Top-Rankers Entered for Golf Stake

Annual Invitation Event Now Termed 'Lachute $1,000 Open'

Play will get under way at 9 a.m. Saturday, starting the two-day golf tournament to be held at the local links this week-end. Saturday's play will be for the amateurs only, with handicaps of 10 and over. Sunday will be for the professionals and amateurs with handicaps of 10 and under.

In former years this tournament has been known as the "Lachute Annual Invitation Tournament", but this year, taking its name from the amount of prize money being offered for professional play, it will be known as "Lachute $1,000 Open".

Leading professionals from Toronto, Montreal, Quebec, Ottawa and districts have registered — thus such headline names as Gordy Bryson, Bob Gray, Stan Horne, Jules Huott, Ernie Wakelam and Archie Staner will be on hand to shoot for top money in this tournament.

Top ranking amateurs such as Bert Bernabé, Guy Rolland, Tommy Riddle, Joe Poulin, Watson Yeul and Bill Thompson have also entered and will be teamed with the professionals for Sunday's play.

A general invitation is extended by the Club officials to all interested, to attend and see this impressive array of golf stars in action.

Starting times for the entrants in Sunday's play are listed on page 8 of this issue.

37 Years With Paper Company

After a long record of service, 37 years, with the J. C. Wilson Co. Ltd., John Falconer retired from active employment last Saturday. He recalls many changes in the personnel of the paper mill during his association with the company, and in his capacity of master mechanic, is familiar with the workings of the plant in its every detail of operation.

Now holidaying at his camp at Lake Louisa, Mr. Falconer could not be contacted this week — but it is understood he is concentrating at present on enjoying a well-earned rest.

Mr. Falconer received the presentation of a pen and pencil set, with the good wishes of his fellow workers.

Professor Talks on 'Tolerance'; Rotary Of Hawkesbury Joins Brownsb'g Club

Brownsburg — Hawkesbury Rotary Club joined the members and friends of Brownsburg Rotary last Thursday, to hear a sincere and thought-provoking address on the subject of tolerance by the Rev. Father Dowsett, O.M.I., of St. Patrick's College, Ottawa. The subject was a timely one in this day when countries all over the world are torn by conflicting ideas on capital and labor, racial and language differences, and the problem of the various "isms".

"Intolerance, or lack of tolerance, is based on two major factors, ignorance and prejudice", said Father Dowsett. Ignorance is a natural heritage which must be overcome by education and experience, he affirmed. We are certainly not in a position to censure those who due to lack of education and experience, through no fault of their own, have committed acts of which we may disprove.

Prejudice or pre-judgment is a preconceived opinion without basis of fact, and must be overcome by calm judgment, if we are to be tolerant.

We must come to realize that no one race, creed or color, has a monopoly on all the virtues. The Nazi philosophy was based on the prejudice of the "Master Race" and on the ignorance of the value of other races.

"One can be too tolerant, however," said the speaker. . A person can overlook or even condone crimes against society so long as they do not affect him directly. He might probably consider himself a very tolerant person. Such an attitude is equally reprehensible.

"Tolerance", Rev. Father Dowsett continued, "must be based on a solid foundation of the principles of right living. Just as in mathematics the principle that one unit plus one unit equals two units, so in morals, the principles common to all men on earth are embodied in the 10 commandments. For instance 'Thou Shalt Not Kill' and 'Thou Shalt Not Steal', are definite and specific principles, not merely man-made taboos. Man does not kill his fellow man naturally. Killing is instinctively repulsive to him. He has to be taught and instructed to do so. It is the same regarding the illegal acquisition of another person's property.

"If we build society on any other foundation, if we claim the right as free men to refuse to accept these principles, then our society is as a house built on sand; it corrupts. Just as the student who refuses to accept the axiom that one plus one equals two, finds all that involves mathematics corrupts into folly and falsehood."

Father Dowsett concluded that tolerance must of necessity be based on principle, both moral and physical.

The meeting was under the chairmanship of Vice-President George Zsombor. Past District Governor Douglas Silverston, of the Aylmer Rotary Club, introduced Father Dowsett, and the thanks of the club were extended to the speaker by Rotarian Stewart Jones.

The majority of members from Hawkesbury Rotary, including President Joe Page, were in attendance. Other out-of-town guests were Brother Anselm, of Ottawa; Doug Silverston and John Roney, of Aylmer; Bertrand L'Heureux, M. LaChapelle and M. Champagne, of Lachute; Jim Pitney, of Cleveland, Ohio; and Emile Poure, of Montreal.

Dr. H. B. Cushing Heard on Subject of Virus Diseases and Polio Epidemic

The present poliomyelitis epidemic has affected less than one in every 1,000 of any community, and less than 20 per cent of those affected have suffered permanent disabilities, Dr. H. B. Cushing stated in an address before the Montreal Rotary Club this week. . Well known here for his interest in the Ottawa Valley and as president of the Argenteuil Historical Society, Dr. Cushing is physician-in-chief of the Alexandra Hospital in Montreal and an authority on the subject of contagious diseases.

Expressing the belief that the present epidemic is decreasing, Dr. Cushing explained that such outbreaks do not usually last longer than three months — and this is the third month of the epidemic in Canada.

"I firmly believe that contagious diseases are disappearing from all civilized communities, and that at least some of those present will live to see this happy result accomplished and epidemics will be unknown," he asserted.

Dr. Cushing further pointed out that following an epidemic there is usually a period of 15 years of almost complete freedom from the disease.

He spoke with commendation of the Montreal Health Department, which he had found efficient in measures to combat all recent epidemics in the city.

"The virus diseases are still little understood and still defy our ordinary measures of prevention and treatment — and influenza, measles and poliomyelitis are all typical virus diseases and hence still beyond our control" the speaker revealed.

Dr. Cushing said that for 20 years the greatest intellects in the medical world had been devoted to investigating the virus diseases, and more money had been poured out for research on poliomyelitis in America than any other disease. Great advances had been made, but the final practical points of how to prevent and how to cure it, still elude them. "However", added the speaker, "there is great hope that in the near future this last group of contagious diseases will be brought under control, probably by some method of immunization."

Dr. Cushing advanced his personal belief that the time would soon come when victims of contagious diseases and their dependents would be considered as "casualties of war" and that the community would assume the entire responsibility for their care. He said that the after results of *several of these diseases were pro*longed and required expensive treatment.

"These persons are not disabled through any fault of their own but are real casualties in the war of their community on contagious disease, and until it is recognized that their treatment and support is the duty of the community they are entitled to our assistance in every possible way," he said.

Disease Cut 75%

Speaking of the Alexandra Hospital, Dr. Cushing said that the amazing diminishing in the incidence of contagious disease in the community had resulted in the hospital being half empty most of the time, and consequently the hospital was getting into financial difficulties. The total incidence of contagious disease each year in Montreal was only one quarter of what it was 40 years ago, while the percentage mortality was about one 10th of what it was at the turn of the century.

Servicemen Honored at Party and Presentation in Harrington Tw'p

Memorable Occasion at Bell Falls Drew Gathering from Surrounding Countryside

Bell Falls — A crowd of over 200 people attended a party given by the community of Harrington in appreciation of the services rendered by the active servicemen of the district. The event was held Saturday evening at Campbell's Hall, Bell Falls.

The evening's entertainment — organized and directed by Mrs. Ross Swail, Miss Isabel MacCallum and Mrs. John M. Dobbie — consisted of a presentation, an address by Geo. H. Héon, K.C., M.P., a dance and supper.

Owing to a business appointment it was impossible for Mr. Héon to be present at the opening, but his place was taken by Mr. Smith, student pastor of Rivington Baptist Church, who gave the opening address. This was followed by the presentation of a Waterman's pen and pencil set to each man. A list of servicemen, giving rank, name and service — commencing with Navy personnel, followed by R.C.A.F. and Army — was read by Mr. Smith, while the presentations were made by Mayor D. MacTavish, representing Harrington Township, and Councillor N. MacCallum, Grenville. As each man's name was read he was warmly applauded by the audience. Although two boys, Ptes. Harry McVicar and Evan Fox, failed to return from "over there", they were not forgotten, and their gifts went to their mothers.

Following the presentation F/O W. S. Horsnall rose and, on behalf of the members of the active services, both present and absent, thanked all those who had made this expression of the community's gratitude possible.

The hall was then cleared of seats and dancing was enjoyed, to music provided by Mr. and Mrs. Mac MacTavish, assisted by Mrs. N. Young.

About 10 o'clock Mr. Héon arrived and the amusement was interrupted while he made a short address. His theme followed the question — "were we, through neglect and carelessness, to lose that for which these men had made such great sacrifices?" The answer to that lay "in the heart and bosom of each and every individual". Dancing was resumed, and at midnight supper was served.

Altogether, it was a most interesting and successful event. Coinciding with the holiday week-end, it was exceptionally well attended — practically all families in the district, and also many from surrounding communities, being represented.

Successful Year Reviewed by Club At Lake Louisa

Some 60 members were present last Saturday night at the Lake Louisa Country Club for the annual general meeting, which brought to a close the club's second year of operation.

Reports of the season's activities and the election of officers and directors were the main business of the meeting. L. W. Gatehouse, president; W. K. McArthur, vice-president, and A. S. Cockhill, secretary-treasurer, were reappointed for another year. They will be supported by the following directors: Messrs. A. E. Montgomery, S. J. McFaul, W. J. Deacon, H. F. Giles, C. W. Janes, Mrs. S. J. McFaul, Mrs. M. C. Small, Mrs. S. Willard and Miss P. Giles.

The energetic work of the Ladies' Committee, under the guidance of Mrs. A. A. Hills, is one of the highlights of the season. The chairmen of the Building Committee, the Program and Regatta Committee, and the House Committee — Messrs S. J. McFaul, H. W. Emo and W. K. McArthur, respectively — presented brief re-reports, and the president thanked all who had contributed to such a successful season.

Activities and events of special note, as indicated in the reports, include a splendid sailing season, with Bill Murray carrying off the main prize and Ed McFaul retaining the motor boat trophy, the annual regatta, young people's field day, the weekly get-together of the ladies, and the Saturday night dances.

Messrs R. P. Fraser and C. Cunningham again volunteered their services as honorary auditors, and Mr. Montgomery spoke briefly about the Honor Roll which is to be placed in the club-house. Members are invited to share in financing this project.

Preacher Urges Church Interest in Labor Problems

Rev. W. W. Conrad, Vankleek Hill, Has Timely Message

A sermon appropriate to Labor Day, and one in keeping with the ideals of the Board of Evangelism and Social Service of the United Church of Canada, was delivered by the Rev. W. W. Conrad, M.A., of Vankleek Hill, in Lachute United Church last Sunday morning.

The preacher stressed the need of ministers and church members to take a greater interest in social, economic and labor questions of the day, and to base their ideals on those of Christ's gospel.

Speaking of the various social security plans now in effect in Canada, he claimed that all of them were designed to improve the standard of humanity as a whole — that they should be supported, and not condemned because a few people had abused the benefits they offered. He expressed the need of a national sickness plan, where persons afflicted with illness and unable to work, could draw benefits to tide them over the emergency — a policy in keeping with Christian ideals.

Rev. Conrad condemned the attitude of certain "northern" industrialists who recently gave preference to single men, denying employment to married men with children; and the speaker strongly urged church members to combat such actions wherever they were found. He cited a few of the ideals of organized labor — better wages, shorter hours and security plans — but criticized certain actions of the labor leaders.

Particulars on Ration Book Issue In This District

Close timing between the nation*al distribution dates of the number* six ration book and the validity dates of the first coupons in the new book make it urgent that all consumers obtain their new ration book next week. While the dates for distribution vary in each locality, all of Canada's 12 million ration books must be distributed between September 9 and September 16. . . Those who do not acquire the new book during the distribution week will be unable to obtain one until after September 30.

The method of distribution will be similar to the method followed during the war years. Thousands of volunteers will staff the distribution centres set up by the Local Ration Boards. Many of the volunteers are veterans of four distribution campaigns.

(Dates and places of distribution in this district are announced by the Local Ration Board through an advertisement on page 4. The hours are being advertised in each respective locality.)

Brownsburg — The family of Mr. and Mrs. John Mason entertained at a dinner on Saturday evening in honor of their parents' 50th wedding anniversary. There were 125 guests present. The Rev. J. R. Simpson, of Carleton Place, Ont., acted as master of ceremonies. Mr. Gordon Anderson entertained with music. Guests from a distance included Misses Mary and Jeannette Stewart, Mrs. S. Richmond, Mrs. George Morris, of Brooklyn, N.Y., Dr. and Mrs. C. Scott, of Oakland, Cal., Mr. Archie Warwick, of Ashton, Ont., Dr. John Bates McLaurin, from India, and others.

The large three-storey cake centering the head table was cut by the "bride".

Mr. and Mrs. Mason have received many telegrams and cards of congratulation including a cablegram from Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Vollans of Yorkshire, Eng., also a number of beautiful gifts including a purse of money from the citizens of the community, which was presented by the Rev. S. J. Pike of the United Church. The family also presented their parents with gifts. Many of the older guests, several of whom had attended the wedding 50 years ago, gave short addresses.

Mr. and Mrs. Mason, their family and a large number of relatives attended the morning service at the Maple Avenue Baptist Church, which was the church anniversary service.

On Monday, Mr. and Mrs. Mason were "at home" to their friends. A large number of the W.I. members called and presented Mrs. Mason, who is a life member of the organization, with a beautiful bouquet of flowers.

Council Calling for Tenders on Street Paving Contracts

The regular meeting of Lachute Town Council last evening was concerned primarily with the recent loan referendum and putting its provisions into effect.

Albani Lamarche, secretary-treasurer, read a report on the voting, showing a majority opinion in favor of issuing a $35,000 loan for street paving. The report was accepted and Council instructed the secretary-treasurer to obtain final approval from the Quebec Department of Municipal Affairs for issuance of 12-year debentures for this amount bearing 3% interest.

The calling of tenders for paving contracts next occupied the attention of the councillors. The secretary was authorized to advertise for bids on bituminous paving of thoroughfares, as specified by the roads committee — the tenders to be opened at a special meeting of Council on September 16.

Accounts to the total of $2,869.40 were presented and approved, and other routine matters were disposed of.

The meeting was under chairmanship of Mayor Leopold Carriere, with Aldermen Wilfrid Morrissette, Alex Bothwell, Henri Trichard, Omer Laurin, Stanley Holt, J. R. Paquette and Donald McRae in attendance.

Portable Buggy Suitcase Size

Chicago (CP) — A baby stroller that folds up luggage size was shown here for the first time during the recent Furniture Market meeting.

The 15-pound gadget is designed to fill the family need for an all-purpose but portable baby carriage that can be taken anywhere.

When the wheels are collapsed into a special compartment, it can be used as a high chair in restaurants or as an auto seat for babies up to three years old.

The leatherette covered seat of the buggy is secured to a rubber-covered footboard by a snap lock. A three-section lightweight handle is attached to the four-wheel cart for pulling or pushing it.

Windmill Pumps To Be Replaced

Norwich, Eng. (CP) — A £20,000 ($80,000) electricity scheme to replace the famous old windmill pumps on the Norfolk Broads has been started by the East Norfolk Catchment Board.

Two electric pumps are being installed at Breydon, on the river Bure which runs into the North Sea at Yarmouth. Finally electric stations will replace all the windmills but one — 200-year-old Berney Mill which will continue to pump its 15 tons of water a minute.

Aside from greater efficiency of electric pumping, there is a shortage of skilled millwrights to keep the windmills working. At one time there were 200 windmills on the Broads.

Some people slip their brains into neutral and let their tongues idle on.

$3,000 Robbery at St. Adolphe Resort

An amount, believed to be $3,000, consisting of cash and transportation tickets belonging to guests, as well as hotel money, was discovered stolen early Saturday morning at a summer resort in St. Adolphe de Howard. Miss Eva Sternthall, assistant manager of the establishment, whose room lies next to the office, was awakened by a door closing during the night, she told police. Getting no reply to her call "who's there?", she investigated to find the safe door ajar.

Reginald Jacobs, operator of the resort, told police that beside himself only two others knew the combination of the safe, Miss Sternthal and a former male employee who was desk clerk until August 26.

Detectives of the Provincial Police who investigated the robbery, traced two suspects in the case to Pont Viau, where they were seen at 7 p.m. Saturday in a rented automobile heading towards the city.

A Philosophy for Peace

"I believe economic conditions are subordinate to the spiritual law: 'Seek ye first the kingdom of God and its righteousness, and all these things (the economic benefits) shall be added to you'. The popularizers of scientific mysteries are now busy predicting in terms of atomic energy. . . But I believe religious energy, intellectual energy, moral energy, imaginative energy, are creative forces out of which even atomic energy takes form. I believe that faith, work and play were at the controls of the power by which we won the war. I believe they are the forms of energy by which we may win the benefits of a just and lasting peace".

FARM TOPICS

Prefer Canadian Cattle

A large number of Mexican importers prefer Canadian cattle to those secured from the United States, D. S. Cole, Canadian Commercial Counsellor, reports from Mexico City.

This preference is based on the belief that the Canadian animals produce more fat without diminishing their production of milk.

The United States is flooding Mexico with animals of poor quality at low prices, Mr. Cole said, and most Mexican importers now look to Canada to supply the high quality of Jersey cattle, both bulls and cows, they desire for breeding purposes.

Baby Chicks Exported

Canadian pure bred sheep, pure bred swine, pure bred poultry, and baby chicks are finding increasing favor among breeders in foreign countries.

A report released at Ottawa by R. W. Blake, Canadian Agricultural Trade Commissioner, shows that Canada last year exported 3,470 pure bred sheep valued at $39,163; pure bred sheep valued at $93,163; 26,650 pure bred poultry at $61,879; and 848,880 baby chicks worth $115,218.

There is a plucky Plymouth Rock hen at the Deschambault Farm-School who has little idle time at her disposal, having laid in one year as many as 340 eggs. The other members of the Canadian delegation to the Conference are: Dr. E. S. Archibald, Director, Experimental Farms; Dr. J. F. Booth, head of the Economics Division, Dept. of Agriculture; H. H. Hannam, President, Canadian Federation of Agriculture; Colonel J. G. Robertson, Agricultural Commissioner for Canada in the U.K.; Dr. L. B. Pett, Chief, Nutrition Service, Dept. of National Health and Welfare; J. B. Rutherford, Chief Agricultural Branch, Bureau of Statistics; Dr. A. W. N. Neeler, Director, Atlantic Biological Station, Dept. of Fisheries; A Gosselin, Economics Division, Dept. of Agriculture; Clive Planta, Secretary-Manager, Fisheries Council of Canada; H. A. Tremblay, Agricultural Specialist, Canadian Embassy, Paris; and Dr. W. C. Hopper, Principal Economist, Dept. of Agriculture, Secretary to the Canadian delegation.

The most important subject to be dealt with at the Conference is the world surveys that have been made by F.A.O., in connection with food on which the interest of the world will be focused.

Since F.A.O. came into being at the first Conference held in Quebec City in October 1945, the organization has acquired a great deal of information on the world food situation and related subjects.

Much of the work that has so far been one by F.A.O. has been planned by an executive committee of 15, of which Dr. Barton is a member.

TITLED FARMER GROWS FINE GRAIN

Earl of Egmont Raises Registered Seed Wheat In Alberta

Edmonton (CP) — One of the finest stands of registered seed wheat, barley and oats in Alberta is growing on a farm just a few miles south of Calgary.

It is located on the 900-acre farm of the Earl of Egmont and the 100 acres of registered seed grain is expected to average close to 50 bushels to the acre. The wheat is Red Bobs, the barley is malting type and the oats are Victory strain.

The Earl was born at Priddis, Alta., near his present farm and received his first farming experience on his father's ranch. He has been keenly interested in all phases of agriculture all his life. He still operates the Priddis ranch as a stock-raising venture, but has recently advertised it for sale.

During the war years he operated the big farm without any outside help, using machinery and the most modern farming equipment. This year however, he engaged a hired man and in spite of this he says the operation of the farm is a "dawn to dark proposition."

The Earl became interested in the growing of registered seed grain some years ago and says his land is ideally suited for this purpose. He believes that clean land and intensive cultivation is the secret of successful farming—coupled with moisture at the right time and in proper quantity.

When his father succeeded to the title about 1930, the present earl accompanied him to England. He remained there until the death of his father when he decided to return to Alberta to engage in farming in preference to remaining in England and living the life of a landed gentleman.

Just before the war, the Earl sold Avon Castle, the 49-roomed ancestral home of the Earls of Egmont, for $200,000. He retained a number of other propertites, including houses and farms in Ireland and farms in England. He owns 50 acres of land adjoining the famous race course at Epsom Downs.

Monty Wins Again

THE MONTGOMERY of the headlines and the legends, of the soldier's stories and the literary criticisms has finally come close enough for the average Canadian to appraise him. And the enthusiastic approval thus far in evidence at every stop of his 17-day tour indicates this Dominion will be one of his easiest victories.

Before his arrival Canadians had heard stories that he didn't like women, that he didn't want smoking in his presence, that he didn't like coughing, that he was fussy about his food and special menus were required, that he wanted to get off the Mauretania ahead of the Archbishop of Canterbury, and that he had ordered there be no artillery salute when he arrived in Halifax.

Staff officers who had not served on the famous field commander's staff, heard these stories, too, and were supposed to be shuddering in fear of the great man who was described as a prima donna, a cold and ruthless soldier. One brigadier is said to have got so nervous about the tailor-made problems that seemed to be arising that he pessimistically called the tour "Operation Disaster" before it even started.

One after another the stories were spiked. Soon after his arrival the famous soldier summoned a Canadian Press reporter in a Halifax hotel and told him he was "horrified" at stories he wanted women barred from his official functions. He liked the ladies and he thought Canadian service-women had been "terrific, just terrific".

Persons smoked in his presence and he made no objection. Persons coughed in his room as they talked to him, and he didn't bat an eye. As for his diet, he eats a plain fare because of none-too-robust health, the result of the effects of First Great War wounds.

Aides termed the story of an argument over who had precedence in disembarking at Halifax as ridiculous. They pointed out this matter was never in doubt as the Archbishop is second in the order of precedence in Britain and an Imperial General Staff Chief is well down the list.

As for the report on Monty's supposed stuffiness on an artillery salute, it was drawn pointedly to the attention of newspapermen at Halifax that the King's Regulations made no such allowance for such a salute on such an occasion.

Meanwhile Monty has been leaving platforms to stride down close to police barriers, so that he can meet ordinary Canadians.

The Upper Chambers

A RECENT statement of the Hon. Emmanuel Shinwell, Britain's Minister of Fuel, to the effect that he hoped the day would soon come which would see the abolishment of the House of Lords as an institution in British Government, probably caused Canadian Senators to pick up their ears and wonder if such a thing might happen to the Senate of Canada.

The main reason the House of Lords has come in for so much criticism by Labor Members of Parliament is that a block of Conservative Lords have threatened to oppose the Government's proposed plans for nationalization of basic industries. If such should develop, Mr. Attlee might have to appoint a number of Laborites to the House of Lords in order to get his legislation through quickly. By the Parliament Act of 1910 the Lords cannot veto a measure, but they can hold up its passage. If the Lords were to oppose the nationalization bills the Prime Minister could not then fulfill his pre-election promises promptly, a situation which might bring defeat to the Labor Party at the next election.

In Canada the Senate performs a duty similar to the House of Lords. At present the Liberals have a large majority in the Senate, with the result Government legislation finds little opposition in the Upper Chamber. Should some other political party be elected at the next election, then the Senate with its Liberal majority might prove troublesome to it.

The usefulness of the Senate has long been a question of debate. Most citizens regard a Senate appointment as an old-age pension scheme for someone who has been faithful to the party in power. The body had little authority, yet its operation is costly to the public purse. Many of the Senators are too old to take much interest in the Senate. Although there are more than 80 Senators at the present time, voting in the Chamber indicates that many Senators are often absent from debates.

The time appears ripe for a full inquiry into the usefulness of the Senate as a part of Canada's governmental system.

The Co-operatives

THE DEVELOPMENT of co-operative organizations has gone ahead by leaps and bounds in Saskatchewan, the province which now leads Canada in the number of such enterprises — more than seventy per cent of the Province's population belonging to at least one or more co-op groups. Saskatchewan, in fact, provides more than half of the total co-operative members in the Dominion.

The Saskatchewan Provincial Government reports that eleven hundred co-ops operate more than 2,500 places of business in the province, and have more than 300,000 members. In 1945 the computed assets of the various units totalled $71,000,000.

Co-operatives occupy an increasing importance in the marketing of agriculture products, purchasing of farm supplies and in operating stores where articles are retailed at low prices. In joining in such enterprises, the farmer is afforded the greatest opportunity to effect savings, and at the same time enjoy the available services. — Quebec is becoming increasingly conscious of the benefits of co-operative trading.

It is interesting to note that the first co-operative was organized in 1836. It was a mutual fire insurance company, and today there are over 400 such companies in Canada with net assets of over $14,000,000 and insurance risks amounting to over a billion dollars.

Co-operatives have saved their patrons thousands of dollars. The fact that such organizations have become increasingly popular during the war years is proof that the services offered are appreciated by the members.

The Average Man

WHO OWNS America? Do you think of it as a great land with a few bloated plutocrats controlling the affairs of the nation? . . In a check on 72 large corporations, with an aggregate of 2,925,449 employees, it was found recently that they had 4,082,805 stockholders. The stockholders substantially out-numbered the employees. Total sales of these corporations in 1945, plus receipts from other operations, amounted to $33,560,000,000. Net income after taxes was $1,550,000,000, an average of 4.6c per dollar of sales. Dividends paid including both preferred and common stock, totalled $998,000,000 or 3c per dollar of sales. The margin of profit is not large. The average man still owns America.

"MY WEEK"

By R. J. Deachman

The "Edmonton Journal" has raised an interesting question. It wants to know how far a speaker or writer may go in lambasting a political opponent during an election? Now that is an interesting point. . .

"The Journal" quotes a case which arose in Toronto where certain gentlemen spoke very disrespectfully of the C.C.F. candidates in a municipal election. The candidates took action but, the jury dismissed the case of 14 of the plaintiffs, and awarded one cent in damages to each of the others, presumably on the ground that the defendant had called these two "Communists".

All the plaintiffs appealed. The Supreme Court has now dismissed the appeals and upheld the Jury's verdict. Chief Justice Robertson's remarks are quite interesting:

> "A jury is not necessarily perverse if it refuses to regard, as seriously as the party assailed may do, the seemingly venemous attacks made upon such an occasion. No monetary loss is involved, and the jury is not likely to regard as serious the damage, if any, done by rough words applied to a political opponent, even though they may amount to gross abuse."

I think the learned judge was right. We ought not to take offence at hard talk, during an election. The people who are really hurt are those who indulge in the abuse. Some years ago the late Sir James Barrie delivered an address on "Courage" at St. Andrews University. In the course of his remarks he made this statement:

> "Never ascribe to an opponent motives meaner than your own. There may be students here today who have decided this session to go in for immorality, and would like to know of an easy way of accomplishing it. Go through life without ever ascribing to your opponents motives meaner than your own. Nothing so lowers the moral currency; give it up and be great."

Valiantly I would like to support this statement. I feel differently from what I once felt on matters of this kind. There was a time when I had a real pleasure in taking the hide off anyone who differed from the righteous views I then held. Now, more in sorrow than in anger, I refer to these things. So I give the young, those with life ahead of them, the words of Sir James Barrie: "Never ascribe to an opponent motives meaner than your own".

* * *

Speaking of the soft answer — how is this? In the first Laurier cabinet there was a gentleman named J. Israel Tarte. He differed from the party on some issues, finally Sir Wilfrid dropped him overboard. In the following election it became a popular pastime for the opposition to ask, "What about Tarte". In Western Ontario there was a fluent speaker by the name of Pattullo. One night a not too sober constituent kept up the cry: "What about Tarte". Finally Mr. Pattullo pointed a finger at him and said:

> "Isn't that just like a Tory; with all the great and pressing problems that now face the nation, the only thing he has to say is: 'What about Tarte'. I expect it will be so even to the end of time. Even in that solemn day when all things here shall pass away and the elements melt with fervent heat, and the graves give up their dead — away off in some far corner some miserabbe Tory will shake the ashes from his hair, kick the coals about his feet and interrupt the proceedings by groaning out, 'What about Tarte?"

The interrupter sobered up and said no more. Now you tell one about the Grits!

SKY'S THE LIMIT— IN ALASKA SHOPS

Both Wages and Prices Soar In Far-North Boom-Town

Regina (CP) — Store-window signs at Anchorage, Alaska, would "shake" the average Canadian.

Cherries at $14 a basket are enough to perturb even old-time Anchoragians says C. A. Johnson, who with his wife visited here recently — the first time they have been out of the Alaska city since 1942.

The Johnsons are druggist and nurse respectively in the city of 12,000 population which boomed during the war. Mrs. Johnson was born at Kildeer, Sask, and is a graduate of the Regina General Hospital.

Mrs. Johnson can testify to the high prices. Before she came out of the city which lies between ocean and snow-capped mountains, she paid $25 for a permanent wave. She hasn't been eating much watermelon at $13 each.

But there is another side to the high-priced picture. Wages are three or four times those paid in the United States and clothing and drugs are usually cheaper than in Canada.

Sixty bars sprang up like mushrooms along the one main street during wartime. Churches were not far behind, the total climbing from four to 18 during the war years.

The Johnsons hope to be back in Anchorage before winter sets in. They say they would not be able to stand the cold of the prairies. Temperatures at the far northern city are kept high by the warm Japanese current.

Eye Specialist Is Used to Travel

C.P.R.'s Optometrist Makes Cross-Country Hops On the Job

Winnipeg (CP) — Transcontinental trips in a private railway car are just another chore for F. V. Pickersgill of Winnipeg. He's chief optometrist for the Canadian Pacific Railway, western lines, and every year he travels back and forth between Vancouver and Port Arthur to examine the eyes of some 9,000 railway employees.

Railway eye tests are unusually rigid, and employees connected with actual running of the trains must submit to examinations at least once every two years.

New Industry Aids Farmers

Bombay (CP) — Under the very shadow of a country-wide famine, a new basic industry, which will revolutionize India's agriculture and go a long way to speed up India's agricultural production, is springing up. It is the manufacture of power-operated agricultural implements, which are difficult, if not impossible, to obtain in Canada, the U.S. and Great Britain.

The government of India has leased the Poona Aircraft Factory, built during the war years and equipped with the latest production machinery, to a firm of agricultural engineers which has undertaken to organize the manufacture of tractor-drawn plows, disc plows, and disc harrows. Delivery is guaranteed to start from the middle of February, 1947. In the meantime a permanent factory is being built with a capital of $3,000,000.

WORDS

The recorded testimony at the Nuremberg war criminal trials runs to 4,000,000 words, or, as someone points out, more than five times the wordage of the Bible. And it all might have been avoided if the defendants and their pals had read and taken to heart 327 words in the Book of Exodus and forty-two words in Luke, xxii.

77 . . . AND STILL GOING STRONG!

At 77, Alexander "Sandy" Perley has had over 50 years experience in New Brunswick pulp and paper mills . . . an outstanding record of service. And he's still doing a grand job as a steam-plant shift engineer in a Bathurst mill, where he's been working for over three decades. Sandy's one of the youngest old timers in the industry, and is well known and liked by all his fellow employees. He still takes an active part in charitable drives, as well as being a member of the First Aid and Safety Committees. Apart from his busy mill life, he devotes much interest to his family of eight, and finds time to enjoy his favourite hobbies — fishing and cards.

"I've been over fifty years in pulp and paper mills, and over thirty years in this mill. It's been good work and good fun for me every year. Well Known and Esteemed Resident Dies at Cushing

The Late Mrs. S. O. Hartley

Cushing West — In the death of Mrs. Sydney O. Hartley, which occurred early on Sunday morning last, this community loses a loved and valued friend, and a respected family mourns the loss of a well-loved mother. The late Mrs. Hartley (formerly Miss Margaret Sheppard, of Lachute) was married to Mr. Sydney Hartley, of Grenville, in 1893. After their marriage they resided in Montreal, where a family of four sons and three daughters were born to them — all of whom survive their parents. They include—Messrs. Wilfred, Douglas, Laurence and Ernest Hartley, of Montreal, Mrs. J. D. Weir, Miss Olive Hartley, of Montreal, and Mrs. C. B. Cutten, of Guelph, Ont.

Mrs. Hartley had spent the summer months in her Cushing residence and though not in the best of health, had been going about among her friends as usual. She was seized with a heart attack on Friday evening and passed away early on Sunday.

The funeral took place Tuesday afternoon, the service in St. Mungo's Church being conducted by the Rev. W. B. Rosborough of Lachute. Pall-bearars were her four sons, Messrs. Wilfred, Douglas, Laurence and Ernest Hartley, and two grandsons, Messrs. Hartley Cutten and Kenneth Hartley. The remains were conveyed to the cemetery at Calumet, followed by a large cortege of sorrowing friends, and were laid to rest beside those of her husband who had predeceased her by a number of years.

Besides her immediate family Mrs. Hartley is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Christina Armstrong, of Montreal, and Mrs. Paintin, of Cowansville.

Many beautiful floral offerings bore witness to the love and sympathy of friends from far and near.

Respected Citizen Mourned at Grenv'l

The Late James Pickett

Grenville — In the death of James Pickett, which occurred here Friday, August 23, the village of Grenville lost one of its oldest and most highly respected citizens. He died at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Skelcher — having reached the advanced age of 88 years.

The late Mr. Pickett came to Canada from London, England, as a young man. He was employed at Lachute for a time, then came to Grenville, where he resided until his death. He was married to Miss Nellie Taylor, of this place, who passed away a number of years ago. Their children also predeceased their parents, but there remain seven grandchildren and three great grandchildren. Both Mr. and Mrs. Pickett had been fondly devoted to the upbringing and education of their children and grandchildren.

The funeral service, held in St. Matthew's Anglican Church on August 26, was largely attended by relatives and friends. There were many beautiful flowers.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. W. and Jas. Bradshaw, Wesley and H. Dodd, Rupert Cooke and Louis Champagne.

The remains were laid beside those of his wife in the cemetery adjoining St. Matthew's Church.

Mr. J. Bogan spent the week-end at Mr. R. McRae's cabin on Lake McLeod.

Kilmar Picnic

Many from this community attended the Kilmar annual picnic held at Wilson's Lake on Labor Day. A dance was held in the community hall that night and an enjoyable time was spent.

Boy Soprano and Brigade Officers at Evening Service

St. Andrews East — The Sunday evening service arranged by the Boys' Brigade, and featuring an illustrated message on the "Life of Jesus Christ", was well attended and proved to be most inspirational. The Brigade's young soprano, Hadden Whitelaw, and the joint choir conducted by Capt. J. Howard Richardson, upheld the vocal phase of the devotions. The service was conducted by Kenneth MacAlistair, with the Rev. Dr. W. MacMillan and the Rev. J. Ball also taking part.

The Boys' Brigade have been slowly building up a boys' choir which they hope will be in attendance at camp this coming summer, along with their brass band, which is also undergoing an overhauling. Plans have been made for an enlarged camp next season, and it is hoped to arrange a Life Boy camp prior to that of the Boys' Brigade, so that both the junior and senior groups may enjoy a full two week period at St. Andrews. The camp committee have promised to have at least six tents purchased this year, with another four by spring. In this event, a few week-end camps will be organized from the 24th of May onward.

The Brigade deeply appreciate the loan of the projector from the United Church, the screen from from Mrs. Chas. Hyde, and the slides from St. Andrew's Church.

SUBDUED RINGING

St. Thomas, Ont. (CP) — An idea adopted from the Wabash railroad is being tried out to ring the big bell of Holy Angels church here. Because the swinging of the bell endangered the stone tower, the daily ringing of the bell has had to be discontinued. The bells on the Wabash railroads are stationary, only the clapper moves.

COWBOY - PASTOR BACK IN SADDLE

Delray Beach, Fla. (CP) — Rev. John R. Martin pastor of the First Baptist Church here, still rides the range as he used to, although he's given up breaking outlaw horses.

The 33-year old minister, also a former lifeguard and army polo player, occasionally takes part in rodeos, too, just for fun.

He is a native of Fort Pierce, Fla., schooled in Daytona Beach. He was a range rider for the United States government, working on a tick eradication program, from 1927 to 1929. He rode 10 to 13 hours a day, seven days a week, hunting cattle that hadn't been dipped. He started riding in rodeos and breaking horses, but then joined the army for a three-year hitch and went to Fort Sill.

There he became Sgt. Martin and played on the enlisted men's polo team. He left the army in 1936, entered a seminary at Fort Worth, Texas, and returned to Florida the next year after being married.

He still has cattle and horses in Volusia County and every year he goes back on the range for the summer roundup, always carrying a pistol because of snakes and panthers.

"The cowboys have a lot of fun with me," he says. "They like nothing better than to put cockleburs under my saddle just to see if I can still stay on my horse when he bucks."

"Uncle Joe," said Albert Edward Wiggam, the author, meeting an old darky who was always cheerful in spite of having had more than his share of life's troubles, "how have you managed to remain so cheerful and calm?"

"Well, I'll tell yo'," replied Uncle Joe. "I'se jus' learned to cooperate wid de inevitable."

New Dealership, General Motors

A business announcement in this issue is of considerable interest — specially at this time when Lachute presents a large potential market for new automobiles, while the limited supply is provoking speculation on the merits of various makes and models. This centre has for many years been lacking in sales and service dealership for one of the most popular lower-priced cars, Chevrolet. The current announcement now reveals a complete coverage here for General Motors Products — with a new concern, Lachute Motor Sales, distributing Chrevolet and Oldsmobile cars, and Chevrolet and Maple Leaf Trucks.

The new company are successors to the firm of MacRae Motor Sales Reg'd; with their venture, the old MacRae Motors disappears in name and management, but the company occupies the same premises. For a more personal acquaintance with the new organization, readers are directed to the advertisement on page two, and are also invited to make a friendly call.

About 'Whistle Bait' and 'Junior Wolves'

Walt Disney's latest hit 'Make Mine Music' brings back memories.

It was in your high-school days — someone had intimated you were just 'a kid'. Your feelings were hurt because YOU knew that you had a mind of your own, your own set of likes and dislikes, your own hero and heroine.

And now you're older — and wiser. But those who have replaced you at school still have those same feelings — and today their wishes are in a large measure fulfilled. They have a 'slanguage' all their own. The money they spend has revolutionized merchandising in certain lines to such an extent that many stores have redesigned their shops to include a hide-out where only Teen Agers can shop. Petticoats have even been renamed 'betticoats' after their favorite fashion designer Betty Betz. They even have their own kind of greeting cards.

They have more money to spend — a recent survey showed more than two million youngsters in Canada between the ages of 10 and 20 with approximately $45,000,000 to spend each year.

Disney's 'Make Mine Music' is a sort of Fantasia set to folk songs and modern music. After brushing up on their vocabulary with a screening of the film, you can expect to overhear the following conversation anywhere: 'How ya doin', Hug, are you a sunken punkin? — You're not? — You're a Cruisin Susan! Okay then, here's a neat greet — 'Hi Celery! Let's stalk!' (Which, being translated, means: 'How are you, girlie? are you lonely and low? — You're not? You're a gal who gets around? — Well then, how about this dance?).

As you can see, young folk today have a vocabulary that is different. Yet, withal, it goes with their modes of dance and entertainment — good, clean, wholesome fun.

Would you like to be in the know' on the prevailing Teen Age slang? Below is an up-to-date list of many expressions:

Atomic — super wonderful
Blitz-Buggy — automobile
Boogie — jive music (8 to the bar)
Cellmate — Classmate
Clickers — a couple going steady
Collapse — sit down
Corner Casbah — favorite hangout
Cruisin Susan — girl who gets around
Crumb Hunting — house work
Dig the Drape — buy a new dress
Do a dizzy — pull a boner
Ether Waves — Radio
Fag Hag — a girl who smokes
Feeble Greeble — an unpopular girl.
Fizz — coke
Fizzician — soda jerker
Gas it — get going in a hurry
Give with the goo — explain in detail
Glurp — unpopular person, drip
Gushes Goo — talks nonsense
Honey Cooler — a kiss
Hubba-hubba — favorable exclamation
In the shade — feeling blue
Jam Session — session around the juke box
Joe — anyone
Junior Wolf — kid brother
Lush — delightful
Make like a boid — go away
Marble slab — soda fountain
Off the Cob — corny
Overhaul — new make-up job
Platters — phonograph records
Puckerpaint — lip stick
Red Mike — a woman hater
Retread — beauty treatment
Schoolebrity — popular schoolmate
Skin me — shake hands
Sky juice — water
Slab — sandwich
Slide your jive — talk freely
Square — a person who doesn't dance
Snazzy — smooth
Swoon Stand — chair
Watch Works — brains
Whistle Bait — smooth looking clothes
You Melt Me — I like you.
You Shred it, Wheat — you said it
Zoon Bat — funny looking

Ah youth! It's wonderful. Isn't it?

Music from "La Plaza"

Spanish and Portugese melodies are the rule in the little city of "La Plaza" to which Canadian listeners are invited for a radio visit every Saturday, at 9 p.m. EDT. Portrayed here on the outskirts of the mythical town in CBC's Vancouver studios, are David Holman and Irma Lawrence, who sing as Pepe and Lolita at La Plaza's Garden Cafe. Maestro George Calangis directs his orchestra in original arrangements of tangos, rhumbas, beguines and rancheros, and narrator Jack Bingham welcomes the tourists to the Latin American dance.

SIGN OF THE TIMES

Winnipeg — The shirt shortage has altered long-established customs among Winnipeg's younger set. When a group of boys gathered in a back alley recently to watch two of their number settle an affair of honor, both participants doffed their shirts and handed them to bystanders for safekeeping.

HE ASKED FOR IT

Squamish, B.C. (CP) — C. B. Gooderham, Dominion apiarist, came to Squamish to challenge the district's "stingless bees" to sting him. They did. It has been found that someone had imported the Italian type of bee into Squamish and these foreigners conquered the gentle honey-makers and taught them to sting. Only traces of the "stingless strain" remain.

PLAN NEW AIRLINE

Rimouski, Que. (CP) — The Rimouski airport, property of the Dominion Government since its construction, has been turned over to municipal authorities, who intend to establish air links between Rimouski and north shore points between the Saguenay River and Seven Islands.

"THE BEAVER"

Based upon a picture painted exclusively for Carling's.

This is one of a series of illustrations on the subject of the Conservation of our natural assets designed to emphasize the fact that the beauties of unspoiled nature that we enjoy today are a precious birthright which we must protect for tomorrow.

D-247R

Meet "MR. CONSERVATION"

To many of us the beaver is a queer little animal with a flat tail, usually found on the reverse side of the Canadian 5c piece. But to hunters, trappers and woodsmen of Quebec—the beaver is known as the guardian of the waters—as "Mr. Conservation" in person.

By damming small streams the beaver makes ponds which store water for a slower, more even distribution, preventing floods and droughts. In beaver ponds fish spawn, muskrats make their homes and migratory wildfowl find sanctuary. As old beaver ponds fill up they become rich, moist meadows.

These are the reasons why the beaver is protected by wise conservation laws. But we can do more than protect the beaver—we can emulate him. In many parts of Quebec flood control projects are under way. Such works, vital to the national economy, can be helped immeasurably by a more general awareness of the needs and methods of conservation.

Every Canadian is a shareholder in the vast heritage of wealth and wild life with which nature has endowed us. Every one of us has a vital interest and a duty to preserve that heritage.

Suggestions for The Pickle Shelf

Extra rationed sugar this month means many home-makers will be making more jam and pickles than they had intended. Home economists of the Consumer Section at Ottawa point out that sugar still has to be used with a careful hand and in this year's folder "Jams, Jellies and Pickles", the tested recipes are given with this in mind. The folder may be obtained by writing to the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Each of the three recipes which follow calls for tomatoes, either red or green. The Chili Sauce and Corn Relish should be made right away while ripe tomatoes are at their best, but the Green Tomato Chow-Chow may be left until a little later. The latter, incidentally, is an excellent way of making use of these tomatoes in the garden which refuse to ripen.

Chili Sauce

1 Tablespoon whole cloves, 3 table whole allspice, 1 gallon of chopped, skinned ripe tomatoes (8 lbs.) 2½ cups chopped peeled onions (6 medium), 2½ cups chopped, seeded green or sweet red peppers (6 medium), 1½ cups sugar, 2 tablespoons salt, 4 cups blended pickling vinegar.

Tie spices in cheesecloth bag. Combine with remaining ingredients in saucepan. Cook, uncovered, 2½ to 3 hours, or until quite thick, stirring frequently. Remove spice bag. Pour into sterilized sealers or jars and seal. Yield: about 6 pints.

Corn Relish

6 Cups corn (cut from cob), 4 cups coarsely chopped cucumber, 4 cups coarsely chopped ripe tomatoes, 4 cups coarsely chopped celery, 1 cup chopped green pepper, 1 cup chopped sweet red pepper, 4 cups chopped white onions, 3 tablespoons salt, 2 tablespoons of mustard, 1 tablespoon tumeric, 4 cups pickling vinegar, 2½ cups of brown sugar.

Mix ingredients well. Simmer uncovered, until thickened — about 50 minutes, stirring frequently. Yield: about 8 pints.

Green Tomato Chow-Chow

30 Medium green tomatoes (7½ lbs). 6 large onions, ½ cup salt, 1 tablespoon mustard seed, 1 tablespoon mustard seed, 1 tablespoon whole allspice, 1 tablespoon celery seed, 1 tablespoon whole cloves, 1 tablespoon dry mustard, 1 tablespoon peppercorns, ½ lemon, 2 sweet red peppers, 3 cups brown sugar, 3 cups of blended pickling vinegar.

Slice tomatoes and onions thinly and place in a crock or enamel vessel in alternate layers with the salt. Let stand overnight. In the morning, drain thoroughly, rinse in cold water and drain well again. Tie all spices loosely in a cheesecloth bag; slice lemon thinly; remove stem and seeds from peppers and slice thinly. Add spice bag and sugar to vinegar, bring to boiling point, then add tomatoes, onions, lemon and peppers. Cook for ½ hour, stirring gently to prevent sticking. Remove spice bag and pack pickles in hot, sterilized jars; cool and seal. Yield: about 5 pints.

Yellowknife Is A 'Remote' Area

By Edna Jacques

On a recent trip to Yellowknife the writer found out just how effectively rationing works and what a blessing it is to people in those far away places where there is NO rationing.

Take canned milk, for instance. You see, there isn't a cow within five hundred miles of Yellowknife. Children born there know what a cow looks like only from the pictures in the story books or the funnies. But they have canned milk by the case. That is one reason why canned milk is rationed in some districts in Canada so that people living in these remote areas could have this vitally necessary food where fresh milk is impossible to get.

Missionaries living in the Arctic have blessed the controlled distribution of canned milk so that they can have it, not only for their own use but for their missions. Prospectors scouring the far north for gold and precious minerals have smacked their lips over a cup of hot coffee with canned milk beside a lonely camp fire in the evening. Mothers are thankful for canned milk for their children's cereal, while hospitals use it exclusively in the north.

And sugar! In Yellowknife the sugar has to come by barge from Waterways a distance of over a thousand miles, before it reaches the stores there. As this waterway is open only some four months of the year, naturally the year's supply has to be all brought in during the summer. Rationing couldn't be used there, but they get the protection of our rationing and declare that without rationed sugar in the more settled areas they couldn't live up there at all.

Meat — the same. The meat comes by water during the summer months, in refrigerated barges, pushed by paddle steamers. Hardly a day passes in the summer but you can see a barge unloading meat at the Condock for the use, not only of the miners, but the settlement as well.

With syrup, molasses, jams or preserves sent to the North West Territories the housewife can vary her cooking where fresh fruits and vegetables are extremely scarce and almost prohibitive in price, as they have to come by plane from Edmonton.

So rationing is a good thing all round. It not only protects us — it protects these remote areas as well by guaranteeing them supplies of goods necessary to keep them well during the long dark months of the winter when daylight is something you remember — but do not see.

Your new ration book — No. 6 — will be available between September 9 and 16. It is up to you to get your own at the place designated by your Local Ration Board and announced in this paper. — They are free. Money can't buy them; even a millionaire cannot get more than one. It is your guarantee that you will get your share of goods in short supply.

SEEKS TO RAISE FOOD STANDARDS AMONG CHINESE

United Nations Delegate Studies Causes of Malnutrition in the Orient

New York (CP)—Min Hsien Yang Kiang has tackled one of the toughest problems in the world—malnutrition in China, where it has taken a toll of millions of lives.

Mrs. Kiang, 30, is a dietitian and nutrition specialist, who worked years in China's National Institute of Health, where she conducted a phamphleteering campaign to raise nutrition standards, inspired by American methods. She is the only woman member of the Chinese delegation to the United Nations International Health Conference. When it ends, she will study American health centres and nutrition methods and then return to China to resume her attack on a problem which is complicated by its many causes.

"China's food problem has many ramifications," said Mrs. Kiang between sessions of the health conference. "Lack of transportation, modern agricultural methods and modern machines all contribute to it. But there is another very important factor — the mass of the people don't know which foods build health and which don't.

"The rich and the poor have almost the same bad food habits. Of course the rich eat four or five times a day and the poor once or twice. But both concentrate heavily on polished rice, which lacks the proper vitamins for adequate nourishment.

"The rich spend their extra food money on expensive condiments to make fancy dishes instead of on more meat and vegetables and eggs to add to nutrition. The diet generally is lacking in calcium, milk, meat and fruit juices — except for the fruits which are available locally in season.

Lessons In Diet

"Through pamphlets, newspaper articles and lectures, we are trying to teach the people how to eat for a balanced diet and how to make the most of all the food they have by saving their cooking water from rice and vegetables and by eating unpolished rice which has more nourishment."

"The rice problem is complicated by the fact that in South China, where the humidity is high and storage scarce, unpolished rice will keep only a few weeks. Unpolished rice is not in the raw state in which it comes from the field, but has had the first hull (which is too rough to eat) removed. We teach the people to leave the rice in its raw state (in which it will keep much longer) until it is needed".

In her pretty flowered Chinese frock, Mrs. Kiang and her nutrition charts make a striking combination of the old world and the new. Her dark eyes snap eagerly as she talks of her work.

She is the daughter of a Chinese scholar and wife of a young Chinese attorney. After receiving a B.S. degree in Home Economics at Yenching University in 1937, she studied dietetics a year at Peiping Medical College.

In 1940 she joined the staff of the National Institute of Health (part of China's National Health Administration), where, in addition to her pamphleterring, she taught nutrition to dining-room managers of schools and Kuomintang party training camps.

After V-J Day she joined UNRRA. as nutritionist and helped establish six milk-feeding stations in Shanghai.

LEAVES STAGE TO MAKE HOME

English War Bride Was Star in British Movies and Plays

By ENID NEMY,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Regina (CP) — In London she was a well-know actress; in Regina she's plain Mrs. Stephen Giverego — but blonde and charming Lilian Ellis has found that marriage is more important to her than a career.

The daughter of a Harley Street physician, convent-taught Lilian Lilian says she has always wanted to go on the stage. As a child she studied ballet, then attended the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art and finally went into Repertory for groundwork.

"In Repertory I played everything from an old woman to a cockney servant and then I was asked for a test for the films".

She started her movie career in 1937 and was featured in a number of pictures before the outbreak of war. When England declared war, she joined a touring company to give shows for the troops.

Lilian met her husband on one of these tours and "it was definitely love at first sight".

"We were playing for the Canadians at Bournemouth and he was the officer detailed to escort us back to the mess for a party — we weren't able to be married right away because they kept on sending him off on missions but finally in September 1943, the ceremony took place."

She came to Canada for the first time in 1944 and spent four months in Ottawa. Then she returned to England to make a picture for the National Film Board on war brides.

"I got back to London on V-E Day. It was wonderful after the horror the people had been through. I'll never forget it."

Several months later Lilian returned to Canada — this time to Regina. She did some radio work and used Saskatchewan talent in her plays.

She has just returned from her third visit to England where she did some television work and made a short film on civilian life.

"But I'm glad to be back. I love Canada—especially the west".

Her husband was formerly a school teacher at Sheho, Sask., and now is with the rehabilitation department in Regina. They have found an apartment, " but then I've always been lucky." She has been invited to make a screen test for a large American movie company but for the present she says she is perfectly satisfied "to be home in Canada with my husband and all my wonderful new Canadian friends."

A full heart helps others when it overflows.

Made Pipe Bag For Dieppe Vet

Brandon, Man. (CP) — There'll be some red faces when they hear this in Scotland, but a lot of kilt-clad pipers are inclined to agree that the world's best bagpipes are made by Norman Beaton of Brandon.

The Scots traditionally make their bags from sheepskin, but Mr. Beaton's product is manufactured from specially tanned leather.

At any rate, the Brandon man, who is a piper himself, has built up a world-wide customer list. He has sold over 1,000 bags since he started making them in 1919, but the leather shortage is holding him back at the moment.

His business boomed during the war, and many a Canadian Highland regiment marched to the skirl of Beaton-made pipes. Perhaps his most unusual order came from a piper in the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders, whose bag suffered a bullet puncture on the beaches of Dieppe. Mr. Beaton sent him a new one free of charge.

DOWN THE ALLEY

By S. T. RIKE

The bowling season has started at the "Bolodrome" and promises plenty of activity. So many teams and leagues are organizing that the management has to reserve four alleys for the leagues each week-night except Saturday and Sunday, when there will be no league games.

On Monday night the "Commercial League", restricted to 12 teams, will play on four alleys. The following teams are expected to participate: La Patisserie Française, Esquire Shop, National Breweries, Pepsi Cola, Seven Up, Bankers, Gatineau Power, Spitfires, Dominion Shuttle, Wilson, Bell Telephone, Bedard Ltée, Dominion Store, Coca Cola, and St. Andrews Woolen Mills.

A mixed league will operate on Tueday night, which is being organized by Bert Giroux of the Bank of Montreal, who expects to have at least eight teams. Any wishing to join this league are requested to give their names either to Marcel Deschamps at the "Bolodrome" or to Mr. Giroux before the 23rd inst.

The "Service Clubs League" which operated so successfully last year with four teams, will have eight teams this year. Knights of Columbus, piloted by Gaetan Cousineau, won the championship last season. On the same night, Tuesday night, which is being or- St. Andrews Woollen Mills league, with four teams.

Jim McMahon who is organizing the Wilson Inter-Departmental League with Leo. Gibeault, states that this outfit may bowl tenpins (ducks), and will operate four teams on Friday night. Also on that night the Ayers Departmental League organized by Alphonse Labonté, president of the Ayers Limited sports committee, will have eight teams in operation. The idea of forming this league was prompted by Thomas Ayers.

Many Notable Pro's and Amateurs Enter Contest in Open Tournament

Big Two-Day Event Draws Total Entry of 239 Golfers; Organization Considered A Credit to Planning of Club Officials

An event of increasing popularity among the golfing fraternity, Lachute's annual open tournament attracted a big attendance last week-end — 116 amateurs playing the nine-hole dual trip on Saturday, including local and outside players — and 123 professionals and amateurs taking the field on Sunday. Spectators during the two big days numbered in the many hundreds. Fair weather favored the occasion, despite the unpromising outlook in the early hours both days.

Saturday's tournament was for amateurs with handicaps of 10 or over, while Sunday was reserved for players handicapped at 10 or under. Among the former a total of 24 prizes were awarded, 13 of which were won by Lachute Club members and 11 by outsiders.

Sunday's tournament was won by Bob Gray, of Scarboro Club, posting 33-35 for a total 68 score—four below par for the local course. He won top prize of $300 in the $1,000 stake. (Other pro winners and triumphs among Lachute Club amateurs in Saturday's play, are published in the tournment results, page 8).

Prizes were distributed in the clubhouse following each day's events. The Club president, Gilbert E. Ayers, made the awards. On Saturday he was assisted by a notable figure among the district pro's, Stan Horne, of Islesmere, and on Sunday, Emile Collette and Bert Barnabé, officials of the Professional Golfers' Association, accompanied the president on the platform, each warmly congratulating the Lachute Golf Club on the smooth-running organization and hospitality displayed at this event. Mr. Ayers expressed the pleasure of his fellow officers in having so many outstanding golfers to participate in the tournament. He mentioned the improvements completed, and the extensions in view upon the course.

Improvements in the organization this year were apparent in many details. A number of the club members were enlisted to act as course marshals and score keepers, registration clerks and cashiers. Ample parking space had been provided, thus relieving the usual traffic congestion near the clubhouse. Around the course, new bunkers, sand-traps, water holes and similar hazards greeted the visitors, and a more welcome addition was encountered in two refreshment booths appropriately situated near the distant greens. Bert Rigg, local club captain, arranged the posting of players and announced the starters over a public address system.

To many a casual spectator this occasion brought to attention, for the first time, the improvements effected in the course this season. A brochure issued for the information of visitors, gave facts concerning the local club and its progress — from which the following record may be quoted for its interest. . . .

Lachute Golf Club was organized in September 1924, after purchasing the farm formerly owned by the late James Douglas. Records of the Club recall that play was started on seven temporary greens and tees about the beginning of June, 1925, and many of the present members will no doubt recall the difficulties they had to contend with in those days, hunting the elusive white ball over fairways and rough.

The first president of the Club, the late Ernest F. Ayers, and his Directors, deserve recognition for their perseverence in the face of many difficulties they had to overcome in making the rough farm land into a suitable course.

During 1934 and 1935 two new holes were added to bring the course up to the regulation nine holes.

The present spacious club-house with all modern conveniences and containing locker rooms, showers, bar-room, reception hall and ball-room, was erected in 1940-41. At the same time a considerable amount of work was done on the course, improving greens, tees and fairways, and installing water on all the greens.

In 1925 the late Ernest F. Ayers donated a handsome cup to be competed for by the members under the rules of Medal Play. In 1934 another cup was presented to the Club by E. M. Jones, for competition among members under Match Play rules.

The game has become so popular in recent years that the present nine holes have become inadequate to meet the growing demands, being too crowded for comfort. Arrangements are being made to purchase additional land so that it may be possible to bring the course up to full 18 holes. It is intended that new locker rooms and pro shop will be added, and it is planned to build a deck overlooking four holes of the course so that members and friends may watch the play from this vantage point.

Most likely the future Lachute Open Tournaments will be held over an 18-hole course, which should make it much more interesting to the players.

We won't get a new world made to order. It must be home-made.

Busy Scene at Ration Centres Through County

On specified days this week, volunteer workers have been occupied — and are still busily engaged — in distributing the new Ration Book No. 6 at centres in every community in this county. According to Chas. Bedard, Local Ration Board secretary at Lachute, there are 28,000 such books to be exchanged throughout Argenteuil — 9,000 of them in Lachute.

In town here, the headquarters at Lachute Auditorium exchanged 3,500 books yesterday, and are continuing today. Phileas Chabot, supervisor reports there were 21 volunteers assisting with the clerical work during the day. The same story of activity is true of the Lachute Mills centre at St. Julien Parish Hall, operating on the same days. Twelve helpers were on the scene there yesterday, and 1,750 books given out.

Many Present at Funeral of Late Mrs. J. D. Campbell

The death of Mrs. James D. Campbell, last Friday morning at her home on Main Street, removes one who was widely known and related through this community. She was a native of Argenteuil, having been born at Mille Isles in 1861, the daughter of the late Robert Patterson and his wife, Jane Scott.

Much of her early life was spent in Lebanon, New Hampshire, with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. James Dawson. She was married Christmas 1885, to John W. Patterson, but was left a widow by the accidental death of her husband in April 1886, only four months after her marriage. In June 1891 she was married again, to James Dewar Campbell, who becoming the proprietor of a provision store (now Campbell Reg'd), enjoyed a wide acquaintanceship through the countryside.

Since her second marriage, the late Mrs. Campbell had resided here in Lachute, where she was much interested in her home and community and especially in her church and its activities. She was a life member of the Missionary Society.

She is survived by her sister, Mrs. John P. Scott, and a half sister, Mrs. George Bennett, also several nieces and nephews.

The funeral was held Monday from the Lachute United Church, conducted by the Rev. T. C. Cassidy of Montreal, a former minister here, and the Rev. S, J. Pike, of Brownsburg. Interment followed at Lachute Cemetery.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. Dave Campbell, Arnold Scott, Stuart and Clifford Armstrong, Ed Smith and Walker Scott.

Man Hurt by Barn Timber

A painful accident occurred to John Owens, of Stonefield Heights, when he was struck by a heavy timber last Friday and suffered a slight fracture above the eye.

Mr. Owens, who serves as secretary of the Chatham School District No. 1, was assisting in a "bee" to remove a barn structure. He and a neighbor, W. Canning, were supporting the ends of a heavy timber which was being lowered by a rope; the beam dropped when the rope gave way, striking the victim and causing severe lacerations to the side of his face. He was brought to Lachute for medical aid at the office of Dr. F. W. FitzGerald, and later taken to his home. The following day he was conveyed by ambulance to the Neurological Institute, Montreal, for X-ray examination and treatment.

Native Here Won Prominence in Agriculture Circles

LATE PROF. R. SUMMERBY, BORN AT BEECH RIDGE, ATTENDED ACADEMY

A native of the Lachute farming community who rose to prominence in Canadian agricultural circles, died Saturday at Macdonald College: he was Professor Robert Summerby, chairman of the department of agronomy at Macdonald — who was born at Beech Ridge and received his early education here at Lachute Academy. . His death occurred suddenly in his 61st year, of angina pectoris.

A charter member and one of the founders of the Canadian Society of Technical Agriculturists — now the Agricultural Institute of Canada — he was also a lifelong member of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association and honorary president of the latter body at the time of his death. He was a member during his lifetime of many other professional organizations, including the American Society of Agronomy.

He had a profound influence on Canadian agriculture and, while interested in all phases of crop production, had a special concern for the work of the Quebec Provincial Seed Board, which gives valuable information on crop varieties directly to farmers. He was active in promotion of modern scientific methods in crop research, and constantly impressed this necessity upon his students.

He entered Macdonald College in 1907 with the first class in agriculture. He received his Master's degree and did post-graduate work at Rothamsted Experimental Station in England. An active churchman, he was for many years a member of the Board of Sessions at the Union Church, Ste. Anne de Bellevue.

He is survived by his wife, the former Isobel Hall of Cornwall, two sons, John and Robert, and a sister, Mrs. E. R. Morrin, of Lachute.

The funeral rites were held at Ste. Anne de Bellevue, the remains being brought here for burial. Numerous friends and colleagues journeyed here to pay their final tribute of respect.

LIONS INTERNAT'L MEETING PLANNED FOR SHERBROOKE

Sherbrooke, Que. — Plans for the Lions International meeting which will be held in Sherbrooke on September 28 and 29 were outlined this week by Alex Allard, chairman of the special reception committee of the Sherbrooke Lions Club.

Visiting Lions will be organized for the afternoon, a sightseeing trip and afternoon tea for the ladies, and a banquet at night at which Walter C. Fisher, International third vice-president, will be the guest speaker. Dancing will follow. Sunday morning a general conference will be held at which a number of subjects will be discussed, including boys' and girls' work activities, health and welfare work, community betterment, fund raising and club finances, and club organizing plans.

Blames Golf for Athletic Decline

A British writer recently came to the decision that the decline of British athletic prowess was to be blamed on golf. "Golf," he asserted, "is an asinine game."

"Men who would have become mighty among peloists, stars of cricket realms, great in all branches of red-blooded sporting endeavor, have sacrificed it all to play golf."

He went on to say that the game has been the ruination of Britain's reign in the realms of sport for it has lured away men who could have kept the empire's flag waving if they had spent only one-third the time at other games they did at golf.

Salvation Army Salvage Collection

Brigadier A. E. Ward and Major Kimmins, Men's Social Service department of the Salvation Army Headquarters staff, were in town on Wednesday making arrangements for their fall collection of waste paper and salvage of all kinds. The Salvation Army truck will be in Lachute on Wednesday and Thursday of next week, September 18 and 19, and the collectors will be grateful for all serviceable donations.

Note Increased Public Interest in Carillon Museum

Visitors to the Carillon Museum this season have remarked upon the increasing attendance — which may be attributed in part to improved travel facilities and more numerous tourists in the district. An inspection of the visitors' book reveals names and addresses from considerable distances. This upturn in public interest is confirmed by the curator and caretaker, Mr. Robt. Bradley, and it is gratifying to those officials of the Argenteuil Historical Society who have taken active part in its affairs.

All departments of the Museum seem to be sharing this added popularity, and in all rooms of the rambling barracks building the exhibits are in order, carefully arranged and suitably tagged. An added feature this season has been the loan exhibit of oil paintings by Vivian Walker, which include landscapes from this district — Grenville, L'Original, Stonefield, Lake Hughes, with a harvest scene near Lachute and a barnyard at Riviere Rouge. These, with a still life presentation and a few portraits, afford a sideshow in the modern trend, in apt contrast to the fine old paintings on more ponderous subjects — gifts of Mrs. J. Seipp and others, which form the permanent collection.

In the upper room nearby, the records of early transportation in this countryside, with pictures of the old railroads and models of early vessels of the Great Lakes and waterways, continue to attract the attention of visitors.

A credit to the upkeep of this institution is the restful lawn and flowerbeds bordering the Ottawa River. Altogether, the spot is a source of pride to many whose sentiments are rooted in the soil of Argenteuil.

Good Friend Lost To Community Of North River

Late Mrs. William Graham

The many friends of Mrs. William A. Graham, of North River, were greatly saddened by her unexpected passing, which occurred at her home on Friday, September 6, after a brief illness of scarcely a week's duration.

Mrs. Graham, who was in her 72nd year, was the former Martha Jane Wilson, second daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Wilson, of North River. She was noted for her genial, happy disposition and kind hospitality, and except for a few visits to members of her family in Montreal, Halifax and Siscoe, had spent her entire life in the vicinity. . . Previous to her passing she was planning a visit to her son in Vancouver.

Last June Mr. and Mrs. Graham had celebrated 50 years of happy married life, in a golden wedding party at their home — the party being given them by their family.

Her husband, five daughters, six sons, 23 grandchildren and two great grandchildren are left to mourn her loss, as well as her sister, Mrs. R. Mason, of Yellow Grass, Sask., and brother, Frederick, of North River

Her immediate family are — Mrs. Leunna Sanford and Mrs. R. Banks, of Montreal; Mrs. D. Bradford, of North River; Mrs. R. Sutten, of Brownsburg, and Mrs. I. Clark, of Upper Lachute; Messrs. William, George and Cecil Graham, of Lachute, Earl, of Vancouver, B.C., Clarence, of Siscoe, and Melvin at home.

The funeral service was held in the Margaret Rodger Memorial Church, and was conducted by the pastor, the Rev. C. MacLean, who stressed the fact that "death to the Christian was just the opening of a door leading to the Heavenly realms."

The many beautiful flowers bore silent testimony to the esteem in which the late Mrs. Graham was held. Her remains were interred in Lachute cemetery, the pall-bearers being her six sons.

Branch to Aid in Red Cross Quota

A meting of the Lachute Red Cross was held Wednesday, September 4, at the town hall. Knitting was given out to volunteer workers, and sewing for overseas will be distributed as soon as received from headquarters.

A distributing centre manned by the Red Cross, has been opened in Bayeux, Normandy, from which garments will be distributed to the needy families of Europe.

The quota from the Province of Quebec is set at 100,000 articles, consisting mostly of layettes and children's wear. All those who can help are asked to assist in meeting this quota.

A donation was sent from this branch to the Canadian Legion fund for victims of polio, now being sponsored in Montreal.

Enrolment at High School Hits A New Record

NEWCOMERS ON STAFF INCLUDE SEVERAL EX-SERVICEMEN

On Tuesday of this week a record number of 436 pupils flocked to Lachute High School as classes resumed for the new school year. It is expected this number will be increased to 450 during the next week.

Approximately 40 youngsters started in Grade I under Miss Gertrude McMahon. A total of 35 are enrolled in Grade XI and a few more are expected within the next few days.

A considerable number are enrolled throughout the school from other points — Brownsburg, St. Andrews East, Grenville, Calumet, Mille Isles, Harrington and Arundel.

The enrolment is so great that it has been necessary, as a temporary arrangement, to reconvert to a classroom the quarters formerly used as the girls' playroom in the basement.

The teaching staff, headed by Principal F. H. J. Royal, M.A., consists of 18 members. Seven of these are teaching here for the first time.

Mr. Royal, before coming to Lachute, served for six years as a Captain with the Royal Rifles of Canada. He was sent to the Far East, where he spent four years as a prisoner of war in Hong Kong.

Prior to his enlistment he was principal of the High School at Windsor Mills.

Believes Nylon Justly Claimed as A Triumph of Modern Chemistry

Description by Advertising Manager of C-I-L Nylon Division Suggests Future Uses of the Product Almost Limitless

Brownsburg — At their regular Thursday evening meeting, September 6, the Rotary Club were given an extremely interesting talk on nylon by Mr. Stanley McKay, advertising manager of the Nylon Division of Canadian Industries Limited.

Nylon can be considered as a "triumph of modern chemistry" and while this phrase is rather a trite one, it has real meaning, nevertheless. It was developed from materials which only a few years ago had not even a remote connection with textiles. The name has now become a household word and almost synonymous with stockings. In spite of the fact that nylon is an amazing material having a vast number of applications, it has its limitations. As there was little time for experimental work during the war, much research still has to be done to develop uses for which nylon is best adapted.

In 1928 E. I. duPont de Nemours began a study of polymers, or to put it more simply, the formation of molecules attached to one another, as links in a chain, to produce giant molecules. In 1938 after intensive research they were able to announce to the world the discovery of a group of new synthetic polymers from which could be spun textile fibres to surpass in strength and elasticity any previously known. This new family of materials was christened with the name of "nylon".

What is nylon made of? We have all heard the statement that nylon is produced from coal, air and water, and this is correct of course, even though it is possibly an over-simplification. The guest speaker told the story of a lady who returned a badly battered pair of stockings to the manufacturer with the helpful suggestion that they probably needed more coal in their fabrication. Actually the three basic substances are benzene (from coal), nitrogen (from air), and hydrogen (from water). From these are manufactured adipic acid and hexamethylenediamine, from which is produced the polymerized resin. This material is a thick, hard, ivory-like ribbon, which is chopped into small chips and then melted under pressure to a thick, gummy mass. This viscous substance is forced through tiny holes in a metal disc called a spinneret. It comes out in fine filaments which harden in cold air, much in the same manner that a spider's web is spun. These tiny filaments are gathered together to form a strand of yarn, and wound up on a bobbin.

During the war nylon played a major role, as it was used for the manufacture of parachutes as well as for glider tow-lines. When it is realized that the nylon in one parachute would make 250 pairs of stockings, we can understand why there was no yarn for civilian use in wartime.

The future of nylon is almost limitless. While its use to date in civilian markets has been mostly confined to stockings — the bulk of the yarn being given to the full-fashioned hose industry — we are gradually witnessing its use in many types of apparel such as raincoats, blouses, lingerie, umbrellas and men's windbreakers. It is expected that men's dressing gowns made of nylon will be on the market next month. The speaker displayed many excellent samples of these items.

Some of the future developments in nylon which are at present being investigated include— hosiery one-half as sheer as that sold now; a finer filament which will give a fabric possessing a softer drape. To illustrate the versatility of nylon we can take the case of harpoon lines used in England for whaling. Formerly, with the usual types of rope the range of a harpoon was limited, but with the nylon the strength-weight ratio being so high, the harpoon range has been vastly increased — a very great advantage to the whaler. Another use has been hawsers for towing barges. Nylon having great shock-absorbing strength, does not snap when a sudden load is applied.

The demand for nylon is so great that it has been necessary for Canadian Industries Limited to expand their present plant at Kingston, Ontario. When this has been completed and in operation, there should be substantial amount of nylon yarn for all uses.

This interesting talk was followed by the showing of the sound-color film, "Let's Spin a Yarn", in which the manufacture of nylon yarn was described. In addition, the film portrayed the multitudinous uses to which nylon can be put. Slippers and handbags — hats which do not crush — pleated blouses with permanently set pleats that may be washed and dried in less than an hour — were only a few of the items which were modeled in this interesting film.

The speaker was introduced by Norman Somers, and thanked by Tom Hall.

Offers Suggestion, Town Clock for War Memorial

TO THE EDITOR

Lachute, Que.

Dear Sir:

May I have a small space in your paper to offer a suggestion to the citizens of our town?

We read from time to time of celebrations that are being held in honor of the boys who have returned from overseas, but so far we Lachute people have done nothing either to welcome back our boys or to honor the memory of those "who will not return". Our town has made many improvements in the past year, and we are proud of them, but there is still one much needed improvement — a town clock — and I can't think of anything that would be a more lasting memorial to our boys "over there", or a more fitting tribute to those who are home again.

Sh ! Don't Look

Like the first harbingers of spring, only less welcome, come reminders that time is ever on the move, and that we must keep pace — with raincoats, earmuffs or whatever paraphernalia the seasons demand.

In our Forecast column this week appear the announcements of Christmas sales. But those whose joints react to frigid temperatures will doubtless look the other way, refusing to be intimidated.

SUCCESSFUL AFFAIR BY LAKEFIELD W.A. OF TRINITY CHURCH

Work Proceeding on Beautification of Old Churchyard

Lakefield — A successful bazaar and social was held at the Gibb Parish Hall recently under auspices of Holy Trinity branch of the W.A.

Despite the damp and chilly evening, there was a good attendance and a brisk demand for the ice cream and cake.

Weather conditions having made the outdoor program impossible, Mr. Louis Solomon came to the aid of the ladies, and arranged the hall for the entertainment. The audience enjoyed Miss Winnie Kermath's performance on the piano-accordion, Mrs. Dietche's songs and "Harmonica Harry's" tunes old and new. A popular item was the dancing of little Vivian Smalley and her brother Ted, their father furnishing the piano accompaniment. Mrs. Chambers' impersonation of the strap-hanging shopper was almost painfully realistic and drew many laughs. Duets by Mrs. Dietche and Mr. Joe McCready, and Mr. Bert Kositsky's singing of the Lord's Prayer, were much appreciated.

After the program Mr. Solomon auctioned the unsold goods.

Sincere thanks of the Lakefield W.A. are extended to all those who contributed their time and talents to make a success of the occasion.

Work on the beautification of the churchyard is proceeding at last, and a considerable portion of the proceeds of the evening will be devoted to this object. Financial aid for this cause is urgently needed, as it is desired to make a really good job of the work undertaken.

Attention is also drawn to the Harvest Thankgiving service and dinner to be held September 19. The Rev. A. Coleman, rector of the Church of the Ascension, Montreal, is to be the special preacher.

The platform built by Mr. Peet is a big improvement to the Gibb Parish Hall.

Corn Borer Damage In Hybrid Corn

(Experimental Farms News)

Since the introduction of hybrid corn into Ontario, the loss through corn borer damage has been greatly reduced. This observation has led to the wrong belief that hybrid corn is resistant to corn borer, and consequently the need for borer control measures are no longer necessary. Both of these ideas are incorrect, says G. F. H. Buckley, Dominion Experimental Station, Harrow, Ont.

The corn hybrids which are commonly grown today are not resistant to the borer. It is true that because of its sturdier stalks the hybrid can hold more borers in the stalk than the old corn varieties before breaking occurs. But that is not resistance. If the borer infestation is severe enough the hybrids will break over. Plant breeders in Canada and United States are working hard on this problem but as yet no resistant hybrids are in production. Until such hybrids are developed there will always be the threat of borer damage to the crop and the severity of the damage will be dependent upon the degree of borer infestation.

For the past two or three years the corn borer control measures have been less rigid. During the same years there has been an increase in the number of borers present In 1946 borers were at work in the corn fields of Southwestern Ontario during the early part of July. It is too soon to say how much damage may be expected. Fortunately over 95 per cent of the corn acreage is planted to hybrids which will withstand light to moderate attacks of the borer. Nevertheless, if the recommended measures for corn borer control are not more rigidly followed the borer infestation will soon be too great for even the hybrids to withstand. A good job of turning under old corn stalks and stubble before June 1st is especially important and will do much to reduce the numbers of the insect in the current year.

"Rescue" Wheat Resists Sawfly

New Strain to be Available To Farmers in 1948

Saskatoon, Sask. (CP) — A new sawfly-resistant wheat which will save farmers millions of dollars may be available in large enough quantities for distribution in the insect scourge areas by the spring of 1948, Dr. J. B. Harrington professor of field husbandry at the University of Saskatchewan has announced.

This spring some 8,000 bushels of the new wheat, called "Rescue" was distributed to seed growers in Saskatchewan for intensive increase. It is expected about 25 per cent of farmers in sawfly areas will be able to seed Rescue next spring.

The new strain was produced at the Dominion experimental station at Swift Current by H. J. Kemp and A. W. Platte. They have been working for the past 15 years at the experiment, crossing solid-strawed wheat from New Zealand with Apex wheat.

Rescue wheat is highly sawfly-resistant, but not equal in quality, straw yield or early growth to Thatcher, Apex and Regent.

Sawfly losses have been estimated as high as $20,000,000 a year. Cost of originating rescue has been less than $250,000.

See Tiny Midges As Crop Prophets

Harpenden, Eng. (CP) — Broadbalk Field at Rothamsted Experimental Station here has been under wheat for 100 years and numberless experiments have been conducted, the latest dealing with the habits of midges and their use as crop prophets.

The field was the first large-scale experiment showing the effect of artificial fertilizers on wheat and their continued application on the soil. The long sequence of cropping, backed by accurate weather observations, provided information on correlation of weather, fertilizer response and crop yield.

The agriculture department said that during the last 20 years the field has provided material for investigation into two wheat blossom midges. Their emergence usually is noted in late May or early June and in July a survey is made of damage done to wheat by larvae.

It has been found possible to forecast the date of wheat from the extent of infestation of wheat ears by larvae.

Breadbalk has proved that one of the wheat midge types can remain alive in the soil for at least eight winters before emerging as an adult fly.

Feed Oat Gleanings To Pigs and Poultry

London (CP) — Pig and poultry keepers in the United Kingdom are being advised by the agriculture department to supplement their reduced supplies of feeding stuffs by gleaning in fields where oats have been cut.

Gleaners must wait till the crop has been carted from the fields and must obtain permission to enter the land.

An Answer for the Atomic Age

By Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, U.S.N.

I have profound admiration and respect for Moral Re-Armament. I think that freedom is on the decline in the world and that it can be a factor in saving that freedom, and Christianity too.

There is a fundamental reason why freedom is in jeopardy in the world. Transportation and communication have shrunk the world and made neighbors of the nations. That means a tremendous interdependence of human relations. We have created an environment that we have not been able to fit ourselves into.

This group has the answer to how to fit the human race into this extraordinary environment we have created with the advance of science.

I have known a good deal about this group. They remind me of the Apostles of old. They have eft their homes and their comfort, and they go about the world without any pay, giving unselfishly with great self-sacrifice—they are the hardest working outfit I know—working for this great cause of saving freedom in the world.

They have got to save freedom, because material sciences have gone so far ahead of the science of human relations. That is really what they are fighting for.

I wish them all the luck in the world and God's blessing in their tremendous effort. They have already done wonderful work which I know from my own personal knowledge is bringing co-operation in this country.

I believe if we back up this group — and I believe everybody should back it — that this answer will infiltrate all over the world. This is the only group working along this line. It is the only answer for the atomic age.

INFLATION is no respecter of persons. Like the rain, it falls on the just and the unjust alike.

If, through free and careless spending, inflation should descend upon Canada as it has upon many other nations, its evil would fall upon everyone.

Upon the shiftless, the thriftless, and the black market patrons . . . Yes . . .

But inflation's evil would fall equally on the "just"—those decent, honest, prudent citizens who observe the law and do not seek to satisfy selfish whims to the detriment of the community.

These, fortunately, are Canada's majority . . . these are Canada's No. 1 citizens. In their hands lies victory over inflation.

Here are their five cardinal points in personal financing:

- Hold on to Victory Bonds and Certificates.
- Buy only those goods which are in fair supply and save money for the day when goods now in short supply will be readily available.
- Avoid black market purchases.
- Keep up insurance.
- Build up savings accounts.

This is conservation—the first requisite of personal security—the first attribute of good citizenship.

Alcoholism

HOLLYWOOD'S best picture last year, the Academy award winner "Lost Week-End", starring Ray Milland, has helped a lot of people to understand the seriousness of alcoholism. The film has caused many to realize drunkenness is not a state bordering on the comical or humorous, but rather a tragic disease which has thousands of victims within its grip. The fact that it has taken a movie to draw attention to this problem, emphasizes the inadequacies of our educational system in failing to stress the evils of intoxicant drinks.

Canadians on the average are "foolish" drinkers, or what might be termed "gulpers". They drink fast and often, much after the American style, with the result that many become drunk, or at least approaching such a state. Liquor becomes a harmful stimulant, instead of a means to social pleasantry. The Canadian style of drinking is opposed to the British or European practice, where the drinker sips his drinks. In Britain a drunkard on the streets is a rare sight.

If liquor is to be made available in Canada, and the majority of citizens have indicated that they want it available, then some plan of government education towards sensible drinking should be undertaken. Brewers should be forced to contribute some of their profits towards such a scheme. Young people especially should be warned of the harm which can result from excessive drinking, not to mention the shame and hardship often endured by a drunkard's family. If Canadians can be taught to drink wisely and in moderation the result will be felt not only in the saving of wrecked lives, but also in the decline in crime and delinquency, and reduction of traffic fatalities.

The Keeley Institute in the United States has been treating alcoholics for more than 60 years. Clinical records show that professional men head the list of all groups of patients, with architects, brokers, bankers and others engaged in management positions included in this classification. Surprisingly enough the group which includes farmers, cattlemen and those dealing in agriculture come second in the number of patients, leading the divisions of skilled labor, clerical people and merchants. Another interesting note is that the Institute has treated more than 17,000 physicians, but only 505 bartenders. The Institute records also show that more heavy drinkers come from the cities and towns than from the country, probably because liquor is more readily available to town folk. Statistics reveal too that the majority of heavy drinkers began drinking before they were 20 years of age — a fact which re-emphasizes the need of an educational campaign designed for young people.

A Man's Country

A SINGLE female in Canada should find it easier than a male to get a mate, or at least should encounter less competition. This fact is revealed in figures on vital statistics issued by the Dominion Government, which show there are more single men than single women, with the result that the young man with matrimonial intentions has to do more elbowing of competitors if he wishes to win his partner. The young lady, on the other hand, can be more discerning. She can play hard to get. And the swain with the bright idea of going to the province where the girls predominate might just as well stay home, because the situation is general throughout the Dominion, although Quebec province offers the most even odds.

Canada, it appears, is a man's country — in regard to population, that is — with men forming 51.3 per cent of the population. The Yukon is the stronghold of the males, the rugged life there keeping the females down to 35.8 per cent of the total. Quebec is the most "female" province, the males forming only 50.2 per cent of the provincial total.

How is a young chap to overcome the situation created by the girl shortage, especially if there are three or four trying to court the same girl? Well, the only advice we can give is to first select your heart's desire then let neither hell nor high water stand in your way until you have won — or else choose a girl who doesn't have any admirers.

Good luck to you friend; whatever your decision, you will probably need it.

"Of Fine Character"

WHAT DO we mean when we say, "He was a man of fine character"? What are the qualities which enter into "character"?

This question was put up by one of the members at "The Mourners' Club", as recounted by a friend in Ottawa. The gathering had been running over a wide range of topics, one thing after the other, when suddenly one of the charter members spoke up and asked the question. There was a wide variety of answers. One man said, "honesty and integrity"; another answered, "honesty and kindness"; a third gave his definition in one word — "unselfishness". We think he had something there. Unselfishness in the individual, the group, the nation, would make a new world, in fact a better one.

Tangles Take Time

THE OTHER DAY we watched an old chap extracting knots from a fishing line thrown away in a hopeless tangle by some incompetent troller. After three hours it was as good as new. He gave it to a youngster on the street.

Until we talked to him, we couldn't understand a sane man wasting time unravelling a knotted batch of nylon. Couldn't he spend his hours better at petit-point or crocheting?

This is what the old chap said:

"Fixing a tangled line is more exciting even than fishing. You know you can do it if you stay at it. You can't lose unless you quit. All you need is patience.

"I admit fishing is good too. But you must have luck as well as patience. There is no luck in untangling a line. Just patience. It's as exact a science as chess.

"Working on the line and fishing are both good training for anyone who's excitable or tends to rush things. You can't rush a bass or a muskie. And if you get excited with a tangled fishline you just start all over."

Perhaps there's something in what the old boy says. Patient folks aren't born — they're made. From holding a fishing rod or de-knotting a line: or from saying nothing when the sharp retort is easy.

Each Has His Part

"LABELS such as State, industry, nationalization in themselves mean little," said Herbert Morrison in a recent talk. "Whether these these things work, whether they give us what we all so firmly desire, all depends on the sum of what each of us does."

On every hand statesmen, and the ordinary man, are seeing that new administrations, new systems and new deals can do little good unless there is some new attitude or effort on the part of individual people. With such growing recognition of our real and basic need, it is surprising that there is still so much effort spent on plans and systems and so little on attitude and spirit. That so much importance is publicly attached to "what each of us does", while privately we each do so little about it.

What can we do? A baker said, "I can begin with my own home, my own bakery and my own industry. I can try to make them models of what homes and bakeries and industry should be in a democracy. Free from blind selfishness on one hand and blind bitterness on the other. Free from personal dictatorship either at the business conference table or the family breakfast table. Free from fear of either my competitors or customers. Free to do what's right without reference to either pride or profits."

The butcher, the candlestick maker and everybody else are just as free. These are things each one of us can do. You do not have to be a baker to form this kind of leaven in the lump of present-day society.

Little Business Men Are Victims

MANY RESIDENTS of the United States may be earnest believers in the Ten Commandments, but they also will confess in casual conversation that they are, or have been, habitual patrons of the black market. It is apparent that the black markets have not as yet grown to the same proportions here, which may be partly due to a Canadian tendency to obey even those laws in which we don't believe, and partly because, when a law is broken, the violator is more likely not to tell his friends.

There is no doubt, however, that our black markets will grow unless and until our shortages are eased. The kind of people who are ultimate consumers of black-market goods deserve no sympathy and the racketeers who promote black markets by holding goods from legitimate markets are in the class of the big-time bootleggers of the prohibition era. But there is another sizable and growing group in the black markets. They are victims, or at least unwilling participants. They are small business men with no great diversity of product. They ordinarily have made their livings by making and selling or buying and selling. When their raw materials become unobtainable in the ordinary course they are faced with the alternative of going out of business or going into the black market. The temptation not to become a law-abiding bankrupt is one which even the most earnest believer in the Theory and Practice of Price Control in War and Peace would not wish to face.

WITH THE LOCAL VETS ON "CIVVY STREET"

Contributed by ALEX LACOSTE, Dept. of Veterans' Affairs

Roaming around in this interesting district of Argenteuil, seeking news on some of the boys back in civilian life after years in the armed forces — our first cue was to call on our veteran friend of 1914-1918, Mr. E. A. Hibbard, manager at Lachute of the Bank of Montreal. I was glad to note that they were 100% veteran conscious, and ready to serve those who had served them in the six years of war. As a matter of fact Mr. Hibbard cited a few cases where he had had to do with the D.V.A. and V.L.A., with the Veterans' Placement Officer for the Federal Department of Labor, Louis Blais, and with J. G. Lamontagne, manager of the National Employment Bureau at Lachute. We also met our comrade in active service, of World War I, now manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia and secretary of the Local Branch of the Canadian Legion — Willard M. Steeves, who is also glad to help the boys in every way possible.

Mr. Blais gave particulars of interviews made by him since December 1945. His record showed: Reinstatements in former Employment 122; Applications for Benefit No. 1, 93; for Benefit No. 2, 41; for Benefit No. 3, 26; for Benefit No. 4, 11; for Benefit No. 5, 1; Cases referred to Chief Medical Officer, 16; referred to Local Medical Officer, 36; referred to Re-Establishment Credits Section, 98; referred to Veterans' Land Act (Farm), 9; (Small Holding), 27; cases referred to Employment via local office, 224; referred to Employment direct, 59; transferred to other local offices, 29; miscellaneous cases, 351; cases referred to Canadian Pension Commission, 11. — Total, 1,154.

Having been told of a small but very important little town called Brownsburg, we called at one of its prime industries, the C-I-L, where we had the pleasure of meeting Sidney H. Stilwell, who is assistant to the Works Manager, Ammunition Division, also area chairman for the Provincial Command of the Canadian Legion. A veteran of World War I Mr. Stilwell was a prisoner of war in Germany for nine months. With him was the president of Brownsburg Legion 71, John J. Seary, who served in the Navy and took part in the invasion of Sicily and Italy, also on D-Day aboard the H.C.M.S. Prince David; in the invasion of Southern France, the Greek islands of Kithera, Poros and at the Greek Mainland in October, 1944. Hitting a mine on the coast of Greece, and stranded there seven weeks during the Greek civil war, they finally got away, and after being patched up, left Gibraltar for Vancouver, by way of the Caribbean Sea and Panama. Back in Victoria he was honorably discharged on October 13, 1945. John Seary's mother is a member of the Ladies' Auxiliary, his dad a Legionnaire, his three brothers, Stan, Sid and Robert, all veterans of the recent war, and last but not least, Muriel, with the C.W.A.C.

Our two comrades were glad to give us a few details of activities in Brownsburg and district At the C-I-L plant since 1939 about 400 employees joined the armed forces, and of these 50% have been reinstated, and from 30 to 40 new veterans have been employed in different plants at Brownsburg since the end of hostilities. Of these some are now in Montreal and others in St. Johns, Que., taking different courses through the Rehabilitation Committee.

Last June a campaign was started for a Memorial Hall in Brownsburg, to cost $35,000 — chartered under the War Charities Act. They so far have collected $10,000 in cash and pledges, and would have collected more had it not been for the general lay-off, strikes, income tax, holidays and other activities in the town. They should be congratulated for such splendid work under present conditions . . and yet but a few miles away nothing has been done.

The committee, under the presidency of our pal and comrade John J. Seary and his colleagues, will continue their efforts, planning to hold horse races in September or early October, that may prove to be an annual event. The Legion has six servicewomen in the branch, plus a very active Ladies' Auxiliary under the presidency of Mrs. Harold Mason; also the Central Rehabilitation Committee, of which Comrade David Cooper is president.

To end up their fall campaign a "smoker with floor show" will take place at Brownsburg on November 11, Remembrance Day, when Lachute branch of the Canadian Legion will be invited to participate in this "bang-up affair".

Returning to Lachute we met with a few of the boys who are grateful to Louis Blais, Veterans' Placement Officer for the help given them . . Incidentally our good friend Louis was mentioned in dispatches on August 11, 1944. He served in the Canadian Grenadier Guards, going overseas in October 14, 1942. In January, 1943 Blais was called on special tour of duty in Canada as instructor for eight months, after which he returned to his former unit. He landed in France in July, 1944, and was wounded August 11 in the big assault at Falaise. He was hospitalized on the continent until September and returned to his unit, at which time the Canadian forces were engaged in clearing the Scheldt Estuary. . . In February, 1945, his unit was called to participate in the assault on the Ziegfried Line. Wounded again on February 26, 1945, the first day of the attack, he was evacuated to England, and finally sent to Canada to be discharged on September 19, 1945.

With him at the National Employment Office in Lachute is a young veteran M. E. Laframboise, who served with the Tenth Canadian Field Ambulance. He landed in France with the Sixth Brigade

"MY WEEK"

By R. J. DEACHMAN

The holidays are over and now alas, work again! But I am far from complaining. Holidays are all right in their place but a life with nothing else but holidays would bring the sadness of despair. I love to work, to see the wheels go round, even if they produce nothing but stories for other people to read.

Somebody told me that the wool socks I wanted to get were not available because of a wool pool which was holding up the prices of wool with a deadly objective of making a profit in it. Now wait a minute! Just over a year ago the London Wool Conference estimated that it would take thirteen years to dispose of the stocks of wool. Last week it was announced that 40% had already disappeared.

What happened during the war? Britain took over the wool of what might be called, the "Wool Dominions of the British Commonwealth", Australia, New Zealand, South Africa. The Sales during the past year were of record proportions, 2,250 million pounds of wool, equal to twice the current clip of Australia, New Zealand and South Africa. France, Belgium and Italy had been swept bare of wool; they absorbed over a quarter of the total sales. Large quantities were also purchased by UNRRA and by other European countries. The United Kingdom, U.S.A. and Canada alone absorbed an amount equal to the clip of the current year.

How could it be otherwise? Thousands of returned soldiers stocked up on new clothes and we stood back a little to let them have a chance. This together with normal consumption has taken a lot of wool. It would be foolish to throw it all on the market at once, it was better in the interest of all concerned to liquidate it gradually. There are a great many of our guides, temporal and spiritual, who, without knowing the facts, take a particular delight in suggesting that an evil spirit has got hold of things, that everything is wrong, and, of course, the capitalists are to blame!

Here's another story about scarcity. A neighbor woman says she can't get sugar to "do up" her peaches and pears. She tells me that the shops are full of it. I am just cussed enough to believe that the average shopkeeper would be glad to sell tons and tons of it if he had it, providing, of course, some silly regulation does not prevent his doing so. When we divert the man-power of the world from normal production to war, shortages must follow and it will take some time to catch up on a number of things. Then shipping is scarce. Sugar plantations, in some cases, have been destroyed. It was difficult to find labor for our own sugar beet fields. Be patient, the time will come when we shall have sugar enough and to spare!

* * *

On the front page of the Edmonton Journal-Bulletin I saw, in a recent issue, a picture of a wheat field and, in the background a town, with elevators, a church — and in the town, I knew it without seeing them, were banks, stores, garages and all the other things which go to make life on the prairies.

I have seen that picture with my own eyes a thousand times, from Morden to Dauphin, from Prince Albert to Edmonton, to Olds, High River, Lethbridge and all the other towns, North, South, East and West. I grow lonesome when I think of it. It is one of the greatest pleasures of life to be in the West at harvest time — to see the fruit of a year's effort rolling into the elevators, moving forward on the railways down to the terminals, out to the ocean ports and over the seas to the markets of the world. I see it often now, picture it clearly in my mind. These are things which will abide with me till falls life's eventide.

GAY YOUNG BLADE NEED NOT APPLY

Winnipeg (CP) — Employers in eighteenth century England were a choosy lot; labor shortages they never heard of. Following is the 1796 advertisement uncovered recently by a Winnipeg publication:

"Wanted for a sober family: a man of light weight, who fears the Lord and can drive a pair of horses. He must occasionally wait at table, join in household prayer, look after horses and read a chapter of the Bible. He must, God willing, rise at seven in the morning, and obey his master and mistress in all lawful commands; if he can dress hair, sing psalms and play at cribbage, the more agreeable.

"N.B. — He must not be too familiar with the maid servants, lest the flesh should rebel against the spirit, and he should be induced to walk the thorny path of the wicked.

"Wages: 15 guineas a year."

WHERE'S THE FIRE

Why the hurry to fires? If it is a big one, it will still be burning even if the speed limits are observed. If it is a small one and out before the motorist gets there, little has been missed.

OBITUARY

Spinster Lady Was Link With Early Residents

Late Miss Y. Marcil

The death of a lifetime resident, Miss Yvonne Marcil, occurred suddenly last Friday afternoon at her home on Main Street west. Miss Marcil, 64 years of age, was widely known in Lachute through her business as a milliner. She was the only surviving daughter of Treffle Marcil and his wife Josephine Groulx, who came here from St. Placide and Ste. Scholastique, respectively, and were among the oldest French-Canadian families of the community.

Miss Marcil attended school here, was a good parishioner of Ste. Anastasie, and spent her entire lifetime in Lachute. In her younger life, together with her late sister she was employed for several years at the firm of Ayers Limited. Later she followed the millinery business, making many friends throughout the community.

The funeral, held Monday morning from Ste. Anastasie Church, was largely attended. The Rev. Poitras, of St. Laurent College, celebrated mass, with the Rev. Beauregard and the Rev. Savage assisting. The remains were interred in the west end cemetery.

Of this marriage there were five children, two of whom died in infancy and one, Sgt. Frederick Adam Dewar, who was killed on duty overseas during World War II. Surviving are — Walter Celtic, Mrs. M. Cloutier and five grandchildren.

The pall-bearers were his nephews, John Edward Dewar, of Grenville, David Dewar, of Sault Ste. Marie, Alex Dewar, of Arundel, Stanley and Harris Dewar, of Grenville, and Bill Grundy, of Montreal.

Jeeps A-Plenty, Street Parade

The number of Jeeps imported here by Northland Automotive Equipment in the last week or two, dispels any notion of a shortage in these farm utility vehicles. The Willys Universal Jeep appears to be on the market in a big way. Two carloads were unloaded at Lachute yards this week, comprising 10 Jeeps; and as they made their appearance in a street parade yesterday — squat little machines in green, red, yellow and buff finish — many onlookers wondered what it was all about.

The Watchman was informed by Marcel Lanctot and Andy Cleland, partners in the Northland concern, that 15 of these Jeeps have already been delivered in the district, and seven of this week's consignment are also sold. It is expected the demand will continue — since it is claimed the Willys Universal serves four practical purposes for farm owners, namely as a car, a truck, a tractor and a stationary power unit.

Northland Automotive Equipment Reg'd are established in the Molson warehouse property, Main Street west, where they give assurance that more Jeeps and other Willys models will be available; and satisfactory service will be given at this depot.

THANK YOU for waiting for delivery of your
NEW GENERAL MOTORS CAR

We are doing our best to see that you get your new car as quickly as possible

We want to thank every one of our customers — and every prospective customer as well — for the friendly patience with which you are awaiting your new General Motors car, whether it be a Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Buick or Cadillac.

That patience will be more than rewarded when we hand you the keys to one of these great new General Motors cars, for here, in our judgment are automobiles ahead of their time — far and away the best in each of their respective classes.

We know how difficult it is to wait even a day for a car of General Motors exceptionally fine quality; but we believe you will understand that we and General Motors are as eager to deliver cars as purchasers are to obtain them. Unfortunately, the cars produced so far this year are far fewer than we and the factory had counted on. General Motors headquarters at Oshawa sums up the situation thus:

"Even though our rate of production normally exceeds that of any other manufacturer, we have been able to build, up to August 1, only a small percentage of the number of cars we built up to that date in 1941. Our own production, like that of the industry in general, is still far below normal, because of frequent shortages of essential materials and parts. Strike after strike at the plants of our suppliers has seriously impeded our progress toward full production, and the cumulative effect severely hampers both manufacturing and assembly."

While production is restricted, so — in proportion — are shipments of cars to us. As production increases, we are assured of getting our proportionate share of the total number of cars from the factory. But we want you to know that as quickly as these cars are received, we will speed deliveries to our customers.

We thank you, again, for your understanding and patience — confident that when your turn comes to enjoy the brilliant new standards achieved by the new General Motors cars, you will be thankful you waited.

Youth Rallies on Saturday Nights

In an effort to help solve the "Saturday night problem" of the young people of Lachute and district, Youth Rallies will be held every Saturday beginning this week, at 7.45 p.m. in the Lachute Baptist Church. The programs are being planned especially for young people, with lots of singing, special local and out-of-town musical talent, Bible Quiz questions, and youth speakers.

This week's special feature will be a Young People's Group from the Alliance Chapel, Montreal. The Rev. Mr. Bowles, Chapel pastor, will speak. All the young folk of Lachute and surrounding district are urged to include these Youth Rallies in their Saturday night plans: — Everyone is welcome.

At the evening service a ladies' quartet from Montreal will sing, with other features.

L.O.B.A. Meeting At Harrington

Harrington — A special meeting was held Saturday last in the Orange Hall at Harrington, when the degree team of Laurentian Lodge, Lachute, visited North Star Lodge No. 503. The Mistress of the lodge, Mrs. John Fox, welcomed the visitors; among those present were the R.W.G. Master Stanley Holt and R. W. Mrs. Holt, of Lachute, also the R.W.D.G. Mistress of the L.O.B.A., Mrs. George Ball of Brownsburg.

An interesting feature of the evening was the conferring of the second degree on one candidate of North Star Lodge, which was conducted in a very efficient manner. The Worthy Mistress thanked the degree team for their work, and called on the Grand Master for a few remarks. He spoke briefly on the prosperous condition of the Order in this province, also on his visit to the Province of Manitoba recently. Mrs. Ball also gave a few very encouraging remarks, and the meeting closed with the singing of God Save the King. Refreshments were served by the members of North Star Lodge.

second division on July 7, 1944. Wounded in Belgium at the Leopold Canal in October, he was evacuated to Antwerp and hospitalized until January, 1945; he then rejoined his unit in Holland and completed the campaign on the Western Front. At the end of hostilities he attended a two weeks' study course in Paris, and later was transferred to Second Casualty Clearing Station, being sent to the repatriation depot in England in November, 1945. Laframboise returned to Canada and was discharged in March, 1946. He has served as Employment Claims Officer here since June of this year.

Philippe Andre, with the Montreal Cottons at Valleyfield, joined the Fusiliers Mont Royal at Montreal, going to Iceland for six months and from there to England, where he was posted at Whitley Camp. Upon the death of his father he was repatriated and demobilized, and now is in the taxi business with Laurent Leger in Lachute. Good luck to them in their venture!

Doug Ogilvie joined the R.C.A.F. to take a special course as Security Officer for two months, doing motorcycle work in England until D-Day, when he crossed over to France — later seeing action in Belgium, Holland and Germany. He has now started with his dad, Mr. Albert Ogilvie, in the business known as Lachute Nursery Ltd. Doug seems to be doing well.

Doing amateur radio work for seven years before the war (no wonder we complained of static in the district!) our good friend G. A. Hammond joined the R.C.A.F. in October, 1940, took a special course in radar, being stationed at London. He was transferred to Cairo in April 1942, and after five days' hard work getting settled, he and his outfit were chased out by Rommel. They left for Haifa, in Palestine, doing radar work until February, 1943. Returning home by way of Bombay, Capetown and New York on an American ship, Hammond was 54 days on the high seas. On his return here he was posted to Rockliffe where he kept up his studies, familiarizing himself with Canadian radar and taking a course on American-type tubes. Now back in Lachute he has been in partnership officially since March 1946, with our young friend Joe Thos. Berniquer, also a veteran, who served in the Royal Canadian Navy as wireless operator. Doing that kind of work as a hobby before enlisting, he joined up in September 1940, and after taking a course at Sydney, N.S., did coastal work for seven months. He then joined the H.M.C.S. Barry as wireless operator, doing convoy work from Newfoundland to Belfast and Londonderry. Back in Canada he was posted to the Navy Signal School, where he took up radar and worked in the Naval Laboratories until discharged in September, 1945. . . These two businessmen, operating as Hammond's Repair Shop, also give credit to Blais, Veterans' Placement Officer, for the help given them since they started. — Good luck to them, also, in their enterprise!

A dental technician, Keith Wm. Clarke — attached to the offices of Dr. J. E. Lowry at the Medical Arts Building before enlisting in October, 1939 — saw active service in England, France, Belgium, Holland and Germany with the Dental Corps, following the 2nd Division from July, 1944, to October, 1945. Having been demobilized, he has since opened an office on Main Street, Lachute.

In the same office building at present are two young veterans, Lloyd Creswell and Kenneth Falconer, in business together. Lloyd was previously attached to General Headquarters as wireless operator at London, England, until demobilized in July, 1945; and Kenneth, after being transferred from the R.C.A.F. at Trenton to the R.C.N. at Halifax, served on coastal patrol for three years. Transferred to Three Rivers, he started a course on refrigeration and air conditioning — which has been an asset in forming the partnership known as Frozen Food Lockers Ltd., the only venture of its kind in this province. Temporarily located on Main Street, they are building a plant not far from their present location. Being good business men and optimists, they see a bright future in spite of present difficulties: "You've been a great help to us since we started", they said to Blais, the Veterans' Officer, "— so why worry, we can always call on you if need be".

TOWN & DISTRICT BUSINESS REVIEW

The value of the home-town weekly is measured not in terms of sensationalism, nor in the volume of its contents. It is counted as a reliable informant on the community's progress, and a purveyor of its news — accurate, yet considerate; truthful, yet fair; constructive in its criticisms.

And sharing the same respect and sentiment with its readers, are the local advertisers — men who quickly recognize this avenue of contact with the homes and consumers of the neighborhood.

STANDARDIZE EDUCATION

Education in all of Canada's provinces should be the same. The poorer provinces have, up to the present, lagged behind in matters of learning, while richer and better organized provinces have a standard much higher. This is the most unfair treatment imaginable, when young people of one province cannot have similar learning and training as in the remaining provinces.

Eat Tomatoes – Fresh Now, Canned Later

Gardens all over the country are yielding up their harvest of bright red tomatoes, and in countless homes they are finding their way to the breakfast, dinner and supper table. Little wonder when garden-fresh tomatoes are so good and the season is so short!

Even the green tomato has many uses. Sautéed green tomatoes make an old-fashioned dish well worth eating, and green tomato mincemeat is another favourite, to name just two. There are often green tomatoes left on vines at the end of the season which refuse to ripen, but that is no reason they cannot be put to good use. Surplus ripe tomatoes present no problem for they are so easily canned for the winter menus ahead.

The home economists at Ottawa suggest that all the tomatoes possible be canned by homemakers this year, to keep any of this valuable crop from going to waste. To can tomatoes, they suggest three methods . . cold pack, solid pack and hot pack. With the cold pack, the tomatoes retain their shape, with the solid pack and hot pack, they are more broken down, but are excellent for soups, or other dishes where appearance is not important.

No matter which method of canning is used the preliminary preparation is the same. Sort tomatoes according to size, and remove any which are over-ripe, or blemished. Blanch to remove skins, by placing tomatoes in a wire basket or cheesecloth bag, and plunging into boiling water for a few seconds to loosen skins then into cold water to chill. Remove stem end, and peel and pack according to the following methods.

Cold Packed Tomatoes

Pack the peeled tomatoes into clean hot sealers or into plain tin cans, add half a teaspoon of salt per pint or twenty-ounce tin, and cover with hot tomato juice. To make tomato juice, cut broken or irregular tomatoes into pieces, cook until soft enough to press through strainer to extract juice.

Adjust rings and glass tops on sealers with spring or screw tops and partially seal, and completely seal tin cans. Be sure to leave a head space of ¼ inch in glass top sealers and tin cans. Process in the boiling water bath 30 minutes for pints and twenty-ounce tins, and 35 minutes for quarts and twenty-eight ounce tins.

Solid Pack Tomatoes

Pack whole peeled or quartered tomatoes into hot sealers or plain tin cans, pressing down until covered with juice. Add salt, and adjust rubber rings and tops as directed in Cold Pack method above. Process in boiling water bath, 35 minutes for pints and twenty-ounce tins, and 40 minutes for quarts and twenty-eight ounce tins.

Hot Pack Tomatoes

Place peeled tomatoes in kettle, bring to boiling point and pack hot into hot sealers or plain tin cans. Add salt, and adjust rubber rings and tops as directed in Cold Pack method above. Process in boiling water bath(15 minutes for pints, quarts, twenty and twenty-eight ounce tins.

A new version of an old favorite is the Tomato Cheese Souffle designed to make use of the fresh tomatoes available now.

Tomato Cheese Souffle

2 Tablespoons fat, 3 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, ½ cup grated nippy cheese, 2 egg yolks, 2 egg whites, 4 medium tomatoes, 2 tablespoons flour, salt and pepper to taste.

Melt fat in top of double boiler, blend in flour and season with salt and pepper, and gradually add milk. Stir until thickened. Place over hot water, add cheese and stir until melted. Stir a small portion of cheese sauce into slightly beaten egg yolks, and return mixture to sauce in double boiler. Cool slightly and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Cut tomatoes in thick slices, dredge with flour seasoned with salt and pepper to taste. Arrange tomatoes in the bottom of a greased baking dish, pour soufflé mixture on top. Set dish in pan of hot water and oven poach in a moderate oven, 350°F., 50 to 60 minutes until set; 5 to 6 servings.

MINIMUM SALARIES LOW FOR TEACHERS

Starting Wage for Toronto Women Lower Than in Rural Schools

Toronto, Sept. 10, (CP) — This capital city of Ontario lags behind all rural schools and 18 other Ontario cities in the starting salary it offers women teachers in its public schools.

The minimum salary in rural schools has been fixed at $1,200 by the Ontario Department of Education. That was the salary offered to starting teachers in Toronto last year but the city board of education cut off the $100 annual cost-of-living bonus to unmarried teachers, leaving them $1,100.

A survey of the Women Teachers Federation of the province shows that six other cities have a lower minimum than Toronto: Guelph, Oshawa, Owen Sound Peterborough and Woodstock with $1,000 and Niagara Falls with $1,050. Four other cities share the $1,100 minimum for unmarried women teachers with Toronto — North Bay, St. Catharines, Sarnia, and Sault Ste. Marie.

Higher than those are: Port Arthur, $1,150; Belleville, Chat-Fort William, Galt, Hamilton, Kingston, Kitchener, Ottawa, Sudbury, Stratford Welland and Windsor, $1,200; St. Thomas, $1,250; London, $1,300.

But Toronto has the highest maximum of any city in the province — $3,300. There is no fixed maximum for rural schools, any payment beyond the $1,200 minimum being a matter of negotiation between the teacher and the school board.

Other maximums: $1,600, Guelph Woodstock; $1,700, Sault Ste. Marie; $1,750, Port Arthur; $1,800 Oshawa, Chatham, Fort William, Galt, Stratford and Sudbury; $1,900, Niagara Falls, North Bay, Sarnia, Belleville, Kingston, Kitchener, Woodstock and St. Thomas;$2,000. Peterborough and St. Catharines; $2,200, Ottawa; $2,300 Windsor; $2,500, Hamilton and London.

Dental Health

Filling Cavities

Q: Is it true that procaine injections for preparing a cavity for a filling is dangerous because the dentist will not know when he has cut deep enough?

A: It is not true. It would be sad indeed if the doctor had to be guided by the patients reactions to pain in his decision as to cavity preparation. It is far better for both dentist and patient to have an anaesthetized area to work in, with a relaxed patient who can be cooperative at the same time. The dentist is guided by his knowledge of the dental anatomy and recognition of conditions that he finds as his work progresses. A careful operator can be more careful with a fully relaxed patient.

Tooth-Spacing

Q: When I was a girl of 10, the dentist told my mother that the space between my two upper front teeth was due to a low lip attachment. Nothing was ever done about it and I still have the space. My daughter aged 9 has the same thick, low, lip attachment and the widely spaced central teeth. Can anything be done about bringing the centrals together?

A: The lip attachment the dentist spoke about is called a frenum. Normally the frenum is a fibrous or sinewy attachment of the muscles of the uper lip to the facial surface of the upper jaw bones at the midline. But, occasionally the tendinous attachment of the frenum slips in between the premaxillary bones as they are not joined and calcified at that age. The test: where the wide space exists between the two upper centrals and frenum is low and usually broad, is a blanching of the "incisive papilla" (the little hill of gum just behind the two upper central teeth) when the lip and frenum is pulled forward. When this condition is permitted to remain the centrals may be permanently spaced. The correction may be either surgical or mechanical. Consult your dentist and he will advise you.

PHANTOM COUNTESS SOUGHT BY STORE

Johannesburg (CP) — Officials of a big Johannesburg department store are wondering who the Countess of Aberdeen is as a result of a theft committed in her name.

A well-dressed boy who appeared to be about 13 years of age, entered the store and stated that he was the son of the Countess of Aberdeen. His mother had sent him to make a number of purchases.

The youth's manner so impressed the officials that they immediately decided to open an account. The youth promptly bought a woman's hat. He then obtained a wide range of articles, including suits, toys and a chemistry set. The account was opened in the name of the Countess of Aberdeen.

After the youth left, the officials became suspicious and phoned a well-known hotel, which the youth had given as his address. The answer they received was that no one knew the Count or Countess of Aberdeen.

FRENCH CHILDREN ADOPTED BY MAIL

Regina (CP) — "Adoption" of French orphans by mail is growing fast in Canada Miss Gladys Arnold assistant director of the French Information Service said in an interview here recently.

Miss Arnold said there is a need for practical demonstration of friendliness towards France as a morale builder. Just to have a correspondent in Canada means much to French women.

She mentioned the town of Boulogne-Sur-Mer as perhaps of particular interest to Reginans. Canadian infantry liberated the town where now there are 34 orphans needing food and clothing.

Local Advertiser Says It Pays

TO THE EDITOR

Lachute, Sept. 11

Dear Sir:

Lately I had a brand new radio pick-up for which I had no use. I wanted to turn it in for whatever cash I could get. One day I remembered a play I had seen in Western Ontario, entitled "It Pays to Advertise". So I thought, if it paid them (some 20 years ago), why would it not today — and why not try The Watchman ?

I had a 50-cent advertisement inserted, and within three days the article was disposed of for good money.

I wish to add my testimony to numerous others that you may have on file.

Yours very truly,
— J.-G. Lamontagne.

(Thank you ! — Editor)

DOWN THE ALLEY

By S. T. RIKE

The first bowling league to start its activities for the season will be the J. C. Wilson Ltd. Inter-Departmental. They will start Friday night at 6.30 on alleys 5 and 6 at the Bolodrome. At 6.30 p.m. the Bag Shop department will meet the Shipping, at 8 p.m. the Machine Shop will face the Office in the second game. . . The committee of this league was elected as follows: President, R. Cairns; vice-president, H. Lightbown; secretary, Leo Gibeault; directors, Jim McMahon and P. Guenette.

John McDonald, of the A & P Store, states he will enter a team in the Commercial League, while Roger Rousseau will manage the team of T. McOuat & Son. It is expected the Bank of Nova Scotia will enter as an individual team in this league and that the Bankers will be composed of the Bank of Montreal and Provincial Bank. These three entries will bring the number of applications for the Commercial League to 18 teams.

La Patisserie Francaise, of this same league, piloted by Julien Gauthier, last season's individual champion, showed up with quite a few good bowlers for last week's practice. Among them were Geo. Boisvert, last year's runner-up in the Bolodrome tournament, Gaetan Proulx, Leonard Gagne, Theo and Rene Gagne, and Adelard Oullet. The boys played a few excellent strings.

Jules Lamarche, last season's High Triple winner in the Bolodrome tournament, is reported to be playing this year with Gatineau Power, along with J. Larocque and M. Campeau.

The Knights of Columbus League is rounding into good shape.

Meetings will be held at the Bolodrome on Monday night for the Commercial League and Wednesday night for the Girls' League. A meeting will be held at the Knights of Columbus Council on Tuesday eve for the Service Clubs League. All interested are invited to attend these meetings.

Horse Racing at Fair Grounds Here On September 21

Brownsburg — Through the courtesy of the Argenteuil Agricultural Society, the Brownsburg Branch of the Canadian Legion has been authorized to use Lachute Fair Grounds for horse racing on September 21. In the event of rain the affair will be postponed to September 28. Net proceeds will be devoted to the War Memorial Fund, which the Branch is raising for the purpose of building a War Memorial for Argenteuil. This is an ambitious project and one well worthy of popular support.

The racing will comprise three classes — 2.28, 2.18 and a Free-for-All. Each class, except the Free-for-All, will be run in three heats of one mile each. Purses being offered aggregate $600, and horses are currently being entered not only from Argenteuil County, but from Montreal, St. Jerome and Ontario. This sport, which was voted the one which made the greatest stride forward in the United States this year, is rapidly becoming popular in Canada. Should the affair at Lachute be well supported, consideration will be given to making it an annual event, as the track and location are ideally suited for this purpose. Parking and grandstand seats will be free.

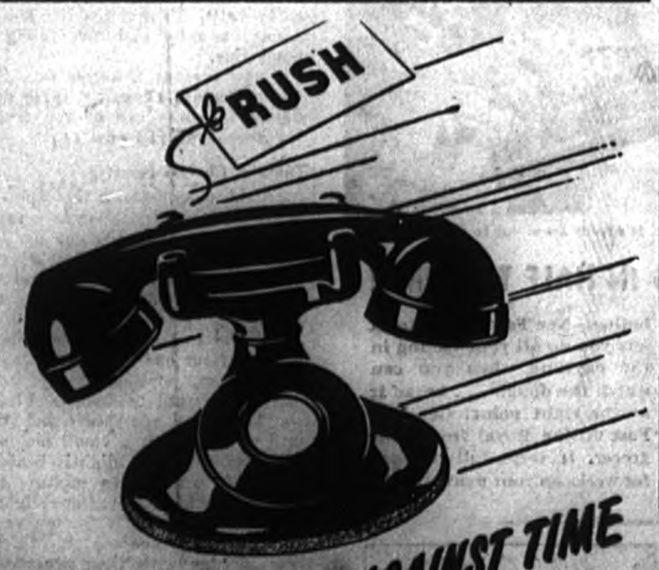

A softball game between Lachute "All Stars" and Brownsburg "All Stars" has been arranged between heats, and there will be further entertainment by the Brownsburg Boys' Band. There will be other attractions including rifle shooting. Refreshments will be sold at popular prices. Horse racing will commence at 2 p.m. sharp.

WE'RE WORKING AGAINST TIME ... in more ways than one

Every time you lift the receiver to place a call, it's a challenge to us to rush it through; we don't like to keep people waiting. But sometimes delays can't be avoided, even though every last piece of available telephone equipment is on the job, handling more traffic than it was ever built to carry.

... And that fact is directly related to our other battle against time—our big building program. Every addition to present facilities hastens the day when we will once again be able to handle every call as promptly as we would like. Construction and installation of additional telephone equipment are going ahead just as fast as the supply situation permits.

We've got it marked "Rush"!

Dept. Officials at Central School Board Meeting

Two officials of the Quebec Department of Education — E. S. Giles, Inspector General of Protestant Schools, and H. S. Billings, Special Officer, attended a meeting of the Central School Board held Friday afternoon in Lachute High School.

Many important problems confronting the Central Board were discussed, such as tax rates, debts, and increased teacher and conveyance costs throughout the area under the jurisdiction of the Board.

The officials from Quebec stated at the conclusion of the meeting that they were pleased with the efforts and accomplishments of the Central School Board, which has now taken control of the education of a large majority of the schoolchildren of the county; they realized that this Board was faced at present with making decisions to provide facilities of education to pupils not only in the more populated centres, but also those in what are almost inaccessible areas of the county.

The board felt that the public in general should be made more aware of the varied and important problems confronting this Board, and would welcome the attendance of larger numbers of taxpayers at their meetings, in order that they may see the time and effort being devoted to the interests of education in this area.

Town Councillors Award Contract For Street Paving

At an adjourned meeting of Town Council last Monday, Mayor Leopold Carriere presided, with Aldermen Alex Bothwell, Henri Trichard, Omer Laurin, Leonard Bedard, Gilbert Ayers and J. R. Paquette forming a quorum.

It was moved by Alderman Laurin, seconded by Ald. Trichard, that continuation of the sewer on Main Street, in the Cruise district, be proceeded with at once, as requested by the ratepayers.

A motion of sympathy was passed to Alderman Wilfrid Morrissette, in the death of his father.

A building permit was granted to Alcidas Laurin, for construction of a house on Sidney Street.

It was resolved that "Stop" signs be placed at the corner of Hamford and Millway; Barron and Grace; Barron and Robert; Charles and Wilson streets.

The Mayor opened two sealed tenders for the paving of various streets in the Town of Lachute — one from Local Construction Co. Ltd., with prices of $1.20 and $1.55 per square yard, amounting to approximately $43,000; and another tender from Lagacé Quarry, to pave the same streets at a price of $1.25 per square yard, amounting to $35,000.

It was thereupon moved by Alderman J. R. Paquette, seconded by Alderman Leonard Bedard, that Lagacé Quarry be awarded the contract — the work to be executed under supervision of the town roads committeee. A motion was passed authorizing the Mayor and Secretary to sign a contract with Lagacé Quarry.

Farmer Arrested In Stabbing Case

Receiving a call to Centreville on Saturday evening, Police Chief D. Villeneuve and Cst. A. Pagé investigated a case of stabbing, in which Aurele Chartrand, 33 received wounds allegedly inflicted by his employer, Felix Giroux, with a butcher knife. Detective Sergeant Albt. Oggier, of the provincial homicide squad, arrested Giroux at 11 o'clock that night and he is held at Bordeaux jail to appear before court on September 23.

The local police were notified by a neighbor to whose home Chartrand ran for assistance. The victim with his wife and five children, had been occupying premises in his employer's farmhouse. It was in his portion of the dwelling that he was allegedly attacked, following an argument with the older man over payment of his wages. Chartrand was brought to Lachute; suffering four knife wounds in the head, arm and chest, he received medical treatment at the office of Dr. E. Christie.

Facing a charge of grievous bodily assault, the accused was meanwhile ordered for mental examination on request of the crown attorney, Georges H. Héon.

Police Attention To Auto Parking On Main Street

During the season of heavy traffic along the Main Street business section, it has been remarked that despite the fact that outsiders have contributed to the volume of weekend traffic — it is the local drivers who have been responsible in most cases of obstruction and careless parking.

On Fridays and Saturdays particularly, the solid parking down the centre of Main Street, and angular parking at the curbs, has left scant space for driving either east or west along this section. Buses and other traffic have been frequently held up.

The police department has been giving attention to these difficulties. A town by-law stipulates that parking is permitted where indicated, down the centre of the thoroughfare between the post office and Barron Avenue; and from that point to Barron's Bridge "within six inches and parallel to the curb, but not opposite a public building". The police are not seeking to prohibit curbside parking in the store section, but they are courteously warning those who continue to park diagonally at the curb — this being one of the main causes of congestion. — Park in the centre of the street; or if you must, parallel and close to the sidewalk, allowing fair clearance opposite lanes and public buildings.

$-Million Cable Project, Laurentian Telephone Div'n

GROWTH OF RESORTS AREA SEEN IN TRIPLE DEMAND LONG DISTANCE CALLS

To provide additional phone facilities between Montreal and the rapidly-growing Laurentian resort area, the Bell Telephone has developed a program valued at upwards of a million dollars between Montreal and Ste. Agathe.

Despite continuing shortages of materials, preparations for this project were pushed even before the war ended, and the entire job completed in time for the first post-war vacation season.

Long distance messages originating in Ste. Adele, Ste. Agathe, St. Jovite, Ste. Marguerite and Shawbridge totaled 19,800 in July, 1939. By July, 1946, they had risen to 55,300 — or about three times as many.

It is expected that a new cable will make available over 60 circuits to centres throughout the region, compared with 33 before its installation.

For the greater part of the route, cable facilities are underground, greatly reducing the possibility of interruption to communications from sleet storms. Fifty-eight miles of cable now link Montreal and Ste. Agathe, of which 30 miles between L'Abord à Plouffe and Shawbridge was buried under ground by means of a special cable-laying plow drawn by powerful tractors. The method was as follows. . .

Over plowed fields, through swamps and woods, across roads and up hills, rolled the cable train — a peculiar-looking plow and a trailer carrying a huge reel of cable.

As the tractors smashed their way over the rough terrain, the reel unwound, and the cable passed through dripping oil into the plow, which laid it smoothly into the 50-inch furrow. A sled drawn like a caboose at the rear of the train then pushed the loose earth back nto the furrow, and a following tractor tamped it firmly down.

In the rocky section between Shawbridge and Ste. Agathe, plowing was found impracticable, and the cable was carried on poles. Where it passed through L'Abord à Plouffe, Ste. Rose, Shawbridge, Ste. Adele, and Ste. Agathe, the cable was placed in underground conduit.

She commences her course at Queen's on October 1.

Youth Drowns While Retrieving Duck

Alex Nitschkie, the 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Nitschkie of Poltimore, in Papineau County, was drowned Sunday while swimming to retrieve a duck he had shot above a small lake near the village. His 27-year-old brother, Arthur, who cannot swim, attempted to wade to his rescue but began to sink in the muddy lake bottom and returned to shore.

Special Grant for Plowing Match

Plans are shaping for the Argenteuil Plowmen's Association annual plowing match, to be held October 9 on the farm of George Morrison, east of Lachute. This event has lapsed during the latter years due to obvious difficulties of organizing.

Officers of the Association are — W. Erskine Rodger, president; A. Maisonneuve, vice-president; Alex Bothwell, secretary.

• • •

Geo. H. Héon, M.P., received notification last night from the Hon. Laurent Barré, Quebec Minister of Agriculture, that he has authorized a special grant of $200 in favor of this organization — the grant to be payable "on receipt by the minister of the names of the participants, of the prizes awarded to each one, and of names of the judges".

• • •

Already many gifts of money and special prizes have been donated by local supporters and business men. E. Emmett, who was appointed by the committee to arrange for the awards, furnishes the following list of donors to date:

Albright & MacAdam, Bank of Montreal, A. D. McGibbon & Sons, Farmers' Supply Co., Pollock & Graves Motors, Lachute Farm Equipment Ltd., Muir Bros' Service Station, Gall & Jones, Dr. A. Lavigne, J. A. Catholic Rites Held at Cemetery

Several thousand parishioners, from Ste. Anastasie, St. Julien and the adjoining community, attended a celebration at the west end Catholic cemetery last Sunday afternoon. It was the annual ceremony of tribute to the departed, and decorating of graves. The Curés of both parishes, and visiting clergy, pronounced the prayers, and a feature of the rite was a parade of the Knights of Columbus, in tribute to the late Grand Knight of Lachute council, Lionel Rozon, who died during the past year while in tenure of this high office.

Truck Turns Triple Somersault, Pair Seriously Injured

Painful injuries were sustained by two Roads Department employees in a government truck which overturned on No. 8 highway, two miles west of St. Philippe, at 4.30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Etienne Desforges of Brownsburg, son of Agnace Desforges, Grece's Point, suffered a fractured pelvis, while his helper, Albert Charron, Lachute, received severe head lacerations, requiring 19 stitches.

According to Cst. Albert Legault of Brownsburg, who investigated the accident, another driver, Maurice Champagne of Lachute Mills, had been coming toward Lachute, when a bee entered the window of his car and was interfering with his driving. The motorist stopped his machine, and the oncoming truck plowed into the rear of the car. Swerving into the offside fender, the truck catapulted sideways and overturned three times. The pair in the cab were pinned beneath the upturned vehicle.

By chance, D. Villeneuve, town police chief, happened to be passing by the scene, and when the victims were extricated from the wreck, the officer brought them to the Providence Hospital in his car. At the hospital Dr. A. Pagé gave medical treatment, and the two men were later conveyed to their homes.

Fire Prevention Week Proclaimed for Oct. 6 - 12

The observance of National Fire Prevention Week has been proclaimed for October 6 - 12, inclusive. In connection with this announcement it was noted that in the last 10 years a total of 470,500 fires in Canada have destroyed property valued at $291 million, resulted in the deaths of 3,006 persons, and caused injuries to at least 10,000 others.

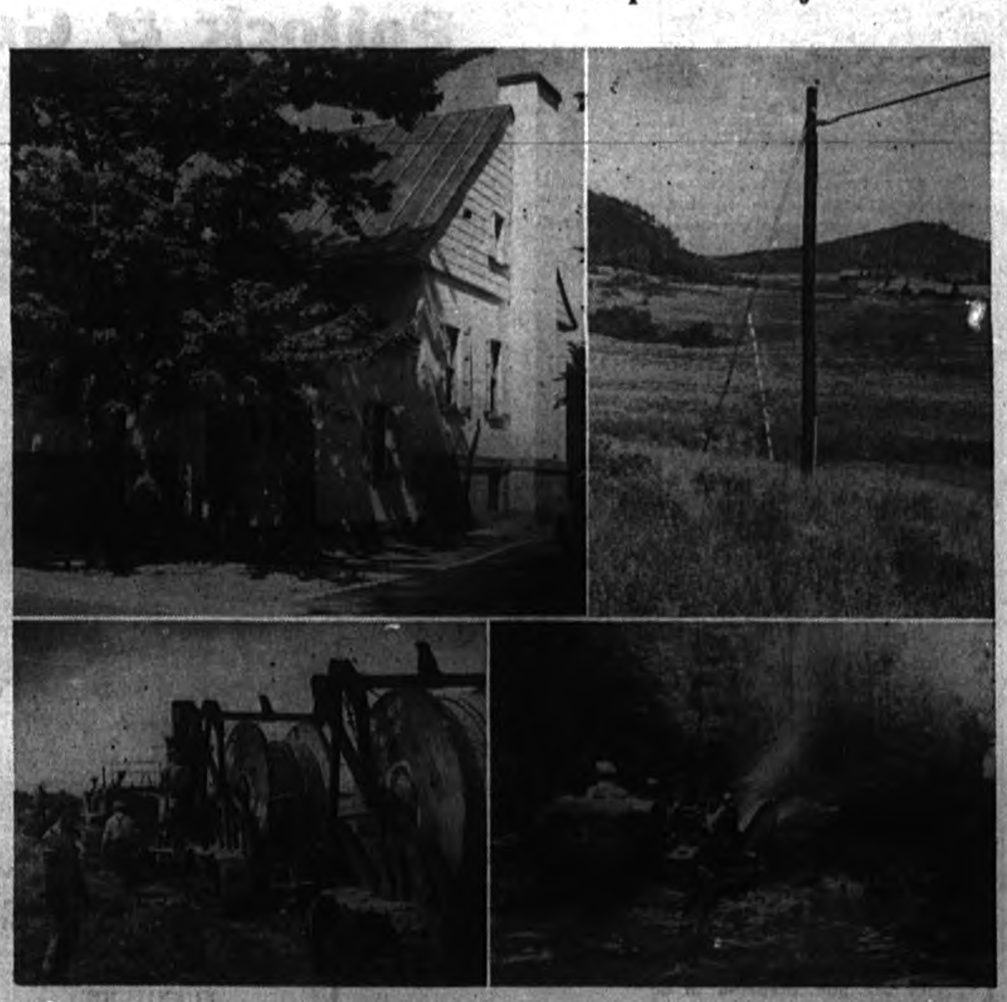

Orange Parade And Service

Members of the Orange Order and L.O.B.A. paraded here Sunday afternoon to attend service at Lachute United Church. The occasion was held under auspices of the Shrewsbury Lodge, of which Ernest Ward, of Lachute, is Worshipful Master.

The men and women, with the Union Jack and regalia of their order, assembled at the High School grounds, then parading east along Main Street and returning by a circuit to the church. Taking part in proceedings were S. Holt, of Lachute, Grand Master for the province; Wm. Cooper, of Brownsburg, Organiser and Auditor for provincial lodge, who acted as marshal; Mrs. Geo. Ball, of Brownsburg, Quebec Deputy Grand Mistress; and Mrs. S. Holt, provincial Deputy Treasurer; and from Ontario East, Duncan Macleod, Past Grand Master of Orange Young Britain.

The Rev. W. B. Rosborough, minister of the church, conducted the special service, and a stirring message was given by the Grand Chaplain of British America, the Rev. Dr. J. W. Patterson, B.A., B.D., of Lachine. Following the exhortation of his text, he urged that Protestantism must affirm and demonstrate the fact that life "be not conformed wholly to this world". Not only in the churches and the lodges, but in their individual lives, men and women should meditate upon God's word, and follow the divine guidance, thus walking always "in the fellowship of God". . . The Rev. G. T. Spriggs, of Lachute, Deputy Grand Chaplain, led the prayer.

Sash-Door Factory Gutted by Fire

The sash and door factory in connection with F. Whissell's cement-block plant, west of Lachute on the Grenville highway, was gutted by fire recently — loss to the building and contents being estimated at $16,000. The proprietor was reported to have had insurance covering a part of this amount.

The outbreak, of unknown origin, occurred at 2 o'clock in the morning of September 10. Lachute Fire Brigade was summoned, and water was piped through 1,000 feet of hose from a pond on the opposite side of the road. A pile of lumber at one end, and a shed containing lumber near the other extremity of the large cement-block building, was saved through efforts of the fire department.

Delegate of Weeklies Gives Report On Food Conditions in Gt. Britain

Are British People Actually Suffering From Hunger and Malnutrition? Writer Gives Impression from Visit this Summer

By C. H. HALE

The writer recently returned from the Imperial Press Conference held in London and followed by a ten days' tour of the British battlefields in Normandy, Belgium and Germany. He attended the Conference as a representative of the Weekly Press of Canada. In fulfilment of an obligation undertaken at the time of his election to the delegation, he has written a series of articles describing some of the experiences of the visit overseas. The following impressions are from Mr. Hale's report on "Food Conditions in Britain and on the Continent."

• • •

Before going into the proceedings of the Imperial Press Conference, I feel it may be desirable to deal with the question fired at one everywhere: "Are food conditions in England as bad as has been represented? Are the British people actually suffering from hunger and malnutrition?"

Th question is one which, as a matter of fact, members of the Empire Press delegation are not in a position to categorically answer. Certainly they did not experience any lack in the quantity or variety of food. Quite the contrary. But the Empire Press party were guests at big hotels, at official banquets and private dinner parties and on railway trains.

Yet even under such circumstances there were hints of scarcity. During the month spent at Grosvenor House, one of the swell hotels of London, we got only one egg, which was deposited in our bedrooms and cooked, with ceremony, to order. I was only once offered roast beef at meals. On that occasion, the waiter announced he had two servings of beef to be divided between four of us. We were told that a waiter was liable to a fine of a pound if he served bread (rolls) without being asked for it. Sugar and butter were in limited quantities (though truth to tell, servings of butter were not so skimpy as on the railway trains in Canada.) But these shortages were made up by abundance of unrationed food—fish of many kinds, including brook trout; game, chicken, venison and occasional lamb; hors d'oeuvres of a dozen sorts and "sweets" (dessert) in great variety. Considering that the price of the meal was 11 shillings and 6 pence (about $2.50) with beverages, including tea, extra, the hotel could afford to provide these luxury foods out of the reach of the common man and his family. Nominally, the meals were priced at 5 shillings and 6 pence, the controlled price, but there was an "authorized house charge" of another 6 shillings to cover the luxury.

Harness Racing At Fair Grounds Here Saturday

What promises to be one of the biggest sporting attractions in Argenteuil since the Lachute Exhibition this summer, will take place at the Fair Grounds on Saturday next, September 21. Should the weather be fine, a large crowd is anticipated to witness the harness racing, to be conducted under Canadian Trotting Association rules. Felix St. Vincent, well-known official starter, has been engaged for the occasion, and prominent businessmen of Lachute are giving full support to the venture. It is expected that upwards of 30 horses will take part in the various events.

An innovation at Lachute will be a "Free for All" to be run at odd distances. This type of racing has become popular in the United States, and is rapidly being adopted for various race meets in Canada. Harness racing, despite its recent move into the realm of big-time professional sport, still retains much of its traditional flavor of a "family proposition". The children, and even mother sometimes, take their turn in the training of a high-stepping trotter or pacer — and they are always on hand to back father to victory at the race course! Apart from this the sport has an exhilaration which appeals to everybody, both young and old. Once you attend a meet, the chances are that you become a fan.

Net proceeds from the racing at Lachute will be assigned to the Canadian Legion War Memorial fund.

SCHOOL BUS FOR LACHUTE NOW CALLS AT CUSHING WEST

(Our District Correspondent)

Cushing W. — Pupils of Lachute High School in this district are finding a more convenient way of reaching their destination since the school bus changed its route. Where they formerly were obliged to make their way to meet it at Vachon's Corner by bicycle, shank's mare, or what have you, they can now board it at their own doors, or at most by a shorter route, at Watson's Corner.

Farmer Has Eye Pierced by Fork

Allan Walker, a resident of the Bethany settlement well known in Lachute, was painfully hurt Tuesday afternoon when assisting in silo-filling operations at the farm of a cousin and neighbor, Stewart Walker. The latter's son, Ross, and the victim, were together in the silo levelling corn from the blower pipe, when Allan Walker was accidentally struck in the eye by the business end of a fork. Brought to Lachute, he received medical attention at the office of Dr. E. Christie, where it was found the implement had pierced the eyeball and damaged a nerve. He was later taken to the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, and placed in care of a specialist. Hopes are entertained that the sight of the eye will not be impaired.

Design for Living Styled 'Operation Commendable'

Brownsburg — Members and guests of the Brownsburg Rotary Club, at their regular weekly meeting September 12, were treated to an excellent address by the Rev. Crawford Scott, of Hawkesbury. The Rev. Scott, who is well known in this district, is leaving shortly to take further studies at Union Theological College, New York. The title of his talk was "Operation Commendable".

In these post-war years when greed and selfishness are rampant in the world, when capital and labor seem at loggerheads, when there appears to be a state of unrest throughout most countries — it is more necessary than ever before for action, for daring deeds requiring great courage. "Let us have", said the Rev. Scott, "an Operation Commendable".

The speaker outlined the sequence of events following the first great war. At that time everyone was deliriously happy, peace had been declared, the war to end wars was over. Then followed the twenties, when many people lost their true perspective and became followers of Mammon. The crash of '29 ushered in a period of depression which will not soon be forgotten. This was the period when Germany built itself under the leadership of Hitler into a highly organized, materialistic society. Its eventual downfall, again showed the truth of the maxim that all nations and all individuals who raise themselves up on a materialistic civilization eventually fall.

"A proper human relationship is the greatest and most important thing in the world", said the speaker. "Today it is more necessary than ever before for everyone to get together and work together — economically, religiously and spiritually — not only for ourselves but for one another." We will have to realize that "people must live together if they are going to live at all." That is the dominant factor of this era.

How can we develop a proper human relationship? First of all, we must learn to think. We haven't been doing much of it during the period 1914 to 1946, and we have suffered the consequences. Then we must "think co-operatively". For instance, a farmer must think in terms of wheat fields, not only of his own but of those all over the world. But merely being good ourselves is not enough. We must think and act cooperatively.

The talk was replete with appropriate quotations, witty stories and anecdotes dealing with the speaker's active service as padre with the R.C.A.F. in Europe.

The Rev. Scott was introduced by Mac Walker and thanked by Dennis Staniforth. Guests included Keith Rutherford and Leo Leroux, of Brownsburg, Tom Iddon and Philippe Valois, of Lachute.

Low-Slung Wagon For Stone Removal

In cases where land contains relatively small stones, the removal involves considerable hand work. As yet there appears to be nothing better than a stone boat or a low-slung wagon for the job, states the publication of Land Clearing issued by the Dominion Department of Agriculture. A stone boat made from wood or a sheet of steel can be loaded easily and will carry about one-half ton of stone. Because the stone boat carries a realtively small load, it is suitable only for hauling short distances. As the length of the haul increases, the advantage of easy loading becomes less important and it is desirable to use a wagon to remove the stone efficiently.

A low-slung, home-built wagon is made from the axles and wheels of an old wagon by suspending two logs 11 feet long below the axles and about 8 inches from the ground. At the front the logs are bolted together and suspended from the centre of the front axle with a chain. At the rear, the logs are spread to the width of the rear axle and supported by two heavy pieces of strap iron which go over the top of the axle and fixed to the logs at either side. Wooden blocks are then fitted between the logs and the rear axle. A plank floor is built on the top of the logs. When loading heavy stones, a stout plank may be used for rolling the stones on the floor, which is only about 14 inches above the ground.

The old practice of building many stone piles in the fields is obsolete because by such a method the stones are merely shifted and the stone problem is not solved. Numerous stone piles and stone fences, other than line fences, restrict the use of labor-saving farm machinery. Almost every farm has a ravine or depression where stones can be deposited and covered with earth if desired.

Free Herds of Disease

London (CP) — Suggestions for a national plan to clear tuberculosis from Britain's milking herds have gone to farm organizations from the agriculture ministry.

Already there is a fair proportion of attested herds in such areas as Wales and Southwest Scotland, and it is thought likely those places will be the first districts marked out as T.B.-free districts. Compulsory testing is expected to be introduced, as has been done in many Canadian municipalities.

France as Market For Canadian Wheat

Production of wheat in 1946 in France is higher than in 1945 but is below pre-war level and a market for Canadian wheat is considered probable for several years. Writing from Paris, the Commercial Secretary of the Canadian Embassy states that prospects for the purchase of Canadian wheat by France should be favourable for the next few years. The estimated production of wheat in France in 1946 is 61 million quintals, that is (3,050,000 tons), compared with 45 million quintals (2,250,000 tons) in 1945. The pre-war average was about 80 million quintals (4,000,000 tons), so it is apparent that production is still below normal.

There is a tendency on the part of the French farmer to reduce his wheat acreage in an effort to get higher subsidies from the Government, which seems unlikely at the present time. Many farmers think that larger profits can be made from the cultivation of other crops, such as potatoes, sugar beets, and vegetables, than by growing wheat.

Farmers in France have apparently decided to grow more soybeans than any other oil plant produced in the country as soybeans provide a higher yield and are more regular. This decision is also influenced by recent legislation which authorizes the producer to sell on a free market any surplus over the quota.

Warns Continued Sales Of Cows to U.S. May Aggravate Milk Shortage

The Hon. Laurent Barré stated to the press last week the milk situation in Canada might become quite serious through extensive sales of cows from Quebec and elsewhere to American buyers.

"The difference in the price of milk between the American and Canadian markets alone explains why the American market is so attractive to Canadian farmers just now", stated Mr. Barré. "Here, milk prices are set independently of production costs; it is an artificial price and is set much lower than the current American prices. A milch cow is worth practically twice as much in the United States as in Canada. It stands to reason that our milk production will be reduced in proportion to reductions in herds.

"One cannot blame the farmer for taking advantage of the prices offered to rid his herd of ordinary animals which he cannot afford to keep with the prevailing high costs of food and labor, and having to dispose of milk at comparatively low prices. However this elimination should not go so far as to deplete quality stock, which constitutes an irrecoverable reserve. One must not lose sight of the fact that 'a bird in the hand, is worth two in the bush'.. Our best herds, choice stock which have been gradually built up during the past 15, 20 or 25 years, should be kept intact," said the Quebec Minister of Agriculture.

Millions of Pounds Poultry for Britain

The first post-war shipment of Canadian dressed poultry to Britain left Montreal aboard S.S. Manchester Progress September 5. Consisting of seven carloads of chicken and fowl from Ontario, five from Quebec and one from Alberta, the shipment totalled totalled 425,000 pounds.

The Special Products Board now buying all surplus Canadian chicken and fowl of specified grades for Britain, plans to ship several million pounds of poultry this fall. All the birds are graded, marked and packed according to Canadian government regulations.

PRAIRIES FEEL PINCH

The British-Canadian wheat agreement has been signed, sealed and delivered, and once more the western farmer has been the pawn in the deal. The agreement, in fact means that the prosperity of the west has been compromised for the next four years on the basis of the farmer's return being slightly over the cost of production and far below a comparative price for the things the farmer must buy with his profit from the wheat crop. — Melita (Man.) TRAPPERS' RECEIPTS DROP

Halifax (CP) — Fur trappers and ranchers in Nova Scotia received more than $593,000 for pelts in the 1944-45 season, the Department of Lands and Forests reported. In all 100,300 pelts were sold. The previous year's proceeds were $765,000.

The Garden-Graph

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Canadian

If you would enjoy peonies in your garden next May and June, plan them now before hard frosts come.

The herbaceous kinds (those that die down each autumn) are most commonly grown in gardens for they offer the widest range of colors, from pure white to a rich, deep maroon.

In recent years tree peonies have come into favor here, after being enjoyed for centuries in the gardens of China. Tree peonies lose their leaves after frosts come, but the branches do not lie down.

Because these peonies do not lie down completely, they grow broader, year by year, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph. The herbaceous peony lies down to the ground each year, then renews its growth again in the spring. Its shape, as illustrated, indicates that it needs the support of stakes and rings to keep it from sprawling during the growing season.

It does not pay to look for bargains in buying peony roots for fall planting. Buy strong, healthy roots with three to five eyes. Because of the size and vivid colors of their flowers, peonies can be planted at some distance from the house and yet be visible from the windows, and thus enjoyed. They also do fairly well in partial shade as well as in the sun. Many people plant the more delicate colors in semi-shady places.

Although peonies may be planted in fall or spring, fall planting is preferred. The roots get a chance for late fall growth and thus are established before top growth starts in the spring.

Forests represent pulpwood, the raw material of Canada's largest export industry. Canadians should be their own fire wardens.

The Economy of Using the Best

The economy of using the best possible materials is made apparent in the upkeep problem. A house or business building may be "thrown together" with cheap material, and it may "look all right," but after it has stood the shock of weather, the real test comes.

It is false economy to use poor materials — and we so advise everyone who buys from us. Our success is due to honesty in materials and prices.

Unionism and Canadianism

LABOR UNIONS serve a justifiable purpose in protecting the interests of working men, and benefits now enjoyed by workers have come only as the result of a long struggle by the unions. The trade union movement is as necessary today as it was forty years ago, because management on the whole has to be pushed into granting just rights to employees. On the other hand the unions frequently make demands which are unreasonable and only serve to widen the gulf between management and labor. There will be no labor peace in Canada until leaders of unions and management learn to trust and respect each other and take a fair, unbiased view of problems confronting both sides.

There is reason to believe that Canadian labor unions are under too great domination from leaders in the United States, especially since higher policies formulated across the border are often not adaptable to Canadian economy. For someone from outside Canada to direct the strategy of Canadian unions is basically wrong, not to mention the huge sums of money which leave the country each year in the form of union dues. Recently an American labor union leader named Tom Fitzpatrick was reported as saying there was no logical reason for the difference in wages paid workers of a certain union in Canada and the United States. Such statements are popular indeed to workers who are hopeful of getting more money, but we wonder if Mr. Fitzpatrick made a careful study of the economy and cost of living in Canada as compared to the United States before he made the statement.

The need in Canada is to have unions directed solely by Canadians who have first hand knowledge of Canadian conditions. We need labor leaders who are respectful of law and order. We want union men who are bitterly opposed to communistic leanings. We want men who hold the same ideals as the men who not long ago sacrificed their lives in defence of them.

When such a state is reached, unionism in Canada will have many more supporters.

Famine Phobia Dispelled

A RECENT EDITION of the New York Times had a front page, double column head, which read as follows: "Unparalleled Meat Famine Predicted for the Country". The story goes on to say:

> "Blame for the situation was placed by the live-stock men on the reimposition of price controls, ceiling prices at the slaughtering level which went into effect midnight August 31, and retail ceiling prices which become effective Tuesday."

This, of course, is a bit of bunk (says R. J. Deachman, special commentator for The Watchman). The cattlemen cannot hold their livestock indefinitely merely because they are not satisfied with present high prices. It costs money to hold cattle after they reach market condition. The reimposition of controls might check shipments for a short time but it will not last long. Either there is an abundance of meat in the United States or they have become very much heavier meat eaters than they were previous to the war. Controls lead to a lot of bungling. The trouble is that once firmly established, it's hard to let go and someone is always left with a sore thumb.

But we shouldn't go short of beef in Canada; we have more cattle in proportion to population than they have in the United States. We shall survive no doubt, if we are careful.

GENERAL Eisenhower has said: "Anyone who now discusses the possibility of war is doing the whole world a disservice. A glance at the newpapers any day reveals that a lot of people must have a grudge against the old universe."

Off the Beaten Path

A VISITOR from abroad recently remarked that it was wonderful to be able to spend a holiday simply wandering about the countryside without fear. His listeners, accustomed to going where they pleased, were rather startled.

The traveller explained that he had never dared leave the beaten path at home because of the danger of poisonous snakes and insects. Where he came from, it was considered routine to carry a revolver for protection.

Canadians are inclined to take their freedom of movement for granted; yet there are few countries in the world where the casual wanderer is encouraged today. There was a time when only physical danger limited the scope of his rambles, but in many lands there now are other considerations that keep the traveller from straying too far afield.

He may merely suffer the inconvenience of being accosted by a man in uniform and asked for identification. Possibly he may be detained or even shot out of hand as a suspected spy or saboteur. Or, in the Far East, he may find himself in the midst of a civil war.

In large areas of the globe, men are too busy reconstructing their shattered lives to have time for holiday-making or patience with holidayers. A few grudging hours of sleep are their only relaxation.

We are more fortunate. We have leisure to stroll through the woods of Quebec and Ontario fearing no deadlier foe than poison ivy or the common mosquito. We can hunt moose in New Brunswick or ducks in Alberta, safe in the knowledge that we are not being hunted in our turn. And we can enjoy photographing the Rockies or hauling fish out of the Saguenay without worrying about whether we mislaid our passports — or even our registration cards.

Canada has no monopoly of natural beauty, but at the present time Canadians have a virtual monopoly of the opportunity to enjoy it to the full.

For the Less-Favored Millions

WHILE real estate has been skyrocketing to prices beyond reason (to figures which, in the case of pre-war dwellings, are obviously fictitious), the ideal of home-ownership has become almost a forgotten dream among the average workers. Profits and salaries may have climbed, too; but it remains a fact that the farmers, store clerks and bookkeepers, the white-collar men and un-unionized craftsmen, still represent the "average" man, the largest segment of the working population.

The Vancouver Sun has voiced a sentiment which, these days, sounds venturesome and daring. Yesterday it was commonplace. Today — what hopes! . . We quote :

> "What this country needs is a good $3,000 house. Not a stuccoed shell or a dismal shack, but a durable dwelling in which a man and his family can live in comfort for a lifetime.
>
> "A house at $3,000 is just about what the average man can afford. He can't begin to look at the $8,000 structures which the builders are offering today. All the low-interest money schemes can't help him because he can't hope to pay off the mortgage no matter how small the interest payments may be.
>
> "That is why the Dominion Government is being urged to adopt a low-cost program and push it to completion. Private enterprise has failed to meet the public need. Private inventiveness has not solved the problem of prefabrication, chiefly because private enterprise is too busy serving the wealthy few to pay much attention to the less favored millions."

TODAY'S problems seem all important, but worries which were just as great only yesterday are now forgotten.

Rotary to Welcome District Governor

Harry J. Yoder

Brownsburg — On Thursday, September 26, the Rotary Club will welcome Harry J. Yoder, Governor of the 170 District of Rotary International, which includes 36 Rotary Clubs in Northern New York, Eastern Ontario and Western Quebec. Mr. Yoder is vice-president of W. W. Conde Hardware Company in Watertown, N.Y., and is a member of the Rotary Club of that city.

Harry J. Yoder will visit the Rotary Club at Brownsburg to advise and assist President H. M. Sherwood, Secretary W. W. Freeland and other officers on matters pertaining to Club administration and Rotary service activities. He is one of the 157 District Governors of Rotary International who are supervising the activities of some 5,800 Rotary Clubs, with more than a quarter of a million members in 73 countries and geographical regions throughout the world.

Today, this world-wide service organization continues to grow in numbers and in strength. During the last fiscal year, 404 new Rotary Clubs were organized in 12 countries of the Americas, and in Australia, Belgium, Burma, China, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, England, Federated Malay States, Finland, France, Greece, Hong Kong, India, Ireland, Luxembourg, New Zealand, Norway, Portugal, Straits Settlements, Sweden, the Netherlands, the Philippines and Wales.

Wherever Rotary Clubs are located, their activities are similar to those of the clubs at Brownsburg, because they are based on the same general objectives — the promotion of better understanding and fellowship among business and professional men, undertakings for community-betterment, raising the standards of business and professions, and fostering the advancement of good will, understanding and peace among all the peoples of the world.

HOW ABOUT SEPTEMBER !

In Summer, when the sun is hot,
I do not care for heat a lot.
In Winter, quite the other way,
I have to have it every day.
Now truly, doesn't it beat the Dutch
That August always has too much
And February seldom has a bit
Of this vital requisite ?

GOOD YEAR FOR FARMERS

Elmira district farmers have enjoyed the best harvest in years and this is a splendid reward for their efforts since early spring. And while it may be a gainful profit over the average crop year, farmers generally will feel deep down in their hearts the great relief it will provide to depleted feed bins, aid to starving Europe, and a much more secure feeling for the coming winter.

WHO LIKES EXAMS?

Many words have been written and spoken for and against final school examinations. Some authorities have proved conclusively that examinations are the "bunk"; others equally eminent have contended that they do serve as yardsticks for measuring learning. The subject is a controversial one. Scientific investigations are being carried out at a number of universities for the purpose of determining the place of examinations in an educational set up. No final conclusions have yet been drawn.

DANGEROUS MACHINE

One inescapable fact has emerged from (these two) accidents. A machine is a dangerous weapon and it must be impressed upon the public generally that greater care be exercised in the use of it. Prairie Grammarian

As far as the eye could see on the Italian front there were but two moving objects. One was long and lean, a machine gun company commander. The other was an enormous Scot, group commander, whose ponderous movement across the open stretch of ground seemed more like a major transportation project than the simple business of moving one leg after the other. Suddenly the quiet was split by the awful screech of an 88. It was followed by an enormous display of fireworks of every type, all of which seemed to be directed at the two strollers who had been looking for a comfortable OP for the machine gunners. The ground about them was wide open, offering no cover at all. Ignoring all the basic rules they broke into a fast trot towards a ditch. Chins in, chests out and knees up, they pounded across the sward with the enemy fire missing them by inches.

"I wonder who we owe this to?" the company commander puffed as they threw themselves forward.

The Scot, in peacetime a Prairie professor, wheezed: "To whom, me boy!" — The Printed Word

Two Offenders to Appear in Court

Town police, summoned Saturday evening, held a 19-year-old youth, a resident of Robert Street, who was subsequently lodged at St. Jerome jail by Det. Leopold Dauphin of the Provincial force. The man, employed as a plasterer's assistant, was apprehended at a Foundry Street hotel after complaints from the parents of a young girl living in that neighborhood. He will appear before the district magistrate at St. Jerome September 23 — a charge having been laid Monday morning, of indecent assault against the person of a seven-year-old girl.

On complaint of citizens in the Village of Grenville last Saturday night, Traffic Officer H. Jones and Det. Leopold Dauphin took in charge a 50-year-old woman, Mme Rita Monette, who gave her address as Hawkesbury. The offender was allegedly drunk and creating a disturbance on the public street. Held at St. Jerome for appearance before the judge, she is charged with vagrancy, having no visible means of support and being unable to give satisfactory account of her conduct.

KNOW QUEBEC BETTER...

Weaving the Traditional Arrow Sash

Do you know Quebec? Do you know, for example, that the arrow sash (ceinture fléchée) is still woven by skilled fingers today? The history of this dashing adornment goes back to the end of the eighteenth century when it was introduced at L'Assomption as a means of identifying men from rival fur companies. Measuring 8 ft. long by 8 inches wide, with a two foot fringe at either end, braided from tough, hard wool in a design fixed by tradition, it is a thing of beauty much sought after by collectors and museums.

The arrow sash is but one branch of the handicrafts which the Government has encouraged by establishing 18 schools and 22 vocational centres. Successful exhibitions have focussed outside interest on the activity; department stores find a ready market for its products.

Once again, we have proof of the kind of planning that inspires mutual interest and therefore mutual respect, thereby contributing to the unity of purpose which will make Canada one of the world's great nations.

QUEBEC BUILDS FOR THE FUTURE

In 1608 Champlain brought the first colonists to Quebec. Today, Quebec's population is 3,000,000, her retail trade $800,000,000.00 per year. She leads all Provinces in the production of hydro-electric power, textiles, lumber, newsprint, footwear, processed tobacco, asbestos and aluminum. Natural resources, agriculture and transportation are being developed wisely. And now, Quebec, her people deep-rooted in the love of their homeland, prepares to share with her sister Provinces, Canada's bright and glorious future!

BLACKSMITH MAKES SPINNING WHEELS

Starts Thriving Industries in Home Town

Sifton, Man. (CP) — A 48-year-old blacksmith named John Weselowski has turned this rural whistle stop into a busy little manufacturing centre that produces everything from spinning wheels to kitchen chairs.

It all started back in the depression when Weselowski ordered an old-style spinning wheel from Europe. He turned his smithy into a factory and started to produce his own improved model wheel.

His ill-clad neighbors soon learned to spin theid own yarn and make the clothes they couldn't afford to buy. Raw wool was no problem; it came from district sheep farms.

But Weselowski wasn't satisfied with his small local market. He built up a world-wide customer list and shipped his spinning wheels to France, Iceland, the United States, and a lot of countries in between. His Canadian sales boomed.

Meanwhile, the spinning wheel factory led to a woollen mill and a wool carding machine factory, then to a flour mill, a furniture factory and a monument works. Others put up the money, but it was Weselowski who built the machines and figured out the short-cuts and improvements. A special stapling machine for instance: it was priced at $10,000, but the blacksmith built one himself after looking at a picture in a catalogue.

Perhaps the most amazing featur of Sifton's industrial revolution is the fact that the town has no electricity; everything runs on diesel power. Citizens are wondering what's going to happen "when the hydro comes". They might be well advised to ask Mrs. Weselowski. He's probably got some interesting ideas on the subject.

Gives Report on Food Conditions In Gt. Britain

On visiting friends outside of London, I was surprised to be offered eggs and butter in abundance. But in both instances I learned that the explanation lay in the fact that there were family farm connections; in one case 800 or 900 acres, in the other 1,600 acres, with three combines, including a Massey-Harris; and while the sale of farm products is controlled, no effort is made to interfere with feeding the family. The surprise at getting two eggs for breakfast was less marked than the astonishment with which one learned that farms of this size are common in England.

An occasional excursion into a restaurant revealed that a plain but substantial meal, including meat, could be obtained for 4 shillings of 5 shillings, again with tea 9d extra.

Conditions Facing the Ordinary Citizen

If, therefore, we were to judge solely by our own experience, our verdict would be that the "austerity", as it is called, was not very severe; but this probably would give a false impression. Enquiry indicated that even among the people dependent on rations, who were not fortunate enough to be guests of the British Press at swell hotels, conditions varied greatly. The larger number in the family the better the ration worked out. Where one or more members were employed in factories in which the noon meal was served at a nominal cost, the food problem at home was mitigated. Where there were children, conditions were improved; for the authorities are partial to the young generation, and are determined that they shall not suffer malnutrition because of the war. Cod liver oil is served free to every child in Britain, orangeade is provided very cheap, and ample milk is made available. I was told that the war children are the healthiest and sturdiest generation Britain has ever known.

The real difficulty lies with those adults who have to queue up for rations and live on them; particularly single persons living alone and doing their own cooking. Unless these latter can afford to go out for an occasional meal at a restaurant, their fare is exceedingly dull and unappetizing, though it may not actually involve hunger. Since such people are numbered by the million, if they do not really constitute the majority, our conclusion was that the food situation in Britain is still tense. This impression was emphazed by the fact that the Labor Government felt it imperative to ration bread — a move resented deeply by the housewives and actively opposed by the bakers, but insisted upon by the Ministry of Supply as essential if the limited wheat and flour available was to be equitably distributed. A reduction in the soap ration was adding another headache for the housewives, already troubled by short supply of most domestic necessities. The lack of fruit (what there is is so expensive as to be out of reach of the ordinary individual) is a war deprivation that everybody was hoping would soon be overcome. Fruit was an uncommon luxury even in the hotels.

DRAGGED TRAP FIVE MILES

Lochaber Mines, N.S. (CP) — A 682-pound bear was shot by Eno Malay near this Halifax County mining village. The bear, with forepaw caught in a trap, dragged the trap and a 12-foot pole five miles through the woods before it was shot. The bear had eaten several fawns before it was trapped.

STIFFER PENALTIES URGED

In the courts today there has been possibly too much leniency. Surely in face of the facts as presented by the Attorney General's department, that department should be among the first to encourage the courts to adequately punish offenders rather than to encourage them to be courts of leniency.

— Lindsay Watchman-Warder

Montreal's Pigeons A Healthy Flock

Montreal, Sept 11 (CP) — Montreal's pigeon population, which runs into the thousands, is composed of husky, healthy speciments and there is no danger of the birds being disease carriers, according to Dr. Adelard Groulx, director of the Montreal Health Department.

What's more, says Dr. Groulx, aluminum spikes on church windows do not prevent their roosting nor do community complaints drive them out. They are with us forever.

Various other Canadian cities may have suspected and examined their pigeons for parrot fever virus or ornithosis but for the past 18 years, there has not been one case of parrot fever in Montreal.

Parrots, parrakeets or pigeons, according to those in the know, are able to transmit virus disease to humans, resulting in lung disorder and high fever and considered highly dangerous.

Pigeons still have the keys to the city but parrots were forbidden entry to Canada a number of years ago.

Montreal's pigeons are not all home-bred, as a number of them are reported to have been imported from Belgium.

I can't do a great deal for my nation unless I give a square deal to my neighbors.

"SKILL" IS HIS MIDDLE NAME

AIMÉ AUBIN, 56, is considered an ace pattern-maker in the Three Rivers, Que., paper mill where he has been working for over a quarter of a century. Next to his work, employees' welfare is Aimé's biggest interest. He was a founder and 1st president of the Employees' Mutual Benefit Association — a position he has held for twenty years, and has been president of his union for four years. Aimé has been a member of the company Athletic Association since its establishment, and a president of the mill hockey and softball leagues. Despite these many mill activities, Aimé is an active member of the Proprietors' League, and enjoys his favourite hobby — handicraft.

Like most paper men, Aimé is enthusiastic about his company and his work. Says Aimé: "It has been a pleasure to have entered the service of such a company . . . I hope that the years I have left to work for the company will be as happy and joyful as in the past."

A GOOD INDUSTRY TO BE WITH

He can't always wait for his money...

The firm you work for may operate a large plant, with costly machinery, and still need ready cash. That's because months often pass before its products are finished, and sold, and paid for. Meanwhile, it has a payroll to meet every Friday...

BANK CREDIT BRIDGES THE FINANCIAL GAP

Every day, business firms make use of bank loans to keep men working, machines running, goods flowing. This bank credit may be used to meet continuing expenses while goods are being processed; to build up stocks of raw materials; to purchase component parts. As finished goods reach the market and payment is received, the loan is repaid.

Enterprising farmers, fishermen, merchants—all make similar use of bank credit to meet their short-term financial needs. Thus your bank helps Canadians maintain steady operations—to take advantage of market opportunities both at home and abroad—to grow. And this, in turn means more work, more goods, a higher standard of living for you and for every Canadian.

SCHREIBER CITIZENS LOOK TO THE FUTURE

See Big Tourist Possibilities For Northern Ontario Railway Town

Schreiber, Ont., Sept 10 (CP) — To passengers on transcontinental trains, jaded with hours of travelling through western prairie or Northern Ontario muskeg, Schreiber is just a 10-minute stop where they can stretch their legs or grab a cup of coffee.

But residents of this railway town near Lake Superior's rock north shore say Schreiber has a personality of its own, not easily apparent to the through-traveller.

Completely dependent on the railway industry, the town's 1,400 population includes representatives of more than a dozen nationalities who cluster around the post office to pick up their mail from Toronto, Montreal, Winnipeg and points west.

Schreiber's chill winds, rains and fogs did not tempt the thousands of hoboes who passed through during the depression years, riding empty grain cars, flat cars and tenders. The many armed personnel who made the trans-Canada trip during the war years noted the rugged beauty of the Lake Superior shore, but few felt any desire to explore the town itself.

Yet, Schreiber's inhabitants get along. There are pulp and paper mills springing up at nearby Marathon and Red Rock and they say it's just a question of time until the trans-Canada highway hits Schreiber and opens up the boundless tourist possibilities of the area.

Meanwhile the local citizenry trek over the hill to Walker's Lake to swim, avoiding the icy waters of Lake Superior itself, and fishermen bring home a fair catch from the fast, rocky streams that pour into the lake. There are plenty of good ski trails and the town is well supplied with movies, bowling alleys and other recreational opportunities for those long winter evenings.

Saints and Angels Sculptor's Theme

Winnipeg (CP) — For eight hours each day, Joseph Brunka lives in a strange, silent world peopled by saints and angels; not the heavenly kind, but 400-pounders made of stone and immitation marble.

Once a wood-carver, the pious Polish immigrant has turned his hand to religious sculpture. His work appears in churches, graveyards, and the homes of Roman Catholic priests.

Most of Mr. Brunka's statues have sad, yet benevolent expressions, but he is especially proud of his figure of Pilate. The Roman ruler has a scornful mouth and furrowed brow.

CANADIAN CLOTHING SHIPPED TO EUROPE

Ottawa (CP) — Warm clothing has been assured thousands of men and women in Europe by overseas shipments by the War Assets Corporation of surplus service stores.

New and reconditioned articles of wearing apparel of servicemen and women worth $9,783,666 have been shipped to relief organizations with UNRRA. as the biggest buyer. A total of 5,567,657 articles have been received by the cerporation for disposal, with 51 per cent going to relief agencies.

Sales to Canadians totalled $328-371, three per cent of the total, with the rest going to foreign governments.

The total includes 1,419,607 pieces of battledress, 1,393,139 pieces of khaki drill, 156,121 greatcoats, 613,920 pairs of leather shoes, 59,301 pairs of reconditioned boots, 887,987 items of miscellaneous clothing and 72,024 pieces of navy clothing.

Some were new and others were used and reconditioned at the corporation's reclamation depot at Valleyfield, Que.

The detailed list of the Corporation's clothing stocks showed 5,375 summer dresses "of assorted colors", 58,242 skirts originally made for the women's services and 33,788 suits.

There is nothing for the suit-short Canadian male to get excited about in the last item for to the Corporation anything from a pair of pyjamas to anti-gas garments and padded flying clothing with fur collars is a suit.

A survey by the Department of National Defence clearly establishes that small wage-earners, not the rich, carry the major portion of the tax burden. For them there is no escape, because to them goes the bulk of the nation's income.

HIS NOSE is made of Plastic Wood!

SIX INCHES HIGH and carved from wood, Jean-Baptiste began life without a nose when his creator's knife slipped and eliminated that important part of his face. But plastic surgery saved him. His new nose is a product of chemistry. It came out of a tube in the form of C-I-L Plastic Wood, a C-I-L Paint & Varnish Division product for home, hobby and industrial use in healing holes and cracks in wood. C-I-L Plastic Wood comes from "Wood Flour", derived from nature, combined with a chemical bonding agent. The result is a product that "Handles like putty and hardens into wood".

...Music by the Mile... Identifying Iodine... Saving Fence Posts!

Music by the mile! And recorded—believe it or not—on tapes of "Cellophane", 350' long and 1 inch wide with no less than 60 sound tracks. They provide music for hours with no stops for changing records. At present available only for commercial use, this type of recording may eventually find its way into the home.

Some farmers prefer an iodized salt block to the plain variety. The small but vital iodine content is not sufficient of itself to distinguish an iodine salt block from a plain one, so a harmless red pigment is added that makes identification easy.

Now Chemistry enables the farmer to put longer life into his fence posts by the use of Chromated Zinc Chloride solution. Green posts are immersed in the solution and the chemical is taken up by the sap stream to permeate the wood and make it resistant to insects and decay.

The marriage of Norma Patricia, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. Cooke, of Verdun, and Mr. Bruce Campbell, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. George Campbell, of Montreal, took place last Saturday at four o'clock in St. Clement's Church, Verdun. The Rev. W. A. Bockus officiated. Mr. Harries played the wedding music. Standards of gladioli decorated the church.

During the signing of the register, Mr. John Evans sang "I'll Walk Beside You." Piper Stan Heavysage then piped the couple out of the church.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle Mr. Andrew Neill, wore a gown of white sheer with a high neckline, long full sleeves and fitted bodice, trimmed with pearls. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held in place with orange blossoms, and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses tied with white satin ribbon.

Miss Gladys Cook was her sister's only attendant, wearing a gown of powder blue sheer fashioned on similar lines to that of the bride's. Her headdress held a fingertip veil of blue net and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses.

Mr. Arnold Beattie was best man, the ushers being Cpl. Ken Clarke and L/Cpl. Bob Corbett. Both Mr. Campbell and Mr. Beattie were Flying Officers with the R.C.A.F.

The ceremony was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents. A toast to the bride was proposed by her father's cousin, Mr. W. J. Bryant.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Campbell left for Quebec City, the bride travelling in a grey wool gabardine suit with hat to match, black shortie-coat and black accessories, with a corsage spray of red roses.

A Pathfinder and Adventurer of the 17th Century

By SOPHY L. ELLIOTT

The story of Pierre Radisson and his treks to Canada's hinterlands reads like the most thrilling tale of fiction. Blood-curdling escapes from death, not once but many times; taken prisoner by the Indians, and adopted by an Indian chief's wife when seventeen years of age; his escape amidst hazards inconceivable and his return to his home settlement—these experiences introduce our young hero, and from this point begins a career chequered by intrigue, political scheming, financial trickery, and the searing disappointment of watching others grow rich on his lifetime struggles and observations.

Young Radisson remained for two years with his captors, the Mohawks. His valor on the warpath won their admiration as well as their affection. An opportunity to escape was offered, but the boy would not take it, because he had promised the Indians he would remain with them. Later, opportunity knocked again. Radisson escaped to New York, which then consisted of some five hundred houses; Central Park was a forest and Wall Street a pasturage for many a peaceful cow. Joining a fishing fleet he sailed away to ply his favorite occupation, cruising the St. Lawrence River and living the life of a vagabond.

During his two years' absence from home many changes had taken place. Truce had been arranged between the Iroquois and the French. Radisson's sister had married a man called Groseillers. Pierre and his brother-in-law took to the bush. They were skilled men in the wilds and brought down from the bushlands of the north on one single trip six hundred thousand beaver skins. The Governor of New France heard about it. What a find! The greedy hand of the law stretched out and all the beaver skins were confiscated. Stung by the unfairness of the act, the two men set sail for France to claim redress. Deaf ears were turned by Government officials. And so it came to pass that these two brave explorers of the wilds of North America allied themselves to England.

Eventually Radisson had audience with King Charles II. The young man told such thrilling tales of an unexplored continent teeming with fur-bearing animals, of Indian people who were his close friends, of great fortunes awaiting those who dared to venture to the Hudson's Bay, that the British monarch caused two ships to sail from the Thames on a June day of 1668. This was the beginning of the Hudson's Bay Company. For fifty years the vast inland sea had slumbered in frozen silence following its discovery by Hudson. It was the birth of a stirring era in Canada's history.

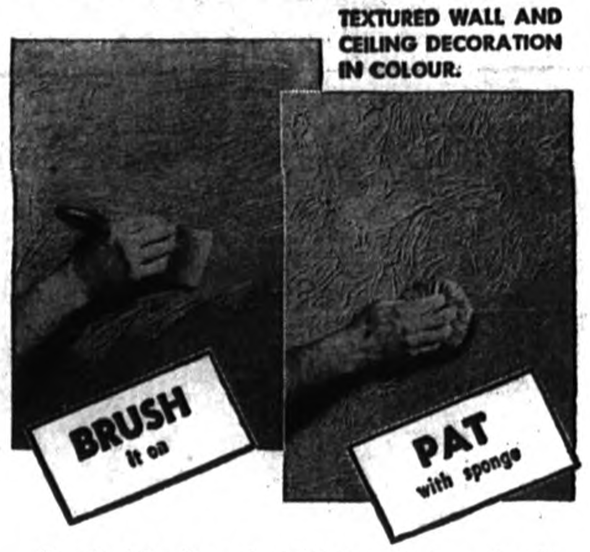

What of the famous pathfinder, Radisson. Did he become fabulously rich? Ah, no! On the contrary, his career ends like the beginning. Enemies dogged his footsteps on every side. He was employed by the company and paid a salary, but he was the scapegoat of court intrigue. His dwelling-place in England was a stone's throw from the Tower of London. His friends were not common, insignificant men. The great merchant princes were his close companions. Sir Christopher Wren, England's famous architect; and Samuel Pepys, the diarist; Sir Robert Viner, the wealthy Lord Mayor of London; and the keeper of the Tower, Sir John Robinson — thought highly of their friend Radisson. But his honest name was sullied by powerful opponents in the fur trade. Two hundred years after his death Radisson's records of his first four journeys to Hudson's Bay were found in the Pepys collection of the Bodleian Library. Evidently he had placed his precious manuscripts in charge of Pepys, his friend. This conveys some idea of his importance in the eyes of men of note. Radisson died sometime between March and July, 1710. Where was he buried? No one knows today. In his humble, obscure grave rest the remains of Pierre Esprit Radisson the Great. This man and his brother-in-law, Groseillers, achieved far more in their exploring tours than Cartier, Champlain and La Salle put together. Today, from the ashes of the past blooms a flower of remembrance to Radisson which yearly sheds its brilliance with increasing strength. Generations in the future will glorify his name.

Public Housing

Why build public housing to clear the slums? For humanitarian motives, certainly. But also for hard-headed selfish motives. The slums cost heavy money — very much more than they pay back in taxes. Disease, crime, delinquency — and rats — are rampant. They run up the cost of government. In Newark, N.J., a comparison of three public projects with three wards of similar population characteristics found the new housing 16 per cent lower in infant mortality, 28 per cent in children's diseases, 50 per cent in tuberculosis — 73 per cent fewer fires, and fatal home accidents eliminated entirely.

BLINDNESS NO HANDICAP

Montreal (CP) — McGill University recently awarded a bachelor of science degree to James Carl Swail who, in spite of blindness, covered the work of this course in three years instead of the usual four. An interest in radio takes up much of this graduate's time and he now is building a 120-watt telephone transmitter.

STRICTLY BUSINESS

Halifax (CP) — Inspectors of the Halifax Public Service Commission now can patrol the city's water supply lakes without being bothered by citizens. The patrol canoe has been painted a bright yellow with the words "Sanitary Patrol" emblazoned on its sides. Last year when inspectors patrolled the lakes in an ordinary boat, citizens complained about canoists joy-riding on their drinking water.

Fall Plenty for Winter Menus

Fall plenty makes the home-makers' job of planning meals a much more simple affair. However, during the winter when this variety is just a pleasant memory, the fruit cellar can supply many a sealer of vegetables or fruit or jam to help dress up the winter meals.

Applesauce is a versatile addition to any fruit cellar. It can be used as an accompaniment to meat, as a basis for a pudding or in a pie. It also is a way, at the present time, of conserving those windfalls from the orchard which might otherwise go to waste. Applesauce may be canned without sugar, and then sweetened later when it is used. In this way, it need not make inroads on the canning sugar wanted for doing other late fruits.

The home economists of the Dominion Department of Agriculture's Consumer Section recommend the following directions for canning unsweetened applesauce, for making a plum jam, and for immediate enjoyment, they include a recipe for Plum Roly Poly.

Canned Applesauce

Make applecauce in the usual way, but omit sugar. Pack hot into clean hot sealers or plain tin cans. Leave a headspace of ¼ inch. Adjust rubber rings and glass tops on screw or spring top sealers, and partially seal. Completely seal tin cans. Process in the boiling water bath for 15 minutes, for pints, quarts and twenty and twenty-eight ounce cans.

Plum Jam
(using plums other than Damsons)

8 Cups pitted, quartered plums; ½ cup water; 4½ cups sugar.

Place prepared plums and water in kettle. Simmer uncovered, 10 minutes. Add sugar and boil 6 to 8 minutes, stirring frequently to prevent sticking. Pour into hot, sterilized jars, cool slightly and wax. Yield, about 6½ cups. To test consistency of jam, remove kettle from the heat, place a spoonful on a chill saucer and cool quickly. If the jam does not set to the proper thickness, return kettle to heat and continue to boil a minute or two longer and repeat the test.

Plum Roly Poly

3 Cups halved or quartered, pitted, sweet plums; ½ to ⅔ cup sugar; ⅛ teaspoon salt; 1-and-a third cups boiling water.

Wash plums and cut in halves or quarters, removing pits. Add boiling water to suger and salt, bring to boiling point. Add plums and simmer 5 minutes. Strain off syrup and reserve.

1½ Cups sifted all-purpose flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ¾ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 3 tablespoons mild-flavored fat, ½ cup milk.

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Cut in fat, using two knives or a pastry blender, until the mixture resembles fine bread crumbs. Add milk to make a soft dough. Turn out on a lightly floured board and roll in a rectangle ¼ inch thick. Spread plums over dough and roll like a jelly roll. Place in a greased bread tin and pour ¾ cup of the plum syrup over the roll. Bake in a hot oven, 425°F, for 25 to 30 minutes. Serve hot with the following sauce.

1½ Cups syrup from plums, 2½ teaspoons cornstarch (or 5 teaspoons flour), 2 tablespoons cold water, ⅛ teaspoon almond extract.

Measure syrup and if necessary add water to make up 1½ cups. Bring to boiling point. Mix cornstarch or flour with cold water and stir into boiling syrup; cook 10 minutes, stirring frequently, remove from heat and add almond extract. Yield, 6 servings.

Black velveteen is used for this trim, easily dressed-up street dress, and its slim waist is achieved through scalloped detail from underarm seam to waist and about again over the hips, forming pockets. Prince Albert, Sask (CP) — He didn't feel like a bridesmaid but railway reporter Bill Wilkins nevertheless neatly caught the bouquet which the bride threw wide at a feminine bevy bidding her farewell at the station here. Wilkins hastily handed the flowers to a nearby bridesmaid.

USE MOTORCYCLE FOR HONEYMOON

Portland, Me. (CP) — Mr. and Mrs. Willis C. Hanock are back home after a 1,530-mile wedding trip on an ex-army motorcycle built for two.

Hancock, who served two years with the Army Medical Corps overseas, bought the vehicle in Florida and repainted it a brilliant green.

Although Mrs. Hancock had never ridden a motorcycle and her husband's motorcycle experience was limited to one ride, they averaged 200 miles daily on their six-day tour.

Food has been more plentiful in Paris this summer, but not so with meat, which accounts for a restaurant patron's complaint to the waiter that his pork chop was served too hot.

"Why don't you blow on it?" the waiter none too politely inquired.

"I am afraid to," said the diner. "It might blow away."

TINY PARACHUTIST FINDS IT RELAXING

Lilian Wright Ends Worries With Unusual Hobby

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto (CP) — Ten thousand spectators cheered, then gasped, as a gust of wind tossed Lilian Wright and her parachute toward the grandstand here at the Woodbine racetrack.

She missed it by a few feet, stood up and coolly greeted friends with: "I was afraid my lines might be caught if I hit. I didn't want to tear them."

When she's tense or worried Lilian says there's nothing as "relaxing" as a quick leap from a plane. She began this unusual hobby in 1939 when she took her first flying lesson and subsequently found she could never obtain a pilot's license because of her short stature. Eventually she became the first woman in Canada to get a parachute instructor's license with the the Canadian Parachute Club. Now she spends her spare time doing exhibition jumping at benefits.

Only five feet one inch tall, the young dark-haired parachutist carries more than half her weight in equipment when she goes on a "job". Her two parachutes, regulation equipment in all exhibition jumping, weigh approximately 50 pounds. Miss Wright tips the scales at the 95 mark.

Although she made her first jump in 1940 Lilian will not reveal how many she has chalked up since then. "Wait until I reach my 100th then I'll start talking." was her only reply.

Delayed leaps are Lilian's favorite and she leaves the plane at 2,300 feet, usually opening her chute at 1,500. At a recent exhibition here she jumped at 800.

In all her jumps Lilian has received nothing more serious than a "buckle bruise" caused by the shoulder harness. In landing she claims the secret of escaping such "petty annoyances" as broken ankles and legs is by relaxing completely just before touching the ground.

She is just about as happy "hitting the silk" over water as over land. A "Mae West" is worn on water jumps, and if you flick the top lines, then you "surf-board", across the water, which to Miss Wright is really fun."

"And after all why shouldn't parachute jumping be taken as much for granted as any other sport," she says. "What's the difference between a jump and those high dives you specialize in over at the local swimming-pool?"

PLEA FOR INDIVIDUALITY

One of the cures suggested recently for the housing shortage was the mass production of prefabricated houses. The article mentioning this cure said that within a few years whole areas would spring up of factory--made homes. This trend toward houses that are alike as peas in a pod is the sort of thing we consider dangerous. Individuality in housing is the same as individuality anywhere else; it's the one outstanding feature that distinguishes a free people from one that is regimented.

W.I. Handwork At County Fairs

County fairs afford an excellent opportunity for Institutes to obtain publicity for their work. That many branches are aware of this is shown by the reports coming in during the season for these events. Handwork of various kinds is displayed, sometimes as inter-branch competitions or in other cases for exhibition purposes only. Thrift is stressed by some counties with outstanding examples of utilizing waste material and transforming it into articles of use and beauty. Another splendid idea comes from Pontiac county, where layettes were chosen for the W.I. exhibit. At the conclusion of the fair these were all given to their community hospital in Shawville. A similar exhibit was held last year when they were packed and sent overseas.

John Dunne presents MOVIE DANCE

TOMORROW NIGHT
September 20
DEMAIN SOIR!

Due to the Lachute Arena not having a floor this season, John Dunne will present his first Movie Dance at the Auditorium tomorrow evening — and believes its reception should be excellent.

Pour des raisons inexplicable Lachute Arena a été dans l'impossibilité d'avoir un plancher convenable pour la danse; mais John Dunne va présenter la première danse de ce genre à l'Auditorium demain soir, et espère une chaude reception.

Lachute Auditorium is to be the scene of Quebec's first presentation of screen music by one of America's top dance bands, in the latest innovation of a dance sensation. This is not a personal appearance, but the illusion has the desired effect. This is not all Jitterbug or Boogie-Woogie music — it is dancing and entertainment for the old and young who have never had the opportunity of movie dancing to the New York 400 Club Dance Band.

Movie Dance was designed some time ago as a medium of bringing the nation's top dance bands into even remote dance spots.

In this day of motion picture perfection and television, one must see as well as hear to complete the perfect cycle of entertainment. For example, in the early days of silent films, vaudeville flourished throughout the country, as a majority of people preferred to see and hear their entertainment. With the development of sound for motion picture entertainment, bit by bit, vaudeville has been replaced by motion pictures, as the people of the world prefer to see top talent on a movie screen from which they receive the perfect illusion of reality, rather than lesser talent from a stage presentation. Today the only profitable stage presentations are the Broadway shows with top stars.

During the past quarter century, the demands of a progressive people has brought about a higher state of perfection in motion picture entertainment; a vast number of people, estimated at greater than fifty million, now enjoy and dance to the many tunes written and played by the world's great artists and now demand nothing but the best.

Movie dance is not designed to replace the personal appearances of the talented bands throughout the country, but rather, to bring the music of such bands via film and sound to places where it has been impossible for them to make personal appearances or, if at all, only at infrequent intervals. Movie Dance is designed to replace in most spots, recorded music which should have been replaced years ago.

Today on a giant screen, the world's greatest bands are flashed life-size or larger, by the sensational improved 16 M.M. projectors, and the finest sound reproduction possible. Movie Dance has only just been born and the development of this newest form of dance entertainment will increase day by day.

It is most important that the dancing public realize and understand that Movie Dance is not a plot, not a story; no one gets murdered and no one lives happily ever after. These are not movies, they are entertainment produced solely for the purpose of dance entertainment.

ADMISSION 75c (plus Fed'l & Prov'l Tax)

Lachute Auditorium va présenter pour la première fois dans la province de Québec une présentation de musique sur écran par l'orchestre d'un chef reputé — c'est une innovation nouvelle qui fera sensation. Ce n'est pas une apparence personnelle mais une illusion reflétée. Ce n'est pas tout de la musique "Jitterbug" ou "Boogie-Woogie", mais de la belle danse qui sera appreciée par vieux et jeunes qui n'ont pas eu l'opportunité de danser dans New York au 400 Club danse orchestre.

Telephone Project

To boost the voice currents on their long journey, a repeater station has been erected at Shawbridge. The vacuum tubes in your radio set are similar in principle to the repeater tubes which amplify telephone currents at intervals on long distance lines.

To accommodate terminal equipment for the cable, the telephone exchange building at Ste. Agathe was enlarged.

The cable is equipped with a gas pressure testing system which gives the alarm at the nearest phone office whenever the cable sheath is damaged. . . Nitrogen gas under pressure is pumped into the cable. If by any means the lead sheath should become punctured, the escaping gas will cause an alarm to ring at the nearest telephone centre. Engineers stationed at the centre can calculate the location of the break to within a few feet. If the repairman on arriving at this location is unable to detect the break by visual inspection, he paints the cable with soapsuds and the bubbles from the escaping gas indicate the puncture.

In addition to giving the alarm and revealing the break, the gas also serves to keep moisture from entering through the puncture and lowering the insulation covering the wires.

Great difficulty was encountered in the selection of the route, in order to avoid prospective building developments in this rapidly-developing area, particularly between Piedmont and Ste. Agathe. Clearing of bush on either side of the pole line has opened up a new trail for skiers.

During construction, heavy rains were encountered last year, and this May the weather was the wettest in 75 years. On one occasion four pumps had to be kept going for 36 hours. In two sections, trenches had to be dug by hand, chiefly because of rocky ground, and these and other delays compelled some work to be carried out during the winter.

Brownsburg Scouts

Brownsburg — Scout and Wolf Cub activities are again underway. The Chatham Consolidated School reopened September 10, and from that date the Cubs and Scouts resumed their activities for the autumn, on the regular nights.

Additional Scout Proficiency Badges have been passed as follows:

Allan Taylor, Marksman; Milton Mason, Ambulance; Ronald Elliott, Missionary; Ronald Elliott, Ambulance.

Geologist, Native Here, Strikes A Diamond Area of Fabulous Wealth

Deposits Discovered by McGill Scientist Are Reported Largest in the World

News was broadcast yesterday concerning a sensational discovery in Tanganyika — a diamond mine described in fabulous terms, in one instance reported "eight times as large as Kimberley", the S. African mine hitherto considered the world's largest. . .

Except for the fact that the discoverer, Dr. John Thorburn Williamson, is a Montrealer and a McGill graduate, the news stirred little personal interest here. However, it is a fact that this "quiet, studious scientist" was born and spent his early years in this county. Dr. John T. Williamson, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Williamson, Montreal, is a native of Montfort; at the time of his birth, his father was manager of the Laurentian Lumber Company at that place.

Contacted yesterday by telephone at her summer home in Lakefield, his mother, Mrs. B. J. Williamson, admitted she was not up-to-date on her son's most recent projects. He has not returned to Canada since leaving, in 1934, to become associated with mining promoters in Rhodesia. For the past six years he has been prospecting and developing diamond areas in East Africa, and he heads the mining firm of Williamson Diamonds Ltd.

Dr. Williamson was educated at the Macdonald High School in Ste. Anne de Bellevue, proceeding to McGill for his B.A.; subsequently specializing in Geology, he took the degrees of M.Sc. and Ph.D. It was from McGill that he was recommended to fill a position offered by a mining corporation in Rhodesia. Today, unmarried and 39 years of age, he is described as "potentially the richest man in the world", following official confirmation that the diamond mine he discovered is eight times as large as Kimberley.

A Reuters despatch from Dares-Salaam, Tanganyika, states as follows:

Dr. Williamson came to Tanganyika in 1934 and pegged claims at various points in a diamond-bearing area. He discovered a central diamond-bearing "pipe" in 1941 and produced diamonds during the war which were invaluable to the war effort. The largest stone found in his mine weighed 135 carats — 28 15/16 carats more than the famous Koh-I-Nor. South Africa's largest diamond, the Cullinan, weighed 305¾ carats.

It is reported that machinery now on order will raise the Williamson mine's output to 2,000 tons of diamond-bearing diggings daily.

Dr. Williamson recently gave the Tanganyika government £25,000 ($100,000) toward the cost of a rail line to his mine, which is 16 miles from the town of Shinyanga.

The scientist's father told the Montreal press that Dr. Williamson is expected home shortly. Difficulty in getting money out of Tanganyiki during the war years prevented an earlier trip. "I am happy that my son has done so well, and will be pleased to see him," he is reported to have said.

There's a slight disagreement as to whether Dr. Williamson is the world's richest man, but there is every indicatiton that he is one of the wealthiest.

The difference between boom and bust is merely that of having a tax collector or a wolf at the door. -Exch.

School Reopening Turns Spotlight of Interest on Education, at Brownsburg

Is It Too Late ?

Article Specially Contributed by M. V. Trayers

After a period of apathetic interest in education, during which an outmoded system of management was retained or "shoulder-shrugged", a more dynamic attitude is now in evidence in Brownsburg. A committee has been formed to enquire into the possibilities of increasing the advantages available to the young student, and the relation of the present school curriculum to the needs of future more advanced study.

* * *

The attitude of the average individual towards education is so governed by how it affects him personally, that it is well nigh impossible to carry through a clear-cut program for the betterment of education.

The parent who is responsible for the education and upbringing of "young Canada", and upon whom Canada depends for its future greatness — or decadence — is beset with difficulties of providing by his own sweat and labor for the education, opportunities and qualifications of this future Canada. Too often poorly educated himself, unable to advise or assist his uncertain offspring or direct what talents he may possess to avenues best suited for his future well-being, and lacking the financial means to accomplish that which his judgment directs — he is forced to give up in despair and send his immature child "out to work" — another zero in the mob of unskilled labor already flooding the market.

On the other side, the taxpayer or property-holder who for one reason or another has no children to educate, and to whom the future of Canada or its youth is of little concern, is governed by his desire to "keep the taxes down". Education to him is a memory of bygone school days, and the young generation whom he finds so lacking in the virtues of yester-year, is a matter for their parents whose responsibility they are.

* * *

Various degrees of opinion range within those two extremes — their attitude towards education governed by the all-pervading factor of cost or personal liability. The committee now formed faces the task of reconciling those different interests, and even then are not wholly free from extraneous interests, which at a recent consideration of this subject dominated the whole affair, to the detriment of the function of the school itself — that is local pride and prejudice.

The purposes set by the committee are of wide scope, viz, to enquire into the possibility of increasing the advantage offered to the young Brownsburg pupil; the advisibility of entering a larger centralized unit; the approximate cost of the change, if any; the effect on the present tax rate; the co-operation which can be offered by amalgamation with other school authorities, and the co-ordination of the curricula to the best advantage of the pupil.

Once having gone on record with such a policy, the committee is committed to support it, and live up to it, with the creation of a proper organization to achieve the end it set out to attain, and with consideration of a budget for carrying on the work.

Once the intention, the policy, the organization and the budget have been set up, the committee must be careful not to take the attitude "Now that's done", and wash its hands of the whole affair. You cannot wash your hands of a responsibility. Other surveys have been made, some national in scope, such as the Canada and Newfoundland Education Association's survey of 1942 or the Hepburn report, both of outstanding importance to the educational future of Canada — both undertaken at considerable expense, and both shelved, without their recommendations being put into effect. The answer to such crass inaction is an awakened public opinion. Perhaps the present activity is the beginning of a more forceful interest in this important question. The sands are flowing out; in fact, we may well ask, — Is it too late?

Finds Prospectus For "Polite and Useful Education"

In an old Bible belonging to his great grandfather, a local townsman W. S. MacKimmie came upon a leaflet dated 1859 dealing with one of Lachute's early institutions of learning. The prospectus reads as follows:

Having been appointed Rector of the Institution, he begs respectfully to inform Parents and Guardians of youth, that the following branches of a polite and useful Education will be taught by him:

Classes to open at 9 o'clock on the 10th January, 1859.

Harness Race Meet Successful Event At Fair Grounds

Threatening skies detracted from the attendance at the harness race meet held on Lachute Fair Grounds last Saturday, sponsored by the Brownsburg Branch of the Canadian Legion in aid of its War Memorial Campaign. Nevertheless, over 2,000 people witnessed with enthusiasm the keenly contested races, and the rain held off long enough to permit completion of the program. Purses aggregating $600 were offered — $200 for each of the three classes entered.

The feature of the program was the "Free for All", all three heats of which were won by Brown Derby, owned by Charles Moseley of Brownsburg and driven by D. McTavish. A very close second was William Direct, owned by G. Bouvrette and driven by E. Larant, which came in second in all three heats. In the last heat it was a very strong challenger, coming up very fast on the home stretch and being beaten by barely a head. The 2:28 class was won by Pointer Lee, owned by P. Joly of Lachute and driven by A. Joly, in fairly decisive fashion. Rosie B, owned by Geo. Larocque of Chute à Blondeau, showed her paces in the 2.18 class, also winning all three heats.

Taking into account all aspects, the affair must be judged as being highly successful, and the Brownsburg Legion Branch is to be congratulated on its courage in undertaking a program of such magnitude. While the unfavorable weather may be responsible for the net proceeds not being very high, yet it has proven that with co-operation such local affairs can be developed to a stage where they will have inter-county and inter-provincial prominence. This initial success, it is understood, is encouraging the Brownsburg Branch to sponsor further meets, and consideration may be given to holding one on Thanksgiving Day, the occasion of a general holiday.

The splendid entertainment offered by the Brownsburg Boys' Band, conducted by Alex Clarke, cannot be overlooked. The varied program, including some difficult selections, was much enjoyed, and many favorable comments were heard from the audience. This Band was first organized in 1939, and in its very first year succeeded in taking second prize at the Ottawa Exhibition. The advent of war depleted its numbers rapidly, finally resulting in the Band ceasing operation for a time. Some months ago, Mr. Clarke of Brownsburg, a well known saxophone player, undertook the re-organization of the group, and his efforts have culminated in such quality of performance as was heard last Saturday from this Band of 17 pieces. The county may expect to enjoy more fine entertainment by this group, which may be judged as outstanding in the province.

Another conspicuous feature was the softball game between Brownsburg "All Stars" and Lachute "All Stars", which was won by the former. This attracted a large crowd, even during the racing, and provided several exciting thrills.

VISITORS WELCOME

For some reason or other people who have never travelled the Alaska Highway delight in knocking it. We wish some of our government officials could travel the highway as soon as possible. Not until they feel the road, every foot of it, and see the scenery themselves, will they become Alaska Highway boosters.

Legion Activities Are Resumed With Enthusiastic Meet

The first monthly meeting of Argenteuil Branch 70, Canadian Legion, for the fall and winter season, was held September 18, in McArthur's Hall, with a large number of veterans from both wars in attendance. Considerable business was taken care of, and the meeting was favored with three guest speakers, Com. S. H. Stilwell, Zone chairman, Com. J. J. Seary, Jr., President, Brownsburg Branch, and Com. George Owens, district inspector for D.V.A., Veterans' Land Act.

Mr. Stilwell dealt with the status and policies of the Dominion Command, and the annual conventions. He also gave details of certain plans and benefits now in effect for the veteran.

Wm. Seary, on behalf of Brownsburg Branch No. 71, invited the Lachute Branch to join them in a "smoker" in the near future. Plans are now being made to arrange a mutual date.

Mr. Owens gave detailed plans now available to eligible veterans under the Farm Settlement and Small Holding schemes. He also answered many questions put to him by interested veterans.

Com. R. A. Giles was again appointed chairman of the committee to arrange details for the annual Poppy Campaign this year. Com. F. Maidens was appointed assistant sergeant-at-arms.

A program to aid in the drive against the dread disease, polio, is to be undertaken by the local branch in the near future, and it is hoped this will receive every possible encouragement from the citizens of Lachute.

New members installed by Com. F. E. Earle included — H. Lyster, R. Ladouceur, G. Coté, W. R. Blair, Bruce Pollock, B. L'Heureux and Ed. Morrison. Many new applications were presented for installation at the next meeting.

Com. Stewart Jones gave a detailed and vivid description of the 11th annual convention held at Quebec City in May, which he attended as Argenteuil Branch delegate. (It is hoped to publish his account in a later issue.)

Com. Paul Blais gave an outline of the local labor situation and answered questions put to him by the meeting.

A bowling team under the chairmanship of Com. L. Bates is to be entered in the local Service Clubs League.

Refreshments and a social evening were enjoyed following the business of the meeting.

Services Held For Ordination of Baptist Minister

Services of special significance and interest were held in Lachute Baptist Church on Thursday afternoon and evening of last week, the occasion being the Ordination of Pastor W. Hartley Britton.

Twenty-four messengers representing ten churches formed the Ordination Council which met in the afternoon, presided over by the Rev. John Armstrong of Snowdon, with the Rev. Grahame Reeve of Sawyerville as secretary. The candidate gave an acceptable account of his conversion, his call to the ministry and his doctrinal position, and it was unanimously agreed to proceed with his Ordination ceremony at the evening service, at which the 'laying on of hands' was impressively carried out. The Charge to the Candidate was given by the Rev. D. C. Herry, of Emmanuel Church, Verdun; the Charge to the Church by the Rev. Harold G. Hindry, of Westboro; the Ordination prayer was offered by the Rev. T. D. M. Carson, of Verdun, and the Ordination sermon was delivered by the Rev. John F. Dempster, of Calvary Church, Ottawa. Other ministers present and participating were the Rev. George B. Hicks of Dalesville and the Rev. M. B. Gillion, of Buckingham. The benediction was pronounced by the Rev. W. Hartley Britton.

At both services the attendance was large and interest was high.

The ladies of the local church served supper in McArthur's Hall, and appreciation of their provision was expressed in a fitting resolution passed at the evening gathering.

3 Thousand Chicks And Eggs Lost In Hatchery Fire

(Our District Correspondent)

Arundel — A fire which broke out Thursday afternoon in the incubator house of Cooke Bros. resulted in total destruction of the incubator units, together with three to four thousand chicks and eggs.

The fire had made considerable headway before the smoke pouring from the ventilators attracted attenion. The municipal fire pump was in operation in a few minutes and three hoses were laid on the fire. Pumps from Huberdeau, T. C. Stuart's farm, as well as the pump of Provincial Fire Ranger Wm. Charron, arrived shortly after, and after two hours of hard work by volunteers the fire was extinguished, having been confined to the interior of the building which was a total loss. No damage was done to the Cooke Bros'. Store or Gordon's Garage, both of which are but a few feet from the damaged building.

We are all the same underneath but some keep themselves further underneath than others.

Cushing District Mourns Death of Mrs. F. R. Douglas

Benefactor to Neighborhood, Church Work and Every Deserving Cause

(Our District Correspondent)

Cushing as a community has suffered a great loss in the passing, on September 16, of Mrs. Francis Ross Douglas, at the Ross Memorial Pavilion, Royal Victoria Hospital, after a lingering illness.

Mrs. Douglas, the former Ida Mary Noyes of Cushing, daughter of the late Thomas Clark Noyes and the late Mary Ann Ostrom his wife, sustained a fractured limb during the winter and her health had been impaired since that time, although she had been able to leave the hospital and return to her own home on Cedar Avenue for a short visit. It had been the hope of her many friends that her health would continue to improve; however, she was again obliged to return to the hospital, where she passed away last week.

Widowed in the early years of her married life, Mrs. Douglas devoted her life to the upbringing of her daughter, and to giving assistance to those in less fortunate circumstances than herself.

Her support to the churches and all good works was invaluable. As stated by the minister in tribute at her funeral — "She was a mother to many". Nor were her givings ostentatious; to the contrary, they were usually accompanied by a request that her name be withheld. The funeral service was held September 19 in her old home church, St. Mungo's. The Rev. James Fraser, of Walter's Falls, Ont. (son of the late Rev. James Fraser of St. Mungo's) officiated.

In the past years Mrs. Douglas had visited countries abroad, the greater portion of Western Canada, and several parts of the United States. And, although having business connections in Vancouver, she had evidently decided, in the words of the old proverb, "East, West, hame is best" — for she settled finally in Westmount, where her home overlooked the broad St. Lawrence; also she paid frequent visits to her old home in Cushing, where her brother, Mr. B. Noyes, still resides.

The sympathy of all who knew Mrs. Douglas goes out to the immediate relatives left to mourn her loss — her daughter, Mildred, and her brother, Mr. Noyes.

Friends from Ottawa, Montreal, St. Andrews East, Hawkesbury, Montebello and Calumet were noted among those who gathered at the church to pay their last respects.

The floral tributes were many and beautiful — the casket itself being covered with an interwoven blanket of Johanna Hill roses.

Interment was made in St. Andrews East Cemetery, the honorary pall-bearers being—John Douglas, Jr., John Innes, John Bradford, W. H. Canning, I. H. Fuller and Archie Graham.

NEED WOMAN'S TOUCH

It is time we should be thinking seriously of having a woman on the town council. Don't think the idea is silly, either, for there never was any sort of business that was not the better for having a woman's touch. The problem is to get some lady who will agree to run. She'd be elected too. The ladies would see to that — and plenty of males too.

Among the 300--Publishers, Editors, Personnel, on Recent Maritime Trip

Watchman Representative Reports Highlights of Conference Tour to Halifax and P.E.I.

One of the most interesting and instructive trips we have ever experienced, was enjoyed by the writer, R. A. Giles, his wife, and daughter Lorna, who having spent three years in the C.W.A.C. was recently discharged and was on a month's furlough.

Travelling to the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association Convention being held at Halifax, N.S., were over 300 persons — editors, publishers, and personnel — representing papers in every province across Canada from West to East.

Putting in a busy week-end in order to get a little ahead with our work, we left home Tuesday morning, in a drizzling rain, and at Montreal boarded a "special" Canadian Pacific Railway train for the Maritimes. Mr. J. S. Giles, one of the original members of the Association, accompanied us as far as Montreal, where he renewed acquaintances with many friends. When I said "Special" I certainly meant it, for it was one of the finest and best equipped trains I have ever travelled on. We were told that it represented a million dollar rolling stock and even surpassed that used by celebrities on previous occasions. Some of the cars were recently constructed and in our compartment, with all modern conveniences, two large arm chairs were taken apart and replaced by a comfortable bed, which let down from the wall in a similar way to a built-in ironing board. Our car was next the engine, a fact that we regretted when boarding the train as it such a long walk, but owing to the length of the train, we could not have been better placed as we got much less jolting when stopping and starting with our heavy load.

"Last call for dinner" brought us quickly to the dining car where we enjoyed a hearty meal, served by courteous and obliging waiters, several of whom were college boys with a yen to travel during vacation. Looking out through the large windows and admiring the change of scenery also added much to our pleasure.

A sing-song in the observation car, then off to bed, where we slept soundly with little thought of the responsibility carried by our engineer and train crew. Five a.m. seemed a terrible time to be getting up, but we were soon to arrive at St. John and beside we had lost an hour while travelling east.

Breakfast was served quite close to the docks and we were soon aboard the "Princess Helene" crossing the bay of Fundy bound for Digby. The three hour trip was not too rough, but some would have settled for a much shorter time, particularly where the waves were quite choppy and the boat pitched and tossed considerably.

At Digby we boarded the Dominion and Atlantic Railway and once again were speeding on our way through picturesque scenery which reminded us much of the British Isles. Main stop on this part of our journey was at Annapolis Royal, the first settlement of white people in North America, made by the French. Here we strolled around the embattlements and viewed the old powder magazine and officers quarters, all of which has been kept as much like the original as possible. — And then on to Grand Pré, where we walked through the famous Evangeline Memorial Park, and viewed with interest the museum with its many relics of the past. First settlers in this district came about 1675, many of whom, tired of the strain of battle, moved from Fort Anne, at Annapolis in hopes of finding a more peaceful place to live. Lost in the history of the past, a faint "All aboard" broke the spell and and once again we were speeding on our way. We passed through rougher country now; heavily wooded hills and deep valleys, with here and there a glimpse of the sea. After a delicious steak dinner and a bit of a snooze we found we were almost in Halifax, and gathering our belongings together we stepped off the train and were ushered into the lovely Nova Scotian Hotel. For many it was the first visit to Halifax, so although it was after dark, we stepped out with the unmistakable tang of salt and fish in our nostrils, to view the city. We found it not quite like any other city, but in her hilly streets, many of which were cobblestone, and the friendly atmosphere, she held a charm and sense of adventure all her own. We drifted off to sleep that night, listening to the fog horns of the various ships in the harbor and wondering dreamily what strange ports they had sailed from. Thoughts ran through our mind also of the important role this great seaport city had played in the recent conflict and how brave its people had been in carrying on their work amidst danger.

Thursday morning began a series of business sessions for the editors. In the afternoon the ladies had an interesting tour through Simpsons Ltd., being shown the system used when fulfilling and shipping mail orders to smaller towns and country districts where there are no branch stores. In the evening many went down to the quay, where the Rangitiki had just docked. She was a New Zealand liner and had left Wellington N.Z., just a month before, carrying sweethearts and wives of servicemen in both the United States and Great Britain. Supposed to dock at New York, this vessel was routed to Halifax on account of strikes. (To be continued)

Orangemen Parade To Louisa Church

L.O.L. and L.O.B.A. members from Louisa, Morin Heights, Lachute and Dalesville, led by Piper H. M. Wilson, of Montreal, and the Union Jack, paraded to St. Aidan's Church (Anglican) at Louisa last Sunday afternoon.

The service was conducted by the Rev. C. W. P. Baugh, rector of the church and Master of the Morin Heights lodge. County Master Bro. Hugh Morrison and the Rev. G. T. Spriggs, past Grand Master of P.E.I. and now Deputy Chaplain of Quebec, read the lessons.

The Rev. C. W. P. Baugh preached an inspiring sermon. After words of welcome, he urged the importance of a constant study of history in respect to the world, the Loyal Orange Association and present day affairs. "We should ever be thankful to God, for the great leaders He raised up to guide the affairs of our Nation; and for the invention of the printing press by Claxton, the fruits of which gave us the Bible, available for all to read", he said. Finally the preacher admonished the members of the Orange Order to read and study the Bible, put religion before politics, and cultivate loyalty to their church and lodge.

Bro. W. Cooper, Grand Lodge organizer and auditor, acted as marshal for the parade. Mrs. S. Holt, Deputy Treasurer of the Provincial L.O.B.A., was among those present.

Drowning at Tamaracouta

Investigation into the death of Roland Serres, 38, well known tavern keeper of Hochelaga, was held Tuesday, September 17, by the district coroner, Jules Lafleur, M.D., of Lachute. The coroner returned a verdict of accidental death by drowning, following the fatality which occurred near the victim's summer cottage on Lake Tamaracouta, Mille Isles.

The previous evening Roland Serres, with two children and two adults, was out on the lake in a rowboat. Serres, at the rear, was lifting an anchor, which caught on some obstruction, and as one of his companions continued rowing, he toppled into the water. Neighbors preceeded to search for the body, but it was not until the following morning, after dynamite had been exploded under the surface, that the victim was found in a depth of approximately 30 feet.

Holland Bulbs Return

During the war years, due to Holland being under German occupation, the shipment of flowering bulbs to Canada, such as tulips, daffodils, hyacinths, crocuses, was cut off. Though shipping facilities are not back to normal, nor are likely to be for some time, substantial consignments of bulbs of all kinds are to be made from Holland to Canada this fall. The first large shipment left Rotterdam on September 3 and was due in Montreal about September 18.

From Montreal the bulbs will go to commercial distributors in Toronto. Other consignments of bulbs are expected in time for fall planting.

Fertilize for '47

The end of harvest is a good time to consider the past year's operations, and prepare a tentative plan for next year. Why was the clover thicker, the oats plumper, or the cows more content in some fields than in others? Was it just an accident, the result of weather conditions, or was the soil of some fields more abundantly supplied than others with organic matter, lime and mineral plant foods?

These questions can best be answered by having the soil tested. This is generally done free of charge by agricultural colleges or some fertilizer companies. However, care must be taken that the samples are truly representative of the areas. In order that the job be done accurately, it is wise to first write to the soil testing laboratory for sampling instructions.

A few weeks after the crop has been harvested, is the best time to sample fields, according to G.R. Snyder of C-I-L. Chemical and biological activities are still taking place at very nearly the same rate as when the crop was growing. The soil is neither too wet nor too dry for accurate mixing. Early action is especially necessary when one is considering the application of lime, or the fall fertilizing of pasture fields. Lime can be applied more conveniently in September and early October, when the weather is dry and the ground firm enough to permit trucking the lime direct to the field.

While pastures can be fertilized in the spring, most experts now favor the fall treatment. Between late September and mid-October is the time most favored in Eastern Canada. Extra benefits are less winter killing and earlier, stronger spring growth.

Apple Growers See New Machinery at Oka

Members of the Pomological Society of Quebec recently toured the orchards of the Trappist Fathers at Oka. The visitors witnessed a colored film showing "The Enemies of the Apple Orchard". They also saw the new Niagara Liqui-duster sprayer in action, and the Bartlett Grader. With the new sprayer, dusting powders may be applied in dry weather. The apple grader is a machine equipped with rubber discs which separates apples according to size at the rate of 150 bushels per hour.

The orchards, which cover about 90 acres, were visited. They contain 4,000 fruit trees, mostly McIntosh, Lobo, Wealthy and Melba. The crop this year is medium, but double that of 1945. According to the Rev. Father Fernand, supervisor, the sprayings and dustings as practised at Oka prove that the sulphur mixture is essential during the primary sprayings and wherever scab epidemics are prevalent. At all other times, the use of mild sulphur is advantageous as it does not burn the foliage, the real "lungs" of the trees. Mild sulphur experiments will be continued next year.

Roswell Thomson, President of the Pomological Society, thanked the officials of the Institute of La Trappe, for their reception. André A. Beaulieu, of the Federal Department of Agriculture, gave information on a new epidemic which has invaded the region — the appearance of the apple red mite. . . There were 300 hundred people present.

Missing the Boat

WITH REGULAR frequency, bulletins reach our desk describing the newest products of British manufacture; and the extent to which this industrial news claims the interest of editors, is evidenced in the many newspapers which quote these items.

The United Kingdom is indeed faced with the necessity of establishing export markets. But not only in word and gesture, but in actual fact, British industry is proving itself wide-awake to post-war opportunities. . . The other day in a local retail store the proprietor was marking up a consignment of linen goods from overseas, and in casual conversation he remarked on their quality — far superior to anything yet in circulation from Canadian sources, he claimed.

There is ample evidence, that labor strife and interruption in production are now holding up the flow of Canadian goods — not only to the denial of home needs (which is bad enough, for instance, in such urgent demands as building materials) — but worse still, at the expense of Canadian commerce at large. The results will be long-felt and costly: export markets mean more employment, and with Canada missing the export boat, labor itself will be counting the future cost of these delays.

Immunize !

NATIONAL Immunization Week will be observed in Canada from September 29 to October 5. The Health League of Canada at this time calls special attention to the necessity of immunizing against those scourges of childhood — diphtheria, whooping cough, scarlet fever and smallpox. It is a tragedy that these diseases, so largely preventable, still exact their toll of death and disability from Canadian children.

The present increase in cases of polio, or infantile paralysis, has attracted nation-wide attention. The average number of cases of this disease has been 760 a year, since and including 1940. Over the same period there have been 628 deaths from whooping cough alone in a single year — on an average close to 17,000 cases of whooping cough, nearly 3,000 cases of diphtheria and over 17,000 cases of scarlet fever a year. (Vaccination fortunately has diminished the ravages of smallpox).

The above figures, however, give us something to think about. To prevent the spread of poliomyelitis we have only ordinary public health measures: there is no way of creating an immunity. In the other communicable diseases of childhood named above, there are specific means of prevention. National Immunization Week calls attention to the urgent need for action by parents. Diphtheria, whooping cough and scarlet fever could be banished from our country if only parents would see to it that their children are immunized.

A Challenge

DURING the war years, there was a continued controversy over the method of selling Victory Bonds. Ranged on one side were those who believed that maximum sales called for vigorous action — the enthusiastic use of press, radio, parades, contests, public addresses and hard-driving salesman. In the opposing ranks were those who believed that Canadians did not need this "ballyhoo" to rouse them into action — that citizens of this country were intelligent and would buy bonds just as freely without benefit of these stimulants.

That controversy was never settled. . But the sale of Canada Savings Bonds next month may reveal in a small way the merits of the belief that Canadians know how to help themselves.

There will be none of the urgent sales atmosphere of the Victory Loan issues, nor the use of the vast sales force which used to knock at practically every door in Canada. Except for the organization of payroll sales by employers, and a partial coverage of the general public by regular investment dealers, citizens will act strictly on their own initiative. They will make up their own minds about buying and how much they shall buy.

It will not be appropriate to compare the results of past Victory Loans with the results of Canada Savings Bond sales. Behind the purchase of Victory Bonds was the desire to perform a patriotic duty, to take an active part in winning the war, as well as the desire to build up a reserve of savings. . Now citizens have but one reason to buy Canada Savings bonds — to carry on this habit of saving money, of building up a greater personal security, in the same way they found so beneficial in war days. And this time there will be no sales pressure, and no urgent appeal to buy for the sake of the country.

This sale of Savings Bonds will truly be a challenge to initiative possessed by Canadians in their own interests.

A NOTE of encouragement to some of our upper-grade scholars — those who returned to school with martyrdom in their mien and protest in their hearts — appears in this paragraph from one of our exchanges:

"Present cash is no criterion of future earning power. Today's easy money will not — cannot last forever. Young people must look ahead and realize that to prepare themselves for a competitive future they should finish high school if possible. To do otherwise would be folly."

BASIC ENGLISH FOR NEW CANADIANS

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

Winston Churchill, in an address some time ago, made a special plea for the teaching of Basic English. He laid particular stress upon the value of this simplified English as an introduction to the language among people of other tongues. . .

The problem of initiating foreign immigrants into the Canadian way of life has never been really tackled on a Dominion-wide scale. Some of the churches have done good work in this connection, and in recent years the Community Welfare Council of Ontario has carried on an educational campaign under the direction of its New Canadian Committee. The Committee has just issued a little book, written in Basic English, which gives a brief outline of Canadian history, the origin and growth of its national institutions, and the qualifications required for Canadian citizenship. The following is a quotation from the preface:

"The New Canadian has come to Canada to better his position in life. He did this for the sake of his family rather than for himself. In this book you will read about the slow change of this country from a wilderness, to a colony, to a dominion and thence to a nation, which we now are. We are a young nation, but a great nation. Let us be proud of this expansion, and look to tomorrow, when we shall, without fear and hate, become one of the greatest nations, able to help people less happy than ourselves."

— It will be seen from this example that Basic English can convey ideas in the briefest form and in simple terms. There are said to be some 500,000 words in the English language; in Basic English, only 850 of these are used. The Community Welfare Council of Ontario is to be commended for its pioneer work in bringing this simplified form of English to the New Canadians as an introduction to loyal citizenship. Many of these people can speak several European languages fluently, but not much English, and their minds are thus closed to Canadian ideas. In too many cases their loyalties are with their homelands.

This problem will have to be faced in a thorough manner when the new immigration movement proposed by the Senate gets under way. With this movement in view, the Ontario Government intends to launch a widespread educational program in citizenship. The program will be divided into two phases: (a) a course in Basic English for foreign immigrants, and (b) a course in citizenship, geography, history, constitution and systems of government. The course will be free to all citizens in every community throughout the province.

Meanwhile the Community Welfare Council of Ontario is doing valuable work in sponsoring classes for New Canadians who desire to learn the English language. . . Basic English may well prove to be the basis of a true and loyal citizenship for the thousands of immigrants who will come to Canada in the next few years.

SURE RECIPE FOR A SUDDEN DEATH

If this old world has got you down and you want to end it all there is one reasonably certain way of bringing your life to a sudden — if extremely messy — conclusion.

The necessary instrument is a car with worn-out tires, and there are scores of thousands of them on the roads today. If there are spots where the tires are worn to the fabric, if what rubber remains is cut and bubbled, the thing is almost a certainty.

The procedure then is to take the car out on the highway, and of course it adds to the drama of the occasion if the back seat is filled with women and children. The driver puts his foot down hard on the accelerator and speeds his car to fifty or sixty miles per hour. If all goes well presently there is a loud pop and a tire blows out. If it is a front tire the car goes instantly out of control and swings violently into the ditch. With any luck at all it hits another car, or at least a tree or telephone pole. There is a grand crash, and some bloody work for doctors, coroners and undertakers. If a rear tire blows good driving may keep the car on the road, but careful drivers do not travel at high speed on worn-out rubber.

And as he hits the ditch or tree amid the screams of frantic passengers, as the engine leaps back into his lap and the windshield shatters over his head, the driver can have the assurance that the coroner's jury will call it accidental death.

Prize-Fighters Shaped Through "Tough and Traditional Stages"

By FRED KERNER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The most recent of the "White Hopes" — Tami Mauriello, the bartender from New York's Bronx — went the way of all flesh. All flesh, that is, that meets up with one of Joe Louis' fists. It now is history that toughboy Tami didn't even last one round.

Tami's two minutes and nine seconds effort brought up the old argument that the search for a White Hope was a waste of time, pure and simple. It was offered as the weighty opinion of expert observers that:

1. You couldn't find fighting prospects that way.

2. Large chunks of humanity snatched suddenly from trucks, lathes or workshops, tossed into the ring without preparation or background and without any asset but size, couldn't go anywhere in the game.

3. Real fighters had to come up the hard way through the various tough and traditional stages of boxing.

To which other "experts" said: "Phooey!"

Yet there have been fighters, who in spite of coming from the ranks of White Hopers, did make good. The White Hope tourneys were the brain child of Jeff Dickson, a Yank in Paris who was the foremost sports promoter in France in the 30's. Late in the decade, Dickson discovered one Andre Lenglet, a 19-year-old 230-pounder, who worked in an automobile assembly line.

Lenglet was an athlete in a minor way — he cycled and was a sprinter — and it wasn't hard to convince him to take a crack at "la boxe". He entered Dickson's White Hope tournament, one of 130 hopefuls, and swung his way right to the top. After that it was easy sailing and though Lenglet never came close to challenging Louis he made a success of his trade, with more than 30 professional knockouts among his victories.

The tall Parisian won the championship of France and went to England, where he scored two notable victories — against George Cook and Dan McCorkingdale. America came next, and again he piled up a string of wins. But now he has disappeared from the boxing scene.

Had he met Louis! . . Well, you can guess the outcome. But he did disprove one thing, and that was all the fine-sounding expert theories. And he gave encouragement to a lot of other aspirants for the heavyweight crown that someday (but don't put money on it) they might manage to defeat Louis — if he keeps fighting that long.

SHORTAGE OF ORATORS

There have been several comments recently on the dearth of good orators among the public men of today. Apart from Winston Churchill, there is not a single statesman or politician who can stir an audience with the magic of his spoken thoughts. Our own MacKenzie King has never aspired to a reputation as an orator. His speeches are those of the chairman of a board reporting to a meeting of shareholders.

67 YEARS . . . .
43 IN SERVICE

TODAY, after 43 years of service, Charlie Hoare is one of the oldest and most skilled machine tenders in the oldest book-paper mill in the country, at Georgetown, Ontario. Charlie has practically grown up with the industry, and his highly responsible position, as tender of the No. 1 machine, was only gained through his fine record of service and skill. Charlie is a quiet, unassuming man who is devoted to his family of ten. Many of his off-duty hours in summer are spent in tending his vegetable patch. In winter you'll often find him by the radio rooting for his favourite hockey team.

About the time that Charlie started his career in Georgetown, his brother George moved away. But paper must have been in the Hoare's blood, for George too went into the paper industry. Today George does the same work as Charlie—he's a machine tender at the company's Thorold mill.

"THE BEAVER"

Based upon a picture painted exclusively for Carling's.

This is one of a series of illustrations on the subject of the Conservation of our natural assets designed to emphasize the fact that the beauties of unspoiled nature that we enjoy today are a precious birthright which we must protect for tomorrow.

B-3478

Meet "MR. CONSERVATION"

To many of us the beaver is a queer little animal with a flat tail, usually found on the reverse side of the Canadian 5c piece. But to hunters, trappers and woodsmen of Quebec—the beaver is known as the guardian of the waters—as "Mr. Conservation" in person.

By damming small streams the beaver makes ponds which store water for a slower, more even distribution, preventing floods and droughts. In beaver ponds fish spawn, muskrats make their homes and migratory wildfowl find sanctuary. As old beaver ponds fill up they become rich, moist meadows.

These are the reasons why the beaver is protected by wise conservation laws. But we can do more than protect the beaver—we can emulate him. In many parts of Quebec flood control projects are under way. Such works, vital to the national economy, can be helped immeasurably by a more general awareness of the needs and methods of conservation.

Every Canadian is a shareholder in the vast heritage of wealth and wild life with which nature has endowed us. Every one of us has a vital interest and a duty to preserve that heritage.

CARLING'S

CAREFUL, MADAM, SPARE THAT DISH

London (CP) — A broken dish is a major tragedy in British homes because there may be no replacement for it.

Board of Trade figures show peace has brought no benefit to the dish-buying householder. In May and June of 1944, 11,000,000 cups, mugs and beakers were produced and 8,700,000 went to the home market. In April and June this year production was 10,200,000 but the home folk got only 7,200,000.

In January and February 1944, the civilian at home received 4,300,000 of the 7,000,000 saucers and small plates produced; from April to June, 1946, he received only 4,600,000 of 8,200,000. He still gets only about half the large plates produced.

Miss Helen McElroy, sister of the groom, played the wedding music and during the signing of the register Miss Mae Gordon sang "O Promise Me".

The church was decorated with potted ferns, gladioli, flox and baby's breath.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white, having a sweetheart neckline, full skirt of double net over satin, gathered on the fitted bodice of Tuscan lace, and tiny puffed sleeves with mittens of white net. Her hand embroidered veil was held in place by a fashioned halo and extended the length of her train. She carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. George Witham was matron of honor for her sister, and was attired in a floor-length gown of orchid Façonne crepe and silk net mittens with headdress to match. She carried a bouquet of variegated sweet peas and baby's breath.

Miss Annie Laurie Burke was her sister's flower girl, dressed in a floor-length gown of white embroidered organza over blue crepe with a pale blue satin hair-ribbon. She carried a colonial bouquet of sweet peas in assorted colors.

Mr. Gordon McElroy, of Queen's University, Kingston, acted as best man for his brother. The ushers were Mr. George Witham, of Brownsburg, brother-in-law of the bride, and Mr. Herbert McElroy, of Sutton Junction, Que., brother of the groom.

Q.W.I. Members Are Honored

Three faithful members of the Q.W.I. have been awarded life membership in the F.W.I.C. this past year. Mrs. M. G. McCurdy of Lennoxville W.I., the first recipient, had given long years of faithful services of the Q.W.I. Board as Publicity Convener. The ceremony was performed at her home, as Mrs. McCurdy was unable to attend the conventiton.

Miss Abbie Pritchard, Wyman Institute, received this award at the gathering, which she attended for the 32nd consecutive time, an unbroken record. For 25 of these years she was the provincial treasurer and is now president of her county, Pontiac.

Mrs. C. E. Petch was similarly honored at a recent meeting of the Hemmingford W.I., where she is a member. Mrs. W. G. Smallman, provincial president, attended and made the presentation, referring to the splendid service Mrs. Petch had given at various times on both Provincial and Federated Boards.

Main Courses for Autumn Suppers

(Dom. Dept. of Agriculture, Consumer Section)

Many homemakers claim that supper is one of the hardest meals to plan, but if there is a good file of substantial supper dishes to draw from, this problem is easily solved. The supper main course may consist of a meat and vegetable dish, a cheese or egg dish, hearty salad or vegetable casserole. While these dishes do not appear to offer much variety, the number of combinations possible in each one is practically unlimited.

Variety can often be introduced, also, in the dessert. There are still many delicious desserts using late fruits such as cobblers or cottage puddings, made by topping fruit with slightly sweetened tea biscuit dough, or plain cake batter, baking and serving with a fruit sauce. Baked Brown Betties made with alternate layers of fruit and fine dry bread crumbs, mixed with a little melted fat and sugar, are always popular favorites.

Following are a few recipes which will provide either hearty main courses, or will round out a substantial supper menu. The two cucumber recipes also take advantage of those large or partly ripe cucumbers which may be hard to use up.

Corn Potato Scallop

4 Cups sliced raw potato (cut in ¼-in slices); 2 cups corn cut from the cob (raw or cooked), or drained canned corn; 6 tablespoons chopped green or sweet red pepper, or pimento; ¼ cup chopped onion, 2 tablespoons flour, salt and pepper to taste, 1 cup milk, ½ cup grated cheese.

Place a layer of sliced potato in greased caserole, add a layer of chopped pepper and onion, sprinkle with salt, pepper and flour. Repeat layers until all vegetables are used. Pour milk into casserole and bake covered in a moderate oven., 350°F., for 1 hour. Remove cover, sprinkle the top with grated cheese, and return to oven for 10 minutes, or until cheese is melted and top browned slightly. Six servings. The cheese may be omitted and strips of bacon used as a topping.

Stuffed Cucumbers

6 Medium cucumbers, 1 cup sausage meat, ⅓ cup finely chopped celery leaves, 3 tablespoons chopped onion, ¾ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon sage, 1 cup soft stale bread crumbs.

Cut cucumbers in half lengthwise, remove seeds and soft portion with a spoon. Cook cucumbers in boiling salted water for 5 minutes. Drain well. Cook sausage meat, add seasonings and crumbs and mix well together. Pile stuffing in cucumber shells. Place in a greased baking dish and bake in a hot oven, 400°F., for 25 minutes, or until cucumbers are tender. Six servings.

Note: Creamed meat or vegetables may be used in place of the above stuffing.

Cucumber Soup

2 Tablespoons minced onion, 2 tablespoons mild flavored fat, 3 cups diced cucumbers, 1½ cups tomatoes, ½ teaspoon salt 2½ cups of thin cream sauce.

Brown the onion in the fat. Add cucumbers, tomatoes and salt. Cook gently until cucumbers are tender. Then press through a sieve and add to the hot cream sauce. Serve piping hot with toasted bread crumbs.

McLean, of Lachute, spoke on "Education in the Home, School and Church." A second "personal parcel" had been sent to England. A member leaving the community was presented with a book. The International Relations convener was made a member of the U.N.O.

Plans were made to start a School Fair. Mr. Alex Bothwell was present at this meeting and gave a talk on School Fair work and other interesting facts about Argenteuil County. Two members were appointed to pack a food parcel for overseas. Mrs. E. A. Bulley promised to donate a flag to this branch.

Suggestions were given for prizes for pupils of Lachute High School. A talk by Dr. F. W. FitzGerald will be a feature of next month's meeting.

Lakefield had 11 members and five visitors present. Two new members were welcomed. A letter from Mrs. Smallman was read, and suggestion given for next year's Fair list. An interesting paper was given on Education. The raffle of a quilt netted $30.75 — Mrs. Haddon McDonald being the winner.

Mille Isles meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Beardmore, when most of the people in the community were invited to meet Mr. Geo. Logan and discuss the Blue Cross hospital plan.

Morin Heights held no meetings in July and August. At the September gathering 16 members and two visitors were present. Mrs. Moss read a report of the convention in June. A W.I. picnic held in July was a great success. A First Aid kit is to be purchased and placed in the school as a gift from the Institute. A donation of $2 was received from Mrs. J. E. Brown.

Pioneer branch had 16 members and three visitors present. A letter from Mrs. Smallman was read and discussed. A successful salad tea and white elephant sale was held in August. It was planned to make a quilt. The secretary read the speech made by Queen Elizabeth at the National Federation of Women's Institutes in London. The branch decided to send for an address for the "personal parcel" scheme. Mr. James McGibbon, of Lachute, gave a talk "What women are doing in politics today", which proved most interesting.

Upper Lachute - East End meeting was attended by 10 members and one guest. A parcel is to be sent overseas. Sick friends were remembered. An evening was spent in piecing a quilt. A prize of $5 is to be given to the pupil in Grade V who makes the most notable progress during the year.

Demonstrate Jeeps On Farm Work

(Our District Correspondent)

Arundel — Two interesting demonstrations of the "peacetime" jeeps were given here Monday by Messrs. M. Lanctot, A. Cleland and E. Boyd, of Lachute. The first demonstration, that of plowing on the farm of Dr. J. C. Flannagan, left little doubt as to the power and ease of operation of these small vehicles — which was further proven by the operation of a large corn blower on the farm of Messrs. Hugh and Stewart Cooke.
