Senator Meighen Deplores Apathy Toward Costly Rail Duplication

"TO CATCH WILL OF PEOPLE, IS NOT THE DUTY OF THE SENATE OF CANADA"

GOVERNMENT DETERMINED TO CURB PROFITEERING IN RADIO MANUFACTURE

"THE OTTAWA SPOTLIGHT"

Ottawa, May 30th.—While the King and Queen move across Canada, capturing the hearts of the people of the Dominion everywhere by their unaffected simplicity and charm, their friendliness and their obvious faith and devotion to the ideals of the British peoples, the Parliament at Ottawa continues with the King's business. The session is nearing its close, but there is still a difference of opinion whether it will be another week or two weeks before it will have finished with its labors. The main measure outstanding at this date is the general legislation on mortgages, which is very comprehensive and of such importance that members want it to be sifted down in all its implications before they register their votes. The intention is to have it fully discussed in the banking and commerce committee of the House of Commons. It is just possible that the Minister of Finance will decide to withdraw it for this session and leave it over for fuller discussions in the next session. As it will be recalled, this legislation dealing with the whole mortgage structure throughout Canada, that is in both city and country, seeks to bring mortgages within a definite relationship to appraisal values of property and to get interest rates uniformly down to about five per cent. The central mortgage bank to be created under the Act will have authority to issue bonds to a maximum of 200 million dollars, these bonds to be issued in payment of fifty per cent of losses sustained by lending companies in writing down mortgages.

Opposition to the measure already heard in Parliament points to the great obligations assumed by the Government under the proposed legislation. If the principle were ultimately extended to other businesses which might be equally deserving, the new obligations would be tremendous. Many lending companies might object to the rigid control proposed by the government. The law might clash with provincial legislative rights under the constitution. The law discriminated against borrowers from private lenders and against companies which might not become members. All these questions have been raised in the debate. The Finance Minister has explained that no compulsion will be exercised on the provinces. Co-operation from lending companies is entirely voluntary. The bill will make available the national credit "in terms of public need for what is generally recognized as a great national problem." The measure is very close to the heart of the Finance Minister. It is the result of many months of careful and searching thought.

3 Years Sentence Imposed for Theft Of Automobile

CAR ABANDONED AT DUNANY, RESIDENTS ARE WITNESSES

Traffic Officer H. Jones and three witnesses from this locality appeared in police court in Montreal on Tuesday to testify against one, Lionel Larocque, formerly of Lachute. Larocque and a companion were charged with the theft of an automobile and, found guilty before Justice Tetrault, the pair were sentenced to three years' imprisonment.

The charge arose from the discovery of an automobile abandoned at Dunany. Notified of the find, Officer Jones communicated with provincial police headquarters in Montreal, and from the description of the car, a 1937 Ford cabriolet, learned it had been stolen on May 3rd from the corner of St. Catherine and St. Timothee streets; the car was owned by C. M. Hickson, of Como, Que. The thieves were traced to Montreal and arrested by provincial police.

Before they had abandoned the car at Dunany Laroeque and his companion had been noticed by a local couple. The pair were identified by them in court, and also by a St. Philippe dealer at whose place they had stopped previously to trade a tire.

Young Girl Hit by Truck, Suffers Painful Injury

TAKEN TO MONTREAL FOR HOSPITAL TREATMENT

Alice Derouin, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Derouin, St. Philippe, suffered painful injuries when hit by a truck just before 10 o'clock Monday evening. The girl, with her father and two other children, was walking along the Lachute-Grenville highway in St. Philippe Village, when a westbound truck, owned and driven by David Vallée, of Grenville, approached them. At the same time an automobile was passing, and in swerving to avoid the passenger car Vallée's truck caught the child. The muscles of her right arm were badly torn. Removed to a nearby house, she was given first aid by Dr. W. F. McMartin, who was summoned from Lachute. Traffic Officer A. Leger, of Brownsburg, was also notified and investigated the accident. Alice Derouin was later taken by car to the Royal Victoria Hospital and, following surgical treatment, is reported to be making good progress. Mr. Derouin, the father, was also slightly bruised in the accident.

Native of This County Is Victim In N. Ontario Double Killing

LEAVING ARUNDEL IN EARLY MANHOOD, G. S. BENNETT SUCCESSFUL AS PROSPECTOR AND MINING PROMOTER

SHOT BY RECLUSE NEIGHBOR NEAR SCENE OF HIS MINING ACTIVITIES

Sad circumstances surround the death of Gilbert Sydney Bennett, aged 69, whose body was found in Mountain Creek, near his cabin in the Sudbury district. It was first thought he had been drowned, but later evidence of foul play showed that both Bennett and his friend, Wilbur (Tom) Sawyer, had been killed and afterwards thrown in the water.

BORN NEAR LAKEFIELD

Gilbert S. Bennett was a well known figure in the Northland and a recognized authority in the mining industry. Born near Lakefield in 1870, he later moved with his family to Arundel, where he early engaged in the lumber business. When about 25 years of age Bennett struck out for the North and engaged in mining and construction, having been employed as foreman for the Hon. Frank Cochrane and Wm. McVittie in construction of three large dams for power developments. In this position he took hold of several valuable mining projects, which made good. He sank the first shaft of the Mond Frood Mine and in later years had become one of the largest property holders in the North. His success as a prospector is illustrated by the fact that he recently disposed of some of his properties to International Nickel for $400,000. One of his latest discoveries was a new gold vein which assayed $163 to the ton. In his claims all kinds of metals have been found, including copper, platinum, silver, cobalt and a large body of hematite iron.

CANOE FOUND ADRIFT

When a canoe owned by Gilbert Bennett was found floating in Lake Wahnapitae Thursday of last week, it was believed he and Sawyer had been drowned. The first suspicion of foul play came when relatives found the interior of Bennett's cabin in

Celebrates 90th Birthday

Mrs. William Mitchell, a respected resident of this town, has just celebrated her 90th birthday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. L. C. Barron, on Barron Avenue. Thirteen years ago Mrs. Mitchell suffered a stroke and has been bedridden ever since, but her spirit is buoyant as uncomplainingly she carries on and meets all friends with a cheery greeting. She was born in Brownsburg on the old Stalker farm, and four of her family gave service in the Great War — three sons in the military ranks and a daughter as a nurse.

Prizes Are Awarded to Quiz Contest Winners

HIGH SCHOOL TEAM "D" GET INDIVIDUAL TROPHIES

Having held the lead in the local Quiz Contest all through the winter, the members of Team "D," who won the contest, took their last stand on Monday night when each member was presented with a handsomely engraved cup given by the proprietor of the Rex Theatre, Mr. Angelo Fassio.

Mr. Fassio expressed his thanks to the pupils of the High School teams and the two other groups which had taken part in the contest — all the participants being guests of the Rex Theatre on this occasion. He also paid tribute to the losing teams, who had showed their good sportsmanship in paying for the engraving of the cups. The prizes were then presented to the recipients, while Professor Quiz, Stephen May, was presented with a brown leather wallet containing several passes to the Rex Theatre.

Miss Beryl Underhill, on behalf of the winners, expressed her gratitude to all who had helped to make the enterprise a success, while Mr. S. May, on behalf of the losers, gratefully acknowledged the generosity of the Rex proprietor to the contestants and to himself. The presentation concluded with a community sing-song.

Three-Course Feast of Drama at St. Andrews

SUCCESSFUL PRESENTATION BY GOOD FELLOWSHIP CIRCLE

St. Andrews E.—The Good Fellowship Circle put on three one-act plays at the Town Hall on the evening of May 27th.

"Our Daily Bread" (by the author of "The Lean Years") was a realistic presentation of what the depression meant in many an "average American family." It was graphically portrayed by Misses J. Wales, C. Cooke, B. Hugman, Mrs. C. L. Brownlee and Mr. Brownlee. Perhaps a neat patch or two would have been even more convincing, for they were not yet on the "dole"; perhaps the social service worker had procured good clothing.

The next playlet, "Eliza Saves the Day," was an amusing skit by a local dramatic enthusiast, Howard Lalonde. "Eliza" was very competently acted by Bea Hugman. The supporting cast were Misses Enid Robertson, Mrs. Brownlee and Mr. H. Lalonde.

The third play, which represented an amusing episode in a modern hotel lobby, was splendidly staged. The actresses were Misses E. Robertson, J. Wales, B. Hugman, Mrs. V. Willett, — and the actors, Messrs. Lloyd Lilly, H. Lalonde, D. Rodger, E. Chambers, R. Montague, H. Hooker and C. Brown. There was plenty of action and color, and the allotment of the parts was excellent.

Both players and audience showed great appreciation of the fine appearance produced by recent alterations made for the stage. The community is greatly indebted to Mr. Ernest Rodger who, as councillor, did much to have the recommendations of the Dramatic Society carried out by the council.

The intervals between the plays were filled by Messrs. Kollmar, of Montreal, with their beautiful Hawaiian music. Mr. Kollmar, Sr., was also called upon for a few of his droll anecdotes. Several young ladies sold home-made candy, and their efforts paid for the rent of the hall. Sale of tickets and door receipts netted about $20. This sum goes to help defray the cost of cleaning the walls and ceiling of the United Church, which work is in the hands of employees of the T. Eaton Company.

INDIANS TRAVEL FAR TO GREET THE GREAT WHITE CHIEF

LACHUTE GROUP VISITED BY DISTRICT GOVERNOR

Those entering the town from the east on Bethany Street are now confronted with a neat metal sign, bearing name of the town, the Lions Club emblem and the name of Desjardins Hotel as its place of meeting. Members of the local club gathered at the entrance of town on Tuesday evening and were accompanied by several visiting Lions from Buckingham, including District Governor Horace Lapierre. A group picture was taken and adjournment made to the hotel, where supper was served. President Rev. W. C. LeCras extended formal welcome to the visitors and an inspiring address was given by the District Governor, who afterwards entertained the gathering with movie films of the previous convention at Bigwin Inn. Many towns have large welcome signs to assure tourist visitors that a welcome awaits them, and the action of the Lions Club should prove an incentive to others to do likewise.

Venerable Resident of "The Hill", Carillon, Is Laid to Rest

LATE HENRY BARCLAY

St. Andrews E. — The death occurred on May 28th, at the Western Division of the General Hospital, Montreal, of Mr. Henry Barclay, "The Hill," son of the late James Barclay. His mother was formerly Miss Hayes.

Mr. Henry Barclay, who was in his 89th year, had made and kept many friends by his kindly, cheerful manner. He was most hospitable and, in good health until a few weeks of his death, was keen of mind and active in body.

The funeral service was held at his home May 30, by Rev. R. L. Ballantyne, of the Presbyterian Church, assisted by Rev. J. A. Mowatt, of the United Church. A large gathering of relatives, friends and neighbors were present.

The chief mourners were his brother, Mr. Colin Barclay, of California; three nephews, Mr. Haman Barclay, of Woodstock, Ont., Mr. Ralph Barclay, of Stanstead, Que., and Mr. Harry Barclay, of Florida, sons of the late William Barclay.

Interment took place in the family plot in the nearby cemetery. The pall-bearers were Messrs. Joseph Bradley, W. J. Rodger, W. J. Pitcairn, Dr. Halsey, Mr. A. M. Derrick, and Mr. R. Gauthier.

Others who attended the service from a distance were Mrs. H. Barclay, Mrs. Ralph Barclay (formerly Ella Robertson); a grandnephew, Mr. Struan Barclay, and grandnieces, Misses M., Bea and Janet Barclay; Miss Minnie Brophy, Montreal; Miss Yarker, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Pringle, Mr. Tom Simpson, Mrs. Armstrong, of Montreal, and Miss Vida Brophy, of Ottawa.

Younger Exhibitors Will Feature in Entries at Coming Spring Fair

Two weeks from today the Lachute Fair will be in full swing. Secretary-Manager A. Bothwell announces a very large entry list in all classes, thus ensuring the keenest competition. Many of the young enthusiasts who have watched their elders in past years and proudly carried home coveted ribbons and prizes, are now awaiting the opportunity of leading their own cattle into the ring to capture the honors.

In order to cope with the growing demand for space, new sheds have been erected and other buildings put in repair. At the directors' meeting held some weeks ago it was decided to allow free admittance to children on Wednesday, the opening day, instead of Saturday, as in previous years.

An excellent program of horse racing and vaudeville, brass band, fireworks on Thursday and Friday evenings, with the Sims midway of swings, rides and games, will provide entertainment for all. The ladies of the Women's Institute have again undertaken to furnish meals and refreshments, which will ensure good food and good service. Keep the dates in mind, June 14, 15, 16 and 17.

Met Death by Accident on Electric Power Project at Grand Forks, B. C.

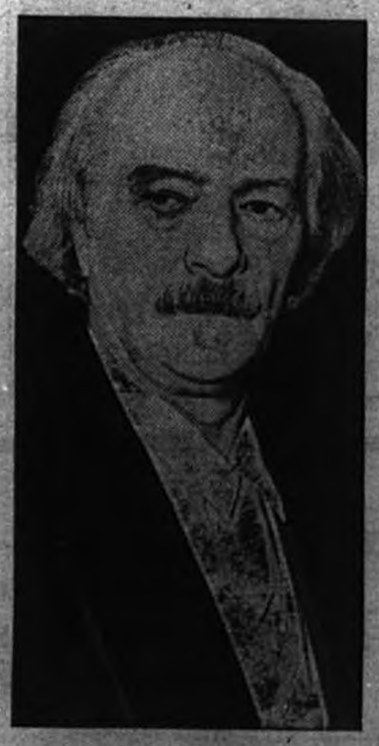

LATE ROBERT OWEN JONES

While completing a new wiring system in Grand Forks, B.C., where he was employed as chief electrician, Robert Owen Jones met a sudden and tragic death on May 12, being instantly killed as he was about to cut the last "jumpers" which would have finished the installation.

The youngest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Jones, of St. Andrews East, he was 51 years of age, and during the Great War served with the 60th Canadian Regiment and the Royal Engineers.

His wife, formerly Evelyn Webster, and two children, Robert Arnold, aged 10, and Nancy de Hertel, aged 4, are left to mourn his loss, together with two brothers, Edward, of Illinois, and Ashton, of Vancouver.

Masonic funeral services were held in the United Church at Grand Forks. Members of the Canadian Legion, to which he belonged, attended in a body, and members of the civic fire department, with which he was active, also marched in the cortege, the funeral being one of the largest ever seen in that city. A large number of floral tributes added their silent testimony of respect and esteem. Interment took place at Evergreen Cemetery.

PIANIST STRICKEN

Taken ill a few minutes before a concert performance in New York, Ignace Paderewski, famous 78-year-old Polish pianist, was unable to commence the concert and had to be escorted to hospital. He suffered a heart attack.

A Break for the CBC

(Winnipeg Free Press)

The report, in its entirety, represents a vote of confidence in the CBC which was badly needed. The committee satisfied itself that it was sound financially, that it was widening the basis of its operations, that it was reaching a large audience, that it was carrying out its very difficult tasks with public spirit and competence. It is perhaps not too much to hope that the CBC be now left alone to carry out its tasks without having to devote months of its executive time to the preparation of parliamentary defence. We cannot hope to have an efficient system working smoothly if the CBC is to be perpetually harried as it has been in the past. How about giving the CBC a break ?

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

"God the Only Cause and Creator" is the subject of the lesson-sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday, June 4th.

The Golden Text is from Psalms 93:1. "The Lord reigneth, he is clothed with majesty; the Lord is clothed with strength, wherewith he hath girded himself; the world also is stablished, that it cannot be moved."

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible : "And God saw everything that he had made, and, behold, it was very good." (Genesis 1:31).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy : "God, Spirit, alone created all. — All God's creatures, moving in the harmony of Science, are harmless, useful, indestructible. A realization of this grand verity was a source of strength to the ancient worthies. It supports Christian healing, and enables its possessor to emulate the example of Jesus. 'And God saw that it was good.' — All the varied expressions of God reflect health, holiness, immortality — infinite Life, Truth, and Love," (Pages 339, 514, 518).

Very True

(Almonte Gazette)

The length to which crack-brained souvenir hunters will go in their collection of trophies, was demonstrated when two Russian aviators were forced down on Miscou Island, off the coast of New Brunswick. One of the officers could not find his expensive, fur-lined flying boots when the time came for the crash victims to leave Moncton for New York. They were later discovered by the Mounted Police and forwarded to their owner. People who collect souvenirs in this way are no better than common thieves and should be dealt with as such.

Native of County Killed In Northern Ontario

complete disorder, and definite evidence that the prospectors had been slain was established with discovery of their bodies. Almost the entire back of Bennett's head had been torn off by a soft-nosed bullet. A gaping hole in Sawyer's back indicated he had been shot through the heart.

An aged recluse, Bill Casselman, was charged with the murder of the two prospectors.

Casselman bore marks of a struggle when police questioned him Tuesday. When they returned to interview him again, he had disappeared. The most intensive manhunt in recent years began as Inspector Knight ordered the hermit detained for questioning.

Pending arrival of bloodhounds, Inspector Knight said a police cordon would surround a high hill which commands a view of the entire district. Every road was blocked by an armed guard.

The search parties are working, too, on Casselman's intense love of his horses. Next to the outdoors and solitude, the hermit loved his horses best, and neighbors expressed confidence he would try to get back to his clearing to feed the animals.

Police believe the murder was committed several days before the canoe was found. The boat had drifted several miles through heavy surface and underwater flotsam.

CRIME RECONSTRUCTED

Discovery of a water pail, fragments of eye-glasses and spots that may be blood led the authorities to suspect Bennett and Sawyer were shot as they came up the trail to their cabin from the waterfront. The killer is believed to have dragged his victims 100 yards down the marshy trail to a dock, dropped them in a boat and paddled 40 feet to drop them into the slimy green mud that covers the creek bottom.

How the canoe was set adrift remained a mystery. But for discovery of the canoe, the veteran prospectors might not have been missed yet, for it was not unusual for them to remain in the wilderness on prospecting trips for weeks at a time.

Bennett's son, Sydney, his lawyer, J. R. Stirrett, of Toronto, and L. G. Bennett, half-brother of the dead prospector, were among the watchers as the body was brought ashore.

Besides his son, the dead man is survived by four brothers, Lorne, city foreman of Sudbury; Garnet and C. O. Bennett, of Arundel, and Nelson, Toronto; and three sisters, Mrs. William Proudlock and Mrs. T. Evans, Arundel, and Mrs. T. Marshall, Montreal.

BURIAL IN ARUNDEL, EARLY HOME TOWN

The remains of Gilbert S. Bennett was brought home, for interment in Arundel Cemetery last Sunday afternoon, service being conducted by Rev. Charles Cushing. The pall-bearers were his two brothers, Garnet, of Arundel, and Lorne, of Sudbury; three brothers-in-law, Ernie, Coral and Val Swail, of Arundel, and a nephew, Gilbert Bennett, also of Arundel. Those attending from a distance were Mrs. Jno. Price and Mr. Geo. McVittie, of Sudbury, both intimate friends.

Although she is only 22 years of age Miss Mildred Riggens has become business manager of a daily newspaper in Kannapolis, North Carolina. She started her career three years ago and is proud to think that her paper got along so well that it recently changed from a tri-weekly.

Horse Bites and Kills Mate

The following unusual incident is reported by our contemporary, the Tara Leader :

James Kelly lost a young horse in a most unusual accident. He was towing his car on the town line, west of Keldon, near Dundalk, using a team of horses as motive power. When the horses were pulled off the side of the road to allow other traffic to pass, one of the horses bit his mate on the top of the head, never releasing its grip till the other horse fell dead.

THE SALT FISH BOARD

The general program of giving aid to the primary industries embodied in the agricultural bills, is now being extended to the fishing industry. An appropriation of $800,000 for this purpose appears in the estimates, and it is the Government's intention to create a salt fish board, which will be composed of experts in the business. The duty of the board will be to investigate and report on the marketing of salt fish and to seek new avenues of export. They will study and recommend modern methods of curing and packing as well as marketing. It was explained in the House that the fishermen meet competition in foreign markets from countries where boards are operating, and that the Government has been receiving petitions for assistance from organizations and individuals engaged or deeply interested in the fishing industry. Assistance will be given the salt fish industry up to 25 per cent of the market value of the fish at the time of export. Some members want fresh fish as well as salt fish included in the operation of the Bill.

Members expressed regret that the system of bonusing not only fish but wheat and other natural products had to be resorted to, but it was essential at this time on account of conditions prevailing.

SOCIAL CREDIT RECOMMENDATIONS DEFEATED

A great many matters are before the House in the dying days of the session. The budget resolutions have been discussed and passed. The monetary theories of the Social Credit members have been before the House whenever a question or subject was before Parliament which allowed debate on finance and credit theories. Efforts were made by the Social Credit adherents to induce the Government to issue currency for the direct financing of public works and other governmental expenditure. With the dangers of inflation which most members believed to be entailed, plans of this kind were defeated.

THE PRICE OF RADIOS

Spokesmen of the Government have expressed the determination of the Government to see that the price of radios sold in this country reflects fairly Canadian conditions and that no profiteering is involved. An investigation is being made into patent laws on radio manufacturing to ascertain what if any effect the application of these laws has upon existing prices.

THE SENATE ON RAILWAY POBLEMS

Senator Meighen in the Upper House has expressed the deepest regret that the result of co-operative economy measures in railway administration "would not fill the hollow of our hands." The greatest danger lay in the continued indifference to the colossal waste. "It may be important," he said, "to catch the will of the people, but that is not the duty of the Senate of Canada." He pointed with gravity to the shoals that lay ahead for the railways unless a plan were evolved for the unified management of the great railway companies. Senator Dandurand, leader of the Government forces in the Senate, was opposed to unification. He feared the creation of a monopoly. Unified management, he said meant unification, and unification meant amalgamation under private auspices. The country at large would not stand for such an amalgamation.

Insects Not Repelled by Odorous Formulae

A lotion which repels mosquitoes, black flies and other insects and yet which actually has a pleasant odor is the latest result of collaboration between university scientists and an industrial company. The work on the part of the research specialists wasn't any too pleasant. They spent many hours in mosquito-infested swamps, trying many varieties of existing insect repellants and many new formulae. They finally discovered that, in every case, it wasn't the smell which kept mosquitoes and black flies from biting. They at length created a new formula and when they used it on their arms and face, it caused insects to stay away on every occasion.

To this formula, a pleasant perfume was added. Further tests proved the new lotion to be absolutely harmless for even the tender skin of babies. So it seems that this summer Canadians can successfully fight off all biting insects without having to use a lotion with a strong, unpleasant odor, and without fear of harming the tenderest skin.

"Buy some flowers to present to the girl you love," said a lady at the church bazaar.

"That wouldn't be right," the prospective customer replied. "I am a married man."

Edgar Allan Poe

The Poet Who Married a Child and Got Ten Dollars for Ten Years' Work

Edgar Allan Poe was one of the most striking and romantic geniuses that ever wrote a sonnet or concocted a mystery. He was destined to stride like a melancholy giant across the pages of American literature. Yet he was removed from the University of Virginia because of his wild passion for gambling and drinking; and later on, he was court-martialed and kicked out of West Point because he ignored all rules and sat in his quarters writing poetry when he ought to have been out on the parade ground drilling with a gun.

Poe was left an orphan early in life, and adopted by a rich tobacco merchant. Finally, even this merchant turned against his adopted son, beat him with a cane, drove him out of the house, disinherited him, and refused to leave him a dollar in his will.

The story of Poe's marriage is one of the most beautiful tales in literature. He married his first cousin, Virginia Clem. He had no money at the time. And he was twice as old as his young wife. He was twenty-six and she was thirteen. According to all the old copybook adages, his marriage should have ended in swift and sure disaster. But it didn't. It was a romantic success. Poe all but worshipped this child-wife of his; his undying love for her inspired some of the most exquisite poetry that ever enriched the English language.

Edgar Allan Poe spun stories and created verses that were destined to be placed among the literary glories and treasures of the earth; and yet he couldn't sell these immortal masterpieces for enough to buy bread. For example, he gave the world "The Raven," a poem that has become immortal.

Poe wrote and rewrote and revised "The Raven," and worked on it intermittently for ten years; and yet he had to sell it for only ten dollars— a dollar for each year's work.

Up at the Grand Concourse, in New York, is the cottage where Poe and Virginia lived. When Poe rented the place nearly a century ago, it was just an old shack about to fall to pieces. He rented the place for three dollars a month, but he couldn't pay even that. Most of the time he didn't pay any rent at all. Virginia was ill with consumption; and Poe couldn't even buy food for her. Sometimes they went for days without anything to eat at all. When the dandelions began to bloom in the yard, they picked them and boiled them and ate dandelions, day after day.

For months before she died, Virginia lay on a straw mattress without enough clothing to keep her warm. When she became too cold, her mother rubbed her hands and Poe rubbed her feet. Poe covered her shivering body with his old military cloak that he had worn at West Point, and at night he coaxed the cat to sleep at her feet.

Virginia died in January. Poe didn't have enough money to bury her; and if it hadn't been for the kindness of a neighbor, she would have been sent to Potter's Field.

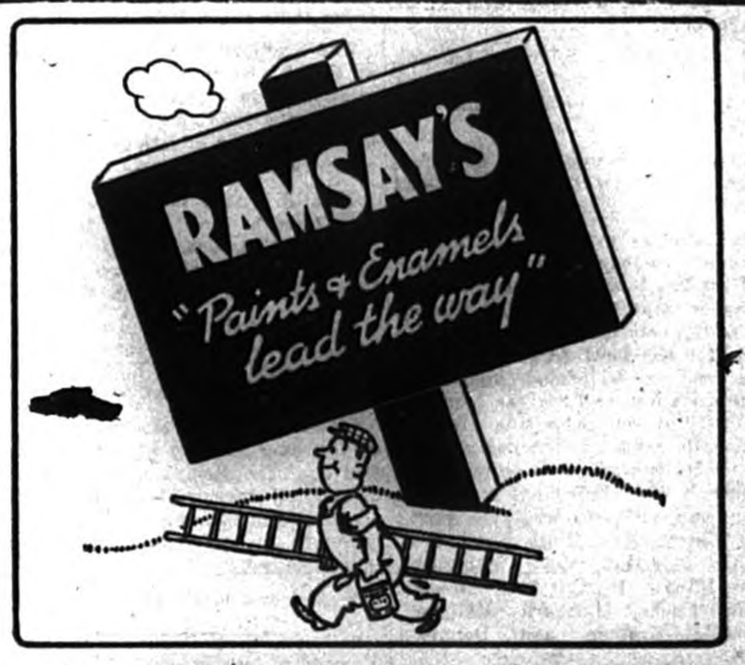

Months passed, Spring came, the moon rose over the apple trees and the stars twinkled on the western horizon, but Poe sat and dreamed and longed for Virginia; and out of that longing, he wrote the most beautiful love tribute that any man ever paid to his wife.

For the moon never beams without bringing me dreams of the beautiful Annabel Lee.
And the stars never rise but I feel the bright eyes, of the beautiful Annabel Lee.
And so, all the night-tide, I lie down by the side of my darling, my darling, my life and my bride,
In her sepulchre there by the sea,
In her tomb by the sounding sea.

ONE WAY TO WIN

"Some of your constituents are disagreeing with you," informed the trusted lieutenant.

"Well, keep tabs on them," instructed the politician. "When enough disagree with me to constitute a reliable majority, I'm going to turn around and agree with them."

An Opportunity for Students Of Natural History

The opening of the Historical Museum in the Carillon Barracks affords a unique opportunity for all interested in the study of Natural Science that should not be lost sight of.

There is great need of a central public collection of the local species of animals, plants and minerals of the Ottawa Valley. This is urgently needed both for the purposes of education and popular interest and as a scientific record.

The Historical Society of Argenteuil County naturally feels that such a Natural History Museum or set of collections is not their direct responsibility, having their hands already more than full with the work of establishing a Historical Museum. However, they are prepared and anxious to co-operate fully with any societies or individuals wishing to assist in establishing such collections. The Historical Society is prepared to offer space in the building, museum cases, supervision, and general facilities for this purpose.

The value of an attached reference library, and reading room, to such collections is inestimable, and the Wales library in the Barracks could easily be made to include the necessary reference books in the various specialties.

In fact, already a number of natural history specimens and reference books are on hand giving some idea of the resources easily available in the neighborhood.

Possibly interest centres specially on the animal kingdom in the district. As the county becomes settled and cultivated the fauna is changing, many species are becoming locally extinct, while others are being introduced. One needs only to refer to the value of a knowldege of entomology in a farming community to illustrate these points. The study of ornithology is of particular value. With its varied terrain and situation on one of the main routes of the migrants, the Ottawa Valley is remarkable for the diversity of its birds. Specimens of all classes should have an authentic record of the time and place of the collection, and it would soon become a matter of pride to add a new name to the records.

A complete record and collection of the plants of the district is of no less value and interest. Opportunity should be afforded to our school-children of identifying and getting to know the flowers, weeds and trees of the locality. Forestry and the lumber industry were the pioneer businesses which succeeded in having the whole Ottawa Valley opened up for settlement, and surely records should be preserved before it is too late.

Of great value would be a collection illustrating the interesting geology of the county, and the many minerals found there. Mines have been established in Argenteuil County from time to time of magnesite, mica, apatite, granite, limestone and even the precious metals, and specimens and records from these should be preserved.

There is probably no centre in the county which has not some private collector of one of these branches of natural science, who would be willing to donate at least duplicates to a certain public collection or would undertake to supervise one section of such a collection and make it as complete as possible so that it could be used for reference and education. This would make our museum of interest and value to the whole community.

After all, an individual private collection is a selfish thing, and my only wish is to point out to local societies and collectors the great opportunity of making a local public collection which would be noteworthy.

If any local society or individual should wish to assist in such endeavor, a note addressed to the Secretary of the Historical Society of Argenteuil County, St. Andrews East, Que., will meet with ready response and co-operation.

Presbyterian Y.P.S. Conclude Activities for Season

The closing meeting of the Presbyterian Y.P.S. was held last evening with about 25 members attending. Following the devotionals, a short business meeting was called, the principal item being a motion to ratify the annual subscription toward the Maintenance Fund; this was passed without discussion. Members then joined in a session of party games and singing, to conclude with generous portions of ice cream and cake.

Although no definite arrangements have been made, it is planned that the Society will hold the annual midsummer picnic as usual; when and where this will be held will be announced later, possibly by the "grapevine" route.

Members are scheduled to commence about the third Wednesday in September, and all members and friends of the Y.P.S. are asked to keep this fact in mind and to be on hand when September rolls around.

19th Annual Convention of County W.I.

REPORTS HEARD AND OFFICERS ELECTED; OVER 100 MEMBERS IN ATTENDANCE

The nineteenth annual convention of Argenteuil County Women's Institutes, which was held in the recreation hall of Lachute Consolidated School, had a wonderful attendance, about 115 members being present to enjoy the sessions and the social contacts of the gathering. If the Women's Institute were not helpful in any other way, it would still be a benefit to the women of the county by way of helping them to get personally acquainted with each other, as members foregather at this annual meeting from Morin Heights in the Laurentians right across the county to the Ottawa River.

The president, Mrs. Leslie Morris, was in the chair, and was assisted by the secretary, Mrs. D. J. Rodgers. The sessions, morning and afternoon, opened with the usual patriotic songs, O Canada and the Ode. The secretaries of the different branches, also convenors of each department, gave interesting reports which showed that a very successful and active year's work had been accomplished. Much had been done in the department of Child Welfare and Public Health by way of providing milk for undernourished children, medical care for children who needed it, furnishing much-needed glasses for those with poor vision, straightening crooked limbs, etc., also providing warm clothing and nutritious food for invalids. As a further gesture of good will the secretary was authorized to send flowers to all members who were ill, as a gift of the members of the County W.I.

Educational measures ranked almost equally with the Health measures, quite an amount of assistance having been given to schools by the branches, and by Lachute in particular.

After due consideration as to the possibility of giving one scholarship to the pupil taking the highest percentage of marks, passing from a rural school in the county into grade eight of Lachute Consolidated School, a vote was taken on the matter and the decision to give the scholarship from the county funds carried. This does not include children from rural districts who are now being conveyed by bus to the Consolidated School daily, but is meant for those outside the consolidated districts.

A letter was read from one of the Argenteuil County life members (Lady Perley), regretting her inability to be present, the disappointment at her absence being somewhat lessened by her promise to attend the fall semi-annual meeting.

As this is the twenty-fifth anniversary of the forming of the first Women's Institute Branch (Pioneer) in the county, it was decided to commemorate the event by holding a county picnic. Mrs. J. E. Seale, of Morin Heights, kindly offered the use of the grounds at her summer home at Lake Anne, to the delight of many of the members. This offer was accepted, the date to be set later.

Among the reports of money expended and taken in during the year by the branches, a balance of $679 was noted.

The members stood for a few moments in loving remembrance of sister members lost by death during the year — Mrs. J. Douglas, Mrs. A. Boa and Mrs. C. Calder.

The president, Mrs. L. Morris, in a short address thanked the members for their kindness to her during the year, which had made her task such an enjoyable one. She had been able to make thirteen visits to the branches during the year, also to hold nine extra meetings with her presidents and convenors. Mrs. Morris expressed her satisfaction with the new "Home and Country" and advised all members to subscribe, the price being only twenty-five cents per year and the magazine worth much more than that for the information that it contained.

A letter was read from Miss H. B. McCain asking aid for Farmborough district, and one reminding of the fact that all invitations sent members by Her Excellency must be accepted and that no substitutions could be made; the one invited must accept Her Excellency's kind invitation.

Mrs. G. W. Kuhring, Mrs. J. D. Davis and Mrs. S. J. Pike were appointed a Resolutions Committee, and the resolutions presented and accepted by the convention will appear in next issue of The Watchman.

The Nominating Committee was composed of the presidents of the branches, who chose Mrs. G. Leggett of Lachute as their convenor. The nominations presented for the coming year, and accepted by the convention, were — honorary president, Mrs. Archie Graham, Grenville, R. R. 1; president, Mrs. L. Morris, Lachute; first vice-president, Mrs. G. Armstrong, Box 28, Lachute; second vice-president, Mrs. R. W. Robinson, Lachute, R.R. 1; secretary, Mrs. D. J. Rodgers, Lachute, R.R. 1; treasurer, Mrs. Ross Muir, Lachute, R.R. 1.

Convenors of departments elected were: Agriculture, Mrs. Archie Murdock, Brownsburg, R. R. 1; Canadian Industries, Mrs. James A. Hay, Lachute, R.R. 5; Canadianization and National Events, Miss M. Walker, Lachute, R R. 1; Child Welfare - Public Health, Mrs. Willis Seale, Morin Heights; Education - Better Schools, Mrs. John Mason, Brownsburg; Home Economics, Mrs. Gordon Smith, Lachute, R. R. 4; Immigration, Mrs. Stanley Smith, Lachute, R. R. 1, Legislation, Mrs. G. W. Kuhring, Lakefield, Que.; Publicity, Mrs. A. Graham, Grenville, R. R. 1. Members are requested to copy these names and addresses down, in the space provided in the inside cover of their yearly program book, for future reference—adding Legislation, which has been unintentionally omitted from the list, also that of treasurer, which has been added to the list.

Through kindness of Mr. W. Cottingham and Mr. A. Fassio, the Home Beautification Convenor, Mrs. Lemuel Wilson, was enabled to have the members of convention and some of their friends treated to a talk on "Color Effects," also to have them witness an interesting and entertaining movie, "Anne's House of Dreams."

Mrs. Jessie Treil, in her talk on Color Effects, claimed that colors affected the mind, therefore cheerful light effects were much more beneficial to the mind than dark, depressing colors; also that different colors affected different minds. This entertainment was a pleasant climax to the annual meeting. The noon luncheon, for which the Lakefield Branch were convenors, was most enjoyable.

Community Work Topic at Sectional Meeting, B'burg

The principal speaker at the meeting of the Ottawa Valley Section, Montreal Presbyterial W.M.S., United Church of Canada, to be held in the Brownsburg United Church on June 8th, will be Miss Mary Thompson, of St. Columba House, Montreal. Miss Thompson is a most pleasing speaker and the human interest stories which she tells of the men, women and children of this crowded slum district of Canada's largest city are descriptive of the work which the church is striving to do for the betterment of these fellow Canadians.

Other speakers at the meeting will be Mrs. J. Addison Reid, Montreal, recording secretary of the Montreal-Ottawa Conference Branch W.M.S., who will bring the latest developments of the work from the Dominion Board at present meeting in Toronto. Mrs. J. S. Astbury, president, and Mrs. J. C. Hillyer, Mrs. Frank Peden and Mrs. R. DeWitt Scott, executive officers of the Montreal Presbyterial, will also speak.

As this is the tenth annual Sectional Meeting, Mrs. William Usher, of Cushing, first vice-president of the Section, will give a brief history of the growth of the work of the district.

The meeting will open at 2 p.m. (D.S.T.), and tea will be served by the ladies of the Brownsburg Auxiliary at 4:30, after which the meeting will continue. Mrs. E. J. Shearman, district vice-president, will be in the chair.

Retiring Minister and His Wife Honored by Friends

St. Andrews E. — Rev. Dr. R. L. Ballantyne and Mrs. Ballantyne were guests of honor at a banquet tendered them by the congregation of the Presbyterian Church, as a mark of esteem for their ten years' service with the church. Dr. Ballantyne is now retiring from the ministry after 45 years of active service. A toast to Dr. Ballantyne and his wife was proposed by Mr. Felix Hungerbuhler. On behalf of the congregation and friends, Capt. D. Weir, who acted as toastmaster, made the presentation of a purse of money to the doctor, and Mrs. Ballantyne was presented with a silver tray, by Mrs. J. P. Bradley. The event took place on Friday evening, May 26th.

Y.P.S. Closing Meeting

The Lachute United Young People's Society held their closing meeting last evening, with about 40 members and visitors present. Mr. Harold Deacon, president, was in the chair.

After the devotionals and business meeting, a variety program was enjoyed. Owen Todd favored with two solos, Gordon Anderson, of Brownsburg, with piano-accordion solos, the "Red Patchers" with old-time music, and Miss Edith Rosborough with two recitations.

The speaker of the evening, introduced by Rev. W. B. Rosborough, was Rev. W. A. Dempsey, minister of St. Mungo's Church, Cushing. He gave a very fitting address, leaving with his audience an earnest challenge to follow up their activities with equal zeal in the coming year.

A token of remembrance was then presented to Miss Edith Jones, whose marriage takes place in the near future.

Games were played and refreshments served, and the evening closed with a sing-song followed by the national anthem.

BILLY, THE CAT, IS A CONTRARY HERO

In an early morning fire in Regina, Billy, a year-old cat, aroused its mistress who managed to escape the flames before they destroyed the home. The cat would not stay with the mistress in a new home in another part of the city, so she gave it to the children of her previous neighbor. Bill is quite happy, as he can be seen in the above picture, but each night he crawls into the fire-charred ruins of the old home to sleep where his old bedroom used to be.

CORRECTION

We learn that the report in The Watchman last week concerning an auto accident on the bridge at St. Andrews on the morning of May 20th was incorrect and misleading. Why Shortness of Breath?

A person who breathes comfortably when at rest, but gets out of breath when some physical exercise is taken, naturally wants to know the reason.

In the young and middle-aged, unusual shortness of breath on exertion in the absence of lung or heart disease, is due to being "out of condition." The causes of being "out of condition" are:

1. Want of regular exercise, which makes the heart as well as other muscles flabby and unequal to extra effort.
2. Obesity, that is, being over-fat. This is always due to the taking of too much food, as well as to the invariable lack of exercise taken by obese individuals.
3. Over-indulgence in tobacco or alcohol.
4. The absorption of poisonous substances from teeth, tonsils, bowels, etc.
5. All conditions of general debility as from illness, under-nourishment or too long confinement indoors.
6. Anaemia — that is, poor blood. In such cases the blood lacks color, the heart is under-nourished and the oxygen supply to the lungs is at a low level.

The most important of all causes of shortness of breath is in the case of disorder and disease of the heart and diseases of the lungs such as chronic bronchitis and tuberculosis.

Disorder and disease of the heart may occur early in life but these, particularly actual disease, are commoner in adult life. Shortness of breath in adult life and in the aged is usually the best indication of the heart's capacity. It is often a better sign of the condition of the heart than can be obtained from physical examination.

Chronic bronchitis and tuberculosis, by interfering with the normal function of the lungs, will cause shortness of breath. The blood in such condition is unable to gain a sufficient supply of oxygen for an adequate lung supply. In the young, one should take note of breathlessness. It is often associated with heart or lung disease. The best time to treat such a condition is before the cause has progressed very far. One of the best means of warding off the consequences of the various agencies productive of breathlessness is by regular physical examination. This advice pertains to both young and old. If universally followed, it would prevent much severe illness and many premature deaths.

Just A Moment, Please!

CONTRIBUTION IN DEFENCE OF THE SCHOOL TEACHER

Who wants to join the teaching profession? What, be a teacher; that's easy, anyone can be a teacher! — Do you think so? Do you realize that it is a difficult task to teach some people's little darlings? Would you attempt to instruct your neighbor's little James? I can almost hear you say, "Teach James, that spoiled brat, he's too dumb to learn." And yet, you expect the teacher to give your own child some sadly neglected training.

Now let us see if everyone can be a teacher. Remember, few teachers are born; most are made. Probably the only born teachers were Christ and Socrates. Is it a disgrace if Uncle Tom fails to sell lace gloves to the Eskimo? Yet the whispering campaign engraves the mark of doom on someone who, failing to become a teacher, chooses another profession. Yet when Uncle Tom turned to selling fur gauntlets we did not discuss his failings. Certainly, many could never be a teacher.

Now I shall treat with the qualifications of the teacher. Formerly a teacher could, after a short period of four months' training, graduate with a permanent diploma. In fact, all diplomas granted were permanent. Now, however, we have come to demand more of our teachers. All students must undertake one year of training. Interim certificates, good for three years, are then granted. Compulsory attendance at some approved summer school, and two years of successful teaching, as certified by an inspector of schools, are now necessary before permanent diplomas are granted. During this interim period "school marms" are weeded out. Thus an attempt has been made to improve the profession. Not content with this, most teachers seek to improve their professional status by attending refresher courses and by doing extra-mural work from some university. Teachers seek to master a subject, to impart ten facts to the pupils, and then hope that the poor child may retain at least one fact. Yet as a reward, Tommy says, "Please, Teacher, must we remembr what is not in the book?"

According to law, no unqualified teacher may teach. Then why is it allowed? Well, you know some "marms" just must do some "centre-aislin'" and then the profession is lacking another supporter. Again our abominably low salaries frighten off many prospective teachers. Imagine attempting to pay the cost of your training, together with your ordinary expenses, on the unheard-of sum of thirty dollars per month. Possibly if you have some pull, you may be engaged to enhance some high school. Unattractive salaries may be said to cause the lack of a plentiful supply of trained teachers, thus making it necessary to engage unqualified teachers.

Would you not say that the teacher needs (1) Un peu de savoir, beaucoup de bon sens, et infiniment de dévouement. (2) Co-operation between pupil and teacher. (3) Co-operation between parents and teacher. (4) Respect. — Does your child know how to act when addressing his teacher? Visit some of our schools and judge for yourself.

Just think how you could help Teacher. Could not Tommy have silence when he is doing his lessons? Is the radio going bla-bla-bla? Would it not be co-operation if Ma and Pa took some interest in what Tommy is doing at school? Now, think for yourself.

However, everything being said and done, just think what the minister thought as he chose for the text of his sermon:— "Mind Your Own Business."

Ain't It?

Time to find your golfing togs,
Polish up your clubs;
(This applies to amateurs, Professionals and dubs).
Time to practice up that drive,
Eliminate that slice:
Spring is in the air and, say,
Brother, ain't it nice?

Better hunt your fishing rod,
Sort your plugs and flies;
Soon you'll be a-wandering
Under summer skies.
There's a Big One that you lost,
Took your hook and line . . .
Got to go a-fishin' soon,
Brother, ain't it fine?

Time to get the old bus out,
Put it to the test;
Roads are calling once again
Calling east and west.
Study up that well-thumbed map,
Spring has cast her spell . . .
Got to hit the Open Road;
Brother, ain't it swell?

AFTERMATH

It was hard to settle down to work after the Royal visit. For one thing, everyone was so tired they were fairly numb. Then we were all busy comparing notes on how often we had seen the King and Queen; how dignified and sincere the King had looked; how beautiful the Queen was and how natural; who had the honor of speaking to them. Oh, well, you know, you probably have been doing the same thing. . . . You never saw so many cameras in your life. They were in action even the week before, taking pictures of the decorations and the buildings by day and by night. It was difficult to get waited on in the camera supply stores. . . . Never again can it be said that Canadians can't cheer. The school children were trained to cheer. They were lined up and cheered daily as the mounted soldiers went by, to accustom the horses to noise. . . . What a wonderful thing it is for a King, who is rather shy and retiring by nature, to have a wife, who spontaneously does the natural and winning thing. . . . The French Canadians I have spoken to are very much delighted over the visit. They are pleased that the reception in Quebec and Montreal was so enthusiastic. They were touched because Their Majesties used the French language to speak to them publicly and to chat with their people. They feel it is going to make for a better understanding between the French and the English speaking people. . . . What a strain it must be to be dressed, looking at one's best, and on parade, all one's waking moments for weeks at a time. Even though the Queen has the loveliest of clothes and the most adequate help, yet it is a strain, which any woman can appreciate. It is an ordeal to be on view over such a long period and we all love and admire the King and Queen for having the courage and the willingness to undertake it. Doubtless, they enjoy seeing the people and realizing their intense loyalty and love, but being human, they must also welcome the stretches of their tour when they can be out of the public eye.

THE NATIONAL WAR MEMORIAL

Chaos has reigned around the National War Memorial and the newly widened Elgin Street for months. As the time for the Royal visit grew closer and closer, it looked to the casual eye as if the work never could be finished in time. Those who knew said there was really much less to do than appeared and that it would be finished in time. Well, it was. The transformation of the area in such a short time is almost unbelievable. Elgin Street has been widened to make a fitting approach. In front of the Memorial, itself, are wide, low, granite steps. It is not stairs really, as the risers seem to be only inches high, but an approach, and it makes all the difference in the world in the appearance of the Memorial. The perspective is changed and it takes on an appearance of size and grandeur and is very imposing. The area on the sides has been landscaped, sodded and planted with a cedar hedge, shrubs and trees. Large trees which are in position only a matter of days look as if they have been growing in that very spot for years. It is thrilling in its beauty and we may all be proud of our National War Memorial.

THE CAPITAL AT NIGHT

Ottawa as it is lighted for the Royal visit is a picture, so beautiful that it is a pity it could not be lighted so, all the time. They have used flood-lighting, on Parliament Hill. The East and West Blocks and the Peace Tower are flood-lit and it brings out the beauty of their architecture. There is a large jewelled crown on the Peace Tower, a smaller King's Crown over the Commons entrance and the Queen's Crown over the Senate. When these are lighted at night they stand out very clearly. Every window in the Parliament Buildings had the lights turned on and the whole effect was very beautiful. The Memorial was flood-lighted and it showed it up as nothing else had done. It is imposing, and grand, and beautiful. Perhaps the loveliest effect of all was the Chateau Laurier. It looked like a castle in Fairyland. The roof of the Chateau, like that of some of the Government Buildings, is of copper, and as it weathers it turns green and the older it gets the greener it is. The roof was flood-lighted as well as the rest of the building and the whole thing was indescribably lovely. For several nights before the Royal visit, every car in Ottawa must have been out, seeing the lighted area around Connaught Place and the adjacent Major Hill Park and Nepean Point, where there were five thousand colored lights. I wish all who are reading this could have seen it as you would have been proud of your Capital city.

MINT JELLY

1 cup mint (solidly packed), 3½ cups sugar, ½ cup vinegar, 1 cup water, ½ bottle liquid pectin, green coloring.

Wash the mint and pack solidly into cup, using both stems and leaves. Press with a spoon or potato masher. Add vinegar, water and sugar, mix well and bring to a boil on the hottest fire. While the mixture is coming to the boil, add the coloring matter until the desired shade is reached. When the mixture boils add the pectin and bring to a full rolling boil, then boil hard for ½ minute. Remove from the fire, skim and strain to remove mint. Pour into jelly glasses and seal.

HEAENLY FOOD

2 eggs beaten separately; ⅔ cup white sugar; ½ teaspoon vanilla; speck of salt; scant ½ cup flour; 1 teaspoon baking powder; 1 cup dates, cut in pieces; 1 cup nuts chopped.

Beat the egg yolks until thick and lemon colored; add sugar, gradually beating after addition. Add vanilla. Stir in sifted dry ingredients. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites; add the dates and nuts. Bake in a buttered 8" square pan in a slow oven of 300 degrees. Cut in squares. This is a silly name for a very good recipe. It seemed just as silly when I first made it over twenty years ago. Regardless of its name, I often make it.

HOUSE AND HOME

By Mary E. Dague
Author of Sister Mary's Kitchen

During the month of June weddings and school parties are in the spotlight, so suggestions for these affairs are in great demand. Whether you plan a class party or a wedding reception, you will undoubtedly want to serve a fruit punch and of course the question "how much" comes almost as the first thought.

One gallon of punch will serve 35 sherbet or punch glasses, or 20 eight-ounce glasses. For a reception calculate one and one-half to two glasses for each person. For the dance or class party three or even four glasses should be allowed to the person.

To make coffee for fifty, allow one and one-fourth pounds of ground coffee and two and one-half gallons of water. Put the coffee in two or three muslin bags and tie loosely. If you want to use an egg, wash it well and beat it, shell and all, into coffee before putting into the bags. If you do use the egg, start coffee with cold water. If you don't use egg, drop bags of coffee into boiling water. In any event cover kettle or pot tightly.

Chicken salad always is a favorite for festive occasions, so here is an especially good recipe.

Chicken Salad for Fifty

Two five-pound hens, 10 cups diced celery, 4 cups diced hard cooked eggs, 6 cups diced pineapple, 3 cups salted pecans, 2 quarts chicken stock, 8 tablespoons plain, unflavored gelatin, 1½ cups cold water, 2 tablespoons salt, 1 quart mayonnaise, 6 heads lettuce.

Cook hens in enough water to cover until tender. Put on to cook in cold water and keep at a simmering temperature. When tender remove from stock. Remove meat from bones and cut in neat dice. Discard skin, fat and bits of gristle. Strain stock and heat to boiling point.

Sprinkle gelatin over cold water and let stand five minutes. Add boiling stock and let stand until cool and beginning to jell. Add diced chicken, celery, eggs, pineapple, nuts and salt and turn into a mold. Chill until firm. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise.

If you use fresh pineapple, be sure to scald it before adding to the gelatin.

Now is the time to sow annual flower seeds in your perennial borders. Poppies, zinnias, marigolds, snapdragons and larkspur are splendid to use to fill up the bare spots. Verbenas will make a colorful groundcover around perennials that you want to bloom again in the early autumn.

Once upon a time, ladies believed that smoking ruined the lace curtains.

MODERN WOMEN

By Earlene White

The women of South America are forging ahead more rapidly than we realize, making headway in public affairs, even in states where they do not have the vote. In Argentina, for example, a woman has held what is practictlly a cabinet post, serving as administrator of the entire social welfare programs and Brazil has a woman, Dona Gerimina Mesquita, who set up the nursing home and school for the Rockefeller Foundation. A woman in Uraguay is minister in charge of the administration of the child labor code.

Having made valuable explorations on the East Greenland coast, Miss Louise A. Boyd has received the decorations of St. Olaf from Norway and the Legion of Honor from France. She has just reported her latest expedition to the Arctic to the American Geographical Society. She is credited with having pushed further north than any woman explorer in the world, though she modestly refuses to make that claim for herself, in spite of the fact that her friends do.

Intellectual young women do not rate so high as wives down in Panama, according to Miss Georgie Jimenez de Rivera, who is the first woman of Panama City to receive a Ph.D. It's largely tradition, she says, for the men have been used to having their wives as pleasant companions, but never as competitors in any way. It never hurts their sense of importance.

But Miss Jimenez says that the women themselves are going to correct this attitude. For instance, she expects herself to spend the next few years telling her own country and the United States how to build a closer commercial and cultural friendship so that the Americas can get along fairly well without Europe.

One of the most indefatigable workers for her native country is Mme. Wellington Koo, wife of the Chinese Ambassador to France, who has been in the United States for some time. She has arranged and managed every sort of benefit, teas, theatricals and even auctions of some of her own treasures.

Included among her prized possessions is a marvelous collection of Oriental gowns, which she prefers to European dress though she admits that no country in the world can compare with America for shoes. And she also likes American automobiles.

No Object of Pity

The agitation by spinsters for a pension came under fire when the Association of Women Clerks and Secretaries held their annual conference in London recently. Miss A. C. Beamish, who presided, said that in upholding the dignity of womanhood they could only oppose a proposition which considered a woman who had not succeeded in catching a husband was so much an object of pity that she had to be compensated at the rate of 10s per week. "We consider that it is better to work for improved conditions for all women and pensions at a lower age for all," she added.

Two Repeat Recipes

By Betty Barclay

A "repeat" recipe is one that makes the kind of dish we serve over and over again. It's the type that rates a preferred position in the permanent file.

EGG AND VEGETABLE SALAD

1 package salad gelatin (aspic), 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup cold water, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 tablespoon minced onion, 2 hard cooked eggs (chopped), 2 teaspoons chopped parsley, ½ cup cooked peas, ¼ cup grated raw carrot.

Dissolve salad gelatin in boiling water; add cold water, salt, paprika, lemon juice and onion. Chill until mixture begins to thicken then add chopped eggs and vegetables. Pour into molds and chill until firm. Serve on lettuce with salad dressing. 6 servings.

STRAWBERRY BLOSSOM TART

1 package gelatin dessert (strawberry flavor), 1 cup boiling water, ½ cup cold water, 1 cup crushed strawberries, ¼ cup powdered sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, ½ cup cream (whipped and sweetened), 1 small baked pastry shell.

Dissolve quick-setting gelatin in boiling water; add cold water, strawberries, sugar and salt. Chill until very thick but not set. Pour into baked pastry shell and chill until firm. Garnish top with whipped cream and sliced strawberries. Makes one small pie.

The DOCTOR Tells the Story
by W.E. Aughinbaugh, M.D.

LOCKJAW

Tetanus, or lockjaw, a disease almost wholly preventable, is today on the increase, due to a lack of knowledge of its seriousness on the part of the laity.

In the days when Napoleon stalked about Europe with his army, a majority of the wounded succumbed to tetanus because the missiles of warfare drove cloth, dirty, rusty iron and other debris into the wounds, and it was the Little Corporal's surgeon, Larry, who described this disease which is typical of the tetanus today.

That lockjaw is preventable is proven by the work done during the World War, when there was but 0.117 per cent of this dreaded disease among 2,032,142 wounded British soldiers, and only 0.0008 per cent occurring among 1,237,500 victims of industrial accidents.

It happens more frequently among the male sex, because of their dangers to exposure. It is more frequently encountered among children than adults, probably due to their playing in the dirt and among rusted iron which has been cast off. And it happens with greater frequency in the south than the north.

The automobile, with its various metal parts, shaking rust off along the roads it travels,, means that persons hurt in accidents due to these conveyances account for much of the increase of lockjaw among patients.

The tetanus bacillus was discovered in 1885 by Nicolaier, and an antitoxine was discovered later for this disease by Kitasato and Behring in 1890 and today used extensively clinically as a phophylactic therapeutic measure.

In a series of 813 cases of tetanus, Dr. Graves found that fully 50 per cent was caused by splinters and nail wounds. Other types of wounds, such as lacerations, abrasions, incised wounds, wadding or shot from firearms, dirty or soiled clothing or earth coming in contact with an open cut may cause the infection.

A patient with tetanus develops rigid muscles, his jaws become locked so he cannot chew, then follows spasms, with extreme rigidy of the jaws and an inability to swallow, with the entire body becoming tense. There is profuse perspiration, profuse exhaustion and then death relieves the sufferer.

All this can be prevented if one does not ignore small wounds. Perhaps the best immediate relief is to swab wounds with iodine, a supply of which should always be kept in an automobile. After that a doctor should be consulted. Ash heaps and old junk piles should be cleaned up, for the tetanus bacillus thrives in them.

TRAILERS . . . . . homes
Now that summer is at hand, the people who keep tab on such things are predicting that there will be twice as many trailers on the roads this year as last.
Something like 400,000 people dragging their homes behind them; and a lot of them will find spots where they would like to stay and will stay there, with no other home than the trailer.
A lot of people on this continent will be worried about the growth in the trailer population. California is especially distressed about the increasing number of people who come there in trailers and stay, without buying or renting a house.

GYPSIES . . . . . nomads
In the year 1417 a strange, dark-skinned people, moving in small bands from place to place and settling down nowhere, first began to flock into Western Europe. Because people took them for Egyptians, they came to be known as "Gypsies."
They were really from India, and the strange language they spoke, and their descendants still speak all over the world, was a dialect of the ancient Sanskrit, the mother language of almost all European and Indian tongues.
Gypsies got a bad reputation because of their ability to get the better of simple folk in horse-trades, and because they fooled silly women into believing they had the power to foretell the future.
And because the Gypsies had no fixed homes, travelled in covered wagons or caravans and lived in the open "respectable" people came to look with suspicion upon anybody of any race who chose to roam instead of "staying put."

Timely Fire

Just as Jennings Neely, fire insurance salesman of Rock Hill, S.C., had turned away from the home of a prospect without selling a policy, he saw flames break through the roof of a neighboring house. DENIED STOUTLY
(Halifax Herald)
"Fatness," says a doctor, "is often the result of sheer laziness." This, no doubt, will be stoutly denied.

MIGRATION . . . . census
A short time ago I sat in a conference of a hundred or more people who discussed for two days what sort of questions are to be asked of the American people in the census of 1940.
I was most impressed by the insistence by the majority of the group that everybody should be required to tell where he or she lived ten years ago. The purpose is, of course, to find out whether people are still crowding into cities or moving back to the country.
From what I learned from the experts there, I was glad to find that the old roving spirit still persists. The problem of internal migration is a baffling one for those who would like to see every citizen planted in a fixed spot.
It was interesting, too, to learn that the swing of population is definitely away from the cities and back in the country. More people than in years are seeking security for their families by whole time or part time subsistence in farming.
But watch these families start roving as soon as they are old enough to get out on their own !

FAIRS . . . . . inspiration
I have seen many great expositions. I have learned something from every one of them. Of all the fairs ever staged, the New York World's Fair is the greatest, in size and beauty and in the extent and marvels of its exhibits.
Considered solely as a place of entertainment, it is a great and diversified show. But the real purpose of this and all other expositions is to teach people something. The entertainment features are merely the sugar-coating to induce people to come to the show. People are so constituted that we resent being educated unless information is handed to us in the guise of play.
The ones who will get the most out of this year's fairs are the young folks. Nobody can guess what kind of new ideas that will be put into children's heads by the mechanical, electrical and other marvels they can see at the fair.
But it is a safe bet that hundreds, perhaps thousands, will come home with their brains working in new directions. Some of the greatest human achievements have been made by men and women who first got their inspirations from what they saw at a great fair.

CITY . . . . . growth
New York's World's Fair commemorates the 150th anniversary of the inauguration of George Washington as first President of the United States, in 1789. Nobody could have dreamed then that New York would become the greatest city in America. In Washington's day it had fewer than 15,000 inhabitants; Philadelphia was nearly twice as large.
What has made New York great is its magnificent harbor and the system of waterways which connect the harbor with inland America.
When the West began to be settled, New York got the jump on all other seaboard cities by digging the 300-mile Erie Canal, connecting the Great Lakes with the upper Hudson River. The products of the West flowed to New York, and into New York came the ships bringing goods for shipment to the West.
The invention of railroads gave other ports a chance to get a slice of the Commerce of New York. So much trade has been going elsewhere in recent years that New Yorkers felt their city was slipping. The World's Fair was projected to advertise the city to the world as still the nation's centre of industry, commerce and trade.

PACIFIC . . . . . thrilling
I haven't yet seen the San Francisco World's Fair in San Francisco Bay, but I intend to visit it before it closes. No youngster's education is complete until he has crossed the Rocky Mountains and the Great Divide.

ALLIANCE . . . opportunity
I haven't the slightest doubt that the time will come when the boundary lines between the United States and Canada will be completely wiped out, as they practically are now. I do not feel so sure that the two nations will ever merge into one, but I believe there will be such a close alliance between us that we will be able to make a united stand against any possible enemy.
If the mineral, agricultural and forest wealth of Canada were added to the industrial resources and energy of the United States, the combination would be the greatest self-contained unit in the world. There is room today for everybody of this and the next two or three generations. I hear a lot of silly talk about the lack of opportunity. Canada, larger than the United States, with fewer people than in one state alone, is still a frontier country, with rich rewards awaiting the pioneers who will develop her resources.

Uncertainty on Dissolution of Parliament and General Election

IN FINAL MEASURES, PARLIAMENT PASSES LEGISLATION TO COUNTERACT FOREIGN PROPAGANDA; AMENDMENT TO OFFICIAL SECRETS ACT

"THE OTTAWA SPOTLIGHT"

Ottawa, June 5 — Another session of the Dominion Parliament has passed into history. Whether before another session is held there will be a dissolution of Parliament and a general election, is still unknown. It may be, of course, that members of the Cabinet may have pretty decided views on the question, but to the rank and file of parliamentarians and to observers who have their ears and eyes open, the question is still shrouded in uncertainty. A statement made in the House by Mr. Ilsley, that reform in the Civil Service Act suggested by a committee of the House would have to be dealt with at the next session of Parliament, has been taken to mean that there would be a 1940 session of this Parliament with dissolution following and an election on its heels. But such a conclusion, while fairly plausible, is by no means certain. So prophets will remain in a quandary until the Prime Minister makes known his decision.

In the last days of the session both Houses of Parliament have been debating, amending and passing the last of the Government measures, and in the case of the House of Commons, in passing estimates for the various departments of the Government. Discussion of estimates is an exceedingly important function of Parliament. In the main estimates nowadays over 450 million dollars are involved. Two committees have also been busily engaged, one in investigating the Bren Gun contract, and the other, the banking and commerce committee, in discussing the provisions of the Central Mortgage Bank Act. The Bren Gun contract with the John Inglis Company of Toronto, which was investigated by Judge Davis of the Supreme Court, continues to be the object of bitter controversy. There is a sharp cleavage of opinion on clearly marked political lines. The meetings of the committee have been enlivened by sharp and sometimes acrimonious passages between Mr. McGeer of B.C. and Col. Drew, Conservative leader in Ontario, whose article appearing in a magazine started the long drawn-out dispute.

A number of amendments have been made in committee to the Mortgage Bill. The main principles of the Bill remain unaltered. These main principles are the application of the Bill to both country and urban mortgages throughout the Dominion, the reduction of mortgages to eighty per cent of the appraised value of property to which they apply, the cancellation of accrued interest up to two years back, the equal division of the loss sustained by the reduction of the principal of mortgages and interest cancellation, between the Government and the lending companies. The construction of the bank remains as originally intended. It will have a capital of ten million dollars and will have the power to issue bonds to an amount not exceeding 200 million dollars. Rates of interest on farming property will be reduced to five per cent. However, an amendment will allow mortgages on urban property to reach a maximum of five and a half per cent. Another amendment will allow the provisions of the Bill to apply to mortgages on a two family dwelling with a value up to $12,000. On a one family dwelling the amount is still restricted as provided in the original draft of the Bill to $7,000. It was stated by Mr. Dunning that he believed the cost to the Government of the operation of the Act would probably be between 40 and 45 million dollars and this would be spread over a period of 20 years. The Government's share of the loss is paid by the bank bonds which are amortized over a twenty year period.

NEW OFFICIAL SECRETS ACT

The Dominion Parliament has taken a very firm stand on the question of espionage in Canada. Naturalized Canadians who carry on enemy propaganda will find their naturalization certificates cancelled and they will be deported. There is a provision in the Act to give the punishment of seven years at hard labor for spying or betraying official secrets. The Minister of Justice gave a serious warning to those who might engage in subversive propaganda.

Among the bills of importance passing through Parliament in the final days of the session were the measure to create a salt fish board, and the Act providing compensation to railway employees suffering from joint measures of economy in the two great railways. The salt fish board will consist of three members. Originally the provision was for a membership of five, but this was reduced to three. The legislation aims to revive Canada's salt fish export trade. It has labored against competition of other countries, many of whom bonus the trade. The new Canadian board will study the whole trade and is empowered by an appropriation of $800,000 to pay bonuses up to 25 per cent of the value of the fish exported. It is hoped to regain and strengthen our position in foreign markets. The methods by which Norway and other European countries are helping their fisheries industry were explained by members of the House. Closer to home, Newfoundland bonuses its fishermen and compensates them against loss.

The interest load carried by the Government owned railway, the Canadian National, has been steadily reduced in recent years, the Minister of Transport, Mr. Howe, told the House of Commons. Every possible step short of repudiation has been taken, said the Minister. The average rate on the railway bonds was now less than four per cent. The rate was being steadily reduced as bonds bearing higher rates reached maturity and were being refunded. The crux of the problem was that the debt charges of the C.N.R. averaged 27 per cent of the railway's gross earnings while interest charges of the C.P.R. were 17 per cent of that railway's gross earnings and the equivalent figure for Class One railways in the United States was 16 per cent.

RIPE TOMATOES PICKED IN LOCAL GARDEN

Mr. and Mrs. John Houle, who keep a restaurant west of St. Philippe, have been enjoying ripe home-grown tomatoes for almost a week past. The plants were from seed started indoors during February, and have been thriving outdoors now for three or four weeks. . . This interesting item is told by a Watchman subscriber, J. Hutt, who took supper with his daughter, Mrs. Houle, and was treated to the fruits of this early crop.

CARS AND TRUCKS IN HIGHWAY MISHAPS

Two cars in collision three miles west of town on the No. 8 Highway were wrecked beyond repair last Sunday night at 11 o'clock. A Graham-Paige sedan, proceeding eastward and driven by Alphonse Poirier, 4727 St. André Street, Montreal, met with a Hawkesbury car, a DeSoto roadster, driven by Jas. A. Hogan. Neither driver was hurt, but a passenger in the roadster, J. H. McDonald, suffered a badly sprained back. McDonald is an employee of the Gatineau Electric in Hawkesbury. Traffic Officer H. Jones, of Lachute, investigated the accident.

A 1936 Ford touring car and a Lachute Creamery truck came to grief in a collision Friday evening near the four corners about three miles east of Lachute on the Montreal highway. Provincial Detective Anderson, of Lachute, investigated. There was no injury, in spite of extensive damage caused to the two vehicles.

A crash at Lakefield, and other spills and collisions are reported from different quarters; but happily there was no loss of life or serious injury to the occupants.

Medical Society Asks Compulsory Pasteurization

SEEKS BY-LAW TO SAFEGUARD MILK SUPPLIES IN LACHUTE TOWN

A meeting of the Argenteuil Medical Association was held in the Court House, Lachute, on Monday afternoon, presided over by Dr. J. H. Mason. Members in attendance were Drs. A. Rodrigue, A. R. Coté, F. W. Fitzgerald, J. Lafleur, E. Lalande and W. F. McMartin—the latter performing the secretarial duties.

Object of the meeting was to discuss prevalent health conditions, causes and effects, in this community. Dr. E. Lalande was called upon to give his observations as provincial health officer of the county, and the outcome was a decision to approach Lachute Town Council with regard to compulsory pasteurization of milk supplies and products distributed here. The resolution read as follows:

"That a recommendation be presented to the Lachute Town Council asking that a by-law be passed enforcing compulsory pasteurization of all milk and all milk products sold in the Town of Lachute."

OLD AGE PENSIONS REACH 26 MILLION

A total of 47,898 old age pensions cheques amounting to $864,501.58 were sent out by the Quebec Old Age Pensions Bureau on May 31, it was announced by officials.

In addition, 1,483 other cheques, representing the sum of $26,626.68 were paid to blind persons throughout the province.

Since the Act became effective, over 26½ millions have been paid to old age pensioners in the province.

MEIGHEN IS CONVINCED, ELECTION THIS YEAR

Whatever may be the opinions of other political leaders on the likely date of the general Dominion election, no doubt exists in the mind of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader in the Senate. He is convinced there will be an appeal to the people this year.

"Newspapers and others are waiting for a voice as to whether there will be an election this year," Mr. Meighen told the Senate just before prorogation last night.

"I think I take no risk in becoming the announcer. There will be an election this year," Senator Meighen declared.

Organize District Association of Boy Musicians

REPRESENTATIVES GATHER TO LINK ACTIVITIES OF DISTRICT JUVENILE BANDS

A meeting at the White Inn, near Hawkesbury, last Monday, brought together a group of public minded individuals from widely scattered points in Quebec and Ontario.

These busy citizens who, pausing from their pursuits and interests, deemed it a wise sacrifice of both time and money, met with the purpose of fostering public interest in the rapidly growing movement of musical accomplishment among boys of school age in these two neighboring provinces. Representatives came from Shawville, Brownsburg, Lachute, Hawkesbury, Maxville, and Finch.

These communities all have excellent boys' bands, varying in membership from 15 boys to 32 boys whose average age is only 14 years, and the delegates from each community were the adults representing the committees of each individual organization, and who have voluntarily assumed the responsibility of the various groups. Many of these men are themselves parents of aspiring young musicians, but many are inspired purely by a wholesome interest in any citizen-building project.

Frank discussion of interesting problems and successes, resulted in convincing those present of the advisability of an interprovincial amalgamation. Thus was born an association of all these young bands, pledged to mutual assistance, the first two association activities being — (1) the establishment this summer of a "Musical Boys' Camp," the object being to draw performers from each community under a common leadership; and (2) the promotion of Massed Boys' Band Demonstrations in each of the member communities during the coming summer.

It is expected that, by this means, a Boys' Band of some 180 members can be assembled for the purpose of demonstration, and to impress the value of music as a means to better citizenship. Officers of the association was elected as follows: First president, Mr. Dennis Staniforth, principal Brownsburg Int. School; vice-president, Mr. W. Forsyth, Finch, Ont.; treasurer, Dr. W. A. McDowell, M.D., Shawville, Que.; musical director, Mr. A. B. Crighton, L.R.S.M., Toronto, Ont.; Maxville representative, Mr. G. McKillican; Hawkesbury representative, Rev. Dr. Holden; Lachute representative to be appointed later.

Members of the Hawkesbury Junior Band Committee were hosts to some 14 delegates, who enjoyed a splendid turkey dinner at this charming hostelry.

AN INFORMAL SCENE — ONE OF THE HAPPIEST GLIMPSES OF THEIR MAJESTES DURING ROYAL TOUR

Their Majesties thoroughly enjoyed their rest from official duties when they visited the Banff Springs Hotel in the heart of the Canadian Rockies at Banff, Alberta. The Royal Party reached Banff on Friday evening, May 26th and remained until Sunday morning, May 28. Both King George and Queen Elizabeth hiked and drove over Banff's trails and roads and both expressed their delight and pleasure in the magnificent scenery surrounding the great internationally famous playground. Photograph shows Their Majesties chatting with Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King on the terrace of the Banff Springs Hotel, and enjoying a view down the Bow River Valley. This terrace overlooks the "Mile High Golf Course", with Cascade Mountain in the background.

MOBILE RADIO STATION HEADED PROCESSION

Heading the Royal procession as it threaded its way through the streets of Greater Montreal, was a grey deluxe touring car with two steel masts mounted at the rear. This was "VE9CV," the official radio police car, the pacemaker for the procession, and from it Deputy Chief Barnes and Inspector Alfred Belanger directed the activities of the entire police force. This was made possible by the installation of the latest type of two-way radio communication specially supplied by the Northern Electric Company, which connected the police officers in the official car with Headquarters Station VYR. This was the first time this new system had been officially used in Canada.

Our picture shows the official car which was loaned for the occasion by Messrs. Cumming-Perrault, Montreal, as it was turned over to the Department at police headquarters just prior to the arrival of Their Majesties.

King and Queen Will Land at Southampton

The King and Queen will land at Southampton when they return to England from their Canadian tour June 22. The liner, Empress of Britain, now undergoing alterations for the royal voyage from Canada, will dock during the afternoon on the day of arrival, it was expected.

Meanwhile, as the tour continued, executives of the King George V Jubilee Trust announced that the King had approved plans for an exhibition at St. James Palace of photographs taken during the Canadian visit. The Newspaper Proprietors' Association will co-operate in the exhibition, proceeds of which will be donated to the fund.

Cyclist to Race at World's Fair

Bob Taylor, Jr., Brownsburg cyclist, who has won honors in several racing events in Eastern Canada, is competing in a 100-mile cycle race at the New York World's Fair on June 11th.

Broadcasting Their Majesties' Au Revoir to Canada

Their Majesties will say au revoir to Canada on June 15.

The final hours of the Royal visit will be spent in the "Royal Province of Nova Scotia," the only one of Canada's nine provinces thus designated. It was in 1621 that James I of England (and James VI of Scotland) granted a Royal Charter to the new Scotland which had been known as Acadia. It is here that King George VI will give his fifth and final message of his 1939 Canadian tour.

The CBC will broadcast the King's farewell a few hours before he and the Queen step aboard R.M.S. Empress of Britain en route to Newfoundland, England's oldest colony. The broadcast will be heard by a world audience on Thursday, June 15, from 1.15 to 2.00 p.m. during the luncheon given by the Government of Nova Scotia.

On Monday, June 12, following the first state visit ever paid by a British Sovereign to the United States, the King and Queen will return to Canada. Their Majesties' welcome home will be at Delson Junction, 17 miles south of Montreal. From here will commence the last stage of the Royal journey across Canada, a trip by train and motor car through the lovely Maritime provinces.

Outside Exhibitors Well Represented In Fair List

Before next issue of The Watchman the Lachute Fair will be in full swing. On the opening day, Wednesday, June 14, all children of the county will be admitted free. This is an innovation from previous years, Saturday having always been "free day" for children.

With favorable weather, this year's exhibition should prove a record-breaker, as there is a very large entry list in all competitive classes, which will ensure keenest contest among the livestock exhibitors.

Among entries received from out of town are Geo. Baker, of Summerstown, Ont.; Jno. Bompas & Son, Bell's Corners, Ont.; Jno. Campbell & Son, Vankleek Hill; L. T. Porter, Montreal; R. A. Cameron, Montreal; Luther Crowder, Winchester; Rene Guilbault, Port Maurice; Russell Gervan, Pembroke; Jno. A. Hodgins, Carp, Ont.; Dent Harrison, Montreal; Jersey Health Farms, Ile Bizard, Que.; J. S. Kerr, Rockland East; Dr. M. W. Locke, Williamsburg; W. Lefave, Cornwall; Edmund Lockman, St. Andre Avelin; Geo. W. Acres, Vernon; Cecil Acres, Osgoove; J. Ivan Moore, Athens; Roy Donat, St. Jerome; Ernest Renaud, St. Eustache; Omer Sauvé, St. Hermas; Jas. A. Sangster, Lancaster, Ont.; Jno. M. Story, South March, Ont.; J. Vaillancourt, Glen Roy, Ont.; C. Watt, Lancaster, Ont.

These, with Argenteuil's own stockbreeders, will present a fine array. Among the outstanding local breeders are — Messrs. Gilbert E. Arnold, J. H. Black, W. J. Rodger, E. K. Wilson, Erskine Rodger, F. Hungerbuhler, Jno. Heatlie, Ross McAdam, James H. and A. Murdoch, Jas. McKenzie, J. W. Nesbitt, A. O. Ponder, D. G. Simon, Jno. A. Walker, A. J. Bellingham, Leonard Boyd and others.

Death Calls Early Pioneer of Saskatchewan Community

LATE PAUL B. DOIG WAS BORN IN LACHUTE

The funeral of the late Paul B. Doig was held from the Hoosier United Church on Saturday afternoon, May 27, the Rev. Johnson officiating.

Mr. Doig was born in Lachute in 1860. Residing here until 1910, he moved with his family to the district of Hoosier, Saskatchewan. Being one of the earliest pioneers, his quiet wisdom and friendly manner had earned him a place of authority in that western community. He was an active member of the Presbyterian Church here in Quebec and transferred his membership to the United Church at Hoosier, in which church he had been a member of the board of session for the past two years.

Mr. Doig suffered a paralytic stroke Sunday night, May 14th, and died Thursday evening, May 25th. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Doig; three sons, Henry, Robert and Ralph; and three daughters, Mrs. Yeomans, Marengo, Mrs. Roberts, Hoosier, and Mrs. Steven, Kitscoty; also seventeen grandchildren and one great grandson.

Music for the service included "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," "God Will Take Care of You," and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus," sung by a quartet comprising Mr. Pettit, Mr. S. Dewar, Mrs. Thos. Goldsmith and Mrs. Doyle. The pall-bearers were E. F. Cooke, Thos. Goldsmith, Walter Tisdale, Chas. Dorsey, T. B. Peebles and Chas. Hubbs. Many beautiful floral tributes expressed the respect and sympathy of the community to the family.

Northern Ontario Manhunt Ended With Finding of Fugitive's Body

WANTED IN CONNECTION WITH DEATH OF TWO PROSPECTORS

ONE, GILBERT BENNETT, WAS NATIVE OF THESE PARTS

A piece of red, white and blue bunting fluttering from a flagstaff announced the end of a nine-day search through the bush for Bill Cassleman, wanted for questioning in the deaths of two Sudbury prospectors — Gilbert Bennett, formerly of Arundel, Argenteuil County, and Wilbur (Tom) Sawyer.

The pre-arranged signal ended one of North Ontario's greatest manhunts around the Lake Wahnipitae district.

Cassleman's body was fished from Mountain Creek, from where the bodies of Gilbert Bennett and Wilbur Sawyer were taken. Both had been shot to death.

The veteran prospectors were believed to have been working on gold finds when slain. Bennett had told his lawyer he thought he had "the biggest gold mine on the North American continent."

Halting only when rain and heat made the bush unbearable, the search parties of provincial police and veteran woodsmen beat through the Wahnipitae bush district for Cassleman, who lived alone on his small farm for 23 years. The longer the search progressed the more sure they were that Cassleman would not be found alive.

Police had concentrated their search along the creeks and lakes, almost certain that his body would be found at the bottom of one of them. Friends of the old man told police they would never find him alive; that they thought Cassleman would drown himself rather than surrender.

CORONER WAIVES INQUEST

Dr. P. E. Laflamme, chief coroner of the Sudbury district decided no inquest would be held into the deaths of Cassleman and his two victims. A post mortem examination was made after Cassleman's body had been taken out of the bush-country to Sudbury, and the coroner's pronouncement was suicide by drowning.

Lad Escaped Four Times From Institution

In Police Court at Hawkesbury, presided over by Magistrate Raoul Labrosse, a 16-year-old boy, an inmate of St. Joseph's Industrial School, at Alfred, Ont., was sentenced to two years less one day in the Ontario Remormatory on four charges of escaping from the institution. The director of the school in his evidence stated that the boy was incorrigible, and had also influenced other inmates to escape on several occasions. Asked if he had anything to say before sentence was passed, he said: "I do not want to stay there, because all we get to eat is stew."

"Do you mean to say that you are not properly fed there ?" asked the Court.

"No, sir, we are not," and I want to get out of there," replied the boy.

"You will," said the magistrate, "two years less one day in the Ontario Reformatory to think things over."

St. Stephen and Calais - The Boundary Sisters

NEW BRUNSWICK AND MAINE MUNICIPALITIES AN OFT-CITED EXAMPLE OF INTER-CITY, INTERNATIONAL FRIENDSHIP

● By NED H. MURCHIE and A. C. MARTIN*

Boundaries between countries may thrust their peoples apart or draw them together. Marred and scarred by barbed wire and bloodshed, man-made barriers too often symbolize haunting fears and bitter hatreds. Yet communities living side by side across the border from each other should be and can be good neighbors. That this is possible has been proved over the past century and a quarter by Calais, Maine. in the United States and St. Stephen, New Brunswick, in Canada.

Together these two communities comprise what in truth is an international town of approximately 14,000 population almost equally divided between them. Included in this total are the populations of Milltown, Maine, and Milltown, New Brunswick — small near-by communities. Day in and day out, Canadians and Americans† cross back and forth over three bridges which span the St. Croix River — this being the boundary between the United States and Canada. In this valley they do business with each other, celebrate holidays with each other, and marry into each other's families. At least a dozen persons conduct businesses on the opposite side of the border from which they live.

But this is not surprising, at least to those who appreciate the feelings of loyalty and friendship which exist, for the line dividing the two peoples has meant nothing to them for generations, for even during the War of 1812 they lived in complete harmony. They refused to bear arms against each other and saw that no shots were fired across the strip of water separating them. Until soldiers came, a sort of vigilance committee made up of representatives of both towns kept business going as usual and prevented any acts of violence.

While hostilities raged along other parts of the border, these two communities lived as if there were no war. Ministers from St. Stephen baptized babies, buried the dead, and preached peace in Calais. Americans crossed the St. Croix River to attend meetings of a fraternal order. Civilians who died in Calais, which then had no cemetery, were laid to rest near the little church in St. Stephen. Living costs soared in Calais and smuggling was impossible, yet its citizens refused to cross the line to raid their "enemies."

Generation after generation has grown up with this feeling of good neighborliness. An International Board of Trade, upon which near-by Milltown and St. Andrews in New Brunswick and Milltown and Eastport in Maine also are represented, promotes the commercial interests of this region. Dreams of becoming an important Atlantic port have dimmed and Calais' importance as a lumber-manufacturing and shipping point has waned, but citizens in this international community find much to do. One of the chief industries on both sides of the border today is the supplying of raw materials to paper mills.

Business goes on almost as if there were no international boundary. True, the telephone companies charge a nickel toll for calls across the border, but their directories include the names of subscribers both in Calais and in St. Stephen. Taxis carry residents from one town to the other, although those on neither side of the river are permitted to take passengers from one point to another in the other's territory. Motion-picture audiences at the two theatres in Calais and one in St. Stephen consist of residents of both countries. Americans often buy eggs, butter, meat, and other farm produce in St. Stephen, whereas Canadians frequently purchase boots, shoes, and women's clothing in Calais. And daily citizens from both sides cross the river to go to their work.

For years the Americans have been drinking water from Canada. Piped from a spring owned by St. Stephen, it is supplied by an American firm to residents in Calais. Drinking water flows through pipes from Canada into the United States and back again because the same company supplies Milltown, New Brunswick, with water.

Gas and electricity consumption also has international aspects here. The gas is manufactured in Calais, but it is made available to the Canadian towns near-by. When there is a shortage of electricity in the American town, a Canadian firm supplies the additional amount which may be needed.

When a fire breaks out, alarms ring in both towns. Nothing delights the firemen in one community more than to get to a fire in the other town more quickly than its own firemen. But when they aren't fighting fires, the firemen often enjoy meetings and banquets together.

A holiday in St. Stephen is a holiday in Calais, and vice versa, for the two towns enjoy their days of festivity and celebration together. On Canadian holidays, Calais flies the St. Stephen town flag and the Union Jack just as the Canadian community flies the Calais municipal flag and the stars and stripes on American holidays. The Calais band, one-third of whose members are from Canada, plays not only on the Fourth of July, but also on Dominion Day, as well as at the fairs and games on both sides of the St. Croix River. The American Legion and Canadian Legion co-operate in promoting patriotic observances.

When Canadians celebrated Queen Victoria's jubilee, in 1897, permission was obtained from London, England, and Washington, D.C., to have soldiers and civilians of Calais march over the bridge to join in the festivities.

Birth and death likewise unite the two communities. Although there is a hospital in Calais, much of the surgical work is done in the St. Stephen Hospital. Here many American as well as Canadian babies are brought into the world. Parents from Calais, however, first make arrangements with the United States Consul to preserve their American citizenship. Because so many families on one side of the St. Croix River are related to people on the other side they often are buried across the river from the community in which they have lived.

But Calais and St. Stephen are not alone in the friendliness across the longest unfortified border in the world — 4,000 miles without a pill box or a gun. Dotting the line from East Coast to West Coast are numerous communities in which men and women think of those across the border as friends, not as residents of another land.

Journal Speaks of Double Miracle – French Culture And British Patriotism

An article praising Canadian loyalty has appeared in the Paris journal, "L'Intransigeant," written by its London correspondent, Francois Lasalle.

"Canada has succeeded in a double miracle of loyalty," said the headline, "with its indestructible attachment to French culture and its unbreakable loyalty to the British Empire."

"Canada, geographically American, historically French and politically English, forms a precious link between the United States, France and Britain," the correspondent wrote.

"King George was able the other day at Winnipeg to explain in happy terms the harmonious collaboration of the two races, French and English.

"Everywhere along their route the Sovereigns are finding traces of the French civilization brought in olden times to the American shores by our missionaries. The memory has not been lost of those leaders who directed the conversion of the Iroquois and the Hurons and caused virtue to flourish in New France where many things still remain French.

"Canada has realized a double miracle of fidelity toward France and Great Britain. During the war its 60,000 children who died on French earth, whence came their ancestors, were a heroic instrument of this.

"Four hundred thousand Canadians came to fight with us; and we shall not forget the exploits of these magnificent soldiers at Mont Sirrel in 1916, on the Somme, in the Battle of Arras, at Vimy, where the Canadian Corps covered itself with glory, at Lens, at Passchendale.

"These were the men who in October, 1918, retook Cambrai, Denain and Valenciennes, from the enemy!"

How It Started

The universal totem of the barber, the pole painted in alternate stripes of red and white, is familiar to everyone. Does everyone know how it started ?

The history of this pole dates back to the Middle Ages, when the barber was the only surgeon.

In the reign of Edward IV a charter of incorporation was given to the "Freeman of the Mystery of the Barbers of the City of London using the Mystery of the Faculty of Surgery." Thus the art of the surgeon and the trade of the barber were combined. Governors of this combination were appointed, and this step may be said to have been the inception of what is now the Royal College of Surgeons of England.

In the reign of Henry VIII, the barbers and surgeons of London were merged into one body under the name of the "Mystery and Commonantly of the Barbers and Surgeons of London," and Holbein, the celebrated artist, made a painting of the event.

The charter of King Henry was confirmed by Charles I, but in the reign of George II, the old union of the Barbers and Surgeons was dissolved and henceforth the surgeons of England were left to struggle along as best they could. They haven't made such a bad job of it.

The colors of the barber's pole represent incidents of far away times; the red signifies blood, the white the bandage.

But the barber-surgeon, if divorced from his former occupation in England, survived for a long time in other lands. As late as 1846 in the south of Spain, barber shops generally had a notice that the barber did midwifery and surgery as well as shaving, and far more recently Sir John Simon says that "he had the honor of being shaved by a barber who had Prof. Virchow's (the great German pathologist's) latest publications on the book-shelf beside his basin."

Profits on souvenir silver dollars issued by the Government in connection with the Royal visit are expected to pay a large proportion of the cost of entertaining the King and Queen while here. The margin of profit on this silver currency is between 65 and 70 per cent, as the dollars cost but 27 cents each, in addition to minting and engraving costs, which were small. — Exchange

The anthem, "Guide Me, O Thou Great Jehovah," was sung at the morning service; at the evening service the anthem was, "Ask, Seek, Knock."

The Y.P. Club of the Presbyterian Church honored Mr. Gordon Bradley and his bride with a miscellaneous shower in the church hall on Monday evening. The hall was prettily decorated as a Japanese garden, with paper lanterns and cherry blossoms. A large Japanese umbrella was suspended over the table, which was well laden with gifts. Mr. Raymond Blair, the president, read an address to the bride and groom. Mr. Bradley responded in a very genial manner. After a session of games, a hearty sing-song was directed by Mrs. T. Webster. These sing-songs are a popular feature of the Club.

CORRECTION AND REPLY

I, the undersigned, would like to make another correction concerning the car accident on St. Andrews East bridge on May 20, as it was misleading: the car going east did not have the right of way, and neither car was being driven in a reckless manner; nor was the little boy "badly shocked," as was stated in the first report.

How Average Person Lives

If all the time you've spent, and are going to spend eating was lumped together—you'd be at the table five years! That's what some British statistical experts figured after a detailed investigation into how the average person lives. A person who reaches 70 has spent some 450,000 hours—or about five years—at the table, states a writer in the Washington Post. If five years spent on eating seems like a lot, think of all the food that's put away during a lifetime. An adult averages 1,355 pounds of victuals annually. Over 50 years that's a mere matter of some 35 tons. Add the fact you'll spend about 23 years sleeping—if you live to 70—and you'll see you're not so busy.

Lifelong Resident Dead In East Ward

LATE MRS. JOHN PAUL

Passing peacefully at her home in the East Ward Tuesday morning, Mrs. John Paul succumbed to a long siege of ailing health. She was in her 75th year, and her entire lifetime had been spent in this neighborhood. Formerly Miss Margaret Murray Catton, of Beech Ridge, she was married 53 years ago to John Paul, a farmer of the Bethany community, and the couple in latter years had lived here in town. Mr. Paul survives, with his daughter, Miss Elizabeth, at home, his son, Mr. George Paul, Lachute merchant, and one grandson, Geo. Heartland Paul, of Lucan, Ont. Other members of Mrs. Paul's immediate family still living are — one sister, Miss Jane Catton, of Lachute, and a brother, Mr. James Catton, Lachute.

The funeral, held this afternoon, Thursday, at the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church, was attended by many sympathizing friends, neighbors and relatives. The minister, Rev. E. Orsborn, officiated, and many beautiful flowers gave expression of tribute to her memory. Interment was made in Lachute Cemetery, pall-bearers being J. E. Walker, Henry Hadley, David E. Paul, John D. Paul, Geo. Fraser and Wm. Murray.

She was a former resident of Mille Isles, always a good neighbor and ready to assist in times of sickness. An asset to this community and to the church at Mille Isles, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson were much missed when they gave up their farm and removed to the city. Mrs. Wilson was predeceased by her husband some years ago. She had attained a great age, being in the nineties.

She leaves two sons, James, of the United States, and Ashton; also four daughters, Mrs. King, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Armstrong and Rhoda, also married, of Montreal.

The remains were brought to Mille Isles for burial beside her husband in the Presbyterian Cemetery on Saturday, May 20th.

High School Pupil Died Sunday in Hospital

MANY YOUNG FRIENDS ATTEND FUNERAL

After a brief illness of three weeks a youthful citizen and High School student, Kenneth H. Plunkett, passed to rest in the Montreal General Hospital Sunday night, June 4th. Only 17 years of age, Kenneth suffered an attack of meningitis from which he failed to rally, despite the hopes held for his recovery, by his family and a host of young friends.

The young man is survived by his mother, Mrs. H. Plunkett, formerly Donalda Gareau, and his sister, Miss Emily Plunkett. Kenneth had made his home here in Lachute with his aunt, Mrs. Albt. McDonald, and Mr. McDonald, in the East Ward.

He was an enthusiastic athlete, playing on the Rex and the High School hockey teams, a member of the Plage Laval Baseball Club and the Elmswood Tennis Club. He was also a loyal Scout of the First Lachute Troop, a good friend and ready helper in community efforts.

The funeral was conducted by the Rev. W. B. Rosborough Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. McDonald. There was a large attendance of young and older citizens, and many beautiful flowers bore silent testimony of esteem, and of sympathy for the bereaved. The remains were borne to their last resting place at Lachute Cemetery. Pallbearers were fellow pupils of the High School — Jas. McOuat, Hilliard Anderson, Gerald Riddell, Willard Langille, John Maiden and Jack MacKimmie. Boys of Grades VII to XI also assisted by carrying the flowers in the funeral cortege.

Townsman Is Bereaved

Mr. Frank Jenkins of this town received a telegram from Yarmouth, N.S., on Friday conveying the news that his father, Mr. Wm. Charles Jenkins, had passed away that day in the Yarmouth Hospital, at the age of 73 years.

Mr. Jenkins was born in Bristol, Eng., and came to Canada when a young man, and had resided there ever since, returning to England a few times to visit his birthplace. Mr. Jenkins had visited his son here on three different occasions, the last time being five years ago, when he spent a month.

He leaves to mourn his passing two sons, Ivan of Yarmouth and Frank of Lachute. His wife predeceased him eight years ago.

The funeral was held on Monday.

Late Mrs. Robt. H. Kerr

The death occurred at the Montreal General Hospital, on Monday, June 5th, of Mrs. Robert H. Kerr, daughter of Charles Ralph, of Pointe au Chene. Born in St. Andrews East 46 years ago, she had lately resided at Dolbeau, Que., and Lakefield, Que.

Trinity Church, Lakefield, Approaches Century Mark

BISHOP CARLISLE TO PREACH AT CENTENNIAL SERVICE

Lakefield — Bishop Carlisle, recently consecrated Lord Bishop of the Diocese of Montreal, will be the guest speaker at the centennial service being held in Holy Trinity Church here on Tuesday morning, July 4th, at 11 o'clock. Plans for celebrating the centenary of this church are progressing steadily, and it is hoped that a number of the former clergy will be able to participate in the service.

In 1838 the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel sent Rev. William Arnold to Lakefield to find out whether services could be held there. The first service was held in the school-house, and the interest of the people was so aroused that they decided to build a church. His successor, Rev. J. McMaster, succeeded in having the church erected the following year. It was a frame building, used both as a school-house and church for several years.

As there was no parsonage in Lakefield at this time the clergyman boarded in a hotel owned by Mr. James Arnott. The first parsonage was not built until some years later.

Rev. W. Abbott was the next clergyman to come to Lakefield. He, in turn, was succeeded by Rev. Mr. Smith. It was after Mr. Smith's departure that one of the most energetic and enterprising missionaries in Lower Canada was appointed by the Bishop of Montreal to take charge of the mission. This was Rev. Joseph Griffin, to whose memory there are, in the present church, a stained glass window and memorial plate. "On his arrival he could find no other place of residence for himself and his wife than the miserable apartments of a small tavern, destitute not only of comfort and cleanliness, but frequented by those who were in the habit of meeting there, and that even on Sundays for drinking and fighting." The work which lay before the missionary was one that required no little patience and self-denial, but after several months of untiring work, "the results were visible in the improved habits of the people; the taverns were all closed, the Lord's Day was regarded with reverence."

Later a comfortable parsonage was built and soon after, the energetic missionary turned his thoughts to the erection of a new church. It was decided to erect a stone building at a cost of $3,000, using the same foundation as the original building. The people gave freely of their time and energy, while funds to pay for the materials were collected from every part of Canada.

(Quotations used are from "Church History").

The present incumbent of the church, Rev. C. W. P. Baugh, will hold a celebration of the Holy Communion at 9 a.m., on July 4th. Following the centennial service at 11 a.m., dinner will be served in the Gibb Parish Hall.

Mission Band Youngsters Do Their Share

Anxious to make a contribution toward the rebuilding of their church, which was destroyed by fire, the Mission Band of Lachute United demonstrated last Saturday that little tots can "do their bit." A small bazaar was put on by 16 of the children and the youngsters were much encouraged by the $20.50 they raised through the sale of small articles. The sum was further augmented by a party of ladies passing through by automobile, who, hearing of this worthy effort, contributed $1.50 from their purses, thus bringing the total proceeds to $22.00.

Weddings

Paige-Stewart

Grenville—A very quiet but pretty wedding took place on the lawn, under an arch of lilacs and evergreens, Saturday afternoon at four o'clock, when Sarah Melissa, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Stewart, was united in marriage to Carl Lothrop Paige, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Paige, of Sand Hill, Que. The Rev. K. N. Brueton officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a powder blue gown of silk poplin cut on princess lines, with French shirred sleeves. Her corsage was of Johanna Hill roses. The bride was attended by the groom's sister, Miss Eunice Paige, who was gowned in magenta sheer crepe on fitted lines, with a corsage of Talisman roses.

Mr. Henry Stewart, brother of the bride, acted as best man. During the signing of the register Master James Anderson, of Ottawa, sang "The Voice that Breathed O'er Eden," accompanied by his mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Paige left for a motor trip to Toronto and Niagara Falls, Ont., the bride travelling in a fitted dress of mauve sheer, with hat, coat and shoes of beige, and brown accessories.

The out-of-town guests were—Mrs. Cecil Bates and Master Keith Bates, of Timmins, Ont., Mrs. D. J. Johnstone and the Misses Beverley and Erma Johnstone, of Montreal, Miss Eunice Paige, of Sand Hill, Que., Miss Myrtle Anderson, Mrs. M. C. Rosborough, minister of Lachute United Church, performed the ceremony. Miss Geraldine Dumouchel presided at the piano, and during the signing of the register "Give Me Your Love" was sung by Miss Helen Cassidy.

The living rooms were decorated with white and mauve lilacs, apple blossoms, and other spring flowers, while in the dining-room were placed vases of pink roses and sweet peas, combined with baby's breath.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white chiffon. The veil of tulle, which had been worn by her mother, reached beyond the hem of her train, and was held in place by a coronet of pearls. Her only ornament was a string of pearls, the gift of the groom, and she carried a bouquet of white carnations, white heather, and lily of the valley.

She was attended by her cousin, Miss Betty Fraser, of Ottawa, attired in a frock of embroidered pink silk net, and carrying a bouquet of pink carnations and forget-me-nots.

Mr. Charles Henderson, of Montreal, was best man for Mr. Biggar.

Mrs. Mason, the bride's mother, was in a gown of black sheer and wore a corsage of pink briar roses. Mrs. Biggar, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gown of navy blue sheer over a figured slip with matching accessories, and her corsage was of white carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Biggar left later on a trip to Niagara Falls and other points in Western Ontario. The bride travelled in a frock of printed blue silk, under a blue wool coat, and she wore a navy blue hat trimmed with flowers, and blue accessories. Fire-Fighting Classes for German Women

Every German housewife is to be trained for fire-fighting in time of danger.

Under new police orders all women, except mothers of babies under a year old, are being organized in fire-fighting classes throughout the Reich, as part of the air defence program. Field Marshal Goering, as Minister of Air, has issued a proclamation saying he expected "every woman to co-operate to the utmost of her powers."

The instruction includes "what to do if a bomb falls in the back yard."

Star Recipe

By Betty Barclay

If you wish to serve something out of the ordinary, the following recipe will fill the bill. Lemon frozen cream proves a delightful change to those who are accustomed to servings of chocolate, strawberry or vanilla.

This cream contains healthful milk, eggs and lemon juice. An ideal dish for the child who will not eat eggs or drink milk, or for anyone who needs the vitamins of the healthful lemon.

If you wish to be particularly "different," the cream may be served in a lemon cup or basket. Cut lemon peel half-way down fruit in strips. Remove pulp. As each shell is filled with frozen mixture, place it in freezing tray until ready to serve. Or serve in the usual manner.

LEMON FROZEN CREAM

2 eggs, beaten until lemon-colored, ½ cup sugar.

Add sugar gradually to egg until mixture becomes a thick custard-like consistency. Combine with:

½ cup light corn syrup, 2 cups top milk (or 1 cup milk and 1 cup coffee cream), ¼ cup lemon juice, 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel.

Freeze in refrigerator tray at lowest temperature until stiff. When frozen, remove to a bowl and whip with an electric or hand beater until light and creamy. Return quickly to freezing tray. Finish freezing. This one stirring is all that is needed. Hold at middle control for serving. Makes 1 quart. Serves 6-8.

This may also be made in a crank freezer.

Woman's Place Is In the Home, Says M.P.P.

"That a woman's place is in the home — or thereabouts," was the belief expressed by Ross McEwing, M.P.P. for North Wellington, addressing the Kitchener board of trade on "Unemployment."

"The time we extended the franchise and successive rights to women that go with it, led to the many difficulties that we are are now trying to solve," asserted the speaker. (There were no members of the fair sex present).

The speaker said he could not blame the women, "because it was the men who gave them the rights they now enjoy." "A woman has her place, but I don't like to see the women hold good jobs while their husbands walk the streets looking for work."

FEW THINGS ARE ALL GOOD

The majority of people who take public office have a sincere desire to do the best they can for the public generally. They start out thinking that changes can be made for the good of all. But they soon learn that it can't be done. Large grocers (the store, not the grocer, being large) press for a compulsory, uniform, early closing hour. On the face of it this looks like a good idea. Then the small grocer says if that law is enforced, he will be put out of business. Most of his business is done at night when the large stores are closed. When the children are in bed and the husbands are home to look after them, the women have a chance to get out to do their shopping. City districts change and some fight against loosening restriction; others will lose their homes if they cannot take roomers or turn them into apartments. Pasteurization is good for the people as a whole but it undoubtedly works hardships on the small dealer. Few things are all good and compromise is a rule of life.

THE PILOT SHIP

Rumors of a submarine being seen from the Pilot Ship in Halifax bring back one of our pleasant recollections. You landlubbers may think as I did that a Pilot Ship does the piloting. 'Tis not so. It's a ship which stays around the mouth of the harbor to provide a place for the pilots to wait until required. Every boat over a certain size must use a pilot to enter the harbor. We often used to drive out to Herring Cove, which is just a few miles from Halifax. It was a favorite place because from there we could look out to sea. Usually, the pilot boat was in sight. It is a boat with both sails and power and it was a pretty sight with the setting sun shining on its sails. Around supper time the boat used to sail into Herring Cove for supplies. Some of the crew rowed ashore, while the sail-boat hovered around while waiting. Sometimes we would see the smoke of a steamer in the distance, then watch the pilot boat manoeuver into position, then the steamer would slow down and the pilot would be taken aboard. The reverse would happen when the ship sailed out of the harbor. If we happened to be close in, we would see a motor boat scoot out to the mouth of the harbor, the big boat would slow down and the doctor would be taken aboard. They cannot dock until the port doctor has given permission. Now that spring has come, we miss the sea and the ships. Ottawa has plenty of water but the rivers do not satisfy as does the sea.

NO NEED TO CRITICIZE

Instead of complaining that the details of the Royal tour were not perfect, people should be thankful that they were as well arranged as they were. The amount of detailed work that was necessary was almost unbelievable. We saw them making a cut-out at the switch where the Royal train arrived so that the bell would not clang the whole time the train was standing. That was just an illustration of the thousands of minor details which had to be looked after. There were bound to be disappointments and the delay made it worse. People should realize the difficulties and have less to say about the arrangements. Some of the dailies might have helped matters by printing less of the criticisms. The less people have had to do with arranging details for functions, the more they are inclined to adverse criticism. Hind-sight is commoner than fore-sight. Maybe next time we will know better. There is no need to take the joy out of a happy occasion.

A REPAIR JOB

Is there anything more maddening than to get just nicely started at a large ironing, and then have something go wrong with the iron? To make it worse, it is usually some minor thing, probably with the plug or cord that a man can fix in less than no time. Even the young lads can take one look at the thing and soon have it repaired. Electric appliances are such a part of our work that women should be taught how to make minor repairs. Electricity is taught in Physics classes, why couldn't repair work be a part of the training? It would be useful for both boys and girls. Education is getting more practical but it does not seem to have embraced practical electricity for girls as yet.

CANDIED FLOWERS

Would you like to try your hand at candying some flowers for decorative purposes? Here's how. Rose petals, violets, lilacs and orange blossoms are all suitable. If you want a bit of green you may use mint leaves. Select large perfect rose petals; use sweet-scented violets and remove all the stems; take small clusters of perfect, purple lilacs; select clusters of three or four orange-blossoms and remove all possible stem. Make a syrup of one cup of sugar and a quarter of a cup of water and boil for ten minutes. Dip the flowers in this syrup, drain and lay on waxed paper for a few hours, to dry. Brush over with slightly beaten egg-white and dust with granulated sugar. Let dry in the sun or on the radiator. Store in tin boxes.

LEMON SYRUP

1 oz. tartaric acid, 2 oz. citric acid, ½ oz. epsom salts, juice 10 lemons, rind of 6 lemons, 5 lbs. sugar, 3 pints boiling water.

Mix the dry ingredients and add the boiling water and lemon juice. Put in 6 lemon rinds and let stand for 12 hours. Bottle. To use, add a little syrup to a glass of water for an appetizing drink.

SPRING SALAD

Add thinly sliced radishes and green onion, and chopped hard-cooked egg to shredded leaf lettuce. Mix with boiled dressing.

By Mary E. Dague
Author of Sister Mary's Kitchen

The first warm days are busy ones, both indoors and out. Indoors the winter woolens are being demothed and put away for the summer and outdoors lawns and porches are being groomed for summer holidays and everyday living.

Weeding, patching and reseeding of lawns must be done at once in order to insure a thick, velvety green, while feeding might be a continuous process until the middle of June. Throughout the summer feeding should be done whenever the grass shows evidence of needing help either through poor color or lack of new growth.

Be vigilant for the first signs of crabgrass and if the plants can't be dug out while they are small, at least try to keep them from reseeding by raking them up straight before each mowing. And don't neglect to carry a small bag of lawn seed with you so that every time you dig a weed out of the grass you can sprinkle seed in the loosened turf.

It's a good idea to start pruning the early flowering shrubs just as soon as they stop blooming, especially when they are growing in hedge form. Incidentally, hedges of all kinds should be given the first shearing of the season now.

To go back to the early flowering shrubs and trees — lilacs, as a rule, should have only the dead flower heads removed if they are to continue to flower in succeeding years. The cherries, dogwoods, almonds and magnolias are better left unpruned at all times.

Research workers tell us that if you like well browned cakes and muffins don't discard the time-darkened tins. Bright new pans won't produce as rich a brown as do the darkened ones.

Just as new window treatments are effective inside the house, so are they outside. Window-boxes add immeasurably to the beauty of almost any type of house and are inexpensive.

Choose the plants with care so that they will last in good condition throughout the season. Where a bright flower effect is wanted nothing excells the good old standbys — petunias and geraniums. Trailing fuchsias and nasturtiums are effective too, if it is necessary to cover the sides of the boxes.

Resolutions Passed at Convention of County Women's Institutes

PROVINCIAL CONVENTION POSTPONED

The members of Argenteuil County Women's Institutes are asked to take notice that, on account of the provincial president's absence overseas and Miss McCain's illness, the provincial convention which is usually held at Macdonald College in June, will not take place this year until August.

Below are the resolutions made and carried by the Argenteuil County Women's Institute annual convention held at Lachute High School on Saturday, May 27th. — J. Graham,

WHEREAS Miss McCain is absent from our convention through illness,
RESOLVED that a letter be sent voicing our regrets and extending best wishes for a speedy recovery.

Associated Country Women Conference in London

Country women from all nationalities from the Arctic Circle to the South Seas are gathered in London for the fourth triennial conference of the Associated Country Women of the World, which is now in progress. A survey of the world country women movement will be a feature of the conference, given by Mrs. Alfred Watt, M.B.E., President of the Associated Country Women of the World. The discussion of the movement in relation to, and its influence on, world affairs will cover much which will interest the entire conference. A large number of specialists on various subjects of interest to rural women are also scheduled to speak.

Various exhibits have been arranged, including handicrafts, and uses made of natural resources in and around the home.

English members of Women's Institutes asked for the privilege of entertaining overseas members in their homes, and it is not difficult to understand how this gathering may well result in increased international good will, and better and more understanding relations.

Woman's Bravery Recognized By Humane Society

The Hawkesbury Rotary Club has received a parchment from the Royal Canadian Humane Society to be presented to Mrs. Henry Hoffman in connection with her heroic action in rescuing Albert Giroux from drowning on December 8 last. Town Clerk Eugene Paquette stated the parchment would be suitably framed and public recognition made by the town at the presentation.

During the morning of December 8 last Mrs. Hoffman while doing her housework noticed young Giroux, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Giroux, out on the frozen surface of the mill pond at the rear of her home. Glancing out a few minutes later she noticed that he had disappeared near a fishing hole partly frozen over. Rushing out, clad only in a thin house dress, she was just in time to seize the youngster as he was about to let go of the jagged edges of the hole. He was rushed to his home nearby and put to bed, suffering no ill effects from his experience. The year previous Mrs. Hoffman rescued another small boy under practically the same circumstances.

Brownsb'g Women's Institute

The Brownsburg Women's Institute held their June meeting on Thursday evening, the first inst., in the Social Club room. President Mrs. N. E. Smillie was in the chair, and the meeting opened with the Club Women's Creed. The members responded to the roll call with "Canadian beauty spots I have visited." Mrs. Gordon Todd, convenor of Canadianization and National Events, introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. Wallace Wilson, who spoke on the visit of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth to Canada. At the close of the meeting the national anthem was sung.

Purple Martins Watch Queen

Among the thousands of interested spectators that witnessed the laying of the cornerstone of the new Supreme Court Building by Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth, during the Royal visit to Ottawa was a thriving colony of purple martins. These attractive and useful birds now live in a large, 24-compartment bird-house about one hundred feet east of the new building.

For many years the purple martins nested nearby in the eaves of some old buildings, but when a number of these buildings were torn down by the Government in the autumn of 1936 some of the birds were deprived of their homes. As the purple martin forms a strong attachment for the site it occupies, a new bird-house was erected in the vicinity by the Federal District Commission at the suggestion of officers of the Department of Mines and Resources.

Largest of the Canadian swallows, the purple martin prefers to nest in groups and colonies, and adds charm to any region it inhabits. The attractive colors, shapely form, graceful flight, and soft warbling of this beautiful bird make it aesthetically pleasing. It feeds upon flying insects and in that way is economically valuable.

ENTHUSIASM HIGH AS CROWDS GATHER FOR ARGENTEUIL ANNUAL EXHIBITION

Fed'l Ministers to Attend Function At Carillon Barracks-Museum

FORMAL TRANSFER OF RECONSTRUCTED BUILDING, FROM ARGENTEUIL HISTORICAL SOC'Y. TO FEDERAL CHARGE

An eventful turn in the progress of the Argenteuil Historical Society will be the formal handing over of the old Carillon Barracks, kindly donated by Mr. Felix Hungerbuhler for use as a museum in which to preserve the historical records and relics of the Lower Ottawa Valley.

This event will take place on Saturday afternoon, June 24th. Addresses are to be given on this occasion by two representatives of the Federal Government, the Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Mines, and the Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice.

The Barracks, with its wealth of historic interest, is in a remarkably fine state of preservation, and the repairs effected in its masonry and woodwork have in no way detracted from the impressive appearance of this structure.

The necessity of providing for the needs and comforts of visitors from a distance has been recognized, and by means of a benefit bridge entertainment organized by a number of the members of the Society resident in Montreal, sufficient money has been raised to provide means of refreshment and garden accessories.

The Executive feel that they have been most fortunate in securing the services of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bradley, formerly of Lachute Road, to act as custodians of the building. Mr. and Mrs. Bradley are widely known and respected throughout the county.

The many aspects of the museum are well illustrated in the various rooms of the building, the Wales library, Arts and Handicrafts exhibit, Habitant kitchen, soldier's bedroom, Sir John Abbott Memorial room, Indian relics, old guard room with ancient instruments of various trades, models and pictures illustrating the development of transportation on the Ottawa and many other objects of interest.

The Executive again calls attention to the urgent need of museum objects either as a donation or a loan for the season. Also for volunteer assistance in making arrangements for the coming opening. Above all there is need of money for current expenses. It is hoped that there will be a generous response in these directions and an enthusiastic attendance at the function above noted, on June 24th.

CANADIAN VETERAN

Captain W. P. Grant, 78 years of age, is perhaps the oldest veteran of the Great War to participate in the Royal Visit to the Canadian Capital. Captain Grant is seen above in the special beret he wore during the visit. He enlisted at Halifax with the 237th Battalion when he was 54 years of age, and was quartermaster of the regiment.

Colorful Processions for Fete Of Corpus Christi

The Corpus Christi fete was observed last Sunday by processions and outdoor devotions in the two Catholic parishes of this town.

In the morning a lengthy procession left Ste. Anastasie Church and proceeded to a temporary altar erected before the residence of Judes Charlebois, Bedard Blvd. The parade marched to music played by Lachute Band, under direction of Alex Guenette. Taking part in the procession were the juvenile groups in costume from both the Convent and the College, junior and senior ladies' organizations, the chôir, men's groups of the parish, and the Knights of Columbus. The Holy Sacrament was carried by L'Abbé Rev. M. Savage, of Ste. Anastasie, who conducted the benediction and was assisted by the curé of the parish, Rev. E. Labelle, and the director of the College, Rev. G. Coté. The procession afterwards returned to the church.

In the evening a similar parade proceeded from St. Julien Church in the West End, to the home of Clément Tremblay. Here, Rev. l'Abbé Rodrigue, of Ste. Therese, carried the Host and officiated in the ceremonies, with the curé, Rev. Cloutier assisting.

Groups from each parish attended, enlarging the parade to appreciable numbers. Young citizens on horseback preceded the marchers.

Man Injured in Chase After A Runaway Horse

In pursuit of a runaway horse last Wednesday, Ben Hammond, well-known farmer in the neighborhood east of Lachute, fell to the pavement when jumping from a car, and suffered a broken collar bone.

Mr. Hammond was working with a neighbor, Allan Walker, near the Black and White Pavilion. His horse, hitched to a tumbril cart and standing nearby, took fright and headed for home along the highway. Fearing the animal might rush into the yard and that his young daughter might be in its path, Mr. Hammond climbed on the running board of Allan Walker's car and the pair drove west in pursuit. They overtook the animal, and as Walker slowed down some distance ahead of the horse and cart, his companion jumped while the car was in motion. In some way he was hurled to the pavement and badly injured. He was able to get up, however, and the approaching horse was brought to a standstill.

Mr. Hammond was taken to his home and attended by Dr. E. Christie, of Lachute. Later, driven to the Montreal General Hospital, he had a plaster cast set over his fractured shoulder and was allowed to return home.

Kind words are the chief means of doing good.

Entries Show High Merit as Animal Judging Proceeds

LIVESTOCK NOBILITY IS TAGGED WITH LONG PEDIGREES AND FINE TITLES

As Lachute Spring Fair opened yesterday morning for its annual four-day program, the grounds, stables and stalls gave sure evidence of those attainments which have ranked this event as one of the finest of its kind in Eastern Canada. Horses, cattle and livestock show the usual rare quality of breeding, and the competitive spirit is strong among the hundred odd exhibitors from Argenteuil and more distant areas. Increased demands for livestock accommodation have been met by additional buildings, and in appearance the entire grounds and structures, besides the industrial stands and displays of interest to the farming community, give the impression of a wide-awake rural show with a constructive purpose in view.

Commanding special attention among the herds of cattle are thirteen Ayrshires shown by John Bompas and Sons, of Bell's Corners, including Pine View Gallant Top, first prize winner and junior champion at the Columbus, Ohio, National Dairy Show; also seventeen Ayrshires exhibited by G. D. Mode and Sons, of Vankleek Hill, including Glen Campbell Adventure, son of Ardgowan Valda Imp., champion Ayrshire milk producer of the world. W. Erskine Rodger of the Woodlea Ayrshire Farm, Lachute, has a young herd which are a fine example of home breeding, headed by a son of Springburn Diana, several times reserve champion at the Royal, and sired by Wholehouse True Form, several times champion bull at the National Exhibition. J. P. Bradley of Lachute Road also has 19 head of this breed, headed by Drumston Enterprise Imp., a leader in several Canadian and American shows.

J. H. Black, another keen local fancier, is present with 17 head of imported and Canadian bred Ayrshires. This herd is headed by Auchenbrain Yogin, the 1938 junior and grand champion at Toronto Royal. L. McRae and Sons, of Vankleek Hill, are among the new exhibitors in this breed, with a herd of seven headed by Deschambeault Top Grade. Their herd sire is Annandale Honeymoon.

Holstein cattle have an equally fine showing. Wilsondale Farm, a local establishment, has 13 head, with Raymondale First Sight as leader and Regasborne Pedro Dutchland as junior herd sire, the latter a son of the world's three-year-old champion milk producer, Regasborne Alice Alcartra. The Goodyear Farm, Glen Roy, Ontario, is showing 14 Holsteins including toprankers direct from the recent Oramtown show. Jas. McKenzie, a noted leader in the breed from this section, has ten head of distinctive beasts.

Jersey cattle are represented by 15 head of fine stock from the Jersey Health Farms, Ile Bizard, operated by E. J. Thompson. Heading this herd is Bizard Dark Lad, reserve grand champion at last year's Royal and grand champion at the recent Ormstown show. Outstanding females in the herd are Pinehurst Standard Rose and Bizard Baroness, grand champion and reserve grand champion cows at Ormstown. The Maxwellton herd of 17, from Ste. Anne de Bellevue, is headed by Brampton Royal Design, another beast of prize-winning rank.

French-Canadian cattle are shown by Donat Roy, of St. Jerome, with 7 head, Thomas Fournier, of St. Andrews, and Paul St. Jacques, of Lachute Road.

Hereford cattle are shown by John M. Storey of South March, Ontario, with 13 cattle headed by Helen's Gay Lad. This herd captured all championships and prizes in Ormstown last week. John Hodgins, of Carp, Ont., is also showing this breed, his prime beast being Broe Lodge Farmer, grand champion of the Ottawa Winter Fair.

Outstanding exhibitor of horses is Gilbert Arnold, of Grenville, who has no less than 72 entries, including veteran ribbon-holders, imported steeds and new blood from these progressive county stables.

Although not listed complete by any means, these discriminating breeders and their animals exemplify the fine standard of cattle entries.

Seventies and Eighties Play Good Hand of Euchre

There comes to our attention this week an unusual gathering of relatives and friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Phileas Desjardins, Bedard Boulevard. Seated around the euchre table on Monday evening, and playing a very creditable game, were Mr. Desjardins' sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Legendre, aged 81 and 79, who are visiting here from Verner, Ont.; Miss Cyr, of St. Hermas, 78; Mr. Dolphis Latreille, of St. Benoit, 79, and local friends slightly younger in years. The host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Desjardins, are respectively 82 and 77 years old.

Love of Humankind, Understanding of Animals, A Happy Combination In This Country Minister

Rev. R. L. Ballantyne Retires From Clerical Role

Pictured in the accompanying photographs is one of the best known of the Protestant clerics in this countryside, the Rev. R. L. Ballantyne, D.D., of St. Andrews East, Que. Having followed his calling long and faithfully — furthering the spiritual welfare of those communities in which he has served — elevating the ideals, the status and prestige of his church particularly in old St. Andrews, County of Argenteuil — the Rev. Ballantyne has lately retired from the ministry and from the Presbyterian Church in that village. To him and his wife the congregation paid loving tribute, in a gathering reported previously in these pages, and handsome presentations were made in recognition of their devoted services.

Apart from the power of his quiet sincerity, to stir in men and women the ideals of devotion to the Christian cause, the Rev. Ballantyne has won the willing confidence and friendship of his associates; for his disarming manner displays that most desirable quality in a spiritual pastor — true human fellowship and understanding. With these happy faculties, Dr. Ballantyne has spread good cheer along his path, and encouraged many, where that path led into shadowed places.

. . . With these faculties, also, Dr. Ballantyne combines the enthusiasm of a sportsman. He is a lover of horses, and is known hereabouts as an authority on fine pacers. In the photograph with this article he appears driving his team — which is perhaps the happiest pose in which we may present him, for with his clerical attributes Dr. Ballantyne is still, above all, thoroughly human.

An eloquent tribute by his colleagues is recorded in the proceedings of the Montreal Presbytery. A brief biographical sketch is embodied in the Presbytery resolution, which reads as follows :

Silence Reigns on Parliament Hill, as Session Closes

"THE OTTAWA SPOTLIGHT"

Ottawa, June 13th.—Silence reigns about the Houses of Parliament. Legislators of both Houses have left for their homes and constituencies or for holidays to recuperate from their sessional labors and possibly to get ready for an autumn election. That is the rumor now current. The closing day of the session was pretty strenuous. Members were at their task from morning till late at night, passing bills and estimates. Human nature being what it is, there will always be important legislation left over till the very last minute, and this was the cause of much of the controversy that raged during the last day of the session particularly in the Senate over the mortgage bank bill. On the other hand, a bill of this importance takes time to mature and take form in the minds of those who originate it, in this case the Minister of Finance and his associates — and undoubtedly the bill was not in shape to present to the House in the early days of the session. In any event the mortgage bill is now on the statute books.

THE ROYAL VISIT

In the case of the members from Western Ontario, from Southern Quebec and the Maritimes, the session of course ended in time for those parliamentarians to take part in the reception to Their Majesties, when the itinerary of the King and Queen would reach Eastern Canada. It has unquestionably been gratifying to Federal Ministers and members from Eastern Canada to be able to join with provincial leaders in showing the King and Queen on the final stages of their journey before embarking for Great Britain how pleased and proud the Canadians are at the wonderful reception accorded the Monarchs, not only in Canada but in the United States. The session just passed will undoubtedly possess a special significance because of the Royal visit.

Oddfellows at Decoration Day Ceremonies in Montreal

A delegation from Laurentian Lodge here attended the Decoration Day ceremonies of the I.O.O.F. Grand Lodge of Quebec, in Montreal on Sunday, and the Rev. S. J. Pike, of Brownsburg, who is grand chaplain, conducted the memorial service.

Members of the Oddfellows Order honored their dead members at the Cenotaph on Dominion Square Sunday morning when the grand master, W. W. McBain, deposited a wreath in tribute. All city lodges, including the Encampment and Rebekah branches of the order, participated in the ceremony.

Later, the gathering went to Mount Royal Cemetery where a wreath was placed on the Oddfellows' plot by the grand master, and service was conducted by Rev. S. J. Pike. In his address Mr. Pike reviewed the principles of the order, which were to relieve the distressed, visit the sick, care for the widow, educate the orphan and bury the dead.

EXHIBITION BUILDING HOUSES FINE DISPLAY; HIGH STANDARD OF ENTERTAINMENT AT FAIR

The Main Building this year is housing a very fine list of industrials, comprising the Cottingham Supply Company, whose slogan, "Everything to Build Anything," is graphically upheld in an extensive exhibit of building supplies; J. W. Lefebvre, Gatineau Power Company, Beatty Bros. Ltd., and the De Laval Company, showing an attractive line of separators, washing machines, refrigerators, ranges, dairy and electrical appliances, while R. McArthur and Son's exhibit of the Mystic Pump attracts keen attention. Mr. Charren represents the Perm Oil Company and Bell and Sons, Ltd., are featuring their Min-o-Vite iodized minerals.

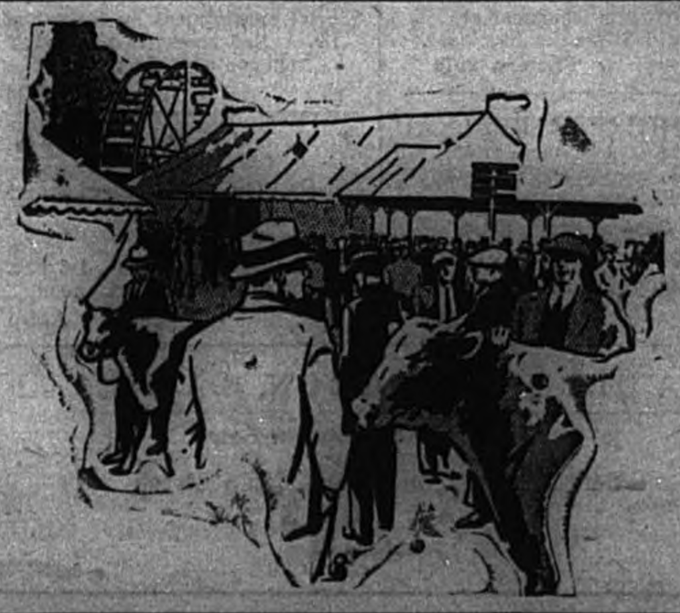

The upper part of the building carries much of interest. The ladies of the Women's Institute in this county have creditable displays of handicraft work, bearing evidence that handicrafts are by no means a lost art. The rich display of woollen products from the firm of Ayers Limited stimulates a sense of personal pride to the people of this county, for these beautiful blankets, overthrows and rugs, with their varied colorings to grace the homes of countless thousands, are a product of local manufacture.

Canadian Industries Limited have an exhibit of explosives in connection with their Ammunition Division. This display is both interesting and instructive; and through the company's Chemical Division, also, the advantages derived from careful fertilization of soil are explained in the distribution of explanatory booklets.

Entertainment, the horse and cattle judging, a good program of vaudeville, and the horse races should fill the grandstand in the remaining days of the Fair.

The great Sims Midway is providing fun and frolic for all ages, with its numerous swings, rides and sideshows. A fine display of fireworks will conclude the evening's program tonight and tomorrow (Friday).

Wolf Cubs of the North Quadra Pack, of Victoria, B.C. have for some time been collecting old linen and cotton sheets and pillow cases to be sent to Boy Scout first aid workers in China for the making of bandages.

Poison Spray Remedy for Tent Caterpillars

It is anticipated that forest tent caterpillars will be active in Eastern Canada this season. J. J. deGryse, Chief of Forest Insect Control, Dominion Department of Agriculture, reports that already they have commenced operations and that now is a good time to prevent infestation. Since the caterpillars feed on leaves, it is possible to kill them with a poison spray consisting of a mixture of arsenate of lead and water, at the ratio of two and a half pounds of arsenate of lead powder to forty gallons of water. Where only a few trees are affected, and it is not necessary to make a large quantity of spray, an effective dose can be made of one ounce, or two and one quarter tablespoons, of the lead arsenate powder to a gallon of water.

Periodic outbreaks of tent caterpillars occur also in the Prairie Provinces. Large areas of woodland and plantations are completely stripped of their foliage, and the ravages of the caterpillars cause considerable alarm and discomfort, sometimes even financial loss in heavily infested districts. The caterpillars have a habit of migrating in large armies in search of new food and frequently swarm over roads and railway tracks in such numbers as to interfere seriously with traffic. Further information on tent caterpillars and how to combat them may be obtained by writing to the Division of Entomology, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

HARVESTING HAY HIGH IN PROTEIN

Dr. F. T. Shutt, C.B.E., Ottawa, for nearly half a century as Dominion Chemist, never ceased to urge upon the farmers of Canada the necessity for cutting hay early in order to conserve its digestible nutrients, pointing out that when the plants head out the stems become fibrous with a rapid lowering in digestibility and nutritive properties. The influence of Dr. Shutt's advice on the improvement in quality of Canadian hay is inestimable, says B. Leslie Emslie, chemist agronomist, who, as soil fertility specialist, was assistant to Dr. Shutt for many years.

Timothy is deservedly the most popular grass for hay in Canada. It is palatable and nutritious and when cut early is an exceedingly valuable fodder. Colonel W. R. Peel, D.S.O., M.A., in his book on Grassland Management, says that timothy hay should be cut before the heads have emerged, and none can dispute the wisdom of the statement.

The percentage of digestible protein is largely the measure of quality in hay. Protein is high in nitrogen; consequently, nitrogenous fertilizers, such as sulphate of ammonia, nitrate of soda and syanamide, applied at the proper time, will definitely increase the protein content of the grasses, as Dr. Shutt's investigations have shown.

In the Journal of the Ministry of Agriculture for April, 1939, there appeared an interesting report by A. H. Lewis, Jealott's Hill Research Station, Bracknell, Berks, England, on Improving the Quality of Hay. The author refers to experiments carried out by Sprague and Hawkins in the United States, who found that the protein content of hay grasses could be increased substantially by applications of nitrogen fertilizers from 10 to 20 days before harvesting. During the season of 1938, at Jealott's Hill, Lewis made extensive trials on replicated plots, the results confirming those obtained by Sprague and Hawkins.

Lewis points out that much of the hay crop in Great Britain has a very low protein content, the average being only 7.58% of crude protein. Applications of nitrogen fertilizers in early spring usually increase yields and total protein but not the percentage of protein. In the Jealott's Hill trials no significant difference between results from applications made 10 and 20 days before cutting, nor between the effects of sulphate of ammonia and nitrate of soda, were shown. But the percenetage of crude protein in the hay was increased from 8.69% up to an average of 11.74%.

In March the plots received a liberal dressing of a phosphate-potash mixture, the nitrogen fertilizer being applied at rates varying from 100 to 200 lbs. per acre, 10 to 20 days, respectively, before harvesting. A further advantage of the treatment was seen in the aftermath which was notably higher not only in yield but in the percentage of dry matter and crude protein.

Shade for Poultry When Weather Is Hot

According to the Dominion Experimental Farms Service, the problem of lack of shade for poultry during the hot weather period is met by planting either corn or sunflowers early in the season. A few rows planted near the colony house answer the purpose well. If the chicks are running out the young plants should be protected for a few weeks by a temporary fence. By the time the hot weather comes, the corn or sunflowers will be high enough and strong enough not to be bothered by the chickens.

A more permanent form of shade may be provided by making a structure which is mostly roof and open on all four sides. Some poultrymen even make the roof of old bags, which give protection on dry, hot days.

Modern poultry practice demands that chicks be raised on clean, fresh land each season to escape disease and worm infestations and as a result it is not possible to have the colony houses permanently located near shade trees. Most farmers know this and haul the colony houses to fresh land in one of their fields and so there is the need for the temporary shade so easily provided by either corn or sunflowers.

NEW WHITER PAINT
STARTS WHITER . . . STAYS WHITER

BEFORE developing C-I-L "Trutone" White, C-I-L research chemists surveyed the whole field of white paints. They realized that attractive though white houses are, most white paints soon lose their original glamour . . . soon become dull and faded.

But now, in "TRUTONE" WHITE PAINT, C-I-L has introduced an exterior finish that both starts whiter and stays whiter! "Trutone" White starts whiter because an exclusive C-I-L formula makes it that way. Stays whiter because it resists dust and grime . . . actually sheds dirt. Yet in spite of these advantages "Trutone" White costs you no more! In fact, it's more economical because it hides better, spreads farther, lasts longer!

This year, give your home more lasting distinction with "Trutone" White. You'll see the difference at once, and know that the difference will last! Specify C-I-L "Trutone" White to your Master Painter. Be sure you get it. Call on your C-I-L dealer—he'll be glad to help you with your painting problems.

COMPULSORY HEALTH INSURANCE IS APPROVED

A plan for Dominion-wide compulsory health insurance was approved by the Ontario Medical Association in general meeting at Hamilton recently. The province's medical men went on record as favoring such legislation.

A plan for compulsory insurance, brought in by a committee after long study, was given careful consideration and endorsed for submission to the Canadian Medical Association.

FIRE ENGINE GIFT FROM GEORGE III

The occasion of the Royal visit brought from Sam Holden, prominent Ottawa business man, a suggestion that the fire engine presented to his native Shelbourne, N.S., in 1787 by George III be brought to Ottawa for the visit of the King and Queen.

According to Holden, the engine, a wooden-wheeled, horse-drawn vehicle with a water tank, pump and 20-foot hose, was in actual service for more than 100 years, and up to 20 years ago was used in civic parades.

NO RELIEF FOR NEWLYWEDS

Welfare officials at Charles City, Iowa, have been struggling with the problem of persons on relief marrying and establishing a new home and family, dependent upon relief, of course. Latest action taken is to deny relief to newly wedded persons during their first year of married life.

NEW FLOOR, BETTER FIRE EQUIPMENT FOR PARLIAMENTARY LIBRARY

After 63 years' use, since the Library of Parliament was first built in 1876, the famous inlaid cherry, oak, walnut and ash floor is to be replaced by a modern rubber tiling floor of special design to conform to the interior decoration and woodwork of the library.

When the old Parliament Buildings were destroyed by fire in February, 1916, the library, of Gothic design, was saved by the closing of the fire door, but water got in and, flooding the floor, warped it badly and damaged it considerably.

Improvements to the lighting and fire fighting equipment and heating system in the library are also to be made, in addition to the new flooring, according to a report submitted by the joint committee of the Commons and Senate on library management.

BACK TO THE COUNTRY

Investigators who have been studying the subject of where and how most people prefer to live have come to the rather unexpected conclusion that more young married people than elderly ones prefer country life to city life, all the year around.

The general impression has been the other way; that the diversified interests and entertainments afforded by city life made it more attractive to the young than to the old.

It probably is true that this change of tastes is accounted for by the fact that modern improvements enable people to live in the country with all the comforts and conveniences which the cities afford, and the added gratification of the ineradicable human urge to live among natural rather than artificial surroundings.

The movement of population today is not merely from the cities to the suburban areas, but beyond the suburbs, to the real country, where people can have a garden, keep cows or pigs if they want to, live naturally and simply, and at the same time get to town about as easily as they can from nearby suburban districts.

Modern highways and motorcars make a fifty-mile drive to and from a city office or factory almost as easy as travelling from the outlying sections of a great city to its centre.

People who live in the country these days can have well-built homes, insulated and air-conditioned against summer heat and winter cold; they have electric lights, modern plumbing, oil-burning furnaces and all of the other "fixings" which a few years ago nobody but city dwellers could enjoy.

The movement from city to country is definitely under way. And there is plenty of vacant land still unoccupied to provide country homes for everybody who wants one.

Politicians Tied to Party Machines

I believe that it is and has been the accepted practice of the Conservative and Liberal parties to take financial contributions from the vested interests. They are called campaign funds. This practice is so venerable that to some, it now seems essential to the proper working of our economic and political system. I hold the view that it makes impossible any action which can save the people. For surely it is plain that political parties which take money from special privilege must surrender their independence in exchange therefor.

SOME MEASURES PASSED DURING SESSION

In addition to the mortgage bill which has as its major object the reconstruction of the whole urban and rural mortgage system of the country on a healthier basis, outstanding measures of the session were those embodying the new agricultural industry; it provided means to encourage co-operative marketing, and aimed at establishing a broad foundation for those engaged in primary production, ensuring them a minimum level of subsistence. The price for wheat was guaranteed at seventy cents f.o.b. Fort William, the guarantee on an equivalent basis being extended to all Canadian wheat producers. Combined with this was an acreage bonus bill to prevent distress among those whose crops were destroyed. There were measures in the program to encourage and improve cheese manufacture and to aid other branches of the dairying trade. An act provided for the establishment of a board which will supervise and aid the marketing of salt fish, a business that has been injured by competition from countries where the export trade in salt fish received very considerable government assistance. An appropriation was also provided to bonus the salt fish trade.

DEFENCE APPROPRIATIONS

A vital feature of the session was the passing of appropriations of 63 million dollars for national defence. This is the largest sum that has so far been provided for defence in peace time. The Minister, Mr. Mackenzie, whose department has been under continued bombardment of criticism on account of the Bren Gun contract, with a wide divergence of opinion as to the merits of that contract, gave a clear explanation to the House of Commons of Canada's defence needs. A considerable proportion of the money appropriated will be used in the air arm, a branch of military defence in which Canadians have shown their outstanding ability, and which will play such an important role in future defence measures in all nations. An act was passed authorizing the appointment of a defence purchasing board, which will let all contracts of any size for munitions and defence equipment. In the act munitions profits were curtailed to a maximum of five per cent in cases where for unavoidable reasons tenders could not be asked. Close to the end of the session also an act was passed which made more stringent the laws against espionage in Canada. The Act to amend the Official Secrets Act was modelled to a large extent on laws in the United Kingdom which have been in operation for some years.

With the ratification of the trade agreement with the United States which reduced import tariffs on a wide range of commodities, the budget in the face of business uncertainties in the world, made a few additional changes in import rates. The excise tax of three per cent on imports was removed, however from all importations except those coming under the general tariff. The budget also, it will be recalled, endeavored to encourage industry through the remission of income tax over a period of years to an amount equivalent to ten per cent of the cost of improvement and additions made to plant and machinery.

THE CANADIAN AIR LINE

During the session this country took steps to keep abreast of the world's progress in aviation. An act was passed to give effect to international rules and regulations in relation to air carriage in Canada. Eastern Canada will shortly be brought into the orbit of the Trans-Canada airways. In a short time the route across the Atlantic will be in operation completing another important link in the all red air lines circumnavigating the globe.

COMPARISON OF VARIATIONS IN DANISH AND CANADIAN HOG PRICES

This chart shows the actual dressed weight prices paid for hogs in Denmark and Canada, week by week throughout 1937, and indicates the price fluctuations that occur in both countries.

MANY farmers believe that Canadian hog prices fluctuate more than those of other important countries supplying bacon to the British market. This is not true. The graph clearly indicates that Danish hog prices are subject to similar fluctuations.

Variations in the price of bacon on the British market are largely responsible for these fluctuations.

In addition to these weekly fluctuations, the chart shows prices to be higher during the summer months. Similar variations occur year after year. This suggests that many Canadian farmers might consider how to take advantage of this condition—by adjusting their breeding practice so that more pigs will come to market when prices are normally highest.

Ruskin's Description of The Falls of the Rhine

The Falls of the Rhine near Schaffhausen, Switzerland, are 380 feet wide and 100 feet deep. Compared with Niagara they are modest indeed, yet their setting is so impressive that every spectator will agree with Ruskin's description:

"Stand for an hour beside the Falls of Schaffhausen, on the north side, where the rapids are long, and watch how the vault of water first bends unbroken in pure polished velocity over the arching rocks at the brow of the cataract, covering them with a dome of crystal 20 feet thick, so swift that its motion is unseen except when a foam-globe from above darts over it like a falling star; and how the trees are lighted above it under all their leaves at the instant that it breaks into foam; and how all the hollows of that foam burn with green fire, like so much shattering chrysoprase; and how, ever and anon startling you with its white flash, a jet of spray leaps out, hissing, like a rocket bursting in the wind and driven away in dust, filling the air with light; and how, through the curdling wreaths of the restless, crashing abyss below, the blue of the water, paled by the foam in its body, shows purer than the sky through white rain cloud; while the shuddering iris stoops in tremulous stillness over all, fading and flushing alternately through the chocking spray and shattered sunshine, hiding itself at last among the thick golden leaves which toss to and fro in sympathy with the wild waters, their dripping masses lifted at intervals, like sheaves of loaded corn, by some stronger gush from the cataract, and bowed again upon the mossy rocks as its roar dies away."

The Jew as an Immigrant And a Refugee

Paper on a timely subject, prepared by Mrs. W. C. LeCras for last week's meeting of Lachute W.I.

Jewish Immigration comes within the general provisions of the Immigration Act, and in view of the existing conditions in Europe at the present time, the Department of Immigration in Ottawa is deluged with applications for admission to Canada of Jewish refugees from Germany and other parts of European countries. Very few of the refugees, however, come within the admissable class, and, therefore, the only way in which they can be admitted to Canada is by the passing of special Orders-in-Council on their behalf. Unfortunately, the cases which can be given favorable consideration are very few in comparison with the number which must be rejected. If all, or even a majority of the same were granted, our refugee immigration would shortly exceed our present total immigration to an overwhelming extent, and an unfortunate feature is that most of these would be seeking to locate in towns and cities where our unemployed are now congregated, therefore, while an effort is being made to assist some of the most urgent cases, it is necessary to restrict recommendations to Council to certain classes, such as,—

(a) "Family Remnants," which inclinclude elderly parents of persons resident in Canada who are in a position to receive and care for them, or single brothers and sisters who are alone in Europe whose movement to Canada would mean family re-union.

(b) Persons who can bring forward a very considerable amount of capital with them, with which to establish new industries in this Dominion, when this will mean the creation of additional employment for Canadians.

(c) A few cases of technical experts whose services are required in connection with the establishment of new industries, or whose qualifications and experience are of such outstanding type that they would be contributing something to Canadian industry, education, etc., which could not be secured in Canada.

Senator Cairine Wilson in speaking over the radio on the refugee problem said, "In the present interdependent world the degradation of hundreds of thousands of individuals anywhere is necessarily of concern everywhere. The Government of the Third Reich is reducing to poverty or forcing flight upon approximately 1½ million persons, of whom 50% are Jews, and we cannot escape our share of responsibility for caring for these unfortunate people. The persecutions and sufferings of thousands of these unhappy people constitutes a great challenge to the reality of our humanitarianism, and our loyalty to our democratic principles and tradition, and our hope for them, make it imperative that we render what help we can in this urgent situation." "We must insist that our Government participate effectively in the international organizations which have been set up to deal with the problem." "We must be big enough and courageous enough to admit to Canada a fair share of the unfortunate persons involved. I am convinced that the admission of a certain number of selected refugees would increase employment, for it would lead to the establishment of new industries which would require additional Canadian workmen. Canada's ratio of population to the square mile is the second to the lowest of any country in the world, yet she is possessed of enormous wealth in natural resources, and with a vigorous and enterprising people is surely able to assume this extra responsibility."

So far, Canada has done very little to assist in the settlement of refugees in this country, a few have been admitted under the categories, a, b, and c already mentioned. The contribution of Canada to the solution of the refugee problem may be gauged from the fact that total immigration to this country from all sources for the first six months of 1938 was 8,135 of which 328 were Jews.

There are 50,000 children, alone, available for immigration, whose parents are eager to send them to other countries though they may never see them again. Australia recently announced that 15,000 refugees will be permitted entry to that country over a period of the next three years. England has recently granted admission for the entry of 5,000 German children (Jews) who are being maintained in temporary homes until permanent homes within the country are found for them. Belgium and Holland have both been generous but their efforts cannot continue indefinitely. The United States has permitted its German quota of 27,000 to be partly filled every year since 1933.

The people seeking sanctuary are far from illiterate. They do not represent the ordinary submerged classes of Europe. Many of them are skilled artisans. Instead of being asked to receive the culturally inadequate, we are now being invited to receive many of the most highly trained and gifted people of Europe. Many of them can speak from four to eight languages. They have a variety of skills which we in Canada lack, and Europe's loss will be our gain.

Those refugees who could be settled on the land would make a desirable contribution to our agricultural economy. The Czechs are among the most skilled farmers in Europe, and those Jews who are eager to become farmers in Canada would undoubtedly be an asset to the country.

Of the Jewish population of Saskatchewan 16.7 is now engaged in farming. 62% of the present Jewish holders of land have retained it for 25 years or more without moving, while in the same area 16% of the total population have stayed on the land for that time. Only 40.4% of the sons of Jewish farmers have left the soil, while the index for the total population is 43.7%.

It must be noted that the responsible heads of the Jewish community in Canada have already offered to give assurances that no Jewish refugee allowed to enter Canada will ever become a public charge. Such assurances were given to the American Government at the time of the persecution of the Jews in Russia, and those promises have been strictly kept. Even if the refugees become penniless, being people who have learned initiative, skill and technique, and given a fair chance to make good, their fundamental capital is in their knowledge and their spirit.

A larger population in Canada will provide a better home market for those agricultural and other products of which we already create a surplus.

Canada's primary need today is not so much for more agricultural workers, as for new industrial activities. Let us see what has happened in England since refugees from Germany have entered that country. In some cases whole industries or sections of industries have been transferred to that country. The whole of the valuable fur trade of Leipzig, for instance, has been transferred to England. The greater part of the present leather bag industry now established in England since 1931 has been built up by German-Jews. In South Wales refugees are bringing work to the districts where the need for work is greater than anywhere else. Here are some instances: A silk printing factory now employs 40 and will soon employ 70 British workpeople. . A leather glove factory employs 50, a patent fastener company employs 50, a chrome leather company 84, surgical adhesives 60; and these are but a few employing British workmen.

It is estimated that the ladies' clothing trade alone is responsible for the employment of about 1,000 additional British subjects. One effect of the transfer of industries has been that firms in England who previously bought goods abroad find they can still purchase from the same firm, now established in that country. The refugee manufacturers bring with them the good will they built up on the continent. That is why they so readily find in Switzerland, Holland, Denmark and other countries, markets for the goods they manufacture in England. If this situation is working out so well in England, why not in Canada too?

The plight of the refugee, in general, was discussed with interest at the national conference of Canadian Universities at the Royal Victoria College just recently.

Main difficulty of the refugees, declared Pro. Norman MacKenzie, University of Toronto, was the immigration law. It was a simple enough matter for a foreign student to complete a course at a university and then for him to return to his country, but a refugee was a man without a country.

Many brilliant scholars had been admitted to the country, he said. Care was taken, however, that they should not displace Canadian-born scholars and scientists, and that the advancement of the Canadian scholars was not blocked. All such "imported" research workers who were brought in and attached to Canadian universities or institutions were supernumeraries, and if at the end of a reasonable period they had not been absorbed into the national life on their own merits, then they were no longer the responsibility of the body concerned. This condition must not be regarded as precluding possible and further assistance if funds are available.

President H. J. Cody, University of Toronto, who presided at the afternoon session, instanced the cases of eight brilliant refugee scholars who had joined the university staff at Toronto. These men, he said, were distinct additions to the intellectual forces of the country.

"We, as Christians," he continued, "should take a risk and stretch a point to aid those in the long run who will be builders of Canada, and be among its most loyal and enthusiastic citizens."

In conclusion, I would like to give you the Final Appeal taken from a pamphlet by the Canadian National Committee on Refugees:

In the past, great refugee movements have often been the beginning of new developments in the countries in which they came. When the Spanish Jews were driven to Holland in 1492, they laid many of the foundations for the Dutch colonial empire. The Flemings came to England in the 16th century and through them the woollen industry was established in which Great Britain has ever since maintained the lead. When the United Empire Loyalists found themselves distracted at the close of the War of the American Revolution, they were welcomed to Canada and laid new foundations for the whole Dominion. What has happened before may happen again: those whom Europe is rejecting will help to build a new and more prosperous Canada, and to make more solid the broad basis of the justice and freedom of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

Even if it were not so, even if there were no motives of self-interest to which we might appeal, no truly Christian nation can look upon these victims of ruthless persecution and refuse the demands of humanity especially when it is well within its power to help. A nation which has the potential resources of Canada and refuses to help in such an emergency does not deserve economic prosperity. It does not even deserve the right to be called a Christian country. If we turn from our obvious duty now, we, or our children, may pay for our negligence in the bitter years to come upon us.

Borrowing Newspapers

(Wiarton Echo)

Recently we have been trying to collect outstanding subscriptions because we need the money and because outside advertising is based on paid-up subscriptions.

It is surprising what tales we hear. One woman, who has been a subscriber for years, through no fault of her own, got behind. She came in to talk the matter over, and she said: "Three of my neighbors borrow The Echo from me every week and they all have more money than I have." She told us who they were and we smiled when we heard of one of them for he cancelled his subscription because he received a bill when it was overdue. Ho, hum, there is one satisfaction and that is they all read it—whether they pay for it or not. A weekly newspaper is like a wife — every man should have one of his own!

IN BRIEF

"Now, boys," said the schoolmaster, "the word novelette means 'a short tale.' You may now write in your copybooks a sentence containing the word."

A few minutes later he picked up Johnny Brown's effort and read aloud: "Yesterday I saw a fox terrier running down our street with a tin can tied to his novelette."

Non-Resident Opposition

When the Right Honorable R. B. Bennett was official leader of the Opposition in the House of Commons, the task of criticizing the Government was so frequently left in his capable hands that he became known as the one-man Opposition.

Perhaps, under Mr. Bennett's leadership, the weapons of his followers grew rusty through disuse. Observers of the current session of Parliament, seeing the apathetic acquiescence of Opposition members with the Government's pouring of $12,600,000 into the Dorchester Street ditch in Montreal, are beginning to ask where the Opposition is; and the answer seems to be that it has moved to England.

The public memory is notoriously short, but surely someone remembers that another excavation turned out to be a valley of humiliation for the present Government party.

How Lynch Law Got Name

Lynch law is the infliction of punishment on persons charged with heinous offenses by people not legally authorized to arrest persons and inflict penalties. It is said to have derived this name from John Lynch, a farmer of North Carolina, who, early in the Eighteenth century, exercised summary punishment — lashes, torture and even death, as he saw fit—upon fugitive slaves and criminals, either white or black, who at one time infested the Dismal swamp and sallied forth from time to time to prey upon the neighboring plantations. The colonial authorities of those days failing to pursue and recapture these desperadoes, John Lynch and his neighbors took the law into their own hands. There is a term of the same significance in England.

Patrick Henry's Famous Speech

The second revolutionary convention of Virginia was held in St. John's Episcopal church at Richmond in 1775. Proposals for a peaceful settlement had been strongly advocated. On the third day, March 23, 1775, Patrick Henry, realizing that war was inevitable, overwhelmed the opposition to resolutions for arming the Virginia militia in a speech which has since become famous. He ended: "Is life so dear, or peace so sweet, as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery? Forbid it, Almighty God. I know not what course others may take, but as for me, give me liberty or give me death!"

The landing of Cartier at Stadacona.

Jacques Cartier

This daring navigator won the proud title of "Discoverer of Canada." In 1534 he made his first voyage and landed at Gaspe where he planted a 30 foot cross and claimed this new land for François I of France. The following year he sailed up the river to Stadacona—now Quebec—where he spent the winter of 1535-6, sailing home in the Spring, carrying glowing tales of this new land of great promise.

Invade The Golden Eagle's Domain

The Sky-Line Trail Hikers and Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies will share with golden eagles and white mountain goats the glaciers, mile-high alpine meadows and scenic beauties of two of the loveliest sections of the Canadian Rockies on their annual outings this summer.

Starting each year from Banff Springs Hotel, the Riders on sure-footed mountain ponies, the Hikers on foot, explore new sections of the Rockies. Carefree days are passed camera-hunting big game, fishing in virgin lakes, roaming in alpine gardens, mountain climbing, or basking in the sun, roused from lethargy only by the incantations performed thrice daily by the cook.

The Trail Riders will leave Banff Springs Hotel early Friday, July 28, riding in easy stages over the scenic High Line to Moraine Lake in the Valley of the Ten Peaks, where they will hold their closing Pow-Wow on the evening of Tuesday, August 1. A day's rest in a most interesting location is provided enroute.

The Hikers will make headquarters at a central camp in beautiful Ptarmigan Valley north of Lake Louise, August 4-7, and spend their time exploring the high country.

The Trail Riders and Trail Hikers of the Canadian Rockies' plans for this year are being received enthusiastically by nature lovers all over the world, judging from the number of inquiries reaching the secretary, J. M. Gibbon, Windsor Station, Montreal.

Actual Farm Exhibited At World's Fair

One of the most unique and outstanding exhibits at the New York World's Fair is that of the Firestone Tire & Rubber Company and its world-wide organization, represented by one of the finest exhibits in this panorama of industrial science and progress.

The Firestone exhibit building and grounds covers three and a half acres, and depicts a fascinating story of rubber in visual form. It includes a full scale tire factory in operation, producing a tire every four minutes, and, in addition, displays demonstrating the essential part rubber has come to play in everyday life.

Probably the most unique part of the exhibit is the actual life-size reproduction of a thriving farm, livestock, farm hands and all. Through the farmyard flows a stream crossed by a covered bridge. Cattle, sheep, pigs, chickens, ducks and other livestock roam the fields. A farmhouse, barns, silos, granaries and other buildings of a typical farm bring the countryside to visitors. This part of the exhibit demonstrates how the farm has become modernized by the adoption of pneumatic tires to every kind of wheeled farm implement and calls attention to the fact that it was Harvey S. Firestone who pioneered the rubber tire for farm use. Any person planning to attend the World's Fair will be well advised to visit this great exhibit, where a warm welcome awaits them.

Gutenberg Did Not Imprint Name

Johann Gutenberg (1397-1468), the inventor of printing from movable metal types, never imprinted his name on any of his works, says Collier's Weekly. The first book to bear a complete imprint—name of the printer, place and date—was the celebrated Latin Psalter of 1457, which was published by a firm consisting of Gutenberg's son-in-law, Peter Schoeffer, and his former partner, Johann Fust.

Wild Boar Fierce Animal

The wild boar is a fierce animal for its size. Utterly fearless, when angered it will charge anything. As they usually roam in packs like wolves, woe to the sportsman who misses the charging leader and has no stout tree handy up which he can shin in somewhat of a hurry. Those curved tusks would rip him to ribbons very quickly And, too, the wild boar can carry quite a load of lead without its stopping his charge.

Airplanes Bring Medical Aid To Indians

Air transportation has become an important factor in safeguarding the health of Canada's Indian population, according to the Indian Affairs Branch, Department of Mines and Resources, Ottawa. With pilots penetrating many hitherto inaccessible areas, reports of sickness or serious accident now reach the Department without undue delay, thus enabling the despatch of medical aid more promptly than was possible in former years. Doctors are now able to reach stricken natives within a few hours' flying time, and threatened epidemics of contagious diseases have been averted by such prompt action.

Radio and air mail are also used by the medical officers of the Department in carrying out their duties. Recently reports of serious conditions among Indians in the Liard River district, British Columbia, one of the most inaccessible places in Canada, were received, and by the use of radio and air mail and through the co-operation of provincial government officials, prompt investigation was made and the necessary aid rendered.

Revival of Theatre

If there is anybody who has never seen the film of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" we do not know where he or she lives.

That delightful fairytale made into a motion picture by the artistry of Walt Disney has been shown all over the world.

It is pleasing, therefore, to read that in the fifteen months since it was first exhibited, Snow White has taken in $6,740,000 in admissions paid by enthusiasts in every quarter of the globe.

That is more money than any picture ever shown has earned. We don't know how much of it went to Walt Disney himself, but however large his personal profit, he has earned it.

There must be something depressing to other motion picture producers, whose films have never earned anywhere near as much, in the reflection that not a single actor or actress had to be hired at a fabulous salary to make Snow White. It is a picture made up of pictures and nothing else.

When an artist can give life to the creations of his brush and pen and attract larger audiences than flesh-and-blood actors draw, no matter how glamorous their personal appeal or how alluring the "build-up" of their publicity men, it is something to think about seriously.

The possibility suggests itself that Mr. Disney and his disciples have found the ultimate medium through which the movies will make their abiding appeal and establish themselves as an institution.

It is conceivable that the movie shows of the future will consist of the kind of things which Walt Disney does so well — Three Little Pigs, Snow White, Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck and the other creations of his facile fancy.

That might reduce the number of movie theatres, but it might also bring about a great revival of the spoken drama with real flesh-and-blood actors in person on the stage.

There has been a considerable revival of the old-fashioned theatre in the past three or four years. It might be tough on some of the movie stars to have to compete with trained troupers, but it would be interesting to see the theatre — the real theatre —come back.

The DOCTOR Tells the Story

ECZEMA

The skin is subject to many diseases, and the conditions which bring about these maladies are numerous, and increase with age.

Some of these diseases are purely local in character while others are systematic. If you are troubled with some skin eruption do not let yourself be obsessed with the idea that you have acquired or inherited some so-called "blood disease."

Among those skin troubles, perhaps the most common one to which mankind is heir, is eczema. Indeed, some physicians and most patients incline to the belief that it is a major affection; for there can be no question that it adds misery in almost unbearable quantities to those whom it afflicts.

Some have it in a dry form and others in a wet form, commonly termed "weeping eczema." It is non-contagious and it inflames the skin, always being accompanied by an itching and burning. Slight vesicles and pustules are present and the skin in and about them thickens and eliminates scales or crusts.

It is often associated with asthma and constitutes about 40 per cent of all skin diseases — indeed there are few elderly people free from its ravages. With the decrease of general vitality and resistance, poor assimilation and elimination and a chronic or acute diabetes, gout, rheumatism, nephritis, one may expect eczema.

I am certain that doctors will agree with me when I say that it is one of the hardest diseases to conquer that the medical profession knows. I had one patient, a wealthy man of about seventy-five years, whose entire body was affected.

I accompanied him to most of the best specialists in skin diseases in this country and in Europe, who wrote various prescriptions for him and changed his diet repeatedly, without improving his condition. We simply exhausted medical intelligence and the materia medica upon him, and he had not benefited in the least.

Several teeth pained him and ulcers developed. The offending teeth were extracted. He got a new colored cook, who said, "Boss, I kin cure yo suah of dat trouble, if you does what I says."

I told my patient to try anything. She fed him fried herring for weeks. Gradually his skin cleared and he became practically well, all of which convinced me that his particular case of eczema was due to some food allergy, or to use a more understandable work — food poisoning. And I learned about medicine from that Negro woman.

DEATH

JEFFREY — At St. Andrews East on Wednesday, June 14th, Mrs. George Jeffrey. Funeral on Friday, June 16th, to United Church at 2.30 p.m. (standard time).

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

PAUL — Mr. John Paul and family wish to thank all kind friends for expressions of sympathy and floral tributes sent during their recent bereavement.

Nothing New

There is nothing new under the sun. Eyebrow plucking was practiced 3,000 years ago and intermittently throughout the ages. A lip lotion is recommended in an old book published in Venice in 1510, "ashes of hairs plucked from a horse's tail mixed with an equal portion of honey." Far Eastern beauties at all times have found and still find, a substitute for the much-maligned lipstick of the Twentieth century flapper in the scarlet juice of prepared betel nut, which they chew with the persistency of an American gum addict.

Roman Dog Lovers Gave Groups Only Two Names

The Romans divided their dogs into six groups, although the two sets of groups do not correspond exactly. In Rome there were Canes villatici (house dogs); Canes pastorales pecuarii (shepherd dogs); Canes venatici (sporting dogs); Pugnaces or bellicosi (pugnacious or war dogs); Nares sagaces (dogs which ran by scent); and Pedipus celeres (swift dogs which ran by sight).

In the United States, observes Margaret Kidder in the Los Angeles Times, we have a sporting dog group in which are the bird dogs; a hound group, including both the scent and the sight hounds; a working dog group, which takes in the shepherd dogs and the dogs that the Romans termed war dogs; a terrier group, which had no counterpart in Roman times; a toy group, which unaccountably was missing in Rome since tiny pets were very popular among the ruling classes, and a non-sporting group, which no doubt includes some of the breeds that the Romans listed as house dogs.

These two groupings are as nearly as possible the natural divisions of dogs according to their roles in the general scheme of things. Certain breeds have shifted groups during the past 2,000 years, but this usually has been due to structural changes that came about after many generations of selective breeding.

JUDGES IMPOSE FINE WHEN FISHERMAN MALTREATS BAIT

Five English magistrates, at a trial in London, found that Frederick Margetts, glove worker, of Woodstock, Oxfordshire, caused unnecessary suffering to a roach which he used as live bait. They imposed a nominal fine of $1.25.

At a previous hearing the Woodstock magistrates were unable to agree.

Mr. Gordon Jones, prosecuting attorney for the R.S.P.C.A., said that a channel was made along the roach's back with a special needle, and the fish was then threaded on a line. It swam about in the water to lure pike.

"Gorge baiting" had been banned by practically every angling society in the country.

Dr. John Baker, lecturer in zoology at Oxford University, displayed large-scale diagrams to explain the nervous system of fish.

He said he killed a roach with chloroform, made a channel along its back with the special needle, and then made a microscopic examination. This showed that a living roach would suffer pain.

He added: "If I, as a scientist, were to do to a living roach in my laboratory for the purposes of scientific research, what Mr. Margetts did, I should be open to proceedings under the vivisection laws."

CHAIRMAN OF SEVERAL FAMOUS LONDON HOSPITALS COMING TO CANADA

Scouting is by no means the only public service interest of Sir Percy Everett, Kt., M.A., F.S.S., Deputy Commissioner of Imperial Headquarters of The Boy Scouts Association, who is to visit Canada in August. For many years he has been chairman of the Eastman Dental Clinic of the Royal Free Hospital, London, said to be the finest institution of the kind in England; also chairman of the governing committee of the Plaistow Maternity Hospital. It is claimed for the latter institution that it has brought 5,000 babies into the world in a single year, and with the lowest maternal mortality on record. In his home community of Elstree — Britain's "Hollywood" — Sir Percy Everett is a member of the Parish Council, and chairman of the Bushel Hospital.

Weddings

Elder-Evans

A very quiet wedding took place on Saturday, June 3rd, at the Presbyterian Manse in Lachute, when Wilma Charlotte Evans, daughter of Mrs. Thomas McCambly, became the bride of Leonard Elder, of Morin Heights. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. Orsborn, minister of the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church, and was attended by the immediate families.

The bride wore a grey suit with Japonica accessories, and a shoulder corsage of gardenias and forget-me-nots.

Mr. and Mrs. Elder left later on a motor trip to Ottawa, Toronto, Niagara Falls and the Thousand Islands, returning home to a reception and dance, held at Ralph's Hall, Lakefield, which was attended by 200 people. The young couple were the recipients of many beautiful gifts.

Cunningham-Millar

The wedding of Cora Alice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Millar, of Lachute, to Mr. Clifford R. Cunningham, of Lachute, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Cunningham, of Arnprior, Ont., took place on Saturday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock at the residence of the bride's parents. The Rev. W. B. Rosborough officiated. Miss Helen McFaul presided at the piano.

The living-rooms were decorated with iris, peonies and other spring flowers, while on the tea tables were placed vases of pink carnations and baby's breath.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white chiffon with a shirred bolero and elbow-length lace mitts. The full-length tulle veil fell from a coronet of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of pink roses, baby's breath and maiden hair fern.

She was attended by her cousin, Miss Violet Falconer, attired in a gown of blue net over taffeta made on bouffant lines. She wore a large hat and blue shoes and carried a bouquet of pink carnations and cornflowers.

Mr. Howard Cunningham, of Cornwall, was best man for his brother.

Mrs. Millar, the bride's mother, wore a gown of navy blue lace and a corsage of red roses.

Mrs. Cunningham, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gown of Suez with a white hat and accessories. Her corsage bouquet was of yellow roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham left later by motor for the States and other points, the bride travelling in a power blue dress under a navy blue coat, with blue hat and accessories. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham will reside in Lachute.

The out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham and sons, Howard and Borden; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Nicoll and family; Miss Lola Nichols, of Asbestos; Miss Eileen Morrow, of St. Jerome; Miss Ethel McOuat, of Montreal.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LESSON SERMON

"Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force?" is the subject of the lesson-sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday, June 18th.

The Golden Text is from I Corinthians 8:6: "To us there is but one God, the Father, of whom are all things, and we in him."

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty: for all that is in the heaven and in the earth is thine; thine is the kingdom, O Lord, and thou art exalted as head above all." (I Chronicles 29:11).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "God creates and governs the universe, including man. — God is the Principle of man, and man is the idea of God. — Being is holiness, harmony, immortality. It is already proved that a knowledge of this, even in a small degree, will uplift the physical and moral standard of mortals, will increase longevity, will purify and elevate character. Thus progress will finally destroy all error, and bring immortality to light." (Pages 295, 476, 492).

A Christian Science Devotional Program will be broadcast over Station C.B.M., Montreal, on Sunday, June 18th, at 2.30 p.m. The program is under the auspices of the Christian Science Committee on Publication for the Province of Quebec, and will be conducted by Mr. R. Duncan, a former First Reader of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Montreal. —1c

Rev. R. L. T. Ballantyne, D.D.

The Presbytery of Montreal hereby places on record its appreciation of the services of Rev. R. L. T. Ballantyne, D.D., who has recently resigned as minister of the congregation of St. Andrews East, Que., and who has now applied to the General Assembly for permission to retire from the active service of the Ministry of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

Robert Leitch Tweedle Ballantyne was born in January, 1870, on a farm in Colquhoun, Ont., near Chesterville.

His early education was obtained in the little local schoolhouse. Then coming to Montreal he studied in McGill University, and the Presbyterian College, graduating from the latter institution in 1894.

Shortly after graduation he was called and inducted into the charge known as Tamworth Presbyterian Church. Here he remained for six years, and under his leadership the congregation flourished greatly.

In the year 1900 he was called to the congregation of St. Andrews East, Quebec, to succeed the late Dr. Daniel Patterson, who had just retired. There Mr. Ballantyne remained for nine years, having a very happy pastorate.

He received a call and accepted it to the congregation of Riverfield and Howick, Quebec. After a successful pastorate there of three years, he was called in 1912 to the Maisonneuve Presbyterian Church in the East End of Montreal. Here he built up a strong cause among the artisans of that industrial centre, his church on the Sunday evenings being often packed to the doors. Feeling the burden too heavy for his condition of health, he resigned in 1920 and accepted a call to his old charge at Riverfield and Howick. Here again he labored with his usual success until after 1928, when he was called back to his old charge of St. Andrews East, where he has carried on the work until the present time.

During his pastorate there, wonderful improvements have been made in the beautiful stone church. A fine pipe organ has been installed and magnificent memorial windows have been placed. It is now one of the most beautiful churches in the Dominion.

In 1926 the Presbyterian College, Montreal, conferred on Mr. Ballantyne its highest honor, that of Doctor of Divinity.

Dr. Ballantyne has a wonderful way of getting along with people, and has been much beloved in all his congregations.

As a preacher he is exceedingly practical, deeply in earnest, and strictly evangelical. He still believes in and preaches the Old Gospel in all its fullness.

The prayer of the Presbytery is that he may long be spared to enjoy his well earned rest, and with him at eventime there may be light and joy.

(Extracted from the Minutes of the Presbytery of Montreal this fifth day of June in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine).

United Church Missionary Societies Hold Sectional Meeting in Brownsburg

A sectional meeting composed of seven societies from this section, together with the Presbyterial President, Mrs. G. S. Astbury, of Montreal, and nine of her officers, was held in Brownsburg United Church on Thursday afternoon and evening of last week. Twenty-six members of Lachute Auxiliary were present; 16 from Brownsburg; 15 from Cushing; 8 respectively from the auxiliaries of St. Andrews East and St. Eustache; 6 from Arundel and 2 from East Settlement. The Sectional President, Mrs. Shearman, of St. Eustache, presided. Mrs. A. Graham filled the position of secretary in the absence of the regular secretary, Miss R. Oswald. Mrs. J. Thompson, of Brownsburg, accompanied the singing.

Mrs. Shearman in her address told of the forming of several new auxiliaries, Morin Heights, Arundel and Grand'mère, and also stated there were five Mission Bands, four Baby Bands, one affiliated C.G.I.T. and two affiliated W.A. in the section and that there had been a slight increase in the givings. Mrs. Shearman defined a "loyal member" as one who gives "time, tithes and talents."

Mrs. Izzard, of Brownsburg, welcomed the visiting delegates and hoped that their coming together might be an inspiration for the future.

An interesting letter was read from Miss Mary Lamb (formerly of St. Andrews) expressing her pleasure at the continued interest in her work in the mission field of Fuchow, Sechuan Co., China. Miss Lamb asked for prayers and efforts for peace. In speaking of the war between China and Japan Miss Lamb said: "Nothing short of the teaching of Christ will overcome the selfishness that has brought all this trouble upon us."

Mrs. Lilly, St. Andrews East, Mrs. Woodwark, of St. Eustache, and Mrs. Clunie, of Lachute, were the nominating committee — nominating Mrs. W. Usher as Sectional Secretary for the next three years.

Mrs. J. Gordon, of East Settlement, and Mrs. F. Fuller, of Cushing, were the Resolutions Committee, and submitted the following resolutions which were accepted by the meeting:

Whereas our meeting this year takes place during the visit of our Sovereigns, King George and his Consort, Queen Elizabeth, be it resolved that we express our loyalty and wish for them a safe return to their home.

We extend our thanks to the Brownsburg Auxiliary, who have so kindly entertained us; to Mrs. Thompson as organist; to the C.G.I.T. girls, who served at the tea hour; to the Mission Band for the service of song; and to all who helped in any way to make the meeting a success.

Our thanks are extended also to the Rev. S. J. Pike for his kind letter of welcome and good wishes for our meeting.

Our thanks and appreciations are expressed, also, to the ladies from the Montreal Presbyterial for their kind co-operation, inspiration and the information received.

Also to Mr. J. S. Giles for space allowed us in The Watchman from time to time.

Our sympathy is extended to Pointe Fortune and Ste. Therese Auxiliaries, in the loss of dear ones at this time.

Some of the speakers from Montreal Presbyterial were Mrs. Astbury, President, who in referring of the years gone by, felt that the few women who first inaugurated mission work never dreamed how far this movement would reach or how much it would include in the work of following in Christ's footsteps, in spreading the gospel of the Kingdom, in preaching, teaching and healing.

Miss M. Thompson, of St. Columba House, outlined the work done there by way of giving legal advice, acting almost as an employment bureau for women, a dental clinic, etc. Many are assisted to better living, practically and spiritually, by this home.

Mrs. Hillyer addressed the Mission and C.G.I.T. Bands briefly, stressing the request that Mission Band reports be sent in on time, and telling them a legend about an ancient Eastern King.

Mrs. J. Addison Reid gave an excellent résumé of the Dominion Board meeting—one of the most interesting items being about her asking a Chinese lady, seated at a tea table with a friend, if it would embarrass her if she (Mrs. Reid) and a Japanese lady who accompanied her, were to sit down with them. The Chinese lady had replied, "Certainly not! Why should it? We are all Christians together." Mrs. Reid said that in electing councillors in some parts of China now, the rule was that there must be so many Christians elected.

Mrs. Pedan, Christian Stewardship Secretary, in her talk regarding the money question, said: "Money is not all that is required. Christian Stewardship means putting ourselves into the work — our time, our talents and our personalties." In closing she repeated a short poem in which a big silver dollar was portrayed as claiming superiority over a small brown cent, but the cent evidently had the last word in the argument, by saying that at least it went to church oftener than the big silver dollar!

Mrs. (Rev.) DeWitt Scott advocated the need of more workers being trained for the foreign field, and in particular some trained from this county, to replace those who had gone out from Argenteuil and must shortly give up.

This being the tenth anniversary of sectional meetings, an interesting review of the past ten years was given by Mrs. W. Usher, of Cushing, who also read at this time the minutes of the very first annual meeting held.

Mrs. Woodwark and Mrs. Judd, of St. Eustache, held the memorial service for those who had been "called higher" during the year — Miss F. Hibbard, of St. Andrews East, Mrs. A. McOuat, of Lachute, and Mrs. R. Hamilton, of Rosemere.

Mrs. J. McGibbon, of Lachute, made the offertory prayer, and Mrs. C. Duncan, as soloist, sang very sweetly "Teach Us to Pray."

Ninety-one members attended the meeting.

NEIGHBORS

There is no greater isolation than life in a city. The Larry Weingartens, living next door, were gone to Europe a month before we discovered it by receiving a postcard from Switzerland. They greeted their return through the fence the other day, only to learn they had been back a month!

Butler (to timid suitor): "Yes, Sir Nigel is expecting you, sir. You'll find him in the armory. I'll keep the front door open for you, sir."

Lachute High School Notes

THE LATE KENNY PLUNKETT . . . A TRIBUTE

Slightly over a week ago we laid to rest one of our beloved class-mates, the late Kenny Plunkett.

It has been truly stated that the funeral rites were those of a schoolboy, for all the high school grades of the school attended in a body to pay fitting tribute to a departed friend.

Although Kenny has left us in body, his spirit still lives on in the hearts of his class-room chums.

Kenny came to us in the autumn of 1935, beginning his schooling in the seventh grade. From the start he was a zealous sportsman and "made" the various teams rapidly.

During the past autumn and winter he more than excelled himself as a member of the baseball team and as goaler for our hockey squad. As though this was not enough, he also played on the Rex Theatre hockey team, and there too showed his worth.

These were not his only interests, however. He was also an active member of the Plage Laval Baseball Club, the Elmswood Tennis Club, the first Lachute Scout Troop, and the United Church Young People's Society.

Kenny will be missed in all these societies, for he was loved in these as much as he was loved by those at home.

THE POINT OF VIEW

An old lady said, "To think I have seen Queen Victoria's great-grandson." Later when a friend asked her if she had seen the Queen, the answer was, "I saw Queen Victoria's great-grandson." To her, the important thing was not that he was a King, but that he was a descendent of Queen Victoria. Those of us who are middle-aged can remember the way the Queen was adored, but it never could mean just as much to us as to the elder generation, as they grew up with their emotions stirred by the long reign of the Queen. Probably there were other old people who felt the same way. The King was only the Queen's great-grandson. It is all in the point of view.

MEN COOKS

The magazines are full of men who like to cook and tell about their recipes. And are they proud ? No wonder their food tastes good. Just take a look at the ingredients they use. Two cups of cream, a half-pound of butter, a pound of mushrooms, six eggs, and such-like. It isn't such a wonderful thing to make an appetizing dish if you do not have to consider the price of the ingredients. Probably their wives pay the household bills anyhow. To take a bit of this and a pinch of that and to make good tasting food which does not cost much, that is something else again. It is a fine idea to let the men cook but their recipes do amuse me.

PRONOUNCING VITAMIN

There seems to be considerable uncertainty as to the pronunciation of the word vitamin. Some call it vit-a-min, vit being used to rhyme with fit; others make the last syllable "mine." The accepted pronunciation is vit, to rhyme with mite, -a-min. There you have it, vit-a-min. That is the way the scientists pronounce it and it is wise to use their pronunciation of the word.

CANADIAN BACON

The bacon we Canadians call back bacon, the people in the United States call Canadian bacon. When travellers are away from home they look for something different and want the things that are characteristic of the country. If we are wise we will try to give tourists Canadian things and Canadian bacon is one of the things that could always be available. There are several ways of serving it. Bacon and eggs is always popular, but have you ever tried bacon and fried bananas ? Frying does something to the bananas and changes the banana flavor to a slightly tart one, that is delicious with meats. Cut the bananas in halves both lengthwise and crosswise and fry quickly in bacon fat until browned on both sides. If you are not familiar with this dish, try it for home consumption. Stuffed bacon is good, too. Make a poultry stuffing and put between two slices of back bacon. Bake in a hot oven of about 400° until cooked. Boiled back bacon is one of our standbys. It is so convenient when a ham or even a half-ham is too large. Choose a lean piece of bacon and boil slowly until tender. Then I like to rub the surface well with brown sugar and stick it with cloves and bake in a medium oven until the glazing is browned. This is delicious sliced cold. These are a few of the ways you can use back bacon so let us call it Canadian Bacon and have it figure prominently in tourist menus.

STRAWBERRY PRESERVES

Never again will I preserve strawberries in large quantities. They are so much nicer if done two boxes at a time for cooking is lessened and they taste much fresher and nicer. It does not take any longer in the end, because while these are boiling, you can prepare the next two. You may use the old-fashioned pound for pound, or you may prefer a little less sugar and use three-quarters of a pound of sugar to a pound of berries. Just before taking off the stove I like to add the juice of half a lemon. The lemon juice seems to bring out the flavor of the strawberries. This preserve may be put in pint sealers or you may prefer the small bottles sealed with wax or the newer transparent paper seals. I like these better than the wax as they are much easier to remove.

STRAWBERRY PINEAPPLE CONSERVE

2 quarts strawberries, 2 cups pineapple (diced or shredded), ½ cup water, 4 cups sugar.

Mix the strawberries, pineapple and water and cook slowly until most of the water has evaporated, stirring frequently. Add sugar; cook until thick. Pour into sterilized jars; seal with wax or transparent paper seals.

MOULDED FISH SALAD

1 tablespoon gelatin, ¼ cup cold water, 1 cup fish, ½ cup celery (chopped), ½ cup green pepper (chopped), 2 tablespoons olives (chopped), 1 tablespoon mild vinegar, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, ¾ cup cold salad dressing.

Soak the gelatin in the cold water; dissolve over hot water, then add to salad dressing. The fish may be any cooked fish, or canned tuna, or crabmeat. Add remaining ingredients to the salad dressing. Mix well. Turn into individual moulds. Chill. Serve on lettuce or cress.

CHOCOLATE ICE CREAM

4 tablespoons cocoa, 4 tablespoons sugar, 4 tablespoons water, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup whipping cream, ⅓ cup milk.

Cook cocoa, sugar and water until thick. Cool and mix with cream and milk and vanilla. Whip until thick. Do not whip until stiff, just until thick. Pour into freezing tray and freeze without stirring. In my refrigerator, I do not use the freezing temperature but just leave it set at the normal one. Bottom tray is cool enough to freeze this as it should be a soft consistency and not frozen stiff. Taste before freezing to see if it requires more sugar as cocoas differ. Frozen mixtures require to be slightly sweeter.

BITTER ORANGE MARMALADE

Betty Barclay Recipe

(Makes 6-8 glasses). 1 grapefruit, 2 Navel oranges, 1 lemon, ¼ cup lemon juice.

Slice unpeeled fruit very thin. Add three times as much water as fruit. Boil 20 minutes. Measure. Bring to boiling point. Add ¾ cup sugar for each cup of fruit. Boil 25 minutes or until it gives the jelly test. Just before removing from fire add ¼ cup lemon juice. Pour into sterilized glasses; cover with paraffin when cold.

"Is your married life a happy one?"

"Yes. I married the woman of my dreams. She is as beautiful to me as the day I met her. Her hands are always white and soft. Her hair is never untidy, and her dresses are always the latest."

"So you don't regret it ?"

"No, but I'm getting pretty tired of eating in restaurants."

THE WOMAN'S PAGE

Reading a thousand books a year, and that critically, too, is no small job for one person. It averages nearly three books a day, but Miss Virginia Kirkus, who was for some time head of the children's department of one of the largest publishing houses, manages to do it with success. She has a staff of three to help her, but they average a thousand apiece themselves.

The reason these critics read so many is in order to tell publishers and booksellers just what sort of books are coming out. With unbiased reports at hand publishers will know what to order, Miss Kirkus reasoned, when she got this brilliant idea. Now the book publishers are keen about the service she provides from page or galley proofs.

A charming, red haired young woman from Georgia handles efficiently the suits that come before the Claims Division of the Department of Justice. As special assistant to the Attorney General Miss Stella Akin does the job thoroughly.

After having sold the structural steel for the Merchandising Mart in Chicago, considered the largest office building in the world, Mrs. Jean O'Haver Shassere, the only woman steel salesman in the United States, gave up her job upon her recent marriage.

Mrs. Maria Karmer is president of one of New York City's largest hotels. She had already operated the hotel during her husband's presidency, an office to which she succeeded when her builder husband resigned.

Cobweb and Spiderweb

"Cobweb" means spiderweb, "cob" being an old English word signifying spider. It is the common name given to the more or less formless webs spun in buildings by certain species of spiders and larvae of some insects. Most of the tangled webs which annoy housewives are produced by the little house spider, Theridion tepidariorum. Cobwebs on the ceilings and in the corners of houses are usually not noticed until they become covered with dust, a circumstance which probably gave rise to the popular belief that cobwebs consist merely of dust. The impression was strengthened by the fact that the house spider is seldom observed at work

HOUSE AND HOME

By Mary E. Dague

If the busy life you've been leading leaves you a bit tired and you feel you aren't looking your best, try a mask treatment for a quick pick-up.

Of course, the use of masks for beauty is as old as women's proverbial vanity but as long as it does the trick we can be thankful for the ages of knowledge. If you haven't time to hie to the nearest beauty salon to be creamed and lotioned and patted back to loveliness don't despair but make yourself a facial mask and relax for fifteen minutes or so while the mask is drying.

Naturally you won't have the luxuriously pampered feeling you have when a deft-fingered beauty expert works over you, but you will have a clean, fresh feeling and your skin will have a rosy glow that will belie your hours of house-cleaning and gardening.

Here's a recipe for a mask that is simple to make and easy to use. Mix three tablespoons cornstarch, one teaspoon glycerine and enough milk to make a soft paste. Wash your face and neck thoroughly with soap and water and apply the paste. Lie down for fifteen or twenty minutes, then rinse well with warm water, finish with a dish of ice water and pat your face and neck dry.

The sweet girl graduate, or any other girl for that matter, will love a Bouquet Bracelet designed by a famous New York beauty specialist. She tells us that these flowers on a velvet band are most beguiling and slimming to the wrists, reminiscent of the sentimental nineties. Choose flowers to pick up the color of your veil and your jewelry and then let your make-up blend into the tone of the corsage on your wrist.

When you only need a few drops of onion sauce for seasoning, cut a quarter inch slice from an unpeeled onion, scrape the surface to obtain the juice and then replace the slice. Wrap the onion in waxed paper and put in a closely covered container and you can keep it for future use.

Here is a seasonal dessert and delicious sauce for ice cream. You may want it for your Sunday dinner dessert.

Maple Sauce

Two cups fresh maple syrup, ½ cup whipping cream, few grains salt.

Combine cream and syrup and cook without stirring until a soft ball is formed, when a drop or two is tested in water. Keep hot over hot water until ready to serve.

Wants Secret Told

If Dr. Edith Summerskill, M.P., has her way, men would be compelled to tell their wives how much money they earn. She is to ask the British Prime Minister if he will consider legislation for that purpose, especially in cases of hardship "where a wife believes she is not getting an equitable share of the family income for the necessities of life." Another part of the question asks the Prime Minister if he is aware that reports of investigators revealed the ignorance which exists among the women of the country as to the wages earned by their husbands.

Panties for Poster Babes

Employees of a chain of American movies have just finished pasting paper panties on the naked backs of twin babies which were depicted on 10,000 posters all over New York. Pauline Levine, a 24-year-old typist, who said she had been shocked by the sight of the naked backs of the babies, made a formal compaint to the district attorney's office. Assistant District Attorney William Rappell, after an inspection, agreed with her, saying, "These things are terrible."

YOU'VE GOT TO HAVE A GARDEN IF YOU WANT TO HAVE A HOME

I sympathize with city folk who live in little flats;
They haven't homes, but merely spots
in which they hang their hats.
To sleep, perhaps to eat, to get their letters and their bills;
But all the garden space they have is on their window sills.

Among the dangers of the street, with trucks and honking horns,
Their children play, instead of having broad and grassy lawns,
Where trees and shrubs and flowering plants leap from living loam.
A house without a garden is a house
but not a home.

The place may be a palace—with a flat on every floor,
But it will be a parking space, just that and nothing more,
Despite its marble corridors and gleaming copper dome;
For you've got to have a garden if you want to have a home.

No Wheels in Clovelly, Town of Single Street

Clovelly is a street on the English coast of North Devonshire, straggling from top to bottom of a 400-foot cliff. The town consists literally of one street.

Clovelly is one of the places which have almost robbed the word quaint of its meaning through overuse. Yet Clovelly is so different that it merits less well-worn characterizations, states a writer in the Los Angeles Times.

There has never been a wheeled vehicle in Clovelly; the slope is too steep. Provisions and baggage are dragged down from the New Road Gate on small sledges. Patient little donkeys are used by anyone who wishes to trust his neck to their plodding footsteps.

On either side of the street whitewashed houses of two or three stories jut out irregularly, their balconies brilliant with the green of vines, the purple of fuchsias, the flame of geraniums. The mild climate of Clovelly allows the growth of fuchsias and honeysuckle even in midwinter, and the tiny gardens, wedged behind the closely packed houses, are massed with bloom.

No two houses are alike. They are built of stones brought up from the beach hundreds of years ago by the ancestors of the present inhabitants.

Cut Hole in Car Top To Remove Motorist

Eugene Lortie, of Gatineau Mills, narrowly escaped injury when his car swerved into a ditch after striking a bicycle, then turned over twice. The cyclist was uninjured.

Lortie was travelling on the Hull-Montreal highway when his auto struck the rear of the bicycle. He lost control of his car and it swerved into the ditch. The doors of the car were jammed tight and it was necessary to cut a hole in the hood to get the driver out.

He suffered only slight bruises and a few cuts about the face.

Charged With Auto Theft And Burglary Attempt

Provincial Police on Monday recovered an automobile stolen in Montreal, allegedly used by two men and a girl arrested Sunday morning on a charge of attempted burglary at St. Janvier.

Police were called to the Vaudry Restaurant at St. Janvier and later managed to locate the trio, who fled across the fields in various directions. It was learned the trio had had an automobile and it was found on the road. It was found to be the property of a Montrealer, S. Nantel, and had been stolen from a garage in Montreal on Thursday night. Montreal police were notified and came for the vehicle.

In the meantime the three prisoners who are charged with attempted burglary and with the theft of an automobile, were arraigned before a justice of the peace. They were remanded till next week.

The prisoners gave their names as Henri Verrier, 22, Roland Gagnon, 28, and Jeanne Dauzois, 17 — all of Montreal.

WAKE UP AND LIVE!

By DOROTHEA BRANDE

A case of failure which can be found in almost every town and village in the country, is the failure of the sort that is not only treated tenderly, but often looked upon as being in some vague way much nobler and finer than any success. The particular case to which I refer was that of a man with a good mind, noted for his integrity and yet not without a vein of good ingenuity.

He lived and died in the small town of his birth. Not because he loved it loyally and wanted nothing better; his reading was always of travel and adventure, and he continually spoke wistfully of countries and places he had never seen. Not that he had no opportunity — opportunity came and tried to hound him into activity.

He was the manager of a branch store of a large business, and so satisfactory at it that he was offered a similar position in a larger city, at a correspondingly better salary. He accepted with joy; then within two days he wrote a letter saying that he had reconsidered, that he did not believe that he could fill the better position. His timidity grew on him.

A few years later he was combatting every improved method that his firm tried to introduce, afraid to try the new ways. A little later he was such an obstructionist that his firm retired him on a minute pension, and he became the town's lovable homespun philosopher.

Let us be perfectly plain about one point: to hold that honest success is in some way ignoble is one of two things — pretence, or can't. There is a tyrannical effort to impose this fallacy on us, arising perhaps from a confusion of the mere word "success" with the idea of a great fortune arrived at by fair means or foul. But that there is anything ignoble in accomplishing well what one sets out to do, and in receiving in return just rewards, is an ill-founded notion.

Another interesting case is that of a well-known man. Many who know him by his name would protest loudly at his appearance here incognito as an illustration of the Will to Fail at work. He is a writer, and the son of a writer. From the first he has been under such a fortunate star that he knows almost nothing of the long struggle for recognition which is so often the prelude to a literary career.

Nevertheless, at one and the same time he lives in terror of failure and in the grip of an instinct which seems to drive him in that direction. He will not work until he is desperate for money; then he will write like mad, tiring himself until he is poisoned with fatigue, and acts afterwards like a convalescent.

Yet this tormented man recurrently has an experience which might, if he could comprehend it, show him the way out of his dilemma: when he is at last desperate for money, when he cannot go any longer on credit or the indulgence of his friends, or his reputation, when, in short, he has the courage of desperation, he writes material which is immediately accepted.

Instead of drawing the workable conclusion from this fact, he has made it an item of superstition: only work done, as he says, "at the thirteenth hour," is ever lucky for him! So he continues on his treadmill.

Have you ever looked back and thought, "If I had done this or that five years ago I'd be better off now?" But the opportunity was there; why didn't you see it? Are you sure that the Will to Fail is not operating in your own life every day?

New World's Oldest Book Rests in Texas Library

A copy of "Doctrina Breve," oldest book printed in America, rests in the University of Texas library.

The volume, which the librarian says is one of three in the United States, is a catechism printed in Mexico in 1543 and 1544 by Bishop Juan de Zumarraga, whose printing press was the first brought to the New World. Zumarraga had printed books in America three years earlier, but none of those are known to exist now.

The Spanish volume, bound in heavy Spanish leather decorated with gold tooling, is in an excellent state of preservation, according to the Latin-American librarian at the university.

"Doctrina Breve" is included in a collection of 160 volumes and 50,000 pages of manuscripts obtained by purchase from heirs of Joaquin Garcia Icazbalceta, noted Mexican historian and collector.

Among the manuscripts is a letter from Hernando Cortez to Emperor Charles V of Spain, written October 15, 1545.

Egyptian Tombs of Notables

King Chephren, builder of the Second Pyramid of Giza, lived in 2650 B. C. He was the son of Cheops, who built the Great Pyramid, and the pyramid he built is almost as large as that of his father. The tomb of his wife, Ka-Ousert, has been discovered, as also the tomb of the superintendent of his palace, Khort-Maat, who is represented by a statue whose body is carved from the rock but whose head is made of white Turah limestone and fitted on to the shoulders. The tomb of Chephren's "Purification Superintendent" was also found, as well as that of his secretary, Nofor-Hotop, and also the tomb of Ka-Hor-ist-of, the "man who purified the king."

Nautical Terms

The following are some nautical terms: A fathom is 6 feet. Knot—A nautical mile—commonly called a knot—is 6,080 feet, or 1 1-7 land miles. Formerly, a ship's speed was measured in miles per hour, by the number of log-line knots—50 feet apart—passing a given point in 30 seconds. Log: (a) An instrument towed by a vessel at the end of a long line, recording approximate distance traveled. (b) Official daily record of a voyage, including weather, wind, direction and velocity, distance traveled, etc. Port: As one aboard ship faces the bow, the port side is on the left. Starboard: As one aboard ship faces the bow, the starboard is on his right.

Enthusiasm High, as Crowds Flock to Lachute Fair

Intermittent rains and overcast sky failed to discourage the anticipations of the directors yesterday, as prospects appeared good for improvement in the weather. The innovation this year is that children were admitted free to the fair on the opening day instead of the final day, and in consequence the weather was regarded with disfavor yesterday among the younger element. However, the midway and entertainments were well under way, and in the late afternoon and evening the sunshine broke through.

Last night saw the commencement of horse judging in the centre ring before the grandstand. Judges in these classes are Dr. J. W. Fowler for light horses and Mr. Andrew Crawford for heavies. Ringmaster is Mr. Geo. Hay. The initial classes included parade of heavy horses, pair general purpose horses, pair ponies 12 to 14.2, pair roadsters 14.2 or over, saddle pony, saddle horses, ladies' saddle horse over 14.2 with lady riding, and pair jumping.

This morning judging has proceeded in the heavier classes, Canadians, Standard Breds, French Coach, Hackneys, Heavy Draft, Percherons, Carriage, Agricultural and General Purpose horses.

Following are the results of horse judging in the ring, as reported to date:

BREATH-TAKING THRILLS AT SIMS MIDWAY

Progress, originality and excitement are all featured in the 1939 Sims Midway. From year to year, Mr. Sims is continually on the alert for new features that will please and thrill patrons all over Canada and the U.S.A.

In co-operation with the Lachute Fair, the Sims Midway offers a variety of attractions that will give pleasure and thrills.

A special performance by Victor Drumb, aerial acrobat, is given as a free attraction. You will hold your breath as he displays his art 115 feet above the ground.

Neon signs and flood lighting give the midway a tone of modernity. Also the "World's Fair" side-show from Coney Island will attract many interested visitors.

Mlle. Karsay, who lectures on her two pets — pythons 14 feet and 8 feet long, surprises the crowd with her fluent discourse and her fearless handling of these snakes.

The monkey race-track affords many laughs as these little racers speed and spill around the track.

Stanley's Mighty Show, featuring Madame Ella, gives the spectator food for thought. Her mysticism will amaze people as she performs before them, giving names and street numbers as requested. Madame Ella claims the ability to drive a car through traffic blindfolded.

Other midway features provide pleasure for hours, to both young and old. An interesting period may also be spent at the Shell Oil moving picture, to which all fair-goers are invited.

W.I. CATERING

Having established a reputation for efficient catering the Lachute Women's Institute, in charge of the refreshment booth and dining room at the Fair Grounds, are drawing a good patronage. Their excellent service is a convenience generally appreciated, and this somewhat strenuous undertaking, to augment the Institute funds and achieve good works in the community, merits unstinted recognition.

Influence of Royal Tour "Left To the Verdict of History"

"THE OTTAWA SPOTLIGHT"

Ottawa, June 20th. — The Prime Minister has returned to Ottawa. He accompanied Their Majesties the King and Queen during their tour of Canada and their visit to the United States. When Their Majesties bade farewell or au revoir to Canada at Halifax, Mr. Mackenzie King's agreeable task of acting as the Minister in attendance on the Royal couple was at an end.

There is no doubt that officialdom at Ottawa as well as the whole Canadian people are deeply gratified and touched by the wonderful reception accorded the Sovereigns during the entire tour, and by the warm hearted and friendly way Their Majesties have responded to the greeting of the Canadian people. They came as Sovereigns. They have left not only as Monarchs but as loving friends who have completely conquered the hearts of their people in the Dominion. The throne is no longer merely a symbol but has become a vital reality to Canadians, and it is the personality of the Sovereigns which has affected the change. What the tour will mean in strengthening the bonds among the nations of the British family of nations and in cementing still further the friendly relationship between the American and British peoples can be left to the verdict of history.

With the return of Mr. King there will be weekly cabinet meetings on Parliament Hill. There are administrative measures such as appointments of boards, etc., connected with measures passed last session which will have to be decided. There will be the final formalities in relation to the treaty with the United States. The treaty has already been in effect from the first of the year but notices of ratification by the Canadian Parliament and the American Congress will be exchanged by the Prime Minister and Mr. Roper, the Minister from the United States. The Cabinet will have to appoint the four members to the defence purchasing board, which will have the duty of making contracts for defence supplies and equipment. There will also be the extremely important task of putting into operation the Government's agricultural program embodied in acts passed last session and the act creating a mortgage bank.

The Next Election

There is a general feeling that this fall will see a federal general election. The rumor seems to gain in force. The decision rests, of course, with Mr. King and his colleagues and they have been silent as sphinxes on the subject. But observers point out that Mr. King isn't in favor of waiting to the last legal minute to call an election. He may feel that it is poor strategy and has an unfavorable psychological effect on the electorate. Measures passed late in the session seem to have an election value, that is a talking value from election platforms. The agricultural and mortgage bills have a very wide application, touching the lives and interests of people in every part of the Dominion. The Royal Commission on Dominion-Provincial Relations which has made such an exhaustive survey of their subject in all parts of the country, will, it is believed have their report ready by next month, or at the latest early in August. This will be the initial step in the gigantic task of consulting and deciding whether there should be changes in the distribution of powers between the Dominion and the provinces, in relation to sources of taxation, etc. But aside from the subsequent course of this task, the report itself will be a step which will be an election talking point. Political observers at Ottawa also point to the good crop prospects in the West. If these are fulfilled, with their beneficial effect on the purchasing power of the West, on the purchase of farm implements, on railway traffic and revenues and on general business, the Government might find the time propitious for appealing to the people.

When the Minister of National Defence made his statement in the House of Commons on the flying equipment already received by the air force there was a feeling of some disappointment at the tardiness of delivery of planes on order. There promises, however, very shortly to be a considerable acceleration in delivery. During July, there will be a number of planes delivered, with the number growing larger in August and September. One plant has eighteen bombers on order for the government that are close to completion; another factory is hard at work on 17 more of another type. Planes for coastal scouting are among the craft now being prepared for delivery to our air force. In the meantime, air fields on both the Atlantic and Pacific seaboards, from which the defence air forces will operate, are being rapidly developed; and fortifications on the seaboards are being equipped with long range artillery.

Munition Orders

There appears also to be an acceleration in the placing of munition orders by the British Government in Canada. Already it is stated that nearly fifteen million dollars worth of orders are in the hands of Canadian factories for delivery to the British Government. Arrangements have already been made to increase these orders to about 60 million dollars. Apart from the significance of these orders as a preliminary step towards making Canada a source of war supplies in case Britain was forced to defend herself against aggression, there is the further consideration of great importance that these factories will be equipped to aid our own country in case we are attacked.

Established Half A Century In the Business Life Of Lachute Town

LOCAL FIRM REACHES ITS 50th MILESTONE

In the business establishments which have grown up with this town, one may sometimes unearth a fascinating story of early life and commerce in Lachute. One such source of interest is the firm of R. McArthur & Son, plumbers and steamfitters, whose senior proprietor, Robt. McArthur, commenced business here in plumbing and tinsmithing just 50 years ago next Monday.

The tinsmith department of Mr. McArthur's business was sold out 32 years ago to his nephew, Geo. Y. Deacon, who came here from Renfrew to work with Robt. McArthur as an apprentice. An early employee of the firm, John (Albert) Campeau, followed the business with its transfer to Mr. Deacon, and is still with the same enterprise after 40 years—which is a long record of service.

Mr. McArthur entered the tinsmith trade at an early age; he moved here from Wakefield, Que., and set up his business in the year 1889. Extending his activities to plumbing, he was for 12 years the waterworks officer for Lachute Town, and is now frequently consulted as an authority on the system—considerable of which was laid without adequate record of its position. Concerning early affairs in this town, its civic "politics", and its notable characters, Mr. McArthur has an alert memory and can tell many entertaining stories. In his particular business Mr. McArthur is now content to play a less important role; and the firm, while upholding its established name, is adapting itself to newer trends under the management of his son, Walker K. McArthur.

Accidental Death Verdict, Tragedy At Brownsburg

THREE-YEAR-OLD YOUNGSTER HIT BY TRUCK AND DIED OF INJURIES

A tragic mishap occurred Saturday evening on St. Joseph Street, Brownsburg, when Allan Thomas Steele, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hector Steele, was struck by a Boyd's Express truck and sustained injuries from which he died later in the Children's Memorial Hospital, Montreal. The youngster, not quite three years old, ran out from behind a car on the street near his home, and was caught by the left fender of the vehicle before he was seen by the driver, Howard Ward, 18, of Lachute. The accident occurred at 8 p.m. The lad was picked up unconscious. Attended by Dr. A. R. Coté, he was then taken to hospital, where he died of cerebral concussion, at 1 a.m. Sunday.

The body was brought home, and on Sunday evening the district coroner, Dr. J. H. Mason, of Lachute, held an inquest at the Brownsburg parish hall. Jurors heard the testimony of the truck driver. There had been no eye-witness to the accident, but his evidence was confirmed by Reginald Peel, who had heard the impact and was first to arrive at the scene; also by the victim's father, who had been seated in his home and heard the crash. The driver had been proceeding at a reasonable speed, and was completely exonerated by the jury in their verdict of accidental death.

The little victim is survived by his parents and a younger brother. To them the widespread sympathy of the community was demonstrated in a large attendance at the funeral, held at 2.30 o'clock Monday afternoon from the Brownsburg Catholic Church.

Successful Concert Given By Brownsb'g Boys' Band At Arundel, Que.

On Wednesday, June 14th, the Brownsburg Boys' Band journeyed to Arundel for its first concert away from home. A large contingent of Brownsburg supporters accompanied the boys. Although the ceiling of Staniforth's hall was somewhat low for best results, the boys performed magnificently and their efforts were certainly appreciated by the large audience, many of whom had to stand throughout the entire concert. Miss Rhea Dagenais and Miss Marion Birch rendered several excellent vocal selections between the band items, and piano-accordion numbers by talented Mr. Gordon Anderson were well applauded. The Rev. Mr. Cushing thanked the band on behalf of his community. The opportunity was also taken by the band committee to make a presentation to Mr. Denis Staniforth, president of the band, who is to be married to Miss Reta Boyd on June 24th. After the concert the boys were entertained to a supper by the ladies of the United Church.

The following additional subscriptions to the band are gratefully acknowledged:

Erskine McOuat $25.00, J. D. Lepine $5.00, E. Hawkes $2.00, Can. Safety Fuse Co. $25.00, George E. Dansereau, M.P.P. $2.00; Brownsburg Branch, Can. Legion $25.00; Brownsburg Social and Athletic Club $25.00.

Faux Pas by "Country Doctor" Draws After-Dinner Laugh

At a luncheon of the Rotary Club in Montreal this week, many distinguished medical men sat at the head table, including the renowned Dr. Allan Dafoe, who was attending the annual Medical Association conference. When the President called upon Dr. Dafoe for a few words, he surprised the audience with his ready wit.

Describing himself as "a country doctor," he expressed the hope that he had not brought disgrace on his compatriots. He observed that he was of English origin, and when he first practiced medicine in northern Ontario, had worked among good French-Canadian stock with the pioneering spirit — folks who would not summon a doctor unless they had the cash to pay his fee. Describing his experiences with these people, Dr. Dafoe momentarily forgot that his talk was being broadcast and in recalling a visit to a poor individual who apologized that he had no money, the Doctor had answered, "Oh, hell, I don't want your money!" The audience burst into laughter, and Dr. Dafoe, realizing his break before the microphone, mirthfully apologized.

Remarking on the famous quintuplets, he asserted that he was the "boss", and when distant relatives or others imposed themselves with advice he invited them to "jump in the lake"; and altogether he was gratified with the result of his efforts.

When the famous five visited with their Majesties, Dr. Dafoe stated they acted with absolute naturalness, and it was a happy scene to observe the King and Queen down on their knees hugging the children.

Just before Their Majesties departed an official approached Dr. Dafoe saying, "It's time to get your kids out of here"; whereon he replied, "I can't, get your darn King and Queen out first." The audience appreciated the humorous side of this graphic description.

Lower Attendance, Weather and Other Distractions; Lachute Fair Otherwise A Successful Event

HIGH COMMENDATION ON STANDARDS OF LIVESTOCK EXHIBITED THIS YEAR

The glamor of Royal events, and the resultant holiday spirit, seem to have detracted this year from the excitement of the local show, and the expectancy and pride in Lachute Spring Fair lacked something of its usual zeal. The uncertain weather doubtless discouraged many would-be patrons, and as the Exhibition closed its gates Saturday night, there was certain disappointment expressed in the attendance. However, from the prime objective of the event as a livestock show, there was no falling off either in quality or competition; judges and authorities voiced their high commendation on the standard of animals. The Hon. H. A. Dussault, Quebec Minister of Colonization, witnessing the grand parade of cattle and horses in the ring Saturday afternoon, was especially impressed with this array of livestock. The contests again reflected credit on Argenteuil County breeders — Gilbert E. Arnold, with a showing of 80 horses from his Grenville stables, having perhaps the most spectacular entry list from the viewpoint of public appeal.

In the program of entertainment, the fireworks display on Thursday and Friday evenings merited general admiration. The industrial show in the Main Building drew an approving patronage; and among other aspects of the show, the efficient catering of the Lachute Women's Institute, in charge of refreshments, contributed notably to satisfaction of the visitors.

In subsequent pages a list of prize winners is published — including the special horse judging (hereunder), general livestock on pages 2, 3 and 8, and the W.I. handicraft awards on page 7. Poultry prizes will be printed in next week's issue.

Candle-Light Procession By Catholic Parishioners

A candle-light procession from the parish church of Ste. Anastasie on Sunday evening, proved a picturesque ceremony to mark the feast of the Sacred Heart. Male members of the Catholic community took the lead, about 2,000 men walking in the procession bearing lighted candles and chanting prayers. Preceded by mounted horsemen and the brass band, the Ligue du Sacré-Coeur, with men from the Ste. Anastasie, St. Julien and Brownsburg parishes, walked behind their standard-bearer, clerics, attendants and choir boys appearing in their robes and surplices. The flickering candles could be seen from a long distance in the approaching darkness.

The procession followed a route from the church to Bedard Blvd., turning north down Barron Avenue and east at Grace Street to the Convent, where at a decorated altar the visiting curé, Rev. Father Presseault, of St. Columban, gave an inspiring discourse. The marchers then returned by way of Elizabeth, Foundry and Bethany Streets, dispersing again at the church.

History of Lakefield Parish Reviewed as Church Nears Hundredth Birthday

Lakefield—A number of clergy from outside points have already signified their intention of attending the Centennial Service being held in Holy Trinity Church, July 4th at 11 a.m., according to the committee in charge of arrangements for celebrating the hundredth birthday of this church. The Lord Bishop of Montreal will be the guest preacher, while former clergy of the parish will give short after-dinner speeches.

The bell that will call the people to worship on July 4th is the same one that has been in use since the early days of the church. This bell, which weighs 207 pounds, hangs in a bell-turret over the entrance porch.

The first musical instrument used in the church was a melodeon, procured by Rev. C. Taylor, who succeeded Rev. Joseph Griffin in the parish. Following Mr. Taylor was Rev. John Rollit, who worked in the parish for three years. Shortly after he left Lakefield he became Canon Rollit. The next clergyman, Rev. H. Kittson, was noted for his eloquence in preaching, but remained only a short time in Lakefield. Later he became Canon Kittson, of Ottawa. Messrs. Richmond, Thomas Evans and C. Lummis succeeded each other as student lay-readers, until Rev. L. C. Armstrong was appointed to take charge. During his ministry Lakefield contributed two young men to the work of the ministry, Rev. G. Rogers, B.A., who went to Manitoba, and Rev. Isaac Rogers.

After Mr. Armstrong left Revs. Y. E. Cunningham, C. Boyd, J. Senior and R. D. Irwin followed in quick succession as incumbents of the parish. Mr. Irwin replaced the old parsonage with a new building, each of the parishioners giving their allotted share of material. He also bought the new Bell organ, which is still in use in the church.

In 1894 the Rev. A. E. Mount became incumbent of the parish, and before leaving in March, 1899, he made numerous improvements both to the church and parsonage.

On September 12, 1899, Rev. L. Foulkes took charge, and when he left in 1903, Rev. L. T. Millar, B.A., was appointed. Mr. Millar remained until October, 1905. On October 11 of that year the Rev. Allan E. Mount and family returned to Lakefield and remained until 1909. Rev. William Garner then came to Lakefield, and during the next five years did much to strengthen the position of the church in Gore Parish.

Rev. W. M. Naughton replaced Mr. Garner in 1912. One of his first tasks was to repair the parsonage, at a cost of $420. Before leaving several years later he introduced family prayers into every house in the parish.

Reminiscences of the past will come up at the celebration, and it is expected that the former clergy of the parish will have some very interesting stories to tell about events in the earlier years of the church.

Orange Order of County Assembles for Semi-Annual Gathering

DECIDE PLANS FOR ORANGE 12th JULY CELEBRATION

Semi-annual meetings of the Orange Lodges and Scarlet Chapter No. 5, of this county were held in the Avoca Hall last Saturday afternoon, presided over by the County Master, Wor. Bro. Melvin MacGibbon, Dalesville Lodge No. 1453.

The gathering stood during two minutes' silence in memory of the late Wor. Bro. Henry Jackson Neill, of Louisa Lodge No. 717. Mr. Neill, having joined the Louisa Lodge at the early age of 17, had been a member for nearly 68 years. He had served as Recording Secretary and Worshipful Master, and had received his scarlet degree in 1875. At his recent death at the age of 85, Mr. Neill therefore ranked as a veteran Orangeman with a worthy record of service.

The 12th of July celebration is taking place in Lachute this year and the committee on the celebration reported progress.

The visiting brethren were afterwards accompanied by the members of Avoca Lodge to the home of Mrs. Archie MacLean, where ladies of the Orange Benevolent Association had prepared a supper in the shade of the trees. A warm vote of thanks was extended to them by the County Master.

The Scarlet Chapter in conjunction with the County Lodge was then resumed by Wor. Comp. in Command, Wor. Bro. Lorne Tomalty, of Lachute. Three candidates were exalted to the Royal Scarlet Degree, and it was voted to hold the next semi-annual meetings in Lachute on Saturday, January 20th next, in the Ladies' Orange Hall.

Post Office Pays Airways Sixty Cents per Mile

P. G. Johnson, operating vice-president of the Trans-Canada Air Lines told the House of Commons committee that he expected the line to operate at a cost of 65 cents per mile and that the revenue from the post-office department was 60 cents per mile.

This presumably does not include interest on the investment.

SOME STILL DO

Householder (to prospective maid): "Why did you leave your last place?"

Maid: "Oh, it was so dull. They were trying to live on their income."

"That man Smith must read a lot."

"Oh, how is that?"

"Well, I'm always getting letters from him beginning, 'On going through my books . . .'!"

Says Wrong Cause on Many Death Certificates in Quebec

Dr. Paul Parrot, of Quebec, in an address to the Canadian Public Health Association convention in Toronto, advocated adoption of confidential death certificates because the present method was "innacurate and inefficient."

He reported that a study of death certificates in Quebec province showed 1,324 certificates, or 22.2 per cent of the total were found to have incorrect information, resulting in the necessity of changing the recording of the deaths. Of these, Dr. Parrot said there were 1,163 certificates in which incomplete or incorrect information was given "apparently intentionally."

In some cases "it was evident that physicians desired to meet the request of the relatives of the deceased in not stating the true cause of the death," Dr. Parrot said. Other cases showed the true cause was not stated "because in the system of collection of vital statistics in the Province of Quebec, as in other provinces, the information on the certificates becomes more or less public property."

"It is reasonable to expect that confidential certification would tend to improve the accuracy and reliability of death certificates."

Johnny Get Your Gun

(Tweed News)

The editor of a Kansas paper says he picked up a Winchester rifle one day recently and started up the street to return it to the owner. The delinquent subscribers to his newspaper got it into their heads he was on the warpath and a number of them he met insisted on paying him what they owed him. On his return to the office he found a load of hay, 15 bushels of corn, 10 bushels of potatoes, a load of wood and a barrel of turnips had been brought in.

Linked to the Past, But Looking to the Future

Montreal, June 17 —

The Cockshutt-Frost and Wood Harvester division has celebrated its 100th anniversary in the business. Mr. W. D. McOuat, manager of Frost & Wood Quebec Ltd., advises us that at Smith's Falls, where the Frost & Wood plant is located, a celebration was held to commemorate the founding, 100 years ago, of what is now Canada's oldest farm implement manufacturing concern. It was in 1839 that Ebenezer Frost, foreseeing something of the future possibility of Canadian agricultural development, erected a small single-storey structure reminiscent of the old-time blacksmith shop and commenced the manufacture of plows to meet the needs of farmers in the vicinity. The development of that business, the formation of a partnership with Alexander Wood in 1846, the expansion of the line to eventually include all modern labor-saving machinery, the formation of the connection with Cockshutt in 1911, and the accelerated progress since that time — is one of the bright spots of Canadian industrial history.

But though tribute is being paid to the past, the huge Cockshutt, Frost & Wood organization — with its nine branches, 31 transfer warehouses and several thousand dealers from coast to coast, and its affiliated Brantford Coach & Body Ltd., in normal times employing 2,000 persons and supporting in all some 8,000 to 10,000 people — is not looking backward. Modern in its plants, efficient in its operation, and with an aggressive sales force, it anticipates with confidence that its contribution in the past, to the agricultural and industrial welfare of Canada, can be continued and surpassed in the future.

Name Timothy Is Traced To Greeks, Writer Says

The name Timothy, of Greek origin, means literally "fearing God" but we interpret it as "honoring God," says Florence A. Cowles in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Timotheus, court musician to Alexander the Great, is the earliest noted bearer of this name. The Biblical Timothy was a disciple of St. Paul.

Timothy Bright (d. 1615) was the English inventor of shorthand (in 1588) but his system was only partly alphabetical and therefore inferior to later ones.

Timothy Dwight (d. 1817) was president of Yale college and his grandson of the same name (d. 1916) was president of Yale university. Both were clergymen and authors.

Timothy Pitkin (d. 1847) legislator and historian, was an authority on political history. Timothy O. Howe (d. 1883) was postmaster general in the early eighties, during which time postal notes were first issued.

Sir Timothy A. Coghlan (d. 1926) Australian statistician, wrote "The History of Labour and Industry in Australia," in four volumes.

Timothy Cole (d. 1931) won many honors as a wood engraver. Timothy M. Healy (d. 1931) was the first governor general of the Irish Free State and a notable leader.

Doing As Well As Dad

(Leamington Post)

There is a great deal of pessimistic talk about farming based upon the poor returns of recent years. There is also heard at times criticism of the farmer himself. "What is wrong with us anyway?" said an Ontario man just recently. He was under forty, sober, industrious and intelligent, the kind of a man who might be expected to get along anywhere, yet he was quite discouraged by the fact that all he seemed able to do was to rear his family and keep the taxes paid along with some interest on a mortgage. "The first generation in this township," he went on to explain, "cleared most of the land, built roads, schools and churches, also put up buildings of a kind. The next generation (our fathers) built the big barns and good houses that you see up and down the concession. My generation seem to find it hard to keep going without making any improvements. Buildings are getting into disrepair. All the houses need paint. A poorer man than his dad seems to describe most of us." There is a general disposition to agree with this man that progress is slow and the outlook not too rosy. As an antidote to this feeling of discouragement the cheerful note sounded by another farmer is worth quoting. "There is," said he, "quite a disposition to think that the son is not doing as well as his dad. Perhaps there is some truth in the criticism that he is away in the car too much and not paying the attention to business that his father did. What we forget is that those buildings in the first place came largely out of the bush in the home farm. Most of the labor was done by the family and neighborhood bees were more common then than now. I believe that the farmer of today is doing better than he is given credit for."

Well Loved Resident Passes At St. Andrews East

THE LATE MRS. G. JEFFREY.

St. Andrews East — June 6th was Mrs. Jeffrey's 76th birthday. That afternoon she recognized and spoke a few words to several friends who remembered the day. After that her strength failed perceptibly, till she passed peacefully to rest at 7 p.m. on June 14.

Formerly Miss Georgina Black, born in Montreal, she was married to Mr. George Jeffrey, of Petit Côte, who predeceased her 28 years ago.

A life member of the W.M.S. of the United Church and for many years an active member, Mrs. Jeffrey was honorary vice-president for the past two years. Until prevented by failing health, Mrs. Jeffrey was an enthusiastic and active member of the Ladies' Guild, also a benefactress in many private ways.

The funeral service was held at 2 p.m. on June 16 at the United Church. The pastor, Rev. J. A. Mowatt, conducted the service and called upon Rev. R. S. Booy to pronounce the benediction. Lovely floral offerings marked the esteem of the congregation, neighbors, family and friends.

The chief mourners are Mrs. L. C. Tarlton, step-daughter, Mr. Douglas Jeffrey, Montreal, Mr. Gordon Jeffrey, Saskatchewan, stepsons; and Miss Elizabeth Hendry. The pall-bearers were Messrs. Robt. Elder, Stuart McAdam, Harold Cairns, Milton Yale, Stanley Rodger and Alner Snowdon. Persons who attended from a distance included—Mrs. E. S. Morrison, Miss Hurd and Mr. Ed. McGregor, of Lachute; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Tarlton, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Drummond, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Colbourne, Mr. and Mrs. H. Flower, Mrs. Nightingale, Mrs. Radley, Mrs. Alex. Morrison and Miss A. Wilson, all of Montreal.

Women's Guild Meeting, St. Andrews United

St. Andrews East—Members of the Women's Guild of the United Church have polished their spectacles and thumbed their favorite almanacs for the weather forecast for July 6, the evening set for a lawn social. Should the weather prove showery or chilly plans are made to hold the festivities in the recreation room.

These plans were made at the meeting held on June 14 at the home of Mrs. M. M. Yale. In the absence of the president, Mrs. T. McAdam (who felt constrained to remain at the bedside of her friend, Miss Jeffrey), the chair was taken by Miss T. Wales.

The meeting opened with the hymn, "I Need Thee Every Hour," followed by prayer with special mention of Mrs. Jeffrey and Miss Hendry. Mrs. Charman, the treasurer, read her report covering the past six months. Minutes of last meeting were read by Mrs. J. DeWitt, Secretary. Ten members were present and busied themselves with needlework and the appointment of committees to arrange the various details of the lawn social, following which a pleasant half hour was spent around the tea table.

Marriage

Powell-Kettyle

The marriage of Violet Ruth Kettyle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Kettyle, of Brownsburg, Que., to Clifford Leonard Powell, of Montreal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Powell, took place on Saturday June 17th at 4 o'clock at Lachute Baptist Church. Rev. Chas. Hardie, of Dalesville, officiated. Iris, peonies and ferns adorned the church. Mrs. Frank J. Kettyle, sister-in-law of the bride, played the wedding marches. Mrs. Norman Hynes, of Montreal, sang "Oh Promise Me", very effectively during the signing of the register.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a princess model of white satin set with lace and tulle pleats at the neck-line, finished with a row of tiny tulle-covered buttons to the waist. The long sleeves ending in points of pleated tulle over the wrists were slightly puffed at the shoulders, and the skirt flared back forming a slight train. Her veil of tulle illusion was held in place with a coronet of pearls and orange blossoms and she carried a bridal bouquet of baby pink roses and lilies of the valley.

The bride was attended by her sister, Ethel, gowned in a "Grey" model turquoise blue chiffon, made with a bolero jacket of quilted chiffon of the same shade, finished with a headdress of pink and turquoise blue flowers over which hung a waist-length veil. She carried American beauty roses.

The two charming little flower girls, cousins of the bride, were dressed alike in gowns of tea-rose taffeta made with tight fitting bodices and full floor length skirts. The short, full puffed sleeves were relieved by a frill around the wrist and their headdress was of page-boy style covered with tiny white roses. They carried old fashioned nosegays of summer flowers.

Mr. Albert Powell, brother of the groom, was best man. The ushers were Mr. Frank J. Kettyle, Mr. Ernest Kettyle, Mr. Harold Kettyle and Mr. James Murdoch. Following the service a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents in Brownsburg.

The bride's mother wore a gown of Alice blue chiffon with a corsage of red roses, and a large blue hat. The mother of the groom wore an ensemble in grey crepe with a corsage of white roses and a white felt hat.

The bridal couple left on a short trip to Ottawa, the bride wearing a suit of navy blue and powder blue accessories. On their return they will reside in Montreal.

Famous Mangrove Swamp

One of the largest mangrove swamps in the world is in the southwestern Everglades. In places the forest extends five or more miles inland. The soils here are mostly raw, fibrous peat, frequently over 12 feet deep, indicating that organic debris has accumulated over a long period. It is probable, says a Carnegie report, that many thousands of formerly small mangrove islands of the region grew together to form mangrove land, thereby pushing further and further into the Gulf of Mexico.

Hints for Homebodies

Specially Written for Readers of The Watchman
By JESSIE ALLEN BROWN

GIVE ME CHARLIE McCARTHY

Woman's love of tragedy is difficult for me to understand. They fairly wallow in sorrow and sadness. Look at the way they flock to sad pictures, and enjoy a good cry? I seldom have the radio turned on in the day-time and so do not follow the radio serials. I hear women talking about them and making their plans so they will be at home to hear their pet dramas. We have a visitor who loves these hours and the radio has been tuned in, so that occasionally I have heard them. Such unhappiness! They speak in slov , sad tones, or they are excited an . gasp, or cry wildly, or sob — just general bosom-heaving. Well, it may be all right if you like it. Personally, that is not my idea of a good time to listen to people in the throes of distress. Give me Charlie McCarthy.

PASTEURIZE MILK

Opponents of pasteurization seem to think if milk comes from an accredited herd, pasteurization is not necessary. That only means that the herd has been tested and found free from tuberculosis, but it gives no assurance that it is free from germs which cause septic throat, typhoid, or undulant fever — all milk-borne diseases. Those diseases occur occasionally but then they are usually epidemic and when it is possible to prevent them, it seems foolish not to do so. The only change by pasteurization is the loss of vitamin C. This vitamin is to be found in all fresh foods and the only time we are apt to lack it is in the dead of winter, and then any fresh food will replace it, orange or tomato juice being the most frequently used.

THE OLD BATHROOM

Old bathrooms are discouraging in contrast to the lovely, colorful new ones. Taps, exposed nickel pipes, and toilet seats seem to be the shabbiest. If one cannot afford new fixtures completely, new taps alone make a big difference. Dull looking nickel pipes can be rubbed lightly with fine steel wool and they will shine like new. Medicine cabinets are invariably too small. One of the most convenient things we ever had, is a steel utility cabinet. Sometimes they are used in the kitchen but ours is for bathroom use and it houses sufficient towels and washcloths for daily use and the bulkier of the bathroom supplies which clutter up the medicine cabinet. A small bathroom may have no extra space for a cabinet but a shaped board in front of the window may be used for a dressing-table and will take up very little space. One friend has shallow cupboards built across one entire wall.

THE COAL-OIL STOVE

Summer brings into use many coal-oil stoves — or paraffin as they call it in the Maritimes. There are worse things to cook by than a good oil stove. They have their disadvantages, but then what hasn't? One of the worst messes in the world to clean up can be made by those same stoves. If you have ever let the wicks get too high and have them smoke, you know what I mean. Sometimes you have to play a regular game of kitchen checkers, to get everything cooked for dinner at the same moment, and the plates and dishes warmed, when you have only three burners and cannot use the oven. We used an oil stove when I was a youngster and I can still see the kettle going on to boil water for the vegetables, on one burner, and the other two heating the oven. The oven came off and the dinner plates and vegetable dishes were tucked in and they would be warmed for serving. Another quick trick was to pour the water off the vegetables into the vegetable dishes, to warm them. I have used oil-stoves since then several different years in summer cottages, and I have never baked better cakes than in a coal-oil oven. At home we always kept a couple of bricks in the back-kitchen and when we wanted to get a hot oven for pies or biscuits, a brick went on top of each end of the oven. This held it down closely and so less heat escaped. More and more people are using electric stoves but to others the oil stove is a real blessing.

HOT BISCUITS

Old potatoes are a bit tasteless and new ones are rather expensive, so let us substitute hot biscuits frequently. They are sure to be popular with the family. You may think they are a lot of trouble to make but they really do not take long. Just time yourself some day and you will be surprised to find they take very little longer than peeling potatoes. I like to make them shorter than the standard recipe and so use more butter. If you want the biscuits for shortcake, use the 4 tablespoons of butter. The small amount of sugar seems to give flavor yet does not make them sweet.

2 cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 or 4 tablespoons butter, about ⅔ cup milk.

Sift the dry ingredients, rub in the butter. Add the milk gradually, mixing while adding. Make them as soft as you can and still be able to handle. Turn on a floured board and kneed with two or three strokes to make smooth. Roll to the desired thickness and cut with a floured cutter. Bake in a hot oven of 450 degrees. Two things to remember: Make as soft as possible, and handle as little as possible.

THE WOMAN'S PAGE

Childermas So Named to Recall Infant Slaughter

Childermas or Holy Innocents' day is so named in commemoration of the slaughter of infants ordered by Herod. It is supposed to be one of the unluckiest days in the calendar and in former times people were very careful not to enter into any undertaking on this day. To marry on Holy Innocents' was simply asking for trouble, says London Tit-Bits Magazine.

Many people will not work on Childermas, and in Cornwall the women refrain from scrubbing and polishing. Louis XI shared this belief and the mere request to do anything on this day sent him into a tearing rage. Edward the Fourth was to be crowned at Childermas, which fell on a Sunday, but he had the ceremony put off till the next day.

In the Middle ages and long afterwards, processions of children were forbidden at Childermas, and eventually Henry VIII proclaimed in 1540 that all such processions were illegal. In some parts of the country children were actually whipped at Childermas to remind them of what happened hundreds of years ago.

Divide House When Divorced

Formal, legal marriage is largely dispensed with among the native population on Barbados island and so legal divorces are superfluous. But there is the problem of the house when a household breaks up. The custom is to divide that by a partition. Then the complainant picks up one half and walks away with it, probably planning to join it to another bisected home. The defendant remains in the stationary half. Maybe some other moving mate will add a complementary room to it later on. It's a very practical idea in a climate that permits featherweight dwellings.

Anything done for another is done for oneself. — Boniface

By Mary E. Dague
Author of Sister Mary's Kitchen

Delphinium or larkspur — which? I, myself, call the stately and elegant perennials by their dignified botanical name but the lovely annuals always call it by their quaint old-fashioned name, larkspur.

For sheer beauty of color and form there's no more satisfactory flower in the category than both the annual and perennial varieties and if you cater to some of their likes and frailities you shouldn't have much trouble in "producing beautiful specimens" as the gardeners say.

In the first place delphiniums are particular about their soil and location. They grow best in a light soil, rich in humus. Heavy clay soil should be lightened with sand or peat moss or some other soil conditioning agent and the bed should be prepared from ten to twelve inches deep.

Choose a spot exposed to the sun because all delphiniums like lots of sunshine. Give the plants plenty of room, spacing perennials about eighteen and annuals twelve inches apart.

An effective way to control cut worms and grasshoppers is to spread poison bran mash on the ground around the plants. Of course, care must be taken that dogs and cats are kept away from the garden but one application will usually clear out the pests.

To make this mash use one quart of bran, one-half an orange or lemon run through the food chopper, two tablespoons table syrup, 2 cups water and one tablespoon Paris green or white arsenic. Mix to a mash.

Slip covers will work magic in your living room, changing it from a warm-looking room for winter to a cool, restful spot for summer. In order to insure a perfect fit for the finished cover, first pin the material to the furniture. Then baste along the pin line and fit. If you are using welting or moss fringe or any other sort of trimming, this should be basted at the same time.

Allow an inch for each seam and at least four inches for each tuck-in at the seat and where the arm joins the back. This tuck-in allowance is extremely important for giving a smooth, tightly fitting effect.

A check on spectators who made the round of the Women's Institutes handicraft exhibits in the Exhibition Building during Lachute Fair, showed that a number approximating 3,000 evidenced their interest in the display.

MODERN SURGERY

Undoubtedly no branch of medicine has gone forward with such rapid strides as surgery. Prior to the advent of Dr. Joseph Lister, the death rate from surgical operations was appalling — more than 45% of the amputation cases treated succumbing, while none dared even for a moment seriously to think of abdominal operations.

An individual wounded in the abdomen usually died of peritonitis and the best the medical man could do was to administer an opiate and tell the family what to anticipate. It is conservatively estimated that had modern surgery — that is asepsis — been known during the Civil War more than 85% of the wounded would have been returned alive to their families instead of buried near the battlefields.

Indeed, surgeons then looked for what they called "laudable pus" after an operation, and felt that its presence was as necessary as a centre to a circle for the ultimate recovery of a patient.

During my career as a medical man, that attitude has entirely changed, and when a surgeon encounters pus after an operation he recognizes the fact that something is wrong, either in his technique or those of his assistants. As a consequence, there is no part of the human body that the average surgeon fears to operate upon.

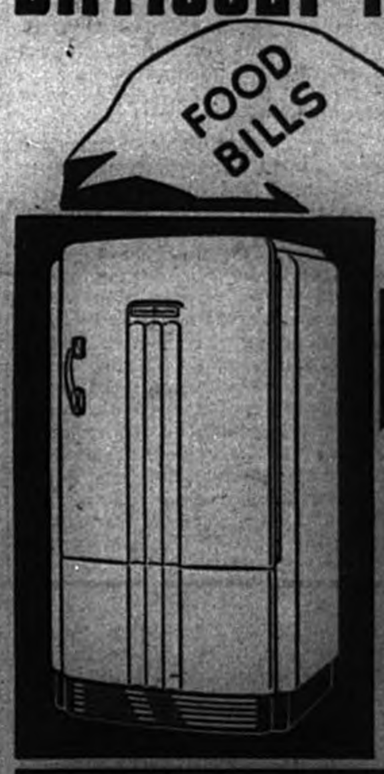

I recall a small boy shot at a shooting gallery at a church fair. The bullet from a parlor rifle had perforated his intestines twelve times, but with modern surgery and the Murphy button we saved his life and he is today an officer in the navy.

Once, as as interne, I assisted in an operation on "Wheeling" Smith, a Negro character, who had been slashed across the abdomen with a razor. Modern methods and a competent surgeon saved his life. Recently a Mississippi country doctor attended a farmer slashed from hip to hip with a dirk. The man was so low that no anaesthetic was used. On the twenty-sixth day after the operation he was walking about and is today at work.

I mention these few cases because they give the layman some slight idea of the wonderful advance in surgery and show how much it has held off the approach of the Shadowy Ferryman from across the unknown sea.

Normal Human Brain Has Covering of Nerve Cells

The normal human brain has a six-layered covering of nerve cells. This is the cerebral cortex, the organ of voluntary movement, thinking and conscious life, relates an authority in the Washington Star.

At first there is only a single layer, the so-called ventricular ependyma. This partly lines the inner surface of a hollow ball. Rather late in the course of embryonic life the cells of this layer, impelled by some impulse which remains obscure, begin to multiply and migrate upward through the wall of this hollow ball. With all the precision of soldiers on parade they form themselves into the different layers, one after another.

The nerve cell migration is far from complete when a child is born. The bottom three strata are nearly complete, but the upper three can barely be discerned. The same condition is found in the mature brains of such mammals as the cat and the dog. Quite rapidly after birth, however, the full human brain rapidly takes shape. When the upward migrating cells reach the place where they are to stay they send out white nerve fibers which extend downward to make connections with lower brain and spinal cord centers.

Among the last brain cells to start their migration are the Betz cells, the largest in the brain, which ordinarily are found chiefly in the area just in front of the center of the cerebral cortex. It is in this area that all voluntary movements are initiated. The Betz cells presumably are the organs of all movements which are not automatic reflexes.

Stuck-in-the-mud brain cells, unable to make the grade on the uphill road of evolution, constitute an important factor in hereditary feeble-mindedness.

Grinding, Mixing Colors Described by Old Writer

The English Journal of Decorative Art some time ago printed amusing excerpts from a book—title unknown—owned by one E. Stockmane in 1782. The book dealt in the main with painting, both pictorial and structural. The grinding and mixing of colors were described and sundial decoration given especial attention. Paints for sundial figures were mixed for permanence with a "Fat oyle" for which the following instructions were given:

"Take Linseed Oyl what you please, put to it a sufficient quantity of Red-Lead (the more, the better) so as it hinders not the boyling. This Red-Lead adds a drying quality to the Oyl: let them boyl gently over a charcole fire without flame, till it is boyled enough, which you may know by taking a little of it out and cooling of it; if it roaps like thin Treacle, or a Syrup, it is enough: then with a lighted paper set it on fire that it may take away much of its greasiness, let it burn a minute or two, more or less as your Oyl is in quantity: then extinguish it, by covering it close over with a cloth, and letting it cool and settle, decant the clear Oyl, and keep it in a bladder for use."

FOR SALE — 10-piece mahogany dining room suite. Write Box 66, Lachute, or apply 179 Main Street. —x

COUNTY EVENT

In the Thursday afternoon track racing, the 2.12 Trot or Pace was won in all three heats by Victor Lee, a bay owned by Dr. A. Hopkins, Cooksville, Ont., and driven by Arthur Hopkins. The best time, 2:08½, exceeded the track record here for this event by only half a second. Next in order came Lily Part, a roan belonging to Dr. P. A. Locke, Williamsburg, Ont., and Midnight Gratton, black mare owned by J. Connors, of Wales. Ont.

In the County Race, Bell of Lakeland, a bay owned and driven by Mrs L. T. Porter, took three firsts, with a best time of 2:14¼. June Evans, brown mare entered and driven by Mr. L. T. Porter, took three second places; Dixie Direct, bay belonging to Arnold Scott, third in the three heats; and Mac Direct, owned by H. M. Lavigne, fourth.

RECORD EQUALLED

In the 2.16 Trot on Friday, Calumet Dauntless owned and driven by J. Bolduc of New Bedford outshone his competitors with two firsts and a second, while the 2.16 Trot or Pace brought highest honors to Gilbert Gratton owned by Robert Allan, of Hawkesbury, with a first and two seconds, and a veteran of local track events, L. G. Bennett, 82 years old, of Port Hope, took a first, a third and a fourth with Axworthy Gratton. The track record of three years ago, 2:08, held by L. G. Bennett, was equalled in this race by Peter Axworthy in the third heat. The third event, 2.25 Trot or Pace, was won in all three heats by Redfern, owned by A. Demers and driven by R. Potvin.

"FREE FOR ALL" ON SATURDAY

The 2.20 Trot or Pace staged Saturday afternoon brought divided honors, Tide Down taking the first heat, R. K. Gratton the second, and Lee Axe the third. The final race, Free for All, brought highest awards to Colonel Tom, with two firsts and a fourth, while Tramp Abbee, owned and driven by L. G. Bennett, claimed a first and two seconds.

Starter for these events was Felix St. Vincent. The Friday and Saturday events, particularly, were witnessed by a good crowd of spectators, and enthusiasm in the grandstand and around the judges' box ran high.

Prizes From 'Lost World'

Scientists collect many live specimens of rare plants and animals from the little-known "Lost World" of the British Guiana highlands. Their principal prize is the largest species of ant in the world. No pleasant place is British Guiana, with its hot sultry climate, its unhealthful conditions, its near impregnable jungles. Almost 90 per cent of the land is covered with heavy tropical growth. Sugar and diamonds make it a valuable colony. Little is known as to the extent of the diamond fields. The world's highest waterfall was discovered in the heart of them.

Rail Monopoly Not Feared, Testify Two Senators

Although Senator Buchanan of Lethbridge indicated that he could not vote against Senator Dandurand's report of the special committee on railways, a report which opposed unified management and advocated "more earnest" co-operation, the Western Liberal Senator made it clear that he had no fears of monopoly:

"I live in a part of the country served wholly by one railroad. It always has been so served. If mine were the experience that Canada might have from the operation of one railroad system, I would say there is nothing much to fear from monopoly."

From the biography in the parliamentary guide, it is apparent that Senator Buchanan has lived in the Lethbridge area for more than 30 years.

C. W. Peterson, editor of the Farm and Ranch Review, Calgary, said that the need for competition in railway service became obsolete with the creation of the board of railway commissioners about 30 years ago.

Senator F. B. Black (Conservative), of New Brunswick, gave the Senate a similar view. He said that all his business life he had been dependent on only one railway, which was first the Inter-colonial and is now the Canadian National, and that there was no complaint as to service.

Convict, Priest, Dragon Started the Rouen Party

The traditional fair of St. Romain is a festival which has been celebrated off and on since the days of Richard the Lionhearted, observes a Rouen, France, correspondent in the Detroit News.

The medieval pageantry which is conceived as a background for the usual exchange of harvest produce from the fruitful farms and orchards of Normandy, recalls an old story of a saint and a dragon which is still considered "gospel" by many of the French peasants.

It seems that St. Romain, Bishop of Rouen, went forth one day to conquer a great Gargoyle which had been indulging an unpleasant appetitite for human beings at the rate of two or three a meal. The bishop took with him a condemned convict, thinking, perhaps, that if the dragon were furnished with a satisfactory "hors d'oeuvre" it might be captured while enjoying this first course. But things worked out better than expected; for the Gargoyle was so awed at the sight of the holy man that it immediately became weak enough for the convict to give it a quick push into the Seine. Being strictly a land dragon, it promptly drowned and Rouen was saved.

What is certainly true is that from the Twelfth to the Eighteenth century, a condemned criminal was set free from the dungeons of Rouen every Ascension day in memory of St. Romain and his courageous convict. It involved a colorful procession (including a stuffed dragon), besides banquets and various solemn rites.

The 'Seven Cities of Cibola'

On March 9, 1538, Fray Marcos de Nizza, with another monk, a Negro and several Indians, left Culiacan, Mexico, in search of the fabled "Seven Cities of Cibola." After traveling some distance, he sent the Negro ahead with instructions to report on the progress of the expedition, using a curious method of communication. If the country he discovered was of ordinary size, he was to send back "a cross of a hand's length"; if of more importance, one twice that size, and "if larger than New Spain . . . a large cross." Soon messengers returned with "a cross as high as a man"—a prophetic symbol of the extent of the United States, the present boundaries of which they were to traverse. Cibola proved to be an Indian pueblo, probably that at Zuni.

Notable Function at Historical Society Museum

HON. T. A. CRERAR, MINISTER OF MINES, OFFICIALLY DEDICATES HISTORIC BUILDING TO NEW USE

Paying particular recognition to Mr. Felix Hungerbuhler for his munificence in donating the old Barracks building at Carillon, which was part of the Bellevue Estate, to the Argenteuil Historical Society, Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Mines and Colonization, officially dedicated the building to the Society on Saturday afternoon, with the wish that the greatest possible success would attend their efforts, and that this fine museum would prove an incentive to the young folk and the future generation to follow in the ideals of the Society.

Dr. H. B. Cushing, the president, briefly related the stages of the development and progress during the five years since the Society's inception, and expressed grateful acknowledgment of the help extended by the Hon. Mr. Crerar, and to all who had in any way furthered the efforts of the Society.

Following a thorough inspection of the building, Mr. Crerar warmly congratulated the officers for their great zeal and enterprise. "It is well," he said, "that we should take time to look over the past and envision the hardships of the early pioneers. There is no episode in history more thrilling than the story of Dollard and his brave associates. In fancy one can almost hear the crack of musketry and the whoops of the Indians, and this historic spot is in close proximity to the building which we are privileged to dedicate for the preservation of historical records and mementoes."

A brief address was also delivered by Argenteuil's Federal Member, Georges Héon, who pleasantly referred to the presence of Lady Perley, linking the honored memory of the late Sir George Perley.

"The museum," said Mr. Héon, "has been made possible by the public spirit of the donor of this building, and the self-sacrifice and devotion of its participants." Referring to the recent visit of Their Majesties the King and Queen, the speaker said theirs was a task of public service ungrudgingly given, for the good of the Empire and not for personal gain. "May we in these troublous times, when peace is threatened, emulate their example and give ourselves to public need by rendering service to others, and so exercise the spirit of true Christian charity!" Mr. Héon voiced a similar message in the French language.

The executive were gratified with the very fine attendance, the gathering from the surrounding countryside being augmented by many visitors from out of town.

Tea was served on the beautiful gallery of the building overlooking the Ottawa River. The lawns and grounds are attractively laid out, and will soon prove a beauty spot in keeping with the quiet idealism of the museum enterprise.

Thanks were extended to Mr. Percy Nobbs, the architect, to Dr. Maud Abbott and others whose work had brought the project to the present stage of culmination. It was stressed that the museum was in need of every available curio related to local history and progress, and that appropriate books as contributions to the Benjamin Wales Library, established in memory of the founder of the Society, would be gratefully received by the executive.

Mme. P. Casgrain Speaks on Rights Of Women

W.I. ALSO HEARS REPORT ON CATERING AT FAIR

Lachute Women's Institute heard the cause of women's rights upheld by Madame Pierre Casgrain, President of the League for Women's Rights, at a meeting held in the High School Hall on Tuesday afternoon. Forty-three members and guests listened with keen interest reflected in their bursts of laughter and applause, as Madame Casgrain told of the struggle the women of Quebec are having to gain the vote, without which they are helpless to better conditions.

She made reference to Queen Elizabeth's speech at the laying of the corner-stone of the Supreme Court building at Ottawa, and felt that the Queen's example was a great lesson and inspiration to all women. She took such a keen interest in affairs of the world and yet was truly feminine and lovely, assisting her husband at all times gracefully and tactfully.

Mrs. J. A. Hay, convenor of Legislation, introduced Madame Casgrain. Following the address Mrs. R. J. Millar moved a vote of thanks, which was seconded by Mrs. A. Bothwell. All present adjourned to the school dining room for afternoon tea.

At the business meeting which opened at 2.30 o'clock, a report on the Fair work was given by Mrs. J. R. McOuat, showing proceeds to be almost as high as last year despite a smaller attendance at the Fair. All interested in the county picnic, to be held at the summer home of Mrs. J. Seale, Lake Anne, on July 6th, were asked to communicate with Mrs. C. L. Duncan.

Four Injured in Crash On Kilmar Road

Around one o'clock Saturday afternoon four persons were injured in a sedan car which collided with an auto emerging from a farm lane one mile north of Calumet on the Kilmar road. The injured, Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Charbonneau, Gaeton Charbonneau, aged 6, and his year-old sister, Colette were taken to Dr. Smith's Hospital, Hawkesbury, and were later allowed to return home.

Charbonneau, a resident of Kilmar, accompanied by his wife and four youngsters, were driving northward when he struck a Ford sedan driven by Gabriel Verdier, St. Adolphe d'Howard, which was proceeding out of a lane. Both cars were badly damaged. Traffic Officer H. Jones, of Lachute, was summoned to investigate the accident.

Mr. Charbonneau received body bruises when the steering wheel of his car was forced backward toward the seat. Mrs. Charbonneau had a bad bruise on her right arm, six-year-old Gaeton Charbonneau was badly bruised in the abdomen and Colette Charbonneau was cut about the head.

Temporarily Laid Aside, Weapons Now Whetted for Political Clash

"THE OTTAWA SPOTLIGHT"

Ottawa, June 27th.—The political atmosphere in Ottawa remains charged with rumors about a possible election in October. Whether that surmise is true or not remains to be seen. It is for the Prime Minister and his Cabinet to decide. The opinion is held by some that a pretty strong intimation about when the election is to come will likely be given on August 8th in Toronto by the Prime Minister. On that day he will be the guest of members of his party from all parts of the Dominion. They will be celebrating the twentieth anniversary of Mr. King's election to the head of the Liberal party.

While the King and Queen were on their tour of Canada, political "birds of calm sat brooding on the charmed wave." By general agreement political leaders buried their weapons temporarily. Now these weapons are out again and the skirmishing that is now going on seems to presage the general combat in the not distant future. The leader of the Conservative opposition, Dr. Manion, is carrying out a speaking tour in part of Ontario. On Thursday, June 29th, he is speaking at Haldimand, on July 1st at Queenston Heights and on July 5th at the Dominion capital.

The judges of the Supreme Court of Canada are now considering what their judgment will be on the question of appeals to the Privy Council in England. The judicial committee of the Privy Council is now the court of last resort on appeals from decisions of the courts of Canada. This refers, however, only in civil cases. The Canadian Parliament abolished appeals to the Privy Council on criminal matters some years ago. Last session Mr. Cahan introduced a bill in the House of Commons which would abolish any sort of appeal to any court after the Supreme Court had given its decision. The Minister of Justice, speaking on Mr. Cahan's bill, expressed his approval of the idea but announced that he would ask the Supreme Court to decide whether under the constitution the Parliament of the Dominion had the right to pass such a law. The result has been the hearing that has now finished in the Supreme Court.

Four of the provinces of Canada contended that the Dominion has not this power under the British North America Act. These were Ontario, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and British Columbia, while Manitoba and Saskatchewan held the view that the Dominion does possess the power. The provinces of Quebec, Prince Edward Island and Alberta did not present any briefs. The four provinces opposing the abolition of appeals argued that the provincial legislatures and not the Dominion Parliament have the right to decide whether matters coming within provincial jurisdiction under the constitution should be appealed to the Privy Council.

The case is likely to be taken ultimately to the Privy Council. If that body should decide, or if the Supreme Court and the Privy Council decide

Election to Fill Vacancies On School Boards

Two vacancies occurring in the Protestant School Commission, and two in the Catholic School Commission, will be filled by appointments next Monday. The terms of J. W. Gall and E. K. Wilson in the former board, and of J. H. St. Onge and J. W. Lefebvre in the latter, expire on that day. In the event of a vote being called, the elections are scheduled for the following Monday, July 10th.

Town Delegation Views Flooded Area at Intake

SPECIAL COUNCIL MEETING DEALS WITH TIMELY ITEMS

A special meeting of Lachute Town Council was held Thursday, June 22nd, with the following members present—Mayor W. S. MacKimmie, Aldermen K. A. McOuat, E. Prevost, D. Pharand, C. Durocher, G. A. Muir, Z. Harbour, Jas. W. McGibbon and Secretary G. Filion.

Notice of motion was given by Ald. Z. Harbour that at next council meeting he would present a by-law for levy of a special tax, on interested property-owners, to meet the cost of the Main Street (Lachute Road) sewer installation made last fall.

It was moved by Ald. E. Prevost, seconded by Ald. D. Pharand, that Lachute Golf Club be authorized to connect a 2-inch pipe to the town water main at the Bethany Street gulley, at their own expense and risk, and under supervision of the town officer, the town assuming no liability for failure of water service. The annual charge for water supply is to be $60, and the rate chargeable to Dec. 31st, 1939, was set at $40.

Authority to hold a parade in Lachute on July 12th was granted to the Orange Order of the county, on motion of Ald. E. Prevost, seconded by Ald. D. Pharand.

It was moved by Ald. K. McOuat, seconded by Ald. Z. Harbour, that the Municipal Commission of Quebec be requested to authorize the town to borrow temporarily from the bank a sum not exceeding $5,000.

A special Waterworks Committee comprising Ald. Jas. McGibbon, K. McOuat and Ernest Prevost was selected to appoint arbitrators in connection with the purchase of land flooded at the waterworks intake and to determine boundaries of the tract to be taken over.

(The above representatives, it is stated, made a subsequent inspection of the site and staked an area for the town's appropriation, a report of which will be presented at next council assembly).

Lake MacDonald Is Scene of 100 Club Social Meet

MEMBERS AND GUESTS ENJOY "LADIES' NIGHT" GATHERING

A pleasing function took place last evening at MacDonald Lake House, a hospitable resort patronized once or twice during each season by Lachute 100 Club with their guests and friends. The occasion was the Club ladies' night, and a gathering of approximately 40 enjoyed the turkey supper, the social intercourse and dancing which made up the evening's program. Under the spirited chairmanship of President Centurion L. W. Armstrong, the supper hour was livened with impromptu speeches, community singing and general good humor.

Following the banquet, dancing was enjoyed in the nearby pavilion, to the music of Brownsburg 3-piece Orchestra. The surroundings contributed notably to the pleasure of the event, the hostelry bordering on one of the most attractive lakes in this Laurentian section and looking out upon rocky heights on the opposite shore of Lake MacDonald.

Past President Geo. Héon, M.P., was called upon to welcome the ladies and guests. He enlisted the support of the feminine element in the work of the club, and from its participation in deliberations of the federal Finance Committee mentioned that the service clubs of Canada had virtually an official recognition, having been cited there as the most altruistic example of relief work instituted among the needy. Mr. Héon gave the gathering a few of his personal impressions of the Royal couple, gleaned from close proximity during their Ottawa visit.

A brief business session was held, Secretary Geo. F. Calder reading minutes of the previous meeting. Two new members were welcomed into the club, and a resolution was endorsed to urge adoption of milk pasteurization in Lachute town.

Centurion Dick Sancton, of Kilmar, contributed to the entertainment with an agile performance at the piano.

North River Violet, Jersey Cow, Has High Record

The Jersey cow, North River Violet, owned and tested by G. R. McCall, Lachute, has recently completed a record of 6,319 lbs. of milk, 428 lbs. of fat, with an average test of 6.77% as a junior two-year-old in 305 days, and has been awarded a silver medal certificate by the Canadian Jersey Cattle Club.

NEW INDUSTRY IN VIEW

According to Mayor Maisonneuve of Hawkesbury a new industry may shortly establish in the town. Representatives of a large Montreal glove company looked over two possible locations in the town and were favorably impressed.

The Mayor stated negotiations are under way and if the company decides to establish at Hawkesbury about 80 local unemployed will be given work with an annual payroll of $40,000.

Village of St. Jovite Founded 60 Years

Celebration of the 60th anniversary of the foundation of St. Jovite village and of the 25th anniversary of ordination of Parish Priest Rodolphe Mercure, was observed last Sunday. The day commenced with the celebration of a pontifical High Mass by Bishop Limoges, of Mont Laurier, on the church grounds.

At noon there was a dinner, attended by some 300 guests, in the parochial hall. During the dinner a purse of gold was presented to the parish priest, as well as flowers.

In the afternoon there was the ceremony of the blessing of a wayside cross on the highway two miles below the village, at a spot where the first wayside cross is said to have been erected in the district and supposedly on the site that Father Labelle, pioneer of the north, first selected for the settlement of the community.

In the evening there was an entertainment by the women of St. Jovite in the parochial hall, followed by a concert by the Band of St. Jerome, which attended specially for the occasion and which played at the Mass.

Church Rebuilding Goes to Montl. Contractors

TO COMPLETE CONSTRUCTION IN 10-WEEK PERIOD

The building committee of Lachute United Church met Tuesday evening to consider tenders on construction of the new church edifice; the discussion was under the chairmanship of Mr. W. M. Scott. Five tenders were considered, as follows:

James Thom & Co., $26,504; work to be completed in a period of 22 weeks.

J. J. Hewson & Co., $27,300; 12 weeks.

Walter G. Hunt Co., $27,400; 24 weeks.

Richd. and E. J. Ryan, $26,517; 10 weeks.

Alcidas Laurin, $34,250.

The four first-named are Montreal firms, and the latter a local contractor. The offer favored and approved by the committee was that of Richd. and E. J. Ryan, who, incidentally, were contractors for Lachute High School building. Considering the closeness of estimates from this firm and James Thom & Company, the Ryan tender was selected on account of the much shorter time for construction, inasmuch as premises have to be rented for the church services while building is in progress.

According to the building committee's specifications, the new Lachute church will be one of the most modern in the province when completed. In its front exposure the major alteration will appear in the imposing steps leading from the walk to an entrance considerable higher than the original. A side door in the tower will give entry into the basement, which is used for Sunday School, meetings and entertainments. Heavy slate will be used in the roofing. At the rear a chancel will accommodate the organ and the choir seats. A centre aisle will lead direct to the lectern and chancel, and there will be an aisle at either side. The pulpit will be situated at the west side of the chancel, with the choir room also on the west side and the vestry on the east side. A fine Casavant electric pipe organ will be installed.

The heating will be either a hot water or a low-pressure steam system operating from a single unit in a fire-proof compartment under the chancel. The heating, and the furnishing of pews and interior appointments, will be let by separate contracts.

Mill Begins Operations

The cutting-up mill and barking plant of the Canadian International Paper Company at Hawkesbury began the season's operations last week. With three shifts of eight hours, some two hundred men will be employed for the summer months. The opening of the two plants means about one thousand persons will be taken off the relief rolls.

Village Adopts Official Name, St. Adolphe d'Howard

The municipality of the Township of Howard, Argenteuil County, has changed its name to that of St. Adolphe d'Howard, according to notice in Quebec Official Gazette this week.

Announcement over the signatures of Mayor Albert Bertrand and Secretary Treasurer G. Liboiron, of the municipality, states that the Lieutenant-Governor in Council adopted, under date of June 2, an order-in-council changing the name of the municipality of the Township of Howard to that of St. Adolphe d'Howard.

Orange Lodges at Oka For Church Parade

Loyal Orange Lodge No. 2231 of Lachute, with the assistance of the other primary lodges throughout this county, attended divine service at the Oka United Church last Sunday afternoon, where the Rev. Carl C. Dean, the pastor, delivered a fitting address and the Rev. Bro. C. W. P. Baugh, of Lakefield, read the scripture lesson. About 100 Orangemen, with ladies of the Orange Benevolent Association, Lodge No. 943, Lachute, were present. The parade was headed by Bro. John Angus, of Oka, carrying the flag, and Bro. Don Fletcher, of Lachute, with the bagpipes. Bro. Archie Galbraith, of Brownsburg, acted as marshal during the parade.

Afterwards the visitors and friends from a distance were served with refreshments and hot coffee by the Ladies' Guild of the church. Wor. Bro. Melvin McGibbon, County Master, of Dalesville, thanked the friends for their kind hospitality.

CURB SEED DISEASE WITH POISON FUMES

The treatment of cereal seeds with organic mercury dust for the prevention of smut, root rot and seedling blight has become an established practice in seed-cleaning plants and on farms throughout Canada, says B. Leslie Emslie, chemist-agronomist. Whether the operation be performed on a large scale by means of the Kemp automatic seed treater or by power-driven machines, or on a small scale by barrel mixer or simply by shovel on the barn floor, certain precautions against inhalation of the fumes by the operator ought to be observed.

In reporting results of their experiments on the control of cereal smuts by seed treatment, Hanna and Popp of the Dominion Rust Research Laboratory, Winnipeg, say: "In the tests with New Improved Ceresan, this dust, applied at the rate of only ½ oz. per bushel, gave uniformly good bunt control, even when the seed was heavily smutted. It is a matter of considerable interest that such a slight application of dust should protect the seed against bunt infection."

The potency of ethyl mercury phosphate dust is very evident, when one-half ounce of the substance per bushel of seed grain effectively controls disease spores. It should be no less evident to the operator of the seed-treating process that the manner in which the mercury dust exerts its favorable influence is through its penetrating, poisonous fumes which are plainly perceptible to one who has not lost his sense of smell. The odor is the warning that should be heeded.

Although many apparently suffer no injury from inhaling the atmosphere of the building where the seed-treating is in progress, some are susceptible to the fumes of the mercury compound and may become nauseated or more seriously affected, if they neglect to protect mouth and nostrils with a handkerchief or respirator mask. Despite warnings and printed precautions, however, many operators ignore them, and some even boast of their supposed immunity.

As the season approaches when growers of fall wheat will be treating the seed grain with ethyl mercury phosphate dust, a further word of caution may be opportune. The dust is poisonous, otherwise, it would be of no effect in controlling seed-borne diseases. The pungent odor of the dust is evidence of the need for precaution on the part of the operator who should protect his mouth and nostrils with a handkerchief.

the right to abolish appeals does not lie with the Dominion Government, then abolition of appeal could be brought into effect only through an amendment to the British North American Act. It would seem most unlikely that an attempt to make this amendment would be carried out without the consent of all the provinces.

THANKS FROM THE KING

Letters from the King of grateful appreciation to persons and organizations that helped to make the Royal tour a success have been published in the Capital. Photostat copies of the letters bearing the King's signature were sent to heads of the organizations. Railway officials, the provincial and municipal police, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, defence forces, the interdepartmental committee that arranged details of the tour, veteran organizations throughout the Dominion and other bodies were included in the grateful thanks expressed by His Majesty on behalf of both himself and the Queen. In the letter to Mr. Power, Minister of Pensions, His Majesty said: "One of the most notable features of my Canadian tour has been the appearance everywhere of large and well-organized detachments of veterans. It has always been a pleasure to me to see them, not only because of the particularly friendly character of their welcome but also because their presence has given me more opportunity of showing my high appreciation of their past services to their country." In his letter to Dr. Coleman, under-secretary of state, on behalf of the interdepartmental committee the King said: "The unqualified success of the tour must be a source of well-deserved satisfaction to you and to the civil service of Canada generally. I want, however, to add my personal and most sincere thanks, not only to the members of your committee and its sub-committee, but also to all Government departments concerned and to the provincial governments and municipal authorities without whose co-operation so comprehensive a tour could never have been made." In a letter to the Minister of National Defence, His Majesty paid tribute to all branches of Canada's defence forces.

BATA SHOE COMPANY

The authorities are still considering the application of the Bata shoe company of Czechoslovakia for permission to erect a branch plant in Canada. It may, however, be a little while before a decision is made. If permission is granted, the company would probably erect a plant somewhere along the St. Lawrence route.

Brownsburg — John McLeod, recently from Dakota, has commenced blacksmithing at the corner.

The Suez Canal directors recommend an annual dividend for 1889 of 38 per cent.

The first attempt made at street lighting in Lachute was inaugurated Wednesday evening, when the Edison Co. started their new dynamo in the paper mill. Mr. Wilson has erected four lights outside, three of 32 candle-power and one of 50. The light at Lamarche's corner was beautiful to behold. The night was not dark, yet from Todd's corner to the Post Office every plank on the sidewalk was distinctly visible. Few realized the strength of the light until it was put out, when everything was in inky darkness. The street-lights will be kept burning until 12 o'clock every night, when by simply pulling a plug they are turned off. . . We think some suitable opportunity should be taken by the citizens to thank Mr. Wilson for his generosity and to mark this event as an important one.

Arch Mitchell has for sale all kinds of buggies, spring carts and buckboards, with latest improvements and fitted for travelling all kinds of roads. (advt.).

Brownsburg — Capt. Jas. McLean and Lady have arrived from Valparaiso, Chili. The Captain looks as if the world had treated him well during his seven years' absence.

Mr. Robt. McArthur is making rapid progress with the erection of his new hall, the work being executed by Mr. McDonald, contractor, of Montreal.

A Lachute Boy Scout saved his friend's life in the North River last Thursday. Keith Douglas, an Academy boy, while bathing got out of his depth and was in serious difficulties. John Hope, the Scout in question, was standing on the bank fully dressed, and went promptly to the rescue. Douglas by this time was under water, and with a few yards of hard swimming, John Hope brought his unconscious burden to shore. The lad regained consciousness, and although pretty sick was soon able to walk home.

The hose and sprinkler purchased by the donors for Lachute Cemetery, is in charge of the caretaker, W. A. Morrison, and is free to those caring for their own lots.

Cushing — Miss Mamie Graham entertained a party of her young friends at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Archie Graham.

Mr. Wm. McCoy, of St. Philippe, has received news of the family of his eldest son, in South Dakota, being completely wiped out by fire. Friends there read news of the accident. They communicated with Mr. McCoy here, who on making enquiries of the authorities, ascertained it was his son and family who had been victims of the tragedy.

SCIENCE ends DANGER of hot homes!
New discovery reduces temperature up to 15° on hottest days

SOLID ROCK BECOMES WOOL
From solid rock Johns-Manville makes an insulation that at last makes homes really livable. Limestone is actually blown into a light fluffy wool, and felted into bats that have all the appearance of cotton batting.

FROM the Johns-Manville laboratories has come an amazing new insulation, a light, fluffy wool-like substance that is actually blown from rock. It looks like cotton, but is a pure mineral, with all the characteristics of its stony origin—clean, fireproof, vermin-proof, permanent, odorless.

When installed in your attic floor or ceiling, it forms a heat-proof barrier more than 3 inches thick. Results are astounding. Hot homes become delightfully cool, and you can depend on savings up to 30% on your fuel bills in winter. Experts agree that only full wall thickness rock wool will protect homes against heat and cold in a truly scientific way.

Phone us today, and let us tell you how little it will cost to make your home really livable every day in the year. There is no obligation.

BUILDERS of CANADA

Louis and Marie Hébert working in their fields.

Louis Hébert

Louis Hébert, Canada's first practical farmer, was a member of that little colony at Port Royal (Annapolis Royal) who, in 1605, first attempted to cultivate Canadian soil. Later, in 1616, he settled in Quebec, made a clearing on the heights of Cape Diamond, cultivated it with his own hands, acquired a fief and became, except for Champlain, the leading citizen of Quebec. Above is depicted a monument to his memory which today stands in the City of Quebec.

SEED TIME and HARVEST

IN those far-off days Louis Hébert had no bank to give him assistance or encouragement. Today it is different. This Century-old Bank, actuated by a genuine desire to promote Canada's basic industry, always welcomes opportunities to serve the agricultural community.

Those attending from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Truman Clarke and Miss Joyce Clarke, of Orillia, and Mrs. Herbert Neil, of Montreal.

IN MEMORIAM

STONE — In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Ernest James, who passed away on June 27, 1938. —Ever remembered by his father, sisters and brothers.

One year has passed, our hearts still sore;
As time goes by we miss him more
His loving smile, his kindly face —
No one can ever take his place.
We often sit and think of him,
The things he used to say and do.
And wonder why he had to die,
Without a chance to say good-bye.

Silent memories, true and tender,
Just to show we still remember.

We do not forget you, Ernest, we loved you too dearly
For your memory to fade from our life like a dream.
Our lips need not speak when our hearts mourn sincerely,
For grief often dwells where it seldom is seen.

A heart that loved you will never forget,
In sweetest memory you are with me yet.

Great War Veteran Dies in Ste. Anne Military Hospital

COMPOSER OF PRINCESS PATS' REGIMENTAL MARCH

Cyril A. (Jim) Mattinson, composer of the Princess Pats' regimental march, died last Thursday at the Military Hospital, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, from an illness contracted while serving during the Great War. He was in his 58th year.

Born in England, he devoted his life to an army career and to martial music, being a flute and piccolo player who was known to military musicians across the Dominion. His hobby was organizing and encouraging boys' bands. His most notable success in this respect was the formation of the Sea Cadets Band, of Winnipeg.

At an early age Mattinson enlisted in the Imperial Army, and for 15 years served in India. In 1911 he joined the Royal Canadian Regiment and served all through the Great War. He returned to Canada afterwards and was attached to the Princess Pats at Winnipeg for eight years. It was while serving there that the illness contracted in France necessitated his being invalided out of the regiment.

Mattinson was many times offered a bandmastership, but he always declined the promotion, preferring to be a practical musician, and the highest rank he attained was that of sergeant in a band.

Only survivor in Canada is his wife, formerly Ethel Johnson, who resides in Montreal.

A summer resident at Cushing, he was well known in that district and was a member of the Argenteuil Veterans, Branch No. 70.

The funeral was held on Saturday morning at St. Philippe, Que., the ball-bearers being Comrades A. Young, A. Murray, D. Greig, G. Leggett, R. Giles, Eric Young and Hugh Danforth.

United W.M.S. Meeting, St. Andrews East

St. Andrews East —

The June meeting of the W.M.S. of the United Church was held in the Church hall on Wednesday afternoon, the twenty-first. The president, Mrs. J. Esdon, was in the chair. After a devotional period led by the President the roll-call and minutes were read by Mrs. J. DeWitt, secretary. Two vocal trios, the first by Misses Betty and Elsie Dorion and Dorothy Halsey, the second by Misses N. and C. Cooke and B. Hugman, were much enjoyed. At the close of the meeting members and friends gothered about a daintily appointed tea table in honor of Mrs. B. N. Wales, who celebrated her 88th birthday that day. It was also the birthday of another member, and several members besides have birthdays in June, including Miss Mary Lamb, on June 18. The tea arrangements were in charge of Miss M. Green and Miss M. Pitcairn.

The Lakefield Centenary

Lakefield — Memories of the past will be revived on Tuesday, July 4th, when Holy Trinity Church celebrates its hundredth birthday. Former members of this church now living in other parts, are expected to attend in large numbers, and most of the Anglican clergy in this district will be present at the celebrations.

Nestled on the bank of Lake Dawson, this historic building has been the centre of practically all the religious and social activities of the small village of Lakefield during the past ten decades. Known widely as the "Cathedral of the Laurentians." This church certainly deserves the name. The interior, re-decorated three years ago at a cost of over one thousand dollars, is very beautiful, although plain in its decoration. The passer-by seeing the grey, cold-looking stone, can hardly visualize the beauty that lies within. The congregation takes great pride in the building, and the large attendance at the weekly services is remarkable.

On July 4th, at 8 a.m. (E.S.T.), the Rev. C. W. P. Baugh will hold a celebration of the Holy Communion. At 10 a.m. (E.S.T.) the centennial service will be held, at which the Lord Bishop of Montreal will be guest speaker. The rector will be assisted by visiting clergy, and the music for the service will be under the direction of Rev. A. E. Mount, organist and choir director for the occasion. Also at this service the Bishop will dedicate several new additions to the church.

Dinner will be served by the Trinity W.A. afterwards, in the Gibb Parish Hall. Among the former clergy expected at the celebrations are: Rev. A. E. Mount, Lakefield; Rev. W. Garner, Luzerne, N.Y., and Rev. R. G. Fiander, Montreal.

After-dinner speeches will be made by prominent clergy and public figures.

In the late afternoon the Bishop will address the clergy and lay delegates to Synod, at a special meeting.

Weddings

Hadley-MacRae

The marriage of Gladys Annie, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John MacRae, of Harrington East, to Mr. Robert Henry Hadley, of Siscoe, Que., eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hadley, of Lachute, took place on Saturday at four o'clock in Harrington East Church, the Rev. S. J. Pike officiating. Peonies and ferns decorated the church. Miss S. MacRae played the wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white bridal satin made on princess lines. Her fingertip veil fell from a coronet of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses and baby's breath.

Miss Mona Bates acted as bridesmaid, and wore pale pink chiffon with matching jacket and shoulder-length veil to match. She carried pink carnations and baby's breath.

Miss Pearl MacRae, sister of the bride, acted as flower girl and wore pale blue organdy and carried a colonial bouquet of sweet peas.

Mr. John Hadley was best man for his brother, and the ushers were Mr. James Bennett and Mr. Geo. Muir.

Staniforth-Boyd

The marriage of Reta Margaret Emily, daughter of the late John Boyd, of Lachute, and of Mrs. Boyd, of Montreal, to Mr. Dennis Staniforth, of Brownsburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Staniforth, of Arundel, took place on Saturday afternoon at half-past three o'clock at St. Matthew's Church, Hampstead, Rev. G. E. Trueman, the pastor, officiating. Pink and white peonies decorated the church. Mr. Burnham Coller played the organ.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Ernest Boyd, wore a gown of white Chantilly lace over satin, fashioned on princess lines and having a draped neckline, long tight-fitting sleeves ending in points over the hands, and the skirt extending into a short train. Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion fell from a coronet of tulle and orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of butterfly roses and lily-of-the-valley.

Miss Doris Boyd, the bride's sister, and only attendant, was in turquoise marquanza, with a matching doll hat, and she carried a shower bouquet of pink and blue sweet peas. Mr. Edgar Staniforth was best man for his brother.

The reception was held at the home of the bride's mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Staniforth left on a motor trip to the Eastern states, the bride travelling in a printed ensemble of regina blue with white accessories.

Provencal-Andrews

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday, June 21st, at 3 p.m., at Avoca when Pearl Barbara, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Andrews, of Avoca, became the bride of William Provencal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Provencal, of Bell's Falls.

The event took place at the home of the bride's parents, the Rev. S. J. Pike, of Brownsburg, officiating. Mrs. J. Handy, the bride's aunt, of Montreal, presided at the piano.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was dressed in a gown of white crepe-de-chine with accessories. Her sister-in-law, Mrs. Elmer Andrews, acted as maid-of-honor. Mr. John Provencal, brother, ably supported the groom.

The reception, immediately following the ceremony, was held at the home of the bride's parents.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. J. Handy, Mr. and Mrs. R. Brober, of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. P. Rorke, of Calumet; Mrs. J. McLeod and Miss McLeod, of Pointe-au-Chene.

Following the honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Provencal will reside at Bell's Falls.

Speed of Ducks

The magazine American Shotgun gives the following table of flights for various species of ducks: The canvasback duck, 130 to 160 feet per second, with an average of 145; bluewing teal, 120 to 140 feet per second, average 130; greenwing teal, 100 to 130 feet per second, average 115. Other authorities give the redhead duck 110 to 130 feet per second, mallard 50 to 90. To convert these figures into miles per hour, multiply by 0.6818, so that the canvasback duck's average speed is over 98 miles per hour. According to an article in Scientific American by S. F. Aaron, it would seem that these figures are exaggerated. He states it is doubtful that wild ducks or other sea birds can attain speeds of more than 60 miles an hour for short or long distances, as the result of his observations and measurements. This same author regards the blue-winged teal as the fastest of the duck family, faster than the canvasback or pintail.

The health of the pupils was good, except for colds and several cases of measles. The modern conveniences have proved their worth in the control of sickness. Mrs. H. McEwan will replace Miss D. Paxman, as teacher of Grades IV and V next September.

"The early bird gets the worm" — but some of our feathered friends who came too, too soon this spring, got tired waiting for the meat course and started on a salad course. One lady noticed them picking the lilac buds in her garden. As a result most of the lilac bushes had very few blooms. Other plants, while from ten days to a fortnight late in blooming, have had their usual show of flowers, but the honeysuckles, of several varieties, bloomed with unusual profusion. —To the delight of the little ruby-throated humming birds, be it said.

The Earliest Sales Tax

A form of sales tax was levied by the federal government as early as 1794. In that year, at the instance of Alexander Hamilton, a tax was placed on property sold at auction. A similar tax had been imposed by Lord North in England to help meet the expenses of carrying on the war against the American colonies. In this country the levy produced little revenue and was repealed in 1800. It was revived for several years as an emergency measure during the War of 1812, but collections depended entirely on the conscience of the auctioneers and evasions were notorious.

MORE ROYAL VISIT

Whatever are we going to do now that the Royal visit is over, for something to talk about ? It still is the subject of conversation wherever we turn. Here are one or two little stories I have not seen in print. My maid's cousin is a waiter at The Chateau Laurier, (incidentally, he was rushed out to Vancouver after Their Majesties left Ottawa). He told of one waiter who tried to light a match for the King and he was so excited the match went out and he had to light three times before he could get one going. The King was very much amused. At the Memorial, the Queen spoke to a Major who was wearing a Military Cross. She chatted with him and he told her he had instructed His Majesty in England. She beckoned to the King and told him. He said, "I remember you very distinctly, sir ! It is the little things such as addressing the man, who had been his superior officer, as "Sir," which makes Their Majesties so beloved. One of the members of the Guard of Honor in Montreal tells this story. The crowd were pressing very closely and there was a lull in the proceedings. The King was standing directly beside him and the two men behind were talking and could be heard very clearly. One said to the other, "Have you changed your mind ?" "No, I haven't changed my mind." "Do you mean after all this, you haven't changed your mind ?" "No, I feel exactly the same way." Those around were tense as they did not know what might be said as the men were unconscious that the King could hear and was listening. The man went on, "No, I wouldn't fight for my country; I wouldn't fight for the King, but by . . . I'd fight for that gal to the drop of the hat." The King's shoulders shook with laughter and those on guard relaxed.

USE GOOD MATERIALS

People who do home-crafts to sell to tourists should use good materials. This is prompted by an experience I have had today. While in Nova Scotia we bought a hand-hooked rug. It is a beautifully made rug and I have been very proud of it. It depicts the Bluenose, and the men who know their ships have praised the correctness of it. Dealers who buy rugs for sale tell us they will buy rugs with ships on them from only a few people as they are difficult to do properly and a ship that is not exactly right is an offence to ship-minded people. This surprised us as somehow we expected all Nova Scotian women to be correct about boats. But to go on with our tale of woe. This morning I washed the rug for the first time and the green dye of the sea ran out. I am afraid it is going to be an anemic looking sea. All the other colors are fast. Word of mouth is the best advertising and tourists should be sure to be given good materials. It is a pity to waste good workmanship.

NOT TOO LIGHTLY

The idea has been that we should eat lightly in the summer. That is true, but not too lightly. There are many people who work harder during the hot weather than at any other time. These people need good, substantial meals. Very often they do not get them. We need different meals in the summer but we do need to be well fed. It is easy to have plenty of salads, vegetables and fresh fruits, but we need the proteid foods, too, to replace the wear and tear on the body tissues. We can do without the pastries, heavy desserts and rich cakes. We need proteid foods such as meats, fish, eggs, milk and cheese. Our instinct is a good guide and most of us do not want as much meat in the summer. We don't require as much heat, so we do not have to stoke our furnaces as much. It is wise to use some meat but it is a good idea to eat more fish, eggs and cheese in the hot weather.

LESS TO DUST

When hot weather comes, do you lessen your work by eliminating about three-quarters of your ornaments and do-dads. It makes that much less to dust and to clean and take care of generally. The less clutter we have, the more space it seems to give. A lot of things around, seems to be heavy and to close down on us; whereas a bareness gives the effect of being cool and light. We might very well copy the Japanese idea of ornamentation. One thing at a time. A vacation is a change, so let us change our surroundings by elimination.

RHUBARB BREAD PUDDING

2 cups rhubarb, ¾ cup sugar, 2 cups breadcrumbs, 1 teaspoon grated orange rind, 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind, ½ teaspoon lemon juice, 1 egg, 1 cup of milk.

Beat the egg and mix with the milk and add this to the remaining ingredients, mixing well. Put into a baking dish and dot with butter. Bake in a moderate oven of 375 degrees for one hour.

STAWBERRY CREAM

2 cups mashed strawberries, 1 tablespoon gelatine, ½ cup cold water, ½ cup sugar, 1 cup cream.

Soak the gelatine in the cold water, then melt over hot water. Add this to the strawberries and sugar. Whip the cream and fold into the strawberry mixture. Pour into a wet mold and let stand until set.

An ear of corn always has an even number of rows of kernels.

Bananas two feet long are grown in East Africa.

Strawberries are so named because they were originally brought to market strung on straws.

Home Economics Covers Wide Range of Topics in Spring W.I. Meetings

Reports on Home Economics from twelve counties show great activity in W.I. meetings during the spring months.

House-cleaning with its problems received a deal of consideration with a variety of papers and hints on cleaning and cleansers, as well as care of floors, rugs and linoleums, labor saving demonstrations and hints, "Facts About Familiar Goods," "The Country Kitchen," and "What Price My Household Conveniences."

Contests were popular, as usual, and included shortbread, bread, cake, cookies, doughnuts, salads, candy, aprons, buttonholes, darning, most useful and practical article made during the year. A different sort of contest was on scrap books on Home Economics made by the school children.

The Singer Sewing Machine with its various attachments was demonstrated at several meetings. One branch had a demonstration on spinning.

Various articles of food were studied, also correct table service and entertaining. Many branches had socials of various kinds. There were several quiltings; in one case quilts, as well as other articles collected, being given to fire sufferers.

A pressure cooker was purchased. There were several sales of home cooking, demonstrations of handicrafts, sewing machine cover, woven pot holders, use for used Christmas cards. One branch had "Hints on How to be Well-dressed." A potato peeling gadget was demonstrated and entered a contest against an ordinary potato paring knife.

In lighter vein, there was a reading on "Knit-Wits," a poem, "Just a Married Woman," and some housecleaning hints on cleaning the meannesses out of ourselves.

In the Middle Ages the humble turnip was embroidered on banners and graven on coats-of-arms. In those days the turnip was led to be the friend of all mankind. Those who carried it received it as a mark of honor in recognition of the general goodness of their dispositions.

The famous honey bread baked in France and Germany will keep for a year and a half without drying out or spoiling.

By Mary E. Dague
Author of Sister Mary's Kitchen

If the wedding gift you must choose is for an intimate friend it should be very easy to find something to suit your budget and be just what the bride would want and need.

Her taste, her future plans, the style of her new home and her scale of living all are determining factors in your choice of the wedding present. If she is going to keep her own house and do her own cooking, consider some kitchen luxury as a glass tea kettle or a copper sauce pan or a salad bowl or cheese tray in wood if you are limited to less than five dollars. A gay pottery breakfast service for two and various small electric gadgets can be found for under the five dollar limit, too.

The shops are full of delightful odd pieces of silver plate, pewter, chrome, spun-aluminum, glass and china for daily use and entertaining. Knowing the pattern of her silver you might add to it. An odd serving fork or spoon that the bride thought she "could get along without" will please her.

If you are giving to someone whom you know slightly, choose an article that can serve more than one purpose such as a bowl which might be used for flowers, fruit, salad or dessert. Almost any material and price is available for such a gift.

Summer beds are lovely dressed in patchwork quilts. Pine and maple look best at any time in this garb and in summer mahogany leans toward patchwork and applique in place of its usual lace and satin.

Crocheted and knitted spreads are attractive, too, and if you haven't one the work is nice to pick up at odd minutes on the porch and lawn. Most of these spreads are made in blocks and then crocheted or sewed together so it's easy work to carry with you.

Summer needle work should be chosen with the thought of its ease of accomplishment and its suitability to carry with you from porch to garden. Plan to work with wools during the winter months and work with linen and cotton when the thermometer soars.

Blotters make splendid pads to use under plate doilies and under hot dishes on the summer table. Get large sheets of blotting paper in white and cut it to fit your doilies. If you are using lace doilies and want to carry out a particular color scheme you can get blotters in your chosen color.

Ottawa Mayoral Office as Matrimonial Bureau

Mayor Stanley Lewis, of Ottawa, who announced recently that he had received a request from an Ottawa civil servant to help him find a wife, had three offers. According to three letters the mayor has, the "applicants" are offering such items as "good character," "ability to cook," and other qualifications fitting for a would-be bride. One young woman advises that she has "never been to a club or party of any kind." The Mayor now shows a tendency to place the responsibility for arranging meetings in the hands of his secretary, Miss May Byers. It will not be the first time that the chief executive has passed along such duties to her.

June 25 — Mayor Lewis' problem progressed one step farther on Saturday when he found six young women waiting in his office, seeking interviews as to their eligibility for the "position." The Mayor declined to say what he would do about the "offers."

The Irish potato is not Irish — it originated in South America.

GRANDMOTHER'S KNOWLEDGE
(Windsor Star)

Two hundred New England mothers studying child psychology have come to the conclusion that grandmother knew quite a little about the subject. Maybe she did, but, poor soul, her knowledge was only practical.

Man, very hoarse with cold, not able to talk above a whisper, knocks at doctor's home at night time, and the Doc's wife comes to the door. "Is the doctor at home ?"

Wife, also in whisper — "No, come in."

THE NOSE

Unquestionably the nose is the most essential portion of the human face. Primitive man recognized this and for that reason it was a common custom among them to decorate the nose with rings, of bone, metal or pieces of carved wood. Others tatooed the nose, believing that by so doing they added to their beauty.

In the backwoods of Peru I once met an Indian chief of a cannibal tribe, who had two large irregular emeralds set on either side of his nostrils, the flesh holding the jewels in place, and he was inordinately proud of his ingenuity in thus placing the gems so that they might properly impress those whom he met.

In Africa and Australia the nose is often the background for elaborate designs which are actually cicatrized on the skin so that they stand out in bold relief.

A well known and wealthy Hindu ruler, for whom I once was physician, had the noses of all the ladies of his harem covered with rings containing precious stones, which were held in place by slits through their nostrils.

The interior of your nose is one of your health guardians and certainly a sort of policeman who watches night and day over you and keeps you protected against colds. Through its rare ability to smell, the nose is in addition a safeguard against dangers such as fire, escaping gas, unhealthy surroundings, unsanitary odors and other equally perilous conditions.

Furthermore, the mucous membrane of the nostrils acts as a sort of trap to catch and prevent germs from gaining further entrance into the body. Often nature positively increases this supply of mucous for the express purpose of ridding the nostrils of the offending germs.

If you notice that your nose is becoming dry, and that the protective mucous membrane is unable to eliminate as it should, it is almost certain that sooner or later the same condition will progress to the throat and then one may expect a cold.

This act on the part of the nose is one of the simple danger signals which Dame Nature throws out, warning us to be on our guard and the chances are that if one watches his nose and how it acts, he need fear no further infection of throat, tonsils, or lungs. Do not forget that your nose is the sentinel guarding your inner body from unwelcome and hostile invaders, so keep it clean and treat it well.

Benefit Dance for Gore Citizen

A benefit dance which deserves patronage of the Lakefield public is being held Friday night, June 30, at Ralph's. This community effort on behalf of Elmirt Berry, of The Gore, who suffered injuries in an accident, is designed to help in the project of building him a home. When this effort materializes, it is hoped to arrange a neighborhood "bee" for the work of construction. In the meantime those attending the dance will be giving their financial support and, incidentally, will spend an enjoyable evening.

No Snoring Allowed in Churches of Old England

In these days if anyone goes to sleep in church there isn't much that can be done about it. But this was not so in the past, as a study of old parish registers will show, relates a correspondent in London Answers Magazine.

In those days there was an official known as the Sluggard Walker. He probably enjoyed his job. This was to patrol the aisle, rod in hand, waiting for the first nod. Then—rap went the stick on the sleeper's head. An entry from a Derbyshire register dated 1772 shows that he was paid an annual fee of ten shillings for the work.

Even more interesting must have been the work done by Robert Walton of Youlgreave, in 1699. The entry shows that he was paid 16 pence "for whipping ye dogges forth of ye church in time of Divine Service."

From a Castleton register comes an entry of real historical interest: "1745. Paid to ye ringers at the flight of the Rebels. 5s. 0d."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

"God" is the subject of the lesson-sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday, July 2nd.

The Golden Text is from I Timothy 1:17. "Unto the King eternal, immortal, invisible, the only wise God, be honor and glory for ever and ever."

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "But as it is written, Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him. But God hath revealed them unto us by his Spirit; for the Spirit searches all things, yea, the deep things of God." (I Corinthians 2:10).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Material sense never helps mortals to understand Spirit, God. Through spiritual sense only, man comprehends and loves Deity.—Eye hath never seen God nor His image and likeness. Neither God nor the perfect man can be discerned by the material senses. The individuality of Spirit, or the infinite, is unknown, and thus a knowledge of it is left either to human conjecture or to the revelation of divine Science." (Pages 481, 330).

June Meetings of Argenteuil Women's Institutes

The Brownsburg Branch had a paper on Canadianization and National Events, given by Mr. Wallace Wilson. They donated five dollars to the County Scholarship fund. A garden party was held at the home of Mrs. Lemuel Wilson on June 21st, in aid of their finances.

Frontier Branch had a demonstration by Mr. Brisbois of the Singer Sewing Machine Company, assisted by Mrs. L. Hartley, of Montreal; the members also quilted a quilt for the needy, and donated five dollars to the Children's Memorial Hospital. This meeting was an unusually large one, 24 members, 3 visitors and 5 children being present. Their roll-call was "Soaps Manufactured in Canada."

Jerusalem-Bethany heard a talk on tuberculosis, given by Dr. E. Lalande of the County Health Unit. This was followed by an interesting questionnaire and discussion on diseases.

[illegible] held a business meeting, making plans for the summer's work. This branch will not hold their July meeting until the 14th of the month.

Lachute had an excellent paper on the problem of Jewish Immigration, which was written by Mrs. W. C. LeCras and read by Mrs. A. Taylor. In their roll-call, Jews were voted as being a good class of immigrants. This branch donated ten dollars to the County Scholarship and twenty-five dollars to the Red Cross.

Upper Lachute - East End heard a poem read by Mrs. Millar, and held a contest on the names of different varieties of apples, Mrs. H. Millar being the winner. A full and interesting account of national events was read by Mrs. McFarlane, and a chapter on Infantile Paralysis was read from the Health Book. A dance was held at the home of Mrs. Roy Morrison, at which a quilt was disposed of.

Pioneer had an address by Dr. E. Lalande on tuberculosis, its causes, cure, etc., with a roll call, "What I would like to teach my child," also current events on the Royal Visit given by the members. The meeting also heard a report on the county convention.

Famous Naturalist Born in Haiti

John James Audubon was born at Aux Cayes, Haiti, in 1785. His early years were spent in France, but he came to this country in 1804 to his father's estate, "Mill Grove," near this city. Here he became interested in bird life and in a cave on the banks of the Perkiomen he made the first "banding" experiment on the young of wild American birds. From 1808 to 1826 he lived in Kentucky, where the greater scope for his studies was possible. He then went to England in search of a publisher for his bird drawings. "Birds of America" was successful immediately. Audubon was made a life member of the American Philosophical society and of the Academy of Natural Sciences, New York, where some of his original work is preserved. He died in New York, January 27, 1851.

Nine on Trial for Illegal Fishing in Ottawa River

Nine Hawkesbury men were taken into custody by Game Warden Wayne Robinson, of Ottawa, assisted by district fish and game overseers, and over 350 pounds of fish, mostly sturgeon, was confiscated. According to the authorities the officers lay hidden most of the night on the shore of a small island in the Ottawa River watching developments, and finally making their move when the men came ashore in five row-boats.

In police court before Magistrate Raoul Labrosse, of Vankleek Hill, three of the men pleaded guilty to fishing with a night line and were fined $10 and costs, or 10 days in jail; and six others pleaded guilty to fishing with a night line and also to illegal possession of sturgeon. They were fined $10 and costs on each charge, with the alternative of 10 days in jail. In court Game Warden Robinson stated that "There is no such thing this year as obtaining a license to fish with a night line or a net anywhere in the Ottawa River."

Before the hearing adjourned Mayor Maisonneuve asked the magistrate to intercede with the Department of Justice in an endeavor to have the sentences set aside in view of the inadequate relief received by the men and their families. The Magistrate said he would do what he could, and at the same time suspended the payment of the fines in all cases until June 30.
