EARLY 'BREAK' THIS YEAR SEES FISHING SEASON NOW IN SWING

Roosevelt's Proposed Visit to Canada; Possibility President May Pass This Way

"CANADIAN VIEWPOINT"
By Allan McGee

Advice to Gossips; Anticipating Tourist Season; New War Loan Expected This Summer.

Specially Written for Readers of The Watchman

Today is the usual opening for trout fishing in this province, but if you read the papers you may already have had a good catch. Due to the early opening of the rivers and lakes this year, the Government authorized earlier fishing. Local sportsmen were in action on April 26th and over the week-end. Catches were fairly good but next week will see even more enthusiasts ready to bring in the big ones.

WATCH THAT GOSSIP

Time after time, the newspapers, the movies and the posters remind us that tongues must be watched during wartime. Loose tongues may cost some soldier's life, and it may be your own son or nephew. Movement of troops, new types of equipment, storage places and other secrets must be closely guarded.

You may know something of importance. In that case, watch yourself.

BRITONS WANT CANNED FOOD

If you would like to send a nice gift to some person overseas, try sending canned fruit.

In a few months we will start into our fruit season, and that is the time to can. Select firm, ripe fruit and can it in tins for convenience. Jam is the best way to put it up, for it lasts longer and is not easily damaged by changes of climate. Ship it direct to your friend and see the local postmaster for rates to England.

ROOSEVELT TO VISIT CANADA

When President Roosevelt told of his proposed visit to Canada he did the Ottawa hotels a lot of good. Already they are booking rooms for May 10-15 and holding them for out-of-town visitors.

Mr. Willkie will have to look to his laurels from now on. He was a great success in Toronto and Montreal but the capital will have nothing but the top man. President Roosevelt will make several tours through the city during his stay in Ottawa and possibly will pass through Lachute on his return trip to the United States.

The plans for his route have not been completed yet, but there is talk that he may pay a visit to several Canadian cities at the same time and so make a real trip of it.

PERCHERONS NOW AVAILABLE

The Black Horse percherons are now available for local farmers. The horses, which winter at Vercheres, are now making their annual trip throughout the province to help out the farmers.

Last year they sired almost 15,000 foals and chalked up a record which it will be hard to beat. This year the owners are confident that they will do even better and any farmer that wishes to take advantage of their service may do so upon application.

TOURIST SEASON OPENS SOON

The time is not far off when we will see the familiar license plates from the United States passing along Main Street. This year should be our bumper year for tourists. They know that we are fighting a war and they will come up from the south to see how we are getting along. They want to

If you have friends, relatives or correspondents in the United States, this is the time to write them. see some of our culture, our habits and our occupations. They want to hear stories of our land and our people, and they want to be entertained by our sports. They want to fish in our famous streams. They want to see our hills and our mountains and our scenery. They want to eat some of our national foods and to find out how we prepare our various dishes.

They are coming up here for a good time. Let's give it to them !

All Kinds of Folk Aid Bomb Victims

Kingston Children Gave Up Easter Treat to Help Fund

The appeal made to Canadians in the Queen's name for assistance to the victims of air raids has called forth an intensely varied response.

Headquarters of the Fund in Montreal have received cheques from Government House and the pennies from children of Grade 4, Macdonald School, Kingston, Ont., who went without their Easter treat in order to do something for the children of Britain who are suffering from the vicious air attacks of the Nazis. The $35 sent by a branch of the Chinese Nationalist Party, because "London and Chungking are very close tonight", and the $5,000 gift of a big corporation are acknowledged with equal gratitude.

In the United States, two eminent men have been moved by the appeal of the Queen's Canadian Fund to come to Canada to give their services for special events. Alexander Woolcott, the actor and critic, and also a Russian prince and famous pianist, George Chavchavadse, — both giving concert presentations in aid of the Fund.

One mystery that is intriguing the officers of the Fund is how a contribution of twelve hundred pounds reached London in the Fund's name without their knowing anything about it. They hope that one day the generous contributor will get in touch with them so that he may be properly thanked.

Many touching letters have been received. One child, sending in a contribution that realized $1.68, wrote to say:

"Being an English girl, I have often thought of going back there again for a holiday, and some time before war broke out, with this idea in mind, used to save pennies or half-pennies that came my way, and my friends used to save them for me too . . .

My little fund grew slowly but amounts to seven shillings. I had wondered to what good use this small amount could be put, and after reading the appeal for the Queen's Canadian Fund, decided this was just the thing".

Subscriptions to the Queen's Canadian Fund for Air Raid Victims may be sent to any branch of the Royal Trust Company or to the head office, 105 St. James St. W., Montreal. Cheques payable to Queen's Canadian Fund. Official receipts are valid for income tax deduction.

Flt.-Lt. W. Gall Bails Out to Safe Landing

PLANE CRASHES NEAR AMHERST, N. S.; TWO OCCUPANTS ESCAPE

A news despatch from Moncton, N. B., on Tuesday stated that an airplane from No. 8 Service Flying Training School had crashed near Amherst, N. S., and that the two occupants, who bailed out over Oxford, N. S., had landed safely. One of the two men who landed by parachute was Flt.-Lt. Wilson Gall, son of Postmaster H. M. Gall and Mrs. Gall, Lachute; the other was Flying Officer G. Mitchell, of Montreal.

The two R.C.A.F. officers were forced to abandon their plane when both engines stalled, over a wooded area. The machine crashed into the bushland near Amherst.

A synonym is what you use when you can't spell the other word.

Many Families On the Move

May Day is moving day with a vengeance this year. More families than usual appear to be changing their place of residence. Truck loads of household furniture have been seen in transit on the streets during the past day or two, with the usual confusion at destinations where one family moves in to find the former occupants not yet moved out ! In one case it is reported that a long line of families are kept in suspense through refusal of one householder to move until it suits him. New tenants, signed to occupy his premises, are patiently waiting, while another family is waiting for these particular tenants to vacate — and so on, down the line. The transport companies, meanwhile, have their own problems — and the general sentiment is a certain thankfulness that May Day comes but once a year !

Fassett Man in Truck-Car Crash

Ottawa, April 29 — No one was injured when a Quebec Highways Department truck and an automobile driven by an Ottawa man were demolished in a collision on the Aylmer Road early this morning. The truck was driven by Aime Menard, of Fassett, Que., and was proceeding toward Hull, while D. Laporte, of Ottawa, was reported as the driver of the car. In the collision a telephone pole by the side of the road was snapped off.

HIT BY BOMB

The Houses of Parliament were hit by bombs in a recent raid, it was disclosed in London. The House of Commons suffered the greatest damage. A bomb crashed on the Speaker's house in the inner quadrangle, smashing a large water tank. All the windows in the library of the House of Commons were shattered and some of the interior was damaged.

FEW SURPRISES AS NEW BUDGET ANNOUNCED

"Taxes Not Enough" -- Montrealers Voice Sentiments To City Enquirer, Former Watchman Correspondent

Authors of "There'll Always Be An England" Committed Suicide on Hearing Budget, Avows One

Mr. Average Citizen shoulders an increase of 3c on gasoline and 20 per cent on movie tickets; 10 per cent on travel tickets; an additional 4 per cent on long distance phone calls; a rise in the defence tax on his salary cheque, from 3 to 5 per cent; a hoist in income tax, and many new and increased levies — but the foregoing are those which most directly affect the working Canadian — in the Treasury's 1941 budget made public this week.

Mrs. Citizen, meanwhile, pays an extra one to two cents on sugar, 25 per cent on cosmetic and toilet preparations (instead of 10 per cent), and among the imports touching every citizen of the working class are such increased taxes as on cigarette lighters, playing cards, beer, wines, soft drinks and cigarette tubes (the man who "rolls his own" with papers, escapes the increase).

FUN NOT RATIONED THOUGH PETROL IS

Wartime brings economies and gasoline rationing — but that didn't stop the Smith family of London joining the Easter parade. Mr. and Mrs. S. mounted the tandem, children Brian and Grahame took the sidecar.

Canadians are asked by Finance Minister J. L. Isley to provide $2,400,000,000 to the Federal Treasury in the current fiscal year, $1,400,000,000 of this staggering total in taxes, and the remaining $1,000,000,000 in purchases of Dominion bonds.

Provincial governments are asked to vacate the personal and corporation income tax field for duration of the war — a change which will be generally greeted with approval, while the Federal authority proposes to follow the provincial example of waging a Succession Duty Tax.

Personal income tax rates have been increased to 15 per cent on first $1,000 of taxable income, from the present rates of six and eight per cent.

* * *

On the authority of Leslie C. Powell (former Montreal correspondent for The Watchman and now a Gazette staff reporter), the general reaction on the street is that the new taxes are "not enough". Here are some of Mr. Powell's impresaions at first hand, as reported in The Montreal Gazette:

With hardly a dissenting voice the reply to our enquiries around Montreal was "it's not nearly enough!" Men on the street, in clubs and cigar stores, women in shops and waitresses in restaurants all agreed that Canada's war effort must be extended and the only way to do it is by taxation.

One young lady, clerk in a cigar store, had this to say:

"How fortunate we are, we really haven't felt the war yet. The people on the other side are undergoing untold suffering and privation so how can we complain at a few extra taxes? True, it won't affect me much, except in my Defence Tax payments and cosmetics but I don't use much of the latter and what I use I am glad to pay for."

The most outspoken of the men interviewed insisted on remaining anonymous but he shouted: "Call that a budget? H—, that's not a drop in the bucket! It should be much more. Why I'll bet that when the men who wrote There'll Always Be An England saw that budget they committed suicide!"

"If England can stand 50 per cent. taxes on revenue, why can't we stand a few cents?" was another reply. "Canada's war effort is small compared to other Empire participants. Why worry about developing the St. Lawrence waterway now? Spend on the war effort and give the waterways job to the returned soldiers when they come back victorious."

"Freedom is cheap at any price", was the comment of James Mooney, commissary agent, Greenfield Park. "Not nearly enough", said C. J. Brown, cable company employee of 4475 Grand boulevard, "The Australians can still teach us a lesson in war effort."

The Watchman in Far-Away Places

Two letters received here this week sound a note of appreciation for The Watchman in places far from the home county and its associations.

The first, from Miss Mary L. Lamb of St. Andrews E., who served for many years on the Chinese mission field, states as follows: "I would like to tell you how much I have appreciated The Watchman during the years it was coming to me in West China. It was always like a home letter, and was very welcome."

The second letter, from Sgt. Keith Clark, "Somewhere in England" written to a friend in Lachute, contains the following: "In the mail were three Watchmans. It is good of them to send it to me, as I enjoy seeing what is going on at home. I always read it when I can't be bothered to look at the Montreal papers. One of the lads has the Star sent to him regularly, and it comes in lots of twelve or fifteen — too many to appreciate."

Beech Ridge Pupil In Essay Winners

Lennoxville, Que. — In an essay contest held among children of the Protestant Schools in Quebec, Miss Helen Crook, of Ayers Cliff, was the winner of the first prize. She received a five dollar War Savings Certificate. The subject of the contest, which was run by the Rural Adult Education Service of Lennoxville, Quebec, was "What Good Are Our Schools". Judges were members of the teaching profession.

Winners of the five next prizes of one dollar in war saving stamps were Priscilla Sprigings, North Hatley; Roland Maxwell, Beech Ridge, Lachute; Loral Brown, Cantley, Que.; Joseph Carr, Huntingdon, Que.; Wesley Morrison, Inverness, Quebec.

War Savings Stamps were awarded to six other entrants for good essays.

'A Little Gold Ring for Spitfire'

"He Who Gives Quickly Gives Twice".

What Are YOU Doing to Help?

For three months now The Watchman has been urging the people of Argenteuil to give practical support in sending a Spitfire to Britain. With the able assistance of our collectors, and other friends who have been lending support through service clubs and social gatherings, we have almost reached the $18,000 mark. There is still $9,000 to go — and there is no reason why this amount should not be secured if we will all put our shoulders to the wheel in a united effort.

The people of England have been hard hit. We hear on all hands that "they can take it"; but they need our help. They are holding the enemy at bay and anxiously awaiting our assistance. Those of the British Isles have but one purpose, and that is to rid the world of Hitler and his diabolical rule, regardless of cost, hardship and privation.

This war should come first in our thoughts and actions, but too many of us are thinking more of our personal petty likes and dislikes than of earnest effort and getting down to serious work.

Watchman Receives Gold Wedding Ring

We should like to see evidence, in every reader far and near, of the spirit displayed by one contributor this week. In the mail we received a tiny box containing a 9-carat gold ring; the thin gold band was well worn, and it represented, perhaps, the mite of some true Canadian heart who could ill afford to send us money. The gift was anonymous; on the box was written: "For the Spitfire" . . . Our thanks for this gift, as much for the example it has given, as for its material value.

In a radio address on Sunday night Rt. Hon. Malcolm MacDonald, British High Commissioner to Canada, said: "He who gives quickly gives twice . . . Let the arsenal of Democracy in the United States and Canada pour forth the tools of Victory."

Cash donations received during the week appear on page six.

In our next issue we should like to record the $20,000 mark, and we believe it CAN BE DONE. — Will you help?

Council Will Arrange Local Salvage Drive

"HOUSEHOLDERS' WAR WEAPONS" IN NATIONAL SALVAGE CAMPAIGN

It is advised that Lachute Town Council will take in hand the collection of materials in this community, to collaborate in the National Salvage Campaign, which is being widely advertised.

While plans for the collection are not yet complete, details will be duly announced and citizens are requested — specially during the current Clean-Up Week — to set aside such items as have been advertised of value in the war effort. Materials particularly mentioned as "householders' war weapons" are — paper, metal, rags and bones.

The industrious ant has long been held up as a model for mankind. Well, these "model" ants can kick over the traces, too. Thousands of white ants have staged one of the world's greatest beer-drinking parties at Darwin, Australia. They invaded a cellar, riddled eighty barrels of beer, and left not a drop.

Should We Be the Town's Chief Critic?

A great many people think a newspaper should be the general critic of the community. They will say to the editor, "Why don't you write an editorial saying that this or that should be done?" Councils, appointed officials, local organizations, and even matters pertaining to trading are pointed out to the editor as choice subjects for "good hot editorials."

They don't want their names mentioned, but they would like the editor — and they think it is his duty — to shoulder the responsibility of exposing the apparent wrongs which they see. The fact that the editor must live in the community, too, doesn't occur to them. Probably they presume his shoulders are broad enough, and if he does lose business through it, there is a bag of gold at his hand that he can dip his hand into.

A medium for the airing of grievances is in "Letters to the Editor", and the person wishing to express his views in a critical manner should be as broad-shouldered as he expects the editor to be and let the public know who he is. If the editor wishes to enter into the matter he can then take it up in the editorial column.

People who continually ask editors to take up the criticizing pen ought to be willing to practice the fair-mindedness which they think should prevail in the community, and put their thoughts in a letter to the editor for publication.

And, of course, the letter shouldn't go so far that it would be a case for libel action against the paper and the writer.

Car Owner Takes Action for Damage Claim

SEQUEL TO ACCIDENT ON HIGHWAY NO. 8 LAST SPRING

An automobile damage claim of $478 was the subject of a Superior Court action heard at St. Jerome last Wednesday and Thursday before Mr. Justice Duranleau. William Beauchamp, of Grenville, was the plaintiff, against Donald MacRae, of Lachute, defendant.

The claim arose out of an automobile collision near Donaldson's farm, west of St. Philippe on Highway No. 8, on May 14th, 1940, when Beauchamp's automobile came into collision with a car driven by Roy Cruise, of Lachute. Mr. MacRae was sued as owner of the latter car and employer of Cruise at the time. Cruise, who was on business for MacRae's Garage, was severely injured in the accident, when the car he was driving overturned after the crash. In the Grenville car, Beauchamp had his small child and hired man as passengers; all three escaped injury, but the owner and driver took action against Mr. MacRae for damage to his car. The case for MacRae was fought by his insurance company through their attorneys, Brais & Campbell, of Montreal.

Case for the plaintiff was upheld by the Lachute law firm of Legault & Legault.

Witnesses heard at the court sittings included A. C. McIntyre, Grenville; Clarence Lemay, Calumet; Edward Jones, Lachute; M. Beauchesne, adjuster for the insurance company; and two local traffic officers, A. Leger and H. Jones.

Judgment was reserved.

Four police officers of Witchurch, England, are named Beer, Tight, Merry and Bright. How can they look a "drunk" in the eyes and arrest him !

We are now being rationed with one ounce of cheese a week. Miners and farm workers are to have 8 ounces. We are also allowed only one shilling's worth of meat a week, but sausages and fowls are unrationed, if you can get them.

A plane passed overhead this morning; as I was working in the garden, I looked about, thinking it was one of ours, when the bombs dropped! It did not take me long to get indoors and under the stairs. They were after our gas works and electricity station; they missed them, but demolished some small houses. Then one of our airmen brought the Jerry down into the seas.

Most of our gardens on the sea-front are planted with guns and queer contraptions to welcome Jerry when he comes to pay his long promised visit. But we have quite ceased to fear that eventuality.

Here are the latest quips from our local newspaper:

"Doing the Best Things in the Worst Times" — An English Rose from Crippled Girls

John Groom's Workshop for Cripples, London.

Dear Friend: We are sending you an English rose, in the hope that it will reach you for Empire Day, and if it does, will you please wear it, rejoicing that there is an England !

The rose was made by a cripple, and brings with it the greetings of both cripples and orphans who believe in doing the best things in the worst times. If you would also like to do a good thing in an evil day, will you send us a gift to help those who are endeavoring bravely to help themselves.

Not less than your money, we would appreciate your sympathy and good will — so, whether you send us a gift or not, please accept our rose and our good wishes.

Sincerely — Alfred Groom, Sec.

(A circular enclosed with this letter contains the following: We have had to evacuate our children from the Orphanage at Clacton-on-Sea to Shropshire; we have faced the blitz and still have to work under difficult conditions . . . With the backing of those across the seas, we are confident we shall live to see the dawn of a new day . . . Destiny has matched us with a great hour . . . Will you stand behind us, please).

CARVER'S HOBBY

For "recreation," N. E. Galloway, retired woodcarving instructor, has turned his hand to construct a 70-foot totem pole of concrete and stone reinforced with steel in the backyard at Foyil, Okla. The grotesque figures, to say nothing of the six rooms inside, should keep archaeologists, 2,000 years from now, guessing on the habits of the "pre-historic Indians" who built it.

A thing of beauty has joy-rides for ever.

Boys' Calf Club at Arundel Receive Prizes, Elect Year's Officers

The annual meeting of the members of the Arundel Boys' Calf Club was held in the High School on Saturday, April 26.

Mr. Alex Bothwell, District Agronomist, was present and distributed the prize money for the year 1940. The following were the prize winners —

Earl Gray	$15.50
Kenneth Ronalds	14.50
Erwin Craig	13.75
Harry Bennett	11.50
James Bennett	9.50
Elwood Swail	7.50
Willis Craig	7.25
Elmer Ronalds	6.25
Bradley Morrison	6.00
Garnet Bennett	5.00
Leonard Craig	4.00
Harwood Bennett	3.75
George Hinves	3.00
Reid Marshall	2.75
William Swail	2.75
	$113.00

These prizes were provided by the Federal and Provincial Departments of Agriculture, the Laurention Ayrshire Club and the Arundel Farmers' Club.

The following officers were appointed for the year 1941:

Personal Messages May Be sent to Enemy and Enemy-Occupied Lands

Ottawa — the Honorable W. P. Mulock, K.C., Postmaster General, announces that arrangements have been made by the Canadian Post Office Department for a system of Personal Postal Messages to facilitate the sending of brief messages between persons in Canada and relatives and friends in enemy and enemy-occupied countries, including Germany, Austria, Italy, Czechoslovakia, German occupied Poland, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg, Norway, Denmark, occupied France and the Channel Islands.

Such messages are to be written on an official form and are to be confined to simple messages not exceeding 20 words which are purely personal in character relating to family news or enquiry as to the well-being of the addressee or his relatives and friends. Messages should be written in block letters and, if possible, should be in English, French or German.

The messages will be transmitted through the intermediary of the International Red Cross Committee at Geneva, Switzerland, on the special official forms which may be obtained through any Postmaster.

The fee for a Personal Postal Message is 25c, which pays postage to final destination as well as postage from Geneva to Canada on the addressee's reply.

This scheme goes into effect on May 1st.

Railway Tickets Have Historic Background

Montreal — Tickets have a historic background, according to Mr. W. E. Norton, Chief of C.N.R. Tariff and Ticket Bureau. In the time of ancient civilizations travellers by caravan or waterways were furnished with tokens usually of clay or papyrus. Although tickets used by railways have changed with the years, Mr. Norton insists that the fundamental principle remains the same. "The ticket," said he, "is still a token or symbol of good faith on the part of the company to perform the service for which fare has been paid."

Confessing that in 1901 he travelled without a ticket, a passenger has sent his fare to the secretary of the Indian Railway Board. The amount was two annas — about four cents.

SOIL TESTS SHOW WAY TO BETTER HAY CROPS

By G. R. Snyder

With the rapid breaking up of winter, preparations for spring work are receiving fresh impetus. Progressive farmers know from experience that success at harvest time depends to a very great extent on the thoroughness of pre-seeding planning and, in view of the scarcity of help, are taking more than the usual precautions this year.

The need for greater milk production suggests that special attention should be given the new seeding. Success or failure with clover and other hay crops is a serious factor on any farm at any time. A good stand carries the hope of a plentiful supply of low cost, high protein, palatable feed for the dairy herd and enriches the soil with organic matter and nitrogen. Failure results in increased feed costs, a complete upsetting of the crop rotation system and decreased yields of other field crops.

Indicative of the general situation with regard to clover and new seedings is the data supplied by Eastern Ontario farmers in connection with soil samples taken last fall from 132 fields to be seeded down to clover and alfalfa this spring. According to information supplied, clover does poorly on 40 per cent of the fields, and only on a further 20 per cent. Clover used fair on a further 20 per cent. Clover used even in the best districts it is not doing so well.

Failure to obtain good crops of clover is often due to a lack of lime, but in the case of these soils the lime supply was excellent. Notable, however, were the findings that 7 per cent of the samples were low in either phosphate or potash, and that 71 per cent were low in both mineral substances.

Equally enlightening in this respect are the farmers' replies submitted in a recent survey of the benefits derived from soil tests, all parts of Canada included. Forty-five per cent of the replies contained a notation of the very greatly increased success with new seeding and improved yields of clover obtained from following the suggestion that fertilizers high in minerals be applied when seeding down, and that lime be applied on strongly acid soils. For spring application on established meadows, the type of fertilizer should be varied somewhat in accordance with the amounts of clover present. Where clover is in considerable quantities, 2-16-6 or 2-12-6 is suggested, but where the herbage consists mostly of timothy, fertilizers higher in nitrogen — 4-12-6 or 5-10-5 are preferable.

In peace-time failure to secure good stands of clover is just one of those gambles that is frequently accepted without making a special effort to remedy. In war-time, however, it becomes a patriotic duty to eliminate failure in production of such fundamental importance.

THE TOMATO BLIGHT THAT HIT GUERNSEY

By B. Leslie Emslie

The Channel Islands, Britain's oldest overseas possessions, are temporarily in subjection to the predoratory invader. Their once lucrative export trade in flowers, fruit and vegetables and of Jersey and Guernsey cattle has ceased. But the survival of these two famous dairy breeds is assured, and some of the best blood from both is represented in pure-bred Canadian herds. The climate and fertile soil seem to have imparted to the native cattle their capacity for producing milk of unusual richness, just as the fruit and vegetables are unsurpassed in quality. A visitor to an island on the south shore of Nova Scotia was surprised at the richness of the cream served in the hotel and learned that all the cattle on that island are Jerseys, having been acquired — providentially perhaps — from a shipwreck.

Following the collapse of France, preparations for evacuation of the bewildered people of the Channel Islands began. Under conditions resembling those at Dunkirk half the human population of Guernsey was removed in refugee ships from St. Peter Port, while British destroyers kept guard offshore and Spitfires patrolled the skies overhead. Nazi troops were already on the island.

The expert of flowers had been stopped and 4000 tons of blooms were rooting. On Friday, June 28, the day the last of the refugee ships sailed, two cargo boats in St. Peter Port awaited the loading of tomatoes from a line of wagons, which extended for over a mile. At 7 p.m. a squadron of Nazi planes dropped bombs and machine-gunned the harbour for an hour. The death toll was heavy, and the merciless attack left the wharves strewn with burning wagons and a mile of blistering tomatoes.

In Canada now canning companies are making contracts with tomato growers for the acreage required in 1941. They consider many factors, such as suitability of soil, its proper tillage and fertilizing, fungicidal treatment of the seed and protection of the crop from blight. But in none of their deliberations have they found it necessary to take into consideration the blight from the skies that descended on the tomato growers of Guernsey.

The Spring Clean-Up —Save Valuable Materials

Clean-Up Week commences today for the citizens of this town, as proclaimed by the Mayor and Council. During the week from May 1st to 7th, householders are requested to give an eye to their immediate surroundings, to clean up their premises and remove the remnants of rubbish accumulated during the winter months.

Spring is in the air. New vegetation, perennial flowers, green grass and budding trees make home-sites more pleasing to the eye and brighten the appearance of our streets and highways. No greater incentive than these should be required to stir the enthusiasm of human beings. It is a soulless creature who is left unmoved by such beauties and feels no urge to contribute his share to the joys of living.

But Clean-Up Week should extend similarly to the sheds and out-houses which, at this time of the year, hold a variety of trash. Besides occupying valuable space, this often constitutes a fire menace . . . In sorting over these accumulations, it is well to remember, however, that times have changed — that materials formerly of no value may now be of use in the gigantic effort of war; metals, bones, paper and rags are on the salvage list, as stuff to be converted to good use. Apart from the Boy Scouts' appeal for scrap metal, no other arrangements have been so far completed for the collection of this material. But the National Salvage Campaign is on, and Lachute Council has signified its intention to take a hand in the saving. Citizens, therefore, should sort their "junk" in this clean-up crusade, and lay aside such articles as the Department of War Services has advertised for salvage.

Consumer Has Say in the Price of Milk

We hesitate to mention it — but, how many milk bottles did you find in the pantry, the workshop, the woodshed, during this year's spring-cleaning? It's our guess there is nothing quite so useful in the household as a milk bottle. It is handy to contain all sorts of fluid commodities, from maple syrup, molasses and vinegar, to paint-oil, turpentine and water for the plants . . . And it is also useful to the milkman !

In fact, it is so essential in the milkman's stock-in-trade that every bottle kept from circulation, every bottle he discards because it reeks of oil, must be replaced at a cost of roughly 7 cents. This does not sound much in terms of the one or two bottles you may be using for illicit purposes, but after all, they belong to the milkman, and when the sum total of such milk bottles is reckoned in a whole community, it represents a considerable cost to the dairies.

The average life of a milk bottle is little more than seven trips to your door. Allowing for breakages, it seems a bottle should remain in circulation much longer than that. We are told that one of Lachute's leading dairies — purchasing these bottles in 10-gross lots at 8 cents the quart and 6½ cents the pint size — puts into circulation three gross of new ones every week to replace those lost or spoiled; 432 bottles, costing over $30 !

And who pays? It is obviously the consumer. To the extent that householders will eliminate such waste — to just such extent can the dairyman lower this big factor in the cost of production. It is worth while thinking about, year in and year out; but at spring-cleaning time there is many a practical illustration to prove this unnecessary expense.

The Press and the Advertiser

The relationship between the newspaper and its advertisers is as important to the newspaper reader as it is to the publisher. Newspapers are sometimes unfairly accused of being subservient to the advertisers who provide the revenue upon which the newspaper exists. This erroneous impression has been gathered because the average person knows that the newspaper must have advertising to exist, and therefore if he happens to be of a suspicious turn of mind, he concludes that the advertiser must set the policy of the newspaper.

Not only is such a suggestion untrue, but it is unfair both to the newspaper and to the advertiser. Practically every publisher will tell you that few merchants ever attempt to dictate the policy of the newspaper. They may express opposition to some stand the newspaper has taken, but few would go so far as to threaten the newspaper with withdrawal of business, if that policy was not changed to conform with the wishes of the advertiser. The successful merchant is usually successful because he is an honorable man, and few would stoop to the level of threatening a newspaper because its publisher had different ideas on a given question than the advertiser.

The relationship between the advertiser and the newspaper is similar to that which exist between a merchant and his customer, only in this case the publisher is the merchant and the advertiser the customer. The advertiser purchases space in the newspaper because he has a story to tell the readers of the paper. He uses advertising as a legitimate means of drawing custom to his store. If the newspaper continues to provide the service required and adequate returns for the investment, the merchant continues to advertise. When he feels he is not getting that value he ceases to advertise. That too is the relationship which exists between any other merchant and his customer. So long as the customer feels he is getting good value and service from the store, he continues to be a customer. When value and service cease he takes his trade elsewhere.

That, very simply, is the relationship between the publisher and the advertiser. Any suggestion that the policy of the newspaper is dictated by the advertiser is a slander on both newspaper and merchant. Best proof that the advertisers do not dictate policy is the fact that it would be almost impossible to find a group of merchants in any community whose ideas could be so identical that they could formulate the policy of any newspaper.

Canada's Pay Day

This was "Pay Day" week for the Dominion of Canada. On April 30th over $100,000,000 of Dominion income taxes on 1940 earnings became due and some 500,000 Canadians, including approximately 110,000 who took advantage of the Government's instalment plan payments, filed their income tax statements and "kicked in." Taxes of any sort have never been popular and will never be accepted without a certain amount of grumbling and muttering on the part of that average man the cartoonists label "John Taxpayer." But this year Canadians are accepting their tax burdens with little complaint. John Taxpayer, it appears, feels he is rather fortunate to be living in Canada, out of range for the present time at least, of Hitler's death dealing serpents of the skies. John Taxpayer seems to feel that the Government is fully entitled to a generous cut of his earnings providing that contribution is mostly ticketed towards aiding Great Britain smash the unholy Hitler-Mussolini alliance. Any taxes for that purpose won't prove unpopular in Canada.

A Great Compliment

Worth of service clubs and their valuable work in battering conditions in their respective communities in Canada has long been recognized and now, since war has cast its shadow over the world, much has been made of the contributions these international organizations can make in the days of peace to come. Links in a great chain extending over the surface of Mother Earth, these service clubs can and will do a great deal in bringing order out of chaos in the post-war period and their efforts in the past and the present as well as their capabilities for the future have earned many high tributes in the press and from speakers during the past few years. But, as an Ottawa newspaper editor stated in a recent address, the highest tribute of all to service organizations was paid by Adolf Hitler when he banned them from Germany. There is no place in the present Nazi machine for any group founded on the ideals of service, friendship and understanding.

And A Little Child . . .

Successful prosecution of the war demands the cooperation of every man, woman and child in the Dominion and certainly the children have been playing their part. Figures recently released show that school children in Ontario alone have invested $959,131 in war savings certificates since January and this average will probably be matched in other Provinces of the Dominion. In every Canadian school pupils have been free and generous in their contributions to the War Savings Campaign and to various other war drives and in a great many cases the youngsters have sacrified ice cream cones and candy treats to pour their pennies, nickels and dimes into the Empire war chest. If every Canadian adult possessed this same willingness to sacrifice in a good cause total subscriptions to the various war appeals would have climbed to far higher levels.

Talk Is Cheap . . ?

Add "Talk is Cheap" to the list of debunked maxims. The annual statement of the American Telephone Company reveals a total of $187,598,000 paid to the United States government in Federal taxes during 1940. The statement also shows the number of telephones as 17,484,000 and thus the average American telephone subscribers is paying an annual tax of $11.00.

THE LIFE OF WINSTON CHURCHILL

THE MAN WHO 'LL BEAT HITLER

(Part 7)

The overpowering effect of tanks in the present war is well-known, but when the First Great War started, there were few who did not scoff at the notion of land battleships.

Much of the credit for their introduction must go to Winston Churchill for he braved grave criticism by dabbling with them. When the idea of "landships" was broached to him in November 1914, he formed a Landships Committee of the Admiralty to enquire into their possibilities.

The War Office had refused even to consider experimenting with tanks, and pigeonholed plans and designs for a tank with the terse verdict scribbled on the envelope: "The man's mad !"

Took a Chance

Without consulting either the War Office or the Treasury, Winston Churchill undertook the responsibility of ordering experimental tanks. Writing later of this decision, he says. "Had the tanks proved wholly abortive, or never been accepted, or never used in any way by the military authorities . . . I could have offered no effective defence to the charge that I had wasted public money on a matter which was not in any way my business and in regard to which I had not received expert advice in any responsible military quarter."

When Mr. Churchill left the Cabinet, following the Gallipoli disaster, he pursuaded Mr. Balfour, his successor at the Admiralty, to carry on with the experiments, and as a result, tanks were introduced on the battlefields of France late in 1916, with demoralising effect on the enemy.

Foretold Submarine Menace

As a major in the Scots Guards, Winston Churchill spent some time in France, and although constantly in the thick of the front line fighting, the Churchill luck stayed with him and he came out unscathed.

Once, in the spring of 1916, returning to London he joined in the debate on the Naval Estimates in Parliament. Greeted again as a hero, he uttered some prophetic words on the submarine menace, warning the House that the Germans would certainly embark on unrestricted submarine warfare.

They did — nearly a year later, and by that time Winston Churchill was again in London, this time to stay. But it was not until July 1917, after twenty months in exile, that Mr. Churchill entered Mr. Lloyd George's "Win the War" Cabinet as Minister of Munitions.

Urged Mechanical Development

Now that he was responsible for Supplies, Mr. Churchill did not forget his old interest in tanks, and despite considerable opposition from still-sceptical military people, one of his first tasks was to order many thousands of these land monsters. At the same time, in a memorandum, he urged the War Cabinet to "organize mechanical development upon the principle: someone must stop the tiger." He reorganized the Ministry from top to bottom, threw out the "limpets" and substituted business men.

The entry of the United States into the war posed new problems for the Minister of Munitions, for the U. S. could not equip their vast armies of men with the arms and guns they needed. Britain would have to help equip these hordes of men from the New World, in addition to supplying her own huge army, now numbering millions.

Thereupon Mr. Churchill made a contract with the United States to supply the entire American army with medium artillery. The original contract amounted to $500,000,000 and Mr. Churchill expressly declared that there should be no profit on this contract — a significant gesture in view of present Anglo-American cooperation.

"Work — or Fight"

In spring of 1918, Winston Churchill came face to face with another crisis. Three and a half years of intense war had taken their toll; the nerves of Britain's munition workers were on edge. They went on strike !

Munition workers had been exempted from active service, but Winston Churchill told them tersely: "Back to work, or go to the Front." They went back to work. But they didn't forget the man who'd beaten them, and although Victory erased their grudge for a time, the Socialists were to have their revenge at one of the bitterest elections that Mr. Churchill ever fought.

Personality Parade

BY LAWRENCE HIBBERT

Left an orphan at eight years of age, and working as a farmer's assistant at eleven, for a wage of sixpence (12 cents) a week, Ernest Bevin, Britain's dynamic Minister of Labour, has had an extraordinary career.

When he worked on the farm, young Bevin used to read the paper every night to his employer who had poor eyesight. This started his interest in public affairs. In his early life he was successively page boy, tram conductor and vanman. His spare time he spent at an Adult School.

Believes in Direct Action !

When he first stood for election to the town council, he was still driving a ginger-beer cart. One day he was driving his cart when he heard his election opponent shouting to a crowd: "Bevin's no good."

Without a word, Bevin left his cart, went right up to his rival, a hefty longshoreman, and threw him into the river.

This believer in direct action, a prominent leader in the British Labour Party, is popularly regarded as a coming Prime Minister. He will be a good one, too.

POPULAR COMEDIAN

George Formby, England's foremost comedian, is becoming almost equally popular both in Canada and the United States, as a result of his recent comedy films.

He is one of Britain's biggest taxpayers, and only the other week sent in his cheque for income tax amounting to more than $200,000.

Incidentally, he is waiting a call into the Army, for 60 cents a day pay!

WHAT'S IN A NAME ?

Few countries can have had rulers with more fitting Christian names than those of Nazi Germany. Here are the meanings of the names of her "big noises" — Adolf Hitler, Rudolf Hess, Hermann Goering, Dr. Joseph Goebbels, Heinrich Himmler and General Wilhelm Keitel.

Adolf — "noble wolf." — As if a wolf can be "noble" any more than a rat can! More like the Big bad Wolf.

Rudolf—"famous wolf" — famous, but still a wolf. As Hitler's No. 1 deputy, Rudolf Hess is a bird of a feather . . !

Hermann — "public army man" — well, Goering is very public — there's such a lot of him! But he's slipped up on his name a trifle, as he's head Air Force man.

Joseph — means "may he add." As chief propagandist and Ananias, he has proved to be a very good "adder." It is strange, though, that Germany's bitterest anti-Semite should bear a Jewish name, for Joseph is Jewish.

Heinrich—"home ruler" — Oddly fitting for Himmler who, as chief of Secret Police, the Gestapo, is ruthless ruler of every German home and hearth.

Wilhelm — "helmet of resolution" — As Germany's shrewdest army commander, Wilhelm Keitel's name seems to fit him very well, too.

"Offisher," said the inebriated one, "I'm lookin' for a parkin' plashe."

"But you've got no car."

"Oh, yesh, I have. It's in the parkin' plashe I'm looking for."

"No, not an auto accident. It was KNEE TROUBLE. His wife found his secretary sitting on it!"

Idle Money

According to banking officials, unclaimed balances in Canadian Banks amount to $3,500,000.

Money just lying idle. What would be wrong with the Government issuing War Savings Certificates for it? $3,500,000 is a tidy sum, and, under present circumstances, it should be put into circulation. —Exchange.

We wonder what would happen if all the violence used in the many United States strikes were taken over to Europe and lined up with the British.

—Grimsby Independent, Ont.

Young Must Share Responsibility

If the younger generation took church attendance as they do the attendance at theatre parties, card parties, dances and other social functions, there would not be so many empty pews in local churches on the Sabbath Day. Surely it is not too much to expect that young men and women, and especially the younger married couples, should attend at least one church service each Sunday? The responsibility for maintaining the church, the greatest of all institutions, must be shared by the younger generations as well as the older citizens.

ABYSSINIA . . . FASCIST RULE IS DOOMED

Battalions of Ethiopian troops trained by British officers have penetrated deep into Abyssinia, cutting Italian communications and taking key positions . . . Abyssinian troops, their camels loaded with stores and ammunition, are seen on their trek through 200 miles of jungle to their forward position.

GRENVILLE

Mrs. J. E. Arnold has returned from Ottawa, after spending the winter in Montreal and latterly visiting in the capital.

Mrs. Cecil Bates, of Timmins, is helping to care for her mother, Mrs. James Stewart, at the home of Mrs. C. Page in this village. Mrs. Bates (Geraldine) has been living several years in Timmins. Her husband motored here recently for a visit.

Mrs. Jack Stewart was in Montreal Friday and Saturday of last week.

Miss Helen McCullough, of Montreal, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. McCullough, Grenville Bay.

Mr. and Mrs. Lund will be greatly missed from the community; they are moving this week to Ottawa — where Mr. Lund has already been located for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson and children, of Montreal, recently visited Mrs. Johnson's mother, Mrs. James Stewart, who is very ill.

Mrs. Isaac Arnold has spent a two weeks' visit with friends in Lachute.

Mr. and Mrs. W. MacKan returned from Toronto and St. Catharines last Saturday.

Sunday School is held in the Grenville Baptist church at 10.30 (D.S.T.). It is hoped the sessions will be well attended, also the adult class led by the Rev. J. R. Simpson. Service at 11 o'clock (D. S. T.).

CARILLON

Mr. Hanam Barclay, having returned from passing the winter in Pasadena, spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Murray at "The Hill."

Miss Ruth Bradley visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bradley, over the week-end.

Mrs. Robt. Bartlett, of Montreal, who is spending the summer in Toronto, paid a short visit at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Felix Hungerbuhler.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Murray spent a few days in Ottawa — their son coming by plane from Toronto to spend a few hours with them.

CAMBRIA

Miss Audrey Watson, of Cushing West, accompanied by a friend, visited at Mr. J. W. Maxwell's on Sunday.

Mr. Wallace Pollock, with two friends, from Montreal, visited in Mille Isles last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Russell and friend, of Westmount, motored here to Rosedale Cottage on Friday afternoon. Mr. Ernest Russell, who as a little boy spent his school vacations at this place, is now overseas.

Mr. G. A. Ryan entered hospital last Thursday for an operation.

Arundel Red Cross

Leading - Aircraftsman Edward ThackRay, of the R.C.A.F., Montreal, was a Sunday visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter MacQuaig.

Miss J. Kerr, R. N., of Montreal, spent the week-end with her sister, Mrs. David McOuat.

Mrs. Lemuel Wilson and Mrs. N. E. Smillie attended the W. I. board meeting in Lachute on Saturday last; it is hoped that a number of W. I. members from this branch will find it possible to attend the County Convention, which will be held in the Lachute United Church on Tuesday, May 6th.

OBITUARY

FUNERAL OF THE LATE EMMELINE CARRUTHERS

Dunany—Emmeline Carruthers, daughter of Henry Carruthers and the late Elizabeth Murray, of Dunany, passed away on Sunday morning, April 27th, after a long and painful illness. She is survived by her father, her brother, William, and sister, Lena (Mrs. Wm. Tompkins).

The funeral service at St. Paul's Church, Dunany, on Monday afternoon was conducted by the Rev. C. W. P. Baugh. Interment was made in St. Paul's Cemetery.

LATE JAMES SWAIL, AGED FARMER OF SHREWSBURY

Shrewsbury — The death of Mr. James Swail occurred on April 25th at the old homestead in The Glen, Shrewsbury. He was born in this community in the year 1849, a son of the late Valentine Swail and Nancy Lister. He was married twice, three children being born of the first marriage, who are now deceased, and one child of the second marriage — Milda, now Mrs. Norman Boyd. There remain also four grandchildren—Lorne, Hazel, Lila and Frank Boyd.

Mr. Swail was respected for his integrity as a farmer, a good neighbor and an honorable citizen.

The funeral, at St. John's Church, Shrewsbury, was conducted by the Rev. C. W. P. Baugh, who spoke from the Gospel. The service was largely attended from all parts of the county. The deceased was a member of Shrewsbury L. O. L.; a service of the Orange Order was held at the graveside, conducted by Messrs. Sidney Berry, W.M., Clarence Neill and D. McTavish.

Opinion on By-Law For Milk Pasteurization

(CORRESPONDENCE TO THE WATCHMAN)

Lachute, Que.

Dear Mr. Editor:

It would appear that very soon I am about to be compelled, through a town by-law, to stop drinking raw milk. It is at least satisfying to know that such a by-law cannot compel me to drink pasteurized milk, which I do not like. I can at least do without !

It must seem strange to others, as it does to me, that all of the milk being distributed in Lachute should suddenly turn out to be dangerous for human consumption. For my part I do not believe this to be a fact, and am quite satisfied with the raw milk my family has been drinking. I do not desire it to be pasteurized.

Surely we, the public, can be protected from an impure milk supply by our Town Council compelling the pasteurization of all milk other than PURE raw milk, the standard of which can be defined by the town authorities. Such raw milk should come only from healthy, tested cows, bottled under sanitary conditions at the point of production.

It seems to me that such a move would afford full protection to the public, and would give them the privilege of purchasing milk at prevailing prices rather than at the increased price which the expense of pasteurizing would more than likely bring about.

—"A Consumer".

Guest: Listen waiter, my bill for my party comes to $13, not $14. What's the difference for?

Airplane Engine Drives Big Tank

Canadian Officials See Trial of 28-Ton Unit

Schenectady, N.Y., April 21 — (AP) — A tank, its gun and light cannon blazing, sped from the American Locomotive Co. last Saturday at ceremonies signalizing acceptance by the U. S. army of its first M-3 medium combat tank.

The 28-ton tank, driven by a 400-horsepower airplane engine at a maximum speed of 25 miles an hour, is the plant's first of 685. Robert P. Patterson, under-secretary of war, attended the ceremonies. The Canadian government also was represented.

Heart-Throbs from Village Homes Of London's Evacuee Children

LETTER OF THANKS TO RED CROSS WORKER IN THIS COMMUNITY

The following letter, received by Miss Edith Fraser, of Lachute, is an eloquent token of the gratitude felt by supervisors of evacuee children in England, toward the efforts of Canadian workers for the Red Cross . . . This letter should prove an inspiration to every Red Cross worker who reads it and grasps its full depth of sincerity . . .

Heswall, Cheshire, Eng.
April 1, 1941

Dear Friend,

Mrs. Merredith, of Canadian Red Cross, came to visit my War Nursery at Spring Hill, Moreton-in-Marsh, Glos. She brought with her a dozen coats, hats and gloves, for our toddlers. Whilst having the exciting time of "trying on", your card fell out of one garment. I trust you receive this letter, as I wasn't too sure of correct address. But I do very much want you and everyone whom you know, to feel how very much our bairns, and we workers, appreciate having the very beautiful clothing you are sending to us. The children are so warm and smart, and get so thrilled at having pretty clothes.

One little girl of 3 years and a half said: "I do like living in the country, we never got nice clothes down our way"—"Our way" being in London. To us workers, it's a tremendous joy to be able to give these little ones this opportunity of appreciating cleanliness, orderliness, obedience and an idea of how to live a normal, happy child life. I tried, with my family of eleven under 5 years of age, first not to forget "Mummie and Daddy" and other relatives, so we talked each day of them and "God blessed them each night"; for what we want is, these little ones to take with them an appreciation of all that is good and beautiful.

We had a little cottage with a big kitchen and 5 rooms upstairs. The children had a nice nursery with lots of morning sun, one big room with 8 cots in and a smaller room with 3 cots. Two Helpers of 14 years and a half and 16 years of age, who are orphans from the Church of England Waifs and Strays Society, had one room and there was my room, which, if there was a sick child, held a cot for them.

Surrounding the cottage was a most beautiful park and wood, which was quite free for them to have great fun on. Lots of horses, cows, sheeps and of course just now, baby lambs.

Our host and hostess, Capt. and Mrs. Hannay, who gave us the cottage, were most interested in the toddlers and so very kind. In turns, the children were invited to tea in her own nursery and "Nannie" remarked how beautifully they behaved.

The children were all from the East End Slums mostly bombed out, but it was so good to witness the splendid mental and physical progress they made. All the supposed little vices, just dropped away, and they are the dearest little group.

Sad to say, owing to very sad circumstances of my own home being bombed and a dear one so injured that she will need much care for some time, I had to leave my "family" a few days ago, but the Matron, I think, will love them as I have. My baby was "Eileen", bombed out twice, she was 13 months when brought to me, pale, nervous and such a tiny mite; now she is 1 year and 8 months old, so sweet, every one just loves her; then they range from 2 to 5 years. At 5 years we try and get them homes in the village, so as to keep an eye on them, for they must go to school. Before leaving I had arranged for the two eldest, 5 in April, to go to the village with a very nice woman. So it was nice to be able to give these two, Rita and Michael, a new coat, etc., for best, as they will be going to Day and Sunday School.

The children's day started at 7 a.m.; dressed, etc., by 7.45, when they had breakfast of cereals or porridge, with a cup of milk and toast or fried bread. After breakfast great teeth-brushing went on, and what was so amusing, they wouldn't let you forget about clean teeth ! At 9.45 the girls took them out into the park, and returned at 11.45. Dinner at 12 p.m.; mince or fish or eggs, with potatoes, greens, and milk pudding or fruit jelly or custard. Rest from 12.30 to 1.30 and out again from 2 p.m. to 3.30. Tea at 4 p.m., milk, honey (from Canadian Red Cross), molasses (from American Red Cross), jam sandwiches with a biscuit or cake three times a week. Play till 5.30, when the great game of "bed" started. Each child would run to its cot for its slippers, nightie and dressing gown. They folded up their day clothes so neatly and were in bed by 6 o'clock, and not a sound till next morning. They were so good.

So that was a day at a W. V. S. War Nursery. The nurseries are administered by the Church of England Waifs and Strays Society, who have been tremendously kind in looking after these children.

Everyone in Canada and the Empire has been so tremendously kind to our bairns, that it has enabled workers to do much more; and as for the children themselves, well, it's a joy to watch eager eyes wondering which dress, coat, etc., they are going to wear.

Their parents, too, were so appreciative of all done, and to see their children clothed, loved and cared for so well.

So, here's the kindest of thoughts to Canadian Red Cross workers, and thank you very much.

Yours very sincerely,
(Miss) Victoria Key.

WAR LOAN READY FOR SUMMER ISSUE

Preparations have been completed for the next war loan.

Head of the new issue will be G. W. Spinney, joint general manager of the Bank of Montreal. He is a man well suited for this type of work. He has been handling money most of his life and is used to amounts running to six figures and over. He will not hesitate to use all his talents in getting the new loan put over in a big way. He knows a lot of tricks of the trade.

One thing about this loan that he won't have to worry about is the fact that the people won't have to be convinced that it is necessary.

We need more money to carry on the war. We need it badly and we need it fast. We can scrape along with the war savings scheme and the higher taxes, but they are only the skim milk of the taxation problem.

We need millions, and I do mean millions. We need money for munitions, for equipment and for supplies. We need money for salaries and for new buildings. We need money for a great many boats and a great many bullets.

We need money, and we need it fast. When they announce the new loan this summer don't be one of those who dilly and dally and wait for the other fellow. We want the loan to go over and go over quickly. You don't get any more interest by holding back and waiting, so start to plan now for the summer.

You save your money so that others can save your freedom.

Marriage

Pibus - Patterson

The marriage of Miss Phyllis Alice Muriel Patterson, R. N., daughter of Mr. H. A. Patterson, formerly of Montreal, and of the late Mrs. Patterson, and Sergeant Observer Henry Hodsmith Pibus, R.C.A.F., son of the late Luther Pibus, of Knowlton, Que., and of Mrs. Pibus, of Magog, took place Monday afternoon at half-past four o'clock in the Church of St. James the Apostle, Montreal. The Rev. W. C. LeCras, of Lachute, officiated, and Mr. J. E. F. Martin played the organ.

Miss Hazel LeCras attended the bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. C. W. Patterson. Mr. H. Wright was best man.

The bride wore a street length frock of Queen Elizabeth blue crepe with hat to match and carried pink rose buds. The maid of honor was gowned in a dusty pink crepe dress with navy accessories and carried shaded sweet peas.

Mrs. Robert McFaul, of Lachute, the bride's guardian, wore navy blue crepe, with matching hat and white accesories, her corsage bouquet being of pink carnations. Mrs. Pibus, mother of the bridegroom, wore a navy print dress with navy hat and a corsage bouquet of dark red roses.

The couple left immediately after the ceremony for a short wedding trip — the bride wearing a light rose colored wool suit with black accessories and carrying an Air Force blue coat.

Mr. Pibus was formerly on the staff of Lachute High School; the bride, also, is a former resident of this town.

The Y. P. U. meeting on Tuesday took the form of a "Press Night"; this program proved most interesting. International news was as up-to-date in its presentation as the fashion page, while the want ads brought various church organizations to the fore. Dorothy Dix was also given a prominent place with her questions and answers.

Mrs. S. Lupien, vice-president, was in charge of the meeting.

Service in the church next Sunday evening will be under auspices of the Young People's Union, this being a regular monthly Sunday event.

Mr. H. Porter will preach at the morning service.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

"Everlasting Punishment" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist throughout the world on Sunday May 4th.

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "You are conquered by the moral penalties you incur and the ills they bring. The pains of sinful sense are less harmful than its pleasures. Belief in material suffering causes mortals to retreat from their error, to flee from body to Spirit, and to appeal to divine sources outside of themselves." (Page 405).

HAVE you PLEDGED ALL YOU CAN TO BUY
WAR SAVINGS CERTIFICATES regularly?

YOU KNOW that Canada's War Effort requires a steady flow of money—week by week, month by month—loaned from the savings of her people.

If YOU HAVEN'T pledged yourself
—ACT NOW! Canada needs ALL you can save and lend. There are three ways to pledge:
1. Ask your employer to deduct a specified sum from your salary or wages each pay day.
2. Authorize your bank to deduct it each month from your savings account.
3. Sign an "Honour Pledge" to buy Stamps or Certificates for a specified amount at regular intervals.

If YOU HAVE pledged yourself
—keep up your pledge. See your investment grow as the months go by. INCREASE the amount you have promised to save and invest. And remember that, in addition to your regular pledged amount, you can at any time buy extra War Savings Certificates from your local Bank—Post Office—or you can send your money direct to the War Savings Committee in Ottawa.

HEALTH ARTICLE

By Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, Pres., Chicago Board of Health

SELF-TREATMENT IS ADVISED AGAINST WHEN CONSTIPATION PERSISTS

Constitpation, a warning sign that something is wrong, may be easy to correct when the cause can be remedied simply. However, in many instances, the cause may be a serious problem. The important thing to remember is not to self-treat constipation if it persists. See a doctor and let him give you advice after he has made a thorough study of your condition.

Dr. Manuel G. Spiesman, of Chicago, says that constipation may occur because of disregard for the formation of the proper and regular habit. It may be the result of too little exercise, of not drinking enough water, of failing to include enough bulky foods, such as vegetables, fruits and cereals in the diet, of not taking enough of the various vitamins and minerals. It may be the result of some nervous distrubance or a lack of certain glandular secretions, such as the secretion from the typhoid gland. Certain mental and nervous causes may also be responsible.

In addition the constipation may be due to some actual disease affecting the bowel. There may be a kink or bending in the bowel which blocks the passage of material through it. There may be weakness of the muscles; there may be small out-pouchings from the wall of the bowel, known as diverticuli. There may be a tumor of the rectum or large intestine. The constipation may be due to a dilatation or stretching of the bowel, as occurs in the disorder known as Hirschsprung's disease. In some instances, constipation may be due to fissures or cracking of the lining membrane of the lower part of the rectum.

Thus, it may be seen that before any satisfactory treatment for constitpation can be carried out it is necessary for the individual to have a complete examination made, including X-rays of the bowel, to determine the source of his difficulty. A basal metabolism test should be carried out, which measures the rate at which the various activities go on in the body, since a lowered metabolism is a sign of too little thyroid secretion.

To prevent constipation, according to Dr. Spiesman, individuals should eat their meals at regular times; make sure the diet is well balanced; make four routine visits to the toilet daily; drink sufficient water, particularly on arising in the morning, and have exercises for the abdominal muscle as well as exercises to improve or correct bad posture. He advises that those with constipation should go to the toilet at the same hour each day, either before or after breakfast.

If no result is obtained, he advises the use of a glycerine suppository. If no result is obtained with the suppository, he advises the use of an enema, made up of glycerine and water. He thinks the use of enemas is better than the employment of a laxative.

About eight glassfuls of water should be drunk each day. Drinking salt water (a teaspoonful of salt to a glassful of water) or lemon juice and water on arising will often overcome the difficulty.

Patients who suffer from ulcer or spastic colitis, or gallbladder disease often become constipated because of the type of diet which they use. By increasing the bulk in the diet, the constipation is often overcome.

Abdominal exercise is helpful in overcoming constipation, because it tightens the wall of the abdomen and increases the pressure within the abdomen.

If these simple measures are employed under the direction of the physician, constipation may be prevented and in many cases overcome.

Autobus Company Adds 17 New Luxury Buses

New and more luxurious travelling comfort and convenience are now available to patrons of the Provincial Transport Company, Montreal, which has added a total of 17 new General Motors buses to the interurban fleet.

Equipped with 33 non-reclining seats and 7 aisle seats, each of these striking new vehicles has been scientifically designed by General Motors to provide year-round riding comfort regardless of weather conditions. Besides their more spacious interior, these new buses provide for 227 cubic feet of space in the baggage racks and compartment. Bodies are of all metal construction with pressed steel body posts and riveted steel panels. Safety sheet glass windows are of the sliding type and operate in rubber channels. Heating is provided by three hot water heaters with variable control.

Each bus, which has a wheelbase of 218 inches, is powered by a 4-cylinder, two-cycle Diesel motor, and equipped with Bendix Westinghouse air brakes, single front and dual rear tires.

Darwin, Australia seems to be always in trouble with its white ants ! Telegraph linesmen investigating a breakdown found that ants had eaten their way through an inch of earthenware and a generous coating of arsenic and vaseline, pierced a lead cable a quarter of an inch thick, eaten the insulation off the wires, and short-circuited them.

TENDERS FOR COAL AND COKE

Federal Buildings—Prov. Quebec.

Sealed tenders addressed to the Undersigned and endorsed. "Tender for Coal, Province of Quebec", will be received until three p.m. (E.D.S.T.), Wednesday, May 21, 1941, for the supply of coal and coke for the Dominion Buildings in the Province of Quebec, except Montreal, P. Q.

Forms of tender with specifications and conditions attached can be obtained from the Chief Purchasing Agent, Department of Public Works, Ottawa; from Mr. Roland Simard, Supervising Architect, 150 St. Paul St. West, Montreal; and from Mr. J. A. Drolet, Architect, Public Works Department, Customs Building, Quebec, P. Q.

Tenders should be made on the forms supplied by the Department and in accordance with departmental specification and conditions attached thereto.

When the amount of a tender exceeds the sum of $5,000.00 — whether it be for one building only or more — the tenderers must attach to their tender a certified cheque on a chartered bank in Canada, made payable to the order of the Honorable the Minister of Public Works, equal to 10 per cent of the amount of the tender, or Bearer Bonds of the Dominion of Canada or of the Canadian National Railway Company and its constituent companies unconditionally guaranteed as to principal and interest by the Dominion of Canada, or the aforementioned bonds and a certified cheque, if required to make up an odd amount.

The Department also reserves the right to demand from any successful tenderer a security deposit, in the form of a certified cheque or bond as above, equal to 10 per cent of the amount of his bid, to guarantee the proper fulfilment of the contract.

By order, J. M. SOMERVILLE, Secretary.

HINTS FOR HOMEBODIES

By JESSIE ALLEN BROWN

THE DU MAURIERS

"Come Wind, Come Weather" is a little book by Daphne Du Maurier which has been enjoyed by thousands both in England and Canada. One does not need to subscribe to the tenets of the Oxford movement to realize much of our happiness lies in our attitude towards others. It is hard to reconcile the Daphne Du Maurier of "Come Wind, Come Weather" to the Daphne Du Maurier who wrote the robust, almost ribald, "The Progress of Julia." It is a satisfaction to see artistic talents running through three generations. Many of us have loved "Trilby", which George Du Maurier, the Daphne was written and illustrated by George du Maurier, the grandfather of Daphne. Her father was a famous English actor, Sir Gerald du Maurier. Daphne has written a diversified type of has written a diversified type of books, "Rebecca" being probably the best known. Going back to the Oxford movement, A. A. Milne objected recently in the House of Commons to the Group using the name Oxford. A. A. Milne is a contributor to Punch, the writer of the Christopher Robin books, and author of many plays and books, and is a member for Oxford. He said there were Englishmen following the Buckman cult who were in America living a life of ease when their place was in England helping their country.

GREENS

When you are planning your garden give a thought to your greens. Lettuce should be planted at intervals. If it is all put in at the one time you will have more than you can use and then it gets old and tough, but if you plant some at three week intervals you can always have tender fresh lettuce. Swiss Chard is good for summer use. There are those who prefer it to Spinach. Cress is high in Vitamin C and makes a good addition to salads or sandwiches. If your garden does not have some chives growing in it, how about planting some? It is more delicate than onion and when Fall comes a piece of it may be brought in to flourish in your kitchen window. Most people use beet greens but have you ever tried turnip greens? One of my country friends says buckwheat greens are the best of all. That is a new one on me. Some of you may have a chance to try them but I am afraid I will not be able to. I like to have parsley, mint, and chives handy to the house. They need not be in the garden proper but are decorative enough to plant any place.

THE AUTOMATIC OVEN

We have an electric stove with an automatic oven. That is the current comes on itself to keep the heat at the temperature set. The instructions said to put roasts in a cold oven, set at 350 and to cook the meat at that low temperature, allowing 35 minutes per pound. Being schooled in the method of putting meat into a very hot oven to sear the surface in order to keep in the juices, and then to reduce the heat, I viewed this method with misgiving. However, being ready to try anything once I put my roast into the cold oven and gave it the long cooking at a low temperature. The method is an unqualified success. The strong heat of the upper element which is on until the heat reaches 350 degrees is sufficient to brown the meat and sear it and the long slow cooking makes it very tender. The meat is thoroughly cooked but is nice and moist and not dried out. The shirnkage is much less than in the usual method of cooking. Whether this method could be used in the ordinary electric oven or not I cannot say, but by turning on the upper element when the thermometer dropped below 350 and leaving it on until this temperature is reached again, it might be done. It is worth trying as the automatic turns out a perfect roast. I am not so enamoured with the automatic oven for cakes and some other forms of baking. Nothing is perfect in this world and if we gain in one way we lose in some other. Somehow one cannot beat the law of compensation.

RHUBARB RELISH

8 lbs rhubarb, 1 teaspoon pepper, 1 pint vinegar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon ginger, 3 lbs of brown sugar, 1 tablespoon cinnamon.

Cut rhubarb in small pieces but do not peel. Add the other ingredients and boil until thick, stirring frequently. Bottle and seal.

I tried this recipe last year and as it was the first time, only made half the quantity. That was a mistake as it was very popular. It has the advantage of being a fresh variety coming when we are tired of the old ones and adding to a depleted store.

SPRING CHILLI SAUCE

2 large cans tomatoes (2½'s), 1 cup vinegar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 2 onions put through chopper, 1 cup brown sugar, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, 1 tablespoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon cloves.

Mix the ingredients and boil until thick. Pour into sterilised bottles and seal. This makes a good chilli sauce and helps tide you over until the fall.

Fed. Women's Institutes To Hold "Biennial" In Fredericton, N.B.

Fredericton, N. B., will be the meeting place of the twelfth "Biennial" of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada. This gathering will take place June 16 to 19 and will be held in conjunction with the annual New Brunswick W. U. Convention, which opens formally on June 17.

While the program is not yet complete in all details, it has been built upon the general theme of an all-out war effort of the approximate 75,000 W. I. members grouped in more than 3,000 branches from coast to coast.

Committee reports will be discussed in the form of round tables in as many joint sessions with the New Brunswick Convention as possible. Convenors will report on the adjustment of their various committee activities to meet war needs and conditions. It is hoped that as many convenors as possible will be present to lead their own round tables. It is expected that at least those living in the East will attend.

It is also hoped that Mrs. Alfred Watt, M.B.E., president of the A.C.W.W., will be present to give her invaluable leadership and inspiration.

When the Dominion Census is taken next June, it will be necessary for husbands and wives to decide on who is head of the house, as this question must be answered. It's going to be awfully hard for some couples to decide on this point! —Winchester Press.

MICHAEL FARROW CAN SALUTE, TOO

The young chap comes by saluting naturally, because his dad is Lieut. John Farrow, R.C.N.V.R., now at sea with a Canadian naval vessel. His mother, seen with him, is movie actress Maureen O'Sullivan. They are at Pan-American Airways base in New York, on their return from Bermuda aboard the Yankee Clipper.

Women's Institutes in England Collecting Notorious "Nettle"

"Nettles" £50 a Ton For Britain's Export Drive

London -- "Stinging nettles", familiar to the Englishman and bane of British farmers, are to be converted from a national liability into a source of war funds.

During the coming summer, about 100 tons of the common stinging nettle (urtica dioica) will be required for the production of the green pigment chlorophyll.

This is used both medicinally, as a nerve tonic, and for coloring soap and other products. One of the largest firms of manufacturing chemists in Great Britain has installed new plant and will more than double its output of chlorophyll.

In pre-war days most of the world's supply of chlorophyll came from Germany and Switzerland. The arrangements being made in Britain will not only ensure the home supplies, but will provide a surplus for export to other countries now cut off from normal sources of supply.

Collection of the nettles, which have to be dried before they are sent to the factory, where they are worth £30 to £50 per ton, will be carried out by the Women's Institutes of Britain's countryside and Boy Scout troops. These organizations are also being asked to collect other wild herbs for the distillation of drugs and essential oils.

"By whom?" asked a husband, when told that his wife was outspoken.

A magistrate remarked that marriage means the end of a man's trouble. He did not say which end.

Fashions of the Day

By Jean Walsh

Your Fashion Scout has been doing a little snooping this week to see what would be worn at the Spring Parade, and has also spent a few hours, standing in the rain, to find out what fashionables actually decked themselves in when the Great Day arrived. Despite what Californians would call "a very heavy dew", there were many attractive examples of the 1941 mode displayed on boardwalk and avenue, and although Canada doesn't boast a Fifth Avenue, still when it comes to style, we don't do badly, believe me! Canadian designers have taken hold this year in a big way, and have given us garments which suit not only our climate differences, but are adapted to our busy war-time days.

Here are a few glimpses we caught that we thought were worth passing on. A smart black cape passed us, worn over a polka dot dress. The cape was lined with the dotted fabric, which was gray and red. A black pill-box, worn well to the back of the head, had a fold of the dotted material around the top. Black patent pumps, white gloves and a bright red patent bag completed the ensemble.

A dressy outfit, coming out of a smart downtown church, was made of stiff faille. The skirt was smartly flared, although without the exaggerated bell of last year, and the jacket was fitted to the waist, when it blossomed out into a wide peplum. Sleeves were squared, not puffed, and the front had a deep V to the waist, with soft Tuxedo lapes. A great white froth of an organdie blouse, with a lace-edged jabot flowered in the V, and the little old fashioned bonnet, set back on a blonde pompadour, had white wings and veil, for trim. Black suede pumps and bag, and a luscious corsage of rubrum lilies finished the picture.

On the tailored side was a beautifully tailored suit of black wool faille, bound with black silk cord. Slash pockets on the hips of the long jacket were also cord bound. A white crepe blouse with a round high neck, fitted with a yoke of pin-tucks, a lapel ornament of brilliant lillies clasping two real ones, and a bright green sailor added the finishing touches. Over her arm, this chic lass carried a top-coat to match the suit.

The military influence was shown by the younger generation, that is the teen-agers. Air-force blue with silver airplanes for buttons made a fitted, full skirted coat, with epaulettes. The cap was a moderation of the air-force cap, with a larger silver plane poised at the side.

Not to neglect the older folks, we saw one charming white-haired matron in a soft blue crepe dress, topped by a fine wool redingote of the same shade exactly. Her gloves were white, her shoes and bag navy, and her hat was an airy Watteau style, of violet straw, with blue, violet and navy flowers filling the shallow brim. The color combination was very becoming to her. Another older person, whose hair was "pepper and salt", wore a black skirt and jacket topped with a black and white tweed coat which hung full from the raglan shoulders. Her blouse was pink, and her corsage was a smart knot of pink daisies. Black kid bag and shoes completed this good-looking and practical costume.

BEAUTY

Helen Jameson (Mme. Qui Vive)

TIGHTENING THE RELAXED ABDOMEN

People are forever referring to the middle-aged figure. By that they mean, evidently, the meal bag shape with a convenient shelf below the belt line upon which a woman can rest her sewing. And that's a pretty silly idea. There's no reason why the feminine shape should be any different at fifty from what it was at thirty, or even twenty. Not if a woman takes good care of herself. If she is health-minded she will never let her muscles go slack. She will stick to a balanced diet that furnishes the human engine everything it needs in the way of fuel. She will get a certain amount of exercise every day, no matter what happens. Keeping young in appearance is a matter of practicing horse sense and getting an early start.

Weakened abdominal muscles are due to two bad habits: being physically lazy and having no regard for correct posture. Unless the body is carried with spirit — chest high, backbone stretched full length all the time — the fibers of the lower section of the torso go out of action. They lose elasticity because they have no work to do.

What's the result, dear reader? A thickened waistline, the loss of that neat inward curve from ribs to hips. Very sad. Youthful appearance has vanished.

If you have to trail to the "stylish stouts" department, every few years getting a size larger in frocks and coats, start right now to work off that excess adipose tissue for which you have no use and get your musculature back in form. Ten minutes of vigorous exercise every day will do a world of good. Stop peeking into candy boxes, and close your eyes when the cream puffs are passed.

Bending back and forth — from the hips, not from the waist — and keeping the body tall while you do it will prove an effective exercise. All lateral flexions of the trunk send the blood rushing to the muscles, thereby strenghtening them. So bend from side to side. When you do this keep your arms out on a level with the shoulders. As the arm goes down touch the knee with the finger tips.

Lie on your back on the floor with your toes braced under a heavy piece of furniture. Extend your hands along the floor above your head. Lift the upper portion of the body slowly, keeping the legs rigid. Touch the ankles with your fingers. Return slowly to first position and repeat.

Internal troubles result from a sagging abdomen. Intestines, stomach, the kidneys, sometimes even the liver, will drop from normal position because weakened muscles do not keep them where they belong. Digestive disturbances may follow. Then one is in for trouble.

At all times hold in the midsection as well as you can. That practice alone revitalizes slack muscles.

We have just finished reading a nine and a half page treatise on how to treat a black eye. It covers everything but what to tell the wife. —Gore Bay Recorder.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Famous Authority on Good Manners and Good Taste

WELCOMING SON'S FIANCEE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. My son has just become engaged to a young lady who lives in a distant state. They are to be married in June, and we are going to the wedding. I have not met his fiancee, nor have we corresponded. Would it be proper for me to write her a letter, telling her how happy we are over the coming marriage? If you tell me I may write to her, will you give me an idea of what to write?

2. We live in a small community, and my son was born here. Would there be any impropriety in our announcing his marriage in our local newspaper? If this is proper, how should this announcement be worded? —M. W.

1. I am so glad you wrote me to ask this question about writing your son's fiancee; it is most important that you write this letter as soon as you possibly can. Naturally this young lady will be anxiously waiting to hear from her fiance's parents, telling her the happy thoughts that are in your heart; that you are delighted at the glorious news of the engagement; that you are so happy and proud to welcome her into your family. Tell her that you and your husband are looking forward high-heartedly to knowing her, having heard such wonderful things about her from your son, and that you hope it will be possible for her to visit you before the wedding, and if not, very soon afterward. If you write to her as charmingly and enthusiastically as you wrote to me about her, your letter will be perfect.

2. Imagine that you meant to write "announcing his engagement", and it will be proper to have that announcement in your local newspaper.

Since it is the girl's parents who make this announcement, the announcement might read like this, to be published after the announcement has been publicly made in the girl's local newspapers:

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ford Metcalf, of South Bend, Indiana, have announced the engagement of their daughter Mary Elizabeth, to Mr. John Alan Dassler, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Evans Dassler, of 234 Home Place. The wedding is to take place in South Bend in May.

COURTESY TIP

If you are a pleasant person, your voice will be a pleasant voice — "the voice with a smile."

"Mountain Mumps" was the name of a play to be presented by Bellevue High School, Idaho. It had to be postponed, for — the entire population of Bellevue was laid low by an epidemic of — mumps.

Five Hundred Flies — And All Different

Are Leaving London for Canada

London — After a dead spell, England's famous export trade in fishing tackle revives.

In one shop a stone's throw from famous St. James's Palace, London, are five hundred varieties of fly. They range from the drab Dun group, of which there are 24 variants, to brilliant pieces of exquisite workmanship such as the Claret Quill and gaudy Ibis.

Trout now disporting themselves in the lakes of Ontario and British Columbia will in the near future rise and snap this bait.

Before the war something like 1,500,000 flies alone were shipped to sportsmen the world over, chiefly to Canada, New Zealand, the United States and Argentine.

The flies shown in St. James's are for Canada. They form a collection to delight the heart of any knowledgeable fisherman, minute ambassadors for British craftsmanship.

British Films Run The Blockade

George Formby Packs European Cinemas

London — British films are still finding their way into the cinemas of blockaded Europe. Thanks to co-operation between the authorities and the British film distributors, audiences in Scandinavia continue to enjoy the films of British comedians like George Formby and "Big-hearted" Arthur Askey. Formby, who has just completed a deal for showing his films in the United States, is also a great favorite in Europe, despite his extremely localized Lancashire humor, and it is one of the oddities of the entertainment world that he should export so successfully. The strong demand for his films, however, both now and before the war, leaves no doubt of his popularity in European countries.

Other countries in the war zone to which British pictures are going include Switzerland (via Lisbon), Turkey, Egypt, Malta and Palestine.

Empire countries are also showing a keener interest in British films especially those with a war interest. "Convoy", the Clive Brook film, which brought to Empire screens the hazard and thrills of the submarine war, has been doing tremendous business, having already netted over £50,000 from overseas markets alone. In Australia it broke all records, with an eighteen-weeks' run at the Majestic Theatre, Melbourne.

"The Outsider", another British success both in the Empire and the United States, was truly an Empire production, for its star was the Australian beauty Mary Maguire. Another girl from "down under" Judy Kelly, has been seen all over the Empire in "Over She Goes", "At the Villa Rose" and "Dead Men's Shoes".

British films now showing in the Empire or on the way there, include "Ships With Wings", made with the co-operation of the British Fleet Air Arm; "Sailors Three", with Tommy Trinder and Claude Hulbert, a light-hearted story of three British bluejackets on board a Nazi battleship; new George Formby films like "Spare a Copper" and "It's Turned Out Nice Again!"; "The Farmer's Wife"; "Spring Meeting"; Bernard Shaw's "Major Barbara"; "Neutral Port"; and Arthur Askey's "The Ghost Train" and "Charley's Bighearted Aunt".

India, always a good market for British films, will soon be seeing such films as "Neutral Port", "Gasbags" (a Crazy Gang film) and "The Ghost Train", while Canada is also asking for more war films from Britain.

Good Fishing Reported At Seigniory Club

Seigniory Club, April 28—Limit catches of speckled trout were taken by Montreal and Ottawa members of the Seigniory Club and their guests on Saturday April 26, the opening day of the season. A total catch of eighty-four trout were taken by: C. C. Pineo, Montreal, who spent the week-end at Mills Lake Cabin; Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Bates, Montreal, who opened their camp on Lake Commandant for the first time this season; Harold Reid, Montreal; Lt. J. M. Forbes, Ottawa, and P. J. Cornforth who spent the week-end at his fishing camp on Commandant.

Reservations in the Club camps for the week-end of May 3-4 include those of L. L. Harrison of Montreal, who will stay at Pine Cabin, and Lt. J. M. Forbes, Ottawa, who will bring a party of friends to Mills Lake Cabin for the week-end. W. M. Tomkins will open his summer house on Lake Commandant and will entertain a group of fishermen for two days of fishing on the Seigniory lakes.

The early season's fine warm weather has had an effect on the hatching of fry at the Seigniory Club hatchery. All speckled and brown trout eggs were hatched by April 24 this year, 20 days earlier than last season. Reports show the fry doing well and the mortality rate low.

Dogs who live in homes and whose masters talk to them will understand as many as 150 words.

Boy Scouts The World Over

FINE WAR RECORD

No fewer than 175 different types of national wartime service have been found and carried out by the Scouts of Britain since the beginning of the war. Military or civil awards have been received by 58 Scouts and an additional five have been Mentioned in Dispatches. The list includes one Victoria Cross, one George Cross and six George Medals. The first civil defence award was won by a Boy Scout.

SCOUTS TEACH SIGNALLING

One of the most popular subjects at the Huntingdon, Que., High School is Morse signalling, as being taught by a "staff" of Boy Scouts. After dark the town is blinking with dot and dash messages of night practice. Boys passing the examination set for army signallers will receive a certificate and $5.00.

JUVENILE COURTS GRATEFUL TO SCOUTING

"In my experience in the Juvenile Court I have found that very few Scouts become juvenile delinquents. This can be attributed in large measure to the training that they receive as Scouts. I feel that those connected with the criminal courts owe a debt of gratitude to Boy Scout Associations. The work they have done makes the work of the courts much easier." — Judge W. F. Lane, Moncton, N. B.

BOY SCOUT TRAINING PROVED BY HEROISM

The effectiveness of Boy Scout training in making boys prompt and resourceful in the face of emergencies was again demonstrated in the record of acts for which 16 Scouts were given life saving awards during 1940.

"CANADIAN VIEWPOINT"
By Allan McGee

Special Tribute to Mothers of the Nation Next Sunday, May 11th.

Specially Written for Readers of The Watchman

Next Sunday the nation will honor the mothers of the land.

Mother's Day has grown to be one of the nicest celebrations that we have, and I sincerely hope that it will continue. It has grown from a purely local service to one of national importance, and on Sunday we will get another chance to show our sincere appreciation of all that our mothers have done for us.

It seems strange to me, though, that we have to set aside a special day to give Mother presents and to make a big fuss over her. Why can't we do it all the year round? Surely she means just as much to us every other day as she does on this one Sunday.

The story behind Mother's Day is very interesting and its rise in appeal has been tremendous. On the second Sunday of May, 1907, a Philadelphia spinster, Anna Jarvis, mourned the first anniversary of her mother's death and prevailed upon a Philadelphia church to hold a special service to honor beloved mothers everywhere.

Next year the idea had spread to other churches — to so many that the governor of Florida issued a Mother's Day proclamation. In 1914, the U. S. Congress passed an Act designating the second Sunday of May as Mother's Day and requesting the display of the flag on all buildings on that day.

During the intervening years, from 1914 to 1941, the observance of Mother's Day has grown to gigantic proportions. Children wear pink flowers to Sunday School in honor of a living mother and others wear small white flowers in memory of a mother who has passed on.

This year we commemorate Mother's Day on May 11th. The one day of the year that we give thanks for her. The other 364, she gives thanks for us !

BILL STERN SIGNS CONTRACT

Bill Stern, director of sports for the National Broadcasting System and one of the highest paid sports announcers, has been signed by Columbia Pictures to do the commentary for the "World of Sport". This is a series of sports pictures that covers everything from turtle racing to the Olympic Games.

The story behind Bill Stern would rival any success story you care to name.

He was born in Rochester, N. Y., not so very many years ago, and he worked his way up the ladder of success from the very bottom.

He was an usher, an actor, a post-hole digger and plenty of other things in between. He got his first break when he became assistant stage manager at the Roxy Theatre in New York. From there he moved to the Radio City Music Hall as stage manager which is pretty high up in any man's language. But that wasn't high enough for Bill Stern. He started to look around for new fields to conquer and turned to radio. He became a sports announcer and then a football announcer for NBC. His programs were broadcast from coast to coast and his popular voice became known to the people of our two countries. He is still a young man, with a great liking for sports and a pleasant voice, and recently he took over the job as director of all sports events for the National Broadcasting Company

He is an Horatio Alger character come to life.

BISHOP PRAISES AIRCRAFT PRODUCTION

Fresh from a trip to the major aircraft factories of the United States, Air Marshal W. A. (Billy) Bishop is pleased with the way things are shaping up to the south. He told newsmen that he was amazed by the way the United States is stepping up production by means of the mass production systems.

He said also that the young American flyers would like to come up here and fly with the R.C.A.F.

So far nothing has been done about letting American flyers come here for special training and it is extremely unlikely that the barriers will be let down for a while yet.

The aircraft factories are expanding beyond their wildest dreams. Thousands upon thousands of feet of extra manufacturing space have been made available by plant expansion and by the cutting down of non-essential production.

New types of planes, also, are being developed under the supervision of men who studied the war at close range. They know what is needed in the new planes. Where to add new armament and where to put in extra protection for the pilots and gun crew. High speed fighter planes are being experimented with to determine their possibilities. Huge bombers with enormous wings have been tested and proved. They can carry full loads for a distance of 5,000 miles without the slightest trouble and they can, with the aid of a new and secret bomb-sight, drop their bombs with deadly accurancy.

That, my friends, is why the Air Marshal came back to Canada with a big grin on his face. He trimmed the Germans personally in the last war, and he knows now that we will be able to do an even better job this time.

SHIP-BUILDERS NEEDED

If you know anything at all about the building of ships you need not worry about a job. The Dominion Government is looking for experienced ship-builders to help in the Canadian war effort.

We are pledged to turn out all types of ships to replace those lost by enemy action, and we must turn them out quickly.

For that purpose, every shipyard in the country is enlarging its facilities and they need more men. Apply to the nearest shipyard for further particulars.

There are three kinds of people in all organizations. There are the rowboat people, the sailboat people and the steamboat people. The rowboat people always need to be pushed or shoved along. The sailboat people move along when a favorable wind is blowing. But the steamboat people move along continuously, through calm or storm. They are masters of themselves and their surroundings.

Lachute Scouts Prove Gluttons For Metal Scrap

TROOP IS AIMING FOR A SUBSTANTIAL GIFT TO SPITFIRE FUND

Householders and Car-Owners Can Help

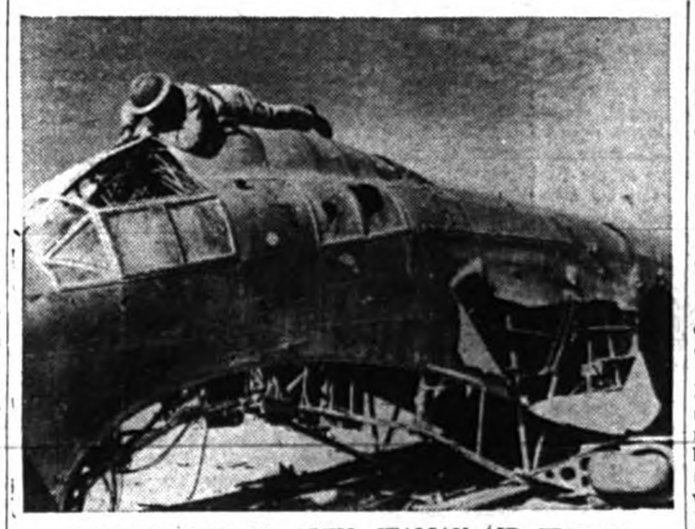

The Boys Scouts' scrap-metal collection has proceeded steadily during the winter months, so that indications point to a worthwhile amount from the sale of this material. The proceeds will make a welcome addition to the Argenteuil Spitfire Fund — an effort which has captivated the boys' imagination and made them virtual gluttons for such metallic objects which appear due for discard. This ardour deserves support, and citizens at this particular time of year can help materially, in turning out their scrap-metal for collection. Readers are urged to look through their attics, garages and sheds, and to notify a member of Lachute Scout Troop if they have anything to give. Old car accessories, radiators, batteries and many household chattels are a source of metals to increase the growing pile.

LAST NAZI CAUGHT

Pictured here is the end of a week's freedom for the last four of 30 German war prisoners who escaped from a Northern Ontario camp. They are shown as they came back under guard. The capless Nazi smiling in the front is Sgt. Helmuth Ackenhauser, who told newsmen: "I want to get to America, then back to Germany, fly over England, drop bombs."

Ex-M.P. Is Feted At A County-Wide Gathering

HONORED BY FRIENDS IN APPRECIATION OF HIS GOOD CITIZENSHIP

Geo. H. Héon to Wed Next Saturday

A gathering of about 300 county citizens in Lachute Auditorium Tuesday evening, to honor Mr. Georges H. Héon on his approaching marriage, was representative of both French and English speaking communities, of all political leanings, from the different municipalities of Argenteuil.

Besides the evident good will and fellowship displayed toward Mr. Héon at this function, a more tangible token was given in the presentation of a chest of silverware and a sum of money; a handsome leather purse was similarly presented as a gift to his bride-elect, Miss Jeannette Therrien.

Speeches, community singing and refreshments were enjoyed around the tables which filled the Auditorium. A good friend and former citizen, Dr. E. Lalande, was present from Montreal to preside as master of ceremonies. Seated with him at the head table, besides the guest of honor, were Mayor Hector Lamarche of Lachute and Mayor Geo. Ball of Brownsburg, acting as joint chairmen, a number of Mr. Héon's colleagues in the legal profession, mayors or representatives of the surrounding townships, and leading citizens from Lachute and district.

The speakers included Dr. Lalande, Mr. Jos. Seale, Mr. Albini Lamarche; also Mr. Gaetan Valois and Mr. J. S. Giles, who made the presentations. To their good wishes and expressions of esteem Mr. Héon replied with a depth of gratitude.

Taking part in the impromptu entertainment or leading the community songs were — Messrs. G. Valois, R. and A. Legault, Leo Carriere, Arthur Ouimet, Bob Vickery, Hugh McEntyre and troupe, E. Carriere with his fiddle, and John Fraser, Sr. — who, now 80 years young, has lost none of his aptitude in captivating the crowd. Piano accompaniment for the musical numbers was played by Paul Courville.

Mr. Héon's marriage is being solemnized Saturday at Ste. Anastasie Parish Church.

Brownsburg Next To Line Up in Spitfire Drive

ASSURANCE GIVEN, TOWN WILL NOW RALLY TO COUNTY EFFORT

Church and Community Groups Continue Aid

Owing to a pressure of campaigns, drives and canvasses in the recent months, Brownsburg has not as yet been heard from in the purely local enterprise for the "Argenteuil Spitfire". This effort to finance the cost of a fighting plane for Britain has touched nearly every corner of the county, where willing helpers have undertaken the canvass with varying success — mostly to a very gratifying measure.

The missing link — the village of Brownsburg — has been delayed in its effort until this more opportune moment. And Brownsburg is a community to be reckoned with in its zeal and generosity; this has been oft proven in charity and war service drives. The Watchman has been assured this week, by two or three leading lights in former campaigns, that Brownsburg will now "go to it"; and we are hoping for big things in keeping with the reputation of their community.

Outcome Is Certainty — But Time Is Pressing Element

No doubt is expressed on the outcome of this effort, from any quarter. It is mentioned at intervals, however, that summer will bring aid from outside quarters, when city folks visit their seasonal haunts — or that the influx to Lachute Fair next month will open the way for more contacts; but in these and similar suggestions, the extreme urgency of the cause is overlooked. The fact that Britain needs war weapons NOW, has been so repeatedly stressed that it has lost the force of originality. The idea might gain more weight in a realization it is NOW OR NEVER for our aid to Britain, the Mother Country.

Elders May Enlist Aid Of Youthful Citizens

Recognition is due to the county organizations which periodically report proceeds from their entertainments and parties; these steady returns have swelled the total, which now stands at $15,000, still $9,000 short of the objective. In addition to these group efforts, however, the support of individuals must not waver. Those who gave in the early stages of the drive may perhaps afford to give again—always with the knowledge that "every little helps", however small. In the small listing of subscriptions this week, our readers may find a:

Memorial Tribute To Be Paid to Late Dr. Abbott By Historical Society

A meeting of the Argenteuil Historical Society executive was held at the Carillon Museum on Saturday, May 3rd. Many gifts of interest were announced, and these will be placed on exhibition immediately. It was decided to open the Museum to visitors at once, and the executive planned to call an inaugural meeting of the Society for Saturday afternoon, May 24th, at 3 o'clock. This assembly is to take the form of a memorial meeting in tribute to the late Dr. Maude Abbott, when short addresses will be given on her work and accomplishments, and her portrait and memorial tablet will be on view in the Abbott Room.

The fighting forces are keeping at it; so must we, on the home front! Buy more War Savings Certificates now.

Librarian Classifies Books At Social Club

Brownsburg, May 6 —

In order to arouse greater interest in the library at the Social Club, Miss Crombie, the librarian of Sir George Williams College, has been visiting Brownsburg for the past few days re-arranging and re-classifying the books, and making suggestions for future purchases. The six hundred volumes have been systematically arranged as in any modern library, the fiction and non-fiction properly separated and easily attainable. Among the books are two travelling libraries from McGill University, offering some of the best in the later publications.

Six Injured in Car-Truck Smash On Perley Bridge

TRUCK CRASHES THROUGH GUARD RAIL 60 FEET OVER RAPIDS

Early Morning Accident On Perley Bridge

L'Orignal, Ont. — Percy Smith, of Lachute, was held on charges of reckless driving and driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor following an accident in which six persons were injured early Sunday morning on the Ontario side of the Perley Bridge between Grenville and Hawkesbury.

Provincial police said an automobile driven by Smith collided with the rear of a truck travelling across the bridge. While the truck was being hauled back on the roadway later another automobile struck it. When it did not stop police gave chase and a mile away arrested Henri Lesperance of St. Benoit, Que., on a charge of failing to stop after an accident.

After being struck by the Smith car, the truck, driven by Leodas Tessier, of Grenville, careened through a section of guard rail, and teetered on the edge of the bridge, 60 feet above the water. Tessier suffered severe cuts and foot and leg injuries.

Smith suffered cuts and an injured left knee. The other four injured, all of Brownsburg, were passengers in the car — Norma Abram, severe cuts and severe back injuries; and Ethel Abram, A. W. Whistle and John Degneau, who suffered cuts and bruises.

Last Call for Gifts Of Maple Syrup For Overseas

In response to previous appeals in this paper, ten gallons of maple syrup has been handed in to Geo. Y. Deacon, Lachute Mills, for shipment to troops and hospitals in Britain through the Canadian Red Cross. A circular from headquarters this week requests that all contributions be turned in for consignment to Montreal by May 15th. Mr. Deacon will arrange shipment, and further donations will be gladly received by him until that date.

Mrs. G. Armstrong Re-elected Pres.; Officers and Convenors Appointed

NOW THEY ARE TWO

The 35,000 - ton battleship Prince of Wales now is in the service of the Royal Navy, it has been announced. She is the second of her class of five fast, heavily armed and heavily armored vessels to be commissioned. The first of the class commissioned, the King George V, landed the British ambassador, Lord Halifax, in the U. S. last January.

President of Associated Country-Women of World, Mrs. Watt, Is Speaker

The 21st. county convention of the Argenteuil Women's Institutes was held in the hall of Lachute United Church on Tuesday, about 130 ladies being present.

The morning Session opened at 10 o'clock, with the county President, Mrs. Geo. Armstrong, in the chair. Reports from the nine Institute branches were read by the convenors and greetings from Nova Scotia were given by Mrs. Porter.

Lunch was served and a pleasant social time spent until the afternoon session opened at 1.15 o'clock. The ladies rose for the singing of "O Canada", and the memorial list was read by Mrs. G. F. Kuhring, the members standing in reverent silence for three minutes.

Miss Rettie, superintendent of the W. I. from Macdonald College, gave a brief outline of papers which could be obtained from the college also bringing greetings from Mrs. Dow.

The new slate of officers for the coming year was appointed as follows: Hon. pres., Mrs. Leslie Morris, Pres., Mrs. Geo. Armstrong; 1st. vice-pres., Mrs. Ed. Kettyle; 2nd. vice-pres., Mrs. Stanley Smith; sec., Mrs. N. E. Smillie; Treas., Mrs Geo. McGibbon.

Convenors — Agriculture, Mrs. A. Graham; Canadian Industry, Mrs. C. W. Baugh; Canadianization and National Events, Mrs. A. Parker; Child Welfare and Public Health, Mrs. C. Campbell; Education and Better Schools, Mrs. Russell Patterson; Home Economics, Mrs. Kenneth Sly; Immigration, Mrs. John Gordon; Legislation, Mrs. Arthur Campbell; Fair Work, Miss Hilda Hume; Publicity, Mrs. W. Shearsmith.

Mrs. Geo. Armstrong gave a brief talk, thanking the members for their co-operation and saying how much this year had meant to her in making new friends and meeting old ones. She spoke of how much we loathe war and should keep our heads high and smile even though our hearts are heavy and suggested that more than ever our motto should be "Cheerful Service".

It was decided to have a display of work and cooking at the Lachute Fair to be held in June.

Mrs. Baugh, in a few well chosen remarks, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Watt, president of the Associated Country-Women of the World.

Mrs. Watt urged that Canadian women should "hope for the best and prepare for the worst". Some of the subjects she touched on were — how she had noticed the growth of "group spirit" on her

Ald. F. McGibbon Gives Report on Mayors' Confce.

ROBT. TODD REINSTATED AS TOWN OFFICER; MUCH WORK ON HAND

Regular Meeting of Town Council

The regular monthly session of Lachute Town Council was held in the council chamber last evening. Mayor H. Lamarche, Aldermen F. S. McGibbon, E. Prevost, H. Roy, J. Speight, S. Holt, A. Scott, R. Muir and W. Morrissette were in attendance.

Michel Malacket appeared before the Council requesting permit to construct balconies on the Clyde Street side of his new building. Aldermen McGibbon and Muir were strongly opposed and moved the request be turned down — to which the council agreed by vote.

The belts which had equipped the town crushing machine were sold to Aldege Filion for the sum of $25.00.

Ald. McGibbon moved that the town accept the offer of H. and G. Filion and take advantage of the sewer trench on their building-site to lay a 5-inch water pipe, the work to be done according to specifications of the Board of Health.

A motion of Ald. Muir to have Robt. Todd reinstated in his former position as town officer gave rise to considerable discussion, Ald. Muir stated that while he had no criticism against J. Malette, the present town officer, he felt there was much work to be done in repairs to the Sir John's Lake dam, construction of the chlorination plant, etc., and Mr. Todd was more capable to do the work. This brought up the question of depriving Constable H. Gervais of assistance in police protection, which culminated in a vote to raise his salary to $1,400, to include the use of his private car.

Ald. F. S. McGibbon was extended a hearty vote of thanks for his report given as representative of the Council to the Mayors' and Municipalities' convention held in Ottawa recently.

This Is Your Paper

As everybody knows, most of our day-by-day happiness comes from pleasant associations with others. One of the cheery incidents in the newspaper office is to have one say over the phone, or by letter: "I just thought you might be interested in this little event in our district." Such a gesture of thoughtfulness is pleasing. — But, alas, there aren't many who take the trouble to jot things down and send them in, or call up on the phone.

Agriculture Is Theme In W.I. Branches

Frontier Branch of the W. I. reports an article on "The Ancient Art of Cheese making", presented at the Agriculture meeting. A word contest was held, with Mrs. L. M. Gaston and Mrs. F. Fuller as winners. Each member donated a dollar toward the Women's Institutes war effort. One new member was welcomed to the group.

At the Lakefield Branch meeting arrangements were made for the holding of a card party, the prizes to be War Savings stamps. Notions were sold, and seeds and slips exchanged. Two new members were welcomed.

Lachute W. I. reports a donation to the War Services Fund. The main topic of the meeting was Current Events for the past few months.

Pioneer Branch reports articles read on the raising of annual flowering plants and "Say It With Flowers". Slips, seeds and plants were exchanged. At this meeting work was done on quilt blocks and letters of thanks from an invalid and soldiers overseas were read.

Upper Lachute-East End heard a paper on "Wild Life of Canada". An animal quiz was conducted, and much enjoyed by the members present. Seeds and bulbs were exchanged.

A HORMONE SPRAY FOR APPLE TREES

The fall of an apple in an English garden started Sir Isaac Newton on the trail which led to the discovery of the law of gravity. Being a philosopher, not a horticulturist, he was not concerned with the question whether the apple fell prematurely or not but only that it came down to earth instead of soaring into space. Scientists of today are concerned with the problem of how to prevent apples falling before their time and have now hit on a solution. The solution is one containing a minute amount of a naphthalene acetic hormone, the same which has been found of some practical value in stimulating root growth of plant cuttings for propagation.

The hormone is preserved in a special liquid medium of which one pint suffices for 100 gallons of spray. Proof of its satisfactory performance has been demonstrated by horticulturists in Nova Scotia, Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia. At the first sign of drop the trees are sprayed thoroughly, making sure that the solution gets on the fruit stems where the hormone exerts its chief influence. A single application is usually enough for most varieties. Sometimes a second may be desirable as the effect of the first wears off.

The action of the hormone spray is to make the fruit stem take a fresh grip on the tree, so that, instead of losing hold and falling to the ground, the apples wait for the pickers, becoming rosier meanwhile, improving in quality and waxing in size. In this way the apples may be said to lose their gravity by resisting the law which one of their forbears helped Newton discover in 1665.

PLANTS AND ANIMALS SUBJECT TO ANAEMIA

Chlorophyll, the green coloring matter of plants, corresponds to haemoglobin which imparts the red color to blood. In composition, too, they are almost identical. Both contain carbon, hydrogen, oxygen and nitrogen. In chlorophyll these four elements are linked up with magnesium but in haemoglobin with iron. Chlorosis is a term used to describe the anaemic condition that is associated with impoverished blood in animals or deficiency of chlorophyll in plants.

Because iron is essential to haemoglobin and magnesium to chlorophyll, that is why it is often found necessary to include iron in the diet of animals with a tendency to anaemia, and magnesium in the fertilizer for crops grown on soils which have an inadequate supply of the element for the formation of green chlorophyll. "Sand drown" of tobacco is due to lack of magnesium. The disease is characterized by paling of color between the veins of the leaves.

In sections of the Maritime Provinces and more generally in the State of Maine there are soils so low in magnesium that potatoes cannot be grown successfully unless the substance is added to the fertilizer. Since soil testing has become so important a feature of advisory services to the farmer, it has afforded an opportunity for wide study and revealed that magnesium deficiency is much more common than once supposed.

Chlorophyll under the stimulating influence of sunlight assimilates carbon dioxide from the air and separates it into carbon and oxygen, retaining the carbon and combining it with hydrogen and oxygen — the elements of water — to form starch. The oxygen is returned to the air. In this respect the procedure is the reverse of our breathing process. We inhale oxygen and exhale carbon dioxide. But plants have their own way of doing things and work wonders for our benefit, provided they are supplied with the mineral substances required for their successful growth and food-building.

Of carbon dioxide there is only a trace in the atmosphere; yet from this source the plant derives the carbon which constitutes half its dry matter. Although the atmosphere contains nearly 80 per cent of nitrogen uncombined, only the legumes, alfalfa, clover, peas and beans — are capable of utilizing this source of that valuable plant food element, which they do through the aid of bacteria in their root nodules. If other plants could be trained to attack and fix nitrogen of the air the fertilizer problem would be simplified.

There are other plants which fix and combine atmospheric nitrogen, but these are man-made and operate chiefly on electro-chemical principles. The products of these synthetic nitrogen processes supplement the inadequate supplies of the older commercial sources of nitrogen for fertilizers.

Sea Power — the Hub Of the Allied Cause

By "Taffrail", British Columnist

Sea Power is the hub upon which the whole of the Allied cause revolves. The Germans realize this just as much as we do.

It is the main task of the Royal Navy to protect the seaborne trade without which we in Britain could neither exist nor continue the war. Much of our food comes from overseas; but our most important lifeline is undoubtedly represented by the convoys of merchantmen travelling across the Atlantic with munitions, aircraft and raw materials from America.

The Army in the Middle East was largely transported there over the 13,000 mile route round Cape of Good Hope, and under the protection of the Royal Navy.

It is wise always to remember that no troops can safely be sent abroad except under the protection of the Navy, and that the Royal Air Force, wherever it may be, operates on petrol carried by sea to its bases all over the world.

The task of the Navy is not merely protective. Our warships are also used offensively wherever and whenever there is a chance for attack. Consider the recent raid on the Lofoten Islands, the long series of naval engagements, bombardments and operations in both basins of the Mediterranean, as well as in the Red Sea and off the coast of Somaliland.

There is no denying, however, that the safeguarding of our convoys across the Atlantic is our most important naval responsibility at the present time. Germany realizes this, and the 2,000 miles of European coast in her occupation, from the North Cape to the Pyrenees, has provided her with many bases for the use of surface raiders, U-boats and aircraft. All the venom of her attack by these means, coupled with the extensive use of motor torpedo-boats and mines laid from aircraft, is now being concentrated upon our essential seaborne trade in the western approaches and round about the coasts of Britain.

U. S. Munitions Ship Brings Dress Models Back to New York

London—A ship carrying munitions from the United States is going back from England laden with 2,000 models of autumn sports wear and woollen dress fashions to show to store buyers in New York.

The collection will be taken across the Atlantic by six sales delegates led by Mr. Percy Trilnick, an Englishman well-known in America, where he lived for 18 years.

The exhibition, sponsored by the British Fashion Export Group, is of clothes in woven and knitted wool from 80 manufacturers in Yorshire, Leicester, Nottingham and Scotland.

Oxford Group Wins Support on Both Sides of Atlantic

Thibute to Fine Influence on the Morale of Civilians and Zeal of Labour Elements

London — Sir Robert Gower's motion in the House of Commons, supported by 75 M.P.'s, has evoked numerous expressions of confidence in the Oxford Group on both sides of the Atlantic. From the House of Representatives in Washington, Congressman Martin F. Smith cables Sir Robert that he has observed at first hand the work done by British Moral Re-Armament workers in the United States and declares that "they are not only directly aiding our national defence and armament program, which has just been erected to aid Britain and ourselves, but they are also giving our people in the most effective possible way an understanding of the ideals for which both our countries are now making common cause."

George Harrison, labor representative on the National Defence Mediation Board cabled a message in a similar vein: "One of the greatest forces binding our country with yours in this grave hour is the devoted work of British workers for Moral Re-Armament in America, who are helping us close our ranks."

Ottawa Support

A message was also received from Mayor Stanley Lewis of Ottawa, "I can vouch," said the Mayor, "for the value of the work of Moral Re-Armament in this city and other parts of Canada. I believe these men are doing an essential work in strengthening the links in the Empire's chain."

The 75 British M.P.'s have received many letters supporting the Gower motion, which declares that Moral Re-Armament "results in heightened national morale, increases industrial co-operation and strengthens the bonds of friendship between this country, the Dominions and the United Staes." One London M.P. reports having heard from 10 former conscientious objectors of his constituency who have joined the armed forces as a result of the work of the Oxford Group.

Mayors in the leading cities of South Wales, which have been singled out for savage bombardment from the air, have issued a joint statement declaring that their communities are "finding inspiration and inner strength in the call to Moral Re-Armament." In co-operation with the civic authorities, Oxford Group workers are conducting a campaign to strengthen morale.

Efficiency Promoted

In one coast town the efficiency in fire-fighting was directly traced to this spirit. In another town a strike between dockworkers caused by a subversive agent, was averted through the work of the Oxford Group.

In Sheffield, object of a number of severe Nazi air attacks, four Trades Union leaders urged support of the Oxford Group on the ground that it was "rendering an essential national service. Their work has been definitely effective against elements which are a menace to successful prosecution of the war."

Movers Must Notify Post-Office of Change

All persons who are moving are advised by the District Director of Postal Services that if they want their mail to be redirected to their new residence, they must advise the post office of their new address.

A change of address card, Form 59B, specially issued for this purpose, can be obtained from any post office.

All those concerned should also note that in accordance with the National Registration Regulations 1940, persons who change their address are required by law to notify the Dominion Statistician, at Ottawa, of such change and should use for this purpose a special change of address card (Form X) which can be purchased at the cost of one cent each at any postal station.

Past Master of Avoca Orange Lodge Dies At Hawkesbury

FREDERICK WM. KELLY

Hawkesbury — The death occurred here on April 27th of Frederick William Kelly, in his 50th year. Born in Avoca, son of William Kelly and his wife Martha Jane Bates, he received his early education in the schools of Avoca. He took a position with Hawkesbury Electric Power Co., and later the Ottawa and Montreal Light, Heat and Power Co. For the past 23 years he was an operator at the sub-station of the Gatineau Power Co. Nine years ago he moved to Hawkesbury, where he was active in the affairs of Hawkesbury United Church. He was also a past master of Avoca Orange Lodge.

Surviving are his widow, four sons, all at home, five daughters, two sisters, Mrs. Albert Arthurs and Mrs. Wm. Page, one brother, Joseph Kelly, all of Port Colborne, Ont.

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. Dr. T. B. Holden at Hawkesbury United Church Tuesday afternoon, April 29th, with interment at Avoca.

Dr. R. B. Fulton, a research enomologist, claims to have discovered a fly that spins a web, catches spiders, carries blue "tail-lights" fore-and-aft, and eats mushrooms.

A visitor to our office this week made the thought-provoking remark that the farmer is the only man in business who buys retail and sells wholesale.

Bomb Shocked Minds?

An article in The American Weekly maintains that the blasting of Nazi bombs is not half so pitiful as the shattering of the mentality of city children. "The daughter of the famous psychiatrist, Dr. Sigmund Freud, is working day and night to salvage young human wrecks," according to this article.

We have not read the story in question. The facts may be convincing, but we believe there is a tendency to sensationalism in gauging this mental reaction on young Britishers. We rather believe that the peril, destruction and slaughter which have been a part of their nightly routine, have been faced and accepted as an adventure of the age — stoically, uncomprehendingly perhaps; but those to whom the experience has brought mental derangement are generally of the neurotic type who suffer mental disorder even under normal tensions.

The last Great War was less terrifying on the civil populations. But from our own experience in its air-raids, these were frightening enough. Yet we never knew a child who took these things to heart, or absorbed their gravity. Similarly, in the fighting forces, men saw the horrors of a warfare which, in these times, might be considered elementary; but in Flanders they endured bloodshed and horror, muck and discomfort, perhaps worse than soldiers have known in the present war. Yet shell-shock cases were few compared with physical casualties; and among those of average nerve and mentality who served under fire, are there any in our midst today whose sanity is impaired ?

The human mind is remarkable versatile, wonderfully adaptable — especially in its youthful years. We have little dread, today, of a mass "shattering of the mentality of city children"; psychiatrists may be dealing with such cases, but they are few. More pitiful, we believe, is the lot of Europe's younger generations whose free-thinking is shackled now by the domination of godless rulers.

The Press and the Government

Misconceptions relating to the right of the press to criticize, commend or suggest to government bodies, civic, provincial or federal, is often assailed. For that reason it is essential that the position of the press in its relationship to governmental bodies should be examined.

Many well-meaning people believe that the press should express no conviction upon civic, provincial or federal affairs. They assume that to offer criticism is to become partisan. They confuse the meaning of the words "independent" and "neutral." There is a vital difference between the two. To be independent is to reserve the inalienable right of every citizen to approve or disapprove of any public matter without thought of servitude to any particular party or group. To be neutral is to avoid reference to any contentious matter. To sum up the two it would be fair to say that independence was that same privilege of the individual to decide for himself, for which party he shall vote, or which church he shall attend without pressure from party executives or religious dignitaries. To be neutral is to admit that one is not prepared to come to a decision or make a stand on any matter, and therefore to leave it alone.

Members of civic bodies sometimes point out that newspapers have such a tremendous influence in the community, and that their circulation is so wide-spread that they have an advantage over those with whom they disagree. This is true only insofar as the individual refuses to take advantage of the privilege granted by almost every newspaper of using the columns of the press, to express his or her views. There is, however, a much more important angle to this question. Newspapermen are equipped to give more adequate study to municipal affairs than most individuals. At their fingertips they have information which is not so readily available to every citizen. Their representatives attend meetings of civic bodies, and therefore have a better understanding of municipal affairs than the average voter. Of even greater importance is the attitude of the public to expect advice and leadership from the press. The newspaper is often the only medium through which citizens may keep abreast of the affairs of the community. They expect, and have the right to expect, that their newspaper will keep them advised of what is going on, and will also, through the information at its disposal, endeavour to interpret the news. The newspaper which fails to do this, is failing in what often amounts to its supreme task in the community.

Another assumption of some men and women in public office is that any criticism offered in a newspaper is personal, rather than objective. That is not true. Newspapers have been known to conduct violently personal campaigns, but it is the exception rather than the rule, and if any criticism violates the laws of defamatory libel, the individual always has recourse to the courts.

The newspaper which comments on public affairs, far from being presumptuous, is but fulfilling one of the most important and vital functions of the press. If it is genuine in its desire to be of service to the community, it will open its columns to signed letters from those who disagree with its editorial opinions, but all too often those who have this privilege fail to avail themselves of the opportunity, preferring to carry on a street corner or platform feud against the newspaper. By intelligent comment on public affairs the newspaper prevents the rise of unscrupulous men who seek office for private gain, and it often brings to light factors in a situation that have been entirely overlooked by the civic administrators and the public.

Eureka !

Our editorial last week on the wastage of milk bottles prompted a conversation — in the course of which we discovered a friend who on two or three occasions had put the alarm clock outside his front door and taken the milk bottle upstairs to bed . . . We had heard about this fellow in the "absent minded professor" stories, but never knew he actually existed.

War Hits at Beauty

The serene, unflinching courage of British women has earned the admiration of the world. Bombs and wholesale destruction, hardships and terror haven't weakened their morale and members of the so-called weaker sex have set a wonderful example for the mere male. But women in England are complaining now and war regulations imposed by the British government have accomplished what Nazi bombing couldn't do — they've kindled the flame of anger in feminine eyes. Sharp complaints have been inspired by the new gas masks, horrible contraptions of great hooked noses and goggle eyes calculated to make the prettiest girl look like something from another world. Use of blue lights in factory rest rooms have brought a storm of protest from girl workers who claim it is impossible to apply make-up properly under this ghastly glare. Now to top it all off, Labor Minister Bevin's call-up of women and the shortage of metal curlers and bleaches is expected to have an effect on British hair styles. Bombs are just bombs to British women but the Government had better be careful when regulations begin to tamper with the serious matter of feminine beauty.

The Village of Bashaw

Bashaw, Alberta, is a tiny hamlet located ninety miles from Edmonton; and Bashaw has blushed unseen, just another spot on the map of that district, for many years. Bashaw was distinctly in the whistle-stop or tank town category but now the little village is being held up as a model community. It required the recent Canadian War Services Fund appeal to jerk sleepy little Bashaw into nation wide prominence and the Alberta community has aquired big city rating through its remarkable record in the Campaign. There are 350 inhabitants of Bashaw and the name of every man, women and child living in the village appeared on the list of subscribers to the Canadian War Services Fund. The total contribution was $450, running well over $1.00 per person. No insignificant news, this story of Bashaw and every Canadian may feel pride in the generous gesture of this little Alberta village. As long as Canada possesses communities of Bashaw's type there is no need to worry over the financing of the Canadian War Effort.

Cuffless Trousers

Latest in English economy measures is the abolition of the trouser cuff. Tailors, forced to economize through a 70 per cent reduction in wool supplies, are talking of reviving the straight trouser leg as first move in a campaign that may include the abolishing of the double breasted coat. Surprising as it may seem, trouser cuffs account for 100 yards of material in every 1,000 and the saving in cloth will be a considerable one. Most men, we believe, don't care the proverbial hoot whether trousers are cuffed or uncuffed and, as the tailors state, cuffs are unhygenic and provide a handy pocket for collection of dust and dirt. Only useful purpose of turnups, as the average man knows, is to catch coins dropped from "butter fingers." If a coin drops and a man can't locate it after a thorough search on the floor, it usually turns up in the trouser cuff.

Homing pigeon owned by Raymond Downing, of Holyoke, Mass., returned just a year after it had started in a pigeon race at Fonda, N. Y., and the owner is glad he didn't wait up for his bird...

'Twas just a year ago it started,
In the feathered marathon,
And when long months brought no report,
The owner feared his bird was gone,
But now this handsome pigeon's home
And neighbors all declare they heard,
Its master mutter, disappointed,
"This can't be THE EARLY BIRD!"

THE LIFE OF WINSTON CHURCHILL

THE MAN WHO 'LL BEAT HITLER

(Part 8)

Following the enthusiastic Khaki Election of December 1918, when the Lloyd George "Coalition" Government was overwhelmingly supported, Winston Churchill found himself holding not just one Cabinet portfolio, but two ! He was made War Minister and Minister for Air. The one-time exile had, indeed, come a long way.

When the Supreme War Council (representing the combined Allied Commands) approved help for the White Russians against the Bolsheviks, Winston Churchill reluctantly embarked on a campaign against the Bolshies, but once again he was "betrayed" by others, for the aid given by the Allied Commands was feeble, and when the campaign petered out, all Churchill had for his efforts to keep an agreement made by others was the renewed enmity of the British Labour Party, which unfairly blamed him for initiating the campaign.

Minister for Colonies

In 1921 there was a shake-up in the Coalition Government to appease the Conservatives, and Winston Churchill became head of the Colonial Office. Here he distinguished himself by disposing of two thorny problems.

In the Middle East, the Arabs were discontented and their friend and spokeman, Lawrence of Arabia, was embittered, because wartime pledges for Arab independence had been sidetracked. Writing later of the conferences initiated by Winston Churchill, which gave the Arabs a goodly share of their demands, Lawrence said: "Churchill in a few weeks made straight all the tangle, finding solutions; fulfilling, I think, our promises in letter and spirit without sacrificing any interests of the Empire or of the people concerned."

Winston Concialiates the Irish

The Irish problem, which had for many years sprawled bloodily across the pages of British history, now became increasingly grave. To Winston Churchill fell the task of negotiating a settlement.

Many times it seemed that conflicting interests and frayed tempers would frustrate the conference, but with infinite tact and patience, Mr. Churchill prevented a deadlock. Once he said to Arthur Griffith, Irish leader: "I would like us to have beaten you beyond all question, and then to have given you freely all that we are giving you now."

In the face of bitter opposition, chiefly from Conservatives, he piloted the Treaty through the House of Commons. When peace was finally signed between Ireland and Britain, it brought no peace to Mr. Churchill, as for many months he had a Scotland Yard bodyguard always with him to prevent attack by disgruntled Sinn Feiners. It is related that when Viscount Gort, recently Britain's Commander-in-Chief, tried to see Winston Churchill in the House of Commons, the guard refused him entry because "he spoke with a suspicious brogue !"

Winston's "Waterloo"

Back in 1908, when Winston Churchill first stood for Dundee, one of his opponents was a fanatical teetotaller named Scrimgeour, who polled only a few hundred votes. In four elections through the years, Mr. Srimgeour perseveringly but unsuccessfully opposed Mr. Churchill. In 1922 he became Winston's "Nemesis."

In that year, a Conservative Party revolt against the Coalition led to the latter's downfall and a general election. Winston Churchill again stood for Dundee, but was struck down with appendicitis and Mrs. Churchill electioneered for him. It was a bitter election, one of the rowdiest on record, The Socialists were out to get their revenge on Winston Churchill.

Just before polling day, Winston Churchill disregarded his doctors' orders and insisted on going to Dundee. Pale, sick and suffering intensely, he tried to address a public meeting, but the audience, consisting largely of Socialists, jeered at him, howled him down, and refused to permit him to speak.

There were four candidates for the two Dundee seats. Mr. Scrimgeour, Prohibitionist, led the poll, and Winston Churchill came last. But even in defeat, Mr. Churchill kept his sense of humour. The King had recently conferred the Companionship of Honour on him, and a young man asked Winston if the honor carried any title.

"No", he replied; "I am just plain Mr. Churchill, with no prefix, no suffix, with not even an appendix."

Progress — And Tears

Some thousands of people who have lived alongside the St. Lawrence all their lives, as their fathers, grandfathers and great-grandfathers lived there before them, are to be told to get out and move somewhere else (as a result of the Seaways scheme). It is true that compensation is promised them, but what are dollars and cents in comparison with the sacrifices these people are being called upon to make? People who live in security hundreds of miles distant, and who may hope to profit from this undertaking, pooh-pooh the feelings of Dundas county residents, but the people directly concerned, those who have to surrender their most prized possessions, have other feelings and they are entitled to every sympathy.

Personality Parade

BY LAWRENCE HIBBERT

You have heard of Premier Smuts of South Africa, of course, but do you know really much about him?

Jan Smuts is one of the most remarkable statesmen the British Empire ever had.

His father meant him to be a preacher; he himself wanted to be a lawyer; he actually became a great soldier, because when Britain fought the Boers, Smuts fought the British. He is also a scientist and a great student — as well as a gentleman.

Following the Boer War, Smuts became as friendly to Britain as he had been inimical. In a memorable address he said: "Britain's act of unparalleled generosity in restoring self-government to the Transvaal and Orange Free State after the Boer War has made me her friend." And he added: "As her friend I shall die."

Admonished His Wife

General Smuts' wife did not agree with him about the settlement after the Boer War. She was bitter about the British.

"You will be punished for your bitterness one of these days," her husband told her. "Your punishment may be that your children may marry Englishmen."

The General's words proved prophetic, for their daughter did marry an Englishman — and went to live happily in England.

Drove Germans Out of Africa

During the First Great War, General Smuts put down a revolt of dissident Boers in South Africa itself, then drove the Germans from their African colonies, fighting two wars to do so.

When the present war broke out Smuts, who had served under Premier Hertzog for years for the sake of national unity, challenged the Premier when he declared his intention of keeping South Africa neutral. Smuts won, and took South Africa into the war on the side of Britain. Many of the extreme nationalists had to agree that Smuts was right when the Nazis raped Holland last Spring.

Pitiless Foe, Great Friend

General Smuts, like Winston Churchill of whom he is a great personal friend, is a relentless foe when war is on. When peace is restored, he is all for treating an enemy generously.

But he is unalterably opposed to returning a single colony to the Huns. He does not believe in giving the Germans control over a single person outside Germany itself — whether brown, yellow or white.

And I agree with him !

Stopped a Revolution

Much has been heard lately of Sumner Welles, United States Assistant Secretary of State, and more will be heard in the future.

It has been said of him that he is more accustomed to trouble than to diplomacy. Certainly he is no stranger to revolutions. When he was sent to the Dominican Republic in 1922 to smooth out trouble there, he did it "with a flat-iron."

He was rushed to Cuba when revolution was brewing there, and wherever he went hot-headed Latins yelled "Murderer" after him. But he managed to make peace — for the time being.

Keep Your Market Warm

A retailer's market requires to be kept warm if it is to be fully productive. A cold market means a minimum business for retailers. A market resembles a chimney in this respect. A chimney won't draw unless and until it is heated; similarly, a retailer's market won't draw — will lack suction power — unless and until it is kept warm ... Markets are people — people living in homes. People with a thousand wants and needs. People have always to be informed about things which can and will satisfy their wants and needs — this if they are to have the will to satisfy them. Uninformed people represent a cold market . . . Advertisements in weekly newspapers acquaint people with things which will satisfy their desires and needs. Advertisements do more than merely inform; they uncover people's wants and needs, and fan them into hot desire. Advertisements keep markets warm. The more retailers in our community employ advertising to inform and to whet desire, the warmer is our community market, which means that more trading is done.

DISTRICT NEWS

FROM OUR COUNTY CORRESPONDENTS

DALESVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. George McCormick spent a few days in Montreal last week.

Miss Enid Campbell, nurse at the Verdun General Hospital, spent the week-end at home.

Mr. B. Cuthbert was a guest at the home of Mrs. W. J. Morrow recently.

Mrs. Cregeen and friends were visitors at Camp Murdoch last week-end.

Mrs. E. Morrow and family visited friends in Cornwall this week.

At about midnight last Monday, strangers driving through Dalesville noticed smoke and flames issuing from the roof of Mr. Alex Beaton's home. The men ran and wakened the Beaton family, then climbed to the roof and checked the fire. By the time neighbors were summoned and had arrived, the men had the blaze under control. These strangers deserve warm thanks for their quick and ready efforts, through which both lives and property were saved.

BROWNSBURG

A number of W. I. members from Brownsburg attended the county convention in Lachute on Tuesday; all report a very enjoyable time.

The Rev. S. J. Pike was in Providence, R. I., last week attending his niece's wedding.

Mrs. Wm. Hewitt is at present a patient in the Royal Victoria Hospital; friends wish her a speedy recovery.

Mr. Stephen Pike, of Montreal, spent the week-end at his home here.

Mrs. E. D. McCullouch was in Montreal on Tuesday.

Guardsman Stanley Seary, of Valcartier, spent the week-end at his home here.

Mrs. C. K. Passmore, of Portland, Maine, has been the guest of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gardiner, for a few days. Mrs. James Reid and son, Donald, motored to Montreal with Mrs. Passmore on her return to Portland.

CUSHING WEST

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas, of Ottawa, were Sunday guests of Mrs. Alcide Tessier at Grece's Point.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hartley, spent the week-end at their cottage on the river shore.

Messrs. Wilfred and Douglas Hartley and their families occupied their cottages here over the week-end.

Messrs. Hugh Danford and H. Young, also the Misses Isabelle Abraham and Edna Young, were motor guests of Mrs. Mattinson on Sunday.

Miss Helen Whelehan, of Montreal, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Whelehan.

Dr. Cushing and family, with their guest, Dr. Dick Harbert, of the Western Hospital, spent the week-end at their residence here.

Mrs. Usher left Wednesday to spend the remainder of the week in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Pinkerton spent Sunday at their residence.

Miss Norma Cooke and Mrs. McCallum, of St. Andrews, were guests of Mrs. C. L. Cooke on Saturday.

MORIN HEIGHTS

A number of men on contract for the Bell Telephone Co. are here at present working on the line between Morin and Sixteen Island Lake.

The W. A. of Trinity Church held their May meeting at the home of Mrs. Robt. Goodfellow on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Howard Baugh, of Lakefield took the service in the Anglican Church on Sunday.

A good number of the W.I. ladies attended the county convention at Lachute on Tuesday, May 6th.

Mrs. H. Jeikell has returned from Montreal, after spending the past couple of weeks in the city.

RESCUE WITH A LENGTH OF HOSE

Troop Leader Patrick Yenson, 17, of Capreol, Ont., provided an original example of resourcefulness when rescuing an 8 year old lad broken through ice. An attempt to reach him with a ladder had failed, and there was no rope available. Then the hurriedly searching Scout found a length of garden hose. Promptly he secured this round his waist, and swam out to the boy. He was able to support him until firemen arrived, and both were brought ashore.

OBITUARY

LATE MRS. H. DAVIS

The death of Mrs. Henry Davis, formerly Annie E. Morrison, occurred on Wednesday, April 30th, at her late residence. Mrs. Davis had been in ill health for some time. Born in Lachute, she had resided the greater part of her life in this locality, being in her 67th year. She was a member of the United Church and the Women's Missionary Society.

The funeral was held on Friday afternoon, May 2nd, from her residence, and was largely attended. Service was conducted by the Rev. W. B. Rosborough. Interment took place in Lachute Cemetery.

The pallbearers were — Messrs. J. E. Walker, Hugh Martin, Wm. Gordon, Gordon Miller, Albert Scott and John Nicoll.

Those left to mourn her passing are her husband; one son, William; one granddaughter; also two sisters, Mrs. Lucas and Miss M. Morrison, of St. Lambert, and two brothers, Mr. Wm. Morrison, of Lachute, and Mr. A. Morrison, of British Columbia.

trip around the world in 1939. The power of speech and beauty of the English language — brought right into our own homes by means of the radio; it brings us speeches from such notable men as Messrs. Churchill, Roosevelt and Brockington. She spoke also of the benefit of international visits; how we had been taught to think not only imperially but nationally. The speaker likened our lives to a tapestry which we are weaving; that, though the pattern was not always easy to discern, yet from the strands we would see something of beauty and interest. Most of all, in this weaving is needed the partnership of government, college and country-women.

Mrs. Watt spoke also of many European countries, mentioning especially Norway and the high standards of the Norwegian education. She gave a great praise to the women of these small countries who, she explained, were keeping civilization together. She also lauded the Australians, for the manner in which they had arisen to their challenge. The great attraction country life has for young girls, was also stressed; as country-women it was our duty to make like life most pleasant for them. It was our duty, she said, to see that the people were fed, and realize that it is worth while for the farmer to feed them.

Mrs. Watt urged the Women's Institutes to remember, their group was an educational rather than charitable one. We were to see that our resources were conserved and work for better marketing facilities as she foresaw a general exodus to the land.

In closing, the speaker asserted that women cannot meet this challenge without an open mind, and without prayer.

The meeting closed with the singing of the national anthem.

Lachute Fair Prize List Issued This Week

The prize list of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society has now been issued and sent out by the secretary-treasurer, Alex Bothwell.

In connection with the live-stock classes, Mr. Bothwell advises that any exhibitors requiring to have their cattle federally tested, should apply at once to Dr. J. Theoret, veterinary, Lachute.

Lachute Fair has a fine record, and the directors are busily preparing their program for June 12th and following two days.

FLYER ACE WAS A BOY SCOUT

Flight Sergeant Laurie Freese, R.A.F., recently killed in action, described as a coming "ace" was a Boy Scout of the 4th Ilford Troop. He was a member of a famous fighter squadron that recently brought down its 600th German plane.

APPOINTED TO PARISH OF MORIN HTS.-MILLE ISLES FOR SUMMER MONTHS

Lakefield — It was announced last week that Mr. Horace G. Baugh, son of the Rev. C. W. P. Baugh of Lakefield, has been appointed by Bishop Carlisle to take temporary charge of the Parish of Morin Heights and Mille Isles as well as the Parish of New Glasgow and Kilkenny.

Mr. Baugh has been on duty in New Glasgow and Kilkenny since last September, when he replaced the late Rev. G. H. Gagnon. When the Rev. J. V. Temple of Morin Heights was appointed to All Saints' Church, Montreal, it was decided to combine the two country parishes for the time being.

Under this new arrangement Morin Heights will have Morning Prayer and Evensong, at 10 a.m. and 8 p.m. respectively, while Mille Isles and Kilkenny will have an afternoon service on alternate Sundays, at 3 o'clock, (D.S.T.) Services will be held every Sunday in Mille Isles until June. New Glasgow will have a regular morning service at 11 o'clock (E.S.T.).

Previous to his appointment to New Glasgow Mr. Baugh had been assisting at St. Thomas' Church in Montreal, continuing his university studies at the same time.

MOTHER'S DAY SERVICE AT LACHUTE UNITED

A special Mother's Day service will be held next Sunday morning in Lachute United Church. There will also be a brief dedication of memorials at this service.

BROWNSBURG UNITED CHURCH ACTIVITES

Brownsburg — The Young People's monthly service last Sunday evening was well attended, as was the song service immediately following . . . Mr. Cedric Wheeler was the speaker and outlined the plan of the War Savings Certificate project of the United Church. Those assisting Mr. Wheeler included Miss C. Gordon and Mr. Stuart Martin; Miss Winnie White conducted the service.

The service next Sunday evening will be under auspices of the C.G.I.T., who will present a Mother's Day program. The service will be under the leadership of Miss S. Lupien . . . The morning service will also be devoted to this annual observance.

PRESBYTERIAN Y.P.S.

The Presbyterian Young People's Society of Margaret Rodger Memorial Church held their regular meeting Wednesday night, with 15 members present.

The principal business of the evening was the accounting of proceeds raised by the benefit show. The total amount raised for the Argenteuil Spitfire Fund was $85.41.

The business meeting was then closed and refreshments were served.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

"Adam and Fallen Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday, May 11th.

The Golden Text is from Romans 5:17. "If by one man's offence death reigned by one;much more they which receive abundance of grace and of the gift of righteousness shall reign in life by one, Jesus Christ."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Cease ye from man, whose breath is in his nostrils: for wherein is he to be accounted of?" (Isaiah 2:22).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy; "The denial of material selfhood aids the discernment of man's spiritual and eternal individuality, and destroys the erroneous knowledge gained from matter or through what are termed the material senses." (Page 91).

CANADA'S LEADING COOKERY EXPERTS RECOMMEND MAGIC

Alaska Cruise Delightful Holiday

The Trail of '98 that once taxed the energies of Alaska-bound prospectors, today has an alternative and more attractive route, served not by dog-sled, but by luxury steamships of the Canadian Pacific coast fleet, and following the sheltered "Inside Passage" between Vancouver and Skagway. These trim liners, whose sister ships ply the "Triangle Route" between Vancouver, Victoria and Seattle, and cruise the west coast of Vancouver Island, bring the "Midnight Sun" within three days of Vancouver.

Commencing May 2 and effective till Sept. 30, three smart "Princess" liners will conduct a series of 9-day cruises from Vancouver to Skagway, with a 33-hour stop-over at the Alaskan port. The B.C. coast service will also operate three 11-day cruises to Alaska, allowing for side trips by rail and lake from Skagway to Lake Bennett, Whitehorse and West Taku Arm. The cruise liner "Princess Charlotte" will feature in these tours.

From comfy deck chairs, today's northbound nomad is treated to a moving pageant of majestic glaciers, towering peaks, and rock-bound fjords. Adventure waits at every port of call. Alert Bay, Prince Rupert, Ketchikan, Wrangell and Juneau follow in colorful succession, each with its weird array of totem poles and other symbols of Indian life.

Picturesque "Sunset Cruises" along the west coast of Vancouver Island are also scheduled for the current season between Victoria and Port Alice. These popular cruises offer the passenger eight days of splendid coastal scenery with regular stop-overs at quaint Indian fishing villages. Two Canadian Pacific liners will be in "Sunset Cruise" service from June 1 to September 21.

Life on a Canadian Pacific coast vessel is fashioned after that of an ocean liner. Deck tennis, shuffleboard, morning bouillon, afternoon tea, horse racing, dances, moonlight promenades on deck, and midnight snacks all contribute to the joys of shipboard life on a Canadian Pacific "Princess" liner.

A woman may be taken for granted, but she never goes without saying.

Blitz Dollars for British Artists

U. S. A. Connoisseurs Buying-Up Masterpieces

London — The Lease-Lend Act has had an unexpected echo in the world of art. The closer association of the two democracies has led to Great Britain's private collections of works of art being secured by the picture dealers to gratify the increasing interest of American collectors. They are asking chiefly for portraits by front-rank English and Scottish painters of the late 18th and early 19th century, and for landscapes by English painters of a hundred years ago.

Two Scottish painters come high among the "wanted". Raeburn, whose portraits have for many years commanded a higher price than is generally realised, probably heads it. Almost as popular, and more rare is the work of another great Scottish portrait painter, Alexander Nasmyth (1758-1840).

Connoisseurs in the United States are ranging beyond the names of the more famous English portrait painters. John Downman, the Devon artist, and John Singleton Copley, who was born in Massachusetts but later worked in England, are of high value today.

So are the English landscapes by John W. Wilson and Samuel Scott's fine records of Jacobean and Georgian London. Good contemporary work of historic London buildings is also much sought after to record the metropolis as it was in the days immediately before the destroyers swooped upon it. An odd aspect of the new American demand for English work is that it has completely ousted the pre-war popularity in the States for Dutch interiors, seascapes, pastoral and skating scenes.

"Mr. Chairman,", complained the speaker, stopping in his address, "I have been on my feet nearly ten minutes, but there is so much ribaldry and interruption I can hardly hear myself speak."

"Cheer up, guv-nor," came a voice from the rear, "you ain't missin' much."

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Miss Elizabeth Patterson, of Montreal, visited friends here last week-end.

Miss Jean Graham, of Macdonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, spent the week at her home.

Miss Doris Leroy, of St. Andrews East, was the week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pelletier were guests at the Strang-Pelletier wedding in Quebec City last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Kirkpatrick and Mr. Elmer Kirkpatrick were Sunday guests of Mrs. Ernest Ward.

Mr. Ross Hopkins, of Montreal, spent last week-end visiting Miss Eleanor Monette, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. MacGibbon.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tomalty, of Hamilton, spent a few days this week visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Tomalty, in Lakefield, and other friends in this locality.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Giles left on Wednesday for Hamilton, to attend the conference of the Ontario-Quebec Division, Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association — Mr. Giles is secretary-treasurer of this group.

The Senior C.G.I.T. of Lachute United Church held their drawing for an Ayers overthrow, at the Rex Theatre on Saturday evening. The winner was Mr. John Kirkpatrick, of Thomas' Gore. The sum of $78.60 was realized, and is being donated to the Argenteuil Spitfire Fund.

Mr. Leslie Golden, of Louisa, has sold his farm to Mr. E. E. Bard, of St. Lambert.

Mrs. Joseph Stewart, of Mount Maple, spent a few days last week visiting Mr. and Mrs. M. Jones.

Mrs. Levis Massicotte and little son, Claude, of Grand'Mere, have arrived in town to join Mr. Massicotte and have taken up residence on Bedard Blvd.

Traffic-Officer, Howard Jones and Mrs. Jones, who have spent the winter months in Lachute, have now taken up residence in Grenville.

Mrs. F. L. C. Bond and Miss Theodosia Bond, who were at the Ritz-Carlton for few days, have now taken up residence at their farm, "The Willows", at Lachute, for the summer months.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Jones and children, of Montreal, visited friends in Lachute and Thos' Gore on Sunday.

Mr. Elden James left on Sunday evening for Oshawa to enter the Missionary College, where he will take up vocational training for the summer months and intends resuming his scholastic studies in October.

Trooper Lyster Ward, of the 6th Hussars, Longueuil, is spending a five-days' leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ward.

Guardsmen Harold, Frank and John Maidens, and John Blais, of the Canadian Grenadier Guards, Valcartier, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. C. Maidens at Lachute Mills.

Telegraphist Harold A. Irish, of the Royal Canadian Navy, Victoria, B. C., was a week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. MacGibbon. Mr. Irish was recently married to Miss Jessie Drennan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Drennan, formerly of this locality.

A group of friends were entertained by Mrs. James Reid Wednesday evening last, in honor of Mr. Robt. Wood and Mr. George Leggett, who have recently joined the Air Force. After the presentation of farewell gifts — a supper was served.

In the good old days the man who saved money was a miser. Now he's a wonder.

Former Brownsburg Resident Married

Campbell - Blachford

Toronto, May 3 — The Bishop Strachan School Chapel, Toronto, provided the setting for the wedding of Ruth Bodwell, only daughter of Mrs. and the late F. R. Blachford, to Lieut. Andrew Claude Campbell, R.C.O.C., Camp Borden, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Campbell of Perth, Ontario. The Rev. K. F. Blachford of St. Catharines, brother of the bride, officiated.

The wedding music was provided by the St. Thomas' Boys' Choir directed by the organist, Mr. Alfred E. Clarke. Choral selections were "Oh God of Love" set to a special arrangement of The Bridal March by the late Doctor Harn, Cathedral organist, and "Where e'er You Walk" by Handel.

The bride wore a white satin gown fashioned on princess lines with full train, veil of tulle illusion caught with a French tiara of white orange blossoms and pearls, and carried a bouquet of white bouvardia sweet peas and yellow roses. Her only attendant, Miss Eleanor M. Young, of Toronto, wore a period frock of yellow organdie over taffeta with a hyacinth flowered turban, and carried a spray of gaily coloured roses and orchid sweet peas.

Mr. E. Keith Campbell was his brother's groomsman, and Mr. E. A. King of Brownsburg and Mr. D. C. Anderson of Nobel acted as ushers.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's mother, who wore a gown of violet lace with corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Campbell, mother of the groom, was gowned in blue sheer, with corsage of pink roses. For traveling the bride wore a frock of minuet blue crepe, navy accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

The bride is a graduate of Bishop Strachan School and the bridegroom of the University of Toronto.

Q. W. I. Has 'Self-Denial' Fund for War Effort

A special project of the Q. W. I. during the last few months has been the raising of a self-denial fund through individual members —writes Elizabeth McCurdy, provincial publicity convenor. Each member is expected to contribute not less than one dollar to this fund before the first of June, the amount raised to be later allocated for a definite war effort.

Nine-year-old Joe Raridazza, of Gloucester, Mass., has rather a big appetite. He gained 100 lbs in 14 months and now weighs 290 lbs. One recent night he woke up hungry, so he got up, went to the ice-box and ate five chickens intended for the family's dinner next day.

To invest once is human; to invest regularly is patriotic. To do your duty — buy War Savings Certificates regularly.

Women's Institute

Agriculture was the theme of the W. I. meeting, held at the home of Mrs. John Heatlie on Friday night. An article on "The Antiquity of Cheese" was read; the roll-call replied to by naming "a vegetable useful for canning"; an exchange of bulbs and flower slips was made between members, and an interesting floral-fruit-vegetable jumbled-letter contest staged, in which Mrs. L. M. Gaston and Mrs. F. Fuller were prize winners. Twenty dollars was donated towards the "Spitfire Fund". Quite a number of members also paid their dollar towards the the $1,000 the W. I. members of Quebec Province are trying to raise before June as a donation towards Canada's war effort, and five cents a member was voted towards the raising of the final $50. for Federated W. I. war work.

KILMAR

Mrs. P. Philipps, of Kilmar, left last week to return to her home in Barrington, Nova Scotia. She has been residing with Mr. and Mrs. G. Baker, of Kilmar.

Interesting Topics at Sunday "Firesides" In Brownsburg

Brownsburg, May 6 —

On April 20th, the Sunday Evening Fireside had the privilege of being addressed by Mr. F. Parker, traffic manager of C-I-L. Mr. Parker entitled his talk "The Cathedrals of England", and into this he wove the past, present and future.

His description of the ancient cathedrals and incidents in connection with them, was very well done and most interesting. The speaker closed his address on the topic of our present war and the future. The need was again emphasized for us to think of what we are working for in the future and to start to build towards a more stable post-war period.

The musical part of the evening was well handled by Miss Jean Flynn at the piano, and Cedric Wheeler, who capably directed the sing-song.

* * *

The Fireside was well attended on Sunday evening, April 27th, to hear Murray Brooks tell something of the far eastern situation.

Mr. Brooks is a man who has spent the greater part of his life as an Ambassador of Good Will in the Orient, particularly in India. Three years ago Mr. Brooks was sent to Burma but returned to Canada last September due to the war situation.

Mr. Brooks' talk centred around the famous Burma Road and the reasons for its closing for a period of time. He told something of the building of this road, built without all the modern methods of road construction. The bridges consisted of pontoons that were laced together with bamboo. He pointed out that, as long as this road was kept open and munitions supplied, Japan would never defeat China, and even if defeated, they would never be conquered. The only way Japan can stop the flow of munitions is by bombing, and the road is so constructed it can be repaired very readily.

Mr. Brooks told of the thousands of Chinese who had settled in Burma since the opening of this road, and illustrated that the Burma Road is China's life line and must be kept open at all costs.

The talk was made more interesting by the use of special maps.

Amateur Hour by Plastics Employees At Brownsburg

Brownsburg, May 6 —

Led by Charlie Prosser, members of the Plastics Amateur Troupe staged an entertainment for the Brownsburg employees on Saturday night, April 26th.

That the fame of this organization had preceded it, was witnessed by the largest Saturday night turn-out in the history of the recreation hall, and that the audience enjoyed every minute of it was proven by the happy comments heard far and wide throughout the plant since that memorable night.

From so many talented performers and so much excellent entertainment, it would be impossible to pick as outstanding any particular number or entertainer. It was truly a cast of stars, but mention must be made of Red Charlebois' almost operatic rendition of "Oh Marie". It surprised even the other members of the quartet.

Special thanks are due to Lefty Racine and Reg Wallace, who not only participated in the evening's program but also rehearsed the cast and did all the things in the way of stage managing that went far towards making the production a success.

The accomplished artists were — Lefty Racine, Pat Pilon, Red Charlebois, Reg Wallace, Jim Cunningham, Miss Noella Racine, Miss M. Goyette, Donald Reid, Miss Jeannette Fournier, Miss E. MacAdam, Charlie Prosser.

TENDERS FOR COAL AND COKE

Federal Buildings—Prov. Quebec.

Sealed tenders addressed to the Undersigned and endorsed. "Tender for Coal, Province of Quebec", will be received until three p.m. (E.D.S.T.), Wednesday, May 21, 1941, for the supply of coal and coke for the Dominion Buildings in the Province of Quebec, except Montreal, P. Q.

Forms of tender with specifications and conditions attached can be obtained from the Chief Purchasing Agent, Department of Public Works, Ottawa; from Mr. Roland Simard, Supervising Architect, 150 St. Paul St. West, Montreal; and from Mr. J. A. Drolet, Architect, Public Works Department, Customs Building, Quebec, P. Q.

Tenders should be made on the forms supplied by the Department and in accordance with departmental specification and conditions attached thereto.

When the amount of a tender exceeds the sum of $5,000.00 — whether it be for one building only or more — the tenderers must attach to their tender a certified cheque on a chartered bank in Canada, made payable to the order of the Honorable the Minister of Public Works, equal to 10 per cent of the amount of the tender, or Bearer Bonds of the Dominion of Canada or of the Canadian National Railway Company and its constituent companies unconditionally guaranteed as to principal and interest by the Dominion of Canada, or the aforementioned bonds and a certified cheque, if required to make up an odd amount.

The Department also reserves the right to demand from any successful tenderer a security deposit, in the form of a certified cheque or bond as above, equal to 10 per cent of the amount of his bid, to guarantee the proper fulfilment of the contract.

By order, J. M. SOMERVILLE,
Secretary.

THE WOMAN'S PAGE

By JESSIE ALLEN BROWN

WILSON WOODSIDE

Wilson Woodside is one of the best commentators on the air. In fact, there are many who prefer him to any other. He manages to gather up all the loose pieces and fit them together in such a way as to give you a complete picture. His familiarity with the countries involved help to give a clear picture. He does not minimise conditions but he does not leave you depressed when things look discouraging. He can say more in five minutes than most commentators do in fifteen. He ought to be an exchange feature, for the American stations are missing something good when they do not get him.

THE SAILORS BUY PRESENTS

The stores in the port cities are doing a great business in silk stockings and cosmetics. The British sailors buy them as presents. They seldom buy less than three pairs of stockings and more often in half-dozen lots. They know exactly what they want as to size, length, and usually the color and they want the best. Sometimes one lad off a merchant ship will come in and buy, and then he will be back again with two or three of his mates to show them where to buy. Cold cream and face powder are the cosmetics most frequently purchased. They usually pick out a clerk who has a complexion somewhat like the girl for whom they are buying the present and then they can give the right shade of powder. Whenever I see sailors from either the Navy or Merchant Marine, or as the King calls it, the Merchant Navy, buying stockings or cosmetics, I am glad to think that some English woman will be getting something to help her keep up her morale.

ELECTRIC MIXERS

It is surprising the number of people who own electric mixers but do not get much good of them. One reason is they are not kept handy and it is too much bother to get them out. Our mixer stands on the counter and it is even kept plugged in ready for instant use. The kitchen might look tidier if the mixer was put away in the cabinet but after all the kitchen is a work room and the tools should be kept ready for convenient use. I had two callers the other afternoon, both own mixers. One said she only used hers if she had a quantity of cream to whip. She had tried making cake with it but did not think her cakes were as good as when done by hand. It is not advisable to mix in the flour in a cake with the mixer as it beats it too much, but it can be used most successfully to cream the eggs and sugar and to beat the eggs. Use it up to the time of adding the flour and the liquid, which are added alternately. One woman often baked bread or rolls but had never used her mixer in making them. I beat the yesat mixture very thoroughly after I have added enough flour to make a light batter. When enough flour is added to make the mixture too stiff to beat with the mixer, then I add the rest by hand and it only requires to be stirred in. Bread and rolls are not much trouble to make if you use an electric mixer. Shortbread is another thing so easy to make by using the mixer as the butter and sugar can be thoroughly creamed . . . Neither woman had ever used their machine for vegetables. Turnips and parsnips are quickly and easily mashed with the mixer. I find it does potatoes too much and they are nicer when mashed by hand. I have had my mixer for seven or eight years and I doubt if I average more than a day a month that it is not in use. But it wouldn't be if I had to drag it out of a cupboard.

BRAN MUFFINS

Molasses is a better food than sugar as it contains all the minerals which are refined out of sugar. Instead of dosing your family with the old-fashioned Spring medicine of sulphur and molasses, use it in your cooking whenever possible. Here is a bran muffin recipe which not only tastes good but is a moister muffin than the usual one and it keeps longer.

2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons molasses, 1 cup flour, ¾ cup milk, 1 egg, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup raisins, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 cup bran, 2½ teaspoons baking powder.

Soak the bran in the milk until it is all absorbed, about a half hour. Cream the butter and sugar thoroughly, stir in the molasses, then add the well-beaten egg. Sift in the dry ingredients, add the raisins and mix only enough to stir in the flour. Fill greased muffin tins about two-thirds full and bake in a hot oven of 400 degrees for thirty minutes. If you use sour milk use ½ teaspoon soda and 1 teaspoon baking powder.

FRENCH TOAST

French toast is a tasty change from pancakes and maple syrup. I find there are not many recipe books have a recipe for it, so in case you haven't one here it is:

1 egg, 1 teaspoon sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk.

Beat the egg until light, add milk, add sugar and salt. Cut slices of bread fairly thick, dip the slices in the mixture and remove at once. Brown in butter in a hot frying pan. Serve hot with maple syrup or jelly.

Crullers and Coffee Are Boon Companions

By Betty Barclay

Whether or not you actually "dunk" your doughnut—dip it in coffee to bring out its delicate and tempting flavor—you will have to admit that a cup a steaming hot, savory coffee is a perfect companion for this tidbit.

You can serve these famous affinities for luncheon, dinner or informal refreshments — and they have sponsors in many parts of the country for breakfast. It's a good idea to serve decaffeinated coffee so that the confirmed 'dunker' can enjoy extra cups without worrying over sleeping problems. Remember that decaffeinated coffee needs a little longer brewing, when made by pot or percolator, to bring out its rich, full flavor.

You can make it by any method—drip, percolator or pot. To get best results, always be sure that the coffee making apparatus is absolutely clean.

Steeped Coffee

(An improved "boiled coffee)

Use 1 heaping tablespoon regular grind decaffeinated coffee for each cup (½ pint) boiling water. Put coffee in pot. Pour boiling water over coffee, cover tightly and let stand in a warm place 6 to 9 minutes. Strain grounds immediately through fine wire strainer, muslin or cheesecloth.

Watching Shells Burst

Agriculture Is Seasonal Interest in Activities Of Women's Institutes

Branches of the Quebec Women's Institutes are planning for a busy summer. Agriculture is the topic for discussion for the May meetings, when the questions of gardening and canning will come up for consideration. In many counties a canning outfit is owned by the community Branches and these will be used to preserve fruits and vegetables for Red Cross purposes, as well as for home use.

As man power will naturally be scarce during the future a real opportunity awaits the women to measure up, as the Land Army of England has done, to farm work and farm problems, during the strenuous days of the growing season.

Robert Rollian, of Buffalo, N. Y., announced that his thirteenth child, just born, will be named "Toomuch". His previous child, born last year, was named "Enough".

A Nottingham schoolmaster told his class that anyone who forgot his gas-mask would get the strap. "But what if you forget yours, sir?" asked one boy. The master agreed to take his medicine if he failed to carry out his own order. Next day the master forgot his own gas-mask and the boy stood on a chair to wield the strap. The ghosts of many schoolboys, past and present, will cheer loudly.

LOYALTY TO QUEEN NOT FOUND WANTING; NOW, AN APPEAL TO CANADA'S CHIVALRY

HER MAJESTY SPEAKS AS ONE WITH EXPERIENCE IN BATTLE LINE

We Canadians will not easily forget the month of May, 1939. We were hosts, then, to the two people who stood as a symbol at once of Canada's nationhood and of her place in the British Commonwealth. From the first, we were honored by the visit; but as it proceeded we were, above all, captivated by the visitors. What might have been a coldly official ceremony became in fact a heart-stirring display of loyalty and love, evoked most of all by the graciousness and charm that radiated from Her Majesty.

We assured her a thousand times of our fealty and devotion. We showed them in every way we could think of as long as she was with us; and when the time came for the departure, and the schoolchildren of Halifax sang "Better lo'ed ye canna be—will ye no' come back again?", we would have asked nothing better than to make some great and costly gesture, to prove our chivalrous eagerness to serve the Queen.

Within six months our loyalty was put to the test, and we can proudly say it was not found waiting. And now in the midst of our war effort there is a direct appeal to our chivalry, made by the Queen herself — an appeal precisely on behalf of the weak, the helpless, the unprotected, whom chivalry delights to succour — who are to be helped by the Queen's Canadian Fund for Air Raid Victims.

If there is one thing that has impressed us in this war it has been the mass heroism of the English civilians. Parents separated from their children — men and women returning from work to find their homes wiped out and all their possessions destroyed — long and desperate hours in factories, followed by nights of fighting fires or disturbed sleep in fetid shelters — all this misery and anguish has been beating now for months on a nation of men and women sustained only by an iron will to victory.

The Queen speaks as one with experience, who has been — and is now — in the front line of the Battle of Britain. She has walked over the battlefields that once were streets and homes, she has talked with the survivors — women and children who saved their lives but nothing else—and knows how urgent is their need. And in her name the Fund is appealing to the Canadian public, in spite of all the other demands of wartime, for a helping hand to these heroic casualties of Britain's fight for freedom. They do not want our pity; they do need our help. What shall our answer be?

Queen's Canadian Fund subscriptions may be sent to the Royal Trust Company at 105 St. James Street, Montreal, or to any branch office.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Famous Authority on Good Manners and Good Taste

"Remember Mother . . . She Never Forgets !"

"Remember Mother . . . She never forgets!" is the slogan chosen for Mother's Day this year.

"Remember" is the perfect inspirational word for the bows of devotion and homage that belong to the observance of Mother's Day.

The second Sunday in May has had a deep and personal significance ever since 1907, when a Philadelphia woman, Miss Anna Jarvis, started the idea of Mother's Day. On the second Sunday in May, 1907, she mourned the first anniversary of her mother's death and prevailed upon a Philadelphia church to hold a special service to "honor beloved mothers everywhere." Next year the idea had spread to other churches.

The governor of Florida was the first governor to issue a Mother's Day proclamation. In 1914, Congress passed an Act, designating the second Sunday in May as Mother's Day, and requesting the display of the American flag on all government buildings on that day. The resolution urges that "through some distinct act of kindness, visit, letter, gift, or other tribute" all may "show remembrance of the mother to whom it is designed to perpetuate all family ties."

During the intervening years, from 1914 to 1941, the observance of Mother's Day has grown to gigantic proportions, as an occasion for family homage to Mother and for gift-giving.

This year a new significance is being given to Mother's Day. The day has been chosen as the perfect occasion to arouse public interest to the "vital importance of the job that mothers have to do. If mothers themselves can be moved to seek more information on the problems involved in their jobs as mothers, and to use increasingly the health and educational facilities offered in their respective communities, th Mer'tonhes ive communities, then Mother's Day will be an increasingly important factor in the development of healthier, happier families throughout the coming year."

This is the ideal of the new formed National Committee on the Observance of Mother's Day. The joint statement of the committee is signed by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Miss Katherine F. Lenroot, Chief of the U. S. Children's Bureau, and more than twenty-five outstanding maternal health authorities, parent educators, child welfare officials and prominent American mothers.

As a bow of homage to their own mothers, either living or dead, on this special day, many charitable people are contributing, in small or larger amounts, to the Committee's fund for "the dissemination of scientific information on the pre-natal care for mothers and to aid mothers in the rearing of healthy, happy children."

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY COURTESY

When you receive a formal invitation to the church only, no reply is necessary. But if you receive an invitation to the reception or breakfast, or to a house wedding or a wedding in a hotel or assembly rooms, you should send a written answer at once. The form of your reply depends on the form of the invitation . . . a formal reply to a formal invitation; an informal reply to an informal invitation.

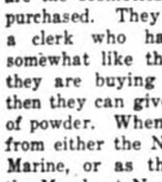

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on Good Manners submitted by readers.)

"Is that an ermine fur coat?"

"If it is, some rabbit has been living under an assumed name."

Customer, entering store just before closing time: "I came in here to get something for my wife."

Tired Shopwalker: "And what are you asking for her?"

Softball In Swing At Brownsburg

Brownsburg, May 6 —

The softball season opened with a bang, with the Office slamming out an impressive victory over the Stores, to the tune of 7-5.

John Duncan's warriors showed plenty of fight, but their big guns were silenced by Len Winchester, pitching for the Pen-Pushers. Len was in true mid-season form. The Racine brothers, hurling for the Stores, had the crowd realizing that they are to be heard from. Lefty looks like a future shut-out king.

* * * *

Metallic "Flashes" Down Plastics

The Metallic Shop "Flashes" opened the season with a brilliant victory over the Plastics, 10-5. This game was very keenly fought, but the superiority of the Flashes' hitting showed in the final score. Lefty Racine hurled a fine game for the losers, but towering homers by Merrill Smith and Russ Summers proved the margin of victory. Bill Hewitt and Merrill Smith divided the pitching chores, with Bill Hewitt chalking up his first victory of the season. Merrill Smith also hurled a fine game in a relief role.

Although an error now and then dotted the otherwise flawless play, nothing more could have been asked of either team.

With Wes Mason as coach and putting the boys through their paces, it looks as though the Metallic Shop "Flashes" are strong contenders to secure the softball title of Brownsburg.

Girls' Softball

C-I-L Girls vs. Office

The C-I-L Girls, organized by Ivalon Hartel, challenged the Office Girls to a flurry of bats, balls, scratches and screeches that turned out to be a softball game, in which the C-I-L Girls out-fumbled the Office Girls by the score of 23-15.

Ivalon Hartel hurled the last two innings for the C-I-L Girls after they had decided to "roll out the 'Beril' ". However, Miss Beril, otherwise known as Terry "The Great", switched to catcher in these innings and played a stand-out game.

The pitching honours for the Office were shared by Merle Kelly and the McKenzie sisters.

Badminton Club Closes Successful Season At Brownsburg

Brownsburg, May 6 —

With Bill Seale in the role of President, and Reg Wallace and Bob Lyons as Secretary and Treasurer respectively, the Badminton Club has just finished another season of successful play. On the two occasions that Lachute and Brownsburg matched their merits, Brownsburg came out on top, which showed the enthusiasm given by the newcomers, many of whom had never played before coming to Brownsburg. Several times a tournament was arranged with the Hawkesbury-Vankleek Hill Club, but some obstacle always seemed to loom up.

Newcomers around these parts usually wonder at the enthusiasm showed by everyone towards a coming badminton dance, and our dances this year were no exception. The first dance, with music by Maury Thomas and his orchestra, went over with a bang, and it was quite noticeable that when the second dance was announced everybody pricked up their ears and donned their dancing feet.

Lowe's Orchestra from Grenville provided the music for the second dance, and certainly deserve the orchids for their fine music. Additional entertainment offered was a skit entitled "The Man on the Flying Trapeze", and an inspired imitation of "Ed. Wynn, the Fire Chief" certainly added to the evening. Gordon McMullen did fine work as Dance Convenor.

At the Annual Spring Tournament of the Lower Ottawa Valley Badminton League, held in Lachute, Brownsburg played with the usual wim, wigour, and witality for on that happy occasion they came home with the cup under their arms.

Bigger and better things are expected for the Badminton Club next year.

Not A Matter of Choice

David Niven, well-known British film star, had a bad time of it when he joined the British Army, for the men didn't like being given orders by an ex-Hollywood star.

After several days of their glowers and apathy, Captain Niven barked at them: "If you men think I would rather be here drilling you than in Hollywood making film love to Ginger Rogers — you're nuts." After that, he got on much better with his men.

WAS TOSSED OUT

Pausing in his climb up the gang-plank of the Spanish ship "Marques de Comillas," Admiral Alberto Lais, former naval attache at the Italian embassy in Washington, gives the Fascist salute in farewell to the United States. Lais was asked to leave the U. S. by the state department. Other passengers on the Spain-bound vessel look on.

Word About the Stork

As is usual in times of war, more boy babies are being born than girls. Many people ascribe this phenomenon to some occult or mystic cause. The truth is more simple. The nearest that scientists can get to an explanation is that there is often a greater proportion of first births in war-time and "there is a slight tendency for the first-born to be boys."

Six Million Dollars Loaned for War Effort Free of Interest; More U. S. Publicity Urged On Advance of Canadian War Industries

By Allan McGee

Specially Written for Readers of The Watchman

There are certain people in Ottawa who believe that we are not doing enough propaganda in the United States.

They claim that the American people are not being told enough about our activities in this war. They are not being told about our thousands of young soldiers already in the field of battle. They are not being told about our munition factories that are turning out millions of rounds of ammunition every week. Our shipyards, that make new additions to the Allied navies every week, are not mentioned in the American newspapers.

All these things are not known to the average American because of only one thing. The editors of most American papers do not know about the actual production of this Dominion. They have no way of knowing just what we are doing to help win this war. They do not get enough pictures from the various departments to keep them supplied with interesting material.

They do not get told by booklets, by news reports or by publicity material of our great efforts to win this war against Hitler.

If these claims are true, then someone has missed the boat. If we want to get full benefit from United States co-operation, then we should set them a good example. Actually, in some lines, we are doing even better than the big manufacturing plants of our southern neighbors. We should tell them about that and make them jealous.

Then perhaps they would realize that we, as senior Dominion of the Commonwealth, are doing our full share to win the war.

We are not loafing on the job. They only think we are.

NAZI UNIFORM
WELL KNOWN

They tell the story in Toronto that a certain young man was employed to act as a Nazi soldier in a big parade. He was given a complete German uniform for the performance and took his place in the parade.

Thinking to be funny, he walked home after the parade with the uniform still on; and there comes the amusing point.

He walked up one street and down the other and nobody noticed him. He was completely equipped just as a German soldier would be, except for the explosives. He wore the familiar sign of the swastika on his arm and on his hat. He had a steel helmet and all the trimmings, and still nobody noticed him.

But his luck ran out when he entered a hamburger stand. Two women nearly tore him apart. They choked him and bit him and scratched him. They pounded and poked and smacked him, until he thought that he was dead.

Just because he thought he would be funny. Ho ! Ho !

IS YOUR NAME MARY ?

If you are a Mary you should read this.

The Jewels and the Dorothys and the various other names have started funds for a Spitfire plane for Britain, and now is the chance for every Mary to do her part.

Mrs. Mary Morecraft of Montreal has originated the idea for every girl who was christened "Mary" to contribute some small sum to the fund. The money may be raised from any cause or endeavor. A party, a tea, a bridge or just a plain strawberry social will help to get money for the best fighting planes ever sent to England with the good wishes of the Canadian people.

Don't send any money yet, but if you have plans or suggestions for the Mary's Spitfire just write to Mrs. Mary Morecraft, 5250 Earnscliffe Ave., Montreal, and outline your idea. She will tell you where and when to send the money you collect. All cash received will go directly towards the purchase of the planes, for all operating costs of the plan are being contributed by private funds.

County Court House Broken Into, Small Sum of Money Stolen

Discovery was made on Tuesday morning that the Registry Office in the Court House on Grace Street had been broken into during the preceding night. Entry had been made through an unlocked window at the rear of the premises. The rooms were in a state of disorder, where the intruder had turned things upside down in search of valuables. Nothing was taken, however, except a small sum of money from an office drawer.

A man in the United States, well-known for his help to people in trouble, for which he derives a yearly stipend of over $187,500 through broadcasting, has been unable to settle his own matrimonial difficulties ! He has now applied to a court to end his own matrimonial troubles with three wives of his own, former and present. A prophet is without honour!

Information Please !

It has been drawn to our attention by the Lachute Boy Scouts, who are collecting scrap iron, that many people throughout the county are not aware whom they should notify when they have contributions to make. For their information, messages may be phoned to Handy Andy Store, Lachute 71, and the Scouts will call at their earliest convenience.

The boys are collecting also throughout the rural districts, so if any out-of-town resident has old metal to offer to the cause, please phone Lachute 71.

$100 Fine, Nine Days Sentence, Sequel to Crash

Hawkesbury, May 13 — Percy Smith, 29, of Lachute, was sentenced by Magistrate Raoul Labrosse to nine days in jail on a charge of driving while intoxicated and fined $100 and costs on a charge of reckless driving.

Both charges arose from an accident on the Perley interprovincial bridge in the early hours of Sunday, May 4th, when Smith crashed into a truck driven by Leodas Tessier of Grenville. Tessier, Smith and four passengers in the latter's car were injured.

Chlorinator Plant Now Under Way

Construction of the long-delayed chlorination plant is now under way, and work is progressing at the site just east of Lachute. The building will be located at the main highway, on the vacant lot near White's Bridge which has been used for many years as a picnic and camping ground. Forms for pouring the concrete foundation were being set up yesterday.

One of the earliest English pensions was awarded to the first "spotter." In 1001 the Vicar of Pinhoe, Devon, saw the landing of the Danes, and ran to warn King Ethelred, who for once was not "unready", and put the Danes to flight. The King rewarded the vicar by granting a pension for ever to enable him and his successors to buy a horse to travel about his parish. The pension is still paid regularly every year, but the present vicar rides a bicycle.

SIX MILLIONS
LOANED FREE

You may hear a lot of talk about people holding onto their money these days, but there are plenty of others who are not.

There is a special war loan in Ottawa which is made up of voluntary contributions by various citizens. These loans are made direct to the Government and do not carry any interest charges. The donors are making this their contribution to the war effort by loaning the money free, with the understanding that all monies so collected will be used for the sole purpose of carrying the war to a successful conclusion.

Already the issue of bonds has surpassed the 6 million mark, and is coming close to 7 million.

CENSUS ON JUNE 2ND

All plans and arrangements have been completed for the census this year, on June 2nd.

One Dead, Two Injured When Car Overturns

VICTIMS WERE TRIO ON WEEK-END VISIT FROM MONTREAL

Jurors Give Verdict of Accidental Death

ACCIDENT AT OGILVIE'S CORNER AT JUNCTION OF TWO HIGHWAYS

One man was killed and two injured in a Chevrolet roadster which overturned a short distance off the Montreal-Hull highway near Grenville at ten o'clock Saturday night. The dead man is Ena Laporte, 55, of 1951 Iberville St., Montreal, who suffered a fractured skull, while Benoit Caroll, Montreal, had abrasions of the scalp and bad facial cuts, and Arthur Caron, Montreal, who was driving the car, suffered lacerations of the scalp and minor body injuries.

Both the injured men were taken to Dr. Kelly's Hospital at Hawkesbury. The older man, who was Caron's father-in-law, died while being removed to hospital. He had been seated between the two younger men in the car, which had turned southwest onto Highway 8-A toward the village of Grenville, off the Montreal-Hull road . . . The trio were on their way to Fassett, where they had a summer cottage, when, at the request of Ena Laporte, the driver turned off the road to pass through Grenville. About this time, according to one of the occupants, they were blinded by lights of another car which was "approaching them head-on" from the direction of Hawkesbury. The Montreal driver swerved to the left and applied his brakes; tracks on the pavement showed that the cars had passed each other on the wrong side of the road, without collision, but as the Montrealer tried to steer his car back on its course the machine turned over sideways and made a complete somersault; it collided with the wire fence and landed on its four wheels, badly smashed. The eastbound car did not stop.

Passing motorists removed the injured men from the roadster. The wrecked car was later towed to Lachute.

Inquest on the death of Ena Laporte was held Sunday afternoon at the office of H. Jones, Traffic Officer at Grenville, who investigated the mishap. Det. Sgt. L. Forest, of Quebec Provincial Police, also investigated the circumstances of the fatality.

Under District Coroner W. F. McMartin, M.D., of Lachute, the jurors returned a verdict of accidental death, attaching no blame to the driver of the car.

Man Died of Injuries After Hit-Run Mishap

68-YEAR-OLD LABORER STRUCK WHILE WALKING ALONG HIGHWAY

Found in Ditch by Passing Cyclist

SUCCUMBED SOON AFTER ADMITTANCE TO THE NOTRE DAME HOSPL.

Michel Malette, 68-year-old laborer and resident of Chatboro, was fatally injured when struck by a hit-and-run motorist on Saturday night west of St. Philippe on No. 8 Highway.

At an inquest conducted by District Coroner W. F. McMartin, M.D., of Lachute, at the town hall here yesterday morning, a verdict was given that the man had met his death through an accident involving an unidentified driver, and the case was turned over to Provincial Police.

Evidence was given by Jack Donaldson, a nearby farmer. Mr. Donaldson had been working around his farm buildings at dusk, when he saw a car passing eastward on the highway and heard a noise which sounded like a bumped fender. He waited until another car approached, and scanned the roadway in the beam of its headlights, but saw nothing on the road.

A short time later, Donaldson's son, Stanley, returning on a bicycle from his work on the Carillon Canal, saw Malette, the victim, lying in the ditch at the south side of the road near his father's gate. According to the testimony of this witness, the man was moving but he made no sound.

Evidence showed that the man's cane and hat had been found lying on the gravel shoulder of the road, indicating that he had been walking westward, well to the side of the pavement and facing the oncoming car.

Dr. L. P. Sauvé, of Lachute, who was summoned to attend the man, and Traffic Officer A. Leger, of Brownsburg, who investigated, also gave their evidence. It was stated the man had been removed to Notre Dame Hospital, Montreal, by ambulance. He died there Monday morning, an autopsy showing he had suffered fractures of the right arm and right knee, also internal injuries.

Michel Malette, who did laboring jobs in the district where he lived, is survived by his wife and a large family.

Director of Protestant Education Suggests Construction of High School Gymnasium

Meeting of Ratepayers Called for Tonight

Following a resolution passed at the regular May meeting of the Lachute Protestant School Board, notices have been posted announcing a public meeting of the Board to be held this evening, Thursday, in the High School. The purpose of this meeting is to discuss the construction of a gymnasium in connection with the school.

This is in accordance with the suggestion contained in a letter received by the Board from Dr. W. P. Percival, Director of Protestant Education for the province of Quebec. In his communication Dr. Percival stated that money had been set aside by the Department of Public Instruction to provide grants to aid in the building of gymnasiums for certain High Schools in the province.

The members of the Board feel that this opportunity should at least be given full consideration, and have consequently called a public meeting of the ratepayers in accordance with the regulations of the School Law of the province.

It is hoped that all ratepayers interested in this project will be present and will express their opinions freely on all that concerns this proposed undertaking.

Germans who play tennis are now requested to use German words in the game, instead of their English equivalents which they have been accustomed to using. So a "mixed double" becomes "gemischter doppel" and a "lob" a "hochball."

Vote to Abolish Toll Bridges Defeated 22-8

HON. J. FRANCOEUR DECRIES TWO-BY-FOUR POLITICS IN QUEBEC HOUSE

QUEBEC FIDDLES WHILE LONDON BURNS, SAYS PRESS OBSERVER

Tall, silent 100-per-cent, old stock French-Canadian, J. C. Francoeur, (Liberal Levis), won a niche for himself in the Parliamentary hall of fame this week, when after two hours of a sing-song debate on everything under the sun, he eased his six-foot frame out of his seat and, red of face, demanded: "Is this a place of childishness or one for serious men?" — Thus writes Campbell Carroll, Montreal Gazette correspondent, in a report which is aptly headed, "Quebec Fiddles as London Burns."

"We represent the people," Mr. Francoeur continued, "And as such we have a duty to defend their interests and not those of two-by-four politics. Each minute we lose here, costs money, and I demand the vote."

The vote he asked for was on an Opposition amendment to a motion to go into committee of supply. The amendment said that while the House was ready to vote monies required for public administration, it believed the time had come for the Government to abolish Quebec toll bridges. It was defeated by 22-8.

Whether the absence from the House of Premier Adelard Godbout and Speaker Bernard Bisonnette, K.C., had anything to do with it, will never be known. The fact remains that with notices of motions appearing for the first time this session regarding bills on such important matters as the purchase of Beauharnois and the St. Lawrence Waterways scheme, the House got side tracked into a veritable litany of political arguments and counter-arguments that have been heard on the hustings time and time again.

It was not until what they call in Quebec "Le cri du coeur" (cry of heart) from Mr. Francoeur 15 minutes before the evening adjournment that the House finally went into committee of supply. In the remaining quarter of an hour it voted credits of $118,000 for the Department of Mines.

Workmen Busy On Grounds for Lachute Fair

EXHIBITORS ARE NOTIFIED ALL CATTLE MUST BE FEDERALLY TESTED

FAIR ENTERTAINERS ARE BOOKED AND PROGRAM LINED UP

The time is rapidly approaching for Lachute Spring Fair, which opens on June 12th and continues for the two succeeding days. A number of workmen are now on the grounds putting stalls and buildings in order for this exhibition, which has established a reputation as the banner show of the province.

An attractive prize list has been issued as usual, and it is anticipated there will be keen competition among the livestock classes. All cattle must be federally tested for tuberculosis and Bang's disease, and the entry list will be closed on June 7th.

Sims' Midway is to be on hand to provide "the fun of the fair", and a variety of vaudeville acts will be staged before the grandstand. Horse racing is billed for each day of the Fair — and with this attractive program of events, it remains only for our readers to keep in mind the dates, June 12-13-14, and prepare for a good time.

It is gratifying to know that the ladies of Lachute Women's Institute are again to undertake the catering meals and refreshments.

The Fair directors have also decided that any surplus from operation of this year's exhibition will be donated to the Argenteuil Spitfire Fund.

Pioneer W. I. Amateur Show For Spitfire

A GALAXY OF TALENT JUDGED IN CONTEST AT AUDITORIUM

FIFTEEN LOCAL ARTISTS TAKE PART — ENTERTAIN LARGE AUDIENCE

In order to do their bit for the Argenteuil Spitfire Fund, the members of Pioneer Women's Institute held an amateur show in Lachute Auditorium last Thursday evening.

The variety performance drew competition from Lachute, Brownsburg and St. Andrews East, the amateurs displaying their skill in song, dance, violin, piano, fiddlin' and bone rattlin', accordion and cornet playing.

About 15 artists were present to compete, and the judges — Mrs. W. LeCras, Mr. J. Fraser and Mrs. K. McFaul had difficulty in selecting the first three prize winners. They were unanimous in choosing little Jean Claude Dumas, nine-year-old artist with harmonica and bones, whose efforts were appreciated by an enthusiastic audience. Another young artist from the French Canadian contestants was given second place; this was Miss J. Lamarche, who gave a pleasing performance as a tap dancer, her rhythm and personality contributing much to the appeal of her performance. The popular Morrison trio—Geraldine, Isabelle and Kenny — who excel in western songs, were fitting nominees for the third prize. Consolation prizes were awarded to O. Malette and M. Richer, who gave accordion and guitar numbers; Miss H. Robinson, the St. Andrews soloist; Miss Joan Percival, who promises to be a star pianist in the very near future; John Giles and George Deacon, cornet duetists, and John Heatlie, who rendered vocal solos with guitar.

Mr. Harrison, of St. Andrews East, obliged with some piano selections during the intermission. Mr. Jim Duncan and the Fletcher Brothers also gave some much appreciated musical numbers.

Another performer on the program was 'Lucky', the Spitfire Dog, whose regular tricks were somewhat hampered by temperamental upsets, but his trip around the Auditorium augmented the Pioneer fund by $18, and the total returns for the evening amounted to $76.50.

Youth Critically Injured, Kicked By A Horse

Kicked in the face by a horse on the family farm at Grenville, Garnet Laughren, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Laughren, was seriously injured, and was taken to hospital in Montreal early last Saturday morning.

At Montreal Neurological Institute, to which the youth was admitted, he was reported to be suffering from a depressed fracture of the skull, and was said to be in a critical condition.

Worth His Weight In Diamonds

By Lawrence Hibbert

How often we've heard the expression, "worth his weight in gold." The Aga Khan, leader of the Ismaili Moslems, is actually worth his weight in diamonds. Arrangements are now being made to give him the most luxurious "birthday present" ever presented to anyone.

Five years ago, on the 50th anniversary of his leadership, his followers in Bombay and Nairobi weighed him with great ceremony and presented him with his weight in gold — a matter of 300,000 rupees. In 1945, on his Diamond Jubilee, he will be given his weight in diamonds, costing no less than $30,000,000.

The Aga Khan is known to every Britisher, for he has spent most of his time for many years in England. He is a great racehorse fancier, and has won most of the great English races, including the Derby.

He is a ruler without any land. His vast income is derived from offerings given by the 10,000,000 Ismaili Moslems who worship his as a semi-deity. He is a great friend of Britain's and has done much to keep his followers pro-British, for he enjoys a tremendous prestige among his subjects.

His heir is Prince Aly Khan, who is married to an Englishwoman.

W. Scott, C. Tremblay Head Victory Loan County Organization

The following telegram received by both Messrs. W. M. Scott and Clement Tremblay officially opens the 1941 Victory Loan Campaign in this county . . .

William M. Scott, Ottawa
Lachute, Que.

Thank you for accepting the joint chairmanship with Clement Tremblay for the Argenteuil Victory Loan 1941 Committee. It is very reassuring to know that strong committees are being formed. I wish you every success. — J. L. Ilsley, Minister of Finance.

Active selling will, however, not commence until June 2nd, prior to which an energetic group of canvassers will be organized in each of the various centres of the county to work in conjunction with their local committee members.

The latest information from Ottawa, partly official and partly conjecture, would indicate an amount of $600,000,000 as required for the current furtherance of Canada's war effort. The bonds will probably bear interest at 3%, with possibly 12 years to maturity. Denominations of $50, $100, $500 and $1,000, with payments by monthly instalments if desired, will make it possible for large numbers of our citizens to subscribe. This is particularly desired by the Minister of Finance.

An objective for the county will be set by Provincial Headquarters, for the loan, along will all the other territorial units, which will be announced in the next issue of The Watchman.

Extracts from Old Country Letters.

The "Chins Up" Spirit

From a South-East Coast correspondent . . .

Bombs smashed all the windows in a grocery shop near us. The proprietor has the whole line of boards, covering his store-front, plastered with notices saying, "We can't see you — but come in and see us !"

Another merchant advertised: 'They've broken our windows, but not our hearts."

Encouraging Note to "War Services" Contributors

The following extracts are quoted from a letter to our fellow-editor, Mr. Adam Sellar, written by Pte. R. Macpherson, a former employee of the Huntingdon Gleaner, now serving with the Signals Corps in England . . .

The men are anxious for activity of some sort. They're all pretty well fed-up with the war, and want to get it over as soon as possible. I don't see why Hitler doesn't give in now. He must know he hasn't got a chance of winning.

We are having swell weather now (March 14). The days are getting longer and hotter all the time.

The Y.M.C.A. supply free shows for the troops several nights a week, and in addition to all the other facilities they have here for relieving the monotony for the men, their services are very much appreciated. In understand that much of this is made possible by the generosity of Canadian people. I just want you to know that the fellows over here certainly appreciate these things.

"Cauld, Not Feart"

A small boy was seen coming from one of the bombed areas in a city in England, carrying his smaller brother on his back. A man stopped to see if he could help him and noticed the lad's legs were shaking. The youngster said fiercely, "I'm cauld, not feart."

Stained Glass Windows Cross the Atlantic

Fifth of a Series for Church in Fifth Avenue Cross the Atlantic

(By Mail)

London — While German bombs are shattering the priceless stained glass of England's churches, British craftsmen are patiently creating new examples of their art. These are not for their own churches, which must wait until after the war, but for churches overseas, where they will earn valuable exchange, to turn into weapons for use against the destroyers of Britain's own places of worship.

The manufacturers recently shipped to New York the fifth of a series of six windows, each 40 ft. by 12 ft., for the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Fifth Avenue. Mr. James Hogan, its designer, famed for his work on Liverpool Cathedral, has used a multitude of small fragments which give an effect of rich and darkly glowing jewels.

In designing windows for churches overseas British stained glass experts have to visit the spot and study the strength of light, which is much greater in the United States, South Africa, Australia, and, to some extent, New Zealand. This calls for the use of deeper colors and richer treatment than is required in Britain.

Since the outbreak of war, Mr Hogan has designed clerestory windows for fashionable churches in several States. The total value of the work exported in the first year of the war was about £15,000 — the price of three Spitfires.

Thousands of our men are giving their all; you, at last, can LEND your dollars. Do it now !

Answer to the Question, — "What Are We Fighting For?"

"Come Wind, Come Weather" Wins Enthusiastic Acclaim

Following are a few press comments, selected to illustrate the favor with which Daphne du Maurier's latest book has been received by the critics. The force, vitality and timeliness of "Come Wind, Come Weather" are factors which should commend this story to all readers alive to the trend of spirit in wartime Britain.

"For A Happier World"

"Come Wind, Come Weather" is a record of fortitude, quiet courage and self-sacrificing fellowship . . . It may be taken as an answer to that question, "What are we fighting for?" It is for justice, the right and a happier world."

Montreal Gazette

"Battle Against Selfishness"

"The characters of the ten stories which make up the body of "Come Wind, Come Weather" become to the reader as real as Miss du Maurier explains in her introduction they really are. Their problems, as people confronted with war on their doorstep, will be brought home as never before to those of us who enjoy the safety of Canada; but the solution which they are finding will be the answer to the problems which innumerable Canadians will have to face before their full weight is given to the cause on which the British people on the island and throughout the world are staking their all."

St. Catharines Standard.

"How Britons Have Faced and Conquered War Difficulties"

"The sketches are written in simple, forthright English and they deal with plainspoken characters and everyday events . . . They are gathered together as a witness and testimony to the power of moral re-armament, and a very powerful testimony they constitute."

Montreal Star

"An England Inspired"

"Come Wind, Come Weather" is a deeply moving series of pictures of English life under siege . . . In the best sense it is propaganda. It is designed to bring an idea into the consciousness of the Canadian people . . . a series of vivid sketches . . . as timely as if they were dipped out of today's newspaper . . . It is no wonder that half a million copies of "Come Wind, Come Weather" have been sold in Britain and sold most widely where the bombing has been heaviest. A large sale in Canada will give this country a new view of the English people."

Mass Arrests, Murder — The Portion of Warsaw

An eye-witness account of mass arrests, cold-blooded murder, and starvation rationing in Warsaw has been received by the Polish Information Center in London, England.

The informant is an American girl, of Polish descent, whose name cannot be divulged. She spent sixteen months in Warsaw, city in the Gouvernement General, and is a trained observer.

The following data have been stated by her to be an unexaggerated account of conditions as she observed them.

The fact of Polish resistance and Polish patriotic secret organizations is attested to by the knowledge that two hundred young men, from 18-25 years of age, were shot during the autumn of last year in the Mokotow suburb of Warsaw. The shooting was done en mass as the final phase of a tragedy that began some weeks previously.

In an effort to uncover suspected Polish sabotage by organized persons, the Gestapo placed one of its agents, who spoke Polish, in a group of suspected persons. The agent's identity being discovered, two members of the Polish organization were assigned to "finish" him.

The agent was shot in the elevator of a building near Pulawska street, and, in the ensuing turmoil, one of the Poles was captured. The other committed suicide. The former was subjected to such terrible torture that he revealed some information about his group. The following day a large "battue" was organized by the Gestapo in the vicinity of Pulawska street and the 200 young men and boys were arrested and shot.

Railroads, oil transports from Russia, military objectives, public utilities, etc. are the focal points of Polish sabotage.

Mass arrests are the major weapon which the Gestapo use for throttling all resistance. Such a mass arrest was held August 12, 1940, in Warsaw, when 10,000 men from 18 to 45 years of age were taken from streets, shops, cafes, trams, and even homes. On September 19 similar arrests were made in the Zoliborz and Mokotow suburb of Warsaw, 16,000 men were arrested on that occasion. The majority were sent to the ill-famed concentration camp at Oswiecim (Auschwitz).

In January of this year, mass arrests were made on the 5th, the 11th, and the 25th with this difference: women were also arrested. The informant saw a young woman, trying to escape, shot down in cold-blood.

More than 400,000 Jews are confined to the Warsaw ghetto behind the concrete partition which separated them from the rest of the city. To all intents and purposes, these Jews are buried alive. Famine, epidemics, and lack of medical help and medicine are accentuating their conditions.

Wild Life Activities Affect Railroad Track

Winnipeg, May 12 — Workers along the right of way of the Canadian National Railways are sometimes prejudiced towards the activity of wild life. Beavers build dams causing high water to threaten the security of trestles and embankments and the busy beaver who thus causes a washout is no friend of the railwayman. Burrows made by moles, ground hogs and other rodents, while ingenious examples of animal engineering, find no favor with the human engineers who are responsible for the proper maintenance of railway tracks.

Don't Grumble at Taxes

We sometimes hear people grumbling about the heavy taxes we are obliged to pay, but have you ever stopped to think that our compatriots in Britain are paying for the war of freedom with their incomes, their properties, their limbs and their lives? We in Canada should not kick about taxes; they are getting hit in Britain a lot worse, and you never hear a grumble from anyone. They have to dodge bombs as they pay their taxes, whereas we sit down in our office or home and make up our income tax forms, in comfort and without fear of an air raid, or of a bomb hitting our property. There is no comparison to be made, and Canadians have nothing to grumble about, nor will we have until the war strikes home with ferocity and we have to dodge bombs to pay our taxes.

British Smokers Using Matches — Lighters Go For Overseas Trade

(By Mail)

London — British cigarette and pipe smokers are using more matches because of the very large number of petrol lighters now being sent overseas to help pay for the war.

Recent months have seen a phenomenal increase in the overseas demand for British lighters, both of the mechanical and the thumb-wheel types.

Australian importers have asked for the entire output of one British manufacturer. But they had to be content with a share, for supplies were going to Canada and Newfoundland, India, Burma and Ceylon, New Zealand, South Africa and Nyasaland, British West Africa, South America, Palestine, Egypt, Syria, Iraq, Aden, Malaya and China, Portugal and the Colonies, and Spain.

Only the other day a shipment of British-made lighters went into the Straits of Gibraltar for the tobacconists of Tangier.

The British Ministry of Supply has announced that last year enough scrap metal was salvaged in Britain to make ten cargo ships, 1,000 Army tanks, and 20,000,000 shells.

A Scottish farmer visited the village school and tested the intelligence of the class by the question: "Now, boys, can any of you tell me what naething is?"

After a moment's pause, a smart boy in a back seat rose: "It's what ye gied me the other day for holding your horse."

An Ancient Mission

Ancient House at Sillery, Que.

Widespread acceptance of Christianity by the Indians, early missionaries felt, could be realized only if the natives were persuaded to abandon their wandering ways and take up farming and handicraft in settled villages. The pioneer attempt in New France to establish such a colony was at Sillery, named for the noble Frenchman who financed the enterprise. The site chosen was some four miles above Quebec on the St. Lawrence, and in 1638 the mission opened to receive a score of Algonquin Indians.

By 1639 there was a pallisaded village, a chapel, hospital and dwelling for the priest. The ruins of the chapel may be traced still, and nearby the house, reputedly the oldest in Canada and probably built originally as a part of the mission, has survived until our own day. For many years Sillery was an important station and one of the colony's chief centres of population. Its Christian Indians were in demand as guides and sometimes aided in the defence of other settlements against the Iroquois.

Sillery figured in history again in 1759, when one of Montcalm's batteries here defended the shoreline. It was near this point that a sentry challenged General Wolfe's boats as they crept towards the landing at the Foulon. A British officer, pretending that the boats carried supplies to Quebec, lulled the sentinel's suspicions and the chain of events leading to the decisive battle on the Plains of Abraham remained unbroken.

Checkerboard Sign Needed

The record of accidents near the junction of two highways at Ogilvie's Corner, where Route 8-A from the interprovincial bridge joins Route 8, the Montreal-Hull thoroughfare — suggests the urgent need of danger signs to warn motorists approaching from all directions. The broad, smooth pavement both east and southwest of this point are apt to lull the unsuspecting driver into a sense of security, and in many fatal instances the speed of travel has placed an automobile beyond the limit of immediate control, just at a point where it is most needed.

We would suggest that local traffic authorities press the need for adequate signs to give warning, in daylight and after dark, before the season advances further and the toll of life increases at this point.

The Functions of An Editor

The title "editor" is sometimes misunderstood by newspaper readers, not because they want to misunderstand but because they have never been told just what the functions are of the person who holds this title. An editor, to explain it briefly, is one who superintends, revises or prepares literary matter for publication. The title does not necessarily mean that the policy of the newspaper is set or controlled by the editor. On large newspapers there are many editors, and policy is usually decided upon by the managing editor. The duties of the other editors, city, sport, suburban, women's page and others, is simply to carry out the duties prescribed in their particular spheres.

For our purpose, however, we must deal with the editor in a little different light, because in fully 90% of Canada's weekly newspapers, the editor is also the publisher. In other words he fills the dual role of preparing literary matter for publication, and of deciding upon policy as well. We want to deal with the functions of an editor from this standpoint.

Essentially the editor is a human being, writing and dealing with men, women and children. He may be young or old, lazy or energetic, bold or timid, superficial or deep, querulous or constructive, slovenly or business-like, grasping or generous. He is certain to be human. He reacts to praise and criticism, to good and evil in much the same way as those who share community life with him. The editor, and this is true of 99% of all weekly editors, recognizes the inherent decency of the countryside. He is still sufficiently old-fashioned to believe with his readers that the Ten Commandments and the Golden Rule have neither been repealed, improved upon or modified by modern advances.

The editor is a student of community affairs. He has at his disposal records of public organizations in the community, and it is from his study of these records that he makes his editorial comment. He is not easily swayed by the hysteria which sway, and excite and mislead city people. Like the people he serves, he uses common sense in his reasoning. The editors of Canada's weekly newspapers, serving rural areas, are a greater power than most people suspect, for it is a political fact that more members of the House of Commons and more members of Provincial Legislature are elected from the rural areas than from the cities.

It is the editor who decides what is fit and what is not fit to print. It is he who differentiate between news and propaganda. It is he who can, if he will, give the leadership that every energetic community must have. He is not hard to get along with, but he has a code of ethics which often cause him to refuse business rather than accept it against well grounded principles. He is not a super-human. He is a hard-working individual doing an important job in the community to the best of his ability, and if at times he fails in his task, it must be remembered that he is like every other human being in the community, heir to the frailities with which all mankind is endowed.

18th Century Prophecy

The following lines, translated from Gray's "Luna Habitabilis", written at Cambridge in 1737, are being published throughout Canada as a prophecy which Wings for Britain, a volunteer Canadian fund, hopes to help come true. Wings for Britain has been registered under the War Charities Act and is incorporated in Canada to serve as an agency through which contributions of planes for the R. A. F. may be made.

"LUNA HABITABILIS"
(Cambridge 1737)

The time will come when thou shalt lift thine eyes
To watch a long-drawn battle in the skies,
While aged peasants, too amazed for words,
Stare at the flying fleets of wond'rous birds;
England, so long the mistress of the seas,
Where winds and waves confess her sovereignty,
Her ancient triumphs yet on high shall bear,

Trap the False Rumor

What Canada needs now is a new association. It might be called the National Association of Rumor Trappers. The present Government of Canada, or any other government, is fair game for criticism. This goes even in war time. But criticism based on nefarious information should be stifled energetically.

—Shawinigan Falls Standard

Canada's output of applejuice will hit 3,000,000 gallons this year. Thus coming close to the Nazi propaganda output of applesauce.

The Easy Way

Every American tourist who brings American dollars to Canada is helping the Dominion help Great Britain win this war. Building up of exchange credits with the United States is of paramount importance at the present time and increasing of tourist traffic and tourist revenue is a simple and extremely easy means to that end. Every Canadian can co-operate and there are dozens of avenues open. By writing to American friends, a Canadian may explode the unfounded rumors circulated in the United States, apparently for the express purpose of discouraging our neighbors from visiting Canada during the war years. The Canadian may participate in civic improvement and clean-up movements designed to make his community more attractive to the tourist. And, most important of all, he can continue to show that true, Canadian hospitality and courtesy. Promotion of better understanding and good feeling between two nations that have already set the world an example as "good neighbors" should be a simple chore every Canadian should enjoy. And work of this nature is a real and valuable contribution towards the Dominion's war effort.

The New Taxes

The new war budget hits Canadians of all classes. It is the most drastic and far reaching tax program ever laid before a Canadian Parliament and it means that every Canadian will have to make a drastic reduction in his normal spending habits. Yet, strangely enough, there hasn't been one complaint recorded so far as this column can discover. Men in all walks of life have accepted the back breaking tax burden with a shrug of the shoulders and the common philosophy seems to be "it's all right if it helps beat Hitler." War taxes are high in Canada but they are still lagging well behind those of Great Britain. New income taxes in the old land take a tremendous portion of the income, especially in regard to the higher salary brackets. Men earning over $16,000 have only $8,000 left after the tax is paid. The tax climbs with the income and the man who takes in $600,000 has only $28,600 left after he has "paid the piper." The business of paying the piper, however, is being accepted with far better grace since the object is to make a couple of well known dictators do the dancing.

Salary Slashed

William McChesney Martin will go down in history as the gentleman who took the greatest pay cut the world has ever known. Mr. Martin, at 34, was president of the New York Stock Exchange and quit his $48,000 job as head of America's foremost securities market to enter the United States Army as a private — at $21 a month ! No grousing either. Young Martin reported promptly for examination under the Selective Service Act and exchanged farewells with his business associates before taking over his new job with Uncle Sam. He entered the army with the observation that he believed the United States would soon enter the war and a great many Canadians are of the same opinion. But Bill, whose salary drops from $950 a week to $21 a month, had better beware of "the old Army game" until he becomes accustomed to membership in the lower salary brackets.

News Item . . .

London, still smoking from its heaviest air raid of the war, sent a Trans-Atlantic telephone call for special news service from the Associated Press on Deanna Durbin's wedding.

The bombs rain down on London town,
The air raid siren moans,
And frantic London editors,
Are shouting into phones,
In concrete shelters London town
Awaits the thrilling news,
And late editions London folk,
Will eagerly peruse.
Bombs are crashing,
Searchlights flashing,
Pillars crumble,
Buildings tumble.
The folks in battered London town,
Are tense and eager-eyed,
What matter if, in darkened skies,
Invading raiders ride ?
Much more important is the tale,
The A. P. wire is spreading,
Of Deanna's wedding !

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has resigned his commission with the United States Army. He's just "Mister" Lindbergh now but a lot of his fellow citizens have less pretty titles for him.

A Perth, Ont., young man celebrated the conclusion of a drinking party by crashing eight large plate glass windows along the main street with his fist. Total damage was over $1,000 and his awakening in the hoosegow was probably pane-ful.

AND IN CONCLUSION: — Scientists say every human brain has 12,000,000,000 cells. Yet most humans find it difficult to imprison good advice !

same time, it has been decided that the actual count will not take place until the following week. This will allow the census personnel to help out in the war loan work and not interfere with the highly important loan.

There will be numerous questions on the report to be filled in this year. Many of them will seem silly at the time, but when they are carefully analyzed by the authorities they will prove very valuable.

There has been a census taken every ten years since 1871. This year, there was much discussion as to the value of taking such a tremendous amount of time to make up a summary of the Dominion's population. The high cost of such an effort was also carefully debated, and it was finally decided that the actual cost compared to the value of the work would make it worth while.

So, if the man with the notebook rings your front doorbell during the second week of June, you must answer his questions to the best of your ability.

Your replies will be confidential and the results will be released only as compiled reports and figures. They cannot tell anyone of your individual replies. Your secrets remain your own and they will not be spread around for everyone to know. Tell the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. It will help our war effort.

I'm looking for some pictures of Clark Gable.

Some months ago the famous movie star visited Canada for a hunting and fishing trip. Just where he went, nobody seems to know for sure, but he did visit Canada.

During that time he had his picture taken by several people who recognized him. I would like to get my hands on some of those pictures for a little girl in Louisville, Kentucky, who needs only those snaps to complete her collection of photos of Mr. Gable.

It seems that for years she has been an ardent fan of the famous screen he-man and she saves every picture she can find of her hero. She wants these Canadian pictures very badly, and if anyone can help me to locate the owner of any negatives taken of Clark's trip to Canada, then the blessings of a little girl will follow them through the days to come.

An old gentleman saw a small colored boy who was having some trouble in getting away with the large piece of melon he was trying to eat.

"Too much melon, isn't it, Rastus?"

"No, suh, bossa," the darky answered, "not enough niggah."

THE LIFE OF WINSTON CHURCHILL

THE MAN WHO 'LL BEAT HITLER

(Part 9)

Defeated at Dundee, Winston Churchill was out of Parliament again, but it was not in his nature to be idle. He began to write "The World Crisis," that stupendous and authorative history of the First Great War, which is still regarded as the best history of that war.

The following year, there was a General Election and Winston contested West Leicester, still labelling himself a Liberal. He was again defeated, but the tide was soon to turn — for England's modern St. George was to find a new dragon in the form of the Socialists, his old enemy.

The Liberal leader, Mr. Asquith, decided to put a minority Labour government in power, and Mr. Churchill parted company with his old friends and party. Once again he was a man without a party.

Defeat That Was A Victory

Early in 1924, at the invitation of a group of influential Conservatives, Winston Churchill stood for the Abbey division of Westminster as a Constitutional candidate, pledges to fight Socialism. Opposed to him were a Liberal, a Socialist and the official Conservative.

With but eight days left before election day, and having no organization behind him, Winston Churchill put up a tremendous fight. He lost — but by only 43 votes. It was a defeat, but for Mr. Churchill a moral victory — and its moral was not lost on Stanley Baldwin, the Conservative leader.

Becomes Conservative Minister

In the following November, when Mr. Baldwin formed his second Conservative government, Winston Churchill was offered the prize plum of the Cabinet — he became Chancellor of the Exchequer. This electrified the country, for Mr. Churchill had not at that time joined the Conservative party. Perhaps, as a columnist said at the time, Baldwin remembered the old country adage that "an old poacher made the best gamekeeper."

The partnership between Baldwin and Churchill was unusual. In temperament and outlook, they were poles apart. Baldwin was a man of peace; Churchill a fighter. Winston believed in action, while Baldwin had firm conviction that events would shape themselves if they were left well alone! History records its own verdict on these two eminent British statesmen, for to Mr. Churchill is left the gigantic task of undoing some of Mr. Baldwin's sins of omission."

Friend of the People

In his first Budget, Winston Churchill was able to announce further great strides of social reform, principally the Widows, Orphans and Contributory Old Age Pensions plan.

Yet Philip Snowdon, former Chancellor in the Labour government of Ramsay MacDonald, jeered at his adversary, and twitted Churchill with changing his mind.

"To improve is to change," riposted Mr. Churchill. "To be perfect is to have changed often!"

General Strike

The catastrophic General Strike burst on the country in 1926, arising from the dispute in the coal industry. Employers wanted a reduction of wages or increased hours. The coal miners solemnly swore, "Not a penny off the pay, not a minute on the day."

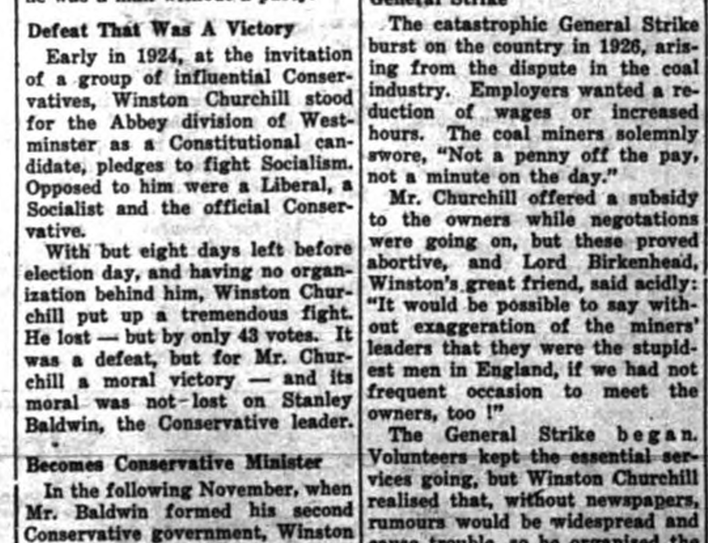

Mr. Churchill offered a subsidy to the owners while negotations were going on, but these proved abortive, and Lord Birkenhead, Winston's great friend, said acidly: "It would be possible to say without exaggeration of the miners' leaders that they were the stupidest men in England, if we had not frequent occasion to meet the owners, too !"

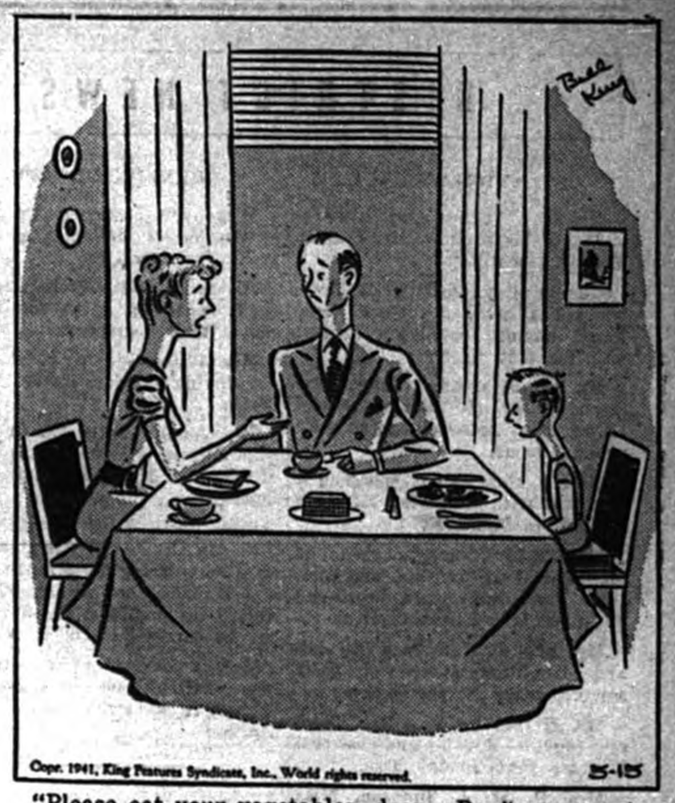

The General Strike began. Volunteers kept the essential services going, but Winston Churchill realised that, without newspapers, rumours would be widespread and cause trouble, so he organised the "British Gazette," which made journalistic history. When the strike was broken, the Socialists railed at the "British Gazette" and its founder, Churchill. They declared that it had been partisan — violently anti-Labour.

Churchill cheerfully admitted the thrust, adding "How can I be expected to be impartial as between the fire brigade and the fire?" To another Labour critic who said the paper was a "rag", he retorted "Well, I hope it has sickened the Socialists of State Socialism in newspapers!"

An Appeal for Britain Western States Sound

Montreal, May 12 — As evidence of public sentiment in the Western States, A. A. Gardiner, Canadian National Railways official, returning from a business trip to Des Moines, Iowa, carried with him a supply of match covers so popular with smokers across the line, each cover carrying an appeal for aid to Great Britain. "America's security is built on Britain's sea power," is a quotation printed on the cover and it continues "Act Now — Defend America by Helping Britain." Other statements are "Britain's Fleet defends the Atlantic — Great Brjtain, therefore, is our first line of Defence."

Those who use the match covers are requested to write or wire their Senators or Representatives urging all possible aid to Great Britain and her Allies.

Parachute Army Was Idea of Benjamin Franklin

Papers found in Boston, Maine, show that Benjamin Franklin suggested the idea of a "parachute army." Writing in 1784, he said that 5,000 balloons, each carrying two soldiers — 10,000 in all — could do an "infinite amount of mischief before a force could be brought to repel them."

Personality Parade

By Lawrence Hibbert

Mr. Amery, Minister for India in the British government, is, like Anthony Eden, very fluent at foreign languages, and knows Near Eastern languages thoroughly.

In the last war, Mr. Amery was serving with the Serb army. A senior officer gave him a primer of their language. "Do you think you can master that tongue?" he asked. Mr. Amery looked at the book and replied: "I think I might; I wrote it."

The Naked Truth

A story of Mr. Churchill's schooldays was recalled when Mr. Amery was guest of honour at a London luncheon recently. The chairman said that when the two were at Harrow together, the future Secretary for India (Mr. Amery) had the privilege of being "kicked in the pants" by the future Prime Minister and pushed into the bathing pool.

"I had no pants on, nor had Mr. Churchill," Mr. Amery corrected him.

A SCOTCH STORY

Most vacant houses and mansions in Britain are being used to house evacuees from blitzed towns. There happen to be quite a large number of unoccupied mansions in Scotland, but they are not available for evacuees in any number because — they are roofless !

And the reason? In Scotland, if you want to escape paying rates on a house you are not using, you simply remove the roof. The remedy seems somewhat drastic !

Residents Unapproached, Are Asked to Send Their Gifts for Spitfire Fund

Those who have not yet contributed to the Argenteuil Spitfire Fund are urged to do so without further delay. Your sense of duty should prompt you to bring or send your subscription toward purchase of this Spitfire which has been promised by the people of Argenteuil. The fact that you may not have been called upon does not relieve you from responsibility, for it has not been possible to canvass every individual resident.

The Lachute Boy Scouts, it is noted, are doing splendid work in their appeal for scrap metal, and it is understood they have already turned this saleable material into a substantial sum.

Further contributions received during the week are listed hereunder. Included with one gift from across the border, was an interesting and encouraging letter.

Letter and Donation From Former Resident

Argenteuil Spitfire Fund,
Watchman Office.

Dear Sirs:

I heard through a friend that the County of Argenteuil is raising a fund to buy a Spitfire for England. May I, as a native of Lachute, add my little contribution. This is also given in memory of my brother who lost his life in the last war. His name is on the monument in your park, which I always visit when home in Canada. The park, I understood, was given the town by the late Mr. Jack Ayers, whom I can remember very well.

As a child and young girl I attended the Lachute High School, or as it was then called, the "Academy", and have always been proud of the splendid educational background and high ideals inculcated by its teachers, and for the religious training and inspiration received from the Baptist and Presbyterian Churches, both of which I used to attend. In fact I have never lost my love for the old town and for the British Empire of which we are a part. We know that Britain stands not only as the guardian of our liberty, but for the preservation of Christian civilization everywhere.

Wishing you every success,

Sincerely, Jessie MacCallum.

OBITUARY

LATE RICHD. E. CARKNER

On Tuesday, May 6th, the death of Richard E. Carkner occurred at his residence in Lachute Mills. Mr. Carkner was in his 83rd year.

Besides his loving wife, he is survived by his son, Robert Carkner, of Duluth, Minn., his stepchildren, and his sister, Mrs. Margaret McGoldrick, of St. Andrews East.

The funeral was held Thursday afternoon, May 8th, from his home to Lachute United Church. The Rev. W. B. Rosborough officiated.

The pall-bearers were — Messrs. Gilbert Demerse, Gordon and Roy Cruise, Ernest Walker, Edgar Hammond and Charles Robson.

Interment was made in the Lachute Cemetery.

LATE WILLIAM MACKAN, RESIDENT OF GRENVILLE

Grenville—Mr. William Mackan died on Sunday, May 4th, at his residence in this village, at the age of 71 years.

The funeral service was held in the Roman Catholic Church here, on the Tuesday morning following. Interment was made at Calumet Cemetery, where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mackan, were laid to rest.

He leaves his widow, formerly Miss Jessie White; one daughter, Doris, (Mrs. F. Goudie); one sister, Maggie (Sister St. Edgar); one brother, James, of St. Catharine's; also several nephews and nieces.

Among those from a distance who attended were — Mrs. James Mackan and son, Thomas, from St. Catharine's; Mrs. F. Goudie, from Toronto; Sister St. Edgar, from Westmount, and a Mother Superior.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Thos. Arnold, J. Monte, Russell Owens, J. Filion, W. Gauley and M. Poulin.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER BANQUET BY UNITED CH. C.G.I.T. GROUPS

The C.G.I.T. groups of Lachute United Church held their annual "Mother and Daughter" banquet in the church hall on Saturday evening. The tables, centred with Spring flowers, were prettily decorated in a patriotic trend.

After supper, the following toasts were proposed —

"The King", by Beryl Underhill, followed by the singing of the National Anthem.

"Canada", by Mae Gordon, after which "O Canada" was sung.

"Mother", by Kathryn Langille, followed by the singing of "Mother". Mrs. W. J. Deacon responded.

A singsong followed, and "Taps", the C.G.I.T. song, concluded the program.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

"Mortals and Immortals" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist throughout the world on Sunday May 18th.

The Golden Text is from Proverbs 9: 6. "Forsake the foolish, and live; and go in the way of understanding."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God: and if children, then heirs; heirs of God, and joint-heirs with Christ; (Romans 16, 17).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mortal existence is a dream; mortal existence has no real entity, but saith "It is I." Spirit is the Ego which never dreams, but understands all things, which never errs, and is ever conscious; which never believes, but knows; which is never born and never dies. Spiritual man is the likeness of this Ego. Man is not God, but like a ray of light which comes from the sun, man, the outcome of God, reflect God." (Page 250).

MEMORIALS DEDICATED AT MORNING SERVICE IN UNITED CHURCH

At the morning service in Lachute United Church last Sunday — which incidentally followed the Mother's Day theme — an auspicious feature was a memorial dedication ceremony in which the minister, Rev. W. B. Rosborough, committed to the service of the church certain gifts given by members and friends of the congregation.

The memorials are described in the following way:

A Private Communion Set (for use of the minister in homes and places apart from the usual Communion setting) — in memory of the late Mrs. T. Christie.

Art Window, installed by Miss Lily Stalker in memory of her mother, the late Mrs. Maria Stalker . . . With this dedication, the minister also made reference to the chancel window previously erected through the generosity of Mr. E. H. Wilson.

The congregation stood in reverence for the committal, given by the minister in the following words:

"In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, I dedicate these memorials to the glory of God and as a tribute to the noble and devoted lives of those in whose memory they have been given."

UNITED CHURCH ACTIVITIES AT BROWNSBURG

Brownsburg — An order of service reflecting great credit upon those who took part, was presented by the C.G.I.T. on Sunday evening under guidance of their leader, Miss S. Lupien.

It being Mother's Day, the girls took advantage of the opportunity offered them and delighted the audience with their appropriate and helpful numbers. Miss Gwenneth Vowles, president of the group, conducted the service, assisted by Miss Elsie Pasco, who read the Scripture Lesson. Beside the choruses rendered by the organization, forming the choir for the evening, two other special musical numbers were given: Misses Doreen Izzard and Velma Hosgood were heard in a duet, and Misses Maureen Cumbers Audrey Thornburn, Gladys McAdam and Gwendolyn Izzard in a quartet.

The topic for the service was "Mothers of the Bible", in which Eve, the mother of all living, Jocehbed, the mother of Moses, and Mary, the mother of Jesus, were spoken of by Misses Claire Prosser, Thelma Cruthers and Audrey Thornburn respectively.

At their party on Saturday afternoon in the church hall the C.G.I.T. leader, Miss Lupien, was feted and asked to "carry on" with the group, to which Miss Lupien suitably replied in her willingness to be of further service.

The Women's Missionary Society will meet at the church Saturday to receive articles for the missionary box which is packed at this time of the year. A hearty response is asked for.

UNITED W.M.S. MEETING AT ST. ANDREWS EAST

St. Andrews East — The W.M.S. of the United Church held their May meeting at the home of the literature secretary, Miss Mary Pitcairn. After a short business session, the program prescribed in the "Missionary Monthly" was followed for the devotional period.

The president then called upon Miss Janet Wallace, delegate from this auxiliary to the biennial meeting of the Conference Branch, held this year at Prescott, Ont. Miss Wallace gave a detailed and fine account of the proceedings held in St. Paul's United Church. Miss Wallace passed on to her hearers the splendid inspiration she had received to "carry on". While war has balked some phases of work there is need in our Canadian Northland, especially for medical service.

Formerly a Home Helper, Mrs. Thos. MacAdam was welcomed as an active member.

LACHUTE UNITED Y.P.U.

The closing meeting of the Lachute United Young People's Union was held last evening. There were 31 members present.

After all business had been cleared up, a reading was given by Miss Stalker on "Foreign Mission Fields". Games and contests were then enjoyed, after which refreshments were served.

A presentation was made to Miss Anna Rosborough and her fiancé, whose marriage takes place next month.

PRESBYTERIAN Y.P.S.

The Presbyterian Young People's Society of the Margaret Rodger Memorial Church held their regular meeting on Wednesday night, with a good attendance. There was very little business to be dealt with, so Mr. Elliot Nichols, of Cottingham Supply Company, as speaker of the evening provided entertainment with pictures of a trip over the Rockies and also outlined details of the housing plan which is being carried out in Brownsburg.

Growing Toll of British Churches

While Bible Sales Go Leaping Up in Germany

(By Mail)

London — Official figures of the damage done by Nazi bombers to church property in England and Wales comes on the heels of the affirmation of the Hitler creed in a home broadcast to German youth.

"This," the announcer declared, "is the creed of our time: We believe in Hitler. And what of the old creeds? The scriptures are dead. We need no fairy-tales today. Believing, we entrust our destiny to our Fuhrer."

As a practical contribution to the Nazi point of view, their bombers have now destroyed or damaged 2,659 churches of all denominations in England and Wales, apart from vicarages, convents, church halls and manses. Among the 714 which have been completely destroyed or seriously damaged are the cathedrals of Coventry, Llandaff and St. Paul's (although the main fabric of the latter remains untouched). Westminster Abbey, Westminster Cathedral, and the Deanery of Canterbury have all scars to show the meaning of "kultug". No fewer than 108 vicarages, 304 church halls, 236 church-schools and 36 convents have all been wrecked.

The fact that this Nazi attitude to Christianity is not shared by all who live within the Reich may be inferred from much bigger attendances reported at Catholic and Protestant churches and the increasing sale of the Bible to Germans, other than Nazis. It has gone up, from 830,000 in 1930 to 1,525,000 last year.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Kilborn, of Delta, Ont., were the guests this week of Miss Elizabeth Tomalty, at Hill Head. While here they renewed a number of old acquaintances after an absence of 38 years. They were accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. Kelfey, and their grandsons, of Kingston, Ont.

Report on Work of Lachute Red Cross

Lachute branch of the Red Cross Society shipped 1,007 articles to Red Cross House during the month of April. The shipment was made up of — 593 knitted articles; 439 articles of sewing; 5 quilts; 60 blankets; 22 kits, each consisting of a dress, skirt, 2 nightgowns, slip, 2 knickers, sweater and gloves; 166 donations, and 203 hospital supplies.

Mother's Day Tributes

Many beautiful flowers were in evidence at graves in Lachute Cemetery last Sunday, bearing a testimony of silent tribute to Mothers gone but not forgotten.

Wed at Parish Church Of Ste. Anastasie

Heon - Therrien

At the Church of Ste. Anastasie, Lachute, at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, the marriage took place of Miss Jeannette Therrien, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Therrien, and Mr. Georges Henri Heon, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Louis G. Heon — both of Lachute. The wedding was solemnized by the Rev. Rudolph Heon, of Berlin, N. H., cousin of the groom, and during the celebration of mass Messrs. Ulysse Paquin, Paul Blondin and Dr. Chas. Gagnon, of Montreal, sang impressively. Miss Juliette Rodrigue, of Lachute, played the wedding music. The church was tastefully decorated for the ceremony.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her brother, Mr. Georges Therrien. Her sister, Miss Marcelle Therrien, was bridesmaid, while Mr. Oswald Carriere acted as groomsman and Mr. Jean-Louis Heon, brother of the groom, as witness. The ushers were Messrs. Maurice Paquin, Horace and Roland Lamarche.

The bride was dressed in an Adrian model of ivory satin and tulle made on Princess lines, with sleeves of d'Alencon lace. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was caught with a spray of orange blossoms, and she carried a fan-shaped bouquet of sweet peas and Japanese iris.

The maid of honor wore a gown of Churchill blue tulle. Her hat, of the same color, was diadem shaped, with a tulle veil caught at the neck. Her bouquet was of Talisman roses and sweet peas.

Mrs. Heon, the groom's stepmother, wore a gown of Aviation blue with black accessories and a corsage of orchids.

Following the marriage a reception was held at Lachute Auditorium, where a host of friends numbering around two hundred, tendered felicitations to the bridal couple. Buffet refreshments were served, and dancing was enjoyed to an orchestral accompaniment.

Among guests from a distance were Mrs. L. G. Heon, Miss Annette Heon and Mr. Jacques Heon, of Montreal, Mr. Raymond Heon, of Plessisville, Que.; Miss Charlotte Therrien, Mr. and Mrs. Edouard Masson, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Simard, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Vallee, Montreal.

Guests from this town and immediate district included Hon. Geo. E. Dansereau and Mrs. Dansereau, Grenville; Jas. W. McGibbon, M.P., and Mrs. McGibbon; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ayers, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Ayers, Mayor and Mrs. Hector Lamarche, of Lachute; Mayor Geo. Ball of Brownsburg; Mayor and Mrs. Dougald McTavish of Harrington; Dr. and Mrs. A. Pager, of St. Hermas, besides colleagues of Mr. Heon in the legal profession and a large number of community friends.

On their return they will reside in Lachute, at 293 Main Street.

Entertained in Montreal

At the Canadian Club on Thursday, May 8th, Mr. Heon was feted by Montreal district members of the Bar, in honor of his marriage. The presentation of a cellarette and a substantial sum of money was made by Edouard Asselin, K. C., former Attorney-General. Among the speakers were Senator Mariotte, Edouard Masson, K.C., and Gaetan Valois, N.P. The assembly, numbering around 200, included many former political associates and opponents, personal friends and college-mates of Mr. Heon.

CANADA CALLS

Canada has reason to count her blessings in these days of trial.

Canada is three thousand miles away from the sound of guns which are devastating Europe.

The broad Atlantic Ocean rolls between us and the ruthless savagery of the German Armies.

The strongest fleets in the world — British, American and Canadian — patrol the sea between us and the enemy.

CANADA CAN AFFORD HER SACRIFICES

This war is a mechanized war.

We have the nickel . . . copper . . . lead . . . zinc and other metals the war industries need. We have access to the iron. We can make the steel.

We have the organized industries to fabricate these metals and make the trucks, and tanks, and guns, and planes, and the ships.

We have skilled workers and the plants for mass production. Canada has the wheat and the food supplies.

Let us count our blessings, and tighten our belts.

Canada is rich—one of the richest countries per head of population in the world. Let us lend our strength to the utmost of our power. Our national future depends upon Victory.

We must win to live.

THERE WILL BE FURTHER CALLS

There have been many calls upon the people of this country for money since Canada entered the war at the side of Great Britain.

There will be further calls.

Let us face the future unafraid.

Canada can carry the load.

But every Canadian must shoulder his and her share.

This is the most critical hour in our history. Let the future historians say of Canada, as they will say of our Mother Country: "This was their finest hour."

HINTS FOR HOMEBODIES

By JESSIE ALLEN BROWN

CAMPAIGN FOR SIMPLE REFRESHMENTS

There are a great many women genuinely puzzled as to what should be done about parties, cups of tea at meetings and so on. When they see the quantities of food they have a guilty feeling about having so much when so many others have so little. At present there are no food restrictions in Canada and we are not asked to give up anything. I have always felt that a cup of tea and something to eat at practically every meeting was a mistake and I feel it more than ever now. So often it is a rush after five o'clock and women have their cup of tea with one eye on the clock and panting to get home to look after the evening meal. However most women seem to like it as undoubtedly it is easier to get them out to a meeting with a cup of a tea than one without, and there is something pleasant about lingering for the chat with one's friends. At Red Cross meetings and other working ones, that cup of tea often perks the workers up so they can get more done and in that case it is certainly justified. Perhaps at present the best way is to continue as we are doing but lavish parties are out of place. We are not called to give up food but we are called to lessen our expenditures because the less we spend, the more we have to give. Start a campaign for simpler refreshments.

THE HAPPIEST TIME

Childhood is popularly supposed to be the happiest time of one's life and children are thought to be carefree. A test was made by some American psychologists and they found that practically every child worried about things. School and home were the biggest worries and the fear of not passing their exams was the greatest cause of worry. It is one of the parents' worries too! If some of the children started worrying about it a little earlier in the year they might not have cause to worry. Some of them are worried because their parents push them unduly and expect too much of them. Some of them are discouraged because they cannot keep up to the standards set by an older brother or sister. Perhaps we can help them best by believing in them and encouraging them rather than scolding. It is hard to know just what is the right way to bring out the best that is in each child, and what has worked with one member of the family may not be the thing for another. Children do not talk much about their worries but most of them have them.

LOBSTER IS CHEAPER

Present food prices are fluctuating and it is a good idea to check up on them and perhaps revise your ideas. To find the cost of foods they should be reckoned by portions. Take the total cost and divide it by the number of portions it has served. You may find that some of the things you have considered luxuries are lowered in price until they are cheaper than the every-day foods. Canned lobsters are an example of this. Have you ever tried them browned in butter? Just break your lobster in chunks and brown in the frying pan. It may be brushed with butter and browned in the oven if you prefer. I'm telling you it is good. Lobster creamed in a cheese sauce is something super. Lobster and devilled eggs in a salad make a good combination and the cheaper eggs help stretch the more expensive lobster. Sometimes I boil fresh fillets, cut them into pieces, add a can of lobster, and mix with cheese sauce. Make the most of lobster at its present lowered price.

RHUBARB AND PINEAPPLE PRESERVES

Six cups pineapple, sugar, ten cups rhubarb.

Dice or shred the pineapple, add water to cover, and cook until tender. Peel the rhubarb and cut in one-half inch pieces and cook until the mixture is soft and the water evaporated. Measure and add an equal quantity of sugar. Cook slowly until the mixture is thick. Bottle in sterilized jars and seal.

RHUBARB MARMALADE

2 oranges, 1 lemon, 4 lbs. rhubarb, 1 lb. seedless raisins, 5 lbs. sugar.

Put the oranges and the lemon through the chopper. Cut the rhubarb into small pieces. Mix with the raisins and the sugar and let stand an hour. Boil until thick, stirring frequently. Bottle in sterilized jars and seal.

Queer Pensioners

Insects, birds and animals may not be "personalities", but so far as the British Treasury is concerned, many of them rank as "Civil Servants," and are supported regularly from Public Funds, many of them receiving a weekly allowance.

The most famous of these "Civil servants" is Rufus, the red Persian cat belonging to the Treasury itself. He gets a weekly allowance of 36 cents, and then there is the Consulate cat at Buenos Aires, in the Argentine, who is shown on the books as getting six pesos a month.

The Army supports a large number of animals, including an ox and a donkey, which live at Gibraltar, and of course the famous Barbary apes on the Rock of Gibraltar are regularly maintained from Public Funds.

A number of calves come under the care of the Ministry of Health, and also uncountable mosquitos. The calves are used for the regular production of vaccine; while the mosquitos the Ministry are trying their best to get rid of.

In telling her age, a woman is often shy in more ways than one.

BABY FROM CONCENTRATION CAMP

Although only two-and-a-half years old, Irene Heinbock knows what the inside of a Nazi concentration camp looks like. She was in one for three weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Heinbock. Irene is shown in her father's arms as they arrived in Brooklyn. Her father was president of the Jewish society of Macabes. They escaped from Belgium.

Boys Loses Girl ?

The enjoyable "date" that might have ended in an auto crash and a hospital is the subject of the sensible though mythical letter that follows. This "letter" was featured in an illustrated booklet recently issued by the Travelers Insurance Company.

"Dear Bill:

"I don't think I care to go out with you again.

"Most of last evening was wonderful, Bill, but the drive home spoiled everything.

"You behaved so nicely and acted so considerately up till the minute you got your hands on the wheel and we headed home. Then you suddenly were transformed into what seemed to me a badmannered, irresponsible gorilla.

"You yelled at people who had just as much right, on the road as you. You disregarded white lines and signs put there for your safety. You scared my wits out by going at an absurd speed.

"That might have been considered smart once upon a time, but I assure you it's silly and childish today. Call me stuffy and prudish if you like, but I don't relish dying quite yet.

"Nor do I want to get in one of those accidents where I am just hurt. I have sense enough to realize that you and the rest of the boys wouldn't be ringing my telephone if my face and body were inexpertly rearranged by a smash-up in your automobile.

"So I don't think I'll go with you again, Bill — at least not until you've grown up enough to behave decently as a driver and not until you realize that you owe a certain responsibility to the person you ask to share your car with you."

What's in A Name !

Things aren't always what they seem. Lots of names in this life are misleading. For instance, Turkish baths came from Russia, and turkeys themselves first came from America.

Brussels sprouts never came from Belgium; and Jordan almonds do not grow on the banks of the River Jordan. The name is just a corruption of the French "jardin", meaning garden.

Prussian blue, a color beloved of artists, originated in England, not Prussia. Camel-hair brushes are made from squirrels' hair, camphor-balls are made from napthalene, and the lead in a pencil is graphite. What's in a name !

BEAUTY

Helen Jameson (Mme. Qui Vive)

Take Your Sunlight While You May

Everyone — young and old and the betwixt-and-between — needs sunlight. It is vitalizing. It is food and drink for the human system. Why not start now to settle down to a nice, cozy, comfortable acquaintance with Mr. Sun? When he wraps his warm rays around you he will be helping you along the route to health, happiness and good looks. He isn't likely to put freckles on your nose this early in the season. He does that later on when his days are stronger, more direct.

The boss of the domestic works must not stay within her four walls, juggle pots and pans in the morning and gang up with the bridge girls every afternoon. She must, every day of her life, dash out in the open. The business girl, tied to her desk or standing behind a counter, doesn't get anywhere near as much outdoor life as she needs. On Saturday afternoons and Sundays she should be a sun worshipper. If Time is chasing at her heels like a demon, she can purchase a sun lamp which will take the ache out of weary bones and sing soothing songs to a troubled nervous system. Earning one's living isn't all skittles and beer. The same old grind gets one down now and then.

A day in the country is like putting money in the beauty bank. And spring is a lovely time for a brisk walk in country places.

If you have allowed yourself to become an indoor woman, find that your complexion looks as if it had been blanched in a cellar, make up your mind that this coming summer you are going to learn to swim. Or that you will take up golf. Anyhow, you are going to loosen your chains occasionally and let the sun put a lot of highly energized ginger in your heels.

There's an idea offered by medical men to the effect that fresh air and sunlight ward off colds. And you know how a spring cold gets you down. If you are a sneezy type, think it over. Give your lungs air baths by drinking in the ozone, swishing it around your lung cellars. Get vitamins into your system by letting the sunlight come in contact with your skin.

Animals and plants naturally turn to the sun. Dogs and cats sleep in the sunny spots on the rugs. They know.

The girl who avoids the sunlight may have a complexion of exquisite delicacy, but it is a hothouse kind of loveliness, never as glamorous as the golden skin of the young lady who loves outdoor life. Red blood corpuscles increase in number when the skin gets sunlight and is swept with gentle breezes.

Sunlight is good for your hair, if you don't overdo exposure so that the color fades. Hair grows more rapidly in the summertime than in the winter season.

For acne there is nothing better than Mr. Sol's kisses, which dry up pustules and perform as a healing agent.

"Yes, it must be a terrible thing to go through life without your limb. But you must remember it will be restored to you in the next world."

"Yes, mum, but that doesn't encourage me, for it was cut off when I was a baby, and it won't come within a couple of feet of the ground when it's restored."

Wool Without "Tickle"

British Textile Experts Solve an Old Problem

(By Mail)

London, April 21 — A wool fixing process which takes all the "tickle" out of garments made from it, has been evolved by British textile experts.

People in countries with strongly contrasting day and night temperatures will therefore be able to wear woollen underwear with comfort during the day and yet have protection from chills after sundown.

The process is also the most successful non-shrink method ever devised for wool, a virtue discovered by the public for themselves; for it was a consignment recently sent to the United States without labels which attracted a second order for what they called "your unshrinkables."

A more attractive texture is given and there is great improvement in tensile strength and elasticity. Men's and women's underwear, hosiery, knitwear, made from the wool, have actually been on the market for over forty years. The latest advances are due to unceasing experiment over the whole of that time.

Lipstick, of all things, is now on sale in army canteens in England for the convenience of women enlisted in the various services. The famous Cold Cream Guards?

Nervous, Fidgety Fingers

By Helen Jameson

Jittery days in the world. People on edge all the time. Traffic getting faster and more crowded. Radios blatting wherever you go. It is time, my lambs, to pull up your boot straps, be brave girls, keep calm. The poised, even going woman is the exception. She is the salt of the earth and a bright, shining example to those of us who feel like biting nails, have an impulse to fight at the drop of the the hat. That's what the crazy world is doing to us.

Evidences of nervousness do not make a woman a restful, interesting companion. Even if there's nervousness inside the chest, there is no reason for outward manifestations. Consider the toe-tapper. You want to smack her. She does it when she is irritated. There is the confirmed finger fiddler. You know her. There are thousands of her, and just as many men, too. She wrings her hands together. But the best thing she does is digging up hangnails. Oh ! if one could only grab her by the hair and drag her a manicurist, have the things snipped off.

It's silly, of course, to be annoyed or distracted by the mannerisms of other individuals. But there are people like that; they are made restless by the sight of restlessness.

We asked a physician if there is a cause for fidgety fingers. He says there is. The nerves at the finger ends communicate with the nerves of the brain, as those of the palms of the hands are linked with the nerves of the digestive organs. So the habit is mental, often the result of self-consciousness and the inferiority complex. Men and women who are sure of themselves seldom do it. When the habit is established, said my authority, it is extremely difficult to overcome. It is common to men and women whose body movements are quick and jerky.

Well, it does not make for poise, that's certain. It seems to be a descendant of the nail-biting habit. A horrid practice, as nail eaves are favorite camping grounds for bacteria. A dangerous one, too, for that reason.

The finger tips are highly sensitized, as we know by the keen sense of touch we all have. It is as if the finger tips have eyes. When they fuss with a lock of hair, pull an ear lobe, play with an ornament or bracelet they are in a state of excitement, like a girl who must be on the go.

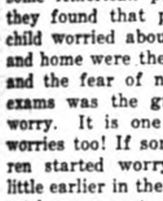

Mannerisms should be brought under control. They set one apart. "I know her. She's the girl who can't sit still a minute. Always jumping up and walking around the room!" Or, "Have you ever noticed how she's always smacking her lips, making clicking noises?" Or, "She waves her arms around like a windmill."

"Fashions may come and fashions may go, but there's always a demand for cosmetics."

"Yes; women can't go wan for ever."

"These eggs just came from the country."

BEMA Molasses

A Natural Food Product . . the Pure Juice of the Famous Barbados Sugar Cane

• Yes, that is exactly what BEMA Molasses is. From Barbados comes this delicious food product—as pure and zestful when it reaches you, as when it came from the sugar cane. That is why it has such a distinctive flavor; why so many careful housewives use it as a regular part of their daily menus. Rich in vitamins, BEMA Molasses is also a valuable source of iron—an essential food element. That's why it makes an appetizing, healthful spread on bread—at the table and for between meals. It is also used by many housewives in cooking baked beans, making cookies, gingerbread, cakes, puddings, etc. It's good ALL WAYS! Your grocer sells it.

Be sure to ask for BEMA Molasses, the original product—not a blend.

Opening of New Gasoline Station

Gordon A. Brown has taken charge of the new British American gas and oil station at the corner of Chatham Street and the Brownsburg Road. — Watch for further announcement next week.

GETS WIFELY CARESS

Constance Bennett believes in marriage, or she wouldn't have tried it four times. She also likes fancy names, because (after threatening to sue anyone who said she would leave him), she divorced the Marquis Henri de la Falaise last year — to marry Luis Antonio de Alonso. You may know him better as Screen Actor Gilbert Roland. They eloped to Yuma, and here's Connie back in Hollywood patting No. 4 Hubby's cheek for the photographer and for love.

Boy Scouts The World Over

Some 10,000 Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs meet in Toronto churches and 2,000 in the public schools.

As recorded in the 32nd Annual Report of the British Boy Scouts Association, 175 different types of wartime service have been carried out by Old Country Scouts.

A demonstration of model aeroplane flying held at Wallaceburg, Ont., under the auspices of the Wallaceburg Boy Scouts attracted well over a hundred boys and a group of girls.

Aircraftsman Cyril Faulkner, of Lancing, who was recently awarded the Military Medal for saving a British fighter pilot from a blazing aeroplane, is a Boy Scout.

Toronto city hospitals have appealed for the registration of additional Rover Scouts for blood transfusion, to meet a serious lack due to the quantity of blood being sent overseas.

The Scout Certificate of Gallantry was awarded Miss F. E. Revil, General Secretary of the Sheffield Boy Scouts Association, for her outstanding work during a heavy air raid on Sheffield.

IN SPITE OF A BROKEN ARM

An unusual example of stout courage and persistence was that given by Patrol Leader Elwood Pomeroy, 15, of Prescott, Ont., in the rescue of a younger boy, who had been overcome while swimming. The lad was badly frightened, and during a struggle to control him, he kicked his rescuer violently, breaking an arm. Notwithstanding this, the Scout continued his efforts, and finally got the frantic boy ashore.

NAZIS ABOLISH DUTCH BOY SCOUTS

The Boy Scouts of Holland, like those of other countries invaded by the Germans, have been banned by the Nazis. The leader of the Hitler Jugend has announced that "such organizations as the Boy Scouts and the Grail will have to disappear, and ultimately all Dutch youth organizations must follow the National-Socialist Movement."

"How did your wife like the diamond brooch you gave her for her birthday?"

"Delighted! She was very sweet for a couple of days. But she's herself again, now."

Rex Theatre Note

Through misapprehension to the date the new federal movie tax came into effect, Rex Theatre patrons were charged 8 per cent on tickets for the Pop Brownlee vaudeville performance Wednesday evening, May 7th. Later, however, the management was informed this tax did not apply until May 19th . . . Therefore, by agreement between Mr. Brownlee and the Fassio Brothers, proceeds of the tax amounting to about $15. were turned over to the Argenteuil Spitfire Fund — a solution which they felt would be agreeable to all customers.

Clark Gable Is 'Dead'!

A salesman was trying to sell the latest Clark Gable film to a movie proprietor in the wilds of Venezuela. "Clark Gable is dead," he was told. "You recall the film 'Parnell'?"

"Yes," the salesman said. "Si, senor; but the Gable, he died, in that . . . I tried to show another Gable film after that," went on the Venezuelan, "And what happened? Hell broke loose. Senor, my clients see the Gable die in one picture. Cannot believe one's own eyes? So far as this village is concerned, Clark Gable is dead, and he stays dead!"

Even movie salesmen have their troubles !

"I'm rather old-fashioned, I'm afraid."

"Yes, I notice you tell all the jokes my grandfather used to."

Bette Davis Appears In "The Great Lie"

The new Bette Davis picture, "The Great Lie," is announced on the Capitol bill for May 23-24. George Brent co-stars with Bette Davis in this love story of a magnificent cheat.

Bette Davis appears in what many previewers have pronounced her finest role to date. Twice winner of the Academy Award, Miss Davis seems to have a faculty for topping herself in each successive film that she makes.

A deeply moving story of the heights to which a woman can rise for the man she loves, the new film gives Miss Davis her first opportunity in years to portray a normal, modern American girl, completely, without any of the "menace" which accompanied a character such as she played in "The Letter."

The speaker was getting tired of being interrupted.

"We seem to have a great many fools here tonight," he said. "Wouldn't it be advisable to hear one at a time?"

"Yes," said a voice. "Get on with your speech."

GET MORE PROFITS ON MARKET HOGS
by feeding your pigs Quaker Pig Starter

● To make profits from hogs, feed Quaker Pig Starter, and get them ready for market at 200 to 220 pounds weight at the age of about 5 to 6 months.

Quaker Pig Starter is built around oatmeal, and research farms have definitely proved that oatmeal makes pigs grow faster, develops big strong frames, and increases resistance to disease. Because oatmeal is 94% digestible, there is less waste, and the pigs convert it into meat far more quickly and economically.

Scientifically correct, Quaker Pig Starter contains all the 17 ingredients required to give best results in developing strong, fast-growing hogs from the third to tenth week; including iodine to prevent goitre; iron to prevent anemia!

For finishing after the tenth week, feed Quaker Pig-N-Hog Maker.

UNITED STATES FOLLOWS CANADIAN EXAMPLE IN SAVINGS SCHEME FOR NATIONAL DEFENCE

War Veterans' Souvenir Helmets Go Overseas For Air-Raid Workers; British Flyers Now Seen in Training with U. S. Air Corps

By Allan McGee

Specially Written for Readers of The Watchman

The United States have adopted a defence savings system something similar to our War Savings Certificates. They can buy both stamps and bonds, just as we do, and all the proceeds are to be used for the protection of the nation.

In one week the people contributed over 114 million dollars to the new scheme. The bonds are redeemable in 1951, and the enthusiasm which the American people have shown for this new savings scheme is adequate proof that they are with us in body as well as in soul.

From Winnipeg comes word of a newly discovered use for tear gas. This time the vapors will be used to kill off termites and pests which are infesting many of the temporary grain bins.

During the past year it has been necessary to make use of many emergency storage spaces for our surplus wheat and grains.

These storage places are only built for temporary use, and therefore the mites which feed on the grain found it very easy to get a good living off the people.

That was until they were discovered. Pipes were run down in the wheat, and a tear gas, similar to that used by the police, was forced into the infested portions. That killed off the mites without hurting the grain, and so saved the farmers a good many thousands of dollars.

More than 1,000 steel helmets have been sent to England for the use of air-raid workers.

These helmets, mostly souvenirs of the last war, were contributed by their Canadian owners to help out in an emergency. They were souvenirs here. Many of them carried stories of valor and daring with them, for they were won on the field of battle or carried home by soldiers, to show to the folks at home. Now they are back in action again — saving the life of many a daring warden or fireman while on duty. The steel helmets may have been only souvenirs here in Canada, but in England they are real life savers. Have you got one to contribute?

PURPLE COMES BACK

The fashions are changing again. This time the swing is to purple. Not too much of it, just a touch here and there.

Once upon a time, purple was considered an "old" color, but times have changed and even the smartest debutante will soon be showing her pleated skirt with two shades of purple — the darker shade on top and the lighter shade underneath the pleat.

Purple is anybody's color from now on. Let the oldsters beware. The youngsters want to take over the purple.

BRITISH FLYERS IN STATES

If you should happen to be down Texas way or in sunny California and hear a charming Oxford accent coming from a group of young men, don't be surprised. They will probably be "civilian" flyers training with the United States Army Air Corps. Don't be fooled by their dress though. It is just an accident that they are learning to fly huge bombers capable of flying 5,000 miles non-stop. It is just an accident that they are being trained in planes similar to those being shipped to England from the U. S. It is just an accident that they are being paid by the British Government while they learn to fly in the U. S. It is just an accident that they all have English accents. Just an accident — or is it?

To win, we must ALL get in the fight. Those at home must provide dollars. Buy War Savings Certificates NOW !

Assistant Director for Recreational Activities

Brownsburg, May 20—Less than five months ago, Mr. Herb Rumball undertook to organize the recreational facilities of Brownsburg. This work has since grown to such proportions that it has been found necessary to secure an assistant. This assistant has been found in the person of Fred Soughton, of Hamilton. For the past six months Mr. Soughton has been the Director of Y.M.C.A. War Services there, where he did a very commendable piece of work. He has had three years' experience as a radio announcer and artist and is a pianist and singer of considerable merit. His hobby for the past seven or eight years has been planning and organizing co-educational recreational programmes.

THIS WILL NEVER CONQUER BRITAIN

German bombers, raining fire-bombs and high-explosives, hit five London hospitals in one night raid. A public shelter was wrecked and many dead were brought from the ruins . . . This picture shows nurses of one of the bombed hospitals clearing up a damaged ward, in which helpless patients were lying at the time of the raid.

HE'D BE PROUD TO SEE PLANES OVER BRITAIN, ONE CALLED 'ARGENTEUIL', ANOTHER 'LACHUTE'

A Stirring Letter from the Battle Front

Lieut. L. Morris Says Planes Urgent Need, to Combat Barbarism

Our Spitfire message this week — in more forcible expression than The Watchman could convey — is given in another timely letter from Britain. It is written by a Lachute townsman, Lieut. Leslie Morris, serving with the Forestry Corps, at present in Scotland.

If such letters as this, and a message received early in the campaign from Miss L. Miller, cannot stir our countryside to Britain's dire need for fighting planes — then there is no eloquence or pleading that will do so. Only the grim experience of ruthless, heartless bombings can move such people who, at this far distance, cannot hear the cry for help.

Such extremities are not impossible; yet they are terrifying to think upon. We who are fortunate enough to live our lives in security, shall surely rally to the need of a few more thousand dollars to climax the Argenteuil Spitfire Drive.

Following is the letter from Lieut. Morris:

Scotland, April 24, 1941

Mr. Editor:

I received some letters and a copy of The Watchman (Mar. 20) yesterday. I sure got quite a kick out of reading about the "doings" in and around Lachute, but what pleased me most was the "Spitfire barometer" and the letter published from "Lulu" Miller . . . Lulu knows what she is talking about, but she didn't make it quite strong enough.

I've been getting around quite a bit since the middle of March, when I was sent away from our Company on special duty, and have had a chance to see something of what those Germans will do; and feel sure that if the people at home could see what might happen there if it were not for these Islands, they would give (to the like of a Spitfire Fund) until it hurt, and then dig down and give some more.

If it were troops, planes, etc., against troops, planes, etc., it would be O. K. But when these devils slide in and bomb and machine-gun women in the gardens and children at play, it's hard to take.

They sure don't have things all their own way, but their "hit and run" idea of a fight makes it hard to tag them.

We would like to see these skies full of planes, and I'd be proud to see one called "Argenteuil" and another "Lachute".

Good luck to The Watchman and your efforts.

Sincerely — Les Morris.

A servant girl in Canada spent most of her spare time knitting sweaters for Norwegians, and sent them by the Red Cross. She has recently had a letter thanking her for one of the sweaters. It came from a German soldier !

Arundel Mayor, Three Councillors Are Re-elected

Mayor C. J. Staniforth Has Filled Office Now for Over 25 Years

(Special to The Watchman)

Arundel — Nomination for mayor and councillors in this municipality took place on Wednesday, May 14th. Councillors whose term had expired were — Jos. S. Boyd, T. H. Graham and A. B. Morrison. Mayor C. J. Staniforth, who has now filled this office for over 25 years, was re-elected by acclamation. Leslie Cooke was named a candidate for councillor as were also the retiring council members, and the balloting on May 19th resulted in re-election of all three former councillors.

The personnel of the municipal council is now made up as follows:

Mayor C. J. Staniforth Councillors Jos. S. Boyd, M. C. Cooke, H. G. Cooke, T. H. Graham, Angus Graham, A. B. Morrison; secretary-treasurer — P. Cantin.

With the Weekly Publishers at Hamilton, Ont.

Pleasant and Instructive Visit, With Convention Of Fellow Publishers

Delegates Tour Munitions Plant; Entertained at Country Club

— By R. A. Giles —
of The Lachute Watchman

Bringing the realities of war somewhat closer was evidenced at the annual convention of Weekly Publishers held recently at Hamilton, Ont., which city has been turned into a manufacturing centre for the output of war materials.

Friday morning the delegation was welcomed by Mayor Morrison who stated that more industries of that city were at present turning out war materials than any other place in Canada.

Entertained at Tamahaac Club

After the morning sessions of business had been completed, guests were driven to the Tamahaac Club, situated on the highest point in that part of Ontario and from which a wonderful view of the fruitful Niagara Peninsula is obtained. Here as guests of the Hamilton Spectator, a buffet luncheon was served and Mr. Ker, the managing director thanked the weekly papers for the part they are playing in the war effort and solicited their continued co-operation.

Visit Munition Plant

Back to town again and we were next on a trip through the Otis-Fenson Elevator plant where vital munitions are being made. The huge plant covering 12 acres where over 2,000 are employed in the manufacture of a 40-millimeter anti-aircraft gun was only started last October, and while there is some 25 per cent of the machinery still to be installed, it will be September before complete manufacture can be made, when it is estimated, 120 guns will be produced monthly.

Unskilled labor is taken in and trained by experts in the various parts of the gun and when sufficiently experienced, put on separate machines by themselves. Strict caution is observed that no secrets are taken from the factory and constables are continally on the watch for any suspected trouble.

A drive through the blossom section of the Niagara Peninsula was greatly enjoyed and completed the afternoon's entertainment.

Association Banquet

In the evening at our headquarters, the Royal Connaught Hotel, the Association Banquet was held at which the Hon. Angus L. Macdonald, Minister of National Defence for Naval Affairs gave an inspiring address on Canada's War Effort. It is reproduced elsewhere in this issue.

The contest for Blossom Queen of the Niagara Peninsula was spectacular when seven attractive young ladies appeared before the gathering. The lucky winner was Miss Virginia Tressan, entered as Miss Hamilton. Hon. P. M. Dewan officially crowned the Queen and spoke briefly. Miss Agnes McPhail was also called on for a few words.

Estate Purchased at St. Adolphe; Widespread Developments Show Growing Popularity of Laurentians

"Wooden Acres", in This County, Taken Over By Montrealers for Year-Round Resort

Swimming Pool, Golf Course and Church for Mt. Tremblant

Evidence of the increasing popularity of the Laurentians as a resort centre is seen in the transfer of "Wooden Acres", a picturesque private estate at St. Adolphe de Howard, which has been purchased by a group of Montreal businessmen for conversion into a year-round resort.

The 100-acre estate, built on the shore of Lac Lacroix, 11 years ago, by Ben Joseph, of Montreal, consists of a large main residence and four cottages. A lodge and central dining hall are being added to the grounds and the name "Wooden Acres" is to remain.

At Mont Tremblant, higher in the Laurentian mountains, Joseph B. Ryan, resorts operator and sportsman, confirmed a report that a church will be erected this summer on his territory, which is at the foot of the highest mountain in the Laurentian district, so his guests and staff may attend all services.

Mr. Ryan announced at the same time that work has started on construction of an outdoor swimming pool and that he has bought the necessary land for the laying down of a nine-hole golf course within walking distance of the resort.

One of the newer resort development in the Laurentians, Mont Tremblant Lodge has expanded with such rapidity since its first building was erected a few years ago, that today it resembles a young village of its own, its growth overshadowing its neighbor village of Lac Mercier to the extent that the name Mercier has been changed by the village and railway station to Mont Tremblant.

Expansion of Mont Tremblant Lodge, on which more than $1,000,000 has been spent already, and of other resorts in the Laurentian area — including the new Ste. Adele Lodge which is presently constructing the largest outdoor swimming pool, and other projects such as the young Sun Valley Farm resort midway between Val Morin and Ste. Adele, are regarded as clear indications of the increasing popularity of the Laurentian district as a year-round pleasure area.

Mont Tremblant Church, the building of which has been sanctioned by Bishop Limoges of Mont Laurier, will be constructed along rural French-Canadian lines based on the architecture of an old habitant church on the Ile d'Orleans. When completed late this summer, it will have a seating capacity of 160 persons. Services at the church will be conducted by Rev. Father Deslauriers, of Lac Mercier.

Souvenirs Received

Mrs. David Cleland has received a parcel from her son, Andrew, who is now overseas with the Royal Canadian Regiment. The parcel contained an incendiary bomb, shrapnel, a French soldier's cap and French money.

Technical Groups from Industries Pay Visit to Ayers' Textile Plant

Make Inspection of Mills and Enjoy Golf Tournament at St. Andrews Club

An enthusiastic gathering of over 100 members and guests of the Quebec Section, Canadian Association of Textile Colorists and Chemists, and the Textile Society of Canada, Eastern Division, visited the plant of Ayers Limited, at Lachute, and took part in a golf tournament at St. Andrews Golf Club on Saturday last, in the second annual joint outing of the two associations.

Visitors were greatly impressed by the large, modern plant of Ayers Limited, all departments of which were operating, producing felts, woollens for clothing, blankets, and cotton twine and rope. In the afternoon the weather cleared sufficiently to allow members to play golf, with nearly 70 taking part in the tournament.

At the dinner held at the Golf Club visitors were guests of Ayers Limited. Clement Tremblay, secretary-treasurer of the company, extended a welcome to the guests. He also presented golf prizes to winners and delivered a short address on the history of Argenteuil County.

Arriving at the Ayers plant early Saturday morning the visitors were grouped in small parties with guides under direction of Thos. Milnes, general superintendent. All were favorably impressed with the excellent modern machinery, well constructed buildings, and the wide variety of manufacturing operations. Of particular interest to the visitors were the huge felt looms, modern large package spinning frames, the rope and twine plant, and the general completeness of the mills. The visitors remarked on the beautiful appearance of the mill grounds, which are attractively landscaped. The tour finished at lunch time, when most of the members and guests proceeded to the St. Andrews Golf Club.

At the dinner given by Ayers Limited, Mr. Tremblay, speaking on behalf of the company's president, W. H. Ayers, and his fellow directors, expressed pleasure at receiving such an important delegation of technical men from the industry. Apart from their professional interest in inspecting plant and equipment, members of the associations, he said, had seen a part of the country full of romantic interest and gradually increasing its importance as an industrial area.

Speaking on behalf of the Colorists Association, Gordon C. Taylor said that the day had been an outstanding one in Association history, since they had seen one of the finest plants in Quebec and played one of the most difficult courses in the province. Nelson Thompson, speaking for the Textile Society said that he felt proud to be associated with men responsible for direction of one of Quebec's leading industries. He thanked Mr. Tremblay sincerely for the opportunity the visitors had had, and expressed the hope that the company would further expand its activities and consolidate its position as one of the leading plants of its kind in the world.

The golf tournament, which started around 2.00 p.m., was under the direction of L. N. Thompson and G. C. Taylor, assisted by Association secretaries A. H. Wood and W. King. Nearly 70 members and guests took part, playing 18 holes. The weather, which had been very unfavorable in the morning, cleared up for the golf games in the afternoon. Winners of the prizes, which were distributed by Mr. Tremblay at the dinner, were as follows:

1st. low gross, L. R. Whitcombe; 2nd. low gross, G. C. Taylor; 3rd. low gross, F. R. Daniels.

1st. low net, C. Rogers; 2nd. low net, A. H. Wood; 3rd. low net, G. H. Carr.

Consolation Prizes — 1st. low gross (1st. 9 holes) J. Grant; 2nd. low gross, J. Lowe; 3rd. low gross, A. Alexander.

1st. low gross (2nd. 9 holes), J. P. Redston; 2nd. low gross, D. Reid; 3rd. low gross, L. N. Thompson.

Visitors—Low gross, David McGill; Low net, B. Taylor; Most honest golfer, C. N. Rhodes; 2nd. highest score, P. Bromilow; Best dressed golfer, J. Duncan.

So sure was Napoleon that he would succeed in invading England that he even had a special commemorative medal struck. Hitler please note !

Watchman Rates Will Be $2 From July 1st

Watchman Expanding; Improved Editorial and News Services

Increasing Costs Demand Price Consistent With Canadian Weeklies

With the announcement that subscriptions to this newspaper will be advanced to $2. after July 1st, The Watchman offers no profuse apology, for this rate is only in keeping with the practice of weekly newspapers throughout Canada. The advance becomes essential at this time on account of greatly increased costs in materials — newsprint, ink and typographic supplies — also in taxes and labor costs.

Representatives of this newspaper have kept in close touch with trends of the weekly press, through its thoroughly active organizations in Canada. Steady improvements have been made in the editorial, news and mechanical services of The Watchman. The pages have been enlarged, and will be further increased in size during the next few weeks. All of which is mentioned to illustrate every effort is being made to supply good value to the reader and the advertiser.

Personal notices will be sent to all subscribers advising them of the change. The new subscription of $2. in Canada and $2.50 in the United States, will be strictly payable in advance — this also in accordance with general newspaper practice. As the expiry date approaches, readers will receive a notice to that effect, and failing renewal of subscription within two or three weeks' grace, the paper will be stopped.

It will be realized this innovation will obviate the mailing of papers every week to delinquent readers who have little ambition or intention to pay up. This is now a costly procedure for the publisher. The good will and co-operation of all readers is solicited in this coming change.

Subscribers who wish to pay in advance for one, two, three years ahead, regardless of their expiry date, may take advantage of the $1.50 rate any time before July 1st.

Meetings in Two Branches Of Women's Institutes

Brownsburg Women's Institute held an Agricultural meeting under the convenorship of Mrs. P. Martin, which proved a most interesting session. An instructive illustrated lecture was given by Mr. Walker, of Macdonald College, on the planting and growing of shrubs, trees and flowers.

An interesting cake icing demonstration under auspices of this branch was given recently by Mrs. McCullough; a cake was raffled and home-cooking sold. Refreshments were also served, and the venture proved a big success.

Lachute W. I. also reports an interesting Agriculture meeting under the convenorship of Mrs. J. Hay. Mrs. Porter, of Brownsburg, formerly of Nova Scotia, gave an instructive outline of the way the Institutes' work is carried on in that province.

An interesting report of the county convention was given by Mrs. H. McFaul.

It was decided to send a resolution to Prime Minister Mackenzie King, as suggested by the Health League of Canada, asking that something be done to further the education of the general public on contagious diseases.

Henri Joly Elected Mayor of St. Canut

Two Councillors Returned Two Replaced. Without Electoral Contest

(Special to The Watchman)

St. Canut, May 20 — Elections for mayor of this municipality, held yesterday, gave a majority to Henri Joly over ex-Mayor Jos. Bourgeois, who has held the office for ten years.

At nominations, held on May 14th, two councillors were replaced and two re-elected, by acclamation — Rene Paquette in the seat vacated by Matthew Power, and J. Ladouceur in the place of X. Clavel. Councillors A. McKenzie and A. Gingras were re-elected at nominations, the only contest being for the mayoral seat.

Henri Joly, proprietor of Joly's Farm, a popular boarding establishment, is well known in the community. He is a director of the Agricultural Society of the County of Two Mountains, and has been secretary-treasurer for the Municipality of St. Columban for the past 15 years.

On his return home after elections, Mr. Joly was waylaid and escorted to the Sevigny dance hall, where he was feted by his friends and received their warm congratulations and good wishes.

WATCHMAN SUBSCRIPTIONS FROM JULY 1st — $2.; TO UNITED STATES — $2.50

Hon. Angus L. Macdonald Reviews Canada's Effort and Obligation in War

ADDRESS TO EDITORS AT HAMILTON CONVENTION

Following is the text of an address given by Honorable Angus L. Macdonald, Minister of National Defence for Naval Services, to the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association at Hamilton, Ontario, May 9th.

If we are to consider judiciously the nature and extent of Canada's War Effort, we must have regard to certain facts of the past — facts, particularly, of the past — twenty years. I invite you to go back to the end of the last war and to the Versailles Treaty which followed that war. Hardly had the ink dried on the parchment of that Treaty when a great clamour broke out in certain circles in this and other democracies. The treaty, so it was said, was unjust to Germany. It fixed certain indemnities which Germany should pay. These were much too great. It delimited new boundaries of states. These were unwisely and improperly drawn. It deprived Germany of some of her colonies. This was an unjust restriction of Germany's natural desire to colonize and to expand. For nearly twenty years we heard these cries uttered — mark well ! not only by Germans, perhaps not first by Germans, though probably German propaganda had much to do with the origin of these cries.

Many people in Britain, in Canada and in the United States joined in the clamour. From more than one pulpit, from countless professorial chairs, from many a Parliamentary Hall, from not a few editorial columns, from some League of Nations groups, and from other sources there came the same doleful sound, the same cry of anguish of the new internationalism — these broad-minded and great-hearted disciples of world brotherhood — that, after all, we and the other democracies had selected in the free democratic way the representatives who had signed the Versailles Treaty on our behalf. It was a waste of effort to say that perhaps we owed something to the leaders of our own country, as well as to the people or to the leaders of another land — a land that more than once in the preceding fifty years had waged unjust and ruthless war. It was vain to say that never in all history had a defeated country written down the terms of a treaty of peace. It was useless to point out that, after all, these terms were not so harsh or unfair as the Germans alleged.

What were the main provisions of the Versailles Treaty that were thus so bitterly assailed ? Let me mention some of them. The Treaty said, in the first place, that the responsibility for the last Great War lay primarily on Germany. If that was a true statement, as it undoubtedly was, then certain other conditions of the Treaty could easily be justified. Thus, on the question of indemnities, if Germany was responsible for the war, was it not reasonable to say that Germany should pay for the damage she had caused? That is what would be done in private affairs. Why not do it in international affairs. But the indemnity was too great, some people said. You will recall that by one adjustment and another, the amount which Germany was originally required to pay was cut down to a small fraction of the initial sum. You may recall, too, that today, when Germany has overrun one country after another in Europe, she is demanding a toll from these countries in comparison with which the amount demanded of her — an aggressor nation — in the last war is insignificant.

HON. ANGUS L. MACDONALD,

Minister of National Defence for Naval Services, who addressed weekly newspaper publishers at Hamilton, Ontario.

As to colonies, Germany in 1870 had taken by force certain territories or provinces from France. France, in 1919, demanded and was given back these territories. Is there any thing hideous or disgraceful in that attitude by a victorious nation? Certain German colonies in Africa were removed from the German orbit by the Treaty of Versailles. They were unimportant from the point of view of their trade with Germany or their immigration from Germany. Only about one per cent of the trade of Germany proper was done with these colonies, and in thirty years only twenty thousand Germans had gone to the colonies. Yet, ever since the last Great War a din has been heard throughout the world over the injustice of depriving Germany of her colonies.

Then, there were still further complaint about the new boundaries which were given to certain of the European states, notably in the Balkan and Baltic areas. The boundaries may not have been perfectly drawn. It may be that in some of these countries there were some people who were unhappy under their new masters. But, after all, can you set up a new state for every group in a country which claims autonomy for itself? What would happen in this country or in the United States if citizens of German origin and Italian origin and Scottish origin and French origin each demanded to have on this continent a German, or Italian, or Scottish, or French state? You would have endless confusion and chaos.

The Treaty of Versailles was not a perfect document. It was executed when the bitter passions of war were still hot and fuming, and it was written under the play of conflicting national desires and hopes. But when you compare it to the Brest-Litowsk which Germany had only a few months before imposed on defeated Russia, it stands out as would the Ten Commandments when set in parallel columns with the code of a

In spite of all these facts, the talk went on and on, and, unwittingly, in many cases, the German game was played. I think it can be stated definitely that even if the people of Germany had been satisfied in the beginning with the Versailles Treaty, they would be led to believe, if they listened to all that was said in other countries, that the Treaty of Versailles was the most iniquitous document ever penned by human hands, a document that ought to be broken and thrust aside at the first opportunity.

Now, this mea culpa attitude had two sinister consequences. In the first place, you cannot go on for years denouncing a man or an institution or an event or the terms of-a document, and then suddenly shift tacks and say that the man or the institution or the event or the terms of the document are deserving of the utmost support. So it was that these people who berated the Versailles Treaty, and who impliedly condemned those who framed the Treaty, and impliedly, again, the democratic institutions under which these men came to power — these critics weakened the national loyalty of the victorious powers.

The second sinister result was that they gave aid and comfort to the enemy. Every time that they spoke in the manner which I have indicated, every time that they referred to the wrongs which Germany had suffered and to the cruelty of the democratic powers, they led Germany to believe that her cause was just, and that it was her sacred duty to remove the iniquities of the Treaty of Versailles.

And, so, for twenty years pacifism flourished. Students at great British universities declared they would not fight under any conditions. Prominent writers, distinguished professors, talked in the same way. Many clergymen preached pacifism from their pulpits. Germany had every reason to make up its mind that our national vigor was on the decline, that the quality of our manhood was deteriorating, that we would not and could not fight.

Thus, we went through twenty foolish years, the years of cowardice, the years of compromise, the years of appeasement. If you were smitten on one cheek, then you should turn the other. If you were struck there, turn the first one again to the German lash. Do not, in any event, talk of your own interests. Do not talk of the Empire or of Britain or of Canada. You must be citizens of the world, you must be internationalists.

But, after all, you do not destroy the spiritual or moral outlook of ten centuries in twenty years. After these brave new theorists and talkers had had their fling, when the pacifists and the appeasers had seen to it that the defences of the country were reduced and still further reduced, when Hitler and Mussolini became convinced that

BREVITY, PLUS

The editor of a New York magazine ordered a story of a specified length. When it arrived it was found to be a thousand words too long. As the magazine was late going to press, the story had to be condensed to fit the allotted space. The last few paragraphs were cut down to a single sentence, as follow:

"The cruelly treated young girl recovered her sense, her clothes, her freedom, her virtue, and finally her baby from the river."

"Nope — better yet ! . . . I've just discovered the secret of cutting down our household expenses."

For cooking, refrigeration, lighting and water heating, use Pyrofax Bottled Gas. It's ideal, because it's thoroughly dependable — eliminates waste — and SAVES YOU TIME AND MONEY !

THE EIGHTH DECENNIAL

Census of Canada

June 2, 1941

THE Census is the stock-taking of the nation — of its men, women, and children; its agriculture, trade, and industry; its housing, and general social condition. By it, all Governments, — Dominion, Provincial and Municipal—are enabled to work more effectively and economically in the interest of every resident of the Dominion.

IN these days of increasing Government responsibilities, no Government can give the best service unless it has detailed and accurate knowledge of the people and their varying circumstances. That is why we request the co-operation of all Canadian citizens in the taking of the Census. When the Government's Enumerator calls at your door, receive him courteously and give him all the information for which he asks.

Remember that he is in your service. Accuracy and despatch in your replies will promote good administration in your country, now under stress of war and facing crucial post-war reconstruction.

ALL INFORMATION SUPPLIED HELD STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL

You can place absolute trust in the official Enumerator, who is sworn to secrecy. All the information which you provide will be held in strictest confidence both by him and the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, and can never be used against you by any tax-collecting, military, or other agency, or in any court of law.

It is compulsory by law to answer the questions, but you will be assisting your Government in these difficult times by giving the information readily and accurately in the spirit of good citizenship.

Government for the People

The second session of the 21st Legislature of the Province of Quebec was prorogued last week, with a considerable list of achievements on its record.

Among the important measures adopted in this session were — amendments to the Civil Code, the Municipal Code, the Code of Civil Procedure, the Water Course Act and the Winter Vehicles Act; acts respecting the embellishment of the City of Quebec, the promotion of sugar beet farming and the canalization of the St. Lawrence; concerning the property of the Bishop of Gaspe, Le College de St. Jean and the Montreal Catholic School Commission; a bill projecting $100,000,000 expenditure in provincial ownership of the Beauharnois hydro; and last but not least, legislation to increase Members' indemnities from $2,500 to $3,000 a year.

Among other less consequential measures which the House did NOT approve were — the abolition of toll bridges, and a law to enforce lights on horse-drawn vehicles.

So ends the second session at Quebec; in its swan-song runs a line they borrowed from the Confession: "We have left undone those things which we ought to have done."

Those Auction Sales

To a section of our rural readers, the home-town news reaches its highspot of interest in the announcement of an auction sale ! Perhaps there is nothing quite so "homey" as a get-together of the countryside for these springtime sales of farm stock, implements and household effects "at the residence of —". And sales are numerous at this time of the year.

But behind most country auction sales there is a human interest story — sometimes a minor tragedy — to which the crowd pays little heed.

A farmer goes into retirement. Dobbin and Fay, at whose trusty heels he has plowed many a sticky furrow in his day, must go to the highest bidder. The churn in which Mother made the butter on hot, tiresome mornings to boost the earnings of the farm; the rubber-tired express which they proudly drove to church each Sunday; and even the rickety bureau, which graced the room to which he had brought her home, a bride, so many years ago . . .

Or the old folks pass on; the heirs must dispose of furniture and effects for which they have no further use: the old kitchen table whose legs they scarred with muddy little shoes; the framed text that hung upon the wall; and the mantel clock which had sent them on their way to school in rain and shine and snowy weather.

Yes, there's a human story behind the auctioneer's monotonous chatter.

But folks enjoy these auction sales. They flock from round the countryside in their cars of various vintage — smart new sedans; jalopies of nearly a decade past. They meet their neighbors and hear the news of their families, while seated in the sun on an old horsehair sofa which will soon change hands beneath the hammer.

—There's great doings today among the "household effects at the residence of —". Especially if the sale's a big one, with "lunch to be served at noon."

We Might Weep a Little

Over in England now, there is a radio comedian who sets his listeners laughing with recipes like the following:

"Take a large sirloin steak, smother it liberally with onions, spread with a thick coating of grated cheese, and fry in deep butter."

If this radio program could be rebroadcast in Canada with all the accompanying sounds of laughter from the English audience, doubtless many thousands of Canadians who can get all the steak and onions and butter they want, would decide to increase the size of their Victory Loan Bond purchases.

Sickness Ten Times Greater Factor Than Accidents, in Lost Time

On any given day as many as 25,000 industrial workers in Ontario are away from their jobs because of sickness, Dr. Grant Cunningham, Director, Division of Industrial Hygiene, Ontario Department of Health, writes in the current issue of "Health": Sickness is the main cause of lost time from work, ten times as great as that due to industrial accidents, according to Dr. Cunningham.

"Under stress of war production, sickness absence increases by as much as 50 per cent", he continues. "The excess is not due to respiratory and digestive disturbances, but rather to indefinite minor complaints of ill-health and discomfort associated with an acute sense of physiological function."

The main cause for this increased ill-health is described as inadequate rest, physical or mental, or both. "Resistance to disease is lowered, mental outlook is distorted and illness ensues", he writes. At least half the total time lost through sickness could be prevented, Dr. Cunningham claims.

Recognizing the importance of keeping men who are engaged in war work healthy, the British Government has required the employment by war industries of physicians and nurses, not for the treatment of disease but rather to make readily available to workers in industry the benefits of day-to-day supervision of personal health, and of conditions of living inside and outside the factory which affect health.

The Health League of Canada has recently inaugurated a committee on industrial health. Their first task has been the preparation and distribution of a series of health posters and leaflets.

The Press and Propaganda

One of the ever present dangers in the publishing field is the possibility of becoming a propaganda agency for some group or cause. Editors guard carefully against this possibility, and their efforts to be fair sometimes incur the displeasure of those whose propaganda they refuse to propagate. Of course there are two kinds of propaganda — good and bad. The word propaganda has been much abused in the past few years and to the man on the street propaganda now seems to mean exclusively that type of news sent out by the enemy to confuse and confound those who read it.

Propaganda is actually the method adopted for the propagation of doctrines and principles, either religious or secular. If there is such a thing as good propaganda the question naturally arises, why does the newspaper not become a propaganda agency for all propaganda that is good? As a matter of fact the newspaper does become such an agency in a broad sense, but not in just the way that some propagandists would have it. For instance, any religious sect might consider its propaganda good, and therefore entitled to space in the newspaper. An important factor is overlooked however in this reasoning. Propaganda espoused and supported by a newspaper must be of a type generally beneficial to the community as a whole. It would not be fair or ethical to use the propaganda of one church, where there are perhaps half a dozen churches in the same community.

Then too, there is often confusion in the minds of many people as to what is news and what is propaganda. For instance, an item relating to an actual event which took place in a church, or a lodge, or a service club would be news. On the other hand an item which sought to impress the reader with the principles or the doctrine of the organization would be propaganda. In short propaganda is that type of newsmatter which seeks to proselytize or convert the reader to one particular code of ethics, principles or doctrine.

The position of the newspaper is clear on this point. The newspaper is representative of the whole community, and while its editor or publisher might be an Anglican, Baptist, Presbyterian, United Churchman, or Roman Catholic, it would not be fair to give undue prominence to the doctrines of the sect to which he personally belongs. News is another matter. If more news comes from the United Church because it has more organizations, or because its press secretaries are more wide awake, then naturally that church would receive more space in the paper than the Anglican or Baptist if those churches were not so well organized or did not possess good press secretaries.

Weekly newspapers depend to a very large extent upon correspondents and press secretaries for news items, and this being the case it is timely to remind correspondents and secretaries that the newspaper is interested primarily in the news, and not in acting as an agency for the dissemination of their principles. This reasoning however does not preclude the newspaper drawing attention to any special effort made by any organization or institution within the community.

To sum up the attitude of the press toward propaganda it should be clearly understood that the press is interested in the events concerning organizations, rather than the ethics or principles which attract one to membership in these groups.

White Man Wrong

An old Indian in Ontario has earned fame by the uncanny accuracy of his weather prediction. But when he came out with his last "long winter" prophecy he broke down under questioning to reveal the signs on which he bases his predictions. "Watch white man," the chief said. "Put lot coal in um cellar. Cold winter!"

News Item . . .

The Army provides soldiers with toothbrushes but no toothpaste; razor and shaving brush, but no blades after the initial issue of five has been used . . .

There's no charge for the great-coat,

His tunic costs him nothing,
It's replaced when it gets old.
He gets his razor, toothbrush free,
But isn't it a sin,
That John Canuck must pay for blades,
With which to shave his chin !

And every man's provided with,
His summer underwear,
Substantial boots cost not a cent,

Keep Off the Grass !

This is rather an abrupt remark. However, at this time of the year it is a necessary admonition: Keep off the grass ! Warm weather is here, lawns are being planted, shrubs and plants are being carefully tended, and it is annoying when delivery boys, canvassers and others walk across gardens and lawns to save a few steps. They walk through flower beds and hedges quite deliberately when making deliveries or canvassing. It seems such a small matter to take a short cut, yet is means everything to the citizen who is trying to beautify his home and grounds. Delivery boys and canvassers are paid to make their calls, and should be taught to respect public property. — Huntingdon Gleaner

THE LIFE OF WINSTON CHURCHILL

THE MAN WHO 'LL BEAT HITLER

(Part 10)

Winston Churchill never seemed quite at home as Chancellor of the Exchequer — but it gave him at least one great satisfaction, and that was in wearing his father's robes on official occasions.

Lord Randolph Churchill was Chancellor at the time he resigned from the Cabinet — and out of official life. It was the custom for the outgoing Chancellor to sell his robes to his successor; but when Lord Randolph offered his robes to Goschen, who succeeded him, the latter would not buy them.

Lord Randolph remarked that: "It is the first time that a Jew has refused to buy a second-hand clothing at a give-away price !"

* * *

Out Again

Winston Churchill never liked Ramsay MacDonald, and the dislike was mutual. When the National Government was formed in 1931, and Ramsay MacDonald became Premier, there was no place in the Cabinet for Winston Churchill. Once again he was out in the political wilderness.

This gave him a chance to revisit the United States for a lecture tour — a tour that was interrupted by an accident that might easily have been fatal.

Stepping off the pavement in Fifth Avenue, New York, one day, Mr. Churchill was knocked down by a passing taxicab. He afterwards said of this accident that "I ought to have been broken like an eggshell, or smashed like a gooseberry." Instead, he made a complete recovery, won American hearts by his frank statement that he himself was totally to blame for the accident, and went on with his lecture tour.

Coming Events . . . !

"Fears in Europe are greater, rivalries are sharper, military plans are more closely concerted, military organizations are more carefully planned and efficiently developed — and Britain is weaker. Britain's period of weakness is Europe's danger, " declared Mr. Churchill in 1932, and a few months later, the Reichtag elections in Germany gave Hitler a majority and he became virtual leader of Germany. Immediately, Hitler called on his country to rearm, and the British Government of Ramsay MacDonald answered this threat by suggesting a new disarmament conference at the league of Nations, meanwhile taking no active steps to prepare Britain for the coming dangers.

Again Churchill warned the country of a likely "renewal of the European war." But his words were not all gloomy. In a rousing speech in April 1933, he might well have been looking ahead at the present-day Britain, when he said: "It may well be that the most glorious chapters of our history are yet to be written. Indeed, the very problems and dangers that encompass us ought to make English men and women of this generation glad to be here at such a time . . . We ought to be proud that we are guardians of our country in an age when her life is at stake."

Germans Rebuild Air Force

In the Fall of 1933, Winston Churchill warned Parliament that Germany was secretly building warplanes, despite her treaty obligations. "This illegal air force will be as strong as the R.A.F. within 12 months, and by 1937 it will be nearly twice our strength."

Stanley Baldwin, again Premier, pooh-poohed Mr. Churchill's warnings and denied his figures of Germany's air force, yet in the following March, Hitler openly boasted that German air strength was equal to Britain's, and at the same time he announced the introduction of conscription in Germany.

When, in June 1935, the Anglo-German Naval Treaty was signed, and the Nazis pledged themselves "never to engage in unrestricted submarine warfare", Mr. Churchill scoffed at the pledge, and told the British Government that to place the slighest credence in a Nazi promise "must constitute the acme of gullibility."

By early 1936, the British people were beginning to feel uneasy. Events in Europe had given powerful support to Mr. Churchill's warnings. A Minister of Defence was mooted, and Sir Austen Chamberlain wrote: "There is only one man who by his studies and his special abilities and aptitudes is marked out for it, and that man is Winston Churchill. I don't suppose that Baldwin will offer it to him, and I don't think that Neville Chamberlain (Austen's half-brother) would wish to have him back, but they are both wrong. He is the right man for that post, and in such dangerous times that consideration ought to be decisive."

Census Consists of Thirty-Three Questions

COVERING A VARIETY OF INFORMATION

Thirty-three questions will be asked in the general questionnaire to be submitted to residents of Canada in the decennial census being undertaken next month, according to sample forms released for publication yesterday by the Dominion statistician, R. H. Coats,

They are as follows:

Building number: name of person; relationship to head of household; sex; single, married, widowed, divorced or permanently separated; age; at first marriage, number of children born to this mother, and number of children living on June 2, 1941, these latter three questions being only for women who are or have been married; place of birth; years of continuous residence in present province of residence, in prsent municipality of residence; province or country or last residence; year of immigration to Canada; year of naturalization; nationality; racial origin; can you speak English; can you speak French; mother tongue; number of years of schooling; religion; occupation; kind of product or service, as, for example, rubber shoes, drugs, etc.; branch of industry, as, for example, manufacturing retail trade, etc.; are you an employer wage-earner; or working on your own account; what was your occupation in 1931; if a wage-earner, were you at work on number of week worked during 12 number of weeks, worked during 12 months prior to June 2, 1941; if a wage-earner, give total earnings in past twelve months (since June 1, 1940); Post Office address of home.

First six questions as listed above will be filled in by the enumerator, who will then leave the list, to be filled in by a date that will be entered on the sheet and signed by the enumerator before he leaves.

In connection with place of birth, the individual is asked if born in Canada to give the province, and if born outside of Canada to give the country as of 1936. In the answer to this question, information is asked about the residence of parents at the time of birth. If the parents were resident on a farm at the time of the birth, the letter "F" is to be entered after the name of birthplace; if the parents were in a rural place but not on a farm the letters "R.N.F." are to be entered; if the parents were in a city, town or village, the letter "U" is to be entered.

Geography to Order

One of the things about the present war that gets the stay-at-homes down in the new geography that seems to blossom overnight in the newspapers. During the war of 1914-18, after the line of the Western Front became more or less fixed, newspaper readers had time to familiarize themselves with the location of such important strategical points as Ypres, Amiens, Vimy and Arras. The same map was good for months at a time.

Now, when battle-fronts may be removed twenty or thirty miles in a day, the sketch map in the morning paper bears little likeness to the evening paper's map of the day before. New towns and villages, mountains and rivers have appeared where yesterday were blank spaces. The names are equally unpronounceable, and only if the reader happens to be using the same atlas as the newspaper can they be easily located on a detailed map of the region, because all makers of atlases seem to have different systems of spelling foreign names.

The situation troubles the newspapers too. On one paper, where a map is carefully drawn each day to illustrate the main war story, the paper was almost ready to be put to bed when a late dispatch came in, reporting heavy fighting around a place that may be called Itchivitza. It was too late to change the map, and Itchivitza was not on it.

The managing editor was called upon to arbitrate the dispute between the map maker and the cable editor. He solved the problem quickly. "We can't change the map," he said. "You'll have to change the story." So Itchivitza was changed to Vardarava, a village in the same general neighborhood, which happened to be on the map. —The Printed Word

Late Miss G. L. Mitchell

It is with deep regret we record the death of Gladys Lilly Margaret Mitchell, daughter of the late John Mitchell and Edith Rooney, who passed away on Saturday last at the Montreal Convalescent Hospital, after an illness of about six weeks.

Born in Lachute, March 1899, she moved with her mother to Montreal at the age of 13, where she has since resided.

The funeral service was held Monday from the Chapel of Tees' Undertaking Parlors in Montreal. The remains were brought to Lachute for interment, accompanied by a large number of friends of the family.

DEATH

MITCHELL — At Montreal, on Saturday, May 17th, Gladys Lilly Margaret, daughter of the late John Mitchell and Edith Rooney, in her 42nd year.

Near a shady wall a rose once grew,
Budded and blossomed in God's free light,
Watered and fed by morning dew,
Shedding its sweetness day and night.

As it grew and blossomed fair and tall
Slowly rising to loftier height,
It came to a crevice in the wall
Through which there shone a beam of light.

Onward it crept with added strength
With never a thought of fear or pride,
It followed the light through the crevice's length
And unfolded itself on the other side.

The light, the dew, the broadening view
Were found the same as they were before
And it lost itself in beauties new,
Breathing its fragrance more and more.

Shall claim of death cause us to grieve
And make our courage faint and fall?
Nay! Let us faith and hope receive;
The rose still grows beyond the wall.

Scattering fragance far and wide,
Just as it did in days of yore
Just as it did on the other side,
Just as it will for evermore.

No Slackers Wanted

Since we are to win this war, everyone must do his or her part, even if that is no more than saving a little money or trying to find more. There can be no slackers; every single individual, every single organization, must participate to the maximum of their ability in the war effort... The Montreal Rotary Club have sent out personally addressed letters to "Dear President Jim ... or Bill . . . or Harry, of over 3,000 Rotary Clubs throughout the U. S. A. and invited them and their fellow-Rotarians to visit Canada now. They explained why and how this visit would win the war. This letter will, in time, return a large volume of foreign exchange and some will go to the city that sent it out.

Plantagenet Man Faces Charge of Drunken Driving

HAWKESBURY DRIVER ALSO INVOLVED IN A CRASH NEAR ST. PHILIPPE

TRAFFIC OFFICER IS SLIGHTLY INJURED

Charged with driving under the influence of liquor, and without an operator's permit, Francis Poirier, of Plantagenet, Ont., will appear in court at St. Jerome next Monday. Charges on both counts were laid following arrest of the man on Sunday night, May 11th, in Grenville. Traffic Officer H. Jones made the arrest. It is stated that Poirier, in a car owned by Roland Lavigne, of Plantagenet, was driving in a dangerous manner along the village street.

• • •

Following a crash on Highway No. 8 one and a half miles west of St. Philippe on Tuesday night, traffic police seized a car owned and driven by Arthur Timbers, Hawkesbury. Timbers, driving a coupe, came into collision with an Austin sedan driven by J. Dawson Burwash, of St. Andrews East. Burwash received medical treatment for a cut on the head. Both cars were badly damaged.

• • •

Traffic Officer H. Jones, leaving Lachute for his home in Grenville yesterday afternoon, suffered minor injuries when his motorcycle collided with a car driven by Godfrey Delorme, on Main Street opposite the Lachute United Church.

Mr. Delorme was crossing toward a lane at the Belair tinsmith shop, and the accident was believed due to a misunderstanding. The traffic officer collided with the left side of the auto, and was thrown from his cycle. Momentarily stunned, he was picked up and given medical treatment by Dr. R. Percival at his office nearby. Jones was badly bruised about the left knee and shoulder. His machine was undamaged.

Montrealer Killed, Three Badly Hurt in Crash Near St. Jerome

EMPLOYED AT RITZ-CARLTON HOTEL IN MONTREAL

One man was killed and three others were critically injured when an automobile in which they were riding last Wednesday, May 14, crashed into a ditch near St. Jerome. The victims — all Montrealers — were employed as porters or elevator operators at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel.

The dead man is Bernard Noons, 19, Montreal North.

Those critically injured were — John Doyle, 22, Frank Harvey, 20, Paul Scalas 21.

The accident occurred on a private dirt road of the Rolland Paper Company on the outskirts of the town. The victims apparently were on their way back to Montreal and had mistaken the private thoroughfare as the road to Lachute.

The auto hit two posts and two trees as it bumped along a three-foot ditch for almost 100 feet.

Sole witness of the tragedy was George Faubert, a private constable employed by the Rolland Paper Company, who a few minutes earlier had informed the Montrealers they were on a private property and instructed them how to get back onto the Lachute road which, they said, they were seeking.

The car had only gone about a quarter of a mile after turning away from the paper manufacturing plant, Faubert said, when it lurched towards the ditch at the right of the road, sideswiped two poles and two trees and swerved around so that the front of the vehicle was again facing the Rolland concern.

Faubert called police and doctors at once and then rushed to the wrecked car with a nurse employed by paper company.

First aid treatment was given the victims, who were all unconscious, until arrival of physicians. An ambulance conveyed the victims to the Montreal Neurological Institute, where Noons died a short time later.

Canadian Ideals Have Built Huge Company

Thousands of Dealers in Canada and Abroad Celebrate Simmons Golden Jubilee

District Agents Feature Special Display, Bedding For Beauty and Comfort

Canadians are great sleepers.

If many of them complain that they rarely get enough to gear with the tempo of the modern day, at least they go heavily into the business of seeing that sleeping comfort is there if they can find time for full enjoyment of it. And export statistics prove that they have given an idea to lots of people the world over.

Consider, for instance, the huge stocks of material that the Empire's largest bedding factory used last year alone to meet demands for everything a man or woman could desire for deep sleep, real repose.

Simmons Ltd. consumed: more than 47,356 miles of wire; more than 2,963 miles of wire cable; over 3,337 tons of angle iron; over 766 tons of iron in cold rolled strip; over 4,503 tons of mattress filling; over 1,063 miles of mattress ticking; over 271 tons of feathers; and over 95 miles of lounge and Chesterfield coverings.

A far cry from 1891, when two young Canadians, MacIntosh and Williams, started a feather pillow factory with a payroll of four in downtown Montreal. But they had ideas on improving both comfort and beauty of the bed. Fifty years ago, they started. This is the Golden Jubilee year for the original and all the other Canadian firms that ultimately merged into Simmons Ltd. A birthday like that has to be celebrated; and the celebration is world-wide, for Simmons now export all over the globe. Locally, there will be a celebration. Local dealers will offer a special display of Simmons gold tag bedroom and living room furniture at their showrooms.

Fifty years ago, some cast iron, woven wire, excelsior and cheap ticking were about all the materials the bed manufacturer had to stock. That was because sleeping comfort and bed beauty had gone no further than ugly frame, sagging spring, stiff mattress, lumpy pillow, drab colors; always a hideous combination to look at, often a horrible combination to ruin a night's sleep.

MacIntosh and Williams could not see why the bedroom should ever be a torture chamber. They, their associates as their business grew, and the men they trained in the tradition of quality, set about the long process of developing greater comfort, more beauty. Over the years that make up the fifty of the Jubilee, the cast iron bed, the brass bed, the gaspipe bed all went; and in came Simmons' designed for harmonizing furniture and the dainty bedroom. But the strides in makeup of the sleeping equipment have been even greater. The sagging spring gave way to the perfect mattress base. The wool-filled mattress gave way to the spring-filled mattress, built of selected and pure materials, not stuffed and stiff. The lumpy pillow made way for the feather pillow, healthy because sterilized. And the tickings used took on bright, attractive colors. Withal, bed and bedding of the improved quality remained available for even the most modest homes.

Behind this step-by-step progress toward the Simmons comfort and beauty of 1941 was a romantic story of toil and success. The little Montreal factory became the Alaska Feather and Down Company; then the Alaska Bedding Company. In 1904, a factory was opened in Winnipeg and part of the Bromley Tent and Awning Company, of Calgary, was acquired. Next year there was alliance with the Ideal Bedding Company, of Toronto. By 1913, far West demand called for a Vancouver factory. And in 1919, so that two great firms in two neighboring countries could benefit by constant development in factory equipment and the bed and bedding art, there was a merger and Simmons Ltd. was formed.

In that romantic story of success in serving the sleepers of Canada and the world, employees and agents have played a notable role. Of the 925 people on the payroll last year, 301 had served 20 years or more, and terms of service ran to 47 years. Among agents, from the very first selected with care because of their ability properly to present quality merchandise, scores had been selling Simmons products for a generation.

That collaboration has built today's factories at Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver; the five service depots in this country; the vast agency organization from coast to coast and in lands across the seven seas.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY

Here's a good story about the picturesque-looking and imperial-bearded Governor of the Bank of England. A London policeman looked suspiciously at the well-trimmed beard of Mr. Montagu Norman, while he was inspecting a bomb crater near the Bank, and asked him whether he had any business there.

Mr. Norman replied casually that he worked in a bank. "Well," sniffed the policeman, "how about buzzing off and doing a bit of banking?"

A candidate in the course of a long speech, dramatically asked the audience:

"My friends, do you ever stop to think —"

And a weary voice from the audience interrupted:

"My friend, do you ever think to stop?"

Warns Against Mailing Cans of Fluid for Cigarette-Lighters

Ottawa — Despite the recent caution given against including inflammable substances in the mails, Hon. William P. Mulock, K.C., Postmaster General, states that this dangerous and illegal practice is still continuing.

Although the Canadian Postal Corps authorities report that the recent warning against enclosing matches in soldiers' parcels has evidently had the desired effect, cigarette-lighter fluid is still being mailed in considerable quantities, and on one single day this month, eight tins, which had been listed on the accompanying Customs Declaration forms, were removed from parcels at the Base Post Office, Ottawa.

The public are advised that cigarette-lighter fluid must not be sent through the mails. The danger of doing so, especially under war time conditions, must be apparent, for should this substance ignite it might cause great loss to the mails or postal premises, and if in transit, to the mail train or the ship; as well as injury to postal employees. Some weeks ago attention was directed to the fire hazard caused by matches which ignited in a parcel already sorted into a mail bag at the Base Post Office.

Postal Regulations prohibit the mailing of any inflammable, explosive, dangerous or destructive substance or liquied, or any substance likely to injure any letter or other mailable matter, or the person of any officer or servant of the Post Office. Public co-operation is solicited in helping the Canadian Postal Corps safeguard the mails.

Make It Brief !

Mr. Herbert Ramsbotham, President of the Board of Education, is one of the lesser-known British Cabinet ministers. Speaking the other day to a Liverpool audience, he mentioned a young Scottish preacher who, before going into the pulpit, asked an elder how long he should preach.

"Far be it from me to say anything that might abridge the Gospel message," replied the elder, "but we have no record of a soul being saved after the first ten minutes."

"Why did you break off your engagement with Mabel?"

"When we were looking for a flat, her mother said it was too small for three."

50 U. S. Flying Fortresses Join British R.A.F.

(By Mail)

London, April 21 — Six entirely new types of aircraft are now taking the air against the Nazis. In speed, offensive power and range they will supersede the Spitfires, Hurricanes, Wellingtons, Whitleys and others which have become famous for their exploits over Europe.

Outstanding among the new aircraft is the Hawker "Tornado", a single-seater fighter with nearly double the engine power of the Spitfire. Designed by the builders of the Hurricane, it is powered by a 2,000 h.p. Rolls-Royce Vulture engine, giving a speed of about 425 m.p.h. Its armament is heavy enough to shatter enemy planes in mid-air.

Also more powerful than the famous original is the Spitfire Mark 3, an aircraft re-powered with new Rolls-Royce Merlin engines. The design has clipped wings, and in some cases is re-armed with shell-firing cannon. Another new fighter, the Westland Whirlwind, is similarly powered.

Among the bombers the most sensational arrivals are fifty Flying Fortresses, the giant Boeing bombers from U. S. A., equipped with the famous Sperry bomb sight of unerring accuracy. All Britain's new bombers are designed to meet the current need for very long-range activity combined with greater speed. One is called the Avro Manchester, and has twin Vulture engines. Another, the Short Stirling, with four engines, is both bigger and faster than the existing Flying Fortresses. For long-range work this bomber will be even more useful than the Wellington.

It is disclosed that the fighters now being used against night raiders over Britain include Hawker Hurricanes, Bristol Blenheims and Defiants.

Celebrating SIMMONS GOLDEN JUBILEE WEEK

SIMMONS DEALERS PRESENT THESE Sensational Special Values!

50 Years of Achievement

Climaxing 50 years of achievement in the bedding industry, Simmons, makers of the Beautyrest Mattress, Slumber-King Spring and other nationally famous sleep units, presents the finest assortment of quality merchandise ever seen, the new Simmons Golden Jubilee line, typical items of which are displayed here. Visit a Simmons dealer without delay and inspect the full showing of these amazing values. You will realize how much Simmons has contributed to bedroom comfort and beauty.

$32.50

"Golden Jubilee" Matched Unit

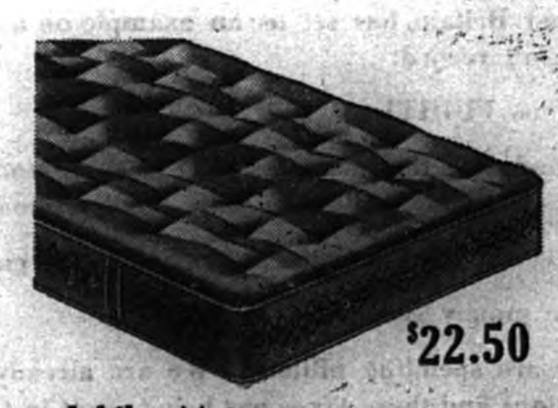

A great combination for sleep comfort, these two handsomely covered, beautifully finished units: the Golden Jubilee Mattress and the Golden Jubilee Box Spring designed as its companion piece. Come in and see them. Try them and know what bed luxury really means.

"Golden Jubilee" Bed

A smart, modern, new style bed, with full end panels, new tapered feet, and a lovely, enduring two-tone walnut finish. An anniversary design that truly represents the progress of bed manufacturing. Made in 4' 6", 4'0" and 3'3" widths. One of the greatest values in all the long history of Simmons.

$19.75

$22.50

Jubilee Mattress

Another triumph in the manufacture of spring-filled mattresses, this Golden Jubilee Anniversary Special contains the new 242 coil construction — a feature perfected by Simmons laboratories. It has a pre-built side wall that is attached to the top and bottom spring construction, ensuring a neat appearance on the edge of the mattress.

"Golden Jubilee" Pillow

$10.00 PR.

An outstanding development in pillow construction . . . a quilted taffeta covering with zipper opening at one end to enable the covering to be cleaned. Sterilized goose and chicken feather filling means maximum comfort and safeguards health. Size 21"x27". Available in azure, rose, ivory, water-lily or egg-shell colours.

$10.00

"Golden Jubilee" Spring

Another Jubilee creation designed for super-comfort, with two improved outer edge bands and three centre bands and a cable fabric construction, forming the platform top. The smooth tubular edge band prevents the tearing of bedding and adds strength to the outside edge. This spring provides an excellent foundation for a spring-filled mattress.

"Golden Jubilee" Miracle Daveno Suite

Planned especially for this 50th Anniversary this lovely 3-piece suite is one of the finest examples of dual-purpose furniture you have ever seen. The Daveno itself has all the newest Simmons improvements. Opens and closes with one easy motion. Large compartment for storing bedding. Supplied with matching spring-seat chairs in a wide choice of coverings including rust, brown, wine, green, blue.

A Frank Review of Canada's War Effort And Obligations

the democracies were decadent and dying — when all this had taken place, we saw the oldest of the democracies renew her youth and her strength and give to the world an example of courage and of devotion to a great cause, to which human history can afford no parallel.

We saw Britain, the people of Britain, all the people of Britain, rally to the challenge of the dictators. When one after the other of her allies had been overcome by force or by treachery or by a combination of both, we saw that ancient democracy stand alone against the barbarian aggressor, and win the admiration of the world by her gallantry and by her constancy. When these dictators say that democracy is decadent, we point to Britain and we say that it will never die so long as the memory of Britain's stand remains to thrill the heart and to stir the blood of free men and women in every corner of the globe.

I have spoken of certain attitudes of the past twenty years in order to bring into relief the difficulties that faced this country and Britain at the beginning of this war. We were unprepared for war. When it came we had to change from a peace to a war economy. We had to raise and train battalions of infantry, batteries of artillery, crews of airplanes, crews of ships. We had to get uniforms; we had to get guns; we had to get tanks; we had to get planes; we had to get vessels. We had to get the industrial plants of the country changed over from a peace to a war footing. All these things take time. Hitler had been preparing for war for seven years. We began to prepare for war when it was actually upon us. How have we gone forward?

Let me take, first, the Canadian Air Force, the youngest of our fighting services. At the beginning of the war the Canadian Air Force numbered some four thousand officers and men. Today its strength stands at more than fifty thousand, in which figure I do not include some eight thousand civilians performing clerical and other duties, which do not require enlistment in the Air Force in the full sense.

The Canadian Army, at the beginning of the war, had a strength of 4,500, all ranks, on active service. Today the number of men on active service is 185,000, nearly half of whom are overseas in one theatre of war or another. There are some 180,000 other men in our reserve army.

The Canadian Navy at the beginning of this war had a strength on active service of 1,774 officers and ratings. Today the strength of the Canadian Navy is approximately 18,000. We began the war with thirteen ships. Today we have two hundred and more are coming every day. There is not a sea of the world on which Canadian officers and Canadian ratings may not be found, either on our ships or on British ships. You will find them in the Mediterranean, in the waters of the Far East, on the Pacific and on the Atlantic Ocean. The task of the Navy is first to guard the shores of Canada against hostile attack; secondly, to co-operate with the Royal Navy in naval operations. This co-operation may take the form of engaging and disabling enemy vessels, or the protection of convoys proceeding to British ports. Already from this continent 4,500 ships have been convoyed, and some twenty-seven million tons of cargo have been carried in those ships.

This war differs from the last Great War in many respects. It has been referred to as a mechanized war, and it is. That means it is a more costly sort of war. The last Great War in which we were engaged for nearly four and a half years cost Canada slightly over $1,700,000,000. In this war, in 1941 - 42 alone, it will cost Canada, it is estimated, slightly under $1,500,000,000. In other words one year of this war is nearly as expensive as four and a half years of the last war.

In addition to finding that money we have got to find more. Great Britain cannot pay us in dollars for all the supplies that she needs from this country, the food, the guns, the munitions and everything else necessary for the prosecution of war. She must have these supplies, and so we in Canada must provide the money to pay our own factory workers, our munitions workers, our ship workers and our farmers for their agricultural products. An alternative would be to compel these people to work for nothing. We are not endeavouring to do that. We shall pay our farmers and our industrial workers out of our own funds for the things which they supply to Britain. The cost of these supplies furnished to Britain in this way will, it is estimated, be something like $1,150,000,000. Add that to the direct cost of the war, the cost of equipping and maintaining our air force, our army and our navy — add all these together and you have a total of approximately two and one half billions of dollars, or nearly one-half of the total national income in Canada.

These are the efforts that we have this far put forth in the prosecution of this war. They are significant. They are substantial. What is more, they will become greater and more effective with each day that goes by. The democracies may be slow at the beginning but they have within them deep wells of spiritual strength from which they can derive inexhaustible draughts of courage and endurance and sacrifice. It is these qualities that will count in the long run.

The struggle will probably be long, and it will certainly be bitter. We shall in all likelihood yet be tried by a test as searching as ever troubled the soul and the spirit of a nation. To many in this country the true magnitude of our task has not yet appeared. Our Canadian casualties have been relatively light — only some eight hundred of our enlisted men have died as a result of enemy action, as compared to some twenty thousand killed at a similar point of time in the last Great War. Our cities have not yet known the sound of an enemy bomb. Our harbours, our docks, our railway lines, our highways continue to be used in safety. Our citizens go to and from their homes and their places of business or recreation in freedom and security as they have always done.

Let us not be deluded by our own favoured condition into the belief that all is well with the world. Let us remember that we face tremendous odds. In the last war we had with us as allies at one time or another the United States, Russia, Japan, Italy, Portugal, a section of the Balkans, and we had for the whole duration of the war the precious, the priceless assistance of France. Against the might of these countries Germany and Austria stood alone. In this war none of our former allies are actually with us. Some of them indeed, are openly against us. Hitler has conquered one country after another, and the natural and industrial resources of these conquered lands — of Czechoslovakia, Poland, Holland, Denmark, Norway, a large part of France and all the Balkans — are his to command. In these circumstances can anyone doubt that the struggle is desperate.

Britain has no near neighbors on the continent of Europe to look to for supplies and assistance. She is compelled to cast her eyes over the great oceans to her dominions and to her distant friends — above all, to that great friend, the United States. Help can come to her only after much journeying and many perils of waters. We must have ships and more ships to carry that help to Britain and to hold off the invader from that Island. We must have planes and still more planes to meet the German threat to Britain from the air. These are the first need of the perilous times in which we live.

The issue of this struggle will depend on the number and quality of ships, planes, guns and tanks we can furnish, and the speed with which we can provide them. If all goes well in these matters we shall triumph decisively, for in human courage and in human skill, and in our sense of the righteousness of our cause, we are incomparably stronger than the enemy. What we need, in the words of the Prime Minister of England, are "the tools of war". Given these, we shall finish the job.

"No; Vera was the tried-to-be!"

"BLOOD...TOIL...TEARS and SWEAT"

This is a war for existence. It is war to the death. It is a war to win or to lose.

There can be no half way—no compromise. It is a war to WIN.

Money is the fourth arm of the service.

Whatever you are called on to pay or to lend, it is little compared to the lives that our sons offer.

There have been many and heavy calls upon Canada already.

There will be more.

Let us face the truth and the truth will make us free.

It is freedom we are fighting for, British freedom, the freedom of body and spirit that makes life worth living.

If we fail, we fall.

Be prepared for sacrifice.

Great Britain has set us an example on a scale of heroic magnificence history doesn't record.

Let us FIGHT!

Canada has the resources. Let us spare nothing. When our soldiers offer their lives, let us be willing to share our livelihood.

Presently the Government of Canada will call for money.

The money is here.

We are spending billions. We are already heavily taxed. But most of these billions and those taxes are being spent in Canada. That money comes back to you. Keep it rolling. Keep putting it back into the war effort, so that it may be spent again and again and again until Right prevails and the world is free.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

ST. ANDREWS PRESBYTERIAN W.M.S. MEETING

St. Andrews East — The W.M.S. of the Presbyterian Church met in the Sunday School hall on Wednesday afternoon, May 14th. The Mission Band, conducted by Miss Tena Walsh, led the meeting in Bible reading, singing and prayer, 17 children taking part, with Lorraine McOuat as president.

Owing to illness of the Rev. Dr. Ballantyne, also of the Rev. Dr. MacMillan, there was no address, and regrets on their absence were expressed by everyone present.

Satisfactory reports were given by the secretaries, the roll-call being responded to by the word "Youth."

Afternoon tea was served by four hostesses.

ANNIVERSARY DAY AT ST. ANDREWS UNITED

Burning of Note to Signify Church Free of Debt

St. Andrews E. — Next Sunday, May 25th, will be Anniversary Day at the United Church. It has been arranged that the Rev. Andrew Mowatt, of Hudson, son of the pastor, will be the preacher. On Monday a supper will be shared by the congregation, followed by a short program and the burning of the debt note, as the church property has been freed of debt.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

"Soul and Body" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday May 25th.

The Golden Text is from I Thessalonians 5: 23. "I pray God your whole spirit and soul and body be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens." (II Corinthians 5: 1).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "If Life or Soul and its representative, man, unite for a period and then are separated as by a law of divorce to be brought together again at some uncertain future time and in a manner unknown, and this is the general religious opinion of mankind, we are left without a rational proof of immortality. But man cannot be separated for an instant from God, if man reflects God. Thus Science proves man's existence to be intact." (Page 306).

UNITED C.G.I.T. GROUPS STAGE SPITFIRE CONCERT

A benefit concert in aid of the Argenteuil Spitfire Fund was sponsored by the Junior and Intermediate C.G.I.T. groups of Lachute United Church on Wednesday evening. A varied program consisted of plays, dialogues, singing, etc. The proceeds of the evening amounted to $51.35.

PRESBYTERIAN Y.P.S.

The Young People's Society of the Margaret Rodger Presbyterian Church was held on Wednesday night in the church hall. The business of the meeting was very short and the guest speaker of the evening, the Rev. W. B. Rosborough, was called upon. Mr. Rosborough gave an interesting address on "Happiness" and the ways of attaining it.

The meeting next week will be the final one of this season, and a good attendance is anticipated.

Talk on Astronomy Holds Revelations for "Fireside" Audience

Brownsburg, May 20 —

The earth is only the third smallest planet in our solar system and there are six other larger planets. All of these planets together are less than one-tenth the size of the sun. Dean H. Hall of Sir George Williams College gave us these facts on May 11 at another successful Sunday evening hour.

Dr. Hall with the assistance of slides decreased our idea of the importance of the earth but greatly enlarged our conception of the universe with its other planets and satellites. Each of the nine planets in our system has its own moon, and other planets, such as Venus, have more than one. Our own moon has no water on it. Astronomers are able to estimate the temperature on the various planets, and Mars is in an ice age. While life as we know it could not exist on Mars, it is possible that there is some form of life similar to human.

Light travels at the rate of 186,000 miles per second and it takes eight minutes for light to travel from the sun to the earth. The closest star is much farther away than that, because it takes four years for the light of this star to reach us.

As if this were not enough, Dr. Hall closed his talk by showing a slide which depicted other galactic systems. That is, there are other groups of planets in the universe, each with their own sun, which may be larger than our own.

Ottawa School-Boys For Farm Work

Ottawa — The four secondary schools of Ottawa have now supplied more than 100 boys for farm work in the district. From Lisgar Collegiate 24 boys have gone on farms, Glebe has provided 39, Technical High School 30, and Commerce, eight. Most of these boys had sufficiently high standing in their studies to date that they will be given recommendations for passing, without being required to actually complete their school year. They will work on farms eight weeks and will have to provide certificates to that effect when they return.

Historical Society Meeting, Museum Opening, Saturday

The Historical Society of Argenteuil will open the Carillon Museum on Saturday, May 24th, for the summer months. The opening will include a memorial observance in honor of the late Dr. Maud Abbott, who labored so arduously for the founding of the Museum. The event will be an open meeting, to which all will be made welcome. Tea will be served at a moderate charge.

A "Torch Day" Program Prepared in Connection With Victory Loan

Practically every municipality in Canada will have an opportunity to associate itself with the symbolic Torch which is being flown to Winston Churchill in the latter part of June.

In sympathy with the inscription on the Torch, "Part of the Tools — Canada's Victory Loan 1941", there will be an artistic scroll which is to be circulated to a large number of cities and towns in the itinerary of the Torch on its way from Victoria, B. C., to Halifax and thence to London. Signatures of Mayors and Reeves will be affixed to this scroll as expression of the determination of Canadian citizens to "help finish the job".

The Victory Loan Organization anticipates that many thousands of citizens from points not included in the itinerary will travel to those places where the "Torch Day" program will be held, there to join in the pledge of allegiance which will be part of the ceremonial.

Following is a resume of a typical Torch Day program:

Citizens will assemble with a proper local Guard of Honor for the Torch, and band. Adjacent to the band will be a singing group, provided from the choirs of churches in the locality. There will be a song program for a period of thirty minutes during which the crowd will sing, "O Canada", "The Maple Leaf Forever", "There'll Always Be An England", and religious hymns proper to the dedication ceremonies. There will be Bidding Prayer, to be followed by the singing of "Onward Christian Soldiers", and a prayer for Victory for His Majesty's Forces.

Next comes "The Torch Day" address by a selected speaker.

Following this there will be a short, simple parade of the Torch during which a religious or civic dignitary will ask all assembled to place their right hands on their hearts and repeat with him the following pledge:

"I hereby declare my belief in Almighty God, and reaffirm my loyalty and allegiance to His Majesty, the King, and further declare my support for British Institutions.

"I pledge myself and my all to hold the Torch on high, and to march shoulder to shoulder with the Motherland and the Empire in our righteous cause through victory and enduring peace."

At the conclusion of the pledge, the national anthem will be sung, followed by the "Torch Day" parade.

Ste. Agathe to Vote On $20,000 Loan

Ste. Agathe — A reference seeking permission to borrow $20,000 for repairs to the Mount St. Cathrine power dam and to the local Town Hall will be submitted to property owners here on June 13th.

Approximately $16,000 of the total sought is already earmarked for dam repairs. As these repairs, which will get under way in July, are expected to take five or six weeks, arrangements are being made with the Gatineau Power Company to supply the district with electricity during the period.

Building Materials Tax Adds Little to Outlay

Thirty Eight Cents a Month Covers New Levy on A $2,500 Home

Application of federal sales tax to building materials will have little effect on new construction or home modernization, according to figures released following close study of material prices announced by manufacturers after the federal budget. The figures correct any mistaken impression that application of the eight per cent sales levy would automatically increase the cost of a new home or of home renovations by eight per cent.

Actually the sales tax is applied only to the manufacturers' price on building materials; labor costs are unaffected. In the case of a $2,500 home, built under the National Housing Act, for instance, pre-tax cost of materials and labor would be approximately $2,250. At least half this amount would be labor, leaving material costs at $1,125, on which the eight per cent tax would be approximately $90. With payments spread over 20 years, under the Housing Act, this would mean annual payment increased by $4.50, or 38 cents a month. Repayment of principal, interest and taxes on a $2,500 house work out at about $16.50 a month, which means that with the new tax the home builder would now be paying $16.88 a month. The extra 38 cents is not likely to discourage new construction.

In the case of modernization of existing properties the new tax burden is equally low. With the large country-wide demand for new housing and modernization of existing dwellings, application of the sales tax to building materials is a very small item in construction costs and the rush of private building under the Housing Act and through independent financing is expected to continue unchanged.

Entertainment by Schoolchildren

The teachers and scholars of the Protestant Consolidated School are to be congratulated upon their co-operation in a fine patriotic endeavor. This resulted in a program of good entertainment last Friday evening in the town hall. The choruses were sung with precision and good enunciation as well as enthusiasm. "Good-night, Little Soldier", as harmonized by the trio Geraldine, Isabelle and Kenny Morrison, received vigorous applause. A humorous skit, by the older boys, showed careful rehearsal, and the acting in a second playlet showed good dramatic ability by some of the older girls.

Miss Doris Leroy was accompanist. The senior girls sold home-made candy during a short intermission. The proceeds and door receipts amounted to about $35.

CARILLON

Mrs. Rudolf Martin, of Westmount, visited with her parents, at the Museum residence for a few days.

The many friends of Miss Lefebvre welcome her back to Carillon from her stay in Montreal for the winter.

Miss Ruth Bradley spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Bradley.

Mr. Howe, of Montreal, is occupying his summer home; his many friends here tender him a welcome.

Wedding bells rang out Saturday morning for Miss Rita Lapierre, third daughter of Carillon's mayor, to Mr. J. Monpetit. After a reception, held at the home of the bride's parents, they left by auto for Ottawa.

"You know all about farm work, you say. Do you know how long cows should be milked?"

"Same as short ones, I suppose."

ARE WE HONEST CITIZENS ?

Evidently numerous persons are continually losing sums of money, and doubtless most of it is found by somebody, yet very few people are apparently honest enough to make an effort to locate the losers of the money, but simply "hang on" to what they have found, keeping in mind the old saying, "finders, keepers." We venture to say that the persons finding money would get very angry if called a "thief" — yet what else is he or she? —Kemptville Advance, Ont.

THE WOMAN'S PAGE

By JESSIE ALLEN BROWN

Specially written for Readers of The Watchman

THE MEANEST WOMAN

What do you do when someone asks you for a recipe? I know what I do. I give it to them with as full directions as possible and tell them about any queer quirks I have found which may improve it. Perhaps that is the result of training under Miss Watson at Macdonald Institute, as she inculcated us with the feeling we must give anything we knew. Perhaps it is because I am flattered that someone finds the recipe good enough to want to have it. It is easy to understand a woman not wanting to give recipe, especially if she lives in a small place where they go to the same homes and more or less eat the same food at each place. If you do not want to give a recipe, say so. Most women can stand the truth. Tell them pleasantly you would rather not give the recipe just now as it is the only thing you make that is different, but that a little later you will be glad to give it. The meanest woman in the world is the one who gives a recipe and gives it incorrectly, leaving out an ingredient, giving the wrong proportion, or not giving proper directions. Ususally it is pleasant to share recipes and for the good one you give you may get some which will be prime favorites. I have friends who know my need for good recipes who send me something they find good, and is it ever appreciated.

KEEP FRUIT JUICE COVERED

Canned tomato juice or any canned fruit juice loses its Vitamin C if left exposed to the air. They should be kept covered in the refrigerator and not too large a can used. I punch a hole in two sides of the can and leave the unused juice in the can. I try to use it in twenty-four hours as after that the loss of Vitamin C is considerable. There is no danger in keeping the fruit juice in the can as modern cans are properly lined.

MUSHROOMS

When mushrooms were a dollar a pound they were a luxury beyond the reach of most of us, but for some time their price has ranged between twenty-nine and thirty-five cents, and actually mushrooms are cheaper than some of the foods we have always considered inexpensive. There are some lucky few who are able to go to the fields and gather them for themselves, but they need to know their mushrooms. The cultivated mushrooms do not need to be peeled and there is no waste. Creamed mushrooms go farther and the milk adds to the food value. Cut the mushrooms in pieces, and in cultivated mushrooms the stems are tender enough to use, and brown in butter or bacon fat in the frying pan. When they are browned push them to one side of the pan, add a little butter and stir in flour using two tablespoons to a pound of mushrooms. Add milk slowly, stirring smooth, and cook until thickened. Add salt and pepper and cook slowly until the flavor is well-blended, a couple of minutes is enough. Serve on toast. Mushrooms are good mixers. Bacon is tops but sausage or in fact any kind of meat is good with mushrooms. A few mushrooms added to creamed lobster, tuna, shrimps, crab, or salmon is an improvement. I like to brown them before adding to any mixture as it brings out the flavor. Maybe you are short in lobster but long in eggs. Try creaming hard-cooked eggs and mushrooms with a dash of onion for good measure. Bacon, sausage, and the browned caps of the mushrooms, make a combination that is hard to beat.

FOOD VALUE

Mushrooms are often used as a meat substitute and they contain about 3.5% of good quality protein. They are high in minerals, especially iron, but they contain copper, calcium, and phosphorous. They are a good source of Vitamin B and have considerable Vitamin C. In a diet book got out by a famous Health Sanitarium, they say mushrooms have no food value. When any writer has something to sell, whether it be a food product or a Sanitarium, I look on their statements with suspicion, because to put it mildly, they are at least prejudiced. I would much sooner trust the statements of Professors, Doctors, and research men generally, as they have no axe to grind. The average person has no way of testing food products and we can best accept the findings of independent investigators.

SPONGE CAKE

3 Egg yolks, 1¼ cups sugar, teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar, 2/3 cup warm water, 3 egg whites.

Beat the egg yolks until thick and lemon colored, then add the sugar gradually beating between each addition. Measure the flour after sifting. Add the sifted dry ingredients and the water alternately. Fold in the beaten egg whites. Pour into buttered pan and bake 50 minutes at 300 degrees. This makes a nice light cake to ice and fills a 10" by 12" pan.

ORANGE ICING

Grate a half orange lightly, being careful not to grate any of the white as it is bitter. Squeeze a small orange and add icing sugar until the mixture is thick enough to spread.

It is not the moths, but the maggots from their eggs which destroy clothes and other articles.

Ford's Fiancee

Here is a new picture of Edith McNaughton, fiancee of Benson Ford, 21, son of Edsel Ford and grandson of Henry Ford. She is pictured as she acted as bridesmaid at the wedding of a friend. Both she and Ford live in Grosse Pointe, Mich. He has been examined by the draft board but not yet classified.

Serve Surprise Cake For Dessert

By Betty Barclay

Serve a surprise cake for dessert and give distinction to the home dinner or a party feast. Any kind of cake will do — a big one or individual cup cakes. Cut off the top, scoop out a cavity, and fill with the "surprise". Replace the top and cover with a luscious sweetened condensed milk frosting. These frostings are quick and easy to make, but they are as smooth and creamy as the most temperamental kind that take four or five times as long.

Here are suggestions for the surprise fillings: Cut the tops off big cup cakes, fill the cavities with whipped cream or custard, replace tops and cover with Magic Chocolate Frosting. Hollow out a loaf cake — after the top has been cut off — and fill with ice cream. Replace top and cover with the chocolate frosting. Or fill with sliced bananas or other fruit, replace top, and cover with Surprise Rainbow Frosting.

Surprise Rainbow Frosting

2/3 cup sweetened condensed milk, 4 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 3¼ cups sifted confectioners' (4x) sugar (about).

Cream sweetened condensed milk and butter together. Add vanilla, blending well. (Other flavoring may be used.) Add sifted confectioners' sugar gradually, beating until smooth and light in color. This frosting may be tinted any color by addition of a speck of food coloring. Pale tints are most attractive. Spread on cold cake. Makes enough frosting to cover tops of 2 (9-inch.) layers or top and sides of loaf cake or about 24 cup cakes.

Magic Chocolate Frosting

2 squares unsweetened chocolate, 1-1/3 cup (15 oz. can) sweetened condensed milk, 1 tablespoon water.

Melt chocolate in top of double boiler. Add sweetened condensed milk and stir over rapidly boiling water 5 minutes until thick. Remove from heat. Add water. Cool. Spread on cold cake. Covers tops of two 9-inch. layers or top and sides of loaf cake or about 24 cup cakes. (To cover tops and sides of two 9-inch layers double recipe).

THE BUDGETEER

By Lois Moore

Have you ever stood and looked at your bedroom, trying to see it as a stranger, coming into your home for the first time, would see it? Have you ever noticed the way the wall-paper is peeling in that one corner, and the dirty marks on the ceiling over the radiator or the hot air vent, Have you studied with a critical eye the curtains and the drapes or the blinds, and wished to goodness you could have new ones? Have you thought, now that the Spring is here, that you would give anything to do the whole room over, and yet realized that you couldn't possibly afford to? Well, what can we do about it, Lady in Distress? Let's see.

First, the walls and ceiling. If you are really ambitious, you can remove the paper by brushing it with a soft wide brush soaked in warm water. Size the plaster underneath, or just scrub it, and then, with a strong arm, and a lot of patience, paint it with one of the new water paints which won't rub off. One of the men in your family can do the ceiling. If you choose a nice light blue, have the ceiling done in a darker tone, and don't bother with a border. However, if there is an ugly line, choose a gay shelf edging, and paste it around the top of the walls with water and flour paste. Now for the drapes. If you are a good hand with the dye pot, you can dye factory cotton a deep rich blue, and hang it from the ceiling to the floor. Yellow would be pretty too, especially if you have a north room. If the dying stumps you, get blue and white striped mattress ticking, and use it the same way, making stripes across the bottom in bright yellow bias binding. About eight stripes are very effective. The glass curtains can be yellow dyed cheese cloth, which can be stiffened with a little starch.

If your bed has an ugly iron top and bottom, make a cover for both, of ticking. A newspaper pattern pinned and fitted over the iron part, will help you to cut out these "slip-covers." Right at the ceiling, over each corner of the head of the bed, place two large brass curtain rings, which you hang on the wall with screw hooks. Run some of the yellow cheese cloth through the rings, letting it fall in a soft scallop over the bed, and let the two ends reach the floor. This should be about a yard wide, and will give the effect of a canopy. You can drape it back if you like, half way down, to heighten the effect, and can use clips of artificial flowers to hold the drape in place.

Have you always wanted a dressing table, too? Make yourself one out of two orange crates. Place the crates about two feet apart, and hammer a couple of boards across the top, which you will enamel yellow. Blue-dyed cheese cloth will make a very full skirt, and you can take a bouquet of artificial flowers like the ones you use for the "canopy", separate them, and strew the flowers over the skirt. The cheese cloth for the dressing table should be stiffly starched. If you have a round mirror (or any shape, for that matter) enamel the frame and hang it over the dresser. Then hang three of the large curtain rings by screw hooks in a triangle around it, with the peak at the top. Through these drape the blue cheese cloth, unstarched this time, to form a miniature canopy. Your room can be very lovely, and the cost is amazingly small.

BEAUTY

Helen Jameson (Mme. Qui Vive)

PULCHRITUDE PROBLEMS OF MIDDLE AGE

Autumn comes to every woman in course of time. No smarty has yet been able to set back the beauty clock. But she need not reveal how many birthday cakes have been set before her. It's nobody's business but her own. Let 'em guess, and keep 'em guessing.

Beauty buds and blooms and then its petals fall. We're referring to external loveliness. Changes take place; the hair goes gray, facial tissues soften, the step may not be quite so alert. But all this time spiritual loveliness should be increasing. By the time a woman is fifty she should have learned a great deal about the art of living, getting along happily with her fellow creatures. And there comes a restful calmness of soul, if the world isn't kicking her around too much.

In her younger days she paid no heed to the laws of health. Probably burned the candle at both ends, tearing around to late parties. Now she is interested in physical well being. If she is wise she sticks to good eating habits, gets sufficient sleep, plans for herself such outdoor exercise as may interest her. Life's pace slows up, but there are compensations.

For the problem of graying hair there are two solutions: she can accept it, make the most of it — and gray hair can be a beauty asset — or she can place herself in the hands of a specialist who will know how to counterfeit the shade. Home dyeing is not likely to be successful, though there are women who manage to touch up a few gray hairs and get away with it.

Before middle age approaches a woman should have conditioned her skin to be able to combat the wear and tear of time. That is done by keeping it well lubricated, applying a heavy cream every night with brisk tapping and slapping movements to keep tissues firm and to help the circulatory streams to carry on. Makeup, cleverly applied, imparts radiance to the face. Without it, she is dated.

The big job is keeping the figure young, fighting against overweight, maintaining erect posture. As soon as the shoulders drop forward, the tummy bulges and the back bends, it is no good thinking that one is still fooling the world about birthdays. Good posture is possible to every healthy woman Poor posture is often the penalty one pays for having lazy muscles. No sense letting the body's elastic fibers play out and lose resiliency.

The hands must have attention so that they will not look old. Lotions keep the surface smooth; oils are necessary to keep hands young.

From a woman who has been successfully operated on by a Russian surgeon, the following objects were recovered: Nails from one to three inches long, embroidery needles, broken razor blades, twenty-four steel pins, twenty pieces of twisted wire, ten sewing needles and safety pins. The total weight of the articles she had swallowed was more than 1 lb.

Fashion Frocks Buy 22 Bomber Planes

One Man Creates Reserve of 2,000,000 Dollars a Year.

(By Mail)

London — Twenty-two bombers costing two million dollars can be built for Britain every year by the United States as a result of the decision of Captain Edward Molyneux, famous throughout the world as an arbiter of women's fashions.

When the Nazis swooped across France, Captain Molyneux left his Paris salons, which supplied the leading fashion houses in New York, Chicago and Hollywood — not to mention Canada. He decided to carry on from Mayfair, and soon his 200 workgirls were overwhelmed by the requests received by cable for morning and afternoon frocks, "tailor mades", and evening gowns. The buyers didn't bother about prices from one of his repute.

Today there are about twenty American fashion houses, each ordering 45 models a year, and a minimum number of repeats is 25 for each model. Therefore each order represents £20,000 worth of business. A Canadian house takes 60 models annually. Payments are made by these houses in dollars, so creating a handsome dollar reserve with which Britain can purchase war material.

Inter-department League Opens Softball Schedule

Brownsburg, May 20 —

Softball is drawing major interest in Brownsburg. The past two weeks have seen the league commence, with some rousing ball games.

Office Humbles Metallic "Flashes", 15-3

Showing a terrific outburst of batting power, the Office humbled the Metallic "Flashes" by the score of 15-3, in one of the last exhibition games before the schedule commenced.

The "Flashes" were taken completely by surprise by the onslaught of the Pen-pushers, with Walter Morley and Ken Simpson showing the way. Len Winchester pitched his usual strong game, holding the "Flashes" to three runs.

For the Shop, Bill Hewitt pitched a hard game but lacked support in the field. Jimmy Murdock also turned in a nice game behind the plate.

Metallic "Flashes" Down Technicians, 5-0

With Mr. Petersen tossing in the first ball, the Metallic "Flashes" officially opened the Brownsburg Softball League last week, defeating the Technicians by the score of 5-0. It was a closely fought game right up to the sixth inning, with Winston Smillie holding the "Flashes" to only one run. However, Winston began to tire in this frame and was relieved by Frank McCaffrey, who allowed two more runs before retiring the side.

Bill Hewitt and Merril Smith hurled shutout ball for the "Flashes", seldom having much trouble.

In one of the opening innings Alex Holden made a spectacular diving catch, pulling his team out of a hole.

"Quiz Night" Is Weekly Feature of Entertainment

Brownsburg, May 20 —

On Thursday, May 8th, "Quiz Night" was initiated here at the Recreational Hall. Two teams, picked at random from the assembled throng, pitted male against female.

On our right we had the ladies—Marion Neil, Penelope Cox, Meta Gill and Norma Cameron. On our left we had the gentlemen — Stu Martin, George Potvin, Gerry Chase and Eric Freeman. Looking quite austere, perched on the arm of a chesterfield, score-card in hand, squatted our honorable judge, Hank Dumouchel.

The "Quiz" began ! At the end of round one, the score was tied. At the end of round two, the score was tied. At the end of round three, the score was tied. The suspense was — well, it was !!! And then, by a very close margin, masculinity "rode the rods" and won by a "roundhouse". It was rather unfortunate that the girls' team picked, during the final rounds, the questions: "What is a roundhouse?" and "What does 'riding the rods' mean?" However, it was all in fun, and the members of both teams are to be congratulated for their sporting attitude. Win or lose, they kept on smiling, to the enjoyment of all assembled.

Throughout the coming season, every Thursday night at the Recreation Hall will be "Quiz Night".

Montgomery and Stars In "Rage in Heaven"

The story tells of this young man with a twisted mind which drives him and everyone around him nuts. Married to Ingrid Bergman, he is constantly jealous and attaches his demoniac designs mostly on George Sanders, although professing to be his friend and admirer. It all winds up in tragedy.

Besides Montgomery, who is good despite being "typed", the cast is in the extra special class. Miss Bergman adds another piquant portrayal to her collection and moves a step closer to recognition as being really important. Sanders is cast against type; that is to say, he is a nice guy for once. It's smart casting, and he comes through with flying colors. Oscar Homolka turns in his best American performance to date as a cranky doctor.

$600,000,000 VICTORY LOAN CAMPAIGN STARTS ON MONDAY

By Allan McGee

Voluntary Lending to Govt. Is Mark of Democratic Privilege — A Contrast to Compulsion in Dictator Countries

Specially Written for Readers of The Watchman

Next week will be a big week for the Dominion Government.

Starting on Monday, they will launch a campaign for $600,000,000 to be used for the prosecution of the war. The radio, newspapers and all types of special advertising will be used in an endeavor to have this war loan go over the top in a big way.

More than one million special booklets will be mailed out, to every home in the country. These booklets will tell the story of a modern war, and they will show just how your money is spent and why so much of it is needed.

To wage a successful war it is vital that enough money should be available to purchase every necessity without having to worry about the payment. Munitions are not sold in the "5 and 10", as everyone in this district knows. They are costly articles to purchase, and even before you can get munitions from any factory it is necessary to buy the machinery to turn out the goods.

Then you need money to train the Army, Navy and Air Force. Their salary is not the main problem. The biggest trouble lies in the buildings, the equipment, the transportation, the feeding, the clothing and the hundreds of little things that you never even think of until you see an army at work.

Every little article, no matter how small, must be available when needed. The bookeeping system of the war departments is terrific. They must account for every penny, and they must see that graft and mismanagement are eliminated as much as possible. Every precaution is taken to see that the money you give for the war effort is spent on the war effort, and does not find its way into the pockets of any currupt officials.

It is not every day that a government is required to ask for this amount, but don't you think it is better that they ASK you for it?

In some countries (not mentioning names) they take your money from you whether you like it or not. They tell you that guns are better than butter. They tell you that the state is all-supreme. They tell you that it is glorious to GIVE your money to the nation.

We are asked to contribute as much as possible to the war effort. To give as much as we can in order that we can continue the fight against those European nations who are trying to ruin us. We are told that we can have both bread and butter and guns. We are told that our money which we LEND to the Government will be spent immediately in building up a greater war machine. That our money will be spent, as much as possible, right here in Canada. We have been told all our lives that democratic government is the best way of ruling. That we control the government has never been disputed. The aggressor nations must give their money for war, while we lend ours in this time of need.

Next Monday will see the start of the greatest war loan effort that we have ever experienced in this country. I sincerely hope that next Wednesday will see the successful completion of the effort.

If ever we were faced with a great problem, it is right now. Look over your little bank book tonight and see if you cannot afford to give more than you were planning. Every dollar loaned in this time of emergency will be flung straight into the face of Adolph Hitler, in the form of guns, and bullets, and tanks, and planes, and men, and equipment. What more can you ask for your money?

ENTERTAINMENT FOR TROOPS

Last Thursday night, as I sat in a crowded hall, I suddenly realized how much the soldiers appreciate certain things.

We were watching a show which was being presented by a group of amateur entertainers as part of their war effort.

By day, these actors and actresses were employed in the city's offices and factories, and yet they found time after hours to get together this show for the soldiers. They were only one of a large number of groups that have undertaken to amuse the Canadian forces in various ways.

Around me in the hall that night were gathered all types of men. They had finished a hard day's drill, and they were tired. Some of them were lonely, too. They were far from home and in a strange town. They had no friends outside of their soldier pals, and some of them were feeling sort of blue.

There were old veterans of the last war, and youngsters fresh from high school, in our hall that night. They had given up their civil life, with all its pleasures, for their chance to fight against Hitler.

They liked that show. They liked the comedy and the laughter

Hoist Your Flags For Victory Loan!

GIVE PATRIOTIC SEND-OFF TO 1941 VICTORY LOAN DRIVE IN COUNTY

On Monday next all citizens of the county are urged to fly their flags and decorate their homes with streamers, to lend patriotic color to the Victory Loan campaign. The drive will be in accordance with the national plan, and canvassers will call on the local citizenry to take up these bonds offered by the Government.

This country is facing its greatest crisis as a free nation. Many of our sons are offering their lives in the battle for freedom, and now WE are asked to lend our money to back them up. — Shall we fail them? No !

BURY LAST VICTIM OF GATINEAU MILLS DROWNING TRAGEDY

ONE OF FIVE YOUNGSTERS WHO PERISHED MARCH 5 IN OTTAWA RIVER

Many friends joined with relatives last week in extending sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Perley Smith, of Gatineau Mills, at the funeral of their five-year-old son, Gordon Edward Smith, held from a private funeral chapel in Ottawa.

The little boy was one of five small boys of Gatineau Mills drowned in the Ottawa River when they plunged through thin ice on March 5. The bodies of the others were recovered shortly afterwards, but Gordon's was not found until just recently.

Lachute Fire Department Answers Six Calls Within Current Week

All Minor Outbreaks

More Extensive Damage Averted by Quick Action

Automobile Ablaze

The continuous blowing of an auto horn, due to short circuit of the wiring, drew attention of the neighborhood to a blaze in a car parked on Main Street, early last Friday morning.

The owner, I. W. Jamison, had left the car outside his residence in the McFaul Block, and returning to the machine two hours later, found it full of smoke. When he opened the door the whole interior burst into flame.

Lachute fire brigade was summoned and the flames were extinguished, but not before they had consumed the upholstery and all the interior of the car.

It is learned that the owner had fire insurance on his automobile, which was a new 1941 model. Cause of the outbreak was not ascertained.

Chimney Fire Lachute Mills

No damage resulted in a chimney fire to which the firefighters were summoned later Friday morning, at the home of Adrien Robert, Princess Street, near the Ayers properties.

Children Ignite Rubbish

Fire set in a rubbish pile behind a vacant house off Bedard Boulevard West on Sunday evening damaged the rear wall of a vacant dwelling. The property is owned by Mrs. Daniel Dion. Firemen quickly extinguished the blaze . . . At 3 o'clock the following afternoon, however, a call was issued from the same place where, to all appearances, children had again been responsible for setting fire to the rubbish.

Chimney Fire on Grace Street

A second chimney fire occurred at 6.15 o'clock Monday evening at the residence on Grace Street owned by J. Rinfret, Staynerville station agent. Mr. Rinfret's son had just moved in to occupy the property. It is believed the chimney was blocked. Smoke damage resulted to the interior and furnishings of the house.

Private Garage Burns

Prompt action of the fire brigade prevented the spread of a fire early Tuesday afternoon, in a private garage at the rear of R. Clarence Rogers' home on Main Street East. Mr. Rogers had left in his car after the noon hour. Some time later smoke and flames were seen issuing from the garage, which adjoined the back kitchen and was also used for household storage. The loss, estimated to about $500, was covered by insurance; the blaze was checked before it spread to the house itself. The cause of this fire was not discovered.

Four sets of triplets — in 1930, 1933, 1936 and 1938 — have been born to a Nicaraguan woman. They are all alive and well.

Burial in the middle of a street was once regarded as an honor to be paid to celebrated men.

GRADUATING CLASS FETED AT BANQUET

Chairman of School Board Outlines Plans for School Gymnasium

The annual banquet given by Grades IX and X to members of the graduating class, took place last Friday in Lachute High School. The tables were prettily decorated with flowers donated by Mr. Albert Giles of Montreal, while the decorations of bunting and patriotic flags gave a very festive touch to the occasion.

After the supper Principal C. L. Hall, as chairman, rose to propose the toast to "Our King", which was responded to by the singing of "God Save the King". The toast to the graduating class was given by Miss Beryl Underhill and responded to by Miss Catherine Cooke. "The Guests" were given a warm welcome by Granger Tillotson. Principal Hall gave a brief, intimate talk to the pupils, with much good and sound advice, then introducing Mr. Geo. Y. Deacon, chairman of the School Board, who spoke at length on the gymnasium which it is hoped will be built during the coming year. Mr. Geo. Heon also spoke, stressing the

'Pep Talk' to Victory Loan Campaigners

The unusual stir around the Rex Theatre yesterday afternoon was only gathering of Women's Institute ladies, Red Cross workers, members of service clubs and other friends, who had been invited by the Victory Loan organization for a "pep talk."

The purpose of the meeting was to enthuse the committee workers as they go out next week, in their drive to provide the money with which to beat down the Nazi hordes now seeking world domination. Mr. C. Tremblay, as joint-chairman of the local campaign, gave an outline of the 1914-18 loan and the splendid result attained, and other speakers were Jas. McGibbon, M.P., the Rev. W. B. Rosborough, and Georges H. Héon.

A telegram was read from Hon. Georges E. Dansereau, M.P.P., regretting his inability to be present through pressure of parliamentary duties. Owing to previous engagement the Rev. H. D. J. Brosseau of Grenville was also unable to be present, but both were in hearty accord and hoped for a successful issue to the Loan. Mr. L. L. Legault, K.C., was present among the local supporters.

Pictures were exhibited on the screen giving a graphic description of the activities of our fighting forces on land, sea, and in the air.

We Canadians not in uniform must support our fighting youth with equipment even better than the enemy. — That is why YOU are asked to buy Victory Bonds.

The town of East St. Louis, Illinois, was overrun by dogs, so they employed a man to catch stray dogs and impound them. He was to receive $1 for each dog he caught. After 29 days, the town decided it couldn't afford to keep a dog-catcher any longer. He had brought in 1,500 dogs in the 29 days !

On seeing its reflection in a bedroom mirror, a snake from Umvuma, Rhodesia, broke glassware in the room in a fight with its own image. Mrs. Wheeleg, owner of the house, returned to find everything swept off her dressing table and mantelpiece, and the floor littered with broken glass. The snake was shot.

Drawing for Plymouth Auto to Hasten County Spitfire Drive

By Collaboration of Lachute Dealer

Promise of $1,500 Gives A Timely Lift

The Argenteuil Spitfire Fund, now well advanced toward its objective, received a potential boost this week in the offer of MacRae Motor Sales to furnish a Plymouth car at cost — valued at $1,325 — to be the object of a county-wide drawing. Supplementing this generosity, Mr. Don MacRae further agreed to organize the drawing and push the sale of tickets through the personal efforts of his firm — a gesture which, in these busy times, is warmly appreciated. The tickets, selling at $1. a piece, should net a considerable return toward the county fund.

The Watchman was further encouraged this week by a promise of $1,500 from Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Duncan, of Montreal — who specified their gift should go strictly to the local Spitfire effort, in view of their foremost personal interest in this county.

It had been hoped to attain the total of $24,000 this month, and to cable the sum to the British Government immediately, but this is impossible since certain sections of the county have not yet been completely covered in the canvass. It is earnestly trusted the collection will now be speeded to completion.

This is an appeal to YOUR patriotism, to give voluntarily to a local war effort; if you have been missed, you should not wait to be approached by canvassers. The need is urgent. Churchill's undying plea, "Give us the tools", rings still in our ears, and every conscientious citizen of this county, if he has not already responded, will send his contribution NOW.

ABBOTT MEMORIAL MEETING, CARILLON MUSEUM OPENING

WREATH LAID AT MONUMENT IN CARILLON

MEMORIAL TO HEROIC "SUICIDE SQUAD" WHO BATTLED IROQUOIS

Brig.-Gen. E. de B. Panet, C.M.G., D.S.O., District Officer Commanding M.D. 4, laid a wreath on Saturday at the Dollard des Ormeaux memorial at Carillon, where Dollard and his 16 companions fought to the death against the Iroquois in 1660.

"We will remain a free people just as long as we are ready to make the necessary sacrifices," was the declaration of Maj. Gen. T. L. Tremblay, C.M.G., D.S.O., Inspector-General, C.A., at the ceremonies, when he also laid a wreath on the monument. Several regiments of the district sent detachments to the ceremony and a low mass was sung in the parish church. Following the ceremony the military representatives returned to Montreal for the Dollard celebrations there.

Coincide With Day of Dollard des Ormeaux Historic Celebration

Village on Ottawa River Has Influx of Visitors

In spite of unfavorable weather, the village of Carillon was "en fete" last Saturday, when hosts of visitors gathered to take part in the ceremonies at the shrine of Dollard des Ormeaux — who with his intrepid companions in 1660 left their native city of Montreal to fight the advancing Iroquois tribesmen . . . Today our young men are going farther afield in their battle against the aggressors, but the challenge is the same as in those days — to fight for the preservation of freedom.

Not far from the monument that marks this heroic stand, the Argenteuil Historical Museum is situated—a memorial to the pioneers, and a tribute to the untiring zeal of the late Dr. B. N. Wales and the late Dr. Maud E. Abbott, who were its virtual founders.

A meeting of the Argenteuil Historical Society was held Saturday afternoon at the Museum, where the president, Dr. H. B. Cushing, gave an interesting report and expressed thanks for the many museum donations received during the year, in addition to the library and a valued collection of bird specimens.

At this, the museum's formal opening, great change was noted in the rearrangement of the Sir John Abbott room. Here, one observed a beautiful portrait of Dr. Maud E. Abbott, and a collection of bound volumes of her writings. The room is a representation of the Mid-Victorian period, containing ornaments and appointments furnished through the generosity of the Abbott family. Mr. Archibald Kains, Mrs. G. F. Kuhring and Dr. Wm. Fraser paid tribute to the life and achievement of the late Dr. Abbott during the course of the meeting.

BLANKET FOR ENGLAND IS IN THE NEWS

Reaches 23-Year-Old Nurse at Suburban First Aid Post

From the London Evening Standard — a clipping sent by a sergeant from this county serving overseas:

Among the bundles for Britain gifts from Canada and America unpacked recently, was a lovely warm blanket, with "Mrs. W. Hooper, Lachute, Quebec," marked on it in black letters.

It was given to Anne Lee, of Canning Town, because Anne had been bombed out of her home.

She is 23, a nurse working at a first aid post in the Canning Town dockland settlement. When she saw Mrs. Hooper's name on the blanket Anne decided at once to write and thank her for it.

She wants Mrs. Hooper to know something of life in London just now. She would like her to see the excitement in the settlement when the great wooden crates arrive from overseas. And the raid shelter, with every bed covered with bright patchwork quilts received in these welcome shipments.

* * *

It is learned here that Anne Lee's intentions were duly acted upon; Mrs. W. Hooper has received a grateful letter from this young lady, telling details of the bombing and of her work. Miss Lee is continuing her duties at the suburban first aid post, although her family has removed to the comparative safety of a rural village.

MAN SENTENCED ON CHARGE OF DRUNKEN DRIVING

PLANTAGENET MOTORIST GIVEN FIVE DAYS IN JAIL, WITH COSTS

Charged with driving under the influence of liquor, and without an operator's permit, Francis Poirier, of Plantagenet, Ont., appeared in court at St. Jerome on Monday. Charges on both counts were laid following arrest of the man on May 11th in Grenville, by Traffic Officer H. Jones, when Poirier was driving in a dangerous manner along the village street.

After hearing the evidence, the judge pronounced a sentence of five days in jail, plus costs of the case.

Council Approves Plan for Building-Lot Subdivision

AUTHORIZATION GIVEN FOR AGREEMENT ON AYERS' SEWER

Special Meeting of Town Council

A special meeting of Town Council was held last evening, at which were present — Mayor H. Lamarche and Aldermen F. McGibbon, E. Prevost, H. Roy, J. Speight, S. Holt, A. Scott, L. St. Jacques, R. Muir and W. Morrissette.

Following discussion with Notary G. Valois as to clauses to be inserted in the purchase deed with Ayers Limited, the Mayor and Secretary were authorized to sign the necessary contract to purchase from Ayers Limited their sewer located within the limits of Lachute and a right of connection to their sewer located in Chatham.

A plan was submitted for approval of the council showing the proposed subdivision of a part of Mrs. James Hay's farm, which is being divided into lots for building of a housing project. The plan was approved.

Discussion took place as to whether the laying of a sewer on Millway and Princess Streets should be given by contract or day labor. It was decided to call for tenders.

A letter was presented from the C. P. R., in which the offer was made of a strip of land 24 ft. wide and 1,050 ft. long to open the thoroughfare from Barron Avenue to Bethany Street. The council will ask the C. P. R. to extend the width to 30 ft., the removal of telegraph poles to be done at expense of the company.

The Mayor and Secretary were authorized to sign necessary deeds for purchase of a strip of land 4 ft. wide along the east side of Water Street — from Lester Thompson, H. Malette, S. S. Campbell and V. A. Paquin — the council undertaking to build sidewalk free of charge for the given land.

The Mayor and pro-Mayor were appointed delegates of the council to attend the Torch Day celebration in Montreal on June 12th.

Nazi Trade Trick Gives Lancashire Big Order

(By Mail)

London, April 21 — Behind a shipment of cotton goods now on its way to Turkey lies a story of British ingenuity in outwitting unfair German competition.

Three years ago a British textile firm heard from one of their colonial agents that German export groups were marketing a line of cotton prints at prices from 10 to 40 per cent below the cost of production in order that the Nazis might pile up foreign exchange.

Undeterred by this competition, which was subsidized by Hitler, the British firm set to work and produced a similar line, the first shipments of which went to the Colonies a few weeks after the outbreak of war. Overseas customers pronounced the goods admirable and far superior to Germany's.

Samples were offered elsewhere, and following the commercial agreement between the United Kingdom and Turkey, so much business was obtained in the first fortnight of this year from the latter country that the order books had to be closed.

Istanbul experts quickly refuted the Nazi claim that Lancashire is no longer able to meet German competition in this class of cotton textiles, and, following the first shipment, some 20,000 pieces are going to Turkey over the next month or so.

Important business has also been booked for two other markets.

Set Visiting Hours For Dionne Quints

Callander, Ont. — C.N.R. traffic officials advise that the guardians of the Dionne Quintuplets have arranged visiting hours to Dafoe Hospital, now effective, as follows: Morning 11.00 a.m. to 11.30 a.m.; afternoon, 4.00 p.m. to 4.30 p.m. (E.S.T.). The children may be seen daily.

CLAIMS GAME LAWS DISREGARDED IN LAURENTIANS

STE. AGATHE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE SEEKS ACTION

Game and Fish Sold Openly, Meeting Is Told

Ste. Agathe — Decrying the "scandalous" disregard of fish and game laws in the Laurentian district — a disregard that has been noticed by outsiders as well as Laurentian residents — the Ste. Agathe Chamber of Commerce has adopted a resolution to be forwarded to the Provincial Government urging stricter supervision of fishing and hunting and heavier penalties for poachers.

The resolution suggested that the number of game wardens in the district be increased and that they be paid higher salaries. One member asserted that at present there was only one game warden in charge of a district which comprised 120 lakes.

Gaston Gibeault, president of the chamber, warned that unless the Quebec Government invokes this stricter supervision and heavier poaching penalties, fishing and hunting would soon be "sports of the past in the Laurentians."

"Thousands of dollars are spent each year by the Government in advertising the Laurentians in American publications," Mr. Gibeault stated. "Tons of literature are shipped across the border all painting beautiful pictures of the Laurentian lakes being so full of fish, the woods so full of game, and yet so little is done to protect the lakes and woods from this poaching menace."

Trout Sold Openly

As an example of the poaching that has existed and that is still going on, Mr. Gibeault pointed out that "beautiful, fresh trout" is being sold by unlicensed individuals almost openly for 25 cents a pound.

As for hunting, he said that although the seasons for partridge and deer end respectively in October and November, partridges could be purchased for as little as 50 cents each and venison at 20 cents a pound in practically any of the Laurentian villages as late as March.

"Efficient game wardens, stricter supervision and heavier penalties seem to be the solutions," he concluded. "Otherwise the Laurentians will be remembered only as the once-happy hunting ground."

NEW RULES ON GIFT PARCELS TO ENGLAND

TO BECOME EFFECTIVE ON JUNE 28

Mail to Canadian Forces Is not Affected

Ottawa — New regulations governing the despatch of gift parcels to the United Kingdom, issued with a view to conserving shipping space, are announced by Hon. J. A. MacKinnon, Trade Minister, to become effective June 28th.

Unsolicited gifts, whether containing rationed food or not, still may be received by parcel post addressed to individuals in the United Kingdom, but the new regulations state that no parcels may exceed five pound gross weight or contain more than two pounds of any one foodstuff.

All parcels must be clearly marked as gifts, and must be sent without prior communication from the recipient to the donor to qualify as "unsolicited."

"Where well-wishers abroad desire to send gifts of foodstuffs in quantities larger than parcel post shipments, they must first arrange for some responsible organization in the United Kingdom, formed for charitable or similar purposes, to be the recipient," the announcement added, "Application for licence to import under this concession must be made to Ministry of Food by the organization, which will be required to give an undertaking that the goods will be consumed within the organization. . . shipments under these special arrangement must not include rationed foods, in which category are butter, cheese, sugar, tea, bacon, ham, margarine, and lard."

Permission from the British Food Ministry to import gifts does not mean exemption from duty if the goods are of a class normally subject to duty, the regulations provide.

* * *

London — It is understood that new regulations concerning gifts of food to Britons from friends overseas will not affect parcels for Canadian soldiers, airmen and sailors in Britain.

The regulations limited the weight of food parcels to five pounds and specifies they must be bona fide gifts sent voluntarity and not as a result of requests.

Toronto Bans Lindbergh

Toronto — City Council has voted 11-10 to ask the public library board to order immediate removal of books by Charles A. Lindbergh from Toronto public libraries.

The ban against Lindbergh's works was reconmmended to council by the board of control on motion of controller Fred Hamilton. Aldermen favored the ban because of Lindbergh's recent utterances on American foreign policy which they considered were anti-British.

Today's 'Building Dollar' Has Higher Value

General rumors to the effect that there has been an excessive rise in building costs and services are unwarranted—states Mr. W. M. Cottingham, of the Cottingham Supply Company, Lachute. Such rumors can do serious harm to general progress and prosperity, in which the welfare of the building industry plays an important role.

"The typical new house or major remodelling job requires materials from more than 50 different types of manufacturers and the services of many types of craftsmen", Mr. Cottingham said. "There have been increases in the cost of some of these products and services, but in most instances these have not been excessive."

"Many modern building materials, on the other hand, not only cost less than ever before because of research and mass production methods, but actually lower the home's maintenance cost. One example is the low-cost asphalt roofing shingle developed and placed on the market by Johns-Manville. This shingle is a prefabricated 'strip' which can be applied in a fraction of the time it would take to lay the four individual shingles it resembles."

"This time-saving feature, and mass production methods, make possible a roof of traditional appearance at the lowest cost in J-M history," Mr. Cottingham said. "Furthermore, the fact that these shingles are fireproof, rotproof and weatherproof means the elimination of the necessity for periodic and expensive maintenance costs."

Citing rock wool home insulation, which sells today for 35% less than it did a few years ago, as another instance of this trend, Mr. Cottingham said that today's building dollar can buy a better-planned, more attractive and more soundly constructed home for less money than was dreamed possible in the boom days of the late 20's.

Boomerang !

A detachment of Australians were leaving a town in the South of England. Some of the "boys" called on the Chief Constable, said they'd had a very happy time, and asked him to accept a genuine boomerang as a souvenir. The Chief promised he'd always cherish their gift.

Shortly afterwards his telephone rang. A case had been smashed at the local museum. "The only thing missing," said the curator of the museum, "is an Australian boomerang."

VIADUCT OVER RAILWAY SOUGHT BY STE. AGATHE

Ste. Agathe — A committee has been named by the Town Council to join representatives of the Ste. Agathe Chamber of Commerce in seeking an interview with Hon. T. D. Bouchard, provincial minister of roads and public works, with a view to constructing a viaduct which would eliminate the C. P. R. level-crossing on the Laurentian highway at the north end of this town.

By Order-in-Council dated August 17, 1939, the Federal Government has already offered to contribute 40 per cent of the cost of the viaduct, provided their contribution does not exceed $26,840, and has ordered the Canadian Pacific Railway Company to contribute $3,000 towards the cost of the work. No move has since been made, however, to get the project under way.

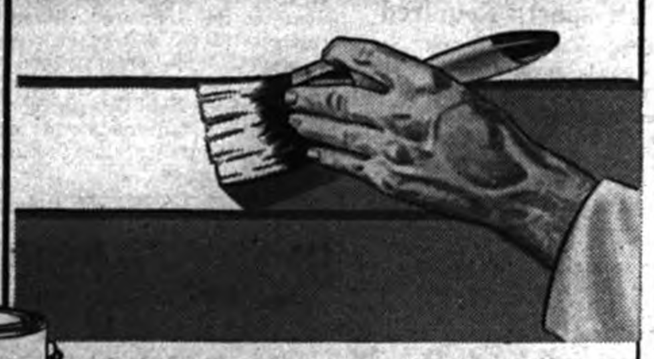

Canadian Color Shots Televised in New York

New York — Jasper, Minaki and Gaspe colored sound motion pictures made by cameramen of the Canadian National Railways were recently selected for transmission over the television networks of the National Broadcasting Corporation. These films were broadcast and televised from Radio City, and the Canadian holiday scenes reproduced admirably in the receiving sets.

What Lachute Could Do In Salvage

The town of Dundas, Ontario, has set an example in the national salvage effort — and from this example statisticians calculate the annual saving of $12,000,000 could be achieved by reclaiming household wastes across the entire Dominion. A million dollars a month, for war charities and war work, is an appreciable figure !

Dundas is "an average Canadian town". We have visited this community — seen its attractive park, heard its civic band and inspected its outdoor swimming pool, built by a wide-awake service club for the recreation of neighborhood kiddies.

And now Dundas is robbing the garbage can. After a month of work the books have been tallied up. Rags, metals, bones, paper and the like — the sum of secondary materials, usually wasted, in every Canadian home — were collected, baled and sold to the nearest dealer handling these items. The net income for the month was $650.

Dundas has only 1,250 households to draw upon. Conclusion: it is possible to reclaim a fraction more than 50 cents worth of waste per month from the average home.

There are roughly 2,000,000 households in Canada . . . But coming closer to home, there are about 1,200 households right here in Lachute — which, with systematic saving, could raise $600 a month. That is what Lachute could do. All we need is to carry the theme, hammer and tongs, into every home.

The town authorities have undertaken to make collection and effect the sale of waste material. Circulars have been issued instructing householders how to prepare their waste for collection; the items mentioned are rags, bones, metal of certain kinds, and paper (also of specified kinds).

With the inspiration of Dundas, "an average Canadian town", let us dwell upon the tune of $600 a month. We can start NOW !

Facing Reality

There comes a time in the lives of most men when they come face to face with reality and cannot dodge it. Such a time has arrived for every man and woman in Canada who has a sum of money over and above that needed for ordinary expenditures.

There are few Canadians who do not treasure money, either for the protection it affords the individual against unforeseen calamity or of the value it represents in terms of goods which it will buy. Some treasure money because it is the concrete result of years of hard work. Others are reluctant to part with money because to them it is a sheltering arm around the family.

Now, however, Canadians are faced with the realization that no matter how highly they regard their personal cash reserves, they must loan it in order to keep it.

The battle against Germany can be viewed in part as a battle in behalf of Canadian cash in hand. Let Germany win, and assets of Canadians will dry up almost to the vanishing point.

Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, India and Canada have been left alone to fight the Nazi monster. The challenge, undoubtedly the most stupendous in world history, demands the active help of every Canadian. Those with money, be it fifty dollars or two hundred and fifty dollars, must loan their cash to the government if Canada is to carry on with her present share in the big battle.

The man or woman who shrugs his or her shoulders and deliberately attempts to duck from under the responsibility of each individual in this time of national crisis, will earn the contempt of his fellow citizens.

The Function of the Reporter

A reporter is of necessity an impersonal observer of the happenings of the community. Officially, it matters little to him what action a town council may take in any given matter. As an impartial observer a news item stating one side of a controversy is just as important as an item conveying the other side. In other words he is not a biased witness of any event. He is interested only from the standpoint of news.

Perhaps the actions of a reporter at a meeting sometimes seem unusual, but they have to be unusual because he is, as we have said, only an observer and not a participant in an event. It will be noticed that he doesn't applaud when a speaker makes some remarks that please the audience. He doesn't join in the program, unless it is to stand when the national anthem is sung. He is merely an onlooker and is reporting the course of events, not for the benefit of those at the meeting but for the whole community.

To paraphrase a famous poem "his is not to reason why". That phrase adequately describes the reporter's attitude toward any assignment he is called upon to cover. He should not be expected to take part in the proceedings unless he is personally interested as a member of the group. A reporter recently covered a temperance meeting and was asked to express his opinion on the liquor question. This he declined to do, and rightly so, because he was attending the meeting as a representative of his newspaper and not as a member of the Temperance Federation.

Newspaper reporters are often asked to keep things out of the paper, or to soft pedal on some news item. The conscientious reporter will never make any promises to do this. This is the prerogative of the editor only, and the only thing a reporter can do is take the matter up with his editor. Sometimes a bribe is offered, and if one really wants to earn the ill-will of a reporter this is the surest way to do it. The newspaperman who accepts a bribe is breaking faith with his profession, and he never remains a newspaperman very long.

Reporters have a very difficult job. They are surrounded by people who want special favors that he has not the power to grant. In practically every instance the reporter is worthy of the fullest confidence. He is a hard working person who is trying to play the game, trying to serve his community, and is finding his satisfaction in life, not from the ordinary pleasures of life, but from following the most fascinating calling known to mankind.

When one is tempted to invite a reported to forget his code of ethics, it is well to remember that he is no power to assure you of immunity from publicity or of special consideration. That responsibility rests solely with the editor. Never blame a reporter for what appears in your newspaper. He is just doing the job he is paid for. The editor is the man who decided the issues.

Fifth Columnists ?

Perhaps it is just a perverted sense of humor but whatever the reason it is but fitting to class among fifth columnists the persons who circulate rumors of death or injury to Canadians on active service overseas. Recently a ship proceeding from Canada to Great Britain was lost at sea and long lists of Canadians "missing, believed lost," appeared in the newspapers to sadden hearts in many homes. Canada sympathized with bereaved relatives but in many towns and cities rumors quickly circulated that other "local lads" had lost their lives in the disaster. Of course these were entirely without foundation for the official lists were checked and rechecked before being released; yet many parents, many wives were informed through the rumor route that their sons and husbands had been among the lost. Investigation revealed all of these stories to be false but could not save many hours of grief and anxiety for the victims of these stories. Authorities in many places are attempting to track down the rumors to their source and just punishment will be meted out to those responsible. There's a place for people who start stories of this nature. They belong either in an internment camp or a lunatic asylum.

About Charles Lindbergh

Charles Lindbergh, one time world idol, is still in the news and drawing larger headlines as the war wears on. Lindbergh is continuing his anti-British and pro-German arguments through the United States despite the storm of criticism and ridicule aimed in his direction. The former "Lone Eagle" hero has earned such contempt that many Canadian towns have taken action to remove his books from public library shelves and the movement has spread even to Lindbergh's native land, the Sulphur, Oklahoma, school board directing that pictures of the former American colonel be removed from class rooms and American flags substituted. Surely Lindbergh must see in his ever waning popularity, in the boos and hisses that greet him in public appearances, that America wants no lining up with the dictators and prefers to remain true to that ideal of freedom, long the proud boast of the United States. If America is to remain "the land of the free" she can lend her weight only on the side of Great Britain and all Ex-Colonel Lindbergh's oratory will not prevent America from following that natural course. As some well known countryman of the flyer remarked "Lindbergh is much better in the air than on the air."

Real Christianity

Adolf Hitler has sought to put himself in the place of God in Germany but his bombing blasts in England have served only to place greater emphasis upon religion and to bring about a new spirit of Christianity. Churches by the score have been destroyed by the explosives rained on London yet London carries on with regular worship and all churches are co-operating in providing for "religion as usual." In one district a large Roman Catholic Church was burned down and a Jewish gentleman promptly offered a large furniture show room as a temporary church, reducing the rent from £600 to one shilling a year. A neighboring Anglican Church lent 250 chairs and another Protestant Church contributed a harmonium. In some cases churches surviving the blitzkrieg turn over premises to other congregations of different denominations where these places of worship have been damaged, a regular system of hours being arranged. Hitler may be God in Germany but in England they still worship the true God and will continue to practice religion despite Germany's best efforts at destruction.

Newspaper headline writers and everyone else should be glad Adolf Hitler changed his name from Alois Schicklgruber. Aside from difficulty in fitting it into a one column space it would take too much breath when tacked on the end of the common sentence: "That blankety, black, blasted, dashed . . . etc."

They say the word "please" costs Americans more than a million dollars in telegraph tolls each year. Wonder what the "love and kisses" and "letter follows" bills are.

Strawberries sell for twenty cents each in London, says a news report. Imagine such a dessert order as "One strawberry — and slice it thin, please !"

THE LIFE OF WINSTON CHURCHILL

THE MAN WHO 'LL BEAT HITLER

(Part 11)

Despite the demands of influential Britons, Stanley Baldwin passed over Winston Churchill and appointed Sir Thomas Inskip as Minister for the Co-ordination of Defence in March 1936. Unfortunately, however, this position was more or less a sinecure — virtually everything went on as before, though the dark shadow of Nazi tyranny was looming nearer and nearer.

Late in the same year, Winston Churchill, a continuous and consistent critic of what he termed the Government's spineless policy, declared: "Everyone can see what the position is. The Government cannot make up its mind, or cannot get the Prime Minister to make up his mind, and so they are decided only to be undecided, resolved to be irresolute, adamant for drift, all-powerful for impotence."

Talking to an interviewer at this time, Churchill said: "Things are not moving nearly quickly enough. Germany is going "all out" to develop her air force, while we are dawdling. Baldwin has been told, but he will not listen."

* * *

Outsmarts Ribbentrop

Winston Churchill met von Ribbentrop about this time at a dinner given by one of England's society hostesses. Ribbentrop indulged in a long and tiresome eulogy of Hitler, describing him as the Saviour of Mankind. When their hostess asked Winston Churchill what he thought of this, he replied by quoting an anecdote of Talleyrand. When Talleyrand was told that France had produced a Saviour, he rejoined:

"When, after he has been crucified, he returns from the grave, I shall be prepared to worship him!"

For once, von Ribbentrop had nothing to say !

Crisis !

In September 1938, the Czecho-Slovak crisis burst on a thoroughly alarmed world. Neville Chamberlain had succeeded Baldwin as British Premier, but the policy of inertia and laissez-faire had remained. The result was the Munich Surrender.

Again Churchill's voice was raised in shrill warning. "It is necessary," he said, "that the nation should realize the magnitude of the disaster into which we are being led . . . If peace is to be preserved on a lasting basis it can only be by a combination of all the Powers whose convictions, and whose vital interests, are opposed to Nazi domination. A month ago it would have been possible. But all was cast away."

Churchill's warnings went unheeded, as almost world-wide relief was felt that "peace" had been preserved.

Alarm !

March 1939, and Hitler sent his tanks rumbling through the streets of Prague. Gone was the slighest vestige of pretence. "Peace in our time," so ostentatiously expressed in the letter signed at Munich by Hitler and Chamberlain, was a dead letter. Another "Scrap of paper."

Britons awoke, the Government started desperate endeavours to increase the nation's fighting ability, but the one man who had done most to warn the nation of its peril, and whose presence in the Cabinet would have revitalised the people, was still left on the doorstep.

People started wearing "Churchill" buttons; there was an almost irresistible cry from the people for Churchill's return, but it was only when the die was cast, and war declared that stubborn Mr. Chamberlain was forced to yield to pressure, and on September 3, word was flashed to all units of the Fleet, "Churchill's back!"

In the House of Commons, Mr. Churchill said: "This is no war for domination or material gain, no war to shut any country out of its sunlight and means of progress. It is a war to establish, on impregnable rocks, the rights of the individual, and it is a war to establish and revive the stature of man."

British City Sets An Example to Democracies

From Bristol comes impressive evidence of the calibre of the British people, their fortitude, their determination and, above all, their unconquerable courage. Bristol has suffered fearfully from Nazi bombing. Citizens are killed or injured; business places and homes wrecked; but, with ruin all about, the citizens of Bristol take up enthusiastically their own moral rearmament. Leadership is given by the Lord Mayor.

In a message carried by the Press and distributed in various ways, the Lord Mayor and other civic officials intimate to each citizen "How You Can Play Your Part." Headlines to the message include: "Forget Yourself in Helping Your Neighbor." "Keep the Moral Standards of the Nation High." Be a Rumor-Stopper." "The Secret of Steadiness and Strength Is to Listen to God and Do What He Says." Forearm Yourself by Listening to God every Morning!"

The Lord Mayor reports that "Moral re-armament is strengthening the spirit of our people at home, and helping to form bonds of friendship between Britain and the Dominions and the United States of America.

As individuals, the people of Bristol and all other partially wrecked English cities have shown their calm and resolute courage, but this will be immeasurably increased by organization, by the knowledge that all are of one mind. "In union there is strength" applies to moral as well as to material affairs.

As the Bristol Post says, "This mobilized spirit of Bristol is a force of unmeasured power. It will give the energy to win the war and the touch of sustained genius to build a new world when the present troubles are past."

The movement has attracted world attention and praise. One United States press comment is: "This message brings to sharp attention the reason for the wonderful morale shown by the English people . . . Here is a nation standing with God against the forces of evil that would trample Christianity underfoot. Here is something for us here in America to heed."

"Miss the train?" queried Jones.

Suport Your Town

It is high time all of us paid more attention to the building up of the small town and less to making the overgrown city larger. The little town or village is home — or should be. It needs our support and we are the people who must give it life and power if it is to have either. The big city cares nothing for us. It will, if it can, pull our dollars away, but that is the only use it has for us. The little town needs us and we need it.

The future which lies in the cities is shopworn, smoked, dirty and unclean. The true future lies in the country and the little towns. Back them up and make them grow. When you buy goods or services other than through men who have their stake in your home town, you are tearing down the foundation on which you town rests by just that much.

—Stirling News-Argus

A little evacuee was paying her first visit to a farm and was interested in everything. Presently the farmer took her to a barn where a cow was contentedly chewing the cud.

"Very good cow, that," said the farmer, "She's my best milk-giver."

"Yes," said the little visitor, "but doesn't it cost you a lot to keep her in chewing gum?"

BIRTH

ROSS — At Dr. Rabinovitch's Hospital, Lachute, on Monday, May 26th, 1941, to Mr. and Mrs. Sam Ross, St. Andrews East, a son.

IN MEMORIAM

HAMILTON — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Jessie Clara, who passed away May 30th, 1937. — Always remembered by her husband and daughters.

Two loved hands are resting,
A mother we loved is waiting,
For us just over the hill.
You left us all so quickly,
You never said good-bye, (ing
But we know that you are watch-
From your beautiful home on high.

SILVERSON — In loving memory of dear Jack, who left us 6 years ago today. — Sadly missed by Mother and Father.

Tough tears in our eyes do not glisten,
And our faces are not always sad,
There is never a night or a morning
But we think of the loved one we (had.

CARPENTER — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, George B. Carpenter, who passed away, May 31st, 1922. — Remembered by his wife and family.

Gone is the one we loved, so dear,
Silent the tongue we loved to hear,
It's sad but true, we wonder why,
The best are always first to die.

THOMPSON — In loving memory of dear Mother, Mrs. Daniel Thompson, who passed away May 30th, 1936. — Always remembered by the family.

How oft you come before us,
Your dear face fond and true,
Death can never take away
Mem'ries, dear Mother, of you.

RIELLY — In loving memory of a dear aunt, Matilda Rielly, who departed this life May 27, 1940. — Always remembered by the Cameron and Bennett families.

But still the vacant chair (smile
Recalls the love, the voice, the
Of her, who once sat there.

Her life was one long sacrifice,
Her heart was true and tender,
She toiled so hard for those she loved.
Then left us to remember.

Red Cross Dance

A dance was given on May 17th by the Mille Isles Red Cross Group, and the proceeds amounted to $24.57. Donations of home-made candy were contributed by the ladies and sold with ice cream and soft drinks.

Mrs. Andrew Shearer, the convenor, asked for a vote of thanks for Mrs. Allan Buxton, who organized the dance, and the ladies concerned; to Messrs. Freeman, Kilpatrick, Norman Kirkpatrick and Lawrence Silverson who supplied the music, also to the Ward Bros. for the loan of their hall, and to Messrs. Frederick Black and Gilbert Wood for their services.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

DALESVILLE, BROWNSBURG BAPTIST Y.P.U. HOLDS CLOSING MEETING

Dalesville — The Dalesville and Brownsburg B.Y.P.U. held their season's closing meeting Monday night in the Dalesville Baptist Church.

Items of interest on the program were vocal selections given by the B.Y.P.U. members, and a sextet from the Brownsburg Boys' Band, who played several pieces.

The pastor, Rev. C. Hardie, spoke on the topic of "The Full Salvation"; his text was chosen from Titus 3: 3-7.

The Young People presented their president, Mr. Frank Kettyle, with the gift of a purse of money in appreciation of his faithful work. War Savings Certificates were awarded to Miss Marjorie Murdoch and Miss Sybil Wert, who had ranked first and second respectively in the contest among the members to bring out the greatest number of young people to the meeting.

At the close, the happy gathering of about 250 people were served refreshments in the dining hall.

Attend Ordination Ceremony

The Rev. C. Hardie and several delegates attended a Church Council held in the Verdun Baptist Church at which Mr. T. D. M. Carson was ordained to the Gospel Ministry at this meeting there was also held a recognition service, when the Snowden Baptist Church was re-organized as a church of the Regular Baptist Union.

Gospel Services

The Dalesville Baptist Church is to hold special Gospel services from June 8 to 15, with the Rev. W. S. Whitcombe, B.D., B.Th., of Toronto, as guest speaker.

ANGLICAN Y.P.A. SPONSORS TRAVELOGUE

A travelogue, "Around the World," under the auspices of St. Simeon's A.Y.P.A., was held in the Margaret Rodger hall on Tuesday in aid of the Spitfire Fund, and was much enjoyed by those present. Two sets of slides showing views of Gibraltar, Egypt and the Holy Land were doubly interesting because of the present world situation. Two movies depicting life in China and Japan and other Eastern countries gave one an insight into the customs of these ancient peoples. This travelogue was presented by Mr. Albert Ward, of Montreal, who has circled the globe three times and taken the great number of pictures himself. Net proceeds amounted to $20.

ANNIVERSARY OBSERVED AT ST. ANDREWS UNITED

St. Andrews E. — The 14th anniversary of the United Church was marked by a special service on Sunday morning and a congregational supper on Monday evening.

The three long tables, set up in the Sunday School hall were decorated with spring flowers and pink candles. The ladies provided cold meats and salads, rolls and cakes and the men contributed the ice cream dessert. The services of the young folk, who acted as waiters and waitresses, was most efficient.

At the close of the supper, the Rev. J. A. Mowatt, the pastor, burned the debt note, and in a short talk recounted the work done by this church at home and far afield. The Rev. Andrew Mowatt brought greetings from the Hudson congregation. The Rev. Dr. MacMillan, of the Presbyterian Church, and the Rev. Thos. Ball, of the Anglican Church, spoke in encouraging words of the advantage for greater work to a church free of debt. A letter of greeting and warm commendation was read, in which Dr. Ballantyne expressed his regret in being prevented by illness from attending.

When the tables were cleared away, community singing, a skit by the Rev. and Mrs. Andrew Mowatt, a fine recitation by the latter, and humorus contests made enjoyable entertainment.

PRESBYTERIAN Y.P.S.

The Presbyterian Young People's Society held their final weekly meeting of the season on Wednesday night with a good attendance. The business consisted largely of closing the books for the season. Three social evenings have been planned for the summer months to keep the club together in preparation for a good start next autumn.

The meeting continued with games and refreshments, and closed with community singing.

PRESENT SAVINGS WILL EASE POST-WAR REACTION

FORESIGHT WILL PROVIDE PERSONAL SECURITY IN DIFFICULT TIMES AHEAD

The advice to "save and have" is as good today as it ever was, and rigid thrift in wartime redounds to the benefit of both the individual and the government.

To "salt away" a liberal part of one's earnings during these busy, active times is a means for the average person to pave the way for security against difficult readjustment after the war. Every war period brings a rise of prices during the conflict, with a subsequent fall in that difficult period when men are being demobilized and resources turned to the production of goods instead of guns.

Much of this post-war unbalance may be overcome by present thrift, in the purchase of war savings stamps, certificates, bonds; these indeed may prove to be the means of turning adversity into opportunity. Every economy practiced now will materially help to ease the reaction which is bound to follow after the war.

Penny Weddings

The "penny wedding" was at one time a common feature in Scotland and Ireland. When a young couple were desirous of getting married but had not sufficient funds to start housekeeping, it was usual to invite everyone in the parish to the ceremony.

All attending made a small contribution towards the cost of the entertainment, the balance going to the newly-wedded couple !

Why CANADA MUST BORROW $600,000,000

A Statement by the Minister of Finance

In money alone, this war is costing Canada in round figures, $4,000,000 a day. That is three and one-quarter times the daily cost of the last year of the last war. This conflict costs so much more because it is a battle of giant, swift machines . . . as well as of men. And to build other than the very best machines would be futile. They must be worthy of our men.

Canada dare not . . . and will not . . . sacrifice men for lack in quality or quantity of fighting machines. Hence we must produce them on a scale hitherto undreamed of.

To do this, Canada needs now to borrow from her citizens at least $600,000,000 in addition to the revenue raised by taxes. To obtain this money Canada will on June 2nd offer Victory Bonds.

Fortunately, Canadians have the money to buy these Victory Bonds. This is shown by a greatly expanded national income and by record savings deposits.

If every person who has savings or who can make payments out of wages or income will invest in Victory Bonds, the Loan will be quickly subscribed. But the wholehearted support of every citizen is necessary.

What Canadians have done before, Canadians can and will do again. Our population was less than nine millions in 1918 and 1919. Yet in November, 1918, our people invested $616,000,000 in Victory Bonds. Eleven months later, in October, 1919, they invested $572,000,000. The total subscribed for Victory Bonds in those two loans was $1,188,000,000. This year, with our population increased to more than twelve millions, the nation that did it before can do it again—and in greater measure.

The terms of the Loan will be announced May 31st. Get ready to buy every Bond that you can.

HELPFUL HINTS

This gave me a laugh and maybe it will you. Dear only knows we need a few laughs these days. These helpful hints for testing the temperature of the baby's bath came over the radio. If the baby turns red, the water is too hot; if the baby turns blue, the water is too cold; if the baby stays white it didn't need a bath.

NEW BRUNSWICK POTATOES

It is nice to find something that lives up to its reputation. In Ontario, New Brunswick potatoes are supposed to be extra special, and I must say I have never used such good potatoes. It is Spring now and they are still good. We have had lovely big ones to bake, the boiled ones have been mealy, and they are just right when mashed. Ontario counties are laid out like a checker board and the fields are rectangular ones neatly fenced. The New Brunswick farms have their fields tucked in around the hills. There are very large fields of potatoes but they are in irregular patches of land in the level stretches between hills and frequently not fenced.

GARDENERS ARE GENEROUS FOLKS

There is something about gardening that makes people generous. Most of them love to help you with your gardens. Through the Winter neighbors have been asking, are you going to have a garden this year, and would you like to have such and such a plant. Wherever I have lived I have found this same spirit of interest and generosity among gardeners. Somehow I always like the plants someone has given me far better than the ones I buy. There is something so friendly about a Perennial garden. It is a joy each year to see your favorites showing their heads after their winter sleep. Sometimes some of them are winter killed and are lost. I have had the pleasure of giving back to the original donor some of my plants when theirs were winter killed and ours came through. No one has offered me any Coreopsis, so I must try to buy some plants. I hate to be without it as it is so useful for cutting. It looks well alone and its delicate yet sturdy flowers combine well with so many others. I wish I could have some of the plants in the gardens we have started and then had to leave. However it is fun starting again.

USE EVERY BOTTLE

This year every woman will want to fill all the available bottles with fruit and vegetables. Many old bottles can be used if they can be sealed properly. In find the transparent seals which you wet and fasten with a rubber band is very satisfactory. In fact, last year I used them in place of the glass covers and screw tops on my sealers. Three years ago I used them on bottles which had no tops, for jams, jellies, and pickles. We moved and these bottles were packed in a barrel. I almost didn't pack them as I thought they would not survive. The barrel was not unpacked the year we lived in Ottawa, so it had two long moves and was in storage twice. When I unpacked it I expected to have a mess to clean up. Not one of the transparent tops were broken, and the contents of every bottle was in perfect condition. If you use wax cover with a thin layer of wax while the fruit is hot. This will shrink, so when the fruit has cooled completely, then add a thicker coating and roll it so the sides will be covered. I have tried using threads under the wax and various other devices, to make the wax easier to remove but I found that I could not be sure of getting a perfect seal and I occasionally had some losses. This year, more than ever, we must be sure not to have any spoilage.

BUTTERSCOTCH CHIFFON PIE

1 Envelope unflavored gelatine, ¼ cup cold water, 2 eggs separated, 1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed, 1 cup scalded milk, 2 tablespoons butter, ⅛ tablespoon salt, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 3 tablespoons granulated sugar.

Soak the gelatine in the cold water. Beat egg yolks, add brown sugar and stir in milk gradually. Add butter and salt and cook in the double boiler or over slow heat, stirring until the mixture thickens slightly. Stir in gelatine. Let cool, add vanilla and fold in the stiffy beaten egg whites into which granulated sugar has been added. Pour into large cooked pie shell and chill until firm.

LEMON ASPIC

1 Tablespoon gelatine, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, ¼ cup cold water, 4 tablespoons vinegar, 1¾ cup boiling water, ¼ teaspoon salt.

Soak the gelatine in the cold water for five minutes and dissolve in boiling water. Add lemon juice, vinegar, and salt. This jelly may be used as the base for any combination of vegetables or fruits for salads.

A 60-year-old lady of Jersey City, Miss Lucile Anderson, has returned to her old profession, of high diving, after losing a job as typist she had held for 35 years. Her turn (twice daily) includes a dive of 100 feet into 5 feet of water in a tank only 13½ feet in diameter.

Beating France

With France in chains, American and British dress designers are moving to take over leadership of the world of fashion so long held by Frenchmen and Frenchwomen. When racing opened at Belmont, N. Y., a fashion terrace was featured to supersede the famed centre at Longchamps near Paris. This dress, a grape-and-white silk print, with grape straw hat, was one of the models displayed.

Ladies Like Mice !

Are Buying Blue Ones From Britain, Says Trade Note

London — Fancy mice in a remarkable variety of colors are being bred in England for export overseas. Black, white, chocolate, blue, or in broken colors, they can be trained to do all sorts of interesting things.

Strange as it may seem, ladies all over the world have especially taken to this hobby. They experiment with particular shades and combinations of colors that take their fancy, and even in wartime they can obtain their basic breeding stocks, together with valuable advice on color heredity, from the English livestock organizations.

Breeding experiments have also been carried out with birds, and the Lion Head Goldfinches which were recently shipped to South Africa have aroused great interest there. No improvement is needed, however, to that charming songster the English Nightingale, specimens of which have lately been sent to the United States.

In the last few years there has been an enormous fillip in rabbit-breeding, and the English have evolved very fine strains of the Angora, noted for its wool, and the Chinchilla Rex, Havana Rex and Ermine Rex, these being fur-bearing animals. They have a much denser fur than the natural varieties, and one recent shipment alone consisted of 2,000 head for a fur farm in California.

No doubt because of Britain's variable and uncertain climate, which makes for the survival of the fittest, the livestock shipped abroad from Britain quickly become acclimated to their surroundings.

London Woman Describes Ordeal In Air Raid

This letter came from a London woman to the Queen's Canadian Fund for Air Raid Victims, which is appealing for subscriptions through many newspapers and all branches of the Royal Trust and the General Trust.

It was just getting dark and the searchlights were beginning to show in the sky. Five minutes later the warning sounded; people began to run past our door, old and young, all with bundles, making for the nearest shelter. I thought to myself I am lucky. In a few minutes I would be in bed. If it was too bad I could go into the Anderson shelter in the back garden.

I was awakened by the guns blazing away and learned from my parents that it was going to be a terrible night, so I took blankets and pillows from my bed and went to the Anderson shelter and found that 3 other people from the house were already there. We all made ourselves comfortable and sat waiting for all clear, but the next few hours were like a nightmare. The planes were continually humming in the sky and I believe we all huddled together about six times when we heard the bombs whizzing down. This went on until 2.30 a.m. I must have dozed because I came to my senses to hear a terrific "shush shush" and I yelled out "duck" and we all clung together then came an awful crash. I was flung across the shelter and when I came to myself found that everyone was alright. I prayed to God to thank Him for pulling us through this ordeal.

"These Courageous Men!"

My father gave orders to sit still and wait. A torch was shone and my hair and face were covered with earth. We then heard the rescue squad at work. We marvelled at these courageous men so quickly at their posts. For fifteen minutes we could hear them rescuing people from the houses farther down the street. My father called out to them that we were in a shelter and all safe. We were told to hold on, and on no account move.

Five minutes later the squad got to us.

When we were helped out of the shelter I had an awful shock, our house was almost to the ground. The house next door and another 4 or 5 houses had completely disappeared. The rescuers almost carried me over debris and through a house further down the road. I could hear the guns roaring away but was told to keep my head towards the ground. We were put into a road shelter. Kind people gave us brandy, hot tea and blankets and at about 6.30 the all clear went. We were taken to a settlement, and from there billeted to different places. I may mention that is was here that we learned my aunt, uncle and three children were gassed. They lived only two doors away from us.

"No Longer Afraid"

At the time I wished that I could have gone with them. I was terrified of the nights to come, but they came and are still coming. I am no longer afraid. Our men go up there to meet them and they are not afraid. We have lost our home and our loved ones. Thousands of Britishers are the same. We still keep smiling and every morning my first words are: "How many Gerries down last night?" Hitler may bomb us but so long as the people keep cheerful there will always be an England.

GIFTS CONNECTED WITH A WEDDING

The bridegroom usually wants to give his bride a wedding present, something with a charming touch of sentiment, usually an ornament that she wears on her wedding day — a necklace or a broch or bracelet. The bridegroom usually sends the bride her wedding bouquet; and, on the wedding day, sends a corsage to the bride's mother and to his mother.

Usually, too, the bride wishes to give the bridegroom a wedding gift. A popular gift of the moment is a gold or silver key to their new home, inscribed with the wedding date, or a message. Or perhaps she gives him a pair of cuff links, a dress set, a pocket or wrist watch, a cigarette case, a wallet, a silver or gold pencil.

Gifts to Attendants

The bride's gift to her attendants may be an elaborate and expensive present, if the bride can afford such an important gift, or it may be a modestly-priced but thoughtfully-planned remembrance. Very often she gives her own bridal photograph in a silver, gold, or crystal frame. She may give a vanity-case, a wrist watch, a gold or silver key-case, containing a key to be cut to the desired shape, a pendant or charm, brooch, necklace, bill-clip, bracelet, enamel or silver or gold pencil, an evening bag, a travelling or dresser clock. The bride's gift might also be a fountain pen and pencil, a plain or fitted overnight bag, a jeweled hat or hair ornament, a jewel box, a piece of costume jewelry, a dressing-table accessory, a short gold key-chain with gold tag for monogram, or an article or jewelry set with the individual birth stone of the attendants. The gifts are given to the attendants at the bridesmaids' luncheon, at the bridal dinner, or at any other convenient time before the wedding.

To his best man and ushers (the best man's gift may not be the same as that given to the ushers), the groom may give a cigarette case, cuff links, wallet, pocket or wrist watch, gold or silver pencil, fountain pen and pencil set, a combination knife and pencil, watch chain, gold or silver key ring, dress set, leather travelling-case, leather compact toilet set, bill clip.

Wedding Gifts

The gift that we send as our bow to the happy couple should be something for the new home, rather than a personal gift. Wedding presents are always sent to the bride-to-be, even when the sender is a relative or friend of the groom and has never met the bride.

The wise bride-elect provides herself with a gift book, and as each gift arrives it is recorded, with the name and address of the giver, the date received, and, if possible, the place where the gift was purchased. As soon as possible the bride-elect writes a gracious and appreciative note of thanks.

With our wedding present we enclose our visiting-card. It is not necessary to write a message on it, but it is entirely proper to write, for example, "With best wishes for your happiness" or some other appropriate message. A married woman encloses a "Mr. and Mrs." card, or her own card and her husband's, or her own card with "Mr. and" written before her name.

If it isn't convenient for you to enclose a visiting-card, write your name, or your name and message, on a plain white card. If you prefer, you may enclose a friendly little note of good wishes.

Duchess of Kent Appears in Film

With Six Mannequins Showing Record Dress Collection

(By Mail))

London — Before being shipped off to New York, a selection from the largest single collection of dresses ever sent abroad from Britain was shown by six mannequins to the Duchess of Kent. The Duchess agreed to the event being filmed for display overseas.

There are 2,000 of them — dresses, suits, a few dinner gowns and one wedding dress, all in wool from famous Yorkshire and Scottish looms. Each is an "off-the-peg" model, costing anything between 30 shillings and £20.

The collection has been made by the Women's Fashion Export Group to be shown in New York this month. In order to meet the demand without any delay, the 80 manufacturers responsible for the models have agreed to pool their resources so that, if one workroom be bombed, its orders can be passed on to another in the group.

At Mooney's Log Cabin

The Victoria Day week-end saw the beginning of summer activities at Mooney's Log Cabin. Among the guests enjoying some early golf were Kay Doyle, Edna MacDonnell, D'Arcy Jette and James McLaughlin, all of Ottawa.

At the Friday evening entertainment, Edna MacDonnell and Sylvia McLaughlin supplied tap dance features, to the accompaniment of Kay Doyle and D'Arcy Jette.

Several of the guests attended the Montreal convention of the Optimist International, District 15, on Saturday evening, and on their return were joined by Mr. and Mrs. John P. Whelan, delegates at the convention, Orian Keyes, of Montreal, and John O'Brien, of Ottawa. Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Lennon, of Ottawa, were also week-end guests.

"Yes," said an old man, "I've had some terrible disappointments in my time, but none stands out like the one that came to me when I was a boy."

"And what was that?"

"I crawled under a tent to see a circus, only to discover it was a revival meeting."

Details of Program and Entertainment at Fair

Enthusiasm is running high with the coming of Lachute Fair on June 12-13-14. Secretary-Treasurer A. Bothwell announces many entries, and the County Race will be keenly contested, as we learn there are three entrants from Harrington. The Military Band from Montreal, which is under direction of Major Seale, and numbers 36 players, will prove a great attraction, while Sims Midway is promised to be bigger and better than ever. Mr. A. Fassio, of the Rex Theatre, is looking after the vaudeville, and this gives assurance of a fine program.

Recruiting Office Opens Here Friday

Residents of tihs locality are all aware of the fact that 32,000 men are required for active service. Radio has made the announcement and advertisements have appeared in all newspapers.

Major Walter H. Scott, M.C., and Major Robert Roy, District Recruiting officers of Military District No. 4, were in town on Wednesday last and held a meeting with members of Brownsburg and Lachute Legion Branches who are heartily behind the Recruiting campaign and are assisting in its development.

A bureau of information on all matters pertaining to the Canadian Active Army (Overseas) will be opened at the North River Motor Sales, 211 Main Street Lachute, on Friday, May 30th, and any wishing to join up may apply there.

During the campaign, the Band of M. D. 4, District Depot will play at the Lachute Fair on June 12-13-14, and some real fine music can be expected from the 36 members who comprise this unit.

Meantime think it over. If you are fit and able to serve, it is your duty to do so. Canada is asking you because you are needed. Call in and talk it over with the Recruiting Officers at 211 Main St.

War veterans are also needed for home service but these must be fit men, who will really soldier without taking advantage of their previous experience and service. If you mean business make application.

They liked the skits with their take-off of army life, and altogether they liked the show. It gave them a chance to forget their worries and their cares for an hour or so.

And so, on behalf of all the men in all the camps, may I extend our thanks to all those organizations who give of their time and energy in order that the troops may laugh and sing and enjoy life.

privileges enjoyed by the scholars as young Canadian citizens, and stirring their loyalty to the British flag under which he aptly stood in delivering this brief message.

"In just about a month from now, you members of the graduating class will be walking out of the doors of this school for the last time. You have spent eleven years preparing for this step, and at last the day approaches when you will be expected to go out and take your place in the world. The positions which you will fill will be varied. Some of you boys will be joining the armed forces — to fight, so that other pupils, like us, may go to other schools, like this. Many of the girls, too, I suppose, will serve as nurses. At any rate, you will all be doing your utmost to help our Empire win this war. And then, when we have won, to you will fall the task of building a new and a better world. It is our earnest hope that you will undertake your tasks then, as you have done in school, cheerfully and willingly. As a graduating class you have set a splendid example for us to follow. Continue to set such an example to all your fellowmen.

In response to the toast, Miss Catherine Cooke said as follows:

"We, of the graduating class, have looked forward to this evening with anticipation, and now that it has come it brings to us sadness mingled with the gaiety, as we realize it is the climax of our school life at Lachute High School.

"Here we have met with joy and sorrow; here we have known triumph and defeat; here we have obtained knowledge, and I trust we have obtained wisdom with which to use that knowledge. Thus we feel better equipped for our entrance upon the various tasks which await us. The fellowship which we have enjoyed here has enriched our lives and will serve as a guide in the wider fellowships of later years.

"We wish to make special note of the help and co-operation we have received from our teachers, from the School Board, and . . . we thank those who have helped in our recreational and social activities.

"We have enjoyed the years we have spent here, and we also thank our parents for having given us the opportunity of attending Lachute High School.

"In closing, for you who stay, for we who go, I can find no better counsel than is contained in the following: Let us endeavor to enter our future activities —

"Strong in will
"And not to yield."
