C-I-L Athletic Club Picnic Shows Community Zest of Pre-War Years

(Specially Contributed)

Brownsburg — Once again the annual picnic of the Brownsburg Social and Athletic Club, held on the picnic grounds on Labor Day, last Monday, proved a huge success. Hundreds of young and old, from far and near, turned out, and the weatherman went out of his way to provide a perfect day for big event.

The program began with the rifle championship shoot. This was open to Club members only. Ward Moncrieff, recently returned from overseas, won the prize, which was donated by the Hon. Geo. Dansereau.

Both the 25-bird and the five-bird trap shoots were won by Alex McGibbon, from the Montreal office of the C-I-L. These prizes were donated by Georges H. Héon, M.P.

The 16-bird skeet shoot was won by Alex McCullough, of Brownsburg.

The field sports began shortly after lunch and included events for children of all ages, and for men and women. There were also the three-legged, thread-needle, sack and wheelbarrow races, the broad jump and the high jump. Between events, a softball game was played between the "Oldtimers" and the "Youngsters".

The Brownsburg Boys' Band, under the leadership of R. Taylor, played a number of selections and deserves credit for a fine performance.

The evening program consisted of an amateur show and dance, with Rollie Moncrieff and his Ramblers providing the music. By way of professional entertainment, a few artists were brought from the city. These included a magician, an accordion player and a singer of cowboy songs. Six clowns on gaily decorated bicycles, headed by Jim Murdoch, provided their quota of fun.

The fireworks were somewhat of a disappointment, due to the fact that they became damp from the heavy dew and some would not ignite.

A shooting gallery, a bingo game and a number of other amusement and refreshment stands proved a great attraction throughout.

The splendid public address system, handled by Mr. Linton Armstrong, the band and refreshment stands, and the efficient management of the picnic all provided ample evidence that nothing had been spared to make this event a success.

Town By-Law to Regulate Street Opening, Zoning

The regular session of Lachute Town Council was held yesterday, with Mayor Leopold Carriere and Aldermen R. A. Dumais, J. R. Paquette, Leonard Bedard, Wilfrid Morissette, Alex Bothwell, Henri Trichard, Omer Laurin and Stanley Holt in attendance.

After approving the minutes of the August session, the meeting passed accounts for a total of $3,417.78 on motion of Alderman Alex Bothwell, seconded by Alderman R. A. Dumais.

Mr. Clement Tremblay, on behalf of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society, appealed to the Council for a grant. Alderman Wilfrid Morissette moved, and Alderman Henri Trichard seconded, that the Society be granted a sum of $150 for the year 1945.

The secretary was instructed to serve notices on various property-owners to build their sidewalks.

The matter of building, zoning, opening of streets and building of sidewalks was discussed, and a notice of motion was given by Alderman Stanley Holt that at the next session he will introduce a by-law to regulate these procedures.

Horace Pagé Wins Aggregate Trophy At Catholic Sports

At the field day held Sunday on the Catholic playgrounds, 12-year-old Horace Pagé won the high aggregate trophy donated by Edgar Charbonneau, well-known Montreal sportsman. The event, postponed due to wet weather on the preceding Sunday afternoon, was witnessed by a good crowd of spectators. Horace Pagé won the 11-12 years obstacle race, the open high jump, taking second in the 11-12 broad jump, and second in 11-12 100 yards dash.

A star in the track races was Jean Yves Filfe, who won all races of the day in his age class and open, and also the ball throw.

A feature exhibition of racing and jumping was given by a team from Lachute High School, comprising Douglas Bradford, Carmen Sutton and Fred Smith.

Colombe Pagé, 13, sister of Horace, won the high aggregate trophy among girl contestants, with Monique Charlebois second. . . . The Pagé family was well represented in the honors, for two other members also took awards—André, aged 7, winning the running high jump, and the father, Maurice Pagé, being on the victorious tug-of-war team of married men.

During the afternoon there was an exhibition game of basket ball.

The relay race for boys was won by — C. Villeneuve, P. Lachance, L. Ouimet and A. Denault. The similar event for girls was won by — Monique Charlebois, Simone Ranger and Therese Pressault.

An obstacle race was staged for boys from the Brownsburg parish — Yvon Legault and R. Lamarche winning first and second.

The Martyr

Niagara Falls, Ont (CP) — A motorist pulled out two new books of coupons after asking a gas station attendant to "fill 'er up". The attendant explained rationing had been lifted and the coupons were unnecessary. The motorist sputtered: "But I just paid $30 for those two books."

Thieves Escape With Cash Haul, Grenville Hotel

Grenville — The Century Inn, broken into by a young intruder only two weeks ago, was the scene of a more spectacular robbery during Sunday night, when a cash register and contents of $500 cash were removed from the hotel office.

Persistence of the theives was evidenced in attempts to gain entry at three different doors. The culprits finally entered the premises by a window, 12 feet high, into the grill. For this purpose they had stood an old door against the side of the building and climbed up to the window. From the grill, the thief or thieves, passed through the kitchen to gain access to the hotel office. Here they clambered over the high cage and dropped down inside to open the door. The cash register removed from the the office is valued at $275, which with the cash haul of $500, makes an appreciable loss.

The Century Inn, a night spot well known to the younger element of this countryside, is owned by Oscar Jodoin. Roger Jodoin, son of the proprietor, and manager of the establishment, was first to discover the robbery on Monday morning. Patrolman H. Jones, of Calumet, was called to the scene, and investigation is proceeding under charge of Det. Leopold Dauphin, Provincial Police officer for the district.

Young woman on Farm Badly Hurt Gored by Animal

A painful injury occurred Monday to Mrs. Lawrence Gain, the former Miss Roberta Copeland, on the farm of Wm. J. Rodger, Lachute Road.

The young woman, who with her husband is employed at the farm, was assisting in driving cattle across the road between the pasture and the farm buildings. A newly-calved cow, becoming unduly excited, turned suddenly and attacked Mrs. Gain, piercing her with its horns. She was badly injured in the abdomen, and, attended by Dr. F. W. FitzGerald of Lachute, was removed to the Providence Hospital for medical care. She is now reported to be progressing favorably.

Blood Clinics Here Now Discontinued

With discontinuance of the Red Cross mobile blood donor clinics—which have given such invaluable service in maintaining the supplies of plasma for transfusions to war casualties — this enterprise will now be abandoned in Lachute.

The effort here was initiated by the Lions Club. Other groups and organizations lent their aid as the clinics grew larger and more representative of the community. Physicians and nurses gave voluntary aid. Helpers came from Brownsburg, and donors from centres surrounding Lachute. Behind this active scene, preceding and on the days of the clinics, a small committee of organizers gave energetic service, and acted in liaison with Montreal headquarters of the Red Cross to ensure smooth operation of the clinics. To them is due considerable credit for Lachute's contribution in this nation-wide venture. In all, there were nine clinics held here, in quarters appropriately laid out and furnished at the Lachute Auditorium.

At the last clinic, held on Juune 19, several local donors qualified for their gold lapel buttons. However, the staff of the unit lacked a supply of these emblems at the time. Those entitled to them are now advised that they may be obtained from the local secretary, Mrs. H. Rigg (telephone 337-W, Lachute).

Extensive Work on Roads Throughout Argenteuil County

Scarcity of Labor and Machines Handicaps Provincial Roads Program

It is officially announced that the following road-building program is now being carried on, or will be under way in the course of the next few days, in the constituency of Argenteuil:

Harrington: Rouge River Road.

Harrington: Maskinonge Road.

Augmentation of Grenville: Pte. au Chêne to Avoca Road.

Morin Heights: Lake Echo Road.

Morin Heights: Tamaracouta Rd.

Mille Isles: Tamaracouta Road.

Sixteen Island Lake: Main Road through municipality.

Gore: Cambria Road.

Huberdeau: Otter Lake Road, Grey Valley Road.

Route 31: Re-charging and gravelling.

St. Adolphe de Howard: Re-charging and gravelling of Route 30.

The above are in addition to substantial grants to improve municipal roads in Arundel, Weir, St. Michel, Gore, the Parish of St. Andrews, East Settlement, Lost River, and possibly Chatham.

The Department of Roads has stated that it is badly handicapped by the great scarcity of available labor, and heavy equipment such as bulldozers, steam-shovels and trucks. It is hoped, however, that with the end of hostilities this equipment will soon become procurable, and substantial headway will be made on various roads.

17 Craft Anchored At St. Andrews E.

(By Our District Correspondent)

St. Andrews E. — Seventeen yaehts, sailing and motor boats anchored at or near the wharf during the week-end and Labor Day. Some were private craft, but most were from the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club. They added a pre-war cheeriness to the river.

Boys' Brigade Held Week-End Camp at St. Andrews Site

St. Andrews E.—The 1st Montreal Company of the Boys' Brigade held a successful week-end camp on the farm of Albert Dorion in St. Andrews East, welcoming back four of their former boys as officers, ready to continue work this fall in the unit. These were Jack Jeffrey, Clifton Blair, Robert Morrow and Edwin Goring. During the week-end, a staff conference was held, laying plans for an active session, as well as preparations for a still bigger and better camp next summer at St. Andrews. With an ever growing membership, it is hoped the campers will number at least 50, and with this larger attendance and staff, a more active program could be carried out.

The unit attended service at the Presbyterian Church in the morning, when Pte. Billy Campbell, boy soprano soloist, sang during the offertory. In the evening a special young people's service was conducted in the Presbyterian Church, at which a joint choir — under leadership of Capt. J. Howard Richardson, who also played the organ — sang a number of very beautiful sacred selections. Pte. Billy Campbell and Miss Elsie Dorion also took part, rendering solos. The Rev. Dr. Wm. MacMillan delivered a special message which was much appreciated on this occasion of Labor Day.

The boys all regretted seeing the summer ended, and the pleasures of camping concluded until next spring; however, the memories they cherish will bring pleasure during the winter months and inspire others to join them at camp this coming year.

WILLIAM M. BIRKS of Montreal, National Chairman of the National Clothing Collection for Liberated Countries. The collection, sponsored by the Canadian United Allied Relief Fund on behalf of UNRRA, will be held from October 1st to the 20th, when it is planned to give Canadians an opportunity to bring comfort to the suffering millions in Europe by making this clothing collection their personal business. Canadians will be asked to give only such serviceable used clothes as they can spare without replacement. The garments will be distributed free to the people of the war-ravaged Allied countries under the direction of UNRRA experts. Committees will carry on the good work in every Canadian Community.

HONORABLE THOMAS VIEN, P.C., K.C., vice-chairman of the National Clothing Collection sponsored by the Canadian United Allied Relief Fund, and one of the active workers in organising the nation-wide campaign, scheduled for October 1 - 20, for the collection of serviceable used clothing for distribution by U.N.R.R.A. experts among the suffering millions in liberated European countries.

B'burg Parishioners Prevail Upon Archbishop to Retain Vicar Here

Unusual Tribute to Rev. Father Monseau

His Lordship Visits Grenville, Que., Blessing of New Dansereau School

By Our Special Correspondent and Commentator

Brownsburg —

His Lordship Archbishop Vachon paid his episcopal visit to Grenville last week, where the sacrament of Confirmation was administered to a large number of children. The procession formed at the parochial house and proceeded to the church where benediction was pronounced. Leaving the church the procession went to the new Dansereau school, where the ceremony of blessing the building was performed.

In the evening a large delegation of residents of Brownsburg arrived to interview His Lordship, requesting him to review the decision to return Rev. Fr. Monseau, C.C., to Ottawa. Fr. Monseau was temporarily placed in the Brownsburg parish and during his short stay has endeared himself to all with whom he has come in contact. His work on behalf of the youth, and in the formation of the Brownsburg Youth Council, caused an awakening of civic pride rarely experienced in so short a time.

The people who travelled to Grenville to interview Archbishop Vachon, some 500 in number, were loath to see the work Fr. Monseau, so energetically started, transferred to other hands which could hardly be more capable and could certainly be no more competent.

His Lordship was visibly moved by the spontaneous exhibition of loyalty and co-operation to the young priest, and he graciously cancelled his appointment to the Ottawa parish and allowed him to continue the good work. The delegation was presented and ably assisted by the Rev. Fr. Bouchard, parish priest, who made a touching plea for the vicar's retention.

Rotary Carnival

Preparations are going on apace to have everything shipshape for the three days' fun and frolic organized by the local branch of the Rotary. The cause is meritorious — a ray of sunshine in the life of some underprivileged child; the program is interesting and entertaining. So one can do good and enjoy doing it. An energetic committee are in charge of the arrangements and a gala time is expected September 20 to 23.

Back to School

The school doors are opening on another semester and young Canada troops back rested and refreshed — although perhaps less eager than when leaving a few short weeks ago. More and more the school has to assume the duties of the home, the church and the factory. Parents are glad to shift the responsibility of both example and correction to the teacher. During the war we had numerous instances of children being boarded out while the loving mother went into industry — grasping the immediate gain and shirking her responsibility to the future generation. Good or bad, these are the facts. The little boys and girls going to school today will be the men and women of tomorrow.

The Canadian school system has been roundly condemned by people, press and pulpit. Commissions have been formed and reports issued by educators themselves which deplore this or that aspect of teaching. Vocational schools, composite schools, and technical schools have been suggested as the answer. Technical and industrial schools have proved to be no more attractive to students; in fact they were less successful than the academic institutions. Vocational schools to prepare students for jobs could never compare with war emergency classes which turned out semi-skilled workers in a few weeks. A recent survey shows that about 75% of jobs require a month or less of specific training. There is nothing wrong with Canadian education that diligent application will not cure. The sooner we realize there is no short-cut to learning other than careful study, the sooner education will emerge from the doldrums in which lethargy, indifference and indolence has placed it.

Liquor and the Grills

For some time past the Quebec Liquor Commission has been the butt of many a complaint as to the quantity and quality of the commodity it purveys. The criticism has become widespread. Shortages were the rule rather than exception. But no matter how short the supply was at the local store, there was always plenty to be obtained at the grills — for a price. When the quota of beer ran out at the bar, there was lots of beer to be obtained at the grills —for a price; and when the beer became short at the grills, there was Scotch or Rye to take its place, again at a price. That the Scotch lost much of the smoothness of its native heather was evidenced by the "wild" effect it had on its devotees, on occasion. These effects were many and varied. They cost the taxpayers of Brownsburg plenty in disturbance, in injuries, and indirectly in the death of one of their policemen. Strong condemnation was voiced from the church pulpit on Sunday, especially on the misguided "lady" imbibers who frequent those places at late hours.

Red and White Day "Display Window" Of Ayrshire Breed

The Laurentian and North of Montreal Ayrshire Clubs held their joint Red-and-White Day at Ste. Scholastique last Saturday. The number of exhibitors was perhaps smaller than last year, but the quality of the animals was outstanding, and all those attending the show expressed their satisfaction in a day well spent. These Red-and-White Days may be termed a "community display window" of the Ayrshire breed; they bring out the strong points of this particular breed of dairy cattle. As all receive equal prize money, these events also give the smaller breeder an opportunity to compete against old experienced hands in the show business.

P. D. McArthur of Howick did an excellent job as judge. During the afternoon there were two interesting turns. The placing of senior heifer calves brought top laurels to "Shirley Judy", owned by Allan Rodger. It is observed that, last spring, President F. Hungerbuhler of the Laurentian Ayrshire Breeders was proud of having obtained this calf for the annual calf sale; in fact he had to do some talking to convince Richard McAdam to consign this particular heifer — which was purchased at the sale by its present owner, Allan Rodger, East Settlement, for $80. . . . This success at the field day will doubtless be a talking point in the next campaign for a spring calf sale.

Another highlight came when Peggy Appreciation 2nd, shown by R. Trepanier of Oka, was awarded the grand champion female ribbon. This 12-year-old cow definitely brought out the strong udder as a factor in favor of Ayrshire dairy cattle. The animal exemplifies this characteristic of the breed.

Listed on the following page are leaders in the various classes of judging.

To Hold Conference Of Dis. Committees On Rehabilitation

A convention is being held by the Department of Veterans' Affairs, September 18 to 20, of the representatives of all Civilian Rehabilitation Committees in this district, for the purpose of discussing plans for the rehabilitation of veterans and the exchange of ideas among the different Committees — of which there are 32 in the area, under the supervision of the Montreal Office of the Department of Veterans' Affairs.

An interesting program of informative speakers is being completed, and ample opportunity planned for discussion on all phases of Rehabilitation.

The convention will be held on the above dates at the Hotel de la Pointe Bleue, Domaine d'Esterel, Ste. Marguerite, and will include a visit of inspection to Ste. Anne's Military Hospital, Ste. Anne de Bellevue.

Groups in this section will be represented at the convention by James W. Gall, of Lachute, and D. Cooper, of Brownsburg.

IMPRESSIONS FROM MORAL RE-ARMAMENT TRAINING CENTRE AT MACKINAC ISLAND

Having received an invitation recently to visit the M.R.A. (Moral Re-Armament) training centre, at Mackinac Island, Michigan, the writer, in company with three other friends, spent a week's vacation with them and had the pleasure of seeing and learning of the wonderful work in which they are engaged.

The project originated in 1920 with an American, Frank N. D. Buchman. He had taught in American colleges, travelled around the world several times, and found the basic problems of life were the same everywhere — human nature. As he looked at the post-war world following the First Great War, he decided that good ideas and good ideals were not enough to build a new world. Human nature had to be changed, so he began with himself, instead of waiting for everyone else to change first. Buchman set himself, as he described it, to "train leadership for a program of life which will bring on personal, social, industrial, racial, national and international change."

His first important development of a following was at Oxford, the seat of Britain's oldest and greatest institution of religion and education, and out of it came an Oxford Group, of young men and women who dedicated themselves to "changing the world". They held that, before the world could be changed, each individual must first change himself.

During the week in which we were present the number registered had reached an all-time peak of 650 guests, all of whom appeared as one big happy family, their beaming faces aglow with the loving spirit of the Master.

This "Island Home" is truly a haven of rest, for here are gathered peoples of every nation and station of life, bosses of industry and bosses of unions. It is reported that during the last three years M.R.A. workers have maintained personal touch with over 1,100 principal labor leaders, both A.F.L. and C.I.O., and with representatives of management across the country. In their booklet, "The Fight to Serve" are shown many evidences of Moral Re-Armament's contribution to the war efforts. One has but to be in the company of these people, to realize the warmth, happiness and cheer as they told of their changed life through acceptance of the four absolutes — honesty, purity, unselfishness and love. The secret lies, — says Dr. Buchman in his booklet on "Remaking the World" — in that great forgotten truth that "when man listens, God speaks; when man obeys, God acts; when men change, nations change"; that power active in a minority can be the solvent of a whole country's problems — leaders changed, a nation's thinking changed — a world at peace with itself. . . . Only a new spirit in men can bring a new spirit in industry. Industry can be the pioneer of a new order, where national service replaces selfishness and where industrial planning is based upon the guidance of God. When Labor, Management and Capital become partners under God's guidance, then industry takes its true place in national life.

Seek Information On Accident

In a mishap which occurred last Saturday morning, Mme Baptiste Larocque, of Chatham, suffered a fractured shoulder, while walking on the road north of Princess Street at the Wilson residence, Lachute Mills. She was attended by Dr. E. Christie and removed to the Providence Hospital for treatment.

In order to ascertain the circumstances of this accident, any witnesses — notably an "English-speaking couple" who assisted the woman after she had fallen — are asked to communicate with the local Chief of Police.

By the end of the war in Europe at least 150,000 magazines were being sent overseas monthly from Canada. Requirements of merchant seamen and the Canadian armed forces stationed in the Western hemisphere were also met. This was all done entirely by voluntary committees and clubs.

DEFEATED SCHMELING

Vancouver (CP) — Ted Moore, 45, who as a 17-year-old youth fought and defeated Max Schmeling in Hamburg, Germany, died here recently. He had lived in Vancouver 20 years and was well-known in sport circles.

Canadian Work Horses In Large Shipments To Overseas Countries

Ottawa — Canada has begun large shipments of work horses overseas again. With the first shipload embarked at Montreal on a 700-horse contract to France, the agriculture department disclosed it also had a contract to supply 5,000 work horses to the Netherlands, and another, larger French contract was expected later.

Because of shipping difficulties, it was expected that only part of the Netherlands contract would be filled this fall. The shipments brought to mind the days of 1915-19 when Canada was a major exporter of horses, sending 90,000 of them overseas, mostly to the United Kingdom.

Luxury Travel

Montreal (CP) — American Liberty ship Alcee Fortier, built last year, will make its first peacetime trip from here carrying a load of 350 horses to France. The horses will have their own doctor, running water, air-conditioning and 85 American troops to look after them.

British Cattlemen To Visit Dominion

Toronto (CP) — Three representatives of the British Friesian Cattle Society are expected to visit Canada and the United States shortly at the invitation of the Holstein Friesian Cattle Association of Canada.

The delegates are G. J. Curtis, Rainham, Essex, England, president of the British Friesian Cattle Society; Alistair Munro, Inverness, Scotland, and G. B. Radcliffe, Tarvin, Cheshire, England.

The men will be accompanied on their tour by H. Twinch, Chief Livestock Officer, and Austin Jenkins, senior livestock officer of the United Kingdom Ministry of Agriculture.

FISH SYNDICATE

Halifax (CP) — Smith Fisheries Limited of Lunenburg, N.S., a leading Maritime fishing firm, has been sold. The sale was the beginning of a planned amalgamation of 19 leading fish producers and marketers in eastern Canada, in an effort to regulate marketing and selling competition.

Gov't Proposals For Agriculture

At the Dominion-Provincial Conference on Reconstruction last month, Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Dominion Minister of Agriculture gave a comprehensive review of the proposals of the Government of Canada in relation to agriculture.

"No industry", said the Hon. Mr. Gardiner, "has made a greater contribution to the Canadian war effort than agriculture. This achievement has left problems of conversion to peacetime conditions comparable to those of manufacturing industry. Many branches of agriculture were greatly expanded in response to war needs and overall productions increased to levels far exceeding those of the past. This accomplishment drew heavily upon agricultural resources, resulting in heavy depreciation of machinery and equipment and great strain on the depleted farm population. The Dominion Government feels it has a responsibility to assist the industry in making the necessary readjustments to peacetime circumstances and to work with the provincial governments to provide for a greater degree of stability in farm income and a greater measure of security than has prevailed in the past."

Edmonton Family Has Tame Crow

Edmonton (CP) — The Ondrack family of Edmonton have a tame crow worth its weight in gold.

Rescued from a pillaged nest when it was small enough to be fed with an eye dropper, the crow now several months old has become a household word around the neighborhood.

"Joey", always an early riser, wakes the family up at seven every morning clamoring for something to eat, escorts the separate members of the family to the street car. Then he spends the rest of the day teasing the the neighborhood dogs, and mischievously steals nails from carpenters working in the district.

Boarding a street car one morning, Mr. Ondrack found "Joey" perched happily on his hat, much to the amusement of the other passengers. A taste for cigarets is another of the crow's habits. Holding a cigaret in his beak he will defy efforts of anyone to deprive him of it.

REHABILITATION

By WILLIAM STEPHENSON

A Column For Service People

Here are the answers to some of the questions that are asked by the veteran :

Do I have to apply for a small holding under the Veterans' Land Act within 10 years after my discharge?

No; there is no time limit.

* * *

Where can I find out about veterans' insurance policies?

An easy-to-read booklet, "What's Ahead", tells the whole story. You can get a copy from the nearest office of the Department of Veterans' Affairs.

* * *

As a veteran, am I entitled to a job in the Dominion Civil Service?

If you have been overseas, and if you have the qualifications the position calls for, you will receive an outright preference over all non-veteran applicants. The veteran who has been awarded a disability pension is considered first.

* * *

Can I take a part-time job while I am receiving a training grant from the Department of Veterans' Affairs?

Yes. While you are training, you may earn up to $40 a month without your grant being reduced.

* * *

Can my Re-establishment Credit be used to reduce the mortgage on my house?

Yes. Apply to the District Supervisor of Re-establishment Credit at D.V.A's nearest office.

Is there any provision for loans to veterans who want to set up in business?

Not under the rehabilitation program. However, Re-establishment Credit — which is a grant, not a loan — may be used to help buy a going concern, purchase tools and equipment, or provide working capital.

* * *

Is it true that I am entitled to free medical and dental treatment for one year after my discharge?

Yes. Both services are provided through D.V.A.

Can I apply for my Re-establishment Credit to help pay the down payment on a small holding under the Veterans' Land Act?

No. You may apply for both vocational training and a small holding. But the Re-establishment Credit is intended primarily for those who do not take advantage of either of these benefits.

Midland, Ont., — A letter home, accidentally dropped by a Canadian soldier, prompted an 18-year-old Dutch boy to start up a correspondence with the addressee.

The soldier was Spr. Walter Brown, now stationed in Utrecht, Holland, and it was his wife in Midland who received the note.

The Dutch boy told of picking up the letter and deciding to write to the addressee in Canada.

"I hope you'll not call it intrusive," he wrote, "if I ask you to keep up correspondence with us in Holland. I especially wrote in order to practise my English knowledge because I'm at a grammar school preparing for university."

Parliament Opens

TODAY at Ottawa sees a different opening, and a different parliament, from the last. With Canada at peace again, some of the pre-war traditional ceremonies will be witnessed, while many of the Commons members will be taking their seats for the first time. Among the government members there will probably be a special effort to make an effective first showing — because Mr. King let it be known that he may make further cabinet revisions after "looking over" some of the new members.

In the new house Mr. King and his 126 member Liberal government will face an opposition of 66 Progressive Conservatives headed by John Bracken, who did not have a seat in parliament last session, a fact of which Mr. King made much. Indications are that Mr. Bracken will be the least talkative leader in the house, delegating the bulk of debating to his supporters. But observers are waiting to see how the King-Bracken feud of the election hustings will shape up in parliament.

Third party in the house is the C.C.F. with 28 members under M. J. Coldwell. Social Crediters have 13; Independents five; Independent Liberal two; Independent Progressive Conservative one, Independent C.C.F. one, Bloc Populaire two and Labor Progressive one.

In the last house the Liberals numbered 155 against a Progressive Conservative opposition of 40.

Cultural Hunger

THE SHORTCOMINGS of the Nazi version of Kultur in satisfying the cultural hunger of Europe during the dark decade which followed Hitler's rise to power, were never more eloquently demonstrated than by the current demand on the continent for translations of the works of British authors.

While Allied authorities are still straining every sinew to feed the starved peoples of formerly Nazi-occupied lands, plans have already been announced to meet this other hunger — the hunger of literature of a free people. That such an appetite still exists within the crumbled walls of Hitler's fortress, speaks well for the survival of some shreds of intellectual freedom on the continent.

The French government has allocated a preliminary £100,000 ($450,000) for the purchase of British books for sale in France and similar allocations have been made by other Allied governments. To meet the demand from Italian publishers for translation rights, British book contracts are being negotiated for which advance royalty payments will exceed £5,000.

The unquenched thirst of some of Europe's millions for the printed word, uncensored by the authorities who had set themselves up as the arbiters of the arts, had led at the height of the conflict to the creation of Les Editions de Minuit — Midnight Publications. Reprinting forbidden works and issuing new books written by the writers of Free France and smuggled into the underground, this unique publishing organization distributed literature under the very eyes of the Gestapo.

It is interesting also to note that British publishers were aware that this demand for the literature of Free England would arise. Earlier this year arrangements were made with Swedish publishers for the printing in Sweden, because of the paper shortage in England, of 250,000 books by British authors.

Europeans soon will share again the heritage of freedom which has been reflected in England's literature from the days of Chaucer.

Unwholesome Fiction

ON THE SUBJECT of unsavory literature, Dr. Gordon Bates, general director of the Health League of Canada, recently stated in an address in Toronto that a number of recent "best sellers" are "frankly filthy" and declared he didn't understand why "there hasn't been a protest from parents and clergy alike."

The Port Arthur News-Chronicle, commenting on Dr. Bates' remarks, stated editorially that what Dr. Bates said about the nature of some best sellers was true, but added, there was some logic in the failure of clergy and parents to make more protests. Such protests simply gave the books in question more advertising, the News-Chronicle believed. So-called realists ridiculed protesters as behind the times and narrow minded. Nobody did anything about the protests, and the advertising gave the books more circulation than ever. . . So, parents and clergy just naturally keep quiet.

"Nevertheless," continues the Port Arthur newspaper, "the campaign of Dr. Bates is worthy of more attention than contained in a mere reply such as this. It is to be noted, first, that the doctor is director of the Health League of Canada which is interested in all forms of health, including the much talked of social diseases. Presumably he is speaking with a consciousness of the relation between filthy literature and the incidence of social diseases. There is a definite relationship because the filthy literature prepares the mind for the conduct that involves the health factor.

"The books of which complaint is made should, therefore, receive attention on that score alone, regardless of their relation to morality and common decency.

"The way to handle books which in the opinion of Dr. Bates and many others, deserve protests from parents and clergy — is for some authorized tribunal to go about it quietly in a way that will merely cause them to disappear from the shelves of the book stores offering them for sale, without any attendant publicity."

Riding Roughshod

REMOVAL of gasoline rationing has not materially increased the consumption of gasoline, according to reports from vendors, states the Granby Leader-Mail. One station operator in reply to the question said that the thing that would really make a difference to his sales would be more tires. "You would never believe what some people are using for tires," he said. "Most of them are running on blow-out patches, tire boots, and all kinds of devices. We have even found wheels with two tires, one inside the other. One motorist recently paid a bill of over twenty dollars for repairs to an old tire which would enable it to run a few more miles."

Teach Safety

IN REGARD to regulations governing traffic, it might be a good idea for teachers to devote a little time now and then to imparting among the pupils the necessary information in regard to their conduct in traffic and safety rules, or at any rate the avoiding of needless injury, in general. It might mean the saving of lives.

— Summerside Journal.

OF COURSE you've heard about the newspaper that was doing so much business that the advertisements were crowding out the news. It got so bad that one week the editor couldn't get everything in, so right on the front page he put a little notice. It read: On account of lack of space, Mrs. Murphy's chilblains and the birth of nine children will be postponed until next week.

Dora Dibney Reports

● I had the pleasure last week of being in Montreal and meeting Miss Dora Dibney, editor of The Saskatchewan Farmer, and president of the Canadian Women's Press Club, on her return from a visit to Great Britain as guest of the British Ministry of Information.

"I went over to Britain with a great admiration for the people who have stood so staunchly on their island since 1939 in the face of so many tragic happenings. I returned with a feeling even stronger than admiration," she said.

"The British people are tremendously grateful for the food Canada has sent them," says Miss Dibney. "The subject of food is an almost universal topic of conversation. They have been on such short rations that this isn't surprising They want to renew our shipments of livestock as soon as possible and are very anxious to extend trade relations. They also hope for a greater interchange of visits."

Miss Dibney notes that Canadian boys are attending Universities at Oxford, Cambridge, Aberdeen, Liverpool, Edinburgh and other places. The courses are tremendously popular. Some of them are also attending Danish agricultural schools.

"Although the British people are tired after six years of war," said Miss Dibney in conclusion, "they have remarkable resiliency, and the years ahead are going to be busy and fruitful ones for them."

Tool Kits and Tooth Brushes

● And speaking of the problem of food. We have our responsibility to the people of Britain, and we also have our responsibilities to the peoples of the liberated countries. These liberated people need food most of all, of course, but there are other urgently needed items that UNRRA is supplying. Six weeks after V-E Day, shipments to liberated countries included such items as new and used clothing, textiles, footwear, nursing bottles, darning and knitting needles, scissors, pins, plastic buttons, trucks, tool kits for carpenters, masons, electricians, plumbers, blacksmiths and cobblers, repair and maintenance kits for trucks, safety razors, combs and tooth brushes. Shipments of agricultural supplies included not only a wide variety of grain, feed and garden seeds, but plows, harrows, cultivators, binders and other implements to enable the liberated people to feed themselves as soon as possible. Canada, the United States, the United Kingdom, New Zealand and Australia are the chief sources of supply at present. Brazil is sending cotton seed and meal, Cuba is sending sugar and Uruguay blankets.

Storage Stocks Down

● If some of you doubt the need for meat rationing, figures on cold storage holdings in Canada ought to set you right. At August 1, 1945, holdings of meat were 48,595,459 pounds; fish, 32, 944, 660 pounds and poultry, 5,894,433 pounds. Figures for August, 1944, were: Meat, 88,989,168 pounds; fish, 34,976,741 pounds and poultry 10,077,349 pounds.

New Clothes From Old

● "Look how much of my arm sticks out, Mom, you'll just have to get me a new one," said Jackie as he tried on the sweater he had worn to school last spring. There are going to be a lot of demands for "new ones" this fall.

New clothes may not be necessary, for a clever remake may be used instead, especially for the small fry. For example Jackie's shrunken pull-over sweater could be turned into a wearable sleeveless one by cutting away the sleeves and making a V-neck. Finish with narrow corded ribbon.

An old skirt will make one pair of knickers and a little play-skirt for a seven-year-old; old grey flannel trousers are also good remake material. Raincoats will cut down to a child's size with enough left for a cape or a pixie hood to match.

It was the hottest day this summer. A four-year-old boy was strutting around a lawn, no clothes save a short sarong. Down the street came another boy fully dressed. He looked at the vision before him, shook his finger and said: "Where's your hat?"

Said the flirt to a boy-friend she was entertaining in the parlor: "Darling, did you ever try to sell vacuum cleaners? If not, you'd better start now . . . That's my fiancé just coming in the front door"!

Junior — We've got a new baby at our house, and it cost $100.

Little Girl Friend — That's a lot of money for a tiny kid.

Junior — Yes, but think how long they last.

"This crime," said the judge, summing up, "was carried out in an adroit and skilful manner."

Blushing, the prisoner interrupted: "Come, now, my lord, no flattery, please."

The customer looked dubiously at the lone and rather wilted head of lettuce. "Are there any vitamins left in that?" she asked.

"I can't honestly say that there ain't mum, but no more than a little water will wash off."

When we quit grumbling about everything that's wrong, we'll have more time to put things right.

Don't just get things off your chest. Go deeper and give them from your heart.

Where Have The Gas Masks Gone?

London (CP) — Where have the gas masks gone? asked a London newspaper. Here are some answers :

An office worker: "The family's four gas-masks are all under the bed gathering dust."

Battersea mother of six: "They're in the coal shed. Children's gas-masks are so big there is no other place to put them."

Chelsea housewife: "When my husband came home from overseas I had no room to store three gas-masks in a small flat. So I put them in the dustbin."

Business man: "My wife made me take mine to the office, where I keep it in a drawer. Would you like it?"

Another Policyholder Reports . . .

"WHEN DISCUSSING life insurance with two of my friends who are fathers of young children, I found that they were particularly interested in learning that I own a policy in The Mutual Life of Canada called 'FAMILY INCOME,' which will provide an income of $100 a month for my wife at my death. This income will continue until I would have been 65 had I lived, and then, she will receive $10,000.

"OF COURSE, I have made sure, through another policy in The Mutual Life, that she will also have a certain amount in cash with which to pay bills and to provide a reserve fund for emergencies.

"I DISCOVERED during our conversation that these fathers were not aware that it was possible to obtain a policy with the benefits provided by the Family Income contract, and both of them have now interviewed my Mutual Life representative, whom I recommended to them, and discovered how the policy will fit into their insurance programs."

Late W. J. Pitcairn Was Notable Figure In Community Life

Occupied Mayoralty and Other Offices During Residence At St. Andrews East

St. Andrews East — The passing, early Monday morning, August 27, of William John Pitcairn, leaves a blank not only in the family circle but in the wider circles of kinship, church members and citizens of this community. In spite of the handicap of recurring illness he led a useful, busy life. A keen sense of humor brightened all his contacts with friends and business associates.

The chief mourners are his wife, formerly Miss Hattie Sharman, and two sons, Dr. William A. Pitcairn and Keith S. Pitcairn, also a sister, Miss Mary Pitcairn and his daughter-in-law, Mrs. W. A. Pitcairn. Several sisters and brothers predeceased him, James and Catherine within recent years.

William Pitcairn was born at Pte. Fortune, Que., the son of John Pitcairn and his wife Agnes Lamb. He engaged in business at St. Andrews as a young man; then, about 1913, set up a general store in the vicinity of Moose Jaw, Sask. His family followed the next year, and remained for three years. Later Mr. Pitcairn made several trips west but some years ago severed all connection.

In 1920 he was appointed chairman of the Protestant School Board here and later served as secretary for several years. Then, from September, 1931, till July, 1943, he served as secretary continuously. He carried on a coal business here for many years, till 1942. He was superintendent of the Protestant Cemetery from its incorporation till the time of his death, and treasurer since 1922.

As mayor from February, 1933, till January, 1937, he faced many problems caused by the depression. By his unremitting efforts the new bridge and post-office were built, thus giving employment to many. It was his proud task to welcome the late Lord Tweedsmuir, then Governor-General, on his memorable visit to this community. . . As secretary of the United Church, from 1925 till his death, he was assiduous, as in all undertakings. He was an interested member of the Reading Circle, and because of ill health was very frequently host to that group. The memory of pleasant and profitable evenings around his cheery fireplace, leave a lasting fragrance. . . He was also vice-president of the Argenteuil Historical Society.

The funeral service was held at his home on August 29, conducted by the Rev. J. S. Nickerson, assisted by the Rev. J. A. Mowatt of Hudson, a former pastor. There was a large gathering of friends and a profusion of floral tributes. The pall-bearers were Messrs. Charles Wales, Harold Cairns, Jas. Proulx, Ross MacAdam, Ross and Alex Barclay, of Pte. Fortune. Interment took place in the local cemetery.

HALF A MILLION CANADIANS

Out of Canada's 11½ million population, one industry alone—the pulp and paper industry—provides direct livelihood for ½ million people. As a job-maker, the industry holds a vitally important place in our national life.

Local retailers in mill towns, and the communities generally, benefit from the $70,000,000 annually paid in wages and salaries to 37,000 men and women employed in the mills. And from mill expenditures for light, fuel, water and taxes.

Communities in all parts of the country benefit from even larger sums in wages paid to about 150,000 seasonal workers in the woods. Indirectly, thousands of other Canadian jobs are maintained by the industry's purchases of supplies and use of transportation.

* THE PULP AND PAPER INDUSTRY OF CANADA

*80 companies, small and large, with 105 mills from coast to coast.

Army Actor Carries On Family Tradition

Doug Romaine Follows Father, Who Entertained Troops In First Great War

Guildford, Eng.(CP) — Sgt. Doug Romaine puts in his set of false teeth, pulls down his hair and makes a grimace. And the soldier in the hospital bed who hasn't grinned since he was hit near the Rhine feels laughter begin to bubble inside him.

Son of Don Romaine who, in the First Great War, entertained Canadian troops overseas with the famous Dumbells troup, Doug is just carrying on the family tradition by playing to soldier audiences over here. But, unlike his father, he has developed a specialty in the army entertainment line —playing strictly to hospitals.

This hospital circuit, according to the Canadian Auxiliary Entertainment Unit (Army Overseas) which is responsible for troop shows, is the toughest of them all. There is the natural diffident feeling common to all performers of doing their mainly comic acts for men to whom life must be anything but comic, plus the fact that although such shows are small they must be varied as any big ones put on for the men at the front.

But Doug seems to thrive on it. He and his tiny unit do four shows a day on their three-month road tours, then return to their base here to prepare a new production and return to their circuit again. In that way he has visited every Canadian haspital, big and small, in Britain.

Doug has had 4½ years in the army and doesn't expect to get home for another year yet. "As long as there are Canadian in hospitals here I figure I'll be hanging around," he said.

But, although in khaki for the war, he is essentially a trouper, having had more than 16 years of road shows, carnival and burlesque in theatres in the United States. Funnily enough, he thinks his army tour has helped, not hindered, his craft.

"The army experience has been grand," he said, "in that it gave me a chance to put my own ideas into action. In regular shows you do what the producer tells you — here I'm the producer and I try things I think will click.

Authorized Bottler of "Coca-Cola"

Lachute, Que. Telephone 38

Effect of Leaving Milk on Doorstep

Householders who allow bottled milk on doorsteps or apartment passages to be exposed to direct sunshine get less for their money, according to recent research reports. Tests showed that bottled milk exposed to late morning sun for an hour lost 26 to 36 per cent of its riboflavin. In two hours, over half the riboflavin content was lost. Riboflavin is one of the essential B complex vitamins. Prolonged deficiency of this necessary food element may result in eye disorders and organic damage. As so often happens under present regulations, milk is delivered after all members of a household have gone to work, and remains exposed for a long time. Under these circumstances, it is a good plan to have a covered box into which the milkman could place the bottles.

LAC. Robert Woods, who formerly resided here and in Lachute, arrived last week from service overseas, and is now visiting his grandmother Mrs. R. J. Millar, at Mrs. Murray's cottage. Accompanying LAC. Woods is his mother, Mrs. Edwin Kempton, with whom he has been visiting in Summit, N.J., since his return from overseas. His wife and child, now in England, will proceed to Canada as soon as traveling facilities permit.

PENALIZE PARENTS

Halifax (CP) — According to an announcement of the provincial Department of Education, parents of Nova Scotia school children who are absent from school for more than five days without legal excuse will be unable to collect their baby bonus.

ASK EQUAL WAGE FOR EQUAL WORK

Leeds, Eng. (CP) — Resolutions to be discussed at the annual conference of labor women here this month include proposals that the United Kingdom government make it compulsory that the wage rate for a job shall be paid irrespective of sex and that similar pay should be given both men and women in the forces as well as in industry.

One section will move a motion expressing concern at the conditions under which domestic employees work, and demanding fixed wages and hours and holidays equal to those of women in industry.

The conference will be urged to press for a higher family allowance and exemption of such grants from income tax. The Cheltenham labor women will ask that the wartime nursery system be continued, providing care for the children of working mothers.

British Public To Get Surplus Equipment

Blankets, Hardware, Brooms Sold by British Services

London (CP) — Plans are being completed for the release to the public of vast quantities of surplus service equipment, including hundreds of thousands of blankets and hardware and holloware of all kinds.

The most important ranges of domestic goods are to be released to the retail trades through disposal corporations now being set up by the board of trade. Blankets, sheets and domestic linen probably will be dealt with by a surplus textile corporation now in existence.

Prices now are being worked out but they will not exceed the prewar price of comparable new materials.

Some ranges of goods, such as brooms and brushes, will be bought by the trade under a plan of restricted tender and firms normally engaged in the distribution of such products will get the business. Disposal centres will be established throughout the United Kingdom at which traders will be able to see the goods.

Cottage Cheese as Meat Alternative

In summer weather, salads often become the main course. When they do, they should always include a protein food. These days the protein food is quite often a meat alternate. Cottage cheese is an ideal source of animal protein and makes a splendid addition to a salad. Weight for weight, it contains more protein than meat," state the nutritionists of the Department of National Health and Welfare. It is rich in riboflavin and if made from whole milk contains vitamin A as well.

The whey, obtained in the making of cottage cheese, is a valuable food, too. It contains one quarter of the protein of the milk, and some riboflavin also. Served icy cold, flavoured with lemon or other fruit juice, it makes a pleasant drink.

From here, Jack's cheque was sent to the clearing department of his own bank, and from there to the branch where Jack keeps his account.

"Beulah's heartbroken because it's only a picture!"

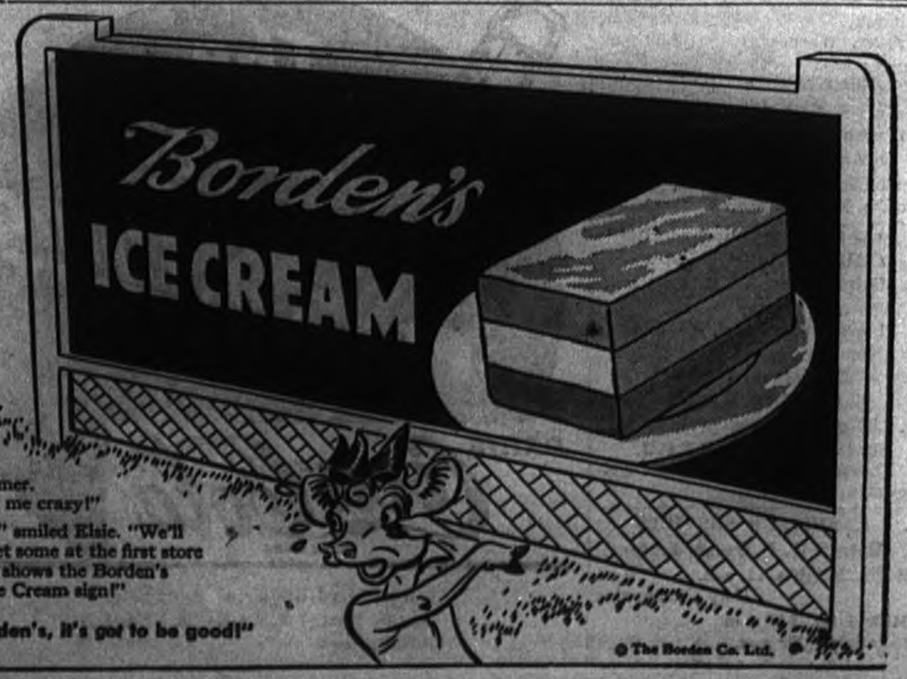

"I don't blame her!" exploded Elmer, the bull. "After hiking for miles in the heat, seeing that tempting picture is enough to make anyone bawl!"

"And it's so life-like," sighed Elsie, the Borden cow. "I can practically feel that cool, creamy-smooth Borden's Ice Cream melting on my tongue!"

"Stop!" bellowed Elmer. "You're driving me crazy!"

"Cheer up!" smiled Elsie. "We'll soon get some at the first store that shows the Borden's Ice Cream sign!"

"If it's Borden's, it's got to be good!"

TIMELY TIPS

Care — For Long Wear

Do your fine rayon garments show signs of wear after the first wash? Wet rayons are amazingly weak — so treat them to lukewarm water, rich mild soap suds and and very gentle squeezing. Never soak. Never wring or twist. Dry away from sunlight or direct heat. Never leave rolled up damp.

For Winter Comfort

Next winter will be a chilly one. It is important to get the maximum heat out of every shovelful of coal. A dirty furnace does not heat efficiently, so start now to clean off the scale from the heating surfaces in the furnace or boiler and give the chimney a good cleaning. Warped windows and doors are wasteful of heat too, so get out that new weather stripping, and have your house as snug as you please when the first winter winds blow.

"Meatless Days are Unpopular," says a news heading. For that matter, so is war and to many with the colors, so is life in the armed services. But those who are there must put up with these conditions, and so must we.

THE TWO MARSHALS

"The Two Marshals," by Phillip Guadella, is the story of military France through four generations, the two marshals being Bazaine and Petain and covers the years from Napoleon's downfall to the end of the First Great War. I must confess I had never heard of Bazaine, which just shows my ignorance, because since reading the book I have run across several references to him. Probably I have seen some before, but they did not register. The story of Petain is particularly interesting at the present time. Guadella says that Petain was found wanting and General Foch was placed over him as Supreme Commander and as the British were the first to find Petain wanting "he was unlikely to remember them with gratitude". So it may be that personal resentment had considerable to do with events in France. After all, history is people.

AN AID TO LEARNING

We havs been hearing a great deal the last few years about the necessity of having a sufficient amount of B. vitamins for our physical needs, to strengthen our nerves, sustain our appetite, and so on. Now we learn that the B vitamins are necessary for our mental development, too. At the Sick Children's Hospital in Toronto, an experiment was conducted with rats to learn the effect of vitamin B on the ability to learn. To find out how long a rat takes to learn they put food in a maze and checked on how long it took the rat to find its way to the food. They took two rats from each of several litters and put one in each of two groups. They fed the two groups the same food except that one group was fed liberally with the B vitamins and the other group was deprived of them. The group which had the B's learned very much faster than the others. They experimented further and found that the group which had the B vitamins not only learned faster but retained the knowledge for a longer time. Maybe if little Willie is not learning as fast as he should at school and is forgetting half what he does learn, it is not Willie's fault at all. Maybe it is Mother who has not fed the child properly. Whole grain cereals, whole wheat bread, wheat germ, eggs, milk, beans, peas, liver, pork, peanut butter, green leaves, are all foods which supply vitamins of the B complex.

PICKLES

Pickles are a great help in adding a little zip to an otherwise uninteresting meal. It will be difficult to make some of our favorites because of the lack of sugar, but for the next few weeks I will try to give you recipes which require a small amount. You may be able to manage to make a half or even a quarter of some which take a little more sugar. If you have plenty of tomatoes, but lack sugar for chilli-sauce I would suggest canning the tomatoes and later on making it into chilli-sauce, if you have managed to save up a little sugar.

GREEN CUCUMBER CATSUP

12 Cucumbers, medium-sized, unpeeled, 2 onions, 1 tablespoon salt, ½ cup ground horse-radish, 1 dessertspoon mustard, 1 dessertspoon pepper, ½ cup sugar, 1 quart vinegar.

Put the cucumbers and onions through the chopper. Sprinkle with the salt and let stand overnight. Drain well. Add the remaining ingredients and mix well. Do not cook. Bottle. Will keep without sealing. Good in sandwiches and salads as well as for cold meats.

CELERY RELISH

30 Ripe tomatoes, peeled, 1 large bunch celery, diced, 3 green peppers, cut in small pieces, 3 large onions, diced, 2 lbs. white sugar, 3 cups vinegar, 3 tablespoons salt.

Mix the above ingredients and cook until thick, about an hour, stirring frequently.

PICKLED SWEET RED PEPPERS

Wash peppers and dry. Cut a slice from the stem end and remove seeds. Cut into thin strips with scissors. Scald with boiling water. Drop into ice water to crisp, then drain well. Make a syrup using proportion of 1 cup sugar to 2 cups vinegar and bring to a boil. Put peppers in sterilized jars and pour syrup over. I find this one of my most useful recipes. Be sure to use very red peppers. When a bottle is opened you do not have to use it up quickly as you do pimentoes, and you can always have the red pepper on hand to add color to salads, sandwiches, and meat dishes.

GIRL'S PAINTING TURNS TOWN PALE

Revere, Mass., (CP)—When pretty Virginia Shaw pulled herself 120 feet in a boatswain's chair to paint a tower on a recreation hall, spectators stared — some paled.

SCHOLARSHIP FUND GIFT IN TRIBUTE TO PRINCESS ALICE

Establishment of a fund for the education of youth leaders in Canada, as a gift to Her Royal Highness Princess Alice on her departure from Canada, is now under way.

Minimum objective of the fund is $50,000 which would yield an annual revenue of $1,500. The main purpose of the fund will be to provide scholarships and assistance to young Canadians to receive special training in youth leadership. Proceeds of the fund may also be used to sponsor participation by young Canadians in international conferences.

A co-ordiating committee to take charge of the funds includes Mrs. Thibaudeau Rinfret, Mrs. J. L. Ilsley, Mrs. John Bracken, Senator Iva Fallis and Senator Cairine Wilson.

The committee intends that the fund will be well established before Princess Alice returns to England. The date of her departure has not been set, but it will probably be some time this early fall. . . . Contributions, large or small, may be addressed to the Princess Alice Foundation Fund, Room 549, The Senate, Ottawa.

'TEEN-AGE GIRL EARNS BIG MONEY

Penrose, Colo., (CP) — A pretty farm girl, 19 years of age has won and earned $3,777 in essay contests and 4-H Club projects in the last nine years.

The latest award to Oletta Locke, who lives with her family on a central Colorado dairy ranch two miles from Penrose, is a $600 scholarship of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, which she plans to use at Colorado A & M. College.

In her nine years of 4-H activities she has made most of the furniture and all the furnishings of her room, canned several hundred jars of fruits and vegetables, made nearly all her own clothes, and invaded the 4-H boys' field by raising rabbits, baby beef, poultry, horses, pigs and cows.

At Penrose high school, Oletta graduated as valedictorian. She was cheer leader, sang in the glee club, was the school's pianist and artist, took the lead in the junior play, worked on the school paper, played softball and basketball.

She frequently missed the school bus, so in the last year and a half of her high school career she took over the job of driving the bus — "then I had to be on time".

SALVATION ARMY FINDINGS ON TREND OF IMMORALITY

Toronto — The age level for unmarried mothers in Canada dropped in the war years, Lt. Col. Hilda Aldridge, Salvation Army Women's Social Service Secretary for Canada, said in Toronto. Reports from Salvation Army homes for unmarried mothers and from workers in this rescue work indicate that there has been an increase in immorality on the part of 'teen-age girls, said Col. Aldridge. There has been also an increase in the number of married women becoming involved in the absence of their husbands on military duty or at war work away from home.

While the Salvation Army operates 16 homes for unmarried mothers, the accommodation for 1,300 per annum is much too small for the need, said Col. Aldridge. Service in the form of planning for care is given to all applicants for admission for whom no room can be found.

Due to war prosperity, more girls have been in a financial position to go to maternity or general hospitals and meet their own expenses, she said.

There has been an increase in the number of girls becoming involved away from home. Another trend of the times has been the involvement of a large number of girls of good education and from good homes, this type having been the exception before the war.

The 16 homes in Canada for unmarried mothers comprise one of the nearly 50 social service and welfare activities, for the carrying on of which the Salvation Army is asking $1,500,000 in its forthcoming Dominion-wide National Home Front Appeal.

SPEEDY TENDERNESS

The tougher cuts of meat normally require long slow cooking to make them tender. If time is a factor, grind these cuts or pound them well with the edge of a plate. Either treatment breaks down connective tissues and gives tenderness with shortened cooking.

Women as Part Of Regular Army

London (CP) — For the first time, women are to form part of the regular army. A number of permanent commissions are to be offered Auxiliary Territorial Service members to stay on as part of the British peacetime army.

The women, who will be chosen on the basis of their wartime work, will deal with clerical work in the war office, for which, officials said, they have shown particular aptitude.

MADE IN CANADA

Playing safe with TEXTILES

The supply of textiles is not adequate to the demand.
For six years, most of the world output has gone to war.
Victory has not improved the situation.
There will not be enough textiles in Canada for many months to come.

HERE ARE SOME OF THE REASONS

Canada depends largely on other sources for raw materials and for some yarns and fabrics.

A serious manpower shortage still confronts the textile industry of all Allied countries.

Shortages overseas must be met. It will take months before production is resumed in Europe.

Substantial quantities of all kinds of textiles are still required by occupational forces.

Domestic demand for textiles increased sharply during the war. It is still going up.

Civilian clothing needs of returning servicemen and women are swelling the demand here at home.

CONSERVATION IS THE KEYNOTE

This year, production directives have again been issued to the textiles industry.
They are intended to divert output to more essential goods.
But directives alone cannot cure a situation arising from world conditions.
The answer lies in conservation. More than ever, the need is to conserve, to take care of what there is, to mend, make-over and make-do.

TO PROVIDE CANADIAN WOMEN with guidance and practical assistance in maintaining the family wardrobe, the Board has prepared a series of advertisements, to assist Canadian women. Each subsequent advertisement will illustrate tested ways of styling new and fashionable clothing from outgrown and outmoded garments. FILIPINO FASHIONS — COTTON FEED-BAGS

Garments, Towels and Sheets Made From Cotton Bags

New York (CP) — Y.W.C.A. staff workers in the Phillippines will soon "put on the feed-bag" — but literally.

Two thousand chicken feed bags are being shipped to the headquarters in Manila, to be made into garments to clothe board and staff members. The National Board of the Y.W.C.A. acquired the bags for 35 cents each, designed sample garments and dispatched the shipment in answer to urgent requests for clothing.

The bags come in attractive colored prints as well as plain white. It is expected that the printed bags will be used for dresses, the plain ones for towels, sheets and tablecloths. Each bag is 46 inches square, so that one bag will make a complete dress for a child and three bags will produce one for an adult.

The bags are washed at New York headquarters and left intact, so that Filipino women can utilize the thread with which they are sewn.

The urgency of the need for clothes in Manila was revealed by Mrs. Flort Ilagan, president of the Manila Board of the Y.W.C.A. who wrote that the Filipino staff workers were literally in rags, and that 2,500 yards of cotton cloth was needed at once.

Since the National Board could not buy such a quantity of cotton fabric, because of the current cotton shortage, the feed-bags were obtained from chicken raisers in Delaware.

Boy Scouts The World Over

Reports coming to Dominion Boy Scout Headquarters in Ottawa tend to show that more Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs attended camps this year than ever before.

The latest use found for a Boy Scout hat is reported from England, where a mother uses her son's Scout hat, complete with veil, to attend her bees. The Scout hat brim is ideal from which to sling a beekeeper's veil, so this mother thinks.

CHOPS OFF FINGER TO SAVE LIFE

Assistant Scoutmaster D. P. Savage of Queensland, Australia, was recently bitten by a death adder. FIRE MARSHAL LAUDS SCOUTS

Mr. Scott said that the Scouts "acted with speed and efficiency in clearing the scene of the fire from well-meaning spectators whose efforts to trample out the blaze were only disturbing the burning paper more and spreading the flames."

KNOW QUEBEC BETTER...

The Bourgault Brothers, master craftsmen in wood — Associated Screen News Photograph

Do you know Quebec? Do you know, for example, that Quebec stands out among the provinces for the high quality and the faithful characterisation of her wood-carving? The handicraft which had its source in architecture was first employed to decorate the interiors of churches and other buildings. In many cases handed down from generation to generation, it has attained the status of pure art.

Modelling mainly in fine-grained basswood, talented wood sculptors reproduce with truth and rare beauty religious figurines, portraits, studies of people, customs and animals, in fact, a never-ending array of interesting subjects. The world at large, recognizing such creative skill, has "beaten a path to Quebec's door"—establishing a widening market, and encouraging development of the art.

Wood-carving is one of many native Quebec crafts, some born of the necessities of pioneer life—all contributing to a culture which is as much a part of Quebec as her 20th century industrial expansion. For Quebec is a land of contrasts, where Old customs live in harmony with New ideas and modern methods. Winding lanes . . . high-speed highways; hand looms . . . vast, machine-packed factories; quiet villages landmarked by graceful spires . . . busy cities indicated by towering skyscrapers.

Rich in history and culture, generously endowed by Nature, mellowed by her share in the strain, toil and sacrifice of Canada's war effort, Quebec looks forward to the happy day when, with her eight sister provinces, she will help work out Our Country's glorious destiny!

QUEBEC PRODUCES FOR WAR

To Quebec's already glorious history has been added her wonderful contribution to Canada's war effort. Pulp, paper, native ores and manufactured metals, clothing, chemicals, textiles, ships, foods, petroleum, electrical supplies, to mention only a few products of her mines, mills and factories: $2,703,357,600.00 subscribed by her people in eight Victory Loans: thousands of men in the navy, army and air force who have distinguished themselves on global battlefronts. Thus have her sons and daughters recorded Quebec's part on Canada's wartime honor roll.

BE PROUD OF YOUR QUEBEC — IT IS PART OF YOUR CANADA

Commissioners 'At Home' to Parents And Protestant Ratepayers; High School Has Undergone Face-Lifting

Event Prior to Opening Affords Opportunity to Inspect Building

Renovations to Interior

About 300 guests registered at the Lachute High School on Friday last, accepting an invitation of the Commissioners to view the improvements made to the building during the summer months.

It was generally agreed that the school was a credit to the community. The lighter color schemes on the interior of the 11 class rooms, board room, teachers' dens, music and household science quarters, manual training and play rooms, adds much to the practical and psychological aspect of the school. Improved lighting also is noticed in many sections of the school.

One of the largest undertakings made during the off-season was the re-plastering and waterproofing of the east wall of the new section of the building. For many years this section had caused concern, but it is believed the problem has now been solved with the waterproofing of the interior.

All these improvements have been made without additional taxation to the property owners, and a grant was made by the Department of Education. It was pointed out that the budget for the school term is $53,000, while the revenue from taxes is only $18,000, which is roughly a third of running expenses. The balance will likely be made up of grants from the Department of Education.

Refreshments were served the visitors by members of the Household Science class, under supervision of the new teacher, Miss Gladys Styles.

This year's enrolment is believed to be the highest in the history of the school with 429 pupils registered, and the teaching staff is taxed to capacity as well as the accommodation of the school.

Public Asked to Contribute To Children's Milk Fund

A fund is being inaugurated for the benefit of the school children, so that they may enjoy one-half pint of milk each day free of cost. It is hoped that the public will support this cause, so that the expense will not be added to the general budget of the school.

Cocoa or milk is available to the 140 pupils from the rural districts who have their noon meal at the school. This is paid for by each pupil at two cents per cup.

The principal and members of the staff will be pleased to have the opportunity of meeting the parents and discussing with them any special problems which might develop a closer co-operation between the home and school.

The School Board meets regularly in the High School the first Tuesday of every month at 8 p.m.

Valuable Animal For Shorthorn Herd

A herd of Shorthorn cattle owned by E. Kilgour Wilson which commands a growing prestige among cattlemen of this district, was augmented by a cow purchased for $1,400 at the Neralcam dispersal sale at Buckingham last Saturday. The beast is Neralsam Barrington 2nd.

The Neralcam herd of Dual Purpose Shorthorns was auctioned off by B. B. Alen, stock auctioneer of Ravenna, Ohio, and brought a total of $50,000, an average of $1,111 per head for the 45 animals sold to noted stockmen from Texas to Canada who attended.

The foundation of this herd was purchased in the Eastern Townships by the late Alexander Maclaren some 30 years ago. From the early 20's the herd embarked on a successful show career which lasted more than a decade, and won many prizes and championships.

Fall Fairs in Two Neighbor Counties

At the Vankleek Hill Fair, held last week, this county was represented by local cattlemen exhibiting Ayrshires — notably J. P. Bradley & Son, Ross McAdam and Erskine Rodger. The usual number of visitors attended from this district, and J. H. Black, president of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society and himself a keen authority on livestock, filled the role of judge in the Ayrshire classes.

At the Papineau County Fair Alex Bothwell, agronomist of this district, served last Thursday as a judge of horses.

BACK TO SCHOOL

Thousands today, whose hair is grey, can remember when the vacations ended and they returned to school. Conditions then in the schools and methods of teaching were different from those of today. Back to school today means back to modern classrooms, back to well-trained teachers, back to sport at recess, back to associations that will be life-long and back to prepare for life's work.

Boys' Band Revived At B'burg, Shows Marked Progress

Aim to Provide Bandstand For Public Performances

(By Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg—After being under cover during the war years, the Boys' Band has been reorganized, and with a continuation of its present progress, should be a pleasant adjunct in our rural life within a very short time.

Several of our overseas boys are again home, to watch the baton and round out the sections which had remained silent during their grim years in the battlefields of Europe.

Mr. Tom Taylor is doing a fine job as master of the band. The splendid program of selections rendered between events at the recent picnic here, was a revelation of the progress attained, and reflects great credit on the boys and their instructor.

Efforts are being made by the committee in charge to provide a bandstand where the boys can entertain in public, and it is hoped their venture will meet with early success.

A "dead level" is well named. Five people always climb towards higher ground.

Colors Presented to Women's Legion Auxiliary, Impressive Rite

PROMINENT SPEAKERS AND GUESTS PRESENT

Brownsburg—A very impressive ceremony took place Wednesday evening at the Capitol Theatre when the Women's Auxiliary of the Brownsburg Legion, B.E.S.L., was presented with the King's and Legion Colors by Mr. Jas. W. McGibbon.

A large number of distinguished guests were present and short addresses were delivered by Georges H. Héon, M.P.; Mrs. Sherrif, Montreal president of the Provincial Command; Mrs. Lefebvre, also of Montreal; H. Mason, president of the Brownsburg Legion; Mde. S. Stilwell, president of the Women's Auxiliary and others. . . . W. Manson proved an efficient and capable M.C.

The proceedings opened with "O Canada", played by the Brownsburg Boys' Band under the baton of Tom Taylor, the audience standing to attention and joining in song.

Mr. Manson gave a brief outline of the ceremony to take place, and introduced the various speakers and guests present.

A brief and colorful Consecration was then conducted by the Rev. S. J. Pike, the ritual making a profound impression on the audience.

The Rev. W. Leaton gave the blessing, after which Mr. McGibbon with a few well chosen words presented the colors, which he generously donated by him, to the Auxiliary representatives, Mrs. J. T. Seary and Mrs. J. Maitland. During the presentation a Color Party of two each of members of the three services, in full uniform, stood to attention in front of the ceremonial table.

Mde. Stilwell, the branch president, graciously thanked Mr. MacGibbon and also the other officers taking part in the affair. This part of the ceremony concluded with the singing of the hymn "Abide with me".

The chairman then called on Georges Héon, M.P. — who had just entered the room after a special trip from Ottawa to be present —and asked him to address the meeting. Mr. Héon expressed regret at not being present at the opening of the ceremonies; he was unavoidably detained at Ottawa. He congratulated his friend Mr. MacGibbon on his generous thought in presenting the King's and Legion colors; and he knew Mr. MacGibbon's feeling of pride during the impressive ritual which accompanied the presentation. He recalled that on a previous occasion he, himself, had presented the colors to the Brownsburg Legion; and he hoped that they would never be unfurled except on the side of righteousness and to the honor of God and country.

A short program of musical items was then presented, in which Miss Farmer, Miss B. Richard, Miss Steere, and Mr. A. Carrière, with Mr. Gordon Anderson, contributed. Miss Richard was presented by Mr. H. Mason with a token of esteem from the Legion, for her work on their behalf. The Boys' Band added an entertaining feature to the proceedings.

Back Seat in Commons His Own Preference

Ottawa (CP) — Georges H. Héon Independent Progressive Conservative member for Argenteuil, said in the House of Commons Tuesday that he had asked the clerk of the House to put him in his present back-row seat, although by reason of his seniority he could have asked for a more advanced desk.

Mr. Héon sits in the last row of the Commons benches assigned to Progressive Conservative members.

He said he wished to protest against an article in Friday's issue of Le Canada, which pictured him as a man without party, sitting in the last seat of the last row "on the frontier" of C.C.F. benches.

Mr. Héon said he had been treated with courtesy by Progressive Conservative party members. It was he and not the party leader who selected his present seat.

Waterless School Building

The Consolidated School was without water this week, and a serious situation was averted by the prompt action of the Mayor in connecting the school to the town supply. Meetings were to be called to consider the matter, but it was not a time for delay. The school board, whose members have just recently been elected to office, sanctioned the alteration from the uncertain present supply, and had the work in progress prior to the meeting which was called to consider the matter.

Rehabilitation

The usual monthly meeting of the Civilian Rehabilitation Committee was held at the Social Club on Monday evening, Mr. D. Cooper in the chair. The business was mostly of a routine nature. Reports on two veterans returned to the area were read, and arrangements for their re-establishment put under way.

Mr. George Clarke, V.P., introduced the subject of obtaining farms under the Veterans' Land Act and suggested the D.V.A. be asked to inspect some farms for sale in the district with a view of holding an option on them or purchasing outright against the time returning veterans would need such farms and be in a position to make applications. This suggestion was adopted and the secretary directed to bring the matter before the competent authorities.

Mr. D. Cooper was appointed to attend the coming conference at Domaine d'Esterel, Ste. Marguerite, from September 18 to 20. Particulars were published in last week's issue of The Watchman.

The Committee expressed regret at the departure of Mrs. G. Wyness, one of its most energetic and valuable co-workers. Mrs. Wyness has represented the Red Cross interests on the executive board, and rendered sterling service under much difficulty and discouragement, in the settlement of several serious social problems. With highest regards and best wishes for future success, the executive regrets to see her go.

"What can you spare that they can wear?"

The National Clothing Collection campaign opens on October 1 and continues for three weeks. The amount of clothing which can be collected in Canada will be small compared with the great need of peoples in war-devastated Allied countries. These people are desperately ill clad, and no matter how small the contribution, every little mite helps to alleviate in some measure the suffering and cold which will assuredly be visited upon them this coming winter. Committees are now being formed to take charge of the collections, and it would be just a simple act of mercy to set aside any serviceable clothing which "we can spare that they can wear."

Brownsburg — A meeting of the citizens was held Wednesday night for the purpose of forming a committee to assist in the National Clothing Collection. Mr. Sam Rose was elected chairman, Mrs. Smillie secretary, and Mr. Denis Staniforth was appointed to organize the collection committee and arrange the areas of collection. Mr. Sam Ross was put in charge of publicity.

The collection is already under way, under the chairmanship of the Rev. Fr. Monseau in the French area of the village, in co-operation with the committee above. Three collections will be made — on Monday, 1st, 8th and 15th of October. The receiving depot will be at the Social Club gym, and Mrs. Todd will be in charge of packing.

Contributors are requested to convey the clothing to the depot but collectors will also make a house-to-house visit to facilitate delivery.

Relief Clothing to Be Collected at Red Cross Room

Reception for Teachers at Lachute W.I. Meeting

Twenty-eight members attended the monthly meeting of the Lachute Women's Institute on Tuesday afternoon. Four new members were enrolled. Mrs. G. Leggett, the president, welcomed the members, the newcomers and visitors, and expressed thankfulness at the war now being over. She stressed that all women should now do their part to help keep the peace. All members and friends are urged to take an active part in the collection of used clothing for distribution through U.N.R.R.A., from October 1 to 20. Donors are asked to send clean clothing (not necessarily pressed) addressed to Mrs. F. A. Brennian at the Red Cross room, on Wednesday afternoons.

Miss Walker, of Macdonald College, is making arrangements to hold a demonstration of cooking meatless dishes, the time and date to be announced later.

At the conclusion of the meeting an enjoyable hour was spent with the members of the High School teaching staff, when afternoon tea was served by the social committee of the W.I.

Many Servicemen Welcomed Home From Overseas

Happy reunions in many families of this countryside have marked the return home of servicemen from overseas. Listed here are recent repatriates whose names have come to the attention of this newspaper:

Pte. Bernard Belanger, of the R.C.A.S.C., arrived here Tuesday after service in England and on the battlefronts of western Europe. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Belanger, well known residents, and one of four brothers to have served overseas. George and Gaetan have already returned, while the fourth brother, Claude, is at present in Holland.

Pte. F. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Wilson, North River, was welcomed home recently. He is one of five brothers to have served abroad. One had previously been repatriated, and there remain three still overseas.

LAC. Granger Tillotson, son of Mrs. Mae Tillotson, Lachute, was among those who arrived home last week. His mother had not been advised of his sailing, and his return was a happy surprise. LAC. Tillotson served one year overseas, at a base in Britain.

LAC. J. M. Brown returned to Montreal Tuesday after serving two and a half years with the R.C.A.F. in England. On arrival of the troop train he was met by his wife, the former Lois McFaul.

Gnr. Alex Todd, R.C.A., also arrived Tuesday, proceeding to his home at Kilmar. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Todd, he has served nearly five years overseas, having seen action in Italy and on the western European fronts.

Spr. Milton Titley, R.C.E., arrived Tuesday morning and is now at his home in Thomas' Gore. He has been four years overseas.

Others repatriated in this district, or whose names appear on the official landing lists for M.D.4, include — Tpr. George Sutton; Spr. J. Scully; Gnr. L. E. Hooker, R.C.A., son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Hooker, Lachute Road; Cpl. G. E. Bevillard, Brownsburg; Spr. K. W. Bigelow, R.C.A.S.C., Calumet; Pte. P. Larocque, Lachute Mills.

Bomber Crews Saw Tedious Duty, From Crowded Ports or "Holes in the Bush"

Address to Rotary Club

Brownsburg — The regular dinner meeting of the Rotary Club was held at Carrière's Hotel, Brownsburg, on Thursday evening last.

A very interesting story was heard, of Canada in the air. Enlightening points were learned about the Air Force method of personnel counselling to aid in getting the men and the country back to normal.

Guests of the evening included Jim Murdoch and Jack Stewart, of Brownsburg; D. Menard and Mac Walker, of Lachute.

Plans for Carnival

Further plans were laid for the carnival to be held September 20, 21 and 22. Due to the lateness of the season, it is felt necessary to hold it indoors, and the Rotary Club are indebted to the board of the Catholic School, Brownsburg, for the opportunity to hold the event in the basement of their splendid new school. Such action is indicative of the whole-hearted support the club has received from all directions, in its effort to aid the underprivileged children of the district.

Interesting Topic

The speaker, Flight Lieutenant Denis F. Mildon, Rehabilitation Liaison Officer, No. 2 Release Centre, Lachine, was introduced by Rotarian Hervé Filfe.

Lieutenant Mildon was born near Toronto, started to work at 15, but graduated, first as a teacher, then with an honor degree in sociology at McGill, next as Sergeant-Pilot in 1941, and finally as instructor and commanding officer at Royal Canadian Air Force School of Personnel Counselling, Ottawa.

Endowed with a keen sense of humor and a sympathetic insight into human nature, Mr. Mildon stated that he felt the members had heard so much about rehabilitation, since there had been speakers, newspaper and magazine articles, not to mention radio and government efforts, that we must be bored to death about the subject.

He therefore proceeded to give what many members stated to be the most interesting account ever heard, of military experience — with sincere credit to the boys who didn't make the headlines and not a mention or hint of personal glory.

The Canadian Coastal Command, or Western Hemisphere Operational Units of the Royal Canadian Air Force, consisted of about one-fifth of the Canadian Air Force. One-quarter was stationed overseas and about one-half were instructing or being trained in the Dominion air training plan.

If nothing else had been accomplished by Canada but the training of air crews, Canadians could be proud. The speaker felt, too, from personal experience at several stations with all the Allied nations represented, that Canadians were as good as, or better than, the best.

The speaker belonged to the "Musk-Ox" Squadron, or the 8th Bomber Reconnaissance Squadron; they called themselves the 8-BR's.

At a time when England had little food, liberty ships had not started down the ways, Russia was an unknown quantity and the United States had not entered the war, the job of the Canadian Coastal Command of the Royal Canadian Air Force was herculean. Without the aid of "radar", or even radios powerful enough to guide them back to port, these intrepid fliers headed out to sea through rain, sleet, fog and darkness, often 300, 400 or 500 miles to meet a convoy, to hunt a sub pack, or rescue survivors.

Boys who joined to bomb Germany, were bored to death seeking an almost unseen enemy; guarding slow moving convoys. They were stationed in crowded centres like Halifax, or little known "holes in the bush", as the small coastal or inland towns seemed to these aviators.

Instead of being active fighters making history, they looked upon themselves as glorified chauffeurs piloting huge truck-like planes, which were old and sluggish. These Bolingbroke bombers had little or no safety margin. If one engine failed, it was necessary to jettison the bombs immediately or the plane would sink. They were equipped with rubber lifeboats, but only 60 seconds was allowed to get the equipment in use before the plane disappeared under water. A practice showed that only one inflated out of seven tried. It was then found that the boat was fastened to the plane by a wire cable. A search discovered a pair of pliers taped to the side of the boat like a mummy.

Regardless of the equipment, the dullness of the work, seeing nothing but water for hours on end — as long as 7½ to 8 hours on one trip — the job had to be done and the Coastal Command boys were delegated to do it. One case was mentioned of a group sent out to get a submarine which had been sighted. The weather closed in behind the planes and one became separated and lost. There was no radar, either on shore or in the plane, and no beam to direct the planes because it might be picked up by submarines. It was Sunday morning. With the gasoline supply running low the crew tried to contact the other planes with their weak radio equipment at first without success. With possible death staring them in the face the radio operator was thrilled to pick up, out of the foggy clouds, a church service. By strange coincidence the name of the hymn being sung was, "The Way of the Cross Leads Home". This program was the means of bringing the lost crew to port, and the engine stalled for lack of gasoline — right on the runway, as it landed. These lads who had thought themselves tough and too rugged for anything so easy as a church service, certainly changed their tune after this experience.

Presumed Dead

The lengthy casualty lists have given way to happier news of homecomings, but still there occasionally appears the confirmation of deaths long since "presumed" with reasonable certainty. The name of a young airman from this district appears in the 1,268th Air Force casualty list published September 10:

Previously missing in action — now for official purposes presumed dead:

Clarke, Donald Kenneth, Flt. Sgt. —G. A. Clarke (father), Brownsburg, Que.

Montrealer Hurt in Midnight Fracas

A Montrealer, Gedeon Badeau, aged 32, was taken to St. Luke Hospital, Montreal, after an injury sustained in an argument on Main Street, in the early hours of Saturday morning.

According to D. Villeneuve, Chief of Police, the man got into a discussion with another stranger — both of them were described as magazine salesmen who had been canvassing in Lachute and Brownsburg. When struck by his supposed friend, Badeau fell to the pavement and suffered a badly sprained leg. After receiving medical aid he was taken to the Montreal hospital. No charge was laid against either of the men.

If I blow too much about what I have done, I won't have enough steam left for what there is yet to do.

Lost and Found

While returning home from the bank on Monday afternoon, Cecil Leishman found a wallet on the sidewalk. It contained $60 in bills. Mr. Leishman brought it to The Watchman Office to advertise his find. The wallet identified the owner as a resident of Yarmouth, N.S., and the registration card bore the name of ex-serviceman, W. Cooke. Knowing that the Langille family came from Yarmouth, a phone call soon had the rightful owner in full possession. He expressed his grateful thanks both to Mr. Leishman and to The Watchman Office for its speedy return.

Dogs in Pastures

Keep dogs out of sheep pastures, is a suggestion offered by veterinary authorities to sheep raisers. The reason is that dogs are frequently carriers of tapeworms and can bring the worm eggs into pastures, where they will be picked up by grazing sheep. Recently at one place in the United States, 164 sheep out of 429 were condemned by government meat inspectors because of tapeworm cysts. In checking, it was found that the infestation had been carried to the sheep pasture by dogs. When dogs are used for herding sheep they should be periodically examined by a veterinarian to make sure that they are free from these parasites.

Storing Vegetables

(Experimental Farm News)

It is a wise plan to store certain vegetables for winter use so that they may be available in the fresh condition over a greater part of the year. Potatoes, root crops, squash, pumpkins, marrows, cabbage and onions store well and are valuable sources of food for winter use.

Successful storge of fresh vegetables depends to a considerable extent upon having a sound, well matured crop and good storage conditions, says R. H. Anderson, Dominion Experimental Station, Melfort, Sask.

Harvesting should be done at the proper season (this will vary with different vegetables) and in such a way to avoid injuries. Only sound, well matured vegetables in a dry condition should be expected to keep a long time in storage.

Good storage conditions are those where the temperature can be kept not more than a few degrees above the freezing point, where good ventilation can be maintained, and where the storage space is adequate.

Carrots, beets, parsnips, turnips and cabbage keep best at temperatures ranging from 34 degrees to 38 degrees with a not too dry atmosphere. Marrows, squash, pumpkin and onions should be stored in a dry place and will withstand temperature up to 45 degrees.

Placing carrots, beets and parsnips in fine sand will aid in the storage of these roots. Turnips can be piled in bulk like potatoes. Cabbage should be wrapped with two or three thicknesses of newspaper and placed on slatted shelves. The wrapped heads may be piled two or three deep and should be examined occasionally and the paper changed when it becomes too moist.

Potato Ring Rot Is Being Fought

Due to work carried on by Science Service, Dominion Department of Agriculture, the number of rejections in Canada on account of bacterial ring rot entered for certification continues to decrease. Dominion and Provincial Departments of Agriculture employees in all provinces continue to look out for ring rot and report every case observed. In most provinces, these reports are followed by a visit to the farm where the diseased crop was produced and steps taken to eradicate the disease. The Departments of Agriculture of Alberta, Manitoba, New Brunswick, and Ontario are now making surveys for bacterial ring rot every season in some of their commercial potato growing areas, and steps taken to eradicate the disease. Some good results have been obtained but a more thorough and energetic program should be undertaken immediately everywhere, says the report. There are reasons to believe that the provinces of Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, and British Columbia remain substantially free from ring rot.

Village Blacksmith Goes to School

London (CP) —, Under a new national apprenticeship scheme, blacksmiths will not only possess "large and sinewy hands," but will be taught to understand calculations, drawing and sketching, elementary basic science, materials and processes, elementary electricity, accounts and letter writing.

The scheme also provides for five years with a master blacksmith and attendance at technical classes one day a week or for eight weeks a year. The training is designed to meet the demands on blacksmiths to overhaul and repair the increasing amount of agricultural machinery.

BRITAIN EVOLVED BIG SMOKE SCREEN TO SAVE INDUSTRY

Vital Part of Wartime Defence Developed from Early Use of Lowly Orchard Heaters

London (CP) — The common orchard heater became a vital part of Britain's defences in 1940-42, and led to the development of a vast smoke-screening plan which would turn 20 or 30 towns at a time into "little Pittsburghs" to mislead the enemy.

Early in the war fruit growers were asked to lend some of their orchard heaters for war purposes —the only smoke producers then available. Normally a safeguard against frost, the heaters were turned to saving the lives of civilians, protecting industry and obscuring port activities.

When the smoke screen plan got under way late in 1940 the chief emphasis was on protecting inland industrial cities. Later the principal attention of the smoke screen scientists was given to the ports, for after 1942 German planes penetrated less frequently to the interior.

Months before D-Day the British and Americans, who shared in the preparations for screening invasion ports, had built up a weapon so effective that despite the heavy concentration of shipping in British ports before D-Day, no serious naval casualties were caused by German planes.

Replaced By Oil Burner

The primitive orchard heater was quickly superseded by a burner on the same principle, cheaply constructed and specially designed for screening. It used a light diesel oil. This, in turn, was displaced by the Haslar generator, a mobile, mechanical kind, much larger than its forerunner and more efficient. The Haslar concrude fuel oil which produced a sumed crude fuel oil which produced a yellow, greasy smoke, not unlike the worst London fog.

After the Haslar came the Esso, an American product, which was considered a great improvement in the screening technique. It used a special oil. Chemical smoke was used sometimes too.

Originally smoke screening was done only at night, but daylight camouflage of this kind was ready at certain ports since late in 1942.

Although some Britons complained that smoke soiled their clothing and household furnishings, the screening of an area ordinarily did not interfere with the normal life of the people.

Chemical smoke was more unpleasant than oil smoke, and in some instances civilians were advised to wear gas masks out of doors.

The Germans also smoke-screened their ports and inland cities, on a much larger scale than the British did, principally with chemicals.

Britain's 'Little Napoleon'

General Wynford Rees is a curious contradiction. When first you meet him casually, the impression he gives is of a kindly, quiet, methodical man. When you see him in action you realize his energy, the grasp of his brain, and the forcefulness of his personality. The affection in which the "Little General" is held is shown by the number of his nicknames. "Pocket Napoleon" is a tribute to his leadership as well as a sly allusion to his habit of tucking his hand into his bush shirt. But the name by which he is most widely known is simply "Pete". General Rees is now home on leave, seeing his wife and family for the first time in seven years. Yet he is giving up some of those precious days in order to lecture about the 19th Indian Division.

REHABILITATION

By WILLIAM STEPHENSON

Must I pass a medical examination before I can take out a veteran's insurance policy?

No, except in a few special cases. In fact, a main purpose of veterans' insurance is to protect the dependents of those ex-service people who, because of impaired health, cannot pass the medical exams required by commercial insurance companies.

I have a chance to become a partner in a small radio repair shop. Can my Re-establishment Credit be used for this purpose?

No. Under present regulations, the Credit can only be used to help finance your own business or to help you buy one.

How soon after discharge must I apply to my former employer if I want to get my old job back?

Normally, you must apply within three months after discharge in Canada, or four months after discharge overseas.

Can I complete my matriculation under the rehabilitation program?

Yes. If your occupation calls for "matric", you may receive both a speed-up course and maintenance grants. You are eligible equally if you are preparing for University study. However, in this second case you would do better to foot your own bills for your preparatory work — tuition fees are higher at University, so it's a good idea not to exhaust part of your benefit period before you even get there!

What is "rehabilitation training"?

This term is often used in referring to the whole program of occupational training for veterans. Instruction is given not only in full-time (and part-time) classes, but also by apprenticeship, by training "on the job", and by correspondence courses.

"Statistically Naked"

FOR EVERY MAN, woman and child in Canada, there is a double, a human shadow of yourself in ravaged Europe or Asia. There's another Tommy and Jean "over there" who would be overjoyed if they could have the clothes your children can wear no longer. But whereas we have thus far enjoyed the comfort and safety of distance from the world's battlefields, your double, wrecked by the tide of war, is now among the "statistically naked". Think of it. For each one of us, working, shopping, tending our chores — there is another human being — "statistically naked." It is a phrase to remember. It means that your double shares a shirt with six other people, takes turns wearing a pair of shoes.

The need is multiplied by millions. All over the world, wherever the blighting hand of the Axis has touched the human race, there is a scar — quivering, naked.

During October, the National Clothing Collection for War Relief wants your help in gathering practical clothing — the Nation's hand and yours, reaching out to aid a stumbling world in a step toward a newer, firmer hope.

Think as you collect, as you houseclean. Warm, sturdy garments. Shoes tied in pairs: plain shoes. Knitted headgear. Any sort of clean blankets. Clothes and more clothes; every size, but practical.

Make up your bundle. A representative of one of your local organizations will call for it; or you will be informed where to take it. Get ready ! It's this coming October, 1st to 20th. When you tie up your bundle, you're not only housecleaning your home — you're bringing warmth and joy into a home far away where there's no housecleaning to do — because there's nothing in it to clean out.

As Nature Ordered

ADD AN HOUR a day to man's life and you extend the scriptural span by three years. Take an hour a day off a farmer's life and you cause trouble — and that's what happened when the efficiency experts started toying with God's time.

The trouble brewed up when some fiendish city-dweller with a nine-to-five job devised daylight-saving time, is cooling off. Pretty soon country folk will be getting up with the sun instead of ahead of it — and milking will be timed to suit the cows and not the railroads.

No wartime restriction so irked the farmer as addition of standard time, an arbitrary infraction of nature's laws for which farm people never could see sound reason. Once they get God's time back, only a fast-talking government will whisk it away again, even for a summer.

At that, Canada's rural residents had it easy compared to the British farmer with his double dose of daylight-saving during the war. As the war started, he faced British Summer Time, which means one more hour of morning darkness, like Daylight Time in Canada. Soon the British government invented Double British Summer Time which brought milking time at 4 a.m. instead of two hours later.

Under D.B.S.T., even the city folk in England had their worries. The summer glowed feebly in the east as Londoners felt their way through the fog to catch the 8 a.m. (really 6 a.m., of course) bus to the office. Yet in winter, the sunset backout curtains were drawn often before they got away from work.

In the States, year-round daylight-saving time (called War Time) vanishes with the advent of peace. Canada follows suit and her farmers get a chance once again to get out on the land not deep in dew, and to have the hired man work till dark instead of ducking into town while it's still daylight.

The best sign of the peace out in the country will be that it's nice to get up in the mornin' when the sun begins to shine.

IT IS the hereditary curse resting upon town authorities that they are criticized for the work that is left undone and criticized just as vigorously for what they do and how they do it. Thus it has always been and always will be.

— Cochrane Northland Post

Public Opportunity No. 1

NO MORE exciting news of landings. Instead, the somewhat sickening news of layoffs. The guns have stopped firing and industry has started firing. Soldiers who were war heroes a few days ago have become our prospective unemployed. And there is danger of suffering, and loss of character, and self-respect.

Democracy's answer to public problem No. 1 is to make it a real public problem. It is to realize that this is a personal crisis. To see that, if we are not to meet it through the collective irresponsibility that calls for some kind of dictatorship, we can only solve it through the personal responsibility of absolutely everybody.

What can everybody do? What can anybody do?

Everybody can have the will to sacrifice in peace just as he did in war. A labor leader says he is going to suggest to his union that they cut their 48-hour week to a 36-hour week — that the work may be shared by all instead of totally cut off for some. A 36-hour week is not new. But the spirit that proposes it for your own union is the spirit that can win democracy's battle.

An investor says he is going to put his money into local enterprises and invest till it hurts — just as he did with war bonds. Investment is not new. But the spirit that will risk and sacrifice as much to provide the fibre of peace as it did to supply the sinews of war, is a spirit that can answer unemployment in the democratic way.

Another thing that everyone can do is to think of something that needs doing. Does your house need painting? Does your garden need digging? Is there a valuable peace use for some war invention that you know? Have you the foresight and the courage to start working on it, and to hire others to work with you?

To share our work, share our wealth and give legs to our ideas — that is democracy's answer to public problem No. 1. — It is really public opportunity No. 1.

Eggs Are Eggs

IF AND WHEN this country is able to rid itself of some of the government hangers-on who have managed to talk themselves into jobs, it is hoped that a few of the useless encumbrances the people had to carry even before the war began may be dispensed with.

For instance the inspection of eggs takes a lot of manpower which could be put to bettter use. Government regulations now prevent storekeepers from selling eggs, which have not been through a government grading station, and the only result of these regulations is that the eggs take longer to get to the consumer, at the same time making it more difficult for the farmer to sell his surplus eggs.

Just how this works out was shown in a practical illustration recently. A lady who had been in the habit of purchasing her eggs from a neighboring farmer for about forty cents a dozen, went into a store in town where there is a large egg-grading plant.

She purchased a carton of one dozen eggs, the carton being marked in large letters, "GRADE 1 LARGE". She paid fifty-two cents for the dozen, although the eggs did not appear a bit better than what she had been purchasing for twelve cents less. However, that was not the end of the story. Although the eggs had been graded number one large, there was nothing to indicate that not more than three of them were rotten, which was the case.

Even if the twelve eggs had been good, a spread of twelve cents just for grading is too much. Either the price for ungraded eggs is too low, or the extra cost of grading is too high.

Everywhere except in the government inspector's eyes, eggs still remain eggs. No hotel or restaurant ever shows anything except just plain "eggs" on their menus, and housewives' recipes still specify merely eggs, although in occasional instances they specify "large eggs".

"And," the office boy adds, "when worn on the vest no one can tell whether they are Grade 1 or Grade 3." —Granby Leader-Mail

Gleanings from Ottawa

By FRANK MORRISS

● We are a free people, and we hold dearly the right to run our lives in accordance with the dictates of our wishes and our conscience. But hand in hand with freedom has come the realization that the dictates of our wishes must be subordinate to the job of holding this freedom.

No one can say that we have not, as a whole, buckled down to the job of carrying on the war.

Canada has done a tremendous job. The figures, when considered along with the population total of the country, are tremendous, and they are heartening.

• • •

An Orderly Withdrawal

● And now the war is over, and we are looking forward to a relaxation of some of the controls that are necessary to a war economy. But we are finding that we can't relax all of them immediately.

"It has been stated repeatedly," says Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, Minister of Labor, "that there must be an orderly withdrawal of controls as quickly as circumstances permit, and the time has arrived to relinquish additional controls. This is subject only to avoidance of endangering vital industries . . . such as home building and those which may be absolutely necessary to bring about efficient re-establishment of returning veterans and transfer of war workers to ordinary occupations."

• • •

Farm Labor Controls

● The principal controls on labor which still remain in effect include two which have a particular bearing on agriculture. One of them says that men may not leave employment in agriculture without permission of an employment office during the present busy season on the farm. This will be eliminated after the 1945 crops are harvested. The tentative date for the removal of this control is November 15.

The other control which particularly applies to farm people states that employment offices may still direct male persons from 16 to 65 years of age to work at agriculture, mining and a few other basic industries. This control will also be relinquished somewhere about November 15.

The need for these controls is pretty obvious to all of us. The end of the war has not obviated the necessity of seeing to it that the people of liberated countries have food. The harvest fields of Canada are going to be a tremendous help to these people, and so is the meat and the other necessities of life that we produce.

So you see, we have peace but there is still a wheel to which we must put our shoulders.

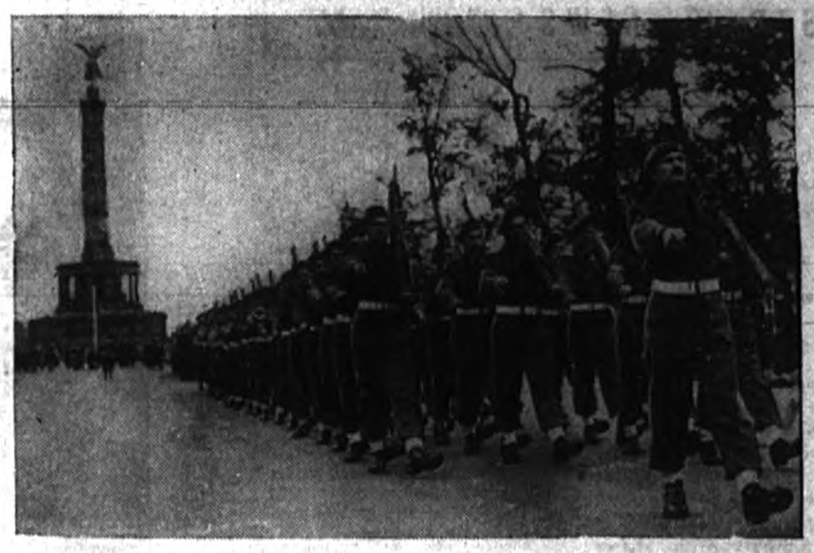

War Museum

(Edmonton Journal)

It will be a matter of general satisfaction that the Canadian Government is taking steps to create a national war museum. Army officers are now busy forming a collection of Canadian and enemy weapons and equipment, designed to illustrate every phase of the war and especially Canada's participation in it.

A museum of this type, astablished in Ottawa, would be a real national asset.

UNION JACK IN BERLIN

Carried halfway across the world in the epic march from El Alamein to Berlin, the Union Jack was unfurled in front of the German Victory Memorial in the Charlottenburger Chaussel to inaugurate the British occupation. . . . Photo shows the Devonshires marching in the parade, and the white flagstaff of the unfurled Union Jack showing in front of the German Victory column.

Warning on Use of Service Ammunition

Forest fires and shooting accidents may result if sportsmen are not careful in the use of any service amunition which comes into their hands. Incendiary and tracer bullets can easily set fire to forests, while armor piercing bullets will pass right through ordinary bullet stops if used in an indoor range.

Now that the war has ended, small amounts of army ammunition may reach the hands of semi-service shooting clubs through release by authorities. Again, small amounts may reach the open market through illegal transactions, finally, soldiers may return with stray rounds in their possession.

Officials of "Dominion" Ammunition Division of C-I-L have issued a warning that while specialized service types of ammunition are not likely to get into the hands of dealers or sportsmen, it would be well to watch for them among questionable supplies or rounds.

Ammunition with a lacquered bullet nose has a specialized use unsuited to sports rifles. A green or black bullet tip on British, American or Canadian ammunition indicates the bullet is armor-piercing and has a high power of penetration. A blue nose indicates an incendiary bullet which will ignite any inflammable object it strikes. A red nose or a white nose indicates tracer ammunition which will ignite wood if not completely burned out before it strikes. The red colored tracer will burn for 1,000 yards and the white for 600 yards, both much beyond the average sporting shot.

If you find ammuniton with copper-red cartridge cases, don't attempt to use it in a sporting rifle. It is very likely a proof round of much stronger charge than normally designed for testing barrels.

When we put our best foot forward we stop kicking.

Eire: Listening Post

(New York Herald Tribune)

Frank Aiken, the new Finance Minister for Eire, which is Mr. de Valera's part of Ireland, has made a statement respecting its neutrality which is revealing in more than one way.

His first objective, apparently, was to refute any suggestion that Eire had helped Great Britain in the war. One wonders why any such remonstrance was necessary.

Eire, officially, not only refused to contribute to the British war effort but, by harboring a Nazi diplomatic establishment, provided the enemy with a spy headquarters and listening post of great value.

Beach Chairs For Brighton

Brighton (CP) — Because Brighton's sea-front deck-chairs did such good "war service" the government has given the Brighton beach catering department a priority permit for 8,000 new ones.

During the war the chairs were used in London air raid shelters, at R.A.F. fighter stations, and one big batch was requisitioned for men to sleep on in landing barges no D-Day.

One of Brighton corporation's best-paying sidelines, the chairs, which rent at about five cents apiece, pay more than £1,000 (about $4,500) weekly.

To bear the heavy loss,
He is the only one who knows
How bitter is my loss."

BRITISH FORESTRY WORK

For the second time in little more than a generation, the woodlands of Britain have been called upon for a big war effort to relieve the shipping position and provide timber which would otherwise have had to be imported for the country's military and civil needs. Fortunately for Great Britain, at the outbreak of the second World War the Forestry Commission had already been established for 20 years and had achieved considerable success with a forest policy which includes a program of state afforestation and the maintenance of existing woodlands in a productive state. . . . A forest worker is seen in the above picture as he lines out seedlings in a trench.

Engineer Remembers Drinks on the House

Moose Jaw (CP) — William Wallace Ross has stepped down from his railway engine into retirement after 41 years of service, his happiest memory that of the day when all Brandon, Man., turned out to catch French brandy leaking from a railway car.

The incident occurred "years ago," but Mr. Ross likes to recall the speed with which the crowd gathered about the dripping car, using kitchen pans to catch the brandy. Some even soaked their handkerchiefs. One of the 90-gallon kegs in the car had sprung a leak.

Born in Brooklyn, Ont., in 1880, Mr. Ross went to work in the railway shops at Moose Jaw in 1904.

He said the Saskatchewan railway run was considered among the most difficult any engineer had to face, with water, coal and weather conditions the worst on the continent.

PROCEEDS TO ROTARY COMMUNITY SERVICE

OBITUARY

Lived 70 Years in This Community

The Late Henry Hadley

The death of Henry Hadley, of Lachute, occurred yesterday at his home in the east ward.

Born in the village of Saint Pierre, Hochelaga County, in 1859, Mr. Hadley came to Argenteuil 70 years ago, where he has since been an honored and respected member of the farming community. He was 86 years of age; his death occurred very suddenly.

The funeral will take place from his late residence, 379 Main Street on Friday at 1.30 p.m., and thence to the Mount Royal Cemetery.

Old Resident of Kilmar Mourned By Community

The Late Angus Goodland

Kilmar — A long-time and respected resident, Angus Goodland, died August 28 at Kilmar, and the people of the surrounding community turned out almost 100 per cent to pay their respects and sympathy in his passing.

Mr. Goodland, with his son Gordon, who has farmed in that district on the old Scotch Road all his life, was sick only about two days, though at times he felt the burden of his years, having reached the ripe age of 72. On the morning of August 26, he suffered a severe pain in the chest. A physician was summoned, but he passed peacefully away two days later.

The funeral service was held from his home on Saturday afternoon, September 1, conducted by the Rev. S. J. Pike, of Brownsburg, who spoke in terms of commendation of one the community could ill afford to lose; he also spoke feelingly for the family, who had lost a loving husband and devoted father.

Mr. Goodland had given much time to community affairs, not the least of which his church claimed a great deal. Among the things by which he will be remembered is the rebuilding of the only church structure in the community, when some 18 years ago, with his two sons Harold and Gordon, at the direction of the Montreal United Church Presbytery he took down the former Presbyterian Church on the Scotch Road and, in co-operation with Canadian Refractories Limited of Kilmar, rebuilt it on a desirable site. A prominent official of the church, Mr. Goodland spared neither time nor support in its interest and welfare. As treasurer, much of his own substance was freely offered so that the accounts might know no shortage. His home was a Christian abode and the minister found in him a great friend. In these circles, as in others, he will be keenly missed.

The remains were laid to rest in the Calumet Cemetery; the pallbearers were his friendly associates — Messrs. Dougal Trineer, Garnet MacIntyre, William McGillivary, William Gauley and Jas. Welden.

The late Mr. Goodland is mourned by his wife, the former Rachel Gauley; three daughters, Pearl, of Montreal, Annie (Mrs. G. Keough), of Quebec City, and Mabel (Mrs. Philip A. Campon, Jr.), of New York City; two sons, Harold, of Portland, Oregon, and Gordon at home. The whole community extends heartfelt sympathy in their bereavement.

RECONSTRUCTION RECIPE

We must forge an irresistible force that will change the course of history. We have energy, we have resources, we have men. Our one need is the rise of a new spirit — a spirit above party, class, race, point of view or personal advantage. With this new spirit we can build a pattern of industrial co-operation and national unity that will challenge the world.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

Christian Endeavor Holds First Meeting Of 1945 - 46 Season

The first Christian Endeavor meeting of the season was held Monday in the hall of the Margaret Roger Memorial Presbyterian Church, under the chairmanship of Robert Cairns.

The topic, 'Christian Fellowship', which was presented in a most capable manner by Mrs. J. F. Gorman, stressed the fact that Christian fellowship is as much, or greater, a necessity now as in the days of the early Christian Church. The gathering was impressed by the sincerity and truth of Mrs. Gorman's talk.

The next regular meeting, which will be presided over by George F. Calder, will be held Monday, September 17, in the Presbyterian hall.

Anyone sincerely interested in talks and discussion on Christian worship, citizenship and culture, is very welcome to attend these meetings.

Senior and Junior Groups At Brownsburg United

Brownsburg — A special joint meeting of the Women's Association and the Women's Missionary Society was held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. George Hardie to bid adieu to Mrs. Wyman McGibbon, who with Mr. McGibbon, will be leaving soon for Vancouver, B.C. The evening was spent with music and other diversions, at the close of which Mrs. McGibbon was presented with a beautiful hand-bag.

• • •

The Junior Women's Association has been greatly occupied of late in having the church hall decorated throughout. With a new lighting system to be installed, and other improvements, the hall will be made quite attractive. The Junior W. A. members merit the thanks of both the Board and the congregation.

• • •

The Young People's Union executive met Monday evening to consider re-opening of the autumn and winter activities. A slate of meetings was drawn up with various speakers for the next two months. The activities will also include a concert to be given towards the end of November. Next Monday evening, the meeting will be devoted to preparation for the service on Sunday morning, September 23, when the Rev. G. R. Burgoyne, of Montreal, will be guest speaker. Mr. Burgoyne will be accompanied by Mr. A. Hamilton, who will bring a message in song.

Tribute to Airmen, Coastal Command

R.C.A.F.'s Personnel Counsel Service Is Preparing Men for Return to Civil Life

It was sometimes difficult to see, in such weather, and whales were sometimes bombed, mistaken for submarines. The speaker told of a crew sent out for a submarine hunt. After some time proceeding through very bad weather, the plane flying close to the water spied a periscope and let fly its bombs dead center, only to be "called down", back in port, for blasting the paravane from a Canadian minesweeper.

In the winter of 1942 the speaker's group was sent west. The Japs were ready to land, they had heard. The United States Government asked for help, and their squadron was delegated to aid in the Aleutian campaign. Canadians incidentally, guarded the United States western air coast, half way from Seattle to San Francisco, to the northern extremity of the continent above the Arctic Circle.

With headquarters in Nome for most of his western stay, the speaker found flying weather conditions even worse than before.

Weather over Kiska and Attu was like an imaginary world, with winds of 180 miles an hour. The planes were sometimes blown sideways faster than they travelled forward, to the fearful discomfort of the pilots. Flying into mountains or the sea was not uncommon under such conditions. In one flight five planes were lost out of seven, from these causes. At that time there were blank areas on the navigational maps, shown as uncharted. These sometimes contained high mountain peaks which were blanketed under a continual thick fog.

It was the land of the midnight sun — or just midnight — and flying was necessary regardless of the dark or fog. When it was daylight all the time, the boys wished for a good dark night; and when the daylight came and you could be in bed and read a newspaper at midnight, the boys soon got tired of the novelty.

Nome, their headquarters, was like a frontier town of the gold rush days and appeared like the biggest bar in North America. With only 500 men and 12 white women, the mining town atmosphere was accentuated. Servicemen could not buy anything, so they spent much off duty time in gambling — often at $1,000 a roll. Money had little value.

Living in tents at 70° below zero and playing checkers and drinking Vodka with Russian fliers, unable to talk in each other's tongue — must have been quite an experience.

The speaker next gave a few brief remarks on what the Air Force has been trying to do for their members being discharged. There is much to be done in the months and years to come, and each community can do considerable. The speaker commended the Brownsburg Citizens' Committee as being one of the best in the province and mentioned that such remarks were not just a bouquet, but the opinion of the Department of Veterans' Affairs as expressed to him.

Service clubs can be of much help and have done much good work to date.

It is important that the public, and especially employers, understand that the boys being released are not just the irresponsible "kids" they may have appeared to be before the war. They have had opportunities to take all kinds of courses, from a minor trade to a full University degree. The Canadian Legion was commended for its excellent work along these lines. Besides, the actual service in the Royal Canadian Air Force has often required learning trades and skills which are directly useful to industry. Any employer can ask to see the serviceman's "personnel counseller's report" which, if the holder has taken advantage of the service, will show his skill and not only his ability to learn (I.Q.) but also his clerical or mechanical aptitude.

Employers too can obtain from the Royal Canadian Air Force a copy of the "Employers' Guide", showing the trades and skills acquired in that service.

The forces have not just produced men able to shoot guns and fly planes. Boys have been developed into men with resourcefulness, self-reliance, initiative, strength of character, as well as with skills and trades, and they form Canada's greatest post-war asset in a vast pool of trained and skilled manpower.

The same boys who guarded our present, can guide our future if given but a chance.

Jim Houlden thanked the speaker.

—We'll see you at the Rotary Carnival, Catholic School, Brownsburg — September 20, 21 and 22. Help the "kids" who can't help themselves!

AND YOU'VE GOT INFLATION

Let's not deceive ourselves by the belief that the danger is over—just because the war is won. And let's remember that inflation is always followed by deflation with its misery of bankrupt businesses, mortgage foreclosures and unemployment.

It's your job and your savings that are at stake.

The danger of inflation, with its black shadow—deflation,—will remain as long as goods are scarce and insufficient to meet demands. That may be 6 months, 12 months, 18 months. Only time will tell. As quickly as controls are unnecessary, they are dropped.

After nearly 6 years of war, industry cannot switch over to normal production of civilian goods by a snap of the fingers. Reconversion takes time. The whole system of raw materials, labor and production has to be re-geared.

★ ★ ★

In the meantime, price ceilings, rationing and other controls are the safeguard for every one of us. It's everybody's responsibility to help make them work.

SO— Keep on watching your buying. Don't rush to buy scarce goods.
Keep on saving your money. Put it into Victory bonds and War Savings certificates.
Keep on supporting wage and price controls, and rationing.
Keep on fighting inflation and its black shadow . . . deflation.

This advertisement is issued by the Government of Canada to emphasize the importance of preventing a further increase in the cost of living now and deflation and unemployment later.

Six Years Exactly, Length of War

(By Canadian Press)

The Second Great War ended six years from the date it started on September 1, 1939, when Hitler sent his forces smashing into Poland.

The invasion was made without a declaration of war, but September 3, 1939, Britain and France declared war on Germany. Canada's declaration came September 10.

Italy entered the war against Britain and France June 10, 1940. France signed an armistice with Germany June 22, 1940. Exactly one year later, on June 22, 1941, the Germans invaded Russia.

The war spread to global proportions with the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, December 7, 1941. Germany and Italy declared war against the United States December 11, 1941.

Polite Police Teach Traffic Manners

London (CP)—London police are conducting a drive to make motorists "traffic conscious" after six years of war-curtailed motoring, and are very polite about it.

Motorists who park in crowded streets have been pleasantly surprised at the gentle, "Please don't do it again," from policemen. Others whose names were jotted down in a little blue book have received a written caution instead of a summons.

"We realize that motorists have been off the road for a long time," one police officer said, "And we know the city streets were not built for motor traffic."

Chic and Trim — But

Many folks in war-ravaged countries try to conceal their nakedness in a multitude of ways. They are sensitive people. They want to look presentable, especially to the stranger. One city is a good example. A correspondent, describing the situation, says "the girls are chic, trim, smart and beautiful. They wear wedgies. But don't get ideas — the clothes they are wearing may be the only garments they have in the world. Most of their clothes were lost in the siege when the city took to the cellars. In a shop window, a pair of used men's oxfords is priced at $15 at current exchange rates. Children's used shoes cost $6." The National Clothing Collection in October is designed to help relieve the situation. Canadians will help relieve the situation ea et be asked to give all the serviceable used clothing they can spare without replacement.

Rush on Linoleum

Two out of three Canadian families want to buy new floor coverings when supplies are more readily available, according to a recent survey. The majority of them intend getting linoleum.

Are they going to be the prettiest pattern to be had, lay it with enthusiasm, tack it down firmly all around, only to find it cracking as it later expands? Will the gay pattern wear down to a monotone base within a few months, making that hallway look shabby as before.

Consumer experts say that linoleum must be properly seasoned. Poorly seasoned linoleum can be detected for it can be flaked with a fingernail. The surface should be perfectly smooth. Even the best linoleum should have special care if bought in cold weather or it will crack in handling. It should be left at room temperature, about 70 degrees, for 48 hours before it is unrolled.

Cost depends on two factors, thickness and whether the pattern is printed or inlaid. The higher initial cost of inlaid linoleum is worth while if it is to get heavy use, for a printed pattern will wear off but the pattern goes right through to the burlap back of the inlaid type.

Peacetime Greetings

London (CP) — Christmas cards this year will return to the traditional peace-time scenes of coaches, country lanes, snow, berries and robbins.

"All war scenes are definitely 'out' this year," said Desmond Tuck, principal of one of the largest British card publishing firms.

"Card designs will be as far removed from the atomic bomb and the war as possible."

OCCUPATIONAL LUCK

Montreal (CP) — Frank Rupnick discovered that the pearl he found in a Prince Edward Island oyster in the cafeteria where he is employed is worth $800. He almost sold the pearl for $2 to a Montreal newspaperman before he had its value appraised.

Widow Learns of C.S. Preference

"Just one formally worded phrase in the Rehabilitation Act suddenly had a very personal meaning for me," said a war widow, Mrs. Vera Langman. "The phrase was: 'civil service preference for widows of veterans.' "

Mrs. Langman's husband, a member of the Cameron Highlanders of Ottawa, was accidentally killed in Ireland in 1941, leaving her with a baby boy to look after. Through a representative of the Department of Veterans' Affairs she learned of this job preference. Mrs. Langman applied to the Civil Service Commission and is today doing clerical work in the personnel branch of the Department of Veterans' Affairs, while her young son attends nursery school.

STRANGE VALUES

Tin cans in China were so valuable that junkyards were selling cans of ordinary household size for 30 Chinese dollars — roughly $3 in American money. A two- quart size can brought 180 Chinese dollars. Chinese factories made these cans into teapots, pans, office supplies, lamps and many other kinds of utensils.

Dental Health

Answers to Frequent Questions

Q: What are the most important teeth and how many teeth are there?

A: Most important of all the teeth are the four first permanent molars, sometimes called the sixth-year molars. They come in behind the last deciduous, or baby, teeth. They are frequently mistaken for baby teeth because they erupt at an early age. The first permanent molars start to calcify at birth. They erupt at about the sixth year of life and should be retained throughout life. The other permanent teeth begin to form or calcify during the first few months or years of life. When all of the permanent teeth have erupted, they should total 32, sixteen in the upper jaw meeting sixteen in the lower jaw. All of the permanent teeth, except the third molars, or wisdom teeth, have usually erupted by the age of 13.

SAVE THAT TEAR

Net curtains, especially if they have been well starched, are liable to tear as you push them on the curtain rod. Prevent that by slipping the finger of an old glove —or even a piece of paper—over the sharp end of the curtain rod. Your curtains will then slip on easily and without a tear. To keep your bedroom curtains clean longer, pin them back at night with clothes pins.

THE STOCKING SITUATION

Quality has been poorer in many articles but I believe stockings have been the worst. Down here it has been extremely difficult to get them because the Forces were looked after first. A friend went into a specialty store a short time ago to try to get some stockings. She was quite happy when she saw a clerk sell six pairs of size 9 to an Airman, as that was her size, and there were quite a few pairs left in the box. When she asked the clerk for stockings she was told they had none. She told the clerk she had seen her put them away and knew she they had them, but the answer was, "Madam, we have no stockings". She tried to argue the point in every way, but was told several times, "Madam, we have no stockings". And that is exactly what she got. No stockings. Even when you can get them the quality is very poor. I managed to get two pairs and before I had the first pair on two hours one of them had a wide run from the seam. The next pair did not last that long and there were wide runs from the seams of both of them. The stockings were made by one of the well-known companies and were supposed to be firsts, and cost me a dollar a pair. I think women generally resent the stocking situation more than any other, and I hope it is soon righted.

LOSS OF APPETITE

The common cold is the cause of many feeding difficulties with children. When an adult has a cold he loses his appetite for the time being. The same thing happens with a small child. Mothers are so anxious to have their children eat well and gain in weight that they cannot stand seeing them lose their appetites for even a few days and they try to force food into them. Naturally, the child does not want food and it turns against that particular food which is being forced. Sometimes this revulsion continues and the child never does like it. Sometimes the child becomes uninterested in all foods. It is not a serious matter for a child to lose its appetite during the first few days of a cold. Give it all the liquids it will take and offer very small quantities of food. Wait until the appetite returns of its own accord.

PLUM PRESERVE

6 Lbs, plums, 4½ lbs. sugar, 1 cup water.

Prick each plum with a fork. Place the plums in a kettle and add sugar and water. Let stand overnight. Drain the juice and boil for 5 minutes. Add plums and cook until clear, only a few moments.

PLUM JAM

Wash plums and put in a kettle, and add water until it just shows through the plums. Boil for 20 minutes. Measure and add three-quarters the quantity of sugar. Bring to a boil and boil for 5 minutes. After the sugar is added the pits will come to the surface; skim these out and bottle in sterilized bottles. Cover with wax. This is like a plum jelly with the pulp left in and is particularly good jam.

CHOPPED MUSTARD PICKLE

1 Quart celery, 1 quart onions, 1 cauliflower, 2 cabbages, 1 quart green tomatoes, 1 quart cucumbers, 1 sweet red pepper, 1 sweet green pepper.

Put through food chopper. Sprinkle with 1 cup salt, cover with boiling water and let stand ½ hour. Drain well. Make a mustard paste with 1 Cup flour, 3 cups sugar, 6 tablespoons mustard, 3 tablespoons tumeric.

Mix to a smooth paste with 2 quarts vinegar, and boil until it thickens, stirring constantly. Add the drained vegetables and bottle in sterilized jars at once.

DELICIOUS PICKLE

2 Quarts green tomatoes, 1 quart red tomatoes, 1 bunch celery, 3 large onions, 4 sweet red peppers.

Cut up the green tomatoes, onions and peppers and sprinkle with ½ cup salt and let stand overnight. Drain. Add ripe tomatoes, cut in pieces, and the celery put through food chopper, 1 tablespoon mustard, 2 lbs. white sugar, 3 pints vinegar. Boil until thick, from 1½ to 2 hours. Bottle in sterilized jars.

READY-MADE MEALS NOW PRE-COOKED AND PRE-FROZEN

Pre-Cooked Frozen Dishes Answer Housewife's Prayers; Paradise on Ice

New York (CP)—Housewives who have yearned to get out of the kitchen will find it possible soon.

Completely packaged pre-cooked frozen meals, which the U.S. Navy now is using in its air transport commands, will be sold at grocery stores and delicatessens.

On her way home from shopping, the housewife can stop at the store, decide if she wants steak, French fries and lima beans; ham, sweet potatoes and spinach or any one of 50 blue-plate choices. She'll get a lacquered cardboard container that is sealed with a plastic ring. The lower half of the container is a grooved dish.

When her family is ready for dinner she simply removes the top, slips the dishes into the oven (preferably a specially built oven which will sell for about $35) for 15 minutes, then serves the meal. The grooved paper plates are discarded afterward and there's no dish-washing problem.

The idea of frozen foods is not a new one, but the completely packaged meal, as produced by big W. L. Maxon, is something to revolutionize a housewife's schedule.

Maxon is a consulting engineer who has invented such things as the gasoline pump which records price as well as gallonage; an automotive navigator used by Howard Hughes in his round-the-world flight and subsequently adopted by the U.S. Army; and a multitiple machine-gun mount. He also is a man of mighty appetite and like many such, an excellent cook.

"Cooking," he says, "is simply an engineering problem involving heat and time."

Two years ago he acquired a standard quickfreezing unit to store excess produce from his victory garden. Soon he was experimenting with the freezing of left-over foods.

He discovered that freezing food is simple. Reheating it, so that it tastes as if it had been freshly cooked, is the catch. He moved his laboratory, spent two years, with the aid of an able staff, working on the problem. Today he is serving to men in Guam and the Philippines meals that were cooked three or four months ago, reheated to contain their original flavor and juices.

British Divorces On the Increase

London (CP)—Total of marriages dissolved in England and Wales this year now is more than 10,000 and with four months to go the final total is expected to be considerably higher than the 12,350 reported for 1944.

Divorce division judges are sitting during the legal long vacation this summer to hear about 100 divorce petitions a week, chiefly cases in which men or women in the forces are concerned.

FILMLAND PLACES BIG EMPHASIS ON BRAINS, ABILITY

Hollywood Dance Producer Says Young Girl Today Is Not So Glamorous as Her Older Sister

New York (CP) — The most attractive women today are between 24 and their early thirties, says LeRoy Prinz, Hollywood dance producer.

Here to pick girls for movie glamor roles, Mr. Prinz had this to say:

"All eight girls I have selected are married, four of them have children. Girls in this age group appeal to me because they are more attractive, personable and mature and can talk as well as they can walk."

The average young girl of today, he says, hasn't as much oomph as her older sister and adds:

"Bobby soxers in particular are frighteningly like a new race of people. Pop-eyed from seeking autographs, our next generation will probably have protruding eyes."

Instead of looking for celebrities, Mr. Prinz believes teen-agers should take a good look at themselves, then they would become more clothes conscious and perhaps more conscious of their grooming, too.

Neither does he approve of their slacks. He says that, because they make relaxation too easy, they tend toward "degeneration of womanhood" and stress the masculine instead of the feminine.

And, says Mr. Prinz, like every other man he is "only interested in ladies."

Beauty Only Asset

Twenty-five years ago, he points out, when he started in the show business, a girl needed no other asset than beauty. She could even be dumb. In the next era "she had to talk a bit" and have poise and personality. Today, she also needs a brain and the ability to use it. He adds:

"Beauty as it was known years ago — dyed hair, false eyelashes and heavy makeup — isn't a requirement today. Rather the word attractive aptly describes today's woman, who can be charming in spite of physical defects if she uses her education, culture and breeding to good advantage."

Years ago it was possible to be selected as a movie beauty just from a photograph submitted in a national contest.

Today at Warners, where he has been for the last 16 years, Mr. Prinz interviews a girl personally and doesn't select one over-blonde or over-big-eyed. Nor does he ask her to wear tights, bloomers or to "line up" for a "let's see your legs" routine.

Instead he seats a girl 25 feet from his desk and studies her poise before he chats with hr.

But he never makes a decision about her until she is walking away from him because he believes that: "when a girl walks toward you, she is completely conscious of your attention. It's when she walks away from you and feels you are no longer aware of her that she relaxes and is apt to give a truer picture of herself".

Mr. Prinz is firmly in favor of the high heel, which encourages women to walk on their toes. There is nothing more unappealing than a bare-footed woman because: "Her arches collapse and the rest of her body sags, throwing here completely out of line."

SCHOOL LUNCHES IMPORTANT PART OF DAILY DIET

Toronto — As much care should be but into the preparation of lunches taken to school by boys and girls as in the preparation of their regular meals at home, it was stated some time ago by Miss Margaret Smith in Health Magazine.

The school lunch should foster appetite and must satisfy the body's need, Miss Smith writes. A "Food for Health" lunch should contain about one-third of the daily food requirement.

The substances in food positively necessary for body building, growth and repair are proteins, minerals and vitamins. Carbohydrates or starches, fats and proteins produce energy. However, isolated starches, fats and proteins should not be put in school lunch boxes, Miss Smith advises. Rather, foods which contain these desired substances should be used.

The writer says Canada's Official Food Rules, authorized by the Dominion department of national health and welfare, should be followed in selecting these lunch foods. And, bearing this in mind, she suggests as a typical lunch, one containing —

Half a pint of milk, with an occasional substitution of buttermilk, or cocoa. A vegetable chosen from raw carrots, shredded cabbage, celery, parsley, chopped green peppers or cooked green beans. A serving of raw fruit also should be included. Sweet jams and marmalades should be omitted because of the low vitamin content.

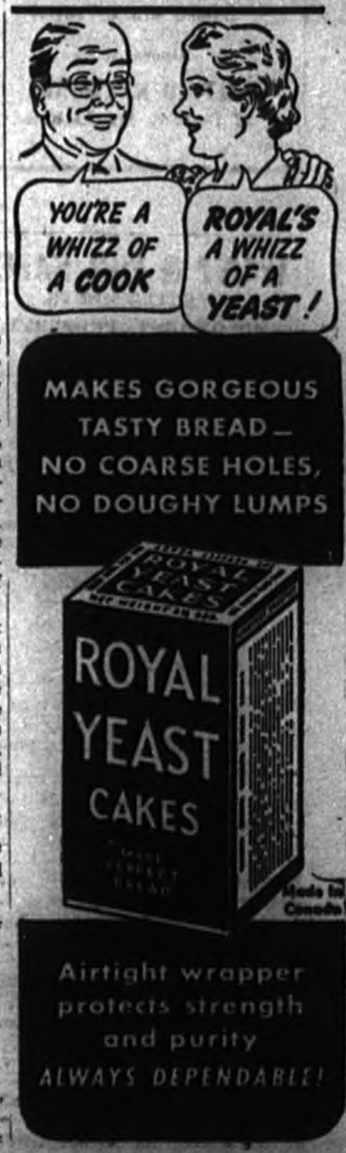

"The basic food of the lunch box is the sandwich," Miss Smith writes. Lunch sandwiches, which provide the greater part of the protein, should contain meat, cheese or eggs. She also recommends highly the use of cottage cheese. Whole wheat bread should be used because it is most nutritious.

It really takes a smart man these days to tell which side of his bread is buttered — in a restaurant.

Boy Scouts The World Over

Says Sir Malcolm Robertson, British M. P. — "The youth movement which has the greatest conception of life is the Boy Scout Movement. For the good of our country this organization should be extended throughout the country and throughout the world."

John A. Stiles, O.B.E., Chief Executive Commissioner of the Boy Scouts of Canada, returned this month from a lengthy visit to Great Britain where plans were drawn for the post-war co-operation between the British and Canadian Boy Scout Movements.

Latest record of decorations awarded to Boy Scouts in the Empire show that of 152 Victoria Crosses awarded, 17 have been awarded to former Scouts. Over 880 other awards for gallantry have been conferred on members of the Movement during the present war, incomplete records show.

SCOUTS EXCHANGE VISITS

For the first time since the outbreak of war in 1939 there has been a large exchange of visits during the past summer. Many groups of U.S. Scouts visited Canadian Scout camps and groups of Canadian Scouts visited American camps while small groups made tours of border states.

SCOUT JAMBOUREE IN 19 47

Official announcement has been made by the International Bureau of the Boy Scouts in London, that the first post-war International Scout Jambouree will be held in France in 1947. Paris will likely be the site of the gathering and it is likely that Canada will send a strong delegation. The largest Scout Jamboree, held at Birkenhead in England in 1929, attracted 50,000 Boy Scouts from 40 different countries and 43 parts of the British Empire and Commonwealth.

CABINET MINISTER'S TRIBUTE

Major H. F. G. Bridges, M.P., recently appointed Minister of Fisheries in the Federal Cabinet, says that Netherlands Boy Scouts were invaluable when allied Troops occupied Holland. "Their work of greatest importance was their assistance in establishing emergency hospitals for civilian casualties. They would collect beds and bedding from all sorts of sources. They received no pay, and were too proud to accept tips. Without their assistance I don't know how we could have carried on as successfully as we did", Major Bridges said.

CHURCHES SPONSOR TROOPS

Of Canada's 2,090 Scout Groups the majority were sponsored by churches. The Anglican church sponsored 407 groups, the Baptist 63, the Hebrew 16, the Latter Day Saints 26, Lutheran 11, Presbyterian 97, Roman Catholic 269, Salvation Army 66, United Church 317. Other large sponsors were the Canadian Legion and Service Clubs. Nearly 600 Groups were sponsored by Community Committees.

First prize for low gross went to Mrs. P. Valois and A. St. Onge, and 2nd low gross to Mrs. Rigg and G. Walker.

First low net was won by Mrs. Wade and Jack Ogilvie; 2nd, Mrs. J. Martin and J. Foley, and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Leggett, tied. Third place went to Miss A. McDougall and Albert Ogilvie.

South Africans Spent Lavishly

Brighton (CP) — South African soldiers, released from prison camps on the continent, spent about £1,000,000 (about $4,500,000) during a four months stay in Brighton since their repatriation.

"We spent money just the same way as you or anyone else would who had been cooped up in a German camp for a year or two," said one of the 8,000 South Africans who were here. All but 2,000 of these former prisoners have returned to South Africa.

Lions' Topic Given by Club Member
Authority on Veneer and Plywood

P. Roy, Manager of Local Industry, Discusses Wide Applications and Future Possibilities of Product

Members of the Lachute Lions Club met Tuesday evening at the Golf Club premises for their regular supper gathering. Vice-president Lion Gordon McOuat presided in the absence of the president, Lion Leopold Carrière, who is on a business trip through the northern part of the province.

Routine business was dealt with, and it was decided to hold a bingo event at the Auditorium on October 5, in aid of the club's funds.

Highlight of the evening was an address by Lion Phil Roy, past president of the club and general manager of Dominion Shuttle Co. Ltd., who spoke instructively on the topic of veneers and plywood. Mr. Roy was introduced by Lion Lionel Rozon and thanked on behalf of the members by Lion Geo. Tattersfield.

Following are interesting extracts from the speaker's discourse:

"The historical and commercial developments of veneer and of plywood — where the wood progresses through various stages of manufacture until, as a single-ply veneer, it is ready for manufacture and conversion into the finished product known as plywood — are most interesting.

"For every purpose where the combination of beauty, reliability, durability and strength with economy of wood construction is required, no material has wider or more important uses than the 'built-up' ply upon ply, layer construction of 'wood on wood' called plywood.

"Egypt was the gateway through which all arts were transmitted to the world — even including veneering. Classics of veneered furniture brought to light through recent historical research, attest to the universal adoption of veneering in ancient Empires. Practice of the art in the olden days included inlays of gold, ivory, precious stones and rare woods, as well as the built up woods of thin sheets or plies now designated as plywood.

"Proof that the art of veneering had its origin over 35 centuries ago, is found in the existing specimens of Egyptian furniture, plywood built, which have survived the long period of oblivion.

"Little is known of the methods used, how the wood was sawed into sheets; how the glue, despite centuries of time, still holds thin layers of face wood to the heavier base or core, was prepared; but the work has endured and speaks for itself.

"As regards the engineering aspect of plywood — laminated wood, built up of thin sheets alternating in direction of grain, is stronger than an equal thickness of ordinary wood for several reasons. . . . Wood will resist a much greater tension and a much greater compression per unit of sectional area in the direction of the grain, that is the fibres, than it does at right angles thereto. . . . The resistance of wood to shearing is less along the grain than in any other direction. Wood has a much greater resistance to bending in the direction, or lengthwise, of the grain than sideways or at 90 degrees to the grain. If, therefore, it were possible to have an ideal form of wood construction with the fibres running in both directions it would provide an equal strength in every direction so far as tension and compression is concerned.

"The effect of using glue in binding the alternate layers is an important factor. The application of glue to wood acts not only as a binder between surfaces, but insofar as it penetrates the wood fibre, acts as a binder between the fibres themselves. It also increases total resistance to all forms of stress. Good glue, generally, is stronger than the elements of adhesion that Nature provides between wood fibres.

"The multiplication of wood strength by the lamination of veneers into plywood opens a new field of great usefulness that has scarcely been seriously considered as yet. When this country seriously undertakes the development of a protective as well as a commercial air policy, the opportunity for the use of plywood in airplanes will be greatly enhanced. During World War II, plywood was used extensively in the construction of pontoons, torpedo boats and in the manufacture of the famous Mosquito bomber.

The engineering field offers many other openings for the use of a plywood, which is strong for its weight as well as thoroughly waterproof.

"Modern plywood is used in almost every walk of life and to enumerate the wide range of its successful utilization would be a difficult if not an impossible task.

"Plywood increases the ultimate strength of wood, until it is stronger than steel on a weight basis. It exhibits the beauty of woodgrain and figure, until it reveals, if not surpasses, the skill of the artist.

"By supporting thin sheets of veneer on a durable foundation, furniture makers have used plywood from time immemorial, first with the idea of richness in adornment and later because of lightness, grace, and capacity to curve and bend. The chests and furniture pieces discovered in the tomb of King Tut . . . Napoleon's campaign desk . . . and other equally famous pieces, embody the art of veneering.

"Our homes and offices would lose some of their dignity without panelling in doors and wainscoting, without the artistic wall panelling and counters, without the handsome oak, walnut and mahogany writing desks and the convenient sectional book-cases made of plywood.

"What of the packing cases and fruit packages, baskets and boxes of many shapes and sizes, if there were no veneers? Without veneer, from which to construct these familiar containers, modern shipping would find its facilities sadly crippled.

"Plywood has only recently begun to be appreciated. Little is known of its ultimate possibilities. The making of plywood is at present a most modest business, both in the number of men and the amount of capital engaged in it, but the future opportunities are alluring and attractive."

Assailants Crash Store Window

One of those midnight altercations peculiar to the Main Street of Lachute most week-ends, resulted early Sunday morning in breaking of the show window at the Atlantic and Pacific Stores. The crash occurred around one o'clock in the morning and Police Chief D. Villeneuve, called to the scene, arrested the two belligerents, Albert Normand, Lachute, aged 24, and Gerald Gerard, Chatham, aged 23.

Gerard, allowed out on bail of $25, was arraigned later before J. L. Dumais, J.P. He pleaded guilty and was released with a reprimand and a pledge to keep the peace.

Normand appeared Monday before a justice at St. Jerome, and was allowed bail of $150 pending trial before District Magistrate Donat Lalande on September 24, on a charge of disturbing the peace.

During the coming winter Europe's and China's millions will look at the raiment that shields their frail bodies, and they will think of us who live in lands of plenty according as we measure up to our responsibility and share with them what we can spare. Give your share of serviceable used clothing to the National Clothing Collection for liberated countries, October 1 - 20.

More Repatriates Welcomed Home

New names are added to the list of servicemen returning to these parts. In the past week the following have been noted in Lachute and vicinity:

Pte. Arthur Goldup, who served in the R.C.A.S.C. with the First Canadian Corps through the Italian campaign and in western Europe, arrived home recently by the S. S. Pasteur. After the regulation 30 days' leave, which he is spending in this community, it is his intention to "go into business on his own".

Expected this week-end with the Royal Montreal Regiment on the next arrival of the same vessel, is Pte. Charles Wheatley, of the North Nova Scotia Highlanders. Pte. Wheatley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Wheatley, Brownsburg, has spent nearly two years overseas, serving in France Belgium and Holland. He was hospitalized in Belgium following wounds suffered in a mine explosion. He returned to duty, however, and is now fit and in good spirits. Pte. Wheatley is 20 years of age.

WO-1. Gerald A. Trottier, of the Fourth Medium Artillery, whose exploits were recorded in a recent issue of The Watchman, has arrived in Canada aboard a Canadian minesweeper. Regimental Sergeant Major Trottier received the M.B.E. from His Majesty the King at an investiture at Buckingham Palace. His wife and family live on Main Street, Lachute Mills.

With the same contingent to reach Canada the following are listed: L/Cpl. McRae, of Calumet, R.R. 1., and Pte. L. Normand, 34 Main Street, Lachute Mills.

From The Watchman's district correspondents comes mention also of the following servicemen returned home: Spr. Buddy Beaton, R.C.E., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Beaton, Lost River. LAC. Dennison Swail, son of Mrs. A. Swail, Arundel; Jack Stewart, John Woodbury and Jas. Bradshaw, of Grenville (ranks and regiments unstated).

Memorial Service At Arundel for Air Force Officer

Late F/O. Walter D. C. Boyd

Arundel — A memorial service will be held in the United Church, Arundel, at three o'clock Sunday afternoon, September 23, for F/O. Walter D. Boyd, previously reported missing, in March 1944, and now presumed to have been killed in action while serving in the Middle East.

F/O. Boyd is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Boyd, of St. Jovite Station; a brother, Gilbert, of Arundel; and a sister, Mrs. D. Théroux, also of St. Jovite.

Rotary Carnival Opens Tonight At Brownsburg; Regular Session Hears Talk by Bisley Medallist

Brownsburg — The regular dinner meeting of the Rotary Club was held at Carrière's Hotel on Thursday, September 13, when a large gathering listened to an instructive talk by Rotarian Jim Houlden, of the local club, on the history and development of Ammunition.

Beginning with the sling shot and following through the many types of weapons and their missiles — including modern rifles and ending up with a thought for the future with rockets — the speaker told of velocities, pressures, powders, primers, and accompanied the talk with a thrilling demonstration and display of guns, ammunition, primers and powders.

Introduced by Vice-president Harris Sherwood, Assistant Works Manager of the C-I-L "Dominion" Ammunition Division, where Jim Houlden has served for the past ten years as ballistics engineer, it was learned that the speaker was not only a winner of the King's Medal at Bisley, which he attended four times, but also won other coveted awards and qualified for many other Bisley visits.

Born in Hamilton, Ontario, and graduating with honors from Queen's University in mechanical engineering, the speaker is recognized as a leading authority on ammunition in Canada.

Soon to leave Brownsburg for the sales department of the "Dominion" Ammunition Division, Jim, a director of the Rotary Club of Brownsburg, was presented with a purse at this, his last regular meeting of the club, by President Sam Ross.

(Mr. Houlden's address is very ably reported for this newspaper by the club's secretary, Wes Freeland. Owing to late arrival of copy, however, the editor withholds it for publication in a future issue — promising a highly interesting article for the enlightenment of our readers).

The speaker was thanked by Dorius Lepine, another director of the club.

Guests of the evening were Bill Damant, Archie McIntyre, Roy Chambers, Dave Atkins, Jack Mason, Jim Anderson and Bill Manson, of Brownsburg; J. A. Kyle, inspector, Bank of Nova Scotia; Walter Nesbitt, Lachute; O. W. Charron, police inspector, Montreal, Hull and Three Rivers; and L. Bruneau, head of the liquor police for the District of Terrebonne.

The club president and members hope to see YOU at the Rotary Carnival, in the basement of the Catholic School, Brownsburg, tonight, Friday and Saturday, September 20, 21 and 22. — Have some fun while helping others!

Brownsb'g Rotary Wins Dis. Trophy

Brownsburg — A district trophy, in the form of an engraved silver cup donated by the Watertown, N.Y., Rotary branch, has been awarded to the Brownsburg Rotarians. The prize is in recognition of the best scrap book maintained by a branch of the club recording activities, topics and personages prominent in International Rotary.

The Brownsburg exhibit is a credit to the club's secretary, Rotarian Wes Freeland, who undertook to record these highlights for the local membership and displayed unusual zeal in the task.

The trophy will be awarded at the District Governor's next official visit here, October 11.

Argenteuil County Council Frames Views For Consideration at Union Conference

Suggestions Dealing With Property Tax Exemptions and School Tax Assessments

Mayor A. G. Munich Is Elected Warden

With the Union of County Councils at Quebec acting in liaison, the County Council of Argenteuil and similar municipal units in this province feel they now have a more direct influence in legislation which immediately concerns them. Argenteuil has a representation of three to advance its views before the Union, and matters concerning this county, doubtless typical of other municipal areas in the province, have already received attention and endorsement of the Union in general conference.

At the quarterly council meeting held at the Court House in Lachute last week, Mayor A. G. Munich of Montcalm was elected new warden, on conclusion of the term held by Mayor Harvey Barlow of Wentworth.

County delegates named for the 1945-46 year were Mayor E. W. Smith of St. Jerusalem and Mayor W. Lorne Dawson of Gore.

The three special representatives named to attend the Union convention shortly in Quebec and to voice the views of this body at the conference, were — A. G. Munich, H. Barlow, and Arthur Fournier of St. Andrews Parish. Substitutes named were — E. A. Brosseau, Adrien Rochon and Wilfrid Gratton, mayors respectively of Huberdeau, Chatham and St. Adolphe de Howard.

Approval was given to a procès-verbal drawn up recently by Z. Plouffe for a road between Gore Township and the Parish of St. Jerusalem; this road is situated in lot 1931 of the latter municipality.

Secretary E. M. Jones was instructed to communicate to the Union above mentioned, names of the delegates to give views on certain matters of local and general interest. The first matter was a recommendation that changes be made in the system which now exempts from taxation all properties held in the names of religious orders.

Recommendations on School Taxation

Another recommendation outlined adjustments in the present system of municipal and school taxation — a matter also on the agenda of the coming conference.

The general assumption that immoveable property is no longer capable of bearing the increasing costs of education, is accepted as a hypothesis in the council's reasoning; likewise the just principle, that no Roman Catholic should be called upon to pay for Protestant schools, and vice versa. It is seen, then, that the basis of taxation must be broadened so that school boards may have adequate funds at their disposal, and the recommendation advanced is as follows: That, to the present federal income tax levy an additional impost be added to meet the costs of education. That to the regular income tax returns, a question be added, namely, "Are you a Roman Catholic?" An answer in the negative would automatically assign the taxpayer's levy for education to the Protestant panel; and vice versa.

The Federal Government, although recognizing education as a subject under provincial jurisdiction, has signified its willingness to assist in problems of its financing. And the above expedient is considered as the logical solution. Obvious advantages are: the cost of collection is nil — the present machinery already being in operation for income tax assessments; also, the principle or fair division of taxation will be maintained; and finally, the revenues would be derived from the source best able to pay, regardless of whether the contributor has children or not.

Recommendation was also passed urging that the Government make provision for payment of taxes to local councils on lands owned by the Dept. of Colonization which have been sold or leased for different purposes. The particular concern of this council was lands sold for timber cutting, on which no taxes are collectable, although the said timber operations depreciate roads and make use of other municipal services.

Feted on Departure

A rousing send-off marked the departure of several C-I-L employees who are leaving here for fresh fields to conquer. The locale of the celebration was a Brownsburg hotel; the "dramatis personae", Bill Manson, Gordon Wyness, Joe Southren, Reg Wallace and Wyman McGibbon. Barney O'Connell was in the leading role, with Sam Rose in charge of production. The supporting cast was too numerous to mention, but "a good time was had by all."

The Rotary Carnival

The Brownsburg Rotary Club are making every effort to provide a very successful and entertaining show at the Catholic School. Several new games will be unveiled and very tempting prizes are offered. The cause is a worthy one.

Knights

The Knights of Columbus attended in strength at the Church of St. Louis de France on Sunday, and were entertained to breakfast at the hall after Mass.

National Clothing Collection

Have a look through your clothes closets and see "what you can spare that they can wear"! You do not need that suit, or coat, or boots, but there are cold, miserable people in Europe who will bless you for sending it to them. It is too good to throw away and you were uncertain what to do with it. Well, now is your chance. Have it ready; never mind wrapping it up when the collector calls — he will arrange to wrap it and send it where you will feel conscious of a deed well done. . . .

In Europe alone 125,000,000 war victims are in desperate need of clothing, shoes and blankets. Lend a hand and help them get warm. We need most of what we have ourselves, and it is hard to get decent clothes, and they are so dear. Just the same, we can spare a little, and the little we do spare will go a long way towards helping our fellow man to trudge along the weary road with a little less hardship.

Bargains

In case you are wondering about the prospects of buying a jeep, a bulldozer, an aircraft camera, a pair of skis, or a barracks stove, here's an outline of the Canadian Government's policies for disposing of surplus war equipment, as explained to the Dominion-Provincial Conference on Reconstruction.

After, any department of the Dominion Government declares some goods or property surplus to requirements, the other departments have first priority in taking it over if they need it; next in line are provincial governments; and finally municipal authorities and public organizations can have their needs considered.

Legion Extends Hospitality to Returned Men

Following the return of servicemen from overseas in increasing numbers, an open meeting held on Tuesday evening by the local Legion, branch No. 70 B.E.S.L., attracted a large attendance. President E. M. Jones, occupying the chair, voiced a welcome on behalf of the membership, to the numerous veterans of World War II present as visitors on this occasion. During the evening applications were received from 12 of these men for enrolment, and they were duly accepted into the branch.

Discussion was held on various angles of rehabilitation, especially matters immediately concerning some of those present.

Refreshments were served and a social hour spent at the close of the meeting.

To Hold Meeting at Carillon Museum

The annual meeting of the Argenteuil Historical Society is announced for Saturday, September 29, to commence at 2.30 o'clock in the Museum building at Carillon.

The president, Dr. H. B. Cushing, is anxious for a large attendance, and urges all members to be present, and to invite their friends, to view the additions and improvements that have been made to the Museum since last year.

Restrictions on gasoline and tires have had an unfavorable reaction on the patronage and financial returns, as visitors decreased in number during the latter war years. However, the Society quietly continued its work, and with a brighter outlook ahead, now anticipates more ardent support from the public.

It is understood there will be interesting talks on handicrafts, during the afternoon of the coming annual meeting.

FORTUNE IN 20 DAYS

Hull, Eng. (CP) — Skipper Albert R. Cornish of Hull knows what it is like to make a fortune fast. He landed a record catch recently — 26-tons of fish, mainly cod, which sold for £15,830 ($71,235). He had been 20 days at sea with his trawler and said his success was due to the team spirit of his crew— "I had 26 great fellows with me".

"The Singing Pipes", by the National Film Board, was taken at the shops of the Casavant Society in St. Hyacinthe; it illustrates clearly all the phases of the building of those organs that we hear every day in our churches.

Dept. of Agriculture Gives Encouragement To Lamb Production

The Montreal Market recently received from the farm co-operatives of St. Jovite and St. André Avellin, Papineau County, 150 choice lambs, which were bought at a special price by a Quebec firm. The sale deserves special mention in view of the quality of the animals offered. They come from two districts in Terrebonne and Papineau counties notable for lamb production.

Such breeding centres are organized by the Provincial Department of Agriculture to increase and improve sheep quality. Breeders receive a grant of $3 for each ewe, with a maximum of ten animals for each farmer.

In the case of farmers being unable to procure lambs, the Department supplies them at a price of $8 each, providing 50 head at least are retained. The Department also provides a loan of 10 rams for every 25 members. A contest is then organized and $300 is distributed in prizes. A premium is granted of 75c. on lambs weighing from 80 to 100 pounds. Up to now, subjects raised have been crossbreeds of Oxfords, Shropshires and Hampshires.

Planning Turkeys Made to Measure

Preston, Eng.—Made-to-measure turkeys are to be produced by the Hutton Agricultural Institute near here and as a start the Institute wants to see the end of "fattening for Christmas".

The experts would like to control a turkey's life so that it reaches its peak at Christmas and does not have to go through a last-minute fattening. Groups of turkeys are being studied to find the best month to bring them into the world to suit dinner table needs. By scientific feeding it is to be hoped to turn out big birds for big families and small birds for small families, all of equal top quality.

Later hatching and more rapid growth is sought. An official said that a 19½ pound bird was reared in 20 weeks last year.

Study Day Held for Federated Farm Clubs

The Federation of Women's Institutes of the Hull agronomic district held its second study day at Aylmer. This meeting coincided with the inter-club exhibition in which 19 out of 32 clubs took part. Over 200 farm women from Papineau, Gatineau and Pontiac counties visited the exhibition and took an active part of this study day, which was presided over by Mrs. Palma Joanis, president of the Federation.

J. W. Delaney, district agronomist, assured the delegates of the co-operation of the agronomists. "Inspired by the motives of the organization of your Federation, he said, you will take the opportunity of this meeting to become better acquainted, exchange ideas, study and work together for the common good of your various clubs."

Miss A. M. Vaillancourt, supervisor of the Cercles des Fermières, mentioned the popularity of the movement which started with 5 clubs, 240 members in 1915, and now has attained 877 clubs and 50,000 members. She thanked all who had contributed to obtaining such results, and emphasized the necessity that each club be left free to act as it deemed best; the ladies forming these clubs are perfectly free to act as they choose and only receive suggestions from Quebec.

Miss Estelle Desaulniers, teacher in Domestic Economy, gave the results onf the inter-club contests, explaining why the awards were given.

Unveil Tablet to Mark Huge Cheese

Perth, Ont. — As a tribute to the cheese producers from the entire dairy industry, the National Dairy Council of Canada presented a handsome bronze tablet to be attached to the Mammoth Cheese which now stands in the C.P.R. station at Perth. The tablet, about three feet by two, and fittingly inscribed, was unveiled by Warden J. C. Mather at a banquet held last week.

Lea Marshall, of Jarvis, Ont., vice-president of the Dairy Council, made the presentation. It was accepted by M. M. Knowles, president of Lanark County Cheese Producers, the organization which two years ago, erected the huge monument to the 22,000-pound cheese made at Perth station in 1893 and exhibited at Chicago and all over England, to lay the foundation for Canada's later thriving export cheese trade. Till now the huge block of concrete has been unidentified.

Historic Furrows

(New York Herald Tribune)

A primary and sensible step toward Europe's bread supply is to be taken this Autumn with America's plows and tractors at work in many of the countries where American tanks rolled not long ago in deadly harvest.

It is interesting to consider that by this aid fields may be furowed in parts of Italy which a wartime Virgil knew in 41 B.C., when his father was driven from the family farm as a result of confiscation of lands for the successful soldiers of Octavius and Anthony.

But one can know that such furrows will turn faster than in the days of the placid, plowing oxen of the Eclogues — even if unmotorized kernels of wheat can sprout for today's hungry populations only in the same slow, green way as at the time of the Battle of Philippi.

Farmers Help in Making Penicillin

Among the many activities of the Agricultural Supplies Board during the 12 months ended Mar. 31, 1945, was the continued support given to the marketing of whey for the manufacture of the new drug, penicillin.

The latest report of the Board covering the period, April 1, 1944 to March 31, 1945, states the demand for whey for the production of milk sugar to be used in the preparation of penicillin increased. Manufacturers of the drug have found that by increasing the quantity of milk sugar, a greater yield of penicillin is obtained. In addition, the added sugar has a stimulating effect on the patient and it also increases the keeping quality of the penicillin.

During the 12 month period under review, about 1,500 farmers in Ontario and Quebec provided 65,000,000 pounds of whey for the manufacture of the milk sugar and whey powder. Of this quantity of whey, about 45,000,000 pounds were processed in New York State close to the Canadian border, and 20,000,000 were processed in Canada. About 400 tons of milk sugar were used in the manufacture of penicillin in Canada and 1,500 tons of whey powder were made available for poultry and live-stock feed. Of the whey processed in the United States, practically all of the whey powder was returned to Canada and large quantities of milk sugar were also made available to Canadian manufacturers of penicillin who could not obtain their full requirements from Canadian processors.

It is estimated that Canadian farmers received $100,000 during the calendar year 1944 from the sale of whey. In addition, because of the strict hygienic requirements of the buyers of whey, these factories had to pay exacting care to the washing and sterilizing of milk cans. This resulted in more high score cheese being made at most of the factories with its corresponding higher prices.

One-Man Whirlwind Not A Dull Moment

Businessman Rolled Into One. Impressio-Restaurateur and

London (CP) — Meet Archie Alerton Shenburn, the "one-man whirlwind" who runs seven theatres, owns ice-cream factories, seafront restaurants, dance halls, a ship salvage and ship breaking company, and as a sideline finances several touring shows. He has the reputation of "going out to lunch and coming back the owner of a sanatorium".

In his London office, Shenburn, with the help of his wife, works seven days a week to keep his various businesses going. He hasn't any secretaries to help him because none of them can stand the pace for more than a month.

Shelburn has always lived at high speed. Born in Bow, one of eight children, he won scholarships and was intended to study law. But at the age of ten, during holidays, he put on long trousers and earned 30 shillings a week.

By the time he was 14 he was earning four pounds ($18.40)' a week during holidays. A year later he grew a guard's moustache, more a monocle and went to Belgium to import eggs, earning, on and off £100 ($460) a week. At 17 he had five apartments in different parts of Europe, with 12 telephones in each. He speaks 11 langauges.

37,000 Steady Jobs

When the talk swings to postwar need for a lot of jobs to keep Canadians prosperous, employees of the pulp and paper industry can be justly proud. Their industry gives steady, year-round employment to 37,000 men and women in the mills alone —more jobs than any other peacetime manufacturing industry in Canada except sawmills.

Regular pay envelopes mean security and peace of mind for our workers, better business for each community. That feeling of security is reflected in the low labour turnover and the outstanding record of long service found in the pulp and paper industry.

Service sans Sacrifice

THE NATIONAL Clothing Collection, announced for the period from October 1-20, marks a departure from the old familiar wartime appeals.

Thus far in the grim business of checking the aggressor nations — of driving them from stolen soil, and pressing on to their unconditional surrender — real sacrifice has been the order both abroad and at home.

With the sacrifices made by our fighting men, we all are poignantly familiar. Our sacrifices at home have not been of this supreme and priceless category. Yet sacrifices we have made.

But, in October, we can help mightily toward achieving the full fruits of victory without yielding up a single item used by or useful to us.

We can — we should — do this by giving to the National Clothing Collection our unneeded, outgrown, outmoded, forgotten clothing, shoes and blankets.

How can our no-longer-used but still serviceable apparel accomplish this?

By helping to clothe the millions of destitute men, women and children in the war-devastated lands of Europe, Asia and the Pacific on whom we must count to build and maintain the peace that is to come.

In Europe alone, 30,000,000 are "statistically naked" and three times that number, additionally, are in dire need of serviceable clothes of any mode to cover and comfort their war-emaciated bodies. Many have died, many are sick and dying, for the want of your discarded suit, dress, coat or shoes.

The October campaign of the National Clothing Collection provides you an opportunity to perform a lifesaving, peace-assuring service without the slightest sacrifice.

Canada's Shipping

CANADIAN merchant navy tonnage, five times larger than in 1939, raises the question of the future of Canadian shipping and seamen. The record of these ships and men in the war years has been magnificent and has proved that Canadians are quite capable of running an efficient merchant marine.

Canada now ranks fourth among the ocean carriers, surpassed only by the United States, Britain and Norway. Practically all Canadian ships now on ocean routes were built in the Dominion during the war. Owned by the Park Steamship Company, a Crown company, and operated by various private shipping firms for a management fee, 112 "Park" dry-cargo ships of 10,000 tons, 16 of 4,700 tons and some 25 Park tankers of up to 10,000 tons make up by far the greater part of the merchant navy.

To provide officers and crews during the war, a branch of the department of transport directed men to new merchant vessels, manning pools were established at Halifax, Saint John, Montreal and Vancouver and training centres in Nova Scotia and Ontario taught inexperienced young men the rudiments of seamanship and engine-room duties.

With this set-up the post-war period of the Canadian mercantile marine poses certain problems. If the service is to operate successfully in peacetime it must do so in competition with long-established and sea-going nations. Not only are these nations experienced in shipping business, they are also customers of Canadian exports. Operation costs present another difficulty. The cost of operating a "Park" 10,000-tonner is considerably more than operational costs for its British equivalent. Finding officers still remains a manpower problem.

The position of Canada in the world has changed so radically in the past six years, that the war-won position of her mercantile marine demands wise direction for the future.

Much To Be Accomplished

AFTER FINAL victory a lot of us thought the war was over. We thought that some magic wand would wave and things would suddenly be just the same as before the war — only better.

But now most of us have got our second wind. We can see there is still a lot of money to be spent, and there are still a lot of jobs to be accomplished. Money for our troops that are still in Europe. Money needed to help prop up the fallen world. Money needed to help the men who fought for us in their fight to re-establish themselves in our post-war world.

That's one side of the picture. That's where the money will go that you invest in the 9th Victory Loan, opening next month. . . . The other side of the picture is closer to home. The money you invest is money you save. You'll need these savings for many personal uses, too—for education, for household repairs and replacements — so many important reasons, in fact, that you can say, truthfully, that your bigger-than-ever subscription to the coming Victory Loan will be winning the peace — for yourself.

Jolt in the Kitchen

AMONG THE innovations which crop up each day and threaten to undermine completely our way of living, here is another upheaval on the domestic front. Imagine the fate of that time-honored ritual, the brewing of tea, in the light of the following revelation :

"The London Union of Ceylon Tea Planters" have recently received the first "tea tablets" which should considerably simplify and cheapen the production of tea. They are the result of a process based on long years of experiments carried out by the "Ceylon Tea Research Institute", which reduces the time required in producing tea from 24 hours to 2 hours. By means of this process, known as "P.F.C.", the tea is made into compressed tablets, which saves shipping space.

The tablet-form tea is also about 50 per cent stronger than tea in its present form, and allows for a reduction in price. The London organization is now going to undertake further tests and experiments with the tea tablets.

How to Stop Strikes

WHEN A PLANT employing 20,000 loses 2½ million man-hours by strikes and work stoppages in one year — it has almost ceased to be news, in today's continuous succession of labor disputes. But when a firm which had that experience in 1944 records a loss of only 5,000 man-hours in 1945 — that is News!

Such is the story at the Briggs Manufacturing Company. The United Automobile Workers local union at Briggs was often described as the "stormy petrel" local of the biggest international union in the United States. So startling was the change this year that the international officer of the U.A.W., noting headlines screaming "strike" in a half-dozen of Detroit's major plants — with Briggs still working peacefully — said "Now I've seen everything!" A large Detroit newspaper which kept in type for instant use the headline "Briggs on Strike Again" found no further need for that line.

The change started when the local, at its annual election ejected troublemaking officers, and elected sound leaders in whom the rank and file of the membership had a growing confidence. They were elected on a ticket whose objective was to fight for teamwork in the plant. Gordon MacDonald, vice-president, says this about it :

"We have come a long way since the days when we used to hide our badges as we came out of the plant, but I won't be content until Labor finds its fullest effectiveness in building teamwork, not only in industry, but as a pattern for every area of the nation's life. I found through meeting Moral Re-Armament that I had to change myself, be honest with my wife, and get rid of bitterness in my heart against men in my union as well as men in management.

"Since then I have been trying to solve the problems in the plant and in my home on the basis of not who's right but what's right. This resulted in our being able to settle 67 grievances in 60 days by direct negotiation between the union and the company. They had been before the War Labor Board for 11 months without settlement. This meant also an incalculable saving of tempers, time and money to both union and company, and a new spirit of teamwork leading to increased production."

Changing Seasons

AUTUMN is the incoming guest, summer the departing friend. There is a matchless timing to them, lest one should stale from too long lingering here. And there is philosophical truth in them as the gentle flow of the seasons teaches once again that nothing is constant but change.

GLEANINGS FROM OTTAWA

By FRANK MORRISS

Canada a Meeting Place

● Canada has played an important role in the war, and her status as a nation has been enhanced in the eyes of the world.

I think one of the signs of the excellent standing which Canada enjoys is the holding of so many important meetings in this country. We have only to recall the UNRRA conference, and the Provisional International Civil Aviation Organization meetings as examples.

And now comes the first conference of the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, which is meeting in Quebec City, October 16 . . .FAO to give it its short title.

* * *

F.A.O. for Better Living Standards

● In the words of Prime Minister Mackenzie King, "FAO is conceived primarily as a focus for the collection, the spreading, and the encouragement of advances in food and agriculture in all countries — advances which make possible a far higher shandard of well-being than most of the world's people have ever known."

If we look at all this from a strictly business point of view, we will all realize that a higher standard of well-being throughout the world will result in a higher demand for agricultural products, among other things. This all boils down to the fact that in such a world the Canadian farmer will have a wider market for the things he produces.

FAO will keep in touch with developments everywhere. It will collect and disseminate a wide range of statistics. It will be expected to act as a spokesman for both producers and consumers in International Councils.

The FAO Conferance will meet at least once a year.

Housing in USSR

● I have just been reading an interesting and very informative article about housing in Russia. And one of the things I learned is that the people of that country pay a good deal less of their income for rent that do the people of Canada.

I found, for instance, that in a check of the budget of eighty families living in a Moscow apartment house it was found that the rent charged amounted to no more than two to five per cent of the total income of the tenants.

Just to give you an idea of the housing bill in Canada, as compared with this low figure, the average city dweller in this country is said to pay anything from 20 to 39 per cent of his salary in rent.

In Russia, rent is not charged for profit, but to recover the cost of building and maintaining a house. The rent is calculated according to the type of housing afforded, the salary earned by the lessee and the number of people he has dependent on him.

The majority of the dwelling houses in the Soviet Union belong to the State, to co-operatives and to public organizations. Individuals may also own the houses in which they and their families live.

Vacant living accommodation in buildings belonging to the local Soviets is allotted to citizens by an instruction issued by the housing board of the Soviet. Houses owned by individuals are entirely at the disposal of their owners.

WELCOME SIMPLIFICATION

We have often wondered why the Canadian railways didn't do something about simplifying their timetables Now at last it has been announced by the C.N.R. that when the next issue of their timetable comes out, about the end of September, the public will find it much easier to read.

MILK PASTEURIZATION

There can be no doubt as to the advisability of pasteurization of milk. It is about the only animal product which is consumed in the raw state, and therefore can transmit diseases which a cow may have. To those now working towards a supply of pasteured milk for their community, we commend support.

HUME — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. W. W. Hume, who passed away September 22, 1944. Ever remembered by her son and daughters.

"The one we loved is now laid low,
That fine, true heart is stilled;
The smile that always greeted us
Now lies in death's cold chill.
— Peace, Perfect Peace."

PROVINCAL — In loving memory of a dear father, who passed away September 21, 1944.—Always remembered by his loving wife and family.

"A shadow rests upon our home,
We miss his smiling face,
Where'er we turn, where'er we go
We see his vacant place.
God is good, He gives us strength
To bear our heavy loss,
He is the only one who knows
How bitter is our loss."

STEWART — In loving memory of our darling son, Eden, who died two years ago today, September 22, 1943.—Ever remembered by Mummy and Daddy.

"A sweet little flower, nipped in the bud,
No grief or sorrow knew,
Just came to earth to win our love,
And then to heaven withdrew.
No stain was on his little heart,
Sin had not entered there,
And innocence slept sweetly on.
That pale white brow so fair.
He was too pure for this cold earth,
Too beautiful to stay
And so God's holy angel bore
Our darling one away."

Two-Ring Wedding Pretty Ceremony at Presbyt'n Church

Moncrieff - MacKenzie

In the Margaret Rodger Memorial Church, Lachute, last Saturday afternoon at three o'clock, the marriage took place of Edith Alma, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. MacKenzie, of Staynerville, to Mr. Stewart Ward Moncrieff, youngest son of the late John Moncrieff and of Mrs. Moncrieff, of Brownsburg, Que. The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. Orsborn, and Mrs. W. M. Cottingham played the wedding music. During the signing of the register Miss Helen McFaul sang "Though The Years."

The bride wore a floor-length gown of white frost printed organza over satin, having a fitted bodice with sweetheart neckline and long tapering sleeves ending in points over her hands. Her long veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a headdress of bridal rose and she carried a bouquet of Sweetheart roses. She wore a set of pearls — necklace, bracelet, earrings and ring — the gift of the groom.

The maid-of-honor, Miss Jean MacKenzie, sister of the bride, wore a floor-length gown of ice-blue corded taffeta with pink and blue headdress and blue veil, and wore pink shoes. Miss Jean Kennedy, of Mohtreal and Brownsburg, as bridesmaid, was in a pink gown with blue and pink headdress and pink veil, and wore blue shoes. Both attendants carried pink and blue cornflowers.

Mr. Roland Moncrieff, of Brownsburg, acted as best man for his brother, and the ushers were Mr. Ernest Kettyle, of Montreal, and Mr. George MacKenzie, of Lachute.

Mrs. MacKenzie, the bride's mother, wore a plum colored crepe dress with black velvet hat and a corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Moncrieff, mother of the bridegroom, was in a black crepe dress and black hat and wore a corsage of white carnations.

Following a reception, which was held at the home of the bride's parents, the couple left for their wedding trip to Toronto and Niagara Falls. For travelling the bride wore a fuchsia wool suit with black topper coat, a black satin hat and black accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

The bridegroom has recently returned from overseas, where he served three and a half years with the Canadian Army.

Guests from a distance were—Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kettyle and daughter, Julia, of Montreal, Chief Petty Officer J. A. S. Stewart, R.C.N.V.R., at Halifax; and Leading Stoker A. Lupien, who has been serving with the R.C.N. at Alaska.

Allan E. Mount of Lakefield officiated.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and was attended by her sister, Mrs. Naylor Mount, as matron-of-honor, while Mr. Naylor Mount was best man for the groom.

The bride wore her travelling costume, in a soft blue shade with harmonizing accessories, with a corsage of Sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Mount wore a navy blue suit with a corsage of pink roses, while Mrs. Graham, mother of the groom, wore a black and white gown with crimson roses.

A luncheon was held at St. Andrews East, after which the couple left by motor for the Thousand Islands.

The opening meeting of the Presbyterian Y.P.S. was held last evening in the church hall, with a small attendance.

President Ruth Orsborn occupied the chair, and was assisted in the devotional exercises by Bob Reynolds and Joseph Proctor. The program for the evening was under direction of the president, being a reading of the chapter "Voluntary Sacrifice", from the book "Narrow Is the Way", and which provides much food for thought in Christian living.

A business meeting followed, in which a letter from the Presbyterian Y.P. Union was read, outlining plans for the fall rally to be held in the First Presbyterian Church, Montreal, on September 29-30. It is hoped that some members will be able to represent the local society at this rally.

All past members and anyone interested in participating in the Y.P.S. activities, are asked to join in next meeting, Wednesday, September 26, at 8.30 o'clock — the only requisite being that members, or prospective members be "young" in spirit although not necessarily in years.

Y.P.U. at Brownsburg

Brownsburg — The Young People's Union made a good beginning for their autumn activities, last Monday evening, in their first meeting of the season. Keen interested was manifested in the proposed meetings drawn up by the executive and presented for consideration. Election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: Hon. president, the Rev. S. J. Pike; president, Thos. Carpenter, re-elected; vice-pres., Miss Joan Allen; secretary, Miss Verda Thompson; treasurer, Keith Graham; pianist, Miss E. Woods, re-elected. The appointing of committees was left over until next meeting.

Preparation was made for the Y.P.U. service next Sunday morning, when the Rev. R. G. Burgoyne, of Montreal, will be guest speaker. Mr. A. Hamilton, also of Montreal, will bring a message in song. The Sunday School will have a share in this service with their Rally Day offering.

November 30 was set by the Y.P.U. for a concert, while social gatherings were not overlooked. The speakers for future meetings, as tentatively arranged, include Messrs. L. Armstrong, of the County Health Unit, R. Graham, C. J. Wheeler, D. Atkins, Charles Stevens, and L. Thompson of Lachute High School.

JUJU MAGIC REAL TO THESE AUSSIES

Cavalry Commandos in New Guinea Tell Queer Stories of Evil Bone

Canberra (CP) — There is a little bunch of Australian cavalry commando boys in New Guinea with definite ideas about native jujuism.

It began down in the Torricellis when they had been working for a fortnight under harassing conditions, getting their messages through a terrific barrage of atmospher ics and living very hard.

One evil day a wireless operator brought home a curious bone made from a human shin and shaped like a dagger with a knobby handle on top. Perhaps there's nothing in it. But the boys, as level-headed a bunch of fighters as you would find, swear that it must have been a juju. It is not just a story, they tell you.

Someone threw it on a bunk and it lay there for the remainder of the day. When the occupant went to sleep that night the bone was near his head.

He had the most appalling nightmares and woke up half a dozen times terrified. It seemed that someone was strangling him. He could feel the fingers on his throat.

More Strange Dreams

Next night, without having thought of the bone or its possible significance, he went off to sleep again. This time he was seized with thoughts of suicide. Next night the performance was repeated, with the result that a sober and God-fearing signalman carefully took the magazine from his rifle and gave it to somebody else to look after.

The sensation, he said, was indescribable. He could not trust himself with the loaded weapon.

The bone was handed to someone else who promptly suffered identical ordeals. It became no joke.

Half in jest they pointed it towards the improvised orderly, room, where a corporal was working.

"Next day," said one of them, "they carted him off toward the beach (the northern coast) with dengue."

After this they threw away the bone and all untoward manifestations ceased.

Not long afterward they came on a cache of similar things. But this time they were wise. When someone wanted to take one of the bones as a souvenir, the others yelled, "No blankety fear!"

TRASHY HYMNS SCORED

London, Ont. (CP) — Hymns of a "most trashy nature" are used at non-liturgical services "with the pretext of reaching poor sinners," Dr. L. L. Balogh of Cleveland University told a Canadian College of Organists convention. The church was becoming a "dumping ground for secular artistic effects."

RARE CATCH

Louisburg, N.S. (CP) — An 82-pound white marlin, first specimen of this tropical game fish taken in such northern waters, was landed off the Cape Breton coast. Records show last specimen of the fish was caught off the Maine coast in 1877.

International Phone Exchange for Britain

London (CP) — Men and women who can speak French fluently are wanted by the British post office to operate the internationel telephone exchange soon to be reinstated.

To obtain the right people, the post office is prepared to break its rule that employees must be British born. Those who qualify for operators' posts should be able to converse fluently with people from any part of France. A six weeks' course learning switchboard operation will be given successful applicants.

Errant Pooches Like Toronto Streetcars

Some Dogs Regular Patrons of Red Trolleys at City's Expense

Toronto (CP) — The lure of Toronto's red trolley cars holds a strange fascination for the city's dog population, according to Toronto Transportation Commission records.

The pooch with a wanderlust can satisfy his urge to travel free of charge if he reads the T.T.C. statute books, for a clause in the streetcar laws stipulates wandering dogs must be returned to their point of embarkation — gratis. Travelling in the shadow of the law is one Toronto collie who makes regular safaris from St. Claire Avenue in the north end of the city to downtown King Street. After a trip about the financial section, the dog boards a northbound car for home. He never gets lost.

Mike is a shaggy Airedale belonging to Mrs. William Bohme of this city. Mike fell into the habit of mooching free rides when his master was alive. In those days the dog crowded into the streetcar with Mr. Bohme and followed him to work. When objections were raised, canny Mike took to boarding the car one stop before his master and by the time Mr. Bohme paid his fare, Mike was well settled for the trip downtown.

"The navy mascot at H.M.C.S. York, an English bulldog, had the itch for trams," recalls Dr. John Leeson at the Humane Society. "He took the riding bee about once a month. We'd pick him up all over the city."

We can all live on less when we have more to live for.

Another policy-holder reports . . .

"I AM a policyholder in The Mutual Life of Canada, an average man with the average man's problems. I know what people mean when they talk of stretching the dollars to meet all the needs. That is the reason why I decided to insure in the first place. I knew that it was unfair for me to go on making plans for the future with my family and doing nothing to guarantee their fulfilment if I should not be here. It was then that I realized that the only practical solution was life insurance.

"I DISCUSSED my needs with a Mutual Life representative and as a result I purchased Ordinary Life insurance.

"THE AMOUNT I pay remains the same each year. I share in the Company's earnings and my protection remains in force as long as I live. But I also have the option of using the cash value of the policy to provide a retirement income at any time I choose. What I shall do will depend upon my circumstances, but it gives me a great sense of security to know that I own this insurance with its constantly increasing values."

Let a Mutual Life representative help you select a policy adapted to your particular circumstances!

Quebec Pulpwood Harvest National Film Board Photograph

Do you know Quebec? For example, do you know that Quebec leads all Canada in the production of pulp and paper . . . is the centre of the world's newsprint industry, the source of more rayon pulp than any other province . . . leads in the manufacture of kraft paper . . . turns out about half of all the other types of paper made in Canada.

Actually, 46% of our nation's 105 pulp and paper mills are located in Quebec. These, capitalized at nearly 350 millions, employ some 40,000 men and women, have a gross output of about $170,000,000 (1942 figures). And, so far, the surface has scarcely been scratched. Wartime needs have brought about countless new uses for wood cellulose products. Endless postwar opportunities in plastics, plywoods, streamlined housings and furnishings, etc., assure tremendous expansion for the industry.

Pulpwood forests, like all natural resources in the province, are being carefully husbanded,—for thriftiness and the long view are as characteristic of Quebec folk as their industry and inventive genius. Our nation is grateful alike for these vast assets and the human traits that so capably develop them. The combination has helped make it possible to build her war effort into one of the wonders of the modern world; teamed with those of the other provinces, it assures future happiness, prosperity and greater unity for all Canadians, from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

QUEBEC PRODUCES FOR WAR

To Quebec's already glorious history has been added her wonderful contribution to Canada's war effort. Pulp, paper, native ores and manufactured metals, clothing, chemicals, textiles, ships, foods, petroleum, electrical supplies, to mention only a few products of her mines, mills and factories: $2,703,387,600.00 subscribed by her people in eight Victory Loans: thousands of men in the navy, army and air force who have distinguished themselves on global battlefronts. Thus have her sons and daughters recorded Quebec's part on Canada's wartime honor roll.

The TELEPHONE HAS SERVED THE FARMER WELL

For more than half a century, the telephone has served the farmer well . . . in business . . . in emergencies . . . in more pleasant living.

There was the farmer, for example, who wrote that his telephone enabled him to get better prices for his crops.

"It gets me to market in a few seconds," he said, "and at the best time."

Today, the number of rural telephones is at an all-time high. When materials and man-power are again available, it will be much higher. Telephone service for farms will be even better than ever before.

WOMEN'S INTERESTS

Hints for Homebodies

By Jessie Allen Brown

MAGNIFICENT ENGLISH WOMEN

No wonder the women in England are getting fed up with conditions. When war ends they naturally hope for easier conditions. Instead, they are getting less meat, less bacon, and less fat. They still have to queue up from two to four hours a day to buy their supplies and very often after waiting hours find that the supply is gone and they cannot buy the desired food. The strain of having to line up for hours a day all these years must have been terrific. When we are inclined to grumble let us not feel sorry for ourselves, but let us be thankful that we have had things so easy. The British women must be very tired physically and mentally, and it is to be hoped things are soon easier to cope with, for they have been magnificent.

ACCENTUATE THE POSITIVE

The more I see of small children, the more I realize that saying 'don't' and 'no' is of little use. A constructive, definite command is much more effective. A child, who is at the stage of wanting everything he sees, will usually obey a definite order. If he opens a cupboard door to touch dishes, saying, 'don't touch', will probably not mean a thing. However, if you say, 'shut the door', the chances are the door will be shut. 'Put it down' gets far better results than 'don't touch'. So often you hear mothers tell a child 'you shouldn't do that' and the child doesn't pay the slightest attention, but if instead she suggested something to do that the child can do, the trouble would be averted. If you have dealings with a child, check up on yourself on how many times you use the negative. The popular song which tells us to 'accentuate the positive', is sound psychology.

DISH MOP TURNS DUSTER

A visiting friend saw me down on my knees dusting the rungs of the chairs and the lower parts of the tables. Next time she went to town she bought me a dish mop to use for dusting the low spots. It does a good job and saves a lot of creaks in the knees.

OMELETS

Eggs are one of the natual substitutes for meat, and cooks will turn to them frequently these days. An omelet fits in with potatoes and other vetables very much as meat does. A Puffy Omelet is attractive looking, and has more bulk than eggs served in any other manner. Omelets are not difficult to make and if you do not make them successfully now is a good time to learn. To make a Puffy Omelet separate the whites, using as many eggs as are required. Beat the whites until stiff but not dry. Beat the yolks well and add one tablespoon of milk for each egg used. Season with salt and pepper using a scant quarter-teaspoon salt for each egg. Fold the stiffly beaten egg whites in to the yolks. Melt sufficient butter in a frying pan to butter the bottom and the sides well. Pour the egg mixture in to the pan and cook over a slow fire. As the mixture cooks at the edge lift it gently to allow the uncooked portion to run under. When the omelet is browned on the bottom, place the omelet in a slow oven until it dries out. Fold over and turn out on a heated platter.

PICKLED BEETS

Boil beets until tender. If the beats are small leave whole, but if too large for this, cut in slices. Put the beets in sterilized jars and pour the following syrup over.

2 Cups water, 1 quart cider vinegar, 4 cups white sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon each cinnamon, cloves, allspice.

Boil this syrup for 5 minutes.

GARDEN WALK PICKLES

1½ Quarts gherkins, 1 pint pickling onions, 1 quart small green tomatoes, (quartered), 4 chopped peppers.

Cover with a brine made from 1 cup salt to 1 gallon water and let stand over night. Drain, then cover with boiling water, and drain. Cook until half-cooked.

1 Quart green beans, 1 quart tiny carrots, 1 cauliflower, separated in to flowerettes.

Drain and add to other vegetables.

Mix 2 cups sugar, 8 cups vinigar, 4 tablespoons mustard seed, 2 tablespoons celery seed, 1 package mixed pickling spice.

Bring this to a boil, add vegetables, and cook for ten minutes. Bottle in sterilized jars and seal. Makes 6 quarts.

Fixing the blame is not as important as fixing the fault.

Keynote Conservation

Conservation is the keynote of a series of demonstrations and lectures now being given to the various branches of the Quebec Women's Institutes by their Provincial Demonstrator.

Because of the poor fruit crop this year, more vegetables are being canned than ever before, and also more women are using canning machines. New foods are being canned too, such as pork and beans, cream soups and deer meat.

A MAJOR PROBLEM

THE DAILY PROBLEM OF THIS younster it to get his head, arms and legs through the right holes in his only garment. It's a common problem for millions of men, women and children in the liberated countries of Europe. You can help them by contributing serviceable used clothing, to the National Clothing Collection drive sponsored by the Canadian United Allied Relief Fund and scheduled for October 1 - 20. Under the national chairmanship of W. M. Birks of Montreal, a committe is being set up in every Canadian centre and distribution in Europe will be under the direction of UNRRA experts.

WAX EMULSION AIDS HOUSEWIVES

Non-Toxic, Non-Inflammable Fluid Will Waterproof Clothes and Fabrics

New York (CP)—Something new has been added to mom's list of post-war laundry aids.

This time it's a wax emulsion that will waterproof junior's raincoat, dad's sport jacket, mom's dress and household fabrics.

A small amount of the fluid is added to the final rinse water of the family wash to waterproof the fabric.

It can be used on summer clothing because the wax does not fill in spaces so that clothes may still retain their porous qualities.

Fabrics that have been waterproofed with the wax are not likely to become stiff and are more likely to become softer to the touch.

A non-toxic, non-inflammable fluid, it is recommended for fabrics that must be stored away in closets or cellar trunks where they might otherwise be harmed by dampness and mildew.

The fabric emulsion can be used as 50 parts of water in the rinse to provide efficient water repellent. If the housewife desires to starch her fabrics she may do so in conjunction with the emulsion. Though it is best to dip the article into the fluid while still wet from the water, the dry fabric may be run through if necessary. Either process requires only a few seconds.

Tests conducted by the manufacturers have shown that the wax-treated fabric not only becomes water resistant but at the same time does not spot easily and is apt to retain the press longer and be less likely to wrinkle than untreated garments.

Such articles as dresses, slacks, play suits, cloth hats, shorts and even fabric shoes can be made water and mildew repellent.

May Become India's First Woman Farmer

London, (CP)—Junior Commander Omir Sen, of the Indian Auxiliary Territorial Service, was invited to Windsor to see harvesting at the Royal family's own farm because she told the Queen, "I want to cause a mild revolution by becoming India's first woman farmer".

"The Queen asked if I were fond of animals," Jr. Cmdr. Sen said, "and when I said I had a horse and three dogs which I adore, she said: 'I think you will be very happy on the farm.'"

Tragic Death Ends Decades of Devotion

Deal, Eng. (CP) — For nearly 20 years Dr. William S. Mayne cared for his wife who was crippled with arthritis. He gave up his medical practice to become her companion, nurse and housekeeper.

Deal knew him as a man who walked with bowed head, who wheeled his wife in a wheel-chair when she was well enough to go out.

The end of their story became known when a friend could not get an answer at their home. Mrs. Mayne was found dead in her bed and her husband was in the bath, with an artery in one of his legs severed.

To Continue British Youth Organizations

London, (CP) — Britain's wartime youth organizations will carry on with government backing and a wide appeal to the boys and girls of 14 to 18 to join them is to be made.

The Sea Cadets in future will be controlled by the Navy League and the Girls' Training Corps is to link with the Women's Junior Air Corps and the Girls' Nautical Corps. The Army Cadet Force will be associated with the Territorial Association and training will follow methods adopted during the war. The Air Training Corps summer camps will be near airfields where cadets will take flying instruction.

Urge Better Corset For British Women

London (CP) — Corset makers, believing that in the next few months there will be more rubber, are urging the board of trade to help women to get better corsets.

They suggest manufacturers be allowed to exceed the present maximum price for utility garments as the present maximum of 17s 11d is said to be too low to allow them to make a durable quality product. When rubber becomes available the cost will rise and price adjustments should be allowed.

They also ask the assurance that a fair share of incoming rubber is allocated for corsets, one of the pre-war products British women now mourn.

HALT JAIL DISORDER

Edmonton, (CP)—Several women inmates of nearby Fort Saskatchewan jail started a "wild riot" and broke windows in the building, it was reported. Cause of the disturbance was not revealed. It was brought under control when ringleaders were confined in separate cells.

VITAMINS GO TO THE DOGS

Successful Nutrition Tests Made at U.S. University

Durham, N.C. (CP) — Dogs flat on the floors of their kennels with paralysis have been up and running around 24 hours later as a result of taking vitamins in a nutrition experiment at the Duke University School of Medicine.

Furthermore the animals took two to eight months to get the paralysis that was cured in a single day. The experiment indicates the desirabliity of relying as much as possible on vitamins in food rather than those in bottles.

The paralysis cases were reported to the American Chemical Society by Dr. Susan Gower Smith, associate in medicine at Duke. The paralysis was due to a faulty diet, in which the dogs received nutrition as nearly perfect as present knowledge permits, with the exception of part of the B vitamins.

Missing were biotin, folic acid and xanthopterin. Very little is known about the effects of these three, except that biotin is probably the most potent vitamin yet identified, and shows its lack in skin troubles.

The experiments were tried on puppies. Adult dogs occasionally show similar paralysis without any known nutrition deficiency to account for the attacks. The paralysis is fatal if not treated.

Brewers yeast extract cured the dogs in a day. But the vitamin biotin, injected under the skin, was much faster. The animals could lift their heads in six hours and in 12 were usually able to stand and walk.

After these rapid recoveries the dogs remained in apparently good health when given all the B vitamins, and this means that the paralysis is due to faulty nutrition. The nature of the paralysis is not clear. It is not due to destruction of nerves, for if it had been, such rapid recovery would not have possible.

Dr. Smith said that although the results indicate that the paralysis was due to lack of biotin, it is possible that other nutritional factors may also be involved.

Ounce of Prevention

All small boys' sweaters seem to go at the elbows. To postpone the day, darn the inside of the elbow with matching wool when the sweater is brand new.

Fiddlestick for Violin Soloist

New York (CP) — Chances are you won't be hearing it on the Hour of Charm radio program, but Evelyn, Phil Spitalny's violin soloist, has a new fiddle.

It is made from a pot-bellied mahogany walking stick — a novelty popular with German and Hungarian musician carpenters 150 years ago. Collectors say the instruments are rare today.

The cane becomes a violin when a centre panel is removed, revealing the strings. The handle unscrews to open a hollow shaft where a bow is kept. When it is replaced the curved handle fits under the chin.

Evelyn says the violin can play about everything a score would call for, from pizzicato to harmonies. The fiddle was sent to her by Fred Wright of Ajo, Arizona, a weathern-beaten Irish prospector 77 years old. Wright says his brother, now dead, brought it to this country from Africa in 1901.

We can't put the world right overnight. But we can put ourselves right, and that's the best start.

Friend to Animals

Boy Scouts of the 5th Paignton Troop, England, undertook the observance of their sixth Scout law—A Scout is a Friend to Animals — in a novel manner. They searched the coast for sea birds whose plumage had become coated with waste oil from shipping, making it impossible for them to swim or dive for fish. The birds were taken to the boys' homes, scrubbed clean of oil, forcibly fed fish and cod liver oil and then returned to their natural elements.

Annual Pro-Amateur Invitation at Golf Club Attracts Record Entries

R. Huot, Member of A Noted Golfing Family, Wins Professional Laurels

Leading Amateurs from District Clubs

A capacity crowd turned out last week-end to follow the 5th annual invitation tournament at Lachute Golf Club. The weather was ideal for the occasion.

Local players turned out in strength on Saturday, 42 members taking part. Sunday saw a record field of 135 players from Montreal and Ottawa district entered for the match, composed of 110 amateurs and 25 professionals. Fine weather combined with the high standard of golf that was played made the tournament an enjoyable outing for spectators as well as participants.

Jules Huot, Laval-sur-le-Lac, and Stan Horne, Islemere, split second and third with pars 72's for their round.

4th Prize went to Diamond Gauthier, Municipal Golf Club, Montreal, with a score of 73.

5th Prize was taken by Jimmy Patton, popular professional from the Seigniory Club with a score of 75. Seven pros tied with 76's for the next three prizes; therefore, the prize money was combined and split equally between them.

Amateur prizes were taken by Tommy Riddell, Beaconsfield, with a 72 gross, and Paul Leduc with a net 66, both in class "A".

A. O. Anderson, 1st low net in class "C". S. Blais, 2nd.

J. C. Anderson, best second nine in class "A".

R. B. Elliott, best 1st nine in class "B". 2nd, H. Bradford.

A. O. Porrit, best 1st nine in class "C". 2nd, L. Rozon.

R. Ogilvie, Sealed Hole.

Prizes were distributed at the clubhouse following the tournament amidst expressions of thanks from the players for the quality of the prizes and the conducting of the tournament. Prizes were announced by the Club president, Gilbert Ayers, and presentations were made by Emile Collette, president of P.G.A., and Arthur McPherson, professional at Marlborough Golf Club.

The day was brought to a close with a short speech by Mr. Collette in which he thanked the Club directors and congratulated the tournament organizers on the successful manner in which they had handled the event.

Brownsburg Scouts Review Summer of Profitable Activity

Brownsburg—Looking back over the summer's activities, boys of the Brownsburg Boy Scout Troop have gained much during the sunny weather of the past weeks.

The outdoor season started with a weiner roast and farewell presentation to Assistant Scoutmaster Jerry Dunbar, upon his departure to Montreal.

With the proceeds of Scout concerts the committee purchased two large tents, a kitchen shelter and a scoutmaster's tent; also cooking utensils and storage boxes. (Appreciation is expressed to Lachute Lumber Company Ltd., who assisted with the boxes.)

Two week-end camps were held on Arthur Campbell's property, Dalesville, as well as a week-end camp on Don MacRae's property at Lake Louisa. Thanks are due to Jim Hazel, Jr., Tom Hall and Arthur Campbell for free transportation in their trucks.

The boys are fortunate in obtaining the services, energy and enthusiasm of Jimmy Murdoch, a former Scout who is much interested in all forms of sport and boys' work. . . . With Jim's assistance, the boys are well organized for camping and look forward to next summer, when it is hoped each camper will work-in a full night's sleep. As it was this summer, they were better at eating than sleeping (one camp swim was over at 6.30 a.m.) Some claimed they never tasted porridge or stew quite so good. To the mothers it might be stated, the chief ingredient is fresh air and sunshine.

In addition to the group camps, Stuart Vary, Ron Elliott, Ron Cumbers, Ken Seary, Billy Cribb and Gerald Fletcher attended the large Scout summer camp at Tamaracouta, near Mille Isles.

In this connection Ed Cribb and Mel Fletcher kindly provided transportation to and from the camp.

Assistant Scoutmaster Mac Walker, of Lachute, and Scoutmaster Wes Freeland visited the camp and could do nothing but recommend that all local Scouts should make an effort to attend this camp. The rates are low and the facilities and leadership are excellent. The Scout organization is fortunate in having a man like Mr. Dendy as "Factor" at the camp.

The only other activity of the troop during the summer was the V-J Day parade, in which they participated along with some members of the Canadian Legion and the Reserve Army.

Scouts who deserve special mention are Calvin McAndrew and Jim Tomalty, who walk nearly five miles to each meeting. Jim won a fine flashlight for the best all-round scout at the last camp. (He

Rotary Club's Arduous Planning Repaid in Big Success at Carnival

Brownsburg—On Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week the Rotary Club held their carnival in the basement of the fine new Catholic School, and in spite of disagreeable weather, supporters turned out to make the event worthwhile for the worthy cause for which it was held.

The club was fortunate in obtaining the services of T. Auburn, magician of Blackstone's Show in Montreal. His performances on Thursday and Friday were enjoyed by young and old alike. Other entertainers from Montreal were Miss Marie Copain, singer, and Jack Kerr, accordionist.

Saturday afternoon a moving picture comedy was shown for the children, and popular Albini Carrière did some splendid step dancing. Cedric Wheeler performed a humorous act and then, accompanied by his wife, sang for the pleasure of the group present.

Through the kindness of friends both in and outside the club, "hard to get" merchandise was offered to the carnival patrons.

Silk stockings, various colored knitting wools, sweet chocolate, Crisco shortening, and corn, were all available at the merchandise booths, while valuable door prizes were distributed to holders of lucky number programs.

On Thursday night, Geo. Hardie, Brownsburg, won an Ayers wool overthrow. Rotarian Norm Somers drew two fancy floor mats but turned them back for a non-Rotarian, and Mrs. Honorie Lepine was the lucky winner. Miss M. Kilgour won five gallons of high grade motor oil. . . The same night Ralph FitzGerald, of Lachute, won a beautiful Ayers blanket.

Friday night, the first lucky number picked was that of Mrs. Sam Ross, wife of the club president. She too, turned back the Ayers blanket, to be won by a non-Rotarian visitor, Miss Marcia Greenspon of Hawkesbury. A flannelette blanket was won by Miss Kay Giles, Lachute; next a comforter, by Philip Marcoux. At this time Henri Leroux, merchant, of Brownsburg, offered a basket of fruit; this was won by Mrs. Alice Brownrigg.

Jim must have been a lucky name. Jim Anderson won an Ayers blanket Friday night and Jim Houlden did the same thing the following night. Mrs. Leo. Vincent, of Lachute, won a similar prize on Saturday night.

The door prizes Saturday all went to Brownsburg young ladies — Miss Rachel Moseley, one Ayers blanket; Miss Rita Guilbert, a comforter; and Miss Denise Legault, a flannelette blanket.

Among patrons of the carnival the following were noted — Mr. and Mrs. Stan Smart, works manager of the C-I-L "Dominion" Ammunition Division; Mr. and Mrs. John Chalmers, works manager of Canadian Safety Fuse; Dis. Governor and Mrs. Silverston of Rotary International; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Greenspon and daughter Marcia, Hawkesbury. (Mr. Greenspon is a past president of the Hawkesbury Rotary Club and much interested in crippled children's welfare work.) . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Nat Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. Albini Lamarche, Mr. and Mrs. Don Titman, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Armstrong and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hartley, from Lachute.

It is difficult for the organizers to thank everyone who helped, specifically; but the unselfish personal service or financial aid given by so many, is certainly encouraging in a world which sometimes seems so full of selfishness. Proceeds go to crippled children and community welfare work.

Norm Somers, carnival chairman, and Sam Ross, president of the club, are well satisfied with the teamwork and effort shown by the Rotarians. They, with the Club, look forward to a bigger and better carnival next year.

TO SPEAK HERE AT FARM FORUM RALLY

RALPH STAPLES, National Secretary of Farm Radio Forum, will speak at a meeting of Farm Forums in this district to be held in the Auditorium at Lachute on on Thursday, October 11, at 8.30 in the evening. Mr. Staples, whose office is in Toronto, has also had experience as a director of the United Farmers Co-operative Co. of Ontario, and as field secretary of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture.

JOSEPH GALWAY, newly appointed assistant secretary of the Quebec Council of Farm Forums, who will also address the rally here. The meeting will be under the chairmanship of Stuart Armstrong, Lachute.

Standard Time Saturday Night

Readers are reminded to set their clocks back after midnight on Saturday, when Canada reverts to Standard Time, after five years of Advanced Time followed continuously during the war.

Folks will gain an extra hour of sleep through this change. Church services are announced in accordance with this general adoption of Standard Time — and worshippers neglecting to make the change will find themselves at church an hour too soon on Sunday morning.

Transfer of Two Farm Properties

Two desirable farm properties near Lachute have changed hands within the past week or two. One is the farm of William Jackson, just east of town, which has been purchased by a Grandmere resident, and the other is the James Paul farm, on No. 8 Highway west of Lachute. This property, which was purchased a few months ago by Thos. Fournier, of St. Andrews East, has now been bought by Kenneth Bradford, son of Rupert Bradford, North River. Kenneth recently received his discharge from the Navy. Both properties are well known to the general public of this community.

Mayor's Appeal on Behalf of National Clothing Collection

Citizens of Lachute :

On October 1, the Canadian United Allied Relief Fund will launch a National Clothing Collection for donation of good, spare clothing. The drive will continue until October 20, and is being sponsored on behalf of the UNRRA. . . . . The objective is 10,000,000 pounds. UNRRA will ship and arrange for the distribution of the clothing abroad.

Clothing is a primary need in war-torn areas today. This campaign is on behalf of 125,000,000 war sufferers. The details of their sufferings are heart-rending.

This is a national campaign, extending all over Canada. Lachute, always among the foremost in undertakings of this kind, should again do its duty. A committee is being formed in our town, comprising all the various organizations, to promote a successful drive on behalf of this campaign. The details will be announced in the near future.

As mayor of the town of Lachute, I take the initiative in asking you, citizens, to get ready. Search your attics, your garrets or cellars, for any discarded clothes. Do not forget, this campaign is to supply clothes to the liberated countries of Europe so that the populations will not freeze next winter. Styles and fashions are secondary. Search everywhere. Do your bit to protect our allied sister nations from destruction under the bitter cold of the coming season. Clothing, for them, is an absolute necessity which they now lack.

I appeal specially to the women. Upon their shoulders rests the success of this campaign. Start NOW, to make your inventory.

Your local committee is preparing a plan to facilitate the collection of your spare clothing. The plan will be published shortly. . . . Let us every one, do our bit, and we will have done a great deal in helping our European brothers. In our abundance, let us not forget the needy !

Yours truly,

Léopold Carrière
Mayor of the Town of Lachute.

Un appel à votre charité !

Citoyens de Lachute :

Le 1er octobre prochain s'ouvrira dans tout le Canada, la campagne pour la Collecte Nationale de Vêtements consistant dans des vêtements mis au rancart. Cette campagne se continuera jusqu'au 20 octobre et est placée sous l'égide de la Fédération Canadienne des fonds de secours aux nations unies dans l'intérêt de l'UNRRA. L'objectif est de 10,000,000 de livres de vêtements. UNRRA s'occupera du transport et de la distribution des vêtements parmi les nations alliées Européennes.

La question des vêtements est un besoin essentiel et primordial parmi les pays dévastés et ravagés par la guerre. Au-delà de 125,000,000 de sinistrés réclament votre aide.

Un comité local se forme dans Lachute. Ce comité comprendra les organizations religieuses et civiles de toutes les croyances et nationalités. La coopération de tous est nécessaire. Les plans de ce comité et ses modalités de travail vous seront publiées sous peu.

En ma qualité de maire de Lachute, je prends l'initiative, citoyens de Lachute, de vous demander de vous préparer. Fouillez vos greniers, vos caves. Videz vos malles remplies de vêtements que vous ne portez plus.

N'oubliez pas ! Cette campagne a pour but de fournir des vêtements aux nations libérées de l'Europe pour les empêcher de périr de froid au cours de l'hiver qui approche. La coupe et la façon importent peu. Fouillez toutes vos armoires et placarts. Faites votre part pour protéger les populations des pays alliés de l'Europe contre la froide bise de l'hiver. La question des vêtements est pour eux, une question de survivance.

Je m'adresse spécialement, aux femmes. Sur elles, repose tout le succès de cette campagne. Je sais que votre sens chrétien et charitable vous guidera. Commencez maintenant à faire l'inventaire du linge dont vous pourrez disposer.

Votre comité local vous fera connaître sous peu les arrangements faits pour aider à la collecte de ces vêtements.

Que chacun fasse sa part et nous réaliserons beaucoup. Que notre abondance ne nous fasse pas oublier les indigents des pays alliés européens.

Votre dévoué serviteur,

Léopold Carrière
Maire de Lachute.

Argenteuil Organization Complete for 9th Loan Campaign, Opening Oct. 22nd.

Argenteuil's Victory Loan Headquarters has reopened in Victoria Hall, Lachute, and organization work is now under way in preparation for Canada's Ninth Victory Loan, which will begin on October 22.

William H. Scott and Clement Tremblay, who have so successfully guided Argenteuil County through the eight preceding Loans, have again been appointed Joint-Chairmen.

William H. Price remains as County Organizer and J. G. Pattee as Payroll Savings Organizer. Mrs. Jean McIndoe is the new Unit Secretary, replacing Mrs. S. H. Peck, who was unable to leave her duties in Montreal. James W. Gall, well-known citizen of this town, retains his post as Sales Supervisor, while Miss Yolande Tremblay and Mrs. Agnes Lapp round out a competent staff.

In the words of the Hon. J. L. Ilsley, Minister of Finance: "The Ninth Victory Loan will be Canada's Greatest Victory Loan, because it aims to cover Canada's borrowing needs for the next twelve months. Up to now, each new Victory Loan aimed to cover needs for only six months. So the Ninth Loan is really two Loans in one.

"One large loan now instead of two smaller loans means a real saving of time, effort and expense. It is possible to aim for a full year's needs in one Loan because Canada's borrowing requirements over the next twelve months will not be as large as they have been in recent years.

"The minimum objectives for the new loan are the largest in Victory Loan history. They reflect the two-Loans-in-one feature of the Ninth Victory Loan, the continued need for saving, and the new level of borrowing requirements.

"As individuals, Canadians know the value of Victory Bonds — the value of a reserve of savings to meet future needs and wants. With twelve months to pay for 9th Loan Bonds, many Canadians will buy double the amount of their purchases in earlier Loans, and most others will buy more than before.

"The Ninth Victory Loan will be Canada's Greatest Loan."

ARGENTEUIL M.P. IN ADDRESS TO COMMONS SPEAKS WITH PRIDE OF HIS CONSTITUENCY

Georges H. Héon Airs Definite Views, Current Problems of Administration

Speaking in the House of Commons last Wednesday, Georges H. Héon, member for this constituency, cited the example of Argenteuil County both in its loyal contribution to the war effort and in its spirit of racial unity.

Mr. Héon remarked the speech from the throne "had more omissions than commissions". The text of his address was published at length in Hansard, edition of September 19, from which a few of the highlights are here quoted :

"I should like to make a suggestion which is not entirely new but is deserving of serious consideration. I believe it should be possible for the various political parties to reach a gentlemen's agreement whereby the election to the house of their regularly chosen and nationally recognized and accepted leaders would be assured, or at least greatly facilitated. The present situation is unsatisfactory and unfair to the leaders and to their constituents. We all know what a general election means to a party leader . . . "

(Mr. Héon here instanced the case of Prime Minister Mackenzie King, who although leader of the party which had secured the largest number of votes, was placed in the incongruous position of a defeated candidate when he represented his country as signatory at the San Francisco Conference. . . . He referred also to Mr. Bracken's position prior to the last general election.)

"Canada has just emerged from its participation in two world wars in one generation. Our victory has been achieved through a tremendous sacrifice of life. . . . Let us call a spade a spade. The conscription issue has been used again, as in 1914-18, by unscrupulous politicians to foster their own petty personal political advantage. Through it racial and sectional animosities, not wholly extinguished before the war, have been rekindled, and thus national unity and inter-racial harmony which are so essential to the welfare of Canada, have been seriously impaired. Shall we ever get rid of the conscription bogey? . . .

"If this country should ever again become engaged in another total war, where our very existence was threatened, and universal service was resorted to by the government of the day, it should be done by something similar to the United States system, under which the millionaire and the pauper, the son of the president and the son of the laborer, alike are called by number and treated on the same footing. If his number comes out, he is inducted into the services. But if his number is not drawn, he can still attend to his civilian duties without taking the risk of having a white feather planted in his lapel by some patriotic but irate old maid.

"I cannot conceive that this parliament which must shoulder the responsibility of taking the country over the hurdles of the immediate post-war period, will try to do so through strict party lines. The tasks ahead transcend party advantage.

"That all-important group of Canadians which is not bound by party lines, and votes according to its common sense and calm judgment, has a right to expect that we shall legislate only in the national interest. Further, the little man and the little woman of no fixed political party, in my constituency and in all constituencies this dominion over, who have enlisted or who have generously given their sons and daughters to the services, forged the tools for war during long hours of the night and day, bought the bonds, given their generous blood at Red Cross clinics, and gladly borne the burden of back-breaking taxes, without even the shadow of a complaint, are entitled to be represented here. That is why, I for one, propose to reserve my independence and freedom of speech and vote, every time the social security, material prosperity and immediate welfare of this same little man and woman are at stake.

"The speech from the throne is . . . far too nebulous as to what the government proposes to do in the way of helping our war veterans re-establish themselves in civilian occupations, and in reducing the burden of taxation which weighs too heavily upon the industries, the salaried white-collar worker, and the labor and agricultural classes of my constituency. I cannot accept it in its entirety, and therefore must withhold judgment until the measures implementing it are brought before this house. There is much with which I can agree in the opposition amendment, and even the sub-amendment as it concerns housing. These amendments are in the nature of warnings to the government that the Canadian people will brook no side-tracking or fence-sitting in the execution of reconstruction policies.

"Mr. Speaker, one more word. In my constituency which is a perfect cross-section of this dominion, since it is half industrial and half rural and is inhabited, almost in equal proportions by Canadians of English, Irish, Scottish and French

K.C. Appointment

GEO. H. HEON, K.C., M.P.

By appointment of the Lieutenant Governor in Council, Georges H. Héon, advocate of this town and M.P. for the constituency, has been named a King's Counsellor. Announcement of the office was made in the Official Gazette of Friday last, September 21. Friends of Mr. Héon congratulate him on this honor, which is a tribute to his record and practice before the bar of Quebec Province.

Observe Harvest Thanksgiving in Lakefield Parish

Lakefield — A large congregation filled Holy Trinity Church on Thursday morning, September 20, for the annual Harvest Thanksgiving. The service was conducted by the rector, the Rev. C. W. P. Baugh, assisted by the Rev. H. G. Baugh.

The guest preacher was the Very Reverend Kenneth Evans, Dean of Montreal and rector of Christ Church Cathedral. He chose as his text Genesis 8, 22: "While the earth remaineth, seedtime and harvest, and cold and heat, and summer and winter, and day and night, shall not cease". . . . He explained that God could very easily provide an abundance of all things, "manna from heaven", without man's labors, but that all things were done to test the faith and determination of the individual. He stressed the need for re-vitalizing the strength of the soul, to meet the tasks of everyday life. He gave the illustration of the Flood and Noah's Ark, and referred to his own personal trip through Egypt and the Holy Land. All things have been done, he said, for the welfare of mankind, although many failed to see life in its proper light.

The organist for the occasion was the Rev. Allen E. Mount, and appropriate hymns of thanksgiving were sung.

A harvest dinner was served in the Gibb Hall following the service.

AUTUMN APPLE BLOOM

John P. O'Brien reports that after he had gathered the fruit from the apple trees in his garden on Pembroke St. East, the trees came out in blossom for the second time this year. Mr. O'Brien said that this is the first time since he has been living on the place that this has happened.

More Information on Storage of Vegetables

(Experimental Farm News)

It is time to profit by those notes jotted down on the weak points of vegetable storage last winter. Give a thorough check-up on the ventilation system, provide for more insulation if necessary, disinfect the crates or bins, and open door and windows to give the storage room the time to dry up completely before anything is brought in. Take no chances of letting rodents creep in the storage by putting screens in the windows and door, urges C. E. Ste. Marie, of the Dominion Experimental Station at L'Assomption.

The successful storage of the garden surplus, especially the root crops, is not just a matter of luck. The requirements are few, but somewhat exacting. First, consideration should be given to the quality of the product, secondly the temperature of the storage room should be watched closely, and and finally proper moisture conditions must be maintained.

Only products of good quality are worth storing. Regardless of the crop, the first essential is that the variety be suitable for storage, that proper maturity has been reached and there is no damage from insects or diseases.

Care in pulling, crating and hauling to avoid bruises and injuries also help for better keeping of the product.

Lack of humidity causes drying out or shrivelling. Endeavor to keep the heat out of the storage room, by insulating the walls, ceiling and door properly; if necessary, keep a water pan in the room or sprinkle the floor as often as necessary.

Do not bring vegetables from the field directly into the storage room unless the temperature is around 40 degrees F. In order to hasten the cooling of the storage room, keep the ventilation system open at night and closed during the day. As soon as the temperature is around 40 to 45 degrees, it should not be difficult to keep it between there and freezing. The sooner it is below 40 degrees the better.

Your nearest Experimental Station will be glad to help solve any difficulties in connection with the storage of vegetables.

Encourage Clover and Alfalfa Growing

There is at present an excellent export market for clovers and alfalfa seeding. In order to supply this demand, the Federal Government again offers the following advantages:

Any farmer may request any authorized seed dealer to whom he sells clover and alfalfa seeding, to give him a certificate ascertaining his participation; said certificate will give the farmer the right to 3c per pound for red clover and 5c per pound on alsike clover, alfalfa and mixtures of white clover and alsike. These certificates will be reimbursed by the Federal Government when the Special Products Bureau has completed exports and received payment.

According to Ordinance No. A-1694 of the Seed Administration Board, seed prices have been set as follows:

Red Clover	$0.34
Alsike Clover	0.34
White Clover	1.15
Alfalfa	0.37

(Mixture of alsike clover and white clover price to be determined according to the percentage of each ingredient.)

The Quebec farmer with sufficient help will undoubtedly take advantage of this offer. Heavy hay-crops, good returns on clover and alfalfa should help this year to increase this type of seed production as well as the farmer's revenue.

The certainty of a return of 3 to 5 cents per pound of seeding, plus the price of sale, will probably be an inducement to several farmers to reserve parts of their meadows for clovers or alfalfa for seeding purposes, or, in the case of grain already harvested, they will probably see to having it properly screened and cleaned.

A farmer may receive participation certificates from any authorized buyer recognized as a seedsman (whether a dealer or a co-operative) by the Special Products Bureau of Lindsay, Ontario. However, it should be noted that no returns on these certificates will be available before shipments and exportations are made and all transactions completed, and this in all probability will not take place before next fall.

NEW NORTHERN ROAD

Edmonton (CP) — Hon. W. A. Fallow says the Dominion has intimated it will assume two-thirds of cost within Alberta of constructing the Grimshaw-Great Slave Lake road. The $2,000,000 high way will extend into the Northwest Territories.

Let your spare used clothing, for which you have no need, be your Christmas gift to the war-torn people of Europe and China. Give them to the National Clothing Collection for liberated countries, October 1-20.

Tells Fascinating Story of Development of Firearms and Ammunition from Early Days

By JIM HOULDEN, Bisley Medalist

Report of an address delivered recently before the Rotary Club of Brownsburg

The progress of man has been closely related to his skill in developing offensive and defensive weapons. In the earliest times the people lived in small groups and weapons were used principally for obtaining food and also to afford protection against the mammoth animals that roamed the earth. As the animals became smaller in stature, and the people more numerous and in larger groups, there was a tendency for one group to endeavour to dominate other groups. This rivalry led to a desire to own better and more effective weapons, not for protection against animals, but for the purpose of waging war.

As an example of the desire to own superior weapons it is claimed the United States owes its independence to the "Kentucky Rifle" more than any other instrument. In the War of Independence the British Redcoats with their antiquated muskets were no match for the American Frontiersman and his Kentucky rifle. The musket evolved as a result of years of European wars; whereas the Kentucky rifle was the product of the ingenuity of a people depending on a rifle to stand between them and their very existence.

The records of the archaeologists tell us that from 1300 B.C. to 700 A.D. the lance, sword, slingshot, club axe, and bow were used. The sling-shot seems to be the first really semi-accurate means of hurling a projectile, the range being 40 to 50 paces. This was followed by the bow and arrow, which was gradually improved from a range of 40 to 50 paces to the "long bows" of the English archers with ranges up to 600 yards. North American Indians were known to drive arrows completely through a buffalo from side to side.

Firearms began to appear in the wars of the 14th century but were used chiefly to frighten people, since their accuracy was a matter of chance. It was only through the perseverence of a few scientists that advance was made beyond the early stages. Books written as late as the early 18th century do not even list firearms as a major military weapon. The general discovery and introduction of "rifling" in the 18th century was the real incentive for an avalanche of improvements to firearms of all types. This constant improvement has continued right up to date.

As an example of our advance, the following serious statement from a text written in 1859 will cause many smiles today. "With proper aim and deliberation four to five rounds may be fired in two minutes". Compared to this we now have weapons capable of firing 1200 well aimed rounds per minute. Again we quote: "After the first few rounds the field speedily becomes obscured with smoke and it is scarcely possible for a marksman, however expert, to single out any object, even at a 100 yards distance". Compare this to today's smokeless and flashless gunpowders!

(At this point the speaker lighted, with a match, three small samples of powder; first-black powder, second smokeless, and lastly cordite. The smoke, and the black powder was tremendous.)

Since war and history are inseparable, all nations have voluminous records of their armies, arms, equipment, and the exploits of their heroes. As a result we have actually thousands of books containing data on the background and history of firearms and ammunition. It is impossible to give a complete story of the history leading up to our present day cartridges. There are however several outstanding points which have had a decided influence on the evolution of firearms, namely: breech-loading, rifling, separate cartridges, centrefire priming, smokeless powder and non-corrosive priming.

"Black powder", the first propellant, is known to have existed back as far as 600 A.D. amongst the Chinese and Hindus. No great use was made of this powder until Roger Bacon, the English scientist, began investigations of its properties in the 13th century. This work was continued by Berchtold Schwarz, a German monk. Once the properties of the powder were known, weapons began to appear that could be aimed and fired from the shoulder. There follows a series of weapons of the flash-hole and match type, the match-lock, flint-lock, percussion muzzle loader, percussion cap breech loading, needle guns, pin fire, and finally present-day centrefire guns.

Black powder continued in use until around 1845 when Schoenbein, a German scientist, discovered how to combine nitric acid and cotton to form "gun-cotton". This was closely followed in 1846 by an Italian scientist Sobrero who discovered how to combine nitric acid and glycerine to form "nitroglycerine". In these two substances we have the basis for modern smokeless powders and explosives. From 1860 onwards there is rapid development in smokeless powders of all types. This advancement was however accompanied by much loss of life and property, until safe methods were devised and governments passed very strict laws on the manufacture of explosives.

At first the powder was poured down a tube, followed by the projectile which might be anything handy, including stones and chunks of wood; and lit by touching the powder with a flame through a hole in the barrel. This hole was known as a "touch-hole".

These early weapons were dependent on good dry weather to fire them. Efforts to improve on this haphazard method of igniting the charge, resulted in the "match-lock". This was followed by the "flint-lock" where a flint mounted on a wheel struck a piece of metal and sent sparks down the "touch-hole".

The discovery of percussion mixtures by Alexander Forsyth, a Scottish clergyman, at the beginning of the 19th century opened the gates for a flood of improvements to both cartridges and firearms.

A "percussion" or "priming" mixture is an explosive which detonates or lights when struck a sharp or grating blow. This explosion creates a flame which lights the main powder charge, and this in turn develops the gas pressure forcing the bullet out of the barrel and gives it acceleration and velocity. The primer is the "spark plug" of the load and is very similar to the head of an ordinary match.

The modern primer consists of a cup, priming mixture, metal foil, and an anvil on which the firing pin impacts the mixture when it strikes.

This percussion cap lighting was known as priming, and loads were soon adapted to its use. The first primers were little paper caps similar to those which the boys use in toy pistols or "cap" guns today. They were laid over a hole in the base of a metal cartridge case and the flash ignited the powder. The Prussians made an advance on this by placing the priming inside the metal case and leaving a hole in the base so that a needle shaped firing pin went through the hole and set off the charge. This weapon was the deciding factor in the Franco-Prussian war, as it gave the Germans a great superiority of fire power.

Next in importance comes the pin-fire cartridge with a pin as part of the cartridge inserted into the centre cup containing priming mixture. When the pin was struck by the hommer it was driven into the mixture and the powder ignited.

It was then a logical step to put the priming into a thin metal cup which would collapse when struck by the firing pin and ignite the charge. This unit was now called a "primer" or "cap."

Fulminate of mercury was very prominent in early primers and percussion caps, but was found to be a very bad enemy of brass. Even brief contact with mercury compounds causes brass to deteriorate and what is known as "season cracking" occurs. This is one reason why old cartridges fail so badly with age. The sulphur in black powder is another corroder.

"First Wealth Is Health"

NATIONAL Immunization Week will be observed again this year — from September 30 to October 6. During next week the Health League of Canada co-operates with the health authorities throughout the Dominion in calling special attention to the need for protecting against the communicable diseases — notably whooping cough, diphtheria, smallpox and scarlet fever.

Vaccination has been so effective in Canada that today a case of smallpox is rare. But eternal vigilance is the price of security and failure to vaccinate would mean more smallpox.

Diphtheria has disappeared in some parts of Canada and in others the rate is still disgracefully high. Whooping cough, largely preventable, causes the most deaths among contagious diseases of early childhood. There were 333 deaths from this cause last year.

Infection by the serious communicable diseases of childhood results largely from failure to immunize. Facilities to immunize every child in the Dominion are available if only parents would take advantage of them. Forty thousand cases annually of scarlet fever, diphtheria and whooping cough alone mean many unnecessary deaths and many children damaged for life by unnecessary disease.

National Immunization Week is an effort to call attention to the need for protecting children by utilizing all publicity methods in a co-ordinated and intensive fashion which would be impossible to maintain throughout the year. This does not mean that efforts to get children immunized should cease at the close of National Immunization Week. This is an all-year job and an every day duty for health officers, physicians and nurses throughout the Dominion. This particular effort is a means of vigorous reminder, to parents especially, of an important obligation which assumed generally, would save many lives now sacrificed because of apathy and indifference. . . . "The First Wealth is Health".

Traveller Touched

OF ALL THE remarkable scenes and vistas one encounters on a highway tour of the Gaspe Peninsular, a local vacationist was impressed by one sight more than any other. . . . It was a humble log shack, alone on a craggy hillside. As the motorist approached the spot he noted, above the door, a newly painted sign bearing the legend: "Welcome Home, Son".

Importance of Trivial Things

"FOR WANT of a nail a shoe was lost—." Most of us are familiar with the military adage which opens with that line and goes on to tell how the missing nail, by costing the loss of a shoe, cost the loss of a horse, of the general who rode it, and, ultimately, the loss of the battle in which the general's leadership was essential to victory.

The lesson of the importance of seemingly trivial things to great achievements, has been pretty well established in Canadian minds. Yet, we wonder how many have thought of the importance of their cast-off clothes, shoes and bedding to the restoration of this war-torn world and the wholesome and lasting peace which we all desire.

For want of adequate clothing, during the five or more years of Axis aggression, uncounted numbers of the men, women and children — innocent victims of the Nazis and Japs — have died of exposure or diseases traceable thereto. As our valiant armies liberated their lands and freed their peoples, the full extent of their suffering and their present desperate needs were revealed — large families forced to share tattered garments scarcely adequate to cover a single person; children and older people forced to remain in their shattered hovels or to step forth virtually naked into the rigors of harsh climates; other Axis-made conditions equally appalling.

And these are the people who, if a real peace is to come, must rebuild their broken homes and towns and cities; theirs are the children who, with ours, must join in making this a finer and more peaceful world.

Can we expect such things of them while they are sick and suffering from the lack of essential clothing?

But there is no need for any such lack while the attics and other storage places in millions of Canadian homes are hung or cluttered with cast-off, yet still serviceable, spare clothes, shoes and bedding.

Millions of pounds of such materials, useless and never to be used by us, are available to the war-ravaged destitute. The National Clothing Collection, which opens October 1, is designed to transfer our serviceable castoffs to these stricken peoples. And NOW is the time for you to raid your attic or storeroom.

Utility Note in Housing

FATHER'S carpentry, mother's laundry and the baby carriage, all are considered in some housing designs now being employed by private builders in the United Kingdom — according to James McCook of Canadian Press, commenting for the weekly newspapers.

Private enterprise hopes to erect nearly 500,000 homes a year, about 70 per cent more than peak peacetime production. An All-England-and-Wales committee organized by the house-building industries' standing committee, representing about 90 per cent of the building trade, has started work building on 27 designs, all the result of competitions to encourage suggestions from persons who know the housing needs of their area.

Designs are for semi-detached dwellings, but some of the plans get away from the old dreary rows of houses, all alike. One method is to have the semi-detached unit in the form of a cross, with one entrance on the street and the other at the side.

The designs had to be for houses to be erected at a cost of not more than £900 ($4,500). The total price, including land and the connection of light and water services, could not exceed £1,200 ($5,400). Materials were specified as bricks and mortar rather than concrete, and all houses had to be permanent.

One designer submitted and had approved an innovation in the form of a "utility room" adjoining the kitchen, providing space for a choldren's playroom, accommodation for the pram, and for laundry tubs and a carpenter's bench.

Autumn

BLISS CARMAN might have been speaking for the average Canadian when he wrote:

There is something in the autumn
That is native to my blood.

The classic poets have always been inclined to view summer's end with a melancholy eye, but Carman, a product of the New Brunswick hardwood country, knew better. He had the native's feeling for the time that begins with mellow aples and ends in spitting snow.

The fall of the year has a special flavor for most of us. Spring and summer are hard-working seasons of seeding, cultivation and harvest. Winter in a north-temperate climate still means for many country-dwellers a good deal of inconvenience to balance against its long lamplit evenings around stove or fireplace. Considerable drivel has been written about winter by people who never get beyond squatting distance of a steam-filled radiator.

October and November, on the other hand, are active, stimulating months, without being too rigorous. Freed a little from the necessities of his land, a man can take time to savor his day; it may be with a gun under the arm, and his path set along woodroads colorful with birch and maple. It is perhaps heresy to say so, but it really matters little to his own sense of well-being whether the quarry be a rabbit or a moose.

Probably most city people think of a hastily-snatched two weeks in July or August as their period of freedom from the routine of life. But many a countryman saves his keenest anticipation for October, when the air is clear with a hint of sharpness in it.

For some of us, what better memories are there than frosty early morning tramps along a woodlot trapline, or the red evening glow between damper and door of an old-time kitchen stove?

MacArthur on the Job

AS THE DAYS of occupation in Japan lengthen into weeks, it becomes more obvious that General MacArthur intends to rule the country with an iron hand. —Which is reassuring to those who feared the enemy's new-found courtesy might deceive the occupation leaders.

General MacArthur has issued a new speed-up order to the Japanese government, this time cracking down on the Japanese naval police. The general brushed aside plans to retain 11,269 police at the end of October until all arms are collected, bluntly demanding complete demobilization before October 31. Naval police stores of arms and ammunition must be placed in custody of civil police by the new order. Gen. MacArthur's new order, like all Allied orders, automatically became a legal Japanese government order by a process just approved by the Japanese Privy Council.

In keeping with the "iron hand" policy was the arrest of Gen. Kenji Doihara, commander of the 1st Japanese General Army. Doihara was long a member of the Kwantung Army crowd that pushed the subjugation of Manchuria.

Meanwhile in Washington diplomatic officials expressed the belief that Emperor Hirohito soon will 'fulfill his obligations' and quit his throne in favor of a regency for his young son, Akihito.

YEARS OF GOOD LUCK

Florence Rose of Odessa believes she should have good luck for at least the next 10 years. The reason for this optimism is 20-fold because she has found at least 10 four-leaf clovers in a clover field near her home. Not only did she find four-leaf clovers but also several five-leaf clovers.

NO TIME TO LET UP

The war service magazine department has reported a serious falling off in the number of publications being received for dispatch to the troops. The situation calls for greater effort because with the men waiting for their turn to return home they are without those duties and responsibilities attached to an active campaign.

Canada's Helping Hand

● The change-over from wartime to peacetime has not been an abrupt one, but every day there is evidence Canada is moving slowly but surely to the point where we will be able to look back and view war measures as past history.

We're going to have meat rationing for some time to come, it appears. And we know there are humanitarian reasons for that. The people who have had the full impact of war right on their own doorstep are short of the necessities of life. We, as citizens of Canada, and people of the world, are going to extend a helping hand.

More Jobs Than Applicants

● One of the very real evidences of peace is the word of the Labour Department that the extreme labour shortage is passing. The number of persons going through the progress of re-assignment from war jobs to peace jobs has been steadily increasing.

But when I say that the extreme labour shortage is passing I do not mean that there are not more unfilled jobs than there are applicants for work.

As an example: On August 24, the number of jobs to be filled throughout Canada was a little short of 124,000, a drop of 7,000 during the preceding fortnight. To fill these vacancies, approximately 53,000 applicants were available, as compared with 48,000 two weeks earlier.

The Labour Department notes that the decrease in requirements for war production has been offset to some extent by an upward trend in the demand for workers for civilian industries.

So, you see, we are marching along the peacetime road with its changing scenes, but they are not being too abrupt. After all, having been at war since 1939, you can't drop everything and start right in where you were before.

I don't think most of us want to be where we were in 1939, as a matter of fact. We want a better, safer world, and we're all going to work with that goal in mind.

Ninth and Biggest

● And one of the ways of making a better world will be to invest in Victory Bonds. That's another wartime feature that is still with us. We've supported previous loans with a will, and we're asked to put our shoulders to the wheel again . . . but this time with reconstruction as our goal.

Our ninth, and biggest, Victory Loan . . to be launched October 22 . . . is for $1,500,000,000. Hon. J. L. Ilsley, Minister of Finance, notes that previous loans have aimed to cover the financial needs for only six months, but because victory has brought a reduction in Canada's war costs, the ninth loan will meet borrowings for a 12-month period.

We've loaned to bring peace, and now let's loan to make that peace effective.

Sixty Minute Houses

● England, which has seen so many of its homes destroyed by German bombs, is even more house-building conscious than Canada, which is certainly saying something.

Many schemes have been tried in Britain, and prefabricated aluminum houses have appeared in the city of Bristol. These houses take three-and-a-half hours to erect and during that time water, gas and electricity are laid on. The comment of the foreman about the time required to put them up is enlightening. "We took rather a long time," he said, "but with a little experience we shall be able to put them up more quickly."

Moscow building organizations are watching Britain's house-building program with a good deal of interest and have asked the United Kingdom for films, plans and literature showing how various types of homes are built. The Financial News reports that it is anticipated many British methods will be employed by Russia in reconstruction work.

WHEN THE BOYS COME BACK TO THE FARMS

They'll probably want telephone service, if they didn't have it before. War has taught a lot of those in uniform — and their parents, too — to rely on telephones more than ever.

Our plans are ready to make rural telephone service in Ontario and Quebec available to a greater number of users in the post-war period.

Much of the preliminary work already had been done when war interrupted the program extending rural telephone service. We intend to resume it as soon as the necessary materials and manpower are available.

Fascinating Story Of Ammunition

Priming is now made which is non-corrosive and non erosive. Guns can be left for months and even years without fear of the bore rusting.

As time went on, shooters became more discerning and realized they could do better shooting with more uniform charges and round bullets. To obtain this uniformity the powder was wrapped in small paper tubes and the ball or shot enclosed in the end. Most of these paper charges were greased to give ease in loading and prevent dampness from getting into the powder charge. This method of loading became very universal and it was not until the previously mentioned priming mixture had been discovered that self-contained cartridges were tried.

The cartridge case itself started out as a wrapped paper package and progressed through a wound paper tube, linen bags, papier-maché containers, metal cups with no head, coiled paper with iron heads, coiled brass and iron heads, and finally solid drawn brass and steel cases with self-contained primer cups and anvils. Some of these cases stand firing pressures up to 60,000 pounds per square inch.

Bullets have had such a varied career that it would be impossiblbe in the time available to catalogue the thousands of types, let alone discuss their history. The points of interest are mainly that velocity around 1,400 to 1,500 feet per second could not be exceeded with lead or its alloys, due to the stripping action. As soon as jacketted bullets were invented the velocities were stepped up to 2,000 feet per second and even as high as 5,000 feet per second. Most big guns including naval guns are shot at velocities around 2,000 to 2,500 feet per second. Bullets have been made in many varied designs, with wooden plugs, hollow noses, wire wound, tubes inserted to improve the balance, fluted noses, feathered tails, and so on through a multitude of designs both commercial and home-made. The amateur gunsmith has made great advances in bullet design.

During all this advance of weapons, projectiles, and propellants there were very wide, and we might say violent, differences of opinion as to the relative merits of the bore and type of projectile. At first the big men thought they ought to have big guns, and our museums show specimens which two men and a boy would have trouble manipulating into an accurate firing position! In the early 19th century the .45 calibre was called a "small bore". The army muskets of that time had bores of 3/4" and better. As late as 1850 the present day .30/30 was known as a "pea-shooter". Today, "small-bore" is universally known as a .22 rimfire rifle, and a heavy rifle is any rifle of .30 calibre or larger. The trend is towards small diameter bullets at tremendous speeds, such as the .220 Swift which shoots a .22 bullet at 4,000 feet per second and can penetrate over 1/2 inch of steel plate with ease, whereas the popular .30/30 can only penetrate 3/8 inch of steel plate. These light high-speed bullets have tremendous shocking power, but go to pieces if they hit a twig or sometimes even a large rain drop.

Accuracy of all weapons had increased over the years from the point where the weapon was used principally for the noise and psychological effect. In 1850-60 books point with pride to targets with 20 shots all inside a 5'-0" circle at 500 yards. Today the high grade .22 rifles will shoot 10 shots inside a 1" circle at 100 yards and .303" military rifles consistently shoot 20 rounds inside a 15" circle at 600 yards.

The time cycle in a firearm is something that is difficult for most people to appreciate, due to the fact the noise of the bullet leaving the gun muzzle and recoil upsets a person's equilibrium for a second or two. In a rifle, the time for a good shooter to press the trigger after the eye signals the O.K. to the brain, is approximately 1/10 to 3/10 seconds. When the trigger releases the mechanism it is approximately 0.005 seconds before the firing pin strikes the primer. From the instant the primer is struck until the bullet leaves the muzzle is approximately ten to fifteen ten-thousandths of a second. Therefore, we have a complete lapse of time of 3/10 to 4/10 second before the bullet leaves the muzzle after the eye has signalled the "go" sign. This time is appreciable, and the inexperienced shooter can destroy the initial accuracy of his aim by moving the gun during this period. Animals with highly developed sense of sound can duck when bullets going slower than the velocity of sound are shot at them (.22 Long Rifle Standard Greased and Muskrats).

The most interesting phenomenon of ballistic study is why a bullet is stable and accurate in flight. Accuracy was haphazard, if not accidental, until rifling was discovered and used around 1750. Rifling soon proved beyond any doubt that a projectile had to be rotated about its long axis in flight in order to be stable. A good bullet in flight is a finely balanced gyroscope which has to be perfectly symmetrical in all details to maintain true flight even though opposing forces such as gravity, air density, wind, and gun speed (as in aeroplanes) all have an adverse effect. A revolving bullet will "YAW" into the wind like a sailboat in order to maintain a true course and stable flight. The only thing a cartridge will not do is point the shooter's gun straight!

The foregoing covers a very wide field by touching a few of the high spots. We can only guess at the outcome of future developments and new weapons when we consider such items as the "Bazooka", "Piat Guns" and "Rockets", where a self-propelled projectile can be fired without anything other than a piece of iron pipe. From here on we will not be so skeptical of our "Buck Rogers" funny papers as we were back in the early 1930's.

At this point let us warn everyone we see handling firearms, regardless of experience, that all firearms are dangerous and should be treated as though loaded.

A mystery play program ought to read: Characters in the order of their disappearance.

Brownsburg Highlights — All the Way from Petty Robberies to Education

Annual Exercises Held at Consolidated School

By Our Special Correspondent

Deserters

Members of the Army Provost Corps have paid several nocturnal visits to residences here in search of men wanted for army service. Evidently the authorities have no intention of letting those A.W.L. think the end of the war means the end of service. Three of the "missing" have been discovered during one of these raids, and a little while ago a young man who deserted early in the war years was caught and given two years in jail.

Minor Robberies

Several petty thefts have been reported recently and on one or two occasions when such action constituted house-breaking, the culprits were observed making a hasty exit. It is possible, as many people here think, that there is a certain relationship between these robberies and the subject of our opening paragraph. Be that as it may, it behooves citizens to keep a watchful eye on possessions not under secure lock and key.

"Apprenticeship of Life"

The usual yearly school exercises were held at the Consolidated School on Wednesday night. The chairman of the Board, Mr. A. Dixon, presided during the presentation of the prizes, which were distributed by other members of the Board, Mr. T. Anderson and Mr. Charles Prosser. The Rev. Mr. Leaton gave an interesting account of personal experiences during graduation. In Principal D. Staniforth's message to the parents, some interesting facts were revealed, and some straight-from-the-shoulder advice was tendered on the control and conduct of children, from an educational viewpoint. The prizes to pupils were books suitable to their ages, and several books were presented to each grade. The Women's Institute supplemented the prizes presented by the Board with many splendid volumes. The scholarship award — a cheque to cover tuition of one year at High School — was won by Miss Ernestine Cooper, who passed with high honors in Grade Ten.

The great end of education is, to discipline rather than to furnish the mind; to train it to the use of its own powers, rather than fill it with the accumulations of others. The aim of education should be to teach us rather how to think, than what to think — rather to improve our minds, so as to enable us to think for ourselves, than to load the memory with the thoughts of other men. Education does not mean teaching people to know what they do not know; it means teaching them to behave as they do not behave. Education begins with life; before we are aware the foundations of character are laid, and subsequent teaching avails but little to remove or alter them; and finally Education is a companion which no misfortune can depress — no crime destroy — no enemy alienate — no despotism enslave. At home a friend: abroad an introduction: in solitude, a solace: and in society an ornament. Without it, what is man? — A splendid slave, a reasoning savage.

origin, we have made an honest and loyal effort to solve the problem of true national unity.

"All the racial groups in Argenteuil have given me a majority vote, because I have pledged myself to fight sectionalism, and racial and religious prejudice, wherever I find it. I propose to fulfil my pledge and carry the fight wherever the enemy is, not excluding my own racial group, and behind whatever political party it may lurk.

"May I therefore appeal to all hon. members . . . . to help heal all war wounds by forgetting and forgiving past quarrels and dissensions, and by rededicating ourselves to the cause of a true and broad Canadianism and harmony between our two great races."

"First Youth Movement" Topic of Address by Rev. Richie Bell, M.A.

Officers Installed at Lachute Christian Endeavour

The Rev. Richie Bell, M.A., of the MacVicar Memorial Presbyterian Church, Outremont, president of the Canadian Christian Endeavour Movement, was guest speaker at the Lachute Christian Endeavour group. The service was held at the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church, Lachute, on Monday evening, and officers of the group were installed.

Before speaking on his theme, Mr. Bell brought greetings from the Christian Endeavour groups from P.E.I. to Vancouver, to the "baby group" in the Province of Quebec.

The first chapter of St. John was the subject of an address by Mr. Bell entitled "The First Youth Movement". He gave a much needed version of the early disciples, as being young, aggressive and persuasive, instead of the popular idea that these men were mature and elderly.

Mr. Bell claimed that Jesus gathered these young men together so that they would be able to carry on the work that he started, and that the disciples were first attracted to Jesus and then urged to contact other people.

The speaker illustrated the various personalities of the first disciples. . . John, the dreamer, Peter, the aggressor and Nathanial the intellectual, all seeking Jesus.

"Christian Endeavour has a good standard . . . let no man say that because you belong to the Christian Endeavour you are disloyal to your own church", continued the National President, "for the experience gained will be of great value in whatever church to which you may belong". He then described the movement as being well established in every large denomination.

The second important point that Mr. Bell emphasized, was the fact that when a person had found Jesus, he naturally had the urge to pass along the joy to others. But he added that somebody else's religion is no good to you. . . . that it must come from your own experience. "If Christian experience is what we say it is, giving strength and poise . . then we must pass it on", claimed the speaker.

Concluding, Mr. Bell said, "This world needs men and women in every sphere of business to lead others to Christ. . . . and this religion needs not only leaders but followers".

The following officers were then installed by the National President: Bob Cairns, president; Gwen Gorman, vice-president; Alex Vessie, secretary-treasurer, and Ruth Orsborn, Mr. and Mrs. George McGibbon on the committee.

A word of welcome was also brought by Mr. K. Hall, Montreal President of Christian Endeavour.

During the service, a sacred solo was sung by Miss Helen McFaul.

Refreshments were served to those present, at the close of the program.

Next meeting, Monday, October 1, will be presided over by Miss Ruth Orsborn. The topic, "Christianizing our Ideas of Right and Wrong," will be given by the Rev. E. Orsborn. All interested are invited to attend.

"Democracy" Subject at Citizenship Night of United Church Y.P.U.

"Citizenship Night" Marks Opening of United Y.P.U.

The Lachute United Church Y.P.U. opened its fall season last evening, with a splendid gathering of members present. Jack Gorman was chairman for the night, while Vivian Rick recorded the minutes. The scripture was read by Edith Clark and the prayer offered by Margaret Hammond.

During the business period, a donation was voted to the National Y.P.U. towards the expenses of sending a delegate to London, Eng., to attend the World Youth Conference. A sick member of the local society was also remembered.

The topic of the night was "Democracy", under the direction of the Citizenship convenor, Jack Gorman. An article, read by Mary Scott entitled "And the World was Purified", fitted in well with the theme. A questionnaire was filled in by those present, which was used for a short discussion period afterwards.

A paper on "Democracy" was given by the convenor, who said: "I often like to think that democracy is synonymous with Christianity . . you will always find that the honest-to-goodness Christian is a good democrat".

Various definitions of democracy were given, varying with the social status, education and business standing. The democratic spirit of Jesus and some of his disciples was illustrated, and the sufferings they went through for the sake of their ideals. Historical glimpses pertaining to the advancement of democracy were given, as well as ideals as expressed in the Atlantic Charter and the speech of the late President Roosevelt on "The Four Freedoms".

"I believe that the foundation of democracy is founded on the first two freedoms", added the convenor, and then went on to describe recent religious persecutions of the Jehovah's Witnesses and of racial discrimination against the Jews The work of the late R. L. Calder in fighting for "A Bill of Rights" to protect minorities was also mentioned.

The speaker also believed the large daily newspapers and the weeklies had fallen down in their stand for democracy, while circumstances had given them an excellent opportunity to fight for freedom of speech and of religion. In conclusion, the convenor claimed that the Church as a whole, service clubs and societies, had their part to play in keeping the democratic spirit alive, and Voltaire's famous words "I do not agree with what you say, but I will defend unto death your right to say it", brought the paper to a close.

A vote of thanks was expressed by the Rev. W. B. Rosborough.

The meeting next week will be taken by the missionary convenor, Mrs. Edith Clark. Jack Gorman was elected to fill the president's chair for the remainder of the year.

Arundel — The Arundel branch of the Bible Society held its annual meeting in the United Church on the evening of September 16. The speaker was the Rev. John McNab, who was Principal Chaplain of the R.C.A.F. overseas. His subject was "Religion in the Armed Forces".

The givings of the local branch to the Bible Society amounted to $103. The officers for the coming year are as follows:

Presbyterian W.M.S. At St. Andrews East

St. Andrews East — The W.M.S. of the Presbyterian Church held its monthly meeting on Wednesday afternoon, September 12, at the home of Mrs. J. A. Bradley, who was in the president's chair. After the business was completed, the Rev. Dr. MacMillan gave a most interesting and informative talk on the present situation in the mission fields. He stressed the fact that the Christian faith has never been found with greater opportunities particularly since Gen. MacArthur announced free religion without government influence in China and Japan.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses for the day, Mrs. J. A. Bradley, Mrs. J. P. Bradley and the Misses Walsh.

W. A. Deanery Meeting Held Recently at Weir, Well Attended

Weir, Que., — The annual meeting of the St. Andrews Deanery was held at Weir on Wednesday afternoon, September 19, and despite the bad weather and lack of facilities for transportation, was very well attended. It was regretted however that some of the parishes were not able to be represented at all, namely, Rawdon, Lakefield, St. Andrews East and others.

There were about 75 members present, including six officers from Montreal, and Miss Clarke, a missionary from Peterborough, Ont., who has recently returned home from Honan, China, where she had spent the past 20 years in the mission field.

The meeting opened in the morning in the Church of the Redeemer, with a celebration of Holy Communion, about 65 celebrants attending.

The service was conducted by the Rev. Frank R. Hughes assisted by the Rev. A. E. Hawes of Grenville, who preached a very impressive sermon, taking as his text, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature."

Luncheon was then served in the hall adjoining the church, by the ladies of the Weir, Arundel and Glen of Harrington branches of the W.A.

The ladies then gathered in the church for the afternoon session, Mrs. F. R. Hughes acting as President and chairman of the meeting. As Mrs. Williamson, the Deanery secretary, was unable to be present, Mrs. P. Gordon, of Arundel, kindly took her place. After the roll-call nominations were invited for a Deanery secretary for the coming year; Mrs. Wenville Graham, of Arundel, was nominated and elected.

Mrs. Lalor, the Diocesan president, addressed the meeting. The following officers also spoke briefly on their different branches of the work: Miss G. Bedford-Jones spoke on the Dorcas work, and Miss Muriel Percival of the work of the Little Helpers; Mrs. G. Foster spoke on the United Thank-

Morin Hts. Church Scene of Pretty Wedding Ceremony

Anderson - Watson

Trinity Church, Morin Heights, was the scene of a very lovely wedding on Saturday, September 22, when Miss Audrey Ann Watson, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Watson, Laurentian Rest Inn, became the bride of Mr. George Hilliard Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Anderson of Montreal. The Rev. C. W. P. Baugh officiated, assisted by the Rev. Horace G. Baugh, of Doaktown, New Brunswick.

The church was beautifully decorated with multi-colored gladioli, roses and ferns. It was a candlelight service. Mrs. R. J. Seale played the wedding music, and during the signing of the register Mr. Neil Anderson, uncle of the groom, sang "O Perfect Love".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked charming in a floor-length gown of heavy white satin, having a fitted bodice with sweetheart neckline, and long tapering sleeves ending in points over her hands. Her finger-length veil was arranged in halo effect and she carried a bouquet of lilies and ferns. Her only ornament was a string of pearls.

Mrs. Jack MacKimmie, of Ottawa, was matron of honor, wearing a floor-length gown of yellow jersey with Dutch cap, and a nosegay of pastel gladioli.

Mr. Sidney Drew, of Lachute, acted as groomsman. The ushers were Cpl. Lloyd Watson, brother of the bride, and Mr. Donald Anderson, brother of the groom.

The bride's mother was attired in black trimmed with aqua, with black accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Mrs. Anderson, mother of the groom, wore a black costume with black accessories and a corsage of red roses.

A reception was held at Rock Cliff Inn, at which about 150 guests were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson left later in the evening to spend their honeymoon in the White Mountains.

For travelling the bride wore a tailored grey suit, white blouse, small black and white hat, with black accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Upon their return they will reside in Montreal.

Former B'burg Girl Is Bride in N.B.

McCarthy - Dolan

A wedding of interest to the bride's former friends and associates here, took place at St. Patrick's Church, South Nelson, N.B., on September 17, when Miss Dorothy Catherine Dolan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dolan of Nowlanville, was united in marriage to Vincent Ignatius McCarthy, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John McCarthy of Chatham Head. The bride's uncle, the Rev L. G. Dolan, of Rochester, N.Y., officiated.

The wedding music was played by Miss Kathleen Doyle, and two solos were sung by Mrs. Torgerson.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white chiffon over white silk, with embroidered neck and sleeves. Her veil was floor-length, with a head-dress of seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Laura McCarthy, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, and wore a floor-length gown of pink chiffon, embroidered on the same pattern as the bride's dress. Her veil was shoulder-length and her headdress was white roses. Her bouquet was of pink rosebuds.

Leonard Dolan, brother of the bride, was groomsman. The ushers were James Dolan of Halifax, N.S., and Clem McCarthy, of Hamilton, Ont.

Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride, to a number of relatives and friends.

Later the happy couple left on a wedding trip through the province of New Brunswick. For travelling, the bride wore a blue crepe suit with bracelet length sleeves, navy hat trimmed with mohair and navy accessories. Her corsage was of Talisman roses.

The bride is a graduate of Provincial Normal School and of St. Francois Xavier University, Antigonish, N.S. She was employed by the D.I.L. and resided for three years in Brownsburg before returning to New Brunswick.

Mr. and Mrs. McCarthy will reside in Chatham Head, N.B.

EMERGENCIES
arise in any family

Banks are continually making small loans to meet these emergencies which can upset the best-planned budgets.

Three out of every five bank loans are for less than $500. Many of these are used to take care of such expenses as doctor or hospital bills, temporary embarrassment at tax-time, a sudden journey, the winter's coal bill.

Again, educational needs of the family often are financed by small bank loans.

These small loans enable individuals to consolidate debts, and to pay back from income.

Small loans furnish just one more example of the service available to you at your bank.

Bear Seen on Highway

The men should be out with their rifles ! Mrs. Arthur Trickey, while returning from Montreal on Saturday, with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Andrews, Mr. Reglar, Mr. Walsh and Miss Muriel Trickey, saw a huge black bear crossing the highway near the Fournier farm, not far from Lake Sir John.

All Change !

Change is the law of life. But the dinosaur did not obey it. He seemed to be protected against everything that could happen. And he was — except against a change of climate. He could not, or would not, change to meet this new condition. Now the dinosaur is a colossal prehistoric fossil, gathering dust in a museum.

Will that ever happen to the human species ? Could be. In England the great labor landslide is clearly a revolt of the ordinary man against conservative political and business leaders who refused to change. They had clung to precedent and privilege. They did not adjust to the new social climate. They did not think of the whole. Now they are a skeleton of their former selves in Parliament.

On Labor Day, in the United States, Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach pointed to this same need for change. For a hundred years, he said, American business management has had the chance to change its motive practices and to give the nation a new lead. But they too refused to change — failed to clean their own house. So Government stepped in to do the job. And "free enterprise" may become a forgotten phrase in a dusty museum document.

Labor too, he said, must change and clean its own house. Or Government will step in and do the job. The labor union also will become a museum relic.

Housecleaning in the nation must, like charity, begin at home. There are many stubborn dinosaur ways we probably could change right at our dinner tables. Demanding obedience of the children while obedient ourselves to nothing but our own desires. Demanding the family car. A change in these ways would make family life look less like a dictatorship. Less of a headache, more of a joy. A better working model of democracy in which two, three, four or more people begin to work together and think for the whole family instead of for themselves alone.

If we have held out against change until now — if we are unperturbed even by the sharp swing to the left all round the world — the atomic bomb, at least, leaves no choice. We must all change and be decent to each other — men, and families, and industries and nations. Or we won't survive even as a fossil. We will be pulverized to dust not worth saving in a museum. And so will the museum.

THE DICE ARE LOADED AGAINST YOU

Canadians are lucky. So far we've prevented inflation and avoided deflation.

It's not been just good luck.

Your support—everybody's support—of price ceilings, rationing and other controls alone has made it possible.

BUT NOW COMES THE REAL TESTING TIME.

The danger of inflation and its black shadow, deflation, will last as long as goods are scarce and insufficient to meet demands.

With the war over and plenty of money in our pockets it's easy to overlook the danger.

It's easy to think that paying just a little more to get something we want is unimportant now.

It's easy to think that what you do can't hurt—and to forget that careless, extravagant buying is a sure way to help a general rise in prices.

That's how inflation gets going.

BUT INFLATION IS ALWAYS FOLLOWED BY DEFLATION.

And deflation brings cancelled orders, bankrupt businesses, mortgage foreclosures, unemployment and distress—distress you can't avoid.

Until industry gets back to normal, price ceilings, rationing and other controls are our safeguard.

SO*— Keep on watching your buying. Don't rush to buy scarce goods.
Keep on saving your money. Put it into Victory bonds and War Savings certificates.
Keep on supporting wage and price controls, and rationing.
Keep on fighting inflation and its black shadow . . . deflation.

This advertisement is one of a series being issued by the Government of Canada to emphasize the importance of preventing a further increase in the cost of living now and deflation and unemployment later.

25th Anniversary, Lakefield Branch Women's Institute

Lakefield branch of the Women's Institute celebrated its 25th anniversary on Friday, September 21, at Kerr's Farm, Lakefield, when a large gathering of members and friends met to enjoy the anniversary banquet and program.

Master of ceremonies for the evening was the Rev. H. G. Baugh. A message of welcome was given all present by Mr. Amos Kerr, and words of praise for the work of the W.I. were expressed by the Rev. Allen E. Mount.

The county president, Mrs. N. E. Smillie, of Brownsburg, was introduced by Mrs. C. W. P. Baugh, past president. Mrs. Smillie gave an interesting account of the growth of the W.I., and congratulated the branch on its quarter-century of progress.

Life membership pins and certificates were presented to Mrs. Amos Kerr, and Hrs. Harry Scott, of Lachute. . . . Tribute was paid four deceased members, Mrs. Baugh reading their names while the gathering stood in silence. Greetings from many other branches were read.

The chairman added a note of humor to the proceedings, and also praised the efforts of the W.I.

The work of the branch is now under the able leadership of Mrs. Herbert MacDonald, who also sat at the head table.

The monthly meetings of this branch are usually well attended, filling a great need in the community, and the anniversary celebration showed the interest taken in the work of the organization.

Musical numbers were given by the Hadley sisters, Miss Mae Gordon, Jack Good and others.

AUTUMN IN THE MARITIMES

People who have gone West to live write to their friends in the East that they miss the brilliant colors of the Autumn. I thought Autumn in Ontario was very beautiful, and it is, but not nearly as beautiful as in the Maritimes. In the first place Nature has provided a setting for the Autumn colors in the wooded hills. Then the bush is a mixed one and the different shades of green of the evergreen make a contrast to the brilliant autumn colors. The hills are bordered with shrubs, some varieties of which turn a vivid red. There is a variety of Maple down here which is different from those found in Ontario and it turns a bright red. The different shades of red, the bright yellows and the orange, with the many varying greens together form an unforgettable mosaic. Early in the Fall you will see canoes, and punts, and other boats on the tops of cars or in trucks, and you know the duck season is open. Later on you frequently see a car with a deer tied on the side. Yesterday in the river just below the house the ducks were setting up quite a clamor. I saw setting up quite a clamor. Last year I saw a man get out of his automobile and try his luck at duck shooting. Whether he got any or not I do not know, but I had heard them there a short time before. And this is just six miles from the city of Saint John. Certainly the Maritimes are a hunter's and fisherman's paradise.

EDUCATION IN FOODS

An American broadcaster speaking from England told a pathetic story. He said that the size of women's fingers had become so much smaller that the standard size of wedding rings had to be reduced. The English are generally thinner than before the war, but are better fed even though their diet is very monotonous. They have made a science of using what they have and making the most of it. The people have been educated about foods by every method possible. Each morning their favorite newscaster has broadcast a five minute talk on foods. Brief shorts are on at the movies — they last for just 30 seconds. Mobile kitchens tour the country and talk to small groups of women and demonstrate methods of cooking, using the equipment to be found in the average kitchen. Mothers are taught when they call for the orange juice ration for their babies. Then the British restaurants which feed so many people at least one meal a day, have been supplying proper foods. They not only feed those who come to the restaurants, but they send out hot dinners to factories and schools. These have been so successful in providing good low cost meals that they plan to continue them after the war. Food habits cannot be changed in a day, but our own Government might very well learn a lesson from their campaign in education. It would be a lot cheaper to spend money on teaching than to pay doctor's bills — and the money end of it is perhaps the least important.

LOW TEMPERATURE FOR MEATS

When we manage to get a roast these days, we must make it last as long as possible. One good way is to have it shrink less in the cooking. I was taught that a roast should go into a hot oven to sear the surface of the meat and thus prevent loss of juices. Further research shows that this high temperature is not necessary, and that meat shrinks much less cooked for a longer time at a lower temperature. There is no doubt that a roast shrinks less when cooked at 350 degrees, reckoning about 35 minutes to the pound. Do not add water and cook uncovered.

NO WATER, NO COVER

When we want to make a tough cut of meat tender, we cook it a long time in moist heat, either by stewing or braising. This makes the meat more tender, but it has not the same fine flavor as meats cooked in a dry heat. Many women make the mistake of using a moist heat to roast their meats, that is they put water in the roasting pan and cover it. This is not necessary for any of the cuts that are used for roasting, and you will have a much better flavored meat if there is no water in the pan and the meat is not covered. Why pay for roasting meat and then cook it by braising, which is really what happens when water is put in the pan and then the cover put on. So when you roast use no water and no cover.

QUINCE PRESERVE

Wash, pare and core 4 pounds of quince. Cut in eighths. Cover with boiling water and simmer until the fruit is tender. Strain the juice from the fruit. There should be about 2 cups of juice. Add 3 lbs. of sugar and bring to a boil. then add the fruit and cook for about ten minutes, when the quince should be clear and a rich red.

Quince needs to be cooked until tender before the sugar is added, as otherwise they will be hard and tough. Jelly may be made from the peelings and cores. Apples may be added to them and this combination makes a nice flavored jelly with a good red color.

SPANISH CREAM

1 Tablespoon gelatin, 3 cups of milk, 3 eggs, ½ cup sugar, speck of salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Soak the gelatine in a little milk. Heat the remainder, then add

Heat the remainedr, then add sugar and gelatine and salt and stir until dissolved. Pour some of the hot milk over the beaten egg yolks, then cook over a slow fire until it is slightly thickened, stirring steadily. Add the vanilla. Fold this custard into the beaten egg whites. Pour into a large mould or into individual ones and let chill until set. Serves six. If you want to make it for a twosome, use 1 cup milk, one egg, 1 teaspoon gelatine, and 3 tablespoons sugar.

Dutch People Need Shoes

No one, even in the average or higher income brackets, has two pairs of shoes — according to the Ministry of Trade and Commerce in the land of wooden shoes, Holland. There is such a shortage that 33% of the people earning an average income do not own one wearable pair of shoes. In the higher income brackets 28% do not own a decent pair.

Lack of clothing is superseding food as the most acute Dutch problem. Shipments of food are now arriving regularly but to clothe the people it is estimated that more than ninety-four thousand tons of cotton and wool, over nine million yards of broadcloth and several million pairs of shoes will be required.

The National Clothing Collection in October is giving Canadians an opportunity to help the Dutch in their predicament.

WELCOMES DELAY TRAINS

Ottawa (CP) — Authorities have have asked citizens along the routes from Atlantic ports to curtail their welcomes to passing troops at railway stations. The fruit, candy and cigarettes they dispense are very welcome, but officials say the welcomes disrupt train schedules.

PENSION PROPOSAL

One of the encouraging features of the Dominion Government's proposals placed before the nine provinces is that of a pension of $30 a month for every Canadian 70 years of age regardless of means and without any strings. . . . If the recipient is already a person of means, the government will get the money back through income tax. It means that the man or woman with some savings is not penalized for thrift. . . . Will have a beneficial effect on our economy. — Kamloops Sentinel

EVENING DRESSES OFFSET DRABNESS OF WORKING DUDS

British Women Bring Out Pre-War Party Gowns as Clothes Situation Now Tougher Than Ever

London (CP) — Long evening dresses with sweeping skirts are being seen again in London restaurants — but it's not all due to VJ-Day spirits and the return of peace. There's a much more practical reason.

"The only things I have which aren't shabby are the evening dresses I've had put away since 1939," said one London society woman, when thanked by the Hotel Savoy manager for wearing formal clothes in the restaurant recently. "Everything else is on its last legs and my coupons all have gone toward outfitting my son for his new school."

About 75 per cent of the Savoy restaurant clientele now wear long dresses at night. The same is true in the other smart restaurants; whereas six months ago one party in dinner clothes would cause comment.

Even though the clothes situation is tougher than ever, British women, content to be drab for the duration, are making an effort to be festive, and appear a little glamorous to the returning soldier husbands and boy friends.

The tailoring trade is doing its utmost to encourage a return to formal evening attire, and evening dress was requested at a recent dinner dance of the National Federation of Merchant Tailors.

But the would-be glamor girl has a hard job. Twenty-four coupons have to last a longer time than ever before — eight months. A new winter coat would take 18, leaving only six for two pairs of stockings, or a pair of shoes at seven, if the buyer can beg a coupon from a friend.

Matter of Coupons

Even if she can spare the coupons, she'll be hard put to find a long dress. Manufacturers are loath to make them, for they must take a long frock for the same coupon value as a short one, thuogh it takes twice the material.

In fact, a little London telephone girl had a brilliant idea for saving her clothes rations. She said:

"I'm going to buy a wedding dress as soon as I can find one, for it takes no more coupons than a street dress, and I can make underclothes and at least two blouses from the skirt."

Most of the beautiful clothes British women have been able to see are for other people. There is the exhibition of miniature models of French clothes, for charity. And a recent fashion show displayed 46 gorgeous models — all for export.

In spite of wishful thinking, there seems little likelihood of austerity regulations being removed for some time. The Board of Trade says the situation is still difficult. The army has to be maintained and cotton and rayon fabrics are short, because of lack of spinners. The labor shortage is still critical, and demobilized men and women are making great inroads on stocks. Also rehousing means the need for more sheets, curtains and towels.

Men — except those in uniform — are in even more perilous state if they want to dress for evening. If they are married their wives probably have used their coupons, or made over their evening clothes for themselves.

BURLAP SKIRTS, instead of real pants, and no shoes, stockings or underwear is the war-imposed style for this homeless Greek boy and thousands like him. To help protect these war victims against cold and disease, round up all your serviceable used clothing for the National Clothing Collection which will be carried on throughout Canada from October 1st to the 20th. The drive is sponsored by the Canadian United Allied Relief Fund and distribution to the liberated peoples of Europe will be under the direction of U.N.R.R.A.

Made-Over Magic

What can be made from a man's worn out shirt? Six handkerchiefs are one thing, two from the front, four from the back. Out of it can instead appear a dress for the one to three-year-old. The dress front comes from the back of the shirt while the dress back is cut from the front of the shirt, putting the seam down the dress back. Sleeves and a little collar are cut from the shirt sleeves. With the addition of some gay embroidery or colored ric-rac braid a pretty little dress emerges.

Offering work and also displayed and looked after the literature in the absence of Mrs. Harry Little, who was unable to be present at the meeting; and Mrs. K. R. Longeway reported on the work of the Living Message and stressed the importance of more subscribers for the coming year.

The principal speaker of the afternoon, Miss Clarke, was introduced by Mrs. W. H. Williams, of Weir. Miss Clarke gave a very interesting address on her work in China and appealed to the people of Canada to pray for and help the people of that country in the trying months ahead. She also expressed her desire to be able to return again very shortly to resume her missionary work over there. She was thanked at the close of the meeting by Mrs. Jos. Boyd of Arundel.

The meeting was opened and closed with prayer by the Rev. Frank R. Hughes.

"Power of Prayer" Topic At Presbyterian Y.P.S.

The Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church Young People's Society held its regular weekly meeting last evening in the church hall, President Ruth Orsborn presiding, and assisted in the worship service by Harold Orsborn.

The program, under the convenorship of Freda Parker, was a condensation from The Christian Herald on "The Power of Prayer".

Several members hope to attend the Sunday evening Rally Service, being held this Sunday, September 30; transportation is being arranged and members who were not present may get in touch with the secretary.

Next week, the Society will meet in a Thanksgiving program. Joseph Proctor will discuss the Fall Rally highlights in a short address. On October 10, the first social evening is being held; refreshments are on the program. All members, past, present or prospective, are invited to attend.
