some of these days I am going to chop that old rail up into kindling wood for your mother's summer fires."

The axe struck right over the spot where the little bunnies were hiding! It frightened the rabbit so that it darted out of the rail and across the path in front of them straight for old Rover, who had heard their voices and was coming to meet them. Old Rover saw it, and although he was stiff with age, gave an excited bark and started off after it.

It was well for the little bunnies that Rover was old and stiff, for it was getting very tired and would have been easily caught by a younger dog. Rover was getting blind as well as old, and did not notice what had happened when the little bunnies, seeing a small hole, hopped into it. He only knew that the rabbit scent had stopped at this hole, and ran around and around, sniffing and barking until he heard John's mother blowing the horn, which meant that supper was ready, and Rover hurried off to the house, where he knew a nice warm dish would be waiting for him too.

Down in the hole the little bunnies' nose was twitching and twitching. This place had such a familiar smell. Hurrying along down the tunnel until he reached the bottom, he hopped right in amongst his own little brothers and sisters, and cuddled down close to them, his little heart beating happily. And he felt quite sure that never again would he want to climb up out of the hole to explore the deep dark woods.

LORD BYRON

The "Perfect Lover" Who Chewed Tobacco, Bit His Finger-Nails, And Drank Wine
Out of Human Skulls

A hundred years ago there was no man in the world who could compete, so far as the ladies were concerned, with the romantic George Gordon, Lord Byron.

He was the greatest poet of his day. His influence changed the whole trend of literature in the nineteenth century. He wrote some of the greatest romantic verse to be found in our anthologies, and some of the tenderest. He loved dozens of women, but strangest of all, he loved his own half-sister, and the scandal of their love shocked Europe and ruined her life. After they were driven apart, he wrote to her one of the loveliest poems:

If I should meet thee
After long years
How should I greet thee?—
With silence and tears.

What was he like, this great paragon of lovers, this Valentino of a century ago? He had a deformed foot. He limped badly. He chewed his finger-nails. He chewed tobacco. He swashbuckled about in the broad daylight of 19th century Britain, bristling with loaded pistols like a Chicago gangster. His temper was vicious. If people stared at him, his blood pressure rose twenty points, for he imagined they were staring at his deformed foot. This poet who was hailed as the perfect Romeo, loved to torture women. Two hours after the marriage ceremony, he informed his bride that he hated her, that he married her only out of spite and that she would live to rue the day she first saw him. She did.

The country people who lived near his great Abbey told strange yarns: They said that all his servants were young girls — beautiful girls, girls with amiable dispositions. The country folks told how he and his guests dressed up as monks in long black cassocks and indulged in orgies that would have made Belshazzar's dinner parties sound like a W.C.T.U. breakfast. Amiable servant girls served the wine, and Byron and his friends drank it—not out of glasses or goblets — but out of human skulls — scraped and polished until they shone like a full moon in the desert.

Byron, slender and graceful, was often compared to the Apollo Belvedere. His skin was so white that adoring females declared he looked "like a beautiful alabaster vase lighted up from within." But they didn't realize what agonies he went through to look like that. They didn't know that every day of his life, and every hour, was a constant, irritating, and exhausting battle against fat. In order to remain slender and lovable, he endured a diet so fantastic that it has never hit even Hollywood.

This fantastic dieting ruined his digestion; and, as a result, his bedroom reeked of pills and potions and patent medicines.

He suffered so horribly from nightmares that he resorted to laudanum. But even laudanum couldn't stifle his bad dreams, so he kept two loaded pistols beside his bed. In the quiet of the night, he would wake up yelling and gnashing his teeth, and would stride up and down the room brandishing pistols and daggers.

He had another superstition that haunted him. A gypsy fortune-teller once warned him that he would die in his thirty-seventh year. He died three months after he had passed his thirty-sixth birthday. Byron believed a sinister curse doomed all his family. The thirty-sixth birthday, he swore, was fatal to the people of his blood. Some modern biographers are even inclined to agree with him for Byron's father died at the age of thirty-six, and Byron's daughter, whose life was exactly like her father's, also died on the eve of her thirty-sixth birthday.

NEW THEME SONG FOR LACHUTE HIGH SCHOOL

BOYS JUBILANT OVER

(Contributed by a Local Humorist)

Well folks, the title of that one-time popular tune, "It's Getting to be a Habit With Me," has been changed for the time being (as far as the Lachute High School boys are concerned), to "It's Getting to be a Habit With Us," since their recent smashing softball victory. The time — 4 p.m., Thursday, May 5... The place — Lachute ball ground... The event — Lachute School vs. Brownsburg School softball game... The result — a 21-3 win for L.H.S.

Topping off last fall's ball season with a victory over the 'Burg squad, the one and only win of 1937 over this team, it was suitable that the boys of the Blue and White should take up where they left off and start right in again. Last week's game brought forth once again that indomitable team-spirit that played such a prominent part in their hockey victory of not so long ago, and with confidence stimulated by this team-spirit, the local boys were soon at work in earnest.

While the Lachute players were piling up an impressive supply of runs during the first four innings, the lads from the dynamite town went run-less, a heretofore unheard of state of affairs. During the fifth they managed to mark one up on the scoreboard, and with two more in the sixth, attained the total of three runs.

That star outfielder on the 'Burg team was there as usual, while their pitcher was despondent at the slaughtering his curves took. After Bill Birch broke the ice and made the first 'Burg run, two minutes of silence was reverently held for the "whitewash" that had seemed so imminent.

The 'Burg boys, who are usually hesitant in arranging future games, hockey encounters notably, were hop-

How's This One!

Don't try to fool mother, boys. It can't be done. Remember the young man who pawned his nice suit of clothes and didn't want mother to know anything about it? He finally redeemed them and brought them home in a suitcase. While he was busy in his room his mother, in the parlor, started to unpack the suitcase. She found the pawn ticket on the coat and called:

"John, what is this tag on your coat?"

John lost very little time in calling back: "Oh, I was at a dance last night, mother, and checked my coat."

A moment later mother came across the trousers, tagged in the same way. With a puzzled tone she asked: "John, what kind of a dance was that?" — Exchange.

How Can This Be?

'Tis a curious thing,
It seems to me,
That a flea can't fly
But a fly can flee.
It's curious, too,

Lots Drawn in 1789 for United States Senators

When the nation's first senate was organized on May 14, 1789, only ten states were represented, the others not having accepted the Constitution, notes a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. The twenty senators were divided into three classes, one of six members and the other two of seven members. One member of each class then drew lots, the class drawing number one to serve two years; number two to serve four years, and number three, six years. The lots were so arranged that no two senators from a state fell into the same class.

So the country had three sets of senators, one retiring in 1791, the next in 1793, and the third in 1795. The system so established has never been changed.

As the other states sent senators they were admitted and assigned by lot in the same way. As their terms expired, successors were elected for the full six-year term. Senators from new states, by the enabling acts admitting the states, were also assigned so as to keep the three classes even.

A GOOD EXCUSE

(Whitewright, Texas, Sun)

A Washington mother was very much put out because the teacher insisted on a written excuse explaining her son's absence from school following a severe snowstorm. Whereupon the mother sat down and dashed off the following note:

"Dear Miss Kitty: Little Eddie's legs are 14 inches long; the snow was 18 inches deep. Very truly yours, Mrs. Johnson."

ROYALS

Have you tried the new game of bridge with the fifth suit? There are those who say it is as much ahead of ordinary Contract as Contract is ahead of Auction. On the other hand, others think that it is a passing fad and will go the way of Mah Jong. Time will tell. Holding so many cards in the hand brought back the days of my youth when we used to play euchre at the parties. Occasionally we would be asked to a Methodist party and play Nations. After the five cards of euchre our hand seemed to be overflowing with cards and the fifth-suit-bridge gave me the same sensation. There are times when I thought I held pretty bad hands but my partner held one with a seven high. That is about the world's worst.

WE NEED PRIDE

Classes for backward children are doing great work and one of the best things they do is to give these children a feeling of pride. We all need something in ourselves to be proud of and the child who is slow has usually has so many derisive comparisons that he has no pride in himself. These special classes emphasize hand work rather than the usual school studies. Some of them do very fine work. In one school the teacher of the special class always manages that the other children see the things that the special class is making. The bright children do not know how to make these things and they admire them and are quite envious. This fills the slow children with pride and makes them feel just as good as the bright ones. The teacher says that, when she has fostered this feeling of pride, the learning ability of the child is increased and the behaviour problems are decreased. There is a lesson here for all parents and teachers — see that each child is proud of something he can do.

GREENS FOR WINTER USE

When you plant your garden this year do plant some herbs for summer use and with an eye to bringing them into the kitchen window for winter. For years I have wanted to have a pot of chives but never have managed it. Last Fall we were visiting with a friend who has made over a lovely old farm-house for a summer home. We wandered over to an abandoned farm near-by and there in its garden was a huge patch of chives. We dug up a root and it has flourished in the kitchen all winter. It has been in almost daily use. It gives a delicate, onion-like flavor with none of its objectionable features. Right beside it is a pot of parsley. Only those of you who have had it know how convenient it is to have parsley always on hand for a garnish and a flavor. Fant now, for winter comes.

THE LITTLE TOUCH

The expert cook has that little extra touch that others lack. I was at a tea the other day that illustrated this nicely. We had those very familiar cheese things that go by so many different names. You know the thick slices of bread, that are covered with cheese and put in the oven to melt the cheese and toast the bread. These were specially good and when someone asked the hostess how she made them, she said that she creamed the butter and the cream cheese together and added a good pinch of mustard. It was the mustard that did the trick. Creaming the butter and cheese together before spreading instead of putting each on separately makes them better as it divides the cheese more evenly. Then we had ribbon sandwiches that were particularly good. The two outside fillings were white cream cheese and the centre one was walnuts. The walnuts were not put through the grinder as is usually done, but were chopped closely. This makes them crunchy and adds considerably to the interest of the sandwich. Texture is important as well as flavor. Nothing exotic or different, but just the little touch that makes good cooking.

MAPLE PARFAIT

Bring the syrup to the boil and pour over the beaten egg whites, beating until cooled. Chill while whipping the cream. Add the egg whites to the whipped cream and freeze in the electric refrigerator until firm. Serve with maple syrup.

LAMB FRICASSEE

Cut 2½ lbs. breast or shoulder lamb into pieces suitable for serving, removing any superfluous fat. Melt a little of the fat in a frying pan and brown the meat and a small onion cut finely. Cover with water, season with salt and pepper. Cook slowly until tender, from two to two and a half hours. Boil some carrots cut lengthwise, and some finely cut celery, if available. Add these to the meat shortly before serving. Remove some of the liquid and thicken with flour moistened with a little water. Return this to the meat, mix well and serve. I prefer hot biscuits with a fricassee rather than potatoes.

Measles in Children and Adults

By John W. S. McCullough, M.D., D.P.H.

The tiny baby does not have measles provided the mother has had the disease. The baby under such circumstances is immune. Why, since only about 3% of all persons escape measles, is the little baby immune? The reason is that the baby has substances in its blood which prevent, for a time at least, its taking measles.

It is well known that one attack of measles almost invariably confers a definite protection against subsequent attacks. Rarely a person may have a second dose of measles, but this is uncommon. In a study of 14,744 cases in Providence, R.I., 689 had a second attack and of these 41 had measles a third time. The close similarity between measles and German measles accounts for many of the so-called second attacks.

In scarlet fever and diphtheria, immunity comes with adult life to a considerable extent; this is not the case with measles for in measles adults are just as susceptible as children; in fact, measles is rather malignant in virgin soil. Both measles and influenza may wipe out a large proportion of people who have never before experienced these affections. In 1775 measles was introduced into the Sandwich Islands, and in four months, 40,000 of a population of 150,000 died. The son of the chief of the Fiji Islands carried the disease from Sydney, Australia, to his home, with the result that one-fifth of the population (20,000) died. These facts indicate that a certain amount of resistance to the disease is acquired by communities in which it has prevailed for a long time.

After an attack of measles the blood is rich in immune bodies able to neutralize the virus of the disease. This property of the blood gradually weakens with advancing age but retains its efficacy for life. Because of this, convalescent serum, that is the watery part of the blood of a person who has had measles, is now used to cut short an attack. If given before the middle of the period of incubation, the fifth day after exposure, an appropriate dose of this serum will usually protect the person exposed. This protection will last for about three weeks. Fresh whole blood will act quite as well. The serum is injected into the muscular tissues.

Measles is an extremely "catching" disease. Its virus is probably transmitted by means of the secretions of the nose and throat and most often during the early stages of the disease.

It is foolish to expose children to this or any other infectious disease. Over 9% of the fatal cases occur during the first five years of life. If convalescent serum is promptly used we can prevent measles, or at least lessen its effects.

Internal Magic

Digestion in the stomach requires a certain amount of hydrochloric acid, which contains chlorine. The body makes this acid from salt, but how nobody knows, says R. M. Rowat in a recent issue of the C-I-L Oval.

The kidney cells have learned to remove salt from, or to hold it back in, the blood according to the needs of the body, but the skin has never mastered this feat. That is why workmen on high temperature jobs that cause them to perspire freely are subject to cramps and exhaustion due to the depletion of their body salt.

reserves. If the skin knew the kidney's magic, salt would not be lost in perspiration when needed internally. To counteract this loss of salt which is so essential to the system, health authorities recommend that salt tablets be taken by persons who perspire freely.

Government Gimme's

Some time ago, the directors of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association met in Ottawa and had an interview with the Premier and some of his cabinet. They asked for nothing and Mr. King said it was a unique experience! It does not speak well for the rest of the country. The number of people and places that want something from the government is astounding. It is never "What can we do without?" but "What can we get?" Every section of the people wants something for their own locality. The place a few miles away got something, why can't we? Gimme! Gimme! all the time. And then we complain that our taxes are high. Quit asking for things and putting pressure on your local members and the Ministers. There are many things that are useful and delightful to have, but are not necessities. If the whole country would say, "quit spending," then governments might have a chance.

LAUNDRY HINTS

The old adage "Haste makes waste" is truer in no place than in the home laundry. From the very minute the clothes are sorted for washing to the final putting away in chest and cupboard, methodical organization is of prime importance. Care in washing makes for ease in ironing. It always seemed so silly to me to wring wrinkles in clothes because it makes just that much more work to iron them out. If you put clothes through the wringer straight and fold them straight when you take them from the line, many wrinkles will be entirely eliminated and you will save yourself many minutes of ironing time. Another trick of easy ironing is to dampen clothes with warm water and let them wait long enough for the moisture to become evenly distributed.

REMODELED DOORS

If you have an old-fashioned double door between your living room and dining room you can make it into an attractive and useful architectural detail with very little trouble and money. If you want shelf room in the living room, have book-shelves in either side of the doorway. These cases are built inside the doorway and should be sealed to leave the opening the width of an ordinary door. Or the shelves built into the dining-room side will give you a pair of attractive cabinets for displaying your collection of glass or what-have-you. Paint the interior of the cabinet with a contrasting color that will set off the collection. Cape Cod blue, old-fashioned coral, mandarin red and the very old pea green are four standbys that make charming backgrounds of contrast.

Digestion in the stomach requires a certain amount of hydrochloric acid, which contains chlorine. The body makes this acid from salt, but how nobody knows, says R. M. Rowat in a recent issue of the C-I-L Oval.

The kidney cells have learned to remove salt from, or to hold it back in, the blood according to the needs of the body, but the skin has never mastered this feat. That is why workmen on high temperature jobs that cause them to perspire freely are subject to cramps and exhaustion due to the depletion of their body salt.

Travelling On Air

Fifty years ago, in 1888, John Dunlop, a Belfast veterinary surgeon, invented the first pneumatic or air filled rubber tire. His invention was an accessory before the fact because it came before there were such things as motor cars. In those early days tires were made of solid rubber and were used largely for racing vehicles. The early motor car tire was expensive and was considered extraordinary if it stood up for 3,000 miles. Today, says the C-I-L Oval, through the use of chemical plasticizers and other contributions of the chemical laboratory the average automobile tire is good for at least 25,000 or more miles.

In a rural school near Marked Tree, Ark., small Julia Hatcher raised her hand and asked the teacher if she might go out. "Why do you wish to leave?" asked the teacher. "Cause your schoolhouse is on fire," replied Julia. Which proved to be true, but the calmness of the little girl had been imparted to the other pupils, and all left the building in orderly fashion without becoming panicky. The schoolhouse burned to the ground.

Gates Fort, Bermuda, Is Named for Old Virginian

Ancient Gates fort, which is a mile and a half from St. George, Bermuda, and which antedates the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers by a decade, is the site of this ruined fortification, built by Sir Thomas Gates, governor of Virginia, shortly after he was shipwrecked there in 1609, and while his famous vessel Deliverance was being constructed to carry colonists on to their original destination, Jamestown.

Excavations made by members of the St. George Historical society, writes a St. George, Bermuda, correspondent in the Detroit Free Press, disclosed the original plan of the fort which had been buried with solidified sand. Embrasures were restored, old guns re-mounted in positions from which their gaunt muzzles spelled authority to invading Spaniards, French, Dutch and Portuguese, and later to blockade runners and ships from the North and South which used Bermuda as a base for supplies during the Civil war.

St. George itself is the oldest English settlement on this side of the Atlantic.

County Women Pass Resolutions on Voting Franchise, Lighting of Vehicles

New Officers and Convenors Elected at 18th Annual Convention of Women's Institutes

The 18th annual convention of Argenteuil Women's Institutes was held in Lachute High School hall Saturday, May 14th, with an attendance of 97. The County President, Mrs. J. Gilbey, of Morin Heights, presided at the piano during the morning and afternoon openings, and also favored with several delightful piano solos during the course of the afternoon sessions. The convention also enjoyed songs by Miss Marion Birch of Brownsburg, accompanied on the piano by Miss Rosamond Pike, also of Brownsburg.

In the morning session, reports were presented by secretaries of the different branches, the County Convenors and the County Secretary. These showed that the Women's Institutes were living up to the standards set for them as regards help for the sick and needy, and in particular the care of children, upon whom depends the future of our country.

A letter was read from Lady Perley regretting her inability to be present. A letter was also read from Her Ladyship thanking the County W.I. for their remembrance of her in her time of trouble.

A few moments in memory of the members lost by death during the past year was spent by standing in respectful silence.

Names of all members who had passed since the beginning of the Women's Institute in this county were read by Mrs. G. F. W. Kuhring, of Lakefield, and it was agreed that this list of names should be retained by the county in memory of those dear sisters who had, in their day, helped to make the Women's Institute the successful organization that it has become.

More Improvements to

Main Street Premises, Homes Under Construction

In line with the urge of spring, to modernize premises and adjust them to more convenient lay-out, two more establishments on Main Street, Lachute, have been undergoing improvements. The Dominion Store has been completely redecorated and arranged for better sales service, and at Desjardins Hotel, next door, the proprietor is partitioning a spacious grill on the main floor. The room is attractively paneled, to harmonize with the dignified yet comfortable interior of this hotel.

There is also quite a healthy growth in private construction. Among others, Messrs. W. M. Scott, Geo. Muir, E. Deslauriers and Jos. Gignac are busily at work building new residences.

Hekimian, Lifeguard, Recovered Body of Drowning Victim

A young swimmer whose exploits, he claims, have won for him the title of "human seal," and who came to town recently before taking a job as lifeguard at Hamilton, recovered the body of Joseph Lemay, 69-year-old Lachute Mills resident, who was swept over the Wilson and Ayers dams on April 23rd last.

Krikor Hekimian, the swimmer, persevered for several days, diving beneath the surface of the North River, where it was believed the man's body would lodge. He finally located the victim at 10:30 o'clock last Saturday morning in a hole in the river-bed about 100 yards below the dam. He estimated the depth to be about ten feet at this spot. Hekimian brought the body to the surface and pulled it to shore.

A coroner's investigation was held Saturday afternoon by Dr. J. H. Mason, of Lachute, who heard evidence from several who had seen Lemay lose control of his boat when logs, which he was towing, turned the craft into the current. Thrown over the Wilson dam he had been unable to struggle to shore and in his weakened condition had similarly been washed over the dam at Ayers Limited. The victim's body was badly battered when found. The

Rare Old Bible Owned by Local Pastor, Used in Service at Montreal Sunday

Rev. W. B. Rosborough, minister of Lachute United Church, exchanged pulpits with Dr. T. W. Jones of Calvary United, last Sunday morning. Mr. Rosborough's theme stressed the relationship between the city and the country, and the importance of church work in our towns, villages and country parishes.

In an address to the children, Mr. Rosborough used a Geneva Bible printed in the year 1599. This volume in Mr. Rosborough's possession, is believed to be the oldest Bible in Canada and is in excellent condition.

This year the Christian world celebrates the 300th anniversary of the authorized version of the Bible in the churches. The Geneva Bible was printed 12 years before the translation of the authorized version by order of King James I.

New Venture in High School Sports; Interscholastic Meet for Field Day

Banquet and Dance in Evening Followed Enjoyable Day; Four Schools Participated

SEEKS HELIUM

Dr. Hugo Eckener, popular Zeppelin commander and designer, is shown on his arrival in New York en route to Washington to enter his plea for a supply of helium for Germany's use in the great new craft which is under construction.

Another innovation was tried with success last Saturday at Lachute High School, when the first interscholastic track meet was held in connection with the scholars' annual field day. The spacious grounds at the rear of the school were crowded with the large number of competitors and spectators present, while numerous automobiles were parked around the school block.

The young athletes participating in the meet came from the schools of St. Andrews East, Brownsburg, Longueuil and Lachute itself, every competitor acquitting himself or herself, if not by a victory, by excellent sportsmanship.

The day's program started at 10 o'clock, the morning session ending at 12:15 p.m., and the afternoon events starting at 1:30 p.m. At about four o'clock the L.H.S. ball team played a game against the Longueuil visitors, the local boys emerging victors with a score of 10-8.

Shortly after conclusion of this game, one hundred of the guests present had supper served to them in the banquet hall of the school. Principal C. L. Hall extended a warm welcome to each of the visiting schools, expressing his pleasure in the fine spirit which had existed all day. He was gratified also that this new venture of interscholastic competition had turned out so successfully, and trusted that pupils of the schools represented would be able to gather there once again under similar circumstances.

At conclusion of the supper, athletics of a less strenuous variety were enjoyed. The highlight of the evening was a square-dance, which afforded pleasure to all present. Several Lachute High School graduates attended, and one of this group, popular Lloyd Canning, supplied the dance music.

Mr. Greaves of Longueuil and Mr. D. Stanforth of Brownsburg accompanied their pupils. The judges were Rev. H. Cousens and Mr. H. M. Gall. Mr. H. Pibus filled the role as starter for the day's events. Principal C. L. Hall distributed the prizes to winners of the numerous contests.

Notable Celebration at Brownsburg on 25th Anniversary of Rev. Bouchard as Parish Priest

CHURCH DIGNITARIES AND PUBLIC MEN TOOK PART IN CEREMONIES

Brownsburg — A week-end of festivities, mingled with deep religious ceremony, marked the occasion of the twenty-fifth anniversary of Reverend Father Vitalis Bouchard's ministry as parish priest at Brownsburg. High dignitaries of the Church, with lesser members from all over the diocese, expressed a sense of sincere gratitude for the unselfish service and, unsparing Christian charity which Father Bouchard has exercised over his parish during a quarter of a century. Political representatives, organizations, religious societies and public men in various walks of life paid tribute to Father Bouchard's warm-hearted toleration and generosity. Even members of other religious persuasion came forward to add their sincere and gracious acknowledgment.

Foremost in presenting the beautiful tableaux, dramas and entertainment, the Sisters of Mercy had spared no care or training to make the event an outstanding success. The presentation of "Fabiola" in such an ambitious setting might well deter less competent organizers of public entertainment; not so the good Sisters, the children under their care and guidance rendered a flawless performance. The other forms of entertainment were equally diverting and well presented.

Two beautifully illuminated addresses; one in French read and presented by Mr. Albani Brunelle, and one in English read and presented by Mr. M. V. Trayers, were accepted by Father Bouchard and graciously replied to at the conclusion of Saturday afternoon's entertainment. Numerous beautiful gifts were offered by his parishioners.

Solemn High Mass on Sunday, at which Father Bouchard was celebrant, preceded the day's festivities. The Right Rev. Monsignor Chartreau, representing Archbishop Forbes, assisted at the Mass, also numerous priests from the surrounding parishes. The Rev. Fr. Hebert, of Ottawa, on whose shoulders fell the organizing of this celebration, acted as master of ceremonies and great credit is due to him for the success which his efforts attained.

After High Mass, Father Bouchard was guest of honor at a banquet attended by upwards of 500 people. The arena was transformed into a veritable fairy palace by the ladies of the Catholic Institute, who also served the sumptuous repast. Monsignor Chartreau delivered the gratulatory address, and was followed by other members of the clergy. Mr. Georges H. Héon, M.P., and Mr. Georges Dansereau, M.L.A., offered their felicitations. Father Bouchard replied with a special word for his English parishioners.

Interested Visitor Inspects Church of Antecedents

St. Andrews—Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Duncan, Lachute, visited Dr. and Mrs. Ballantyne here on Saturday. They were accompanied by Mr. John Bisland, J.P. and Provost of the City of Dunbarton, Scotland, and Mrs. Bisland. They also visited the Presbyterian Church, where Mr. Bisland's antecedents had worshipped one hundred and twenty years ago, walking from East Settlement in time for the morning service.

On Mr. Bisland's return to Scotland he intends to forward to the session of the church copies of four letters written by Dr. Henderson, and his relatives in East Settlement, regarding Dr. Henderson's induction and ministry here. These will be prized very much by the congregation.

MAKING CANADA A Better Place in Which to Live and Work

Letters from Distinguished Canadians on Problems Affecting the Future Welfare of Canada Specially Written for Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association

London, Canada,

Dear Mr. Editor:

As a believer in the exceptional power of the weekly press to guide public thought I cannot but commend your special effort to assemble constructive views concerning the great public issues of Canada. Though I dare not count my own views as of any worth, yet I venture to submit one or two of them if for no other reasons than that you have requested them and that I hold them very strongly.

It seems to me that the many internal issues that confront us now are really only so many phases of one great issue — essentially a great moral issue. Most of our troubles appear to be due to the inability of Canadians as a group to see national conditions as they are. This is nothing less than a refusal to face facts, a shortcoming the right name of which is a very unlovely one — intellectual dishonesty. However sanely we conduct our private lives and our private business we are in the habit of assuming an attitude of wishful thinking in regard to our public problems. We act as though unpleasant problems will solve themselves if we only close our eyes to their existence long enough. We wish to assume that by merely wishing things to be otherwise we can improve them or remove them. In the meantime the plain fact is that our problems are steadily growing worse — public debts mounting, railway deficits nearing their absolute limit, government expenses increasing through the demands of ourselves, the people, who blindly ask to be bribed by our own money.

Another form of this self-inflicted blindness is playing the old game of "passing the buck." Canada is a democracy and, therefore, we, the people, are fundamentally the government. Our representatives do the chores of government for us but we are responsible for the kind of people they are and the way in which they do their chores. In practice, however, we lay the blame of bad or indifferent government upon them and arrogate to ourselves credit for any bits of good government. We are also in the habit of endeavoring to make influences originating outside the country the scapegoat of many of our own sins.

I believe that the weekly press can do Canada no better service than, even at the risk of becoming somewhat through repetition, by constantly reminding Canadians that most of their national troubles are of their own making and hence of their own curing; that the day of reckoning is absolutely unavoidable; that if we face the facts in our public business as we do in our private business there is yet time to solve a large number of our problems and to reduce or even avoid the impact of calamity. Many other nations sincerely profess to admire Canadians for their common sense. Let us endeavor to show ourselves genuinely worthy of the praise.

Picking Up Strangers

When will people learn to leave roadside "thumb-riders" safely and securely on the side of the road where they belong?

Seldom a day passes that there is not a story in the newspapers about some motorist being attacked and robbed by one or more men to whom he has given a ride.

There are two classes of "thumb-riders"; the man who has no money, and the man who has money with which to pay his bus or railway fare but pretends to save it and "cadge" a ride from some passing autoist.

In the first group there are, undoubtedly, many honest young men who are deeply appreciative of a lift from a passing motorist. On the other hand, there are lots of men seeking rides on our highways today for the sole purpose of robbery. Is it, then, wise to take a chance?

Picking up hitch-hikers indiscriminately is a risky business and often results disastrously.

D.D.G.M. of Oddfellows Made 20 Visits and Covered 2,500 Miles During Year's Term

During his year of office as District Deputy Grand Master of the Oddfellows' Order, W. McArthur of Lachute has given an excellent account of himself, having made 20 visits outside the county during his term and travelled over 2,500 miles, in all varieties of weather. His last trip was to the Provincial Grand Lodge annual session at Sherbrooke yesterday, when he was accompanied by his father, Mr. Robt. McArthur, P.G.M., and Rev. S. J. Pike of Brownsburg. Mr. Arthur Campbell, of Dalesville, also attended the Sherbrooke meeting. Mr. Pike was appointed Provincial Grand Chaplain.

On most of his visits the D.D.G.M. has been attended by a following of local members, so that Lachute has Ottawa, May 17th. — At a time when the people of so many nations are regimented under dictatorships, those who live in democratic countries are extremely sensitive on the question of free speech. Anything which seems to threaten or restrict any avenue for the free expression of opinion meets with immediate opposition. Democracies jealously guard an ancient heritage. The lively debate on radio broadcasting in the Commons last week was caused by the appearance of a cloud, real or imaginary, which seemed to threaten freedom of speech over the radio.

Mr. "Tommy" Church, member from Toronto, started the ball rolling by taking vigorous exception to criticism of the British Government by a commentator broadcasting from Winnipeg. The speech was received with sympathy by the prime minister who, in a statement following, questioned the propriety of the broadcasting corporation which received its authority from parliament criticising the government policies and proceedings of parliament of another nation of the British Empire, particularly in the present crisis. The next day the debate spread through the House, with some members strenuously supporting the rights of free speech over the radio, while others agreed that the rights of free speech were inviolable but that accuracy in news comments was essential and that propriety and care in broadcasting in a troubled world should exercise a restraining influence on what went out over the air. Some members questioned the accuracy of news comments that have been made over the radio by Canadian commentators.

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF ARGENTEUIL COUNTY WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

After a splendid lunch, provided by the branches of the county and supervised by the ladies of the Lachute branch, the convention assembled again and listened to several addresses.

The retiring County President, Mrs. A. Graham, in her address stressed the need of a closer following in the creed and of more humor in the meetings, quoting the well-known writer, Nellie McClung, in this regard: "We should cultivate more humor in Canada . . . We need more merriment, more laughter. Children should be taught to laugh as well as to pray. . . . Humor is a kindly thing. Everyone can laugh at it. Wit and repartee may have a sting, but humor falls like the dew from Heaven." Mrs. Graham also advised the reading of more poetry in the Institute meeting as a nerve soother, also as a cultivation of the love for the beautiful.

Miss H. B. McCain's address dealt with the work of the W.I. in the Province and Dominion. She spoke of the work involved in arranging for the new Dominion "Home and Country," which it is hoped will be circulating this fall. This magazine has the approval of Her Excellency, who will contribute to it. Her Excellency thought that we were too provincial and felt that a Dominion-wide magazine would help correct this. . . . In speaking of disappointments in connection with the work, Miss McCain said that they were "good for us"; that if the time ever came when we felt quite satisfied with ourselves, we might look out for a fall. "Remember that the eyes of the community are upon you," the speaker quoted, stressing that obstacles were essentially something to be overcome. Miss McCain advised officers elected not to refuse, as being an officer was an education.

Mrs. R. J. Seale brought in the findings of the nominating committee and Mrs. G. F. W. Kuhring the findings of the resolutions committee. Officers appointed for the ensuing year were:

Hon. President, Mrs. Archie Graham, Grenville, R.R. 1.

The last two resolutions are being submitted to the Provincial Board when it meets at Macdonald College in June, for their consideration.

(Respectfully submitted

— Grace A. S. Kuhring, Convenor).

In reference to those who helped make this meeting a success, Lachute branch as convenors of the refreshment committee deserve special mention for the attractive decorations in blue and white (the school colors) in the dining-room, on the tables, pillars and windows — all of which helped make the convention feel that they were really welcome in Lachute and in the school.

Mrs. G. Leggett of Lachute branch voiced that welcome earlier in the day by extending it to all members of the other branches of the county. This welcome was courteously replied to in acceptance by Mrs. C. W. Baugh of Lakefield.

Conventions are a necessary getting together of all interested parties for the mutual benefit and instruction of each other, and all who attend go back to their different fields of labor inspired to do still better work in the future.

Co. Convenor of Publicity

Is It Statesmanship?

"Italy's navy holds review for Hitler . . . Mussolini reveals power of his army . . . Italian air force is shown to Hitler."

"And Hezekiah . . . showed them . . . all the house of his armour." The first quotation is composed of headlines from a New York newspaper. The second is from II Kings, twentieth chapter, thirteenth verse.

Rome is not Jerusalem nor is Mussolini Hezekiah; no one expects the Babylonian captivity to be repeated. But what was vain-glory and childish display 2,600 years ago is not statesmanship today.

while others believed that these speeches were very interesting. There was much diversity of opinion among the members and no finality in the debate, but the impression to be gained by observers was that there was little danger of any impairment of the right of free speech in Canada. The high-spirited, high-stepping damsel "freedom of speech" was likely never in distress at all. She was simply being handed a book of simple maxims which might govern her conduct when she steps out on the congested and perilous international highway.

JAPANESE IMMIGRATION

The effort of Mr. Neill, member from Vancouver Island, to prevent further immigration of Japanese into this country has not met with success in parliament. One of the bills sought to amend the immigration act, which includes in its provisions that among those prohibited the right of immigration into this country are people over fifteen years of age physically capable of reading who cannot read the English or French language or some other language or dialect, by adding that the language which the prospective immigrant knows must be a European language. The bill was killed when the prime minister explained that it was not drafted in accordance with the regulations of the House. Supporting another bill for the exclusion of Japanese, the member from British Columbia contended that the interest of British Columbia and Canada demanded it. Government members did not argue the question but on previous occasions have explained that they opposed the measure because it would be considered an unfriendly act by Japan. In view of the present situation in the Orient, the government is particularly anxious to avoid stirring up bad feeling.

RAILWAY PROBLEMS

Railway problems are still being discussed before a committee of the Commons and a committee of the Senate. In the Commons committee further opposition has been raised to the clause in Mr. Howe's transport bill, which provides for "agreed charges." A representative of the automotive association contended that giving this right to the railways, that is of agreeing with customers on lowering of regular rates under certain conditions, would be a severe blow to the trucking business. It would be a reversion to "the law of the jungle." There were 200,000 trucks in Canada, with an investment of 400 million dollars in this important modern industry.

In the Senate Committee an earnest effort is being made to determine just why there has been so little saving in the plan of co-operative economics between the two railways under the plan inaugurated in 1933. According to testimony of railway officials who have been heard thus far, there is little chance of any extensive saving through co-operative methods unless there is some form of compulsion. The Senate is seeking to discover some effective means of carrying out economies in railway operation.

The House of Commons has been putting a number of bills through the final stages of legislation in that chamber. From there they will go to the Senate for further consideration. Among these bills are an amendment to the Farmers' Creditors' Arrangement Act, the radio measure, a bill for refunding of 200 million dollars of C.N.R. obligations, a bill dealing with sealing rights on the Pacific. There is no sign yet of the budget. The time of its appearance depends on how the negotiations of the trade treaty with the United States progress.

STORIED SPOTS FROM SEA TO SEA

By W. J. Banks, B.A.

Sculptured Rocks of Fundy

At Hopewell Cape, N.B.

Because of the constant play of the tides, the sea coasts often present unique rock formations. The Bay of Fundy region is particularly interesting in this respect, for its tides are among the highest in the world. In the vicinity of Hopewell Cape, New Brunswick, where the Petitcodiac River flows into Chignecto Bay, an arm of Fundy, the reddish cliffs range from forty to eighty feet in height. They have been eroded by the tireless forces of nature into a striking collection of odd forms. Many large and lovely caves lead far into the base of the cliffs, and sometimes the overhanging masses are supported by columns which give the impression of artificial construction.

Standing alone, clear of the cliff body, are individual formations of curious shapes. These detached rocks have been sculptured cunningly by wave and weather. Some are poised on narrow bases and real or imagined resemblance to familiar shapes have given certain ones such popular names as the Little Giant and the Sphinx. Stunted tree growth and other vegetation maintain a precarious foothold in the scanty soil adhering to the rocks at the top and on the sheltered sides. The rocks of Hopewell Cape have proven a great attraction for sightseers.

Like so many of Canada's points of special geographic or geological interest, Hopewell Cape is in the midst of a region of primary historic importance. The nearby Chignecto peninsula, which joins the modern provinces of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, was the focal point of the long struggle for mastery in Acadia. At the neighboring village of Hillsborough a monument marks the site of the Battle of Petitcodiac, won by Boishebert against the British in 1755.

Brownburg Girls Beat High School at Softball

The Lachute High School girls' softball team met the Brownburg Consolidated team on Wednesday afternoon on the C-I-L picnic grounds. The score was 11-7 in favor of the Brownburg players.

"Black Friday" of 1869, when terror struck the hearts of New York financiers, is faithfully depicted in the screen drama, "The Toast of New York." Edward Arnold shares starring honors with Cary Grant, Frances Farmer and Jack Oakie. This picture is a special "Hundred Club" booking at Rex Theatre, for June 1st only.

Roman Catholic Boy Scout groups in London increased from 53 to 88 during 1937.

Deep-Red Rubies From Siam

Many of the best rubies have been found in Siam in the provinces of Krat and Chantaboon, where are located the principal ruby mines of that country. The stones are usually found in detrital matter about 20 feet below the surface. The ruby-bearing gravel is less than a foot in thickness and lies between a clay bed and a heavy covering of coarse sand. The usual color of the Siam rubies is dark red, running almost to a blackish shade of red.

Ill Luck Followed Ship

The Great Eastern or Leviathan, as she was originally called, the English steamer, built in 1857, at the time the largest steamship afloat, encountered nothing but ill luck from the time she was launched, commercially a great failure. When broken up in 1883, the cause of her bad luck, according to sailor superstition, came to light in the discovery of a human skeleton wedged between her inner and outer skins.

Pekingese Dog Favorite

of the Chinese Rulers

One of China's three contributions to the dog fancy is the haughty-appearing little Pekingese. This waddling little "kou," as a dog is known in that land is one that has been 100 per cent pure-bred throughout the centuries, writes George Butz in the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Pekes were the coveted court dogs in the regimes of Chinese emperors. They were once the pampered pets of the mandarins, and perhaps that is the reason of their aristocratic expression. Chows and pugs are the other two dogs which originated in China.

The Peke's luminous eyes, set far apart upon his broad skull, serve as a mask of his real disposition. He is a jolly fellow and faithful. Because of his diminutive size the Peke has sometimes been wrongly called delicate. However, he is not by many miles, because he is one of the sturdiest of toy dogs.

Pekes are active, they are strong for their size and would this dog be larger he would be fitted for police work. The Peke has a massive coat for a small dog. The frill of soft hair around his collar suggests a lion. In fact, in his native China, the dog has been called the little "lion dog." That was probably due to the fighting heart of the dog.

Pekingese were first imported to England from their native land.

HUMAN THROUGHOUT IS THE HEROINE OF "VICTORIA THE GREAT"

The modern girl will be astonished to find out how much in common there is between herself and the heroine of the spectacular picture — "Victoria the Great." "The Colonel's lady and Judy O'Grady are sisters under the skin." The line fits Victoria's case. There is her espousal of Prince Albert; she loves as desperately as any of her humble subjects could love; her insistence on having her own way, as when she keeps Cabinet Ministers waiting, while she bathes her pet dog. This youthful Queen is intensely human! See "Victoria the Great," at the Rex Theatre next Thursday to Saturday.

Don't forget the dances to be held at the "Black and White" — Saturday, May 21, and Tuesday May 24. Lowe Bros. Orchestra.

Grenville Masonic Lodge Is Visited by D.D.G.M.

Last Friday evening Rt. Wor. Bro. Chas. Hilliker, District Deputy Grand Master of the Masonic Order, paid an official visit to his mother lodge at Grenville. A large number of brethren from neighboring lodges were present, and the work put on under direction of Wor. Master R. Whinfield was highly creditable.

Bro. Hilliker has been a Mason for 48 years, and his election to the high office of District Deputy gives evidence of the high esteem in which he is held.

ACTIVITIES AMONG LOCAL CHURCHES

ENTERTAIN LADIES OF CUSHING UNITED AND BROWNSBURG ANGLICAN
Brownsburg — On Friday evening of last week the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church held an "at home" meeting to the ladies of Cushing United Church and of Brownsburg Anglican Church. Mrs. S. J. Pike, president, welcomed the ladies, expressing the hope that the program arranged might be of real interest to all present. Following some special items by the Mission Band and a missionary sketch by Mrs. I. Izzard, Mrs. C. Harding and Mrs. R. Graham, a set of slides was shown by Rev. S. J. Pike on the United Church Women's Missionary work in all lands, indicating the tour of Mrs. E. Forbes, president of the United Church Missionary Board, which she took last year. Refreshments were served at the close, in the church hall, where all felt free to visit and generally make themselves at home.

Redecorating Calumet Church, Anniversary in June

Grenville — Work has begun on the re-wiring and re-decorating of Trinity Church, Calumet, in preparation for the 50th anniversary of the erection of the church. New electric light fixtures will be installed, all the painted work re-painted and other improvements made. A special "50th Anniversary Fund" is being raised to cover these expenses, and the members are putting in a great deal of voluntary labor.
The church was built and opened for use some time in the spring of 1888, so far as the records show. It was consecrated on Sept. 7th, 1889, by Archbishop Bond. The rector at the time was the Rev. A. J. Greer. As the exact date of the opening is not known, the anniversary is being observed on Trinity Sunday, June 12, when Dean Carlisle, of Montreal, will preach.

His return was by way of San Diego, Hollywood and San Francisco, through the Redwood Valley to Vancouver again. On his trip Mr. Rodger was accompanied by Mr. W. J. Rodger of St. Andrews. His narrative proved highly interesting and instructive.

Eight Infants Baptised At Arundel Service

Arundel — A special baptismal service was held here, at Grace Church, when eight babies were baptized by the Rev. Geo. Wolfendale.

Interesting Service at United Church, St. Andrews

St. Andrews E. — Especially interesting services were held in the United Church on May 15. Rev. A. R. Ross, on furlough from Korea, assisted Mr. Mowatt with the morning devotion, and also gave a very impressive account of the growth of the Christian Church in Korea in the past, and the present-day difficulties which present a challenge for support from the Western home churches. The evening service was in charge of Mr. Ross, McAdam, assisted by Rev. Davis of North Dakota, who accompanied his sister, Mrs. A. R. Ross, to St. Andrews. Mrs. Ross brought a large number of colored slides, views taken on her own mission fields, which she explained as they were shown. Mrs. Ross stressed the fact that the Koreans are naturally of a conciliatory type of character such as could, if given the chance to become more widely Christianized, become the leaders to a better understanding between Chinese, Russians, Koreans and Japanese — a vital lesson for the whole Orient. Miss Dorothy Flower, of Fairmount-St. Giles, Montreal, kindly assisted the choir and sang a solo which was greatly appreciated. The church was tastefully decorated with spring blossoms — the work of Mrs. W. Lamb, who was also responsible for the lovely arrangement of flowers for Mother's Day and Easter, assisted by Mrs. H. Cairns.

Recent W.M.S. Meeting Held at Cushing

An interesting meeting of Cushing Women's Society was held in the Stone Hall on Tuesday of last week, when the Lachute W.M.S. took charge of the program, bringing many good things to their sister society. A number of W.M.S. ladies from Montreal, Hawkesbury, Vankleek Hill, Grenville and Chute-a-Blondeau were also present, which helped to make the occasion more enjoyable.

Mrs. F. S. McGibbon, of Lachute, presided and brought a wonderful message regarding prayer, during the devotionals, after the visiting ladies had been greeted by Mrs. Maclean. Mrs. Usher, president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, welcomed the visiting auxiliaries with a few gracious words.

A letter was read by Mrs. Hamilton, which had been received by Mrs. R. Bradford from Miss Cairns of Kong-Moon, China, telling of the position of the missionaries there owing to war conditions.

Mrs. C. Higginson, president of the Gleggery Sectional W.M.S., was invited to the platform and paid her tribute to prayer; she told of receiving a letter from a missionary in South America who also claimed that their churches were not large enough to hold all the women who had gathered there on the World's Day of Prayer.

Mrs. J. W. Maclean, of Cushing, gave a temperance talk, and Mrs. Leslie Morris gave a review of Nellie McClung's book, "Before They Call," which was much enjoyed by the audience. Miss Katie Reid and Mrs. Wm. Deacon sang a beautiful duet "Under His Wing." Mrs. J. S. Giles and Mrs. Edmund Morrison led in prayer.

After tea had been served, Mrs. J. McGibb conveyed the thanks of the ladies for the invitation to Cushing, and also expressed her appreciation of the Cushing people in the days when she, as a young lady, taught in Cushing School and sang in St. Mungo's choir. Rev. W. B. Rosborough also expressed his pleasure at being able to attend.

The closing hymn, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," was most appropriate to this gathering of the different societies.

Royal Dreams Typified by Palms

The desire of every man to be a king is typified by Rio de Janeiro's great number of royal palms. Dom Joao, king at the beginning of the Nineteenth century, had planted the first seed of the royal palm himself and ruled that the tree was to be exclusively his. To preserve his monopoly he ordered every seed from it gathered up and burned, but the residents of Rio who wanted to imitate royalty bribed his slaves to sell the seeds. As a result royal palms soon sprang up everywhere.

Coldest Spot on Earth

The coldest spot on earth is not at either pole, says John Theaman in Globe magazine. It's a town in Siberia known as Verchojansk; here the temperature often falls as low as 80 below zero, and has gone as low as 95.6. The natives of this town live in crude wooden huts, with windows of thin ice cemented in place by pouring on water which freezes quickly around the edges. Walking in such cold air causes the breath to freeze, falling to the ground in a white powder.

ARGENTEUIL M.P. PUTS QUESTION PERTINENT TO LOCAL INTEREST

Sensational Career of Jim Fisk in R-K-O Drama, "The Toast of New York"

When a rival capitalist obtains the controlling interest in the Erie Railroad, Jim Fisk, one of the most colorful of the early captains of industry, merely has additional stock issued, until he has enough shares to regain control. Thus is Fisk's unique career dramatized in "The Toast of New York," starring Edward Arnold, Cary Grant, Frances Farmer and Jack Oakie.

Fisk's sensational rise from a salico peddler to railroad tycoon and his flaming romance with Josie Mansfield, one of America's most alluring sirens, are dramatically portrayed in the film.

"The Toast of New York" is appearing for one day only, Wednesday, June 1st, at the Rex Theatre — a presentation on behalf of Hundred Club charity work.

Fire Destroyed House of "Compleat Angler"

The ancient half-timbered cottage at Shallowford, near Stafford, England, where Isaac Walton lived three centuries ago, was destroyed recently by fire which started in the thatched roof. Situated on the banks of the River Sowe, where Walton fished, the cottage had been used as a museum of relics associated with his life. Most of these were destroyed by the flames.

On two previous occasions the cottage had been damaged by fire, but was restored by public subscriptions.

Lloyds Will Try Again to Salvage Lutine Gold

New salvage operations on the Lutine, which has been lying in shifting sands at the entrance of the Zuyder Zee ever since 1799, will probably take place, it was predicted recently when Lloyds announced they had granted salvage license to the Billiton Point Mining Company of The Hague.

The Lutine was a British naval vessel which carried a huge cargo of gold when she sank. Long ago Lloyds paid insurance and since the right of salvage operations has been vested in the ancient insurance exchange by agreement between the British and Dutch Governments and an Act of Parliament in the past, some £100,000 has been recovered from the wreck as well as the ship's bell, which now hangs in the main room of Lloyds, and is sounded before announcements of overdue vessels, once for bad news and twice for good.

The new salvage operations will be carried out by the Karimata, a ship specially built for tin dredging in the Dutch East Indies.

CLEOPATRA

Cleopatra Won the Love of Two of the Greatest Leaders Who Ever Lived

This is a bit of a story of the most seductive sweetheart that ever raised a man's blood pressure. Her name was Cleopatra, the queen goddess of Egypt — the enchantress of the Nile.

She has been dead for two thousand years, but her fame still glows brightly across the dead centuries. She committed suicide when she was thirty-nine; yet in her short riot of life, she won and held the ardent love of two of the most famous men who ever walked the earth — Mark Anthony and Julius Caesar.

Caesar was fifty-four and bald-headed, and Cleopatra was exuberant with the vitality of a youth of twenty-one; and as Caesar looked upon her, he was lifted, as if by a tidal wave, to the foamy crests of love and ecstasy. By the ardor of her passion and the brilliance of her mentality, she made Caesar her willing slave for life.

Months went by, and Cleopatra presented Caesar with a son — the only son he ever had. Shortly after that, Caesar was assassinated, and roaring old Mark Anthony, always drunk, always in debt, became the mightiest Roman of them all. Intoxicated with the wine of victory, Mark Anthony led his armies into the East, bent on loot and plunder and a life of dissipation.

Cleopatra trembled. How could she stop Anthony? With ships and swords? Never. With love and caresses? Yes, may be. So with a flair for the dramatic, with a genius for showmanship, she set out to meet Anthony in a gilded ship with purple sails. Surrounding herself with all the pomp and pageantry of the Arabian Nights, she had little boys, painted as Cupids, fanning her with peacock feathers, while voluptuous maidens, swathed in silk, danced to the wild strains of desert music. The fragrance of burning incense intoxicated the senses; and in the midst of all this oriental glamor, Cleopatra lay on a silken couch, enchanting, irresistible, posing as Venus, the Goddess of Love.

Anthony became so infatuated with her that he lost all semblance of sense. He gave her the whole sea coast of Phoenicia as a present. Then he made her a gift of the province of Jericho, the island of Cyprus, the island of Crete. Finally, as a grand climax to all his lavishness, he handed over to her the whole province of Asia.

The news of these gifts set Rome seething with hate and boiling with fury. What? Was all this territory, bought with a hundred battles and paid for in Roman blood, to be tossed away like a bauble to satisfy the whims of an Egyptian mistress? The answer was WAR. Cleopatra's hour had struck. She had overplayed her hand. The day of awful reckoning had come, and Rome rose in its mighty wrath, destroyed the ships of Anthony and Cleopatra and routed their armies.

This was the end, and they knew it. Anthony realized that he would be captured and beheaded, so he stabbed himself and died writhing in agony in the arms of Cleopatra, clinging to her in death as he had clung to her in life.

She vowed over and over, again that she would never be taken captive and led through the streets of Rome in chains for the populace to hoot and jeer at. So she committed suicide by poisoning. How she did it, no one will ever know.

She lies buried today beside Mark Anthony somewhere out in Egypt. Precisely where is still a mystery. If you go out to Alexandria and find her tomb, you will make a fortune and you will get your name flung in headlines across the front page of every important newspaper on earth.

"Have you any green-edged newspaper?"

"No, madam, we have only the usual black mourning edge."

SAVE 3 WAYS with a GENERAL ELECTRIC Triple-Thrift REFRIGERATOR

MANY owners say a new G-E Refrigerator saves enough money month by month to pay its own cost. They calculate it saves up to 20% on perishable food bills. Figure out what that would mean to you. By keeping food fresh a G-E Refrigerator enables you to buy in quantities at week-end bargain prices. It prevents waste by preserving "left-overs". It uses so little current and the upkeep cost is almost nothing. Don't think you're being economical by doing without a G-E Refrigerator. It's much more thrifty to have one.

WESTWARD BOUND

Stories of the sea and of sailing-ships have a great fascination for many people — even the stay-at-homes. I know I read every one I can lay my hands on. The last I have read, and I think the best, is "Westward Bound," by Captain and Mrs. Irving Johnson. The whole family read it and if you laid the book down for a second someone else was sure to grab it. Captain Johnson was a sailor both with steam and sails and had sailed in some of the racing yachts. They bought a 90-foot Dutch pilot boat, re-christened it "The Yankee" and sailed from Gloucester around the world, taking eighteen months. The cook was the only paid member of the ship's company; the rest of them were chosen more for their ability to be congenial companions on a long voyage. All worked, even the three girls and Mrs. Johnson standing watch. The first and second mate were experienced amateur sailors; they all shared expenses and apparently had a very harmonious voyage. They sailed westward around the world and visited the out-of-the-way islands and ports not seen by the usual tourist. Anyhow, it makes great reading.

A COINCIDENCE

I wrote the above in the morning and in the afternoon went to see Deanna Durbin in "Mad About Music." The first thing in the news-reel was a picture of Captain and Mrs. Irving Johnson and some of the

SOME GARDEN TIPS

When you plan your flower garden it's a good idea to consider the likes and dislikes of the flowers. Certain flowers like sunshine all day while others prefer it for shorter periods. Zinnias do well in sunny places while snapdragons thrive best in partial shade. All seed catalogues give the habits of flowers and you will find such information a decided help toward successful gardening.

A modern authority throws this light on the much discussed question as to whether daffodils or narcissus are the "flowers that bloom in the spring." He says you may use either name "with perfect correctness. Narcissus is the Latin name, daffodil the English one. Both apply to all the different types." There are ever so many types and varieties of narcissus. Classes are based on color, on comparative length of trumpet, cup or crown, and on the perianth which is the circle of petals.

A CARPET SHAMPOO

There's nothing that brings back the colors and luster of carpets and rugs like a good scrubbing. I have a friend who shampoos a pair of delicate Chinese room-size rugs two or three times during the winter and they always are lovely and glowing. She uses the following formula and I have used it many times myself on both oriental and domestic carpets. Put one ounce each chloroform and ether, 1 tablespoon salt and 1 tablespoon soda and ½ pint of ammonia in a pint jar. Mix thoroughly and fill with water. Dissolve ½ cake of laundry soap in 3 quarts boiling water. Use half the ammonia mixture and half the soap mixture in a pail of very hot water, scrubbing not more than two square feet of carpet at a time. Rinse at once with a cloth rung out of clear water.

WATCH COAT LENGTH

Here's a thought to keep in mind if you're buying a spring tailored suit. Watch the length of the coat. Either too long or too short spoils its smart effect. Be fussy about it and have the fitter turn and pin it at different lengths, because an inch on your tailor means quite as much as one on the proverbial nose.

ship's company off "The Yankee" going ashore at Galapagos. It shows them visiting the Wittmers, and there was a picture of Dr. Ritter's grave. COLD EGG-WHITES

Theoretically I know that egg-whites will beat to a much larger volume if they are not too cold, but today I had it illustrated practically. I was making a three-egg sponge cake, and some meringues with two egg-whites I happened to have on hand. I made the sponge cake first and the two egg-whites stood in the kitchen while the cake was put together and baked. The result was that when I beat the two egg-whites the bowl was full and when the three egg-whites, which were just out of the refrigerator, were beaten, they only filled the bowl about three-quarters. The sponge cake was not a specially light one. So I have learned I must plan ahead and be sure to have the eggs out of the refrigerator for at least an hour before I make a cake.

SPONGE CAKE

3 eggs, 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon hot water, 1 cup flour, 1½ teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons lemon juice.

Beat the egg yolks until thick, add sugar gradually and continue beating. Add water; then sifted flour, baking powder, and salt. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites and the lemon juice. Bake in a tube pan in a moderate oven of 350 degrees.

RHUBARB CRISP

Cut rhubarb into inch lengths and arrange in a baking dish. Cover each layer generously with brown sugar. Rub together ¼ cup flour, ¼ cup brown sugar and ¼ cup butter. Spread this over the rhubarb and bake for about forty minutes in a moderate oven. Serve with cream, either plain or whipped.

EGGS A L'ITALIENNE

Cover a shallow baking dish with hot cooked spinach, seasoned with salt, pepper, butter and a pinch of sugar. Place poached eggs on the spinach, sprinkled lightly with grated cheese and dried bread crumbs, and bake in a moderate oven until the cheese is melted. This is an attractive, easily-made supper dish.

The Montreal Women's Central Liberal Club at its annual meeting in April adopted a resolution supporting the Health League of Canada in its efforts to induce the Federal Government to restore the Venereal Disease Control plan as it existed up to 1932.

"Victoria the Great," a historical romance rich in the surprises of personal biography, and a story closely interwoven with the rise of the British Empire, is to be featured on May 26-28 inclusive by the Rex Theatre. Anna Neagle plays a notably successful role as Queen Victoria, supported by a clever cast.

Beautify Home Surroundings

Much useful printed information is now available, treating of the subject of home beautification. Agricultural colleges are encouraging this feature of rural life, and in cities much improvement along this line is noticed.

What is more depressing, almost irritating in fact, than to drive along a country road and see there square boxes of houses, standing forlornly in a roughly tilled acreage of land, treeless, shrubless, vineless, and with not a flower in sight?

If the owners of these dwellings could only be made to understand how greatly their property would increase in actual money value, to say nothing at all of the satisfaction and enjoyment made possible by a few groups of trees planted here and there, clumps of shrubs or bulbous rooted perennials, a border of annuals, a few vines to lend grace to straight walls and staring windows, how quickly they would set about the work of bringing these changes to pass.

Beauty pays. Discriminating buyers will gladly pay more for the few artistic touches, perfume and colour which go with beautified external surroundings than they will for a barren exterior, however imposing the structure.

Women in Action

When the women begin to take a hand in public affairs something usually happens. The women of Westchester County, N.Y., seem to have started something. A few of them got together and decided that it was time for the United States to get back to the old American system of operating on a "pay-as-you-go" basis and to stop spending money it hasn't got.

They drew up a petition to Congress opposing the proposal that the Government should try again to spend the nation back to prosperity. In a few days thirty thousand women in the one county had signed the petition. Now the movement is spreading to other parts of the country.

"S.O.S." is the slogan of this latest women's movement. "Save Our System" is their battle-cry. Whether they succeed or not, they have started a lot of women on the road to positive action in public affairs, which certainly concern them as much as they do men. And every man knows what happens when women—even one woman — start out on an economy campaign.

Too Clean For Comfort!

It is surprising how much small boys notice. An eight-year-old went to play with a friend for the first time. When he came home his mother asked him if he had had a good time. His answer was, "Not very." When she asked him why, he said the house was so clean it wasn't comfortable. His own mother is an immaculate housekeeper, with curtains and windows always freshly washed, and a general shining cleanliness she has been able to emphasize her home rather than her house. Everyone likes to have a clean house but there are houses that are so tidy that they have an uninvited look. That is what this small boy found and had intuition enough to feel. When my children were small, one friend, with a grown-up family, advised me to be better to my children than I was to my house. She said she had always been better to her house and she regretted it very much. Her children missed many good times because she was too careful of her house. Carpets and furniture can be replaced but children are only young once. No one wants things abused but homes are made to live in and enjoy.

The DOCTOR Tells the Story
by W.E. Aughinbaugh, M.D.

COUGHS ARE DANGER SIGNS

At this particular season of the year many people have coughs, which may continue indefinitely unless checked by appropriate treatment. Any cough is a danger signal, — an effort on the part of Nature to indicate that behind the cough there is some trouble. Some coughs are in reality useful, because they help drain the lungs of accumulated materials, which might otherwise add materially to the great discomfort of the victim. Dr. Bernard Faustus says that there are three kinds of useful coughs — the tight cough, the loose cough, the insufficient cough, all three of which may occur in an ordinary case of bronchitis, yet each requires different treatment.

Some Cough Cures

The tight cough should be loosened and for this purpose there is nothing approaching water — water drunk in large quantities and water inhaled in the form of steam. If one adds to the water to be inhaled in the form of steam, a teaspoonful of tincture of benzoin, to every pitcher full of boiling water, and holds his mouth and nose over the escaping vapor every two hours for a period of ten minutes, he will experience much relief.

Tight coughs are often helped and relieved by what are known in medicine as "solvent expectorants," and of these the best is a mixture of ammonium chloride in the syrup of wild cherry — a preparation to be found in all drug stores.

Diet and Rest

Mild laxatives help also. Rest in bed is of prime importance. Hot drinks such as lemonade are beneficial. A light diet will hasten convalescence, such as milk, orange juice, soft boiled eggs and toast. Often applications of poultices or an electric pad placed upon the chest give great relief. If one's resistance is low, cod liver oil will be found effective and may ward off future attacks, if taken regularly.

But the one thing to bear in mind, is this — if simple remedies, as here suggested, do not bring results promptly, the doctor should be consulted, for behind the cough there may be some symptom which the layman cannot appreciate.

QUITE A SURPRISE

Jane: Yes, I know. I once gave him up myself.

Geo. Héon, M.P., States "National Disunity" Suitable Liberal Slogan

Speaker Claims Present Federal Policy Fosters Internal Strife

150 GUESTS FROM ARGENTEUIL TO ATTEND OTTAWA CONVENTION

Speaking to a capacity crowd in McArthur's Hall, gathered to select delegates to the Ottawa Convention, Georges H. Héon, M.P. for Argenteuil, ridiculed the Liberal cry for National Unity, and stated that the present Government, with its huge majority, had accomplished nothing during its three years of power, except to provoke hostility from the larger provinces and bog down the previously harmonious relations between federal and provincial governments.

The speaker went on to say that, previous to the present administration, the cry of provincial autonomy was not the major problem it was now, and that the larger provinces were forced to invoke their autonomy because of the present federal administration's lack of foresight and constructive policies.

Possibly federal elections were in the offing, continued Mr. Héon, and if, as it had been reported, the Liberals were going to tack to their mainmast the cry of "National Unity" to bring them back into power, they had a surprise coming, for it was generally known that never had a Government done more to foster internal strife and provincial animosity than the present one. The speaker suggested that "For National Disunity" would be a more suitable slogan to the Liberals, and that a "National Nullity" tag would aptly describe the present administration.

The Ottawa Conservative Convention would furnish Canada with a leader and a policy needed in these troublesome times, and Mr. Héon added that the Conservative party should and would come out with a policy of harmonious relations with the provinces, giving to every province its dues and rights. The party would become not only national in name, but national in policy, national in practice, and national in representation, with the result that it would get national support at the next general election and become a truly national government.

Enthusiasm ran high during the meeting, and to meet the desire of all those who wished to attend it was arranged that a "guest" delegation of 150 would accompany regularly chosen delegates to the Ottawa Convention.

The delegates chosen were: W. M. Cottingham, Lachute; Colonel Jos. Seale, Morin Heights; Georges Bouchard, Brownsburg; Jos. Drolet, Pointe au Chêne. Alternates: Jos. Belanger, Lachute; Henri Lecoré, St. Michel; Neil McCallum, Kilmor; Harry Boyd, Arundel. Delegate for the county's Youth-at-Large, Michael V. Trayers, Brownsburg. Delegate-at-Large, J. P. Lancot, K.C., St. Andrews East.

Commenting upon these names selected, Mr. Héon said: "The choice of this delegation should serve as an example to the rest of Canada. An equal number of French and English delegates have been chosen in perfect harmony, to go to Ottawa and co-operate in the choice of a leader and the framing of a policy for Canada. I trust that this example will be followed, and that the Convention itself will meet and deliberate in the same spirit of national co-operation and broadmindedness."

District Works Included in Government Estimates

In the supplementary estimates tabled recently in the House of Commons several amounts were voted for works in the Ottawa Valley district. These include $16,500 for a post-office at St. Andrews East; $15,000 and $3,500 respectively for public buildings at Thurso and Vanleek Hill; $20,000 for removal of public building at Rigaud, and $6,200 for ice-breaker construction at Pointe Fortune.

PRESBYTERIAN ASSEMBLY VOTES TO OMIT SECTIONS OF ITS CHURCH CODE

The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States has voted, 151-130, to omit two sections of its confession, according to a recent news despatch. These sections were considered, by certain speakers, to form the cornerstone of the church code.

The sections omitted concerned the predestination of man by divine election. They were criticized by several ministers as an "overstatement" of the Scripture which "keeps our ministers constantly on the defensive."

The two sections voted out read: "By the decree of God, for the manifestation of His glory, some men and angels are predestined unto ever-

Visitors Have Recollections Of the First and Only Hostelry in This Town

Messrs. Charles and Henry Burch, of Fort Covington, N.Y., were visitors in Lachute early this week. The sole purpose of their visit was to renew acquaintance with the old town and note its progress and development since the days when their grandfather, Amaziash Burch, was a popular figure here as proprietor of Lachute's only hotel, which at that time was situated where the Desjardins Hotel now stands.

Many changes have transpired since those days. Burch sold the hotel to Rodrigue, in whose family it remained for many years, and though it changed hands several times the hotel always carried the name of the Rodrigue House until purchased by the present owner, H. E. Desjardins. Mr. Desjardins, incidentally, is to be congratulated upon the splendid improvements he has made, bringing this establishment in line with the best rural hotels of the province.

Glowing Tributes Paid to Rev. V. Bouchard at B'burg, Recent 25th Anniversary

Among the Catholic citizens of Brownsburg a touching devotion toward their parish priest, the Rev. Father Vitalis Bouchard, is evident in sentiments conveyed to him on the 25th anniversary of his pastorate. The ceremonies on this occasion were reported in last issue. Following are a few of the addresses given during the celebrations...

Tribute of the town secretary, M. Emile Hebert, on behalf of the mayor, council and citizens of Brownsburg (address delivered in both French and English):

"Rev. Father Bouchard, Representatives of our Archbishop, Gentlemen of the Clergy, and Ladies and Gentlemen—

"May I be permitted, in the name of the Chief Magistrate of this municipality as well as that of the citizens of Brownsburg, to offer to our devoted Father Bouchard our most sincere and profound congratulations on the occasion of the silver jubilee of his pastorate in this parish."

"Twenty-five years have passed since your arrival amongst us, a comparatively young parish, and, during that time, due directly to your zeal and labour much progress has been in evidence. Apart from your unselfish devotion to the spiritual needs of your parishioners, it may be well to mention here a few of the achievements, the success of which is due mostly to your persistent and untiring efforts towards their completion: namely—

"Creation of the Parish of Saint Louis of France of Brownsburg on July 22, 1920.

"The building of an adequate school.

"The building of our present church and presbytery.

"The acquisition of land and laying out of our cemetery... These are a few of the achievements for which, Reverend Father, we beg you to accept our most sincere expressions of gratitude, and in return for your efforts may Heaven grant that the declining years of your life be filled with peace and happiness."

"These are the sentiments we wish to extend to you on this day of joy and of profound gratitude to you."

Lifeguard Goes to Scene of Fitzroy Drownings

Krikor Hekimian, young Armenian swimmer who recovered the body of Joseph Lemay in the North River recently, left here for Ottawa last week to join in the search for four drowning victims in Fitzroy Harbor. Incidental to his visit, Hekimian expressed his affinity for the spectacular by performing stunts for Fitzroy onlookers. In Lachute he ate ice cream while reclining on blocks of ice. His latest demonstration, however, was the consuming of bananas in a raw state, eating them skins and all. To fulfill a wager he also towed an automobile 20 or 30 feet by means of a rope gripped between his teeth.

Road Signs to Indicate Safe Speed on Curves

Indicating a reasonable speed at which curves may be negotiated, signs will be placed along roads coming under the jurisdiction of the Ontario department of highways. The signs will be put up just before the beginning of road curves. This action is another step toward reducing accidents.

Depending on the nature of the curve, the speeds to be indicated on the signs will range from 20 to 40 miles an hour. If the curve is a gradual one, however, the legal speed of 50 miles an hour may be maintained.

Musical Play, Written Here, Proves Successful Production in New York

Conceived and composed in surroundings which have charmed so many visitors to Argenteuil's "river-front," a musical play, recently produced in New York City, has attained success far beyond the expectations of its authors. The libretto is the work of Mr. Leonard Young, well known as a summer resident in this county; his lyrics are set to music composed by Dr. David Williams. The two-act play, entitled "Enchanted Waters," was written during their sojourn here last season, and was produced on April 21-22 at St. Bartholomew's, New York, in aid of social service and community work in connection with that church.

Asked concerning the nature and the outcome of this production, Mr. Young writes as follows:

"Dr. David Williams and I wrote it last summer, while we were at Greece's Point. He was living in the Walford cottage, and I, of course, at my own house a few minutes away, so the work of collaboration was comparatively easy and extremely pleasant.

"At that time, neither of us had any idea of the magnitude it would assume; we intended it to be merely our Spring theatrical production. That it turned out to be a great social and financial success surprised us both.

"It is gratifying to be able to say that our proceeds exceeded $6,000.00; it is even more pleasant to us both to know that our stay in my beloved Argenteuil County produced something more than the usual delightful holiday. For some reason it appears easy for us both to work as well as play in that remote and lovely spot on the Ottawa."

Dr. Williams was musical director and Mr. Young stage director for the actual production of this work.

Odds Against Election This Year; Saskatchewan Result May Decide

Extent of Canada's Defence... Resources for Production in Emergency

"The Ottawa Spotlight" By "Spectator"

Ottawa, May 24th. — The announcement by the Minister of Trade and Commerce that the Canadian wheat board would continue to operate during the 1938-39 season and that a minimum price would be decided upon later on, will doubtless prove a stabilizing factor in the wheat industry. It will be recalled that the report of the Turgeon Commission, which was tabled in the Commons about a fortnight ago, recommended that while it was not in favor of compulsory boards for marketing wheat, the present board should continue in existence for the present, that is until normal conditions in world markets are restored.

At the present time, with the political situation in Europe fortunately a little less disquieting, interest on Parliament Hill centres on such questions as the forthcoming Saskatchewan election, the railway inquiry, national defence plans and the disturbing evidence of disharmony in our federal system so earnestly deprecated by resolution of the Liberal Women's Association.

Some people are saying that if the Saskatchewan elections result in the return of the provincial Liberal government with a good majority, and if the present prospects of a good crop in the prairie provinces materialize, the federal administration may decide to appeal to the country this autumn. This is, of course, merely conjectural. Even though there would be the achievement of negotiating the new trade agreement with the United States, now nearing completion, which could be placed before the people, the odds still seem to be that the election won't be this year.

TO COMPLETE ROADWORK BETWEEN CHUTE-A-BLONDEAU AND POINTE FORTUNE

The Dibblee Construction Company has been authorized by the Ontario Department of Highways to finish the road work on the new five-mile strip of highway between Chute à Blondeau and Pointe Fortune. The strip was graded last year but needs further treatment before being paved.

Public Health Talk at Lions Club Meeting

An interesting session of the Lions Club was held last Thursday at Desjardins Hotel, under chairmanship of the President Lion C. Tremblay.

Dr. E. Lalonde, who was guest speaker of the evening, gave an instructive address bearing upon the provincial work of Health Extension. He proved by statistical records that the promotion of public health is well rewarded by results. Dr. Lalonde was introduced by Lion Philip Roy, and thanks were extended by Lion J. S. Giles.

Four new members were enrolled in the Club, three of whom were brought in by Lion E. Deslauriers.

Federal Govt. Will Spend $4,200,000 on Highways

Authority is given the Department of Mines and Resources in the government's supplementary estimates to spend approximately $4,200,000 on road construction. The largest item is $1,750,000 "for development of tourist highways."

The vote has not been allocated, but will be spent in several provinces, providing hard-surfaced roads leading from the United States border where it is found present roads discourage tourists from entering Canada. The plan is for the provinces to be approached for permission to do the work at expense of the Federal Government. It is hoped that Quebec will collaborate readily for the improvement of its highway approaches from the United States.

public; the instruction is appreciated among service station operators. The oil-testing demonstration received keen attention, and Mr. Massey was kept busy at intervals in the program.

Mr. Coté spoke of the duties of the Retail Merchandising Department personnel, and the McColl-Frontenac dealer pledge was strongly emphasized. The sales-appeal of uniformed attendants, arrangement of stock and cleanliness of tourists' washrooms and restrooms was also stressed. Mr. McKee, expert on lubrication, explained the most modern service devices in use.

The evening concluded with lighter entertainment, and sandwiches and refreshments were served.

MEMBER OF CANADIAN BISLEY TEAM SPEAKER AT LACHUTE 100 CLUB

Guest speakers at the regular 100 Club session last evening in Desjardins Hotel was Major Holden, ballistics engineer of the C-I-L Ammunition Division at Brownsburg and member of the Canadian Bisley team, who has taken part in four of these Empire shooting contests and won honors for the Dominion.

Many interesting sidelights of the Bisley meet were recounted by Major Holden from the selection of the 18-man Canadian team, to the cosmopolitan atmosphere of Bisley, its glamour, its superstitions, and its excitement in final stages of the contests. An insight was given into the 'about of this target range renowned across the Empire, and the different competitions and trophies, climaxed by the King's coveted award. There are three stages to this exacting contest, stated Major Holden. The finals narrowed the entries down to 100 men, and in 1932 Canada had a representation of 10 at this stage, competing against the finest shots in Britain and the colonies.

The speaker mentioned the influence of elements little suspected by laymen; accuracy in shooting may be seriously affected by air conditions, rain, heat, wind, light and shade, besides a variety of variations and conditions in the rifle, ammunition and equipment. Referring to the ballistics laboratory at Brownsburg, where every detail of ammunition is subject to minute tests, the speaker asserted this laboratory was the finest on the continent.

Major Holden was introduced by Centurion L. W. Armstrong, and thanks were extended on behalf of the Club by Centurion Geo. Calder. President Geo. Héon occupied the chair, and enthusiastic community singing was accompanied by Mr. Dick Sancton at the piano.

Demonstration Given by Fuel, Lubrication Experts

A demonstration of more than usual interest was witnessed last evening in the new grill of Desjardins Hotel. Under the direction of J. Ant Coté of the McColl-Frontenac Company and Gordon M. Connors representing the Ethyl Corporation, a series of sound films on auto fuel and lubrication proved of instructive value to the motor-minded audience.

Devices showing effective oil-film tests and the strength of various high pressure lubricants, were used in connection with the demonstration. The feature was brought to Lachute in collaboration with Geo. Y. Descon and other lubricant dealers throughout the county. This work comes within the sphere of the company's Retail Merchandising Department, whose function is to build up dealer enterprises, and maintain experts to give advice on lubrication problems—all of which is of indirect but real value to the motoring public. Several of these field experts accompanied Mr. Coté to Lachute last evening—among them Ralph Massey, research chemist from the McColl refineries, and Al. Curtis, expert on automobile operation and performance.

The demonstration was introduced by Mayor Dr. A. Rodrigue, and was well attended. W. E. Jandron, representing John Miller & Son Ltd., had an accessory and equipment display, also Firestone Tires were shown. These meetings are an education to the service men and McColl dealers; it is stressed that the ten-point service recommended by the company is a scientific and efficient means of catering to the motoring

"Vénéré Pasteur —

"Rejoissons nous tous dans le Seigneur. Telles sont les paroles qui nous viennent naturellement à la mémoire et que l'Eglise ne nous refusera pas de lui emprunter en ces jours de joies et de bonheur sincère.

"Cette joie, elle est bien votre et avec raison; car c'est pour vous, Vénérable Jubilaire, des heures consacrées à la reconnaissance et à l'action de grâces envers ce Dieu de bonté qui, par ses faveurs spirituelles, vous a permis de voir vingt-cinq années de labeur continu dans la paroisse qui vous fête aujourd'hui.

"Cette joie, elle est aussi la nôtre et avec autant de raison, puisque nous sommes de ceux qui, depuis au-delà de vingt-cinq ans, pour un temps plus ou moins prolongé, avons bénéficié largement de ces grâces précieuses de votre ministère pastoral. Vous avez été l'instrument fidèle de ce don divin, nous en avons été les récipiendaires.

"Aussi, pouvons nous laisser passer cette circonstance toute providentielle sans nous arrêter quelque peu, pour entrevoir d'un regard rétrospectif ce qu'ont été pour nous et pour vous, ces vingt-cinq ans de pastorat dans la paroisse de St.-Louis de France de Brownsburg.

"Nous sommes au mois d'août 1912. Les paroissiens, quatre-vingt familles environ, viennent de perdre leur jeune curé. Tout en regrettant votre dévoué prédécesseur, ils ont grande hâte de connaître l'envoyé du bon Maître qui sera appelée à veiller sur eux et à les diriger dans la voie de la sanctification et du salut. Le vingt-cinq août de la même année, la population de Brownsburg prend un premier contact avec son nouveau curé, jeune prêtre de trente-sept ans, cinq ans de sacerdoce environ, Monsieur l'abbé Vitalis Bouchard.

"Malgré une santé apparemment précaire, ce jeune abbé ne tarde pas à se faire connaître dans toute sa vigueur intellectuelle et physique. Déjà ils entrevoient que ce prêtre ardent ne manquera pas de courage et qu'il saura bien donner à leur petite patrie tout le développement possible, tant au point de vue civil que religieux. Votre unique ambition, c'était de doter la jeune population de cette paroisse naissante des édifices spirituels et matériels nécessaires; les derniers devant servir à l'exercice du saint ministère par lequel les premiers se développeraient et grandiraient dans chacune des ames qui vous étaient confiées.

"Vous vous êtes donné sans compter à cet important travail. Dès 1915 vous dotiez notre modeste village d'une belle maison en briques, demeure spacieuse de nos prêtres dévoués. Un peu plus tard, en 1920, par vos sages directives, vous faisiez ériger notre paroisse sous le vocable de St.-Louis de France de Brownsburg; et à Noël 1927 nous avions l'insigne bonheur d'assister aux offices religieux dans l'église magnifique dont toute la paroisse se glorifie.

"De plus, nos chers défunts avaient aussi leur part dans votre cœur. Aussi nous rejoignons-nous à la pensée que nous aurions notre cimetière, où à l'ombre du clocher paroissial les chers nôtres dormiraient leur dernier sommeil.

"Entre temps, vous pensiez à notre chère jeunesse étudiante. Pour elle vous faisiez ériger le grand couvent qu'elle fréquente déjà depuis quelques années sous la sage direction et la grande compétence des Religieuses de Ste. Croix, venues ici sur votre demande expresse et dont nous sommes heureux de reconnaître et de publier tout le dévouement envers nos jeunes garçons et nos jeunes filles.

"Depuis deux ans, grâce encore au zèle que l'on vous connaît, vous voyez à l'organisation de l'Action Catholique dans ses différents mouvements spécialisés: la Jeunesse Ouvrière Catholique Féminine, la Jeunesse Ouvrière Catholique Masculine, la Jeunesse Etudiante Catholique Féminine, la Jeunesse Etudiante Catholique Masculine, l'Action Catholique chez les dames et les hommes.

"Vénéré Jubilaire, nous permettez-vous d'ajouter et de dire combien zagement et prudemment vous avez su administrer les affaires temporelles de notre fabrique! Nous avons une magnifique église, nous avons un beau presbytère, nous avons tout ce qui rend les offices de notre culte public dignes et pieux; mais quand nous pensions que tout cela coûtait à la paroisse au delà de quarante-cinq mille dollars, quelle n'est pas notre joie de constater que cette dette du passé est devenue seize mille dollars environ! A qui le devons nous, sinon à vous, Monsieur le Curé, qui vous êtes fait auprès des uns et des autres, le dévoué procureur et le fidèle économiste des biens ecclésiastiques. A vous donc nos félicitations et nos remerciements.

"Monsieur le Curé, les deux cent-quatre-vingt familles qui comptent maintenant votre troupeau ont donc bien raison de célébrer ainsi ce vingt-cinquième anniversaire d'un pastorat rempli d'œuvres si magnifiques et d'un dévouement si remarquable. Aussi sont-elles heureuses aujourd'hui, à l'occasion de ce Jubilé qui coïncide avec le jour anniversaire de votre naissance, de vous offrir leurs meilleurs vœux de bonheur, santé et longue vie. Et comme gage de leur reconnaissance, daignez accepter ce petit souvenir de leur cœur soumis et respectueux.

"Ad multos et faustissimos annos."

Address in English, read by Mr. M. V. Trayers —

"To Reverend Father Bouchard, Parish Priest of St. Louis de France, Brownsburg —

"Reverend Father — We are happy to unite our good wishes to those of your French parishioners, on the occasion of your Silver Jubilee of pastorship in the parish.

"You have been to us all a zealous and devoted pastor. Your perfect knowledge of our language permitted you to understand us and we gladly thank you publicly for the large part you have given us in your instructions.

"Along with your French parishioners we like to acknowledge you as the inspirer and soul of all the works and institutions of this parish; we also wish to praise you for your heroic perseverance in the difficult task of ministering to us every Sunday, a task which you accomplished alone during many years, necessitating you to celebrate two masses every Sunday, as well as sermons in both languages.

"For all you have done for us, please accept our humble share of gratitude.

"Ad multos et faustissimos annos. — The English parishioners of Brownsburg."

Replying to the addresses, Rev. Fr. Bouchard expressed his profound gratitude to all those present and to his numerous friends who had felicitated on this, for him, very happy occasion. It was not without a certain embarrassment and diffidence in the presence of high dignitaries of both the religious and civil spheres of life that he rose to respond, but there were two reasons which inspired him with confidence. He was so filled with sentiments of happiness that he had but to find expression for their utterance. And the honour which was so fully bestowed upon him was to his high priestly calling, the honour which Catholics so devotedly give to their pastor. He wished to thank his energetic curate, Fr. Arsène Hebert, to whom the success of this celebration was in a large measure due, and also his zealous committee who worked very hard, and all the parishioners who contributed to make this occasion a joyful event. To the numerous people who so kindly sent him gifts of remembrance he had a special word of thanks and prayed God to bless and watch over them. To the Sisters of the Holy Cross who gave unsparingly of their time and talents he promised to remember them in his prayers. To his English members, that small but none-the-less important section of his parishioners, he was especially thankful; he had done his best to attend to their ministrations in their native language and he was pleased to see his efforts had been amply reciprocated. He thanked God for having called him to the high dignity of priesthood and for having placed him in the pastorate of this Parish of Brownsburg on the feast day of St. Louis de France, twenty-five years ago.

"Funny," said the 'colonial' visitor to England, "that you have so many baby cars over here."

"Funny, nothing," retorted the Englishman, "isn't this the mother country?"

"So you have formed an anti-tipping society?"

"Right — we are resolved to give no quarter."

Ontario 1939 Markers To be Yellow and Black

Ontario car markers for 1939 will differ from the scarlet and blue plates now in existence. Objection was raised to the poor visibility of 1938 markers. Hon. T. B. McQueston, Minister of Highways, admitted that the present plates are faulty in this regard and announced that 1939 markers will be more visible, with yellow lettering on a black background.

Some 1938 plates have begun to fade as did many 1937 ones. Scarlet has been dissolving, leaving the plates all blue. The department has made no announcement as yet whether such plates would be replaced free of charge as 1937 ones were, but it is understood the department is protected against this by a bond placed by the company which did the enamel work on the plates.

Minister (sternly): "You are on the road to perdition!"

Passenger (who has imbibed a bit too freely — looking at his ticket): "Just my luck; wrong train. I bought a ticket for Schenectady."

"Ottawa Spotlight"

Representatives of both railway systems have been explaining to the Senate committee why joint economy measures between the railways have resulted in such a limited saving. As explained by one railway official, it has been the question of arriving at a fair balance of "burden and advantage" that has held up many projected schemes for the pooling of trains and the abandonment of track-ages. It was easy enough to agree to pool passenger service between Montreal and Quebec, and Montreal and Toronto, but when it came to Western Ontario, the contention of the Canadian Pacific officials was that this would be of great advantage of the C.N.R., but would injure the interests of the C.P.R. In regard to the suggested pooling of trains between Kamloops and Yale along the Fraser river, it was pointed out that if crops were abundant it would be difficult to handle them along one line. The joint co-operative committee is still studying the question of pooling some transcontinental services. It is clear that this committee has been faced with a difficult task in attempting to reconcile the conflicting economic interests of the two roads.

The bulk of the appropriation of about 34 million dollars for the defence of Canada has been passed with much less opposition than in the last session. The disappearance of any real criticism of the principal underlying the government's defence policy is significant. It demonstrates that in a world feverishly re-arming and in such a state of nerves, the weight of public opinion in Canada approves of the government taking measures for the adequate defence of this country. An interesting point brought out in the debate was that at this time next year Canada will have 203 aircraft in her air fleet, composed of service and training planes. There will be six destroyers in our navy with auxiliary craft. We have four destroyers now and two others will be received from the United Kingdom. Our defences on the Western seaboard and elsewhere are being carried out on a carefully prepared and co-ordinated plan. The department has made a survey and is compiling a record of 768 Canadian plants which, in case of a national emergency, could be utilized for the production of munitions and defence equipment. Air equipment factories in Canada, the minister stated in the Commons, could produce any kind of aircraft required, if orders were placed with them. The type of equipment which cannot be manufactured in Canada at present is in connection with heavy calibre guns.

The British air mission, which has been visiting this continent, were for some days in Ottawa, conferring with defence department officials and representatives of aircraft manufacturing companies. They came for the purpose, not of immediately placing orders, but of making a "long term" survey of Canadian facilities for manufacturing aircraft for the British government. It will rest with the British Air Ministry, when the mission hands in its report, to determine the extent of the orders to be placed in Canada. This is all that is certain at present, but with the vast expansion of the British air forces, it may be taken for granted that the British intend, over a period of time, to buy a number of aircraft in Canada. This is the belief held here. Continuity of supply was the point emphasized by the members of the British air mission on Canadian manufacturers when discussing the question here.

A humble calico peddler, who rose to such heights that he threatened to corner all of the gold in the United States, is dramatically portrayed by Edward Arnold in RKO Radio's screen epic, "The Toast of New York," with Cary Grant, Frances Farmer and Jack Oakie as his co-stars. — Don't miss this unusual picture, to appear at the Rex Theatre one day only, June 1st, in aid of Hundred Club charity efforts in this community.

FEAR fanaticism

Dictators are always beset by the fear that the people whom they rule will learn the truth, and discover that they have been fed on lies.

Shortly after the Nazis took possession of Austria they began to "purge" the national library in Vienna of every book which contained any truths contrary to the "Aryan" doctrines of Nazism. One of the largest and most valuable collections of books in the world is being destroyed in order to conceal the truths of history and science from future generations.

Nothing like that has happened since the year 641, when the Mohammedans under Caliph Omar I began their march of conquest westward from Arabia, which nearly resulted in the conquest of all Europe. In Alexandria, Egypt, was the largest library in the world, and the city was the world's center of learning and culture. The Arabs took the city, and the commanding general asked the Caliph what he should do with the contents of the great library. Omar replied that if the books conformed to the teachings of Mohammed they were unnecessary, since all needed truth was contained in the Koran, while if they were contrary to the Koran they should be destroyed anyway. So the whole great library was burned. No one will ever know what priceless records of history and human culture were lost to the world.

HISTORY of fallacies

To those who know no history, the present is full of terrors for the future. The student of history knows that every economic fallacy and all of the political methods by which governments try to counteract depressions have their parallels in history, and that eventually the world will discard the quack remedies and right itself by returning to the inexorable laws of economics.

There are twenty-one distinct civilizations known to historians. Of those, fourteen are known only by their ruins. They perished, in every instance, because their leaders either tried to tamper with economic laws or attempted to take in too much territory. The seven civilizations which have survived have lasted because there has been no suppression of learning. Their people have had free access to truth, and truth always prevails in the long run, though it may take centuries.

Three great civilizations today are on the historic road to destruction. They are following the same routes which their vanished predecessors took. They can suppress truths for a few generations, perhaps, and inflict great damage on the rest of the world while they last, but in the end their destruction is inevitable.

CONQUERORS doomed

Alexander, Genghis Khan, Julius Caesar, Omar, Napoleon are famous names in history. Each tried to dominate the world, or so much of it as he could conquer. Every one of them believed that he had a superior form of civilization which he was destined to impose upon the rest of the world. Each succeeded — for a while. But what is left of their ambitions now but ruins?

The empires those leaders created have vanished. Alexander's Macedonian empire, the Mongol empire of Asia, Caesar's Roman empire, Omar's Mussulman empire, Napoleon's Franco-Italian empire, have been dismembered, partitioned, most of them have vanished completely. Some fell apart the moment their rulers died.

A thousand years from now historians will set the names of Hitler, of Mussolini and of Lenin alongside those great historical failures. Their successors may carry on for a while, as Stalin is carrying on in Russia, but their efforts are doomed to failure because they are based upon force and the suppression of truth.

TRUTH will prevail

What defeated the conquerors of history and will defeat the conquerors of the present time. There is only one answer. Truth, and the reaction of the human spirit to elemental truth. Through all of the conquests by force, the suppression of truth, the efforts of conquerors to instill false doctrines into the minds of their people, the light of truth has never been completely extinguished. Some sparks have always remained burning, to burst into flame and set the world afire sooner or later.

Men's bodies can be conquered and kept in bondage by force. Man's spirit can never be imprisoned. The real conquerors in history are those who, by teaching and example, have inspired men to seek for truth and to live by it rather than by force.

The conquerors whose influence continues to prevail and grow are the great ones whose task it was to set the human spirit free, not to enslave it.

VIGILANCE . . . for democracy

None of the modern dictators began with force. They lured enough people into accepting their rule, by promising to free them from real or actual oppression, danger or distress. Once they had enough followers to back them up, they began, one by one, to curtail the liberties of the whole nation.

Dictatorships came about by gradual and devious infringements upon individual rights, under the specious plea that only by surrendering their rights can the people be saved from economic or physical starvation. Resistance to the program of wholesale salvation is branded as unpatriotic, selfish or even treasonable.

Free peoples can be and have been bamboozled by such tactics, because they did not recognize the signs of the times. The time to exercise the eternal vigilance which is the price of liberty is when men in power begin to call names, to denounce those who disagree with them, and to propagandize programs which can only be made effective by the use of force.

Every shot fired from one of the 16-inch guns costs the United States government approximately $2,000.

MAKING CANADA A Better Place in Which to Live and Work

Letters from Distinguished Canadians on Problems Affecting the Future Welfare of Canada
Specially Written for Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association

LETTER NO. 7

I think it is important for the rural newspapers of this country to be sure of facts before casting aspersions upon people in business.

I think there is a tendency to follow any city newspaper opinion on matters affecting economic welfare and business interests. There is, too, a tendency to take at face value the allegations of politicians.

One suggestion I have to make is that in the interests of good citizenship, good administration and good business, the rural weekly newspapers, before passing judgment upon people who may be publicly attacked, or alleged to be guilty of improprieties, should ascertain the facts more completely than seems to have been often done in the past.

I believe there is, too, general disposition to discredit people of affairs and to assume that businesses of size and people of tax-paying capacity and those responsible for the employment of considerable staffs should be made the object of unreasonable legislation, restrictions and impositions.

Perhaps I may illustrate this by giving you some figures of our own experience in taxation and imposts.

In 1931, when we sold more goods than in any year since, our total taxation and imposts were $2,254,000. In 1937 this total had risen to $3,880,000. The extra $1,626,000 was, of course, paid largely by the consumer one way and another. These extra imposts can be traced in some measure to the political agitator.

It is most unlikely that property owners, persons of large affairs in business, large taxpayers, or large employers can hold any sort of creditable reputation in the face of this disposition.

Matters are different in the Old Country. The attitude there towards business is to foster it, to allow it to prosecute its legitimate aims and service, and at the least expense and with a minimum of legislative restriction. The consequence of this is that Great Britain today is probably showing the world, unless it be a little country such as Belgium, whose institutions and trade are even now freer than Great Britain.

I think the rural weekly newspapers in Canada have it in their hands, more than any other agency, to offset the agitator and the radical movements resulting in legislative restrictions and higher imposts of taxation. These unreasonable exactions are of doubtful effectiveness and destroy the confidence necessary to prosecute further development and wider employment.

Permanent CONCRETE Highways

Concrete paving is an asset to any community. It ends tax-eating maintenance; reduces driving hazards and costs; attracts profitable tourist traffic. Tires really grip the gritty, skid-retarding surface of a concrete highway which offers, as well, clearly-defined edges and exceptional night-time visibility as additional safety factors. Advocate concrete paving for better, safer and more economical motoring. It is the logical material for highways, streets, lanes and all traffic-carrying surfaces.

RAILWAY UNIFICATION

The Senate is now investigating the railway problem. That the situation is serious none will deny, for however efficient the management of the publicly-owned Canadian National Railway system, its annual deficits grow larger, which means that its debt of monumental proportions keeps pyramiding year by year — and this at the expense of the Canadian taxpayer. And when we speak of the Canadian taxpayer we mean the man who also pays local taxes, so that any solution leading to the lessening of the drain on taxes would be welcomed by local authorities, not because of any direct benefit to local revenues — for there would be none — but because of the encouraging effect of such relief on those who pay federal taxes, and this means everybody, for no one is exempt. The president of the Canadian Pacific, a privately-owned system, who also happens to be the largest taxpayer in the Dominion, urges "unification" as the only practical solution; and we fully agree with him, not only because of the tremendous savings that would accrue from such unification — said to be at least $75,000,000 annually — but because it would lead to a cheapening of transportation costs, which in these days of keen competition is of vital importance to the development of the country. Canada is at the crossroads of her national existence. She must either advance or go back. With her vast natural resources; her unexcelled means of transportation by rail, water and road; her remarkable geographical situation, by which her ports face directly every world market — to go back is unthinkable. Advance she must, but to advance she must first solve her biggest problem, that of the railways. If unification of management is the solution, then let us have it by all means. This is not the time for the nation's leaders to play party politics; they must act for the common good.

CHAIN STORES

There has been so much discussion of chain stores in recent years that most people seem to regard them as something quite modern and presenting problems which never existed until lately. But some recent historical research discloses that chain store operations on a large scale were familiar to merchants at least 2,000 years ago.

As in so many other fields of human activity, the Chinese were the inventors of the system of retail distribution through a large number of stores under single management. As far back as 200 B.C., there are ancient Chinese records of an enterprising merchant who operated a large number of retail units.

In the year 79 A.D., the suburban town of Pompeii, near Naples, was buried under the ashes of an eruption of Mount Vesuvius. When Pompeii was unearthed, nearly 1,800 years later, a poster was found on a wall advertising a chain of 900 retail shops for sale or lease all over southern Italy. In the Middle Ages the great and wealthy families of Fugger and Medici operated chain banks. The first chain store system on this continent was set up by the Hudson's Bay Company before 1750, and it is still going strong.

The only new thing about the chain store business seems to be the vastly increased number of merchants engaged in it.

WISDOM FROM HENRY FORD

Henry Ford made his first formal public speech, and, he announced, his last, at a publishers' convention recently. It consisted of two sentences.

"We are all in the same boat," he said. "Stick to your guns and I'll help you all I can."

Mr. Ford is a doer, not a talker. His wisdom has been proved by his actions and achievements, not by his words. He is foremost example of the spirit of independence, initiative and self-reliance. In talking to newspaper reporters he expounded his philosophy as tersely as he talked to the publishers:

"People are looking for security. That is a delusion. There is no security except in ambition and work. The only security there is is what you learn and know about your work."

Mr. Ford is entitled to a vote of thanks for bringing an elemental truth sharply to the attention of a world which seems in danger of forgetting it.

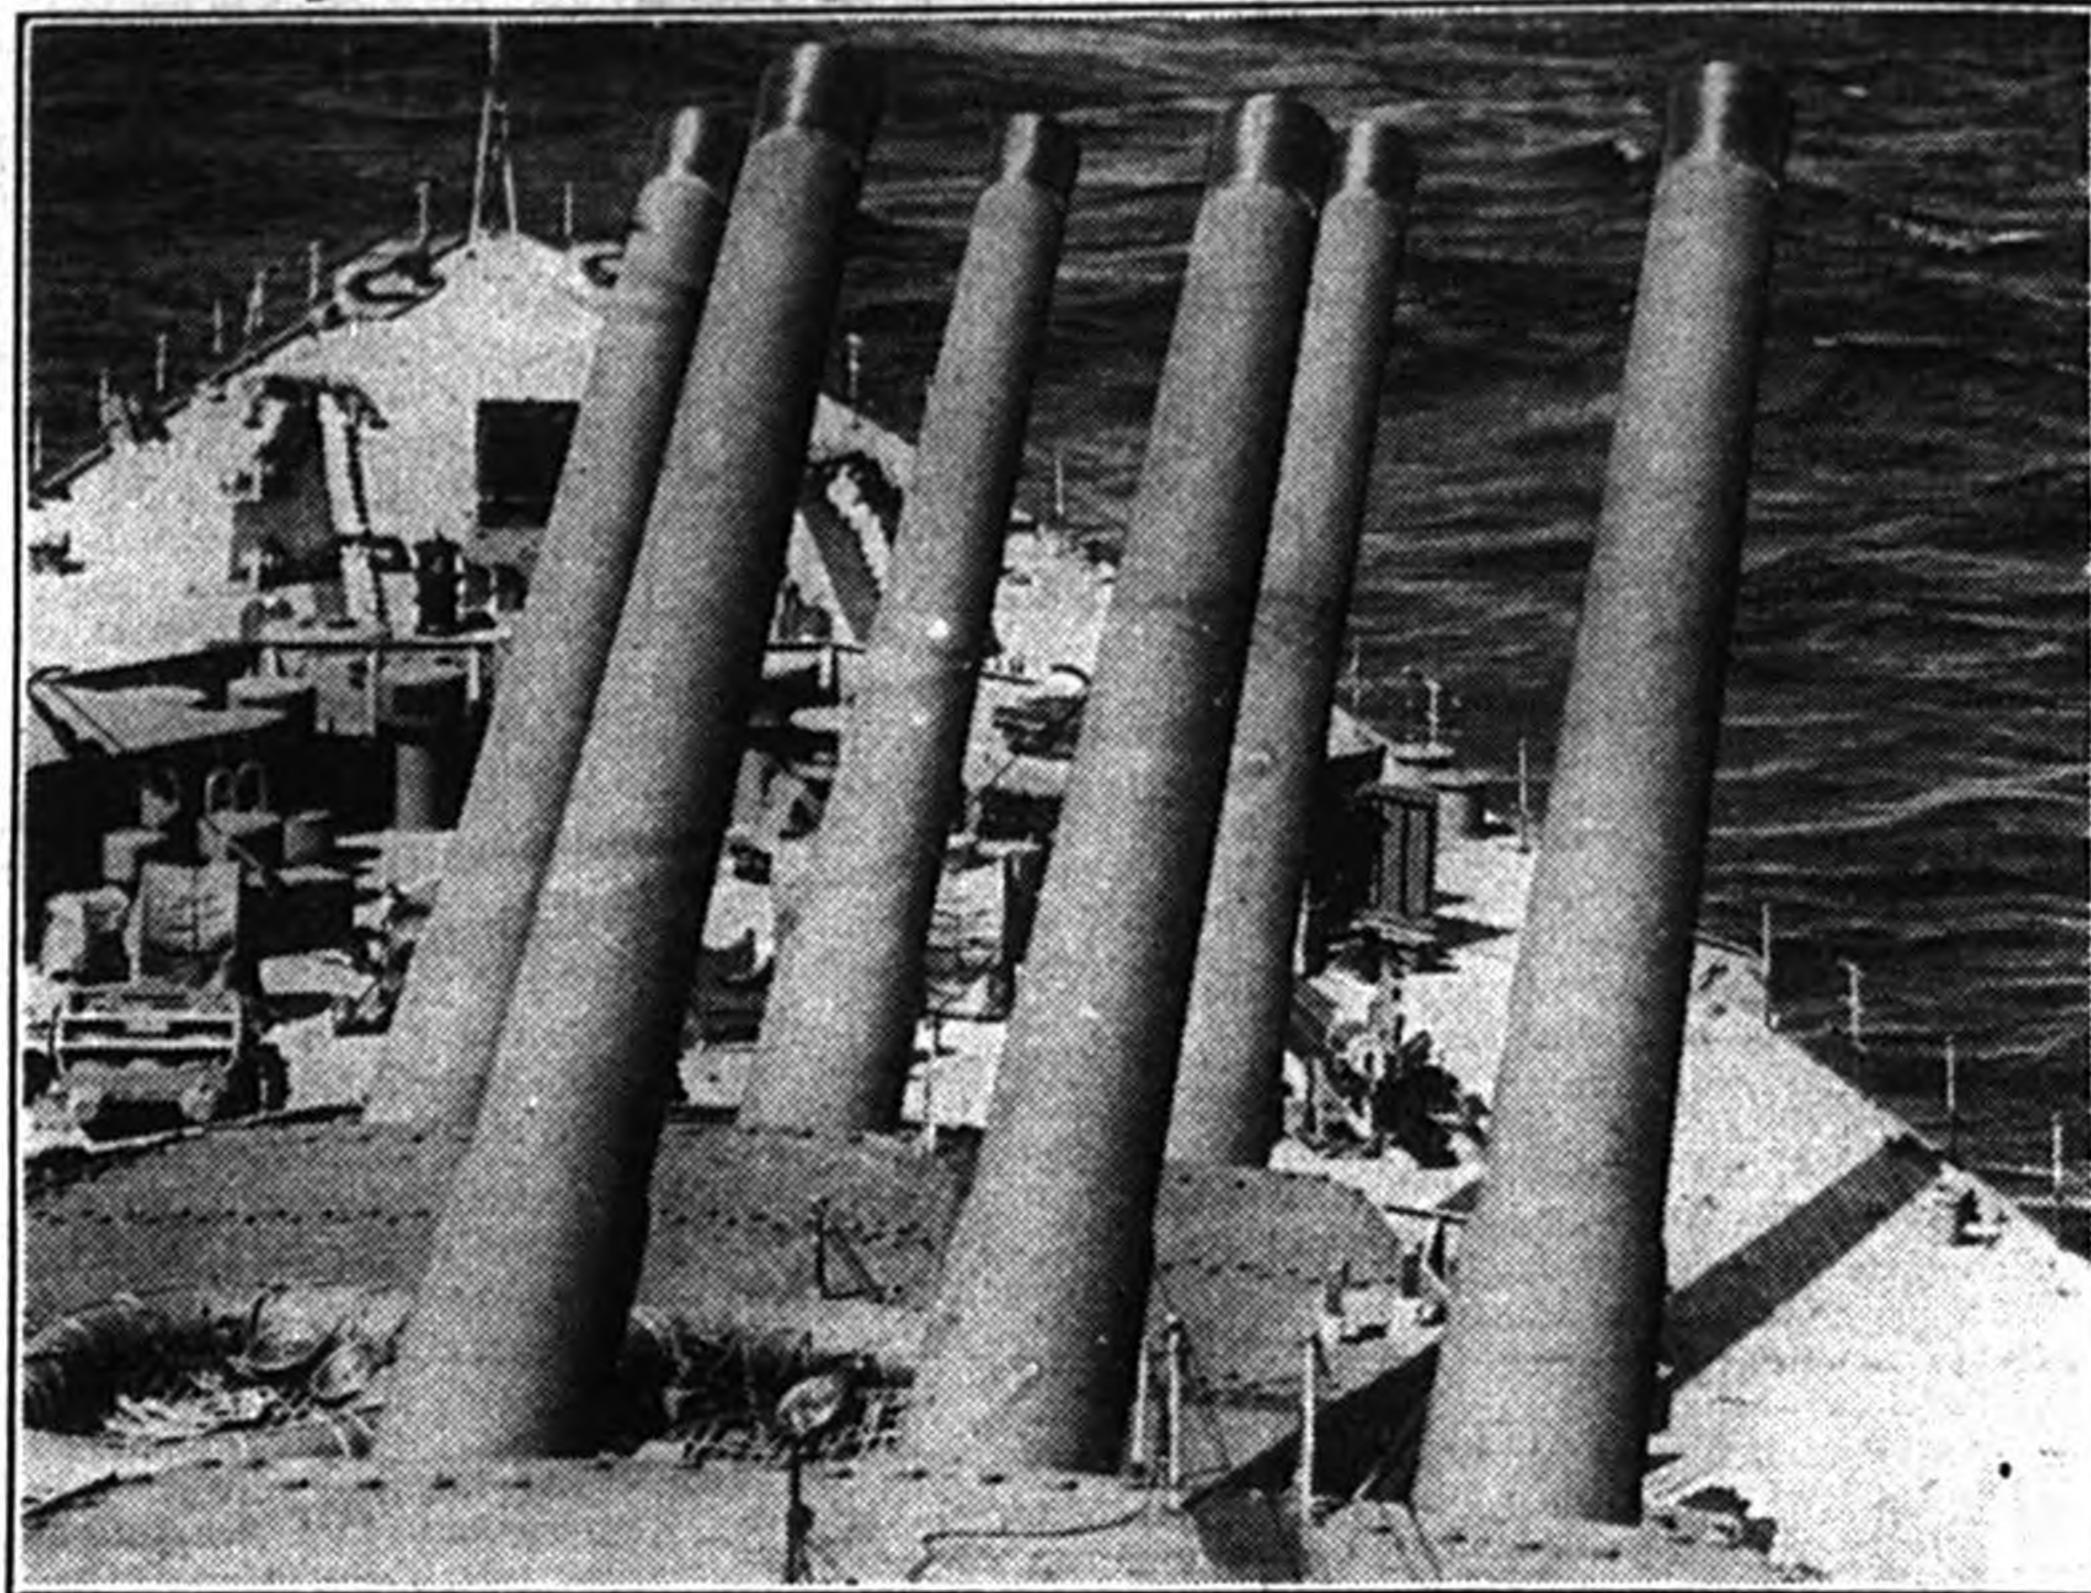

GUARANTEES OF PEACE

The war talk which has been heard so volubly for the past year or so seems to be subsided, but there is no assurance whatever that we have arrived at the era of lasting peace.

That era will never arrive until the nations find a basis of agreement as to the division of the world among them in accordance with their needs. Peace can never be permanent so long as any nation feels that it is unjustly excluded from rights and privileges which others enjoy.

Once a people become so nation-conscious that they not only deny to others the right to differ with them but insist upon their innate superiority over their neighbors, the seeds of war have been sown. When strong nations adopt that attitude toward the rest of the world, there is nothing the non-aggressive nations can do for self-preservation but to arm themselves and hold themselves ready for the inevitable conflict which will come as soon as the arrogant nation believes it can win a war.

The millennium is a long way off. The perfect guarantee of perpetual peace would be the sincere recognition by everyone of the essential brotherhood of all mankind and the complete equality of all human beings in the sight of God. Lacking that, the next best security of peaceful peoples is a sufficiently strong system of national defence to make other nations hesitate before doing anything to stir up trouble.

Charleston Holds Claim

of "Most Historic City"

Charleston claims to be "America's most historic city." In 1670, those who settled Charleston planned not a frontier post, but a great city.

In July of 1774, at the meeting of the Provincial congress in Charleston there was set up the first independent government in America. On nearby Sullivan's island at what is now Fort Moultrie the great British forces under Sir Peter Parker were defeated in 1776, for the colonists' first decisive victory of the Revolution. In Charleston harbor nearly a hundred years later was fired the shot that precipitated the great Confederate war.

From this seaport in 1784 the first shipment of cotton to Europe was made; here in 1830 the "Best Friend," first steam locomotive train ever to operate in America regularly with passengers and freight, made its maiden trip; in 1735 the first fire insurance company in America was begun and in 1822 the first fireproof building was erected. The first submarine ever to function in warfare was Hunley's boat, used by the Confederates in 1863. Charleston's streets have been trodden by a long procession of adventurers, pirates, soldiers, statesmen, men of affairs and prominence, artists, historians, painters and poets.

Brownburg Girl Bantams Win Over L.H.S. Midgets

Girls of the lower grades in Lachute and Brownburg are taking the lead in athletic enterprise; at least, these younger scholars appear to be agitating for more and more sporting activities.

Last Saturday afternoon the young ladies of Brownburg defeated the Lachute girls at softball by the narrow margin of one run. The result was 22-21 for Brownburg.

On Monday afternoon the Lachute girls played a return game on the Brownburg grounds. Pouring rain did not deter them from filling the engagement, and when the weather had cleared the girls from the 'Burg were found at the leading end of a 20-17 score.

Lachute—Norma Assaly, Geraldine Noble, Yvonne Bedard, Katherine Langille, Mae Gordon, Annie McCrae, Jean Elliott, June MacVicar, Joan Stewart.

Brownburg — G. Izzard, D. Passmore, I. Maitland, V. Bourne, H. Birch, C. Maitland, H. Berubé, Seary, G. MacAdam.

L.H.S. Softball Record

The boys of the L.H.S. softball team are elated over the fact that 1938 has seen them without a defeat. To date the team has made 89 runs, with only 25 runs against them.

The St. Andrews Consolidated School team have been the losers on two occasions, while the Brownburg squad has also taken a 22-3 defeat. The closest game so far has been an encounter with Longueuil, the local boys claiming victory with a narrow two-run advantage.

The scholars anticipate that a few more games will be played before examinations commence.

No Crystal, but a Cave

Aids Weather Prophets

Amateur weather prophets who live in the vicinity of the Eiger glacier, on the route from Interlaken to the Jungfrau, depend not on the look of the sky but on the grotto of the glacier for their prophecies, according to an Inter-laken, Switzerland, writer. If the ice in it is a clear turquoise blue or dark sapphire, they know that the day will be fair, but if it is a dull green, snow can be expected in this region, and rain in the valley.

The grotto in which the weather is foretold is about 86 feet long, with an arched roof from seven to eight feet high in the center. The glacier at this point is a solid mass of ice about 150 feet thick.

The whole region about it is one of scenic grandeur. Farther on is the Eigerwand station, where a huge room has been cut out of the mountain, with three large windows from which travelers can look out over the lower mountain peaks. Miles away the ranges of the Jura, the Vosges and the Black Forest are visible.

TAKING A TIP from the TRANS-CANADA AIRLINES

Best for a National Enterprise
Is Best for the Individual . . .

MR. CITIZEN:

The superior quality of British American Lubricants has been confirmed by our obtaining one of the most important lubricating oil contracts that has been let in Canada for a number of years.

The Trans-Canada Airlines — a new organization — closely connected with the Government and the Canadian National Railways — has been organized to carry passengers and mail by air over a large portion of the Dominion: from Quebec in the East to British Columbia in the West.

The safety of the passengers and perfect performance of the aeroplane motors, you will agree, depend very largely on successful lubrication. After exhaustive tests and inquiries, the Trans-Canada Airlines chose British American lubricating oil for their aeroplane motors over the whole of Canada.

Surely — if British American Lubrication has been chosen by the Trans-Canada Airlines to lubricate planes, costing in the neighborhood of $100,000 each, and further, to insure the safety of their passengers, then it must be the logical lubrication for the motorist — no matter whether he drives an old car or one of 1938's most expensive models.

Old-Fashioned Remedies

Favored by the Japanese
The Japanese boast of the most fantastic medicines, and the country folk go in for "cures" which, to a European, would seem a good deal worse than the disease, notes a writer in Pearson's London Weekly.

A widely-used cure for fever consists of placing a poultice of earthworms on the patient's stomach, because Japanese believe that this will draw the fever out.

Anyone suffering from a sty or other eye trouble is advised to lie down and sprinkle salt on the stomach. Burned clay, raked out of old cooking stoves, is another cure-all. Eaten slowly, it is supposed to banish any kind of sickness.

The effects of eating too many oysters are supposed to be removed by eating powdered oyster shell, and this cure is also widely used for indigestion and similar ailments. Heartburn—not the indigestion kind, but that which comes from blighted affections—can be soothed by eating a few toads.

But the most widely-used treatment consists of sticking pins into one's anatomy. According to the Japanese way of thinking, there are more than 300 different parts of the body into which a pin can be stuck, each part being the location of a different disease.

Babies, however, are not considered strong enough to withstand these cures, so the Japanese mother deceives the germs of disease by hanging a notice outside the house informing all germs that the baby is not at home.

May Meeting of W.M.S. St. Andrews Presbytn. Ch.

St. Andrews E. — The W.M.S. of the Presbyterian Church held their May meeting on Wednesday in the church hall, with the president, Mrs. J. P. Bradley, in the chair.

The devotional exercises were taken by Mrs. John Bradley, who chose for her subject "Christ, the Bridge Builder" — showing that, through His atonement, Christ had bridged the chasm of our sins, to our Father in Heaven.

The guest speaker was Mrs. Robt. Millar, of Lachute, who spoke on Home Missions in the four western provinces, dealing principally with the work done in our school homes and hospitals. Mrs. Millar's address was a forceful one, bringing home to each one present, our great responsibility, as well as privilege, in supporting this important branch of church work.

At the close of the meeting a bale of clothes, quilts, etc., valued at $53, was packed for shipment to the hospitals and school homes. The June meeting will take the form of a luncheon, at which the Sub-Executive of the Montreal Presbytery will be guests.

DON'T CHASE AWAY THE RAIN

"Rain, rain, go to Spain, Never show your face again!"
"If it did, why, Molly dear, Wouldn't everything seem queer!"

All as dry as dry could be,
Not a bit of green to see.
Dusty roads and dusty hills,
Thirsty birds and dried-up rills.

Nothing growing on the farm,
Not an oat-sheaf in the barn;
Won't you ask the gentle rain
To come back from far-off Spain?"

NUTS IN MAY

"Whoever heard of such a silly game as Nuts in May!" Mary Bond threw herself down pettishly on the cool green grass of her uncle's lawn. She had been attending her cousin Cora's birthday party, and the last game the children had played was the game Mary had just named.

"I think it's a lovely game," said Cora, stepping lightly with her skipping rope along the gravelled walk. "Just every bit as nice as skipping." "Mother says I am thin enough without skipping. Anyway, whoever heard of gathering nuts in May," exclaimed Mary, throwing a lump of gravel at a pretty gray squirrel that was running along the cobblestone fence between her uncle's lawn and his vegetable garden. "Here you!" she shouted to the squirrel, "Go back where you came from, you silly creature. Nobody wants you around here."

"Why, Mary, you naughty thing!" Cora cried, running towards Mary and catching her arm to prevent her throwing the second lump of gravel. But she was too late, the missile had gone, and just missed the squirrel, who had stopped running when the first lump whizzed by him, and had sat looking about him as if undecided whether to turn or go ahead.

His home was in the woodshed loft and he was on his way there now. He had just decided to keep on going, when Mary's second handful of gravel came flying his way and broke into small particles on the fence just in front of him. With a frightened "Sleek-slick," he darted to the ground and hurried home on the other side of the fence, hidden from Mary's sight.

The squirrel did not like running on the ground, as Rover chased him when he saw him, and old black Nance, the cat, was usually hiding behind a flowerpot or a tub of some sort.

He had just reached the shed and was running along the beam to the stairs leading to the loft, when Cora and Mary came into the shed to inspect the little baby turkeys which Cora's mother had in a coop there.

Another frightened "Sleek-slick," and the little squirrel had scampered upstairs, across the loft, and was hidden behind the grain bin where no little girls could reach him.

As they sat watching the tiny turkeys running in and out from between the bars of the coop, a funny scratching noise sounded over their heads. Mary looked startled, but Cora just laughed. "Don't be frightened, Gossie!" she chuckled. "That's only the squirrel eating nuts."

"There aren't any nuts in May!" argued Mary stubbornly.

"Well, there are," chuckled Cora again, "and that squirrel has them later than May, too, for we can hear him and his family eating nuts all through the summer."

Mary was not usually bad tempered, but she had eaten too much rich cake at the party, and was feeling a bit uncomfortable and just in the mood to make everyone else uncomfortable, if she could. Seizing a long-handled broom she thumped it on the ceiling just about where they had heard the sound. Instantly the scraping noise ceased. With a wicked chuckle, Mary thumped the ceiling again and again, until Cora seized the broom and tried to take it from her.

Fortunately for Mary, Cora was good-natured, and she did not do this in a temper but laughed heartily as she and Mary wrestled for possession of the broom.

"One would think that silly creature was your squirrel, Cora!" cried Mary, when, tired of wrestling, the two girls sat down together on the bottom step of the stairs.

"It is my squirrel!" Cora giggled, "at least, it's Daddie's — everything in this shed belongs to Daddie."

"That old toad, too, I suppose?" Mary pointed scornfully at a big green toad that had hopped silently out from a dark corner and sat blinking in the light of the setting sun before he hopped across to the garden to catch bugs for his supper.

"Of course he's ours!" giggled Cora, lifting the big toad up on a shingle and starting towards Mary with it.

GRETA GARBO

The Glamorous Garbo Used to Work in a Barber Shop.

Two of the best known people in all the world both used to work in barber shops, one in London and the other in Stockholm. Both of them used to mix lather in shaving mugs and smear it on the faces of the customers, while the barbers honed their razors and got ready to mow down the whiskers. Both Greta Garbo and Charlie Chaplin once made their living in that fashion.

As a child, Garbo was far from being a female prodigy. She disliked the humdrum of school, so she used to steal away frequently to the back porch of a theatre and stand tip-toe listening to a performance without buying a ticket. Tinkling with excitement, she would rush home, paint her face with a child's set of water colors, and pretend she was Sarah Bernhardt parading in front of the footlights.

Her father died when she was fourteen, leaving the family in poverty. After working for a while in a barber shop, Greta finally got a job selling hats in a department store in Stockholm.

Then, one day, a trivial thing happened — a thing that altered her destiny and started her on the road to a fame far exceeding her most fantastic expectations. She posed for a hat advertisement. The ad boosted sales; so the store decided to make a moving picture advertisement of hats, and Greta posed as the model.

If a certain keen-eyed motion picture director hadn't seen that film, Garbo might still be selling hats today. This director was the first victim of the Garbo lure. She was only sixteen then, and he suggested that she study at a dramatic school.

One day, Maurice Stiller, the great Swedish director, sent to the dramatic school for a young girl to play a small role. Garbo got the job. Her name then was Gustafson. But

Red River Colored by Clay

The Red river of the North (there's a Red river in Texas and Oklahoma) is often colored by the clay through which it runs. Hence the name. Rising in Minnesota, it flows 350 miles almost straight north into Lake Winnipeg. In spring the headwaters thaw while farther north it is still frozen solidly. Floods result. Before railroads came the river connected Canada with the Mississippi river. Small steamers went up to Lake Traverse and thence down the Minnesota river to the Mississippi.

ALMOST A CIRCUS

For a non-circus picture, the new Paramount musical comedy, "Tropic Holiday," sets a Hollywood record for animals and fowls. In scenes with Martha Raye, Bob Burns, Dorothy Lamour and Ray Milland there are fighting bulls, oxen, burros, geese, chickens, cats, dogs and even a turtle.

"Fah 'fraid t' go home. Wife smell me breath."
"Hold ya breath."
"Can't, 'stoo strong."

Get Out the Tape, Girls; Here's the Ideal Figure

Plans and specifications of a Hollywood charm girl were itemized recently by LeRoy Prinz, Paramount dance director.

Prinz took the average figures of more than 200 dancing girls in Paramount's "College Swing" as the basis of his statistics. According to Prinz, the ideal measurements are as follows:

Height, not over 5 feet 6 inches; weight, according to height but not to exceed 115 pounds; ankle, 8½ inches; calf, 13½ inches; knee, 13½ inches; thigh, 19½ inches; hips, 36 inches; waist, 24 inches, and bust, 34 inches.

Such a form gives artistic symmetry, Mr. Prinz said.

CASPER HOTSTUFF and Mandy Strut, the local dancing team, use Cress Corn and Bunion Salves. Remove Warts, Calluses too. Sold by Beaton's Pharmacy in Lachute, Harbour's Pharmacy in Lachute Mills and all drug counters.

Victoria the Good

That name hath power still
To fill our minds
With worth-while things,
And all our pulses thrill...

Because of her who truly reigned,
A Godly Queen and pure,
Who taught us love, a patriot's love,
A love that shall endure.

Feel Full of Life—No More Tired, Dull, Heavy Mornings

Keep your liver healthy and you'll feel great every morning. When you wake up feeling "rotten" your liver is out of order. Your liver clears the blood of poisons, separates the nourishing part of your food from the waste. Supplies energy to muscles, tissues and glands—gives out bile, the body's laxative, helps stomach, kidneys and intestines to work properly. A mere bowel movement isn't enough. "Fruit-a-tives" made from fruits and herbs, will strengthen and build up your liver like nothing else will. You'll be amazed how well you are every morning. Try Fruit-a-tives. All druggists.

TO ENCOURAGE IMPROVEMENTS

The Federal Government is doing a great deal to encourage remodeling and improvement of old homes and paradoxically municipal governments seem to be trying to discourage it. Just as soon as a house is improved, assessments are raised and taxes go up automatically. Just yesterday I heard a woman say that they wanted to paint their house and do some fixing up but they had almost decided not to do so, as, if they did, their taxes would be higher and they were too high already. To increase employment, municipalities might profitably not increase assessments on improved houses. Most people who have studied the question feel that a shift should be made from having real estate bear more than its share of taxation. Toronto is doing that by shifting a part of its fire-protection rates to water-rates instead of property. Everyone gets fire-protection so why not have everyone pay for it.

CONFORMITY

The adolescent girl of fourteen or so wants to conform in every way to her friends. Her mother may choose the very nicest clothes, but if they are not just like the other girls, they are a heartbreak. There is no desire for individuality. They must do and dress just as the other girls do. If mothers could understand that this is a phase they go through, many misunderstandings would be cleared away. She knows exactly what kind of clothes she wants and what sports she wishes to play in and it is wise to let her do the choosing — within reason. If she is not filled with resentment because she has to be different, she is apt to come through this attack and feel that mother is a friend, not an opponent, and will be ready to listen to her then. Many girls have a lasting feeling of hurt because they could not be like the other girls. About this stage, boys develop the gang spirit, but the girls' watchword is conformity.

ASPARAGUS

There are drawbacks to most everything, and even Nova Scotia has its drawbacks. One of them is the scarcity of asparagus. Last spring I was able to get home-grown asparagus twice and it certainly was not for lack of trying. I found later that the spring comes too late and too cold and that asparagus will only do well in the occasional sheltered spot. We used to have it every day for weeks. Sometimes in sticks with butter, sometimes cut in inch pieces with butter instead of the more frequent cream sauce. . . When it was creamed, instead of serving it on toast, we often had it on hot biscuits, short-cake fashion. Did you ever try it with a crumb sauce? Melt some butter, add dried crumbs and stir over a slow fire until gently browned. Asparagus is a good mixer. It is an addition to any salad, either fruit or vegetable. It has a natural affinity for eggs. Often I cover an omelet with it before folding. Then again I may heap buttered asparagus at either end of a plain omelet. It is good with scrambled eggs. Add it when the eggs begin to thicken. A garnish of bacon makes it even better. I wish I were eating it instead of just writing about it. My mouth is fairly watering.

JELLY CHEESE TARTS

Most of us like a bit of cheese with our apple pie, and these tarts are a variation of the same idea. Put a sliver of cheese in the bottom of a baked tart shell and fill with apple jelly. Other jellies, or thick marmalade or jam, may be used in place of the apple. Grape jelly and cheese make a good combination. With the grape jelly I prefer a white cream cheese or curds. At a tea I served very small tarts filled with the cheese and jelly and topped them with a dab of whipped cream. They looked attractive, and judging from the number that disappeared, were popular.

RHUBARB MARMALADE

4 lbs. rhubarb, 4 lbs. sugar, 2 oranges.
Put the oranges through the chopper and add to the rhubarb and sugar. Let stand for a little while to draw out some of the juice. Boil until thick, stirring frequently. Bottle in sterilized jars.

Star's Frock Has Smart Color Note

Joan Bennett, now in Paramount's "The Texans," is wearing a very short, full printed frock of printed crepe with a navy blue background scattered with tiny yellow, purple, red and white posies. The bodice is cut like a camisole and a narrow sash of the print winds about the waistline and ties in front. Joan's hat is a brimmed model in natural leghorn, draped becomingly with a veil of the same purple shade which predominates in the print. Navy blue accessories and a navy coat collared in beige fox add further detail.

New York State's legislation in regard to pre-marital tests to curb venereal diseases is said by health officials there to be experimental. Health officials, generally, will watch the operation of the law with interest. Following the introduction of a similar bill at the last session of the Ontario Legislature, the subject was debated and the bill withdrawn, but the discussion will probably be renewed at some future session.

Dr. Charles H. Best, associate of Sir Frederick Banting in the discovery of insulin, told the English Speaking Union in Toronto recently that more than a million diabetics throughout the world were receiving treatment with insulin now. Diabetes among younger people was being greatly reduced, though there had not been much change in the general death rate. Obtaining of sufficient supplies of insulin was becoming a problem.

ADVICE FROM "CRANKS"

Unquestionably physicians and hospital executives receive more advice from "cranks," without any knowledge of surgery, than others. No sane individual questions the fact that Dr. Allan Roy Daeof, the country doctor who brought the Dionne quintuplets into the world, knows just what to do with children, especially in a region where there are few modern conveniences.

Even Maiden Ladies

He told me that he had received thousands of letters of advice regarding how to treat them — from veterinarians, chiropractors, astrologers, even maiden ladies, and they came daily from all parts of the world. One grandmother wanted them to be fed shepard tea. A man from Yorkshire, England, sent a lactating sow, asking that it be trained to lie down and permit the infants to suckle it as its litter of pigs had done. Prize cows, asses and goats, came by the dozen, each donor urging the use of their milk for the babies. Watermelon juice, horse radish, blackberry juice, knot weed extract, sassafras, and

"home remedies" galore arrived. Hundreds of cases of whiskey were shipped for use of the prodigies and thousands of letters from temperance cranks, warning him not to administer alcohol in any form. A beauty cream concern offered to send an "expert" to massage the infants daily with its preparations.

It Happened Again

And while the world was telling Dr. Daeof just how to attend these fortunate babies, in the backwoods of Nova Scotia, with the temperature below zero, a poverty stricken mother gave birth to five boys, born like the Dionne children, two months before full term. They were a decided surprise to that family too — so much so that the window curtains and rugs from the floor were used to cover them. Proper food was lacking. Before the father could return in his sleigh with the doctor after a twenty-mile drive, the infants froze to death. Strange to relate this woman and her babies did not get a single line written up in the local or other papers. Such is life.

USE YOUR SILVER

Perhaps when you cleaned house this spring you found some silver stored away on the top shelves of the pantry cupboards because you hesitated to use it every day and found it hard to keep clean. So now before it has a chance to tarnish again and require another thorough cleaning I want to put in a word for it. In the first place there is nothing like silver to give "atmosphere" to a home. Its sheer beauty adds elegance and dignity to any room it may grace. Formal dinners, buffet suppers, afternoon teas, Sunday breakfasts all gain importance by the use of silver appointments. And here's the secret of clean silver. Use it every day and at every meal and then it will always be ready for entertaining.

PRACTICAL ARTICLES

If you are investing in new silver, pick out articles that will have more than one use. A bowl may be used as a flower holder, a salad bowl and a fruit dish. A relish dish may become a meat platter or a sandwich tray when the glass lining is removed. An asparagus dish is practical in season and out of season — simply remove the rack and sauce boat and you have a server for other vegetables, salads or desserts.

Here is a delicious relish and garnish for spring lamb. Beat one-half cup of currant jelly with a fork. Add 4 tablespoons minced mint leaves and pile on slices of oranges. Serve as a garnish on platter with leg of lamb or broiled lamb chops.

MEXICAN BEANPOT

Four cups cooked red kidney beans, 1 clove garlic, 1 teaspoon powdered thyme, 1 teaspoon rosemary, small bayleaf, 3 whole cloves, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon powdered mustard, ½ cup tomato catsup, 1 onion, 4 slices bacon.

Cut onion in half and put in bottom of bean pot. Mince garlic and combine with seasonings and catsup. Mix with beans and put in beanpot. Bake one hour in a slow oven (300 degrees F.). Cover with bacon and bake until bacon is crisp. Serve with brown bread and butter sandwiches.

The Odorless Marigold

The garden magazines have had considerable to say about the new odorless marigold. We had a few plants of it last summer and it certainly lived up to its name as there was not the slightest suspicion of the marigold scent. The flower is of the African type but the plant is much shorter. If one objects to the marigold odor then it would be an improvement. Personally, I do not mind it. It does not take the place of the African marigold as a background plant, and as for the bloom, I prefer the Calendula. In my way of thinking, Calendulas are one of the most valuable flowers to plant. They are showy, bloom freely, blend nicely, make good cut flowers and are easy to grow. It is fun to try out new plants, and you may enjoy the new Marigold more than I did.

— Jessie Allen Brown.

"Doris, have you been drinking?"
"No, mother."
"But your breath smells of liquor."
"Yes, father just kissed me good-night."
"But your father doesn't drink."
"I-I-I know, mother, but the ice-man drinks, and he spends a lot of time with our French maid."

The Control of Cockroaches

Cockroaches are frequently abundant in apartment houses, hotels, dwelling houses, stores and, in short, in any buildings where there are warm, moist conditions and a plentiful supply of food. These insects have flattened, horny bodies and large spiny legs which enable them to move quickly and take refuge in crevices, in walls, floors, etc. In such places they usually remain hidden during the day and emerge at night to prowling about in search of food. Cockroaches are practically omnivorous and are particularly fond of foodstuffs favored by man. On this account they are usually more numerous about kitchens and pantries where food is readily accessible.

The eggs of cockroaches are developed within a small horny capsule or packet which is deposited by the female usually in a warm, moist place. Female cockroaches may be seen frequently with the egg capsule protruding from the end of the abdomen and these capsules are often dropped when the insect is threatened with danger. The young, which hatch from the eggs, are similar in general appearance to the adult cockroaches, but are smaller and lack wings. In growing they shed their skins several times. Cockroach infestations often may be detected by the presence of cast skins and empty egg capsules, even when the living roaches have escaped notice. Cockroaches also emit a peculiar odor which is sometimes imparted to the food over which they have walked and even to crockery and other utensils, thus revealing their presence.

CONTROL

Cockroaches may be readily controlled by sodium fluoride. This material should be lightly dusted in places frequented by the roaches, such as about sinks, baseboards, cupboards, hot water pipes, etc. The sodium fluoride adheres to the legs and antennae of the roaches, and in cleaning themselves the insects are poisoned by it. Sodium fluoride retains its effectiveness and may be left until the cockroaches have completely disappeared. As this chemical is somewhat poisonous, reasonable precautions should be taken to prevent children or domestic pets from gaining access to it.

Two other materials which form the basis of many proprietary roach powders are pyrethrum and borax. Pyrethrum insect powder is less effective than sodium fluoride; it loses its effectiveness quickly on exposure to air, and has to be used in larger quantity. Borax, also, is less satisfactory than sodium fluoride. It is easily obtainable, however, and mixed with equal parts of powdered sweet chocolate is a fairly effective remedy.

The Northern Lights

The Northern Lights or Aurora Borealis is an atmospheric phenomenon seen in the northern hemisphere. It appears in the form of arcs, rays, bands, patches, etc., in various colors, across the northern sky. Its cause is not known for certain but is believed to be some kind of electrical charge or magnetic disturbance. One theory is that electrons from the sun encounter such gases as krypton and nitrogen in the upper rarified atmosphere. There is some connection between brilliant auroras and magnetic storms, also with the number of sun-spots. The theory of Arrhenius is that the sun emits a flood of corpuscles of a nature similar to X-rays, cathode rays, electrons, etc., and that these corpuscles on approaching the earth are acted on in the direction of the lines of its magnetic force, around which they describe helices.
