$990,000 IS COUNTY OBJECTIVE IN 1941 VICTORY LOAN

SUGGESTIONS ON FOODSTUFFS FOR GIFTS TO ENGLISH HOMES

War Workers Urged to Postpone Luxury Purchases and to Invest In Government 1941 Victory Loan

"CANADIAN VIEWPOINT"
By Allan McGee

Canadian Travel Bureau Receives Over 1,000 Letters in One Day, Enquiries from Prospective U. S. Tourists

Specially Written for Readers of The Watchman

We are now entering into our tourist season here in Canada, and there seems to be a good chance that this year will be the greatest ever.

All through the United States the feeling is spreading that this will be a good time to see the "fighting Dominion" to the north. They want to see what a country will look like when it is at war.

The Canadian Travel Bureau which supplies information to tourists on behalf of the Canadian Government, received more than 1,000 letters in one day. Each one asked for particulars of some part about Canada and the possibilities of visiting in these parts.

Last year more than 13 million visitors came to this country. Each one left twenty or thirty dollars of good American currency as a result of his visit, and that money helped for our war effort.

We must have American money this year.

My suggestion is that each one of us having friends or relatives in the United States should write a note to at least five families. Tell them of our great land and the attractions which we offer to the vacationist. The fishing we have here cannot be beaten in any province. The hunting and the thrills that go with it are unsurpassed in any country. The scenery of rolling mountains, blue lakes and running streams is the best in the world.

Tell your friends what we have here for them to see. Tell them that they cannot spend their vacation in a better place than good old Canada.

Tell them, too, that their money is worth 10% more when they spend it here. That should convince them if nothing else does.

GIFTS FOR ENGLAND

Have you had any trouble thinking up some new ideas of what to send to friends and relatives in England?

Well, perhaps I can make a few suggestions that might help.

There is an acute shortage of onions, oranges, bananas and lemons in the Old Country. It's not that they cannot buy the articles in the Colonies, but they want to save the shipping space for more vital cargoes. So the British people are doing without the luxuries in order that the fighting men may have planes and ships and tanks.

But you can help your friends at least by looking over the following list . . .

Cocoa and chocolate are scarce, so why not enclose a few pieces of maple sugar in your package? There is plenty of it here, and it is easy to wrap and ship. They can use it over there, don't worry.

Raw fruit you cannot ship, because it would rot on the trip.

Instead, send concentrated fruit juices. Orange juice is put up in the U. S. in one pound tins of concentrated juice which will make up into a full gallon of drinking juice for the children of Britain.

Onions are worth their weight in gold in most parts of Britain. You can buy onion powder in small glass containers just like pepper and salt. This powder will give the real onion flavor to the stews and soups and salads of a good many meals. You merely shake it into the food like pepper.

Apples, bananas and lemons are hard to get, so we can send a small packet of dried apples or even apricots. Dried prunes, too, would not be amiss. We have so much of everything in this country that we find it hard to imagine that others have to do without.

Orange juice, apple juice, pineapple juice and grapefruit juice can be very easily packed for shipment to Britain. They are so welcome there that I can hardly describe the joy with which they are received.

That should give you some idea of what to send to your relatives in England.

Don't forget, also, to tell your friends in every letter you write that Canada is doing her part to win this war. Tell them that we will stand by the motherland to the very last man. You can make them feel better every time you tell them that.

AN APPEAL TO THE PEOPLE

There are more people working in this country today than ever before.

We have a nation that is rapidly being geared up to a full war effort and the factories and shops of the Dominion are going full blast. The money that is being spent for ships and shells and planes, is being spent freely again by the workers to give themselves the things that they have been so long deprived of. The shop-keepers are doing a roaring trade. The department stores are busier than ever. The luxury lines are still as busy as ever.

There is something wrong with this set up.

We are buying articles that we can do without for the duration of

Late L.-P. Morin Had Performed in Local Auditorium

Victim of Auto Crash Prominent in Quebec Music Circles

One of Four Montrealers Who Died in Laurentian Highway Mishap

Leo Pol Morin — who died instantly in the automobile tragedy near Shawbridge which cost the lives of three other prominent Montrealers last Thursday — was remembered here as a brilliant pianist, having given a concert at Lachute Auditorium soon after the building was opened for public functions.

A party of five were returning to Montreal from Lac Guindon on Thursday evening. The tragedy occurred when the car swerved off the road at a curve on a long steep hill which leads down to the main Ste. Agathe highway, which it joins not far north of Shawbridge. After crashing into a tree, the vehicle turned over on its side.

Leo Pol Morin, 49, pianist, music critic, author and lecturer; and Fernand Leclerc, 28, CBC radio announcer, were killed instantly.

Rev. Wilfrid Morin, 40, lecturer and chaplain of the Hospice St. Henri; and Louis Francoeur, 48, newspaperman and radio commentator, died later of their injuries.

Prof. J. L. Bourgoin, 50, of the Ecole Polytechnique, who was the fifth member of the party, suffered severe head injuries.

Miss Juliette Rodrigue of Lachute, who for a number of years studied pianoforte under Mr. Morin, attended the funeral in Montreal last Saturday.

Salvage Collectors Now Making Rounds

A civic salvage collection, in connection with the national campaign, is being conducted systematically through this town. The collectors are making a door-to-door canvass with their truck, and citizens are respectfully asked to have their material in readiness.

It is known that much material imported from the States and other countries can be manufactured here as products of household and industrial wastes. An instance is glycerine, which is being bought from across the border; glycerine can be industrially extracted from old bones. Other waste materials can be similarly treated to produce essential war materials.

Items sought for civic salvage are listed again as follows: paper, rags, bones and metal. Handbills have been circulated mentioning certain varieties of paper and metal not required, and telling how to package the materials for collection.

FIRST ORDINATION TO PRIESTHOOD IN LOCAL PARISH

CEREMONY AT CHURCH OF STE. ANASTASIE NEXT SUNDAY

An ordination to the priesthood will take place here next Sunday in Ste. Anastasie Church.

Father Robert Valois, C.S.V., the elder son of Mr. Gaetan Valois, notary of this town, will receive the canonical orders of the Roman Catholic Church from the hands of His Grace Mgr. Ubald Langlois, Bishop of Grouard, Alta., a relative of the family.

The ceremony will bear a special character of festivity and solemnity, being the first ordination ever performed in Lachute.

An imposing representation of the clergy will be in attendance, including the Rev. Canon J. Ficotte, a former parish priest in Lachute, Mgr. J. A. Picotte, and Rev. Z. Picotte, all of Longueuil, Rev. Canon Alb. Valois, Chancellor of the Archibishopry of Montreal, the Revs. Graton and Labelle, both past curés of Lachute, the Rev. Father Superior and other members of the St. Viateur Order, besides clergy from the town and district.

The newly ordained priest will celebrate his first mass the following morning, in the same church.

The buying power of the dollar is never as highly developed as its good-byeing power.

MANY BREAKS REPAIRED IN WATER MAIN

Workmen Will Now Proceed on Plant for Chlorination

Diver Operating in North River for Two Weeks

Mains in the Lachute water system which have been giving trouble for several years have now been repaired, after two or three weeks' work involving considerable expense. Leaks in the 14-inch water pipe crossing the bed of the North River beyond the eastern limits of town, were sealed with a cement casing, while a faulty 8-inch pipe crossing the river at Barron's Bridge was completely replaced, a diver working on the scene of these repairs for about two weeks. Town workmen will now be available to proceed with the building for Lachute's new chlorinator; the steel-work for this structure is now on hand.

Ice was believed responsible for the leaks in the main, pressure at the river bed having strained the ball-socket joints. For the east end it was impossible to procure new fittings, owing to pressure of war work in the foundries, and the only remedy was to build forms and pour cement around the breaks. A quick-drying cement was used, lowered to the diver in a specially sealed container, from which he released the load when it was in place above the form. This method was applied at the breaks.

At Barron's Bridge the entire pipe-line crossing the river bed was replaced, an 8-inch pipe of special construction having been shipped from Winnipeg for this purpose.

On the 14-inch line east of town, now repaired, it is expected that full pressure will be turned on today, after sufficient time has elapsed for the cement jackets to harden. The system should then be in order and adequate service restored for fire protection and domestic use in town.

Interest in the County Race at Lachute Fair

Kiwanians to Present Prizes in Juvenile Livestock Judging

A Rare Program of Entertainment Is Arranged

One week from today the Directors of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society will be extending their welcome to visitors at the Lachute Fair, which has gained such prominence as to be recognized as one of the finest fairs in the Province. There are, in fact, no better kept grounds and surroundings in the rural sections of Eastern Canada than those of the Lachute Fair.

Many of the exhibitors at this show, moreover, are breeders of pure-bred stock and hold trophies won in world competition.

The exhibition this year is scheduled for three days only, June 12-13-14, and each day will be replete with its programs of cattle and horse judging, vaudeville performances, military band music, and horse racing. The program of races includes a special county event which is arousing keen interest. Another key attraction will be the great Sims Midway, offering all the "fun of the fair" for both young and old.

On Saturday morning there will be a boys' and girls' livestock judging competition, and the winners will be awarded their prizes in front of the grandstand during the afternoon; gifts of $25. and $10. divided in three prizes, will be distributed by members of the Kiwanis Club of Montreal, who are the donors.

The ladies of Lachute Women's Institute have again undertaken the catering of refreshments at the dining room and lunch counter, where visitors will be assured of good meals and congenial service.

Permission has been granted the Lachute branch of the Red Cross Society to hold a tag day on all three days of the Fair.

Railway Historians Visit Colleague and Explore Ottawa River Shore

Cushing W. — Mr. S. Wheiehan had the pleasure last Sunday of a visit from a number of his former fellow-members of the Railwaymen's Historical Association, of Montreal, who motored here from the city to visit him. The party included the chairman of the association, Mr. H. Terroux, the former president, Mr. John Loy, Mr. R. Shepherd, Mr. W. G. Cole and others to the number of fourteen. They spent part of the afternoon exploring the shore of the Ottawa, which is particularly interesting in this vicinity, including as it does the old Chute-à-Blondeau canal, the "hole in the rock", etc., and many still believe that it was on this shore that Dollard made his heroic stand against the Iroquois.

PETITION TO RESCIND NEW MILK BY-LAW

300 Citizens Register A Protest on Enforcement Of Pasteurization

Notice of Motion on Zoning By-Law for Residential Areas

The contentious subject of milk pasteurization in this town was revived at the council meeting held last evening.

Present in the council chamber were — Mayor H. Lamarche, Aldermen F. S. McGibbon, E. Prevost, A. Scott, L. St. Jacques, R. Muir, W. Morrisette and S. Holt.

Following the reading of minutes for the previous meetings, the secretary read a petition from James Hay, bearing signatures of over 300 citizens who expressed the desire to have raw milk available for distribution, instead of pasteurized.

Alderman Prevost contended we were "living in a free country" and should be privileged to buy raw milk if so desired. Ald. R. Muir and Ald. F. McGibbon, however, claimed that certain dealers had now expended upwards of $7,000 installing the necessary machinery to comply with the town's by-law, and that the protest should have been made before the by-law was passed. The Mayor was equally strong in support of compliance with the recommendations of the health authorities.

Ald. F. McGibbon gave notice of motion to introduce a zoning by-law governing the Filion and Cottingham-Hay properties now being opened up.

Attention was drawn to the fact that the arrears of water taxes amounted to $6,753, which was too large an amount to be outstanding on the books, and following discussion it was decided that all delinquents in arrears must pay same within 15 days, after which the accounts would be handed in for collection.

A vote of thanks was extended to Claude St. Jacques, for having painted signs for the town truck to be used in connection with the salvage campaign.

The financial statement and auditor's report were adopted, on motion of Ald. F. McGibbon.

STORE AND HOTELS SUFFER AS SOLDIERS STAGE OWN BATTLE

Damage to furnishings and property of the Carriere Hotel at Brownsburg, and to the Lessard Hotel at Grenville, were inflicted by a group of soldiers from a neighboring Ontario camp last Saturday night, in disorders which grew beyond the control of local police to handle.

Prior to their visit to the Carriere Hotel, it is understood the men visited a Brownsburg store and cleaned out a quantity of fruit and edibles from the shelves. At the hotel, police were summoned to avert the threatened disturbance. Constable Ampleman endeavored to handle the situation in a genial and tactful manner, but a fight ensued in which citizens and special constables took up the cudgels to prevent further damage to property and possessions.

The party moved on to Grenville, where a similar outbreak of hostilities is reported to have occurred at Lessard's Hotel, and much glassware and furniture suffered in the fray.

ACHIEVEMENT IN 1918 DRIVE STIRS OPTIMISM FOR SUCCESS

$550,000 Designated "Special Names" And $440,000 Cash or Instalment Purchases, Excluding Conversions

Rivalry Between Argenteuil And Huntingdon Counties

A total objective of $990,000 has been set for Argenteuil County in the Victory Loan 1941 campaign. Of this amount — according to the district organizer, Mr. Bruce Taylor — $550,000 is designated to "special names" and the remaining $440,000 to actual cash or instalment purchases. The aim is to raise this full total in new investments, exclusive of conversion of Dominion of Canada 5 per cent bonds to mature Nov. 15, 1941; these are not included in the stated objective.

ARGENTEUIL vs HUNTINGDON

A spirit of friendly rivalry between Argenteuil and Huntingdon counties comes into evidence through the editorial page of the Huntingdon Gleaner. The Gleaner refers to the rivalry which continued through the Victory Loan campaign of the last Great War; in this drive Argenteuil went over the top in a fine show of patriotism.

In the current Victory Loan 1941 campaign, Huntingdon's objective, exclusive of "special names" and conversion of maturing Dominion 5 per cent bonds due Nov. 15, 1941, is $362,700. The objective for Argenteuil on the same basis is $440,000. The race is to see which county will attain its objective first and which will pile up the greater percentage above the figure set . . . Which will win? The answer rests with the citizens of Argenteuil.

BONDS CAN BE BOUGHT ON TIME BASIS

The Victory Loan 1941 — with the local campaign organized under joint chairmanship of Messrs. W. M. Scott and C. Tremblay — is offered to the public in bonds of two maturities — 10 years yielding 3.09 per cent, and 5½ years yielding 2.19 per cent. The bonds will bear interest from June 15.

Ten-year bonds maturing June 15, 1951, and carrying a three per cent coupon, will be issued at 100. As they will be payable at 101 at maturity and will be callable during 1950 and after, the yield will be about 3.09 per cent.

The 5½-year bonds, maturing December 15, 1946, and bearing a two per cent coupon, will be sold at 99 to yield 2.19 per cent. They will be redeemed at maturity at 100 and will not be callable before maturity.

Cash subscriptions may be paid in full at time of application without accrued interest, or may be purchased by instalments — 10 per cent on application, 15 per cent July 15 and August 15, 20 per cent September 15 and October 15, and 20.71 per cent on three per cent bonds or 19.52 per cent on the two per cent bonds on November 15— the last payments including accrued interest.

Holders of Dominion of Canada 5 per cent bonds maturing Nov. 15th next, may use these bonds in payment for the new issues, receiving a credit of $102.15 for each $100. bond exchanged.

CANVASSERS SELECTED FOR ARGENTEUIL

Following are the names of the officially appointed canvassers for this territory, in connection with the current Victory Loan campaign:

Pioneer Resident Told Origin of Name 'Vide Sac'

Mr. Philias Desjardins, Retired Farmer, Dies in 83rd Year

Well Known Throughout French-Canadian Community

A link with the development of what is now a flourishing agricultural community east of this town, was severed this week with the passing of Philias Desjardins, whose death occurred Monday afternoon. Mr. Desjardins died at the age of 82 at his home on Bedard Blvd., where he had lived for the past six or seven years. He is survived by his widow; one son, on the family homestead at Vide Sac; and four daughters, who also live in this district. He is mourned also by his sister, Mrs. A. Legendre, at Verner, Ont . . . Born in the community of Vide Sac, he had spent his entire life hereabouts, and was widely known in the community.

The funeral, held this morning from Ste. Anastasie Parish Church, was largely attended. Burial was made in the west end cemetery.

Mr. Desjardins, in his recollections of the early settlement, spoke frequently of the Vide Sac community as he first knew it — when the Desjardins homestead was the only habitation in a dense area of bushland. He often told how their French-Canadian neighbors, from Ste. Scholastique and St. Hermas, came to cut wood in that area. They shared the warmth and hospitality of the Desjardins home on cold winter days. Many of them brought their lunches in bags, and according to Mr. Desjardins, it was the presence of so many empty bags after these occurrences which gave the settlement its name, "Vide Sac."

6,000 Christian Scientists At Annual Meeting In Boston, Mass.

SERVICES IN EUROPEAN COUNTRIES CONTINUE, REPORT SHOWS

Boston, Mass., June 2 — Some 6,000 Christian Scientists from many parts of the world gathered in annual meeting today in Boston were called upon by The Christian Science Board of Directors to consecrate themselves to the defense of the democratic system of government as the best human instrument for preserving the basic rights of mankind to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

In thus definitely allying this world-wide religious movement with the defenders of democracy everywhere, the Directors stated that it was their conviction that if social and political freedom is to be preserved "democratic forms of government must be maintained."

Church Services Uninterrupted

Despite the troublous times in Europe reports presented to the meeting conveyed the interesting fact that church services are being conducted generally without interruption in the countries abroad. Some of the periodicals of The Christian Science Publishing Society were said to be received regularly in all the countries of Europe, including the German-occupied territories and the British Isles. It was reported by the Trustees of the Publishing Society that a Spanish translation of the Quarterly will be added beginning with the October issue.

Evidences of Spiritual Growth

The Department of Branches and Practitioners indicated in its report that the urge for spiritual refreshment and regeneration goes on despite the world conflict, and in some places the spiritual urge springs from the current need for dependence upon something more substantial than material instruments.

Evidence of this spiritual growth was found in the establishment of 37 new branches of The Mother Church, seven of them in England, one in Switzerland, one in Africa and one each in British Guiana and the West Indies. Twenty Societies were reported to have taken the title of Church and five new university organizations were formed and qualified for official approval.

War Relief Work

Reporting on the war relief work, Mr. Palmer said that the War Relief Committee in Boston began its work on September 19, 1940. Today over one thousand committees serving as a recognized activity of the branch churches are shipping war relief material to Boston or to one of other three depots now functioning in New York, Portland, Oregon, and Los Angeles.

Natl. Unemployment Insurance to Become Effective July First

PLAN OF CO-OPERATION BETWEEN GOVT., EMPLOYER AND EMPLOYEE

Ottawa — Unemployment Insurance becomes an actuality in Canada from July first. For the workers who are subject to periods of unemployment through no fault of their own it will mean the difference between being on relief or charity and the self-respect of having provided for their own welfare through a plan of insurance savings.

The plan is one of co-operation between the employer, the employee and the Government. Each makes a contribution based on the weekly wages earned by the employee. To the amount contributed by the employer and the amount deducted from the employee's wages, the Government adds one-fifth of the total, and pays for the cost of operation. These contributions are similar to insurance premiums, and accumulate against the day when the worker, either male or female, becomes unemployed. Then, in a very short time the worker begins to receive weekly cheques which will continue for a limited period of unemployment.

This, briefly, is the Unemployment Insurance Plan which becomes a law of Canada, just as it has been a law in Great Britain for more than thirty years. With the experience of the British Act as well as the examples of other Countries to draw upon, the Unemployment Insurance Commission has created a plan which should operate with the least inconvenience to the employer and to the greatest possible benefit to the workers.

A unique and simple system of making contributions to the Fund through the Employer purchasing special stamps from the Post Office and affixing them each week in a book designed for the purpose, is the record of each worker's contributions, as well as the employer's. In this way every worker can find out exactly at any time where he or she stands in respect to Unemployment Insurance.

There are some classes of workers who are not eligible for Unemployment Insurance, and there are certain conditions which affect all workers. Both employers and employees should familiarize themselves with the terms of the plan which will be made available by the Postmaster in the locality you live.

A part of the plan is the opening of Employment Offices throughout Canada where workers may seek jobs and employers can seek workers. These offices will be opened as rapidly as possible to facilitate the most effective utilization of Canada's labor force during the war and in preparation for the return of workers to peacetime employment after war work has ceased.

Housing Survey in Typical Canadian City

The opportunity for housing development existing in Canada is illustrated by figures released for the City of Verdun, Quebec. Verdun was selected for special study because it is a city of 60,000 residents with its own parks, community stores, theatres, playgrounds, waterfront development, community hall and other services that go to make a complete modern community.

In Verdun, it is pointed out, 85 per cent of the people are tenants living in flats or duplexes. Rents vary from $18. to $40. a month and average $30. a month. The average rent, therefore, is much higher than monthly payments which under the National Housing Act, would provide greatly superior living accommodation and home ownership. Even those residents paying $18. a month could secure modern housing at a monthly saving and eventually own their own homes.

Under the N. H. A. homes costing $2,500 may be completely financed, including repayment of principal, interest and taxes, for as little as $16.50 a month. Built by modern construction methods, making use of factory fabricated asphalt sidings and asphalt shingle roofs, these homes are entirely practical and are inexpensive to heat. They also need no painting and upkeep cost is extremely low. Stepping into the higher price brackets, people in Verdun paying the average of $30. a month rent could build double-insulated, modern homes costing between $3,500 and $4,000 and save money as well.

CHEESE FOR BRITAIN FROM GOOD PASTURES

By G. R. Snyder

More milk per cow is the most urgent need in farm production this year, and farmers should make a special effort to obtain the best possible growth on the pasture. Recent reports from Britain indicate that cream has become a mere memory, butter a faint survival and cheese a rare luxury. This is a situation demanding a quick remedy. Agricultural experts calculate that this year each cow in Canada will have to produce 2½ pounds more milk per day, in order to furnish the cheese and other milk products required to fill contracts made with Britain and maintain domestic supplies of butter. This would not be an easy task, even if every cow was given a 100% chance of doing her best, so it behooves the more progressive farmers to get considerably more than a 2½ pounds per day increase.

The most effective and economical approach to high milk production is through the best possible utilization of pastures. Pasture has been our most neglected crop, and a quick and very great improvement can be obtained very easily. For several years now individual farmers and officials of agricultural experimental stations have studied practical methods of pasture improvement and demonstrated that greatly increased yields of more palatable and nutritious grass are obtained where pastures are adequately fertilized and properly managed. Indicative of the benefits obtained last year are the following comments in replies to a questionnaire regarding the aid farmers received from soil testing. B.C. farmer: "Regarding my pasture, the soil test showed me what was wrong. I corrected the weakness and now have a wonderful pasture." P. E. I. farmer: "By following the suggestions contained in the soil test report, I was able to improve my pasture so that it carried more stock per acre, and the stock grazed the improved part bare before touching the other part of the field." Quebec and Ontario farmers report similar experiences, and the results of three carefully controlled experiments conducted on dairy farms of average type provide definite data to show there is real reason for their satisfaction.

Yield records obtained by clipping at frequent intervals representative areas of fertilized and unfertilized portions, protected by movable woven wire cages, show that for permanent pastures 500 lbs. of 2-16-6 fertilized per acre increased the yield from 2,269 lbs. of feed on the unfertilized areas to 3,344 lbs. per acre on the fertilized. On pasture in rotation (third year in sod) the increase was from 2,571 lbs. to 3,252 lbs. per acre (all weights on a dry matter basis). The thicker stand of herbage on the fertilized areas last fall indicates that an equal if not greater increase in yield will occur the second year after treatment.

It is noteworthy that improved pastures permit of earlier grazing in spring and later grazing in fall, with better grazing through the summer, due to the greatly increased proportion of clover in the herbage. Pasture composed chiefly of grasses require more nitrogen in the fertilizer than is provided by 2-16-6, and for these, especially on the lighter soils, low in organic matter, a 4-12-6 or 5-10-5 mixture is recommended.

Waste Paper Salvage Insulates Buildings

Montreal, June 1 — Yielding its contents nightly every waste paper basket in Canadian National Railways offices throughout the system has for years played its part in the company salvage campaign which produces a monthly average of 46 tons of material. In twelve months 552 tons of otherwise waste was baled and sold to provide the base for heavy building papers used as insulation.

Halifax to Get Modern Fire-Boat

Halifax — A completely-equipped fire-boat will be placed on duty at Halifax harbor, Ottawa informed port authorities here recently, with the expense entailed to be largely borne by the Federal Government. Provision was also made for a crew of 11 men to maintain it.

The boat, built in 1929, will be a 1,000 horse-power tug, 100 ft. long, capable of pumping 4,750 gallons of water per minute.

Wool from dogs was used by many people in Scotland during the first Great War.

EDITORIAL

Looking Back on Half A Century

Congratulations this week to our contemporary, The Granby Leader-Mail, which has just celebrated its 50th anniversary with a special 24-page edition. This number is a distinct credit to the editor, Mr. Walter R. Legge, and his staff.

An article reviewing the history of Granby's newspapers may be taken as a typical record of the evolution of Canadian weeklies. There is a striking analogy, for instance, in the description of Granby's early editions with those of The Watchman, whose dusty files we frequently refer to. How remarkably the rural newspaper has changed, and developed, becomes evident only to those who have reason to delve into these publications of half a century past . . . One extract from the retrospect of Granby's newspapers will serve to illustrate:

> "Patent medicine advertisements appear to have been the chief source of revenue and six columns of the seven on the back page are devoted to Inhaling Vapour, Gargling Oil (several brands of which are offered), Soothing Syrup, Catharic Bitters, Hungarian Balm, Mesmeric Nerve Restorer, Mexican Mustang Liniment, Pulmonic Cherry Cordial, Hair Dye, Consumption Cures, Bronchitis Elixir, and many other such compounds, which today would not be allowed to advertise such fantastic claims as set forth then."

We would give much to be looking back, 50 years hence, on the weekly journalism of today. The change would be even more startling than at present . . . While we, or our fellow editor, do not seriously think of surviving that long, we trust at that distant date the Granby Leader will still be flourishing as a constructive instrument in its community.

The Press — A Record Of Local History

Few people, as they read their weekly newspapers, realize that they are reading perhaps the only contemporary history of their community it is possible to read. It is doubtful too if they realize that as each issue gets old, the more valuable it becomes, and that the old fyles of a newspaper are, from a historical standpoint of incalculable worth.

The newspaper fyles are the most authentic history of the community available. They tell the story of the community's life as it happens. Past history is important to those who live in the present. Those of us who live in modern surroundings are sometimes apt to forget the sacrifices of those who made the community what it is today. It is not so very long ago when the territory served by weekly newspapers was virgin forest or prairie, untouched by the hand of the white man. It was a territory upon which the plowpoint had never turned a furrow, a wild and beautiful country in its natural state. In the meantime men have worked, and schemed and planned and today we have every modern convenience, churches, schools, libraries, theatres, electric lights, sewers, sidewalks, paved streets and a hundred and one other conveniences our forefathers never dreamed of. These things did not come about by chance or by natural evolution. They came about because men toiled ceaselessly to leave behind them a better world than that into which they came. Their devotion, their struggles, their ideals, their initiative and determination should be an inspiration to succeeding generations. And the record of their achievements appears in the fyles of the local newspapers, and that is why they are such valuable records of the triumphs of the pioneers.

Few people who contribute to the news columns of the newspaper are aware that they are contemporary historians. They are chronicling the events of community life for posterity, and generations hence will read the story they have told, and from the struggles of this day they will gain inspiration for the struggles of their day. The newspaper preserves the story of our ideals, our problems and our lives, and those who contribute to the news columns of their local newspaper are therefore doing a valuable service for "those who follow in their wake."

For this reason it is essential that contributors write so that the reader twenty-five of fifty years hence may understand the import of the story. For instance some writers are apt to consider a story as of interest only to their particular organization, rather than to the community as a whole. Occasionally one reads an item about a young people's meeting in which John does this, and Mary does that. To the average reader this doesn't convey anything even at the time, and it would convey still less a quarter of a century after it is written. If the same organization wanted to check back for historical purposes many years after, John and Mary would not convey to them who were the active members of their group in by-gone days.

The newspaper is truly the archives of the community, and as such is of increasing value to the community as its fyles grow older. The readers are therefore personally a part of the newspaper, because their contributions to its columns are helping to record the history of the age in which they live.

Amateur generals are common these days but James H. R. Cromwell, former American minister to Canada, offers a lucid and very complete nutshell of war advice. "First", says Mr. Cromwell. "We must figure the objectives for Democracy to offer Germany. Then we must start bombing the devil out of Germany. The German people will then ask why they should keep Hitler when he can't win the war and can only make life miserable for them at home."

Traffic Casualty List

Thirteen hundred healthy, happy Canadians will die in traffic accidents in Canada within the next twelve months. Traffic mishaps take a toll in Canada equal to the wiping out of an entire town every year, figures reveal.

Drivers between 30 and 49 years years of age have the most accidents, but those between 22 and 29 have the most serious ones and account for the greatest loss of life. If the driver is at fault, his most likely mistake is that he is driving too fast for conditions, though not necessarily exceeding the speed limit.

Of every ten people who die in traffic accidents during the next year, eight will be pedestrians. Of those, a large number will be those who step from behind a parked vehicle.

Of all traffic deaths, 30 per cent are of people over 69 years of age, and the average age is as high as 49. From these figures a real lesson may be learned, say the police. "Tell the old folks to take more care," said one official. "An older person does not react as quickly as a young one, and cannot move as quickly when he notices danger. Not only that, these old people don't realize how far a car travels in a second or two."

Hammering the Hun

Of late months British bombers have been striking back at Germany in retaliation for Nazi air raids on England and these tactics have brought general satisfaction to the Britishers, who are quite willing to bear the hazards and hardships of modern warfare as long as they are sure enemy civilians are experiencing a like fate. S. Miles Bouton, Jamestown, N. Y., newspaperman who was Associated Press Correspondent in Berlin 23 years ago, has come forward with the statement that Germany would have capitulated already had Great Britain bombed Nazi cities as severely as English centers have suffered. "They can't take it," Mr. Bouton is quoted as saying. No doubt whatever exists as to the feelings of British people in regard to bombing of enemy cities but matters of this sort might far better be left to the discretion of the British war department. Which brings to mind a recent story of Winston Churchill. The Premier, it is said, was berated by a colleague for not ordering quick bombing of German cities. "Yes, yes," Mr. Churchill is alleged to have replied. "But business before pleasure !"

In Australia Too

In this column last week reference was made to the fifth columnists responsible for spreading false rumors of death and injury to Canadians on active service. Canada isn't the only country suffering from these perverted humorists and in Australia, it is revealed, there have been many cases where the telephone has been used "in a diabolical way" to convey to relatives false information concerning doctors and nurses serving overseas with Australian forces. The mother of one nurse was told her daughter had been blown to pieces when the ship on which she was travelling was struck by a torpedo. Army Minister Spender, of Australia, has declared that no mercy will be shown the perpetrators of these ghastly jokes if and when they are caught. And Canadians will agree that similar action should be promised in the Dominion.

Eagles of Freedom

Robert Hutchinson, chairman of the American Eagle Club, has estimated that 10,000 Americans are fighting in the British and Allied forces. Most of these United States citizens enlisted in Canadian forces, but others are in the Free French and Free Rumanian units. There can be no doubt as to the sympathy and active support of our cousins from below the line. Action and adventure have prompted many citizens of the United States to enlist in Canadian and Allied forces but underneath these superficial reasons rests a true desire to fight for the ideals of freedom and democracy. The courage, fire and faith of these American Eagles should be a shaming lesson to their countryman, Charles Lindbergh, who was once familiarly and affectionately known as the "Lone Eagle."

HOW DO WE MEET THE NEWS?

— By Amy Winning —

How do you meet the news? Does it make you jittery? A lot of us feel that way in Canada at present. More so than they feel it in Britain.

Somehow, over there they have found themselves. It's the atmosphere of victory. And they are victorious in the truest sense. They have victory over themselves, their fears, their personal losses. They have a job to do, and it's going to be done ! That swallows up any spare moment that might have been used by the Fifth Column for the spreading of doubt, division and fear.

And that brings up our question again. How do you meet the news? Does it beat you, or do you beat it? Our reception of it is a battleground in itself. Are we assuring victory there? We can !

When you discuss the news with a friend, what is the result, measured in morale? Has the fighting spirit in you gone up a few degrees, or is your morale temperature subnormal? And how have you left your friend? In the depths, or with a new determination to do something practical about the situation?

For we must consider the amazing difference between this war and the last, in the amount of news we get and the speed with which we get it. Battles were generally won or lost in 1914-1918, before we heard of them. We knew much less of the details. Today radio gives us vivid, up-to-the-minutes accounts by eye-witnesses. We can almost hear the air-raids, live through the suspense of an evacuation like Dunkirk or a rearguard action like Thermopylae. We picture the deadly panzer divisions driving a wedge in our Allied defence line, or a Sharnhorst or Admiral Scheer pouring death and destruction on a convoy in mid-Atlantic.

The King's phrase, "This time we are all in the front line," applies not only to our efforts for victory, but also to our minds and our imaginations. There are disadvantages and dangers, along with the advantages of our highly developed news service. It has opened up a new field of warfare, the battle of nerves. An enemy who leaves no stone unturned has been quick to use it. How are we going to meet it?

First, we need to learn a little about ourselves, and our reactions to what is happening. We hear of reverses and we have some pretty bad moments. We are not made of the tempered steel of those under fire. We have known soft ways, had plenty to eat, heard no battle-sounds for generations. We have sought our own gain and our own comforts.

It's ghastly uncomfortable to watch those things being swept away, from country after country, each bringing it nearer, especially since we had placed so much importance on them. A good deal of our dismay comes from the thoroughly selfish fear of seeing our easy way of life carried beyond our reach by the swiftly moving tide of events. There seems no way of stemming the flood, and our sense of futility depresses us. We are so far away. What can we do?

There are men, women and youth in the countries which have lost all we dread to lose, who today are absolutely undefeated. They have seen freedom and security wiped out. Yet their spirit has held firm. In the words of a Finnish woman, after her country had been torn in two by an alien power, "I do not know where our path goes now. I believe it is right to live and work with the nation where it stands, learn and serve with the gifts God has given each of us . . . Never before have we been more conscious of these gifts than now, and are trying to use them to the utmost. Never before have we understood better that each day is a pure gift, nothing we ever deserve."

That is the spirit in the battle-torn countries. How can we have that atmosphere of victory in our hearts and so give it to our nation? We have to hold a vital defence line here. Canada needs a Morale Defence Corps — its purpose the formation of a united, panic-proof population with victory ingrained in its soul. Each of us will be needed, first as a recruit, then as a recruiting officer. It will take training and discipline to be a recruit. What will it involve for each of us?

Morale being undoubtedly a quality of the spirit, we, of necessity, shall have to seek it from God if we want it in any measure of fulness.

JIG-SAW PUZZLES OF THE GERMAN SPY

CARELESS WORDS THAT COMPLETE A PICTURE

By Bernard Newman, Famous lecturer and authority on international affairs.

An officer of the French counter-spy service once remarked to me: "Our greatest problem is not the German spy, but people who do not mean any harm."

He was right. I could quote dozens of confirmatory examples from my own experience. Some of the men reading these lines will remember the Battle of the Somme in 1916. The first idea was a surprise attack — by far the best form. Information continuously leaked over to the Germans, however. I was one of the plumbers deputed to trace the leak.

I went to Amiens, the great railway centre. My disguise was very simple; no whiskers or grease paint. I was a British private soldier and I pretended to be half tight — a very easy disguise. For three weeks I hung about public houses frequented by French railwaymen.

It was all rather boring. Then one evening I met a Frenchman who turned out to be a signalman. Rubbing his hands, he announced to his friends at the bar: "Ah, my lads, the old Boche is going to get it in the neck now. Another eleven train loads of ammunition up today — two train loads of guns. Old Jerry is going to taste his own medicine."

That might be a flash in the pan, so I went back the next night, and the next. When I arrested that man, he nearly went through the roof. "What?" he cried. "Me helping the enemy! My dear sir, you never made a bigger mistake in your life — it's exactly the other way round. My friends at the bar were rather down in the mouth because of the knocks we've been taking at Verdun. I set myself to cheer them up — and I've done it. Helping the enemy indeed! I've been performing a valuable national service!"

He was quite sincere. I never saw a man so taken back as that signalman, when, during his trial, I was able to prove that among his friends at the bar was a German agent, gratefully lapping up all the information he handed out. I never heard a man sob like it in my life — never want to hear a man sob like it again. But all the sobbing in the world could not save him and, far more important, all the sobbing in the world could not save the lives of thousands of British soldiers; lives which might have been saved if the Somme had been a surprise attack.

Instead, as some of my readers can confirm, the Germans knew everything we did, because men like that French signalman could not keep their mouths shut.

It is important to realize that everybody knows something which Hitler would like to know. The information may be gained at work, or by relatives, in factories or in the forces. It may only be fragmentary, but it is none the less important.

Many people help the German Secret Service merely because they do not know how it works. Perhaps they have been misled by the films; they are looking for a man with the face of a Conrad Veidt and a bevy of glamorous blondes.

German agents depend very largely upon their unpaid and unwitting helpers. Their methods are not dramatic, nor do they need to be. Each day may provide them with fragments for their jig-saw puzzles.

The ramifications of those puzzles extend far and wide. And that is the lesson for Canada.

Canadian Pacific Builds First Canadian Tank

It was a proud day for the Canadian Pacific Railway's Angus Shops at Montreal when D. C. Coleman, vice-president, announced to a gathering of Government officials, company officers, workers and newspaper men that he had great pleasure in delivering the first Canadian-built tank to the Canadian Army. "The machine," he said, "is the child of sweat and tears. It will be followed by hundreds and thousands of others to help the Empire to its victory."

The tank was gratefully accepted by the Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Munitions and Supply, who praised Mr. Coleman, H. B. Bowen, chief of motive power and rolling stock, and other Canadian Pacific men for the effort they had put into building this splendid war machine. He, in turn, gave the tank and all others to come off the Angus assembly line to the Hon. J. L. Ralston, Minister of National Defence, who thanked the Canadian Pacific workers for the fine job they had accomplished. "You men have put your whole heart into this job," he said. He also mentioned that 300 of the thousands of tanks being made at the Angus Shops were being produced for the British Purchasing Commission.

The pictures above show Mr. Coleman officially delivering the first tank to the Department of Munitions and Supply and, inset, Corp. Colin Stirton, of the Royal Tank Regiment, a veteran of Dunkirk, complimenting an Angus worker on the construction of the tank.

Organizations and Individuals Work For Spitfire Fund

Mr. Donald MacRae, of MacRae Motor Sales, who is furnishing a Plymouth car at cost—the car being valued at $1,325—and is sponsoring sale of tickets for a drawing on behalf of the Spitfire Fund, reports that the effort is meeting with a fine response. The proceeds will be turned over to the Fund, less the actual cost, so that the winner will receive the car solely at the price of his ticket.

With commendable patriotic spirit, the directors of the Agricultural Society have decided, also, to turn over to the Spitfire Fund all surplus profits after paying the actual running expenses of the Lachute Fair — a plan to which the general public will give their hearty approval.

Lachute Boy Scouts also have been busily collecting scrap iron, and Scoutmaster Chas. Duncan reports returns of around $240. at this date.

Spitfire contributions received this week are as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Duncan	$1,500

Spaghetti !

Spaghetti, even in a British prison camp somewhere in the Middle East, tastes good to this Italian sailor, who was among those saved from the sea by the British off Cape Matapan in the Ionian Sea after the pride of the Italian fleet was sunk in one of the epic sea battles of this war. Hundreds were left to drown when German planes attacked the British in their rescue work.

Christian Minister Looks at War

U. S. Cleric Supports All Aid to Britain

The following opinion is gleaned from a letter written by a Congregational minister in the United States, to a member of the clergy in this county . . .

"I am free to admit that there are many things in this world of ours that make me fear and question. I know my own mind is torn by alternating hopes and fears. I believe that we are in a world wide conflict, not merely physical, but also spiritual. Two great spiritual forces are opposed to each other, the force of freedom and the force of law. There are those who have put their faith in the free way of life, the way in which every individual shall be free to follow his own instincts and ideals, realizing the abundant life in himself. Sometimes we call this the American Way of Life, and the signboards all are covered with one word, Freedom, and its opposite, slavery and death.

Then there are an increasing number who have come to feel that Order is Heaven's first law; that to Obey is the first commandment of life; that discipline and absolute loyalty to the totalitarian society is the only hope of salvation for the human race.

Can't you see that conflict raging on all levels of human life? Politically we have the conflict between the so called Democracies, (free nations would be a better phrase) and the totalitarian powers. Economically you see it in the struggle between rugged individualism and a planned economy.

Morally you catch signs of the conflict in the struggle between loyalty to the higher self and devotion to the common good. Religiously, we note the same thing in the struggle between those who preach the salvation of the individual soul (either by the atoning blood of Jesus or the cultivation of character) and those who feel that absolute devotion to the common vision of a redeemed society is Religion's only goal.

The human pendulum seems to swing back and forth between these two opposite poles of thought and life.

The tragic fact remains that humanity must not only try to find some spiritual synthesis for these two opposing theses, but that it is called upon to make practical decisions in every life and conduct. Let me illustrate what I mean by my own position in this world war. I realize full well that victory alone will not close the books. Just winning the war is not enough. The great human problems will never be solved by the issues of armed conflict. What we must have is a truer understanding of freedom, a greater realization of justice, and above all, a deeper insight into fraternity and brotherhood. Now all these are just ideals. Like Plato's ideas they are mere ghosts that haunt us until they are incarnated in human conduct and life. But that task is not easy. It is probably one of the hardest tasks laid upon humanity, and I suspect that one reason for the continued power of the great prophet of Nazareth lay in His ability to do just this.

It was indeed a great task, but today that task has become much harder. Building a world order is not quite so easy as building a little group or community, although even the Brook Farm enterprises present their own difficulties. Here the chief trouble lies in the right application of the two possible, practical methods humanity has used in the past. There is the negative attitude of criticism, attack, and destruction, and the positive attitude of affirmation, support, and creation.

The Pacifist insists that the latter is the only right attitude. We overcome evil by ignoring it, and bringing in the good. Darkness goes with the coming of the light. We must love Hitler and Mussolini and Stalin, we must resign ourselves to their rule and ride the wave of the future, knowing it will take us to islands of the blessed Gods. If only we can say it, the word "Peace" will still the tempest. If only we believe, we shall be saved. How beautiful, yet how tragic and futile. I recall several prophetic outbursts: "Woe unto them that say Peace, Peace, when there is no Peace." "Woe unto them that call good, evil, and evil, good." "I the Lord hate evil." You Recall Carlyle's Essay on "The Everlasting No." My own experience in my garden has made me realize the need of much preliminary spadework, which is largely destructive in character. Weeds and insects must be eliminated. Obstructions must be torn down before the light can do its work. Surgery, however painful and destructive of certain tissues of the body, is sometimes the only way to save the body and make possible a restoration of organic health.

Now here again I believe both methods must be used. There is the method of Force, and there are times when it must be used. Yes, some say force, but not force that will kill; force that restrains does not kill. Help England short of war. Oppose Hitler, but don't get into war. To me that is quite absurd and stupid. Of course the primary use of force is to restrain, to preserve order, to hold back the gangster, the man who would set up his own selfish will against the common will. The first duty of the policeman and the soldier is to restrain by force. But I wonder what would happen if our policemen and soldiers were to be held responsible for the life of the gangster and indicted for his slaying. In the line of their duty they must subdue, and in that case they may often have to kill. One of our ministers once said that war was evil. It was this fact, and not the motives, which made war a crime. I suppose that is a relic of the ancient belief that life was the greatest thing, and death the greatest evil. Our civilization has grown more tender, and unnecessary violence is discouraged. In civilized communities we no longer torture people to manifest our power. That is all to the good. But when we forget the primary reason for force, then I think we make a great mistake. So it seems to me, the first task in this war is to restrain the gangster nations. So I am out for an All Aid to England, because in this way I believe that we can most quickly restrain Hitler and save much killing in the end . . ."

"The Government Has $25,000 Investment in Me", Says Pilot Officer

G. W. Spinney Executive Chairman of the Victory Loan Organization, is a top executive of one of Canada's great banks. As such, he might have been expected to discuss the big loan from the angle of an investment, in terms of security and interest.

But when addressing a large gathering of Victory Loan workers in Toronto the other evening he said this:

"I met a young man a few nights ago in the Chateau Laurier at Ottawa. He was just about to go overseas as a pilot officer, and was referring quite frankly to the fact that the life of a combat pilot in actual warfare is numbered only in hours. I asked him how he felt about it. His answer shows the spirit of the youth of this country. He wasn't considering his own life at all; he was considering only what he must do for Canada. He said: "The Government now has a $25,000. investment in me, and I certainly must get a couple of Jerries for that before they get me !'

"Can Canadians withhold money in the face of a spirit like that? I leave the answer to you."

Mr. Spinney set a splendid example in this manner of approaching the public to enlist wholehearted support for the Loan.

If citizens at home are as unselfish as the young man to whom Mr. Spinney spoke, the Loan will be well oversubscribed.

The UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE PLAN

To the Employer . . .

Contributions to the Unemployment Insurance Fund become payable as from July 1st, 1941.

Contributions are made by the employer and the employee, and are paid by the purchase of Unemployment Insurance stamps by the employer from the Post Offices.

The employee's contributions are deducted from his wages by the employer.

Stamps will be affixed to a special book, called the Insurance Book, by the employer. The book is the employee's record of contributions, and when he becomes unemployed it forms the record from which insurance benefits may be paid. Full details will be sent to you when you have returned the postcard attached to a form which is now in the mails.

The plan of procedure has been adopted after consultation with employer and employee associations and is one which has been based upon thirty years' experience in Great Britain.

The Dominion Government adds 20% to the combined employee-employer contributions, and in addition, pays the administration costs which include the operation of a National Employment Service for the convenience of employers and employees.

Contributions are payable by all persons while in employment and by their employers, with the exceptions listed in the panel below.

The first duty of every employer will be to REGISTER WITH THE COMMISSION by completing the postcard attached to a form which is now in the mails, and obtaining and issuing insurance books for all his employees. If there is doubt as to whether your employees, or any of them, are insurable, ask for instructions when you return the postal card. If you do not receive a form through the mail go to the nearest Post Office and ask for one. All employers must complete registration prior to June 14th, 1941.

The Commission feels that it can be assured of the full cooperation of all employers. Nevertheless, attention is drawn to the fact that registration is compulsory and any failure to register is an infraction of the law and is subject to penalties.

OVERWORKED KIDNEYS GIVE NO WARNING SIGNAL

One of the "unfortunate" conditions in serious kidney disease is that there is no pain when the kidneys are overworked. We say unfortunate because pain is nature's warning signal and while we try to eliminate pain in disease, we realize that pain says "you better do something about it." For example, a person who has arthritis or inflammation of the joints cannot move about much because of the pain in the joints, and so he must rest. A person with severe heart disease suffers from shortness of breath when he exerts himself, and such individuals are also forced to rest.

But a person with kidney disease has no symptoms to indicate that the diseased kidneys are being overworked. Yet, the kidneys are among the hardest work organs in the body. They must continue to carry out their work constantly.

In 24 hours, according to Dr. Thomas Addis of the Stanford University School of Medicine, the kidneys must move a quantity of fluid equal to three times the weight of the body. They must get rid of certain substances, such as urea. All of this requires a great amount of physical and chemical work.

When the kidney is damaged by inflammation, it must be given as much rest as possible. Although the kidney has a great deal of reserve power and can meet increased demands made upon it, there is a limit beyond which it cannot go and, of course, the reserve power of a diseased kidney, is reduced.

Giving the kidney a rest requires the use of the proper diet. Dr. Addis believes that the former practice of limiting foods containing protein was a dangerous one and a bad one, since such diets are often deficient in vitamins, minerals and other important food substances. The diet need not be lacking in any of the necessary food parts if it is properly planned.

The patient's body weight should be maintained by the food he eats. If he begins to lose weight, it indicates he is not getting enough food. Milk and eggs, cereals, vegetables and fruit should be included in the diet. The proper quantity of meat is given by most physicians. There are various vitamin and mineral supplements in the form of capsules and tablets which can be used as the doctor advises. The salt in the diet will be limited by the physician.

In carrying out the program of treatment, it is a good idea to study the usual daily diet which is used as a basis for planning the future program. A list of the protein, calories and ordinary salt found in the foods the individual habitually eats may be made up. Then it is possible for him to follow a few simple instructions in planning the diet so that an excess of any food part is avoided and enough of all the necessary ones is obtained.

A careful check on the condition of the kidneys is possible by using certain tests of the urine to determine the amount of certain waste products eliminated each day. It is a good idea to measure from time to time the amount of fluid taken in a 24-hour period and the amount excreted.

Damage to the kidneys may be an important factor in shortening lives. But, with the proper treatment of the persons with kidney disease much can be done to keep the kidneys functioning a great many years.

Personal Problems

By Anne Thomson

"Dear Miss Thomson: I feel like the interfering grandmother of song and story when I write to you about my grandchild, but really, I do think his mother is spoiling him beyond anything that can ever be corrected. His mother, my daughter-in-law, is a very clever girl, and took all sorts of honors at school. She also took a course in child psychology. While I believe that a person should learn as much as possible about children, I still think that they should discriminate, and not apply what they have learned in one lump. Some things may apply to some children, but everything they teach in one of those courses certainly shouldn't apply to all children. For instance, every time the child throws a tantrum, its mother thinks it has been badly conditioned to something, and tries to change the environment, rather than the child. When the boy won't do something, she "explains" why he should rather than expecting him to obey her. Some day a car will be coming, the boy won't get off the road, and the mother won't have time to explain! He gets toys that "teach" and "instruct", when what he should have is a couple of old boards, a hammer and some bent nails. Suppose he does hammer his thumb? Do him good! Don't you agree that this child is being spoiled? — Worried Grandma."

Yes, I most certainly do! Mothers think so often that their children are mysterious and delicate plants, which must have everything done to them . . . have every attention . . . be "conditioned" and worked over by doctors and psychiatrists . . . until the child is a spoiled little brat. Children are just people. They will get away with whatever they can, they will get as much attention as possible, and they will cause as much commotion as they can, just to liven up a boring day. They thoroughly enjoy a tantrum, when Nurse and mother run around in circles, when the doctor comes, and when they are the centre of things for a good long time. A little "hairbrush" technique, some healthy neglect, and a good deal of discipline, are the only things which will make a man out of this young fellow.

"Dear Anne: I am engaged to be married to a young man, and am, of course, very fond of him. The only trouble is, that he takes out other girls. He says there is nothing wrong with it, that he enjoys female company, and that he will take them out until he is married. I don't like this, and I wish he would stop. What can I do? Another Anne."

If I were you, I would wash my hands of the young man. It is all very well to like female company, but at this point, yours should be enough for him! After all, he has had his whole life to enjoy the company of ladies, and since he apparently chose you, he must stick to you, or else. "Give him the air", at least for a month or so, and make him see that you mean it when you say, "No other girls".

"Dear Miss Thomson: I wish there was something I could do to improve my husband's disposition. He seems to have gotten into a habit of snapping and grumbling at everything. I am tired of being a buffer and a peacemaker. I have told him and asked him, but he is either too stubborn to change, or the habit is too strong. What shall I do? Wife and Mother."

In the first place, see if you can talk him into having a complete physical examination. Often some unsuspected trouble may be souring his disposition. In other words, maybe the man isn't well. Next, if he is physically fit, I would ignore him when he snaps. Just don't answer, don't be a buffer and peacemaker, and watch him come to.

"I can stay awake any length of time simply by forcing myself to it."

"Oh, I see; the triumph of mind over mattress!"

Here's Britain's High Commissioner

The Hon. Malcolm MacDonald, high commissioner for Great Britain to Canada, zipped through speeches, luncheons, receptions and more speeches on each of the two days of his first official visit to Toronto. No retinue accompanies the official envoy through his streamlined day. When he sets his curly locks in order between his interlocked official engagements he does it himself . . . and well, LEFT. No valet is at hand to groom the dynamic young statesman — and few valets could stand the pace. Rt. Hon. Malcolm MacDonald condenses his private life into five-minute snatches. CENTRE. No fuss is made by the high commissioner. Any photographer who wants a picture must grab what he can get, as the envoy runs cuff-links into his shirt for a night's discussion. RIGHT.

FOR EVERY CANADIAN who sails the deep, for every airman who flashes through the skies, and for every other man in the fighting forces, the prayers of the nation "rise like a fountain, night and day."

In times of crisis our people stand steadfast. In daily devotions they renew the flame of faith and arm with unseen powers their warriors in the field.

Oftentimes they discern the Unseen Hand. Witness the miracle of Dunkirk. Witness, too, in the darkest hours the emergence of great inspiring figures to steady the ranks of Democracy and fire its courage and confidence.

Church bells are ringing throughout Canada calling men and women to worship and sacrifice in defence of our freedom, the sanctity of our homes and the future of our children.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

MISSIONARY FROM JAPAN SPEAKER AT ARUNDEL MISSION RALLY

Arundel — The Rev. P. S. C. Powles, of Montreal, recently returned from his home in Takada, Japan, where he had worked for 25 years, was the speaker at a missionary rally held in Grace Church, Arundel, on Thursday, May 29th.

Illustrating his remarks with moving pictures, Mr. Powles told his large audience of daily life and missionary work in Japan. His descriptions of Japanese hospitality, farm methods and climate provoked great interest, and many questions were asked. He pointed out that there was much that could be learned by Canadians from the customs of the Japanese people, and he also remarked that a large percentage of the Japanese people were very friendly and kindly disposed towards Great Britain and the Empire. The Japanese Christians greatly regretted the necessity for withdrawal of the English speaking missionaries, but the Church in Japan was carrying on magnificently under Japanese leadership. It is the duty of Canadians, who are members of a professedly Christian nation, to act in a Christian manner to their neighbors, the Japanese.

By the kindness of the Principal, Mr. Powles also addressed the senior class of the Arundel Intermediate School. In the afternoon he spoke to the School in Weir, and also to a special meeting for the ladies of the Parish of Arundel.

During his visit Mr. Powles was the guest of the Rev. and Mrs. E. C. Royle at the parsonage.

UNITED MISSION BANDS GIVE SPRING CONCERT

The junior and intermediate Mission Bands, of the United Church held their spring concert last Saturday afternoon, when an excellent program of songs, duets, choruses and drills was given under the leadership of Mrs. McNeil and Mrs. S. S. Campbell. The Rev. W. B. Rosborough was chairman and spoke words of warm commendation to the leaders.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

"God the Only Cause and Creator" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday, June 8th.

The Golden Text is from Revelation 15: 3. "Great and marvellous are thy works, Lord God Almighty; just and true are thy ways, thou King of saints."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "The Lord bringeth the counsel of the heathen to nought, he maketh the devices of the people of none effect." (Psalm 33: 10).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Everything in God's universe expresses Him . . . He is divine Principle, Love, the universal cause, the only creator, and there is no other self-existence. He is all-inclusive, and is reflected by all that is real and eternal and by nothing else. He fills all space, and it is impossible to conceive of such omnipresence and individuality except as infinite Spirit or Mind. Hence all is Spirit and spiritual." (Page 331).

Gospel Speaker

Rev. W. S. Whitcombe

Rev. W. S. Whitcombe, M. A. and Professor of Theology, of Toronto, will be guest speaker at the Gospel services held in Dalesville Baptist Church from June 8th to 15th. A welcome is extended to all, to hear Mr. Whitcombe speak on many important and timely subjects, such as the following — "Our Certainty of Victory in this War," "How Can We be Certain of Salvation Here and Now?" and "Are all Religions equally good?"

Miss Helen Heyworth Married in Chicago

Chicago — Miss Helen Willet Heyworth, the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. John Rushton Heyworth, was married at 8.30 o'clock on May 17th in Unity Unitarian Church, to Julius Herbert Marling Jr., son of Mrs. J. H. Marling of Highland Park. Because her father performed the ceremony Miss Heyworth was given in marriage by a friend of the family, Col. William Nelson Pelouze. Following the ceremony the Heyworths entertained at a reception in their home 5921 N. Magnolia Ave.

The church was beautifully decorated with spring flowers in pastel colors, tulips being the theme of the decorations.

The bride was gowned in ivory satin, with a full length train and veil and carried a bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley The bridesmaids were gowned in pastel Dutch type taffeta frocks with hats to match and carried bouquets of tulips in contrasting colors.

Miss Eileen Rushton Heyworth who was her sister's maid of honor, wore lead blue and carried a bouquet of mixed colored tulips. Miss Jane Crawford of Highland Park, the bride's classmate at Lake Forest College, came from the University of Colorado to be her friend's bridesmaid. Miss Crawford wore pale green and carried a bouquet of rust colored tulips. Miss Josephine Majeres of Chicago looked lovely in orchid with a bouquet of yellow tulips and dainty little Miss Alice Garrett of Oak Park led the bridal procession. Her gown was of pale yellow and she carried a bouquet of orchid tulips.

Mr. William Hansen was best man and the ushers were Frank Marling III, Robert Weiland, Charles Baumle and Richard Haugan.

The couple will reside at 2707 South Park Drive, Highland Park, Chicago. The bridegroom is in the real estate business, a designer and builder. He is an alumnus of Northwestern University and Shattuck Military Academy.

CROWD ENJOYS OPENING DANCE OF GOLF CLUB

Successful Affair Marks Renewed Activity at Club House

The opening dance of Lachute Golf Club last Friday evening was attended by a crowd numbering between 250 and 300 people. The club house, scene of this enjoyable function, echoed to the cheerful strains of Alex Dawson and his nine-piece orchestra, from the Ottawa Golf Club. Ladies of the club served a buffet lunch.

The ladies' door prize, a handsome Ayers blanket, was won by Miss Haldron, Brownsburg, while the gentlemen's prize, a tweed suit-length, went to Mr. Jack McGibbon, Calumet. Plans are being considered for another club dance, on the eve of July 1st. from which 50 per cent of the profits would be donated to the Argenteuil Spitfire Fund. The club executive has this matter on the agenda for its next meeting.

LACHUTE RED CROSS

Permission has been granted the Lachute branch of the Red Cross Society to hold a tag day on all three days of the Fair.

Local units intend doubling their efforts during the summer months as now is the time to make warm clothing for next fall and winter.

It is urgent that any who are not working should go to their nearest unit and offer their services.

Supplies shipped to Red Cross headquarters during the month of May consisted of 581 articles, made up as follows: 11 kits; 176 knitted articles; 352 hospital supplies; 25 conservation articles; 10 donations; 1 dress not for kits; 6 articles for Women's Auxiliary.

TO HASTEN
VICTORY AND PEACE

Day by day the hearthstones of Canada are protected by a wall of Britain's guns, ships and planes in the hands of men whose high morale commands the admiration of the world wherever there is civilization.

Day by day this wall must be bolstered — rebuilt. More ships — munitions of war — food — must go to Britain in ever-increasing measure—a great surplus to permit a British offensive — victory — peace !

War weapons must be bought with money — your money. Thanks to the workings of democracy you have money. It is good money. It will buy the essentials to victory.

Let Canada use some of your savings for a while ! Invest now in priceless, unthreatened security for your home and all that you hold dear. Let's bring the enemy to his knees — soon! Invest today.

A Daring Young Man — Without a Trapeze

THE DARING YOUNG MAN WITHOUT A TRAPEZE

At five minutes past noon on Thursday, June 12th (weather permitting), Mr. Bob Wallace, balancing champion of Canada, will present one of the feature tricks from his act on top of the roof of Hotel Desjardins, Main Street, Lachute.

This trick has never been attempted by any other performer and consists of balancing while blindfolded upon a single bottle resting on a five-inch board across a barrel.

Mr. Wallace will be one of the featured performers in front of the Grandstand in this year's Exhibition, presenting his contorsion and balancing act twice daily, as well as introducing a number of comic rapid-fire sketches in color.

In the event of rain or high wind the free feature on Main Street at noon of the opening day will not take place, as the danger of a fatal accident would be obviously too great.

DISTRICT NEWS FROM OUR COUNTY CORRESPONDENTS

WEIR

Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Brown, of Montreal, spent a few days last week visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Cripps.

Mr. Sherman Beaven was home from Ste. Agathe to spend the week-end with his family here.

Mr. B. Kert, of Montreal, accompanied by Mrs. N. Littner and Mrs. L. Clohosey, of Los Angeles, called on friends here on Sunday.

On Thursday afternoon, May 29, a very interesting parochial meeting of the Women's Auxiliary was held in the church hall here, when members from the Arundel, Glen and Weir branches met together. The Rockway Valley branch was not represented at this meeting, but sent their regrets at being unable to attend.

The guest speaker, Rev. Percy Powles, who gave impressions from his missionary work during the past 25 years in Japan, addressed the audience in a Japanese costume . . . It was with great pleasure Mr. Powles was welcomed here again, as he had spent a summer here as student preacher previous to his departure for the mission fields.

Refreshments were served at the close, by ladies of the different branches of the W. A. Around 40 ladies attended the meeting.

Weight for weight, bread contains three times as much starch as potatoes.

HINTS FOR HOMEBODIES

By JESSIE ALLEN BROWN

DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME

Most people who have it like Daylight Saving but sometimes you hear mothers object to it because they have difficulty in getting the children to bed. I wonder if these mothers do not make some of these difficulties themselves. Two neighbors with children about the same age handle the problem very differently and with very different results. One of them says, "Look at the clock, it is 8 o'clock time to go to bed." Not a mention of daylight saving, just emphasis on the time the clock tells. The first few nights she reads for a few minutes, just to give her child a chance to settle down and to get used to going to sleep in daylight. The other mother complains long and loud about Daylight Saving. Says it really isn't 8 o'clock, it is just seven. Talks about how hard it is for her child to go to sleep in daylight. "She never has been able to other years and she can't go to sleep this year but lies awake until ten o'clock and is just dead from lack of sleep." And so on. All in the child's presence. The child looks smug and quite important and goes to bed feeling that she cannot get to sleep until 10 o'clock. And she doesn't. If you are one of the mothers who have difficulty with the children sleeping, do as the first mother did. Go by the clock and quit talking about it. Our only difficulty with it when our boys were small was that they were too often kept awake by other children playing outside, whose mothers said it wasn't really eight o'clock, it was only seven, and the children could not go to sleep at that hour. Time is arbitrary anyhow. One year on a trip we were not sure just where the time changed from Eastern to Atlantic time, then to complicate matters we did not know whether it was standard time or daylight saving. Consequently we had to find out whether it was one, two, or three o'clock, in that particular town. It was three and our watches said two but if we had been using Standard time it would have been one o'clock.

WE SEE A SEAL

The things we are seeing in the country are of never-ending interest. This week we found a brand new one. Looking out the window in the early evening we saw something queer in the river a few hundred feet off-shore. Not knowing what it was we watched closely and when it appeared again found it was a seal. It played around for quite some time and on its last appearance leaped out of the water and waved a fin at us. The only other time we had seen a seal was in vaudeville acts. This one must have been in training ! The next night it appeared again about the same time and at about the same spot. To get in the river from the sea it must have come up the Reversing Falls. It could come through at slack tide just as the boats do. The mooring-buoy for our neighbor's yatch seemed to be the attraction because both evenings it played around near it. Maybe it thought it was some kind of queer fish and wanted to investigate.

USE TOMATOES FOR VITAMINS

We use considerable canned tomatoes and tomato juice because of their vitamin C content. Checking up closely on the vitamins we were getting I found that a serving of canned tomatoes gave us 3,000 of the 6,000 units required of vitamin A. The average Canadian diet does not have enough vitamin A so tomatoes, either fresh or canned is an easy way of adding them. Cold canned tomatoes can be very refreshing. Chill them thoroughly, season with salt and pepper, a little lemon juice (about a teaspoon to a pint of tomatoes), and a little sugar. Add sugar to taste but most tomatoes take about a teaspoon to a pint if you have added the lemon juice. On these warm days the cold tomato tastes mighty good. When I am a bit short of either meat or vegetables I often serve tomatoes to fill in. The yellow vegetables carrots, corn, and squash are high in vitamin A. If you are buying canned corn choose a yellow kind rather than a white. Apricots have more vitamin A than any other fruit as one apricot has one-sixth the daily requirement for an adult. If you have difficulty in seeing when you go into a dark movie theatre you had better increase the amount of vitamin A in you diet. Flyers who are doing night work are given plenty of carrots, spinach, butter and milk to eat.

PINEAPPLE JAM

4 cups chopped pineapple, 1 bottle pectin, 7 cups sugar. Pare two medium-sized well-ripened pineapples. Put through the grinder using the fine knife. Mix 4 cups of the fruit and the sugar in a large kettle and bring to a full rolling boil over the hottest fire. Stir constantly. Boil hard 1 to 2 minutes. Remove from the fire and stir in the pectin. Stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly and prevent floating fruit. Pour quickly into sterilized glasses and seal.

I boil this jam for 2 minutes as I like it thick because I use it mostly as a filling between cake layers and for tarts. When I use it for a layer cake I make a butter icing flavored with lemon juice and this combination makes a delicious cake.

STRAWBERRY HARD SAUCE

¼ cup butter, 1 cup icing sugar, 6 strawberries, 1 teaspoon boiling water.

Cream the butter thoroughly, add the hot water, then stir in the sugar, creaming throughly. Add the crushed berries, pile lightly in a dish, and chill.

For Icebox Raiders

By Frances Lee Barton

Have you an icebox raider in your home? Or do you like to lead your guests to the family icebox after a rubber of Bridge and do a little personal raiding?

Anyway, here's a recipe for a coconut mousse that is mighty good plunder for any raider — male or female. The only trouble is that when it has been once tasted, the raids are too frequent— and it's hard to protect the dessert for that company dinner.

Coconut Mousse

1 egg white; 1 cup heavy cream; ½ cup sugar; dash of salt; few drops almond extract; ¼ teaspoon vanilla; 1 cup shredded coconut, toasted and cooled.

Place egg white and cream in small bowl and beat with rotary egg beater until stiff. Add sugar gradually, beating well. Add salt, flavoring, and coconut. Place in freezing tray of automatic refrigerator and let stand 3 or 4 hours, or until firm. Or turn into mold, filling it to overflowing; cover with waxed paper, press cover tightly down over paper, and pack in equal parts of ice and salt. Let sand 3 to 4 hours, or until firm. Makes 1½ pints mousse.

Women Learn to Drive Fire Engines

Binghampton, N.Y. — Members of the American Women's Volunteer Service in nearby Sidney soon will be ready for any emergency. They are even learning to drive fire engines.

There was a young woman called Lena
Who bought a new vacuum clena.
But while working one day
She got in the way —
And ever since then no one's sena.

"Yes", the teacher explained, "quite a number of plants and flowers have the prefix 'dog.' For instance, the dog-rose and dog-violet are well known. Can any of you name another?"

There was silence, then a happy look illuminated the face of a boy at the back of the class.

"Please, teacher," he called out, proud of his knowledge. "Collie flower!"

Be Merciful to Your Hands

By Helen Jameson

Do you save all the cosmetic luxuries for your complexion? Some women are like that. In the winter season when hands chap the dear girls have to do something in order to live in the same house with them. They're rough and ready, feel like nutmeg graters. Hands need creaming all the year round for the very good reason that frequent washings rob them of the natural oil.

Nature provides human skin with oiling devises. Sebaceous glands send out a light film that acts as a healing lubricant. Soap and water removes it and, unless something takes its place, the hands are bound to grow old before their time.

Hands are faithful and willing workers. They dig dust from closet shelves, they shampoo the kitchen range when it needs cleaning, and they deserve such rewards as come from good grooming, good "dressing", bland soaps and creamy friction. Five minutes a day will keep them in form.

Protection first, last and always. The housewife must provide herself with cleaning agents that do not bite cuticle and wreck finger nails.

If you are going to mop up the kitchen floor, for goodness sake slip on your rubber gloves. No likee? All right then, don't bawl about the terrible condition of your paws. If you are a gardening girl, you are probably messing around in the dirt and for that job you should have cotton gloves. One day of gathering grime and it will be a month of Sundays before your mitts are pretty again.

There's no need of dipping into the expensive complexion cream, especially if the beauty budget is limited. Lanoline, which can be bought in tubes, is an excellent medium for keeping hands smooth and youthful. Spread it on, do some firm thumbing. Begin at the wrist. Do circles over the back of the hand. Smooth upward from finger base to tip. Use the fatty substance freely. Work it into the cuticle that surrounds the finger nails, and a hangnail will never bother you.

Lanoline is better than cold cream because the flesh laps it up. You can let it remain on overnight and it will not spot the bed linens. If you are a money flinger you can wear cosmetic gloves during sleep. The lining of the gloves is treated with medicated oils.

Tomato juice takes off fruit stains, so will lemon juice. If you are in the midst of a jelly making fracas, don't fail to plunge your finger tips in a cut lemon afterwards.

Gland Rejuvenator

Driven from his laboratory in France by enemy occupation, Dr. Serge Voronoff, Russian-born experimenter in gland rejuvenation, is in Canada, applying for permanent residence in the U.S. From more than 1,000 rejuvenation experiments, the 75-year-old scientist says grafting glands from monkeys can transform idiots into intelligent persons. He is shown with his 27-year-old wife in Niagara Falls.

Miss Roberta Scott Is Q.W.I. Demonstrator

Macdonald College — Miss Roberta Scott, of Scotstown, Que., has received the appointment of Demonstrator for Quebec Women's Institutes from the Quebec Government, succeeding Miss Edna B. Rettie, who has served as Demonstrator for the past year.

Miss Scott holds the degree of B. H. S. from Macdonald College, where she specialized in this subject. She held several offices of responsibility in College societies, and has had an experience covering six years in leadership in girls' camps in Quebec and Ontario, and served as dietician for two years.

Miss Scott will take over her new duties this month.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Famous Authority on Good Manners and Good Taste

GRADUATE MUST LOOK TO HER MANNERS

The other day the headmistress of a famous school for girls told me that it is almost always the girls with the lowest marks who insist on over-dressing at graduation. They are the ones, she said, who resent the school regulations about simple dresses and who would, if they were allowed wear elaborate white satin evening gowns and carry huge bouquets or purple orchids !

Complete and gracious co-operation with school or class regulations is one of the first ways in which a graduate shows whether or not she is mannerly and well-bred. Her courtesy and taste show up most emphatically when the graduation plans are being made and on the day of days when she is the cynosure of all eyes.

When the graduate sends out her invitations or announcements, she should send them in the accepted form: that is, addressed most carefully in her very best handwriting, and with only the necessary abbreviations, such as Mr. and Mrs. She should not plaster any school seals or class seals on the envelopes. If she has visiting card, she encloses one in each invitation. And (in answer to many inquiries sent to me recently), her visiting cards should have the title Miss engraved before her name.

Another detail that indicates her taste is her attitude about the photographs she has taken. She should not have her photograph taken in sophisticated clothes or in sophisticated poses. The photographs should be simple and in good taste, taken preferably in a simple street or afternoon dress, or in her graduation dress. The graduate should not hand out her photographs indiscriminately. She should, of course, be especially choosy about the boys to whom she gives her photographs. If she writes anything on her photographs, she should show sure taste in the wording of the message she writes.

"By her walk shall ye know her." The graduate must remember to walk, sit, stand, and act in the most mannerly and dignified way possible. This is a large order but it is important for her to appear at her best when the faculty and her relatives and friends are expecting it of her. They will be relieved and delighted if she walks with an easy grace. A hesitating, awkward manner is as trying for those watching as for the girl.

On graduation day all details of courtesy have a way of shining forth in clear outlines: the graduate's graciousness and thoughtfulness to her family and relatives and to adult guests at the graduation exercises; her sure knowledge of introduction forms; her grace in accepting and acknowledging congratulations; her manner in greeting the guests, in shaking hands, in saying good-by; her habit of listening attentively and courteously.

Indicative of what that diploma means, she should be most careful of the way in which she writes her thank-you notes for her graduation gifts. These notes should be written by hand, as promptly as possible, and on good-looking and conventional note-pape.r

How about buying your own newspaper? Then you won't have to read your neighbor's.

the war. We are keeping factories busy turning out furniture when they could be making army supplies. We are buying cars when we could be buying munitions. We are buying all sorts of luxuries that will keep men from other, more vital jobs.

Instead of putting our extra money into the banks at 1½%, we can put it into Government war-loan bonds at 3%. If we don't, the banks will.

We must realize sooner or later that we cannot go on spending all our money just as we please. We must put a percentage of our extra earnings into the hands of the Government in order that they can buy more goods from our very own industries. It is government money that we get from our work. The more we give back, the sooner we give it back, then the sooner will we get it back to spend all over again. And if you use a sensible percentage for your own purchases then you will still have the things you want without hurting our war effort. Consider before you buy.

A LITTLE HUMOR

The wife of a retired artillery sergeant went out shopping one day, leaving her husband in the armchair before the fire, his pipe going well and the cat purring on his knees.

Presently he fell asleep and the pipe dropped out of his mouth, setting fire to the rug. When the wife returned, the room was filled with smoke.

"Fire!" she shouted, and the sergeant awoke, thrust the cat in the oven, slammed the door with a clang, and replied, "Number one gun ready, sir."

COSMETICS CHANGE COLOR

According to a notice received a few days ago there is going to be another shade of lipstick added to milady's shopping list.

The new shade is apple-red, and it is supposed to smell and taste like apple blossoms. There is also apple-red rouge and powder to go with the lipstick.

Which just goes to show you what kind of mail I get. Frankly, I never use the stuff!

It is often surprising what a writer will find in the morning mail.

OBSERVE THE FISHING LAWS

An editorial in The Tracer, bi-weekly publication for C-I-L and D-I-L employees at Brownsburg.

Twenty-five years ago, we are told, trout were caught all summer long in the West Branch, within the factory grounds. In fact, no one bothered going very far to catch trout, there were too many within two miles of Brownsburg.

Now, to be sure of a good catch, we travel twenty-five to one hundred miles or more. Part of this can no doubt be blamed on the development of the automobile and roads, but, if game laws were obeyed, we would still have good fishing near home. Trout are being kept below legal minimum (7 inches), dynamite and nets are being used on the spawning beds No wonder it's hard to find good fishing!

Bass are spawning now, and after the spawning is complete, the male bass takes up guard over the nest. If any foreign object such as a plug or bait of any kind comes near the nest, the male bass will strike savagely, solely to protect the nest. If the male is removed, scavenger fish such as suckers or catfish are always ready to disturb the mound of pebbles that forms the nest, and devour the spawn. So if you catch bass before the 15th of June, when the season opens, let them go. There will be more fish in a few years.

If you're interested in pickerel, pike or other kinds of river fishing, the Ottawa river is handy and you may rent boats practically anywhere along the river. Baits? Minnows for pickerel and pike; and channel cats, plugs or spinners will also take pickerel and pike. Worms will take perch, whitefish, catfish, etc.

For the trout fishermen, the greys are biting on live minnows, and the fly-fishing enthusiasts are starting to take speckled trout.

So, if you're going fishing, buy a license, observe the game laws, and — good luck! —Bill Seale

'Musts' for Minnows

Washington — A good bait minnow, says Henry C. Markus, bait expert, "must be active and hardy on the hook, and be able to withstand adverse conditions in the bait pail and holding tank.

"The brighter the coloration, the more attractive fishermen believe it to be to game fish, because the highly colored minnows may be seen for greater distances. This color may be a shade of yellow, red, green, or brown or a silvery hue. The golden shiner, horned dace, common shiner and redfin have become famous for bait because they possess these qualities."

"Then you jump into this spin."
"Not me. Then I smoke a Sweet Cap."

Calls Issued for New Trainees to Enter Military Camps this Month

Impressions from New York as Our Correspondent Takes In Sights and Absorbs Public Sentiment

"CANADIAN VIEWPOINT"
By Allan McGee

Specially Written for Readers of The Watchman

This column is being written in the sweltering heat of New York City.

Never have I seen a city that can get so hot and stay that way for so long a stretch. The heat here is almost unbearable and yet the New Yorkers tell me that this is just a taste of summer. They think that it is still quite cool and I think that it is too hot to be comfortable. In fact I know it is.

In this great city, everyone has a tale to tell. Everybody seems to have something to sell and they will sell it to you on the street, in the hotel lobby or they will even call you on the phone. It may be real estate or stocks or even tickets to the theatre but I am beginning to believe that they would even come into your private bathroom to sell you a pair of shoe laces if they had the chance.

New York may be alright for those that have to live here but it doesn't seem to agree with me. I like to live where you can smell fresh air once in a while without having to absorb a dose of carbon monoxide with every lungful.

NEW CALLS ISSUED FOR TRAINEES

One week from today another group of Canadian youths will enter the Canadian Army for training under the four month plan. There is a possibility that some of them may be retained for duty beyond that period but there has been no definite word from Ottawa on this matter. Certainly they will get a new outlook on life once they have been in camp for a while and they will find the life very healthy.

Those being called up at this time will train in good weather and the fresh air and outdoor life will agree with them.

FOR WOMEN ONLY

In New York's smart Sert Room of the Waldorf-Astoria, internationally famous for its stirring murals — chic women key their costumes to their escorts' uniforms. They wear bouffant waltz gowns enhanced by romantic mantillas; seductive beruffled rhumba gowns or tailored dinner costumes with his formal Army or Navy "blues", and simple afternoon frocks dramatized by frothy, colorful hats with his military khakis.

Blonde Princess Diane Eristavi, who recently returned from Palm Beach, flatters her rose and white complexion with a turquoise blue organza gown, its shirred boat neckline and short puff-sleeves trimmed with narrow black velvet ribbon; while tall Mrs. Torlonia Lord, whose sister-in-law is the former Princess Beatrix, daughter of the late King of Spain, contrasts her beau's brass-buttoned blues with an ice-blue satin gown, its halter neckline highlighted by twin diamonds and two sapphire clips.

That is the fashion in New York's high society, and now, ladies, you can skip the next paragraph while father reads about more masculine goings-on.

FOR MEN ONLY

The talk today is widely varied. Most people want to talk about the war and to offer their opinion of how it should be fought. But others are still willing to talk about baseball and the fight that is going on between St. Louis and Brooklyn for leadership of the National League.

Most New Yorkers usually will claim that Brooklyn isn't to be considered in the same breath as New York but things are a little different these days. The Giants are in third place in the National League but they are a full ten games behind the leaders and the famous Yankees are four games behind in the American League. Brooklyn is up near the top, so for the time being, at least, Brooklyn may be talked about as the "home" team. New Yorkers are funny that way. When you are good, you are very very good, and when you are bad — they just ignore you.

On the world situation the people here seem to be behind the President 100%. They know now that they are facing a world crisis more dangerous than ever before. They know that the United States is supplying more and more equipment to the fighting armies of the British and Free French Forces. They know, too, that they must supply even more planes and more tanks or their efforts thus far are useless.

That is why they are supporting the decision by the President that the factories which are turning out vital war supplies must be kept running. They are beginning to realize that the unions and labor leaders of this country must eliminate these unnecessary strikes and stoppages. It is high time that the United States started to check up and see that the strikes which are occurring with ever-increasing frequency are not being inspired by thoughts of greed.

FORESTALLED IMPOSTERS IN SALVAGE RAID

Professed Collectors for Town Visit Alderman's Home By Mistake !

Valuable Truck-Load Is Taken Over by the Town Authorities

Two men with a large truck, professing to be salvage collectors for this town, made the mistake of calling upon a wide-awake alderman. The alderman challenged their authority to canvass in this effort, whereupon they changed their tactics and stated they were working for the Red Cross. They went away empty-handed, but proceeded with their collection in Lachute — which, judging from later evidence, would have netted a profitable haul.

Meanwhile the alderman notified the town police, and himself communicated with Red Cross headquarters in Montreal, to find, as he expected, that the men were imposters.

The truckmen were consequently arrested while continuing their canvass on Main Street, but as Red Cross officials pressed no charge they were released with a verbal reprimand. The contents of their well-loaded truck, however, were confiscated and added to the local salvage pile.

The truck was patriotically decorated with Victory Loan placards. Householders are advised that the town salvage truck carries the official Lachute sign, and no outsiders are authorized to collect for the corporation. Proceeds of the Lachute salvage will be devoted strictly to local war efforts or organizations.

Said the farmer's wife to the druggist — "Now, be sure and write plain on those bottles which is for the horse and which is for my husband. I don't want anythin' to happen to that horse before the spring plowin'."

"Lives of Fighters Depend Upon Our Efforts," Says D.I.L. President to B'burg War Workers

"LOSS OF PRODUCTION AS MUCH A HELP TO ENEMY AS SINKING OF SHIPS"

At Opening of Recreation Hall

Mr. Greville Smith Echoes Compliment of Hon. Howe to Munitions Workers

Importance of Safety Rules Emphasized

(Special to The Watchman)

Brownsburg — Between six and seven hundred C-I-L and D. I. L. employees packed the new Recreation Hall at Brownsburg for the official opening by Mr. George W. Huggett, President of D. I. L. and First Vice-President of C-I-L, on the evening of June 6.

Speaking of the various D. I. L. projects undertaken at the request of the Government, as well as the indirect war-time work of C-I-L operations and the large scale production program already in effect as scheduled, Mr. Huggett gave the employees the following message:

"This is no ordinary job. These are no ordinary times. We must put aside many of our peace-time comforts and habits. You will be called upon to maintain the highest possible standards of production Every time a record working schedule is achieved, a new and heavier working schedule must be attempted. This must be done, not for material gain or profit for any of us, but because the lives of valiant fighters depend upon our efforts."

Third Recreation Centre Instituted for Employees On D. I. L. Projects.

The new hall at Brownsburg is the third of such recreation centres provided for war-time employees in remote districts in connection with Government-owned plants operated by D. I. L. The other two are at Nobel and de Salaberry. Each provides a large floor area suitable for dancing, badminton, basketball and moving picture auditorium and is furnished with lounges and reading room space. The community centres at Nobel and de Salaberry, due to their location away from populated centres are also equipped with bowling alleys and billiard tables, showers and other small amenities and facilities.

Works Manager E. L. Johnson Suggests An Apt Slogan

The Brownsburg program was under the chairmanship of Mr. E. L. Johnson, Works Manager, who said that he had recently heard of a slogan for D. I. L. which read "Deliver in London" and, while he was no maker of slogans, he thought a very fitting one for Brownsburg was "Do It Lively."

M.P.'s Issue Appeal for Support of Victory Loan

Among those supporting Mr. Johnson on the stage, in addition to Mr. Huggett, were: Messrs. H. Greville Smith, Vice-President and General Manager of D. I. L.; P. B. Yancey, General Manager, Explosives Group, C-I-L; Chas. H. Jackson, Manager, "Dominion" Ammunition Division, C-I-L, and Small Arms Ammunition Department, D. I. L.; J. Cadham, C-I-L (retired); R. Panet-Raymond, of C-I-L, who gave a resume of Mr. Huggett's speech in French; Col. D. E. Dewar, Director-General, Arsenals Branch of the Department of Munitions and Supply, Ottawa; and Jas. W. McGibbon, M.P., and Hon. Geo. E. Dansereau, M.L.A., who made a joint appeal in support of the Victory Loan.

Speech by George W. Huggett, President of D. I. L.

Mr. Huggett's speech, containing messages for both C-I-L and D. I. L. employees, was as follows:

"It is not often that my duties permit me to attend functions such as tonight's, even when they occur so close to Montreal as Brownsburg. I make no apology for this. If anyone is to be blamed, we must blame that "bad man" who started all the trouble in Europe. But I do regret our not having more opportunities to meet and talk together. For whether we are in Montreal, Brownsburg or elsewhere in Canada; whether we call ourselves employees of D. I. L. or C-I-L; we are today all working at the same job. From other and more eloquent speakers you have heard — and answered — the call which has united all Canadians — all free men everywhere — in the struggle to defend their liberty, and to overthrow those that threaten them with tyranny and oppression.

"Tonight, however, I want to talk for a few minutes about things which concern more particularly those who live and work in Brownsburg. As some of you may remember, my last visit to Brownsburg was before the war. Probably, in some ways, I have known more about what has been going on here since then, than you who have been working here. I came therefore expecting to see changes; but I must confess it was a great surprise to me to see how extensive those changes really are.

"Let me put into a few words the part played by Brownsburg in the war effort to date. When hostilities began there was already here, as you all know, the C-I-L factory established many years ago which manufactured sporting ammunition. After the declaration of war by Canada, one of the Government's most urgent needs was military supplies; and high on the list was ammunition in enormous quantities. It was to be expected that the Government would call on us to undertake production of chemicals, explosives and ammunition. The handling of all these products requires technical knowledge and skilled workmen, and C-I-L, with its efficient personnel and experienced organization could supply them. As a matter of convenience, and because of the size of the undertaking, it was decided to form a new company for the purpose of handling all government orders. Thus Defence Industries Limited came into existence.

The Victory Loan Campaign in Argenteuil

LACHUTE FIRST TO REACH INITIAL OBJECTIVE $155,000 -- FIGURE SET EXCLUSIVE OF SPECIAL NAMES AND DOMINION LOAN CONVERSIONS

Floodlit Sign-Board on Main Street Shows Progress of County Loan Suscriptions

In addition to the $155,000 designated for cash or instalment purchases apart from "special names" and conversions — which figure has already been attained in Lachute — the town's subscriptions to date are augmented $55,000 by sales through the medium of conversion of the Government bonds maturing Nov. 15th next.

Other canvassing districts are hot on the trail of Lachute. Brownsburg, Arundel, Calumet, Morin Heights, Huberdeau, Grenville and St. Andrews East are close and in the running. Weir and St. Adolphe de Howard, with smaller objectives, may upset all calculations from a percentage standpoint.

Help to Advance The Torch !

In order that day-to-day progress of the Victory Loan 1941 campaign in Argenteuil may be easily noted, the committee has erected a sign-board on Main Street, Lachute; the board is divided into sections each representing $100,000. The indicator is a movable torch, which is advanced toward the $990,000 objective mark as subscriptions are received.

Numerous small suscriptions are needed; in fact the difference between success and failure may be decided by this type of buyer. — Let us all help to "Finish the Job."

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO WATCHMAN

A special wire received by The Watchman this morning reads as follows:

Ottawa, June 11

Emphasizing the appeal which the Victory Loan is making to the small investor is the fact that up to Wednesday 326,253 individual subscribers, more than the combined total of the two previous war loans, had invested $340,397,400. Most encouraging to headquarters were the returns from rural units, many of which have already exceeded their objective and are striving to further increase their cash subscriptions as well as their numeral totals.

EXTEND PHONE FACILITIES ON LOCAL EXCH'G

Extensions Required to Meet Growing Needs At Brownsburg

Work Now Under Way By Linemen of the Bell Company

(Special to The Watchman)

Industrial and building activity in Brownsburg and vicinity have made necessary the provision of additional telephone facilities in this exchange, according to J. J. Morrin, Bell Telephone manager for this district.

The private branch exchange in the Brownsburg plant of Canadian Industries Limited is being extended, and additional power equipment is being installed. In Brownsburg itself, new underground cable is being laid to bring telephone lines into the exchange building, and additional overhead cable is being erected on Main St. At the same time, rural lines between Brownsburg and Dalesville, purchased by the Bell Telephone Company from the Dalesville Mutual Telephone Association last year, will be reconstructed.

The extension to the C-I-L private branch exchange will be completed by the end of the month, and the additional cable facilities and reconstruction work will be finished during the month of August.

RURAL DANCE FOR SPITFIRE FINE SUCCESS

250 People At Pleasant Function Held Saturday at Kerr's Farm

Proceeds Swell County Fund by Appreciable Sum of $232.75

To music provided by Mr. and Mrs. Mac McTavish and Mr. Jim Duncan, a crowd numbering around 250 people enjoyed dancing at Kerr's Farm, Lakefield, on Saturday evening in a social function and drawing which netted $232.75 for the Argenteuil Spitfire Fund. Caller for the dances, which were mostly of the old-time style, was Geo. McKenzie.

A beautiful crochet bedspread donated by Mrs. W. Richards was raffled on this occasion, on behalf of the Fund, and the winner, with ticket No. 357, was Master Kenwin Richards of Montreal, 16-months-old grandson of the donor.

The proprietors of Kerr's Farm desire, through this medium, to thank all those who contributed to the success of this effort. Special mention should be given to a leading "salesman", Basil Riddell, of Lachute, who disposed of seventy-one tickets.

With each successive year the Lachute Fair is gaining in popularity. Since the rival meets dating back to 1826 — when farmers held their annual "round ups" in St. Andrews, St. Philippe (then called "Muddy Branch") and Lachute for friendly competition to improve their stock and mode of agriculture — great strides have been made. At that time the names of John Hay, George B. Hooker, John Martin, Wm. McOuat, N. Albright and Geo. Fraser were prominent — and today our farmers are carrying on their good example.

Our hundred and fifteen years is a long time, and the present board of directors are justly proud to extend a public welcome to the present attractive surroundings of Lachute Fair — the culmination of many years of labor and planning. With the fine building that houses the industrial exhibits, the well-appointed livestock barns, and horse stalls on the west side extending half way around the extensive grounds, also the central

QUEER INVENTIONS SPURRED BY WAR

Recently, the United States Army was offered a 'liquid cement' which the inventor claimed could be shot at an enemy detachment and it would harden quickly, freezing the enemy troops in their tracks. The invention was declined !

Thousands of new patents are taken out every year, yet they represent only a fraction of the fantastic devices and gadgets that are put forward by hopeful inventors. In wartime, especially, there is a continual stream of imaginative ideas and notions offered to the authorities.

When the Zeppelin raids over England were causing such anxiety during the last War, one imaginative fellow outlined a plan for freezing the clouds so that machine-guns could be perched on them to fight the Zepps !

Another enthusiast conceived the idea of attaching a number of magnets to balloons which would be let out over the enemy's trenches. The magnets would then pick up the enemy's rifles. Any soldiers wearing their tin-hats would, presumably be lifted also !

During the Dardanelles campaign, the War Office was offered a gun which could fire square bullets at Turks and round ones at Christians. The inventor never explained the reason for the variety, nor did he suggest how our soldiers were to differentiate between Turks and Christians !

* * *

SNAKES AS 'BULLETS' !

Ideas for special guns and shells were legion, one of the quaintest being to replace shells by snakes which were to be scattered by pneumatic compulsion into the enemy's trenches.

While War increases the number of ideas and gadgets, hopeful inventors pursue their plans unwearingly in peace days, too. A few years ago, one inventor claimed to have made an infallible mouse-trap. And he was as good as his word. If a mouse so much as protruded his nose into a room which held the trap, his doom was sealed. Unhappily, this invention contained so many contrivances and accessories that each mousetrap would cost over $500. — an impossible handicap, of course.

* * *

KNIVES, FORKS LAUGHED AT!

When many years ago, knives and forks were introduced into England, there was a tremendous outcry against them. Clergy even claimed that to use them was an affront to the Almighty, who had provided fingers and thumbs, just as in more recent times there were people who pooh-poohed automobiles because "had we been intended to ride in cars we wouldn't have been given legs!"

Baking powder is, today, a household adjunct, yet it was first greeted with ridicule and even fear. People claimed it meant "cooking with chemicals" and would probably poison anyone who used it. When the manufacturers said that baking powder had the effect of gas, — that is, it made the dough rise — the scoffers said it would probably continue to rise when the bread was eaten, and cartoonists drew pictures of people becoming inflated and rising to the ceiling after eating bread.

* * *

ANTI-SNORER !

How many of us would welcome an anti-snoring device! Some time ago one was patented but it has never made the open market. It consisted in fixing a microphone in front of the sleeper which, as soon as he snored, picked up the noise and amplified it so that loud screams sounded through a loud-speaker and awakened the snorer. Maybe the remedy was worse than the disease !

A kiss card was the ingenious invention of one brainy youth. A postcard was impregnated with a rouge composition which took a perfect impression of the sender's lips. How the postman would chuckle at that !

* * *

LIGHTING STREETS WITH SMOKE !

When the people of London heard that their streets were to be lit with gas instead of the old oil lamps, there was a howl of dismay. Great mass meetings were held, petitions were circulated and gained thousands of signatures and even riots were feared. Nobody knew what gas was in those days so it was described as something from coal. Coal made smoke, so gas must be smoke, ran the reasoning, and what a fantastic idea to light the streets with smoke !

However, gas was such an improvement over oil lamps for street and home illumination that when Edison's electric light bulb came to replace it, there were wails of fear that the entire populace might be electrocuted.

So it has been with many inventions, good, bad and indifferent. Though we may justifiably laugh at some inventions, the inventor will always have the last laugh.

Quebec and Ontario Police and Fire Officers To Hold Convention

Ottawa — Law enforcement and fire department officers from all parts of Quebec and Northern Ontario will gather at Rouyn July 8 to 11 for the 9th annual provincial police and firemen's convention.

Sponsored by the Province of Quebec Police and Fire Chiefs' Association, the convention is expected to bring 500 chiefs together. It will afford police and department officers an opportunity for exchange of ideas on up-to-date enforcement and prevention techniques.

The four-day agenda covers discussion on crime and fire prevention, law enforcement, traffic safety, civilian protection in wartime and many other phases of work which police and firemen are expected to carry out in the national defence program. Subjects for consideration include co-operation between city, rural, provincial and federal police, the co-ordination of federal and provincial activities to combat subversive elements and operations, civilian constabularies, and the proper policing of industries and utilities.

Other subjects to be featured in round table discussions are juvenile delinquency, including the effects of radio programs; police and the courts, and the handling of mobs.

Wood Preservative For Domestic Use

Painters and contractors, have found satisfaction in a new product sold under the trade name of "Pentox". It fills a long-awaited demand for a ready-to-use wood preservative for use with paint.

This new product, manufactured by the Osmore Wood Preserving Co. in Montreal, shows evidence of becoming very popular among paint users. It can be mixed with any paint, varnish or oil, and is packaged in 'handy sizes' measured for pints, quarts and gallons. It is designed to prevent rot, repel insects, termites and ants, and keep wood and paint in sound condition. The principal constituent is sodium fluoride, a proven wood preservative.

Its action is very simple and logical. Oil in the paint is used as a spreader only, the fine particles of "Pentox" are evenly distributed over the painted surface. Coming in contact with the moisture in the wood, these particulars become active, dissolve and diffuse into the wood, thus rendering the wood under the paint immune to decay and insects. Penetration of Pentox is extremely deep and increases for a long time, particularly into cracks, nailholes and other points of moisture accumulation; these are the weak spots in any structure, fence or building.

A Matter of Insurance

Picture the plight of a chairman of the Board of Directors who reports at the annual meeting of his company that his colleagues had taken out a ten thousand dollar fire insurance policy to protect plant buildings and equipment valued at two hundred thousand dollars . . .

At home that evening he would likely explain that he had had a very hard day — and that he was now ex-chairman of the board.

"Ah", you say, "that can't happen to any Canadian business in this modern day!"

But don't reach such a conclusion too hurriedly. Have you stopped to consider that the Dominion of Canada — our ace business institution — may be under-insured?

Europe is in flames. And that huge conflagration will surely catch Canada if the blaze is not checked on the other side. That is irrefutable.

In the light of this understanding, with the full knowledge that unless fiery Nazism is brought under control at its source, Canada stands to lose everything, what action should Canadians take from the viewpoint of good business? Canada's developed resources are measured by billions of dollars. Her undeveloped resources are so vast that they cannot be earmarked by the dollar sign. Our other assets of freedom and happiness are almost as precious as heaven itself.

The only insurance available to us is ever increasing production of material for the fire fighters overseas. That production hinges on the assets of Canadians in terms of dollars.

The present War Loan is an insurance premium, small enough in relation to the size of the policy we should take out for the protection of our very existence.

New Publication by Ford-Canada

Facts of public interest regarding the civilian and military production of one of Canada's larger industries are presented in a new all-Canadian publication, "Ford Times", the first issue of which has just reached The Watchman.

This publication portrays the answer of one Canadian company to Winston Churchill's plea, "Give us the tools." It shows how the more than 12,000 workers in the company's plant at Windsor, Ontario, produce mechanical transport of many types in such numbers that Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, has become the largest single source of this equipment in the British Empire.

Ford Times is produced in the style of the modern picture magazine and with many photographs presents an interesting story of the activities of the company's employees and dealers, particularly in regard to the war effort of this large group of Canadians.

One section of particular interest depicts "Then and Now" stories of company employees and dealers who served in Empire forces in the war of 1914-1918, with photographs of them as comrades in arms and current photos of the same men who are now busy providing essential equipment to a new generation of fighting men.

Fifth Column Rabbits

England has declared war on a new enemy, the wild rabbit. Following the fifth column procedure, the rabbits are striking from within and an official of the British Department of Agriculture has estimated they rob the country of more than $1,780,000,000 yearly in damage to crops. That's a lot of money and we are confident everyone will agree that the British Government is justified in "splitting hares." In reality a more humane method has been selected for blitzing the rabbits and painless death will be administered by the sprinkling of cyanide powder in rabbit holes, which generates a gas on coming in contact with the moisture of the earth.

German people have now been advised by the Government to eat daisies, claiming the wild flower had more health giving, nourishing salts than most domestic vegetables. And after Nazi housewives have swallowed a quantity of daisy petals they'll probably think of Hitler and decide they "love him not."

Women lifeguards may be engaged at Buffalo, N.Y., beaches this summer. And now a lot of husbands, who haven't enjoyed friend wife's interest in the bronzed young men of other years, will have a grand opportunity to even the score.

Conscientious Objectors

It is somewhat startling to learn from a return tabled in the House of Commons recently, that Canada has 4,030 conscientious objectors in the 13 Canadian administrative divisions for compulsory military service. But the matter is cleared up when further information reveals that of this total 2,450 were Mennonites and 558 Doukhobors. One cannot question the rights of men to their religious beliefs, even if these would appear to conflict with patriotism and love of country but it would seem that members of some of these sects can never be classed as Canadians. In years of peace Canada could laugh at the minor troubles springing from people who settled in Canada but apparently refused to accept the laws of their adopted country. In times of war these minor disturbances assume far greater importance and the possibility is that greater attention should be paid to the matter of immigration in the years to follow this new Great War.

A Sinking Ship

It's an old naval belief that rats will desert a sinking ship and news from overseas lends authority to the superstition of the sea. Rudolf Hess, who may be classed as "Rat No. 1" scurried from Germany via the air route not so long ago and more recent items report that Willi Messerschmitt, designer and builder of the famous German fighter plane, has been arrested in connection with the Hess flight to Britain. Nazi sources, of course, deny this report but it was widely circulated through Europe and is undoubtedly based on at least partial truth. Hess was No. 3 man in the Nazi regime, a figure of tremendous importance. Messerchmitt, too, must be rated among the elite in the German war machine. If these giant, gilded rats are the first to leave the sinking ship "Hitler," it may not be very long before the less important rodents follow their example.

Keep Playing

Carried away, perhaps, by patriotism and a desire for victory, there are some who criticise the continued operation of sports leagues and golf courses in Canada during these years of war but the players are really "doing their bit" to help Great Britain in her fight for the world's freedom. Golf balls and clubs, tennis balls and racquets, footballs, hockey sticks and other sports equipment combine to represent the £700,000 worth of athletic goods shipped overseas from Great Britain last year. That's quite an order, providing valuable funds for financing of the war effort. And aside from that, as Canadian leaders have stated on previous occasions, sports help keep Canada healthy and help keep up the morale of the people of the Dominion. Let's keep playing.

A Strange City

Strangest city in the world today is Lisbon, Portugal. Located close to the war zone and easily accessible by air from key cities in the various warring countries, neutral Lisbon is visited daily by air liners bearing the colors of Britain, the Netherlands, Germany, Italy and Spain, and frequently the planes are drawn up side by side. Crews of enemy countries meet frequently, usually with silent salutes but, while they sometimes mingle in impersonal discussions of weather, there is never even a whisper of war talk. Germans and Italians join in one group with British and Dutch forming another. Portugese and Spanish airmen sometimes join either or both groups.

THE LIFE OF WINSTON CHURCHILL

THE MAN WHO 'LL BEAT HITLER

(Conclusion)

The British people trusted Winston Churchill and knew that the Navy was in safe hands, but there were increasing murmur about the general conduct of the war, and when the Norwegian campaign fizzled out, criticism became widespread.

It became obvious that the British Government needed reconstituting, but leaders of the Labour Party refused to serve in a government headed by Neville Chamberlain. They had no faith in him or his policies.

Then in May 1940, the Nazis attacked Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg. Mr. Chamberlain resigned and Winston Churchill became Prime Minister.

"Nothing But Blood and Sweat!"

In supreme command, just as in the days when he was without either office or party, Winston Churchill shirked no fences. To the House of Commons he said: "I would say to the House, as I said to those who joined this Government, "I have nothing to offer but blood, toil, tears and sweat." "But, he added, "I take up my task with buoyancy and hope."

The new Government, now a united body representing all parties, tackled its job indomitably, fired with the grim resolve and faith of "Fighting Winnie." Gone was all suggestion of appeasement or compromise, gone was complacency. The British nation, to a man — and woman — got behind its great leader and accomplished miracles of achievement.

"This Was Their Finest Hour"

Came the dark days when France faltered. In a last-minute attempt to revive their tottering courage, Mr. Churchill dashed to France and offered them equal partnership with the British Commonwealth of Nations, to share and share alike. Alas ! France's will to resist had failed and they gave up the struggle.

Still Mr. Churchill's faith shone out like a beacon. In a broadcast, he said: "We have become the sole champions now in arms to defend the world cause. We shall do our best to be worthy of that high honor." And in another memorable speech, he said: "Let us brace ourselves to our duty and so bear ourselves that, if the British Commonwealth and Empire last for a thousand years, men say, "This was their finest hour.' "

World Leader

Mr. Churchill has brought to the people of Britain and to free men throughout the world, new hope. Bringing no message of quick victory, promising nothing for the time being but work and tears, his unwavering faith and inflexible resolution have transformed the hearts of mankind.

Today, Winston Churchill is the chosen leader of the nation, yes, and the whole Empire. Gone is the feeling of mistrust that revealed itself so often in those earlier days. Winston Churchill has been right too often, and his opponents wrong.

After the Battle of Britain had been won in September last, a friend suggested to Winston Churchill the possibility of a new Nazi bid for peace. "Peace?" exclaimed Mr. Churchill. "There cannot be peace until we have got Hitler's head!"

No Armored Car for Winston !

Nothing so completely depicts the difference between Democracy and Totalitarianism as a comparison between the Dictators and Winston Churchill. Hitler and Mussolini travel about in armored cars, surrounded by elaborate guards. Winston Churchill goes about his country freely, with but a tin hat as protection.

What of the future? It is hidden, but perhaps in Winston Churchill's own words we may find some measure of prophecy. "Long, dark months of trials and tribulations lie before us," he said some months ago. "Death and sorrow will be the companions of our journey; hardship our garment; constancy and valour our only shield. We must be united, we must be undaunted, we must be inflexible. Our qualities and deeds must burn and glow through the gloom of Europe until they become the veritable beacon of its salvation."

War Presents Mystery Of 45,000,000 People

Why is Britain Healthier Than in Peace Time?

(By Mail)

London — The United States are sending to Britain a committee of American medical men to try and find out why the people have come through the winter's "blitz" with better health than in the years of peace.

Medical men generally are completely baffled by the nation's fitness. They feared that, after nights of crowding in air-raid shelters and exposure to all weathers on R. A. P. and fire-watching, epidemics would sweep the country like a prairie fire.

In fact, there have been fewer cases of scarlet fever, diphtheria, pneumonia and typhoid fever, and only half the number of deaths from influenza. Whooping cough and meningitis have alone been rather more prevalent than usual.

Britain's own doctors offer various explanations of the mystery, among them the dispersal of densely populated areas, the improved system of health supervision, the spread of education in preventive measures, fewer people at "the pictures" and in other public places.

All, however, are agreed that the busy, hazardous life led by 45,000,000 people leaves them neither the time nor the inclination to brood over minor ailments. The war has taken them "out of themselves."

CANADA'S telephone traffic is climbing to new peaks! Engaged in all-out war effort Canadians are depending on telephone facilities more than ever. That's why telephone workers are determined to maintain the fastest, most efficient service under all conditions.

They are especially grateful for the sympathetic co-operation of all telephone users. Subscribers can aid in making severely-taxed telephone facilities yield maximum service . . .

- By looking up the number in the directory
- By speaking distinctly directly into the mouthpiece
- By answering promptly when the bell rings

Please be sure, also, to replace the receiver on the hook. Over 120,000 times last year, telephones were reported "out of order" because of receivers left off or improperly replaced.

These things are what we mean by "co-operation".

"We are just checking up. Several draftees have listed you people as dependents."

No Lip Service Here

As Canadians enthusiastically carry the Torch from city to city towards Winston Churchill, citizens by the hundreds of thousands are solemnly re-dedicating themselves to the task of providing the tools for which Mr. Churchill has asked.

Aloud, they are repeating, "I pledge myself and my all to hold the Torch on high, and to march shoulder to shoulder with the Motherland and the Empire in our righteous cause through Victory and enduring peace." These are not empty words. They constitute a promise to the millions of battered people in Great Britain and the horde of other liberty loving peoples in Europe whose necks feel the hobnailed heel of Hitler's boot, that we in Canada will leave nothing undone to slay the tyrant.

On us now rests the grave responsibility of fulfilling the spoken pledge. No selfish interest will bar the path of the honest Canadian as he sets out to do his part in this Victory Loan Campaign. That applies all the way from the man or woman who can scrape only enough for a $50. Bond, to the Corporation which can loan a cool million dollars.

Life started from a cell, and if justice is done a lot of it is going to end there.

ORPHANAGE AT HUBERDEAU IS SWEPT BY FIRE

Religious Institution Was Established 52 Years Ago

400 Children Hurried to Safety as Buildings Are Destroyed

The orphanage at Huberdeau, a landmark in the district, was swept by fire early Wednesday morning. The establishment, which was started 52 years ago, was acquired by the Jesuit Order, then sold to a Belgian religious order. Accommodating about 400 children at this time, it was supported in part by the province, and in part by the City of Montreal.

The extensive property, valued at between $60,000 and $70,000, comprising wood frame buildings, was completely consumed by fire, which was believed to have resulted from defective wiring. Only the contents of the Superior's residence were saved from the flames.

The sole casualty was a member of the staff, Brother Leon, who reentered a building to make certain all had escaped. Badly burned, he was taken to Notre Dame Hospital. According to meagre reports received here, the children filed out of the building with their blankets in an orderly manner when the fire bell was sounded. A check-up was made by the nuns in charge and only one child was found missing. One of the staff re-entered the building and found the child asleep; he had not heard the alarm. The youngster was carried to safety unhurt.

Pending instructions from Quebec, the children were given temporary shelter in the Montfort orphanage, but were later transferred to the Muerling Refuge in Montreal.

Slices $700,000 Diamond

A six weeks' sawing job on the third largest diamond in the world made Adrian Grasselli, diamond cutter, lose six pounds, even though all he did was stand around and watch the rotary saw slicing into the gem. Here he sights through a jeweller's glass just before completion of the first cutting of the President Vargas diamond in New York, May 15.

No Billboards Around National War Memorial

Ottawa — Prime Minister King and Mayor Lewis of Ottawa have agreed in the view that the National War Memorial should not be disfigured by the erection of billboards or huts for no matter how worthy a purpose.

The Mayor wrote the Prime Minister following the National War Service Campaign voicing objection to this use of the Memorial, which he called a "national shrine."

The Prime Minister replied: "I am quite in agreement with your point of view and had, indeed, expressed my opinion to this effect some time before receiving your letter. I have discussed the question with my colleagues and they also are quite in agreement."

FARMER HEPBURN BUYS COW FROM FARMER GODBOUT

Former Lachute Man Buys Calf, Returns It for Re-Sale

Ayrshire Breeders Hold War Benefit Sale at Oakville, Ontario

Oakville, Ont. — Receiving an average price of more than $150 for ten heifer calves auctioned at the first national Ayrshire sale here, members of the Canadian Ayrshire Breeders' Association will contribute over $2,750 to the British War Relief Fund through the Ayrshire Cattle Herd Book Society of Great Britain and Ireland.

In addition to the proceeds of the calf sale, a donation of $500 was made by the Canadian Association, and a similar amount was raised in a draw and re-sale of calves donated back to the association after purchase.

The sale was opened by Hon. Adelard Godbout, premier of Quebec, and Hon. M. F. Hepburn, premier of Ontario, who were introduced by R. O. Biggs, president. One of the calves offered for sale "Ste. Sulpice Beatrice," was donated by Hon. Mr. Godbout from his herd at Frelighsburg. Hon. Mr. Hepburn purchased the beast for $130, in the auction, and immediately donated it back to the fund, when it was re-sold to Donald L. Ness for $130.

Cow Brings $200.

Highest price paid was $200, by the Provincial Dairy School, St. Hyacinthe, for "Bois De La Roche Colombe 15th", donated by W. W. Skinner, K.C., Senneville, Quebec.

In addition to the ten calves previously donated, a bull calf donated by F. M. Connell, Oriole, brought another $100.

L. L. Cook Buys Calf; Returns It for Re-Sale

Donated by W. S. Coverdale, Portsmouth, another calf was won by D. J. McIntosh, Glengarry, who donated it back to be sold to L. L. Cook, a former Argenteuil resident, for $155. Mr. Cook turned the calf back to be sold to Mrs. J. M. Stuart, Montreal, to bring the total proceeds to $503. Mrs. Stuart also purchased three other calves for $425.

The calves were donated by well-known breeders of Ontario and Quebec, and there was not one cent of expense in connection with any of them, Frank Napier, secretary of the association, pointed out.

46 Head Bring $10,355

In the national sale, which was arranged by Douglas A. Ness, Howick, Que., and R. O. Biggs, Dundas, Ont., with the sanction of the Canadian Ayrshire Breeders' Association, beasts were sold from thirty of the leading herds of Ontario and Quebec, and a total of $10,355 was received for 46 head, an average price of $225.10.

Buyers attended from Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia, Newfoundland, Alberta and several of the States.

Traffic Cops Become Tourist-Minded

Montreal — A series of courses to train provincial traffic police in the rudiments of Old World courtesy are among proposals which are being studied by Marcel Gaboury, K.C., Commissioner of the Provincial Police.

The Provincial Police Commissioner is desirous of boosting the province's crop of tourists in addition to carrying out his full-time job of organizing crime-prevention and detection.

He also plans to give traffic policemen more instruction on the geography of the province so that his men can act as mobile information bureaus.

A Detective Ray

Tells Where Gems Come From

(By Mail)

London — Imitation sapphires can now be defected in a few seconds by the electric "eye", known to the scientist as the cathode ray tube.

The commercial use of the apparatus for this purpose is the result of the research work of Dr. W. D. Coolidge in the laboratory of the General Electric Company, London, who themselves use more than 1,500,000 sapphires, which rank net to diamonds in hardness, as jewels for bearings in meters and other delicate electrical instruments.

Imitation sapphires are easily detected. Trays carrying both real and false are exposed in a dark room for a few moments to the powerful rays from the tube. It shoots out electrons at the rate of 150,000 miles a second.

All the jewels glow or radiate colors while exposed to the rays. When the rays are turned off the natural stones cannot be seen; the synthetic keep on glowing.

The rays even help to detect where the natural or factory made gems come from.

Saving Children From Themselves

Children have been warned and rewarned at school to obey the traffic rules. Parents and other older persons should impress upon the youngsters the importance of being careful, especially now that the busy season is here. Motorists should also exercise utmost care at all times.

Some years ago when a branch of the Just Kids' Safety Club was organized here, the school children learned these words:

"Stop, Look, Listen,
Before you cross the street,
Use your eyes, use your ears,
Then use your feet."

The slogan and its lesson is needed much more than formerly.

Get Set to Make HAY SILAGE and LAUGH at the WEATHER

With this Papec on your farm you can laugh at rain during haying season. You harvest your crop at its prime regardless of weather. Good weather or bad the Papec makes any green forage crop into hay silage. A trickle of cheap molasses or phosphoric acid, automatically added preserves the crop. In good weather you can chop your dry hay into the mow or stack with a big saving in time, labor and space.

This Papec with its special hay feeder earns its keep the year round. It handles corn better than any standard ensilage cutter. Chops and stores straw direct from thresher or after combining, shreds fodder and elevates feed grains.

Come In and Get Your Free Booklet, "More Profit Per Acre." See the labor and power saving Papec features. Get the facts on hay silage, stacking chopped hay, filling trench silos and storing straw. You get your money's worth in a Papec!

Lend to Defend our way of life!

DOWN THROUGH THE AGES Britons fought and suffered and died in order that their children and their children's children might be free. Today the forces of darkness threaten to engulf us once more. Shall we give up those rights which our forefathers won?

Today our country must arm. No time can be lost. We must build the greatest war machine the world has ever known. We must accomplish in two years more than the enemy has accomplished in seven.

That is why Canada needs your savings — not as a gift, but only as a loan. Canada's army must be maintained and equipped with the most modern fighting machines. Scores of warships and merchant vessels must be built. Thousands of planes, thousands of pilots must be rushed to the scene of conflict.

So Canada needs the use of your money now. Later on, Canada will repay you in full. In the meantime, you will receive regular interest on your loan.

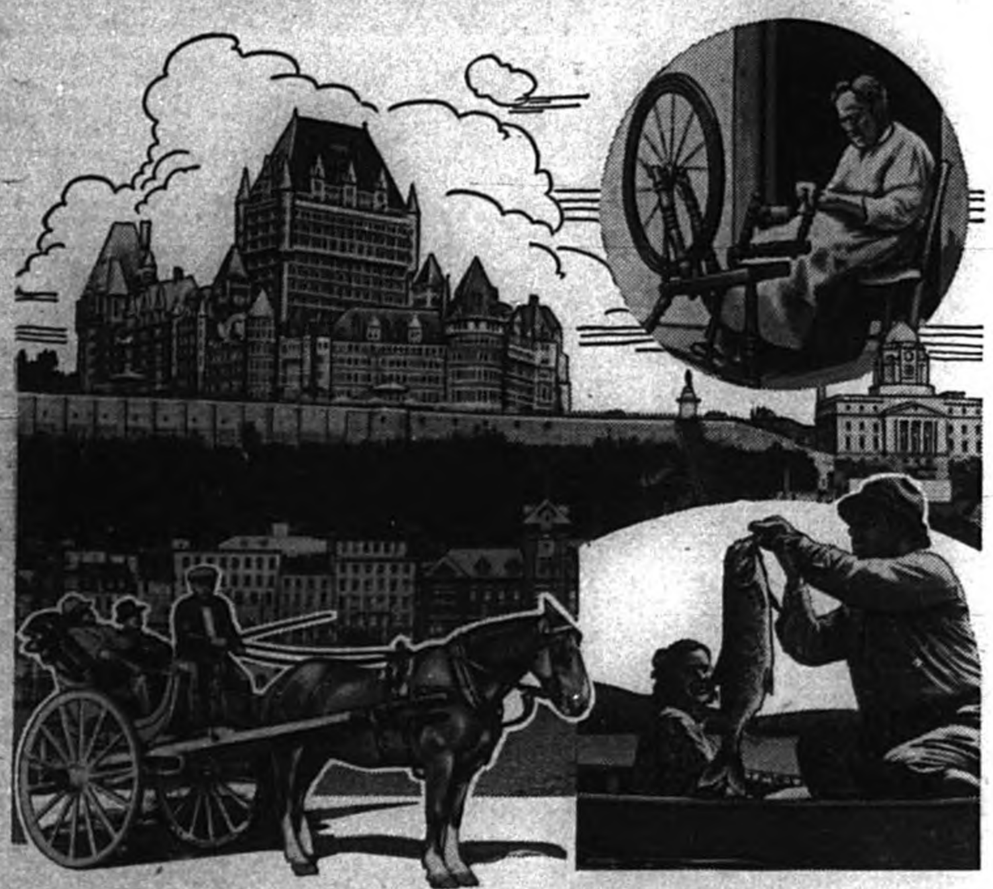

When you buy Victory Bonds, all Canada is your security. These Bonds are more readily turned into cash than any other.

HOW TO BUY—Give your order to the canvasser who calls on you. Or place it in the hands of any branch of any bank, or give it to any trust company. Or send it to your local Victory Loan Headquarters. Bonds may be bought in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000 and larger. Canvasser, bank, trust company or your local Victory Loan Headquarters will be glad to give you every assistance in making out your order form.

Vacation Delights In Old World Setting

Tourists who previously found the time-mellowed cities of Europe the answer to their vacation problems are today enjoying those same old world delights on their own side of the Atlantic—in old Quebec City where practically every vacation sport and pastime, including golf, tennis, fishing and hunting, combined with the most up-to-date accommodation, awaits the visitor in a mediaeval setting unique on the North American continent.

Easily accessible by Canadian Pacific rail lines from Montreal, New York, Boston, and other large eastern centres, Quebec is experiencing one of the liveliest seasons in its 300 years of history. The opportunity of attending service in century-old churches, rambling through narrow, cobblestoned streets, over long-silenced battlefields, and seeing the colorful "habitant" at work in the fields, is a rare privilege in the new world, and one that Quebec alone can offer.

The ancient dwellings of Quebec's "Lower Town" stand out in sharp contrast to the modern grace of the Chateau Frontenac, popular headquarters for the Quebec visitor. This famed Canadian Pacific hostelry is starting point for many a delightful sight-seeing tour by bus, cab, or lofty, horse-drawn caleche. Within easy distance lie the historic Plains of Abraham, the Citadel, the ancient city wall, the Great Gates, numerous monuments and other interesting landmarks.

Farther afield the tourist is drawn to the picturesque Isle of Orleans, where farmers still sow by hand, plow by oxen, reap with the scythe and thresh with the flail, while women ply ancient hand-looms and spinning wheels. Other nearby attractions include Wolfe's Cove, Quebec Bridge, the Shrine of Ste. Anne de Beaupre, Montmorency Falls and Kent House, while northward lies the famed Laurentides Park, a vast area of virgin lake, forest and stream country where vacation delights await at every turn.

Canadian Telescope Aids Dover Garrison

Vancouver, B. C. — From Mayor J. R. Cairns, Chief Magistrate of Dover, England, Bernard H. Witts, a C. N. R. sleeping car conductor, has received acknowledgment of the receipt of a valuable astronomical telescope which Mr. Witts sent as an aid in detecting enemy movements in the English Channel..

Mayor Cairns explained that the telecope is now at Dover Castle, which commands a clear view of the channel, adding "The garrison commander is delighted to have such an efficient instrument at his disposal."

Boy Scout Headwork Prevents Accident

Four Seattle Sea Scouts diverted street traffic round a trackless trolley wire that had fallen at a busy street intersection. The wire was sparkling, dangling against a news stand and some automobiles. While one of the Scouts kept people away, the other ran to the end of the block and re-routed the traffic. Two patrolmen dispatched to the scene reported the situation well in hand when they arrived. They credited the quick and intelligent work of the Scouts with preventing some serious accidents.

Carbon Monoxide

Carbon monoxide is the gas that kills you when you run your motor car in an enclosed space such as a garage with the doors closed. The public should be educated on all phases of the hazard. Persons likely to come in close contact with high concentrations of carbon monoxide such as policemen and firemen need especially to be informed of the hazard.

The gas does not appear in nature; it results almost entirely from incomplete oxidation or the burning of material containing carbon. It is present during electrical storms, when buildings burn up and after explosions and fires in mines. It is also produced in lime, brick and charcoal kilns; in the laboratory it is produced by heating formic acid and oxalic acid with sulphuric acid. It is found in smoke in rooms which have been painted and sealed. It has even been reported formed from burning cigarettes.

Carbon monoxide is particularly dangerous because it has no smell. It is colourless and should not be confounded with carbon dioxide gas, the one that is excreted from the lungs in breathing.

The asphyxiated person is comatose, the temperature usually above normal; the skin is pale, but the lips are nearly always scarlet red and there is a scarlet blush on cheeks and sometimes over the whole body. The early symptoms are entirely due to the fact that the haemoglobin, (the red coloring matter of the blood), has a much greater affinity for carbon monoxide than for oxygen.

The remedy for the asphyxiation of carbon monoxide is artificial respiration done by the Schalfer method and kept up for at least one and a half hours. The patient should be kept warm and no exertion permitted.

Britons Read Works Of Charles Dickens

As the Nazis Drop Their High Explosives

(By Mail)

London — What is Britain reading down in the shelters while the Luftwaffe zooms across the black sky? There is quite striking evidence of a big return to the great literature of the past.

In the opening months of the present year the demand for reprints of nearly one thousand of the world's best books was helf as high again as in 1940. Best-selling authors in this Everyman library were Dickens, Thackeray, Dr. Johnson, Pepys, Bunyan, Defoe, Chaucer, Keats, Burns, Wordsworth, Jane Austen, Emily Bronte, Dumas, Tolstoy, Plato and Shakespeare.

The most popular authors in overseas countries have been very much the same as those at home, though, in proportion, some of the more serious authors are rather more in demand abroad, particularly U. S. A.—for examples, Aristotle, Gibbon, Voltaire, Rousseau, Walt Whitman.

Not one of nearly 200,000 volumes shipped from the library to the United States has been lost. Indeed, since the war began only one per cent of those sent to overseas countries have been lost by enemy action; and exports have been over one-third of more than 1,000,000 books sold in that period.

Royal Engine Driver

King Boris, of Bulgaria, who recently succumbed to Herr Hitler's "charms" and gave up his country to the Nazis, has one great hobby —trains.

Whenever possible, he would steal away from state duties to spend a few hours with his model railways. He has trains of all shapes and sizes, and they run all over his private home.

Once he remarked that, if ever he lost his throne, he'd have at least one profession to fall back on —driving a locomotive. When they heard this, some fellows in the U. S. cabled to Boris and told him that they'd give him a job if he ever ceased to rule his country.

Perhaps a pity he wasn't born to be an engine-driver instead of to become the head of a state vassal to Hitler !

Boy Scouts The World Over

War Savings stamps to the amount of $181.75 were sold at a concert given by Quesnel, B. C., Rover Scouts.

A recent war service job of Halifax Scouts was the posting of "Don't Talk" posters in the restaurants, tea rooms, barber shops and theatre lobbies of the city.

CANADIAN SCOUTS HELP BRITISH BOY SCOUT WAR SUFFERERS

Boy Scouts of 163 Toronto Groups have by personal contribution and through entertainments and other means raised $1,500 for the district "Chins Up Fund" for brother Boy Scout war sufferers in Britain. For the same purpose Oshawa Scouts raised nearly $300. and Huntsville Scouts $75. by special Scout Apple Days.

NEW LITTLE THEATRE GROUP HELPS SCOUTS

BOY SCOUTS PROMINENT IN YEAR'S HONORS AT QUEEN'S AND R. M. C.

Boy Scouts figured prominently in scholastic honors and student elections this year at Queen's University and Royal Military College. Of the three top honors men at the latter two were Scouts, and at Queen's Scouts were elected presidents of the Arts, Engineering and Alma Mater societies.

THIS SCOUT GAVE AN ARM

When Montreal High School entered the local National Salvage drive, Patrol Leader Teddy Stanley of the school's Boy Scout Troop brought in one of the biggest contributions, in a double sense. This was the 400 pounds of tinfoil he had beein saving in order to secure an artificial arm from a firm advertising such a project. He had suffered amputation as the result of an infection.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

"God the Preserver of Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday, June 15th.

The Golden Text is from Deuteronomy 33: 72. "The eternal God is thy refuge, and underneath are the everlasting arms."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "He that dwelleth in the secret place of the most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty. I will say of the Lord, He is my refuge and my fortress: my God, in him will I trust." (Psalm 91.1, 2.).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook 'Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures' by Mary Baker Eddy: "The relations of God and man, divine Principle and idea, are indestructible in Science; and Science knows no lapse from our return to harmony, but holds the divine order or spiritual law, in which God and all that He creates are perfect and eternal, to have remained unchanged in its eternal history." (Page 470).

OBITUARY

LATE MRS. R. ALEX KING

Arundel — There passed away at the Western Division of the Montreal General Hospital on June 2, Mrs. R. Alex King, formerly Annie Wilson, second daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wilson of Lachute, in her 68th year.

She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. T. Wilson, of Lachine, and Mrs. C. J. Staniforth, of Arundel. Her husband, the late Alex King, predeceased her five years ago.

The funeral service was held from her home on Notre Dame de Grace Avenue to Kenningstone Church, and was conducted by Rev. I. A. Montgomery. Burial was in Mount Royal Cemetery.

THE LATE SAML. WILSON

The death of Mr. Samuel Wilson, of Brownsburg, came as a great shock to his many friends. He had been suffering for some time with heart trouble and passed away suddenly on Wednesday, June 4th.

Born in Grenville 66 years ago, Mr. Wilson had spent most of his life in Brownsburg. He had been employed by the C-I-L for the past 25 years, and was pensioned about three years ago.

He is survived by his two sons and two daughters — Harvey, Melvin, Rhoda and Mrs. E. Laurin; eight grandchildren, and an aunt, Mrs. H. Burns.

The funeral was held Saturday, June 7th, from the Brownsburg United Church. The Rev. S. J. Pike, assisted by the Rev. E. Orsborn, officiated. The pall-bearers were—Messrs. Earl Smillie, Joseph McAndrew, Henry Burns, William Hewitt, Stewart Campbell, Eddie Laurin. Interment was made in Lachute Cemetery.

LATE LEMUEL D. TAYLOR

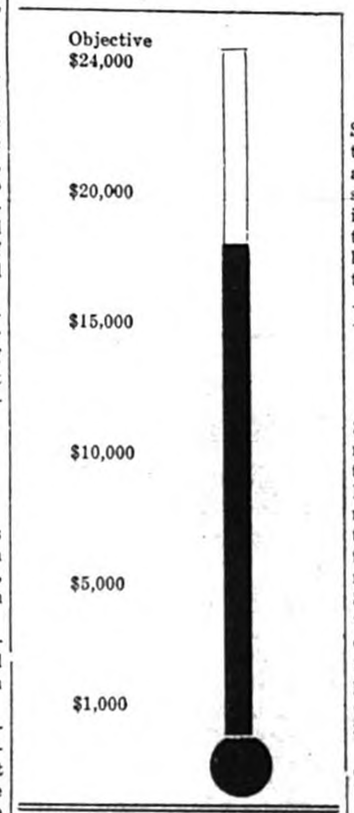

Arundel — There passed away suddenly on May 11th at his home, 55 Grace Street, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Lemuel D. Taylor, in his 65th year.

When quite young, owing to the death of their mother Mr. Taylor and his younger brother, Dan, came from the States to live with their aunt, Miss Nancy Taylor, of Carillon Hill, later coming to Lachute to learn the bakery business. Mr. Taylor then moved to the Sault, where he has resided for over 35 years.

His wife, formerly Margaret Ellen Wilson, predeceased him in March, as did also his brother Dan, in January of this year.

Left to mourn the loss of their loving parents are Dan, of Sault Ste. Marie, Mrs. Wilson, of Toronto, and Miss Margaret, at home, also a number of relatives in and around Lachute, who join with his many friends in their sincere sympathy to the bereaved.

Spitfire Fund Receives Boost This Week; Now At $18,000 Mark

Community Efforts and Individual Gifts

Returns from the Lachute Boy Scouts' scrap metal collection, and the proceeds of a raffle and dance at Kerr's Farm, Lakefield — besides a number of other group and individual donations — have given the Spitfire drive a substantial boost this week and brought the total to upwards of $18,000.

Plymouth Car on View, Tickets for Sale at Lachute Fair

Mr. D. MacRae, of MacRae Motor Sales, Lachute, reports a good response in his particular effort for this cause, the drawing for a 1941 Plymouth sedan, which he is furnishing at cost price besides undertaking the labor and organizing of the drawing. Mr. W. D. Stewart, manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia here, has agreed to handle the funds. The winner of this drawing will receive a 4-door Special 1941 Plymouth sedan, duty paid, valued at $1,325 — with the option of accepting the cost price in cash.

The car will be on view at Lachute Fair, where tickets will also be for sale.

"KILWIN", PEDIGREED DOG, TO BE DISPOSED OF AT GRANDSTAND

Another Spitfire feature at the Fair will be the drawing, Saturday afternoon before the grandstand, for "Kilwin", the pedigreed Cocker Spaniel given by Mrs. E. Kilgour Wilson, Lachute, and on which raffle tickets have been sold during the past few weeks.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. John Hadley of Lachute announce the engagement of their daughter, Grace Isobel, to Mr. William Charles White, son of the late Mr. William H. White and of Mrs. White, of Brownsburg, Que. The marriage will take place in July.

Married Saturday at United Church Manse

Finlayson - Rosborough

The marriage of Anna Kirk, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. W. B. Rosborough, of Lachute, and Mr. James Gentles Finlayson, of Brownsburg, son of the late James Finlayson and of Mrs. Finlayson, of Prince Albert, Sask., took place here Saturday afternoon at four o'clock, at the United Church manse, the home of the bride's parents. The bride's father, assisted by Rev. J. H. Hamilton, her uncle, performed the ceremony. The wedding music was played by Mrs. J. Ralph Kirk. The manse was decorated with ferns and garden flowers.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. J. Ralph Kirk, M.P., the bride wore her mother's wedding gown of ivory satin and shadow lace, and her mother's veil held in place by orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses. Mrs. Rosborough, mother of the bride, was gowned in Queen's blue sheer, with navy accessories, and wore a corsage of Rapture roses.

A reception followed the ceremony. Later the bridal couple left on their honeymoon, the bride travelling in a navy and white silk dress under a navy tailored coat, with navy gloves, bag and shoes of crushed kid, navy felt hat and a sable neckpiece, the gift of the bridegroom. On their return they will reside in Brownsburg.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. J. Ralph Kirk, of Antigonish, N. S.; Mrs. Yorke Barrington, of Sydney Mines, N. S.; Dr. and Mrs. J. B. McKenzie, of Newcastle, N. B.; Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Hamilton, of Maxville, Ont.; Mr. A. K. Cameron and Mr. and Mrs. R. J. D. The Rev. C. Cushing, accompanied by Mrs. Cushing and children, attended the Montreal-Ottawa Conference of the United Church, held in Montreal last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Curran, of Covey Hill, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Graham. Miss Muriel Graham and Mr. Melvin Graham were also guests of their parents over the week-end.

Mrs. Jack Alexander and Mr. John Dobbie attended the funeral of the late Miss MacAllister on Saturday in Vankleek Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Cooke and Miss Stella Cooke are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Bennett in Sudbury, Ont.

Lance- Corporal Arthur Bennett, of the R.C.C.S., visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Bennett, over the week-end.

Miss Ethel Cooke spent the week-end at her home here.

Miss Dorothy Kerr was a week-end guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Kerr.

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Cooke and Miss Margaret Cooke spent the week-end at their home here. Miss Florence Ray, of Montreal, was their guest.

Mr. Drennan MacArthur was a week-end guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. K. MacArthur.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Simon, of Lachine, spent the week-end at his home here.

Mrs. J. P. Gordon and daughter, Lois, spent the week-end in Lachute visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gordon.

Miss Viola Moncrieff spent the week-end in Montreal.

Mrs. Thos. Marshall, Mrs. L. Goldsmith, the Misses Thelma Marshall and Birdie Forsyth, Master Keith and Mr. Garnet Marshall, spent the week-end at their cottage.

Miss Pansy Proudlock spent last week in Montreal visiting her aunt, Mrs. Thos. Marshall.

Miss Laura Davis spent the holiday visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Davis.

ST. ANDREWS EAST

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Watson occupied their summer home for the week-end.

The marriage of Miss Dorothy Christine (Doreen), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Jeffrey, of Westmount and St. Andrews East, to Mr. James H. Patrick, son of the late Dr. David Patrick and Mrs. Patrick, of Westmount, will take place on June 28th.

(Intended for last issue)

Miss Irene McLure, of Montreal, who was a week-end guest of Miss Ita Wales, favored with a solo at the United Church, which was much appreciated.

On June 1st the golf course was practically monopolized by the lovers of that sport employed at the Northern Electric plant in Montreal. Some made the trip by bus, others in private cars.

The Reading Circle held the last meeting of the season, recently, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Pitcairn. Mrs. Pitcairn, who was the reader appointed for this meeting, chose the topic, "Democracy — Today and Tomorrow", from Dr. Benes' book. Some of Lord Tweedsmuir's writings on the subject were also read. Discussion and refreshments completed the program.

Official Opening of New Recreation Centre for B'burg War Workers

"Already it has built for the Government and is operating on their behalf two large explosives factories with a third under way; a chemical plant with a second nearly finished; and several other important projects are making rapid progress. What has been accomplished in Brownsburg you can see for yourselves. How, you may ask, could a new company, in such a short time, do so much? The answer is simple. It is because C-I-L not only placed at D. I. L.'s service the technical experience and knowledge of its chemists, its engineers, and all its trained head office departments; but it also transferred to the new organization more than 1,000 men and women, many of them specially engaged and trained for the job by C-I-L. It is to the devotion and ability of such men as your Vice-President, Mr. Greville Smith; Mr. Yancey; Mr. Jackson; Mr. Johnson; and many other officials and key-men less well-known to you, that we owe—indeed, that Canada owes — grateful thanks for an organization of which we are all rightly proud. And I know they will be the first to acknowledge that as far as Brownsburg is concerned, what success has been achieved would have been impossible without the splendid co-operation of the men and women here tonight, whether they are newcomers in D. I. L. or old-timers from C-I-L.

"On more than one occasion recently the work of D. I. L. has been referred to in terms of highest praise by representatives of the Department of Munitions and Supply. If you need evidence of what the Government thinks of your efforts, let me remind you that it is because of the fine job you did on ball ammunition that Brownsburg was chosen for the very important work of producing flame tracer bullets. And from the work done here the new factory at Verdnu has come into being. Training and experience gained in Brownsburg provided the basis of that development, and it is to you that Verdun will look for special supplies. It is your skill that will set the standards for their workmanship.

"There is another question which I am going to ask and answer tonight. 'Who profits by all this?' I might reply with another question: 'Who profits by anything if we don't win the war?' Let me furnish you with a few facts. The material which the Ammunition Division manufactures for the Government is supplied at specially reduced prices, giving a very narrow return out of which we must take care of the future. For constructing and operating Government plant, D. I. L. receives a fixed management fee of very moderate size. In other words — and I speak now as the responsible head of both C-I-L and D. I. L. — neither company intends or expects to profit from war orders True, our commerical business has greatly expanded; but taxes are taking our profits faster than we can make them. Those of you who are shareholders in C-I-L know that although we did more business in 1940 than in 1939, the earnings per share were less and the dividend lower. Nothing is farther from our thoughts than grumbling, for we are eager and proud to do our share as employers in the nation's war effort. And if we do our part, cheerfully, you must do your part no less willingly. For in effect you are working for the Government just as your Company is. Your hard work and fine workmanship are your contribution to the war effort. Or I should say, part of your contribution, because through War Savings Certificates you are backing the Government you work for; and if you still want to do more you will hear later this evening the appeal of the Victory Loan.

"Without a doubt what has been going on here must have seemed on a very large scale; so many men and so much material represent a considerable invasion of Brownsburg. But if you add the transport services that brought the men and materials here; the technicians in their different departments who were organizing the work, designing the plant and buying the materials; and the factories and workshops of every description employed in supplying a multitude of requirements; you will see that what is here is no more than a part of an enormous army of workers who for months have been toiling with you to make this plant possible. And that is not the whole picture. For beyond the industrial organization stands the solid commercial life of the Dominion.

"And finally, if we look deeply enough, we should see the whole of the Canadian people—each person is some way or another having contributed to the work in which those employed here have been engaged. Truly, we are not alone in this job. We should be in a desperate position if we were. And to me it is an encouraging thought that what we have in Brownsburg is not just a plant producing ammunition. It is part of the strength of that vast organization of factories and workshops throughout the Empire in which men are exerting themselves to the utmost to give our fighting forces the greatest striking power ever known.

"Remember though, what we have accomplished so far is only the means of production, not the end. We cannot take buildings and machinery and hurl them at Hitler. You know and I know that ahead of us is a long road to travel. Weeks and months and years of steady production of the supplies so urgently needed overseas—that will be the real test of our endurance and our determination to win. This is no ordinary job. These are no ordinary times. We must put aside many of our peacetime comforts and habits. You will be called upon to maintain the highest possible standards of production. Every time a record working schedule is achieved, a new and heavier working schedule must be attempted. This must be done, not for material gain or profit for any of us, but because the lives of valiant fighters depend upon our efforts.

"There is one last thought I would like to leave with you. I have said that the lives of fighting men may depend upon your efforts, and I know how you will respond to that appeal. But remember also that you have another responsibility. Loss of time, loss of production are as much a help to the enemy as the sinking of a shipload of supplies. Here in Brownsburg, in the kind of work which you are doing, excellent records for operating without lost-time accidents have been achieved To accomplish such records demands unceasing vigilance on the part of every worker. Every safety rule must be observed every minute of the working day. A moment's negligence or carelessness, short cuts and labor-saving dodges that break safety rules may bring disaster. If you take chances with your work, you take chances with your own safety and with the safety of your comrades. Every working day, hour or minute that is lost; every pound of material that is wasted; must delay the outcome of the struggle. Every gain in time; every increase in production; must hasten victory.

"That final thought brings me to the pleasant duty which I have been asked to perform tonight. For with the thought of safety and accident prevention must always be associated the opportunity for relaxation and recreation. Therefore in declaring this fine Recreation Hall officially open, I do so with the sincere hope that it will afford to all of you opportunities for relaxation and enjoyment that will enable you to face the times ahead with renewed strength and the serenity of mind which is essential to perfect workmanship."

Appreciation to Employees; Recognition for Long Service

Mr. H. Greville Smith conveyed thanks of the management to the employees. for their work and untiring efforts in making the present production levels attainable. Referring to the thanks that had already been expressed by and on behalf of the Government, Mr. Greville Smith recalled the recent visit made to the de Salaberry Works by the Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Munitions and Supply, and Col. J. L. Ralston, Minister of National Defence, when Mr. Howe had declared that when he turned a job over to D. I. L. he could forget about it because he knew with confidence that the goods would be delivered on schedule, if not before.

Such a great compliment from Mr. Howe was, said Mr. Greville Smith, a tribute to the employees at Brownsburg as well as to the other 8,000 employees of D. I. L. but it also pointed to the great responsibility that rested upon them all.

Following the opening ceremonies, Mr. Huggett presented three Twenty-Five Year Pins and watches to Miss Emma Proulx, W. H. Lonsdale and Walter Townsend.

Various other awards for hockey and bowling were also presented.

THE SHAKESPERIAN FESTIVAL

The spirit of England is astounding. The annual Shakesperian Festival on the birthday of the Bard was held as usual, with the place so crowded it was almost impossible to get accommodation, and people had to sleep on cots in the dressing-rooms of the theatres and in fact almost anyplace where a cot could be set up. Practically all of the theatres in London have had to be closed but the Players have gone to the Provinces, Towns and Cities which have not had any theatre for years are having successful seasons. When they are bombed out of one town they move to another. Imagine going to a musical comedy at 10.30 in the morning, and yet that is when some of the matinees begin. Business as usual is more than a phrase.

CONSOLIDATED SCHOOLS

Yesterday I visited a Consolidated School and it was a delight to see the way in which it was equipped. It shows once more what can be done by co-operation. The little one-room schools throughout the country have to struggle along as best they can whereas if they co-operated and had a Consolidated school they could have so much more. The Primary room had a sand-table and the present project was an air-port. The things even these little youngsters can make are amazing. Each room has its gramophone. There is a large auditorium where all the classes can assemble to hear speakers and music. Visual education is not neglected and they have a motion picture equipment. There has been, and is, plenty of good teaching in the little red school house but is seems too bad they must miss out on many of the interesting modern development in education. What a world we could have if we could only learn to work together.

TINS TO FIT

Have you the proper-sized baking tins and casseroles and such-like to fit the needs of your family? It is a queer thing the way these needs differ. There is nothing worse than having a big family, and it having shrunk, to try to go on baking and serving in too large dishes. On the other hand it is maddening to try to cook for a family and not have a dish big enough. We have three-sized pie-plates. Little fellows which just make a nice pie for two. Medium big ones and then the big ones. So I can fit my pie to my family. I must practice what I preach because the only casserole I have right now is one I bought one winter there were seven of us. This year there are four and I either make too much or the food looks silly in this big casserole. I have several sizes of cake tins and if the cake is going to be too large I halve the recipe and bake it in a small tin. If you have the kind of family that gets tired of things quickly, then small tins and small quantities are in order.

APPLE JUICE IS CHEAPER

Most of us like to be able to serve unexpected callers with a bite to eat and something to drink. Somehow we express our hospitality in this way. When the warm weather comes a cool drink is in order. Have you tried serving apple juice in place of a soft drink? If you buy the large 105 oz. can, believe it or not, it is considerably cheaper than most soft drinks. It keeps for some time in a cool place, so just punch a hole on either side as you do for condensed milk, and leave it right in the can. Have a package of biscuits tucked away and a can of apple juice, and you are all set for the callers who come on the day you are just out of cake. Ginger snaps go well with apple juice. If you haven't tried it in your mixed drinks you have missed something.

LAMB WITH MINT

To serve mint with lamb is traditional. Here are a couple of tried and true recipes. Mint Sauce is for present use and the jelly for the days when you cannot get fresh mint. The jelly is such a pretty green that I use it in the winter whenever a bit of green is indicated.

MINT SAUCE

¼ cup mint, ½ cup cider vinegar, 1 tablespoon sugar.

Add the vinegar to the sugar and when dissolved add the mint leaves. Let stand in a warm place for a half-hour. If the vinegar is strong it is better to dilute it with water.

MINT JELLY

1 cup mint, ½ cup cider vinegar, 1 cup water, ½ bottle pectin, green coloring.

Wash mint and pack into cup without removing stems. Put into large saucepan and press the leaves with a masher. Add vinegar, water, and sugar and mix. Bring to a boil over hottest fire. While the mixture is coming to a boil add the green coloring a very little at a time until the desired shade is reached. As soon as the mixture boils add pectin, stirring constantly. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil ½ minute. Remove from fire and skim. Pour through a fine sieve into sterelized glasses and seal.

Can Canadian Women Fail, in Face of This Example ?

Says 'War Weapons Week' Objective More Than Doubled in One English Rural District

A Timely and Stirring Challenge at Crucial Stage of Canada's Victory Loan Appeal

Village W. I. Worker Sells $320 Worth of War Savings Stamps In A Week

A letter received this week from a Women's Institute member in Warminster, Wiltshire, England, sounds a challenging note at this time, when Canadian citizens are called upon to support the war effort by lending their savings to the country . . . Addressed to a Lachute Women's Institute member through the interchange idea with correspondents overseas, this letter also reveals the energy displayed by women's groups in Britain's fight for freedom. The reference to the "War Weapons Week" canvass deserves the particular attention of women readers, who wield a notable influence in public sentiment — an influence which will be reflected in the outcome of Canada's 1941 Victory Loan appeal.

Following are extracts from the letter . . .

Warminster, Eng.
May 15, 1941

First of all, I would like to thank you on behalf of our members for sending us the tea bags. We are only allowed two ounces per person each week, and at the W. I. meetings we have a communal tin and members are asked to bring a little when they can . . . Mrs. Wait told me of your further thoughtfulness in sending garden seeds. Please thank all your members and give them our love and greetings.

We still have our monthly meetings, but instead of holding them in the Chapel School room, which was commandeered for a canteen for the troops, we have been invited to private houses.

Last week we had a very busy time. As you no doubt know, most of the English towns have War Weapons Week when they try to realize a certain sum to lend to the Government. The Warminster district was asked to raise the sum of £80,000 (£4 per head for the population) and I am so proud to say the amount we raised was £186,000. I was so delighted, as I am a Wiltshire woman. (We are known as "Moonrakers"!)

Col. Wait is the organizer for our village for War Savings, and I am one of his collectors. I have a district of about 20 houses, and every Monday afternoon I sell 6d. Savings Stamps. I usually sell about £3 worth, but last week my people made a special effort and I collected £67. I was as pleased as a puppy with two tails, and I enlisted 17 new members. I was very tired at the end of the week, for we had an entertainment (given by the troops), a whist drive, a dance and a darts competition.

I am a member of the W. I. committee and we have a produce stall (Fri. evenings) for surplus flowers, fruit and vegetables. Last year I handed £18 to our treasurer to buy wool for comforts for the troops . . . Please do not think I am bragging, but I thought your members might be interested in our activities.

We have had knitting parties, also sewing parties for the poor little kiddies from the bombed-out areas. In the next village there are a dozen or so; most of them have no parents, and we have provided them with all the necessary clothing. They are all under five years.

Our W. I. has a busy season ahead. Last year if we grew our own fruit we were allowed 8 lbs. of sugar per head for jam-making. This year there are to be no individual permits, and the W. I. are asked to purchase the fruit and make all the jam in the village, and then hand it over to the local authorities. Our ration is ½ lb. of jam per month, and ½ lb. of sugar per week.

Thank you again, and your members, for your kindness.

Yours sincerely.
—Mrs. D. Parker.

Make Father's Day An Anniversary of Love and Respect

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

The days that are set aside to pay tribute to human relationships can, if we will let them, touch deep springs of feeling and affection in our hearts. Fathers Day — June 15th — is one of these heart-warming days.

It has been said, "We can inexitably tell the quality of a person by the way that person speaks of his or her father." Certainly this is true of the founder of Father's Day, Mrs. John Bruce Dodd, of Spokane, Washington. Mrs. Dodd revealed the fine quality of her mind and heart when she started the movement to set aside the third Sunday of June as Father's Day. The movement is a tribute to the attitude of soul of Mrs. Dodd's father, William J. Smart, a G. A. R. veteran, who had reared his motherless group of sons and daughters alone.

Early in 1910 Mrs. Dodd launched her idea in a petition she sent to the Ministerial Association of Spokane, urging them to speak from the pulpit, on the third Sunday in June, on the importance of a father's place in the home and on the importance of the protection of children.

The National Council of the Young Men's Christian Association joined with the Ministerial Association in enthusiastically backing Mrs. Dodd's idea. Now the governors of three-quarters of the States in the Union officially proclaim the third Sunday of June as Father's Day.

If you wish to observe the day dedicated to your father, whether he is here or gone before, mark it in the way you find most fitting. Do homage with a gift, if that seems to you a natural and pleasant way of remembering.

More significant than any gift is, in the words of the founder of Father's Day, "an attitude of soul."

Whatever you do or say on Father's Day, don't be a kill-joy to people who respect and treasure anniversaries of the heart. Don't scoff at the observing of Father's Day. Don't prate about the fact that you think "there are too many holidays", hoping thereby to turn attention away from the fact that you are stubbornly unwilling to do homage to the day.

Don't be unattractively facetious about sentiments that may be sacred to other people. Don't tarnish the day for great-hearted people who are keeping the ideal bright.

Father's Day is a day for good thoughts, good words. And today's world needs these anniversaries of affection and honor.

A pretty young lady was driving her car when something went wrong with the engine. The traffic light turned from green to red and back to green, and still she could not get the car to budge. Finally, the traffic policeman strolled up to her.

"What's the matter, miss?" he enquired. "Haven't we got colors you like?"

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Famous Authority on Good Manners and Good Taste

Wedding Reception Depends on Wishes of the Bride's Parents

The type and size of the wedding reception depend on the wishes and finances of the bride's family. It may be an informal gathering of only the families, or the families and relatives and a few close friends at the bride's home, with the serving of the simplest of refreshments. It may be a catered wedding breakfast or reception held at the bride's home, or in the ballroom of a hotel or assembly room.

Since the reception follows immediately after the ceremony, the hour is determined by the time of the ceremony. In general, the kind of reception depends on the time it is held. An informal early-morning ceremony may be followed by a breakfast. A late-morning or High Noon ceremony is followed by a "wedding breakfast", which really is a luncheon. An afternoon or evening ceremony is followed by a reception.

At the reception, whether formal or informal, the bride and bridegroom and the bride's attendants are a part of the receiving line. The best man and ushers do not stand in the receiving line. Customarily and appropriately, the bride's mother, who is the hostess of the occasion, stands first in the line, to greet the guests.

Often the bride's father, the host, stands next to the bride's mother; he may, if he prefers, circulate among the guests. Next, usually, is the bridegrooms' father—usually, is the bridegroom's father—then the bridegroom; at his right, the bride; at her right, the maid (or matron) of honor, and at he right, the bridesmaids.

As the guests arrive, they are greeted first by the bride's mother. They then pass down the line, shaking hands with each member of the receiving line, saying a few words of greeting, and making some gracious comment about the "beautiful wedding," the "lovely bride" or other appropriate remark. They congratulate the bridegroom and offer their best wishes to the bride. (They do not "congratulate" the bride).

When all the guests have been received, the bride and bridegroom and their parents take their places at table.

Often there is a bride's table, at which are seated the bride, bridegroom, and the members of the wedding party. The bride sits at the right of the bridegroom; the best man at the right of the bride; the maid (or matron) of honor at the left of the bridegroom. The bridesmaids and ushers are seated alternately.

There are certain definite conventions to be observed in the seating arrangements of the parents' table. The bride's mother, as hostess, sits at the head of the table, and the bridegroom's father, who is the male guest of honor at the wedding, sits at her right; at her left is the officiating clergyman. Opposite the bride's mother is the bride's father, the host, with the bridegroom's mother (the woman guest of honor) at his right, and the next ranking woman guests (the clergyman's wife, if she is present) at his left.

At this table may be close relatives of both families, especially intimate friends and distinguished guests. They are seated with careful regard and compliment to their relationship to the families, age, and all other important distinctions.

At a small wedding the plan may be to have only one table. In this case, the bride and bridegroom and their attendants usually sit at one end of the table, and the parents and relatives sit at the other end. The bride, bridegroom and their attendants may be seated near the center along one side of the table. It is important, however, even if there is only one table, that the seating formalities of the bride's parents and their guests (as outlined for the parents' table) be observed.

The bride's cake — a white cake iced and often elaborately decorated — is usually the centerpiece of the bridal table. The bride always cuts the first slice of this cake, and shares it with the bridegroom. If the reception is small, she usually cuts the rest of the cake for the guests; at a large reception, an attendant cuts and serves it; when the service is buffet, the guests may cut the cake for themselves.

The wedding cake — a dark fruit cake — is sometimes cut in advance and served at the reception, but usually guests expect a piece of the wedding cake to carry home with them. The usual custom is to have small individual boxes of the wedding cake piled on a table near the door, so that each departing guest may take one as a memento. The pieces may be simply wrapped in white tissue paper, or first in waxed paper, then in tissue or silver paper, and tied with narrow white ribbon.

Usually it is the best man who proposes a toast to the bride and bridegroom. The guests rise, raise their glasses, and drink the toast. The bride and bridegroom do not rise, nor do they raise their glasses for the toast. The bridegroom replies to the toast with thanks for his bride and himself. He usually merely expresses his thanks.

If there is dancing, the bride and bridegroom dance the first dance together. And, as desired, wedding presents may or may not be shown.

As the bride leaves the reception to change to her travelling clothes, she gaily throws her bouquet among her bridesmaids. She says goodbye to her family; sends for the bridegroom's parents, to say goodbye to them.

Then comes the merry dash through the aisle of relatives and friends, amid a shower of good wishes and confetti.

The doctor who said kissing shortens life no doubt meant single life.

Good News for Stamp Collectors

— Allan McGee —

A new six cent airmail stamp is soon to be issued in the United States.

If any person would like to have a cover mailed on the first day of issue, here is all they have to do. Write to the Postmaster at Washington, D.C., and enclose an envelope addressed to yourself. Also enclose a money-order or remittance of six cents for each envelope desired. The money must be paid in American funds and you cannot send unused stamps in payment. On June 25th, when the stamps are issued, the Postmaster will mail your letter bearing one of the new stamps.

"Hello! I hear you've got married?"

"Yes, I got tired of restaurant food."

"And now?"

"I'm beginning to like it again."

Military Band Parades Give Impetus To Recruiting, Loan and Exhibn.

All Services To Take Part in Street Parades Tonight and Friday

Recruiting Tent at Fair Grounds

The military band of the District Depot, Military District No. 4, from Montreal, arrived on scheduled time this morning and marched from the outskirts of town down the Main Street in military style. Comprising 32 pieces, they will take part in the recruiting campaign now being staged, and also play at the Exhibition.

This evening and on Friday at 7 o'clock, there will be an "All Service" Parade, including war veterans from Lachute and Brownsburg, Scouts and Wolf Cubs, starting from Muir's Service Station and proceeding west on Main Street, crossing Barron's bridge to the Exhibition Grounds.

On Friday morning the band will visit St. Andrews East, and on Saturday morning they will play at Brownsburg.

The above program will be supplemented by brief periodical reminders over the loud-speakers at the grounds, notifying the public at large that prospective recruits may be interviewed at the "Recruiting Tent."

The playing of martial airs also gave the day of good send-off in the sale of bonds for the Victory Loan, the band finally halting in front of campaign headquarters.

Major Scott, M.C., and Major Robert Roy are in attendance with the band, and it is expected that a large number of recruits will be enrolled.

ring where judging takes place, in sight of grandstand, and before which the military band and vaudeville artists entertain both afternoons and evenings — the entire picture is unsurpassed by any rural show in this province.

Over 100 registered Ayrshires have been entered in the cattle exhibits, and a heavy list in Belgian horses, including Rubin de Wolf and Jeannine, entered by the Trappist Monks, of Oka. Also six outstanding Belgians entered by Fairacres Farm of Omaha, Nebraska, are among the entries.

In light horses the jumping classes are well filled. These will be featured every day with entries running as high as 13 to a class.

Among the exhibitors of horses are Gilbert E. Arnold, Grenville; Jersey Health Farm, Ile Bizard; National Breweries; John Hodgins, Carp, Ont.; W. J. Hungerbuhler, Carillon; James Murdoch and Ross McAdam.

In cattle classes, among the leading exhibitors are — J. H. Black, C. J. Miller, W. G. and John Heatlie, Albert Daoust, Archie Graham, John A. Hodgins, R. R. Ness and Sons, J. P. Bradley and others.

The track is in excellent condition and a large entry in the horse racing events is expected.

On Saturday afternoon, "Kilwin", the pedigreed Cocker spaniel donated to the Spitfire Fund by Mrs. E. K. Wilson, will be drawn for, and the winner will be awarded the prize on the vaudeville stage fronting the grandstand.

Arriving in the early hours of this morning, the "Great Sims Midway of Merriment and Entertainment" is now lined up, with a show that is modern and fun-provoking throughout.

Armless Performer Talented Musician, Accurate Marksman

OUTSTANDING ACT AT LACHUTE FAIR

The search for novelty is a never-ending task with amusement purveyors. Those who specialize in furnishing amusement to the public will travel half way across the world, and consider the time well spent, if they bring back something which stands definitely in a class by itself.

In almost every instance, performers who reach perfection have every faculty and a skill developed by long practice. When, however, there appears a man who has been deprived of the most necessary adjuncts to the human frame, his arms, who laughs at fate and says there is no such thing as handicap — there you have the King of optimists.

Chelm St. Orr, appearing at Lachute Fair, is the world's outstanding example of such a man. In a boyish prank, horse-riding over an unused cut-off through a woods the youth was unseated and injured. What would have been dire misfortune to others proved a spur to young St. Orr. He has patiently set himself to perform feats that none but himself have ever been able to acomplish. A clever musician and rifle shot with his hands while a College student, he taught himself the same accomplishments with his feet!

St. Orr is a musician of extraordinary accomplishment. He is a master soloist on the slide trombone, manipulating the instrument solely with his feet. Ripley made this performance the subject of one of his "Believe It or Not" cartoons. In the same manner he plays the keyless trumpet and changes over to the drums, playing both snare and bass drums at the same time, manipulating the sticks with the toes.

St. Orr is a marksman of rare skill. Few would attempt the thrilling feat of shooting a lighted cigarette held in the lips of his brother. So uncanny is his skill with a rifle that he shoots the spots out of playing cards.

Driving nails and juggling a hammer in tempo to music of the band and sawing a board, splitting a block down to the size of a toothpick, all to swing music, indicates mastery of his feet.

St. Orr is an entertainer whom you watch in amazement — working so smoothly that you forget he is not using hands and fingers and presented with such speed and good natured abandon that the performer actually seems to enjoy his work. Running through the act is a strong vein of comedy.

Chelm St. Orr writes more legibly with a pen than most people do holding the same in their hand. He is also very capable with a typewriter. The act has been received with acclaim in Great Britain and the continent also in the Antidopes, scoring a pronounced hit in Australia and New Zealand.

GREAT LAKES BOATS GO EAST TO RELEASE COASTAL VESSELS

Craft Capable of Ocean Travel Released to Ease Strain on Atlantic Services

Women Enlist in School of Air-Mechanics; Training Fire-Fighters for Overseas.

By Allan McGee

Specially Written for Readers of The Watchman

In all larger cities of Canada the fire departments are making preparations to send fire-fighters to England.

The men selected for the job will be well trained in Canada before they leave for active service. They will learn how to extinguish oil bombs and incendiary bombs. They will be taught the newest methods of fighting the terrible blitz fires which have destroyed whole districts in a single night. Practice will be given in organization and fire control, and by the time the men are ready for departure they will be the best trained firemen in the world.

Once more we will be able to prove to Herr Hitler that we can take the worst he can give out. We will send as many fire-fighters as they need just as soon as England is ready to use them.

From the head of the Great Lakes are coming the surplus ships to replace vessels on coastal duty. The coastal ships are capable of ocean travel and they will thus be freed to ease the strain on the Atlantic shipping.

Meanwhile the lake steamers will ply their way up and down the Atlantic coast from Newfoundland to the West Indies, and will carry the food supplies for the nation. The bigger boats will carry the fighting materials to the Motherland.

Several hundred women have already enlisted in Canada's first school of air-mechanics for women.

Before they signed for the training they were warned in clear-cut words that they were not entering into a romantic life. They will have to work on air-frames and aero-engines as mechanics, and their hands will be greasy and dirty when the day's work is over. No more nail-polish for the women, from now on.

When they are fully trained they will enter the aircraft factories of the Empire to replace men needed for active fighting.

At school they will study engines and rigging, flight theory and drill, air regulations and pilotage.

When they graduate they will be full-fledged mechanics, capable of doing their full share to beat the enemy.

FOOD DRYING PROPOSED

At a recent conference held in Washington, D.C., the National Nutrition Conference told an audience of more than 1,000 persons that it would be practical to dry food for Army use.

They proposed that portable drying machines be sent around the country to prepare the foods for easy storage.

A bushel of grain, after being dried of all water, would only weigh a few pounds and yet would retain all the food value of the full seed. A gallon of milk would make a pound of dried powder, and all sorts of fruit could be dried for future use.

In making this proposal the Conference recommended this type of food preparation as being especially valuable in time of war. The food is easily stored, does not decay, and can be transported more readily.

In addition it would also serve as a new source of ready cash for the average farmer. The drying machines would operate in specified areas in a manner similar to the threshing outfits.

SCOTS WHA' HAE !

The Battle of Benghazi was in full swing. The colonel of a Scots regiment was jealous of the large numbers of prisoners the Australians were taking, so he called his men together and offered 50 cents per hundred prisoners brought in.

The next day a Scotsman marched in with 1,000 Italians; the officer paid him five dollars, at the same time asking him how he managed to get so many single-handed. The Scot replied, "I bought them from the Australians at 25 cents a hundred."

Seigniory Club Police Arrest Theft Suspects

Montebello, June 16 — Three men and a young woman, arrested here on shoplifting charges by the Seigniory Club police over the week-end, were transferred to Montreal and Hull for arraignment. When several complaints from local merchants were made, Rene Labrie, 24, J. Paradis, 22, A. Diorio, 24, and Marie Ritchot, 19, were surrounded in the village by the club police and held while Detectives R. Paul and A. Danis of the Provincial Police travelled from Montreal and Lachute.

In the automobile used by the quartet, the police reported they found six suits, two dozen pairs of men's socks and silk stockings, and several pairs of shoes which were identified by local merchants. Arraigned at Hull on theft charges, all pleaded not guilty and were remanded for trial on June 20th.

Note of Thanks in Stolen Automobile

Hawkesbury — Lorenzo Parent's taxi, stolen here recently, was found halfway between St. Philippe and Lachute on Route 8, with a note pinned to the seat saying, "many thanks".

SPEAKER AT SEIGNIORY CONFERENCE

Hon. G. E. Dansereau at Recent Convention of Manufacturers' Assn.

At the Canadian Manufacturers' Association convention, held June 9th at the Seigniory Club, the Hon. Georges E. Dansereau, M.L.A. for Argenteuil, was guest speaker for the opening session. Mr. Dansereau tendered the regrets of Premier Adelard Godbout, who was unable to attend . . . Preluding his remarks with a warm tribute to the Premier — whose broad minded impartiality, he said, were qualities essential at this time in the interests of national unity — Mr. Dansereau spoke upon the important role that industrialists are filling in Canada's war program. The speaker said, in part:

To represent the Hon. Mr. Godbout here today is an honor indeed, and I must sincerely thank you for your kind invitation, which I have accepted with great pleasure . . . At whatever time the occasion might have presented itself, I should have considered it an honor to come before you with a message — for, as members of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, you constitute one of the most important groups in our country's economic organization and offer the best of opportunities, especially when you are gathered together in this way, for dissemination of ideas to further our national interests.

The critical nature of this hour is without a doubt the uppermost thought in our mind. Not sufficiently prepared at the outbreak of war, it was not long before the consequences of the Empire's perhaps too optimistic wooing of peace made themselves felt, and the alarming nature of our plight loomed up in all its stark reality.

As a first step, our foe—mighty in his possession of everything, it seemed, that was required to wage a devastating war — brought low with startling swiftness a power that had through centuries earned for itself an almost unique fame as a stronghold of national vigor, pride, courage and the will-to-endure. I refer to Poland, which, just prior to the Nazi onslaught, could scarce foresee itself at bay with the aggressor and defying his might.

1941 EXHIBITION ONE OF MOST SUCCESSFUL ON LOCAL RECORD

The 1941 Victory Loan Campaign

Argenteuil Still Short of Objective

URGENT CALL FOR LESSER INVESTMENTS; LACHUTE AND CALUMET LEAD PARADE.

Argenteuil Percentage Exceeds Huntingdon

At the time of going to press, subscriptions to the 1941 Victory Loan in this county amount to $903,000, composed of $400,000 from "special names" $397.000 cash and instalment purchases, and $106,000 in conversion of Dominion bonds maturing Nov. 15th next.

Objective for the cash and instalment portion of the campaign is $440,000 for this county, divided among the various districts as follows — the results so far attained being shown in each case:

	Objective	Returns to Date
Arundel	$30,000	22,550
Brownsb'g	80,000	66,400
Calumet	30,000	30,100
Grenville	45,000	28,150
Huberdeau	10,000	4,150
Lachute	155,000	205,250
Morin Hts.	25,000	9,100
St. Adolphe	10,000
St. Andrews E.	35,000	19,300
Weir	20,000	12,000
	$440,000	$397,000

It will be noted that Lachute and Calumet lead the parade, each having exceeded its objective — with several other districts close on their heels.

Huntingdon County, which pitted its response in friendly rivalry against Argenteuil, has attained only 51 per cent of its objective, while Argenteuil has reached 85 per cent at this stage.

With only a few days left, the committee in charge, headed by Wm. M. Scott and Clement Tremblay as joint chairmen, have issued a hurry-up call to the people of Argenteuil.

The immediate need to reach the county objective is $193,000. This can and must be obtained by prompt action, particularly in the purchase of hundreds of small-denomination bonds on the instalment plan. The canvassers have been unable to contact all prospects, but the responsibility rests with our citizens, to communicate with them, with their banker, or with Loan headquarters at Lachute.

HELP FINISH THE JOB !

Bundle for Britain

Workmen at the Consolidated Aircraft Corp. plant at San Diego, Calif., celebrated the 18th anniversary of the company by tying a tag "A Big Bundle for Britain." on the nose of the four-engined "Liberator" bombing plane destined for Britain's Royal Air Force.

YOUNG PUPILS DESCRIBE GVT. FARM SCHOOL

Eight Students Here from Training Centre in Rouville County

Tell Experiences and Methods at Governm't Agricultural School

Among the visitors on the second day of the Lachute Fair were a group of eight young men from the Youth Training Farm at St. Jean Baptiste, County of Rouville. These young men — four English and four French Canadian — were brought here by Messrs. Dussault and Ward, Farm School foreman, and Mr. W. G. Chappell, placement officer at the school.

The young men, who are learning practical farming through facilities by the Youth Training Plan inaugurated by the Federal and Provincial Governments, showed a keen interest in the stock, especially the horses. This was a gratifying interest, inasmuch as the Youth Training Farm is designed to give an apprenticeship course in practical farming to young men from the cities and large centres of this province.

In conversation with the young men it was learned that their visit to the Fair was tendered as a recognition for their work and study at the farm school. Trips of this kind are given to the boys during the summer months, for their they would have taken prizes.

The Youth Training Farm did not enter any of their own pure-bred Holstein stock at the Lachute Fair — which was a disappointment to the students, who felt sure they would have taken several ribbons with their animals.

The training centre is administrated privately by the Montreal Boys' Association and the A.C.J.C., (Association Catholique de la Jeunesse Canadienne Francaise) on behalf of the Provincial Government. The farm acquired by these organizations was the "Domaine de Monnoir", about 8 miles from Chambly; it was the farm on which a Holstein-Friesian Association picnic was held a few years ago. Its new barn is one of the most modern in the province, and is open for inspection at any time. It is a remarkable fact that very few of the students ever saw a farm at close quarters before going to the "Domaine de Monnoir", let alone lived and worked on one. The Youth Training Farm, with its 325 acres and complete line of machinery, recruits English and French Canadian youths between 16 and 30 who desire to learn farming. Each recruit is given a three to four month course in practical farming, with emphasis placed on milking and care of cows, and harnessing and handling of horses. At the end of the course placement is arranged, in accordance with the ability of the trainee.

A farm training centre of this kind is invaluable at any time, but it is of even greater importance now due to the call being made on youth by the war services. Some of the students seen at the Fair indicated that one of the reasons they had taken up farming was because it represented a contribution to the war effort, they being too young to participate in any other activities. Apparently conditions at the Farm School are designed to approximate actual farm life as closely as possible, with the result that the lads have no illusions as to what will be expected of them when placed.

The establishment of this training farm is definitely a step in the right direction and those responsible for it should be congratulated for their enterprise and foresight.

The world will be really progressing when it spends more money on face powder than gun powder.

RECEIVE NEWS MAN KILLED IN FRENCH ARMY

Emile Mingam, Age 30, Spent Several Years Employed Here

News Just Received By His Parents in Montreal

Through his parents in Montreal, news was received here yesterday that Emile Mingam, a young man of French birth who was well known among the younger set of Lachute a few years ago, met his death while fighting with the French forces on home soil May 29th of last year. Word was received through a comrade-in-arms who returned to Montreal last week. There has, however, been no official announcement of his death.

Mingam was employed here by the National Breweries, working in the office of the late Paul LaHaye, with whom he was later transferred to St. Jerome distributing centre of the company.

He was called to the French ranks late in 1939, and was 30 years of age when killed in May of last year . . . He is survived by his father, mother and sister in Montreal.

GRENV'L CURÉ SOUNDS CALL FOR RECRUITS

Father Brosseau Lends Aid to Exhibition Recruiting Unit

Through Loudspeakers Before Grandstand at Lachute Fair

"The Government is in a better position than we are to know what is needed to fight this war, and if the Government calls for men, that call should be answered," the Rev. H. D. J. Brosseau, parish priest at Grenville, told some 3,500 persons at Lachute Fair last Friday evening.

"This is a battle to the death, and we must pay and pray and fight." Father Brosseau, speaking in the microphone on the platform before a capacity crowd at the grandstand said: "Our boys are fighting for a great cause, and every support they ask, whether it be more men or equipment, it should be given them."

Father Brosseau was speaking in connection with a recruiting drive held in conjunction with the Fair. He addressed the crowd in both French and English, asking the young men of the district to join the army if they could be spared.

A recruiting party from Montreal, under Sgt.-Maj. W. F. Mills, conducted a recruiting drive in connection with the Fair. The party was accompanied by the band of District Depot No. 4, under Sgt. W. Black, and assistance was given by the local Veterans.

125 Miles of Paving To Be Laid This Year

Asphalt and concrete paving totals 125 miles in the Province of Quebec's road program for this summer, according to Minister of Roads Hon. T. D. Bouchard. The work, now under way, is to be finished September 1.

Concrete will be laid as follows: Cote de Liesse-Dorval, six miles; Montreal to U. S. Border, 26 miles; Dorval-Beaconsfield, six miles; Ile Perrot, two miles; St. Hyacinthe-Longueuil, nine miles; St. Hyacinthe-St. Dominique, two miles; Rougemont-Marieville, two miles; Dorion-Cascades, one mile.

Asphalt will be laid: Magog-Sherbrooke, 15 miles; Ste. Adele-Ste.Agathe, 15 miles; St. Esprit-St. Henri de Mascouche, 8 miles; Berthier-Joliette, 15 miles; Drummondville-Victoria, 15 miles.

LIVESTOCK AUTHORITY SPEAKS HIGHLY OF QUALITY IN EXHIBITS, LAUDS DIRECTORS ON DECISION TO HOLD SHOW THIS YEAR

Public Well Pleased With Standard of Entertainment

Directors of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society went home and relaxed from the tension of three strenuous days, late Saturday night, with the knowledge that Lachute Fair had closed its doors on one of the most successful such events in the Society's long history of 115 years. While the weather was overcast much of the time and according to reports the surrounding country received heavy rain-showers — the storms held off and the program proceeded with little interruption except during Friday evening.

Mr. T. P. Devlin, C. N. R. animal husbandry commissioner, who was one of the judges on horses, expressed genuine surprise at the splendid showing of livestock. The Fair Directors and farmers of the district, he said, were to be congratulated on their decision to hold the Exhibition again this year. The quality of the farm animals and the condition in which they appeared in the ring gave ample evidence — according to this authority — that the Lachute area produces some of the finest dairy cattle and draught horses in the Dominion. He was pleasantly impressed with Fair grounds, also, and paid tribute to Mr. George Hay for the manner in which the program of judging was run on scheduled time—which does not happen at many rural exhibitions.

The large number of farmers and their families in attendance gave proof that the agriculturists commend this Fair as a means of education, as well as for entertainment and relaxation from their daily grind.

GRANDSTAND PERFORMANCE DRAWS BIG CROWD

The several events which comprised the grandstand performance were all of a high calibre, and were well received by the audience.

Chelm St. Orr, the armless performer who does everything imaginable with his toes, was loudly applauded. He played both snare and bass drums at the same time, manipulating the sticks with his feet. His skill in rifle shooting was also remarkable and the ease with which he drove nails, chopped and sawed wood, amazed the "full house" which hailed him from grandstand.

Among other artists were five tumblers, a dancer and a contortionist who twisted himself into various shapes quite beyond recognition, but appeared to regain his normal contour "with the greatest of ease". This entertainer, Bob Wallace, further pleased his audience after the last show by turning over his cheque to the Spitfire Fund — a gesture which was warmly appreciated.

DISTRICT MILITARY BAND PROVES POPULAR

The Band of Military District No. 4, Montreal, drew great admiration from the many who were privileged to hear it, and in the course of the local recruiting campaign they played each afternoon and evening before the grandstand. This group, comprising 32 pieces under the leadership of Sgt. Black, is composed of some of the finest band musicians ever heard in these parts.

RECRUITING PARADE

On Thursday and Friday evenings there was a recruiting parade from Muir's Service Station, Main Street, to the Fair Grounds. Local veterans of the last Great War, wearing berets and medals, accompanied by the Lachute Scouts and Wolf Clubs, marched behind the band carrying their flags and emblems, and lending a military appearance to the turn-out. A detachment of troops from St. Jerome was also present, and gave a fine demonstration of bayonet fighting and physical training before the grandstand. The splendid discipline and efficiency of these young men, who have had only two months' training, drew hearty acclaim from the crowd.

Recruiting appeals were made by Major Scott, M.C., Rev. H. D. J. Brosseau, Grenville, and Sgt. Major Mills, who was in charge of the campaign here. A number have joined but still more are needed, and the appeal is still being issued for men to serve in the active army.

B'BURG NURSE IS ENROLLED FOR OVERSEAS

Miss Alma Fletcher, R.N. Attached to Canadian Army Hospital

Miss Alma Fletcher, R.N., elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fletcher, Brownsburg, who was among a number of nurses who enrolled last fall for army hospital work, was enlisted two weeks ago for service. Miss Fletcher — whose full designation now reads "Nursing Sister A. Fletcher, R.N., No. 14 Gen. Hospital R.C.A.M.C.-C.A.". — visited her home in Brownsburg last week. Attached to the Army Medical Corps Hospital, she is in line for service overseas at any time. Sixty Canadian nurses were accepted recently for such service.

Miss Fletcher is a graduate of the Montreal General Hospital nurses' training school.

Sidelights on Lachute Fair

Won Pedigreed Spaniel In Spitfire Drawing

A star attraction before the grandstand on Saturday afternoon was "Kilwin", the pedigreed Cocker Spaniel donated by Mrs. E. K. Wilson on behalf of the Spitfire Fund. The drawing of tickets was held on the stage, and the winner was announced as Mr. Mac Walker, Lachute, with ticket No. 961.

Former Argenteuil Boy Skilful Performer

Grandstand spectators warmly applauded the feats of Bob Wallace, who balanced precariously on a pyramid of milk bottles. But vaudeville stunts are only a sideline with this performer, whose real name is Walter Jackson and whose profession is that of a commercial photographer, in Montreal. Mr. Jackson has a closer connection with the county than this brief visit to Lachute Fair, for he is a former Argenteuil boy and has a summer residence at Lost River which he has been visiting for many years . . . In view of this attachment, Mr. Jackson made a very kindly gesture. On witnessing the Spitfire drawing, here mentioned, he promptly handed over the $50. cheque, earned in his act, to augment the Fund.

Tendered His Fee To Spitfire Fund

W. A. Gibson, of Spencer, Mass., who, accompanied by his wife, motored here to judge Ayrshire Cattle at the Fair, travelled a distance of 354 miles but declined to accept any recompense for his expenses or services. Mr. Gibson generously turned in his fee to the Spitfire Fund.

Appreciation to W. I. Helpers

Members of Lachute Women's Institute wish, through medium of The Watchman, to thank the many persons who aided them in the operating of the dining room and lunch counter at the Fair.

Nazi Creed

"For us only one God exists, Who existed from the very beginning of time and Whom we have reached again through National Socialism.

"We say: 'In obeying Adolf Hitler, we are obeying our Lord God. Obedience towards God means obedience to the manifestation of his orders through Adolf Hitler. The word Germany is part of our religious faith' . . ." (Part of the manifesto published in "The National Church," organ of the National Church Union of German Christians.)

Canadians Are World's Record Telephone Talkers

Montreal — Since the outbreak of war, Canadians — for 12 consecutive years rated as the world's greatest telephone talkers — have been doing more calling than ever before, according to figures just released by the statistical department of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. These figures bring the record up to January 1, 1940.

On the average, each person in Canada in 1939 placed 246.3 telephone calls, as compared with 235 the previous year. Canada is followed by the United States with 231.5 conversations per capita in 1939, Denmark with 189.5, Sweden with 189, and Norway with 96.1.

Canada ranks fourth in telephone development with 12.36 telephones for every hundred persons. First is the United States with 15.85, followed by Sweden with 13.64 and New Zealand with 13.28. Denmark occupies fifth place with 11.95. The dictator countries rank well down on the list — Germany has only 5.28 telephones per hundred people, Japan has 1.89, Italy 1.49, and Russia 0.75.

Among the larger Canadian cities, Toronto and Vancouver lead in telephone development — Toronto with 26.59 telephones per hundred people and Vancouver with 26.49. The two cities were equal in telephone development in the previous count. Among the large cities of the world, San Francisco ranks first with 44.85, followed by Stockholm with 40.16, and Washington with 38.84. Washington formerly held the lead.

In the total number of telephones, Canada ranks fifth, after the United States, Germany, the United Kingdom, and France.

There are 42,642,252 telephones in the world, of which about 56 per cent are dial telephones. Of this total, North America has more than half, with 22,558,727. There are 20,830,950 telephones in the U. S. A. New York City alone, with 1,669,904 telephones, has more than Canada with 1,397,272. Europe has 15,765,994 telephones, of which 4,226,504 are in Germany, 3,375,902 in the United Kingdom, 1,589,595 in France, and 1,272,500 in Russia. Asia has 1,921,499, of which 1,367,958 are in Japan.

The number of telephone calls made in the United States in 1939 was 30,300,000,000; in Japan, 5,339,000,000; in Germany, 3,640,000,000; in Japan, 5,339,000,000; in Canada 2,774,000,000; and in the United Kingdom, 2,255,000.000.

It will be noted that Japan made about two billion more calls in the year than either Germany, the United Kingdom, France, or Canada, all of which have more telephones than the land of the Rising Sun. There is a shortage of telephones in Japan, and a number of families often share a single instrument among them.

STOP WOOD ROT

Use "Pentox" with your paint — whenever you paint wood: It makes your paint go further and last longer. Highly effective, "Pentox" prevents rot and insect attack under the paint — a common failure of ordinary paints.

Rot under the paint causes expensive repairs. Good painters always add "Pentox" to their paint.

Helping Ourselves

Here and there throughout the Dominion of Canada, some citizens have allowed themselves to become bewildered by large figures which represent the costs of this war to Canada. Apparently, they scan the headlines, note the billions of dollars which are being spent to fight Hitler, and then sit back and moan something of this kind:

"How in the world will the Government of Canada ever find the money to repay the people who have invested in War Savings Certificates and War Loan Bonds?"

What some of these people overlook is the fact that the Government of the country was not fooling when it declared that Canada would operate on a "Pay as you go" policy.

There was one point which the Minister of Finance brought out in his Budget Speech on April 29, 1941, that should be re-emphasized to allay foolish fears. The Minister reported that, excluding the assistance which this country is giving Great Britain, Canadians in this fiscal year are providing, by their tax payments and other Government Revenues, 79% of our War and non-War budgetary expenses. In other words Canada is exercising a very great measure of control over the amount of debt being piled up for future payment.

In the light of conditions all over the world, it is not too extravagant to say that the security behind Canada's War Savings Certificates and War Loan Bonds is just about the best in the world today.

The only real threat against this security is a victory for Hitler..

The Guarantee of Freedom

This is the closing editorial of a series which was designed to provide our readers with a better understanding of the functions of the press which serves their community. An attempt has been made to deal briefly, simply and adequately with the many phases and relationships between the newspaper and the territory it serves. It is not without purpose that this editorial has been left until the last, because in a sense it sums up what has been said in the previous editorials about the aims, objects, ideals and problems of the community weekly newspaper.

The purpose of this series has been to give a glimpse of the intangible things about a newspaper — the soul, if you will. For the newspaper has a soul, and that is what makes it such an important asset in the district it serves. We borrow these words from another writer to explain just why we believe that your newspaper is your guarantee of freedom.

"I am the guarantee of the Canadian way of life — the way of liberty — the way of equal opportunity — the way of free enterprise — the divine way and the true way for national well-being and upward advancement.

"Weekly I go into your home — in winter and summer — in spring and fall. I chronicle your birth, your marriage, your death, and the intervening years which make for sorrow or joy, depression or exaltation, health or pestilence, poverty or wealth, weakness or strength.

"Freeborn am I and true to my heritage, I am not the subservient carrier of propaganda which enabled a Hitler to become the master of Germany, nor am I the complacent press which contributed to the downfall of France. I am a friendly visitor. You'll find me constantly at your right hand, week after week. I have character, and even when I hurt you, I know you would not have me spineless.

"I provide you with special civic service. I support to the last drop of my ink your charities, your Red Cross drives, your school, your church, and your service organizations. Yes, I assist in the building of community character.

"Through advertising I promote your trade, move your commodities, advance your living standards. I am a bit bashful about mentioning these things, but I want you to rest assured that I am your friend.

"I am the Canadian home town newspaper, and without me your liberties would vanish."

United States history honors the "Minute Men" and Americans now have a new name for the fellows who would have their country sit on the sidelines in this emergency. They call the non-interventionists "the Munich Men."

Australian genius has invented a car that bends in the middle when turning corners, the forepart of the chassis turning with the front wheels. Just the thing for women who have trouble wheeling an auto out of a garage and down the lane.

A War Lord Dies

Former Kaiser Wilhelm II of Imperial Germany died recently at his exile in Doorn almost 23 years after he fled from the crumbling failure of his own attempt to dominate the world. And as the Kaiser passed to judgment a new German war lord is carrying out a similar attempt at world supremacy. Death of the Kaiser recalls the bitterness existing towards him during the Great War. There wasn't a man, woman or child in Canada who didn't demand, during the dark stages of that struggle, that the Kaiser pay the death penalty when victory was eventually achieved. Kaiser Wilhelm was undoubtedly the cause of hundreds of thousands of brave men of the Empire going to their deaths, of untold suffering, yet at the close of the war he fled to Doorn and since then he has lived in peace and luxury. Hate is a common growth of war but hate and justice may be confused. And Canadians generally will feel that justice has not been accomplished when this war is over if Adolf Hitler is permitted to follow the Kaiser's example and flee to peaceful exile. This time we should make certain that Germany's war lord pays the price of his folly and his crimes.

American Opinion

One hears and reads of violent dissension in the United States over the possibility of America's entering the war on the side of Great Britain. It is true that a great majority of Americans were definitely against their country's becoming entangled in the conflagration a short time ago but the pendulum has swung far in the other direction in recent months. There are many reasons why America should change its mind but this letter, which appeared in a recent issue of the Christian Science Monitor, provides the sanest and shortest explanation of the new attitude of the United States. — "I voted against Roosevelt three times; in the last election there were few more ardent Willkieites than I. But in this terrific issue of "aid to Britain" — in its full potentialities the greatest issue of modern history — I am 100 per cent with Roosevelt, for the simple reason that I want to be able to continue to respect my country and myself."

And Receives, Too !

"Britain Delivers The Goods" has come to be a proud slogan indicating the efficiency of the navy and the convoy system in permitting the Motherland to continue with "business as usual during altercations." But Britain receives the goods too, as witness the announcement of the British War Relief Society in New York that it had successfully shipped to Britain $3,458,307 worth of relief material and had lost only $45,693 worth or 1.3 per cent up to May 15th of this year. 95 Per cent of all goods had been received at their ultimate destination, a Society official stated. A record of this sort is good news to Canadians for it serves to disprove all the gossip one hears with regard to the successes of German U-Boats. Britannia still rules the waves and control of the seas will yet prove a mighty factor in deciding the ultimate victor in this second world war.

News Item . . .

President Roosevelt has made the German "funny papers." A comic weekly in Germany entertained its readers with several cartoons ridiculing the American leader after his recent speech in support of Great Britain . . .

Have lots of fun, you Jerries,
Let laughter ring unchecked,
Grin, chortle, sneer, but never fear,
Your joy will soon be wrecked,
For there's a powerful nation back
Of fearless Franklin D.,
And some bright day the U.S.A.
Will help us quell your glee !

News Item . . .

William Rogers, Yarmouth, N.S., has a dog that spends all its time fishing. The pup leaps into the water, carries a struggling fish to the bank, and then goes back for more sport . . .

William used to be the tops,
Among the angling gents,
He's never failed to fill a pail,
With fish — and fishy scents.
But lately William's faltered,
And he's sold his fishing togs,
"Gosh darn", says Bill, "My fishing skill,
Has all gone to the dogs!"

What Belgium Pays

"La Libre Belgique" itemizes the sums which Germany has forced Belgium to pay for occupation, reaching a total of 15 billion francs for the first year. In addition, the Nazis have requisitioned goods to the value of 2 billion without compensation, circulated unredeemable Reichskassenscheine to a value of 4 billion, forced Belgian corporations to export untold quantities of manufactures and food to the Reich with almost no compensating importation. The ordinary Belgian State budget was 11 billion francs annually; as a result of occupation it is estimated this will reach 40 billion in 1941.

SEARCHLIGHT ON FRANCE

By An Expert in French Affairs

France today has been divided by her conquerors into three zones. There is the forbidden zone, consisting of the departments of the Nord and Pas de Calais, familiar to those who used to cross to France by the short sea route. This zone is attached to the German C. H. Q. at Brussels, not Paris, and the Germans have more than once remarked that "after the war" this detachment from France will be permanent.

In the occupied zone the Nazis have been careful to include not only the ports and air bases suitable for attacks on England, not only in which to mobilize a huge army for invasion, not only the capital, but most of the richest land and the wheat-growing areas. The remainder forms the so-called unoccupied zone, whose capital is the mountain spa of Vichy.

To these three divisions must be added a fourth — a non-geographical division — the prisoners of war who number nearly 2,000,000 and who have for the most part been transported to Germany. The historic provinces of Alsace and Lorraine have been torn from France and have become part of the Reich. The majority of the French inhabitants have been expelled and forced to leave all their belongings, except a few personal effects, behind them.

Ninety-five percent of the inhabitants of occupied France live only in the hope of a British Victory. They detest their conquerors with a great and growing hatred. They do not believe a word of the Paris Radio and Press, controlled by the German and staffed by Frenchmen whom they consider traitors. They listen eagerly to the French transmissions of B. B. C.

French women will shake their skirts as they step out of the Metro after brushing against German soldiers. The showing of German news films frequently provokes disturbances. In a Dieppe cinema recently a film showing the exploits of the German and Italian air forces provoked cries of "Down with Hitler — down with Mussolini." Result, a fine of 1,000,000 francs imposed upon the town.

Hitler was never more cunning than when he decided to leave that part of France which was of no use to him economically or militarily in the illusion of freedom and to stay Mussolini's grasping hand in the seizure of the French African Empire. Had the Germans occupied the whole of metropolitan France and the Italians even a part of the Empire, the spirit of resistance would soon have flamed up again.

Money Cheaper Than Lives !

The people of Canada are indeed among the fortunate and blessed of this world, for they can still go to their homes at night and find them intact; they can still talk and walk with their loved ones in safety and at night they can lay down to sleep in peace and comfort. No underground holes for them and their families; no ruined homes and no killed and maimed loved ones. If the taxpayers of Canada know when they are well off they will pray that they can help win this war by giving twice as much money as they are now asked to pay — even then they will not have paid too much by any means.

—Kemptville Advance

A Spaniard, an American and a Scotsman were discussing what they would do if they awoke one morning to discover that they were millionaires.

The Spaniard said he would build a bull ring.

The American said he would go travelling all around the country and have a good time.

The Scotsman said he would go to sleep again to see if he could make another million.

DESERTS OF HATRED

By Alma S. Whittlin

Since the outbreak of war the Nazis have occupied territories greater in area than that of Germany itself. Several million Germans are living in those occupied countries — soldiers with their officers and officials, sometimes with their families. It has been estimated that in Holland alone about one million German soldiers are concentrated. Let us see how these "conquerors" live.

When the Germans invaded Czechoslovakia, Poland, Denmark, Norway, the Netherlands and France, they turned their attention first to food and drink. Then they bought up soap, silk stockings, and all sorts of little comforts practically denied them for many years under the Nazi regime of preparation for the assault on the world.

Now, the stores are depleted and there is less loot left in the occupied lands. But still at every meal the Germans act as overlords. Their food rations are greater than those of the local people. In addition, they receive commodities such as coffee, chocolate, rice and white bread which in many places are denied to the conquered.

A German officer or official is free to take the best house whether it be vacant or occupied. Certain hotels, restaurants and theatres are reserved exclusively for Germans.

Yet there are many things which trouble the German conqueror; which make his days, and still more his nights, filled with anxiety.

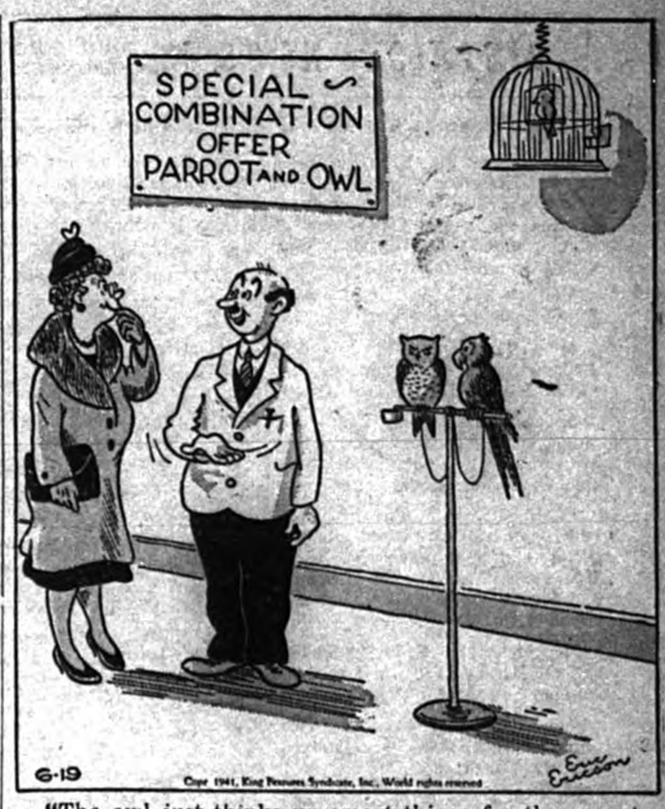

After the black-out no German in Amsterdam cares to walk alone by the canals that intersect the largest Dutch city. There are frequent drowning "accidents" by night.

In Poland, in the city of Poznan, six Poles have been sentenced to death for organizing several hundred armed attacks on German cars and on houses inhabited by Germans.

Instead of the humble subjection and admiration due to conquerors which they had expected these Germans are discovering that they are ostracised — "iced". They find themselves in a "desert of hatred."

The spectre of England haunts and challenges the men of the Swastika throughout their "Empire". Posters appear in the streets and invite: "Listen to the broadcasts from England." Norwegian women embroider the letters "R.A.F" (Royal Air Force) on their hats. In Holland schoolboys have been threatened with imprisonment if they went on whistling the British anthem. A German controlled newspaper in Brussels, "Le Pays Réel", writes: "Certain curés are much more concerned on Sunday mornings with the proclamations of Mr. Churchill, than with the Gospel. This atmosphere of rebellion is absolutely intolerable."

The hatred against the Germans in the countries under their domination strikes secretly in a hundred ways. It whistles and swishes in the breeze. It appears as "the writing on the wall."

"The owl just thinks up smart things for the parrot to say!"

Wasting Lives on The Home Front

Quoting George Bernard Shaw's statement that "the time will come when the person who becomes ill will be sent to jail", Dr. Gordon Bates — in Health, official organ of the Health League of Canada — deplores "the carefree attitude on the part of some of our legislators in general towards the nation's greatest waste."

"The public is wondering," he declares, "why it is that, while attempting to win the most serious and most expensive war in history, we continue to waste far more lives on the home front than we have lost on the battlefront; why we continue, as a country, to give the problems of nutrition and disease prevention in the civil population only casual attention, and ignore the most important means of correcting a situation which is as ridiculous as it is tragic."

He urges that the Wasserman test for syphilis be applied to all recruits. Detection of the disease as early as possible, he points out, would not only save the soldier but prevent the end results of syphilis, "which, untreated, may one day fill hospital beds with cases of general paralysis, of the insane, heart disease and locomotor ataxia."

Well-known and tried methods of preventing tuberculosis, diphtheria and milk-borne diseases also should be brought into general use, he asserts, both as a means of building the national health and of cutting down the present huge yearly bill paid by taxpayers on account of preventable sickness.

In the News

Henry Morgenthau, Jr., the U. S. Secretary to the Treasury, is much in the news these days. The son of a millionaire, he carved out his own career independently of his father.

President Roosevelt, who quickly recognized him as a financial wizard, greeted him so often with the question, "What rabbits are you going to produce out of your hat this morning?" that one day, Henry Morgenthau actually pulled two white rabbits from his hat and placed them before his astonished chief!

Ivan B. Heiderich, a 33-year-old Oklahoma farmer, won't need to have his hair cut, after all. Called up as a draftee the other day, he was worried because his curly tresses, which grow below his shoulders, might be snipped off by a barber for the first time in his life. However, he was rejected as being more useful in his own work.

SPITFIRES OF THE SEA

The "Fulmar" fighters of the British Navy's Fleet Arm possess a speed, firing-power and agility that have made them comparable to Britain's famous Spitfires, supreme champions of air-battle . . . A "Fulmar" is seen making practice landings.

OBITUARY

THE LATE JAMES HUTT

Cushing W. —

Mr. James Hutt, a well known and respected resident of this locality, passed away very suddenly at his home in Chatboro, on Thursday night last. The funeral, which was largely attended, was held on Monday morning at the Church of St. Philippe.

Mr. Hutt was in his 64th year. He is survived by his widow, three daughters, and one son — Mrs. Adrien Foucault, St. Hermas, Mrs. Jos. Houle, St. Philippe, Mrs. David Laurin, Lachute, and Mr. Harvey Hutt, on the homestead.

Among those who attended the funeral from a distance were his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. H. Hutt; Mrs. M. Barry, Mrs. Geo. McCallum, both sisters; and his nephew, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hutt, all of United States.

TOO-MERRY HYMN TUNES DECRIED BY MONTREAL MINISTER, REV. KATSUNOFF

The sanctuary is too often turned into a concert hall, with many hymn tunes appealing so strongly to the feet the parishioners have no time to pay attention to the words, Rev. R. G. Katsunoff, D.D., of the Church of all Nations, said recently in an address on "The Ministry of Music in Home Missions" at the annual meeting of the Montreal and Ottawa Conference of the United Church of Canada, held in St. James United Church, Montreal.

Mr. Katsunoff, who is well known to Lachute church goers, said further, "I cannot help but think when I hear the tune 'There is a happy land far far away' that they expect us to dance into it."

All churches, he continued, should have departments of music and should start with the pastor of the church and the superintendent of the Sunday School when they begin their instruction. The children, he said, would learn even the most difficult hymns easily enough.

Late Report on Loan Campaign from the Central Headquarters

The following telegram from central Victory Loan headquarters was received this morning by The Watchman . . .

Ottawa, June 18

Watchman, Lachute,

Canada's 1941 Victory Loan should reach its minimum objective by Friday if the present rate of progress is maintained. The total up to Tuesday night stood at $538,773,000 from $603,088 individual subscribers. "National headquarters will not be satisfied with the nominal objective. Canada's Torch of Freedom must go to Winston Churchill, but let us make it go handsomely." — G. E. W. Spinny, national executive chairman, in a message to his field forces.

Radio "Ham" Honored

Pictured among the gadgets of his home-built station in Olathe, Kan., is Marshall H. Ensor, school teacher, cited as the amateur radio operator who "contributed most usefully to the American people." The citation came with the William S. Paley amateur radio award for 1940, which was given Mr. Ensor in recognition of his efforts to enable thousands of amateurs to qualify as licensed radio operators. Ensor has voluntarily conducted code practice over the air on regular schedule for the past 10 years, performing a valuable service in training men for vital communication posts in defence work.

The rapidity with which that great hearted people was conquered was rightly attributed to her lack of the "tools" with which, alone, the modern type of war is successfully waged. There was a lesson to the world in the tragedy of Poland — a lesson which unfortunately, was not generally absorbed. This accounts in some measure for the list of speedy conquests since achieved by the powerful Nazi machine.

Even the British people were surprised by the message flung out by Poland in her defeat, and when they came to the first realization of the danger of their own position. Our enemy had an unsuspected abundance of equipment and weapons, munitions and supplies with which to fight new warfare, a store of material the proportions of which only gradually became apparent to us.

The real disparity between his means of offence, and ours of defence, was at first hard to realize. Later the truth of the situation soon broke through; and since then our achievement in organization and the exploitation of our resources has been altogether phenomenal. Breaking absolutely new ground, the Empire has laid sure foundations for a production of war material that will be altogether adequate for winning through to victory.

What a great undertaking is this, to which we have set our hands ! Ships by the millions of tons, to be replaced. Planes by the thousands, to match in time the colossal air fleet of the enemy. Arms, ammunition, supplies of all kinds, in quantity that the mind can hardly conceive and that can scarcely be measured by the imagination.

There is, then, a perfect understanding on our part of what we have to produce, in order to win. The foundation and organization for production have been laid. And if, as I have suggested there is a crisis upon you, it is only because we have not yet reached the answer to the startling question, "Can we produce this indispensable war material IN TIME?" As far as Canada is concerned, I know of no group to which I could put that question with more reliance than to you gentleman here present, the manufacturers of the Dominion.

From the outset of the war, raw materials have been available in good quantity from our vast treasure house of natural resources. The mines and forests have yielded their products in quantities far ahead of anything on previous records. The power industry has been stepped up to keep pace with the growing demand for electric energy. So far, so good. But when we come to manufacturing, we find ourselves bound to admit, "Ah, there's the rub". Let me at once say that, in making such reflection — in characterizing manufacturing as the bottle-neck of our war effort so to speak — I am far from offering criticism either to industry or to those engaged in it. Rather, my object is only to picture the whole situation and to stress the tremendous task and responsiblity that industry has so readily accepted. Manufacturing processes are much more intricate and more difficult to organize than the production of raw material. It means more complex processes are involved, which entail more highly specialized labor, more complicated machinery and equipment. That is to say, it is in manufacturing, more than in any other line of production, that the time element assumes its highest importance and has its strongest effects. This controlling factor of time — the thing we are most short of in this crisis — has entailed even more than the normal delay in this present instance, because the essential equipment for this war is, as you know, of a highly specialized and complicated kind.

You, gentleman, have a very difficult role in this country's war effort. Technical problems of wide ramifications unknown in many other fields of production, have been yours to tackle. That you have succeeded well is evident from the encouraging reports which come from all parts of the Dominion as to your progress in providing these materials needed for our victory.

Permit me to congratulate you on your accomplishments; and you are, no doubt, like myself, anticipating further and still more exacting demands on behalf of our great national cause. Let me wish for you the strength, the fortitude and resourcefulness to bear your heavy share of our Dominion's task in the prosecution of this war. It is not going too far to say that, on you, key-men in the manufacturing industries, depends to a large extent the measure of success we are to achieve with our war program, and the answer to that all important question, "Can we get the tools to win IN TIME?" That you will give us the right answer, goes without saying. The unstinted cooperation we are getting from our friends in the United States, the fighting spirit and endurance of the valiant British people, is already a symbol of the help of God, and the assurance of Victory.

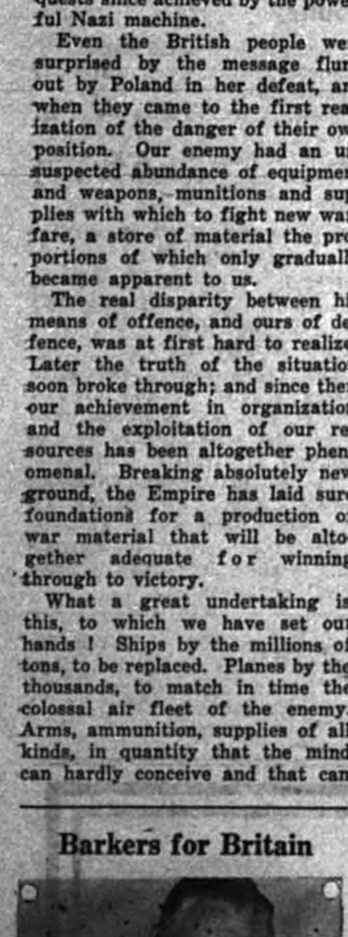

The Province of Quebec is playing an outstanding part in Canada's present war activity. Apart from what she is contributing in men and finance, her availability of materials and tremendous power facilities have resulted in establishment of many of the war industries in our province . . . Our entire industrial organization is operating to capacity.

Production has advanced to a point far beyond anything ever attained before. Quebec is supplying iron and steel, textiles, machinery, boots and shoes — and in addition, ships, munitions and aeroplane materials, notably aluminum and wood, which are being supplied in larger quantities than before produced.

Industry in Quebec can depend on the full co-operation of our labor men, whom we are endeavoring to train for more and more specialized technical work; it can depend on the full support of the provincial government, and may feel well protected in its capital investment.

The national spirit of Quebec — and I use the term in its true, all-Canadian sense — has never been aroused to so high a pitch, and the whole of the Province's national life is keyed to the task of preserving Christian democracy in the world. From end to end, the province is a hive of war industry; there will be no letting down until the day of triumph arrives and we can again look forward, along with our fellow Canadians from all the other provinces, to following those bright paths of peace and progress which we have so happily travelled together in the past.

British Foreign Trade Maintained This Year Despite U-Boat Menace

London — There was no falling off in Britain's foreign trade from January to April of this year.

Mr. Harcourt Johnstone, Minister for Overseas Trade, states that he can say this, although the Government decided at the beginning of the year not to publish export trade figures.

"In spite of the progressive loss of markets through Germany's invasion of half the countries of Europe," he said, "our foreign trade still managed to maintain an extraordinarily high pre-war level. In the last complete pre-war year, which was 1938, we exported £471,000,000 worth of goods, but as a result of the industry of our people and the enterprise of our manufacturers in the first full year of war, 1940, we exported £413,000,000 worth of goods. That was a truly remarkable result, considering that we had lost fully 30 per cent of our markets."

JUNE MEETINGS AMONG COUNTY W. I. BRANCHES

The following W. I. branch activities are reported for the month of June:

Frontier — Canadian Industries was the subject for this Branch, the roll-call being "Different Uses for Nickel". An interesting paper on nickel mining was read by the convenor, Mrs. C. Dixon. A Canadianization article was read, entitled "We are all in the front line". The county convenor of Agriculture, Mrs. A. Graham, read an article on "Cannibalism in the Chicken Flock", also John Turnipseed's article on "Eating Wool."

Upper Lachute-East End answered the roll-call by naming a Canadian soldier overseas. A paper was read by the Canadianization and National Events convenor entitled "Housewives Under Nazi Domination". Arrangements were made for baking and handicraft exhibits at the Fair, and a donation made towards the Spitfire Fund.

Pioneer — Lantern slides were shown by Mr. Linton Armstrong dealing with Child Welfare, and the roll-call was answered by "Ways to Keep Children Healthy". Members donated $1. each for the Self-denial Fund, and $5. was donated by the Branch towards the county scholarship. Miss Hooker reported on the county convention. Miss Larose, R.N., gave an address on "Physical Defects in Pre-School Children". $76.50 was the amount realized for the Spitfire Fund at an amateur program held in May. Two quilts were made and sent to the Red Cross.

Brownsburg — The topic for this meeting was Health and Welfare. In the unavoidable absence of Dr. R. Percival, Mrs. Percival gave a very beneficial address on Child Welfare. Mrs. Ball reported on the county convention, and Mrs. McCulloch dealt with the baking contest and handicraft display to be held at Lachute Fair. All members supported the war effort being made by the Women's Institutes by giving $1. each, and also agreed to be subscribers to the Macdonald Magazine. "My Earliest Picture" was the subject for a contest which caused a great deal of amusement, Mrs. McQuaig being the winner. Mrs. Shearsmith gave information and displayed posters in regard to the national appeal for the salvaging of waste material.

Mille Isles held their May meeting at the home of Mrs. David Dawson, naming a favorite flower as the roll-call. An afghan was made and donated to the Red Cross. An interesting paper entitled "Tomatoes for Defence" was read by Mrs. H. Wood. This branch has sold $36.75 worth of War Savings Stamps up to date. Mrs. G. F. Kuhring, a former president, was welcomed by Mrs. Maxwell.

Why Do Pawbrokers Use Three Brass Balls?

In England, 150 years ago, every shop and trade had its own particular sign whereby it could be recognized. Today, when everybody can read, there is no need for pictorial signs, and the pawnbroker is one of the few who still display them. The Lombards were the first moneylenders in England, and they introduced the sign. Originally three golden coins formed their particular sign, but the coins soon developed into balls, and brass was more serviceable than gold.

To Every Mother Wife and Sweetheart ..Beware of the Vanishing Atlantic!

HELP TO KEEP THE "FRONT LINE" AWAY FROM YOUR DOORSTEP

Urge Your Menfolk to Buy Victory Bonds NOW

You can no longer depend upon the Atlantic Ocean for protection. Any day between breakfast time and noon, a bombing plane can fly from Greenland to our own Maritimes and Quebec—a mere matter of 5 hours; to Winnipeg in less than 9 hours, to Vancouver in 10½ hours. From German-occupied France, bomb-laden planes can carry destruction to Toronto, Niagara, Ottawa and Montreal in less than 10 hours. Night and day, in the British Isles and on the sea, in and out of uniform, men defend your home from attack as surely as though they stood and fought at your own doorstep. Will you help to supply them with tools to carry on the fight—your fight? Will you help to make certain that there shall never be an "occupied" Canada?

Your Government needs some of your savings to buy more ships, planes and tanks—munitions of war that will hurry the return of our men to their homes, insure our way of life. Lend your money by buying Victory Bonds NOW!

The money you invest in Victory Bonds will come back to you with interest. Lend your money. We must win this war. Lend to preserve the things that money cannot buy. Urge your menfolk to protect your home by investing in Victory Bonds now. All that you hold dear is threatened.

INSTALMENTS

You can buy your Victory Bonds by instalments—ten percent down; the rest on easy terms over 6 months. Pledge your credit and buy all the Victory Bonds you can, on the instalment plan. When you have paid for them, your dollars will be earning a good interest return. Your canvasser, bank, trust company or Victory Loan headquarters will explain and take your order.

HOW TO BUY

Give your order to the canvasser who calls on you. Or place it in the hands of any branch of any bank, or give it to any trust company. Or send it to your local Victory Loan Headquarters. Bonds may be bought in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1000 and larger. Canvasser, bank, trust company or your local Victory Loan Headquarters will be glad to give you every assistance in making out your order form.

MEETINGS OF WOMEN'S CHURCH GROUPS AT ST. ANDREWS EAST

St . Andrews E. — The June meeting of the W.M.S. of the United Church was held on Thursday afternoon, June 12th, at the home of Miss Mary Pitcairn. The devotional period was conducted by the president, Mrs. J. Esdon, who read an account of Easter services held in South Wales and the South of England despite war conditions. Miss Mary Lamb gave a first hand report of the annual meeting of the Dominion Board of the W.M.S. held at Toronto, which she attended. Miss Lamb's acquaintance with the Chinese missionaries and her intense interest in the way the Board is meeting its difficult problems, gave a lively interest to her tale. Miss Lamb was one of 13 missionaries who have retired from active service this year. While half that number are hospital cases this auxiliary hopes that Miss Lamb's health will continue good and that she will have many years of happy service in her home community.

The W. A. of Christ Church held their meeting on Thursday, June 12th. Mrs. Robt. Murray was hostess. It was planned to hold a Lawn Social on the afternoon of July 3rd on the church grounds. Should the weather not permit, the event will be postponed till the next day . . . An honored guest was the oldest member, Mrs. W. H. Robertson, whose advanced age has not detracted from her keen enjoyment of life.

The Presbyterian W.M.S. met in the Sunday School hall on Wednesday afternoon, June 11th. Gratification was felt by all for the improved health of Mr. MacMillan and Dr. Ballantyne. The Rev. Mr. Scott, of Hawkesbury, was guest speaker, his subject being "The Torch of Faith, Courage and Heroism". Two selections were sung by Ian Brown and Murray Bryson, which were much appreciated by the audience. Refreshments were served by four hostesses.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

"Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force?" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist throughout the world on Sunday June 22nd.

The Golden Text is from Psalms 95: 3, 4. "The Lord is a great God, and a great King above all gods. In His hand are the deep places of the earth: the strength of the Hills is His also."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And God saw everything that He had made, and, behold, it was very good." (Genesis 1: 31).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The three great verities of Spirit, omnipotence, omnipresence, omniscience, Spirit possessing all power, filling all space, constituting all Science, contradicts forever the belief that matter can be actual. These eternal verities reveal primeval existence as the radiant reality of God's creation, in which all that He has made is pronounced by His wisdom good." (Page 109).

Praise

The praises of others may be of use in teaching us, not what we are, but what we ought to be. — Hare.

Praise, like gold and diamonds, owes its value only to its scarcity. It becomes cheap as it becomes vulgar, and will no longer raise expectation or animate enterprise. —Samuel Johnson.

As the Greek said, many men know how to flatter; few know to praise. — Wendell Phillips.

It is difficult to say which may be most mischievous to the human heart, the praise or the dispraise of men. — Mary Baker Eddy.

It takes a great deal of grace to be able to bear praise. Censure seldom does us much hurt. — Spurgeon.

Think not those faithful who praise all thy words and actions, but those who kindly reprove thy faults. — Socrates.

Not Brandy Blossom!

The so-called "toper's nose", is definitely due to a skin disease and not as popularly supposed, to over-indulgence in strong waters. Dr. Samuel Ayres, Jr., of the University of California department of dermatology, speaking recently at the meeting of the Omaha Midwest Clinical Society, made this fact clear.

"Toper's Nose, in middle age," he said, "is not necessarily due to liquor because many persons afflicted to this distressing facial condition have never touched a drop of liquor."

This skin disease is called acne rosacea, which frequently causes flushing of the face in middle life. "I have seen," continued Dr. Ayres, "toper's noses in devoted missionaries."

Acne rosacea is a chronic inflammatory disease of the skin of the face, especially of the nose and cheeks. It is characterized by a diffuse redness, by dialated blood-vessels, by soft reddish acne-formed papules, and eventually by thickening or hypertrophy of the skin of the part.

When the disease attacks the nose it is likely to produce a distressing deformity. Men and women of the highest social position, wealthy in this world's goods, would give a fortune to be rid of the complaint which, when well-established, is impossible of cure.

The affection is commoner in men than in women. In men it arises from digestive disorders, is possibly accentuated by the habitual use of alcoholics, exposure to wind and weather and occasionally from the use of cold baths. In women it is usually met with in early life and is almost always associated with disorders of the intestinal tract or of the uterus. Dr. Ayres sounded a note of warning about the use of cleansing creams. "Women who use no soap and water," he said, "but who instead substitute cleansing creams, often suffer from acne rosacea." So our sisters should beware of the inordinate use of cosmetics which may destroy their beauty.

Spitfire Subscriptions Received This Week

GOOD RETURNS REPORTED FROM PLYMOUTH CAR DRAWING TO DATE

The Plymouth sedan, offered for a drawing in aid of the Argenteuil Spitfire Fund, is coveted by many interested citizens hereabouts, judging by the sale of tickets reported by MacRae Motor Sales, sponsors of the venture, who have $1,520. cash already in hand. The drawing will take place as soon as a reasonable amount has been collected in this good cause. Readers are therefore urged to buy tickets now, and to watch for the drawing date, which, it is hoped, will be within the next few weeks. Every purchaser has a good chance to win this fine automobile — and apart from this prospect, every supporter has the satisfaction of virtually helping to win the war.

Spitfire contributions handed in to The Watchman this week are listed as follows:

A Visitor from the Royal Navy

Petty Officer N. A. Newman, of Wingham, Kent, on leave from the Royal Navy, has been visiting his cousin, Mrs. Geo. Leggett and Mr. Leggett, Lachute Mills. In his brief opportunity to view these surroundings Mr. Newman has been pleasantly impressed with the Canadian countryside. But he also expresses himself warmly on the Dominion's attitude in the war, not only in its official commitments, such as the present Victory Loan drive, but also in the spirit of its voluntary organizations. The Argenteuil Spitfire effort drew particular praise from this representative of the senior services. Mr. Newman has spent 16 years in the British Navy, and during his service has visited practically every port in the world of any importance.

Opens Animal Hospital In Saint John, N.B.

According to a Maritime exchange, a former Lachute veterinary, Dr. F. MacLeod, has recently established a private animal hospital in Saint John, N.B. Local Interest in Montreal Wedding

Gahan - Say

White lilacs on the altar, and pew-markers of white satin ribbon and variegated colored sweet peas, decorated St. Phillip's Anglican Church, Montreal West, on Saturday afternoon, June 7th, for the wedding of Lorna Constance Dorothy, eldest daughter of Mrs. Edith A. Say, Notre Dame de Grace, Montreal and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Neve, "The Pines", St. Andrews East, to Mr. Henry Hugh John Gahan, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Gahan, Victoria, B.C.

Canon Ireland officiated. The wedding music was played by Mr. W. H. B. Roberts, and Miss Betty Burton sang "I love You Truly" during the signing of the register.

Given away by her uncle, Mr. Herbert E. Hodgson, the bride wore a gown of white sheer fashioned on Grecian lines. Her veil of tulle illusion, arranged in a coronet of orange blossoms, was floor-length. She carried a shower bouquet of pink carnations and baby's breath.

The maid of honor, Miss Muriel Say, wore a floor-length gown of pale pink sheer, with head-bandeau of pink tulle, and flowers to match her bouquet of pink roses.

The bridesmaids were Miss Alice Gahan, sister of the groom, and Miss Phyllis Say, sister of the bride. The former wore a a floor-length gown of Chartreuse sheer, and Miss Say, also wore a floor-length gown of the same shade. They wore halos of rosebuds and shoulder-length veils of tulle illusion to match their gowns, and carried bouquets of deep red roses.

The mother of the bride wore a delphinium blue lace gown with hat to match, and wore a corsage of pink carnations. Miss Ethel Massy, aunt of the groom, wore a pearl grey voille dress with black accessories, and a corsage of pink carnations.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, 3472 Belmore Avenue, where the bride's table was centred with the wedding cake and decorated with pink and white sweet peas. Later the bride and groom left on a wedding trip, the bride travelling in a redingote of powder blue with toque to match, and white accessories.

Mr. Dudley Wylie was best man for Mr. Gahan, and the ushers were Mr. Thomas Seale, of Montreal and Mr. Dennis Swan of Victoria, B.C.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mrs. R. P. Read and Miss Edith Read, Roundlake, N.Y.; Mrs. Walter Windsor, Mrs. D. F. McCallum and Miss Dorothy McCallum, St. Andrews East, Que.; Mrs. Edward Still, Orange Springs, Florida; Mrs. A. Still, Orlando, Florida; Mr. and Mrs. W. Nowers Asbury, Thetford Mines, Que.; Mrs. R. J. Clarke, Los Angeles, Calif.; and Flight-Sgt. Richard Clarke, R.A.F., London, England.

LET US
ALL DO OUR PART
VICTORY AND PEACE

Day by day the hearthstones of Canada are protected by a wall of Britain's guns, ships and planes in the hands of men whose high morale commands the admiration of the world wherever there is civilization.

Day by day this wall must be bolstered — rebuilt. More ships — munitions of war — food — must go to Britain in ever-increasing measure—a great surplus to permit a British offensive — victory — peace !

War weapons must be bought with money — your money. Thanks to the workings of democracy you have money. It is good money. It will buy the essentials to victory.

Let Canada use some of your savings for a while ! Invest now in priceless, unthreatened security for your home and all that you hold dear. Let's bring the enemy to his knees — soon! Invest today.

Riders and Hikers Plan Mountain Outings

Their backs turned to a world gone mad, the Sky-Line Trail Hikers and the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies will this summer set their faces toward the clean, snow-covered peaks of the Canadian Rockies where the eagle and the mountain goat rule supreme. Theirs, for a spell, will be the simple pleasures of the trail, the fine companionship of a campfire, the adventure of new trails, the common thrill of discovering Nature in new moods.

Two splendid outings have been planned for this summer for these two democratic organizations. The outings are paced to accommodate young and old, stout and lean. The man-made entertainment is provided by the riders and hikers themselves, artists, writers, stenographers, school teachers, parents, businessmen, lecturers, doctors, salesgirls and others who love the open although their daily occupations confine them to the city.

The Trail Riders leave Banff first on a most-interesting trip, following a new trail to Mount Assiniboine, the "Matterhorn of the Canadian Rockies." They will ride for four days and spend one other in camp. Their outing is from July 25 to 29. The Sky-Line Trail Hikers have chosen a permanent camp at Prolific Meadow in Kootenay Park and will spend four days, August 1 to 4, exploring a district which is of great charm and variety. Both organizations provide time for fishing, for the study of the flowers and wild animals of the district, for leisurely enjoyment of the grandeur of the mountains. Camera fans will find these low-rate outings particularly thrilling because of the variety of picture material. The fisherman will discover near-virgin lakes teeming with fighting mountain trout. The out-door lover will discover an entirely new world and new ways of enjoying it.

Applications can be sent to the secretary-treasurer, J. Murray Gibbon, noted Montreal author, whose office is in Windsor Station, Montreal; or to L. S. Crosby, or Dan McCowan, Banff, the western secretaries. The Banff Springs Hotel is headquarters for both organizations immediately preceding the outings.

From Elkin, N. C. comes the story of an encounter between a turtle and a car — the turtle won! The car skidded on a turtle that was crossing the road, the car crashed and sent the driver and a friend to hospital. The turtle continued its way across the road.

34th Edition of McKim's Directory Now Off Press

According to the 34th Edition of McKim's Directory of Canadian Publications just off the press, Canada has 1,808 publications. Of this total, well over one-third 666, are published in Ontario. The Province of Quebec ranks next with 390. Over half of all Canadian publications are weeklies — 984 as compared with 112 dailies and 462 monthlies.

It is interesting to note that Canada supports sixty-four foreign language publications among which there are four dailies in Chinese, two in Japanese and two in Jewish. Foreign publications in Canada are printed in sixteen languages which include Croatian, Czecho-Slovak, Danish, Dutch, Finnish, German, Hungarian, Icelandic, Italian, Norwegian, Polish, Swedish and Ukrainian.

McKim's Directory has become practically a national institution and is widely circulated at home and abroad. The publication summarizes exhaustive information on markets, media and populations throughout Canada, constituting an industrial analysis reference of all towns in which publications are printed. Enquiries concerning this directory should be addressed to anyone of the A. McKim Limited offices in Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Vancouver and in London, Eng.

A WINNER AT 81

This is a more interesting world because more and more men and women, but especially women, start doing things they have always wanted to do after they have become middle-aged or older. It used to be thought that you could not teach an old dog new tricks but the number of people who are taking up new skills refutes that idea. The New York Times carried a picture of Mrs. Anna Mary Robertson Moses who won a $250. prize for a painting shown at the State Art Show in Syracuse, N.Y. The interesting thing is that Mrs. Moses is 81 years old and is a great-grandmother. Whether she has been an artist all her life or not I do not know but isn't it heartening to see an older person still able to do creative work successfully.

SERVE APPLE JUICE TO TOURISTS

When we travel we all like to have things that are different from what we get at home. Canada and the United States have so much in common that it is difficult to find things which are distinctively Canadian. Apple Juice is one of these things. Whether it is made in the States or not I do not know but I have never seen it advertised there, so it cannot be very common. It fits in with every meal so if you cater to tourists have it available as an appetiser for each meal you serve. Suggest it and push the sale of it. It gives the tourist the satisfaction of having something unusual and helps our own Canadian apple-growers. I serve it frequently and I have been surprised at the number of our guests who have never had it before.

PASTRY

Had an S. O. S. from a bride. Would I tell her how to make pastry. Pastry is one of those things that practice makes perfect, so the brides must not be discouraged if their first attempts are not so hot. Remember your touch should be as light as a caress. Nothing heavy-handed about pastry or love. Now for the recipe — for pastry, not love.

3 cups flour, ¾ cup lard, ¼ cup butter, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon baking powder, cold water.

Sift the dry ingredients. Rub the lard and one-half the butter, either with the fingers or a pastry cutter. Stop when the mixture is like coarse meal, if you use the pastry cutter too long the mixture becomes mucky and you will spoil your pastry. Add water a very little at a time and mix lightly with the fingers. I am not going to tell you how much water to use as flours differ so but use barely enough to hold the mixture together. If there are a few dry crumbs in the bottom of the bowl they will mix in as you roll. If your pastry is too wet it will be tough sure as fate, and there is nothing you can do to make it any better. Use the water as sparingly as if it cost a dollar a drop. Turn out the pastry on a floured board or table, and roll out with a floured rolling-pin, using as little flour as possible. Take a third of the remaining piece of butter and dot it over half the pastry, fold over and pinch the edges together to hold the air, which will help to make your pastry light. Do this three times until the butter is used up. Roll in waxed paper and chill for at least an hour. If the pastry has been chilled for several hours, take it out of the refrigerator a half-hour before using as it will be too stiff to roll easily and the heavy pressure used would make your pastry tough. Roll out and use for pies, tarts, or what have you. Bake in a hot oven of 450 degrees.

IF PASTRY IS LEFT OVER

Sometimes there is a piece of pastry left over, not enough to make a pie, but too much to waste. There are several useful ways of using this. Roll it out slightly thicker than for pie and cut in rounds with a cookie cutter. Serve creamed fish, or vegetables, on these or stand them around the edge of the serving dish with stew or hash. Spread them with cheese and tuck in to the oven long enough to melt the cheese and serve as canapes. These are specially appetising. If you want a sweet, roll the pastry in an oblong, spread half of it with marmalade, fold over the other half of the pastry, and in sticks. Do not use too much marmalade as it will leak and burn.

UNDERCOVER HINT

If you brides find four pies are not what they ought to be, I would be inclined to halve the recipe and make them several times even if the results went into the garbage. Just keep it dark until you make one you can be proud of and charge it up to necessary business expenditures. Much as I deplore waste or deception there are times when both may be wise for the good of the morale. Actually pies are not hard to make but they do take a bit of practice.

STRAWBERRY PRESERVES

4 cups strawberries, 2 dessertspoons water, 4 cups sugar.

Add the sugar to the berries and then add the water. Place over slow heat and stir gently just enough to prevent sticking so as to keep the strawberries whole. Simmer for exactly ten minutes after it comes to a boil. Turn out on large platters immediately and let stand over night. Bottle cold in sterilized jars. This is the most delicious way of doing strawberries I know and every woman who has had them has asked for the recipe. Do not try to do more than this quantity at once.

At the Church of All Saints, Claverly, in Shropshire, England, is a unique pew. It is a seat carved out in the church pillars, where the sitter is visible from all parts of the church. But nobody sits there ! . . . The reason is that it is a Seat of Penance where, over 70 years ago, nagging wives were made to park themselves in full view of the remainder of the congregation at the Sunday morning service.

Husband — or Hog-Calling !

Techniques do not vary greatly for husband-calling or hog-calling, as this picture shows. It was taken at the annual meeting of the Union Pacific Railroad employee organization in Los Angeles. Mrs. D. J. Cahoon, TOP, won the husband-calling competition and Mrs. C. H. Sphar won the hog-calling event. Both are wives of Los Angeles railroad men.

Women's Institutes Handicrafts Display And Baking Contest

Argenteuil County Women's Institutes held a display of Handicraft by the various branches, in the Industrial Building at Lachute Fair, and the exhibits drew continued attention from the spectators. There was also a For Sale table. A baking contest for ten different items of cookery made with Robin Hood Flour also attracted much interest. The Robin Hood Company duplicated the prizes in these events—the awards being in the form of War Savings Stamps. The articles, sold on Saturday, realized an appreciable sum for the county funds.

The Women's Institutes express their thanks to the judges, Mrs. E. Honsberger and Miss Janet McOuat. They also give warm credit to the county president, Mrs. Geo. Armstrong, and to the Fair Work Committee, Miss Hilda Hume, and all who helped to make the exhibit such a succes.

Winners in the Robin Hood Flour baking contest were:

White Bread — 1st. Mrs. Albert Tomalty; 2nd. Mrs. Robert Millar; 3rd. Mrs. James Robertson.

Rolls — 1st. Miss M. Morrin; 2nd. Mrs. A. Middleton; 3rd. Mrs. E. Kettyle.

Tea Biscuits — 1st. Mrs. Earl Smillie; 2nd. Mrs. Archie Murdoch; 3rd. Mrs. Thos. Tume.

Light Layer Cake — 1st. Mrs. John Ward, Jr.; 2nd. Mrs. Ross Muir; 3rd. Mrs. Leonard Boyd.

Chocolate Cake — 1st. Mrs. John Heatlie; 2nd. Mrs. John Ward, Jr.; 3rd. Mrs. D. J. Rodgers.

Doughnuts — 1st. Mrs. John Connelly; 2nd. Mrs. Clarence Dixon; 3rd. Mrs. Geo. Deacon.

Apple Pie — 1st. Mrs. Kenneth Sly; 2nd. Mrs. Wm. Morrison; 3rd. Mrs. Geo. Armstrong.

Raisin Pie — 1st. Mrs. Wm. Heatlie; 2nd. Mrs. Geo. MacKenzie; 3rd. Mrs. Melvin Dey.

Short Bread — 1st. Mrs. T. D. Titman; 2nd. Mrs. David MacCulloch; 3rd. Mrs. Theo. Murdoch.

Jelly Roll — 1st. Mrs. W. Canning; 2nd. Mrs. Geo. MacGibbon; 3rd. Mrs. Wm. Hume.

Jam from Powder

By New Storage Processes for Empire Fruit

(By Mail)

London — Empire countries with crops of fruit held up by lack of shipping will be interested in the new storage processes of chemists at Bristol University Research Station.

The work was originally designed to meet the problem of Britain's own surplus fruit, but, with the cessation of imports, the results are now available for Empire producers.

Surplus apples are economically stored, with great saving in space, in the form of apple juice and apple treacle. Natural sugar makes this product extremely sweet, and it is a valuable substitute for sugar in all forms of household cooking.

Soft fruit, plums and apples are reduced to a dry fine powder, useful for food processing. Plum powder can be made into jam at any time of the year.

In their work on blackcurrant syrups, the experts have found that, after a long period of storage, there was present, in some cases, double the amount of Vitamin C (a preventative against scurvy) as in fresh citrus juices. The shortage of Vitamin A has also drawn attention to the need for using all surplus carrots, and a powder is now being extracted commercially in plant normally used for the spray drying of milk.

Two modern little girls, on their way home from Sunday School, were solemnly discussing the lesson.

"Do you believe there is a devil?" asked one.

"No," said the other promptly. "It's like Santa Claus; it's your father."

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Famous Authority on Good Manners and Good Taste

GRUMBLING NEVER MAKES PLEASANT MANNERS

Have you set yourself up in the grumbling business? Is grumbling a chronic disease with you? It's a great human temptation, this finding fault with people and things and circumstances.

This habit of grumbling makes it easy to let the poison collect inside of us and come out in our words and deeds. Then, whether we realize it or not, or whether we admit it or not, we don't enjoy ourselves. Certainly, our friends don't find us pleasant people to know, and our family doesn't find us agreeable to live with.

How about standing off and looking at yourself, to determine honestly how much grumbling you do in a day or in a week? How much does your grumbling accomplish? Does it plus or minus that charm of personality you are trying to achieve? Does it win friends to you? As you pursue your business of grumbling, watch the facial expression of your listener.

Grumbling and fault-finding never make for pleasant manners. If you find yourself beginning to grumble or to find fault, give yourself a dose of self-control. Even if it hurts you, think of something pleasant to say, something that builds up rather than tears down.

Here's a tonic that will, if you give it a chance, cure your grumbling:

"Nothing is easier than fault-finding. No self-denial, no brains, no character are required to set up in the grumbling business."

COURTESY TIP

If you are walking with a friend and you meet someone who stops to speak to your friend, walk slowly on while they hold their conversation. Don't hang back awkwardly, as if you were waiting for an introduction. If the third person is invited to join you and your friend, or if there is any other reason for an introduction, they can overtake you and the introduction can be made. But in the meantime you won't have given the impression that you expected the introduction.

The "Iron Duke" To Visit Canada

The Hon. Mrs. Robin Gurdon, a niece of Lady Denman, who is chairman of the English Women's Institutes, is expected to arrive in Canada shortly. Mrs. Gurdon is touring Quebec in the interests of the Queen's Canadian Fund for Aid Raid Victims. She will be accompanied by another young Englishwoman, Mrs. Lionel Gibbs, and will be in charge of the famous tea canteen, The Iron Duke, which bears many scars of the conflict overseas and which is now to be on exhibition in aid of the Queen's Fund.

Both ladies are enthusiastic members of the Women's Institutes.

Meetings in W. I. County Branches

(The following reports have been received since printing of the W.I. branch-meetings on page six of this issue).

Mille Isles held their June meeting at the home of Mrs. John A. Ward. The roll-call was answered by naming ways to keep children healthy. Arrangements were made to give two prizes to each of three schools at the annual picnic in July. A donated quilt is to be raffled in aid of the Argenteuil Spitfire Fund; $20. worth of tickets have been sold to date. The sum of $10. has been given by members towards the Self Denial Fund. A Red Cross report was read and work done by members was displayed.

Lachute held a business meeting. Exhibition plans were made, also arrangements for a picnic to Macdonald College during the Convention. Household hints were given, and a parcel of maple sugar sent to the Navy. No further meetings will be held by this Branch until September.

A BOOKLET ON RENT CONTROL REGULATIONS

Ottawa — Copies of a booklet explaining the rent control regulations of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board are being distributed without charge to Canadian landlords and tenants.

Obtainable from the offices of court clerks in the more than forty-five rent controlled areas, or by writing direct to the Rentals Administrator at Ottawa, this booklet answers commonly-asked questions about maximum rentals, charges for rooms in rooming and boarding houses, rentals for new housings, charges for furniture, repairing and decorating, and lease renewals and evictions.

The preface to the booklet, written by Mr. Justice Martin, Rentals Administrator under the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, states that, "the rent control regulations explained in this booklet are designed to guide the relationship between landlords and tenants in war-congested areas, and to prevent unreasonable increases in the cost of living, in which, for many Canadian families, rent is the largest single factor."

"By mutual consideration and by co-operation with each other and with their government, landlords and tenants may make a valuable contribution to the efficiency of our war effort on the home front."

A Robot Lighting Plant

Powered by British Engines That Can Call for Help

London — Port Macquarie, a small seaside town in New South Wales, is to be lighted by an electrical generating plant which runs itself.

It is a new British 6 cylinder 240 h.p. engine, two models of which will supply the town's electric power.

Port Macquarie asked that the plant should be capable of functioning unattended and the necessary mechanism was duly devised. If there is a rise in the temperature of the engines' lubricating oil, the absentee attendant will hear an alarm.

So, if there is any failure of the water cooling system, or overloading, or overspeed; failure of oil pressure, or too rapid drop in the temperature of the water of the cooling system, the warning signal will sound automatically. And if nobody hears the warning, the engines will stop work within five minutes.

British Boy Scouts on war service duty have established such a reputation for courage and dependability that fire wardens, it is said, will always choose the Scouts of a group for any important and dangerous work.

SOFTBALL AND BASEBALL AT BROWNSBURG

From "The Tracer", Issue of June 17

SOFTBALL

Office Downs Plastics in Dull Game

The Office continued their winning ways by defeating a lifeless Plastics team by the score of 16-4. Every member of the Office team got his share of base hits, while Plastics could do nothing with the pitching.

"Flashes" Whitewash C. S. F.

Under the guiding hand of Wes Mason, the Flashes downed C. S. F. 22-1 in the first league game on June 4th. The Metallic team showed power in every position with the pitching being handled very effectively by Bill Hewitt and Merrill Smith. The C. S. F. lacked both pitching and hitting and are in need of strengthening. Besides pitching a good game, Hewitt along with Russ "Robbed" Summers hit the ball hard.

D. I. L. Red Shift Girls Defeat Office Decisively

Seeing a stop light in the Red Shift the Office girls were decisively beaten 20-12 by a superior team from D. I. L. on Thursday June 5th. Under steady pitching by Myra Flynn and steady hitting by Margaret McFaul and Eileen Bryson the shift team always had the game under control.

Machine Shop Buried Under Avalanche of Office Hits

Last Monday, June 9th, the office defeated the Machine Shop 12-2 in a well-fought game. The team got off to a shaky start but soon steadied and although the Machinists scored the first run their lead was short lived. Morley and Winchester both clubbed homers while the rest of the team got their share of hits. Bill Campbell pitched a steady game for the Machinists while he was in the box and Seary played a nice game at first. Watch out for these machinists, they're better than they showed.

Chemical Lab 16; Timekeepers 4

In a very noisy game on June 9th, the Chemical Lab defeated the Timekeepers to the tune of 16-4. The timekeepers showed lack of practice whereas the Chemical Lab showed considerable improvement over their last game. McCaffrey, Smillie and Whitby were the standouts for the Chemical Lab while McKenzie, Stapleton, and Kirby played well for the Timekeepers.

BASEBALL

Brownsburg in 1st. Place

On Sunday, June 1st, the Brownsburg baseball team received its second visitor as Buckingham played a regularly scheduled game at the Picnic Grounds. The visitors gave the locals a scare by scoring seven runs in the 1st. inning on loose play by the home team, but Brownsburg soon settled down and by steady fielding and timely hitting soon wiped out this lead and went on to win quite easily 17-9. After the nearly fatal 1st. inning every player of the winners performed well, especially Gaetan Drouin, who pitched a nice game and Walter Morley and Ken Simpson who provided the punch at the plate.

On Sunday, June 8th, Brownsburg played the return game at Buckingham and from the first inning until the last, the home team were the victims of a base-hit barrage and finally succumbed with Morley pacing the team with 2 singles, a double, triple and home to a score of 21-1. Again the Brownsburg team fielded well despite a high wind and the hits were evenly divided down the line, which cleared the fence. Ken Simpson provided the highlight of the game with a "power-dive" to rob one of the struggling home team of a hit. Maurice Danis limited the losers to 3 hits and grudgingly gave up one run in a very well-pitched game. Brownsburg now tops the league with 3 wins and one loss.

YOUTH DROWNED IN ESCAPADE ON OTTAWA RIVER

Hawkesbury — What started out as a gay adventure for two Montreal youths ended in tragedy for 14-year-old Ovila Blais of Montreal, who lost his life in the Ottawa river, two miles west of Lefaivre, Ont., on June 7th. His chum, Aime Lize, 14, was lodged in Alfred Industrial School, pending investigation.

Unknown to their parents, the boys, cousins, rented bicycles in Montreal and proceeded on a trip to Ottawa via the North Shore. Apparently the boys had plenty of money; on their way they stopped in hotels overnight at St. Eustache, St. Jerome and St. Jovite. A few miles from St. Jovite one of the bikes broke and the abandoned them near the side of the road and continued on foot. Arriving in Montebello they rented a boat and rowed to the Ontario side.

A few feet from shore they noticed some tame ducks and geese and with one of the oars killed a goose and injured several others. The owner of the fowl, R. Vinette, farmer of the vicinity, hearing the racket set up by the geese, investigated.

In the meantime the boys had landed on shore. The farmer, reprimanding them for their conduct, was going to turn them over to the police. The boys undressed to their underclothing and swam toward an island about 300 feet from shore. Lize turned back. Lize said he pleaded with his chum to turn back also, but he kept on going and in a few moments he disappeared. The farmer and his son went after Blais in the boat which the boys had left on shore nearby, but they could find no trace of Blais.

Provincial police were called and with the assistance of local farmers continued dragging for the body of Blais till darkness. At daybreak next morning Blais' father came up from Montreal, but owing to very high wind and choppy water dragging operations had to discontinued.

The people of Croydon, England, recently experienced another air-raid, but not from the Nazis. The town was invaded by a great cloud of flying ants. Traffic was disorganized and walkers covered their faces with handkerchiefs.

COURAGE !

We must not become disheartened because of recent Hun advances in the Balkans and Egypt. Possibly these reverses will bring us out of our apathy and to a fuller realization that we are actually in a life and death struggle. So far, it must be admitted, we have made practically no sacrifices. We are drifting along as before the war, seeking after pleasure, buying things we could do without, and because few among us have suffered in any way, we adopt an apathetic and "let George do it" attitude. We must have courage and determination, and be prepared for great sacrifices. What is needed, and needed badly, is a full consciousness of where we stand.

PRIME MINISTER'S DECISION TO VISIT WESTERN CANADA AND GIVE STATEMENT OF AFFAIRS

DOROTHY THOMPSON'S "RING OF FREEDOM" TO SUPPRESS FIFTH-COLUMN MENACE

"CANADIAN VIEWPOINT"
By Allan McGee

Criticism Over Employment of Physically Fit In Office Jobs Connected With the Services

Specially Written for Readers of The Watchman

They are raising quite a flurry in Ottawa over the employment of medically fit men for office jobs in the Army.

Speaking to a special meeting of Ottawa citizens, the Minister of National Defence said that the rush of young men to get the "cushy" jobs had not gone unnoticed by the War Services Department, and in the near future some of them will get quite a shock.

In the Army and Navy Offices there are many enlisted men in training as staff clerks. These are intended for overseas service and there is no criticism of their training, but others who are at present employed in "stay-home" jobs will be carefully graded. Those found fit for active fighting will be placed in more active positions.

RING OF FREEDOM

Probably the best known newspaper woman in the United States is Dorothy Thompson, of New York and points West.

On May 6th, at a dinner in her honor, she listed her "10 Articles of Faith", and because they expressed so closely the feelings of the American people the newspapers of the nation gave them a great deal of space. She plans to form a group of men and women who would plan to exterminate all ideas favoring the "Fifth Columns".

On June 18th, at an organized meeting, Miss Thompson's idea was given an enthusiastic reception. Leaders from all walks of life gathered together to give her idea a very concrete foundation. The financial companies, the railroads, the political parties, the unions and the man-on-the-street were all represented at the gathering. Everyone had a chance to air their views and to make suggestions. On one fact they did agree. They proved that the League of Nations was scuttled by "international political gangsters". And they agreed also that the League would function again when the war is over. The one condition was that the League should have teeth and the means of enforcing its decisions.

In choosing a title for her new organization Miss Thompson suggested "Ring of Freedom". She offered to give a small ring, having clasped hands over a circle on which is etched the Western Hemisphere. All members of the "Ring of Freedom" will pledge themselves to uphold the "10 Articles of Faith".

PREMIER TO VISIT WEST COAST

Premier Mackenzie King will make a tour of the Western Provinces in a very short while. On the way he will visit all the large cities and will make public addresses in as many of them as he can.

The main idea behind the tour seems to be the fact that the Prime Minister has realized the people want to know what is going on in this country. They would rather hear it directly from a responsible minister than over the radio or in a newspaper. They will listen intently to Mr. King as he makes his speeches across the country, and they will be free to form their own opinions. After contributing more than $600,000,000 to the war effort, the people want to be sure that it is being spent exclusively for one purpose — to beat Hitler, to smash Nazism and to restore peace to this nation. I think Mr. King can convince them.

HOLD INQUEST ON DROWNING, ST. ANDREWS

Body Was Recovered in Shallow Water Sunday Evening

Trio Week-Ending at Summer Cottage in La Baie

Valmore Seguin, 34, one of a party of three week-enders at a camp belonging to J. B. Ouellette, La Baie, met his death Saturday morning when he fell out of a rowboat into the Ottawa River. Seguin came from Montreal Friday evening, and was accompanied by Jules Vermouth of St. Laurent and Wilfrid Samson of L'Abord à Plouffe. The trio went out in the boat next morning, clad in their bathing suits. Seguin overbalanced and sank in the river. His friends were unable to rescue him.

The man's body, recovered late Sunday afternoon, was taken to St. Andrews East. At an inquest held there on Monday by Dr. W. F. MacMartin, district coroner, the deceased was identified by his two brothers from Montreal. Testimony was given by Detective Albert Oggier, of the Homicide Squad, and by the man's two companions. According to the evidence Seguin had gone down in only a few feet of water.

A jury of local citizens returned the verdict of accidental drowning.

Valmore Seguin, employed as a joiner at St. Laurent, was unmarried.

FRENCH PAPER IN ST. JEROME IS PROHIBITED

"La Voix du Peuple" Is Banned by Ruling in Ottawa

French Weekly Sheet Termed "Prejudicial to Safety of State"

Ottawa, June 25 — Publication of "La Voix du Peuple", French language weekly newspaper printed in St. Jerome, is ordered discontinued by the Secretary of State, Hon. Pierre F. Casgrain, under the provisions of the Defence of Canada Regulations. The order, issued as an extra in The Canada Gazette, reads as follows:

"And whereas the undersigned is satisfied that the publication of the weekly newspaper entitled 'La Voix du Peuple' printed in the French language by La Cie de Publication de St. Jerome Ltee., and whose secretary is Mr. Gui L. Caron, Room 13, St. Catherine St. East, Montreal, Quebec, is prejudicial to the safety of the State and the efficient prosecution of the war.

"Now know Ye that the undersigned, the Secretary of State of Canada, pursuant to the powers vested in him by Regulation 15 of the Defence of Canada Regulations, doth order that the publication of the French language weekly newspaper entitled 'La Voix du Peuple' be prohibited".

ASSEMBLY OF W.M.S. UNITS, CUSHING HALL

Over 150 Ladies Attend Meeting of Societies in Mont'l Presbyterial

Returned Missionary from Manchuria Is Heard Among Speakers

Cushing — Over 150 members and friends of the Ottawa Valley Section of the Women's Missionary Society, Montreal Presbyterial, met at the Stone Hall, Cushing, on June 17th, with morning and afternoon sessions.

Mrs. Archie Graham, vice-president of the district, was in the chair. Rev. W. A. Dempsey, minister of St. Mungo's Church, spoke words of greetings and mentioned that the beautiful hall, where the meeting was held, had been built more than 110 years ago, and was originally used as a chapel for Methodist and Presbyterian worship. Mrs. F. Fuller, president of the local Auxiliary, gave the visitors a cordial welcome on behalf of the organization, and was thanked by Mrs. Lilly, of St. Andrews East.

The devotional period at the morning hour was taken by Mrs. F. S. McGibbon, of Lachute Auxiliary, and in the afternoon by Mrs. Zimmer, of Brownsburg.

Miss Dorothy Flower, of Montreal, contributed two very pleasing vocal selections and the memorial service was led by Mrs. John Gordon, of East Settlement. In the past year, the following members have been called to higher service — Mrs (Rev.) J. W. Maclean, formerly of this Section; Mrs. John Hay, Mrs. Henry Davis, Mrs. Jas. Leishman and Mrs. Alex. Smith, of Lachute; Miss Mary Hardie, Brownsburg; Mrs. B. N. Wales and Miss Katherine Pitcairn, St. Andrews East

Sixteen children of the Mission Band came in during the afternoon with their president and leader, Mrs. Dempsey and Miss Tait, and gave their "Daisy" song, after which Mrs. Hillyer, Mission Band Secretary of Montreal, gave an interesting talk on "The Highway of Friendship", illustrated by stories and charts.

Mrs. Gilbride, president of the Montreal Presbyterial, addressed the gathering briefly, speaking of the re-adjustments in the personnel of the Home Missions, since so many foreign missionaries have been forced to return to their native land; she spoke also of the trying time through which the W.M.S. and the Missionary and Maintenance committees are passing, due to war conditions.

Mrs. Peden, secretary of Christian Stewardship in the Presbyterial, spoke on her department of work and asked all to use, to the best advantage, their talents of time, personality, leadership and possessions.

An outstanding address was given by Mrs. Ross, of Manchuria, who with her husband was the last missionary to leave that field when ordered home by the Dominion Government. Mrs. Ross told how sorry they were to come away, and how the native Christians in a body of almost two thousand people came to the dock to bid them farewell, to assure them they would carry on the work of the missions in their absence, and entreating them to return soon. These Korean Christians are loyal to their faith, in spite of trials, persecution and sacrifice. They suffer from hunger and cold, as both food and clothing are rationed. Mrs. Ross affirmed that the Japanese Christians, too, are worthy of our gifts, our prayers, and our love.

Mrs. J. C. Moore, secretary for temperance, in a closing talk stated that Canada last year spent as much on alcoholic liquor as on war.

At this very successful annual gathering, representatives were present from Montreal, Lachute, St. Eustache, Shawbridge, Morin Heights, Arundel, St. Andrews East, Brownsburg, Vankleek Hill, Hawkesbury and Cushing.

Lunch and afternoon tea were served by the Cushing ladies, under the convenorship of Mrs. L. M. Gaston and Mrs. William Usher.

Though Canada is incurring a huge debt in prosecuting her war effort, it is to be borne in mind that all but a fraction of the debt is payable to Canadians, and when the war is over this will be still a wealthy country; in proportion to its population one of the wealthiest countries in the world.

Dim Those Lights

With the fine weather here, traffic on our highways will become heavier each day. The greater the traffic, the greater the number of accidents. Every motorist should make it his or her responsibility to do their very best to avoid accidents or accident conditions. Dim your lights, motorists, when approaching another car — be at least polite. Again we say, "Dim your lights!"

ARM CRUSHED IN COLLISION WITH TRUCK

Defective Lights Said Cause of Main Street Accident

While driving along Main Street Saturday night, Foster Campbell, of Dalesville, collided with a parked truck. It was reported the vehicle had been stopped by a local traffic officer to make a check-up on defective head and rear lights. Campbell did not see the truck until his car had almost struck it; he immediately swerved to the right to miss it, and in doing so he was caught by the rear end of the truck, which crushed his left arm. His arm had been resting on the open window of the car. The elbow was badly crushed and an artery was cut. Mr. Campbell was attended by Dr. W. F. McMartin, and was then rushed to a Montreal hospital, where surgeons were able to save his arm but his hand may suffer permanent injury.

ACHIEVEMENT BEATS ALL COMPARABLE COUNTIES IN PROVINCE OF QUEBEC

Without Ceremony or Fanfare, Argent'l Proves Patriotism in Big Way

During the last week of the 1941 Victory Loan campaign sales returns poured into local headquarters from all sections of the county in such numbers that the organizers and personnel in Lachute were forced to work late hours at night; even at the time of going to press they are still entering orders, although the canvass was supposed to have ended last Saturday night.

The objective of $990,000 (exclusive of conversions) set for this county, was exceeded by 36 per cent, likewise the objective of $440,000 set for individual subscriptions (exclusive of special names and conversions of Dominion bonds maturing Nov. 15th.) was exceeded by 29 per cent.

That Argenteuil County realized the need, is evident by the number of individual subscriptions. Without bands, parades and public demonstrations, the individual subscriptions amounted to more than 1,554 in number, coming from all corners of the constituency.

Credit for this accomplishment rests first of all with the citizenry, but the untiring efforts of the canvassers, who gave — unstintingly of their time and effort, should not be forgotten. Neither should the extra work imposed upon the banks and their staffs be overlooked, nor the joint chairman of the committee in charge, namely Messrs. W. M. Scott and Clement Tremblay, who gave not hours but days of their time for the success of this venture.

	Obj'tv	Total Sales	Sales less Spec. Names & Conv's.	% of Obj'tv	Number of Sales
Arundel	$30,000	$31,600	$29,600	99%	62
Brownsburg	80,000	124,100	107,300	138%	603
Calumet	30,000	44,500	41,500	138%	83
Grenville	45,000	49,250	49,250	108%	76
Huberdeau	10,000	4,300	4,300	43%	13
Lachute	155,000	370,550	283,050	182%	532
Morin Heights	25,000	28,805	13,850	56%	44
St. Adolphe	10,000	1,650	1,650	17%	16
St. Andrews	35,000	42,550	26,050	74%	84
Weir	20,000	8,750	8,750	44%	36
	440,000	706,100	565,300		1549

Computations by Mr. Bruce Taylor, the official organizer for this territory, reveal the following facts concerning the total Loan investments for Argenteuil:

Subscriptions per capita of population, $73.13.

Subscriptions per capita, exclusive of special names, $34.86.

Sales percentage to assessment, exclusive of special names, 6.85%.

LACHUTE MAN 'BEST DRIVER IN BATALLION'

Gen. McNaughton Rides In New Vehicle Driven by Trooper E. Clifford

First Bren-Gun Carriers Received Overseas from Canadian Factory

Somewhere-in-England, June 20 — First armored fighting vehicles from Canadian factories — a fleet of Bren-gun carriers—have arrived in England and are being assigned to Canadian Army units.

One of these speedy carriers was inspected by Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton before being sent to a 1st. Division Battalion. After a lengthy ride in the carrier, driven by Trooper E. W. Clifford of Lachute — "the best carrier driver of the battalion" — the General said — "we are tremendously enthusiastic about the new carriers and the way they operate, and very pleased about the various extras added to this Canadian equipment."

Clifford drove the carrier more than 75 miles from a depot to the 1st. Division camp and said "it is the easiest handling buggy of this kind I've ever driven."

The carriers are made in an Ontario motor factory and thoroughly tested before being shipped overseas. They are ready now for active operation in England.

Quebec Troops Overseas Observe St. Jean Baptiste

Somewhere in England, June 22 — A French-Canadian regiment of the Canadian 2nd. Division yesterday celebrated St. Jean Baptiste Day with regimental ceremony before Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Canadian Corps commander, and Mrs. McNaughton.

(St. Jean Baptiste day was not actually till June 24 but the regiment expected to be too busy with its training on that day).

The regiment paraded a guard of honor commanded by Capt. Julien Bibeau of Montreal. Later a garden party was held on a lawn near the camps. The regiment's colonel, its second in command, Maj. Guy Montpetit, and other officers chatted with visitors.

Capt. Alex Dugas, of Montreal, regimental adjutant, arranged details of the celebration.

SOLDIERS ARE GRATEFUL TO LACHUTE CLUB

Many Boys Write Letters Acknowledging Gifts of Cigarettes

Smokes Are Scarce and Costly Overseas; Now A Real Luxury

A number of letters and postcards received from soldiers overseas acknowledging tins of cigarettes sent across by the Lachute Lions Club, reveal a warm appreciation of this local effort — since, apart from the high cost which makes "smokes" a luxury for the boys, these commodities now appear to be growing scarce in England. One hears of stores displaying the sign " No cigarettes today", and — whatever the reason — it is a shortage of non-essentials which hits hard at the inveterate smoker; and a larger percentage of our forces, of course, must be listed in this class.

One letter — addressed to Mr. Chas. Walker, who is in charge of this department for the Lions Club — says: "When we can buy them here (cigarettes), they are rather a poor grade and hard on a throat used to good Canadian tobacco."

Another writer says — "The cigarettes were real life-savers. Many thanks, not only for myself, but on behalf of the rest of the boys in my room;" while still another states — "In the service we learn to share and co-operate with each other, so we may say that some good does come out of war."

SUBSCRIPTION RATE GOES UP ON JULY FIRST

Last Opportunity to Prepay Subscriptions At $1.50 Rate

Circular Letter Gives Formal Notice to All Readers

Individual letters to all Watchman subscribers are going forward this week, giving formal notice of the change in rate, which advances from $1.50 to $2. on July 1st. Subscriptions to the United States will be similarly advanced, from $2. to $2.50.

There is still time for economy-minded customers to take advantage of the existing rate, by paying several years' subscription in advance at $1.50 (or $2. in the U.S.).

In future all subscriptions will be considered on a paid-in-advance basis. Conforming to the system now generally adopted in Canada, subscriptions will be stopped if renewal is not paid within three issues of the expiry date; the reader's name will then be taken off our mailing list.

The major revenue of a newspaper is derived from its advertising. And advertisers, these days, award their business on a circulation bases — taking their count on the number of paid-up subscribers. The small-town weeklies must therefore establish their merit on this basis — which is prime reason for the change now being made in our circulation methods.

The Watchman is confident of the support of its readers. The address label is a constant reminder of a subscriber's standing—the subscription date being printed every week on this label.

CANADIAN POSTERS BRIGHTEN SHELTERS

London — Posters of scenes in Canada including those which depict the beauties of Jasper National Park have been freely distributed to brighten the walls of First Aid Posts and rest centres. Even hospitals have received supplies. Nurses and Wardens found their way to the offices of the Canadian National Railways in Cockspur St. and their requests for posters have been promptly granted.

Potential Killers

Six wolf pups discovered in a nest under the roots of an upturned maple tree when Isaac Speers and his two sons, Ivan and Cecil, were searching for cattle which had strayed from their farm, near Barrie, Ont. They were taken to the court house where they created a stir among the girl employees. All agreed they were cute — but dangerous, so they were turned over to District Game Warden Gordon Buie who took them to Toronto. The death sentence was passed on them and carried out by the Humane Society. Wolves under six months of age fetch a $5 bounty so farmer Speers will receive $30. The parent wolves were heard howling in the distance, but were not captured.

FOUR ARRESTS IN LAURENTIANS AS RESULT OF FIRES

Terrebonne County Farmers Charged With Burning Brush Without Permits

St. Jerome, June 19. — Arrest of four Terrebonne County farmers on statutory charges having to do with the protection of forests marked the launching of a Provincial Government campaign against the menace of forest fires such as recently swept over widespread areas of rich Laurentian timber country.

Arrested by provincial detectives on instructions from the Attorney General's Department, Albert Lauzon, of St. Faustin; Alphonse Gagnon, of Archambault Township, in the vicinity of St. Donat; Norbert Brunet, of Wolfe Township, near St. Jovite and Xavier Legault, of St. Jovite, were hailed before Raymond Raymond, J.P., on charges of having set fire to felled trees, brush, etc., without having obtained a permit to do so, in contravention of Article 44 of the Statutes of Quebec, 1925, and amendments. Bail was set at $100. cash in each case.

A Rush of Prospectors To Quebec Gold Find

Malartic, Que. — Reports of gold finds in the vicinity of Barraute, thirty miles northwest of this centre, have attracted prospectors from Quebec and Ontario. The area, opened up by the construction of Canadian National lines, is highly mineralized and contains a large number of productive mines situated in thriving communities.

A WRESTLING PREMIER

The Parliament of Althing, which was formed 1,101 years ago and is the oldest in the world, has renounced its attachment to Denmark, and full powers have been vested in the premier, Jermann Jonasson.

For years the premier was champion wrestler of Iceland, and, had he bothered to leave the shores of his native land, would have made a fortune as a professional wrestler. As it is, he is a great friend of Britain.

Perhaps he remembers how Germany tried to "muscle in" on Iceland two years ago. Goering and Himmler (the Gestapo chief) tried to visit the country in the guise of research scientists, but they failed.

ST. JEROME ASKS INCREASED WAGES IN LOCAL PLANTS

St. Jerome, June 19. — A resolution urging local manufacturers and other employers to increase minimum wages for their employees in view of the increased cost of living, was unanimously adopted by the Town Council.

The resolution points out that the town does not intend to interfere in the "affairs of industry," but that its request is based on a "serious inquiry" which revealed that many employees of local concerns would have wished to respond to wartime campaign needs could they have done so without detriment to their families.

It advises, further, that the town had regarded it as a duty to raise wages of its laborers from 30 to 35 cents an hour, and that, despite the increased cost of living, certain employers were still paying such low salaries that their employees were not able to meet their obligations.

The resolution concludes that, in an effort to "remedy this situation" a request be addressed to all industries and employers to see that minimum salaries be raised and that employees be paid, at least, as much as city laborers.

Lad Hitch-Hiked from Niagara to North Shore

Hull, June 18. — A 14-year-old boy who covered more than 3,000 miles in Ontario after he ran away from his home at Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont., went on a return journey today — this time by train.

Hull district police put the boy on the train after he was granted suspended sentence in court here on charges of stealing a rifle and cottage equipment from a summer home at East Templeton, Que

The boy covered most of the 3,000 miles by walking and hitch-hiking. His itinerary included stops at Toronto, Hamilton, North Bay, Sault Ste. Marie, Carleton Place and Ottawa.

New Styles in Tiles

In these days of prefabricated housing, paint and wood chemistry is contributing in no small way to the beauty of the interior decoration of these one-day-to-build houses with a product that is new in the Canadian building trade — simulated tiling, according to an article by Philip A. Novikoff in the current issue of C-I-L OVAL.

Basically, this tiling comes from the forests of Canada and the manufacturers of this new material have overcome all the deficiencies of real tile and have actually improved upon it in many ways. Its main constituent is made of oil-treated steam-burst wood fibre, molded into stone-hard boards under terrific pressure. When the surface of the boards has been made perfectly smooth it is ready for the application of a top coat of specially prepared enamel, which comes in some 20 color variations covering practically all the popular tints used in modern interior decoration. White is still in greatest demand for bathrooms — a habit probably acquired when porcelain tiling seldom came in any other color.

In addition to being used for tiling bathrooms, this new material is quickly gaining favor in the decoration of modern kitchens and hallways. Restaurants are utilizing the plain-surfaced product for their lunch counters as well as using the scored product for outside fronts. It is taking the place of enamelled sheet metal, which has a tendency to become chipped and rusted in the course of a year or two, in the manufacture of commercial signs, the designs and lettering being transferred to it by decalcomanias or silk screening. Of special interest is its use in the manufacture of serving trays, which are impervious to boiling water, alcohol or any other liquid that may be accidentally spilled during a house party.

PASTEURIZATION RULING UPHELD IN OUTREMONT

Montreal — Any municipality in the Province of Quebec has a perfect right to enforce the sale of pasteurized milk in its respective territory, Chief Justice Greenshields in Superior Court last week in dismissing an action for $9,999 taken by Henri Grou, an alderman of Outremont, against that city because he had been brought before the court for infraction of a by-law which prohibits the sale of any but pasteurized milk.

His Lordship pointed out that the validity of the by-law had been declared in a judgment of Mr. Justice Demers. As to merits of pasteurized milk, the court added that this was unimportant, the fact remained that Outremont authorities had the right to enact the by-law.

Never borrow trouble; the interest on the loan is entirely too high for wise investors.

SCRATCHING GRAVEL ON OUR OWN FARMS

— By B. Leslie Emslie —

"In homely terms it is then — what matter if, when this war is over, we scratch gravel, provided it is our own gravel; what matter if we find ourselves poor, provided our poverty is of that honest kind, the sharing of which invokes the true and equal dignity of man". These words were spoken by a great patriot, Robert Menzies of waged in many ways. There are, from New York on May 13, 1941, when he urged the need for sacrifice on the part of every citizen of the British Commonwealth, in order that the cause of freedom shall prevail.

Scratching gravel is indeed a homely term, one readily understood by the farmer who "scorns not with sun-browned hands to scrape acquaintance with his land." Fortunate is the farmer who lives in a country where he can till his acres of his own free will and reap for himself and household the reward of his toil. To preserve this freedom is worth some sacrifice. How much it is worth is realized fully and bitterly by farmers of continental Europe, who have lost it and are now no better than serfs.

"Is this the weather bureau?"
"Yes, Sir."
"How about a shower tonight?"
"It's alright with me. Take one of you need it."

WAGE WAR ON WEEDS, THEY ROB THE SOIL

— By G. R. Snyder —

The early completion of spring planting has provided an exceptional opportunity for an aggressive weed eradication program this year. Already the "showy" weeds of early summer, daisies, sheep sorrel, cinque-foil and many others are blotting out the verdant foliage of meadows and pastures; and mustard will soon be flaunting its golden florescence far and wide over the grain fields. Other less apparent weeds, couch or quack grass, sow thistle and bindweed are busy obtaining a strangle hold on the crops. Later in the summer, their work of destruction will be more conspicious.

News reports from Germany tell of the government's efforts to encourage the people to utilize daisies, dandelions and other weeds as substitutes for vegetables in the daily diet. Fortunately, we in Canada do not need to fall back on such objectionable forms of plant growth for food purposes, and there are more pleasant ways of getting rid of them than by eating them. War on weeds can be Australia, in an address broadcast however, seven weapons that have proven especially effective: a definite determination to get rid of weeds, clean seed, crop rotation, thorough cultivation, suitable fertility conditions, smother crops and chemical weed killers.

Powdered cyanamid of special weed-killer grade has proven very effective in controlling mustard in grain fields. Properly applied, it destroys the mustard without injuring the grain. Patches of weeds can be eradicated most economically and effectively by means of chemical weed killer. Several types of these are very effective with annual and shallow-rooted perennials, but those containing sodium chlorate have proven most effective in the destruction of deep-rooted perennials such as bindweed, couch grass and perennial sow-thistles.

Where weeds are thriving over the whole field, the combination of an early season summer fallow plus the growing of buckwheat, millet or rape as a smother crop is the most practical control method. Experience indicates however, that the cover crop should be aided by a liberal application of fertilizer 2-12-6 or 2-16-6 applied in the row with the seed. This will enable the crop to make the rapid growth necessary to quickly form a dense covering.

While waging war against weeds, one should not overlook the fact that from both an individual and national standpoint weeds do perform a valuable service in drawing attention to the rapid depletion of soil fertility. The crimson blanket that sheep sorrel casts over meadows in many sections of the country in early summer indicates a probable lack of lime in the soil. Bluet, the little pale blue flowered plant, and rough cinque-foil, the yellow flowered plant that grows in meadows, generally indicate a low phosphate supply. Most weeds establish themselves more successfully where cultivated plants die out or where conditions are unsuitable for the culture of the specific type of crop planted on that area. The progressive farmer would be well advised to add soil sampling to his war on weeds prorgam, so that after harvest he will be prepared to follow up on his weed destruction with a definitely constructive soil improvement program.

Where, lacking crown and throne,
I rule by loving services
And patient toil alone.

Farmworkers Fight Nazi Fire Bombs

(By Mail)

London, May 19 — With 12,500,000 acres under the plough this year 3¾ millions more than in 1939 — Britain's agricultural leaders are planning how to protect her grain from Nazi fire bombs.

Last year Germany's air onslaught did not develop fully until the harvest was gathered in, but this year, combined with U-boat attacks on shipping, the menace to British food supplies is very real.

Among the safeguards which may be enforced is the cutting of firebreaks or lanes, about 30 ft. wide, across the direction of the prevailing wind. The crops, cut green, would not be wasted, but made into hay or silage. Some stooks can be protected by setting the rows as far apart as possible. Ricks would be set at least 15 yards apart, and, prefeably out in the field, to prevent enemy landings.

For dealing with outbreaks of fire, water carts would be kept filled near the standing crops, and further reserves stored in ricks or van covers supported on stakes.

Fire-fighters will arm themselves with stirrup pumps, fruit spraying machines, liquid manure carts, wet sacks and brooms cut from timber and hedgerows. Tractors will be useful for ploughing a fire-break quickly in the path of an advancing fire, and scythes for isolating small patches.

With fire-watchers, A.R.P. wardens and Home Guards in every parish, there will be no lack of man-power to safeguard the vital harvest of 1941.

Are You a "Poor Writer"?

Are you an indifferent correspondent? When it comes to writing a letter to friends away from home, do you ponder over what news to tell; what items you mentioned when you last wrote; and how to tell them so much in the little time at your disposal?

Ever since Gutenberg invented printing, a news-bulletin of sorts has filled the needs of folks like you, who write letters far between and with reluctant spirit. And today the home-town paper solves the problem, completely. In its pages, published week by week, are all the doings fit to print, from the personal angle and from the broader viewpoint of your community's aspects of national life. You wouldn't think to dwell upon these wider topics in your letters, perhaps; but still they are the vital home-town news. They reflect the latest developments, and consequently, the trend of public spirit in the town your friends have loved.

It's an old story. But we recommend it once more to the consideration of our readers — who may confer a lasting pleasure by subscribing to this paper for some friend away from home. It saves the furrowed brow and fevered finger of many a rebellious letter-writer !

Commendable Legislation

The bill for the prevention of venereal disease by the Province of Quebec — the full draft of which was made public recently — will add to the Dominion's efforts to make Canada a healthier nation.

"Health" Magazine, in an editorial in the current issue, commends the Quebec legislators on the passage of this act, which empowers all physicians to report by name, to the provincial authorities, all those infected with venereal disease who neglect to follow out requisite treatment regularly.

The bill also provides that every hospital receiving grants under the Quebec Public Charities Act shall provide for the examination and treatment of persons sent to it suffering from venereal disease.

Every municipality in Quebec may establish special dispensaries and hospitals for the treatment of persons suffering from venereal disease, or subsidize like institutions for such treatment.

The new Quebec legislation is the culmination of several years of work in which the service clubs of Montreal took a leading part. The Health League of Canada was able to render some assistance through its Montreal branch . Their committee studying the subject lent support to the move to pass the legislation.

Dr. Jules Archambault, director of the Division of Venereal Diease for Quebec, is quoted as saying there are probably 120,000 syphilitics in Quebec Province.

The War Payroll

High cost of war has been the subject of much comment in the press of late but war is undoubtedly stimulating business throughout Canada by reducing the number of men on relief and increasing the income of families. In many cases men on relief had not been employed steadily for some years and their families had suffered through these lean years. Now these men are wearing uniforms and cheques from the Canadian government are being received regularly in their homes. The Dependents' Allowance Board announced recently that cheques are being issued at the rate of 170,000 monthly both for assigned pay of sailors, soldiers and airmen and for dependents' allowances. Total amount being paid out monthly was far in excess of $8,000,000 of which about $3,000,000 was in assigned pay and $5,000,000 in allowances. An eight-million-a-month payroll is bound to benefit business, especially when a large number of the pay-checks will go into homes where small wages or no wages at all have forced wives and families to scrimp and scratch in pre-war years.

Adolf, the Unpopular

Adolf Hitler's a hero in Germany but he's strictly an unpopular gent on this side of the Atlantic. During the recent Victory Loan Campaign, officials in one centre hit upon a novel idea for a loan "thermometer". They proposed to erect a giant figure of the German chief and to "blot out" sections as the suscriptions came rolling in. The scheme couldn't, unfortunately, be used, for merchants refused to have even a caricature of Adolf anywhere near their stores, fearing windows might be broken and other damage caused by passing pedestrians who mightn't be able to resist the urge to sling a brick at Germany's pride. News notes also record a New York woman's suing her husband for divorce on the grounds that he imitated Hitler at parties by loosening a forelock and smearing on a burnt cork moustache. P. S. — She got the divorce !

"We"

Charles Lindbergh, Nazi sympathizer, wrote a book about his Trans-Atlantic flight back in the palmy days of his popularity and titled it simply "We". And now that "We" has popped into popularity again across the Atlantic — but it's a different word. English newspapers no longer refer to troops, ships or planes by official and accepted names in their headlines. The heading on any war article may read "We Start Blitz On Nazis" or "We Make Gains In Far East". England is "we" now. England is a nation united in a common purpose — that of destroying the evil forces of tyranny and oppression built up by the dictators. Englishmen stand as one man in this time of crisis that might well be admired throughout the free thinking world. "We" will win !

"To Nazi tyrants it must seem strange that Canada, free from all compulsion or pressure, and so many thousands of miles away, should hasten forward into the battle against the evil forces of the world," said Winston Churchill in a recent Victory Loan broadcast. But to we Canadians it doesn't seem strange at all. Which is, perhaps, the difference, in a nutshell, between the Democratic and the Nazi way of living.

Britain's new clothing ration has come into effect and applies to all apparel with the exception of hats and infant's clothing. Which should, without a doubt, lead to new and "breath-taking" styles, on English bathing beaches.

And now, when the country needs the money to help annihilate Adolf, Canadians have rallied loyally in putting their "jack" in the Union Jack.

Marriage Made Easy

June is the 'month of marriages' and it is interesting to read of some curious old customs connected with the ceremony.

Perhaps the quaintest wedding ceremony ever practised in Britain was known as being 'married over a broom.' This was a custom very common among the gypsies about fifty years or so ago, especially in Wales.

The ceremony was very simple; it consisted of the man and woman jumping over a broomstick held by the bride's father, the bride jumping first. This simple ceremony was regarded as even more binding than the orthodox church service.

BOYS OF THE BLITZ CIVILIAN HEROES

Gallantry Stories from the Bombed Cities of Britain

By Winifred Holmes

All the heroes of the war are not in uniform.

Take Michael O'Connor, for instance. Michael is a boy of 16 from the East end of London. And Mickey was leader of a boy "Gang". Now Mickey has turned his gang into a first-class company of fire-fighters and Civil Defence messengers.

He and his parents live in a tiny basement. "That's why I'm so small', says Mickey, who is not quite five feet tall. His father is a dock laborer, and his mother a hospital cleaner. Mickey himself is an office boy in a paper works. At night he goes on duty as an A.R.P. messenger, while his father and mother sleep in the crypt shelter of one of the historic old City churches.

One evening recently, Mickey reported at the Post for duty as usual. Bombs began to fall and the wardens were called out. Mickey was given the job of taking an injured man through the "blitz" to the First Aid Centre.

Seven times he was sent out on his bicycle while the raid was at its height, for the fire and ambulance services. Then came a lull. Mickey wiped his forehead, had a cup of tea and a sandwich and sat down.

Before ten minutes had passed the guns were going again, overhead droned the bombers. Suddenly a "bread-basket" spilled its deadly contents on Mickey's street. "Incendiaries!" He pedalled furiously round to the houses where members of his "gang" lived. "A packet by Old Ma's pub. Come on!" With their help Mickey put out nine fires.

More incendiaries on the old church where, among 350 other people, Mickey's parents were sheltering. Two fires began to blaze on the roof. Armed with a bucket of water and a stirrup-pump, Mickey climbed a narrow staircase to the roof. There he fought the flames single-handed until the fires began to die down and the Fire Brigade arrived to finish the job.

When Bill Coppola, a fifteen-year-old railway worker in a West Country town, wanted to join the Auixliary Fire Service for First Aid work, he was told he was too young. But he persisted and was reluctantly enrolled.

One night the station to which he was attached was heavily attacked. High explosives screamed down and Bill dived under a coach for cover.

Then he heard a splutter as incendiary bombs fell on the building. The next minute he was running up a ladder to the roof. There he spent ten hectic minutes kicking the incendiaries to the ground before they could do any damage.

A still younger boy here is 14-year-old Eric Smith, of South London. Because of his smallness he was able to save the lives of several people trapped under the wreckage of their home.

Rescue workers were digging frantically to reach the family buried beneath the rubble. Eric heard the leader say that the only way to make a safe tunnel was through a small opening from which a fireplace had been removed.

"But it's too small for any of us to get through," he added despondently.

"I'll go", said Eric. The men hesitated. Owing to its dangerous nature the work needed skilled handling. But there were several lives at stake.

So Eric got his way. Armed with an axe and shovel, he squeezed into the tiny opening. Cramped and half-suffocated, he chopped and shovelled away for hours, while debris threatened to collapse on on him at any moment. At last he succeeded in making the opening big enough for a man to pass through — and finally the trapped people, two of whom were still alive, were brought out.

Just an old German custom ! Bismark, the Iron-Chancellor, said at the outbreak of the Franco-Prussian War of 1870: "You must inflict on the inhabitant of an invaded country the maximum of suffering, so that they may become sick of the struggle, and bring pressure to bear on their rulers to end it."

IRISH ! Here's a story from the only country it could originate and still be true! Northern Ireland, being at war, rounded up a number of Irish Republican Army (Sinn Fein) sympathizers within its borders and interned them for safekeeping in a ship in Strangford Lough.

The people of Northern Ireland have objected to their government for doing this because, they claim, it is costing them too much — over $5. per head per day. They don't object to the rebels being interned, but simply to the method used. They say a jail is good enough, but the Government thinks that, because of bomb attacks, a ship is safer.

Eire objects because they say that the men are likely to be bombed by the Nazi airmen and would have little chance of escape, being in the water.

The only ones who are satisfied are — the men themselves. They are quite happy on the ship and strenuously object to being moved ! All concerned are Irish—very !

HALF-WAY FOR HITLER !

Many people wonder how Hitler would make an attack on this continent. Well, one answer is South America, and Hitler has been wooing the South American countries vigorously — and not without some success, judging by the numbers of Nazi sympathisers in those countries.

But the real answer may be found by looking back to 1936. The late Marshal Balbo, the Italian air ace, flew a squadron of planes to Chicago. On the way to America he landed at Iceland to refuel — and it's Iceland that Hitler has his eyes on. You may recall that he recently announced that Iceland was a war zone.

FORESEEN ! Mr. Winston Churchill realized its importance months ago when he ordered British Tommies to take up positions in Iceland, and now, of course, Canadians have taken over.

A mine barrage, also, is too near Iceland's shores to make a German landing attempt a comfortable proposition.

They thought that their son was sort of listless — but they hadn't seen his list of blondes, his list of brunettes and his list of redheads.

"I KNOW I'm standing on your feet. If you were a gentleman, you'd be standing on them, yourself!"

Postmarks Are Collector's Latest War-Time Craze

(By Mail)

London—In war-scarred London sits a man whose pre-occupation is not with falling bombs, but scattered envelopes. He is the originator of a new war-time vogue which is growing in popularity from month to month from one side of the Atlantic to the other.

When you get an out-of-the-way envelope you probably glance at it twice and throw it away. In doing so you throw away a curious object which has a market value and is today being sought after by collectors in Britain and overseas, particularly in the United States.

This vast international club of postmark colectors is run from London and no country in the world has taken to this offspring of philately more ardently than America.

It is claimed that postmark collecting is more amusing, instructive and fascinating than ordinary stamp collecting.

Many of the postmarks are indeed curious.

For example, letters transmitted from enemy territory via the Red Cross, Geneva, or through Cook's Travel Agency, Lisbon, show from stampings that they have been opened by both German and British censors. They will become rarities.

Again, in war, letters are sometimes transferred at sea. When they are, they are so surcharged and become, for the collector of postmarks, prized acquisitions.

Old envelopes from prisoners of war, from pioneer flight mail bags, from concentration camps, all have collector value. In London the first "Postmark Catalogue" is now being prepared amid the bombs.

Stumped !

Mayor LaGuardia, of New York, much in the news recently as American head of the American-Canadian Defence Committee, once arranged to meet three representatives of the Soviet's commercial delegation.

He waited for them in his office, wearing an old, frayed suit with baggy trousers. He wanted to put the Russians at their ease immediately ! When the Russian representatives arrived wearing formal jackets and striped trousers, LaGuardia stared at their elegant attire, then glanced at his own costume. "Gentlemen," he said, "I represent the proletariat."

Germans are not good colonists, as a race. Less than 20,000 Germans had settled in colonies under her flag prior to the First Great War.

CUSHING WEST

Miss Florence Holmes, of Montreal, is the present guest of Miss Catherine Cooke at the latter's home here.

The Rev. and Mrs. Jas. W. Fraser, of Trout Creek, Ont., called on a number of their friends here last week while on a motor trip, having attended convocation at Queen's University.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Knox, of Toronto, were guests of Mrs. Usher the early part of the week when en route to spend their vacation with relatives in Montreal. Mr. and Mrs. Franklyn Keatley were also guests of Mrs. Usher on Sunday.

Miss Isabelle Abraham, of Montreal, was a guest of Miss Edna Young at the home of the latter's brother, Mr. Leonard Young, last week-end.

The Misses Helen and Eleanor Weir spent the week-end at the home of the former's parents, Capt. and Mrs. T. W. Weir, who accompanied them on their return to the city by motor on Sunday. Mrs. Henderson Weir, who has been visiting her friends here for the past week, also accompanied them and will spend the week with her daughter, Miss Eleanor Weir (who is on the staff of the Children's Memorial Hospital) before returning to her home in Thorold, Ont.

Mrs. E. J. Mahoney and son, Billy, were guests of the former's mother, Mrs. R. Funcheon, at Monalea for the week-end.

Dr. Cushing and family are in residence here this week, having as their guests Mrs. Turbayne and Miss Maude Barnard, of Niagara, Ont., who have just returned from spending the winter in Bermuda.

Miss Florence Cushing and Mr. and Mrs. Robertson, with their son and daughter, were also guests of Dr. Cushing on Sunday. The latter will act as junior bridesmaid at the marriage of Miss Marjorie Cushing and Dr. Richard Harbert, which takes place on Saturday afternoon next in St. Mungo's Church and promises to be an event of much interest in the community.

Red Cross Report

73 Pairs socks, 32 sweaters, 16 pairs mitts, 27 caps, 21 pairs gloves, 9 pairs 2-way mitts, 3 scarves, 15 dressing-gowns, 57 pairs pyjamas, 32 boys' shirts, 1 girl's dress, 10 children's panties, 10 ladies' skirts, 24 diapers, 1 hospital gown.

Donations — 1 girl's dress, 9 quilts, 14 pair wristlets, 1 scarf.

Total — 356 articles.

Be Community-Minded

Don't waste another minute of your time trying to become independent. A community of people is like a pyramid; the higher you get up in it, the more men and women there must be underneath to keep you there. The more independent you become in one way, the more you increase your dependence in every other direction.

OBITUARY

T. H. Todd, Prominent In the American Legion, Was Well Known Here

A Vermont exchange records the death of T. Howard Todd, a young man 43 years of age who was related here and well known to the farming community. Howard was the son of Mr. and the late Mrs. Henry Todd (the former Miss Margaret Rodger) who left this section to reside near Burlington, Vermont.

Commander of the Bellows Falls unit of the American Legion, and one of that community's most tireless workers, T. Howard Todd had been ill at the Rockingham hospital for less than a week when his death occurred on June 17th.

He was born in Burlington in 1897, and attended schools there, later going to business college in Boston, Mass. He was a student at Clarkson College, Potsdam, N.Y., in 1918 when he enlisted in the U. S. Army.

Previous to moving to Bellows Falls, Todd had been in business with his father in Burlington, and later had been engaged in the work of the Historical Records Survey in the State of Vermont. He moved to Bellows Falls in 1938 as district field supervisor of the Survey. He was appointed commander of the local Legion in 1940, and was general chairman for the State Legion convention held in his community last year. Mr. Todd played a major part in the establishment and growth of many community organizations.

He was a member of the civil recruiting committee of the regular army. He gave impetus to a Sons of the American Legion group, and worked for the organization of a Legion firing squad to participate at military funerals. He developed community defence and aircraft warning groups. Much interested in music, Commander Todd sang in the United Church choir and lent his efforts to musical enterprises.

The funeral, with military honors, was held Wednesday, June 18th, from the Universalist Church in Bellows Falls.

Late Mrs. Richd. Dodd

Grenville — There passed away suddenly on June 15th, at her home, Mrs. Richard Dodd, who was in her 75th year.

She is survived by her husband; two daughters, Mrs. Corl Gauley, of Rawcliffe, Mrs. Earl McIntyre, of Grenville; and a son, Wesley, at home; also two brothers, John and Daniel Fox, one sister, Mrs. Peter Leroy, and eighteen grandchildren.

The funeral was held June 17th in St. Matthew's Church. The Rev. Mr. Hawes, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Ellis, officiated.

Late Mrs. D. McIntyre

Grenville — In the passing of Mrs. Daniel McIntyre, on Sunday, June 15th, Grenville lost another old and highly respected citizen.

Funeral service was held in the Presbyterian Church the following Tuesday afternoon, conducted by the Rev. Mr. Scott of Hawkesbury.

Her six sons were pall-bearers. The remains were laid to rest beside those of her husband, who had passed away only two months previously. The funeral was very largely attended by relatives and friends. Beautiful floral tributes were given by loved ones.

Gordon D. Alder Dies Suddenly in Montreal

The death of Gordon D. Alder occurred suddenly, from a heart attack, early Monday morning at his home on Moffat Ave., Verdun. A son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Alder, he was born in Montreal in 1901 and educated in Ottawa, later moving to the West. In 1932 he returned East and was married in 1934 to Miss Lena Graham, of Lachute, who remains to mourn the loss of a loving and devoted husband, together with one sister, Mrs. Kane, of Saskatoon, and one brother, Ray, of the R.C.A.F., St. Hubert.

Residing at Verdun, Mr. Alder was an accountant with the Canadian Electrolux Company, and was highly thought of by his employers and many friends. He was 40 years of age at the time of his death.

A short service, conducted by the Rev. Mr. Baxter, was held at the Wilson Funeral Home, Verdun, on Wednesday morning. The remains were brought to Lachute and service was held in the United Church, the minister, Rev. W. B. Rosborough, officiating. Interment was made at Lachute. The tributes were both numerous and beautiful, a large basket of flowers being sent from his fellow-workers in Montreal.

Relatives were present from this vicinity, also Mrs. Huxley, a cousin, from Pembroke, and friends from Montreal and the States.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. J. Graham, J. Chambers, G. Beatty, S. Doig, A. Graham and R. A. Giles.

VESSELS BUILT TO BE BOMBED

R. A. F. Aunt Sally Fleet For Bombing Practice

London — Defying high explosives, bomb fumes and death by drowning, men are putting to sea in speed-boats which have been specially built to be bombed by the R.A.F.

These intrepid men are the crews aboard armour-plated 40-ft. boats, built in British yards renowed for racing craft and designed to withstand hits from light practice bombs.

Direct hits simply drill holes clean through the hull, which, being packed with a special buoyant substance called onazote, one-fifth the weight of cork, can be "mended" with comparative ease.

Only amidships, where the crew of three and the vital parts are concentrated, is there stout armour plate, mounted on rubber buffers. Gas masks protect the men from bomb fumes and they are in radio communication with the bombing aeroplane. A safety tender lies near at hand.

The target boats not only turn in their own length, but can imitate the movement of any likely objective, from a steam train to zig-zagging naval vessels.

Training with them gives pilots and bomb-aimers of the R. A. F. valuable practice for their attacks upon moving enemy objectives.

STORIED SPOTS FROM SEA TO SEA

By W. J. Banks, B.A.

On the Athabaska Trail

Ile à la Crosse, Saskatchewan

The Frobisher brothers, pioneers of northwest fur trade, were among the founders of the Great North West Company. As early as the 1770's they were in what was then the very far northwest. In the year of the American Declaration of Independence Thomas Frobisher built a post on Ile à la Crosse Lake, on the upper waters of the Churchill river in what is now the province of Saskatchewan. The name derives from the fact that the Indians of the district were fond of Lacrosse and played it on an island in the lake. This strategic location has been occupied by traders ever since, and can therefore be described as one of the oldest settlements in the Canadian west.

For many years Ile à la Crosse was a key post which acted as half-way house on the long journey to the rich Athabaska country. Here Alexander Mackenzie started his trading career as a partner in an independent organization. When the great explorer joined the North West Company he travelled to his new Athabaska field by way of Ile à la Crosse. The route was via Lake Winnipeg and Cumberland House, then over the height of land to the Churchill. Later the Hudson's Bay Company built a post nearby called Superior, but it was the earlier establishment that survived the merger of the companies in 1821.

A list of visitors to Ile à la Crosse would include almost all the great names in history of northwestern exploration and early development. David Thompson knew the place well, as did Sir George Simpson, and in 1819 Sir John Franklin was welcomed on his way to the Arctic by the traditional volley of musketry.

Don't Hide Your Light

We once heard a farm woman declare she could tell a good farmer from a slipshod one by the size of his woodpile. Well, there is another measuring stick which can be used similarly in judging the acumen of a business man. The smart, aggressive business man proclaims himself to the public in the form of advertising . . . Many business men declare they cannot afford to advertise. What they really mean is that they cannot afford any outlay of money because they don't advertise. Advertising is not a liability, it is a sound investment. A dollar spent in advertising display brings back many dollars in new business. Don't hide your light under a bushel; use the advertising medium of your local paper.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SUNDAY SERVICES

"Christian Science" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, June 29th.

The Golden Text is from Isaiah 52: 10. "The Lord hath made bare his holy arm in the eyes of all the nations; and all the ends of the earth shall see the salvation of our God."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "If ye love me, keep my commandments. And I will pray the Father, and he shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you for ever;" (John 14: 15, 16).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: Our Master said, "But the Comforter . . . shall teach you all things." When the Science of Christianity appears, it will lead you into all truth. The Sermon on the Mount is the essence of this Science, and the eternal life, not the death of Jesus, is its outcome." (Page 271).

REICH TO AVOID NAPOLEON TRAP

SCHEDULE OF CONQUEST, THREE WEEKS

Washington, June 23 — According to reports received here, Germany does not intend to fall into the trap that ruined Napoleon by going as far as Moscow. Instead her aim is understood to be to paralyze Russia, not only for the present but for the long future, by taking the Caucasus, Bessarabia, the Ukraine, the Baltic states, Murmansk, Leningrad and Black Sea ports, walling her from the Bosporus and the Dardanelles, and perhaps bombing junctions of trans-Siberian railroad in Europe in order to interfere with the movement of supplies.

The German military timetable is reported in official advices to be astonishingly short. These reports vary but they place it at three weeks at the outside and even as short as ten days.

The military effect if Germany wins this campaign, will be to seal the eastern front against attack from that quarter as Hitler proceeds with the war in other quarters. In the meantime, while the Russian campaign is pressed, it is assumed that there will be relief in other sectors, with no heavy bombings of Britain or major moves in other directions.

Diplomats explain that if Germany attains her military objectives, she will paralyze Russia because the Soviet Union is heavily dependent on the Ukraine and the Caucasus. She obtains nine-tenths of her oil from the Caucasus. European Russia receives from the Ukraine most of her wheat, more than half of her coal and iron, and also other important minerals. The region is also important industrially.

Without these resources, it is estimated that Russia will be helpless to continue the war or to recover and arm for war later. By the same standards, the resources will reinforce powerfully the Nazi war machine.

In the Odor Of Sanctity

Scientists Twort and Baker of the Portslade Laboratories in Sussex, England, recently came out with an old fashioned way of doing away with the disagreeable smells which infest air-raid shelters; the proposed remedy is more than a smell destroyer; it helps to get rid of germs.

Ordinary pungent incense smoke, said they, kills many kinds of nose and throat germs. To this The Lancet, old-time London medical journal said, "It is a strange turn of the wheel which has revealed antiseptic properties in the odor of sanctity." The next best disinfectant is smouldering cardboard, damped with a two-per cent solution of potassium nitrate (saltpetre) and dried.

Pretty Wedding at Harrington Church

Bennett - MacTavish

Harrington East United Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Saturday evening, June 21st., at six o'clock, when the marriage was solemnized of Freda Isabel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dougal MacTavish, and Mr. Thorald Bennett, son of Mr. and the late Mrs. Louis Bennett of Calumet, Que. The Rev. S. J. Pike of Brownsburg officiated.

Pink and white peonies, pink roses and ferns decorated the church, the guest pews being marked with pink roses, ferns and white satin bows.

Mrs. Thomas MacMahon, of Lachute, played the wedding music.

Miss Flora MacTavish, sister of the bride, and Miss Vella Bennett, sister of the groom, were the bride's attendants. Little Miss Florence Copeland, cousin of the bride, was flower girl.

Mr. James Bennett was the best man and the ushers were Mr. Stanley MacTavish and Mr. Claire Bennett.

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, was gowned in a floor-length dress of white French sheer over satin, made on simple lines, with long sleeves finishing in points over the hands. Her veil of tulle illusion fell in a train and was held by a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses and baby's breath. Her only ornament was a heart-shaped gold locket, the gift of the groom.

The bridal attendants were dressed in gowns of sheer over taffeta, cut on the same lines as that worn by the bride, but of pastel shades. Miss Flora MacTavish wore sky blue, Miss V. Bennett, shell pink, and Miss F. Copeland, buttercup yellow.

The bridesmaids wore coronets of matching shirred tulle which formed shoulder veils, and they carried pink carnations and baby's breath. The little flower girl carried a colonial bouquet.

Mrs. MacTavish, the bride's mother, wore British blue chiffon over taffeta, with a corsage of Talisman roses, and white accessories.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Lachute Auditorium. The toast to the bride was proposed by the Rev. S. J. Pike. Some two hundred guests attended.

Among the guests was Mrs. Val Swail, Sr., grandmother of the bride, who wore a black crepe dress and corsage of white gardenias.

The couple left later by motor for Niagara Falls and other points. The bride travelled in a Churchill blue crepe ensemble with navy accessories . . . On their return they will reside in Calumet.

Former Lachute Girl Is Bride in Montreal

Coady - Hammond

The marriage of Lorna Adel, daughter of the late Mr. Theodore Hammond and Mrs. Hammond of Cote-des-Neiges, to Mr. Lawrence Patrick Coady, son of Mr. John Coady and Mrs. Coady of Cote-des-Neiges, took place on Saturday at eight o'clock in the "Lady Chapel" of St. Patrick's Church, the Rev. Father J. Brennan officiating. White and pale pink peonies were used to decorate the altar. Miss Clare Eagan, cousin of the bridegroom, sang "Mother Beloved" by Father Lord, S.J., and Gounod's "Ave Maria".

The bride, who was given away by her godfather, Mr. John Eagan, wore a gown of white chiffon cut on simple Grecian lines with draped bodice and a matching toque and veil and carried a white prayer-book and a corsage bouquet of orchids and lilies-of-the valley.

Miss Mae Coady, sister of the bridegroom, who was the bride's attendant, wore a turquoise chiffon gown cut on similar lines to that worn by the bride and a flower halo to match and carried a white prayer-book.

Mr. James Ward was best man for Mr. Coady. The ushers were Mr. James Boyle and Mr. Ralph Knetzer.

The bride's mother more a navy blue figured sheer with matching accessories and a corsage of sweet peas.

Mrs. Coady, the mother of the bridegroom, wore an orchid printed chiffon dress with redingote and matching accessories and a corsage of sweet peas.

The reception was held at 5251 Descelles Avenue, and later Mr. and Mrs. Coady left for North Hatley, the bride travelling in a pink crepe suit with white accessories.

Out-of-town guests were — Miss Katie Reid of Lachute, Mr. Kenneth McKennon, Quebec, Mr. and Mrs. John Sullivan, Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. J. McClenna, Saskatoon, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Anderson, Winnipeg, and Mr. J. Lockman and Miss Ann Lockman of Sydney Mines, N.S., and Mr. Bud Coady of Toronto, brother of the groom.

BACKACHE, THOUGH NOT SEVERE, REQUIRES DOCTOR'S CARE

Working in the garden or playing strenuous games of golf in summertime may cause backache. This muscular ache is simply the reaction of soft flabby muscles after doing much more than they usually do. However, backache which comes on for no apparent reason is something quite different. There are many causes for backache; some of them very serious, especially if they are allowed to go untreated.

As a general rule, these pains are not very severe. At first the person does not feel bad enough to see a doctor. Later on, when the pains become so severe that they prevent any activity, it may be too late for the doctor to do much about them.

There are, of course, many causes of pain in the lower part of the back. Abnormal formation of the bones present at the time of birth, tuberculosis of the spine, and arthritis of the spine may all produce back pain. There are, in addition, a large number of persons who have pain in the lower part of the back, the cause of which is difficult to find. In many instances, the pain and tenderness are located at one side or the other of the spine, in the lower part of the back. Many times, in such cases, the pain is thought to be due to trouble with the sacro-iliac joints, the joints between the lower part of the spine and the hip.

Dr. Herbert W. Harris of Cincinnati, Ohio, does not believe that the sacro-iliac joints are responsible for the pain in very many instances. These joints, he says, are broad and strong and do not permit very much motion in them. Hence, injury to these joints does not take place very easily. However, the joint between the lower parts of the spine, known as the lumbar spine and the sacrum, is not so strong and difficulty with it may often occur. Furthermore, this joint is subjected to injury on many occasions.

Damage to the lumbosacral joint may frequently occur in persons who are overweight and those with poor posture. If the person lifts a heavy weight or twists the spine, trouble with the lumbosacral joint may develop.

Dr. Harris believes that in many of these persons with back pain for which no cause is easily found, difficulty with the lumbosacral joint is responsible. The X-ray is often helpful in making a diagnosis, but the X-rays must be carefully taken in order that the joint may be clearly shown in the plate.

If it is found that trouble with the lumbosacral joint has occurred, a number of things should be done to relieve the difficulty. If the patient is overweight, a reduction in weight is advisable. The posture should be improved through exercise and the wearing of a belt, if necessary. If the pain is severe, the patient should be kept in bed at rest with the shoulders raised and the knees bent. As soon as the acute pain disappears, exercises to strengthen the muscles of the abdomen and to stretch the muscles of the lower part of the back are advised. When the pain has been relieved, it may be advisable to have a cast put on. In a few instances, operation may be required to relieve the trouble permanently.

Baby Had Whooping Cough

"Could you please tell me something that will relieve a ten-months old baby convalescing from whooping cough? The coughing interferes with her sleep. — Worried."

Answer

Such preparations as may be utilized to check the coughing in whooping cough must be obtained from the physician. He will prescribe the necessary preparation and the dose in which it should be employed. The cough in whooping cough may persist as long as six to eight weeks.

Calcium

"I am 35 years of age, and have been advised to get more calcium. I do not like milk. Can you advise me. — Lucille H."

Answer

Milk and milk products are the richest food sources of calcium. It should be possible for you to overcome your dislike for milk. Other foods rich in calcium include egg yolk, bran, green and leafy vegetables, carrots, turnips, figs and oranges. If calcium is to be taken in the form of a medicine, it should be used only under the directions of your physician.

WE SEE A FOREST FIRE

We have had grand-stand seats for a forest fire. If there had to be one it was certainly accommodating to choose such a location. I have told you before of the island which is directly in front of us about two miles across the Kennebecasis River. One Sunday morning we noticed a volume of smoke suddenly appear on the Island. Looking through the field-glasses we could see it was a grass fire, in a small open clearing. The fire quickly spread into the bush and the flames shot high. We could see it spreading quickly across another stretch of grass into a stand of trees. Then it jumped quite a distance and started up in various sections. We saw one barn go up in smoke and later on in the day the fire slowly crept along until it reached a house and another barn. You never saw anything burn as quickly as these did. Sometimes through the day the flames would die down and the smoke would lessen, then again the flames would shoot up in another place. When night came it was quite a sight to see the thin line of flame shooting up in half-a-dozen places. Later they all died down and the fire apparently had burned itself out. Next morning there was a little smoke but no sign of flames until late in the afternoon when small fires broke out. It smouldered like this until Wednesday. Quiet in the morning and breaking out again in the late afternoon. So much devastation can occur from such a little fire to begin with.

VITAMIN B IS A TONIC

Both popular and technical magazines are carrying a great deal about Vitamin B these days. Less has been known about it and as it is a very complex vitamin scientists are doing a great deal of research on it. It can be safely said that few of us get enough vitamin B. It is a tonic and when we have that tired feeling most of the time we probably lack vitamin B. It is a great help to the middle-aged in keeping up the waning store of energy. It is good for the nerves. It has been added to the bread in England and we will never know how much it has helped in keeping up the morale of the English. Our present day milling methods remove all the vitamin B from the flour and as most of us have come to prefer white bread to whole-wheat, the simplest way of getting back the lost vitamin B would be for the millers to add wheat germ which is high in it.

WE CHECK OUR VITAMINS

I wanted to check up on the quantity of vitamins my family was actually getting so for four days I calculated them. I knew we had a fair supply of each but I did not know how near we met the requirements. I found we were short of vitamin B most days. Some times we had the minimum but never the maximum. We were all right on our vitamin C requirements but sometimes were low in vitamin A, although we had the minimum. If it weren't for the quantity of milk, butter, and eggs, we use the picture would be very different. I found too that a very little juggling of foods in the menu planning made a suprising difference. Pork and ham are high in vitamin B and if we had either for dinner we had a good start on our day's needs. Porridge or a prepared cereal made from whole-wheat made quite a difference as most of the ready-to-eat cereals had no vitamins whatever. Beans either fresh or dried were one of the best vegetables for vitamin B. Even with the plentiful use of fruits, vegetables, and milk it is difficult to get sufficient vitamin B without adding a concentrate such as wheat germ.

CRYSTALLIZED FLOWERS

Gather ye rosebuds while ye may and save some of them for winter use by crytallizing them. Maybe you are lucky enough to have some of the large, dark, violets, and these too may be used. A little cluster of three or four orange blossoms will be the very thing when you are entertaining for the bride. Your lilacs may be over but ours are yet to come and I hope to do some perfect little clusters of dark purple lilacs. You might like to experiment with other small flowers. The procedure is the same for all. Pick perfect flowers and remove as much of the stem as possible, if you are using more than the petals. Make a heavy syrup by boiling a cup of sugar and a quarter-cup of water for ten minutes. Dip the petals in the syrup, drain and lay on waxed paper to dry for a few hours. Brush them lightly with a slightly beaten egg white, then dust with granulated sugar. Let stand until thoroughly dry and store in a tin box. Tender little mint leaves may be crystallized too. Use for decorating cakes or desserts.

STRAWBERRY BAVARIAN CREAM

2 cups strawberries, ¾ cup sugar, ½ cup cold water, 2 tablespoons gelatine, 1 cup cream whipped.

Soak the gelatine in the cold water. Mix the crushed strawberries and the sugar and bring to boiling point but do not boil. Dissolve the gelatine in the hot berry mixture and let stand until it just begins to congeal. Fold in the whipped cream and mould in a large mould or in sherbet glasses. Garnish with whipped cream and whole berries.

Lady, Relax — Save Yourself Wrinkles

— By Helen Jameson —

If there was ever a time within the memory of the oldest inhabitant of this fair land when human beings needed relaxation and let-up, it is precisely now. Do you ever rest yourself, except when you fall into bed? Can you go as limp as a rag and do a flop? Not one woman among thousands can do that. We're up and at 'em, on the gallop, chasing here, racing there, breathless and wondering what it's all about.

Lazy girls, of whom there seem to be few these days, need exercise. Tired, over-worked girls need rest and sunshine. Chronic colds, underweight, sleeplessness and nervousness are often due to the inability to relax. Fatigue is the enemy of good looks; it will age one before one's time. But the drive-yourself women keep on going as long as they can stand on their feet. And what's worse, they whip the members of their families into a swift pace for which many of them are not fitted.

When you are tired you are inefficient. Doesn't matter what kind of work you do, you can't do it as well or get as much done as you can when you are fit. Interest in work goes by the board; it becomes drudgery. Get refreshed and life is radiant. It isn't always the condition under which one lives that floor us, but our attitude toward it. A tired woman is bored with everything and everybody.

Women are particular about the care of their children. Little Jeanie must eat properly, get to bed at a certain hour, have her little head washed just so often, take her cod-liver oil. She must not play until she is tired because then she gets cross and sometimes sassy. But how about Jeanie's mother? Time is biting at her heels. The day is filled with work and appointments. What does she know about resting? Not a thing.

Suppose, just for fun, you try relaxing. Lie down, try to let your muscles go limp, clear your mind of nagging thoughts. What happens? You can place your weary body on the bed, but that's as far as you can get. Your muscles are tight as wires. Your nervous system is jangling at you. You are restless. As for closing the door of your mind, it just can't be done.

Don't be discouraged. If you are the boss of the home, lie down for a little while every day after luncheon. Practice relaxation. Breathe deeply, counting one-two, one-two as you inhale and exhale. Close your eyes. Visualize a quiet country side, trees and meadows. At first you may not be able to remain still for more than fifteen minutes. You're thinking of something you must do. But arrange your daily schedule so that this little space of time will be your own. Why not? What's the use of wearing yourself out?

Cultivate inactivity, the ability to hypnotize yourself away from reality. That habit will oil the wheels of life.

Plastic Surgeons Are Re-building Faces in Air-Bombed Britain

Jaw Bones from Ribs; New Noses, New Cheeks

London— New noses, new cheek bones, new jaws, built up for the most part from the owner's ribs, are among the achievements of plastic surgeons in Britain's hospitals today.

Although the heaviest air "blitz" kills or mains only a fraction of the total estimated before the Luftwaffe came, the proportion receiving facial injuries is high. Thirty years ago many of these mutilations would have been beyond remedy. Today the plastic surgeon can virtually restore most of the features to normality.

He will graft as much as a hundred square inches of skin from one part of the patient's body to another. A section of rib, six inches long, becomes a jawbone. A woman smiling to greet a friend does so thanks to the section of sciatic nerve that keeps normal a face which would have been permanently twisted by deep glass wounds.

Every week the surgeons of Britain are slowly and successfully rebuilding these features damaged by splinters and fragments of flying glass, wood and steel.

Cherishing The Cherry

— By Betty Barclay —

Sweet cherries are juicy and filled with flavor . . . they make one of the nicest jams on anybody's shelf. What's more, with a modern recipe you're ready to paraffin the glasses just fifteen minutes after preparing the fruit.

This recipe for ripe sweet cherry jam is a family favorite. (To vary the flavor, add two tablespoonsful of grated lemon rind — or a teaspoonful of ginger).

Ripe Sweet Cherry Jam

3½ cups prepared fruit, 4 cups sugar, 1 box powdered fruit pectin.

To prepare fruit, pit about 2½ pounds fully ripe cherries; crush thoroughly or grind. (If a stronger cherry flavor is desired, add a few crushed cherry-pit meats to fruit during cooking.

Measure sugar into dry dish and set aside until needed. Measure prepared fruit into a 5 to 6-quart kettle, filling up last cup or fraction of cup with water if necessary.

Place over hottest fire. Add powdered fruit pectin, mix well, and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once pour in sugar, stirring constantly. (To reduce foaming, ¼ teaspoon butter may be added.) Continue stirring, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute.

Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once. Makes about 7 glasses (6 fluid ounces each.

BEAUTY

Helen Jameson (Mme. Qui Vive)

LEMON AND OIL COMPLEXION PACKS

This is the season of the year when the wise woman weather-proofs her complexion. She conditions it for the warm days that are on the calendar. She has an eye out for what's ahead, intends to save herself a lot of bother. It is easier to prevent beauty afflictions than it is to cure them. If women kept that thought inside their pretty noodles the beauty shops wouldn't be grabbing so much of their money, cosmetic chemists would be pulling their teeth and grinding their hair in despair, because of the drop in sales.

There are times when the nicely behaved complexion looks sick a-bed. It goes dingy, takes on a rough surfaces, loses freshness. The why and the wherefore of the change cannot be determined. The condition of the health may be responsible. Digestive upsets play the dickens with human faces. Strong winds flay the cutaneous coat, causing skin scales to shed too rapidly. The reflection in the mirror does not produce a state of joy.

At such a beauty crisis, try the lemon and oil complexion pack. Lemon juice has a bleaching effect, oil soothes the troubled epidermis.

Tan collectors and little Miss Freckle Face will be benefited by this treatment. The war against freckles is a life job; one must keep everlastingly at it. The oldsters who are unhappy because moth patches and liver spots have appeared will do well by themselves if they indulge in this beauty rite. Once or twice a week will do.

Give the skin surface a thorough cleasing with cold cream; wipe it all way. Don't use soap at this time. While the cream is on, give the flesh a brisk tapping, so it will be warm and glowing. Hammering with the finger tips loosens dead scales and that helps when they are discolored, or the surface looks gray.

Take three tablespoonfuls of olive oil, add one tablespoonful of strained lemon juice. Whip it together well. With a pledget of cotton which has been squeezed out of hot water slap it on, starting on the neck, working upward. Don't forget the back of the neck, a favorite roosting place for freckles.

Make a mask of gauze or old soft linen by cutting openings for the eyes and nose, and place over the face. Dip a heavy wash cloth in steaming hot water, lay it over the gauze, holding it close to the flesh with flattened palms.

Don't use soap to remove the oil. Wipe it away with a soft, dry towel. This treatment is also for toning and refining the skin. You'll love it. Expense is nothing and it works like a charm.

Fashion Note

A friend reports that his wife recently bought a pair of slacks for wear while working in the garden. She found the idea good, and the first day that she wore them she remarked to her husband: "You've no idea how comfortable they are."

His answer was "My dear, I have. I've worn them myself for years." —The Printed Word

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Famous Authority on Good Manners and Good Taste

WHAT MAKES A DELIGHTFUL HOSTESS?

When your friends say you are a delightful hostess, they mean that you, as well as your guests, had a good time at your party.

The really successful hostess is completely aware that her party depends on her, depends on how much she knows about herself. She knows what kind of parties she likes to give, and she gives them with a gusto that is inevitably contagious. She doesn't make all kinds of excuses for not giving parties.

The kind of parties you give tells the story of you. If you are the dreary kind of hostess who dreads asking guests to come to a party at her house, who "wishes it were over", your defeatist mood will be echoed in your party and in your guests.

Then there's the other kind of story — the "delightful hostess" who values friends, enjoys having them about her in her home, dramatizes what she has and gallantly and engagingly makes big assets of little possessions. She doesn't attempt to do what she is perfectly aware she can't do. She isn't bowled over by the word "formal". She doesn't spend her time sighing for what she hasn't; — she knows the really tricks of making what she has glow with her own enthusiasm, her clever sense of showmanship.

The hostess who "does things so charmingly" has fun at her own parties. So does her husband, for most husbands, given even a little opportunity, are happy and proud to co-operate by being good hosts. And her guests have a good time.

Happily and enthusiastically, she does all her planning beforehand; then she doesn't have to fuss about the party as it goes blithely along. And her guests have a good time.

And when her guests say, on leaving, "Thank you for inviting us . . . we've had such a good time" . . . they mean it !

A Nutritious Flour For Bread Making

Toronto — Britain is still discussing the most nutritious flour for bread making, according to information received by the Health League of Canada. The Government is said to have ordered a standard grade of flour from which only 17 per cent of the whole wheat berry is extracted. This is in contrast to the 27 per cent extracted from ordinary white flour.

At the same time, it is reported to be considering the production of an actual "wholemeal" flour. from which not even the husk will be extracted, in spite of the fact that many dietitians declare that this would involve too large a proportion of roughage.

The new standard bread has been produced, it is stated, not at the instigation of "food faddists" or bakers, but in response to popular demand. It will sell at the same price as white-flour bread.

Seven Sheep Supply Gut for Tennis Racquet

London — Five million yards of British music strings are shipped every year fron London to countries as far apart as Iceland and the Fiji Islands and not one cargo has been caught by U-boats or floating mines.

Making music strings is a craftsman's job, whether they be of plain gut, silk steel or covered with metal wire. As far as gut goes, the British tradition runs back to the mediaeval lute, the bows used at Crecy and Agincourt, and the racquet with which Henry VIII played "real" tennis at Hampton Court.

Gut comes from the inside of sheep bred on the far mist-drenched hills of Scotland where their hardy, frugal lives develop strong membranes; gives them, in short, "guts". It takes the insides of seven sheep to make one tennis racquet, but a single sheep, with 25 yards of guts, will produce six A strings for a violin.

Before the war Britain was already exporting strings to Germany and Italy where the making of musical instruments flourished. British craftsmen are as adept in making strings for unusual instruments like the Colombian tiple, the Arabian aoud and the Chinese mandolin as for the members of the violin family and the popular fretted instruments like the guitar.

The harp is a particularly difficult job. It has six octaves and each string has to be chosen separately. Britain sends most harp strings to the Antipodes: export figures show that Australia, not Ireland, is the land of the harp. In South Africa the return gives fretted instruments the lead; in New Zealand the 'cello.

Assembly Bench

A little man home on leave from the Army married a woman at least twice his own size.

Following the ceremony, he invited a few of his friends round to the new flat.

His pals demurred at the suggestion. "Your wife wouldn't like the idea," they said.

"Oh, I don't want you to stay," answered the little man. "I just want you to help me carry the bride over the threshold."

The reason — she is wearing the new one-piece rubber life-saving suits which are being manufactured in United States for seamen in the war areas. The suits cover the wearer entirely and are watertight as a result of the draw-string at the throat. The air enclosed within the suit contributes to the floating capacity.

SCOUT MUSICIANS BECOME AN R.C.N.V.R. BAND FOR THE DURATION

The Vickers Boy Scout Band of Montreal, for many years one of the Dominion's outstanding boys' bands, and winners of many musical competitions, is now the band of the Montreal Division of the R.C.N.V.R., for the duration. The band volunteered, as a practical form of national service, and the Montreal Boy Scouts Association promptly granted the necessary permission for the use of the band instruments. The band recently gave a largely attended concert, assisted by the Montreal Male Voice Choir, in the ballroom of the Windsor Hotel. The band is under the leadership of Bandmaster Leslie Blackburn, one of its original members when first organized in 1920. The boys are the sons of employees of the Vickers plant.

Melodrama in the East — "Singapore Woman"

Lovely Brenda Marshall proves she has what it takes to be glamorous whether in a duplex apartment on Park Avenue or a saloon in Singapore. With amazing versatility, she goes from her sophisticated role in "Footsteps in the Dark", to that of a beautiful, but disheartened woman in her latest film, "Singapore Woman", which opens with a preview tonight at the Capitol theatre, Brownsburg. It is the story of a strange love affair that has its setting in the tense atmosphere of a seething jungle. Superstition, a love that cannot be stamped out, jealousy and death, are all encompassed in this story of a man who refused to see a woman's life ruined by silly, malicious gossip. Brenda has the leading role in the film as a woman who brings bad luck to everyone with whom she comes in contact.

Tom Mix, the world famous cowboy of the films, who was recently killed, believed that he had a mission to youth, and through his more than 350 films he made a point of never drinking or smoking either on the screen or in public life.

BOY SCOUTS, GIRL GUIDES ARE HELPING BUILD CHINA'S FUTURE

The part being played by Chinese Boy Scouts and Girl Guides in the war-transplanted life of that country, and the value of Scouting and Guiding in helping shape the character of the boys and girls of future China are acknowledged by Madame Chiang Kai-Shek in her recent book.

Writes the Chinese President's wife: "When we came to this river we were met by a procession of Boy Scouts and Girl Guides. I was surprised to see them in this far-away part of Western China, yet we encountered them everywhere. The Boy Scout uniform is now part and parcel of the student life of China, no matter how far or in what direction one may travel.

"I have seen them here in sight of the snow-clad mountains of Tibet, away in the north-west near the burning sands of the Gobi Desert, in the loess regions of Kansu, in the tropics of Yunnan, in the remote Kewichow, and everywhere through the vast provinces from North to South China.

"They should have tremendous influence in time to come upon the character of our people, especially the illiterate ones, so you boys and girls must always be "good Scouts."

SAUCEPAN TIN HAT SAW SCOUT THROUGH SHEFFIELD BLITZ

The lack of a "tin hat" did not keep 16-year-old Boy Scout John Flinn indoors during Sheffield's most serious "blitz". He improvised one with a saucepan padded with a duster, and dashed off for the Warden Post to which he was attached. He was one of the first on the scene following a nearby explosion, and dealt successfully with several incendiary bombs and a fractured gas main. An injured woman was awaiting an ambulance, and Flinn, seeing she was in danger from falling shell fragments, secured a grocer's barrow and in this wheeled her to the comparative safety of his Post. During a lull in the bombing Scout Flinn dashed home to re-assure his parents of his safety, and arrived just in time to deal with a fire there. This out, he dashed back to his Warden Post.

First girl: "My dear, I've met the simply perfect man, but he hasn't any money."

Second girl: "Sounds contradictory to me."
