CANADIANS ACCEPT TAXATION BURDEN WITHOUT COMPLAINT

GENERALLY REALIZED, HEAVY TAXES ARE ESSENTIAL TO PROSECUTION OF NATION'S WAR PROGRAM

No Passports Required for Entry of U. S. Citizens Into Canada

Ottawa, July 2nd — The Dominion budget delivered a week ago in the House of Commons, which imposed the most drastic schedule of taxation ever laid on Canadian shoulders, has met with comparatively little complaint. The people of Canada have taken the stand that heavy as the taxes are, they are essential to the prosecution of the war. Even with the increase in taxes, only part of the cost of the war can be covered in this way. The rest must be borrowed. There are certain definite principles governing the government's policy for financing the country in wartime which are brought out clearly in the budget. One of these is the "pay as you go" policy which is continued as far as practicable. The people are asked to pay as much as possible of the war costs through taxation, but the taxes must not be so drastic that they will cripple industry.

Another feature of the budget was the plan to conserve foreign exchange. Imports from the United States have increased rapidly. This is in large part due to increased war purchases. Many commodities formerly bought from Britain cannot be supplied from there in as large volume as formerly because of British needs at home, and have therefore to come from the United States. Canada pays for purchases from the United States by our exports to that country, by gold from our mines, by the tourist traffic and by accumulated foreign exchange. The policy of the government is to encourage all of these, and as a further plan to improve the foreign exchange situation, has placed a ten per cent War Exchange Tax on all imports from Non-Empire countries and an added excise tax on new automobiles.

In very brief form the financial situation for the present situation is this. Ordinary government expenses will be 448 million dollars, war expenses about 70 million plus about 200 million of further commitments, making a total of $1,350,000,000. Against this are estimated revenues of $760,000,000. These include 110 million from new taxes which for a full year would yield 280 million. There are further items to be taken into account, one of them being about 200 million needed for the repatriation of Canadian securities held in Britain to aid British purchasing of war supplies in Canada. But on the receipt side are 187 million dollars, the Dominion government's cash on hand at the beginning of the fiscal year and about 50 million dollars expected to be received from sales of war savings certificates and stamps. In any event there will be borrowing by Canada to the extent of roughly 550 million to 600 million. "These are impressive sums" said the finance minister, "But I know they are not beyond our markets to absorb under the conditions of expanding business and rising national income". The great underlying principle of the budget and the financial policy of the government is that with liberty and our very existence at stake, there is no financial limit to the war effort.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE LIKELY THIS SESSION

The houses of parliament have approved a resolution asking the British Parliament to amend the constitution to give the Dominion Parliament the right to bring in a measure of unemployment insurance. The prime minister believed there will be no delay whatever in London and that it will likely be possible to have the measure introduced in the present sessions at Ottawa.

BRITISH CHILDREN COMING TO CANADA

During the next few weeks about 5,000 children will arrive in Canada from Britain, Mr. Crerar told the House of Commons the other day. "The task we have undertaken" he said, "is to place many thousands in good private homes in Canada for the duration of the war. This is a form of war work that is well worth while. It is not measured by money but by service and for this reason I have no doubt that the response of those who can offer homes will be widespread". In this work of carrying children beyond the range of bombing planes, the United Kingdom is providing ocean

Plan for Voluntary Registration of Women Here

PREPARE FOR NATIONAL SERVICE IN EMERGENCY

During the next two weeks a registration campaign will be directed throughout Argenteuil for the enlistment of Canadian women in voluntary service for national emergency.

Every nation from time to time has experienced periods of national distress, and this registration is being prepared so that Canadian women can offer their services at short notice. Many opportunities will be open in the near future, in Red Cross work, refugee assistance and home defence, and it is well to be prepared for intelligent service in these directions.

The Women's Institute are lending their help for this registration campaign. A booth will be opened in Lachute during the coming week, where registration forms may be had and filled in. The questionnaire contains 28 simple questions, covering health, education, experience, kind of service preferred, and time that circumstances will allow one to serve.

The clergy are being contacted throughout Argenteuil, and they are requested to help in their respective fields with this campaign. In as many rural districts as is possible, speakers will be sent out to enlarge upon the voluntary plan.

The slogan of the V. R. C. W. is, "There is no happiness apart from freedom. Freedom is the sure heritage of those alone who have courage to defend it". The women of Argenteuil will confidently accept this challenge, and offer their services in voluntary emergency work for Canada.

Youngsters Raise $2.25 for War

Four Lachute youngsters came forward in a spontaneous effort to "help in the war". Having conceived an idea to barter and sell for the aid of a good cause, they conducted a retail business in the back yard, and proceeds from their sale of candy and other commodities, amounting to $2.25, were proudly handed over by them to the local Red Cross. . . . The boys, who deserve credit for their patriotism and ingenuity, were—Frank Bedard, Donald Hooper, Tommy and Gordon Jamieson.

100 Clubs Offer Services to Govt.

MOTION SPONSORED BY RETIRING PRES., G. HEON

At the International Association of 100 Clubs, in conference last week at Ottawa, a motion sponsored by President Geo. H. Héon, of Lachute, was unanimously supported to offer the services of the organization to the Canadian Government in furthering various war activities. Copies of the motion were sent to the Prime Minister, Justice Minister Lapointe and Defence Minister Ralston. Mr. Héon, in his address, urged that this more important work be given precedence over local activities of the clubs.

H. W. Clark, of Ottawa, was elected president for the ensuing year. The Lachute 100 Club is represented on the Association's slate of officers by Linton W. Armstrong as 2nd vice-president, Gordon McOuat re-elected district governor for Quebec, W. K. McArthur and R. Gravel as directors.

W.I. Ladies Hear Reports of Provl. Convention

DELEGATES TELL HIGHLIGHTS OF CONFERENCE

The Lachute W.I. held an interesting meeting Tuesday afternoon in the High School, under the convenorship of Mrs. J. S. Giles, convenor of publicity, who read a paper on "County Women and the War".

Reports of the provincial convention held at Macdonald College were given by the two delegates from this branch, Mrs. S. S. Campbell and Mrs. Geo. Leggett. They told of interesting thrift exhibits which displayed many beautiful articles made with practically no cost. . . . In a discussion on diets, the gathering had been strongly urged to make further use of the old-fashioned whole-grain oatmeal and milk, because of their high nutritive value. . . . Mrs. C. Dow, provincial president of Women's Institutes stressed the fact that the morale of the country rested on its women; every woman knew, she said, what it meant to carry a smile over an aching heart. "Let Cheerful Service be our Motto", she urged.

The Voluntary Registration of Canadian Women for service in national emergencies, was lengthily discussed at this meeting, and arrangements are being made so that all women in the County of Argenteuil may have an opportunity to register.

County Motorists Lose Exemption From Tolls

MUST PAY INCREASED FEE AT BRIDGES

Motorists and transport companies in this district are affected by the raised bridge tolls between here and Montreal. Three bridges give access to Ile Jesu and Montreal from the County of Two Mountains and neighboring areas; these are— the Bellefeuille bridge at St. Eustache, most commonly used by Lachute drivers; the Plessis-Belair bridge at Ste. Rose; and Pont David at St. Louis de Laval. The two first named are privately owned structures on which, since the last provincial administration, residents of Argenteuil have passed without toll. The regular fee of 25c, however, is now raised to 50c each way, or 75c round trip if the return journey is made on the same day — and there is no local exemption. Pont David, a provincial bridge, was formerly free, but during the last Quebec regime a 25c toll was imposed, which has now likewise been increased to 50c, with no local exemption.

The above rates became effective on Monday and a heavy stream of holiday traffic was affected. Drivers report a long line-up of cars — many motorists, uninformed of the charge, paying the toll under severe protest.

A uniform rate, as cited above, applies to all bridges leading off the Island of Montreal or (to the North) off Ile Jesu. Two exceptions are those under control of the Federal Government—the Jacques Cartier and Victoria bridges — where the toll is 25c per car and 5c for each passenger, excluding the driver.

Car owners commuting from off the island will be able to purchase books of 60 tickets for $3, available for one month from the date of issue, or five cents per trip, while those using the bridges between 7 p.m. and 7 a.m. will pay 50 cents for the round trip. Books of 25 tickets that can be used on any of the 13 provincial toll bridges can be purchased for $5, good for the year of issue, which works out at 20 cents per trip.

Young Lady Is Severely Injured in Fall

St. Andrews E. — Miss Gertrude Paquette, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jos Paquette, suffered a fall while alighting from an electric car in Montreal, where she was visiting. She was taken, unconscious, to St. Mary's Hospital, where she remained in an unconscious condition for four hours. On Monday evening her father reported that an X-ray showed no serious injury. The side of her head and face, however, were cut and badly bruised.

HOLIDAY BRINGS HIGHWAY MISHAPS

Hawkesbury Residents in Two Accidents West of Lachute

Montrealers in Crash on Lakefield Road; Injuries Slight

On a curve in the Lakefield highway seven miles north of this town a collision occurred Sunday afternoon between a Plymouth coach driven by M. J. Cahill, of Montreal, and a Chevrolet coupe driven by Stewart L. Martin, of Ste. Rose. Martin was proceeding north when his auto crashed at the curve with the Montreal car, which was coming toward Lachute. Both machines were badly damaged but, although there were several passengers in the automobiles, all escaped uninjured.

At 6.30 o'clock Monday evening a coupe driven by Fred Murray, of Grenville, struck a sedan taxi driven by Aurel Joly, of Hawkesbury. The latter was returning from Brownsburg to Hawkesbury with several passengers. At a point where the short cut from Grenville joins Highway 8-A just north of the interprovincial bridge, Murray's car came out at the intersection and crashing into the side of the Hawkesbury car, hurled it across the road into a ditch. Murray, who was alone in the driver's seat, escaped unhurt, but four young ladies in Joly's car suffered slight cuts and a woman passenger sustained a cut on the hand, from splintered glass. A fifth passenger was unhurt. They were able to proceed to their homes at Hawkesbury.

Traffic Officer Howard Jones investigated these accidents.

A six-year-old boy, Réal Laliberté, of Ste. Adele, was the victim of a third accident over the week-end, when he was struck by a car at Ste. Adele on Monday and was rushed to Montreal with serious head injuries and a fractured leg. The boy was first taken to Ste. Agathe for first aid treatment, afterwards being removed to Ste. Justine Hospital, Montreal.

On Dominion Day two men had a narrow escape from serious injury about three miles west of St. Philippe, when their car drove into a ditch.

According to information a car driven by Theodore Malette, and bearing as a passenger Paul Proulx, both of Hawkesbury, was travelling in an easterly direction, when another machine, going in the same direction, cut in to pass. The Malette car was forced to the side of the road finally, toppling over into a deep ditch, the four wheels in the air. Malette suffered cuts about the face, and Proulx about the hands.

Mayor Disqualified As Appeal Court Upholds Decision

JOSEPH E. SEALE MUST RELINQUISH OFFICE

Judgment in the appeal of Mayor Joseph E. Seale, of Morin Heights, was handed down last Friday — a decision disqualifying him from holding public office for five years being upheld by the Court.

Mayor Seale was re-elected after the judgment of the Superior Court had been given and the appeal instituted. He has been Mayor of Morin Heights for 27 years, but on the decision given by the Appeal Court must now relinquish the office.

It is recalled that supplies were purchased for the muncipality from Mr. Seale's general store, a procedure for which action was taken by Jules Forget on the grounds of illegal contract. The Superior Court found that while there was cause for disqualification, Mr. Seale was exonerated from any suggestion that there had been dishonesty. The appeal was taken on technical grounds, regarding legal procedure in the case. The Court of Appeal found that they were not sufficent to cause reversal of the judgment and ordered it to stand.

Highway Hold-Up, State Style

(An Editorial)

Automobile and hotel associations which are protesting the 100 per cent increase on bridge tolls effective between Montreal and the Laurentian area, have the support of this newspaper and every user of the highways in this territory.

That Quebec should take over the privately owned bridges contiguous to Montreal in order to regulate unjustified levies, would be reasonable enough. But that the Province, having commandeered such bridges, should boost the tolls in certain instances by 100 per cent, and further, impose new tolls on bridges previously free of access — is unpardonable; it is, in fact, nothing short of highway robbery in a state-operated form.

The Quebec Minister of Roads, Hon. T. D. Bouchard, in a debate on this issue claimed it was unjust that private companies should be the only ones to profit from revenues directly increased by improvements to the provincial roads. . . . Quebec, in other words, should share in the spoils. —This might also sound reasonable were it not for the fact that the bridges are long since paid for, and endowed in perpetuity, by their toll harvest. It seems that the policy of Quebec is to buy these structures, and to capitalize on state business to the extent of doubling their revenues.

The Hon. G. E. Dansereau, representative for this county, during the same discussion remarked that his electors were "broad-minded enough not to demand special privileges denied those of other counties" . . . meaning that we, of Argenteuil, would forego the exemption granted us during the last administration. We hasten to assure Mr. Dansereau that, if this levy were strictly in national interests, to bolster federal funds for the war effort on which our very existence depends, then we would pay these double levies as cheerfully as we must meet the new federal imposts made necessary by war. . . . But the toll is not for this purpose. It is to augment provincial funds; and in the matter of provincial highway administration, to which toll bridges are related, we are already getting less than we pay for by comparison with our neighbor provinces.

In hampering the tourist traffic, one of its most lucrative streams of business, Quebec is obviously defeating its own ends. The increase of tolls, as we see it, is not only illogical but still worse — it is unpatriotic at this time, being a direct defiance and impediment to the policy of this Dominion, which is to reserve taxation resources for a far more vital program, the preservation of our nationhood through the war effort.

Newspapers, public groups and all travel-conscious citizens in Quebec, should fight this folly to the utmost.

Returns After Two Years in Australia

Mr. Hubert Tremblay, son of Mr. Clement Tremblay, Lachute Mills, has just returned from Melbourne, Australia, on the S.S. Monterey to San Francisco, thence to Lachute by rail via Vancouver. Hubert spent nearly two years studying the wool business, attending the important wool auctions at Auckland, Christchurch, Dunedin, Napier, Wellington, Invercargill, Timaru and Wanganui in New Zealand, at Sydney, Melbourne, Perth in Australia, and at Hobart in Tasmania. He had a varied and wide experience in examining and appraising wools for account of buyers at the central warehouses prior to auctions, doing sorting, shipping and other clerical work for the Wool Brokerage firm employing him, even bidding occasionally at the sales. When it is considered that the Australian wool clip amounts to over one billion pounds and the New Zealand wool clip three hundred million pounds, as compared to Canada's clip of twenty-two million pounds — a difference accounted for by more favorable climatic conditions in the Australasian countries — a student has ample opportunity to gain wool knowledge there.

Hubert Tremblay also enjoyed his stay in the Antipodes, taking part in sports and bringing back with him a cup won in one of the New Zealand squash tournaments. He appears in the best of health and sun-burnt in true Australian style, and is welcomed back to Lachute by a large circle of friends.

HORSE POWER INCREASE IN ARMY DIVISION

A division of the present modern army has a horse power of 187,400, as compared with 4,000 twenty-five years ago. Vastly greater numbers of high-powered airplanes, masses of artillery and tanks easily account for this big increase.

Opening of Activities at Summer Colony

St. Canut — The holiday week-end saw the beginning of seasonal group activities at Mooney's Log Cabin. In spite of the rainy weather and the lack of practice, competition was keen at the horse-shoe games, and at the dining-table. Saturday night saw a large crowd at the barn dance, at which a Ste. Scholastique string orchestra and Frank Keyes supplied the music.

The first amateur hour, on Sunday night, was featured by spirited community singing and a one-act presentation, "The Super-Salesman," with Agnes Gauvreau, Andrew P. Keyes and James McLaughlin acting the play as a radio comedy. John (Canoe) O'Brien was announcer.

Monday found several hardier members enjoying a first dip in the North River. In the afternoon a closely contested softball game was won by the "Blues" against the "Yellow Jackets" after a stirring last-inning rally. The battery for the winners was Gorman, McLaughlin, H. Keyes and O'Brien; for the losers, P. Melanson, Mousette, A. Keyes and O'Connor. H. Keyes was the winning pitcher.

Freshman guests for the week-end were Paul Mousette and Fred Crawford, of Ottawa, and guests at the entertainments from outside the colony included Mr. and Mrs. Crockford, Mr. and Mrs. P. McCabe, and the Misses Orian Keyes, Eileen Clarey and Claire Tinan, all of Montreal.

Says Ford Windsor Plant Making Every Possible Contribution in War

PRESIDENT OF CANADIAN ORGANIZATION GIVES REASSURANCE

Windsor, Ont. — "At the outbreak of war I assured the Canadian Government that Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, would make all its facilities available for the production of essential war supplies. We have done that. Last night I reaffirmed the Ford position in Canada in a telegram to Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Munitions and Supply", said Wallace R. Campbell, president of the Canadian Ford organization.

"All the facilities, resources, manpower and equipment of the Canadian Ford Company and the overseas affiliated Ford companies in Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, India and Malaya are now making, and have been making, every possible contribution to the defense of the British Empire and the successful prosecution of the war", said Mr. Campbell.

On receiving reports of the debate on Ford in the House of Commons, Mr. Campbell discussed the matter with Henry Ford personally.

"Mr. Ford realizes fully that all the industrial resources of a nation at war automatically become available in the defense of the country in which they are located. In his statement to the press Mr. Ford said that Ford companies in the British Empire are serving their people as they should do", Mr. Campbell said.

Mr. Campbell explained that the Canadian Ford plant is particularly well fitted for the production of the mechanical motorized transport used so extensively by modern armies.

"Even before war was declared, on request of the Canadian Government we laid the ground work for military production. Since beginning of the war nothing has been left undone to produce as quickly as possible equipment specified by the Government.

"More than 50 per cent of the production in our Windsor plant consists of vehicles for military use. This percentage is rapidly increasing. We are supplying the British Empire with a total of approximately 35,000 of these units. Of this total nearly 10,000 are for the Canadian government and 25,000 are for use by other Empire countries such as South Africa, Australia and India', Mr. Campbell said.

He also revealed that the Canadian plant is being rapidly tooled for the production of Universal machine gun carriers. These will be supplied to the Canadian Government at the rate of 50 a week when production gets into full swing within the next few months.

"We have a number of men with special training and qualifications useful to the Government in war work. These men are working with the Department of National Defence in Ottawa and in England", Mr. Campbell revealed. Ford engineers in the Windsor plant have contributed substantially to the design of army type vehicles. We have equipped our plant with the additional tools and dies necessary for the production of these vehicles and we have installed much special machinery. We have more than 7,000 men at work in our plant", Mr. Campbell said.

"War orders take priority over all the production in our plant", said Mr. Campbell.

As an indication of the dispatch with which war orders are handled by the Canadian Ford company, Mr. Campbell revealed that on May 1st a cable was received from an overseas Empire country inquiring how long it would take to ship them 8,000 trucks for military use. The immediate reply was a start would be made in three weeks. The company undertook to build and start shipping those trucks at the rate of 100 a day, the first 100 units to be delivered within three weeks and another 100 each day thereafter.

BREN GUNS MANUFACTURED AHEAD OF SCHEDULE

"At the present time the contractors are producing Bren guns some six months ahead of schedule. At the end of the calendar year there is every indication that they will be as far ahead as they normally would have been in the second year under their contract."

—Hon C. D. Howe, in the House of Commons, June 17, 1940

WHEN GERMANS "INVADED" GREAT BRITAIN

A German force invaded British soil during the last War in May 1918, when a German submarine stranded in the Orkney Islands, near Start Point, Sanday. The crew jettisoned all its torpedoes and hundreds of shells and ammunition, so as to lighten the ship, and were then able to refloat the submarine and escape. Some crofters (natives of the island) noticed the sailors while they were ashore, but as the submarine was flying the White Ensign, they assumed they were British sailors from a British submersible.

150-Year-Old Paintings Found Under Wall Paper

Murals apparently painted in the days just after the American Revolution have been uncovered in an old Rockport, Mass., home. Buried under four layers of wallpaper for several generations, the murals, quaint in design and of antiquarian value, were found when decorators cleaned the walls preparatory to repapering.

Mrs. Marian J. Cooney, whose family owned the house for many years, was unaware of the murals' presence. The stock of new wallpaper she had selected to cover the small parlor's walls never will be used.

Identity of the artist who created the work is not known, although Mrs. Etta S. Moore, 80 years old, recalled that the builder, George Knowlton, had a daughter who was artistically inclined.

The paintings were believed to have been executed about 150 years ago as the two flags crossed over an apple tree and a brace of doves, contained 13 stars and 10 bars each. Figures in this mural and those on the other three walls are stiff, but attractive.

Most interesting of the panels is one depicting a farm worker at a well who lifts an oaken bucket to his lips as a small blue dog looks on.

Over 5,000 Children Will Seek Refuge in Canada

Ottawa — From 5,000 to 5,500 British children, between the ages of 5 and 15 years inclusive, will be given refuge here from war-troubled Europe, during the course of the next few weeks, according to an announcement in the House of Commons by Hon. T. A. Crerar, Minister of Mines and Resources. They will be placed in good Canadian homes for the duration of the war.

Offers to take these children in and give them a comfortable home have been pouring in to the provincial organizations set up for that purpose. The number of offers far exceeds the demands for the present time.

The children are to be sent to Canada only with the full approval of their parents or guardians. The Dominion Government will use its medical officers and its immigration authorities overseas for examination of the children before sailing. It will take charge of their reception at Canadian ports, and provide transportation and care en route to provincial distribution centres. Welfare organizations in the provinces will cooperate with the Dominion Government in their placement and after-supervision.

More than half of the initial contingent of children will be placed in Ontario and Quebec, the remainder being distributed in other provinces on a pro rata population basis.

A communication from the Canadian High Commissioner states that about 3,000 evacuees will arrive in Canada in the first evacuation and a further 750 every five days thereafter till the 5,000 are transported.

GENEROSITY FOR TROOPS

When the news got out that a certain unit of the C.A.S.F. in the Ottawa Area was in need of a piano for recreational purposes the response was quick; five citizens immediately offered their pianos to the troops for the duration.

WEED OUT THE WEEDS

Thousands of Canadians might look forward to the coming of summer with more joy than they do, if citizens residing near vacant lots would see to it that ragweed and other pollen bearing weeds thereon were destroyed before they had a chance to ripen.

Pointing to the fact that one person in every 100 in Canada and the United States suffers from hay-fever, according to an expert estimate, Dr. Gordon Bates, general director of the Health League of Canada, urges that greater effort be made to cope with this irritating plague, which annually makes the summer months a time of wretchedness for so many.

Because of its buoyancy, ragweed pollen is one of the chief distributors of hay-fever, says Dr. Bates, and a wholesale destruction of such plants in and around the town would do much to make the air breathable for chronic sufferers.

MOVIE INDUSTRY COMES TO THE AID OF THE COUNTRY

Canada's Motion Picture Industry, in its nation-wide campaign to stimulate the sale of War Savings Stamps and Certificates, under the auspices of the Dominion Government, comes to the aid of its country in a magnanimous way.

On Monday evening, July 15, movie theatres everywhere will have as their guests every person who has purchased at least two 25c War Savings Stamps at the box-office at a special patriotic performance. For every sale of at least two stamps in this manner, a complimentary ticket will be issued for this show but no admission tickets will be available for those who buy the War Savings Stamps otherwise.

Every dollar realized on this occasion goes directly to the Dominion Government through its official agencies. Every expense connected with the speial performance will be borne by the Motion Picture Industry. The idea originated with the Canadian Picture Pioneers, an organization whose members have been identified with the motion picture business for at least 25 years. Almost overnight, it spread throughout the whole industry. Under the chairmanship of N. L. Nathanson, immediate organization took place and within 24 hours of the first general meeting, the machinery was in motion.

Hundreds of details have been ironed out across the country and the result is that this great industry, which touches the lives of practically every man, woman and child in the Dominion, is providing its entire facilities as a means of advancing the sale of War Savings Stamps. The excellence of the investment is emphasized inasmuch as the stamps remain the property of the purchaser as a stake in Canada's future. At the same time the purchase of a minimum of two stamps encourages the buying of a certificate for $4, for which the Government will pay $5 on redemption.

A WORTHY MAYOR OF LONDON

Londoners, and frequently all Britons, have every reason to be grateful to the long list of eminent Mayors and Lord Mayors of London. But inevitably from time to time a name stands out more lustrously than its fellows. One such was John Philpot who was Mayor in 1378, the year after the death of Edward III. He was a merchant and the Navy in his day was distinctly less efficient than in the present year of grace. It failed to prevent pirates holding up the trade of the Thames, which was quite sufficient reason for John Philpot to fit out a fleet at his own expense which captured the chief pirate, a Scot named Merser, together with the English ships which had fallen into his hands, as well as 15 Spanish wine ships. But like many another of forceful character he was not universally popular. The Council of the State charged Philpot with acting without the licence of the King and it might have gone hardly with him had not Richard Fitzalan, Earl of Arundel, intervened in the course of the proceedings. Philpot declared with dignity in his own defence that — "I did not expose myself, my money and my men to the dangers of the seas, that I might deprive you and your colleagues of your knightly fame, nor to get for myself, but out of pity for the misery of the folk, and the country, which, from having been a noble realm with a dominion over other nations, has, through your slackness, become exposed to the vilest of races, and since you would not lift a hand for its defence, I exposed myself and my goods for the deliverance of our country."

This was not the only service rendered by Sir John Philpot. He gave assistance to the King by maintaining 1,000 men for war in France and was knighted for his part in crushing the rising of Wat Tyler at Smithfield in 1381.

TO RUN AMUCK !

To run amuck with a ten-ton truck
Is a favorite yen of mine —
A juggernaut that is stoutly wrought,
Impregnable in design.
Then it's Ho —to leap on the seat and sweep
With irrestible force,
Delivering bumps to the boobs and chumps
Who clutter the highway's course.
It's Oh — to swipe at the nitwit type
That speeds when you start to pass.
And a view halloo for the madmen who
Mix alcohol with the gas.
And a crumpled grill for the guy who will Treat courteousness with scorn,
And his fenders bent for the noisy gent
Who constantly honks his horn.
It's Ho — to butt all the birds who cut
Too close with a sudden swerve,
And it's Hey — to smack at the hidden back
That's parked around the curve.
And it's Yo Ho Ho — for a knockout blow
That will founder without trace,
The smart galoot who think's it smart
To sneak in your parking place.
Oh, my one ambish and my dearest wish
Is never for wealth nor power,
But to run amuck with a ten-ton truck
For just one glorious hour.

Sidelights of Industry

DEFENDING BRITAIN BY BICYCLE

Thousands of Cyclists Line Up Against the Enemy

The war has given the bicycle the status of "light cavalry" on Britain's civil defence front; 25,000 of them have been mobilized by the National Cyclists' Union as a swift retort to possible parachute invaders.

The Ministry of Home Security regards the skilled cyclist as invaluable on roads which may be made impassable to heavier vehicles or when the telephone is put out of action.

Chester and Brighton have led the way in setting up First Aid Cyclists' Corps as a vital part of their A.R.P. scheme. The Corps are equipped with first aid boxes, helmets and respirators and on a test they have saved 28 minutes in treating "casualties".

Shortage of gasoline has caused a rush on bicycles since the war. Women have become such enthusiasts that special fashions in cycling suits have been designed for them.

FARMERS' CUTLASSES

Strange British War Export

A curious type of agricultural "armament" which has never been seen on an English farm has been made in a British steel factory for well over 100 years.

The implements are matchets. Used for harvesting, pruning and land clearing in tropical and sub-tropical lands, they have a warlike ancestry which provides one of the romances of the tool trade.

Some matchets are broad and flat, some narrow with curved tips, others shaped exactly like swords. Some of the blades have "blood lines", or thin furrows, running down them. These lines are relics of the matchet's origin as cutlasses wielded by piratical boarding parties, and even today they are sometimes used for settling disputes.

Workers are very conservative about design. They will not tolerate the slightest change from the type they habitually use, and each country has its own peculiarities. The British factory makes only one "blood line" on the matchets it sends to Venezuela, but the Jamaican insists on having three lines, while the Trinidad workers will not have any lines. Handles vary from beechwood and leather to fibre and Indian buffalo horn, and brass wire bindings are essential when selling to Brazilians, Venezuelans, Colombians, Ecuadorians and Peruvians.

Africa, Malaya, Papua, Sarawak, New Guinea, Fiji and Samoa are also big buyers of matchets from Britain, whose chief rival before the war was Germany. The two countries between them shared almost equally 75 per cent of the world market, although there were only two British factories making them. These two firms are busier than ever now that the British blockade prevents Germany's seaborne trade.

A large number of elm and locust trees were planted on the hillside sections by Boy Scouts of Trail, B.C. On the sandy crowns of the hills the seed of a hardy drought-resistant grass was sown.

WASTE GASES TO BE CONVERTED INTO GASOLINE

New Gasoline Suitable For Largest Planes, Made From Waste Gases

Montreal — At this time of national crisis, every effort is being directed towards the fullest possible conservation of the country's vital resources and to the most efficient use of those raw materials which must be imported. The Shell Oil Company has developed a conservation measure which will make a direct saving in crude petroleum. At its Montreal refinery the company has installed equipment which manufactures high-grade gasoline from waste gases.

This selective Polymerization Unit, entirely new to Canada, is the first of its kind to be put into operation anywhere in the Dominion. In explaining the process, Henry N. Short, Shell refinery manager, said : "It uses as its raw material waste gases produced during the making of gasoline. These gases were previously burnt under the furnaces as fuel.

"Usually the recovery of waste material gives at best a product of doubtful quality, and in many cases it produces merely a substitute for the original which will be tolerated for wartime purposes only. However, the new process developed by Shell yields a gasoline of higher octane number than can be produced from crude oil without the addition of special blending agents.

"The process has a further advantage besides that of conserving crude oil supplies. It is particularly controllable, so that it is possible to make gasoline of pre-determined qualities —a kind of 'made-to-order' gasoline."

QUIET NOTE IN DRESS HINT TO EXPRESSMEN

Montreal — While not actually providing advice on fashions a recent instruction issued by the Canadian National Express offers a suggestion to its thousands of representatives who meet the public every day. It reads : "Years ago the confidence man wore wild checks and vivid colors. They helped to direct attention from his questionable proposal to himself. Modern business frowns on any such display, and instead asks only that the appearance of its sales representatives be conservative, clean and neat."

This Strange World

A 13-year-old Welsh schoolboy kicked a Rugby football recently and it did not touch the ground for 5 miles. . . . It dropped into a motor-lorry passing by the field, and the lorry had travelled five miles before the schoolboys, cycling furiously, caught up with it.

In Des Moines, Iowa, a man lives as a boarder in the home of his ex-wife and her second husband. In the same dwelling are one child by the first marriage and two by the second. All apparently live together amicably.

At a Cardigan, Wales, wedding in April, the bridegroom's name was Jones, the bride's name was Jones, the bridesmaid's name was Jones, the best man's name was Jones, the organist's name was Jones, and the clergyman's name was — yes, you've guessed it !

In Cheshire, Mass., the Berti family got a shock the other day. After ten generations of nothing but baby boys, a little girl was born to the family.

In Massachusetts a woman was sent to the reformatory. Seven times a bride, she's been found guilty of an "aggravated public scandal" by living with one of her former husbands.

Although a member of his church choir almost all his life, 87-year-old David Royce, of Rutland, Eng., was only baptized and christened in the last month of his life.

"I note that in addition to stealing this money," said the judge, "you took a lot of valuable jewelry."

"Yes, your honor," said the prisoner. "I was taught that money alone does not bring happiness."

TO WALK IN POWER

To keep my health !
To do my work !
To live !
To see to it I grow and gain and give !
Never to look behind me for an hour !
To wait in weakness and to walk in power;
But always fronting forward to the light,
Always, and always facing toward the right.
Robbed, starved, defeated, fallen, wide astray —
On, with what strength I have !
Back to the way !

The Cross by the Bay

The Cross at Lafontaine, Ontario

Impatient to be at his chosen work, the Recollet Father Le Caron could not wait for Champlain to start for the Huron country in 1615. And so the missionary preceded the man of affairs, the hard journey with the Huron canoes over the Ottawa river route proving a trial that bruised his body but failed to daunt his spirit. His feet cut and bleeding, exhausted from the unaccustomed paddling and inadequate food, Le Caron was the first white man to reach the "Mer Douce'", as the broad expanse of Lake Huron was then called.

At the native village of Caraghouha, five miles from the modern Penetanguishene on the shores of Georgian Bay, Champlain caught up with the Recollet who was already at his work. Father Le Caron thereupon celebrated the first Christian service in what is now the province of Ontario. A dozen Frenchmen knelt and the Indians, sensing the solemnity of the occasion, were impressed as the white men gave thanks to God for the success of the venture thus far.

The site of the bark lodge in the wilderness that saw this historic ceremony is marked today by a cross which was dedicated three centuries after the event. Where the Huron stronghold with its three-fold high palisades stood in 1615, is now located the little village of Lafontaine. It is one of the several spots in the Georgian Bay district to which those who love to recall the earliest chapters of Canada's story never tire of making pilgrimage. The glorious tragedy of Huronia still fills Canadians of all creeds with pride and sadness.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL AT GRENVILLE

Grenville — Last Saturday afternoon a band of loyal workers were busy preparing for a strawberry festival. They were not all busy all the time, for those out-of-doors had to run for shelter every now and again when heavy showers of rain made work impossible. The scene of their labors was the rectory at Grenville, and as rain-clouds kept coming from across the river, there was much speculation as to whether the evening would be fine, and what to do if it rained. However, about 5 o'clock the weather cleared and at the usual hour the crowds began to assemble and found everything in readiness. Soon the festival was in full swing, no one minding the damp ground.

The net result was another highly successful event, with about the usual net profits to help the funds of the parish.

On Sunday morning the Rector thanked those who helped so well, and those who gave so liberally.

The correct number of beans in the jar was 886, and the winner in this contest was Mr. Irving Conway, who guessed the exact number.

ST. ANDREWS EAST CHURCH GROUPS

St. Andrews E. — The Sunday School of the Presbyterian Church held their annual picnic at Tyndale Camp on Thursday. There was a large attendance, and the boys and girls enjoyed the games, for which prizes were awarded. Soft drinks were donated by Mr. Hugh Allen. Great credit is due to the Superintendent, Miss Alison Rodger, for all who attended the picnic pronounced it "the best ever".

The service of song given by Miss Margaret Hamilton at the June meeting of the W.M.S. of the Presbyterian Church was very much appreciated.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

"God" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday July 7th.

The Golden Text is from Revelation 7:12. "Blessing, and glory, and wisdom, and thanksgiving, and honour, and power, and might, be unto our God for ever and ever. Amen."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And he said, My presence shall go with thee, and I will give thee rest. . . . And he said, Thou canst not see my face: for there shall no man see me, and live." (Exodus 33: 14,20).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "That God is a corporeal being, nobody can truly affirm. The Bible represents Him as saying: "Thou canst not see my face; for there shall no man see Me, and live." Not materially but spiritually we know Him as divine Mind, as Life, Truth, and Love. We shall obey and adore in proportion as we apprehend the divine nature and love Him understandingly, warring no more over the corporeality, but rejoicing in the affluence of our God." (Page 140).

Corporation Offers Plan for Systematic Savings

Offering a savings investment plan with distinct advantages to the average citizen, Messrs. F. C. Batting and H. J. Bourbonniere have been in Lachute this week in the interests of the Champion Savings Corporation Ltd., whose advertisement appears elsewhere in this issue. Mr. Batting is provincial manager for this company, while Mr. Bourbonniere is appointed Argenteuil representative and will remain in this district.

Planned on the system of monthly deposits, with protection of investments under Government supervision, it is arranged that deposits may be made locally at the Banque Provinciale, thus saving the inconvenience of making remittances.

Ten to twenty year certificates provide for the saving of specified sums, at an interest of three per cent with dividends, entailing no loss to the investor in event of sickness or inability to make the regular deposits; in the event of his death the savings may be continued by his heirs or the full deposits plus interest are available to his successors.

Mr. Bourbonniere will be pleased to explain the Champion investment plan to any who may be interested.

RALLY OF A.Y.P.A. LOCAL COUNCIL

The Local Council of the A.Y.P.A. held a rally in the Masonic Hall at Grenville on Wednesday, June 26th, with representations from St. Amedée, Montebello, Lachute, Calumet and Grenville. The Rev. C. Earle, Chaplain, was chairman for the evening and after welcoming those present made a strong appeal for funds for "Sunday School by Post."

Each branch was then called upon to contribute fifteen minutes' entertainment. This was quite varied, and special praise was accorded to the Calumet branch for a patriotic sketch, prepared and presented by that branch. The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing, music being provided by Maurice Robbins, from Brownsburg, who is well equipped with an electric gramophone for that purpose. Refreshments were served, and a collection to be forwarded to the "Sunday School by Post" was taken at the close of the evening. This amounted to $3.25.

Votes of thanks were passed to the Grenville and Calumet branches for their hospitality, to the Masons for the use of their hall, and to Maurice Robbins for the splendid music he provided. The evening closed with the national anthem.

—Mother, Dad and Lorna.

We often sit and think of you,
The things you used to say and do,
And wonder why you had to die
Without a chance to say Goodbye.

Just a memory true and tender
Of one we loved and still remember.

Marriage

Madden — Murdoch

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in the Dalesville Baptist Church, when Kathleen Elizabeth, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Murdoch, of Brownsburg, Que., was united in marriage to Mr. Leonard H. Madden, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Madden, of Arundel, Que.

The Rev. Mr. Hardie performed the ceremony.

The Church was prettily decorated with peonies and ferns and the bride entered the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March played by Mrs. Hardie, who also sang during the signing of the register.

The bride, given away by her father, was gowned in white chiffon flowered in chenille over white satin slip. Her veil of tulle illusion fell from a wreath of small white roses. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and baby's breath.

The bride was attended by Miss Bertha Madden, of Ottawa, sister of the groom. She was gowned in orchid taffeta with tulle overgown. She wore a matching veil. The two little flower girls were Elaine Dixon and Marlene Murdoch, nieces of the bride. They wore pink and blue swiss organdy with little matching hats, and carried flowers.

The groom was attended by Mr. T. Fields, of Kilmar, Que. The ushers were Messrs. Walter and George Murdoch.

Mrs. Murdoch, the bride's mother, was attired in an ensemble of pencil blue chiffon crepe with natural colored accessories and a corsage bouquet of red roses.

Mrs. Madden, mother of the groom, was in a gown of tucked navy crepe and accessories to match.

The reception after the ceremony took place at the bride's home. The bride's mother received at the door, while the bride and groom received in the living room, where decorations were carried out in pink and white.

Later the newly-wed couple left on a motor trip to New York, visiting the World's Fair. For travelling the bride wore a dusty-rose crepe ensemble with natural accessories. She also wore stone marten furs, the gift of the groom.

Seaside Holiday Has Charm and Appeal

ONE of the few remaining frontiers of unspoiled vacationland is to be found in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick where splendidly appointed resorts dot the peaceful inland countryside and the sandy inlets and rock-bound promontories on the coastline.

The Maritimes, naturally air-conditioned by cooling salt-laden sea breezes, are ideal for every type of holiday, and are rich in historic interest, and in truly beautiful and restful scenery. From Saint John, the Princess Helene takes visitors across the Bay of Fundy to Digby, picturesque gate to Nova Scotia. The most popular way across the province is the "Evangeline Route" of the Dominion Atlantic Railway.

New Brunswick's most popular resort is St. Andrews-by-the-Sea overlooking blue Passamaquoddy Bay. The Algonquin Hotel there is the scene of summer fun and sports activities each year for thousands from Eastern Canada, the United States and England. Two splendid golf courses; Katy's Cove, where the sheltered waters of the Bay, and the warm sands combine to make the ideal swimming beach; tennis courts, fishing and hunting in season and interesting country to explore are the outstanding attractions.

In Nova Scotia the historic vies with the scenic for attention; energetic sports and the comfortable lethargy of warm weather are found side by side, and neither of them incongruous. Cornwallis Inn at Kentville, centre of the Annapolis Valley, is an ideal spot from which to view the magnificent Apple Blossom Festival early in June or for visits to Grand Pre, home of Evangeline, at any time. Two particularly popular Canadian Pacific resorts right down by the seaside are The Pines at Digby, open from June 28 to September 7, and Lakeside Inn at Yarmouth, open from June 28 to September 6. Photographs show swimming and boating activities, "Evangeline Church" at Grand Pre and The Pines at Digby.

INDIGESTION IN THOSE OVER 40 A WARNING SIGN

In one of the important studies made at the famous Mayo Clinic, it has been shown that indigestion or dyspepsia may be caused by cancer in persons past forty years of age. More than 4,500 records in the files of this clinic were studied and information of value to every person of middle age or older has been revealed.

Dyspepsia or indigestion means the occurrence of a group of symptoms such as sickness to the stomach after eating, belching, perhaps vomiting. There are some persons who have repeated attacks of this sort. To treat oneself with various subatances is a dangerous procedure.

While dyspepsia may come from a variety of causes, there is evidence that dyspepsia is an early sign of stomach cancer. Hence, chronic indigestion should be carefully investigated by a physician, because it may lead to early diagnosis of cancer of the stomach or bowel. The failure to discover cancer early is fatal to the life of the person who has it. The earlier it is discovered, the better the chance, as a rule, of the patient getting well.

Dr. Andrew B. Rivers, of the Mayo Clinic, has made a careful study of 4,656 persons to determine how often cancer was the cause for dyspepsia or indigestion. Within the ages of 15 to 40, less than three out of 100 of the men who complained of indigestion had cancer. Between the ages of 40 and 50 more than twice as many men were found to have cancer when indigestion was a symptom. Between 50 and 60, almost fifteen out of 100 men who complained of indigestion had cancer. Between 60 and 70, thirty-nine out of 100 men who complained of indigestion had cancer. Above 70, fifty-eight out of 100 men who had indigestion were found to have the disease.

Cancer caused by dyspepsia or indigestion was found to be more frequent in the men than in the women. The kind of cancer found most often was cancer of the stomach and next cancer of the large bowel or colon. Cancer of the stomach according to Dr. Rivers, must be a rare disease in women under 40 years of age, since there was no instance of this condition in 436 women between 25 and 40 years of age who were suffering from indigestion.

Among men, cancer is almost three times as often the cause of indigestion in the late forties as it is in the early forties. The stomach cancer is the one most responsible for dyspepsia or indigestion. Next most frequent is the cancer of the pancreas, the gland of the body which makes insulin, which is necessary for the using of sugars. Cancer of the pancreas is much more frequent in men than in women. Cancer of the esophagus, which leads from the mouth to the stomach, is also more common in men than in women.

These figures show quite definitely how important it is that when symptoms of indigestion occur, particularly in those past 40, a careful study be made at once for the possible presence of cancer. Its early discovery may make a cure possible in many instances. There is danger in self-treatment for dyspepsia.

Lack of Thyroid Secretion

What are the symptoms of lack of thyroid secretion? —C. C. J.

Answer—The symptoms of hypothyroidism, or lack of thyroid secretion, usually consist of such things as dryness and thinness of the hair, excessive gain in weight, tiredness in the afternoon, and slowness in physical and mental development. This condition will cause a slow pulse. However, the symptoms vary to a great extent. When hypothyroidism is suspected, a basal metabolism test should be carried out. This will aid in determining just what condition is present.

Blood Pressure

Is a blood pressure of 130 serious for a man of 60? —John L.

Answer—A blood pressure of 130 is by no means a cause of alarm in a man of 60 but, rather, indicates that his circulation is normal, and that hardening of the arteries has not occurred. This is particularly true if the heart is functioning normally.

THE PROPHET

By Giacomo Meyerbeer
Words by Scribe
First produced in Paris, 1849
Place: Holland and Germany
Time: 1534

In the suburbs of Dordrecht, near the River Meuse, the Chateau of Count Oberthal stands as a monument of power and grandeur.

Bertha, a vassal of the Count, is bethrothed to John of Leyden, but cannot go to John without the Count's permission. Fides, John's mother, joins Bertha in order to plea for her departure.

Three Anabaptists — Zacarie, Gione and Mathisen — leaders of a revolt in Westphalia, arrive at Dordrecht to plot insurrection against the Count. The peasants attack the Chateau but are repulsed, and the tide is turned against the Anabaptists when the Count recognises Gione as an ex-employee, who has been discharged in disgrace, and tells the peasants.

Bertha and Fides approach the Count with their request, but he refuses, as Bertha's beauty attracts him and he claims her for himself.

John of Leyden is in revelry at his hostel when the Anabaptists arrive. They learn that he is religious and given to visions, and they assure him that he will be a prophet and ruler. But he replies that Bertha is his only consideration and ideal.

Bertha escapes from the Count and claims protection from John of Leyden. Soon after, the Count arrives with John's mother as prisoner, and threatens to kill her unless Bertha is delivered. John at first refuses, but later consents.

The Anabaptists return and John decides to join them. Their camp is situated in the forests of Westphalia, and the Count is captured and brought there. He is about to be slain, when John learns that Bertha is still alive at Munster. John gathers his army, assaults the city and captures it. Fides and Bertha, disguised, seek the prophet, whom they believe has killed their John.

The Prophet is being crowned in the beautiful Munster Cathedral, and as the pageant is going on, Fides claims the Prophet as her son. But he denies the truth, and tells his followers to kill him if she does not confirm the disavowal. His mother disclaims, and she is led away captive.

The enemy attack in full force, and the three Anabaptists decide to save themselves by betraying John.

Bertha learns the truth from the trio, stabs herself and falls dying in Fides' arms. An explosion is heard. Fides rushes into the room and forgives John. Flames issue forth from all sides, as John and his mother perish in the inferno with their enemies.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Allan and their son, Mr. E. Allan, at Killarney Lake during the week-end, included — Mr. and Mrs. Drew and Mr. McCormick, of Montreal, Mr. R. Rogers and Mr. H. Skinner, of Lachute, and Mr. E. Pert, of Montreal.

Under auspices of the Lost River and District Welfare Association a basket picnic is being arranged for Wednesday, Aug. 7th, at Mr. F. B. Allan's, Killarney Farm. Committees are hard at work to ensure the greatest success for this community picnic. Sponsored by the Association a swimming pool is to be equipped and every precaution will be taken to preserve the safety of those who use it. A boat will be provided, to be used only in case of emergency, and the pool will be enclosed by a boom to prevent young swimmers from going beyond their depth. In addition to this a field, loaned by Mr. K. McCaskill, is being fixed up to be used for softball and other games for the young people; and not to forget the older folks, a horse-shoe pitch is also being set up.

The ladies of Lakeview Presbyterian Church are holding a lawn social on Saturday, July 20th. Friends from Montreal will provide the musical entertainment, in addition to which many other attractions are to be added.

CHURCHILL GIVES HOPE AND COURAGE

Public men have a great responsibility in their speeches not only in what they say but in the way they say it, now that so many can hear them over the radio. I doubt if any one who heard Winston Churchill speak, after the news of the French withdrawal, will ever forget it. Everyone felt so down and hopeless and by the very tones of his voice he put hope and courage into our hearts. We need all the hope and courage we can find these trying days.

TREES

Trees are beautiful in any setting but somehow they have never meant as much to me as this year. We came here just before they started budding out and we are surrounded by an infinite variety. They are close by and in the vista in the distance. Right square in front of our kitchen window are four apple trees and when they were in bloom it framed a picture of rare beauty. The air was full of the aroma of the blossoms and the lazy drone of the bees — it is doubtful if lazy is the right word to apply to bees. Now that the blossoms are gone the purple and white lilacs have taken their place. Nature always gives us something to enjoy and something to look forward to. As I look out of my window I can see the most beautiful maple I ever saw, an elm, a willow, a poplar, tall cedars and the aforementioned lilacs, with wooded hills in the distance.

THE ADDED DELIGHT OF BIRDS

The trees bring the added delight of birds. A cheery little woodpecker wakens us every morning, or rather, when we waken we hear him. The air is full of the music of the birds, but alas, I know so few of them. The robins bright notes can always be heard. Yesterday, as we ate breakfast, we could see several cedar-wax wings playing about in the apple-trees. They are such sleek-looking little birds. As I sat very quietly under a cedar tree a chipmunk appeared from nowhere and scurried up it, suddenly he discovered me and jumped several feet to a neighboring tree, (these are the trees from which our hammock swings), he felt fairly safe at that distance and played around for some time until I made a move to get up and then he scampered away in full flight. Last night we saw flickering lights at the foot of our neighbor's rolling lawn. We went down to investigate — as we thought it must be fire-flies. Whatever they were, they did not fly, but stayed close to the ground on the long grass. We presumed they were glow-worms. There were thousands of them and their flickering lights were very lovely. To have all this beauty is rare goor fortune, yet we are not truly rural but just suburban country.

WAX A LEAKING VASE

Have you ever had a vase or jar which leaked ? Try covering the inside of it with melted wax. I had a very attractive hand-made pottery jar which a friend had made. It was just the right size and shape for so many different kinds of flowers and its soft shade of blue seemed to blend so well with them but it was an exasperation as the water seeped slowly out of it and was disastrous on the table tops. I coated it with melted paraffin wax and it has been a satisfaction ever since.

PICKLED WATERMELON RIND

Use the rind left after serving, removing the outer green and pink portion. Cut into inch pieces, cover with water and add a half-cup of salt to each quart of water. Let stand overnight. Drain, add fresh water and cook until tender. Drain and cook in a sweet pickle syrup until clear. Seal in sterilized jars.

SWEET PICKLE SYRUP

1 quart vinegar, 1 cup water, 2 ounces cinnamon, 1 ounce whole cloves, 4 pounds brown sugar. Tie spices in a bag and cook the mixture for 20 minutes. This may be used for any fruit pickle.

CHERRY OLIVES

Wash firm, ripe, cherries, either white or red, and pack in sterilized bottles, leaving them unpitted and with the stems attached. Make a vinegar mixture of 1 cup cider vinegar, 1 cup cold water, 3 tablespoons brown sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ oz. stick cinnamon, 2 tablespoons whole cloves. Tie the spices in cheesecloth and boil the mixture for 5 minutes. Cool this mixture, remove the spice bag, and pour over the cherries. Seal.

Strawberries Ripe

By Frances Lee Barton

Fresh Strawberry Sponge Roll

¾ cup sifted cake flour; ¾ teaspoon double-acting baking powder; ¼ teaspoon salt; 4 eggs, unbeaten; ¾ cup sifted sugar; 1 teaspoon vanilla; ½ cup powdered sugar; ½ teaspoon vanilla; 1 cup cream, whipped; 2½ cups sliced strawberries.

Sift flour once; measure. Combine baking powder, salt, and eggs in bowl. Place over smaller bowl of hot water and beat with rotary egg beater, adding sugar gradually until mixture becomes thick and light-colored. Remove bowl from hot water. Fold in flour and vanilla. Turn into 15 x 10-inch pan which has been greased, lined with paper to within ½ inch of edge, and again greased. Bake in hot oven (400° F.) 13 minutes. Quickly cut off crisp edges of cake. Turn out on damp cloth to cool; remove paper. Fold powdered sugar and vanilla into whipped cream. When cake is cold, spread with whipped cream, then with strawberries, and roll as for jelly roll. Sprinkle lightly with powdered sugar. Serve with additional whipped cream and strawberries. Serves 8.

A cake should be thoroughly cooled before it is frosted, or sogginess may result.

A Mother's Conscience

Lansing, Mich. — A mother who misrepresented her five-year-old son's age so he might ride free when they left Lansing for Bozeman, Mont., 20 years ago, has at last squared herself with her conscience and the Grand Trunk-Canadian National Railways. The $15 which has been received by the railway from Bozeman has gone into the "conscience fund".

Of some seventy varieties of maple trees found in the world, only one, the famous hard or sugar maple, whose beautiful leaf is Canada's national emblem, yields sugar in commercial quantities.

BEAUTY

By Helen Jameson (Mme. Qui Vive)

EXCESSIVE PERSPIRATION

Everyone follows a "hush ! hush !" policy on the subject of the baneful B.O. It is next to impossible to mention it even to a member of one's own family. You'd think that, if the human nose is functioning, the sufferer from excessive perspiration would be aware of her plight. Maybe she is, doesn't know what to do about it. Maybe she isn't fastidious and doesn't care. In that event she should realize that offensive body odors are a handicap to social and business life. Many a job has been lost because of them, many a dear lad who came a-wooing fled in dismay.

Ordinarily this trouble can be overcome by the daily bath, in which a heavy bathbrush contributes vigorous friction; by changing undies every morning; by using an anti-perspirant in the armpits; not economizing on the dry cleaner's bill. If, after attending to these matters, a girl is still conscious of the fact that she lacks that sweet freshness which is so necessary for charm, it is time for her to seek the help of a physician. She may be a victim of some organic or functional disturbance that throws upon the surface of the skin chemical deposits that are offensive.

Rapid tissue waste which takes place during a reducing campaign is a common cause.

Young women who are extremely nervous are likely to suffer from this complaint. Self-consciousness will cause beads of sweat to appear on the forehead. The palms of the hands will be clammy, the entire skin surface moist. Their need is greater physical stability, which comes with outdoor life and which is augmented by long hours of refreshing sleep. Mental health should be cultivated.

Hot baths followed by cold baths are recommended. Or alternating hot and cold showers. And, as there is a theory that rapid decomposition of sweat is due to germs, either vegetable or animal, it is advisable to apply powdered boric acid to the entire body surface after the bath.

Diet has its place in the treatment of excessive skin moisture. Onions and garlic should be avoided. Fibrous meats and fats seem to make more active the sebaceous and sweat glands. Fruit juices are helpful. The more crisp, green vegetables one eats, the better.

By drinking plenty of water each day more of the body's wastes will be sent away through the kidneys, less through the skin which also is an organ of elimination.

Local treatment, consisting of the use of deterrents applied to the armpits, will often do away with this distressing condition.

Alliance Commends War Fund Movies

Toronto — "The patriotic gesture of the motion picture interests to promote the sale of war savings stamps and certificates has been strengthened by their decision to place their show on the evening of Monday, July 15, instead of the Sunday previously selected", declared Rev. George G. Webber, general secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance.

"Citizens who opposed the selection of the Sunday for the theatre shows can now heartily commend the plan", he said.

When they make a rain scene in Hollywood, and it starts raining, shooting stops until the sun comes out . . . because the manufactured rain photographs much better than the real thing. That's exactly what Director Alfred Hitchcock did the other day for one of the scenes in Walter Wanger's "Personal History." P.S. Everybody got a good soaking, including the "oldtimer."

What Do Men Know About Women ?

The following paragraph is from a letter received by John Edwin Price, whose writings have appeared frequently in these columns : "I do think all of us men in the U. S. should eat fish often. Once upon a time a young man informed me he wouldn't have a wife smarter than he is. Most men would be in a pretty pickle if they had adopted this young man's views. If most men's wives weren't pretty smart I don't see how they'd manage. About the dumbest thing some of them do is to marry the man they do, and they have to spend the rest of their lives making up for that one stupidity. They say it is foolish for a woman to marry a man to reform him. I say no man ever reformed his wife. As soon as she finds out he's trying to, she circumvents him in ways so baffling he doesn't even know she's resisting. The longer he lives with her the less he knows about her. Pope, or some other misquoted guy, said the highest study of mankind is man, but it would pay many a man to make a study of his wife. Every day he'd discover that what he'd found out the day before wasn't so. That's about as far as he'd ever get. He'd learn that a lot of things about her were not so, and that ought to keep him guessing wrong the rest of his life. But he would gradually come to realize that seh knows all about him, and that it's all so. If that makes him think he's smarter than she is, then Barnum has scored again.—Better eat fish".

Hope in Whooping Cough

Why do doctors not discover something to stop whooping cough ? This frequently asked question is answered by Dr. H. B. Cushing, in the current issue of "Health", by the statement "Easier said than done".

"The cause has been discovered. A minute bacillus, allied to the influenza bacillus, is found in the larynx and air-passages of the sufferers. It can be grown in test-tubes and its discovery is used as a test for the disease in doubtful cases, but so far no one has discovered a certain cure. Much can be done to relieve the sufferers. Careful nursing and attention to the diet maintain their general health. Abundance of fresh air and sunshine lessens the number of spasms. Various sedatives in the worst cases afford a measure of relief; a wonderful new drug, sulphapyridine, which saves thousands of lives in pneumonia, is however effective in most of the cases of pneumonia complicating whooping cough".

Prevention of the spread of whooping cough is always possible by the ordinary means of isolating the sick As it is, however, difficult to prevent sick children from playing with healthy ones, the latter may be made to avoid them by the simple expedient of having the coughers wear a distinctive mark such as a white armband, as had been adopted in some communities.

As things now stand, there is hope in a near future for whooping cough patients.

GOOD MANNERS

Famous Authority on Good Manners and Good Taste

SLOW DEPARTER IS A TRIAL TO A HOSTESS

Every hostess who has tried to solve the maddening problem of the slow-departing guest will appreciate this story about the hostess who just couldn't stand it any longer.

A girl who was a guest at a party at this hostesses' home languidly announced, "Well, I must be going." Then a pause, while she settled back for more conversation. Then, "Well, I really must be going." Another pause, during which all the guest did was to slide forward in her chair.

The hostess was helpless, demurred a bit with, "Oh, must you go ?", then gave up and tried valiantly to keep up some kind of continuity of conversation with the remaining guests. Another awkward pause in the conversation, and the guest again said, "Now I really must be going." Half-heartedly she rose, looked at her wrist watch as if she really were in a hurry, began to talk with the hostess about some news of a mutual friend unknown to the other guests, put on her coat, drew on her gloves, took one glove off again, picked up her purse, opened it and took out her compact, powdered her nose, shifted from one foot to another. Still she lingered. The hostess was worn out; the conversation of the other guests was stymied. The Slow Departer said, "There was something I meant to say, but I've forgotten what it was."

The hostess replied, "Perhaps, my dear, it was 'good-by'."

How often we've all yearned to say something as tart as this to the nerve-wracking Slow Departer. But however much we're tempted, we desperately hold on to our manners, and to our tongues.

No one has ever been able to explain this perverseness of guests who, having said they "must go", back and fill, make farewell speeches, linger on the threshold to engage the hostess in conversational postscripts.

Much has been said about how to enter a room, how to make a good first impression. Not enough has been said about how to leave a room, how to make a good last impression.

INFORMAL SUMMER WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman :

1—I am planning to have a very informal wedding this summer, and I intend to wear a becoming street dress and hat. What should the bridegroom wear — a dark blue suit or a white suit ?

2—Would it be too formal to have someone sing "Oh Promise Me", before the ceremony ?

3—We are having a matron of honor and a best man. How should we go to the altar ? —M. D.

1—If the costume you are wearing is your traveling costume, the bridegroom would best wear a dark blue suit. If your dress is white or a very light shade, he might suitably wear a white suit, or white flannel trousers and blue coat.

2—No, even at an informal wedding this would be appropriate if you wish.

3—The bridegroom and best man come from the vestry or some entrance at the front of the church. Then, down the aisle would come your matron of honor walking alone. And following her, you and your father, or whoever is to present you in marriage.

ACKNOWLEDGE CARDS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman :

We have just had a death in the family and we have acknowledged all floral pieces. We have been told that we should also acknowledge the sympathy cards.

Please advise us if this is the proper thing to do. —W. W.

Yes, anything that is sent by a relative or friend to carry the message of friendship and sympathy, should be acknowledged by a note of appreciation. This means that not only should we write notes of thanks for flowers, but also for letters or any other forms of expressions of sympathy. While it is not considered good form to send ready-made "sympathy cards", nevertheless we should write notes of appreciation if they are sent, for the senders meant to have them carry kind thoughts.

Wax Dummies in Wartime Role

Elegant female figures in wax for shop window displays are luxuries which a nation at war can well do without, but the British artists and craftsmen who create these exotic "lovelies" are now finding plenty to do elsewhere.

Scale models of "casualties" are wanted for A.R.P., first aid, and fire services practices; imitation men and women are used for lectures on anti-gas clothing; dummies are in demand for training police dogs; hospitals continue to want models fitted with rubber tubes for anatomical instruction.

One of Britain's leading model artists is Mr. Leo Gems, whose London studios can make the double claim of being "contractors to H.M. Government" and "modellers to 21 royal families". The studios are now busy producing grim types of figures, but side by side with these the dexterity of sculptors and wigmakers still conjure from wax and rat's talling the whole range of fashionable femininity down to the last blonde curl and varnished finger nail.

These luxury models are equally a part of the war effort, for they are for export, destined to be dressed up and admired in many parts of the world, either in shop windows, showrooms or at trade fairs.

Film stars and other well known personalities are much in demand for various display schemes overseas. This is probably the height of the modeller's art, for the human's wax counterpart has to be faithfully portrayed to the minutest detail, such as exact replicas of teeth, eyes and general expression. In some cases the models are ordered by the film industry itself, so that dummies can take the place of heroines being mauled by lions or involved in violent accidents.

Guards' Recruiting Unit Expected in Lachute

Montreal—Within the next week or so, various towns throughout the Province of Quebec will be visited by a travelling recruiting unit representing the Canadian Grenadier Guards, which is to take up a position in the main part of the towns visited and offer information concerning the Regiment, army pay and allowances and send recruits to Montreal to be medically examined. Men joining the Guards from these towns are to be kept together during their elementary training and, if there are sufficient numbers, it is intended to form platoons from the various towns. In this way, recruits will be kept with their friends and associates of civilian life.

Many young men of excellent calibre residing in these areas are anxious to serve their country in some capacity but are are not in a position to travel to the cities to enlist. Under the arrangements to be made by the Guards, it will be possible for them to make all necessary enquiries before enlisting. The Canadian unit is setting a high standard for aspiring soldiers with height standard of 5'8" in stocking feet and the necessity of a sound physique and intelligence.

At present, the travelling schedule has not been published but it is expected the recruiting unit will visit Lachute about July 12th and 13th.

The presence of a detachment from the Grenadier Guards in the rural areas of Quebec will recall memories to thousands of inhabitants of the last war when the Guards sent out the same type of travelling units. Out of these towns came some of Canada's best fighting men and these districts can point with pride that they, as much as anyone, were responsible for the admirable war record acquired by the Guards.

transportation, while the Dominion is giving medical inspection at the port of departure, looks after the children when they arrive in Canada, and provides rail transportation and proper care until the children reach provincial distributing centres. From this time forward, including supervision of the children's well being, the provincial governments aided by welfare organizations take charge. In the work of removing children from Britain, Mr. Crerar said, "there is room for all. The movement", he concluded "might well reach large dimensions".

TOURIST TRAFFIC — NO PASSPORTS REQUIRED

Although the United States requires passports visaed by consular officers for everyone visiting the United States, Canada will not adopt similar measures, during this summer at least. "All circumstances considered", the prime minister, Mr. King, told the Commons, "it has been deemed desirable to continue for the present the practise of not requiring passports from United States citizens. All that will be necessary is for the visitor to satisfy the Canadian immigration authorities that he is a United States citizen and that he is coming to Canada for a legitimate purpose. There will be no unnecessary delays or hindrances placed in the way of tourists, who will continue to receive the cordial welcome that will be extended to them now as in the past."

Extent of the British war purchasing program in Canada is shown in the announcement that the British Supply Board has assumed the capital cost of construction of 35 companies, reaching a total expenditure of over 50 million dollars. These companies will produce over 250 million dollars worth of war materials annually.

Gunner, Enrolled As Cook, Proves Keen Observer

BUT HAS NOT SEEN INSIDE A KITCHEN!

A letter addressed to the local Legion from a fellow-member serving overseas — Private Don G. Greig of the R.C.O.C. — gives colorful impressions of the Old Country in the eyes of a Canadian. Extracts of this letter, handed to The Watchman, are published herewith for the interest of our readers. . . .

When I enlisted (writes Pte. Greig), every unit was at full strength, and though I am an experienced Artilleryman and thought my services could be of use in that capacity, the only way I could crowd myself in was as Cook. Having passed the tests, I was taken on as 1st Class Cook and a full fledged member of the 7th Med. Battery for overseas.

The Battery left me behind (too old), then after five months the authorities decided my services would be needed overseas . . . and eventually I landed in beautiful England — England as it never is any other time of the year, lovely spring, with everything in bloom. We had about seven hours by train to Aldershot, through scenery unsurpassed for loveliness. After a week in Aldershot I was sent to Nottingham, the famous city of lace and caves and which is known as "Queen of the Midlands", which it is. The city is built on miles of caves which date back B.C., the days before the Roman Conquest. It is a city of hills and dales and crowning all is "Castle Rock", an immense sandstone rock about 200 feet high in the centre of the town. Under this rock and carved out of stone is a pub called "A Trip to Jerusalem". The whole house is hewn out of the rock and the openings bricked up to form the outer huge caves and cellars go under the rock and naturally they store the drinks there. I had the good fortune to see through these cellars. The wall. Here the Crusaders stopped for refreshment in 1100-&-something A.D. but it was a pub many centuries before this. From the counter, temperature never varies, always 58° F.

The people of Nottingham are very friendly and when the unit came here in January the Mayor and Council took a number of the boys to the council chamber (city hall to you), treated them wonderfully and took them for a tour of the city.

While in Aldershot I went to see friends in Kew Gardens, Richmond. They took me through the famous Kew Gardens, where they claim they have every variety of tree and flower that grows anywhere in the world. It is considered to be the most beautiful park in the world and one thing that impressed me was the Canadian flagstaff. It is all in one piece roughly 280 ft. high, cut from one of our B.C. trees. There the Union Jack flies, rain or shine, despite temporary reverses at the front, bravely and proudly, and can be seen from a distance of about 40 miles. It was a proud day for me. I think at the time I was the only Canadian in Richmond, and walking through the park could hear "Oh look, a Canadian". I felt flattered and the people I was with, were, as they said, "showing me off" to their friends.

In this unit I am classed as a railwayman. Where they got the information from beats me; if they want me a railwayman I'll be one, but hope they don't want me to cook! My chum and I were the only two of our Montreal Unit to leave — both of us cooks, and neither of us have seen the inside of a kitchen in England, and hope and pray we never do. Most of the folks here think the war will be over soon after Xmas, 1940, but I believe it will last till 1945 at least, but hope I'm wrong.

You know what goes on at the front better than we do here and so cannot give you news of interest, but if any of our Comrades would care to drop a line, it would be more than welcome as it is a month today since we left Canada and not even a postcard to date. It's rather lonesome without news from home. A "Watchman", too, would be more than welcome if you could spare one.

INDUSTRY GAINING STRIDE IN PLANE AND SEACRAFT OUTPUT

MASS PRODUCTION UNDER WAY IN MANY CANADIAN PLANTS; AIRCRAFT BRITAIN UNABLE TO SUPPLY, ARE MANUFACTURED HERE FOR TRAINING SCHEME

Govt. Establishes Offices For Issuance Passports For U. S. Travel

Ottawa, July 9th — The mobilization of Canadian industry for the production of war supplies and equipment is daily gathering momentum. The recent events in the theatre of war have increased Canada's importance as a source of these supplies so urgently needed in the struggle against Nazi aggression. The security of Canadian factories from midnight attack by bombers is a major factor in this development. Canada's responsibilities in the prosecution of the war are every hour looming larger, and as the Minister of Munitions and Supply has said, this country will throw its full weight into its great task.

In the process of "streamlining" Canadian industry for the performance of this vital work, a steadily increasing number of skilled and competent business executives have been taken from the private industrial field and placed in important posts in the service of the nation. Very wide powers have been granted by Act of Parliament to the Minister of Munitions and a large part of this authority has been delegated to a Wartime Industries Control Board. In this board are controllers of steel, oil, lumber and metals, which are such important materials in the production of war supplies. The machine tool industry has been placed in the control of a government board. A government owned company, working without profit, known as the Citadel Merchandising Company will co-ordinate the tool making industry.

The Canadian aircraft industry is also playing its part. It has been announced that Canada herself with her rapidly expanding manufacturing facilities will not only be able to produce all planes needed for preliminary training in the Commonwealth Air Training Plan, but that the planes will be delivered within a year instead of two years as originally anticipated. Britain had agreed to supply many of these planes but in the grave situation now facing Britain she needs all planes and all aircraft factories for her own use. Canadian plants are now carrying out mass production not only of training planes but of bombers and fighters as well. For the manufacture of Anson planes for advance training which were also to have been delivered by Britain, Canada has organized a new company, the Federal Aircraft, Ltd. This company will assemble the planes, the parts of which are already being manufactured in a number of plants.

To simplify war purchases by Britain on this continent, the British Purchasing Commission in the United States under Arthur B. Purvis, Canadian industrialist, will have full control. The British Supply Board which has been operating in Canada has already placed orders amounting to $75,000,000 and made commitments for $50,000,000 more. The British government have helped finance Canadian companies whose output is expected to reach $250,000,000 annually.

An adequate supply of expert labor is of course needed for the successful operation of war industries. A National Labor Supply Council, appointed for this purpose has been meeting at Ottawa. It consists of five members representing industrial employers and an equal number representing employees. The Minister of Labor, Norman McLarty, in a speech to the committee urged the importance of its task. An intensive study of industries connected with the war, he said, should be made. It might be necessary for the government to call on industry to assist in training its own workers. It was most essential to promote a spirit of co-operation between employers and employees to ensure the uninterrupted production of essential war materials.

New warships, small in size but very important in present day warfare, are beginning to be launched from Canadian shipyards. Construction of the "mosquito" fleet is ahead of schedule. These ships to be used in patrol work will be called "corvettes", Rear Admiral Nelles, head of the Canadian Navy has announced. Many of these, involving the expenditures of millions of dollars and the employment of thousands of workmen are on order in Canadian shipyards on the Eastern and Western seaboard and along the St. Lawrence route. Some are for the British Navy, but the majority for Canadian naval forces; these will be called after localities in this country and will be manned by Canadian seamen.

The Canadian government is doing everything it can to expedite the issuance of passports required by Canadians who wish to cross the United States frontier. But care has to be exercised to prevent fraud. A passport as explained by the Prime Minister in Parliament carries international obligations. "It is not a document which should be issued without great care and caution", the Prime Minister stated. Temporary offices for the issuance of pass ports are being opened this week at Vancouver, Toronto, Winnipeg and St. Stephen. It is pointed out, that while Canadian authorities are endeavoring to prevent delay in the issuance of passports, visas must be given by U.S. officials. The Foreign Exchange Control Board has tightened its regulations about issuing foreign exchange. All applications for foreign exchange must be referred by the banks to the exchange board. Exchange for business trips will be freely granted but where the trip is considered extravagant, the application will be refused, a spokesman for the board has indicated.

The past week has been a busy one in parliament. The committee studying the defence of Canada regulations has brought in a report advocating the death penalty for major offences against the safety of the state. Most of the time has been taken up in the debate on the budget. Criticism from New Democracy members has been founded on the fundamental differences of opinion they hold on national currency and credit policy. C.C.F. members have urged an excess profit tax of 100 per cent instead of 75 per cent, and stated the wealthy should be compelled to buy large blocks of war loans with interest for at least three years.

At the quarterly session of Argenteuil County Council, held in the Court House on June 12th, a donation of $300 was voted to the Red Cross Society, and $300 to the Salvation Army — cheques for which have been forwarded to headquarters of these organizations by the secretary-treasurer, Jas. W. Gall.

A representative membership from the county municipalities was present at the meeting, which was presided over by Warden C. J. Staniforth, of Arundel.

Member of B'burg Family Suffers Sudden Loss

People of Brownsburg were grieved to hear, on Tuesday, of the accidental death of William Gilmore Price, to whom one of that community's popular young ladies, Miss Ida Fletcher, was married less than a year ago. "Gillie" Price, aged 31, was crushed in the rollers of a paper-drying machine in a plant at Riverbend, near Chicoutimi. He was a nephew of the late Sir William Price, and a member of a family long prominent in Quebec Province's newsprint production.

The body was conveyed to Quebec, by ambulance. Meanwhile Mrs. Price, who is herself reported seriously ill, was taken there by train, and was met by her sister, Miss Alma Fletcher, R.N., who left from Brownsburg immediately on receiving news of the accident. The funeral was held this afternoon (Thursday).

Two War Savings Stamps Admit to Special Show

The management of local theatres announce that on Monday, July 15th, a special free show will be presented. In co-operation with every other motion picture theatre in Canada, Mr. A. Fassio is turning over the facilities of his theatres for a special performance designed to popularize and sell the new Stamps and Savings Certificates.

The Canadian motion picture industry is giving one evening to be devoted entirely to Canada's war effort. No amount of money can buy admission to this special performance. All the movie patron has to do to obtain admission, is to prove that he is a loyal Canadian by purchasing a minimum of two 25c war saving stamps from the theatre box-office. Stamps already purchased from other sources do not entitle the bearer to admission. When two stamps are purchased in this way, a free ticket will be issued to the purchaser entitling him or her to attend this gala patriotic performance, for which a special program has been prepared.

Since only Government securities are being sold for admittance to this performance it is necessary for the movie industry to carry all the expenses involved. Attempts are being made to get famous movie stars to appear at key centres in the interests of these performances.

Mr. J. R. Coleman, one of Australia's popular footballers, has been awarded £10 damages against a New South Wales firm of brewers for using his portrait as advertising matter. Mr. Coleman regards beer drinking as detrimental to football and as a coach strongly advises all players not to take alcoholic liquors.

Cushing W. — The death occurred, at his home in Greece's Point on Sunday evening, of Mr. Jean Baptiste Aubry, one of the oldest, if not the very oldest resident of this locality— he having reached the advanced age of 94. Mr. Aubry was very highly respected and was known as an industrious and honest man. He leaves numerous descendants in different parts of the country.

The funeral took place on Tuesday morning from the Church of St. Philippe, and was attended by a large number of his old friends and neighbors.

Cyclist Killed by A Truck Near Pte. au Chene

TRACKS INDICATED SKIDDING IN LOOSE GRAVEL

Inquest was held Monday evening into the death of Egide Seguin, resident of Montebello, who was killed when hit by a truck two miles west of Pte. au Chene. The accident occurred when Seguin was cycling home, and, approached from the rear by a Papineau Creamery truck travelling westward, swerved into the path of the vehicle. Tracks showed that loose gravel may have caused the man to skid and lose control of his bicycle. The fatality occurred around 5.30 p.m. Last rites were administered by a priest who was passing the scene of the mishap. Dr. D'Amour, of Papineauville, was summoned, but the victim had succumbed to fracture of the skull and injuries to the spine, before the physician arrived.

Jurors heard evidence at the inquest held in Montebello. The body was identified by Ernest Cabana, brother-in-law of the victim. Dollard St. Denis, 29-year-old resident of Papineauville, driver of the truck, testified that he had approached Seguin while descending a hill on Highway No. 8 west of Pte. au Chene. He had sounded the horn and slowed down to 20 or 25 miles an hour. As he went to pass the cyclist, who was then at the extreme right of the road, the bicycle swerved directly into the path of the truck, and he was unable to avoid striking the man. This evidence was confirmed by Hector Gauthier, 23, who was riding in the cab with the truck driver. J. A. Potvin, Roads Department Inspector, testified to having reached the scene a few minutes afterward, and seeing the two men carrying the injured man to the side of the road. The highway was 22 feet wide at this point, and Mr. Potvin stated he has seen the tracks, which confirmed the previous account of the accident. The victim had died about half an hour later.

The jury returned a verdict of accidental death, attaching no blame to the truck driver.

The accident was investigated by Traffic Constables A. Chartrand, of Buckingham, and A. Leger, of Brownsburg.

Egide Seguin was 47 years of age, and is survived by his wife, formerly Miss Côté, at Montebello.

Grenadier Guards Recruiting Here On Saturday

Montreal — A special recruiting office for the Canadian Grenadier Guards, C.A.S.F., recently mobilized with the Fourth Division, will be opened here on Saturday, July 13, it is announced by Major H. C. Griffith, Recruiting Officer for the regiment. The office will be located in the Miller Building, Main Street.

The establishment of the centre, which will be for at least two weeks duration, is for the convenience of young men living in Lachute and surrounding areas who wish to join the armed forces and serve their country but lack the opportunity of travelling to Montreal. Under present arrangements being made by the Guards aspirant enlistees have the army practically "at their doorstep". Recruits will be interviewed by officers and if found suitable transported to Montreal where they will be medically boarded at the Guards Armoury, Esplanade Avenue. The speeding up of medical examinations in the armoury leaves the recruit only 24 hours before he becomes acquainted with the results of his examination.

While stern, the necessary qualifications for entrance into the Guards assure the recruit that if he is accepted he will be a member of one of Canada's proudest fighting units, for the record created by the old 87th Battalion during the last war is one that stands high in the opinion of Canadian militia circles. Recruits presenting themselves for interview must be at least 5'8" in stockinged feet, of sound physique and intelligence.

For the past few weeks the travelling recruiting unit of the Guards has been busy visiting various towns and villages about the province with the result that a fine type of recruit has been obtained from the rural areas. It is hoped that sufficient young from Lachute and district will enlist to warrant the forming of a special platoon of Lachute boys. In this way enlistees from the district will be kept together in the army.

Ste. Agathe Red Cross Collects Funds for Two Ambulances

The Ste. Agathe-Ivry section of the Red Cross set out recently to collect enough money to buy an ambulance for overseas. The drive closed Monday night, and Murray I. Walsh, treasurer of the section, announced that in a two weeks' campaign over $4,000 had been collected — sufficient to purchase two fully equipped ambulances at $1,750 each and send them to England.

Co-operating With Red Cross Appeal For Blankets

Through the efforts of Mrs. Arthur Pollock, enough money has been collected in the community of Hill Head and Hill Foot to buy six pairs of new wool blankets; these have been given to Lachute Red Cross branch, in response to the organization's recent appeal.

BROWNSBURG BRANCH

Brownsburg, July 3—No slackening of enthusiasm is to be noticed around the Red Cross work-rooms as an ample supply of materials is being rushed to completion. Afternoon and evening groups continue to prepare all types of hospital needs for issuing to volunteers for finishing. With existing circumstances in Europe making the situation more acute from day to day, no one should remain idle when every minute's work can prove helpful to those who are in such need.

A most gratifying response has been received to date in the appeal for woollen blankets. A shipment of twenty-four blankets went forward to Headquarters recently, and many of the ladies have entertained at bridge parties to buy blankets with the proceeds thus obtained. Donations of money have also been received.

Weekly shipments forwarded to Headquarters during the month of June consisted of the following:

16 sweaters, 32 scarves, 8 caps, 59 Hampton pads, 24 woollen blankets (donated), 37 pairs socks, 4 pairs wristlets, 2 pairs wristlets with thumbs, 13 khaki handkerchiefs.

At the end of June, a total of 4,518 articles had been shipped from this Branch.

Savings Certificates May Now Be Purchased by Groups And Organizations

Organization of district and local committees to promote the sale of War Savings Stamps and Certificates throught the province is proceeding rapidly, it is announced by Napoleon Charest, Provincial Chairman.

Assistance in this work is being sought from churches, farmers, labor organizations, newspaper editors, boards of trade, women's associations, security dealers, life insurance and bank managers, postmasters and any others who care to offer their services.

Answering the request of a number of patriotic groups in Canada, the War Savings Committee has announced the broadening of regulations covering the issue of War Savings Certificates. Certificates have heretofore been issued only to individuals, but these will be issuable in future to specific groups of individuals who wish to act in concert.

Limitations as to the amount of $500 which may be purchased in any single year, and other conditions remain unchanged.

Under the new regulations, incorporated or unincorporated bodies organized for the purpose of carrying on, without pecuniary gain to their members, objects of a national municipal, patriotic, religious, educational, charitable, professional, social or sporting character or the like, including service clubs, labor and fraternal organizations, excepting those acting primarily as insurance or benefit societies, will be permitted to purchase War Savings Certificates.

With the revised authority, approved by Order-in-Council, the War Savings Committee is authorized to determine whether any group is eligible to purchase War Savings Certificates under the provisions of the regulations.

Longshoreman Is Drowning Victim At St. Andrews

WENT BATHING AFTER A HEARTY DINNER

A Montrealer, Philippe L'Abbé, 39 years of age, lost his life Wednesday afternoon in the Lake of Two Mountains at La Baie. The man had arrived in the morning with friends, Mr. and Mrs. Lamoureux, to spend the day at St. Andrews. After eating a substantial meal at the summer residence of Wilfrid Lebrun, the trio went to the beach, enjoyed a sunbath and took snapshots.

Raymond Lamoureux, chief witness at a coroner's inquest in the case, said that, at this point, he had gone to his car, and returning saw the victim, out swimming alone 50 feet from the shore. L'Abbé, with whom he had worked several years as a longshoreman in Montreal, was a good swimmer, according to Lamoureux. The latter had turned toward the victim a few minutes later, but he had disappeared. Lamoureux thought his friend was playing a joke, but becoming alarmed a few seconds later, he summoned neighbors.

With Laurier Lebrun, a second witness, Lamoureux had entered a boat and searched for the body. Lebrun, diving in 5½ feet of water, found the victim two hours after the mishap, and he was brought ashore, apparently dead. Dr. L'Allier was summoned and applied artificial respiration, but without avail. There was little water in the victim's lungs, and the body gave none of the usual signs of death by drowning.

Jurymen, hearing the testimony of these witnesses, pronounced death due to heart failure during immersion. Blame was attached to no one.

Philippe L'Abbé was a native of Drummondville. He was unmarried.

Recent Robbery at the St. Andrews Post Office

St. Andrews E. — It was learned that the post office here was broken into on the night of July 3rd or early morning of the 4th. All the stamps and money (not a large amount) were taken — also a pair of shoes from a parcel. The thieves entered by a rear window, and they opened the safe and drawers with tools stolen from the C.N. Railway station shed. No fingerprints were found.

Women Slow to Enroll in Local Registration

LADIES ARE URGED TO OFFER THEIR SERVICES

The response to the Voluntary Registration of Canadian Women, under way this week at the registration centre in Lachute, has been somewhat disappointing to date. It is hoped that the small number registered up to last night indicates rather a delay of action than a lack of intention. It is expected that the district of Lachute will measure up to the enthusiasm elsewhere of women to assist in any national emergency that may arise. In Red Cross work, charitable and war services of other kinds, women of this locality have already proven their patriotism, and in this Voluntary Registration they are urged to show similar zeal and record their names immediately. Registrars will be at the Victoria Hall, Lachute, the remaining afternoons and evenings of this week, and every assistance is given to ladies wishing to enroll for aid in the various lines of service.

In connection with the registration of women in outlying centres, it is announced that any county women who have not been contacted during the week, may also register at the Victoria Hall, on Saturday.

The Scouts of Western Australia are collecting empty unbranded milk and medicine bottles, face cream jars and cigarette tins for hospital dispensaries in Perth.

Everything Ordered, from Teeth to Anchors

Department of Munitions and Supply Extends Scope and Number Of its Requirements

Ottawa — Orders being placed are increasing both in number and in quantities involved, said an announcement by the Department of Munitions and Supply. While the rapidly expanding munitions program involves purchases of the greatest magnitude, the growth of the operations of the Department is also exemplified by some of the smaller items required by expansion of the Canadian defence program.

For example, purchases of this nature include 300,000 R.C.A.F. buttons and 100,000 disinfecting cloths for use with gas masks.

Some of the other orders for small items today include 700 sets of false teeth, 456 anchors, 90 gallons of mosquito oil and 10,000 units each of smallpox vaccine and meningitis antitoxin. Other orders include such things as 30,000 cubic feet of acetylene, 30,000 cubic feet of oxygen, 25,000 cooks' aprons, 90,000 flannel shirts, 144 old car wheels.

The order has also been placed for one year's supply of all the automotive spare parts required for the Second Division and its ancillary troops. Keeping step with the growth of the joint air training plan, facilities to be provided for students include such equipment as school desk chairs with writing tablet on the right hand side. The order has just been placed for another 500 of these chairs.

When the outlook is not good, try the uplook. —Book of Good Cheer

All For A Nickel !

One hundred and forty separate operations are required to make the modern Canadian-made shot shell, according to an article under the above heading which appears in the June issue of C-I-L Oval.

The shot shell consists of five major parts : brass head, primer, basewad, paper tube and the load which includes powder, shot and wads. The action that takes place when the trigger of the shotgun is pulled on a shot shell is simple and easily understood, says the writer. The pull on the trigger releases the firing pin which strikes and indents the primer. This causes the primer mixture to ignite and the resulting flame spurts through the flash-hole igniting the powder charge. The large volume of gas created sets up an extremely high pressure which causes the felt wad to expand and tightly fit the gun barrel, thus preventing the escape of gas or the loss of pressure. The wad is then set in rapid motion and pushes the shot charge ahead of it and out of the barrel in a scatter effect. It is unbelievable, states the writer, that the product of so much engineering skill, ballistic knowledge, scientific research and technical precision could be obtained for a mere five-cent piece. It's amazing, but true !

What "Nazi" Means

The word "Nazi" (pronounced "naht-zee") is not in the German language, despite its general use to denote Adolph Hitler's Government and followers. It is a coined word—an abbreviation of "National Socialisten", the German equivalent of "National Socialists", which is the official name of the Hitler party.

Restore Birthplace of Sir Wilfrid Laurier

In the little village of Saint Lin, Quebec, about thirty-five miles north of Montreal, restoration work on the childhood home of Sir Wilfrid Laurier has been completed by the National Parks Bureau. The house in which this illustrious Canadian was born has been set aside as a national historic site, and it is to be preserved as a lasting memorial to one of the Dominion's greatest sons. On the grounds of Sir Wilfrid's birthplace is to be erected a stone shaft bearing a bronze tablet with the following inscription in French and English :

Sir Wilfrid Laurier
Prime Minister of Canada 1896-1911,
Born at Saint Lin, 20th Nov., 1841.
Died in Ottawa, 17th Feb., 1919

A typical French-Canadian home of a hundred years ago, the old brick house has been faithfully restored, and the grounds landscaped and fenced. The interior walls of the house have been covered with a handmade linen, woven in Quebec Province. This makes an admirable background for the furnishings and pictures which are representative of the arts and crafts of the period.

Why We Shake Hands

This is an old custom originating in the 'good old days' when all men carried weapons, and were quick to use them ! Whenever a man met someone with whom he had no quarrel, he grasped his hand with his own right hand to prove that he was friendly. Whilst these two people were grasping hands, they were unable to use a weapon.

This Strange World

In 1886, an Englishman named R. T. Palmer signed an enrolment form for the 1st Kent Artillery Corps. . . . Fifty-four years later, in 1940, his brother, A. Palmer, while sorting out several tons of wastepaper for repulping at a Gravesend mill, found that same form.

A few weeks ago the Rev. A. C. Schofield, vicar of a Somerset parish, made out a cheque to the local taxation authorities. He lost it, and search throughout the vicarage failed to locate it. . . . Now, workmen cutting down trees near the vicarage, have found the cheque — used as part of the lining of a rook's nest. The nest-builder had apparently "lifted" it from the vicar's study table.

A tenant in Mary Pratt's apartment house in Kansas City, Mo., complained to the police that the landlady had too many animals in the building. They found four Shetland ponies, one goat, one police dog, a family of cats, a monkey, two owls and a two-year-old lion. . . . Mrs. Pratt told police : "the tenants don't have to stay if they don't want to. The animals want to and are going to stay".

A 54-year-old Londoner who can only read a newspaper with a magnifying glass in addition to his spectacles in the daytime, can see objects quite clearly in the dark and never uses a torch even in the blackout. . . . He has worked as a cellarman for over 30 years and claims to have "cat's eyes".

A man who has just died in Northamptonshire, England, has travelled more than 1,250,000 miles to get to his work in the last 30 years. He was a water expert and journeyed to London and back every day — a distance of 170 miles.

A STATEMENT ON FORD WAR WORK IN CANADA

This Company is in the war to the full limit of its resources. Until the British Empire is victorious, until the battle for freedom of nations and liberty of peoples is won, we have pledged all the vast manufacturing facilities of our Canadian and overseas affiliated companies to the service of the Empire.

We regard this to be our simple duty as a Canadian institution, one of the industrial resources of the Dominion. The 8,400 employees in our plants as well as our widespread dealer and service organization from coast to coast are Canadian. The Company's shareholders include a large proportion of Canadian investors. No one individual, family or company has a majority control of our shares.

For these reasons, aside from our deep feeling of loyalty to the Empire and its high purposes, it is fitting that Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited should give whole-hearted support to the national war effort.

From the very beginning this has been our course. Even before war was declared, in co-operation with officers of the Department of National Defence, we laid in our plant the groundwork of military production. Since conflict became a reality we have given war orders precedence over everything else. More than fifty per cent of our production is in vehicles for military use and this percentage is increasing rapidly.

We are now engaged in supplying approximately 35,000 motorized vehicles of many types, of which 10,000 are for the Canadian government and 25,000 for other Empire governments.

We are constructing at our own expense a $700,000 plant addition to provide facilities for the building of Universal machine gun carriers of which we have undertaken to deliver fifty a week to the Canadian government as soon as production can be started. This addition will also enable us to increase production of other types of military vehicles. Our affiliated companies with plants in South Africa, Australia, New Zealand, India and Malaya are similarly engaged in Empire service.

Beyond our manufacturing facilities we have been fortunately able to contribute skilled man-power. From our Canadian and overseas organization, engineers and men with special training in transport and other lines are rendering valuable service.

Major adjustments in our business have been necessary through loss of export trade and because of domestic taxation. We have made these adjustments cheerfully. Our one concern now is the successful prosecution of this war so that people of all nations may again be able to work in freedom and peace.

PRESIDENT
FORD MOTOR COMPANY OF CANADA, LIMITED

Statement in Parliament by the Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Munitions and Supply

"The president of the Canadian Company has shown perhaps as keen a desire to assist in Canada's war effort as any citizen of this Dominion has done. His corporation since the outbreak of the war has done and is doing very important work for Canada's war effort, in the way of building motor transports and Universal carriers. The company has placed itself entirely in the hands of the government as to the terms of the contract which it has had.

"A contract, providing for a fixed price as low as we could find any basis for asking, was worked out; an overriding provision was inserted that the books of the company would be audited and if the stipulated price produced a profit more than a very low percentage indeed, that price would be scaled down accordingly. In other words, the work of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, its attitude toward the war, and its ability to assist in Canada's war effort, have been so far as I have been able to observe, beyond criticism."

Statement in Senate by Senator Raoul Dandurand, Government Leader in the Senate

"Ford Motor Company of Canada is doing its utmost to serve the interests of the country, the War Supply Board and the Government."

Statement in the Senate by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative Leader in the Senate

"They (Ford dealers in Canada) are numbered in the hundreds. And the number of employees of these dealers is very large. The ramifications are tremendous. For all the purposes concerning us, the Company is a Canadian concern, and I can add to the assurance given by the honourable leader of the House my own feeling that there are no better Canadians than those at the head of the Ford Motor Company of Canada and throughout that Company's organization. They will assist us to the utmost in our war work."

Women's Auxiliary Motor Service

Early in the war the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, organized free training courses for women in the care and operation of motor vehicles for possible war service. 284 such classes have been conducted, with an enrollment of 7,343. The number who have completed the eight-week course is 3,473, with 2,656 now under instruction and 1,214 enrolled in new classes about to start. All instruction and equipment has been furnished by Ford dealers and the Company without charge.

Types of Motorized Vehicles for Military Use Being Made by Ford Motor Company of Canada

The Company is engaged in manufacturing 35,000 motorized vehicles for Canadian and overseas governments. They include light two-wheel drive trucks, known as 8-cwt., which are used for carrying light stores, personnel or wireless sets; 15-cwt. units, used to transport heavier loads, personnel, as anti-tank gun tractors, water tank carriers, etc.; 30-cwt. four-wheel drive, used as load carriers; three-ton, four and six wheels, for heavy loads, for workshops, for wrecking equipment, etc.; four-wheel drive gun tractors used to haul artillery, as well as ambulances and regular passenger cars and station wagons specially fitted and painted for army purposes. Present schedule of deliveries of these military vehicles constitutes more than 50 per cent of the Company's production. The plant is working day and night.

KEEP YOUR TOWN ALIVE

A town is very much like an individual. To be flourishing, it must have energy and enterprise. The people in a town should remember that individual prosperity depends to a large extent upon the character of the place in which their business is located. Every public measure should be liberally supported by all, especially the business men. At the present time there is as much competition between towns as there is among persons and business enterprises. A man seeking a location will invariably select a town that is up to the times, and is eagerly in favor of every modern improvement. A town in these modern days can't afford to be peopled with old fogies or antediluvian fossils who are constantly kicking at every enterprise. To make a flourishing town you must believe in its future and work for it, encouraging every improvement. Make a special effort to exhibit some evidence of improvement in your own work and character. Help every worthy man, every enterprise, and encourage every good man to locate in your town.

BUYING GOVERNMENT

Many people judge governmental operations by what they read in the papers and when a story about the public squandering of tax money reaches them, in the form of dishonest operation in one or more of our larger cities, they unconsciously assume that this dishonest type of operation exists in their own community. This is not true. Even in a city of 100,000 population the following is generally true ; the average citizen still knows his neighbor ; the press carries complete stories of every contemplated public project ; the voters go to the polls in honest elections ; part of the tax dollar may be unwisely spent but on the whole, it purchases necessary public services at a bargain and is honestly spent.

The great difficulty with the average taxpayer when he turns his tax dollar into the public treasury is that he cannot or does not visualize just what he is buying. It appears to him as an intangible something and not concrete item like a gallon of gasoline or a package of cigarettes.

SAVING PAPER

Many local authorities in England and Scotland are economizing in the use of paper by using both sides of sheets for typing letters, reports, etc. In this respect they have anticipated suggestions made by the Paper Controller for effecting economies in the use of paper. He suggests that writing-paper may be saved by using the smallest possible sheet, folded into the smallest possible envelope. Both sides of the paper should be used for writing, and typing should be in single instead of double spacing. —Municipal Journal

"THIS, TOO, WILL PASS"

In the Maritimes where, even in peacetime, a new trouble afflicts the soul every few minutes, a business man keeps a framed motto over his desk : "This, too, will pass." The war, too, will pass into victory. The reason that war will pass into victory was discovered by Voltaire, who wrote that "the English people are people who defend themselves." They will not give up the rights that cost their sires their blood.

What sort of world, what sort of Canada, emerges from this war depends in part on the length of the conflict. But mainly, the kind of country we have in future depends on what kind of country we strive to make it. If we drift, we shall likely drift into some order, or disorder, of revolutionary economic dream. If we plan and work to adapt to new conditions the tried principles of individual liberty, freedm of opportunity and justice to all, we might evolve a system whereby none able and willing to work would have cause to complain.

For our part, we are unwilling to accept, as so many seem inclined to do, the belief that never will we see this nation restored to a condition where our lives will be our own, our taxes moderate, our unemployment and railway problems solved, and a healthful recovery begun from the over-government that prevailed prior to the war. The basic reforms that were needed then will be needed when peace comes. Meanwhile it behooves all who believe that we can get back to principles which made British countries great in former times, to be thinking and planning to avert complete regimentation which benefits mainly those who would eat out of the public trough and which tends to destroy those who abhor despotism.

An honest and sincere argument for maintenance of sound principles will be heeded by the public at large, especially if it becomes generally realized that one reason for the downfall of France has been the partaking of the economic poison of Popular Frontism or New Dealism.

Rather than take us farther along that path, the war and the lessons therefrom may help us to get back to first principles.

16th TYPE OF GOVERNMENT

When the new 99-man council takes office in Montreal after the next municipal elections, it will mark the 16th time the city has had a change in the type of civic administration.

Records of the Montreal Municipal Archives Department show that Montreal has been governed by councils varying from 12 to 35 councillors, by justices of the peace, administrative commissions, and a deputy administrator, as at the present time.

Sidelights on the War

You know of Tommy Atkins and Jack Tar — who doesn't ? Now meet the other member of the illustrious trio, Bertie Bacon — for that is the new name for British flyers. . . . Tommy Atkins first got his name from the specimen letter heading suggested in official instructions for members of the British Armed Forces. The heading still reads : "1234567 Private T. Atkins". For the comparatively new service, the Royal Air Force, a new name had to be invented, and some unknown genius chose "7654321 Sergt. A. Bacon, Such-and-such Squadron". As "A" signifies "Albert", "Bertie" Bacon takes his place in the roll of fame.

Among Britain's conscripts is a young man whose peacetime occupation is industrialist and who is on the board of directors of five large companies. He is Viscount St. Davids, and he is serving as a chauffeur-orderly in Britain's new army.

The British Ministry of Economic Warfare, which is responsible for the economic blockade of enemy countries, has as its telegraphic address "Whiskers London" — a humorous allusion to the Ministry's initials, M.E.W.

Some idea of the immensity of modern 70-ton tanks may be gathered from the fact that the metal used in the construction of one of these tanks would make 620 twpewriters, 300 lawnmowers, 8 tractors, 375 bicycles, 105 washing machines, 5175 radios, 6 automobiles, 1000 vacuum cleaners and 139,900 safety razors.

When enemy planes raided a Kentish village recently, a bomb fell in a field outside the farm of Peter Smith. The next morning, the farmer said : "I was awakened by an explosion. The concussion shook my bed, but I did not think it was worth while getting up. Farmers have to get up early enough these days without looking at fruitless raids".

Another war casualty. . . . After being held every year for 764 years since it was instituted by Prince Rhys-ap-Griffith in 1176, the national Eisteddfod, Wales' great annual festival of song, has been cancelled this year.

The roar of a low-flying plane passing over a village near Cardiff, brought Mr. Harris and his wife rushing from their home. "I wonder if that is our Hubert", said Mr. Harris excitedly. Suddenly the plane dipped and crashed, and Mr. and Mrs. Harris dashed to the spot, to see their son's body being removed. A few hours later they received a telegram from the Air Ministry : "Your son has been killed on active service".

Fifth Column Notes : In a Belgian village, a British gunner saw a gardener cut turf in the shape of an arrow. An airplane was flying above. The arrow pointed towards the place where British soldiers were entrenched. Half an hour later German bombers dropped bombs.

In another village, a white-haired, 90-year-old woman was the only civilian. She refused to go. British soldiers got suspicious and searched her home. Under the roof they found about 200 carrier pigeons with messages in German tied to their legs. Four German spies were hiding in the house, too.

Invaders first put milestones in Britain, and now, to help repel and foil anticipated invaders, they have been removed. Romans set milestones beside the roads they built in England 1900 yars ago. The only milestone allowed to stay is one near Folkestone. It reads : "Berlin 731 miles".

The dreaded Gestapo, in Germany, forbids relatives of dead soldiers to wear mourning or to speak about the deaths to anybody outside their own families. Offenders meet with drastic punishment. In this way, Germany prevents knowledge of huge casualty lists from becoming known to the public.

NEWS OF FINLAND'S SCOUTS

The official magazine of the Boy Scouts of Finland, "Partio," is again being published. It was discontinued following destruction of its printing place, a Scouter's home, by a Russian bomb. There is news of activities of Lone Scouts, but lists of Scouts who fell in the Russo-Finnish war make sad reading.

Just Pause !

Just pause and think of William Fleet;
He didn't look when he crossed the street.

"It ain't too deep", said Johnny Stout;
Two days later they fished him out.

Here lies the body of Tobias Finn;
He took one drink of home-made gin.

"I'll take a chance," said Willie Bates,
Before he entered the pearly gates.

Shed a tear or two for Henry Muck;
He disputed the way with a motor truck.

The City Council of St. Johns, Que., voted $150 to the local troops of the Catholic Scouts of Quebec, to assist the sending of needy boys to camp.

If the war situation permits, the Boy Scouts of Jamaica will hold an All-Island Jamboree Camp near Kingston this summer, inviting Scouts from Cuba, Dominica, Trinidad, Venezuela and the Caymans.

HITLER-STALIN DEAL ?

A future in which Adolf Hitler and Josef Stalin will attempt to divide the world between them is foreseen by Dr. Albert Bushnell Hart, Harvard Professor Emeritus of government, as he observes his 86th birthday. Professor Hart envisions (1) Hitler swallowing up Italy ; (2) unified Western Europe dominated by Hitler ; (3) Russia taking an empire in Asia and India and waging a great war with Japan, and (4) Hitler invading the western hemisphere by way of Mexico within the next five years. He doesn't say what John Bull and Uncle Sam will be doing in the meantime.

SCIENCE ends DANGER of hot homes!

New discovery reduces temperature up to 15° on hottest days

SOLID ROCK BECOMES WOOL
From solid rock Johns-Manville makes an insulation that at last makes homes really livable. Limestone is actually blown into a light fluffy wool, and felted into bats that have all the appearance of cotton batting.

FROM the Johns-Manville laboratories has come an amazing new insulation, a light, fluffy wool-like substance that is actually blown from rock. It looks like cotton, but is a pure mineral, with all the characteristics of its stony origin—clean, fireproof, vermin-proof, permanent, odorless.

When installed in your attic floor or ceiling, it forms a heat-proof barrier more than 3 inches thick. Results are astounding. Hot homes become delightfully cool, and you can depend on savings up to 30% on your fuel bills in winter. Experts agree that only full wall thickness rock wool will protect homes against heat and cold in a truly scientific way.

Phone us today, and let us tell you how little it will cost to make your home really livable every day in the year. There is no obligation.

Canada to Supply Army with Universal Carriers

UNIVERSAL machine gun carriers will soon be added to the list of army vehicles made in Canada for the fighting forces at home and overseas. These are equipped with caterpillar treads and are very manoeuverable and speedy. They are armoured against small arms fire and will carry three Bren guns, or can be used to carry ammunition, wireless sets and other necessary equipment. They will be produced in the Windsor plant of Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, which has been selected as the most suitable for the production of this vehicle. In the lower photograph, Mr. Wallace R. Campbell, president of the Canadian Ford organization, is shown with Lieut.-Col. D. C. Warnica, officer commanding the Essex Tank Battalion, Windsor, inspecting one of the Universal carriers. Other army vehicles now made in the Ford plant in Windsor include the powerful four-wheel drive gun tractor pictured above. These and other types of military vehicles are rolling off the assembly line of the Canadian Ford plant which is supplying nearly 10,000 units to the Canadian army and another 25,000 units for military purposes to other Empire governments. The plant is now being expanded by a $700,000 addition to provide facilities for building Universal carriers and to increase production of other types of military vehicles.

President, Chicago Board of Health

ANEMIA IN CHILD CAUSED BY SHORTAGE OF IRON IN DIET

To make red blood cells, the body's chemical factory uses many substances from the food it consumes. There are the proteins and their twenty or more parts, namely aminoacids. There are the various minerals, iron and copper being most important. Then there are the vitamins. More than 20 different substances are known which may be needed for red blood cell manufacture.

According to Dr. I. N. Kugelmass, of New York, proteins which are found in such foods as meat, milk and eggs are especially important in manufacturing red blood cells.

The red blood cells carry in them the substance, known as hemoglobin, or coloring matter of the blood, which carries oxygen to the lungs, where it is breathed out. This hemoglobin contains iron. Hence, a lack of iron in the diet also may lead to anemia. Iron often must be added in the form of some preparation, such as iron and ammonium citrate, to the diet of infants or young children to keep anemia from developing, particularly if the child does not take enough vegetables, whole-grain cereals and egg yolk.

For iron to be used by the body, some small amount of copper must be present. However, there is rarely, if ever, a lack of copper-containing foods in the diet. But, for iron to be used by the body, normal digestion in the stomach must go on.

A lack of acid in the stomach may, therefore, be a contributing cause for anemia. In those instances in which there is not enough acid in the stomach, it may be advisable to give some iron preparation as well as a weak solution of hydrochloric acid.

It seems, also, that vitamin B1 and G, as well as vitamin C and D all are necessary for normal blood formation, according to Dr. Kugelmass.

In some types of anemia, red cells which are larger than normal may be noted in the blood. This type of anemia may develop during digestive disturbances, such as blocking of the intestinal tract, called intestinal obstruction, or in disorders, such as celiac disease and sprue. These diseases interfere with the taking up by the body of a certain substance which is necessary for the formation of red blood cells. Ths substance is found in liver and liver extract.

Hence, in the treatment of this anemia, liver extract should be given either by mouth or by injection into a muscle or vein.

In another type of anemia, normocytic anemia, the red cells are normal in size. This kind of anemia may develop as a result of continued bleeding, or with the destroying of red bloods cells from poisons, such as lead.

In a still third type of anemia, microcytic anemia, the red cells are smaller than normal. This type may occur in disorders in which the amounts of proteins in the diet are restricted. Thus, in persons who are oversensitive to certain foods, certain proteins may be left out of the diet to avoid the symptoms of sensitivity. These individuals may develop a protein deficiency and, as a result, may develop a severe anemia.

In all cases of anemia, it is advisable that the blood be carefully studied; that the individual have a complete examination to determine the source of the condition, so that the most effective treatment may be carried out.

HINTS FOR HOMEBODIES

WODEHOUSE CAPTURED

The many readers of P. G. Wodehouse will be sorry to hear he is a prisoner of war. He was living in France and was giving a party when the Germans arrived. His wife was made a prisoner. This is one predicament where even Jeeves will not be able to help.

THE LATE BROADCASTS

Psychologists tell us that we remember best those things which we have studied just before going to sleep. They advise students to study any thing specially difficult just before going to bed, then the subconscious mind gets its work in. For that reason it seems to me to be a mistake to listen to the War news just before going to bed. It is on our minds at all times, but if we listen to it late at night, we cannot help our subconscious mind worrying over it. It does no one any good to have a troubled sleep, and the better sleep we have, the harder we will be able to work at something which will do some good. These days there is work for everyone.

MOSQUITO CONTROL

Here are ten rules given in a recent magazine for home control of mosquitos: 1—Eliminate all standing water. 2—Cover rain barrels with screening. 3—Seal breaks in cesspool covers. 4—Stock ornamental pools with fish. 5—Drain clogged roof gutters and flat roofs. 6—Keep cellars dry. 7—Stack upside down all pails, barrels, tubs and boxes that must be kept outdoors where rain can collect in them. 8—Cut up old automobile shoes so they will not hold water. 9—Bury, flatten, or punch holes in tin cans that are left outside. 10—Sprinkle waste oil or kerosene on standing water that cannot be drained.

A USE FOR CANDLE ENDS

When you have some odds and ends of colored candles left, try melting them to use on jams or jellies. The colored topping looks attractive and makes a nice finish to a gift jar. The paper tops which you just wet, smooth on, then fasten with a rubber band make a perfect seal and of course no wax is needed, but the colored wax makes a little extra touch. Bottles that were covered with the prepared paper tops have survived a moving, so that is a good test of their strength.

POINTS IN BAKING WAFFLES

An electric waffle iron is a favorite wedding present these days. They make perfectly grand waffles. But like everything else need a bit of knowing to get the best results. The first thing is to have the iron pre-heated enough before you start baking the waffles. My iron has an indicator which says "bake", and I find to have the best waffles, the indicator must be at almost the end of the word "bake", and not at the first of it. The first time I used the iron I was not too successful because I started using it before it was pre-heated sufficiently. At first I left the iron open while I took out the baked waffles and cut them apart, before putting in the next batch of waffles. We found it took too long to cook and the time is long when you are waiting. It seems even longer if you have guests. Now, just as soon as the waffles are taken out, and before we even cut them apart, we close the waffle iron and let it heat until we are ready to put in the next waffles. This extra heating does the trick and the waffles are baked by the time we have finished eating the preceding one. This is the most satisfactory recipe I have tried.

WAFFLES

1¾ cup flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 1 cup milk, 6 tablespoons butter, melted.

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Beat the eggs well then stir in the milk. Add this mixture to the dry ingredients and beat until smooth. Add the melted butter and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites.

OATMEAL COOKIES

1 cup butter, 1 cup sugar, 1 egg, ¾ cup cocoanut, ½ teaspoon salt, 1½ cup flour, 1¼ cups oatmeal, ½ teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon baking powder.

Cream the butter and sugar and add the beaten egg. Sift in flour, soda and baking powder, and stir. Then add oatmeal and cocoanut. Roll into balls the size of a marble, put on buttered pan, and press down with a fork, both ways. Bake at 375 degrees. This is quite a large recipe. I sometimes make a half quantity and I use the whole egg and increase the cocoanut to ½ a cup.

"Before we were married you called me an angel."

"I know it."

"But now you don't call me anything."

"That shows my self-control."

Dairy Products Key to Health of Youngsters

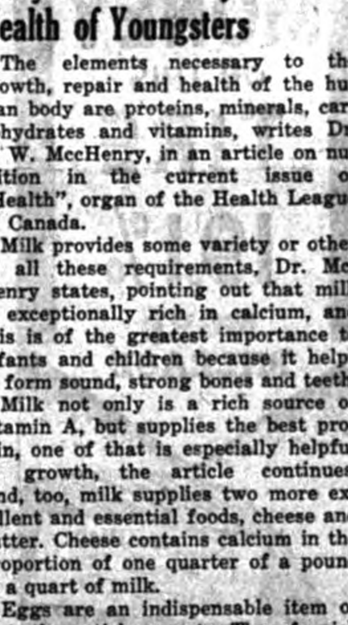

The elements necessary to the growth, repair and health of the human body are proteins, minerals, carbohydrates and vitamins, writes Dr. E. W. MecHenry, in an article on nutrition in the current issue of "Health", organ of the Health League of Canada.

Milk provides some variety or other of all these requirements, Dr. McHenry states, pointing out that milk is exceptionally rich in calcium, and this is of the greatest importance to infants and children because it helps to form sound, strong bones and teeth.

Milk not only is a rich source of vitamin A, but supplies the best protein, one of that is especially helpful to growth, the article continues. And, too, milk supplies two more excellent and essential foods, cheese and butter. Cheese contains calcium in the proportion of one quarter of a pound to a quart of milk.

Eggs are an indispensable item of diet, the article asserts. They furnish protein, fat and vitamins and also the iron which the body must have.

"The mother who can supply her family with plenty of milk, cheese, butter and eggs need worry very little about the health of her brood", Dr. McHenry states. "She has already provided most of the essentials of nutritious diet, and her chief concern will be variety of preparation.

BEAUTY

SWIM FOR HEALTH

In the good old Summertime all roads lead to beaches. The great trek is on; everybody feels ducky. Men, women, children of all ages are in bathing outfits. They come in buses, motor cars, on bicycles, on the hoof. It's grand. What more stimulating on a hot day than a dash into cooling water, a plunge into the waves, burrowing in the sand, lazy hours of relaxation.

Swimming has a beneficial effect upon all the organs of the body — the digestive motors, the lungs, tissue structures, the musculature, even the skin. It is a means of overcoming figure defects, such as undeveloped breasts, flat chests, poor posture.

You can't plough through the waves if your chest is contracted. The natural impulse is to lift and expand it. So much muscular exertion is employed that the lungs take in the fullest measure of air. The lungs respond down to the last cell. A treat if they rest inside the girl who is a shallow breather, never has her lungs fully ventilated and refreshed.

The movement of the arms will normalize the breasts, developing those that need development, tighten up sagging tissues. This movement will also worry fat cells off the shoulders.

Movements of the head will tone neck muscles that have gone fiddle stringy. The girl who has been unmindful of posture and has acquired rounded shoulders should learn to swim. Fibers that extend from the shoulder blades to the waistline regain elasticity.

Swimming gives freedom of movement to the hip joints, shaking off adipose cushions that may have attached themselves to hips, abdomen or thighs. All this means that one must be vigorously active, not just play around, taking a few strokes now and then. There is a great satisfaction in being a first class swimmer, moving beautifully through the water. Gracefulness results and ease of movement becomes a habit.

The girl who likes to be a mermaid all summer long will be a good dress carrier; she will develop a neat sweeping line from the lower ribs to the thighs.

During the act of swimming there is no strain on the spine because the body is lighter than water. There is no tension of the back muscles because of the free movements, but the muscles of the abdomen contract, which means that they are tightened, strengthened and take up slack. Stout darlings should keep that fact in mind. Swimming is their beauty dish.

After the first shock of the cold water there should be a quick reaction of the bloodstreams, a sense of warmth and well being, an increase of energy. All that's what most of us need.

Daughter—"The girl who hesitates is lost."

Father—"Nonsense, she's extinct!"

4 A.M. Hysterics — Just A Case of Sunburn

"Good Morning", said Dr. Mackenzie to the young interne of the hospital as he entered at 8 o'clock that Monday morning. "Anything new"? It was a legend of the hospital that its clocks were set by the movements of the red-headed doctor. The interne, intelligent-looking, answered: "Yes, five or six; bad case of sunburn; a blonde mannequin of a well known department store spent Sunday with her sweetheart splashin' round Wassaga Beach. Got a proper scorchin'; came in here hysterical at four this morning". "What did you do for her"? enquired the doctor as they moved towards the elevator. "Gave her a hypo", replied the interne. "Six please", he said to the attendant, "and sprayed her with 2 per cent tannic. She's easier now".

There is a present-day craze on the part of young men and women to acquire a rapid tan. Because of this a mid-summer holiday may be spoiled the first day. A healthy tan may be secured and a painful sunburn escaped by making the first sunbaths brief. It takes about 16 days safely and properly to tan the body of a child.

Taken in proper doses a sunburn has a most beneficial effect on one's body. The ultra-violet rays of the sun activate the ergosterol in the skin and produce vitamin D. This vitamin has the specific action of retaining calcium and phosphorus in the body and of the building of bone. Sunlight is of the most value in the early parts of the day, from dawn to mid-day during June and July.

The noonday sun should be avoided and the first exposures should be to the limbs, changing the posture every 15 minutes. During the bath itself beginners should alternate between shade and sunshine. The head should be protected. Application of a vegetable oil before sunbathing is useful; the oil reflects the sun from the skin. The brown-skinned tolerate the sun best and the fair-headed and red-headed worst of all. The effect of tan is to increases the pigment in the skin. The pigment absorbs the short waves of the sun.

Treatment — The application of a saturated solution of common Epsom salts is one of the most effective methods of relieving the pain of a sunburn. Baking soda and water, vaseline, carbolized vaseline or salt and vinegar give similar relief. In treatment the spraying of the parts with 2 per cent tannic acid is very effective.

Take the family. The more you take, the greater your contribution in Canada's war effort. Two savings stamps, purchased at the theatre wicket, give you a free ticket to the special patriotic program on July 15th.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN
Famous Authority on Good Manners and Good Taste

ONE-SUBJECT MONOLOGISTS MAKE DREADFUL BORES

Some people, like the Ancient Mariner, "fix us with their glittering eye" and make us listen, whether we wish to or not, to their concentrated talk about something which is of paramount interest to them but which doesn't concern or interest us much. To them conversation isn't a give-and-take; it's all give.

For example, there's Dorothy, who talks about her weight, talks about her latest diet, talks about reducing. Nations may fall, and war questions may rise, but Dorothy talks on about her weight, her diet, her newest reducing plan. You think there must be something else that Dorothy can talk about but apparently there isn't.

Mrs. Bee's tongue buzzes with her troubles. To Mrs. Bee nobody else has troubles. That her listener has any troubles and has the good sense and the good taste not to talk about them, never occurs to Mrs. Bee. She wouldn't be able to understand such self-control and poise. So Mrs. Bee buzzes on, and the more she talks about her troubles, the more they are magnified in her own mind, and the more she belittles herself in the mind of her listener.

Similar to Mrs. Bee is Mrs. Dee, as full of ailments as a medical book. She is the gloomy heroine of "Let me tell you about my operation." Mrs. Dee's theme song, written in a minor key, is "My doctor said", and she sings it lugubriously, repeating the chorus as many times as you will listen. The clinical thermometer is her dearest friend. The sad refugees trudging along the devastated roads of Europe have no sorrows compared to Mrs. Dee's tired feet after shopping, or her headache after an evening concentrated on bridge. Dolorous Mrs. Dee hugs her ailments and her symptoms —they're the dearest things in life to her. She takes for granted that they are the dearest things in life to her listener.

Miss Kay is an expert in saying critical and destructive things about other people. The motif of her crest should be a hatchet rampant. Just mention anyone to her — her allegedly "dearest friend" or a mere acquaintance — and her sharp tongue begins its cutting remarks. Never an attempt to direct conversation with a warm-hearted comment of appreciation of the person mentioned. No golden words from Miss Kay. Her words are leaden and, try as we may, we cannot lift them to the realm of kind and pleasant thoughts about other people. Miss Kay knows all the answers about how other people should lead their lives.

There are many other types of one-topic talkers. There is Carolyn, who never comes to life until clothes or cosmetics are being discussed. There is Mrs. Donald, the doting mother whose children, we are supposed to understand from her unceasing talk about them, are the most beautiful, the most talented, the cleverest, the most glamorous in the whole wide world. There are the members of the Cult of the Great Misunderstood, who are miserably handicapped by their gloomy introspection and their self-pitying monologues.

You haven't only one topic of conversation on which you bear down unceasingly, have you? Or have you?

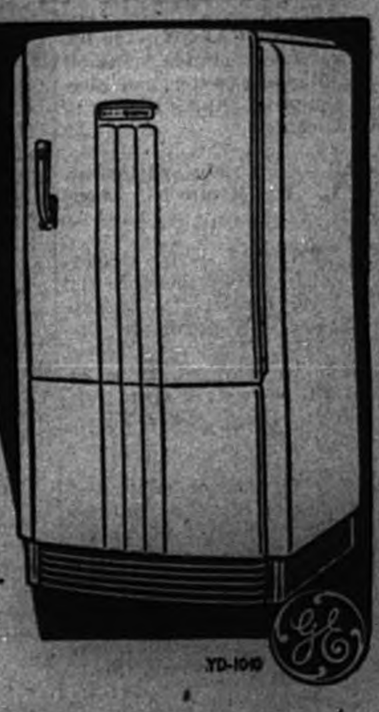

COURTESY TIP

Don't let down on your table manners at home, just because there is no one except the family to see how you eat. Family meals should be as pleasing and delightful as company meals.

BRITAIN INFLICTS HEAVY CASUALTIES IN FRENCH FLEET

It was a sad day for Winston Churchill when he had to instruct the British Navy to use force against French warships in order to stop them from surrendering to the Germans and Italians. The majority of the French ships were only too willing to join the British fleet and hundreds of French sailors applied for British citizenship papers so that they could fight on the side of Britain. Several French warships stationed at Oran refused to consider the British terms and a major naval battle ensued with several French ships being sunk or damaged. The "Dunkerque" (inset) managed to escape although badly damaged. Above is a general view of the French fleet, second only to Britain in Europe.

Registrar Appointed Here Under National Mobilization Act

MARRIAGE EPIDEMIC AFFECTS LAURENTIAN VILLAGES

Military Service Clause Sets July 15 Deadline Date for Category of 'Married Men'

A registrar has been appointed for this constituency to conduct registrations next month under provisions of the National Resources Mobilization Act. The registrar is Gaëtan Valois, and his assistant Geo. F. Calder, both of Lachute. Organization for this Dominion-wide "stocktaking" is being completed in detail and, at this date, it is expected the registration will commence around Aug. 15th.

Stiff penalties have been announced for failure or delay of persons to register.

Provision is made for a speedy collection of registration cards of single men and widowers without children, between the ages of 19 and 45—this, presumably, to facilitate the drafts of men for military training before the returns of the whole population are assembled.

Each person, on registration, will be given a certificate which he must carry at all times, for presentation on request of any officer of the law—and neglect or failure to show such card is also punishable by a fine.

The entirely new department of government, the Dept. of National War Services under the administration of Mr. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture, is entrusted with this task of registering Canada's human and material resources. All members of parliament are going to help in this gigantic operation. Each member will select a small voluntary committee in his constituency which will assist the officials in carrying out the registration. Jules Castonguay, chief electoral officer, will be chief registrar for Canada.

Among the many important functions of this new department will be to promote, organize and co-ordinate the different forms of voluntary assistance to the war effort.

The town of St. Jerome witnessed a record of some 50 weddings over the week-end, most of them taking place on Sunday. Other rush marriages were held in most of the other Laurentian towns and villages, but no estimate of the total number in the Laurentian district for the two-day period could be obtained.

Marriages in Hull and district reached 150 on Sunday, and about five times that number were turned away for lack of licences or other reasons.

Mass marriages were celebrated in many centres of the province as a result of the coming registration for national service. The National Resources Mobilization Act demands that only men married prior to July 15th may be registered as married citizens. The first drafts for compulsory military training will affect only single men, so many hundreds hastened to graduate from this category, by getting married before the deadline date.

Marriages on Sunday are uncommon in the Catholic and Protestant churches, but pastors made exceptions on this occasion to accommodate their parishioners.

The trouble with Father Time is that he doesn't take round trips.

St. Andrews Red Cross

St. Andrews East branch of the Red Cross, which includes Carillon, River Rouge, Lachute Road and Cushing, packed and dispatched boxes to Montreal, containing the following:

40 Pairs socks, 5 sweaters, 2 scarves, 1 cap, 62 conservation articles, 78 sheets, 9 refuged dresses, 15 flannelette garments for refugees, 6 pairs pyjamas, 4 hospital bed gowns, 60 towels, 48 pillow-cases; making a total of 330 articles.

Gratitude is expressed to those ladies who have kindly loaned their sewing machines. It is hoped that more machines will be lent. Ladies are requested to kindly notify Mrs. Mowatt, if they cannot send machines themselves to the Club House for use any Friday afternoon.

A Minneapolis nursery furniture firm is reported to be manufacturing 25 bullet-proof prams with quarter-inch metal plates. They have been ordered by people in Aruba, Dutch West Indies.

Rapid Strides in Waterworks for Brownsburg

RESIDENTS LEARN DETAILS AS LONG TALKED-OF PLAN MATERIALIZES

Brownsburg — The plan to install a waterworkks and sewerage system in this village has developed rapidly during the past few weeks. Word has been received from Ottawa Governmental departments that a loan to the Corporation of Brownsburg, to the amount of $152,000, has been approved. Plans have developed quickly since then. Gohier and Dorais, a Montreal firm of engineers, are expected today, to complete the profile of the streets. Tenders will be called at the earliest possible date, and it is expected that construction will commence within six weeks.

A petition recently signed by Brownsburg property holders, all pledging to take water from the supply, listed 292 names. This was about 85 per cent of the eligible voters. The C-I-L has signified its intention of taking all its water from this system. It is reported the Company is turning over its own system to the Corporation without charge, to be operated by them. In line with the practice in other communities, it will pay for the water actually used, at prevailing rates. A water-meter will be installed for the purpose of measuring this consumption.

The water supply for this municipal system will come from the West River — a dam being constructed at Limestone Chute, which will create a reservoir of 100,000 gallons capacity. There will also be a modern chlorination plant. The mains will be 12-inch cast iron with leaded joint. This will mean that the system will have a more than adequate supply of pure, safe water — protected by chlorination. The pipe system will be strong and durable.

It is understood the yearly rates will be set as follows,—$12 for the first tap; $3 for bath; $3 for toilet; $3 for each outside outlet, and $1 for each additional outlet. (Hot and cold water taps in the same sink to be considered as one tap.)

Judging by the many bitter complaints about unsanitary conditions, occasioned by the numerous cesspools and septic tanks within the village, residents will be pleased to hear of the definite plans and progress made to date.

This waterworks project has been talked of several times before, but efforts have failed to get the scheme under way. This year's council is deserving of credit for the manner in which it has pushed ahead the culmination of a much-needed improvement.

Two Theatres Sell $300 Worth of Savings Stamps

MOVIE EFFORT GIVES NEW IMPETUS TO INVESTMENTS

War savings stamps to the value of $300 were sold for free admissions to the Rex and Capitol Theatres here last Monday — according to the proprietor, Mr. Fassio. The attendances were good, especially at the Rex, Lachute, which drew a capacity house. Here a brief address to the public, on the need for continued investment in government war stamps, certificates and securities, was given by Gaëtan Valois. Mayor W. S. MacKimmie, who was to have addressed the patrons at this performance, was unavoidably absent . . . Mayor Albani Brunelle, meanwhile, stressed the War Savings message at the Capitol in Brownsburg, speaking in place of Jas. W. McGibbon, M.P., who had been called away to Ottawa. The Brownsburg Boys' Band played patriotic airs at both the performances.

The net result of this venture — besides the immediate investment of $300 in War Savings — is that many citizens who had hitherto neglected to save in the interests of Canada's war effort, have now a stamped card to give them an incentive toward regular purchasing of War Savings stamps.

Motorists of Silver City, N.C., complain that the city traffic lights wait too long to change color. A colored man, Johnny Peoples, proved it. A patrolman said that Peoples drove up to a red light and fell sound asleep before the light turned green.

Farmers Protest Bridge Toll

CLAIM PONT DAVID TAX IS DIRECT BREACH OF UNDERSTANDING

Farmers of Terrebonne County, served by the David Bridge, charge that imposition of the 50 cent toll on what was formerly a free bridge is in direct breach of an understanding reached with them when the bridge was being built that they would never have to pay tolls.

They have petitioned Lionel Bertrand, M.P., their Federal representative, and Hector Perrier, K.C., of Montreal, to present their views in this matter to the Provincial Government.

The towns of Ste. Therese and Ste. Rose, also in Terrebonne County, have made similar protests to the Quebec Legislature through their town councils.

Lest We Forget

At the close of the last War, Louvain University was rebuilt with funds furnished by American philanthropists, and the architect provided for a tablet therein with this inscription in Latin: "Destroyed by German ferocity; restored by American generosity". A chorus of indignant protests from all parts of the civilized world smothered the proposed inscription. It was, the objectors claimed, an insult to a civilized and cultured nation, and a cruel attempt to perpetuate the should-be-forgotten animosities of an unfortunate conflict. However, the new Louvain was destroyed by the same "civilized and cultured nation" again in 1940.

2-Year-Old Girl Is Poisoned by Strychnine

TOOK POWDER FROM DRAWER IN HER PARENTS' HOME

Catherine Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rolland McCullough, of Harrington East, died last Thursday of poisoning. The child, 2 years and 7 months of age, ate strychnine powder which the father had purchased from a druggist last year to poison crows on his farm. The powder was in a bureau drawer within easy reach of the child.

A coroner's investigation revealed the fact that, after the father had left that morning to deliver cream to a cheese factory, the child had entered the parents' bedroom. She came out and exclaimed to her grandfather, living in the same home, that the "medicine was bad!" Seeing evidence of the powder on the child's lips, the mother and grandfather subsequently found the strychnine bottle in the bedroom where the child had taken it from the bureau. The little girl was immediately rushed by car to Kilmar, where Mrs. Parkes, a graduate nurse, gave her an emetic, but without effect for the child was suffering convulsions. She was taken without delay to Dr. Smith's Hospital, Hawkesbury, but died ten minutes after admittance, or about an hour after she had taken the strychnine.

Mr. and Mrs. McCullough have one other child, a younger son. The mother was formerly Miss Nellie MacLean, of Grenville.

After hearing particulars of the case, the coroner pronounced death accidental.

Tourist Business Is Maintained

COL. J. L. BOULANGER TELLS KIWANIS EARLY REPORTS ARE FAVORABLE

Quebec—First reports on Quebec's tourist industry indicate that 1940 will compare favorably with last year, according to Col. J. L. Boulanger, Executive Secretary of the Province and Director of the Provincial Tourist Bureau, who addressed members of the Kiwanis Club at a luncheon in the Chateau Frontenac.

During the first six months of this year 68,884 automobiles entered the province as compared with 70,107 during the similar period in 1939, the speaker stated.

Declaring that a strong campaign was being waged in the United States to keep Americans within the forty-eight states this year, Col. Boulanger said that Quebec was spending upwards of a quarter of a million dollars in indirect and direct publicity. Added to this was the money spent by railway and steamship companies, leading hotels and private associations, which brought the total sum spent on advertising the province to more than $1,000,000.

Good roads, good hotels and publicity were the three essentials to a successful tourist industry, Col. Boulanger told Kiwanians. "In the field of tourism there is competition as in every other line of enterprise. Everybody must put his shoulder to the wheel if the province is to be successful. The co-operation of the public is necessary to the efforts of the Government, the municipalities, public bodies, transportation companies, hotels and other interested organizations. We will have to cultivate in our province that good old French hospitality which manifests itself in warmly welcoming the stranger; providing him with a good table and a good bed; and demonstrating that in preserving our French character we have remained 'different' from the rest of North America."

'GLORIOUS TWELFTH' IS DAY OF CELEBRATION FOR ORANGEMEN

SPEAKERS AT ANNUAL FIELD DAY AND ASSEMBLY, SEE ORANGEISM AS FACTOR FOR SAFEGUARD OF EMPIRE AGAINST ADVERSE FORCES

The "Glorious Twelfth" was fittingly observed on Friday of last week, when the Orange Lodges of Argenteuil County, under Worshipful County Master M. McGibbon, held their annual celebration at Arundel. The members assembled at the Arundel Orange Hall, and from there marched to the Anglican Church Grove, to the stirring music of Piper D. A. Fletcher of Lachute, Piper A. Stewart, and Drummers N. Fletcher and D. Fletcher of Dunvegan, Ont. Bro. Swail of Arundel, representative of King William of Orange, mounted on a beautiful horse, acted as marshal of the parade.

The weather man was on his best behaviour, and this contributed greatly to the success of the celebration. Lodges were present from Arundel, Harrington, Louisa, Dalesville, Morin Heights, Lost River, Shrewsbury, Grenville, Avoca, Lachute, and these, with members from the ladies' organization, took part in the walk through the village to the grounds where the celebration took place. Color was also added to the parade by several banners, those of Arundel and Louisa Lodges being worthy of special mention.

During the day delightful meals were served by the Women's Auxiliary of Grace Church, Arundel. These ladies, under their president, Mrs. Veit, are to be congratulated on the excellency of the fare provided and the expeditious manner in which it was served to such a large number of people.

The centre of interest in the afternoon was the speakers' platform, and the large audience gave attentive ear to addresses delivered by the guest speakers, who were introduced by County Master M. McGibbon. In every case the addresses were a challenge to all to play their part in bringing victory to the cause of the Empire.

Rev. Bro. S. J. Pike, of Brownsburg, in his opening words reminded the audience that the British Empire stands between us and slavery, and it is a privilege for us to pay allegience to the Empire of which we form an important part. We have seen what has happened to other countries of the world because they did not stand together, and of late we have seen what happened to France because there was not a united front, but we believe the British Empire stands more united than ever before. Continuing, Bro. Pike spoke of "The Abiding Monument of Orangeism", saying that Orangeism is an adventure of faith, which involves living, doing and sacrificing. We cannot forget 1285 and the great Charter, 1588 and the Spanish Armada, 1690 and the Battle of the Boyne, for God demands of us that we take history as our inspiration to be our brother's keeper. That is the meaning of Orangeism, life everlasting, if it is to be the guardian of the Sacred Word.

Religion and patriotism are the two greatest forces known to man, said Rev. Bro. Herbison of Lost River, in a short but stirring address. A man cannot be religious without being patriotic, for he must love the country God has given him. Neither can he be the best type of patriot in this Empire of ours unless he is religious, for our Empire is founded on God-like principles. As citizens we are either red-blooded, true-hearted patriots, or we are weak-kneed, unworthy deceivers. As a Christian people we are either true and loyal followers of Jesus Christ, or, we are hypocrites, hiding our sham behind the name Christian. "Render unto Caesar the things which are Ceasar's", that is patriotism. "Render unto God the things that are God's", that is religion. These two great principles of loyalty to our King and loyalty to our God form a chain of two links that can bind our Empire together in that unity and strength so essential to the ultimate victory of our cause.

Rev. Mr. Royle, of Grace Church, Arundel, on whose grounds the celebration was held, extended a cordial welcome to the members of the Loyal Orange Lodges. Referring to world conditions, Mr. Royle said that freedom was hard to win, hard to maintain, and is maintained only by the blood and sacrifice of many. But freedom is very easily thrown away, and one wonders if we are worthy of the sacrifices that our forefathers have made in earning for us the freedom we enjoy. The Orange Order, said the speaker, is in a splendid position, by virtue of its high principles, to maintain and uphold the freedom we possess, through being staunch supporters of the Church, and through loyalty to Jesus Christ.

The Orange Order, said Rev. Bro Cushing, of Arundel, stands for liberty — liberty of speech, of assembly, and of worship. In this war these liberties are at stake. In the case of worship the danger embraces Protestantism and Roman Catholicism alike. Because of this both Churches must stand side by side in the struggle to maintain religious liberty.

Speaking in a very much lighter vein, Rev. Bro C. W. Baugh, of Lakefield, nevertheless turned his fund of humorous anecdotes to good advantage by using them as apt illustrations in support of what had been said by other speakers.

Following the addresses a program of sports for the children was held. In this connection Rev. Mr. Royle proved himself a very capable "clerk of the course," as the events were run off without a hitch.

As a climax to the day's celebration a well attended and very successful dance was held at Arundel in the evening.

G'vl Child at Play Bites Tongue and Bleeds to Death

RARE DISEASE CONTRIBUTING CAUSE OF DEATH FROM MINOR INJURY

Laurier Larocque, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Larocque, Grenville, Que., died last Wednesday evening as the result of haemorrhage from what appeared a minor cut caused by biting his tongue. The boy, it is reported, was a "bleeder" or haemophiliac — a type in whom the blood will not coagulate, and who present a problem to the medical profession in such minor injuries as would readily heal in the average patient. It is understood two youngsters in the same family have been previous victims to this ofttimes fatal malady.

Laurier Larocque was playing at his home last Tuesday with his brother, when in some way he bit the tip of his tongue and caused it to bleed. The bleeding was stopped, and the child's father, returning from work in the evening kept a watch on the boy. Through the night there was no sign of serious haemorrhage, but in the morning the bleeding started again. The youngster was then removed to Dr. Smith's Hospital at Hawkesbury. Medical aid, however, was unavailing. Nothing could be done to remedy the condition, and the boy died around 8 o'clock in the evening.

Surviving with his parents are three other children.

COL. J. L. BOULANGER, executive secretary of the Province of Quebec Tourist Bureau, who reports that tourist travel to the province this year compares favorably with 1939.

OPPOSITION LEADERS DECLINE INVITATION TO JOIN CABINET COMMITTEE AS ASSOCIATE MEMBERS

Ottawa, July 16th — The invitation made by Mr. King to leaders of the Opposition to join the war committee of the cabinet as associate members, has been rejected. Mr. Hanson, leader of the Conservative party, told the House of Commons that after grave reflection he felt he could not accept, as the effect of this would be that of accepting "responsibility without power". He said he believed he would serve the interest of his country better by retaining full liberty of action in his very important task as leader of the opposition. Mr. Grote Stirling, former minister of national defense, associated with Mr. Hanson in the invitation agreed that it was impossible for them to accept and the leaders of C.C.F. and New Democracy, Mr. Coldwell and Mr. Blackmore, who were to be invited in case the Conservative leaders accepted, explained the reasons why they would not have considered it advisable to join in cabinet committee counsels as associate members. Mr. King, accepting the decision regretfully, said Mr. Hanson had misconstrued his motives in tendering the invitation. The object was to make available to the war cabinet the advice counsel and experience of the opposition leaders in parliament, and he had specifically stated that this would not in any way hamper their work of criticising the government.

An Air Pilot's Letter to His Mother

SENTIMENT OF SACRIFICE IN MESSAGE LEFT BY "MISSING" AIRMAN

This letter, published in several English newspapers, so breathes the spirit of young England that The Watchman reproduces it with the utmost reverence one can feel for such altruistic patriotism . . . It was found among the effects of a British bomber pilot killed in action. His commanding officer received permission of the bereaved mother to publish the letter — in the hope that it would be read "by the greatest possible number of our countrymen at home and abroad."

Text of the Letter

Dearest Mother,—Though I feel no premonition at all, events are moving rapidly, and I have instructed that this letter be forwarded to you should I fail to return from one of the raids which we shall shortly be called upon to undertake. You must hope on for a month, but at the end of that time you must accept the fact that I have handed my task over to the extremely capable hands of my comrades of the Royal Air Force, as so many splendid fellows have already done.

First, it will comfort you to know that my rôle in this war has been of the greatest importance. Our patrols far out over the North Sea have helped to keep the trade routes clear for our convoys and supply ships, and on one occasion our information was instrumental in saving the lives of the men in a crippled lighthouse relief ship. Though it will be difficult for you, you will disappoint me if you do not at least accept the facts dispassionately, for I shall have done my duty to the utmost of my ability. No man can do more, and no one calling himself a man could do less.

I have always admired your amazing courage in the face of continual setbacks; in the way you have given me as good an education and background as anyone in the country; and always kept up appearances without ever losing faith in the future. My death would not mean that your struggle has been in vain. Far from it. It means that your sacrifice is as great as mine. Those who serve England must expect nothing from her; we debase ourselves if we regard our country as merely a place in which to eat and sleep.

"I Count Myself Honoured"

History resounds with illustrious names who have given all, yet their sacrifice has resulted in the British Empire, where there is a measure of peace, justice, and freedom for all, and where a higher standard of civilization has evolved, and is still evolving, than anywhere else. But this is not only concerning our own land. Today we are faced with the greatest organized challenge to Christianity and civilization that the world has ever seen, and I count myself lucky and honoured to be the right age and fully trained to throw my full weight into the scale. For this I have to thank you. Yet there is more work for you to do. The home front will still have to stand united for years after the war is won. For all that can be said against it, I still maintain that this war is a very good thing; every individual is having the chance to give and dare all for his principle like the martyrs of old. However long the time may be, one thing can never be altered — I shall have lived and died an Englishman. Nothing else matters one jot nor can anything ever change it.

You must not grieve for me, for if you really believe in religion and all that it entails that would be hypocrisy. I have no fear of death; only a queer elation. . . . I would have it no other way. The universe is so vast and so ageless that the life of one man can only be justified by the measure of his sacrifice. We are sent to this world to acquire a personality and a character to take with us that can never be taken from us. Those who just eat and sleep, prosper and procreate, are no better than animals if all their lives they are at peace.

I firmly and absolutely believe that evil things are sent into the world to try us; they are sent deliberately by our Creator to test our metal because He knows what is good for us. The Bible is full of cases where the easy way out has been discarded for moral principles.

I count myself fortunate in that I have seen the whole country and known men of every calling. But with the final test of war I consider my character fully developed. Thus at my early age my earthly mission is already fulfilled, and I am prepared to die with just one regret, and one only — that I could not devote myself to making your declining years more happy by being with you; but you will live in peace and freedom and I shall have directly contributed to that, so here again my life will not have been in vain.

Your loving Son.

"In a eulogy of Hitler, Dr. Dietrich, the German Press chief, declared that the Fuehrer is a genius who is living a century before his time. There must be a billion people in the world who wish he hadn't hurried".

—The New Yorker

Minister Outlines Plans for National Registration

A nation-wide plan for the registration of every man and women in Canada above the age of 16 years, has been announced by Hon. James G. Gardiner, Minister of National War Services. National registration is a first step in carrying out the objects of the National Resources Mobilization Act.

Four days will be set aside about August 15 for registration purposes.

Jules Castonguay, Chief Electoral Officer for Canada, has been appointed Chief Registrar, by order-in-council, to supervise national registration. A provincial organization will be set up in each province, with the Chief Justice of that province, or a judge appointed by him, as the head.

To carry out actual registration members of the House of Commons are asked to name a registrar and a deputy registrar in the constituency they represent. These in turn will appoint two men in each subdivision of the riding to carry out details of the plan. This plan is patterned along the lines followed in taking the vote in a Dominion election, with the exception that registration will be compulsory, during the four days set aside by the Minister. Each subdivision will be divided in four areas and the people in each area will register on a given day.

Rates of pay for registration officials will approximate those given to election officials as will the pay for rental of registration offices. Registrars and deputy registrars will be allowed necessary travelling expenses.

An appeal to make registration a national effort was sent out by Hon. J. G. Gardiner and the services of voluntary workers and organizations solicited.

Don't Repeat Rumors

It is up to the pubic to help the authorities . . . and not hamper them by repeating foolish rumors. If anyone has information which they think the police should have, by all means tell them . . . But if it is just something told by Tom, Dick or Harry, find out who told them before passing on the story. Without a doubt there are subversive elements working throughout Canada, and it is only helping them when you repeat and exaggerate rumors.

Making History in Argenteuil

Extracted from the Fyles of The Watchman

60 Years Ago

Friday, July 16, 1880.

A primary school is spoken of in the neighborhood of Lachute Mills.

The attention of builders is directed to the notice of Mr. W. J. Simpson, calling for tenders for the erection of a new wooden English Church.

The council of this municipality have become thoroughly fossilized. At a meeting in the Court House yesterday, the council took no less than an hour to discuss a matter which might have been settled in a few minutes.

Fashion Notes — A great many tall women in short skirts, plain waists and wide belts, are now seen. Clusters of Lady Washington roses are seen on the latest fashionable bonnets.

The people of the East and West Ends, Lachute, should associate together and strive to find out the good points in each others' characters, instead of shunning each other socially, using hard names and allowing ill feeling.

The bridge commonly known as "Barron's" is at present in need of repair.

WHY A VOLLEY IS FIRED OVER A SOLDIER'S GRAVE

Whenever a soldier is buried a volley is fired over his grave. This originated because of an ancient superstition that a loud noise would surely frighten away the evil spirits that were supposed to try to stop the soul of the dead man going to Paradise. Nowadays, of course, the volley is fired as a mark of respect for the dead soldier.

Admiral Beatty's flagship, Lion, is an eighth of a mile long, half as heavy again as the Dreadnought, which was the first British warship to cost over £2,000,000. In five minutes' firing she can discharge 100,000 lbs of metal.

WHY THE HIGHLANDERS WEAR A SPORRAN

Kilts did not contain pockets, so a kind of loose pocket was worn instead, and this developed into the sporran.

Advice to Swimmers —How to Dive

Many can swim, but not all can dive. Why dive? Because it is the easiest way of entering the water, and since you are in correct position, you are ready to start swimming immediately.

Here are some simple lessons. Sit on the edge of the pool, feet wide apart. Bend your body between your knees, keep head tucked down, arms up, thumbs locked together . . . Take a deep breath, close your mouth, and fall in from that position.

Your body ought to straighten out while you are under the water, and you should hold that position until you come to the surface. The hands pointed upward, once you're under the water, will soon bring you to the surface.

Now we come to the next step. You take a kneeling position, close to the water's edge, head down, etc., attaining the same position you previously had. Take a deep breath again and fall in from your kneeling attitude, holding yourself as before until you reach the surface.

Now you're ready to dive from an upright stance. Stand at the edge of the pool, your toes gripping the side, your knees slightly bent. Do not forget to tuck your head in between your extended arms, because, if you raise it on entering the water, you may fall on your stomach. Unpleasant trick, that! You fall in as you did in the previous dives. Do the same dive again, this time with your knees held stiff.

And so you find yourself ready for a really neat entry into the water. Co-ordinate your arm swing with the spring of your legs. Take your last stance, body straight. Now, simultaneously bend your knees and swing your arms sharply down and back.

When the arms are away back, rise on your toes, lose balance, straighten knees snappily, and swing your arms easily in front of your head. The angle is at about 45 degrees, head down, and body perfectly straight, just as in the former dive. Give yourself sufficient leg thrust as you leave the side.

Remember, the head is the controlling factor in diving. Its weight and position tell in every dive.

In ordinary plain dives, holding the head too far back causes the performance to be flat. If you hold it too low, you overdive, and practically turn a somersault.

And now, just practise this last front dive until you feel that it is no effort at all to enter the water the professional way.

FIRE LOSSES DECREASE

Losses from fire on railways of Canada and the United States represented ten million dollars fifteen years ago. Improved safety measures resulted in annual decreases until the figures for last year were reduced to four million dollars.

ROYAL CARPET BECOMES SOUVENIRS

City of Halifax officials revealed that a red plush carpet, bought at the time of the visit of the King and Queen, had been almost entirely sold to American and Canadian souvenir hunters. The city, which paid $2.75 per yard, received an average of $2. . . . Disappearance of the carpet had drawn questions in city council.

GOVERNMENT BY POST-CARD

Montclair, a suburban community of the New York metropolitan region, has introduced a novel innovation — "government by post-card." The town's Commission sent out a questionnaire asking the ratepayers whether the 1940 budget should be reduced by half a million dollars or whether part of that sum should be used to redeem debt. The letter explained that the 1940 levy would be the lowest in thirteen years — a decrease of $500,000 on the 1939 budget. By two to one the Montclair citizens voted against the reduction of the levy and in favor of redemption of the town's debt. They appear to have decided wisely, for they are going to save something like $30,000 in interest charges. The questionnaire method has been used to determine other matters. On a post-card vote Montclair has decided to reduce library and refuse collection services and has opposed reduction in health and street-lighting services.

"Over expansion and consequent financial embarrassment have caused in many localities a pessimism which is not warranted by the fundamental soundness of Canadian conditions and its almost unlimited natural wealth."

—E. W. Beatty, President, C.P.R.

An advertisement sponsored by the Montreal Tramways Company states: "One tram serves as many people as 40 autos, and yet the autos occupy 12 times the street space."

QUEBEC CITY INSTALLS AIR ALARM SIRENS

Plans of the Civilian Protection Committee in Quebec Province, headed by J. Gordon Ross, Quebec, are now well under way, and installation of air-raid sirens has been made in Quebec City. to be ready to meet any eventuality.

In making these preparations, the committee has made it plain that there is no immediate danger of an air raid on the Province of Quebec, but just the same the officers believe it is better to be ready to meet any eventuality.

"OVER THE COUNTER" CONTACTS

"It should be as convenient for Mr. Citizen to transact his public business with the city as to buy a postage stamp or to cash his cheque at the neighborhood bank. In other words, the larger cities must decentralize the administration of the day-to-day activities to the neighborhoods to gain the mutual benefits that would flow from these intimate contacts and yet retain full advantages of large-scale operations by uniformity of regulations and co-ordinated control."

—Public Management

TO RESTRICT TAG DAYS

The Ottawa Board of Control has agreed to a suggestion put forward by Mayor Stanley Lewis, that Tag Days and other organized efforts to collect money in the streets of the city be reserved to the Red Cross and the Canadian Legion. One other organization, a service club, will be permitted to hold its annual "Apple Day."

The Mayor said he had received so many requests for permission to hold Tag Days that he felt too many would defeat the ends for which they were held. He had no wish to interfere in any way with any public spirited organization desirous of raising money for some branch of the nation's war effort, but to throw the city wide open would, in all probability, result in disappointment for many of them.

Controller Bourque felt all efforts should be bent toward winning the war, and thought the city could make a contribution by offering free use of school rooms for government registration of the Capital's male population, in accordance with the defence mobilization bill.

Interesting Sidelights on the War

Clothes in Germany cost three times the pre-war price. Mourning, of course, is as strictly forbidden as the publication of casualty lists. German housewives can still buy coffee, if they go to a "black" (forbidden) market — but they pay $5 a pound for it, and risk drastic punishment into the bargain. Cucumbers cost 75 cents each.

Airdromes at Sylt, Stavanger, Bergen and Rotterdam were so severely bombed by British planes in a recent expedition that 10,000 laborers have had to be sent by Goering to repair them. Neutral journalists reveal that constant, punishing raids on many parts of Germany are inflicting heavy damage and interfering with production to an alarming (to the Germans) extent.

Men in England not yet called to the Colors are training with broomsticks, just as in the first Great War. Drilling and marching will get them into condition for the day they are called up.

British Army officers in charge of the military guard aboard the torpedoed Arandora Star (carrying Italian and German internees to Canada) gave up their lifebelts to others, lined up on the bridge with the Captain and ship's officers — "as if they were waiting for a bus," one survivor said —and went down with the ship.

In the memorable retreat from Dunkirk, a British detachment of 3,000 soldiers held the citadel of Calais against a far larger German force and prevented this force from turning on the flank of the British Expeditionary Force, fighting its rear-guard action to the coast. A German account says that when the British commander was called on to surrender, he replied: "The British Army's duty is to fight" — and they did. It is believed that only about 30 men of this gallant band survived.

"Rule, Britannia" was first sung 200 years ago (August 1, 1740) in the gardens of Lady Astor's present Cliveden House in Buckinghamshire, England. Throughout the long years since, Britons have been singing that Britannia rules the waves and never, never would be slaves — and acting on it too.

The Kaiser is reported to have arrived in Potsdam, the old home of the German Emperors. This is the first time the Kaiser has been in Germany since he fled into Holland, two days before the Armistice on November 11th, 1918.

Some Russian sidelights . . Russian leaders don't like their own names; they prefer "ersatz" names that imply certain traits they hope they possess. Stalin means "steel". His mother knows him as Yosif Visarinovitch Dzhugashvili. (Perhaps there is some excuse for his changing his name). Molotov, the Premier, means "hammer". His given name was Scriabin.

Churchill Leaves No Doubt On Britain's Resolute Ends

"A MESSAGE OF CHEER FOR THE CIVILIZED WORLD"

Editor Bryan L. White, in the Ottawa Farm Journal of July 16th, writes as follows:

Truly in Winston Churchill have the times raised up the man. In his every word there speaks the heart of Britain, the voice of freedom. We thrill to his words as they march past like massed bands, and his own courage and resolution sustain the spirits of the faithful, re-assure the faint-hearted.

There is none to match Mr. Churchill as a maker of memorable phrases and a speaker of sustained force and eloquence. "We are fighting", he said in his Sunday speech to the world, "by ourselves alone, but not for ourselves alone." And again, "we may show mercy — we shall ask for none." His is the gift of translating to fire the undaunted spirit of the British people, and the wireless makes of this gift an asset to our cause of incalculable moment.

There was mighty little in this speech to cause the enemy to throw his hat in the air. "We have just begun to fight", the First Lord of the Admiralty had said just a few hours earlier, and the Prime Minister pursued the argument. Britain was planning not only for this year's war but for war in 1941 and 1942, and not always for a defensive war. Invasion might be attempted tomorrow or next week — or not at all — but if it came the British would defend every village in England, every town, every city. They would rather see London laid in ruins and ashes "than tamely and abjectly enslaved". The war would be long and hard, but in the end Europe would be delivered from "the foulest thraldom into which it had ever been cast." There speaks Britain and the Empire; the iron will of a great people is the wall against which the evil power of Hitler will be broken.

As Mr. Churchill said, Hitler had not yet tried conclusions with a great nation possessed of a will-power equal to his one. That is his present task, and he is finding it not a simple one. In last week's air battles over British waters and land the Germans lost five machines to each British machine destroyed. The Royal Navy rules the seas, with more than 1,000 ships flying the White Ensign. The merchant fleet is stronger in tonnage than when the war began. In the United Kingdom is such an army as never before assembled within that island. All this is backed up by a population confident, resolute, prepared for any sacrifice — ready for anything except defeat and slavery. The will that thwarted Napoleon is the will against which Hitler will beat in vain.

Conceit is God's gift to little men.
—Bruce Barton.

Millions of Thistles Grown in England

The British Ministry of Agriculture is not in the least alarmed to know that millions of thistles are growing on a farm in Wiltshire, England.

These plants, equivalent of the Biblical tares, will never be destroyed to make room for war time food crops, for they are themselves a valuable item in Britain's war economy.

The thistle heads are used in the manufacture of highest grade cloth of two distinct varieties: one for the very heavy but smooth uniforms of British Naval officers, the other for a specially soft, lightweight cloth with a texture like doeskin, produced in Britain solely for export to the United States, where it has become fashionable as sports or holiday wear among well-to-do Americans.

Known as teasles, the thistle heads are fastened to a cylinder and they constantly brush against the cloth, combing the tiny fibres until the right surface is produced. A similar system, worked by hand, is used for making cloth for billiard tables, which must have an extra smooth one way surface. The scarlet peacetime tunics of Guardsmen are teased by hand too.

In ordinary mills artificial thistles made of wire are used, but only the natural thistle head is capable of producing the finest results.

High grade British cloths are in greater demand abroad since the war in every type of fabric, from Scottish tweeds to West of England worsteds. One of the largest firms, customers of the thistle farmer, are 33 per cent up on last year's exports.

The War and the Late Election

One thing that the parliamentary debates indicate is that the election on a partisan basis was a mistake. It is apparent that the endorsation which the Liberal party received on March 26 caused some of Mr. King's satellites to return to Ottawa in a cocky mood indeed. The facts likely are that if the election had been held a month later (which would have been after Norway) the Government majority would have been reduced, which would have been in the public interest. If the election had been held two months later (after the invasion of the Low Countries) the Government, if it had been making a partisan appeal pointing to its war record, would have been defeated. This would have placed Dr. Manion in position to lead our war effort. . . . Yet many people, we think, would prefer as war premier an awakened and energized Mr. King to a Dr. Manion who had never been asleep. —The Printed Word

Death of Well Known Lachute Resident

LATE THOS. McROBIE RETIRED FROM RAILWAY MAIL SERVICE

The death of Thomas McRobie occurred Sunday afternoon at his home in the East Ward of Lachute, after several years' illness. Well and favorably known in these parts, he had been a resident of this town for the past 17 years, having settled here after his retirement from 35 years in the railway mail service.

Born January 18th, 1863, in Montreal, Mr. McRobie was in his 78th year. He is survived by his wife, formerly Flora J. Arnott, to whom he was married 48 years ago. He is mourned also by two brothers and two sisters.

Mr. McRobie had been prominent in Masonic circles, being a past master of Zetland Lodge, Montreal. He was a member of the local Curling Club, Dunany Golf Club, and of Lachute United Church. He was popular among the summer residents of Dunany, where he spent each season at his cottage and extended cordial hospitality to his numerous friends.

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon from the residence. Many floral tributes bore silent evidence of the esteem in which the late Mr. McRobie was held. The service was conducted by the Rev. W. B. Rosborough, of Lachute. Pall-bearers were his four nephews, Donald and Ian McRobie, Lorne and George McCoy, Garth Fish and Clarence Reaper.

Shrewsbury Resident Dead In Her 86th Year

The Late Mrs. W. J. Brown

The death occurred on Sunday of Mrs. William John Brown, in her 86th year. Formerly Isabella Flaherty, the deceased was one of the district's oldest residents. Most of her lifetime was passed in Shrewsbury, and she won for herself many loyal friends by her Christian way of living. Until three days prior to her death, she had enjoyed perfect health.

One daughter, Mrs. Albert Chapman, lives in Shrewsbury, while another daughter, Mrs. J. Flaherty lives in Ohio; the entire family, with exception of the latter, being present at the funeral.

War Victims Safe in Canada

Innocent victims of a war in which their fathers are playing a noble part, these youthful evacues from England arrived unaccompanied in Montreal after an uneventful journey by Canadian Pacific services. In Windsor Station, Montreal, the young Britons showed deep interest in the railway's War Memorial commemorating the death of Canadian Pacific soldiers of a generation ago—many of them fathers of the Canadian Pacific employes who are today bringing the youth of England safe by land and sea from the horrors of Hun air raids.

Among the Churches

ST. ANDREWS EAST PRESBYTERIAN W.M.S.

St. Andrews E. — The Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church met in the church hall on Wednesday last. The devotional exercises were taken by Miss Ruth Bradley, Mrs. J. P. Bradley and Mrs. Ballantyne.

The guest speaker was the Rev E. Orsborn, of Lachute, who spoke on "The Spirit of Missions". His address was a stirring appeal to those present, to "carry on", with confidence that the God of all the earth will bring order out of chaos, and His truth shall be established throughout the world.

The offertory music was a duet, beautifully rendered by Mrs. J. P. Bradley and Mrs. T. Webster.

The tea hostesses were Miss Ruth Bradley and Miss Allison Rodger.

ST. MUNGO'S CHURCH, CUSHING

The Women's Missionary Society of St. Mungo's Church held its monthly meeting in the Stone Hall on Tuesday, when more than one hundred ladies, as well as a group of young people and children, heard an interesting address given by Mrs. W. Y. King on her work during the past three years in China. St. Andrews East W.M.S., also members of Hawkesbury and Vankleek Hill Societies, were guests of the Cushing ladies at that time. Mrs. J. L. Maw, of Montreal, was the soloist and Miss D. LeRoy pianist. The Mission Band entertained with the Mission "Daisy Song", also "Onward Temperance Soldiers". During the afternoon Baby Paul Dempsey and Baby Douglas Beattie were made Baby Band lifemembers. Miss Smith, of Hawkesbury, Dominion Children's Worker in Missionary Societies, spoke briefly on that subject, and deplored the fact that there were so few Baby Bands. "We must start with the children if we would have true missionary workers", she said.

St. Mungo's Church held its annual anniversary concert in the Stone Hall, Cushing, on Saturday night, with services morning and evening in the church. The Rev. R. G. Katsinoff was in charge of both services and also assisted with solos at the concert the previous evening. Five members of Chalmers Church choir also assisted with the concert music—Mr. and Mrs. McIntosh, Mr. and Mrs. Loney and Miss Johnston. Mrs. Loney entertained with several interesting readings, also a patriotic song, the words and music being composed by herself. Miss Irene McAllister, of Montreal, who with her family are summering at their Monalea home, also favored with a number of well rendered readings, and we expect that her name will reach a high place in the elocutionary world.

Service will be held in St. Mungo's on Sunday morning. At the Sunday evening service Rev. Mr. Scott, of Hawkesbury, will be the preacher.

BROWNSBURG UNITED

Brownsburg — The garden party under auspices of the Brownsburg United Church Ladies' Auxiliary was held on Thursday evening of last week, and proved a decided success in every way. It took place, as usual, on the manse lawn, which was brightly lighted as the special favor of the Gatineau Power Co. The "fish pond" held interest while the fish lasted, as well as the candy table, which became exhausted before the proceedings closed. The cool evening did not spare the refreshments, ice-cream being as popular as ever and soft drinks meeting with the general custom. The program had many special features.

The Brownsburg Band, in full strength and uniform, contributed the major part of the entertainment and gave another very fine account of themselves under the leadership of Mr. Brown, bandmaster. Other features included selections on the bagpipes by Mr. D. Fletcher, of Lachute; several elocutionary numbers by Miss I. McAllister, of Montreal; Mr. E. Prindiville, of St. Catharines, Ont., and Mr. C. Wheeler, Brownsburg's versatile entertainer. Another special feature of the evening was the singing of the popular song, "There'll always be an England", by the Misses E. Woods, A. Zimmer and R. Pike, accompanied by Mrs. C. Wheeler. This item being sung at the opposite side of the grounds and at the psychological moment, had a very stirring effect in the evening's proceedings.

The clergy were not wanting. Rev. J. R. Simpson brought greetings from the Maple Avenue Baptist Church; Rev. A. D. Penman from the North Country and Mattawa United Church in particular; and Rev. H. C. Scott from the Hawkesbury Presbyterian Church. Rev. S. J. Pike, the minister, acted as chairman.

A very successful and enjoyable evening was brought to a close with the national anthem.

CANADIAN LINE FIRST TO CROSS THE BORDER

Sherbrooke — The first international railway was a Canadian enterprise, according to G. O. Rothney, writing in the Canadian National Magazine, under the caption "When the Railroad Came to Sherbrooke." Mr. Rothney explains: "The St. Lawrence and Atlantic Railroad, today part of the C.N.R., was soon completed to the border and through to Portland, thus becoming not only the first trunk railroad in Canada, but the first international railway in the world." That was in 1852. Since then the line greatly developed in importance and the route today serves as a medium of transit between Quebec Province and New England territory.

HELPING THE ENEMY

The men who go around with their tongues wagging and their teeth chattering when all seems lost, are not doing themselves or anyone else any good by predicting defeat for the Allies and uttering pro-German statements such as "we would be as well off under Nazi rule" . . . Canadians who say that Germany will win this war are siding with Hitler . . . Don't be a defeatist — keep your chin up. The British Empire wasn't built in a day and no country in the world will tear it to pieces in a short period.
Winchester Press.

"I ask those who think that these taxes are too drastic, to bring their common sense and their idealism to the rescue of their opinions. Common sense will ask them what will become of their property or incomes if Germany and Italy should conquer the British Empire. Idealism will teach them that money and material things are as nothing compared with freedom and the dignity which it alone can bring as a benediction to the life of man". —Hon. J. L. Ralston.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

"Life" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist throughout the world on Sunday, July 21st.

The Golden Text is from John 17:3. "This is life eternal, that they might know thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "I shall not die, but live, and declare the works of the Lord. The Lord hath chastened me sore: but he hath not given me over unto death." (Psalms 118: 17,18).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes following passages from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "If man is never to overcome death, why do the Scriptures say, "The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death"? The tenor of the Word shows that we shall obtain the victory over death in proportion as we overcome sin. The great difficulty lies in ignorance of what God is. God, Life, Truth, and Love make man undying." (Page 427).

DIVE BOMBERS FOR BRITAIN

Large numbers of United States dive bombers have been landing in Eastern Canada for shipment overseas. Originally they were destined for France, but now France has capitulated to the invasion by Germany the bombers may be shipped to England. Canadian Air Force mechanics are very much interested in these little craft and are seen examining one which has just landed from the United States.

WEEKLY HEALTH ARTICLE

By DR. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

GASTRITIS NOW DIAGNOSED WITH GASTROSCOPE

When a person tells a doctor that he suffers from digestive disturbances, the doctor asks questions and makes an examination to know just what troubles the patient has. He may tell the doctor that he has a feeling of fullness in the stomach, or heaviness, or a burning pain, or gas. The doctor may suspect an inflammation of the lining of the stomach and call the condition gastritis.

However, up to five years ago, whenever diagnosis of gastritis or inflammation of the stomach was made, it was impossible to be sure whether or not such a condition was really present. But now it has become possible to look directly into the stomach by means of an instrument known as a gastroscope, made up of a tube with mirrors and a light. With this instrument, the inflammation on the inside walls of the stomach can actually be seen in the mirrors. The gastroscope has been used now long enough to make it possible to tell just what symptoms may be expected when gastritis or stomach inflammation is present.

When a person has gastritis, according to Dr. Rudolf Schindler, of Chicago, and Dr. H. M. Murphy, of Buffalo, New York, the lining membrane of the stomach is thin and a pink-gray or gray in color. The blood vessels in the lining membrane may be easily seen. This does not occur when the stomach is normal.

These physicians studied 41 persons with gastritis. Nine were between 32 and 40 years of age; 19 between 40 and 50, and the remaining 13 were over 50. It appears, therefore, that gastritis is a disease which develops particularly in middle-aged persons.

These persons had their symptoms for periods varying from one month to 25 years, and the symptoms appeared in attacks lasting a few hours or a few days. Every one of the persons had some sort of discomfort in the upper part of the abdomen. Usually it was a dull pain but, in many instances, was described as a feeling of fullness or heaviness or, sometimes, as a burning sensation. None of the individuals had any severe or sharp pain. In most of them, the pain came on shortly after meals. In about one-third, it appeared from one to four hours after meals. Some stated that they might have the pain at any time. Only two of the 41 stated that they had pain at night.

A loss of appetite was one of the common symptoms. Sickness to the stomach was also a frequent complaint. Bloating and belching were present in one-half of the patients.

Another outstanding symptom which these patients had was a feeling of intense weakness and fatigue. This, too, usually came on in spells. The individual might be sitting quietly in a chair and suddenly be overcome by a feeling of weakness that seemed to make moving from the chair almost impossible. This feeling might last for a few minutes or for several hours. In many of the patients, even slight exercise brought on a great deal of fatigue and some became unable to work because of this feeling of exhaustion.

In addition to the inflammation of the stomach, some of the patients suffered from a mild anemia or lack of coloring in the blood. One-third of them also had a lack of acid in the stomach.

Gastritis is not a disease which should be neglected. When an individual has pain or discomfort in the upper part of the abdomen, poor appetite, weakness, fatigue, nervousness, and similar symptoms, a careful study by the physician is advisable, including an examination of the stomach with the gastroscope so that if the trouble is due to gastritis, it may be discovered and the proper treatment carried out.

Famous Operas ...

"LE ROSSIGNOL"
(The Nightingale)

By Igor Stawinsky

Adapted from Anderson's Fairy Tale.

First produced in Paris, 1914

Scene in China.

Off the coast of China a fisherman sits in his boat singing a song to the Nightingale, which comes every evening to trill its tune. The Chamberlain, the Bonze and the Cook arrive to lister to the bird. The representatives of the Emperor, thrilled with its voice, invite the Nightingale to appear before the Court.

For the gala occasion, the Chamberlain announces the entrance of the Emperor as he is borne triumphantly into the palace. The Nightingale sings, and the Emperor is so enraptured that he offers to the bird the distinguished honor of the Order of the Golden Slipper. It replies that it has received honor enough, by seeing tears in the eyes of the Emperor as it sang.

At that moment, the Chamberlain announces ambassadors from Japan, who have brought in a mechanical nightingale. As it is placed in readiness to sing, the Nightingale flies away.

After the "mechanized" bird has performed, the Emperor desires to hear the real bird again for comparison, but due to its absence he has it banished, while placing the artificial bird from Japan in the Place of Honor.

The Emperor falls seriously sick and death awaits him. His tortured spirit reminds him of unpleasant events in his life, and he craves music to relieve his remorse and torment. The Nightingale returns to the palace gardens, and sings outside the Emperor's room.

Death is entranced by the singing, and asks the bird to continue, but it refuses until the Emperor regains his life and possessions. The Courtiers, believing that the Emperor is dead, file into the room as funeral music is played, and are surprised when the Emperor greets them cheerily. Regaining his health, the Emperor offers honors to the Nightingale, but the bird refuses, requesting only the privilege of returning to the Emperor's garden to sing each night.

FISH-SKINS PROVIDE SUIT OR GREATCOAT

German propaganda is making strenuous efforts to popularize fashions in fish-skins. Wool, cotton and leather running dangerously short. German technicians have been working on substitutes. Three special fashion institutes—one in Berlin, another in Vienna and a third in Frankfort—have designers working out new styles.

Reproductions in the Frankfurter Zeitung show gloves and coats made from fish-skins, shoes from flexible glass and suits from substitute cloth.

By JESSIE ALLEN BROWN
Specially written for Readers of The Watchman.

TWO PEACEFUL CANADIAN WRITERS

Peaceful books are a comfort these days. For bed-time reading I find myself frequently turning to our own Peter McArthur and his accounts of life on his farm. His books should be in every rural library in the land. Once again I have enjoyed Patrick Slater's, "The Yellow Briar", he gives an explanation of the term "The latch string is out". I will quote: "The outer door of the kitchen had a lower and upper section, as stable doors have today, a most handy wrinkle about a farm house, the lower section keeping the little children in and the pigs and poultry out; while the upper section might swing open to let freshness and sunshine in. On the inside of the door was a heavy iron latch wrought by the local smith. Fastened to it was a leather thong; and in the daytime this whang was poked through a hole, that the door might be opened from the outside. At night, it was pulled in; and everything was snug and secure. A latch string hanging out was the token of hospitality in those days."

OPPORTUNITIES IN BUILDING TRADES

There have been a good many workmen around our place and I was struck with the fact that they were, with one exception, all old or well over middle-age. If this is general it seems to me there should be opportunities for boys in learning the building trades. I asked the one young man about it and he said he knew only one man under thirty who worked at carpentry. His idea was that boys were not willing to work at a low wage while they were learning their trade. He had been apprenticed for four years and then had started out for himself. At twenty-six, he has more work than he can do, is married, and has built his own home. Apprenticeship is another good old custom that went into discard and is slowly coming back into favor.

MODERN KITCHENS

Hardly any of the pictures of modern kitchens, in the magazines, and in the colorful advertisements, show a table. For years I have looked at them and wondered how I would like working without a table. Now I know I don't. Our kitchen is very modern and is lined with cabinets and drawers. I have never before had as much room to put things away but I do miss that table and I find it awkward to work on a counter, so much so, that when it comes to rolling pastry or cookies I retire to the basement and work on the kitchen table. It is down there because there is no room for it in the kitchen. Like most other modern houses, the cellar has graduated to the basement class. Certainly, the modern kitchens are very efficient but somehow I like a bit of room in a kitchen. The old kitchens were much too large and were hard to work in, but there should be a happy medium.

REPEATERS

Each year there are requests for repeat recipes and if I did not get asked for the following two, I would feel I was being neglected. I like to have a variety of Salad Dressings on hand and each has its use. This Boiled Salad Dressing is specially good with shredded leaf lettuce, cut up green onions and hard-cooked eggs. It seems to be the right one for Devilled Eggs — down in the Maritimes they call them Stuffed Eggs. I like to use it to moisten a Potato Salad and then at the last to add some Mayonnaise as a finish. Try mixing this dressing with some of the ready made dressings.

BOILED SALAD DRESSING

3 tablespoons sugar, 1½ tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon of mustard, 1 egg, 2 tablespoons butter, ¾ cup vinegar, ¼ cup water, 1 cup milk, dash of pepper. Mix the dry ingredients and moisten with a little of the vinegar and water and rub until smooth. Add the remaining vinegar, the butter and the beaten egg. Cook over a slow fire, stirring constantly, until it begins to thicken, then add the milk gradually and continue stirring until the mixture just starts to bubble. Too hot a fire or too long cooking might make the dressing curdle.

CHOCOLATE SYRUP

1 cup cocoa, 2 cups water, 1 cup sugar, pinch of salt. Mix the cocoa, sugar and salt, then add the water and boil for three minutes. Bottle and add to milk for Iced Chocolate.

COCOANUT MACAROONS

2 egg whites, ¾ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 1 cup cocoanut, ½ cup dates, ¼ cup walnuts. Beat the egg whites until stiff, add the sugar gradually, beating between each addition. Stir in the remaining ingredients. Line a baking sheet with ungreased brown paper and drop the mixture from a teaspoon. Bake in a slow oven of 300 degrees until the macaroons are gently browned.

Fine Response to Appeal For Wool Blankets

Owing to recent developments in Europe since the blanket appeal was made by the Canadian Red Cross Society, it is announced by Lt. Col. K. M. Perry, D.S.O., president of the Quebec Division, that some of the blankets intended for refugees and wounded soldiers in France have now been sent to England, where they will be stored until needed. About 60,000 are being held in Canada for future needs.

Among the blankets contributed during the Canadian Red Cross appeal were 20,000 from the paper companies of Canada. The Canadian Red Cross Society greatly appreciates the generosity of all those who answered the appeal.

An Economical Luxury

By Frances Lee Barton

Even though the budget must be watched carefully, lovers of home-made ice cream may satisfy their craving as often as they wish. Just keep the following economical recipe in sight and follow it when company is scheduled, or your craving for an ice-cold dessert gets the better of you :

Economy Chocolate Ice Cream

3 squares unsweetened chocolate; 1⅓ cups sweetened condensed milk; 1 cup water; ¼ teaspoon salt; 2 cups top milk or thin cream; 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Melt chocolate in top of double boiler. Add condensed milk and blend; then add water gradually, stirring constantly. Remove from boiling water, add salt, then cream and vanilla. Strain into freezer and freeze until stiff, using 8 parts ice to 1 part salt. Remove dasher and cover tightly; repack in 4 parts ice to 1 part salt. Makes about 1¼ quarts ice cream.

"What a lot of nonsense is talked about class distinctions! Are the social butterflies, some of them painted butterflies, who toil not neither do they spin — are they the 'upper classes'? And are the men whom I knew in my old parishes, who always in time of danger rush to risk their lives in order to save their comrades in the mines — are they the 'lower classes'?" —Dr. B. O. F. BEAUTY

VOICES OF ONE KIND OR ANOTHER

Millions of dollars are spent each year for beauty treatments and beauty aids. Millions more on grand dry-goods. Women strive to attain qualities of charm. And there is no quality that has a greater appeal than a pleasing voice.

Do you really know anything about your voice, how it strikes upon the ear of the listener? Have you ever thought about it? If it is a nice voice, many an individual will have told you about it. If it isn't, they bear with it in silence; it is a subject upon which even the most intimate friend dares not venture. Considering how many unpleasant voices there are, it must be that women just don't care.

The qualities of voice develop in children. Speaking is largely the result of imitation. The mother who screeches at her child, will have a screechy youngster. The wise mother will not lift her voice, but will use well-modulated tones. She will speak distinctly. Sloppy speech and careless enunciation denote a mind that does not function in an orderly manner. If a mother speaks musically she will pass on to her children a priceless inheritance.

Mothers who boom and shout keep the family atmosphere stormy. That's pretty terrible.

Suppose the members of this beauty class test their voices, retire to their own rooms, read aloud for ten minutes. That's one way to find out about how they pronounce their words, whether or not they twang on one key and do a sing-song.

The list of offenders is long. There is the fast gabbler who keeps on at a quick pace, fearful that she may be interrupted, deprived of her talking rights. Words fall over each other. On she rushes, doing a conversational marathon, and nobody can stop her.

Consider the whiner, a pest if ever there was one. In course of time she develops the whiner's face — sagging jowls, lip ends down, eyes dull. She indulges in self-pity, a devastating force that robs her of her good looks.

It is a mistake to give emphasis to every other word. You know what I mean. Everything is wun-der-ful. This type is a vocal riveter. Thump! Thump! until the eardrums ache.

Keep the throat passage open, don't have the vocal chords tense. Learn to be a deep breather. Endeavor to cultivate resonance in your voice. Avoid the nasal twang. Pronounce your words clearly. And don't talk unless you have something interesting to say. That rule is going to bother a lot of girls, I'm afraid. One must remember that the whole world is gabbling all the time, and most of it is all about nothing. Much energy is wasted.

In Cardiff, Wales, Mrs. Desmonde Pauline Davies, 21, received a calling-up notice from the Army. Despite her willingness to join the armed forces, the authorities sent her home again. They had apparently been confused by the lady's first name.

A Brazilian schoolboy was locked in the school cellar as punishment for some minor misdemeanor. After a few minutes he cried out that he was being attacked by a snake, but the teacher ignored his appeal. When finally the door was opened, the boy was found dead with a serpent coiled around his neck. The teacher committed suicide.

Give Us Grace to Listen Well!

When you are telling what you think is one of your best stories, do you feel restive if you find your listener absorbed in her own thoughts with a far-away look in her eyes and answering you vaguely, as one who had heard little of what you are saying? Does her distraught manner rebuff you, even pique you? Or when someone, who should know better, interrupts your remarks by calling attention to Mary Field's new dress?

Then take a leaf from that woman's book and resolve that that unmannerliness will never be one of your misdemeanors.

When someone is talking to you pay that person the compliment of your entire attention. Even when the effort is something of a strain, your sense of being polite will be, or at least should be, pleasing to you. Then, too, with a little tact, you may soon be able to turn the talk into another channel, which is another reward for your polite cooperation.

Conversation, remember, is like any other expression of good manners : it is "the art of making those people easy with whom we converse. Whoever makes the fewest people uneasy is the best bred in the company."

—Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN
Famous Authority on Good Manners and Good Taste

"READ UP" ON YOUR TRIP BEFORE YOU TRAVEL

Is your vacation to include some sightseeing? Are you perhaps going to either or both of the World's Fairs, or to a city which you have never visited before, or to a place rich in historical background? Or are you going to places that offer special contributions to your hobbies?

You'll make your sightseeing more vital and thrilling, bolster up your conversation, if you do some "home work" in reading before you go.

Sightseers are of two kinds. There are the travelers who never take the trouble to find out anything about the places to which they are going. By some form of transportation they are "taken", and in a vague, dull-eyed sort of way they "look", principally when they are told to and at what they are told to. They contribute little to the conversation except constant repetition of worn-out adjectives. And either they say to their companions or silently regret to themselves, "Why in the world didn't I read up on this before I started on the trip?"

And then there is the other group of travelers, seizing every opportunity to make an important occasion of this long longed-for trip. They take advantage of the wealth offered in the public libraries, in the hundreds of carefully prepared brochures and booklets offered by the travel agencies, garnering here and there and everywhere interesting facts that will make them the "informed" travelers they insist on being. They have eyes that really see, they have ears that really hear, and they have minds that really absorb and understand. They are "aware" people, and aware people are the interesting people in the world, whether they are at home or "at home" in traveling.

I urge you to make a resolve to be an informed traveler, to gather knowledge before the trip as well as during the trip, because you and I know how much grist this will mean to your conversation mill. And good grist is what we need if we aren't smugly satisfied with being just "run-of-the-mill" talkers.

That greatest of social assets — the ability to talk intelligently — doesn't just happen. It has to be nurtured, fed with all the vitamins that make "good talk." And there are lots of conversation vitamins in intelligent traveling.

Of course, I don't mean that before and during and after our trip we talk like a travel guide-book. But on the other hand I'm sure you'll admit that a colorless repetition of a stock of adjectives, "wonderful", "beautiful", and the like aren't the stuff of real conversation.

To talk interestingly, you've first got to have something interesting to talk about. And the keen-eyed and keen-minded traveler is alert to all opportunities to store his or her mind with things 'interesting to talk about.'

Think about these wise words :

"He that would bring home the wealth of the Indies must carry the wealth of the Indies with him. So it is in traveling — a man must carry knowledge with him if he would bring home knowledge."

STORK SHOWER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman :

I am planning to give a stork shower for a close friend of mine, but I don't know what to do to entertain my guests. Could you help me out with some suggestions? Should we play games? —C. B.

Usually there is no special entertainment planned for a stork shower. The party generally doesn't last long, and the time is delightfully taken up with conversation, with the opening of the shower gifts and enthusiastic chat about these, and with the refreshments. Occasionally bridge or another game popular with the particular group of guests is played.

When you use your handkerchief at the table, use it as inconspicuously as possible.

When you are telling a story to a group of people, don't concentrate your look on only one person in the group. If the others in the group are interested, they should be included in your glance as you proceed with your story. If you think they won't be interested in the story that you are directing toward one person, then obviously your story shouldn't be told at this time.

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on Good Manners submitted by readers).

EXCHANGE IS COMPLICATED BUSINESS

Some idea of the complexity of the problems facing the Foreign Exchange Control Board is gathered from the fact that it took officials of the board 45 hours to explain fully the general broad aspects of foreign exchange control to 24 chartered accountants who were added to the staff of the Board some time ago.

A RESCUE WITH A BROKEN ARM

The making of a rescue from drowning notwithstanding a broken arm acquired in a struggle with the victim, was the unusual act of gallantry that won the Boy Scout Gilt Cross for Patrol Leader Ellwood Pomeroy, of Prescott, Ont. Eleven year old Jean Superanent in swimming got into difficulties and called for help. When Pomeroy came to his assistance, the frightened boy broke one of Pomeroy's arms. In spite of this the Scout held on, and finally succeeded in swimming with the smaller boy to shore.

Attractive Bill Arranged For Boxing Enthusiasts

The boxing program arranged for Thursday, July 25th, at Lachute Arena should prove one of unusual attraction to enthusiasts in this section. The Lachute boxers have made such progress in training that their performance against good Montreal boxers reflects distinct credit, and this contest should be the snappiest and scrappiest ever staged here.

Paddy Levesque, the boy who put up such a determined fight against Lionel Girard, though badly hurt, is on the invitation list for another bout with the same opponent; this fight alone should prove worth many times the admission price.

Bob Taylor, of Brownsburg, who caught the customers' eye in the last program here, will have a sturdy opponent in Cleo Hooper, who is reputed to have a hard-hitting left. This will be one of the night's features.

The Argenteuil Title-holder, Gaston Lavergne, is being challenged by Chapman, who was beaten in the final last year in a very close fight.

Seven other bouts will also be on the program, including two surprise contests to be announced on the night of the program. The management claim this feature attraction will be of rare interest.

Date — one week from tonight (Thursday), at Lachute Arena.

C. Tremblay Tells Role of Woollen Industry in War

RETIRING PRESIDENT OF ASSOCIATION ADDRESSES ANNUAL MEETING

Participation of the Canadian woollen and knit goods industry in Canada's war effort was outlined by C. Tremblay, of Lachute, retiring president of the Canadian Woollen & Knit Goods Manufacturers Association, at the annual meeting held recently in Toronto. Mr. Tremblay stated that 98 mills in the industry have been working or are working on supply cloth, blankets, knit goods and socks for the army, navy and air force. The cloth mills have made 18 different types of cloth for the services and, up to May 2, had delivered 2,333,106 yards. Some 700,000 lbs of yarn had been made by 11 spinning mills to supply other mills, and blanket mills had made and shipped 450,000 general service blankets.

Because sudden demand for military textiles came at the time output was being stepped up to meet normal fall needs there was some delay in making civilian deliveries, but production was increased at such a rate that no actual shortage of civilian goods developed. It is noted that Canadian imports of wool cloth from Great Britain were also maintained.

Since September, 1939, the number of employees in the wool spinning and weaving mills has increased almost 30% and in the knitting industry the increase is 16%. This increase represents 6,000 additional employees. Earnings have advanced to even a greater extent as a consequence of wage adjustment and the change to full time and even overtime operation.

Expects Sales to Hold

Regarding current conditions, Mr. Tremblay stated: "Developments in general business conditions in Canada through the next few months will be fraught with the uncertainties of the war situation. Generally speaking, we have probably seen, in the recent period, an important quantity of inventory buying which may take some time to be assimilated and which may presage a fairly steady volume of civilian buying and manufacturing operations until the fall without much upturn. On the other hand, further advances may be registered before that time if the outflow of funds for war materials reaches consumer channels in the interval. At least we should not expect to see any decrease in retail sales over the near period when the lower unemployment, higher wages and longer hours in Canadian industries are taken into account.

Association Offered Its Services

In reviewing developments in the industry Mr. Tremblay stated that immediately upon the outbreak of the war the association offered its services to the Government as a unit to organize the quick, orderly production of military, naval and air force requirements. The raw material situation was serious, the need for rapid production was imperative and it was essential to have all mills working on war requirements most suitable for their equipment. The offer was accepted and the mills pooled their technical knowledge and experience in the common cause, and the industry went into action. A Cloth and Blanket Committee was formed immediately to organize production and a provisional Wool Supply Committee was formed to deal with the problems of raw material supply.

Govt. Owned Companies on Production of War Supplies

They had, however, made their position quite clear and the government "will continue to govern under the British parliamentary system, whereby the majority in parliament are given that duty and that responsibility." He gave no encouragement to the suggest on that has been advanced at times, that a national government should be formed.

Bills are passing through parliament creating the new department of "National Defence for Naval Services". The changes that were announced a week ago in the Dominion cabinet were designed to increase the efficiency in the administration of the war effort. Each of the combatant services, that is army, air and navy, will now have a full time minister of its own. Col. Ralston has taken over the duties of Minister of National Defence in succession to the late Mr. Norman Rogers. His main concern will be the expansion and administration of Canada's land forces both for overseas service and for home defence. Already he has called on Canada for the 49,000 men needed for the Canadian Active Service Force. Mr. Power is already at the head of the National Defence for air, and his duties cover the Royal Canadian Air Force and the Commonwealth Air Training Plan, that is the administration of the entire effort to have Canada play a telling part in the aerial defence of the Empire. And while dealing with this department, it might be mentioned that the Australian and New Zealand fliers coming to receive final training in Canadian air schools will arrive on schedule. National Defence departments are in energetic hands; and this zeal is making itself felt.

For the first time the naval services will have a separate ministry of their own. Mr. Angus Macdonald, former prime minister of Nova Scotia, who it is generally admitted by political friend and foe alike will be a valuable addition to the roll of cabinet ministers, will hold this portfolio. Canada's small but efficient navy has been doing tireless and highly appreciated work on both sides of the Atlantic and many auxiliary vessels are being added to the fleet.

Mr. C. D. Howe has relinquished the portfolio of transport, although retaining some of the duties formerly associated with that department, to give his undivided attention to the extremely important duties of the ministry of munitions and supply! This department is a vital cog in the war machine and warrants and needs the undivided efforts of the minister. Munition and equipment orders now being placed in Canada by both the Canadian and British governments to meet the expanding demands of the war, are larger and cover a wider field than at any time since the conflict began. Plant facilities are growing rapidly. The aircraft plants are working at full speed. A new company "The Allied Supplies Ltd.," has been incorporated under the chairmanship of Mr. C. A. Dunning, former minister of finance, to look after the administration " of the munitions and explosives program undertaken on behalf of the British government and of any joint British-Canadian developments which may be assigned to it". This company is one of three non-profit making, government owned companies looking after special work in connection with the production of war supplies. The other companies are the Citadel Merchandising Company Ltd., attending to the supply of machine tools and the Federal Aircraft Ltd., coordinating the output of Anson advanced training aircraft.

Holidays and Exercise

One of the quickest ways to spoil the effects of a holiday this summer is to take exercise too strenuously, warns the Health League of Canada, in a bulletin issued recently.

"If you are a sedentary worker of middle age, don't imagine that the holiday miraculously enables you to plunge into day-long outdoor sports and compete successfully with your juniors" the warning reads. Start your exercise gradually, and don't mind resting when you are tired. Rest is quite as important as exercise. Maybe a day spent fishing would do you more good than a day spent in violent exercise.

Over-exercise of the digestive organs is as bad or worse than over-exercising the muscular system. Don't eat just for the sake of eating; eat when you are hungry. Do everything in moderation.

30 MILLION TONS OF SALT

That is the world consumption of salt, according to a statistician, who states that this amount of coarse salt would cover a square mile of land to a depth of 30 feet and yet could be obtained by evaporation from one-fifth of a cubic mile of sea water. It is an astounding fact that in Canada alone, at Windsor, Ontario, there is enough salt to last the world, should all other sources fail, for close to 100,000 years.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE ACT SUBJECT OF DEBATE IN COMMONS

WHEAT POLICY IS A MAJOR PROBLEM THIS SESSION; HEAVY CARRY OVER, NEW CROP, AND DISLOCATION OF MARKETS PRESENT A DIFFICULT SITUATION

Ottawa — The present session of parliament seems likely to last another fortnight or perhaps a little longer. Measures of importance to Canada's war effort are passing through the various stages of legislation and being placed on the statute books without undue delay but there is always the chance of serious opposition arising to some particular bill, which might lengthen the session. There is for example a certain element of uncertainty about the extent of the criticism which will be directed at the Unemployment Insurance measure.

There is no doubt that all parties in the House of Commons favor the unemployment insurance measure in principle. It is a form of social insurance which has been in operation in many countries of the world for years. Lloyd George introduced a measure in Britain in 1911, and it is considered to have been a stabilizing factor in the troubled days of 1921 following the last war. There has been a system of widespread application in the United States and results of experience in that country have helped the Dominion Government to alter the bill passed by the Bennett administration in 1935. This Act, which was declared ultra vires by the High Courts, was framed by experts after careful study of insurance in vogue in different parts of the world, and the Act forms the basis of the present bill. However, as stated, there are changes, and some of these are important. The bill attempts to meet present conditions. One of the questions that naturally presents itself is this : even if the measure is a good and necessary one, should it, on account of expenditure entailed, be introduced in wartime? The Minister of Labor, Mr. Norman McLarty, told the House of Commons that the insurance system was necessary at this time to anticipate and in some degree counteract the dislocation that would come when peace was restored and the work on war industries came to an end. The men out of work, it is contended, will have something to tide them over until they get something else to do.

The Labor Minister also said that the measure would throw "a cloak of protection in some measure around 4,660,000 of our people". Those actually to be insured would, according to actuarial estimates, be about 2,100,000, but there would be the workers' dependents included in the benefits derived from the insurance system. Contributions to the insurance fund will aggregate $67,200,000 in 1941, of which $28,000,000 will be paid by employers, a similar amount by employees (those insured), and $11,200,000 by the government. The Federal treasury contributes a sum equal to one fifth of the total contributions of employers and employees, but the Government also pays expenses of administration, which in a project of such magnitude will be heavy. These expenses will amount annually to over $5,000,000.

Insured persons will contribute a prescribed amount per week according to wages earned, and are entitled to benefits running from $4.08 to $12.24 per week if single and from $4.80 to $14.40 if married with dependent. One requirement for anyone to receive benefits is that he or she has contributed to the insurance fund for 30 weeks, or 180 days, within two years while in insured employment.

Complaints have been received from organizations of manufacturers, who have asked careful study of the measure because of the heavy drain entailed from industry. Further complaints also have been registered by members of parliament representing constituencies where large proportions of the population do not come within the operation of the Act. Among employments excepted from the Act are agriculture, forestry, horticulture, lumbering, logging, fishing, trapping, hunting, trade and transportation by water and air. No person with wages above $2,000 annually will be insured.

When the session is ended there will be no immediate rest for members of parliament, because they will be assisting in the national registration program. The registration, which will take place some time in August, of all men and women in the country of the age of 16 years and over, is one of the essential features of the National Mobilization Act, which seeks to organize all Canadian resources in the most effective way to meet the menace overhanging this country. Everyone in the country except those below sixteen and a restricted number of exempted callings such as cloistered nuns, will be required to answer a number of questions which appear on a questionnaire. Severe penalties are prescribed for failure to register, failure to answer any question on the registration card or for not answering questions truthfully. It is felt in Ottawa that the registration is most important and most urgent. Time is its essence. Its primary objectives are to give military training to men of military age and to direct the whole war effort of the citizens of Canada into the most useful channels.

Among the important problems facing the Government at this time is what policy is to be adopted in regard to wheat. With a very heavy carryover, a new crop about to be harvested, and the dislocation that the war has made in markets, the outlook very naturally is not bright. The question has been very thoroughly discussed at Ottawa by the members of the wheat committee of the Cabinet, members of the wheat board and other organizations and with Western members of parliament. The policy will soon be made known. The time is short, as the new crop year begins August first. But the difficulties that the situation presents to those trying for a satisfactory solution may well be realized when it is considered how many factors that can be fairly reasonably guaged in time of peace become most uncertain in time of war. As far as Europe is concerned, only Britain and Eire remain as certain markets.

B'burg Shared in C-I-L Donation of Two Ambulances

EMPLOYEES' GIFT TO THE CANADIAN RED CROSS

Two fully equipped ambulances have been donated to the Canadian Red Cross by the employees of Canadian Industries Limited and subsidiary companies, according to officials at the Brownsburg plant. The subscription campaign was conducted at all the Company's works and sales offices across Canada. At one of the plants, each employee gave one hour's pay, while at others, recreational club funds were turned over to the employees' committee, and one works, on the West Coast, donated the cash received from winning the General Managers' Safety Prize under the C-I-L No-Accident Record Plan.

St. Andrews E. Receives Visitors from Overseas

St. Andrews E.—William Richardson, of Limerick, Ireland, was a visitor last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ball, his uncle and aunt. Mr. Richardson is a young wireless operator on a freighter which came to Montreal. This was his first visit to Canada. Previously Mr. Richardson made his maiden voyage on a whaler to the Antarctic. Although one of the smaller boats, there were three radio men taking eight hour shifts in turn. His boat made a haul of considerably more than 1,000 whales. Larger boats took upwards of 2,000. The carcases being cut up, and the blubber stored as they were caught, whale steaks formed part of the bill of fare. Whaling may be operated for only two months of the year now, and this only in the south seas.

Mrs. Geoffrey Simpson, of London, Eng., and her children, Master Robert and little Judy, have come to Canada "for the duration" .... Dr. Geoffrey Simpson joined a dental partnership in London four years ago. It is hoped their stay in St. Andrews will be a happy one. At present they are guests of Mrs R. St. J. Simpson.

Overcoat and Ear-Lugs, 94 in the Shade

As the temperature soared yesterday to 94 degrees in the shade, a remarkable sight confronted customers in a local farmers' store. An old man entered the premises dressed for winter weather — in a heavy overcoat and a cap with ear-lugs turned down. The man was a stranger.

While veranda thermometers registered 94, the temperature in the sun was recorded at 106 degrees yesterday on Main Street.

Q.W.I. Carries on Welfare Work In Wartime

The annual activities of the Quebec Women's Institutes in the Department of Welfare and Health, as tabulated by the convenor, Miss Lucy Daly, of Rawdon, cover a wide scope. While the Red Cross work has been a major activity in nearly every Branch, yet it has not interfered with the regular work of the clubs on behalf of the needy and sick children.

Co-operation with the Provincial Board of Health in Health Units and clinics was carried on throughout the year.

Generous donations of cod liver oil, milk and hot school-lunches helped under-nourished children. "Showers" of jam, pickles, vegetables, fruit, bedlinen, clothing, money and toys were sent to the Children's Memorial Hospital, the Girls' Friendly Home, the Wales Home, V.O.N., the Salvation Army, and several hospitals. Nursing advice, calls on the sick, mounted into the hundreds. Glasses, dental care, several children sent to Montreal for hospital treatment, a wheel-chair for a cripple, and many other acts of practical kindness stand to the credit of the Q.W.I. during the past year.

Man's Arm Broken in Fall from Hayload

Working in a hay field last Thursday afternoon, Keith Gordon, of Vide Sac, fell from a load of hay while the wagon was in motion, and suffered a multiple fracture of the right arm. Gordon was working on the load when he lost his balance. The hayfork had slipped off the load and stuck into the ground with the prongs upward. As Gordon fell he narrowly escaped being pierced with the fork, and it was in his effort to avoid it that his arm struck a stone and was badly torn with the impact of his body.

Treated by Dr. S. W. Fitzgerald, Gordon was later removed to the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, where he is reported to be making good progress.

Former Amateur Boxing Champion Dies in Hospital

JOINED PROFESSIONAL RANKS; WAS TRAINER AND SECOND TO FORMER CHAMPIONS

The untimely death of Paul LaHaye, ex-pugilist and an enthusiast in sporting ventures here during his residence in the district, is regretted by a wide circle of friends and acquaintances. Mr. LaHaye, district manager for the National Breweries Company, was 42 years of age. His death occurred last Friday in hospital, following a period of failing health. Funeral rites were held in the Church of St. Jacques, Montreal, at 8.30 o'clock Monday morning.

A champion in heavyweight amateur boxing, Paul LaHaye graduated into professional fighting and then joined Jack Dempsey as his trainer. He had also seconded Jack Johnson in the prize-fighting ring.

LaHaye's first professional bout was in 1920 at the Mount Royal Arena. He won the Dominion amateur championship in a fight with Constable Ernest Boucher. After many engagements in Montreal, he pursued his boxing career in St. Paul, Minnesota, where he went to live. He was Dempsey's training partner during the former champion's bouts with Floyd Gibbons and Gene Tunney.

Mr. LaHaye had latterly interested himself in provincial hockey, and for a time was director and publicity man in the Quebec senior league. Meanwhile he had supported activities of sports promoters here, encouraged young boxers and assisted in organizing the Laurentian Boxing Club.

Mr. LaHaye was a native of Belgium. Surviving are his wife, formerly Mlle. Marthe Pony, and five children, residing in Lachute.

Scarcity of Farm Help

With factories in this district running full blast, farmers in the county are confronted with a labor shortage in their busiest season of the year. Many farmers coming into town have remarked on the difficulty in securing farm help.

The dearth of domestic help has also been felt here for some time, hundreds of local girls having been absorbed into the manufacturing plants.

DRIVER OF TRUCK HAD THREATENED SUICIDE

Accidental death was the verdict at an inquest held Tuesday at Ste. Agathe, in the deaths of Abraham Lazar, 19, and Jeanne Joseph, 20, Montrealers who were fatally injured Sunday night four miles south of the Laurentian town. The pair were walking along the highway when they were struck by a truck driven by Rosario Sauriol, 30, of Abord à Plouffe.

Sauriol, Lt-Det. Albert Marineau of the provincial police, Montreal, Provincial Traffic Officers, St. Louis and Haudet, and Dr. R. Daze testified at the inquest conducted by the district coroner, Dr. J. R. Brais of St. Jerome. The body of the young woman who died of her injuries in a Montreal hospital Monday, was taken to Ste. Agathe for the inquest. Lazar was instantly killed.

The verdict absolved Sauriol of all criminal responsibility.

The inquest was originally scheduled for Monday but Sauriol's absence caused its postponement. Sauriol, police found, had left a note indicating he was about to commit suicide. He was found late Monday by a provincial detective near his abandoned truck at Abord à Plouffe.

Detained as a material witness pending the inquest, Sauriol was released from custody when the inquest was concluded.

"The greatest reason for the collapse of France's Army was the building of the Maginot Line, which induced a spirit of inertia and overconfidence. . . . Intrigue had completely undermined constitutional France but the spirit of France still lived on amongst a section of the people, and Britain must keep in touch with that section."

Tennis Trophy Is Retained by the Lachute Club

In a trophy turnament between Lachute Tennis Club and Ayers Limited last Thursday evening, Lachute won four out of five games to retain the Geo. Héon cup which they had won last season. The tournament was staged on the courts of the Lachute Club, and the trophy was afterwards presented by the donor in person.

The contests included men's and ladies' singles, and men's and ladies' doubles. Guy Gosselin and Dr. J. Lafleur, of Lachute Club, met G. Paquette and R. Martin, of Ayers (L7-A5), L. Dumais and F. Legault of Lachute meeting D. Tremblay and Father Desrosiers, of Ayers Club (L9-A7); in two doubles sets. In the men's singles, Dr. W. F. McMartin, Lachute, contested the honors with Claude Tessier, Ayers (L6-A2). In the ladies' doubles event, Mlle. Lamarche and Mme. H. Lamarche, Lachute, played against Mlle. Frappier and Mlle. Rochon, Ayers (L6-A2). In the singles, Mlle. B. Theoret met Mlle. J. Tessier (6-4)—the latter being the only contest in which Ayers Tennis Club took a victory. The second ladies' singles event billed on the program, was not played.

A. Langille, R.C.M.P., Stages Raid of Major Proportions

Nearly three tons of literature belonging to the Jehovah's Witnesses sect were seized by Constable A. H. Langille, R.C.M.P. — according to a Toronto news report. Constable Langille is a Lachute townsman, the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Langille . . The raid occurred at a farm house in Normanby Township, near Owen Sound, Ont.

Constable Langille and a search party recovered a dozen portable phonographs, a large number of Judge Rutherford records, a loud speaking apparatus used for outdoor advertising and various books and pamphlets.

Besides finding literature in sewing machine drawers and scattered throughout the farmhouse, police seized a cabin trailer, believed to belong to a Toronto man, that was full of Jehovah's Witness literature. The trailer was towed to Owen Sound, and it required several trips before Constable Langille had transported all the literature.

Before the raid conducted by Constable Langille, Mount Forest police had seized nearly 700 pounds of literature at the same farmhouse. In similar raids throughout the district police seized 40 cartons of literature at a house in Mount Forest, and a dozen cartons at another farm in Normanby Township.

Cyclist Is Injured In Collision With Car at Crossing

VICTIM TAKEN TO HOSPITAL; CRASH OCCURRED NEAR C.P.R. LEVEL CROSSING

Olier Hooper, 38-year-old resident of Lachute Mills and an employee of the Dominion Shuttle Company, was struck by a car Saturday night around 9.45 o'clock while cycling on Main St. The crash occurred near the C.P.R. crossing at the North River. The car, driven by Noel Robillard, of Brownsburg, was proceeding northward when it met Hooper, who had just crossed the track on his bicycle. According to Traffic Officer Howard Jones, of Lachute, who investigated the accident, there appeared to be misunderstanding of the drivers and each swerved across the road to avoid the other. Hooper was struck and knocked unconscious. Dr. W. F. McMartin, was summoned and after treating the victim at his office ordered his removal to Montreal. He was conveyed by Joly's ambulance to Ste. Jeanne d'Arc Hospital, accompanied by a relative. Hospital officials later reported his condition was not serious.

Acknowledge Collections in Recent Y.M.C.A. Campaign

A letter received this week from the secretary of the Y.M.C.A. Montreal headquarters, expresses gratitude for the efforts of the committee here in their canvass of Lachute and district during the recent fund campaign. The letter, addressed to J. S. Giles, chairman of the local committee, says in part :

"May we express to you on behalf of the Y.M.C.A. our appreciation of your efforts in connection with the Y.M.C.A. War Services Campaign. We enclose herewith our official receipt to cover your cheque ($582.18) sent to us recently . . . I have a letter today from England which tells how increasingly useful and effective our services to the Canadian troops are becoming. It encourages the men over there to know that the folks in Canada are backing them up."

Give Final Sanction To Purchase of Chlorinator

COUNCILLORS ALSO APPROVE PURCHASE OF SITE

A special meeting of Lachute Town Council was called on Tuesday for discussion of the water chlorination project. At this meeting — after what has appeared to the ratepayers an endless series of objections and delays — the chlorination scheme was finally set in motion by sanction to the purchase of machinery and land for the proposed plant. Council's approval was not unanimous; but, even so, for the small mercy of a majority opinion, the populace are duly grateful at this stage.

Present in the council chamber were — Mayor W. S. MacKimmie, Aldermen W. Morrisette, R. Muir, L. St. Jacques, E. Prevost, D. Pharand and A. Scott.

It was moved by Ald E. Prevost, seconded by Ald. F. S. McGibbon, that the Mayor and Secretary be authorized to purchase a piece of land 50 x 50 ft, by expropriation or agreement, for the housing of a chlorination plant, at a price not to exceed $100.

The council authorized purchase of a Patterson chlorination machine at the price of $3,077 subject to approval of the Provincial Department of Health — Aldermen Prevost and Pharand dissenting from the purchase.

The Pro-Mayor and Light Committee were authorized to interview the Gatineau Power Company with a view to securing more favorable electricity rates. Aldermen Prevost an Pharand dissented, on the grounds that all angles and possibilities of a municipal power installation should first be investigated.

WHY BRITISH POSTAGE STAMPS BEAR NO NAME

Postage stamps were originated in Great Britain (May 6, 1840) and as the only country then using stamps it was unnecessary to print the name "Great Britain" on them. This plan has been adhered to ever since, although most other countries print their name on their stamps.

Says Uncompleted Highway A Menace Near Ste. Agathe

Deploring the number of accidents which have occurred at "Devil's Corner," a sharp curve in the uncompleted Ste. Agathe-St. Jovite highway at the north boundary of Ste Agathe, Mayor Georges Liboiron has urged that the Provincial Roads Department remove the hazard either by completing the highway or, at least, by properly grading and marking the dangerous curve.

Three accidents have occurred at the corner this season, on the stretch of gravel road marked by a fragile wooden fence, beyond which there is a drop of several hundred feet to a bed of rocks. Motorists unacquainted with the hazard, who fail to notice the wooden fence, have time and again crashed through the barrier and piled onto the rocks.

The gravel stretch, a continuation of the new Laurentian highway, was to have been completed in the fall of 1938 by the Provincial Government in power at that time.

Air Officials Visit St. Jovite Airport

Officials of civil and military aviation visited St. Jovite this week to inspect the Gray Rocks airport. They made no comment on the possibility of the Government taking over the airport for war purposes, but it is expected that another group of departmental officials will visit the airport next week.

A Cornish laundry proprietor was recently buried in a coffin which had been made at his orders 11 years before his death. He used it as a safe in his office, saying that no thief would dare to lift a coffin lid.

Quebec Business Firms Co-operate in Savings

More than sixteen hundred firms in the Province of Quebec are now co-operating with the War Savings Committee in making Certificates and thrift Stamps available to their employees under the system of deductions from wages and salaries. In Montreal, 1121 firms are using the system. Throughout the rest of the Province 538 firms are at work on it. "There are still a number of smaller establishments which have not yet expressed their willingness to help the Government by filling out the questionnaire and mailing it to the War Savings Committee at Ottawa," Napoleon Charest, Provincial Chairman, remarked, in releasing the figures of firms which are cooperating. "Our committee workers, who of course in every case are unpaid voluntary workers, are canvassing all these concerns which have not yet put the wage deduction plan into effect. A request for supplies from one of these to our offices at 808 Aldred Building, Montreal, will bring a ready response from us in all the necessary forms and instructions.

Street Pays $60,000 Tax

Streets of New York that are not public thoroughfares, some dingy and obscure and others of modern glamour, are called to mind by the discovery that there is one in Rockefeller Center on which is paid an annual $60,000 tax. It is Rockefeller plaza and it runs under the lee of lofty skyscrapers through the middle of a plot bounded by Fifth and Sixth avenues from Forty-eighth to Fifty-first street.

The land itself is under a long-term lease from Columbia university, which requires the Rockefeller interests to do nothing that would damage her title. It therefore is stated in the lease that any private street established in the area must be fenced or barred for 12 hours every year. That act proclaims that the place is not a public highway much as it is traversed. If the ceremony were omitted it might be claimed that through uninterrupted usage the passage was in effect dedicated to the community.

Manhattan teems with traditions of private byways and paths which eventually become streets largely through their being undisputed passages. Lovers' lane and other lanes with less romantic names were eventually absorbed in the city plan.

The narrower the mind, the broader the statement.

Guards Push Recruiting In Rural Areas

There are still a few vacancies in the active service battalion of the Grenadier Guards, now mobilizing to go overseas with the Fourth Division, and preference will be given to applicants from rural districts, according to an announcement by Major H. C. Griffith, recruiting officer of that famous regiment.

"We are taking only the finest type of men and so protecting the outstanding reputation the Grenadier Guards enjoy everywhere", declared Major Griffith, "and we are particularly pleased with the many stalwart, keen young men who have come to us from the country districts. No finer type of men can be had anywhere and, because we have already recruited many of this type. new recruits can be assured of congenial companions under arms."

Requirements for "The Guards" are that men must be five feet eight inches or better in height, and be of good physique, character and intelligence. Despite these unusually stiff requisites, the regiment has recruited quickly, many of those applying being anxious to serve with a unit of glorious traditions and unexcelled personnel.

VETERANS IN DEMAND FOR HOME GUARD

"Five hundred Great War veterans wanted immediately for full time active service!" Such, in effect, was a pronouncement made by Major Walter H. Scott, M.C., Chief Recruiting Officer of Military District No. 4 at his headquarters recently.

Recruited under the Veterans' Home Guard, all applicants must have seen active service in the war of 1914-18 and must have a height minimum of five feet and an age maximum of fifty years.

Applicants are directed to apply to the nearest recruiting centre or direct to Veterans' Home Guard headquarters, 580 Rose de Lima Street, Montreal.

WHY HAS SAILOR'S COLLAR THREE WHITE LINES?

They are said to represent the three great victories of Nelson, i.e. the Nile, Copenhagen and Trafalgar. Incidentally, many British people consider that it is good luck to touch the white lines, and many sailors on leave in Britain have quite a task to keep their collars clean.

LESS DRUNKENNESS WITH YOUTHFUL DRIVERS

According to a recent survey of forty-nine key cities of over 100,000 population in the United States, youths under twenty-five years of age are arrested far less often on drunken driving charges than their elders. Only three of the cities reported that the majority of drivers arrested for drunken driving were under twenty-five. In Detroit the average age of persons arrested for drunken driving is 38.1 years. Nineteen of the cities reported an average decrease of 19.3% in the number of arrests for drunken driving among all age groups in 1939 as compared with 1938.

CIRCUMVENT LAW FORBIDDING MAYOR TO SUE CITY

Although the husband as head of the family community could not take action against the city of which he was mayor, Quebec law in such cases provides the mayor's wife with legal recourse for damages, Mr. Justice Alfred Forest ruled in Superior Court, when he condemned the town of Iberville to pay Mrs. Armand Goyette $1,008 for injuries suffered when she slipped and fell on a sidewalk. Plaintiff contended the city was at fault because it had not kept the sidewalks in a safe condition for pedestrians. The woman sued for $4,182, but this claim was reduced by the Judge.

Unique before the courts of the Province of Quebec, the case presented many legal difficulties. Under the law of the Province of Quebec, a wife common as to property cannot take action in her own name without authorization of her husband. In the case before the court, it was contended that the husband as mayor of the city, could not authorize his wife to take action against the municipality of which he was chief magistrate.

The woman, however, made an application before a Judge to sue in her own name and the request was granted. In dismissing the defendant's objection to this, Mr. Justice Forest cited the Civil Code, which rules that "where the husband refuses or is unable to act, through absence or other causes, the wife, with the authorization of a judge, may exercise alone and in her name an action to recover damages for personal injury."

PROPOSES BARREL SWEEPSTAKE FOR WAR FUNDS

Mayor Fred Hume of New Westminster, B.C., has proposed a "floating barrel sweepstake," a plan to float a large keg down the Fraser river and hold a war fund sweepstake on the length of time the barrel would take to make the 200-mile trip from Clinton to the Pattullo bridge at New Westminster.

Tickets would be sold at 50 cents each. First prize would be $500 and the remainder of the money would go toward purchasing training planes for use in the Empire Air Training plan.

NEW FIRE EQUIPMENT FOR SHERBROOKE, QUE.

Official approval was given to the Sherbrooke Fire Department's new 240 horsepower fire truck and pump unit purchased at a cost of approximately $20,000, after it had completed a grilling five-hour test.

The truck easily fulfilled the requirements set by the Canadian Fire Underwriters Association and was later put to even more severe tests by engineers operating it.

40 YEARS AS CITY OFFICIAL

A municipal official for more than 40 years, Town Clerk J. A. Lewis attended his final meeting of Smiths Falls Town Council in an official capacity last month, his resignation taking effect at the end of June. Mr. Lewis entered the employ of the municipality prior to 1900; in 1902 he was appointed officially to the position of treasurer and three years later was appointed town clerk.

$10,000 FOR WAR PURPOSES

The Elgin (Ont.) County Council has voted $10,000 for war purposes and named a committee of five members to administer it. Predictions are that, even with this provision, council will reduce the mill rate slightly under what it was last year.

Obstacles to Hitler in Invasion of Britain

By Robert R. McCormick

Difficulties that Herr Hitler will encounter if and when he attempts his much-advertized invasion of Great Britain were outlined in a cross-continent broadcast recently by Col. Robert R. McCormick, member of General Pershing's staff during the Great War and publisher of the Chicago Tribune. Chances of a successful blitzkreig against Britain are extremely remote, the speaker stated, and he expressed confidence that the Germans would find the task much more difficult than they anticipated.

The invasion of Norway, Col. McCormick stated, is of no particular advantage to forces attempting an attack on Great Britain. It would be too roundabout and the British Navy should surely control the North Sea. He then considered the narrow seas between Calais and Dover, only 22 miles wide, and the possibility that a landing could be made across that narrow channel. He concluded such an attack would be impracticable.

"Even if an army went from Calais and Boulogne to Dover, and could land where William the Conqueror landed and fight near Hastings, it could not avail them," the speaker said. "A narrow front such as that would present could be held by the English army without question — a regular army, well-trained, again well-armed and reinforced by the Australians and Canadians. It could not possibly succeed.

"What of an air invasion? Suppose 100,000 troops could be landed in 24 hours. They would have only machine guns and a day's rations. They couldn't hope to win.

"There are two narrow places in the English Channel — between Calais and Dover and between Cherbourg and Portland Bill. There is a coast line about 150 miles long. If the Germans could drive the British fleet from this part of the channel, there would be a long front, a number of points to land and make the breakthrough.

An adequate defense would still be the total destruction of all docks and landing places, because without them tanks and cannon could not be put ashore.

"Suppose, however, that a successful landing were made, the narrow, twisting roads of southern England would offer another barrier. Countries in central Europe have built military roads for the use of their troops, ignoring the fact they are equally useful to an enemy. So France can march into Germany and Germany can march into France with equal ease. It is difficult to try to march into southern England."

Author of several books on military subjects, Col. McCormick maintains constant contact with the American command and his opinions are of special interest because of the high regard in which they are held by military men in the United States and Canada.

Very few men wake up to find themselves famous. They usually dream they're famous, then wake up.

Soldiers Seek Tattoo Marks for Identifications

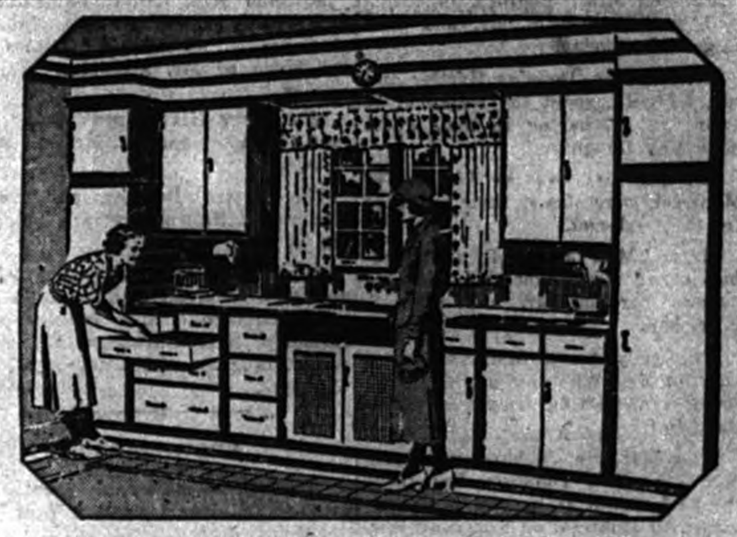

Tattoo artists in Canada are coming into their own as a result of the war.

According to Montreal's famous tattoo artist, Professor Paul, business is booming as never before since the days of 1914 with the army, navy and air force leading the procession through those narrow and gaudily decorated front doors. They want tattoo marks as identifications.

"Trouble now is," he said, "that there ain't the appreciation of art there used to be. I remember when a man could put in a couple of days doing a picture on a sailor's chest that was something to be proud of, but now it's just initials and numbers. Military numbers, girls' phone numbers, family initials, girls' initials. I'm telling yah, I'm gettin' writer's cramp.

"Tain't only the men that's getting them," he went on. "The women too are coming in here to get their boy friends' initials on their arms and legs.

"Of course," he added, "this idea isn't so good. Suppose a girl wants to change boy friends. Zingo! there's trouble. I've blotted out more initials by changing them into roses in the past six months than I've done in the last 25 years. But then, I guess a girl's got a right to change her mind. Got one now who's making her mind up to become a tattooed lady. Trouble with this is that a man gets about half through with them and they change their minds again, and tell me, what good's a half tattooed woman?"

Picture Postcard Hero

King Leopold's treacherous desertion of the Allies formed part and parcel of Hitler's scheme of world domination. Incredible as it seems, Leopold III was fooled into believing that he stood a good chance of becoming Emperor of Greater Germany. That was the root cause of his treachery.

Even in his youth, Leopold was a sensitive, neurotic type, whose whims and fancies were always excused on the grounds of the terrors to which he, his gallant immortal father King Albert and their fellow-countrymen were subjected during the Great War. When the boy Prince was sent to Eton in 1918, King Albert warned the authorities that Leopold was apt to lose touch with realities.

After Queen Astrid's car-crash death, Leopold was mentally unbalanced and his downfall began from that time. Attractive German women were pushed into his company whenever he went on holiday, and members of the German aristocracy poured sinister ideas into his ears. All these poisonous friends kept telling Leopold that if he played his cards aright, he could become Emperor of Germany. They whispered that the Reich was in great need of a young, energetic monarch of Aryan German ancestry.

Both on his father's and his mother's side, Leopold of the Belgians could boast German blood. He was told that when Queen Wilhelmina of The Netherlands passed away, Germany would make him ruler of both Holland and Belgium. That was to be just a first step. Later on, he could rise to a still greater glory.

Leopold believed it all . . . Having thus undermined the moral fibre of Belgium's picture postcard Hero King, the Germans felt on safer ground in launching their great offensive . . . Belgium's Foreign Minister, Paul Spaak is quoted as saying that when Leopold announced to his Government that he was about to surrender, he looked "like a madman, mentally and physically deficient."

A Worthy Example

Although a mere matter of $5000 or so will complete our post office, we realize that this sum multiplied by some scores of other government projects will mount to a considerable sum, which will go far towards our war effort. The people of Nipawin have taken this Government decision (to postpone further construction) quite philosophically . . . . We are a people, a thinking people; of our own free wills we welcome the chance to help in any way, even though it be small. If the stopping of some public works means a futherance of the war effort, then we will gladly do without.

Nipawin Advertiser-Journal, Sask.

Practical Assistance

All indications point to a quick growth of Canadian population within the next decade, inasmuch as it is expected that many parents will accompany the thousands of refugee children who will be brought to this country . . . . Canadians thus will have an opportunity of assisting prosecution of the war in a far more tangible means than ever before. The helpless refugee stream is the most pitiful aspect of modern warfare.

Boys Will Be Boys, Goethe Liked Puppets

The German poet, Goethe, was a friend of puppets from his childhood. When he was about the age of seven, a friend of his good mother made some puppets and sent them to him and his sister for a Christmas present.

The mother had a happy thought. She made a little stage and set it in the doorway of a room, just off the living room.

On Christmas morning, so the story is told by Winifred H. Mills and Louise M. Dunn in "Marionettes," after the children had seen their presents, she had the family sit down before the closed door. When she opened it, there was a kind of porch concealed with a mysterious curtain.

The children were curious and eager to know what was behind that half-transparent veil. The mother, however, bade each sit down upon his stool. At length, Goethe says, "all were silent, a whistle gave the signal, the curtain rolled aloft and showed us the interior of a temple painted in deep red colors.

The high priest, Samuel, appeared with Jonathan, and their strange alternating voices seemed to me the most striking thing on earth. Shortly after entered Saul, overwhelmed with confusion at the impatience of that heavy-limbed warrior who had defied him and all his people. But how glad I was when the dapper son of Jesse, with his crook and shepherd's pouch and sling, came hopping forth and said, 'Dread king and sovereign lord, let no one's heart sink down because of this. If your majesty will grant me leave, I will go out to battle with this blustering giant!' "

Death of Well-Known Calumet Lumberman

He is survived by his widow, one son in Ottawa, and three daughters, Mrs. Stephen Arnold and Mrs. Robert Whinfield of Calumet, and Mrs. J. L. Jorgensen of Montebello. Brig-Gen. John B. White of Montreal is a brother.

Mr. White was actively interested in Masonry, had been Past District Deputy Grand Master and Past Master of Grenville Lodge.

The Late Jas. Morrison

The death of James Morrison occurred on Saturday morning, July 20th, at his home in Lachute, following a period of ill health. He was born in Shrewsbury on June 14th, 1870, and for the greater part of his life had been a well known resident of this county.

He is survived by his wife, formerly Elizabeth MacVicar, and five children — Mrs. James Hay and Mrs. Gordon Hay, of Lachute, Mrs. James MacConnachie, of Montreal, Stanley, at home, and Gertrude of Montreal. He is also survived by three sisters and two brothers.

Mr. Morrison was a member of the Anglican Church for many years, and for the past 45 years had been a member of the Loyal Orange Lodge.

The funeral took place on Monday afternoon from St. Simeon's Church, and was conducted by the Rev. W. C. LeCras. Interment was made in the Lachute Cemetery. Following the burial service at the grave, the brethren of the L.O.L. paid their last tribute to their departed brother.

Pall bearers were Nat and Melvin Boyd, Edward Morrison, Leonard Rathwell, Gordon Tomalty and Geo. Connelly.

Origin of 'Swing Low'

Of the origin of the spiritual, "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," the Negro Year Book says: "A mother and her babe had been sold from a Tennessee plantation to go down into Mississippi, which was, to her, going to her death. To prevent the separation from her child, she was about to throw herself and babe into the Cumberland river. An old woman, seeing the mother's intentions, laid her hand upon the shoulder of the distressed mother and said, 'Wait, let de chariot of de Lord swing low and let me take de Lord's scroll and read it to you.' The mother was so impressed with the words of the old slave woman that she gave up her design and allowed herself to be sold into Mississippi, leaving her baby behind. The song, 'Swing Low, Sweet Chariot' by degrees grew up, as this incident passed from mouth to mouth."

Among the Churches

ANNUAL MEMORIAL SERVICE AT NEW GLASGOW

New Glasgow, Que. — The annual memorial service of St. John's Anglican Church, New Glasgow, will be held on Sunday, July 28th, in the Mother Church at Wesleyville.

Last summer a similar service was held in commemoration of the founding of the village, more than one hundred years ago. That service was largely attended by the present residents of the village and also by members of families who formerly lived here but now have made their homes elsewhere. There were also many strangers present.

Everybody is welcome to the coming memorial observance, and it is hoped there will be many present to worship with the congregation and pay tribute to the memory of the pioneers who founded the church, school and the many other benefits of religion and civilization which we now enjoy.

If possible, a guest preacher will be present and deliver the sermon for the occasion.

GRENVILLE PARISH

Grenville — The Grenville A.Y.P.A. held a wiener roast last Wednesday on the rivershore near Hampton's Lock. The following night the Calumet A.Y.P.A. held their wiener roast near the rapids at Grenville. Both events were well attended and a pleasant time was spent on each occasion. Some of the Calumet young people enjoyed a moonlight swim.

The Orange Lodge of Grenville paraded to St. Matthew's Church on Sunday, July 14. Several friends from neighboring lodges joined them in their observance. The rector preached on "My Duty to God and the Empire."

The W. A. and A.Y.P.A. at Calumet are busy preparing for the lawn social next Saturday night. Each stall will represent one of the countries associated with Britain in the war, and will be suitably decorated.

During the rector's absence, the services for the two coming Sundays will be conducted by Mr. H. G. Baugh, of Lakefield. The weekly wartime intercessions on Wednesday nights will be held as usual.

The shed at the rectory, built under the direction of Mr. Vernon Dawson, was roofed and boarded at a well attended "bee" held recently.

CHURCH LAWN SOCIAL AT LAKE VIEW

Lost River — Under the auspices of Fraser Memorial Presbyterian Church at Lake View, a successful lawn social was held on the church grounds on Saturday. Every inch of space was utilized and the booths and stalls were gaily decorated. The large crowd which patronized the event entered in the carnival spirit and thoroughly enjoyed the attractions offered for their entertainment.

A very life-like effigy of Hitler provided fun and at the same time a means of showing what he might expect in the way of a reception if hands could be laid on his person. The speed and energy with which balls were thrown at him, with cigars or chocolate bars for those whose aim was true, was nothing short of a regular "blitzkreig."

Entertainment of a high order was provided by Messrs. Rod Chisholm, Jack Williams and F. B. Allan, while Mr. Jackson, of Montreal, gave a splendid gymnastic and acrobatic display, thrilling the audience with his stunts. In addition an "Amateur Night" was held, in which W. Owens, Miss C. Thompson and Ralph Bowie were the successful entrants.

Refreshments, including the ever popular "hot dog", were provided by the ladies during the evening, but "soft drinks, ice cream and pop-corn" were most popular with the youngsters.

The members are anxious to express their thanks to the several visitors at the Lake who gave such a willing and helpful hand to the committee in making the occasion a great success, socially and financially. A donation of oil from Mr. Wilson, of the B.A. Oil Co., was sprinkled on the highway, laying the dust of passing cars, and thus adding to the comfort of the patrons. This gesture of Mr. Wilson's was greatly appreciated.

From an entertainment and financial viewpoint the social was highly successful, and those in charge of the arrangements are gratified with the results of their efforts.

Canada's Highways

The first highway of importance in Canada was the Chambly Road in the Province of Quebec, which was opened in 1665 under the instructions of M. de Courcelle, Governor of New France. It was built by the French to connect Montreal with the chain of forts along the Richelieu River as a defence measure against the Iroquois Indians.

In Ontario the Niagara Portage Road between Queenston and Chippawa was opened by the United Empire Loyalists in 1788. It was the principal route of travel to the Upper Lakes region and served as an important strategic position and line of communication during the War of 1812-14 and the Rebellion of 1837-38.

Yonge Street, which leads into Toronto from the north, was planned by Lieutenant-Governor Simcoe in 1793 as a military road and commercial highway between Lakes Ontario and Huron. It was laid out and constructed by the Queen's Rangers in 1794-96, and named in honour of Sir George Yonge, a member of the British Government who later became the Governor of the Cape of Good Hope. Dundas Street (The Governor's Road) was planned by Governor Simcoe in 1793 to promote settlement of the province. It provided communication between Lake Ontario and the Thames River, and was named after the Honorable Henry Dundas, Secretary of State for War and the Colonies.

In Western Canada three historic roads have been marked — the Dawson Road, the Roseau Route, and the Cariboo Road. The Dawson Road, a land and water route from Fort William to Red River, was Canada's first attempt to provide an all Canadian highway linking the East with the Prairie Provinces. Surveyed in 1858 and completed in 1871, this road was 530 miles long and took its name from the engineer who carried out the survey.

The Roseau Route was the war road of the Sioux Indians leading to the Lake of the Woods, and it was also the earliest route to the West used by the French explorers and traders under La-Verendrye in 1733.

The Cariboo Road in British Columbia was completed in 1865 and played an important part in the gold rush to the Cariboo area. This road runs from Yale to Barkerville, and the wealth in gold which has passed over it is estimated at more than forty million dollars.

In the early days roads were auxiliary to water routes as avenues of transportation. They were used during the summer season when portages were necessary to avoid obstacles in river and lake travel, and in winter when ice prevented navigation. With the spread of settlement and the demand for means of communication between centres of population, overland routes became necessary and road construction got under way in the pioneer stages of the development of the Dominion. The advent of the automobile and the consequent rapid growth of tourist traffic gave added impetus to road-building with the result that Canada's highways now comprise about half a million miles.

PATRIOTIC LETTERHEAD FROM MAYOR'S OFFICE

On a background of red, white and blue, directly over the civic crest appearing on stationery used at the mayoral office, Mayor Stanley Lewis of Ottawa has had printed a patriotic inscription, "There'll Always Be An England" — after a song which has attained high popularity in recent months.

Fred Astaire will have the starring role in "Second Chorus," first picture to be made by National Pictures, the newly formed Boris Morros-Robert Stillman company. Artie Shaw and his band already have been signed for the film, which will be directed by H. C. Potter.

Shaunavon, Sask. — To break the monotony of being held together during a murder trial here, a King's Bench Court jury was taken to the Plaza Theatre under guard to see a picture show. Title of the picture was — "The Man they could Not Hang."— The accused was acquitted.

WEEKLY HEALTH ARTICLE

BURNING SENSATION IN ABDOMEN IS NOT DUE TO EXCESS ACID

According to Dr. A. L. Bloomfield, of the Stanford University Medical School, hyperacidity has been used to designate three very different disorders. One of these is a condition in which the stomach juices are highly acid, the second, a condition in which there is an excessive amount of the stomach secretions formed, and the third, a condition in persons who have such symptoms as fullness, burning sensations in the upper part of the abdomen and sometimes, the bringing up in the mouth of acid material from the stomach. Excessive acid in the stomach also does occur, especially in patients with an ulcer of the first part of the intestine, called a duodenal ulcer.

Seventy-five normal people, without any evidence of stomach disease, were studied by Dr. Bloomfield. It was found that the upper limit of the possible acid was found to be between 100 and 120 units. In a similar study of patients who had proved disease of the stomach, particularly ulcer, it was not unusual to find the acid to be increased up to 140 units. Furthermore, the amount of stomach secretions was consistently greater in the patients with ulcer than in normal persons.

It seems, however, that neither an excessive amount of acid nor an excessive amount of secretion necessarily is present with stomach symptoms. Many people just assume that symptoms of burning in the upper part of the abdomen are due to acid. It is known that acid burns, so that any burning feeling is thought to be the result of too much acid. But the same sensations of burning can be caused by pressure. For example, if a small balloon is placed in the esophagus, or tube which leads from the mouth to the stomach, and this balloon is blown up with air so as to make pressure, the individual will describe the sensation he has as one of burning.

The relief which comes from this burning sensation by taking alkalis is not merely due to the fact that the alkalis combine with the acid and get rid of it. Rather the gas which is formed when the alkali and acid combine tends to, in some way, relieve the pressure, for this gas is quickly brought up by belching.

Burning indigestion is often relieved by getting rid of mental overstrain, by correcting bad eating habits, or by other similar measures which have no effect on the acid secretion in the stomach. Thus, the symptoms which have been called hyperacidity are due not to acid in the stomach but rather to an abnormal condition of the stomach muscles, producing spasm or increased tension in the stomach or first part of the intestine.

Whenever a burning sensation occurs, called heartburn or "burning" indigestion, there is need for a complete examination to determine its cause. Then the most effective treatment for it may be carried out.

PAIN IN CHEST

My father has a pain in his chest. What do you think could cause it? Could it be due to any nerve? H.C.L.

ANSWER

Pain in the chest might be due to a variety of conditions, such as an inflammation of the nerves in the chest wall; muscular inflammation; to some disorder affecting the heart, lungs, or the lining membrane over the lungs, known as the pleura. The pain might be due to a condition in the body elsewhere than in the chest. A complete study by the physician is necessary to determine the cause for the difficulty before treatment could be suggested.

NOISY BREATHING

Since birth, my baby has a slight roughness or rattle in his throat. What causes this?—Worried Mother.

ANSWER

There are many causes for noisy breathing, such as disturbances of the lungs, an enlarged thymus gland in the neck, enlarged tonsils, or infection of the larynx or voice box. In young babies, it may be due to a condition, known as congenital laryngeal stridor, a disorder that is present at birth, in most cases, or appears shortly after. It is evidently due to a spasm of the larynx or voice box. Usually the condition clears up without treatment.

INJECTION TREATMENT

I have read about injection into the the vein to overcome varicose veins. Does this get rid of the trouble? Is it expensive? —Mrs. F.

ANSWER

The injection treatment for varicose veins is quite satisfactory. The cost will depend upon the physician who carries out the treatment.

Golf Balls Are 'Dimpled'

Golf balls are dimpled. You must have noticed that and possibly have wondered why. A golf ball has about 300 dimples or meshes. Why? John M. Davies of the B. F. Goodrich company research laboratories explained to the American Physical society recently. Golf balls travel 98 to 115 miles an hour, according to whether the golfer is a gee-whiz or a dub. A backspin of about 2,000 revolutions a minute is imparted to the ball by the driver. A niblick may increase this to 10,000 revolutions. This spin helps keep the ball in the air. Smooth surfaced balls drop more quickly than the dimpled kind. The indentations give the ball a greater "hold" on the air. The longer it can stay in the air, the faster it will travel. Mechanical strokes have sent the dimpled ball 230 yards as against 80 yards when the smooth ball was used.

Treasury Gadget

Stretched across the top of the tellers' windows of the state treasurer's office in Springfield, Ill., are many strands of wire which look like radio aerials.

Ed Lonergan, press agent for Treasurer Louie E. Lewis, explains they are part of a robbery-burglary system, charged with high voltage to prevent climbing into the treasury office and fixed to set off alarms in police stations.

Cost of the system is $2,600 and it saves $4,000 annually on theft insurance. Little money is kept in the office, but there are many bonds burglars might yen for.

ENGLISH SCHOOLGIRLS IN OTTAWA

BOY SCOUTS THE WORLD OVER

A U.S.-CANADIAN SCOUT "CAMPOREE"

A composite troop of Boy Scouts of Kingston, Ont., joined some 200 American Scouts for a big week-end "Camporee" at Grass Point State Park, N.J. The camp was one of a series of international Scout get-togethers of the adjacent border districts which began last year on the occasion of the visit of Their Majesties.

COULDN'T HANDLE A ROTARY CONFERENCE WITHOUT BOY SCOUTS

"We would feel incapable of handling such a large crowd without the assistance of the Boy Scouts" was a tribute paid by Secretary Norman G. Foster when formally thanking the Scouts of Ottawa for services rendered during the recent big Tri-District Conference of International Rotary held at the Capital.

A BLIND SCOUT TROOP FIELD DAY

Surprisingly like a field day program of Scouts with all their faculties was that of the boys of the 1st Brant (School for the Blind) Troop, of Brantford. Each patrol ran a mile "Scout's pace" (alternately walking and running), lashed and erected a flagpole using five Scout staves and four ropes, treated a patient whose injuries were detailed in a Morse message, built a fire and boiled a pint of water. The afternoon ended with a Scout campfire and singsong.

HOW THE SCOUTS ARE "CARRYING ON"

Throughout Canada the Boy Scouts continue to carry on their "home front" wartime activities. In various centres, as markets are available, they are collecting wastepaper, scrap metal, rubber tires, lead foil, etc., and contributing the funds to the Red Cross and other war services. Many thousands of magazines have been gathered for the Y., Salvation Army, Legion and K. of C. huts at military camps. Lawns and gardens of soldiers' families are being looked after, and arrangements are being made to assist farmers and fruit growers with their crops, if needed.

A WARM U. S. MESSAGE TO BADEN-POWELL

The following cable was sent Lord Baden-Powell, Chief Scout of the World, from the annual meeting of Region One of the Boy Scouts of America:

"One thousand New England Scouters assembled in Region One annual meeting extend greetings, affirming universal spirit brotherhood through Promise and Law, and offer message of hope, friendship, affection and goodwill all Scouts British Empire."

HAMILTON SCOUTS ON PARK DUTY

The Hamilton Park Rangers, a selected group of Boy Scouts, co-operating with the Y.M.C.A., the Hamilton Junior Chamber of Commerce and Horticultural, Angling and Hunting organizations, have been launched for the purpose of "protecting property and conserving the natural beauty and wild life of the mountainside parks and driveways." The Rangers, numbering over 500, will be under control of the Hamilton Parks Board. They will not do police work, but will prevent vandalism by persuasion and example.

Virginia Buys Oyster Shells

Oyster shells aggregating 303,500 bushels and costing $8,710 have been purchased by the Virginia commission of fisheries for distribution over the depleted oyster bottoms of tidewater Virginia.

These shells will be moved and planted by the Work Projects administration as part of the state program financed jointly by the WPA and by the commission, through its bushel and gallon tax on oysters.

A large number of the shells will be planted in the Rappahannock river, which is in the most unfavorable condition of any river in the state, from the standpoint of oyster growth, according to commission surveyors.

There is widespread dissatisfaction around here at the placing of a heavy toll on the St. Eustache Bridge, which residents of this district formerly crossed free of charge.

Building operations have been noticeable around here lately. Mr. M. Welden is building himself a house near the English Church, and not far away Mr. Frank Crooks has been doing additional work on the interior of his house. Mr. John Stewart is building a balcony and sun-porch to his house at the corner of the Second Concession and Highway No. 8A.

Every little while in Strand, South Africa, the electric lights go off, and investigation resulted in the culprits being discovered — but not caught. Rats got into the electric transformers. The townspeople are now getting tired of the rodents' antics and are setting out on a campaign of extermination.

Famous Operas...

"PAGLIACCI"

By Ruggeriero Leoncavallo
Words by the Composer
First produced in Milan, 1892.
Scene: Calabria.

During the Feast of the Assumption, a theatrical troupe arrive at the village of Cambria, and are engaged at the theatre — an attraction which adds much to the happiness of the rustics.

Canio, master of the troupe, who is also Punchinello, has a beautiful wife named Nedda, the Columbine. Tonio, the Clown, becomes infatuated with Nedda, and before the performance makes advances towards her; but she resents him, slashing him across the face with a riding whip. Tonio vows revenge, and his opportunity comes when he hears Nedda voicing her affection for Silvio, a young peasant, and offering to elope with him. The Clown goes to Punchinello and informs him of his wife's infidelity. Punchinello rushes to the spot, but Silvio has gone, and Nedda refuses to tell who her lover is. Punchinello therefore attempts to stab her, but Beppe, the Harlequin, intercepts.

People are crowding to the performance, as Tonio beats the big drum. Silvio arranges a tryst with Nedda as she counts the money.

The curtain goes up, and the actors are to perform a play which is on identical lines to their real lives, where the Columbine poisons her husband. She is entertaining her lover, Harlequin, as Tonio the Clown watches for Punchinello's return. When Canio finally appears, the mimic tragedy becomes one of reality. He rushes upon Nedda, demanding the name of her lover. As she refuses to tell, he draws his dagger, and Nedda, realizing her danger, calls to Silvio, who is seated in the audience, to save her.

It is too late, for Punchinello has killed Nedda, and as Silvio rushes from his seat he is slain by the same dagger. The horrified audience is held spellbound, as Punchinello tells them the truth.

HINTS FOR HOMEBODIES

By JESSIE ALLEN BROWN
Specially written for Readers of The Watchman.

ESCAPE LITERATURE

The magazine I happened to be reading was full of tragic stories and articles. I threw it aside, feeling depressed, and turned on the radio, — just in time to hear the shrieks and groans of a car accident in one of those soppy soap serials. This was extra harrowing as just the day before we had heard the screech of brakes, the crash of a car hitting a bicycle and then the awful screams, in what turned out to be a minor accident, on the highway below us. It was a nerve-racking business while it lasted. Everyone is more or less depressed these days and we need what the psychologists call "escape" literature and radio programs.

Escape with me out of doors. There is a rolling field just below and it is a mass of field daisies with other wild flowers to give it color. I never saw such large daisies, they are as large a Shasta's. If they were on a farmer's field they would be troublesome weeds but here they are just a field of beauty. It is giving me a great thrill to go out and pick such a variety of wild flowers. One of the prettiest boquets we have is of purple clover. I have a crocheted luncheon set with each mat a different color. The centre one is a yellow runner but when I have a boquet of clover I use the mauve mat under it and it brings out the color. A mixed boquet of the different colors of clover, buttercups, daisies and wild peas, in a white pottery bowl is very lovely. This is a great place for Lupines, both wild and cultivated. The hill behind is full of the wild ones and I never saw so many as there are in the gardens here. It is interesting the way different parts of the country specialize in different flowers, probably because they have found by experience they do well.

A NEW LAWN

Perhaps some of you are making a new lawn. Did you know after it is long enough to cut it should be cut very often? We have a new lawn and had the idea it should not be cut too often. However, the gardener told us the bare patches would fill in more quickly if the grass was kept well cut. The grass is new and so is the lawn-mower, and no one seems to mind cutting the grass. I wonder how long that will last! We haven't had a new lawn-mower for years and the new ones with the ball-bearings are very much easier to push.

HARD-COOKED EGGS

Most of us want less meat in summer but we still need protein foods and eggs are one of the best sources. We like plenty of salads and sandwiches, and, in these, hard-cooked eggs come into their own. "Hard-cooked" is a better term than "hard-boiled" as eggs should not be boiled but cooked at a lower temperature. Too high a heat makes them tough but if they are cooked at a lower temperature they will be more tender. One of the best ways to hard-cook eggs is to put them in boiling water and when the water again comes to boiling point, cover the sauce-pan, remove it from the fire and let the eggs stand in the water for forty minutes. If you want to lessen the time of cooking reduce the temperature so that the water is only simmering, and cook for twenty minutes. Plunge the cooked eggs into cold water so that the shells will peel properly. To crush with a fork is the easiest method of chopping a hard-cooked egg. Eggs have an affinity for onions and a suggestion of finely-scraped onion improves either an egg sandwich or a devilled egg. Eggs require considerable salt and egg sandwiches are often tasteless from lack of sufficient salt. We should use an egg a day for each child and four a week for each adult. That does not mean they must be eaten as eggs but includes the eggs used in cooking. Make an estimate of the number of eggs you should use in your household each week, and see if you are consuming your quota.

CORN BISCUITS

2 cups flour, 4 tablespoons butter, 1 can whole kernel corn, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 egg, paprika, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ¾ cup milk, 1 tablespoon melted butter. Sift the flour with salt and baking powder and rub in the butter. Add the beaten egg and the milk gradually and lightly. Place on floured board and roll ½ inch thick. Spread drained corn over the surface and press lightly into the dough. Brush with melted butter. Roll up like jelly-roll and cut into 1" slices and sprinkle with paprika. Place on a greased pan and bake at 425 degrees for 15 minutes. Serve hot with creamed fish or chicken.

PINEAPPLE CHEESE STICKS

Drain syrup from canned pineapple sticks, and save the syrup for drinks or sauces. Place a thin strip of cream cheese on each stick and place in a hot oven until cheese is slightly browned. Serve hot with meats or salads or cold with tomato juice or fruit drinks.

Dowager Countess of Minto

A great lady and a great pioneer has passed from the highest rank of British life. The Dowager Countess of Minto died on July 16th at the age of 82 in London, England. She was the widow of the Earl of Minto, former Governor-General of Canada, and Viceroy of India.

After three-quarters of a century of life in the royal and viceregal households of the British Empire, in her eightieth year the widowed Countess undertook a new and courageous enterprise. She felt so keenly the need of a new spirit in international affairs that she abandoned her quiet retirement and travelled through Southeastern Mediterranean to foster in those countries the spirit which would lay the foundations for a new world. On that voyage she made three airplane flights, the first she ever made. The visits, which brought her to the palaces and the people, the governments and the press of six countries, were made in company with her elder sister, the Dowager Countess of Antrim; Bill Rowell, a London labor leader, formerly radical; Dr. Frank Buchman, American-born initiator of Moral Re-Armament; Mr. F. Wooley-Hart, prominent British coal owner; and other friends.

The effect of these visits was noteworthy, especially in Egypt and Palestine, where leaders and editors representing conflicting nationalities and political interests proclaimed that the hope of unity had been brought to them. In Great Britain, Canada, and India, where her husband initiated some notable reforms as Viceroy, the influence of this crowning service has been widely felt and appreciated in the last years of her life.

In a message to Canada a year ago, she pointed to Canada's future in these prophetic words: "I rejoice to know the response to Moral Re-Armament in Canada, land of so many happy memories. I believe that Canada, united under the dominion of God, has an historic opportunity to lead the Empire and nations into the spacious freedom of a world at peace within itself."

For Jelly Lovers

Blackberry-Strawberry Jelly

4 cups (2 lbs.) berry juice; 2 tablespoons lemon juice; 8 cups (3½ lbs.) sugar; 1 bottle fruit pectin.

To prepare juice, crush thoroughly or grind about 3 quarts fully ripe berries. Place in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice. Squeeze and strain juice from 1 medium lemon. Measure sugar and juice into large saucepan and mix. Bring to a boil over hottest fire and at once add bottled fruit pectin, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard ½ minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin at once. Makes about 12 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

Home-Loving Sex Now Has Wanderlust

"This is a woman's world, and in planning our trips and cruises we first ask ourselves what 'the head of the family' will think," says Robert R. Mathews of the American Express travel service. "Over 60 per cent of all those who travel for pleasure belong to the so-called 'home-loving sex' and, in making a choice on travel, we figure that feminine fancy is a directing—if not the deciding—factor in the majority of cases."

The average woman traveler is very tolerant of the shortcomings of her fellowman—up to a given point, says Mathews. She can take her dictators or leave them; she doesn't mind rags or poverty as long as it's picturesque; or lack of plumbing as long as it is somebody else's plumbing.

But heaven help the unfortunate cruise director who brings her to a hotel that hasn't all the latest nickel-plated fixtures, and if even so much as one humble cockroach should inadvertently cross her path—why, the trip is off!

In this country popular songs do not live very long, says a music critic. This is not surprising, considering the number of people who murder them.

BEAUTY

GROW YOUR OWN CORSETS

Old fashioned people have a saying that's worth thinking about: "A horse and a woman should be well harnessed." In the days of the double-turreted, steel-riveted corset, women were harnessed. They wore saddles of heavy fabric and steel splints and when they took them off at night they heaved a great sign of relief. These rib compressing cages were no help to health. Breathing was shallow, the inner-sides were at a disadvantage, couldn't function normally.

During World War No. 1, the younger generation rebelled against tight lacing. They chucked corsets into the furnace. There was a great to-do about it. Mothers raised their hands and eyebrows, decided that the world was going to the dogs. Soon, they followed suit.—As they always do. Corset manufacturers got the jitters. Then there was the usual turn-about, and foundation garments were designed.

The fact remains that there are too many slouchy looking femmes at the present time. Quivering flesh is not attractive. Tummies, which should be flat, are little shelves. Hips are unconfined. Boozums that should be neatly bandaged look horrid. Yes, my children, a woman should be well harnessed.

It is possible for a woman to grow her own corsets, of strong resilient fibres. It is better than any corset she can buy.

It is surprising how many young women have let their figures go to seed, because of bad posture. They're too lazy to stand up straight. They see a picture of a movie siren in which she assumes an arty pose, so they do likewise. Artiness is interesting on the stage or screen, but it doesn't pay any dividends when practiced by you or me or the woman next door. One's figure should be alive and alert, one's muscles strong and resilient. Let the shoulders fall forward, the chest contract — and the tummy plops out. Then what? The meal-bag figure is on the way. If there's anything worse than that, you tell me. Because I don't know.

Shops offer an indefinite variety of tricky corselettes that will anchor down the bulges, and develop the svelte shape. One must not be selected casually.

Through exercise, continued daily, the muscles from the ribs down to the hip bones can be tightened and strengthened. If they are in normal condition, if the body does not carry any obese upholstery, there is no need of any kind of restriction.

To tone the mid-section, do bending exercises night and morning. Lift the hands high in the air, bend from side to side. Hands on hips, bend forward and back. Lie on the floor, lift and lower the legs slowly. Hands on a line with the shoulder, pivot at the waistline. Don't be lazy about it. With every movement see that there is a good, tough muscle pull.

Cool Drinks Without Ice

For campers and others who want cool drinks when ice is not available, relief is now being promised with the perfection of powders which through a chemical reaction produce a temperature of 20 degrees lower than ice in three minutes. A cocktail shaker with a special chamber in which the powders are mixed is supplied for cooling liquids, according to an announcement by the Canned Cold Chemical company.

Experience may be the best teacher, but she seldom finds any apples on her desk.

To escape criticism, live openly. Whoever heard any scandal about a goldfish?

Babies Take to the Air

Moncton, N.B. — Within four days, the Trans-Canada Air Lines had among its passengers three infants none of whom was more than half a year old. Geoffrey Finnis, aged five months, flew all the way from Vancouver to Moncton and went on to Halifax by connecting plane. His mother, Mrs. F. C. Finnis, was with him on the same plane was Carroll Smith, six months old, who also went on to Halifax, en route to Yarmouth. He was accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Ernest Smith of Ottawa.

Younger than either was Joan Galloway, who flew in the other direction, from Halifax to Montreal. She is only four months old. Her daddy is Flight Lieutenant D. E. Galloway, of Toronto.

Cinderella of Old

Long before the Christian era, a version of the Cinderella story was known by the Egyptians, and it was familiar also to the Greeks. It may be found among the German folklore tales of the Sixteenth century and in the delightful collections of fairy stories of the Brothers Grimm. The various English versions are adaptations of the narrative of Charles Perrault, a famous French writer of fairy tales.

SENTENCED AS SPY

Called by some of the more spectacular London newspapers as "The woman who loved Hitler", Mrs. Marie Louisa Augusta Ingram, 42-year-old German-born wife of a Royal Air Force sergeant, has been sentenced to 10 years in prison by a British court on conviction of espionage.

GOOD MANNERS

VACATION POST CARDS SHOW INDIVIDUAL TASTE

In the small part of the year that most of us have for our vacation, it is an unreasonable spending of time to write many letters. Our minds should be relaxed, not constantly haunted by "Oh, I wish that letter were written."

Instead of spending precious minutes of your holiday in this agitation, make up your mind — and warn your family and friends of this before you leave — that you are not going to be so prodigal of the time that you need for rest and recreation. Unless your vacation is to be a long one, get a supply of post-cards, plain and "picture", and use them to carry the messages that are reminders of your thoughtfulness.

Members of the family and your close friends will be comforted and delighted with messages written on "scenery" cards — a card a day if you wish. Your daily message will take only a minute or two and cost only a cent or two. Yet what a difference this thoughtfulness will make to the people back home. They want only a word or two, visible proof that all is well, that you are happy.

A few simple words, such as "If you were here this place would seem twice as lovely", or "Another year we must try to come here together. You would love it" express affection, and yet they could be shouted from the housetops.

At this point your taste steps in, for a post-card should be discreet and self-controlled. It expresses us "for better or for worse", and can be read by anybody who chooses to read it. That in itself is a responsibility.

Perhaps I needn't warn you how very easily it is to let your pen run away with your manners, and especially with your sense of discretion! When a girl writes boy or boy writes girl their pens should not divulge unguarded thoughts, sentences that may later rear their heads to cause embarrassment or even shame. Distance, remember, can bring disenchantment too.

Don't let yourself impulsively buy cards that are supposed to be funny, or ones that on second thought will not be as funny when they arrive as you thought they would be when you sent them.

Don't, on your cards or in your vacation letters, use subjectless sentences, provincially associated with this type of message. Write "We are having a wonderful time", not "Having a wonderful time".

HOW DID THE BRIDE'S CAKE ORIGINATE?

Brides in Roman times always ate a portion of a cake made of flour and water, as a sign that they would never lack the simple necessaries of life. From this custom comes the elaborate wedding cakes of today — almost a contradiction, it would seem.

SHOULD POUNDS BE WRITTEN AS "LBS"?

No, the "s" should not be used. This is because the letters are an abbreviated form of the Latin word "librae" which means pounds. The correct term is therefore "lb".

FORGET POLITICS

"If we open a quarrel between the past and the present, we shall find that we have lost the future", said Mr. Churchill, a bitter critic of governmental complacency in days gone by. Canadians of all shades of political thought understand the peril which faces Canada and the Empire today. Politics must be forgotten. It is not what we did or did not do in the past that counts, but what we are going to do in the days to come.

ALLIES HINDERED BY ETHICS

"It is undoubtedly true that Allied diplomats and military strategists, informed by their secret services of German plans (to invade the Low Countries) discussed and considered the possibility of moving first. They were deterred by respect for home opinion, by the cause for which they were fighting and by regard for the reaction of public opinion in the United States . . . Germany on the contrary, was deterred by none of these things — she believes that success is the only good propaganda".

—Dorothy Thompson

It Is Stibnite Now; Once It Was Alcohol

Several solid chunks of what was formerly known as alcohol are now on exhibition in the department of geology of the Field Museum of Natural History, Chicago. With the display of this material it was pointed out by L. Bryant Mather Jr., assistant curator of mineralogy, that the name "alcohol" was once properly used only for a species of mineral.

"When the word came to Europe in the Seventeenth century, from the Arabic, 'alcohol' was a mineral name," said Mr. Mather. "However, since this name has been usurped by the familiar liquid, the mineral 'alcohol' is now designated as 'stibnite.'

"This mineral, long known, has been used as a cosmetic since ancient times. Among the Greeks it was known by a name derived from the words meaning 'wide' and 'eye,' since the powdered mineral was used to increase the apparent size of the eye. Among the Arabs it was known as kohl, from kahala, meaning to color or to stain. In the theatrical profession the black powder used for blackening the eyelids is still called kohl, perhaps the only vestige in contemporary language of the original Arabic usage."

SEEKING PASSPORTS FOR CHILDREN

The British Government has now suspended its overseas evacuation scheme, due to convoy ships being in demand for more immediate shipping needs.

Sports Evening Held At Joly's Farm

An enjoyable evening of sports was held last Friday at Joly's Farm. Prizes were awarded for the various events, and the occasion culminated in a social gathering, refreshments and a sing-song around a bonfire.

The races were arranged by Mr. R. Rivest, Mr. H. Baxter and Mr. L. Farncombe. Judges were Mrs. W. Clark and Mr. F. Lidbetter, assisted by Mr. R. Rivest, Mr. Rose and Mr. W. Clark. Mr. Baxter acted as starter for the events.

The refreshments were in the capable hands of Mrs. W. Clark, Miss M. Gordon and Mrs. F. Lidbetter.

The prizes were presented by Mr. and Mrs. P. Cregan, who were then approached by Miss Gordon, and in a few well chosen words were congratulated and presented with a small gift, in commemoration of their second wedding anniversary.

The following were prize winners in the contests :

Flat Race, 75 yards, (ladies single) —Doris Farncombe, E. Chamberlain.

Flat Race, 50 yards, ladies (married)—Mrs. Lidbetter, Mrs. Bertrand.

Flat Race, 75 yards, gentlemen — Mr. D. Hargrave, Mr. H. Baxter.

Three-legged Race — Miss Mary Frier and Mr. D. Hargrave.

Potato Race, ladies — Miss Mabel Keyes, Miss L. Chamberlain.

Men's Two Way Race (return with lady) — Mr. M. Joly and Miss L. Chamberlain.

Children's Race — Francis Baxter, Madeleine Joly, Violet Baxter, Frances Lidbetter, and Patsy Verge.

The most amusing event was a tug-of-war staged between the ladies and the gentlemen. Confusion reigned supreme when the rope broke. After a second attempt, the gentlemen proved themselves the victors. Participants in this event were (ladies) Miss M. Gordon, Miss D. Sears, Mrs. R. Rivest, Miss Fuller, Mrs. W. Clark and Mrs. R. Verge; (gentlemen) J. Rivest, W. Clark, R. Rivest, F. Lidbetter, P. Cregan and R. Verge.

The evening's entertainment closed with the singing of God Save the King.

Correct Posture Helps Homemaker Avoid Fatigue

Not the work but the way it often is done gives a homemaker backaches and makes her tired, maintains Miss Fannie Brooks, extension specialist in health, University of Illinois college of agriculture.

Every time a homemaker stoops over to put a pie into the oven or to collect dirt in the dustpan, she uses 55 per cent more energy than she does lying down. Sitting requires 4 per cent and standing 12 per cent more energy than lying down. The point to remember is to keep the back straight by kneeling down rather than stooping over, Miss Brooks said.

Every time a homemaker can sit to iron, to prepare food or wash dishes, she saves her strength. Since standing straight takes less energy than bending, any equipment which enables the homemaker to maintain an erect posture will forestall fatigue. Thus a long handle on the broom or mop and a high oven instead of a low one are devices to minimize energy output.

More backaches probably occur because the kitchen table, sink and the laundry wash tubs are too low than for any other reason, Miss Brooks said. These faults can easily be remedied by having the table, sink or tubs raised on blocks of wood. Hanging out the clothes also becomes a less burdensome task if the clothes basket is placed on a medium height portable cart or a coaster wagon.

Fatigue not only affects a homemaker's physical well-being but indirectly affects her mental well-being, Miss Brooks pointed out. Thus the family's happiness may be dependent upon such small factors as too short a broom handle or an undersized table.
