Ordinary Govt. Expenditures Reduced $77 Million; Estimates for Year's War Program Reach $700 Million

CAPACITY OF KEY INDUSTRIES BEING DOUBLED, PRODUCTION MOBILIZED TO SUPPLY MUNITIONS AND FOODSTUFFS

BUDGET EXPECTED IN A WEEK OR TEN DAYS, HIGHER TAXES

Ottawa, June 4th — In these historic and very critical days, parliament at Ottawa is responding to the urgent needs of the time. Everyone on parliament hill, commoners, senators and civil servants are watching intently and anxiously the trend of the fighting in Belgium and France and have followed with pride the epic struggle of the British Expeditionary Force and the Northern French Army, deserted by the Belgian army through the capitulation of their king, but miraculously evacuated across the channel. The Canadian parliament has been hastening its war measures. Faced with the stark menace, threatening to enslave the world, Canada is redoubling its war effort. In the House of Commons, the Prime Minister and his Ministers of Defence have told parliament and the country that in addition to the three divisions for which provision has been made, the infantry battalions of a fourth division will be mobilized; further ancillary troops will be raised for the Canadian corps which will take the field in Europe; five thousand more men will be added to the Canadian Air Force, and the air training plan is being speeded up. More veterans will be enrolled in reserves for the home defence force and war industry is being geared to much greater activity.

With the announcement that complete plans have been made for the establishment of seven more schools for the air training plan, considerable progress has been made on more than two thirds of the units which will be in operation when the entire program is complete. Plans call for 111 units. Progress has been made on 81. This is felt to be very encouraging and shows that the program is quite up to if not in advance of schedule. It has been stated in parliament that steps are being taken to give additional impetus to this plan which will furnish a constant and growing stream of trained airmen for the battlefront where they are so urgently needed to overcome the numerical superiority of the Germans.

Taut nerves have led to lively debates in both houses of parliament. Attacks have been made on Prime Minister King in the Commons and the Senate. On Thursday of last week the criticism of the Prime Minister by some Conservative members of the Commons was particularly bitter, the suggestion being advanced by one or two that while Mr. King was a "great man in peace time", Col. Ralston should take the helm in time of war. The idea of reorganizing the government, however, was met with a long sustained storm of support for Mr. King from all Liberal members. When Mr. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture extolled Mr. King as an international figure, in high standing with the British Government, and said the Liberal party inside and outside parliament were with the Prime Minister "to a man", there was a prolonged ovation in the House.

Parliament has passed an appropriation of $700,000,000 to pay war expenses for the present fiscal year. Of this amount $265,000,000 is for the army, $100,000,000 for the navy $100,000,000 for the air force, $120,000,000 for the air training scheme, $60,000,000 for the establishment of the Canadian corps and $38,000,000 for the year's cost of the third division now being mobilized. There is one division in Britain, one to be despatched when the time is ripe, and the third being formed, while the fourth will be mobilized promptly as far as its nine rifle regiments are concerned.

The budget which is expected to be introduced in a week or ten days will cover a total expenditure of about $1,150,000,000. While war expenses are much higher than for an equivalent period of the last war because mechanization is a major element of modern warfare, the ordinary expenses of the government have been cut down in the estimates by $77,000,000 from last year's figures. The estimates for the present fiscal year for ordinary expenses of government amount to $448,000,000, compared with $525,000,000 last year. The main reductions were in the Canadian National Railway deficit placed at $15,000,000 instead of $43,500,000, in the estimate for public works throughout the country and in appropriations for unemployment relief. Estimates for all expenses not connected with the prosecution of the war were cut down. There is no means of knowing what new taxes are intended. Information of that kind is most carefully reserved until the budget is made public. They will certainly be higher, probably mainly on luxuries. The policy of the government is as far as possible a "pay as we go" policy, but at the same time much of the money must be raised by borrowing. All this borrowing has to be done in Canada because the two markets in Britain and France are not open, the former because the people of Britain are extending their own resources to the limit, while the United States market is closed through their neutrality legislation.

To aid in the gigantic task of financing the war, the government has issued war savings certificates and war savings stamps. These are "little bonds" of the Dominion, ranging in value from $5 to $100, and are issued to enable the man and woman and child of slender means to "help win the war and help you save". The certificates and stamps have been on sale from May 27th.

The mobilization of Canadian industry to supply munitions for the Canadian troops and munitions and foodstuffs for the allied armies and populace has been given a new impetus.

High Record at World's Fair, Dairy Cow from Lachute

It is officially reported from the Borden company that a high record of two pounds of butterfat in one day has been made by an Ayrshire cow, Woodlea Marron Sisters Wee Dot, sent to the Borden exhibit at the New York World's Fair by W. Erskine Rodger, of Lachute.

Red Cross Urgent Appeal For Woollen Blankets

There is a very urgent appeal for woollen blankets for overseas.

The Lachute Red Cross Branch wish to thank those who have already responded and wish to urge others to leave a blanket or two with their Group Convenor or with Mrs. Griffith, Clyde Street.

The blankets must be new or "as good as new", must be woollen and may be any size and color.

Sew on each blanket a label about 2" x 4" at one corner with name and address of donor and marked "new" or "used". If used, state also if "fumigated", "washed" or "cleaned."

This appeal is very urgent and it is to be hoped will receive a good response.

As every thread of gold is valuable, so is every moment of time.

Mills Open for Season

The cutting-up and barking mill of the Canadian Internationl Paper Company at Hawkesbury began operations for the season this week. Approximately 200 men will obtain work for the next five or six months at an increase in wages over last year.

Death Removes Former Mayor and Well Known Citizen of Lachute

The passing of Arthur Larocque, whose death occurred at the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Montreal, on Tuesday, June 4th, removes a well-known figure from this community.

Born in St. Hermas in 1882, Mr. Larocque spent his early manhood in Idaho, Spokane and Seattle, afterwards returning to Lachute, where he engaged in the hotel business with Mr. Rochon, later purchasing the Windsor Hotel, which he successfully ran from 1906 until 1922. Of latter years he had occupied his time with insurance and lumber interests, and devoted many years to civic duties as Alderman and Mayor of the town.

He leaves to mourn, a devoted wife, Blanche Belanger; three daughters, Isabelle, Marthe and Francine, and his two sons, Arthur and Guy. He is also survived by two brothers, Joseph, of Spokane, and Emmaus, of Legal, Alberta, and two sisters, Mrs. Jos. Belanger and Mrs. Zotique Rochon, of Lachute.

The funeral will take place at 10 a.m. on Saturday, June 8th, from Ste. Anastasie Church, and will be attended by the Knights of Columbus, of which body he was an honored member.

Couple Injured in Crash At Simon's Crossing

At the dangerous turn over Simon's Crossing, just west of Lachute on No. 8 Highway, an automobile came to grief at 11.30 o'clock Tuesday night, and two occupants were injured. The car was approaching Lachute from Hawkesbury — the driver, Maurice Lachapelle, and passenger, Miss Marguerite Tremblay being en route to Montreal. Lachapelle drove across the C.P.R. track but was unable to make the turn onto the highway, and his car crashed through a fence. Part of the fence broke through the windshield.

Injured Taken to Hospital

The occupants of the car, both injured, were brought to Lachute and were given treatment from Dr. F. W. FitzGerald. Lachapelle was suffering from internal injuries, while Miss Tremblay had concussion and facial cuts. Both were taken by ambulance to Notre Dame Hospital, Montreal.

The car, badly damaged, was towed to a local garage.

Officer A. Leger, of the Provincial Traffic Police, investigated the accident.

Boy Saves Child from Ottawa River

Quick action on the part of Andre Paquette, twelve-year-old son of Eugene Paquette, town clerk of Hawkesbury, prevented a drowning fatality on Monday. Marcel Laviolette, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Emelien Laviolette, was seated on the bank of the Ottawa River, behind the Grey School, pulling in logs with a long gaff, when he lost his balance and fell into seven feet of water. As he went down for the second time young Paquette quickly straddled a large log, pushed out into the stream and grabbed Laviolette as he came to the surface. His calls for help attracted persons on the shore, and the pair were soon brought to safety.

Speech by Air Marshal Bishop Strikes Note of Patriotism In Hour of Need

Stirring sentiments were voiced by Honorary Air Marshal W. A. Bishop, V.C., D.S.O., M.C., D.F.C., to the Joint Service Clubs of Ottawa last Monday. Following are the words of this distinguished air ace and hero of the last Great War. The speech followed an address by James S. Duncan, Acting Deputy Minister of National Defence for Air. . . .

We meet today with the Service Clubs of the Capital. We meet at a solemn hour. You have just heard speak a great industrialist who is giving of his best to our nation at this time. So are we all according to our capacities and opportunities. We are all serving — although some are amongst those who stand and wait, but the time and the opportunity will come for us all.

This is a day for reflection and avowal — reflection upon the grim events of recent days — and avowal of our solemn, stern, resolute national purpose — that we are together, in Canada, united in a holy crusade — as Christians who love those things that make life worth while.

Yes, today we are paying a bitter price of blood and treasure, because we trusted once more the modern Huns of the modern Attila.

There is no question of the enduring qualities and power of the British race, and it is this endurance which we must call upon today to carry us through this period of trial. We must realize that the technique of this war — the methods of war — have all changed, and we must adapt ourselves to new weapons, new conditions and new tactics.

Amongst all the sinister weapons designed and developed for use against the peoples whom Hitler would crush and destroy, one of the most insidious is the cult of defeatism. In advance of his invasion, Hitler attempts to strike fear into the hearts and minds of the civilian populations, but despite the attempts he has made upon the people of the British Empire and their ally, France, these efforts have been without avail, and the courage of our people remains high; their resolution unshaken — their spirit undaunted.

Yet we must all be on guard against pessimism or defeatism. We must never be morbid — never morose — but always possessing an unshakable confidence. Hitler has not broken our purpose. He has only succeeded in steeling our resolution to fight on until he himself is crushed in defeat.

Twenty-five years ago I was proud to wear the uniform of the Royal Flying Corps. My pride today in wearing Air Force blue is beyond the words of my telling. We felt, those of us in the Flying Services in the last war, that we had done our little bit to start a tradition for a new Service. The bravery, the dauntless courage of the Royal Air Force today, in which so many hundreds and thousands are Canadians, makes every man in the Royal Canadian Air Force thrill with pride that it is his privilege, as it is mine, to wear the same uniform as those gallant lads who, against great odds, are hourly showing the enemy and the world that the spirit of our Force is unbeatable.

This war is a desperate attempt to defeat Britain and France. That they will not do; that they must not do.

Young Man Loses Life In the Season's First Drowning Accident

James Langston, 24-year-old employee in the laboratory at C-I-L, Brownsburg, was victim of the first drowning tragedy reported in the district this season. Langston had been engaged with the Brownsburg company for the past three weeks.

According to evidence heard at an inquest Wednesday morning in MacKimmie's Undertaking Parlor, Langston was one of a party bathing at Campbell's millpond, Dalesville, the previous evening. None of the spectators could tell exactly what happened, but the young man appears to have got into difficulties and sunk in ten feet of water. The accident occurred around 8 p.m. Tuesday. The man's body was discovered by J. Honberger, who was one of the witnesses, and who had arrived that evening to start work at the Brownsburg plant. The body was recovered with the aid of fishing poles. Dr. A. R. Cote, of Brownsburg, and Dr. W. F. McMartin, of Lachute, were summoned and artificial respiration was applied for 2½ hours, but without avail. Dr. McMartin gave his evidence at the inquest. It was also learned that the victim had been unable to swim.

The jury, under direction of Coroner Dr. J. H. Mason, returned a verdict of accidental death and the body was released for burial. Langston, it is reported, was the sole support of his widowed mother, who lives at Verdun. He is survived also by two brothers.

Contact With the Earth Takes Poison Out of Your System

"Contact with the earth is a healthy contact, and when one works the soil with one's hands some vital contact is made which is beneficial to the worker," says Fred H. Williams, assistant test engineer at the C.N.R. Point St. Charles Shops, who is a keen gardener in his spare time. Writing in the Canadian National Magazine, he advises the readers to "get the feel of the earth. And when I say that, I do not mean to get earth-minded; far from it, I mean to get away from things and let our thoughts run free. Contact with the earth in a garden draws the poison out of the system and you become yourself. We cannot all become Burbanks and make things grow to our imaginative desires, but we can gain a great deal by garden work. Anyone can have a garden. Even the humblest can get a vacant lot in which to work the earth, raise flowers and vegetables instead of moping around bewailing the environment in which he is placed."

'DUNKERQUE'

In an editorial entitled simply "Dunkerque," the New York Times said Saturday:

So long as the English tongue survives, the word Dunkerque will be spoken with reverence. For in that harbor, in such a hell as never blazed on earth before, at the end of a lost battle, the rags and blemishes that have hidden the soul of Democracy fell away. There, beaten but unconquered, in shining splendor, she faced the enemy.

They sent away the wounded first. Men died so that others could escape. It was not so simple a thing as courage, which the Nazis had in plenty. It was not so simple a thing as discipline, which can be hammered into men by a drill sergeant. It was not the result of careful planning, for there could have been little. It was the common man of the free countries, rising in all his glory out of mill, office, factory, mine, farm and ship, applying to war the lessons he learned when he went down the shaft to bring out trapped comrades, when he hurled the lifeboat through the surf, when he endured poverty and hard work for his children's sake.

This shining thing in the souls of free men Hitler cannot command, or attain, or conquer. He has crushed it, where he could, from German hearts.

It is the great tradition of Democracy. It is the future. It is victory.

Town Council Deadlocked on Chlorination System for Town's Water Supply

At a regular Town Council meeting last evening the long delayed project for chlorination of the town's water supply received another setback, the council turning down a recommendation of the special committee appointed to select the plant best suited for the town's purpose.

Considerable discussion was held on the relative merits of the various types of chlorination plants, and as chairman of the committee, Ald. F. S. McGibbon recommended the Patterson system as the best. This, however, met with opposition, and a motion to table the recommendation was lost on the vote of 5 to 4, which left the matter still in abeyance.

The Secretary was instructed to send a letter of condolence to the bereaved family of the late Arthur Larocque, who was a former alderman of the council and Mayor of Lachute.

Two petitions for installation of sewers were received by council, from Andrew Elliott and from Eddie Laurin, respectively, both of which were granted.

New Life in the Business Section of Main Street

Two new business enterprises are opening on Main Street this week. Situated almost opposite to each other in a sector which is now brightly lighted and attractive — thanks to all-night illumination of the Gatineau Power showrooms — these new firms are the Venus Café, south side, and North River Motors Ltd., north side in the former Main Garage. . . Advertising announcements regarding the opening of these business firms appears inside this issue. . . The Handy Andy Store makes three new businesses opened in this section.

Robbed Montebello Stores

Breaking and entering three stores and stealing merchandise valued at $100 at Montebello resulted in Joseph Cossett, 35, no address, being sent to penitentiary for two years by Judge Millar, in Hull Court this week. Quebec Police arrested Cossett and laid the charges to which the accused pleaded guilty.

Two New Types of British Bombers on Western Front

Two new types of British warplane, and an invention which greatly assists the bomber when attacked by fighters, have come into action since Germany extended the war to the Low Countries.

The new aircraft, hitherto on the secret list, are Boulton Paul Defiant fighters and Bristol Beaufort bombers. The new invention is the power operated gun turret, now being fitted as standard to bombers and to some fighters.

The Defiants are the first single engined two-seater fighters to make their appearance. They have the new turrets, and one Rolls Royce Merlin engine. The Beauforts, four seater monoplanes with two 1,065 horse power engines, are designed for the triple purpose of bombing, torpedo bombing or reconnaissance; they are a development of the Blenheim bomber.

Britain's scientific development of the power operated gun turret has given the R.A.F. a long lead over the enemy. German bombers are designed to evade fighter attack, using speed and cloud, but the British favour the bomber which can fight it out and then carry on to its objective. Great speed makes it difficult for the gunner to hold his gun against the wind when firing from a window or manual turret, and the bomber needs mobile guns to cope with the more manoeuvreable fighter.

The power operated gun turret is the answer. Within its protection the British gunner can instantly deploy his battery of guns in any direction without the effort of having to withstand the great wind pressure, and therefore with perfectly steady aim. He has "finger control". The new turrets on the Defiant fighters enable them to fire broadside, instead of having to withhold fire until they can face their target as other fighters are compelled to do.

The average weight of rubber in a pneumatic tire is about sixteen and one-half pounds; it requires the total annual output of four or five rubber trees to make each tire.

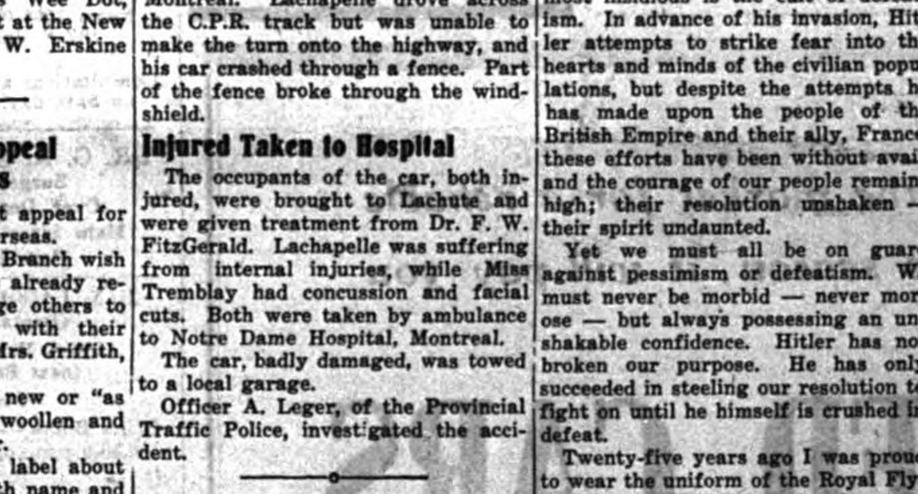

Canada's War Memorial at Vimy Ridge Is Reported in Ruins

Canada's memorial to her Great War dead atop Vimy Ridge has been smashed to pieces in deliberate bombing attacks by the Germans, according to British Tommies returning from Flanders.

One soldier, weary and battled-stained after the bitter rearguard action of the Allies, told this story a few hours after landing in England.

"I stood near the memorial and saw German dive bombers swoop down and release a load of bombs over the memorial," he said. "It was completely shattered. The attack was obviously deliberate."

Ten days previously newspaper correspondents in the battle area had seen the sandbagged memorial intact. At that time the fighting was taking place south of and parallel to Vimy Ridge. A few days later, however, the Germans announced the capture of the Vimy area.

Canada's War Memorial at Vimy Ridge

The memorial, costing $1,000,000 was unveiled in 1936 by King Edward VIII. It was at Vimy Ridge on April 9, 1917, that 100,000 Canadian soldiers stormed to victory. In that week 11,297 officers and men were killed or wounded.

BOMBING IS DENIED

An official statement from Berlin has denied that German bombers damaged the towering Canadian War Memorial at Vimy Ridge and described the report as Allied propaganda designed to whip up Canadian and American anger against Germany.

Grey Paint and 'Skipper' Turn Fisher Craft into Trim Naval Units

Ottawa — When the deck's covered with fish scales, the gas-powered fish boat looks useful but not beautiful. But dress her up with a coat of grey paint, give the commander the rank of "Skipper" and she becomes one of the units of the Royal Canadian Navy and is proud of it ! From a drab she becomes a lady with a certificate of character. Proudly she flies the naval ensign and with her engine beating its slow explosions over the tide, breasts the waters of a coastal port on her way to do a little job for His Majesty.

Up the sharp indented but lengthy fiords of the Pacific Coast she noses her deliberate way, to see all if possible, to hear all, and report "All's well" to headquarters. Every fishing village, Indian village, lumber town, mine centre and logging camp knows her now. The skipper's white-topped naval cap will gleam in the sunshine, his normally uncaring crew in the smart uniforms of regular naval ratings will "tie her to the wharf", gaining new and unaccustomed prestige from their familiars of other days, when they were merely "hands."

That's what a war can do. It can trim the sloppy — used in no depreciatory sense — craft of the fisherman into smart naval units, an analogous procedure on the sea to that on land, by which the peaceful toiler is turned out, in battle dress, a soldier. And as the landsmen can be made to complete his military evolutions smartly and efficiently, so the fishermen's boats can manoeuvre together on the water. In line abreast, in quarter line, in line ahead, these vessels chug-chug their way on order, emulating as smartly and as proudly, their bigger sisters of the service. They can scout, manoeuvre, sweep for mines or lay depth charges against submarines. Their Lewis guns or rifles will shatter the drifting menace of a hostile mine or take care of their own defence.

"Fishermen's Reserve" — that is what they become in official terms. Each has its number and its job. War called them from peace to a job they could do for the country, and there they are, spread from Cape Flattery to Alaska, alert and resourceful. Not wishing it out loud perhaps, but inwardly hoping that, if there is any dirty work by the enemy, they will be there to cope with it.

In boats with which they are familiar, for in most cases they own them, the skippers set out. That is their rank, "Skipper"; and officially their boats are "reserve boats". Their crew usually includes a petty officer and two, three or four seamen, depending on the size of the vessel. These may be reservists with naval experience, but generally they are the hands who have been accustomed to working with the "Skipper" and his boat in peacetime. They all receive as much training as is possible to give them. But this is incidental. Their great value lies in several other qualities of which may be cited, mobility, manoeuvrability in shallow coastal waters, the knowledge of the personnel of the coast, bays, and harbors and their familiarity with all that pretains to the sea.

The Fishermen's Reserve was an inspiration, and its utility in this war is no less pronounced than the pride of the men in being able thus to serve their country.

Annual Meeting of Christian Scientists Held at Boston

Boston, Mass. — An appeal for calm and more faith in the omnipotence of God in the face of world turmoil, featured the gathering of thousands of Christian Scientists from all over the world for the annual meeting of The First Church of Christ Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

"Trusting in the omnipotence of God," said Harry C. Browne, First Reader of The Mother Church in reading a message from The Christian Science Board of Directors, "enables one, through demonstration, to enjoy the freedom of thought resulting from the unfolding of the characteristics of divine Mind as expressed by Christ Jesus."

Church Officers

Mrs. Margaret Murney Glenn Matters, C. S. B., of New York, daughter of the late Major General Edwin F. Glenn, of the United States Army, was elected President of The Mother Church to succeed George Shaw Cook, C. S. B., of Brookline, Mass. Edward L. Ripley of Brookline and Ezra W. Palmer of Marshfield were re-elected Treasurer and Clerk, respectively. The chief duty of the President is to serve as presiding officer at the Annual Meeting.

Unity Divine Might

Commenting on the turbulent international situation, the incoming President said that "Christian Science reveals the power of individual man to meet and overcome the hordes of mesmeric suggestions and subtle influences claiming to induce discouragement and apathy. It enables the Christian Scientist to overcome the belief that war can be of permanent advantage, or that it is to be feared. It destroys the desire for an unrighteous, unjust, and enslaving peace; and it sets right that wrong sense of values which would prefer this so-called peace to that active warfare between the flesh and Spirit which The Mother Church typifies, and which ultimates in the victory of spirituality and Love."

Friendly Press

Reading the report of the Manager of Committees on Publication, Mrs. Florence W. Saunders, Assistant, said that the Committees are grateful "for an increasing manifestation of the spirit of friendliness on the part of the press and of the clergy toward Christian Science. This friendliness is evidenced in the lessening of public attacks on Christian Science, and in an increasing number of requests for speakers on the subject of Christian Science."

THESE MEAN MORE THAN THRIFT !

War Savings Certificates !

The Government could have called them "National Safety Certificates."

For that, in stark truth, is what they are. War Savings Certificates are what, in peace days, we might call a "fine investment." They make for thrift, lay a foundation of security, appeal to the spirit of self-respect and self-reliance. On these grounds, as well as upon the grounds of democratic responsibility, of a wider devotion to the democratic creed of voluntary citizenship, they meet a need.

But, far more than these things, and more terribly vital, War Savings Certificates are a challenge to patriotism. They are a call to all of us, and provide the means for all of us, to answer the challenge of war service; a dictate of war duty which no one can ever expect to be forgiven for ignoring.

War Savings Certificates are OUR share in this war. They ask us whether, in this terrible conflict, with all that we are or ever hope to be at stake, we are content with lip-loyalty to our cause; content with abuse of Hitler; unwilling to make even moderate sacrifice for the sake of all our future.

In war-rocked France today the soldiers of democracy are dying for its defence. Are we willing to back them up ? To deny ourselves things we can yield easily for their sakes ? Are we willing to contribute something to feed and arm them, to sustain their strength, to tell them that back at home their peoples are supporting them ?

This . . . this above all else . . . is the challenge of War Savings Certificates.

Over in Old England across the seas men and women and little children, workers and farmers, old and young, rich and poor, humble and obscure, are yielding their all for victory. Giving up in taxes, subscribing to loans, buying war savings certificates, they are giving a testimony of devotion to democracy and liberty as noble as anything that history has seen. It is for us here in Canada to show whether such devotion is ours, whether democracy and freedom mean as much to us as it does to them.

Let us in these coming weeks give proof of such devotion. Let us make this War Savings Certificates campaign a crusade; telling our Government and men on land and sea and in the air that we fight behind them. It is the least, God knows, that we can do.

DOMINION HOUSING SURVEY IN 1941 CENSUS

A survey of housing in Canada will be made in connection with the 1941 census, according to plans prepared by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

The census takers will ask Canadians about the types of houses they live in, the type of sanitation and the type of heating system. They will inquire whether houses have bathrooms and refrigeration and what kind of fuel is used.

Questions also are set down on the preliminary census form relating to the number of rooms in the houses, the type of construction and the rent paid.

NOISE CAN BOIL AN EGG !

The National Review, London, in a recent issue gave some startling revelations as to the effects of noise. "As a result of the machine age, with which came noise, this latter is today one of the most perplexing of problems, and health authorities everywhere are beginning to realize that noise is as inimical to health as are bacteria and dust and smoke. . . . Recently Drs. E. W. Flosdorf and L. A. Chambers found that sounds are capable of bringing about certain definite chemical changes. They found that shrill sounds projected into a liquid medium coagulated proteins, broke down ethyl acelate to produce acetic acid, cracked vegetable oils with the generation of acetylene gas, and to a slight extent even changed starch into sugar. They demonstrated in a spectacular way that an egg could be soft boiled in a few minutes when subjected to the effects of an intense sound, without raising the temperature. A little later it was found that sounds in the sufersonic region actually killed bacteria." Dr. Chambers continued : "Is it any wonder then, that some people could be driven to insanity, to desperation, to murder, to suicide, by incessant noise ?"

SOUL OF LONDON IS UNCHANGED BY WAR

M. Morand, the well-known French diplomatist and distinguished author, in the course of a speech in London recently, added yet another memorable passage to the literature of our "sovereign city". M. Morand spoke in his native tongue, and the following is a free translation :—

"Modern warfare is powerless to destroy a civilization rooted in time, for its venerable institutions, reared in tranquility by the strength of men and from the fruits of their knowledge, may be shaken but will not fall.

"Neither is it conceivable that bombardment from the air should demolish London, because London is not merely the sum of its streets and houses, not merely an accumulation of quaint relics from the past but a much more subtle unity of spiritual tones as exquisite as the blue of a Whistler, the rose of a Monet, the yellow of a Turner, and of mists lined with copper or gold, and of emotions in which tears shade easily into laughter, and of folk tales handed down from mouth to mouth, and of a very atmosphere in which sentiment is every whit as important as the physical reality.

"Observe, too, that not only has the war not altered London, but that it has plunged her deeply into her past. In the black-out the Cockaigne of Dickens lives again. Pepys and his times are brought closer by the threat of bombs over Thamesmouth. Through the gallantry of her seamen she has recaptured the Elizabethan spirit. With her armies in vigilant array she assumes once again such a place in the military march of western civilization as she has not had since Roman days.

"I have twice seen London in wartime, and I think that every danger adds greatly to her dark beauty. . . . Let us wish London a long life, let us see that it remains unharmed, bequeathing it as a rich legacy unto our issue, a legacy in which greatness and heroism abound."

POLISH AIRMEN ARE FIGHTING WITH ALLIES

By Dr. Stefan Litauer

The bulk of the Polish air force escaped falling into the hands of the German invaders. The majority of the Polish airmen found refuge in neighbouring countries, like Rumania, Hungary, Lithuania and Latvia. Most of them have by now succeeded in reaching the Allies — France and Britain.

The Polish air force has now been formed into two main groups; the fighters in France and the bombers in Great Britain. Over 1500 ofifcers, non-commissioned officers and men are being trained, "somewhere in England".

Among them are pliots of world fame who have flown the Atlantic, on long distances to the Far East and who have been concerned in many other exploits in the air.

The Polish air force in Great Britain wears British Royal Air Force uniforms. The only distinction which makes them recognizable as Poles is a little arm badge with the inscription "Poland", similar to that worn by Canadian airmen.

The Polish air force containing a great majority of trained pilots, observers and ground personnel, is undoubtedly a considerable contribution to the strength of the Royal Air Force. The spirit of the Poles is indomitable; their only desire is to get into the air and to strike at the Germans.

From the lone recruit sentry came a sharp challenge, piercing the night air : "Halt, who's there ?"

"Officer of the Day," was the reply.

There followed a long silence broken by the sound of quick footsteps, stopped by a quick command — "HALT !" —and the unmistakable sound of a rifle safety slipped off. The officer, in a nervous, irritable voice, cried : "Well, well, what do you say now ?"

"I just can't remember," replied the sentry. "But, by gosh, you'd better stand still until I think of it !"

SUB. SKIPPER

Lieut.-Commander Morton C. Mumma, above, is the new skipper of the submarine "Squalus", now recommissioned the "Sailfish". The Squalus" sank last May off Portsmouth, N.H., with a loss of 26 lives.

APPREHENSIVE RUSSIA

(Hamilton Spectator)

Russia will spend $11,000,000,000 on her defences, it is announced. Maybe Finland is getting ready to attack her again.

Some writers to our tabloid press assert that opposition to wet bars in military camps only shows that we do not trust our soldiers. That is a squint-eyed way of looking at the matter. The fact is, we trust our boys, but we don't trust booze !

—Clarion Call

A polite motorists, passing through a western village asked the village policeman : "What is the speed law here, please ?"

"Ain't got none," replied the cop. "You fellers cain't get through here any too fast fer us."

Precision Instrument Aids Eye Operations

A new instrument, which is expected to enable surgeons to transplant a clear cornea to an injured or sightless one in about one-fifth the time it now takes for the delicate operation, has been developed by Dr. Meyer Weiner, retired St. Louis eye surgeon.

Formerly the operation required about an hour and a half and its chances for success were limited. With the new instrument the operation can be completed in 15 minutes and its chances for success greatly increased, it is believed.

Cornea operations have been performed for 45 years, but only in the past 10 or 15 years were they relatively successful. Cutting out the cornea segment for transplantation had to be done with ordinary surgical instruments and making the segment fit into the eye in which it was transplanted was difficult.

Instead of cutting and fitting by hand, Dr. Weiner's instrument enables the surgeon to cut and fit the segment by a precision instrument. It also enables the surgeon to obtain a segment with a beveled edge which must remain in place after transplantation.

The instrument, under Dr. Weiner's supervision, was used in the successful operation on the eye of a blind woman in a Los Angeles hospital recently.

Grenville Friends Mourn Lady Missionary Who Died in India

Grenville — Miss Sarah E. Morrow, missionary for over 40 years in India, passed away on April 28th and was buried on Easter Sunday near Doddallapur, India.

She was born in Grenville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Morrow, and spent her early life in this place, attending public school and Sunday School and the Methodist Church. She was a great Bible student often reciting two hundred verses on a Sunday. Her desire was to be a missionary when a little girl, but circumstances prevented her for some years from crossing the ocean. However, she did much mission work in Montreal, helping to start the Tabernacle Mission with Mr. King and others from the First Baptist Church.

She was baptized by the Rev. P. H. McEwen in 1887, in Grenville at the time the Grenville Baptist Church was organized through evangelistic services conducted by C. J. Vining, student minister.

Later Miss Morrow attended the Gordon Training School in Boston. From the Home Mission Board in Toronto, she was sent out to India by way of London, England, where she visited friends. After spending seven years, she returned to Canada for one year on furlough, returning again to India.

Although a sufferer from rheumatism, the climate of India suited her, and she lived to serve her Master.

This community would have welcomed her again in another year or so, when her sister, Miss Melissa E. Morrow, also a missionary in India under the American Baptist Board, had expected to retire and bring her to Montreal.

Besides her sister, she leaves one brother, John, in Poughkeepsie, N.Y.; one niece, Dora King; and many other relatives.

LATE MRS. SIDNEY PHILION

Grenville —

The funeral of the late Mrs. Sidney Philion took place on Saturday morning from her late residence to the Roman Catholic Church, interment following at Calumet. She was formerly Miss Dolly Howard, and was much loved by all who knew her. She leaves one son, Fred, also a brother in California, and a half-sister in Ottawa, besides other relatives and friends.

LATE MRS. J. BOYD

Grenville —

The funeral of Mrs. J. Boyd was held on May 30th in Grenville. The service was conducted by the Rev. K. N. Brueton in St. Matthew's Church. She was laid to rest beside her husband in the Scotch Road Cemetery.

Mrs. Boyd died in Watertown, N.Y., where she had lived for several years. She has a son and daughter living in that place, also a daughter in Ottawa and a son living in this community, to whom deep sympathy is extended. The remains were brought here by motor hearse.

HOW THE SCOUTS FILL HOSPITAL BAGS

For their latest country-wide war service effort, the filling of Red Cross "Hospital Bags," Boy Scouts of the Dominion are raising the necessary funds, approximately $1.10 per bag, by patrols. That is, each Troop patrol of eight boys is asked to supply the necessary toilet necessities involved — toothbrush and paste, comb, small shaving kit, facecloth, writing paper and pencil. The Wolf Cub Packs associated with Scout Troops are being asked to supply "hussifs," or small needle-and-thread repair kits. It is expected that the Hospital Bags will be forwarded to the hospitals in France and Belgium, and presented to wounded men brought in from forward casualty clearing stations without kit of any kind. This very practical war service good turn was first discovered and taken up by the Scouts of Moncton, N.B.

LATE MRS. JOHN A. GOOD

The death of Mrs. John A. Good, of Shrewsbury, occurred on Saturday in the Western Division of the Montreal General Hospital. Mrs. Good was formerly Emily Seaward, and was in her 60th year.

The funeral was held on Monday at St. John's Church, service being conducted by the Rev. C. W. P. Baugh, assisted by Mr. H. G. Baugh.

The funeral was largely attended. Among those present were a delegation from the Argenteuil Conservative Association and from the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association, also friends from Montreal and Ormstown. There were many floral offerings.

SELF SEALING GAS TANK PROTECTS PLANES

Foamed Rubber Is Armour Against Machine Guns

Foamed rubber as an armour for airplane tanks is a striking adaption of British industrial research to war service.

In peace time this special preparation was applied to a wide range of upholstery from the seats of London's fleet of 'buses to the fauteuils of the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre at Stratford-on-Avon.

It is produced from the milk of the rubber tree brought in special tankers from Malay which, after being chemically treated, is beaten up by a machine like a huge egg whisk and then run into moulds.

The inclusion of the material in the covering of a plane's gasoline tank gives a novel protection against machine gun bullets. When a bullet hits the tank the leaking petrol sets the rubber swelling almost immediately and seals up the bullet's hole.

HORSE SALE MAKES NEWS RECALLING FORMER TIMES

Halifax, N.S. — Despite mechanization, the horse yet plays a part in Canadian rural economy and recently there was staged at Annapolis the first sale that had been held for years. In reporting the event the Agricultural Department of the C.N. Rlys. stated that prices were good especially for 17 Nova Scotia bred horses. Annapolis County is noted in history as containing the first settlement in North America north of Florida, that laid out by Champlain at Port Royal. A replica of the original "habitation" has been constructed and tourists may learn something of the conditions under which the original French settlers began life in the new land.

R. C. A. M. C. ACQUIRES EXPERIENCE TREATING SOLDIERS IN CANADA

Ottawa — Today throughout Canada, wherever troops are centered, members of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps are acquiring invaluable experience in casualty clearing stations, military and field hospitals, clinics and inspection rooms.

Typical of such establishments is No. 5 Casualty Clearing Station in Ottawa. It is called Porter's Island Military Hospital and stands on a little nob of land which juts out of the smooth-flowing waters of the Rideau River. It has been dubbed "Little Alcatraz" by a joking Highlander. The name stuck. Like its better known namesake, it is a trap, but a trap for germs, where sickness, aches and pain find it hard to survive.

A former small-pox isolation hospital, although only one case was treated in eleven years, Porter's Island Hospital is under the command of Lieut. Colonel W. W. McKay. Ninety officers and men of all ranks man the Station, which has a capacity of 106 beds and serves the whole Ottawa Area Command. All branches of the service are treated at Porter's Island, a total of about three thousand men. Since the No. 5 C.C.S. unit took over in late October, 1939, over 2,700 have been treated.

The Station contains four wards, each having its own dispensary. One ward is restricted to special contagious cases, where patients are kept entirely isolated until completely cured.

The personnel includes specalists in radiology, surgery and anesthetics. Nine Nursing Sisters are attached to the unit. They are also acquiring experience, like all members of the unit's personnel. This experience will prove invaluable when No. 5 C.C.S. sees service overseas.

Apple Blossom Time In Nova Scotia

The 8th Annual Annapolis Valley Apple Blossom Festival at Kentville, Nova Scotia, was held last week-end. The program included parades, dances, musical programs, all in the unsurpassed setting of the Annapolis Valley at the peak of the apple blossom season. The festival is a spectacular prelude to the Maritime Provinces tourist season.

A number of the Boy Scout Troops in New South Wales meet camping and other troop expenses by washing gold from "pay dirt" secured in the old abandoned placer mines near Gulgong.

NORFOLK'S BOY SCOUT FORESTRY CAMP

A grant of $75 was made by the Norfolk County Council toward the incidental expenses of the Boy Scouts Association, in establishing the new Norfolk County Forestry Camp for Boy Scouts of southwestern Ontario. The camp was held at the Forestry Station, St. Williams, May 16-17.

SCOUTS GATHER 50 TRUCKS OF CLOTHING

Nearly 50 truckloads of used clothing were gathered by Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs, under the direction of Scout leaders, in the annual April collection of the Greater Winnipeg Back-to-the-Land Assistance Association. The clothing will be renovated and distributed during the year to some 1,600 families. Service clubs supplied additional cars, which were manned by Girl Guides.

KINDNESS TO DUMB ANIMALS, NOTWITHSTANDING THE WAR

Illustrating that the pressure of the war has not submerged humanitarian thought for animals, a Group Scoutmaster, a Methodist minister, Rev. G. W. Holmes, of Helperby, Yorkshire, was credited with the very difficult rescue of a heavy shire horse which had fallen into the River Swale on a severely cold January morning. The horse was in a very difficult position, below a steep bank, but rather than see the animal destroyed, the clergyman Scouter organized rescue operations, and after 24 hours of most difficult effort under very trying weather conditions, succeeded in getting the horse on its feet and up the steep and frozen river bank, with the aid of ropes. The incident provided an inspiring example of the carrying out of the Sixth Scout Law, — "A Scout is a Friend to Animals."

THE SCOUT ROLL OF HONOUR

The Roll of Honour of former Scouts and Scout Leaders who have given their lives in the King's Service appears monthly in the Dominion's official Scout magazine, "The Scout Leader." The list already approaching a hundred, includes three Canadians. They are Rev. J. D. Cree, Chaplain of H.M.S. Royal Oak, formerly an Assistant Cubmaster and Scoutmaster of the Church of the Redeemer Scout Group, London Ont.; John White, Royal Air Force, formerly a Scout in a Belleville Troop, and Albert C. Maneton, Royal Air Force, formerly of the 105th Toronto (St. James-Bond United Church) Group. Many are English and Scottish Scouts who are serving on H.M.S. Royal Oak, Courageous, Rawalpindi. Several were casualties of H.M.S. Exeter during the fight with the Graf Spee.

Innovation at Johns-Manville World's Fair Exhibit

VISITORS TO WITNESS RADIO BROADCASTING

At the New York World's Fair Johns-Manville Company will this year give many visitors their first opportunity to go "behind the scenes" of radio broadcasting. According to W. M. Cottingham, distributor for Johns-Manville products here, WMCA, popular New York radio station, will broadcast many of its most interesting programs and special Fair events right from the Johns-Manville Building.

Mr. Cottingham stated that Station WMCA is planning to put on some of its best known programs from the model theatre in this building, including "quiz" programs, and broadcasts of the Town Hall type, where vital issues confronting the American people today will be discussed. In addition there will be presented musical and variety programs featuring Broadway stars and radio headliners. Many of the radio dramas for which Station WMCA is famous will also be broadcast for the entertainment of Fair visitors.

Those who travelled to the Fair last year will remember the air-conditioned and comfortable model theatre in the Johns-Manville Building. This year the radio broadcasts from this theatre will offer friends and customers of Johns-Manville dealers throughout the country an interesting experience and make their visit to the Fair a memorable one.

"For its educational value alone, the Johns-Manville exhibit should be on the 'must-see' list of every person who visits the Fair," states Mr. Cottingham. "Situated in the midst of the 'Shelter Group' of buildings on the Fair grounds, near the village of model homes known as the 'Town of Tomorrow' the J-M Building features the newest materials and techniques of home building and remodelling. New ideas for the modern homes of tomorrow are shown today."

"After the new, progressive ideas, techniques and materials on exhibit in the 'Shelter' section of the Fair have been seen, any home-owner will have a better idea of what he can have in a home today or how he can modernize his present home at low cost."

SUBMARINE CABLE WELL PROTECTED

Montreal — A typical submarine cable consists of five parts, according to the Canadian National Telegraphs, who have cable service connections to all parts of the world. The central copper wire which carries the electric current is about 1-5 of an inch in diameter. In the new Western Union-Anglo permalloy cable, the fastest which the ingenuity of man has yet devised, the central core is wrapped with a thin, narrow tape of a new magnetic alloy of nickel and iron called permalloy.

This central portion is protected by an insulation of gutta-percha. Cables laid more than fifty years ago in depths of more than two miles have been recently lifted for repairs, and the gutta-percha found to be in perfect condition. Over this is applied a "serving" of several layers of tarred jute or yarn, and over this an armor of as many as 18 galvanized steel wires to protect the precious conductor from damage by ships' anchors and the many strains to which it is subjected. The outside covering of a cable is a wrapping of tarred jute yarns.

Modern Pied Piper

Sutton Cooper of Evansville, Ind., is a modern Pied Piper, but he doesn't carry a flute. His implement is a woven wire trap of his own design and it will catch—and hold—up to five rats at a time.

Cooper developed the trap after, as he said, the vermin began "holding conventions in my back yard."

"I tried all sorts of tricks without results. Then I determined to build my own trap. I worked for 18 months before I had something that would really catch them."

The trap is made of woven wire with a door set at a 45 degree angle at one end. When the rats enter they trip a valve which closes the door. If another rat steps on the runway the door opens to permit it to enter and then closes again.

150 MILES TO GALLON OF GASOLINE

On Britain's War Time Roadsters

Bicycles in Britain have recently taken unto themselves tiny air-cooled engines of one horse power. More than 10,000 of them were made last year and when war broke out a dozen British manufacturers producing these motorized bicycles were flooded with orders from overseas.

These economical infants of the war-time roads are improved pedal cycles rather than inferior motor cycles, and are officially known as "autocycles", although they are nicknamed "Wilfreds".

Their extreme economy does not make so strong an appeal abroad as in Britain, but people overseas have been quick to realize their other good points, such as ease in handling. They can be propped against kerbs, parked in sheds, pushed through narrow doorways and lifted up steps.

Yet they are certainly not toys, for they will carry a 170-pound rider up a gradient of 1 in 15 without pedal assistance, travel up to 30 miles an hour, and achieve up to 150 miles to one gallon of gasoline and lubricating oil mixture.

The power unit used in most makes is produced in an imposing model factory which has made more than 500,000 engines now giving good service to men and women in five continents.

It's the greatest unsolved problem of every modern schoolboy why the dead languages were never buried properly.

COD LIVERS BEING PUT UP IN CANS

Halifax, N.S. — Of greater medicinal value than the oil itself, cod livers are now being put up in cans, according to the Industrial Department of the C.N. Rlys. The strictly fresh livers are washed in cold water, salted in a brine to which has been added 2.5 per cent of potassium nitrate. To meet the anticipated demand due to interruption in supplies from Norway a cod liver oil plant is being erected at Port Saxon, N.S.

PRESBYTERIAN Y. P. S.

The closing meeting of the Presbyterian Young People's Society was held last evening, with about 25 members attending. Following the customary devotional period, the business meeting wound up all the activity until fall. An election of a Secretary-Treasurer highlighted the evening's agenda, the present officer, Miss Helen McFaul, now vacationing in Winnipeg, being succeeded by Miss E. Black, who will finish the current season and carry on for the next year.

The final results of the moving pic. ture entertainment proved very satisfactory, and surpassed the intended objective by a slight margin. The annual contribution of $25 toward maintainance of the hall was unanimously passed. Although a report was not available, the Society has strongly upheld its financial status, and leaves a substantial legacy to the Society of the future.

A social hour or two were spent and carpet bowling, with refreshments rounding out the evening. Meetings are now suspended until sometime in September, when it is hoped that all the old members, and quite a few new ones, will carry on.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

"God the Only Cause and Creator" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday, June 9th.

The Golden Text is from Jeremiah 32:17. "Ah Lord God ! behold, thou hast made the heaven and the earth by thy great power and stretched out thine arm, and there is nothing too hard for thee."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible : "I know that, whatsoever God doeth, it shall be for ever : nothing can be put to it, nor anything taken from it ; and God doeth it, that men should fear before him." (Eccl. 3:14).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy : "The fading forms of matter, the mortal body and material earth, are the fleeting concepts of the human mind. . . . When we realize that Life is Spirit, never in nor of matter, this understanding will expand into selfcompleteness, finding all in God, good, and needing no other consciousness." (Pages 263, 264).

BISHOP OF SASKATCHEWAN VISITS ST. SIMEON'S

The Right Reverend Henry Martin, Bishop of Saskatchewan, accompanied by the Rev. F. H. Wilkinson rector of the Church of St. James the Apostle, Montreal visited St. Simeon's Church on Tuesday evening and gave a most interesting account of his work in his diocese of 92,000 square miles. He spoke of the needs of the Church in that striving area, and the spirit of the people to establish churches for the sake of their children. He thanked the W.A. for their bales of clothing and other help, which meant so much to them.

The deanery was represented by members from Ste. Agathe, Morin Heights, St. Andrews East and Arundel these were afterwards entertained at the rectory.

ITALY'S FOOD SHORT, PRICES ARE SOARING

Prices continue to rise sharply in Italy. From one end of the peninsula to the other correspondents complain of the failure of crops, in part because of the intense cold of last winter; in part because of drought. In the north especially, many farmers state that they will plant only enough grain for next year's seed since grain is now so dear. A correspondent declares that fodder is scarce and cattle diseased. "The crops are ruined", he writes, "burned dry. We have not been able to make bread for eight days now as we couldn't find flour."

Among Italian peasants, bread is an essential part of every meal.

Scarcity is reported to be greater than in the war of 1914-18. Soap is rationed at one cake a week. Cement is so dear in some districts that building has stopped.

In other districts, all building materials have been requisitioned for fortifications.

Metal Objects Produced By 'Powder Metallurgy'

A new process for the manufacture of metal objects is now available to industry, writes Phillip H. Smith in the Scientific American. It permits the alloying of metals without the customary melting and casting, while entirely new compositions can be produced from such unrelated materials as metals and abrasives.

This process is called powder metallurgy; and although it has been known and used for more than a quarter century, it is only now coming into its own as a tool of production. In a matter which seems as simple as filling a physician's prescription (but isn't) it provides your automobile with oilless bearings, clutch facings and spark plug inserts. It offers your home and your family radio tube parts, lamp filaments, dental alloys, warming-pad mixtures and permanent waves, while to science and industry it contributes X-ray targets, welding electrodes, grinding wheels and other essential products. The art, which is characterized by the compression of metals in the nonfluid state (powder), seems now to be on the eve of further commercial expansion.

Developing satisfactory methods for powdering and refining metals to approach some measure of standardization has been a long process and an essential step in the new metallurgy. Out of these labors have come 11 basic processes. The grinding process produces powders by crushing in stamp, ball or attrition mills and is quite simple. Brittle and tough metals can be handled in this manner, but malleable metals must be stamped. Atomizing, on the other hand, requires forcing a thin stream of molten metal through an orifice and then hitting it with a stream of steam or compressed air. This method permits a close control of powder size. Still another process which permits close control is that of reduction from the compounds, in particular the oxides, chlorides and hydrides, using temperatures below that which will melt the metal.

At the moment the leading application of powder metallurgy is in production of ductile metal from tungsten, molybdenum and tantalum, and in making cemented carbide tools, porous structures, electrical contact and electrode materials. But if it is true that a way has been found to get sufficient pressures with economy for large area work, and if the complex dies now in process of development and experimentation prove satisfactory, the way will be open for the manufacture of many more metal parts and products.

ALLERGY TO CERTAIN FOOD A CAUSE OF STOMACH-ACHE

When a child has a stomach-ache, it does not always mean that the trouble is in his stomach. As a matter of fact the chances are about five to one that the pain is not in his stomach at all, but rather that the intestines are causing the trouble.

According to Doctor J. W. Amesse, of Denver, Colorado, sensitivity to foods, or allergy, as it is called, is sometimes the cause for pain in the abdomen. This allergy seems to occur much more often in children than it does in grownups, possibly because there is less acid in the stomach of the children who have this sensitivity. And when the symptoms of allergy do develop they are due probably to some swelling of the lining membrane of the bowel, as well as to a contraction of the muscles in the bowel.

Following the taking of a food to which the youngster is sensitive, he may develop symptoms such as feeling of heaviness or burning in the stomach,and, perhaps, vomiting. There may be colicky pains, diarrhea, or frequent bowel movements.

In some cases of severe allergy, there may be gripping pains and bloody bowel movements. Girls seem to have the condition more often than boys.

In a study of 50 patients with allergy, it was found that the pain occurred about as often in one part of the abdomen as in another. Twenty-four of the 50 patients had severe cramps.

To make a diagnosis of this condition, a careful study is necessary. There is a tendency of allergy to run in families.

So it is important to determine whether or not any members of the child's family have such conditions as hay fever, asthma, eczema or hives, conditions which are due to allergy.

In the disturbances produced by allergy, fever, as a rule, does not occur. However, in many instances, there is an increase in certain of the white blood cells. Furthermore, there is no stiffness or rigidity of the muscles in the wall of the abdomen as occurs in appendicitis or other infections within the abdomen.

Once it has been determined by a careful examination, including X-rays of the stomach and bowel, that the trouble is due to allergy, the question arises as to what food or substance may be producing the symptoms, and a number of methods are used to find out. One way is to make skin tests—that is, extracts from the various foods and drugs are injected into the skin, or are rubbed into scratches on the skin. If a red ring occurs at the spot of injection, or around the scratch, within 15 minutes, it is likely the child is sensitive to the particular food extract used.

Another method is to employ what are known as elimination diets. These diets supply a certain group of foods. For example, one diet contains only corn cereals; another contains only oats or wheat. These diets are used in turn and the reactions are noted. If one particular type of diet seems to bring on the symptoms, it is likely the foods in this diet are the ones to which the child is sensitive.

The elimination diets should be used only under the direction of the doctor, since the continued use of any diet which supplies only one single group of foods may lead to a lack in the body of many important vitamins and minerals. If the physician controls the use of these diets, he can give various vitamins and minerals to keep such a deficiency from developing.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Glands and Superfluous Hair

What glandular changes occur when there is a sudden growth of superfluous hair on the chin and lips ?
—L. J.

Answer—While it is believed that a disturbance of the glandular secretions may cause the appearance of superfluous hair, there is no definite evidence that this is the cause. It is thought that, perhaps, some disturbance of the adrenal glands, located above the kidneys, may be responsible.

Vitamin B-1

I have heard so much about vitamin B-1 promoting appetite I wonder if you can tell me how I can give it to my 8-year-old child ? —Worried

Answer—Vitamin B-1 may be given in the form of tablets or as a liquid mixture. The doctor will advise the exact form in which it is to be used and will give you a prescription for it.

"Cracking" in Joints

Can you tell me why my bones make a cracking noise ? It is embarrassing and if possible I would like to get rid of it. —M.B.

Answer—The cracking is probably not in the bones but in the joints. Cracking in the joints is generally due to the fact that there has been a disturbance, known as fibrositis, in the ligaments. This causes the ligaments to become somewhat shorter. When the bones move, the ligaments are stretched, causing the cracking sound. There is no need to worry about this condition, as it will cause no trouble.

Infected Tonsils and Weak Heart

I have a little girls 8 years old who has badly infected tonsils. They must be removed. She has a very weak heart. What is your advice ?
—Mrs. A. P.

Answer—If the doctor advises the removal of the tonsils, you should have it done. Infected tonsils may be the source for further damage to the heart, since germs and their poisons may be taken up from the tonsils by the blood and carried to the heart. Rheumatic fever or rheumatic heart disease may be started in just this way.

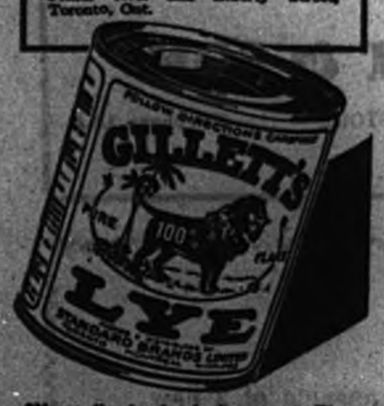

The physician will advise you when the child's condition has improved to such an extent that operation may be safely carried out.

Movie Influence : In a recent history test in a Flatbush school, one of the questions was "Name two important figures of the Civil War." The majority of pupils replied : "Rhett Butler and Scarlett O'Hara."

"MIGNON"

By Charles Ambroise Thomas
Text by Barbier and Carré
First produced in Paris in 1866
Scene : Germany and Italy

Mignon, of noble birth, was stolen when very young by a band of gypsies. Her mother died soon afterwards, and her father, disguised as a harper named Lotario, wanders throughout the countryside in search of his daughter.

At a German inn, a troupe of actors are resting, among whom are Filina and Laertes, who are to entertain at a prince's castle nearby.

A wandering gypsy band arrive, and Mignon is with them. Giarno, the leader, orders Mignon to dance, but being exhausted, she refuses, and the enraged leader rushes at her. The old harper protects her, and Giarno attacks him, but Wilhelm Meister, a student, rescues both Mignon and Lotario.

They follow in the suite of Filina, and Wilhelm engages Mignon as his page. He is kind to her, and she falls in love with him, but meanwhile, Wilhelm has become infatuated with Filina.

The troupe arrive at the castle, and Wilhelm requests Mignon to wait outside. Jealously upset, she attempts to throw herself into the lake, but is restrained by hearing notes from the harp of Lotario. She goes to him for help, and in despair invokes vengeance upon those in the castle.

After the entertainment, Filina sends Mignon into the castle to get some forgotten flowers. Soon afterwards, flames are seen from the windows of the castle, as Lotario, maddened by his grief, sets fire to the building. Mignon is overcome by smoke, and Wilhelm rushes into the castle and rescues her.

They journey to Lotario's home in Italy, where Wilhelm realizes Mignon's devotion to him. On seeing a girdle that Mignon used to wear as a child, and hearing a prayer that his wife had taught Mignon when a girl, Lotario is at last rewarded in his long search for his daughter, and in his joy blesses the union of Wilhelm and Mignon.

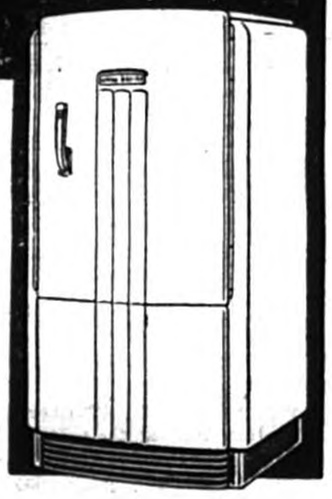

It is estimated that 219,428,000 dozens of eggs were laid by 23,790,000 hens on Canadian farms during 1934.

MUSIC FESTIVALS

Music Festivals are one of our newest and best forms of education, for both old and young. Festival is a better choice of term than Competition, as although there is the competition, the main idea should not be to win but to do the best possible and to enjoy the performances of others and to learn from them. One who has never been at a Festival might think it would be monotonous hearing the same thing over and over. This is not the case as the performance and interpretations differ so. The adjudicators have a trying task but any I have heard have been helpful and kindly. We can all learn a great deal from the comments. When it is possible the Festivals should broadcast, to give those at home a chance to profit. Nothing is more maddening though when they are broadcast to have them broken off in the middle of the adjudicator's remarks so that some piffling program can go on the air. I have heard this done and a program of records follow. Any advertiser would gain friends by relinquishing his period to allow the Festival broadcast to be continued. Festivals are growing larger each year and if there is not one in your neighborhood what can you do about starting one ?

BUY CANADIAN

Women are fairly burning up with their desire to do something to help win the war. It is not a spectacular thing but we can all help by buying Canadian and British products. To help the rate of exchange we need to keep our money at home. Buying Canadian things gives needed work to our own people. If we cannot buy Canadian things let us try our best to buy British. Money is needed and even the little we may buy will help. When the War-certificates are on sale we can all try to do without in order to have money to buy them. We are apt to think that the little we can do does not amount to anything, but many a mickle makes a muckle.

RUN BY ELECTRICITY

What a difference electricity has made in our lives. Here we are living in the country with every city convenience. Our water comes from a spring, and is pumped by an electric pump and flows from the taps just as it did in the city. The house is heated by an oil furnace which has an electric pump. It is marvellous to be able to set a dial at the temperature you want and then to have the house stay at that temperature. We do our cooking on an electric stove. We set the oven dial at the degree of heat we want and it automatically stays there. Our floors and our furniture are cleaned by an electrically driven vacuum cleaner. We wash and iron by electricity. An electric mixer helps prepare our food. And I have said nothing about the light we see by. When electricity gives us every convenience and motor cars and good roads give us easy transportation, it is no wonder people are moving out of the cities. I am curious to see our first bill as the rate here is five times as great as it was in Ottawa.

PINEAPPLE SNOW PUDDING

2 tablespoons granulated gelatine, ½ cup pineapple juice, 1 cup boiling water, ¾ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 egg whites, ½ cup diced marshmallows, 1 cup diced pineapple.

Soak the gelatine in the pineapple juice for five minutes. Add the boiling water and sugar and stir until dissolved. Cool, add the lemon juice and chill until slightly thickened. Beat with a rotary egg beater until frothy, then add the stiffly beaten egg whites and beat until the mixture will stand in peaks. Add the pineapple and marshmallows and pile up in sherbet glasses. Chill and serve with whipped cream. If fresh pineapple is used it must be cooked, as pineapple contains an enzyme which destroys the thickening properties of gelatine.

THAT REMINDS ME

Back in the days when no one minded walking a mile or two to a picnic, we used to open the picnic season the 24th of May with a picnic to Lover's Lane. Jelly powders were not used as commonly as they are now and I thought a Lemon Jelly would be a treat. I made one and put it in a gem jar for easy carrying. Just before pouring it in I noticed some pineapple in a dish and I thought a little added to the jelly would be an improvement, so I stirred some in. When it came time to start to the picnic the jelly had not set. It seemed strange as that had never happened before. It was a warm day and I thought perhaps that was the reason. So I lugged it along anyway and put it in a cold spring. Instead of setting it got thinner and thinner. I learned my lesson early in life and have never forgotten that gelatine will never set with fresh pineapple.

BEAUTY

By Helen Jameson (Mme. Qui Vive)

TO TAN OR NOT TO TAN

Make your choice now : will you have a lovely gardenia complexion or do you want to be a golden girl ? Is it your ambition to join the sun worshippers, get as brown as a berry, have cat fits next autumn when your face goes patchy ? If you desire to look like a gypsy, it might be well to go into the subject of skin toasting, be informed concerning the results of sun bathing.

The first exposure should be brief and the skin surface should be oiled. Brunettes are less affected than blondes, whose cutaneous coats are delicate and thin. But even the brown-eyed beauties must not indulge in prolonged flirtations with Mr. Sun, whose kisses sometimes make blisters. Wait until the epidermis has become acclimated. That sunlight creates energy, has favorable reactions on the spirit as well as the body, is well known. But take it first in small doses.

Don't use soap and water directly before going out; don't use it immediately after coming in, when a light oil should be applied and then removed with tissues before slapping on the paint and calcimine. Even the best soap leaves the skin slightly sensitive because it removes the natural oil which is a protective agent. When washing the face be gentle, use a soft towel for drying.

The wise woman will be content if her complexion takes on a pleasing creaminess. To collect a brown coat on face, neck and arms is to change the texture of the skin, making it coarse and leathery. Once it is in that condition it is almost impossible to restore the delicacy of its normal state.

Burning is dangerous. There is always a chance of abrasions when blisters form, therefore a chance of infection. If the amount of skin affected is considerable one is just about ready for the doctor's services.

Young persons who are afflicted with blackheads and pimples often find that these troubles disappear in the summer season. The warm rays of the sun dry up the pustles, probably discourage the bacteria that is present.

Somehow the bronzed lady doesn't quite fit into the fashion picture. All right in sport's clothes, but when she assumes those lovely, fluffy trappings for the merry evening that have been recalled from the days of our grandmother's girlhood, she shouldn't be a nutty-brownie. Why go to extremes, anyway ? Why not enjoy the sunlight, revel in its health benefits and still keep the skin in a fairly normal state ? That can be done by the free use of sun tan oils. Use them during the period of exposure, let then remain on for an hour or so afterward. And don't forget to protect your eyes with dark glasses.

Shaping Up for Summer

By Helen Jameson (Mme. Qui Vive)

Beautiful dry goods, cleverly cut, can disguise figure defects. Smart dressmakers turn that trick often enough. They use slenderizing fabrics and colors, utilize slick lines and foxy draperies that hide the bumps. Grand. But they can't do anything about a bathing suit, there not being enough of it to do anything with. It is cruelly revealing. Tummy shelves, hips like the spreading chestnut tree, fatted calves — there they are ! And the poor darling who must bear with them does not enjoy gamboling on the beach. She ducks under and stays there. When she emerges from the sparkling waves she wraps herself in her bathing robe and wishes she were a skinny slimp.

All she needs is will power for figure reform. She must deny herself some of the good things of the table no matter how much her appetite craves them. She must get a certain amount of exercise. No need buckling down to strenuous routines; they aren't necessary. She has been feeding her fat cells and if she stops doing that they'll starve to death.

Overweight slows up activities. It is no help to the health. Unless it is caused by a glandular disturbance there is no need of enduring it.

The plumpish lady can eat heartily if she slows up on fats, sweets and starches. She should lessen the intake of cream, butter, olive oil, pastries, ice cream, potatoes, white bread, take tea and coffee clear. Not much of a hardship after she gets used to it. The rewards are worth the sacrifice. Reducing should go on slowly, so the tissues of the face won't soften. Take off six or seven pounds a month and there will be no fatigue. A woman will feel better, more like swinging the world around by the tail.

Exercises that tighten the muscles of the midsection are on the daily schedule. Fat seems to be looking for a central location. It selects the tummy, hips or thighs.

Fifteen minutes each day should be devoted to the following exercises : before beginning them take careful measurements. Lose half an inch and you'll feel encouraged.

Squat and spread the feet far apart, place the hands on the hips. Lower the body, sending the knees far out at the sides; lift the body slowly. Keep on the toes all the time, or as long as you can.

Lie on the floor with the head against the wall. Lift the legs, without bending the knees, until you touch the wall with your toes.

Stand with feet five inches apart. Hold the hands out at the sides in a line with the shoulders. Touch the floor with one hand, then with the other.

Annual Convention of the Que. Women's Institutes

The annual convention of Quebec Women's Institutes meets at Macdonald College on June 25, 26, 27. A special speaker from the Department of Agriculture is expected to address the convention on Tuesday evening, and Wednesday night will be known as Education Night, under the direction of Mr. Alex Sim, Lennoxville Adult Education Centre.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN
Famous Authority on Good Manners and Good Taste

WEDDING MENU NEED NOT SHOW LACK OF IMAGINATION

A breakfast menu should be served at a very early morning wedding. The first course might consist of fruit in some form, slices of melon, iced grapefruit, orange juice. Then, usually, eggs, perhaps scrambled, with thin slices of crisp bacon or eggs baked in ramekins. Tiny hot biscuits or rolls, toast, or toasted English muffins; marmalade or jam of some kind, or guava jelly; and hot coffee.

What is referred to as a "wedding breakfast", although the menu is a typical luncheon menu, is served after a later morning wedding, for example a High Noon wedding, or one that takes place before one o'clock. This may be a sit-down meal, at a large table or separate small tables, but usually the buffet service is more convenient.

If the service is buffet, the table is set as for an afternoon tea, and the wedding (bride's) cake, if there is to be no bridal table, is used as the centerpiece. The flowers used on this table are usually all-white, although sometimes white and pink or white and pale yellow flowers are used.

The first course might be fruit cocktail, or hot or jellied consomme. Hot dishes appropriate to serve for seated or buffet service are : chicken a la King on toast; lobster or crab Newburg; creamed chicken with mushrooms; chicken or shrimp patties; chicken croquettes.

Appropriate cold dishes are : an aspic of chicken or tomato, or celery salad; ham mousse; sliced cold meats with salads or tomato surprise. Deviled eggs or asparagus tips with vinagrette dressing may be used. And of course there is the perennial chicken or lobster salad; appropriate relishes should be served. There should be finger rolls (split and buttered and heated) or tiny biscuits, or thin bread-and-butter sandwiches or sandwiches with simple fillings. The coffee service is usually placed on a side table, as is the champagne or punch or a substitute cold drink.

Dessert is usually ice cream or an ice. This may be served in individual molds appropriate to the occasion. There are dishes of fancy cakes, perhaps little cakes iced in white or white and pink. Or only the bride's cake may be served with the ice cream.

On the table, for decoration as well as for taste, are dishes of mints, bonbons, glace nuts, crystallized grapefruit or orange slices, frosted mint leaves, crystal mints, or candy rose petals, white or pink or both.

At the afternoon or evening reception the menu may be similar or it may be as simple as you wish — one dish such as chicken a la King with small rolls, or a choice of chicken or lobster salad, with rolls or bread-and-butter and assorted sandwiches; ice cream, bride's cake, and coffee.

After an informal afternoon wedding, tea with coffee as an alternative and appropriate tea-foods may be served; thin sandwiches of assorted kinds, little cakes. After an informal evening wedding, sandwiches, small cakes, coffee may be served, perhaps the bride's cake and ice cream.

POURING TEA

Dar Mrs. Beeckman :—

As many times as I have attended formal teas, I have never paid particular attention to the proper method of pouring.

1—Are there any set rules for pouring ? Is the lemon placed on the edge of the cup when desired ?

2—Those who pour and those in the receiving line (and I am also in the receiving-line) are to wear long dresses, semi-formal, of course. Is it customary to wear a hat and gloves ? If a hat is necessary, would a white summer hat, not too large, be correct with a burgundy lace dress ?

3—What about the receiving line ? Are there any special rules there ?

—Frances

1—Let's say that you have taken your place at the tea-table, with the tea service before you. As a deputy hostess, you have two responsibilities: to be gracious and welcoming to each guest; and to serve each guest according to her wishes.

A guest enters the room in which the tea is being served. She may either come to you and ask, "May I have a cup of tea ?" or you may ask her, "May I give you a cup of tea ?"

You ask, "How do you like your tea — strong, medium or weak ?" Next you ask the guest her preferences as to "Cream or lemon ?", and "Sugar ?" If she wishes lemon, you use the lemon fork to place the slice or wedge of lemon on the side of the cup, on the saucer. If the pile of tea plates is near you, you place the cup and saucer on the tea-plate, on which there is already a tea-serviette. If the plates are not near you, the guest takes a plate and serves herself to whatever she wishes.

If you are not busy, and if the guest lingers near you, you chat with her until the next guest comes to you for a cup of tea.

2—Usually the deputy hostesses wear hats (your white summer hat will be correct with your lace dress), but they do not wear gloves.

3—As a member of the receiving line, you graciously welcome each guest, shaking hands cordially and chatting a bit, if there is time. The person's name will be given to you by the one ahead of you in the receiving line . . . or if this isn't done, the guest is supposed to introduce herself. If you are good at small talk, this will be a valuable social asset !

Culinary Tradition

European culinary tradition has many provincial strongholds in New Brunswick, where the descendants of Scotch, English, Irish and French settlers have preserved their menus and recipes in the face of Twentieth century standardization. Visitors find French cooking especially well adapted to the orchard and dairy products of farms north of the Maine border and the fish and seafood along the coast. This simple New Brunswick hospitality is best expressed in cod cutlets au fromage, ragout of halibut and lobster, rich pea soup and wild strawberry omelet. It is fare well suited to a summer sports program that includes fresh-water and deep-sea fishing, swimming and boating.

Bring me all your flowers today,
Whether pink or white or red;
I'd rather have one blossom now
Than a truckload when I'm dead.

Merely having an open mind is nothing. The object of opening the mind, as of opening the mouth, is to shut it again on something solid.

Speech by Air Marshal Bishop

The challenge comes to us in Canada today, not only from those immortal souls who died in the first Great War who have flung to us the torch — not only from the smashed pylons of our Memorial on Vimy Ridge — where Truth and Beauty, Justice and Faith, have been violated by the bombing planes of a ruthless foe — yes, and where the symbol of sacrifice proclaiming the sorrow of Canada for her children has been destroyed — calling us in Canada again to greater and greater sacrifice. Germany indeed, in bombing from their graves our fallen comrades, has only added so many more to our battalions. But from the beleaguered bastions of Dunkerque where all the heroism of the freedom-loving peoples of the world is enshrined forever, where, in the language of a great journal of the land of Lincoln, is a spirit which is called "This shining thing in the souls of free men Hitler cannot command, or attain, or conquer. He has crushed it, where he could, from the German hearts. It is the great tradition of democracy. It is future. It is victory."

Yes — the heroism of Dunkerque, the glorious gallantry of men of our two great races in Canada, the gallantry of the men who fought and endured on land through the greatest retreat in history; the gallantry of the Navies — those grim relentless sentinels of our security; and above all, in every sense, the gallantry of those glorious captains of the clouds, the youngsters of England, fighting against vastly superior numbers, forging a ring of flame around the slowly-giving ranks of wearied, powder-blackened, torn but unbeaten, khaki-clad men; yes, above all, guarding and guiding the undefeated troops of England home again.

"Per ardua ad astra" — that is their motto Let that be ours in Canada today through days of hardship and difficulty and distress, possibly of grief and disaster. Up to the Stars, Up to the Peaks! To the stars of salvation for the free peoples of the world — to the highest peaks of patriotism for us all!

Let that be our motto in Canada, "Per ardua ad astra!"

Ottawa — A blow has befallen the Capital in the tragic death of the Hon. Norman Rogers, in an airplane crash this week. The Minister of Defence was speeding from his duties at Ottawa to fill a speaking engagement at Toronto; the accident occurred near Bowmanville, Ont. . . Debating with the Prime Minister whether, in view of Italy's impending entry into the war, he should leave the Capital — it was considered a change of plans might create alarm, and the Hon. Mr. Rogers agreed to "carry on". This example, then, is one which a public servant leaves to Canada in the fulfillment of her duties.

Thoughts and hopes rest on the French armies in their valiant battle against the Nazi invaders. Anxiety is felt, but there is an unfaltering belief that victory must come in the end and a determination that Canada will do its full part. In Parliament, nerves have naturally been on edge at times, and debate has been sharp. For a time criticism flared up on what had been done or had not been done in preparation for the country's defence. But the complacency of democratic countries in times of peace is a fruitless subject of discussion when war is on, so criticism of this kind has been largely abandoned. There is plenty of questioning and sometimes sharp criticism of what is being done now; but the aim of all is the one goal. Parliament is very much alive. Energies are being directed to giving every available immediate help to the Allies and to getting the war effort in Canada into highest gear.

Early last week the Prime Minister announced some of the measures that had been taken by Canada to aid in the critical situation on the war front. Bombing and fighting planes were shipped from Canada : others manufactured for Canada in Britain were turned over to the British Government ; a fighting air squadron with equipment was being sent immediately from Canada ; Canadian destroyers were operating in British waters, while British ships were in our coastal patrol and Canadian military units had gone to the West Indies to free British regular forces stationed there.

The Air Training Plan

Through force of circumstances, the Commonwealth Air Training Plan has become more than ever a Canadian enterprise. On account of the bitter fighting in the air which strains the resources of the Royal Air Force, Britain has had to delay sending many of the planes which according to agreement she had to supply for the joint training scheme. But assurance is given that the training plan will be kept fully up to schedule. The output of Canadian aircraft manufacturing plants is being rapidly expanded. Training planes will be provided by these factories. They will take the place of the planes which would have come from Britain. The training of airmen, of pilots, observers and air gunners will proceed without delay so that expert airmen from Canada will reach the war front in steady streams.

The British Government has been advised by the Dominion that the automobile manufacturing industry of this country is in a position to turn out 60,000 pieces of military mechanized equipment a year. This production could be substantially increased. It is believed that this might be of great aid to the British. The equipment which could be turned out would not include tanks, but would comprise gun carriers, trucks and other military transport, which form such an important part of the organization of mobile armies. Already Canada's factories have supplied this country's forces with more than 7,000 pieces of motorized equipment. Most of these are already overseas. Orders for several thousand more pieces of mechanical transport amounting to a further $13,000,000 have been placed for Canadian account.

The problem of producing tanks in Canada is being studied, and will be settled immediately, the Minister of Munitions, C. D. Howe has told parliament. A delegation of engineers will sail immediately to Britain and go thoroughly into the question with British authorities, and settle this question "once and for all". Tank manufacture is not a static business. New problems of manufacture arise as new anti-tank guns and other forms of defence are produced. One problem relates to the thickness of steel required for the tanks. "Even after information is obtained", said Mr. Howe, "and all posible help has been secured outside Canada, it will still be a complex job for Canadian industry to build tanks. No one firm can be called upon to do the entire job. The British have a new heavy tank recently developed which they believe will be suitable for Canada to copy.

To Settle Refugee Children

Thousands of refugee children now in Britain and France will be brought to Canada as soon as the British and French Governments agree to the plan. At meetings held here in Ottawa, attended by Dominion and Provincial officials and by representatives of child welfare and other benevolent institutions, co-operative plans were made. There was a marked unanimity of purpose shown by all attending the conference. The heart of Canada was clearly behind the enterprise. One of the main features of the plan was to see that there would be as little delay as possible from the time the children were received at British or French ports until they were placed in private homes in various provinces. The health of the children would be carefully looked after and accurate records would be kept of each child so that, where children wanted to return to their homes after the war, there would be no confusion about their families.

As part of the general policy to curb subversive elements in Canada, the Minister of Justice, Ernest Lapointe, has announced the suppression of 16 groups and organizations. Among them are three Nazi bodies, Adrien Arcand's National Unity Party, the Canadian Union of Fascists, the Communist Party and the Young Communist League. In all, 16 organizations have been declared outlawed and any person belonging to these bodies will be guilty of an offence. Another amendment to the regulations provides that hereafter commissioned officers of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police will also be justices of the peace for the purpose of issuing search warrants.

L'Abbe William Lacourse to Succeed Rev. E. Labelle as Priest of Ste. Anastasie

L'Abbé William Lacourse, of Lachine, is appointed to succeed the Rev. E. Labelle as priest of the Parish of Ste. Anastasie, Lachute. The Rev. Labelle goes to the Parish of St. Pierre Claver, to replace the Rev. Joseph Picotte, retiring curé. The transfer of Rev. Labelle to another parish will be regretted by many friends in the Catholic community of Lachute.

The Rev. Wm. Lacourse, born in 1889, rose to the priesthood in 1915, and has served in several parishes, including St. Stanislas.

U.S. Tourists Are Fewer in Laurentians, Result of War

K. W. Harrison was re-elected president for the third consecutive term of the Laurentian Resorts Association at a meeting in the Laurentide Inn, Ste. Agathe.

Other officers re-elected were as follows : Emile Cochand, first vice-president; Gaston Guibeault, sec.-treas., and C. W. Honey and F. H. Wheeler, directors. Two new directors were elected in the persons of Charles B.Posthill and William Johnston.

At the meeting the members named a delegation headed by the president to interview Hon T. D. Bouchard, Provincial Minister of Roads, seeking completion of the Laurentian highway between Ste. Agathe and St. Jerome.

They also addressed a wire to Hon. C. D. Howe, Federal Minister of Transport, urging American tourists be assured there are no restrictions on tourist traffic into this country. Cancellation of reservations, received from American visitors due to fear of wartime restrictions, had been "very distressing" to resorts owners who, it was pointed out, were trying to co-operate in Canada's war-effort by bringing American dollars here.

Royal Refugee En Route To Seigniory Club

ACCOMPANIED BY HER TWO CHILDREN

Princess Juliana of The Netherlands is expected immediately to arrive at the Seigniory Club, Montebello, pending the arrival of the Earl of Athlone, Governor-General elect, in Ottawa.

The Princess reached Halifax Tuesday aboard a Dutch warship.

Her destination was not announced officially but from a source interested in arrangements for her Canadian stay it was learned she was en route to Seigniory Club. It was not known whether Princess Juliana and her two children, Beatrix, 2½ years of age, and nine-months-old Irene, with their entourage would stay at the chateau or in a cabin of their own.

There the heiress to The Netherlands Empire will find the quiet she has sought since fleeing her invaded homeland for England and travelling thence to the Dominion.

The Princess is the guest in Canada of the Governor-General and after his arrival, expected soon, she and her children will go to the capital to stay at Rideau Hall, the vice-regal residence.

On a goodwill tour of the United States, Mexico and Canada, the 28th million Ford car is passing through Lachute this afternoon (Thursday) on its way to Ottawa and Montreal. After entering Canada at Chief Mountain, Waterton Park, Alta., the car has an itinerary which takes it to key cities and towns on the trans-Canada route. This historic car is shown above as it rolled off the assembly line of the Ford plant at Edgwater, N.J. Its completion was greeted by (left to right) Governor Moore of New Jersey, Wallace R. Campbell, president, Ford Motor Company of Canada Limited, and Edsel B. Ford, president, the Ford Motor Company. Its tour has already taken the car to Mexico and back via the Golden Gate Exposition at San Francisco. It is scheduled to be in New York for the celebration of Ford Day at the World's Fair on June 16.

Teacher at Arundel Retires After Twenty-Five Years

Retirement of Mrs. Margaret Smellie, of Arundel, after 25 years' service, brings to an end a long and useful career in the teaching profession. In 1898, then Margaret Morrison, she graduated from the old McGill Normal School. After teaching in Bury, Arundel, Marsboro and Spring Hill, she married Dr. William Smellie, of Arundel, and took up residence there. Upon her husband's death in 1921, Mrs. Smellie resumed professional work. For the past 18 years she has been on the staff of Arundel Intermediate School.

Due to qualities of thoroughness and conscientiousness, as well as readiness to adopt modern methods, Mrs. Smellie achieved success in the art of teaching. Her co-operation and helpfulness won the appreciation of all.

Impressions of U.S. Veterans Here on Visit to Canada

It was our pleasure on Tuesday evening last to meet two comrades from Cleveland, Ohio, who had served with the American Forces in the Great War of 1914-18. Stopping over for the night, they expressed themselves as delighted with our little town, particularly with our wide Main Street. Mention was also made of the splendid speech of President Roosevelt, and they too felt certain that the U.S. would do all in their power to assist the Allies in their struggle to maintain democracy.

Both belong to Lake Erie Post No. 1974, in Parma, Ohio.

William Jorasch served with A Co'y. of the 308th Engineers and lost a leg at Dun sur Meuse. He is a life member of the Disabled American Veterans of the Great War and of the Army and Navy Union, and connected with the Soldiers Relief Commission of Cleveland, Ohio.

Fred Kossman was Prison Sergeant at St. Nazaire, France; was on detach service with the 6th Cavalry Troop E of the regular army and also served along the Mexican border.

They left on Wednesday morning for Ottawa en route to North Bay and other points where they intend doing some fishing.

Quebec Govt. to Take Over Ste. Rose, St. Eustache Toll Bridges

Quebec Legislature has given first reading to a bill put forward by the Government to take over the toll bridges at Ste. Rose and at St. Eustache.

The bill provides that these two bridges shall be taken over under the authority of an act passed by the Province of Lower Canada governing "tollpikes and toll houses". Compensation for the value of the bridges will be paid to their present owners.

Construction of both bridges was authorized by the Legislature of the time, that at Ste. Rose in the days of George IV, and that at St. Eustache in the early days of Queen Victoria. In each case the franchise contained a clause stating that after 50 years the Government would have the right to take over the structure on payment of proper compensation.

Injured in Car Collision on Bethany St. Intersection

Cars belonging to Mr. Sidney Wilson, of North River, and Mr. Louis Lormier, of Harrington East, were considerably damaged in an accident on Sunday night at around 10.30.

Mr. Wilson was travelling along Bethany Street, when the car driven by Lormier suddenly came out of Robert Street and crashed into Wilson's.

Occupants of the cars were shaken up severely, and Miss Hazel Wilson, who was travelling with her brother, suffered multiple cuts on her right arm from flying glass, and was taken to the office of Dr. McMartin, who attended to the injuries.

Constable Leger of the Provincial Traffic Police investigated the accident.

Mine Temporarily Shut Down

Immediately on the pronouncement of hostilities between Britain and Italy, and in keeping with the precautions taken to safeguard industry in this country, an Argenteuil mine which employs a number of Italian workers was promptly closed down on Tuesday. Several of the mine officials, at the same time, were sworn in as special constables. The plant continued operations as usual, but the underground workings were temporarily suspended.

Explains Working of Proposed Protestant Central Schools

WOULD BE ADAPTABLE TO THIS COUNTY AND OTHER AREAS IN QUEBEC

The Act regarding establishment of county central schools — which would apply to Argenteuil-Two Mountains with 17 other county areas in Quebec — was explicitly outlined by Dr. W. P. Percival, Director of Protestant Education for the Province of Quebec, at a meeting of the Adult Study Club at Hemmingford. . . . As is generally known, the recommendation of this Act to the Legislature has been postponed for another year, pending the adjustment of details to ensure more flawless application of the scheme.

Following are extracts from Mr. Percival's discussion :

An Act has been drafted for presentation to the Legislature establishing county central school boards in eighteen counties of the Province of Quebec. This Bill applies to Protestants only in those counties of the Province outside of the Island of Montreal where the Protestants are most thickly settled.

The proposed Bill has been drafted by the Protestant Committee along the lines of the Act of the Legislature that created the Montreal Protestant Central School Board. It will be remembered that, previous to 1925, all the school boards on the Island of Montreal operated separately. No attempt was made, with the consequence that the tax rate in some of the areas was low and in others very high. In some school municipalities the facilities offered to pupils were adequate and in others meagre. Teachers were by no means treated alike. In Verdun, particularly, the situation reached extremes, the Protestant tax rate there being twenty mills, which was three times the tax imposed upon people more fortunately situated.

It is generally admitted that the creation of the Montreal Protestant Central School Board corrected many of the former disadvantages and inequalities.

Ford Exhibition Car Here on Last Lap of Goodwill Tour

Now completing the last lap of its tour around North America, the 28,000,000th Ford car is arriving in Lachute this afternoon (Thursday). Arrangements call for traffic police to meet the car on the outskirts of town and escort it to the Town Hall, where it is to be greeted by the Mayor and a group of aldermen and citizens. The log book carried in the car is being signed by the Mayor before it continues on its journey.

Before proceeding to Montreal, the car stops for a short time at Deacon Motor Sales Limited, local Ford dealers. It has attracted widespread interest on its tour which already has taken it through a large part of the United States and Mexico, including a visit to the Golden Gate International Exposition at San Francisco.

The grey Fordor sedan was produced in the Ford plant at Edgewater, New Jersey, on April 8 in the presence of Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company; Wallace R. Campbell, president, Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited; Douglas S. Cole, Canadian trade commissioner and Senor Santiago Suarez, Mexican consul, and many others.

The car started on its goodwill mission from the Ford Exposition at the New York World's Fair. It proceeded through the southern states to Laredo, Texas and on to Mexico City. It then visited the Golden Gate Exposition and travelled north to the Canadian border, crossing into Canada at Chief Mountain, Waterton National Park, Alberta, on the morning of June 1.

After crossing the Prairie provinces, the car returned to the United States at Sault Ste. Marie and proceeded to Detroit. It re-entered Canada at Windsor, and then was routed to Ottawa through Chatham, London, Woodstock, Brantford, Toronto, Belleville, Kingston, Brockville, Prescott. It proceeds to Montreal from here before returning to the New York World's Fair in time to take part in Ford Day ceremonies at the Fair.

James Rooney and Charles Soderquist of Dearborn, Michigan, are in charge of the 28,000,000th Ford. On its trip across Quebec, it is also accompanied by E. C. McDevitt, from Ford Branch headquarters in Montreal.

Making History in Argenteuil

Extracted from the Fyles of The Watchman

60 Years Ago

Friday, June 11, 1880

Our fellow villager, Mr. Poitras, has decided to leave Lachute for St. Andrews, where he proposes establishing himself for the future.

The stables and out houses belonging to Mr. Wm. Foreneau, of Greece's Point were destroyed by fire.

Mr. James Fish has received official notification of his appointment as post-master for the Lachute West End mail. In conjunction with Mr. Ireland he is about to erect a new store close to his present one, for a post office.

On Wednesday night the guests at Mr. Rodrigue's Hotel, in the East End, were aroused from their sleep by cries of fire. Mr. Rodrigue at once ran to the spot from whence the cries came, and found that a coal-oil lamp had exploded. He flung the remains of the lamp out of the window, thus saving the hotel from a disastrous fire.

Contractors are busy at work on the Bethany Road, and if satisfactory arrangements can be effected with the government the road work from the town line at Cruise's will also be proceeded with, and the balance of Main Street linked up.

We regret to record the death of one of our respected townsmen, Mr. Marcien Desjardins, at the age of 70

The Parish of St. Philippe is en fête this week, over the visit of His Grace Archbishop Gauthier, of Ottawa.

Editorial — Civilization will not much longer suffer war as waged by Germany during the past nine months. If civilization is to endure . . . if the world is not to revert to barbarism. the wholesale murder of non-combatants must cease.

The "Ford" is evidently growing in popularity in this section. The local agent has just sold his 47th car this season, to Mr. J. H. Black.

Body of Hawkesbury Man Found in Ottawa River

The body of Jean Marie Rochon, Hawkesbury businessman, was found ast week floating in the centre of the Ottawa River, one mile east of Pointe Fortune, by residents of that village in a rowboat gathering driftwood. Towed to shore it was identified by his brother, Henri Rochon, of Hawkesbury. Coroner Dr. J. H. Mason, of Lachute, was notified, but there was no inquest held.

Mr. Rochon disappeared from his home on June 1st. He was first missed by his wife when she went to his room to arouse him next morning. He had been in poor health for some time.

Wide Changes Considered in Quebec Motor Vehicle Act

WOULD ENFORCE FINANCIAL RESPONSIBILITY AND REMOVE PASSENGER LIABILITY

Amendments to the Quebec Motor Vehicle Act now under study at Quebec provide for sweeping changes in the existing law.

Of most importance is the incorporation of the financial responsibility law similar to that now in force in all other provinces of Canada and in the majority of U.S. states. This provides that the driver's licence or owner's permit of motorists guilty of any offences which cause injury to any person or damage to property exceeding a small amount, shall be suspended until he shall have given to the Automobile Bureau proof of his financial responsibility.

The provision is made that if within 15 days after final judgment has been given in any court action, the damages awarded are not paid, the driver's licence or owner's permit shall remain suspended until the judgment is satisfied and further proof is given of financial responsibility. This responsibility is fixed at ability to guarantee damages to the extent of $10,000 for injury to two or more persons and $1,000 for property damage, and may be submitted as a bond, securities or through an insurance policy.

The Minister may also require proof of financial responsibility before issuing an owner's permit or driver's licence to anyone under 21 or over 65.

HAZARD TO DISAPPEAR

Another amendment provides for the elimination of the guest passenger liability. It is provided that the owner or driver of a motor vehicle, other than a vehicle operated in the business of carrying passengers for compensation shall not be liable for any loss or damage resulting from bodily injury or the death of any person being carried in the vehicle. This means that a person riding in a private car as a guest cannot bring an action for damages against the driver or the owner of such car, as has been done in the past in Quebec.

"SILVER BULLETS"

Mr. Lloyd George, in the Great War, spoke of "silver bullets". He was thinking of the savings of the people, of the money they could give to provide food and guns and shells for the Allied armies.

Canadians, today, have this same opportunity to provide "silver bullets", through War Savings Certificates.

Under the War Savings Certificates plan a five dollar certificate may be purchased for four dollars; a ten dollar certificate for eight dollars; a twenty-five dollar certificate for twenty dollars; a fifty dollar certificate for forty dollars; a one hundred dollar certificate for eighty dollars. A gilt-edge security, and with provisions for redemption before the date of maturity (they mature in 7½ years) they are an admirable investment : simple, safe, profitable, fitting the smallest of budgets.

But the real argument for War Savings Certificates is the opportunity they afford for war service. People of small incomes, artisans, people too old for active war duties, even children —all can strike a blow in this struggle by investing in these securities.

Our Government needs money, needs it desperately. Only by money can it help win the war. Therefore, if we believe the things we profess, if we are sincerely anxious to strike a blow for freedom, we must — all of us who can — buy these certificates.

In Britain they are giving of their last farthing to help win this war. In Nazi Germany they are giving everything — are having everything taken from them, including their liberty— to win this war. Are we capable of less ? Are we of weaker fibre ?

After all, a good investment is a small thing to be asked in this crisis. Small, pitifully small, in comparison to what we ask of those who go to fight and die for us. At this hour, there is a poem which should have a poignant appeal to us :

"What have I given, bold sailor of the sea,
On Earth or Heaven, that you should die for me ?

What can I give, Oh soldier leal and brave,
Long as I live, to pay the life you gave ?

What tithe or part can I return to thee,
Oh ! Stricken heart, that thou should'st break for me ?

The Wind of Death for you hath slain life's flowers.
It withereth, God grant, all weeds in ours."

HOMEOWNERS CUT PUBLIC GRASSPLOTS

Expenditures of the Ottawa Federal District Commission, in keeping with Canada's war-time effort, must be kept down, so residents of Monkland Avenue have been asked by the commission to cut and water the grass along the Commission boulevard in front of their homes. This work has previously been done by Commission employees. Last year the home owners in another section of the district were asked to do the same, and it was found the plan worked very well.

YOUNGSTERS AND THE SWIMMING POOL

Officials of the Health League of Canada issue a note of warning to children who propose to become swimmers during the summer months.

While not commending the extreme caution of the small boy who declared he "would never enter the water till he knew how to swim," Officials pointed out that good preliminary practice may be obtained by lying across the top of a music stool and going through the motions of swimming. If this is done for about ten minutes each day, the motions become mechanical and are performed unconsciously when the child enters the water.

But for awhile the youngster's natatory exercises should be confined to a supervised swimming pool, so that he may be under competent care until he has gained proficiency and confidence.

Many drownings each year are attributable to the fact that a river with an unususpectedly swift current, a weed infested pool, or a beach with a sudden sharp dip was chosen as a bathing ground. The character of all such waters should be thoroughly understood before any but the most expert swimmer enters.

Pools fed by mountain streams may cause a sudden seizure of cramps because of the excessive coldness, and should be avoided except by the experienced and hardy swimmer.

Polluted waters, from whatever source, of course should be avoided. Lastly, swimming is an arduous exercise, and children should be encouraged to indulge in it only in moderation.

TAXPAYERS ARE WITNESSES TO POLICE EFFICIENCY

Hundreds of taxpayers at the Montreal City Hall had an opportunity of seeing how efficient Montreal policemen are and how quick they are to come at call. While honest citizens were busy paying their taxes and civic officials busy receiving them, the burglar-alarm rang. It seemed as if no time elapsed before the department was thronged with constables and the taxpayers saw that at least some of their taxes are being put to good use.

It was a false alarm, the bell having been rung accidentally. This is the third false alarm at the City Hall in a year.

WHITE STRIPE IN HIGHWAY EXISTED 400 YEARS AGO

The narrow white stripe in the centre of modern paved highways is not a device of the automobile age.

The Chicago Motor Club reports a narrow section of light-colored stone was found down the middle of roads constructed in Mexico more than 400 years ago. The stripe was inserted, history has it, to separate the opposite flows of burro traffic.

Famous Operas...

DON GIOVANNI

By Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart
Words by Da Ponte
First produced at Prague, 1787
Place : Spain.
Time : Eighteenth Century.

Don Giovanni, a licentious nobleman becomes infatuated with Donna Anna, daughter of the Commandant of Seville, who is engaged to Don Ottavio. One night, Giovanni gains entrance to her apartment and tries to carry her off; her cries bring her father to the rescue, but he is slain in the fight, and the nobleman flees with the help of his servant, Leporello.

While Giovanni and Leporello are discussing some new conquest, Elvira, one of his former victims, appears and curses Giovanni. He flees, leaving his servant with Elvira, who horrifies her with tales of his master's amorous affairs in many lands.

Don Giovanni then tries to ruin the life of a peasant girl named Zerlina on the eve of her marriage to Masetto, but is thwarted by Elvira, who then exposes him to Donna Anna as the slayer of her father. Donna Anna thereupon prevails upon her lover, Don Ottavio, to slay Giovanni.

The latter again attempts the downfall of Zerlina at a garden party, but she is saved by her friends.

In a public square in Seville, Giovanni and Leporello appear one night before Elvira's home, where Zerlina is hidden. Leporello, disguised as the nobleman and imitating his voice, brings Elvira to the door; he confesses his misbehavior, and asks her to leave with him.

Giovanni, in servant's attire, attempts to enter the house, but Masetto and his friends arrive and demand the whereabouts of the nobleman. Masetto is disposed of by Giovanni, who then joins Leporello before the statue of Don Pedro, the slain Commandant.

To their surprise, the statue speaks, and tells the nobleman he will die before the morrow. The libertine laughs at the prophecy, and invites the statue to a banquet the following day.

As the guests are seated at dinner, a knock is heard at the door and the statue enters, causing the people to flee, except Don Giovanni and Leporello.

The statue of Don Pedro asks thrice of Giovanni to repent, but he refuses, and as it disappears demons fill the room and carry the nobleman off to the fires of hell.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"God the Preserver of Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday, June 16th.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "There is no fear in love; but perfect love casteth out fear: because fear hath torment. He that feareth is not made perfect in love." (John 4:18).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with the Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "There is no power apart from God. Omnipotence has all-power and to acknowledge any other power is to dishonor God. . . . Every trial of our faith in God makes us stronger. The more difficult seems the material condition to be overcome by Spirit, the stronger should be our faith and the purer our love." (Pages 228, 410).

Explains Working of Proposed Protestant Central Schools

Many situations exist in the Province at the present time similar in several respects to those that existed on the Island of Montreal before the Central School Board came into effect. The public may be surprised to learn that the tax rates in Protestant school municipalities vary from two mills on the dollar to forty mills. It by no means follows that the poorest facilities are offered in those municipalities where the tax rate is lowest or the best where the highest rates prevail. Furthermore, there is usually little co-operation between school boards in different municipalities.

School buildings are not always located in the centres in which most children live. Two school buildings in adjoining municipalities may be very close together while large numbers of children may live at a distance. The populations would be served better by locating the schools much farther apart.

Though elementary education is provided in school municipalities even for a very small number of pupils, advantages for high school education are by no means all that can be desired. Intermediate and high schools are generally located in towns and cities. Pupils not living within those municipalities are regarded as outsiders because the taxpayers do not support the superior school. The people where the intermediate and high schools are located consider that they are not responsible for the pupils who live outside. The school board, therefore, almost always charges a higher rate of school fees for the outsiders. These outside municipalities keep down their own tax rate by not offering higher education. In the large majority of cases they could not offer high school facilities even if they desired. Many such school municipalities, however, do benefit by the proximity of the larger centre and indeed expect their pupils to be received in the intermediate and high schools without themselves incurring any obligation. There is no compulsory education in the Province of Quebec. Therefore, those children for whom facilities are not provided locally must either be deprived of higher education or must go elsewhere for the high school grades. In the latter case, much personal sacrifice is often involved because parents must not only pay the fees charged to pupils in areas in which the school is built but must pay the outside fee also. This fee varies, but in many cases may be as high as five dollars per month. If there are two or three children in the family, if the parent is poor, and if he has no particular desire to see his child's education advanced, one can easily see how he will neglect his responsibilities.

The county central school board Bill has for its purpose the remedying of such conditions as inequality of taxation and property valuations, the placing of school buildings in a county in the best locations and the offering of opportunities for the fullest education possible to all. There should be no question of the right of a child to receive the benefits of schooling. No child should be deprived of the possibility of going to school because his parents cannot afford to pay for his education or because adequate school facilities are beyond his reach for any other reason.

The Protestant Committee is doing its best for the improvement of education.

It is the belief of the Committee that the people want good facilities and it has devised the county school board Bill to meet the conditions. It is the belief of the Protestant Committee that if the people wish to have their children fully developed they must give them large opportunities. Thereby the Committee believes that the children will develop into better citizens than they will if the educational facilities are too greatly curtailed.

The county central school board Bill is not intended in any way to cast reflections upon the past or future activities of school boards. On the contrary, the Protestant Committee thinks, however, that within a county there are men who are able to look upon the educational problem with eyes that see far beyond the bounds of the local municipality.

Much opposition has been received to the proposed Bill. This opposition follows six main lines :

1—The first ground of opposition is that the idea is new. The question immediately appears, new to whom ? Shortly after the Great War Scotland was divided into thirty-five divisions for educational purposes. Though the idea was new to many people at that time it is certainly not new to them now. The plan of larger county unit of administration is operative in at least twenty of the States of the American Union. It is not new there. Shortly after the Aberhart government came into power in Alberta, the Prime Minister introduced this principle and the Protestant Committee has been informed that the plan is working well there. It is operative in some places in Ontario and Manitoba. Reports favourable to the larger unit have been presented in Nova Scotia and British Columbia. The Protestant Committee has been working with this idea since 1937.

2—The second objection is that the Bill has not been well thought out.

Objectors should know that the Bill was written with the Act at hand that established the Montreal Protestant Central School Board and with full knowledge of the generally satisfactory way in which that Act has worked over a period of fifteen years.

3—The third objection is that additional expense will be involved.

It is not certain that additional expenses will be involved. Much will depend upon the facilities offered. It may be that the expense will be actually reduced in some cases. This will be possible if buildings are better placed than they are at present, and if certain consolidations can be effected. In any case the Protestant Committee has asked that a sum of money be set aside in the Government budget to cover reasonable expenses for secretary-treasurers of the new Boards and necessary travelling expenses of members.

4—The fourth objection is that local pride may be hurt.

Instead of local pride being hurt it may be that it will be enhanced. If the county central school board works effectively it may be that it will improve the buildings, engage better teachers, offer greater facilities to the pupils and induce them to stay in school longer.

5—The fifth objection is that many people think that the present school commissioners will lose control of their schools.

Such is not intended. The Protestant Committee recognizes that the best people to know local needs may be men who live in the municipality. That the local school board is not superseded is proved on the Island of Montreal where every one of the school boards in existence fifteen years ago when the Montreal Protestant Central School Board was formed is still managing its own affairs.

6—The sixth objection arises from the fear that taxes will be increased.

It may be that in certain places taxes will be increased. But this will be mainly where they are now too low or where greater facilities will be offered. The public may rest assured, however, that no general advance is contemplated in the eighteen counties referred to.

In response to many appeals and in order to give opportunities for discussion the Protestant Committee has decided not to present this Bill during the current session of the Legislature. But it is the intention of the Committee to proceed with such a Bill next session.

HINTS FOR HOMEBODIES

By JESSIE ALLEN BROWN
Specially written for Readers of The Watchman.

SIGRID UNSET

Coincidences are intriguing affairs. Just after I had read about Sigrid Unset and her efforts to inspire Norse countrymen with courage and hope, someone brought me her Nobel prize book, Kristin Lavransdatter, to read. It is a very fine historical novel of 14th Century Norway. Sigrid Unset is hated by the Germans because of her writings. The neighborhood in which she lives has been bombed. The next book I happened to get was Sand and Storm by Unto Steppanen, a story of Finland. Both these books are books of the land and are earthy. They are tragic and yet not sad. The same feeling of tragedy and fatalism runs through the Russian books of Tolstoi, Turgenev, and Dostoyevsky's. To understand better the people of other nations, it is well to read their books.

DO NOT EXPECT TOO MUCH

Parents are often unconsciously cruel to their children. Mental cruelty can be more devastating than a physical one. Sometimes one overhears illuminating conversations. The other day I was in a restaurant where the seats had very high backs to give privacy. I happened to hear two women talking and when they went out I recognized one of them who is a specially capable and clever business woman. She said her whole childhood had been made unhappy because she had not been very bright at school and her parents were continually apologizing for her. Her sister was brilliant and her parents always said, when any one spoke of the children, that Mary wasn't very bright. She said this discouraged her so she felt it wasn't any use trying and she did not do even as well as she might have. She knew her parents loved her but she always felt that she could not come up to their standards and had the feeling she was letting them down. Parents should try to accept the capabilities of their children and not expect too much of them. Very often the parent who was not outstanding at school longs for their children to be so. On the other hand sometimes it is the parent who made high marks with very little effort that expects children to do the same. The older I get the more I realize it is not always the child who makes the highest marks at school who does the best in after life. We want our children to do the best they can but we must try to learn what to expect and not make their lives unhappy by expecting too much.

SOUP USES ODDS AND ENDS

Chatting about food, as women so often do, a young woman said they never had soup. Canned soup was too expensive and she would not buy things just to make soup out of them. It is not necessary to buy special foods but soup can usually be made from the odds and ends at hand. There may not be meat or bones for a meat soup but there are so many varieties of cream soup. This week we have had Asparagus soup made from the water in which the asparagus was cooked, some of the tougher ends put through the sieve, a suspicion of onion, with milk and a good piece of butter, and thickened slightly with flour. Another day we had Corn soup made from a little left-over canned corn. Then we had a fish-chowder. Diced potatoes, onion, and a very little celery were boiled in a small quantity of water, then milk, butter, and some left-over fish were added, and the mixture seasoned to taste. None of these had specially purchased ingredients but then all made tasty, nourishing soups. When there isn't too generous amount of flavoring materials I add a little extra butter and that seems to do the trick.

SAUCE FOR ASPARAGUS

Here are a couple of sauces for your asparagus, just in case you are tired of it plain or creamed — although how anyone could ever get tired of asparagus is beyond me. It is one of the things we miss when living in the Maritimes. They have very little asparagus. On account of the long, cold spring it will grow only in very sheltered places. However if we miss the asparagus, we have plenty of fresh lobster and clams. You can't have everything. Do you always serve your asparagus in sticks ? If you do, try cutting it in inch lengths for a change. Even a change of shape seems to make a thing taste different. I like it cut in inch lengths to cream on toast, or to serve on hot biscuits as a shortcake. I wouldn't turn up my nose at it with just plain butter as a vegetable.

DRAWN BUTTER SAUCE

2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, ¼ teaspoon celery salt, 1 teaspoon chopped parsley, ⅔ cup boiling water.

Melt the butter and stir in the other ingredients with the exception of the water. Mix well, add the water gradually, and cook over slow heat until slightly thickened. Pour over cooked asparagus.

HOLLANDAISE SAUCE

¼ cup butter, 2 egg yolks, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, ¼ teaspoon celery salt, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ⅓ cup boiling water.

Cream the butter, add the egg yolks and beat for two minutes. Add the seasonings and boiling water slowly, stirring constantly until the mixture is creamy and thick. Add the lemon juice and serve immediately over boiled asparagus.

HOW TO KEEP AWAKE WHILE READING IN BED

A comfortable position in bed, inadequate light, a radio playing dimly, just any old book — these are prerequisites for reading oneself to sleep. If, on the other hand, the point is to keep awake while reading, an entirely different set of rules must be followed. There must be, first of all, some purpose in your reading, and this means reading as actively as possible.

Mortimer J. Adler, author of "How to Read a Book," says in the June Good Housekeeping, that there is one underlying rule to keep awake while reading. It is simply to ask yourself questions as you go along. Not any questions, but the right questions in the right order. Start off by trying to discover what the book as a whole is about — that is, its theme and how it is developed. Then, what, in detail is being said, and how ? Is this true in whole or in part ? Besides knowing the author's point, you must make up your own mind. Finally, what of it ? Is what the author said important or significant ?

Frequently, says Mr. Adler, intelligent people slumber over a good book not because they are unwilling to make the effort to understand it, but rather because they don't know how to go about it. But anyone who cultivates the question-asking habit has learned the art of reading.

FOR TEMPERANCE

To remedy the three outstanding evils of (a) The drinking motorist ; (b) Sunday drunkenness and disorder ; and (c) Mendacious liquor advertising ; the following petition to Parliament is being signed throughout Scotland.

"We, the undersigned, respectfully petition Parliament to pass legislation providing : (1) That it be made illegal for any person to drive a motor vehicle within a given time after drinking intoxicating liquor ; (2) That the present law of Sunday closing of public houses be extended to include hotel bars ; (3) That liquor advertisements be restricted and regulated."

VITAMIN B1 BENEFITS ELDERLY PERSONS

Travelers often wonder why so many of the aged peasants in southeastern Europe are so rugged and strong, and why they retain their vigor to such an old age. Perhaps one of the reasons is that they are accustomed to eat whole-grain cereals and other foods rich in vitamin B1.

According to Doctor Malford W. Thewlis, of Wakefield, Rhode Island, it is especially important to give elderly persons an adequate amount of vitamin B1. This can be done by using thiamin chloride, which is a pure form of vitamin B1, or it can be done by giving food preparations, such as whole-grain cereals, yeast, or special wheat-germ products, which are rich in this vitamin.

In elderly persons, the treatment of disease cannot always be carried out in same way as in younger individuals. As a general rule, it is desirable to keep most elderly persons out of bed; that is, they must not be allowed to recline for long periods of time for, if they do, pneumonia may develop. On the other hand, there are certain elderly persons suffering from heart disease who must have a great deal of rest in bed to give the worn-out tissues a chance to regain some of their usefulness.

Many elderly persons have high blood pressure and edema, or a collection of fluid in the tissues, and, in addition, are overweight. If these persons are allowed to remain at rest in bed, the excessive fluids in the tissues may be eliminated to some extent. With less fluid in the tissues, the heart and blood vessels have less work to do. So, as time passes, the strength of the heart muscle and blood vessels may be regained, particularly if the diet contains enough of the vitamins, especially vitamin B1.

When the heart begins to fail in an elderly person, complete rest in bed is advisable. When, after having been in bed for a long period of time, an elderly patient is allowed to get up, there may be such symptoms as shortness of breath on exertion, swelling of the legs, and collection of fluid at the base of the lungs. These symptoms tend to disappear as the activities are gradually increased.

Doctor Thewlis also believes that short rest periods of five minutes should be taken a number of times each day as they are helpful in combatting many of the diseases of old age. Many older persons with high blood pressure, damaged hearts and other conditions, he thinks, would do well to remain in bed one day every week or ten days. Others who are overweight and have high blood pressure and shortness of breath may do well to spend a week or two in bed every three to eight weeks.

Persons who are suffering with coronary thrombosis — that is, formation of a blood clot in the coronary artery which supplies the heart muscle with blood — may avoid an attack by remaining in bed for a week upon noticing the first sign of shortness of breath or slight pain in the left side of the chest.

Overweight persons who have edema would help prevent much later illness if they would remain in bed for several weeks after their condition is first discovered, so that the heart, blood vessels and other parts of the body might be given a chance through rest to recover their strength.

Rest is an important weapon in combatting the diseases of elderly persons particularly. On the other hand, too much rest for elderly individuals may be harmful. The doctor will decide just how much bed rest is needed.

BEAUTY

By Helen Jameson (Mme. Qui Vive)

NERVOUSNESS WRECKS GOOD LOOKS

No life is free of annoyances. Troubles come to us all. Even a millionairess can have a toothache. There are days when everything goes wrong — disappointments, misunderstandings, tiresome interruptions. Instead of the cheque that should come in the mail, you get a letter from some distant relative relating her woes. When night comes you're worn out and nervous. Sleep isn't restful. You awaken in the morning feeling like the breaking up of a hard winter. Very sad.

Don't let your nerves get the best of you. They will if given their own way. And don't forget that the physical condition has a great deal to do with mental views. When you feel well and strong it is easy enough to be brave. But when your eyes smart, your head aches and you can't drag one foot after the other, the bottom has fallen out of the world.

Build up vitality in every way possible. Restore your spirits by going on a binge at the beauty shop. The better you look, the better you'll feel. You'll get interested in what's going on at the pulchritude works, forget what it was that was worrying you.

There are women who are always nervous, who never feel tip-topping, whose feathers are always trailing in the dust. They are miserable and every other member of the family is miserable with them. They miss out on life's fun, and that's a pretty sad state of affairs. What must be done. Something, and soon, because the world has no use for the morbid individual or the grouch.

Give the digestive furnaces the right kind of food. An appetizing, deliciously served meal is a physical and spiritual tonic. Begin the day with a substantial breakfast. It's a long time between a six o'clock dinner and an eight o'clock breakfast; one should stoke up with fruit, coffee, toast, an egg or bacon. The average woman takes a cup of coffee and fancies she is giving herself proper nourishment.

If fatigue is pronounced, don't go in for vigorous exercise. Take a short walk, breathing deeply, swinging along easily. Stand tall. Poor posture produces weariness of bone and muscle; and that condition has a deplorable effect upon the nervous system.

Sidestep the whining, irritating individual. It's easy to catch another's mood. If you have to listen to complaints about which you can do nothing, forget them. Relax whenever you have a chance. Relaxing the body helps to calm the soul and soothe the mind. Get to bed early.

CHRONIC UNDULANT FEVER

An unmarried woman of 30 years of age, has for 3 years complained of daily fever running from 99 to 100, is easily fatigued, can scarcely drag herself to do her household work. She feels despondent and has thought of suicide. Her skin is very sensitive. She has mental disturbances and a change in personality. Her acquaintances and friends agree that "she is not the woman she was".

Tuberculosis, neurasthenia and various other affections had been suspected. A skin test gave no positive results. Finally a recent blood test was positive for undulant fever.

Undulant fever is commonly acquired from drinking the raw milk of cows affected with contagious abortion. This disorder is fairly common among Canadian herds. In some cases workers in laboratories become infected and in most cases recovery is slow. In Malta the disease is one of goats and is called Malta fever.

In cases of continued low fever for which no satisfactory cause can be found, the physician should think of chronic undulant fever. The modern treatment for this disorder is the use of Brucella vaccines, and the production of artificial fever by means of injections of typhoid-para-typhoid vaccine or preferably by physical means. There is little evidence that the use of sulfanilamide produces any lasting effect.

Under the care of a competent physician and by the use of specific measures such as those recited, most patients recover in the course of a few weeks or months.

In the case referred to above, improvement under careful treatment for six months is showing effect, after a proper diagnosis was made.

The only reliable preventive is the use of pasteurized milk.

Information on Canadian Publications in New McKim Directory

Canada has one new daily newspaper, three new weekly publications, ten new semi-monthly and four fewer monthly publications, according to the 1940 (the thirty-third annual) edition of McKim's Directory of Canadian Publications, just off the press.

The publication, in the tradition of its predecessors, summarizes exhaustive information on markets, media and population throughout Canada, constituting an industrial analysis reference of all towns having publications.

In the preface to the current edition, under the title of "Advertising in War Time" it is pointed out that "in the coming months of war and in the reconstruction period which must follow, advertising will again be called upon to assume new burdens . . . analysis and wise forehandedness, rather than unreasoning fear and excessive caution should be the keynote". Reference is made, in this connection, to the Canadian advertising book of the year "The Story of Advertising in Canada ! A Chronicle of Fifty Years" by H. E. Stephenson and Carlton McNaught and particularly to the chapter in it entitled "The War (1914-18) and After : Expanding Fields".

The Directory is published by A. McKim Limited, Advertising Agency, head office, Montreal, and with branch offices at Toronto, Winnipeg, Vancouver and London, England.

Air Force Plane Lands Near Hawkesbury

Flying Officer M. J. Andrews, of Cornwall, Ont., and Aircraftsman A. C. T. Collis, of the R.C.A.F., escaped serious injury Tuesday when their co-operation plane made a forced landing in a newly ploughed field, five miles west of Hawkesbury, and turned on its nose.

It was understood the undercarriage of the plane, from Rockcliffe, Ont., on army co-operation practice, stuck in the soft earth and nosed over, suffering considerable damage. The plane made the forced landing as it was running low on gas.

Local Boxers and Finalists In Golden Gloves, Billed On Opening Program

Many boxing enthusiasts in Argenteuil will be looking forward expectantly to the official opening program on Saturday next, in the Lachute Arena, commencing at 8.30 p.m.

The local boxers conclude their training tonight, Thursday, and all are reported to be in fine shape after having several months of physical culture and boxing direction under their expert trainers.

The program is specially arranged as a first class affair, as the promoters are anxious to cater to the good taste of their patrons, with a good clean start. As well as the local boys participating, five Golden Gloves finalists from Montreal will be featured on the program.

The referee will be Ed. Barker, of the Brownsburg Social Club, and the judges include Paul LaHaye, Chas. Walker and Arthur Durocher, the latter an official of the Boxing Athletic Association of this province.

The promoters are satisfied that the public will witness a thrilling performance and a cordial invitation is extended to this event.

Bill Provides for Mobilization of Material Resources, Manpower for Home Defence

SLIGHT OPPOSITION TO GOVERNMENT EMERGENCY MEASURE AS LEGISLATION RUSHED THROUGH THIRD READING

To Meet Critical Situation Confronting the Dominion

Conscription of Canada's manpower under the age of 45 years for home defence, continuance of recruiting for overseas service on a voluntary basis, immediate national registration of the men of Canada and the creation of a Department of National War Services are the principal measures to be adopted by the Federal Government to meet the emergent situation now confronting the Dominion.

The Prime Minister, in closing the debate on the motion for second reading Monday night and replying to criticisms from the two radical groups, called upon the House to accept the bill at its face value, scolded those who wanted wealth singled out for special treatment by way of nationalization, declared satisfactory arrangements between employer and employee in wartime would be approved by an order-in-council he expected to be passed by the Cabinet.

CARDIN MAKES APPEAL

Mr. Cardin made a stirring appeal for support of the emergency defence measure. Answering those who wanted only "moderate" war participation, he said the electorate of Quebec had recently spoken twice, once provincially and once in a federal election, that they favored a full effort, and today measures for home defence were imperatively needed. He disliked the application of the Monroe Doctrine to Canada and he declared Canada should make every effort to provide entirely for its own defence.

CONSCRIPTION FOR HOME DEFENCE OPPOSED BY TWO QUEBEC MEMBERS

This home defence conscription measure met with a snag early in the life of the bill when a small Quebec bloc, opposed to a whole-hearted war effort, made itself heard, first through Ligouri Lacombe (Laval-Two Mountains) and later Wilfrid Lacroix (Quebec-Montmorency).

At least two other French-Canadian members from Quebec showed approval of the measure, however, They are Hugues Lapointe, son of the Minister of Justice, and J. F. Pouliot of Temiscouata.

REMOVES ALL DOUBT AS TO THE AVAILABILITY OF CANADA'S RESOURCES

"A bill conferring on the Government special emergency powers to mobilize all our human and material resources for the defence of Canada" was the description of this measure introduced by the Prime Minister. The bill made it plain that so far as manpower was concerned it would relate "solely and exclusively to the defence of Canada on our own soil and in our own territorial waters." Premier King in his initial statement reiterated his previous assurance that the present Government would never introduce a measure providing for conscription of Canadians for foreign or overseas service.

"Mobilization of our resources", the Prime Minister declared, "will not be confined to requiring the services of men and women. The Government will have power equally to call property and wealth, material resources and industry to the defence of Canada." The bill, Premier King added, was intended to remove any doubt as to the power of the Government and the will of Parliament that the whole material resources of the country should be available whenever they were needed to meet the needs of the war.

Speaker Has Recollection of Bucket Brigade in Action Here 50 Years Ago

SIDELIGHT TO MORE MODERN TOPIC ADDRESSED TO THE LACHUTE LIONS CLUB

Members of Lachute Lions Club met in Desjardins Hotel on Tuesday and heard an address by the guest speaker of the evening, Sydney E. Webster, who is general purchasing agent of Dominion Textiles, president of the Canadian Purchasing Agents' Association, chairman of Council and vice-president of the National Assn. of Purchasing Agents, Dist. 5.

The speaker opened his topic with a colorful recollection of Lachute half a century ago.

My earliest recollection is a train ride in the early nineties from St. Andrews to Lachute. The seats must have been hard, or the ride rough, for my brother took off his winter overcoat and folded it that I might have a more comfortable seat. The connections in winter at important railroad junctions, like Lachute, were not run on as close a schedule as they are now and the thing to do for the hour or two one had to wait, was to spend it in Roderique's Bar.

The scene in Rodrique's Bar was thrilling and exciting to a little boy of 2 or 3 years. It seemed filled with shantymen; one would tell a story, followed by thunderous laughter, and in another corner several would start up a shanty song. There was a cry of "Fire !" and before I could realize what it was all about, we were alone in the empty bar, all hands having gone joyfully to man the bucket brigade. The houses were just east of the Montreal Road, near the railway track, and by the time our train arrived, it seemed to me we passed through a wall of flame. The drinking song in the Bar Room, the ringing of bells, the excitement of the fire and children rescued from their burning home — is it any wonder that life, for me, so far as I remember, started right here in this hotel !

If I have described the burning of the home of anyone here, you can believe that for nearly half a century I have carried a sincere childhood sympathy.

Mr. Webster continued on the subject of his address, namely the "art of purchasing", and departments of industry related to that art. The subject traced the development of various phases in the textile trade, and the following excerpts are quoted for their unusual interest :

About the year 1850, Colonel H. Nye built a mill in Mexico. The mill was located in a handy place for natural Mexican cotton; it was near Mexico City, so that the product had a ready sale in that seaport capital. The methods of processing in those days were simple and the requirements of the trade also were not exacting, and altogether it was a happy, successful scene which the Colonel had to leave at the outbreak of the U.S. Civil War in 1863.

EARLIEST TEXTILE MILL

We next hear of General Nye in the Village of Hochelaga, 3 miles east of Montreal, building a mill on the banks of the St. Lawrence, but a wonderful advance over his previous efforts, as this was to be a steam operated mill.

This Hochelaga Mill, we believe the first to be built in Canada, was known as the Hudon Mill, Victor Hudon being the president and was the first mill around which, in succeeding years, has been built the present Dominion Textile Company.

During the 25 years which I have described, the art of carding, spinning and weaving was very slowly progressing. By the 1890's, England was turning out some very fine, solid power-driven carding engines, spinning frames and overpick looms. Some of the cards and spinning frames purchased at that time are still in operation; the overpick looms have long since been superseded, but it is only within the last few years that engineering ingenuity is beginning to catch up and improve and change the carding and spinning.

PRIMITIVE DYEING

During the time I have described, the chemical, finishing and dyeing requirements were very simple. I have no doubt that in Colonel Nye's Mexican plant what dyestuffs were used consisted of such simple things as the juice of onion peel, dried blood, some mineral dyes, such as might be obtained from local mud, clay, etc. To use these, some other simple things had to be obtained and many of you here will, no doubt, remember yourselves or heard your parents speak of the big barrels placed in the lavatories, so that the valuable urine would be saved. It made an awful smell, but it helped these vegetable dyes to obtain a degree of fastness. Another necessary and valuable product was the especiated renal of dogs. You have often heard of the stories travellers told in the olden days of the tremendous number of dogs found in Constantinople and in Rome, how they howled all night. Well the dogs created a valuable product and we used to buy carloads of pulverized dog manure from these countries.

ORIGIN OF "PIN MONEY"

There were very few commodities in those days. For instance, in the the case of so simple a thing as nails, there may have been half-a-dozen or so different sizes, but they were all cut nails. Pins were extremely expensive and hard to make, the heads being threaded on to the round body. A bride had to have real money to set herself up with such simple things as pins, hence the present-day expression of "pin money". Factories had to be located right alongside of water power, if they were to be operated by a water wheel, and altogether the functions of a purchasing agent were quite simple and generally carried out by some member of the family owning the mill. If it were a woollen mill, operating on some of the finer cloths, a member of the family would likely travel to Australia, Africa or the source of supply of the fine grade of wool.

By 1905, however, when the Dominion Textile Company was formed from the amalgamation of several companies, chemical science was expanding and the art of finishing and dyeing was greatly advanced by the introduction of aniline or coal tar processes; by the uses of vegetable oils, such as castor oil and animal fat in conjunction with starches from various plants, such as corn, potato, sago, wheat, rice, tapioca and a num-

Laurentian Boxing Club Opens Season With Big Program at Arena

DISTRICT AND MONTREAL BOXERS IN RING

On Saturday night the Laurentian Boxing Club staged its initial contest of the season before a fair attendance at Lachute Arena.

Boxers from Montreal, St. Eustache, Brownsburg and Lachute participated in eight good fights. The Lachute boys showed much improvement over last year, their intensive training evidently a big factor in this progress. Bob Taylor, of Brownsburg, pleased the spectators particularly, with his nice style.

The judges were—Mayor Wm. S. MacKimmie, Chas. Walker and C. Durocher, Official of the Provincial Boxing Association. Ed. Barker of Brownsburg refereed the bouts, and Lloyd Cruise was timekeeper.

Following is a summary of the evening's bouts :

Armand Gagné vs. Jean Paul Normand, local boxers, 135 lb. class — Normand winner, by decision.

Bob Taylor, Brownsburg, vs. Fernand Larose, Lachute; 135 lbs. Taylor winner, by decision.

Rolland Lefort vs. Lionel Gibeault, local entries; 112 lbs. Result, draw.

Cleo. Hooper, Lachute, vs. Paul Charland, Montreal. Hooper, winner.

Jean Pepin, Montreal, vs. Gaston Lavergne, Lachute Mills; 80 lbs. Lavergne winner.

Paddy Lavesque (Adam Berry) Golden Gloves, Montreal, vs. Lionel Girard, Lachute; 147 lbs. Girard, winner, technical knockout.

Lee Wilson, Brownsburg, vs. Paul Cirier, Montreal. Result, draw.

Jean Racine, St. Eustache, vs. Rosaire Dimico, Montreal. Dimico winner, by decision.

Abandonment of C.N.R. Line Becomes Effective Despite Protests of Councils

It is learned that official notification has been received by Lachute Town Council from the Board of Railway Commissioners, to the effect that the C.N.R. section between St. Canut and Cushing is to be abandoned and the tracks removed. This decision is given despite petitions of the Chatham and Lachute corporations for continuance of the line. The freight facilities — also presumably, the telegraph stations in connection with the depots in this county — will therefore be closed down.

Hon. G. Dansereau, Paul Sauvé Speak on Govmt. Bill to Acquire Toll Bridges

ST. EUSTACHE AND STE. ROSE STRUCTURES AFFECTED

Discussion on the government bill to place under control of the province toll bridges which now profit individuals or companies, was heard in the Quebec house last week.

The argument of the Government side was that when privileges of collecting tolls were given nearly 100 years ago there was no thought of the golden harvest to come in the form of automobile traffic. The Government spokesman was Hon T. D. Bouchard, Minister of Roads and Public Works, who argued that these privileges were granted for a period of only 50 years that has long since expired. He added, too, that none of this money was returned to successive governments which had done more than their share to improve the roads of the province with the consequent additional revenue to these private interests.

Mr. Bouchard characterized it as "unjust" that private companies or individuals were the only ones to profit from the increased revenues from road construction and improvements which set the province back $6,000,000 a year.

Paul Sauvé (Two Mountains) hoped the Government would continue a law passed by the former Duplessis administration that exempted the farmers of Two Mountains and Argenteuil Counties from tolls on the Ste. Rose and St. Eustache bridges. His argument was that these counties were isolated due to geographical location, and that, furthermore, it was residents of those counties who had contributed the most in tolls over those bridges since their establishment.

Hon. Georges Dansereau, Minister without Portfolio and member for Argenteuil, said that insofar as his electors were concerned they were broad-minded enough not to demand special privileges denied those of other counties.

Mr. Sauvé haggled that while he favored the Government taking over the private structures, he did not feel the farmers of his county should continue to pay for something they had in large proportion helped to "buy" many moons ago. He cited the law to show that, actually, none of these private bridges had any right whatever to collect tolls from automobiles, since the original law provided only "for pedestrians, horse-driven equipages, chairs and cattle" of all descriptions.

The law is still in its initial stages.

Councillor Opposed Purchase Of Firepump at St. Augustin; Suffers Heavy Loss in Blaze

FIRE-TRUCK IS RUSHED FROM STE. THERESE TO NEARBY VILLAGE

The council of St. Augustin, after due deliberation, felt it could not afford $500 to buy a second-hand fire pump. Early last Thursday morning fire broke out in Ubald Lallier's bakery and caused damage estimated at $10,000. Lallier is a member of the council and one of the group opposed to the purchase of a $500 fire pump.

Frantic ringing of the local church bell at three o'clock in the morning announced to St. Augustin's 900 inhabitants that fire had broken out in the 100-year-old building where his great grandfather started the bakery business Lallier operates. A rush call was sent to Ste. Therese, six miles away, but within an hour the neighboring town's fire pump had sucked local wells dry. A truck was requisitioned and shuttled back and forth to a small stream half a mile away.

By 10 o'clock Friday morning the fire pump was back in its Ste. Therese home (it cost $100 an hour for its services). By that time the wells were back to normal and local volunteer fire-fighters, aided by reinforcements from Ste. Monique, St. Hermas, St. Benoit and Petit Brulé, had control of the situation

The wall of Rodrigue Villeneuve's home, a short distance from the burning building, was damaged despite the unique efforts of neighbors to prevent the fire spreading. The neighbors yanked doors off their garages and leaned them up against Villeneuve's home. The flames made short work of the "protection" and attacked the house, no extensive damage being done, however.

Another nearby residence was also damaged. A stray spark landed on the supposedly non-inflammable material covering the front wall of the home and the flames had no more difficulty than they had on the garage doors. Tin covering over the walls of another home saved it from damage, destruction of wooden window sashes being the only loss.

Six families moved as many belongings as they could out on the street with the assistance of neighbors, a piano being among the furniture taken to safety.

Cause of the fire is unknown, an employee of the bakery stating that he had let the fire die down in the oven. Lallier discovered the blaze and escaped to safety with his wife, two children and the employee.

Absence of wind was the only reason the fire did not assume proportions which would have threatened the entire village.

Former Mayor and Councillor Of Mille Isles, Que., Dead At Age of Eighty-Four

An old and life-long resident of Mille Isles, Samuel Dawson, passed away on Friday, June 14th, at the age of 84. He was a member of Christ Church and had served several years as both mayor and councillor of the municipality. He celebrated his 50th wedding anniversary in 1932.

Left to mourn his loss are his wife, Priscilla Jane Elliott, also four sons and four daughters,—James H. Dawson, Lachute; Wesley, Mille Isles; Cyrus and William, Neville, Sask; Mrs. Albert Dew, Montreal; Mrs. Garnet Ivall, Neville, Sask; Mrs. Edgar Boyd, Morin Heights; and Mrs. Gordon Riddell, Crossfield, Alta., who has been here for some time assisting with the care of her father.

A short service was held at the home on Monday afternoon followed by a service at the Anglican Church, Mille Isles, and conducted by the Rev. Temple of Morin Heights.

Pall-bearers were Rev. E. E. Dawson, of Lacolle; Arthur Dawson, of Montreal, Ray Dawson, of Grenville, Russel Rodger, Arnold Maxwell, Clarence Rodger, Lachute, nephews of the deceased.

A profusion of flowers bore silent tribute to the memory of one who was honored and respected by all who knew him. The funeral was one of the largest ever held in Mille Isles.

Legion Performance Proves Success

Canadian Legion Branch No. 70 presented a successful performance at the Rex Theatre last evening. Feature comedies, with two films on Canada's war effort, "Atlantic Patrol" and "A Letter from Aldershot", were received enthusiastically by the attendance, many of whom had "standing room only" for a considerable time. A short singsong was enjoyed, and the veterans are gratified with the ready response to their public appeal for funds to carry on the Legion's work. The patriotic spirit thus demonstrated gives them courage to continue doing their part in again helping to win the war.

Appreciation was expressed by President W. Cross and Comrade J. F. Lavigne to the public and to Mr. and Mrs. A. Fassio for their co-operation.

Jitters and Excitement Will Only Damage Our Prospects in War, Says Finance Minister

COL. J. L. RALSTON ALLAYS FEARS ON CONSCRIPTION OF SAVINGS UNDER DOMINION'S NEW DEFENCE PROGRAM

Expected Budget Will Be Brought Down Friday

"There will be heavy taxes imposed in the budget, because they have to be if Canada is to do a real job in the war," declared Finance Minister J. L. Ralston in a radio address Tuesday night. Premier King in the House near the close of the sitting said the budget would be presented on Friday afternoon of this week.

The Finance Minister in his statement assured Canadians that their savings would not be affected by the mobilization measure and warned against the spreading of rumors to the contrary and that only did harm to the country.

"It has been suggested," said Col. Ralston, "that this measure will cause nervousness and might produce hasty and ill-considered action by those who have savings in one form or another. That idea fails completely to take into account the steadfastness and the courage of the Canadian people."

"An assurance," continued the Finance Minister, "that these new powers, if granted, will be used only when it is necessary to invoke them in the interests of the national safety is all that is required to allay any excitement or apprehension. That assurance I give most emphatically. You should completely disregard any rumors to the contrary."

"I believe the people will bear the increased taxes cheerfully," said Col. Ralston, who briefly outlined further financing steps to be undertaken by the Government.

"The Government will also from time to time be offering bonds for sale on terms which are reasonable and just, and I am convinced that people will subscribe for these bonds so as to provide the money which is necessary. That will be your smashing answer to Hitler.

"Let me remind you that this isn't just the Government's war; it is your war, and you will only be damaging our prospects in the war if you get jittery and excited and panicky and lose faith in yourselves. We are fighting this battle all together and we must trust one another.

"One of the outstanding characteristics of the Canadian soldiers in the last war was their steadiness under fire. I am sure that those of us on the home front will be just as steady and just as resolute and just as unflinching.

"My message tonight to everyone of you is this—In the words of the soldier, "don't get your wind up"; cool heads are just as necessary as stout hearts to win this war, and win it we must and we shall."

Willowdale Scouts are providing messengers and extra guards at the Toronto Flying Club field.

Arrest Alleged Hold-Up Conspirators, St. Augustin

Trapped by Provincial Police after they allegedly had been overheard planning a robbery at St. Augustin, Bernard Roux, 22, of Ste. Therese, and Rene Nantel, 22-year-old farmhand of the intended victim, were brought before Raymond Raymond, J.P., at St. Jerome, on charges of conspiracy, attempted hold-up and theft. They were remanded for arraignment before the District Magistrate on June 25.

Roux was taken by waiting detectives as he entered the farmhouse of Thylis Lallier at St. Augustin at 10 o'clock Sunday night, armed with a hatchet and a revolver. Nantel, Lallier's employer, was arrested four hours later as the "brains" of the duet.

Fire in Ste. Agathe Garage

Damage estimated at $1,800 was caused at the Lortie Garage at Ste. Agathe early Tuesday by a stubborn fire which threatened to destroy the premises. The blaze was discovered by a town constable on patrol. An alarm was raised at once and local firemen extinguished the outbreak within an hour.

LIGHT ARMOUR IN WAR

Mr. Kenneth Walker, a genito-urinary surgeon, has invented a light chest armour for use in warfare. It will probably prove to be very useful for 60% of the wounded in the last war were put out of action by projectiles other than bullets and 37% of those found dead on the battlefield had chest wounds. The vast majority of chest wounds prove fatal from haemorrhage.

Use 89 pc of Que. Red Cross Donations in War Work

Eighty-nine cents out of every dollar subscribed by the public in the Province of Quebec to the Red Cross campaign last fall has been spent on war work, according to a tabulation released by Col. K. M. Perry, D.S.O., president of the provincial division, who, at the same time, announced that a national appeal for funds for the society will open throughout Canada on September 23.

Subscriptions last fall in Quebec totalled $956,000 of which $645,000 has been spent in the period Jan. 1st to June 7, 1940. War work done by the Quebec division in collaboration with the national organization, to date, has cost $575,000, or 89 per cent of total expenditures in the period mentioned. The balance of expenditures, amounting to $70,000, has coverd the cost of work which must be continued under the "peace-time" program; administration and campaign costs, etc. Expenditures under the last two headings have been small, the president said.

A balance of $311,000 on hand will only be sufficient to meet expenditures until the next campaign is held, and Col. Perry explained that, in view of the European situation, practically all of this will be needed for war work. When the final accounting of the $956,000 is made it is expected that at least 90 per cent of the amount subscribed will have been used for war work alone.

In announcing the campaign date, Col. Perry said Red Cross has done magnificent work since the war started and more particularly since the invasion of several European countries by Germany.

"As emergency calls have come in they have been met by the Quebec Division," he said. "Warehouses have been emptied of supplies. Every resource of Red Cross has been used to meet the calls of the last few months and especially the last few weeks. But Red Cross could never have done what it has unless the public had subscribed as generously as it did in the campaign last fall."

Dominion Farm Survey Is Important to Agriculture

In June of each year, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, in co-operation with the Provincial Departments of Agriculture, distributes cardboard schedules to farmers for the purpose of collecting statistics of acreages under crop and the numbers of live stock and poultry on farms. An innovation of 1931 extended this survey to cover the breeding and marketing intentions with regard to live stock.

The acreages of field crops in particular, are the real foundation of the Government scheme of agricultural production statistics. Only slightly less important in our national planning is the necessity of having correct knowledge of the numbers of live stock on farms. The accuracy of the compilations in both these classes is largely dependent upon the obtaining of completed cards from a fair sample of the total number of Canadian farms.

We would suggest that the farmers of this district co-operate with the Government in this matter, as the statistics of Canadian agriculture are important for national planning and for posterity.

Drunken and Reckless Drivers Considered "Outlaws"

Nova Scotia through its Legislature has served notice that reckless and drunken driving on the highways of the province will not be tolerated. Premier Macdonald views drunken and reckless drivers as "outlaws who should be treated as such." He cautions against "misplaced sympathy" in dealing with them. From the Highways Minister comes this assurance, "So long as a motorist continues to be an habitual drunkard he will never get his license back from me."

The first step was taken on Monday, by Messrs. Wilson and Company, towards the erection of a paper mill here. The sod was turned and work actively entered into. Flags were hoisted.

A boy was driving a horse and cart, and undertook to give the horse a drink at the river, when horse, cart and the boy all went suddenly down in deep water. The horse swam across with the cart, but the boy jumped out half way across and was nearly drowned. When sinking for the last time, he was seized by Mr. McArthur, butcher of this town, and Mr. Cleland saved the boy.

Butter is bringing 16c and 17c per pound. Two years ago it was worth 10c.

A letter from England to a citizen of Lachute, being addressed "Argenteuil Republic" instead of "Argenteuil County", travelled to South America before being received here by the person it was intended for.

London, Eng. — Right-minded people are chafing under the nation's "humiliation", as they call it, arising from Mr. Gladstone's apology to Austria.

Mr. Bannerman has given a large order to Messrs. W. J. Simpson, for lumber for the new cordage factory.

Boy Scouts were used by Jack Miner to help band and liberate a number of wild ducks and geese in the presence of a record crowd of school children from Detroit.

"TOTAL" WAR

New and tragic meaning has been given to the phrase "total war" by the recent march of events.

Millions of Hollanders, their homes in ruins, their parents, friends and children dead, now know what "total" war means. . . . The citizens of Oslo, ground under the heel of a barbaric conqueror, know what "total" war means. . . . The heroic Belgians, their homeland overrun by the tanks and flying columns of an implacable foe, know what "total" war means. . . . The French, beaten to submission and the fate of a conquered people, in sorrow and tears have seen the outcome of "total" war.

Our own fighting men on land and sea and in the air — face to face with the monster of force the twisted mind of Hitler has created — they too know what "total" war means.

We wonder if Canadians, living peacefully and going about their accustomed tasks, appreciate the gravity of the hour — how filled with destiny are the days that lie immediately ahead ?

This is indeed a "total" war. It is a war not of armies, navies and air forces alone. It is a war of whole peoples ; and to wage it successfully it is imperative that the total resources of our nation be directed to what must be our one consuming purpose — to win the war.

Today a means has been provided whereby everyone in Canada, regardless of his station, can do his bit to further this great crusade. War Savings Certificates now being offered by the Dominion Government enable the masses of Canadians who are still fortunate enough to be living in the Dominion to make a direct and continuing contribution to Canada's war effort.

To buy War Savings Certificates is an investment in patriotism — an investment in our own security and freedom — an investment guaranteed by Canada herself. It is our plain duty — yes, a privilege too — to buy War Savings Certificates. . . . We, too, can serve — by saving.

ODD PENNIES FOR CHARITY

On the first anniversary of the death of King George V, the banks of Great Britain and Northern Ireland were athorized by some 200,000 of their depositors to deduct from their accounts at the close of business that day the odd shillings and pence and pay them to the King George Playing Fields Foundation for the development of public recreational facilities throughout the United Kingdom. The sum raised approximated $473,430. For each depositor it was a gamble as to how much his contribution should be — it might turn out to be only a halfpenny, it might be 19 shillings, nearly a pound. As it worked out, the average contribution was nearly 10 shillings.

This unique — and practically painless — method of raising money for charitable purposes was first tried out in Coventry, where seven per cent of the depositors agreed to participate ; in ten days $5,115 was raised. When it was decided to apply the scheme nationally, the banks and postal savings banks agreed to help ; the press co-operated by publishing blanks for depositors to sign and send their banks. Movie theatres and radio gave further publicity to the campaign. As a result of its success in Great Britain it will probably be used elsewhere in campaigns for charities. In countries such as the United States and Canada, the largest individual contribution would be only 99 cents ; but that would be balanced by the larger population.

—H. Callender, in The Reader's Digest

TOWN HAS POPULATION OF ONE

Arundel-on-the-Bay, Md., is a "one-man town", incorporated. Elijah Wells, retired seaman who is sheriff, fire chief and caretaker at this resort, was the whole "population" back in 1930 also, making Arundel-on-the-Bay and Bourne, Ore., by census count, the only one-person incorporated towns in the United States.

A census official reveals that this is still a one-man town. In summer, the resort has hundreds of residents, who elect a mayor and commissioners. It was incorporated in 1898.

NOXIOUS WEEDS

It is generally recognized that one of the most efficient divisions of the City Health Department of Montreal is that of Sanitation, the Superintendent of which is Mr. Aimé Cousineau, who is so widely known for his accomplishments in his own special field. On his recommendation, the Director of the Department of Health has succeeded in having enacted a very important by-law dealing with noxious weeds, a by-law that shortly will be put on the statute books.

It is unnecessary perhaps to state that ragweed is one of the principal causes of that very distressful and incapacitating affection known as hay-fever. The summer type of hay-fever can be largely prevented through the efforts of the citizens. That prevention consists simply in carrying out the provisions of the by-law which, in substance, are as follows :—

Whereas it is in the public interest to protect human beings against hay-fever, cutaneous eruptions and other similar maladies by the eradication and destruction of noxious weeds before their seed matures ; and to promote cleanliness and prevent all nuisances caused by such weeds ; it is enacted and ordained that the words "noxious weeds" mean and include ragweed, poison ivy, golden rod and any other plant of a nature, in the opinion of the Director of the Department of Health, to cause, among human beings, hay fever, cutaneous eruptions or other illness of similar kind, or to cause a nuisance.

And further that, for the purpose of this by-law, all noxious weeds existing in the city on farms, lands, lots, whether under cultivation or not, are held to be a nuisance ; and further that, under penalty of a fine, the owner or occupant of such property must, within a fixed delay, eradicate and destroy the noxious weeds.

There is every reason to believe that this summer will see a big influx of American tourists to Canada. That influx will be greatly accelerated and increased when it becomes known that our communities are free from ragweed and hay-fever. It would perhaps surprise many citizens to know how frequently enquiries are made as to the extent to which ragweed has been suppressed in their city. It is well known that many tourists avoid those cities where noxious weeds are allowed to flourish. It therefore behooves all citizens, both from an economic and a health point of view, to put their house in order in this respect.

—Col. R. St. J. MacDonald, M.D.

ORIGIN OF THE SKYSCRAPER

Most people are of the impression that the sky-scraper is an American invention, whereas the idea was evolved in the mind of a French architect 340 years ago. In the Bibliothèque Nationale (National Library) of Paris was recently discovered a volume written in 1601 by Jacques Perret of Chambly, in which this architect and author describes a very tall building of his own invention . "This grand and excellent pavilion in which one can lodge 500 persons in comfort and luxury" was to be of 160 feet frontage, 145 feet in width, with walls 10 feet thick. The edifice was to rise 12 storeys, and have a little pavilion on the roof surrounded by terraces, and was thus to reach an altitude of 350 feet. There is no record of the building having been erected.

THE SCIENCE OF TRUTH ?

"Arithmetic is the science of truth," said the professor earnestly. "Figures can't lie. For instance, if one man can build a house in 12 days, 12 men can build it in one."

"Yes," interrupted a quick-brained student, "then 288 will build it one hour, 17,280 in one minute, and 1,036,800 in one second. And I don't believe they could lay one brick in that time !"

While the professor was still gasping the smart reckoner went on :

"Again, if one ship can cross the Atlantic in six days, six ships can cross it in one day. I don't believe that either ; so where's the truth in arithmetic ?"

Then he sat down.

Every Canadian Can Do Something About This !

SENATORS FLAY TWO UNITED STATES JOURNALS

Two Senators have drawn attention of the Government to articles appearing in the Chicago Tribune and the Saturday Evening Post which they consider anti-Allied. Hon. Raoul Dandurand, Government leader, promised he would consult with the appropriate Government department.

Senator P. E. Blondin (Con., Quebec) declared that in articles and editorials the Chicago Tribune had recently been carrying on a "vicious and vehement anti-Allied campaign," and had referred to British "propaganda" and British "lies."

The Senator suggested that as this newspaper was circulated in Canada, some steps should be taken against it, particularly since the Tribune obtained its newsprint largely through a Canadian subsidiary, the Ontario Paper Company, with mills at Thorold, Ont., and Baie Comeau, Que.

Conservative Leader Meighen declared the Tribune a "nauseating mixture of ignorance and malignancy from the first line to the last; and will do more harm among similarly ignorant people than anything else I know of published on this continent.

"I could use language at least approaching what I have said with respect to another sheet, the Saturday Evening Post," continued Senator Meighen. "I do not believe the times are such that ordinary rules can be applied; and I think we might well inject a little virility into our policy with respect to this kind of mendacity."

At Least, We Can Keep War Out of the Home

Homes may still be focal centers radiating peace, if the kindly thoughts of George L. Perin are kept in mind : "No frown ever made a heart glad; no complaint ever made a dark day bright; no bitter word ever lightened a burden or made a rough road smooth; no grumbling ever introduced sunshine into a home. What the world needs is the resolute step, the look of cheer, the smiling countenance, and the kindly word. Keep sweet."

Old stuff ? Yes, but so is the Sermon on the Mount. In proportion as it has been lived up to, great good and much happiness have resulted.

SILENTITE Pre-Fit FRAME • WINDOW • SCREEN AND STORM SASH

MORE... WEATHER-PROOF THAN ANY OTHER WINDOW MADE

THE makers of Curtis Woodwork spent nearly three years in research, testing and planning before the new SILENTITE Pre-Fit Window, Frame, Screen and Storm Sash were offered to the building public.

Tests conducted at the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory prove SILENTITE to be more weather-proof than any other window made. This means a more comfortable home, lower heating costs.

The SILENTITE window unit is weather-stripped— metal to metal. It is pre-fit at the factory and the frame fits any type of wall. It has no weights, cords, pulleys. Springs operate the sash silently, smoothly. It permits the use of narrow trim; admits more light; provides greater wall space for furniture.

Arrange to include this new window in your plans. It is not high-priced. Inspect it here—without obligation.

LACK OF VITAMIN B PRODUCES VARIETY OF DISEASES

There is a growing belief among many authorities that persons should take the vitamins they need in the form of foods as much as possible, and that if they eat a well-balanced diet they will as a rule, receive all the various vitamins they need. But there is no doubt that concentrated individual vitamins do have an important part in treatment of certain diseases. The doctor knows best the conditions in which concentrates can be used effectively and the dosage that is to be used.

What was formerly known as vitamin B is now recognized to be made up of a number of different vitamins, called the vitamin B complex.

A lack of various parts of this vitamin B complex produces a variety of diseases. For example, if there is not enough of vitamin B1 in the diet, the individual will develop certain disorders of the nervous system. Vitamin B complex produces a variety of chloride. Without enough nicotinic acid, which is also part of the vitamin B complex, a person may develop pellagra.

Vitamin B2 is now known as riboflavin. The lack of this substance is found to be responsible for a number of disorders. For example, an inflammation of the lips with cracking at the corners of the mouth, has been shown to be due to lack of riboflavin.

A number of persons who were suffering from a lack of vitamin B complex were given thiamin chloride, riboflavin, and nicotinic acid by Dr. Tom D. Spies, of the University of Cincinnati. He found that these individuals rapidly improved, and that their condition became better so that they could go to work, with the result that they had funds to buy better food, and subsequently were restored to good health. When the individuals continued to take these various vitamin substances, even though they did not make a change in their diet, their health improved.

According to Dr. Spies, single vitamins alone are not effective. In order for persons to be "fit," they need a fully balanced vitamin diet containing all the necessary food parts.

The persons he observed, even though they were getting certain parts of the vitamin B complex from foods eaten, nevertheless were using diets which are lacking in some important substance. As a result they did not show proper progress.

Fifty persons with pellagra were treated by giving them thiamin chloride, riboflavin and nicotinic acid. Yet these persons developed disturbances of the eyesight in which there was severe burning, itching and dryness. Dr. Spies suspected that these persons lacked still another vitamin called vitamin A. Often the persons stated that there was a sort of scum over the eyes and that their eyes hurt when they went into the sunlight. The lining membrane of the eyeball became extremely red and when the eyes were exposed to the sunlight, they became painful. It was found that these symptoms tended to disappear in the late Summer but returned again in the Fall and Spring, but just why could not be stated. These are symptoms of vitamin A deficiency.

When these persons were give vitamin A in large amounts, it was found that they were able to read better, that the burning of the eyes stopped, and the inflammation of the lining membrane of the eyeball disappeared. However, there was no improvement in such symptoms as dizziness, although the individuals stated that they felt better and stronger.

According to Dr. Spies, this would seem to indicate that when individuals develop disorders due to improper diets they usually are lacking in a number of the food parts rather than in just one of them. Certain eye disorders which develop in persons who are not using a well-balanced diet may be due, particularly, to a lack of vitamin A and are corrected when this vitamin is given in large amounts.

Every individual should make sure that he is using a well-balanced diet at all times to prevent the disorders that deficient diets produce. There is still much to be learned about the various disorders which may develop as a result of improper diets or failure to get all of the necessary parts of food, particularly vitamins and minerals. A well-balanced diet should include vegetables, fruits, milk, whole-grain cereals and cod-liver oil or some similar preparation.

Is Cancer Contagious ?

"Can cancer be contracted from other people ?" —Worried

Answer — There is no evidence of which I am aware that cancer is contagious.

Albumin in Urine.

"About six months ago, my ankle and foot began to swell. An analysis showed albumin in the urine. The doctor advised removal of the teeth. Do you think I can be cured ?

—R. M. D.

Answer — Whether or not a complete cure of your condition is possible depends on the disorder present.

From the description given, it seems that you have chronic nephritis — a chronic inflammation of the kidney. By proper diet, rest and other methods of treatment, it is possible the condition can be brought under control.

Wart on Hand

"My daughter has a wart right below the index finger, near the palm of the hand. Can you tell me what to do to remove it ? —A Mother."

Answer — The cause of warts is not known, but it is possible that some of them are due to infection. There are different kinds of warts — some are deep-seated in the skin, while others are more on the surface and, therefore, are more easily removed. Some types of warts may be removed by cauterizing them with acetic acid, or by freezing them with carbon dioxide snow. Others may be removed by the application of nitric acid, or by means of an electric needle. They should be removed by the physician.

Speaks Without Larynx

E. M. Otis of Willoughby, Ohio, has started his thirty-first year as superintendent of the Willoughby schools.

Unusual in itself is his lengthy service, but Otis has overcome a physical handicap that threatened the end of his teaching career.

Last year Otis had his larynx removed. The operation deprived him of use of his vocal chords and made breathing possible only through a small hole in his throat.

Undiscouraged, Otis learned to talk through an accomplishment rare in medical circles. He talks now by drawing air into his body and expelling it through his throat by use of his diaphragm—at the same time forming the words with his lips and teeth.

BRAIN VS. BRAWN

First burglar after emptying safe : "Let's reckon up the haul to see what we've got."

Second burglar : "Aw, I'm tired. Let's wait and look in the newspapers."

PRAYER

Dear God, our country needs Thee
To help and heal and bless,
To give the rulers wisdom,
To grant the right success,
To feed her many millions,
To keep her always free,
To lead her in the way of Christ,
Where they may walk with Thee.

Protect her by Thy presence,
Grant pardon, peace and power,
Dear God, then show Thy favor,
Through every future hour.

HELPING THE TOURIST
Helps
CANADA

EVERY year well over 10,000,000 tourists visit Canada from the United States. They spend some $250,000,000 in the Dominion. ¶ Canada's tourist trade has become one of the most important sources of the country's national income. Under stress of war, American tourist dollars are vital in providing needed exchange. ¶ Canada's Chartered Banks materially assist in promoting this valuable trade. Over 3,000 branch offices provide the tourist with familiar banking services throughout the Dominion—often in the most remote areas. At any of these branches travellers' cheques are cashed, drawings under letters of credit negotiated, money exchanged, tourist information gladly furnished by managers and staff. ¶ By friendly, courteous treatment and efficient service, Canada's Chartered Banks add to the warmth of welcome and encourage the stranger within our gates to return another year.

In war, as in peace, Canada's Chartered Banks maintain, uninterrupted, all their services to depositors, farmers, manufacturers, exporters—facilitating the nation's business—looking forward to peace with freedom as the only sure basis for enduring prosperity.

DEVELOPING THE ARTS

Pioneering countries do not develop many artists or writers. Canada is past the pioneering stage and our younger generation is turning more and more to the Arts. A friend tells me that their sixteen year old son is writing considerable poetry. They think it has merit and he plans to make writing his life-work. He does not hope to make a living by writing poetry but he does hope to do newspaper work. The fact that he is writing poetry was surprising. I have not seen him for a few years but as a small boy he was a regular little rough-neck. A regular boy, but the last one in the world you woul imagine would have any poetic tendencies. A neighbor's seventeen year old boy read us some of his poetry just last week. It had a maturity and finish quite surprising. Not the sort of thing one expects from a youth his age. He has a very definite manual and mechanical ability. Things not usually associated with a poet. So one never knows where poetry is going to break out. Our present educational system is developing an appreciation and a knowledge of the Arts, which our earlier education lacked, and we may expect the growing generation to have a wider diversity of interests.

TOO MUCH CHERISHING

Both old and young suffer from too much protection. Mothers sometimes take such care of their children they are not allowed to fend for themselves and their independence is sapped. The tables are turned in other cases and children take such care of their parents as they grow older they might as well be wrapped in cotton wool. Because they adore them they cherish and protect thm too much. One woman who is suffering from too much care from her children says, "it is bad enough to know you are getting old without being made feel old all the time." Her children simply adore her, and rightly so. A woman who has worked for her for years says she is an angel from heaven. They are so afraid she will do too much and get tired that they fairly stifle her. Undoubtedly she has more ambition than strength. But after all, if you can't do what you want, when you are old, when can you do it ? Mothers suffer specially from this too cherishing specially from this too cherishing care. Give the poor dears a break and let them do as they like. After all, if they do shorten their lives a little by too much activity, isn't it better to live fully, than to live a longer time, and only exist ?

A WAXED FINISH

Waxing furniture is one of the best methods of preserving and caring for it. The secret of good waxing is to use very little wax. Go short on the wax and long on the elbow grease. Put a piece of wax inside two thicknesses of cheese-cloth before applying. This will give the desired thin film instead of too much. Then rub and rub and rub. For a high polish use a succession of thin applications and polish between each one. Nothing keeps the dining-room table looking as nice as waxing.

COOL DRINKS FOR WARM DAYS

Hot days which come in June seem very exhausting and nothing helps like a cool drink. There are so many canned fruit juices available now that it is easy to have a supply on hand for mixing. Syrup is much better to use than sugar as sweetening as it is already dissolved and blends much easier. It is easy to make so keep a supply ready. Lemon syrup is a convenience and can be used with water alone, or it may be mixed with any other juices.

SIMPLE SYRUP

Boil two cups of sugar and two cups of water for about five minutes. Bottle and keep in the refrigerator to use for sweetening drinks.

LEMON SYRUP

2 cups sugar, 2 cups water, 2 cups lemon juice.

Boil the sugar and water for five minutes, add the strained lemon juice and bottle and keep in the refrigerator. Two tablespoons of lemon syrup added to a glass of water is about the righ proportion.

PEACH CREAM CAKE

2 tablespoons granulated gelatin, ⅛ cup milk, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 cup hot milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup peaches (fresh or canned), ½ cup marshmallows.

Soak the gelatin in the cold milk for five minutes. Add the sugar and hot milk and stir until well dissolved, allow to cool and when partially thickened, add the vanilla and the peaches and marshmallows cut in pieces and stir well. When very thick pour into a cake shell. To make the shell remove the inside of a cake leaving a two inch rim. Allow the filling to set and then ice the cake with chocolate icing. This is a delicious dessert and makes a good company one as it may be made in the morning.

BEAUTY

By Helen Jameson (Mme. Qui Vive)

EGG SHAMPOOS FOR OILY HAIR

Girls with fine, sleek hair that always seems to look as if it had been larded complain bitterly. One hirsute thread huddles up to another and they all stick to the scalp as if they were glued there. No life, no fluff. The finger wave hasn't any endurance. Ringleted ends go limp and the girls look shaggy.

Overactive sebacous glands are not always the cause of this trouble. It is possible that the shampoos have not been properly done, that the shafts are coated with soap scum. Conditions can become so obstinate that soap won't remove these deposits. The only way to get rid of them is to use eggs. In some shops benzine is applied, but no girl should monkey with that; she is likely to set herself afire. Eggs will cut away the gummy substance.

For an ordinary head of hair eight eggs are required. Seems like a lot, and a waste of good groceries but to try to get the hair clean with three or four is silly. It just can't be done.

Don't use the egg beater. Put four eggs in a glass cup, thrash 'em a little bit with a fork. Begin by rinsing the hair with a bath spray. Use a strong current of water.

Half fill the wash basin with warm water. Hold your head over the bowl, pour the eggs on a little at a time — don't let them slip into the water if you can help it— and friction briskly. Lift your locks here and there so the shampoo medium will be distributed. When they are all used, slosh up the warm water with the cup. Be thorough. Use elbow grease.

Back to the bathtub for a rousing old rinsing with the spray, then apply the rest of the eggs that have been beaten slightly. They will foam up like a rich lather. Move your finger tips in circles around the hair lines — forward, sides and back. Spread out thumbs and fingers and claw your scalp. A vigorous shampoo is as good as a scalp treatment. Have a final rinsing and don't be skimpy with it. You can use the water fairly hot. If particles of the eggs cling to the hair shafts the brush will remove them.

If the beauty seeker feels that the use of eggs is an unnecessary extravagance she can employ melted soap for the first washing, use four eggs for the second sudsing. But an all-egg shampoo is satisfactory if the oily brain blanket has been acting up and driving her crazy.

Instead of using metal curlers at once, the hair should be hand dried. It will appear thicker, will stand away from the scalp. By moistening the ends only with a setting lotion the ringlets will survive longer.

HOW TO LOOK TALLER

Pint-size girls bewail their lack of inches but you shouldn't pay any attention to their sobs. They're only foolin'. They know they're as cute as a baby's bonnet. They revel in kid clothes. They can wear the latest do-dads without looking silly. And it has been said by observing gentleman that half an armful is sweeter than a whole armful. We're just passing that statement along for what it may be worth. We do know that tall girls aren't popular dance partners as little ones who are light on their toes and don't wear a fellow out.

Of course, my paper friends, all small girls don't make the best of their beauty blessings, nor do they always select clothes that are suitable for small stature. When they get to thirty or forty they feel the dignity of their years and start wearing middle-aged clothes, which is a whooping big mistake. Look as if they were tagging round in their grandmother's duds. The tiny woman with a slender figure is entitled to wear youngish attire when she is sixty. It suits her miniature frame. If she lets herself get fat and go to seed, that's something else. If she's a member of this beauty class she won't. She'll know what to eat, what not to eat, and she'll give birthdays no thought at all.

Most important is the selection of the hat. The halo mode with high brim upturned in front is ideal. The flat sailor is out. The high crown is all right if there is a brim; if there isn't a brim she'll look impish and out of form. Her hat should be pert and sassy, never formal.

As for hair, the soft, free effect is her best bet. A high, sleek, rigidly arranged coiffure will add years, doesn't suit her at all. The bob should not be too long because it will exaggerate the size of her head and make her body look smaller. The semi-pompadour is a help. The swept back effect at the side won't do unless there are curls and puffs behind the ears.

If her forehead is small and narrow, the eyebrows can be extended slightly with a crayon.

Skirts of any length can be worn by the tabloid ducky. She looks well-belted if she hasn't gained weight. She can wear kid collars, the round or square neck.

High heels were made for her, because she has dainty feet and, being light weight, they won't make locomotion difficult, as is the case when the poor trotters have to carry too big a load. She can wear stockings of any color that she prefers. Having small hands, gloves can be gay. What has she to grumble about, anyhow ? Even if she can't see the parade go by, she's lucky.

APPETITE TANTALIZERS

By Betty Barclay

Canned Hawaiian pineapple gems from tropical Hawaii, because of their tangy, zestful flavor are especially attractive to summer appetites. Try them well-chilled and right from the can or in combination with other foods.

Pineapple Trifle

Pineapple trifle has been created especially with the children in mind. To prepare, merely top squares of sponge cake with thoroughly chilled and well drained canned Hawaiian pineapple gems. Cover with chilled soft custard and garnish with a cube of currant jelly.

Gem Rosettes

To prepare, drain and dry canned Hawaiian pineapple gems with absorbent paper. Top each gem with a rosette of cheese. Make these by running cheese through a pastry tube. Pimento cheese mashed and softened with a little cream is colorful and blends well with pineapple. So does cream cheese or Roquefort cheese spread.

After appetizers are prepared, place in the refrigerator on a tray until very cold. To serve arrange on an hors d'oeuvre tray garnished with grape or geranium leaves, sprigs of mint or nosegays of water cress.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN
Famous Authority on Good Manners and Good Taste

DO YOU MAKE THESE LETTER-WRITING ERRORS ?

1—If you're a married woman, do you sign a letter, any kind of letter, like this :

Very truly yours,
Mrs. John Smith

or, even worse,

Sincerely,
Mrs. Mary Smith

If you do, make up your mind never to make that mistake again. Never, in the direct signature of a letter, sign your name with a title. You should sign your informal name Mary Brown Smith, and then, if necessary to inform the reader of your formal name, write, underneath your direct signature, and a bit to the left of it, (Mrs. John Smith).

Here's the correct form of signature for a business or professional letter :

Very truly your,
Mary Brown Smith
(Mrs. John Smith)

Or let's say you're signing a social letter, written to someone who doesn't know the name to be used on the envelope of a letter to be addressed to you. Here's the correct signature :

Sincerely,
Mary Brown Smith
(Mrs. John Smith)

It's foolish to persist in signing a letter with a form of signature that is a give-away that we don't know what's what in correct signatures. It's your name and you should know how to sign it !

2—Do you automatically abbreviate every word that you can possibly abbreviate, not realizing that abbreviations indicate haste and carelessness, two qualities not in good taste ? You should use as few abbreviations as possible : that is, only when they are absolutely necessary, as in Mr. and Mrs.

Make it your pleasant and careful habit to spell words in full; it doesn't take any longer, or at most only a second or two longer, to write out the names of states, cities, months, the words Street, Avenue, Road, and so forth. Your envelopes and the general appearance of your letters will show care and good taste. This suggestion is just as important in business letters too.

3—Do you write your letters in pencil ? Reach for a pen instead of a pencil and show your mannerliness.

4—Do you thinks it's 'smart" to use colored inks ? It isn't . . . only black or dark blue ink is in good taste.

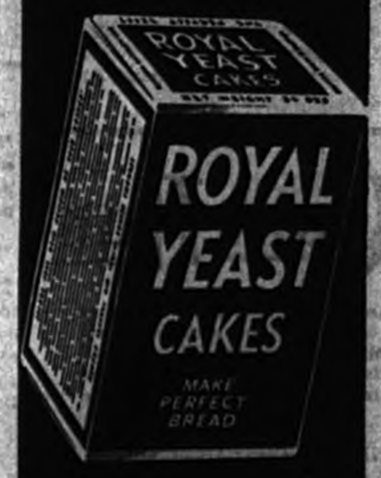

5—Is it your habit to use subjectless sentences in your letters and especially on your post-cards ? It's an unattractive habit, makes you letters sound provincial. It's just as easy to write, correctly, "I received your letter" as to write, incorrectly, "Received your letter".

COURTESY TIP

A question on a recent quiz program was, "What were some of the pieces of advice that used to be flashed on the screen in the pre-talkie days ?" And one of the correct answers was, "Ladies will please remove their hats." Oh, for a return to those good old days !

ber of others. Many countries became famous for some particular chemical and the purchasing agent had a world field in which to look for his products.

DUTIES MORE COMPLEX

Today it is necessary for the purchasing agent to have access to a scientific lab., so that the quality of what he buys may be checked against his specifications, and, if one buys acid from Constantinople, or from Canada, irrespective of its origin, it is exactly the same product.

At the cloes of the Great War, the patents of the various enemy countries were known, almost every country in the world took a trek in manufacturing. Whereas, in 1913, Germany probably produced 90% of all dyestuffs and England manufactured 90% of all textile machinery and the bulk of textile supplies, from 1918 onwards, United States forged into first place, England second, France third and Germany fourth.

When my Mother used to buy her sheets at the local store, she took them home and gave them a good wash before putting them on the beds; today my wife buys her sheets and immediately puts them on the bed, because they have a nice finish, and she is greatly grieved if that finish is not exactly the same after it has returned from a half-a-dozen trips to the laundry. Mother thought she washed the filling and the impurities out; today, my wife does not realize that there is just as much so called filling, and she cares less. What she wants is a perfectly sanitary article, which has the good appearance she desires and which keeps its finish.

She buys a dress, which is guaranteed not to crease, or a drapery which must no fade. We, ourselves, buy suits of woollen cloth, and, if we go out and do some strenuous job and perspire under the arms, and it shows a mark, we take the suit back. If we drive our automobile with our left arm out of the window and there is a change in the color, we take it back; in fact, we haven't time to button it and insist on a zipper, which is foolproof, or underwear that's buttonless.

Now where does this leave the purchasing agent?

Elbert Hubbard, who went down on the Lusitania, wrote that the purchasing agent of his day had "a fish eye, a clammy hand, a heart of stone, but that thank God he didn't reproduce and finally went to Hell".

At the same time, you salesmen used to tell a story about a strong man, Louis Cyr, who took two lemons in his hand and squeezed them absolutely dry. He then challenged anyone to take either of the lemons and obtain a drop from them. A purchasing agent, however, at one of these shows, took one of the lemons between his hands and squeezed enough out of it to make a good drink! I can assure you that those days are gone forever too.

The essential thing he has to buy is the correct quality, at the best price and delivered as required. Beyond that, however, he must see that his suppliers are kept in business. Mr. Roy will bear with me when I say that I made a desperate effort to keep in business the man who supplied us with wooden cases. Whereas the Dominion Shuttle brought out a new light weight plywood product, better in every way: I could not make the change until I was sure that the old manufacturer, who had suited me so long, positively would not and could not make the plywood.

The purchasing agent must be ready at a moment's notice to supply his senior officer with any information regarding taxes, dollar value of purchases, sources of origin, and the agricultural and development of almost any country in the world. He must be up in the political situation and be able to observe intelligently the things which he sees and reads and classify that observation, so that he may possess almost exclusive information on world markets, world conditions, price trends and industrial inventions. All this sounds like work, but it actually makes life extremely interesting.

WAR EFFORT GAINS MOMENTUM

New Department of National War Services Designed To Direct the Efforts of Voluntary Organizations

Governor General's First Official Act, Assent to Mobilization Bill

Ottawa, June 25th — In this hour of great danger to Canada's existence as a free nation, when France has been forced to succumb to the mechanized power of the enemy, and the British Commonwealth stands alone, though undaunted, determined and confident in the path of the foe — Canada has taken measures to mobilize her entire resources in the prosecution of the war. By act of Parliament which passed both Houses on Thursday last and was given Royal Assent by the Earl of Athlone as his first major official act after being sworn in as Governor General at Ottawa, the Government has been given authority to mobilize the manpower and material resources in defence of the country. There is no conscription for overseas service. That will continue on a voluntary basis. But all men of the country under 45 years of age may be drafted for military training or for work in essential services. The national registration which begins at once will indicate the particular kind of work for which each person will be best suited. Men fit to bear arms will receive military training but the mobilization is not confined to manpower. The government has been given power to take property, and wealth, natural resources and industry for the defence of Canada.

The bill was debated for three days in the House of Commons. Only two or three members of the House of Commons opposed the conscriptive power given to the government. An amendment to the bill attempting to rid the act of its compulsory features was defeated by a vote of 202 to 2. The New Democracy members endeavored to insert an amendment which specifically mentioned the mobilization of financial institutions and the issuance of debt-free money to finance the war. . . The Prime Minister said the measure was the most important introduced in the present session.

There will be no coalition government in any form in the Dominion. The Prime Minister has declared that the present administration is truly national. It has come fresh from the electorate with an emphatic mandate. One new department of the government to aid in the great war effort has already been promised. This will be the Department of National War Services, designed to direct the activities of existing voluntary war services. Thousands of Canadians are offering to help in any way they can. The department will organize these efforts, will care for evacuated children, and refugees, will look after comforts for soldiers, the economical use of food supplies, campaigns for war loans and contributions, attraction of tourists and various other matters arising from the war and contributing to its successful prosecution.

Canada's war effort is rapidly gathering the momentum demanded by the present emergency, not only in military fields, but in the production of war supplies. Mr. C. G. Power who has been acting Minister of National Defence until Col. Ralston is finished with his budget, has told the House that Canada has over 110,000 men

Colonist Settlement Of Ste. Agathe Commemorated

More than 4,000 persons witnessed the unveiling, on Sunday, of a tableau commemorating the arrival in 1861 of the first French-Canadian colony of pioneers to settle in the area which is now the town of Ste. Agathe.

Msgr. J. B. Bazinet, parish priest, blessed the tableau in the presence of Hon. T. D. Bouchard, Quebec Minister of Roads and Public Works, and other noteworthy visitors.

Mr. Bouchard, in a short address, appealed for unity among all nationalities in the country, especially between the French and English. In referring to world conditions, he expressed the hope that the future would be bright " with the aid of that Great President to the south of us."

Service Clubs Here Are Represented

MEMBERS OF TWO GROUPS ATTEND CONFERENCES

Several members of the Lachute Lions Club attended the District Convention, held the early part of this week in the Mount Royal Hotel, Montreal. The local delegates included—Messrs. Philippe Roy, C. and D. Tremblay, W. M. Cottingham, S. S. Campbell, H. M. Lavigne, Hugh Johnson, J. S. Giles and R. Duncan.

At a business session of the Hundred Club International, held in the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa, on Wednesday, the following representatives attended from the local club—Messrs. Georges H. Héon, L. W. Armstrong, Gordon McOuat and P. E. Leger.

More Store Fronts Are Modernized

Among new store fronts which are contributing to the steady modernization of Lachute's business streets are—the Arcade Ethier butcher shop on Bethany, which has been attractively renovated; North River Motors Ltd., where the exterior renovations are now completed; and the Rex Café, operated by J. Raymond, where the front and show windows are now being replaced.

The former Lemay home on Grace Street, which is being conducted as a tourist and boarding establishment known as "Colonial Inn", also presents a striking and attractive appearance to passers-by.

Association Foregoes Outlay, Buys War Loan Instead

Dalesville — The Dalesville Community Club held their regular meeting at the home of Miss Sybil Wert. It was decided that, instead of investing in a lot at this time, the group would put their money to better use by buying Government Loan Bonds. In that way they would be helping to a certain extent in Canada's war effort.

Airliner Makes Mercy Stop

North Bay, Ont. — Transcontinental "Trip One" of the T.C.A. does not usually stop at North Bay, but a special "Mercy Stop" was made here recently when a shipment of serum was rushed from the Banting Institute, Toronto, to the North Bay Hospital. The plane was held 10 minutes at Malton Airport for the serum.

Lachute Physician Badly Hurt in Auto Crash

ON HIGHWAY BETWEEN STE. ROSE, STE. THERESE

Dr. L. P. Sauvé, well known physician of this town, was the victim of an automobile accident on the Laurentian highway late last Thursday afternoon. The crash occurred near the golf course between Ste. Therese and Ste. Rose, when Dr. Sauvé's car, traveling toward Montreal, collided with a car driven by J. Nelson, of Ste. Therese, which was proceeding northward.

Sustaining a fracture of the skull, ribs and collar-bone, Dr. Sauvé was taken to Montreal, where he is reported making satisfactory progress in the Western Hospital. His automobile, badly damaged, was later brought to Lachute.

Start Active Recruiting for Canadian Grenadier Guards

Active recruiting for the Canadian Grenadier Guards, C.A.S.F., recently mobilized with the Fourth Division, is now under way at Montreal, with many vacancies still open for young men of excellent calibre and physique who wish to serve their country with the armed forces. The senior volunteer militia regiment of the whole British Empire, the Guards, are calling for men of 18 to 45 years, at least 5'8" of height in stockinged feet, and in perfect health.

While these demands seem strict, they are in observance with the prerequisites set by Guard regiments all over the world. No matter what army, no matter what country, Guards have always been admired as the acme of military perfection. In the British Army, the 1st Regiment of the Grenadier Guards is the senior of all foot and line regiments. Allied with this famous unit are the Canadian Grenadiers, who enjoy the same precedence in this country. Gone are their proud scarlet jackets and bearskins, gone their impressive ceremonial parades, at least for the duration of hostilities. Now they are in the drab khaki of battle-dress, complete with modern equipment so necessary to their modern infantry battalion.

As was the custom of the old 87th Battalion, Canadian Grenadier Guards, during the last war, the present regiment are sending a travelling recruiting unit to the various towns and districts outside Montreal to encourage young men to join the army and serve their country. The results obtained by the 87th, both in number and quality of recruits have prompted Lieut. Col. M. F. Peiler, E.D., Lieut. Colonel Commanding, to adopt the same policy.

While the schedule has not been announced as yet, it is expected that the unit will be on the road this week, visiting the Eastern Townships. Persons interested in joining the Guards will find information as to army pay and allowances obtainable at the recruiting truck. Following enlistment, all recruits will be sent to Montreal, where they will appear before a medical board.

The Town Council of Thornbury, Ont., placed two acres of land at the disposal of the local Boy Scouts as a reforestation project.

7-Year-Old Child Killed Instantly By A Truck

ACCIDENTAL DEATH IS VERDICT OF JURY

Accidental death was the verdict returned at an inquest Saturday night in the case of Jean Robinson, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jean Robinson, Lachute Mills. The youngster was killed immediately when he ran into the side of a truck. The vehicle threw him down, the rear wheel passing over his head. A jury empanelled by Coroner J. H. Mason, M.D., held an inquest at the Rodrigue residence. They heard evidence from the owner and driver of the truck, Albert Pagé, and from eyewitnesses, to the effect that around 8.30 o'clock Saturday evening the child, emerging from the Lacasse Restaurant, Main Street West, ran between two automobiles and into the side of the truck. He was carried to the office of Dr. A. Rodrigue, near the scene of the accident. The physician gave testimony that the child had been killed instantly, life being extinct when he made his examination. The verdict of the jury attached no blame to the truck driver.

The boy is survived by his parents and several brothers and sisters. Their home is north of Main Street adjacent to the North River, — Jean Robinson, the father, being an employee at the mills.

Modify Speed Law; Motorists' Signals To Be Enforced

AMENDMENT TO 35-MILE SPEED RULING

Quebec motorists are allowed to use their discretion in the matter of speed when travelling on hard-surfaced highways where there are no dwellings or buildings, as the result of an amendment to the Motor Vehicle Act passed by the Legislative Assembly, but "an unreasonable speed" is forbidden.

The bill forbids a speed in excess of 50 miles an hour on hard-surfaced roads to which dwellings or buildings have access.

Motorists may travel at 40 miles per hour on mountain roads or on gravel roads affording good visibility in a straight line, but must slow down to 20 miles per hour on winding mountain roads, on curves, in commercial districts, in front of schools, at intersections and at level railway crossings. It is forbidden to pass on a curve or when climbing a steep hill.

Specific rulings will also be enforced in connection with signals. The bill states : "Every driver of a vehicle desiring to stop, slow down or turn on the road must make the following signals :

Left turn : place the arm horizontally; right turn : place the arm upwards; stop or lessening of speed : place the arm downwards.

Every driver must stop at every place where there is a stop sign.

Camouflaged tents will be a wartime feature of such camps as the Scouts of Great Britain are able to hold this summer.

Convicted for Attempted Hold-Up at St. Augustin

Two penitentiary sentences were imposed by Magistrate Donat Lalande at St. Jerome on Tuesday.

Bernard Roux, 22, of Ste. Therese, received a three-year term for an attempted armed hold-up of P. Lallier in St. Augustin on June 16. Roux was also convicted of breaking into Lallier's home and of stealing truck tires from the Quidoz piano factory in Ste. Therese. He received similar sentences on these two charges, the terms to be served concurrently.

Rene Nantel, 28, also of Ste. Therese, was given two concurrent four-month terms for helping Roux in the St. Augustin hold-up and burglary.

WARTIME BUDGET ANNOUNCED

Every Household Affected By Drastic Levies

Civilian Canada is marshalling its dollars for an economic thrust in the war against Germany and Italy. When the Minister of Finance, Hon J. L. Ralston, announced his war time budget in the House of Commons at Ottawa on Monday, there was scarcely a home that was not jolted into a new realization of the war's seriousness.

Wider income taxes brought out new contributors to the Government coffers and raised the levy on others. A national defence tax starting at two per cent was applied to everyone with a yearly salary of more than $600.

Along with these there were increased taxes on automobiles, tires and tubes, radios, cigarettes and tobacco, and a sharp increase in the excess profits tax.

The plans for financing the war brought no protests. There was speculation on how the new taxes would affect business, but there was also a general agreement that sacrifices must be made by all in the war effort.

Automobile dealers expect a reduction in the sale of cars as a result of the new tax on sales which ranges from 10 per cent on the manufacturers' price of cars up to $700, to 80 per cent on the price of machines above $1,200.

Though no formal protest was said to have been made by automobile dealers, they consider their business in the higher priced cars very adversely affected. The budget fundamentally was designed to curb extravagant spending and also to conserve exchange.

In Parliament the general idea regarding the budget is that, however oppressive it may appear to be, it is the only way to keep going — to sustain and enlarge the war effort and also to sustain intact the financial structure and the financial institutions of the country.

Incidentally, it is surmised in Government circles that some who have been complaining of Canada "doing nothing" in the war and clamoring for "action" may be persuaded by their tax bills that the enterprise is much more extensive than they imagined.

Budgeting for a deficit of between $550,000,000 and $600,000,000, Mr. Ralston, in the first budget of his public career and the second of this war, presented proposals for tax changes that would yield an additional $280,000,000 in a full fiscal year. Some phases of the new taxation schedules will be criticized when the debate gets under way. The New Democracy groups will urge resort to other means of financing than taxing to the limit and borrowing. Their remedy is regarded as inflationary.

Boost War Savings In Novel Way

MOTION PICTURE THEATRES CO-OPERATE WITH GOVT.

In accordance with a coast-to-coast gesture of the motion picture industry to boost the sale of war savings stamps, and thus to co-operate in the national war effort, the local theatres announce a novel admission fee of two 25-cent savings stamps, with no extra charge, for their performances on Monday, July 15th. The stamps, however, will not be turned in as an admission ticket, but will be purchased at the Rex or Capitol box office and retained by the patrons.

It is hoped this patriotic gesture on the part of the movie industry will meet with enthusiastic public response.

W.I. Ladies Attend Provl. Conference

Mrs. Geo. Leggett and Mrs. S. S. Campbell are attending the annual W.I. Convention at Macdonald College, as official delegates of the Lachute branch. A party of about 25 ladies from this branch attended on Wednesday.

Other groups from this county were also represented by their appointed delegates and by additional members. An interesting and profitable session was reported yesterday, in spite of unfavorable weather which detracted from the pleasure of motoring to the convention. . . A report of the proceedings will be given by the county publicity convenor in a later edition of The Watchman.

Youngster Has Foot Crushed, Riding Train

FELL FROM A MOVING FREIGHT CAR

An accident which might have had graver consequences occurred Monday evening on one of the Lachute Mills sidings of the C.P.R., when a six-year-old youngster, Marcel Gibeault, son of Mr. and Mrs. Armand Gibeault, had his foot badly crushed while stealing a ride on a moving freight car. A wheel of the car caught the boy's left foot, severely burning it and crushing the big toe.

Gibeault was taken to the office of Dr. Jules Lafleur for treatment, and was later removed to Ste. Justine Hospital, Montreal; surgeons found it was not necessary to amputate the injured foot.

Purchase Fine Horses

It is reported that Mr. Arnott, of Rensselaer Falls, N.Y., recently purchased three registered Clydesdale horses from James Lees, Lakefield, while M. J. Gautreau, of Quebec, has purchased the registered Percheron stallion "Nelson" from Duncan Dawson of Mille Isles.

Welfare Assn. at Lost River Holds Social Function

INTEREST STIMULATED IN NEW COMMUNITY GROUP

Lost River — A successful evening was held in the Orange Hall on Tuesday, June 18th, under the auspices of the Lost River and District Welfare Association. F. B. Allan, president of the Association, extended a welcome to the gathering. Music for the dancing was supplied by F. B. Allan, Rod Chisholm and Jack Williams, while music for the children's games was supplied by Miss Viola Moncrieff. Refreshments were served by the ladies, with ice cream for the youngsters.

A feature of the evening was the draw for a pair of woollen blankets, donated by Mr. W. H. Ayers. These were won by Neil McCluskey, who held the winning ticket, number 244.

During an intermission Rev. J. Herbison addressed the meeting on the aims and objects of the Association, and the manner in which these could be achieved. Mr. W. Morrow also spoke along somewhat similar lines. Several new members were enrolled, and the interest evoked bespeaks the success of this community enterprise.

In the near future a picnic for all residents of Lost River and district will be sponsored by the Association. The plans for this function are well in hand, and announcements as to the time and place will be made at a later date.

The next regular meeting of the Association will be held on Tuesday, July 2nd, when several important matters will be discussed.

Britain Anxious to Send Prisoners to Canada

Ottawa — Plans are being made by the Canadian Government in co-operation with Great Britain to have enemy aliens and German prisoners moved to Canada.

The wishes of the British Government are that Canada should take, first of all enemy aliens interned in Great Britain, secondly German prisoners in the British Isles, and thirdly, that consideration should then be given the matter of evacuated children.

The internment operations branch in Ottawa has been preparing for some time to receive these new aliens and German prisoners. They will be interned in new camps and kept separate from aliens already held prisoners in Canada.

It was also disclosed in the House that a number of British school boys will shortly arrive in Canada to resume their education. An offer has been made by the Canadian Government to receive children from five to sixteen years old, and in some cases under five. No children will be sent without the permission of their parents or guardians. A large number of people in Canada already have offered to extend hospitality to refugee children from Great Britain and a national organization with provincial subsidiaries has been established to supervise and assist in their reception.

VISITORS BARRED FROM INTERNMENT CAMPS

Among other measures taken by the Canadian Government to curb subversive activities in Canada is the suspension of visiting privileges to Internment Camps at Petawawa, Ont., and Kananaskis, Alta. Previously, internees were allowed visitors once a month.

British Admiralty Orders Ships of Concrete

Reinforced concrete is being used for building British ships, the Admiralty having recently ordered a number of concrete barges.

Larger sea-going vessels may also be built by this method, which has been made practicable owing to the revolutionary progress made by British engineers and scientists in the technique of reinforced concrete during the years of peace.

It is claimed for concrete ships that they are sometimes as much as 35 per cent cheaper to build and repair than steel vessels, they do not require such heavy building equipment or much skilled labor, their speed is equal to comparable steel ships carrying the same crew and with similar engine power, and they can withstand buffeting from heavy seas better than their steel counterparts.

Another enormous advantage in war time is that steel is released for other vital purposes and England herself has unlimited quantities of the chalk, stone and sand for making concrete.

During and after the last war when there was a shortage of steel and general ship-building facilities, about 100 concrete ships totalling 150,000 tons carrying capacity, were built in Britain, Norway, the United States, France, Italy and elsewhere. Some of these vessels were as large as 6,500 tons, and proved quite successful, although none have been built since 1922.

Since those days British concrete research has been unceasing. Compressive strength has increased threefold, great improvements have been made in steel reinforcement, and a tensile strength of 27,000 pounds to the square inch is now possible, against only 16,000 pounds in 1918.

Rock Wool Insulation Hundred Years Old

The oldest "modern" form of insulation, mineral rock wool, is this year celebrating its hundredth anniversary. According to W. M. Cottingham of the Cottingham Supply Company, mineral rock wool was first made in Wales in 1840, but was used only in the manufacture of ornaments and decorations until about the turn of the 19th century, when in the United States real progress began to be made with the commercial use of the product in home insulation.

In 1887, the Scientific American Magazine published an article on the possibilities of rock wool as a novel method of insulating a house against heat, cold and sound. Around 1898 a small plant to manufacture rock wool was started in Salem, Va., but failed within two years. Investigation in 1937 of several houses in the vicinity of Salem insulated with the rock wool from the plant revealed, however, that after nearly 40 years of service the wool was in perfect condition.

Real progress in manufacturing rock wool commercially began in 1897 when Mr. C. C. Hall, a chemical engineer, erected a steel plant in Alexandria, Indiana, and in searching for a suitable fluxing rock for his blast furnaces discovered one which could be fiberized into wool, and which came to be called "Rock Wool". This led Mr. Hall to found the Banner Rock Products Company which became part of Johns-Manville in 1927. Since that time the manufacture and development of rock wool has been continuous, until today rock wool is one of the most widely used forms of fireproof insulation.

In appearance rock wool is light and fluffy, and when manufactured for insulation in new homes is made in the form of batts of uniform density and thickness, thus providing maximum insulation efficiency. Rock wool insulation is one of the greatest contributions to the comfort of a home, as experience has shown that, properly installed, it can keep a home up to 15 degrees cooler on the hottest days of summer, as well as warmer in winter, at the same time effecting substantial savings in fuel.

GROUND GLASS USED FOR HIGHWAY MARKING

Automobiles will be running over ground glass on at least a part of Quebec's highway system during the summer, according to a recent edition of The Chief, official periodical of the Quebec Police and Fire Chiefs' Association. The white markings on a section of the highway on the Isle of Orleans bridge below Quebec City were traced with ground glass in the paint preparation. The glass, resembling granulated sugar, is spherical in shape and will not affect automobile tires.

The exponents of its use expect it to reflect the white markings brightly at night in the headlight beams. The tests are the first in the Province of Quebec, although it has been used previously in Ontario.

FIRE PREVENTION ORDINANCE

A by-law stipulating that all chimneys in the city be cleaned at least once a year, has been passed by the Sherbrooke, Que., city council.

Originated by Police Director Arthur Maranda as a fire prevention measure, the by-law came into immediate effect, and to ensure that its stipulations are observed members of the fire department will make a systematic and regular check in all rural residences. A fine not exceeding $20 will be levied on those who fail to have chimneys, fireplaces and flues cleaned within the allotted time.

BAGHDAD'S NOVEL BUSES

Baghdad is to have one of the most modern fleets of motor buses in the world, with equipment specially designed for the climate of Iraq. A big British motor engineering works which makes London's buses has had an order from the recently formed Baghdad Metropolitan Transport Board for 50 single-deck oil-engine buses. This is the first order given by the Transport Board, which is modernizing public transport facilities in Baghdad.

"The buses are of the very latest type, embodying all the most recent developments in public service road transport. But in addition there are special features designed to suit them for their particular service," said the engineer in charge of the work.

"They will have two compartments, first and second class. The first class compartments will have electric fans, and a special ventilation system will operate throughout each vehicle. The inner and the outer panels of the bodies will be insulated against heat by means of a new fabric which will not be visible.

"The first class sections are to have upholstery of hide, and the second class seats will be of cane mesh. There will, of course, be left-hand steering, and each vehicle will seat 31 persons in addition to the conductor and driver."

NO MORE SKYSCRAPERS ?

An American authority on real estate says that the era of the skyscrapers has ended, as seldom more than four-fifths of their space is occupied. And then there is the overhead.

The Columbia University Press prints statistics to show that in Canada fifty-nine per cent of the urban population live in single dwellings, and forty-six per cent of all dwellings are owned by their occupants.

TOWN OF SWASTIKA, ONTARIO, RETAINS ITS NAME

The railroad-junction town of Swastika in Northern Ontario refuses to adopt another name.

Mayor Reeve J. Carter points out the name was taken from the Indian language which is loosely interpreted as meaning "peace." And whether Hitler or the rest of Canada likes it or not, he says that peace it is and peace it shall remain.

DEMOCRACY NOT EASY

Democracy is not an easy form of government. Under a benevolent autocracy the average man is saved the trouble of thinking about all matters that are within the province of government, but democracy can succeed only if there is a majority of men who have vision enough to think clearly and that cool undying kind of courage that enables them to hold to their opinions in the face of both embattled opposition and disarming laughter. Propaganda that makes the worse appear the better cause; that makes men accept unsound political panaceas for no better reason than that which leads them to purchase a particular brand of toothpaste; that can obscure and distort facts in such a way that clear thinking becomes impossible. And ignorance is the ally of propaganda ; ignorance that today is based as much upon individual unwillingness to take the trouble to analyse available evidence as it is on any actual lack of facts.

SAFE DRIVING PRACTICES

The following "safe driving practices" are recommended by Howard M. Baker, traffic specialist of the Montreal Police Department :

First and foremost, give the proper arm signal before making a turn.

Next, get in and stay in the proper lane when making right and left turns.

Get in and out of your car on the side nearest the curb. Four motorists were killed last year through getting out on the street side.

Do not park too close to corners as you only block everyone's view and seriously increase accident exposure.

Be sure you have the right of way before proceeding.

Always signal your intention when pulling away from the curb.

Don't try to jump the amber light at a signalized intersection; there very probably is another chap who has the same bright idea.

When you are urged to double park just stop to remember what you thought of other people who double parked when you were driving along.

Then there is the pedestrian side. What are some safe walking rules ?

Of course, the most important rule is to cross only at intersections. Our facts prove what happened to people last year who did not.

Then, cross only on the green signal light.

Look in both directions before stepping off the curb.

While waiting to cross, stand on the curb and not on the street.

Walk — do not run — across streets.

On highways, walk facing traffic and wear light colored clothes at night.

Before alighting from a streetcar or bus, make sure that the traffic is clear.

Never step out carelessly from behind parked cars or obstructions.

Do not try to weave your way through traffic — wait until the way is clear.

Britain's Ubiquitous Navy

By "Taffrail", the Famous British Naval Writer

British Admiralty communiqués have told that strong naval forces have continuously been employed in the face of repeated bombing attacks by German aircraft. . . . Operations on land have been supported by gunfire from the sea. . . . Parachute troops landing on beaches and aerodromes have been routed. . . . Refugees in their hundreds have been brought to England from the Low Countries. . . .

The details of this work are naturally lacking, and the full story may never be known until the end of the war. But one may imagine the instant readiness for action, and the intense watchfulness, required of the ships working in the North Sea, the Channel, the Atlantic and the Mediterranean.

There can be no real rest for anyone in ships working in such conditions in the face of a sudden, though not altogether unexpected, emergency, with tremendous things happening almost every minute. Apart from German action, there are the navigational dangers as well. Lighthouses and lightships have probably been extinguished, and buoys removed. The coasts of Flanders and South Holland are studded with shoals and sandbanks. Thick weather is not infrequent, and the tides are strong and uncertain.

Though the Navy occasionally achieves a blaze of publicity with its more spectacular exploits like the defeat of the "Admiral Graf Spee", the two battles of Narvik on April 10 and 13, and the hair-breadth adventures of certain submarines, its daily work does not excite the imagination of the reading or listening public as do tales of personal gallantry or German ships sunk. The number of mines swept up or destroyed is not published, and for very good reasons. Nor are many accounts published of U-boats attacked and sunk, or the total number destroyed since the war began. Reticence in this respect is enforced to avoid giving valuable information to the Germans.

Yet the Navy, every section of it, and the Merchant Navy as well, has been in action ever since the war started. Consider the incessant work of the minesweepers and the patrol craft off the shores of Britain. They sweep the channels, and guard and protect British ports and coast-wise shipping. Many of these little vessels have been taken over from the Merchant Navy and the Fishing Fleets, and are manned in great part from the officers and men of those Service. Their names sometimes appear in the Honor lists; at other times as casualties, which is inevitable. But we hear little of their work.

Think also of the convoys and the convoy escorts, which must continue to run if Britain is to be fed and maintained whatever other active naval operation may be in progress in the North Sea and elsewhere. Their work has now been arduous and incessant for nine months and if proof of their success be needed it is known that up to May 8th, 19,222 British, Allied and Neutral ships had been escorted in British convoys with a loss of thirty-one ships. This works out at a loss of one ship in every 642.

Take again the magnificent work of the British Fleet Air Arm, that comparatively young Service manned by young men. In its thousands of miles of flying over the open sea; in the defence of British troops and ships in Norway; in its attacks upon German bases, warships, transports and supply ships, the Fleet Air Arm has taken up into the air the naval fighting tradition of centuries.

The Navy rather shuns publicity, and so does its sister Service, the Mercantile Marine. But of a truth, the Grace before meals, that some of us were taught in our childhood, may well be taught again today :—"For what we are about to receive, thank God and the British Navies."

HITLER HAS EYES ON CANADA

"To my certain knowledge — and I have warned all whom this may concern — Hitler considers as a precious realization of 'vital space', in case of victory, annexation of Canada."

"MOUNTIES" PICTURE ANNOYS HITLER

Hitler doesn't like the Mounties. A movie theatre in Basle, Switzerland, recently exhibited a film on the life of the R.C.M.P. entitled "Canada's Mutige G-Maenner" (Canada's Courageous G-Men). The poster, advertising the film, showed the Mountie on parade, driving into the North by aeroplane and canoe. It also printed this paragraph : "Canada : the great and rich land which is sending its sons to fight the barbarians across the Atlantic."

That aroused the Nazis across the German frontier. In its indignation, the Voelkischer Beobachter, chief Nazi paper of Berlin, reproduced the poster with two arrows darkly pointing to the offending paragraph.

"We ask our readers to draw their own conclusion of Swiss neutrality," the Voelkischer Beobachter lamented, not without menace.

NO EXCESSIVE PROFITS IN WAR SUPPLIES

Hon. C. D. Howe Minister of Munitions and Supply, speaking in the House of Commons, Ottawa, June 14 :

"I may say that all the supplies the Department of Munitions and Supply have purchased since the war began have been produced at a profit which, I am sure, does not exceed 5 percent.

The Rev. C. W. P. Baugh, father of the bride, officiated.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Horace G. Baugh, the bride wore a full-length dress of white crepe, with matching accessories and a corsage of red roses. She was attended by her sister, Mary Kathleen, who wore an aquamarine gown, with rose turban, also wearing a corsage of red roses. The groom was attended by Mr. Percy Tomalty.

The mother of the bride was gowned in black crepe with white accessories and wore a corsage of sweet peas. The step-mother of the groom wore a black ensemble with a corsage of red roses.

Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played by the Rev. A. E. Mount. The church was beautifully decorated with spring flowers and an evergreen cedar arch framed the entrance to the chancel.

The young couple left for a motor trip in the Eastern Townships. The bride wore a suit of flowered silk with matching navy and white accessories for travelling. They will reside in Brownsburg.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Sharpe, of Three Rivers, Que., Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Baugh, with their daughter, Carol Jane, and Mr. Howard Baugh, of Montreal.

Draper - Noble

A pretty wedding took place on Wednesday afternoon, June 19th, in Mille Isles Anglican Church, when Myrtle, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Noble, Cambria, was united in marriage to Mr. George Draper, son of Mrs. Draper, of Mille Isles. The Rev. J. V. Temple, of Morin Heights, officiated.

The bride, given away by her father, was dressed in a gown of blue, with accessories to match, and carried a prayer book.

Miss Hazel Noble was her sister's only attendant, and Mr. Willis Black, the bride's cousin, supported the groom.

Through the efforts of Mrs. Allan Buxton the church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with roses, ferns, irises and spring blooms. Mrs. Buxton also played the wedding music during the signing of the register.

A reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, where an enjoyable evening was spent and dainty refreshments were served. The bride and groom were the recipients of many beautiful gifts.

Drew - Miller

The marriage of Miss Barbara Winnifred Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Miller, of Sutton, to Mr. William Winston McOuat Drew, son of the late Dr. and Mrs. John McOuat Drew, of Lachute, took place quietly on Saturday afternoon, at four o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents. The ceremony was performed by the Venerable Archdeacon Charters and Miss Jean Miller, sister of the bride, played the wedding music. Both bride and bridegroom were unattended.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a model gown of palest pink chiffon, fashioned with sweetheart neckline, long full sleeves, fitted bodice and long full skirt. Her veil of matching tulle illusion was held in place by a Juliet cap of tulle trimmed with tiny pink rosebuds and she carried a shower bouquet of sweetheart roses.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Drew left by motor for Vancouver where they will make their home. The bride wore for travelling a navy blue two-piece ensemble with touches of red and white, matching hat, shoes and gloves and corsage bouquet of gardenias. She carried a red pigskin purse.

under arms, of which 26,000 are abroad (including Great Britain). Some are in the West Indies, in Newfoundland and Iceland. About 30,000 more are being recruited for the third and fourth divisions. The raising of an additional 40,000 men has been authorized. The minister mentioned the formation of the veterans' home guard, and the extended recruiting and training of the non-permanent active militia.

NEW GOVERNOR GENERAL

The welcome which has been given to the new Governor General, the Earl of Athlone and his wife, the Princess Alice, from the time they arrived at Halifax until they took up residence in the vice-regal home at Ottawa, has been simple and sincere. The ceremony of swearing in the King's uncle as His Majesty's representative in the Dominion, which took place in the Senate Chamber, lacked something of the glitter and pageantry usual to such ceremonies in peacetime, but held, as it was, under the shadow of a war in which all members of the British Commonwealth are standing shoulder to shoulder in the cause of freedom, there was a new dignity, a new solemnity and a new sense of comradeship in the time-honored ceremonial.

Wartime intercessions are being held every Wednesday evening in St. George's Church, Brownsburg, from 7 to 7.15 o'clock, and in St. Simeon's Church, Lachute, from 8 to 8.15. All are welcome to these services.

St. Simeon's Church, Lachute

The St. Simeon's A.Y.P.A. held their last meeting of the season at the rectory on Thursday evening last. After the business had been dispensed with —which included the buying of a war certificate, donation of a pair of blankets to the Red Cross, also plans for the coming rally to be held in Grenville Wednesday evening — the President, Crawford Anderson, in well chosen words presented Miss Ethel LeGrand and Mr. Harry Pibus with gifts in token of the A.Y.P.A.'s appreciation of their services during their stay in Lachute. The rector, Rev. W. LeCras, then wished both of these members continued success in their work and expressed heartfelt thanks to Miss LeGrand for her active work in the Sunday School, which would be very much missed.

The Sunday School picnic was held on Saturday afternoon in Mr. Pollock's grove. A large crowd attended, and a happy time was enjoyed by all present.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

"Christian Science" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday, June 30th.

The Golden Text is from II Peter 1:21. "The prophecy came not in old time by the will of man : but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible : "If ye love me, keep my commandments. And I will pray the Father, and he shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you forever ;" (John 14:15,16).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy : "Christian Science is dawning upon a material age. The great spiritual facts of being, like rays of light, shine in the darkness, though the darkness, comprehending them not, may deny their reality. The proof that the system stated in this book is Christianly scientific resides in the good this system accomplishes, for it cures on a divine demonstrable Principle which all may understand." (Page 546).

ST. ANDREWS EAST CHURCH GROUPS

St. Andrews E. — The W.M.S. of the United Church held their annual birthday meeting on Tuesday afternoon at the home of the Misses Pitcairn. Fifteen members and friends were present. Mrs. Mowatt extended special greetings to Mrs. B. N. Wales, 89 years, Mrs. Charman and Miss Jeanette Wales who share the same birth date. After the regular meeting a happy time was spent around the tea table — the piece de resistance being a beautifully iced birthday cake aglow with pink candles and full of surprises.

Members of Christ Church paid a surprise visit to the home of Mr. Victor Willet on Monday evening. On behalf of the congregation, the Rev. T. Ball presented Mr. Willett with a purse; he expressed sincere regret of all present that Mr. Willett and family are leaving the community, and wished them "bon voyage" and much happiness in their new home and re-union with their sons.

Mr. and Mrs. Willett and daughter, Joan, leave on Thursday for Kootenay, B.C.

ST. MATTHEW'S CHURCH

Grenville — Good progress is being made on the work of erecting the garage, woodshed and drive-shed of the rectory. The work is in charge of Mr. Vernon Dawson, who is giving his services, assisted by the voluntary labor of a number of the men of the congregation. A bee will probably be held next week to finish the building.

Last Sunday, in St. Matthew's Church, the Rev. K. N. Brueton announced that at the recent vestry meeting the following appointments were made : Mr. Ross Matthew was appointed Rector's Warden, in place of Mr. H. Rayson, who has left the parish; Messrs. Stanley Dewar and Vernon Dawson were elected members of the Select Vestry.

Arrangements are in full swing for the strawberry festival in the rectory grounds on Saturday, June 29th.

President, Chicago Board of Health

HAY FEVER SUFFERERS CAN FIND RELIEF

About three out of every hundred persons dread the coming of Summer. Summer to them means sneezing, coughing, watery eyes and a running nose — in short, hay fever. These persons are sensitive to pollen of certain plants. They breathe the pollen-laden air; the pollen causes an irritation which develops into what is known as hay fever.

Hay fever is evidently an hereditary condition, to some degree at least. In other words, the tendency to be sensitive seems to run in families.

The pollen which causes hay fever is carried by the wind. It is produced in large quantities by plants and trees, and is light enough to be carried long distances.

A person with hay fever has recurrent attacks of sneezing with watery discharge from the nose, watering of the eyes and sometimes shortness of breath. The symptoms disappear at the end of the hay fever season but return again the next year.

During the hay fever season the lining membrane of the nose is swollen and has a bluish-white appearance. If the nasal discharge is examined it is found to contain a large number of white blood cells, known as eosinophils.

Once a diagnosis of hay fever has been made, it is well to have skin tests carried out to determine which pollen is producing the trouble. These skin tests are made by injecting the pollen extracts into the skin or rubbing them into scratches made in the skin and noting if a red ring occurs around the scratch or point of injection within 15 minutes to an hour.

Some persons with hay fever the year round may be sensitive to dust, to orris root, tobacco, even to foods which they eat.

In treating hay fever, it is well to give injections of gradually increasing amounts of the pollen to which the person is sensitive. Of course, this treatment must be carefully carried out by the physician to avoid any reactions. Any foods to which the individual is sensitive should be omitted from his diet. He should be instructed according to Dr. H. J. Lee, of Oshkosh, Wisconsin, to avoid swimming, long drives in the country, and playing golf during the season when he has his symptoms. He also should not have cut flowers in the house during hay fever time.

In farmers and workers who are exposed to dusts that may help cause their difficulty protection may be given by a simple mask made of gauze. Masks for protection against pollen often do not work satisfactorily because they must be removed at meal-times and are difficult to wear while sleeping.

There are certain medicines which the physician often gives to help relieve the symptoms of hay fever. These include ephedrine and epinephrine. Recently, efforts to lessen sensitivity to pollen by giving pollen by mouth have been attempted, and good results reported in certain cases.

With proper treatment many of the symptoms of hay fever may be relieved.

Heartburn

"In the past few months, I have been troubled with heartburn. Could you tell me what possibly could be the cause of this ? —C. A. M."

Answer — Heartburn comes from many causes, such as gallbladder disease, ulcer of the stomach, chronic constipation, and appendicitis. Eating too rapidly, or eating the wrong foods also will produce this condition.

Keep on Vaccinating

"Two years ago, my daughter had two vaccinations. Neither one took. She is now six years old. Is it necessary for her to have a third, or will it harm her ? —Alice A."

Answer — Attempts should be again made, at this time, to vaccinate the youngster against smallpox. It is advisable that these efforts to vaccinate be repeated at intervals of three to six months, until a "take" is obtained. The vaccination will do no harm.

English botanists, writing about common rhubarb in 1597, said that it "purgeth away naughty and corrupt humors."

Famous Operas...

"LA FORZA DEL DESTINO"
(The Force of Destiny)

By Giuseppe Verdi
Text by Piave
First produced at Linengrad, (St. Petersburg), 1862
Place : Seville, Spain.
Time : 18th Century.

Leonora, daughter of the Marquis of Calatrava, is resolved to marry Don Alvaro, son of the Viceroy of Peru, against the wishes of her father. Aided by her attendant, Curra, Leonora plots to elope with Alvaro.

After the lights have been extinguished at the mansion Don Alvaro arrives and enters Leonora's room, in order to help her away, but she refuses at the last moment. Finally, after persuasion by her lover, she consents and as they are about to leave, the Marquis, disturbed by their voices, rushes in with sword drawn. He orders the arrest of Alvaro; the latter, not wishing to cause friction, throws his pistol away, but as it hits the floor it explodes killing the Marquis, who with his last breath curses his daughter.

Leonora's brother, Don Carlo, disguised as a student goes to an inn at Hornaceulos vowing to kill his sister and her lover. Leonora, on losing track of Alvara, is determined to take refuge in a convent. At the Church of the Madonna degli Angeli, she prays, then ringing the convent bell she enters and makes her confession to Guardiano the Abbott, who consigns her to a life of prayer and solitude.

In the meantime Alvaro has joined the Spanish troops under the name of Federico Herreros; entering the camp one night, he hears the clashing of swords. He rescues Don Carlo from an attack of ruffians. They become friends, though their identities are unknown to each other.

After a battle Don Alvaro is brought in seriously wounded; he is tended by Carlo and the surgeon. Believing that he is to die, Alvaro gives Carlo a package of letters to burn unread. Don Carlo is suspicious of his friend as the murderer of his father, and his suspicion is confirmed by finding the picture of his sister. Later, at the military camp, Carlo accuses Alvaro of murdering his father, and seducing his sister, and demands a duel. Pleading innocence on both counts, Alvaro is forced into battle, but soldiers separate the combatants.

Don Alvaro enters the monastry as Father Raffaelle. As the Abbot, is discussing him with a friar, the bell rings violently, and Don Carlo demands to see Father Raffaelle. He insults Raffaelle, who withstands the taunts as well as a slap in the face. Eventually he loses his control, and the two men go out to fight to the death.

Leonora, hearing the clash of swords near the grotto, goes to the scene and finds her brother fatally wounded. Alvaro knocks at the door of the grotto seeking the hermit to give absolution to Carlo. Leonora is embracing her brother, when he, remembering his pledge, stabs her to death. Don Alvaro, losing his reason after this tragic outcome, jumps to his death to the rocks below the grotto.

HINTS FOR HOMEBODIES

By JESSIE ALLEN BROWN
Specially written for Readers of The Watchman.

A DIFFICULT TASK

It is not an easy thing to write this column of every-day life when all of us are so concerned over the War. To make it harder it is written some time before it is published and what may be written today may be foolish a week from now. I have been asked not to dwell on the war too much but to write something which would turn minds away from it of even a few moments. As the War has so entered our daily lives it cannot be ignored. If the column is not to your liking, bear with me — it is not to mine either.

ALL ARE ANXIOUS TO SAVE

People all over Canada are urging the Government to do more and to make further sacrifices. Looking over the weekly newspapers I notice two suggestions which sound practical. A member of the Simcoe Council suggests that the Vocational School classrooms which are empty in Summer be used to train mechanics for work in making war supplies. The Orillia Packet and Times lists seven ways by which the council could save from $25,000 to $30,000 annually, with small sacrifice of conveniences. If this were done by every Municipality, what an amount of money could be turned over to the Government to further our war needs. We are a wasteful and extravagant people, with little idea of carefulness in small things. A letter from England tells that the British Government letters are written on both sides of the paper where necessary. That is a small thing but it is illustrative of possible saving.

BUSINESS ADJUSTMENTS

Women do most of the buying and I know many are puzzled just what they should do about spending. If all non-essentials are left unpurchased, business is going to be thrown into an upheaval. Yet if we do not put every effort into furthering the war, there may be no business to run. Most of us feel we have no right to have the extra luxuries while there are so many hungry unclothed and homeless. The money I had ready to buy new bedspreads which I wanted but did not actually need, has gone into a new blanket and other Red Cross supplies. When you move into a new house it makes the good things look better and the shabby ones look shabbier. Successive moves have been hard on furniture and supplies and we had planned to replace and repair quite a lot of things. At the present juncture we cannot do this and feel comfortable about it. Others must feel the same way and until business gets adjusted there will be difficulties. Perhaps war work will be so speeded up that most of them will be absorbed.

TEACH THEM TO SWIM

We are all concerned about saving lives but we continue to let children grow up without learning to swim. The larger places are doing good work as most of them are having swimming taught in the public schools. It is the smaller places that suffer and there are farm boys and girls who live by the water who cannot swim chiefly because their mothers are afraid to have them go in the water. It is true that good swimmers are drowned sometimes but it is the non-swimmers that are the chief victims. This week and it is early June, I have heard over the radio of three children being drowned in different places, and each time they were unable to swim. It takes only a bit of initiative to start a swimming class. late teens who could teach swimming hole within reach. There are plenty of responsible boys and girls in their late teens who could teach swimming and a small payment from each child would cover the cost. If there are no organized swimming classes in your neighborhood won't you do something about it? Service clubs have done good work and if the Women's Institutes would look after it it would be well done. I have great faith in the Institutes.

SPANISH CHEESE SPREAD

Cook over hot water until thick: ½ cup butter, 2 beaten eggs, 3 teaspoons mustard, 1 teaspoon salt, ¾ cup granulated sugar. Add: 1 scant cup vinegar, 1 green pepper chopped, ¼ cup milk, ¼ lb. "spread" cheese, 1 small tin pimentoes chopped.

Cook until thick and smooth. Pour into sealers. This will keep for weeks in the refrigerator.

SANDWICH SPREAD

¼ lb. cheese 2 tablespoons melted butter, 1 teaspoon minced onion, 16 stuffed olives, 2 hard cooked eggs, 2 teaspoons lemon juice.

Grate cheese or put it through the food chopper, add butter, onion and lemon juice and blend until creamy. Add finely chopped olives and eggs. If not soft enough to spread, add a little mayonnaise.

Preserving Food Value Of Green Vegetables

Did you know that the tempting looking 'heart' of a young, green cabbage is of lower food value than the outside leaves?

That is one of the items of information handed on by the Health League of Canada, in connection with the League's campaign to raise the standards of health and efficiency in Canada.

Moreover, says the Health League, since some of the value of cabbage—vitamins and minerals — are lost in boiling, cabbage salad is more nutritious than cooked cabbage.

It is pointed out, too, that price has little to do with the food value of vegetables. Brussels sprouts may cost three times as much as the humbler cabbage, but they are not one bit more nutritious.

And here is a hint as to the cheapest way of obtaining tomato juice, without which lunch or dinner is not complete for a great many people. Buy the lowest priced grade of canned tomatoes, says the Health League of Canada, and strain off the juice. The residue may be combined with other foods or used in soups.

One other sugestion: don't use soda to preserve the color in cooking green vegetables. Not only is it unnecessary if the lid is left off the pot, but it destroys the valuable vitamin C.

The Health League has published a new leaflet on Nutrition, called "How to Eat for Health and Victory". It will be sent free of charge to any citizen. The League also suggest that "Food and War", a new booklet issued by the Canadian Medical Association, is a valuable book for housewives to have.

SYNCOPE

The three chief causes of syncope (fainting) are: (1) reduction of the heart rate. (2) reduction of the general mean blood pressure and (3) localized reduction of blood flow to the brain.

SONG OF PEACE

And in despair I bowed my head;
"There is no peace on earth," I said;
"For hate is strong
And mocks the song
Of peace on earth, good-will to men!"
Then pealed the bells more loud and deep;
"God is not dead; nor doth He sleep!
The Wrong shall fail,
The Right prevail,
With peace on earth, good-will to men!"

—Longfellow

She: "Now that we're engaged, dear, you'll give me a ring, won't you?"

He: "Yes, certainly, darling. What's your number?"

Voluntary Registration Of Canadian Women

The women of Quebec are being invited to join the Voluntary Registration of Canadian Women. This organization started over a year ago by Miss Margaret Hyndman, K.C., of Toronto, has been no mushroom development, for rather a steady realization that the democratic women of a democratic country have a great responsibility. Western Canada women have been especially enthusiastic in their response. Wherever the forms have been offered registrations have surged into headquarters till the quarter million mark has been left behind.

"The result is all that we hoped for, and better than we expected," states Senator Iva Campbell Fallis, chairman of the National Committee.

Distribution of registration forms was begun last October and is being continued until every woman in Canada has an opportunity to record her qualifications and her willingness to take part in any national emergency. Thousands of the registrations have been tabulated and already hundreds of women have been secured to do important war work. Whn calls have come for skilled women for munitions and textile factories the files of the V.R.C.W. have filled the breach. Over 1,000 have been placed in Toronto district alone.

Naturally most women can serve best in the community in which they live. Should a factory in a certain district require qualified women workers, women in that district will receive the first call. Registrees are listed in 48 categories. Special lists are made of those who speak more than one language and of those with special qualifications likely to be in great demand. Among the latter are those skilled in the preparation of food such as curing and canning fish; canning and preserving fruits, vegetables and meats; and cooking in quantity. Note is being made of women accustomed to organize large scale church and charity suppers. Women with nursing training may be required for emergencies.

The variety of skilled training among registrees is astounding. Among the forms already tabulated there are registrations, with due qualifications, of women air mechanics, air pilots, and those familiar with air raid precautions; there are experts in censorship, camouflage, first aid, intelligence work, laboratory technicians, sabotage, telephone and telegraphic operation and maintenance, translation and various forms of therapy; there are physicians and nurses, surveyors, journalists, laundresses and skilled office workers there are women who can operate textile and tailoring machinery; and there are those who know the fine art of entertainment.

But while the more spectacular callings of science and business and industry appear on many registration forms, it is woman's natural vocation that swells the lists to such astounding proportions.

"We are home makers," is the chant of thousands of Canadian women. "We are busy caring for our children and keeping our men fit and strong. This work must continue. But our homes and our hearts are open to the homeless refugees and the bereaved. Send them to us. We will take care for them as we would our very own."

Tragic as the refugee problem is it finds a glimmer of hope in view of the homes that are already available for 100,000 children through the files of the V.R.C.W. One English woman, living in Quebec, has stated her willingness to care for 12 refugee children. In rural communities, especially, women have registered their homes for the homeless, and smaller urban homes are very generous. Senator Fallis has herself signified her willingness to care for refugee children.

The stirring work carried on by the V.R.C.W. is being accomplished by voluntary service. The minimum of necessary expense has been met by private sontributions. Over 4,000 business girls are doing the tedious, exacting work of tabulating in their spare time and without remuneration.

BEAUTY

By Helen Jameson (Mme. Qui Vive)

SAVE YOUR FEET, LADY

Cheerful reports come from shoe manufacturers. They claim that more women are buying sensible shoes than ever before. Booties with spiked heels are cluttering up the counters, are not moving quite so fast. Walking shoes with boulevard heels, sport shoes, shoes that give your toes wriggling space are bought, delivered and worn. Will wonders ever cease? Is it possible that feminine trotters are to be emancipated? Let us hope.

Glad tidings these, for the medical profession and for preachers of pulchritude who have urged the women to sit down and consider whether or not it isn't worth while to be comfortably shod. There are middle-aged girls in this land of the free who are still wearing number five shoes because they wore them in their younger days. Shoes much too full of feet.

High heels have been worn for hundreds of years. They're not new. Men wore them to make them look tall, the old sillies. But if a girl is going to be a high-heeler the army and navy combined couldn't get her down off her stilts.

The shoe that does not conform to the shape of the foot does not provide proper support, causes a woman to throw the foot out of those lines and postures that make for a strong muscle structure. In time it has a bad effect upon the bones. There is more or less strain or tension because the poor little hoof is endeavoring to save itself from injury. Women seek shoes that look smart. They should. But they can find the correct last and still enjoy a fashionable and decorative casing.

There never was a time when shoe designers made so many interesting offerings or when their models were of such diversified form. Many shoe stores have an X-ray machine where one can see exactly how the toes rest, how much room they have. And don't fancy that shoe clerks can't tell you a lot of things you don't know. The average customer won't listen. Her feet may be driving her mad but she has other fish to fry, must be on her way.

When walking keep the feet fairly close together and there won't be a hip swing. Don't step heavily; sudden jarring of the body is no help to the spinal column. Divide the weight evenly between the heel and the sole of the foot. Point toes straight ahead don't turn them out.

Keep a sure foothold. That position lifts the long arch, keeps the ankles strong. You can get a firm foothold only when the shoe is sufficiently wide and heels are not too high.

GOOD MANNERS

HOW TO BE A FRIEND

"I am able to make friends. But I don't seem to be able to keep them. What's the reason?" Over and over again comes this question in letters from readers.

Do you remember the grand old saying, "Friendship, like a farm, needs constant cultivation"? That's an excellent beginning of an answer to this pathetic question.

Some people sow seeds of a friendship. The plant begins to grow. Then weeds grow — and the plant is smothered and, eventually, dies.

What are some of these weeds? Perhaps the most devastating one is that some of us are unwilling to bear with the faults or idiosyncrasies of our friends. We don't realize that when we are aware of a friend's faults, we should make every effort to understand them, to bear with them, just as that friend is undoubtedly aware of our faults, understands them, and has common sense enough to bear with them.

Most of these shortcomings of a friend are probably little things that can easily be overlooked, and what remains are fine qualities that can be admired and enjoyed. But we're too apt to choke the plant of friendship by pondering about some not-too-attractive quality in the friend, talking about it over and over again, until it assumes such proportions that we have no time or room to enjoy what's really enjoyable. We don't stop to consider that we're not perfect and therefore haven't the right to demand perfection in our friends!

Another weed that can grow dangerously is unthinking disloyalty. When we are with a friend we may feel and show every evidence of loyalty. But when that friend is not present, our loyalty is often tarnished by the fact that we listen to criticism and gossip. Not only do we not take up the cudgels against this, but too often we take part in this destructive criticism. A friend worth trusting is a friend who protects a friend.

Constant cultivation of friendship means that we must, for the joy and delight and worth of friendship, be willing to meet its constant demands. Not only must we have and show affection and devotion but we must cultivate understanding of the friend, sympathy with the friend's point of view, patience during difficulties, kindness in the generous giving of time and other demonstrations of friendliness. We just can't sit back and take friendship and never be willing to give friendship.

Having sown the seeds of friendship and watched the plant start to grow, we must tend it and give it the sun of our honest understanding and co-operation. Then we will deserve to have the joy and pride of gatheri the golden fruit!

MOURNING

My mother died last month, and my sister and I plan to wear deep mourning for three months. For deep mourning is only black worn? During the summer months would it be appropriate for us to wear all-white? —M. C.

A person in deep mourning wears only black, and the materials of the dresses should be dull materials, such as lusterless silks, cotton, linen, crepes, chiffons or georgette. Accessories also should be dull — no satin or lace or patent leather shoes or purses.

All-white clothes and accessories are as deep mourning as are all-black clothes and accessories. But if a black hat or belt or gloves or any other black accessory is worn with the white clothes the attire becomes second mourning.

The job of planting 1,000 young spruce and pine trees on the grounds of the Kawartha Golf and Country Club was undertaken by the Boy Scouts of Peterboro. They completed the task during a Saturday morning.
