Killed on Route 8 At Grenville, Que.

JURORS PRONOUNCE DEATH ACCIDENTAL, DRIVER IS EXONERATED

At about 10.30 o'clock Saturday night on Highway No. 8 at Grenville, Magloire Proulx, of Hawkesbury, was instantly killed when struck by a car from Montreal going in a westerly direction. At an inquest held during that night in the Desforges funeral parlors, Grenville, the jurors under Coronor Dr. Jules Lafleur, of Lachute, heard evidence which resulted in a verdict of accidental death, exonerating the motorist of all blame.

Jean Racette, of Montreal, who was driving to Pte. au Chene for the holiday week-end with his son and two daughters, stated that a car was parked at the McEntyre dance hall with headlights towards him, and another car was on the road between the two. While passing this latter vehicle, he saw a man turn into the path of his car, and he was unable to avoid striking the victim, Magloire Proulx. The man's head struck the windshield, and further evidence showed he was carried or hurled a distance of 50 feet. Other witnesses were J. A. Donaldson, St. Philippe, and J. Boisvert, of Hawkesbury, who testified that Proulx had been in the dance hall and on leaving had walked eastward along the highway. The accident occurred about an acre distant from McEntyre's hall.

Traffic Officer Albert Legault investigated the mishap, with Detective R. Boucher from Montreal headquarters of the Provincial Police.

The victim, aged 39, was unmarried.

Brownsb'g Picnic Prompts Some Rueful Memories of Buggy Days

Specially Contributed by M. V. Trayers

Brownsburg — Favored with beautiful sunny skies the Brownsburg Social Club annual picnic opened its many festivities before a small crowd on July 1. The committee in charge apparently left nothing undone to insure success, and the usual children's sports were run off with great enthusiasm and gusto. The time-honored custom of giving every competitor a prize, with a little added to those coming in first three, still prevailed, so that the details of winners, places and times matter little. The overriding consideration was the fun of participation — and fun is a factor which we cannot transmit to paper.

The pattern of amusement changed from bygone days. The old neighborly association gave place to the more modern, sophisticated, "How do you do" attitude. The free and easy access to the events has perforce to twirl the turnstile. The concessions follow a more commercialized pattern. This, without disparagement to the efforts of those concerned, we mention in passing as "signs of the times". Lines of shining automobiles marshalled in even rows replaced the old horse and buggy grazing around the tree or stake. More efficient, more prosperous, more advanced — if not so picturesque, if not so homely.

And the crowd. We already said the crowd was small. Small as compared with the "good old days" — yet withal, quite a large crowd. It is a truism that a long week-end does not serve festive events such as this. The fact was borne out. But the crowd was in high glee. None of the old abandon, the old-time dances, the old fellowship. This was the modern, reserved expression of enjoyment. Thinking over the gradual change we wonder if progress (if such this is) is such a satisfying virtue.

That we are not alone in this thought became evident when one of the older generation brought forth a picnic program for the year 1903. It was a handsome brochure — none of your mimeographed fly leaves, but an honest-to-goodness program, of worthy appearance. A glance at its pages revealed some interesting data. Some of the committee members are still with us, many have passed on. Donors of prizes were numerous, Lachute being well represented. The scene is greatly changed since then. Some of the old-timer's reminiscences make us wonder if we really have progressed in the ways of enjoyment. . .

But the clouds were gathering. The sun became hidden. The sudden downpour cut short the idle moments. Some people thought it was the effects of the atom bomb from the far reaches of the Pacific! Whatever it was, it was time to go home. The picnic was over for another year.

N. River Couple 50 Years Married

MR. AND MRS. W. GRAHAM FETED BY THEIR FAMILY AND HOST OF FRIENDS

On Tuesday, June 25, about 135 friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Graham gathered at their home in North River to celebrate with them their golden wedding anniversary. This event was held near the scene of their wedding which took place June 25, 1896.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham — who were noted throughout the years as hospitable entertainers, and who on numerous occasions had opened their home for old-fashioned house warmings — were, as customary, the first on the floor calling for other couples to get a quadrille started.

Immediately after the serving of luncheon, order was called for by Lieut. R. V. Banks, a son-in-law, who on behalf of the guests presented the "bride and groom" with several bouquets of flowers, a number of lovely presents and a will filled purse.

Mr. Bert Mitchell, one of the several guests who had attended Mr. and Mrs. Graham's wedding, reminisced in a jocular vein, provoking much laughter.

Of their family of 11 children, all were present with the exception of Erle and his wife, who reside in Vancouver, B.C.

In the wee small hours, after singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows", the guests took their departure, leaving their heartiest wishes with the happy couple.

Arundel Scouts Held Camp at Beaven's Lake

Arundel —

Good weather was the most welcome visitor at the Arundel boys' camp held last week at the farm of Joe Boyd on Beaven's Lake. Under leadership of the Rev. E. C. Royle, Scoutmaster, assisted by Cyril Watson, the boys put in a busy week of scouting and campcraft.

The Arundel Scout Troop was reorganized with Ivan Rathwell, Earle Boyd, Bert Champagne, Gordon Moore, Robert Holdich, Charles Johnson, Lorne Thompson, Keith Rathwell and Owen Rathwell completing their Tenderfoot tests and being invested as Scouts. The Beaver Patrol, led by Ivan Rathwell and Robert Holdich, won the competition for the best patrol.

Other campers included — Willard Dubeau, Perley Dubeau, and Gerald Zanth, of Arundel; Val Morrison and Raymond Labrosse, from Weir; and Desmond Collins, Edward Collins and Clarence Mott, from Kasil.

Regular meetings of the reorganized troop will be held during the summer, and all boys interested will be welcomed.

Time and Labor Saved, Harvesting Of Green Crop

Considerable interest was displayed among farmers of the district in a new labor-saving ensilage harvester purchased recently by F. W. Allmen, of Carillon. The outfit, known as a forage-harvester, was used by Mr. Allmen to harvest green clover; it mows and chops the crop in one operation, delivering it while in motion, to a wagon or vehicle attached. At Carillon 50 acres were cut in four days, a crop of 200 tons — the blower delivering the ensilage to a wagon alongside. In forking the load to the silo filler, molasses was mixed in the process.

The machine, made by Massey-Harris, is tractor drawn, with power take-off. The forage-harvester is equally effective for corn harvesting or other green crops. Messrs. Albright & MacAdam, Lachute, supplied the equipment; it is the only one of its kind in the district.

Coroner Deceived; Skull Fracture Is Strawberry Crush

Returning from St. Jerome on Monday afternoon, Jules Lafleur, M.D., district coroner, rounded a curve a few miles east of Lachute and came upon a scene of blood and carnage which might have awed a man of less experience.

In the ditch beside the road a sedan car was resting upside down, its wheels still spinning in mid-air. In the torrential storm which was raging at the time, the physician halted his car, and with his brother and two other passengers, rushed to the scene. There were two men inside the upturned auto, apparently unconscious — one whose head appeared to be bleeding profusely. Removing the pair by the rear door, a cursory examination was made, but the doctor found both victims sound in wind and limb — one, in fact, quite content in his predicament and the other loath to be disturbed. The two were brothers; having visited town to sell strawberries from their farm, they had celebrated in the Dominion Day spirit — while the remaining boxes of berries accounted for the gory scene inside the car.

The coroner, having attended two inquests in the Laurentian region, was anxious to be on his way. Drenched to the skin, he and his companions left the victims to the aid of a neighboring farmer and called it a day.

Couple Feted on Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Adolphe Raymond, Lachute

Dominion Day was a gala occasion in the experience of Mr. and Mrs. Adolphe Raymond, well known Lachute residents, who were honored in a celebration marking their golden wedding anniversary.

Adolphe Raymond, resident of Lachute for the past 53 years, is widely known and esteemed through his past business associations with the public. His wife was formerly Anna Desjardins, of Carillon, where their marriage took place July 1, 1896 at the parish church. Of their union six children were born, four of whom are living — the Rev. Romeo Raymond, teacher in Montreal; Sister M. de St. Raymond (Berthe), of the Holy Cross, superior of St. Martin Convent; M. Therese, at home; and Philippe, of Lachute; also an adopted nephew and niece, Albert, of Verner, Ont., and Bernadette, at home — all of whom were present on this occasion.

A mass, celebrated by their son, the Rev. Fr. Romeo Raymond, at Ste. Anastasie Church, opened the observance on a note of fitting reverence. The church was beautifully decorated. The Rev. Fr. Lacourse delivered the sermon, expressing sincere felicitations to Mr. and Mrs. Raymond. Special singing accompaniment was given during the mass by Messrs. H. Fournier, Lachute, Mario Verdon, of CKAC, Montreal, and A. Roy, Ste. Therese, with Miss F. Larocque as organist.

Afterwards, dinner was served at the Auditorium to about 125 guests — Dupuis Freres being the caterers. . . During this phase of the celebration there were many happy tributes to the honored couple. Their son Philippe gave a fitting address, and their daughter Therese presented flowers, in the presence of Bernard, Daniele and Louise, three grandchildren. Brief speeches were given by the Rev. Fr. Lacourse; Gaetan Valois, notary; L. L. Legault, advocate, and several others.

Part of the afternoon was spent at Mr. Raymond's summer cottage just east of Lachute on the North River, after which the party returned to the Auditorium for supper and a pleasurable evening. Mr. and Mrs. Raymond received from their relatives and friends a handsome grandfather clock, and many other gifts.

Manager Retires After 51 Years at J. C. Wilson Mill

With Frank A. Brennian in his retirement as manager of J. C. Wilson Co. Ltd., go the memories of over half a century in this old established firm. For more than 51 years Mr. Brennian and the interests of the paper mill have been inseparable. He started his work with Wilson's after leaving school — in the time of the late Robt. Daw, mill superintendent, and the late Hubert Kearns, who had installed the bag-making machinery and was in charge of that department. Another colorful figure who passed on in the latter decade was Jim Carpenter, who served as millwright. Besides these men with whom he was associated in the past years, Mr. Brennian cherishes the privilege of having served three generations of the Wilson family here in Lachute — his first employer, the late J. C. Wilson; his son, the late Edwin H. Wilson; and his grandson, E. Kilgour Wilson, who has since relinquished active participation in the business.

Commencing in his early youth, Frank A. Brennian learned the job of papermaking from the ground up — in the mill and among the machines. Following his company's steady and conventional role, through the years he fostered the J. C. Wilson reputation for quality and reliability in their particular lines of manufacture. Always his work has been his keenest pleasure.

Effective July 1, Mr. Brennian retired to enjoy a well earned rest. His friends will cordially echo a sentiment expressed upon his departure — that in his retirement he may find as much happiness as he found in his work.

Funeral Rites to be Held where 24 Canadian Airmen Lost Lives

This photo shows what remains of the giant Liberator which disappeared in October, 1943, carrying 24 R.C.A.F. members to their death in the dense bush of the Laurentians. The wreckage was located 10 miles from St. Donat, north of here. . . Burial was made at the scene of the crash a week ago, a path being cleared through the bush. Funeral services will take place when priests and ministers of the various faiths will be taken to the site.

Splendid Response To Clothing Appeal

Reporting on the National Clothing Collection in this community, Philias Chabot, chairman, is gratified with the results, which he considers a credit to the generous spirit of the populace. A total approximating 3,350 lbs. of serviceable clothing has been shipped, or awaits shipment, from the collection centre to Montreal headquarters of the campaign.

About half a dozen trucks were placed in service for the canvass last Friday afternoon. The east ward of Lachute was handled by the local Legion, centre ward by the Lions Club, and west ward by the Knights of Columbus, while willing helpers assembled the material at the Auditorium and shipped the bulk of the collection on Tuesday; since then many other donations have been received.

Democracy must again become a moral force in the world before it can become a political success.

Brownsb'g Wins Appeal Reversing Judgment on Waterworks Lawsuit

Courts Assessed Damages Against Village In Claim for Alleged Breach of Contract

On September 28, 1944, the Corporation of the Village of Brownsburg was condemned to pay $5,000 and all costs in an action taken by J. A. Auclair, contractor, of Giffard, near Quebec, as damages for alleged breach of contract.

An appeal from this judgment was instituted, and the Court of Appeals rendered judgment last week, June 26, unanimously reversing the first judgment and dismissing the action for $25,000 which Auclair had instituted against the Village.

The facts in this case may be summarized as follows: . In 1940 at the beginning of the war, the Village of Brownsburg decided to provide the town with water-works and a sewerage system. The municipal council invited Messrs. Gohier & Dorais, civil engineers of Montreal, to prepare plans for the projected works.

Tenders were asked for the construction of the water-works and sewerage. The tender contained a clause which stipulated that $3. extra was to be paid for every cubic yard of rock excavated. This clause escaped the attention of the members of the council and the tender of Mr. Auclair was accepted for $118,000. However, when the council realized they had to pay $3. extra for every cubic yard of rock excavated, they immediately rescinded the resolution accepting Auclair's tender, and asked their engineers to prepare new tenders for a lump sum. The lowest tender was then submitted by Napoleon Lagacé, to whom the contract was awarded — whereupon Auclair took an action for $25,000 against the Corporation of Brownsburg, accompanied with a writ of injunction to prevent Lagacé from executing his contract.

The writ of injunction was quashed, and the action for $25,000 damages was contested by the Corporation on various grounds, as follows:-

(1) That the mayor had the right of veto and could refuse to sign the contract.

(2) That the acceptance of Mr. Auclair's tender did not constitute a contract.

(3) That the council had the right to rescind this resolution in order to protect the municipality from being involved in a larger expenditure than was allowed by the loan by-law.

Futhermore, under the Quebec law, "the owner may cancel the contract for the construction of a building or other works at a fixed price, although the work be begun, on indemnifying the workman for all his actual expenditure and labor, and paying damages according to the circumstances of the case." As only three days had elapsed between the acceptance of Auclair's tender and the cancellation of that acceptance, the contractor, it was argued, had not incurred any expenses and was not entitled to damages. What the contractor claimed as damages were the profits that he expected to make had he executed the contract — and such "damages" are not allowed according to the jurisprudence of our courts, for they are too uncertain, and depend on too many contingencies.

The Court of Appeals upheld the Corporation on these grounds of its defence, and unanimously reversed the judgment of the Superior Court, dismissing the action for $25,000 instituted by J. A. Auclair.

The bench was composed of Messrs. Justices Walsh (president of the Court), St. Jacques, E. M. McDougall, Gagné and Pratte, the latter two of Quebec.

Messrs. Legault & Legault, advocates of Lachute, acted for the Corporation of Brownsburg.

Form Flying Club At Hawkesbury

Hawkesbury—At a special meeting of the Hawkesbury Board of Trade held for the purpose of forming a Flying Club, the following were named as tentative directors — Clifton McKinnon, Harry Greenspoon, Leon Harcourt, Elaurie Pressault, Dr. Erwin Smith, Dr. A. Perrier, J. R. W. Lafrenière, A. A. Préfontaine, C. O'Gorman.

The president of the Board of Trade, Harry Greenspoon, outlined the advantages of having a Flying Club in the district, especially since there was a regular airfield at their disposal. It was because of the local demand for such a club that the meeting had been called, he added.

Ken Swerdfager, manager and secretary-treasurer of the Ottawa Flying Club, was present at the meeting in an advisory capacity. He outlined the steps to be taken in order to form a Flying Club, and offered to provide planes, instructors and crewmen until the Club could operate

Over 50 flying enthusiasts were present, and it is believed that Hawkesbury will have the organization in working order in a very short time.

Posters to Warn Against Wearing of Shorts in Public

At the regular session of Lachute Town Council, held last evening, Mayor Leopold Carriere read a telegram from the Quebec Minister of Roads to the effect that paving of Bedard Boulevard, Millway and Hamford Streets will be undertaken by the department, 100 per cent.

Construction permits were granted to Messrs. Henri Ouellette and Dumais.

Authorization was voted for the purchase of a lot from Geo. Y. Deacon, to permit the extension of Millway Street.

It was resolved, following complaints and discussion among the councillors, that posters be displayed to prohibit the wearing of shorts and immodest clothing by womenfolk on the local thoroughfares.

The sub-division plan covering the major part of lot No. 698 of the Parish of St. Jerusalem, comprising land belonging to the estate of the late George Fraser, was approved by the council.

The meeting was adjourned to July 10.

FARM TOPICS

Scaring the Birds

Down in Ellsworth, Maine, an ingenious farmer has a new invention to keep birds from eating his crops. Caught with the mood of this mechanical age, he has placed alarm clocks under tin pails, at various points throughout his fields. The alarms are set to sound off at intervals, and with the clocks under the pails, the clamor of the alarm is increased. The farmer claims his idea is a success. However, it is sad to see the old-fashioned scarecrow with its frock coat flapping in the breeze, being replaced by an alarm clock.

But success, it seems, is the thing, and the old-fashioned scarecrow was not always successful. We recall many occasions when hungry birds would defy the stationary man in the middle of the garden. And often as not they would add insult to injury by perching on one of the outstretched arms.

They say no invention is without its counter-measure. And so it is our wager that even though the Ellsworth farmer is having success just now, it won't be long before the hungry birds will get wise.

CASE OF THE FARMER

Farmers are, as they have been in the past, faced with an economic set-op that places them in an inferior position in sharing the national income. They must no longer be considered "forgotten people". — Salmon Arm Observer

Says Britain Must Produce Seed Oil

London (CP)—Production of seed oil on British farms both for industrial and edible purposes was forecast by speakers at a National Farmers' Union conference.

Gilbert McAllister, Labor Member of Parliament for Rutherglen, said it was imperative that Britain should produce a considerable quantity of her industrial and edible oils.

"I am confident experiments now taking place on many British farms will lead to development of large-scale production of oil-shed crop within a few years," he said.

GREATEST GAMBLE

Farmers . . . may not play the horses, put their hard-earned money on Billy Conn, or play the stock market like their city cousins, but they are in the greatest continuous gamble on earth and seem to like it, at least those we know appear to be happy and contented.

— Kentville (N.S.) Advertiser

A farmer and a professor were sharing a seat on a train. It was getting lonesome so the farmer started a conversation and they soon became a friendly pair.

"Let's have a game of riddles to pass the time," said the professor. "If I have a riddle you can't guess, you give me a dollar, or vice versa."

"All right," replied the farmer, "but as you are better educated than I am, do you mind if I only give 50 cents?"

"O.K.", said the professor. "You go first."

"Well, what animal has three legs walking and two legs flying?"

"I don't know. Here's your dollar. What is the answer?"

"I don't know either. Here's your fifty cents," replied the farmer.

SAYS FOOD CRISIS DEFIES SOLUTION

Vancouver (CP) — George S. Mooney, chief of the administrative council (European) of UNRRA., said in an interview that there is no solution to the world food crisis.

"The crisis is bad," he said, "and it is going to get worse, there is no solution."

He added that the problem is so vast and formidable that it has become a selective job. "It is no longer a matter of how many we can save," he said, "but whom to save."

"The barometer of human suffering is falling. People will die by the millions."

TIME TO GET TOUGH

It is about time the men and women who will have to pay for the strikes told the government that it should step in and act tough with both capital and labor, employer and employee.

She was married to Mr. Leeming in Montreal in 1896, and on January last they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

NOW THE LID IS OFF

The battle of the Atlantic was on. German submarines were infesting the Atlantic, trying to choke off the vital flow of Allied war supplies going overseas. It was a life and death struggle. But the Allies were not leaving anything to chance. Even if the sea battle were lost, essential war materials would continue to stream overseas. How this was to be done was a secret until now. A secret shared by government leaders and high-ranking officers of the Allied Nations with no one but top officers of the Canadian National Railways, which was to play a very important part in the plan. The planes and munitions were to be flown across the roof of the world from the United States and Canada. Air bases for the service were established along the route at Winnipeg, The Pas and Churchill in Manitoba; Southampton Island, in the mouth of the Hudson Bay; Frobisher Bay, in Baffin Land; and Greenland and Iceland. To construct them, millions of tons of building materials and equipment and foodstuffs to feed the workers on the multi-million dollar project, and millions of gallons of fuel and supplies were carried as far as Churchill, the most northerly point on the C.N.R. system, 1,000 miles from Winnipeg. Beyond Churchill they were flown in. Everything was ready. Fortunately, the battle of the Atlantic was won. But the experience gained in flying the route was invaluable. There is no doubt peacetime aviation will benefit much from the pioneering done in 1942 to keep the life-line of civilization open. In the upper photograph a string of tank cars carrying high grade fuel oil to the far northern airports is shown leaving Winnipeg. Inset, equipment is being unloaded from a C.N.R. freight car by United States Army personnel at Churchill.

FORECASTS BETTER INDIAN CONDITIONS

Music Teacher to Redmen Known as Chief White Eagle

Chilliwack, B.C. (CP) — The future of the Canadian Indian is brighter as a result of a conference Indian leaders and federal government officials held some time ago, W. G. Drinkwater, widely known for his work among the redmen, said in an address here.

Known to the local tribes as Chief White Eagle, Mr. Drinkwater was critical of the treatment of the Canadian Indian population.

"The schooling Indian children receive is no good at all," he said. "They receive three hours schooling and six hours gardening a day, and when they leave school to mingle in the outside world, they are scared stiff."

The speaker, who spent many years teaching music to the Indians, said some Indian agents are good and others bad. "Their word is law and there is no talking back".

"An Indian may fight for his country but may not enter a beer parlor," he said. "He gets beer at bootleg prices."

However, the situation now looked brighter as the result of recent conferences. The new deal included family allowances, purchase of farming equipment and other aids to Indian living standards.

HUNTERS FIND GAME ABUNDANT

Most Ontario Wild Life Seems More Plentiful This Year

Ottawa (CP) — Although it is unlawful to take any bullfrog during the months of June and July, sportsmen will find that Ontario this year still has an abundance of other and more satisfactory wild game.

"Because so many of the sportsmen were in the services and ammunition was scarce as well," said S. C. Hudson, Ottawa district inspector, Ontario Department of Game and Fisheries, "there is plenty of game for everyone if it is taken legally".

A probable repercussion from the meat shortage was the increased use of the "Jacklight" to attract deer. Despite this illegal practice, deer are more plentiful than ever, though Mr. Hudson thought it unlikely that areas which now have a closed season will ever be thrown open.

On the other hand feathered game has not fared as well. A recent survey of the duck population shows a decrease from 125,350,000 in 1944 to 80,000,000 in 1946. This is due in large part to the greatly increased number of duck hunters in both Canada and the United States.

Partridges also are declining but this is attributed to a periodical cycle and to unfavorable winters, rather than to hunters.

Fish are plentiful. The department has guarded against depletion of streams by making frequent additions of fry and fingerlings. With two fish days in the week, there has been some increase in illegal poaching and in the use of nightlines and nets. Fish and game clubs acting in co-operation with department game overseers have helped to curb this illegal practice.

"If we could persuade people to take only what they can consume, we would have more than enough game," said Mr. Hudson. "Some people are bound that they must get all they are allowed, even if they have to destroy most of what they take."

Stupidity is not the only form of incompetence. Add obstinacy, cupidity, maliciousness and fear.

Victoria (CP) — The current paper shortage caused by the loggers' strike has hit the city tax department, delaying issuance of tax bills for more than a week.

"Teens and 20's Club" A Promising Venture

HAVE YOU EVER noticed how young folks enthuse over the "club" idea? Thrilled, perhaps — awed a little, perhaps — over the affiliations of their elders with some club, council, lodge or organization . . when the day comes that they can follow their example and participate in such groups, it is a milestone of maturity in their young lives. And surely this is the time to fan the fire of ardor — to direct creative energy into the channels of good living.

For understandable reasons, viewing the conditions of the past few years, juvenile delinquency has reached ominous proportions. So we find an earnest effort to counteract the trend, by means of teen clubs, youth centres and schoolboy towns all nurtured, firmly but unobtrusively, by the older citizens. In Lachute, this past season, there were Saturday night dances sponsored along this line by the local Women's Institute. And latterly, in Brownsburg, a "Teens and 20's Club" was organized, starting its program with a similar series of dances for the young folk but with other varied attractions in view. The name itself is a happy thought, appealing to the various age groups to which it caters.

To those who, at the expense of personal pleasures and pastimes, give their time and effort to boost the youngsters in this wholesome activity — the community doffs its hat in sincere respect.

British Belts Tighter

WHEN A WAR BRIDE in Toronto said she felt "heartsick for my people back home" as she read of the British cabinet decision to ration bread in the United Kingdom, she was expressing the thoughts of thousands of Canadians who served on the little island fortress during the war.

For war brides, their Canadian husbands and other servicemen who grew to admire Britons for their courage and patience, it was difficult to realize that belts would have to be tightened still further now that peace has been restored to their bomb-battered land.

Nine ounces a day, the basic ration established by Food Minister John Strachey, may sound ample to Canadians who have plentiful supplies of other foods. But servicemen will tell you that the ration will cut deeply into Britain's scanty diet.

One Canadian bakery official estimated the average Canadian eats only 4½ ounces of bread daily, but the average Canuck also eats all the meat, fish, vegetables and fruit he desires.

In England where the meat ration has now been increased by two pence to 12.4d. (28 cents) a week it's a different story. Canadian soldiers recall that in British homes where housewives are tired from standing daily in long queues for their meagre rations, folks satisfy their hunger with butterless bread and maybe a little rationed cheese or jam.

When the government asks Canadians not to waste bread it does so with the hope more food will be made available to those in Europe who suffered the horrors of war while we lived in comparative comfort. Careless restaurant patrons still waste thousands of loaves a day by nibbling one or two bites from a bun and leaving the remainder for the garbage.

Canada's fighting men know plucky Britons will pull in their belts and grin once more, but if those veterans could issue a joint plea it probably would be: "Please save food for those who helped to save your homes."

MRS. ROOSEVELT says recent actions at United Nations conferences by Russian delegates are merely signs of a national inferiority complex. That may be so, but let us remember Russia's complex is backed up by strong armed forces.

EIRE is out to get back her British market in bacon, lost during the war. We hope the British buyers will show some gratitude to Canadian producers for wartime assistance, by continuing to purchase Canadian bacon.

WELL, SCHOOL is over for the summer and the lucky kids will be hiking themselves off to the country and the lake shore; and I am sure that many a grown-up will envy the small fry — especially the long vacation.

— Pictou (N.S.) Advocate

THE "HOLIDAY" question in the town is becoming nothing less than a nuisance. We now have several days during the year labelled "statutory holidays" by Ottawa, but optional as far as towns are concerned, with the merchants and citizens uncertain until the day is at hand whether stores and other businesses are closing. This causes no end of inconveniences to the housewives alone in preparing and shopping for a two-day menu.

Tribute to A Fellow Lion — Called to Higher "Service"

DEATH stalked into the ranks of the Lions Club at Sherbrooke on Wednesday last and removed one of its most valued members — quiet, genial Don Elliott, past-president and recently elected deputy district governor of Zone 19, Lions International.

Don's affiliation with Sherbrooke Lions Club goes back to its inaugural days. He was a charter member and occupied the post of president in 1944-45, and under his guidance the organization experienced one of its most successful years. He was a leader and hard worker, and his initiative and enterprise were great assets from which the club benefitted.

His memory will long remain with all who had the privilege of knowing him, not only members of the Lions Club but also the many staunch friends he had won by his fine qualities of heart and mind, his broad outlook and the friendship he was always ready to extend in such generous measure.

Though but 30 years of age, his fine example will forever remain an inspiration and guiding light.

Who Pays the Taxes

INTERESTING FACTS are published in "Taxation Statistics", issued by the Department of National Revenue. The information shows that the majority of revenue is paid by taxpayers in the middle-income brackets.

Income taxes amounted to $681,766,000 in 1945. The breakdown of the tax payments was:

2,140 persons with incomes between 25,000 and $50,000 paid $42,953,000.

500 persons with incomes between $50,000 and $100,000 a year paid $22,920,000.

160 persons with incomes over $100,000 paid $24,482,000.

Persons earning between $1,000 and $5,000 numbering 1,874,000 in all, paid $384,866,000, or more than half the total revenue. The breakdown was:

1,252,000 persons with incomes ranging from $1,000 to $2,000 a year paid $145,000,000.

478,000 persons with incomes ranging from $2,000 to $3,000 a year paid $137,000,000.

144,000 people with incomes ranging from $3,000 to $5,000 a year paid $101,000,000.

There is little doubt then, who pays the greater percentage of the income tax-revenue — it's the middle-class people — the workers in factories and offices, the people engaged in small businesses.

We hope that when the promised cut in income taxes becomes a realization, the small wage earner will be the first to get relief.

Out of the Past

TWENTY YEARS ago, when that popular new fad called radio was the latest thing, people who still depended on the phonograph for entertainment were old-fashioned. This magic new box would play for hours, and frequently did — much to the annoyance of neighbors. It offered such a variety of amusement that the phonograph was put away in the attic and forgotten, except for the occasional time when it was brought out to amuse youngsters born after the advent of radio.

Well, strange as it may seem, the phonograph has greatly increased in popularity during the last five years, indeed to such an extent that there are now over 200 companies in the United States engaged in the manufacture of records, whereas in 1935 there were only four big companies. The boom seems to be in popular music, which accounts for 80 per cent of the sales. Most probable factors influencing the popularity of records are juke boxes, singers like Bing Crosby, songs made hits through the medium of radio and movies — and the fact that people have more money to spend. There is another reason. Records are now played on combination radio-phonograph machines which require no winding. Some are constructed with ingenious devices, even playing as many as ten records in succession, and then automatically turning them over and playing the opposite sides.

While we are on the subject of comebacks — the zoot suit pants with the narrow bottoms are not so far removed from the stove-pipe trousers father used to wear.

Maybe fashions go in cycles. Are we likely then to see hoop skirts with numerous petticoats on the ladies again, and will men return to wearing celluloid collars? Will individual shaving mugs ever appear on the barber's shelf, and will the price of a good cigar come down to a nickel? — Who can tell?

SHOES go up in price. Another kick in the pants.

RADAR TRIALS FOR NAVIGATION ON GREAT LAKES

Royd Beamish on CBC News Roundup

Radar — the great seeing eye of the armed forces — is being groomed for peacetime use on the Great Lakes. And Canada is in the van of this postwar development, just as she was when radar was needed for war. Right this minute, the department of transport, the meteorological service and the National Research Council are collaborating on a series of experiments with radar as an aid to navigation. One of their experiments, this week, in fact, gave rise to a news despatch which suggested that radar-reflection buoys were to be installed near Frenchman's Bay to guide ships on Lake Ontario.

It turned out, on investigation, that the report was a bit premature. Radar hasn't reached quite that stage yet. The reflecting buoys are being installed, all right, but not to aid navigation. What's happening is this. The meteorological service is operating an experimental radar station in Scarboro. They're putting buoys — if you're a Great Lakes sailor you'll probably call them booeys — in the lake to give them a constant target to shoot at, because otherwise they could only carry on their experiments while ships were passing in the vicinity. And they're experimenting with various wave lengths to find out which ones will penetrate clouds, rain and snow the best. Right now those three elements send back radar signals that could be mistaken for solid objects. The researchers are trying to find the surest way through them to make radar even more foolproof than ever.

The Canadian lightship Grenville is equipped with radar now and to date the records show that navigation in the severest weather is vastly simplified. When the most efficient set has been evolved, other ships will be similarly equipped. It's estimated that it will cost from $25,000 to $30,000 to install radar in a lake ship, but some people closely connected with the present research program believe the cost element may be reduced by having the government own the equipment and rent it to lake vessels at a comparatively nominal figure for each shipping season.

Listen to any speech on international relations, read any article, and you're reminded that no world organization, nor even civilization itself, can stand except on the foundation of a genuine fellowship of peoples.

A genuine fellowship of peoples! That takes some real doing. And by us the ordinary, garden variety citizens! For certainly, political and economic institutions, essential as they are, won't do the trick alone. No more than will mere amiable good will.

But at least we don't have to start from scratch. Already at our disposal are a few tested instruments — a few proven means of expressing our good will, effectively. One of these is YMCA World Service. — For 57 years YMCA representatives have been creating bonds of friendship between North Americans and the most progressive elements of many lands — building a vast partnership of like-minded men the world over. They are working ambassadors, cooperating in a spirit of true equality in Christian service with youth.

— Last year, mail campaigns in 40 smaller centres through Ontario and Quebec helped to foster this worthy service. And besides, such contributions helped to establish four new YMCA's in Ontario. Lachute contributed $115 of this amount. . . The volunteer field representative has again appealed for support in this community. The Lachute committee comprises — Chas. L. Duncan, Dr. F. W. FitzGerald and W. M. Steeves, who will gladly accept and forward donations for YMCA promotion work.

DEFENDS ADERTISING

The Soviet government does not permit or believe in advertising. It is questionable whether it will get very far in building up the Russian standard of living if it continues its present attitude. The cheapest goods are those that move quickly from producer to consumer, and most costly those that remain unsold on merchants' shelves.

THINK BEFORE YOU VOTE

Running a city is important business, not to be considered lightly. It is just as complicated as running a large departmental store. When you nominate or vote for a candidate you should give it the same thought that you would give if you owned that big store and were hiring someone to run it.

The Garden-Graph

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Canadian

Although dahlias are strong appearing plants they often are beset with insect enemies which while they may not kill the plants will make life miserable for them.

The dahlia stalk borer is a hidden enemy, whose presence is first indicated by the wilting of the top portion of the main stalk. Investigation will reveal this pest tunneling inside the stalk, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph. The borer feeds upon the inner lining of the stalk.

Close inspection of the stalk, the top of which has wilted, will reveal the hole through which the borer has entered. If the stalk is slit just above the hole, the borer usually will be revealed.

The borer should be extracted from the stalk and killed. The slit portion of the stalk should then be tied together with raffia or a soft twine and it will heal in a short time.

Tiny white flies also are enemies of dahlias. When they first make their appearance the inexperienced gardener is not apt to pay much attention to them. They hide under the leaves, however, and breed rapidly. The young, wingless "nymphs" which are produced live by sucking the plant juices. Soon clouds of these tiny insects will arise when the plant upon which they are lodged is shaken. The appearance of these white flies upon dahlia leaves is illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

Unless controlled, white flies will interfere with the normal development of the dahlia foliage and also cause malformed flowers. To control them spray thoroughly with nicotine or pyrethrum and a soap mixture.

PET GROUNDHOG

Grand Valley, Ont. (CP) — Most Ontario farmers are sworn enemies of groundhogs — but Jack Clogg, who farms near this Dufferin County village, caught one and tried it out as a pet. Now it roams the farm at will, comes when whistled for and plays with the family dog.

"MOONSHINERS" BEWARE

Charlottetown (CP) — Ten members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police have been assigned to stamp out illegal manufacturing of alcoholic spirits in "dry" Prince Edward Island. They will devote all their time to the search for stills throughout the province.

LAW ABIDING CAT

Prince Albert, Sask. (CP)—Prince Albert's new civic by-law against jay-walking is being taken seriously by all residents. A cat stepped off the curb at the main intersection recently and crossed the street — carefully keeping between the white lines painted for pedestrians.

BOYD — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Cyril, who passed away July 10, 1936. — Ever remembered by Mother and Family.

"There's an open gate at the end of the road
Through which each must go alone,
And there is a light we cannot see,
Our Father claims his own.
Beyond the gate our loved one
Finds happiness and rest,
And there is comfort in the thought
That a loving God knows best."

CAMPBELL — In loving memory of Mother and Grandmother, Margaret Campbell, who passed away July 20, 1942. — Always remembered by her daughter, Lulu, Earl and grandchildren.

"Our loving darling, so gentle and kind,
What a beautiful memory she left behind,
Long days, long nights, she bore her pain
To wait for cure, but all in vain,
Till God himself knew what was best,
He took her home and gave her rest."

CARSON — In loving memory of Father and Mother, who passed away July 6, 1944, and July 16, 1928,—Ever remembered by Isabel and Lois.

COMBIE — In loving memory of our dear father, George Robert Combie, who passed away July 6, 1944.—Sadly missed by his daughter and sons.

"In a grave he is quietly sleeping
Where the green grass gently grows,
Lies the one who loved us dearly,
Whom we loved and could not save.
"To those who have a father,
Treasure him with care,
For you never know his value
Till you see his vacant chair."

MORROW — In loving memory of my mother, who passed away July 1, 1941. — Susie.

"In the shadow of His wings
There is rest, sweet rest,
There is sweet peace and joy."

YOUNG — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, who was accidentally killed July 5, 1935. —Lovingly remembered by his wife and family.

"Not lost to those who loved him,
Not dead, just gone before;
He still lives in our memories
And will, for evermore."

Warm hearts make sound homes. Hot heads break them.

Sectional Rally Of W.M.S. Held at Presbyt'n Church

St. Andrews East—The sectional rally of the Montreal Presbyterial of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church was held in the Margaret Rodger Memorial Church, Lachute, on Wednesday evening, June 26.

Greetings were extended to the visitors from Montreal and St. Andrews East by Miss Maud McLeod.

The devotional period was taken by Mrs. M. McCullough, of St. Andrews East.

Miss Margaret Rowat, the president, brought greetings from the Presbyterial.

A beautiful solo, "Beside the Still Waters", was sung by Mrs. Wilkie, accompanied by Mrs. R. A. Kerr.

In introducing the speaker, Mrs. J. D. Wilkie, Mrs. Kerr expressed the Rev. Wilkie's regrets that he had been unable to attend because of important business in connection with the re-establishment of the Presbyterian College in Montreal. Mrs. Wilkie, who for five years shared her husband's work in Formosa, gave an informative talk on conditions there. She and her husband were finally forced to come home because of Japanese animosity to Christian work. Mrs. Wilkie expressed great admiration for the Chinese people there, and made a strong appeal to young people to train themselves for work in the Formosan and other missionary fields. She had with her many specimens of handwork and wearing apparel made by the natives. Mrs. Wilkie has four young sons, three of whom speak the Chinese language fluently, thanks to a native woman who lived and helped with the work in their home.

An opportunity to meet the Montreal visitors, which included Dr. R. A. Kerr and Mrs. McClury, was given by the ladies of Lachute Auxiliary after the meeting, when they served refreshments in the church hall.

HEART SURGERY SAVES VETERAN

Delicate Operation Restores Impeded Blood Circulation

Winnipeg (CP) — Some of the unheralded drama that is routine wherever veterans are invalided was made public here recently by officials of Deer Lodge Military Hospital.

Pte. Fred Compton, of Ste. Rose du Lac, Man., was stricken with pleurisy and pneumonia while a prisoner-of-war in Germany. The tissues around his heart became inflamed, and thickened so that blood circulation became impaired. He was brought to Canada last August and after a period in various military hospitals was admitted to Deer Lodge here.

Making an incision through the chest wall, a Deer Lodge surgeon exposed the soldier's heart, and the delicate operation of removing the tough, gristle-like mass adhering to it was performed. His condition since the operation, one of the most unusual of its kind, has been reported as "very satisfactory". His pulse beat has become more regular and breathing improved.

The critical nature of the operation was explained to Compton before anything was done. He agreed wholeheartedly to the surgeon's plan to operate, and expressed eagerness to take a chance to regain his health.

Compton served overseas with the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders of Winnipeg. He was captured in France shortly after D-Day.

MUSIC INTEREST GROWS

Aside from the actual marks received by the various musicians and singers taking part in music festivals there is something deeper to be gained from sessions such as these. The art of appreciation greatly developed, music is placed on a more intimate level and, as interest grows, all performances, whether on the stage or on the air become personal comparisons.

'La Boheme' Opens Starlight Series

No opera in the repertory is more popular and beloved by the people than La Boheme, which the Montreal Festivals have chosen for their first excursion into out-door opera. Puccini's celebrated work is to be given at Molson Stadium in Montreal on Wednesday, July 10, with full Metropolitan cast starring Grace Moore, and with all the dramatic appurtenances — an exact replica, in fact, of the production seen and heard regularly at the great opera house in New York City.

La Boheme is fifty years old, having had its premiere in Turin on February 1, 1896. It was first heard on this continent in San Francisco two months later, reaching the Metropolitan on December 16, 1900, since when it has been sung nearly 300 times, a record surpassed only by Aida, Faust, Carmen and Lohengrin, all of them much older works.

The gay irresponsible people Puccini and his librettists took from Henri Murger's novel of the Paris Latin Quarter, the pathos of the love of the poet Rodolph and the little seamstress, Mimi, the unforgettable street scenes, these and Puccini's melodious and highly personal music, are felt to be mainly responsible for the extraordinary appeal of the work.

THIS SALESMAN TRAVELS BY AIR

Halifax (CP) — Have you heard the one about the travelling salesman. . . . . ? Well, this one about Jack Fawkes is different, for Fawkes claims to be the first travelling salesman in Canada to pilot his plane about the country calling on customers.

Fawkes, a member of the Winnipeg Flying Club, took off from Dartmouth Airport near here on the first leg of a coast-to-coast business trip. He expected to call on all the customers of his Toronto firm and be in Vancouver in about two weeks.

A pilot for many years, Fawkes is enthusiastic about the possibilities of making business trips by plane.

"No schedules to keep; I can come and go when I please," he said. "It's way ahead of the train or automobile, and cheaper."

The traveller-pilot said he had made his first trip in his light, Canadian-built plane from Toronto to Halifax by way of Charlottetown at a cost of only $22.

Plumber (arriving late): "How have you managed?"

Householder: "Not so badly. While we were waiting for you to come, I taught the children to swim."

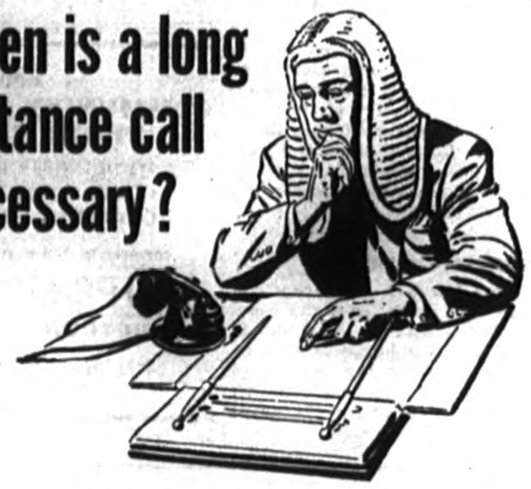

VANISHING TROUSERS

Toronto (CP) — Ollie Gaudet awoke early one morning to see his trousers slowly disappearing through the transom above his hotel room door. He rushed out of the room to see a man fleeing down the hall with the trousers. The man dropped the pants, entered a room and was later arrested by police, whom Gaudet summoned.

HOMELESS BEAR CUB

Salmon Arm, B.C. (CP)—A home for a brown bear cub is being sought by Dr. S. Z. Bennett, Fish and Game Association president, who recently found a home in the Calgary Zoo for Bambi, a tame deer. The cub was found nestled against the bodies of its mother and another cub which had been shot.

When is a long distance call necessary?

You are the best judge. We think every call is important. That's why we try our best to put it through quickly.

But more people are making more Long Distance calls than ever before — even more now than in the war years.

We are building new equipment and getting it into service as fast as we can. But right now there's often more traffic than we can take care of the way we'd like, and delays do occur.

We'd appreciate your help a little while longer. This summer, especially, please continue to ask yourself: "Is this Long Distance call necessary?"

WHEN YOU PLACE a Long Distance Call.::
FIRST, give the operator the name of the distant city . . .
THEN, the telephone number of your party . . .
THEN, when the operator asks it, your own telephone number.
If you don't know the distant telephone number, please make a note of it for future use when you hear the operator repeat it.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF CANADA

TO THOSE WHO NEED MONEY... a useful purpose

For many a Borrower SAVING is still No. 1. . .

For many of our borrowing customers, saving is still the prime consideration. For them, the time to borrow is equally the time to save . . . borrowing and saving go hand in hand.

Thousands of our borrowers have sizable holdings of Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates, which they leave with us for safekeeping. Indeed, a good many have substantial cash reserves in their savings accounts.

Why, then, do they borrow from the Bank?

Simply because they want to keep their savings intact and undisturbed—as a bulwark of security.

These people are performing a real service not only to themselves, but to their fellow citizens and to the country at large . . .

By maintaining their programme of regular saving, they are guarding against inflation.

How? . . . By conservation.

Conservation in personal financing is practised by a large proportion of our customers. By borrowing for some useful purpose, and by making regular repayments on their loan, they are—in reality—saving for a useful purpose, and increasing profitable production for the community. Meanwhile, they are keeping their savings intact.

This is wise spending, wise borrowing and wise saving.

These people are good customers, they are good citizens and their personal financing is sound.

This is conservation—the first requisite for personal security—the first attribute of good citizenship . . .

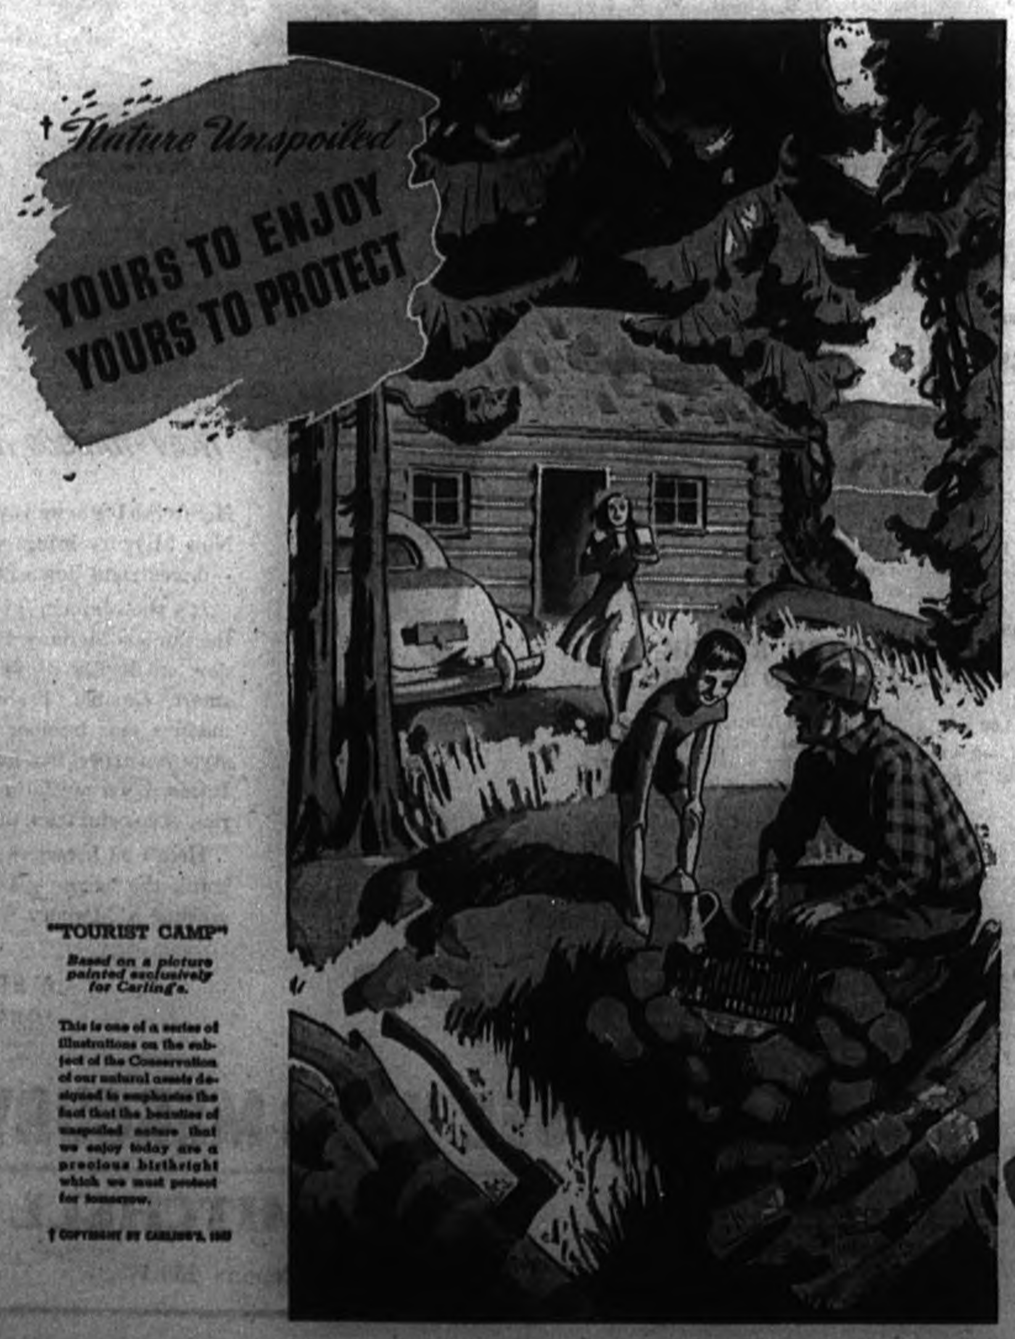

To Our Customers,

we say: "Don't borrow unless you have to, but if you need money for some useful purpose, by all means get a loan from the Bank."

We also say: "Don't sell your Victory Bonds . . . if you need cash, get a low-cost loan and pay it back out of future earnings."

"TOURIST CAMP"

This is one of a series of illustrations on the subject of the Conservation of our natural assets designed to emphasize the fact that the beauties of unspoiled nature that we enjoy today are a precious birthright which we must protect for tomorrow.

Where Good Neighbours Meet

New York, Connecticut, Ohio, Maine . . . think of any State you wish and you're sure to see its name on the license plate of a car somewhere in Quebec during the summer. Each year, with the unerring directness of migratory water-fowl, millions of American tourists come north to Quebec. They come because Quebec offers them Nature—unspoiled and unblemished. They come to revel in those joys of the outdoors which we are prone to take too much for granted.

In their travels and during their stay here the money they spend forms the basis of a $30,000,000 industry, bringing an added measure of prosperity to all of us.

Like any asset, the tourist industry must be protected. This we can do most surely and easily by protecting and conserving the heritage of natural beauty and wildlife for our own enjoyment as well as theirs.

Every Canadian, as a shareholder in Canada's natural wealth, has a vital interest in the conservation of this heritage.

Conservation is not just a doctrine to be preached to hunters and fishermen. It is a vital part in the continuance of our national economy, and must, of necessity, fail if its measures do not receive the full support of all Canadian citizens.

TODAY'S BEAUTIES OF THE WHITE WAY ARE INTELLECTUAL

Glamor Girls Need More Than Mere Sex Appeal On Broadway Today

New York (CP) — Until a couple of years ago the most glamorous women in this glamor-bitten town were the show girls, the tall, terrific hot-house, night-blooming specimens who perhaps did not have the ultimate in intelligence but more than made up that deficiency with physical beauty. They were the reason for stage-door-Johnnies, easy minks and handy limousines and the suspicion that every chorus girl was being kept in a Park Avenue flat.

These gals were really glamorous; sometimes just to be seen in the company of the ranking Ziegfeld blond or the most notable Earl Carroll lovely was enough to turn some quiet little businessman into a sudden Diamond Jim Brady.

Not today, though. The chorus girls now mostly are young ladies of ballet rather than tap dancing preferences, who work hours every day on their own time to improve their ballet accomplishments. When their shows are over at night they go home, tired out.

The real glamor kids now are photographer's models. John R. Powers, Harry Conover and Walter Thornton have the same abilities in the beauty business that distinguished Ziegfeld, Carroll and George White. Furthermore, the models of today are so resourceful with their clothes, and wear them so well that the youngsters of the country are imitating their dressing preferences as much as they once copied the movie stars.

Here in New York girls even have come to copy that sign of the modelling craft, the men's hat box in which a Conover or Powers cutie carries her make-up and whatever is needed for the next modelling job. Once the familiar hatbox was a sure sign that the young lady carrying it was a model; now it may be any kid from Brooklyn or Staten Island on the way to the country for the week-end.

Today's Girls More Serious

These girls are smarter as a class than the show girls of past popularity. They seem to be more interested in serious matters than their grease-painted counterparts. There are a few who make a profession out of saloon environments but they usually lose size as models, for the night life reflects on the pretty features which should be clear and unbaggy when some lens-genius starts clicking his shutter at nine a.m. The show girls of champagne and whoopee tradition were just going to bed at that time 20 years ago.

Outside of its attractions to Hollywood scouts and Broadway producers who are on the constant prowl for beauty and talent, there is not much future in modelling as a profession itself. There is a very good present in it, though. Models of the Candy Jones and Anita Colby type make from $250 to $500 a week if they want to work constantly, which they usually do.

Miss Colby, for instance, knew modelling couldn't become a permanent career and left to become a sort of exalted glamor assistant to David Selznick, travelling about the country blinding folks with her beauty and charm and in the process advertising Selznick's films.

Candy Jones abandons modelling from time to time for more remunerative offers, such as a recent tour for a cosmetics firm which paid her the not unattractive amount of $100 a day.

BRITISH FILM STAR CONSIDERED EXPORT

Veteran Mimic Florence Desmond Visits America for Stage Tour

New York (CP) — Lovely Florence Desmond, veteran English mimic, is being "sold" for dollars to the highest bidder in America by the British Board of Trade.

It was Florence's own idea and she likes it: "It was all very simple", she said in an interview shortly after arriving in New York. "I went to the Board of Trade and explained I wanted to work on the stage in America.

"But they would only let me take 100 pounds sterling out of England, and I also had to have a contract in America before sailing.

"So I made them a proposition whereby they would permit me to take up to 10 pounds a day for six weeks, plus an allowance for a wardrobe. Naturally, all the dollars I earn above expenses and taxes I have to give to the Board of Trade in exchange for sterling when I return home to 100 Albion Gate in London.

"They fixed up my passage like that", she snapped her fingers and lighted another cigarette. "It's a wonderful arrangement. I make dollars. And they certainly need dollars. They're trying to borrow several billion dollars over here right now, you know."

It all had something to do with exports, she explained, with Britain forced to expand exports in order to get dollars so that food and things could be purchased with the dollars and so on.

"I guess," she said with a tragic gesture, "I'm just an export."

DIFFICULT CHILDREN

Perhaps the worst thing in this country is the child problem — the problem of children whom landlords do not want, and of those who are unwanted even by their parents. It is strange, when people look at the problem in a normal way. People used to want children as a matter of course. The heart of the difficulty seems to be not a dislike of children but rather a fear of the difficulties which come with them when the parents, either in war or peacetime find themselves in situations that make it hard to take care of the youngsters.

Hints for Homebodies

By Jessie Allen Brown

OUR BIRD FRIENDS

A whippoorwill is residing near our place this year. When it sings just after the sun goes down it sounds very interesting, but when you hear that persistent whip-poor-will just before the sun comes up, so loud that it wakes everyone in the neighborhood, it is not so popular. It seems to go on without ever drawing a breath, and often in the middle of its song it breaks into double time and then after a few bars slows down again. One morning just after breakfast we looked out the window and there were at least fifty goldfinches in a few feet of the cedar hedge. They were eating something because they tugged hard. They went at it systematically and ate their way down the hedge. The male birds are such a bright yellow, they are always a joy to watch. The cedar waxwings arrive with the apple blossoms. However do they know the exact moment to arrive? They seem to eat the petals and their waxy red coats in the near-by apple trees add to the picture.

A LITTLE LESS

Many restaurants and hotels are making a serious effort to eliminate waste of bread and rolls. One hotel which used to serve a roll to each person and found that many of them were wasted, now puts a plate of rolls on each table. There may be some who will take a second roll when they are available in this way but this is more than offset by the number who do not take any, and a considerable saving is made. I noticed at another hotel that they served just one slice of toast at breakfast instead of the customary two that they formerly served. They pass a plate of toast so any one wanting the second piece can have it. They say that they are saving a considerable amount of bread this way as few people want the second slice. All these little savings both in hotels and restaurants and in the homes when added together can make a large amount of bread saved. We can all do with a little less if we really try.

QUICK TRICKS

Manicure preparations have many uses other than their intended one. I managed to get a pair of nylons and saved them for an occasion. Unfortunately I had some adhesive on my leg and the bandage shifted just enough to get some adhesive on my precious stocking. I went to the head of the stocking department in one of the stores and she told me that nail polish remover would take off the adhesive and would not hurt the nylons. So that is something to know. Most of us have dabbed a bit of nail polish on a stocking to stop a run. Many clever girls use colored nail polish to paint all sorts of fripperies. If you have some jewelry which discolors your skin in the summer, paint the back of it with natural nail polish and that will do the trick.

WARTIME CANNING

The Department of Agriculture has an excellent pamphlet 'Wartime Canning' and if you do not have it already it would be advisable to send for it. It is free for the asking. It used to be that after fruit was canned and the bottles cooled, then they were screwed tightly, often the man of the house doing it as he had the most strength. It has been found that this last screwing is all wrong as it is apt to break the seal. Jars should be tightened after the processing is finished, while they are still hot and then not touched again. It was common practice to turn the jars upside down while hot to test for leaking. This too, is wrong. Jars should never be inverted until cool. The contents of the jars usually shrink in canning and many women opened them and filled them up. Jars should not be opened. The space at the top helps keep the fruit as it is a vacuum. Oven processing is the easiest method of all but this should only be used if the oven is automatically controlled and can be held at the same temperature.

STRAWBERRY PRESERVEES

Many people like strawberries richer than the canned variety. Here is my recipe for a juicy preserve, not as thick as jam, but with plenty of thick rich juice. Wash, then hull five quart boxes of fully ripened strawberries. Add 7 cups of sugar, 1 cup of water, and a heaping teaspoon of butter. If you like the fruit mashed, do this before adding the sugar. Many like it this way while others prefer the whole fruit. Let stand for a little while to extract the juice. Bring to the boil and stir frequently Test occasionally by putting a little juice on a cold saucer and when the juice is as thick as you like it, bottle in sterilized jars then seal. Makes 5 pints.

BANANA PEANUT BREAD

½ Cup shortening, ⅜ cup granulated sugar 2 eggs well beaten, 1¾ cups sifted flour, 2 teaspoons of baking powder ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ cup salted peanuts , 1 cup mashed ripe bananas.

Cream shortening, add sugar gradually, and beat until light and fluffy. Add eggs, and mix thoroughly. Sift in the dry ingredients and add alternately with the bananas. Add nuts. Pour into a buttered loaf pan and bake in a moderate oven of 350 degrees for about an hour.

How to Cook Without Cooking the Cook

This could be a $64 question on a quiz program. A homemaker of many years' experience could probably answer that question, but it might puzzle a bride.

No matter how hot it is, some people insist on having hot food, never thinking of course, about the person who has to slave in the kitchen. The time has yet to come when cooking may be done with light-rays and eliminate heat entirely, but there are a number of things that help reduce cooking discomforts in hot weather.

For instance, the number of burners used may be reduced to a minimum when a gas, electric or oil stove is used. In the case of a wood or coal stove, it is a little more complicated, but menus can be so planned that the cooking for the whole day is done early in the day, when it is still reasonably cool. The double-boiler may be used to cook several foods at one time. The bottom part can cook vegetables while a dessert or a sauce is being cooked in the top part. If the oven has to be heated for one dish, it is a good idea to make it do at least double duty.

Home economists of the Dominion Department of Agriculture suggest the following recipes:

Veal Loaf

¼ Cup finely chopped onion, 2 tablespoons fat melted, 2 lbs. of ground veal (shoulder or breast), 1 tablespoon vinegar, 1 egg or 2 egg yolks, 2 tablespoons milk, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon thyme, ¼ teaspoon sage, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, ½ cup fine dry bread crumbs.

Saute the onion in hot fat until tender. Combine with remaining ingredients and blend well. Shape into loaf and bake in a shallow pan, in a moderate oven, 350°F, for 1 hour. Six to eight servings.

Steamed Cherry Pudding

2 Cups pitted cherries, ⅓ cup sugar, 1 cup of sifted all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons of mild-flavored fat, ½ cup milk.

Place pitted cherries into the greased top of a double boiler. Add sugar. Mix and sift the dry ingredients, cut in fat and add the milk. Spread the dough over the berries. Set over boiling water, cover and steam 35 minutes. Turn out to serve. Six servings.

Fruit Crush

3 Cups fruit (pitted cherries, strawberries, raspberries, red currants), ¼ cup sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 1½ tablespoons gelatine, ⅓ cup cold water.

Crush fruit, add sugar and salt. Bring slowly to a boil. Add gelatine that has been dissolved in cold water. Stir into fruit mixture. Chill until firm. Serve with custard sauce. Six servings.

Note: With very sour cherries and red currants, increase sugar to ⅓ cup.

H. School Teacher Bride at Ceremony In Montreal West

Brady - Scott

The marriage of Mary Beattie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Scott, of Montreal West, to Mr. Homer Murdoch Brady, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Brady, of Notre Dame de Grace, took place on Saturday afternoon at four o'clock in Montreal West United Church, the Rev. Campbell Wadsworth, D.D., officiating. Candelabra and white and blue delphinium banked with ferns were used as decorations in the church. Mr. H. E. Colcomb played the wedding music and Mr. Walter Johnston sang during the signing of the register.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of blush pink satin with a tiny collar and a deep yoke of nylon embroidery, and the skirt falling into a circular train. Her full-length veil of tulle illusion was held by a band of orange blossoms and she carried an old-fashioned shower bouquet of Joanna Hill roses and white bouvardia.

Mrs. William Brissenden, of Timmins, Ont., cousin of the bride, as matron-of-honor, wore a mist blue frock having a heart-shaped neck line and little cap sleeves and the skirt falling into a short train. She wore a headdress of pink and blue French flowers on a knot of mist blue and carried a bouquet of pink summer flowers.

Miss Barbara Scott, of Toronto, and Miss Helen Deacon, of Lachute, as bridesmaids, were gowned alike in flamingo frocks fashioned on the same lines as that worn by the bride. They wore matching headdresses and carried bouquets of blue summer flowers.

Mr. Donald Brady acted as best man for his brother and the ushers were Kenneth MacKenzie, Dr. Robert Pearman and Mr. Jack Liddy.

Mrs. Scott, mother of the bride, was in a gown of honey beige crepe with a Nile green hat and gloves, and had a spray of Talisman roses pinned on her bag.

Mrs. Brady, the bridegroom's mother, wore a gown of aqua mist with a matching hat and white gloves and a corsage bouquet of Pinocchio roses.

The reception was held at the Montreal West Town Hall, where blue and white summer flowers and pink roses were used to decorate.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Brady left for Muskoka, the bride travelling in a suit of delicate sky blue cashmere. She wore an original hat of straw flowers with a brown cobra bag and shoes.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Deacon, Mr. A. McOuat, Miss J. McOuat, of Lachute; Miss E. Ness, of Howick; and Miss N. McClenaghan, Ormstown.

The bride has been a member of Lachute High School teaching staff up till the conclusion of last term.

Filling Cavities

Q — Should cavities in teeth be filled when very small or should they be permitted "to get a little larger"?

A — It is very dangerous to wait with any cavity without consulting a dentist. The proper procedure is not to go to the dentist with the finding of a cavity but rather to go to a dentist regularly for a check up even if you are not aware of any cavaties. Many times when the patient first becomes aware of a cavity in a tooth, it is the result of a tooth ache or the sudden collapse of a tooth wall or surface. This is often a costly delay, because the caries (decay) has already made considerable progress which may mean the loss of the tooth. The dentist has other means to aid his visual examination of suspected areas. The use of X-rays, transillumination and color changes in teeth all help in his examination. Occasionally small cavities between teeth in close contact are overlooked (until great damage might be done) if these aids are not used.

Milk and Teeth

Q — Is milk a perfect food for keeping teeth healthy?

A — Milk is a perfect food as part of a balanced diet for tooth building during the calcification period of enamel, and also as part of a sustaining diet through the years. But milk or milk products left in the mouth (on the teeth), is a source of lactic acid which is quite injurious to tooth enamel. Therefore, whenever milk or milk products are taken, a careful brushing of the teeth with a good detergent alkaline dentifrice should be done.

PROMOTING HARMONY

Speaking at the annual meeting of the Canadian General Council of the Boy Scouts Association, Major-General Dan Spry, who shortly becomes Chief Executive Commissioner of the Association, said he looked to Scouting to bring about much of the desired harmony in Canada. General Spry said that his military experience had taught him that you could bring together men from all parts of Canada, of diverse racial, religious and political backgrounds, and place them under capable leadership and get a well-knit team capable of great accomplishments. It was equally true he said, that boys of all provinces and different racial and religious origins, brought together in the common purpose and program of Scouting could bring to Canada the harmony which was so sadly lacking today.

Quebec Governm't Voices Protest On the Federal Redistribution Bill

Charges Ottawa Overriding Prov'l Rights, Modifying Constitution Without Consent

By GUY GAGNON,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Quebec, July 9 (CP)—The Quebec government, through adoption of an order-in-council sponsored by Premier Duplessis, has officially protested against the federal government's decision to amend the constitution so as to provide for redistribution of electoral seats without previous approval of the provinces. The bill authorizing the Canadian government to do so was adopted by the Senate Friday, following previous approval by the House of Commons.

The document charged that Ottawa attempted to do away with essential provincial rights in seeking to modify the constitution on its own responsibility, and stated that Federal authorities would be advised anew:

"That the Province of Quebec energetically claims the integral respect of the Canadian federative pact; that . . (it) reaffirms its irrevocable desire to safeguard integrally the constitutional prerogatives belonging to it and to keep intact the intangible and inalienable rights of the French language;

"Furthermore, that the government of Canada be advised that it is the desire of Quebec that all the provinces, especially Quebec, obtain, through proceedings in conformity with the spirit and letter of the Canadian constitution, a fair and reasonable federal representation".

Copies of the order-in-council were forwarded to Prime Minister Mackenzie King, Justice Minister St. Laurent and others, and the 2,000-word text appeared in the Quebec Official Gazette.

The action was not without precedent. Mr. Duplessis told reporters that the Liberal government of Sir Lomer Gouin, in December, 1917, protested in a similar manner against a federal plan to amend the constitution for financial purposes without previously seeking approval of the provinces.

Main reason listed in the order-in-council against the redistribution bill was that Canada, as a confederation, was formed of autonomous provinces which gave life to federal authority, and that the British North America Act of 1867 — as the Dominion's only written constitution — cannot be amended without the consent of the contracting parties; that is, of the four pioneer provinces, Quebec, Ontario, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

At an adjourned meeting of Lachute Town Council held last evening in the council chambers, a by-law was passed providing for issuance of $35,000 civic bonds of 12-year term at 3 per cent interest, for the purpose of paving the town thoroughfares. The by-law, No. 171, was sponsored by Ald. H. Trichard, seconded by Ald J. R. Paquette, and the measure provides that the loan be submitted to the ratepayers for approval in a public vote on August 15 and 16 next.

COMPTON ELECTION ADDS ANOTHER SEAT TO UN.-NATIONALE

Wednesday, July 3, was a happy day for Duplessis' Union Nationale government. C. D. French, its candidate in the Compton by-election, was elected by a large majority over his Liberal and Bloc Populaire opponents. Taking over of the constituency from the Liberals gave the government a total representation of 50 in the Quebec Legislative Assembly. The seat was left vacant last fall through the death of W. J. Duffy, a Liberal.

Party standing in the assembly now is as follows: Union Nationale, 50; Liberal, 36; Bloc Populaire, three; Ind. - C.C.F., one; Ind., one.

$200-Million in Prospect from 1946 Tourist Business

ROTARY SPEAKER GIVES INTERESTING FACTS

Brownsburg — The regular dinner meeting of the Rotary Club was held at Carriere's Hotel on Thursday evening, July 4 — when Walter H. Payne, of the Canadian Pacific Railways Public Relations Department, gave some interesting facts about Canada's tourist trade and its possibilities.

The subject was of particular interest to both Lachute and Brownsburg, since they form the gateway to the Laurentians from the central Ottawa Valley.

Mr. Payne stated that, basing the estimate on the 1945 tourist season during which 17,000,000 visitors to Canada spent $164,000,000, experts have forecast the Dominion of Canada will receive $200,000,000 from the tourist business this year.

Tourism accounts for 10 per cent of the Dominion's international receipts, and Canada is now the most popular country on the vacationers' lists.

With more than 7,000,000 workers in the United States getting holidays with pay for the first time, and $10,000,000,000 expected to be spent by U.S. travellers this season, Canada's share of this business may well be large, he stated.

The speaker was introduced by Harold Dando and thanked by John Chalmers.

The meeting was of special significance to Brownsburg Rotarians, being the first of a new year of officers and activities. Vice-President George Zsombor was in the chair — President Harris Sherwood being out of town on business.

Visitors included Messrs. Peter Samson, Montreal, Mason Crosby, Dalesville, A. D. Lennon, Quebec, and J. S. Giles, Lachute.

Lachute School Board now comprises — Dr. W. F. FitzGerald, chairman, W. M. Cottingham, G. F. Calder, Stuart McFaul and Jas. W. McGibbon.

Bridge Caves in Beneath Truck

George Seale, of Louisa, in a truck heavily loaded with stovewood, narrowly escaped calamity last Thursday evening when the bridge just north of Dalesville village on Route 31 gave way and almost overturned the vehicle. As the truck was proceeding in the direction of Lachute, the bridge caved in beneath the rear wheels. The truck heaved on its side and only the cable fence beside the approach to the bridge saved it from toppling over. With the driver as passengers in the vehicle were his wife, Andrew Neill and son, of Lachute, and Danny Boyd, a lad from The Glen. They suffered only minor scratches.

As result of the accident many hundreds of week-enders motoring through to lake cottages and mountain resorts were obliged to make a detour through the Campbell sawmill property.

Government engineers were on the scene Monday to survey the damage.

Rev. B. J. Thorpe Goes to Valleyfield

The Rev. Benjamin J. Thorpe, who was rector of the Anglican parish here prior to joining the chaplaincy service, has been appointed by the Bishop of Montreal as temporary minister in charge of the Parish of Valleyfield.

The Rev. Thorpe served as an army chaplain from January 1944 until May of this year, proceeding to Britain and the Western European front. He received his discharge early last month on his return from overseas.

Brigade Camp To Open Saturday At St. Andrews E.

IMPROVED FACILITIES ON RIVER-FRONT

The advance guard of the 1st Montreal Company Boys' Brigade, has been busy making preparations for a good sized camp and developing improved swimming facilities. They have done a good job — as will be better realized when the boys arrive this Saturday, and make a hasty rush for a "dip". At the big opening camp-fire, many new campers will be welcomed officially. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dorion, at their St. Andrews farm, have been making preparations to receive the boys.

Capt. J. Howard Richardson has detailed various responsibilities to each of his staff. Lieut. Robert Morrow will be in full charge of the waterfront, which includes swimming instruction and boating. He will have Alan Paterson as his assistant. Alan is a newcomer to the camp but has had experience as instructor, with the Westmount Y.M.C.A. Lieut. Alex Upham, registrar and crafts instructor, will again handle the camp bank. Lieuts. Sam Hallam and Art Campbell, both newcomers, are to handle special week-end programs. Capt. Conway Prindiville, of the 6th Company, will instruct in telegraphy and photography. Rev. C. A. Selby will arrive early in the week and will take over the senior section of the camp. — This is the largest staff the camp has ever had, but it has long been felt necessary to add more instructors, that the boys might get an opportunity to carry out badge-work while at camp.

The Life Boys, junior reserve of the Boys' Brigade, will be camping in a separate section and will have a number of their choir members with them, including Hadden Whitelaw, prominent boy soloist of Westmount. As much of the Life Boy camp-fire program is of a musical character, a treat is in store for the rest of the camp. The boys will attend the United Church on Sunday morning, and hope to arrange a musical service in the evening. Lt. Col. Reg H. Dean, president of the Montreal Battalion, expects to visit the camp Sunday afternoon.

Tent leaders for this session will be — Boys' Brigade: Cpl. G. Smith, L/Cpl. Bryer Rice and L/Cpl. Harvey Barnes. Life Boys: Alan Patterson, Donald Morton and Graham Lough.

Lions Club and Guests Gather at Hostelry in the Laurentian Hills

A. G. McOuat Heads Slate of Officers; Financial Report on Year's Activities

Tuesday evening proved a gala occasion for members of the Lachute Lions Club and their friends, who had been invited to Chiriotto Farm Inn by their president-elect, A. Gordon McOuat, who some time ago acquired this delightful resort in the forest and lake region of the Laurentians near Ste. Adele.

Following the luncheon, a short business meeting was held in which Lion Leopold Carriere, retiring president, expressed thanks for the hearty support he had received during his tenure of office, and in absence of the treasurer, presented the annual report.

Highlights of the statement were items of expenditure which recalled the Club's major charity efforts — fairly justifying the organization's standing as a community service group. The following were typical entries: Eyeglasses $61; Red Cross $110; Lifesaving Boat $45.90; High School Rink $100; Catholic Playground $50; Providence Hospital $50; Catholic School, for baseball equipment $25; Catholic School $150; British Children's War Victim Fund $50; also $175.04 for the purchase of Soldiers' Cigarettes.

President L. Carriere spoke of the signal honor accorded to Past-President Clement Tremblay and also to District Governor Ernest Gaboury, K.C., of Hull, who had been awarded O.B.E's in the recent honors list of His Majesty the King.

District Governor Gaboury then inducted the new slate of officers for the coming year, as follows:

President, Gordon McOuat, 1st vice-president, Dr. A. R. Coté; 2nd vice-president, Geo. Tattersfield; 3rd vice-president, Horace Lamarche; treasurer, W. M. Steeves; secretary, Fred Sanford.

Tail Twister, George J. Davis.
Lion Tamer, Ivan Beriault,
Publicity, Fernand Legault.
Directors, Dr. W. FitzGerald, Dr. Jules Lafleur, Dr. Roger Dumais, H. Rigg, Leonard Bedard.

EXPECT VISITORS

Quebec (CP) — Leon Trepanier, industrial commissioner of Three Rivers, Que., said in a recent address here that more tourists would visit Canada this year and the Province of Quebec in particular than in the last quarter of a century. He said preparations should be made to meet them.

One Dead as Car Plunges in Ravine At Morin Heights

At a spot generally recognized as hazardous, about a quarter mile from Morin Heights on the highway to St. Sauveur, a Montreal car overran a sharp curve Sunday night, plunging about 30 feet into a ravine. The driver, Roger Laviolette, and a passenger, Paul Masse, were hurled from the car on opposite sides. Masse was crushed by the automobile, and was found in the shallow creek at the foot of the embankment where he had died almost instantly from chest injuries. Laviolette escaped with only minor bruises.

At an inquest held Monday morning at the St. Jerome Court House, with Coroner Jules Lafleur, M.D., of Lachute, presiding, the driver of the car was the principal witness. Laviolette stated he had been unfamiliar with the road. The car in which they had been travelling toward Morin Heights was an open touring model. He described how, arriving at an unexpected curve at 30 miles an hour, he had been unable to hold the car to the road surface, and they had crashed over the embankment. The accident had occurred at 10.45 o'clock.

The jurors, all citizens of Morin Heights, gave a verdict of accidental death exonerating the driver of blame. They also recommended to the provincial authorities that suitable signs be posted, and white posts and cable fence be erected at the roadside at this spot, where several previous accidents have occurred.

The victim, 31 years of age, was a former wrestler, latterly employed at a tavern in Montreal.

Impressions from Dominion Conference Of the Canadian Authors' Association

(Specially Contributed)

The Canadian authors who attended the annual Dominion convention of their Association in Toronto recently, heard much to interest them in the pursuit of their favorite work — which His Excellency Viscount Alexander assured them, was "the highest of all arts". Writers and soldiers have similarities, he added — for both must "write their plans clearly and in set order".

His Excellency, after presenting medals to the four prize winners, was himself presented with a case containing copies of the four books, also a further volume, an anthology of celebrated books and their authors up to date. Lady Alexander received a beautiful bouquet of roses.

Previous to the prize giving His Excellency had invested the new Dominion secretary of the C.A.A. with the Royal Order of the British Empire, after Major-General H. F. G. Letson, secretary to the Governor General, had read the article of commendation on Dr. Markowich's life-saving work among prisoners of war in the Burma jungle, with very primitive materials and at the risk of his own life. This presentation came as a surprise, even to the Dominion president of the Association. (It is to be regretted that the National Film Board, who were present with cameras at all of the sessions, were not permitted to photograph these two important events, as it was feared the noise of the motion picture cameras would interfere with the speakers. Photographers were also present from the Montreal Standard during the sessions, as well as from different Toronto papers).

While being entertained at luncheon by the City of Toronto, the Hon. Anthony Eden suddenly appeared in the doorway of the dining room in Whitney Hall and stood for a few moments smiling in at the authors, all of whom rose to acclaim him.

Another act of courtesy which pleased the ladies of the party was the presentation of a beautiful corsage of hot-house roses to each one as she entered the dining hall as a guest of the Toronto branch of the Canadian Authors. On inquiry by a Sarnia lady who voiced the approval of her fellow members for this gift, the Dominion president (now past-president), Mr. R. Kennedy, editor of the Family Herald and Weekly Star, said that, seeing that Dr. Markowich was not present at the moment, he felt quite safe in divulging that the flowers were the gift of that gentleman.

Many interesting speakers were heard, among them Thos. Raddall, of Nova Scotia, a former poetry prize winner — who felt that there was too much talk about writing and not enough of the real art itself. He told an amusing story, of an old Indian in Nova Scotia having been "done" by a butcher from whom he had purchased meat. The butcher had wrapped a thin slice of meat around quite heavy bones, and the Indian had to pay of course according to the weight. . . . Next spring the Indian visited this butcher shop with some maple sugar for sale. The butcher bought it eagerly, but by the time he had sold the last pound, the first customers were coming back at him for selling them adulterated sugar. . . When he met the Indian some months later and assailed him, the old man looked the butcher squarely in the eye and said, "Plenty bones in meat huh? Well, plenty bones in sugar too" thus impressing the butcher, in his conscience, that he was no better than the poor old Indian.

Mr. Raddall used this tale as a sort of moral, and ended his address by saying that there were plenty bones in the books of today, and that writers were lessening their ability to do good creative work by catering to the class of people who wanted such trash.

Mrs. Gwethlyn Graham, together with a group appointed to confer with the publishers, had prepared a standard contract for authors through which negotiation with publishers could be carried out by this committee — as it was felt that many authors were completely in the dark when signing contracts — with such tragic results that the author often settled down to some other type of work; many a really good writer had given up in disguust because of the small profits received from their book.

William Arthur Deacon of the Toronto Globe and Mail, a celebrated literary critic, in taking over the presidency of Canadian Authors' Association said that

Brownsburg Memorial Fund Campaign To Continue Until Objective Reached

(Contributed)

Brownsburg — At a regular meeting of the Canadian Legion held here on July 9, it was announced that the campaign total had reached approximately 20% of the objective of $38,500. The slow progress was ascribed mainly to inexperience of the canvassers, and to some misunderstanding on the part of business men located in towns and villages outside of Brownsburg. The response from the residents and business men of Brownsburg has been magnificent, and also from some quarters in Lachute. It had been hoped that there would be whole-hearted support for the project by Argenteuil residents living outside of Brownsburg, particularly from Lachute. However, in view of projected civic receptions for returned men, there appears to be some confusion concerning the purpose of a Memorial Hall. A civic reception is also being planned in Brownsburg, but it has no connection whatever with the campaign for a hall. While the motives behind the proposed reception for Brownsburg boys is appreciated, yet, in view of its late start and the fact that the plans for a Memorial Campaign had been announced beforehand, the resection of the newly-joined members of the Brownsburg Branch is that the effort and money would be better diverted to the more permanent and useful objective for a Memorial Hall.

The plans for a Memorial Hall originally, it is true, were conceived for Brownsburg only. However, as it was ascertained that it was very unlikely that a similar project would be undertaken elsewhere in the county, the idea was born that the Memorial should be for all of Argenteuil. To this end the building will contain a Shrine of Remembrance, and each community will be approached to record therein its own particular story of the sacrifices made by its youth. Surely, this is an objective worthwhile, and deserves county-wide support. It is hard to understand the lack of interest and sympathy evinced by a few business men, while others back it wholeheartedly. It would be understandable if a similar scheme had been broached elsewhere in the county, but it has not — so far as can be ascertained. Brownsburg's prosperity is also beneficial to Lachute especially. It is estimated that from 25% to 30% of Brownsburg's payroll flows into Lachute. From a business angle alone, one would expect keen appreciation of this fact.

The tenacity of our youth has been demonstrated by bringing the war to a successful conclusion. It is they, and they alone, who have protected our businesses, our homes, and all our Canadian ideals and way of life. That same tenacity is to be continued, and the campaign will go on until the objective is reached. Most of the Brownsburg people will be on holidays until the end of July, at which time it is planned to reorganize the campaign to enable personal contact of all those who have not yet subscribed. It is estimated that only between 20 and 25 per cent of the number of prospective subscribers have so far been contacted personally.

There are two corrections to be made to amounts shown in previous lists. It should have been shown that Mr. Geo. Creswell subscribed $12 and Mr. Eugene Racine $25. A further list of subscribers follows:

ONE KILLED IN HIGHWAY CRASH AT STE. THERESE

AUTOS TELESCOPED AFTER BLOWOUT

Ste. Therese — One person was killed and five others were injured Sunday afternoon when a Montreal taxi ran into an automobile that stopped abruptly following a blowout on the highway at the entrance of Ste. Therese.

Dead is Benjamin Hudes, 41, of New York City, an American tourist proceeding to St. Jovite to spend a holiday. He was accompanied by his wife and daughter, who were injured. Three passengers in the taxi, Fraser Jenke, 58, his son and daughter, of Mount Vernon, N.Y., were also injured.

The driver of the taxi, a Montrealer, escaped unhurt.

The two vehicles were proceeding northward from Montreal when Hudes' car, driven by his wife, suffered a blowout. The car came to an abrupt stop and the taxi ran into it.

Reduced Fares to Farm Exhibitions

Railroad fares will be reduced for exhibitors, judges and farmers to all points where farm exhibitions and fairs will be held, whether district or provincial. This statement was made in a letter to the Quebec Deputy Minister of Agriculture from the president of the Canadian Passenger Agents' Association.

Judges and exhibitors may obtain tickets to any exhibition point in Quebec or Ontario, upon surrender of certificates signed by the secretary or manager of fair or exhibition as a proof of their standing.

In so far as the general public is concerned, round-trip tickets will be sold from stations where the regular one-way coach class fare to place where fair or exhibition is to be held, does not exceed $3.00. For special arrangements, consult ticket agent. Tickets will be sold and good going by p.m. trains on day previous to opening of exhibition, and for return trip, one day after the closing date (Sundays excluded).

For judges and exhibitors, tickets will be valid for return until three days after last date of fair or exhibition (Sundays excluded).

High Chick Production

During the past incubation season, the cooperative and private hatcheries had, up to June 30, produced 8,618,958 chicks in comparison to 7,399,820 last year and 8,532,392 in 1944. This was therefore a record year in Quebec, the peak production of two years ago having been exceeded.

Hatching percentage was also very good. From 66.58 in 1945, it reached a high of 67.83 in 1946.

Most of the hatcheries have ended their seasonal operations but a few of them will continue to function all summer in order to supply producers with broilers.

Knowledge may be power, but knowledge without wisdom is power without direction.

Pests on Farm Crops, Province of Quebec

Insects

Most noticeable insects in the past month have been the flea beetles and Colorado beetles on potatoes; the cutworm on garden plants, especially on cabbages, tomatoes and tobacco; the striped beetle on cucumbers, and the maggot on onions. Tent caterpillars on fruit trees have also been reported The leaf-roller and the budmoth are at work, and the round apple tree borer needs watching. Strawberries are being attacked by weevils. The heat wave has been favorable to the development of aphids which are now numerous in all gardens, and the hop vine borers are infesting hops.

Diseases

Mosaic is apparent on potatoes. Tomatoes are showing spots which will require treatment in some cases. There is some evidence of anthracnose on beans as well as bacterial blight. Apple scab is prevalent in orchards which have not been sprayed. Plum trees have developed plum pockets, a disease which causes the fruit to go spongy. On the whole, however, conditions are good, but careful watch must be maintained.

(This report is furnished by Omer Caron, Provincial Botanist).

Farm Improvements By Government Loan

Through the Farm Improvement Loans Act of the Dominion Government a farmer may borrow up to $3,000 for any of the following purposes:—

(1) purchase of agricultural implements; (2) purchase of live stock; (3) purchase or installation of agricultural equipment of a farm electric system; (4) alteration or improvement of a farm electric system; (5) fencing or drainage; (6) construction, repair, or alteration of, or addition to, farm buildings; (7) general improvement or development of the farm.

Only a farmer may borrow under the Farm Improvement Loans Act, which restricts these loans to a person who is in possession of a farm and whose principal occupation is farming. The term farming includes livestock raising, dairying, fruit growing, and all tillage of the soil.

The loans are paid through any of the chartered banks of Canada and the interest rate is 5 per cent simple interest. Arrangements for the repayment are made to suit each farmer's individual requirements. The repayment periods may be from one to ten years, depending upon the amount borrowed and the purpose for which the loan is obtained, the object of the Act being to provide the farmer "short term" and "intermediate credit". "Short term" and "intermediate credit" simply mean that the credit is for one or two years up to ten years, this type of credit being midway between the short term seasonal loans usually made by the banks and long-term mortgage loans which usually run from 10 to 20 years.

For further particulars regarding these loans, a farmer may interview the manager of any branch of a chartered bank in Canada or he may write to The Supervisor, Farm Improvement Loans, Department of Finance, Ottawa.

WEST COMMUNITY TURNS FROM GRAIN

Melville, Sask. (CP)—This southeastern Saskatchewan farming community may be in the golden grain belt but grain ceased to be its major concern many years ago.

Dairy and chicken farms have replaced the fields of grain which failed to flourish in Melville's light soil. And now, though only 121 carloads of grain were shipped from Melville elevators last year, the district's poultry and dairy producers reaped a payment of something like $2,500,000 last year from produce houses for their products.

The change came about gradually during the last 20 years. Creameries and produce houses which had the foresight to see it coming, installed plants to take care of the business they rightly supposed would result.

From land plots now reduced to an average of a half-section, the Melville district last year shipped 126 carloads of livestock by rail, 327 tons of dressed poultry, 1,746 tons of eggs or 62,400 thirty-dozen cases and 865 tons of butter. In addition there was a vast quantity of produce trucked out of Melville.

Town officials, with Melville's future in mind, are promoting the dairy-livestock industry with formation of an agricultural committee which intends to organize swine and calf clubs. They see establishment of meat packing plants and an abattoir here as the next logical step.

Only dark spot on Melville's future is lack of water, which it now gets mainly from wells. Annual consumption is about 20,000,000 gallons and on occasion it has been ecessary to obtain water from a nearby railway dam to supplement the supply.

However a water project at Crooked Lake, 22 miles south, is planned and if completed, officials believe it will ensure a future of development and prosperity for Melville.

FOREST FIRE DANGER

The number of fires started through natural causes is high enough, and should not be increased through carelessness on the part of holiday-seekers or travellers. Many operators, lumbering and mining, throughout this area are co-operating with the Department of Lands and Forests in providing fire fighting equipment, and in taking extra precautions against fires. Many citizens, as honorary fire wardens, are participating in a vast program designed to hold fire losses down to the absolute minimum.

DOG SAVES LIFE

Bridgewater, N.S. (CP) — Ping, a nine-months-old Newfoundland dog, probably saved the life of Arthur Weagle on a farm here recently when his barking distracted the attention of an infuriated bull. The bull had gored Weagle and Gordon Mosher in the chest and ribs after the staff on the animal's nose became unhooked. Mosher later died.

EGG SHIPMENTS

Murrayville, B.C. (CP) — Urging expansion of British Columbia's poultry industry, Professor A. E. Lloyd of the University of British Columbia agriculture department, told the Poultry Producers' Association here that this province should be able to ship 90,000,000 dozen eggs to Britain alone each year.

The Veterans Come Back

MEN AND WOMEN who have doffed the uniforms of Canada's fighting forces are showing in peaceful pursuits the same initiative that won them world-wide acclaim during the war years.

Without belittling in any way the enormous benefits they have derived from war gratuities and governmental rehabilitation schemes, and the sympathetic consideration given to their problems by a grateful public — it is true that, in the main, veterans have pulled themselves up by their own bootstraps.

Throughout the country we find most of these men and women buckling down with a strong determination to succeed in civilian jobs. It is natural that some should find the problem of readjustment unusually difficult, but they are widely outnumbered by those who have taken obstacles in their stride and whose plans for the future are fairly concrete.

The dignity of honest toil is no longer a slogan but a fact. Versatility and ingenuity is being manifested on all sides, by both men and women, as they seek to carve new careers. Whether he is operating a messenger service, prospecting for gold or occupying an executive position with a construction company, the veteran is drawing on lessons — inventive and disciplinary — learned in the war.

Youth is no deterrent. Instances are legion of young men and women, who went into the services from the classroom, starting in the business world with a degree of self-confidence virtually unheard of before the war.

In the less tangible field of education there is the statement of Dr. A. E. Kerr, president of Dalhousie University, that the general average of achievement of veterans returned to university work is "considerably higher" than that of non-veterans. The statement, assuming it to be true for the Dominion, speaks volumes.

Our New Importance

IN THE PAST decade Canada has undergone a marked transition. We have emerged from a comparatively unfledged state to become a leader among the smaller world powers. Most of us have been too close to the scene to notice the change, and we ourselves have broadened in outlook and thought.

The war has been a contributing factor and just as an individual develops character and maturity through great suffering, so has the world conflict placed its mark on us.

In the eyes of other countries, we have grown in stature. Our war effort, on a per capita basis, was perhaps the greatest contribution made by any Allied nation, and for a country of only eleven millions of people, it has been outstanding. The name Canada has become loved not only by the people in Europe, liberated by Canadian soldiers from German occupation, but also now by other millions who owe their very existence to Canadian food.

We have learned to do things in a big way. But it has cost money, because our national debt has more than trebled during the war, rising from $3,152,500,000 in 1939 to $11,298,000,000 on March 31, 1945. The Canadian citizen today is burdened with a debt far greater than has ever been experienced in the nation's history. The increase can be directly attributed to the war, because in 1945 our war expenditure alone amounted to $4,418,000,000.

The war cost us money, but we have emerged from it holding a better place in world commerce. Our exports in 1944 amounted to $3,483,000,000, more than three times the 1939 figure of $936,000,000. If we can hold our foreign markets, it will mean greater prosperity for Canada in years to come.

The figures prove we have become greater. So let us grow out of any inferiority complex we might have. Sing our praises with a fitting tune and look forward to even greater days when we shall play a much more important part in world affairs. Let us develop our distinctive Canadian arts and crafts, instead of copying from other countries. Let us encourage Canadian artists, writers and musicians, instead of criticizing.

Let us as individuals keep pace with the progress of our country.

Need for More Nurses

THE CALL is going out from hospitals across Canada for more trained nurses, for more young women to take up this noble profession. In many centres the situation is so serious that treatment of patients has had to be deferred. The nursing requirement for military installations, with their many war wounded, has drawn so heavily on civilian hospitals that at the present rate of training it will be several years before nursing staffs are adequate. The development of public health groups, welfare units and industrial health agencies has attracted additional nurses from civilian hospitals.

The present method of instruction, each hospital taking so many students each year, is not capable of meeting the demand quickly enough. The need is for special training schools, with stepped-up training courses, where nurses will be properly trained but in a much shorter period. If this emergency is to be met, then quick action must be taken.

Hospitals can help make the profession more attractive to young women by revising some of their out-dated disciplinary regulations, and by increasing wages to students.

The present trend towards better health services is most likely to increase, with the resultant demand for more nurses. Steps to provide the necessary instruction must begin at once.

With Dynamite

FOUR REASONABLY honest Toronto fishermen drove merrily along a Northern road. In the trunk of the car lay 17 pickerel, still in death. Beside the pickerel lay two highly illegal bass — for this was early June, and the bass season was not yet.

Suddenly, as they rounded a curve, a man with a flag stepped from the bushes along the roadside. The four r. h. fishermen thought of game wardens, and of their loved ones, and of walls and iron bars. . The driver accelerated, and the car shot down the road . . .

Seconds later came the sound of a dull explosion. They looked back. The road they had just crossed over now was climbing lazily into the upper air. They gazed at each other with wild surmise. . .

Game overseers wear uniforms. Depart- of Highways employees do not.

— The Printed Word

THE TRUTH of the old Yorkshire adage that "you can get nowt from nowt" will be borne in upon Canadians who ponder the new social security tax contemplated by the Federal Government. When it is remembered that such a tax will be approximately the same as income tax in this country prior to the war, and that income tax will have to be paid in addition, it should stimulate thinking among those who tend to talk glibly of "free services" in Canada.

— Halifax Chronicle

LET CITY WRITERS stick their noses in the air, but city readers never read homey stuff in their papers like this penned by the editor of the Chelsey, Ont., Enterprise, who sees all and tells all. . . "We visited some relatives in London. It had been our intention to stay over on Sunday and visit some more, including the Bieman family who once operated a butcher shop in Hanover, then a pork pickling plant in Kincardine, and later bought out the Coleman Packing Plant at London, but Mrs. Schaus' father went to Owen Sound hospital last week and was operated upon Monday morning, so we came home Saturday night in order to spend Sunday with him".

THE TOURIST industry offers our country its greatest and easiest opportunity to increase the amount of foreign currency available to carry on international trade. It is an opportunity to bring added revenue into each of our communities, to the benefit of all who live there.

GALLANT WARSHIP FORCES REPRIEVE FROM SCRAP PILE

Destroyer Assiniboine Meets Fitting End on Beach of Prince Edward Island

Charlottetown (CP) — The once-proud Canadian flotilla leader Assiniboine — sold almost a year ago as a dismantled hulk to a Toronto firm for $10,000 — lies beached on the sandy coast of Prince Edward Island.

The destroyer, stripped of her guns, radio, compasses and asdic equipment, broke the cables towing her to an ignominious end at Sorel last year, and ran ashore. Efforts to dislodge her since then have failed.

The Toronto firm had bought the shell-scarred hull for scrap, just a few months before.

The Assiniboine had a bright career. Acquired from Britain in October, 1939, as the Kempenfeldt, she adopted the name of the Manitoba river and became a flotilla leader in the Canadian fleet.

In August, 1942, under Lt.-Cmdr. J. H. Stubbs, who later went down with the destroyer Athabaskan, in the English Channel, she rammed and sank a Nazi submarine off Newfoundland. The engagement, filled with bursts of gunfire, was among the most spectacular of the Canadian Navy during the war.

Triumphant Return

A few days later, crippled and with crumpled bow, she entered Halifax harbor with flag at half mast for one of her crew killed in the action. Amid wild ovations, she landed prisoners from the sunken U-boat.

With the end of the war, the 14-year-old Assiniboine was paid off and sold as scrap.

When the long tow to sorel began, the old destroyer, tugged nostalgically at the cable. Off the P.E.I. coast, rolling in ocean swells, she broke away and headed for shore near South Lake, in King's county.

Since that time the Toronto firm has dispatched tugs and other craft to set her afloat, but to no avail.

As one old-timer put it, "she was tired and she went ashore."

"She is close to the roar of the sea. There could be, for such a gallant fighting ship, no more fit resting place. May they never move her."

SHIRT SHORTAGE IS WORLD-WIDE AFFAIR

Montreal, July 8 — That much talked about misery "the shirt shortage" is not restricted to Canada but is a "world wide affair", it was claimed in a statement issued here today by H. L. Warren. Commenting on the problem of supplying consumers under present conditions, Mr. Warren said that more spending money in the pockets of the buying public, the return of service men and the attempts of civilians to re-stock their war-depleted wardrobes, were the main reasons for what was generally referred to as a "shortage".

"Prior to 1939 about three-quarters of the men's shirts used in Canada were made from Canadian cloth," he said. "The balance of the cloth came from Britain and the United States. The most expensive cloth always has come from Britain, and Canada admitted the most costly grades of shirting material free of duty, with the result that Canadian cloth-makers were restricted to the less expensive and more stable lines".

Canadian mills, Mr. Warren said, were supplying almost as much shirt material now as before the war. "Our own firm is making even more shorts than in 1939," he said, "and 98 per cent of the material for these shirts came from Canadian mills."

" The present high demand is the main reason for the shirt scarcity, or as it is generally called the 'shirt shortage'. This is a world-wide affair," he stated. He pointed out that Canadians had more money to spend and people who could not get shirts during the war are now trying to restock and hundreds of thousands of young men formerly in uniform are each in the market for several shirts."

The government was still buying considerable quantities of shirts for all branches of the services, Mr. Warren added.

FAIR LABOR PRACTICE

No indictment of fair labor practice has ever appeared in these columns, nor ever will. We are as one with all who believe in a fair deal for both labor and industry as the means of stabilizing a world threatened with inflationary tendencies. . . But into the ranks of labor, as into any other organization can infiltrate those who are more concerned with themselves, than with labor as a unified entity and force possessing a design for stability

PLAN BIG SCHOOLS FOR RURAL AREAS

Composite Schools Offer All Courses Available in City

Toronto (CP) — Larger rural high school areas to be served by large, well-equipped composite schools offering all courses obtainable in the cities will soon become a reality if the plans of the Ontario Department of Education are realized.

Department officials believe that Ontario people, aware of the advantages of larger high schools providing a full range of optional subjects would be willing to have many smaller continuation and high schools closed. Daily bus transportation would be provided children living some distance from the new schools.

In order to provide large enough secondary school enrolments to justify the establishment of modern schools, it has been found necessary to enlarge many high school districts throughout the province. With this goal in view, 19 of the 38 counties have already established consultative committees which are working on the problem.

"We are pleased that the county councils and school boards, which have the legal responsibility, are becoming interested in planning the future of education," says Dr. J. G. Althouse, chief director of education. "Our department is anxious that high schools will be located where they will serve the largest number of students and serve them best."

PRAISES PRIME MINISTER

Whether or not one agrees with Prime Minister Mackenzie King's policies, all must respect this man who has been the leader of Canada for 20 years. . . He has led this nation to her present world position which is far more important than her small population could justify.

"I Found an Earthly Paradise — in the Cocos Islands."

● By A. E. HARRISON, A.I.M.T.A., A.C.I.S., R.A.F.

On a small group of coral islands or atolls in the Indian Ocean, midway on the steamship and air routes between Ceylon and Australia, dwells a community who enjoy what the peoples of more "civilized" lands have long sought in vain — social security. Here on the islands of the Keeling Cocos Group, as I have recently seen for myself, a system of social conditions has been evolved which is perhaps as advanced as any to be found elsewhere in the world.

The people of the community, numbering approximately 1,600, are of Malayan (Indonesian) stock, a sect of Moslems, whose ancestors came to the Islands more than 100 years ago as coolies when a certain John Ross and his partner settled here to develop the copra trade. Ever since then, the Ross family has administered and developed the estate, always putting the welfare of the people first.

There is work for every boy or girl who wants it from the ages of fourteen and thirteen respectively. Men are engaged in fishing, bush clearing, road repairing, carpentry and boat building, and as electricians, masons, shepherds, sailmakers, and storekeepers, whilst the women work in the copra drying shed, in the laundry, and at sail sewing and gardening. No woman is compelled to work; but if she wants a job one is found for her.

Money wages are paid to both sexes. Though not large by Western standards, they are adequate for local needs. Basic foods are sold at less than cost price (rice, sugar and flour have to be imported); necessaries at cost price; each family has its own fowls, and fish is abundant; so that "real" wages of the people are not represented by their cash earnings.

The people are sturdy and well nourished. The ubiquitous coconut provides them with oil for lighting and cooking, whilst the husk is used for fuel. Roads are well-tended and maintained, and the houses are well planned, each surrounded by a well-tended garden with a wealth of flowers (the sweet-smelling roses make the Englishman dream of home). Water is obtained from easily accessible wells, night-soil is disposed of by a sanitary party.

On marriage, each couple is presented with a well-built three-roomed house, complete with heavy furniture. All medical services are free, but such is the healthy life that serious disease is virtually unknown. Confinements are supervised by midwives with the assistance of their apprentices; incidentally, midwives are the highest-paid women on the island.

There are no police: four "watchers" only are maintained. The code of laws is simple, and the governor is chief magistrate and arbiter of disputes. Crime is negligible, and there has been no case of theft for many years.

Assistance in time of trouble is well-established and the widow and the orphan especially are well cared for, being provided with work, or, if they are unable or too young to work, given free food and clothing. Retirement on half-pay at 65 is optional. Education on Western lines is not considered necessary, but all are given vocational training.

Amongst the artisans, fine workmanship is general. The women are just as capable as the men, and their homes are always in excellent condition; dilapidated or "insanitary" houses are unknown.

Credit for this achievement must be given to the far-sighted and benevolent policy of the Ross administration; in the words of the late J. S. Clunies Ross: "My islanders are as peaceful as the islands. We have halcyon days and dreamless nights . . . We are a happy little community — a terrestrial paradise."

Britain's Women to Shop in Safety

London — The report has just been published of a departmental committee of the Ministry of War Transport on Design and Layout of Roads in Built-up Areas. Among the radical reforms recommended is that the main shopping centres of towns should be progressively converted into or transferred to "traffic quiet" areas. There would be waiting areas or car parks for private cars, but buses and through traffic would be diverted from central areas by encircling them with an inner-ring road of about 600 yards diameter. Thus shoppers would not have to walk more than 300 yards from a bus. Other proposals are for the extensive development of pedestrian ways lined by shops, and of cycle ways. Where motorways are needed through built-up areas the report suggests they should be subsurface or elevated.

Films on town planning and housing projects in Great Britain, the United States and other countries, have been secured for use in Canadian centres by the National Film Board.

In 1886 — 60 years ago — the Dominion Experimental Farms were founded. Starting with five farms the System has since been extended to 34 farms and stations and 210 illustration stations. This System, the largest and most comprehensive of its kind in any country, is maintained, with the other Services of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, for the promotion of agriculture and the national economy of Canada.

As a result of the work carried out in the past by all the Services of the Department in co-operation with the provinces and agricultural colleges, a much greater measure of stability has been given to farming in the Dominion.

Now that the war has ended all the Services of the Dominion Department of Agriculture — Experimental Farms, Science, Production and Marketing — visualize a broader and fuller program of usefulness to the people of Canada. The facilities of these Services are varied and extensive. Everybody in Canada is invited to take advantage of them freely. The Department is always ready to assist in any way in the advancement of the basic industry of Canada — Agriculture.

KNOW QUEBEC BETTER...

Pioneers of Quebec's Growing Flax Industry

Do you know Quebec? For example, do you know that 75% of Canada's flax fibre is grown in Quebec? Some 30,000 acres and more than a score of processing mills are devoted to its development. Flax, like many another crop, contributes to an agricultural output annually valued at $200,000,000—15% of the nation's total!

Further statistics reveal that Quebec's 154,629 farms have a population of some 850,000 people, that the average investment per farm is over $6,000 and the total more than $900,000,000. Produce is rich and widely varied for which a combination of reasons is responsible—climate which encourages quick, healthy growth; unusually fertile soil; new machinery and progressive methods; and Government aid through educational facilities and financing.

But most important, perhaps, is the traditional love of the habitant for his land — a deep-rooted characteristic which can be counted on to help make of Canada a great, united nation.

QUEBEC BUILDS FOR THE FUTURE

In 1608 Champlain brought the first colonists to Quebec. Today, Quebec's population is 3,000,000, her retail trade $800,000,000.00 per year. She leads all Provinces in the production of hydro-electric power, textiles, lumber, newsprint, footwear, processed tobacco, asbestos and aluminum. Natural resources, agriculture and transportation are being developed wisely. And now, Quebec, her people deep-rooted in the love of their homeland, prepares to share with her sister Provinces, Canada's bright and glorious future!

BE PROUD OF YOUR QUEBEC—IT IS PART OF YOUR CANADA

This message is one of a series being published so that you may know and appreciate the greatness of Quebec and its important role in Canada's wonderful destiny.

Brownsb'g United S.S. Picnic Enjoyed By Large Number

Brownsburg — Under clear skies and shady trees, and in charge of an efficient committee, the United Church Sunday School picnic provided a wholesome outing for all who attended last Saturday afternoon, at the farm of Erskine McOuat.

Messrs. C. J. Wheeler and Frank Hazel, superintendent and secretary, respectively, with their committee, had made adequate preparation. Swings were suspended, tables were erected, and rugs provided comfort where rocks were not suitably placed by Nature's rolling years. The swimming-pool was a popular resort from the beginning, and except for competition in the races, held the interest of passers by as well as participants. A ball game was also in progress, until the superintendent's car received a real blow and the safety of the smaller children became involved.

The races proved the exciting part of the outing, and everybody was given the opportunity to compete; every pupil had his and her place, and the age limit was properly managed. The Primary Department took precedence, with Miss W. White's class leading off. Three prizes were offered in each group, and the first winners were Marjorie Seary, Shirley Pollock and Carol Cook. Miss V. Thompson's class came next, with Jimmy Martin, Garry Keatley and Danny Lynch as winners. Mrs. S. J. Pike's class found Amy Hazel first, Eileen Stewart second, and Lois Catherine Dixon-Smith and Deana Brown as two thirds who were given equal honors. Mrs. E. Pollock's class came next, with Marie Zimmer, Doreen Ball and Twila Thompson as the lucky sprinters, while winners in Miss J. Damant's class were Denis Moore, Keith Hazel, and Rodger McAdam, who found Tommy Goldthorpe another third. In Miss A. Zimmer's class, a more advanced group both in age and speed — Marina Gagne, Joan Goldthorpe and Barbara Bradford took the lead.

Then Mr. Thos. Carpenter presented his class—with Carl Gagne, Alex Brown and John Zimmer as the winners. Mrs. R. B. Johnson came next with the girls, and Barbara Lynch, Marion Gagne and Ann Moore showed their speed; while Mr. K. Donaldson with his boys represented Don Martin, Jimmy Hazel and Russel Hazel as winners.

In the high 'teen age Miss M. McOuat had an open race for the girls, Misses Shirley Fulton, Joyce Thompson and Beth Zimmer being successful. For the boys Mrs. F. Kettyle's group accorded the honors to Messrs. Ronnie Elliott, Kenneth Seary and D. Martin. A free-for-all declared R. Moseley, R. Elliott and K. Donaldson as champions.

The sack race caused prolonged excitement, for three races had to be run. The finals showed R. Elliott, S. Fulton and R. Mosely as the winners. In the "cracker crunching", everybody was disqualified!

The presentation of prizes took place immediately following the refreshments. A convenient boulder formed the platform. The superintendent, Mr. Wheeler, awarded the trophies, through the Rev. S. J. Pike and Messrs. Frank Hazel and Ross Keatley for first, second and third respectively, while oranges were provided for all the pupils — and others.

Altogether, a pleasant afternoon was spent — and now the school goes on vacation for the months of July and August, to return in September for its regular sessions. Meanwhile a record will be kept of further recognition for the Sunday morning services.

Thanks to the Sunday School staff, another annual event was greatly enjoyed — which can only be surpassed, if at all, by the Christmas party.

At a meeting of the Official Board on Tuesday evening, tentative plans were made for the observance of the 20th anniversary of Church Union, in connection with the regular anniversary of this church. October was suggested as the usual month for these special events.

Reports were also given on the pupils' standings in other business subjects, including Bookkeeping, Banking Operations, Commercial Spelling (English and French) and Abbreviations, etc.

Correction

In the report of Business Course pupils tutored by Miss Annie McGibbon, The Watchman was at fault last week in printing the name of Miss Jean Doiron throughout the list as "Dorion". The publishers regret this error.

Dom. Conference Of the Canadian Authors' Assoc'n

"for the first time, Canadian writers are an influence on public thought — their books are pushing out into foreign lands in an ever widening stream". This was certainly encouraging, coming, as it were, from a man who has just to set his seal of approval on a book manuscript to ensure its success, among readers ever alert for good books.

In connection with the new contests, the Governor General's annual awards are to be continued, and a new contest added to the list. An award will be made for the best book for children, and the Board of Directors will also administer the presentation of the Stephen Leacock Medal for Humor, to be presented by the Orillia Memorial Committee in memory of the great humorist, who was a native of those parts. The Board of Directors are also asking for awards to be added to the list of usual prizes — to include books by French authors.

An invitation extended by Mrs. Celesta Hamer-Jackson, of Vancouver, to hold the convention in that city next year, will also be considered by the Board, which is composed of members from all parts of the Dominion, and who are unanimous in the hope of convincing American publishers that Canada is more than just a land of the Canadian Mounted Police, trappers and a comic character known as Jean Baptiste.—One Nova Scotian speaker claimed that this, hitherto, had been the idea held by such publishers.

Tourists and Rationing

The following item regarding ration books for tourists is taken from a recent bulletin issued by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board:

"Tourists visiting Canada for seven days of more may obtain temporary ration books, but these will not be issued for a period exceeding one month.

"These books may be obtained in the temporary offices situated at border points, or at the local rationing office of the sector visited. American visitors to summer hotels and boarding houses do not require coupons. Canadians residing for more than fifteen days in these hotels and boarding houses should surrender the necessary coupons".

GROUP TO TEST COMMUNAL LIFE

Couples Start Interesting Co-operative Association

Regina (CP) — A co-operative is the goal of a group of young community couples now saving collectively towards the day when they will build a set of houses which will have among other services central heating, community nurseries and a community laundry.

The Lasserre Community Co-operative Association, named after the late Professor Henri Lasserre, Swiss-born sociologist who was active in self-help groups in and near Toronto, was formed last June.

To date it has 19 members who have paid $20 a month towards the fund, 20 who have made part payments and another 25 who are "very interested".

Membership includes accountants, engineers, educationists, businessmen and clerks whose income ranges between $1,800 and $3,000. The association says that "those earning less could not afford to buy even low-priced homes and those in higher income brackets are not so seriously affected by the housing shortage."

Cost of the homes which they hope to start building next year is limited to between $3,600 and $5,000 on the principle that a family would not pay more for its home than twice its annual income.

"Requirements for membership are few and a member's race, creed or color are not questioned," Hugh Harvey, president of the association said. "Chief requirement is that members understand the objectives of the association and agree to take an active part in building a healthier and happier community."

80th Birthday

In honor of Dr. G. A. Clunie's 80th birthday, which takes place on Saturday, July 13, a family gathering was held at his home last Sunday. The occasion was observed on that day so that both his daughters might participate — Mrs. W. E. Cumming (the former Kathleen Clunie, R.N.) and her husband having been visiting her parents here. Miss Betty Clunie, R.N., now discharged from the nursing service, was home for this happy occasion, and a number of relatives and friends of Dr. and Mrs. Clunie were guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Collins and son, of London, Ontario, visited friends here last Friday while on a holiday tour. The son of the late Rev. Mr. Collins, former Baptist minister here, Dudley Collins has returned to civilian life after his discharge from the Air Force.

Let's do it Together!

IT MAY HAVE BEEN TRUE, in Grandfather's day, that every successful business was the lengthened shadow of one man. Today it's more likely the projection of two or more partners, including that efficient but ex-officio partner—a great bank. In many cases you'll find that partner is The Bank of Nova Scotia.

Like the partner at the other end of the two-man saw—pulling in the right direction at the right time—the facilities and experience of this Bank can multiply your efficiency and simplify your problems. And that understanding helpfulness is as close to your desk as the manager of our nearest Branch. He will be glad to discuss it with you . . . Let's do it together!

Hints for Homebodies

By Jessie Allen Brown

FIREFLIES

Fireflies are fascinating creatures. I have often seen a few fireflies but never in the wholesale way we have them down here. There is a large field just below and it is literally alive with them in the early summer. Every time we see them we think of the time when the blackout restrictions were very stiff hereabouts. There was a practice blackout and all traffic was stopped and all lights out. The fireflies had not been notified. There were so many of them that they literally had the place almost as light as day. The train tracks and busses and cars which had to stop running were well lighted up. One of the boys caught three of them in a bottle and it was amazing how they lighted up a dark room. We wish they stayed all summer instead of just a short time.

HOT FOODS HOT

There are so many ways to improve meals for tourists which do not cost more money. One of the fundamental rules is to serve hot foods hot. I had dinner at a hotel which considers itself a good one — hotels have personality, you know. The soup was a fish chowder, made almost without benefit of salt. It was cool, not even lukewarm. However the crackers were crisp, and that was one better than the last meal I had there as then the soup was cool and the crackers soggy. I had fried haddock, and the pieces were so thin it was fit only for chowder. The fat had been used too often and had that strong, burned flavor. Lima beans was the vegetable and they were not salted and were barely warm. It would cost no more money to have the food piping hot, and the crackers crisped in the oven, and to taste the food to find out if it needed salt. Little things like those often make the difference between a good meal and a poor one.

CONSIDER SATIETY VALUE

When we put on our bathing-suits or our last summers dresses we may find we have accumulated a few pounds in the wrong places. Summer is the grandest time to take these off painlessly — well almost painlessly. It is possible to eat a meal that leaves you perfectly satisfied and yet have one low in calories, with all the fruits and vegetables available. It is an uncomfortable feeling to feel empty and hungry and discourages many would be reducers. An easy rule to go by is to eat half the usual quantity of starches and fats and double the quantity of fruits and vegetables. Satiety value must be considered, and that is a two dollar expression for foods that stick to the ribs. Proteid foods such as meat, fish, eggs, and cheese have high satiety value. So have sugar and fats. Meals should be planned so that they include one of the proteids and a little sweet, as these slow up the process of digestion, the food stays in the stomach longer, and consequently you do not feel hungry a short time after a meal is eaten. A hard-cooked egg, a piece of lean meat or fish, or some cottage cheese added to a salad will keep you satisfied a much longer time than will a vegetable salad alone. We need to have a certain amount of carbohydrates to help burn up the fat, so instead of doing without desserts completely, try taking just a half-portion. It is a sound nutrition rule to end a meal with a sweet. Many reducers make their meals too drastic, then they get hungry between meals and by taking something to eat undo the benefit of the small meal.

PREVENT SKUM

Waste is to be avoided at any time but this year it is most essential. When making jam or jelly I have always disliked the amount of waste necessary when the fruit had to be skimmed. I doubt if I have skimmed off a quarter-cup of jam all told in the last four years. A little piece of butter does the trick. A teaspoon of butter is sufficient for a small pot of jam or jelly, and the amount should be increased in proportion to the amount of fruit. The butter must be put in before the fruit ever starts to boil. It will help even if put in while boiling but will not wholly prevent the formation of skum. It has no effect on the flavor of the jam or jelly. Precious as butter is these days, it is well worth using it for this purpose.

DATE SQUARES

1 Pound dates, ½ cup chopped nuts, 3 eggs, ¾ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla 5 tablespoons flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder ⅛ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon each cinnamon and cloves.

Cut the dates into pieces, add the nuts, and sift the dry ingredients over them separating the pieces well. Beat the eggs until light, add the sugar gradually, then the vanilla, and mix with the dates. Put in buttered pan and bake in a moderate oven of 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Cut into squares when cold.

HAM SALAD

½ lb. diced cooked ham, 1 cup diced celery 2 diced hard-cooked eggs, ¼ cup salad dressing, 1½ teaspoons sweet pickle relish, 1½ teaspoons chili sauce.

Combine the first three ingredients, then stir in the remainder. Mix lightly with a fork and serve on lettuce. Any convenient meat may be used in place of the ham.

ENFORCED CARE

It is indeed a reflection on our civilization that lawmakers must talk about forcing parents to take care of their children. It is not a pleasant thought.

Canning Queries And Answers

At this time of the year hundreds of letters from homemakers seeking help with their canning problems, pour into the offices of the Consumer Section of the Dominion Department of Agriculture. Here are some of the most frequently asked questions and their answers:

"All the recognized authorities on home canning used to insist that sealers be sterilized before using. Now a lot of people say this isn't necessary. Can you tell my why?"

It is not necessary to sterilize sealers before using because the processing of food in the sealers sterilizes both food and sealers. However, it is essential that sealers be thoroughly washed in hot soapy water and well rinsed in clear hot water. Sealers, with glass lids in place, should be placed on a tray in the oven and the oven heated to 225°F., or they should be half-filled with hot water, placed on the rack in the boiling water bath, surrounded with hot water and brought to boiling point. Sealers should be left in water or oven until ready to fill.

* * *

"My strawberries always seem to float in the sealers. Can I prevent this?"

Now that sugar is rationed there is less likelihood of this happening than when heavy syrup was used.

Some fruits will float to the top of the sealer if too heavy a syrup is used. Syrup in the proportion of one cup sugar to one and one half cups water is recommended for strawberries and peaches. Often an even thinner syrup may be used. Over-processing may cause fruit to float even in thin syrup.

"Mother always did her fruit by the open kettle method. We liked it and it kept well except for the occasional jar that went moldy. Now you do not suggest this method. What is the reason?

The open kettyle method is not recommended because there is a great risk of spoilage unless very heavy syrup is used. The method of packing sealers and sterilizing both sealers and food together is easier and much safer. The product will be more attractive as the food is less likely to break up.

* * *

"My neighbor tells me that I can do up fruit without sugar. It seems to me it would not keep. Please tell me if I can do it this way as my sugar ration doesn't seem to go very far."

The keeping quality of canned fruit does not depend on the addition of sugar but rather on sufficient processing and the use of air-tight sealers. However, the shape, color and flavor of some fruits are retained better when some sugar is added.

There are two methods that may be followed in canning fruit without sugar. Small juicy fruits, berries, cherries, rhubarb and juicy plums, should be washed and part of the fruits crushed in the bottom of a preserving kettle. The remaining fruit is then added and heated for a few minutes or until juice just starts to flow. If necessary, a little water may be added to prevent scorching. The sealers are packed solidly, crushing fruit down slightly so that it is covered with juice. The filled sealers are then processed.

Fruit canned by this method and sweetened to taste when opened is excellent for pies and desserts.

Large fruits, such as peaches, pears, and plums are prepared and packed in the sealers. Two inches of boiling water should be put in the bottom of the canner, the uncovered sealers placed on the rack in the canner which should be covered tightly. The filled sealers are then steamed from 20 to 30 minutes or until the fruit shrinks and the juice flows. The sealers are then removed from the canner and the fruit and juice from one or two of the sealers is used to fill the others. If there is not sufficient juice to completely cover the fruit, boiling water may be added. The lids are then put on, partially sealed and the sealers processed the required time. If the fruits canned by this method are to be served for dessert they require some preparation before using. The juice should be drained off, enough water added to make two cups of liquid for each quart sealer, then brought to a boil, sweetened to taste and poured over the fruit. Best flavor is developed if this is done several hours before using so that the fruit will be thoroughly sweetened.

The processing times vary according to the fruits canned. Complete tables for processing will be found in the bulletin, "Home canning of fruits and vegetables" available free of charge, upon request, from the Department of Agriculture in Ottawa.

Keep Canning Notes

Jessie Allen Brown

If you make canning notes you will make the work easier next year. You know just what you have done at the time but if you can remember a year afterwards you are good. On the canning page of my cook-book I find that last year I used 8 pint boxes of raspberries, 8 cups of sugar, 8 cups of water, and it made 10 pints. The fruit was just as we liked it, so I have a guide for this year's work.

FASHION HINTS

White linen combines with white organdy to make an exquisite dress with which to enjoy gala summer evenings. Incidentally, it would make a beautiful wedding gown! Anyway, the specifications include nice detail in the bodice the body of which is of the organdy. The yoke-like bodice and the sleeves, which are cut in one, are of linen. The linen skirt is gathered at the waist and falls in a full sweep, slightly longer in back.

WOMAN WELDER LIKES HER JOB

But Peacetime Employers Are Slow To Hire Women, She Complains

Edmonton, July 9, (CP) — When it comes to electrical welding "Rosie the Riveter" has nothing on 20-year-old Mrs. Victoria Boyko of Edmonton.

Not only is she an expert handler of the welding torch, but she has the honor of being the only woman in Alebrta holding a certificate in this line of work.

Her welding career began in the summer of 1943 as an apprentice at a Montreal locomotive works. One of eight women welders employed, her job was confined chiefly to the welding of ram tanks.

Enlisting in the Wrens in 1944, she has been recently discharged and is having difficulty finding a job.

Most firms, she said, say the work is too heavy for a woman. But after handling ram tanks, Mrs. Boyko is sure she can handle any job no matter how large, small or heavy.

"Sure it's dirty work, but I like it," she said. "I did receive some encouragement, but they wouldn't hire me because there were no women's facilities."

The young welder passed three government tests while working in Montreal and has just completed another one here from which she received her certificate.

EMPLOYERS SEEK WOMEN WORKERS

Plenty of Jobs Go A-Begging, Employment Service Reveals

Winnipeg (CP) — What's happened to the working girl? Winnipeg employers would like to know.

The National Employment Service office here has been deluged with demands for waitresses, factory girls, hospital aides and laundry workers. Employers offer such inducements as "music while you work," rest periods every hour and 55 minutes, and excellent wages. Still no girls.

Pre-war domestics, clerks and laundry-workers do not want to return to their occupations, explains Mrs. E. Gorrie of the women's division of the N.E.S. Many have gone back to their farm homes. Others have married. Ex-servicewomen are taking advantage of liberal allowances to learn a trade or go to university.

One day N.E.S. tried to find 55 girls to work canning vegetables at 46 cents an hour and 55 cents at night. They were able to locate only 13.

Coy and playing "hard to get", the working girl is biding her time.

SWISS HOLIDAY FOR BRITISH CHILDREN

London (CP) — Delicate British children are to spend three months in Switzerland as the result of an invitation from the Swiss Red Cross, accepted by Ellen Wilkinson, minister of education.

The children, numbering 1,200 in all, will travel in parties of 200 at a time and a fresh party will start every two months. They will be drawn from large towns which have suffered from the war.

Youngster Battles Big Golden Eagle

Vernon B.C. (CP) — Eleven-year-old Lorne Rugg fought a battle near here with a golden eagle, and won.

The large bird attacked the lad while he was herding cows, and a well-aimed kick momentarily stunned it. He then picked up a large stick and killed it. The eagle had a wing span of six feet six inches.

Eagles have caused damage to livestock to this area, attacking young calves and sheep.

Argenteuil M.P. Interprets Quebec Sentiment to Western Gathering

Georges H. Héon Invited to Address Pioneers' Association at Winnipeg, Decries Impression Of Quebec Province as a Discordant Element

Shows Creditable War Record

Speaking before the Pioneers' Association of Manitoba in Winnipeg last Sunday, Georges H. Héon, K.C., M.P. for Argenteuil constituency, ardently upheld this province, its record of loyalty and integrity, before an audience of 12,000 people assembled in the Assiniboine Valley at Lido Beach. The speech was broadcast from Radio-St. Boniface over the western network of the CBC, and has since been widely quoted in the press across Canada.

Following are extracts indicating the general vein of Mr. Héon's address:

". . Most of you here are pioneers, or sons and daughters of pioneers who opened up the West to Christianity and civilization. . I have heard it said that Westerners have necessarily become a hard-bitten, matter-of-fact group of realists. I am not myself a believer in complimentary speeches and orations about the 'bonne entente'; true national understanding can never be achieved through them. Therefore, I shall speak to you straight - from - the - shoulder. And what I am to say represents nothing but by personal views.

"I should like to speak to you in realistic terms of the real Quebec, and try and demonstrate that Quebec, instead of being the disturbing factor it is often represented to be, is a pillar of strength and solidarity in the national edifice, thus deserving the respect and confidence of the other provinces.

"If you will remember that a quarter of the population of Canada lives in Quebec, 4/5 of which are of French origin, you will more fully realize how important it is to understand its attitude.

"Frankly, I am astonished at the prejudice, ignorance and even hate shown against Quebec, although here in Manitoba, I must say to your credit that you seem to understand Quebec. better than some other provinces.

"I have heard and read, for instance, that Quebec is an Indian reserve, that it is 100 years behind the times, that its population is illiterate, that it is priest-ridden and therefore ignorant and retrograde, that it is Anti-British, Anti-West, Anti-Maritime, that its Premier, Mr. Duplessis, is a dictator, that there are powerful secret societies planning the downfall of the British Commonwealth and Protestantism — and other similar trash.

"During the war, who has not heard or read that Quebec was the haven of slackers, zombies, deserters, isolationists, Nazis, fascists, and what have you? Is it not a fact that, if a deserter was caught in Quebec, it was given prominence — whilst if Mr. John T. Seary, of Brownsburg, gave his four sons and only daughter to the armed services — if Jos. Belanger of Lachute, Que., gave his four sons — if Prima Charbonneau, of Quebec, gave his six sons. . . you never heard about it?

"Were you ever told that the first regiment to recruit at full strength in Canada, at the beginning of the last war, was the Regiment de Maisonneuve, a 100% French Canadian regiment from Montreal? Did you read that at Dieppe, Les Fusilliers Mont-Royal, another 100% French-Canadian regiment, was wiped out? Have you heard of le Regiment de la Chaudière, one of the toughest and fightingest outfits in France? You may have read a few lines about the famous Royal 22nd, and its V.C. holder Major Triquet. And what about our magnificent English-speaking regiments from Quebec. . . Did you ever read of their glorious record? Very little, if any.

"There is in our province a very important English-speaking minority, whose loyalty to the Crown and British institutions cannot be questioned, who have generously sacrificed their young men, women and financial resources, but who are proud to be Quebeckers; and they resent deeply any slur against their province.

"I ask you not believe what you have read or heard. . . Believe rather that Quebec is a healthy, progressive province, semi-industrial, semi-rural—its cities buzzing with manufacture and commerce; tidy villages, with quiet, industrious, hospitable people anxious to mind their own business, and doing just that. . . Some of our farming families having been on the same land for six and eight generations. The Quebec farmer, much the same as the Manitoba farmer . has his troubles; he damns his government in much the same energetic language, complains about markets and prices, and is a believer in co-operatives. Still, with all his troubles, the Quebec farmer has found it possible to raise families of 10 or 12 children, and every evening, they . . thank the Almighty for having made the Christians and Canadians. Surely you are not going to consider these people as a disturbing element in Canadian life?

"Similarly . . the average industrialist and employer in Quebec will tell you that Quebec labor is the most reliable, most honest, least exacting in the world.

"As to the French-Canadian people in Quebec, 3,000,000 strong, — they are not divided by religious or linguistic differences; and their faith is based on the cardinal principle that one must submit to, and obey scrupulously, the constituted authority, and practice charity and tolerance towards his fellow-men. Is this feature of Quebec a disturbing factor? . .I want to emphasize now, that against subversive elements, Quebec will remain a Gibraltar, and will thus render tremendous service to the whole of Canada.

"Since the last Dominion-Provincial Conference, where some provinces refused the Federal proposals . . still more abuse has been written against Quebec and its Prime-Minister. But Mr. Duplessis' attitude received the unanimous support of all classes and factions of the Province. . . (From the record of our constitutional history) . . it ensues that when the Premier of Quebec sits at a Dominion-Provincial table, he must not think only in terms of one Province in nine, but also be the authorized spokesman for 3,000,000 French - Canadians; it is easy to understand why he cannot accept proposals which would surrender to the central authority those sources of income on which the needs of his compatriots depend, unless he receives adequate financial compensation PLUS ironclad guarantees for the future.

"Don't blame Mr. Duplessis for the failure of the Inter-Provincial conference, and don't believe what you read about his so called non-tractable attitude.

"— And in turn, does Quebec understand Manitoba's problems? Most certainly. We are well acquainted with your as-yet-unsolved wheat problem, your financial and educational requirements, your highway needs, your co-operative movements. We realize, that very much like ourselves in Quebec, you have been bamboozled by the never fulfilled pledges of the federal governments. . .

"— The remedy lies, after all, with your own selves. If you will persist in your representations, if you will elect men of chosen integrity and ability, who will serve your interests faithfully and well, if you will unite solidly behind them, and see to it that they get things done, nothing will stop you — because there is nothing more powerful than an alert and aroused public opinion."

Ottawa Man Shot While Hunting

While holidaying at L'Orignal, Paul Brazeau, 41, of Ottawa, was accidentally shot and succumbed to his injury a short time later, at the Notre Dame Hospital, Hawkesbury.

Vacationing with his family for the past few weeks, Mr. Brazeau left the cottage last Thursday remarking that he intended to go hunting groundhogs. The man's daughter and niece later heard moans coming from a ravine 300 yards from the home, and on investigating, found the victin lying paralysed, the rifle beside him. The bullet had entered the chest, about two inches below the throat, puncturing one lung and lodging in the spine, causing paralysis.

The injured man was rushed to the Notre Dame Hospital, Hawkesbury, where he died the next day.

Home, folks like to tell you, is where the heart is. In that case, Tom Jenson of Stoughton, Wisconsin, was living in his mouth. He drove out on the edge of town to look at his newly completed house. It was beautiful. Fresh white paint, green shutters. New pine tree in the front yard. Everything wonderful — until Jenson peered around and noted the house was standing on someone else's property.

Was Proprietor Of Well Known Highway Spot

THE LATE A. VACHON

Cushing W. — After a long illness, there passed away at the Hotel Dieu Hospital in Montreal Mr. A. Vachon, who though not a native of this place, has been a well known figure in the locality. For a number of years he conducted a cheese factory and gasoline station at what is still known as Vachon's Corner, in Chatboro on No. 8 Highway, but owing to failing health he and his wife removed to Grece's Point last year. Mrs. Vachon, who was formerly Victoria Desforges, predeceased her husband some months ago. They were both very popular residents of this community and their passing is regarded with regret.

The funeral was held on Friday morning from the undertaking parlors of his nephews, Messrs. Desforges, at Grenville, to the Church of St. Philippe, interment being made in the adjoining cemetery.

He joined C-I-L in 1933 as a metallurgist.

SON AND FATHER POLICE OFFICERS AT STE. AGATHE

Ste. Agathe — Gaston Tourangeau, recently discharged from the R.C.A.F., has enlisted in the police force under his father, Joseph Tourangeau, who holds the dual position of both police and fire chief at Ste. Agathe.

The 24-year-old constable joined the Air Force in August 1942 and saw service in England, India and Africa. His father was constable for 17 years before receiving his appointment as chief a year and a half ago.

Garages Looted in Lachute and B'burg

A considerable haul was made by theives breaking into three local garages—two in Lachute and one in Brownsburg — during Monday night. The robberies occurred between the hours of two and six o'clock Tuesday morning.

At the Farmer Brown Motor Sales premises on Brownsburg Road, goods and tools valued at around $1,100 were removed. Most of the equipment consisted of batteries, spark plugs and small auto accessories.

At the Cayer Garage on Main Street West, loss by theft that same night amounted to about $700 — including $237 in cash and cheques.

Yvon Cyr, garage proprietor at Brownsburg, suffered a similar loss at his premises, where tires, parts and a radio, valued at about $300, were stolen.

Local and provincial police are investigating the thefts, following several clues which may lead to identity of the culprits. On the highway between St. Andrews and St. Eustache early Tuesday morning, Sgt. Det. Valiquette of Montreal apprehended a man with a previous police record, who was later lodged at police headquarters. It is stated, however, a search of his car revealed no trace of the stolen goods. . . Indications suggested the loot was taken in the direction of Montreal over Route 8.

Infant's Body Found in Parcel

Following discovery on Tuesday evening of the body of a newly born child wrapped in a paper package, a 31-year-old woman of Lachute west ward was apprehended by police and held at St. Jerome as a material witness. The case, now in the hands of Det. Albert Oggier, of the provincial police, will reach further developments on report of the autopsy and inquest on the body.

On request of a family with whom the woman occupied a room, Police Chief D. Villeneuve investigated the contents of a parcel discarded on Hamford Street Tuesday evening, and found the child's body, in an advanced state of decomposition. It was alleged the baby had been born several weeks past. The detained woman has been employed here as a millworker.

The secretaryship of this municipality is being taken over by R. A. Craig, who, from August 1, will act officially as successor to Mr. Cantin.

WHEN "DOWN" IS "UP"

We have all heard of the so-called Magnetic Hill outside of Moncton, which has been a great tourist attraction in the years gone by, but the one near Pleasant Valley about three miles out of Antigonish is a puzzler too. The land appears to be downhill, but on the little side road you can stop your car at the bottom, release the brakes and up the hill the car will go, gaining speed as it rolls. . . There is no doubt it is an optical illusion, but it is one of those things that have to be seen to be believed. — Pictou Advocate

SPEAKER PROMINENT IN BUSINESS CIRCLES TELLS IDEALS, EFFECTS OF PROFIT SHARING

Subject Provokes Thought, in These Days Beset by Strikes and Dissension

ADDRESS AT BROWNSBURG ROTARY CLUB

Brownsburg—The regular weekly dinner meeting of the Rotary Club was held at Carriere's Hotel on Thursday, July 18.

"Profit Sharing" was the subject of an interesting address by a very well known Canadian businessman, John E. Millen, of John Millen & Son Ltd., Montreal.

Profit sharing is a thought-provoking idea, at a time when the country is beset with innumerable strikes for which no satisfactory solutions appear to have been found.

The speaker, born in Montreal in 1872, is president of John Millen & Son Ltd. and of many subsidiary companies connected with automotive, railway, aircraft, radio and accessories wholesaling.

A Rotarian, a governor of the Montreal General Hospital and the Boys' Home of Montreal, he is a member of many clubs both in Canada and the United States, including the Research Club of Chicago and the Royal Automobile Club of Montreal.

Having practised profit sharing with his own business employees, the speaker has made a study of systems as used by such companies as Lincoln Electric; McCormick & Company, of Baltimore; Scott, McHale, of London, Ontario. He mentioned the modern trend to be more considerate of employees, with pension plans, sickness insurance, holidays with pay, and many welfare benefits which were unheard of a few years ago.

Swift & Company was cited as an example of the firms which are making special efforts to take employees into the confidence of management. Their financial statement is a model of clearness, indicating the employees' part and giving them much credit for the success of the business. This large company, doing over one and one-quarter billion dollars worth of business per year, distributes 12.3% to wages and 0.08% of its sales dollar to dividends. Many of its welfare plans were mentioned.

But, of special interest to the speaker and the audience, was the direct profit sharing method as used by Lincoln and the John Millen Co. — whereby company profits are divided between the stockholders and the employees, the latter receiving annual or semi-annual bonuses.

Quoting Eric Johnston, of the U.S. Chambers of Commerce, who said — "Under capitalism the theory is that every man is a free agent, even though he is on someone else's payroll; nobody can tell him what job to take or how long to hold it; nobody, we say, stops an employee from blossoming into an employer" — the speaker agreed that we should support more actively the things we believe in, not just say we believe in our system and let it go at that.

Real profit sharing requires mutual confidence between management and labor, with frank and full discussion of the company's earnings and financial position. It results in lower product cost to the consumer, thus increased business; higher wages for the worker; and greater dividend for the stockholder, due to the success of the business — which directly and indirectly is a result of better team-work and co-operation.

The speaker was introduced by Herbert Graves, and thanked by Sam Ross.

Guests included Mr. J. Noreyko and Mr. Levitt, of Montreal; John McDonald, of Lachute, and Bernard O'Connell, of Brownsburg.

During the evening, chairman Denis Staniforth reported fine cooperation of the Brownsburg citizens and the successful collection of about one and one-half tons of used clothing for the needy of Europe.

Reports also indicate considerable activity by Rotarians in expectation of a successful carnival, on August 8, 9 nd 10 — to be held on MacVicar's field, adjoining the school grounds. In this connection, an interim survey shows wide support of the Rotary draw for a Westinghouse Refrigerator, now in progress. The actual drawing will take place at the carnival.

Novel Program at Women's Group Follows Pattern of Radio Dialogue

Topic of Local History Presented in Interesting Manner Before Members of Youngest Branch of Women's Institute

The Waterways of Argenteuil

Contributed by Mrs. H. Johnston, Publicity Convener, Arundel

Arundel — Twenty-two members and one visitor were on hand at the regular July meeting of the Arundel Women's Institute, held in the United Church hall, with Mrs. Gordon Cooke presiding. Each member answered the roll-call by naming a place in Argenteuil County beginning with her initial. Four new members were welcomed.

The sending of personal parcels overseas was fully discussed and the branch will take up this work soon. The members raised $12. last month by catering at a wedding.

Mrs. A. E. Wilfong, convener of National and International Affairs, presented a carefully prepared program on the topic, "Water Highways of Argenteuil," which took the form of a dialogue with two members of her committee, namely, Mrs. Bulley and Mrs. Veit.

As the conversation preceeded Mrs. Wilfong pointed out the places of interest on a well drawn map.

The first speaker, Mrs. Wilfong, located the Ottawa River and explained how it forms the entire southern boundary of Argenteuil and separates this county from Prescott in Ontario. She told how it was first used as a highway by the Indians, and later by the white settlers as well.

The third speaker, Mrs. Veit, recalled from history the fact that Champlain had travelled up the Ottawa on his wild goose chase to find the North-West Passage.

The second speaker, Mrs. Bulley, mentioned that in places the Ottawa is the deepest river in the world.

1st S. — related that it has its shallow spots as well, and Champlain had to do much portaging to avoid rapids. She continued by telling one of her favorite stories, of Dollard des Ormeaux and his little band, and how this incident, in 1660, took place at the Long Sault Rapids — a narrative that is counted as one of the most important happenings of the Ottawa Valley. In recent years a monument to commemorate it was placed in the Village of Carillon. The exact site of the battle, however, has never been decided. Some say it was at Hawkesbury, others at Grece's Point, others near Chute à Blondeau. There are two rows of trenches on a farm near Chute à Blondeau. It is possible this might have been the place.

3rd S. — told how Indians and early white settlers travelled in canoes. But, as the white men increased in numbers, the Ottawa was used more as a highway, household goods being conveyed by means of batteaux and rafts. She mentioned that even with the aid of pilots, some people met with disaster; and one or two cases were cited.

1st S.—asked how heavy freight in those early days was taken up from Montreal to points beyond the Long Sault Rapids.

2nd S. — explained how it was rowed to Carillon at the foot of the rapids and then hauled up the rapids by ropes.

1st S. — remarked what a great deal of hard work this involved, not to mention loss of life.

Caution on Danger Spots – Drowning In Stone Quarry

Following a drowning which occurred recently at a stone quarry on the outskirts of Lachute, warning is issued on authority of the district coroner, Jules Lafleur, M.D., that owners of such excavations place fences around them, to protect the lives of young children. Water gathering in these spots makes a pond or lake attractive to the youngsters, who fail to realize the depth or the danger of these water-filled quarries. . Residents knowing of such unguarded sites are urged to report them to the municipal authorities.

The accident in question claimed the life of five-year-old Jean Marc Miron, Evelina Street, Lachute Mills, who fell into deep water and was drowned at the stone quarry near Mrs. L. M. Barron's farm buildings. (The quarry, owned by Ayers Limited, is fenced from the road, and has since been surrounded by a guard rail).

Coroner Dr. Lafleur heard the evidence of 11-year-old St. Denis, cousin of the drowned boy, who with two other youngsters had been playing at the spot. Soon after young Miron had been missed by his companions, his body was recovered in deep water.

The fatality was pronounced accidental.

Aged Resident Found Drowned At Mille Isles

A 79-year-old resident of Mille Isles, James Ross Pollock, lost his life by drowning while on a berry-picking expedition on Sunday near his home.

The aged man had been warned against wandering unaccompanied in the woods, since he had on previous occasions lost his surroundings. When he failed to return home a search was instituted, and on Monday his body was found in the shallow water of Fiddler's Lake, a mud lake some distance from his dwelling. His hat and berry pail were found half a mile from the spot. It was believed that the man became lost and confused, and in the darkness Sunday night tripped into the water.

Det. Leopold Dauphin, of Lachute, investigated the fatality. Coroner Jules Lafleur, M.D., pronounced the death accidental.

The victim was unmarried. He lived with his brother in Mille Isles.

School Election At St. Andrews

St. Andrews East — Protestant ratepayers here voted July 15 to fill a vacancy on the local school commission — Buchanan H. Robertson winning the election against his opponent, George M. Rodger. The vote was 63 to 22. Mr. Robertson fills the seat vacated by R. Wallace Burry, for a three-year term as commissioner.

An issue at stake in this contest was whether St. Andrews school municipality should link up with the county central board — the vote in favor of Robertson being generally understood to indicate the majority of ratepayers are not yet in favor of this move. It is stated many voters also supported the candidate in order to assure representation for the Village proper, on the St. Andrews commission. Nearly half of the eligible electors voted.

W. Entwistle is secretary of this board.

Three Drowned Near Montfort

In a tragedy which occurred at Lac St. Francois, Montfort, last Saturday night, three persons lost their lives by drowning. The accident happened at about 11 p.m., when a motor boat in the darkness rammed a capacity filled rowboat.

It is reported the occupants of both craft, numbering a dozen people, were thrown into the water. There were stated to be seven in the rowboat, two of whom could not swim.

Those drowned were two men and a 20-year-old girl —Harold Sherritt, 21, of Rosemount, Merle Walker, 42, of New Carlisle, Gaspe; and Eileen Astles, 20, of London, Ont.

As dragging operations were carried on around the spot, the first victim was recovered Monday evening and the remaining two on Tuesday. The bodies were released for burial, being transported to their respective homes. Inquest to determine the cause of the tragedy, however, will not be held until Saturday evening, pending appearance of several witnesses. The hearing, which opened here Tuesday evening, will be resumed at the Montfort Orphanage.

Lac St. Francois — more correctly listed as Lac St. Francois Xavier — is a popular spot for cottagers and vacationists, lying between Montfort and Newago in the northern section of this county.

Hamilton, Ont. (CP) — A long distance car theft championship may be claimed by the city police with the announcement of recovery of a car stolen here June 13. The car was found at Golden, B.C., after travelling 3,000 miles. No trace has been found of the thieves — who are probably still travelling.

Chicken Market Age

The age at which chickens are marketed has a direct bearing on the quality of a carcass and on the amount of feed required to produce a pound of meat, Leonard Griesbach, Dominion Experimental Station, Fredericton, N.B., points out. Chickens will not fatten when they are growing rapidly, so they should be practically full grown when moved to the fattening pens. Usually this would be about six months of age for the heavy breeds, such as Barred Rocks, but it is not profitable to keep them long after they are full grown because the amount of feed required to produce a pound of gain increases with age, and the quality of the carcass is highest shortly after maturity.

Egg Cases Now In Short Supply

Anticipating record egg production this fall, the Dominion Department of Agriculture has warned dealers of the need to order egg cases immediately. "With this year's hatchings earlier than usual, and 19 per cent above those of 1945, Canadian egg production beginning this fall may reach an all-time high", the Department said.

To ensure sufficient containers for the hundreds of millions of eggs expected to be produced this fall and winter, the Department recommended that all shippers of eggs in carlot quantities order case shooks fully six months in advance so that sufficient wood may be obtained for their manufacture.

Three Clubs Combine In Ayrshire Sale

Three cattle breeders' clubs organized a public auction at Ile Verte of young Ayrshire cattle, and were successful beyond their expectations.

The thirty animals up for sale, sired by AA-class bulls, brought $3,000. The average price on the 26 heifers was $93 and the young males averaged $97.50. Heifer sales varied between $75 and $150; bulls from $60 to $175.

With the exception of eight subjects knocked down to W. Timmermans, agronomist and agent for the Eastern Townships Breeders' Club and a representative of the Quebec General Hospital Farm, all cattle were bought by farmers of the surrounding district.

Invents Machine to Clean Grain Crops

Dauphin, Man. (CP) — A grain-cleaning machine which separates wild oats from coarse grains has been invented by W. A. S. Beatty, of Makaroff, Man., a few miles west of here on the Saskatchewan border.

The machine is called a "blanket cleaner". The grain to be cleaned is poured on a special blanket which revolves on rollers like the table on a binder. The blanket can be tipped to various angles, and as the grain passes over it the wild oats stick to it.

The clean grain falls to the bottom of the blanket and the wild oats are carried to the other side, where a series of fine wires knocks them off into containers.

The method at present in use by farmers is to buy registered seed. Sieve cleaners will not separate the two varieties of seed.

The Dauphin section of the Manitoba Federation of Agriculture unanimously passed a motion recently asking a firm to manufacture the machine. Delegates to the meeting had tried it and spoke highly of its effectiveness.

Farm Topics

A practical farmer from Cambridgeshire, England, is currently addressing Canadian farmers through the BBC's Overseas Service. He is Denis Bullard, prominent member of his county War Agricultural Committee, whose talks on English farming topics are a frequent feature of the noon farm broadcasts presented regionally by the CBC. The program is heard in Ontario and Quebec, Monday to Friday, at 1.45 p.m. EDT.

Safety Theatre on Rails

Designed to give more than 20,000 men of the C.P.R. on eastern lines "visual" education in general train, interlocking rules and safe practices, a theatre on rails has begun its tour of lines from the Head of the Great Lakes to the Atlantic coast. When schools re-open, children at divisional points will be invited to visit the car, in which have been incorporated all the features of a modern theatre, and see films which will teach them to avoid trespassing on railways and to prevent crossing accidents.

Here, J. C. McCuaig, general safety agent for eastern lines, is lecturing to a class of railroaders on the operation of block signals with the aid of light panels which give an exact replica of the signals' operation on the line. The rule in question is shown on the screen. Inset, N. R. Crump, general manager for eastern lines, who conceived the idea of such a car, is describing the operation of the lighted panels to C.P.R. officials. The car was turned out of Angus Shops after conversion from wartime hospital car.

Fr.-Canadian Students And Teachers to Exchange with France

An exchange of students between French Universities and those from Canada will shortly be discussed in Paris, as the result of an invitation extended by the French Government to Adrien Pouliot, Dean of the Faculty of Science at Laval University, to visit France and contact scientific circles with a view to exchanging teachers and pupils, and thus assure closer co-operation between French and Canadian science. A group of graduates from the Paris Polytechnic School will be in Canada in the near future, to further pursue their research work in cosmic rays and nuclear physics in the Science branch at Laval University.

Quebec Has Open Partridge Season

An order-in-council authorizing the hunting of grey partridge in the Province of Quebec between September 21 and November 20, 1946, was recently adopted by the provincial cabinet on recommendation of the Minister of Fish and Game.

The following conditions govern Quebec's first open season on partridge for several years:

1. No person may shoot or capture more than five birds per day.
2. No person may have in his possession more than three days' legal bag.
3. No person may have partriges in his possession after one month following the close of the hunting season, or December 20, 1946.

Fights Aerial War On Farm Weeds

Edmonton (CP) — With 20 years of commercial flying experience behind him, former Squadron Leader E. S. Holmes, Edmonton, is bringing the benefits of air-borne agricultural science to western farmers. Operating from a Lysander cabin plane, Mr. Holmes kills farm weeds by spraying them with poison dust.

Actually, Mr. Holmes' technique is not a new one. He got the idea while watching dusting operations in Montana. After purchasing an aircraft from War Assets Corporation, he set himself up in business.

Mr. Holmes usually tries to spray a whole municipality or district at a time. He charges for his jobs at a set price per acre.

The plane carries one and a half tons of dust, which is blown on the fields in quantities of 20 pounds to the acre.

If You Are a No.1 Citizen You will look after No. 1...

THIS is not selfishness, but the realization that a community is no better, no sounder than its citizens.

The welfare of our community—Canada—depends not alone on those charged with the government of the country, but on each of its citizens—12,000,000 strong.

Today, that welfare is menaced by the danger of inflation. Already, millions in lands devastated by war suffer misery because of it.

Inflation, to the citizen, means simply less and less value for his dollar . . . his living costs soar as free and careless spending drives up the price of goods still in short supply.

War always brings the threat of inflation in its wake ...only the prudence of the people can keep it in check.

• • •

How? Mainly, by conservation . . . by buying only those goods which are in fair supply, and by saving money for the day when goods now in short supply will be readily available.

This helps to keep prices steady—to keep your dollar at its real worth.

This means that, if you are a No. 1 citizen, you will rigidly avoid black market purchases and you will save money by

- building up your savings account;
- keeping up your insurance;
- buying Government bonds and War Savings Certificates;
- holding whatever of these securities you have bought.

This is conservation—the first requisite for personal security—the first attribute of good citizenship.

Billion Dollar Mentality

THE DEBATE on the budget has caused many Canadians to wonder when the government will institute a policy of economy and abandon the reckless spending orgy which seems to be caused by what one speaker has termed "our billion dollar mentality". The old-fashioned idea of living within our means seems to have gone by the board, with our financial experts showing little concern over the tabling of deficit after deficit, and national debt that already has reached the astounding figure of $1,400 per capita.

Members speaking in the Commons made charges of extravagance which, if true, call for an explanation to the taxpayers. Who sanctioned the production of a Prices Board radio serial "George Wife", (discarded since this criticism), which reputedly cost the government more than $5,000 a week? Do we need the more than 700 employees of the National Film Board, and why is the government employing a large number of public relations men at high salaries? Why has there been only a slight reduction in the ranks of the Civil Service since war's end? These are just a few of the many questions the tax-payers want answered — and they demand to know when corrective action will be taken.

We cannot expect to have relief from income tax levies until the Administration starts operating on an economical basis. There can be no economy until ministers drastically cut the estimates for their departments, and until they abolish the hundreds of unnecessary positions which political hangers-on now occupy. A farmer or business man would be bankrupt within a week if he operated on the financial basis the Administration now follows in such an unconcerned manner.

Canadians want economy of government, and reductions in taxation. They want it immediately. Full-scale production and national prosperity will continue to be stifled until such a policy is brought into effect.

The Poet Burns

WE IMAGINE that Robert Burns, the great Scottish poet, would turn over in his grave if he knew that an American has described him as "the Frank Sinatra of a century and a half ago".

The man who likens Burns to the much-publicized crooner is a Presbyterian minister of Paterson, New Jersey, and he actually meant no slander at the poet, but rather to praise him. The occasion of the speech was at the observance of the 150th anniversary of the death of the 37-year-old Burns.

The minister, the Rev. Charles S. Webster, refuted the "too greatly exaggerated reports of the poet's frailties", but we think that comparing Burns to Sinatra is anything but praise. The name of Burns will be known for centuries, but it is most likely that the name of Sinatra will be forgotten five or ten years from now.

The Rev. Mr. Webster meant well by his speech, however, because he sharply challenged the infamy perpetrated concerning the alleged drunkenness and irreligion of the poet, and pointed out that Burns' home life and poetry reflect his religious leanings and sobriety..

We don't know whether or not Burns ever took a drink, but there is a pub in Dumfries, Scotland, where Burns is supposed to have spent many happy hours. It is called "The Hole in the Wa' ", and the proprietor has a collection of Burns' original works and letters as well as some of the furniture from Burns' house.. During the war the precious collection was stored in a place of safety, but no doubt by now it is again on view. The "Hole in the Wa' " is entered by a long, low and narrow passageway which leads off the street to a small room, which is the pub itself. A visitor can enjoy some of the atmosphere which Burns himself must have felt during his time spent there.

Burns is buried in the churchyard at Dumfries, and every year thousands of people pay homage to his tomb. Not far from the church is the house where Burns spent his last years.

Burns is revered for his unsurpassable mastery of his native vernacular in setting forth before us some aspects of Scottish life and character. Like thousands of others we find much enjoyment in his works. But a Frank Sinatra? Never!

THOSE PEOPLE who hanker to enjoy themselves on water should acquaint themselves with the simple rules for water safety, and while various safety promotion agencies continually issue warnings about the dangers that inexperience brings forth, a lot of people continue to lose their lives through drowning.

Taking Stock in Everyman's Community

WITH THE SPRING "paint up, clean up" campaign, Canadians did much to improve the appearance of their homes — but now, it is time for them to take a good look at their communities, with the view to making further improvements this summer and planning changes for next year.

To do so they will probably have to put themselves in the position of a visitor entering the town for the first time and sizing it up as a shopping centre or a place to spend a night or a holiday. Would the approach to the town give a tourist a good first impression — or is it a motley collection of rubbish heaps, unpainted board fences, tumble-down shacks and weed fields ?

Is Main Street itself impressive ? Probably the merchants have brightened their store fronts with fresh paint and awnings, but what about the other buildings ? Are the sidewalks and roadways in good repair, the street signs trim and legible, the houses and stores numbered correctly and adequately ? Do neat signboards make visitors welcome and direct them to beauty spots or historical landmarks in the area ?

Has the town capitalized on "local color" — unique and original features of geography, manufactures or inhabitants—or is it content to be a dull copy of a thousand other communities ? It may be the best spot on earth to the homefolk, but has it anything to make a visitor from Pennsylvania, Tenessee or Ohio remember either its name or its importance ? To make it distinctive requires imagination, vision and often hard work, but it is worth it.

It might be well, too, to glance at the conditions of buildings and facilities connected with transportation — railway stations, bus terminals and their waiting rooms. Many of these are owned by private companies but usually their owners will be glad to make improvements if given a friendly tip that their property is not up to the standard of the rest of the town.

Candid self-examination may enable a community to see what it lacks, and to take steps to supply it. It is never too soon or too late to make changes for the better.

The New Savings Bond

THE GOVERNMENT is to be congratulated for arranging the sale of the new "Canada savings bonds" to replace the Victory Bonds and war savings certificates.

Mr. Ilsley, Minister of Finance, has made a shrewd move by encouraging citizens to continue the wartime saving habit with the system of payroll deductions. He has made a wise decision also in abolishing the door-to-door canvass and personal sales coverage which marked the Victory Bond drives. Purchase of the bonds will be left to the individual, which is as it should be. Canadian government bonds do not need any bally-hoo to sell them. They are as sound an investment as can be made.

Many people learned how to save during the war years by subscribing to Victory Bonds. The opportunity for continuing such a habit will not only prove beneficial to the individual, but also will strengthen the financial and economic structure of our country.

New Potatoes

THE FIRST LOT of new potatoes must have had an effect on the editor of the Kingston Whig-Standard, because he took space in his editorial columns to sing the praises of this vegetable. He declares that there are few things finer than a boiled potato, especially when it is boiled along with a New England dinner, or a chicken stock, later to be served under rich butter sauce à la Hollandaise. He finds, too, that a baked potato is equally attractive if scooped out and generously dotted with butter, while his scalloped potatoes made with onions, flour, cream and butter are really out of this world. And what about Potatoes Chantilly, or just plain old-fashioned mashed potatoes, whipped to a feathery texture with butter and milk, drowned in rich gravy, he asks ? We thought it was rationed !

We agree with the Whig-Standard editor. The potato is really a fine dish. But where, oh where, does he obtain nowadays the butter which he spreads about so generously in his recipes ? A new potato, however, smothered in butter (as we remember) is really something, especially if accompanied by garden peas, fresh young carrots, sliced tomatoes and a large steak, medium cooked.

A Major Cause Of Blindness

To the average person the word "Glaucoma" means nothing. Yet 11 per cent of all blindness can be traced to this treacherous disease of the eye, and it is estimated that another 150,000 live under the threat of blindness from this same cause, often without even being aware of it.

Glaucoma is a disease of the eye characterized by an increase in pressure within the eyeball, damaging the optic nerves, and other eye disturbances. The cause is unknown. There are two main types: chronic and acute, and of the two the chronic is the more dangerous. In acute glaucoma the symptoms are so sudden and severe that the victim is usually impelled to consult a doctor immediately. But in chronic glaucoma the onset is usually gradual, so unalarming, that by the time expert help is sought it is often too late to save the patient from partial or total blindness.

The commonest symptoms of chronic glaucoma are: blurring or clouding of vision in one or both eyes; seeing a mist or halo with rainbow colored rings around distant lights, especially after having been in the dark for some time; discomfort or pain in or around the eyes after excitement or worry; difficulty in reading, owing to blurring of print; occasional pain in the eye after a short period of reading. Occasionally glaucoma attacks the young, but mostly, victims are those of middle age or older.

Although glaucoma can be arrested and blindness averted if the disease is detected in time, in the majority of cases not one iota of the sight lost through glaucoma can ever be restored, even by operative procedure. Even after consulting an ophthalmologist many glaucoma patients fail to realize the importance of following to the letter the health rules laid down for them. In this particular disease, anything which heightens nervous tension is a real hazard to the sight. Records show that severe attacks of glaucoma occur most frequently after some period of excitement, anger, or nervous or emotional upset, or following some unusual dissipation.

Announce Changes Immigration Act

AFFECTING RELATIVES OF PERSONS IN CANADA, AND OTHERS

Resources Minister Glen recently announces amendments to the Immigration Act making it possible for the relatives of persons in Canada to come to the Dominion from foreign countries, providing the relatives can support them.

In addition to British subjects and United States citizens, the present regulations provide for the admission of —

1. The wife or unmarried child under 18 years of age of any person legally admitted to Canada who has sufficient means to maintain himself until employment is secured.

2. An agriculturist having sufficient means to farm in Canada.

3. The fiancee of an adult male legally admitted to and resident in Canada who is in a position to receive, marry and care for his intended wife.

4. A person who, having entered Canada as a non-immigrant, enlisted in the Canadian armed forces and, having served in such forces, has been honorably discharged therefrom.

Alien immigrants, other than United States citizens, require to be in possession of a properly vised passport.

By Order-in-Council dated May 28, 1946, the following have been added to the admissable classes:

The father and mother, the unmarried son or daughter 18 years of age or over, the unmarried brother or sister, the orphan nephew or niece under 16 years of age, of any person legally admitted to and resident in Canada who is in a position to receive and care for such relative. The term "orphan" means a child bereaved of both parents.

Passport Changes

As there will be a number of persons coming within the degrees of relationship just described who cannot obtain a valid passport required by the present passport regulations, these have also been amended, to permit of the acceptance of a travel document establishing the identity of the holder in the case of an immigrant who has been displaced from his country of origin as the result of the war and is not in possession of a valid passport.

At the present time there is an acute shortage of westbound trans-Atlantic passenger accommodation, due primarily to the scarcity of passenger vessels, the return of service personnel and the bringing to Canada of their dependents. It undoubtedly will be the end of the present year before much accommodation will be available for the ordinary traveller.

Prior to the war the immigration branch maintained inspectional staffs at European ports of embarkation for the examination of immigrants. These staffs had to be withdrawn following the outbreak of hostilities. It is proposed to re-establish inspectional facilities on the continent as quickly as circumstances permit, so that as transportation becomes available immigrants of the admissable classes may come forward.

Friend of Weeklies Receives O.B.E.

HONORED FOR WAR WORK

Friends in all walks of life, clear across Canada, took pleasure in the announcement that Vernon C. Knowles of Montreal was honored with the Order of the British Empire in the Dominion Day Honors List. This merited distinction came by virtue of special war services rendered to Canada by Mr. Knowles during the war years.

Particularly in the ranks of newspapermen, and specially the weekly press of Canada, was the award acclaimed, for among them few men are more widely known than Vernon Knowles, O.B.E., who for many years has himself been a noted writer, journalist and publicity executive.

As a youth, farming captured his imagination. He homesteaded in Western Canada, but drouth and an accident that cost him amputation of his left arm turned his mind to journalism. He started on the Prince Albert, Sask., Times, became political writer for the Winnipeg Telegram and managing editor of the Winnipeg Tribune. Later he came East on his appointment as managing editor of the Toronto Mail and Empire. After a few years he was named managing editor of the Toronto Star.

Sound finance being the keystone of prosperity of this young nation, a fact too little known by the general public, the chartered banks of Canada sought a man of proven ability to help widen the horizon of public knowledge in this sphere. They chose Vernon Knowles, who ten years ago became Public Relations Adviser of the Canadian Bankers' Association. His work in this field has been outstanding. The institutional advertising has given to the press an opportunity to present the facts of banking and has resulted in a well-informed public on this vital phase of the national economy.

When war broke out, finance became at once a major concern. Mr. Knowles was drafted. Again the public had to be informed. He recommended formation of the Canadian Pubishers War Finance Committee, hailed as a perfect liaison between press and public. It functioned with great success all during the war with its chief architect carrying on his ordinary occupation at the same time. Serving without pay, Mr. Knowles took part in all the many activities arising out of the central, national committees.

He served with Hon. C. A. Dunning in the First War Loan, with Col. Ralston in the Second War Loan, and continued as chief consultant to George W. Spinney through the first four Victory Loans, remaining to do publicity under the Towers regime. Earlier he had organized publicity for the United War Services campaign, in which the late Wendell Wilkie came to Canada, and more than $7,000,000 was raised.

At the request of the Canadian Red Cross Society, he organized its wartime publicity and created the Red Cross National Publicity Committee, which conducted drives that raised, during war, more than $45,000,000. —The man literally worked night and day and his genius framed all these underlying organizations. Small wonder that Prime Minister Mackenzie King recommended to His Majesty that Mr. Knowles be honored.

A real friend is one who knows the worst about you yet expects the best.

DISASTER AVERTED

Swift Current, Sask. (CP)—Perfection of dress at an air cadet inspection was threatened recently when a youth appeared shortly before parade time wearing brown shoes rather than the regulation black. He was whisked into a firehall where a generous application of black polish saved the day.

BENNETT — In loving memory of our dear son, Borden, who gave his life at the battle of Caen in France, July 25, 1944. — Ever remembered by Father and Mother.

"Our son has crossed o'er Jordan's tide,
His robes are washed and white as snow,
He paid the price as Jesus did,
That we might live and freedom know.

"His memory clings like perfume rare
Wafted here from heaven's shore;
The days are swiftly passing by,
When we shall meet to part no more.

"The battles now are fought and over,
The boys returned home, one by one,
But the glorious home-coming
Was in heaven for our son".

BENNETT — In proud and loving memory of our dear brother, Borden, killed in action July 25, 1944. — Ever remembered by Jessie, Lorna and Mildred.

"O valiant heart who to your glory came
Through dust of conflict and through battle flame,
Tranquil you lie, your knightly virtue proved,
Your memory hallowed in the land you loved.

"Splendid you passed, the great surrender made,
Into the light that never more shall fade,
Deep your contentment in that blest abode
Who wait the last clear trumpet call of God."

BIGELOW — In loving memory of my dear husband, Sylvester, who passed away July 23, 1945.—Sadly missed by his wife, Margaret.

"Not a day do I forget you,
In our hearts you're always near,
For we loved you and we miss you
As it dawns another year."

BIGELOW — In loving memory of a dear father, who passed away July 23, 1945. — Always remembered and sadly missed by his daughter and son-in-law, Bertha, Hector and family.

"Today recalls sad memories
Of a dear one laid to rest,
And those who think of him today
Are those who loved him best.
Though we hear his voice no longer,
And his smiling face has gone,
In our thoughts his voice still echoes,
In our hearts his smile lives on."

BIGELOW — In loving memory of my dear father, Sylvester, who passed away July 23, 1945. — Sadly missed by his son George, and daughter-in-law Edna.

"In the grave he is quietly sleeping,
Where the green grass gently grows,
Lies the one who loved us dearly,
Whom we loved and could not save.
To those who have a father,
Treasure him with care,
For you will never know his worth
Till you see his vacant chair."

BIGELOW — In loving memory of our dear grandfather, Sylvester Bigelow, who passed away July 23, 1945. — Always remembered by his granddaughters, Pearl and Merle.

French-Canadian Tenor, in Second Of Starlight Operas

It will be a triumphant return to Montreal for Raoul Jobin, the great French-Canadian tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Company, when he stars in Carmen, second of the Grand Operas by Starlight, to be presented by the Montreal Festivals at the Molson Stadium on Wednesday evening, August 7. The great singer was here this spring in Massenet's Werther, and received one of the biggest ovations of his career.

Don Jose is reckoned among Mr. Jobin's most characteristic and successful roles, along with Des Grieux in Manon, and Faust in the Gounod opera. He sang it many times at the Paris Opera and at the Opera Comique, where he was regarded before the last war as the most authoritative interpreter of the luckless hero of Bizet's masterpiece. It has been one of his outstanding interpretations.

Jobin, who is now at the height of his career and is regarded by many as being the greatest living French tenor, was born in Quebec City and studied singing there before proceeding to Paris. He made his debut at the Paris Opera in 1930 in the role of Tybalt in Romeo and Juliet. . . . He came to the Metropolitan in 1940, making his American debut in Manon and was then starred with Lily Pons in The Daughter of the Regiment.

With Mr. Jobin in the Festivals outdoor production of Carmen, will be the distinguished French soprano Lily Djanel in the title role, Hugh Thompson, gifted young Metropolitan baritone, as Escamillo, Therese Drouin, Mr. Jobin's wife (also a native of Quebec) as Micaela, and Lucille Browning, of the Metropolitan, as Mercedes.

Emil Cooper, noted Metropolitan conductor, will direct the performance.

"TOURIST CAMP"

This is one of a series of illustrations on the subject of the Conservation of our natural assets designed to emphasize the fact that the beauties of unspoiled nature that we enjoy today are a precious birthright which we must protect for tomorrow.

† COPYRIGHT BY CARLING'S, 1946

Where Good Neighbours Meet

New York, Connecticut, Ohio, Maine . . . think of any State you wish and you're sure to see its name on the license plate of a car somewhere in Quebec during the summer. Each year, with the unerring directness of migratory water-fowl, millions of American tourists come north to Quebec. They come because Quebec offers them Nature—unspoiled and unblemished. They come to revel in those joys of the outdoors which we are prone to take too much for granted.

In their travels and during their stay here the money they spend forms the basis of a $30,000,000 industry, bringing an added measure of prosperity to all of us.

Like any asset, the tourist industry must be protected. This we can do most surely and easily by protecting and conserving the heritage of natural beauty and wildlife for our own enjoyment as well as theirs.

Every Canadian, as a shareholder in Canada's natural wealth, has a vital interest in the conservation of this heritage.

Conservation is not just a doctrine to be preached to hunters and fishermen. It is a vital part in the continuance of our national economy, and must, of necessity, fail if its measures do not receive the full support of all Canadian citizens.

HELP CANADA

We read a lot these days about the importance of keeping Canadian writers, artists and scientists in Canada, and we are apt to think there is nothing we can do about it. Mayze there is. In the first place we can buy Canadian books and magazines, and can ask for them at our libraries. The number of good Canadian books which have been written the last few years is something of which we can all be proud. Many of us have been guilty of looking down our noses at Canadian magazines. Have you read any lately? If you haven't you are due for a surprise because we have some really good ones these days and they are fitted around our own lives and Canadian needs and habits. At the price they sell for you certainly get a lot for your money. You may not be able to afford any original paintings but there are good reproductions of Canadian paintings to be obtained from the National Art Gallery in Ottawa at a very reasonable price. How about stirring up one of your organizations to buy some of those excellent silk screen reproductions for your schools, libraries, or other public buildings. Pictures 30" by 40" are $5.00, smaller ones 20" x 27" are $4.00 with a 20% reduction for schools. Scientists and technical men are going to the United States in too great numbers. One way we can help in keeping them here is by not criticizing when the Government, which employs many of them pays them a comparable salary to induce them to stay and thus help in the development of Canada.

NEW BRUNSWICK LUMBER

Driving through New Brunswick one sees evidences of a very active lumbering industry. There are piles of pit-props, pulpwood, and cord wood stacked at the side of the road waiting to be picked up by truck. Piles of saw-dust are scattered all over the country showing that the portable sawmills have been at work. Approaching one place we saw great stacks of wood and I remarked there was a lot of lumber there to be shipped. When we got close we found that it was just edgings which had been left after the cutting was done, so there must have been a large amount shipped from that particular spot. A few days later we happened to look across the river and we could see a fire in the distance with great quantities of smoke. The first forest fires of the season, and in a few hours six square miles of forest were destroyed.

GIVE MEAT COUPONS

Contributions of meat coupons are being made all across Canada to allow more meat to be sent to Europe. Many organizations have appointed one of their members to look after these contributions, but if you know of no one so appointed, the coupons can be sent to your local Ration Board. They should be sent in as often as possible to do the most good, because enough meat must be kept in the country to honor the outstanding coupons. If the contributed coupons come in quickly instead of being held until they accumulate, the meat which they release will be sent all the sooner. This collection of coupons came from the desire of the people to make a direct personal contribution and not as an official directive. If each of us gives even a little, collectively it will come to a large amount.

CREAM PUFFS

Summer brings visitors and we often like to entertain, either for our own, or our friend's company. This year we all want to be very careful of the amount of bread and butter we use. Have you ever used tiny cream puffs as a substitute for sandwiches? I made them for a tea recently and judging from the comments they proved popular. They are not difficult to make not do they take long. The chief thing to watch is the temperature of your oven. I have always filled them with either a lobster or chicken salad mixture, using about a third as much finely chopped celery as lobster or chicken. If you want to make large cream puffs and fill them with a cream filling or ice cream, this recipe will make about 20. If you make the little ones you will have over 60. Half the quantity may be sufficient.

½ Cup butter or shortening, 1 cup boiling water, 4 eggs unbeaten, 1 cup flour, ½ teaspoon salt.

Add shortening or a mixture of butter and shortening to the boiling water and heat until the shortening melts. Add the flour and salt all at once and stir vigorously until the mixture becomes smooth and leave the sides of the pan. Cool for one minute. Add unbeaten eggs, one at a time, and beat vigorously after each addition. Drop by heaping tablespoons on a buttered pan and shape into rounds, piling the mixture high in the centre. Bake in a hot oven of 450 degrees for ten minutes, then at 400 degrees for 35 minutes. The tiny ones should be dropped from a teaspoon, and do not heap the spoon. Put them in a hot oven of 450 degrees and reduce immediately to 400. Bake for 20 minutes. Do not open the oven door to peek. It is a good idea to take one out and if it does not fall you are sure they are baked sufficiently. If they are not baked long enough they collapse like a house of cards.

MOLASSES RAISIN PIE

1¼ Cups raisins, ½ cup sugar, 4 tablespoons flour, ½ cup molasses, ½ cup water.

Cook the first four ingredients in the top of the double boiler for 15 minutes. Thicken with the flour rubbed smooth with a little cold water and cook for 10 minutes longer, stirring occisionally. Let cool and turn in to an unbaked 9" pie shell, or tart shells, and bake in a hot oven of 450 degrees for 10 minutes, then reduce the heat to 350 degrees and bake for 30 minutes longer.

July Meetings of W.I. Branches

Arundel W.I. branch had an attendance of 22 members and one visitor for their July meeting. Four new members were enrolled. Ten cartons of clothing were sent to the National Clothing Collection and $12 was raised by catering to a wedding. Plans were made for a "military whist" in August.

Brownsburg meeting was attended by 29 members and four visitors. A donation of $25 was voted to the Brownsburg Memorial Hall Fund. Mrs. C. Dixon gave a talk on tatting and smocking and showed members how to do this work. It was noted that two 1st prizes, one 2nd prize, four 3rd and two 4th prizes were won by members of this branch at Lachute Fair. Plans were made for a picnic party to visit Macdonald College by bus.

Frontier — There was a large attendance at this meeting in the form of a social afternoon, food sale and tea. The guest speaker, Mrs. N. E. Smillie, past county president, discussed W.I. by-laws and laws. A quilt was prepared, to be sold for the funds.

Jerusalem - Bethany had an attendance of 15 with three visitors. After the regular meeting, a social evening was held, cards being played and prizes given to the winners. Two new members were welcomed. Mrs. Ogilvie gave a report of the convention.

Lachute members heard an encouraging report given of the Lachute Fair work. The sum of $15 was donated to Lachute Girl Guides for a flag. No more meetings will be held until September.

Lakefield had eight members and one visitor present. Items from Parliamentary Law and Procedure were read. A report of the convention at Macdonald College was given by Mrs. Herb McDonald. Mrs. D. McDonald was named as sick committee convener.

Mille Isles had nine meetings. A report of the Provincial convention was given, and a list of prize winners in local schools was read.

Pioneer — 18 members and four visitors were present at this branch meeting. Members were asked for suggestions for next year's exhibit at Lachute Fair. A quantity of used and also some new clothing was sent to the Clothing Collection. A report of the provincial convention was given by the secretary. Short items of interest were read by some of the members. Shut-ins were remembered. Several prizes were won by members on their exhibits sent to Lachute Fair.

ALL CONDITIONAL SALES NOW DECLARED ILLEGAL

Because many consumers have been compelled to buy unwanted commodities in order to obtain others which are in short supply, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has announced that in the future all conditional sales will be considered illegal.

Under a previous order conditional sales were not prohibited if they were a continuance of a trade practice established by the seller before or during the basic period.

Board officials explained that this action had become necessaary because of the many abuses of this privilege which had been discovered.

Scratches on furniture can be removed by rubbing with a nut meat — walnut or Brazil nut. And white marks on varnished furniture disappear after being rubbed with boiled linseed oil and finely powdered rottenstone or cigar ash.

Novel Program In Dialogue Style

3rd S. — told that it was not until the war of 1812 that any canals were built along the Ottawa as the military authorities were awakened to the importance of having some interior channel of transportation from the Lower St. Lawrence to the Great Lakes. The route by Lake Ontario was too close to the Americans. The Carillon-Grenville Canals were therefore built. They formed part of a scheme to secure a waterway for troops and supplies from Montreal to Kingston. The Rideau Canal was the other link in the scheme. . . This aroused the curiosity of the first speaker, who asked how many original canals were in the Carillon-Grenville canal system. The reply was three — Carillon, Chute à Blondeau and Grenville.

1st S. — mentioned that building canals in those days was tedious work, probably all done with spades, picks, shovels and wheelbarrows.

2nd S. — "Yes, imagine handdrilling the holes in rocks so that the sticks of dynamite could be inserted for blasting".

2nd S. — continued by asking how supplies were brought from Carillon to Grenville for the workmen during construction.

3rd S. — answered by telling how Michael Derrigh from Ireland, was the only man who owned an ox-cart and he transported all the supplies over the 15-mile road. When he carried money he was provided with a guard of six armed soldiers, who walked three on each side of the cart. She also remarked that they had no trouble keeping up with the speed of the oxen.

2nd S. — then mentioned that the building of canals created a market for potatoes, and through the sale of this commodity the farmers got their first real money.

1st S. — recalled that the canals, when finished, were formally opened by Princess Louise and the Marquis of Lorne.

3rd S. — drew attention to the original canal at Carillon being very shallow, and on this account a short channel was built from the North River half a mile away to feed the canal and deepen it. By this it got the name, "The Feeder". It is in use no longer. Neither is the Chute à Blondeau canal.

1st S. — observed it has fallen into disuse since Carillon dam was built, which raised the water level considerably.

3rd S. — stated that the original canals gave a navigable depth of only 6 ft. They were later deepened to 9 ft.

1st and 2nd speakers — then told of a few tragic happenings in connection with the building of the canals.

3rd S. — gave the information that Grenville Canal was completed in 1829, Carillon in 1832 and Chute à Blondeau the following year. They were opened to the public in 1834. The Rideau Canal, at Ottawa, was opened two years before this.

1st S. — "When Lord Sydenham was Governor General, he travelled from Kingston to Montreal by canal. He was taken through the Carillon Canal at the rate of three miles an hour."

2nd S. — "In 1857 a railway between Montreal and Ottawa was begun. The first company to undertake the work failed to complete it. The owners of the land which had been appropriated for this railway had not been paid. Being afraid that, if they once allowed the trains to pass over the line, their land would be lost to them, the former owners vowed never to permit the train to pass until their grievances had been settled".

A tale of the railway company running the train up to Grenville in the night spread like wildfire—the speaker narrated. Landowners and sympathizers gathered and piled obstructions on the track, waiting, each one armed with a musket or a pitchfork. The train in due time arrived at the obstructions. The conductor got off to investigate and found the men waiting for him. After a verbal battle the conductor ordered his men to clear the track — and the threats and altercations which followed make a colorful interlude. . . . It is not known whether the train reached Grenville that night, but certain it is that there was no shooting.

3rd S. — "That railway line is still in use, isn't it?"

1st S. — "Yes, it was incorporated into the North Shore Line recently and operates only as far as Hawkesbury for passenger service. For years it left the old Tunnel Station and crawled out under the mountain on its way to Hawkesbury".

The discussion concluded with the second speaker returning to the subject of canals. On June 3, 1933, two cairns were unveiled, one at Grenville and the other at Carillon, on which the following legend is engraved:

Designed and constructed by the Royal Engineers.

Commenced in 1819. Enlarged from 1871 to 1882.

One of the canals which, by way of the St. Lawrence and the Ottawa, Rideau and the Cataraqui Rivers, connect Montreal with Ottawa and Kingston.

The Women's Institute had the honor of unveiling these cairns on the centennial birthday of the canals.

The president, Mrs. Cooke, thanked Mrs. Wilfong for her very instructive program.

A woman complained to a psychoanalyst:

"My family thinks there's something wrong with me, and it's all because I like buckwheat cakes."

"But there is nothing wrong about liking buckwheat cakes," the puzzled doctor replied, "I like them myself."

"Oh, do you?" The woman was delighted. "You must come up some day. I have seven trunks full."

Boys' Interest Is Held by Brigade Camp Routine

St. Andrews East — The Boys' Brigade camp got off to a flying start with a bumper attendance and an opening camp-fire. The staff was augmented for the week-end with several officers who formed the Advance Guard and who did splendid work, having prepared the camp in record time. On Wednesday evening a formal welcome was accorded to the Rev. C. A. Selby, former Dominion President of the Boys' Brigade, who arrived from Flint, Mich., to spend the balance of the period at camp. He has taken over the senior brigade section of the camp.

On Sunday last, the boys of the Brigade attended Christ Church, where the Rev. Selby conducted the service, while the Life Boys attended St. Andrews Presbyterian Church, where Capt. J. H. Richardson played the pipe-organ and Master Hadden Whitelaw, boy soprano, sang "The Stranger of Galilee". In the evening, a special Boys' Brigade service was conducted by Rev. Selby and Lieut. Alex Upham, the musical portion of the service being in charge of Capt. Richardson. Hadden Whitelaw again rendered solos, which were much appreciated by those present.

Some interesting handicraft work has been carried on each day by the officers, as well as educational hikes featuring nature study. A tour through the Carillon Museum was enjoyed by the whole camp. A trip to Hawkesbury by the Life Boys, in which the dam was visited, as well as many interesting spots along the route, proved a red-letter day for these lads.

Inter-tent competition was keen during the week, with the 5th tent under Cpl. Gordie McCrady topping the record. The Life Boy tents have shown remarkable results during the week, the younger fry demonstrating that they could certainly put up a good show.

Plans are progressing for a field day on Wednesday of this week, followed by a display of Brigade and Life Boy work, a few dramatic stunts and musical gems. The Girl Guides of St. Andrews are being asked to participate.

The camp will officially wind up on Friday evening with a camp-fire and program. A few of the boys will remain, including the unit's soprano soloist, who will be heard again Sunday morning at church.

Dealers Showing 1947 Studebaker

The first of the 1947 automobile models, a Studebaker 5-passenger Champion Deluxe coach, is on display here at the showrooms of Albright & MacAdam, Main Street.

The Studebaker is lower, wider and more fully streamlined than any previous automotive design. Fenders have been absorbed into the body. Curved glass has created a "flow" of line that strikes the observer immediately.

By extending passenger compartments into the former fender areas, interior room has been appreciably increased. Exceptional visibility is another highspot. Windshields and windows have been broadened. Wind resistance is lower, adding to top speeds.

The lower body (little over five feet in height) has been produced without any sacrifice in headroom by moving the passenger compartment forward. Passengers now ride well ahead of the rear axle in a zone where road irregularities are least felt.

Lowering the car floor, and redistribution of chassis weight, increases driving and riding ease. The centre of gravity is lower. It is claimed these cars seemingly "hug" the highway, a point that is readily evident on courves.

A further improvement in safety is effected by Studebaker's new self-adjusting brakes. An important "first" in transportation, the mechanism assures quick, firm stops throughout the life of the brake lining. The secret lies in a device that automatically moves the brake shoe outward in steps of .005 of an inch as the lining wears.

Among chassis advances is a front wheel planar suspension in which spring ends are "floated" in rubber. Door handles are of a new pull-to type. Seats are fully adjustable.

Convertibles, two and four-door sedans, business coupes and a fresh treatment of the five-passenger coupe, will be available in the 1947 Studebaker Champion and Commander lines. Including "Deluxe" and "Regal Deluxe" series, the cars are offered in 21 bodies.

Troubadour

Troubadour from Cuba is Chicho Valle, Havana-born star of radio and night club who came to Canada because he heard that Canadians liked Latin American music. He is currently heard in his weekly program, "Chicho Sings," Mondays, at 7.45 p.m. EDT, over stations of the CBC.

Among one group of English children singing Pack Up Your Troubles as they marched was heard the voice of one girl, waving to a friendly onlooker: "I am being evaporated".

"That's not right," said her companion, a year older. "We are being excavated." — The Schoolmaster, London.
