Several Mishaps on Highways

20 Montrealers Injured in Week-End Accidents

Eleven Hurt Near Shawbridge

Eleven persons were injured, all Montrealers, in a collision between three automobiles on the Laurentian highway just south of Shawbridge on Sunday evening. Seven of the injured were taken to Montreal hospitals.

It was learned that two of the automobiles were going north on the highway when one of them collided with a Montreal-bound automobile. The impact of the collision sent one of the vehicles crashing into the second north-bound car.

The three-way accident tied up heavy week-end traffic for nearly an hour as villagers, police and doctors rushed to the aid of the victims. Within a few minutes after the collision three doctors of the district were on the scene administering first-aid while five provincial traffic officers summoned ambulances from Ste. Agathe and St. Jerome.

Crossroads Crash

Nine persons, all Montrealers, were injured in a collision between two automobiles on the highway two miles south of St. Benoit Sunday morning. The victims were taken to Notre Dame Hospital in Montreal.

The accident occurred on what is known as Cote Rouge, part of the main highway between Montreal and the Lake of Two Mountains district.

In the collision both cars got out of control and one swerved into the gasoline pumps of the Mondou service station; these were broken and gasoline was spilled over the road. Fortunately no fire resulted or there might have been severe loss of life.

Provincial police officers learned that one of the cars was travelling towards St. Marc from Montreal, while the second auto was coming from Oka. At the Mondou service station the Oka road joins the main highway and both cars arrived at the junction at almost the same time. As the drivers lost control of their cars both turned over. One of them crashed into the gasoline tanks while the other ended up in the ditch.

Truck Drivers Jump as Vehicles Collide

Two men had a narrow escape from death in a collision between two heavy motor trucks on the highway near St. Hermas Saturday night. Both vehicles were badly damaged.

One of the trucks was driven by

TRADE AGREEMENT WITH UNITED STATES

Ottawa, August 30th. — The trade agreement between Canada and the United States will be completed some time in September. That is according to the latest reports from Washington, where three Dominion departmental officials skilled in matters of trade and diplomatic negotiations have been discussing details of the pact with Washington experts. While the progress of the negotiations has been held secret, it is clear that it hasn't been easy sailing for our representatives. While our treaty has been under negotiation an agreement between the United States and the United Kingdom has also been discussed. The two agreements are distinct, but it is obvious that each has a bearing on the other as readier access to the British market is desired by the United States and Canada enjoys preferences in that market under the British Empire trade agreements. With the long drawn out negotiations, it is natural that all sorts of rumors have been current of sacrifices made by Canada in preferences and of compensatory concessions in the tariffs of the United States. Mr. King, the Prime Minister, however, recently stated that "We have given up nothing, and nothing has been decided yet." So there the matter must rest until the pact is completed and its provisions made public. There can be no question that Canadians have a sympathetic interest in the objective of the Anglo-American pact, a closer economic Georges Forget, of St. Hermas, and contained 900 gallons of gasoline. The second truck was driven by G. Rodrigue, also of St. Hermas, and was loaded with four tons of gravel.

The two vehicles were passing each other on the highway and sideswiped. Both trucks swerved and the gasoline carrier was sent into the ditch several feet away. Both drivers were able to jump and get clear of the wrecks without serious injury.

Traffic Officer Has Ribs Crushed in City Collision

Struck by a west-bound car at the intersection of Craig and St. Denis streets, Montreal, on Monday afternoon, Provincial Traffic Officer H. Jones, of Lachute, was thrown over the handle-bars of his motorcycle and sustained chest injuries which necessitated hospital treatment. Jones was turning north into St. Denis when a car starting off in a westerly direction crashed into his machine. He was taken to Notre Dame Hospital by Traffic Inspector Croteau. An X-ray examination showed five ribs bruised and crushed. After being strapped with adhesive Jones was allowed to go home; he came out to Lachute with friends the same evening, and is off duty for a few days. His motorcycle was taken to the provincial police garage for repairs.

Govt. Grant $22,000 to Improve West-End Outlet

APPROPRIATION FOR RELIEF, TO EMPLOY HEADS OF 60 LACHUTE FAMILIES

An appropriation of $22,000 for improving the western outlet from Lachute Town as far as the Catholic Cemetery, has been procured from the Quebec Government through the sole efforts of Georges Héon, M.P., for Argenteuil. The need of road improvement at both ends of the town has long been evident, but Mr. Héon stresses that the grant is strictly a relief measure and will be devoted to employing the heads of 60 needy families during the most difficult months. Only $16,000 of the total grant is to be expended this fall, the remainder to be used for final surfacing of the road next season.

The town is relieved of any cost in this undertaking since, at the request of Mr. Héon, the Government has consented to bear the entire cost.

"There is something radically wrong with a motor that knocks all the time — likewise a man!"

"One Eyed" Autos Are Menace to Night Driving

Cars driven at night with only one headlight are a source of danger still prevalent on the highways of this section. On the narrow, dusty roads leading north from Brownsburg and Lachute, these one-eyed cars are too numerous, and in the clouds of dust that rise from heavy traffic returning to town after holidays and week-ends, they present a real menace. If motorists will continue to neglect their headlights, then the provincial traffic officers are urged to extend their good work in this county and give special attention to this offence.

7 Days in Jail for Drunken Driver, Permit Suspended

Arrested on a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor, Walter Tompkins, aged 30, of Lachute, appeared before Judge Monette in provincial traffic court at Montreal last week and was sentenced to seven days in jail, his operator's license also being suspended.

West of Simon's crossing on the Grenville highway, Traffic Constable Howard Jones, of Lachute, was proceeding on his duty Friday afternoon at 4.30, when he met Tompkins in a Dodge car driving in a hazardous manner. He is reported to have sideswiped Jones' motorcycle as he swerved from side to side — whereupon the constable turned and followed him. As he came across the C.P.R. track, Tompkins in navigating the turn swung onto the left side of the road, causing another westbound motorist to drive into the ditch in avoiding him.

At this juncture the officer drove alongside, and taking charge of the offender's car brought him to Lachute where, examined by a physician, he was stated to be in an intoxicated condition.

His car and license were confiscated, and pending instructions from provincial headquarters. Officer Jones lodged his man in the town jail, escorting him to Montreal later that evening. Arraigned before the judge, the offender received a minimum sentence of seven days on this charge and his license was revoked for an indefinite period.

"Get a Job in a Small Town", Says Roger Babson

(Swift Current Sun)

Roger Babson, statistician and publicist, hit the headlines recently by advising university graduates not to get married hastily but to get a job in a small town and to put their savings into a small farm. The Financial Post commenting agrees that the small town has always been a good place to live. "Today, any disadvantages it may have had as to distance and isolation have disappeared. Traditional qualities of friendliness, freedom and fresh air have been enhanced by most of the amenities of 'city' life."

Those of us living in small towns and sometimes looking longingly toward the glitter of the big city should realize that after all the real romance of living is where your friends are neighbors and your neighbors are friends. Only the small towns give that.

GOLF BY AUTOMOBILE

A golf match over a 148-mile course was played recently by two Detroit women with the aid of a LaSalle automobile. Covering 18 holes on 18 different courses, play began on a public links at the eastern end of the city and ended, after a circuit of Detroit golf clubs, on a west side public links. Following the match, Miss Margaret Russell, one of the players, alighted from the automobile and said "I'll never again be satisfied to walk around a golf course."

PARCEL POST, GRAIN ELEVATORS FOR WEST, POINTS IN GOVERNMENT PROGRAM 25 YEARS AGO

An editorial in The Watchman dated Aug. 29, 1913, lauds the record of the Borden Government during its two years of office. It is enlightening to recall Canada's national program of a quarter century ago. The Watchman points out that — Important harbor improvements are in progress on both oceans and the Great Lakes.

National Transcontinental Railway leaks have been stopped.

Difficulty arising from the Quebec Bridge disaster has been overcome by the establishment of a car ferry.

The Hudson Bay Railway and terminals are to be completed by 1915.

A system of publicly owned elevators is being established in the West.

A parcel post system will be in operation by the end of the year.

The Atlantic steamship service has been improved and the cable service cheapened.

The St. Lawrence steamship route is being safeguarded and dry docks provided to accommodate the largest ships.

To this . . . but for the action of Laurier partisans in the Senate . . . would have been added provision for the construction of good roads in all the provinces.

One Time It Didn't "Pay" to Advertise

OVER 1,600 BOTTLES OF COCA-COLA ARE GIVEN AWAY

Judging results by immediate cash returns, the J. P. MacKimmie & Sons Bottling Works found this week that it did not pay to advertise. However, they and the Coca-Cola Company, who gave away free drinks, were repaid with some good publicity in the response to a series of ads featured in The Watchman — the last of which included a coupon with which children might collect a gift at the factory yesterday afternoon. MacKimmie's, The Watchman's good neighbors on Foundry Street, were besieged by a flock of kids with coupons — not to mention the adult children — and each received a free bottle of Coca-Cola and a colorful hat advertising that beverage. The Company stood the expense; and they, with their Lachute distributors, will benefit accordingly by this publicity venture.

Recollections of August, 1914

"THE REAL PATRIOTISM MY COUNTRY NEEDS TODAY"

By Ivan Menzies

August is always a momentous month in England. It is the great holiday month of the year, when every family which can makes for the seaside or the country. In Scotland sportsmen start their great offensive against the wily grouse and the peace of the moors is disturbed by the cracking of many guns.

My mind goes back to that August in 1914 when the silence of the countryside was broken by the noise of a different kind of shooting. It seemed exciting to a young lad of eighteen to think that England was at war again, although it didn't appear to me to be a particularly Christian or even a sane way of adjusting international grievances. However, one couldn't leave the dirty work to the other fellow, and the only decent thing to do seemed to be to join the ranks of those prepared to suffer for their nation's honor.

As we waited for zero hour — 4 a.m. — when our barrage would lift and we would charge, or rather stagger across that piece of bullet and shell-swept "No-Man's Land," it didn't seem quite so exciting as the day the bands played and the crowds cheered as we left for the front. Something seemed wrong; it was like one of those horribly fantastic dreams from which you awake with relief. I prayed that I wouldn't be a coward and that I'd be killed outright rather than get one of the ghastly wounds I had seen some of my pals receive.

We had been told before going up to the line that "this was a war to end war, to make the world safe for others and bring lasting peace."

Voters Favor Prohibition By-law in Gore Township

BALLOTS CAST BY BETWEEN 50 AND 60 PER CENT OF VOTERS' LIST

In a referendum held Saturday in the Township of Gore, the council's prohibition by-law received support of the taxpayers to the tune of 77 votes for prohibition and 9 against. A petition had been presented to the council recommending the granting of beer and wine licenses in the municipality. This was followed by a more largely signed petition to prohibit the sale of liquors within the township. Acting on this latter request the council passed a prohibition by-law, and to give assurance that public sentiment was generally behind the measure, submitted it to a vote among the ratepayers last Saturday.

The poll was held at Lakefield school house. The total possible voters, according to the list, was over 190. The ballots cast numbered 87 — 77 for, 9 against, and one vote rejected.

Big Development for Tourist Trade at Mt. Tremblant

Thirty men began work this week building a broad trail to the top of Mont Tremblant, highest peak in the Laurentians. The cutting, which will serve as the passageway for an incline railway up the steep slope of the mountain, is being constructed by Joseph Ryan, of Philadelphia.

The railway (according to an account in the Montreal Gazette) will be the first of a series of projects to be undertaken in the Tremblant district by Mr. Ryan and which will include the construction of an ultra-fashionable hotel at the base of the mountain, after the fashion of the Sun Valley lodges.

Monarch of the Laurentian range, this mountain rises majestically from Lac Tremblant and has been one of the show-places of that part of the Laurentian Mountains for many years. A climb to its summit, to see the view from a government tower at its peak, is on the itinerary of every tour in the vicinity.

At the end of the highway that passes through St. Jovite and Lac Mercier the little village of Lac Tremblant stands at the base of the mountain, consisting of three hotels and a scattering of native homes and summer cottages.

Construction of an incline railway to the summit of the mountain is expected to change this picture materially. Already the countryside is beginning to bustle as a result of the improvements to the Mont Laurier highway and hotel keepers of the vicinity look to this latest development as another move that will benefit business in the area. Villagers of Lac Tremblant and Lac Mercier have been assured of sufficient day-labor until the snow is too deep this winter to proceed with the project.

Virgin territory until the construction of the Taschereau ski-run down its southern slope, the sides of Mont Tremblant are thickly wooded and the construction of an incline-railway is an engineering feat of some magnitude. It was stated that the railway would cost in the neighborhood of

1938 Tennis Titles Won, Finals at Local Club

DR. FINLAY McMARTIN AND MISS M. LAROCQUE WIN SEASON'S TROPHIES

In a final singles tournament last Thursday evening at the Plaisier-Vous Tennis Club, Dr. F. McMartin took the men's championship for 1938, playing against René Beauregard, and Miss Marthe Larocque took the ladies' title, playing against Miss Alice Bernier. Miss Bernier had taken the honors last year, while the laurels among the male stars were captured in 1937 by Mr. John Cheley. . . . The finals were witnessed by an enthusiastic crowd of onlookers.

A men's doubles tournament has been in progress for a trophy given by P. Lesperance through courtesy of the Slater Shoe Company. Finals are scheduled for this evening at 8.30 o'clock.

On the Labor Day holiday Plaisier-Vous players, single and double representations, will visit Hawkesbury.

$250,000. It is also reported that, in addition to the railway and hotel, Mr. Ryan plans to construct a bridge over the Devil's River at the base of the mountain, and a road to join the Mont Laurier highway at Lac Quimet.

Former County Girl Wins Coveted McGill Scholarship

Among the six winners of McGill University Entrance Scholarships, with a value of $800 a year, the name of Miss Helen M. Poole, a former St. Andrews girl, is noted. Miss Poole entered the examinations from Strathcona Academy, along with a total of 114 candidates from all parts of Canada, U.S., and foreign countries. The awards are open to contestants under 19½ years of age.

Miss Poole is a daughter of Mrs. E. G. Poole, formerly of Carleton and St. Andrews East, who before her marriage was Miss May G. Bryerton and during her residence here corresponded for The Watchman.

New Montreal - St. Jerome Route Near Completion

With completion of the pavement on the new road in the village of St. Janvier this week, the highway between Montreal and St. Jerome is nearly finished. Pavement is being laid on the thoroughfare between Ste. Rose and Ste. Therese and it is expected that this will be finished by the end of the week.

Traffic is allowed to pass on the northern cut-off below St. Jerome; the cut-off between Ste. Rose and Ste. Therese is not yet completed but when traffic is allowed to pass there it will mean that the distance between Montreal and St. Jerome will have been lessened by five miles over a wide and excellent highway.

Dancing "Corrigan Hop"

And now they're dancing the "Corrigan hop." The new swing dance, named for the Irish flyer, was demonstrated by Louis Stockman, Indianapolis, at the 25th convention of the Chicago Association of Dancing Masters. Stockman explained: "It consists of three running steps and four step-stops as you turn. It's a lot like the old barn dance."

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE IN HIGHWAY DEATH AT PETIT BRULÉ LAST JUNE

Henri Provost, of Montreal, charged with manslaughter following an automobile accident, in which Leopold Brissou, 19, of Montreal, was killed on June 25 at Petit Brulé, appeared before District Magistrate Lalande at St. Jerome and was held for voluntary statement on September 8. He was released on bail of $950.

Provost had not been held criminally responsible for Brissou's death when an inquest was held in Montreal, but last week he was arrested on orders from the Attorney General.

Witnesses testified that Provost had been engaged by Mrs. Georges Poirier, of Montreal, to drive her to Papineauville on June 25 to attend the wedding of her cousin, Dr. Lorenzo Brissou, M.V. He had taken her there and attended the wedding breakfast.

When the return journey was proposed, Mrs. Poirier decided to ride in another auto, but the victim, Leopold Brissou, the groom's brother, chose to ride in the taxi with a friend, George Fortin, of Papineauville. The latter testified that after driving 100 feet he had ordered a stop and alighted as he was afraid to ride in the car.

Other witnesses said they had seen the Provost car zigzag on the road. At Petit Brulé, east of Belle Rivière, at 4 o'clock that afternoon, the automobile skidded into the ditch and stopped against a tree stump.

A nearby resident, A. Neveu, testified he had gone to the scene and aided Provost, who was injured to get out of the wreck and Provost had asked him to help the other occupant of the car, whose foot was pinned in the wreckage. Brissou was freed. Later he was taken to hospital in Montreal, where he died the next day.

Both Neveu and Constable Joly, of the Provincial Police, who investigated the accident, stated that while Provost was very nervous he spoke rationally.

A non-suit motion was made, by Giles Levesque, representing Provost, but Crown Attorney Camille de Martigny asked that the accused be sent for voluntary statement and the court decided there was sufficient material to warrant holding of the accused.

Says Rector Made the Town a Laughing Stock

The town council of Wednesbury, Staffordshire, (Eng.), has decided to ask the Bishop of Lichfield to investigate statements made by Rev. G. I. Soden, rector of St. James's, Wednesbury.

The statements are that wife-beating is common locally, that adults and children are illiterate, and that townfolk are living and working in bad conditions.

Councillor T. King, representative of the ward in which the rectory stands, offered to resign his seat and challenge the rector, or a nominee, to contest an election on the issues raised. These, he said, had "made Wednesbury the butt of music-hall comedians."

Boss — "Are you doing anything Sunday evening?"

Gatineau Town Bans Men Wearing Shorts

Burbridge, Que., a town 85 miles north of Ottawa, is believed to be the first Canadian municipality to ban the wearing of shorts by men in public.

Complaints by village residents of "immodest" and "immoral" costumes worn by summer residents, male and female, resulted in the town council passing a by-law banning shorts on its streets or in any public place within its limits.

Signs are posted around the town warning visitors of the council's decree. A specially-appointed constable patrols the village borders to warn visitors that they risk arrest if they wear shorts in the corporate limits.

Other Gatineau municipalities have by-laws against "immodest" dress but in most towns men are not troubled even though they wear shorts.

Sherbrooke Phone Book Drops English Listing

Sheriff J. P. C. Lemieux made a statement to the press last week at Sherbrooke to the effect that the Province of Quebec is a French province and that all English citizens should be expected to know the French language.

The incident centered around the publication of the latest edition of the telephone directory which eliminated the classification of the "Court House" and listed same under the title of "Palais de Justice." Previously, the listing had been made under both English and French titles.

Queried as to the cause of the omission, Dr. Lemieux assumed full responsibility and stated that he saw no reason why the court house or any other building should not be listed under the French title.

Gearless Auto Device Announced in England

The inventor of a revolutionary gearless automobile declares his invention adaptable to many types of motors, from airplanes to the steam turbines of ocean liners.

Piero Salerni, middle-aged Italian, had worked secretly for several years in London before the plans were disclosed recently to the British Association for the Advancement of Science. He promised manufacturing rights would be placed at the disposal of the automobile industry in all countries.

"My invention will not be allowed to become the monopoly of any one firm of motor manufacturers," he said.

Tending Gardens in Autumn Time

Gardens everywhere are now at the most alluring stage, and provide opportunity for the enthusiastic amateurs to observe what new varieties, combinations, contrasts and cultural methods may best serve to enhance the loveliness of their own creative efforts, says G. R. Snyder, Soil Chemist.

New conceptions can be put into practice at once, for the late summer and early fall is an excellent time for the establishment or improvement of lawns and perennial borders, and the setting out of the ever popular pansy, forget-me-not and English daisy.

For fall planting, however, great care is required in the preparation of the soil. Early, vigorous growth is essential if the plants are to become well established before cold weather sets in. Plant food for a character that will promote both vegetable and strong root growth is required in abundance and in readily available form. To build up this food supply a complete garden fertilizer of the type of a 4-10-8 may be applied previous to planting, at the rate of two lbs. per 100 square feet, and thoroughly mixed with the soil to a depth of two to three inches. Later in the season, say in October, a supplemental application of a high phosphate fertilizer of the type of O-16-6 may be used to further stimulate root development primarily and to fortify the plants against the rigours of winter.

Lawn improvement begins with the elimination of weeds. Dandelions can be discouraged by treating the individual plants with a shot of chemical weed killer. For the control of plantain, a very dilute solution of sodium arsenite, used as a spray, has interesting possibilities; properly applied, it cleans out the plantain without permanent injury to the grass. Weeds flourish when the turf is thin and can best be controlled by maintaining a thick grass sward through the practice of early fall feeding of the entire lawn.

When making plans for fall planting, the preparation of mulching material for the lawn should not be overlooked.

Well rotted manure and good loam soil built up in layers of a few inches in thickness and well watered should be ready for use before the cold weather sets in.

Gardens that provide interest, beauty and pleasure every day are not the product of chance, but rather the result of an accumulation of ideas developed by intelligent cooperation with nature and science.

gears and clutch in Salerni's engine, which it is claimed would use less gasoline, increase tire mileage and quicken acceleration.

In presenting the plans to the association, Professor Frederick C. Lea declared tests over 65,000 miles had demonstrated the practicality of the device and shown it to be "simpler and less costly" than the orthodox gear and clutch mechanism.

The London Evening News, however, criticized the invention as being an impracticable development of an old device and said editorially that "as far as the public is concerned the gearless car is in the same class as that still undiscovered vegetable which combines the onion's taste with the violet's smell."

Reverting to the Dark Ages

We don't envy any prison warden his job. But if the Holmesburg, Pennsylvania, prisoners were 'roasted' to death for punishment— then with all our boasted civilization, we must admit that humanity is reverting to the dark ages.

The thumbscrew and rack has nothing on this for cruelty. The mental torture of four men in solitary confinement who were "steam heated" to death, must be beyond human comprehension. And if the Bible teaching is right that for every pain we cause unjustly there is a commensurate one awaiting us sometime, somewhere in the future, just what is coming to those who inflicted this agony?

Modern methods of prison reform may be faulty on the side of leniency, but such brutality is a smirch upon civilization which should never be repeated.

Labor Day and the Laboring Man

Labor Day has been set aside as a day on which we pause and reflect on the worth of labor and the importance of the laboring man in the present scheme of things. Never before in the history of mankind's climb from savagery to slavery, from slavery to serfdom, and from serfdom to civilization, has the laboring man received so much attention nor so nearly his fair share of the combination of management, capital and labor.

A graphic, if somewhat dispiriting, picture of working conditions in a factory of the better type is to be found in Harper's Magazine for September. Stoyan Pribichevich, an exile from Yugoslavia, says in part: "The workers work hard all their lives and get enough for a living, sometimes a comfortable living, but never enough to stop working. 'Once in a shop, always in a shop,' was the gloomy refrain in every department. Sitting on wooden boxes or machine levers at lunch time, we often exchanged confidences and talked about our intimate ambitions. The older workers would shake their heads, telling of twenty or thirty years spent in the shops. The young ones would dreamily speak of their hopes for the future. A fine machine operator said bitterly: 'I get sick looking at this machine. Shall I run it when I am fifty? What a life!'"

Most citizens have their turn at some kind of labor, and as this writer also points out, we all enjoy the fine camaraderie that exists between the humblest worker and the man who has risen from the ranks.

On Labor Day let us again honor all labor — of hand and heart and head.

Creating Unnecessary Noise

"Quiet Please" near the hospitals of most Canadian cities is about the only effort needed to keep noises within reason. Not so in New York.

The world's busiest police department still finds time to devote its attention to noise-makers, it was revealed recently, as Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine reported that 14,477 citizens have received summonses for creating unnecessary din during the past six months.

New York police cracked down hard on the noisy automobile and summoned 6,842 offenders to court. Over 1,000 peddlers and 575 "loud and boisterous" people also received summonses. In addition, 248 radio owners were brought before a judge because they had their sets on too loud and too late, and 17 because their pets annoyed the neighbors. Loud horns of all types brought reprimands to 2,187 more. A total of 183,982 were warned for all types of noise offenses.

"Criminal decibels are a real menace to society," declares Dr. Walter Eddy, director of Good Housekeeping Institute, in August issue of that magazine. Continuous loud noises may cause premature old age, indigestion, baldness, neuritis, high blood pressure — and, of course, deafness, the article points out.

Decibels, explains Dr. Eddy in his article, are the units by which sound is measured and the human ear cannot stand more than 120 of them. Workers exposed to from 60 to 80 decibels for 25 years in noisy industries showed 26.9 per cent deafness, according to a test made by the New York State Department of Labor recently on 1,040 men.

Sitting Pretty

A few weeks ago we were told that if we had $50 on hand, we possessed the average amount of money that there is per person in circulation. Today we were informed that the corrected version is that we need only have $49.58. Now if thirty of our delinquent subscribers will each pay $1.50, a year's subscription, we will be sitting pretty. That is, we will be pretty near the average; we already have $4.50 in our pocket.

Philosophy of Prejudice

Man's life is full of crosses and prejudices. He comes into the world without his consent, and goes out of it against his will, and the trip is very rocky.

If he is poor, he is a waster; if he is rich, he is dishonest.

If he is prosperous, everybody wants him; if he is a failure, he is no good.

If he is in politics, it's for graft; if he is out of politics, he is no good to the country.

If he gives for charity, it is for show; if he does not, he is mean.

If he is actively religious, he is a hypocrite; if he is not, he is a wicked cuss. If he shows affection, he is soft; if not, he is selfish. If he dies young, there was a great future before him; if he dies old, he has lived on other people.

If he saves his money, he is a miser; if he spends freely, he doesn't earn it.

If he speaks the truth, nobody believes him; if he tells lies by the dozen, he is a good salesman. If he dresses well, he hasn't paid for his clothes; if he is shabby, he is a tramp and a drinker. If he speaks well, he is showing off; if he does not, he is ignorant. If he is silent, he is a snob; if he talks too much, he has no brains. — Exch.

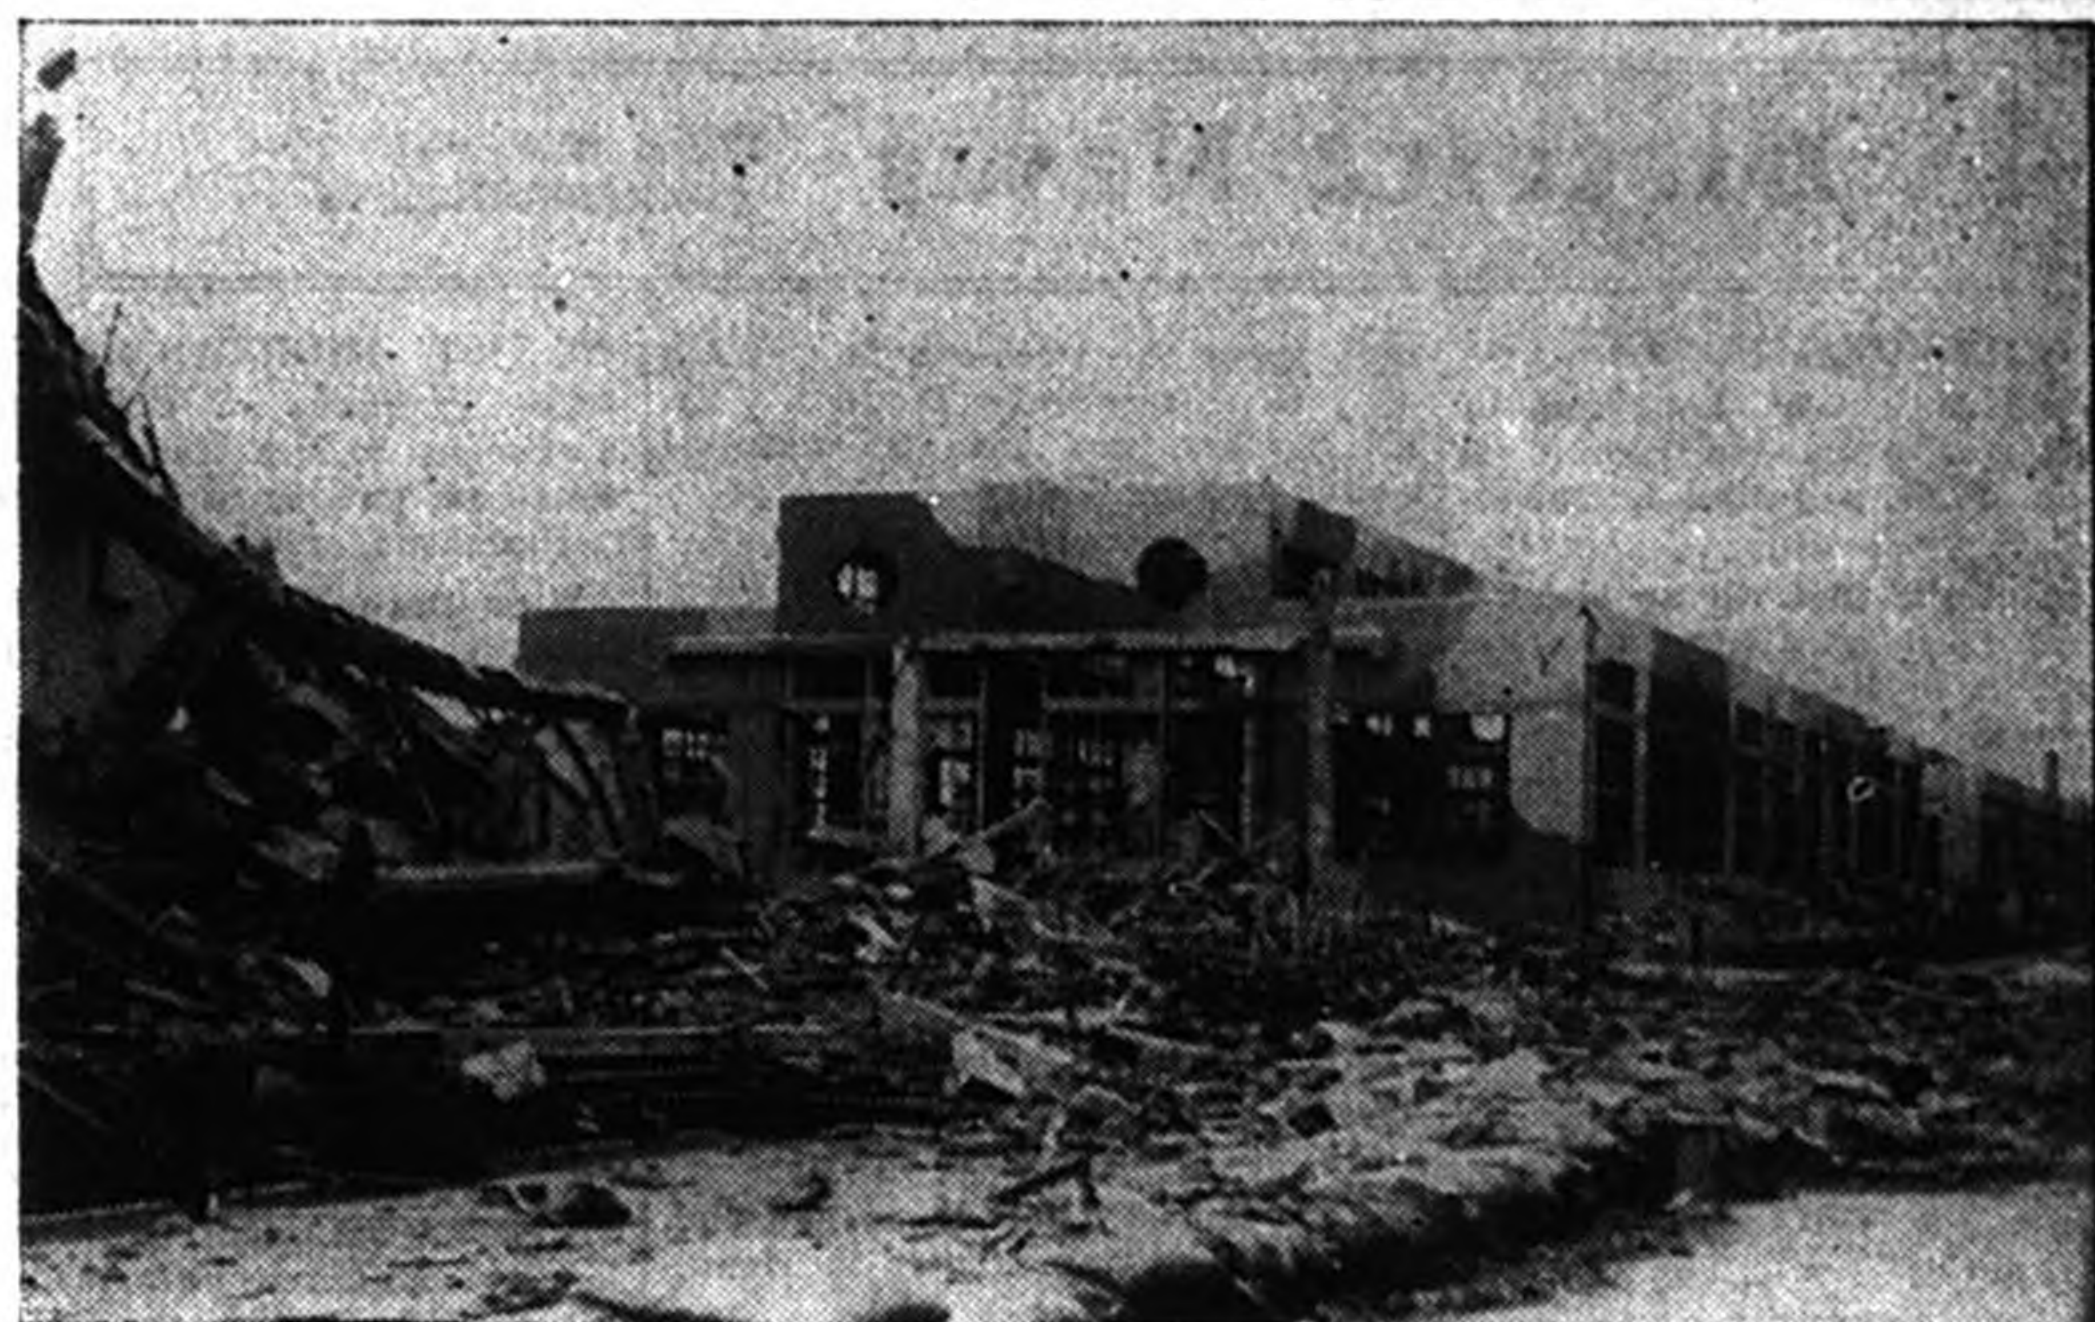

WHEAT MARKETING

Officials of the Department of Agriculture at Washington, who have been attending the International Conference of Agricultural Economists at Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Quebec, have been for a day in Ottawa discussing the export wheat situation with departmental officials here. The parley is believed to have been informative, not policy forming, as the participants were permanent officials. In view of the uncertainty about the range of wheat prices because of heavy supplies throughout the world, there is naturally a keen interest in what form of export subsidy is likely to be adopted by the United States to ensure a sale of 100 million bushels abroad. There is a fairly strong feeling evident in Canada to carry out its own selling program without any sort of arrangement with the United States which might be interpreted in markets abroad as a tendency to curtail shipments and bolster prices.

TURNABOUT

The travelling salesman became more puzzled as to how the store kept alive. Finally he asked: "How in the world do you make a go of things at all?" Indicating the clerk, who was at the far end of the counter, the storekeeper replied: "You see that fellow there? Well, he works for me, and I can't pay him. In two years he gets the store. Then I work for him till I get it back."

City Man: "Is this a restful place?" Native: "Well, it used to be until folks began comin' here for a rest."

WALT DISNEY, CARTOONIST

HE MADE A FORTUNE OUT OF A MOUSE AND THREE PIGS

Not many years ago Walt Disney, the man who created Mickey Mouse and the Three Little Pigs, was almost unknown. Today he is one of the most famous men in America.

Not so long ago Walt Disney was "broke." Today he is very wealthy. He could swank about in a glittering Rolls Royce, if he wanted to; but instead, he uses an old car that he bought second-hand. He takes all of his profits and plows them back into his business. He says that making better pictures interests him far more than piling up millions.

Walt Disney used to live in Kansas City, and he was ambitious to be an artist; so, one day, he went to the Kansas City Star to get a job. The editor examined his drawings, told him he didn't have any real talent, discouraged him, and sent him away with a broken heart.

Finally he got a poorly paid job making drawings for churches. He couldn't afford to rent an office, so he had to use his father's garage for his studio. He thought at the time it was hardship, but he realizes now that working amidst the grease and gasoline smells of that garage gave him an idea that was worth a million dollars.

It happened in this way: One day, a mouse started playing on the floor of the wooden garage. Disney stopped and looked at him; and then went into the house and got some crumbs and fed him.

As the days went by, that mouse became so friendly, that he would climb up on top of Disney's drawing board.

Disney finally went out to Hollywood and started a series of animated cartoons called "Oswald the Rabbit," but that was a flat failure. So again he soon found himself without money and without a job.

One day he was sitting in a rooming house, trying to think up an idea, when suddenly there popped into his mind the mouse who used to climb on his drawing board in the Kansas City garage.

Instantly he started to sketch a mouse — and that's how Mickey Mouse was born. That mouse in Kansas City, long since dead and gone, was the great grandfather of the most famous motion picture actor the world has ever known. Mickey Mouse gets more fan letters than any other actor in the films; and he frolics across the screen in more different countries than any other actor in the world.

Walt Disney himself devotes all of his time to thinking up ideas for pictures; and when he gets an idea he discusses it with his staff of twelve assistants in the story department. One day about two years ago, he suggested to his staff that they make a picture out of a nursery story that his mother had read to him as a child — the story of the Three Little Pigs and the Big, Bad Wolf.

His assistants shook their heads, and turned down their thumbs. Disney said he tried to forget about the idea; but he simply couldn't. However, every time he suggested it, his staff warned him it would be a "flop."

Finally, the staff said, "All right. Let's go ahead with it," but they didn't have much faith in it.

It takes ninety days to make a Mickey Mouse film; but they didn't propose to waste that much time on Three Little Pigs. No one in the studio thought it would amount to much. Yet it took the country by storm.

It was a sensational success. Everyone, from the cotton fields of Georgia to the apple orchards of Oregon, was soon singing "Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Wolf, the Big Bad Wolf, the Big Bad Wolf?"

He plays baseball every day at noon, and he occasionally plays polo; but he says he gets more of a real thrill out of his work than he does out of his play.

"I'll go crazy if business doesn't get better; I'm up to my neck in debt." "Same here; and I'm much taller than you."

ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY PROJECT

Until definite word is given by the Dominion Government, the question of the St. Lawrence waterway, which was so urgently advocated by President Roosevelt when he officiated at the opening of the Thousand Islands bridge, must remain obscure. Mr. King had said that "the latest United States offer affords a practical basis of discussion and has opened a new chapter in the consideration of the waterway problem." He also pointed out that co-operation of the Hydro-Electric Commission and the government of Ontario would be necessary for the utilization of the power at Niagara and the St. Lawrence. The Dominion Government will shortly reply to Premier Hepburn's letter in which he opposed the project because of a surplus of power already on hand and because the waterway would mean new competition for the railways, whose problems are still unsolved.

DISPUTE OVER MACHINE GUN CONTRACT

The accusation that there has been waste in a large contract for machine gun manufacture, let by the Department of National Defence, has been vigorously denied by the Department. In an article in Maclean's magazine, Lt. Col. Drew claims that the Bren machine gun contract with the John Inglis Company of Toronto means a much larger profit for the manufacturer than appeared in statements made in the House of Commons by Mr. Mackenzie, Minister of National Defence. Not only does the company receive the ten per cent profit on cost which Mr. Mackenzie mentioned, says Col. Drew, but also a list of company expenses are paid by the Government, which brings the total profit considerably higher.

In its reply, which is a sharp denial of Col. Drew's statements, the Department of National Defence states that the British and Canadian Governments have exactly similar contracts with the John Inglis Company. Copies of the contract were given to members of Parliament and were widely published. There is nothing "mysterious" about the contract. "The British Government," says the statement, "in pursuance of its policy of creating 'shadow factories' as a means of developing reserve manufacturing resources against an emergency, has evolved a type of contract appropriate to this purpose. The Inglis contract is exactly of that type." The estimated saving to the Canadian Government as compared to a sole contract is $1,300,000. The Canadian contract is for 7,000 Bren machine guns, the British for 5,000. The cost of the guns is expected to be $8,000,000, according to Col. Drew. The department points out that the actual estimate is $6,500,000. Many of the facts in the article, the statement of the department says, are inaccurate and inferences are misleading.

Jailer Dismissed, Rumored Dissatisfaction at St. Jerome

Albini Brunet, jailer at St. Jerome for the past two years, has been notified by the Quebec authorities that his services will no longer be required. No reason was given for the dismissal nor was there any mention of who was to be his successor.

In conjunction with the dismissal of the jailer rumors circulated to the effect that the prothonotary, Leopold Nantel, and the sheriff, Ed. Scully, would resign shortly. Both these officials denied the rumor. Other gossip, according to a local press correspondent, had it that Herman Barrette, member of Terrebonne, was also about to resign.

"Jai-Alai," Ball Game, Rivals the Bull Fight

"Jai-alai," better known as "pelota" (meaning ball in Spanish), is a game somewhat similar to handball, which originated in the Basque provinces of France and Spain. In parts of Spain, it rivals bull fights in popularity, says a writer in the Detroit News. Originally "pelota" was played with hand, naked or gloved, or with a stick, but now a stout basket-work gauntlet, called a "cestus" or "chistera" is used. This basket, a Basque invention first used at Ascan, France, revolutionized the game by increasing the propelling power of the players and the carrying force of the ball.

The game may be played either indoors or outdoors and requires a cement court, 200 feet long and 65 feet wide, with at least two walls 36 feet high. Four walls may be used. There are usually four players and among the professionals are men who have done little else since boyhood. The ball is of solid rubber, small and weighs about four ounces. During play, the ball is bounced from wall to "cestus" and must be kept in motion. The game is very popular in the Basque provinces, Spain, Cuba and South America. According to the Americana Encyclopedia, "It is claimed for this game that it requires a better eye, more speed, activity and surer control over every muscle of the body than any other sport."

Obituary

LATE MRS. B. HAMMOND

The funeral of the late Mrs. Ben Hammond (Helen), eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Wason, took place Friday, August 26th, at 2:30 p.m. from her late residence in Lachute.

First U. S. Nickel Was

Coin in Year of 1866

The first five-cent piece was coined in 1866. This was more than two hundred years after the date when the first silver coins were used in America. These were the New England shilling, sixpence and threepence, made in simple thin planchets of silver having N. E. stamped on one side, and XII, VI or III stamped on the other. The first nickel showed the United States shield, surmounted by a cross with sections of an olive wreath pendent at each side. On the reverse was the circle of thirteen stars and rays enclosing a large "5."

The next year, according to a writer in the New York Times, there were two types of "nickel five," one in the original style and another with the "rays" omitted from the reverse. In 1863 there was an entire change in the style of the five-cent coin. Two varieties were issued. On the obverse of both was a Liberty head, facing left, with a coronet on the forehead, inscribed "Liberty." The hair here is knotted, with a single curl escaping down the neck; six stars front the face with seven above and behind the head.

On the reverse of one 1863 issue is a Roman "V" encircled by two half wreaths of corn, cotton, wheat and tobacco. The ends are joined beneath by a ribbon. The legend, "United States of America" is around the border. The motto "E Pluribus Unum," which first appeared on the half-eagle in 1795, appears in smaller letters on this nickel.

On the reverse of the second of the two five-cent coins issued in 1863 there is the same "V" and wreath, but the exergue is changed to read "Cents." The legend is the same as the first coin in this series with an "o" at each end. "E Pluribus Unum" is transferred to the field above the wreath and between it and the legend.

was it? What was this new world to be like for which millions had fought and bled, and died? Certainly it wasn't the sort of world we had pictured where even the "winners" seemed to have lost heavily. Unemployment, strikes and divorce seemed to fill the headlines instead of sensational war news. How futile it all seemed now! Eleven and a half million lives sacrificed — for what?

Then one day I met another army: "Vanguard of the New Enlistment" it was called. The thing that struck me most about it was that it was free — free for re-making the world. It was out to realize the new world for which we had fought four years. The real enemies, it said, were materialism and moral rot. It had the finest and most up-to-date armament for beating them — moral and spiritual armament — and an army of spiritual revolutionaries and life changers who were enlisting. They were above class or creed, therefore, they included every class, and above nation, so included every nation. They were out to mobilize every man, every woman, every child in this mobile army for bringing the British Empire under God's control.

Obviously force had failed, human effort and wisdom had failed, and some even said Christianity had failed; but I knew that I for one had never really tried Christianity, so how could it be said to have failed? Here was something we who lived could do, especially we who had been discharged "unfit for further service." I saw clearly what we could do now to save our Empire, to live or die victors and bring peace to the world.

Our Empire had got to be reborn; but before that it was obvious that men had got to be reborn and I couldn't think of a better person to start with than myself. I saw the vision of every "ex-service man" guided by God and part of His nation's new rearmament plan, spiritually and morally fit and "fit for active service" and training the raw recruits of the new world army.

Men with an Experience

It costs roughly eight millions to build a battleship. Supposing our country spent that sum on sending out "squads" of men as her representatives, men with an experience of Jesus Christ in their own lives and so with a solution of their own problems able to solve the problems in the countries they visited, our nation would earn the respect and gratitude of her neighbors and save herself huge sums of money.

That, I see, is the strongest defence any nation could have and that is the army I'm in now and marked "Fit again for active service." I feel this is the real patriotism my country needs today and challenges me to care enough to sacrifice my life for, or what is harder still, sacrifice my own dishonesty, impurity, selfishness and lack of love. Every recruit enlisted in that kind of army brings the objective of world change a step nearer.

Did You Say GOLF?

(Contributed)

Those who play golf seem to disdain the weather man, as the local club had a fairly large turnout on Wednesday evening for the Weekly Mixed Competition to decide the winners for prizes donated by Mr. A. A. McQuat.

A Two-Ball Foursome Putting Competition was played, and the lucky ones (as shall we say, champions) proved to be none other than our Lady President, Mrs. Charles Duncan, partnered by Mr. Geo. Tattersfield, with a score of ten putts for the seven holes played. (Congrats, Alison!).

On Monday next, Sept. 5th, Labor Day, a Four-Ball Foursome is scheduled to commence at 2.00 p.m. sharp for the Captain's prize — this will be for eighteen holes. Enter your name now. Make the most of this because, from a golfing standpoint, it's the last week-day holiday.

Will members kindly reserve Saturday afternoon, Sept. 10th, for the Annual Field Day, when we expect to have about twelve prizes in all, to be awarded both as novelty and score prizes. This will be followed by supper, served by our ever-faithful and competent ladies (bless 'em) and distribution of prizes won during the 1938 season.

Members are respectfully asked for a liberal contribution to cover the expense of the extra prizes being given, and the Executive look for a ready response to their appeal. Donations will be gladly received at any time, either through the manager, Mr. Frank Scott, or any of the captains. Start right now. Can we depend on you fellow members to put this thing over?

City Choir at Presbytn. Service in Mille Isles

Cambria — The Rev. Dr. W. D. Reid conducted service in the Presbyterian Church at Mille Isles last Sunday evening, assisted by his son, Mr. Stanford Reid, who has had charge of the field this summer. It was encouraging to see so large a congregation, the church being well filled.

The choir from Livingston Presbyterian Church motored out for the service, and their singing was much appreciated. Rev. Dr. Reid dispensed communion and seven young people joined the church, which speaks well for Mr. Stanford Reid's summer pastorate here.

"Before we married," she sighed, "you used to call me by long distance just to hear my voice."

"Well," retorted her husband, "now you won't let me get far enough away to use long distance!"

MacDonald-Dawson

The marriage of Miss Mary Elizabeth Grace, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dawson, of Lakefield, to Mr. Haddon Ira MacDonald, fourth son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry MacDonald, was solemnized at eight o'clock Saturday evening, August 27th, in Holy Trinity Church, Lakefield, by the Rev. C. W. P. Baugh.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with hydrangea, gladioli and other fall flowers, by the Rev. Mr. A. E. Mount. The wedding music was played by Mr. G. F. W. Kuhring.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white chiffon gown over white taffeta, with a full length veil caught with orange blossoms and royal myrtle. She carried a shower bouquet of sweet-heart roses and gypsophila. Her attendants were her sister, Mrs. Edgar Morrow, as matron-of-honor, and Miss Grace Foster, bridesmaid, who wore dresses of pale pink flowered chiffon and carried bouquets of pink sweet peas and gypsophila.

Mr. William MacDonald was best man for his brother, the ushers being Mr. Edgar Morrow, Mr. Glenn Dawson and Mr. Ronald Dawson.

Mrs. Dawson, the bride's mother, wore a gown of dove grey crepe with hat to match and a corsage bouquet of mauve sweet peas. Mrs. MacDonald, mother of the groom, wore a navy blue crepe gown with hat to match, and a corsage of sweet peas and gypsophila.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the decorations were autumn flowers. Afterwards Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald left by motor for a wedding trip, the bride travelling in a navy blue ensemble with matching accessories. On their return they will live in Lakefield.

Among the out-of-town guests were — Mr. and Mrs. John Young, Mr. and Mrs. Crawford Davis of Island Pond, Vt.; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Meredith, Mr. Roland Meredith, Miss Pauline Meredith and Miss Norma Christie, of Cookshire, Que.

Keys Preceded by Seals in Tent-Dwellers' Days

Keys were preceded by the seals and intricate knots (of which the Gordian knot is an example) used to protect their property. When tents had given away to houses with wooden doors, a different kind of fastening was necessary and by slow degrees the key was evolved as we know it, writes Alice R. Rollins in the Los Angeles Times.

In some ancient writings mention is made of a "well-bent key." This is presumed to be the early sickle-shaped key found in parts of England (attributed to the Celtic period) as well as foreign countries. These implements were inserted through a hole in the outside of the door and displaced a hook or bolt on the inside. As the shape was similar to that of a sickle, they were not easily carried in the hand because of their inconvenient form, but were carried on the shoulder as a reaper carries a sickle. The passage in Isaiah, "And the key of the House of David will I lay upon his shoulder," probably refers to such a key, here symbolic of authority.

In medieval days, even though a besieged city was razed to the ground, the surrender was not complete without the further humiliation of handing over the keys. This corresponds to our custom of presenting the keys of the city to an honored guest.

Transatlantic Steamship Service

On April 23, 1838, Great Western, the first steamship built expressly for transatlantic service, reached New York, having left Bristol, England, on April 8. A few hours earlier, Sirius, chartered for a single trip, had arrived from Cork. Great crowds acclaimed their arrival, of which one New York editor wrote, in terms not unlike those used by others many years later in writing of the inauguration of transoceanic telephone service: "A new era has come upon us—skill, science and enterprise have brought us in closer contact with a fatherland.... Time and space have been measurably annihilated.... Two great nations have had the bonds of national friendship and fraternal feeling more securely rooted around them."

The Adventures of Tom Sawyer

Fiction Serial from the UNITED ARTISTS Technicolor Film

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Tom Sawyer, St. Petersburg, Missouri's most lovable bad boy, is in real trouble. He and Huck Finn have witnessed the graveyard murder during a wart-curing expedition. When Muff Potter is arrested for the crime they dare not protest for fear of Injun Joe's vengeance. Tom's light o'love, Becky Thatcher, has deserted him too, shocked by his confidences about her predecessor. In desperation, Tom resolves to run away and persuade Huck Finn and Joe Harper to join him. They start out on their career as river pirates, sailing down the Mississippi on a raft of river logs, with the determination never to return until they were old men and had made their fortunes.

"Shove off, pirates bold."

It was Tom Sawyer speaking. He had aided in the "capture" of a small log raft, and, like Joe Harper, had raided the family larder. Huck had brought a few useful articles, and the raft was well loaded.

About 2 o'clock in the morning, the raft grounded on the bar at the head of the island.

Tom woke first the next dawn, stirred up the other pirates, and they all tumbled into the river for a swim. The raft had drifted away, but that was only a minor misfortune, as it had been unloaded the night before. They fished and swam all morning, and in the afternoon, drowsed in the shade. They were awakened by a deep, sullen boom. They sprang to their feet, and hastened over to the Missouri side of the island, screening themselves in the bushes.

There drifted the ferry boat, about a mile below the village, and pres-looked in at the sitting room window, for a light was burning there. There sat Aunt Polly, Sid, Mary and Joe Harper's mother, grouped together talking.

As Tom listened, he gradually formed a higher opinion of himself, and his boyish virtues. He learned also, that hope for himself and his companions had been lost when their raft had been found stranded five or six miles below the village, and a magnificent funeral service would be held in their memory the following Sunday.

Tom hurried back to the camp, and life there went on in happy, carefree fashion until Sunday, but there was no corresponding hilarity in St. Petersburg. The Harpers and Aunt Polly's family prepared for a season of mourning, with voluble grief, and many tears. The climax came Sunday morning.

None could remember when the little church had been so full. There was finally a waiting pause, an expected dumbness, and then Aunt Polly entered, followed by Sid and Mary. Then came the Harper family, all in deep black, and the whole congregation, the old minister as well, rose reverently and stood until the mourners were seated in the front row.

"Dear friends," said the minister, "we are gathered here to pay solemn and loving tribute to the memory of three fine and beautiful young boys, cut off in the fullness of life's morn."

"They have sailed away from life's tempestuous sea into the harbor of the blest before the harsh chisel of experience could brush out the dew still clinging to the petals of their spirit."

The minister spoke on and on. He

Beavers Come to Town

Experiences in Canada's National Parks have demonstrated that the beaver, long regarded as an animal which very definitely preferred its own company to that of human beings, is really more sociable with man than has been supposed. The beaver, like the other so-called "wild" animals of Canada, responds to the human friendliness which he finds in the national parks. He is an intelligent animal, very quick to sense danger, but once convinced that humans mean him no harm, he proceeds about his business.

However, this fraternal feeling is not confined solely to the parks. At Red Deer, Alberta, beaver operating in Waskason Creek have actually invaded the city limits.

Few animals can be regarded as so typically Canadian as the beaver. From the earliest times he has been associated with the history of Canada. His industry and intelligence are held to represent outstanding qualities of Canadian character. In preserving him, and bringing his true qualities to public recognition, the national parks have done a national service.

Moe — How do you like this chimney sweeping job?

Joe — Oh, it soots me.

simple word is above suspicion, we have fastened this awful crime upon the unhappy prisoner at the bar. We rest our case here."

A groan escaped poor Potter. Counsel for the defense rose and said:

"Your honor, our remarks at the opening of this trial foreshadowed our purpose to prove our client did this awful deed under the influence of drunken delirium. We have changed our mind. We shall withdraw that plea and enter a plea of 'not guilty.'" Then to the clerk:

"Call Thomas Sawyer."

Puzzled amazement stared from every face, including Potter's. Every eye was turned on Tom as he took the stand.

"Thomas Sawyer, where were you on the 17th of June, about midnight?"

A contemptuous smile crossed Injun Joe's face.

"Now, my boy, tell us everything, and don't be afraid."

Tom began, hesitantly, but as he warmed to his subject words flowed easily. Emotional strain was climaxed when the boy said "... we saw the fight. Muff got knocked unconscious. He didn't kill Dr. Robinson. The one that stabbed him was —"

Quick as a flash Injun Joe sprang to his feet and hurled his knife. It barely missed the witness. Injun Joe got away.

Tom heard glad news the following Friday morning; Becky Thatcher's picnic was set for the next day.

Early next morning hay wagons filled with laughing and singing children, chaperoned by a few young ladies and gentlemen, stopped at the mouth of a wooded valley, three miles below town.

The crowd scattered about and soon the vicinity echoed with shouts and laughter. After the feast there was a season of rest under spreading oaks, then somebody shouted: "Let's go to the cave."

Everybody was ready. Bundles of candles were provided and there was a general scamper up the hillside. McDougal's cave was a vast labyrinth of crooked aisles. A person might wander days and nights through its intricate tangle of rifts and chasms, and never find the end. No man "knew" the cave. Many of the young men knew part of it, and it was not customary to venture much beyond this known portion. Tom knew, as much of the cave as anyone.

By and by, one group after another came straggling back out, panting, smeared with yellow drip-

The Guy in the Glass

When you get what you want in your struggle for pelf,
And the world makes you king for a day,
Then go to a mirror and look at yourself,
And see what that guy has to say.

For it isn't your Father, or Mother, or Wife,
Whose judgment on you must pass.
The fellow whose verdict counts most in your life,
Is the guy staring back from the glass.

He's the feller to please, never mind all the rest,
For he's with you clear up to the end.

And you've passed your most dangerous, difficult task,
If the guy in the glass is your friend.

You may be like Jack Horner and "chisel" a plum,
And think you're a wonderful guy,
But the man in the glass says you're only a bum,
If you can't look him straight in the eye.

You can fool the whole world down a pathway of years,
And get pats on the back as you pass,
But your final reward will be heart aches and tears,
If you've cheated the guy in the glass.

A PLEASANT INTERLUDE

I have been living the life of Riley the last few weeks. We have been staying at a private hotel and any woman who plans and cooks three meals a day for years on end, knows what a treat it is to sit down to meals that someone else has prepared. It has been a relief to feel that if the other members of the family did not like the meals, there wasn't a thing I could do about it. I do considerable experimental cooking for this column and have trained my family to be critical. Sometimes I think I have gone too far! It is all right when I want criticism but there are times when I am not looking for it and do not appreciate it. This spell of boarding has been a good thing for all of us. The youngest member of the family said one day, "I never again will grumble about what we have to eat at home." Long may it last! I have enjoyed the rest and the good meals but am quite ready, and in fact even looking forward to cooking three meals a day again.

THE FIRST DAYS OF THE NEW TERM

A stenographer said she tried the Civil Service examinations but was so nervous she did not do well and would like to try them again to do herself justice. Another stenographer said she was so nervous the first week on a job that she neither ate nor slept and was hardly able to continue until she got the hang of her work. Yet these are two good stenographers. . . . A man listening to this conversation said that his present stenographer was the best he ever had, but she was so afraid that at the end of the second week she said she would have to quit. He persuaded her to continue and made things as easy for her as possible. Did you ever think that when children start school, either for the first time or when they go into a new room, they are starting a new job, and often are very frightened? They will not express their fear as such, but the wise mother watches for symptoms the first month after school starts. The child may lose its appetite; it may be tired and listless; on the other hand, it may be nervously over-active. If a child is pert and may be a bit saucy, close your ears for a week or two until it gets adjusted at school. Do not talk about it but make things as easy as you can for the child who is worried over school. Tempt him with the foods he likes and try to keep from upsetting scenes. See all, hear all, know all — and say nothing.

A LOLLIPOP POSY

To make a lollipop posy tie together firmly the desired number of all-day suckers in various colors for the posy and use a paper doiley, either in white or a pastel shade, as a frill. I have seen this posy used in various ways. One time it was a large one used as a centerpiece for a children's party, and of course the children got the candy later. Another time small posies were made and one put at each child's place. The other time it was used it made a frivolous presentation. It happened to be a clergyman's birthday at a summer resort. If you have not used this idea, it may fit in another time.

FRAMED EGGS

Was invited to a picnic with friends who like to do their cooking on the spot. They took along a loaf of bread, some butter and plenty of eggs and the inevitable frying pan. Inch-thick slices of bread were cut and a hole made in the centre. They just cut the centre out with a knife, but if it were done at home, a cutter might be used. Then a good piece of butter was put in the pan and the bread fried on one side; then it was turned and an egg was dropped in the hole and the cooking continued until the egg was set. This would taste good at home or abroad.

APPLE SLAW

When the cabbage is fresh and tender and the frost is on the vine is the time when cabbage is at its best for slaw. Instead of chopping it finely as you usually do, try slicing it in thin chips; chip a part of a whole apple according to the size of your salad; and add some chunks of walnuts. If you put your walnuts in the oven for a few minutes, it makes them crunchier. Mix with salad dressing to moisten. When you use boiled salad dressing, be careful of the amount of vinegar you use. If you dilute the vinegar you will have a better tasting dressing. If you are using cider or salt vinegar, a half-cup of vinegar and a half-cup of water is not too much of a dilution. White vinegar is milder but even it may be diluted by using from a third to a half of water in the cup. Vinegar for cucumbers or beets is better diluted.

CRISP PICKLES

1 quart medium sized cucumber sliced in rings, 1 large onion sliced, 1 large red pepper thinly sliced, 2 qts. water, ¼ cup salt, ¼ teaspoon turmeric, ½ teaspoon mustard seed, 1 pint vinegar, 1 cup brown sugar. Scrub cucumbers well and cut off the ends. Slice thinly but do not peel. Dissolve the salt in the water and pour over the cucumbers. Let stand three hours, then drain. Heat the vinegar with mustard seed and sugar to the boiling point and add vegetables. Bring to the boiling point again and add turmeric. Let cool and put into sterilized bottles. This is a delicious crisp pickle.

HOUSE AND HOME

By Mary E. Dague
Author of Sister Mary's Kitchen

Fur sales are in full swing, so if you are buying a new fur coat, keep in mind a few pointers. First be sure that your coat is the correct size. One that is too small causes unnecessary strain on the skins and makes them wear poorly. Second, be very careful about style. Choose a conservative, classic cut, one that will be wearable for several seasons, because a fur coat is an investment that one doesn't make every year. An important rule of style for individuals is that tall, slender figures may wear long-haired furs and short figures should wear flat, sleek furs. For long, hard wear such furs as Alaska seal, Hudson seal, Japanese mink, racoon, beaver, Persian lamb and muskrat are best to choose.

Gingerbread sandwiches are delicious to serve with iced tea. Bake gingerbread in a loaf. When a day old, cut in thin slices and fill with a mixture of rich cottage cheese or a packed cream cheese, chopped nuts and dates.

Remember the rule of serving one hot dish at every meal. A main course of cold cuts and vegetable salad might be preceded by a hot cream soup. A chilled first course should be followed by a hot dish such as a casserole of vegetables or combination meat and vegetable casserole.

Cakes made from recipes calling for yolks of eggs only, often have a strong egg taste. The use of lemon or orange juice will counteract the egg flavor.

Keep on spraying your flowers with a nicotine solution if you would prevent an attack of aphids. This is the time when aphids start laying eggs to carry through for next year, so every flying female aphid you destroy by spraying means millions less to fight next season.

If you would gather roses next June start your bed now. First visit all the rose gardens in your vicinity and observe the plants. From this careful study make your list of varieties you want for your own planting and place your order for fall or early spring delivery. You know this is the best month for Hybrid Teas and no rose garden is complete without these as well as Hardy Perpetuals. The ideal Hybrid Tea rose is one whose foliage is best in August with buds opening into perfect blossoms. The varieties boasting this condition are the best choice amateurs can make when looking around for roses that will do well for them.

Painting Depicts Prehistoric Days; Four Years' Work

A story of the 24 periods of prehistory is told on a large mural painting completed in Toronto recently by 77-year-old G. A. Reid, R.C.A., well known Canadian artist, who has given four years to the task. The mural, which covers an entire wall at the Royal Ontario Museum of Paleontology, consists of 34 panels, the largest of which measures nine by 35 feet.

Mr. Reid said his imagination was originally fired by a motion picture, "The Lost World," which showed early geological landscapes and the varied development of plants and animals.

"I was afraid I wouldn't live to complete the task," Mr. Reid said. "It was an enormous work to undertake almost at the end of one's life."

THE WOMAN'S PAGE

"TO-NIGHT AT EIGHT"

Heard nightly except Saturday and Sunday over C.F.C.F., Montreal, "To-night at Eight" is making a hit over the eastern air waves. The action shot above was taken during the playing of a "short, short" one of the features of the program. The writing of these little playlets — five a week are needed — has proved a boon to many young Canadian play-wrights who, by the encouragement shown by the sponsors, have been able to make a step up the ladder of success.

Resistance to Tuberculosis

The natural resistance to disease possessed in greater or lesser degree by individuals is one of the reasons why some persons are less susceptible to forms of illness than others. In human beings this resistance is supposed to increase with the years; that is to say, that the young possess less resistance to disease than their elders. In tuberculosis, for example, the early decades of life provide the greater number of cases. In old age the incidence of this infection is relatively smaller.

K. C. Swinburn, of the Rockefeller Institute, has been making some experiments in regard to the prevalence of tuberculosis infection in animals and he makes the surprising statement that resistance to tuberculosis decreases with age and that older animals are relatively susceptible to this infection.

Heretofore statistical and experimental evidence led to the conclusion that resistance to all infectious disease increases with age, reaching its maximum in early adult life. After the 35th year a gradual decrease in the defense against germs was postulated.

Swinburn, experimenting with guinea pigs, found that young animals were approximately ten times less susceptible to tuberculosis infection than elderly ones. Whether or not this juvenile resistance occurs in human circles has not been determined. Perhaps some inquisitive young researcher will find this out.

— John W. S. McCullough.

Miss Hazel B. McCain, Superintendent of Quebec Women's Institutes, has returned to Macdonald College from a month's holiday in New Brunswick. While in the Maritimes Miss McCain attended the sessions of the Canadian Association for Adult Education, the Canadian Handicrafts Guild and the Canadian Educational Association in Halifax, Saint John and Charlottetown.

Precedent was set recently when the British post office department accepted designs by a woman for the new greetings telegram form. All previous forms were designed by well known male artists.

All law students know that marriage is a civil contract, but they don't find out till later that often the contract's the only thing that's civil about it.

A REAL ADVENTURER

It is always the adventurer who accomplishes things that are unbelievable, and most adventurers start by running away from home. Undoubtedly the man, who in my opinion, has established a new high for adventures is Captain Charles J. McGuinness. He ran away to sea when ten years of age, and after many cruises to the out of the way places of the world, was twice ship-wrecked. Later he joined the British Navy during the World War, was ordered to Africa, deserted his ship because patrol duty was lacking in interest, "signed on" the South African Engineers for service in German East Africa, enlisted in the Irish Revolutionary Army, ran guns from Germany to his compatriots, was caught, sentenced to death by a British court martial, escaped, went to the South Pole with Admiral Byrd as his first officer, and returned to become a rum runner from Canadian ports to the United States.

Worst Experience

"Mac," I asked him, "which of all your experiences was the worst?" Without a moment's hesitation, he said: "A German general named von Lettow Vorbeck, in the German East African campaign against the British, gave me my worst and most outstanding experience. An enormous convoy of mules and wagons laden with food and war materials was making slow progress through the dense bush between Tanga and Korogwe and I was in command. The Germans had gotten wind of our coming and lined the trail with thousands of nests of bees, wasps and hornets, all connected with electric wires running to headquarters. When the German scouts reported us, a switch was thrown which agitated the pests and the enraged millions of stinging insects attacked man and beast, absolutely stampeding the cavalcade. In one-half hour that German general had won a major victory without firing a single shot, or exposing any soldier to danger. I was one of the men who suffered from bee-stings and got these details from the Germans after being captured by them," concluded Mac.

BROWNSB'G INSTITUTE VISIT MONTREAL FOR THEIR ANNUAL OUTING

Brownsburg—The Brownsburg W.I. enjoyed their annual trip last Thursday, visiting sites and scenes around Montreal through generous arrangements made by Georges Héon, M.P., member for this constituency.

At 8 a.m. 15 members and two visitors started out, and at the Cartierville bridge were met by police officers, who escorted the party to the Botanical Gardens. To say the least, these gardens are beautiful. Over 1,500 men are employed in the construction, and the gardens are expected to be completed in 1942. Over 20 million dollars have been spent already, beautiful buildings are being erected, artificial lakes and mountains made, etc.

From this spot the ladies proceeded to the harbor, where they were allowed to inspect the liner Duchess of Athol. This was of interest to many who had never been on a liner before.

Returning uptown to Phillips Square, the cars were parked and in a two-hour interval the party took lunch and visited the stores. At 2 p.m. they continued their tour, driving to the Shriners' Hospital. This proved a very interesting place to visit, and although it was sad to see so many little crippled children, the visit revealed just what was being done for these little sufferers. A nurse stated that all donations were acceptable; that sun-suits were used a lot, and by making these and in many other ways the ladies could help in this wonderful work.

Following this the party went to visit the City Hall, where they were royally received and shown around all the rooms. The mayor was absent on business, but the ladies had the pleasure of seeing his beautiful suite of rooms.

Across the street, they next visited the historical Chateau de Ramezay, a highly interesting place where old Canadian relics are preserved. This building was erected in 1705 by Claude de Ramezay, Governor of Montreal under the French regime, for his residence. It belongs to the Antiquarium and Numismatic Society of Montreal, which has caused it to be classed as a national relic by the Historical Monuments Commission of the Province of Quebec. The Chateau is well worth visiting for its educational interest. Returning to Phillips Square the party took tea at Shap's Restaurant as guests of Mr. Georges H. Héon, who was also responsible for the arrangement of this trip, a kindness which the Institute greatly appreciates. Coming to the "end of a perfect day," the ladies felt that it had been well and profitably spent. At each stopping place in their itinerary, people extended the utmost kindness. The police officers were also most obliging, accompanying the entire tour and giving every service possible.

RECENT DOINGS OF ARGENTEUIL COUNTY W. INST. BRANCHES

Brownsburg Branch enjoyed a motor trip to Montreal, visiting the Chateau de Ramezay and other points of interest.

Frontier Branch held an afternoon tea and business meeting in the Stone Hall, Cushing, also a sale and home-cooking. Their motto for the day was "How full of joy life is." A jumbled word contest was one of the features of the afternoon.

Jerusalem-Bethany held a community picnic in July and for their August meeting heard an interesting paper given by Mrs. Albert Stewart on "Health." Their roll-call was "A Joke." This meeting was held in the "Grove" and was attended by the county president, Mrs. L. Morris, who gave an account of the annual convention at Macdonald College.

Lachute held no meeting during August.

Lakefield, in their Canadianization and Current Events program, heard an interesting talk by Mr. Manson on "Submarines in the English Channel." This branch also held a picnic later in the month.

Morin Heights held a picnic for their July gathering.

Pioneer held an amateur night with a splendid program of about 14 or 15 items. Their regular business meeting was also held, with a joke as their roll-call.

Crossing Sea on Dry Land

Even if you do not believe in miracles, it is scientifically possible for Moses to have crossed the Red sea on dry land as the Bible states. Napoleon records in his "Memorial de Ste-Helene" that he also crossed the Red sea "a pieds secs" (on dry foot). Near the town of Suez, the crossing is only about a mile wide, and very shallow, writes a correspondent in Pearson's London Weekly. Tides and winds pile up and lower the water from time to time. Before the crossing was dredged out for the present 35 feet deep channel, it was possible to cross by stepping from sand bar to sand bar when the winds and tides combined to lower the water level.

Enthusiastic Note in 'Closing' Exercises As High School Enters Another Year

Principal Refers to New Domestic Science Course

Lachute High School closing exercises — which to most young school-goers seem associated with the opening, rather than the closing, of the year's activities — were held Tuesday evening in the United Church, following enrolment of the pupils at school earlier in the day. The chair was occupied by Mr. Geo. Y. Deacon, chairman of the Board of School Commissioners, and a large attendance of scholars, parents and friends marked the auspicious event.

Inspiring Addresses

The gathering was opened by the Rev. W. LeCras, who, with the assembly in unison, repeated the Lord's Prayer. The Rev. W. B. Rosborough congratulated the winners of the year's prizes, also commended the fine work of Principal C. L. Hall, his teaching staff and the Board of Commissioners, expressing a hope that the coming year would be even more successful than the one that had just passed.

The forming of good habits was emphasized by Rev. W. LeCras, who urged the scholars to start the term right by being punctual, and learn the rules of discipline. "Soldiers," he said, "must first learn to obey; that has made the British Army what it is today."

Mr. L. J. King, also addressing the gathering, referred to the education of boys and girls as the greatest industry this community could boast of. He congratulated the School Board and the staff for the success they had achieved. He impressed upon the pupils the fact that they, too, could make a success of the school by their good work.

Special emphasis was given by Mr. Geo. Héon, M.P., upon the results achieved from school consolidation, and to the efforts of Dr. J. H. Mason, past chairman, in bringing it about. Mr. Héon said, in part: "Give your best attention to what is being taught, for thousands have not the same opportunity which you enjoy. You have been chosen, and it is up to you to make good, to prove a credit to your school and town, so that you may be proud to return at any time. Study — study intelligently — and understand before going further. Read, and read intelligently, for this is the basis of modern education through which one may broaden out and develop in knowledge. Do honor to your school, your county, your province and the Dominion."

Principal C. L. Hall expressed his gratification at the large attendance, and extended a hearty welcome to the new teachers and pupils. "This is a constructive community," he said, "and we look for the good, instead of picking out the bad. You are already part of Lachute High School and of the real spirit which exists in all its activities. Our school exists for something, and is really doing something. This year we are attempting a new venture — something closer to real life — in the study of household science for Grades VI, VII, VIII and IX, which will be supervised by Miss Bennett. This new study has been tried in very few schools of Quebec, but the Department of Education considers this is one of the communities in which it is most practicable. Manual training is the next forward step we are hoping for, and the Department is right behind the introduction of these practical subjects."

Mayor Dr. A. Rodrigue expressed his pleasure to be present on this occasion and wished success to the pupils and teachers in the coming year's work.

Among others on the platform were Miss Freda Mason, B.A., also Mrs. G. Leggett and Mrs. W. Jackson representing the Women's Institute.

Distribution of prizes then took place (awards listed on page six), and the meeting closed with the singing of the national anthem.

RECTOR CHRISTENS HIS OWN GREAT GRANDSON

St. Andrews E. — An event of rare interest, and one perhaps without precedent, occurred here at Christ's Church last Sunday when the rector, the Rev. R. S. Booy, officiated at the christening of his own great-grandson, who received the name, Peter Christian Dinesen.

"THE OTTAWA SPOTLIGHT"

Ottawa, Sept. 6th. — The Czechoslovakian crisis and the unremitting efforts of the British Government to pour oil on the troubled waters and to keep a check rein on aggressive powers have overshadowed all subjects of domestic interest in the capital. The Dominion Government has been kept fully informed of every shifting phase of the profoundly serious negotiations that revolve about the central European republic with its Sudeten German minority and on which the peace of the world depends. Naturally the government makes no comment; it watches anxiously and hopes that success will crown the efforts of those striving to prevent the outbreak of war.

THE BREN MACHINE GUN CONTRACT INQUIRY

This does not mean that there have been no other questions stirring the council chamber and other authorities on Parliament Hill. The department of national defence has been very much in the public eye. The recent magazine article attack on a machine gun contract with a firm in Toronto, alleging "excessive" profits to the manufacturers, and the replies of the department refuting the charges have been given wide publicity. "On account of the critical world situation and the extreme importance of keeping public confidence in the vitally necessary work being carried on by my department," the minister, with the approval of his colleagues, has decided to set up a judicial inquiry at once into the contract. The inquiry will be directed by a judge of one of the higher courts "whose name will command universal confidence." He will be empowered to examine every phase and feature of the contract. The minister, Mr. MacKenzie, gives his unaltered opinion that the contract is fair and reasonable and in the public interest.

Two Injured in Crash at Dangerous Crossing 5 Miles East of Town

At 9.30 o'clock last evening a car overturned at the C.N.R. crossing five miles east of Lachute on the St. Jerome highway and two young ladies, Gisèle Marchand and Yvette Lepine, suffered facial and scalp injuries. They were brought to Lachute by an American motorist who witnessed the accident, and the injured received treatment at the office of Dr. F. McMartin.

Hormisdas Marchand, of Saint Jacques, near Joliette — with his son, two daughters and Miss Lepine — were riding in the car when it reached the grade, crossed the track and took the ditch on the down-grade curve the other side. The machine overturned. The father was driving the automobile. He had taken his son to attend college at Ottawa, and was returning home to Joliette.

THE WAY TO LIVE

We don't want to preach, but perhaps a word to the living from the editor's viewpoint may not be amiss. It is this — so live that, when you pass on, the newspaper won't be afraid to tell the truth about you, and do something worth while so that it won't be necessary to fill up the space by telling who sent flowers to your funeral.

3 MONTREALERS DROWN IN THE LIEVRE RIVER

When the boat from which they were fishing upset below the High Falls power plant, 25 miles north of Buckingham on the Lièvre River, three Montreal persons were drowned on Sunday.

They were Joe Falkstine, 38; Prince Pietras, 35, and Laurina Leblanc, 23, an employee of the T. Eaton Company.

Another Montrealer was with the fishing party but had decided there were too many in the boat and went above the falls alone to fish. He returned later and learned of the tragedy.

Four young men, who were returning from a canoe trip and saw the boat upsetting, said that the three fishermen had attempted to cross the fast-running river below the power dam. The boat was swept around by the current and driven downstream over a 10-foot fall several hundred feet below. The onlookers ran down the shore to try to help but only pieces of the shattered boat were found floating in the water.

Some Lather -- No Shave!

Variety is the spice of living — and in the "rackets" which ride this countryside there seems no lack of it. Comes news of a novel shaving lotion which was demonstrated to a few of our back-county storekeepers — a lotion which filled the claims of its salesman so remarkably that one or two of our merchants literally gobbled it up, at $4.20 per two dozen bottles, with a free sample to each of the store-clerks thrown in. With nothing visible but a shaving brush, the palm of his hand and a few drops of the lotion, the salesman worked up a healthy lather... expounded the fine qualities of his product... and sold the goods.

Canada's Crop of Maple Syrup 3,300,700 Gallons

Canada's production of maple sugar and syrup amounted to 3,300,700 gallons in 1938, according to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

This was double in volume the short crop in 1937 and equal to 1929, the year of peak production. The 1938 crop was valued at $3,849,000. Although the quality of the crop was generally good, prices were somewhat lower than in 1937 owing to the heavy supplies.

CLUB BIDS 'BOY VOYAGE' TO FELLOW CENTURION

A pleasurable gathering of Hundred Club members was held last Friday evening in the dining room of Desjardins Hotel, to bid Bon Voyage to Centurion Gordon McQuat on his departure for the Old Country. Around the supper table friendly wishes were expressed and the presentation of a travelling kit was made from his fellow club members. President Geo. Héon, M.P., occupied the chair.

Mr. McQuat sailed on Saturday from Montreal. He will visit the Glasgow Exhibition, the Trossacks, the English lake district and the Shetland country. Proceeding to London he will cross by plane to Paris and Switzerland, and embarking at Cherbourg for the return trip expects to be home early in October.

Off the Sentimental Side

(W. L. Clark, in Windsor Star)

Apart from sentimental and strategic reasons, there is another factor why both Great Britain and the United States are interested in Canada. There is $6,800,000,000 of outside capital invested in the Dominion. Of this amount, Great Britain has supplied 40 per cent and the United States has put up 58 per cent, leaving only two per cent supplied by other countries.

Headlight Glare Cause of Two Highway Accidents

Three from Ottawa Had Narrow Escape from Death

A new Dodge sedan owned by an Ottawa taxi operator featured in a smash five minutes before midnight last Saturday opposite the Champagne residence, just west of Lachute town limits on the Grenville highway. The car was owned by Gardiner Morrison, and the driver was Peter Lynch of 394 Booth Street, Ottawa, who with two passengers — Earl Noehren and Wm. Quinn, of Ottawa, suffered injuries but escaped a worse fate by an apparent miracle.

Lynch stated that, as he was approaching Lachute, he was blinded by the headlights of an oncoming car. His machine left the highway on a curve, plowed through two electric light poles 75 feet and 120 feet from the spot, and careering back onto the gravel turned completely over to land on its four wheels, facing in the opposite direction from which it had been traveling.

The car was entangled with electric transmission wires, and gasoline was pouring over the road, when Traffic Officer H. Jones arrived from Lachute to investigate. The driver suffered a badly sprained back and cuts about the head. Noehren had a sprained ankle and a cut face, while Quinn had a gash in the arm. The three were brought into Lachute and received medical treatment from Dr. F. McMartin.

The car, valued at $1,500, was a complete wreck, and was later towed to Lachute Autos garage.

Head-On Collision

Earlier Saturday night, at 8:00 o'clock, headlight glare was said to be the cause of crash between two autos on Lachute Road, Route 29, a mile and a half south of Lachute.

A Graham-Paige 1929 sedan driven by Edward J. Hunt, accompanied by William Patterson, both of Montreal, was proceeding toward Lachute, when it collided almost head-on with a Ford 1928 sedan driven by Alpha Brosseau, Lachute Mills. A passenger in the latter car was Jos. Brosseau, of Lachute.

None of the occupants was injured, but both cars were badly damaged.

"Third Parties Get Nowhere" Says Manion; Urges True Canadianism

Canadianism is the only 'ism' involved in his urge for long-range planning for the nation's economic life, Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, National Conservative leader, said at Halifax during his three-day Maritimes tour.

"I am not suggesting planning as we know the word in Italy, Germany, or Russia," he said. "I mean a methodical effort to give greater justice, to preserve our institutions, not to curtail our liberties. I am advocating no 'ism' except good decent Canadianism."

The Conservative leader said there had been talk in the Maritimes recently of some groups joining a third party.

"Third parties get nowhere in British countries," he said. "They never have yet. They elect a few as they always do but they're always on the outside. Reforms of real character should come from the inside. What have third parties in the House of Commons accomplished? Nothing. The only way to accomplish things is to be with the 'ins' when they're in."

Dr. Manion urged Nova Scotia miners and others to take stock of the two old parties — and to see which has the most advanced policies and which would give greater justice to the people. When a choice was made he would be content.

Nova Scotia fishermen had a grievance, said Dr. Manion. He had read reports that said fish bought from the fishermen at from one cent to a cent and a half a pound retailed at 15 cents.

Must Remedy Condition

"I say that no man with any atom of fairness in his heart could believe that was fair. I say to you it is a condition that must be corrected even if we have to jettison some machines."

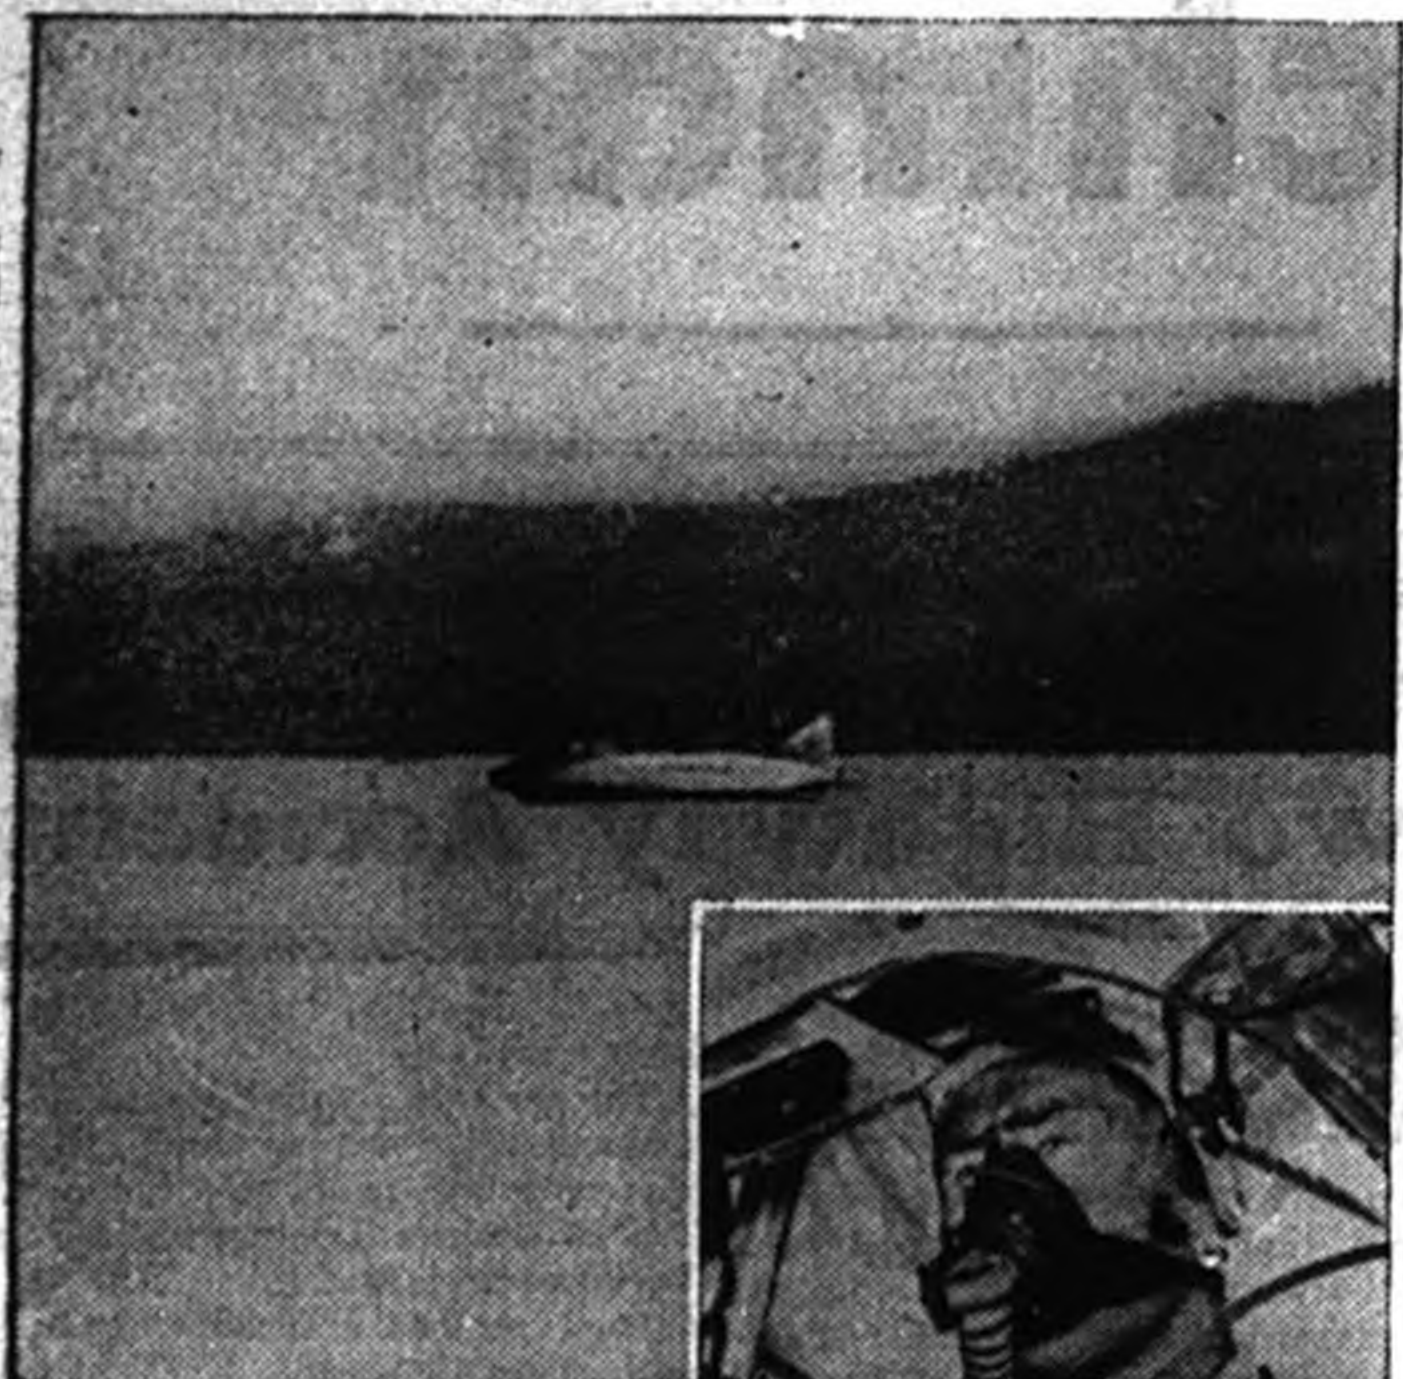

There must be some measure of control over industrialists, not the majority happily, who think more of their machinery than they do of their workers, he said.

Neighboring Town, St. Jerome, Has More Pupils Than Its Schools Will Hold

With the reopening of the four schools under St. Jerome Catholic School Board it was discovered that there were too many children for the schools this year. Over 2,000 boys and girls registered their names and it was found that for the preparatory class in St. Joseph school there were no less than 80 pupils for a classroom made to hold 40.

Another school reported that it was impossible to accommodate 33 pupils and place will have to be found for them elsewhere. In the St. Louis school it was found necessary to open an extra class for students of fourth year, and another school head also reported a full quota and the members of the board would make arrangements to find additional room somewhere for the surplus pupils.

In the meantime the overflow pupils have been enjoying a day or two of extra holidays.

Air Travel and Suicide, Risks Considered by Canadian Insurance Group

A draft section providing for payment of life insurance claims in the event of suicide was approved by the Association of Superintendents of Insurance of Canada in conference at Victoria, B.C.

Recently an English legal decision held that a life insurance company is not liable in the event of suicide of the insured. This conflicts with the attitude taken for some years by the Canadian companies, which have made a practice of paying all such claims which occur after a policy has been in force two years or more. The companies stated to the superintendents at the conference that this practice would be continued regardless of whether special legislation was passed.

The superintendents made the suggestion, however, that "in view of the limited time for the preparation of the draft and of the fact that there appears no urgency for immediate legislative action, further consideration be given the matter and no definite action taken before the 1939 conference."

Development of air travel led the superintendents to reconsider the question of travel accident insurance. The superintendents recommended legislation providing for insurance of ticket accident insurance policies by all transport companies, air, land or water. In some provinces at present these policies can only be issued by railway companies.

Legion of Decency Expresses Appreciation on Tone of Films

Statement by Most Reverend John T. McNicholas, O.P., S.H.M., Archbishop of Cincinnati, Chairman, Episcopal Committee on Motion Pictures: "The Motion Picture Industry has announced its plans to increase the attendance at theatres. The announcement has arrested the attention of all informed and thoughtful persons who know the inestimable value of wholesome public entertainment in our modern life.

"The cinema caters regularly to audiences of many millions and now it anticipates greater attendance. The fact that millions of minds are thus influenced by motion pictures imposes upon the industry a grave responsibility to the public. The industry, it is to be hoped, will recognize that there is no escape from this responsibility to safeguard the moral welfare of its patrons by setting right and decent patterns of thought and comfort.

SOIL PHOSPHATE LOST IN SURFACE DRAINAGE

Few farmers realize that the flow of muddy water across fields and into ditches is a type of soil erosion and represents loss of fertility, says W. A. McKenzie, Soils Chemist, Toronto. Indeed, the loss of phosphorus in this way may exceed the amount taken up by crops grown on the area.

Much of the phosphorus is contained in the top layer of soil, and phosphates are being drawn continually by plant roots from the lower levels and deposited near the surface. In the spring this top soil layer thaws out first. Spring rain churns up the small soil particles and holds them in suspension as it finds its way to drains and creeks. Now, these very fine clay particles contain a large part of the soil phosphate. While the surface soil of a field may have a clay content of only 5 or 6 per cent, this small fraction may hold over 50 per cent of the available phosphate contained in that soil.

Again in autumn, after harvest, when no growing crops remain to utilize the available plant food from the soil, rains frequently are copious enough to cause a surface run-off which carries away the phosphate-bearing soil particles.

These facts bring realization of what run-off water means. Let us see what happens to the phosphate added to the land in the form of fertilizer. Exhaustive studies of the subject have shown that not more than 30 per cent is used by the growing crop during the first year, and only a small portion of the phosphate is carried down to the lower soil layers.

Since phosphate is not leached, as are nitrogen and, to a lesser extent, potash, it has been assumed that the phosphorus not assimilated by the crop accumulates in the soil, except perhaps on slopes where erosion is pronounced. Yet it is apparent that even on nearly flat lands, wherever muddy water runs, it carries off a quantity of valuable phosphate.

A preventive is the use of protective winter cover crops which conserve phosphorus, other mineral elements and nitrogen, by storing them in their tissues, and prevent surface erosion. And the remedy is to apply frequently adequate amounts of well-balanced fertilizers high in available phosphate.

Again and again it happens—leaving nothing behind but a blackened scar and a heritage of loss and distress. Every barn should be roofed and sided with sheet metal and properly grounded to Fire Marshal's regulations. Protect YOUR buildings against lightning with

Analyzing Road Accidents

Some very interesting facts are yielded in an examination of some 200,000 road accidents in Great Britain within a year, as reported by the ministry of transport. It is shown that the great majority of road accidents are avoidable and that highway conditions are not nearly so important as individual care.

The great majority of mishaps for which drivers were blamed occurred because:

- (1) The drivers turned from one road to another without due care, 12.9 per cent.;
- (2) 10.4 per cent. skidded;
- (3) They were in too great a hurry and improperly overtook other cars, 10.2 per cent.;
- (4) Their attention was diverted from the road for just that vital second, 9.8 per cent.;
- (5) They misjudged the clearance, distance or speed of another vehicle, 9.2 per cent.;
- (6) They went too fast, 9.1 per cent.

In each of these cases, it is evident that common sense and safe driving are much the same thing. This applies also to pedestrians who by the use of ordinary common sense might easily have avoided accident.

Street Cars vs. Buses in Ontario

Buses have won out over street cars in Kingston, Peterborough, Guelph, Sarnia, North Bay, St. Thomas and Galt. If recollection serves, Woodstock, Welland and Chatham also had car systems but now have none. Kitchener still has cars, though there has been talk of replacing them with buses. Oshawa and Cornwall have street railway systems, but in these places the carrying of freight is a factor and Niagara and St. Catharines are united by a C.N.R. feeder which also depends on freight for some of its revenue. In the north there are car systems at Port Arthur, Fort William, Sault Ste. Marie and Sudbury.

In a general way it may be said that street cars simply cannot be made to pay in anything but a large city unless there are special considerations such as freight traffic which add to their revenues.

WHEAT SITUATION

Some concern is felt here in regard to the way the United States will administer its bonus on wheat export. With the object of ensuring the sale of 100 million bushels of the country's wheat to foreign markets, the government at Washington has adopted a policy of "absorbing the difference between the domestic and foreign prices" on wheat to be exported. That is the way it has been described. It parallels the Canadian wheat price guarantee to some extent. Officials here do not think that this policy means that the Washington government will dump the wheat on the market. When speaking before the international convention of agricultural economists at Ste. Anne de Bellevue, the secretary of agriculture in the United States government said that the United States would work in a cooperative spirit with the Canadian trade in marketing wheat. It is believed here that this means in effect that there will be no dumping. The United States government will finance its bonus plan through money appropriated by act of congress from customs receipts. This act provides that thirty per cent of these receipts may be set aside for the removal of agricultural surpluses from regular markets. With the carryover of about 200 million bushels from last year the United States will have a total surplus of about 400 million bushels. This year's crop of winter and spring wheat has been about 966 million bushels and the domestic consumption is about 750 million bushels.

ST. LAWRENCE WATERWAY

In a letter written by Prime Minister MacKenzie King to Premier Hepburn of Ontario, Mr. King has invited the Province of Ontario to join in a joint technical examination and discussion of the St. Lawrence seaway project with federal officials. These discussions would not obligate either the province or dominion in any way. They would be simply for the guidance of the governments. The proposals of the United States, Mr. King stated, "suggest a plan for the many outstanding phases of the development of the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes system which are of interest to both Canada and United States." The questions include the development of the international section of the St. Lawrence, the preservation of the scenic beauties of Niagara, with increased use of its power resources, the diversion of water from the Hudson Bay watershed into Lake Superior with recognition that this additional water could be used by Canada for power purposes, the interchange of power and the permanent solution of the Chicago drainage canal question. In the cost of work on the international section of the St. Lawrence, Canada will be credited with $125,000,000 which she has spent on the Welland Canal. In relation to the main objection which Mr. Hepburn has advanced, Mr. King stated that "no final conclusion can of course be reached as to the feasibility of the whole project as set forth in the draft treaty until a possibility of a solution of the power questions involved has been explored." Mr. King's letter further stated that seven years would elapse after the treaty was signed and ratified before the successive blocks of power to be generated on the international section for the use of Canada could be made available. "In addition there would be the possibility of some further postponement of the actual utilization of some of the power depending on the financial arrangements to be made."

At the opening of the Thousand Islands bridge President Roosevelt advocated the construction of the seaway. In a letter to Mr. King, Mr. Hepburn reiterated his opposition to the project. The Province of Ontario had, he said, surplus power on its hands, and it would be many years before it could utilize the million horsepower which would be Canada's one half share of the power to be generated at the international section. The main feature of the proposed plan is deepening the section of the St. Lawrence East of Lake Ontario and the construction of dams which would generate two million horsepower of electric energy.

CANADIAN NATIONAL

SCIENCE . . . is truth

The word "science" is defined in the dictionary as "knowledge gained and verified by exact observation and correct thinking." Which is another way of saying "truth." Whenever anybody tries to twist the facts of science to conform to a political philosophy or a religious creed he is waging war on truth.

There is a lot of that sort of warping the truth to fit preconceived theories going on in the world today. That is why the American Association for the Advancement of Science, at its mid-winter convention, invited the British Royal Society to join with it in setting up a "Court of Wisdom" representing the free nations of the world. The purpose is to propagate truth and fight every attempt to prevent the teaching of science uncolored by political or religious propaganda.

Many nations and numerous political bodies are dictating today what shall and what shall not be taught as truth. The action of the American Association is a new declaration of intellectual freedom from political restraint.

FREEDOM . . . of belief

Everybody is, or ought to be, absolutely free to believe anything he wants to believe, and to try to convert others to his belief. But no man or social group should have power to compel the teaching of beliefs which are contrary to the proven truths of science, or to prohibit the teaching of scientific knowledge.

Many people still believe the world is flat. Certain religious sects refuse to accept the scientific fact that it is round. The whole church refused to accept Galileo's first demonstration of the shape of the earth, and forced him to recant. Only a dozen years ago the intelligent world was shocked and amused by the trial of a Tennessee school teacher for teaching the school about evolution, contrary to a state law which undertook to deny a proved scientific fact.

Such conflicts between knowledge and authority are not new. They can do incalculable harm. To teach history by suppressing facts which might lessen the glory of a national hero, or to reject as untrue a new scientific discovery because it was made by someone of a different religion, is little short of criminal.

TRUTH . . . shatters fear

The truth is that most people are afraid of the truth. Human nature prefers to live with its comfortable delusions about the world and its mechanism, rather than be disturbed by the revelation that things we have always believed are not true.

One result of our reluctance to believe and accept scientific truths is that most of us live under the shadow of needless fears. The savage who believes in the power of malevolent unseen spirits invoked by the medicine man is the victim of the same sort of fear which many people who call themselves civilized have of sitting in a draft or getting their feet wet.

The trouble with most of us is that we have absorbed a lot of half-truths, which are often more terrifying than utter ignorance. If anybody knew the whole truth about the world we live in and how to live in it we would all be rid of the illusions which make us unhappy.

"Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall set you free."

RELIGION . . . and science

I often hear people speak of "the conflict between science and religion." There is no such conflict, if one understands both. Dr. Robert A. Millikan, one of the greatest scientists in the world, says that science and religion go hand in hand. Both are concerned with truth and truth alone.

Religion is, in essence, a rule of life, a guide to right living. It teaches that if one does evil, evil consequences will follow to himself or to others, while if he lives by the rules of his religion he will gain health, contentment, comfort and eventual happiness. Science does not dispute any of these fundamental truths of religion, but rather tends to prove them true by discovering why and how good or evil effects follow good or evil conduct of one's life.

Science neither confirms nor denies the final rewards or punishments which religion teaches. It merely says it has no proof one way or the other. The life hereafter is a matter of faith. But the whole trend of scientific research is toward proving that in this life the teachings of religion are the safest guide.

PSYCHOLOGY . . . makes strides

The study of human behavior is a field in which science has made great strides in recent years. Why people act as they do, and how the mind can be trained to correct thinking is surely one of the most important fields of research.

One thing which psychologists have proved is that our lives are controlled by our emotions, rather than by our thinking. We behave rightly or wrongly under the influence of emotions which take possession of us. What can be more important than to see to it that children and grown-ups alike are not subjected to false ideas which cultivate destructive emotional reactions? The seeds of war are sown in such emotions as national jealousy and racial hatred, aroused by false teachings.

That is the sort of thing the scientists hope to combat by insisting upon the teachings of truth, and truth alone.

The pleasantest things in the world are pleasant thoughts, and the great art of life is to have as many of them as possible.

A Good Editor

A good editor is one who has never made a mistake; who never has offended anyone; who is always right; who can ride two horses at the same time he is straddling a fence with both ears to the ground; who always says the right thing at the right time; who always picks the right horse as well as the right politician to win; who never has to apologize; who has no enemies, and who has worlds of prestige with all classes, creeds and races. That is all an editor has to do to be rated a good editor. There has never been a good editor.

Mourn Death of Respected Resident in Community of East Settlement

Mrs. Andrew Boa

The whole countryside was saddened by the sudden death of Mrs. Andrew Boa, which took place last Sunday morning while she was visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. Thomas Hume, at Hill Head.

Mrs. Andrew Boa was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Doig, of Upper Lachute. She spent practically all of the sixty-three years of her life in this community. Although she was always quiet and unassuming in her deportment, she was a woman of sterling character, and of gracious and attractive personality, and was held in very high esteem by all those with whom she came in contact.

Mrs. Boa is survived by her husband; a son, Norman; two daughters, Ellen and Alma; two brothers, Alex and Robert Doig, and two sisters, Mrs. Thos. Hume and Mrs. T. B. Morrison, who have the sympathy of a wide circle of friends in their bereavement.

The funeral took place from the family home on Tuesday afternoon of this week, and was very largely attended. The service was conducted by Rev. W. B. Rosborough, of Lachute United Church, who was assisted by Rev. Henry Cousens, minister of the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church. The floral tributes, which were many and beautiful, testified to the high esteem in which the late Mrs. Boa was held. The pall-bearers were Messrs. John Nichols, Robert Leishman, Simon Wilson, James Doig, J. E. Walker and C. J. Miller. Interment took place in the Lachute Protestant Cemetery.

Cannon First Firearms; Gunpowder Used in 1300

Gunpowder made its first appearance on the battlefields of Europe in the early 1300s. The first firearms were cannon, two hundred years elapsing before the appearance of guns and pistols. The first mention of a peaceful use of explosives, in mining, did not come until the Seventeenth century, after men had been trying to destroy each other with gunpowder for nearly three hundred years, writes Dr. Thomas M. Beck in the Chicago Tribune.

Ordinary black gunpowder, consisting of sulphur, potassium nitrate, sulphur, and charcoal, remained the only known explosive until the middle of the last century. Such improvements as were made in it consisted of using purer materials and better mechanical mixing, and not an improved chemical structure.

It had a number of serious defects. Since it contained nonvolatile potassium compounds, it left a solid ash after exploding, which fouled gun barrels and caused a heavy smoke. Moreover, naturally occurring potassium nitrate is not a common mineral. During the Napoleonic wars the supply was inadequate and it was necessary to prepare the material artificially by a highly inefficient method. A patch of vacant land was sprinkled with wood ashes to supply the potassium and then soaked with sewage to supply nitrogen. By means of bacterial action a little potassium nitrate was formed, which was then extracted from the soil by means of water.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Matthews, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Robinson and children, of Asbestos, spent the holiday week-end at the home of Mr. Matthews' parents.

Miss Jean Beveridge, of Fernandina, Florida, visited friends in town last Saturday. Miss Beveridge has entered training as a nurse in the Montreal General Hospital.

Ladies' Golf

On Tuesday afternoon last the Ladies' Golf Club played a handicap competition, which was won by Mrs. S. E. Rose. The weekly competition will be held on Monday of next week, instead of Tuesday; if weather is unfavorable, the play will be held on Thursday.

Mixed Golf Tournament Held on Labor Day

A large holiday crowd participated in the Labor Day mixed tournament, playing for the Captain's prize. Real golfing weather prevailed for this strenuous 18-hole match, in which the winners were Miss Harrison and Mr. Archie Galbraith.

The club executive wish to stress upon the members the importance of attending the annual field day on Saturday, Sept. 10th, as they have been concentrating their efforts on this event to ensure a thoroughly good time. Regular prizes, as well as consolation and novelty prizes, will be awarded, and the ladies will serve supper.

All members are especially urged to enter their names on the forms provided at the club notice board, in time to allow the captains to make the draw.

The executive still need more subscriptions to cover the extra expense involved, and further contributions will be welcomed.

A last reminder—Have I subscribed and is my name entered for the competition? Do it right now.

All non-playing members and associate members are cordially invited.

Town to Call Tenders for Sewer Construction

The regular meeting of Lachute Town Council was held last evening with Mayor Dr. A. Rodrigue presiding. Councillors present were—J. MacGibbon, J. Speight, C. Durocher, W. Deacon, F. Deslauriers, and E. Prevost.

The aldermen, after due discussion, decided that the house of René Laurin, at present being built on John Street, be removed elsewhere, as it is not in accordance with the town building regulations.

Tenders are being asked for the building of a sewer on Lachute Road, from Anthime Joly's corner northward to the manhole in front of Amedée Normand's, and from the corner of Grace Street to the fire station.

Work is under way in cleaning of the sewers, which gather considerable sand and dirt.

Weddings

Barfoot-Curren

St. John's Church, St. Amedée, Que., was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Saturday afternoon, August 27th, when Bertha Mary Curren, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Curren, and Victor George Barfoot, son of Mrs. Barfoot and the late Mr. Barfoot, of Montreal, were married by the Rev. C. Earle.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white chiffon gown over taffeta with finger tip veil and orange blossoms; she carried a bouquet of deep red roses and baby's breath. Her attendant was her sister, Elsie Curren, wearing pale blue georgette over taffeta with trimmings of pink velvet, and hat, shoes and gloves to match; she carried an arm bouquet of roses. The little flower girl, Viola Curren, cousin of the bride, was in pink organdy over taffeta, and carried a bouquet of sweet peas.

Mr. Albert Barfoot, of Montreal, acted as best man for his brother. The ushers were Messrs. Calvin Curren and Garnet Curren, brothers of the bride. Miss M. Barfoot, sister of the groom, played the Wedding March.

Mrs. Curren, the bride's mother, wore a navy blue sheer gown over taffeta and a hat to match, and a corsage bouquet of sweetheart roses. Mrs. Barfoot, mother of the groom, wore a navy blue crepe dress with short jacket and small silk velvet hat to match, and wore a corsage bouquet of sweetheart roses.

A reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Barfoot leaving later on a wedding trip to New York City and Southbridge, Mass. The bride travelled in a tailored suit of navy blue with matching accessories. On their return they will reside in Montreal.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. Barfoot, the Misses Barfoot, Mr. and Mrs. Wolf, Mrs. Thom and daughter, Miss Thom, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Mills, Mr. and Mrs. E. Cooke, Mrs. C. Richards, Miss Edna Campbell, of Montreal; Dr. and Mrs. Byers, of Montebello; Mr. Basil Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Sutton, of Brownsburg; Mr. and Mrs. W. Sutton, Miss G. Sutton, of Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sutton, Mr. and Mrs. A. Neill, of Lachute; Mrs. A. McCuskey, the Misses Annie and Vivian McCuskey, Mr. and Mrs. E. Curren and Mrs. Robert Maynard, of Montreal.

Swaill-Marshall

The marriage of Margaret Jean Lorne, only daughter of the late L. M. Marshall and of Mrs. Marshall, of Harrington East, to Mr. Ross Willard Swaill, eldest son of the late Wm. Swaill and of Mrs. Swaill, of Arundel, took place in the Harrington United Church on August 27, Rev. W. H. Day officiating. Baskets of summer flowers decorated the church, the guest pews being marked with asters tied with white ribbons. Mrs. Thomas McMahon and Miss Glenna Bennett played the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Robert Dobbie, the bride was attended by Miss Isabel McCallum and Miss Ruth Gittus as bridesmaids and by little Miss Marion Dixon as flower girl. Mr. Sidney Swaill was best man for his brother and the ushers were Mr. John Dobbie and Mr. Dennison Swaill.

The bride wore a floor length gown of white chiffon and a finger tip veil, held in place by a coronet of the same material. She carried a sheaf bouquet of bridal roses. The bridesmaids were in dresses of net over taffeta, Miss McCallum in dusty pink and Miss Gittus in pale green. They wore shoulder-length veils to match their gowns and carried peach-colored gladioli. The flower girl wore yellow organza. She had a wreath of flowers in her hair and carried a small basketful of pastel-tinted sweet peas.

Dobbie-Lancey

The marriage of Margaret Selkirk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar A. Lancey, of Hudson Heights, to Mr. Gordon Peter Dobbie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Dobbie, of Lachute, took place at three o'clock Saturday afternoon in St. James Church, Hudson Heights, the Rev. Canon J. J. Willis officiating. Ferns, hydrangeas, white carnations, asters and other autumn flowers were used to decorate the church. Mr. Clifton L. Hall played the wedding music.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of heavy white satin fashioned on simple lines with the shirred bodice having a corselet waist-line. The circular skirt fell into a train. She wore her mother's veil of tulle illusion fastened to a Juliet cap with sprays of orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of Johanna Hill roses, lily-of-the-valley and white heather.

Miss Joy Oswald, cousin of the bride, acted as maid-of-honor, wearing a gown of Huron blue georgette over taffeta, with a shirred bodice and a navy velvet ribbon sash. She wore a shoulder-length veil, a halo of navy velvet ribbon and pink rosebuds, and carried an arm bouquet of cornflowers, sweetheart roses and gypsophila.

Little Miss Anne Gillies, of New Carlisle, as flower girl, wore an ankle-length frock of Huron blue georgette over taffeta trimmed with a narrow navy velvet ribbon. Pink rosebuds were in her hair and she carried a nosegay of cornflowers and sweetheart roses.

Mr. John Dobbie, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man and the ushers were Mr. Kenneth Falconer, of Lachute, Mr. Bruce Lancey, of Hudson Heights, brother of the bride, and Mr. Ian Oswald, of Montreal.

Mrs. Lancey, mother of the bride, wore a gown of periwinkle blue d'Alencon lace over taffeta, a blue hat and a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Dobbie, mother of the bridegroom, was gowned in black crepe; she wore a black velvet hat and carried a corsage of Premier roses.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, ferns and autumn flowers being used to decorate. Later Mr. and Mrs. Dobbie left on a motor tour of Virginia, the bride travelling in a hand-knit dress of pale green velveteen, a fingertip length coat of boxwood green English wool, a velour hat and shoes and bag to match. On their return they will reside here in Lachute.

The out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McGilliard, Miss Jean and Miss Frances McGilliard, all of North Bay, Ont.; Mrs. J. N. Gillies, of New Carlisle; Miss Barbara Miller, of Sutton, Que., and Miss Jean Currie, of Ottawa.

Harvest Thanksgiving Held at Christ's Church, St. Andrews

St. Andrew E. — On Sunday morning, Sept. 4th, Harvest Thanksgiving was celebrated in Christ's Church. Although it was a rather blustery day there was an excellent congregation, many coming from long distances to join in this special occasion.

The rector gave an interesting talk to the children following the singing of their special hymn, "All Things Bright and Beautiful." He asked questions concerning these words and allowed the little ones to respond. He stressed that every little thing they could do with hands and brains, was because God had given them the Spirit, the breath of life, and the ability to use talents bestowed on them by the fact that they were all "His children" and He had made them part of Himself at their baptism.

The text for the sermon, "Ye are all workers together with God," made a timely subject, and one felt the presence of the Master in His House, as the minister propounded his message. "The seeds of the harvest are planted by man," he said, "but without God and His Spirit of Life, there would be no fruit, no grain, no trees or flowers. And so it is with humanity, without 'the Spirit,' or breath of life from God, man became warped, twisted or even criminal, but with God's Holy Spirit embraced in our lives we become as mature as ripened grain; and when the eternal sleep comes, we are ready to be gathered into God's harvest." It had been said that the church was losing its hold upon people, but it might, perhaps, be more correctly stated, the people are losing their hold upon the church. The rector reminded his congregation that the place of the farmer was really an envious one, for as he plowed his fields he could think: "I am working together with God. . . I plant the seed, but God helps me bring forth fields rich with harvest. He is beside me as I plow, as I reap, and as I garner in the grain for my food supply for winter needs!"

The assistance of the Rev. Thomas Ball, former rector of Christ's Church, was an inspiration throughout the service, and during the celebration of Holy Communion which followed.

There was an early celebration of Holy Communion held at 8 a.m., and an evening service at seven o'clock. Each service was well attended.

One event of the day, which should not pass unnoticed, is perhaps without precedent, as the rector, Rev. R. S. Booy, christened his own great grandson, who received the name of Peter Christian Dinesen.

Brownsburg United Church Men's League Members at Montreal Brotherhood

Brownsburg — A delegation of the Men's League of the United Church went to Montreal last Sunday afternoon, accompanied by the minister, Rev. S. J. Pike, to take part in the meeting of the Verdun Brotherhood in their new hall. It was the opening meeting of the season and much interest was manifested in the coming together of both groups for the occasion.

The delegation contributed to the musical part of the meeting with a solo, very acceptably rendered by Mr. Fred Hosgoode, and a duet by Master Gerald Cunningham and Mr. Hosgoode. Mr. Russell Graham read the Scripture lesson and Mr. Cedric Wheeler responded to the welcome accorded the delegation by the president of the Brotherhood. Rev. S. J. Pike delivered the address, on the topic, "Laborers Together with God." Following the meeting the delegation, to the number of twelve, were entertained at a private home, through the Brotherhood. Arrangements were also completed with the Montreal Brotherhood Federation, of which the Men's League is now a branch, for the special re-opening of the season's work here on October 8th and 9th, when a delegation of the Federation will be present.

In addition to the Brotherhood meeting in the afternoon, Rev. Mr. Pike preached in Montreal Sunday evening at the Central United Church, of which he was a minister for a number of years when the congregation worshipped in their former building on Mountain Street.

Making History in Argenteuil Extracted from the Files of The Watchman

50 Years Ago

Friday, Sept. 7, 1888—

Excitement prevailed in the West End on the arrival of a new 5-ton boiler for Mr. Newton. Fears were expressed that Fish's Bridge would not carry it, but it was pulled across safely by a team of horses.

Mr. Geoffrion, a Quebec Government inspector, visited the new Court House here, and pronounced it the best county court house in the province.

We regret to record the death, at Rivière Rouge, of Mrs. McQuat, who was mother of Mr. J. R. McQuat and sister of Dr. Thos. Christie.

Mr. Smith, of the Edison Electric Light Co., is now in Lachute with the intention of starting a company with capital of $20,000 for the erection of an electric lighting system.

In council discussion on an electric lighting system, Mr. Palliser stated that on moonlight nights the lamps do not need to be lighted and the cost is thereby reduced.

Councillor Bertrand suggested that boards be erected below the mill dam on both sides of the river, as a large portion of the population lived down there and never saw the town notices.

The landlord of Callender House in Kingston, objecting to the Salvation Army singing in front of his hotel, turned on the hose and quickly dispersed the crowd.

BOY SCOUTS THE WORLD OVER

GREAT CAMP OF SWEDISH SCOUTS IN KING'S PARK

A great National Camp of Boy Scouts from all parts of Sweden was held during August in the park of Tullgarn, upon the invitation of the King of Sweden, and under H. R. H. Prince Gustaf Adolf as Camp Chief. British Scouting was represented by a contingent drawn from all parts of the British Isles, and one Scout from India.

A SCOUT MEDAL FOR SIR ABE BAILEY

An interesting addition to the list of Cornwall Scout medal awards given for outstanding courage and cheerfulness during continued suffering was that of the South African magnate, Sir Abe Bailey. The award was made by Lord Baden-Powell, "for exceptional courage in facing intense suffering over a long period of time." Sir Abe, a vice-president of the Boy Scouts Association, had one leg amputated in London last year, and the other one early this year at Johannesburg. Following the second operation Sir Abe sailed for England, against the doctor's orders, to see his two horses run in the Derby.

Automobile Headlights Help Plane to Land

Vancouver, B.C.—When Harry Coffey and W. F. White, of Portland, Oregon, set their airplane down on the civic airfield here, fourth stop in their homeward flight after touring northern B.C. and Alaska, they told of one unscheduled stop. They flew off course en route from Whitehorse, Y.T., to Prince George, B.C.

Automobile headlights and bonfires aided the fliers to a safe landing at Vanderhoof, north of Prince George, when they lost their way in the darkness.

Two Canadian National Railways employees heard the airplane circling the settlement in the dark and drove their cars to the airport. Then they turned headlights on the field and added further light with railway flares from a nearby section house.

The airplane's fuel supply was low when Coffey sighted the flares and nosed down for a landing.

Young Messenger Is Faithful to His Duty

Saint John, N.B., August 30.—Carrying the message to Garcia evidently left deep impress on Gordon J. Walsh, messenger for the Canadian National Telegraphs. Victim of a collision between two bicycles, Walsh was being conveyed to hospital in a police car, and reviving, he insisted: "Don't take me to the hospital until I deliver my message." The police, however, considered it better to bring young Walsh to the hospital and then Sergeant Kilpatrick turned messenger himself and the telegram was delivered with an explanation of the delay.

THE MODERN DRUG STORE

A man wanted to buy a dollar watch to take on a camping trip, and naturally went to a jeweller's store to buy it. He was told they did not carry them. When he asked where he would get it, the jeweller said to go to a drug store. So he went to a drug store and bought his watch. This actually happened; this next piece is probably just a good story. A farmer wanted to buy a plough and went to a drug store for it. When told they did not carry ploughs, in surprise he said, "What, no ploughs! This is a heck of a drug store."

MOVE WITH THE TIMES

A tobacconist was complaining bitterly because a small departmental store was carrying tobacco and cigarettes — yet that same man had installed a lunch counter. Some years ago there were four stores of about equal status. Three of them refused to change their methods of doing business to suit the times and those three are out of business. The fourth changed as conditions changed and is more flourishing than ever. It pays to move with the times.

MOTHER-MADE FEARS

We are born with only two fears — the fear of dropping, and that of a loud, sudden noise. Unfortunately, we accumulate a collection as we grow. Some of these are mother-made. Mothers are so anxious over their precious darlings that they teach them to fear. I often take Con, our Irish terrier, for a walk, and watching the way the mothers act, makes me think that a fear of the dog is a mother-made fear. Con is a friendly dog and is especially fond of children, so he usually visits every child he sees to try to make friends. So many mothers fairly scream "Don't touch the dog," with such suddenness that they frighten the child and it only ends by being afraid of the dog. True, there are dogs that bite if touched, but that kind of a dog is not going to run up to a child with its tail wagging at full speed. Dogs and children are naturally friendly, and it seems too bad to teach them to be afraid. Fears make our lives miserable and one of the greatest things any mother can do is lessen the number of fears her child has. So many actions are directed by unexpressed fears, and mothers need to be good detectives to track down these fears and conquer them.

AUTUMN PICNICS

Picnics are grand any time of the year. I won't even except winter, because we have enjoyed many a cup of hot coffee and a sandwich on a long drive. But somehow the autumn picnics have a certain something that makes them best of all. It may be the woody smell of the fires or the tang in the air, or it may be the feeling that picnic days are about over for the year. Something hot touches the spot on the cooler days. If you are an energetic person who enjoys cooking in the open, you are in your element, but if you are one of the folks who like to just "set" when you are picnicking, you can still manage a hot dish. If you have a wide-mouthed vacuum bottle, any hot foods can go in and await your appetite. Somehow, we never fare so far afield in the fall and are usually ready to eat inside of an hour after we leave home, and I have taken all kinds of casserole dishes and found they were plenty hot enough. We wrap them in several layers of newspapers. Wrap in at least three different wrappings of newspaper and then tie securely. The different layers provide an air space and help keep the heat in. Beans with bacon or sausage are a general favorite. They have this advantage that they are usually on hand, so the makings of a picnic are all ready. Be sure they are piping hot before wrapping. A meat or chicken pie is something worth while. I have taken stew or dumplings, just wrapped up the stew-kettle in paper. And was that a good meal! Baked spaghetti is one of our favorite meals at home or abroad and here is the way I make it. If you haven't cooked it this way, do try it either for home consumption or picnic purposes.

BAKED SPAGHETTI

Boil a half package of spaghetti for a half hour, use plenty of water, and have it boil rapidly all the time. Taste before draining to be sure it is soft and that it has been sufficiently salted. Drain in a colander and rinse with cold water. While this is cooking, cook 3 medium sized onions in a little bacon fat in the frying pan until soft but not too brown. Add a can of condensed tomato soup, and a quarter-pound of cheese cut thinly. Stir over a slow fire until the cheese is melted. Add the spaghetti and mix well. Pour into a baking dish and cover with buttered crumbs and bake a half-hour in a medium oven. If the mixture is too thick after adding the spaghetti, it may be necessary to add a little milk to bring it to the desired consistency. Do this, of course, before putting it in the baking dish.

TOMATO BUTTER

Peel and cut in pieces ten pounds of ripe tomatoes. Make a syrup of a quart vinegar, 3 lbs. white sugar, ½ teaspoon tiny dried red peppers, 1 teaspoon each of cinnamon, allspice and salt. When the syrup is hot, add the tomatoes and cook until thick, about three hours, stirring frequently.

The DOCTOR Tells the Story

by W.E. Aughinbaugh, M.D.

SOUTH SEA ISLANDS

Lipi-Lipi is an atoll in the South Seas where men who can't come back find a safe haven from the law. To this beautiful little speck of land came old man Lawson, an American who had left his country a few jumps ahead of the sheriff. He took the contents of the country bank, of which he was president, and ultimately bought a trading station and store. For some reason, the simple natives did not take to him, despite his offer of free gin and rum and other trifling gifts. In desperation he married the daughter of the chief and forfeited the family with presents. It was not long before Lawson's wife deserted him for a giant of a native. The aged American accepted his loss philosophically and married again, only to have his second wife leave him for another native Lothario. This performance became chronic and after the sixth experiment Lawson began to believe in signs and decided that he was not a ladies' man.

Revenge

He let word get about the village that he wished his former wives happiness and long life and that when the next trading schooner came in he would give them all a grand party. He kept his word and held the corboree, until most of those who attended were more or less intoxicated. To each husband of his former wives he made a special present of "oil for your piano lamp." Staggering home with the container, they poured a new illuminant into the lamps — new to them for it was colored a bright red, instead of the pale yellow kerosene. Lamps were then lit in the native huts to burn until dawn. Within a few minutes there were a series of explosions, blowing up huts and setting the entire village on fire. Many casualties resulted and what pleased Lawson most was that his rivals and their companions were all killed. Before Lawson died he confided in me that the "red illuminant" was nothing more than colored gasoline and he went into the next country thoroughly satisfied with the result of his fiendish work.

THE WOMAN'S PAGE

Joint Gathering of W.C.T.U. and Missionary Society

Cushing — An enjoyable afternoon tea, with a program and sale of home cooking, was held in the Community Club room on Tuesday afternoon of last week under the joint auspices of the Women's Christian Temperance Union and St. Mungo's Missionary Society. The program consisted of solos by Mrs. J. L. Maw, of Montreal, and Miss Katherine Cooke, which were much enjoyed; a missionary recitation by Mrs. Graham, and a temperance sketch by Misses Margaret McKiddie, Freda Bryerton and Mrs. A. Graham. Mrs. James Murdoch was in the chair; Mrs. L. C. Cooke and Mrs. T. W. Weir, assisted by the young ladies of the community, had charge of the tea, while Mrs. A. Graham and Mrs. W. Usher had charge of the food sale table. Miss D. Leroy accompanied the soloists on the piano. Rev. W. A. Dempsey spoke a few words in appreciation of the work of both societies.

FRESH CRANBERRIES

New cranberries are in the market again. And how good they look! Let's be glad the modern homemaker no longer waits for Thanksgiving to give the family the benefit of this tonic fruit. Cranberries these days have a full six-months' run in the balanced meal circuit. Rich in mineral salts and carbohydrates, the succulent berries combine happily both health and appetite appeal.

Summer fruits will not be missed and the fruit pie can continue to grace the table with the tart flavor of the delicious red berries getting top billing in pie votes. And since the rich cranberry color adds so much to the enjoyment of the fruit, it seems a shame to hide it underneath a blanket of crust. So here's a Criss-Cross Cranberry Pie that will show off the fruit and your skill as well:

Criss-Cross Cranberry Pie

1 pound (4 cups) cranberries, 1 ½ cups sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons water, 1 tablespoon melted butter.

Pie Crust

Chop cranberries and mix with remaining ingredients. Fill pie plate lined with pastry, and arrange strips of pie crust criss-cross over the top. Bake in a moderate oven 375 degrees F., 45 to 50 minutes.

Sweet cider is the harbinger of autumn to us who have any sort of country background because we know that cider making follows the picking of fall apples. Not that there aren't ciders other than apple. I know a cherry cider that's delicious; pear isn't bad and peach is worth going miles to taste. But somehow sweet cider means apple cider to me and I remember the piles of fruit in the orchard ready to load into the wagon for a trip to the cider-press. Maybe you associate cider with

Hattie Carnegie Gives Secret of Being Well Dressed

Every woman wants to be well dressed. The reason many fail is because they believe fads are fashion. "They are not," says Hattie Carnegie, famous fashion designer. The secret of being well dressed is to "be in fashion to a reasonable extent, but never to be extreme or too fanciful in your dress," she advises in September Pictorial Review. Smart women know that beautiful clothes must always have an air of simplicity, no matter how intricately they may be cut, stitched and seemed to attain this end," she explains, "and that these simple, beautiful clothes must enhance the charms

Coming — A Noteworthy Event

Next year countrywomen from all over the world, including the most northerly inhabited areas of the South Seas, will be making their way to London to attend the Triennial Conference of the Associated Country Women of the World. Already these women are making plans to leave their homes and travel to London to be present at this gathering.

Among the exhibits to be staged at the Conference is one to be composed of articles made from natural products which can be found in and around the ordinary country home. As these resources differ very widely in different countries, it is expected that the exhibit will be one of unique interest and highly educative as well.

Both a Lot of Trouble

The news contains some very refreshing things at times. In The Globe and Mail's "Inquiring Reporter" corner there appeared a question, "Which are easier to raise, boys or girls?" And right smack out of the box Mrs. C. R. Stacey of St. Catharines settled the matter in the following refreshing answer: "Neither. They are both a lot of trouble, and I should know, because I have three of each. The boys are never around when you want them, and the girls are around too much. I wouldn't take a million dollars for one of my children—and I wouldn't give a dollar for another one."

—Renfrew Mercury.

Hallowe'en frolics and autumn parties and have never tried using it in your everyday menus. Try it this fall and enjoy this homely old country concoction to its utmost. Use it as a beverage with an autumn dinner. Well chilled, it adds zest to other autumn foods.

Serve cider with pumpkin pie some evening for dessert when there are guests and then have after-dinner coffee in the living room.

Ham baked in cider, cider frappé, jellied cider salad and mulled cider are a few suggestions for adding variety to your menus.

of the woman who wears them.

"If you have a dress that is too often admired, be suspicious of it," she warns. "If people say your dress is lovely, instead of you are lovely, the dress somehow isn't right. Be yourself, not a mannequin. Don't wear clothes that steal the spotlight, but clothes that subtly and ingratiatingly make you important."

While Miss Carnegie admits that we are addicted to some fashion follies which men often think are ridiculous, it's not the gay silly fashions which men dislike, she states. It's clothes that don't flatter and suit you that makes them say, "Why do you women have to wear such crazy hats?" Or shoes or dresses, as the case may be.

"If you want the envy of all the women you know and the admiration of all the men, never buy anything simply because it's amusing or smart or new," she advises. "Wear only clothes that make you amusing, you smart, you new."

"Remember that your own personality and charms are of primary importance and that the simplest, neatest clothes set those off to the best advantage," she concludes.

Associated Countrywomen of World Broadcast Widely

It has been arranged that Lady Aberdeen, President of Women's Institutes in England, will broadcast Institute news in Vancouver on the occasion of the annual meeting of the National Council of Women in Canada to be held shortly. Lady Aberdeen is described as being "very thrilled" by this opportunity which, with other broadcasting over Germany and Ireland, makes an all-around-the-world venture by air as well as in all other ways.

200 Wedding Guests Praise Cakes Baked 3 Weeks in Advance

Most women would have been scared stiff to bake 2 dozen cakes (or anything else) many days ahead. Ordinary cakes would have gone stale. But to get everything ready for her daughter's big wedding, Mrs. Lewis Holmes of L'Ere, N.B., had to commence baking a full three weeks in advance. Yet on the wedding day, Mrs. Holmes' cakes were so fresh, so perfect, that everyone warmly praised them:

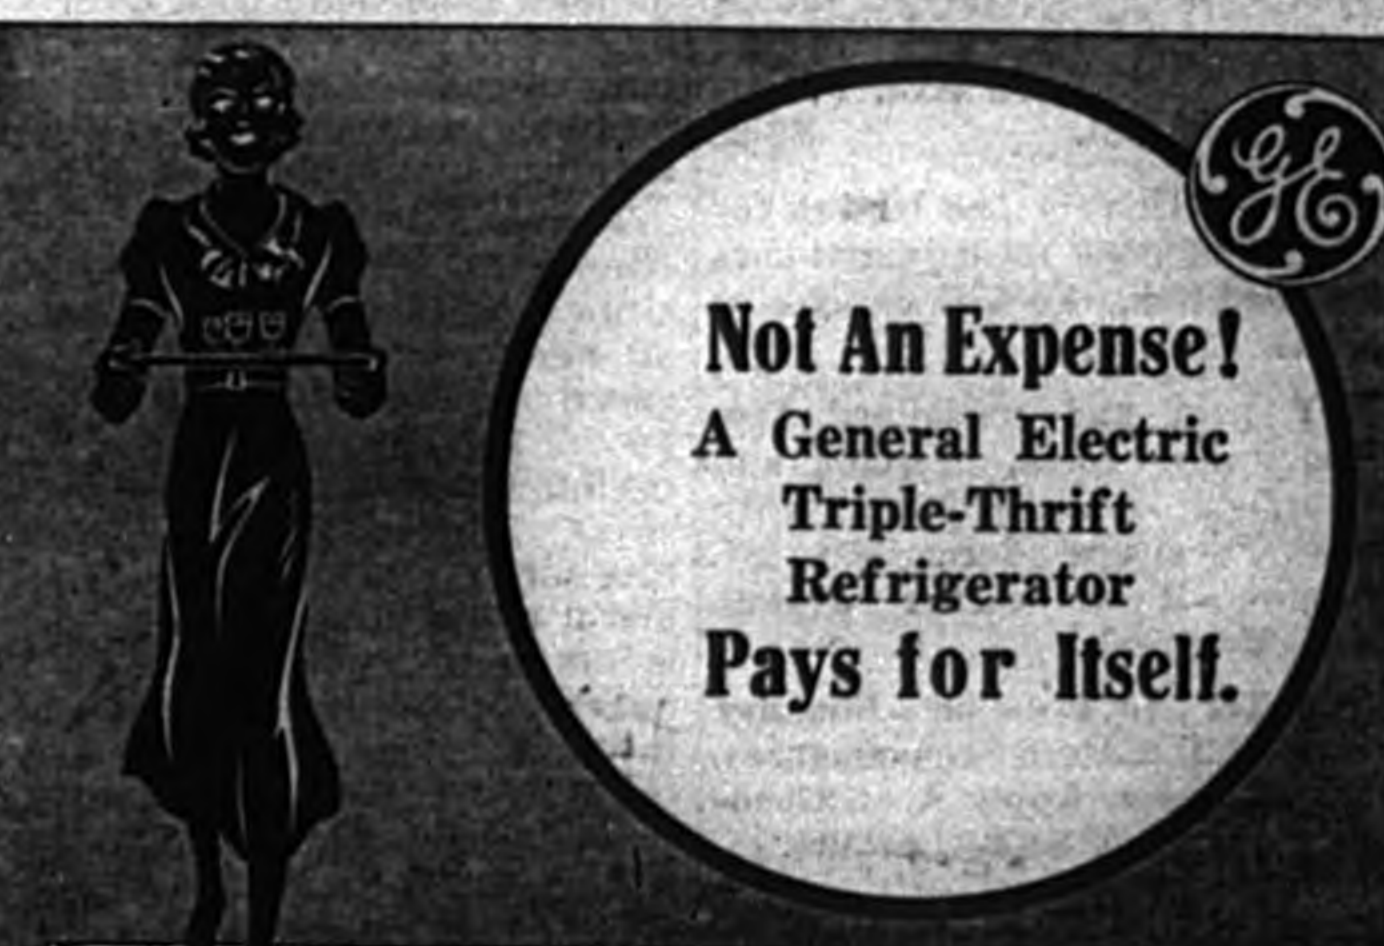

Mrs. Holmes Recipe For Dark Fruit Cake (Wedding Cake)

1 ½ lb. Butter
1 ½ lb. Brown Sugar
8 Eggs
1 ½ Cup Soda
1 ½ Cup Sour Milk
1 Cup Preserved Strawberries
1 Cup Vanilla Flavoring
1 Cup Lemon Flavoring
1 Cup each of Nutmeg, Cloves, Cinnamon and All Spice
2 ½ Cup Robin Hood Flour
1 lb. Seeded Raisins
1 lb. Seedless Raisins
1 lb. Currants
1 Cup of chopped Mixed Peel
1 lb. Dates

1.—Cream the butter and sugar until light.
2.—Add the well beaten eggs.
3.—Dissolve soda in the sour milk and add to creamed mixture.
4.—Add molasses, strawberries, flavoring and spices to cake batter.
5.—Sift flour over fruit and peel and add to cake batter. Mix well.
6.—Pour into greased pans and steam for 3 hours.
7.—Place cakes in moderate oven of 325 degrees for ¼ hour to dry off.

Elephant's Legs Strong:

As to the elephant's agility, it is pertinent to read the interesting statement of Zoologist Ernest Protheroe, F. Z. S., concerning the elephant's legs:

"In order to support the enormous weight which rests upon them the legs are very stout and are set perpendicularly, without that bend in the hinder leg which is found in most animals. This pillarlike structure is of infinite use when the animal climbs or descends steep acclivities, which it can perform with marvelous ease. Considering its bulk, the elephant is remarkably active; it can lie down and regain its feet as easily as a dog; it can stand upon its hind feet alone, or erect itself upon its forefeet; and it can even stand upon its head. It cannot trot or gallop, but nevertheless can move along at eight miles an hour if needed. A ditch seven feet wide would prove a complete bar, as the animal's maximum stride is only six and a half feet, and it cannot jump an inch."

The statement about the elephant's pace is probably an understatement, for hunters would have no need to fear an animal whose speed was limited to eight miles an hour. Zoologist G. M. Ververs, superintendent of the London zoo, says: "Both species of elephants are fast movers over a short distance, and a speed of fifteen miles an hour is not uncommonly kept up for a quarter of a mile or so, but whereas the African can keep up a speed of ten miles an hour for several hours on end, the Indian, being shorter in the leg and more cumbersome, cannot maintain a speed of more than six or seven miles an hour."

Gourd That Grows Dishrag

The Luffa is a gourd which when ripe has a thin paper shell filled with a network of strong fibers, which are used for dishcloths, or sponges in bathing, hence the name of vegetable sponge or dishrag gourd. The bottle gourd is Lagenaria, which has sweet-scented white flowers, followed by the curious hard-shelled fruit. The calabash gourd, whose fruits are used to make bowls and dippers, is also a Lagenaria. This is not the tropical calabash, which is the hard-shelled fruit of a tree belonging to the Bigonia, or trumpet vine family; the smooth, woody, globular fruits measure a foot or more in diameter. They are used to make various domestic utensils.

Motorist Robbed on Highway at Grenville

VETERINARY IS VICTIM OF
SHOTS FIRED

Robbed at Point of Revolver
by Two Armed Thugs

Held up at the point of a revolver after being fired at by two masked bandits on Highway No. 8, near Grenville, Dr. Charles M. Higginson, veterinary surgeon, of Hawkesbury, was robbed of $12 late last Thursday night.

Dr. Higginson was driving home about 11 o'clock when he noticed an automobile parked facing him on the road ahead. As he drew near, two men got out of the car and motioned him to stop. Paying no attention, Dr. Higginson drove ahead. A short distance past them, he heard two shots fired, one striking his car.

Dr. Higginson stopped. The two men, wearing handkerchiefs over their faces, ran up. One of them said: "Don't say a word. Hand over your money and be quick about it."

Giving them all the money he had, $12, Dr. Higginson was then ordered to stay where he was. The two men ran back to their car and drove away in the direction of Lachute.

Dr. Higginson proceeded to Hawkesbury, where he reported the robbery to Provincial Traffic Officers A. J. Ferguson and E. A. Renaud. The bullet had struck the automobile, a coupe, on the right hand side of the spare tire.

No trace has been found of the bandits.

TANK CORPS REUNION

Plans are under way for a reunion of the First Battalion, Canadian Tank Corps, to be held in Montreal some time this fall. This unit was mobilized in Ottawa but its three companies represented chiefly Toronto, Montreal and other parts of Canada and quite prominently among their number were several Americans who crossed the border to enlist in this branch of the service.

All former members are requested to communicate with either M. F. Badgley, Room 305, 1411 Crescent Street, Montreal, or A. R. Haskell, Room 104, 19 Melinda Street, Toronto, Ontario, for further particulars.

Visiting Officials at Meeting of County Orange Lodges

Under auspices of the Loyal Orange Lodges and the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association throughout the County of Argenteuil, Grand Master Rt. Wor. Bro. H. C. Shipman and invited guests held an open meeting in the L.O.B.A. hall at Lachute, last Saturday evening, under chairmanship of Wor. Bro. Victor MacVicar, of Harrington Lodge.

Mr. MacVicar introduced the speaker of the evening, Rt. Wor. Bro. Shipman, Provincial Grand Master for Quebec, who gave a very able address upon the work and principles of the Orange Order.

Mrs. R. Barkshire, Quebec Provincial Grand Mistress of the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association, also gave an outline of the work in which the Orange ladies are engaged throughout the Dominion of Canada, and Rt. Wor. Bro. L. W. Jones, Provincial Grand Secretary for Quebec, spoke on the achievements of

Grants Secured for Improvements on Rural Roads

SEVERAL TOWNSHIPS TO BENEFIT

Improvements are scheduled for several country roads in this section, as result of a 50 per cent grant secured by Geo. Héon, M.P., through the Quebec Government's scheme to develop "colonization" highways. These local projects include:

The Stonfield Montée, to Route 8; foreman, Thos. Canning.

The North River Road, St. Philippe, to Lachute; foreman, Ovide Lamarche.

Pine Hill, road from Route 31 to limit of Wentworth Township; foreman, Jas. Murdoch.

A grant of $750 has also been secured for improvement of the Isle-aux-Chat's road. Plans provide for gravel surfacing, widening of ditch and laying of culverts. John Bradley is the foreman appointed to supervise this work.

Other improvements will likely be made in the roads of St. Jerusalem Parish, for which Government assistance has been offered.

Dr. H. B. Cushing Returned Head of Historical Society

FOURTH ANNUAL MEETING; REPORT ON PROGRESS OF BARRACKS PROJECT

The fourth annual meeting of the Historical Society of Argenteuil County was held in the Town Hall, St. Andrews East, last Saturday afternoon.

The president, Dr. H. B. Cushing, was in the chair and with him on the platform were Mr. A. C. Kains, of Ottawa; M. Georges E. Dansereau, M.P.P., of Grenville; Mr. E. A. Ladouceur and Rev. Dr. Mowat, of St. Andrews East. There was a representative attendance of the membership from the town itself, and from Cushing, Grenville, Lachute and surrounding districts, and Com.

Miss Wales presided at the piano, and after the singing of "O Canada" and reading of the minutes of last annual meeting, a resolution was proposed by the Rev. Dr. Mowat regret-

Orangeism in this province. Rt. Wor. Bro. R. H. Butler, Provincial Grand Treasurer for Quebec, gave a few remarks pertinent to the aims and progress of the Orange Young Britons' Association, and Rt. Wor. Bro. George Clifford, County Master for Montreal, spoke on the Orange insurance.

Following these discourses Past County Master Bro. W. J. Cooper, of Brownsburg, seconded by Past County Master Bro. Stanley Holt, of Lachute, moved a vote of thanks to the speakers, and expressed gratification at the large attendance. The meeting closed with the singing of the national anthem.

New Building

To their already extensive premises on Water Street, the Lachute Creamery are adding a new showroom and warehouse for storage of their farm machinery. The demand for Frost & Wood and Cockshutt implements, and the incidental stock of parts, warrants this new extension, and the one-storey structure measuring 90 x 30 feet is now being rushed to completion.

Buckingham to Have Arch at Town Entrance; Offers Prize for the Best Design

The town council of Buckingham last week decided to offer $25 as a prize to the person submitting the best plans for an archway to make an entrance to the town. The council will be judges of the plans. The contest is not reserved to Buckingham alone, but to the whole district.

The archway is to be constructed to the south of the town on Highway 35, which is also the main street.

1,200 Attendance at K. of C. Soirée in Lachute Arena

RADIO ARTISTS ARE STAR
ENTERTAINERS

An entertainment sponsored by the local council of the Knights of Columbus drew an attendance of around 1,200 persons last Sunday night at the Lachute Arena. Familiar artists from C.K.A.C., radio station of La Presse, Montreal, presented a "theatrical review" consisting of sketches, music and songs, under the direction of Mr. H. Deyglun. Amateur performers from Lachute Brownsburg and Hawkesbury also added to the success of the entertainment, and the Lachute Brass Band gave instrumental selections during the evening. A temporary stage and loudspeakers had been installed in the arena.

The effort was on behalf of the K. of C. charity fund.

FEDERAL MINISTERS MAY BE ELEVATED TO SENATE

Rumor has it that the Hon. C. G. Power (left), Minister of Pensions, and Hon. ting the death of the late Dr. Benjamin Wales, founder and first president of the Society, and of deep appreciation for his untiring and valuable services. This was carried in silence by a standing vote.

The treasurer's report followed, showing a credit balance of $1,067 as on August 31 last, at official auditing of the account.

Dr. Cushing, in his presidential address, gave a report from the executive setting forth a statement of the arrangements made with the Federal Government at Ottawa, by which the Government takes over the property known as the Old Barracks at Carillon (generously donated to the Society by Mr. Felix Hungerbühler) and immediately puts both building and grounds in first-class repair and leases them to the Society at a nominal rental for the purpose of establishing and maintaining therein a historical and educational museum. A grant of $16,000 had been made for this purpose under the Direction of the Department of Mines and Resources, and the work of reconstruction was proceeding rapidly under contract and the supervision of the architect, Mr. P. E. Nobbs.

Mr. A. C. Kains proposed a resolution approving the action of the executive in this matter and the thanks of the Society to the Government for their prompt and generous action, which was carried unanimously.

Appreciation for Flowers Sent to City Underprivileged

The following letter has been received by The Watchman for publication:

Montreal Council of Social Agencies

September 8th, 1938.

Editor, Watchman.

Dear Sir:

May I, through the columns of your paper, thank all the residents of Lachute and district who, through their kind donations of garden flowers, helped to bring some measure of happiness during the past summer to unfortunate people known to Social Agencies and hospitals of Montreal.

This year a large proportion of the Lachute flowers were distributed to children attending the playgrounds in the more congested areas in the city. Many of these had only seen flowers occasionally in the public parks, or behind glass show-windows of the florists' shops, and to hold in their hands a bouquet of bright flowers brought them infinite delight. The children moreover took their flowers directly home, where they were enjoyed by all members of the family.

The potted flowers were also again greatly appreciated by the fortunate recipients.

To all those who assisted Mrs. James, our splendid district chairman, in any way in the furtherance of this work — our sincere thanks.

Yours very truly,

Hazelina S. Bishop,
Secretary, Flower Committee.

Friends Pay Last Tribute to Well-Loved Physician

DR. JOHN M. DREW WAS KNOWN THROUGHOUT COUNTRYSIDE

School Closed This Afternoon for Funeral of Former Commissioner

The death of Dr. John M. Drew at 12.30 o'clock Tuesday morning removed from this town and county one of the best known figures, both in the sphere of his profession and in affairs of general interest. Death occurred at his home on Main Street, Lachute, after several weeks' illness.

Dr. J. M. Drew, B.A., M.B., Ch.B., was a son of the late William Drew and Elizabeth Pollock, of Beech Ridge. He was born Feb. 27, 1879, and received his early education at Lachute Academy. Attending McGill, he took the Bachelor of Arts degree in 1906. Proceeding to Edinburgh University, Scotland, he studied for his chosen profession and graduated as Bachelor of Medicine and Bachelor of Surgery. He served as hospital interne in Leeds, England, and late in 1911 started as a general practitioner in Newcastle.

In 1912 Dr. Drew was married to Miss Ruth Rae Walker, of Edinburgh, and in 1914 returned with his bride to Lachute — where he had been a practising physician until the time of his death. In the affairs of church and community he had been a strong participant. He was an elder of the Presbyterian Church, a member of Argenteuil Masonic Lodge, No. 67, a director of the Royal Empire Society in Montreal, and for six years a commissioner on the Lachute Protestant School Board. He was also vice-president of the Lachute Hundred Club since its inception, and regarded with an esteem bordering on affection by his fellow members. An enthusiastic sportsman, Dr. Drew was past president of the Lachute Curling Club, a keen fisherman and rifle shot, an ardent golfer, and through his three stalwart sons, gave unfailing impetus to athletics in the school and community.

Dr. Drew was predeceased by his wife on December 14th, 1936. His family comprises three sons — Winston, Cyril and Sydney. There remain also two sisters, one brother, and two brothers-in-law of the deceased — Misses Jessie and Elizabeth Drew, James Drew, Charles Walker, all of Lachute, and John Walker, Detroit.

The funeral, held this afternoon from the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church, was very largely attended. The minister, Rev. H. H. Cousens, officiated, with the assistance of Rev. W. B. Rosborough, of Lachute United Church. A profusion of flowers spoke eloquently of the favor with which Dr. Drew was regarded. Members of the Hundred Club attended in a body, and assisted with the flowers.

The pall-bearers — Thomas Milnes, Dr. J. H. Mason, F. A. Brennan, W. M. Cottingham, Albt. H. Hills and Eugene Jousse — were the same who had performed this sorrowful duty at the funeral of the late Mrs. Drew. The remains were borne to their last resting place at Lachute Cemetery.

PARISH COUNCIL ACCEPTS GRANT TENDERED FOR ROAD IMPROVEMENTS

The regular meeting of St. Jerusalem Parish Council was held last Thursday afternoon. Mayor J. E. Walker presided.

L. Dawson and Geo. Peet, the secretary of Gore Township, appeared with a request that the council erect snow fences on certain sections of the Lakefield road, with the idea of keeping the road open for use a greater part of the year. The matter was left for further consideration.

C. Conley, of Thomas' Gore, requested a line fence between his property and that of John Kirkpatrick. Thos. Noble was appointed inspector to adjust the division.

Councillor Touchette moved that the colonization grants of $300 for West Gore, $300 for Thomas' Gore, and $200 for East Settlement and Upper Lachute Montée, be accepted with thanks. Councillor Gordon seconded the motion.

On motion of Councillor Wilson, seconded by Councillor Gordon, W. Murray was appointed to attend to the sale of movables of the late Jas. Miller on behalf of his sister, Miss Martha Miller.

Alcide Laurin's tender for building of a bridge over the creek at Hammond's Mill was read and discussed, and on motion of Councillor Clark, seconded by Councillor Wilson, it was decided the contract be awarded to Laurin for the sum of $1,200 for cement flooring, or $1,000 for wood flooring.

Quebec Men Involved in Ontario Traffic Cases

At a six-hour session in Police Court recently, Magistrate Raoul Labrosse, of Vankeek Hill, heard no less than twelve traffic cases.

Elmer Sproule, among others, pleaded guilty to a charge of driving a car while intoxicated, and drew a sentence of seven days in jail. His car was also impounded for three months. Sproule is a resident of Grenville.

Also charged by police officers with having Quebec beer in his car, Alex Beaven, Kilmar, pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $10 and costs.

Plan for Aircraft Plants to Supply British Needs

GOVT. COMMENDED FOR LAUNCHING INQUIRY
ON BREN CONTRACT WITHOUT DELAY

Ottawa, Sept. 13th. — As long as the situation in Czechoslovakia remains in a critical stage, all domestic problems are subordinated in interest to world affairs. Every move in the fateful game being played by the forces of peace and war on the chess-board of Europe is being watched with the keenest anxiety. As long as there is the possibility that, despite the constant efforts of the British people, the forces of disorder might "cry havoc and let slip the dogs of war," which would probably destroy civilization, our own domestic affairs must take a secondary place in the interest of the Canadian people.

MANUFACTURE OF AIRCRAFT FOR ROYAL AIR FORCE

The members of the British Air Mission have sailed home after successfully laying the foundation for the manufacture of aircraft for the British Air Ministry. Air Marshal Sir Edward Ellington, Sir Hardman Lever, Mr. F. Handley Page and Mr. A. H. Self, who comprised the mission, are all convinced that the scheme will soon be "running sweetly," as one of them expressed it. The British Government will first approve the arrangements made by the mission with Canadian manufacturers, which will be largely a matter of routine; then representatives of the Canadian industry will sail for London to complete arrangements and receive a contract. Briefly, the mission arranged with aircraft manufacturers in Canada that a central company would be formed here in which the whole aircraft industry would be associated, and this central company would be given a contract by the British Government. There would be (Continued on page 2)

TWO WEEK-END ACCIDENTS; HEADLIGHT GLARE CAUSES
ANOTHER MISHAP ON ST. PHILIPPE ROAD

At the Cote St. Louis corner on Highway No. 8, three and a half miles south-east of St. Hermas, Georges Allard, 73, of 361 Lebreton Street, Ottawa, lost his life Saturday afternoon in a car accident.

Accompanied by his wife, Allard was in a 1932 Ford coach driven by his son. They were travelling in the direction of St. Eustache when the driver sounded his horn to pass a truck. The truck drew to the side of the road, not to allow passage of the other vehicle, however, but apparently to negotiate the left-hand turn into Cote St. Louis. Seeing the approach of the passenger car, the truck driver stopped half way on the turn, and in order to avoid it the younger Allard swerved into the ditch. His car turned over completely, and the elderly passenger suffered severe shock, which caused his death a short time afterward.

Driver of the truck, a 1938 Studebaker loaded with gravel, was Vallier Carrière, of Ste. Scholastique.

The mishap occurred at 4.20 p.m. Traffic Constable H. Jones was summoned from Lachute. Later in the evening an inquest was held at a nearby house, Romeo Robert's. Under the district coroner, Dr. Jos. Pagé, of St. Benoit, the jurors returned a verdict of accidental death.

Car Is Ditched at C.P.R. Crossing

In the heavy travel between Lachute and Grenville Sunday evening, a crash which occurred around 8.45 o'clock at Simon's Crossing, held up traffic for three quarters of an hour to a distance of a mile east and west of the accident.

two central plants, one near Montreal, the other near Toronto. These at first would be assembling plants; later they might produce aircraft themselves. There would be two groups in the central organization, one in Montreal consisting of three large aircraft companies, the other in Toronto also of three companies. Other companies will work on sub-contracts from these groups. The central company will allocate orders to the various associating companies. Later on orders for aircraft will be given to firms in Fort William and Vancouver. The general principle on which the scheme was planned was to "mobilize the whole of the existent aircraft industry and to develop it on a large range programme to supply British planes required." The Canadian plants will make the frames and engines will be shipped from Britain, so that the completed planes will be flown to the British Isles. Thus from Canadian plants, relatively safe from attack on account of their distance from the storm centres, air fleets in the next few years will be flying to the United Kingdom. What this will mean to the aircraft industry in Canada and to the various industries which supply aircraft plants may easily be surmised. It will also mean a great deal to our own defence plans as these plants will have facilities to turn out aircraft for Canada at a moment's notice.

INQUIRY INTO MACHINE GUN CONTRACT

Justice H. H. Davis, of the Supreme Court of Canada, will investigate the contract for Bren machine guns, which has been the subject of so much controversy. An article which appeared in a Toronto magazine assailed the contract on a number of grounds, the principal being that it would result in excessive profits for the shareholders of the company manufacturing the guns. Mr. Ian Mackenzie, the Minister of National Defence, announced on September 1st that a judicial inquiry would be made into every phase of the contract. The statement of the Prime Minister announcing the appointment of Judge Davis said: "The article published by Col. Drew cannot but create suspicion on these matters in the minds of the Canadian people. For this reason the Government desires that the inquiry be conducted as expeditiously and as thoroughly as possible." The order-in-council appointing Judge Davis says the commissioners will "inquire fully into preliminary discussions and negotiations leading up to and completion of said contract, into shareholdings — sale of shares . . . and generally to inquire fully into all matters relating to the said contract and to the steps taken to protect the public interests and to report upon the same." The inquiry, according to Judge Davis, will be started "at the earliest possible moment." It is generally held that the Government acted very wisely in instituting a judicial inquiry so quickly, so that uncertainty created in the minds of the people may be removed.

The Minister of Trade and Commerce, Mr. Euler, has returned to Canada from a short visit to the British Isles. He cut short his business trip abroad as the progress of negotiations on the new trade pact with the United States required his presence in this country. There is plenty of business facing the Cabinet. The Prime Minister, who has been kept pretty well chained to his desk during the summer, with some of his ministers away and some sick, is himself recuperating from an attack of sciatica. The main subject of concern for the Prime Minister and his Cabinet, naturally, is the world situation, but there are plenty of domestic problems requiring attention; among them, the new trade

Former Resident Is Feted

On the occasion of his 60th birthday, Mr. A. C. McPhee, of Cowansville, Que., a representative of the Canada Life Assurance Co. for the past 27 years, was honored at a dinner tendered him by the West Quebec branch of the Canada Life, under the management of Mr. Geo. C. Girard. The special tribute paid Mr. McPhee on his birthday was in recognition of the outstanding success which he achieved in his chosen career as a life insurance underwriter.

Mr. McPhee was born in St. Andrews East and has many friends in this locality.

A dinner was held for him at the New Ottawa Hotel, Cowansville. Mr. Girard, as chairman, paid a stirring tribute to the fine work accomplished by Mr. McPhee and extended hearty greetings. Dr. A. Chénier, Canada Life representative in the St. Jerome district, presented to Mr. McPhee on behalf of his confreres in the West Quebec Branch a beautiful mantel clock.

Directly following the dinner all those present proceeded to Mr. McPhee's residence and were entertained at a garden party at which Mrs. McPhee acted as hostess.

Dispute Between Brothers

Charged with having "threatened his brother with his finger while saying he would knock his head off his shoulders," Joseph Cote, 26, of St. Placide, appeared before District Magistrate Lalande at St. Jerome.

Henri Cote, 60, was the man who had been so threatened. The argument had been over the amount of work done by each brother. After hearing the evidence, the court ordered Joseph Cote to keep the peace until September 26, when he will return for disposal of the case by the court.

treaty with the United States and the related treaty between Great Britain and the United States; the wheat situation, which has been further complicated by the policy announced in the United States of subsidizing flour export. The wheat market trend is causing a great deal of concern. There are federal by-elections in the offing, possible cabinet changes caused by illness, appointments to our foreign legations and a host of other matters. News which gives universal satisfaction is that Mr. Dunning, the Minister of Finance, is making a steady, if slow recovery from the heart trouble which attacked him last session. He is in Prince Edward Island.

LIBERATED IN HIGHWAY DEATH AT PETIT BRULÉ

Henri Provost, of Montreal, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Leopold Brisson, 19, of Montreal, was liberated last Thursday by District Magistrate Donat Lalande at St. Jerome.

Provost, a cripple for life as the result of the same auto accident, testified in his own behalf and the court decided that, while it was not usual to liberate an accused at voluntary statement, the facts so far seemed only to show slight negligence, in which case the accused, if arraigned on a reduced charge, would have the option to select trial by a magistrate, who in view of the same evidence, would not be able to find the prisoner guilty. Therefore the court decided to liberate Provost at once.

The accident which cost Brisson his life occurred on the No. 8 highway at Petit Brulé on June 25 last. The auto had swerved into the ditch, and Brisson was so badly injured that he died a few days later in hospital at Montreal. No verdict holding Provost responsible had been returned by the coroner's jury, but the Attorney-General later charged Provost with manslaughter.

Provost told the court he had hip injury.

driven a passenger to a wedding at Papineauville on the day of the accident. He admitted he had taken six glasses of liquor during the day but said he had eaten and was not drunk. After leaving Papineauville on the return trip Brisson got in with him. After going a short distance Brisson asked to be allowed to drive, and took the wheel as far as Lachute. There, the pair had a glass and a half of beer and resumed their trip with Provost driving.

"About 100 feet from the scene of the accident," said Provost, "Brisson asked again to take the wheel. I agreed and put my foot on the brakes to slow down. But Brisson did not think this fast enough and he jammed on the emergency brakes. I felt the rear of the car swerve and immediately released the foot brakes and tried to straighten the vehicle but it got out of control and went across the road into the ditch."

Provost stated he had been severely injured himself, and that he was crippled for life, now having to walk with a cane because of a permanent

EDITORIAL

Applauding the Preacher

If we hear it stated that the church curbs crime before the criminals become such, that the greatest decision a man can make is when he decides to lend some positive influence to the development of values that are eternal, we applaud most heartily. Indirectly we are applauding the preachers, priests and other who promote idealism. In our humble opinion the best way for a man to applaud a preacher is — with the seat of his pants, pressed tightly against a pew seat off and regularly.

Kiwanis Magazine for September has an editorial in which it says: "Religion needs no endorsement, but it does need a lot of encouragement and co-operation, and the man who from time to time forgoes his Sunday morning golf game and takes his wife and children to church with him, has done more than endorse religion — he has demonstrated his love for it before his children."

"No man is a hero to his valet, but every father is a hero to his children. They use him as a model and standard of excellence. That is what makes it difficult for him to impress on a child the importance of church attendance when he spends the Sabbath morning at the golf course, or lying on the veranda surrounded by the Sunday papers."

The preacher is back from his vacation. What a heartening thing it would be for him to know that you are too — by your applause.

Management as a Profession

In more primitive times the owner of a business or industry ran it himself. With growth of the corporation system, ownership and management have become two distinct functions. Almost literally nobody owns most of the big corporations. Their ownership is scattered among thousands of shareholders, of whom no one individual often owns more than two or three per cent of the stock. They have pooled their capital but all they can do toward running the business is to elect a board of directors.

The directors, in turn, must employ men to manage the business. All the directors can do in most cases is to lay down general principles. The actual conduct of the business is done by hired men.

There has thus developed the specialized profession of business management. It is so new that its principles are still undergoing revision and study. But it is the most important profession in the world, for on the competence of management in dealing on the one hand with the public, and on the other hand with the workers, and in the technical handling of productive operations, depend not only the returns on the shareholders' capital but the welfare of the workers and so, indirectly, the whole economic and social order.

Managers of great business and industrial enterprises from all over the world are meeting this month in Washington in the seventh International Management Congress. They will exchange practical experiences and ideas, from the point of view not of profits alone but of the general welfare as it is affected by corporation practice. Out of these discussions should come a clearer understanding of the functions and responsibilities of management in the modern world.

A Hard Case

In one of our metropolitan newspapers we recently read a letter from a taxpayer which might be applied to any urban community. It appears that in the years 1929-30 this home owner was unable to meet his annual taxes of $240, for which he was charged interest at the rate of 10 per cent. Although by much privation he has since been able to pay his annual tax — his two years' back taxes, plus the compounded 10 per cent interest, equalled three years' taxes by the end of 1937. And this, plus his mortgage interest at 6 1/4 per cent, has become too heavy a burden for the man to carry. Here is a case in which the local authority can take a hand by spreading the tax debt over a period of twenty years at as low rate of interest as possible — on the same principle as a serial bond. By doing this the municipality will be the gainer because of the better assurance of recovering the debt; while the owner himself, free from the feeling that he may lose his home at any moment, will be the happier and therefore a better citizen. In the light of the new housing act whereby men can obtain cheap money to build their homes, those who have borne the local taxes for so long should have some consideration given them by the local authorities.

Provincial Problems All So'uble

Whenever is observed an editorial discourse on the issue of provincial rights, one wonders if such an issue exists excepting in the minds of provincial politicians. A provincial prime minister naturally is concerned with maintaining the power and the glory of his exalted position and therein he doubtless has the support of his cabinet and other political supporters. On the abstract theory, moreover, he would be supported by His Majesty's loyal opposition (the lack of capitals is ours) in the local house.

Yet if one buttonholes any citizen on King street, Toronto, or King street in any other village in Canada, it is doubtful if he would be found to be a person willing to oppose the true interests of the Dominion at the behest of a provincial politician. The half-million Canadians who wore khaki twenty years ago did so for king and country, not king and province. Fundamentally we are all Canadians.

Even Mr. Hepburn is a Canadian. He is rumored to have ambitions in the national political field. Once in that field he would shed his provincial coat as quickly as would any other man who loves a fight for the sake of fighting. The same may be true of two other provincial premiers who have been conspicuous recently in upholding the alleged rights of their respective provinces. Mr. Aberhart would enjoy bedeviling the financial interests from Ottawa. Mr. Duplessis might discover that Sir Wilfred Laurier's memory is still green and that a national point of view is not inconsistent for a French-Canadian.

These thoughts suggest once more that some of our most exasperating governmental difficulties would be solved if provincial legislative assemblies were abolished. Provincial problems of this nature are the creation of provincial politicians. — The Printed Word

MAKING CANADA

A Better Place in Which to Live and Work

Letters from Distinguished Canadians on Problems Affecting the Future Welfare of Canada

Specially Written for Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association

Dear Sir:

It seems to me that the general need of Canada at the present time is the restoration to the citizenship of Canada of the spirit of independence. In my view there is altogether too great a dependence on government and belief in its ability to make something out of nothing, too great a willingness to profit by the results of repudiation and similar acts, and too great a willingness to contract debts without considering how the debts are to be repaid. If the Weekly Newspapers Association of Canada can do anything to build up the public morale of the electorate, Municipal, Provincial and Dominion, I think it would be doing a work of fundamental importance. Again, if some thing fundamental is not done with regard to a permanent and sound method of meeting unemployment, we should be caught unprepared for 1941, or before or after that date, just as we were in 1921 and 1931.

There is one subject of secondary importance which demands attention and that is the proper valuation of real property for taxation purposes. In the greater part of Canada assessment is on a totally unscientific basis so that taxation is often extremely inequitable, in that some people and properties pay more than they should and others pay less than they should. This aggravates the effect of the depression and is an important factor in the building up of totals of unpaid taxes. A proper assessment for a municipality is just as important as a proper rate structure for a utility corporation or a proper price structure for a manufacturing corporation. It requires just as much study and special training. If something could be done to improve the quality of assessing in town, village and township, a great step in advance would be taken.

I do not know of any short cut to the end of moving some of the taxation from real estate but to my mind the best method would be a sharing of the provincial revenues with the municipalities. The present Ontario Government has made a start in this direction. I feel confident, however, that municipalities can greatly help real estate by cutting down tax levies as a result of reduced expenditures. From the national point of view, this is the only way of reducing the tax burden. Unfortunately municipalities think rather of increased revenues than reduced expenditures or, at least many politicians and city councils take this view. This idea might be among those which can be modified through enlightened public opinion and improved quality of citizenship.

"Free enterprise seeks to stimulate expansion and progress; monopoly to keep things as they are."

— Ogden L. Mills.

A man astonished the want-ad clerk of a newspaper recently by placing an ad offering $50 reward for the return of his wife's pet cat.

"Isn't that a high reward for a cat?" asked the ad taker.

"Not in this case," said the man. "I drowned it."

(Hespeler Herald)

Panhandling is a great racket. Hespeler citizens have seen two excellent examples of it in the past few days and we hope that few of them fell for the neat patter and schemes being tried out.

A transient was seen hiking down the railroad track towards town, carrying a wooden crutch under his arm. Apparently his feet were in excellent shape for he was making good time, but the whole scene changed when he reached the street. He then became an almost helpless cripple, the object of pity, and his voice changed to a pleading whine. The show was carried on up the main street where he expertly appealed to passers-by and business men. When it appeared that his plight was not as bad as it seemed, up went the crutch under his arm and he dusted at a pretty fair clip.

A young chap of about twenty-five, dressed in ragged overalls, a shirt and a pair of old boots, made the rounds with a note that proclaimed he was a deaf, dumb and poverty-stricken orphan. The previous evening he had made his appearance in town smartly dressed in a neat brown suit, a good pair of shoes and clean shirt and tie. With a bottle of pop and a chocolate bar in one hand, he was playing a pin-table with the other. He asked for change for a two-dollar bill, meanwhile pulling out a fist full of bills from his pocket. He had an impediment in his speech, but he wasn't the deaf mute of the next morning.

We cite these two cases as a warning to citizens. One man in a hundred who is found begging from door to door may be in need of a handout, but the chances are that the average beggar has no more need of it than you or I. Citizens are only contributing to a racket when they give to beggars of this type. It would be much better for all concerned if panhandlers were turned over to the police to be dealt with as they deserve. Too lazy to work, this floating population makes dupes of those who are doing their best in honest toil to keep the wolf from the door. They look upon us as suckers for a hard luck story — are you a sucker?

A FEW CANDID WORDS ABOUT BANK EARNINGS

Half of one per cent. a year on total assets is not much of a profit margin for any business, corporate or individual.

Yet that is all the "velvet" there is in the business of Canada's chartered banks.

Banks pay interest on personal savings deposits. They charge interest on loans.

The difference is not all "velvet" by any means—for these reasons:

- It costs money to operate a bank.
- The cash reserves held by the bank earn nothing.
- A bank must provide for losses.
- Earnings on a great deal of a bank's assets are very low.

More than 25,000 people are employed in Canada's banks. In the last ten fiscal years Canada's chartered banks have paid in wages and salaries, some $376,000,000 — purchasing power distributed over the Dominion.

In the same ten years banks paid in taxes to municipalities $40,831,930; to provinces $14,429,320, and to the Dominion, $24,027,324; a total of $79,288,574.

Banks have other costs, too: Rent on premises; stationery and printing; light, water and fuel; contributions to pensions and group insurance for employees. Depreciation on buildings takes a large amount each year.

Any money a bank pays—taxes, wages or other costs—can come only from the bank's resources—and must be paid in cash. No magic can produce it.

Banking is not all sunshine. It has its cloudy aspects too. Banks must stand ready to pay their creditors—the depositors and note-holders — a hundred cents on the dollar; but banks unfortunately cannot always collect a hundred cents on the dollar! They have losses, inevitably, and must set aside substantial sums to meet them.

A bank must keep itself in such a cash position as to be able to pay you your deposit whenever you see fit to withdraw it.

Chartered banks are required by law to lodge with the Bank of Canada, or hold in Bank of Canada notes, five per cent. of their depositors' funds; but, in practice, they always carry about twice that percentage. Deposits with and notes of the Bank of Canada earn no interest for the chartered banks.

It is necessary also to keep a further amount in short term investments readily convertible into cash. The yield on such investments is low, firstly, because Treasury Bills and other short term securities mature at short date; secondly, because—banks having no monopoly of money or credit—cash reserves of many industrial concerns compete for this type of investment.

Bank earnings depend very largely upon loans, but a bank can lend only when the customer wants to borrow.

Ordinary bank loans in 1929 averaged $1,342,000,000; in 1937 only $731,000,000.

When business falls off or prices slump, businessmen borrow less money. A given volume of business is handled on less money, too. It would take $150,000 to handle 100,000 bushels when wheat is at $1.50 per bushel, but only $100,000 to handle the same volume when the price is $1.00 a bushel.

When ordinary loans are not in demand, money, instead of lying idle in the banks, finds investment in Government bonds. These earn substantially less than ordinary loans.

Very obviously banks would prefer commercial loans. Money invested in Government bonds is, however, just as much a loan for the Government's purposes as a loan to a farmer is a credit for his purposes. In 1937 the average of bank loans and investments combined was $2,158,000,000; in 1929, $1,841,000,000.

Thus bank credit in Canada was actually greater in 1937 by $317,000,000 than in the same period of 1929, the boom year. As with credit, so with cash. As of October, 1937, over $17,000,000 more in bank notes were in the hands of the public than in October of the boom year 1929.

A word with you about dividends.

The Bank Act fixes the par value of bank shares at $100. The average price paid to banks by the shareholders when shares were issued was $165 per share. Of this, $100 has gone to Capital Account, and $65 has been placed in Reserve.

Over many years undivided profits, now amounting to $34 per share, have been left in the business by shareholders and added to reserve, for the greater security of depositors and note-holders.

The average shareholder's investment in Canada's chartered banks now, therefore, amounts to $199 per share. A dividend of say 8 per cent. on the $100 par value is, in fact, only slightly over four per cent. on the money actually invested, or left with the bank by the shareholder.

A Cigarette by Any Name

By Helen Woodward

The most desperate copywriters in the advertising business are those who have to write about cigarettes. What can they say? Tests have shown that hardly anyone can distinguish one brand of cigarette from another.

A few years ago there was a lively campaign advertising Old Gold cigarettes. It was hugely successful for a while, because it gave the public a chance to play a game. The customer did not merely read about the cigarette. He played a part. The theme was that, blindfolded, you could distinguish Old Gold from other cigarettes. Everywhere people tied handkerchiefs over their eyes while they took puffs of Chesterfields, Old Gold, Luckies, and Camels. But there was a queer clickback. Most smokers were surprised to find that they couldn't recognize their own favorite brand and couldn't tell it from any of the others. John B. Watson, the psychologist, then with the J. Walter Thompson advertising agency, made tests and said that it was impossible for people to distinguish one cigarette from another. "Fortune" says you can't win a cigarette market on taste alone — that no brand ever has. The chief reason why even tobacco experts have the greatest difficulty in recognizing the popular brands is that it isn't the tobacco that is static in popular cigarettes but the flavoring, which in most cases kills the taste of the tobacco. — Courtesy of "Nation."

Messrs. J. Goodman and J. Laviolette have closed their summer homes and returned to Montreal for the winter months.

Mrs. Hugh Madden, of Ponsonby, and Mr. John Gauley, were visitors at the home of Mr. Walter Gauley on Monday of this week.

We welcome Miss A. Demers, of Montreal, to this locality. Miss Demers has charge of Rawcliffe school for this term.

On Sunday, Sept. 11th, the christening of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gauley took place at the service in Grenville United Church. Rev. Mr. Dempsey, the minister, performed the ceremony and the child received the names of James Kenneth.

GRENVILLE

Mrs. R. Y. Lyon, Miss Claude Lyon, Messrs. Alva and Fred Lyon, of Ottawa, visited Mr. and Mrs. Victor D. Gaudry and children here last Sunday.

Mr. Eddie Gauley and son, of Chateaufort, spent a day here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Gauley, last week.

Messrs. Lorne and Clifford Cooke motored from Pogan Falls on Saturday, and spent Sunday at their home here.

Miss Minnie McArthur, of Chicago, has been the guest of her brother, Mr. Allan McArthur, and his family, for some time.

Master Alvin Gauley, of Kilmar, is attending High School in Hawkesbury and staying with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Gauley.

Rev. J. R. Simpson exchanged pulpits with Pastor Gordon Stevens of Avoca last Sunday. At the morning service in the Grenville Baptist Church the theme of the sermon was "God first, others second, ourselves last." The congregation hope to have the privilege of hearing Pastor Stevens again. A service will be held at the home of Mrs. A. V. Gaudry on Tuesday evening, Sept. 20th, at 7 o'clock (S.T.), conducted by Rev. J. R. Simpson.

Robbery in Brownsburg at the Pollock Garage

Brownsburg — A daring robbery was perpetrated on the garage premises of Mr. Edgar Pollock on Monday night or early Tuesday morning. The thieves cleaned out a large portion of the stock and stole two radios, one the property of a customer. It was a particularly mean sort of theft, if theft in any form could be described otherwise, as Mr. Pollock is but a young man recently started in business and not too liberally endowed with worldly goods. Robberies of this kind were prevalent in Brownsburg some time ago and precaution was taken to prevent their repetition. Recent security had engendered a laxity — which is to be remedied, and it is expected the next effort of the thieves may have a different outcome.

On English Hockey Team

Mr. Donald Tomalty, of Montreal, who is well known here, has been chosen as one of a picked team of hockey players to play in Streatham, England, this coming season. He will sail on the S. S. Duchess of York, on Friday next. This team is made up of players from Hamilton, Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal, and will be managed by Mr. Alex Smith, former manager of Ottawa professionals.

Ceremony at Shrine

Brownsburg — Thousands of the faithful assembled to do homage to Our Lady of Lourdes at the beautiful Brownsburg shrine on Sunday in celebration of the Assumption. The address was delivered by Rev. Father Hébert and the benediction and prayers recited by the cure, Rev. Father Bouchard, P.P. The procession formed at the entrance gate and slowly wended its way to the summit to participate in the ceremonies. The choir, conducted by Mr. "Kit" Lupin, was specially augmented for the occasion.

Committee on Exhibits: Mr. Shirley Simpson and Miss Beatrice Robertson, St. Andrews East; Miss Mildred Douglas, Cushing.

Prizes for the best essays on local history in the annual contest were presented by Mrs. G. F. W. Kuhring to the two successful candidates, namely — Harold Maxwell, "Pioneer Days in Mille Isles" ($5.00); Joyce Mahon, "Dollard" ($2.00).

The proceedings were closed by two delightful songs from Mr. Shirley Simpson and a short illustrated address by Dr. M. E. Abbott on the Old Barracks and the historic importance of the Carillon site.

Tea was served at the close of the meeting. Many of the members present proceeded afterwards to Carillon, to inspect the work of re-

Former Resident Brought to Lachute for Burial

The Late Mrs. Frank Shaw

There passed away on Sunday, Sept. 11th, in hospital at Ottawa, an old and respected resident of this town for many years, in the person of Maria Lane, wife of the late Frank Shaw, at the age of 77 years. The late Mrs. Shaw had been in failing health for the past nine months.

Funeral service was held at the Burney & Son's funeral parlors, Somerset Street, on Monday evening, burial taking place in Lachute Cemetery Tuesday morning on arrival of the Ottawa train. The burial service was conducted by the Rev. W. B. Rosborough.

She leaves to mourn her loss one sister, Mrs. Thos. Robertson, of Ottawa, with whom she had lived for the past ten years. Pall-bearers were Messrs. Leonard Gain, Albert Gauley, Henry and Charlie Lister, nephews of the deceased.

Old Friend and Neighbor Mourned on "River Front"

The Late Robert Pinkerton

Cushing W. — In the death of Mr. Robert Pinkerton, which occurred on Tuesday morning, this community loses another respected citizen. Mr. Pinkerton, who was in his 78th year, was seized with a stroke of paralysis five weeks ago while resting at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Jas. Harcourt, at New Glasgow.

The remains were conveyed to his old home here on Tuesday afternoon and the funeral takes place this afternoon (Thursday) from St. Mungo's Church, where the deceased had faithfully worshipped all his life.

He is survived by a son and daughter, Mr. A. C. Pinkerton, of Montreal, and Mrs. Jas. Harcourt, of New Glasgow. Another daughter, Mrs. David Baxter, of Winnipeg, died four years ago — while his wife, who was formerly Miss Jane Sittlington, predeceased him in 1935.

Mr. Pinkerton was a former employee of the Grenville Canal, but had retired some years ago. He will be much missed among his many old friends in this community.

Chimney Sweeps Enjoy Boom

Old fashioned chimney sweeps are having a boom season at St. Catharines, Ont., ever since Fire Chief William Chestney made a public suggestion that chimneys be thoroughly cleaned out before winter fires are kindled. Citizens have been calling the fire department asking that an experienced sweep be sent to their place. Results have been satisfactory all around.

construction at the Barracks, which was open for the occasion.

The president announced that the Annual Loan Exhibition of the Society would be held the second week in October in the officers' end of the building. Reconstruction will be completed by that date.

How often you come before us,
Your dear face fond and true —
For death can never take away
Memories, dear Albert, of you.

Brownsburg Pianist Heard on Radio Amateur Hour

Brownsburg — Mr. Leonard Lupin, Brownsburg, was heard over the air from a Montreal station last week in a popular amateur hour feature. Mr. Lupin is a pianist of no mean merit, and an accomplished and delightful performer. His recital on Saturday earned for him additional honors, and in recognition of his effort he was awarded first prize of a beautiful watch.

Commence Excavation for New St. Andrews Post Office

St. Andrews E. — Sod was broken for the new post office here on September 6th. Two teams have since been excavating for the foundation and several large boulders had to be blasted out. The building, to be of brick, will comprise an office but no living quarters.

Lachute Women's Institute Held Opening Meeting of the Fall Season

MISS MacKENZIE, HIGH SCHOOL PRINCIPAL, GUEST SPEAKER

At the fall opening meeting of Lachute Women's Institute Tuesday evening in Lachute High School hall, the guest speaker was Miss MacKenzie, principal of the Montreal High School for Girls.

Introduced by Mrs. Geo. Y. Deacon, Miss MacKenzie referred happily to her attendance at the High School banquet. She recommended a closer contact with children and their school work, urging that women should logically be represented on school boards. There was opportunity for a far better understanding on the part of women, as regards the psychology of the child towards its education, its teachers, its pastimes and its role in the after-school days. Urging a more serious comprehension of home and school influence, Miss MacKenzie saw a wider scope for women in these spheres — even to their participation in community and

Social and Personal

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Morris visited friends in Montreal last week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Carpenter and family, of Montreal, spent Sunday in town.

Mrs. J. D. Campbell spent a few days in Montreal last week visiting relatives.

Miss Phyllis Patterson, of Montreal, was the guest of Mrs. Robert McPaul on Saturday.

Miss Edith McOuat, nurse-in-training at the Montreal General Hospital, is spending her holidays at her home in Lachute.

Recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Catton included Mrs. Thos. Drysdale, of Dorval; Mrs. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Armstrong and sons, Lockhart and Theodore, of Iliou, N.Y.

Miss Ella Jones, of Saint John, N.B., who has been visiting her niece, Mrs. Fraser Morrison, and Mr. Morrison, during the summer season, returned to her home on Friday. She was accompanied by Mrs. Morrison, who spent the week-end in Saint John.

Miss Lois O'Reilly, of Toronto, was the guest of Miss Edith McOuat on Saturday.

Miss Claire Nadeau, of Outremont, spent a few days this week visiting Miss Juliette Rodrigue.

Miss Jean Picken, of the Montreal General Hospital, spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. R. Picken.

Miss Margaret Gibson has returned to Montreal after having spent the summer with her aunt, Mrs. Walter Cooper.

Mr. and Mrs. Linton W. Armstrong, of Lachute Road, have taken up residence in town again for the winter months — in the East Ward.

Lachute was honored this week by the presence of three distinguished visitors from abroad — Mr. Danté Belgrave, Commander of the Legion of Honor and Plenipotentiary of Haiti in Paris; Mr. Edouard Woolley, Professor of the Lyceum at Port-au-Prince, dramatic artist and composer of music; and Mr. Philip Contave, of the Sorbonne and gold medalist of the French Academy. During their brief stay, these gentlemen were guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. Tremblay, and were entertained to dinner at Carling Lake by the firm of Ayers Limited. The party are on a mission to develop commercial and intellectual relations between Canada and Haiti, and they were impressed with the industrial aspects of this town, having inspected the Ayers Mills and their beautifully landscaped surroundings, besides viewing the attractions of Lachute and this countryside.

Entertained for Bride-Elect

Among the hostesses who have entertained for Miss Shirley Hamilton, whose marriage to Mr. Ernest J. A. Boyd, of Montreal, is taking place here on Saturday afternoon, have been Miss Helen Anderson, who gave a kitchen shower at the Court Tea Room, Montreal; Miss Anne Williams, who entertained at a cup and saucer shower; Miss Freda Mason, of Lachute, who was hostess at a bridge and miscellaneous shower, and Miss Elizabeth Hay, of Lachute, who gave a bridge party; Mrs. D. W. Massie, aunt of the bride, entertained at a luncheon and bridge at the Themis Club, Montreal; Mrs. D. M. Hay, of Ottawa, was a bridge hostess and Mrs. J. C. Calder, sister of the bride, was also hostess at an afternoon bridge.

Marriages

Cooke-Bates

The marriage of Lillian Eleanor, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Bates, Avoca, Que., to Mr. Harold Cooke, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Cooke, of Flint, Mich., took place in St. Mary's Anglican Church, Avoca, at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 7th, the Rev. Cyril Earle, of Montebello, officiating.

Mrs. Allan MacPhee played the wedding music. The church was artistically decorated with gladioli, ferns and other fall bloom.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white satin, with high neck-line, long tight fitting sleeves, short train and finger tip veil held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a spray of Calla lilies.

The best man was Mr. Jeffries, of Flint, Mich.

The two sisters of the bride, the Misses Ruth and Gladys Bates, were bridesmaid and maid of honor respectively. They wore floor-length dresses of rose and green water taffeta with contrasting halos, and carried bouquets of Johanna Hill roses. Little Miss Joan Crawford, cousin of the bride, was the flower girl, being dressed in pink taffeta. The bride's mother wore a navy blue dress with hat to match, and a corsage bouquet of red roses.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's travelling costume was a navy blue tailored suit with accessories to match.

Mr. and Mrs. Cooke will reside in Flint, Mich.

Friends from a distance included Mr. D. J. Bates, the Misses Mona, Verna and Ivy Bates, Mr. Lawrence Bates, Mr. and Mrs. H. Sutton, all of Lachute; Mr. and Mrs. E. Vacchino, Mr. and Mrs. Brand, of Timmins, Ont.; Mrs. W. Crawford, daughter and son, of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.; Miss Jennie Bates, of Arnprior, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. Kelly, Detroit, Mich.

Cowan-Noble

The marriage of Laura Lavina Matilda, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Noble, Lachute, to Michael Herbert Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Cowan, Lachute, took place quietly at 4:30 o'clock on Saturday afternoon at the bride's home. Rev. W. LeCras officiated. The wedding music was played by Mrs. Andrew Neill, cousin of the bride. The house was decorated with autumn flowers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of powder blue taffeta, ankle length, and silver slippers, with a matching hat made in turban style of powder blue chiffon velvet, with shoulder length veil. She carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

Her only attendant, Miss Nellie Woods, of Cambria, cousin of the bride, wore a gown of open blue georgette, with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of supreme roses.

Mr. Ernest Cowan, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and Mr. Andrew Neill was usher.

Mrs. Noble, mother of the bride, wore a gown of navy blue sheer with white suede trimmings, a navy blue felt hat, her corsage bouquet being of Token roses. Mrs. Noble, Sr., grandmother of the bride, wore a gown of black crepe with hat to match and a corsage of Johanna Hill roses. Mrs. Cowan, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gown of black crepe, with a black felt hat and a shoulder bouquet of Johanna Hill roses.

Following the bridal supper, Mr. and Mrs. Cowan left on a motor trip, the bride travelling in a navy blue tricot suit, with a navy blue felt hat, matching accessories, and a three-piece fitch fur.

On their return a reception is being held on Friday night. Numerous and beautiful gifts testified to the popularity of the happy couple.

Lachute High School is closed this afternoon as a gesture of tribute to the late Dr. J. M. Drew, who served for six years as a commissioner on the Protestant School Board.

DRIVING 20 YEARS, BUT DOES NOT KNOW HOW TO DIM LIGHTS

"Dim your lights," commanded Patrolman J. Thomas at an automobile inspection station at Miami, Fla. "I don't know how," the motorist confessed. Patrolman Thomas said inquiry disclosed the man had been driving 20 years and had owned his present car four years.

SPECIAL FARES FOR FREQUENT TRAVELLERS

School Children and Regular Motorcoach Patrons can obtain 10 & 50-Ride Tickets

Special low motorcoach fares for all regular patrons of services operated by the PROVINCIAL TRANSPORT COMPANY are in effect, both for adult travellers and for school children. These offer substantial savings over regular rates.

Booklets of 10 and 50-ride tickets are obtainable, and the following is an example of the reductions established:—

Where the regular single fare is 25c, ten-ride tickets cost 17½¢ apiece, and fifty-ride tickets 10¢ each, for adult passengers. School children, between the ages of 5 and 12 years, pay half the adult fares.

The 10-ride booklets are good for 60 days; the 50-ride booklets for 40 days, from date of issue.

Full details may be had from local Provincial Transport agents, or direct from the Head Office of the Company:

ACTIVITIES AMONG LOCAL CHURCHES

A.Y.P.A. Organized at Grenville

Grenville — During the summer the young people of St. Matthew's Church organized themselves into a branch of the A.Y.P.A. and have been meeting each week since that time. Last Friday the constitution was finally adopted and permanent officers elected.

The honorary patron, the Rev. K. N. Bructon, took the chair, and the election resulted as follows: Miss Joyce Rayson, president; Miss May Matthew, vice-president; Mr. Edgar Dawson, secretary; Mr. Melvin Matthew, treasurer.

Following the election, the rector installed the new officers, using the ceremony provided for this procedure. Refreshment and "Look-Out" committees were also elected, headed by Miss May Conway and Miss May Matthew, respectively. The evening concluded with games and refreshments.

Brownsburg United Church

Brownsburg — Laurentian Lodge, No. 14, I.O.O.F., will attend service in the United Church next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. It is expected that a deputation from the Montreal Lodges will also be present. Rev. S. J. Pike, minister of the church, will conduct the service.

Members of the United Church Men's League are conducting the services in the United Churches of Avoca, Harrington East and Kilmar next Sunday.

A number of the United Church Women's Missionary Society members visited the Cushing Missionary Society, as their guests, at a meeting held in the Stone Hall on Tuesday last.

Masonic Service at Grenville

Grenville — On Sunday afternoon the members of Grenville Lodge, A.F. & A.M., No. 101, held their annual church service at St. Matthew's. The service was conducted by the Rev. K. N. Bructon, and the sermon preached by the Rev. L. F. Crothers, of Hull, who also took the closing prayers.

Mr. Crothers based his discourse on the incident of Abraham pitching his tent and building an altar. He emphasized the importance of homes and home life, and also the necessity of worship. Underlying all Masonic ritual, he said, was a soul, and that soul was God.

Quite a large number of the brethren and their friends attended this service, and Mr. Crothers' inspiring address was greatly appreciated.

St. Mungo's Missionary Socy.

Held Monthly Meeting

Cushing — St. Mungo's Women's Missionary Society held their monthly meeting in the Stone Hall Tuesday afternoon, having as their guests members of the St. Eustache, St. Andrews East and Brownsburg societies, with Rev. J. Mowatt, of St. Andrews East United Church, as guest speaker.

On the platform with Mrs. Frank Fuller — who with the assistance of the secretary, Mrs. Graham, had charge of the meeting — were Mrs. E. J. Shearman, sectional president; Mrs. Woodwork, president of the St. Eustache Auxiliary; also Mrs. V. Lilly, president of St. Andrews East, who offered the devotional prayer.

All present were included in the roll-call and replied with a scriptural verse.

The Misses Dorothy and Helen

Weir sang a duet, "Only a Beam of Sunshine," accompanied on the piano by Miss Tita Wales, of St. Andrews East. Mrs. James Thompson, of Brownsburg, favored with a solo, "The Lord Is My Shepherd," which was much appreciated, playing her own accompaniment.

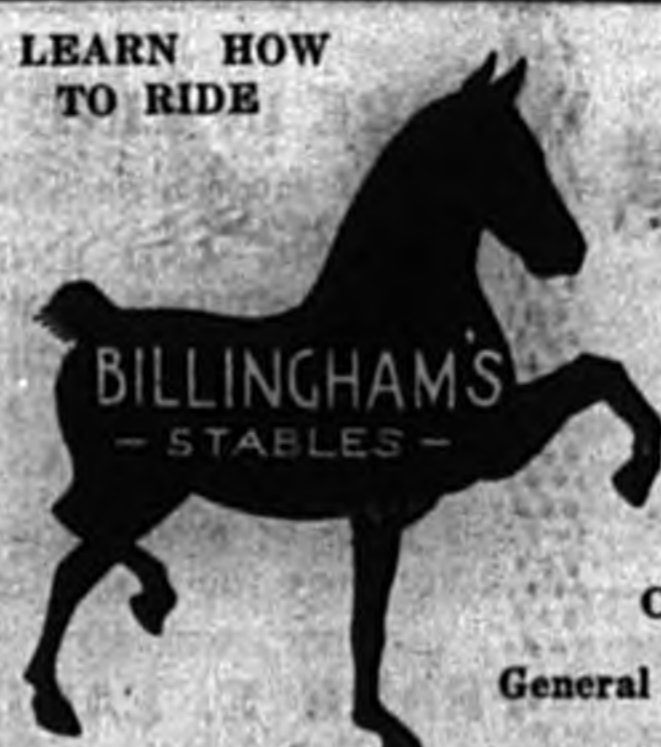

Mrs. Shearman brought greetings from the Montreal Presbyterian, also a message of cheer regarding the work in general.

Mrs. Usher, speaking on behalf of temperance work, made a plea to those present who might be engaged in Sunday School work, to help and encourage the work of scientific temperance education in Sunday and day schools.

Rev. W. A. Dempsey, in his brief remarks, made mention of his stay in Alberta while engaged in mission work there; also of the thought borne of that stay — namely that the Church was behind him in that work and the Head of the Church behind the Church itself; also that those who stayed at home supporting the missionaries were as truly helpful as those who went forth to the different fields.

Rev. J. Mowatt's address on China was interesting and inspiring, yet saddening in its reference to the deplorable position of the women and girls there during the present war. Mr. Mowatt stated that today our missionaries were passing through experiences that could not be described. "They are not running away," he said, "but sticking to their posts and rendering what aid they can in establishing houses of refuge for the unfortunate, and in other ways."

A social time followed the meeting, when refreshments were served under the conensorship of Mrs. W. H. Canning.

BOOKS FOR THE BLIND

Braille is difficult to learn and there are many blind people who can never read it. The Foundation for the Blind in the United States has made records of several hundred books for the use of the blind. They are lent free and issued just as library books are. There is a special phonograph for their use, portable, easy to operate and combined with a radio. Those who can pay for them buy these phonographs but they are lent free for quite a duration of time to those who cannot afford them. The books are read by professional readers, actors or radio announcers. There is a wide choice and the list is being increased steadily. Some plays were included but now they are doing plays with an entire cast. What a wonderful thing this must be to have an opportunity to listen at will without being dependable on some one to read. The National Institute for the Blind works with the Foundation and some of these records come to Canada but, I understand, mostly in institutions.

TO CHOOSE THE RIGHT COURSE

When young people go to college or even to High School, it is a difficult thing to know exactly what course to take or if the course is decided, what options to elect. Because of this, many schools and colleges are giving the same first year for every pupil so that they may have a chance to find themselves. Too often students found that they were taking the wrong course, and it was too late to change. One Divinity student consulted the Dean as to his course of studies; the Dean, being a Classics man, felt that Classics was the only course. This young man had no appetite for languages, disliked the Classics and from a very promising student fell to a mediocre one, with difficulty in making a pass grade rather than the Honour course he had started. He found he would like to have taken Psychology, Sociology and the various studies in humanity. But it was too late. To get them he would have to spend another year, which he could not afford. It is well to talk over courses with more than one teacher and if possible to talk them over with senior students. By hearing from several people, one is more apt to get a general picture.

MIX YOUR OWN

The vogue for sun-tan brings cosmetic problems and the proper shade of face powder is one of them. When you first get tanned you probably find one day that your face looks as if you had dipped it in the flour barrel after using your usual powder. If you are wise, you will have changed to a sun-tan powder. That is fine for a while but then comes the Fall! The tan fades and one powder is too dark and the other too light. What to do about it? Simple. Just mix your powder, doing a little at a time, until you get the shade that suits your particular style of beauty. Gradually increase the light shade and lessen the dark until you are back to your regular color.

PEPPERS

There are two varieties of green and red pepper. One is the hot pepper, and of later years the sweet pepper has come into great use. One woman said the only way she could tell the difference between them was to bite them. Perhaps your grocer does not appreciate you biting his peppers! The hot pepper is a small one with a fairly sharp point. The sweet pepper is much larger and broad at the end. The red pepper of either variety is just a ripe green one. There are a great many ways of using the sweet pepper in salads and so on. They are an appetising addition to meats, such as stews and hash; fry them in a little dripping, just as you do onions. They do not taste like peppers in the meat mixture but they give a rich, tasty flavor.

TRY

A ring of green pepper on a slice of tomato.
Curds with chopped green pepper.
Salmon, celery and green pepper salad.

A green pepper stuffed tightly with a white cheese or with curds, chilled until firm, then cut in thick slices.
Coarsely chopped green peppers in a cabbage salad.

DAMSON PLUM JAM

Measure the desired quantity of plums, remove stems and wash. Put into a kettle and add water until it can just be seen. Boil for twenty minutes, after it has come to the boil. Measure and add an equal quantity of sugar. After the sugar is added, the pits will come to the top. Remove these with a fork. Boil for five minutes and bottle in sterilized jars. This makes a delicious jam, as it is really a jelly with the pulp left in. Any plum may be used but the Damsons are especially fine. This will tell better if the plums are not dead ripe.

OAT CAKES

2 cups oatmeal, 1 cup flour, 1 cup butter and lard mixed, 1 cup brown sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon soda, 2 tablespoons milk.
Rub the mixture together like pie crust, then add the milk. Roll ¼ inch thick and cut in squares. Bake in a moderate oven of 350 degrees.

Had Distilled Sea Water Back in 1593

One might be inclined to think that the manufacture of distilled water from sea water is an achievement of our modern age, but in going back over old documents it is recorded that Sir Richard Hawkins, in a voyage he made from England to the West Indies in 1593, had on board a distilling apparatus for the same purpose. Modern liners, however, take on supplies of pure fresh water before leaving port.
A "Lady" liner of the Canadian National Steamships, one of the five named after the wives of English admirals, is known as the "Lady Hawkins," after the wife of Admiral Sir John Hawkins, who was the father of Sir Richard, and both helped to write England's history in the West Indies.

In Praise of Water

In an old English book is a prose poem in praise of water which has hardly ever been surpassed: "Water is more strong and sublime than most imagine, for it contains a most ravishing and excellent sweet virtue whence proceeds the pure sweet refreshing quality whereby it hath power, by its innate virtue, to digest and purify all food. It is so simple and indued with such equality that it insinuates its virtues into all parts of the body in an insensible way. It makes no noise nor causes tumults in the brain, but imparts its meek life as it were in silence."

EATING

Cervantes, the famous Spanish author and creator of Don Quixote, that quaint character who was always charging windmills, once said that a "man was known not from whom he was bred, but rather with whom he fed," and if we are to believe other chroniclers it seems certain that the world believes that the way to a man's heart is via his stomach.

Of late there are many who believe that primitive man knew intuitively what was good and what was not good for him to eat, and point to the fact that long before vitamins began to be exploited, men waxed fat and strong, lived long and well, without eating according to some medical formula. Let us consider some of the various items of food used in other lands and by other peoples. When I was young and lived in the South, we laughed at the negro because he drank pot-licker. Today we know that the waters in which vegetables and meats are cooked, have a real therapeutic value, because many of the vital ingredients of the articles cooked are held in suspense in the solution.

Mixed Diets

When the American Indians, due to their changed method of living, began to eat more meat and less vegetables, they became susceptible to numerous diseases, especially tuberculosis, eye troubles, rheumatism and decayed teeth. American-born Chinese and Japanese are bigger and stronger than native born. Chinese babies, due to a scarcity of cows, seldom get milk to drink and have established a contempt for that fluid, but are given a preparation made of soy bean, as an infant food, while Chinese mothers, before their babies come, eat pickled pig's feet, which by the way are considered the appropriate present for a woman anticipating an increase in her family. The indications are that the person living on a mixed diet of fruits, vegetables, fish, fowl and flesh contracts less diseases, lives longer, has a greater power of resistance, and is taller and more powerful.

CRANBERRY ORANGE RELISH

Want something brand new in relishes? Impossible, you say. But you're wrong. It involves no cooking at all, is economical to make and guaranteed to become a family favorite. One word of caution. BE SURE to let it stand a few hours to get the full flavor of the mixture.

(No Cooking)

1 pound (4 cups) cranberries, 2 cups sugar, 2 oranges.

Put cranberries through meat grinder. Quarter oranges, remove seeds, and put through grinder. Mix with berries and sugar. Let stand a few hours before serving.

"Lady-bug, lady-bug, fly away home!" Only we hope the lady-bug will make her home in our gardens and houses because these tiny beetles with polka-dot wings feed upon plant lice and scale insects. Until I knew the worth of these little creatures they annoyed me when I found them on my window sills and I destroyed them as I would a fly. Now I welcome them and wouldn't think of harming one. The lady-bug places about 20 eggs in a cluster on the underside of a leaf, usually on a plant that is badly infested with aphids. When the eggs hatch into grubs, these grubs immediately begin to devour the insect pests with a more vicious appetite than the beetles themselves have. In fact, these beetles are so effective that the State of California maintains a barracks, where they are kept in readiness to send out in case of an outbreak of scale in the vineyards and orange and lemon groves. For fifty-two years California has relied on the lady-bug to keep her groves free from the cottony cushion scale.

Now we are shopping for fall clothes and fashion news tells us that the styles hark back to the gay nineties again this winter. Naturally, this brings back leg o' mutton sleeves and fitted hips and waists, so watch your lines when you try on new clothes. Be particular, too, about your neck line. A good neck is one of the loveliest features a woman can have and it should be made the most of. If you are short-necked, be careful to wear only the plainest, flattest necklines. V and square necklines are becoming to most faces and promise to be popular this season. Soft draped effects are flattering to thin faces and necks. Avoid round necklines if you have a double chin or a fat face.

Music Sheet Reveals Father to Daughter

A sheet of sacred music bearing the composer's name is bringing a father and daughter together in a transatlantic reunion 37 years after the father migrated from England to Canada.

Marion Beeton Pull, district nurse in the village of Bearsted, near Maidstone, Kent, told reporters her father went to the Dominion shortly before she was born and that her mother died apparently without informing him of the birth.

She was adopted and raised by a foster mother, who died when she was 21. Three years ago Miss Pull was playing an organ adaptation of "Abide With Me" when she noticed the composer's name was Edwin Pull. The music was published in Toronto, so Miss Pull wrote Police Chief Draper, who got into touch with Pull.

"Father and I have written each other hundreds of pages of letters," she said, "now he is planning to visit England and may arrive next month. He has been a church organist in Toronto."

Pull has remarried in Canada and has two sons.

SALT LONG IN USE

The story of salt is so closely allied to that of civilization from the beginning of time that it is impossible to trace its discovery. Nearly two thousand years ago the Egyptians used it to preserve their food; and in the days of the Roman empire soldiers were paid in salt—hence the word "salary" from the Latin "sal" meaning salt. An ancient custom which is recognized in some parts, is that once a man had broken bread and eaten salt with another, he could never be his enemy. Refusal to partake of his salt was tantamount to a declaration of enmity. Salt is a mineral, otherwise known as chloride of sodium, compounded of the non-metal chlorine and the metal sodium.

Love Has No Cash Value in State of Massachusetts

Love has ceased to have a cash value in Massachusetts.

A law, enacted by the legislature last May, banning breach of promise suits, took effect August 31st last.

Representative Katherine Foley, of Lawrence, sponsored the measure as a move to "take the racket out of love," declaring that "money is not 'balm' for any woman who sincerely suffers in an unhappy love affair."

"Universal Aunts" and "Useful Women," two London companies, act as guides, companions and chaperons.

"Darling, I could sit here and do nothing but look at you forever."
"Yeah, that's what I'm beginning to think, too!"

Let Me Be Thankful

Let me be glad the kettle gently sings,
Let me be thankful just for little things,
Thankful for simple food and supper spread,
Thankful for shelter and a warm, clean bed,
Thankful for friends who share my woe or mirth,
Glad for the warm, sweet fragrance of the earth,
For golden pools of sunshine on the floor,
For love that spreads its peace about my door,
For little friendly days that slip away,
With only meals and bed and work and play,
A rocking-chair and kindly fire-light —
For little things let me be glad to-night.

I hate the weeping pessimist that's always talking blue,
And painting up his troubles with a cemetery hue;
He never sees a rainbow, but always sees a cloud,
And tries to throw it over everybody like a shroud.
He pounds away at all he meets and tries to make them think
That his has been the bitterest of bitter dreeds to drink;
He tells you that his trouble is an overpowering curse,
And never stops to reason that it — Might Be Worse!

STYLE CONSCIOUS

In some parts of the South the Negroes still lean to the old-style country dance.

At one dance, when the fiddlers had resined their bows and taken their places on the platform, the M.C. rose.

"Git yo' partners fo' de nex' dance," he yells. "All you ladies an' gennulmens dat wear shoes an' stockin's take yo' places in de middle of de room. All you ladies and' gennulmens dat wear shoes an' no stockin's take yo' places behin' dem. An' yo' barefooted crowd, you jes' jig roun' de corners."

Early U. S., France Treaties
On February 6, 1778, treaties of defensive alliance and commerce were concluded between France and the United States—the first foreign recognition of American independence. Carried by sailing vessel—then the only means of transatlantic communication—copies of the documents did not reach congress until May 2. Meanwhile, the passage of Lord North's Conciliatory bills by the British parliament had conceded practically every point disputed by the colonists. Peace commissioners were hurried from England to America, in the hope of reaching there before the news of the French treaties could have its effect on public opinion. They arrived about the middle of April, but to little purpose. Congress ratified the French treaties on May 4.

Memorial Window For Banff Church

Inspired by the beauty of the Canadian Rockies, and the sweet tones of the bells of St. George Church, Banff, Alberta, Miss Jessie Van Brunt of Brooklyn, New York, has presented the church with a memorial window which she designed and made herself. The window embodies the idea of the Church bells as angels or God's messengers sending inspiring invitations to worship. It was placed above the main entrance and is in memory of the late Canon Henry Montgomery, M.A., rector of this church from 1921-24, previously rector of St. Peter's Church, Kingsclear, N.B., and Canon of Christ Church Cathedral in the diocese of Fredericton, N.B., also rector of St. Barnabas Church, Calgary. He served in the C.E.F. from 1916-18, being chaplain of No. 14 Canadian Hospital at Eastbourne, England. He died at 75 on July 9, 1929.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

By-gone days of motoring are recalled by a unique collection which has been made by Frank Walker, head of Pontiac Motors' Courtesy Department in the United States. It consists of 500 automobile radiator emblems and name-plates gathered from the cities and countries where motor cars are built or have been built in the past 40 years.

Walker's collection grew out of a desire to make an ash tray out of radiator emblems. But after he had obtained a half-dozen name-plates from defunct cars at a junk yard and had cleaned and polished them, the beauty of their enamel work so impressed Walker that he decided to make a permanent collection. Among the seldom remembered makes represented in the collection are: Leach, Paterson, Moon, Kissel, Haynes, Colby, Halladay, Briscoe, Chandler, Case, Diana, Fremont, Barley Six and Elcar.

MOTOR MISCELLANY

Air is pulled through the carburetor of a modern automobile at speeds approaching Sir Malcolm Campbell's record speed of 301 miles an hour.

The first automobile road-race, 78 miles from Paris to Rome, was run in 1894, de Dion winning with an average speed of 12 m.p.h.

Motor accessory sales reveal a growing appreciation of road lamps — formerly regarded only as "fog lamps." The effectiveness of these lamps is due to the amber lenses, and to the location of the lamp close to the road, which prevents the beams being reflected back into the driver's eyes. Their use is no longer restricted to foggy weather, as it has been found that they are highly effective in dust or smoke laden air, as well as under normal visibility.

Part of Reconstructed Barracks Will House Loan Exhibit on October 22

Interesting Collection of Relics and Canadiana Expected for Museum Display

AN AUSPICIOUS EVENT IN PROGRESS OF HISTORICAL SOCIETY'S PLANS

Work on the old Carillon Barracks, which is being re-constructed for use by the Historical Society as its museum under a grant from the Federal Government of $16,000, is being pushed forward rapidly to completion. For some time it has been the intention of the Society to hold its Annual Loan Exhibit in October in a part of this building which will then be ready for inspection and occupation.

A meeting of the Society's Advisory Committee on the administration of this museum was accordingly held on Friday, Sept. 16th last for the purpose of considering the details of this function and the possible sources from which representative loan exhibits may be obtained for this important occasion. Dr. Cushing, president of the Society, was in the chair, and there were present also M. Victor Morin, L.L.D., Dr. C. F. Martin, Hon. A. K. Huguessen and Dr. Maude Abbott. It was recommended that the date of this exhibition be October 22nd next and that it be opened by short addresses from several representative persons (named below). Also that loan exhibits be sought from the more important historical collections in or near Montreal. Dr. Martin, president of the Art Association, announced that the committee of that body had already authorized the loan of any old French-Canadian furniture and other Canadiana in its possession for the period of the exhibit under the usual loan conditions. Among other important sources of supply recommended to be approached for exhibits were the Canadian Handicrafts Guild, the McCord National Museum, the Canadian Industries Limited at Brownsburg for the loan of their exhibit on "Gatling Gun Howard," etc.

M. Victor Morin said that special exhibits illustrating the local history of the district were especially desirable, mentioning, particularly (1) the arms of the Dollard period, which on account of the vicinity of the site, should be specially featured; (2) objective material on the old Carillon and Grenville Railroad; (3) on the Ottawa River Navigation Co., and earlier steamers landing at Carillon; (4) on the old Carillon-Grenville canal. To these subjects the committee added (5) the history of the Carillon Barracks itself and that of Commissary-General Forbes, the builder and first owner. In view of the fact that the first paper mill in Canada was erected at St. Andrews and that this event is already marked by a cairn erected there by the Historic Sites Commission; (6) a historical exhibition on the early evolution of the paper industry in Canada from its origin at this point would also be very much in place.

On Saturday, Sept. 17th following, at a meeting of the executive committee of the Society, the above recommendations were approved and the date of the Society's exhibit and opening of that part of the Carillon Barracks completed at date was fixed for Saturday afternoon, October 22nd next, at 3.00 p.m., when an endeavour will be made to make this an interesting social and educational event, in which it is hoped members of the Society and all others interested in this and the adjacent counties will participate. Dr. H. B. Cushing, president, will be in the chair, and Mr. A. C. Kains, of Ottawa, honorary president; Mr. Victor Morin, president of the Royal Society of Canada, and the Hon. Senator A. K. Huguessen, representing the Federal Government, will speak. At the close of these proceedings the meeting will adjourn to inspect the interior of the building and the exhibits, and tea will be served. Thanks were expressed to the Council of the Montreal Art Association for their generous action in promising a loan of Canadiana for the furnishing of the "Habitant" room of the building. In addition, exhibits of military and national interest are being applied for, from the Fort Henry Museum at Kingston, the Canadian Handicrafts Guild, the McCord National Museum and a number of other sources. Of still greater importance for the ultimate aims of this Society is the fact that a county-wide appeal is hereby circulated to all residents possessing objects bearing upon the history of their locality, urging them to forward these to the Society, either for loan at this exhibit or for presentation to its permanent

Beggars Get Drunk on Proceeds, Two Are Taken to Jail

CONSTABLE GERVAIS HAULS VAGRANTS BEFORE BENCH AT ST. JEROME

After being detained in the local jail and warned on several previous occasions, Maurice Asselin, 29, and Georges Dubord, 34, were arrested in Lachute at 7 o'clock last Thursday evening and taken to St. Jerome for arraignment. Town Constable Alex Gervais apprehended the two on Main Street, and before Messrs. Latour and Legault, Justices of the Peace at St. Jerome, entered a charge of vagrancy, drunkenness and begging without a permit.

The couple were given a short jail sentence. Asselin stated he was a native of Terrebonne, but could give no fixed address. He had served previous sentences in St. Jerome jail. Dubord gave his address as Grenville. The constable alleged that the two men, after begging from Lachute citizens, had spent the money on drink and were acting in a disorderly manner.

LIONS CLUB AUCTION FOR CHARITY FUNDS

CAR ALREADY DONATED TO TEMPT BIDDERS

Lachute Lions Club held its regular semi-monthly meeting on Tuesday evening. Members of the various committees presented their reports of summer activities, and anticipating new work for the winter, the Club has planned a rummage sale from which it is hoped to derive a substantial sum to replenish the Charity Fund — which, owing to drain upon the treasury, is now down to $1.45. Each member is to secure ten articles at least, and Lion Geo. Y. Deacon has led off by donating a car for the sale, which is to be conducted by auction on Sept. 30th.

Mr. Wm. Laroche, general superintendent of the Ste. Anne Paper Mills at Beaufort, and Mr. Victor Sutton, of the same place, were guests of Lion Major G. G. Mitchell; Mr. T. Canning was guest of Lion J. E. Walker, and Mr. R. Whiteman a guest of Lion A. Lamarche.

Big Machines Used on Laurentian Highway Improvement

(Top) The Letourneau scraper, hauled by caterpillar tractor, makes the turn after dumping its load on the new grade.

(Right) A "bulldozer," which levels off the earth and stone deposited by the Letourneau scraper.

Big machines are employed in the improvement of the Laurentian Highway, which is part of the Quebec Government's ambitious roads program. Widening, straightening and grading — and complete rebuilding of certain sections between Montreal and Mont Laurier, will afford a fine arterial route to link with the Senneville road, which will ultimately connect with the new mining areas of Northern Quebec.

Shown above (top view) is the biggest machine used on the Ste. Agathe-Mont Laurier stretch. Operated by one man, the R. D. 8 Caterpillar Diesel Tractor draws a Letourneau scraper, scooping tons of earth into its jaws where a "cut" is to be made, and proceeding to the new grade farther along the road, drops its load. The scraper is followed by the bulldozer, a single unit on caterpillar drive, which levels off the new earth.

Our reporter was escorted over this project by George Powell, L.H.S. graduate of '38, who has been employed this summer by the Highway Paving Co. of Montreal, contractors on this job. (Watchman photographs)

S.S. CAMPBELL ELECTED TO SCHOOL COMMISSION

At a meeting of the Lachute Protestant School Commissioners on Tuesday evening, Stuart S. Campbell was elected a member of the Board to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Dr. J. M. Drew. The interest which Mr. Campbell has manifested in matters of community welfare and the advancement of our younger citizenry, qualify him for this position, and his appointment will find general favor around town.

Mr. and Mrs. James Dewar. They disembarked from the river boat at Carillon on the Ottawa and reached their destination at Dalesville after a three-day trek, a distance which one would nowadays cover in less than an hour.

Christina Dewar was educated at Brownsburg nearby and later at Lachute Academy. She became a teacher in Dalesville and East Settlement, where one of her illustrious pupils was William McClure, who became a doctor prominent in the medical profession and later went to the mission fields of China. For half a century Mrs. Campbell was secretary of the Mission Circle of Dalesville Baptist Church and was presented with a life membership in 1915.

Married to John Campbell of Dalesville, lumberman, Mrs. Campbell raised a family of eleven children on the homestead, six of whom are still living: Peter Campbell, Salmon Arm, B.C.; Stewart Campbell and Mrs. James MacKenzie, Lachute; Arthur Campbell and Mrs. George Murdoch, Dalesville, and Mrs. B. Fuller, The Pas, Manitoba. Mrs. John Campbell has 34 grandchildren living and 15 great grandchildren. She was predeceased by her husband in 1909.

From all corners of the county friends gathered last Sunday at the old Campbell homestead for the funeral of this widely known and well-loved resident. Service was conducted by Rev. J. R. Simpson, of Brownsburg, assisted by Rev. S. J. Pike, of Brownsburg, and Rev. C. Hardie, of Dalesville. Floral tributes were many and beautiful. A solo, "Heaven Is My Home," was rendered by Mr. A. E. White.

Pall-bearers were five grandsons and one great-grandson of the deceased — David and Kenneth Campbell, of Montreal, Ronald Campbell, of Ottawa, Archie and John McKenzie, of Lachute Road, and Stewart Martin, of Morrisburg. Interment was made at the Dalesville Cemetery.

PARTRIDGE BAN LIFTED FOR 2-WEEKS SEASON

Provincial fish and game authorities have announced hunting of partridge this season in Quebec will be permitted from September 24 to October 9.

For the past two seasons partridge hunting had been banned, due to a scarcity of the birds. The new regulation was approved at a meeting of the Provincial Cabinet and signed in an order-in-council by Lieutenant-Governor E. L. Patenaude.

53rd Annual Gathering of Canadian Ticket Agents

PASSENGER AGENTS CONVENE AT MINAKI, ONT. — A VERITABLE SPORTSMEN'S PARADISE

— By J. S. GILES, Editor

To have travelled a distance of 2,500 miles with congenial company and the best of transportation privileges, without ever a jarring note, is something to be thankful for and to be proud of. Such was the record of the Canadian Passenger and Ticket Agents' Association as they returned on Monday morning, Sept. 12th, from their 53rd annual outing, held this year at Winnipeg.

Leaving Toronto on Saturday, Sept. 3rd, our party entrained at midnight on the C.N.R. Western which, owing to heavy traffic, was run in two sections, (our section carrying 18 coaches), and after happy reunions we were soon tucked away for the night. Eight o'clock found everyone enjoying a good breakfast and full of anticipation for a two-day sojourn at the beautiful Minaki Lodge, which had been held open as a special concession for our visit.

Until the year 1785, the methods of transportation in vogue were almost as primitive as they were about 250 years before when Jacques Cartier sailed up the St. Lawrence. Canoes, rafts, flat boats, barges and small sailing craft, the horse and mule, the ox-cart and covered wagon, and the

Fine Buildings Destroyed by Fire, St. Hermas

HUNDREDS OF NEIGHBORS FLOCK TO RENDER ASSISTANCE

Heavy loss occurred Saturday night when fire swept the stables and out-buildings of John Kingsbury, two miles west of St. Hermas. His fine layout of buildings, with hay, grain and contents of the silo, were burned. None of the livestock was within range of the blaze; and a milk-house and granary were saved through efforts of nearby farmers, who flocked to the scene and formed a bucket brigade. The dwelling, a frame house about 100 feet from the buildings, was intact.

The outbreak occurred at about 8 p.m., and the reflection of the flames was visible for many miles. The loss is estimated between $3,000 and $4,000, on which Mr. Kingsbury had insurance of only $1,800.

Frascarelli Co'y Gets Contract for Laying of Sewer

WORK IN WEST END STARTED TUESDAY MORNING

An adjourned session of Lachute Town Council was held last Thursday evening in the council chamber. Mayor Dr. A. Rodrigue presided, and Aldermen Jas. W. McGibbon, Wm. J. Deacon, C. Durocher, Jos. Speight, Geo. A. Muir and Ernest Prevost were in attendance.

The object of this meeting was to award contract for installation of sewerage on Lachute Road from Anthime Joly's corner north to a manhole opposite Amedee Normand's, and from the corner of Grace Street to the fire station.

Tenders were considered for the laying of 300 feet of 24-inch sewer and 380 feet of 12-inch, together with 6-inch connections to street line for houses already erected. The following tenders were submitted: Gustave Gagnon, $3,610.00; Mansfield Construction Co., $4,367.00; Frascarelli Construction Co., Ltd., $2,571.40; Canada Construction Corp., $4,396.90; W. J. George, $2,642.40. The meeting then adjourned for private discussion.

On motion of Ald. W. J. Deacon, seconded by Ald. A. Muir, the Frascarelli Construction Co. was awarded the contract, at $2,571.40, work to start after signature of the contract and official authority from the Quebec Municipal Commission, the contract to include all material and labor, one outsider only to be allowed, and work to be completed in three weeks.

(Work was commenced on this project Tuesday morning).

FOUR HUNDRED RIDERS COMPETE IN LONG DISTANCE RACE

A long-distance ride recently organized in England attracted 400 riders who rode 100 miles over a special route to Salisbury Plain. Routes were given but riders followed any course they pleased provided they passed through the checking points. WITH 53rd ANNUAL GATHERING OF THE CANADIAN TICKET AGENTS ASSOCIATION

PASSENGER AGENTS CONVENE AT MINAKI, ONT., — A VERITABLE SPORTSMEN'S PARADISE

Since then our continent is spanned by means of six different routes, three situated for the full distance in Canada except the C.P.R. link across the State of Maine and the Canadian Northern along the north-eastern edge of Minnesota. The desperate financial condition of the Canadian Northern, Grand Trunk Pacific, led to their incorporation with the Intercolonial and National Transcontinental and the other government railways into the Canadian National system controlled by the Dominion Government, the last step of which was fourteen years ago. With extensions to the Hudson's Bay, which reached its terminus at Churchill, and the T.N.O., which reached the waters at James Bay, we now have an increase of railway mileage from 16 miles in 1836 to over 42,000 in 1936 and our population per mile of railway is about 245.

We have interjected this brief sketch, and digressed a little in order that our readers may appreciate the splendid service of the railways systems that so quickly transport us in such safety and comfort, for the railways are justly proud of their safety record, as it is their boast that only one passenger was killed in three and a half million passengers carried, whereas twelve hundred deaths resulted from automobile accidents or over one death per thousand registered motor vehicles.

Passing through a territory fairly ribboned with waterways and offering all manner of allurements for canoeist and fisherman, we find favorable camping grounds for the hunter and many interesting queries were advanced as to what the country's rugged interior was holding back from those who had been tempted to part with their cash in helping to promote the mine that was expected to put them on easy street.

Arriving at Minaki early Monday morning, we were met by attendants, whisked off in a motor launch and landed at the wharf of this delightful summer hotel, where two wonderfully pleasant days were spent in boating, fishing, golfing and tennis. Fine weather favored us all through and most of our party were housed in the sleeping cabins which were all equipped with modern conveniences. As their folder so amply states, "There is an air of homeliness and comfort pervading the spacious lounge in the main building. Shading lights cast a warm glow over walls of stone and logs." From the main verandah one gets a pleasing view of the fountain, lawn and Sand Lake, and the flowers add their touch of beauty. Wednesday noon came all too quickly, and on leaving each lady of the party was presented with a beautiful bouquet and the men with a buttonhole.

A four-hour run in private coach landed us in the progressive city of Winnipeg. Here a royal welcome awaited us as we were greeted by the rail and steamship officials of the city, together with a number of off-line men, who escorted us to the Royal Alexandra Hotel of the C.P.R., in which we were comfortably housed in luxurious quarters until time of our departure on Friday.

The morning session of the convention got under way sharply at 9 o'clock when President W. Sanderson introduced a number of visiting officials, many of whom gave brief addresses and extended friendly greetings, after which the ladies adjourned to a neighboring room where they held their own meeting. Mr. R. Richmond, our energetic secretary, presented a most interesting report in which the Association was shown to be in a remarkably healthy condition. The educational features were strongly stressed as being most helpful to the Association, and hearty votes of thanks were accorded the railways, steamships, hotels and all who had contributed in any way towards the pleasantries so liberally provided.

At the noon banquet, Mayor John Queen extended warm welcome and in breezy manner told of the city's progress, its broad streets and magnificent buildings, public and industrial, of its having the cheapest electricity, etc., and as the visitors were shortly to be taken on a sight-seeing tour they would be able to see for themselves.

As the city of Winnipeg and St. Boniface were joining in celebrating the 200th anniversary of La Verendrye at the forks of the Red and Assiniboine Rivers, Mr. C. E. Stockwell, Asst. V.C., in a most interesting address, traced the life and history of this intrepid French-Canadian explorer, and graphically described the hardships he encountered in his journey from the St. Lawrence to the West. Many of our party took advantage of attending the pageant, which was held in the Auditorium.

Leaving Winnipeg at 7 p.m. on Friday we journeyed to Fort William, where we boarded the C.P.S.S. "Keewatin" and thoroughly enjoyed the trip over the Great Lakes through the majestic inland seas of Lake Superior and Lake Huron. Though the weather was a little cloudy, the members had a wonderful time and many new friends were found while mingling with other passengers. Deck sports were soon indulged in as well as card playing, and when night drew in the passengers all settled down to enjoy a pleasant evening in masquerade dance and community singing with the ship's orchestra leading. Arriving at Sault Ste. Marie shortly before 10 o'clock many took advantage of going on shore, a goodly number attending service in the varied churches. The afternoon was spent in diverse ways, but in the evening a number of the passengers gathered around, with Mrs. Sanderson at the piano and Mrs. Higginbottom leading with her rich soprano, the old-time hymns that brought all voices into play. It was indeed a pleasing feature to know that in the midst of all frivolity the good things were not forgotten.

Upon arrival at Port Arthur we were joined by Col. Rae, who was delighted to meet so many of his old-time friends.

The pleasing voyage came to an end all too quickly. — Our special

BEST MAN DROPS DEAD DURING WEDDING PARTY

While dancing at the wedding party of a friend, O. Labelle, 25, of St. Augustin, collapsed and died in the home of Mrs. Joseph Leonard at St. Janvier early Sunday morning. Death was due to heart failure. The case was reported to Coroner J. G. Latour, M.D., of St. Jerome, who disposed of it with a verdict of death due to natural causes.

The coroner was told that Labelle had been best man at the wedding of Wilfrid Leonard, of Ste. Anne des Pleines, and had spent the day with the newly-married couple and their friends. In the evening the party went to the home of the groom's mother and continued to celebrate. Labelle was called upon to do a tap dance shortly after one o'clock and he was in the middle of the dance when he collapsed.

Judge Finds No Evidence on Rigaud Arson Charge

Charged with arson following the burning of his hearse-ambulance near Rigaud last winter, Fortunat Aubry, undertaker, of Rigaud, was acquitted in Court of Sessions by Judge Amedee Monet.

awaited us and we were soon steaming ahead for Toronto where fond good-byes were said ere we all separated for our respective homes, feeling indeed very grateful to those who had thought out and planned such an enjoyable outing.

In Winnipeg we were privileged to meet old Lachute friends in the persons of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Styan, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. McGregor, and while in Fort William we were greeted by Mrs. Beckett (Eva Bradford) and her two stalwart boys, while at Sault Ste. Marie we renewed old friendships of Mr. and Mrs. Lem Taylor and their family, whose daughter, Margaret, in their Plymouth car, spun us around the town.

FISHERMAN IS DROWNED; LAUNCH TIPS HIS BOAT

Thrown into the Mille Isles River, near Belair Bridge, Ste. Rose, when a motor launch crashed into his rowboat, J. Philippe Dalbec, 40-year-old resident of Ste. Rose, was drowned before aid could reach him.

The mishap occurred about six o'clock Saturday night. Dalbec was fishing in the middle of the river near Ste. Rose when the larger craft crashed into the rowboat and hurled him into the river.

Unable to swim, Dalbec sank almost immediately. The launch, occupied by M. Valiere and M. Boutin, also of Ste. Rose, turned back immediately after the crash to go to the victim's aid, but no trace of him could be found.

Residents of the district joined in the search for the body but all efforts failed until 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, when the body was found near the scene of the accident.

C. P. R. FREIGHT SHED ROBBED AT ST. JEROME

Burglars broke into the C. P. R. freight shed at St. Jerome early Saturday morning and stole a quantity of goods, mostly foodstuffs, and carried them away in the section foreman's handcar to a spot two miles distant, where they loaded the booty on a truck and fled.

The burglary was discovered on Saturday morning by the freight agent as he arrived for the day's work. C.P.R. detectives and Provincial Police officers found the burglars had forced the rear door of the shed and opened most of the packages in selecting their booty.

Canned goods consisting mostly of jams and preserves seemed to be the bulk of the stock taken. The handcar was found abandoned on the line and the tracks nearby showed the load had been transferred for removal.

Gamblers With Death

A recent convention of the American Psychological Association revealed that one-fifth of motor drivers allow less than one second in passing the car ahead when there is one coming from the opposite direction. . . Such figuring is undisguised death-gambling.

The habit of 20 per cent of drivers of allowing less than a second to clear an on-coming car was discovered with moving pictures taken from a moving car. The drivers who were spied upon never knew a camera eye was recording their "timing." As an apparently ordinary unit of traffic T. W. Forbes and T. M. Mason, of Yale University, drove all through the midwest, far west and northeast; they wanted to know how much time the average driver allowed to pass and get back into his own lane. The time taken was after the driver had completed his pass and the arrival of the on-coming car to the point where it would have crashed with the passer.

This in 20 per cent of the drivers was less than one second. Half of this 20 per cent were definitely operating in the danger zone. The rest of the public allowed more time. The cautious extreme was a man in the west who refused to pass when he could see an on-coming car two full miles ahead.

You and I cannot determine whether or not Europe will start a mass murder. But we can do something about this kind of slaughter. We deplore airplane attacks on helpless women and children. Yet every day men doom their own to agonizing deaths by taking chances.

Nothing Sacred

"$1,000 Offered for Loan of Blarney Stone" — says a headline. "Syndicate of Americans wants to exhibit famous rock in United States and Canada, charging $1 per kiss."

Sure, and why not the Coronation Stone, at $5 a sit?

"Blessed Is He —"

The Deseronto Post springs a new line on the Beatitudes — new but very practical. We recommend these "stimulants" which might well be adopted as community cantations and tenderly observed:

"Blessed are the merchants who advertise, for they have faith in their business, and prosperity shall increase many fold. Blessed are those who do not expect the editor to know everything, but who tell him whenever an interesting event occurs in which they are interested — for they shall have a better newspaper in their town. Blessed are they who get their "copy" in early, for they shall occupy a warm place in the editor's heart. Blessed are they who co-operate with the editor in behalf of the community, for their town shall be known to all men far and wide, as a good place in which to live and do business."

Battle of Bonneville Flats

If you can imagine yourself in motion at the speed of a bullet, you will have only a slightly exaggerated idea of Captain George Eyston's "clip" of 357.5 miles an hour with which he established a new land speed record last week.

At Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah, the intrepid driver erased John Cobb's 24-hour-old record by a slightly higher mark, whereupon Cobb announced their "dizzy duel was ended." Over the measured mile in the centre of the 13-mile course Eyston reached a speed of 525 feet a second, comparative to the 700 feet a second muzzle velocity of an ordinary .45 calibre revolver bullet.

The perils involved in driving a car at such speed makes one shudder to think upon. True, the salt desert offers none of those highway hazards which John Smith and William Brown encounter as they drive to their afternoon golf. But as these kindly motorists amble out of town at fifty, occasionally wondering what might happen should a blow-out occur or a wheel drop off — let their thoughts turn reverently to Bonneville Flats, where speed demons have been defying fate to bust the fractions and compete for that extra mile or two.

When Familiarity Is Fatal

Railway statisticians say that 80 per cent of grade-crossing accidents occur within ten miles of the victim's home. Frequently the victim is a farmer, so well acquainted with the scheduled times of the trains that pass his property every day that he has given up looking both ways at the crossing. Then one day a special train appears at a time that the crossing would normally be safe, and another gory headline is provided for the local paper. — The Printed Word

Sir Edward Beatty Becomes Freeman of Cranbrook

When Sir Edward Beatty, G.B.E., K.C., LL.D., chairman and president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, attended Cranbrook's Pioneer Reunion, Friday, September 9, he received the freedom of the city and heard the freedom of the city and heard himself extolled as an outstanding Canadian and head of the company which 40 years ago forged the Crows' Nest Pass link of its great railway system into the rich Kootenay country. Sir Edward is seen receiving a silver tray commemorating the occasion, from Mayor T. M. Roberts, on the left. To the right of Sir Edward is Judge G. H. Thompson who swore him in as a freeman of the bustling East Kootenay city. Ross H. McMaster, of Montreal, director of the Canadian Pacific Railway, is at the extreme left of the picture. This, the third ceremony of its kind in which Sir Edward has participated, Saint John and Vancouver having previously conferred the freedom of their cities, was a joint tribute to Sir Edward and to the pioneers of the road, many of whom were present to see the brilliant ceremony and to hear their own work of four decades ago praised.

TEETH decay causes

American teeth are the worst in the world and need more attention than those of other peoples. Too much sugar, not enough vitamins, calories, calcium and phosphorus, in the national diet is the cause of bad teeth, says Dr. Russell W. Bunting, of the University of Michigan's school of dentistry. America consumes two thousand million pounds of candy a year, besides the sugar eaten in other food. That is more than fifteen pounds of candy a year for every man, woman and child, white, black or Indian.

Dr. Bunting tried an experiment in which he kept 300 children on a diet containing no sugar for a period of months. They maintained perfect health and showed no signs of tooth decay, while another group, allowed to eat what they pleased, suffered bad general health and all had decayed teeth.

Lactic acid, which develops a germ that attacks the roots of the teeth, is responsible not only for dental ills but for many cases of heart, kidney and joint diseases.

CARS redesigned

For years, ever since motor vehicles began to appear on the highways, engineers have been saying that their design was all wrong. The engine ought to be back over the rear axle, where its weight would add tractive power to the rear wheels, and it could be geared direct to the differential instead of having to transmit power through a long drive-shaft.

American automobile makers have experimented with rear-engined cars, but none has been produced commercially. Now two European car builders, Wenner-Gren of Sweden and Mathias of France, announce that they are going to begin shortly to make such a car in America, England, Sweden and France, to sell for $500.

CLOTHES distinction

The masculine world is experimenting more daringly than in a hundred years with variations from the long-accepted standards of color and style in clothes.

Men have long been content to leave bright colors and novel styles to the ladies. It is pleasing to me, in view of all the talk about "regimentation" of the people, to note the increasing popularity of colored shirts, fancy socks, handkerchiefs and neckties, and the growing tendency to gayly-colored suits, hats and overcoats among young men in the big cities. Blue and even green evening clothes for men no longer attract undue attention. I approve of that departure from the somber black of formal evening dress for men, which makes it difficult to distinguish the guests from the waiters.

There was a distinguished appearance to men's formal clothing in the older days. A blue swallowtail coat world we seem to be carrying on our struggle in twilight or fog. Nothing but light from the Bible can lighten that twilight or dispel that fog.

There are many other outstanding statesmen who have similarly expressed their esteem and appreciation of the Bible, but time and space are limited and only a few have here been mentioned.

the continued unabated disorder in the republic of Czechoslovakia, the hope which refuses to die, rests in the unwearied efforts of the British people and their statesmen to hold in check the disruptive forces at work in the world. The Canadian Government and the Canadian people wholeheartedly support these efforts. As expressed by editorial comment throughout the Dominion, the course taken by Mr. Chamberlain has removed the possibility of "misunderstanding." All cards are laid on the table, all avenues for the preservation of peace are explored, and even then the catastrophe cannot be averted, the responsibility before the bar of world opinion will be placed unequivocally where it belongs.

THE TRADE PACT WITH THE UNITED STATES

Until the pact with the United States is finally signed, sealed and delivered there will continue to be rumors about Canadian products which may be injured in the British markets by the new treaty between the United States and the United Kingdom. Only with the conclusion of this treaty as well, can this anxiety be removed. At present our three negotiators, who have been in Washington for months, are expected in Ottawa to lay before the Cabinet ministers the difficulties which are still to be straightened out. One of these is the regulation in force in the United States which obliges all lumber shipped from Canada to that market to be branded with the country of origin. As the regulations governing supplies for governmental works in the United States under the WPA stipulate that only domestic lumber is to be used, this means a sharp curtailment on our lumber exports. At the same time lumber exporters in the United States want freer access to the British market. In this situation, it is felt, there is no indication of the compensatory concessions to be granted by the United States to Canada on concessions asked by American exporters from the British. It is quite evident, however, that the majority of points at issue have been settled and that it will not be long before the treaty can be signed. Unsettled questions relating to lumber, fruits and some other primary products will doubtless be settled by direct discussions between leading officials of the two countries. There are rumors that Parliament may be called some time this fall to give its approval to the treaty. This depends largely, however, on whether the treaty contains any appreciable increases in tariff schedules. Tariff rates cannot be raised without the consent of Parliament. As this seems unlikely, it is probable from the present outlook that Parliament will not be summoned. The treaty would be put into force by orders in council and approval would be asked during the next session.

Whether Parliament is to be summoned depends on a graver issue, and it is the hope and prayer of everybody that this will not be necessary. The Dominion Parliament has been fully advised from Westminster on the course of the crisis in Europe but outwardly all is calm about Parliament Hill. There have been no special meetings of the Cabinet. The Prime Minister, Mr. King, has been confined to his home, though not his bed, with sciatica. His condition is improving and it is stated he will soon be again at his office. But beneath this apparent calm is of course the deepest anxiety. In case war should break out, Parliament would probably be summoned immediately to decide on Canada's course of action. The Prime Minister has stated a number of times in the House of Commons that this would be the course the Government would follow.

A letter received at the Saint John, N.B., local post office from Culver City, Calif., bore this helpful inscription below the address of a Saint John resident: "By air mail or dog team."

Friend — "Did you get any replies to your advertisement that a lonely maiden sought light and warmth in her life?"

Spinster — "Yes, two from electric companies and one from the gas people."

PROMINENT PUBLIC MEN AND THE BIBLE

In view of the approaching annual meeting of the Lachute Branch of the British and Foreign Bible Society, a brief account of the attitude towards the Bible of some outstanding leaders, affords an interesting and profitable study.

Beginning with our late beloved sovereign, George V: "The circulation of the Holy Scriptures," he said "has done more, perhaps, than anything else on earth to promote moral and religious welfare among old and young."

In presenting at the end of the school term a prize given by himself, His Majesty said to the winner, "I have here a book that I am going to give to you. When I was your age I promised my mother to read it every day, and this I have done almost without exception ever since. I owe much to it. If you make the same promise to me now, I do not think you will regret it." He then handed an inscribed copy of the Bible to the boy.

Another great ruler and contemporary of King George V, a President of the world's greatest Republic, Woodrow Wilson, said: "By the blessing of God I ascribe to Bible study the help and strength which I have had from God to pass in peace through deeper trials in various ways than I ever had before; and after having now above fourteen years tried this way, I can most fully, in the fear of God, commend it. . . . A man has deprived himself of the best there is in the world who has deprived himself of intimate knowledge of the Bible."

The greatest probably of all the Presidents of the United States, Abraham Lincoln, said: "I am profitably engaged in reading the Bible. Take all of this Book upon reason that you can, and the balance on faith, and you will live and die a better man." While he was quite a young man, his mother had expressed a wish that her son might know his Bible well rather than he should own a farm. Long afterwards, when President, it is said he told someone that his mother's wish had been granted — and that he knew his Bible well but had never owned a farm.

Premier Stanley Baldwin has this to say: "So much of our time in this

AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY BOARD OF DIRECTORS HELD DISCUSSION

A directors' meeting of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society was held in the Court House on Monday evening with J. H. Black, vice-president, in the chair. Directors in attendance were Messrs. Geo. Hay, W. J. Roger, E. K. Wilson, S. Wilson, A. Maisonneuve, James Murdoch, Ross McAdam, W. G. Heatlie and Major G. G. Mitchell. The secretary-treasurer, Alex Bothwell, read his tentative statement to be presented at the annual meeting in January — which showed a balance of almost $2,500. In consequence, the directors felt it justifiable to vote $500 for roofing of the exhibition stables and $1,150 for general repairs where necessary. Other improvements for the accommodation and comfort of exhibitors were also discussed.

Fire Destroyed Dwelling at Brownsburg Friday Night

Brownsburg — Fire destroyed the home of Mr. L. Demere in this town last Friday night. Firemen rushed to the scene, but were unable to save anything as the house was a frame building and burned very rapidly. The blaze was caused by an overturned kerosene lamp.

Queen Elizabeth's to Be Heard Over CBC During Launching of New Liner

Toronto, Sept. 20.—CBC announced today that it will broadcast over its national network Tuesday, Sept. 27, 9:15 to 9:50 a.m., EST, ceremonies on connection with the launching of the new liner, Queen Elizabeth, at Clydebank, Glasgow. The broadcast will include a brief talk by Queen Elizabeth who, with His Majesty King George VI, will participate in the launching.

Every detail of the colorful ceremony attending the launching of this giant new Cunarder will be brought to listeners. CBC has made elaborate arrangements to insure that not only the launching ceremony itself, but also the sounds of the release of triggers and creaking of the ways as the giant ship slides in the water will be clearly audible. The principal commentator will be George Blake, the Scottish novelist, who spoke to listeners during the Coronation and the launching of the Queen Mary.

Although the Queen Elizabeth has been called the "sister" ship of the Queen Mary, there actually is very little family resemblance between them. Naval architecture, since the construction of the Queen Mary four years ago, has changed considerably. The new liner, for instance, will have only two funnels as compared with the Queen Mary's three. The Queen Elizabeth, which has a greater rake to permit a third anchor, is 1,030 feet in length — 10 feet longer than the Queen Mary.

PLANS FOR IMPROVED "SKI SERVICE" IN THE LAURENTIANS

RESORTS PROPRIETORS DISCUSS
WINTER IMPROVEMENTS

With "Philadelphia interests" planning a million-dollar winter resort development at Mont Tremblant, Laurentian resorts proprietors are looking forward to one of the most successful seasons on record, according to reports submitted to the Laurentian Resorts Association meeting last week.

Already one hundred men are at work clearing the way for a railway which will carry skiers up the steep slope of Mont Tremblant and a syndicate headed by Joseph Ryan of Philadelphia plans construction of a winter hotel and a resort built along the lines of the "Sun Valley" in Idaho, U.S.A.

Louis Francoeur, publicity director of the Montreal Metropolitan Commission, which is co-operating with the operators of the Laurentian resorts, announced that in addition to the "snow trains" from Boston and New York the association has made application to the Canadian Pacific Railway to run similar excursions from Toronto during the winter months.

Week-end frequenters of the Laurentians who in the past have complained about the excessive charges which they alleged they were obliged to pay for meals, will find this year that through the Laurentian Association they will be provided with first-class meals at a minimum price of fifty cents.

It was decided at the meeting to inaugurate a "buffet service" which will afford skiers prompt attention and good meals at a reasonable price. Under this plan, dining rooms in the larger hotels will not be too overcrowded.

Charges Betrayal of Comrades Who Sleep in Flanders

Reported terms of the Franco-British plan for dismemberment of Czechoslovakia constitute "betrayal of our comrades who sleep in Flanders and elsewhere," Rev. Allan Ferry, Dominion chaplain of the Imperial section of the Canadian Legion, said in a statement issued at Owen Sound.

The statement said in part: "Imperials throughout Canada are humiliated and sorrowful at the surrender of the British government to the threats of the German dictator. We cannot forget that hundreds of thousands of our comrades sacrificed their all to make the world safe for democracy as today we, democracy itself, are being sacrificed to the dictator nations. Veterans will be forgiven if they find themselves asking: 'Was it all in vain?'"

"No group of men more earnestly desire peace, but at the same time no group of men knows how costly a peace at any price can ultimately be."

Lachute Family Bereaved

The death of Mrs. Raoul Joly, of Lachute, occurred on Wednesday after a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Joly is mourned by her husband, Raoul Joly, funeral director of this town; two daughters, Miss Gabrielle and Miss Mariette Joly, both of Lachute; one brother, Mr. Joseph Beaulne, of Ottawa; two sisters, Mrs. John Fournier, Ste. Therese, and Miss C. C. Beaulne, Montreal.

The funeral will be held at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, service in Ste. Anastasie parish church being followed by interment at Ste. Scholastique Cemetery.

Late Miss Elizabeth Boyd

Morin Heights — The death occurred on Friday, September 16th, of Miss Elizabeth Boyd, after a short illness. Miss Boyd was in her 83rd year.

The funeral was held from Trinity Church on Sunday morning, service being conducted by Rev. J. V. Temple. Beautiful flowers bore silent tribute to her memory.

She leaves to mourn her loss one sister, Mrs. Hammond, of California — the other members of the family having predeceased her.

Late Mrs. Duncan Paul

The funeral of Mrs. Duncan Paul, whose death occurred at her home in Saranac Lake, N.Y., on Friday, September 9th, was held the following Sunday and conducted by Rev. A. B. Gurley, pastor of the Presbyterian Church.

Formerly Miss Isabella Griffiths, of Lachute, she was married to Duncan Paul in 1882, he having predeceased her one and a half years ago. After farming in Bethany for many years they moved to Saranac Lake in 1900. In 1914 Mr. Paul built a cottage at Lake Louise, and came yearly to spend the summer months.

Mrs. Paul was in her 82nd year. Interment was made at Pine Ridge Cemetery.

Inter-departmental Softball Finished at Brownsburg

The deciding game in the play-offs of the Brownsburg Softball league was played last Saturday afternoon, and when the dust had cleared away it was found that the "Plastics" team, captained by "Red" Charlebois, had won the coveted championship with two straight wins over the "Loading Room," with scores of 11-9 and 23-5. The Plastics team, incidentally, got off to a very bad start this season, losing three of the first four games, but they then finished the season without the loss of another game. — Just another "King Bruce and the Spider" story.

Time Reverts to Standard Next Saturday at Midnight

Readers are reminded of the change of time — regarded by some as a perennial cause of confusion at this season. Clocks should be retarded one hour at midnight on Saturday, as advanced time has served its purpose for another year. Special attention is drawn to this change in connection with church services the following day, Sunday, and alterations in C.P.R. train services.

Much Damage Caused By Heavy Gale and Rainstorm

High winds last night and this morning have caused damage and disruption of power and telephone services over a wide area.

At Brownsburg it is reported a tree crashed on top of a car on Maple Avenue. Telephone poles were snapped and a tree thrown across the highway, causing another crash when a car collided with it. No personal injuries are reported.

This is considered to have been the worst wind and rain storm for many years in these parts.

Marriage

Boyd-Hamilton

The marriage of Cora Shirley Andria, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hamilton, of Lachute, to Mr. Ernest J. A. Boyd, of Montreal, son of the late John Boyd and of Mrs. Boyd, of Montreal, formerly of this town, took place on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents here, Rev. W. B. Rosborough, of Lachute United Church, officiating.

Autumn flowers decorated the living-room, and bowls of Johanna Hill roses were placed in the dining-room. Mr. D. M. Hay, of Ottawa, played the wedding music, and Miss Helen Anderson sang "I Love You Truly" during the signing of the register.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a frock of Buckingham rose taffeta, having a tight-fitting bodice, puffed sleeves and a full, quilted floor-length skirt. A large bow of Royal blue velvet extended from the neck-line to the floor. Her shoulder-length veil of rose tulle was held in place by a halo of blue cornflowers, and she carried a Colonial bouquet of Sweetheart roses, blue cornflowers, and sprigs of heather.

Miss M. Evelyn S. Hamilton, sister of the bride, the maid-of-honor, was in an old-fashioned frock of Dolce blue taffeta, having a tight bodice, a shirred waistline, and a full floor-length skirt, and trimmings of velvet. Her shoulder-length veil of blue tulle was held by a headdress of matching velvet flowers and she carried a Colonial bouquet of American Beauty roses, gladioli and blue delphinium.

The bridesmaid, Miss Reta M. Boyd, sister of the bridegroom, was in an old-fashioned frock similar in color and design to that worn by the maid-of-honor. Her headdress was of matching velvet flowers, from which fell a shoulder-length veil of blue tulle, and she carried a Colonial bouquet of gladioli and delphinium. Little Miss Linda Calder, niece of the bride, the flower-girl, was in a printed taffeta frock.

Mr. Dennis Staniforth was best man for Mr. Boyd, and the usher was Mr. Meredith Massie, cousin of the bride.

Mrs. Hamilton, the bride's mother, was in a bodice of silver and blue lame, and her corsage bouquet was of Talisman roses. Mrs. Boyd, mother of the bridegroom, was in midnight blue velvet, and her corsage bouquet was of Sweetheart roses.

At the reception vases of Johanna Hill roses were placed on the bride's table.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd left for a honeymoon in the Southern States, the bride travelling in a grey wool frock, trimmed with red suede, a navy blue coat, and matching suede accessories. On their return they will reside on Queen Mary Road, Montreal.

W.I. Party Visit Points of Interest in Montreal

In spite of the overcast weather, 29 ladies of the Lachute Women's Institute left by motor on Tuesday morning for an outing in the City of Montreal. During the day visits were made to the Chateau de Ramezay, the Art Gallery, the Botanical Gardens and the kitchens at T. Eaton's Ltd., with a trip through the extensive factory of Harrison's P-O-M Bakery, where the party were graciously entertained. They returned home in the evening, feeling the day had been profitably spent.

ACTIVITIES AMONG LOCAL CHURCHES

W.M.S. Gathering in Two St. Andrews E. Churches

St. Andrews E.—On Tuesday afternoon of last week, eight ladies of the United Church Auxiliary were guests of Cushing W.M.S. The following Friday evening, St. Andrews United Church Auxiliary entertained the St. Therese Auxiliary, three of whose members, Mrs. E. A. Martineau, Mrs. Cranston Greer and Miss Oswald, conducted the devotional period, taking as their theme, "Community Friendship." While a number of active members were unavoidably absent, there was a good attendance of interested friends.

The guest speaker, Miss Jeanie King, Port of Montreal deaconess, was introduced by the local president, Mrs. V. Lilly. Miss King gave a vivid portrayal of incidents at the dock and stations where she, under the auspices of the W.M.S., met and assisted women coming from Europe to make new homes in Canada.

Mrs. M. Yale tendered a vote of thanks to Miss King. After a short business session, refreshments were served in the Sunday School hall. Four C.G.I.T. girls—Dorothy Halsey, Betty and Elsie Dorion and Lois McClintock — assisted in serving. The thank-offering was received by Mrs. W. Lamb and Miss E. Hendry. Autumn flowers and fruit were used in decoration.

St. Andrews E. — The W.M.S. of the Presbyterian Church met in the church hall on Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. R. J. Bradley presiding. As this was Home Helpers' Day, there was a larger attendance than usual, and the entire program was presented by this department.

Mrs. George Rodger took charge of the devotional period and gave a very splendid exposition of the 23rd Psalm. A paper, entitled "The Duties and Privileges of a Home Helper," was contributed by Mrs. George Bryson. Miss Hamilton sang the 23rd Psalm to a very lovely setting.

The tea hostesses were Mrs. Robt. Elder, Mrs. Gordon Smith, Mrs. McDuff and Mrs. O'Brien. At the close of the meeting a special prayer meeting was held asking for peace.

The next meeting will be the Harvest Thank-Offering, when Mrs. Owen Campbell, of Montreal, will be the guest speaker.

Brownsburg United Church

The Ladies' Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. Wilbert Hardie for their regular meeting last week. Among the business discussed was the public function to be held in the church Friday afternoon of this week.

Members of the Men's League conducted the services at the United Churches in Avoca, Harrington East and Kilmar last Sunday. Special music augmented their contribution to the services. Rev. S. J. Pike will visit the charge this coming Sunday and Rev. Hugh McPhail, of Montreal, will preach for Mr. Pike here at the morning service.

Oddfellows' Service Held at Brownsburg

ADDRESS BY REV. S. J. PIKE
PROVINCIAL GRAND CHAPLAIN

The semi-annual service of Laurentian Lodge, No. 14, I.O.O.F., was held last Sunday morning in the Brownsburg United Church, Rev. S. J. Pike, minister of the church and Chaplain of Laurentian Lodge, as well as Provincial Grand Chaplain, conducted the service and delivered an address on the topic, "The Soul of Odd-Fellowship." The members of the Lodge were cordially welcomed by the minister on behalf of the Official Board and congregation. Mr. Pike, in opening his address, remarked that he would like to speak not so much as Chaplain of the Lodge, or even as Provincial Grand Chaplain, to which office his brethren had seen fit to elevate him, but rather from the observer's point of view — from the outside, as it were, beholding the good and great in Odd-Fellowship; maybe in some things critical, but constructively, that Odd-Fellowship may go on to greater heights, achieving even finer things. Following are extracts from Mr. Pike's address:

"Our Scripture lesson this morning (1 Sam. 20:4-17) was a call to 'Friendship,' indeed a 'Fellowship,' and that of the 'mystery' as St. Paul would say; a Fellowship of the unusual kind — hence Odd-Fellowship, the kind you do not usually get. The verses of our lesson reveal its significant truth: the 4th — 'Whatsoever thy soul desireth, I will even do for thee,' and the 17th — 'He loved him as he loved his own soul.' It is the thrilling story of 'Friendship' between David and Jonathan, backed by a deep religious conviction, unselfishness and love. Their friendship vows were taken as in the sight of God.

"Theo. Ross, Past Grand Secretary of the Sovereign Grand Lodge, has said: 'The best evidence of the strength, sincerity and truth of Odd-Fellowship is found in the care and protection afforded those in need, be they maimed, aged, widowed or orphaned.' The world at large must view Odd-Fellowship from the results of its works. Does it not seem important then that, as Jesus said, your light should shine before men that they may see your good works? Odd-Fellowship is a humane institution. It is the outgrowth of human affection and love. Herein lie the principles, or tenets — the three links of Friendship, Love and Truth — on which the Order was founded and by which it must carry on... It has been said that a lot of people are willing to improve economic conditions if it takes everything other people have, but the man who would play the part of the Good Samaritan must never forget the oil and the wine and the pence. The oil must ever represent his sympathy, regard, affection and love, the wine his blood which he would freely offer and the pence his substance, the support he is willing to provide. Friendship flows from the heart and cannot be frozen by adversity, as water which flows from the spring cannot congeal in winter. 'Friendship is the gift of the gods and the most precious boon to man.'

"We see Jesus as the incarnation of the public spirit, the higher moral of life, the union of class and creed and color and an equality of Fellowship — Friendship — for which our world is hungering and to which task we are called. Only as we accept Him as such will Odd-Fellowship, Brotherhood, indeed, the Kingdom of God — become 'as fair as the moon, as bright as the sun and as terrible as an army with banners.'"

"Nature looks through the experience of a million years; we look through the experience of a few minutes." — George Barton Cutten.

STORIED SPOTS FROM SEA TO SEA

By W. J. Banks, B.A.

A Lovely Yarmouth View

Forked Cape and Land's End

When Champlain sailed along its coast he called the Yarmouth district Cap Fourchu, or Forked Cape. The Indian name was also quite appropriate, meaning "Land's End." The term, "Yarmouth," first appearing in a grant dated 1759, was probably adopted at the request of settlers who hailed from Yarmouth, Massachusetts. The town is now an important railway and steamship terminus. The southwestern gateway to Nova Scotia, it is the center of a popular holiday and hunting district.

Acadian settlers were in Yarmouth county in the middle of the seventeenth century, and many banished in the expulsion of a hundred years later found their way back again to this beloved homeland. Their descendants today form an important element in the prosperous community. In 1761 vessels with new colonists from Massachusetts arrived to reinforce still earlier Puritan settlers. Some United Empire Loyalists came to swell the population following the virtual abandonment of the Shelburne colony, but the Puritan tradition maintained its ascendancy in Yarmouth.

In Yarmouth Library many tourists have viewed with interest the famous Runic stone, found more than a century ago, and thought to have been inscribed by Norse adventurers hundreds of years before French or English came to Acadia. If Yarmouth's first white men were indeed intrepid Vikings, its later inhabitants worthily carried on the seafaring tradition. In the palmy days of sailing many fine craft were built there and Yarmouth's fleet was among the proudest of the north Atlantic.

Fantasy of the Ants

Short Story specially contributed to The Watchman
By Blanche A. Draper, St. Andrews East

One beautiful spring day when I was just a little boy of seven, I lay on the grass with my head propped up on my elbows; my feet were waving skyward.

The crickets were chirping, the birds were singing their song of love, the cows in the pasture near me were mooing as they dallied about among patches of rich yellow King-cups.

The stream which ran down the hill and across the pasture where it joined the brook could only faintly be heard above all the other spring noises.

My dog, Towser, came bounding up to me and began to bury his nose in the soft, sandy earth beside me, then to rub his nose sharply with his paw. I looked to see the cause of his apparent discomfort and found two or three black ants strolling about his shaggy fur.

I was loathe to rise from my comfortable position, the sun was so deliciously warm on my back — and today nothing seemed to be in a hurry, not even the train which had just pulled out along the black, snake-like line which ran through part of our meadow. It had several men on it, seated on gravel-heaps on flat cars. Huge derricks like prehistoric skeletons stood on other flat cars. I waved to the men in the distance and thought how much they reminded me of small black ants on a hill. . . . In a way they were to be compared to the ants, because they were the workmen of the line — always busy, always going somewhere else to be busy.

Now, Towser began playfully asking me to come and see some real ants. . . . "Well! pull me up," I said, as I reached for his collar and he planted his hind feet more firmly on the ground and pulled. Soon we were racing along towards the wooden fence which bounded the pasture from the house and garden. Towser squeezed through underneath. I vaulted over the top. Off we went into a deeper part of the woods, and there Towser stood stock-still beside a rotten stump, his head on one side, one ear up and one down, saliva dripping from his pink tongue.

He looked wonderingly at me, then he barked and crouched as though to dare those wicked, pinching ants to come out now that his master was with him.

I took a stick and poked at the mouldy wood around the base of the stump, and could hardly believe my eyes when thousands of the little creatures appeared as if by magic. I wanted to see what they were doing, so I ordered Towser to lie down a little way off. Then I watched. . . . Some of them were evidently carrying out their dead, for they sometimes had one ant stretched out on the backs of four others. . . .

Anxious to learn more about these little creatures, I hurried home and got a glass jar from my mother, came back and collected some of the busy little things. My mother told me to put some earth in the jar, or the ants would have nothing to do but kill each other; so I did.

Strangely enough, they seemed quite content to busy themselves in the earth. A few days later I put some strange ants in with those that I had kept a short time — and then the battle began. They fought and killed each other till there were only a few left. I put some honey in the jar for them to eat; for dishes I used the discarded caps of ginger ale bottles. It worried me a little when I saw the naughty ants cover all the honey over with dirt, but by careful watching I saw them roll little pieces of the honey-sweetened earth before them and draw the honey up through the earth with their feeders.

Every spring afterwards I went ant-hunting in the woods and as I grew older I learned a lot about their habits.

It was very interesting to watch them take a Queen ant down in the earth of some of my jars, and then bring back her wings, because once a Queen is taken to court, she is never allowed to see daylight again. Her life is a short and gay one. She is mature, and she mates, has her wings torn off and dies within twenty-four hours.

The ants always seem to find a plentiful supply of Queens, for they used to bring all the Queen-ant wings to the same place in the jar and lay them down like a small pile of cigar ashes.

Sometimes, by holding the jar up and using an electric flashlight, I could see from under the jar what the ants were doing, and I discovered that they made a kind of honey, and that their home consisted of rows and rows of earthen shelves, on which they laid their eggs with the utmost care.

As I grew older I knew where to find ants' eggs in the woods; and soon I was able to watch the process of hatching going on. Once I upset two ant-hills, one on each side of the wooden fence of our pasture, and didn't those ants fight! There were very few left to tell the tale. It was exactly like our wars are fought. The ants have stretcher-bearers to carry off the wounded, grave-diggers to bury their dead, and army leaders, too.

Years later, after living in the city, I found time to visit my childhood home, and the desire to search out my old haunts in the woods caused me to don old boots and sweater before climbing the fence. My old dog, Towser, had gone to a happier hunting ground, so I was alone. I sat on a stump in the woods and began flipping a willow-wand about idly as I gave myself over to reminiscence. I thought of the jars my mother had helped me to fill for my ants. The hours I had spent with Towser searching for different species — the red and the black. I was so deeply lost in my reveries that I did not notice a lady approaching till she stood in front of me and said, "Can you tell me how to get out of these woods? I am afraid I have lost my way. You see I was gathering wild-flowers and I almost stepped into a bog."

I did not answer her immediately, due to my difficulty in believing that this beautiful apparition was real — for it seemed impossible that these old, musty woods of mine could hold a girl of such apparent poise and grace, a creature all blue and misty like the sky and clouds on a clear day all rolled into one; golden hair, blue eyes, gleaming teeth; her dress was of two shades of blue, the skirt of a deeper tone than the knitted sweater. — I presume I puckered up my brow, for she continued in a sympathetic voice:

"Oh! I am so sorry. Perhaps you are in trouble and I may be able to help you." She said this with her pretty head held a little to one side, as though trying to read my innermost thoughts.

I am afraid that I stared rather hard, for I was simply dumbfounded. She was without a doubt the most beautiful creature that I had ever beheld in such close proximity. She blushed and I began to turn away.

"Please . . . don't go," I pleaded. . . . "I never dreamt of meeting anyone so lovely as you — here in MY woods; do let me show you the way out, this path leads over the fence." I indicated the right-hand path over which I had so recently come. "Of course I would not dream of letting you go that way and over the fence, so if you will permit me, I'll take you the other way. I know every inch of these woods and I love them — don't you?"

"Yes! I love the woods, Mr. — er?" "Oh yes! how stupid of me. Allow me to present myself — Charles Bateman, at your service," and I made a sweeping bow. She laughed a sweet tinkling laugh and her blue eyes sparkled with mischief as she turned to me and, bowing deeply, replied, "And I am Gretzella Estella Malone — famous circus rider, etc., etc. The show is about to commence. Get your seats, ladies and gentlemen." Then we both laughed, for I knew by the way she said this that she was spoofing me.

"No, honestly my name is just plain Jannet McPherson, stenographer in a stuffy city office. — Answered an ad in a vacation column, and here I am. I love the woods, but golly! this place is dead from the neck up. — I mean the village. — Do you live here?"

INDIAN SCOUTS SPECIALIZE IN RESCUES FROM WELLS

Rescues from drowning in rivers, lakes and the sea have become almost a looked-for service by Boy Scouts in all the Scouting countries of the world. In India the Scouts have added the frequent rescue of persons who fall into the many wells from which whole village communities draw their water. A recent typical case was the rescue at Shahadra, Punjab, of a small boy who had toddled to the well and fallen in. The rescuer, Scout Mubarak Ali, called by the child's excited mother, at once dived in, grasped the infant, and held it above water until a rope was procured and lowered by villagers, when both were drawn up to safety.

though my old home was just the other side of the fence. You see I used to come out here with my dog Towser when I was a boy, and I'm afraid I was dreaming about old times when you came along."

"Perhaps you would like to tell me about your boyhood, Mr. Bateman. It must have been very interesting." Then she smiled so sweetly at me that I vowed to tell her anything at any time.

Of course, I chose the longest way round. When we parted I promised to see her again — for my heart was doing strange things to me, and this was spring. . . .

Now the story must end somewhere, so I will have to tell you how. A year later we spent our honeymoon in my home town, or village, as Jannet called it; and I discovered that a wife can be just as busy as an ant, anyway!

Sent S.O.S. Call on Shaving Mirror

By an SOS heliographed from the cook's shaving mirror after 24 rockets had failed, the crew of the coasting steamer Girasol — 10 men and the 19-year-old daughter of the chief engineer — called aid as their ship began to sink.

Her skipper and five men were taken into Liverpool recently by the Yeoward liner Aguila. The rest of the crew and the girl — Miss Dorothy Holden — were picked up by the Glen liner Shuna.

The Girasol was bound from Cardiff to Glasgow. Her cargo of 300 tons of pig iron shifted in a gale off the Pembrokeshire coast. The ship listed over to 45 degrees and drifted helplessly for 11 hours, firing 23 rockets.

The cook heliographed with his shaving mirror to call help. The rescuers picked up the crew and a trawler took the Girasol in tow for Milford Haven. The Girasol sank on the way.

Ralph Connor's Greatest Book To Be Published in Serial Form

It is seldom that so great a book as Ralph Connor's "Postscript to Adventure" is made available to readers in serial form immediately following its publication. The fact, however, that the Family Herald and Weekly Star has secured exclusive publishing rights for this book is indeed interesting.

"Postscript to Adventure," as many admirers of the late Ralph Connor (Rev. C. W. Gordon) will know, is the last book he wrote, having been completed just before he died. It is an amazing tale built around his lifetime of rich experiences, from his boyhood days in Glangarry County, Ontario, to his breath-taking adventures during the World War. Critics have called it his most exciting book — as thrilling as "The Sky Pilot."

The Family Herald and Weekly Star is to be congratulated on its foresight in purchasing the rights for "Postscript to Adventure," thus making it possible for over a million readers to enjoy this great book inexpensively in serial form. Installments start in the Family Herald this month.

FOLLOW THE STARS

Are you planning to learn something through the Winter season? One of the most heartening things in this modern world is the recognition that we are never too old to learn. The daily round of work and social duties is not enough to keep us from stagnating. No one likes to grow old and the very best way to stay young is to continue learning. Learn some new handicraft or take up some special study. If there is not a class to join, start something yourself and you will be surprised how many others will join if some one paves the way. If you do not know how to go about it, appeal to your nearest university for information about their extension classes; ask the superintendent of the Women's Institute; or the Provincial President of the Home and School Association. Hollywood, since the advent of the talkies, shows us a good example in adult education. Most of the stars are learning new accomplishments. Follow the stars. Make life more interesting right now by learning something new and do not stagnate into old age.

NEVER COAX TO EAT

I have watched a four-year-old stage a performance every meal time. He was one of the won't-eaters and had to be coaxed and bribed for almost every bite he took. Too often children use meal-times to get attention and they can put on a fine act. It probably started very innocently after an illness but has continued until it becomes a habit. Eating, like most things, is a habit. If a child is troublesome about eating, just ignore it and let them go without until they become hungry. It will come as a shock to them to be ignored. Mothers hesitate to let a child go hungry for fear it will not be good for them. They need not worry. A fast of a couple of days will not hurt them. Insist on them having more rest but do it casually without stress. Even a small child will understand that a car must have gas to run and that their meals are his gas and if they do not take gas they have to stay in the garage. When meal time comes serve them the very smallest possible helping. When the appetite is small a large helping takes away all desire for food. Without saying anything about it, foods that they do like may be served to tempt them. The two most important points are to say nothing whatever about them eating, and to serve very small quantities so that they may get the habit of cleaning up their plate. If they ask for more, give a second helping reluctantly. Instead of being pushed to eat, make them feel doubtful about getting it. Let mother put on an act instead of the child. Cultivate an appetite, that is, a desire for food. Make meals a pleasant time.

BRING ON THE VEGETABLES

It is hoped that vegetables are better cooked in the homes than they are in Canadian restaurants and hotels. Vegetables are not hard to cook properly and perhaps it is because they are so simple that the cooks do not pay enough attention to them. The worst fault is the overcooking. They are boiled until they are a soggy mess. Seldom do they have enough salt and it certainly is not much trouble to taste a vegetable before it has finished cooking to see if it requires salt, as it is difficult to add it after serving. Then, too often they are not properly drained and it is most unappetizing to have a vegetable oozing with liquid. It does not cost a cent more to serve a properly cooked vegetable than a poor one. One summer hotel has built up a reputation for its meals by its vegetable cookery. The meals seem unusually good and yet when you analyze them the rest of the food is about the same as you get any place else but the vegetables are grand. They have their own garden and get the vegetables perfectly fresh and they are cooked to perfection. There are always two fresh vegetables besides potatoes for dinner and usually cucumbers, tomatoes, celery or radishes — one thing uncooked. City people are the great vacationists and fresh vegetables properly cooked will ring the bell every time.

LIQUID POLISH

When it comes to putting on liquid polish, the manicurist usually does better work than the home-paint job. One of the reasons for this undoubtedly is that their polish is fresher. They use more of it and the bottle does not last as long. Most of us have opened a new bottle of polish and felt we were getting good, it was a slick job. The longer the bottle is open, the worse it gets and eventually we have bumps of polish on our nails. The manufacturers have improved the polish considerably and it lasts much longer than it used to but it still gets thick — at least mine does. When this happens just stir in a few drops of polish remover and once more your polish will flow on evenly.

CORN CHOWDER

Sometimes there is the extra cob or two of corn left-over and it is hard to know what to do with them. They are no good cold, yet one hates to throw them out. Here are a couple of ways of using the extra corn: 2 slices bacon, ¼ cup sliced onions, 1 cup tomatoes, 2 cups milk, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup water, ¼ cup corn, 1½ cup diced potatoes, ½ teaspoon soda. Dice the bacon and cook with onion until the bacon is crisp. Add the potatoes, tomatoes, salt and water. Simmer until the potatoes are tender. Add the corn and cook for ten minutes, then add the soda and the scalded milk, stirring it in slowly.

SQUAW CORN

2 strips bacon, 5 eggs, 1 cup corn, ½ cup milk, salt and pepper. Cut the bacon in pieces and fry until crisp. Add remaining ingredients and cook over a slow heat until set. Serve on toast.

PLUM BUTTER

Put the pulp that remains after straining off the juice for jelly through a colander. To 4 cups of pulp add 3 cups sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon and ½ teaspoon nutmeg. Cook slowly until thick, stirring frequently. Bottle in sterilized jars.

Right now, when growth is over for the season, the chances of success in transplanting trees and ferns from the woods are the very best. Be sure you can supply the right and natural growing conditions before you take up any plants. Exposure, soil and drainage should approximate the original location.

THE WOMAN'S PAGE

Author of Sister Mary's Kitchen

We have become so diet minded throughout the world during the years since the World War that everywhere adequate diets for school children are being worked out and developed in the effort to help mothers provide balanced meals for their families. Science has traced so many adult ills to a lack of well chosen foods during childhood, that modern mothers are alert to the necessity of maintaining the proper distribution of all the food elements.

We know that certain foods make strong bones, others develop muscles, some create energy for immediate needs and still others are a protection against disease. All these foods must be provided daily to make children grow and keep healthy.

Milk, vegetables, cereals and fruits must be used in abundance. Not much meat is necessary, though; one specialist in children's diets says that the "meat portion should be the size of the palm of the child's hand." Small as this amount may seem, it's essential because of its protein quality.

Eggs and certain kinds of fish are good, too, although the method of serving them must be considered. Both must be cooked slowly because intense heat makes these foods hard to digest.

Milk is vitally necessary. Every growing child needs a quart of milk a day. This need not all be consumed as a beverage but can be used in cream soups and sauces, custards, ice creams and simple puddings and on cereals. If the child drinks his quart of milk in addition to the various milk dishes so much the better.

Fruit is good for the mineral and vitamin content and often acts as a stimulant to a child's appetite. Either fresh, stewed dried fruits or canned fruits are valuable in every meal of the day.

Leafy vegetables are of the utmost importance. They have a unique value in being rich sources of tooth and bone-building material. A very young child should have one or two leafy vegetables, finely minced of course, every day.

Penny Breakfasts

A penny breakfast scheme, inaugurated more than two years ago by the Port-of-Spain Conference of the Society of Saint Vincent de Paul, for school children and aged people within the city of Port-of-Spain, is progressing satisfactorily.

During the first six months of 1938, no less than 48,230 breakfasts were issued at a penny each, and plans to expand the idea are being considered by the society.

Hats for Hair

(Woodstock Sentinel-Review)

The makers of hats for men, whose business has suffered severely since the bare-head mania has prevailed, have reason for new hope. It has been discovered, according to some authorities on disease of the scalp, that going hatless in summer, instead of promoting the health and growth of the hair, is a potent factor in producing baldness.

THE DUCHESS OF ATHOL, M.P.

Photographed as she arrived at Quebec aboard the Canadian Pacific liner Duchess of York, to address meetings at Ottawa, Toronto and Montreal in support of the Relief Ship for Spain, and under the auspices of the League for Peace and Democracy. Her Grace said the Loyalists of Spain are fighting for the liberties of the British Commonwealth of Nations as well as for their own.

Astronomical Figures

A Cheap Soup. — Take an ox cheek, two pecks of potatoes, a quarter of a peck of onions, three quarters of a pound of salt, and an ounce and a half of pepper — to be boiled in ninety pints of water, on a slow fire until reduced to sixty. A pint of this soup with a small piece of meat is a good meal for a hearty man. Some of every vegetable, with a few herbs, may be added.

Whipped Cream. — Mix the whites of eight eggs, a quart of thick cream, and a half a pint of sack, sweeten them to taste with double refined sugar.

Ice Cream. — Bruise four pottles (sic) of strawberries in a basin with a quart of good cream, some currant jelly and some cold clarified sugar; rub this well through the tammy and put it in an ice pot, well covered.

O spacious days! O manly appetites! A "tested recipe" for pigeon pie in 1850 directed the cook to "take a dozen fine squabs"; and when fruits were preserved by the bushel and something specially tasty was required, the housewife was directed to "immerse the selected fruits in four gallons of brandy."

Ninety quarts of water for a poor man's cheap soup; four gallons of brandy for a batch of preserves; four pottles of strawberries for flavoring a little ice cream.

We think, in our pride, that astronomical figures in domestic economy are modern, peculiar to our own day; but it is only their application that is modern. Today the poor

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

"Reality" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, September 25.

The Golden Text is: "Thy throne, O God, is for ever and ever: the sceptre of thy kingdom is a right sceptre." (Psalms 45:6).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "I am the Lord, and there is none else, there is no God beside me: I girded thee, though thou hast not known me. That they may know from the rising of the sun, and from the west, that there is none beside me. I am the Lord, and man takes his soup (cheap enough, too) from a can, so that he may contribute his mite to the umpteen billions of dollars outstanding on time-payment automobiles; or he makes four (or more) breakfasts from the eight eggs which in 1850 enriched the whiff cream used as a mere dessert after a modest luncheon, and uses what he saves on eggs to apply on the national debt.

Astronomical figures are what each generation makes them. They used them for food when there were no installments to pay on radios; now governments use them to finance boondoggling in various forms — and pigeon pie recipes are curiosa in a collector's library.

Perhaps there will come back a day in which three quarters of a pound of salt will go into one brewing of a workman's soup, but it will be some considerable time after authoritarian governments have ceased to frighten the wits out of democracy, and we are able to forget armaments long enough to remember our appetites. — The Printed Word there is none else." (Isaiah 45:5,6). The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The Scriptures imply that God is All-in-All. From this it follows that nothing possesses reality nor existence except the divine Mind and His ideas."

DIABETES

As a young physician I learned to appreciate the fact that diabetes was practically an incurable disease, although, by watching one's diet carefully and not eating foods that would be ultimately converted into sugar in the laboratory of the body, it was possible to stand off the Angel of the Darker Brink for many, many years. Children and young persons suffering from this disease presented serious problems and the death rate was unusually high among this class. In elderly people a rigid diet helped materially in keeping them alive, but as a rule they died long before their time. Heavy eaters among those past middle life were prone to this infirmity. Jews and Italians being especially subject to its ravages. Among food handlers, such as chefs, waiters, restaurant keepers and the like, there was always a large percentage to be found victims of diabetes. There are more female than male diabetics.

Insulin

Due to Dr. Banting of Toronto and a second-year medical student named Best, who worked with him, insulin, made from the pancreas of animals, sometimes called the sweet-breeds — the gland which secretes it — was discovered, and today the diabetic, once helpless against this scourge, may by using insulin properly, prolong his life indefinitely. By a series of trial diets and examinations, the physician is able to ascertain the maximum amount of sugar tolerated by the patient. By adhering to the quantity of food specified by the doctor and the administration of insulin, hypodermically and usually given by the patient himself, many cases yielded to treatment and the sufferer became sugar free and normal again and stopped using the drug. In the more difficult cases, however, insulin must be resorted to continually, but in reality it causes the patient little difficulty or inconvenience.

To carry on the preliminary work in this study, Dr. Banting sold his instruments and furniture, gave up his practice and devoted his time to solving the problem, aided by the medical student who flipped a coin with another student to see who would become the doctor's assistant.

I, like thousands of doctors, can testify to the efficacy of insulin and have had hundreds of cases now alive as a result of this medicine, who before its discovery would have been in their graves.

The new road that is being constructed on the south side of Curran Lake, Dunany, has been progressing most satisfactorily.

Bob Gain has made something like a record in this road building to reach the east end of Curran Lake so quickly. In fact, he states he is open to accept a challenge at road construction anywhere in the county now, providing he has his Dunany gang of willing workers with him.

Fish Will Suffocate if

Deprived of Free Oxygen

Although fish do not breathe air, they take in and give off the same gases that air-breathing animals do. Their gills are adapted for absorbing oxygen dissolved in the water. This free oxygen should not be confused with the oxygen combined with hydrogen to form the water molecule, according to a writer in the Indianapolis News. A gill is composed of many fine filaments of tissue which are colored red by numerous tiny blood capillaries near the surface. The function of these capillaries is to absorb oxygen from water passing over them. The regular opening and closing of the gill covers corresponds to the rhythmic inhalations of air-breathing animals. Dissolved oxygen in the water diffuses through the thin walls of the filaments and enters the blood stream; carbon dioxide and other waste material produced in the fish's body are given off to the water.

Deep sea fish are so constructed that they can live on the meager quantities of free oxygen found at great depths. Certain swift-moving fish, such as the mackerel, will "drown" when prevented from swimming rapidly. Apparently the current of water produced solely by the opening and closing of the gill covers does not supply sufficient oxygen to maintain life even when the water is saturated with oxygen.

Keener Anxiety Than on the Eve of the Great War

DESPERATE STRUGGLE TO KEEP THE WORLD AT PEACE

"THE OTTAWA SPOTLIGHT" By Spectator

Ottawa, Sept. 27 — With war and peace still trembling in the balance, the international crisis remains the subject of engrossing interest on Parliament Hill. Except for its expression of wholehearted approval when Mr. Chamberlain began his fateful conversations with Mr. Hitler in Germany and the statement that if war broke out Parliament would be promptly summoned and recommendations placed before it, the Government has remained silent. It receives from the Government in London full reports of changes which are taking place in the clouded republic of Czechoslovakia and of the desperate struggle being carried on by Britain to keep the world at peace. In official Ottawa, as elsewhere in the Dominion, there is diversity of opinion in regard to the situation, the uncertainty about the sacrifices that the little republic of Europe has been called upon to make, doubts and fears about the aims of dictators now and hereafter, and the harassing question whether even with the present sacrifices the foundation of peace can be made secure. But there is no difference of opinion about the appalling "alternative" to present sacrifices. The spectre of war is so formidable, with such unimaginable possibilities, that however divergent may be views held on the treatment of the young republic of Czechoslovakia by those pledged to support it in case of aggression, the people of Canada, as well as of all British Commonwealth nations, hope and pray that Mr. Chamberlain's peace missions may be successful. At the time of writing the air is charged with even keener anxiety than on the eve of the Great War, because since the critical hour

Racket Exposed, Local Residents Were Victimized

Alleged by the Crown to have defrauded victims in various districts around Montreal of more than $100,000 during the past two years by the operation of a "photograph prize-winning contest," five men were arraigned in court last Monday on charges of conspiracy to defraud. They pleaded not guilty and were released on bail of $1,000 pending preliminary inquiry today, Thursday. Horace Viens, said by the police to be the founder of the "Université des Arts" under which the contest was conducted, pleaded not guilty to the conspiracy charges, and was held without bail.

Five others were accused by police of acting as agents for the alleged "school." Four other men are still being sought by the Provincial Police on the same charges.

According to police charge, victims were asked to submit a portrait with $3.96 so that it could be entered in a contest for big prize money. Agents were reported to have told entrants that their portraits would be returned if not considered of sufficient artistic value to enter the contest. With the return of the portrait a sum of about half the entry cost, the rest having been used for "expenses," would be given the rejected entrant.

A version of the scheme as described by residents of Lachute Road and other sections of the county who had been approached and in certain cases "taken in" by the canvassers, was that selections were made from their own snapshot collections to enter in the supposed contest. The contest was alleged to be for a prize of $5,000 to be divided among 25 winning portraits, the police stated. In most cases, the complaint continues, the entrants were advised that their portraits had been classified in the contest and they had a good chance of winning a prize. An agent visited the victim and after explaining further rules of the contest advised him, or her, that to make a good showing when the judges looked over the entries, a pretty frame would enhance chances of gaining a prize.

Frames which were represented to be of 24 karat gold were sold to victims, according to the police.

Complaints that the "judging" had never taken place led police to investigate and the arrests followed.

In August, 1914, the world has learned the bitter lessons of war, and present-day airfleets have increased the potential horrors of conflict.

MAIN STREET DRUGGIST IS EXTENDING BUSINESS

Edward Beaton, proprietor of the Rexall Drugstore, Lachute, is extending his business to a new store in association with his brother, Dr. M. Beaton, and on October 1st is taking over a pharmacy at 138 Percival Avenue, Montreal West. Mr. Beaton has engaged a qualified pharmacist to assume charge of his Lachute business, although the proprietor will be here frequently to supervise activities at his store on Main Street.

Groceteria Style for Two Local Chain Stores

POST OFFICE APPROACH GREATLY IMPROVED

Many advances have been made in the shopping section of Main Street this season. Several new electric signs and store-fronts have given a more attractive appearance to this street — which is a cross-section of town which tells most strongly on the impression of passing motorists. The street-lighting is a factor which has not, however, kept stride with the commercial development, and this matter deserves a revival of discussion in council.

The most recent improvements are those in progress at the Atlantic & Pacific and the Dominion Stores premises, where the store-fronts have been modernized and the interiors are being re-vamped to facilitate a "self-service" system for greater convenience of the buying public.

That the government building should be in line with these other improvements, new cement steps have been constructed in front of the central post-office. This building is now in its 30th year, and its approaches were badly in need of repair.

Dr. A. Cherrier Acclaimed New Mayor of St. Jerome

Dr. Alfred Cherrier, V.D., a former mayor of St. Jerome, was elected again as mayor by acclamation on Monday, when retiring Mayor E. Bertie withdrew his name.

Mayor Bertie had been mayor of St. Jerome for the last four years. The new mayor was chief magistrate of the municipality twice, being elected in 1930 and again in 1934.

Triple Highway Collision Near Chute-à-Blondeau

BUS, TRUCK AND PRIVATE CAR INVOLVED IN CRASH, NO SERIOUS INJURIES

In a three-way collision involving a motor bus, a truck and a private car, several persons suffered severe shock but no serious injury on the Montreal-Ottawa highway near Chute-à-Blondeau last Friday evening.

The accident occurred when a truck of the Johns Manville Company was travelling eastwards behind a Colonial Line bus. In the opposite direction was a private car driven by Miss Muriel Cole, of Lachine, who was with her mother, Mrs. E. C. Cole.

The private automobile was about to pass the motor bus when the truck behind loomed into sight and all three vehicles crashed together. The automobile was practically destroyed. The motor bus was badly damaged and was unable to proceed on its way and the fifteen passengers had to be transferred to another bus and taken to Montreal later. The truck also suffered heavy damage.

Guilty of Cattle Thieving, Cushing Man Is Jailed

THREE MONTHS ON EACH OF TWO CHARGES

Pleading guilty to two charges of the theft of heifers, Herve Foucault, 25, of Cushing, was sentenced to three months in jail on each count, with the sentences to run concurrently. Trial was held at St. Jerome on Monday.

Foucault appeared before District Magistrate D. Lalonde. Evidence was that on August 4th, at St. Philippe, Foucault took three heifers belonging to his brother and two of Isidore Mainville, from a pasture. He had met a man with a truck and sold his brother's heifers for $30 and the pair belonging to Mainville for another $30, which money Foucault said he had used to pay his rent.

Rural Teachers Held Conference at 'Lachute High'

Twenty-three teachers from rural schools in the neighbourhood of Lachute, met at the High School here on Friday, Sept. 23rd, for a conference which lasted from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Teachers' problems and individual difficulties were discussed, as well as methods for improving the work of rural schools.

Principal C. L. Hall spoke to the teachers regarding Rural Grade VII pupils coming to High School. Mr. Hall commented on the improving quality of the work of the rural schools which is manifest in the candidates for High School entrance,

A well-attended meeting of the Municipal Association was held on Saturday night at Morin Heights. Professor C. M. McKergow presiding. Several important questions came up in connection with local improvements with a view to beautifying the surroundings and making the village more attractive to visitors.

The great possibilities which Morin Heights offers as a winter sports resort were also discussed at length and at the close of the meeting a ski club was founded, the officers being: President, Dr. V. Jekill; vice-president, J. Basler; secretary, L. Fuller; directors, M. Baumel and J. D. Davis. Preparations are being made to

Brownsb'g Accepts Grant, Will Effect Road Repairs

CONSIDER INSTALLATION OF SIRENS FOR DISTINCTIVE FIRE ALARMS

PRESENT SYSTEM CONFUSING

Brownsburg — A special meeting of the Brownsburg Council was held on Wednesday, Sept. 21st, to discuss the question of repairs and maintenance of roads.

The Council had before it an offer of the Provincial Government, through its representative, Georges Héon, M.P., to contribute half the cost of putting the roads in worthy condition up to a sum not exceeding $12,000. This sum was considered more than necessary to execute the work at present proposed, so the Council decided to avail itself of $3,000 of the grant, to be presently expended in preparing the surface for completion early next year.

The Chief Engineer attended the meeting to advise the Council on the matter under discussion. The work was principally on culverts and clearing of ditches, with the removal of seven electric light standards and some surfacing, mostly of a preparatory nature. Alderman Lepine requested information on the number of men expected to be employed. The Engineer was of opinion that from fifteen to twenty men, with a foreman and clerk, would be ample to handle the work. Mr. Lepine was also informed that the costing accounts would be at the disposal of the Council to ascertain how the money was being expended. The Secretary was directed to write for prices on pipe to be used in connection with the work. Mr. Lepine undertook to have a sample sent from St. Hermas for government test.

Following the discussion on road work, the Council discussed the necessity of providing a dependable fire alarm system, which would obviate the confusion which might now exist in locating a fire. Mayor G. Ball described the present method of warning and the difficulty of directing fire-fighters to the scene of the fire. The high cost of a four or five station alarm was almost prohibitive in a small community like Brownsburg, the discussion revealed. A suggestion to place four or five independent siren alarms at strategic points requiring the minimum of wiring or electric attachments was most favourably considered, and prices and estimates were called for.

Realty Reactions in Britain Both Humorous and Pathetic

War scares have a depressing effect on business. But in Britain, besides a boom in the sale of gas-masks, country residences outside the danger area are now likely to be at a premium.

The Times of London carries many advertisements for places in the country away from air raids.

A contractor offered to build a concrete underground shelter for eight persons "ready for use, $30." An architect asked a philanthropist to donate a "permanent fireproof, bomb and splinter-proof" shelter as a pattern for others that "may be used as holiday schools and camps for children during normal times."

Most of the appeals were for refuges for children. A "generous house owner" was invited to turn over a large country home to a girls' school, and was assured that "the girls were of a class used to good furniture and would treat it carefully."

The crisis has brought renting apartments in London to a standstill, particularly in areas along the Thames, which are considered particularly dangerous. On the other hand, country houses are in great demand, provided that they are not along a line likely to be followed by bombers.

A nation of animal lovers could not be expected to forget them now, and an advertisement by a leading kennel said: "Send your dog to be happy in the splendid safety of fourteen acres."

If dictators knew of a surety that in the event of war they would be the first to occupy front line trenches, the dove of peace again would soar, despite her clipped wings.

A lecturer states that it's the wide-headed people who make the most of the decisions, but a glance at the day's news sometimes suggests that maybe "fat-headed" would have been the better term. — Ottawa Citizen.

RIVER-FRONT WITHOUT LIGHT FOR 48 HOURS

Cushing W. — For the first time since the memorable storm of November, 1932, this locality was without electric light and power for 48 hours from Wednesday to Friday night last week. Telephone communication was also uncertain during part of that time.

Of great interest to the rural community as well as to the teachers was the intimation made at the conference regarding special grants to boards to increase teachers' salaries, and to aid boards in improving equipment and rural school libraries.

Tribute to the Peace-Makers

But peace-making, in these times, is a task to tax the intelligence and diplomacy of the greatest. The "balance of power" strategy of a past century in Europe — even the regal aptitude of Edward VII, peace-maker of the English kings — would avail but little in this hour. With the rise of dictator nations, a climax now threatens world peace and security. The lust for power and territory is little influenced by honor, by treaties, or by personal intercessions; it pays scant heed to the common lot — of peasant-folk and cannon fodder. Such is the psychology of dictatorships: a form of government BY the powerful yet still, professedly, FOR the people — the very people whom, for national "progress," they would sacrifice, to death, to sorrow and privation.

It is to these common countrymen, both in the storm centre and far removed — in Czechoslovakia, Russia, Britain, France and their dependencies — that the efforts of Mr. Chamberlain, Monsieur Daladier and other intermediaries seeking to avert disaster, are noble in the extreme. Conscious of a certain personal futility, sacrificing the dignity of their homelands and suffering much individual criticism — they have bartered and bargained to save the world from war. It is to these leaders, exemplifying themselves as true servants of the people, that men and women pay thankful tribute. The peasantry of France, the dependants of Welsh and Scottish workingmen, the humblest mother on Canadian soil — are grateful in their simple hearts.

— And a small-town editorial is a humble but representative instrument to echo that gratitude. Rural Canada, with the rest of the workaday world, is watching the last desperate efforts to save humanity from war. Canada, too, is praying for the triumph of the peace-makers; may their labors bear fruit in this momentous hour.

Historical Society Appeals for Curios Reminiscent of the Pioneer Period

To Stress Local Aspect of Loan Exhibit in Carillon Barracks, Now Under Reconstruction

OPENING EVENT ANNOUNCED FOR OCT. 22

Members of the Historical Society of Argenteuil and all others interested in its ideals and activities, are earnestly requested to assist in the success of the present important undertaking by the prompt contribution of any objects of local historical interest in their possession, presenting these either as a loan for the present occasion, or as a donation to the permanent collection of the Museum. For the security of exhibitors it is announced that all material on exhibition will be insured and that small or perishable articles will be shown within closed cases.

Among objects particularly wanted to complete the various exhibits, or for the equipment of the different period rooms which are being prepared within the building, are the following:

1. Indian relics, such as arrow-heads, flints, tomahawks, stone or wooden tools, etc.
2. Weapons of the Dollard period and other ancient military equipment.
3. Arms and soldiers' trappings, etc., from the War of 1812, the Rebellion of 1837 and the Fenian Raid. Also a soldier's bed and an officer's bed from this period.
4. Old andirons and cranes for the furnishing of the many large fireplaces the building contains, also a large copper or iron pot to be slung over that in Habitant kitchen, kettles and other pioneer cooking utensils.
5. Primitive ploughshares, anvils, ox-shoes, and yokes, and other farming implements from the 18th and early 19th centuries.
6. Samplers, handmade quilts and fine old needlework of all kinds. Also costumes in vogue a century or more ago.
7. A grandfather's clock, and other early time pieces.
8. A brass doorknocker and several old-fashioned door-locks.
9. Early French-Canadian furniture, also Georgian and Victorian furniture for installation in the Habitant room, the Seigneurial and Colonial apartments, and the Sir John Abbott room.
- 9a. Documents, plans, deeds, photographs, etc., bearing upon the organization and development of the Argenteuil Rangers. Also on that of the Royal Staff Corps at Grenville and Carillon at an earlier date.
10. The same on the origin of the lumber business at Hawkesbury and the paper industry at St. Andrews and Lachute.

11. Archives, genealogies and photographs of all sorts bearing upon the history of the families in this district founded by its first pioneers: Richard Bradford, Nathaniel Burwash, Hezekiah Clark, Lemuel Cushing, Theodore Davis, John and Colin Dewar, John Harrington, Daniel de Hertel, Gustavus Hooker, John Hutchins, Thomas Hyde, Martin Jones, Simeon Leroy, Dr. Abner Rice, Dr. Benjamin Wales, Theophilus Yale, and others.

Montreal to Halifax Wire Is Sent via Australia

A telegraph message sent from Montreal to Halifax last week went half-way round the world and back again before it eventually reached its destination.

Wednesday's hurricane was the reason for the extraordinary routing of the message. With telegraph communication disrupted between Montreal and Halifax, receipt of an urgent telegram at the Montreal offices for transmission to the Nova Scotia city had operators and wire chiefs stumped for the moment.

It was imperative that the message get through. There was only one way out of the fix. A few moments after receipt of the message, the operator cleared the wire for Vancouver. The message sped west, and was transferred to cable and flashed to Australia. In that far-away Dominion, other operators were ready to re-route it back to Halifax, via other points.

In actual station-to-station transmission time, the message took less than a minute to reach its destination, it was said.

Later in the day, other messages from Montreal to Halifax were routed in the same way. The hour changed several times on the telegrams. They left Montreal on eastern time, arrived in B.C. on Pacific time, were received in Australia on still another time, and eventually reached Halifax on Atlantic time.

district during its pioneer period: namely, its early Seigniors, the Sieur d'Ailleboust, Hon. L. P. Panet, Major Murray and Sir John Johnson; Judge Treadwell of L'Orignal, George Hamilton of Hawkesbury Mills, Archibald MacMillan and Thomas Kains of Grenville, Deputy Commissary General Forbes of Carillon, Judge MacDonell of Pointe Fortune, George Wanless, M.A., of the Wanless Academy at Carillon, the Rev. Archibald Henderson and the Rev. Joseph Abbott, Capt. John Wainwright and Mr. James Brown of St. Andrews, and others. Also the following retired Hudson's Bay Co. Factors and Captains of Lord Selkirk's expeditions for the colonization of Red River, who settled in this vicinity in the early 19th century: Archibald MacDonald of Glencoe at St. Andrews, Colin Robertson at Lachute, and Miles MacDonell at Pointe Fortune.

Intending exhibitors are especially asked to notify the Secretary, Miss Beatrice Robertson, St. Andrews East, Que., at the earliest possible date, of all proposed contributions, giving a detailed list of the same specifying the title of each exhibit, its source and the name of donor and (where possible) its date, in order that proper arrangements can be made for their reception and allocation.

Benes from Czechoslovakia A Farmer in Manitoba

Manitoba, September 22 — Josef Benes, native of Czechoslovakia, and cousin to Eduard Benes, President of that nation and former president of the Assembly of the League of Nations, is proud of his family distinction but he is even more proud of the fact that he is owner of 160 acres of good Manitoba farm land and possessor of a home in Canada where his family may live in peace. Mr. Benes moved to Manitoba two years ago under the auspices of the Colonization Department of the C.N.R., and so marked have been the improvements made by him in the property then acquired that it recently inspired a special article in the Winnipeg Tribune, in which the work of the builder is admirably described. In particular, the writer is enthusiastic as to the manner in which a stone barn has been built, built for permanence with stout walls smoothly cement-coated inside and out. The writer adds "Looking through a window from the inside you think you are in a mediaeval abbey. And the total expenditure to date has been thirty dollars — for cement." Manitoba supplied the stone and Mr. Benes the muscular effort.

A Drop of Niagara

A drop of Niagara is not much of itself, but with others it becomes an irresistible force.

Together with others it can destroy — or through the positive forces of electricity, it can give life greater significance.

A thought along this line may have come to you as you drank your morning coffee. You considered the many persons who had a part in bringing it to you—the growers and transporters and roasters and wholesalers. You recalled the retailer, the clerk, the cook, and you even pictured those who made the coffee tin or bag; the coffee pot, the heat, the cream and the sugar involve an army of many workers. All these have labored that you might have your spirit-rousing morning brew.

Many people have thought thus far. A few have gone a step farther — thinking of their own work as a link with the effort of others, to bring into being some material comfort. Then they have paused to realize that man must be sustained in physical comfort on this globe for some purpose. The Infinite Intelligence must have had something in mind in running this show. He must have wanted men to grow and become.

The thought of your life as contributing a drop of power to the eternal plan lends a top-lifting dignity to human endeavor, taking you out of, and above, the petty annoyances of every day. Niagara can hurt or Niagara can help... and so can you.

Safety for Children

According to a recent census taken among school children, it was found that out of 600 accidents 459 were caused directly or indirectly by automobiles. The automobile is a useful means of transportation but there is no reason why it should be a menace to child life, which unfortunately it is, in many cities in Canada. Traffic regulations are not yet stringent enough to protect child life.

A Better Kind of Conquest

It isn't necessary to have a world war to reduce the ranks of the unemployed or give our college grads something to do. There are still more worlds to conquer, peacefully, than all our present generation of young men can subdue if we but line up our forces aright.

Dr. John F. Caton, director of Chrysler Institute of Engineering in Detroit, addressing a group of engineers a few days ago, reminded them that in a short time glass will be used for razors, radio receivers, shingles, bed springs, spring boards for swimming pools, and even for road surfacing.

There are worlds to be conquered in home construction and heating. Graduate electrical engineers realize that with all their knowledge piled high on that of the Edisons gone before, they are merely in the kindergarten stage of electrical lore.

The worlds of human relations, national and international, modern agriculture and marketing, have hardly been explored — to say nothing of being conquered. The present generation, starting where the preceding one left off, cannot more than begin to whip these worlds in line for human service.

God made known his will in Holy Writ when he commanded man to "conquer the earth and subdue it." He has not yet ordered a retreat, much less a mutiny or mass murder.

Three-Lane Highways Safer

Three-lane highways are safer than four-lane super-highways, according to an opinion stressed by the Nation's Institute for Highway Safety Training at a recent assembly at Ann Arbor, Mich.

It appears that the center lane "for passing only" is largely kept for that purpose. It is "reserved."

It must be that people are better mannered than they are given credit for, even on the roads.

Pattullo Urges Immigration

Premier Pattullo, of British Columbia, intends to approach the Federal Government at Ottawa this fall with proposals for starting organized British immigration into British Columbia.

The Premier said he had suggested some time ago that officials of the Dominion, the province and the two national railroads in Canada consider means of carrying out an immigration plan.

Vast areas are available in central and northern parts of British Columbia for agricultural settlement. In conferring with Brig-Gen. M. L. Hornby and British representatives, Premier Pattullo stated that the Provincial Government is prepared to make a free grant of all lands necessary to a British settlement scheme "provided that suitable arrangements can be made between all parties concerned."

The British Columbia Government appears thoroughly in favor of an assisted settlement scheme, believing the influx of settlers, backed by necessary capital, would benefit the entire province.

Prison Treatment — A Contrast

All the blame for the four roasting deaths in the Holmesburg, Pa., prison cannot be laid on the doorstep of the then acting prison superintendent, William B. Mills, and his 13 subordinates. According to Charles I. Engard, state welfare secretary, the Board of Inspectors is partly to blame. A member of the board states that they trusted Mills as a commanding officer is trusted in battle. Maybe so! But a commanding officer doesn't select his ammunition.

Ex-convicts in the American West crucified their fellow ex-convict because he had gotten religion and refused to join them in a criminal act. They were doubtless hardened into such a deed by too severe prison punishment. England's scheme of making an unruly convict go about his work clad merely in a pair of ladies' pink panties, shows ingenuity; strategy such as this ought to make an unruly convict toe the mark more effectively than all the whipping-stocks and sweat-boxes ever invented.

keen interest in the project by the United States, it is not likely that it will now be calmly shelved. It will still remain a live issue.

The troubled situation in Europe, naturally disturbing to industry, has been a factor in holding up the trade treaty with the United States. Some time ago it was predicted that the pact would be signed before the end of September. There is still a slight margin of time left, but it is likely that two or three more weeks will elapse before final agreement is reached. The negotiations have been made more intricate and difficult because of their triangular nature; it hasn't been simply Canada negotiating with the United States but the United States with Great Britain as well, with each treaty having a direct bearing on the other. Great Britain will make concessions in tariff rates on some products of the United States, which means Canadian exporters will meet additional competition in British markets. For these concessions Canada will expect compensations in tariff rates in the United States. Negotiations have been going on for months.

The suggestion of Mr. Aberhart, Premier of Alberta, that all the provinces should meet together to discuss Dominion-Provincial relations has not met with much enthusiasm. Ottawa was to take no part in these discussions. The Rowell Commission, which has been making a nation-wide investigation of Dominion-Provincial relations, has never met with the approval of Mr. Aberhart. Although the Chairman, Justice N. W. Rowell, has been ill for some time, the other members of the Commission and their advisers have been carrying on the work towards a conclusion. What will result from the efforts of the Commission is uncertain. It has met with considerable criticism from various quarters, but it has essayed a tremendous and important task. There is no question that the findings of the Commission, when available, will form a most valuable foundation for discussion between Dominion and Provincial authorities. It has been frequently stated by the Dominion Government that there is no intention on the part of the central authority to force their views upon the provinces. The approval of the provinces would be an essential to any change resulting from the Rowell Commission's investigations.

H. G. WELLS

If H. G. Wells Hadn't Broken His Leg He Might Still Be Clerking in a Drygoods Store

Sixty years ago, a group of boys were playing on the streets of a London suburb when an accident occurred. One of the bigger boys picked up a little chap, called Bertie Wells, and tossed him high into the air; but instead of catching Bertie when he came down, the big boy dropped him and broke his leg.

For months, Bertie lay writhing in bed with a heavy weight tied to his leg. But the bone didn't set properly. It had to be rebroken. It was a terrible experience. Little Bertie screamed in agony and terror.

That seemed like a tragedy then, but Bertie knows better now. Today he is one of the most famous authors in the world. You know him not as Bertie, but as Herbert George Wells, or H. G. Wells. You have probably read some of his books. He has written over seventy-five volumes; and he himself admits that that broken leg was perhaps the luckiest thing that ever happened to him. Why? Because it kept him confined to the house for a whole year. He devoured every book he could get, because there was nothing else he could do.

Today, H. G. Wells is one of the highest paid authors on earth. He has probably made a million dollars with his pen; yet he was brought up in pinching poverty.

His parents' crockery shop failed. The family was desperate, so his mother had to take a job as a housekeeper on a big estate in Sussex. Naturally, she lived with the servants, and H. G. Wells often went there to visit her. And it was there that he got his first peep into English society life — and he got that peep from the servants' quarters.

The future author of The Outline of History started out in business life, at the age of thirteen, as a dry-goods clerk. He had to get up at five o'clock, sweep out the store, build the fire, and slave for fourteen hours a day. It was drudgery, and he despised it. At the end of one month, the boss fired him because he was untidy and slovenly and troublesome.

He finally got a job clerking in another drygoods store. He had to eat, so this time, he held out a bit longer. But when the floorwalker wasn't looking, he would sneak down into the cellar and read Herbert Spencer.

After two years, he could stand it no longer. So he got up one Sunday morning and, without waiting for breakfast, he tramped fifteen miles on an empty stomach to find his mother. He was frantic. He pleaded with her. He wept. He swore that he would kill himself if he had to remain in the shop any longer.

Then he wrote a long, pathetic letter to his old school master. Wells told him he was miserable, heart-broken, that he no longer wanted to live.

And the school master, to his utter astonishment, wrote back, offering him a job as a teacher.

Presto! That was another turning-point in his life.

A few years after he began teaching, disaster overtook him with the suddenness of an explosion. It happened in this way: He was playing football. In the heat and excitement of the game, he was knocked down, trampled on, and almost killed. The doctors gave up all hope; and for months he lived in fear of imminent death. For twelve terrible years after that, he clung to life as a semi-invalid; and yet, during those years, he developed the ability that was to make his name known throughout the civilized world.

For five years, he wrote furiously. The books and articles and stories that he turned out were dull and amateurish. And he had the good sense to realize it. So he burned up almost everything he wrote.

Finally, in spite of being half an invalid, he got another job teaching. There was a pretty girl in the biology class. Her name was Catherine Robins. Presently H. G. Wells found that he was far more interested in Catherine than in biology. She was frail and sickly. So was he. They wanted to grab all the happiness they could, at once. So they were married.

That was forty years ago; and, instead of dying, Wells regained his strength, turned out to be a human dynamo of energy and has been grinding out two full-length books each year, books that have sent their reverberations around the world.

WHY DOES ANYBODY BORROW FROM A BANK?

WHY does anybody borrow money?

Here is the answer: Usually to make a profit or to use the money for his advantage.

Be the borrower a farmer, marketing organization, lumberman, miner, fisherman, rancher, manufacturer — none ever borrows from a bank and pays interest except to gain a benefit outweighing the interest charges.

Every Canadian dollar represents tangible wealth already produced, or wages paid for services rendered.

Every Canadian dollar issued can be described accurately as to purpose, as a wealth-producing, wage-paying, profit-seeking dollar.

Occasionally some borrowed dollars become temporarily deadweight debt—perhaps you suffer a loss for a season through drought or other natural calamity. But with a better season, better prices and brighter business, the loser has a chance to recover his losses.

"I borrow $1,000 from the bank, paying interest because the bank is rendering me a service," one man instances. He goes on thus:

"Why do I borrow the $1,000? To use in a business deal and make a profit."

"My deal concluded successfully, I repay the bank and have a profit of say $100, which I put to my credit in the bank."

"The bank has back its $1,000 and interest, and I have $100 I didn't have before."

"Multiply that borrowing of mine, my use of the money, my repayment and my profit, by many borrowers, day after day, and you see what is happening as a continuous revolving process throughout the year in the business world."

A farmer borrows for seed, cultivation or harvesting; a fisherman borrows for bait, boat or wages; a manufacturer borrows against raw materials being fabricated, to pay wages to finish and market his goods— but none of these borrows except in the hope of profit to himself, in supplying the needs of others.

Banking is not mysterious. A farmer's co-operative marketing organization uses bank credit so that the farmer may get cash for his crop at the elevator without waiting for it to reach Liverpool.

A merchant borrows from the bank and is enabled to pay his bills early, take advantage of discounts, and pass part of his saving on to his customers.

A small farmer with 20 hogs borrowed $50 for feed, paid $1.75 interest and was enabled to sell his hogs for $100 more than he would have got on an earlier market. His net profit was $48.75. That is an authentic case. Here is another:

A hog-raiser on a large scale paid $100 interest on a loan for feed. He writes us that he made a net profit of nearly $2,000.

These are instances of the kind of services bank credit, exchanged for individual credit, performs as an everyday routine, in Canada. Any community can supply scores of similar examples.

What is money? Coinage, Bank of Canada notes, bank notes, deposits.

Chartered banks now issue their notes up to a legal limit of 85 per cent of their paid-up capital. Yearly this is being reduced and the right of note-issue as steadily vested in the Bank of Canada.

A chartered bank's notes are the first charge on its assets. In case of trouble they must be paid off before a single cent can be paid on deposits or on any other debts owed by the bank. To make doubly sure that notes will be redeemed, each bank pays into a fund held by the Minister of Finance, an amount of cash equal to five per cent of the average of its bank notes outstanding. This is called the "Bank Circulation Redemption Fund." The total of this fund is available for the purpose of redeeming the outstanding notes of any bank.

Notes of the Bank of Canada are money—legal tender—cash—that Bank's notes and deposits are backed (July 30, 1938) by 56.26 per cent of gold and silver bullion and foreign exchange.

Notes of the chartered banks, too, are money—their promises to pay; every dollar backed by more than twenty dollars of assets. They are redeemable, on demand, in cash.

Your deposit in a chartered bank also is money—you can buy things with it. It arose from your labour, production and thrift. It is redeemable in cash. It is a measure of your real wealth. You may make payments by cheque upon it. When your cheque goes through the Clearing House system, it must be met by the bank on which it is drawn. Any balances as between banks have to be settled in cash daily.

Your Canadian dollars are useful factors in a system that produces wealth for all of Canada.

Your local branch bank manager will be glad to talk banking with you. He will be glad to answer your questions, from the standpoint of his own experience. The next article in this series will appear in this newspaper. Watch for it.

The prospect that an early start may be made on the St. Lawrence seaway project has not brightened. The scheme has received another jolt from Mr. Hepburn, the Premier of Ontario. Answering a recent letter from Mackenzie King, in which the Dominion Prime Minister suggested the joint investigation of the project by experts from the Ontario and Dominion Governments, Mr. Hepburn stated that the matter of power development has already been fully investigated by Ontario Hydro-Electric engineers. There is too much surplus power already in Ontario and Quebec. The effect of the treaty, he states, would be to prepare a reserve of power on Canada's side which could be quickly brought into production as the need arose for sale to the United States. "I do not think," says the letter "that this province wishes this ultimate power resource to be made available in advance of Ontario's needs or that it should be disposed of in this way." The project, it will be recalled, provides for the construction of dams which would generate slightly over two million horse power of electric energy, this power to be divided equally between the Province of Ontario and the State of New York. Mr. Hepburn thinks the St. Lawrence Seaway scheme would be as great a fiasco as the Hudson Bay outlet. What will be the next move of the Dominion Government is uncertain. In view, however, of the

General Electric Replies to Enquiry, Phone Users Not Endangered by Lightning

RESPONSE TO LETTER ASKING INFORMATION

Brownburg — The following letter was received by a resident of Brownburg from the research laboratory of the General Electric Company at Schenectady, N.Y., in response to a question concerning the danger of using a telephone during the course of an electric storm:

"Many people are terrified by lightning. Hence it is not uncommon for people to believe weird tales concerning lightning behaviour, or to adopt odd practices during electric storms.

"Many of the tall buildings in New York and elsewhere are struck by lightning, repeatedly, during severe electric storms. Our engineers have many an actual photograph of such occurrences. The occupants of the buildings were not aware that the building had been struck.

"I have no actual data concerning the telephone calls in progress in such buildings at the time the buildings were struck. In all probability there were telephone calls in progress, since many of the pictures were taken during business hours. I, personally, have no fear of placing telephone calls during electric storms, and you will find, I'm sure, that no such procedure as your friend described is in force at the Ellis or at the Schenectady City hospitals, nor at any other hospital of which I know."

(Signed) — Ellis L. Manning.

This latter reference had regard to a practice said to be in force in Montreal hospitals, of placing a rubber mat under the telephone for users to stand upon during an electric storm.

PRINCE ARTHUR'S HEIR

CBC To Broadcast Fishing Fleet Races

Toronto, September 26. — What possibly may be the last of the historic fishing fleet races between Nova Scotia's defender, the Bluenose, and Massachusetts' challenger, Gertrude L. Thebaud, will be brought to national network listeners of the CBC when the two famous schooners race off Boston harbor on October 5th.

An actual sound pick-up from both vessels and two-way conversations between the Bluenose skipper, Angus Walters, and the Thebaud skipper, Ben Pine, will be made while both vessels are racing. To make this possible, CBC's special events department will have a portable transmitter on board the Bluenose and this will be linked by short-wave with a portable transmitter to be installed on board the Thebaud by NBC. This will be the first time such a broadcast has been attempted.

The two famous vessels are the last survivors of those colorful days before the advent of the steam trawlers, which have since been sent to the fishing banks in increasingly greater numbers. The forthcoming races will be in the nature of a run-off, each vessel having met twice before and each having won once. The last race was held off Halifax in 1931.

The march of time, however, has left its mark on both vessels and it is believed that before another race can be held one, or both of them, will have to be broken up. The Bluenose is, perhaps, the most famous of her kind ever to have made Canada's Maritime ports her home. She is known and loved by millions.

Noted Detective Dead; Had Been Livestock Fancier 25 Years in This County

H. T. COWAN PASSED SUDDENLY AT HIS HOME, MONTREAL

Harry T. Cowan, president of the H. T. Cowan Detective Agency, Limited, and former assistant detective inspector of the Montreal Police Department, died suddenly Wednesday morning at his home, 907 Guilford Street, Montreal. He was in his 65th year.

Although suffering from a heart complaint for some years, Mr. Cowan was in his usual health up till Tuesday evening. After dinner, he got in touch with his son, Russell, who was visiting friends nearby, and asked him to come home because he was unwell. The son arrived a few minutes later and suggested calling a doctor. Mr. Cowan decided to wait until morning and retired. The son found him dead next morning.

Although a resident of Montreal all his life, Mr. Cowan purchased a farm at Grenville over 25 years ago. Here he raised Ayrshire cattle and Percheron horses. His thoroughbred horses were consistent prize winners at the fairs.

After serving seven years with the Westmount Police, Mr. Cowan joined the Montreal Police force in 1901, and a year after his admission to the force received recognition for courageous service. He was promoted detective in 1905, and 10 years later was named captain detective. In 1919 he was given the rank of assistant inspector. He resigned in November, 1921.

Mr. Cowan was a Mason of high rank. In Argenteuil County he had many friends.

He is survived by three sons, Alex, Leslie and Russell Cowan, all of Montreal; one daughter, Mrs. Henri Burri (Bernice), of Port Hope, Ont.; two brothers, Robert J. Cowan, of Rosemere, and Edward Cowan, of Montreal; and one sister, Mrs. Henry Webster, also of Montreal. His wife died 10 years ago.

MARRIAGE

BOYD-HAMILTON — At the home of the bride's parents in Lachute, Que., on Sept. 17, 1938, by the Rev. W. B. Rosborough, Cora Shirley Andria, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Hamilton, to Ernest J. A. Boyd, son of the late John Boyd, of Lachute, and of Mrs. John Boyd, of Montreal.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

CAMPBELL — The family of the late Mrs. John Campbell express their grateful appreciation of the many kindnesses and expressions of sympathy in their bereavement.

JOLY — Mr. Raoul Joly and daughters, Gabrielle and Mariette, wish to thank their many good friends for sympathy, visits and kindnesses shown them in their recent sad bereavement.

AITKIN — Mrs. A. F. Aitkin wishes to thank the many friends who tendered kind expressions of sympathy in her recent bereavement.

The Late Mrs. J. E. Tucker

The death occurred, at her late residence, 6263 Christophe Colomb St., Montreal, on Tuesday, Sept. 20th, of Elizabeth McCullough, beloved wife of James Edwin Tucker.

Born in Mille Isles 67 years ago, she was the daughter of the late Robert McCullough and Isabella Thompson. Surviving are her husband, three daughters, one son and four grandchildren, all of Montreal; four sisters — Mrs. M. Dawson, of Mille Isles, Mrs. John Turner and Mrs. Harry Giroux, of Montreal, and Mrs. John Cunningham, of Lachute; also one brother, Ernest, of Lachute.

The funeral was held from her late residence to the Mount Royal United Church on Thursday afternoon, and was conducted by Rev. J. W. Howes. Burial took place in Mount Royal Cemetery.

Gilbert Ayers Won Coveted Snyder Trophy in Contest With High-Rating Golfers

St. Andrews East — Gilbert Ayers won the Harry Snyder Trophy Sunday at St. Andrews Golf Club when he posted the low net. A. Frigon had second low net. E. B. Harkness and W. Williamson tied for third. Porter Randall posted low gross. H. M. Kerr was second, and Dave Trotter third. J. P. Lanctot won the high gross award, and Armand Grothe high net. Other prize winners: Sealed hole Class "A," (tie), W. Frier and W. D. Kerr; Class "B," F. C. Chown; Class "C," (tie), G. Tattersfield and G. Walker; sweepstakes, Class "A," Gilbert Ayers, Porter Randall, H. M. Kerr; Class "B," A. Frigon, W. Williamson, E. B. Harkness. W. F. Drysdale, club president, occupied the chair at the dinner at which the presentation of prizes was held.

There were in all a total of 66 players and it is a tribute to the athletic ability of Mr. Ayers to have captured the first prize, because there were a great number of first class golfers in the party. The Harry Snyder Trophy has been played for now for a period of seven years, but this has been the most successful tournament held so far.

Won at Montreal Dog Show

Brownburg — On Saturday last, Mr. Wesley Mason exhibited his dog, "Dogberry Crusader," at the Montreal Dog Show, and was fortunate in winning two firsts and a special prize in competition with a number of other wire-haired terriers. This dog has won five prizes, and — it is remarked by our correspondent — the way he looks now he should obtain championship honors very soon.

PROMINENT SCIENTISTS AND THE BIBLE

The article in last week's Watchman mentioned testimonies of a few outstanding statesmen as to the value of the Bible; the present one gives similar testimonies of a few outstanding scientists.

It is a matter of common knowledge that many of the world's greatest scientists loved their Bibles and were earnest students of God's Word. The names of such men as Sir Isaac Newton, Blaise Pascal, Lord Kelvin, Sir Michael Faraday, Sir William Dawson (our great Canadian scientist) are well known and may be looked up in any good encyclopedia. These and many others were earnest students of the Bible.

Dr. Howard Kelly, of Baltimore, whose reputation as a great surgeon and Christian leader is world wide, gave the following advice to a young medical student: — "You are not safe in going into medicine, or any other calling, until you are a thorough-going Christian, and until you place Christ and your relation to Him above all other interests in life, and as a controlling force in your life. . . . There is one book I should recommend you to study and know, and that book is the Bible. Begin with the New Testament and get to know the Gospels thoroughly. From the Gospels branch out into the Epistles." He goes on to say that as knowledge of the Bible increases it will grow with light to guide us.

One of the greatest of the world's metaphysicians, if not the greatest, Immanuel Kant, said, "The existence of the Bible as a Book for the people is the greatest benefit which the human race has ever experienced. Every attempt to belittle it is a crime against humanity."

If we believe that the Bible is the greatest instrument in the world for the uplift and advancement of humanity, we shall not grudge to give of our time, our effort and our substance to further the work of the British and Foreign Bible Society. This Society has for its object to give to every man, woman and child in the world the Word of God in their own mother tongue.

Presbyterian Y.P.S. Launches New Season's Activities

The opening meeting of the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church Y.P.S. was held last evening in the church hall, with about 18 members present. The business meeting consisted mainly of the election and installation of the following officers: President, Earl Rodgers; vice-president, Eileen Beatty; secretary, Una Morrison; chairman of program committee, Cecil McFaul; entertainment committee, Jean Black; refreshment committee, Bessie Black; bowling, Geo. Morrin; membership committee, James Todd; and press, R. Underhill.

A letter of invitation to the Eastern Conference in Toronto being held Oct. 1-2 was read, but due to the short notice it was found impossible to send delegates.

The membership committee wish to take the opportunity afforded by this column to extend a welcome to all past, present and prospective members, and hope as many as possible will join in the meetings held regularly on Wednesday evenings at 8.30 in the hall.

The first impromptu debate of the season was contested last night, the subject being "When is a Member Not a Member?"

To any who propose accepting the open welcome set forth above, it is advised that next meeting is known as Social Evening, with refreshments, and a pleasant time is assured.

Among the Local Churches

"Opening the Gates" Is Impressive Ceremony at Lachute United Service

The morning service at Lachute United Church last Sunday was devoted in large measure to the promotion exercises of the Sunday School scholars, who, following the vacation period, have now resumed their classes. At 11 o'clock the children formed a procession into the church, taking their places in the front pews reserved for them. The names of the scholars were announced by the Rev. W. B. Rosborough, who made presentations to those who had not missed attendance during the year. The four members of the Jacobsen family, Povl, Kirsten, Marie and Elise, received special mention inasmuch as they had duplicated their record of last year and Mrs. Jacobsen was credited for her part in this good record. Other awards were made to Basil Riddell and June McArthur.

The platform was enclosed by floral railings, in the centre of which were two gates. These were opened by the senior scholars of each class as the pupils marched through, singing the hymn, "Open the Gates," as they massed forces and took their places on the platform. The ceremony was most impressive and will remain a significant memory in the children's Sunday School experience.

Riverfront Movies Shown at St. Mungo's Harvest Supper

Cushing — The Harvest Home Supper held by the ladies of St. Mungo's in the beautifully decorated Stone Hall on Saturday night was very enjoyable, and the presence of a large number of summer residents who had returned on this particular week-end so that they might attend, vouched for the popularity of such Cushing events in their estimation. Quite a number of them assisted in the choruses which formed part of the program, accompanied on the piano by Miss Davidson, of Kingston. Mrs. Maw, of Montreal, Mr. Roy Dobbie and Mr. K. Canning favored with solos, and Miss Wheelahan with some Irish recitations. Miss D. Leroy was accompanist for Mrs. Maw, Miss Davidson, Mr. R. Dobbie, and Miss Eileen Canning accompanied her brother. Miss Mildred Douglas presented motion pictures, which were of great interest to many since there were pictures of some of the home folks walking in their colorful gardens, wild flowers of the vicinity, views of Ottawa Experimental Farm and the St. Jean Baptiste procession.

Ottawa Valley Ministerial Assn. Met at St. Mungo's

The Ottawa Valley Ministerial Association met in St. Mungo's United Church, Cushing, recently, with the president, Rev. C. K. Mathewson, of Kirk Hill, in the chair. The Rev. N. McCausland, of Vankleek Hill, secretary, read the minutes of the former meeting and arranged for the business till the close of the season. Rev. J. R. Simpson, of Brownburg, gave a very interesting paper on "The Foolishness of Preaching."

At the close, the clergymen took part in the discussion which had been stimulated by the views brought forward. Rev. Mr. Dempsey, of Cushing, closed the meeting with prayer. The next meeting will be held in Vankleek Hill.

Brownburg United Church

The Women's Missionary Society entertained the ladies of East Settlement Missionary Society on Wednesday evening at their regular meeting. An excellent program was presented, followed by a social hour, when refreshments were served.

Communion service will be held in the United Church next Sunday morning, preceded by a preparatory service on Friday evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. Stanley Smith, of the United Theological College, Montreal, conducted service last Sunday morning in the absence of the minister, Rev. S. J. Pike, who took the services at Avoca, Harrington and Kilmar.

Exchanging Smiles With Sir Edward

When Sir Edward Beatty, G.B.E., K.C., LL.D., chairman and president, Canadian Pacific Railway, was made a freeman of the bustling city of Cranbrook, B.C., September 9, on the occasion of the 40th anniversary of the building of the Canadian Pacific Crow's Nest Pass line, a welcoming hand was extended by two-and-a-half-year-old Shirley Engelhardt. Youngsters are always favorites with Sir Edward who is president of the Navy League and Boy Scouts' Association of Canada, and wee Shirley earned a broad smile. Hundreds of old-time railroaders joined Cranbrook citizens in honoring the railway chief.

Major Earle, Capt. Leroy, Capt. Weightman, T. Simpson, Trooper Burwash, Col. Cushing, Corp. Wilson, Staff-Sgt. McGibbon.

An important meeting of School Commissioners in annual session was held Friday last in Lachute Academy. The large attendance bore evidence of an onward movement in the matter of our elementary schools. Dr. T. Christie was in the chair and short addresses were delivered by Messrs. Haney, McQuat and Calder, the Rev. Mr. Rexford giving a lucid explanation of amendments made at the last session of the Legislature in regard to the school law. The term, "school year" means the twelve months from the 1st of July of one year to and including the thirtieth of June of the next year, all schools commencing work on August 15th and September 15th. The school commissioners are compelled by law to provide each school with a paid teacher for eight months.

Prince Likes Speed

Although Sweden is a small, thickly settled country with no wide open-spaces Prince Bertil, representative of his grandfather, King Gustav, at the Swedish tercentenary celebration held in the United States, is a speeder when he gets behind the wheel of a motor car. He demonstrated this while driving from Syosset, L.I., to Manhattan, 36 miles, in 20 minutes. His motorcycle escort of highway patrolmen found it difficult to keep up with him and, of course, they could not arrest him or even remonstrate with him, since he was a royal guest.

The killing of a workman by his landlord in a quarrel during the tenant's forcible ejection for not having paid his rent, has called attention to the prevalence of unemployment throughout Germany in general and Berlin in particular. It is generally conceded that Germany is confronted with the serious problem of sheltering and feeding the largest army of unemployed it has encountered in the last fifty years.

Iron Horse Names

Of the 711 passenger trains in the United States, Canada and Mexico, six are Owls, five are Night Expresses, three are Midnight Specials, one is a Twilight Express. Apparently all that is lacking is a good old Toot Owl.

The first train in the world to bear the name "limited" was the Pennsylvania Limited, which commenced as the New York and Chicago Limited in 1881, and was re-christened in 1891. It is still running between the two cities and has never missed a day. Air transport is faster, but evidently there are still many who favor the good old steam-lined methods of getting places.

BRANCH MEETINGS OF WOMEN'S INSTITUTES IN ARGENTEUIL COUNTY

A county executive meeting was held in Lachute on Friday to arrange for the county semi-annual meeting on October 8th at two o'clock.

Brownburg, under the convenorship of Mrs. Herbert Graham, held an Educational meeting with the Rev. R. Simpson and Rev. S. J. Pike as guest speakers. Mr. Simpson's topic was "What the Home Expects of the School," and Mr. Pike spoke on "What the School Expects of the Home."

Frontier visited Ayers Limited Woolen Mills, afterwards meeting Dr. F. McMartin, of Lachute, at the home of Mrs. Leslie Griffith and hearing his fine address. Dr. McMartin spoke on "the alimentary canal" and the effect on it, and other organs of the body, through disregard of regular habits. A donation was given toward the furthering of temperance education in schools, also flowers were sent to a sick friend in the hospital. A short but interesting talk was given by the county president on the work of the society.

Lachute held a well attended meeting at which a welcome was extended to the new High School teachers — the principal, staff and scholars of the senior grades being present. A very fine address was given by Miss McKenzie, principal of Montreal High School for Girls, as guest speaker. Assistance was voted to a needy case. The members stood in silent tribute to the memory of the late Dr. J. M. Drew.

Morin Heights, by way of Canadianization and National Events, heard an interesting paper by the convenor, on the restoration of historical Louisburg and St. Helen's Island. Their roll-call was "What I consider the greatest invention of today." Current Events were given and a questionnaire was presented in which all members took part, the prize being won by Mrs. M. Dey.

Lakefield had a visit from the county president, which was much enjoyed, also an interesting address on Child Welfare and Public Health by Dr. Quackenbush, of Montreal.

Pioneer heard, as an Agriculture item, the report by Mrs. Cowan of a meeting on Home Beautifying; this was followed by a discussion. Their roll-call was the name of a Canadian college. A letter was read from the Historical Society of Argenteuil. Current Events were given by Mrs. L. M. Hooker on the origin of Labor Day, unification of music, the Duchess of Athol, the beaver sanctuary, etc. Mrs. J. P. Bradley read articles on Education from Inside the Home, and on the Silver Jubilee in Charlottetown, and Mrs. R. Bradley on Education — not only in book learning but in learning how to live. Mrs. J. Mackenzie read a portion on Mrs. Black, M.P. for the Yukon; Mrs. Parker on Educational Recommendations for Quebec, and Mrs. G. Armstrong on "A Priceless Benefit." Mrs. E. Cooke read a poem "My Work." A discussion on "What the Home Expects of the School," and vice versa, was held. Mrs. Smith reported the meeting re handicrafts, and plans were made for a salad contest to be held in October.

Upper Lachute-East End had ten members present to listen to an interesting talk on "Education in Switzerland." Their roll-call was, "What I would put in a school lunch box."

Jerusalem-Bethany had as their roll-call the name of a former prime minister. Mrs. L. Boyd read items on legislation.

BOY SCOUTS THE WORLD OVER

AN INTERNATIONAL EXCHANGE OF CAMPERS

In an international Boy Scout camping exchange, ten New York Scouts spent two weeks with Montreal Scouts at Camp Tamaracouta this summer, and ten Montreal Scouts returned with them to spend two weeks at the New York City Scout camp at Ten Mile River, N.Y.

B-P.'s DEPUTY BECOMES CAMP COOK

Lord Somers, who as Deputy Chief Scout has been substituting for Lord Baden-Powell at various Scout functions, to lighten the burden for the World Chief Scout, this summer attended a Scoutmasters' training course at Gilwell Park, Essex. With the other Scouters attending, he took his turn as cook and dishwasher, went on the 24-hour hike, and otherwise shared in all the doings of the camp.

MOVIE BOY SCOUTS MUST BE REAL SCOUTS

For their part in the new Deanna Durbin picture, "That Certain Age," every boy in St. Brendan's choir had in fact to become the Boy Scout he was supposed to be. The Boy Scouts of America hold copyright control of the uniform and name "Boy Scouts," and use it to prevent any undesired appropriation of uniform or name in the movies. A boy actor who portrays the part of a Boy Scout must be a Boy Scout in real life.

MONTREAL SCOUTS' 200 MILE HIKE

Seven French-Canadian Boy Scouts of St. Mary's College, Montreal, hiked from that city by way of Ottawa to a camp on Lake Simon, Cheneville, Que., a distance of a little under 200 miles. On the first leg of the journey they did an average of 18 miles a day, to make Ottawa within the week.

TO MY SWIM-SUIT

Good-bye till next summer, you've been a good pal;
But alack and alas, here's the rub:
The season for swimming is over,
and now
I've got to get back in the tub.

I've stretched out my figure (it's nearly a "six")
In ocean, in pool, and in lake;
But now I must "double all up" in cement,
And bathe just for cleanliness' sake.

No more in a "jack-knife," or airy, light "swan"
I'll pose as a champion hope;
From now till next summer I'll practice alone,
And do all my diving for soap.

CITY CATS AT LARGE

Henry Beckett

Still the cats, all velvet shod,
Walk on stone as if 'twere sod;
By ancestral hunting plan
Forage in the garbage can.

Still in jungle attitude,
On a sill they blink and brood;
Wary creatures, vigil keep
At the half-shut gates of sleep.

In the strident city lane,
Soft and silent these remain;
Nourish offspring, darkly roam,
Purr, and make themselves at home.

Advertised by Credit Note Tied to Toy Balloon

Five hours after it was released in Ottawa by an enterprising local automobile dealer, a small yellow toy balloon, carrying a credit note for $75 to apply on the purchase of any used car in stock over the value of $350, was picked up on Whiteface Mountain, near Lake Placid, N. Y. — reports the Ottawa Citizen. The balloon was released at Ottawa at 3.30 o'clock Monday afternoon, September 5th, and was picked up on the mountain at 8.30 o'clock the same evening. It had travelled at an average of 28 miles an hour as the distance to Lake Placid is roughly 140 miles. The balloon was one of several released on the same date.

The automobile dealer received a letter from J. Hubert Stevens, commissioner of the Whiteface Mountain Highway Commission, explaining the balloon had been picked up by one of his men on the top of the mountain. He was interested in learning just when it had been released.

Unfortunately the man who found the balloon may not be able to realize anything on the credit note on account of living in the United States.

EXPERIMENT WITH CANNED GOODS

When it comes to a grocery store I am a sucker. My grocer uses me as a trier-outer. Something new comes along and when he shows it to me I usually fall. There are so many interesting things in cans these days that it pays to shop with an open mind. I seldom use a can as is, but use it some way in my cooking. Have you tried the various canned fruit juices? Grapefruit juice is the family favorite at the moment. It is refreshing and appetizing. I use a lot of canned soups both in meat mixtures and as soups. There are times when a home-made soup is not especially interesting. There just hasn't happened to be enough of the required ingredients on hand and a can of soup added to it will work wonders. I like to save the water from the vegetables for soup. Sometimes I just add a can of soup to this and any left-over vegetables there happen to be. Anyone who cooks with gas or electricity may find it cheaper to use canned soups than to use the fuel for hours to make soup.

POSTPONE THAT SCOLDING

Parents often unintentionally humiliate their children by scolding them before others. Children are more sensitive than they are given credit for and it hurts them to be scolded before strangers. Things are seldom so urgent that the scolding cannot wait. It is bad enough to scold them before adults but it must hurt them worse to be scolded before other children — a thing parents too often forget. It lessens their self-respect and that is something we all need to have built up. A home where children are scolded before others is not a pleasant home to go to. I heard a mother of a teen-age boy say that her son was not very good friends with a former chum now. The father had nagged at the boy so much that he couldn't stand going there and had fallen out of the habit of seeing his chum. If you have children, check up on yourself and see if you have the habit of scolding them before others. Postpone that scolding.

THE HANDY CLEANING TISSUE

Cleaning tissues are one of our modern conveniences. They seem to have so many uses. A box of them always goes along in the car when we start on a trip. Yesterday I found a new household use — new to me at least. After I washed the bathroom taps, I didn't have a dry cloth handy to shine them, so I just used a tissue and didn't it make them shine! Far better than any cloth. I often use them to dust the dresser on one of those days when I am not doing a regular cleaning but just dusting the high spots that show.

A PORCH EVERGREEN

Each October one of my friends plants a small evergreen tree in a jardiniere and keeps it on the table in her front porch, all winter. It does not require any attention and is a green spot all through the cold weather. It is an easy matter to get a small tree of any size you want down in Nova Scotia, but there are parts of our country where this would not be possible. Trees are so plentiful that they stick them in the ground, without planting them, by the house, for a winter decoration. Almost every window box is full of evergreen branches for the winter. They make very attractive decorations but it is hard to get used to the lavish use of evergreens.

TRY

A half-banana rolled in pastry, baked and served hot with lemon sauce.

A quarter-cup of chopped mustard pickles mixed with a can of baked beans, for a sandwich filling.

BRANDY SNAPS

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup molasses, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup butter, 1 teaspoon ginger, 1 cup sifted cake flour, $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon salt, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup granulated sugar.

Heat molasses to boiling point and add the butter and stir well. Sift in the dry ingredients slowly and stir steadily. Drop about a $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoonful on a buttered baking sheet about 3 to 4 inches apart. Bake in a moderate oven of 350 degrees about 8 to 10 minutes until the snaps are a golden brown. Allow to cool slightly, remove from the pan and roll around the handle of a wooden spoon. There is an old-fashioned recipe brought up to date. I often wonder where it got its name.

NURSES WERE FEWER

The supply of student nurses in hospitals 25 years ago was apparently not so plentiful as in these latter years. An advertisement in The Watchman of Oct. 10, 1913, reads:

Learn Nursing! Women's Hospital, Montreal. Wanted — healthy young women over 23 years of age, as probationers. Two years course. For further particulars apply to Lady Superintendent, 1002 St. Catherine St. West., Montreal.

Coffee and Glaucoma

John W. S. McCullough, M.D.

The presence in Canada recently of Sir Edward Duke-Elder, noted eye surgeon of London, brings to mind the fact that he is one of the world's authorities on glaucoma. This affection, according to Sir Stewart, includes a series of diseased states of the eye resulting from an increased pressure within the eye-ball. This increased pressure, which causes the pain in glaucoma, is due to defective drainage of the fluids contained in the eye.

The diagnosis, treatment and general control of this affection are matters for the eye-specialist. Among the latter are some who believe that such stimulants as coffee have a decided tendency to increase intra-ocular pressure. This is probably due to dilatation of the blood-vessels within the iris and ciliary body of the eye.

It has been found in suspected cases of glaucoma that the drinking of two cupfuls of black coffee will, in 15% of cases, increase the pressure definitely in as many minutes. The early signs of glaucoma are, briefly, recurrent dimness of vision lasting perhaps a few hours, and the appearance of coloured halos around lights. There may be headache or eye discomfort. These signs should be sufficient to send the sufferer to a doctor. The treatment is essentially surgical. If properly given, the results are good. Neglect of these signs, or failure to have proper treatment, will result in loss of sight in the affected eye. Needless to say, those having any symptoms of glaucoma should avoid the use of strong coffee.

HOUSE AND HOME

Author of Sister Mary's Kitchen

The selection of pictures for one's home is unquestionably a personal matter of taste, but placing them effectively is something else again and requires study and a feeling for proportion. There is only one fundamental rule to help, so the final effect depends solely on the cleverness of he who hangs the pictures.

The one and only rule is that pictures must be hung at eye level, at a more or less uniform height around the room. This creates a feeling of order and restfulness as well as an impression of definite planning. Obviously small pictures must be hung without any visible means of support — by a small wire fastened to a small nail hidden behind the picture. Large pictures, of course, should be hung by two parallel cords to give the feeling of perfect security.

The picture hung above the fireplace is necessarily above eye level. Naturally it dominates the room and should be chosen as the keynote of color. Either its prevailing color or one of its details of color should repeat some tone that is prominent in the draperies or other features of the room.

New and inexpensive ways to fill the meat course are hard to find. The so-called "cheaper cuts" usually have mostly bone and fat and little lean meat. While they make delicious steaks and pot roasts with brown gravy that goes right to the spot, we hesitate to resort to them for company fare. The next time you have guests for dinner serve Spanish steak instead of an expensive roast. It's different and most delicious. Twice baked potatoes, lima beans in cream, omelette salad and peach mousse complete the menu. Serve appetizers in the living room if you want to omit a first course.

Spanish Steak

Have a sirloin steak cut $2\frac{1}{2}$ inches thick. Sear quickly in hot frying pan. Season with salt and pepper and rub generously with butter. Put in a shallow baking pan and slip into a moderately hot oven (420 degrees F.). Cook thirty minutes and cover with a thick layer of sliced onions. Season onions with salt and pepper and dot with bits of butter. Cook forty-five minutes and cover with a layer of sliced tomatoes. Season lightly with salt and pepper and cook until meat is very tender. It will take about half an hour to finish cooking. Then sprinkle lavishly with grated cheese and leave in the oven just long enough to melt cheese. Serve with gravy made from the juices in the pan.

Ethel Barrymore a Superb Matriarch in "Whiteoaks"

After so many years of seeing no stage shows, it was a real treat to see Ethel Barrymore in "Whiteoaks." The people of Jalna are more real to me than many people that I have met in the flesh, as Mazo de la Roche certainly makes her characters come alive. Any play or picture which is made from a book with which you are familiar is apt to be somewhat of a disappointment, as it is never shown exactly as you have imagined it. "Whiteoaks" was no exception. Ethel Barrymore played a most interesting Matriarch, but she was not enough of a termagant to be my conception of the character. Renny was too mild. His red-headed peppiness was not evident. Finch, Piers and Wakefield all rang true. Ethel Barrymore's voice is unforgettable. I heard her years ago in "Declasse" and although I haven't the foggiest notion of the play now, I have never forgotten her voice. I doubt if anyone who heard her in "Whiteoaks" will ever forget her inflections as she named the various cheeses — Rocquefort, Cheddar, Limburger and Stilton. Radio does not do her voice justice.

— Jessie Allen Brown.

Women Take to the Air

One out of every four airplane passengers in the United States is a woman, according to recent statistics. To help make women "air-minded," several airlines offered free trips to wives travelling with their husbands. One company carried 220 free between New York and Chicago over one week-end. Courtesy flights to show women the safety and comfort of planes are frequent. Based on figures of 1936, when 1,000,000 passengers were carried and deaths amounted to 46, it is estimated that the odds against an air traveller's being killed are 21,000 to one.

Has Queer Hobby

There is no accounting for hobbies. For Mrs. Henry J. Kramer, Chicago, it is the collection of neckties from members of Congress. She wheedled 250 ties from members of the 75th Congress and made a rug from them. The centre is an old four-in-hand formerly worn by Speaker William B. Bankhead, of the House.

Experience is a great teacher. A child who had been put back a grade in school was asked if his parents were helping him this year with his studies. "Naw," was the laconic reply. "They did last year."

"Do you know, Mary, if my dressmaker's bill came in while I was out?"
"I don't think so, ma'am, I can hear master singing."

An Autumn Menu

By Betty Barclay

It is not yet time for heavy winter meals, but it is time for a shrimp cocktail, a small bowl of soup, some meat and green vegetables, a rattling good orange dessert and a glass of iced tea with plenty of lemon juice. Here is an autumn meal that is well balanced, easy to prepare and delicious.

Below you will find a suggested menu, and the only recipes needed to serve this early autumn meal:

Iced Tea

Sea Food Cocktail

1 cup shrimp, lobster, crab, tuna or a combination of these; $\frac{1}{2}$ cup of finely cut celery, $\frac{1}{4}$ cup tomato catsup, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, $\frac{1}{4}$ cup lemon juice, 1 tablespoon finely cut chives or onion.

Mix ingredients. Chill thoroughly. Serve in cocktail glasses. Accompany with lemon quarters. (Serves 4-6).

Orange Spanish Cream

2 tablespoons gelatin, 2 cups milk, $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sugar, 3 eggs, separated, $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon salt, 1 cup orange juice, orange segments.

Soak gelatin in the milk about 5 minutes. Place over hot water in top of double boiler. When gelatin is dissolved, add sugar. Pour slowly on the yolks of the eggs, slightly beaten. Return to double boiler and cook until thickened somewhat, stirring constantly. Remove from stove and add salt and orange juice. Add egg whites stiffly beaten. Turn into one large mold — rinsed in cold water. — A ring mold gives attractive service. Chill until stiff. Unmold and decorate with orange segments. (Serves 6).

THIS slimy GROWTH lurks in hidden corners

Chase grease and grime with Gillett's Lye*—it washes dirt away

KEEP corners free of disease-breeding dirt—but don't let housecleaning wear you out. Gillett's Pure Flake Lye saves hours of drudgery. And it gets at the stubborn, greasy spots that rubbing and scrubbing won't remove. Gillett's eats dirt—cuts right through grease. Keep a tin always on hand. Ask your grocer for Gillett's—today!

*Never dissolve lye in hot water. The action of the lye itself heats the water.

INSOMNIA

No scientific study has solved the problem of sleep. The loom of life never stops and the pattern we were weaving when slumber enfolded us is still in the process of weaving when we awaken. Byron said that sleep was the boundary line between death and existence.

Recently medical men in a well known scientific laboratory have been making a study of sleep, using for this purpose puppies. At the end of five days all the puppies, which were fed abundantly and properly at regular intervals, but denied sleep, died. A similar group of puppies which were allowed sleep as much as they desired, but from whom food was withheld, survived to the twentieth day and were then saved by being cautiously fed. Newborn infants require almost twenty-four hours sleep a day for a few weeks, but as their first year progresses the period of sleep declines to about 18 hours.

From five to ten years of age children need about twelve hours sleep, while from seven to fourteen, ten hours of repose are sufficient. After fifteen years, eight hours of sleep are all that is necessary. Persons over fifty years of age get along well on six hours of actual sleep. Napoleon needed only four hours sleep a day. Usually insomnia is the result of unhygienic living, which if overcome, restores sleep to the patient and eliminates the usual irritability found among this unfortunate class. Many people conscientiously believe that they sleep fewer hours than they really do.

Exercise an Aid

I had an elderly lady patient who complained that she never slept "except for a few minutes each night." She decided to go to Europe for treatment at one of the springs for insomnia and asked me to accompany her. I saw her in bed in her compartment on the sleeper and she remarked as she bid me goodnight: "Well, doctor, I know I am in for another night of torture, with no sleep." In the morning after we arrived in New York to board our ship, I knocked at her door and was told to come in. Immediately my patient said: "I have tossed about this bed for hours and the train has never started. Has something happened? Are we still in the depot?" "Yes," I replied, "but the New York depot." My patient had slept the entire night and did not even feel the motion of the train.

Take enough exercise so as to be tired when bedtime comes; have a quiet and cool room with a comfortable bed, lightweight bed clothes, and relax when you retire and sleep will usually come naturally. If you sleep in a closed room on a squeaky bed, with too many or too few coverings, and every muscle stiff and tense, mulling over the things that happened during the day, you will banish sleep from your body.

GAPE LEGENDS ARE TOLD

The fisher folk of the Gape Peninsula delight in narrating the weird stories and legends of the past. The very names of some of the Gape localities suggest unusual happenings: Ile au Massacre (Massacre island), where a band of Indians was massacred; Pointe Frigate (Frigate point), where an old galleon was wrecked; Manche d'Epee (Sword Hilt), where an old sword hilt, dating back to the early arrival of the first white man, was found. The tourist who visits this land of legends of the Province of Quebec may often get some "oldest inhabitant" to relate some of these tales he will swear to be true. A favorite is that of the ghost ships which are wrecked yearly as tempest-lashed waves batter them against dark cliffs. The story goes that once a year, usually on a bright moonlit night, a terrific storm blows up and streaks of lightning throw an eerie spotlight on an ancient barque whose crew are garbed like pirates of old and armed to the teeth with cutlasses and muskets. They will tell you, these hardy fisher folk, that there is a crash as the ship strikes the cliffs and immediately afterward the storm abates, the clouds break and again the moon beams down on a tranquil scene.

Glanders, Horse Disease, Is Communicable to Man

Few equine diseases are communicable to man. Glanders is the most common one. Extensive outbreaks occurred in the great armies of the Eighteenth and Nineteenth centuries when, for the sake of a horse, a kingdom might be lost or won. Glanders is characterized by ulcers in the nose, which sometimes spread to the lungs or intestines. To humans it may be deadly, though in horses it tends to become chronic and not necessarily fatal, according to Victor G. Heiser, M. D., in Collier's Weekly.

Another disease the horse shares with man is anthrax, although cattle and sheep are far more subject to it. Direct contact is the only method of transmitting anthrax. But once the soil where the animals have pastured is infected, it may remain so for years unless prompt steps are taken.

In human beings anthrax begins as an inflamed pimple with a hard center and a gradually extending red zone of inflammation around it. The enormous carbuncle, burning like a little coal, as the Greek derivation of its name implies, extends into the deeper structure below the skin, far into the connective tissue. The patient is simply overwhelmed by the poisons and the high fever. Farmer George Washington, at the beginning of his first term, developed one of these on his leg and we almost lost our first President.

Anthrax has the distinction of being the first bacillus to be definitely associated with the cause of a specific disease. It is easily stained and, because of its great size, was also one of the first in which the great Koch recognized the reproductive spores, the little nucleoli inside the bacilli plainly visible under the microscope. These spores will remain alive for several years in a dry condition; hence anthrax may be conveyed to human beings in all industries using hair or hides.

SHORTER COW-PATHS SPEED THE HARVEST

New developments in the growing and harvesting of field crops are rapidly transforming the business of farming into one of our most mechanized and scientifically operated industries, whether we like it or not. Few, if any of these developments, are receiving a more enthusiastic response from the constructive farmers than the practice of improvement of pastures through use of chemical fertilizers.

Dairy farmers have begun to realize the possibilities in conveniently located permanent pasture areas. These are real time and energy savers and are in particular favor as night pastures during the rush period of harvesting, threshing and silo filling. Highly fertilized with essential mineral to promote the growth of our better pasture grasses and wild white clover, these pastures can be grazed earlier in the spring and later in the fall. Besides, says G. R. Snyder, soil chemist, practical farmers and animal nutritional experts who have studied the question are agreed that the summer mineral requirements of livestock can best be fed through the pasture herbage. High in minerals and exceedingly palatable, fertilized grass is much favored by the dairy herd and results in both increased production and improved quality of milk.

Beef cattle men are interested in pasture fertilization from a slightly different angle. In areas specializing in this type of farming, many large fields and even whole farms have been continually pastured for many years. Year after year the calcium and phosphates have been carried away to form an essential part of the teeth, bones and blood of the grazing cattle. Today hundreds of these pastures have reached the stage of near collapse and are being rapidly overrun with weeds and other forms of poverty vegetation. Most of the soils of these areas contain an abundant supply of the seed of wild white clover, a carry-over from the days of virgin fertility, and it is by promoting the growth of this legume that the restoration of these pastures is possible.

Fertilizing pastures in the fall with high phosphate fertilizers of the type of 0-16-6 is now a generally accepted practice, for phosphates have a remarkable influence on root growth, and when applied in liberal quantities fortify the plants against winter killing and insure an earlier and more vigorous growth in the spring. On the lighter sandy soil and other areas that tend to be low in nitrogen, or where clover makes up less than 20% of the herbage, the fall application of mineral is supplemented by the spring application of a high nitrogen fertilizer, such as sulphate of ammonia or cyanamid.

The planning of work in advance is a factor of no slight importance in the success of any type of business and in the case of producing crops, a definite fertility plan designed to obtain the maximum cropping profits without impoverishing the soil is fast becoming a part of many a farm program.

MODERN METHOD OF STOPPING A RUNAWAY

Pursuit of a runaway milk wagon team with a motor truck, passing the driverless horses as they galloped wildly down a hill, and manoeuvring in front so as to stop them before they reached a bridge, won commendation for Rover Scout James Hamilton, of Edmonton. A number of children were playing near the bridge, and possible injury to some of them was averted.
