Annual Labor Day Picnic Proves A Gala Occasion in Brownsburg

Traditional Field Day and Sports Events Staged by B'burg Social & Athletic Club

Brownsburg — Fine weather favored the carnival held by the Brownsburg Social and Athletic Club at the C-I-L picnic grounds on Labor Day. The lovely setting of the grounds was enhanced by brilliant sunshine and masked with abundant foliage of the surrounding maples. Counter-attractions in neighboring centres, and the reluctance of summer cottagers to surrender the lure of the beaches, accounted for the attendance not being as large as expected; nevertheless the ample crowd greatly enjoyed the numerous attractions provided.

Children predominated and participated heartily in the races and games provided for their amusement. The lists were well filled for each event, and contestants took keen interest in the competitions. The little tots started the ball rolling, and as each was provided with a prize, all seemed happy. Good humored banter greeted the apparent slowness of the busy housewives in threading the needles, and eggs rolled about the turf with indestructible velocity.

As the events reached the higher ages, the contestants became less numerous but competition became more keen. Field events held the spotlight for a time, but eventually gave way to the distance races which concluded the sports section. Many worth-while prizes were awarded the winning contestants.

The interest shown in the trap and rifle shooting events absorbed a good proportion of the crowd, and some close scores were registered.

A selection of Scottish airs played on the bagpipes provided the musical part of the program. The instrumentalists were attired in the regulation Black Watch uniforms.

Fireworks at night attracted a large crowd and the display was interesting and colorful. Old-time dancing rounded out the day, while the less active folk sat around and enjoyed themselves.

The numerous concessions did a flourishing business. "Bingo" seemed to be the most popular, with the fish-pond and "under and over" a good second. Pony rides were a feature attraction for the kiddies and the little steeds must have longed for the conclusion of what to their riders was a pleasant day.

Carillon Taxpayers Vote on Sidewalks

Carillon — Voting by ballot took place Tuesday to register public opinion for or against an expenditure for repair of the Carillon sidewalks. It is reported a one-vote majority of the taxpayers, and a valuation majority of $1,500, was cast in favor of the improvements. Cost of the project is estimated at approximately $1,500.

STORM DISRUPTED PHONE AND LIGHTS ON RIVER-FRONT

(Our District Correspondent)

Cushing — The electric storm that swept through Cushing on Saturday night left several transformers with burned-out fuses, and all of the telephone lines disrupted for several days.

Blaze by Lightning Seen Across Ottawa River

The fire seen at a distance by Cushing residents, caused by Saturday night's electric storm, is reported to have been at the house and barns of Trafford Little, a man well known in Cushing — his former home having been on the Ontario side of the Ottawa River from Cushing West. It is recalled a tragedy was enacted at his former home, before his parents owned it, when several of the Cook family were murdered there by an irate hired man.

LABOR DAY EXODUS OF SUMMER FOLK

(Our District Correspondent)

Cushing West — The usual Labor Day exodus has taken place, and the Cushing community is a "deserted village" this week. The C.N.R. ran a special train to the city Monday evening which picked up a crowd at both stations, besides those who returned to the city by auto and motorcycle.

CUCUMBERS BOUNTIFUL

Taber, Alta. (CP) — A record cucumber crop, amounting to approximately 1,500 tons, is expected to be harvested here, reports indicate. There has been a 50 per cent increase in cucumber acreage over the last year, when an approximate 300 acres were grown under contract.

Speaks on 'Better Homes Through Chemistry'

Douglas Walkington, of Montreal, who will address Rotarians and their guests at a "Ladies' Night" in Brownsburg this evening. The speaker's topic will be "Better Homes Through Chemistry". Mr. Walkington is employed by Canadian Industries Limited.

Two Montrealers Hurt in Crash

Late Saturday afternoon in the stream of westbound traffic, a Montreal car crashed into the rear of a station wagon in charge of Ernest Brunelle, which was parked on the east side of Bethany Street near the Catholic Church. The three occupants of the car were heading in the direction of Montebello for the holiday week-end. Marcel Latendresse and Romeo Emond received injuries about the head and neck; they were taken to the surgery of Dr. Marc Papineau for treatment. The third man escaped unhurt. Their car, in a damaged condition, was taken to a local garage and the travellers proceeded on their journey by other means.

Det. Leopold Dauphin investigated the accident.

Other minor mishaps were reported here during the busy week-end, but nothing of a serious nature.

Lake Resident Passes

Summer residents of Lake Louisa were grieved to learn of the sudden death of Mr. A. W. Whiting, of Montreal, which occurred at his home in the city on Wednesday. Although subject to heart trouble, Mr. Whiting was in apparent good health and had driven home from his summer camp on Monday afternoon. The funeral will take place from Collins Funeral Parlors, at Sherbrooke and Girouard, Montreal, on Saturday at 2 o'clock.

Sympathy is extended to the bereaved family.

Posthumous Honor For Late Officer Of Engineers

In honor of the late Major Douglas Harvey McCallum, D.S.O., a lake in Manitoba has been officially named "McCallum Lake" — according to information received here by his mother, Mrs. D. E. Cooke, of Beech Ridge.

Major McCallum served overseas with the Royal Canadian Engineers, and was killed in action July 25, 1944, while engaged in bridging the River Orne. In recognition for gallantry at this scene of action, he was awarded the D.S.O. posthumously. . . This later tribute to his services, the naming of a lake in the Granville area of Manitoba, has been approved by the Geographic Board of Canada — notification having been sent recently to his widow in Montreal.

The late Major McCallum was a native of Vankleek Hill, Ont.

6-Year-Old Child Killed by Auto At Brownsburg

YOUNGSTER AT PLAY RAN INTO PATH OF APPROACHING CAR

On the Brownsburg Road at 6.30 o'clock Sunday evening, a six-year-old boy, Sylvio "Junior" Hardie, was fatally struck by a car while running across the highway. Driver of the auto was Edouard D'Amour, of Rigaud, Que., who was proceeding in the direction of Lachute when the youngster ran into the road. The accident occurred at Lepine's Bridge, near the Brownsburg Lumber Co. plant at the outskirts of Brownsburg. Carried to the home of his mother, Thelma Hardie, near the scene of the mishap, the child was attended by Dr. A. R. Côté, but died of abdominal injuries less than an hour after being struck.

At the inquest held Monday morning at Brownsburg police station, with Dr. Côté presiding as district coroner, the jurors were informed that the driver had swerved his car off the pavement in an effort to avoid the child. It appeared that the boy had been throwing things into the river, then running to the other side of the bridge to see the objects floating downstream. Claude Dumas and Claude Cyr, two Lachute boys, were approaching the bridge on bicycles, and were eyewitnesses to the mishap. Testimony was given also by Det. Leopold Dauphin, provincial police officer at Lachute, who investigated.

The jury returned a verdict of accidental death, exonerating the driver of all blame.

Four-Leaf Clover Of Mammoth Size

Mike Polly, who works at the Kilmar Mine, made an unusual find while 'prospecting' a clover crop the other day. On the farm of Morris McAndrew at Harrington East, he picked a four-leaf clover which he claims a whopper for size. He has the leaf preserved between the pages of a book, but he brought to The Watchman a diagram traced around it; the clover measures 13 inches in circumferences, or 4½ inches broad (exceeding the width of two columns on this page)

Wesley Freeland Guest Speaker at Verdun Rotary

BUILDING OF CHARACTER SEEN AS ESSENTIAL TO WORLD PEACE

Montreal — The tools of power are the lever, the wedge, the level plane and the wheel, said Wes Freeland, president of Brownsburg Rotary, who was guest speaker at the Verdun Rotary Club's weekly meeting. It is significant to notice, he disclosed, that the Rotary symbol is a wheel, which denotes power. The Rotary Club uses its form of power, power of service, to develop the useful mental and spiritual power in people through its four objects, fellowship, vocational service, community service and international service.

Mr. Freeland, a graduate of the University of Toronto, is now in charge of the mechanical maintenance and design department of the C-I-L Ammunition Division at Brownsburg.

Character is another main part of power, and when we said that Germany couldn't possibly win the war, because they had no tin, rubber, a Maginot Line or other materials with which to fight, we were wrong. They had character to carry them through, but theirs was bad character, and it was not enough to hold them up when they underwent the constant bombardment of our planes.

On the other hand, he explained, England had good character. When former Prime Minister Winston Churchill made his appeal to the English people to fight, and did not promise them a soft living after, but offered them blood, sweat, toil, and tears instead, it brought their great character out, and helped immensely to pull them through.

Character Is Power

The power of a nation is determined by the character of a nation, and this was proved in the last war.

A large country is not necessarily strong. All the strong nations of the world, such as Egypt, Greece, Rome, Spain, were all small, but they lost their leadership when their character deteriorated with easy living. They were not great because of their wealth, their position or their size, but because of the good character they once possessed.

Mr. Freeland said that many people say that peace is an impossible task, that it will never be accomplished. It must start with the individual, and good character, he said. If we want it, we must strive to develop good character, not only in ourselves, but in others as well.

We are now living in a world of 'getting'. People want to get more wages, more profits, and less work. We must reconstruct the values of good character for the power to get peace.

Mr. Freeland finished his talk by saying "We have a place to stand. We have the power. Use that power, and let us move the world. Power of character developed through Rotary can move the world. We must move the world."

Mr. Freeland was introduced by President Sam Ross and thanked by Rotarian Bill Peterson.

SOMETHING WRONG HERE

Winnipeg (CP) — A Winnipeg resident reports that while visiting in Saskatchewan recently, a plane was seen to land in a ploughed field near a town. A farmer got out with two empty milk bottles and went into a store. He reappeared with full bottles and took off in his plane.

Halcyon Days of Eggs 11-Cents Dozen

A retired merchant stepped in this week bearing an exhibit of rare interest — a daybook from the gay 90's which listed the following sales at a local grocery and drygoods establishment:

Butter 17c lb.; Pork 11c lb.; Tobacco 5c plug; Eggs 11c doz.; Nails 3c lb.; Rice 4c lb.; Tea 25c and 35c lb.; Codfish 7c lb.; Molasses 4½c lb.; Boots $1.50 pair.

Meditating on the current prices (Butter 65c; Eggs 55c - 65c; Tea $1.05 - $1.15; Pork 33c - 38c lb.) we moderns may well feel, in reversal of the old aphorism, that we were "born 50 years too late".

Death Ends Fine Record of Service In Community

LATE MRS. H. M. GALL ACTIVE WORKER IN MANY SPHERES

Another sterling character in the life of this community was removed by the death of Mrs. H. M. Gall, which occurred yesterday morning at her home in east ward. The wife of H. Mossman Gall, postmaster of Lachute, she was the former F. Mabel Wilson, of Gould, Que. As a teacher at the old Lachute Academy, she is happily remembered in that role by many of the older generation who were among her pupils. She came to Lachute in 1905, and was married in 1912 — 35 years ago this month — at her home in Gould.

The late Mrs. Gall through her married years left a mark of kindly and continued activity in this town. As a social and community figure she was identified with every deserving project, and her efforts were valued by her fellow workers. She was a devoted member of the Presbyterian Church, the Women's Institute and the Red Cross, a life member of the Women's Missionary Society also a staunch helper in many patriotic and charitable campaigns.

Although suffering a heart ailment for the past few years, she had remained intermittently active in these interests. Last Sunday she appeared in her regular place with the choir of the Margaret Rodger Memorial Church. She was stricken with a heart seizure Tuesday night, and on Wednesday morning passed to her reward, among those who have achieved much benefit to fellow humanity.

Left to mourn her passing are her husband and son, Squadron Leader Wilson Gall, serving with the permanent R.C.A.F. in Montreal. Her elder son, Lt. Hugh Gall, was killed in action with the Black Watch R.H.R. three years ago in France. There remain also two grandchildren, Bill and Sandra Gall, and a neice, Mrs. A. Annesley, of Bury, Que.

The funeral has been arranged for Friday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock in the Margaret Rodger Church, Lachute, followed by interment at the local cemetery.

Over 475 Children Enrolled for New School Year at Lachute High

22 PUPILS ENTER FROM ST. ANDREWS EAST CONS. SCHOOL

As Lachute High School reopened Tuesday morning to commence another year's activities, the total enrolment of pupils was the highest on record—475 schoolchildren reporting for classes, with still 15 or more expected.

With Principal F. H. J. Royal in charge, there are five newcomers to the teaching staff — Mrs. F. Smith, from Noranda, who will teach in Grade IX and also specialize in Latin, English and History; Mrs. Sylvia Kerr, latterly of Aylmer, Que., in Grade III; Miss Verna Elliott, from Saint John, N. B., who will teach in Grade VIII; Mrs. Alma Walker, of Lachute, teaching in Grades V and VI; and Miss Jean Grainger, of Cookshire (former teacher at Grenville) specializing in Elementary French.

The overcrowding of the school is much in evidence this term. During the holiday period it has been necessary to partition Grade IX classroom to provide another section in this grade; also to adapt the music room in the school basement to be used as another classroom.

The high enrolment is augmented by a contingent of 22 pupils in Grades VIII, IX and X from St. Andrews Consolidated School; these were admitted to Lachute on approval of the Board due to the lack of a teacher at St. Andrews East. There are also four additional children coming from Dunany, eight High School pupils from Lakefield, three new enrolments from St. Augustin, and four Grade X pupils from Grenville — these communities being all within the Central School area.

Clergy from Many Parts Attended Arundel Conf'ce

Arundel — The Fifth Arundel Conference of Clergymen was held at Bevin's Lake recently, the sessions covering five days. The conference was addressed by Father F. Hastings Smyth, Superior of the Society of the Catholic Commonwealth, Cambridge, Mass., who had also been the leader of the Second Arundel Conference. Delegates totalled about 45 people, mostly members of the clergy.

Each morning's work began with the service of Holy Communion, held in Grace Church, Arundel, at 7.15, followed by two lecture periods and group discussions, until 1 p.m. Evening lectures were held from 7 p.m. until 10.30 p.m.

The subject under discussion and the lectures were based on a book now being written by Father F. Hastings Smyth. They illustrated how "the dialectical process is constantly in action in the realms of animate and inanimate nature, and that the same thing is true of human nature and its struggle for true freedom". Man's failure to understand and resolve his problem is primarily due to his inability or refusal to understand this endless process constantly shaping his ends or, more seriously, his deliberate attempt to block the development of dialectical processes, or the attempts of capitalistic society to shape events to their own selfish ends. In all this the Church has consistently failed to fulfill its proper role but, instead, has lined itself up with the "Bourgeoisie" and has been a force for reaction rather than progress. The only hope for world peace and progress it was seen, lay in socialistic revolution. The present day Church, largely a tool of the Bourgeoisie, is ill-equipped to lead the movement which started in the lifetime of Christ and which caused His death. It remains therefore for groups or cells of Christians who understand the Dialectical Analysis of history, and see its evolution in our own time, to stand with the forces of progress such as labor unions, socialist communist parties, etc., regardless of the consequences. Should they fail to do this, they would deny the very laws of the universe through which all progress has been achieved, and this would be true in all three of the vital relationships of man—his relationship to God, in religion; his relationship to his fellow-man, in politics; and his relationship to nature, in economics.

SUFFERS FRACTURE OF SKULL, FALLING FROM SCAFFOLD

John Bradford, 63-year-old resident of Robert Street, while working at the new Rio building on Monday afternoon, fell from a scaffold eight feet above a cement floor, suffering a fracture of the skull. Dr. Roger Lavigne, of Lachute Mills, was summoned to attend the victim, who was removed by ambulance that evening to the Notre Dame Hospital, Montreal. It was reported late yesterday that he was still unconscious and in a critical condition.

Town Extends Boundaries into Jerusalem Parish

At the regular Town Council session last evening, all members were present, under the chairmanship of Mayor Alex Bothwell.

Accounts to the amount of $6,503.33 were approved for payment.

It was moved by Ald. W. Morrissette, seconded by Ald. A. Scott, that subdivision plan of part of Lot 1246 and 1247 of the cadastral plan of the Parish of St. Jerusalem, now be taken over as part of Lachute Town, and that the said parcel of land belonging to J. Horace Lafleur, be approved as surveyed by Louis Mignault, land surveyor.

It was also moved by Ald. Jos. Belanger, seconded by Ald. Stanley Holt, that subdivision plan of part of Lot 753 of the Parish of St. Jerusalem, now part of the property belonging to L. Dawson, be similarly taken over and approved according to a survey taken by Jacques Poulin.

It was further moved by Ald. Omer Laurin, seconded by Ald. Stanley Holt, that the Town purchase from Paul Paquin for the sum of $1.00 a strip of land 50 feet wide, bounded on the east by the Provincial Government garage and on the west by Clyde Street. The mayor and secretary treasurer were authorized to sign the deed — the new street on this site to be called "Paquin Avenue".

It was moved by Ald. Omer Laurin, seconded by Ald. Jos. Belanger, that Aurel Chevrier be hired as caretaker at $25 a week to replace Chas. R. Miller, who had resigned.

An amendment was moved by Ald. W. Morrissette, seconded by Ald. L. Lacoste that Delphis Brasseur be hired at a salary of $30 a week. . A vote was taken and the main motion was carried.

Early Principal of Lachute Academy Dies in California

The many old friends of the late N. T. Truell will be sorry to learn of his sudden death at the home of his daughter (Marjorie), Mrs. O. W. Davidson, 4074 9th Ave., Los Angeles 43, California.

Mr. Truell was principal of Lachute Academy in 1891, continuing for a number of years. He was 81 years of age and had made his home for the last 15 years with his daughter. He died August 15 and was buried in Inglewood Park Cemetery. The Masonic Order conducted an impressive service, assisted by the Episcopal minister.

It is recalled that the late Mr. Truell was an ardent gardener and one can remember when he took several prizes years ago at the Lachute Fair for his garden produce.

Debunking Mediaeval Romance

— L. B. Ecroyd, field service representative of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce; introduction to a radio address promoting the 1947 Clean-Up Campaign.

Would you like to go back with me seven hundred years and have dinner tonight — in a castle? The idea sounds romantic. . .

Now, in the days of knighthood we would have arrived on time at the castle. Being late for appointments was considered rude in those days. The moat surrounding the castle is filled with slimy stagnant water, so we will hold our noses until the portcullis guarding the drawbridge has been raised. Once inside, we would be escorted by our host, Sir John Oldtimes, through passageways, the gloom of which is pierced by the light of an occasional tiny loophole (there are no windows) or by the feeble light of a guttering candle.

In the baronial hall on the second floor is where we will eat. Picture, if you can, a room about fifty feet by one hundred, high ceiling supported by rafters blackened with smoke, dank cold walls covered in part by tapestries, floors strewn with rushes or straw, which is changed none too frequently (so you can imagine the odorous state!). Over an open hearth in the centre of the hall, the traditional roast turns hissing on the spit. In an uncovered pot over the flames, a mixture of vegetables, water and soot, is merrily cooking. At one end of the hall stands the wooden banquet table. . . Seating ourselves at the table without customary hand-washing, we join the digestive fray. (Water, at least clean water, was both scarce and unappreciated, so the dishes used have merely been scraped clear of the previous meal).

Manners are primitive. Putting more than one thumb and two fingers on the joint when carving, was common practice. Emily Post would shudder at the way they shovelled food into their mouths with their knives — but they didn't, they were just careful in this hazardous practice.

Then the food is served, and everyone makes a grab for the spices — that is, everyone except Johnny; he has an impediment in his reach. Meat was tainted most of the time so, as a result, spices were used in great quantities to disguise the taste! Spices were in great demand and costly. In fact, the search for additional sources of spices is sometimes credited with the discovery of America.

During the meal, dogs roam freely around the cheerless place waiting for the garbage to be thrown from the table. Garbage cans and sanitation inspectors were unknown in those days.

Bathing was considered somewhat of an immoral activity. The rule was that a bath should be taken only for reasons of health—when ordered by the doctor! The heating of the castles was so poor that most persons kept their clothes on indefinitely. Hair coats, worn next to the skin, were popular — and you can imagine what they were like!

Yes, these people lived in unbelievably dirty times. And don't let anyone persuade you that people were healthier, or lived longer. The death rate, especially among children, was appalling compared to ours. From time to time, disease and pestilence swept through the country. One plague, the Black Death, carried off one third of the population of England. In some places, there were not sufficient survivors left to bury the dead. Only the extremely healthy survived, and even these were more unhealthy than our average citizen of today.

The castles housing the leaders of their day were the headquarters of small, unhealthy, ill-governed communities — unclean and unwholesome in appearance and civic pride. These two conditions seem to go hand in hand, down through the centuries. Without question we have come a long way since those mediaeval days, but there is a lot more to be done.

The Breeder's Part in Bacon Production

From an address given by S. E. Todd, Managing Director of the Industrial and Development Council of Canadian Meat Packers, at the recent annual Field Day of the Ontario Swine Breeders' Association.

Breeders of hogs for the export markets do not fully determine the character of the bacon but they do determine, in the main, the type of the bacon. Feeding and marketing methods of commercial producers have a great deal to do with the final character of bacon. However, the fundamental requirement is that the type of hog shall be such that it is capable of being grown, fed and processed into ideal bacon. The breeders of pure-bred hogs set the limits of possibilities in bacon production.

One of the important reasons why I took up the work in which I have been engaged since 1919, was that it afforded opportunity to look at the livestock industry from the viewpoint of the end product. It seemed to me then that it was almost a virgin field, which was little cultivated. There was a considerable clash between the ideas of the breeders of animals and the requirements of consumers of meats. In some ways, there appeared to be a "tug-of-war" over the breeders' mandate of "take what I give you" and the consumers' demand "give me what I need". In the course of time breeders learned to adapt themselves more nearly to consumers' needs.

For about ten years prior to 1939 breeders of hogs, scientific and official agriculture and meat packers had been developing an intensive study of the best kind of bacon hog breeding stock. Since 1921 the Joint Swine Committee had been working to that end. The suitability of our foundation stock and our production methods were being scrutinized from the standpoint of the end product — bacon.

It had been agreed that simple registration that a hog was of accepted breeding was not good enough. Advanced Registry was inaugurated, testing stations established and when the war broke in 1939 the hot question was — how to bring together the so-called standards of the show-ring and the scientific data that had become available through Advanced Registry and the test stations.

We are now, we hope, beginning to emerge from the aftermath of war. Although still uncertain of our footing, we are sensing that we should recognize the fundamentals on which we were building towards a stable hog industry.

Stated in a few words they are:

We will have to face competition in export bacon markets;

Domestic consumers will be exacting in their choice of bacon and pork products;

The type of hog we develop is vital to the production of the best bacon;

The best bacon in large quantities will establish for itself the best price.

Canada has the basic conditions to meet and fulfill these requirements.

I have already referred to the fact that the business and the craft of the breeders of foundation stock is to modify their animals as may be necessary. In other words, the success of your business in the future depends on your supplying the commercial hog producer with stock that has within itself the capacity to produce bacon that will meet the competition of the best bacon of any competitor. Will your breeding stock match up to that requirement?

I am going to suggest to you some questions which may possibly be worthy of study and research.

Denmark has proven that there is no clash between attaining ideal quality bacon and the other fundamental qualities of a good constitution, prolificacy, easy feeding and early maturity.

In the early days when the great bulk of the importations of Large White breeding stock was being made, the late William Davies repeatedly pointed out that this breed would require considerable modification to become an ideal bacon hog. The breed which we call Yorkshires has been modified and improved by Canadian breeders. So far as my observation goes I have never seen English bacon on the British market equal in type to the best bacon. It is relatively heavier of shoulder, large in the bones and is at its best in weights heavier than sizeable bacon. The question that always arises with me is — do we really gain anything by fresh infusions of this blood? Will a more intensive and scientific selection of our own hogs not serve our purposes better?

I believe there is great value in competitions in the show-ring. However, I am also sure that no man can go into a ring and, after looking over the class, point to one and say it is the best breeding pig. The best he can do is to judge that on that day and in the condition in which he finds it this one appears to be the best breeding pig. In doing so he is appraising two things — the appearance of the pig and the skill of the exhibitor. Both of these factors are important and in my opinion should be preserved. However, science is now available to the pig breeder. I should like to urge that a study be made of how the scientific data available through the Advanced Registry should be combined in the show-ring with the judges' placing so as to give the best information to breeders on the real value of breeding stock.

Our Yorkshires are considerably different from the original importations of Large Whites. The process has consisted of selecting hogs that differed from the original type. Such selections being made without real scientific knowledge have given the normal results of the trial and error methods of operation. At times the breed has gone too far in one direction then too far in the opposite way. To me this does not indicate carelessness in breeding, but, simply that breeders have been honestly trying to get a type that would produce the ideal bacon. I have some very vivid recollections of conversations I had with breeders and scientists in Denmark. Their idea appeared to be to ignore fine points of appearance and to let their hogs take any form that would bring the greatest returns. Some of their remarks shocked me at the time but I haven't been able to live them down. When I said we didn't like lop ears they remarked that the British consumer didn't get the ears. When the war broke we were on the way to investigating a number of things about our hogs. I suggest that intensive research should be renewed.

May I further emphasize the point that your job is to produce a race of hogs that will consistently yield an ideal type of bacon. I am using throughout the word "type" to endeavor to segregate that thing which is inherent in the blood lines from the effects of rearing, feeding and marketing. Now I come to what used to be very ticklish ground. Perhaps it is not so ticklish today. In following the ideal you may run up against some accepted ideas of proper Yorkshire type. But should not ideas at all times be modified in the direction of the ideal. The Canadian Yorkshire is already a modified type. I do not know how far you will have to go but, if you hitch your wagon to a star and, guided by the scientific data you now should be in a position to obtain, travel boldly along the road indicated, you will finally have a breed of hogs that is truly your own because you will have made it. In doing this you will perform a fundamental service to the Canadian hog industry and at the same time secure your own future and that of your children after you.

Vankleek Man Wins Quebec Gladiolus Sweepstake Award

Montreal—S. G. Mode, of Vankleek Hill, Ont., captured three first prizes and a second in the 13th annual exhibition of the Province of Quebec Gladiolus Society at its two-day showing in Montreal last week.

Mr. Mode's awards included the grand sweepstakes and open championship, and for producing the best spike of Elizabeth the Queen.

A. Stinson, of Montreal, held a prominent showing as he captured three first prizes for his exhibits. He was awarded his blue ribbons for the best spike in the show, best spike in open class and best basket in show.

Other winners included were H. E. Seale and J. W. McIntosh, of Ottawa, and Prof. Frank Palmer, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, Ont.

Macdonald College Expert Heads Poultry Science Association

Prof. W. A. Maw, chairman of the department of poultry husbandry at Macdonald College, was elected president of the Poultry Science Association at the annual convention held recently at Clemson College, Clemson, South Carolina. He is the first Canadian to be elected in the office. Professor Maw is co-chairman with Jacques de Broin of the Quebec Poultry Industry Committee.

GOOD PICKLE CROP

Charlottetown (CP) — Cucumbers for pickles are pouring in by the thousands of pounds at Matthews-Wells processing plant here. The The plant has a capacity of 2,250,000 pounds of cucumbers which are soaked in brine before being shipped to Guelph, Ont., for further processing.

USES FOR JACK PINE

Twenty-four years ago the communications department of the Canadian Pacific Railway, more or less as an experiment, installed a new type of telegraph pole along 31 miles of track of the Algoma district in Northern Ontario. The poles were made from the lowly jack pine, long considered the comparatively useless poor relation of the Canadian forest, treated with creosote — the first installation of any consequence in Canada.

In order to provide increased clearances for new automatic block signal wires, 495 of the poles in this section are to be replaced with longer poles this year. But so successful was the "experiment" of 1923 that many of the shorter poles are to be used elsewhere on the system, and not a single pole has had to be replaced since that time due to rotting.

In the top picture some of the poles can be seen, still as good as new, along a stretch of the main line just west of Ramsey, Ont., with a standing jackpine snow break, effective and economical, on the right hand side of the track. At lower left C.P.R. officials test two of the poles to discover the penetration of creosote, as forestry experts look on, and the outer rings on the pole sections in the third picture show the 100% penetration of the creosote.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP

BE PROUD OF YOUR COMMUNITY

If we didn't think a whole lot of Our Town we wouldn't live in it. Take stock of its advantages — for example — cleanliness — pleasant residential districts — beautiful parks — excellent educational facilities — modern stores!
It pays to support local athletics—to take an active personal interest in civic affairs—to lend a helping hand to any campaign aimed at bettering general conditions. Yes, it pays you—in the satisfaction you get out of being a part of the world around you—that's "Good Citizenship". It pays the community by making it the best place in which to live.

You can help this public service effort. Make a note of some of the little things which, in your opinion, contribute to Good Citizenship.

September

THE BEGINNING of school after the long vacation comes as a sharp reminder that summer is nearing its end. Children who have enjoyed weeks of fun are back again in the routine of their lessons. For the youngsters, the opening of school comes as something like a death sentence, but most parents have anticipated the day with relief, knowing that their children will be under the watchful eye of teacher, and less likely to be in mischief around home.

September is generally a pleasant month, with temperatures at a comfortable level. Heat waves have burned themselves out, and the cooler nights make for comfortable sleeping. Each season has its pleasures in anticipation, and at this time thoughts turn to autumn and its thrills — the mellow restfulness of the countryside; the glories of multi-colored foliage; the tang of burning leaves. And last but not least, a renewed devotion to our indoor hobbies, neglected through the summer season.

September marks the end of the harvest. Granaries bulge with grain so badly needed in a starving world. In Canada we are fortunate to enjoy so many of Nature's blessings.

Back to School

MORE THAN 2,000,000 students and 60,000 teachers in Canada's primary and secondary schools are now resuming a most important task — development of well-balanced, well-adjusted individuals and citizens.

The growing conception of education as the preparation of pupils for active effective participation in community life and intelligent living has shifted the emphasis from the material to the human. Teaching of the child rather than teaching of the subject is an ideal of education definitely accepted by thoughtful people.

This aim has developed out of our growing knowledge of the intricate emotional and psychological influence of youth on maturity, and as and aid in dealing with the complexities of modern life. The pupil is regarded as a member of a social group who has to live not only with himself but with other people, thus reducing to comprehensible and intensely individual terms many great human problems.

That the execution of such an aim implies great effort and responsibilities is perhaps the obvious remark. But, these, too, can be interpreted in terms of the individual. Citizen, parent, teacher and pupil each must assume a share in the task, though at short range the role of formal school education may seem larger proportionately.

We hear much these days of co-operation, understanding and long-term plans for making the world a better place to live in. The beginning of a new school year is the opportunity for working toward the realization of these tremendous goals.

EVER SINCE the Hon. Ian Mackenzie announced he would be married in the uniform of the kilt, wags have been wondering who will wear the pants in the Mackenzie family.

THE BRITISH are suffering from a shortage of dollars. — That's been our personal trouble for years.

Some Prospect for Cheaper Homes

THE ANNOUNCEMENT of Reconstruction Minister Howe that Canada will build more houses this year than "ever before", is good news. While the objective of 80,000 units may not be reached, it seems a certainty that the 70,000 figure will be passed. According to the Minister, 20,000 will be built under Government plans, and 50,000 to 55,000 under private arrangements. If the building industry keeps on at the present rate, our housing needs should be met by the end of next year.

There is a bright ray of hope for prospective builders in Mr. Howe's assertion that building costs have passed their peak. With materials more plentiful and with efficiency in construction increased, the cost of a new home may soon be down to a more sensible figure.

A Beacon of Light

WHEN Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King attended the opening ceremonies of the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto he emphasized a point which many Canadians fail to realize — that we can hold and sustain our own prosperity only insofar as success attends the immense efforts which must be made to restore the economic health and vigor of Great Britain and other countries overseas.

Canada has grown up. We have developed from a nation to a world power in the last 20 years. We stand second among world exporters and, as the Prime Minister pointed out, rank fourth among the Allied powers in contribution to victory and world freedom. Our prosperity is definitely linked with world prosperity, yet there is a large group of isolationist-thinking Canadians whose members believe that we can live within ourselves and still progress. They want us to bury our heads in the sand and ignore the plight of other countries. Such a belief is pure folly, because the present-day problems are world-wide and ones which can be met only by international co-operation.

Great Britain, at the present time, is undergoing a severe economic crisis. Her peoples are living under conditions even more austere than the war years. It is a sad reward for a power which played such a great part in the fight for freedom. In view of our great moral debt to Britain, it is our obligation to provide even greater assistance than we have been giving in the past. We must give and aid to the very limit of our capacity, because a broken Britain would result in a poorer Canada.

Prime Minister King asks that Canada's progress in the redirection of our efforts to peace-time pursuits be, at this time of all moments, a beacon of light to cheer and guide countries less fortunate than our own. Here is the challenge to all Canadians. May we meet it with a determination to succeed.

THERE NEVER was a period in the history of mankind that a strong moral leadership was more needed than today. Unless there is moral re-armament among all races, creeds and colors and unless we, as individuals, actuate ourselves on Christian principles, then nothing short of Heaven itself can stem the cataclysm that awaits us.

A SUMMER cottage acts something like having a hobby. Leading authorities all say that every man as he grows older should cultivate a hobby, and to many men, a summer cottage is just the hobby needed to maintain their interest in life and keep them young.

"MY WEEK"

By R. J. DEACHMAN

There were only five members of The Mourners' Club at the last meeting, five and a guest. The club is called "The Mourners' Club" because it never mourns. It was born at the time of Dunkerque when hope deferred made sick the hearts of men. When the darkness of that disaster faded and the light came our chins went up — we have kept them up ever since.

We rambled all over the dollar crisis and back again. We discussed Socialism and Communism, dealt too with the moving struggle of Britain. There are plenty of things to discuss in Ottawa, there always will be. But walking down to the office next morning this crossed my mind: if five Russians had been sitting in a restaurant in Moscow what could they have talked about. They could not have critical Socialism. If they had spoken of Capitalism it would have been with clenched teeth and muttered implications, nor could they have found any fault with the government nor suggested better ways of doing things. To have mentioned possible changes in the personnel might have landed them in an Arctic lumber camp. Life must be dull in Moscow. Part of the mind, which functions freely in democratic countries, is blocked off. In time that section atrophies, ceases to function, except among the chosen few. Communism not only inhibits freedom, it restricts the capacity for enjoyment.

I wrote not long ago a letter to a paper in which I pointed out that subsidies represent no gain to the consumer. The people have to pay for the bread they buy. It matters little if the housewife pays it in the price of bread or father foots it in the tax bill.

The reply was to suggest that subsidies were a means of helping the poor who paid little taxes. Do not be fooled by that suggestion; the poor pay taxes. They feel acutely the one they pay. They feel too the result of excess expenditure in its upward pressure on the cost of living. There are two classes of people in Canada and in every other democratic country:

(1) Those who believe that the poor can be helped by taking something from the rich, and —

(2) Those who believe that the solution of our problem will come from a vast increase in production, quite possible under freedom. In this lies the only hope of lifting living standards, lowering costs of living, reducing taxes, thus reducing the need for the so-called remedies now employed, remedies which, in fact, tend always to create the condition they were expected to cure.

What we need in this country is two political parties both based on these definitioins. Number 1 would go on imposing taxes and trying to help the poor, rejoicing in a new found opportunity to punish the rich. The taxes imposed for this world clog the wheels of industry and restrict production. Eventually the second of these groups will come into power. Its task is clearly defined. It will concentrate on increased production and in increased production we will find the means of lowering costs. Then people will be helped, not by contributions that are thrown to them like bones to a dog, but through increasing production to a level which ill provide higher standards for all.

"Play Safe and Pay by Cheque"

Cash Transactions Entail Risk And Inconvenience

Ever sympathized with a friend who mislaid some cash and never found it? It was hard luck . . and so unnecessary.

Your friend couldn't mislay money kept in a Bank of Montreal account, where it would earn interest as well. He'd find a chequebook just as convenient as a roll of bills . . and much safer.

Or perhaps your friend paid cash for something, forgot his receipt and needed one later. That's another unpleasant predicament . . and also unnecessary. If he'd he'd paid by B of M cheque, the missing receipt wouldn't matter because the cheque, when cashed, becomes proof of payment.

You'd do that friend a sound service by suggesting that he open a B of M account. Eric Hibbard, local branch manager, and his staff will welcome the opportunity to look after his interests . . and yours.

HAPPY RELATIONSHIP

Perhaps one of the most noteworthy features of the happy relationship between Canada and the United States is the enthusiasm with which each country enters into the celebrations of the other's holidays. One would have to look far and wide to find the same spirit reflected in any other pair of neighboring states.

NOT A LUXURY

A good school with an auditorium, a gymnasium and a swimming pool might have been classed in the not too long ago as tops in indulgent luxury, but it isn't any more. If we are going to work out an improved future for ourselves and our children, the thing to which we owe highest priority in our thinking is the bettering of our educational facilities.

IGNORES TRAVEL TAX

A report of the "minister of travel and publicity" for the province came to our desk the other day. It told a lot of things but did not inform us how much travel tax (such as gasoline, motor vehicle permits, etc.) was collected or how much was spent on making Ontario highways more inviting to tourists. Guess we had the wrong book sent to us; we're not much interested in history.

Conley - Davidson

The marriage of Miss Doris Jean Davidson, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rennison A. Davidson, of Montreal, and Mr. Lyster Charles Conley, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Conley, of Lachute, Que., took place at 5.30 o'clock on Saturday, August 23, at St. Cuthbert's Anglican Church, Park Extension — the Rev. Roland Bodger officiating at the double-ring ceremony. Standards of gladioli decorated the church, the guest pews being marked with white satin bows. Mr. Clark, organist of the church, played the wedding music, and Miss Carol Mayhew sang "O Perfect Love".

The bride was attended by her sister Miss Betty Davidson, and her cousin Miss Eileen Holt. Mr. Gilbert Kilpatrick acted as best man and the ushers were Mr. Kenneth Watchorn and Mr. Herbert Conley.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white satin made with tight bodice and having a yoke of fine net with an appliqué design and trimmed with white seed pearls, her long sleeves ending in a point over the hands. Her shoulder-length veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a halo effect of the same material, and she carried a cascade of white gladioli. Her only ornaments were a pair of gold earrings set with pearls, the bridegroom's gift.

The bridesmaids wore floor-length taffeta dresses, made the same with very full skirts and bustle effect and short sleeves — Miss Davidson in dusty pink and Miss Holt in delph blue. Their headdress was of tulle, in the same shade as their dresses, and held in place by a bandeau of flowers; they carried bouquets of deep pink roses.

The bride's mother wore a heavenly blue crepe dress with navy accessories and a corsage of red roses. The bridegroom's mother wore navy blue crepe with matching accessories, and a corsage of deep red roses.

Sidelight in Los Angeles

When visiting Los Angeles recently as a delegate to the Lions International Convention, we were delighted to receive a pleasing visit from two old friends, Miss Maureen Berniquer and James Foley, of Lachute. They are both occupying good positions and quite happy in their work. "Jimmy", as always is duly recognized as a good sport in the true sense of the word whether it be hockey or golf, and according to the San Francisco Examiner just received "Jimmy" was tops in the Examiner's fifteenth annual Hole-in-One tourney in Lincoln Park's eighth hole. As the 2,163rd contestant took the last of his five shots, not a hole in one had been made. As a matter of fact, no ace had been registered since 1944 in this tournament and "Jimmy" put one 4 feet 8 inches from the pin, thus winning a $25 Victory Bond.

Change Banking Hours On Saturday Mornings

Notices are being displayed at the Bank of Montreal announcing a change in banking hours on Saturday mornings, and customers are requested to do their business from 9 to 11 o'clock instead of from 9.30 to noon, as formerly. The change becomes effective this Saturday.

Briefly, the idea behind the change is to give the bank's staff a better break on their week-end time. The old idea that bankers worked from only 10 to 3 — to the envy of most people — has long been exploded. This was never true, for much remains for the banker to do after his doors are closed.

With the great burden of work on banking personnel, which developed during the war and which has carried into the peace, it has been necessary for bank staffs to work much overtime for a number of years. It is frequently the case on Saturdays, with the traditional public closing at noon, for the staff to be obliged to work on until anywhere from 1 to 3 p.m., which, to say the least, goes hard on plans for a Saturday afternoon outing or a week-end's fishing.

Customers as a whole will be glad to see this relief for the people serving them at the bank, who will thus be helped to a little more leisure time.

Orange Service Held, Grenville United Church

Grenville — Members of the L.O.L. and L.O.B.A. in Grenville and district, with visitors from other parts of Argenteuil County, gathered Sunday afternoon for their annual divine service at the United Church in Grenville. The parade was marshalled by Rt. Wor. L. Tomalty, Grand Marshal of Quebec Provincial Grand Lodge. The service was conducted by the Rev. Bro. A. G. Moore, assisted by the Rev. Bro. G. T. Spriggs, Deputy Grand Chaplain of Quebec Grand Lodge.

The Rev. Mr. Moore in his sermon emphasized the duties of Orangemen, basing his remarks on I St. Peter, 2:17. After the service the members of the Association gathered in the lodge room, where the R.W. Grand Master, Stanley Holt, and others addressed the assembly.

Old Leaves Make Prime Fertilizer

The pungent odor of burning leaves is part of the fall pageant with the acrid aroma seemingly the very spirit of autumn—nevertheless it is a highly wasteful procedure. For as the leaves go up in smoke, there go valuable soil nutrients. In the course of nature these food elements would return to the soil to retain its fertility. But continued gathering and destruction of leaves robs the earth and exhausts its fertility.

The dark brown crumbly material known as humus, so essential to rich soil, is formed by the action of micro-organisms upon plant and animal residues. In its natural state humus is manufactured constantly by the elements of decay. But a thick mass of leaves over the lawn smothers out the grass. To achieve the greatest benefit, therefore, they must be gathered and composted.

Toronto collects more than 8,000 truckloads of leaves from its streets each autumn—writes Lyn Harrington in the C-I-L Oval. Most of these are dumped into ravines that slice through the centre of the city. In spring Toronto gardeners hasten to remove them in a half-rotted condition. They prize the leaf mold, even if the leaf-burning citizens do not.

Variety in the raw materials improves the compost, Miss Harrington states. All garden stalks and lawn cuttings should be thrown in. Sand, fine cinders and sod improves the texture of the pile. Nitrogen compounds like ammonium sulphate, and calcium cyanimide are most often used to hasten fermentation. The pliable black humus can be dug into gardens just like manure, but it has the advantage of being odorless and free from weed seeds.

Many small property owners feel they cannot afford space for a compost pile. But the pile needn't be large. It may be only a small crate, for the leaves pack down into a small space as they decay. The leaves should be piled in a thick mat and thoroughly soaked with water — the chemical ingredients added in proportion to the size of each layer.

Cushing Girl Wed At Presbyterian Church In St. Andrews East

Taylor - Weir

The marriage of Miss Alice Eileen Weir, daughter of Capt. J. Davison Weir, M.B.E., and Mrs. Weir, of Senneville and Cushing, and Mr. Allison Hunt Taylor, son of Mr. George Taylor and the late Mrs. Taylor of Montreal, took place Saturday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, St. Andrews East. The Rev. Dr. William MacMillan officiated and Mrs. W. M. Cottingham played the organ.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of Chantilly lace over satin, with a round neckline edged in satin, fitted bodice fastened in back with satin buttons, long sleeves ending in scallops edged with satin over the hands, the bouffant skirt ending in a circular train. Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion was attached to a heart-draped halo of lace. She carred a cascade bouquet of blush pink and white gladioli.

The attendants, Mrs. Kenneth Weir as matron of honor and Mrs. Melville Leslie, were gowned alike in silver-blue floor length dresses, the draped waist line ending in a soft bustle bow. Half hats of clustered velvet ribbon, in blue, fuchsia and pink matched the colors in their cascade bouquets of gladioli. Miss Judith Taylor, as junior bridesmaid, wore a floor-length gown of shell pink flowered organdy made with small puffed sleeves and sweetheart neck-line. She had a bandeau of Finch roses in her hair and carried an old-fashioned nosegay of Finch roses.

Mr. Graeme Taylor, brother of the groom, was best man and the ushers were Mr. Kenneth Weir, brother of the bride, and Mr. Ray Lyons.

The bride's mother wore a street length gown of periwinkle blue, black accessories and corsage of Sweetheart roses.

The reception was held at the "Stone Hall", Cushing, where gladioli and autumn flowers formed the decorations.

For travelling the bride wore a navy blue crepe bolero suit with white blouse of batiste and Valencennes lace, navy blue hat of corded silk, matching navy accessories, with top coat of cherry red wool and a corsage of gardenias. The couple left to spend their honeymoon in the Laurentians.

Out-of-town guests included: Mr. H. V. Anderson, O.B.E., and Mrs. Anderson, Miss Ethel Johnston, Mr. Arthur Weir, all of Ottawa; Mr. Henderson Weir, of Thorold; Mr. Jack Anderson, of New York City; Dr. Douglas Hawken, of Toronto.

The School Lunch Box

("Health News")

Once again we have arrived at the time of year when our children start back to school, and, as usual this brings up the subject of the school lunch box. Of course, if you don't live too far from the school, it is better for the youngsters to come home for their lunch. However, a great many cannot do this for one reason or another, and the lunch box is the only solution.

If your boy or girl hasn't got a lunch box, it is a good idea to buy one of those metal ones with a small thermos bottle in the top. But, if you can't get one, a cardboard box will do, and a mason jar, or even a large jam or pickle jar, with a water tight screw top, will do instead of the thermos bottle, but will not keep the contents as cold or hot. Cover the box with oilcloth and always keep it freshly lined with wax paper. Wrap everything you put into it in wax paper, too to keep it fresh and protect the box from soiling.

The foundation of the school lunch is the sandwich. Make them of whole wheat or rye bread and fill them with cold meat, fish, cheese or eggs. These will supply the protein necessary for health, and also include the cereal group in the whole wheat or rye bread. The bread should be buttered, since butter is a valuable food and supplies important nutrients your children need. Occasionally, if your child likes it, and most of them do, give him one or two peanut butter sandwiches, but not every day, and mix them with other kinds because they won't supply the same protein as meat or cheese. The most complete protein is supplied by milk and the milk group, but meat and fish are almost equally good. Most vegetable proteins are not complete and do not supply all the essentials, but they are useful in conjunction with the complete proteins.

Every lunch box should contain a small portion of salad, preferably composed of raw vegetables such as grated carrots, celery, tomatoes, shredded cabbage and sliced or chopped green peppers. Some youngsters do not particularly like salads, but they should be taught to eat them because they supply necessary vitamins and minerals. By the way, parsley, which contains more iron than most vegetables and a good supply of some of the most essential vitamins, should be used frequently in the salads. Hard boiled eggs are another suggestion.

For dessert use raw fruit, if available, cooked prunes or apricots, with ginger cookies or some plain cake. Do not put in heavily iced cakes. They are filling, but have very little real food value.

Finally, for the liquid, there is nothing to beat good pasteurized milk, but it is as well to vary the monotony every now and then by using chocolate milk, buttermilk or, in the cold months, hot cocoa or one of the excellent chocolate drink preparations.

If you follow these few suggestions, your child will be properly nourished and will get through the day without getting too tired. However, if you want more information, the Health League of Canada will be glad to furnish it. Just drop a note or a postcard to the Department of Nutrition, Health League of Canada, 111 Avenue Road, Toronto 5, Ont.

SMILE AND JOKE GETS CUSTOMERS SAYS "MA", 72

Early Morning Chore "Healthy" Says Woman News Vendor

By Laurie Graham
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Edmonton (CP) — Mrs. Annie Ruddy, 72-year-old Edmonton newspaper vendor, is proud of her robust health which she says she owes to her "early to bed, early to rise" habit.

The stoutly-built gray-haired native of Chelley, Minn., has been selling papers for the last 17 to 20 years. "It's been a long time, can't remember the exact date, but I've enjoyed every day of it," she said.

Known to thousands of early morning risers as "Ma" she is on the job regardless of the weather and has built up a number of steady customers.

"I greet them all with a smile and a joke. They like it so early in the morning and it makes them feel good."

"I've made a fair living selling papers and I find it very healthy. There's nothing like that early morning air which so many people miss."

Her spare time is spent in the garden or doing crocheting and embroidery work. "There's plenty to do around the house, too, but I manage to get by without too much difficulty."

Mrs. Ruddy is the mother of 11 children, nine of whom are living. Her family, now grown up, are all married. She has 24 grandchildren and seven great grandchildren.

Although she intends to give up selling newspapers this summer, she feels like "sweet sixteen". "My legs are beginning to bother me and I just can't stand the long hours."

"Even if I do give it up, we'll still have somebody selling papers in the household. My husband, Pat, also sells papers and he'll carry on where I leave off".

Mr. Ruddy, a veteran of the First World War, has been selling papers for about 10 years.

"ALONG THE FAIRWAYS"

By Lachute Golf Club's Special Contributor

Seems as if there was very little doing along the fairways on and around the Labor Day week-end. With club championships decided except in the distaff side, we have encountered a calm which is no doubt the lull before the big week-end. Plans are just about complete for the Open Tournament — it should be one of the best.

To begin with, there was no ladies' Wednesday afternoon tournament. The men's Thursday night sweepstake was rained out. In the Ayers Cup for ladies, Bobbie Ogilvie defeated Ruby Parsons, and Fernande Valois eliminated Agnes MacDougall. With the full week-ends ahead, Fernande and Bobbie are wondering when they will be able to play off.

* * *

In the Mixed Team championships, Dr. Jules Lafleur and Shirley Leggett took a close one from Jack Ogilvie and Edith McOuat. We understand one stroke decided it after the handicaps were figured. Net scores turned in for the Labor Day sweepstakes were calculated to whiten the hair of the most hard-boiled Match Committee member.

Dickens Frequented "Bluenose" Hostel

Halifax (CP) — In the yellowed files of the Acadian Recorder, for 1831, is an announcement which reads in part: "The subscriber begs to return thanks to his friends and the public for the liberal support he has received since he opened his board and lodging establishment, and to inform them that he will continue it under the name of "the Acadian Hotel", where ladies and gentlemen may be accommodated and every attention paid to them."

Thus, in the dignified language of the time, a name was born — synonym of Haligonian gentility.

Situated opposite Nova Scotia's 129-year-old Province building, the hotel's "every attention" — which included a well-stocked bar — was paid to names famous in "Bluenose" and world history. It is believed Charles Dickens, when a visitor in Halifax in the early 1840's, frequented the bar.

The original structure was destroyed by fire in 1863. It immediately was rebuilt and again burnt in the late '90's. The brick building which still stands was then erected, but a final death knell sounded for the Acadian when a new owner decided to convert it to an office building several months ago.

Once more workmen are busy on the ancient site, and only the very old, among the passersby are seen to stop and gaze a while, with wistful faces.

HEAD C.P.R. BROTHERHOOD: Executive of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees of the Canadian Pacific Railway for the next three years is shown above following their election at a meeting at the Chateau Frontenac in Quebec. Donnelly, Ottawa, secretary-treasurer; J. J. O'Grady, Ottawa, vice-president; S. Burns, Toronto, general chairman; and W. K. McKee, Winnipeg, vice general chairman. Standing: J. Inglis, Medicine Hat, assistant general chairman for western lines; G. Cochran, London, assistant general chairman for eastern lines; R. Gauthier, St. Therese, Que., assistant general chairman for eastern lines.

Downtown Park Historic Spot

Regina's Victoria Park A Scene of Many Notable Events

Regina (CP) — A downtown oasis boasting the greenest lawns and shadiest trees in the city, Regina's Victoria Park was a barren, bushless field 60 years ago, but during the transformation it has been the scene of many a historical event.

It has been both burial ground and meeting place before it became the lunch-hour mecca for heat-oppressed office workers during the summer.

Louis Riel, French-Canadian firebrand who led two revolts in the Northwest Territories, was buried there following his execution in 1885. His body was placed beneath the altar of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church at the north east corner of the park, but was later stealthily removed by friends who took it to Winnipeg where his family lived.

On Sept. 4, 1905, the day Saskatchewan became a province Sir Wilfred Laurier, then prime minister of Canada, addressed cheering crowds in the park as a fireworks display spelled out "God Bless Our Province." A cairn now marks the spot where he spoke.

Many stories are told of the early days of the century when the park was a common used for football, lacrosse and cricket. Some old-timers still remember celebrating Boer War victories there.

Development of the common as a park began in 1910, and the first trees were planted in 1912. Today more than 30,000 plants are transplanted annually. Gardeners say one of the biggest problems are amateur horticulturists who steal plants from the park.

Record Gallery Sees Superb Golf in Annual Pro and Amateur Open Tournament Here

Amateur Leads Starry Field, Part of Large Entry Held Over for Third Day

— By ORD ANDERSON —

Last Saturday, Sunday and Monday, the largest crowds ever to attend the playing of the Annual Lachute Open Tournament witnessed some of the finest golf in the history of this event. The wizards of the fairways were all there, from Quebec Province, New York State, the Maritimes. Bob Gray, defending champion of the Tournament, was very much in evidence, along with many of his capable and crowd-pleasing cohorts from Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton and points west.

In the face of the stiffest competition yet seen on the local course, an amateur, J. "Mickey" McConvey, from Laval-sur-le-Lac, turned out to be the hero of the show. He was one over par coming up to the seventeenth tee, and romped through the last two holes with birdie and eagle in that order to finish with a 68, two under par, and equal the Tournament record set last year by Bob Gray. His feat drew rounds of applause from the audience and high praise from his own club pro and C.P.G.A. president Jules Huot during the presentation of prizes Sunday evening.

There were no dissenting voices in this galaxy of athletes when they praised the hospitality of Lachute and district, the facilities they found at the Club, and the condition of the course. To many of them, who manage to get around to this part of the world only once a year, for the Tournament, recent alterations and improvements came as a pleasant surprise. There is little doubt but that they will carry the name and the fame of Lachute and locality back to their homes, places of business and various clubs.

The weatherman was on his best behavior throughout the three days, becoming slightly churlish only near the end of play Sunday evening. Except for a sprinkle of rain then, absolutely perfect golf weather prevailed, and that was all that was needed to assure a hard-working Tournament Committee a really successful affair, financially and otherwise.

Recognition was given the occasion as one of Canada's top events in sport, when Station CJAD, Montreal, carried the event on its broadcast on four separate occasions, once each on Saturday and Sunday evenings and again Monday afternoon and evening, when a heavily crowded field made it necessary to carry some of the professionals over an extra day. Broadcasts all came through first rate, and gave this district some very fine publicity.

An added attraction this year was the walkie-talkie connection which functioned between actual play out on the course and a receiving set which brought play by play accounts to those spectators who preferred to take their golf at ease in the clubhouse.

Ron Maurier, sportscaster for CJAD, and Frank Starr also with this station, handled the broadcasting, while Mr. Maurier did yoeman service Sunday getting foursomes under way.

Presentation of prizes for amateurs was made after completion of play both Saturday and Sunday evenings, and included on Sunday the drawing for a beautiful pair of Ayers "Ivanhoe" all-wool white blankets, which were won by Arthur MacPherson, well-known professional of the Marlborough Club. Also drawn Sunday evening was the winning ticket for a complete set of Tommy Armour golf clubs. This drawing evoked no little interest on the part of the pros present. The clubs were won by W. Barr, amateur, who plays out of Laurentian Golf and Country Club, Ste. Agathe.

The organizing committee of this event, along with all other members and officials of the Club, acknowledge a debt of gratitude to the merchants and businessmen of Lachute and district, who took over the sponsorship in a big way and whose monetary and moral support this year made the Tournament possible.

Low Water Caused By Breach in Carillon Dam

CUSHING AND GRENVILLE RIVER-FRONT AFFECTED

Residents along the Ottawa front from Cushing to Grenville have been comparing notes on when the river contained so little water at those points. The Steamer "Argenteuil", the Department of Transport's service boat, still plies the water to its wharf, but with renewed caution, and backed with unlimited experience of the flows and ebbs of the Ottawa. This year very little waterborne freight is carried along the river; nevertheless, some oil tankers have suffered damaged screws where formerly all was plain sailing.

The same relative amount of water flows along the Ottawa as in past years, but a breach in the Carillon dam extending for about 100 feet across, has reduced the head-water level by over six feet. Many of the summer residents along the river banks have seen the structure of their river-fronts for the first time, and many have taken the opportunity to prepare for the return of the higher water by arranging the foreshore more to their liking.

Quiet Wedding at Verdun Un. Church

McOuat - Whitelaw

At half past five o'clock Thursday afternoon, September 4, in the Verdun United Church, the wedding took place very quietly of Jean Whitelaw, elder daughter of the late J. W. Marshall and of Mrs. Marshall, of Verdun, and Mr. James Dudderidge McOuat, elder son of the late J. R. McOuat and of Mrs. McOuat, of Lachute, Que. The Rev. J. G. Joyce, D.Th., officiated. The chancel of the church was decorated with baskets of pastel gladioli and ferns. Mr. George Little presided at the organ, with Miss Verna Waldron as soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by Mr. George Verner, wore a gown of blush pink bridal satin with a scalloped neckline, basque bodice buttoned at the back and long sleeves finishing in scallops over her hands, the skirt fashioned in bustle effect, which swept into a slight train. Her hip-length veil of silk tulle illusion, belonging to the bridegroom's mother, fell from a crownless poke of satin and she carried a small bouquet of gardenias, Sweetheart roses and bouvardia, with a sprig of heather brought from Scotland for the occasion. She wore as her only ornament a single strand of pearls.

Miss Lorraine Marshall, as her sister's only attendant, wore a floor-length frock of salt water blue faille, with a crownless gathered semi-poke bonnet and mittens to match her frock, while she carried a Colonial bouquet of roses, carnations and poms in shades of pink.

Mr. Colin McOuat was best man for his brother, and the ushers were Mr. Clayton Riddell and Mr. Sydney Drew.

A reception for relatives and a few close friends, was held in the Berkeley Hotel, the newly married couple leaving later by motor on their wedding trip through Ontario and the United States. The bride wore for travelling a jade green wool dressmaker suit, with a winter white hat and dark brown accessories, her corsage being of gardenias. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. McOuat will reside in Lachute.

"Glen" Saw Mill Razed by Fire

Around 11 o'clock Monday night the sawmill at The Glen owned by Wilfred Morrison, was completely destroyed by fire. Three lumbermen were sleeping in the camp at the time, and on discovering the outbreak one of the inmates hurried by car 5 miles to the nearest telephone, at Dunany, and notified Lachute Fire Brigade. Chief Geo. Y. Deacon and a crew of firefighters drove out to the scene, and with their auxiliary pump and two lines of hose from the mill stream, were able to save the surrounding wood piles which contained considerable board lumber.

Sparks from the smoke stack were believed to have caused the blaze. There was no insurance on the mill, which was completely destroyed.

Youngster Suffers Fractured Leg, Hit by Automobile

Another of those mishaps which so frequently reap a tragic toll, occurred Saturday afternoon when a child running across Bethany Street was struck down by an automobile. The three-year-old boy, Richard, son of Laurent Dumais, sustained a fractured left leg when hit by the bumper of a car, being driven in the direction of Lachute by Melvin Smith, of St. Hermas. The accident occurred at the intersection of Robert Street.

Taken to the office of Dr. F. W. FitzGerald for medical attention, the boy was afterwards removed to the Providence Hospital.

Patrolman Albert Legault, of Brownsburg, investigated the accident.

Kelowna, B.C. (CP) — Mayor W. B. Hughes-Games sponsored an overparking by-law for Kelowna and was one of its first victims, being fined $2.50. But he had company — two aldermen who left their cars cars beyond the time limit.

"Rio" Opening Draws Packed House; Theatre Distinct Credit to Community

With the completion and opening of the new "Rio" theatre and amusement centre, the local public has voiced an enthusiastic commendation. From all angles, the venture is a credit to its sponsors, the Fassio Brothers — in the choice of its location, its design of structure, and its tasteful decorative treatment.

The inaugural programs last week-end were especially interesting to the French-speaking populace. The Watchman is informed, however, that the Rio bills will in future meet the best tastes in French and English entertainment, both in movies and in stage productions.

"L'Homme et Son Péché", a French radio success featuring the original cast, was presented before a capacity audience Saturday evening, and on Sunday there were three showings of "La Forteresse", the first French-Canadian full length film ever produced, with an all-Canadian cast. Two of the stars in this film, M. and Mme L. Poitras, were here and appeared in person before the audience. . . The English version of the film, "The Whispering City", is to be presented here shortly. The pictures were filmed at St. Hyacinthe studios, and are a creditable example of Quebec's enterprise in the movie field.

The $75,000 Rio theatre embodies pleasing decorative effects with many modern structural features —designed for effective ventilation, lighting technique, showmanship, and adaptability of the hall to other purposes, such as conventions, receptions and dances. From the shadow-box "Rio" sign and the spacious foyer, past the refreshment bar, to the stage and dressing rooms at the far extremity of the hall, the entire structure is well planned. A smoking room will complete the utmost provisions for comfort of the showgoing public. The seating capacity is around 400 persons.

Two modern stores and showwindows enhance the front and entrance, while the upstairs provides for two apartment dwellings, besides the projection booth and theatre offices.

A representative of The Watchman, inspecting the establishment as it neared completion, was impressed by the quiet charm and utilitarian aspects of this entire building — and we have no hesitation in proclaiming the Rio an entertainment centre of which Lachute may well feel proud.

Pretty Ceremony, Dalesville Church

Cavers-Dixon

The marriage of Florence Elizabeth, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Dixon, of Dalesville, Que., to Mr. Douglas Campbell Cavers, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Cavers, of Perth, Ont., took place Saturday afternoon, September 6, at four o'clock in the Dalesville Baptist Church, the Rev. G. Hicks officiating. Mrs. F. Kettyle, of Montreal, played the wedding music. Hydrangeas were used to decorate the church.

The bride, given away by her father, was in a gown of white bridal satin fashioned on Princess lines with long sleeves ending in points over the hands and a full skirt flowing into a long train. A halo of white satin and orange blossoms held in place her embroidered tulle illusion veil, while she carried a bouquet of Richmond roses.

Mrs. George Coombes, as matron of honor, was in a frock of orchid nylon over taffeta with matching halo of velvet and bronzie orchid and matching gauntlets. She carried a bouquet of yellow gladioli. Miss Lorna Giles and Miss Lorna Tomalty, as bridesmaids, were gowned similarly to the matron of honor, in shades of green and orchid, and carried bouquets of orchid and yellow gladioli. Little Carol Tomalty, niece of the bride, was flower girl; she was dressed as a miniature of the bride and carried a nosegay of ragosa palyanthus roses and sweet alyssum.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Mr. Arthur Cavers. The ushers were Messrs. George Coombes and Kenneth Cavers.

Mrs. Dixon, the bride's mother, wore a draped gown of black crepe and satin with mauve feather hat and matching gloves. She wore a matching shoulder spray of gladioli. Mrs. Cavers, mother of the groom, was dressed in silver grey crepe with navy accessories, and wore a shoulder spray of red gladioli.

During the signing of the register Mr. F. Kettyle sang "Because".

After a reception at the residence of the bride's sister, Mr. and Mrs. George McGibbon, Lachute, the wedding supper was served at the Margaret Rodger Memorial Church hall. The newly-married couple left for a trip to the United States. For travelling the bride wore a honey beige wool two-piece suit with black accessories, and a corsage of red roses. On their return they will reside in Perth, Ont.

Out-of-town guests included — Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Cavers, Mr. K. Cavers, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Rose and Miss Beverley Rose, of Perth; Miss Schmidt, of Pembroke; Mr. and Mrs. J. Donaldson, Miss Dianne Donaldson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Coughtree, Mr. and Mrs. Lumsden, and Miss Margaret Lumsden, Misses E. and M. Cavers of Ottawa; also many from Montreal.

Another Crash at Bridge Approach

Gerard Caron, of Montreal, while driving from Brownsburg late Saturday night to his father's camp at St. Canut, missed the curve from the Brownsburg Road onto Barron's Bridge, and hit the cement curb with a crash that startled neighbors for a considerable distance. A strip of the heavy curbing was broken and dislodged by the impact. The young man and occupants of the car were unhurt, but the automobile, a Buick sedan, was damaged to some extent. The crash occurred around one o'clock Sunday morning.

PARKING

The question of parking automobiles on the streets was again before the Council meeting, when an amendment to one of the parking by-laws was proposed and passed. The secretary called attention to the fact that the by-laws governing parking have been so often altered, changed, reverted, re-drafted and changed again, that it was almost impossible to know how they should be enforced, or what is the present intention of them. There were now quite a number of them, and in some respects they conflicted one with another. A committee of councillors was appointed to study the whole question and homologate or consolidate the various by-laws into one clear, un-ambiguous draft, and have it drawn up in legal form.

FIRE PROTECTION

A number of members of the Fire Brigade, accompanied by Chief Gagnon, appeared before the council and from the ensuing discussion it was gathered that the fire fighting equipment and personnel (or lack of personnel) was in a condition to alarm the most lackadaisical resident—if there are any such in Brownsburg. We gathered that coats, hats and boots, which should be easily available at the fire station, were not there. That wrenches would not fit the hydrants during a recent inspection tour, and that practices were held at the rate of one each year — or two years, there seemed to be a difference of opinion as to which. If the matter were not so serious, a certain gleam of comedy of the Gilbert and Sullivan variety could be enjoyed from a re-enactment of the interchanges. As when one of the firemen dramatically exclaimed, "Let me quote Churchill, 'Give us the tools and we will finish the job'!" To which one of the councillors replied, "Why? we gave you the tools and you lost them".

The council directed that an investigation be immediately instituted and the matter rectified without delay. A meeting was arranged for the following evening and the Fire Chief requested to submit a report on the usableness of the machinery and equipment. The subsequent inspection revealed four hydrants out of order, which workmen were sent to repair.

SIDEWALKS

At a previous meeting a tentative sum of $200 was granted for preparations to erect a sidewalk between the water bridge and the entrance to Filion Street. The difficult terrain made the expenditure of over $600 necessary.

Tell it not in Gath!

—Work has started on Route 31!

Why the Indifference To Public Safety ?

Numerous accidents at Barron's Bridge have been reported in this journal; and on two previous occasions an editorial paragraph has appeared in black-face type, urging the authorities to do something about it . . . The remedy suggested was a reflectorized sign, visible from a distance by drivers approaching the curve after dark.

Saturday night grill parties are obviously a major cause in these mishaps. (Liquor, however, was not a factor in the latest crash.) Eventually a drowning may add to the toll at this bridge.

The situation prompts a logical question. In this instance the Lachute authorities can do little about inebriate driving — but, realizing the fact, why is there no effort to counteract the menace? Why the civic indifference? It is plainly up to Lachute Town Council to study the hazard—to light the thoroughfare more effectively at this spot, or request Quebec Highways Department to erect appropriate signs.

'Better Homes Through Chemistry' Rotary Topic Intrigues Lady Guests

Modern Fabric Treatments, Use of Plastics, Described by Speaker, C-I-L Representative

Brownsburg — The Rotary Club entertained last Thursday evening at a Ladies' Night, when the guest speaker was Douglas Walkington, of Canadian Industries Limited, Montreal. Mr. Walkington spoke on the absorbing subject, "Better Homes Through Chemistry", illustrating his address with various samples of modern adaptation. An engaging and humorous speaker, Mr. Walkington was introduced by Rotarian Harold Barrie.

A great deal of research had been given to the subject of this discourse. . . Unbreakable gramophone records, non-shrinkable wool, fire retardants for textiles, and water repellents for drapes, linen, snow suits and ski suits, are only a few of the products made available today by chemical research, said the speaker.

The scientist's touch has brought beauty and economy to the modern home. Contrary to popular belief, plastics are not going to replace brick, stone, wood and steel in the building of homes, but will serve well for utensils, decorations, adhesives, and in ways which will make the home a more pleasant and more comfortable place to live in. The value of plastics in the home lies in their attractive colors, in their resistance to bacteria, in their lightness, their electrical properties, and perhaps more than anything else, in their moldability.

New scientific developments are not the result of some chemist's brain-wave which will put a new article in the stores next week. For example, nylon was developed by a team of brilliant chemists and engineers working over a period of about ten years and at a cost of more than ten million dollars.

Mr. Walkington mentioned in conclusion that new chemical fibres and treatments are bringing revolutionary changes in clothes and textiles generally.

Rotarian Harold Dando thanked the speaker — adding that, as manager of the Plastics Division of C-I-L he was amazed at the seemingly unlimited field of possibilities offered by plastics.

The evening continued with music, games and community songs — completing another most enjoyable Ladies' Night on the Rotary program.

Dis. Chambers of Commerce to Ask Highway Paving

REGIONAL CONFERENCE SEPTEMBER 25 AT ST. JEROME

Preparations are in hand for a Chamber of Commerce gathering of the Piedmont district, to be held September 25 at St. Jerome.

On the agenda are resolutions to be submitted by the Chamber of Commerce of St. Jerome, advocating the following projects :

Paving of Route 41 (known hereabouts as the St. Jerome Highway) between Lachute and St. Lin, to meet the demands of heavy traffic.

Government to undertake entire cost of winter road maintenance, "even should this measure require an additional 1c levy on gasoline, from December 1 to April 1".

That, in view of the fact Route 11 serves the Laurentides area most frequented by tourists both summer and winter, "our governments" be asked to establish a tourist information bureau at St. Jerome.

Since the volume of traffic on Laurentian Highway No. 11 adds increasingly to accident hazards, that the provincial government be petitioned to widen this trafficway between Montreal and St. Jerome.

The conference will conclude with a banquet at the Lapointe Hotel. Provisions are being made for the entertainment of lady guests.

OLD TOWNSMAN LAID TO REST

Late Louis G. Kingsbury

Numerous relatives, old friends and neighors attended the funeral of the late Louis Gedeon Kingsbury last Thursday. The rites were held at Ste. Anastasie Church, followed by interment at the west end cemetery.

The late Mr. Kingsbury was an old resident of this town. Born at East Settlement, he farmed in that community before retiring 26 years ago to reside on Barron Avenue with his daughter, Miss Emma. In fair health despite his advanced years, he died Monday, September 1, following a heart seizure. He had just recently passed his 90th birthday.

Besides Miss Emma Kingsbury, surviving members of his family are a son Adolphe, on the homestead at East Settlement, and a daughter, Mrs. Philippe Lalonde, of Fassett, Que.

Relatives from Ottawa, Montreal, and Ottawa Valley points were here to attend the funeral.

FUNERAL SERVICE FOR B'BURG CHILD, ACCIDENT VICTIM

Late S. "Junior" Hardy

The funeral service of the late Master Sylvio Junior Hardie was held in the Brownsburg United Church on Wednesday, September 3. Service was conducted by the Rev. S. J. Pike, assisted by the Rev. Geo. B. Hicks. The pallbearers were Master Arthur Morrison, Willis McAdam, Ronald Kennedy and Bruce Mason.

The flowers were many and beautiful.

Besides his mother he leaves to mourn his loss one brother, Buddy Victor. Many friends and relatives will miss him dearly.

Interment was made in the Brownsburg Cemetery at Lachute.

W. Inst. at Arundel Sponsors School Fair and Sports

(Our District Correspondent)

Arundel — On Saturday, September 6, old Sol was out on the job bright and early to assure the school children of Arundel a perfect day for their Fair and Calf Show.

As this is the first Fair held since about 1929, a keen interest was shown by both adults and children; a total of 57 school children brought entries of vegetables, sewing, baking, wood specimens, craftsmanship, and competition was keen. Miss Barbara Thou captured a special prize donated by Cooke Bros., for the highest aggregation of prizes.

Judges for the exhibit were Alex Bothwell, of Lachute, H. Reid, of Hemmingford, Que., and Miss Walker, of Macdonald College, while the Calf Showing was judged by Mr. Fleury, of Montreal.

During the morning and afternoon, races were held, under the leadership of the Rev. Temple-Hill and Mr. Fenton.

The Fair was held under auspices of the Arundel Women's Institute, whose members wish, through the medium of the press, to express their appreciation to the judges for their time and interest; to the press, which had given the event liberal publicity; to the local farmers, who contributed milk; and to the community at large, not only for their various donations, but for the wholehearted support and the interest they took in this initial effort. The W.I. hopes with continued encouragement to achieve a bigger and better enterprise next year.

Winners of the Calf Show appear on page 2. Space permitting, other results will be published next week.

Important Work in Plant Protection, by Dept. of Agriculture

An indication of how the Plant Protection Division of the Dominion Department of Agriculture guards against the introduction of what might be serious insect pests and plant diseases from other countries, is given in a report of the Division for the period April 1 to June 30, 1947.

In this period the Division examined at Canadian seaports and international boundary points, 19,735,160 plants, shrubs and trees in 3,510 shipments of nursery stock. The total value was $535,000. In addition, 41,707,000 lbs. of imported plant products, such as broom corn, peanuts, fruits and vegetables valued at $1,628,000, were inspected.

Among the imported nursery stock the Division's inspectors at Quebec City, Ottawa, Toronto, London and Estevan, Sask., identified egg clusters of a chrysomelid bettle pest of Viburnum, on some twigs of this ornamental shrub, a high bush cranberry, from Boskoop, Holland. It was new to Canada. The infested plants were at once burned.

Early in June an inspector at Toronto, while examining two carloads of oak and elm planks from Kentucky and Tennessee, found the elm planks infested with a series of bark beetles that carry the destructive European elm disease, and which were not known in Canada. The planks were given a super-heating treatment and the cars and the areas around where the cars were unloaded were sprayed with DDT.

Two other notable interceptions were made in the Niagara Falls district, one was identified as the European winter moth, found in a gift shipment of nursery stock "from the people of Holland to the people of Canada", for planting in the Holland Memorial Garden in the Park at Niagara Falls, Ont. The other was a specimen of the cutworm family found in dried sorghum stalks, which were used as packing material in a shipment of roses from Belgium. The stalks were destroyed by burning and a specimen of the insects was placed in alcohol and shipped to the Entomological Division, Ottawa.

The Plant Protection Division also keeps a close check on plant material leaving Canada for other countries, to comply with the importing regulations of those countries. In the period under review 887 shipments were examined and certified free of pests and diseases. These shipments consisted mainly of potatoes, apples and miscellaneous plants and seeds.

DANGEROUS SITUATION

Medicine Hat, Alta. — (CP) —An "unattractive and somewhat potentially dangerous weed situtation" exists in Medicine Hat, J. L. Anderson, district agriculturist, told city council. Weeds in vacant lots, back lanes and market gardens are a menace, and a campaign should be inaugurated to destroy them, he said.

Variety of Uses For Farmers' Corn

The contributions which farmers make to many industries may not be generally appreciated, and it is interesting to trace the many uses to which agricultural products are put.

The farmer who grows corn, as often as not thinks of it as silage for farm feed, or as cash crop. He knows that it can be processed into starch for laundry purposes, into the corn meal and syrup widely used as food products; into corn oil as a dressing for salads, for mayonnaise, as edible table oil, and into gluten as an ingredient of cattle feed.

Actually these are only the more obvious of the uses to which corn and the products derived from it can be applied. In the food industry it is a valuable ingredient of baking, cocoa, cake, custard and ice cream powders, candies, sauces and various culinary and food preparations. It is used in the biscuit, pastry, baking and confectionery industry; in the manufacture of yeast, and in the canning and preserving industry. As a raw material it figures in the manufacture of all types of sweetener products, such as syrup, glucose and dextrose.

Corn, too, is an ingredient of glues and adhesives. The rubber industry uses corn starch as an ingredient of compositions for coating rubber. The size used for fine paper, kraft and paper board and the warp sizing used in the textile industry are derived from corn starch.

Corn is used by the electrical industry in the manufacture of electrolytes used for re-charging dry cells, by the pharmaceutical trade as a binder in medicinal tablets, and by the retail druggist in compounding and dispensing medicines. As an ingredient of cleansing solutions, and a vehicle for holding tanning extract, the leather and tanning industry finds it particularly useful.

Corn starch is used in some explosives, foundry work, and as an ore dressing to quicken the settling of ore. Even the everyday match owes something to the farmer, for corn starch is frequently used in the composition of the head of the match. It is used in rayon manufacture, by the tobacco trade as an agent to hold moisture, and soap stock, a fatty acid from corn oil, is used in the soap industry.

Apart from the everyday household use of corn meal, starch and syrup, at least 15 processing and manufacturing industries use corn or products derived from its manufacture — which indicates the inter-dependence of agriculture and industry.

Montreal (CP) — Hotels still don't know where it's all going to end. "Just listen... to Suzy's new engine!"

HER NEW ENGINE has given the "Suzy M." a new lease on life. Now she gets out to the fishing grounds in double-quick time, and the hours saved mean her daily catch is just that much bigger.

A bank loan made all the difference. And the extra money Suzy's owner is making will soon pay off the cost of the engine.

Local bank managers along Canada's coasts are eager to help their neighbours catch fish, by making bank credit available for the purchase of engines, nets and other gear. Not only do they take care of funds left in their charge but they also supply credit to local businessmen, sawmill operators, farmers, people in every walk of life.

THIS IS ONE INSTANCE OF how Canada's 3,200 branch banks play their part in the daily life and work of Canadians.

The Atom Comes Down to Earth

CANADA is about to make limited amounts of radio-active materials available to research workers. Up until now, the man-in-the-street has viewed atomic energy as some nebulous unreality beyond his comprehension. But with this announcement last week, the layman figuratively pricked up his ears.

"Radio-active materials"—peculiar, infinitesimal nonentities known as isotopes—will now be introduced into medical and agricultural research, mainly to doctors and hospitals.

Isotopes, made by bombarding material with radiation from an atomic pile, are being made at the Canadian atomic energy research plant at Chalk River, Ontario, which Reconstruction Minister Howe disclosed has built up the world's largest atomic pile.

Mr. Howe and Dean C. J. Mackenzie, president of the National Research Council, found themselves in a dilemma when they tried to explain to reporters just what an isotope was. Said the newspapermen, "If you can't see one, how can you sell it?

To these unscientific inquiries, Dean Mackenzie described the isotope first as "an atom with a tail light," and later as "a belled cow in a herd of cattle." You might have one belled cow in a herd of 1,000 cattle, Dr. Mackenzie said, and, without being able to see it, know you had a belled cow.

More important, and easier to understand, was the question of what the isotopes could do. They will be used by medical science for study of diseases and the very secrets of life itself. The minute particles can be injected into the blood stream with other substances and, because they emit radio-active rays, followed through the body with detectors. Their greatest use might be in the study of cancer, for once they strike unnatural growth in their progress through the body, they centre there and thus indicate the presence of malignancy.

These "atoms with tail lights" also may revolutionize the agricultural industry. Prof J. W. T. Spinks of the University of Saskatchewan has been one of the first to use them. He experimented with the phosphorous which wheat absorbs from the soil and from artificial fertilizer, and has been able to gauge the amounts of fertilizer which the wheat plant used in its development.

He did this by planting a plot of wheat and injecting radio-active phosphorous isotopes into both the fertilizer and the soil. Because the isotopes can be detected in their progress through the plant lifestream, he was able to check the wheat at various stages of growth and determine how much of the fertilizer was being used.

— So Science advances (we hope) to the betterment of man's pursuits.

Bad Manners in Public Washrooms

ON A RECENT motor trip we were appalled at the filthy conditions which distinguish many public washrooms in service stations and restaurants. And while proprietors of such places are sometimes at fault, in most cases it is the travelling public which must accept the blame. People who come from good homes and who should know better, seem to have no conception of good manners in a public washroom. Used paper towels are strewn about the floor, seldom put in containers provided. Water is splashed about, and few patrons are thoughtful enough to rinse out the wash basin after using it. The result is that within a few hours a clean washroom is in a dirty mess. . . It's little wonder that service station operators are turning to the practice of locking their rest rooms, opening them only upon request of customers.

JUST ABOUT the time we get through paying for our summer vacation we'll have to start forking out money for Christmas presents.

The Lure of Mining

MINING probably has done more than any other industry to push back Canada's northern frontier.

Accordingly, when Canada is concerned over the loss of technically-trained men to the United States, it is interesting that its mining engineers at least are finding opportunities at home. The Canadian Metal Mining Association states that of 54 graduates from eight institutions in 1947, only one has gone to the United States.

The desk-bound city dweller — too late for him to become a mining engineer — may daydream of becoming a prospector. Such a one will be lured by a recent publication of the Ontario department of mines, "Prospector's Guide," featuring on the cover a color picture of a prospector examining an ore sample through a spyglass, against a background of wind-blown trees and weathered rock. . . . Once inside, however, he'll likely turn back sadly to his desk, unless he's young and vigorous with already a lot of know-how about the out-of-doors. It says:

"The secret of success is curiosity, close observation, and steady hard work". . . . Well, he could meet that. Also:

"The beginner must first of all be an optimist in whose heart there burns the steady flame of unquenchable hope. He must possess courage of the highest order and willingness to suffer hardship". . . . He might meet that, too. But, and this is addressed to "beginners":

"It is assumed that the reader can at least handle a canoe, pitch a tent and cook his own meals. It is also presumed that he has a working knowledge of elementary mineralogy and geology, knows how to read a map, and understands the use of a pocket compass."

The city dweller begins to hedge. But if he wishes, he can go on to read about financing the venture, equipment necessary, food and supplies, field methods of prospecting, panning and sampling, staking, recording, legal requirements, fees. His canoe (on the portage) will weigh from 75 to 90 pounds and his food supplies 200 pounds.

So the race would seem to be to the experienced hand and the young beginner.

Philately

THOUSANDS of people the world over find philately (the collecting and study of stamps) an interesting and oftentimes profitable hobby. It is educational as well, being a means of broadening the enthusiast's knowledge of geography and history. It is not often, however, that philatelists enjoy the exciting experience of a new country being formed, with many new stamp issues, but such is the case at the moment with the partition of India, into the Dominion of India and the Dominion of Pakistan. Already a new series of provisionals comprising India stamps overprinted have been authorized for Pakistan, with many more issues to follow.

There is speculation as to what will happen in the Dominion of India, where about 20 individual states have their own postal paper. Collectors are wondering whether this arrangement will continue, or whether these individual states will adopt the new Dominion of India stamps. It is a matter of great interest, because the decision will have a bearing on the value of previous issues by these separate states. Authorities find a parallel situation when the Dominion of Canada was formed. It is recalled that when the Dominion was established stamp-issuing was discontinued by British Columbia, Vancouver Island, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. What happens in India may be a case of history repeating itself.

In view of current events, it is not difficult to comprehend why stamp collecting is such an absorbing hobby.

RE-APPEARANCE of a number of slingshots and catapults among the boys goes to prove that the tire shortage is over.

"My Week"

By R. J. DEACHMAN

Not long ago the editor of the Lethbridge Herald "beefed a bit" — a natural thing in the cow country — about the fact that in Western Canada there was a tendency towards a decline in population and that even in the favored Province of Alberta the annual increase was indeed quite small.

Why people want to leave sunny Alberta is a question I am never able to answer. There are, of course, individual circumstances. I left it myself, but if I were moving tomorrow I would sooner live in Alberta than in any other province of Canada or in any State of the Union I have ever seen

* * *

The fact is, the human race is restless, it surges like the waves of the sea. In North and South Dakota the last census recorded a 15% drop, Montana and Idaho fell more than 10%. In the South, Mississippi, Kentucky, Alabama and Georgia lost population due to the migration of Negroes. California is the up and coming State of the Union. Michigan and Ohio because of their great manufacturing industries follow after. California wins because of its climate.

We are becoming a softer race, the fire is dying out in the eyes of the pioneers. Baby bonuses and old age pensions are working their will upon us. The supreme desire of the human race today is not for new worlds to conquer — not even for peacetime victories. We seek a spot in the sun where we can gaze at the stars — movie stars. Life need not be strenuous, the cry of the world is for rest — with a soft drink by our side.

Food Is Dear

The American price level is going up. The cost of living is now approximately 57% above the level of 1935-39. The great advance has been made not in manufactured products but in foods—there the increase is 88%. Yet no one thinks of calling the farmer a profiteer. We know that the price level of farm products rises and falls like the mercury in a thermometer. This too may surprise you: There was little variation between the average price level of farm products and the average price of manufactured products in the average of the last 35 years.

The problem of the farmer is the instability of the price level, not the price level in itself. May I add now something else: There is instability also in industry. The net income of incorporated business in the United States was $7,195 millions in 1929, dividends were $5,945 millions, business savings $1,250 millions. In 1932 business savings had changed into losses of $6,374 millions. They still paid dividends — less than half the 1929 level — the year's operations were conducted at a loss, dividends paid out of reserves. Industry too has its hard times. We are all in the same boat, though at times some do more rowing than others.

The Lodestone

"Here is a man striding toward his home; I cannot say if he is going toward quarrel or toward love. I can ask myself only this: 'What sort of man is he?' and when I know that, only then shall I know by what lodestone he is impelled, and where he is bound. For in the end man always gravitates in the direction commanded by the lodestone within him."

Antoine de Saint Exupery.

Urban September

The beaches no longer have to put up with the yells of Aunt Sophie going into the water up to her knees. The canoes with their record players have gone, and the lagoons are resting. The fields, after their year's energetic, silent bustle of growing food for the world, stand soberly in the harvest now like cows at milking. Canada's all outdoors is coming to the end of its year.

In the towns and cities, however, September is a time of new beginnings. School's in! This particular new beginning pleases few except parents and the neighbors of parents; but urban September is not a month that sets out to please with beguiling ways. It is a month for facing up to life.

Big executives come back and try to cover up their summer's loaf by pressing buzzers. Small boys form into gangs and run and throw things. Football is playing (as Housman would say) and crowds push briskly from the games in the cool Saturday dusk. Serious-minded organizations resume their meetings, and all over Canada thousands of speakers (most of them called "guest speakers") speak millions of words. Storm windows and storm doors are dragged out. The social season begins again, with the liverish marks of bathing suit straps showing on the coffee-shade backs of dancing maidens. There is a run on bingo cards and playing cards. The very last vacant space disappears from parking lots and restaurants.

September is a fine month for the townsman, especially if he can get away to the country.

Should Spelling Be Made Easier?

For anyone who pushes a pen or pounds a typewriter, whether "nine-to-five" or just occasionally, the next broadcast in the CBC program series "Points of View" should be of special interest. It will deal with simplified spelling, and may be heard Thursday, Sept. 11, at 7.45 p.m. over the CBC. Hugh Boyd, of the Winnipeg Free Press, will give his reasons for favoring more simplicity in the spelling of words most people puzzle over; R. W. Queen-Hughes, a former newspaper man, will speak up for pure, unadulterated English words.

Wedding Vows At Grenville, Que.

McHardy - Rainey

On Saturday, August 30, at 2.30 o'clock in St. Matthew's Church, Grenville, Que., the Rev. A. E. Hawes officiated at the marriage of Miss Edna Iris Rainey, daughter of Mr. Samuel Rainey and of the late Mrs. Rainey, of Grenville, and Mr. Thomas E. McHardy, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Norman McHardy, of Calumet, Que. Mrs. Russell Owens, organist of the church, played the wedding music. Mr. Francis Kettyle, of Montreal, sang "Because" during the signing of the register. Gladioli in pastel shades formed the church decorations, the guest pews being marked with white gladioli and white satin ribbon.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. W. M. Loughren, wore a floor-length gown of heavy white satin having a yoke of fine net, fitted bodice fastened in the back with white satin buttons to the waist line, with long tight sleeves coming to points over the hands. Her floor-length veil of embroidered tulle illusion was attached to a pleated halo of the same material. She carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Attending the bride were her two sisters and her neice — Miss Katie Rainey as maid of honor, Miss Minnie Rainey as bridesmaid, and Miss Elsie Cousins as junior bridesmaid. The maid of honor wore blue net over taffeta, and the bridesmaid pink net over taffeta, their floor-length gowns with tight fitting bodices and waist-line tulle veils attached to pleated halos of the same material. The junior bridesmaid wore a floor-length gown of yellow crepe, with short sleeves, square neck-line, and a bandeau of the same material. All three carried shower bouquets of white and yellow gladioli with maiden hair fern.

Mr. Kenneth McHardy was his brother's groomsman. The ushers were Mr. Russell Rainey, brother of the bride, and Mr. Everett Burwash.

A reception was held at MacIntyre's Hall, where gladioli and autumn flowers formed the decorations. The tables were set for 70 guests. The bride's table was centred with a four-tiered wedding cake. The Misses Phyllis Owens and Olga Cousins assisted in serving.

Mr. and Mrs. McHardy left later for a motor trip, the bride wearing a wool suit of rose and black accessories. They will reside in Calumet.

Grace Church at Arundel, Scene of Pretty Ceremony

Dobby-Morrison

The wedding of Miss Eunice Shirley Morrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Morrison, of Arundel, Que., and Mr. Gerald (Jerry) Basil Dobby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Dobby, of Montreal, was solemnized in Grace Church, Arundel, on Saturday, August 30, at 2.30 p.m. Officiating clergyman was the Rev. Lionel Temple-Hill, of Arundel.

The church was prettily decorated with hydrangeas and variegated gladioli arranged in the shape of a heart in the chancel. The guest pews were marked with bows of white satin ribbon and hydrangeas.

Mrs. Wm. Morrison, of Arundel, aunt of the bride, played the organ. Mr. Dawson Dobby and Mr. Rathwell Morrison acted as ushers. The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Mr. John Dobby, of Montreal.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white lace over satin, with tiers of nylon falling from the waist and forming a slight train in the back. Her veil of tulle illusion, which had been worn by her mother on her wedding day, fell from an open cap effect of orange blossoms. She wore arm-length mitts of lace matching her gown, and carried a cascade bouquet of American Beauty roses. Her only ornament was a pearl and diamond necklace, which had been her father's gift to her mother on her wedding day.

The maid of honor, Miss Elizabeth Morrison, R.N., wore a floor-length gown of green net over eggshell taffeta, with close-fitting bodice and very full skirt, her headdress being an ostrich plume of variegated shades of green. She carried a cascade bouquet of multi-colored sweet peas.

The little flower-girl Wendy Earlene Morrison, of Knowlton, Que., three-year-old niece of the bride, wore a floor-length frock of gold nylon over taffeta with halo of yellow flowers, and carried a heart-shaped basket filled with yellow daisies.

The bride's mother wore a pearl grey silk mesh gown, with hat to match, and a silver fox fur, with a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother wore a silver grey flowered frock with navy accessories and a corsage of red roses.

For going away, the bride wore a Lincoln green dressmaker suit with brown accessories, a top coat of fawn camel hair, and corsage of yellow roses.

After a reception at the home of the bride's parents, the newly-married couple left for an extended honeymoon to the Muskoka Lakes and other points. Upon their return they will reside in Ahuntsic.

Among the out-of-town guests were relatives and friends from Ottawa, Montreal, Knowlton, Lachute, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Weir and Verdun.

Kyle, Sask. (CP) — An over-sized turkey gobbler on the farm of Mrs. S. Thompson near this village west of Swift Current, recently hatched a nest of turkey eggs and promptly smothered the birds with his weight. The hen laid 14 more eggs, but was killed by a coyote, leaving the gobbler alone with the eggs. This time he hatched them successfully.

Maritime Wedding of Interest at Riverfront

Jamieson -MacRae

A very pretty wedding took place in St. Stephen's Church, Black River, N.B., on Wednesday, August 27, at 3 p.m., when the Rev. Gordon Legge united in marriage Ida Mary MacRae, daughter of Mrs. Malcolm W. MacNaughton and the late James R. MacRae, of Black River, and William Archibald Jamieson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. C. Jamieson, of River Charlo, N.B.

The church was tastefully decorated by friends of the bride, with evergreen and cut flowers. Mrs. Ian MacNaughton played the organ, and during the signing of the register Mrs. F. A. Fowlie, sang "I'll Walk Beside You".

The bride looked charming as she entered the church on the arm of her brother, Fraser MacRae, to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March. She wore a floor-length dress of white sheer with floor-length net veil, held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms which her mother had worn at her wedding. She also wore a pendant which had belonged to her great grandmother. Her bouquet was of deep pink roses and asparagus fern.

She was attended by two bridesmaids, Miss Norma Jamieson, sister of the groom, who wore a floor-length dress of pink net over taffeta with a halo of flowers and pink shoulder veil, and Miss Helen MacRae, sister of the bride, who wore a floor-length dress of pale blue nylon net with halo of flowers and pale blue shoulder veil; both carried bouquets to correspond with their gowns.

The groomsman was Mr. Harman MacCormack, of Charlo. The ushers were Messrs. J. D. MacRae and Wm. Fowlie.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride. Mrs. Murchie, grandmother of the groom, presided over the coffee cups, while Mrs. J. G. MacKay, aunt of the bride, poured tea. Friends of the bride waited on the guests.

The young couple left on a motor trip through the province, the bride wearing a suit of goblin blue with black hat and accessories in black, and a corsage of pink roses.

The happy couple will reside in Charlo, where the groom is in business. The bride is a graduate in Arts of Mount Allison University, where the groom was also a student.

The bride is a granddaughter of the late Rev. James Fraser, who was minister of St. Mungo's Church, Cushing, for 40 years.

Among the guests from a distance were Mrs. J. G. MacKay and Miss F. Mildred Douglas, of Montreal.

Autumn Provides Last Treats from the Garden

The garden seems to be overflowing with good things, and the days are busy making the best use of vegetables before the frost nips them.

There are so many excellent recipes for green tomato pickles, ripe cucumber, relishes and pepper jellies that it is well to store away as many jars as possible for winter use.

The home economists at Ottawa say that in the rush to fill the cellar shelves, many treats are missed which could be enjoyed today. They suggest using green and green peppers in casserole tomatoes, ripe cucumbers, corn dishes.

Cucumber and Pepper Casserole

5 Cups diced ripe cucumber (3 large, 8"), 1 green pepper, 1 sweet red pepper, 2 tablespoons chopped onion, 2 cups bread crumbs, 1 teaspoon salt, pepper, 1 tablespoon butter.

Peel, remove seeds and cut cucumber into dice — chop peppers and onion. Arrange cucumber, peppers and onions in layers, sprinkle each layer with bread crumbs, salt and pepper. Top with crumbs, dot with butter and bake 45 minutes at 350°F. Six servings.

Creole Corn

3 Cups corn cut from 6 medium cobs, ½ cup chopped onion, ¾ cup chopped green peppers, 6 medium tomatoes, salt and pepper to taste.

Cook corn, onion, green peppers and tomatoes in a covered saucepan for 20 minutes. Season with salt and pepper. Six servings.

Green Tomato Cheese Scallop

6 Medium green tomatoes, 4 large onions sliced, 2 cups bread crumbs, 2 teaspoons sugar, 2 teaspoons salt, pepper, ¼ cup grated cheese.

Wash and slice tomatoes. Peel and slice onion. Arrange tomatoes, onions and bread crumbs in layers. Sprinkle each layer with sugar, salt and pepper. Spread grated cheese over top. Bake 30 minutes at 375°F. Six servings.

Last season she played frequently in the CBC's "Stage 47" series and currently appears in "It's a Legend", broadcast Sundays at 9.00 p.m. Miss Kaye is active also with the New Play Society, a Toronto theatre group.

British Legion Women Strenuously Active

Ottawa — The women of Great Britain are carrying on the struggle to win the peace as strenuously as they did in wartime, said Mrs. G. H. Edgar, honorary treasurer of the British Legion Women's Section, now touring Canada.

Her body of workers now totals 500,000, with 2,600 branches scattered all over the United Kingdom. They operate two convalescent homes where widows or female dependents may go and receive free medical care. In addition they have opened a children's home and plan to open a considerable number when housing accommodations are available.

Mrs. Edgar said that there were 700 children in London alone waiting to get in their home who are either bombed-out orphans or in destitute circumstances.

In her talks to the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion, she British Minister of Food, Hon. were having in trying to maintain these homes. Two of the biggest difficulties were the shortages of food and clothing.

In spite of the talk about a neutral war effort from Southern Ireland, she mentioned that they have quite a number of workers there who carried on during the war and are also very active at present.

DREAMS COME TRUE

Winnipeg (CP)—Michael Boroskae believes in dreams. Recently his wife presented him with twins. Said Boroskae: I'm not surprised — I dreamt about them. When we had our first children I dreamt of buying two boys' hats several months before they were born—and sure enough they were twin boys.

THOSE LONG SKIRTS

. . . We lodge no protest here; if the women want longer skirts they'll have them. As in Russia, the only votes which are counted are the "yes" votes. Nevertheless, we have our secret thoughts. —Perth (Ont.) Courier

SERVING CANADIANS C-I-L CANADIAN INDUSTRIES LIMITED THROUGH CHEMISTRY

"Chemistry?
. . . WELL, I'VE HEARD OF IT!"

YES, EVERYONE has heard of chemistry but few of us realize the part it plays in our daily lives. Countless products are entirely chemical. It improves and reduces the cost of many things. It creates jobs.

At home, chemistry becomes personal. It purifies the water we drink, improves the food we eat, the clothes we wear. It comes to us as salt and in soap. We meet it in "Cellophane", nylon, paint and plastic form. This would be a drab life without chemistry.

Regardless of world conditions, this progressive science drives ahead towards the goal of better working and living conditions . . . with the C-I-L oval trade-mark as symbol of an organization devoted to serving Canadians through chemistry.

For Instance:::
AMMUNITION

Never content with things as they are, chemistry, the restless science, is constantly producing better sporting ammunition; for instance, waterproofed shot shells were developed by Canadian Industries Limited, Head Office, 1135 Beaver Hall Hill, Montreal

"ALONG THE FAIRWAYS"

By Lachute Golf Club's Special Contributor

There seems to have been much doing along the fairways of recent date. Our great show of the year finally wound up in mid-afternoon last Monday, after the starry field overcrowded the course Sunday and some of the pros completed the play next day.

Looking around for hi-lites of the big week-end . . . let's take Gordie Brydson's hat — flaming red. Gordie tossed it on No. 1 green when he saw the inimitable Bob Gray driving off behind him. Bob obliged by slapping his tee shot within inches of it and only ten feet short of the pin. Shades of Babe Ruth and Wrigley Field !

Let's take Elmer Lach's green shirt, plainly visible on the back holes from the sun deck. Your correspondent got to Elmer for a few words when his long drive was holding top honors on No. 2 fairway. Seems the famous punch line will be intact this winter, and the man who shoots from the left is fit and ready; training starts this week for the long hockey grind. Speaking of hockey reminds us just how far the golf season is advanced. (Out with the sweaters and mittens, we'll duff it down to the last leaf).

The laurel wreath should go to "Mickey" McConvey, out of Laval-sur-le-Lac, who needs no sunshine when he plays golf. Just give him a flashlight and a putter, and he'll give you birdie and eagle on short eight and long nine. Mickey equalled Bob Gray's Tournament record of 68, which is pretty good for an amateur.

We heard a great cheer go up from the gallery at No. 3 early in the afternoon and found that R. Lavoie's difficult approach over the right-hand bunker had bounced into the cup. You don't get birdies by the gross that way.

All the way from Watertown Country Club, New York, just to break the long-hitters' hearts. That's Joe Demino, who really took a toe-hold and blasted one into the wind 278 yards. Jack Archer came closest to beating him out.

Heard some of the broadcasts, and they were top-notch. Lachute got some real publicity last week-end. Ron Maurier and Frank Starr certainly are deserving of a vote of thanks. Gordie Brydson gave us a fine ovation during his interview. . . . Bob Gray took 19 putts on his first nine. . . . Rodolphe Huot collected a gang for a bit of syndicate after dark; how those pros love to play golf — don't we all! But they play it; when the chips were down Monday the old craftsman Jules was right in there along with brother Rodolphe and Gerry Proulx. — Couldn't have been won by three nicer boys.

It was hard work, but it was worth it. Some of Canada's finest athletes had a look around and pronounced the week-end a huge success. The Tournament gets bigger and better, which shows what community effort and co-operation can do. The businessmen and merchants of Lachute really made this Tournament, and all thanks to them.

Not much routine Club news, is there? All fixtures gave way to the fixture of the year.

Flash! Bobby Ogilvie and Hugh Kerr tied with Guy Rolland and Mrs. W. Soper at Rosemere in the two-ball mixed foursome. All the good golfers don't live in Toronto or Montreal.

Last, but not least — don't forget next Saturday, September 14, when Lachute Golf Club will play hosts to Islesmere members about 50 strong.

Plan, Inter-School Track Competitions Saturday, Sept. 20

The Laurentian Interscholastic Track Meet is planned for Saturday, September 20, at the Lachute Exhibition Grounds. Races will be run off before the grandstand commencing at 10 a.m., with other events arranged for the afternoon program. The public are cordially invited to attend this field day.

Schools which have been invited to participate are — Morin Heights, Ste. Agathe, Grenville, Arundel, St. Andrews East, Lachute and Brownsburg. Six cups will be presented, for the following classes — senior, intermediate and junior boys; senior, intermediate and junior girls — only two contestants per school to compete in each event.

Lachute High School is holding a preliminary meet at the school grounds this Saturday, to select the local contestants.

Salesmanship, the "forgotten factor", is back again among the things that count. . Mr. Merchant, check up on your approach, in little details like sales-slips, statements, bill-heads, stationery. See The Watchman for fine printing.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

W. J. Morrison & Son wish to extend sincere thanks to friends, neighbors and the members of Lachute Fire Brigade, who so kindly assisted them at their fire on Monday night.

Chapter of Traffic Accidents on District Highways Last Week-End

A series of accidents on the district highways occurred last week-end causing a toll of damage but, fortunately, few injuries.

At 9 p.m. last Thursday two passenger cars collided at a driveway near the Lachute Golf Club — Harold Walker, in a car owned by Farmers' Supply Company, crashing into the car of Raymond Millette as the latter turned unexpectedly off the highway into a farm entrance. Both were proceeding southward on Route 8 out of Lachute. The cars were considerably damaged.

Traffic Officer H. Jones, of Calumet, was called to investigate.

• • •

At one of Lachute's danger spots, the intersection of Robert and Elizabeth Streets, a crash occurred Friday during the noon hour—despite the recently erected "stop" signs. An automobile proceeding east to west on Robert Street, driven by Felix M. Clécilieux, collided with a car driven by Jean Louis Brisson, who was descending Elizabeth Street south to north. Both cars were badly smashed by the impact. . Police Chief D. Villeneuve investigated.

• • •

A spectacular collision occurred at 9 p.m. Saturday on Lachute Road, near the property of Stanley Rodger — a sedan automobile being overturned in a head-on crash with another car.

Narcisse Héroux, of Lachute, travelling south, escaped with damage to his car. In the northbound automobile which overturned into the ditch, three passengers sustained injuries which required medical treatment. Mendosa Gagné received severe cuts on the face and chin from flying glass; his wife, Mme Gagne, received multiple cuts and bruises; and seven-year-old Denis Labelle suffered a broken jaw. All three were treated at the office of Dr. Jules Lafleur in Lachute. The driver, Macel Gratton, was unhurt.

Patrolman Albert Legault, of Brownsburg, investigated the accident.

• • •

No less spectacular was a sight which greeted early risers on Monday morning, when a car appeared perched at a precarious angle on the steep railway bank parallel to Berry Street, just west of the C.P.R. station. The wheels had become embedded in the soft ballast of the grade, and this alone had prevented the car and occupants from overturning into the thoroughfare. It appeared a foursome of week-enders, somewhat confused in their faculties, had turned off Bethany Street, down the station platform and along the railway track — probably mistaking the track for a traffic lane. Fortunately no trains had approached to dispute the fact. The car was removed undamaged, by a tow truck from a local garage.

Legion Dance Is Successful Affair

The first dance of the season sponsored by Lachute branch of the Canadian Legion proved encouraging to its sponsors, as the local community turned out in a fair number to support the Veterans of the first and second great wars.

The Auditorium resounded to merry whoops of the dancers as they swung into their sets, and for those not versed in the art of old-time dancing there was modern music played by the versatile Will Gaylord and his Texas Ramblers. This group, equally at home with modern and square dance music, excelled itself as the sets proceeded through the evening and into the wee small hours. During the intermission there was a half hour of entertainment in the western style.

The Legion voices its appreciation to the ladies of the Orange Lodge, who served refreshments. Theirs was a big job well done. They extend thanks also to the following businessmen of Lachute who donated advertising space for this dance — Wilson & Gordon Reg., R. McArthur & Son, Champlain Service Station and The Lachute Watchman.

Proceeds of this effort go to the Legion organization, to help the local Veterans and the needy dependents of some of the boys who will never return. Many returned men have been assisted, to become established in new jobs and homes, and to secure much needed pensions. But there is still much to be achieved, and the support of local citizens in such efforts sponsored by the Legion, is literally "helping the Veterans to help themselves".

TOO MANY CHORES

Montreal (CP) — It would have been a nice trip, but Mayor Camillien Houde had to refuse an invitation to visit Turkey. Too much work to do, he told Capt. Necdet Hor of the Turkish motor vessel Kars, during the ship's visit to Montreal.

To have what we want is riches, but to be able to do without is power.

Child Killed by Automobile at Grenville Village

Three-year-old Madeleine Davidson, daughter of Laurent Davidson, was struck and killed by a car at Grenville Village last Sunday afternoon, around four o'clock. The fatality occurred on rue de la Chapelle, opposite the child's home. Driver of the car was Hervé Vincent, who was approaching the village in a westerly direction.

At an inquest held Monday evening in the Dansereau School at Grenville, Dr. Jules Lafleur, district coroner, heard testimony of the driver to the effect that, on seeing the child in the path of his car, he had applied the brakes but was unable to avoid striking her. Together with the child's relatives, he had then conveyed her to Hawkesbury but the victim had died before their arrival at the Notre Dame Hospital. Evidence of Laurent Davidson showed that his three-year-old daughter had run into the street while playing with other children. Mrs. Percy McLean, next-door neighbor, testified as an eye-witness to the tragedy.

Cause of the girl's death according to medical testimony, was a broken neck and probable fracture of the skull. Dr. L. Laviolette, of L'Orignal, had pronounced the victim dead.

Det. Albert Oggier, of Montreal headquarters, and Cst. Howard Jones, of Calumet, conducted the investigation.

In rendering a verdict of accidental death, the jury added a recommendation that the driver be prevented from operating his automobile until it was satisfactorily proved that his brakes were in order.

Farm Community Pays Last Tribute To Life Resident

LATE THOMAS MORRISON OF HILL HEAD

A large attendance at the funeral of the late Thomas Morrison, held Tuesday from his residence at Hill Head, testified to the esteem he had earned in his lifetime spent in that community. Mr. Morrison, active until his final days, passed away last Saturday, in his 81st year. The funeral was conducted by the Rev. W. B. Rosborough, assisted by the Rev. C. W. P. Baugh and the Rev. C. R. Lang. There were many floral tokens in tribute to his memory.

Born 1867 at the old Morrison homestead, Thomas was the son of the late George Morrison and Flora Grant. He was married in 1925 to Annie Cooper, of Birmingham, England, who survives him, together with his son George Grant, at home, and one brother, George Leonard Morrison, in Montreal. (The late Mrs. John McGibbon, of Lachute, was his only sister.) . . Mr. Morrison spent all his years in his native community, and at one time served on the parish council.

Pall-bearers at the funeral were Messrs. Willie, Harold and Stuart Hume, Alex Hodge, W. and Arthur Pollock, all neighbors of the deceased. Interment was made at Lachute Cemetery.

WHY NOT MARGARINE?

If people do not want to pay the present price for butter, there is no reason why they should not be able to purchase a substitute (margarine) which, according to scientists, is nutritious and does not suffer in comparison with butter.

Meat Packers' Strike Affects the Farmers

(Our District Correspondent)

Cushing — Many of the local farmers are discovering, to their inconvenience, that the meat packers' strike across Canada is affecting their orderly routine. Since there are no buyers on the Montreal market, there are also no drovers to purchase their calves. In the mantime, the farmers have to contend with the feeding of this young stock until it can be disposed of.

Hear Roar of Rapids Unheard for 60 Years

(Our District Correspondent)

Cushing W. — A sound once familiar to dwellers along this section of the Ottawa River, but which has not been heard for over 60 years, has been perplexing a number of residents on the riverfront of late. The strange noise has been identified by one of the oldest inhabitants as the roar of the river flowing over the Chute à Blondeau rapids. These rapids, which at one time presented an obstacle to navigation, were obliterated when the dam at Carillon was closed in November of the year 1881. But as a result of the breach in the dam this summer, the rapids are in evidence once again at this spot.

Annual Meeting of Historical Society

The thirteenth annual meeting of the Argenteuil Historical Society is being held in the Museum at Carillon on Saturday, September 27. Commencing at 2.30 p.m., business matters at this session will include the election of officers and presentation of reports.

The guest speakers for the occasion will be the Rev. A. Geo. Moore, of Cushing, who will give a short talk on "Newfoundland", and Phoebe Erskine MacKellar, who will be heard in "Readings from Canadian Historical Poems".

Many valuable additions have been made to the exhibits and the library during the year, and visitors to the Museum on this occasion will find much to absorb their interest. Tea will be served at a nominal charge following the meeting.

POLICEMAN'S LOT

Perhaps if we of the general public had a better understanding of the policeman, his philosophy and his lot, there would be more co-operation and less "passive resistance" to the men to whom we the people have given a thankless yet vital job and who, by and large, do it remarkably well.

Meet to Arrange Argent'l Annual Plowing Match

The annual meeting of the Argenteuil Plowmen's Association committee was held Monday evening to arrange for the holding of the annual fall plowing match. President elected by the group was E. Emmett, with Albert Stewart as vice-president and Alex Bothwell secretary-treasurer.

Date set for the big event was October 8 next, and a committee was appointed to select a suitable site for the match.

The program will provide for eight classes — single horse, team and tractor plowing — and the following were recommended to judge on the merits of the show; Messrs. Donald Cumming, Jos. Legault, Robt. Morrison, Mack Cumming and Omer Sauvé.

Store Property at Arundel Sold for Modern Hotel

PASSING OF AN OLD VILLAGE LANDMARK

(Our District Correspondent)

Arundel — With the sale of the C. J. Staniforth property, comprising a store, hall and family residence, one of the earliest landmarks in this community will soon undergo a transformation, as the store building is to be converted into an up-to-date hotel.

Mr. C. J. Staniforth was one of the first merchants in Arundel, and for years the store and the hall above it formed the meeting place for the community, while the third floor was the home of Laurentian Lodge No. 81 of the Masonic brotherhood.

Mr. Staniforth served for many years as mayor of this Township, and during the passing years has freely given his services for the welfare of the district, and to those residents who sought his guidance. Both Mr. and Mrs. Staniforth have contributed greatly to the development of this growing section, and have earned the good wishes of their many friends wherever their sphere of life may take them.

For some time past the community has felt the need of a hotel, and this need is now being supplied by Sydney Bennett, member of an old and respected Arundel family. Mr. Bennett will commence work on the change immediately.

TELLS WHY SCOTSMEN DROPPED "A" IN "MAC"

St. Ann's, N.S. — A long-standing mystery has apparently been clarified at the Gaelic mod here. M. A. MacKenzie, well known Gaelic scholar, told the gathering that it was just plain laziness that induces some Scotsmen to drop the "a" in spelling the "Mac" prefix in their names, that and a desire to save ink.

Japan — Two Years Later

September 1947 — second anniversary of the Japanese surrender in Tokyo Bay — finds the land of the Rising Sun still struggling to rise above the ruin that war brought to the ambitious island empire. Two years have erased the superficial scars of war, but the Japanese people are hungry, ill-housed, and their democratic education is as sorely in need of nourishment as their thin bodies. . . . "Home" is a slipshod shack, fashioned of boards built into the earth of a Tokyo hill, to Mrs. Miyo Kakehi (above) and her six young children. Mrs. Kakehi, wife of a Tokyo postman, was bombed out of her home three times during the war. Pollyanna-like, she finds her hillside hovel superior to the cave dwellings of her neighbors and carefully tends a tiny vegetable patch to provide additional food for her family.

Quebec Plans to Spend $30-Million on Roads

Quebec (CP) — The Provincial Government plans to spend $30,000,000 this year on construction and repair of Quebec roads. Antonio Talbot, Minister of Roads, said recently in a press interview.

Just returned from a tour of inspection in the Gaspe Peninsula and on Magdalen Islands, he also disclosed that next year the Government will undertake a renewal of paving of the Gaspe and Baie des Chaleurs highway.

"We have accomplished much work this year," he said, "but there is yet much to do."

The municipal fire-truck has been around the streets more often during the past week than it has been during the past year. I hear everything is shipshape now, and fire-nervous people may rest assured. . . The condition of Route 31 is always good for joke. The gravel used for surfacing there is "no good", it should have been from another pit — so I am told. . . . The hydrant pressure on the French Hill is seven pounds; well that's why we got a booster pump. . . . Road maintenance in the county will cost the Provincial Government about $200,000 this year; some people wonder why it is not all spent on their locality. Democracy, I guess!

Me Too!

When the "Woman in the Iron Lung" got up and went downtown for a steak dinner, it was too much for Mayor Charles Cox (Port Arthur) who assailed Midway Shows at the recently concluded Canadian Lakehead Exhibition of 1947 in a stormy session of the Port Arthur Council.

The alleged steak eating activities of a woman featured in an "Iron Lung" display at the fair was only half the story, according to Mayor Cox. People could see a genuine iron lung at the local hospital which worked without the accompanying "thunder" of the Midway model.

The Mayor's charge was supported by Alderman Robinson, who claimed to have seen the iron lung on a railway flat car when the fair ended and "there was no one in it". Another variation of "Find the Lady". You know what Barnum said!

Back to School

The kids are starting school again. Mother will have a chance to catch up on her work now that Johnny or Judy is out of the way. Too often the fond parent relegates Grade I teachers to the positions of nursemaids. Why else are parents so anxious to beat the light by sending the child to school before it has reached the legal age of six years? And how indignant some become when the principal sends the little one back home for another year! It may serve a useful purpose for the parent to send the child to school before it has reached the use-of-reason stage, but it is of little benefit to the child, and considerable hindrance and annoyance to the teacher. The object of education has been that "you should learn all that it concerns you to know, in order that thereby you become all that it concerns you to be". In other words the aim of education is the knowledge not of facts but of values.

"Pin your hope for the future of this country upon the little red schoolhouse rather than upon any political party that chances to hold the reins of transient power". That's a nice platitude. But that's about all it is: it does not go far enough. Nor will it go far enough until the overwhelming importance of the little red schoolhouse percolates into the too complacent consciousness of every adult in the land.

We tend to believe that the most important group of people in this country are those who are merely raising the loudest clamor —politically, socially or economically. That belief holds about as much truth as an election pledge.

We overlook the most important population group in the realm simply because it is not vocal. That all-important population group is a mighty army of 2,500,000 (one in every five Canadians) in the schoolrooms of our nation. What we need is more education on education.

Credit to Local Red Cross Unit for Pioneering Sick Room Supply Plan

Lachute Red Cross Branch was a pioneer in the idea of sick room supply service, which was introduced in England years ago — according to a tribute voiced by W. G. Hanson, president of the Montreal branch, in outlining an extension of this service for benefit of Montreal families. The idea is gaining popularity in Canada, and the Red Cross in Toronto has had such a service for nearly a year.

Under the Red Cross plan, articles for use in the sick room at home are loaned to families upon the recommendation of a doctor, a nurse or a social service worker. The articles are installed on a temporary basis only. Included are such items as wheel chairs, hospital beds, bed blocks to raise ordinary beds to hospital elevation, linen, blankets, pillows, sick-room enamelware, water bottles, a device to help invalids move about in spite of weak limbs; back rests, sponge-rubber bed cushions, dressing gowns, air rings to ease the pressure on bed patients, baby cribs, crutches and canes, bed cradles to take the weight of blankets over legs and feet in bed.

A number of these sick-room aids kept by the Lachute Red Cross have been invaluable to many local homes in time of illness or accident. The branch has maintained this service for many years, and credit for having pioneered the plan in this country is well deserved by the ladies who have looked after the maintenance and loaning of the equipment.

Stresses Quebec's Place in Industry

Quebec (CP) — Hon. Paul Beaulieu, Provincial Minister of Trade and Commerce, stated that Quebec Province recently has realized "the most important" industrial development in Canada and now was playing "a preponderant role" in the nation's production and foreign commerce.

Mr. Beaulieu spoke at a dinner for representatives of youth movements and industry. "When we look around and see youth studying and older generations working, we can feel that we shall reach in realization beyond our most ambitious dreams," he said.

Announce Winners In Civic Contest For Beautification

The Lachute Chamber of Commerce experienced some difficulty in deciding the winners of the Beautification Contest, which has just ended. A surprising number of people throughout the town have effected improvements to their properties this season.

Following a careful survey, first prize was awarded jointly to Georges Beaulieu and Gaetan Cousineau. These two neighbors and property owners, situated on on the corner of Barron Avenue and Foundry Street, have worked assiduously all summer, so that their properties are now a credit to this section of town.

Second prize went to Gabriel Valois, who has transformed his dwelling and grounds on Bethany Street into a very attractive home.

William Jackson, of East Ward, won third prize for improvements made to his large house and spacious grounds during the past few months.

The judges found at least 15 other properties deserving of honorable mention. It was gratifying to see so many citizens taking an active interest to beautify the town by beautifying their own properties.

Dwellings which were constructed this year, or commercial properties, were not eligible for this contest.

Plans are being prepared for a much greater effort next year, when the support of everyone will be enlisted to make Lachute a really beautiful town.

It is expected that the prizes in this contest will be awarded at the next general meeting of the Chamber of Commerce.

Orange G. Mistress On Annual Visit

(By Our District Correspondent)

Grenville — "No Surrender" Lodge 210 of the L.O.B.A. held a special meeting on September 9 with an attendance of members from other lodges, to welcome the Provincial Grand Mistress, Clara Trowse, of Wakefield, Que., with her husband, Mr. Trowse. Mrs. Trowse was on her annual visit. Other Grand Lodge officers present were — Stanley Holt, G.M.; Mrs. G. Holt, Dep. G. Treas.; Mrs. G. Ball, Dep. G. M.; the Rev. G. T. Spriggs, Past Grand Master for P.E.I. — with Mrs. S. Campbell, Past Mistress, in the chair.

Grand Lodge honors were accorded to the guest officers and visiting members. Mrs. Trowse gave a stirring address, and Mr. Holt expressed greetings from Provincial Grand Lodge, while Dorothy Allan, W.M., spoke on behalf of the members of Star Lodge, Cassburn, Ont. Members of Harrington Lodge were also present.

Procedures of the Orange Order were exemplified by officers of the home lodge and visiting officials. Refreshments were served and a social hour was enjoyed in conclusion.

More Successes For Horse Breeders

John Heatlie — 1st for foal of 1947; 1st yearling filly (carriage); 1st for progeny of dam (general purpose); 1st general purpose foal of 1947; 1st for best display of heavy horses.

M. and D. Smith — 1st for brood mare.

Erskine Rodger — 1st for yeld mare; 1st for progeny of dam; 1st team; grand champion Clydesdale mare.

Plans for "Fire Prevention Week"

The regular monthly practice of Lachute Fire Brigade was held Monday evening, and it was decided to hold the annual Fire Prevention parade October 6, inaugurating Fire Prevention Week, October 5 - 11, with its customary observances.

Officials of the Brigade also decided to award prizes as before, to both Protestant and Catholic schools, for posters submitted in connection with the Fire Prevention Association's poster contest.

Fire drill in all the schools of Lachute will also be held during the campaign.

Court Case on Passing Stop-Sign

MAGISTRATE HANDS DOWN STIFF SENTENCE

Charged with violation of the town's traffic by-law — specifically in having disregarded a stop-sign August 8 last, at the corner of Barron Avenue and Main — a local tradesman appeared before District Magistrate D. Lalande at the court house here on September 6. The defendant produced witnesses to affirm that he had halted at the intersection on the day and at the time specified. However, the testimony of Chief D. Villeneuve and two other police officers stationed at the adjacent police headquarters, outweighed the evidence for the defence; and on Saturday last the Magistrate handed down a sentence of $25 with costs of the case, giving defendant eight days to pay the fine, or spend 15 days in jail.

In rendering judgment, Magistrate Lalande stated this stiff sentence was designed to discourage offenders who might choose to dispute the civic authority and unnecessarily involve the town corporation in legal action.

An appeal was entered on behalf of the defendant.

Fernand Legault, of the legal firm of Legault & Legault, appeared for the Town of Lachute.

Turf and Lawn Management

Lawns may be started in fall and early spring. Watering at least once a day, in late afternoon, is a prime requisite to ensure growth.

The establishment and maintenance of a satisfactory turf requires in the first place the use of suitably adapted species of grass and careful attention to layout and construction. Poor design, uneven surfaces, and the use of soil of unsatisfactory physical condition handicaps unnecessarily the possibility of establishing a desirable stand of grass. A turf well established with suitable species, and intelligently maintained will insure a minimum of trouble from turf disorders.

However, even under optimum conditions constant care is necessary for best results. Probably the most common cause of poor turf is lack of sufficient plant-food. Since active turf is continually producing new growth, the greatest demand is for nitrogen. However, phosphoric acid and potash must not be neglected in a fertilizer program. Of these, phosphoric acid is the more important except on sandy and muck soils, where potash is frequently deficient. An excess of potash tends to increase the percentage of clover in turf.

Fifteen pounds of 20% superphosphate per 1000 square feet, raked in just before seeding, or under new sodding, materially assists in obtaining a satisfactory initial stand of grass.

Minor elements of plantfood are as essential for grass development as for other forms of plant life. Consequently it has been found of advantage to combine organic and inorganic forms of fertilizer for the most satisfactory results. In addition to the regular food elements supplied by the organic part of a fertilizer, such minor elements as magnesium, sulphur, iron, etc., are assured by the addition of a suitable inorganic portion.

The aim of fertilizing and related maintenance operation is to have a turf in a slowly growing, dense, healthy condition at all times. A rapid, luxuriant growth is not necessary, and is definitely undesirable during the warmer months because such succulent growth is more susceptible to drought and disease than a more slowly developing sod.

It is recommended that under average conditions, lawns receive two applications of a complete fertilizer each year, one in the early spring and one in the fall. This may be supplemented if required by additional feedings during the summer of sulphate of ammonia at the rate of 2 pounds per 1000 square feet. Eight to ten pounds per 1000 square feet is a satisfactory rate of application of the complete fertilizers. The use of 10-6-4 fertilizer with 25% of the nitrogen organic in nature has been found very satisfactory. Other garden and household formulas are suitable for turf feeding.

It is important that the fertilizer be spread evenly. If a mechanical spreader is used, care must be taken to avoid overlapping, leaving unfertilized strips or spilling of extra quantities, at the starting or finishing points of the various watered in immediately after-operations. The grass should be dry at the time of treatment, and the fertilizer should be thoroughly wards to avoid burning foliage.

If a supply of well rotted manure is available and reasonable in price a liberal dressing may be applied in late fall. Unless manure is very well rotted it will introduce many weed seeds and should not be used at all. It should be finely divided, and no large clumps allowed to lie on the grass. In the spring all coarse portions of the manure should be raked off, preferably before active growth begins.

Raising the cutting bar of the lawn mower about one inch for the hot dry periods of midsummer is a considerable aid in maintaining a suitable turf.

Moisture and Air In Filling Silos

In making good silage it has been found that the moisture content of the crop is the most important factor. The most suitable moisture content is around 65 per cent, but it is possible to make reasonably good silage with the moisture ranging from five per cent above or below that amount. Next in importance and closely connected with the moisture content is the control of the air in the silage mass. It is undesirable to force all of the air from the interspaces of the cut crop, only a small amount of air being necessary for the functioning of the ensilage process.

To provide the proper amount of air in the silage, the following precautions should be observed: (1) The walls and the doors of the silo should be airtight. See that there are no small holes or cracks; (2) The moisture content of the crop should be about 65 per cent; (3) The silage cutter should be set to cut in ¼ lengths; (4) The silo should be filled as quickly as possible. Holdups over 24 hours should be avoided; (5) The heaviest and wettest material should be placed-on top to provide pressure on the entire mass; (6) A limited amount of drainage should be located at the bottom of the silo to prevent waterlogging or accumulation of moisture; (7) Pack solidly, taking care to fill in and tramp well any pockets that may occur near the walls. Even after the silage is settled, it is well to examine the top from time to time to see if any shrinkage from the walls has occurred.

Memories in the Fall

CRISP autumn days bring nostalgic thoughts to many a city man who spent his boyhood on the farm.

This was the time of year for threshing and silo-filling, which not so long ago meant hard work for adults but held countless attractions for youngsters. They were fascinated by the smooth, easy power of the old-fashioned steam engine, and were delighted by the gargantuan meals.

Modern machinery has brought many changes in threshing. In the Canadian West and on many farms in the central provinces, the combine has replaced the threshing machine. The individual farmer threshes his grain as he cuts it and afterwards he hauls in what straw he needs, helped by another modern contraption — the buck rake — which has brought a tremendous change in another farm operation, haying.

Gasoline tractors generally have replaced steam as the motive power for thresing machines. These old steam engines, delightful as they were to watch, sometimes produced unwelcome work for farm youngsters. They had what appeared to be an insatiable appetite for water. And in hot weather when the windmill failed, it often took hours of manual pumping every day to produce the necessary supply.

The old-time bunkhouse on wheels for threshing workers has virtually disappeared. Now the thresher's permanent employees drive home at night in cars.

In the old days of few silo-filling outfits, work was done on a custom basis, farmers helping one another with the work. But now individual farmers — with their tractors and silo-fillers, fill their own. Or sometimes two or three farmers share ownership of a cutting box and help each other with the job.

Modern methods provide more efficient and more economical operation. They make it easier for the farm housewife, who used to put special efforts into the task of preparing meals. But they have removed from farm life those events which, despite the work, were enjoyable social functions. They had an educational angle too, bringing farmers together to discuss better ways of raising their crops.

But city men who left the farm and often wish they hadn't, can always revel in the memories that stir in the fall.

Wooden Coaches

THE RAILROAD disaster which occurred near Dugald, Manitoba, claiming more than 30 lives, has caused much criticism of the railway company for using wooden coaches to carry the several hundred campers from the Lake of the Woods resorts to Winnipeg. Undoubtedly, if the campers had been transported in steel coaches there would have been no deaths, or one or two at most.

In defending their position, Canadian railroads point out that they have been forced to use coaches of wooden construction because output of steel coaches is not sufficient to meet the demand. Production of rail equipment was restricted during the war, with the result that now there is a tremendous backlog of orders. Railroads are forced to use a certain amount of equipment which is out of date.

It is easy to condemn the use of wooden coaches in this particular instance. The campers themselves no doubt would have protested loudly if the railroad had refused to take them home that evening because steel coaches were unavailable. One can imagine their indignation if they had been left stranded at the various resorts.

Railway officials know better than anyone else the danger in using wooden coaches. Major lines in the United States will not handle such a car. The Dugald tragedy may bring about legislation to ban them completely in Canada. Such a decision would probably be a wise one, even if it should cause inconvenience to passengers. It would be better to run fewer trains until such time as proper equipment is available, rather than to risk endangering the lives of passengers.

Healthy Children

WITH the re-opening of schools in Canada, the Department of National Health and Welfare reminds parents to keep watch on the health of their children. Carefully compiled statistics show that approximately 60 per cent of children entering schools in Canada these days have one or more physical defects. Because of this public health authorities are urging on parents the importance of regular medical examinations. No child has the proper chance for success in studies and in sport unless minor defects are remedied.

For school children, care of the eyes is important. Continuous eye-train can undermine general health. Harmful glare must be avoided when doing close work or when studying. Normal eyes, used under good lighting conditions, need not develop strain. If they do, the doctor should be asked to examine them to determine whether glasses are needed.

Care of the teeth is important, and this fact is emphasized when one considers that 23 per cent of Canadian volunteers in the first year of the recent war were found unfit for service because of bad teeth and diseased gums. Although young men, they had mouths which were old and crippled by decay and pyorrhea. To ensure oral health, a visit to the dentist at least twice a year is necessary.

Most parents are mindful that children need proper rest. A good diet builds healthy bodies. Well-fed young people are more resistant to infectious diseases and can withstand all sorts of strains and stresses better than those who are undernourished. Regular hours of sleep are also important.

Parents can do much to improve our national health. Sturdy children grow into healthy adults.

Competition Factor

A GLIMPSE of "post-war" automobile design is being given Canadians through advertising and exhibition of the much-discussed new "Tucker '48". . . Constructed with 800 less parts than any car now on the market, the manufacturer, Preston Tucker, claims his car is a radical departure from anything yet produced by the auto industry. Mechanical features assembled by the designer include torque converters which eliminate the conventional clutch, transmission and differential with power being applied directly to the wheels from the rear engine; aluminum air-cooled single disc brakes, individual wheel suspension; and a special safety chamber where front-seat passengers may duck in case of an impending collision.

The Tucker car is definitely something new in automobile design. However, other manufacturers have not yet introduced their 1948 models. Henry Ford, Jr., has announced that his company will bring out an entirely new car, while executives of other companies have hinted at new designs. From the way events are shaping up, it would seem as if automobile manufacturers are about to engage in sharp competition, the outcome of which should be beneficial to the public in way of better-designed — and cheaper — cars.

METEOROLOGICAL note: Now that the new mail order house catalogues have arrived we can expect summer to end anytime.

Garden Trees, Shrubs For Autumn Color

Experimental Farm News

In Canada, particularly the Eastern section, Nature creates a blaze of color as a farewell to the growing season. If Canadian gardens are to be typical of the country there should be planting of trees and shrubs which will produce in the fall the brilliant picture so typical of Canadian landscape paintings — says R. W. Oliver of the Horticulture Division at Ottawa.

The gold and scarlet of the hard or sugar maple in the fall is familiar. It is much more attractive in late September and October than the Norway maple, which turns yellow, or the silver maple, the leaves of which simply turn dull and fall off. The last two are planted because they grow more quickly. Another native, the red maple superior to these two, will grow very quickly and produce brilliant crimson foliage.

Few of the best known flowering shrubs produce much fall color. They rise to glory in June, but in autumn are outdone by their less known garden companions. One of the exceptions is the wayfaring tree, which has large flattened domes of small white flowers in June and deep purplish foliage in fall. Dogwoods too have fairly showy heads of white flowers and good crimson and gold foliage. They also have brilliant red bark in winter.

The scarlet fall foliage of dwarf or Japanese barberry is a familiar sight, because it is used so often as a low hedge, but less familiar though equally beautiful is the blaze of sumac on rocky hillsides, the gold and scarlet of amur maples in the park, or the rosy red foliage of the winged spindle tree.

Fruited shrubs, too, add color in autumn; mountain ash, European red elderberry, and the highbush cranberry with their cluster of crimson, the brilliant scarlet of barberry and any of the cotoneasters, and the purplish-black of our native elders, viburnums and dogwoods. All contrast well with the white berries of snowberry.

A touch of autumn color comes with the familiar rose and orange fruits of bittersweet, a common native vine in Canadian woods. Somewhat similar fruits are borne by the commonly known spindle or strawberry trees, which have inconspicuous flowers but in fall they are well worth having in the larger garden.

New Savings Bond Issue Next Month

Ottawa — The decision to offer a second series of Canada Savings Bonds, forecast some time ago, has been confirmed by the Hon. Douglas Abbott, Minister of Finance. The new issue goes on sale on October 14. . . The Bonds will be dated November 1, 1947, and will bear interest at the rate of 2¾% each year for ten years. They may be redeemed at any time for full face value plus interest, and will be registered in the owner's name — affording protection against loss. Not more than $1,000 of this series may be registered in any one name.

Mr. Abbott pointed out that the new series will enable the continuance of the Payroll Savings Plan now in operation in thousands of organizations throughout the country.

Church Wedding By Candlelight At Brownsburg

Milligan - Hillman

The marriage of Miss Ferne Elizabeth Hillman, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Hillman, of Upper Kent, New Brunswick, to Mr. David Egbert Milligan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Milligan, of Carrot River, Saskatchewan, took place in St. George's Anglican Church, Brownsburg, at 6.30 on Saturday evening, September 13.

The Rev. C. R. Lang officiated, Mrs. N. Somers played the wedding music, and the choir sang "Oh Perfect Love", during the signing of the register. . . . The church was lighted with candles. White gladioli and ferns formed the decorations.

The bride, given in marriage by Mr. Herbert Graham, wore a floor-length gown of white taffeta fashioned on simple lines, with lace yolk and full skirt, having long sleeves with lace wrist points. Her train-length veil of embroidered tulle illusion was held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms and tulle, having a sweetheart effect. She carried a white prayer book, with carnations and streamers of sweet peas.

The matron of honor, Mrs. John Dodge, wore a floor-length gown of blue brocaded taffeta with matching headdress, and carried a nosegay of pink sweet peas.

Mr. John Dodge acted as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Milligan left later on their wedding trip to Boston, Mass., the bride travelling in a grey crepe dress under a black wool coat and wearing black accessories, also a three-strand pearl necklace with earrings to match, the gift of the groom. . . They will reside in Kingston, Ont.

Around the Country

Jim Greenblat

Mrs. Annie Lowrie, Tillsonburg, Ont., at 86 years keeps a garden 75 by 30 feet, doing everything but the plowing. . While cleaning salmon in Belding's Fish Market, Fredericton, N.B., a newly born kitten still in the protective sack was found in a salmon's stomach. . . . L. L. Lymburner, of Nokomis, Sask., was trying out a Farm-All tractor, then decided to buy it, found that his wallet with $1,200 was gone; then plowed back the furrows and uncovered the money; whew! . . . It cut its own throat; that happened to a horse belonging to Harvey Barr in the Glasgow, Ont., district. Horse reared up on back of truck, gashed its throat, bled to death. . . Canada's oldest living and longest married couple, Mr. and Mrs. John Jacob Henkel, spent the summer at their country home in the Laurentians, preparing to celebrate their 80th wedding anniversary; both are just over a 100 years old.

Creative Banking
PLAYED A PART

WHEN A MAN accepts his pay does he ever stop to wonder how it got into his hand . . . who hired the accountants, who sells the products, who ordered the machinery, who picked out the site and built the factory, who put up the original money?

Creative Banking probably had a share in making that weekly pay a practical reality in his hand. Creative Bankng plus men of ability with the vision and the courage to borrow money and build it into factories or mines, or buildings.

At The Bank of Nova Scotia we're proud of our share in the development of industry in Canada, proud to have been associated with the men who have made those jobs, those wages and salaries so commonplace they're taken for granted.

Creative Banking helps create more work and better living for Canadians.

FLOUR AND BREAD PRICES TO BE INCREASED

Government Withdraws Subsidy to Consumer

CANADIAN housewives will soon be asked to pay higher prices for flour. The Milling Industry of Canada would like to tell why.

Nearly six years ago the price of flour was fixed at the low prices then ruling, based on wheat costing 77⅜c per bushel when milled for use in Canada.

Since then, the price of wheat has advanced step by step, but the Government has paid the difference in the form of a consumer subsidy in order that you might buy flour and bread at no increase.

Wheat has actually risen to $1.58½ a bushel so that for some time past the Government has been paying more than half the full cost.

Now the Government has dropped the subsidy and the price Millers will pay for wheat through the Government Wheat Board will be more than double what it was originally. That is why the cost of flour will be increased.

Furthermore, the cost of bags, other supplies, labour and transportation has increased substantially during the control period.

Canadian Millers, however, knowing the importance of flour in the family diet pledge themselves to keep the price as low as they possibly can.

The prices of practically all ingredients in bread have also risen sharply and your Baker must take this into consideration when calculating his new prices.

The Flour Milling Industry of Canada

REDEEMING FEATURE

The stork has done pretty well for himself in Prince George, but the way in which pink booties are coming to the fore suggests an upset of the time-honored status enjoyed in the North for many years by bachelors. The redeeming influx of teachers and nurses helped civilize this territory of rugged individualists.

Garden Produce For Winter Use

Putting away the garden produce for winter use requires considerable effort but keeping these vegetables in good condition is relatively easy, if a few simple rules are carefully followed.

Change in storage arrangement within the available space will make a great difference in the life and nutritive values of vegetables.

Temperature is important, potatoes, if chilled below 35°F., will be sweet and waxy when cooked but will sprout and wilt if kept above 41°F., therefore they must be stored at between 36°F., and 40°F. Other root vegetables such as beets, carrots, turnips and salsify, keep well if packed in sand and at temperatures between 33°F., and 38°F.

Tomatoes picked when almost mature, yet green, will keep for some time if they are free from insect injury or skin punctures and if they have not been touched by frost.

Hard and heavy heads of cabbage are in prime condition for storage. Left in the field too long the reads will burst and become too crisp or brittle, while heads cut when soft or immature will wilt badly.

Before placing in storage, outside leaves should be stripped off, as these interfere with ventilation which is one of the most important essentials in the storage of cabbage.

Cabbage heads should be well cooled before placing in storage.

One method of storing cabbage is to bring the heads into the storeroom with roots attached, and place these roots in moist sand on the floor with heads in an upright position as closely together as possible.

Another method is to cut the heads from the roots, leaving about two inches of shank attached, and place these trimmed heads on the side shelves of the storage with two tiers on each shelf.

A third method is to pile trimmed cabbage heads on the cellar floor in the form of a long pyramidical heap with a six or eight head base, and stack to one head at the top, extending the pile to length desired.

Perfect heads of cauliflower may be stored for a considerable time by lifting each plant with root attached, leaves tied up over the head, and planting close together in moist sand or soil on the storage floor. If late plants are available they will keep in this manner until January or early February.

It has been found that cauliflower cut slightly before reaching full maturity will keep better than fully matured heads.

Temperatures of 33°F. to 40°F., have been found to be the most satisfactory for cauliflower. High temperatures cause the surface of the head to harden, turn brown, and become loose very quickly.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, claim those broken heads of cabbage, over-ripe cucumbers, slightly browned cauliflower and small green tomatoes that are not good enough to store will be perfect for pickles; and Winter Salad is one that is excellent.

Winter Salad

3 Cups chopped cabbage, 3 cups chopped cauliflower, 3 cups chopped ripe cucumber, 3 cups chopped green tomatoes, 3 cups chopped onion, 2 cups chopped celery (optional), 1 cup salt, 8 cups cider vinegar, 1 cup flour, 3 cups brown sugar, 4 tablespoons dry mustard, 1 teaspoon turmeric, 1 teaspoon celery seed, 2 cups cold water.

Prepare vegetables by putting through the food chopper. Mix with salt and let stand over night. Cook 10 minutes, stirring often. Drain well.

Bring vinegar to boiling. Mix all ingredients to a smooth paste. Add slowly to hot vinegar, cook stirring until thickened. Mix well with vegetables, re-heat. Bottle while hot.

Girls A-Twitter Over Long Skirts

"Too Drastic" Say Many, About Fashion's Latest Decree

Toronto (CP) — The new long skirts came to the 16 fashion shows put on daily at the Canadian National Exhibition and inspired violent comment.

Some muttered that it was too drastic a change while others, a minority no doubt, were frankly glad because they had grown bored with the standardized styles of the war years.

The 14-inches-from-the-ground length looked especially well on the slender, although the tall girl may wear her skirt an inch higher and achieve a graceful effect.

Favorites with the audience were colorful wool gabardine suits of grey and red, with cutaway jacket, and black wool two-piece dress.

Hit of the showing of evening fashions was a black nylon gown with a sweeping skirt twinkling with sequins. Another rich green satin also won approval. The afternoon dresses included one of black satin with drapery over one hip, a tunic style of crinkled grey and a brown draped satin dress trimmed with bronze heads.

Scottish Motif

Tartan outfits took the spotlight in the sports section which featured a new long flaring plaid skirt for wear after skiing.

At the hat show in the Coliseum the audience got a chance to turn model when commentator Mel Keay invited volunteers to step up, show off the new hats and win themselves either a cake or a box of powder as a reward.

At one showing the judgment of the audience, registered by clapping, went to a grey-haired woman in a black dress who modelled a grey felt bicorne trimmed with feathers. Different hats won most applause as the crowd varied, Keay said.

For the sew-your-own group the new flared-back coat appeared in a mother and daughter combination. A little girl's dress and a small boy's suit drew the attention of the mothers with back-to-school wardrobes in mind.

Recent Wedding at Brownsb'g United Church

Galley - Heatlie

At the Brownsburg United Church on Saturday afternoon, August 30, at three o'clock, the marriage was quietly solemnized of Margaret Elinor, daughter of Mrs. James Heatlie, of St. Philippe, Que., to Robert John, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Manning Galley, of Cambridge, England, the Rev. S. Pike officiating. A profusion of gladioli and hydrangeas decorated the church.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Alvin Heatlie, the bride wore a street-length gown of grey crepe fashioned on softly draped lines, with cowl neckline, cap sleeves, and with the lace insertion of the bodice worn over pink tulle. She wore a large black hat trimmed with corded ribbon, black suede shoes with dull plastic insets, white gloves, and carried a corsage of pink rosebuds and baby's breath on a small corded silk bag. Her pearl earrings and bracelet were matched.

The mother of the bride wore a gown of cedar green crepe with black accessories and a small corsage of American Beauty roses with baby's breath.

Miss Ethel McOuat, of Lachute, was organist and played during the signing of the register "I'll Walk Beside You". Mr. Keith Osterheld, of Rockville Centre, Long Island, nephew of the bride, was the only usher.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother at St. Philippe, with many relatives and friends in attendance. The wedding cake flanked with low bowls of pink roses and carnations, tall white tapers and sheaves of gladioli, served as recoration.

Guests from a distance were the bride's sisters — Mrs. Albert Osterheld, of Long Island, N.Y., and Mrs. Charles Wilson, of Nakina, Ont.; also the bride's nephew, Mr. Keith Osterheld, as well as a niece and nephew of the groom, Miss Patricia Galley and Mr. Steve Galley, of Montreal.

The couple will reside in Montreal.

"ARMY" COPES WITH SOCIAL PROBLEM

Toronto — "Illegitimacy in Canada continues to be a vital problem for Social agencies", says Lieut.-Col. Hilda Aldridge, head of the Salvation Army's Women's Social Service work.

Commenting upon controversial reports on the subject, Colonel Aldridge said that accurate information is almost impossible to get. The number of married women who are mothers to children by other than their husbands adds to the confusion Such women, registering in hospitals under their married name, lessen chances of learning the infant's true paternity.

In all, 15,864 infants were born last year in the Army's 31 Women's Homes and Hospitals, the Colonel states. Girls cared for in Receiving and Maternity Homes numbered 2,739 with 1,600 infants born to unmarried mothers. In five Sunset Lodges for aged women 324 persons were accommodated. . . . 1946 was a record year in Salvation Army Nurses' Training Schools, Colonel Aldridge added. Even so, nursing staffs in Army Hospitals are still below strength in view of increasing demands. Hospital extensions are proceeding, a $270,000 four-storey addition to Winnipeg Grace Hospital being the latest opening.

is a lot of little things

PUBLIC PROPERTY IS YOUR PROPERTY

Most of us respect the private property of others and in turn demand a similar respect for our own! Then why shouldn't we extend this responsibility to what we all own . . . the neighborhood parks, government buildings, etc. . . . in general, public property?

Your money helps buy, build and maintain it. Take a pride in your ownership . . . refrain from abusing public property in any way . . . and prevent others from abusing it. You'll be acting in the interests of "Good Citizenship".

You can help this public service effort. Make a note of some of the little things which, in your opinion, contribute to Good Citizenship.

Effect Revision of C-I-L Employees' Pension Scheme

7,400 REGULAR EMPLOYEES AFFECTED BY NEW PROVISIONS

More than 7,400 regular employees of the Canadian Industries Limited will benefit under a revised pension plan effective October 1, which provides retirement pensions commencing at age 65 for those with at least 15 years' service, entirely at the company's expense.

Retirement on pension before age 65 is made possible for employees with 30 years' service, for they may retire at any time between 60 and 65 if they wish. Disability pensions are provided in cases of continuing disability suffered at work or away from work, after completion of 15 years' service. All pensions are provided at the sole expense of C-I-L, no employee contributions being involved.

Amount of pension (either for retirement or disability) is calculated by multiplying the number of years of the employee's pension service by 1% of his average monthly earnings during the final 10 years before retirement. For example, an employee with 40 years' pension service at 65 would be eligible for a monthly retirement pension of 40% of his average monthly earnings during his final 10 years' service. This pension would be payable for life.

The new Retirement and Disability Pension Plan was announced in a letter to employees from George W. Huggett, president and managing director. The new Plan replaces the original C-I-L pension plan introduced in 1919 and which provided for disability pensions only.

Emphasizing the desire of the company to concentrate on provisions for employees' long-term security, Mr. Huggett said, "The continuing contribution of all employees to the progress of C-I-L is an asset which cannot be measured in dollars. Recognizing this fact, the management has constantly endeavored to keep in mind the personal welfare of its employees. In the expectation of retiring some day from active service we are all obliged to consider the future. The assurance of some provision having been made for income makes us look forward more eagerly to the prospect of years of well deserved leisure.

"Your job with C-I-L already carries with it numerous substantial benefits which apply both on and off the job. With the introduction of this new Plan, the benefits which extend into your years of retirement have been considerably enlarged."

The requirement that an employee be under 45 when hired in order to be eligible for a pension, has been eliminated.

Employees who are 65 or over when this plan takes effect need not retire immediately. A special provision permits them to retire at any time up to June 30, 1949, which is also the retirement date for those who reach 65 between October 1, 1947, and June 30, 1949. This provision will allow the individual reasonable time to make plans for retirement. After June 30, 1949, employees will be required to retire at the end of the month in which they attain 65.

The new Plan recognizes service with the armed forces. Generally speaking, the entire period of absence for war service is counted as pension service for a regular employee who was with the company at date of enlistment and who returned to the company upon discharge.

An important advantage of this non-contributory plan is that it provides a pension automatically and entirely at the company's expense while the employee remains free to provide out of his current earnings whatever additional retirement income he may believe he will need, whether by annuities, life insurance or otherwise.

Under the original pension plan, C-I-L provided disability pensions to long-service employees no longer able to continue their duties. More than 130 former employees are at present receiving pensions; these will continue without interruption.

In addition to the cost of several million dollars already accrued, these new changes in the Plan will cost the company another $1,100,000 merely to cover the service of present employees up to date. With that done, the cost of maintaining the Plan will be substantially greater each year than the cost of the old plan.

The most costly single feature of the Plan is the provision that a pension is to be calculated on average earnings of the final 10 years of service with C-I-L. That average is likely to be considerably higher than an employee's lifetime average earnings. But of much greater importance is the protection which this provision gives the individual against the long-term tendency of prices to increase.

Industrial Safety Conference Here, Session Tonight

TWO-DAY CONCLAVE TO PROMOTE SAFETY PRACTICES

The annual regional Industrial Safety Congress of the Quebec Association for the Prevention of Industrial Accidents is being held in Lachute today (Thursday) and tomorrow, September 25-26.

Employers, foremen, keymen and workers in the industries and establishments of Lachute and district will participate in this two-day convention. The program includes two sessions — the first of which will consist of a meeting for employers, foremen, keymen, etc., this evening at Lachute Golf Club. The second meeting will be a Safety rally for workers, to be held on Friday at 8 p.m. in Lachute Auditorium. Attendance prizes will be distributed at this rally, and moving pictures will be shown as an added attraction.

The Quebec Association for the Prevention of Industrial Accidents has representatives present to address these meetings; they will discuss practical safety suggestions and present motion pictures illustrating safety practices.

Pair Arrested in Possession of Stolen Truck

Following information last weekend that an army truck had been seen in the neighborhood under suspicious circumstances, two men were picked up by police at the Seignory on Monday. The pair—Robt. Baxter, 17, and George Holden, 21, both of East Greenfield, Que. — were in possession of the truck when arrested by Traffic Officer Howard Jones near the farm of Ted Hammond, in the direction of Lakefield.

Lodged in the local jail overnight, the men were taken to Bordeaux the following morning by provincial detectives from Montreal headquarters.

It was stated the younger man, Baxter, was serving in the reserve army, and the army vehicle had been reported missing from Longueuil depot since September 17 last.

Piedmont Regional Chambers of Commerce Meet at St. Jerome

A Chamber of Commerce gathering of the Piedmont district is in session today (Thursday) at Lapointe Hotel in St. Jerome. A number of Lachute members and their ladies are in attendance, most of the delegation being executive officers of the local group.

Prominent on the agenda is discussion on Laurentian highways and other aspects of the tourist business. One resolution will concern the winter maintenance of Quebec highways. Others will embody representations to the provincial government to widen Laurentian Highway No. 11, and to pave Route 41 (Lachute-St. Jerome-St. Lip). . . The representatives of Lachute Chamber of Commerce have a particular interest in this latter project. It is expected they will also voice a sentiment to include similar work on Route 31, from Lachute to St. Jovite.

Chimes Installed In United Church

Technicians have been engaged this week in the installation of a chimes broadcasting system at Lachute United Church. The recorded chimes, transmitted by Stromberg - Carlson electronic equipment, will be heard from two large amplifiers in the church belfry. The sound is said to be audible over a radius of from one to two miles, according to wind direction. Microphones installed in the organ lofts will also make it possible to broadcast the organ music on special occasions. Controls for the system are situated in the hall beneath the church auditorium.

The electronic chimes are the gift of Mr. J. S. Giles, in memory of the late Mrs. Giles. On a recent visit to St. Thomas, Ontario, Mr. Giles was impressed by the performance of this system installed at one of the city churches, and thought to procure a similar equipment for the United Church in Lachute. The idea met with approval from the church board, and the chimes are now ready for operation.

R. E. Hainsworth, of St. Thomas, and L. G. Speers, of Port Stanley, were the technicians responsible for installation.

British Speed Demon Breaks Own Record

John Cobb, of London, on September 16 broke his own world's land speed record of 369.7 m.p.h. in his Railton-Mobil-Special, on the Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah, by attaining an average speed for the two-mile run of 394.196 miles per hour. On his second run he achieved the distinction of being the first man to travel over 400 miles per hour on land. His Railton Car has two Napier 12-cylinder engines of 1,250 h.p. The body of the car lifts completely off the chassis to allow the driver to enter and enable mechanics to refuel and adjust the engines.

Skull Fracture and Other Injuries in Two Road Mishaps

Late Saturday night on No. 8 Highway just east of St. Philippe, Angus Munro, 57-year-old farm employee at James Beattie's, R. R. 5, was struck by a car while walking eastward and suffered a fractured skull. Driver of the auto of Thos. H. McNeil, of Calumet district, who stated the victim stepped unexpectedly into the centre of the road, and he could not avoid striking him.

Brought to the Providence Hospital, the man was attended by Dr. Marc Papineau, of Lachute, and later taken by ambulance to Montreal, where he was admitted to the Neurological Institute suffering from a fractured skull. . . It is understood the victim, a widower, has a daughter residing in Montreal.

On Route 8 at Chatboro, around 11.30 o'clock on the night of September 21, a car driven by Roger Richer, of St. Michel, struck the platform of a truck proceeding in the opposite direction toward Hawkesbury. The impact tore the driveshaft from the truck, and it was later found 50 feet from the scene of the accident. The vehicle, owned by the E. D. Campbell sawmill, was driven by Lucien Mayer, of Hawkesbury. The passenger car was completely wrecked.

Mme Henri Guindon, 25, of Grenville Bay, had one finger torn off as the collision occurred, and also suffered lesions about the head. She is now under treatment at Dr. Kelly's Hospital, Hawkesbury. Mme Guindon was riding in the truck with the driver and four other passengers, who suffered slight shock.

In the automobile were the driver, Richer, who was cut about the head; Mary Anne Gagné, of Hull, who was badly cut in the thigh and knee; also three others who were less seriously hurt. All were taken to Hawkesbury for medical treatment.

Patrolman H. Jones was called to investigate both accidents.

Discussion on CCF Affairs, at Weir, Que.

This coming week-end the Quebec executive of the CCF party and their followers are meeting at Round Lake Inn, Weir, and discussions on policy of the party will be on the order paper.

The national secretary, Dave Lewis, of Ottawa, and Prof. Frank Scott of McGill University, Montreal, are to be the guest speakers.

The River Jordan is about 200 miles long and at some points as much as 15 miles broad.

Standard Time at Midnight Saturday

Adding still more emphasis to the change of season, Advanced Time ends with the last week-end of September.

Those who retire late this coming Saturday may spend an extra hour in bed next morning. . . And those who go to church on fast time Sunday, will enjoy 60 minutes of quiet meditation till the minister arrives. . .

In other words, set your clocks back one hour at midnight Saturday.

WINTER NEARS

After the heat of the past short summer, it is rather welcome to have cooler mornings and evenings. But none of us look forward to the approach of winter with any degree of satisfaction. We all hope that the fall season will extend well into the winter period.

Plan for Winter Road Maintenance, Carillon-Grenville

Last week at the Bar-X Hotel in Stonefield, a meeting of the Grenville and Carillon Winter Roads Association was held to review the past season's experience, and to plan operations for this coming winter. A canvass among interested residents and businessmen resulted in a total collection of $757, which was approximately sufficient to meet expenses. It is estimated a fund of $1,000 should be raised to do the job effectively over the winter of 1947 - 48.

Chairman of this organization is Gilbert E. Arnold, Grenville, with Paul Faubert vice-president, and Howard Crooks secretary-treasurer. The work of snow-clearing on the Grenville-Carillon highway was successfully undertaken by Mr. Crooks and his son, their equipment consisting of a sturdy truck with wing and V-plow attachments. Only on two occasions last winter did the snowdrifts defy their efforts — similar conditions over those two or three days having been the general experience around this countryside. The Grenville-Carillon committee plans to follow the same procedure, with the same operators, this coming season.

Early Frost Sends Gardeners Scurrying; All Is Not Lost

With late-ripening cucumbers, tomatoes and other produce in their vegetable plots, many local gardeners were in a dither as the season's first frost hit this locality Monday night. Hearing the weather forecast by radio that evening, certain of our seed-bed enthusiasts were seen with flashlights gathering their crops, picking autumn flowers, or covering the plants in their gardens. By morning the mercury registered 30 degrees, and in many exposed sections, wilted leaves and vines told the tale of "tempus fugit".

ANNUAL HEADACHE

This year there were 17 cities and towns operating on daylight saving time in Nova Scotia, and 15 in New Brunswick. Surely it is time this matter be given serious consideration in the various provinces, to have legislation enacted to eliminate this confusion.

Write 'Finis' to Textile Strike

Uninformed observers were under the general impression the Ayers Limited strike was long since terminated. Only this week in the Montreal press, however, appeared an item which makes the "finis" final and official.

"Reliable union sources" are quoted as stating that the union had called off the strike which began last April 10, and asked to retain their certification at the plant.

There have been no pickets outside the plant for the past ten days (said the news despatch), and it is reported that the U.T.W.A. in a "desperate effort to keep as much control over a situation hopelessly lost for the workers," has called off the strike and asked for their union certification to be reinstated.

Right wing union leaders said: "This is evidently another case where a Communist led union loses out for the workers through ill-advised strike action".

Saga in Verse At Historical Soc'y Meeting, Sept. 27

13th MILESTONE IN THE PRESERVATION OF LOCAL HISTORY

Traditions from the Red Men through the years of the first white settlers in Canada, will be retold at Carillon Museum next Saturday as a sidelight to the Argenteuil Historical Society's 13th annual meeting. The narrator will be Phoebe Erskine McKellar, well known exponent of Canadian verse and folklore. Another speaker, the Rev. A. Geo. Moore of Cushing, will talk on Newfoundland, past and present.

These features of the annual gathering, and the museum exhibits which include this season's collection of oils by a local artist Vivian Walker, and the display of antique clocks just recently added, will afford ample interest to the public. The reports of the Society's president, Dr. H. B. Cushing, and secretary, Miss Beatrice Robertson, will also prove gratifying material to the membership.

Arrangements have been made for the serving of refreshments at a nominal charge, and it is expected this autumn event will provide a happy interlude and renewal of acquaintanceship among Ottawa Valley residents.

The recital of Phoebe McKellar will include colorful poems from the Canadian anthologies. Among them are the following: "At The Long Sault; May 1660." (The story of Daulac), by Archibald Lampman. "Helène Boulle, to her husband Samuel de Champlain", by Alice M. S. Lighthall. "Reindeer Saga" (Bahr the Lapp's five year trek in bringing reindeer from Alaska to the Canadian Esquimaux), by Doris Ferne. "The Corn Husker", by E. Pauline Johnson. "The Micmac Woman", by Margaret Furness MacLeod. "The Indian Woman Weeps" (Stony), by Lynette, of Calgary.

MECHANICAL "EMPLOYEE"

Edmonton (CP) — The mechanical examination marker used by the Alberta department of education during the last school term for recording results of tests may become an "employee" of the department. Officials say latest results of the machine's operations have been successful enough to warrant a recommendation for another experiment.

September Finds Women's Institute Organizations in Renewed Activity

Arundel W. I. meeting for September was under the convenership of Mrs. Melvin Cooke. Mr. Fenton was guest speaker and stressed the need of a sports field day — to which the branch promised its support. Mr. Melvin Graham showed three sound films, "This is London", "Colors in Clay", and "Venice at Carnival Time".

At Brownsburg, the members enjoyed a paper given by the program convener, on the subject of Sweden and its customs.

Frontier branch had for its roll-call, "What I would buy if the Women's Institute paid for it". Following the subject of the program topic, publicity for the different departments of work was presented in the form of a dialogue compiled by the branch Publicity convener. A "personal parcel" was sent to England. Gifts were given for infants whose mothers were members of the W.I.

Lachute branch had a large attendance at its September meeting. Members stood for a moment's silence in memory of the late Mrs. H. M. Gall. Mrs. A. Lamontagne gave an excellent report of the provincial convention held in June. The president, Mrs. Geo. Y. Deacon, on behalf of Lachute W.I. welcomed the High School teachers at an afternoon tea. Mr. F. Royal, principal, voiced the appreciation of the staff for the different donations made to the school during the past year by the Institute.

Lakefield members had for their roll-call "My Favorite Hobby". Pockets were removed from a novelty apron and verses judged by the gentlemen present. Mrs. Leslie Kerr won the apron, for the most original verse. Money for Fair prizes was given out by the convener.

At Mille Isles branch the roll-call was "Helpful Hints for Removing Stains". Three new members were welcomed. The auction of a toy elephant netted $3.50. Two food parcels were packed for overseas. An interesting talk on education was given by Mrs. Anderson of Montreal.

At Pioneer branch meeting, members responded to the roll-call by giving the name of a past provincial officer. The topic was Publicity, and Mrs. Geo. McGibbon, provincial convener of Junior W.I. work, gave an interesting talk on the progress of this department. Mrs. L. M. Hooker read an article from "Federated News" entitled "African Women Meet Queen Elizabeth." Two contests were held. Mrs. Arnold Parker won first award on reciting the Mary Stewart Collect, and first prize for cut flowers was won by Mrs. Matthews — Mrs. Geo. McGibbon judging the flowers, which were afterwards sent to Providence Hospital, Lachute.

Jerusalem—Bethany meeting, in charge of the Publicity convener, was in commemoration of the W.I. Golden Jubliee. A short history of this branch was given by its first president, Mrs. John Boyd, now of Montreal. Papers were read on the organization of the first Women's Institute at Stoney Creek on February 19, 1897, and of the historic pageant held at Guelph. A photo guessing contest was held, and prizes given. A remembrance token was presented to the guest speaker.

Rotarians Welcome District Governor

William Standing Emery

Brownsburg — The Rotary Club of Brownsburg recently welcomed W. S. Emery, of Montreal, Governor of the 170th District of Rotary International, which includes 41 Rotary Clubs in Quebec, Ontario and Northern New York. Mr. Emery is Superintendent of Communications, Canadian Pacific Railway, and is a member of the Rotary Club of Montreal, having served as president of his Club during the Rotary year 1939-40.

Mr. Emery visited the Brownsburg group to advise and assist the president, Wesley Freeland, Secretary Mr. Harold Barrie, and other officers, on matters pertaining to Club administration and Rotary service activities. He is one of the 173 District Governors of Rotary International who are supervising the activities of some 6,200 Rotary Clubs with a membership of 305,000 business and professional executives in 78 countries and geographical regions throughout the world.

Wherever Rotary Clubs are located, their activities are similar to those of the Brownsburg club, because they are based on the same objectives — developing better understanding and fellowship, promoting community-betterment undertakings, raising the standards of business and professions, and fostering the advancement of good will, understanding and peace among all the peoples of the world.

Each year, this world-wide service organization continues to grow in numbers and in strength. During the fiscal year, 418 new Rotary Clubs were organized in 16 countries of North and South America, and in Australia, Belgium, China, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, England, Finland, France, Greece, Iceland, India, Italy, Macao, Malayan Union, The Netherlands, Netherlands Indies, New Zealand, Norway, The Philippines, Portugal, Scotland, Siam, Southern Rhodesia, Sweden, Switzerland, Trieste, Union of South Africa, and Wales.

Large-Sized Tomato

David John Bates, who does a little plain and fancy gardening at his home on Foundry Street East, culled a tomato measuring 18 inches in circumference and weighing 2 lbs. 2 ozs. No tomatoes to equal this size have been reported in the district this season. Runner-up for topmost size in Mr. Bates' crop was another specimen weighing just under 2 lbs.

URGENT PROBLEM

Manitoba, as well as other provinces of the Dominion, is urgently in need of nurses. It was thought that once the war was finished this need would automatically right itself. This has not been the case. Hospitals are understaffed, and new hospitals being opened have been forced to wait until nurses could be obtained.

Improvement to Business Property

The Hotel Desjardins sample room adjacent to the C.P.R. yard is undergoing an exterior overhaul. This building has now been idle for some time, and its renovation has prompted interesting rumors as to its future purpose. According to the hotel management, however, there is no definite project to date, except to put the building in repair. The old stucco one-storey property is being attractively finished in imitation log siding.

The sample room was occupied at one time by the Masco Company, manufacturers, and later by Eug. L'Heureux, dry cleaner. Latterly it has served only for storage purposes.

Issues Warning on Night Hunting

Quebec — Dr. Camille Pouliot, Quebec minister of game and fisheries, issued warning against infraction of hunting laws and especially against night hunting, forbidden in Quebec province now since enactment of new hunting restrictions during the last session of the Quebec Legislature.

The minister, who instigated the measure in an effort to save big game from slaughtering, said that "hunting with jacklights" is disastrous. Rare are hunting seasons where a hunter is not injured or killed by another hunter, who from a distance and in dimness, has mistaken him for some game."

"Each fall, farmers complain bitterly for the loss of many animals killed during nights by imprudent hunters who, without doubt, had used projection lights."

Judging Dairy Cattle

Dairy type of cattle differs considerably from beeef type. In the case of beef animals the ability to lay on flesh is the first essential, while in a dairy cow the ability to produce milk is of most importance. When judging or selecting a dairy cow, one must always bear in mind this function of economic production. As a manufacturing plant, the dairy cow must be able to eat and digest an abundance of raw material; she must have the ability to thoroughly assimilate this raw material and convert it into blood constituents; she must have the necessary apparatus for secreting this material in the form of milk; and she must have the disposition to do so. Thus the cow must have:

1. A well-developed digestive system. 2. A strong constitution. 3. An active mammary system. 4. Marked dairy temperament.

A well-developed digestive system is indicated by a large barrel. This is obtaineed by length of body, width in the rear part of the barrel and general depth throughout. Consequently, a dairy cow must be long from the shoulders to the hips, wide across top from hip point to hip point, and must be deep from the rear of the loin to the base of the abdomen. This width at the hooks should be carried well forward giving a wide loin throughout. The loin should be level, with the rear ribs well sprung. The rear ribs should be long, broad, flat and wide apart.

A strong constitution is indicated by great chest capacity, which demands depth from top to bottom of the body just back of the forelegs, thickness through the body at this region, width on the floor of the chest and fullness in the fore-flank. The fore-ribs should spring out quite strongly, and descending, obtain their greatest width one-third of one-half way down the body, thus giving ample room for heart and lung development.

With a width of fore-rib, a prominence or roughness of the shoulder should be avoided. The shoulder must lie smoothly and the dorsal vertebrae should extend above the points of the shoulder blade. Any prominence of shoulder indicates too much flesh between the shoulder blade and the front rib, and this development of flesh is not desired. In dry cows that are well fed in preparation for their next lactation period, a breadth across the top of the shoulder naturally develops due to the fat deposited beneath the shoulder blade, so allowance must be made between dry cows and those milking. A large well-developed nostril is another indication of lung development.

To secrete milk a cow must have a well-developed mammary system. The udder should be large and of good quality. It should be long between the rear and forward attachments, extending high between the thighs. It should be broad and well filled in the rear and forequarters with no noticeable division between the quarters. It should be well balanced, that is, each quarter of the same size. The sole or bottom of the udder should be level and run well forward on the abdomen. In quality the udder should be soft, pliable and elastic. A course, firm, non-elastic udder is an indication of too much fibrous non-secreting tissue. The teats should be placed squarely in the centre of each quarter. They should be large enough for comfortable hand-milking. Very short teats are objectionable, and there is no advantage in undue length and size. The teats should be regular in shape and of fair thickness.

The milk veins, or the large abdominal veins running forward from the udder upon the lower surface of the abdomen, carry the blood from the udder back to the heart. These should be long, large tortuous and branched and should enter the abdominal wall through large orifices called the milk wells. The size and development of these veins and milk wells are indications that a large flow of blood is passing through the udder and consequently there is opportunity for a large milk secretion.

Dairy temperament is absolutely essential in a dairy cow. This is indicated in many ways. It is shown by a natural leanness throughout. The head should be clean-cut and long from the eyes down to the muzzle. The forehead should be broad, the eyes prominent, full and placid, the neck long and lean. The spine should project above the shoulders at the withers and should show prominence and openness right down the back. The dairy cow should show a freedom from meat and meat-carrying tendencies, so a light loin, a thin thigh and an open twist are always looked for. The rear ribs should be broad, flat and widely spread.

Quality is of utmost importance in a dairy cow. This is evidenced in a loose, mellow, fairly thin skin, fine, soft, bright, oily hair, and smooth fine, clean bone. The cow should have a fineness about the head, a fine horn, a freedom from coarseness about the shoulder or hooks, and a fine, slim tail. A course cow, lacking in quality, is almost certain to give smaller returns for the feed consumed.

The general appearance of the dairy cow also plays an important part in her make-up. Most dairymen prefer a large cow. All animals should have a straight, strong top line from head to tail. This adds to their appearance and helps in selling the individual. Weak backs and drooping rumps are particularly objected to. A cow with a weak back is less active and tires more readily and consequently is a less useful cow. A drooping rump is naturally accompanied by an udder that lacks development in forequarters. The rump should also be wide at the pins in order to give more width for attachment of udder behind. There is a direct correlation between shape and attachment of udder and the conformation of the rump of a cow. The length of attachment of udder is determined by the length of rump. A short rump necessitates a short udder.

A dairy cow should also be deep and fairly low set. The long-legged cow is usually shallow in body and much harder to feed economically.

A dairy cow should show considerable style of carriage. She should carry her head erect and have an elert and graceful appearance. She should be well-proportioned so that all parts are in harmony, and should stand well on her legs. Along with this active and alert bearing she should show no signs of any viciousness and should not be easily alarmed. She should have full confidence in her master.

Besides all this, she should show considerable femininity. This term stands in opposition to that of masculinity as applied to males. Fineness in the face and contour of the head, lightness in the horn, fineness in the neck and lightness in the brisket and shoulder are all feminine characteristics.

CONFERENCE ON RECREATION, AT OTTAWA SEPT. 30

Ottawa, Sept. 20 — More than a score of national organizations interested in recreation and leisure-time activities will meet in Ottawa on September 30 to explore the possibilities of holding a national conference on recreation.

Invitations have been issued by Hon. Paul Martin, minister of National Health and Welfare, on recommendation of the National Council on Physical Fitness, to the Canadian Welfare Council, the Parks and Recreation Association of Canada, Canadian Arts Council, Canadian Handicrafts Guild, Canadian Association for Health, Physical Education and Reareation, the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, Women's Amateur Athletic Federation of Canada, Canadian Youth Hostels Association, Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, National Federation of Catholic Action, Canadian Association for Adult Education, national councils of the Y.M.C.A., Y.M.H.A., Y.W.H.A., Canadian Council on Boys and Girls Club Work, the Boy Scouts Association, the Girl Guides Association, and interested government departments.

Discussions at the two latest annual mettings of the recreation division of the Canadian Welfare Council resulted in a unanimous demand by more than 50 organizations for joint planning and cooperative action on recreation, in place of numerous and widely scattered conferences. As a result the recreation division of the Canadian Welfare Council requested the National Council on Physical Fitness to call the September meeting. Alternative proposals to be discussed include holding of conferences in the same city on consecutive dates, and a system of rotating meetings so that each region has its turn.

Greens Flourish On Desert Farm

Walvis Bay, South Africa (CP) — Walvis Bay has a garden king, J. de Wet, who produced cauliflowers and cabbages weighing up to eight pounds in a settlement where, journalists say, no plant or flower will survive.

In an area directly on the wind-swept sands of the Namib Desert where running sea water is encountered on digging down a few feet in the backyard, this is a rare achievement.

A wave of gardening enthusiasm is sweeping the port, and many tomato and lettuce beds can be seen. In one yard sunflowers tower more than six feet high.

ADVENTURE

(Woodstock Sentinel-Review)

The supporters of free enterprise will stand up and cheer at the story of the three Hamilton high school youths who started out on June 14 with $15 apiece, travelled as far south as Texas and west to California and arrived home in Hamilton recently with $30 apiece. Socialism and Communism don't stand a chance while Canada breeds plenty of youngsters with as much get-up-and go as that.

Know Quebec Better....

Chest-Making

Do you know Quebec? Do you know, for example, that our Province makes and ships more cheese than any other province in Canada? Some types are local adaptations of European originals, but many others are native to Quebec. All are in increasing demand throughout the world. Wisely developing its agricultural resources to exploit this tremendous market, the Government established the Provincial Dairy School at St. Hyacinthe. The Benedictine Monks Monastery at St. Benoit du Lac produces an excellent Roquefort type. Independent industries are responsible for a popular Camembert style cheese. "Oka" has become a favorite with gourmets everywhere. Cheddar, Brie, Gruyere, Neuchatel will soon have their counterparts "Made in Quebec". During the war, Quebec shipped hundreds of millions of pounds of cheese overseas, and is today doing much to feed the people of Europe. Here we have further evidence of the important place played by our Province, not only in Canadian progress—but in world affairs.

Gleam of Light on Housing

THREE national authorities put it up to the government thus: housing is your responsibility — do something about it, fast.

The three units were about as representative as could be found—the Canadian Welfare Council, representing all the social agencies in Canada; the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, representing all the cities; and the Canadian Legion, representing all the servicemen.

Whether by design or by accident, all three bodies attacked the government on the same day, and the result of this onslaught was something the government could scarcely ignore. All three put housing squarely up against the Federal government and said flatly it was Federal responsibility.

All three, again said it was a "national emergency," and demanded action, in which Reconstruction Minister Howe promised consideration — although Mr. Howe was on record as saying, during the last session of Parliament, that housing was not the responsibility of the Federal government.

With these representations, there should be no doubt in the mind of the Hon. Mr. Howe that the people are in deadly earnest about housing. The new national housing movement should be given a fair chance to win out, each of the three branches of government co-operating to achieve something worthwhile. Federal operation of existing housing legislation has been, up to now, anything but a success; yet there is no reason to believe that success is impossible. In these latest delegations, and with concrete suggestions from the Mayors Federation and other groups, there appears some hope we may yet split the bottleneck on low-cost housing construction.

Civil Servants -- And Others

THE GOVERNMENT recently announced that a medical clinic will be established in Ottawa, and in other large cities later on, for the benefit of civil servants. The idea of the clinics is a commendable one, since any move to improve health facilities of a group of citizens should find general endorsement. Although the announcement didn't say so, we presume treatments at the clinics will be free, the cost to be borne by the public purse. There is no protest against such an arrangement, but we do feel some sort of similar consideration should be accomplished by allowing a taxpayer to exempt from his taxable income the amount of all medical, dental and hospital expenses incurred by himself and his dependents. The Government had a chance to introduce such a change when the budget was presented, but did nothing about the situation. We believe Finance Minister Abbott should study the proposal with a view to bringing it into effect as soon as possible.

THERE IS good news in the report from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, that Canadian farm incomes are on the increase. Farmers received $753,900,000 in the first six months of this year, an increase of seventeen per cent over the $647,100,000 received in the corresponding period of 1946. Prosperity in agriculture means prosperity for all of Canada. The more money farmers have, the more will be spent in machinery, automobiles and other industrial products.

THANKSGIVING Day will be observed in Canada on Monday, October 13. Considering our fortunate circumstances as compared with other countries, Canadians have a great deal for which to be thankful. Let's not forget it.

Sunday Sport in Britain

IN THE United Kingdom a considerable controversy has been stirred by a movement to relax the laws having to do with observance of the Sabbath. In Scotland and Wales, where the Lord's Day traditionally is kept strictly as a day of rest, and where practically every place of business is closed, the move is finding opposition. The English, it seems, are inclined more to favor a relaxation of the laws.

One of the issues being debated is Sunday football. In the past, Saturday has been the day for the professional football games, with attendance at the various matches running into the millions. A certain section of the populace, however, would like to attend football games on Sunday as well as Saturday, and they are seeking official permission for such games. In view of the great public interest in the matter, the London Daily Graphic recently conducted a poll of their readers on the question, offering prizes for the best replies. In the voting the "Noes" had a slight majority, 53.5 per cent being against professional football on Sundays, with 46.5 per cent in favor.

The Daily Graphic found that half of those who opposed Sunday matches did so on religious grounds. Of the "Yes" votes, many stressed the point that church attendance need not — and probably would not — suffer. Others optimistically thought Sunday matches might give an opportunity for community hymn-singing and short open-air services. Not all the "No" votes were cast because of religious beliefs; many dissenters were influenced by the additional work Sunday matches would entail for players, ground staffs, transport employees and police.

Toy Guns

WE SAID the other day, commending the campaign of the Lions Clubs of Hull and Ottawa against toy guns, that perhaps they could achieve their end by persuading dealers not to sell these things. A story from Montreal makes us think that perhaps the answer is not to be found short of absolute prohibition of the importation, manufacture and sale and possession of toys which are reasonable imitations of firearms.

In the Montreal story police officials were quoted as saying that "about 50 per cent of cases of armed robbery in recent years involved use of life-size toy pistols". And an officer of the Quebec Provincial Police declared that "possession of toy pistols had brought about the downfall of many juveniles, 14 to 16 years", by making it easy for them to commit armed robberies.

These are the opinions of men constantly fighting crime and hunting down criminals, and cannot be disregarded lightly. They make a perfect and unanswerable case against the toy pistol. — Ottawa Farm Journal

SUCH A small fraction of time is lost in going at a reasonable speed in zones where children move, that it requires no sacrifice on the part of the motorist to get down to the lowest practical speed. We need to be on the alert at the wheel. — Chilliwack (B.C.) Progress

WHEN MEMBERS of the ladies' organizations from various churches begin advertising their annual chicken suppers, fall has arrived. Townsfolk who have never attended one of these suppers, have a real treat in store for them. How the ladies throughout the district can cook! And their ideas as to men's appetites meet with our approval. — Fort Frances (Ont.) Times

"MY WEEK"

By R. J. DEACHMAN

May I have the pleasure of shocking you by pointing out that a gentleman called Haile Selassie is in the running for a top place in the broad field of world statesmanship.

Asked recently if he wanted aid in reconstruction in Abyssinia, which had been a victim of Italian aggression, he sent this reply:

"As the first United Nation to be liberated (Ethiopia) feels that notwithstanding heavy war damages sufficient progress has been made in reconstruction to warrant concentration of the efforts of the United Nations on reconstruction in countries more recently liberated."

Greetings to Haile Selassie, but this is not the only occasion on which this statesman has shown his wisdom. Ethiopia joined the League of Nations, September 1923 — later had signed the Kellog Pact and was entitled to every assistance the League could give. A declaration of war came from Italy in 1934. Italy occupied the capital, Addis Ababa, May 5, 1936.

Before this happened the Emperor had taken his cause to The League of Nations. This was his message:

"Do the people of the world not yet realize that by fighting on until the bitter end I am not only performing my sacred duty to my people, but standing guard in the last citadel of Collective security? Are they too blind to see that I have my responsibities to the whole of humanity to face? I must still hold on until my tardy allies appear. And if they never come, then I say prophetically and without bitterness: The West will perish."

By March 1936 Hitler occupied the Rhineland. He had measured the democracies, he no longer feared them. In the end Hitler met his fate but the last few may words of the Emperor of Ethiopia yet prove prophetic: the "West" meaning, of course, Western Europe, may not perish but it faces now the gravest problem of its long history.

If the United States had been in the League of Nations the appeal of Haile Selassie might not have been necessary. The combined powers of the United States, Britain and France might have applied their persuasive influence upon Mussolini; Hitler would then have known what awaited him. The world might never have felt the impact of the six most tragic years of its history. Have we yet learned the dangers of "too little and too late"? Only time will tell.

Death Severs Link With Earlier Days

Late J. N. A. Rice

The death of John N. A. Rice, an old-time resident of this town and former secretary-treasurer of the municipality, occurred last Sunday in hospital at Ormstown, Que. Mr. Rice, 81 years of age, had lived at Ormstown with his sister, Mrs. Curran, for a number of years since his retirement.

The late John Rice was well and favorably known in this community, where he resided for 36 years. Besides his participation in town affairs, he was keenly active in the Lachute Curling Club, the Masonic Lodge and other enterprises. He was a loyal member of the Presbyterian Church. It is also recalled he was manager of the Bell Telephone system here, the office and switchboards being situated in his property — which is now a plumber's shop and residence, opposite the United Church . . . Mr. Rice left Lachute about seven or eight years ago.

Two townsmen and former friends, Messrs. S. S. Campbell and Robt. Todd, attended the funeral on Tuesday. Rites were held at the Presbyterian Church in Ormstown, and the remains were interred in the Ormstown cemetery.

Worth working for!

Watching the men at work on his new barn, Jim thinks of the friendly talk he had with his bank manager. "I've got good land and I can work it. With a little extra money I can really make a dream come true . . ."

So Jim got his bank loan. Soon, there'll be new farm equipment . . . improved livestock . . . a well filled granary. More work for the community, more farm products, more food for home and export.

Helping people in all walks of life to profit from their own enterprise and industry is one of the chief functions of Canadian banks.

Tuesday evening, October 21, a special anniversary concert will be given, in which the men's group will assume a major part.

Extended choral performance has recently been considered by both the mixed choir and the men's group, with the result that Mr. Warner Norman, organist and choir director, St. James United Church, Montreal, has been invited to take on the leadership for an indefinite period. Mr. Norman will be at the meeting of both units on Thursday evening of this week, when further plans will be discussed, including those for the Christmas season.

SALVATION ARMY BENEFITS BOTH YOUTH AND AGED

Toronto—Which is most important, the citizen of tomorrow or the citizen of yesterday? "Both are equally important to the Salvation Army," declares Commissioner Chas. Baugh, "because both need understanding and guidance, and often institutional care."

Economically, perhaps, citizens of tomorrow are most deserving of attention. Among them will be more than 1600 children of unmarried mothers cared for last year by the Salvation Army. They deserve all the rights and privileges implied by the term 'a born Canadian', says the Commissioner. In its 31 maternity and receiving homes The Army seeks to provide safe surroundings to ensure a good start in life, free from stigma.

But citizens of yesterday make equal claim upon the Army's "human touch and understanding heart." Aged men and women, having made their contributions to the social and economic life of the nation, also deserve consideration. Increase of old-age pensions is a step in the right direction, the Commissioner feels, but often the need goes farther. Protection and congenial accommodation are necessary, and in 16 Sunset Lodges and Eventide Homes operated by The Army, over 800 aged people find haven.

To care for Canada's citizens of tomorrow and yesterday, as well as the host of today's citizens who need help, The Salvation Army's national Red Shield appeal for $1,000,000 is now being conducted across the Dominion.

Shipping on Clyde Worst in 20 Years

Glasgow (CP) — Shipping conditions on the Clyde for the year ending June 30 were the worst in 20 years, the Clyde Navigation Trust said in its annual report.

A deficit on the year's working was £99,175 ($396,700) compared with a loss of £68,000 last year. Inward and outgoing goods handled were down by 967,000 tons. Shipping using the port also fell by more than 400,000 tons, although the loss was only £68 ($272) because of increased tonnage dues.

An £80,000 ($320,000) drop in revenue was blamed on the Glasgow strike last March.

LACHUTE DELIVERED PRICES OF GENERAL MOTORS CARS

FROM time to time, as a matter of public information, we have published the Retail Delivered Prices of General Motors Automobiles.

In accordance with this practice and to eliminate any uncertainties or confusion, we are again publishing the present Retail Delivered Prices. These prices include Standard Factory Equipment, Dominion Taxes and spare tire. Provincial and Municipal Taxes where such apply, license fee, and optional equipment are, of course, additional.

We sell these makes and models at the prices shown. You may rest assured, we will distribute them as fairly as possible with proper regard for orders placed with us and dependent upon the availability of models.

Should you be offered, from some other source, a new car, or one with low mileage, we suggest that you pay no more than the prices listed. You will obviously find it to your advantage to wait a little longer, until we are in a position to deliver a car against your own order.

We are sorry to say that delivery to you may be delayed for some time yet. This is due, in particular, to the shortage of many materials. General Motors has done a splendid production job under the circumstances and expects to steadily increase the rate of production. Meanwhile, these conditions, combined with the wide popularity of General Motors cars, and such an unprecedented demand, mean that delay in some instances is quite inescapable. We entreat your patience and understanding while the shortage exists.

We realize that our success depends upon the confidence and goodwill of our many customers. We will strive at all times, through good business practices, to justify, and therefore retain, this most valuable asset.

Study Strain

A warning against eye-strain comes from Ottawa. Health authorities urge the provision of sufficient light for close work and study. They point out that continuous eye-strain can undermine general health. Artificial light, they say, is bad for the eyes only when it is too weak or creates glare.

If one is suffering from hot or tired eyes, blurred vision or dull headaches, it is suggested that the family doctor be asked to check the eyes to ensure that sight is right. It is pointed out that modern developments in the field of ocular science afford easy relief for eye troubles.

Stretching the Meat Dishes

It is amazing how a pound of round steak which would ordinarily serve three or four people may be stretched to make a satisfactory and delicious meat course for six. To be sure it does require a little extra effort on the part of the cook, but the saving is always worthwhile.

The home economists of the Consumer Section at Ottawa are experts on making the most of all foods, and meat is no exception. Here are several recipes to make substantial main course dishes:

Chili Con Carne Stew

¼ Cup fat, 1 pound cubed beef, 1 cup coarsley cut celery, ½ cup coarsely chopped green pepper (optional), 6 medium onions (sliced), 2 cups tomatoes (fresh or canned), 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ to 1 teaspoon chili powder.

Melt fat, add cubed beef and brown. Add celery, green pepper, onions, tomatoes and seasoning. If necessary, add hot water to barely cover meat. Cover and simmer 2 to 3 hours. Garnish with a border of mashed potatoes. Six servings.

Quick Beef Stew

1 lb. Hamburger, 2 tablespoons fat, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup tomato juice, 1 cup diced cooked vegetables, salt and pepper to taste.

Brown meat in hot fat, add flour and brown slightly. Add remaining ingredients and cook 15 minutes, stirring constantly. Serve on split hot biscuits or toast points. Six servings.

Beef Loaf

1 Cup bread crumbs (for lining pan and topping), 2 cups corn (fresh or canned),1 pound ground beef, 1 cup bread crumbs, 1 egg slightly beaten, ½ cup milk, 2 tablespoons chopped onions, 1½ teaspoons salt, pinch of cinnamon, pinch of cloves.

Pat ¾ cup crumbs into bottom and sides of greased loaf pan (reserving ¼ cup for top.) Combine all other ingredients and turn into crumbed pan, top with crumbs. Bake in moderate oven 350°F., for 1 hour. Unmold and serve with tomato sauce. Six servings.

Stuffed Pepper Squash

3 Large pepper squash, 1½ cups ground raw lamb or beef (¾ lb.), ½ cup uncooked barley, 1½ teaspoons salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1 cup sieved fresh tomatoes (or tomato juice), 2 tablespoons mild-flavored fat, 2 tablespoons flour, dash of salt.

Wash squash. Cut in halves, remove seeds and pithy portion, and sprinkle with salt. Mix thoroughly the meat, barley, salt, pepper and tomatoes. Fill the halves with this mixture. Blend the fat, flour and dash of salt and spread over exposed cut surface of squash. Place in a greased baking dish, cover and bake in a moderate oven, 375°F., for 45 minutes. remove cover and coptinue baking 15 to 20 minutes longer until surface is browned and squash is tender. Six servings.

Granny Made Bread

As we read dispatches announcing advent of "the battle of the bread", we thought of grandmother.

What would she think of this latest raid on the kitchen cupboard? Would she toss her apron over her head in dismay at the spectacular rise in price of bread—and flour.

We hardly think so. Being a direct woman, quick to take emergency without alarm and fuss, she'd exclaim:

"Land o' Goshen! Pa—you get out to the wood-shed and hustle in some long-burning slabs. Hand me down my mixing bowls. Hope you remembered to get in plenty of yeast blocks. . . My-oh-my, just in the middle of preserving time!"

Then, out of the clatter of spoons against bowls, out of the floury haze, and out of the thumping and strong-fingered kneadings would come the white, doughy predecessor of the finished staff of life.

Oven up to the right temperature. Room heat just right. The raw dough covered with cloths and rising rapidly.

Then, oh, then! that delicious odour of baking bread!

It would fill the entire house, sweep through windows and fill nearby yards and gardens with the sweetest and most enticing of all baking smells.

The gang would stop playing "bully", drop hardened chestnuts, sniff the air — and look at you in admiration and awe: "Hey! your granny's baking bread. . . D'you think she'll make some rolls?"

That's how grandmother would meet today's emergency. She might realize her ingredients would cost a heap more today than years ago. But, you see, the issue before her would be simple: "Golly, son, every penny saved — well, besides, it's good to be inedendent of headlines and, too, I kind of like baking."

Has granny a lesson for modern housewives?

2,000 Handpicked Guests To Attend Royal Wedding

Britain's Regal Nuptials To be "Top Drawer" Show with Dazzling Trappings

By Cynthia Lowry, Associated Press Staff Writer

Only about 2,000 hand-picked guests will witness the Nov. 20 wedding of Princess Elizabeth, heiress-presumptive to the throne, but it will be a national holiday and a sentimental spree for millions in many parts of the world.

Austerity is out, temporarily, by popular demand and the wedding will be the most colorful spectacle in the commonwealth's recent history. It may not be as lavish as her parents' pre-war coronation because Breat Britain is in a tough financial position. But as royal weddings go, there hasn't been anything like it for 107 years, when the bride's great-great-grandmother, Queen Victoria, married Prince Albert, the bridegroom's great-great-grandfather.

The ceremony will be held at 11.30 a.m. in Westminister Abbey religious heart of the commonwealth, The bride's parents were married in the Abbey in 1923, when King George was Albert, Duke of York, and the Queen was Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon. Elizabeth's aunt, the Princess Royal, married Viscount Lascelles in the Abbey in 1922.

While for generations Britain's kings and queens have been crowned in Westminister, the 20th century saw the first royal weddings in the Abbey since the days of the Crusades. The last such ceremony was in 1382 when young King Richard II took Ann of Bohemia as his bride. The last occasion on which a child of a reigning soverign was married was in 1269 when Edmund Crouchback, Earl of Lancaster and son of Henry III, married Aveline, daughter of the Count of Aumale.

The lucky 2,000 who will be present in the Abbey will be chosen from the world's "top drawer".

What is left of acceptable foreign royalty will attend — for most of it is related to the bride or bridegroom. So will many heads of the great powers, representatives of the Dominions and the cream of the diplomatic corps.

Heart-Warming Pomp

Most of the heart-warming pomp and circumstance will be loaded on as a morale-builder and good show for the millions who must remain outside the Abbey.

Days in advance workmen will put up flags and bunting along the routes the wedding party will travel between Buckingham Palace, the royal residence, and the Abbey. Special lines will be set up so that reporters and broadcasters can send a step-by-step story of the event to the world. The Princess' trousseau will be described, every pre-wedding party reported.

Religious custom calls for a morning wedding. Most of the invited guests will arrive at 10.45, followed at intervals of a few minutes each by non-participating royalty, high-ranking clergy and then by the Queen. The bridegroom, with two "supporters" or best men, will precede the bride into the Abbey by a couple of minutes and take their places. Then, two minutes before Big Ben strikes the eight notes of the half-hour, the princess will arrive on the arm of her father, the King, followed by her bridesmaids, one of whom will be Princess Margaret, her sister.

The marriage rites require 50 minutes, with hymns, prayers, responses and a short address, led by the Archbishops of Canterbury and York. The ceremony itself will differ from any "high society" wedding only by the brilliant company of witnesses and the presiding clergymen who are the highest dignitaries of the Church of England.

REELS IN GULL

Barrie, Ont. (CP) — Casting for trout on Kempenfeldt Bay, L.K. Omurtagh of nearby Allandale got in a heavy strike and reeled in. However, the strike did not come from under the surface. It came swooping down out of the air like a dive bomber — it was a sea gull.

The Champ at Toronto

By Fred Kerner

The champ can still draw a crowd. In fact, he's probably champion 10 times over now that he's held the heavyweight title of the world for some 10 years.

Joe Louis turned up at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto with his famous softball team from Detroit, the Punchers, and visitors at the "Ex" flocked out in big style to see the huge, placid Brown Bomber.

While watching Joe coach his nine to victory, everyone wondered the usual question: "What about the title?"

His answer is that he won't defend it until June and chances are it might be his last defence of the crown he took from game Jimmy Braddock in the mid '30s.

"And when retirement comes, what then?" we asked.

"I don't know," the Bomber replied. "Maybe I'll concentrate on my soft drink business. That's a business that always seems good."

As for keeping in trim, golf will take all his time, he said. He likes the sport and does well at it. First day in Toronto he went around one of the tougher courses in a neat 71.

No Olympics

Talk of Britain being forced to give up the Olympic Games next year is saddening to Canadian athletes. Many of the boys and girls who hope to make the team, are former servicemen who are looking forward to a chance to revisit "the Old Country." Athletes everywhere looked to the games at London as symbolic of Britain's recovery after bitter war years.

If the U.K. is forced to give up the games, let's hope the Olympic Committee decides to give the 1952 games to London town again.
