Prices Board Chairman Issues A Dictum to Labor Chiefs -- Choice Between Restraint and Inflation

MAKES NOTABLE IMPRESSION — STEEL-WORKERS REPORTED LEANING TO A COMPROMISE

Government Makes Concessions to Gold Mining Industry, Hit by Parity Measure

By DENT HODGSON,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, July 30 — In the aggravated issue of the steelworkers' demands for higher wages, Prices Board Chairman Donald Gordon this week told the Industrial Relations Committee in words of one syllable.

The committee probing the demands of workers for a 15 to 19½ cent increase in hourly wages, and confronted with the government stand that such an increase would bring inflation, called the prices expert onto the carpet.

Mr. Gordon, who said "I am working more in labor's real interest than any man in the country," said that with wage increases of "something under 10 cents we have a fighting chance" to maintain price controls.

He would not say just how far the increases could go without upsetting the price structure.

"My considered judgment is that if we can settle at 10 cents, I would be willing to try it. Those associated with me would be willing to try it and I think the government would be willing to try it.

"If it was substantially more than that it would be my duty to say to the government 'it is no use.' If the workers are not willing to go along they will have to learn. I am not willing to carry on to fool the people into believing we can accomplish the impossible.

"It seems to me organized labor has to make up its mind if it is in its real interest and long-run interest to have price control or not. If organized labor is not prepared to make its contribution — to exercise restraint which the price control policy demands of every interest in this country — then you will not have price control."

Government plans to offset the exchange-rate difficulties of the gold mines also were expected to come in for criticism as inadequate. However, the bringing down of the budget with little assistance to the mining industry had been viewed as an indicatiion the government did not plan to ease the position of the industry this year.

The budget had been presented shortly after a Senate committee brought forward a report urging considerable changes in the tax system to ease the lot of the mining industry and to encourage prospecting and development of new mines.

Now the government plans:

1. The budget proposal that new mines coming into operation after January 1 pay only half the corporation income tax rate for the first three years will be changed to allow them complete exemption for that period.

2. The government's formula for determining depletion allowances in respect of gold mining companies will be modified temporarily to assure a minimum depletion allowance of $2 an ounce of gold produced.

The charge made by the mint for handling and marketing gold will be reduced from 35 to 20 cents an ounce.

These moves were aimed at compensating for the loss resulting from the alteration of the Canadian dollar to parity with U.S. funds—involving a reduction of the price gold mines receive for their product from $38.30 to $35 an ounce. It was not going as far as the Senate Mining Committee had recommended, but it was going a lot further than the original budget proposals.

(Arthur Blakely, to the Montreal Gazette)

Ottawa, July 30 — Canadian heads of the United Steelworkers of America are reported to be giving careful consideration tonight to a plan to reduce the union's original demand for 19½ cent hourly wage increase to a figure substantially closer to the 10 cent limit described by W.P.T.B. chairman Donald Gordon as the point beyond which, in his opinion, the Canadian price structure was likely to collapse.

It is no secret that the proposal to reduce the union's wage proposals from the 19½ and "15 cent plus" levels can be traced to the testimony before the parliamentary committee of Donald Gordon, Canada's Price Controller. His evidence that the entire system of price control would have to be abandoned if steel wage increases went past 10 cents — and that he would resign if the Prices Board were told to carry on under such circumstances — was the hardest blow which has been dealt the striking steel workers since the committee of investigation of the strike began here on July 16.

Two Drownings At Lake Resorts

After having investigated the death of a resident at St. Adolphe due to natural causes, the district coroner, Dr. Jules Lafleur, Lachute, was summoned to the scene of another tragedy — a 19-year-old youth, Guy Huberdeau, of Montreal, having drowned in Lake Joseph nearby.

The accident occurred at 5.30 p.m. on Sunday, when the young man was swimming with his sister and another girl. There were no eyewitnesses to the drowning; the two girls, missing Huberdeau from their company, ran to the cottage occupied by his parents, thinking he had gone ashore. They then came to the conclusion that he had sunk in the lake. His body was recovered half an hour afterwards, in 20 feet of water. Artificial respiration was applied by two physicians vacationing near the spot, but medical aid was unavailing.

The coroner, hearing evidence of the boy's father that the victim had been somewhat unwell for two days past, gave a verdict of accidental drowning — believing however, that the young man might have suffered a heart seizure while in the water. . The victim was a student at St. Laurent College.

Rodney Smith, an 18-year-old Montrealer, lost his life by drowning at Lac Raymond, Val Morin, around one o'clock Monday afternoon. Det. Leopold Dauphin, of Lachute, investigated the case. It was learned that Smith had gone to a spot on the lakeshore, then hiked with his companions through the bush to visit some falls. After two hours' walking they had reentered their boat, and 200 feet from shore, where the lake bottom shelves to a considerable depth, the young man had fallen into deep water. Smith, unable to swim, was drowned before his companions could save him. The body was recovered three hours after the drowning.

Province of Quebec's Population 3,379,536

Quebec, July 29 (CP) — Total population of Quebec Province in 1943 was 3,379,536, the trade and commerce division of the Provincial Bureau of Statistics reported today after a study of municipal statistics. It was an increase of 64,480 over the 1942 figure.

(The Canadian Almanac, 1946 edition, gives the estimated population of Quebec as 3,561,000 on June 1, 1945.)

Break-down of the increase showed 41,300 more people in cities, 6,180 more in towns and 17,000 more in rural municipalities.

Charge of Criminal Negligence Laid In Infant's Death

Criminal negligence was the verdict returned last Friday when six jurors, selected from older citizenry of this town, heard evidence on the finding of a child's body hidden in a paper package near Hamford Street. The hearing was held at Lachute town hall behind closed doors. Coroner Dr. Jules Lafleur presided, and Geo. H. Héon, K.C., M.P. acted as crown attorney.

Florida Leroux, 31-year-old mill worker here, who had been held as a material witness, was returned to St. Jerome pending arraignment on a charge of criminal responsibility and concealing the birth of a child. Police Chief D. Villeneuve, Lachute, and Det. Leopold Dauphin, testified on finding of the body. Evidence of Dr. R. Fontaine, provincial medico-legal expert, stated the cause of the baby's death could not be determined. Sgt. Det. Albert Oggier, of the provincial police homicide squad, introduced evidence from a written confession signed by the child's mother.

Appearing Monday before Justice D. Lalande at St. Jerome, the accused pleaded not guilty. Preliminary hearing will be held on August 20.

Timmins, Ont. (CP) — Police here announced a new addition to their lost and found department. It is a kiddie car which was recently turned in to the station. So far it has not been claimed by its young owner.

Property Owners Vote Aug. 15-16 On Loan By-Law

Notices have been posted calling for a civic referendum on By-Law No. 171, passed at an adjourned meeting of Lachute Town Council on July 10 last — with voting on August 15, (two weeks from this date) and the following day, between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. at the Victoria Hall. Those eligible to vote are taxable property owners whose names appear listed on the valuation roll.

The by-law in question, a copy of which is displayed at the town hall and the two local post-offices, provides for the issuance of $35,000 debentures redeemable in 12 years, at 3% interest, to meet the cost of proposed paving of the thoroughfares in Lachute.

Won O.B.E. for War Services

The award of the O.B.E. to Mr. Wm. Drysdale (somewhat sketchily referred to in a previous issue, due to lack of details) is gratifying to his many friends in St. Andrews East and business associates in Montreal.

William Flockhart Drysdale, B.Sc., M.E.I.C., Prof. Eng., through his high standing in his profession as mechanical engineer was chosen to act as Director General of Munitions at Ottawa, in which capacity he served during the years 1940-42. It was in recognition of this creditable war service that Mr. Drysdale was presented with the O.B.E. in the recent King's Honors List.

Cpl. W. J. Beaven, address, Calumet; Pte. A. Durocher, Lachute Mills; A/Sgt. R. C. Robertson, Lachute; Pte. G. J. Thompson, Arundel.

Among Air Force personnel arrived recently aboard the S.S. Georgic was LAC. Wilson Hume, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Hume, Lachute.

Rotary Club Here Proud of Its First Year of Community Service

RECORD SHOWS MONEY WELL SPENT

During its first year of service, the Brownsburg Rotary Club has paid out $1,165 in general welfare work in and around Brownsburg and Lachute, and is justly proud of its record. The main category in which this money has been spent is in medical assistance to children whose parents could not pay for the treatment or operations necessary. The sum of $508 was spent for 17 tonsilectomy cases, 1 chest X-ray, 1 dental case, 1 adenoidectomy and two cases of eye-sight correction. Three girls whose health was under par have been sent to summer camps, and six Boy Scouts from three different troops have enjoyed periods at Scout camps which they could not otherwise have had. The Rotary Club has supplied the funds for these children to attend camps, at a cost of $193. The balance of the $1,165, amounting to $464, has been used in making donations to various hospitals and community undertakings, and includes the cost of a Christmas party for children.

While substantial amounts are included under donations, the Rotary Club gives precedence to assisting children and others who cannot help themselves to obtain medical treatment, so that their lives will be healthier and happier and their opportunity to become good citizens increased thereby. The first line of a song popular with Rotary goes, "The grooming of men is a duty we claim". They believe that paramount in this aim is the building and maintaining of sound, healthy bodies.

— Public support of the Rotary Carnival on August 8, 9, and 10 will help to further this community work.

NEED CO-OPERATION

Halifax (CP) — The Dominion of Canada is a partnership and "in a partnership full co-operation is necessary", industry Minister Harold Connolly told a Canadian commercial travellers' convention at Halifax. Canada's real problem is economic, not political, he said, and "wealth and power cannot be centralized at the expense of others."

Confidence, not compromise, is the key to success in a conference.

Resignations in School Board of Gore Municipality

The regular meeting of the School Municipality of the Gore was held Monday evening at Lakefield. The resignation of Albert Tomalty was accepted by the board, and Laurence Hodge was elected commissioner for the remainder of the term.

George Peet, secretary-treasurer for the last 26 years, also resigned, and his resignation was accepted with regret. Mrs. Walter Shearsmith was appointed to succeed him.

A budget of $2,450 was approved.

NORTHERN TIMBER LINE

Fort William, Ont. (CP) — The timber line in far northwestern Ontario extends farther than previously thought and there seems to be commercial timber in the area, said R. N. Johnston, of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, after a 1,400-mile survey flight to Hudson Bay.

Harsh Criticism

Somewhere on the slope on the left the Germans were dug in, but quiet. On the right an Italian villa reflected the afternoon sun.

The Canadian artillery officer examined the villa critically and passed his binoculars to the infantry bloke at his elbow. "That is the most flamboyant piece of neo-Moorish achitecture I've ever seen," he said. "It contains all the features of architectural bad taste. The man who designed it was a disgrace to his profession."

"You're an architect?" the infanteer asked.

The O.P. officer nodded and spoke into his mike: "Uncle Target. Uncle Target. Uncle Target. ."

Then occurred in the late Italian campaign that incident of deplorably harsh but effective criticism. Rarely in the history of criticism has a critic obtained such speedy results.

The shells of divisional artillery strummed the air and little puffs of white smoke blossomed on the hill side.

Another Time-Labor Saving Unit Seen Here in Haying Operations

FARMING COMMUNITY OF THIS REGION TURNS INCREASINGLY TO USE OF MECHANICAL AIDS

Recently a "forage harvester" was used with notable success on the Ferme des Ormeaux, property of F. W. Allmen at Carillon, to cut and chop a clover crop for ensilage — and the machine being the first of its kind in Quebec, attracted considerable attention. An article on its operation, with photographs, appeared shortly afterward in the Ottawa Farm Journal.

This week an International-Harvester "pick-up baler" has made its appearance in the Lachute Road district, gathering hay from windrows left by a side-delivery rake, and baling the crop while in motion — throwing out the 60-lb. bales ready for hauling to the barn. On Tuesday the machine, owned by J.-Baptiste Raymond, was used on his brother's farm, and on Wednesday it was seen in operation at Jack Fraser's, in the same community.

Drawn by tractor, the baler is powered by its own gasoline unit. The bales are tied in uniform weight of 60 lbs, with heavy cord about three times the thickness of binder twine. A convenient factor in the baling, is that the bale is cut in layers, and when the string is cut the hay is more readily handled for cattle feeding. Mr. Fraser stated he had baled a heavy crop of 23 acres yesterday, a total of 1300 bales having been stored away by evening. The crop was alfalfa and timothy. The time taken was estimated to be about a third of that required for loading and hauling by ordinary methods. It is stated moreover that with this new device the hay can be taken in earlier, saving perhaps a day in the drying process. . The outfit is capable of turning out two to five bales a minute, or up to six tons of hay per hour.

The "pick-up baler", first of its type in this county, was supplied by Lachute Farm Equipment Ltd.

Triple Drowning; Jury Recommends Boats Carry Lights

Sequel to the inquest into the drowning of three persons when two boats collided in the darkness on Lac St. Francois Xavier at Montfort, was a recommendation by the jury that by-laws be passed by the proper authorities to the effect that all boats on the water at night should carry identifying lights both at the bow and the stern. (It is understood, for instance, that such an ordinance is in effect in the municipality of 16 Island Lake.)

The foreging rider was incidental to the jurors' verdict of accidental drowning, in the case of — Harold Sherrat, 21, of Rosemount, Que., Merle Walker, 42, of New Carlisle, Que., and Eileen Astles, 20 of London, Ont.

The inquest was held at the Montfort orphanage, or l'Ecole Artisanale Notre Dame des Monts Lisbourg. Jules Lafleur, M.D., of Lachute presided as district coroner. Georges H. Héon, K.C., appeared as representative of the Attorney General in the case, and nine persons — all of whom, with the three victims, had been occupants of the two boats involved in the collision, were heard as witnesses. In view of the several testimonies, the inquest was a lengthy procedure.

HOME CANNING

Suggestion is offered by the Department of National Health and Welfare to all home-makers to go in for canning of fruits and vegetables this year. Not only does this provide a handy stock of healthful food, but, the nutrition experts of the department point out, it will make food available for shipment to more needy peoples.

Family to Cruise In Cabin Launch

Leaving Sunday for a tour of the waterways, Aime Trudel, a well known local tradesman, is taking his wife and small child up the Ottawa River to the capital in a cabin launch of his own construction. The boat, which is anchored each season at La Baie, St. Andrews, is powered by a 5½ h.p. outboard motor, but is also equipped as a sailboat. Thirty feet long, it has a cabin with living and sleeping quarters for his small family, and the proud owner states his year-old daughter is now well accustomed to the craft, the scene and the general surroundings. The progress of his trip depends on facilities via Ottawa and the Rideau Canal. Mr. Trudel hopes to reach Kingston, but if intervening bridges require the removal of his 25-foot mast, he feels the job not worth it. He is out for two weeks of thorough relaxation.

Brigade Reports Camp Session Notable Success

St. Andrews East — The Boys' Brigade Camp at St. Andrews East was brought to a successful termination Saturday, when the campers returned to the city. A closing camp-fire was held Friday evening, on which occasion a number of awards were presented to the winning tents in each section. The Boys' Brigade section topping the competition was that led by Cpl. Gordon McCrady, and Ptes. Ron Noel, Ian Becket and Bill Calder were among the winners of Brigade Penants. The Life Boy tent with the highest score comprised that under Doug Farquharson, and Graham Lough, Bill Winsor, Jimmy Seymour all received the Life Boy Penant as a suitable award for their achievement.

A roast chicken supper marked the last evening meal at camp, tastily prepared by the camp hostess, Mrs. Albert Dorion.

The experiment of having Life Boys attend the camp proved highly successful, and there was not one who did not express his desire to return. During the closing week several trips were taken to points of interest. Handicrafts were featured in the mornings, and numerous useful articles were made by the boys. The Rev. C. A. Selby won a warm spot in the hearts of the campers, and has promised to return this coming session. His work among the senior boys was specially appreciated.

Capt. J. H. Richardson expressed, at the closing camp-fire, the profound appreciation of all officers and boys to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dorion and their assistants for the excellent time they had given the camp, and also to Mr. Ernest Calder for the many ways in which he had assisted.

Plans are being made for a Labor Day week-end camp on a smaller scale and a committee is also being set up to secure and purchase a dozen bell tents, so that more boys can be accommodated.

Garage Owners Again Victimized

For the second time within a week, the premises of the Farmer Brown Motor Sales on Brownsburg Road were broken into, at an early hour this morning. The haul was a supply of spark plugs, numbering between 300 and 350. The thieves pried open the big garage door; there was evidence they had tried also to enter the office, but failed. Police patrols during the night set the time of the robbery at approximately 4.30 a.m.

At the new Pollock & Graves Motors establishment on Main Street, a similar entry was made, shortly before daybreak. Here, the sum of $3.50 cash was extracted from the office till.

Town and provincial police are investigating the robberies.

Do Your Youngsters Read the Colored Comics?

CAPTIVATE THEM WITH ENTHRALLING LITERATURE

Good reading — "one realistic answer to the mischievous occupations that lead to delinquency and crime"

— From a recent radio address by Prof. JOHN HUGHES Macdonald Professor of Education

Children's tastes vary enormously, and the book selector must choose accordingly. He should cater for all types and tastes — bearing always in mind that there should be only one quality — the best. No second or third rate reading should be tolerated in a children's library. There is plenty of the best, and nothing but the best is good enough for the youth of Canada. Some children are slow to take to books. A boy may well be more interested in planes, or ships or locomotives or engines than he is in books. No parent or teacher or librarian worthy of his calling would quarrel with that. The way round that problem is to find out the very best book on planes or ships or locomotives, see that it is attractive in format and lavishly illustrated and up-to-date, and place it promptly in the boy's hands. That is the quickest and surest way of convincing that lad that books are worth reading. A resourceful adult will shrewdly cater to the youngster's life urges, in selecting the "library bait". And why should we be hard on youngsters who read the colored comics? It is probably better that they should read these than read nothing. There is always the possibility of weaning them gradually by patient ingenuity to reading stuff of greater value. One wishes the comics were really comic at times.

Some boys and girls are of scientific rather than literary bent. A good children's library should include well-written books on science, scientists, and scientific discovery. Books like those of Paul de Kruif ("Microbe Hunters"), books by authors like Julian Huxley and Sir J. Arthur Thomson, books on scientists like Pasteur and the Curies, would appeal to many thoughtful youngsters of this generation. Biology is an entrancing field for many adolescents; and ornithology and astronomy appeal to many teenagers.

Attractively produced books on modern industries and industrial processes would help to make reading attractive to many a lad — and lass — who are not born bookworms. In this industrial age it is important that youngsters be well informed on these matters.

Adolescence is a period of hero-worship. Biography should loom large in the librarian's plans. The latter should remember that "peace has her victories, no less renowned than war." Our libraries should include books about such heroes as David Livingstone, Albert Schweitzer, Sir Wilfred Grenfell, Mary Slessor, Leo Tolstoy, St. Francis of Assisi and Father Damien.

The provision of first class books for children has won increased attention in recent years, and many books of the most attractive kind are being produced. In the United States the John Newbery Medal is now being awarded annually for the most distinguished juvenile book published during the preceding year. The Caldecott medal is similarly awarded to the artist who has produced the most distinguished picture-book.

Plato many centuries ago pleaded for youth that it should be subjected to none but the healthiest influences — the effluence of good works, the breeze blowing from health-giving regions. Good literature is still the most universally accessible form of art. Our children are not merely citizens of Canada and the British Commonwealth of Nations; they are also citizens of the United Kingdom of Heaven and earth. "Man", says the ancient Greek writer, "is a heavenly plant as well as an earthly". A very delightful book for children was recently written by an eminent American University teacher, Florence Mary Fitch. It is entitled "One God", the sub-title being "The Ways we Worship Him". The book, which is beautifully written and printed and illustrated, describes most attractively the various ways in which Hebrews, Roman Catholics and Protestants worship the one God. This book is a joy and a delight. The Cambridge University Press publishes a children's Bible that should be better known than it is. The Bible, with Shakespeare, is part of a great dual heritage of the English-speaking world, and every child of Canada is entitled to that rich inheritance.

FARM TOPICS

Fortifies Skim-Milk For Young Calves

For young calves that are being fed from the pail, skim-milk is the standard feed, but one disadvantage is the low fat content of the milk. To replace a part of the fat removed from the whole milk, the Dominion Experimental Farm, at Brandon, Man., has evolved a home mixed calf meal which has demonstrated its value. The meal mixture is made up of two parts finely ground sifted barley chop, and one part of flax seed. The mixture is prepared for feeding by adding scalding water to the meal a few hours before being fed. The mixture when cool forms a jelly, and it is in this form that it is added to the milk. Two heaping tablespoonsfuls of the dry meal is the allowance given to young calves. The amount is gradually increased until about one-half pound daily is being consumed. The milk and meal mixture are given in three feeds daily at as near blood temperature as possible. Overloading the calf's stomach is a common cause of scours. In addition to the calf meal mixture, young calves may be self-fed with a mixture of whole oats and bran and they are supplied with good quality hay as soon as they will eat it. Access to a supply of clean drinking water is also important.

Berlin (CP) — American hybrid corn is being introduced in the United States Zone as an experiment to help the area grow sufficient grain to meet its own needs.

Keep Eggs Cool To Retain Quality

Because it is enclosed in a shell, the deterioration of a new laid egg during warm summer temperatures is not as noticable or as rapid as some other perishable foods. Nevertheless, a lowering of quality is brought about by improper storage conditions even in the space of a few days, and the flavor of a freshly laid egg requires as much care as that given other perishable foods, says Walter Mountain, Dominion Poultryman at Harrow, Ont.

The removal of the male from the laying flock is advicable, otherwise most of the eggs laid will be fertile. While this condition in itself does not impair the quality of the eggs, germ development shoud be prevented by keeping the eggs in temperatures between 45 and 50 degrees after they are laid. As ong as eggs are not frozen, temperatures below this range are even better, though when removed to a warmer place moisture may gather on the shell. This sweating tends to destroy the natural bloom of the new laid eggs, opening up the pores in the shell, and allowing an easier penetration of bacteria to the contents of the egg, so it is also necessary to give attention to humidity so as to prolong the original freshness.

Stale, stagnant air may impart a mustiness to egg flavor, so if mechanical control of humidity is not available, a well ventilated cellar will provide a suitable place for storing before shipment.

The thin membrane separating the yolk from the white may be weakened and even fractured by unfavorable temperatures, allowing the two parts to mix when the egg is broken out. While it is characteristic of some fowls to lay eggs with thin whites, usually an egg that has been properly cared for will hold together when poached or fried.

Of all the foods, eggs are among the most adapable to the varied preferences of the human taste, and to be attractive in both appearance and flavor they should be kept cool from the nest to the kitchen.

Fertilizer Prices

The W.P.T.B. has announced that selling prices of fertilizers in Eastern Canada are being restored more closely to the level existing in 1941.

The new prices are some five to seven percent higher than those which have been maintained since 1942 by the payment of subsidy.

With the elimination of subsidy payments the adjustment is necessary to enable manufacturers to produce at prices in line with the current costs of materials, officials said.

However, due to the unusually high cost of materials shipped into the Maritimes, manufacturers there will continue to receive subsidy payments through the Department of Agriculture so that the price relationship between that area and Ontario and Quebec may be maintained the Board said.

1945 Apple Crop Was Almost Complete Failure

The Federal Bureau of Statistics has just published an estimate on the value of the apple production for 1945. The Quebec coumercial output harvest was registered as the lowest in several years. Total production was but 80,000 bushels in comparison to 900,000 bushels for 1944; and 1942, which was a record year, produced 1,170,000 bushels.

The three Eastern provinces, Quebec, Ontario and Nova Scotia, were struck with unfavorable growing conditions from the onset of the season, particularly at the flowering stage.

Quebec growers obtained an average price of $1.50 per bushel.

Apple production in Quebec this year is forecast at 40% below normal, with the McIntosh harvest particularly small. The efect of last year's frost are still noticeable.

New CBC Star

Edmund Hockridge, Canadian baritone who gained prominence in British radio and concert fields during the war, has come home at the invitation of the CBC. After a holiday in his native British Columbia, he will make his Canadian radio debut from Toronto early in October. He is to be featured on CBC's Dominion network.

Purpose Behind A Rotary Club

Rotary is an international organization of men's clubs, each of which operates its own affairs in a manner which will aid in developing its own community and the people in it, as well as aiding in bringing about better international goodwill.

Today it consists of 276,500 Rotarians, in almost every country in the world.

The 5,826 clubs have no secrets, no ritual and no pledge. They are non-sectarian and non-racial. Their slogan is "Service above self, he profits most who serves best". "Service" to the community being their aim, is expressed in Rotary's four objects.

The objects of Rotary are to encourage and foster the ideal of service as a basis of worthy enterprise and, in particular, to encourage and foster:

1. The development of acquaintance as an opportunity for service.
2. High ethical standards in business and professions; the recognition of the worthiness of all useful occupations; and the dignifying by each Rotarian of his occupation as an opportunity to serve society.
3. The application of the ideal of service by every Rotarian to his personal, business and community life.
4. The advancement of international understanding, good will, and peace through a world fellowship of business and professional men united in the ideal of service.

All Rotary clubs interest themselves in the development of underprivileged children and the furtherance of all worthwhile charitable organizatioins.

— The Rotary Carnival, announced for next week, is a means of raising funds for the local advancement of these aims.

Adult Education Camp-School

Laval University and McGill University are co-operating this year in a new experiment in adult education known as "Camp Laquemac, An Adult Education Camp-School." This school of community programs will be operated by the two universities from Saturday, August 24, to Monday, September 2, on the site leased from Camp Memphremagog for Girls near Perkins Landing. The camp-school is sponsored by the Quebec Association for Adult Education, but administered jointly by the Adult Education Service of Macdonald College and the Faculty of Social Science of Laval University with the assistance of the Dominion-Provincial Youth Training Plan of the Province of Quebec.

Formerly known as Camp Macdonald, this is the 6th year that the camp-school has been operated as a successful experiment in adult eduction which has attracted attention both in Canada and the U.S.A. However, this is the first year that Laval University and Macdonald College have administered it jointly. The camp-school is bilingual with both French and English as "official languages".

MONTREALER DROWNED NEAR ST. EUSTACHE

St. Eustache — The body of Leo Ciaramicoli, 21-year-old Montrealer, was recovered at Plage Robert, Point Calumet, on Saturday afternoon and the coroner's inquest was held that night.

The verdict, which followed evidence that the victim had changed seats in a rowboat which then overturned, was one of accidental death.

ANIMAL FREAK

Fort Qu'Appelle, Sask. (CP) — One otherwise fat and healthy member of a litter of 10 pigs born on the nearby farm of Cecil Howell is minus a few essentials — but has managed to survive. The animal lacks an eye; has two ears, one normal and the other pint size; and no snout. It breathes through an air passage in the roof of its mouth.

AIDS BUSY DOCTORS

Invitation to ride in tomorrow's car Today!

All Canada has heard the story of Nash — the story of tomorrow's car, here, now! It hits hard, doesn't it. It jumps you chin-high into the future; makes you realize with a start that there is something new — now — under the automotive sun.

Right now you are saying to yourself that here is something new you want to see; something new you want to try out; something new you want to feel.

So, why not? See your Nash dealer today. Rest your finger tips on a wheel that needs little more than a wish to guide it. Relax in the sofa-size roominess of the seats. Float along on springs in a car that can't squeak or rattle because of its unitized body construction. And, in a Nash equipped with the famous Weather Eye conditioned air system, open your lungs and breathe Conditioned Air — air that's never stuffy, or dusty — but always sweet and fresh and comfortable.

Do it — today, if you like. This is your invitation — from your Nash dealer — to see, feel and prove that the new Nash is tomorrow's car here now.

A Power for Unity

SOON AFTER the termination of hostilities and the return of many soldiners to this community, Argenteuil branch of the Canadian Legion evidenced such revival of spirit and increase of membership as bespoke a highly encouraging future. It was remarked in this column. about that time, that one of the Legion's prime achievements would be to unite the two racial elements of this province — whose sons had fought and suffered shoulder to shoulder, knowing no difference of purpose, no distinction of language or creed, to bar their complete brotherhood.

In a current release from B.E.S.L. Headquarters, Ottawa, we are happy to see this ideal reaffirmed. Says the Legion public relations bulletin:

"The finest contribution the Canadian Legion can make to humanity in the uncertain years ahead is to remain ever vigilant for tolerance and religious liberty. It is needed more today than ever before. And the Canadian Legion cannot crusade for tolerance unless the Legion itself is tolerant. This applies to every component part of the Legion's whole structure.

"We have proudly proclaimed to the world that the Legion knows no economic, racial or political ties or creeds. These words must be translated into deeds as a proof of tolerance."

The Youngster Goes to Work

SOMEONE should take the youngsters who are growing up into their first jobs to a quiet corner for a few words on the subject of thrift as related to today's high salaries. They might be dropped a hint, too, that there is just a slight chance these lush days won't last forever.

Young men and women, some still in their 'teens, are walking into well-paid jobs that would have made the eyes of job applicants in the 30's pop out of their sockets. Almost anyone with a high school education is snapped up with swiftness that may lull them into false security.

Don't misunderstand us. We're all for youngsters getting jobs with good working conditions and good pay. The youngsters coming out of our schools today look fine, and most of them deserve the break they're getting.

But we'd like them to understand it is a break; that it wasn't always as easy to get a job as it is now; that the salaries being paid inexperienced help now are high, comparatively.

It follows that there is always a chance the bad old days may come back. Goodness knows, no one wants them — with their soup kitchens, beggars in every city block and men trying to keep their families on a few dollars or suffering the indignity of relief. No one wants them — but they may come back.

The wise youngsters who are starting business life now will save money against the future. They will take a few dollars each week, cement it away in a bank account and forget about it. — They will, that is, if they can conceive of what existence was like for many of their kind in the 30's — the endless walking of streets looking for non-existent work, the days with but a nickel in one's pockets, the utter despair that filled the future. The shows, dresses and sports jackets they give up now will look mighty nice in a bank book if depression hits again.

The wise youngsters will guard their future, too, by improving their qualifications for their jobs and equipping themselves for better ones. If the old days do come back those who have been content to take a job half-equipped and stay that way are going to be first out. The lad or lass who has shown an intelligent effort to earn today's comparatively fat pay envelopes, will stick around longer.

Danger on the Highways

RECENT police checks on the mechanical condition of automobiles reveal that more than seventy-five per cent of the vehicles being driven on the highways have at least one defect. And law enforcement officers disheartedly forecast that scores of deaths will be caused by the faulty machines.

The inability to obtain replacement parts, due to wartime shortages, is probably the main reason why so many automobiles are not in first-class condition, but even so it is no reason why a motorist should endanger the lives of others, as well as his own, by driving such vehicles. The failure of thousands of motorists to have proper adjustments and repairs made in time to avert dire consequences is indicative of the wave of carelessness and "let down" following in the wake of war.

Faulty-braked vehicles will be one of the main causes of accidents, police officials say. Tragedies will occur at intersections and railroad crossings, places where many drivers ignore warning signs and brakes do not hold properly. Signs, bells, flashing lights and other elaborate devices are no guarantee of safety unless the brakes are capable of stopping the car.

No private automobiles were manufactured during the war years, with the resultant condition that many of the vehicles now in use are over-age. This year, now well advanced, promises to be a record tourist year, with tremendous volume of traffic on the highways. In order to prevent a new record in highway fatalities and injuries, the mechanical condition of cars must be kept under constant surveillance.

Anyone who drives a mechanically unsound vehicle is a potential murderer. Offenders should be treated with severity.

Farmers Must Organize

IN THESE DAYS of collective bargaining, the need for farmers organizing into co-operative groups is becoming more and more apparent. The only way the farmer can hope to be ensured of a satisfactory price for his produce, is by forming into a strong organization.

The days of individualism are past. Farmers must present their demands on a unified front, if they are to get a square deal at Ottawa.

When a manufacturer marks an article, he carefully estimates production costs and includes the margin of profit, when he figures his sales price. Such has not been the case of the farmer. Production costs have not been taken into account, and the selling price has been established according to supply and demand.

Only by co-operation and unity can farmers hope for guaranteed satisfactory returns for their labors.

TODAY this country is faced with becoming a place where nobody has a trade. So few young men or women are learning the arts of the skilled trades. When asked what he or she is going to be in the not too distant future, the school boy or girl has no direct answer. No vision of a future, no idea of what he or she would even like to be. It is a state of affairs that requires remedying, either locally or by provincial or federal leadership. — Doloraine (Man.) Times

OUT OF THE confused tumult of the hour there is need of some clear voice to raise and warn of danger, the perverse quality in man's nature, which brings unity when survival is threatened by war yet splits into divisions and confusion the aims for which men fought as one over six long years.

Service Clubs Inspire Spirit Of Co-operation

LIONS AND ROTARIANS WORK TOGETHER

The growing fellowship and goodwill between citizens of Lachute and Brownsburg is nowhere better exemplified than in the two service clubs active in these communities. Several members of Rotary are staunch Lachute people, while Brownsburg contributes a number of Lions to the Lachute club. This is as it should be. These two communities, between which a certain amount of rivalry exists, are mixing more and understanding one another better, in a manner which Rotarians everywhere seek to promote both at home and on the international level.

By patronizing the Rotary Carnival being held on August 8th, 9th and 10th on the site of the old skating arena at Brownsburg, citizens will know that the good cause they support will help both communities. The Community Service Fund to which the entire proceeds are dedicated, is spent for welfare work in both Brownsburg and Lachute. While no definite amounts are allocated between these towns, each benefits in a proportion roughly equivalent to the numbers of their membership in the Brownsburg club.

ANCIENT IRON-WORK STANDS TIME TEST

600-Year-Old Metal in Cathedral Spire Still in Good Condition

Salisbury, Eng. (CP) — Though original wrought iron work now over 600 years old continues to bind Salisbury Cathedral's renowned 404-foot spire, other iron-work added to reinforce the structure in the 18th and 19th centuries is rapidly being corroded an examination has shown.

The masonry is being split by acute rusting of the later additions, a consulting architect told a meeting of Friends of Salisbury Cathedral but there is still no indication of movement or deflection in the spire. Members of the Iron and Steel Institute who recently visited the Cathedral were "surprised" at the way the original unpainted metal has outlasted painted iron added centuries later.

The architect's report on the over-all condition of the cathedral was said to be "reassuring."

On the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stephens in the Cowichan district of Vancouver Island, they are experimenting with 35 varieties of strawberries from different parts of North America. . . From Parry Sound comes a note that Merrit Marr, of Mount Brydges, Ont., hooked a giant trout that weighed 41 lbs,, 10 ounces; in landing it into the rowboat, Elmer Barclay, helping him, was severly bitten on the left forearm. . . In the death of Samuel Dunning, father of Hon. C. A. Dunning, at Regina, it is recalled he is survived by five daughters, four of whom married men named Anderson. . Sudden changes for Lt. Comdr. Stuart Paddon, Picton, Ont., came recently; in the morning he watched ice floes in Hudson Bay at Churchill, Man., at 6 o'clock that evening stepped from a plane into the sweltering heat of Ottawa. . . Largest sale in 25 years said to be the one at George Bridge of Palberston, Ont., total amount being $14,000, good prices being realized. . . Fifteen minutes after putting in a telephone call to Sussex, England, Sheriff and Mrs. G. F. Foster of Woodstock, N.B., were talking to their parents, reception being very clear.

For the Education Of Blind Children

Dear Sir:

It is very desirable that all blind and partially blind children should be educated, if they are capable of receiving instruction. The School of the Montreal Association for the Blind is well equipped for the education and training of English-speaking blind and partially blind children, and if any of your readers should learn of a child who is absenting himself or herself from school on account of impaired eyesight, we shall appreciate having the child's name and address sent to this Institution.

In addition there is a sight-saving class where children with slightly impaired eyesight are given instruction by means of large type.

Extensive grounds are attached to the school, with suitable apparatus for recreation.

NO ROOM FOR PESSIMISM

Windsor, N.S. (CP) — Premier Macdonald does not believe in pessimism. The world has always had problems and has always had the means for solving them, he told the graduating class of King's Collegiate school here recently. "There have been at all times in the world's history," he said, "people who could see nothing but ruin ahead. Yau will find such predictions scattered through history for 1,000 years, and yet the world has gone on."

have delayed delivery of Buses from 4 to 8 months!

THERE are many industries involved in the building and maintenance of a bus . . . and anything that happens in any one of these industries is reflected in the delivery dates of new buses on order, and in the delivery of the parts and supplies necessary for their operation.

Nearly a year ago, when wartime restrictions were relaxed, this Company carefully planned bus requirements for this summer's record motorcoach travel.

We ordered more than 70 new buses for delivery early this year, and sufficient bus parts and automotive supplies to cover all maintenance needs.

BUT . . . strikes in the steel industry, in the automotive industry, in the electrical industry, in the rubber industry, in the automotive parts industry, have one after another delayed deliveries. New buses expected last May will not reach us until the autumn at least; maintenance parts and supplies are not arriving fast enough to keep up with our needs, and some of our existing buses are tied up for want of them.

There is nothing we can do to improve matters, for delivery delays are caused by troubles in other industries.

So, we must rely on the public's kindly understanding of the situation.

We are giving maximum service now with all available equipment. We'll increase and improve that service the moment our urgently required new supplies reach us.

A MESSAGE FOR THOSE WHO NEED TRAINED WORKERS

AN ARMY INSTRUMENT MECHANIC HAD TO BE GOOD!

Only one of 216 Army trades, the instrument mechanic, among other things, had to make optical, electrical or mechanical repairs to anti-aircraft fire control equipment or to any field instrument. He had to be able to use fine hand tools, watchmakers' lathes and check and calibrate instruments from a standard. He had to be able to follow blueprints, harden and temper metal parts and tools, know mathematics including trigonometry and have a knowledge of elementary electricity and optics.

Today

He brings specialized training to industry . . .

In common with thousands of other ex-servicemen and women the instrument mechanic has a real contribution to offer Canadian industry and business. World War II was a mechanized war. Canada's soldiers, sailors and airmen, represent many hundreds of industrial skills. You will find competent journeymen among those discharged. You will find many thousands of others who have basic skills which can be converted to civilian production with additional training.

Investigate the training-on-the-job provisions of Canada's re-establishment programme. Under this, the Dominion Government adds to the wages you pay ex-servicemen and ex-servicewomen while they are learning. You can secure complete details through the National Employment Service, the Department of Veterans Affairs, or Canadian Vocational Training.

Men and women for the services were carefully selected on enlistment. Service experience, training, discipline and the lessons of organization add greatly to their value. Whether tradesman or not, the veteran makes the ideal employee. Canada offers none better.

Service Skills Make GOOD Civilian Workers!

Couple Take Vows At United Church

Swail - Meyer

The marriage of Hazel, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adam L. Meyer, of Centreville, Lachute, to Mr. Dennison E. Swail, son of Mrs. A. E. Ewail and the late Wm. Swail, of Arundel, took place on July 20 at Lachute United Church. The Rev. W. B. Rosborough officiated, assisted by the Rev. J. E. Boucher, of Pointe-aux-Trembles. Organ music was played by Mr. W. M. Steeves. Blue and white flowers formed the decorations.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of ivory moirée, having a sweetheart neckline, long sleeves coming to a point on the hands, and a full skirt. Her heirloom veil of embroidered tulle illusion was held in place by orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a string of pearls, and she carried a cascade bouquet of deep red roses.

The bride's attendants were Miss Eleanor Wilson, as maid of honor, and Miss Anita LeBel and Miss Lina LeBel, as bridesmaids. Miss Grace Dixon, niece of the groom, was the flower-girl. . Mr. William Swail, brother of the groom, was best man. The ushers were Mr. John Meyer, brother of the bride, and Mr. Russell Gauley.

The maid of honor wore a floor-length gown of blue net over taffeta, with a sweetheart neckline and short sleeves. She wore a shoulder-length veil of blue net and blue mitts, and carried a bouquet of yellow gladioli.

The bridesmaids were dressed alike in floor-length gowns of pink lace over taffeta, with sweetheart necklines and short sleeves. They wore shoulder-length veils of pink net, and pink mitts, and carried bouquets of pink roses.

The flower-girl wore a floor-length gown of pink taffeta trimmed with blue bows, a blue Dutch bonnet, and her nosegay bouquet was of pink and yellow roses.

Following a reception at the church hall, Mr. and Mrs. Swail left for a wedding trip to points in the United States. For travelling the bride wore a blue crepe dress with white accessories, and a corsage of red roses.

The bride is a graduate of Macdonald College school for teachers, and the groom served with the R.C.A.F. overseas. On their return they will reside in Grenville, Que.

AUTO PRIORITIES NOW DISCONTINUED

Ottawa, July 30 (CP)—Reconstruction Minister Howe has announced discontinuance of priority certificates for automobiles August 1, three weeks after he had told a Commons committee that veterans' priorities had "completely bogged down".

Priorities granted before August 1 will continue to be filled as cars become available. Meanwhile the effect of the ruling is that for non-priority holders, that shiny new model is more elusive than ever. There is some speculation that it may be a year or 18 months before a backlog of 60,000 priorities is filled.

In a brief interview in his office here tonight, Mr. Howe said there had been widespread illegal traffic in the priority certificates, but he gave no details of the traffic nor would he comment on whether any action was contemplated against the traffickers.

Fast Freight !

You've heard those thundering wheels... seen that stabbing headlight... as you've watched a long train of Canadian Pacific freight cars rumble through the night.

They are hauling more—much more—than just overnight freight. To children and grown-ups in destitute Europe and Asia, those turning wheels are bringing new hope... perhaps life itself.

To all of us they are bringing food, coal, building materials, household furnishings, lumber, paper, machinery—all the thousand-and-one items which make up a nation's domestic and export trade. And they are doing it efficiently and cheaply... every day and night in the year!

Hints for Homebodies

By Jessie Allen Brown

SAINT JOHN WEATHER

There was a time that this time of the year I would be wanting to write about hot-weather foods and how to keep cool and so on. I can't do it these days with any semblance of earnestness because I have almost forgotten what hot weather is like. There are parts of New Brunswick where it really is hot but certainly not in the Coastal regions. In the six years we have been here I can recall only one really hot day. The evenings are cool and from seven o'clock on it is necessary to wear a coat of some kind. Suits are the most important part of a woman's wardrobe, and light-weight suits are worn more in the summer than summer dresses. There are plenty of foggy days through the summer. On the other hand we have never lived anyplace that has as much sun during the winter. The thermometer does not go very low, and when it does, will not stay low for too long a time, but don't ever think it isn't cold. The damp air makes it a very penetrating cold for all the sunshine. Most places people leave the cities to escape the heat in summer, but they reverse it in Saint John. They leave the city in order to be warm. Within a few miles of the city there are hundreds of summer cottages, or camps, as they call them down here. There can be no other city any place that could have more places by the water to build a summer place. The ocean, several wide rivers, and innumerable small lakes are within a few miles of Saint John.

GIVE A COOK BOOK

Many women wish to give a War Bride a present as a gesture of friendship. Have you thought about giving a Canadian cook-book? There is at least one organization which is doing that same thing for each bride who comes to their community. The Canadian Cook Book is an old stand-by which has stood the test of years, and Kate Aitkens new cook book is an excellent one. A subscription to a Canadian magazine should help her with some of her difficulties which are natural when living in a strange country. Most of these girls are nice girls and now is the time, when they need it most, to go out of our way to be friendly.

EASY DOES IT

One of the worst things you can do both for looks and health is to reduce too rapidly. A pound a week is the most that can be taken off safely. Most of us have seen people who have reduced quickly and their skin has been full of inal wrinkles and they look old and haggard. Skin is elastic and reducing must be done slowly to give it a chance to take up the slack. Even more serious is the danger to health. Most of our vital organs are concentrated in our abdomens, and that is the spot fat accumulates. This extra fat gradually supports the organs and the muscles which should support them get slack and out of tone. If the fat is taken away too quickly before the muscles get accustomed to doing their own work of supporting, the vital organs will sag and get out of place, which is very bad for our health. When a person is very much over weight a pound a week seems slow going, but actually a reduction of three pounds a month is even more satisfactory. Any person who takes off twenty pounds should hold that weight for at least three months before taking off any more. This is to give the skin and the abdominal muscles a chance to get in proper shape. Easy does it, is the watchword for reducing.

WARPED RECORDS

If a record is badly warped there is nothing that can be done about it, but if only slightly warped it may be saved. Put the record on a flat surface in a warm place such as a sunny window, then place a light book on top of it. After a couple of hours, place three or four more books on top of this one, and in abut 24 hours the record should be straight. If the books are all piled on at once the record may crack.

CHOCOLATE BARS

Does the phone ever ring to tell you that some friends will be calling shortly to see you, and you find yourself with nothing much to serve them? That happened to me yesterday and with not much more than time to get dressed I wracked my brains for what I could make fastest. This is the recipe I used and I doubt if anything could be made much faster or easier.

¼ Cup shortening 2 squares of chocolate, 1 cup sugar, 1 beaten egg, ½ cup milk, 1 cup flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Malt the chocolate and shortening. Cool. (I put the saucepan in a pan of cold water and it was cooled by the time I had the other ingredients ready). Stir in the sugar, then the beaten egg and the milk and vanilla. Sift in the dry ingredients and mix. Bake in a buttered pan 8" x 8" in a moderate oven of 350 degrees. If you have the time and the walnuts, ¼ cup chopped nuts sprinkled over batter before baking is a definite improvement.

MEAT TRICKS

Most of us are trying to save meat coupons so that more meat can be sent to England. Here are a couple of meat tricks that are easy on coupons and time.

Slice bologna in ½" slices and brown in dripping.

Make a lengthwise slit in frankfurters. Cut cream cheese in narrow strips the length of the frankfurters and insert a strip in each slit. Bake for ten minutes in a moderate oven of 350 degrees.

Promote Idea of Junior W. Inst.

Mrs. Geo. McGibbon, Lachute Named Supervisor of This Branch of Activity

Work among the young girls is being stressed as a major objective for the Q.W.I. this coming year. For the first time in the history of the Institute two girls were in attendance at the recent annual convention as representatives of Junior Institutes. An active branch has been in existence over a year at New Carlisle, Bonaventure County, and another has been recently organized at Inverness in Megantic. It is not intended to compete with the Girl Guides, or other groups for girls, but in all too many rural districts there is absolutely nothing to interest the young girls or make life in the country more attractive. Handicraft will play an increasingly large role in this work and it is hoped next year will see many more branches throughout the province. Mrs. George McGibbon, of this community was appointed supervisor of this work at the recent convention, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Thomas Kirby from that office.

These girls soon learn to conduct a business meeting with an efficiency many older groups might well emulate. This should provide valuable training and fit them to take an active part as they go into the senior branches.

APPLICATIONS FOR NURSING CLASSES

Applications for the September class of student nurses at the Herbert Reddy Memorial Hospital, 4039 Tupper St., Montreal, are now being received by Miss D. I. MacRae, formerly Matron-in-Chief R.C.A.M.C., who is now Superintendent of Nurses. This is a general hospital, admitting patients of all ages, male and female, ordinarily admitted to any general hospital.

A large class is anticipated as many young women are completing their High School this year. Many are also leaving the services, and since nursing is able to offer more varied opportunities than most professions, a great number are seriously interested in this occupation.

The following information is offered for prospective students:

(1) Entrance age is 18-30.

(2) Physical examination and chest X-ray provided. Diagnostic methods and improved techniques enable the student to conserve her own health and teach pateints and patients' families preventive measures.

(3) Educational requirements are assessed by Mr. Matthews, Registrar at McGill University, in order to give uniformity to standing.

(4) A genuine liking for people is important, with a sincere desire to help others and teach them to live healthy and happy lives.

The new residence now under construction has a completely air-conditioned Teaching Unit. In this Unit are modern Lecture Room, Library, Science Laboratory and Demonstration Room and where all nursing procedures are taught and practiced, and a Diet Kitchen where instruction in Nutrition is given by a well qualified dietetian.

Institutes' Role in Education Program

The cause of Education is always a live issue with Institutes everywhere. School laws are studied and at the recent provincial convention a resolution was passed commending Premier Duplessis and his Government for passing "Bill 48". Nor is this interest purely academic. Prizes are given in the schools on a wide range of subjects, and picnics and treats arranged for the pupils. School fairs might also be mentioned, but that is another story in itself. The placing of radios in the schools is an increasingly popular project thus enabling all the students to benefit from the many worthwhile broadcasts especially prepared for school listening. In Gatineau County two scholarships of $25. each are given in their high school to rural pupils in Grade IX on condition they continue on to Grade X. In Argenteuil six branches contribute to a scholarship in Lachute High School and a report this month from Quebec County states funds have been raised to provide scholarships there also.

With the appointment recently of Mrs. Roswell Thomson, 2nd Vice-President, for the Council of Public Instruction in this province, the Institutes can be assured the interests of the rural pupil will be well represented.

MANY WOMEN ARE EMPLOYED IN WOOL KNITTING INDUSTRY

Every clime, country and period that we know of has yielded many stories or examples of the ancient art of weaving. Centuries before Christ, skilful weavers were in business for themselves, even using slaves and hiring helpers to increase production.

Knitting is a younger art, having appeared on the European continent — probably first in Italy — sometime during the 14th Century. In the next century some knitted goods found their way into France and England. Soon knitting was in wide practice. Yarn is knitted into cloth by a series of interlocking loops made by two or more needles. This process leaves air pockets around the loops which provide insulation, warmth and elasticity. In Canada wool yarn has been woven and knitted into cloth for over three centuries.

Today the Canadian woollen industry, established mostly in the smaller municipalities, provides steady, all-year-round work for over 32,000 people. A good deal of the labor in a woollen mill is relatively light (compared to iron and steel and the like) and consequently many individuals barred from heavy work find employment there. Slightly over half the personnel is made up of women. Economists regard the production of woollen goods as one of the most stabilizing factors of the Canadian scene.

BEAR A VICTIM ON MINK RANCH

Helena, Mont. (CP) — Mrs. Bill Osborne is the right handy person on her husband's mink ranch.

When a brown bear tried to break into the mink pens, she left the cake she was baking and shot the marauder.

"I didn't get nervous," she reported later, "until I saw how big it was. Then I sure shook".

Electrical Device Maintains Pure Air

New York (CP) — Hayfever victims and people who just don't like smoky, dusty rooms now can use a new device of the electronic age to purify living room air.

The device draws air into a compartment where the dust or pollen is given a slight positive charge of electricity. Then the air passes between plates that have been given a negative charge of electricity and the result is that all electrified particles settle on the plates.

SUMMER FRUIT PRICES SAME AS LAST YEAR

Maximum prices for peaches, pears and plums will be approximately the same price this year as those set last summer, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has announced. The ceilings, which have been set by an order recently announced, will apply to both domestic and imported fruits.

In Quebec and Ontario, the ceilings on peaches came into effect on Monday, July 29. Ceilings on plums will come into effect on August 5, ceilings on imported pears on August 12 and those on domestic pears on August 19.

HEALTH SIGNS

Crossness and irritability are infallible signs that the family doctor should be consulted about a child's health, declare health authorities at Ottawa. Department of National Health and Welfare officials list these signs of good health: bright eyes, clear skin, good posture, keen appetite, alertness, vitality and pleasing disposition. Parents, they say, will see in these signs the confirmation of medical opinion on a child's state of health.

CHIMNEY BUILDING INTERNATIONAL JOB

Steeplejacks on Moose Jaw Job Have Worked in Many Countries

Moose Jaw, Sask., (CP) — Two international goodwill ambassadors working here now are always up in the air.

They are steeplejacks Warren Fountain and George Morgan of Chicago who were flown here from Puerto Rico to rebuild the 125-foot chimney at a Moos Jaw flour mill.

It's part of a honeymoon for Morgan who came down off his perch on the 204-foot chimney he was working on at Puerto Rico to marry the niece of an executive of the company that owned the building.

The steeplejacks work for a Chicago firm who send them by air to any country that wants a chimney built, rebuilt or relined. They have worked in several Latin American countries, throughout the U.S. and in Canada. Next stop is Winnipeg.

Risks involved boosts pay rates to $18 a day for workers in the U.S. but Fountain and Morgan work on a flat rate.

On the Moose Jaw chimney the two men ride up to the platform they work on standing in a bucket which is attached to a hoist., Moose Jaw helpers prefer to climb up on a ladder.

"They'll have to take to the bucket some time," Fountain said, explaining that the ladder would not reach the platform when the job neared completion.

Fountain thinks the tower he is working on right now is rather small. He helped build a 600-foot chimney for a smelter in California and a couple of 500-footers for the International Nickel Company at Coppercliff, Ont.

Teamwork — not less work, more dividends or more pay — is our hope for holding to democracy in industry.

Common-sense precautions should be observed in use of various forms of DDT preparations. Golf Aces Are Not "Planned"

"Sports Camera"
By FRED KERNER,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

"What about Bobby Jones?" the boss said to us.

"Bobby Jones," we answered with a grin of satisfaction, "never has perpetrated an ace!"

We were talking about holes-in-one and why so few are achieved by golfdom's better players — especially in tournament play. The answer can be made mathematically, or at east that is what the golfing mathematicians tell us.

These golfing statisticians have come to the conclusion that if you already have scored a hole-in-one, your chances of repeating are no better than 8,436 to 1. If you never had the honor — and that puts you in Bobby Jones' company, lucky you — the betting against you accomplishing the trick is something like 8,436 multiplied by your luncheon check.

To add to your discouragement — or to make you feel like a duffer if we haven't succeeded by now — we recall an interiew with one Jim Nichols, a teaching pro at Tiverton, Long Island who has only one arm — his left.

Exemplifying that old platitude about the exception proving the rule, Jim has shot no fewer than seven aces. Said he to us, very confidentially:

"That sort of thing could become a habit."

Any of you golfers interested in acquiring "a habit?"

And despite the fact that we are in the Bobby Jones class and Walter Hagon has only accomplished the feat once, Jim Nichols insists it is not an especially stupendous feat.

With that we asked how much worse — or better — a golfer he was when he had both arms. Our golfing mediocrity became overwhelmingly apparent when he told us he never played the game until he lost his right arm in a railroad wreck in 1929.

It seems he was a professional welterweight scrapper who thought golf was a game to be investigated when one was old and rich — and gout free. Loss of an arm left Jim without a profession and a doctor suggested golf to soothe his shattered nerves.

But aces aren't planned said the hole-in-one collector. He said he trusts to luck. The fact that he can drive more than 240 yards — one of his aces was on a 336-yard hole in Georgia — he attributes to bag punching as a fighter.

We're not discouraged: (Does anyone want to buy a set of clubs in almost new condition?).

Everyone has been complaining that 1946 baseball isn't so "hot", but no one has ventured to say why No one, that is, except Frank (Shag) Shaughnessy of Montreal whose fame as a baseball and football manager and coach is Dominion-wide. Shag now is president of the International Baseball League and after half a season of watching majors and minors he summed up the situation with:

"Most players don't know how to hit a curve ball. . . . They swing at a curve like any other pitch and the only time they connect is when one fails to break."

He might have added that lots of pitchers can't throw a curve ball either.

Que. Minister of Agriculture Fears Acute Food Shortage in Province Next Winter due to Labor Handicaps

Dep. Minister of Mines Visits 'New Quebec', Exploration Works on Hollinger Concession

By GUY GAGNON,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Quebec, August 6 (CP) — An acute food shortage in Quebec Province is feared for next winter, according to Hon. Laurent Barre, Quebec Minister of Agriculture. In a press conference Friday, Mr. Barre said that "at a time when it would be imperative to see that there is an overabundance of crops, we have to face the fact that farm products will be much less than required."

"The general shortage of manual labor on Quebec farms during the present season has been a most acute problem for farmers, the serious consequence of which cannot be ignored by city dwellers. Therefore, in spite of highly favorable weather conditions, the haying season is far from its end and work essential for successful market gardening has had to be foregone because of lack of laboring hands."

(Therefore the Hon. Barré fears a real food shortage for next winter, says a government release. He points out, however, that city dwellers who will have to undergo privations need not put the blame on the farmers, who are taxing their strength to the limit with outmoded implements which cannot be renovated or replaced. City folk should know that in order to eat, the soil must produce and that farmers cannot grow things without the help of additional hands and labor. . . The Hon. Barré also remarked during the course of the interview that it has never been known that the farmer ever went on strike, nor was the work of the farm ever held up by quitting the job voluntarily. In this respect, the farmer may be cited as an example to more than one class of society.)

Large-scale exploration works are being carried on by Hollinger North Shore Exploration Company in Ungava — the far northern mining territory also known as New Quebec — as authorized under special legislation by the Quebec Legislature during its last session. Announcement to this effect was made by A. O. Dufresne, Quebec deputy minister of mines, upon his return last week from a visit to the area.

Mr. Dufresne's trip was followed by an announcement from Provincial Treasurer Onesime Gagnon, acting premier in the absence of Hon. Maurice Duplessis, that upon recommendation by Mines Minister Robinson, a new Canadian company—the Norancon Exploration Company — had been granted a permit for research work in an area adjoining that granted the Hollinger company.

Mr. Gagnon said the new company, to operate in an area of 1,500 square miles, was formed exclusively of Canadian directors, "most of whom already are interested in mining research and development in Temiscamingue and Abitibi."

The permit granted to Norancon Exploration is for research only, and the new company is to benefit from research work previously carried on in the same general area by the Hollinger company," he said.

The permit granted the new company is quite different from that granted the Hollinger company. Norancon will carry on research work only, while Hollinger is engaged in exploration work on a 3,900-square-mile area, to be followed later by exploitation work in a 300-square-mile area within the territory previously explored.

The Hollinger company, according to Mr. Dufresne, is faced with the problems of poor transportation facilities and a brief working season. He could not say whether the company appeared satisfied with results shown up to the present. "I venture no opinion in view of the fact that operations have not advanced far enough," he said.

Mr. Dufresne made his tour with Dr. A. G. Snelgrove, geological consultant for the Newfoundland government, and Dr. T. N. Tanton, Canadian government geologist. The party made the trip by airplane, with a stop at Seven Islands from where supplies are transported into the interior.

Lachute: Beaton's Pharmacy, Lachute Medicine Store, Rex Café, Main Street.

Lachute Mills: Harbour Drugstore.

Brownsburg: John Castle's, Choux Pharmacy

Exhibition of Paintings At Carillon Museum

According to an announcement received this week, a series of oil paintings by Vivian Walker was put on display at the Carillon Museum commencing last Saturday. Without having viewed the exhibits the fact that Mrs. Walker is a part-time resident of Carillon Village suggests the probability of some interesting local subjects in these pictures. Together with several valuable canvases of an older vintage among the Museum's permanent collection, this feature should prove specially interesting to art lovers.

"Our Daily Bread"

Daily bread is the prayer of millions of people today who are actually starving for want of it. Every one of us can help answer that prayer, at least in some part, as our own like petition has been so bountifully answered. We can eat less of exportable foods, waste less of everything, and, if we don't say "we will", the governments of countries with food to spare should say "you must". — Blue Bell

Vernon Cardy Injured In Horse Collision

Montreal — Vernon G. Cardy, well-known horseman, was injured in Saturday's horse show at Hudson Heights, when his horse crashed into a semi-fixed jump at full gallop, hurling Cardy to the ground. The injuries were diagnosed later as a fractured collar bone, two cracked ribs and some cartilege and muscle bruises.

He was taken to the Ross Memorial Pavilion of the Royal Victoria Hospital, and will be unable to ride for several weeks.

Further to the above, a sum of $18,000 has been earmarked for recharging of gravel roads already maintained by the Quebec Highways Department, and a sum of $60,000 for general maintenance purposes.

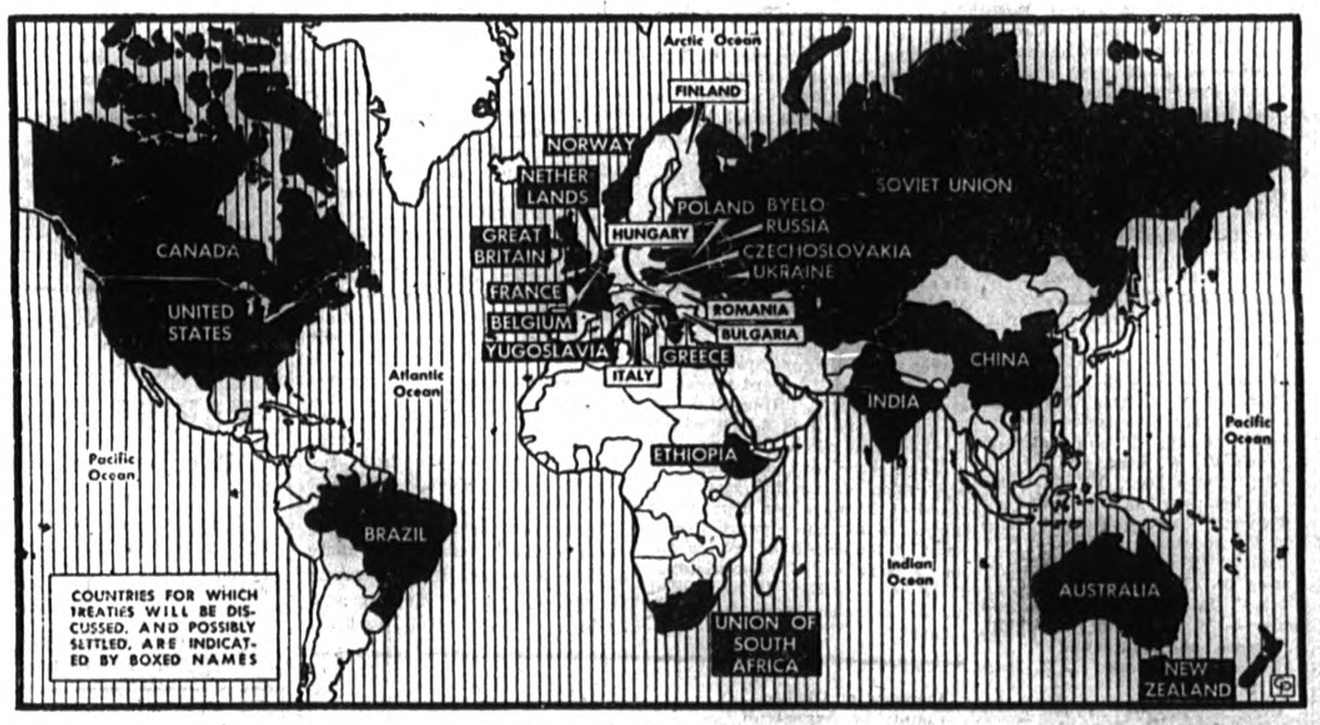

The Department hopes that the labor situation will be more favorable than last year, and that the addition of new equipment will permit substantial progress on these works.

2 Face Charge of Assault; Another, Breaking-Entering

CHARGES LAID AFTER HIT-RUN INCIDENTS

On the docket for the District Magistrate's Court at St. Jerome for August 20 next are several cases involving violations of law and order in this county — incidents which have kept local and provincial police officers busily engaged.

Among other misdemeanors are cases of driving while under the influence of liquor, and in this particular regard, the Attorney General has charged the prosecutor here, Georges H. Héon, K.C., to proceed in accordance with the seriousness of this offence and demand maximum penalties. (This note is added in the nature of a warning).

Besides traffic violations, a charge of assault is laid against two bushmen employed at The Glen, Dunany, and a charge of breaking and entering against a St. Philippe resident.

Assault

Omer Guitard, a 50-year-old Montrealer engaged in lumber camp operations, was treated here by Dr. Jules Lafleur for severe body and facial injuries, following an alleged attack by two fellow workers at the camp. The incident occurred July 31, and on the following day Det. Leopold Dauphin arrested the two alleged assailants, Roland Bouchard, 26, and Arthur Loiselle, 36. The men were taken before a justice of the peace at St. Jerome and released on bail pending hearing on August 20.

Breaking and Entering

Ludger Seguin, 32, of St. Philippe was taken in charge by Chief of Police D. Villeneuve, Lachute, and Traffic Officer Howard Jones, Calumet, after disturbing the peace and allegedly breaking into the door of the Guilbeault general store. The man was turned over to Det. Dauphin, and is being held at St. Jerome to appear before the magistrate on a charge of breaking and entering.

At least two young men of the district, one a discharged serviceman, face charges of reckless driving and failing to stop at the scene of an accident, one at Grenville and the other at Brownsburg. The latter case is to be heard at St. Jerome on August 20; the other, in which personal injuries were caused, will come up at an indefinite date.

Shortage of Nails Serious — "May Halt Construction"

Hon. C. D. Howe, speaking in the House of Commons (Hansard, July 22) —

The production of nails in Canada is easily checked. It is running at a very high figure, practically equivalent to the nail-producing capacity of the country.

We have been trying to check the disposition of these nails. After a thorough check we can find no evidence of export operations or any evidence of stockpiling. If anybody knows where there is a warehouse full of nails, I wish he would tell me. We have been unable to find anything of the kind.

The consumption of nails is difficult to explain. We cannot explain it. We think a great amount is going out of the country in packing for export. There is also no doubt that the use of green lumber has stepped up the number of nails used in building.

The level of construction in this country is far higher than in any other period of our history. The shortage of nails is due to the great use of nails in construction in Canada today.

However, we are now entering a shortage which is a real one. Nails are not being manufactured today in any quantity, because practically all the nail plants are on strike and the plants which ship the primary steel to the nail plants are also on strike. So that for the next month or two, or longer if the strike lasts much longer, nails will be in very limited supply indeed. All stocks of nails have been frozen and are being diverted into low-cost priority housing.

It is only a matter of time, I think, when shortage of nails will practically close down building construction in this country.

Pair Found in Possession of Burglary Tools

A sequel to robberies at two garages here last week, came with the apprehending of two young men at St. Jerome Friday night. The pair, Daniel Clarkson, 23, of Ste. Therese, and Ernest Wm. Tilton, 32, address unknown, are held as material witnesses — the case, involving a charge of illegal possession of burglary tools, to be heard before the District Magistrate on August 20 next.

The pair were taken in charge after a jimmy was found in their car, together with other tools not generally required about an automobile. Det. Leopold Dauphin, Police Chief D. Villeneuve and officers from Montreal, who investigated the robberies, were convinced that marks on the door of the Pollock and Graves Motors building were caused by the pry found in the car. The instrument and woodwork of the door were sent to Montreal headquarters for further examination, and testimony of the experts will be introduced in the prosecution.

PREMIER TO ATTEND OPENING OF NEW STE. ROSE BRIDGE

Quebec, Aug. 5 (CP) — Premier Maurice Duplessis will officially open the new Sir Louis Hippolyte Lafontaine Bridge at Ste. Rose, Que., August 18, Public Works Minister Romeo Lorrain has announced.

The new structure, which replaces the former Plessis-Belair Bridge, spans the two streams of the Thousand Islands River.

Following a ceremony by church dignitaries, Mr. Lorrain will unveil a bronze tablet engraved with the name of the bridge and other data. Then Mr. Duplessis will cut the ribbon at the entrance of the bridge and he will be the first to cross it.

Following the opening, a public demonstration will be held on the grounds of the seminary at Ste. Therese.

8 Farm Tractors Unloaded at Yards

In pre-war days, a consignment of farm tractors here would be just ordinary news. Today, however, with tractors at a premium through curtailed production, the arrival of a carload — eight brand new Ford machines — is something.

Unloaded from a C.P.R. freight on Monday, the tractors were directed to Geo. Y. Deacon as regional distributor. Three are for his own customers (sold!), two for the dealer at St. Lin, and one each for Plantagenet, Buckingham and Ste. Agathe.

There are no radical changes from previous models. A distinctive feature of the Ford tractor is its hydraulic hoist, for lifting agricultural implements to the desired position.

Parade Marks Opening of Rotary Carnival

Through the thoroughfares of Lachute and Brownsburg last evening a parade of about 20 cars and vehicles preluded the opening of the Rotary Carnival at Brownsburg, tonight. The cars were decorated with posters, and a loudspeaker announced the big event.

In progress from 7 to 11 p.m. at the MacVicar field Thursday, Friday and Saturday, the carnival affords a round of fun, with bingo, games of fortune, moving pictures and items of entertainment. It represents a wholehearted effort by members of the Brownsburg Rotary, to raise funds for continuance of their charitable work in this community. As such, it deserves cordial support from the local public.

A feature of Saturday night's show will be the Rotary drawing for a Westinghouse refrigerator. (Readers in Lachute who have not yet procured tickets, may do so at Bédard Ltée., Main Street.)

More Street Lights, And Street Paving, Passed by Council

At the regular meeting of Lachute Town Council, held last evening at the council chamber with Mayor Leopold Carriere presiding, routine matters and a few more notable items came up for discussion.

Ald. A. Bothwell was appointed pro-mayor for the next three months.

Messrs. Hebert and Pinchaud, engineers of the Quebec Department of Highways, submitted for approval a project of their Department to pave Bedard Boulevard, Millway and Hamford Streets to the width of 30, 20 and 18 feet, respectively, without cost to the Town Corporation. The measure was put to a vote and passed approval of the councillors — Ald. W. Morrisette dissenting.

Ald. Leonard Bédard, chairman of the lighting committee, was authorized to install 35 new lights at points specified along the town thoroughfares.

Building permit was granted to J. Horace Lafleur, to erect six dwellings on Bedard Boulevard and Mary Streets.

Aldege Pagé was engaged as a permanent constable on the police force.

Q.W.I.'s in Support of Youth Hostelling

Camps for rural girls and youth hostelling were two recommendations for the Post-War Rehabilitation Committee of the Quebec Women's Institute. This committee has now been disbanded, having served its purpose in laying the groundwork for post-war plans for the Institute. The work is being carried on through the various conveners under the suitable headings.

In connection with youth hostelling, Dr. Nichols of McGill University, publicity chairman of Canadian Youth Hostels Association, addressed the delegates at the recent annual Q.W.I. convention. He gave a comprehensive outline of the method of carrying on this work. Its purpose — a pleasant and economical holiday for our youth while giving them an opportunity of seeing something of our country — was felt to be of value and the offer of the cooperation of this organization was gratefully received by Dr. Nichols. As new trails are laid out it is increasingly difficult for the Hostel Association to give proper supervision to hostels in more remote country districts. Institute members serving on local committees, and in some cases, as house mothers, would assure the Association of suitable hostels with no questionable surroundings for our young people. Here is one practical way in which the Institute can serve.

BEACH PROPRIETOR HELD NEGLIGENT IN DROWNING CLAIM

The owner of Saratoga Beach, Plage Laval, was held legally responsible in the Superior Court on Tuesday for the death of Marcel Guilbault, 20, who was drowned there on June 24, 1945.

Handing down judgment, Mr. Justice Alfred Forest ordered the defendant in the case, Delphine Pauline Martin, to pay $2,223.35 to the father of the drowned youth, who had sued for $15,000. His Lordship recalled how Guilbault, with three companions, had gone to the beach, paid his fee and subsequently decided to swim to a small island some 400 yards away. Two companions accompanied him while a third, Miss Claire Rochon, stayed on the river bank.

Testimony showed, said His Lordship, that when the trio got into difficulties some 50 yards from the island and began to call for help, lifeguards employed at the beach took several minutes to launch a boat and were slow in rowing to the rescue. When they did get there, Guilbault had sunk and the lifeguards rowed his two companions ashore before returning to dive for the victim, whose body was not recovered until four days later.

His Lordship thought that had the boat been mounted on rollers for quick launching and the guards displayed more speed in getting to the scene, the youth's life might have been saved. In any case, he held it was the duty of the lifeguards to patrol the beach in boats for maximum protection and the duty of the beach owner to clearly mark by buoys the section of water where swimming was safe.

Mastitis Cure In Australia

Research workers and farmers in Canada may be interested in a report by the Australian News which tells of Australian efforts to stamp out mastitis. In the opinion of Dr. A. W. Turner, in charge of the Animal Health and Products Division of the Council for Scientific and Industrial Research, penicillin, when supplies are sufficient is expected to cure mastitis completely in dairy herds in Australia. The Division has been carrying out research work at the Parkville Laboratories (Victoria) and at field stations, with spectacular results. It is reported that effect of penicillin on "Carrier" animals has been outstanding. In one instance, a heifer which had given only a small amount of milk of a yellowish color delivered a normal supply of milk, free of the germ, four days after the drug had been administered.

It has been demonstrated that mastitis germ can be transmitted in an infected shed, on the hands of milkers, and on milking machines. Sodium hypochloride in suitable concentration readily controls these sources of infection, says the report. Sometimes, within a few days of invasion, the germ has done sufficient injury to the udder to cause some loss of function, irreparable until the next lactation. Hence the importance of early treatment.

AID CATTLE BREEDERS

Yarmouth, N.S. (CP) — Agriculture Minister Mackenzie has announced government assistance to members of Nova Scotia dairy associations which operate artificial cattle breeding units. At a meeting of the Yarmouth county Jersey and Guernsey Association he outlined a bonus aid plan to help them "become established on a firm financial basis."

SURPRISE

Cache Creek, B.C. (CP) — A crow hatched a baby pheasant here when crow and pheasant eggs were exchanged in a barnyard experiment.

Best Time to Fatten Poultry

The question as to when poultry of different classes should be fattened depends for a satisfactory answer upon several factors, states the Dominion Department of Agriculture publication "Fattening Poultry for Market". Of these factors, the price paid is one of the most important. Broilers should be fattened as early as is consistent with their being large enough, because prices for early broilers are much the best. Fryers, being considered as light chickens, command a relatively low price.

With heavy roasters, fall prices are relatively stable and the time to fatten for market depends largely on the relationship between the amount of feed consumed and the gain being made. The time will arrive, usually at from 24 to 26 weeks of age, when gain has slowed down to a negligible amount but feed consumption will remain high. Economy demands that when this condition is reached, the bird should be fattened for market. This class of bird should not be left too late, because, as they reach maturity, they develop heavy muscles and are classed as stags, for which a lower price is paid regardless of whether they are fattened or not.

Types of poultry stock that require fattening are cockerels of all ages, whether marketed as broilers, fryers, or roasters. Capons require little if any fattening, being usually sufficiently fat and soft fleshed, if killed off range. The labor and cost of fattening roosters, pullets, and hens is rarely justified. Cockerels of the light breeds, such as Leghorns, are uneconomical if fattened after broiler age and are discriminated against on most markets.

Further information, including methods of pen and crate fattening, equipment, selection of birds, fattening feeds, management and handling the birds after fattening, will be found in the publication (No. 745) Fattening Poultry for Market, a copy of which may be obtained on request from the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Electric Energy In Corn Kernels

New York (CP) — Discovery of electrical energy in kernels of corn that predicts whether the corn will germinate well is reported in the Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences by Dr. H. S. Burr and Oliver E. Nelson, Jr., of Yale University and the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station. Corn that germinates well contains more electrical energy than other kernels. Good germination insures a better corn crop.

This high electrical energy was found also to be transmitted by heridity, the report said the electrical measurements might prove to be a useful tool for plant breeders.

Much of America's high yield of corn comes from hybrid plants. The hybrids tend to lose their productivity after a time, so that breeders are trying continually to develop new and better hybrids.. One of the breeding problems is to predict in advance how well a new cross is going to produce.

Youngster Builds His Own Tractor

Santa Fe, N.M. (CP) — A little tired of talk of shortages and priorities, Tom Stedman, 16, high school junior, has solved the essential farm power problem for his parents' Tesuque ranch by constructing his own tractor after school hours.

Stedman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Stedman, started the tractor along with his work as a first-year machine shop student under the supervision of L. H. Manker. He completed the 500-pound vehicle at a cost fo $112.

Collecting most of his parts from junk yards, Stedman use a 1½-horsepower Briggs-Stratton engine,, two model A Ford transmissions, a model T. differential, 616 back tires and dual 6-inch wheelbarrow wheel front ties.

The tractor runs nine hours on one gallon of gasoline, has a top speed of 20 miles per hour in the highest of its nine forward speeds, boasts three speeds in reverse and has a drawbar of approximately three horse power. It has pulled, on one occasion, more than 2,200 pounds.

Bees Signal Corps Always on Alert

Bees have a highly developed code of signals by which they communicate quickly with one another, as for instance in passing the word that the way is clear for plundering a certain hive. During July and August; a shortage of nectar secretion in flowers causes the field bees to stay around the apiary. Should the beekeeper in a careless examination of his colonies leave the supers or hives exposed for some time, the bees from the strong hives will steal the nectar. These robber bees at once pass the information to the field bees in their own hive. Then the reinforced troops go on a robbing spree and if the robber bees can overpower the guards of a weak colony, they will remove 30 to 50 pounds of honey in two or three hours, leaving the inmates of the hive and their queens to starve to death.

A desultory honey flow in any one year has a tendency to cause robbing, and says the bee expert at the Dominion Experimental Farm at Brandon, Man., beekeepers should exercise care to keep the supers covered as much as possible when examining colonies and avoid scattering honey from shaken frames on the grass. When robbing has started in an apiary, all colonies should have their entrances contracted to allow passage for only one bee at a time, and it is sometimes wise to put out a solution of sugar syrup a short distance from the apiary to attract the robber bees. The sugar solution, is gradually reduced in strength until conditions in the apiary return to normal.

FUTURE IN BALANCE

Duparquet, Que. (CP) — The life of a gold mining community in the wilds of northwestern Quebec hangs in the balance, because a shift in the earth's surface caused the death of four miners and endangered future productivity of its industrial mainstay. Beattie was just getting ready to pour its first gold bar in nearly four years when the clay slide came.

Great Power

UP TILL NOW we have relied on the great powers to make peace — on their power of persuasion — on their economic power — on the power of their arms. And we have not found peace. Obviously we need some greater power. Stronger arguments, richer resources, deadlier weapons are not likely to do the trick. Some different KIND of power must be found.

There is a greater power at work in the world. A power which produced the world itself. A power which produced the life that peoples the world. A power which can change the people.

At least so people say — people who have turned to God and asked to be shown where they need to be different. People — and this is most important — who have asked for that change of heart — that different attitude towards life and the other fellows — which would make them WANT to be different.

Nations, after all, are just made up of people — the statesman and the ordinary man. If all their people undergo a change of heart, nations would unquestionably begin to get a different attitude toward each other.

The great powers have failed to make peace. Let's give the Great Power His chance.

The Kids Take Over

SUMMERTIME is a fine institution — but many older folks around the home and farm view this season with considerable trepidation.

Nervous males hide their favorite pipes on top of the kitchen cupboard, while housewives take down the pictures, store their bric-a-brac with the neighbors and order new wallpaper in advance.

The occasion is the long-awaited visit of the young fry — nieces, nephews, grandchildren or other representatives of the coming generation who have come to spend their holidays with the family.

The house is truly transformed. Guest bedrooms are sprinkled with small articles of clothing, and the clothesline presents a row of uniform white garments. The air is full of whoops, gurgles, wails and screams, and the kitchen is an armed camp. And in a secluded corner of the house some beleaguered adult ponders his chances of peacefully perusing the paper.

But the chances are he won't mind the inevitable interruption as a delegation arrives to ask him to play ball, bark like a seal, or tell a story. Because the average grown-up is a sucker for people who make him feel important, and there's no resisting the unconscious flattery of a four-year-old. — So the dignified head of the family crawls on all fours, or turns somersaults for the amusement of his youthful audience. Imaginations stimulated for 10 months of the year by nothing more romantic than repairing the pasture fence, or the fluctuations of the grain market, are consumed now with the problem of getting Dave Dauntless out of the clutches of the railway bandits.

As he watches the earnest attempts of the visitors to milk an oversize cow, use an oversize lawn mower or simply navigate across an oversize room, the average adult reflects that the dreaded visit of the young folks wasn't such a bad thing after all.

Compensation for Farm Workers

THERE IS NO doubt but that farm owners and farm workers in all parts of Canada will regard with a great deal of interest the proposal by the Province of Ontario that farm employees be made eligible for benefits under the Workmen's Compensation Act.

It seems only reasonable that the farm worker should have the right of financial protection in case of injury, just as much as the industrial worker. In fact, we believe such a scheme should be extended to include farm owners as well as the hired man. Many farmers would be placed in an unfortunate financial position if they were to suffer injury. An adequate plan would protect them in such an instance.

Farming nowadays requires a great deal of machinery. Mechanization has brought into use tractors, trucks and other motor-driven implements. The accident rate is accordingly higher.

The compensation plan is all part of a trend to place the farmer on the same level of social benefits as that enjoyed by the factory employee. Of course, it will mean additional expense to the farm owner, but part of the cost will have to be absorbed in higher prices for farm produce. The farmer has lived too long under many trying circumstances. We endorse any proposal which will improve his comfort and security.

In A Water Tank

EDITORIAL comment in one of our exchanges draws attention to a sight which, although familiar to residents in this town, evidently excites some curiosity among our visitors. Says the Notre Dame de Grace Monitor :

> A friend of ours tells us that four families up in Lachute have solved the housing shortage by taking up residence in a railroad water tank. The tank is on a disused rail line, is built of wood, and is some thirty feet in diameter. About fifty feet high, it has been made into four snug apartments. Entrance is by an enclosed outside stairway. We've heard of some odd places people have resorted to to solve the housing crisis, but we've never heard of anyone living in a water tank until our friend told us of the novel new apartments at Lachute.

This reference, of course, is to the old C.N.R. tank on Clyde Street which, on abandonment of the line was purchased by a neighbor, V. A. Paquin, and converted into dwellings. The nearby station and freight shed were also made into living quarters. All this occurred several years ago, and if we remember correctly the facts were featured in Maclean's "Parade", which reports such curiosities on the Canadian scene.

Canada — the Sugar Bowl

MR. JOHN BLACKMORE, Member of the House of Commons for Lethbridge, recently made a statement in Parliament that should prove a challenge to the Department of Agriculture and to many farmers throughout the Dominion. He declared that Canada could become self-sufficient in sugar supplies through the expansion and development of the sugar-beet industry, and could even become the "sugar bowl" of the world. We are what he terms a "poor relation" in the sugar trade, depending on the world pool to give us a portion of world supplies, most of which come from Cuba, and made from cane. He warns that Cuba is planning to increase the international price, which will mean Canadians will have to pay more for imported sugar.

Mr. Blackmore uses an interesting and thought-provoking phrase which invites speculation when he suggests we become the "sugar bowl" of the world. His belief that we could take the lead away from Cuba is reason for our agriculture experts to make a study of the situation. We are reminded, too, that during the war years growers in the United Kingdom produced sufficient beet sugar to supply the rationed demand of nearly 50,000,000 people.

According to government figures, Alberta produced the most beets last year, the yield being 362,000 tons from 30,600 acres, an average of 11.9 tons per acre. That was easily the best result in Canada. The aggregate production in the Dominion in 1945 was 618,010 tons from 58,861 acres. Production last year in the United States was 8,638,000 tons from 718,000 acres.

Mr. Blackmore claims the industry needs no special concessions, but rather common-sense management from the government. Success of the industry seems to bear out his statement that our sugar manufacturers can compete in a low-priced market field. The biggest problem in the industry is that of labor, the beets having to be handled so many times by hand. New machines are being developed, however, which should provide the solution to labor costs. Expansion of the sugar beet acreage will mean a resultant expansion in industry, thereby providing more employment in the processing factories, all of which will tend to strengthen the general economy of the nation.

Mr. Blackmore points out that in 1941 the sugar controller ordered 1,300 acres of sugar beets taken out of production. Surely such action does not provide encouragement for the industry. This year 90,000 acres are under cultivation, which is not much considering our vast area and thousands of acres of uncultivated land. With the right kind of leadership we can do what Mr. Blackmore envisages — we can become the "sugar bowl" of the world.

Let's Do Something for Ourselves!

DESPITE all the crabbing about centralized authority, perhaps our governments are not altogether to blame. Why can't we do something for ourselves?

In an address to the Ontario Association of Children's Aid Societies, Dr. H. A. Showalter, president of the Perth County society, thought the plan of "let the government do it" was a "lazy, dangerous habit" and "the seed of totalitarianism."

Dr. Showalter hit the nail right on the noggin when he said he had no doubt the government could do all these things, but at "what a price"! And wasn't he right! Our governments can do anything for us, but at two or three times the cost if the same thing is done privately. With our global war just ended, and used to talking in nothing less than "billions" it will be a long time before our politicians get their feet back on the ground. As things stand now, it costs us close to $100 every time the government spends a nickel.

The irony of it all is that there are too many of us who expect the government to do all these things for us, because it costs us nothing. Whose money is the government spending, anyway? Why, ours, of course, and tenfold more than if we did the job ourselves.

CROSS-COUNTRY GLEANINGS FROM THE WEEKLY NEWSPAPERS

By 'Country Editor'

The Hanna, Alta., paper bemoans that the old fashioned "Saturday Night in Town" is a thing of the past, as the provincial government regulations concerning hours of work and non-payment of overtime caused the local merchants to alter their Saturday store hours. It was a colorful affair these Saturday nights in town, the paper holds.

The Picton, Ont., Gazette thinks undue publicity was given the odd British war bride who returned "because Canada was too lonely for them." "No mention was made of the thousands of British girls who are perfectly happy in their new homes and find married life here most enjoyable."

The question arises, in the light of so much juvenile crime recently, as to whether or not a great many parents are qualified to raise children, and to provide the proper home atmosphere so necessary during the formative years of a child's life. — Perth, Ont.

The Dauphin, Man., Herald thinks raising children is getting to be a profitable business, saying that the F. A. Act provides $60 a year; "and an additional $50 is collected by some farmers in the consolidated school area who supply transportation for their own children, generally walking," concluding "compared to other generations who were a definite liability to their parents, the future looks good for an increased birth rate."

Thinking is necessary, says the Sherbrooke, Que., Record: "Canadians complain loudly of their taxation burden. And they have reason. But a frank examination of the situation will reveal that much of this burden is self imposed, being created by the demands of pressure groups for additional government services or for extensive subsidy payments. Under such circumstances, it is hard for the politician to resist these demands unless the great majority of the electorate exercises some straight thinking on the matter of public moneys."

The Prairie Optimist at Gravelbourg, Sask., takes a disconsolate view about the increase of people working for the government, adding editorially: True, civil servants pay taxes, but the money they pay has already been collected from us and doesn't do a thing towards lightening the load. It wouldn't hurt a bit to give some thought to where we are heading for.

Another Form of Inflation — What's The Solution?

A young lady, complaining about the high cost of living, which seems to be a firmly fixed delusion in the public mind these days, reassuring statements from the W.P.T.B. notwithstanding, mentioned how hard it was to make ends meet on a salary of $27.00 a week.

Her hearer, knowing that she held a fairly responsible position, and that her employer was not one to exploit his workers, expressed surprise. Further questioning revealed that her actual pay was $35.00, but that tax deductions at the source and unemployment insurance payments reduced her take-home pay to the $27.00 mentioned, plus some odd cents.

Conversations with other workers showed that, in general, office workers and factory employees are no more tax-conscious now than in the good old days when they paid no direct income tax. By relieving them of the worry of saving money to meet their income taxes when due, passing most of the accounting and bookkeeping work over to the employers, the Government has also silenced a potential body of financial critics.

That result may not have been absent from the minds of Mr. Fraser Elliott and other advisers of the Government on taxation policy when the pay-as-you-go system of income taxation was introduced. Whether it is a healthy result is open to question.

In theory, the pay-as-you-go system is excellent. The tax-collector catches everybody who is on a Canadian payroll, and the taxpayer in that class does not have to bother about arrears of unpaid taxes. Yet the young lady who complains about the high cost of living does not realize that her weekly eight dollars is going to pay for the cost of maintaining national registration and a hundred other expensive fads that our Government has imposed on us. She is interested in her take-home pay, and she, and thousands like her, blame their employers and not the Government when the take-home pay is insufficient for their needs. In the long run, employers are forced to raise take-home pay, or in other words to pay the taxes of their emplayees. And since this is an expense of doing business, and must be passed on if business is to survive, the cost of goods and services to the consumer necessarily rises.

It is a type of inflation at least as serious as the price-wage spiral against which we have been warned since the close of 1941. There is so much convenience to the pay-as-you-go system, both in theory and practice, that its abolition is impracticable.

An answer to the problem is urgently, but it is improbable that it will come from any economist now working for the Government on the advisory plane.

The answer may be found by careful examination of the tax-collector's favorite motto — "The most feathers with the least squawking." An extravagant Government should not be able to pluck feathers so easily, and all the geese should squawk.

Drive-In Theatre

(Financial Post, Toronto)

Canada's first drive-in highway movie theatre — to which the family brings its own seats under gasoline power — opened recently on Hamilton's outskirts. Occupying an area of 13 acres, it may be followed by construction of at least five others in major centres of the Southern Ontario region, from Toronto west.

The drive-in theatre consists simply of a big open lot averaging 10 to 18 acres, with accommodation for 700 to 900 cars, projection equipment and a giant screen. Adults are charged 50 cents each; no charge for children. At four adults per car, officials estimate the "take" might run around $1,500 a night during midsummer, when light conditions restrict the evening performance to a single show; more with double shows spring and fall.

Basically, the "theatre" is a system of graded and gravelled ramps on which cars of the spectators are ranged before the show starts.

Freedom isn't freedom to loaf. No parasite is a free member of society. He isn't a member at all.

NOVITIATE DESTROYED

Mistassini, Que. (CP) — The Trappist Novitiate in this village 10 miles north of Lake St. John was destroyed by fire recently. The Novitiate staff, aided by the fire brigade from nearby Dolbeau, fought the flames in vain for nearly five hours. With the students on holiday, the building was virtually deserted when the fire started and there were no injuries. Damage was estimated at over $40,000.

HUGE B.C. SLAGPILE YIELDS MINERAL WOOL

Victoria, B.C. (CP) — A million-ton slagpile at the abandoned Crofton smelter near here will be used to manufacture mineral wool for home-insulation, agricultural tile, slag bricks and insulated building blocks.

Experiments are also being made on the feasibility of manufacturing from slag an anti-skid road-surfacing material.

OBITUARY

Old Citizen Buried With Orange Rites

SERVED 26 YEARS AS EXPRESS DRIVER HERE

The Late Henry Sutton

The death of Henry Sutton, a resident well known in Lachute and surrounding districts, occurred last Monday at his home. He was in his 70th year, and had been in failing health for the past two years.

Born in St. Amedee, Co. Labelle, in the year 1876, he was the son of the late John Sutton and Isabel Morrison. He was married in 1900 to Hannah Noble, who predeceased him 20 years ago. From this union there were two daughters, Inez, Mrs. Edward Cooke, of Verdun, and Hilda, Mrs. Andrew Neill, of Lachute. In 1931 he married Sarah Bates, of Avoca, who survives him.

Mr. Sutton was employed for 26 years as Express driver for the C.P.R. He was an honorary member of Louisa L.O.L. No. 717, and a lifelong member of the Anglican Church.

Left to mourn his loss are his wife, two daughters and three grandchildren, Gladys and Norma Cooke, and Donald Neill, also four brothers, Alex, Thomas and Robert, of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., and William, of Ottawa.

The funeral was held this afternoon (Thursday) from St. Simeon's Anglican Church, the Rev. G. T. Spriggs officiating, assisted by the Rev. J. A. Lackey and the Rev. J. R. Boyd. Interment took place in the Lachute Cemetery, where an Orange service was held by L.O.L. No. 717 and other brethren of the Order.

Pall-bearers were R. W. Stanley Holt, Prov. Grand Master; Bro. Hugh Morrison, County Master; and four senior members of his lodge.

The floral tributes were many, showing the high esteem in which the deceased was held in this community.

Death of Former County Resident

Cushing W.—News was received here last week of the death, in Montreal, of an old resident of this locality, in the person of Mr. Wm. Hayes. The deceased was born in Ogdensburg and had reached the advanced age of 75 years. He was the last remaining member of a family once well and favorably known these parts. The funeral took place in Montreal on Wednesday last.

FIND THE HEAT OPPRESSIVE —— HOW ABOUT THIS ?

It is about this time of year — when our readers are sweltering in the heat and gasping for the breath of a cooler clime — that we like to feature a reminder of other seasons, such as the above picture photographed in eastern Canada a few brief months ago. . . Some like this, and others like that — but any who positively prefer the depths of winter, may find this scene most soothing.

Ladies' Auxiliary Honors British War Brides

Brownsburg—The members and friends of the ladies' auxiliary of the B.E.S.L. Brownsburg Branch met in the C-I-L social hall on Wednesday last to honor the British war brides in the community, nine of whom were present.

Mrs. Sherif and Mrs. Devost, of Montreal, provincial president and vice-president respectively, were present and gave short addresses. Mrs. Harold Mason, the president of Brownsburg Branch, extended a warm welcome to all the brides to attend the meetings of the organization, and also expressed the good wishes of all to these newcomers.

An interesting program was enjoyed, beginning with a "Friendship Parade", contests and a singsong, after which refreshments were served. Each bride was presented with a gift for her new home. The evening entertainment was brought to a close by singing Auld Lang Syne, O Canada and the National Anthem.

The brides voiced their appreciation of the kindness shown them by the Canadian people.

Bédard - Chapleau

The marriage of Mlle Fernande Chapleau, daughter of the late M. and Mme Henri Chapleau, of Montreal, to Jacques Bédard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aquila Bédard, of this town, was solemnized at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, August 7, in Ste. Anastasie Parish Church.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Lachute Golf Club, where a buffet luncheon was served. The couple left later for a motor trip to the Gaspe Peninsula. On their return they will reside on Main Street, Lachute.

Mr. Bedard is employed as electrical and mechanical engineer at the Dominion Shuttle Company.

Snow Lake Boasts One Woman Settler

The Pas, Man. (CP) — According to the best pioneer tradition, the little woman arrives at the new frontier soon after her husband if not with him. Mrs. Sidney Teale, first woman resident of the mining camp settlement at Snow Lake in northern Manitoba, believes in upholding traditions.

Her arrival in the province's youngest community will doubtless be recorded some day as a turning point in its history. She shares with her camp manager husband a 14 by 22-foot cabin, one of eight which have been erected to house the 50 men who are working on the mining site.

Coincident with her settling there was the release of provincial government maps showing the future townsite laid out in blue-print streets and avenues. Other than the cabins there are no buildings in the district. A shack once occupied by Chris Parras, prospector who discovered the lode, is the town's oldest and most respected building.

The layout of the projected townsite is as modern as the day after tomorrow. Some 65 residential lots stretch from the present camp settlement along the shore of Snow Lake. Behind these are the business sites. Other residential lots line a curving driveway of the business blocks. Further inland will be the mine buildings.

The planning of the town is under the supervision and control of the Manitoba government, which is building a road to Snow Lake with the assistance of the federal government. The mine is not expected to produce for two years.

More accidents occur in the kitchen than in any other room in the house. Included, perhaps, are instances of cakes falling in the oven.

The Late Mrs. J. H. Sarrazin

In the recent passing of Mrs. Joseph Sarrazin, this community has suffered a severe loss. Her home in the past was a sanctuary for numerous residents who were sick, and she was a faithful nurse to many others in time of ill health and suffering. She will likewise be long remembered for her kindly hospitality.

The late Mrs. Sarrazin was born in L'Orignal, Ont., the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Aubin. Her husband, a builder and carpenter by trade, predeceased her a few years ago.

There remain three sons, John, of Rosemount, Fred, of Vankleek Hill, and Victor, at home; three daughters, Bella (Mrs. Poirier) with whom the deceased had resided for the past few years, and who cared for her mother in her long illness; Delphs, of Vankleek Hill, and Marguerite, also in Ontario; besides her sisters and brothers, and a number of grandchildren.

The funeral service, held in the Roman Catholic Church of this village, was largely attended.

WEEKLY BUSINESS REVIEW

Lachute - Brownsburg Business and Trades Directory

The value of the home-town weekly is measured not in terms of sensationalism, nor in the volume of its contents. It is counted as a reliable informant on the community's progress, and a purveyor of its news — accurate, yet considerate; truthful, yet fair; constructive in its criticisms.

And sharing the same respect and sentiment with its readers, are the local advertisers — men who quickly recognize this avenue of contact with the homes and consumers of the neighborhood.

— To readers in the Lachute, Brownsburg and St. Philippe trading area, The Watchman recommends the merchants and tradesmen listed on this page.

New Sales Centre for Farm Equipment Seems Justifying The Optimism of Its Partners

The largest business property and most spacious showroom were added to the commercial assets of Main Street within the past year — the Albright & MacAdam establishment having started operations here this spring. Theirs was a venture born of high optimism — for obstacles to building construction were formidable, costs were high, and the manufacture of farm equipment (in which they were starting business) was resuming but slowly and uncertainly, to meet the backlog of civilian orders.

Since their opening, the outlook for Messrs. Ewen W. Albright and Ross MacAdam has taken an encouraging turn. They had orders enough to ensure their immediate success, but for months they shared the handicap of similar dealerships—lack of things to sell. Today, however, they have an assortment of farm machinery to indicate, with no uncertainty, that things are coming back.

Massey-Harris — familiar as the name may be — is a trademark appearing on a wider variety of farm machines than is generally realized. As an example, the following lines are on hand and available right now at Albright & MacAdam Reg'd — milking machines, separators, gasoline motors, grain binders, plows, potato diggers, root choppers, horse hoes, fertilizer-sowers, etc. The firm was also fortunate in having equipment in time for the haying season; they hope shortly to receive a number of farm tractors, and their supplies from now on should be well ahead of seasonal demands among the farmers. In addition they have binder knives and replacement parts; they give service and repairs on all Massey-Harris machinery, and have a mechanic conveniently at hand, in the shop maintained by E. W. Jackson in the same building.

An interesting exhibit in the Albright & MacAdam showroom at this time is a domestic "quick freezer", a streamlined cabinet refrigerator of special design for truck farmers, market gardeners, dairymen, fruit growers, or for households on the larger scale. In the descriptive literature, home freezing is termed "a new solution to the old problem of food storage".

Also among their star performers at present, the proprietors are displaying the 1947 Studebaker Coach. Post-war streamlining in this car attracts instant attention, and hundreds of spectators have viewed it with an approving eye. Messrs. Albright & MacAdam state they are "confidently expecting" three more models for delivery this month.

Local Electric Firm Welcomes Lifting of Controls, Looks for Increasing Supply of Materials

The sure, steady growth of any business is proof enough that it has merited public satisfaction. . . . In the case of Lachute Electric Reg'd, whose services are in demand by so many householders and business folk, builders and contractors — the fact is obvious that good workmanship has brought increasing business. Aimé Pregent, who started this concern in a modest way, now has a crew of helpers. His only apology is that, in the past few years, curtailment of material and lack of competent help have made it difficult to give such prompt service as he would desire. But things are fast improving, both in supplies and manpower.

In the matter of supplies (although there are some lines still annoyingly scarce) the improvement is very apparent in his store and showroom, which is truly a bright and cheery scene, exhibiting lamps, fixtures, heaters, toasters, irons — even to ranges, radios and refrigerators, those gadgets which have been most painfully missing in the recent years.

Aimé Pregent deserves some credit for his wide-awake showmanship at this establishment on Bethany Street — for his long hours on wiring and installation jobs, all over Argenteuil and the neighboring counties, have left little time to develop the sales end of the business.

Some time ago the proprietor linked up with Jas. D. McOuat in the firm of Farmers' Electric Supply Reg'd, and he has literally "learned about farming" from his partner in this venture. Together they have sold, installed and are servicing a number of dairy units — milking machines, coolers, etc.

Interesting products for which Lachute Electric Reg'd are agents, include — Stewart-Warner radios, Kelvinator refrigerators, Coffield washing machines and many electric appliances. Neon Signs and fluorescent lights have been in notable demand since the relaxing of wartime controls, and Mr. Pregent has filled many substantial orders in these lines.

Hints for Homebodies

By Jessie Allen Brown

CANADIAN WOMEN'S PRESS CLUB

The Canadian Women's Press Club had its triennial meeting in Windsor, Ontario, this year. Actually it was four years since a meeting had been held. Last year, just a week or so before the triennial was to have been held in Quebec, the Government asked that all meetings be cancelled to facilitate home-coming troop movements. The craft talks send you home full of inspiration and ambition. It is always a pleasure to meet women from all across Canada, to greet old friends and to make new ones. We were very fortunate in having Viscount and Lady Alexander at one dinner, and Premier and Mrs. Drew at another. Viscount Alexander spoke very suitably on The Press in War Time and he was an interesting speaker. Premier Drew can always be counted on to make a good speech and this one was no exception. Both men are very fortunate in having such good-looking and charming wives. It is to be hoped that the next Premier of Canada will be a married man. Men need a woman's viewpoint and we have had two Premiers who have been bachelors. Getting back to the Press Club, it is one which gets little publicity as the members do not publicize themselves, but many outstanding women are among its members. Winnifred Stokes of the Niagara Falls Review is the new President.

PORTIA WHITE

Portia White sang at the Women's Press Club dinner, at which Viscount and Lady Alexander were guests. She has a beautiful voice which is richer and mellower every time one hears it. Some years ago, probably about nine, when we were living in Halifax, I heard a young colored girl sing at a Music Festival. Her voice was so lovely and had so much promise that her name was impressed on my memory. That name was Portia White. Canada may well be proud of her and the rest of Canada may thank some native Nova Scotians and the Nova Scotian Government for taking an interest in her and making it possible for her to study and to further her concert work. We hear her more frequently over the radio than personally; good as she is on the radio she is much nicer when you see her as she has a very charming and gracious manner, and a delightful stage presence.

STORING ICE CREAM

When ice cream is stored in a refrigerator tray for any length of time crystals will form on the surface. This may be prevented by covering the ice cream with waxed paper. A tray of ice cream, either home-made or purchased is a convenient thing to have on hand in hot weather. Several friends dropped in the other day and there was not enough ice cream to go around, so I served ginger ale and orange pop and added a little ice cream to each glass. It brought out the oh's and ah's every hostess likes to hear.

CANNING NOTES

The dietitians of the Canadian Department of Agriculture have done a lot of experimental work in canning during the War years, and they have changed methods in several ways because of this work. One change has been in the filling of jars. We were always taught that jars should be filled to overflowing, now they find that results are better if ¼ inch space is left at the top. Jars used always to be inverted but it has been found that this air-space at the top helps to keep the fruit. Jar rings should never be tightened after they have cooled as this may break the seal. Food is too precious to be wasted and when we can, we all want to have the very best results.

RENNET ICE CREAM

1 Rennet tablet, 1 tablespoon of cold water, 2 cups cream, ½ cup granulated sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ teaspoon almond extract.

Crush the rennet tablet and dissolve in cold water. Mix the remaining ingredients and heat to luke-warm — a little dropped on the inside of the wrist should feel the same temperature as the skin. Remove from the heat and stir in the dissolved rennet quickly. Pour into the freezing tray and let stand at room temperature until set, about 10 minutes. Freeze until firm. Turn into a chilled bowl and beat until smooth with a rotary beater or an electric mixer. Return to the refrigerator and freeze until smooth.

PICKLED BEETS

1 quart cider vinegar, 2 cups of water, 4 cups white sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon each cloves, cinnamon, allspice and ginger.

Cook beets until tender in salted water. Skin. Leave small beets whole, but if large they may be sliced. Pack in sterilized jars and cover with the above mixture which has been brought to the boil.

Story Time

Thousands of young Canadians gather by their radios on Monday afternoons, because that's when Jo Barrington, the once-upon-a-time lady, tells them stories from the Magic Book. Most of the time Miss Barrington's stories come from Vancouver but right now she is in Toronto, so she brought her book with her and you may hear her "Story Time" next, on Monday, August 12 at 5.30 p.m.

A Long, Cold Drink

Everybody feels the need for long, cold drinks during the summer. The longer and the colder they are, the, better. Someone once remarked that she felt dehydrated by the heat, which is exactly what happens, and the only way to feel rehydrated is by drinking lots of water or other cold beverages.

A good habit, and a great time and sugar saver, is to have a jar or ready-made syrup in the icebox for use at a moment's notice. It saves time and, what is more important these days, sugar, since quite often when sugar is added to a cold drink, a good portion of it does not dissolve and is lost. The syrup is made in the proportion of 1 cup of water to 1 cup of sugar, brought to the boiling point, skimmed and stored in a covered glass jar in the icebox. Any syrup or fruit juice left over after canning may also be used.

Simple cold drinks like lemonade or orangeade are very much improved by the addition of a few fresh berries or berry juice. The juice of seasonal berries may be used to make cold, appealing summer drinks. Cold drinks that are also nourishing may be prepared with milk, and children who do not like milk alone may like it if it is disguised with another flavor.

The Consumer Section of the Department of Agriculture suggests a few recipes for cold drinks.

Blueberry Quench

1 Cup blueberries, 1 cup boiling water, ½ cup sugar, few grains salt, 1 orange juice and grated rind, 1 lemon juice and grated rind, 3 cups cold water.

Pour boiling water over blueberries. Add grated orange and lemon rind and simmer slowly for 5 minutes. Press through a sieve. Add sugar and salt and stir well. Add orange and lemon juice. Cool. Before serving add 3 cups of cold water. Six Servings.

Peanut Butter Shake

¼ Cup peanut butter, 2 tablespoons honey or sugar, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 3 cups of milk.

Place peanut butter, honey or sugar and salt in a bowl with ½ cup of milk. Beat with rotary beater until smooth. Add the remaining 2½ cups of milk with vanilla and beat well before serving. Serves 4 - 5.

Banana Shake

2 Large ripe bananas, (1 cup mashed), 1 to 2 teaspoons honey or sugar, 3 cups milk, ¼ teaspoon vanilla, ⅛ teaspoon salt.

Mash bananas with a fork until smooth. Add to the milk and mix thoroughly with rotary beater until well blended. Add honey or sugar, salt and vanilla, and shake well before serving.

Serves 4 to 5

Raspberry Egg-Nog

2 Eggs, 1 cup raspberry juice, 1 cup milk, 2 tablespoons honey or sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon nutmeg.

Crush 2 cups of respberries with ½ cup of water, bring to the boil and boil for 2 to 3 minutes. Drain through a moist jelly bag, add water to make a cup of juice. Beat eggs with salt and honey or sugar until light. Add milk, raspberry juice and nutmeg, and beat well with rotary beater. Chill well before serving. Serves 3-4.

Note — other unsweetened fruit juices may be used instead of raspberry juice. If sweet fruit juice is used, reduce honey or sugar.

FORMER AIRMAN WASHES DIAPERS

Predicts Large Market for His Delivery Service

Montreal (CP) — From the workshops of a heavy transport squadron to keeping babies supplied with diapers may seem a far cry but to 30-year-old Abe Steinberg, former member of the Royal Canadian Air Force, it's quite normal, if harrowing, process of rehabilitation.

The new firm — The Wee-Folks Sterilized Diaper Service — now has been organized and Abe and a partner figure they can swing the business.

They intend to supply each customer with seven dozen diapers at the start, charging $1.50 a week for twice-a-week pick up and delivery service. Abe spent a month in Chicago studying all the angles and he figures that this is a comfortable supply. He says there are some 15 diaper service companies in Chicago and all are doing well.

The partners had trouble at first finding a location and several places had to be given up as residents of certain neighborhoods objected to the idea of diapers being washed in such great quantities near their homes.

However, a satisfactory site was found, the necessary permit secured, vehicle and telephone service problems sorted out and now they are all set.

Records at the Department of Veterans' Affairs show that more than 1,600 veterans in this district now are engaged in their own business.

Slendor tablets are effective, 2 weeks' supply $1; 12 weeks $5, at — Harbour Drugstore. (Advt.)

The widow and mourners at a recent funeral at Sparta, New Jersey, were asked by a friend to repair to her house for coffee and cake. Just before the cake was to be served, the lady went to the kitchen to inspect — just in time. Charlie Wing, the Chinese cook, was about to appear bearing a masterpiece of a cake — a huge four decker, white-iced and decorated on top with a large chocolate coffin on which he had etched in white a nice dramatic skeleton.

Cropped Children Barbers' Victims

YORKTON, Sask. (CP) — As S. L. Kreen sees it, almost everything has changed in the barber business except the razor — he's still using the same one he used as a barber's apprentice in Vienna 50 years ago.

In those days, he recalls, a man sat up to be shaved. There were no cups for the shaving soap and the barber used a leather dish which fitted around the customer's face. When the shave was complete another dish was fitted around the neck containing water to remove the soap.

In those days too, barbers used a feather powder puff and for lotions, a spraylike perfume atomizer. Barbers came up the hard way then. Kreen says he remembers bringing in "kids off the street to practice on." And if "you made a mess of their hair, you just cut it off altogether and let it go at that."

Colonel Roane Waring, of Memphis, Tennessee, relates one about the habitual offender who asked the judge to postpone his trial because his lawyer was ill.

"But," the judge said, "what difference can that make? You were caught red-handed. What can your lawyer say in your defense?"

"I don't know," replied the prisoner. "That's why I want it postponed — so we can hear what he's got to say for himself."

Boy Scouts The World Over

The Boy Scouts of America have launched a "Shirts-off-your-Back" campaign to provide uniforms and Scout equipment for the Scouts of the former occupied countries.

Three thousand Scoutmasters attended the first post-war conference of the General Assembly of the Czecho-slovak Boy Scouts Association in Prague. A resolution of greetings was sent to the International Bureau.

Ing. Ove Holm has been named the Chief Scout of the Det Danske Spejderkorps, the Boy Scouts of Denmark.

The Scouts de France recently celebrated the 25th anniversary of their formation with two great rallies, one for Scout leaders and one for Scouts and their parents. General Lafont, Chief Scout of France, attended both gatherings.

Dr. Paolo Savini has been appointed International Commissioner of the Corpo Nazionale Giovani Exploratori Italiani — the Boy Scouts of Italy. Despite the fact that Boy Scouts were banned by Mussolini in 1927, Dr. Savini attended the International Jamboree in England in 1929.

The new Chief Scout for Norway is Birger Brekke, who as a boy was a pupil of H. Moller Gasmann, the former Chief Scout. He was ordained a minister in 1918 and for four years was general secretary of the Boy Scout Movement in Norway.

The Scout Centre at Kandersteg in Switzerland, which is open to Scouts of all the world, has reopened and will be visited by hundreds of Scouts this year. Eleven Canadian Rover Scouts attended the World Rover Scout Meet at Kandersteg in 1931.

Cooling Thought – Talk of Hockey

"Sports Camera"

By FRED KERNER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Summer keeps the mercury soaring high, but one may still keep cool with pleasant thoughts of hockey. And there is plenty of puck-talk to keep tongues wagging until it's time for the hockey teams to go into fall training. Primarily there are the rule changes, and following close behind, the rebuilding of New York Rangers.

The amendments and abrogations to the rule book are minor but there is much feeling that all will be welcomed by the players and — most important — the customers. The changes include: penalizing the goalie for intentionally hanging on to the puck to force a face-off; permission for a player to continue in the play after his stick is broken; continuance of play despite spectator interference; increase in the number of men a team may dress, and clarification of the tripping penalty making the hook check illegal.

Coaches are happiest about being able to dress 15 players in addition to the netminder. This will give the mentors a chance to juggle the front lines more freely. As to the new broken stick rule, the feeling is that it's penalty enough if a player's stick is smashed without him having to spend about half-a minute skating over to get a new one.

There's no doubt that a player losing his stick can be of some use to his team without running afoul of the regulations. The ruling may prevent such occurrences as happened last year when the Rangers dropped a hard-fought tilt to Montreal Canadians when two of their players has sticks broken at the same instant.

* * *

Meanwhile the midsummer trade winds are blowing in the N.H.L. Boston Bruins effectively plugged the gap in their defence caused by Coach Dit Clapper's retirement as a player by obtaining boisterous Babe Pratt from Toronto Maple Leafs.

Pratt, one of the few outstanding individualists left in the game had his differences with the Toronto management and with league officials off the ice, but unquestionably sparked the Leafs through several lean years with his aggressive style of play, and should have at least a couple of good seasons left.

New York Rangers acquired a couple of veterans to bolster their weak defence in Bill (Flash) Hollett of Detroit Red Wings and Joe Cooper, whom they traded to Chicago Black Hawks several years back. Both men have pessed their peak but they may help to keep down some of those astronomical scores that were piled up against the cellar-dwelling Rangers in the last few seasons.

* * *

It looks as though Buffalo puck fans have been invading the ball park in droves. Boisterous customers tried bottle-throwing tactics at the ball park, but Prexy Frank (Shag) Shaughnessy of the International League will not stand for it. He has laid down the law that unless the Buffalo club sees that prompt arrests are made after the pop-bottles are tossed, the home teams will forfeit the game.

After all, umpires' skulls are fragile.

His Royal Highness, Prince Gustaf Adolf of Sweden, is Honorary President of the International Committee of World Scouting.

It is a year since the war's end and there no longer exists in Canada a state of emergency. Citizens however, are still obliged to abide by the National Registration Act, the regulations of which we think should be abolished immediately. The Act served a purpose in wartime in guarding our internal security but is unnecessary in peacetime.

Rotary Carnival Draws Wide Public Support -- Second Annual Event at Brownsb'g Has Successful Outcome

Enthusiasm for Big Community Effort Adds Silver Lining to Clouded Skies

Brownsburg — Thanks to the gracious support of Lachute, Brownsburg and district — as well as a grin from the weatherman — the Rotary Club's second annual Carnival, in aid of community welfare, proved a successful venture. On Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week, in spite of discouraging skies, MacVicar's field, the site of the Carnival, saw much activity.

Darts was the favorite game of returned men, who showed great skill after years of practice overseas. . The fish pond and sand toss were popular with the kiddies. . The nylon booth needs little mention. It was soon depleted of stockings and refilled with chocoates. . Games of skill and entertainment fitted in well with the merriment of the crowd, while bingo was as much patronized as ever.

Movies were shown briefly on Thursday night, but due to the unfavorable outdoor conditions, were moved indoors for the following two afternoons. Several hundred children were treated to a free two-hour movie at the Protestant school on Friday afternoon, and a similar crowd at the Catholic school on Saturday afternoon.

Attendance prizes were drawn each evening, the first being a large Westinghouse automatic toaster, won by Miss Hazel Fortier, of Brownsburg. Mrs. Robert J. Foley, of Halifax, N.S., a Brownsburg visitor, won a table lamp the following night.

The bean jar guess was won by Gerald Izzard of Brownsburg with 2084, the correct number being 2087. He chose a beautiful Samson automatic electric iron as his prize.

Climax of the Carnival was the drawing of the handsome Westinghouse electric refrigerator on Saturday night. . Following a few words of thanks by Rotary President Harris Sherwood, to the public who had so kindly supported both the draw and the Carnival (a sentiment repeated in French by Lomer Carriere) — a well known businessman and past mayor of Brownsburg, Hector Pariseau, was asked to make the draw. Mrs. M. G. Tucker, of Dixie, Lachine, Que., was the lucky person. She was notified by telegraph, and telephoned her thanks the next day, stating that they were moving into a new house and had it all furnished except for a refrigerator. Mrs. Tucker learned of the Rotary draw while visiting relatives in Lachute.

Much credit for the success of this venture goes to the Carnival chairman, Norman Somers.

In addition to the support given by the public, who are sympathetic with the good work which is being done in the community, the Club was assisted by citizens too numerous to mention, both on construction and operational work.

The thanks of the club go out to these people, and assurance that the money will be well spent on needy and worthwhile projects among the youth of the community.

No 'Polio' Cases Confirmed in This County

Questioned on the polio epidemic and possible infection in this county, Dr. L. Turcotte, health officer for Argenteuil, stated last night there had been positively no cases of the dread disease reported among the residents. Physicians in the district appear to be having numerous calls from parents suspecting symptoms of polio in their children, but all such instances to date have been "false alarms".

Concern was felt here over a radio report that one case had developed in Brownsburg. Dr. Turcotte explains this was an adult taken to hospital in Montreal evidencing certain symptoms of the malady, but no form of paralysis. Subsequent examinations and tests failed to reveal any trace of poliomyelitis. . In another instance, a child arriving from the city at a resort in this district, showed suspicious symptoms, and was immediately removed to an isolation hospital in Montreal. No report on this case has come through to the county health centre, and in consequence there is no evidence whatever to confirm any instance of infection in this area.

Mill Employees Stage Walk-Out

In protest over the dismissal of of a young employee in the carding department, mill workers at Ayers Limited walked out this week, to the extent that on Wednesday morning all but about 60 employees had ceased work.

Reportedly with no legal vote or procedure, 19 employees quit work on Monday. Another group followed suit on Tuesday morning at 9.30 o'clock, and were joined at 4 o'clock that afternoon by other workers. On Wednesday morning a total of around 500 employees were on strike — all of whom returned to the plant at noon yesterday.

Golf Club Dance

Over 450 persons attended the benefit dance at Lachute Golf Club chalet last Saturday. Stan Wood and his musicians furnished lively accompaniment for the dancing. Among the gathering were many of the younger citizenry, including ex-service personnel, and also a number of visitors from Montreal. An enjoyable evening was reported.

The affair, sponsored by the Golf Club in aid of the local Red Cross swimming pool project, netted approximatey $300 for this purpose.

TOURISTS WANTED

Jasper, Alta. (CP)—This summer vacation land is looking for tourists. Jasper businessmen say business is good but could be better, and there are rooms available in many hotels and tourist camps.

Moscow Arrival

Waldo Ruess, 36-year-old U.S. foreign service employee, arrives in New York. For two years a member of the U.S. embassy staff in Moscow, he was confined to the embassy grounds for two months, five days — for "certain indiscretions." When questioned he maintained a diplomatic silence on whether his detention was linked with arrest of Nikolai Redin, Soviet naval officer, on spy charges in Seattle, but indicated that he was a "guinea pig" in politics revolving around the principle of diplomatic immunity in Russia.

HEROISM DISPLAYED IN NEAR-DROWNING

The saving from drowning of two brothers and a male companion at Plage Laval last Wednesday afternoon is credited to 19-year-old Douglas Hogan, of St. Eustache.

Hogan was said to have shied away from the scene after saving the three persons and no one could find him.

The two brothers, Reynald and Fernand Gariepy, 24 and 22 years old, respectively, of Montreal, and a friend, Adrien Barette, 23, who owns a summer camp at Plage Laval, decided to travel in a rowboat to a beach across the Mille Iles River. The boat suddenly swerved in the fast current and its three occupants, becoming frightened, jumped into the water and swam towards shore.

Exhausted, the trio held onto some rocks for a spell. Their hands and knees bleeding, they were giving up, when Hogan, after seeing them fighting in the current, dived into the surging waters and swam for Reynald Gariepy. He brought him back to shore safely.

Some people who had seen the rescue, helped to bring in Fernand Gariepy and Barette.

Lightning Struck Avoca Residence

(Our District Correspondent)

Avoca — During the severe thunderstorm last Friday night, lightning hit the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Karr, knocking a large piece of cement from the basement in the kitchen, showering fragments all over the room. Fortunately no fire started, nor were the occupants injured. . . No other damage in this vicinity was reported.

Lake View Man, Veteran of 2 Wars, Killed by Truck

On what is known as the Senator White road, a short cut on Route 31 from Lake View to Batesville, Allen Colquhoun, 48-year-old veteran of the two World Wars, was killed by a heavy truck Monday evening around 7.30 o'clock. An inquest was held Tuesday, Dr. Jules Lafleur of Lachute, district coroner, presiding, and the jurors, residents from Arundel, Huberdeau and district, gave a verdict of accidental death, attaching no blame.

Colquhoun, who owns a farm in the Lake View neighborhood, was in the centre of the highway conversing with two friends — Ken Dewar, local resident, and Alex Campbell, of Port Arthur, Ont. — who had halted their small ½-ton truck at the side of the highway. Approaching from the rear, Francis H. Craig, Grenville Bay, stopped with his heavy truck and full load of logs to pass the three men. As he came level with them, Colquhoun stepped on the running board of the truck for a friendly word with the driver, then dismounted as the latter was in a hurry to proceed. Craig gave evidence at the inquest that the victim disappeared from his view; he believed he had gone to the side of the road and was clear of the truck. It transpired, however, that the victim was standing close to the ½-ton vehicle, believing there was sufficient clearance between the two. Colquhoun was hit by the cab, falling beneath the double rear wheels of the lumber truck, and was crushed about the chest, meeting almost instant death.

The inquest was held at his home nearby. Officer Albert Legault, traffic patrolman of Brownsburg, and Sgt. Det. Albert Oggier, of Montreal detective headquarters, investigated the tragedy.

Allen Colquhoun was the father of three children. He was well liked in the community.

Gore Township to Honor Servicemen

Plans for a public recognition to veterans returned from war service, will materialize in the Township of Gore on Saturday, with a reception and presentation to be held in the Gibb Parish Hall, Lakefield.

Mayor Lorne Dawson will preside, and a total of 19 returned servicemen will be guests of honor, each receiving the gift of a watch as testimony of the community's gratitude.

By way of entertainment, Eaton's Masquers, a troop show with a creditable war record both in Canada and overseas, will present a colorful program. Refreshments will be served during the evening.

Coventry Preacher To Visit Arundel

Familiar with 'Coventry Scheme' for Inter-Denominational Christian Centre

Arundel, Que. — A prominent church leader from England, the Rev. Gilbert Cope, Vicar of St. Thomas' Church, Coventry, will be the speaker at a public meeting at Grace Church, Arundel, on Thursday, August 22.

The city of Coventry was much in the news during the war, being the first English city to suffer a "total blitz", and to suffer the complete destruction of its famous Cathedral. The plans for re-building this Anglican Cathedral include a building for the use of Christians of all denominations, and under the "Coventry scheme" a Canadian minister, the Rev. H. Short of Toronto, has been asked to represent Canada there for a year. Another feature of the plan for the new Cathedral is the restoration of the altar to its primitive position in the centre of the church.

Mr. Cope is a Master of Science of Birmingham University and also a graduate of Oxford University in Theology. He is secretary of the Coventry Council of Churches, and while not officially connected with the Coventry Cathedral scheme, is quite familiar with the plans.

Mr. Cope is visiting Arundel as the leader of the annual Arundel Conference on Christian Social Action, being held during the week, at the home of Dr. J. C. Flanagan at Beaven's Lake.

Fred McGraw, Farnsworth, Ont., district farmer, lost 13 head of cattle gathered under a group of trees when a bolt of lightning struck. . . Lionel Codette, in the attic, fell through the ceiling of his father's store at Hodgeville, Sask., landed smack into ripe bananas, wasn't hurt. . . At Wildwood, B.C., Jack Barnham wondered how lights in the barn were on, found his smart cow, Blondie, slipped her head out of stanchion, backed out of stall, switched on electric light, got into the mash. . Mounties finally got John Ninowsky on a charge of shooting with intent to murder, dated Feb. 12, 1934; had preliminary hearing at Melville, Sask., 12 years later. . David Fotheringham, owner of a funeral home at Watrous, Sask., had two engagements for funerals at Humbolt, went to the garage for hearse, found it had been stolen by a young man who had radiator trouble on the road and then had kindly hired a farmer to tow the hearse back to town; RCMP took the lad in tow later, too. . George E. Wise, Collings Bay, Ont., merchant, thinks Smiths Falls people are really honest; lost pouch with $1360 in cash and cheques on road, found by William Giff, who turned it over to police. . W. G. Scott of Clearview, Alta., caught a banded Pintail duck which Washington, D.C., service claims was banded in Feb. 1934. . From the Springhill (N.S.) Our visitor said he had to watch carefully lest he become a target instead of the sidewalk."

St. Andrews East — A congregational reception and miscellaneous shower was held in the United Church hall Saturday evening, August 10, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Charles De Witt and Mr. and Mrs. V. Lloyd Lilly.

After the introductions (Mrs. DeWitt and Mrs. Lilly, recently arrived from overseas), community singing and contests were led by Mrs. Nickerson. Then to the strains of the traditional Wedding March played by Miss A. L. Wales, a charming little bride, impersonated by Beatrice Taylor, and a dapper juvenile groom, George Taylor, entered the room and approached the guests of honor. It was here noticed the groom was drawing a boy's express cart, camouflaged with crepe paper and loaded with prettily wrapped parcels. Two pretty girl attendants, Heather Rodger and Beverley Robinson, bore armfuls of gifts which they deposited on a table near the brides.

After inspection of the shower gifts and nicely expressed thanks of the recipients, buffet refreshments were served. Mrs. K. R. de la Ronde pour the tea and Mrs. E. Charman the coffee. The long table was decorated with variegated sweet peas and tall tapers.

Welcome to English Guest Extended by Church Ladies' Group

(Our District Correspondent)

St. Andrews East — Mrs. Geo. Rodger, Jr., was hostess to the Women's League of the Presbyterian Church on Wednesday, August 10.

After the business session, the Rev. Dr. Wm. MacMillan spoke words of welcome and expressed the good wishes of himself and members of the League to the guest of honor, Mrs. Daniel Bryson, who with her two small daughters, Eileen and Susan, arrived a short time ago from England to join her husband. Then members of the League entered bearing a large, decorated basket filled with miscellaneous gifts for Mrs. Bryson and children.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Rodger, assisted by other members.

Farmers Take to Air to Attend Field Day

More than 500 flying farmers from Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and Indiana, left their tractors and combines to fly to Indiana in their own planes to attend the first annual flying farmers' field day of Purdue university, and to prove that the airplane will play an important part in agriculture. The new group, which has 1,056 members, watched demonstrations in crop dusting, aerial seeding, and fertilizing by plane. Photo shows some of the planes lined up on the Perdue-Lafayette air field.

'Swimming - Water Safety' Project Of Red Cross Receives Initial Boost With Benefit Dance at Golf Club

Tentative Plan to Have Swimming Pool As Local Adaptation of National Aim

One of the major peacetime projects of the Red Cross Society, in the interests of "swimming and water safety", has received initial impetus in this community—inasmuch as there is now a definite fund upon which to concentrate and formulate plans. Proceeds from the Lachute Golf Club dance held Saturday evening are to form the nucleus of the fund; net receipts from this affair amounted to around $300.

Tentatively, the Red Cross "swimming pool project" — according to Mrs. George McGibbon, president of the branch — is Lachute's adaptation of this national drive. The need of a swimming pool here is considered logical and imperative, if we are to teach swimming under sanitary and safe conditions to our younger citizens. The site, scope and facilities of the pool are matters for wider discussion, but the newly established fund is at least a cornerstone on which to enlarge the project.

On the part of the Red Cross, it is felt this program calls for wide community resources. It is too large an undertaking for the Red Cross alone. If, however, all organizations and service clubs work together toward this end, studying the need and planning to meet it—it is conceivable that by next season the venture may have a practical groundwork and financial backing sufficient to warrant its progress.

* * *

In a larger field, the Quebec Division of Canadian Red Cross has made notable advances in the scheme. . Leadership courses for instructors in swimming and life saving have been held this season, and after completion of the first such course, over 200 instructors returned to their localities equipped to render valuable public service.

The appalling loss of lives through drowning each year incited the Red Cross Society to launch this campaign — to promote a better knowledge of swimming and water safety, and to organize classes for boys and girls from eight to 18 years of age. It was felt that widespread use of a standardized method of teaching swimming and water safety might have prevented a high percentage of the more than one thousand drownings in Canada last year. Of this number, almost 300 drownings occurred in Quebec province. In view of the short swimming season — practically limited to the months of July and August — this is an appalling figure, and calls for quick action. Statistics reveal that the majority of persons living on lakes, rivers and on the seashore do not know how to swim; it is even more surprising to realize that in cities like Montreal, Quebec, Three Rivers, where swimming pools are open the year round and where children are offered every opportunity to learn to swim, only one out of ten can qualify.

As far back as 1939, the Canadian Red Cross had contemplated a swimming and water safety program, but the war broke out and it was not until September of last year that it was possible to put it into effect. The Society is anxious to reach the children in rural areas and smaller communities, where there generally exist no organizations, no opportunities to teach children how to be safe in water.

Candidates to the Society's leadership course for instructors were nominated by organizations, colleges, schools and Red Cross branches from Gaspe to the Eastern Townships. The majority were French-speaking — 75 per cent — and of the total number about one-fourth were girls. In outlining the program, the directors pointed out that the course is not primarily concerned with life-saving, but will concentrate on uniform methods of swimming and water safety.

Dr. A. T. Bazin is chairman of the Swimming and Water Safety Committee in this province; the National Director is Dr. Harvey Doney, of Toronto.

Aimed toward preventing the large annual toll of deaths through drowning, the project also has the second object of promoting physical development and clean sport. Upon completion of the course, the boys and girls should be able to swim strongly and easily over long distances, and in cases of emergency, they should be able to swim in place, tread water, or stay afloat with little expenditure of effort; to swim in still water, in choppy water, in swells, in currents and in the surf. In general, the skills will enable the pupils to swim easily and effectively, whether for recreation or in cases of emergency.

The Red Cross hopes to make Canadians in every part of the Dominion acutely aware of the importance of learning how to swim.

* * *

In this long-term undertaking therefore, it is seen that the "swimming pool project" of this community will have a definite place. There have been ample instances of its need, through drownings in this locality, but to what extent it will develop depends on the interest of other groups — the churches, women's organizations, service clubs and civic bodies of Lachute.

Joint conveners of the water safety committee in the local Red Cross are Mrs. G. F. Calder and Mrs. W. M. Cottingham.

Mayor Urges Civic Interest in Loan Referendum

The civic vote in progress today and tomorrow, to authorize flotation of a $35,000 Lachute Corporation loan for street paving, has been well publicized. In addition to advertising the referendum, and advising new property owners (who are numerous in this town) to fyle their names for the voting list, a circular letter in French and English was issued by Mayor Leopold Carriere early in the week, to give more explicit details of the loan and its purpose.

Public approval of this measure (By-law No. 171) will require a majority vote of proprietors and also a majority in property valuation. To provide for a secret ballot recording such information, the method of voting is somewhat more complex than usual — a ballot being furnished to the voter for his opinion "yes" or "no", and several additional ballots of thousand or hundred dollar denominations equivalent to the valuation of his property. The "yes" or "no" are similarly recorded on each of these ballot forms.

Voting will continue tomorrow; and if necessary, on order of the mayor it may even be continued through Saturday.

Mayor Carriere's letter states, in part :

"For many years citizens of Lachute have been complaining, with reason, about the bad state of the streets. Owing to wartime restrictions, the Council was unable to cope with the problem and it is only since the end of the war that the question could be faced.

"The Roads Department has decided to undertake on its own account the paving of Bedard Boulevard, Millway and Hamford Streets. I take the opportunity to express publicly to the Honorable Minister of Roads my most sincere thanks for his generosity towards the population of Lachute, and also to inform the ratepayers there are indications that this act of generosity may be repeated, providing the Town does its share by executing the work projected in the present By-law.

"The Council, being relieved of these streets, will have to look after other streets, and it is for this purpose that By-law No. 171 is submitted for your approval or rejection. . . The streets to be paved will be chosen in the three Wards of Lachute. The Council is to undertake the work by contract. It is our intention, if approval is granted, to start the work as soon as possible.

"The loan is for 12 years, and it will cost approximately $3,500 per year to meet both principal and interest until maturity. The money is available at 3% per annum, and the By-law will not call for tax increase."

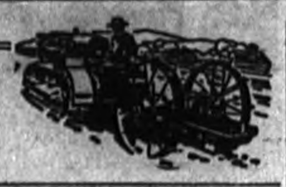

TROUBLE WITH SCHOOLS

The trouble with the schools today is that the teachers are afraid of the principals; the principals are afraid of the superintendent; the superintendent is afraid of the school board; the school board is afraid of the parents; the parents are afraid of the children; and the children are afraid of nobody.

Britons urged to Develop Silage Crops

Would Offset Threatened Animal Feed Shortage

London (CP) — British farmers are being asked to follow the example of Canadian and United States dairy farms and make greater use of silage to compensate in part for reduced supplies of feeding stuffs this winter.

The agriculture ministry is drawing attention to a publication, "Milk in North America," published by the Stationery Office. It contains the findings of a British delegation which toured eastern Canadian and United States dairy farms.

The delegation noted that on every North American dairy farm the silo was a piece of standard equipment and was used extensively. Silage-making has fallen off in the United Kingdom in recent years, possibly due to labor shortages.

The ministry suggested farmers sow crops like turnips, rye or barley for fall or winter harvesting and as silage, and also plan catch crops to be sown after arable silage crops have been gathered.

Well-grown kale or cabbage transplants have been found to yield well after an arable hay crop, it said.

How Much Water Does a Cow Need?

Veterinary authorities state that for the highest production of milk the importance of a continuous supply of drinking water for the cows cannot be over-estimated. Experiments in Canada, United States, Britain and other countries have shown that milk production was higher from cattle with water available to them throughout the day, than from cattle which had access to water only once or twice a day.

It is estimated that the average cow needs 10 to 15 gallons of water per day. High producing cattle such as those producing, say, 10 gallons of milk per day, may consume up to 30 gallons of water per day. Where dry feed, such as hay or chaff and concentrates, is being fed, the cows would take 10 to 15 gallons of water as such. However, where the cows are on pasture and quantities up to 130 pounds are known to be eaten, water would be taken in smaller amounts. One hundred and thirty pounds of pasture would probably contain about nine or ten gallons of water. If silage were fed, 50 pounds of that material would probably contain about 3½ gallons of water.

Valuable Tests in Swine Feeds

Among the many important lines of work carried out by the Animal Husbandry Division at Ottawa is the distribution of breeding stock to improve the live stock on Canadian farms and, at the same time, assist in advancing scientific research. Recently a considerable number of pigs were used in the testing of their dams in the Advanced Registry Policy for Swine, and at another time 16 of the Division's pigs figured in a project to determine the digestibility of various feeds. In addition, pigs were supplied to the Animal Diseases Research Institute for experimental purposes.

In an experiment with feeder pigs, the results have been made known on the relative value of protein supplements of animal and vegetable origin in the feeding of growing and finishing pigs. Protein-mineral supplements containing 65, 50, 35, and 20 per cent animal protein feeds (that is tankage and fishmeal) were compared. The remainder of each supplement was made up by a feed of vegetable origin — linseed meal. The initial results indicated practically no difference between lots in the rate of gain, feed economy, or carcass quality.

In the experiment, as repeated in the following year, the results in a general way confirmed those of the previous test. There was a slight advantage in the rate of gain and carcass quality for those pigs fed the higher percentage of animal protein, while feed economy was best in the lots where 50 per cent and 35 per cent of the protein supplement was from an animal source. The results of the two experiments indicated that up to 50 percent of a protein-mineral supplement used in hog feeding could be made up from a vegetable source such as linseed oilmeal, the remainder being tankage and fishmeal, without lowering the feeding value of the supplement or seriously influencing the rate of gain or the quality of the carcass produced.

The Garden-Graph

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Canadian

At this time of the year the requirements of rhododendrons are often overlooked. This is a mistake, for this popular evergreen shrub will repay for proper summer care given to it.

But in your eagerness to do something for rhododendrons don't make the mistake of cultivating around. Their roots stay close to the surface of the soil, and anything but the very lightest cultivation is apt to injure them.

To keep the weeds from flourishing under a planting of rhododendrons, mulch with a four-inch covering of oak leaves (if you can get them) or some other acid-type mulching material. This type of mulch also serves to preserve the moisture in the soil and keeps the roots of the plants cool. It should be kept on as a year around soil covering, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

It is also a good precaution to remove the rhododendron flowers after they have faded and shriveled, and before the seed pods are fully formed, as illustrated. Do this with a pair of scissors so as not to injure the new shoots then forming, as illustrated.

Rhodendrons prefer an acid soil. If your soil proves by test to be alkaline, it can be changed to acid by treating with aluminum sulphate, flowers of sulfur or tannic acid.

If in good health, rhododendrons do not require pruning. Frequently they do need disbudding to prevent their "blooming themselves to death." This is especially true of the hybrid types.

Rhododendrons should be transplanted in very early spring before growth begins, or in August and September.

The Economy of Using the Best

The economy of using the best possible materials is made apparent in the upkeep problem. A house or business building may be "thrown together" with cheap material, and it may "look all right," but after it has stood the shock of weather, the real test comes.

It is false economy to use poor materials — and we so advise everyone who buys from us. Our success is due to honesty in materials and prices.

Novel Contest for Young Quebeckers

An economical and educational farm contest called the "Hon. Laurent Barré Competition", open to the young folk of the farming class, is being judged today, August 15. This contest, with the help of suggestions and instructions by Jean Chs. Magnan, organizer of the project and director of the Rural Educational Service, was designed to foster in young people the desire to reconstruct articles in disuse to something useful and serviceable. All objects for the contest have been forwarded to the Department of Agriculture and according to order of merit, will be used as exhibits for the Quebec Exposition, afterwards being returned to their rightful owners.

This contest was started under the patronage of the Hon. Minister of Agriculture, November 3, 1945, with the idea of getting young people interested in worthwhile hobbies during their leisure moments. It was open to members of Young People's Clubs and to pupils of agricultural schools.

WHO... IS CANADA'S No. 1 CITIZEN?

IT IS YOU . . . OR SHOULD BE.

If you are a No. 1 citizen, you will be doing your share to ward off the menace of inflation* facing Canada today.

How? . . . By conservation in your personal finances . . .

Here are five ways you can fight inflation:

- Hold on to your Victory Bonds
- Buy only those goods which are in fair supply and save your money for the day when goods now in short supply will be readily available
- Avoid black market purchases
- Keep up your insurance
- Build up your savings account

This is conservation—the first requisite for personal security—the first attribute of good citizenship.

If we all help in all five ways, the threat of inflation —rampant in some other countries and now menacing us—can be beaten and stamped out.

Let us all be No. 1 citizens. Remember, if you are a No. 1 citizen, you will look after No. 1 . . . Save for yourself and you save for Canada.

* Inflation, to the citizen, means simply less and less value for his dollar . . . his living costs soar as free and careless spending drives up the price of goods still in short supply. Inflation is no respecter of persons . . . like the rain, its evil falls on the just and the unjust alike. Thus, Canada's fight against the menace of inflation is your fight...the fight of each of our citizens —12,000,000 strong.

The Lost Week-End

ANY REFERENCE to a lost week-end will no doubt be referred to a motion picture by that title, which brought the feature players high awards and a "Must" for the theatre-goers when that film hit the picture houses — remarks one of our weekly exchanges. The article continues:

The lost week-end, however, was given significance in another direction recently when a Brantford pastor dealt with the matter in his sermon subject. "A Sunday without worship," he said, "is a lost week-end if ever a week-end were lost."

The pastor's subject was "Saturday, Night Parties and Sunday Hangovers." He pointed out that the man who needs a seltzer on Sunday morning or the woman who needs a half a day's sleep has crowded out worship one more Sunday. The practice of making Saturday night a "night out" has been responsible more than any other thing in altering the habits of our forebears.

Enforced attendance at church really defeats the end of worship. There can be no compulsory church parades on civvy street. It is up to individuals to make up their minds that regular attendance at church is necessary to strengthen faith and courage and to gain a spiritual enrichment. "If you haven't got a hangover," said the pastor, "the hour of worship will give you a chance to see the greatness of some little things and the littleness of some great things."

For too many people, Sunday begins when they crawl out of bed around noon and that sort of thing must end or Sunday is doomed, as far as the prime purpose for which it exists is concerned.

Fly-Making, A Delicate Art

REPORTS from anglers this season are that those who tie their own flies are having fair success in the streams. This is pay-off time for them.

For they, of all the rod and reel experts, are the men of infinite patience who, as they build their delicate lures, carry through winter's long chill a vision of big trout or salmon.

Fred W. Watson, fly-tier extraordinary, of Toronto, won't estimate the number of Canadians who carry their angling interest to this extreme, but he knows of at least 8,000. Some are disabled veterans; others just tie flies for sheer delight. The government's rehabilitation program for veterans gives full support to the art; and in several sanatoria of this province, the craft has its place in occupational therapy.

Such experts as George Allen, a gnarled veteran of the woods from Penniac, N.B., who knows much about salmon habits in the famous Mirimachi River, proclaim the "Jock Scott" one of the most difficult flies to tie. It involves 14 different materials, is a standard salmon fly and, if you wish to call it such, it is an international fly because it is known in all countries by the same name. After all, anglers know no racial barriers.

Any fly-tier must learn what flies and insects are favored by the fish, before he can duplicate them; how dyes for feathers and hair react to various kinds of water; what birds give what color of feather.

And above all he must have a patience for detail that makes grandma, tatting away her winter evenings, seem like a helter-skelter operator.

So there is no end to this craft, unless it be in the stream when the big fellow hits a favorite fly. But on Mr. Watson's word, angling skill remains most important — "it depends only 30 per cent on what you put out and 70 per cent on who puts it, and how".

Wartime Necessity Now A Habit

QUEUEING has become a habit with the people of England — writes Lewis Milligan, who has viewed the scene at first hand. The first thing the housewife does after breakfast is to hasten out to get in line at one of her assigned shops to procure her rationed portion of food. In the big cities and even in the small towns one comes upon queues everywhere. Commenting on this situation, the London Daily Mirror, in an editorial entitled "A Rhapsody in Queues," said — "Queues, which were a necessity in wartime, have become a social disease. People wanting tickets for the Channel Islands have been queueing at London Station for three days. At the end of each night they get tickets guaranteeing them a place in the queue next morning. Then they queue up for places in special trains in which they are permitted to sleep! It is a bureaucrat's dream. It is a rhapsody in queues!"

This queueing habit has become so strong among the women of England that the war brides on the Queen Mary, not only queued up while waiting for the ship's canteen to open, where there was no rationing, but they lined up along the corridors with their children at meal times. The Commandant became so annoyed at this persistent queueing that over the loudspeaker he bruskly ordered the women to "Get back into your rooms! I've told you before to stop this queueing and blocking up the corridors. There's no need for it."

— We (who have not viewed the scene, except on a small scale during World War I) are impelled to sit up and wonder if queueing on a national scale, is actually a necessity. In the light of this anecdote, and the writer's impressions, we question whether some stenterian voice from Westminster might bellow loud and break the habit, thus restoring a trend to more normal shopping methods.

THE NUMBER of fatalities that occur over week-ends maintains its alarming high rate. Many deaths caused through drownings and automobile accidents could be avoided if individuals exercised reasonable care and caution.

WE ARE GLAD that those copper-colored five-cent pieces are being withdrawn from circulation. They were ugly in design, ugly in color and ugly in shape. It was hard to distinguish one of them from a cent unless the light was good, and they caused much annoyance in consequence.

— Coburg (Ont.) World

ONE OF THE things all too often lacking here is a sense of civic pride and community spirit which are the sparkplugs of any live-wire town. Instead of criticism and cynicism, there should be team-work and loyalty; instead of pulling apart there should be co-operation and, above all, instead of intolerance, there should be more generosity in looking at the other fellow and his ideas.

— Campbellton (N.B.)) Tribune

IN THE TOWN of Souris, Manitoba, anyone caught riding a bicycle on the sidewalks is liable to have his bike impounded for 30 days.

People who live in apartment houses will not be pleased at the news that radios will soon be in full production.

Salvation Army War Activities Still Continue

LAST OF WAR SERVICE AUXILIARIES IN THE FIELD

Toronto, Aug. 13—Not until the end of this year will the war be over for the Salvation Army, according to Commissioner Benjamin Orames, Territorial Commander for Canada.

While the work for the armed services ended in Canada on June 30, some Salvation Army supervisors will remain in the field overseas at least until September 30. Completion of administrative work in connection with the Salvation Army Red Shield War Services is expected to take until December 31.

The Salvation Army became the only Canadian Auxiliary Service carrying on Field operations on July 31, when the other organizations turned over their activities.

Since hostilities ended, Salvation Army members serving either in the armed forces or as supervisors have been trickling back to Canada and the Salvation Army has been steadily increasing home front operations that were diminished because of loss of personnel to war activities. The Salvation Army volunteered its services before the war started.

A major outcome of wartime activities has been that large numbers of ex-servicemen who encountered Salvationists at training centres here or on active service abroad, have turned to Salvation Army representatives for help and guidance, said Commissioner Orames.

To restore the organization to full-time home front operations and carry out long-deferred expansions of facilities and services, the Home Front Appeal for $2,000,000 opens across Canada on Monday, September 16.

"Do It Through the Chartered Banks"

Announcing in Parliament that Canadian copper-colored "nickels" are now being withdrawn from circulation and expressing the belief that "the movement will be completed within the near future", the Finance Minister added that "the withdrawal was being carried out through the chartered banks".

We see so many statements of that kind — that this and that and the other thing is being done "through the chartered banks" — that we pay little or no attention to them any more.

But we should stop and think about it.

There are those in this country, no large number perhaps, who count that day lost that does not provide them with a chance to criticize "the banks". To hear that kind of talk, you would think that "the banks" do as they please with other people's money and their own . . . that they carry on without let or hindrance, making their own laws and regulations, and generally amassing fortunes for their executives and directors.

The fact is, of course, that banking in this Dominion is hedged about by the most rigid restrictions and controls — not in these times of "control" alone, but always, in season and out of season, in peace as in war. The banking laws of Canada are the most exacting of all laws governing Canadian business activities. All banking is done under the eye and supervision of government. . . . And no banking system in the world is sounder from the public viewpoint.

The banks of Canada did an immense job in wartime and are doing an immense job in this "transition" period. The fact that the public hears little about it is an indication of how thoroughly it is being done, without grounds for serious complaint.

How much free or near-free service the chartered banks of Canada give governments and the public we do not know, but it must be very extensive, indeed. (Look at the line-ups at the bank wickets each week or month of people cashing government cheques. It is just one example of the service the banks are giving the public — without much "percentage" in it for the banks.)

This is not a "defence" of the banks or an "apologia" for them: it is merely an attempt to give to the banks of this country some small measure of the credit that is due them.

"GOSPEL SINGER" REVISITS CANADA

Montreal (CP) — Edward MacHugh, former resident of Montreal and well-known to radio listeners throughout Canada and the United States as "The Gospel Singer," revisited Canada and his home town recently for the first time in 11 years.

The veteran radio star, whose baritone hymn-singing brings him as many as 12,000 fan letters a week, takes his work seriously.

"A lot of people think that hymn-singing is 'corny' and something to be laughed at," he said in an interview. "That's okay with me I get my satisfaction in giving real plasure to a great number of people and perhaps in being some small help in times of trouble and affliction."

He believed there was a swing in popular taste today away from the "false sophistication" of prewar days and toward the type of sentimental and religious singing which brought him from his early employment as a "wiper" with the Canadian National Railways here to his present position.

Mr. MacHugh said he had not realized how well known he was in Canada until told he was on the air in this country 21 times a day.

Poetry Contest by Montreal Branch Of Authors' Assn.

The Poetry Group of the Canadian Authors' Association (Montreal Branch) announces a new competition, open to any resident of Canada, with several cash prizes. The closing date is August 31, 1946.

The poems may be in English or French, on any theme, in any literary form, lyric, sonnet, free verse, etc.; also words to fit some existing musical composition. No entry is to exceed 24 lines, in order that a greater number of poets may be represented.

No poem already published will be considered for a prize. Such may be submitted, however, for the contributors' section.

Prizes will be given of $25, $15 and $10 for the three best poems. Other prizes will be announced.

Distinguished literary critics from different provinces will act as adjudicators. These and all other workers are giving voluntary service.

The Poetry Year Book to be published in the autumn will contain all the prize-winning poems and those receiving honorable mention, as well as those contributed and approved.

Inquiries about the contest should carry return postage on self-addressed envelopes — directed to the Secretary, Poetry Group, Canadian Authors' Association, Rice Studio, 750 Sherbrooke St. W., Montreal. All entries must be accompanied by 50 cents, for which the subscriber receives one copy of teh Year Book.

Unquestionable honesty is the right answer to any question.

Build up your business reputation for competitive days ahead. Distinctive stationery and good printing — from sales slips to monthly statements — will establish the fact you're right on the job. See The Watchman for printing.

And clasped her hand
A golden gate was open,
A gentle voice said come,
And with farewell unspoken
Our loved one, entered home."

STEWART — In loving memory of my sister Grace, who passed away August 16, 1942. — "You are always in my thoughts". —Bertha

Where the flowers gently wave,

Round the grave where she is laid."

Quebec Fishermen Reap the Harvest of the Atlantic Courtesy Service de Ciné-Photographie, Province of Quebec

Do you know Quebec? Do you know, for example, that commercial fishing provides an annual income, reaching as high as four million dollars, for some 15,000 Quebec people? Back of this industry is a capital of $3,500,000 invested in some ninety canning and processing plants, over 6,000 boats, nets, traps and wharves. Principal grounds are off the Gaspé Coast and the north shore of the lower St. Lawrence; most important catches, cod, mackerel, herring, salmon, smelt and lobster.

Realizing its importance economically, the Provincial Government has done much to encourage fishing through financial aid for the establishment of co-operative societies. Similarly it has helped develop Quebec's other basic resources.

Here we have further evidence of how carefully the people of Quebec guard their birthright . . . of how, through their industry and ingenuity, they are planning today to enjoy the opportunities of tomorrow as Canada fulfils her Destiny.

QUEBEC BUILDS FOR THE FUTURE

In 1608 Champlain brought the first colonists to Quebec. Today, Quebec's population is 3,000,000, her retail trade $800,000,000.00 per year. She leads all Provinces in the production of hydro-electric power, textiles, lumber, newsprint, footwear, processed tobacco, asbestos and aluminum. Natural resources, agriculture and transportation are being developed wisely. And now, Quebec, her people deep-rooted in the love of their homeland, prepares to share with her sister Provinces, Canada's bright and glorious future!

BE PROUD OF YOUR QUEBEC—IT IS PART OF YOUR CANADA

This message is one of a series being published so that you may know and appreciate the greatness of Quebec and its important role in Canada's wonderful destiny.

There were 21 gentlemen in the party, some of whom enjoyed a round of sport at the private golf course, while others engaged in swimming and other diversions. Dinner was served at the Carling Lake residence, and the outing afforded a pleasant interlude to all who took part.

MUSIC MAINSTAY OF FARM FAMILY

Full- sized Organ in Instrument Collection on Farm Near Saskatoon

Kindersley, Sask. (CP) — A small white farmhouse on the prairies 100 miles southeast of Saskatoon holds a treasury of musical instruments all overshadowed by a full-sized organ of concert standards.

If Steve Kalbenson's two sons and two daughters are in a musical mood when they return from the wheat fields they may choose from a bass viol, two guitars, a harp, a clarinet and seven violins.

One of Steve's prides is a Testore violin produced in 1773 and valued at $1,300 — the figure he refused for it recently.

In a specially-built room one side of the farmhouse is the organ — specialty of a son, Stewart. The instrument has 10 ranks of pipes ranging from 16 feet to one inch in length and extending to 32 stops. All parts with exception of one were made by hand by Canadian craftsmen. The imported part is an oboe stop made in the United States.

Stewart has devoted himself to organs since he was tall enough to reach a keyboard. For some years he worked for Casavant Freres in Toronto, tuning the great organs of the east and obtaining a good grounding in their construction and installation.

He began to build his own instrument in 1938 and started with a special room to accommodate the console and act as a sounding board. Cyril Robbins, master organ builder of Toronto and William F. Legg of Burford, Ont., were consulted regarding installation.

Most of the pipes which twist and turn, covering the walls of the organ room, are of a special metal alloy and were manufactured by Casavant Freres in Quebec.

About 30 of the pipes come from a church in Saskatoon and there are a few hand-carved wooden ones obtained from St. Mary's church in Regina. The latter have an especially mellow tone.

Two or three times a year music-lovers from nearby Kindersley gather at the farm for a recital featuring leading organists from Saskatoon and Winnipeg as well as the young builder.

Maple Ave. Church Scene of Wedding

Clark - Nason

In the Maple Avenue Baptist Church at Brownsburg, at 3 o'clock on Saturday, August 10, the wedding took place of Miss Jean Ada Nason, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Nason, of Tracey, N.B., and Mr. George Perley McAllister Clark, son of Mr. and the late Mrs. George A. Clark, of Mount Maple.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. S. J. Pike, and Miss Mae Petley played the wedding music.

Given in marriage by Mr. Leslie Griffith, the bride was gowned in pink satin fashioned in Victorian style with drop lace bodice, and wore long pink satin mittens and finger-tip veil of pink tulle with headdress of lace. Her only ornament was a pearl necklace, the gift of the groom, and she carried white gladioli.

The bridesmaid, Miss Inez Wilson, formerly of Saint John, N.B., wore a gown of Queen's blue rayon sheer with matching headdress and shoulder-length veil. She carried pink gladioli.

Mr. Clinton Murdoch acted as best man and the ushers were Mr. Geo. Creswell and Mr. Harold Mason.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Clark, after which the newly married couple left on a motor trip to New Brunswick, where they will visit the bride's parents at Tracey.

Absent on Vacation

Some people feel that if they lost their dignity they wouldn't have much of anything left — and they wouldn't.

Was A United Church Before Church Union

Woodville, N.S., Church Celebrates 25th Anniversary by Burning Mortgage

Woodville, N.S. (CP) — The first United Church in Canada celebrated its 25th anniversary with the burning of a $12,000 mortgage.

Woodville United Church was built in this Annapolis Valley orchard community in 1921, five years before the Methodist Presbyterian and Congregationalist denominations in Canada united.

It was started with $8,000 donated by members of the 14 Woodville families who, at that time, comprised the United Church congregation here.

The remainder of the original cost of $20,000 was raised in a variety of ways. Church workers sold potatoes, the proceeds going to church funds. Other workers distributed "mite" barrels by which more than $1,000 was raised in 10 years.

Other revenue came from donations by nearby orchardists of barrels of their finest fruit.

A home that is paid for is a good thing. So is a home that is prayed for.

There is a lot of difference between what is good and sound, and what merely sounds good.

Increase Sugar Ration

Consumers in Canada will have their sugar ration increased by three pounds per person between now and the end of 1946, according to an announcement made by the Ration Administration of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Two extra sugar coupons will become valid in September and the remaining one sometime early in December. It is felt that in announcing the increase in the sugar ration now, housewives might be able to increase the amount of their home canning.

As well as an increase to domestic users, sugar stocks are improved sufficiently to allow increases to industrial and quota users, which includes soft drink and confectionery manufacturers, biscuit and cereal manufacturers, and bakers, the Prices Board officials said.

Canning Peaches, Hot or Cold

The peach crop this year is a good one, and for many homemakers it will mean a "put up job", canning or freezing as many peaches as possible.

For canning, the home economists of the Consumer Section of the Dominion Department of Agriculture recommend the "V" varieties or the Rochester, the Elberta or the Golden Jubilee.

For freezing, they recommend the "V" varieties, the Elberta, the J. H. Hale and the Candoka.

Peaches may be canned by either the "cold pack" or the "hot pack" method. The peaches are selected according to size and degree of maturity. Good, sound and ripe fruit only should be used. Peaches with bad spots should be put aside and the good portion used for jam or desserts. After selection comes the blanching, which consists of dipping the peaches in boiling water for 15 to 60 seconds and then dipping in cold water. This sets the color and loosens the skins so that they will slip off easily. Not more than sufficient fruit for two or three containers should be blanched at one time. Peaches, like pears and apples, discolor quickly after peeling, and therefore should be dropped in a weak brine of 1 teaspoon of salt to 1 quart of water as soon as they are peeled. Since long standing in brine would give a definitely salty taste to the peaches, a small quantity only should be prepared at a time, sufficient to fill not more than two to three containers. The peaches, when drained from the brine, are halved or quartered and pitted. For the cold pack method, the peaches are packed in sealers, cut side down, and covered with boiling syrup. The pint glass sealers and 20 oz. tin cans are processed in the boiling water bath for 20 minutes, and the quart sealers and 28 oz. tin cans 25 minutes. Glass sealers only can be processed in a thermostatically controlled oven at 275° F.; pints 35 minutes; quarts 45 minutes.

The hot pack method differs from the cold pack. After the peaches are prepared — that is, blanched, skinned, drained from the brine, halved or quartered and pitted — they are simmered for 5 minutes in the syrup and packed hot. The processing time is decreased because of this pre-cooking. Sealers of both sizes and tin cans are processed 15 minutes in the boiling water bath. If processed in the oven, 25 minutes are allowed for pint sealers and 30 minutes for quart sealers, at 270°F.

Food locker rooms are increasing considerably, and many homemakers are planning to take advantage of this method of preserving food.

Peaches freeze well, provided a good firm and ripe fruit is used. After fruit is selected it is blanched, that is, dipped in boiling water for ½ to 1 minute, then dipped in cold water, the skin removed and the peaches halved and pitted. Because peaches discolor readily they require quick, careful handling and special treatment to prevent darkening. The addition of half a teaspoon of lemon juice to each cup of syrup to cover the fruit is added immediately. Syrup in the proportion of 1 cup of sugar to 1½ cups of water, is called moderately thin. A head space of ½ an inch at least should be left at the top of all containers to allow for expansion during freezing. If containers are marked with a description and date, possible mistakes are eliminated.

Peaches, like other fruits and vegetables, must be frozen immediately after packing. If they are to be frozen and stored in a locker plant, each container as it is packed should be put in the refrigerator or other very cold place until all are prepared, and then taken to the locker plant without delay.

Containers for frozen food may be specially bought, but glass jars or tin cans are satisfactory. Jars take up considerable room in the locker because they do not stack well. Slightly imperfect glass sealers, not suitable for canning, may be used for freezing fruits. Plain cans are suitable for peaches but since food frozen in tin cans is not sterilized when canned, the fruit should be removed from the can either while still frozen or immediately after thawing. Honey and jam tins may also be used.

Worry thrives on concealment of its cause. It usually happens that when the cause is discussed frankly with some trusted person, the load of worry grows much lighter, if it does not disappear altogether.

A Missing Part may be holding up— THE BUS YOU HOPED TO CATCH

ONLY the owners of motor vehicles, or those who are trying to buy them, can realize the full seriousness of the current shortage of parts . . . and how much the strikes of the past year, and of the present time, are affecting the comfort of highway travellers.

When strikes first threatened in the steel and rubber industries, this Company prepared for impending shortages by increasing heavily its stock of tires, spring steels and other necessary items of rubber and steel. But, work stoppages in the producing industries have caused a heavy drain on our stock pile, and the stock piles of others, and today's shortages cannot be replaced quickly.

Ask your own motorcar repairman, if you wish confirmation of this.

Even after a strike is over, it takes a long time to produce enough to care for current needs, and to replace the used-up stock piles of manufacturers and dealers. In the meantime, consumers go short.

Many a bus in need of ordinary maintenance attention, as well as buses in course of manufacture, must stand idle today for want of one or more small parts.

So, we must ask the patience of the travelling public when there are not enough coaches to accommodate everyone during the summer travel peak. The causes of the shortage are beyond our control. Service will be increased as soon as supplies of parts and new buses are available.

IN 1945, we added more buses to our fleet than any other Canadian bus company. Since January, 1946, despite strikes, we have again increased it by 60 buses, all that we could obtain! Sixty-nine more NEW buses should have arrived last May. But, they will not begin reaching us until well after Labour Day!

Water Games

Children who go to the beach in summer are lucky but water can provide a source of amusement in the back yard without benefit of a swimming-pool. Dressed in a bathing or sun suit a child can have a lot of fun without considering how wet his clothes get. The small child will enjoy even a dish of water with dishes and a sieve or colander. A larger dish such as a dish pan provides room for sailing small boats or pretend-boats of small pieces of wood. Did you ever give a child a paint brush and a pan of water? They can paint fences or walls or anything handy. Wonderful pictures can be painted with water on the sidewalk. Impermanent, but fun while they last. The older child can play fireman to its heart's content with an insect sprayer loaded with water. No one needs to be reminded of the thrills children get when playing with the hose. Playing with water in the backyard has the added attraction for mother of being perfectly safe.

Hints for Homebodies

By Jessie Allen Brown

CANADIAN COMPOSITIONS

Jean Baudet, who is CBC Music supervisor and director of CBC's French net-work, was invited to conduct the Czech Philharmonic Orchestra in Prague, in a concert of all-Canadian compositions. Wouldn't it be interesting if Mr. Baudet would conduct that same program for Canadian listeners? We would like to hear the compositions which were chosen to represent Canada. The trouble is that we do not hear Canadian composers often enough. They write a serious composition and it is heard once or perhaps even twice. That is not enough. To enjoy music one must be somewhat familiar with it and hearing it so seldom does not give Canadian composers a real opportunity. Our conductors do hoose Canadian compositions more often than they used to but if different orchestras would each play the composition it would be more helpful. Composers need to have their works performed frequently to aid them in improving that particular composition and to give them confidence and assurance in future work. It is doubtful if most of my readers have ever heard the names of some of the composers who wrote the music for Mr. Baudet's program. Canadians have a lot to learn about publicity.

FLOWER CONTAINERS

Flowers often look better when arranged in other containers than the usual vase. I have several sugar bowls of varying sizes and small flowers look much nicer in them than in a regular vase. I have a pink sugar bowl that never was a success at its regular job as it is much too big, but it certainly shows off forget-me-nots. You probably have some cream pitchers which are nice to look at but because of their shape are difficult to keep clean when used for cream. There are a few of these which languished on my shelves until I started using them for flowers. Pitchers of all sizes and shapes seem to make the very nicest flower containers. Look over your collection of dishes and see what you can come up with to grace your bouquets.

TWO INCHES OVER

When canning by the boiling water bath the water should be at least two inches over the tops of the bottles. If the water has a depth less than this the pressure is not sufficient to prevent the liquid from the bottles being drawn out and the water from the bath getting into the sealers. The fruit will not be evenly cooked, and there may be discoloration. If it is necessary to replace some of the water be sure to have it boiling and to pour it in carefully so that it will not touch the sealers.

NO NEED TO STERILIZE

Unless you use the open-kettle method of canning, jars do not need to be sterilized before using. Of course they must be perfectly clean but heating in the oven or in the water-bath sterilizes the jars as well as the fruit, so that is one less thing to do. Canning in an open-kettle destroys vitamin C and is wasteful, as fruit does not always keep properly.

LIME SHERBET

1½ teaspoons unflavored gelatine, 2 tablespoons cold water, 1½ cups water, ¾ cup sugar, ¼ cup fresh lime juice, ½ cup of orange juice, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, dash of salt, green coloring 2 egg whites.

Soften the gelatine in cold water. Boil the 1½ cups water and the sugar for 2 minutes, add gelatine and stir until dissolved. Add fruit juices and salt and cool. Add green coloring to tint a light green. Put in refrigerator tray and freeze at point recommended by manufacturer. When it is frozen to a mush, put in chilled bowl and beat with rotary beater until smooth. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Return to tray and freeze until firm, stirring several times.

PEANUT COOKIES

½ cup shortening, ¾ cup firmly packed brown sugar, 1 egg, beaten, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons milk, ½ cup chopped peanuts.

Cream shortening and sugar and add beaten egg and vanilla. Sift in the flour, salt, and baking powder. Shape into two rolls 2" in diameter. Chill. Slice ⅛ inch thick. Place on baking sheet. Brush with milk and sprinkle with peanuts. Bake in a hot oven of 400 degrees.

The Days I Remember

(Contributed)

In Tobruk's dry burning sands where brown men, black men and white
Through the dust and heat of the desert joined hands to win the fight,
Their burning eyes glazed in their sockets as the merciless sun beat red,
With never a tree to shade them, the wounded and the dead.

The crossing of the wide Ortona and the heights beyond the flood.
Where those sunny orchard slopes were bathed with brave Canadian (blood;
But they won the heights and held them, dear though the price they
For many of our gallant boys in Italian soil are laid. (paid,

Dieppe of fame and glory, where Canadian, Yankie and French,
They fought on those bloody beaches without a sheltering trench.
This was war's grim reality, this shell-torn strip of shore.

Then Caen, can we ever forget it, the days when we held our breath,
While our boys formed a wall to protect us from a fate much worse (than death.
They knew, as they fought and struggled, they might never reap the (joys
That they bravely gave their lives for; but such was the grit of our (boys.
These are the days I remember when they speak of war again,
The days when our dearest and best were among the wounded and the
I need no bronze memorial where their names are set apart, (slain.
To remember them, for their names will live forever in my heart.

Eating with the Eyes

They tell a story in Chicago about the lighting-engineer who combined an experiment with a dinner party, broke up the party completely, but proved his point. He did it with color alone.

The food was appetizing, tasty and good at the party. The guests were enjoying it. Then the lighting was changed mid-way through the meal, in such a way that the steaks looked gray, the celery pink, salads violet, milk red and coffee yellow. Some of the guests became violently ill within a few minutes, others were mildly neauseated — all had to stop eating.

All of which indicates that color has quite an important bearing on our digestion; and that the color scheming of our dining rooms can play quite an important part in the enjoyment of our meals. Furthermore, it costs no more to paint the dining room in suitable colors than to paint it in colors which are going to make us vaguely unhappy while eating.

'Personal Parcel' Idea Supported by Q.W.I.

As one way of serving, members of the Q.W.I. are giving wholehearted support to the "Personal Parcel Scheme." Through the Women's Voluntary Service 100 individual addresses were obtained for this province and distributed among the branches as requested. As there are only 92 senior branches that meant some of the larger branches would ask for two. These parcels are filled with small articles of food, canned goods, etc. by the members, but must be sent in the name of one person only, usually the secretary. Since the convention in June, when the project was approved by the Q.W.I. Board, monthly reports received from the branches show nearly all have undertaken this work which is so little for every individual member but means so much for those in England, who are still in the midst of scarcity we can hardly realize in this land of plenty.

Canadian Press SPORTS CAMERA

By FRED KERNER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The enigma of the editorial page — Russia — is an open book on the sports page, thanks to Konstantin Simonov.

Simonov is one of the great contemporary poets of the U.S.S.R., and was a member of the Russian press party which recently toured Canada and the United States. Everywhere the Soviet writers went they were subjected to questioning by fellow newspapermen and they in turn subjected their interrogators to similar questioning.

There was international discussion hot and heavy, and some heavier intellectualism on display. But the handsome, genial poet was not fazed a bit when we cornered him and asked about Russian sport prospects for the Olympic games.

He met the challenge without batting a sonnet and in flowing prose he gave out with the opinion that Russia hoped for international competition although he was a bit dubious about how successful they would be.

"We are worthy of international competition in swimming," he said. "Also our ice skaters are good!"

Then before we could get a question in he told us Russia's wrestlers could hold their own with any in the world. We may now expect various versions of the world's wrestling "championship" claimed by proponents in Omsk, Minsk, Tomsk, Tobolsk and perhaps even Moscow and Pinsk.

He said he would like to see a lot of international sport — even if the Russians lose. And slyly he mentioned they were fairly good at soccer — as British opponents of the Moscow Dynamos can testify.

Simonov couldn't explain the rules of Russian hockey, nor could Ilyá Ehrenburg who turned us over to the poet when we asked about sport because the latter plays tennis. Apparently they play a lot of tenins in Russia, although Simonov ruefully admitted that none of the thousands who play are very good.

As for golf, the Russian said there was no prejudice against such a "class" game. But the people prefer other games. In time, however, golf may become a popular proletarian pastime.

Think of the "19th-hole stories" that might be inspired by vodka!

Minister of Roads Visits County, Inspects Highway Work in Progress

Local Thoroughfares Under Treatment And Other Projects Seen Well in Hand

Visitors Make Tour Over Typical Roads

The Hon. Antonio Talbot, K.C., M.L.A., Minister of Roads, and his Deputy Minister, Arthur Bergeron, were visitors in Argenteuil County last week-end.

After attending the official opening ceremony of the new Ste. Rose bridge, Messrs. Talbot and Bergeron returned to Lachute and early Monday morning, accompanied by Georges Héon, K.C., M.P., made a tour of the county in order to learn at first hand the road problems of this constituency.

The various streets of Lachute were first inspected, and the Minister expressed himself as highly gratified with the work now being done on Milway and Hamford Streets and Bedard Boulevard, made possible with the Department grant of $32,000. Afterwards, the visitors were conducted by Mr. Héon over the Ottawa River road from Carillon to Grenville, then on Route 31 to Weir, thence on the 16 Island Lake - Morin Heights highway — the party then returning to Lachute via Route 30.

Messrs. Talbot and Bergeron both expressed their pleasure at this opportunity of visiting the fine scenic territory of this county and obtaining first-hand information as to the road needs of this community. It is hoped that, through this visit, Argenteuil will benefit in the near future by some substantial grants which will permanently improve its highways and secondary roads.

— While in this community, the visitors were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Georges H. Héon.

Besides the road work now under way in Lachute (Millway and Hamford Streets being already ballasted ready for paving, and Bedard Blvd. undergoing treatment preparatory to paving operations) — several projects are in evidence around the countryside. . . The most spectacular of these is on the Montreal highway, where construction is in progress between the Lalonde corner and Belle Riviere curve. The H. J. O'Connell construction crews have some heavy equipment on this stretch, where in parts an entirely new route has been cut and new roadbeds have to be laid.

At the Morin Heights - St. Sauveur stretch, at St. Adolphe-Morin, and at Pte. au Chene - Avoca, recharging and gravelling operations are also under way, engaging considerable manpower and machinery.

Stiff Penalties for Gambling House Owner and Patrons

MANY LOCAL CASES BEFORE BENCH AT ST. JEROME

The case of a barbotte operator and nine "found-ins" at a Brownsburg establishment, was one of 31 charges on the docket of the District Magistrate's Court at St. Jerome Tuesday — with Georges H. Héon, K.C., as prosecuting attorney, and counsel appearing for the defendants in one or two of the cases in preliminary hearing.

The charge against Lorenzo Pilon, barber, of Brownsburg, was that of conducting a gaming establishment and barbotte table, while nine men found on the premises were accused of participating in the game. All pleaded guilty.

On a plea of the Crown that maximum penalties be imposed purely as an example to curb gambling practices in this area, the Court levied a fine of $100 with costs against the accused owner, and $25 with costs against each of the nine players. In addition, the money found on the table at time of the police raid was ordered confiscated, and the equipment destroyed.

The magistrate said this was the stiffest sentence he had imposed for offences of the kind; severity was called for as an example in view of continuing violations, His Honor stated.

Florida Leroux, Lachute Mills, held in the recent finding of an infant's body in a paper parcel, pleaded not guilty and was sent for trial on a charge of concealing the birth of a child. The accused chose the option of a summary trial, and her case will be heard during the September judicial term.

* * *

Roland Bouchard, 26, and Arthur Loiselle, 36, charged with assault against a fellow worker in a lumber camp in The Glen, Dunany, pleaded not guilty. Their trial was set for the month of October. Herman Barrette acted as counsel for the accused.

* * *

Daniel Clarkson and William Tilton, of no given address, faced a charge of being in possession of burglary tools. The men were arrested after the premises of a local garage had been entered and effects stolen. The pair pleaded not guilty, and their trial was also set for October.

Advantages of Food-Freezing Told to Rotary

Brownsburg — Rotary Club members, at their regular meeting Thursday, August 15, at Carriere's Hotel — were treated to an interesting talk on "Locker Systems and the Frozen Food Industry" by Mr. Lloyd G. Creswell, of Food Lockers Limited, Lachute.

A veteran of World War II, Mr. Creswell on his discharge from the Army organized Food Lockers Limited, and is now engaged in building the first locker system in this province, located at Lachute.

What is a locker plant? It is a place where freezer storage is provided for individual families, to store their own meat, poultry, fish, game, vegetables, fruit, eggs, butter and other foods for use against the day when prices are higher or such items cannot be obtained. These products are "quick frozen" at 25° below zero and stored in compartments or units arranged similarly to safety deposit boxes in the banks. Because the locker plant freezes foods at sub-zero temperature and keeps them at zero temperature, the freshness, flavor, color and taste of foods are retained for long periods of time, better than any other method of food preservation known to mankind.

Mr. Creswell pointed out that through the modern miracle of frozen food locker plants, farmers and city folk of all income groups can enjoy spring chicken in January, strawberries in February, peas and asparagus in March just as they were packed the previous summer. Thanks to the modern locker plant, virtually fresh foods are available the entire year with all of their original nutrition, flavor and taste.

The speaker explained the absolute necessity for sharp or quick freezing prior to storage at zero temperature. It is based on the fact that the various salt, sugar and acid solutions contained in the meat, fruit or vegetables, solidify "en masse" instead of being disintegrated by the freezing of the various component parts at their individual freezing temperatures, as they would if they were frozen slowly.

According to the speaker, the frozen food industry at present comprises about 7% of the entire food industry in the United States, and it is expected that within 10 years it will be 33%.

This highly instructive talk was followed by the showing of two films, "The Key to Better Living" and "Keep It Frozen", which showed pictorially what Mr. Creswell had so well presented in his talk.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian George Zsombor and thanked by Rotarian Charlie Mosely.

Guests included Alwyn Stewart, W. Hay, of Quebec City, and Roy Leach, of Toronto.

FATAL SOMNAMBULISM

Ste. Sophie de Levrard, Que. (CP) — Sleepwalking recently caused Emile Naud, 35-year-old resident of this Lotbiniere County town, to lose his life. Naud, according to information given at the coroner's inquest, left his home while sleepwalking and was drowned when he fell into a river. A verdict of accidental death was returned.

Decisive Vote Favors Civic Loan For Streeet Paving

Public realization of the need for better streets was evidenced in results of the referendum on By-law 171, providing for a civic loan of $35,000 for street paving. In the voting last Thursday and Friday at the town hall, the number of voters might be considered far from representative — only 257 property-holders recording their opinion, out of 730-odd eligible electors. The vote, however, was decisive, both as to number and the valuation represented.

A total of 211 voted in favor and 45 against (with one ballot spoiled). The valuation was — $1,488,700 for; $177,200 against — making a majority valuation of $1,311,500 in favor of the by-law.

Young Montrealer Killed in Crash North of Lakeview

On the short-cut highway from Lakeview to Arundel (about two miles from the scene of a fatal accident reported last week), a mishap last Saturday night about 11 o'clock caused the death of Robert Loudin, 27-year-old Montrealer who was holidaying with a relative, Alex Bethune, at Lost River. In the car were three companions, and the party were motoring to Huberdeau when, with Loudin at the wheel, the automobile ran onto the gravel shoulder of the road and turned over into the ditch.

The victim was struck on the head. His friends, less severely injured, clambered from the car and tried to extricate him from the driver's seat. Failing in their attempt, they summoned assistance from three farmers in the neighborhood, who together heaved the machine completely upside down and removed the unconscious man. Dr. R. B. Henry, who had been summoned from Arundel, examined the victim and found him dead. Loudin had been in an inverted position for about half an hour, and according to medical opinion, this and his injury had contributed to his death. Coroner Dr. Jules Lafleur, of Lachute, visited the scene Sunday morning and, making inquiry into the circumstances, pronounced death accidental. There were indications the car had been travelling at a reasonable speed, and viewing the straight, unobstructed road, no cause for the accident could be determined. The fatality occurred three miles south of the junction with the Weir-Arundel highway.

The late Robert John Loudin son of Mrs. Jack Loudin, formerly of Weir, had served with the Canadian army overseas. His untimely death caused sorrow in the district, where he was fairly well known. Funeral rites were held Tuesday at the Lost River church, the body being conveyed for burial in the family plot at Arundel.

Man Dragged by Horses, Dies of Heart Seizure

George Moncrieff, 67-year-old farmer residing at Stonefield, died suddenly of heart failure on Monday through over-exertion when dragged by his team harnessed to a grain binder. According to report, while removing the binder from a barn the victim was leading his horses by the head, and when the machine caught on some obstruction the animals took fright and ran. The farmer held on for some distance, but finally released the team. Sitting on the tongue of a wagon damaged by the horses, he spoke to a young man who had been assisting him, then fell to the ground stricken with a heart attack. Dr. T. Smith was summoned from Hawkesbury but the victim was dead before the physician arrived. It is stated he had been under care of a local doctor of late, suffering with heart trouble.

George Moncrieff, survived by his wife, three sons and four daughters, was a member of the Orange Lodge and well known throughout the community. He lived at Dunany before moving to Stonefield. The funeral was held yesterday afternoon, followed by interment at St. Andrews East, with rites of the Orange Order.

The 1946 event is scheduled for September 7 and 8 next, and we take liberty to quote the preview by this well known commentator, who appears well informed on the contests, awards and likely contenders. . . .

Officials of the Lachute Golf Club have announced a change in playing conditions for this year's event.

Amateur players with a handicap of ten or over will tee off on Saturday and the following day amateurs with handicaps of nine and under and the professionals will play the layout — "a nine-hole affair for which par is 36, making a total of 72 for 18 holes."

A sum of $1,000 will be competed for by the professionals. The winner will receive a cash award of $300, runner-up position will be worth $200 and third place $100. Other additional cash prizes will be presented for the other seven finishers.

Two additional cash awards will be at stake in the event, which has drawn a large entry of Montreal district golfers each year. The professional with the longest drive at the third hole will receive $50, while a similar prize will be given for the shot closest to the pin at this hole.

Prizes totalling $300 will be distributed among the low scoring amateurs in Classes "A" and "B".

Westerners Invited

Jack Archer, club professional and holder of the course record with a recent score of 32-34—66, six under regulation figures, states that Stan Leonard and Fred Wood, both of Vancouver, who are considered two of the outstanding professionals in this country, are expected to accept an invitation given them at the recent $10,000 C.P.G.A. Open at Winnipeg to play in the Lachute event. Bob Gray, Gordon Brydson and Bob Burns are among the Ontario pros who have signified their intention of teeing off in the event along with practically every professional of note in the Montreal district. Stanley Horne, Islesmere; Jules Huot, Laval-sur-le-Lac, and Redvers MacKenzie, Elm Ridge, president of the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association Zone 2, will be on hand for the event.

The visiting professionals will be the guests of Gilbert Ayers, prime mover in golfing affairs at Lachute, during the tournament.

For a tournament which carries no title, it is the richest of its kind to be held by a club in this province and record fields are expected to compete on both days.

MYSTERIOUS VISITORS

Regina (CP) — Five visiting pigeons have local pigeon fanciers stumped. The birds, tagged with aerial numbers beginning with "AA", are believed to be the property of some private owner, but no one appears to know where they come from except the pigeons. And they aren't talking.

Fire Destroyed Laurentian Home Of G. E. Ayers

Fire of unknown origin razed the country home of Gilbert E. Ayers, on Highway 31, during Thursday night of last week. Situated between Carling Lake and Green Lake, the two-storey log chalet was situated on a height of land overlooking a choice countryside. Forming three wings, the building was nearing completion after two years of planning and construction. It was burned to the ground, flames consuming everything above foundation level.

The outbreak started in the central section. Only occupants at the time were four men employed on the premises as painters. All were asleep in a far wing, and the fire spread so rapidly they were obliged to escape by a window, grabbing such clothes as were within reach.

Chief Geo. Y. Deacon and members of the Lachute Fire Brigade were notified shortly after 5 a.m. and the auxiliary fire truck was sent out to avert danger of fire spreading to the surrounding bush.

Late T. Graham of Arundel, Councillor Quarter Century

A STAUNCH CHURCHMAN, LIVED 70 YEARS IN COMMUNITY

Arundel — This community lost one of its most respected and prominent citizens in the death of Thomas H. Graham, who passed away quietly at his home on August 12 after an illness of five months.

Mr. Graham, who was 74 years of age, was born in Lakefield and had resided for the past 70 years in Arundel. He was a pioneer lumberman and farmer. A staunch church supporter, first of the Methodist and later of the United, Mr. Graham was a member of the church board for many years.

His interest in community affairs made him a valued member of the community council for 25 years.

Mr. Graham was a man of sterling worth, quiet, unassuming and always ready to render kindly assistance and advice to those in need.

He is survived by his widow, the former Jessie Meikle Patton, of Lachute, to whom he was married in 1898, and by one daughter, Miss Muriel, of Montreal, two sons Gavin, of Montreal, and Melvin of Arundel, and one granddaughter.

Numerous friends and relatives attended the funeral, held Wednesday, August 14, in the United Church. In the absence of the pastor the Rev. M. P. Smith, of London, Ont., officiated, assisted by the Rev C. Royle, of Grace Church, Arundel, and the Rev. Stirling Graham, of Jasper, Ont. Interment was made at Arundel Cemetery.

Pall-bearers were — Messrs. Leonard Graham, Dawson Beattie, Gordon McOuat, Mac Walker, Keith Curran and Douglas Cooke.

Among those present from out-of-town were — Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Curran and Messrs. Keith and James Curran, of Covey Hill, Que.; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Graham, Mrs. E. S. Mitchell, Miss Ruby Goodfellow and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Roy, of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Graham, of Ottawa; Rev. and Mrs. Stirling Graham, of Jasper, Ont.; the Misses Maggie and Jessie Walker, Mr. and Mrs. A. Pollock, Messrs. A. A. McOuat, Gordon McOuat, Gavin Walker, Mac Walker and Alex Smith, of Lachute, and many others.

Give Us A Blizzard!

By R. J. DEACHMAN

IN HIS BOOK on the Canadian Arctic, the French writer Gontran de Poncins tells us that the Eskimos, when at the Trading Posts, soon become listless, tired, indifferent, but he adds:

> "Open wide the door, fling them into the blizzard and they come to. They wake up suddenly; they whistle; their women scurry about, their children crack the triumphant whip, their dogs bark like mad: an impression of joy, of life, fills the environs of the Post. In no time at all they have disappeared; the tempest — their cherished tempest of the Arctic — has blown them over the ridge like so many leaves."

Struggle is part of the life of man. What would happen if a kind government gave each of us a ration card which called for free food and told us to go in peace — henceforth food would cost us nothing. The chances are ten to one we would be poorer than we were before.

M. P. and District Mayors Present at Function Honoring Veterans of Gore

Public Recognition with Presentation Of Engraved Watches to 19 Servicemen

Entertainment by "Masquers" Troop Show

An auspicious event in the Township of Gore took place on Saturday, August 17, at the Gibb Parish Hall, when almost 400 people witnessed a ceremony honoring the returned veterans of the township. . . . Nineteen returned servicemen were presented with suitably engraved wrist watches as momentos of the occasion.

The ceremonies were opened by the mayor, Lorne Dawson, who paid tribute to the veterans who "had answered the call to duty and who, by the Grace of God, had been spared to return to their homes."

The Rev. C.W.P. Baugh then addressed the gathering. He thanked the Almighty for "bringing our boys back safely, after they had fought and won the fight for our cherished ideals of Democracy and Tolerance."

Louis Solomon, chairman of the entertainment committee, then introduced Joe Russell, manager of the troop show, 'Eaton's Masquers' of Montreal (who have travelled many thousands of miles in Canada and overseas in the entertaining of our boys) — who came forward not only to entertain but to act as master of ceremonies of this show.

The entertainment, which was of a very high standard, did justice to the occasion. Following are some of the artists who generously donated their services for the evening: Miss Winnie Kermath, piano accordeonist; Mrs. Stephanie Dietschie, songs; Mrs. Weegans, pianist; Art Davidson, violinist; the Belanger Brothers, whistlers; and Harmonica Harry. . . These entertainers having come a long way to give of their time and talent, on behalf of all present Mr. Solomon extended a hearty vote of thanks to them for their splendid efforts.

Loud speakers for the event were supplied and installed by W. E. Hammond.

Georges H. Héon, K.C., M.P. for Argenteuil, was then introduced and spoke feelingly of the spirit of the meeting. He hoped that "the holocaust which had just been completed" would bring peace to the individual, to our country and to the world.

Mayor Leopold Carriere, of Lachute, then gave a brief address, and W. E. Smith, Mayor of St. Jerusalem, also spoke.

Mr. Dawson then called upon the veterans, who paraded to the stage and after stirring words of commendation and hope for their welfare in the future, he requested the councillors of the Gore to assist him in presenting each veteran with a wrist watch as a gift from the people of the township, who by voluntary subscription had raised the funds to provide them.

The veterans honored were as follows: Pte. S. J. Brown, Cpl. K. G. Brown, Pte. T. C. Black, LAC. H. W. Baugh, F/O P. J. Bird, L/Cpl. R. E. Dawson, F./Sgt. E. W. Evans, LAC. L. S. Kerr, Pte. C. F. Napp, Sgt. Major O. Richard, Spr. V. Stubbs, AB. M. A. Silverson, Pte. S. J. Trickey, Gdsm. A. A. Trickey, AB. R. L. Thompson, Sgt. E. W. Tomalty, Pte. A. Woods, Sgmn. N. F. Williams, Cfn. P. B. Williamson.

Refreshments were served and the gathering dispersed at a late hour—all agreeing that this happy occasion spent in honoring "our boys", would be long remembered by the people of Gore community.

Old-Timer of 66 Years Ago Recalls Schooldays

A reminiscence of old times comes to The Watchman this week from a California resident, John Clarke, who left this community 66 years ago, when The Watchman was but three years old. Among the school associates whom he recalls, two (a teacher and a fellow pupil) are still living in this town. To these and numerous others Mr. Clarke's letter will doubtless be of interest. It says, in part:

I left Lachute 66 years ago — and as I have passed my 81st birthday, and also celebrated my 60th wedding anniversary, my memory takes me back to the scenes of boyhood days and the Village of Lachute. I would like to come back and see the changes that have taken place. But it would be like the poem in the Sanster school book that I remember well:

"I have wandered in the village,
Tom,
I have sat beneath the tree
Upon the school house playing ground
That sheltered you and me.
But none were there to greet me,
Tom,
.. that played with us some 60
years ago.

The old schoolhouse is altered now
The same old bricks are in the wall,
The benches are replaced
With new ones, like the old ones,
Our pen lines had defaced.
The bell swings to and fro;
Its music is as sweet, dear Tom,
As 60 years ago. . ."

Tom Haney was principal of the school, and taught the older boys. Mr. Halliday taught the girls, and Miss Lizzy McGibbon taught the primary boys and girls.

I presume the village has grown to the metropolitan class, and you have taken in some of the outlying villages. Like the City of Los Angeles. What they could not buy, they stole or tried to steal. In my travels I have seen "Los Angeles City Limit" signs 300 miles from Los Angeles. They even have one in Tokyo !

I received a letter from Mr. A. A. McOuat — after his vacation trip; have not heard from him lately, but would like to hear from him again — or from any who are so disposed.

I wonder how many of the boys are left that I went to school with — or how many of the old-timers are left. I remember a lot of them, but I don't suppose they would remember me — Jim McKimmie, Bill Stevenson, Jim Furlong, Angus and George Clunie, Lem Barron and others.

This part of California is a grand place to spend your declining days. No snow or frost; flowers in bloom the year round. All my family are near me—five boys, two daughters, all married, 11 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren. I feel that God has blest me in many ways as my family are all spared, and my grandsons are home safe from overseas in good health.

With best wishes,
Yours truly,
John Clarke,

Ex-Serviceman and Dutch Bride Feted At Lachute Road

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. MacKenzie, Lachute Road, was the scene of a pleasant gathering recently held in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Sutton. Mr. Sutton was with the Canadian army overseas, and Mrs. Sutton is from Holland, having recently come to Canada to make her home with her husband in Lachute.

The evening was spent in playing cards, after which refreshments were served.

Col. L. M. Hooker voiced the feeling of the guests in welcoming Mrs. Sutton to this district.

The couple received many useful and acceptable gifts.

Mr. Sutton thanked the guests sincerely for their kindness.

Quebec City Has New Tourist Booklet

A new booklet containing nearly one hundred pages, presenting the historical and tourist attractions of Quebec City and district, has been issued under the title of "Hier et Aujourd'hui — Quebec — Past and Present".

A feature of the new guide-book is that it is completely bi-lingual, the French and English texts being placed side by side on each page. Short chapters describe the site and historic relics of the city proper, and then the various neighboring sectors, as far at Ste. Anne de Beaupré and the Ile d'Orleans.

THUNDERBOLT'S MAIL IS CUT OFF BY LAW

Sydney, Australia (CP) — The council of Uralla, New South Wales, has taken down the letter-box on an outlaw's grave through which he had received mail yearly since his death in 1870.

Admirers of the outlaw Thunderbolt — Frederick Ward — shot by police, put up the box and the dead man got mail from many parts of the world. The council acted after letters became uncomplimentary to local politicians.

Sharp Increase in Chicken Output

Prior to a complete report on the operations of approved hatcheries in Canada, giving all the final figures, the Hatchery Outlook report for the period ended June 30, 1946, issued by the Live Stock and Poultry Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, contains many interesting facts. The estimated chick production in Canada for the period up to June 30 shows an increase of about 23 per cent compared with the corresponding period of 1945.

Chick production during June, 1946, increased 65.5 per cent over production in the corresponding month of 1945 — the increase in Quebec being 68 per cent.

British Buyers Pay Half a Million for Canadian Holsteins

A four-man delegation representing the British Friesian Cattle Society has just purchased 220 head of Canadian Holsteins at a cost of over half a million dollars. The average price actually paid the Canadian breeders was $2,037, which, with handling and transportation costs will increase to approximately $2,300 delivered in Great Britain. The shipment was selected from the provinces of Ontario, Quebec, Manitoba and Alberta, and will go to breeders in all parts of Great Britain.

It is interesting to note that almost every animal chosen for this British shipment is a member of the famous Rag Apple family which originated at the Mount Victoria Farm of the late T. B. Macaulay at Hudson Heights, Que. Seven head were secured from Quebec breeders, Macdonald College supplying four and the Raymondale Farm of Hon. D. Raymond, Vaudreuil, the other three.

Peaches Plentiful

Hundreds of thousands of baskets of peaches are now on the markets throughout Canada from the orchards in Ontario and British Columbia. The Ontario crop this year is estimated at 1,566,000 bushels — about 350,000 bushels more than in 1945 and about 548,000 bushels more than the 10-year average; and the British Columbia crop at 670,000 bushels is 206 per cent above the 10-year average crop of 219,000 bushels.

With the recent increase in sugar ration it will be possible for more peaches to be canned both in the home and in commercial canning plants, than has been the case in recent years. They will be available in plentiful quantities at reasonable prices from now until the end of September and are sold in Canada by grade, the grades in the order of quality and size being: Select No. 1; No. 2 or Domestic, and No. 3. The grade mark is plainly indicated on the basket or other container.

Physician, Native Of St. Andrews E., Dies in Victoria

Late Dr. S. F. A. Wainwright Practiced Many Years in Fredericton, N.B.

Dr. Stanfell Folliott Anderson Wainwright, a native of St. Andrews East and one of McGill's oldest graduates, died last Friday in Victoria, B.C., where he had been visiting his sister, Mrs. J. D. Black, for the past few weeks. He was 74 years of age.

Dr. Wainwright, born in 1874 at St. Andrews, was a son of the late John W. and Amelia Carter Wainwright. He studied medicine at McGill, graduating with the degree of M.D. in 1897. He went to New Brunswick and began the practice of his profession at Stanley, and in 1910 moved to Fredericton and practiced until a few months ago when he retired.

He was married in 1900 to Miss Mary Caroline Williams. Four daughters survive.

Dr. Wainwright was a member of the New Brunswick Medical Society and in 1943 was made a life member of the Canadian Medical Association. He was a member of Christ Church Cathedral in Fredericton, and had the interests of the city at heart; many to whom he ministered as a physician have pleasant memories of his kindness.

Surviving are his widow, four daughters, Mrs. George Bliss, Fredericton; Mrs. Cecil Bocock, Belfast, Ireland; Mrs. Russell Hoffman, Hamilton, Ont.; and Mrs. J. H. Peters, Montreal; two sisters. Mrs. J. D. Black, Vancouver, and Mrs. George Shaw, Montreal (well known to the St. Andrews E. community), and a brother, James, at Lakefield, Ont.

Conquest of Fog

(Scientific American)

Truck drivers, locomotive engineers, and even airplane pilots may soon be roaring through the night regardless of fog and other weather hazards. This is being made possible through the application of a new invention using infra-red lamps and viewing devices.

Even the densest fog which before would have paralyzed traffic and brought it to a standstill now becomes only a minor hazard.

Nearly all the equipment used in this fog-piercing program was war-designed and utilized. That it was effective — of that there is no question: Jap soldiers making tea at night on their regular invisible flame of a Tokyo tea-boiler made a perfect target. Invisible—yes, in ordinary light, but illuminated with an invisible infra-red beam they stood out as a black crow on a field of freshly fallen snow.

The Economy of Using the Best

The economy of using the best possible materials is made apparent in the upkeep problem. A house or business building may be "thrown together" with cheap material, and it may "look all right," but after it has stood the shock of weather, the real test comes.

It is false economy to use poor materials — and we so advise everyone who buys from us. Our success is due to honesty in materials and prices.

Where Credit Is Due

BRITAIN'S fight to regain her place in the forefront of the world's trading nations compels attention and admiration. It has been said that the Briton fights best with his back to the wall and at no time was the statement more true than now.

For six years Britain fought a war that crippled normal industrial life. The German blitz laid waste great areas in her manufacturing cities and seaports, and her lifeline — the merchant navy — suffered tremendous losses. Belts were tightened by a rigid austerity program and they were tightened even more a year after victory when bread rationing became effective.

During those war years millions of men and women changed their occupations, either by entering the fighting forces and munitions plants or by taking up other forms of war work. Their experiences might naturally inflence them against a return to pre-war working conditions. In addition, hundreds of thousands of young people entered the forces straight from school, thus missing the routine entry into working careers.

A switch from war to peace economy, is a tremendous task. Since V-E Day nearly 6,000,000 men and women have left the fighting forces and war factories and entered peacetime industry. As a matter of fact, at the end of May, 5,789,999 men and women were working in industries manufacturing for the home and export markets, compared with 5,174,000 recorded in June 1939. Only 2½ per cent of the entire working population of Great Britain is registered as unemployed.

While labor problems and attendant strikes darken the industrial picture on this side of the ocean, Britain by disciplined and carefully-planned effort is slowly, but surely, building up the export trade which is vital to her existence. Her labor force engaged in manufacturing for export totals 1,266,000, a 28 per cent increase over the number similarly engaged in 1939.

In the First Great War the British "muddled through;" they "finished the job" in the last war although Mr. Churchill offered nothing more than "blood, toil, tears and sweat." And now in the post-war drive for world markets, still with their backs to the wall, they are working with characteristic courage and dogged determination.

Juke-Box Appreciation

YOU MAY sometimes have wondered about those juke boxes in the restaurants — in such manner as you may question some painful abuse to which the senses grow sadly accustomed. Well, it seems a minor controversy on this particular evil has been waxing in the Ontario newspapers, and our readers may care to follow the trend of these views.

The Brockville Recorder-Times has stated (with a note of desperation — the paragraph is entitled "Reaching the End"):

"The day is fast approaching when the eating establishments minus juke-boxes will be those attracting the most business. There can be no pleasure in patronizing restaurants or kindred establishments which allow such noises, growing more hideous and unmusical all the time, to be turned loose upon innocent people whose patience has almost reached the point of exhaustion."

Meanwhile, T. Van Dusen, of the Ottawa Journal, has gone forth with open mind to survey impressions in the capital city. These are some of the viewpoints he reports:

If Ottawa restaurant owners had their way, the blare of the juke box would be a thing of the past. Of a number of downtown restaurateurs interviewed, the majority laid the blame directly at the door of the eating public — and particularly those of 'teen age.

"If the people didn't want 'em, we wouldn't have 'em", one proprietor averred. "Anybody who thinks we keep those things wailing and groaning all day because we like not being able to hear ourselves think, is nuts", another manager said flatly.

"You think it's tough on the customer to listen to 'Shoo Fly Pie and Apple Pie Dowdy' three and four times in a row — well how about waitresses who have to put up with stuff like that 15 or 20 times in a single evening? They don't like it any more than you do, but they can't get away from it."

But somebody must want them — else how explain that 20,000 juke boxes all across Canada last year had ground out a couple of million records to the tune of $10,000,000?

Of course, they agreed there was some compensation. "In a good location, with a lot of kids around, a juke will pull in $15 to $20 weekly without any trouble. No manager is going to toss that out the window, no matter how many people get ear trouble."

For the large restaurant, the picture was a little different. "Half the time, I don't know whether it's an asset or a pain in the neck," one restaurant proprietor stated. He looked forward to the day when restaurants would have music "wired in" by "teletone" so that only the customer in each booth would be able to hear the recordings he requested. "They have it in the United States and we'll get it here some day."

Another method, popular in the U.S., of placing a nickel in the box for a "silent" record, he thought would not work out. "You'd have the same situation. Somebody would put in a quarter for 25 minutes' peace and quiet and half a dozen other people would be sore because they couldn't have music."

Of the number of 'teen agers interviewed most said they preferred the juke box, but would be willing to compromise on the "teletone" or individual listener system. They agreed there was a possibility the music box could be a little hard on other people.

The Power of Example

FROM EARLY DAYS democracy has depended on the school room, the pulpit and the public platform to fit its people for self-government. Today we have more school rooms and pulpits than ever before, while the radio has carried the public platform into every private home. Do we govern ourselves better than we used to? Have we found a better solution to our problems?

One lesson that our schools, churches, forums and town halls do not seem to have taught us is that, when we want a change, we have to start with ourselves. We still like to stand behind a teacher's, preacher's or speaker's desk and tell other people to be wiser, kinder, more unselfish. And nothing much happens.

Somewhere along the line we have failed to grasp that you can't get others to change just by suggesting or demanding that they do so. People have to be inspired to be different. And the only person who can possibly inspire them is someone who himself has started to be different.

Once and for all we need to get the idea that the public school as such can fit us for public rule, or that desirable change in the world can be brought about through any sort of wholesale demand made upon other people. Whether they are teachers or just fathers and mothers — preachers or mechanics — speakers or stenographers — it is only the example of a pioneering spirit in some one person or group which sets the pace and supplies the inspiration for public progress. World change can grow only out of personal change. And the only place a man can successfully begin is with himself.

Steaks and Strawberries

SAID Dr. R. H. Montgomery, recently, before a Texan luncheon club:

". . . Just a few months ago I had luncheon with the then Secretary of Agriculture, Mr. Wickard. He served a filet steak. After we finished, he said, 'How was the steak — like your Texas steaks?'

"I replied 'Well, I never did raise any that good, but my neighbors did. Is it a Texas steak?'

"He said, 'Your steak was made by the Monsanto Chemical Company in St. Louis, out of buttermilk and wood-pulp'.".

There is one good feature to this story, it means a wider market for Canadian wood-pulp — we may make beefsteak out of it. It will boom the buttermilk market. If a chemical company can make steak out of wood-pulp, could it also make brook trout, Gaspe salmon, spareribs and strawberries? There isn't a word in the story about the cost of the steak. What difference does that make; a former Secretary of Agriculture paid the bill!

Soft Drink or Carbonated Beverage?

TRADE RELEASE SPILLS ROMANCE OF THE "POP" BOTTLE

Canadians have taken to the pop bottle in a big way. By the end of the year it is estimated they will have consumed sufficient soft drinks to float an ocean liner almost four times the size of the Queen Mary.

Quoting government statistics, a leading Montreal beverage manufacturer claimed in an interview that there was an increase of 86 percent in the consumption of carbonated drinks in Canada between 1935 and 1941. "Because of the sugar rationing, the 1942 consumption dropped somewhat. Nevertheless, figures for that year show 58,273,974 gallons of pop valued at $36,646,385 were sucked through straws by thirsty Canadians — a volume almost four times the displacement of the Queen Mary".

To determine the fundamental reason for the increasing popularity of soft drinks, one must go back to the ancient days of European history when the first mineral spring became a meeting place for the ailing. As additional springs were discovered hundreds of lavish health resorts, or spas, were established, many being famous to this day. In the United States some 10,000 such springs have been located. Several are known in Canada.

Fantastic claims regarding the curative qualities of their waters were made by spa promoters. Some guaranteed complete cures for ulcers, gout and rheumatism. At other resorts it was claimed one could get rid of jaundice, neuralgia, diabetes, anemia. Somewhere on the continent there was a special spa to cure very known disease.

In the eighteenth century chemists undertook to analyse mineral water. They discovered one of the sour liquids was merely a solution of ordinary water and carbon dioxide. In 1772 Jos. Priestley, famous British chemist and physicist, devised a method of making mineral water in a laboratory by aerating water with carbon dioxide by compression. Eighteen years later the manufacture of carbonated water was launched in Geneva, Switzerland. Soon it was being made in England.

In the United States, in 1807, Dr. Philip Physick induced a chemist to prepare a carbonated drink mixed with fruit juices as a medicine for his patients. This was the birth of the soft drink industry in North America. Soda fountains sprang up in numerous American cities and immediately proved popular. People still considered charged water in terms of medicine rather than refreshment, which is probably why soda fountains are found in most drug stores today.

The first soft drink bottle was cylindrical in shape with a rubber gasket at the top of the neck and a glass marble inside. When the vessel was filled with carbonated water the pressure of the gas from the inside forced the glass ball against the gasket and sealed the contents.

The original opener was a wooden plug with a disc top. To open the battle the plug was inserted in the neck and struck with the fist. The sudden escape of gas resulted in a distinct "pop", which is how the name of "pop bottle" originated. The present type of bottle cap, or "crown" as the trade knows it, came into use in 1880.

The earliest known bottling plant in Canada was built in Toronto in 1890 by John McLaughlin, a chemist. Today there are more than 500 bottling works from coast to coast with an annual payroll of approximately 10 million dollars.

In the larger cities streamlined plants contain batteries of machines which turn out thousands of bottles a day. But large or small, all bottling works have one thing in common — the meticulous care they take in processing and handling their products to ensure the health of the consumer is not endangered.

In one Montreal plant, the hygienic standards are so high all bottles are washed in five different baths of caustic soda and finally rinsed in a weak chlorine solution before being filled. As a further health precaution, control laboratories are maintained by the majority of large bottling works. In meticulous surroundings graduate chemists are constantly analysing soft drink ingredients to insure their quality and purity are kept at a consistently high level.

Had His Change

(The Printed Word)

Not the least of the virtues of the Salvation Army is its ubiquity. The blue and red of the Army's adherents are accorded a never-failing respect wherever they may be.

The other Saturday a Salvationist lassie was making her way through the men's beverage room of a large Toronto hotel, selling copies of the War Cry. In deference to the lady the sound of revelry decreased by several decibels.

A young veteran of World War II handed the young lady a 50-cent piece and shrugged the magazine aside. "But your change, sir?" she asked. Pointing to his honorable discharge button the young man said quietly, "I've had my change from the Salvation Army".

Britain May End Capital Punishment

London (CP) — The Daily Mail said the Government is believed to have decided to abolish capital punishment in the United Kingdom for a five-year period beginning January, 1949.

It is understood the decision will be announced by Home Secretary Eden when parliament reassembles in the autumn, the newspaper said.

Investigations of capital punishment by the Prison Reform Committee are reported to have shown the influence of executions is bad on other prisoners the Mail said.

Do They Want This ?

(Marchbanks, in the Peterborough Examiner)

A man who knows a lot about the tourist industry was telling me that the Americans come to Canada to rough it, and do not like to have things made easy for them.

He told me of one party of four people which walked out of a hotel in the lakeland because it was too luxurious. If this is so, I think that our hotelkeepers and resort-owners should change their approach to the trade at once.

What the Americans want, clearly, is badly cooked meals, beds stuffed with corncobs, tin washbasins, and outdoor chapels-of-ease with slivery seats and plenty of flies. In addition to this, they will expect plenty of dishonest Indian guides, delightfully mendacious old trappers, and uproariously extortionate storekeepers.

Of all peacetime Canadian manufacturing industries, pulp and paper stands first in employment, total wages paid, export values, net value of production, and in capital invested. This industry depends on the forests. Care in the woods will curb forest fires.

"His Majesty's Stationery Office call their food statistics a monthly digest," said a speaker at a diocesan conference held in Suffolk recently. "I might add that there is very little left in Britain today to digest except statistics, and they are hard to swallow."

Build up your business reputation for competitive days ahead. Distinctive stationery and good printing — from sales slips to monthly statements — will establish the fact you're right on the job. See The Watchman for printing.

Americans this year will spend the record sum of four billions of dollars for recreation. It seems a dreadful waste. That amount of money would pay the nation's military expenses in the next war for several hours. — Exchange

Mr. Farmer...

Only you can answer that question. You have a farm — you know its possibilities and capacity for production. You know also that money spent wisely on worthwhile projects and modern improvements can bring you bigger profits from your farm, greater comfort for yourself and your family.

But perhaps you have not the ready cash on hand. There is an answer for that, too — the Bank of Montreal. See Mr. Hibbard, manager of the Bank of Montreal. Tell him about your plans. He can help you to work them out and he will show you in a practical way what he means when he says: "When you ask for a loan at the B. of M., you do not ask a favor".

"QUEBEC HIGHWAY"

This is one of a series of illustrations on the subject of the Conservation of Canada's natural assets designed to emphasize the fact that the beauties of unspoiled nature that we enjoy today are a precious birthright which we must protect for tomorrow.

† COPYRIGHT BY CARLING'S, 1946

"They Eat Out Of Your Hand"

The white-tailed deer of Quebec come stalking cautiously out of the vast forest which is their home, to stare with wondering brown eyes at the road man has cut through the wilderness. In some sections of the province they become quite tame. In fact, if you offer them food they will take it, timidly, right out of your hand.

They are part of the vast heritage of wild life and forest beauty with which we of Quebec are endowed, and in their very trustfulness is a plea for protection—against the hazards of fire—of predatory animals—of indiscriminate hunting by ourselves.

As new highways open up, bringing more and more of Quebec's beautiful forest land within reach of the city dweller, it becomes increasingly important that each one of us understand the laws and rules of conservation, for only by so doing can we protect and preserve our heritage.

Every Canadian, as a shareholder in Canada's natural wealth, has a vital interest in the conservation of this heritage. Conservation is not just a doctrine to be preached to hunters and fishermen. It is a vital part in the continuance of our national economy, and must, of necessity, fail if its measures do not receive the full support of all Canadian citizens.

Nuptial Ceremony Held in Chapel of Notre Dame Church

Miss Gisele Legault Bride in Fashionable Wedding

At eleven o'clock Saturday morning in the Sacred Heart Chapel of Notre Dame Church, the wedding took place of Miss Gisele Legault, only daughter of Mr. L. L. Legault, K.C., and Mrs. Legault, of this town, and Mr. Pierre Edouard Cangardel, LL.D., of the Sorbonne, Paris, France, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henri Cangardel, of Paris.

White gladioli decorated the chapel and Canon Raoul Drouin officiated. Mr. Benoit Poirier was at the organ and Mr. Jean Prudhomme sang solos.

Given away by her father, the bride was attended by Miss Mary Fisher, of Sackville, N.B., and Miss Helen Wood.

The best man was Mr. Fernand Legault, brother of the bride, with Mr. Gordon McOuat, Mr. Philippe Roy, of Lachute, Mr. Michel Strous and Mr. Guy Legault, brother of the bride, as ushers.

The bride wore a gown of cream satin made on mediaeval lines, and with a short train, her long veil being caught with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of white roses and natural orange blossoms. The bridegroom's gift, a sapphire and diamond pendant, was her only ornament.

The attendants were dressed alike in pink and blue faille, respectively, also fashioned in mediaeval style. They wore little flowered caps and carried colonial bouquets.

Mrs. Legault, the bride's mother, wore a simply designed midnight blue gown, while Mrs. Cangardel, mother of the bridegroom, was gowned in black faille made on Grecian lines. Both wore flowered hats and corsage bouquets of Talisman roses.

The bridal couple left later by motor for a wedding trip to Cape Cod, Mass., Washington, D.C., and New York. Going away the bride wore a tailored suit of white serge with marine blue accessories.

The bridegroom's parents, Mr. Mrs. Henri Cangardel, journeyed from France to attend the wedding. Many guests were present from Lachute and points outside the city.

The bride has been attending the McGill Conservatory of Music. The groom, who served four years as an officer in the French navy, is now head of the French shipping mission in Canada.

ENGLISHWOMAN HAS KINDLY WORD FOR QUEUE SYSTEM

Cambridge, Eng. (CP) — Women never really got along together until the queue system started, Mrs. Ursula Coppock, president of the women's section of the National Federation of Building Trade Operatives, told a conference.

"Queues are our only communication with other women," she said, "and for that reason alone I think the queue system should be continued because it keeps women together.

"They realize the political situation through conversation in queues and the relation between shortages of goods for which they are queueing and the shortage of houses."

Mrs. Coppock said women had never been consulted about housing "which is the affair of this union." They were, in her opinion, the people most qualified to judge whether pre-fabs and other houses were suitable for the population.

Not At All !

Problem solved: "Where will you live when you are married?" asked the friend of the prospective bride.

"We've taken a house next to the station."

"But won't the trains keep you awake?"

"The agent said they wouldn't after the first few nights so we're going to spend the first few nights with mother!"

Reopening Saturday, Modern Bowling Saloon Should Attract New Fans to Wholesome Sport

The Bolodrome, which reopens August 24 after "hibernating" through the hot spell, promises this season to fill a need in the relaxation of youth and age — and notably of those less limber physiques to which the more strenuous sports present a hazard. We mean — particularly if you are short in the wind and stiff in the joint, you will enjoy this milder form of sport, indoor bowling.

The Bolodrome, in the upstairs of the new Albright & MacAdam building, Main Street, has six alleys (five pins and duck pins) to accommodate the numerous fans; two more alleys will be laid as soon as materials are procurable. The saloon is newly outfitted in the most modern style, with a refreshment counter, tables and chairs presenting a sociable scene.

The establishment was opened last winter on completion of this building; and it was a "baby" born of ambitious ideas, its instigator and proprietor being Marcel Deschamps. Through his past record in sporting circles, Mr. Deschamps is now pretty well known hereabouts. He has promoted many interesting sports events, and created competitive enthusiasm among the Catholic youth of this town. He has organized field days and contests, and in local hockey has also been an active worker.

His most noteworthy success, perhaps, was in fostering an interest in bowling at Brownsburg, where he operated a bowling academy before starting his venture here. Residents of all ages and classes in the Burg were competing in numerous leagues. A service clubs' league culminated its activities at the new Bolodrome here last winter, and this community participation may be wholly credited to Marcel's ability in organizing.

TOURISTS

American tourists are having difficulty in finding places to eat in some sections of Canada, and they are getting some poorly cooked meals. That, however, is not as serious this year as it might have been, because they would have had some very poor ones if they had stayed in their own country. In eight days in the States we had butter once. Most places we were served a very queer mixture, if we got anything to replace butter. Finally we asked what it was and a waitress told us that it was a mixture of butter, margarine, cream and butter flavoring. We saw butter flavoring on the store shelves. This mixture was pretty awful. Margarine alone can be all right. We were in Boston for a week in the winter and had nothing but margarine but it was not objectionable. Sandwiches had neither butter nor a butter substitute. There was not much meat on the menu but an abundance of turkeys. We noticed that the meat stores seemed to have plenty of turkeys but little meat. Canadians were envied because of our better food supplies. Some people realized it was because things are better managed over here and we have little trouble with black markets, but others seemed to think we had food because we kept it all for ourselves while they were feeding the world. If we could just manage to give the Americans good meals this year we certainly would make friends and influence people to spend their holidays here again.

WHO BENEFITS?

Many people who have had great sympathy for Labor are losing that feeling as the result of all the strikes. There must be many union men themselves who are not wholly in accord with the actions of their leaders. We read that it will take over three years in at least one strike for the men to make up what they lost. I wonder what some of the American union men thought when one of the leaders stated he would use millions of labor money to defeat President Truman. Many of those men will not want to see the President defeated and it is their money in part which will be used for that purpose. How much better off will labor be with their strike-won increase in wages? Higher wages mean higher costs and they will have to pay more for most things they have to buy. The farmers and the white-collar men, who are unorganized, are the last to get more money and the first to be cut. How are they going to manage to pay these higher costs? It comes hardest of all on older people who have retired and who have worked and saved enough to keep them. Widows come under this category. Interest rates are lower, taxes are higher, and they have to pay more for everything they buy. We are already having a mild inflation, and every day it gets worse. Labor certainly is not helping matters and it remains to be seen how much better off they will really be as a result of their strikes.

A TOY BOX

A place for children's toys is usually a problem in most houses as there never seems to be a proper place to store them. Some smart mothers are buying army boxes to convert into toy boxes. They take out the innards and paint them, rope handles and all, in a color to suit their room. The one I saw was in a cherry red with a suitable transfer on it. The box cost only $1.25 and it certainly is a useful, though maybe some soldiers would think an ignominious end, for army equipment.

BAKED ALASKA

Cut a thick slice of sponge cake a little larger than a brick of ice cream, or cover the cake with firmly frozen cream to within a half-inch of the edge. Cover with a meringue made from three stiffly beaten egg whites and six tablespoons sugar. Bring the meringue right to the edge and seal well. Put in a hot oven until the meringue is slightly browned and serve at once.

ICE CREAM TARTS

Ice cream tarts are really a variation of the above recipe. Fill chilled tart shells with ice cream, and cover with meringue. Cover it thickly and bring it well to the edge so as to seal it perfectly. Brown in hot oven and serve at once.

Differences in marriage, like pots and pans in the kitchen, should be washed up as you go.

WEIGHT AND HEIGHT FACTORS IN FASHION

Short, Medium and Tall Costumes Are Now Featured in Each Dress Size

Chicago (CP) — Women who like to think they can wear "perfect" sixteen dresses may now be able to do it because the ready-to-wear industry has proportionized size ranges.

The idea originated when the bureau of home economics of the department of agriculture made a tape measure census of more than 10,000 women.

It revealed that women with 46 to 47-inch busts are no taller, on the average, than women with 32-inch busts. And that, on the average, women five feet, nine inches tall have the same bust line measurement as women only five feet tall.

Combining this information for practical styling, the industry devised the proportionized method of including weight and height when designating dress sizes. Each size number of a dress is made in a short, medium and tall costume that allows for proper proportioning.

Women's sizes, 35 to 52, correspond to the misses size in proportions, but they are made for the mature figure with lower bust lines and proportionately larger hips.

PRETTY BLOND CARVES CAREER AS HEAD WAITER

College Professor's Daughter Says Hardest Part Is the Rudeness of Customers

New York (CP)—Drop into a certain one of New York's restaurant night spots (Cafe Mardi Gras) some evening and you'll see something new and different:

She has peaches-and-cream complexion. A highly polished coiffure. A face that can look as immobile as marble. A temper that's firmly under control. And a brain and hands that can function fast. In two minutes she can appease a customer, adjust an order and, with one quick flip of the hand, break an ammonia tube and held it under the nose of a diner who has had too many cocktails, while its pungent fumes clear his brain.

Kaye Barton started life in Greenville, S.C., where her father was a college professor. She drew her first pay checks as a nurse, took a fling at modelling and Hollywood, worked in a Wall Street restaurant, and moved from there to her present job.

She says the hardest part of her job is the rudeness of customers—probably due to the fact that big pay checks have made it possible for a lot of people to dine in restaurants who did not dine there much before.

"Women are harder to serve than men," she said. "They complain unnecessarily. They don't want to wait two minutes for anything. They don't have as much consideration for other people as they should. And if you do make a mistake, they never let you forget it, even though you apoligize. A man will accept your apology and forget the matter".

Male Faults Too

"But men drop ashes all over everything, even though an ash tray is right under their elbow. And they want to keep their hats on at the bar. I have more trouble getting some of them to remove their hats while they sit at the bar than I do with some people's dinner orders."

Kaye also has a complaint against waiters and waitresses. She says that virtually every customer has a whim about some part of his food—either he wants his coffee light or his salad dressing without vinegar. Nine times out of 10 she says, waiters and waitresses will "mess up" that special request or ignore it when it would be just as easy to fill it correctly, and make the customer happy.

"I think women should make better captains than men," she says, "because they can handle people better if they put their minds to it. They forget you can catch a lot more flies with honey than vinegar."

As indicating what she means about women's handling people, Kaye tells this little story: The other evening a bar customer grew so noisy the barman refused to sell him any more drinks. The customer started a first rate scene. Kaye took his arm and led him quietly through the door. He went like a lamb. When he found himself on the sidewalk and realized what had happened to him, he looked dumbfounded, and went meekly up the street muttering to himself:

"What? A woman bouncer?"

WESTERNER PLANTS TREES ON PRAIRIES

Parkman, Sask. (CP) — A western prototype of New England's Johnny Appleseed is 76-year-old Clayton Husk of this town about 100 miles southwest of Regina, whose crusade has been more tree-planting on the prairies and choke cherries in particular.

Mr. Husk came to his homestead here 46 years ago from Richmond, Que. The pine and choke cherry trees he planted as seedlings then now form an excellent windbreak for his home.

Everybody wants to boss somebody, and there is always somebody who wants to boss everybody.

More Zip to Golf Course; Alterations To Be Completed for Annual Invitation

HAZEL OGILVIE SETS WOMEN'S RECORD, LOCAL CLUB

Winners in the Husband and Wife tournament played at the golf course last Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Ayers, first, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Leggett, second.

On Friday, August 9, the ladies' section of the club participated in a C.L.G.U. tournament, in which Miss H. (Bobbie) Ogilvie placed 1st low net, with a net 75.

Star Performers

On Sunday last Laurier Carriere made a deuce (2) on the number nine hole by sinking a 250-yard brassie from the fairway.

Miss Hazel Ogilvie set a woman's record for the course with a card of 36-41-77 for the par 38. In rounding the turn in two under regulation figures, Miss Ogilvie scored birdies at the fifth and sixth holes. However, she went two over par on fifth and eighth holes on her second trip around the course, which accounted for her 41.

Alterations in Progress

The course is undergoing a complete renovation. Major alterations are expected to be completed by September 7 and 8 for the big Open Tournament. Bunkers and sand traps are being added to all holes. Several holes are being lengthened by moving back the tees, and at least two greens are being rebuilt. These innovations will make the course more difficult and interesting to play, thus adding zest to the game and fostering golf of a keener quality among the members.

Carnera for the "Grunt and Groan"

By FRED KERNER, Canadian Press Staff Writer

News wires have been burning up with dispatches from Rome, and latterly from New York, telling that the former heavyweight boxing chump . . champion, that is, Primo Canera is to embark upon a new career in the sporting world.

The hint is that the lumbering Italian will desert the box fight game to become a wrestler. In this field he should ably fill the bill, for where showmanship takes precedence over ring ability the former titlist has "it".

No doubt the grappling fraternity will welcome his appearance on the horizon since devout followers of rasslin' have become accustomed to viewing clowns and won't "boo the man down".

He is a square peg, but wrestling is a square hole and he will not require too much training as an actor. His very physical appearance meets the needs of the grunt and groan game.

Right now you are saying to yourself that here is something new you want to see; something new you want to try out; something new you want to feel.

So, why not? See your Nash dealer today. Rest your finger tips on a wheel that needs little more than a wish to guide it. Relax in the sofa-size roominess of the seats. Romuald Bourque Sees Inroads of Socialism as Threat to Democracy

Outremont Councillor Is Guest Speaker At Rotary Club Session in Brownsburg

Brownsburg — Few people in Canada realize the serious threat to democracy and free enterprise in the gradual rise of Socialism in this country, Alderman Romuald Bourque of Outremont, well known public speaker, told the Rotary Club at their regular weekly meeting August 22. The subject of his talk was "Our Heritage".

The speaker, who is vice-president of the Mercury Press, Montreal, is well known throughout the country for his efforts on behalf of better understanding between French and English speaking Canadians.

"The labor I know doesn't believe in Socialism or Communism", Mr. Bourque stated. "It believes in a fair day's wage for a fair day's work and in greater rewards for those who perform the greater services. It believes in paying a man what he is worth, not in paying a man what he can get. That is the type of Canadian labor which made this land of opportunity. The other kind will take out the opportunity and substitute security. The change to my mind is not a progressive one".

The speaker was introduced by secretary Wes Freeland and thanked by William Graham. Guests included G. Dery, of Montreal, Keith Christie, of Montreal, Dr. J. E. Christie, of Lachute, and Jack Lishman, of Roseland, N.J.

Following are extracts indicating the general trend of Mr. Bourque's remarks :

Canada as we know it has has been built by hard work. It is a product of man's daring and enterprise. It was good right arms, backed by good hard cash, that transformed the wilderness.

Today, we are being told, the opportunity is not there. Canadians can no longer build their own futures at home. They must cross the borders. And at home, to protect the faltering souls who are left we must have industries which, if not government owned, must at least be government controlled. We must be told what prices we can charge or can pay. We must have unemployment insurance, baby bonuses, sickness and health benefits. We must have high wages and low prices even if such an impossible combination puts all our industries out of business.

All that is a new theory to Canadians, and those who have really inherited the virtues of their forefathers will reject it utterly. . . But the trouble is, the men and women in Canada who believe in honest work . . are losing the battle for Canada by default.

Canada is being captured by Socialists and Communists who would impose upon this young, virile nation a policy of hesitancy, age and fear. Security would become the watchword. Security for what?

(We are offered) . . security against starvation — but no security against spiritual starvation. We are promised food for our stomachs, but no food for our enterprise and our ambition. . . . We are to sing with joy at the prospect of rationed poverty. What a fate for twelve million Canadians!

Nobody in Canada really wants such a future. Some people think they do, but they are being misled.

I am not talking to you in terms of theory only. I am talking in terms of personal experience. The person who says to me "You don't understand labor" has simply picked the wrong person to talk to. I do understand labor. I belong to labor. But my understanding of labor is a working man — a man who dignifies his job, who gives his best for the money he is paid. I cannot think of Canadian labor as a semi-political organization trying to squeeze as much as possible for the least possible effort.

Canadians do not yet realize how close the Socialist Canada is coming. They do not realize how step by step the radicals are taking over. Socialism can creep ahead so quietly and so gradually that it is finally accepted without a struggle. That is the process under way in Canada today.

The government of Quebec prodded by a group of earnest socialists, decided to take over the power company created, developed and expanded by Canadian businessmen and workers — Montreal Light, Heat and Power Consolidated. There was a great hue and cry in the press. This was Socialism on the march! Something must be done to stop this move. But nothing was done. The people didn't care.

We find the same thing, to an even greater degree, happening below the border. The government has taken over railroads and the coal mines, to continue service when the operators were forced to shut down because of strikes. That might seem like a very logical thing to do. But what is actually happening? The strikers win an easy victory. The owners are penalized. . . Finally they are put out of business temporarily, and perhaps for keeps.

In England the Labor Party took several decades to force nationalization of the coal mines. In the United States they are nationalized overnight, without any expression of public desire for such nationalization.

Oh, you say, but that is the United States. . . But remember, unions on this continent are international — American-Canadian. A successful strike down there is bound to be followed by a strike in Canada.

The government could step in tomorrow and take over almost any company in the Dominion and there would be scarcely a peep of protest. The Socialists and the Communists are simply watching the technique being polished for them to use. When they are ready they will step in and do the job on a grand scale.

Few people know of the constant propaganda being waged by labor unions, by the C.C.F. Socialist party and by the Labor Progressive Communist party. The three groups agree, apparently, on the idea that private enterprise must go (or in some cases, submit).

Don't think that constant propaganda is not having an effect. People cannot be exposed to talk about the evils of private enterprise day after day, without being affected by it.

In Saskatchewan a Socialist government is taking over companies which formerly belonged to private investors. The government is in business in a great many lines. Nobody anywhere else in the Dominion seems very concerned.

Perhaps, you say, it is too late. . . . It is too late indeed to save Canada from the Socialists and Communism if you and I are convinced this country has become old and tired and is no longer strong enough to carry on. It is too late if we are willing to sit back and let the others walk away with our futures and our children's futures. But it is not too late if we still believe in ourselves, in our enterprise and skill, and in the privilege of hard work.

Are we in Canada . . like Russia and Germany in the past . . so tired that we are willing to give up our jobs to the state? Are we beaten and battered so that we care not who runs our industries, who sets the pattern for our national life?

There are indications that such is the the case. . . We sit back, and permit a government owned radio system to dominate the airwaves in Canada and to rule not only itself but its privately-owned competitors. We sit back and let the government operate an exclusive and gigantic air line which shuts out competition. We let our government set up a moving picture production business which becomes not only a great propaganda centre. . . but is also a threat to the existing motion picture industry.

We do not take the trouble to find out what our children are being taught. We think that if we pay no attention to all the trouble around us, it will pass away, of its own accord.

Unfortunately, trouble thrives on our inactivity. This is something we cannot ignore out of existence.

Then, you ask, what can we do? Let us get up and fight for the things in which we believe. Let us stop accepting with complacency the emergence of government in business, the direction of our private lives by an omnipotent state. Let us tell our children and our neighbors' children the truth — not to be afraid of life, not to palm off their futures on some state of paternalism, but go out in the world and accomplish things.

Let us speak through our service organizations and our business and professional groups. Finally, let us show by example what free enterprise can do. Let us give our best to our jobs and let us tell the world what we are doing.

If you and I believe that free men, working through their own companies and in their own way can build a greater Canada, then we should not be ashamed or afraid to stand up and say so.

No Longer Under Ceiling

Persons addicted to nibbling "French Fries" may continue to do so at the same price, but those with a taste for the crunchier potato chips cease to be protected by a price ceiling.

A recent clarification of a Prices Board Order which lists goods and services under price control states that French fried potatoes, water softeners and outboard motors are included in goods under price ceiling.

The notice states that potato chips, pulley blocks and tackle, asbestos and protective clothing including gloves and gauntlets and asbestos protective headwear, are no longer under price control.

Reopening Date Postponed in Four District Schools

CENTRAL BOARD TAKES PRECAUTIONARY MEASURE

The reopening of Lachute High School, Grande Fresniere, Grenville Consolidated and Arundel Intermediate — four schools within the Argenteuil and Two Mountains County Central School Unit — has been postponed from September 3 to September 10. (Notice of the postponement is published elsewhere in this issue.)

Decision on this course was taken at a special meeting of the Central School Board yesterday afternoon in Lachute, with W. M. Cottingham presiding. — It was subsequently explained to this newspaper, the postponement is purely a precautionary measure in view of the sickness epidemic in Montreal and elsewhere, and the inevitable influx of city folk here during the coming holiday weekend.

Other business before the Board concerned vacancies for teachers still remaining in one or two of the smaller rural schools.

The Board gave approval to an extension to the Grande Fresniere School at St. Eustache, authorizing the local commission to issue the contract and proceed with building.

Presbyterians to Mark 114th Anniv. On Sunday, Sep. 1

REV. HENRY COUSINS WILL RETURN TO CONDUCT SPECIAL SERVICES

On the 114th anniversary of the Presbyterian Church in this community — to be marked next Sunday by special services at the Margaret Rodger Memorial Church, with a former minister, the Rev. Henry Cousins, B.A., B.D., as guest speaker — it is interesting to review the growth of Presbyterianism in Lachute and its surrounding district.

Although the settlement of Lachute dates back to 1796, there was no Presbyterian minister of the Gospel here until 1818. . . In the year 1816, 64 persons in the sparsely settled area felt the need of regular Gospel ordinances, and signed a document binding themselves to pay £101 annually for the support of a minister. A committee comprising John and Phineas Hutchins of Lachute, Benjamin Wales and Wm. Blanchard of St. Andrews, and the Rev. Robert Eastman of Montreal, negotiated "with friends and promoters of Christianity in Britain" and secured the services of the Rev. Archibald Henderson, M.A., of Carlisle, England, who came out to St. Andrews in the summer of 1818. The British Government contributed £100 annually towards his stipend. . . The Rev. Henderson thus commenced his ministry in St. Andrews, and as the population increased, established various congregations in the outlying districts. In 1832 the members residing in Lachute and neighborhood "petitioned the Session to disjoin them from the church at St. Andrews",

Five W.I. Branches Report Meetings

Only five branches of the Women's Institute in Argenteuil have reported meetings held in the current month. . . . At Frontier branch a personal parcel was sent to England. One new member was enrolled for the Red Cross. A picnic was held with sports for children and grown-ups, and prizes awarded. The roll-call was — "Frozen Desserts!".

Jerusalem-Bethany branch had an attendance of 18 members. A quilt was pieced, to be given as a gift to a war bride. A pair of flannelette blankets and a breakfast set of dishes were also given. Mrs. Geo. McGibbon gave an interesting talk entitled "What do you know of Agriculture in your County?"

Lakefield. — Fair prize money was given out at the meeting of this branch. Letters were read from Mrs. Hurley and Mrs. Ellard.

Pioneer had 19 members and four visitors present. The roll-call was "First Aid on the Farm." A "get well" card was signed by all present and sent to a member in hospital. A salad tea was planned to help the finances, also a white elephant table at a sale. A talk was given by Miss Lamb, a returned missionary who has spent 20 years in China.

Upper Lachute - East End had 11 members at their meeting; 10 members enrolled for the Blue Cross hospitalization plan. The president attended this meeting, at which a guessing contest was also held.

'Brigade' Feature At St. Andrews Evening Service

SMALL CONTINGENT TO CAMP OVER WEEK-END OF LABOR DAY

Due to the epidemic now prevailing in Montreal, plans of the Boys' Brigade for a large Labor Day camp have had to be cancelled. However, the officers and N.C.O.'s will gather together on this occasion at their well beloved rendez-vous on the Dorion farm at St. Andrews East. They will also bring along their boy soprano soloist Haddon Whitelaw, to assist with the services on Sunday. He has become very popular in many Montreal centres, and will be singing at the service in St. Andrews Church, Westmount, to be broadcast on September 8.

Plans for a special evening service to be held in the Presbyterian Church have been completed. The devotions, to commence at 8 o'clock, will feature a musical portion by the choir and boy soloist, including a good old-fashioned "hymn-sing", as well as a beautiful series of slides on the Life of Christ, in hand coloring, by the famous British artist Wm. Hole. These will be commented upon by Mr. Kenneth MacAlistair, while Capt. J. Howard Richardson will preside at the organ and direct the music.

It is hoped a large congregation will be present to see and hear this program, and join in the service of worship.

New Issue of Ration Books In September

During the week September 9 to 16 more than 12 million new ration books will be issued in Canada. They will be collected by consumers at the 7,000 distribution centres across the Dominion. As in the past, these distribution centres will be staffed by volunteers. Although the national distribution will be accomplished during the specified week, all distribution centres will not be open for the entire period. — The ration board in Lachute will advertise the dates and hours the centres will be open in this district.

There are a few simple rules to be observed to obtain the new book. The consumer is required to fill in the green application card at the back of ration book five. This must be filled in at home as there will be no facilities at the centres for this purpose. The information required on the card is the name, printed in block letters; the serial number as shown on the front cover of ration book five; the age, if applicant is under 16 years, and the signature of the ration book owner. The card will be removed from the ration book by a distributing officer at the centre when the new book is issued.

Children under 16 may not apply for their ration books or those of others. However, any responsible person over 16 may apply for ration books for other members of their family or neighbors, providing the application card has been correctly filled in by the owner. Members of the armed forces will continue to obtain their ration cards from their own units.

Ration officials stress the urgency to obtain Ration Book 6 during the distribution period. People who are travelling or away from home may obtain their new book at any distribution centre in the country, if they have their number five book with them.

Any valid coupons remaining in Ration Book 5 when the new book is issued will remain valid until declared otherwise by the ration administration.

Persons who have been issued extra rations for medical reasons cannot obtain these at distributing centres when they apply for new books. Medical cases must apply at their nearest ration office for these additional rations.

A Word for the Weary

By R. J. DEACHMAN

Members of parliament work long hours. They get down to their offices about 9 o'clock in the morning, look after their correspondence, call on different departments concerning business connected with their constituencies and try to study some of the problems which confront the nation. This will keep them going until after 12. You have to allow about two hours for lunch and conversation with other members. The House meets at 3, adjourns at 6, meets again at 8, sits to 11. Many of these members have committee meetings to attend. A good member of parliament must be a hard working man.

Here is a word of caution — this has been a long session, many members have been far from regular in their attendance. Sitting in the House during hot summer days is hard work — too many members solve the problem by being absent. The best method of improving the situation is to call the House earlier, preferably about November 1st — speed the action and get through by the middle of May so that the boys may go home and get their turnips in.

Reports Enthusiastically on Tour By Automobile to Pacific Coast

Retired Businessman, S. S. Campbell and Family Have Pleasant Memories on Their Return Home

Returning Monday night after a three months' vacation tour to the Pacific Coast, Stuart S. Campbell, retired merchant of this town, speaks in superlatives of the scenes and experiences on his trip. Mr. and Mrs. Campbell and daughter, Miss Betty Campbell, covered a distance of about 10,800 miles—travelling well over 9,700 miles in their own car, and the remainder by boat and other means of conveyance. Their auto performed with utmost satisfaction, and they encountered no mishap to mar the trip.

By highway and by Great Lakes steamer, Mr. Campbell and his family took the western trip by easy stages, visiting numerous relatives and renewing acquaintance with many former residents of these parts now living in the West.

On their trek they passed through Michigan and Wisconsin States. At Calgary they "took in" the great Stampede. Later, an impressive stretch of the westward drive was the old Caribou Trail, approaching Wells and Barkerville where they visited more relatives — a rough mining country little polished with the trend of modern progress. At Salmon Arm and Revelstoke, B.C., they stayed with two nephews — sons of the Campbell family so intimately linked with the pioneer days around Dalesville and Lachute.

— And the most spectacular sight of the trip was the Grand Coulee Dam, which they visited in Washington State. . The Coulee Dam, according to Mr. Campbell's impression, is a showplace typical of so many great American sites. The largest dam in the world, there are eight miles of tunnels beneath its workings. Visitors are conveyed over a miniature railroad, and on every hand, there is evidence of a showmanship as notable as the immensity of this structural achievement. . . The heat, however, proved unbearable. About the time the Campbells visited the spot, the mercury was hovering around 105 in the shade!

The visitors enjoyed a lengthy stop-over at Vancouver and Victoria. At the latter place, the climate and surroundings may prove the star attraction in their next visit to the Coast — which, even now, seems well germinated in Mr. Campbell's future plans.

The return trip was made in shorter time, and the green grass and flourishing crops back home were sights to gladden their homecoming in old Quebec.

Among the numerous old acquaintances from these parts whom the travellers visited on their trip were — Howard Joss, Jake Drennan, William, Angus and John Hay, Ike Boyd, Jim Dobbie, Ross Hume, Mr. and Mrs. Kyle Patterson (the former Miss Jean McGibbon), Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nichol, and Mrs. McHugh (the former Miss Laura McGibbon).

Stuart Campbell, much benefitted by his change of scene, speaks most cordially of the friendship and hospitality enjoyed by his family throughout their adventurous holiday.

Snake Invades Police Quarters

Police Chief Wm. Desrochers of Brownsburg is a man of ample physique and fortitude — but he confesses to certain inward misgivings at a sight which confronted him Tuesday night. Entering his office around 9 p.m., he found a 20-inch snake curled up on the floor near his chair. Chief Desrochers made short work of the intruder; but how the reptile entered his headquarters, situated in a new concrete building and entered by two doors, remains an unsolved mystery in local police annals.

Bell Telephone Appointments

Lawrence W. Ball has been appointed Bell Telephone manager for this territory, with headquarters at St. Jerome — it is announced. Mr. Ball will succeed J. J. Morrin, manager here for the past ten years, on September 1.

In addition to St. Jerome, Mr. Ball will act as manager for the exchanges at Brownburg, Lachute, Oka, St. Andrews East, St. Eustache, Ste. Scholastique, Ste. Therese and Shawbridge.

Mr. Ball joined the telephone company at Sherbrooke in April, 1936, and had since served in various capacities at Trois Rivieres and Montreal, on the staffs of both the provincial and Laurentian districts. At the time of his present appointment, he was manager at St. Johns.

Mr. Morrin has been promoted to division commercial engineer in the newly formed Quebec division of the Company, with headquarters in Montreal.

Frank J. Shaughnessy, Jr., has been apponted Bell Telephone manager for exchanges at Arundel, Labelle, Morin Heights, Ste. Adele, St. Jovite and Ste. Marguerite, with headquarters at Ste. Agathe, to take up his new duties September 1.

As the first full-time telephone manager at Ste. Agathe, Mr. Shaughnessy's appointment indicates the growing importance of the Laurentian resort area as a telephone-using region.

Mr. Shaughnessy joined the Bell sales staff at Montreal in October, 1936. In June, 1942, he obtained leave of absence and serving overseas in the Royal Canadian Artillery, rose to the rank of captain; he was mentioned in dispatches for gallantry in action.

One of eight sons of "Shag" Shaughnessy, head of the International Baseball League and famed sports figure, Mr. Shaughnessy himself played hockey at Loyola College and McGill University, and was a member of the American Olympic team which competed in Germany in 1936.

Fire Call Last Night

Short-circuits cause fires — and vice versa — but at an early hour this morning when good townsfolk were sleeping soundly, an electric meter developed a defect, caught fire, then fizzled out; but not before the fire alarm had disrupted slumbers far and wide, and Fire Chief Deacon and his men had rushed equipment to the scene.

The incident occurred shortly after four a.m. at the Molson Brewery warehouse owned by Godfrey Delorme, on Main Street west. An upstairs tenant, Henri Joly, smelled smoke and on investigating found flames issuing from the meter box on the first floor. He then turned in the alarm. No material damage resulted from the outbreak.

We often wondered why unmarried women are called spinsters. Well, it seems that years ago an Anglo-Saxon woman did not marry until she had spun a full set of household linen — hence unmarried women were spinners or spinsters. "Wife", on the other hand, comes from the Anglo-Saxon word meaning "to weave", and originally meant "one who has been a spinner," or "one who has already woven her allotted task." This should be of interest to our female readers. — Exchange

C.N. STATION AGENT TRANSFERRED FROM ST. ANDREWS EAST

(Our District Correspondent)

St. Andrews East — C. Bolduc, for the past nine years station agent for the C.N.R., has moved to Fresnière, Que. He and Mme. Bolduc will be greatly missed from the community. Both were good neighbors and took a friendly interest in young folk. Mr. Bolduc personally delivered the telegrams concerning the boys overseas, and his grief or joy, as the cabled news was sad or glad, was both sincere and heartfelt.

FARM TOPICS

4,000 Polish Soldiers For Canada

Preparations to bring to Canada the 4,000 Polish soldiers now in Italy, are nearing completion, according to Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, Minister of Labor. This plan was announced in the House of Commons recently.

To select the men to be permitted entry to Canada for farm work, the Department of Labor has arranged for representatives of Immigration, R.C.M.P. and the Labor Department itself to go to Italy. The six Government officers selected to go from Canada left August 17 by air, proceeding to London where they were joined by a medical officer of the Department of National Health and Welfare.

The mission is headed by H. R. Hare, a technical agriculturalist and employment advisor on farm labor. The Labor Department will check on the suitability of the Polish applicants for farm work in Canada.

The United Kingdom Government is giving full co-opration in this movement and is providing the transport and paying all costs of transportation to Canada. As well as this, they will pay the war gratuities and clothing allowance to each man, according to the rates paid dischargees in the British Army.

Upon arrival in Canada, which it is expected will be in October, the Polish soldiers will be placed under direction on farms for a period of two years.

Quebec Farm Credits

The number of borrowers from the Quebec Farm Credit Bureau to have entirely repaid their loans, increased by 118 in the month of July alone, according to Hon. Laurent Barré. Most of those who thus paid in advance still had some 20 years to meet payment. They preferred to discharge their debt immediately, thus setting an example which is followed by an ever increasing number of farmers.

Minister Warns Against Unsound Investments

"The farming community, after years of toil and steady saving, must now proceed very cautiously in the investment of their money". This timely advice came from the Quebec Minister of Agriculture. "Everybody is free to take chances", said the Minister, "but those who want to maintain their savings, laboriously set aside, and such is the case of a large number of farmers, must be very careful. A man who has to improve his farm, raise a family, and provide for his old age, cannot afford to make risky investments. Information should be obtained before investing. A farmer's best investment is still his own farm."

Poultrymen to Meet

The first annual meeting of the Quebec Poultry Co-operative will be held September 10 at the Queen's Hotel, Montreal, and all proprietors of hatcheries, whether privately owned or co-operative, who are members of the Society, are invited to attend The complete program covering the meeting will be announced by the are members of the Society, are association.

OBITUARY

Community of Stonefield Loses Esteemed Citizen

The Late George Moncrieff

Stonefield — On the morning of August 19 this community was shocked by the sudden passing of George Moncrieff, whose death occurred at his home. Mr. Moncrieff, in his 67th year, had been suffering from the effects of a recent accident which occurred on his farm.

He was the beloved husband of Ellen Burke. The eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Moncrieff, he was born in St. Michael's in the year 1879. He was married in 1906, and moved to Plaisance, living there for 16 years; he then took up residence here.

Farming was his occupation — besides which he always took an active part in the welfare of the community. He was a member of the L.O.L. for 47 years; a past master, he was at the time of his death an honorary member of the Order. He was a member too, of the L.O.B.A. 210, Grenville, Que. Also he served his community as a councillor for several years. Mr. Moncrieff was a man of quiet, unassuming nature, always ready to render kindly assistance and advice to those in need.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, four daughters and three sons — Violet (Mrs. Stanley Dewar); Florence (Mrs. Florence Hauptmann, in Bonn, Germany); Ivy (Mrs. Harris Dewar); Gertrude, at home; Edward and Garfield at home; Gordon, of Montreal, also four grandchildren. There remain also three sisters and two brothers — Mrs. J. Shute, Montreal, Mrs. J. Clifford, Dunany, Mrs. Geo. Rae, Vancouver, B.C., Leonard and Norman, Vancouver, B.C.

The funeral, held Wednesday, August 21 in St. Matthew's Anglican Church at Grenville, Que., was attended by numerous friends and relatives. The Rev. A. E. Hawes officiated. Interment took place at St. Andrews East Cemetery, where an Orange service was held by L.O.L. 58 and other brethren of the Order. Pall-bearers were— Messrs. Thomas Canning, Jack Clifford, Ross Matthew, William Burke, Lawrence Gauley and Eddie Gauley.

Among those present from out-of-town were — Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Porteous, Mr. Archie Janes, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shute, Mr. Wm. Sauvé, Mrs. Leslie Clifford, of Montreal; Mr. Norman Shute, of Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Burke and sons, Howard and Harold, of Cornwall; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Clifford, Mrs. Leonard Gain, of Dunany; John Moncrieff, Wm. Moncrieff, E. Moore, Mrs. Ed Gray, Mrs. M. Boyd, of Arundel; Mr. S. Lavigne, of Hawkesbury.

The floral tributes were many, showing the high esteem in which the deceased was held in this community.

YES...BUT WHAT IS IT WORTH?

Little you care how much silver is contained in the 50c piece you take into a store. What you want to know is what it will buy.

Well, that depends very much on yourself, ourselves, and the millions of others like us. If free and careless spending brings inflation, your 50c piece will buy less and less as prices rise . . . how much less, no one can say.

How? . . . By conservation in your personal finances . . .

Here are five ways you can fight inflation:

- Hold on to your Victory Bonds
- Buy only those goods which are in fair supply and save your money for the day when goods now in short supply will be readily available
- Avoid black market purchases
- Keep up your insurance
- Build up your savings account

This is conservation—the first requisite for personal security—the first attribute of good citizenship.

If You Are a No.1 Citizen You will look after No.1...

This is not selfishness, but the realization that a community is no better, no sounder than its citizens.

A National Calamity

THE PRESENT wave of strikes in Canada is seriously affecting our position in world trade. We are already beginning to lose the advantage in production which we held at war's end, and other countries are beginning to cut in on markets which Canada should be serving. The loss of 1,626,296 man-days in the first half of this year is nothing short of a national calamity.

Who is responsible for the calling of these strikes? It would be a pretty good guess to say that communistic-minded conspirators are having a hand in a campaign to cripple the country industrially. Study of the names of organizers reveals that a number of them were interned during the war as enemies of the country. If they were harmful to our national safety then, what about now? If Labor Minister Mitchell doesn't know about them, we suggest he contact the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

We are losing valuable markets through non-production. An import-export agent tells us that British dealers are right on the job with almost every variety of article, and already Britain has passed her 1938 export volume. The agent informs us that he has regained contact with more than a dozen foreign countries all with goods for sale to Canada. They want to buy Canadian goods, too, but the agent says strikes are keeping down production to such a level that he has little to offer them. — Where are the automobiles, the radios, the refrigerators, the farm machinery and other articles we hoped would be coming off the production lines in quantity by now? The representative of a national company told us last week that the firm's quota of bathtubs for each month is only eleven, and the company has more salesmen than that.

Surely some formula can be agreed upon so that men will go back to work while union and company officials iron out their differences. If not, then every Canadian will have to pay dearly for this unfortunate situation.

A Bountiful Harvest

CROP REPORTS from all over the country point to a bountiful harvest. In centres where cutting has already taken place excellent yields are reported, while the uncut grains are ripening fast.

Gathering the harvest is a time of hard work, yet it is an enjoyable task since it means the realization of the hopes which farmers held weeks ago when seeding was done. The ripened grains now stand as proof of man's faith in the soil. The bountiful yield is a sign of Nature's generosity.

All the long hours that farmers have toiled in caring for their crops, millions of eager eyes have watched from across the seas. They are hungry, and their lives depend on the success of Canadian farmers. — And Providence must have heard, because the yield is good.

When the end of the year comes and the farmer counts up his profits, he will have more than financial gain to write down. Like the surgeon, he will be able to write under the heading "Lives Saved". And his heart will be filled with joy.

THE BRITISH, who allowed thousands of refugee Jews from Germany find a sanctuary in the United Kingdom in 1939, are now being slandered by Jewish organizations in the United States. Britain is trying to find a just and fair solution to the Palestine problem, but American politicians are playing politics with an eye to votes. The Empire is still the greatest upholder of freedom in the world today.

THE WAY delegates are fighting for peace at the Paris conference, it's a wonder war hasn't been declared already.

HAVE ANY of the Nuremberg war criminals died of old age yet?

Poor Business

STRIKES are poor business. "Not until early in 1948", wrote Sumner H. Slichter, of Harvard, in a recent issue of the Atlantic Monthly, "will the workers of General Motors be as well off as they would have been had they not gone on strike recently. Not until 1953 would they be as well off as they would have been had they accepted the company's offer of 17½ cents. The employees of the United States Steel Corporation will require more than two years before they have made up for their refusal of the Company's offer of 15c increase". No mention is here made of the losses of those who now must pay more for things they buy. That's a big item.

A Broader Outlook for Education

PARENTS are busy these days outfitting children with books and clothes for a new school term and now, probably more than at any other time of the year, their thoughts turn to the kind of education their boys and girls are to receive. The question is important, because viewpoints formed now will determine the outlook of today's young people for years to come.

Many believe emphasis should be placed on international matters rather than on subjects of only regional, or even national, concern. As distances shrink before the strides of modern communications, it becomes increasingly vital that students come to regard people of other lands as neighbors instead of strange beings who inhabit areas indicated by purple, orange or green patches on a map or globe.

Canadians and Americans for years have exchanged vacation and business visits and many of them have gone at least once in their lifetime to the British Isles or to Europe. Now they can go farther afield. Trips to Mexico, Bermuda, the British West Indies, Alaska and parts of South America are coming within reach of Canadian vacationists and travel facilities are bringing people of other lands to Canada. In the same way, new airlines almost daily add links to the network between North America and other continents. Great circle routes, airways men say, soon will put Canada at the hub of the world's communication lines.

To keep pace with new horizons, Canadian youth need a world outlook. They require not only new concepts of geography, history and economics but also special skills for working and travelling. For example, command of several languages soon may be requisite.

As Canadians more and more become world citizens, other nations are bound to return visits and to take increased interest in this country and to make vacation and business visits as commercial contacts develop. With the example of its peaceful relations with the United States a matter of history, Canada is in a good position to strengthen friendly ties with many other countries.

To do that, its youth of today must be brought up as world citizens. If they succeed in taking their places with grace and dignity in the family of nations, they will have done much to maintain international peace.

SPENDTHRIFT children don't make good citizens, a writer on family affairs states. They don't make rich parents, either.

TOURIST TRAVEL from the United States has not, so far this year, reached proportions anticipated earlier in the year. One reason given for the decrease in travel is the automobile situation. Another reason put forth is that after six years of staying at home, people are visiting friends and relatives in their own areas; all of which leads us to believe that another year will see the heavy influx of visitors expected this year.

Says Co-operation Held Price Line

Team Work Stressed At M.R.A. Assembly

Mackinac Island, Mich. (CP) — Co-operation between bakery operators, labor and the federal government kept Canadian bread prices at pre-war levels, but the ceiling on United States loaves rose twice since the war ended — G. Cecil Morrison of Ottawa said at the recent Moral Re-armament Assembly. The president of the Morrison-Lamonthe Bakery of Ottawa and former Price Board Administrator of bakery products, said the price line on bread had been held in Canada despite increases of 25 per cent in wages and more than 30 per cent in ingredients.

"When a group of men are out to co-operate, nothing can stop them — whether it's management and labor in a plant, or industry and government across the nation," he said. "We don't need government intervention if we have team work among the bakers. If we are going to have free enterprise in a democracy, we've got to learn to govern ourselves.

"The greatest threat to free enterprise is 'cry-baby business'. I am talking about top management. We draw big pay and say we have the brains. And we run to the government because we cannot agree with labor or work with ourselves. We think we can anticipate markets, but why can't we anticipate when our workers need a raise?

"What happens in our country is that management drags its heels and when followed by unavoidable government delay, it takes months to get a 10 per cent raise through. By that time labor is sore and wonders why they didn't ask for a 20 per cent raise and feel they might have gotten 15 per cent. We then have lost the goodwill of the workers and production has likely gone down. So management is saddled with increased labor costs and lower production."

NEW AUTOS WITH WOODEN BUMPERS

(Ottawa Farm Journal)

We can see now on Ottawa streets the odd spectacle of beautiful new automobiles with a wooden bumper bolted across the rear — like a house with a stone front and a clapboard back.

It woud be nice to think that the manufacturers were seeking to take some of the luxury and some of the cost out of motor cars by putting on a bumper which could be replaced for a dollar or so if it were broken in an accident, but this is not the case. The wooden scantling will be replaced by a massive affair of chromium-plated steel in due course so that symmetry and luxury may be maintained.

Nevertheless it is interesting to contemplate, even briefly, this utility bumper, a piece of unpainted wood on a vehicle which otherwise is a triumph of metal, wood, rubber, paint, and human ingenuity. It takes us back to the days of the farm wagon, which was a simple affair with four wheels and a plank platform and was strictly utilitarian in all its purposes, and changed but little in centuries. It reminds us of the immense changes which the last few years have brought about — from that farm wagon to the lovely, smooth, powerful motor car of today which still sometimes reaches back to the past for one of its parts.

Dizzy Dialogue

By FRED KERNER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The bases are "respectable" when Dizzy Dean takes over the microphone to broadcast baseball games from St. Louis. But despite this so-called respectability, the schoolteachers of Missouri don't like the Dean's broadcasts.

Dizzy's dizzy burling was no dizzier than his grammar, but his syntax may find him hurled out in the street before long. It seems the teachers have complained to the Federal Communications Commission and teacher swings a lot of influence — as well as a mean ruler, remember?

When the Diz was a diamond celebrity a decade ago, his performance was colorful and individualistic. And it is this same style he now uses before a "mike." The fans love it and that's just what the teachers fear. They think their pupils will acquire the Dizzy "slanguage" and that'll be the end of long hours put into grammar lessons.

A few of the Dizzyisms are "purty good", as they say down "Missoura Way". The umpire is invariably referred to as "Jesse James" or "one of the James boys." No hidden feeling there! And a weak hitter in Dean-talk is a "buttercup".

But when Diz gives out with "he slud safe into second" and "he was throwed out at third", then the schoolmarms throw up their arms in disgust.

Other Diz-dialogue includes:

"The runners held their respectable bases."

"He is standing confidentially at the plate."

"Don't fail to miss tomorrow's game."

There's one consolation. Diz admits he "butchers the English language" — a bit. But, he says, kids today have a chance to go to school.

He must have been "throwed out" of his classes.

* * *

The other day in Oakland, Nebraska, a relief pitcher won a baseball game without even hurling a ball. The reliefer went to the mound in the eighth with two out, the bases loaded and the score tied. As he wound up for his first pitch the opposing team's third base coach tried a bluff by running down the third base line.

The umpire — Jesse James that he was — called a third out since the coach left his coaching box. That retired the side without the pitcher going into action.

Because the original relief hurler went into the game with the score tied and was pulled when his team was a run ahead, he was listed as the winning pitcher.

Nice work — if you can get it!

Hold It!

Hastings, N.Z. (CP) — Because post-war hydro-electric development has not caught up with the demand in New Zealand regular power cuts for periods of an hour have been necessary in New Zealand this winter. But an 8½ pound baby foiled the Central Hawke's Bay Power Commission's rationing plans. Just before the time for the first cut-off in a recent period an urgent telephone call was received from a maternity hospital. A new baby was expected at any minute — and the lights had to stay on.

Germans Being Taught Democracy Through the Local Council Chamber

In Germany the Allied Military Government is engaged in the biggest task of education ever attempted. It is trying to teach democracy to a nation brought up to believe that might is right and blind obedience the citizen's only duty. In this story from "Local Government Service," organ of the National Association of Local Government Officers (England), an officer of the Control Commission tells the story of how it is being done — by forming local councils inspired by the British spirit.

The rapid restoration of the public services of a badly blitzed town in England was largely due to the energy and devotion of countless local government officers of every grade. They, perhaps better than anyone else, will be able to grasp the magnitude of the problem that faced Military Government in the early days after the defeat of Germany. To cope with material ravages of war was bad enough, but the task was complicated by the almost complete collapse of the German administrative system. Throughout a large part of Germany, the wheels of local government were at a standstill. The public services had broken down. In many places there was neither gas nor electricity. The water supply was restricted, and was often of doubtful purity. Many of the leading officials had disappeared and the remainder were too deeply compromised with Nazism to be acceptable. The few police that remained were disorganized. The normal standards of life had of necessity disappeared, and in the "black" areas, at any rate, the citizens had relapsed into a state not far removed from that of primitive man.

The first task of military government was to restore the essential services on which life depends. Some kind of make-shift German administration was established. Measures were taken to prevent the spread of epidemics. The streets were cleared of rubble. A new police force was recruited. The supply of food was organized. Gradually, order began to appear out of chaos, and more or less normal life returned to the town.

A Long-Term Policy

This was the first stage of Military Government, and it lasted, very roughly, until August, 1945. Some day, it may be hoped, the story will be told to the world of all that was accomplished by the British and American Military Government teams that followed up behind our advancing troops — and in many cases almost overran them. But since then, Military Government has grown up. The period of improvisation has passed and it is now concerned, not with "first-aid," but with a long-term policy. The problems that face it are different in kind but are no less difficult to solve. If the Military Government Officer can now get to bed before mid-night, it does not mean that his work has become less important or less urgent; and one of the most important problems to be solved is the restoration of local self-government on a democratic basis, in accordance with the policy laid down at the Potsdam Conference. Military Government was bound to be the directing force in the early stages, but we have not got the manpower available to go on exercising a detailed supervision over the administration. Nor would it be desirable for us to do so. If ever the occupation is to achieve its ends, the Germans must be taught to manage their own affairs.

It is a strange and a difficult lesson that the Germans have to learn. There had, of course, been local self-government of a sort in Germany for long before the Nazi regime, but it had always been deeply tinged with authoritarianism. Under the Nazis, the system became frankly autocratic. In accordance with the "Fuehrer principle", policy and the execution of that policy were combined in one man, the Buergermeister, who was responsible not to an elected council, but to the man above him. He in turn was responsible to a higher official, and so on through the graded heirarchy of German administration, until eventually all power was concentrated in the Fuehrer himself.

The aim in the British Zone is to establish a new conception of democracy, and one that will be strong enough to withstand the challenge of any authoritarian regime that may attempt to emerge in the future. The first principle was to begin at the lowest level, in the parish, the town, and the rural district. As a first measure of democracy, instructions were issued in September for the establishment at these levels of nominated representative councils. As their name implies, these councils were to be nominated by the Local Military Government Commander and were to be as representative as possible of all sections of the community. Nor were they to be merely advisory councils, designed to utter complacent approval of the actions of the Buergermeister. They are designed as executive councils and it is emphasized throughout that, subject to the overriding authority of Military Government, each is responsible for the local government of its own particular area.

There are about 8,000 parishes in the British Zone, nearly 140 large rural districts, and about sixty county boroughs. In all these, except in the smallest parishes, councils have already been established or are being established. There have

Do you know Quebec? Do you know, for example, that commercial fishing provides an annual income, reaching as high as four million dollars, for some 15,000 Quebec people? Back of this industry is a capital of $3,500,000 invested in some ninety canning and processing plants, over 6,000 boats, nets, traps and wharves. Principal grounds are off the Gaspé Coast and the north shore of the lower St. Lawrence; most important catches, cod, mackerel, herring, salmon, smelt and lobster.

Realizing its importance economically, the Provincial Government has done much to encourage fishing through financial aid for the establishment of co-operative societies. Similarly it has helped develop Quebec's other basic resources.

Here we have further evidence of how carefully the people of Quebec guard their birthright . . . of how, through their industry and ingenuity, they are planning today to enjoy the opportunities of tomorrow as Canada fulfils her Destiny.

QUEBEC BUILDS FOR THE FUTURE

In 1608 Champlain brought the first colonists to Quebec. Today, Quebec's population is 3,000,000, her retail trade $800,000,000.00 per year. She leads all Provinces in the production of hydro-electric power, textiles, lumber, newsprint, footwear, processed tobacco, asbestos and aluminum. Natural resources, agriculture and transportation are being developed wisely. And now, Quebec, her people deep-rooted in the love of their homeland, prepares to share with her sister Provinces, Canada's bright and glorious future!

BE PROUD OF YOUR QUEBEC—IT IS PART OF YOUR CANADA

This message is one of a series being published so that you may know and appreciate the greatness of Quebec and its important role in Canada's wonderful destiny.

and on July 11, 1932, the separate congregation came into existence here, under pastoral care of the Rev. William Brunton, formerly of Ste. Therese.

The building of a church in 1833-4, and the progress of Presbyterianism from this stage, make an interesting chronicle.

Coming to comparatively recent times . . . on the consummation of Church Union in 1925, the Presbyterian pastorate here was continued by student ministers until the induction of the Rev. Henry Cousins in March 1926. The congregation worshipped in the Baptist Church for some time, until purchasing the vacant Methodist building. The Presbyterians were then encouraged to proceed with their present church building through a generous gift from the late William Rodger. Details of construction were proceeded with. The cornerstone was laid, in May 1932, by the late Mrs. Agnes Mackie. . .

About this time it is recorded that the centenary of the Lachute Presbyterian Church was observed (July 10, 1932). "A crowded service was held in the Lachute Auditorium. Gratitude, rejoicing and optimism were the keynote of the celebrations." The Rev. H. Cousins conducted these observances — the congregation of St. Andrews, with their minister the late Rev. Dr. R. L. Ballantyne, also taking part.

The Margaret Rodger Memorial Church was completed and dedicated in late September, 1932. The structure was cleared of all indebtedness in December, 1938, and the burning of the mortgage early in the new year was a milestone of good omen and high hope. The Rev. E. Orsborn became minister in April, 1939, continuing until February, 1946. His successor is the present minister, the Rev. Charles Maclean, B.A.

The topic of the guest speaker, Rev. Henry Cousins, next Sunday at the 114th anniversary services, will be "The 114 Aims of the Presbyterian Church".

"Lachute and the surrounding community will always be in debt to the quality of the early pioneers who settled here and laid the foundations of its present religious, educational and business interests. Many of these were of Scottish and Northern Irish stock, and by conviction were staunch Presbyterians. In religious devotion, and loyalty to king and country, these Presbyterians were zealous. From their ranks, volunteers for the Christian Ministry and missionary work of the Church have gladly gone forth to serve, and have left their mark. During two world wars her manhood and womanhood have readily enlisted in large numbers, as the Honor Rolls eloquently testify. In addition, numerous teachers and successful business men who have enriched the life of this country received their early religious education and inspiration in this cradle of Presbyterianism.

"This work continues with its ever widening influence in the present membership of the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church. Modest in their achievements, loyal and industrious in their service, and courageous in adversity, they face the future with the same hope and confidence as their fathers before them".

OLDSTERS FINISH SIX-MONTH TREK

Mule-Drawn Chuck Wagon Takes Couple to New Home

Dayton, Wash.(CP) — Mike and Kate plodded into town, pulling a chuck wagon, and a long trip was over for 76-year-old Jimmy Light and his wife Minnie, 58.

Last February they left their home at Corpus Christi, Texas, and started on the long trek to make their home with Light's sister, Lillian Gay, at Dayton.

In six months the two mules, and a third as a "spare", had slogged along at 30 to 35 miles a day, pausing only occasional days to rest.

"We've had our share of trouble and more along the way", Light said, his battered 10-gallon hat pulled down nearly over his eyes. "In Denver we went broke, had to sell a couple of plows and some harness so we could eat. And a young hoodlum threw a beer bottle at Enod's leg and cut it and we had to swap him off for the mare".

In Wyoming two trucks with bees aboard parked beside them. "Like to stung me and Minnie to death", he said.

The big trouble, though, said Minnie, was the way trucks and automobiles whizzed by: "You can't keep the dust out of a blessed thing".

Lachute Man Takes Bride in Ceremony At Sherbrooke

Beattie - Lee

The marriage of Betty Marilla, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Lee, of Sherbrooke, Que., to Mr. J. Ross Beattie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. C. Beattie, of Lachute, took place at Sherbrooke, at four o'clock Saturday afternoon in the Baptist Church, the Rev. D. W. Terry of Montreal officiating.

Ferns and baskets of pink gladioli and hydrangeas were used to decorate. Mr. Wright W. Gibson played the wedding music and Mrs. Wright W. Gibson sang "O Joy be Thine", by Sanderson.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of blush satin, with a tight fitting bodice having a sweetheart neckline, long sleeves ending in points over her hands, and full gathered skirt falling in a slight train. Her floor-length veil of tulle illusion was held by a coronet of matching tulle and band of sweetheart roses. She carried a cascade bouquet of Happy Day roses and white sweet peas. Her only ornament was a string of pearls, the gift of the groom.

Mrs. Hector C. Reid, of Quebec City, sister of the bride, was matron of honor; she wore an original model of pink brocaded organza with matching mitts and headdress, and carried a cascade bouquet of variegated sweet peas.

Mr. Grant Beattie, of Lachute, brother of the groom, acted as best man, and ushers were Mr. Hector C. Reid, of Quebec City, and Mr. George McClintock, of Sherbrooke.

Mrs. Lee, the bride's mother, wore a musk green crepe gown with matching accessories and a corsage of pink delight roses. Mrs. Beattie, mother of the groom, was in a gown of grey figured crepe with black accessories and wore a corsage of American Beauty roses.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Beattie left for Montreal and the Saguenay trip, the bride travelling in a powder blue suit with navy blue top coat and navy blue accessories. She wore a corsage of American Beauty roses.

Out-of-town guests incuded Mrs. Jas. C. Beattie, mother of the groom, Miss Mabel Beattie, Mr. Grant Beattie, Mr. and Mrs. R. Thompson, of Lachute; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Woodside, Miss Mary Lee, Mr. Frank Lee, of Smiths Falls, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Reid, of Quebec City; the Rev. D. W. Terry, Mrs. George Youpes, Mrs. Mabel Chambers, of Montreal; Mrs. Wm. Dawson, of Kitchener, Ont.; Mrs. Lloyd Cartwright, of Hamilton, Ont.

Germans Being Taught Democracy

been inevitable difficulties, most of them foreseen. The political apathy of the German people (the natural product of twelve years' political regimentation), the shortage of trained administrators, the concentration of energy upon the pressing economic problems of the day, have all had to be taken into account. On the whole, however, the results achieved to date have been satisfactory.

The next step will be the establishment of similar councils at higher levels of government. The English have no parallel to the complicated system of regional government that exists in Germany. Between the Stadtkreis (county borough) or the Landkreis (large rural district, almost equivalent in status to an English county) and the State come at least one, and in most cases two, intermediate levels of government. Nominated regional councils are to be set up at these levels, also.

The final stage of development will be the replacement of these nominated councils by elected councils. Meanwhile, the Germans are getting valuable practice, through the nominated councils, in the give-and-take of popular discussion that is the foundation of true democracy.

The establishment of councils, even of elected councils, is not in itself enough to ensure that German democracy is firmly rooted. In the belief that local government is the basis of democracy, we shall aim to decentralize power as far as possible to the lowest units of government. We shall seek to dissolve the unholy alliance that has hitherto existed in Germany between politics and the civil service by separating the policy-making functions of the representatives of the people from the executive functions of the professional civil servants, and we shall seek to recognize the German civil service in such a way that its members regard themselves no longer as a privileged caste, but rather as the servants of the community.

Expert Advisers Needed

These administrative reforms will be accompanied by a concerted drive to arouse the dormant political consciousness of the German people. Democracy is not merely an elaborate piece of machinery. A community is nothing more than the sum total of the men and women who live in it. The Germans have to learn, or to re-learn, the lesson that every citizen has some share in the responsibility for his own government. Already, political parties have been authorized throughout the British Zone — in the first instance, at Kreis level, for it is in the Kreis that the parties are able to grapple with the practical problems of local government, rather than with abstract ideologies.

It is clear that these developments call for wise and unobstructive supervision if they are to be successful. It is a task that needs patience, tolerance, common sense and enthusiasm. These qualities the ordinary Military Government Officer has in abundance; but he needs also to have at his disposal some more expert knowledge of the problems of local government, combined with a trained political sense. It is for this reason that the resources of Military Government within the British Zone are being augmented by the recruitment of a number of local government specialists. These specialists will be stationed in small towns at the more important centres of Military Government, to advise the Commander, and the Commanders of the subordinate detachments, on the complicated problems that are bound to arise as they press on with the re-establishment of local self-government. Theirs will be a job without precedent, of which the potential value can scarcely be exaggerated. The qualifications they will require are both personal and technical. In addition to political sense, they must have plenty of initiative and resource; at the same time, it is essential that they should have had experience of local government or administration in the United Kingdom or in some part of the empire.

Johannesburg — Postmen in Harrismith, Orange Free State, get a headache every time they visit Warden Street. The first house is No. 3, which is followed by 7 and then 9. After that comes No. 5, then another 7, followed by 15. No. 21 nestles between 149 and 163.

When the local council called for bidders for numbering the houses they accepted the lowest bidder, and only when the contract was completed did they discover that the bidder was illiterate.

Man-Carrying Kites

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

It is just revealed that the Germans had kites aboard their submarines which were capable of taking to the air carrying a man who was towed behind the U-boat and from his position was able to act as "spotter" for the craft, either possible prey for torpedoes, or possible attackers.

More than 50 years ago Captain B.F.S. Baden-Powell, a brother of the late founder and chief of the Boy Scouts, who was a Guards officer, built a kite 36 feet high that lifted a man 100 feet in the air for observation purposes. Later he got better results by making a multiple kite which was really five kites in one, and that type was used in British Army manoeuvres for several years.

Diabetics Get Seaside Holiday

London school children, most of whom, owing to the war, had never had a holiday, let alone seen the sea, are now able to spend a wonderful fortnight of their lives in a holiday camp at Walton-on-the-Naze, Essex. A novel feature of the camp is the installation under canvas of a treatment centre for diabetic children. ABOVE: Even if their bathing costumes are of pre-war vintage, these youngsters have certainly got up-to-date ideas as to how to enjoy themselves!

Hints for Homebodies

By Jessie Allen Brown

This is Mrs. Geoffrey Brown's last article to The Watchman. Hundreds of housewives whose work has been lightened by her hints — hundreds of mothers who have found help in their problems — will miss her lively column. "I have enjoyed my work with the weeklies", writes Mrs. Brown, "but after 17 years I am getting weary of always having to meet a deadline". .. On behalf of all the homebodies who regularly read this page, we pay tribute to a genial writer and friend. — The Publishers

MAINE

Before I had ever been in Maine I had the idea it was a poor backwoods country. Some of it is, but most of Maine is a prosperous, interesting state. The houses are a delight. Practically all of them are wooden and most of them are painted white, with just enough yellow ones with plenty of white trim, to provide diversity. There are a great many large houses, and so many of them have several smaller buildings attached, the woodshed, the dairy, and the barn. Many of the barns are very large and such good looking barns. Maine must be a paint salesman's Paradise. The buildings are all painted and you seldom see any which need painting — even the large barns are painted. Besides the large Colonial type of houses, there are many Cape Cod ones, and these too have their attached buildings. Then there is the occasional salt-box type of architecture. They certainly go in for tourists in a big way. So many of those beautiful, large homes have tourist signs, that when you find one that hasn't, it comes as a surprise. In our country most of the people who live in homes of this size would think it beneath their dignity to take tourists. The Maine forests are beautiful and there are places where you drive mile after mile through them without a sign of a house.

HOUSING

Housing is one of our greatest needs and it is the one thing which has changed very little over centuries. Houses are still built, piece by piece, by hand. How many of us would have cars if each car had to be built as an individual unit? It is said that people will not buy factory-made houses because they want their home to be different from their neighbors'. It should not be difficult to have houses in different models and even a slight difference in the lines of a porch and a different paint scheme makes a surprising difference in the appearance of a house. So far the pre-fabricated houses all seem to be very small. There is a great need for a slightly larger house which will take care of the needs of a family. If houses are too small there is no room for privacy and if we hope to keep families at home there must be room enough. Changes in method of building of houses are long over due.

GOOD MANAGEMENT

When a woman is spoken of as being a good manager it usually means she manages money well. Yet, there are other ways of being a good manager, such as time and work. A neighbor I had always seemed to have herself and house looking spick and span no matter when you went to her house. She wasn't a slave to her work but it always seemed to be done. I asked her how she managed this. She told me that when she was first married she had a neighbor who was one of those wonderful housekeepers with everything always perfect. This woman was very kind and used often to run in to give her something or for some reason or other. Too frequently she was caught with either herself or her house looking not at their best. She started before even her breakfast dishes were done to see that she looked right herself and then she spent a few minutes tidying the house. She got the habit of making things look right in the eyes of her fussy neighbor and has never given un that habit. Really, it is a good plan. It probably does not take five minutes to tidy up and if things are tidy it does not seem to matter so much if the actual cleaning has not been done.

PICTURES FOR CHILDREN

One of those girls with good ideas and deft hands makes very attractive pictures for children's rooms. She covers stout pieces of cardboard with a plain material, corded silk if she can find it, but she has used a nice cotton, in a soft shade that will make a good background. The cardboard may be oblong, oval, or round shaped to suit the picture chosen. When the cardboard is covered she edges it with braid. Any picture may be pasted on it but a page from a fuzzy-wuzzy book shows up best. One little fellow has some Donald Duck pictures done in this manner in his room and they are his great delight.

CRISP CUCUMBER PICKLES

Wash 50 cucumbers 2½ inches long. Cover with a brine made with 1 cup coarse salt to 2 quarts of water and let stand over-night. Mix 3 quarts vinegar, 1 quart of water, 4 tablespoons mixed pickling spice, and 2 cups of sugar (3 cups if you wish a sweeter pickle) Bring this to the boil. Drain the cucumbers and pack in sterilized jars. Fill the jars with hot syrup and add a piece of alum the size of a pea in each jar.

MOLASSES COOKIES

½ Cup shortening, ½ cup brown sugar, ½ cup molasses, 1 egg beaten, 1 teaspoon baking soda, ½ cup sour milk, 1½ teaspoons of cinnamon, ½ teaspoon ginger, ¼ teaspoon cloves, ½ teaspoon salt. 2½ cups flour, ½ cup raisins.

Cream shortening and sugar, add molasses and beaten egg. Sift dry ingredients and add alternately with milk. Add raisins and mix well. Drop from a teaspoon on buttered baking sheet and bake in a moderate oven of 350 degrees.

GADGETS GALORE TO MAKE KITCHEN CAUSE FOR PRIDE

Designers Plan Equipment To Make Conditions More Liveable and Cosy

New York (CP) — Mrs. Housewife weathered the household appliance shortage during the war because she'd been promised Utopia by equipment designers — who virtually guaranteed that they would take her out of the kitchen, away from the hot stove and the distasteful task of dish washing.

Now they're trying to find ways to keep her in the kitchen — but make her happy.

Sure she'll have some of those push buttons they promised, but they won't operate from switches connected to her bed, the baby's nursery or the sun porch. She'll still have to supervise her household chores and be Maggy-on-the spot. But the trick is the kitchen will be more liveable and cosy than the parlor.

Exotic colors such as fuchsia pink, jade green and powder blue are being used in kitchens to tempt mom. And it should all be very delightful if exhibits shown recently by appliance companies at a show in Los Angeles are any indication.

The modern kitchen will have a press-button dish washer, with a press-button water-softener, cooking range, washing and ironing machines, refrigerators with freezing compartments for frozen foods, vegetable bins and plenty of storage space. There will be dining bars where small fry can be fed their lunch with a minimum of effort.

Extensive use of glass makes the kitchen bright. Walls are of grey vitrolite, an opaque glass which is easily cleaned and does not stain. The cabinets have sliding glass doors and a dining unit has a table of polished plate glass and a bar which is used in the kitchen as work space. Glass is also used in window between kitchen and laundry if it is separated.

Palatial Bathrooms

Manufacturers haven't stopped in the kitchen. Bathrooms exhibited would rival the most palatial Hollywood movie setting. So well has the functional character of the bathroom been studied that it becomes three separate units — bathtub and shower, dressing unit and toilet.

The tub and shower area is enclosed with clear, polished plate glass and sliding glass doors. On the ceiling within the shower stall is a new functional note in lighting. Three lamps each separately controlled, produce infra-red light, the heat light, to aid drying and prevent chilling, a sun lamp of ultra-violet rays for producing outdoor tan, and ordinary light for illumination.

A dressing unit is composed of lavatory, dressing table and bench, mirrored wall, convenient towel storage cabinets, a medicine cabinet and vitrolite table tops and walls. Fluorescent lights are recessed at the top and bottom of the medicine cabinet for indirect illumination. There is also a germicidal lamp with the cabinet.

It all should sound very dreamy to Mrs. Housewife. All she has to do now is sell dad on the idea of installing her dream-come-true bathroom and kitchen.

Not All Drudgery

(Cornwall Standard-Freeholder)

The great bugbear which has to be destroyed is that a nurses' training course is pure drudgery.

Apparently there are still those who think that the coveted cap of a graduate nurse is obtained by several years of scrubbing floors and doing unpleasant work around a hospital.

This is certainly not the case, and we hope to dispel the idea.

INTEREST IN NURSING

More girls in Britain are taking up hospital nursing. From the beginning of this year, 12,460 began training compared with 10,004 in the same period last year — an increase of 25 per cent. In 1945 the number of new nursing trainees was 22,841.

Sydney Girl Aided Monty's Eighth Army

Sydney, Australia (CP) — An Australian woman with a taste for adventure and a fine war record is Ida Burgess, who won honors in the British Army in Africa. She recently returned to Sydney wearing an A.T.S. uniform with three campaign ribbons to her credit.

In wartime London, she went out with an ambulance crew and rescue party of five to bring in dead and wounded, a job she later repeated in North Africa as a full-time member of the A.T.S., working with General Montgomery's "Desert Rats".

On leave in Johannesburg, Miss Burgess spent several days as the guest of Prime Minister Smuts and his wife, whom she describes "charming, simple people." From North Africa, Miss Burgess went with the A.T.S. to Italy then to Austria.

Sydney seems to her "the best place in the world — no queues, plenty of food, and lovely sunshine". She says she has no desire to go adventuring again.

Specially Written for The Watchman
By FRED KERNER

Both on and off the field, this is the year that Canadian football climbs out of its old raiment and sets off in new style. You may safely tell the boys at the barbershop and these sitting around the crackerbarrel at the general store, the grid game in Canada will never be the same again.

The trend to change has been evident for some years now, but the war delayed its development. Now that we are "back to normal" there is nothing to hold up progress.

The major teams are hurrying toward professionalism. Only the college teams have remained strictly amateur and there are some who'll tell you that even there, backsliding has been apparent.

This, of course, is all the influence of that grid-conscious neighbor of ours, the United States. A nation of some 13,000,000 people can't live next door to a nation 10 times as populous and not be influenced. Both are sport loving nations and whatever happens below the border is bound to echo in Canada.

The next step for big time football in Canada is to shape itself along the lines of the American professional leagues. We believe this is inevitable and also that it may not be as far off as you think.

With professionalized standards here and the contacts which Canadian grid mentors have in the U.S., more and more good American players will appear on the Canadian scene. Even the rules have changed sufficiently since last season to make the U.S. lads feel more at home on the Canadian fields.

Widening the interference zone to 10 yards behind the line of scrimmage will make a vast difference in the game: The stress now will be on blocking, a fundamental of the game which was not emphasized nearly as much here as in the United States.

By the way, if there's any betting money in the house, take some advice — look to Montreal's Alouettes when that Grey Cup final rolls around.

* * *

To be a top scorer in any league calls for maximum physical effort and ability. But to overcome the physical handicap of having the partial use of one arm and achieve the distinction of being a leading scorer in basketball . . . Well, page Mr. Ripley !

The man to whom we refer is Bob Gaynor who plays in the Ottawa Intermediate league. He has outscored the other players in the loop by a wide margin and boosted his team into the play-offs.

Bob was a polio victim when he was two years old, but courageous beyond the average, he refused to let his handicap bar him from his favorite sports and practised continuously to overcome his deficiency.

He is now 25 and adds to his basketball achievement the ability to swim well enough to be a life guard.
