Hundreds Pay Tribute to Young Auto Crash Victim

Grant Pridham, 22, Met Instant Death, Four Others Injured in Collision With Truck on Montreal Route

Grant Pridham, of Westmount, 22-year-old son of A. MacI. Pridham, formerly of Grenville and well-known on the river-front of this county, was instantly killed and four persons were injured, one of them seriously, when their automobile crashed into a parked truck near Arthur's Corner, east of St. Hermas on the Montreal highway. The tragedy occurred on Saturday afternoon at 5.30 o'clock. The police stated that a man was standing by the truck with a flashlight to warn motorists but the driver of the automobile saw him too late, having just rounded a curve.

The injured are all Montrealeers — Mrs. Colin Hull, 25, Grant Pridham's sister, internal injuries, cuts about the head and a broken finger; Colin Hull, 30, owner and driver of the automobile, fracture of the left wrist and general contusions; Miss G. McCallum, 18, suffering from contusions and a cut on the forehead; Stanley Smith, 29, fracture of the left leg and cuts about the face.

All the injured were treated on the scene by a local doctor and were later taken to the Notre Dame Hospital in Montreal, where it was reported that Mrs. Hull was in a serious condition. The others are said to be in no danger.

FAILED TO SEE LIGHT

The accident occurred as the party was on its way to the Pridham home at Grenville. It was dark. Mr. Hull was driving the car and as he rounded a curve came upon two parked trucks, one behind the other. One of the trucks had a flat tire and the driver was making a change while the driver of the other truck, provincial police reported, stood in the road with a flashlight to warn oncoming traffic.

Hull did not see the light till he was so close to the rear truck that it was impossible to avoid the collision. He attempted to swerve but his car struck the heavier vehicle.

The occupants of the front seat, Hull, his wife and his brother-in-law, Grant Pridham, were tossed against the framework of the car and Pridham struck his head on the metal corner of the windshield frame, suffering a fractured skull. He died instantly.

Those in the rear seat, Miss McCallum and Smith, were badly shaken up.

The trucks were the property of Ferdinand St. Jean, of Hull. They were loaded with brick and were travelling to Montreal. Police stated the trucks were on the right side of the road.

After the accident, Dr. Alfred Adam, of Ste. Scholastique, was summoned to give first aid. Later, Dr. Joseph Pagé, of St. Benoit, coroner of the district, opened an inquest but adjourned until Wednesday. The body was released and a largely attended funeral took place Tuesday afternoon at Grenville.

IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL HELD AT GRENVILLE

Hundreds from this district, as well as Montreal and Ottawa, gathered in Grenville Tuesday afternoon to pay final tribute at the funeral of Grant Pridham.

Following a brief service at the family summer home, the lengthy cortege proceeded to the century-old St. Matthew's Anglican Church, where service was conducted by the Rev. K. N. Brueton, the rector, assisted by the Rev. Can. W. P. Garrett, of Hawkesbury, and Rev. W. P. Ellis, of St. Aidan's Church, Ville Emard, Montreal. Interment was in the family plot in the adjoining cemetery. The committal service was conducted by the Rev. K. N. Brueton and prayers were said by Rev. W. Ellis.

The chief mourners were his parents, A. MacI. Pridham, who is an agent of the Manufacturers' Life Insurance Company, Montreal, and Mrs. Pridham; a sister, Miss Jessie Pridham, Montreal; and two brothers, Edwin and Donald, of Grenville.

The pall-bearers, all close friends of the deceased, were George Martin and Alvin Combs, of Calumet; William Thompson and John Garrett, of

Dr. F. McMartin Speaker, on "Problems of Adolescence"

A large attendance of the W.I. members assembled in Lachute High School on Tuesday afternoon to listen to an address by Dr. F. McMartin on "The Problems of Adolescence." The subject was well reviewed and many helpful hints were given. The speaker was introduced by Mrs. T. E. McQuat. A vote of thanks for his interesting discourse was extended by Mrs. C. Duncan, seconded by Mrs. Jas. Hay.

During the business session, the sum of $300 was voted to the High School for the purchase of manual training equipment and $25 on behalf of the Lachute Wolf Cub Pack. Refreshments were served by the social committee.

High School Evacuated in Short Time at Fire Drill

The result of a fire drill staged at Lachute High School on Tuesday morning speaks well for the training of the scholars in case of an emergency. Fire Chief Geo. Y. Deacon, being on the school premises a little before 11 a.m., sounded the fire bell by way of a test, and under the supervision of Principal C. L. Hall, 380 children made an orderly exit from the building in 1 minute 20 seconds.

County Youngster Whose Smile Has Become Famous

WON HIS WAY INTO THE HEARTS OF MILLIONS

The Poster Association of Canada, in advocating publicity through the medium of posters, draws attention to the "Domestic Shortening" boy who became a well-known character, his pleasant smile having "won its way into the hearts of millions" through a cleverly conceived series of posters.

Around this district, folks were particularly attracted to these pictures by the fact that the little chap they portrayed was Donald Fuller, the son of Argenteuil parents, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Fuller, of Cushing. His appearance in the Domestic ads originated with a snapshot taken by his mother in the farm-yard when the lad was a little over two years old; he is now in his sixth year and a bright, engaging youngster. In the picture Donald, carrying a pail with the legend, "Domestic Shortening," was wearing his happiest smile — a smile inherited from his father, who is one of Cushing's most popular citizens and a pillar of St. Mungo's Church. The snapshot, submitted to a representative of the company, made a hit on the merit of its advertising possibilities. Since then young Donald — unknown to Canadians except through his sunny smile — has appeared in several merry adventures depicted on the Domestic posters and calendars.

PURPOSE OF BOYS' BAND DEMONSTRATION

WORTHY PROJECT PLANNED BY LACHUTE LIONS CLUB

Tomorrow night, Friday, Lachute is to be favored with a visit from the Boys' Band, of Maxville, Ontario. This group is coming with the purpose of demonstrating what young folks can achieve in the judicious employment of their leisure time. A national authority on crime stated recently that where he finds a community with a maximum of good music, there he finds a minimum of crime.

Through the zeal and energy of Mr. Alex Guenette, a number of young men in the community have become adept musicians in the men's brass band. And now a move is on foot to establish a boys' group along similar lines.

The Lions Club of Lachute, who are sponsoring this effort, request that parents and others interested will attend this concert to be given in Lachute Auditorium on Friday at 8.15 p.m. Most children have the capacity to learn music, and no matter whether they become accomplished musicians or achieve but little, once they have listened to music and learned to understand it, their lives will be enriched accordingly. This venture will prove the finest training school for the future citizens' band in this town.

Inspectors Find Improvement in Fire Protection System

Inspecting the waterworks and fire protection equipment here on Wednesday, Mr. Ahearn, Deputy Fire Commissioner of Quebec, and Mr. Price, Underwriters' Inspector, remarked notable improvements since their last visit to Lachute three years ago. As a result of their favorable impression, Fire Chief Geo. Y. Deacon confidently hopes for a reduction in local fire insurance rates when the inspectors' report is turned in.

In a test alarm issued from the town office, the fire brigade responded promptly, having water laid on from 100 feet of hose within 2½ minutes.

Hockey Promoters Will Organize on Sound Basis

Remembrance Day to Be Observed in Fitting Manner

On Friday, Nov. 11th, this community will again pay tribute to those who "gave all that we might live." The local Veterans are taking charge of the memorial service which will be held at Lachute Auditorium on Friday morning at 10.45 o'clock. A Montreal speaker will address the gathering, after which adjournment will be made to the cenotaph for the depositing of wreaths.

The public are cordially invited to attend, and it is expected there will be a large gathering to participate in this service of remembrance.

Young ladies will canvass the community with poppies, and it is hoped that the public will give their hearty support to this campaign. All citizens collected from this source are used entirely for the aid of needy veterans. Advance orders for wreaths or large poppies may be telephoned to The Watchman Office (No. 27).

Manual Training at High School Is Virtually Assured

At a regular assembly of the Protestant School Board Tuesday evening, grateful recognition was made to the Lachute Women's Institute for having granted $300 of their funds for the purchase of school manual training equipment. As a result, the Board is taking up the matter with Quebec Department of Education and studying details for introduction of this study into the High School curriculum. Tentative plans call for the installation of ten work benches and tools in the Physics room, and engagement of a qualified instructor in carpentry.

Premier Duplessis Pledges Co-operation With Farmers

The first duty of the Quebec Government will always be to encourage the farmers of this "exclusively agricultural province" and make their lot as prosperous as possible, Premier Duplessis said at Quebec in an address to the 14th annual congress of Quebec Catholic Farmers' Union.

"I believe it is my duty as premier of this province," said Duplessis, "to extend to you my admiration, offer my co-operation and inform you that we are ready at all times to do everything possible for the agricultural class."

The large attendance at the congress showed the "strength and importance" of Quebec farming class in the economic and social life of the province, said Cardinal Villeneuve at the congress. Urging all Quebec farmers to join the union, he said: "In thus organizing you are responding to the directives of His Holiness the Pope, who has preached in his encyclicals, reconstruction of the economic order by means of organiza-

Business-like Backing for Proposed Entry in Montl. Intermediate League

In the prospect of entering a Lachute team in the Montreal Intermediate Hockey League, and to establish a sound backing for such representation, a meeting of hockey enthusiasts was held Saturday evening in the Town Hall.

With Mr. Guy Legault in the chair, there appeared general enthusiasm behind this enterprise, which would prove a step to put Lachute on the athletic map and to promote both sports and business within the town.

It was decided to issue shares of $10 each in a corporation to operate the hockey club and interests. Before the meeting closed, several prominent citizens came forward and pledged themselves to purchase shares and a committee was formed to interview other interested residents.

A provisional executive was elected at this meeting, comprising T. H. Ayers as president; Jos. Belanger, vice-president; Jas. McGibbon, 2nd vice-president; Lionel Rozon, secretary; R. Langille, joint secretary; W. Jolicoeur, treasurer; Geo. Lefebvre, assistant treasurer; for publicity and promotion, an officer to be appointed, H. McEntyre, assistant.

Two honorary presidents, Mr. K. Wilson and Mr. T. Ayers, and a directorate of seven were also appointed on this provisional slate of officers.

At a subsequent meeting on Tuesday evening with Mr. Jos. Belanger presiding, a representation was appointed to appear at an Intermediate League meeting tomorrow night (Friday) in Montreal. This delegation includes Guy Legault, W. S. MacKimmie, Jos. Raymond, M. Navion and L. Rozon — who will discuss conditions and details for entering their team in the League this season.

SPIRIT OF HALLOWE'EN AT CLUB MASQUERADE

ANNUAL CHARITY VENTURE DRAWS MERRY CROWD

The Hundred Club masquerade ball, which drew a gay assembly to Lachute Auditorium Friday evening, proved a success which ensures the recurrence of this affair as an annual function in aid of the club's charity work.

The building was suitably decorated, and the costumes in their appeal and variety excelled those of last year's masquerade, which was the Hundred Club's first venture of the kind. Judges were Mrs. G. E. Dansereau, of Grenville, Mrs. Geo. Ball, of Brownsburg, and Miss Juliette Rodrigue, of Lachute, who graciously undertook the difficult task of selecting the prize winners. Awards for the two most original representations went to Mr. Roger Gravel, Lachute, and Miss Dansereau, Grenville, attired respectively as Javel Water bottle and the housewife symbolic of Old Dutch Cleanser advertising. The award for men's best home-made costume went to Mr. A. Fassin, Lachute, as a pierrot, and for the ladies, to Miss Adeline Piva, Montreal, as a Dutch maid. Prizes for the best costumes in the hall were awarded to Mr. and Mrs. P. Lesperance, of Lachute, in eighteenth century court dress. Miss Blanche Thoret, of Lachute, in an old-fashioned riding habit, also won a prize.

Music for the dancing was provided by Lowe's Orchestra, of Grenville, who acquitted themselves creditably to prove that out-of-town music in no way excels the local product. An amusing interlude was afforded by M. Duhamel, of Rockland, Ont., with a clever program of sleight-of-hand numbers.

A somewhat original feature arranged by the decoration committee added to the success of the evening, when a net containing hundreds of balloons was released from the ceiling over the heads of the merry-makers.

The refreshments were admirably handled by ladies of the Loyal Orange Order, and Boy Scouts of the First Lachute Troop assisted in checking the clothing.

tion of the different classes of society, each one separately."

"Aid your government in bringing to a successful issue the things necessary for good social order," His Eminence concluded.

Manchester, England, has decided to replace its street railway by motor bus service within three years.

A CIVIC HAIR-CUT

Mayor Yufu Oiwa, of Nagoya, Japan, has ordered city employees to clip their hair off short for the duration of the war in China, in line with the spiritual mobilization drive. Those who fail to comply must submit written explanations to their superiors. Primary school teachers have offered to follow the example of the municipal departments.

AUTO ASSOCIATION URGES COMPLETION OF TRANS-CANADA HIGHWAY

Completion of the Trans-Canada highway as soon as possible was asked at the annual meeting of the Canadian Automobile Association held recently in Toronto. Association delegates said the highway should be completed in the interests of national unity and to develop a larger tourist trade.

Delegates asked also the improvement of present sections of the Trans-Canada to arterial highway standards.

OUR PROVINCIALISM

(Toronto Globe and Mail)

We have our problems, mutual difficulties, as well as those peculiar to the different entities. They are by no means wholly political and economic. Unfortunately, we have not been able to forget our racial and religious differences, which in too many cases have been made the breeding grounds of political animosities. Rooted in tradition and nurtured throughout generations of isolated thought and teaching, they will not be easily ploughed under. Important as these may seem to those who hold them, they are not of national moment. Not one can stand analysis as a worthy obstruction to unity. Yet they are obstructions, and with the sectional antagonisms are hampering the solution of the really important problems. We might talk of reform and rail against the insane selfishness of our insularity. But the fact is that no reforms and no amount of talking will alter anything until we succeed in reforming ourselves. The first change is for the people of every province to begin thinking of themselves as Canadians and to measure progress and fix objectives on a national scale.

discussion of the report of the Commission on Dominion-Provincial Relations. It has been thought that this report and discussions arising from it might serve as a plank of the platform of the Government for Canadian unity. The trade treaty with the United States, still under negotiation but said to be almost completed, will be a subject of widespread discussion on the election hustings.

Defense estimates will play an important part in the session debates. There seems every likelihood that the appropriations which have averaged 35 million dollars for the past two years will be substantially increased. The reason for this is quite plain. The European crisis, which fortunately passed without resort to world war, nevertheless made Canada sharply and unpleasantly aware, in the opinion of many observers, of the inadequacy of her defenses. The danger so narrowly averted, it is felt, has made Canada more clearly conscious of her responsibilities, and her vulnerability. These observers point out that Canada cannot placidly depend for her defence on her membership in the British Commonwealth and on her geographical position. Recently the United States Government has begun a vigorous campaign for increased naval and other armaments. The President of the U. S. last summer made a comforting speech about the defence of Canada against attack. In return, Canada must at least prevent herself being made at any time the base of an attack on the United States. The Prime Minister and the Minister of National Defence have emphasized this. To ensure this, Canada will need much more extensive and effective armaments than she now possesses.

In relation to the whole question of aerial defence, word is still awaited about the establishment in Canada of flying schools for the training of pilots for the Royal Air Force. In the coming months also, the actual contracts for the manufacture of aerial bombers for the British Air Force will be placed with Canadian factories. The preliminary arrangements were completed two or three months ago.

As a symbol of the relationship which now exists under the statute of the King with the people of Canada, His Majesty will preside over a meeting with the Privy Council at Ottawa. The Privy Council is composed of members of the present Cabinet and of previous Cabinets, as well as some others who have held positions of responsibility in the country's service. For example, Mr. Howard Ferguson, formerly High Commissioner at London, and Mr. Herridge, former Canadian Minister at Washington, are both members. Lord Baldwin is also a Privy Councillor, as was the late

CITY'S RIGHTS DISPUTED

The City of Montreal has no right under its charter to enter into a contract allowing outdoor signs in civic property, the Denis Outdoor Sign Display Company, Limited, contended before Mr. Justice Decary in Practice Division of Superior Court. The point was raised when the company contested the city's suit for $1,250 allegedly due on a contract entered into in December, 1934. The court took the point under advisement.

TRAFFIC REGULATIONS CONFUSING IN CAPITAL CITY, SAYS JUDGE

Judge J. T. Mulcahy, of Pembroke, suggested recently that Ottawa would do well to "burn all its traffic regulations."

"Speaking as an outsider, I would say that if you got all the traffic regulations in Ottawa and set a match to them, the city would be better off," he said.

Judge Mulcahy made the observation while presiding as chairman of the conciliation board investigating the wage dispute between the Ottawa Electric Railway and its employees.

"You have a wonderful city here," the Judge said, "but oh my, you have a wonderful set of traffic regulations. Perhaps they're fine for those that live here and know them, but let a poor country cousin come in and try to find a place to park anywhere near where he wants to."

"And then for getting around corners where there are traffic lights — on some corners you turn on one light and others on the other. It would be pretty bad to be color blind."

THE WEAVER OF RHYMES

Should one heed or not what another says,
Who, whether or not born to Dreamer's ways,
Comes near, and asks, "Why wasteth thou thy time Scribbling dribbling, senseless, doggerel rhyme?"

Whilst another, reading, with dreamful eyes,
Looks up, exclaims, "Oh, Poet, in the skies
I see your dream-kites sailing in the blue. . .
Far off, on high where all is pure and true!"

And so —
Through gleamful days, heedless of Critic's chime,
The Weaver weaves from threads of thought sublime
Word melodies, untuned, and sent from God. . .
Builds and builds with love her songs; even flawed!

Makes music, bright with inspiration's flame;
Nor heeds, nor seeks for envied praise or blame.
She knows 'tis not her soul's alone to do —
But she one harp of Heaven's chosen few.

Carleton Place, Ont.

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald. In all, between ninety and one hundred are eligible to attend the meeting.

Just prior to the war, when a cadet in the Royal Navy, the King visited Halifax and Charlottetown. Next summer, Their Majesties will probably start their tour of Canada from Halifax, visiting all provinces. They will spend as much time as their itinerary arrangements will possibly allow, it is confidently predicted, in the Province of Quebec among the descendants of Canada's oldest settlers, who have done so much for the development of the Dominion, who have helped so materially to give it its distinctive culture, and who have so wholeheartedly welcomed the news of Their Majesty's intended visit. However, they will have only three weeks in Canada, and as the country is vast, they will be able to spend only a limited time in any one place.

It seems probable that Their Majesties, when they have finished their tour of Canada, will pay a friendly visit to the United States for a day or two before returning to the United Kingdom. Without placing any particular aim or significance on their visit, it will be a gesture of goodwill which must have a lasting, beneficial effect on the relations between the two great English speaking democracies.

Why Should the Spirit of Mortal Be Proud

(CORRESPONDENCE)

Editor, The Watchman:

Dear Sir:

A couple of weeks ago, on Sunday, Oct. 16, took place the annual ceremony of remembrance of the dead in the Catholic cemetery between here and Calumet, attended by a crowd of about a thousand people.

A procession was formed at the cemetery gates and walked slowly around the borders of the graveyard, thinking of and praying for the loved ones who had passed on to that bourne from which none return — and again reforming in a dense throng before the cemetery cross, awaiting the oration, which was delivered by the Reverend Father Brosseau, of Grenville, with his silvery tongue and soul of a poet.

The setting was perfect; a beautiful autumn day. A stone's throw away, the lovely mountain, with its evergreens and the deciduous trees, a mass of glowing color, reds and greens and yellows. Nearby old Father Ottawa slowly flowing along on its long journey to the sea, probably thinking, if rivers can be said to think, "What fools these mortals be, what shadows they pursue."

The scene was most impressive. The white-robed priest, standing on a slight elevation on which a sort of Rock of Ages monument was erected, serving as a base for a huge cross on which the dying Saviour, with outstretched arms, seems to be carrying all the sins and sorrows of the world.

Father Brosseau, with his well-known oratorical powers, gave a powerful address, in the course of which he exhorted his listeners, when in a cemetery, to reflect — above all, reflect. "Think, for the night is coming; and as these dead are now, so you shall be, some day."

The human soul is a curious thing anyway; you have to be a hardy adventurer to try to perform miracles with it.

Of all the people there that day, how many will be there ten years from now? How many five years from now? How many one year from now? From the babe in its mother's arms to the gray-headed men and women, their days are numbered, but only the All-Highest has the key to that mystery.

I am a strong believer, the longer I live, in environment — at least where surface characteristics are concerned. Heredity, it seems to me, is the fundamental factor, environment the exterior one. And to see the strong sons and daughters of a brave pioneer race, gathered there to honor and pray for their dead, causes one to think that good old Quebec is not the worst place to be raised in.

But to me it is equally a wonder that men and women can endure ordinary life and come out human. This lovely thing of flesh and blood and aspiration, this intricate and delicate adjustment of tears and laughter and evil and heroism, is beaten upon by noise and confusion and ugliness and hatred and senseless killing — beaten like a tree in a storm.

Out of its own mind, to be sure, have come the very forces that are its enemies; but like the jinn the poor fisherman released, these forces promised happiness, only to grow into a cloud of tragedy. With all the brute in it, and the monkey and the clown, humanity is still undeniably splendid and fundamentally charitable.

Standing at the foot of these mountains a man can feel very small, indeed. But if you are at all charitable or humorous, the petty faults or humanity can be overlooked, and you can be inclined to like their owners all the better for them, although they can sometimes be exasperating.

— W. R. Mackan.

Council Discusses Damage to Lands at Waterworks Intake

Little of importance occupied the attention of the Town Council at their meeting on Wednesday. A few minor matters were dealt with, foremost of these being the claims of several farmers whose lands have been flooded through raising of the dam on the town's waterworks intake. While recognizing certain damage had been caused, and wishing to be fair in compensating, the Council as a whole felt some of the claimants were making excessive demands. The secretary was requested to write the parties concerned to give a valuation of acreage damage, failing which the town would resort to arbitration.

Cyclist Killed at Oka

Oscar St. Denis, 25, was killed when his bicycle was knocked down by a truck on the highway one mile east of Oka village on Saturday afternoon. An inquest was held later by Dr. Joseph Pagé, of St. Benoit, district coroner, and the jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

The man was riding towards the village and a truck, driven by Louis Chenin, of Oka, came behind. The driver sounded the horn to warn St. Denis but the latter became frightened and swerved into the path of the truck just as it was passing. He fell to the pavement, suffered a fracture of the skull and died instantly.

Dedication of New Organ at Presbyterian Church

Last Sunday was a day long to be remembered by those who attended the morning service at the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church.

The occasion was the dedication of the new pipe organ so graciously presented by an anonymous donor.

In addition, the sacrament of baptism was conferred upon the infant children of Rev. and Mrs. Henry Cousens and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Muir.

An inspiring address was given by Rt. Rev. M. A. Campbell, D.D., who urged his listeners to make the best possible use of the talent with which God had blessed them. "For everyone," he said, "is possessed of some gift which can be used for good."

Mr. J. McL. Marshall, organist of Outremont Presbyterian Church, officiated at the new Casavant organ, exhibiting a rare understanding of the instrument. Playing "Handel's Largo" during the offertory, in this selection particularly he brought out a full depth of sound and rich harmony. Mrs. E. McLean, soprano, delighted the assembly of over 500 persons with her superb rendering of sacred songs.

At the evening service, Mrs. W. M. Cottingham officiated at the organ, and in her chosen selections skillfully demonstrated the instrument's fine range and combination of tones. Soloist at this service was Miss Helen McFaul, another talented local artist.

The Rev. Mr. Cousens expressed his hearty appreciation of the large attendance and thanked the Moderator and all who had contributed so notably to the inspiration of this memorable day.

Thank-Offering Meeting

The annual thank-offering meeting of the Women's Missionary Auxiliary of the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church, took place on Tuesday afternoon. There was a good attendance and the ladies were entertained by Mrs. Owen Campbell, of Montreal, as guest speaker, Mrs. W. M. Cottingham, organist, and Miss H. McFaul, soloist.

Lachute United Y.P.S.

The Y.P.S. of Lachute United Church held a successful social gathering last evening. About 35 members and friends were present. After the usual devotional exercises, an interesting talk was given by Messrs. Hugh Brennan and Harold Deacon on their recent tour abroad. Games were played and refreshments served, after which the honorary president, Rev. W. B. Rosborough, on behalf of the Society, presented a gift to Miss Eleanor Armstrong, whose marriage takes place shortly. A sing-song, followed by the National Anthem, brought a very enjoyable evening to a close.

Eighteen New Members Join C.G.I.T. Group

The C.G.I.T. of the Lachute United Church, under the able leadership of Mrs. Leslie Morris and Miss Freda Mason, held a gala evening on Tuesday, when 18 new members were enrolled in their group. These included eight promotions from the Mission Band and ten new members. After the initiation ceremonies the group royally entertained their new recruits, and games and refreshments completed an enjoyable evening.

Brownburg United Church

The Women's Missionary Society autumn thank-offering service was held last Sunday morning in connection with the regular service of the church, with the president, Mrs. S. J. Pike, in charge.

Mrs. J. A. Mowatt, of St. Andrews East, was speaker for the occasion and gave a vivid picture of her work in China, with her husband, Rev. J. A. Mowatt, some thirty years ago. Mrs. Mowatt described the establishing of the Industrial School of Honan as forming a background for the more extensive work they were privileged to do in that great province — the progress of which, it is hoped, may not be too materially impeded by the invasion of the Japanese army.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Mowatt, being moved by Mrs. T. Izzard and seconded by Mrs. Jas. Thompson.

The Mission Band, distinguished in their emblem colors, rendered their emblem song. Four members of the C.G.I.T., also present in a body, took up the collection.

Presbyterian Y. P. S.

The Presbyterian Y.P.S. held an enthusiastic meeting last evening, about 35 members attending. A delegation was present from the Montreal Presbytery of the Y.P. Union, to whom the meeting was turned over.

The subject of the evening's discussion was an account of the recent Fall Rally held in Toronto, and also a short address on the factors and results for which these rallies are conducted. There are three main results, namely, a closer, more united body of all the various groups, a single unified project is developed, and also a finer sense of fellowship is awakened, both between the various societies and between individuals.

Following this, a short financial report was given by the treasurer of the Union, touching on the various methods of raising their funds, and the expenditures undertaken.

Miss Helen McFaul entertained with a solo, after which the meeting was devoted to games and motion singing, the latter being a song accompanied by various motions which, upon being speeded up, develops comical antics.

The gathering closed with refreshments, which were also in the nature of a farewell banquet in honor of Mr. Wilson Gall, who is leaving shortly for duties in Ottawa. Since the meetings have started Wilson has been actively engaged in the program end, and in this respect his absence will be felt. A program of somewhat different nature is planned for next meeting. A large attendance is requested.

Considers By Law to Permit Liquor Sales Will React to Community's Moral Benefit

(CORRESPONDENCE)

The referendum to take place in Morin Heights next Monday, will determine the future policy of the Municipality on the sale of alcoholic beverages. That which was lacking to make legal, in effect, the existing by-law (which I am told is of questionable legality)—the will of the people as expressed in their franchise—will then be officially registered. Many of each side will welcome the outcome, whichever way it goes, not only since it will definitely settle the legal status of the question but it will rid the Municipality of an odious impediment to its progress and well-being.

The liquor question in this Municipality has been an excuse for citizens venting their personal bitterness under the guise of political strife. It is to be hoped, therefore, that the supporters of each cause, realizing the pettiness of past differences, will adopt a broad viewpoint and join forces to derive the utmost community benefits from this new legislation. At the risk of being labelled a "Wet," I feel it my duty to confess dissatisfaction with the present state of things. I have read a plea for the preservation of our present status, which I am unable to support.

The United States provides a classic experiment in the reaction of complete prohibition. The curse of racketeering and bootlegging was nurtured by it, and even after its repeal many years have been consumed in repairing the damage which it caused.

Whispered reports of such law-breaking locally have involved a number of our most respected citizens. I feel, therefore, that the passage of a by-law which cannot be rigorously enforced, which increases temptation to law-breaking, will engender in well-meaning individuals a disrespect for obedience to it and subsequently an indifference in their loyalty to other laws of the land. To traffic in liquor illicitly affords to the person who undertakes it, an organization to exploit other fields of illegal endeavour. He loses the spirit of frank dealing and becomes a bad citizen.

As I have remarked, even with its vitality at a low ebb, we have seen some small evidence of the curse of mal-administered prohibition in this community. What are we to expect if the progress which we fondly anticipate in this community, materializes. Increased tourist trade in a prohibition community means increased temptation to those whose business it is to afford the tourist hospitality. Will those who vote for prohibition support the administration of it effectively? Will they undertake the necessary supervision and policing of our public centres? Will conditions remain as they are at present? Will their attitude be one of laissez-faire as in the past? The proper answer to this is the responsibility of every one who votes for prohibition in this municipality.

A further responsibility is his in the care of the youth of this community. He has shut off a source of revenue, and sponsored that which he considers will assure the maintenance of a wholesome institution for their proper upbringing. Will he provide organized and supervised recreation for the employment of their leisure, to retain these young people under the jurisdiction of legislation which he has imposed for their welfare? Requirements of the youth of a community whose livelihood is derived from the field and forest, vary from the needs of one in which tourist accommodation has become its major trade. In the former case occupational opportunity is abundant for youth's leisure time. However, when the farmer turns boarding-house keeper, when the farming community becomes a village of boarding-houses—for the sons of these boarding-house keepers is required a recreation medium for their leisure hours. A change in the source of a com-

Wedding

Helmer-Goldsworthy

The marriage of Louise Irene, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Goldsworthy, Lachute, to Mr. George Edward Helmer, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnet Helmer, of Montreal, was solemnized at 4.30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, October 29th, at Lachute Baptist Church. Rev. Chas.

new building, or other facilities for housing and activities.

I have felt some disappointment with the lack of enthusiasm by which the story of our need has been received by several of the staunchest prohibition supporters. I have felt the question arise in my mind — are these people really public spirited? Because I have little confidence in one's ability to teach "old dogs new tricks," I feel that in the future we can expect very little change in their attitude.

As the son of a clergyman, it was instilled in me that human nature was a queer mixture of vices and virtues; that the proper realization of this condition would give one useful equipment to cope with life's perplexities. I recommend this philosophy to those who face seriously the present problem.

The stadium at my Alma Mater and the privileges we enjoyed through its existence was provided by men whose business it was to manufacture alcoholic beverages. Hospitals, with their facilities for ministering to the sick, several of which are heavily endowed, constitute another example of what has been done with the contribution of people interested in like trade. These people are not blackguards and outlaws, as some would make out.

The foregoing remarks I would like you to accept as my own, and absolve from all responsibility the Municipal Association and Ski Club, with which I am connected.

— Victor Jekill.

Hardie, of Dalesville, officiated, and was assisted by Rev. W. Lorne Hisey, of Westboro, Ont. The church was prettily decorated with ferns and autumn flowers.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a tailored suit of dawn grey with London tan accessories and gray squirrel furs; her corsage consisted of Token roses. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. (Rev.) Gibson W. Brown, of Little Britain, Ont., as maid of honor. She wore a dress of laurel green and a matching hat and a shoulder bouquet of pompons. The bride's mother was gowned in laurel green and wore a corsage of bronze baby chrysanthemums.

The groom was supported by Mr. Arthur Richardet, of Montreal, and the ushers were Mr. Cliff Powell, of Montreal, and Mr. Arthur McDonald, of Brownburg. The nuptial music was played by Mr. Harold Naylor, also of Montreal.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 299 Main Street, many out-of-town relatives and acquaintances being present. The many lovely gifts received showed the popularity of the young couple. They will reside in Montreal.

ANNUAL MEETING OF WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN TEMPERANCE UNION

The Women's Christian Temperance Union annual convention, which was held in Montreal West United Church last week, was attended by four ladies from Lachute, members of Argenteuil and Vaudreuil Union — Mrs. W. Usher, who is first vice-president of the provincial officers; Mrs. Archie Graham, who is Quebec editor for the official organ, "White Ribbon Tidings," and Mrs. W. A. Dempsey and Mrs. T. W. Weir, members of the Resolutions and Plan of Work Committees, also delegates from their union. A past member of this union also attended from her new home in Breckenridge, Que. — Mrs. J. W. Maclean, who, as one of the features of the program, gave a talk on "Neighborly Love."

Several interesting speakers were heard at the meetings and during the luncheon hours, one in particular being Madame Pierre Casgrain, who is so active in the "Votes for Women" movement. Madame Casgrain reported progress along that line and good hopes for the future. One of her amusing stories, which she claimed was strictly true, was of a Member from some of the constituencies who is always giving as his reason for being against "Votes for Women" that women belonged to the home; that the men had put them on a pedestal as queen of the home and felt that it would be debasing the women to put them down to an equal status with the men. Yet when it came to retiring for the night on a railway train en route to Quebec another parliamentarian, in the opposite berth, heard this Member say to his wife "Up you go — into the upper berth." — All who have ever travelled and used railway berths know quite well that the lower berth is the more comfortable of the two by a great way, yet this man ordered the "Queen of his Home" to climb into the "upper" while he, himself, took the more comfortable one. Madame Casgrain also said at meetings where she had spoken to the women themselves and had brought before them the fact that some of the members who attended the Quebec sessions gave as their reasons for not supporting the franchise bill the fact that the women in their constituencies did not want the vote — that the women to whom she was speaking called out in a body, "We do want the vote. It's the men who don't want us to have it"; which sort of coincides with the other man's treatment of his "Queen of the Home."

Madame Casgrain said she was delighted to have the opportunity of speaking to members of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, who for so many years had supported this cause and were the first women's organization to agitate for "Votes for Women."

From the Women's Christian Temperance Union have come many other organizations of great importance, one of them being the National Council of Women, which does a great work in the interests of the Dominion.

Rev. E. Morely, Ph.D., of Stanley Street Church, claimed that so much drinking existed amongst the young, partly because of the influence of older people who served and expected them to drink cocktails at their parties, but mostly because of a sense of boredom through lack of employment; young people had lost their incentive, and they must be given back their vision before there was much hope of a cure for this evil.

Rev. F. H. Wilkinson, B.A., B.D., of St. James the Apostle Church, in his address on Tuesday evening stressed the importance of scientific temperance teachings for young and old, claiming that the country would never awake to the evils of the liquor traffic until they were educated as to the scientific facts; and the best way to educate would be to have a column a day in the press so that the public might be made aware of the danger to persons and to our country (Continued on page 7)

HIGH SCHOOL TEAM TAKES LAURELS IN SOFTBALL ENCOUNTER

20-19 WIN GIVES L.H.S.
SECOND VICTORY

Last Saturday the local Blue and White boys won the return game of the Longueuil-Lachute series on their home ground. Running neck and neck for nine hectic innings, the game was forced into an extra session to break a 13-13 deadlock and determine the visitors.

The game was off to an exciting start when Smillie (erstwhile star of the Brownsburg School team, but now in the fold of L.H.S.) hit a homer far into the outfield. The Lachute squad had a definite hold on the game till the seventh inning, but in this frame they were kept running all over the field by the do-or-die Longueuil batters. The sudden rally served to balance the score, forcing the play into a tenth inning.

This tenth session had every player and spectator high on his toes, providing plenty in the way of thrills and excitement. Longueuil's Fred Green had apparently clinched the game for his team when he hit a homer and drove his team-mates home before him, but in the second half of the extra frame, the Lachute boys changed a 19-19 deadlock into a 20-19 win, with a single from Harold Maxwell's bat which sent Brunelle romping home. This last hit, which won the game for L.H.S., came at a critical moment . . . two men out, a man on third and the score tied at 19-19. A third out meant a tie; a hit was a run.

Though all the local boys played a steady game, extra laurels go to Kenny Plunkett for his sensational outfielding, which broke up many an important play. Plunkett's running one-hand catch in the second inning was a highlight of the game. Wince Smillie also had his name high on the honor list for his field-generalship and his good pitching, two indispensable qualities in any team.

The most pleasing part of the program came later, however, when approximately 75 persons enjoyed a light supper in the banquet hall, followed by dancing. A pleasant evening spent in enjoyable company was brought to a close with the singing of the National Anthem.

The sincere thanks of the gathering to Miss Helen McFaul for her kindness in supplying the dance music.

HIS USUAL POSE

The rich farmer was paying a visit to his son at the university, and thought it might be a good idea if they had their photograph taken.

The photographer suggested that the son should stand with his hand on his father's shoulder. The farmer objected.

"It would be much more life-like," he said coldly, "if he stood with his hand in my pocket."

BYRNE HOPE SANDERS

When I came to Ottawa, I hoped to meet some interesting people and to tell you about them. The first of these was Byrne Hope Sanders, the editor of The Chatelaine. I was amazed to find her so young and wondered just how such a slip of a girl could be doing such an important job so well, because The Chatelaine then was in its infancy. She wore a simple navy dress with a very feminine and frilly white collar and jabot. During the course of our conversation her mother telephoned her about an evening dress for a holiday weekend and she was just as excited about it as any other youngster. In the meantime she has developed into a woman. A good-looking woman. Tall, well-built, with a face which has more than good looks. She looks as if nothing would phase her. You may not know that, although she is Byrne Sanders professionally, actually she is Mrs. Sperry and has two children, and any woman who can raise a family while editing a magazine cannot be easily upset. She has a keen sense of humor. Somehow, she gives you a feeling of serenity. Not a madonna-like serenity, because her face is too much alive and alert for that, but there is just that feeling of capability. She is unassuming, yet authoritative. When you are talking to her you have a feeling she is interested in what you are doing. When she talks to someone else she appears just as interested. That feeling of interest may well be the reason why The Chatelaine is increasingly successful. She knows what will interest you, and you, and you, all readers of her magazine. If you ask her something about her magazine, she is all attention. But doesn't she beam if you ask her about her children. She is typical of the modern woman who can run two jobs successfully. Her influence on Canadian women is considerable.

THE NOON PRACTICE

Children who take music lessons are usually expected to practice at noon. I believe this is a grave mistake. In the first place no one, whether a child or an adult, should work straight through from nine to four with no chance to relax. Being in school is a child's work, and they should not be expected to work through the noon hour too. During the fall and winter months the sun's rays provide Vitamin D only in the two hours before and after noon. The children need a chance to be out in the sunshine at noon to absorb this precious vitamin. It was my experience (before I saw the light and made the children practice at noon), that very little was accomplished through that practice time. They were usually cranky and did not want to practice, and anything that was done was done perfunctorily and was not of much benefit. Give them a chance to relax and to be out in the sun at noon, and they will be farther ahead in the end.

USE WHOLE GRAINS

The germ and bran are rich in vitamins and minerals which we all need and which we miss getting in white bread and refined cereals. It is not necessary to use brown bread and coarse cereals exclusively, but it is a good idea to use them a part of the time. Do not give all the shorts to the pigs. Let us have our share too. Variety in breakfast cereals may be had by mixing them. Add some of a package cereal made from several kinds of grain to a farina and it makes an agreeable change. Give the children brown bread toast or sandwiches made with brown bread at one meal of the day. If the brown bread is made with molasses, all the better, as it will add its quota of minerals. Most families like a small loaf of brown bread so that it can be used before it gets stale. Foods made from whole grains are one of the cheapest and easiest ways of providing minerals and vitamins.

TWO NEW RELISHES

One of the nice things about moving is the very pleasant parties. When you leave your best friends entertain and ask the people you most enjoy seeing. When you arrive in the new city, friends ask people you are apt to enjoy knowing, to meet you. I am always on the look-out for new ideas in foods and at a Sunday tea there were two unusual bits on the relish tray. There were the usual olives and pickles—cucumber slices. Besides the pickles and the olives, there were Tokay grapes, halved and seeded and put together with white cream cheese; and salted peanuts in pairs held together with the white cream cheese. Both of these tasted very good. The tray must have been in the refrigerator for some time as all the relishes were well chilled. I liked the combination of the grapes and cheese specially.

BAKED BEAN SALAD

3 cups cold baked beans, ¼ cup chow-chow, or chopped cucumber pickles, 1 cup diced celery, ½ tablespoon grated onion, boiled salad dressing.

Mix the ingredients with enough salad dressing to moisten. Chill thoroughly and serve on lettuce.

½ cup quick tapioca, ¾ cup brown sugar, ¼ lb. chopped figs, 1½ cups hot milk, ½ teaspoon cinnamon.

Cook 15 minutes in a double boiler, stirring occasionally. Serve with cream.

through the use of strong drink. We are responsible not only for our own lives but for our nation.

Rev. B. B. Brown, pastor of Wesley United Church and well known in this county, leading the devotional exercises Tuesday evening, said he had dated his faith in temperance workers and the need of their work away back to the time of his mother's teaching and wearing of the little white ribbon and pin, and of the increase of that faith as he had journeyed on through life and noted the need more and more.

Greetings were brought to the meetings by Rev. Clarence Halliday, F.A., B.D., pastor of the church; Mr. J. H. Pearson, Mayor of the Town of Montreal West; and Mrs. N. B. Morgan, president of Montreal West United W.M.S.

On Wednesday evening the Young People's Band and L.T.L. Bands were represented by Miss Mabel Fetterly, of Montreal, and Mrs. N. W. Reese, of Athelstan, both giving reports of the work done in the province by their young workers.

A medal elocutionary contest was conducted by Mrs. J. E. Merrit, convener of Scientific Temperance Instruction, and the prize won by Miss Ruby Steele, daughter of Major Steele, of the Salvation Army.

The cup given for the greatest percentage in increase of membership was won by Westmount Union, with Argenteuil and Dunham Unions as runners-up. The Y.P.B. cup for best programs during the year was won by Thredgold Y.P.B., of Montreal. Miss J. Norton, editor of "White Ribbon Tidings," was present and told the convention this magazine had 10,000 subscribers, which was the largest subscription list of any women's organization journal.

To emphasize the value of total abstinence from an economic and health standpoint, a display was arranged in the luncheon room, where the three-dollar price of a bottle of whiskey was balanced by three cans of tomatoes, three cans of tomato juice, one pound of cheese, one bottle of olives, one jar of marmalade, one dozen apples and a heap of garden vegetables such as turnips, carrots, etc.

Mrs. James Mabon, a former Lachute resident, now provincial president, was in the chair. With her on the platform was Mrs. H. Wilson, the honorary president; Mrs. Var-Vliet, recording secretary; Mrs. J. C. Moore, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. W. Usher, first vice-president.

Mrs. Wilson led in the consecration service, the subject being "Peace and Service." She spoke of three flags which we, as members, should salute and pledge allegiance to — namely, the Union Jack, the Christian flag, and the Temperance flag. This was exemplified in a "flag service."

Mrs. Wilson also led the devotional service for the 34 members lost by death during the past year, citing the prayer used by Mrs. Boole, president of the World Union, at their convention. Mrs. H. E. Reilly was the soloist.

— J. Graham, Provincial and County Press Superintendent.

HOUSE AND HOME

By Mary E. Dague

Author of Sister Mary's Kitchen

For some time we've been hearing that the men-folk are drinking more tea. Perhaps they observed their English cousins, who always stop work for tea and who seem to be getting along despite the fact that Great Britain has had her full share of the world's troubles. In any event it's a wise person who takes time out for a cup of hot, fragrant tea.

Women, as well as men, need relaxation when things pile up for them. Housecleaning time is strenuous, and you will last longer and do a better job in the end if you rest at the zero hour of the afternoon. Sit down in a comfortable chair in a pleasant place—kitchen, living-room, porch or dining-room — have your tea leisurely and you will find that you can finish the work, whatever it may be, with renewed vigor and be a

FOREIGN BODIES

I doubt if there has ever lived a doctor who, at some time or other in his professional career, was not called upon to remove a foreign body from the interior of a human being.

It is most common to have children of all ages resort to the practice of inserting peas, beans, tacks, nails, pieces of stone, and dirt into their nostrils and ears, or else swallowing them.

Among girls, hundreds, when they wore their hair long, bit off the ends and swallowed them, in time to have these bits of hair form into a ball-shaped mass in the stomach, which often required a surgical operation to remove.

General Robert G. Dyrenforth carried a bullet he received in a Civil War engagement for more than thirty years. He was wounded in the chest, and I removed the bullet from the calf of his leg.

An elderly murderer, recently executed at Sing Sing, for years had been swallowing pins and needles. X-ray pictures showed a great many of these dressmakers' accessories scattered about various portions of his anatomy and the strange thing was that none of them had in the least inconvenienced him during the twenty-five years he had been following this practice. Such cases are relatively common in medical history and seldom do they prove fatal.

About six months ago, however, a man walked into one of the large New York hospitals and stated that while he was sleeping in a bed, at the head of which hung a pin cushion, he was aroused by a sharp pain in the interior portion of the left side of his chest, and told the interne he believed a needle had stuck in his body. The pain increased materially in intensity and was aggravated by deep breathing. His heart sounds were obscured by a coarse, grating murmur.

A diagnosis of needle in the heart was made, and the X-ray pictures taken confirmed this. An operation exposing the heart was performed and a needle two inches long was removed from that organ, the eye portion of the needle being visible to the operating surgeon. The needle had passed through the tip of the upper lobe of the left lung into the heart.

The man survived the operation and seemed to be on the road to recovery, when he suddenly died. An autopsy showed that the needle had punctured the left ventricle of the heart.

By 5-Vote Margin Morin Hts. Residents Decide to Repeal Prohibition By-law

LONG-STANDING CONFLICT ENDS AS CITIZENS ENDORSE LIQUOR SALES IN COMMUNITY

With numerous boarding houses in the township catering to week-enders and tourists, the prohibition of liquor has long been deplored by certain factions in Morin Heights as a detriment to local business. In consequence, complying with a petition, the Council called a public referendum among citizens in the south part of the municipality concerning repeal of the prohibition by-law passed by Council in September, 1921. The result of this vote, held on Monday, was a majority of five for repeal.

A total of 218 votes were cast, 110 in favor of the sale of alcoholic liquors and 105 against, three ballots being spoiled. The close margin indicates the keen interest shown in this issue.

Morin Heights, from the small rural centre of a farming community, has developed into a tourist resort which attracts visitors both summer and winter. The liquor question has therefore been regarded more as a commercial issue than as a matter of local or personal preference. Still, the influences which upheld prohibition to be in the moral interests of the locality, put up a strong vote. The outcome settles a lengthy conflict among the residents, and several of the Morin Heights businessmen will view the change with satisfaction.

Truck Driver Had Narrow Escape at Level Crossing

STRUCK BY EASTBOUND PASSENGER TRAIN

At 3.45 o'clock Saturday afternoon Stanley Church, well known employee of the Gatineau Power Company here, had a narrow escape when the company's truck which he was driving was struck by a C.P.R. train at Lemay's crossing in Chatham, about two miles west of town. There is an incline at this level crossing, which is located on a mantee running from the Lachute-Grenville route across to Stanyerville. Seeing the Montreal-bound passenger train as he approached the track, Church said he

Remembrance Day Service, Ceremony at Cenotaph

The annual Remembrance Day service is being held in Lachute Auditorium tomorrow morning (Friday) at 10.45 o'clock. Major Rev. Gilbert Oliver, of Westmount, will address the gathering. The public are requested to be present on time, in order that the two minutes' silence may be fittingly observed. At the close of the service wreaths will be deposited at the cenotaph in the ad-jammed on his brakes, but the truck skidded and stopped with the front wheels already over the rail and the engine stalled. Church was still in the cab when the train crashed into the front part of the truck, hurling it 35 feet into the ditch. The train came to a standstill and backed up to the scene of the crash.

Church was fortunate in escaping sudden death. A grazed knee was the extent of his injuries. Traffic Officer H. Jones, summoned to the scene, rendered first aid. The truck was towed back to town a complete wreck.

ENGINEER MAYOR MAKES HOBBY OF 14-YEAR-OLD STEAM AUTOMOBILE

A contrast in styles — Mayor George Ball, of Brownsburg, is shown in the lower picture standing between his 1924 Stanley Steamer and his 1938 streamlined Nash sedan. "Both fine engineering jobs," says Mayor Ball — but he has a soft spot for the old-time steam car. (See story on page two).

When a backfire occurred in the burner, the boiler casing in this Stanley Steamer was blown to pieces. In the above picture Mr. Ball (right) is showing his friend, Mr. Linton W. Armstrong, where the asbestos was cemented to repair the boiler jacket.

Constructive Talk to Morin Heights Municipal Assn.

A meeting of the Morin Heights Municipal Association was held last Saturday night.

The chairman, Dr. Victor Jekill, expressed the regrets of Professor McKergow, the president, on his inability to attend the meeting.

Major Green, the secretary, reported that action had been taken by the local council to put into effect the Association's recommendation of last meeting, namely, that in the event of a vote favorable to the sale of alcoholic beverages in the municipality, the administration of this enterprise be controlled by the municipality. The chairman commended this evidence of continued co-operation by the council. He proceeded further to emphasize the need, as expressed by the president at the previous meeting, for an interest on the part of residents in the planting of flower gardens, and the council in an adequate garbage removal service.

A report was received by the Publicity Committee on their activities. A recommendation was adopted that this committee take over the work of organizing weekly meetings for round table discussions among the local boarding-house proprietors and business executives.

The evening's speaker, Mr. Turner, a resident of Echo Lake and manager of the Royal Bank at Montreal West, on account of his being a regular Association member and well-known to those present, was asked to take the platform without the formality of an introduction. Mr. Turner spoke on the Federal Home Improvement Act, its advantages and facilities as applied to the problems of the people of this municipality. He gave an example from his own experience, of a property under his care which had been vacant for some time and whose owners had been unable to finance its renovation. A Home Improvement Loan was obtained, and with it the necessary brightening-up was effected. The work was not completed before a satisfactory tenant applied and the property became at once an interesting investment to its owner. Mr. Turner stated that financing of improvements under this plan was purposely arranged on the easiest and simplest basis. The intention of the Government in this measure was to effect improvement to Canadian real estate, and to assist in the creation of employment for Canadian people. As the interest rate is low, the terms of repayment attractive, and no endorsement required, Mr. Turner felt that its application was very broad and should actively interest his audience.

The speaker offered to answer questions on his topic, and through this medium much further information was elicited.

The chairman endorsed the recommendation of this scheme to the members and thanked Mr. Turner for his clear and comprehensive presentation of the subject.

The regrets of Mr. Kenneth Harrison, manager of the Laurentide Inn and chairman of the Laurentine Resorts Association, were expressed at his inability to be present and speak as anticipated. He was desirous of assuring the members of his anxiety to assist with their problems.

Several suggestions and recommendations which were given to the chairman by phone, were offered to the meeting, along with an invitation for those interested to meet Mr. Harrison whenever they feel his experience can be helpful.

The meeting was then adjourned. However, before its members disbanded, they took occasion to question the writers of letters in recent issues of "The Watchman" on the basis for their stand on the question of the sale of alcoholic beverages. By the attention of the audience, despite the fact that answers were given to all questions by a speaker for and against, one was impressed by the serious desire of the gathering to obtain a constructive basis for a vote in the referendum.

Bird Crashes Windshield, Driver May Lose Eye

Injuries received when a partridge crashed through the windshield of the truck he was driving may cost Denis Goulet, of Hawkesbury, the sight of his left eye.

The accident occurred on No. 17 highway late on Tuesday, when Goulet, a gasoline truck driver, was returning from Chute à Blondeau. A partridge flew into the windshield of his truck, shattering it to bits, and fell dead on his shoulder.

Either the beak or a claw of the bird is believed to have struck Goulet as a sharp wound was inflicted to his left eye. Pieces of flying glass also caused lacerations to the face. Partially blinded and bleeding about the face, the driver managed to bring the truck to a stop without going into the ditch.

Physicians Gather, Discuss Need of County Hospital

DISTRICT DOCTORS FORM MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

The establishment of a hospital in the Town of Lachute has been discussed, at intervals, for several years. Whenever an emergency occurs, such as serious injury by accident or the necessity of prompt surgical treatment, this need is more gravely stressed.

About two years ago Dr. J. H. Mason, of Lachute, stated the case for a community hospital before an assembly of the County Council, but the idea was not looked upon with favor. Dr. Mason visualized a county hospital, a fire-proof building to accommodate 40 or 50 beds, and staff quarters, at an estimated cost of $75,000. The undertaking appeared rather venturesome, and the matter was dropped.

Responding to an invitation by Dr. Mason last week, physicians of this county held a meeting at Lachute Town Hall for further discussion of this project. Present among the gathering were Drs. A. Rodrigue, J. H. Mason, E. Christie, A. R. Côté, W. F. McMartin, F. W. Fitzgerald and J. Lafleur.

Arguments for and against the establishment of a local hospital were brought forward, but opinions among the doctors were so diversified that it was felt inopportune to pursue the matter further at this time.

Following the constructive lines of this meeting, however, the practitioners formed themselves into an organization to be known as the Argenteuil Medical Society, with Dr. Mason as president, and Drs. McMartin and Lafleur as joint secretaries. The group purpose holding monthly meetings, for which they will secure prominent men in the profession as speakers. This venture, they feel, will prove most helpful, both to themselves and indirectly to the entire community.

Out of 40 starters in a 38-mile cycle marathon leaving Bord à Plouffe at 12.30 p.m. on Sunday, 23 riders finished here at around 2.10 o'clock in the afternoon. The race ended at the lunch car on Main Street, and was witnessed by a large crowd, with traffic officers clearing the thoroughfare as the riders neared the home stretch. A disappointment among spectators was caused by the fact that the only local entrant, B. Taylor, who was in the lead as the first comers turned into Main Street, fell back in the line, giving the lead to Polidoro and two others at the finish.

Ben Polidoro, the winner, is a member of the Pirate Club, Lachine. His time was 1 hour, 40 minutes, 58 seconds. Three riders of the Wolfe Club, Verdun, came in second, third and fourth, namely, Denis Murch, C. H. Holloway and B. Taylor, the latter from Brownsburg — whose father, Mr. R. Taylor, has been instrumental in organizing the event. Fifth was René Cyr, who won the championship of the Dominion in the Toronto cycle meet. Sixth in the final spurt was N. Wilkins, of the Wolfe Club.

Cyr, the Dominion champion, entered protest immediately on a misunderstanding as to the destination of the race, unannounced at Bord à Plouffe. Destination, he claimed, had been variously stated through the press as both Lachute and Brownsburg, the latter town being three miles farther north.

The riders reported an uneventful run and good roads. They were led by Fred Dornbeck on a motorcycle. Coach was Chas. Willisky, and manager, Ralph Hanstein.

Four cups were awarded and many prizes of cash and merchandise doled out. Two of the riders continued to Brownsburg, encountering difficult hills which taxed their endurance in the final stages. The mild weather added to the cyclists' discomfort in this hard grind.

Mild Interest Is Shown in Fed'l By-Elections

"THE OTTAWA SPOTLIGHT"

Ottawa, Nov. 8th. — It seems very unlikely that the parliamentary session will be called before Christmas. Mr. Lapointe, acting Prime Minister, made this quite clear last week. There is always the possibility that Mr. MacKenzie King, who has been on a trip to the West Indies, may decide upon an early call of the legislators when he arrives at the end of this week, but the present indications are for an early January assembly. It is not yet certain in what month the King and Queen will arrive on their visit next year. All that is known so far is that it will be in the early summer, and that may mean late May or June. In any event, next session will be a businesslike one. If too much time is taken up in the early part of the session in discursive argument, Parliament will have to work under forced draught towards the end to have the desk swept clear and the session closed when the Royal visitors appear.

While the hectic days of the latter part of September, when the world faced the most acute crisis in twenty years, have passed into history, international affairs continue to be the background of much of the discussion one hears about Parliament Hill. It seems evident that foreign affairs will hold an important place in debates in the coming session. The price paid for peace through the dismemberment of Czechoslovakia, Hungary having recently been accorded its allies, policies of further increasing of armaments, the anxiety felt among democracies of Germany's increasing domination in Eastern Europe through the influence of fear, have

$3,000 CAR NOW WORTHLESS, BUT TREASURED FOR ITS SENTIMENTAL VALUE

An engineer to his fingertips — and in other respects a man with steam in his system — Mayor George Ball, of Brownsburg, has a hobby peculiar to one in a million — a million or more, indeed, for the relic of his affections, an old steam car, must be even more rare today than one to a million population.

In an interesting session with Mayor Ball our reporter, for the second time in his life, had the experience of riding in a steam touring car, a Stanley model of 1924 vintage. Mechanically, this road monster is as good as new, for "in them days they built cars." Its engine and intricate mechanism are constructed of fine copper and brass, with a precision which gives smooth operation even after 14 years including several winters outdoors exposed to the elements. The Stanley Steamer has a body of solid aluminum and its upholstery is of real leather from hides that grew tough and thick. Even back in 1906, Frank Marriot, a speed demon of his time, made 125 miles an hour in a Stanley, exceeding the gasoline buggy record at that date. Nowadays, Mr. Ball, on his 130-inch wheelbase with a 1930 license plate, moves cautiously around his yard and on obscure byways at a speed not exceeding 15 m.p.h. He recalls the day when he and his good wife took delivery of this handsome vehicle — then ultra-modern in style, before the fad for streamlining and non-draft ventilation. Poorer to the extent of $3,000, but proud as the parents of an infant prodigy, they navigated their craft successfully out of Boston, more by luck than good management, for they obstructed much traffic and suffered untold confusion behind the complex dashboard.

This same dashboard displays many strange instruments. The ammeter, steam pressure gauge, cylinder oil indicator, speedometer, water gauge, pilot-light and burner tank indicators, and a clock — these to the uninitiated would appear sufficient to guide the operator in control of his machine. And if one takes the word of Mr. Ball, it is all "as simple as A.B.C." Still, peering around, we find more dials and indicators in unexpected places, under the floor and beside the driver's seat; and lacking the instincts of a born engineer, we are inclined to doubt the extreme simplicity of the thing.

Our genial demonstrator having worked up steam for this notable occasion, we climb in beside him. He manipulates a large-sized throttle on the steering wheel . . . and we're off. Looking both backward and forward over its incredible length, we quite understand how Mr. Ball, at the helm of his cruiser, had found the side-walks of Boston too close together and the intersections too narrow.

The car weighs 4,100 pounds, in spite of which its man-sized wheels are cushioned on the same original tires. The "radiator" of the Stanley is a condenser through which exhaust steam is reclaimed to replenish the water tank. With the radiator cap removed to add zip to this demonstration, the trusty steed snorted nobly and puffed clouds of steam from its foremost quarters, in a worthy semblance of its parent, the railroad locomotive.

With George Ball, engineer and chief magistrate of the Village of Brownsburg, mounted high on the driver's seat — his hand on the throttle and ear cocked toward the super-heated oil-burner — we got busy with our Kodak to record the great occasion. But His Worship lacked the tall hat and swallow-tails most fitting to his role; for the Stanley Steamer is an automotive aristocrat, from its massive headlights to the dust that rises in its wake.

Montreal-Quebec in Three Hours by Highway Next Year

A highway constructed along modern lines, elimination of dangerous curves and 12 railway crossings, will enable motorists to make the trip between Quebec and Montreal in three hours by next June, Hon. William Tremblay, Minister of Labor, told newspapermen in Montreal last week.

In addition to elimination of curves and railway crossings, work undertaken by the National Union Government on the Quebec-Montreal highway will reduce the total distance 17 miles and will afford traffic the opportunity of moving at a rate of 45 to 50 miles an hour in safety, said Mr. Tremblay.

The Minister announced construction of the approaches to the new Bout de l'Isle bridge between Charlemagne and Repentigny will begin immediately and that the bridge and highway will be completed by the month of May next year, ready for inauguration by June.

"When the bridge and highway are completed," said Mr. Tremblay, "it will mean business men in Montreal and Quebec will be able to make the trip between the Ancient Capital and the Metropolis, conduct their business and return to their homes in the same day without any unnecessary rush. By next summer, a motorist will be able to travel at the comparatively safe speed of 45 or 50 miles an hour and complete the trip between Quebec and Montreal in three hours."

Horse and Buggy Doctor Recalled in "Book Review"

Reminiscences of the old-fashioned family doctor, who braved bad weather and worse roads to visit his country patients, will be recalled during the CBC Book Review, Saturday, November 12, 7.45 to 8.00 p.m., when Professor J. F. Macdonald reviews "The Horse and Buggy Doctor," by Arthur E. Hertler, M.D.

A new book by Felix Salten, the author of "Bambi," also will be described on this date. The story is entitled "Perri" and deals with the life and adventures of a squirrel. The author, whose first book made literary history, is now in a German concentration camp.

Professor Macdonald's third choice for review will be "Together We Go," said to be a very hilarious novel about a journey aboard ship and the people encountered during a rather unusual crossing.

Vital Statistics in Rural Areas Ahead of Cities

Quebec's farm-folk were healthier, a greater number married and produced more babies last August than their city brothers and sisters, almost as populous in the province, the Health Department reported recently.

In Quebec rural districts in August there were 1,162 deaths compared with 1,431 in the cities and 1,230 marriages compared with the cities' 1,074. The rural population had 3,347 babies while the city population had only 2,535.

Though the rural areas' infant death rate also was lower than the cities', combined they gave the province its second lowest rate — 75.8 — in more than 12 years.

The department reported too that the province's health conditions in the first eight months of 1938 were near record.

Greatest death cause in August was heart disease and then cancer, tuberculosis, pneumonia and diabetes.

Armistice Day —

No Thrills Worth This Price

Since last Armistice Day and its pleas for the peace of humanity, sinister situations have arisen — and again the air has cleared. Whether we may look forward more hopefully, as we recall again the tragedies of war and reverse the memory of its dead; or whether, as some believe, disaster cannot be long averted — time alone will tell, while we in the humble ranks must live, in hope for the maintenance of peace and progress.

Lest there should be any still illusioned with the glories of battle, believing, as Mussolini has believed, that war is "the quintessence of beauty." — the following story from the Official History of Australia in the War may paint a less colorful picture to dispel those illusions:

Gallipoli! "Three minutes to go," said Colonel White. Then simply, "Go!"

In an instant the first line, all eagerness, leapt over the parapet. Facing them, not a stone's throw away, were hundreds of the enemy, lining two-deep their front trench and others behind it. The instant the Light Horse appeared, there burst upon them a fusillade that rose within a few seconds from a fierce crackle into a continuous roar in which it was impossible to distinguish the report of rifle or machine gun. Watchers saw the Australian line start forward across the skyline and then of a sudden grow limp and sink to the earth. "as though," said one eye-witness, "the men's limbs had become string." Save those who fell back wounded into their own trench, all the rest lay dead four or six yards from the parapet. The lot went forward to meet death instantly as the 8th had done, the men running as swiftly and straight as they could at the Turkish rifles.

With that regiment went the flower of the youth of Western Australia, sons of the old pioneer families, youngsters — in some cases two or three from the same home — who had flocked to Perth at the first outbreak of war with their own horses and saddlery in order to secure enlistment in a mounted regiment of the Australian Imperial Force. Men honored and popular, the best loved leaders in sport and work in the West, then rushed straight to their death.

Their Majesties' Visit to Canada

The coming visit of the King and Queen to Canada recalls the visits, and particularly the first visit, of the then Prince of Wales — when he was the guest of the nation and, as such, the honored guest of the mayor, council and citizens of the various cities and towns in his itinerary. This graceful gesture of the then Governor-General, the Duke of Devonshire, in calling upon the local authorities to be the local hosts, was reflected in the wonderful enthusiasm of the people in welcoming the Prince as their own personal guest. The public receptions in the individual cities — in Ottawa the reception was held on the open porch of the City Hall — brought out the genuine loyalty and love that the Canadian people had for their King and his heir.

And given the same opportunity and in the same manner, the citizens of this Dominion will express their great love for their present Majesties in such a way as to convince the world of the loyalty of Canada to the throne. No doubt those responsible for drafting the programme for Their Majesties' visit will endeavor to spare the King and Queen undue fatigue, therefore public receptions may be considered too much exertion; nevertheless, the program set out for the Prince of Wales might in a modified form be followed in the visit of Their Majesties.

Dramatist Attacks Big City

When New York gives drama the go-by, the play is just another flop. But when the playwright rolls up his sleeves and wallops all and sundry in the Great Big City, that is news. . . . Nor was it George Bernard Shaw this time, but J. B. Priestley, who ranks No. 1 among British dramatists.

Mr. Priestley's plays have flourished in Piccadilly, but in Manhattan they have met with "unanimous hostility" among the critics and the public. What Mr. Priestley considers his most dramatic and moving situations, the critics have found both trivial and tedious. In consequence this great writer vents his ire on the intelligence of New Yorkers, on the alien atmosphere of their city and the utter futility of their critics.

The British author tilts his lance in vain, like the misguided Quixote. He might better pursue the whims of showmanship and learn that western mentality reacts indifferently to brilliance of Old Country standards — even to successes of the London stage.

Even here in Canada, where England's psychology commands warm admiration, it is a regrettable fact that we find a certain leisurely dullness in her humor. In the average run of movies produced in Britain (— there have been notable exceptions) we find a certain dragging quality which detracts from their appeal. . . . There is a difference in the national tempo. Perhaps we must plead guilty to a sophisticated sense of humor; we are infected, to a degree, with the speed and excitement of our thorough-going cousins to the south. . . . But should we condemn our neighbors for this quality of mind? Should we subdue our tastes to a more dignified level? . . . And should Americans relish a diet of drama which, although conceived in quality kitchens, is spiceless on Broadway?

Mr. Priestley cannot change New York. In the letters and arts, the New World has set its own gay style and acquired its own tastes — however depraved these may appear.

Civilization Plus

It happened in Chicago. . . . A 27-year-old citizen remonstrated with a motorist who had parked on his front lawn. In the car were three other men. A quarrel developed, in which three motorists battled the young householder with their fists and the fourth opened fire with a revolver, shooting him dead. . . . A nice city — nice people!

"Ottawa Spotlight"

all continued to present a disturbing picture. The immediate fears were allayed by the Munich four power accord, and hope for the establishment of peace on a more permanent basis has been strengthened by the Anglo-Italian agreement. The Parliament of Canada will meet, however, in a still restless world, and parliamentarians will come to Ottawa sobered by the lessons of the September nightmare and uneasily conscious that the world is so closely bound together in these days that any major earthquake would shake the foundations of all nations whatever their geographical position. There will undoubtedly be a great deal of discussion on matters of defence, as demands for increased appropriations have been voiced in many quarters. The Canadian Corps Association has made an urgent appeal for an "immediate energetic and sustained effort to build up Canada's defences."

It has been hoped that the negotiations on the trade agreement with the United States would have reached a stage that Mr. Mackenzie King would have signed it at Washington on his way back from the West Indies, and that the announcement could have been made on Armistice Day. It now seems probable that the signing will come in early December. Our treaty is probably waiting on the completion of the Anglo-American pact which, while technically separate from ours with the United States, is nevertheless actually quite closely related. It has been suggested in newspaper dispatches and editorials that concessions asked by the United States in the British market have been so extensive that it has been difficult to reach a compromise. A point raised in London by a Member of Parliament has been that trade between the United States and the United Kingdom is already one-sided. The U.S. sells much more to Britain than she buys from her. A treaty which would accentuate this difference would be of doubtful value. It is expected, however, that differences will soon be ironed out, and that the treaty between the two great democracies will be an accomplished fact.

Federal by-elections, with a general election probably coming next year, are not creating interest to the same degree that they would if they came earlier in the life of the Parliament. By-elections always mirror to some extent the trend of public opinion, but they are not an unfailing index when Parliament is drawing to a close. The London by-election on November 14th has an interest of its own as Dr. Manion, leader of the National Conservatives, is seeking a seat in the Commons. Dr. Manion is not opposed by a Liberal candidate. A C.C.F. candidate, however, is in the field. The seat is traditionally Conservative, and Dr. Manion is therefore in general belief practically certain of election.

All eyes will be on the new Conservative leader in the proceedings of the next session. He is a seasoned parliamentarian, having held portfolios in previous administrations — in the Bennett Government of 1930-35 he was Minister of Railways — but with a general election in the offing, he will be given an opportunity to display his talents for party leadership. It will be a testing one.

In relation to the interests of the same party, though in this case it is the provincial party, interest is shown here in who is to be the next Ontario Conservative leader. There is considerable speculation on whether the mantle will fall on the shoulders of Col. Drew, who is appearing at the Bren Gun probe in Ottawa. The investigation resulted from a magazine article written by Col. Drew which attacked the contract for the manufacture of Bren machine guns made by the Defence Department with the John Inglis firm, of Toronto. The main line of attack has been that the contract allowed of allegedly excessive profits and was given without the issuance of tenders. Over enthusiasm on the part of an M.P. in encouraging the negotiation of the contract is also alleged, and has been the subject of considerable discussion recently in the probe. The investigation has been under way for nearly two months, but is now nearing a close. It will probably be finished this week.

Open Letter to a Driver Who Speeds Through Town

Who Speeds Through the Streets
I saw you barely miss a little boy on a tricycle this afternoon and heard you yell, "Get the hell out of the way! Don't you know any better than to ride in the street?" He didn't answer because he hasn't learned to talk very well yet. So I'm going to answer for him.

No, the little boy doesn't know any better than to ride his tricycle in the street. He has been warned not to, but little boys don't always heed warnings. Some adults don't either, especially traffic warnings; for example, the one limiting the speed of automobiles.

I'm going to tell you something about that little boy. He has a mother who endured considerable inconvenience, anxiety, and suffering to bring him into the world. He has a father who has worked hard and made many sacrifices to make him healthy and happy. The supreme purpose of their lives is to have their little boy grow up to be a useful man.

Now stop a minute and think. If you should kill a child, how would you feel facing the parents? What excuse could you give them for having robbed them of their dearest possession? More important: What excuse could you possibly offer Him whose Kingdom is made up of little children?

Children, my hasty friend, were here long before you or your automobile were thought of. All the automobiles on earth are not worth the life of one little boy. We don't know what that little boy may some day be. But we know what you are, and it's unimportant. We could get along without you, but we can't spare a single little boy on this street.

A Menace to Public Safety

THE ROUGE RIVER BRIDGE

As the years pass and promises of a new bridge over the Rouge River are unfulfilled, patience is becoming exhausted. Residents of Grenville, Calumet and Pointe au Chene stress the danger that some serious mishap may occur at this spot, since increasingly heavy traffic places greater strain on the structure, pictured above, which has long since been condemned as unsafe.

Difficulties confronting the Provincial Roads Department are fully realized, and their efforts to modernize the highways duly appreciated; but such improvements as this, demanded in the elementary interests of safety, should not be deliberately ignored. The security of highway travel is more imperative than its speed and comfort. A bridge forming an essential link in an important route cannot be left a menace to safe passage. The sooner our Quebec department realizes this, the more convincing will its program be.

Reconstruction of the Rouge Bridge will be the honorable fulfillment of a pledge to this constituency. But more than this, it can be made a gesture to prove that Quebec, while catering to popular demand in other quarters, does not ignore the plain necessities of highway safety.

THE WIRELESS TRADE'S SHOW AT OLYMPIA, LONDON

Concert Is Given by Boys' Band from Maxville

JUVENILE GROUP WERE ORGANIZED ONLY FOUR MONTHS AGO

The Lions Club are to be congratulated for having brought to this town such an accomplished and youthful organization as the Maxville and Community Boys' Band. Appearing in their colorful uniforms last Friday at Lachute Auditorium, these young musicians, ranging in age from eight years up, delighted their audience with a performance of almost incredible versatility for so young an organization.

Just four months ago their organizer, Mr. Wm. Ormston, proposed to the Town of Maxville that it was possible to produce a playing band from boys with no former musical training, within the short space of two months. In spite of scepticism from local citizens this remarkable feat was accomplished in Maxville, just as it had been accomplished by this organizer in other towns throughout Quebec and Ontario.

If the Maxville Boys' Band is an example of the success achieved by Mr. Ormston's other bands, we in Lachute have advance assurance that such a venture is not only possible but highly desirable in this town.

A great deal of credit reflects upon their instructor, Mr. Arthur Crighton, under whose direction the boys responded with a precision and quality of performance which one usually associates with musicians of much greater experience.

We understand that the local Lions Club is considering the sponsorship, in conjunction with parents of a number of boys who are sufficiently ambitious to become equally accomplished, of such an organization in Lachute; and if this is the case, not only is the Club to be congratulated, but we feel sure that the youth of this community will embrace this opportunity while it is now available.

Lachute extends hearty congratulations and best wishes for the continued success of the Maxville and Community Boys' Band.

Leakage of Information Worries Dept. of Defence

Leakage of information relating to Canadian defence matters is worrying National Defence Department officials. Reports, however, that a board of inquiry would be set up to probe the source of such leakage, were denied.

For some considerable time items considered of a highly confidential character have found their way into public circulation, both in the newspapers and in common gossip. The wall of secrecy which the department has striven to erect around some of its decisions and activities has been of little value.

Departmental regulations with regard to the issue of information are strict. The steady and consistent violation of these is causing the authorities considerable concern. Efforts are now being made to check up the department with a view to ascertaining the source of leakage and disciplining those responsible for the disclosures.

Viscountess to Be Judge on Original Literary Works

PHASE OF QUEBEC ANNUAL MUSICAL COMPETITION FESTIVAL

The executive of the Quebec Musical Competition Festival has announced that the Viscountess Rhondra will adjudicate the finals for the English-Original Literary Works in the Festival to be held in Montreal next March.

The Viscountess Rhondra has for a number of years, among her many activities, been editor of the weekly periodical "Time and Tide." She was a prominent speaker and writer on Woman Suffrage before the war, and since then her pen has turned to political and economic questions of the day.

"D. A. Thomas, Viscount Rhondra," is an able picture of a very capable man, her father, and was published in 1921; "Leisure Women," 1926, and her autobiography, "This Was My World," in 1933, are just some of her works. Her autobiography is delightful reading; it portrays vivid pictures, of which the most outstanding is the sinking of the Lusitania in 1915. Of this experience the author writes: "I doubt whether any of the people in the water were actually frightened or in any consciously unbearable agony of mind. When Death is as close as he was then, the sharp agony of fear is not there; the thing is too overwhelming and stunning for that. One has the sense of something taking care of one — I don't mean in the sense of protecting one from death; rather of death itself being a benignant power."

All competitors interested in competing in the Original Literary Works should bear in mind that entries must reach the Festival office, 1265 Stanley St., Montreal, not later than Jan. 6, 1939.

Predicted Snow-flurries

The prolonged warm spell in these parts, which sent the temperature soaring to all-time November high marks Monday and Tuesday, broke on Tuesday night with heavy north-west winds bringing autumn showers. The cold winds drove the mercury down to the low forties within a few hours, a slump of almost 30 degrees from the record high mark Tuesday noon.

Weather prophets at McGill observatory predicted probable snow-flurries — which, however, have not yet materialized.

Czechoslovak Families Take Up Farms in Cornwall District

Leaving their native land because of the almost unbearable living conditions there, three families from Czechoslovakia have recently taken up residence in the Cornwall district. The families reached Canada on October 7, together with other Czechoslovakian refugees who came to this country to start life anew far from the strife and turmoil of their native land. The newcomers have settled in various places throughout Canada, some remaining in the eastern section of the country, with other families pushing as far west as Alberta to take over farms.

Sherman's Message to Lincoln

When Gen. W. T. Sherman notified President Lincoln of the fall of Savannah, Ga., the following dispatch to the President, dated from Savannah on December 22, reached Lincoln on Christmas eve: "I beg to present you as a Christmas gift the city of Savannah, with 150 heavy guns and plenty of ammunition, also about 25,000 bales of cotton. (Signed by W. T. Sherman, major-general.)" According to various authorities Sherman wrote this message and did not telegraph it. He had established communication with the fleet on his arrival in Savannah several days before, so that word was sent to Washington of his safe arrival, the first word from him since November 12.

Aged Resident Called by Death at Ogdensburg

Late Mrs. Albert Thompson

Friends in Ogdensburg and its vicinity were sorry to learn of the death of Mrs. Albert Thompson, which occurred at her home on Sunday evening, Oct. 30, after a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Thompson was in her 71st year. She was born at Mount Maple, the third daughter of the late John McKiddie and Margaret MacGregor.

The funeral was held from her residence on Wednesday, Nov. 2nd, and was largely attended by sympathizing friends and relatives. The service was conducted by the Rev. H. Cousins, of Lachute, assisted by the Rev. S. J. Pike, of Brownsburg. Interment followed in the Ogdensburg Cemetery.

Left to mourn her loss are her husband; four daughters, Mrs. G. N. Scharfe, of Ottawa, Mrs. A. Sargent, of Montreal, Mrs. D. G. Steele, of Lachute, and Mrs. R. Mott, of Ogdensburg; and four sons, John, of Templeton, Russell, of Detroit, Mich., Lester, of Lachute, and Melvin at home; also one sister, Mrs. Jas. ARMISTICE DAY

We stand upon the threshold of another Armistice Day. Twenty years ago the war-dazed world went festive to celebrate the ending of a war to end war. The battle-scarred warriors made solemn pledge that never again would war be resorted to as the arbiter of a people's fate. There never was a good war, as there never has been a bad peace. The symbols of that sacred pledge, were the little white crosses which stood in countless array as the poppies on Flanders' Fields, and which are today in counterpart the wreath-clad cenotaph of every village and every town throughout the world. . . In witness to that sacred pledge were the millions of mothers — mothers of a spirit that once was a son, but now a little red patch beneath one of the white crosses. . . In witness also were the millions of shadowy wraiths who had been sacrificed to make possible the safety of democracy. They had cheerfully given their lives that their children and loved ones might live in peace. . . There was yet another witness — the warriors of our public treasuries, those patriots which garnered a profit of $25,000 for every soldier killed in the Great War, the warriors of statesmanship who contracted for armaments at a three hundred per cent profit, and the arm-chair generals who won the war and promised to repay the fighters with "homes fit for heroes to live in."

Today we stand in silence and ponder if we have kept faith with our faithful dead. A few short weeks ago the streets of London and Paris went hectic in a riotous celebration when the victors of the Great War obtained a sacrificial peace at the expense of some of the fruits of twenty years ago. Saber-rattling puppets strut across the face of Europe glorifying the god of war and unleashing forces of hatred, fear and passion which so relentlessly engulfed us in the tragic catastrophe whose consummation we are celebrating.

Twenty years after the curtain-fall of our last war drama, the stage is being slowly set for its re-enactment — a drama which brought death and suffering to 37 million persons. Astronomical figures are necessary to calculate the sums fed to the hungry maw of Mars, to be prepared for a repetition of the slaughter we pledged to avoid.

Back of the Cenotaph around which we assemble today — a tragic symbol of a forgotten pledge — is massed the shadowy multitude of millions of men whose youth, and dreams, and blood have been poured into the earth so that we might enjoy peace. As we recall again the horrors of war and its deeds of carnage as we reflect on the utter uselessness of wholesale murder and realize anew that mankind never wins a war, that symbol of our sacred pledge cries out in reproach, cries out the same reproach upon us as does that earlier cross upon Calvary's Hill. We know we have not kept faith with our faithful dead. "Rest they in Peace."

— M. V. Trayers.

Can't You Lift?

(By John Edwin Price)

Can't you lift as much as Samson?
Can't you sing as well as Caruso?
Can't you paint as exquisitely as Raphael?

Can't you release beautiful forms from their marble prisons as well as Michael Angelo?

Can't you sway the masses with your silver-tongued oratory as did Disraeli, Beecher and Bryan?

Can't you make your pen mightier than the sword?

Anyone can ask a bunch of questions like the above, and the answer is also easy. It is, "No."

But just revise these thoughts!

A daisy can't bring the price paid for an American Beauty.

A meadow lark can't outsing a nightingale.

The moon can't shine as brightly as the sun.

An automobile can't cover as much distance in a day as an aeroplane.

Nevertheless, we should not forget that the humble daisy has cheered many low-wealth travelers.

Common birds bring joy and gladness to thousands of hearts as they fill the air with sweet song.

The pale moon has been responsible for many happy honey-moons.

And the automobile of high or low degree is still a very useful animal.

So cheer up! For the place you were intended to fill, you are a good sized individual.

Lift where you stand. Be the best of which you are capable. Remember,

"the mighty oak started out as a nut." Try each day to make two smiles grow where none grew before.

Then I'll wager you two wooden nickels (without holes) that, with each low descending sun, there will be at least two people in the world who will be glad that your mother fought in the dark to give you birth, and one of them — will be you!

Learn to laugh. A good laugh is better than medicine. Learn how to tell a story. A good story is as welcome as a sunbeam in a sick-room.

Learn to keep your troubles to yourself. The world is too busy to care for your ills and sorrows. Learn not to croak. If you cannot see any good in the world, keep the bad to yourself.

Learn to hide your aches and pains under a pleasant countenance. Learn to meet your friends with a smile.

Among the Local Churches

Presbyterian Y.P.S. Meeting

The weekly meeting of the Presbyterian Y.P.S. was held last evening, with about 20 members attending. A delegation consisting of Mr. Earl Rodgers and Miss Bessie Black was appointed to attend the Fall Rally of the Montreal Union this Saturday and Sunday in Rosemount.

The meeting was addressed by Rev. H. Cousens, who chose as his subject "The Munich Pact," and spoke of it in connection with the Armistice services being observed this Friday. War is a horrible thing, but when innocent women and children are butchered, as in the wars being fought today, it assumes even more horrible aspects, said Mr. Cousens.

Had not the Munich Pact been drawn up and signed, Europe would today be the scene of a bloody battle, with thousands of casualties even in the few weeks since the crisis became acute. The fact that the situation was settled peaceably is proof that those who participated in the last struggle, and especially those whose memory we honor on the 11th, did not strive in vain, and that the ideals for which they died are still being carried on.

Following the address, carpet bowling was played. All members are asked to make special efforts to attend next week as this is the last meeting to be held before the banquet, and a few details are left to be completed.

An event which occasioned much interest and delight was held in connection with the Women's Missionary Society last Friday evening. It was the exhibition of the "missionary apron," with its results; upon this apron, which had been going the rounds for the past few months, patches were sewn, with a contribution and poem. The poem was to contain the purpose of the missionary contribution and to be judged on its merits, being based on an original poem which accompanied the apron.

A program opened the evening gathering, consisting of music, games and contests, following which Rev. S. J. Pike presented the prizes to the winning contestants after giving a humorous reading from Mark Twain. Another item of the evening was the further presentation by Mr. Pike, on behalf of the Women's Missionary Society, of a life membership certificate to Mrs. John Wheeler. Mrs. Wheeler's long term as treasurer and her faithful service to the Society, were happily referred to. It was also the nearest date to Mrs. Wheeler's birthday.

Refreshments were served at the close. Mrs. T. Izzard and Mrs. S. J. Pike, president, had charge of the arrangements.

Construction Commenced on West End Thoroughfare As Relief Work

Work commenced this morning on the much needed resurfacing of Main Street, Lachute, from the C.P.R. crossing west to the town limits. About 50 men are engaged in operations today, and the prospect of early improvement in this road is warmly acclaimed by residents in the west ward and all who frequent that section. The project is still more appreciated by the relief workers, heads of families and those in most pressing need, to whom this work has been allotted.

Authorization and grant toward this relief project were secured at considerable personal effort by Geo. Héon, M.P.; to him and to the municipal authorities is the credit, for affording work to those citizens most in need of it.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

"Mortals and Immortals" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, November 13.

The Golden Text is: "If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new." (II Corinthians 5:17).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you?" (I Corinthians 3:16).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The time has come for a finite conception of the infinite and of a material body as the seat of Mind to give place to a diviner sense of intelligence and its manifestation, — to the better understanding that Science gives of the Supreme Being, or divine Principle, and idea." (p. 285).

Happy Event, Golden Wedding at Calumet

Grenville — A happy event was celebrated at Calumet last Monday when about 70 friends and relatives gathered to congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Hilliker on the occasion of their golden wedding. On November 7th, 1888, Charles Hilliker was married to Miss Elizabeth Handyside by the Rev. Mr. Garland, of St. John's Church, Eastman.

About 30 years ago they moved to Calumet, where Mr. Hilliker has ever since been employed by the Canadian International Paper Company. He has been prominent in the Grenville Lodge A.F. & A.M., and Mrs. Hilliker has also been a faithful worker in Trinity Church.

During the reception on Monday, Mr. Hilliker was presented with a gold pen and pencil, and Mrs. Hilliker with a gold wrist watch. These were the gifts of their many friends, of both nationalities, in Calumet. Mr. Hilliker thanked the donors in a happy manner, and Mr. H. G. Brannan responded. A purse from the members of the family, and numerous other gifts, were also received.

The two sons of the happy couple, Mr. Vernon Hilliker, of Thurso, and Mr. Robert Hilliker, of Maniwaki, were present with their wives and families, and also the two daughters, Mrs. Geo. H. White, of Calumet, and Mr. White, and Mrs. Claude Welden, of Montreal. Mr. Welden was unable to be present, as also was Miss Marjorie Searight, a grand-daughter. Mrs. Wm. Davis, of Lachute, another grand-daughter, was present with her husband. Besides these, the out-of-town guests included the following — Mr. and Mrs. Walter Williamson, Ottawa; Mrs. Fred White, Ottawa; Mr. John Legassick, Montreal; Mr. Wm. Geo. Rodger, Lachute; and Miss Viola G. Gill, Los Angeles, Cal.

St. Mungo's Sunday School is making progress and an invitation is extended by Rev. Mr. Dempsey to older folks to attend the Bible Class. Mr. Dempsey has started a series of sermons on "Words of the Bible." His sermon on Sunday stressed the sweetest word in the Bible as Forgiveness. At the close of the service the two little sons of Mr. and Mrs. John Buchan were presented and received baptism.

A large number of St. Mungo's members attended the Dramatic Society plays, held in Dansereau's Hall in aid of the sister church, Grenville United, which has recently formed a Ladies' Association under the presidency of Mrs. W. Gill. These plays made a very enjoyable evening, presenting both comedy and drama. Two of the plays, "Her Money's Worth" and "Handle With Care," were put on by the Lakfield Players; "The Lean Years," by the St. Andrews Players; and "Mrs. Ryan's Boarders," by Brownsburg Women's

As usual, Hallowe'en was enlivened by merry troupes of youngsters (and the occasional older) in masks and carnival attire beseeching "charity" at the doors, and indulging in pixie pranks along the way. Peanuts, popcorn, pennies, apples, candy and what-have-you were handed out to placate these mischievous spirits. Some donors demanded a stunt — a song or a dance. Others submitted the motley beggars to a close scrutiny to discover their identity, as the price of their booty. The most original costume this year represented a mechanical man or robot. The fine weather allowed some tiny tots to join in this old custom of their Scotch forbears — safely shadowed by "daddy."

The Dramatic Group put on the play, "The Lean Years," at Grenville on Nov. 4th. Besides the players, those who attended the entertainment included Mrs. W. Windsor, Misses A. L. and Jeanette Wales, Messrs. Douglas Rodger, Roy De Witt and Lloyd Lilly.

Mr. J. P. Lanctôt's regret at the loss of his valuable Newfoundland dog is shared by all who knew this fine animal. An autopsy showed that death was due to natural causes.

Good News and Bad

Members of Rotary Clubs have to give "classification talks" in which they explain how they make their own living. John James, of the Bowmanville Canadian Statesman, gave his talk to the Bowmanville Rotary Club last week. He made the rather cold-blooded statement, "An accident is of little use to a modern daily newspaper unless there is someone killed," but, we are glad to say, added: "Herein weekly and daily newspapers differ." If we may take a turn at generalizing about newspapers, we would say that in dailies bad news predominates and that in weeklies good news predominates. Daily newspapers are filled with war, rumors of war, crime, sudden death, political squabbles. In a weekly newspaper the cheerful note predominates, even in an obituary, which is usually a proud recitation by the weekly of a local life well lived. There is a place both for good news and for bad, for the weeklies and the dailies, but it is certainly much pleasanter to be a bearer of good news.

FULL-LENGTH NOVELS

Have you noticed the number of magazines that are printing a full-length novel each month? Even some of our Canadian magazines are doing it. Some of them are quite good — others are the usual drivel. Somehow, no matter how interesting they are, they have left me with a feeling of incompleteness, just something wrong. I could not figure what was the matter, but when I heard a magazine editor tell of having to cut a 70,000 word book down to 35,000 words, I decided probably that was the trouble. The essentials are there but it lacks completeness. Incidentally, the publishers decided to print the 35,000 word version. The books that are printed right straight ahead, page after page, are all right, but few things annoy me more than to be shunted from one part of a magazine to another when trying to read a book. It is bad enough when reading stories or articles to be sent from page 15 to 34, then to 47, then to 52 and so on. Our Canadian magazines do this to an annoying degree. I think the best thing you can say for "Liberty" is that it can be read straight ahead.

TIME OFF

It is surprising the number of women who take a half-hour after breakfast for a peaceful time for themselves. Some of them do not attempt to eat their breakfast until after the family are fed and sped upon their way. As one woman says, that is the one quiet meal she has in the day. After they are all gone she reads the paper and eats breakfast in peace. One of the busiest women I know says she takes that half-hour to do just as she likes. Once she starts to work, and the phone begins to ring, she cannot count on any quiet time. It really is a good idea for any woman to take a little time for herself. Some are so constituted that they could not rest in peace before their work was done. One friend, who is the energetic type, takes an hour after noon and in that hour she neither answers the phone nor the door-bell. Her friends know this and do not phone at that time. Many women feel that they have so much to do they simply cannot take time off for their own enjoyment. This is a mistake and they probably would accomplish as much in the end because they would be relaxed physically and mentally and their nerves would be rested.

ONE WONDERS WHY

This morning I took my dog for a walk and sat for a while on a bench in the park around the museum. On a nearby bench was a little red-headed boy, probably three years old. He was seated between his mother and an old gentleman, who were busy chatting and paying little attention to the child. He wriggled about and finally tried to get down, but his mother held him and refused to let him. He asked very nicely, although somewhat insistently, to be allowed to get down to play, but this was refused. Then he started to throw his hat on the ground. Each time he threw it down his mother replaced it and scolded him. Finally she got mad and slapped his hands. This did not do any good and at last she turned him over on her knee and spanked him. The child did not have his red-head for nothing and he was mad. It ended by their going home, the mother holding the child tightly by the hand and scolding all the way. He was told what a bad boy he was and how she wouldn't bring him to the nice park again. The whole rumpus was over the child wanting to run off his surplus energy in a perfectly legitimate way. As far as I could see there was no reason against it. There was plenty of room, no traffic hazards, the grass was dry and the sun was shining. One often wonders what is behind the way some mothers act.

VARYING RESULTS

The different results from the same recipe, when made by different people, are surprising. Very often it is due to inaccurate measurements. But this is not always the case. Different brands of ingredients are used and they react differently. A reader had difficulty with my Brandy Snaps recipe. This may have been due to a different brand of flour or even the molasses. We have all given recipes to friends who say they have had "no luck" with them and most of us have used our friends' recipes and had different results. Even our modern ovens are different. Flours, shortenings and the size of the eggs used all have an effect on the result. So sometimes it is difficult to say just why a recipe did not turn out successfully.

CANDIED FRUITS

Before using crystallized cherries, angelica, candied orange or lemon peel, soak them for a few minutes in boiling water. This makes them a brighter color and removes excess sugar.

FILLETS BAKED IN MILK

2 lbs. fresh fillets, 1 teaspoon grated onion, 2 cups milk, ½ teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons flour, dash of pepper, 2 tablespoons minced parsley. Mix salt, pepper and flour, and roll the fish in this. Put the fish in a casserole and sprinkle with the onion and parsley. Cover with the milk and bake, covered, in a moderate oven of 350 degrees for three-quarters of an hour. Serve in the dish in which it was baked.

SAUSAGE ROLLS

Brown sausage lightly and cool. Roll pastry and cut in squares. Roll a sausage in each square and bake in a hot oven of 400 degrees until the pastry is deliciously browned.

Fish Stretches the Budget

Our Canadian fish is the finest in the world. It is healthful, nourishing, and contains plenty of those invisible aids to good health — Vitamins A and D. These are the vitamins that help us resist colds and all the winter ailments. They build up resistance, and make crisp, cold days a pleasure.

There are so many kinds of Canadian fish, packed in cans, quick-frozen, and in some markets rushed fresh to the stores, that great variety is possible. The way to stretch the budget is to watch the daily fluctuation in price, and to pick brands with well-known Canadian names, packed in Canada.

Here's a recipe you will use frequently. It's a stick-to-the-ribs dinner for cold days, appetizing, flavorful, and most delicious.

Browned Chicken Haddie Lyonnaise

1 can Canadian chicken haddie, 2 cups cooked, diced potatoes, 2 tablespoons minced onions, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard or Worcestershire sauce, dusting of paprika, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 hard-cooked egg (chopped), 1 cup milk, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter.

Heat the potatoes in the butter. Add the hard-cooked egg, and onions. Combine the milk and seasonings. Add to the potatoes. Flake the fish and add. Push to one side of the frying pan and cook until well browned. Fold over and serve very hot.

Serve with a relish of pickled beets or stewed tomatoes.

EMERGENCIES

Tiberius, a Roman Emperor who lived before Christ, said: "A good surgeon is far better than an army of half a million men." And long after him some observer who lived during the year 1589 said that to be a good surgeon one needed a hawk's eye, a lion's heart and a lady's hand. I doubt if any living writer or philosopher could improve on those two remarks regarding surgeons.

Recently, Dr. Norman Long, of St. Louis, was called to attend a man crushed in a crane. Trapped sixty feet in the air, the medical man found it impossible to lower the victim to the ground because his right arm was caught and mashed in parts of the machinery.

Realizing that haste was necessary, the surgeon amputated the arm.

When the operation was finished, the man was rushed to the hospital, where he will make an uneventful recovery.

Such occurrences are not uncommon, as any doctor will tell you. I have a friend who did a similar operation, beneath a derailed train on a bridge, the patient being suspended in a rope support to keep him from falling through into the water. Men have been operated upon in caissons of compressed air far beneath the river, because of stern necessity, and survived. In fact, there is no place that a surgeon or a doctor will not go in the performance of his duties.

When Cipriano Castro, the ex-President of Venezuela, marched to Caracas at the head of his tatterdemalion army, composed chiefly of Andino Indians who had never seen an electric light, a street car or locomotive before, I was surgeon for a railway which had large repair shops at the capital.

There isn't much to talk about at some parties until after one or two couples leave.

Said the teacher: "Billy, your essay on 'The Cat' is exactly the same as your brother's. How did that happen?"

"It was the same cat, sir," said Billy.

THE WOMAN'S PAGE

HOUSE AND HOME

By Mary E. Dague
Author of Sister Mary's Kitchen

If you have always believed that house plants must be kept in clay pots in order for them to be healthy, you may be assured that one more theory of long standing has been "debunked." The very porousness of the pot that was considered its special virtue is now condemned as a fault.

It seems that this porous quality is bad because it absorbs moisture when the plant is watered, thereby stealing water from the roots, leaving them dry and weakened. There's no value in the theory that air is admitted through the porous sides, either. Aeration comes only through the top soil, so we must take care of this by stirring the soil about once a week.

I keep an old four-tined kitchen fork for this purpose. So the moral of this is — don't hesitate to invest in the attractive glazed pottery and glass flower pots.

Be sure there is an opening at the bottom for drainage and keep your plants on a tray filled with small pebbles if you like them in a window. This induces a moist atmosphere because of the water which seeps through the drainage hole and collects at the bottom of the tray.

Many Kinds of Vines

Perhaps vines appeal to you more than house-plants and answer your own particular need. Of course there are ever so many different varieties that do well in the house. English ivy, French ivy and St. Louis ivy, properly called Philodendron, are very satisfactory.

Philodendron grows in the shade and is the easiest of all to raise. If you have a group of three windows in your living room that have been a problem for you, try putting a pot of Philodendron on the casing on both sides of the centre window. Choose wall brackets in keeping with the woodwork of the room.

No matter how little sun your vines may have, they will do well and grow many inches every month. It's a good idea to leave the vines in their original clay pots and put them, pot and all, into the pot of the wall bracket. Be sure the decorative pot is large enough to allow a packing of peatmoss or sphagnum between it and the other pot. This creates the healthy, moist condition required by all plants except those of the cactus family.

City Plans Bedside Teachers for Crippled Youngsters

Dr. J. C. Pincock, superintendent of Winnipeg schools, has commenced work on a plan to provide "bedside teachers" that crippled children may receive treatment and education at the same time.

Dr. Pincock stressed the need of education for an increasing number of crippled children, normal except for their physical condition. Children in hospital for treatment at the present time receive no scholastic training.

The children's hospital has asked that the Winnipeg School Board provide a teacher to conduct classes. But Dr. Pincock is working on a scheme whereby crippled children, confined to their homes, may be taken to a central clinic each day. His report will be dealt with at a future Winnipeg school board meeting.

"Brush Your Hair and Pull Up Your Socks," Says Tweedsmuir to Children

"Brush your hair and pull up your socks" — is Lord Tweedsmuir's advice to children for the visit of the King and Queen early next summer.

During a short speech dedicating the $50,000 power-dam over the Bonhechere River at Renfrew, Ont., the Governor-General turned to a group of children and said: "Children, I have a word for you. The King is coming, so I hope you will all brush your hair and pull up your socks."

VARIED BUSINESS OCCUPIES ATTENTION AT REGULAR MEETING OF TOWN COUNCIL

INFORMED ON PRACTICES IN LACHUTE TOWN

The monthly meeting of the Brownsburg Council was presided over by Mayor G. Ball; also present were Councillors W. J. Graham, I. McFaul, L. Wilson, L. Ouellette, H. Pariseau and the secretary-treasurer, E. Hebert.

Germain Filion, secretary-treasurer of Lachute Town, came before the meeting to ask the council to take over maintenance of a new road, which Mr. Filion, Sr., had constructed on Maple Avenue, leading to his property and buildings.

Coun. McFaul: "The road is undoubtedly well constructed and a credit to the neighborhood."

Coun. Graham: "It complies with all the conditions of the council with regard to roads. Now that Mr. Filion is here, I should like to ask him if we could have a copy of the Lachute building laws or code."

Mr. Filion: "I am afraid I have no code in the strict sense. . . We may have some loose laws incorporated in our minutes which serve as a code."

Coun. Graham: "You determine the width of the street and the distance from the frontage."

Mr. Filion: "Yes, we have conditions and by-laws, but they may not be applicable to Brownsburg."

Secretary: "We pay 27% of our income for lights."

Mr. Filion: "We in Lachute find that a street light is valued at $18, and people who pay about $9 tax want to have a light put up outside their door."

Mayor Ball: "We are up against the same condition of things, but I can't say we looked at it in that light. Do you consider the tax paid in a sector when erecting lights?"

Mr. Filion: "No. We use a little commonsense and no generosity."

Coun. Ouellette: "You put a light on every fourth pole?"

Mr. Filion: "Perhaps, but we consider the distance and generally put a light every 500 feet."

On the proposition of Mr. L. Wilson, seconded by Mr. McFaul, it was unanimously decided to take over the

Kilmar Magnesite Product Described at Metal Socy. Meeting in Montreal

BELIEVED FIRST HEAT RESISTANT BRICK IN WORLD

Canada had a favorable trade balance in 1936 of $900,000 directly due to manufacture of magnesite refractories made in Argenteuil County, J. W. Craig, of the Canadian Refractories Limited, told members of the Montreal Chapter, American Society for Metals, at a meeting in the Windsor Hotel. This fact he gave as an indication of the importance of the industry, which was started in 1925, during a technical discussion of developments in magnesite manufacture in the past three years.

F. E. Lathe, of the National Research Council, gave full credit to the speaker for production of what he believed to be the first heat-shock resistant brick in the world, which plays an important part in the manufacture of steel and other metal products. This magnesite product was described by the speaker as well as other research work done by his company, by the National Research Council and the Federal Department of Mines.

In its particular sphere the brick will serve the same purpose as heat-proof glass in domestic and scientific uses. Heretofore, heat-shock has been a serious factor in replacement costs and to prevent rupture of fire-brick, steel furnaces have been kept under constant heat.

Truck Enters House and Stops in Bedroom

Crashing through the window of a restaurant at St. Sauveur on Saturday afternoon, a truck swept through the store, crashed an inside partition, and came to a stop against a bed in one of the rear rooms, wrecking the store and house and itself. No one was injured but the damage done to the restaurant is estimated at $2,000, and the proprietor, Leopold Monette, has been forced to close his place of business.

Armistice Day Impressive Occasion, Gathering at County Memorial Park

ATTENDED BY CITIZENRY OF ALL RANKS AND CLASSES, BOTH YOUNG AND OLD

A large attendance at the Remembrance Day exercises here Friday morning gave eloquent expression to the memory retained for Canada's fallen heroes just 20 years after signing of the Armistice in 1918.

The devotional service in Lachute Auditorium was opened by Geo. Héon, M.P., as chairman, at 10.45 o'clock. On the platform also were Rev. Major Gilbert Oliver, of Westmount, guest speaker, and members of the Protestant clergy. The singing of O Canada initiated the ceremonies, with its stirring pledge of patriotism, and later the national anthem, God Save the King, concluded the program at the nearby Cenotaph in a fitting spirit of prayer and humility before God.

The invocation was given by the Rev. W. B. Rosborough, of Lachute United Church, and during the course of the chairman's remarks the assembly was called to attention for the two minutes' silence in memory of the dead.

STIRRING DISCOURSE BY SPEAKER

The Rev. Major Oliver gave an appropriate message. Going back to the years of the Great War, he analysed the ideals for which so many had laid down their lives. Their objective had been three-fold; they had fought for freedom, for justice and for righteousness. "But while we pay tribute to their memory, are we carrying the torch?" Major Oliver questioned. "Are we pursuing those three ideals?" We might do so most fittingly by prayer and personal sacrifice. And to maintain righteousness, the third objective, implied the suppression of tyranny. "I may be exposing myself to criticism," said the speaker, "but to suppress tyranny requires moral and material strength — the strength of arms. This is not a noble ideal or a desirable attitude, but conditions of the times require this stand. The happy solution to the menace of national greed and covetousness, is peaceful arbitration, but the British Commonwealth cannot assume the role of arbiter without strength of arms and forces." We had learned the bitter price of war, and while thanking God for the sacrifices of our heroes, we must be prepared to pay the price of peace.

Two hymns were sung, a scripture passage was read by Rev. W. LeCras, and a prayer and benediction by Mr. Rosborough concluded the devotion. Led by the Legion members, preceded by their colors, the gathering adjourned to the nearby Memorial Park.

With the Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs forming a guard of honor around the Cenotaph and the Legion flanking the rear of the monument, the assembly at the Memorial Park presented a colorful scene. Mr. Héon presided and representatives of the various churches, clubs, business firms and organizations were called upon to deposit their wreaths.

To the High School children grouped behind the guard, Mr. Héon spoke briefly on the significance of this celebration, following his discourse with remarks in the French language.

Bugler Marcel Leduc, of the Grenadier Guards, Montreal, sounded the Last Post, while the flag was lowered from its mast; this was followed by the sounding of the Reveille, both the bugle-calls being interpreted in a sympathetic manner. The ceremonies concluded with the singing of God Save the King.

POPPIE CAMPAIGN WAS WELL SUPPORTED

Wreaths were purchased by the following organizations and deposited at the Cenotaph by their representatives:

Argenteuil Legion, Branch No. 70; Lachute United Church; Margaret Rodger Presbyterian Church; Ayers Limited; Lachute Town Corporation; Argenteuil Masonic Lodge; Lachute Council Knights of Columbus; One Hundred Club; Lions Club; County Women's Institutes.

Others throughout the county purchased smaller wreaths for window display and the public responded generously in the purchase of poppies. The memorial wreaths at the Cenotaph will be kept and displayed a few at a time, in order that these emblems of remembrance may be in continual evidence at the base of the monument.

Thanks of the Legion executive are extended to all who assisted in the Armistice service and to the willing canvassers who contributed their efforts to the success of the poppy campaign.

A detailed report of sales in the various districts is published in another section of this issue.

Argenteuil Health Officer Heard Over Radio

DR. E. LALANDE URGES CO-OPERATION FOR FITNESS OF SCHOOL-CHILDREN

On November 9th at 6 o'clock p.m. Dr. E. Lalande, director of the Argenteuil County Health Unit, was heard from Station C.B.F., Montreal, in a radio talk sponsored by the "Reveille Rural." This organization is headed by Mr. G. Bouchard, Member for Kamouraska in the Federal Parliament. The broadcasts are held in the interests of rural education and are financed largely by the Provincial Government. Different sections of the province are participating, and Dr. Lalande was honored in being the first county health officer to speak in the campaign. His address, given in French, was a feature in the Public Health department of these programs.

Speaking on the health of school children and its relation to their success in class, Dr. Lalande stressed the fact that to complete their studies successfully within a reasonable time and so to take their place as an asset to family and community, school-children must be physically well equipped. This could be best achieved by the co-operation of parents and school boards with the public health service afforded by the Ministry of Health — or more particularly with the Health Units, as the practical branches of this service.

Two Autos in Collision as One Stops to See Accident

A collision between two automobiles, which occurred at the junction of the old and new highways, three miles south of St. Jerome, was responsible for a second mishap at the same spot at two o'clock last Sunday. Seven Montrealeers were involved but escaped with slight shock.

The first accident occurred when the automobile of Eugene Charron, of Ste. Therese, and a Montreal car collided. As Provincial Police were investigating, two other cars passed by. One slowed down to see the accident and the second ran into it. All four cars were damaged and the ten occupants shaken up. No one was seriously injured and traffic was quickly cleared.

Morin Hts. Looks for Enthusiastic Sports Season

MUNICIPAL ASSOCN. SHOWS ACTIVITY; COLLABORATING WITH COUNCIL

A function for both social and business stimulation is planned by the Morin Heights Municipal Association on Nov. 29th, in the form of a banquet and discussion at the Mount Royal Hotel. It is expected that the local provincial, and federal representatives, and C.N.R. officials, will be present. A feature of the gathering will be a talk by Herman Smith Johansson, supervisor of the Alouette Ski Club, which will take the lead in the 1938-39 sports season at Morin Heights. Mr. Johansson will describe the skiing facilities developed in that community, which will include this year a fine down-hill racing course suitable for competitive skiing, a small slalom hill with ski-tow, two jumps, and enough well-cut and marked trails to hold the interest of an enthusiast for some time. Along with this, the youths are organizing into a Ski Guide Corps, something unique in the Laurentians. The leaders in this development feel they have laid the foundation for the establishment of a recognized ski school, and hope to be able to open a hostel where day skiers can have a "shin heat, a sandwich and a bowl of soup" at little cost. The Canadian National Railways have been working in close collaboration on this sports development.

At a meeting of the Canadian Amateur Ski Association, the Alouette Ski Club were awarded an official meet of the Association, to be held at Morin Heights on the new development on January 22nd. It comprises down-hill races and slalom competition for all comers. The Laurentian School Boys' Association will also hold a meet at Morin.

A map is in the process of production to illustrate the abundance of trails available for cross-country skiing.

It is understood that, in reference to the recent referendum on liquor licenses, the Morin Heights Municipal Association has communicated with the township councillors, voicing appreciation for their acceptance of the Association's urge for municipal control. In this connection the councillors have been asked to arrange a meeting for mutual discussion, at which the Association is prepared to outline its suggestions on a method of such control. The communication to members of the council seeks, also, to correct a misapprehension that the Municipal Association was desirous of obtaining a license on its own account. This idea is erroneous, the letter states.

Would Change Name of Church in Canada

A proposal that the name of the Church of England in Canada be changed to represent it as a Canadian rather than an English church, has been referred to a committee for consideration by the synod of the Rupert's Land diocese — it is reported from Winnipeg.

Archbishop M. T. Harding favored a change, saying the church was losing members because the present name gave some the idea the church was for English people only.

THE FARMER'S YEAR SUMMED UP IN FALL

Many Canadian farms have produced better crops this year than ever before, yet, says G. R. Snyder, Soils Chemist, very few farmers are completely satisfied with the yield or quality of crop from every field, and now that the time for Thanksgiving and meditation has arrived, are checking up to find wherein they may have erred and how the faults may be corrected.

Examination of soil samples which daily arrive at the soil testing laboratories provides a fair indication of the more general reasons why crops fail to produce as well as the sower expected. Samples from the eastern areas of Canada, where the annual rainfall is heavy, are frequently low in available supplies of all three of the essential plant food substances, nitrogen, phosphate and potash, and are distinctly acid in reaction, due to lack of lime. Loam and clay soils from central eastern areas, where the precipitation is moderate and leaching has been less severe, are moderately well supplied with lime and are neutral to medium-acid in reaction. A low supply of phosphates is the most serious general weakness. Sandy soils in this area, on the other hand, are frequently low in the three essential plant food elements and medium to strongly acid.

Prairie soils of the mid-west are in a class by themselves. They are not only the richest soils, but through the bounty of nature have been well protected. With no excess of rainfall, loss of soil fertility through leaching and run-off is very low. Wind is their worst enemy, and in recent years has caused heavy losses through drifting. The total phosphate supply of these soils is moderately high, yet, due to the abundance of lime which tends to fix the phosphate in rather insoluble forms, the rate at which it becomes available to plants is quite low. Light applications of high phosphate fertilizers are therefore required to insure an adequate supply during the early stages of growth, when the uptake of this mineral food substance is most important and rapid. Some areas are low in nitrogen and in potash as well, and again there are others so high in soluble salts that growth is definitely discouraged.

The British Columbia samples are quite varied in type and composition, but like those of the eastern areas, where the rainfall is heavy and leaching severe, acid soils are common, and the test frequently indicates a low level of available nitrogen, phosphate and potash.

Soils from fields where growth is sparse or slow or where yellowing, lodging, late maturity or poor quality of grain and forage are pronounced, should be examined for inadequate or unbalanced fertility indications this fall, while the soil is in the most suitable condition for sampling. In the case of pasture and meadow lands that are low in mineral plant food, or where strongly acid conditions exist, the remedy in the form of phosphate potash fertilizers, or limestone, according to need, can be supplied now before the freeze-up comes.

Ex-Alderman of St. Jerome Killed by Falling Tree

Ex-Alderman Joseph Bastien, of St. Jerome, living on the western limits of the town, was killed by a tree which he was felling on his property Monday morning. He was crushed on the head and suffered a fractured skull.

The case was disposed of by Coroner J. G. Latour, M.D., with a verdict of accidental death. The coroner was told that Bastien was felling a large tree on his land in company with his son and another man. They had cut the base of the tree and it collapsed unexpectedly. Bastien was caught by one of the larger limbs. He was carried into the home at once and a doctor was called but he died before the physician could reach him.

Mr. Bastien retired from the municipal council four years ago after serving several terms as an alderman.

"Morse lied to me yesterday in order to get off to go to the ball game. He said his wife's mother was dead."

"I think you are mistaken. I heard what he said."

"Then what was it?"

"He said he would like to attend his mother-in-law's funeral."

Abolition of Toll Bridges Is Duplessis' Aim

It is the policy of the National Union Government to have bridge tolls disappear as soon as possible. Premier Maurice Duplessis declared at the Government offices in Montreal recently. Steps had already been taken in that direction, he said, and would be continued.

Mr. Duplessis was discussing the new bridge at Charlemagne, now being erected jointly by the Department of Public Works and the Department of Labor, on the route to Quebec. It would be free of toll charges, he said, as was the bridge erected by his Government at Pie IX boulevard.

Since taking power in 1936, therefore, he noted, the Government had had two important bridges to its credit — both without toll — and other spans it has also considerably reduced toll charges maintained by "the old regime."

Commenting on the Charlemagne bridge, the Premier declared that it would cost much less than comparative spans constructed by the "old regime." Aside from the advantages it offered the Province of Quebec, the City of Montreal and the tourists coming to this province, he added, its construction would give much work to the unemployed.

"Doctor, how long do you think it will take me to recover from this accident?"

"Do you mean physically or financially?"

LITTLE BUD

Little Bud let no grass grow under his feet. When Uncle Joe came for a visit, he immediately rushed up to him with: "Uncle, make a noise like a frog."

"Why?" asked the old man. "Cause when I ask daddy for anything, he always says, 'Wait till your uncle croaks'."

Deficit Reported by the Mackay School

COSTS RISE, BUT GRANT FROM QUEBEC NOT INCREASED, REPORT NOTES

Fifty-one pupils attended the Mackay Institution for Protestant Deaf-mutes during the year ended June, 1938, it is shown in the annual report just issued. Of these, 47 were from the Province of Quebec, including eight Jewish children from the metropolitan area; two from New Brunswick and two from Ontario.

Total expenses for the year amounted to $34,182, an average cost of about $67 per pupil. This compared with an average cost of $57 in the previous year. The year was closed with an operating deficit of $10,065, whereas the operating deficit of the preceding year was $6,768.

The educational grant of $4,000 was received from the province, it is stated; this has remained the same for many years, despite the fact that the scope of the work has been extended to meet the changing requirements in education, and that the annual costs have increased accordingly from year to year.

The taxes paid to the City of Montreal have continued to increase. No financial aid is received from the city.

The report to the principal refers to the exceptionally good physical health of the children. Details of the special methods of teaching are given together with a description of the work of the vocational department which aims at fitting the pupils to become self-supporting.

GAS STREET-LIGHTING PREFERRED

After fourteen years of electric service, the town of Callington, in Cornwall, England, with a population of 1,600, recently went back to gas lighting. Ninety-six new street lamps had been installed for the change-over.

POLICE ARE POLITE TO FIRST PARKING OFFENDERS

Lethbridge Herald gives an example of courteous consideration for strangers exercised by the police department of Spokane. . .

When an Albertan went to his parked car on a Spokane street recently he found a tag bearing the following:

"Welcome to the friendly city of Spokane.

"Doubtless you are unaware that you have violated the Traffic Ordinance C3158 by parking in a loading zone.

QUEBEC CITY RETAINING MANY OLD BY-LAWS

Quebec City, with a reorganized Archives Bureau, has been bringing its civic regulations up to date.

One by-law passed in 1844 and still on the books forbids splitting wood or doing carpenter work in the streets. Up to about 100 years back, it was just the custom to have the supply of firewood at the back of the house, chop it on the sidewalks or on the cobble-stones and carry it in through the front door.

Another old by-law made it a punishable offence to hoist coal from the sidewalk to second or third storey windows above the heads of pedestrians.

Laws against cursing and swearing are still in vogue, as one student found out when he was hauled into recorder's court for swearing at a neighbor.

A lengthy civil code governs relations of "master and servant." At least 100 years old, it is still invoked to settle household disputes. One section requires masters to treat servants "like their own children, safeguard their morals, and keep an eye on the servants' religious practice. Servants are reminded of the "obedience and respect" due their masters.

City Archivist Valere Desjardins describes the set of regulations as "still very useful."

GARBAGE WAGON IMPOUNDED

A garbage wagon in Hamilton, Ont., was ordered impounded for three months and its driver was convicted of a charge of driving while intoxicated, thereby creating a problem for suburban Burlington authorities regarding collection of the town's garbage.

CIVIL SERVANTS IN OTTAWA NUMBER 12,845

Ottawa has a total of 12,845 government employees being paid a total of $20,600,000 salary annually, according to figures released by the Finance Department.

The total includes 8,220 permanent civil servants; 3,858 so called temporaries; and 407 casual and other employees. Of the total number 7,599 are males.

In Ottawa the government employee lists include 2,526 who saw overseas active service, and there are a total of 367 employees over 65 years of age, ordinary retirement age.

INCREASED VALUATION ON NON-EXISTENT PROPERTY

J. C. Noel, property owner in the City of Verdun, Que., convulsed an otherwise routine meeting of the city council when he appeared to raise objection to an increase of valuation on a non-existent garage on a property on which he had been paying taxes for years. He was a good fellow, he said, and wanted to do his share, but an increase in valuation on a garage that didn't exist, he seemed to consider an imposition.

After the laughter had subsided it was decided to reduce, rather than increase his assessment. The assessors explained that several years ago he had leased the property to someone who had built a garage and removed it when the property reverted to Mr. Noel. Reduction for the garage had never been made.

AN ASPECT OF PUBLIC HYGIENE

Even in these days when municipal authorities are treating public hygiene as an administrative duty of primary importance, it is hard to realize how little informed the majority of citizens are on questions relating to this matter, and how opportune it is to make them profit by modern improvements concerning the care of health. The teeth are probably the most neglected part of the body. They are considered as secondary organs, an ornament more than anything else; it is not well known that a good digestion is essential to good health, and that the teeth are the first organs of the digestive system. It is therefore important to educate the citizens on this point, and it is easily understood that we should start by educating the children.

Ottawa, Nov. 15th. — The next session of Parliament will start early in January. This point was made clear by Mr. Mackenzie King on his return from the West Indies where, in company with Mr. Skelton, Under Secretary of State for External Affairs, he has been spending the past few weeks in recreation after a strenuous and trying summer. Mr. King also made it quite clear that Parliament was not to be rushed in its deliberations because of the visit of Their Majesties next summer. Word has not yet been received of the exact time when the King and Queen would arrive in Canada. If the legislative programme for the session was not finished when Their Majesties came to Canada, Parliament will be adjourned, and re-assembled later to finish up. "We will expedite the business as much as possible," said Mr. King, "although we do not want Parliament to be rushed. The business of Parliament will be proceeded with in an orderly manner."

It was hoped and expected, said Mr. King, that Their Majesties would visit all provinces of the Dominion during their next three weeks' visit to this country. There would be close co-operation and consultation between the Federal and Provincial Governments so that all arrangements would dovetail. Of course, all plans covering the tour through Canada would be subject to Their Majesties' approval, a sub-committee of the Cabinet would be in charge of the arrangements. The main principle which will govern the itinerary will be to let Their Majesties see as many and be seen by as many as possible of the people of the Dominion. Social engagements will be kept to a minimum. The King and Queen will be given the opportunity of becoming acquainted with their subjects in the Dominion. The visit which led monarchs will make to the United States will not be given out of the time spent in Canada. They will be in Canada the full three weeks originally intended.

Whether the King would preside at a meeting of the Privy Council in Canada, of which there are about twenty members, is not certain. The Prime Minister, however, felt that it would be a very nice thing if this did occur.

In London Mr. Chamberlain, the Prime Minister, has described the coming visit of the King and Queen as "a truly historic occasion," illustrating "the special part Their Majesties would take in the life of the Commonwealth of Nations." Also, of outstanding importance, said Mr. Chamberlain, was the decision to take the opportunity of their presence in Canada to pay a short visit to the United States. Their Majesties would carry with them a warm message of goodwill to the great republic of the new world.

Mr. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Finance, is beginning to attend meetings of the Cabinet at Ottawa. He seems to be quite recovered from the illness which attacked him in the last few days of last session. He is still, however, taking care not to overstrain his strength, and has not up to the present taken over the administration of his department. The department has fortunately been under the capable guidance of his Deputy Minister, Dr. Clarke.

A report issued by the Department of Finance shows that in the past two or three years about 47 million dollars have been loaned on housing schemes in the Dominion. A little over 22 million have been spent on the repair, improvement and modernization of houses under the Home Improvement Act, and the balance under the National Housing Act and its predecessor, the Dominion Housing Act. The National Housing Act did not come into effect until the end of July, and considerable time was spent in making the necessary arrangements with lending companies. A large part of the building season had therefore already passed before the Act came into actual operation. Furthermore, there were adverse business conditions and the crisis in Europe to retard matters. For all that, good progress was made. It is particularly encouraging that October, although an autumn month, had the largest number of loans approved of any month since the housing plan began. This is a favorable sign for the next building season.

Woolworth

Woolworth's Boss Paid Him No Salary Because He was So Dumb

Frank W. Woolworth was a poor boy. He lived on a farm near Watertown, New York, and he was so hard up that he had to go barefooted six months out of the year. He didn't have enough money to buy even an overcoat to keep himself warm during the bitter cold winters.

That poverty did big things for him. It aroused his ambition and filled him with a flaming desire to get ahead. He hated the farm and determined to be a storekeeper; so when he was twenty-one years of age, he hitched the old mare to a sleigh, drove into Carthage, New York, and applied for a job in every store in town. But nobody would hire him. He was too green, too gawky and hay-seedy. He didn't know enough even to get a haircut and to wear a white collar and tie.

Finally, he found a railway station agent who was running a sort of a store on the side. This station agent kept a stock of groceries in a freight shed and Frank Woolworth worked for him for nothing — just in order to get experience.

Later on he got a job working for a drygoods store. Although he was twenty-one years of age, his employers didn't feel he had enough sense to wait on customers, so they made him come down early of a morning, start a fire, sweep out the store, wash windows and deliver packages.

Finally, he got a job in another store at ten dollars a week; and he slept in the basement with a revolver under his pillow to protect the store from thieves. This place proved to be a nightmare. His employer hounded him and scolded him and told him he was no good and cut his salary and threatened to fire him. Frank Woolworth was a whipped man. Realizing he could never make good, he went back to the farm, suffered a nervous breakdown, and for a whole year he couldn't do a stroke of work.

Think of it! This man who was destined to become the greatest retail merchant on earth, was so discouraged now that he abandoned all thought of trying to get ahead in business, and started raising chickens.

Then, one day, to his great surprise, one of his former employers sent for him and offered him a job. It was a bitter cold day in March, over sixty years ago. The ground was covered with three feet of snow. Woolworth's father was taking some potatoes to market that day and so Frank crawled up on the sled and sat on a sack of potatoes and rode into Watertown, New York, to start a career that was to bring him wealth and power far beyond his most fantastic expectations.

What was the secret of his success? Just this: he got an idea — a unique idea. He borrowed three hundred dollars and started a store where nothing cost more than a nickel. That first store was in Utica, New York, and it was a total failure. Some days he didn't take in more than $2.50. Out of the first four stores that Woolworth opened, three of them failed.

Refusing to go into debt, he expanded very slowly at first, opening only twelve stores during the first ten years that he was in business.

Finally, he became one of the wealthiest men in America, built himself what was then the highest office building in the world; paid for it with fourteen million dollars in cash; installed a hundred thousand dollar pipe organ in his home, and began collecting relics of Napoleon.

Years before, when he was a poor young man and had met with defeat so often that he had lost faith in himself, his mother would come and put her arm around him, whispering softly, "Don't be discouraged, my son; some day you'll be a rich man. . ."

Punctuation

The curious effect of non-punctuation in telegrams cannot fail to have struck everyone. A London lawyer had a female relation in the North from whom he had "expectations." She had been ailing for some weeks, and one morning a telegram came asking the lawyer's wife to go at once, as she (his aunt) was much worse. His wife accordingly went.

During the evening of the following day the husband received this disconcerting announcement:

"Aunt Hilda went to heaven at 3.30 returning by 11.30 tomorrow evening."

Regular Meeting of the Brownsburg Council

Coun. Ouellette: "We took that street over, and can have them put on our own property."

Secretary: "Our bill for lights this month is $136.50."

It was decided that the secretary make arrangements to have the light restored.

A letter was received from the secretary of the Legion Association requesting the council's assistance in supplying a wreath for the Cenotaph and desiring the presence of that body at the ceremonies. It was decided to treat the matter with due consideration and interview the secretary as to the best disposition of the council's presentation.

A deputation of the council which recently went to Montreal in connection with the waterworks scheme reported that they were very favorably received and were enabled to satisfy the Board of Health by providing levels in addition to the information in the hands of the authorities. It was intimated by Mayor Bail that everything was concluded now to enable the Provincial Government to consider the matter, and the next step to come from them.

It was decided to have notices printed and erected on the road to the dump, ordering users to keep the road free of debris or rubbish.

COUNCILLOR PARISEAU SEES AN ASTROLOGER

The council then took up the question of snow removal.

Coun. Pariseau: "It would be better to advertise for tenders and let the most suitable man get the work. Mr. Carrière has a splendid plough and might undertake the work at a reasonable cost, but we could better judge if we had tenders before us."

Mayor Bail: "I would be agreeable to call for tenders, but it takes a little time and the snow might be here."

Coun. Pariseau: "A woman told me there was to be no heavy snow for a month; she was an astrologer."

— Laughter.

It was ultimately decided to call for tenders to have the snow removed within the confines of the council's administrative territory. It was decided also to specify that the snow be cleared by 7.30 in the morning to enable people to get through the streets to work.

Auto Dealer Extends Invitation to Display

In connection with the General Motors display this week at the Windsor Hotel, Montreal, the distributors for this section, Lachute Autos Limited, have arranged to have their sales representative at this show on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 18-19. Visitors from the Lachute section are therefore assured of a friendly welcome and personal attention; they may take this occasion to inspect the new General Motors models and to enquire on any phase of construction or operation which may take their particular interest.

lists, which is required yearly, was approved by the council. There were 569 voters in the district. The motion of ratification was moved by Coun. Pariseau.

The question of a fire alarm siren was again before the council and a suggestion and quotation from the Northern Electric Co. considered. The company were of the opinion there was considerable difficulty in installing a reliable system in an undulating district such as Brownsburg; they were also concerned with the possibility of electrical break-down which would put a purely electrically driven siren out of operation.

Mayor Bail was in favor of awaiting an opportunity of hearing what the Gagneau Company had to say about this matter, as their co-operation would be very useful.

Coun. Pariseau: "To maintain the thing would be the most important part of the proceeding. The Gagneau would be the most suitable people."

Mayor Bail: "The recommendation is for the Vitaguard System with about six stations."

Coun. Pariseau: "The whole thing seems premature to me. The apparatus is too advanced for the amount of protection we could render with the water supply we have available at the moment."

Mayor Bail: "Well, the present system is useless to call the fire department out — and our fire protection apparatus is not bad."

It was decided to await communication from the Gagneau Company.

Mr. Jim Roberts appeared, requesting that council intercede for him in having a ditch cleared which caused his property to be flooded with water from the road. He said he had to hire a pump for two nights to keep the water out of his cellar.

Coun. McFaul: "The ditch runs

Poppy Day Campaign Brought Over $300

Following are the amounts received from the sale of poppies and wreaths, conducted by Argenteuil Branch, No. 70, of the Canadian Legion:

Lachute, $240.25; Arundel, $24.75; Grenville, $10.75; Morin Heights, $15.26; Lakefield, $2.15; Calumet, $5.65; St. Andrews, $23.08; Cushing, $13.05. — Total, $334.94.

From this amount the cost of the poppies and wreaths is to be deducted, the balance being for use in the assistance of disabled veterans or their families in this district, should the necessity arise.

Thanks of the Legion are again extended the canvassers and the public for their generous support.

W. I. EFFORT

Under the auspices of the Lachute W.I., a box will be placed in the Dominion Store, in which free donations of canned goods may be placed. These will be forwarded early next week to certain families at Farmborough who are in great need.

along the roadside, and in front of Mr. Lepine's goes into the river. You are farther up than that."

Mr. Roberts: "The ditch was not opened when they did the road."

Mayor Bail: "We have very little to do with that. We can't get in touch with the road engineer to find out what we have to do with the work in progress in the village. We can, however, call his attention to this matter when we see him." The secretary was instructed to inform the engineer of this matter at the first opportunity.

The council were of opinion that a by-law to compel builders to erect double chimneys should be in operation. At the instance of Mayor Bail, notice of motion was handed in that at the next meeting such a by-law would be made operative.

Coun. Graham moved that the by-law imposing a business tax of $100 on new businesses for a period of one year, and which was refunded after that period, be rescinded as its terms were not being enforced. The matter was talked out and dropped.

Payment of accounts was sanctioned and the meeting adjourned.

Annual Men's Supper at Lachute United

A large assembly of men from Lachute, Morin Heights, St. Andrews, Shawbridge and Ste. Therese gathered last evening in the United Church here for their annual laymen's supper.

After a hearty meal provided by the ladies of the church, Dr. Bruce Hunter, of St. James United, Montreal, spoke briefly on the Quarter Million drive now in progress, and urged the support of all present in furthering the cause of the Missionary and Maintenance Fund.

He was followed by Mr. Ridout, editor of the Record and Missionary Review, Toronto, who gave a lantern lecture on his recent tour of some 8,000 miles through the mission fields of Newfoundland and Labrador. The slides were in color and portrayed everyday experiences of Eskimo, Indian and white people whose chief occupation is fishing and hunting.

Presbyterian Y.P.S.

The regular meeting of the Presbyterian Y.P.S. was held last night with about 25 members attending. President Earl Rogers presided. After a short business meeting, Margaret McAdam, sole representative at the Rosemount Conference, outlined briefly the proceedings of the Conference. The Lachute society was the only one outside the Montreal area represented at the gathering.

Colin Copeland then presented an interesting paper on one of Quebec's unique industries, namely, the smelting and fabrication of aluminum. The raw material, bauxite, is brought from British Guiana to Port Alfred or Arvida, transformed into aluminum, and then about 90% is exported, mostly to the British Isles.

A brief carpet bowling tournament was played, all members showing keen enthusiasm over the prospects of soon being involved in League games, which are to get under way in about ten days. Next week the meeting is cancelled, due to the fact that the annual banquet will be held on Friday, Nov. 25th.

Among the Local Churches

Missionary Work in the Peace River District

The work of a missionary, told by himself, is always an interesting story. When that work is being done among people of our own race and in our own country, the interest is greater. Consequently, the story told by the Rev. Russell Brown here on Monday night, of his experiences in the Peace River district of British Columbia, proved of absorbing interest. Mr. Brown is working among the settlers in that district with the support of the Fellowship of the West, an organization of young men in Montreal that helps to supply the ministrations of the church to this isolated section — which is farther from Quebec than England is, and yet still in Canada. The lecture was illustrated with lantern slides, mostly coloured. The natural beauty of the subjects and the skill of the colouring made these slides something to be long remembered.

The lecture was held in St. Simeon's Church, and the rector, the Rev. W. LeCras, conducted the prayers and introduced the speaker.

Presbyterian W.M.S. at St. Andrews East

St. Andrews E. — The Presbyterian W.M.S. met at the church hall on Wednesday, the president, Mrs. J. P. Bradley, presiding. There was a large attendance and all departments reported progress. Mrs. Arthur Gates, literature secretary, reported three bags of magazines sent to the Peace River district; the supply secretary reported a second bale of clothing shipped to Montreal; and the treasurer reported that the allocation for the year had been met.

Mrs. Joseph Bradley had charge of the devotional period, and chose for her subject, "The Comfort of the 23rd Psalm." Papers on India were read by Miss Phyllis Doig and Miss E. Hamilton. A very pleasing offertory solo was sung by Shirley Bradley. At the close of the meeting 62 dozen cookies were packed and shipped to the disabled soldiers at Ste. Anne's for Armistice Day. This is done every year by the women of the church, not only as a treat for the returned soldiers, but in loving memory of Miss Harrington, who started this good work.

Supper and Entertainment Sponsored by St. Mungo's

Cushing — The supper in charge of the Board of Stewards of St. Mungo's Church, held in the Community Club room Saturday evening, was a very enjoyable affair. Summed up in the words of one of the Ontario visitors, it was "a good supper, a good program and good pictures." Miss Mildred Douglas, of Montreal and Cushing, displayed some interesting colored moving pictures of some of Cushing's residents and their gardens, their farming occupations and some views of the river, as well as scenes of beauty from the Gatineau district, and Brownsburg River rushing over the stones, with the trees on its banks laden with their autumn foliage. — all of which proved that we do not need to go abroad in search of beauty; we have it right at home, and much of it in Argenteuil. Other items on the program were songs by Ora Watson and Shirley Bradley, a folk dance by Margaret Aitkin, recitations by Miss M. Whelehan and Audrey Watson, songs by Mr. Roy Dobbie and Catherine Cook and the Misses Dorothy and Helen Weir. Miss Mary Starnes furnished Hawaiian music as an accompaniment for the Misses Weir. The Duncan brothers, from Hill Head, also were much appreciated for their guitar music and western songs, George Duncan having paired up with his brother, the well known James Duncan, for this occasion.

Successful Armistice Supper Held at Grenville

Grenville — The annual Armistice supper at Grenville last Saturday proved so popular that the ladies of St. Matthew's W.A. were kept very busy serving the record number that attended.

Following the supper a short entertainment was given. This included recitations and a pretty step-dance by Miss Cloverbox and Miss Ellen Chambers. Mrs. John Stewart and Miss Enid McRae sang "Little Old Lady," with Phyllis Owens, dressed in character, performing the actions. Mrs. Stewart sang another selection and an encore. Two short sketches were staged by members of the A.Y.P.A., the cast including the Misses May Conway, May Matthew, and Enid McRae, and Messrs. Percy Brazeau, Russell Gauley, Melvin

Steps in Movie-Making

Few people have the opportunity to see what goes on inside a Hollywood studio. This series of six articles takes the reader step by step through every phase of the production of a feature picture.

No. 1 — THE STORY

Mechanical aids in the production of entertainment have not changed since Shakespeare wrote, many years ago, "the play's the thing." Following the Bard of Avon's pronouncement, Hollywood has learned that a motion picture, regardless of the fame and popularity of its leading players, is only as good as the story which moves it.

Not so many years ago, when producers were still blinded by the novelty of the fact that pictures actually moved, they paid scant attention to story. Any creaky old skeleton would do, any literate person who could join a few simple phrases of action together, was considered competent to write for pictures.

But the old order has changed. Now the world's greatest writers are in Hollywood, men and women who are the literary giants of the day, authors of best seller novels and smash-hit plays. No price is too high to pay for a story that will interest an audience of 100,000,000 people, which now demands real entertainment rather than novelty.

Story Essentials

There are certain essentials which must be observed in selection of story material. First, plot and characterization must fit a certain star or group of players; second, the story must have novelty, originality and showmanship qualities, with a central theme that appeals to a majority audience; third, the story must be topical and timely, unless historical in character.

Occasionally a play or book creates such a furore that it is bought without consideration for cast names. Producers, too, sometimes capitalize on this in a publicity way by inviting the public to suggest an ideal cast. "Gene With the Wind" is a recent example.

Generally, however, the producer buys a story suitable to players under contract to him. This preference has developed greatly the field of "originals" especially tailored to fit established stars.

Tough for Amateurs

Amateurs are up against a stone wall when they mail in stories, all such being returned unopened. This is done to avoid possible plagiarism suits. Recognized novelists, playwrights and screen writers get quick action, although most of them deal through established and reputable agents, rather than handling their material personally.

This series will detail the steps involved in production of a feature, as typical of its march through a studio, until it emerges as a finished film ready to be shown to the public.

First Step

First, the production executive buys the story. Then he assigns it to an associate producer and he in turn either calls in a writer or two already under contract to the studio, people whom he feels are particularly fitted to handle that subject. If such are not available, he hires them from among the large group of freelance writers in Hollywood.

The writers, after several conferences with the "boss," develop the story into a continuous action outline of about forty pages. This is known as a "treatment."

Dialogue Next

When approved, this treatment is enlarged with dialogue insertions into a dialogue treatment. This latter is developed into a shooting script designating camera positions, fade-outs, fade-ins and dissolves, to denote time lapses, and various technical suggestions as to mood, tempo, characterizations and sound effects. In a play, these things are called "stage directions."

A properly written script is the literary facsimile of a finished motion picture. To write a successful script the author must know camera craft, the limitations of production and something of the technique of directors, film editors and players.

(The next article will deal with the problem of pre-production).

Pastor's Novel Advertisement Brings Crowd to Church

Dr. J. A. Stewart, pastor of the First Baptist Church of West Point, Missouri, has joined the ranks of advertising enthusiasts.

In a Saturday paper he ran this classified ad:—

"Lost or strayed: undetermined number of Baptists from services of First Baptist Church. Hope to find them Sunday morning in church."

Sunday he was greeted by the largest congregation of the year, including some who hadn't been to church in four months.

Sinking British Ships

Whenever a British-owned ship is sunk in Spanish waters, angry protests are raised by critics of the British government against the official spinelessness which permits such outrages to continue unpunished. Once when England was "mistress of the seas" she would have quickly avenged such indignities, it is said—how has her greatness fallen! It matters not how often the reminder is given that these ships, fully knowing the risks involved in the highly dangerous commerce in which they persist, are operating against the explicit warning of the authorities, for the sake of financial gain. It would be a crime to go to war over such incidents, however provoking they may be. — Hamilton Spectator

Hints for Homebodies

Specially Written for Readers of The Watchman

HOUSES IN MAINE

Maine is full of the most charming old houses. Most of them are painted white. The loveliest ones are the rambling kind where the house is connected with the barn by several small structures. Some of them are the Cape Cod type and others the Georgian or the Colonial. They were so attractive that we wished we could see inside one. We had planned on spending the night at Skowhegan but the rain came so heavy that it was almost impossible to see the road, (we were driving through the New England States during their floods). When we came to the village of Canaan, we saw a brilliantly lighted old house with a tourist sign, so we thought it might be a wise idea to stop for the night. The woman of the house told us to drive right into the barn. She went through the house and opened the barn doors and we drove in out of the rain. The barn was full of sweet-smelling hay and dried cobs of corn were hanging in bunches on the walls. We unloaded ourselves and our baggage and went into the house through a tool shed, then the wood-shed filled with wood and then into the house. The Maine pioneer who built the house over a hundred years ago never appreciated the comfort of being able to get from barn to house under cover, more than we did, that rainy night. The houses look so large, yet actually many of them are not, but all the attached buildings make them look so big. The out-buildings are kept in much better condition when attached to the house, than they are apt to be if scattered about. Anyone interested in Colonial architecture will glory in the houses in Maine.

CHILDREN LIKE NON-FICTION

Children who have not access to a good library are very much handicapped. This has just been brought home to me. When in Halifax we missed a good library very much as their Public Library is very poor. The reason is not hard to find. If my memory serves me correctly, last year they spent about $5,600.00 on their library and this included the salary of three librarians. The first trip our lad made to the Ottawa library he brought home a varied collection, some of which he thought might interest us. There was just one book of fiction, by John Buchanan. The others were School Days with Kipling, by G. C. Beresford; Strong Man of China, by Berkov; the Peepshow of the Port of London, by Linney; John D. Rockefeller, by Winkelman; and a book on Gliders. He read all of these except the book on China and he dipped into it. Children can get a liberal education if they have easy access to the right kind of library. Teachers can do good work by suggesting books. It is surprising the amount of non-fiction that children will read.

HELP CHILDREN TELL THE TRUTH

When a child tells a lie, try to find out the reason that prompts it. Very often they want to feel important, which after all is a very natural feeling — we all like to feel that we are of some account. In order to accomplish this they embroider their story a bit and build up their role until it is quite a good part. This particular trait is not confined to children. We all have friends who hate to spoil a good story with the truth. If you feel that this is the reason for some of the lies your children tell, what are you going to do about it? How about making them feel important without having to lie about it? Give them the chief role to play in some of life's little dramas. You know the way each child's interests turn. Exercise your ingenuity and give them an opportunity to shine. It does not do as much good to tell them they must not tell a lie as it does to take away the desire to lie. Lying is a habit and lessening the opportunities and the desire to lie will help them from forming the habit.

TWO PIES

Roaming around and eating all over the country, one occasionally finds foods that are a bit different, although it is surprising how much alike restaurant and hotel meals are. We have had two pies which were slight variations of the usual. The first was a fruit cream pie. It had a layer of jam spread over a cooked shell and then covered with a cream filling and then meringue. We had it with strawberry jam and again with asparagus and both of them were good. The jam was not spread very thickly and so did not make the pie too rich. The other was a cherry meringue pie. Instead of the usual top crust the cherry filling was covered with a thick meringue. It was a most delicious pie. The filling, I judged, was thickened with quick tapioca as it had a more jelly-like consistency than either corn-starch or flour would give.

BAKED OYSTERS

Cover oysters with buttered crumbs, lay in a buttered dish and bake in a hot oven of 400 degrees until the crumbs are browned. This is one of our favorite ways of cooking oysters. They resemble fried oysters in flavor but are more easily digested.

THE WOMAN'S PAGE

HOUSE AND HOME

By Mary E. Dague
Author of Sister Mary's Kitchen

Luncheon clubs are beginning their meetings again and each hostess is eager for something different to serve when her turn comes. Oyster pot pie is unusual and most delicious. You can serve it in individual baking dishes or in one large shape as you prefer. A crisp vegetable salad and a fruit dessert would complete an attractive menu.

Oyster Pot Pie (For Eight Persons)

One quart oysters, 1 cup water, 1 cup cream, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons sherry, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon white pepper.

Crust: Two cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons butter or other shortening, ½ cup milk and water combined.

Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder. Rub in shortening with pastry blender. Add liquid, cutting it in with a broad bladed knife. Roll on a lightly floured molding board into a sheet about one-half inch thick. Cut with a large cutter.

Put oysters and water into a sauce pan and bring to the boiling point. Drain. Melt butter, stir in flour and when bubbling add cream, stirring constantly. Add oyster liquid, salt, pepper and sherry and cook until smooth. Add oysters. Put into baking dish, cover with dough and bake twenty minutes in a hot oven (425 degrees F.).

Hoops and muffs, tiny waists, and rich colors tend to make fashions more feminine than they have been for years. All of which demand extra care of your hands. If you go in for heavily colored finger nails to go with the "deliberate" colors of the season you will be interested in the new polishes with the same "deliberate" waxy undertones. Fiesta, Swampfire, Tulip and Vintage are smart, rich shades. Regency is a soft mauve-pink polish that will give your nails a delicate, ethereal look.

"Lady, could you give me a quarter to get me where my family is?"

"Certainly, my good man, here's a quarter. Where is your family?"

"At de movies."

SNAKES

The average man, woman and child is born with a fear of snakes of all kinds and classes, when as a matter of fact most of them are good friends of the human race, because they destroy small rodents which eat grain and growing vegetables.

We have in America but four snakes whose bite may result in death — the rattlesnake, the moccasin, the copper head and one species of the coral snake — and few die from the bites of these serpents.

Modern serums, easily obtainable, are certain specifics for bites of lethal snakes and many recover without even using them. In California, I saw in one year a five-year-old boy and an elderly woman, each bitten by rattlers, who recovered with ordinary medication.

While going west one year, I had as a companion in the Pullman a lady who was the head of the reptilian section of a large natural museum and her specialty was rattlesnakes, which she assured me, made the most delightful and appreciative pets.

"Just let me show you one which I am taking with me to use in my talk before a women's club," she said as she selected a tin box about the size and shape of those used for movie films, and removed the top. Coiled therein was a diamond back rattler, which raised its head and permitted her to stroke its back and talk to it, making no offensive gesture toward its owner.

"Try what I have done and you, too, will feel the snake trembling in ecstasy as you pass your hand along its back," she continued, but I must be frank and say that I abruptly refused.

"Of course you know that rattlers are night feeders, and I hope for that reason that you will lock that tin box tonight, while in the sleeper," I ventured.

"Oh, yes! I'll do that," she coyly replied, and concluded her remarks by saying, "You know that all rattlers have very poor vision and for that reason often attack people whom they feel approaching, with no intent of doing them bodily harm."

"Are you married?" I questioned. "No, I'm a widow and make my living with snakes." While I dared not openly say so, I did feel that there was one lucky man in the world — entirely unconscious of his good fortune.

Tested Recipe

By Frances Lee Barton

When young folks entertain it's more fun for them when their elders "give them the floor" and let them run the party for themselves, with a tactful hint that hilarity must be kept within bounds. Arrange a buffet supper and let them make their own coffee. For such a supper, these Chocolate Butterfly Cakes are just the ticket! Festive to look at, delicious to eat — and perfectly easy to manage on a "serve yourself" occasion.

Chocolate Butterfly Cakes

6 tablespoons sifted cake flour; ½ teaspoon double-acting baking powder; ¼ teaspoon salt; ¼ cup sifted sugar; 4 egg yolks, stiffly beaten; 4 egg yolks beaten until thick and lemon-colored; 1 teaspoon vanilla; 2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted; ¼ cup cream, whipped.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Fold sugar gradually into egg whites. Fold in egg yolks and vanilla. Fold in flour gradually. Then beat in chocolate, gently but thoroughly. Turn into greased large cup-cake pans filling them ¾ full. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 25 minutes, or until done. Remove cone-shaped piece from centre of each cake and fill hollows with whipped cream, sweetened and flavored with vanilla. Cut off points from removed pieces. Cut each cap in half and press halves into tops of cakes, bringing rounded edges together at base to represent wings. Or place caps, rounded side down, on tops of cakes to make desert cakes. . . Makes 16 to 20 cup cakes.

Grapes were probably the first fruit cultivated by man.

Local Exhibits Take Honors at Toronto Winter Fair

J. H. BLACK AND G. ARNOLD AMONG WINNERS

At the Winter Fair in Toronto, exhibits from this locality are again ranking high.

J. H. Black, of Lachute, has beaten the former three-year Royal champion, Le Moins Point Enterprise, owned by W. C. Pittfield, of Sennerville, Que., with his imported Auenbrain Yogi. He was also victor over Bois de la Roche Golden Glory, the National Dairy Show champion of a few weeks ago, owned by Gilbert MacMillan of Huntingdon.

To do this he led the class of junior yearling bulls and beat the National Dairy Show junior champion.

Besides this, Mr. Black won in the senior yearling heifer class, with his recently imported heifer, Lessnessock Sunshine. Again, in the dry cow class he was first with his Ardrossdale Lady Jane the Fourth, Imp.

Male and dry female cattle classes were judged yesterday, while mixing classes and groups are being taken up today.

Much credit is due to Mr. Black for having selected and imported these fine animals when in Scotland last spring.

In the horse class, the junior championship and reserve grand award went to Caporal Devlad, exhibited by Gilbert E. Arnold, of Grenville. His section was Belgian stallions foaled in 1936.

Meeting of Lions Club

At the Lions Club meeting held Tuesday evening in Desjardins Hotel guest speaker was Mr. Fernand Legault, who gave a brief impression of his sojourn in Europe. Mr. Legault completed his law studies in France, and his talk dealt mostly with that country. Paris, he stated, was no criterion of the national atmosphere and psychology, and the French people should not be judged solely on one's impression of the capital city. Mr. Legault also referred to his visits in England, Holland and Germany completing an interesting personal narrative which was much enjoyed by his listeners.

First Sleeper Was Big Sensation, Century Ago

The first railroad sleeping car in history was put into service 100 years ago this month and created a sensation among the travelling public. A description of this first sleeper, which operated between Baltimore and Philadelphia, has just been received from the American Railroads Association by W. W. Swinden, of the Canadian National Railways. This car had accommodations for 24 persons. On the outside it looked like the other cars. Its interior plan was copied from the sleeping arrangements in canal packets, a construction that was followed for several years. The berths, on one side of the aisle only, were in three tiers; the lower made up from the seats, as now, the middle and top tiers, really sleeping shelves, consisting of flat boards, lying flat against the car side in daytime, lowered into horizontal position and supported by chains or iron posts at night. Fifty or seventy-five cents, according to the length of the journey, was the berth price.

According to the Baltimore Chronicle, which announced the sleeping car's inauguration, the car was "One of the completest things of the kind we have ever seen. Night travelling on a railroad is now made as comfortable as that by day and is relieved of all irksomeness." The newspaper concluded its glowing tribute to contemporary modernity in railroad travel with the prophetic remark: "Nothing now seems to be wanting to make railroad travelling perfect and complete in every convenience, except the introduction of dining cars, and these, we are sure, will soon be introduced."

SIXTY-FIRST YEAR

LACHUTE, QUE. NOVEMBER 24, 1938.

C. Tremblay Again Heads Textile Manuf'rs Group

SIGNAL HONOR TO SECRETARY OF LACHUTE MILLS FIRM; SECOND YEAR AS PRESIDENT OF CANADIAN WOOLLEN AND KNIT GOODS MANUFACTURERS ASSN.

At the closing sessions of the 19th annual convention of the Canadian Woollen and Knit Goods Manufacturers' Association, last Thursday in the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, Mr. Clement Tremblay, secretary of the firm of Ayers Limited, was re-elected as president of the Association. This is Mr. Tremblay's second term in the presidency, and in according him the honor of re-election, the Association passed a vote of appreciation for the time and personal effort he had given in fulfillment of his presidential tasks.

REVIEWS WOOLLEN MARKET AND REACTIONS IN EMPLOYMENT

Jobs for workers constituted the most important problem in Canada, and more new jobs had been opened up for Canadian workers in recent years in the textile industry even than in the mining industry — remarked Mr. Tremblay. Jobs were important, he said, because 15% of those who want work in Canada have no jobs. Unemployment affected the lives of parents, boys and girls leaving school, and everybody in Canada, including that great body of Canadians, the taxpayers. "Your particular branch of the textile industry, the Woollen and Knit Goods mills," he said, "played a substantial part in maintaining and increasing employment — the effect of which was felt in 147 villages, towns and cities across Canada, for there is no other manufacturing industry so widespread in location."

In seven years, up to 1937, Mr. Tremblay pointed out, the workers with jobs in the Primary Textiles Industry had increased from 50,263 to 67,000 and ten out of every hundred people with work in manufacturing factories were employed in the primary textile mills; and the woollen and knit goods section of this industry had 32,519 workers with jobs, which was 27% more workers than in 1930. He felt that this industry had done a notable service for the country because unemployment was a social as well as an economic problem, as it resulted in a deterioration of the employability of Canadians. All other manufacturing industries had only added 2% to their pay rolls in the same period of time.

In the current year, he said, the effect in Canada of the violent recession of business in the United States and the continued import of textiles made by workers in other countries, had forced a serious downward trend in the numbers employed in textile mills, until in August of this year it was back to where it was four years ago. By the first of November the figures showed an increase from the low of about 6% and he hoped the downward trend had been checked. He said: "During 1938, while textile workers in Canada were being let go, or were being put on short time, there was a very heavy sale in Canada of textile goods made by workers in other countries. In the first six months of 1938, the amount of manufactured textiles made by workers abroad and sold in Canada amounted to the very large sum of $31,097,666." And the speaker said that about 21,000 workers in other countries were given full time jobs in producing this volume of imported goods.

"Unfortunately there is nobody in Canada who has not, through their own experience or acquaintance, witnessed the misery caused by unemployment," he said, and showed that as the Canadian textile industry secured a greater proportion of the domestic market for its products, it provided new jobs for Canadian workers at a sharply accelerated rate while in the recent slump which originated in the United States, workers had to be let go or put on short time while a larger proportion of textiles made in other countries found markets in Canada.

Interest in County Museum Found Gratifying

SOCY. PRESIDENT APPEALS FOR CONTRIBUTIONS TO PERMANENT COLLECTION

Editor, Lachute Watchman.

Dear Sir:

Writing on behalf of the Historical Society of Argenteuil County, I wish to express our deep appreciation of the co-operation given us by your journal in connection with the recent opening of the Society's Annual Loan Exhibit in the re-constructed Carillon Barracks. We feel that the immense success that has attended this undertaking is in large part due to the wholehearted support given our organization by your newspaper, which has carried out all parts of this district some realization of the scope of the work and the ideals of the Society in its efforts to establish an adequate museum of local history.

The scenic beauty of the Barracks site, overlooking, as it does, the Ottawa River at one of its most picturesque points, and the remarkable way in which this historic building, kindly donated for the purpose by Mr. Felix Hungerbühler, has lent itself to adaptation as an educational historical museum, has deeply impressed all who have visited it since its reconstruction.

We would like also to take this opportunity of expressing the deep obligation we feel to the architect, Prof. P. E. Nobbs, for his skilful restoration of the fine architecture and noble proportions of the original structure, the details of which have been carried out with the genius of a great artist.

Credit is due also to the contractor, Mr. C. Fraser Watson, of Cushing, Que., who has carried out the plans

Geo. Héon, M.P., Speaker at Renaissance Club, Quebec City

French-Canadians will "never consent to amendment of the British North America Act unless they are given signed assurance, in legal form, that their rights will be safeguarded," Georges Héon, M.P. for Argenteuil, stated in an address at the Renaissance Club in Quebec City last week.

"The French-Canadian people," said Mr. Héon, "are asking no more than the rights accorded them under the terms of Confederation. If we are given what is our due under the pact, and if the present-day politicians will show the same generosity as those who drew up the act of Confederation, there need be no anxiety as to the future of Canada."

75 Candidates Initiated Into K. C. Order

Seventy-five candidates were initiated into the Knights of Columbus here on Sunday during an all-day function which drew a mass attendance.

A church parade, headed by the Lachute Brass Band, was held in the morning from the K. of C. Hall to St. Julien Church, where Mass was celebrated for the candidates at 9 o'clock. This ceremony was attended by local members of the Fourth Degree.

In the afternoon and evening at the Auditorium, about 400 members of the Order were present at the ceremonies. Among guest visitors were Messrs. E. Grothé, Vice-Supreme Master of the Order; A. Chevalier, Master of the Fourth Degree, Montreal Assembly; A. L. Michaud, Grand Knight, St. Jerome; G. Polinsky, Grand Knight, Hawkesbury; A. Daoust, Grand Knight, Buckingham; Dr. Carver, District Deputy, Montreal Council; Geo. H. Héon, M.P., Legal Adviser of Lachute Council; Geo. E. Dansereau, M.P.P.; Rev. E. Labelle and Rev. Savage, of St. Anastasie; Rev. E. Cloutier, of St. Julien, and Rev. V. Bouchard, of Brownsburg.

Officers conferring the different degrees were Dr. E. Lalonde, Grand Knight of the local Council; Justice A. Monet, Montreal, and F. Monet, District Deputy, also of Montreal. These officers were ably assisted by members of Lachute Council and of the St. John's Council.

Col. Girouard, director of Provincial Traffic Police, courteously delegated the local police officers to assist with the procession.

to a successful completion in remarkably short time.

We feel sure that all observers must realize that this beautiful building is destined to become a centre of attraction and interest, the educational value of which will be felt throughout the entire Ottawa Valley.

While the executive of the Society appreciate the generosity of those who so kindly loaned objects of interest for display at the recent Exhibit, we feel the time has come when an appeal must be made to all interested, for contributions to the permanent collection, and also for the furnishing of the various period-rooms which the building contains.

Hoping that you can give the necessary space for this grateful acknowledgment of the assistance we have had from so many quarters in

Winter Highway Will Be Maintained, St. Eustache to St. Hermas

An additional 40 miles of highway, making a total of 525 miles, will be kept open with Government equipment in the Montreal district this winter. Included in this addition is a stretch of 18 miles from St. Eustache to St. Hermas on Route 8.

It is stated that, apart from Government maintenance, the Duplessis administration will probably be prepared to grant the usual flat subsidy of $50 a mile where certain municipalities undertake to keep additional stretches of highway open.

Preparations for Curling At Seigniory Club

Two new sheets of artificial ice, increasing the rink capacity to four sheets, will be ready for curlers at the Seigniory Club on December 10-11, for the season's opening bonspiel. A new warming house with wide windows facing the ends of the four sheets is now under construction in the Seigniory rink and will be ready for the first 'spiel. These additions will make the rink as well equipped for curlers and as comfortable for spectators as any other in eastern Canada, and a most active season is anticipated. The new sheets are set at right angles to the present ice, running along the back of the five-sided log building which houses the rink.

"The flying rumor gathered as it rolled and all who told it added something new, and all who heard it made enlargement, too; in every ear it spread, on every tongue it grew."

First Baby Service-Truck in Lachute

A big man with small truck . . . Our photograph shows the first Bantam service-truck to be used by a local business firm. The truck is the property of R. McArthur & Son, Plumbers, of Lachute. Mr. Robt. McArthur is seen in the picture standing beside this new acquisition, which displays a 1939 license plate with the number F-7. The Bantam delivery weighs 1,250 pounds, and travels 40 to 50 miles on a gallon of gas. The crank-case holds one quart of oil.

Effective Attack on World Trade Restrictions

OVER A THIRD OF INTERNATIONAL COMMERCE IS AFFECTED BY PACT

Ottawa, Nov. 22nd. — The signing of the new trade treaties at Washington by Canada, United Kingdom and the United States probably marks a new epoch in the economic relations of the English speaking democracies. The negotiations which have covered the greater part of a year have been intricate and complex, but hope is felt that the two treaties signed last Thursday will not only greatly extend and facilitate trade between Canada and the United States, and the United States and Great Britain, but that they will prove a major and effective attack on trade restrictions throughout the world. The treaties themselves directly affect over one-third of the international commerce of the world.

Among the most important concessions granted to Canadian exporters in the United States are those relating to live cattle, fisheries and lumber. In all, 202 items in the United States tariffs are affected, and taking 1937 sales to the United States as a basis, concessions granted to Canada cover 83 per cent of our exports to that country. The President of the United States, by the United States Trade Agreement, has the power to reduce tariff rates up to fifty per cent, and concessions granted to Canadian produce range from the percentage downward. Livestock quotas were increased under some categories and other rates of duty were lowered. A very considerable reduction was given to tariff rates on a wide variety of fish entering the United States. In some cases the Municipal Control Plan Is Deadlocked at Morin Hts.

TOWN COUNCIL AND MUNICIPAL ASSOCIATION CONFER ON LIQUOR SALE; COMMUNITY ENTERPRISE SUCCESSFUL ELSEWHERE, BUT NO AGREEMENT REACHED

In Morin Heights on Saturday evening, a meeting of the Council was held to debate the advisability of the operation, under municipal control and for municipal gain, of an establishment for the sale of alcoholic beverages. The sponsors of this idea, the local Municipal Association, had requested this meeting be held that they might arrive at a basis for joint action on the subject.

The discussion which ensued in-involved the feasibility of raising money for the project, and the possibility of its proving profitable.

Council was of the opinion that a committee should be formed to make a plan and present it for joint consideration. The Association saw in this procedure danger of delay and duplication of effort. They therefore asked that whatever information was available be presented at this meeting, and a tentative decision made for the guidance of a committee, should one be formed.

When it had been established that the project was feasible and had been in operation successfully elsewhere, the matter of the financial expenditures was discussed. The Association's position made it impossible to afford the security necessary to guarantee repayment of a loan; while they were so anxious for the plan to proceed that they would endeavor to obtain the money, the Council would nevertheless have to undertake the guarantees. In this connection it was considered out of the question to expect one or more individuals to put up the money, take the risk involved, call it a municipal enterprise and hand out the revenue to the citizens for the improvement of the municipality.

The question of financial loss, which seemed to worry some councillors, was answered by a lady member of the Association executive, with the reminder that there was a moral side to it and inactivity would but encourage the development of the private, uncontrollable element, with attendant risks which would far outweigh any possible financial loss. In her opinion, should municipal control be discarded, the municipality would lose a precious opportunity to safeguard itself against the abuses so common in private ownership and which made the issuance of a license so objectionable in most places.

Two members of the council, still grieved over the result of the referendum were not inclined to deal with the situation at all. One, however, was fair enough to promise his support to the scheme as he felt it the lesser of two evils; the other would have no participation in it. The other members were opposed to the idea on the grounds of its speculative element or the difficulty of its administration.

The Association regretted the failure of a scheme upon which they banked heavily to settle the ills of the municipality in this connection. However, they were grateful to the council for this frank expression of its will, and for this opportunity for an interchange of views.

Result of Poppy Campaign in Brownsburg

Brownsburg —

The net profits from the sale of wreaths and poppies, while not being quite as high as in 1937, were, nevertheless, entirely satisfactory. Considering that only Brownsburg itself was canvassed, it is believed that on a per capita basis the village will rank very high on its sales. The gross receipts amounted to $117.94 against expenses of $46.37, leaving a balance of $71.57 to be transferred to the special Trust Funds which are used to relieve distress among ex-service men or their dependents. These funds are administered by citizens of high standing in the community, who are not members of Brownsburg No. 71 Branch of the Canadian Legion.

Following is a statement of 1938 poppy campaign receipts:

Receipts
Small poppy, windshield poppy and boutonniere sales	$79.44
Donation by the Municipal Council of Brownsburg	6.00
Sale of wreaths	32.50
	$117.94
Expenditures
750 Small Poppies	$ 9.00
10 Boutonnieres	.30
100 Large Windshield Poppies	11.00
7 Wreaths	25.00
Cartage	.20
Telephone Toll	.37
	$46.37

The Brownsburg Branch extends its sincere thanks to all those who assisted in making the campaign an unqualified success.

Young People's Clubs Meet at Hawkesbury

The Young People's Club of Trinity Church, Hawkesbury, were hosts at a rally held in the Hawkesbury town hall Friday evening. Present were members of Young People's Clubs from Calumet, Grenville, St. Amédée, Arundel and Lachute.

Entertainment for the evening took the form of a program contest, each club staging its separate program. The contest was won by the Lachute club, which put on a quiz contest.

W. G. Garrett acted as master of ceremonies and short addresses were given by Rev. Canon W. P. Garrett and by E. Moon, president of the Hawkesbury club.

Following the program, refreshments were served and dancing was enjoyed.

Trucks and Cars Collide; Big Damage, No Injuries

HEAVY TRUCK TURNED OVER

Late last Thursday afternoon a new Ford touring car and a six-wheeled transport truck collided on a curve at the school-house near Black and White Pavillion, east of town.

The vehicles met unexpectedly at the curve in the highway. J. T. Quinlan, of Montreal, who was driving toward Lachute, jammed on the brakes and his auto swerved into the path of the truck. The latter — occupied by the owner and the driver, Edmond Dupuis and Albert Carmel respectively, of Montreal — was loaded with fuel wood. The truck crashed into the car, spinning it around twice, and plunged into the ditch, breaking a telephone pole and landing with its six wheels uppermost.

A stick of wood crashed through the windshield of the truck, but both men managed to extricate themselves from the cab uninjured.

COLLISION ON ROUTE 31

On Saturday, shortly after noon, a car driven by Mrs. Charlotte Fraser, of Hawkesbury, met a truck on a "hump" in the highway near Pine Hill. The truck, owned and operated by Roland Belair, Lachute, was loaded with gravel. The driver, seeing the car swing over the hill, swerved into the ditch to avoid a direct collision, but the truck tore the side of the passenger car. Proceeding over a stone-pile at the side of the road, Belair's vehicle was considerably damaged.

Mrs. Fraser, with three passengers, was going to attend a funeral at Lost River. Neither the motorists nor the truck driver were injured.

Traffic Officer H. Jones, of Lachute, investigated the accidents.

A Ringing Challenge

An Impression Brought from the Oxford Group Assembly at Kingston, Ontario

The city of Kingston, Ontario, is being stormed this week by an aggregation of well intentioned men and women from all parts of Canada, of all ages, who are deeply interested in the Moral Re-armament movement which is the ideal of the Oxford Group. Any who have had the joy of sitting in at their meetings must be convinced of the sincerity that actuates these men and women who have caught the vision of what it means to maintain the simple home truths of honesty, purity, unselfishness and love.

Their mission has no new creeds to teach; no new sect to establish. It is held together only by the spiritual bond of self-surrender to Christ and a common determination to win the world to His allegiance. Seeking God's guidance by "the still small voice" in the quiet hour, is the true motive force of the changed life.

The editor was privileged to attend their meetings last Sunday at Kingston. We were stirred by hearing representatives of the Group who had just returned from Europe, and we take this opportunity of passing along to our readers the message of J. F. Bentley, which is a ringing challenge to enlist in the cause of bringing the people back to God.

RESPIRE FOR MORAL RE-ARMAMENT

Sooner or later, at the present rate, we must again face the cost of war. Why not immediately the cost of a preventive war against the forces of destruction? Canada, along with the rest of the world, has been given a respite. The immediate crisis is a thing of the past. This respite is ours to use, not to indulge in. What program is there for those whose heroism and self-sacrifice would have been tested to the utmost had we not been given the respite? How can they play their part now? Everyone can enlist in a program of Moral Re-armament on a nation-wide scale. Statesman, editor, teacher, farmer, housewife, student, employer, employee and unemployed, all have a part. A program in which there can be an end to national and personal confusion.

What does Moral Re-armament mean? It is more than a phrase — it is an experience. It must begin first with ourselves, not with the other person. This will take us to the root of our problem, whether in government, agriculture, employer and employee, or in any phase of our national life. It means a new yardstick of morals for everyone — an experiment with the principles of Christ in all parts of life. It means dictatorship of the Spirit of God. It means we are consistently responsible servants to each other. In this way new strength can come to the country amid the crisis of the present day and provide hope and security for all. As a national necessity, Moral Re-armament will enlist and inspire the youth of Canada with true patriotism in the service of the nation. This program will so set on foot the spiritual mobilization of our people that the germs of national decay are killed and reservoirs of spiritual power released. There is already evidence on a sufficiently wide scale to show that this program is practical and effective everywhere.

Moral Re-armament calls every Canadian to learn how to fulfill his elementary responsibility of citizenship. It calls every man and woman to face in their own lives the root causes of crisis — selfishness and fear. These undermine the strongest pacts but everyone can make a pact with God. Everyone can find God's plan. The farmer listens and solves the problem of weed control. The industrialist listens and finds the answer to disputes. The family listens and the home becomes again the strength of the nation's life.

Canada is calling for leadership and action. But who will lead? Who will act? Who else is fitted but those guided by God? We must accept individual responsibility to sacrifice for peace those things that would be demanded of us in time of war. Unless we love Canada, her people, and

Reinstate Chief of Police at Hawkesbury

HAD BEEN SUSPENDED ON REPORT OF MAYOR

Behind closed doors, the Hawkesbury town council, by a vote of 5 to 3, decided to re-instate Chief of Police Joseph Beaulne, who was suspended last week on a report by Mayor John B. Woods that he was seen playing pool in a pool room while on duty. Some members of council were in favor of a further two weeks suspension, but lost out.

her heritage more than ourselves, we shall never find the love for other countries that will bind as one the nations of the world. Yet, to love Canada is to fear for her, for she has slowed down to a stopping point and we are confused — adrift on the tide of events, not knowing what we want or where we are going. In this confusion, it has become the fashion to sneer at things which used to stir the blood. We say cynically that we see through it all — see the greed, exploitation and self-interest, but we completely miss the endurance, vision, responsibility and genius for government, which are our true heritage from God. The word "patriot" to many of us has lost its meaning. We must restore it. A patriot is a man who loves his country so dearly that he will give his life to restore her life, individual by individual, until reborn citizens unite to recreate their nation. Canada, awakened to her real peril and unified through sacrifice, can become again a great constructive force in Empire and world affairs.

Truck Driver Hits Sixtieth Car of Freight Train

SETS NEW RECORD BUT NO ACHIEVEMENT

Automobiles frequently strike locomotives at grade crossings, sometimes they hit behind the locomotive, but a truck driver in Edson, Alberta, has established a record by colliding with the sixtieth car of a freight train on the Canadian National Railways as it was proceeding over the highway crossing west of Edson. The sixtieth car in that particular train was approximately 2,800 feet behind the locomotive.

Coburg, Ont., was the scene of an accident when a freight train, traveling slowly over a street crossing, was struck at its 22nd car by the driver of a coach, who stated he was "unable to see the train because of foggy weather."

The driver who struck the sixtieth car of a freight train clearly established a record, but these and other performances are not relished by railwaymen, who believe that thoughtless drivers add considerably to the hazards of railway operation.

Distortion by Nationalism

The nonchalant manner in which French-Canadian officialdom annihilates English place-names, regardless of historic origin, and translates them into French — is deplored even by a French newspaper, Le Canadien, of Thetford Mines.

Of all Quebec communities, perhaps none takes such pride in its name as Argenteuil's picturesque old St. Andrews, which was righteously indignant when the Department of Roads some time ago replaced that name on its highway signs with "St-André," a name totally unfamiliar to any who know the place, its people or its traditions.

We reproduce the opinion of Le Canadien in the hope that, coming from a journal of Quebec's "official majority," the authorities may pay slightly more heed in future to the cherished associations of the English-speaking minority.

"Since the beginning of its existence," says Le Canadien, "our locality has always had the name of Thetford Mines. Often enough in outside newspapers we see it as 'Thetford-les-Mines.' Why this substitution? Is it because Thetford Mines is an English word that it is thought necessary to change it? Quebec, Megantic, Kenogami, are all savage names and a number of other names of parishes or cities are of English origin and we never think of discarding them. It should be the same with Thetford Mines."

"We should respect the memory of the founders, and not make the name of a city the subject of interminable discussions. As in the past, our city will remain Thetford Mines for all who do not practice nationalism to excess, such as the Pope condemned recently."

Less Horn-Blowing Shows More Efficient Driving

Why can't we follow Mussolini's example in barring horn-blowing? — asks Prof. H. E. Reilly, of McGill, in a recent radio talk on noise abatement. (Mr. Reilly continues —) It seems that on the afternoon of Dec. 14, 1934, Mussolini lost his temper. On that momentous day he was deep in matters of state. Through his open windows poured the inevitable uproar of Italian street-horns barking resentfully or blaring in full, rich triumph at every crisis. The uproar got II Duce. He rang a bell. "There shall be no more automobile horns blown in Rome," he declared.

Later he explained that he hadn't intended to be taken quite seriously. He meant only that he would like a little less noise. But before he could indulge in second thought, the edict was in force.

For the first week, a policeman would stop a tooting driver and explain "the silent circulation of automobiles." Thereafter the law was enforced. Citizens began to enjoy a silence they never had believed possible. Tourists were fined $2.50 per toot, Italians more, depending on the toot's volume. Some offenders lost their licenses for a month.

A friend states that he was in Rome for two weeks and never heard a single honk. Impulsive drivers, who can't trust themselves, have switches on their horns and when in Rome turn off the current. The improvement is incredible. Moreover, in all Italian cities now, night tooting is forbidden. In most, a tiny honk is permitted in an emergency. Taxis are allowed only bulb horns which squeak a faint pleading note.

For three years Italy watched the experiment. To make the cities quiet was fine, but not if accident rates went up. Miraculously, they went down. Today, Italy is one of the few countries where accidents are decreasing. From 1935 to 1936 Italy reduced accidents in which persons were killed or injured from 39,997 to 34,905 — slightly over a 5,000 decrease. Rome followed the same marked trend in those years — 5,259 to 4,389.

Not perfect, no, but moving in the right direction, while figures on this continent mount up yearly. After a thorough investigation, it is stated officially that "silent circulation" is in Italy to stay, that it has cut the accident rate.

Nowhere is horn blowing more completely futile than in city driving. A count of horn toots on a Montreal street showed that 95 per cent of the blasts in some cases were wholly unnecessary. They were simply contemptuous and ill-mannered shouts at other persons to get out of the way. Perhaps, as has been suggested, this irresponsible and dangerous practice can be checked by educational campaigns. Perhaps. But taking away the horn buttons in cities would have a lot of educational effect.

In Few Words

The following is extracted from an American editorial. We pass it on for your edification (edification: the building up or improvement of the mind — New Universal Dictionary) . . .

"As we understand it, the position of the King of England and Scotland and Emperor of Britain is that of a symbol rather than a ruler."

"He is a figurehead, but a rather gorgeous figurehead. He symbolizes the greatest democracy in the world, a nation which in many respects is much more democratic than our own. The nearest thing we have in America to the King is the figurative cartoon of Uncle Sam, who stands for the American spirit as the King does for the spirit of Britain."

"There has been some silly talk from Washington about the proper etiquette to be observed by the President and his wife when the King and Queen visit them. Should Mrs. Roosevelt curtsy to the Queen? That sounds like tommyrot. If there is any question of equality, the balance is in the favor of the President and his wife, since the President is a more powerful ruler. But this is not a political visit."

"The royal visit to Washington is a visit by one gentleman and his wife to another gentleman and his wife, and the proper etiquette is what is proper when one gentleman calls at another gentleman's house."

"To Heal Humanity's Sore Heart"

'Tis writ on earth, on leaf and flower:
Love hath one race, one realm, one power.
Dear God! how great, how good Thou art
To heal humanity's sore heart;
To probe the wound, then pour the balm —
A life perfected, strong and calm.
The dark domain of pain and sin
Surrenders — Love doth enter in,
And peace is won, and lost is vice:
Right reigns, and blood was not its price.

Steps in Movie-Making

Few people have the opportunity to see what goes on inside a Hollywood studio. This series of six articles takes the reader step by step through every phase of the production of a feature picture.

No. 2 — PRE-PRODUCTION

Completion of the script in its final shooting form starts the wheels humming in earnest at a studio with the flurry of pre-production. Copies of the script are sent to all departments, which operate independently, but whose work, when completed, fits perfectly and without hitch into the jig-saw pattern of production.

Architects and artists in the art department use the script as a blue print to design settings. They carefully list each change of scene, make their drawings and, when they are approved, turn them over to the drafting department for scale drawings and blueprints. The carpenters go to work from the blueprints and make the sets for the property department to dress later with furniture, rugs, pictures and story accessories.

Many Wheels Turn

The property department goes over the script and estimates the number of items it needs and prepares to gather them. The wardrobe department sets to work to produce the necessary gowns, while the men's wardrobe gets together costumes needed by the male players.

The casting office gets busy with the script to line up players for the minor roles. The studio executive, associate producer and director, by this time, will have settled upon the stars and principals. This entails considerable work, including numerous interviews and search for just the right people who are available.

Director Busy

Meanwhile, the director is selecting his staff of assistants, cameramen and sound engineers. The business department then begins checking with the various departments, speeding them up to a common deadline and obtaining from them estimated costs of operation.

The budget already has been set by the studio production head and the associate producer, and the director has no worries on that score. Usually when everything is ready and estimates are made, it is found necessary to pare down. Scenes are eliminated, sometimes parts are dropped out of a script, especially when the characters do not advance the action of the story.

Amazing Smoothness

The amazing thing about this phase of production is that it goes smoothly, no matter how difficult the story or how complex the production structure.

Each department functions intelligently, doing its work on time and with the skill that comes from long experience.

The stage is set for the day when actual filming begins, when all departments report "work done and approved." Like leashed animals, the various studio agencies wait the chance to spring into action.

(The next article will discuss the problem of the director).

SCHOOLBOY HOWLERS

"An artery is a place where paintings are kept."

"Chink is an expression signifying Chinese money."

"Climate lasts all the time, and weather only a few days."

"Hypothesis is what you require to develop snapshots."

"The laity is a collective name for a lot of hens."

A small boy was asked to write what he had been taught about the human body. This was the result:

"Our body is divided into three parts, the brainum, the borax and the abominable cavity."

"The brainum contains the brain, if any."

"The borax contains the lungs, liver, lights and heart."

"The abominable cavity contains the bowels, of which there are five, a, e, i, o and u."

reduction was the full fifty per cent allowed under American laws. The lowered rates affect cod, haddock, mackerel, herring, and various kinds of fresh water fish. In the case of exports of lumber and shingles, quotas now in force were either increased or abolished and the regulation that Canadian timber must be marked to show country of origin was cancelled.

Reduced rates were given in the American tariff on a number of agricultural products, including grains, hog products, horses, hay. On silver fox furs duties were reduced by 25 per cent. Reductions were made in duty on a number of metals and non-metallic minerals, on acetic acid and a number of miscellaneous manufactured goods.

Concessions granted by Canada to United States products affect 447 items in the Canadian tariff. Of these 283 items have been reduced in rate while 146 represent the binding of rates that have been effective under the 1935 agreement. These concessions, again taking the 1937 trade figures as a basis, represent 58 per cent of all imports from the United States. Many of the concessions given the United States have been made possible through a prior understanding and agreement with the governments of the United Kingdom and the government of South Africa. Similarly, Canada agreed to certain cutting of imperial preferences in the British market to allow the United Kingdom to make tariff reductions to American exporters.

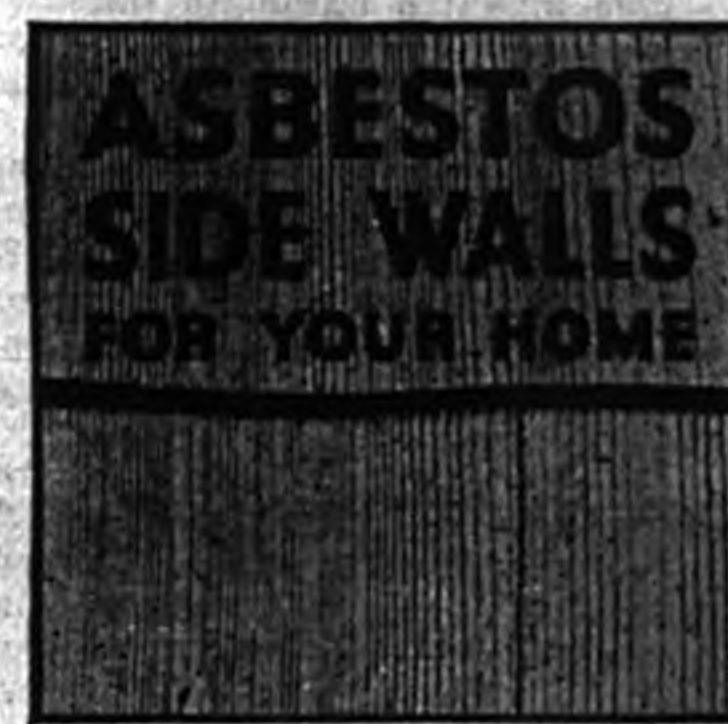

In the case of agricultural and fishery products, Canada's new duties practically parallel duties to be charged similar products from Canada entering the United States. Rates on tobacco and spirituous liquors have been reduced. Tariffs have been lowered on chemicals, drugs and paints, on earthenware and glassware, on various metals, on certain kinds of machinery, including diesel engines, on textile products and on leather and manufactures of leather.

Canada has abolished the three per cent special excise tax levied on the duty-paid value of imports. The removal of this charge on imports from the United States will mean a serious loss of revenue to the Dominion exchequer, which will have to be made up in some other way. It is stated, however, that the removal of the tax will "help to restore the competitive position of many Canadian producers who have had to pay this tax on their imports of raw materials and semi-manufactured goods while meeting the competition of goods imported free of this tax under the British preferential tariff." The effect of the tariff changes on Dominion revenues can be seen only when the treaties are in operation. Much will depend on the extent to which lowered tariff rates may stimulate trade in various articles.

Canada has given up the six cents a bushel preference on wheat in the markets of the United Kingdom. Great Britain has also agreed in its treaty with the United States to make a seasonal reduction on apples imported from the United States from 4 shillings and 6 pence to 3 shillings per cwt. Canadian apples continue to be free of duty in the British market. Lumber reduction on exports from Canada to the United States have also been arranged partially at least on a basis of compensation for reductions on certain classes of lumber from the United States imported into the United Kingdom. Canada's bacon quota on the British market is not affected but United States hams are stabilized on the free list. Canada's preference on automobile exports to the United Kingdom is not disturbed. There is a reduction, however, in the preference on automobile exports to certain colonies such as Ceylon and Hong Kong. There has been a reduction in the margin of preference on some canned goods to the United Kingdom market.

The principles kept in mind during the intricate negotiations of the two treaties have been the extent to which the exporting country is the main or potentially the main source of supply of commodities affected, the interests of businesses affected, the broad interest of consumers, and the retention subject to defined alterations of the British preferential agreements. The two inter-related agreements are a great experiment in dredging the channels of trade between the great English speaking democracies. "The friendly association of the great English speaking nations" has been heralded as raising the hope that a "new vitality has been given to the basic principles of a civilized world order."

The Hudson Bay Route

This year saw three cargoes of grain shipped out by way of Churchill, totalling about a million bushels.

The cost to the people of Canada for these shipments was more than a dollar and a half a bushel as can be readily figured by taking the interest at three per cent on the investment in the Hudson Bay route of over $63,000,000, without even figuring operating costs and depreciation or maintenance.

It is just one of the loads piled on Canada by politicians. If there is any argument needed against building the St. Lawrence Seaway route, it is only necessary to look at the results achieved by the construction of the Hudson Bay route.

NO WARNING

Jones was sitting with his wife behind a palm on a hotel veranda late one night when a young man and girl came and sat down on a bench near them. The young man began to tell the girl how pretty and lovable he thought she was.

Hidden behind the palm, Mrs. Jones whispered to her husband.

"Oh, John, he doesn't know we're here, and he's going to propose. Whistle to warn him."

"What for?" said Jones. "Nobody whistled to warn me."

Funeral of Harland McEwan, Late Resident of Rivière Rouge

St. Andrews E. — The death of Mr. Harland McEwan at the early age of 47 years, leaves a sad gap in the home and neighborhood circles. He was the only son of the late Wm. H. McEwan and Mrs. McEwan, of Rivière Rouge.

Besides his mother, he is survived by his widow, formerly Miss Sadie Wilson, of Shawville, Que., who was well known and esteemed here before her marriage as she was principal of the school for several years; also three children — Elaine, 6; Wilson, 4; and Joyce, 2 years of age. Also next of kin are two sisters — Mrs. D. H. Ross, of Winnipeg, and Mrs. Hughes, of Ottawa. Another sister, Miss Hattie McEwan, passed away last December.

The funeral service was held at 2 p.m., on November 16th, at the Presbyterian Church, conducted by Dr. R. L. Ballantyne and R. Dean Booy. The final hymn and benediction were given by Rev. Robt. Millar, a former minister of this church.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Ross McAdam, George and Ernest Rodger, Ewan Albright, Alan, McOuat and Ernest McOuat. The beautiful flowers and the large cortege of friends and neighbors, which accompanied the remains to the family burial plot attested the high regard in which he was held, and the deep sympathy for his family.

Late Miss G. I. Morrison Is Deeply Mourned

Many friends and relatives in this community were deeply shocked to learn of the death of Miss Grace Morrison, which occurred last Friday after an illness of three weeks at the Ross Memorial Pavilion of the Royal Victoria Hospital.

Miss Morrison, who was 33 years of age, was the elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Morrison. She was born in Lachute, and was a graduate of the local High School, and of Macdonald College School for Teachers. For the past eight years she had been a teacher in the Woodland School, Verdun, and had made her home in Montreal, where her bright and cheerful personality won for her a host of friends.

She is survived by her parents, a sister, Kathleen, and a brother, Edward, for whom the deepest sympathy is felt.

A brief funeral service was held at 10 o'clock Sunday morning at the Wm. Wray Chapel, University Street, prior to departure for Lachute, where the funeral was held in St. Simeon's Church. At the service in Montreal, the clergymen officiating were Rev. W. J. H. Lummis, Rev. J. A. Lackey and Rev. H. M. Shore.

In Lachute, the service was conducted by Rev. C. W. P. Baugh, of Lakefield, assisted by Rev. J. A. Lackey and Mr. Horace Baugh. Both services were attended by a large number of sorrowing friends.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Nat and Melvin Boyd, Leonard Rathwell, Dr. Wm. Morrison, Alfred and Stanley Morrison, all cousins of the deceased. Burial took place in Lachute Cemetery.

The profusion of flowers were silent testimony to the sorrow felt in her passing.

Scouts Appeal for Support, Annual Good Turn

CHRISTMAS TOYS WILL BE RENOVATED FOR NEEDY CHILDREN

While conditions have undoubtedly improved, there are still thousands of small children in Canadian homes who would be denied a visit from Santa Claus were it not for the efforts of the Boy Scouts in living up to one of their promises, "To help other people at all times." These children are looking forward eagerly to Christmas and Santa Claus — looking with childish faith despite all discouragements by parents who have no money to spend on anything but the bare necessities of life.

For a number of years now, it has been the privilege of the Lachute Boy Scouts to prevent disappointments of this nature to a large number of children. Last Christmas, parcels containing candies, oranges, and over three hundred toys, books and games, were sent to well over a hundred children. The Scouts are again making an appeal for old and discarded toys, children's games and books, and hope that the people of the town and district will again be generous, as it is only through donations of this kind that the scheme can be successful.

Old and broken toys will be repaired and brightened up with a new coat of paint by the Scouts, in their spare time between now and Christmas. As Christmas will be with us in about a month's time, it is hoped that contributions will be made at once so that the boys will have ample time to get them ready for distribution. If you have any toys, games or children's books which you wish to donate to this worthy cause, kindly communicate with one of the members of the troop so that the parcel may be called for, or you may leave your gift in care of the Farmers' Supply Company, 84 Foundry Street, Lachute (opposite C.P.R. Station).

How Birds and Animals

Were Given Their Names

If an animal, or any phenomenon new to us, attracts our attention, we immediately wonder whether other persons have seen and labeled it, and if so we seek to know what it has been called by those well-informed on the subject; meanwhile we invent a name for ourselves as an aid to memory and conversation, observes a writer in the Montreal Herald.

Now that seems to be precisely the way in which the more common kinds of birds in all parts of the inhabited world got their names. In prehistoric ages as primitive men scattered and explored new regions they met strange animals, gave each a name, and later taught it to newcomers. The words of these pioneers are wholly lost, of course; but we may well believe that the process of adding such nouns to their limited speech was much the same wherever primitive men settled. Not only would the most familiar or more numerous species encountered in any locality be first noted and named by the primitive adventurer, but in each case the name given it would indicate its most striking feature, such as its predominant color, or a distinctive voice, or some noticeable manner of flight, or peculiarity in feeding, nesting and other habits. In all countries, and expressed in various languages, you may hear of red-birds, blackbirds, bluebirds. Likewise in every country birds seem to the people to be pronouncing their own names as if for the listeners' benefit, or to repeat singing notes that may easily be turned into human words in the language of their listeners.

Mark Twain

Keeping the Big Bad Wolf Away

Are you in debt? Did you ever lose any money through making a bad investment? Well, if so, you may find consolation in the fact that some of the most brilliant men who ever lived made fools of themselves when it came to investing money. Take Mark Twain for example. He had the ability to make the whole world laugh — or cry; yet when it came to investing money, he didn't have any more sense than you and I had — back in 1929.

He lost almost a hundred thousand dollars in all sorts of inventions, such as steam generators, marine telegraphs, and other marvelous machines that were going to revolutionize the printing industry. There was only one gadget that was too fantastic for Mark Twain to invest in, and that was a queer sort of contraption called a telephone. He was offered a whole hatful of Bell Telephone stock but he turned it down with a snort — turned down a proposition that would have made him untold millions. Instead, he went into business with one of his relatives — and you know what that means. He lost everything except the kitchen stove.

His friend, H. H. Rogers, of the Standard Oil Company, offered to pay his debts on the basis of fifty cents on the dollar, but Mark Twain wouldn't hear of it. His admirers started a national subscription, and checks came pouring in from all over the country; but Mark Twain returned every one of the contributions and insisted on paying his debts himself. He despised lecturing, yet he made a trip around the world, lecturing and living in hotels, suffering from homesickness and boredom. He sacrificed six years of his life to pay his debts, but he finally paid them.

General Grant was brilliant enough to conquer Lee, win the Civil War, and become President of the United States; but he wasn't smart enough to keep out of Wall Street. During the last years of his life, two sharpers got hold of Grant and persuaded him to go into business with them. Then these men used Grant's good name to manipulate all sorts of crooked deals. When the crash came, Grant, in order to pay his debts, handed over his farm, his houses in Philadelphia and New York, and even the swords and trophies that had been presented to him.

He didn't have a dollar, and he was dying of cancer. He realized that when he was dead, his widow would be poverty-stricken. So, in order to provide for her, he decided to write his memoirs. He dictated until the cancer in his throat got so bad he couldn't speak. Then he finished the book with a pencil — finished it while he was suffering agony. He wrote the last chapter only three days before he died. Mark Twain published the book, and paid Mrs. Grant almost half a million dollars in royalty.

Mrs. Abraham Lincoln got so deeply in debt that she had to sell her dresses and furs and jewels. After she left the White House, she was so pressed for cash that she even sold her dead husband's shirts with his initials worked on them.

Abe Lincoln, as a young man, went into the grocery business with a drunkard as a partner. The store failed, the drunkard died, and left Lincoln all the debts to pay. There was a legal loophole of escape and Lincoln could have avoided paying all these debts if he had wanted to. But that wasn't Lincoln's way. He scraped and saved and sacrificed for eleven long, hard years until he paid his creditors every dollar that he owed, and he paid them with interest.

Brownsburg United Church

The interest of packing a "missionary box" on Saturday evening, Nov. 12, was enhanced by the coming together of the Women's Missionary Society and the Mission Band in the form of a party, the Mission Band being the guests of the senior society. For the edification of the gathering, the Mission Band, under the leadership of Miss Marjorie McQuat and Mrs. S. J. Pike, president of the adult group, gave a demonstration of their meeting hour and the different connections they have made in the missionary activities. Following these interesting items, and the packing of two boxes with useful and valuable articles which will go forth in time for the Christmas season, refreshments were served, and the Mission Band, under guidance of Miss Olive Wheeler, entertained still further in a series of games, bringing the evening to a close by singing their emblem song.

Members of the Men's League went to Montreal last Sunday afternoon to conduct a Brotherhood meeting in St. James United Church, under auspices of the branch meeting there.

The Ladies' Auxiliary presented a fine program on Thursday evening last in the church hall, the occasion being the gathering of the "coin cards" from their year's observance of special events in the calendar, to the tune of "fifteen dimes." It was quite evident as to the popularity of the project, seeing this is the second year for the novelty to be tried out, and well over a hundred dollars finds its way into the Auxiliary treasury. It was really a gala time on Thursday evening. Everyone participated in the proceedings with interest and enthusiasm. The first half of the program, which had a definite touch of humor and good music, was followed by tests and contests of a varied nature, for which acceptable prizes were offered. Refreshments were served.

Rev. S. J. Pike and Rev. W. B. Rosborough will exchange pulpits next Sunday morning. Observed as the anniversary of the Brownsburg United Church, the stewards are taking advantage of the opportunity to launch the annual financial campaign or canvass of the congregation.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

"Ancient and Modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism. Denounced" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world, on Sunday, November 27. The Golden Text is: "If God be for us, who can be against us?" (Romans 8:31).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are called according to his purpose."

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "At all times and under all circumstances, overcome evil with good. Know thyself, and God will supply the wisdom and the occasion for a victory over evil. Clad in the panoply of Love, human hatred cannot reach you. The cement of a higher humanity will unite all interests in the one divinity." (p. 571).

Clément Tremblay Reviews Conditions in Canadian Textile Manufactures

COMPETITION FROM TEXTILE IMPORTS

"Canadians cannot be employed as textile workers unless the goods they make are sold," Mr. Tremblay said, and added: "Canadian textiles receive strenuous competition in the Canadian market from imported textiles. In no branch of the spinning or fabric manufacturing industry do Canadian workers supply all the home market." He said that in 1938 out of a total of $31,097,666 worth of manufactured textiles imported, $11,513,154 worth were similar to those produced in the woolen and knitting mills in Canada, the balance coming into competition with the rayon and cotton mills. In the wool cloth branch 40% of the Canadian market is still supplied from abroad, indicating, he said, there was a field for further expansion of production and employment within the Dominion.

Commenting on the new trade treaty between the United States and Canada, Mr. Tremblay pointed out that any trade concessions given by Canada to the United States must also be extended to the Japanese, the Germans and the Italians under our "favored nations" policy, and noted that excess inventories in some textile lines in the United States had not yet been completely liquidated, Japanese competition in textiles was widening, and that the very efficient textile mills in the Sudeten area will be used by Germany to press export volume in order to obtain foreign exchange.

WAGES IN THE TEXTILE INDUSTRY

Dealing with the employee-employer relations, the speaker mentioned the marked change in the textile industry in the last two years because of wage increases. During the current year, wage boards in Ontario and Quebec had brought in orders, and studies showed that in the textile trades it was not true that "a minimum wage meant a maximum wage." He said that Toronto branch of the Association made a study of "thirty-eight woollen mills which employed 1,945 adult women for whom there had been minimum wage laws for some twenty years; of these 1,730 were paid an average of 40% above the minimum. Another survey of 39 mills showed that 80% of the adult male employees were paid at or above the new minimum rates for Ontario."

TEXTILES EMPLOY A HIGH PERCENTAGE OF INDUSTRIAL WORKERS

Establishing the relationship of the textile industry to other manufacturing industries, and to other sources of employment, Mr. Tremblay recalled that the natural increase in our population was about 120,000 annually. Mechanization of farming results in a slower absorption of man power than in the past, fishing apparently could offer only a modest increase, the demand for wood products fluctuates so violently that the logging industry could not be expected to give staple employment for any greatly increased number, while the mining industries from 1921 to 1935 increased by an average of 1,400 employees a year. "The growth of the manufacturing industry in Canada was a necessity if the growing population was to be maintained," he said, and pointed out that twenty years ago the entire textile industry, including the clothing and furnishing trades, had employed 78,604 people, while today it employed 114,966 people, and that nineteen out of every hundred workers in manufacturing industries were in textiles. The primary textiles group of mills had in recent years increased at the rate of 2,861 employees per annum.

"Isn't that lawyer a rather extravagant man?"
"By no means! I've known him to make one suit last for several years."

They cheerfully "CHIP-IN" to pay for the TELEPHONE

This is the practice in many homes — the "working age" youngsters to whom the telephone is a social necessity — chip-in to pay for its modest cost. They never miss the few cents a day that telephone service costs — in fact they, and their parents too, simply couldn't get along now without the telephone.

Reductions in telephone rates—Local and long distance — in 1935, '36 and '37 have effected savings to telephone users in Ontario and Quebec of nearly one million dollars yearly.

Hints for Homebodies

Specially Written for Readers of The Watchman
By JESSIE ALLEN BROWN

TAKE THEM TO HEAR GOOD MUSIC

Every once in a while something a speaker says sticks in the memory and influences our actions, to our profit. Some years ago, Mr. E. G. Quantz, music supervisor in London, said in an address to a Home and School Association, that if we wanted our children to learn to like good music, we must take them to hear it. That struck me as being sensible and I acted on it. I took our younger son to concerts, a good many of them conducted by Cesar Borre, who has the art of building a program of good music which is appealing. Sometimes I wondered if it was worth it. Undoubtedly, he was bored by some of it. It meant that he was up late and missed either a part or all morning's school, to make up his sleep. I know now that it was worth doing. He is a concert goer. Still bored by some of it, but enjoying a greater proportion all the time. Frequently he will remark when he hears some good music over the radio, "Mr. Borre played that," or "I heard that at such a concert." He wriggled by the hour at the concerts, but the music made such an impression that he recognizes it years afterward. So I am sold on the idea of taking children to hear good music. The community concerts and the Canadian concert series are giving many opportunities to hear good music. One of the fine things the Canadian artists are doing is to give performances in the schools when possible.

GOOD ADVERTISING SCHEME

There are many forms of advertising, but I have run into one which was new to me. In Ottawa, they have what is called "The Welcome Wagon Service." A hostess calls, laden with gifts, and suggests stores in your neighborhood and services generally. She brings a map of Ottawa, certainly a useful thing; and a calendar from an insurance company — and who ever thinks of removing a calendar! There are flowers from a florist; flour and cereals from a milling company. A departmental store sends an invitation to lunch, for two; a furniture store offers a ten per cent reduction on any piece of furniture. Then there is a laundry which gives you a ticket good for a dollar on laundry or dry cleaning. A hardware firm allows you a dollar on your first purchase. A service station greases your car; a butcher gives you a pound of sausage, and a bakery sends sandwiches and cake for afternoon tea for four. The service suggests that you phone them for any information, and they do such things as keeping a list of reliable char-women and finding some one to keep house for the children over a holiday. It takes some time to find just where to deal, when you move to a new place, and the hostess has given me some very good suggestions.

MONEY TRAINING

Children should have training in handling money. Quite small children get a thrill out of handling money even when it is spent on necessities. Send them to the stores to buy for you. Start them on the staples where there is no possibility of going wrong. Let them buy occasionally at a self-service store where they have to do their own choosing. Besides giving experience in handling money, it trains their judgment. A boy who had just started to shop for his mother came home one day and said he hadn't known what to do. Soap flakes were two for nineteen and so was celery, so it was cheaper to buy two. Finally he decided to buy two of the soap flakes as they would keep, and only one bunch of celery, as it needed to be fresh. Sound reasoning and a good exercise in judgment.

MODERN FROZEN DISH

When in Halifax I went through a cold storage plant where they were freezing fish. Frozen fish used not to be very popular, and rightly so. But modern quick freezing methods have changed all this. When it took days to freeze the fish, large crystals were formed and when the fish was cooked, these broke down and the fish was flabby. Now they take from two to four hours to freeze and the crystals formed are so small and do not break down when cooked. No one need hesitate about using frozen fish now as it is very satisfactory. It does not even need to be thawed before using. I asked the manager of the plant if he had any suggestions for my readers. He said, "Tell them not to over-cook the fish. Most fish is cooked too long. The protein in fish is very similar to that in white of egg and should be treated similarly. It should be treated like a poached egg. Just cooked until the protein is set."

PEANUT BUTTER COOKIES

A request has come in for peanut butter cookies. I have found this recipe a very satisfactory one:

1 cup white sugar, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 cup shortening, 2 teaspoons soda dissolved in 1 tablespoon cold water, 1 cup peanut butter, 3/4 cups flour, 1 egg.

Cream the shortening (I use part butter and part lard), and the peanut butter, then cream in the sugar, add the beaten egg and the soda and sift in the flour. Pinch off pieces the size of a walnut, put on a buttered sheet and press down both ways with the tines of a fork. Bake for 10 minutes in a moderate oven of 350 degrees.

CHERRY CREAM

1/4 cup marachino cherries, 1 tablespoon cherry syrup, 1/4 cup chopped walnuts, 1/2 lb. marshmallows, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup whipping cream.

Cut cherries and marshmallows in small pieces. Whip the cream and fold in the remaining ingredients. Mould in a large mould or put in sherbet glasses. Chill until set.

CHOCOLATE COOKIES

1/2 cup butter, 1 cup sugar, 1 egg beaten, 2 squares unsweetened chocolate, 2 1/2 cups sifted cake flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 4 tablespoons milk.

Cream soda and sugar, add the beaten egg and the melted chocolate. Sift dry ingredients and add alternately with the milk to which the vanilla has been added. Drop from a teaspoon on a buttered pan and bake in a moderate oven of 400 degrees for 10 minutes.

HOUSE AND HOME

By Mary E. Dague

Author of Sister Mary's Kitchen

In this age of push buttons, cars, telephones and tired nerves, we are apt to neglect our four hundred muscles. Even if you do take "setting up" exercises night and morning, you should keep moving during the day.

Step out briefly with a purpose, breathe deeply of the fresh November air and keep the youthful arch in your diaphragm. The breathing exercises of a singer are an amazing aid for a faulty posture. Take a deep breath, filling your lungs with air and expanding your chest. Then blow out without losing the chest expansion. Now your shoulders are up and straight, your head is well poised and your muscles in the region of your stomach are taut. Walk as far as you can without changing the position of your shoulders and chest.

Watch your weight. The too thin woman, as well as the too heavy woman, needs to eat intelligently. If you are eating to gain weight, don't neglect the mid-morning and mid-afternoon lunches. Both the reducing and gaining diets should be balanced with plenty of fruit and vegetables.

A time budget is a helpful little thing that makes for greater efficiency and more leisure hours for homemakers. Of course some women work faster with their hands, are "quick turned," as our grandmothers phrased it, but if you give yourself so much time to do certain tasks, such as dishwashing and bed-making, you will soon learn to work fast enough to get them done according to your schedule. Hospitals train their student nurses to make a bed in three minutes. If these girls can do this, draw sheet, mitered corners and all, it seems to me we ought to make our own beds with equal speed.

York, the intention is never once to have its own bus to take it wherever the tour leads to, and hotels are never to be used when tourists camps are available. It is a "country tour for country folk," male or female, who are members of Scottish Women's Institutes, and is supposed to be one of the first of its kind ever organized.

Report of Argenteuil W.I. Activities for Month

Brownburg Branch presented Mrs. C. H. Jackson with a life membership pin and certificate in appreciation of the splendid work she had done in Child Welfare work. The presentation was made by the president, Mrs. Martin. Mr. D. Stanforth, under the convensorship of Mrs. W. Horner, gave an instructive talk on Immigration. This Branch also took a prominent part in the recent dramatic contest held at Lachute Auditorium.

Frontier, featuring Legislation, were treated to an address from Mr. G. Héon, M.P., on Past and Present Parliamentary Procedure. Their roll-call was replied to with the name of a prominent Montreal judge. This Branch held an Amateur Evening in Mabel School, also presented Mrs. J. A. Murdoch with silver teaspoons.

Jerusalem-Bethany are catering for the Laurentian Ayrshire Association luncheon on Dec. 1st. They held a card party and dance in McArthur's Hall recently. At their regular meeting the members discussed the Spring Exhibition display at the Fair, and heard a paper on Education and Better Schools, given by Mrs. L. Boa. The roll-call was replied to by the name of their first school teacher.

Lachute Branch, under the convensorship of Mrs. T. E. McQuat, heard an instructive address given by Dr. Finlay McMartin on "The Problem of Adolescence." Plans were made for sending warm clothing to Farmborough Institute, and several donations of money were made — $300 for manual training outfit for Lachute High School; $50 for Child Welfare, and $25 for the Wolf Cubs.

The DOCTOR Tells the Story by W.E. Aughinbaugh, M.D.

INSANITY

The brain is the citadel of the senses, said Pliny the Elder, centuries ago, and that observation is as true today as when it was first given to the world. In my years at medicine I have seen men and women confined in institutions who seemed to me to be more rational than those outside its walls — many of them true philosophers — and I have repeatedly encountered patients in their homes who, in my judgment, should be confined.

My strangest experience with an insane patient, and one which I can never forget, happened some years ago. The man, an exceptional all round athlete, had more than three hundred trophies. His hands were the most powerful I have ever seen. His business career was remarkable.

Starting with practically no capital, he built up an enormous trade, acquired property and employed many people. To me he always seemed calm, sane and practical, and I attended him and all his family for many years.

One day he proceeded to his bank, withdrew $35,000 and went on a spending spree, giving presents of all sorts to friends and also to people with whom he had only the slightest acquaintance. That afternoon he purchased all the staterooms on a steamer that left at night for a large city, and thus become its sole passenger.

He wine and dined the officers and the deck hands, and attracted so much attention that the captain of the vessel had the police arrest him when they arrived next morning at their destination. His family were notified and I, with his son, went after him. He accompanied us home without making any trouble, and ultimately was adjudged insane and ordered confined.

After he had been in the sanitarium for a month or so, he sent me a most friendly note asking me to visit and take dinner with him. I went to the place Sunday and was told by the superintendent, a well known doctor, that he had shown great improvement. We talked for some time, ate a hearty meal together, and when we were alone he arose, came over to me and said: "Your testimony put me here. I am not crazy but am going to kill you for what you did."

Then he laughed like a fiend from the nether regions and reached for my throat, grasping it in his powerful hands. As I resisted him, he remarked tauntingly: "I'm insane, you know — decided insane by the courts — and they cannot punish me for murdering you and that is what I am going to do."

Of course I fought with him but was rapidly being overcome when attendants reached the place and saved my life. I see this man now and then, and to one unfamiliar with his past, there are no indications of his diseased mind. He is keen witted. He speaks intelligently. But he has tried to kill several of his family and attendants and must remain confined for the rest of his days.

Une base solide est nécessaire.

Les pieds sont la base du corps humain. Tous les jours, les pieds sont soumis à une marche intensive et supportent de lourdes charges.

FOOT-PAX Supports merveilleux

(sans pièce métallique)
sont la cause que l'effort que doit réaliser la jambe, les os et le pied est réparti en parties égales; aussi le surmenage est éliminé et donne à la marche une élégance impeccable et prononcée. Les os sont maintenus dans leur position normale, ce qui prévient la pression exercée par les chaussures, cause des cors, des oignons et des callosités.

HERNIA or RUPTURE

READ A PHYSICIAN'S 25 YEARS' PERSONAL EXPERIENCE

This is to certify that I have tried all the appliances of repute in New York, Chicago, Montreal, and Toronto, and never obtained any that would be a comparison with the one patented by J. L. Armstrong, of Ottawa, for the treatment and radical cure of Hernia. It does all he claims for it.

EVIDENCE OF MONTREAL PRIEST

Dear Mr. Armstrong:
This letter is to be considered as an evidence of my gratitude towards you. Moreover it may render service to suffering humanity.

I declare, conscientiously, that for 30 years in France I tried several Hernia Trusses, and the best without any effective results. Since I have worn your apparatus, I do not suffer from my hernia. Really, for me it is equivalent to a cure.

I thank you, therefore, dear Mr.
Armstrong, for what you have done for me.

You are authorized to use this letter as you think best for you and for those who suffer.

Yours sincerely,
Montreal. Father Le Bel.

Those who set traps to catch little animals should form a habit of inspecting them each day to see that animals are not left suffering in them.
Recently a prized domestic cat, after disappearing for several days, returned home with a badly swollen front paw, indicating that it had been entrapped for some time, and as a result may probably lose its paw.
