Good Accounting In Business — Topic at Rotary

Brownsburg — At the last meeting of the Rotary Club, the members were treated to an extremely clever and amusing talk on the value of accounting in business, by Harry Hawkings, of the Montreal-Westward Rotary. President Wes Freeland was in the chair. . . Mr. Hawkings is secretary-treasurer, assistant general manager and a director for the Midtown Motor Sales, Montreal.

While not attemptifig to show his fellow Rotarians how to balance their budgets, Mr. Hawkings used an original approach in demonstrating the value of a good accounting in business. The story of the search for a accountant and the trials and tribulations of the merchant, was presented in the style of a parable. Dwelling on the need for modern business to actually know, today, the records of yesterday, and the essentially rapid submission of accurate facts, thereby informing the business man just where he stands regularly — the speaker's quaintly phrased recital was an eye-opener in wisdom. In the parable he revealed that the merchant was eventually able to sleep nights, by the acquisition of a capable accountant. He also acquired the firm resolve to demand an exacting of the state of affairs daily, and the resultant prosperity which followed afforded the merchant peace of mind unknown before.

Mr. Hawkings was introduced by Harold Dando and thanked by Andrew Hardie.

Guests included Don Reid, Clair Baker, of Brownsburg; Rex Ball, of Lachute; Dougall Cushing, Howard Kennedy, Albert Stock and Gordon Snelgrove, of Montreal.

Need for V.O.N. And School Nurses Stressed at W. Inst.

"Public Health Nursing" . Topic of Address

At the monthly meeting of Lachute Women's Institute, held at the High School on Tuesday, the following amounts were voted — $15 for school prizes, $50 for manual training, $60 for soup fund at Lachute High School, and $10 for the Salvation Army. Prizes were also voted for an essay competition for Grades VI to XI on the subjects of "Fire Prevention" or "Citizenship".

A delegation of Macdonald College students are to visit the Ayers Limited textile mill on November 28, and while here will be guests of the Lachute W.I. at a luncheon.

The convener for the afternoon was Miss K. MacLeod, of the Health and Welfare department, and Mrs. J. F. Gorman, R.N., was guest speaker, her topic being "Public Health Nursing".

After a brief historical essay on public health nursing, the speaker outlined the work of the public health nurse as interpreting medical, sanitary and social procedures for the correction of defects, the prevention of disease, the promotion of health, and the skilled care of the sick in their homes. The speaker claimed that 2% of all people are sick and needing bedside care, and that at least 60% of sickness is preventable.

The work of the public health nurse was shown to cover a variety of programs, such as infant and pre-school, tuberculosis, school nursing, communicable diseases, and many other fields of service.

Dealing with the all-important school nursing program, Mrs. Gorman advocated a permanent school nurse in this community and stressed the need for V.O.N. nurses. Tribute was given to the excellent work of the County Health Units in Quebec, and the visiting nurse associations of Gt. Britain, the U.S.A. and Canada. The speaker mentioned the uniformity of the training of the public health nurse, where home-visiting technique had to be the same for all nurses, and of the strict supervision given these nurses by their supervisors. No treatment could be given unless ordered by the physician, and a standard minimum fee was charged to all patients able to pay, with allowances made for those not financially able.

The educational requirements for the public health nurse were given as at least a junior matriculation, graduation from a recognized School of Nursing, and post-graduate course of P. H. Nursing at a university.

In closing, Mrs. Gorman read a brief excerpt from an article written by Miss V. LaRose, R.N., pertaining to the qualifications necessary for any nurse engaged in Public Health work — such as, a sense of humor, courage, and the ability to "coat the pill" of health education successfully.

Mrs. G. Mitchell thanked the speaker and supported the suggestion of visiting and school nurses in this community. . Mrs. Geo. Y. Deacon, president, occupied the chair.

Notable Physician Was Closely Linked With Argenteuil

The Late Dr. H. B. Cushing

The death of Dr. Harold Beveridge Cushing, a distinguished figure in the ranks of the medical profession, is felt in a more personal way hereabouts. An "immeasurable loss" to humanitarian progress, his passing removes from this community one who was a friend and frequent visitor here — for Argenteuil was the home of his pioneer antecedents, and it was in the Ottawa Valley that his sentiments were deeply rooted. He spent much of his leisure time at his residence at Cushing West, and was ardent for the interests of the Argenteuil Historical Society, one of the greatest cultural assets of this countryside.

Dr. Cushing, who resided in Westmount, died last Friday at the Western General Hospital in Montreal, having suffered a stroke a few days previously. On Tuesday he had been in attendance at the regular "doctors' day" at the Alexandra Hospital — thus terminating his long medical career in surroundings nearest to his to his heart's interest, the conquest of communicable and childhood diseases.

In his 75th year, the late Dr. Cushing had spent 50 years in medicine. He was an emeritus professor in paediatrics at McGill, held many other important positions, and was affiliated with numerous societies and organizations. Eulogies from his colleagues show recognition of his valuable work in the treatment of children's diseases, and also of his warm, kindly personality. One such tribute, from Dr. Alton Goldbloom, physician-in-chief of the Children's Memorial Hospital, is eloquent of this sincere appreciation:

"His death has broken a lifelong link with the Children's Memorial Hospital and Canadian paediatrics. He was the first professor of paediatrics at McGill, the original physician-in-chief at the Children's Memorial. Although he retired in 1938, his lifelong and keen interest in things paediatric never diminished but continued virtually to his last day, thus bringing the wisdom and judgment derived from his wealth of experience to the solution of problems associated with disease in children.

"A quiet, kindly man, humorous and wise, he was among the last of a type of physician which is becoming extremely rare. There is hardly a physician in our community whose life has not at some time been affected for the good through association with him. To me it is the deep personal loss of a teacher and friend; to the community it is the loss of a rare personality and a great physician."

Apart from his professional interests, and his active participation in the Argenteuil Historical Society (of which he had been president since October, 1937), Dr. Cushing was a student and a lover of nature. He found keen pleasure in the beauties surrounding his home here on the Ottawa river-front, where he spent much of his leisure time since his retirement from active practice.

Link with County's Very Earliest Traditions

It was from an early settler, Lemuel Cushing — a lumberman of the Chatham district, born 1806 in Three Rivers — that the little community of Cushing took its name. Local history, however, records other interesting facts to link the late Dr. H. B. Cushing with the very roots of this county. . . The name of Hutchison is synonymous with the first settlement of what is now Lachute Town; and to Catherine, a daughter of John S. Hutchins, Lemuel Cushing was married in 1836. They had 13 children — the late Dr. H. B. Cushing being a grandson. His father was Lemuel (namesake of his pioneer parent), a Montreal lawyer and one-time M.P. for Argenteuil constituency; his mother was the former Ellen MacDougall.

Born in Montreal, Dr. Cushing studied at McGill, taking his B.A. in 1892, and his degree in medicine six years later. In a half-century devoted to the advancement of his profession, he was acclaimed by the fraternity as "McGill's greatest gift to medicine since Osler".

At his funeral, held Monday Monday afternoon at Emmanuel Church in Montreal, there were notables in many spheres of activity, assembled to pay him tribute. He was laid to rest at the Mount Royal Cemetery.

Dr. Cushing is mourned by his daughter (Marjorie) Mrs. Richard Harbert, M.D., wife of Dr. R. G. M. Harbert; a brother, James Cushing of Montreal, and a sister, Miss Florence Cushing, also of Montreal.

Quebec Will Clear Additional Stretch on Laurentian Highway

St. Jerome-Mont Tremblant Stretch to be Maintained

Quebec — Maintenance of the section of the highway from St. Jerome to St. Jovite and Mount Tremblant will be the direct care of the Quebec Roads Department this coming winter. Hitherto winter maintenance of this growingly important portion of the highway into the Laurentians has been done by the Laurentian Winter Roads Association, but this year the department will take over that task itself. It is a matter of 56 miles.

Taking over the stretch between St. Jerome and Mont Tremblant will mean that the department this year will be caring for 1,431 miles of winter roads. In addition the government pays a subsidy to the various associations, chambers of commerce, and winter roads committees which give maintenance to winter roads in their respective localities, the maximum grant being $80 per mile, and the average for the 3,300 odd miles thus cared for being about $77 per mile.

In addition to the mileage which the government will keep open this winter and the roads to be kept open with the help of subsidies, there will be approximately another 3,500 miles of roads kept open this year by various municipalities and other public and semi-public bodies for which no subsidy whatever is paid, those bearing this burden feeling it to be worthwhile in the local interest to carry out this work.

Forest Fire in Rouge River Area

Forest fires were raging in various sections of the Laurentians last week-end causing extensive damage to dry, parched bush. Fires were reported in Harrington, Mont Rolland, Piedmont, Ste. Adele and Lac En Coeur.

In Lac En Coeur, 800 acres were burned out, according to fire rangers, who stated that cigarette butts thrown in the forests were the only conceivable cause of the forest blazes.

In Harrington, a bush fire burning on the mountain along the Rouge River, was under control Sunday night. The fire burned out one square mile of forest. Trenches built by volunteer firefighters prevented the fire from moving into other areas. The fire in the Harrington area was first reported on Saturday afternoon. Fanned by varying winds, the blaze soon threatened houses in the Lake Macdonald region. Volunteer firefighters in the area stopped the fire, however, before any serious damage was done.

OUR MEALS CHEAPER

Red Cross Unit Appeals for Helpers in Sewing and Knitting

Clothing Urgently Needed for Overseas

The work committee of the Quebec Red Cross held a meeting in Montreal recently to stress the great need of clothing and knitting for overseas, and to inspire the workers to attend their local work meetings. This gathering was attended by Mrs. Fraser C. Morrison, chairman of the work committee of Lachute Red Cross branch, who brought back an interesting report, and told of the large amount of work to be done if the workers would only turn out in greater numbers. Everyone is welcome to take part in these sewing sessions — beginners as well as experienced needlewomen; the meetings are held every Wednesday from 2 to 5 p.m., in the United Church basement.

For Winter Maintenance Of Highway 41, Lachute to St. Jerome

The importance of Route 41 to the community interests of Lachute — in business, sports and other spheres — becomes increasingly evident, and while many are agitating for paving of the road for summer travel, to others it appears equally urgent that this road, from Lachute to St. Jerome, be adequately maintained for winter traffic.

Two groups, the St. Canut and the Upper Lachute Winter Roads Committees, are collaborating earnestly to provide for snow-clearing along the highway this winter. In this connection they issue an appeal for generous support on the part of business men, and others concerned in the success of the project. — Attention is directed to an advertisement (page 8) presenting this case before the local public.

Buy A Poppy

Buy a poppy,
Made by hands that once had known a heavier task;
Wear a poppy,
Made by heroes who gave their all, and little ask.
Buy a poppy,
Each flower wrought with patience and infinite care;
Wear a poppy,
Each one a token of their days spent over there.
Buy a poppy,
And remember the men who make them year by year;
Wear a poppy,
And remember their suffering, their doubt and fear.
Buy a poppy,
And help the living who for years have toiled in pain.
Wear a poppy,

Two Motorcyclists Seriously Injured

A motorcyclist from Vankleek Hill, Ont. — Thomas Sproule, aged 24 — lies unconscious in the Royal Victoria Hospital with critical injuries sustained in an accident at Grenville last Saturday night. The man was found lying in a ditch beside Route 29 near the Grenville Consolidated School, with his motorcycle nearby. The discovery was made around 9.15 p.m. by Wm. Miller, of Britannia, Ont. Sproule, riding in a northerly direction, had apparently lost control of his machine; there was little to indicate he might have been hit by another vehicle.

Dr. Irwin Smith was summoned from Hawkesbury to attend the unconscious man, who was suffering from a probable fracture of the skull. Removed by ambulance to the Notre Dame Hospital at Hawkesbury, he was taken to Montreal on Monday evening, and is reported still in a critical condition.

A few days previously a young Montrealer, Harold J. Ostapovich, 23, proceeding eastward on his motorcycle along Route 8, met with an accident near the intersection of Highway 29. Having swerved to pass a car which came out of the intersection, he failed to notice another automobile entering the main highway, and collided head-on with the second car. The motorcyclist suffered a fracture of the right leg and multiple injuries, for which he was treated at Dr. Kelly's Clinic in Hawkesbury and was later removed by ambulance to the Homoeopathic Hospital in Montreal.

Patrolman H. Jones, of Calumet, investigated both accidents.

Farm Forums

Mabel — The Mabel Farm Radio Forum held the first meeting of the season at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Clark. The topic, "Youth on the Farm", proved an interesting subject, but it was thought that, with the steadily increasing spread beween the cost of production and the farm income, the farmer and his youth cannot foresee a very bright future.

* * *

The Lachute Road Farm Forum gathered Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Gilbert Matthews, with 16 persons present. Mr. and Mrs. E. Wigney, new residents in the community, were welcomed by the group. Following a discussion on the program topic, a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

Poppy Sales Aid Needy Veterans

Prior to Remembrance Day, the annual sale of poppies will be conducted by the local Legion. Young ladies will canvass all districts of the town, and the public are urged to respond generously. . .

The glamor of the uniform and the sound of martial music are but memories. To some of our veterans they are memories in strange contrast to their present lot, for there are those still burdened with physical handicap, blindness or ill health, resultant from their war service. There are those who have met misfortune — others who have passed on — and their dependents now feel the pinch of privation.

It is to repay a lasting debt that folks in happier circumstances so readily support the Poppy Campaign. The poppy is a symbol of remembrance; it is also a token of sympathy with those most deserving of our fellowship.

Poppies and wreaths are manufactured at the Vetcraft Shops in Montreal, by ex-servicemen disabled for more strenuous industry. The purchase price accrues to the Vetcraft revenues; over this, the receipts go to the local Legion Poppy Fund, which monies can be used for no other purpose than to aid needy veterans and their families. . . The wearing of a poppy will give sure evidence of your co-operation in this cause.

Hallowe'en Pranks

Hallowe'en in this town passed with no momentous toll on property, although the literal meaning was applied to many "moveable" effects, as youths, with considerable energy, dragged farm equipment, vehicles, fences and doorsteps far from their customary abode.

Youngsters were out in force making the rounds in motley garb, and received generous handouts. In farm communities the adults were more in evidence — this neighborly visiting being a tradition of the countryside on Hallowe'en.

At Lachute High School a bicycle rack found its way onto the Curling Club roof. A bakery wagon in town was towed from its moorings; and finding a supply of confections inside, the young revelers fell to the temptation and helped themselves. They were called upon to reimburse the proprietor.

A more ludicrous sequel to the evening's frolics occurred in the east ward, where two of the town's prominent citizens were seen hauling a farmer's hayrake which one of them had found deposited at his door.

APPOINTMENT

Today's news announces the appointment of the Very Rev. Dean R. H. Waterman, of Hamilton, Ont., as Coadjutor for Nova Scotia diocese of the Church of England.

Unveiling of Plaque, Presentation Of Ship's Bell, on Remembrance Day

Program of Ceremonies for November 11th

The annual Remembrance Day ceremonies in Lachute next Tuesday will follow the usual order — the program commencing at 10.45 a.m. sharp in the Auditorium, where two minutes' silence will be observed at 11 o'clock and the Remembrance service will proceed. Argenteuil Legion No. 70, with their colors, will parade from Muir Bros'. Service Station at 10.30 a.m.; all unaffiliated ex-servicemen are also invited to participate. The vets will wear the Legion berets, and it is expected there will be pipers to lead the procession.

At the Remembrance devotions a member of the local clergy will be special speaker, while G. Héon, K.C., M.P., will take part, and a Naval officer will be in attendance to officially present the ship's bell from the corvette H.M.C.S. "Lachute" to Mayor Alex Bothwell, representing the Town. The bronze plaque commemorating 20 servicemen of Lachute who gave their lives in the Second Great War, will be unveiled during the ceremony. The plaque is to be placed permanently in the civic auditorium.

Scouts, Guides and their junior groups will again take part in the Cenotaph exercises immediately following the service. Wreaths will be deposited at the monument on behalf of many churches, clubs, organizations and local families.

. . The memory of our fallen heroes is proudly esteemed in the hearts of this community, and it is expected there will be a large turn-out of citizens to demonstrate the public sentiment on Remembrance Day.

Education Week

— By M. V. Trayers —

The first week of November is set aside for the purpose of reviewing whatever improvements or retarding influences have taken place in our educational system since this time last year — Education Week in Canada.

In most places where the spirit of progress is active, interest becomes quickened in school work, and parents, teachers and others assemble to celebrate some interest connected with the school, and to renew association with those interested in education. Teachers prepare for those assemblies by an exposition of the pupils' work, and parents attend to observe the results, and discuss their merits with the teachers. Both are teachers within their own province; in fact, parents are the most important teachers. They may not adopt the best or most successful methods. Some of them are apt to shirk their responsibilities and place the onus of bringing up the child heavily on the teacher. Now that parents pay high taxes to a government which provides the schools and compels children to attend them, and forces parents to send them in a fit and proper manner under penalty of law, they feel they are thereby relieved of their duty as parents.

Nobody knows better than the school teachers that the best school cannot make up for a poor home. A child that does not learn obedience, regularity, good speech, good manners and clean habits at home certainly will not acquire these qualities at school. Yet these qualities are more valuable than the skills of reading, writing and arithmetic.

Teachers have been the subject of unhealthy publicity of late, in the matter of increase of salaries, and while it is both necessary and just that the teaching profession should be generously remunerated, it should not be a matter for public discussion. This condition is not confined to our country. A great educator in English some time ago said that the powerful National Union of Teachers in that country acts "as if it believes the primary purpose of education is to give employment to teachers". The teacher's work is both arduous and exacting. Hours are long, as work continues long after school is out; and continual refresher work is necessary to keep pace with the ever changing work of the school. Parents are keenly alive to the factors which govern the preparation, teaching and finishing of a successful school year; but parents of themselves make up but a small proportion of the taxpayers who provide the wherewithal which makes education possible. The third party, the childless taxpayer or the parent whose children have reached the self-supporting stage, are apt to regard taxes for education as something to be fought and evaded. Some have got elected to school boards on the slogan of reduced taxes. Their contribution to the preparedness of the coming generation is measured by their ability to pare expenditure, irrespective of the needs or foresight of their more enlightened citizens. They feel as if they bore the whole cost of education or administration when their pay cheque shows a greater deduction

Lions Club Take Initiative in Urging Danger Sign

REQUEST PLACED BEFORE COUNCIL MEETING

At the regular Town Council meeting last evening—with Mayor Alex Bothwell presiding and all members present — accounts were approved to the total of $5,611.85.

A delegation from Lachute Lions Club was on hand to petition measures to counteract the traffic hazard at Barron's Bridge — this plea being a sequel to recurring accidents at the spot. The Lions' representatives, Messrs. Joseph N. Robinson and Gabriel Valois, asked that a 'Slow' sign be erected north of the Farmer Brown Service Station, and a checkerboard at the approach to the bridge. . A motion was passed by Council to request the Quebec Department of Roads to undertake this precautionary measure, as it is part of No. 8 provincial highway.

Lachute Badminton Club was granted the use of the civic auditorium once a week during the season, at a fee of $75.

Ald. Omer Laurin was appointed pro-mayor for the ensuing three months.

On division a motion was defeated to charge a $200 yearly rate to Lowe Bros'. Dairy for a 4-inch water main. Those in favor were Ald. W. Morrissette, Arnold Scott and Stanley Holt. Against—Ald. Jos. Belanger, D. Laurin, L. St. Jacques, L. Lacoste, D. G. MacRae and Omer Laurin.

A motion was passed authorizing Mayor Bothwell to hand over the ship's bell (to be presented to this town) for custody of the local Legion.

The meeting was adjourned to November 26.

DISILLUSIONMENT

Despite the most broad-minded intentions, there are moments when it is difficult not to agree with the dear old lady who, asked her opinion of the United Nations conference, replied: "I think it is a very good idea, but it is a pity they have so many foreigners in it."

Everyday Queries on the Farm

TESTING LIMESTONE

How can one determine the amount of lime in limestone?

Answer — It is not hard to determine whether a material is limestone or not and neither is it hard to determine its percent of purity. You can tell whether it is limestone by taking a sample of the material and placing it in hydrochloric acid, which you can get at any drugstore. If the acid eats it nearly all up it is fairly good limestone; and if the acid eats it all up it must be nearly pure limestone. By weighing the amount placed in the acid and again weighing what the acid does not destroy, the percentage of purity can be ascertained. If the acid does not destroy any of the material it is not limestone.

GROUND LIMESTONE

Would ground limestone applied on a claying soil act as a fertilizer?

Answer — As a general rule clay soils are improved in texture by the application of lime, that is they are less liable to bake into hard clods. Lime, however, is not a fertilizer, its action is more of a stimulant to set free for plant use the plant food already in the soil.

Lime corrects acidity in soil but it does not add to the soil's store of nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash, the essential elements that must be constantly returned if the soil's fertility is to be maintained or increased. Applying lime where it is not needed is a wasteful practice and may actually harm the soil and crops. You should get the soil of the clay land tested. Take soil from about 10 different parts of the field and mix them well together and from that mixture take about half a pint and send it to Soil Testing Department, Experimental Farm, Ottawa. In sending the sample, make request as to the soil's deficiencies and what fertilizer it needs.

WATERING HORSES

What is the best time to water horses — before or after hay or grain?

Answer — Horsemen are divided into a number of schools in so far as their beliefs concerning the proper time for watering horses is concerned. While it is quite true that one must be careful about watering horses which are warm from recent work or exercise, actual tests demonstrated very little difference in results otherwise. The idea that the drinking of water tends to wash food not yet digested out of the stomach is probably erroneous. One argument for watering horses before giving them their feed is that if feed is given first they may not drink as readily as at other times. Stable routine will largely dictate when water should be given.

In so far as the hay is concerned there again there is little actual difference. In many stables, hay is before the horses at all times. You may be quite certain that few horses will eat so much hay that they will refuse their oats. Because hay requires a longer time to consume than oats, it is quite usual to give the largest feed of hay at nights so that the horses have it before them for the longest period that they are in the stable.

MILKING PERIOD

With heifer having her first calf will it help her to become a better milker as a cow if she is put dry earlier?

Answer—The length of time which a cow will milk depends very largely upon the length of her first milking period. While the tendency for a long milking period is supposed to be hereditary in dairy cattle, they are also creatures of habit. A heifer, therefore, should be milked up to within two months of her next lactation period, whether or not she gives enough milk to pay for the time and trouble of milking her.

In practice, dairymen have found it is best for a cow to drop a calf only once in 12 months. This tends to develop the habit of a long milking period, and results in the production of more vigorous calves.

The cow should be given a rest of six weeks to two months between milking periods. During the rest she will put on fat and build up her body generally preparatory to the next milking period. Cows which are given a rest will produce more milk and their calves will be larger and stronger at birth than if they are milked up to the time of calving.

PROTEINS

What feeds for cattle contain highest content of protein?

Answer—Feeds high in protein content are: Linseed oilmeal (oilcake), cottonseed (meal), soybean oilmeal, soybean, corn gluten feed distillers' grains and brewers' dried grains. Roughage feeds with a high protein content are alfalfa and clover hay, soybean hay and growing green crops such as grass, green oats and green rye. The roughage feeds low in protein content are straws, timothy hay, cornstalks, corn silage, mangels and turnips.

2,566 Deaths from TB In Quebec in 1946

Quebec (CP) — A preliminary report of the Quebec Health Department has estimated that tuberculosis caused 2,566 deaths in the province in 1946.

The mortality rate was 70.3 per 100,000, a record low. From 120.3 in 1927, the mortality rate has gone down steadily for Canada as a whole. The present Canadian rate is 45.9 per 100,000, while Ontario has the lowest, 25.8.

The report says that while Quebec is still behind the rest of the country in T.B. prevention, the spread of the disease has been cut by two-fifths in 20 years.

The report praised the Anti-Tuberculosis League of Montreal for its work in examining hundreds of thousands of persons.

New Potato Harvester at Work

This new British-produced potato digger is designed for complete harvesting of the potato crop from ground to sack. The machine consists of a conveyor and sorting mechanism to deliver the product to either bags or trailer; these sections can be separated easily for transport or other purposes, the whole mechanism being driven by a tractor. As regards layout of the harvestor, a front entry share is followed by two angle rotors to which floating fingers, whose angles are governed by guide rings, act as soil sieves and deliver tubers to a rear conveyor alongside which operators are seated. The workers pick off tubers and place them in a section of the conveyor, which delivers the potatoes either to sacks or a rear trailer. Stones and clods are left on the conveyor and returned to the ground. Up to four operators can be seated if necessary. Bagging can be done at the rate of 30 cwt. per hour on a 9-ton per acre crop.

Did Grand Job on Potatoes to Britain

On the completion of the delivery by Canada of 70,000 tons of Canadian potatoes to Britain, the British Minister of Food Hon. John Strachey, wrote to the High Commissioner for Canada in London giving high praise to all Canadians connected with the operation in a letter which reads as follows: —

"As you know, we bought about 70,000 tons of potatoes from Canada and the last shipment arrived recently.

"I have been looking at the reports of this movement and they make such excellent reading that I feel that I must write and ask you to convey to your Government our great appreciation of what has been done.

"Clearly the greatest care was exercised by the authorities in dressing, packing, transport and stowage, and an operation which we feared might be a difficult one was in fact trouble-free. It really was a grand job and I would like to offer you my gratitude for what your countrymen have done for us. It has been of the greatest value to us."

Flame Thrower Weed Destroyer

North Vancouver (CP) — A new method of ditch clearing and weed control a portable flame-thrower adopted by the City of North Vancouver with resultant lowering of maintenance costs. Weeds and couver, has resulted in lowering of existence by the flame, and later application of chemicals prevents new growth.

Works Superintendent John Greenwood said the new system enables the city to be cleared for the same appropriation set aside for only one-third of the ditch mileage.

The Economy of Using the Best

The economy of using the best possible materials is made apparent in the upkeep problem. A house or business building may be "thrown together" with cheap material, and it may "look all right," but after it has stood the shock of weather, the real test comes.

It is false economy to use poor materials — and we so advise everyone who buys from us. Our success is due to honesty in materials and prices.

POLICE RADIO PIONEER

Montreal (CP) — Radio has lost one of its most persistent listeners in Assistant Inspector George Gagnon, one of the founders of the local police radio system. Gagnon resigned after a trail-blazing job which consisted of his listening to police radio reports at home and in the office for periods of from 15 to 18 hours daily.

Remembrance

THE OBSERVANCES of Remembrance Day are in no sense intended as a glorification of war. Thousands of Canadians will assemble next Tuesday to pay their reverential tribute to the brave lads who, strong in their belief in the righteousness of their cause, put on their armour and for the sake of the homeland they loved, faced the hottest fires of battle and fell upon the field of honor. They made the supreme sacrifice. What language can adequately express the valor of these lads who thus obeyed the summons to jeopardize their lives in the high places of the field, and for our sakes and for the future of human civilization, gave their all? It was for no material rewards they enlisted in this great adventure. No words can avail to speak forth the significance and magnitude of the sacrificial service they rendered in the day of battle. The ground is consecrated wherein they are laid to rest.

We may reverently remember the way in which these gallant boys confronted all the risks, and counted not their lives too great a price to pay in order that in some future day their sacrifice might have its effect, and a better and brighter civilization become our heritage, although its privileges they might not themselves share. How touching are the lines penned by H. P. Lyons, one of the war-time poets—

"One thing we know, that love so greatly spent
Dies not when lovers die—from hand to hand
We pass the torch and perish, well content
If in the dark years to come our countrymen
Feel the divine flame leap in them again
And so remember us and understand."

It is ours to remember and understand, to keep faith with these valiant soldiers, sailors and airmen, who died in our behalf, to hold them forever in loving memory.

Landlords and Tenants

RELATIONS between small landlords and their tenants are difficult enough these days to try the souls of both. Only a good deal of understanding and spirit of give and take make for anything less than a continual Donnybrook.

The landlord who owns one or two houses has been on a spot for years — and his tenant has been right in there with him. The owner's rental income was pegged early in the war while his cost of living and bills for repair skyrocketed. There's little wonder that he dons a sour face now if the tenant demands the same sort of upkeep he got before the war.

The tenant, on the other hand, has his own worries. If he's not in a position to buy a home he has been under constant threat of eviction for years, and still is, unless his landlord gave him a two-year lease and upped his rent 10 per cent under revised regulations of last spring. He's probably been living in a house rapidly deteriorating for lack of repair, either because the landlord couldn't afford it or couldn't get it done during the manpower shortage.

Most tenants have been reasonable in the matter of small repairs and redecoration, or have been forced to be by the owner's refusal to put any of his small rent into them. Tenants have painted and papered interiors and felt they were still getting a good bargain.

The real clashes come on such essential things as roof and chimney repairs and new furnaces, things that have to be done and for which the tenant can't see himself paying when he might be evicted in a few months.

Landlords are reluctant to part with cash to pay inflated costs; tenants are adamant that the work must be done. The result is usually an appeal to the rental board, a hearing and ill-feeling on both sides, no matter what the outcome.

Reports from Ottawa are that rent control will continue for at least another year from next March. The sensible thing for owners and tenants to do is to get together and settle their differences in good spirit. The tenant often is getting a house whose rental is pegged at a low figure under present standards. It's not unreasonable to expect him to help him out in temporary maintenance from which he gets a direct benefit. The landlord has an investment which he should protect by keeping his property in good repair for the days when rent control is off and he can expect higher returns.

THE QUESTION of a holiday on November 20, Princess Elizabeth's wedding day, will be left up to provincial and municipal governments, according to an annoucement from Ottawa. We think we have a good idea of how the school children feel about the matter without asking them.

"Drunk As A Fool"

ONE OFTEN hears the expression "drunk as a fool" used to describe an inebriated person. The Temperence Advocate pointedly asks, is there really any other way of being drunk? Certainly the phrase is never heard, "drunk as a sage" or "drunk as a saint".

We suppose that the words "drunk as a fool" came into use because the actions of inebriates often are similar to those of clowns and jesters. Drinkers who continue to the stage of acute intoxication voluntarily benumb their brains and stupefy their senses. They are unaware of their actions and make spectacles of themselves in public to the sorrow of their families and friends. For long ages folly has been associated with drinking and drunkenness. The cut-up at a party, the interrupter at a meeting, the nuisance on the street car or train, the brawler at midnight on street or in home, are living examples of the foolishness alcohol engenders.

There are other points of foolishness connected with alcoholism. Newspapers every day tell about the foolishness of drinkers who drive automobiles. The servant of alcohol may be a mechanic working with precision tools, a physician or a druggist giving medications, a member of parliament making laws. Under no circumstances can addiction to drink be considered good judgment.

Yes, there is more truth than most of us realize in the saying "drunk as a fool."

Farming — the Machine Age

MEN now living remember those simple farm implements, the cradle and the scythe (ruminates our Ottawa contributor, R. J. Deachman). Now cradles are museum pieces, they serve as relics of a past when men, especially farmers, earned their bread by the sweat of their backs.

The reaper started it all. Its first existence is recorded at Staunton, Virginia, in 1831, made by Cyrus Hall McCormick. Production in 1870 was up to 10,000 machines. . . . This was the beginning of a new life for the farmer—progress came from industry. Industry made progress possible. Agriculture became a part of the machine age.

Agriculture ceased to be a heavy back-breaking task. Although the farmer still finds it difficult to take two weeks' holiday with pay, his lot is in many ways more comfortable than that of the average industrial worker.

It took real genius to invent the knotter of a binder. A man named Appleby did the trick, All honor to him — it made the binder possible.

While this process has been going on, the farmer's home has been transformed. Electric power is now available on many farms. We are blessed, in Canada, with abundance of water power. As time goes on the farm is modernized — so too is the farm home.

Why was the progress of agriculture so long delayed? The task may have been more difficult. It may have been easier to invent a steam engine than a milking machine. Other industries had more capital. This gave them greater opportunities to search for better ways of doing things. The rate of progress now is swifter with the passing years. As soon as the human race begins to recover from the effects of war progress will be more rapid than ever before.

Think back to the days of the sickle, the scythe and the cradle — to the days of small industries, when demand was limited and prices low. Compare these conditions with the life of today and ask yourself if, in the things which matter, we are not better, happier, richer than we were. If we are not, the reason rests with us and not with the conditions which surround us — concludes Mr. Deachman.

WE MIGHT as well forget that word "crisis", since times of difficulty come in multiple portions nowadays.

DON'T BE guilty of making it easy for the child to play the teacher off against the parent, advises the Perth, Ont., Courier in an editorial, saying: "Just as sure as parents criticize the teacher and the school system, just so sure will the pupil find a way out from under his tasks. Surely we can expect parents to let the seeds grow and come up without pulling them out."

HUNTERS travelling in the bushes should be careful as to what they do with lighted cigarettes and matches. Unless you are a firebug, take heed. Our forests are depreciating fast enough without the help of the careless.

Weeklies Again Honored

Among various honors that have been conferred upon men of the newspaper profession, none comes more deservedly or with greater pleasure to his many friends than that recently awarded Mr. George W. James of the Bowmanville Statesman who at the Association of Canadian Advertisers Convention held at Toronto last week received one of three silver medals which are yearly presented to men who have given distinctive service to Advertising.

The presentation was made at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, on Friday evening last, when R. A. Giles was present as representative of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers of Canada. In making the award to Mr. James, which was "for the outstanding contribution to Canadian Advertising by an executive of any advertising medium", the following citation was given: "There are many reasons why Mr. James has been selected for this award. Probably the best of these, however, is the fact that for more than 10 years Mr. James was chairman of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers' Advertising Committee. In this important position he did much to benefit advertising as a whole and in the weekly newspaper particularly. Congratulations George James — and may you be spared to carry on as editor of the Canadian Statesman for many years to come".

There were over 1,100 people at this gathering, to join in felicitations to Mr. James, but he is known all across Canada, particularly among the fraternity, and we know that he has the congratulations and good wishes of thousands of friends.

Not only has Mr. James been distinguished, but he has brought honor to the Canadian Weeklies.

No Corner Drugstores Seen in Moscow

But Ambition Spurs the Pharmacy Clerk

The corner drugstore, with its colorful window displays and week-end specials, is not for Muscovites, according to Alderman L. L. Coulter of Ottawa, just back from the Russian capital. A druggist himself, Mr. Coulter was particularly curious about how the pharmacy operates under state ownership. He describes what he saw in an interview in the current issue of Drug Merchandising.

Instead of the corner drugstore familiar to all Canadians, Muscovites get their medicinal needs in big, state-owned pharmacies employing 40 to 50 clerks each. Spotted through the city to serve definite zones, they provide for the needs of their allotted localities without stimulus of competition. The result, says druggist Coulter, is a complete lack of anything approaching sales promotion. Store modernization is unnecessary (in many, counters and fixtures date back to Czarist days), and there are no attractive merchandise displays. More noticeable still, there are few competing brands — the customer takes what is provided.

In the dispensary, however, the scene was more familiar to Mr. Coulter. He was able to recognize Latin names on numerous drug bins and drawers, and, generally speaking, found the dispensing operations carried on in much the same way as in the average Canadian drugstore, only on a larger scale. They reminded him of hospital dispensaries rather than drugstore dispensaries.

Drug clerks and graduates work somewhat longer hours than their Canadian counterparts and are paid less. There is no profit motive, but employees strive for promotion to managerships and other senior positions. The reward is a higher salary, more food and clothing coupons, and possibly a state-owned car which is issued to the higher-ups.

Alderman Coulter accompanied Ottawa's Mayor Lewis to ceremonies in connection with the 800th anniversary of the founding of that city. He was permitted to travel about the city without restriction.

Remembrance Day

(Contributed)

Once more we observe Remembrance Day, and in so doing pay tribute to our boys who gave their lives in the cause of freedom — those gallant soldiers who left all and followed the path of duty without a thought of self, or the sacrifices they might be called upon to make.

Through the trials and privations of war, or in the heat of fierce battles, their courage never faltered. We shall never forget the glory of their passing, that was as the glory of the setting sun. . .

So today, from the lowliest backwoods cabin, to the palace of our beloved Queen Mother, there are tender memories recalled of the sons who have not returned; but in our hearts, where love, and pride, and sorrow mingle, they will live forever.

They are not dead who tryst with us
When evening shadows fall,
Or when each returning daybreak
Brings memories to us all.

They are not dead who lie today,
In fields that once such valor knew.
Where gallant boys who filled the ranks,
Midst din of war, to manhood grew.

They are not dead whose memory sheds
A light across the years,
And whose fine and steadfast courage
Puts to shame our petty fears.

They are not dead, they only sleep,
Where flaming flowers bloom;
Those ransomed souls forever blest
Rejoice beyond the tomb.

— Sarah Beaven Bennett.

Riverfront Mourns Well Loved Friend

Cushing W. — A number from the vicinity went to Montreal on Monday to attend the funeral of the late Dr. H. B. Cushing. These included the Rev. and Mrs. Moore, Mrs. W. J. King, Mrs. W. T. Canning, Mrs. W. Usher and Miss Whelehan.

News of the sudden death of Dr. Cushing last week was a shock to the many friends he has made in this community. Dr. Cushing purchased the stone house and adjoining property in Cushing West, formerly owned by the Cooke family, in 1929, and since then he has spent his time here whenever his professional duties allowed. His friends have said that his happiest hours were spent here working among his flowers and beautifying the grounds of his property. In his quiet and unobtrusive way he performed many acts of kindness, visiting the sick, and giving medical advice, especially amongst the less fortunate of the community, and his loss will be very keenly felt. To his brother, sister and daughter, heartfelt sympathy is extended from his old neighbors here.

Cushing — A short memorial service was held in St. Mungo's Church on Sunday for the late Dr. H. B. Cushing, the Rev. A. G. Moore reading a brief account of Dr. Cushing's life while the congregation stood in honor of their departed friend. This service closed with the singing of, "The Sands of Time Are Sinking". . . Dr. Cushing had spent the previous Sunday at his Cushing residence, apparently in his usual health.

ELECTIONS NEAR

It scarcely seems possible, in one way, that already the municipal hopefuls and the present incumbents should be thinking of another term of office. Nevertheless, the time is approaching when the office-holders and would-be officials will be placing their case before the people.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

Stirring Challenge to United Church Laymen

Facts pertaining to the missionary enterprise of the United Church of Canada were strongly presented before the men of the northern section of the Montreal Presbytery, on Monday evening at the annual laymen's supper in the United Church hall. The main speakers were Prof. Wm. S. Taylor, Ph.D., of the Indore Christian College, Central India, and the Rev. R. DeWitt Scott, B.D., secretary of the Presbytery of Montreal.

The urgent need for greater interest and additional financial sacrifice towards the missionary work at home and abroad, was the keynote of the address of the Rev. DeWitt Scott. He stressed the serious increase of cost in missionary work, and challenged those present to face the alternatives of either giving more to enable this important work to go on, or of re-calling our missionaries home.

The specific work of the Indian cause of the United Church was dealt with by Prof. Taylor, who has spent 17 years in India since graduation from Victoria College in Toronto. The field covered by the United Church in Central India comprises an area with four million inhabitants, and he said that this church was the only Protestant ecclesiastical body working in the region.

Dr. Taylor claimed that India today was more ready to receive the gospel of Christ than ever before, and that in the last two or three years, converts were entering the church in huge numbers. He said that work had developed to such an extent that Indian members were conducting their own presbyteries, and gifted students were now taking an active part in this work.

Dealing with his own line of work in the educational field, Mr. Taylor said that they had ten thousand Christians out of the four millions, and that 90% of them could not read the gospel for themselves. He stressed this important fact, and said that the condition must change if the church is to carry on in India.

Presenting the Indian message here in Canada, the speaker said that they ask for help now, for in a few years it may be too late. Adverse forces and foes of the Christian Church are making a strong appeal, and he claimed that assistance now may save the Church in India, and also save the economic possibilities and tremendous markets for the western powers.

The speakers were thanked by Mr. A. A. McOuat and also by the chairman, the Rev. W. B. Rosborough. A vote of appreciation was also tendered to the W.M.S., who, with the help of many volunteers, catered for the gathering with a splendid turkey supper.

Representatives from all communities of this section were present, including Avoca, Calumet, Morin Heights, Cushing, St. Andrews East, Browsburg and Lachute.

The meeting was then turned over to Miss Jacobsen, the Christian Missionary convener, who had Miss Mary Lamb of St. Andrews East as her guest speaker. Miss Lamb, a returned missionary from China, spoke on "Christianity or Communism, Which for Christ?" and also related some of her experiences while in China. The Rev. W. B. Marriage Vows In City Church

Hansen - Sutton

The marriage of Vera Myrtle Isabel, younger daughter of the late Mr. A. Sutton and of Mrs. Sutton, of St. Amedée, to Mr. John Albert Hansen, son of the late Mr. Morton Hansen and Mrs. Hansen, of Denmark, took place at twelve o'clock noon on Saturday, October 25, in St. James the Apostle Church, Montreal, the Rev. Stanley Andrews officiating. Mr. J. E. F. Martin was organist. White and pink chrysanthemums decorated the church.

Miss Greta Sutton, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. Mr. Jack Lay was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Clarence Rogers and Mr. George Tucker, uncles of the bride.

Given in marirage by her brother, Mr. Earl Sutton, the bride wore a gown of white satin fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, long tight sleeves forming points over the hands, a fitted bodice and skirt extending into a long train. Her full-length veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a halo of the same material and tiny velvet flowers, and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

The bridesmaid wore a fitted blue brocaded satin dress, with a net skirt over taffeta falling in a slight train, cap sleeves and full-length gloves, a matching headpiece and waist-length veil; she carried Talisman roses.

Out-of-town guests were present from Lachute, Montebello, Ottawa and Aylmer.

than that shown by the father of three or four children. Possibly their wives are also employed, so that a further tax is deducted, making the enormity of the supposed crime all the greater. They dismiss the cost of rearing and educating a family by airily pointing out the benefit of Family Allowance, which averages out at about six dollars for each child per month; as one instance, local school fees for high school pupils are twice that amount.

How important the school becomes is the more apparent as we realize that our hope of the better world of which we dream depends on it. There will be no better world if our children go wrong on us. All our hopes and aspirations, all the great idealism that is crystallized in flaming words—FREEDOM and JUSTICE and DEMOCRACY, are but a crying in the wilderness of a forgetful tomorrow, unless these great concepts are reborn in the hearts of each new generation, parent and non-parent alike.

Teachers appreciate the interest parents and others take in their work; an even greater manifestation of interest is necessary. Let this be your reminder to display that interest and make this a successful Education Week.

Constructive Criticism

It's a great American (and Canadian) game to gripe, and many of us do it seriously with justified complaint, while probably more of us do our griping in a good-natured way just to hear ourselves talk.

We're experts in everything from hitting home runs and washing dishes to collecting garbage and cleaning streets. Every one of us can do the job better than the other fellow. Or at least we're eager to offer an opinion about the stupidity of the umpire, the thickheadedness of the coach, the carelessness of the little woman, and the bone-headed tricks of the city administration and its maintenance.

But when we sit down and talk things over with ourselves, maybe the other fellow has problems and limitations we haven't considered.

There's another factor, too. Like any employee on any job, whether it's in the shop or the office, city employees get behind and they make mistakes. They're human beings. But they're in there pitching all the time, trying to keep you happy and to make your city a healthier, safer, and better community in which to live.

Griping is a part of America. It's a trait which gives an American something distinctive. He knows what he wants. He toils and sacrifices for what he knows is his. He takes pride in his home, his city and his country. And he gripes when things aren't just to his liking, and he's a great guy because he stands on his feet and says what he thinks.

But when we gripe, let's give the other guy a break. Maybe he's got a gripe coming, too. And he's probably doing his darnedest to do the job just the way we'd do it ourselves.

— Editorial in The Municipal Reporter, Beloit City, Wisconsin

Housing and the Veterans

. . . . Good health for the children means, among other things, good housing. No child in the 20th Century should be brought up in a cramped, unsanitary, ill-ventilated and unhealthy home. Yet I have heard a veteran, whose own health had suffered in the war, express painful anxiety about the effects of the kind of home he had been able to find on the health of his two young children. A war bride, a new Canadian, recently expressed her legitimate disgust with the dishonest practice of selling furniture at exorbitant prices to veteran house hunters. Others are asking more and more insistently why it is possible to provide labor and materials for building almost any kind of structures, except low rental housing for veterans and other anxious home hunters. Many thoughtful citizens also would welcome some protection for young parents from the unscrupulous type of landlord who seems to regard them as undesirable tenants, as though lawful parenthood were a crime, forsooth! Every Canadian child is entitled to a home, and a healthy home at that. A landlord who bans children is a public enemy, and our young veteran parents have right and reason on their side when they resent his anti-social attitude. It is important in the public interest that those who fought to keep Canada free should at least have the freedom to bring up their own children in reasonably healthy homes. It is not to the ultimate good of Canada that these men and their womenfolk should become people with a grievance.

— Prof. John Hughes in The Municipal Review

Glimpses of Past Glory

Boom days when whiskey barges made regular calls from Buffalo and $50 was considered a good skipper's wage, were vividly recalled when construction workers digging a sewer in Brantford, Ont., turned up remains of a canal which was a busy trade artery in the lively years of the 19th century.

Diggers uncovered an 1854 Bank of Upper Canada penny, timber of a dock once used by barges loaded with whiskey, and parts of the old tow-path that mules trod to pull the barges.

Beginning its heyday in 1840, the canal was a highway for trade between Central and Western Ontario and the United States border. It was once calculated to put Brantford on the map as a port for barges from Buffalo working their way up the Grand River from Lake Erie.

Railways put the canal out of business, bringing to a close an epoch paralleling the exciting riverboat days on the Mississippi.

Vegetables in November

There is no question of what shall be done with vegetables during the summer months but when November rolls around the choice is limited, and one must depend on different methods of cooking and serving, rather than on variety of types. Very often the addition of a dash of unusual spice, a new sauce or a topping of crumbs or cheese will give a commonplace vegetable a glamour all its own.

Combination of two vegetables may improve texture or add new taste appeal. Turnips and potatoes mashed together is one of the popular combinations. Another familiar one is carrots and peas. A few of the outer stalks of celery diced and cooked with the carrots is a blend that is just as attractive and unusual. If small turnip cubes are mixed with peas, and fried mushrooms added, the macadoine is a dish for the gourmet.

The home economists at Ottawa stress the point of proper cooking of all vegetables until they are just tender and in small amounts of water so as little as possible of the flavour is lost.

Tomato Ramekins

3 Tablespoons fat, ¼ teaspoon grated onion, 2¼ cups tomato pulp, ¾ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 cup grated cheese, 2 eggs well beaten, 9 half-inch slices bread, 4 tablespoons fat (additional).

Melt 3 tablespoons fat in frying pan, add onion and cook 1 minute (do not brown). Add tomato pulp, pepper and simmer 2 to 3 minutes. Blend in grated cheese, pour over beaten eggs, return to heat and cook 2 to 3 minutes longer until the mixture thickens. In the meantime remove crusts from bread and cut into small cubes. Brown in melted fat in frying pan. Fold half the cubes into hot mixture. Pour into ramekins or serving dish. Sprinkle remaining cubes on top and serve at once. Six servings.

Sausage Vegetable Scallop

1 lb. Sausage meat (or sausage removed from casing), 3 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, 3 cups milk, 3 cups thinly sliced potatoes, 1½ cups grated turnips.

Brown sausage meat in frying pan, breaking it apart with a fork as it cooks. Remove from pan. Mix flour, salt and pepper and blend until smooth with ½ cup of milk. Pour remaining milk into frying pan and heat. Gradually stir in the flour mixture and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Place half the sausage meat in the bottom of a casserole, cover with half the potatoes, turnips and sauce. Repeat layers. Cover and bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) for 1 hour or until potatoes are tender. Remove cover for last fifteen minutes. Six servings.

Vegetable Harlequin

3 Cups cooked diced turnips, 2½ cups cooked diced potato, 4 tablespoons diced home-canned sweet red pepper (optional), ¼ cup top milk, ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons mild flavored fat. Combine ingredients and heat thoroughly. Six servings

Q.W.I. Receives Thanks from Norway

While attending the Congress of the Associated Country Women of the World in Amsterdam, Mrs. W. C. Smallman, as the representative from Quebec, had the pleasure of meeting the official delegate from Norway. The thanks of that country were expressed to the members of the Quebec Women's Institutes who had answered the request for making leather vests for the Norwegian seamen during the war. Mrs. Smallman was asked to convey to them Norway's deep appreciation of this service. No complete record was kept of the number of vests made, but with several branches it was a major activity and one that required much painstaking work. This direct message will be greatly appreciated by members of the Quebec Women's Institutes.

She Skins Animals And Likes It!

Woman Taxidermist Feels No Repugnance for Trade

Johannesburg (CP) — South Africa's only woman taxidermist is Miss Anna Rothman, who is attached to the Grahamstown Museum of Natural History. As a member of the staff of the Cape education department she is responsible for maintenance of the natural history display cases which circulate among schools in the Eastern Province.

Containing mounted specimens of birds, insects, reptiles, small mammals, botanical specimens and minerals, these cases help not only to illustrate the lessons, but to make them fascinating for children.

Miss Rothman feels no repugnance at skinning animals or handling snakes and during three weeks' tuition earlier in the year at the South African Museum she learnt the difficult art of skinning birds.

She is also becoming an expert at casting such specimens as snakes and frogs, which are later clothed with the real skin.

Severely Burned in Transport Accident

Collision in Fog near Chute à Blondeau

Vankleek Hill — Stewart Allen and Victor Paquette of the Neil Fraser & Son Transport, Vankleek Hill, suffered severely burned backs, legs and arms and narrowly escaped death when their truck and trailer overturned last week and the fuel tanks exploded, near Chute à Blondeau, on Route 17. The transport collided with a horse and cart during a heavy fog. Before the collision the driver was attempting to pass the horse drawn cart when he noticed a vehicle coming in the opposite directed, which it is alleged was wthout lights.

The driver's cab was crushed down to within a foot of the floor and Allen, the driver, and his companion, had difficulty in making their escape. Paquette was the first out of the cab unhurt but received burns when he opened the door to allow Allen to escape.

Following the crash the truck and trailer burned fiercely and the two vehicles were a total loss. A small amount of cheese was salvaged.

The two injured men were taken to Dr. Smith's Hospital at Hawkesbury, where they were admitted for treatment.

Tallyhoax

(Answers, London)

The benevolent old gentleman watched the crowd of youngsters round the entrance to the football ground, eagerly trying to catch a glimpse of the big cup final.

Touched by the boys' interest, he went to the ticket office and, with an air of authority, said to the attendant:

"Let these boys in and count them as they pass."

When the last one had gone in the attendant turned and said; "Twenty-eight, sir."

HOW TO KEEP THEM

Listowel, Ont. (CP) — Contented boys as well as contended cows are needed on farms if children are not going to desert the land for the city, J. C. Jenkins, of Belmont, Ont., vice-president of the Ontario Milk Producers Association told a meeting here. "If a boy is given proper training to love the land and farm animals, by the time he is 12 years old, he will never want to leave the farm", he said.

Brownsburg — Thirteen members of the 1st Brownsburg Scout Troop proved themselves to be real woodsmen last Saturday when they went on an all-day hike, following compass and map along unknown trails to an unnamed lake. They stayed long enough for each Scout to cook his own dinner and pass tests in lashing, axemanship and knifecraft.

The Otter Patrol had the best turn-out, with Milton Mason, Bobby Warwick, Ernie Zimmer, Bob Johnston and George Pasco present. The Wolf Patrol was represented by Joe Izzard, Buster Smart and George Gordon; the Eagle Patrol by Jerry Izzard, Bruce Mason and Bernie Golphin; and the Bulldog Patrol by Paul Ingram and Russ Hazel.

Congratulations are due to Milton Mason on qualifying as a First Class Scout.

Brownsburg Girl Guides

Brownsburg — The Brownsburg Guides held a masquerade party on October 29. The girls appeared in varied and interesting costumes. Nancy Ann McCormick, dressed as a gipsy, won the prize. Refreshments were served at the close.

The following Guides have passed their 1st Class Hike test — M. Mason, E. Bell, J. Goldthorpe, M. Morrison.

M. Morrison, company leader.

B. Zimmer, patrol leader of the Bluebirds; E. Bell, second.

Joy Thompson, patrol leader of the Kingfishers; M. Mason, second.

Canada's Entry for Olympic Hockey

"SPORTS CAMERA"
by Fred Kerner

Canada, winner of five out of six Olympic hockey championships, is not going to be left out in the cold when it comes to Olympic hockey this winter.

After much ado regarding amateurism and shamateurism, the C.A.H.A. and A.A.U. came up with the bright idea of selecting a team of R.C.A.F. players to represent the Dominion.

This has not met favor in all quarters — especially when the the Dominion boasts two championship "amateur" teams, but there is satisfaction generally, especially when it is recalled how well Air Force teams did in service leagues during the war years.

Too, there is a matter of a couple of inscriptions on the Allan Cup which bear witness to the ability of the laddies in blue.

It is true that in looking over the names of the boys who are trying for the team there are no "name" players. And even if there were a good selection of Canada's best, let it not be thought that, because the team is Canadian, it will run off with the Olympic title.

Herb Ralby, Biston sports writer who sponsored an American team in a European tour last year, will vouch for the fact that the pucksters "over there" have found their hockey legs and will make it a tough battle all the way.

Czechs Make Bid

Czechoslovakia, for one, is out for the glory — won only by England among the European countries in the past (and then with a team comprising several of the best of the Canadian crop).

The Czechs have cut short the playing tour of their tennis star, Jaroslav Drohny, who it seems is a top-notch man with a stick and puck just as he is with racquet and balls. They and the Swiss are looking for hockey laurels and the R.C.A.F lads will have a battle on their hands.

Farm Journal Editor Is Speaker at Joint Meeting of Breeders' Clubs

Observations from Recent Trip to Europe; Views Critical Situation on Grain Feeds

Annual meetings of the Laurentian Ayrshire Breeders' Association and the Lachute Holstein Club were held last Friday evening at the Auditorium — the occasion being a joint assembly for business and lighter diversion.

A thought-provoking address was given by the speaker of the evening, Bryan L. White, editor of the Ottawa Farm Journal. Mr. White spoke mainly of his observations during a recent tour of European countries. Holland and Denmark, he remarked, were concentrating their reconstruction efforts in agriculture by developing the high-priced products. In Holland one observed extensive operations in market gardening, and there were numerous greenhouses devoted to the cultivation of peaches, grapes and such items now considered on the luxury list across the Atlantic, and commanding proportionate prices. Tulip bulbs were a notable example of this catering to the upper-bracket markets; an acre of tulips might net a revenue around $1,000, said the speaker. In Denmark, agricultural output was concentrated on the rarer varieties of cheese and dairy produce.

Mr. White remarked on the recent rise of coarse grain feeds from the West, which was proving detrimental to the Eastern dairy farmer. He stressed the need for closer co-operation between agriculture of the West and the East; should grain prices become prohibitive, the West would lose a large potential market among eastern livestock producers.

The speaker expressed some surprise that none of the agricultural meetings which had come to his attention had voiced a protest against introduction of oleo-margarine to the Canadian market. If this should be permitted, it would have a dire effect on the dairy industry of Eastern Canada.

Simon Wilson and Theodore Murdoch were joint chairmen of this assembly. The speaker was cordially thanked for his address, and music and dancing was enjoyed by the members and their ladies.

Ayrshire Breeders' Session

Preceding this meeting, the annual session of the Laurentian Ayrshire Breeders' Association was held, under chairmanship of Theodore Murdoch, president.

There was a unanimous decision among the members to forward a telegram of protest to the Minister of Agriculture regarding the critical feed situation — demanding reinstatement of price ceilings on coarse grains, " as the dairy industry in Eastern Canada, with the poor grain harvest of 1947, cannot produce the cheap milk that is necessary to support industrial workers of the city markets".

The members of the club proposed to hold a calf sale, a Red and White field day and a barn meeting again in 1948.

One minute's silence was observed by the gathering in tribute to the late Wm. J. Rodger, who had been prominent in the club membership.

The following Ayrshiremen were elected directors for the ensuing year: J. P. Bradley, Howard McOuat, Theo Murdoch, Grant Beatty, A. St. Jacques, S. Walker, A. Dixon, Keith Pollock, Forbes McOuat and R. Fournier.

(No report is available concerning the annual session of the Holstein Club.)

Duplessis Voices Criticism on Newfoundland

By WILLIAM STEWART
Specially Written for The Watchman

Quebec, Nov. 12 (CP) — Announcement of Canada's terms for the admission of Newfoundland into Confederation has been followed by sharp criticism in Quebec from Premier Duplessis.

The leader of the Union Nationale government devoted much of his weekly press conference Friday to the Newfoundland question, and attacked the negotiations between Canadian authorities and the colony on a number of counts.

First of all, he said, the federal government had not consulted the provinces about their possible new partner in Confederation.

He said Newfoundland's representation in Parliament would upset the balance of Quebec representation fixed by the constitution.

Premier Duplessis thought the time for making the proposals was badly chosen because of what he called "excessive and exorbitant" federal taxation.

He said addition of Newfoundland as a 10th province would "add greatly to the already complicated problems of Canadian Confederation."

The premier's statement brought from Acting Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent the comment that the British North America Act provided for entry of Newfoundland into Canadian Confederation without consultation with the provinces.

Mr. St. Laurent said the federal government was in no way responsible to the provincial governments. The federal government, he said, is "responsible to the people inhabiting the provinces, and this responsibility is exercised by and through these people whom they elect as their representatives in the central parliament."

Modern Features in New High School At Buckingham

OPENING IS AUSPICIOUS EVENT IN PROGRESS OF TOWN

A large crowd gathered at the new Buckingham School for the official opening last Friday afternoon.

Mr. Roy MacLaren, in opening the ceremonies handed a key to Hon. Romeo Laurin, Minister of Public Works and member in the Quebec Legislature, who unlocked the door of the main building. Followed by the officials, all the school children filed into the gymnasium auditorium, together with several hundred local residents and others from many parts of the province.

Among those on the platform were R. B. Walker, chairman; Hon. Romeo Laurin; Hon. Johnathan Robinson, Minister of Mines and M.L.A. for Brome County; Dr. W. P. Percival, Director of Protestant Education; Dr. E. Filby, chairman of the Papineau County Central School Board; Mr. J. C. Moore, principal; Mr. Roy MacLaren; two Sisters Superior and a Director from the local Catholic Schools, together with the local and Central School Boards.

Miss Edith Higginson of Buckingham, who had been present when the old school was opened in 1889, unveiled a bronze plaque in commemoration of the new High School. The Rev. Mr. Joyce and the Rev. Mr. Heggy performed the dedication ceremony.

Hon. Romeo Laurin extended a welcome in the name of the County and congratulated all those who had contributed to the construction of this new school. His government, he stated, was deeply interested in everything pertaining to education and had considerably increased its budget for this purpose. He paid tribute to the late James MacLaren for the donation of the land, and stated that this family had always shown a great interest in education.

The chairman read a telegram from Premier Maurice Duplessis regretting his inability to be present and expressing his best wishes and congratulations.

Dr. Percival stated that whereas Buckingham had one of the poorest school buildings in the Province a year ago, they now had one of the best, and the enrolment was larger than ever before. The Mayor and Business-Man, Fined on Five Income Tax Charges

Charged by the Department of National Revenue with five breaches of the Income War Tax Act, Herve Lalonde, Mayor of Rockland, Ont., and operator of a furniture, fuel and feed business, pleaded guilty on all counts before Magistrate Austin O'Connor in Rockland Court last Friday.

The magistrate imposed fines totalling $450, with the alternative of two months in jail. The fines were paid.

Four charges were laid citing the filing of false statements in income tax returns for the years 1942-45 inclusive, involving the sum of $5,842. An additional charge of failure to keep adequate books of account was also laid.

Five witnesses were heard for the department and evidence was given that sales had been misstated for substantial amounts. Character witnesses were produced by the defence.

SHOULD EASE TAXES

Easing up on personal income taxes would help satisfy labor's demand for greater earning power. Similar treatment with respect to business taxation would encourage investments needed to speed up production, both for domestic buying at reasonable prices, and for export trade to bolster Canada's dollar position.

Hunter Shoots Freak Specimen

A deer-head causing some wonderment even among old-timers in wild-life, is in possession of Bernard Jenkins, of Lachute, who shot the 200-lb. buck while hunting in the neighborhood recently. The head bears some resemblance to that of an elk, with antlers spanning 16 inches at the tips and 21 inches at their widest spread. Two spikes appear growing from the base of the horns. The head is flat and the antlers emerge lobsided — a manner of deformity which one local authority has attributed to in-breeding.

Impressive Rites, Remembrance Day At Brownsburg

LEGION CEREMONIES AT CATHOLIC CHURCH

Brownsburg — Sunday, November 9, witnessed the largest parade in Brownsburg's history, when, preceded by a drum band, members of the Brownsburg Legion and veterans, followed by the Ladies' Auxiliary, Brownies, Girl Guides, Les-Croises, Sacred Heart League, Cadets, Cubs and Boy Scouts, paraded through the town to attend a special service at the St. Louis de France Catholic Church. At the church entrance the parade, under the command of Past President J. J. Seary, passed between the color party, which later took up its position in the centre of the aisle. The church, beautifully decorated in honor of the occasion, was filled to capacity.

The service opened with "O Canada", followed by a short but appropriate address by 1st Vice-President Hector Steele. Two minutes' silence was ushered in with The Last Post, by the Branch's official bugler Emmanuel Parisien, who also sounded The Reveille. The service was conducted by the Rev. Fathers A. V. Bouchard and Paul Manseau, the latter giving a splendid address in French and English. The church choir also contributed a beautiful hymn. The parade was re-formed following the service, and marched to the Cenotaph, where it was dismissed.

As is the custom, the second part of the ceremony took place at the Cenotaph on Remembrance Day, under the direction of Rev. S. J. Pike, who was assisted by the Rev. Father Manseau and the Revs. G. B. Hicks and Robert Dicks. Both the French and English languages were heard simultaneously during the anthems and The Lord's Prayer, and the ceremony itself was divided between Canada's two official languages. Following the Last Post by the bugler, the flag was lowered to half-mast at 11 o'clock precisely, as the Legion, Ladies' Auxiliary and Catholic Cadets stood at attention. Following The Reveille, nearly 20 poppy wreaths were deposited at the Cenotaph. The ceremony concluded with each member of the Brownsburg Legion Branch dropping his poppy and saluting individually at the memorial.

Results of Brownsburg's poppy sales, under the charge of William Tessier, are not yet known, but 44 wreaths were purchased in all by the various organizations and merchants of the town. An explanation of the meaning of Remembrance Day was given to all classes of the French and English schools, and each child purchased a poppy.

The Brownsburg Branch is currently building an open air skating rink, and will also sponsor the local team in the hockey league.

Dates Selected, Directors Named For 1948 Fair

The annual meeting of the members of the Lachute Spring Fair Association was held on Monday, with the largest number of members present in the history of the organization.

The dates June 9, 10, 11 and 12 were selected for the 1948 Lachute Spring Fair.

The County Warden, Gilbert Arnold, J. H. Black, Clement Tremblay, Erskine Rodger, James MacKimmie, Theo Murdoch, W. H. Robert, E. K. Wilson, Albert Stewart, E. J. O'Connell, Stuart Armstrong, Ross McAdam, Wm. Wilson and James McKenzie.

The financial report showed that expenditures exceeded revenue for the past year, but this was due to the unfavorable weather on the last day of the Fair, also to the capital expenditures on new buildings and improvements on the Fair Grounds.

Farmer Killed in Falling from Cart; Accident Verdict

Falling asleep on his horse-drawn wagon after returning from a party early Tuesday morning, Aimable Millette, 41, of Laurel, Que., was killed when the horse lost its sense of direction and stumbled into a ditch on a road near the victim's home, causing the wagon to overturn. Mrs. Millette, who was with her husband at the time, was thrown clear and escaped injuries.

According to Provincial Police, Millette's neck was crushed by the weight of the vehicle. At an inquest presided over by Coroner Dr. Jules Lafleur, of Lachute, a verdict of accidental death was returned.

All Sections of Community Represented at Annual Remembrance Day Ceremonies

Bronze Plaque Unveiled, Presentation Of Ship's Bell, Wreaths Laid at Cenotaph

Probably the largest gathering since the first observance of Armistice Day in this town, was witnessed at the annual ceremonies Tuesday morning at the civic auditorium. The representation of veterans showed a marked increase; there were approximately 100 in the parade — led by Provincial Police, two pipers and a drummer, and the Legion colors— which proceeded west along Main Street to take part in the observance.

Mayor Alex Bothwell presided, and on the platform were members of the Protestant clergy, the Revs. W. B. Rosborough, C. R. Lang, W. H. Britton and Chas. W. Maclean; Georges H. Héon, K.C., M.P.; Fernand Legault, Lt. Phillip Goodfellow, R.C.N.(R); James Duncan, president of the Legion; and R. A. Giles, Poppy Campaign chairman.

Following the customary observance of two minutes' silence Lt. Goodfellow was called upon to present the ship's bell from H.M.C.S. "Lachute", which was received by President Duncan on behalf of the Legion (to whom Lachute Town had ceded the care of this token). Lt. Goodfellow read the record of the Corvette, from its launching to its "honorable discharge" from service. Accompanying the bell was a scroll signed by the Hon. Brooke Claxton, Minister of Defence, signifying the presentation as "a token of gratitude to those whose efforts had provided comfort and aid to the ship's personnel while in service — and may they share with them the benefits of a work well done".

Various members of the clergy took part in the Remembrance devotions; Mr. Giles thanked the supporters and canvassers in the sale of poppies; and Mr. Héon, as principal speaker, gave an impressive address. . The Auditorium was filled to capacity.

Following these ceremonies the Legion and the public assembled before the Auditorium to witness the unveiling of a bronze plaque, to the memory of 20 of Lachute's servicemen who had given their lives in the second world war. A place of honor was accorded to the families and relatives of these heroes. Col. L. M. Hooker, as dean of the veterans and first president of the local Legion, unveiled the plaque, to the strains of the pipes and dipping of the flags. Col. Hooker read out the names from the plaque and pronounced the dedication. Legionnaire Henry St. Onge did likewise, with sentiments in the French language. Adjourning to the memorial park, the veterans again paraded at the Cenotaph, flanked by the Boy Scouts, Wolf Cubs, Girl Guides and Brownies, with their respective colors. Following the usual custom wreaths were deposited around the Cenotaph by representatives of church and service organizations of the town, and by members of families bereaved in both wars. The national anthem concluded the ceremonies.

CANADIAN WAR DEAD

(Cornwall Standard-Freeholder)

The Canadian war dead are placed in beautifully-tended cemeteries, and the next-of-kin is supplied with a photograph of the grave. Relatives are thus assured that everything possible is being done to honor the memory of the war heroes, and know as well that the graves will receive perpetual care. In addition, families in Holland, France and elsewhere are taking a personal interest in the welfare of the graves, and are tending many of them as lovingly as relatives could do.

Address by Mr. Héon

Georges H. Héon, K.C., M.P., spoke in both English and French. It was an impressive fact, he observed, that at national shrines and at humble memorials — in many lands, many cities, villages and hamlets — people were gathered today in an act of solemn remembrance. . .

"Why have we gathered in this way, on this same day, every year for the last 29 years? Is it because we care only to perpetuate a world-old cult of remembrance?" asked the speaker. "Is it because our consciences urge us to pay homage to gallant death? Is it because death is a terrorizing thought and we feel the need to clothe it with beauty? Or are we afraid, lest we forget that those whom we honor today, fought and died for Christian justice, Christian freedom, Christian brotherhood?

"Whatever this impulse, let us penetrate ourselves with the following words of Powell Davies:

" 'They gave us tomorrow! The tomorrow they themselves renounced. A tomorrow they could not return for, could not share. It is a costly gift, paid for in blood, the blood of youth, and in dreams that for them could never come true. Paid for in heartache, the heartache of those who waited in vain and were told at last that those they loved would not come back. This is the price that was paid. At this unspeakable cost, they gave us tomorrow. When shall we begin to be dedicated to it?'

"A plaque is about to be unveiled to 20 of our fellow-citizens who chose death to insure that we should not be robbed of what we cherish most — freedom. Their names, together with those already appearing on the Cenotaph, shall remain enshrined in our hearts. . But must there be in the years to come a third ceremony, when the names of others sacrificed in a third World War, will again be engraved in stone or bronze?

"The bell of the good ship H.M.C.S. 'Lachute' is being officially presented to our Town. Shall this bell toll joyous messages of peace . . or will it toll another call to arms?

"The answer lies with every one of us! Let us arouse ourselves again, not for a battle in arms, but for the mighty and noble task of healing human relations. . . If we are really conscious of this necessity, we shall insure for ourselves and ensuing generations a virile civilization founded on the principles of the Sermon on the Mount. . . The alternative is the most cruel conflict in the history of the world.

"Let us then, resolutely, unflinchingly to this noble task", concluded Mr. Héon.

Veterans Hold Annual Supper

The Lachute Branch of the Canadian Legion held their annual Remembrance Day supper on Tuesday night in the Auditorium.

At the tables, arranged in a square effect, 75 Legionnaires sat down to a turkey supper prepared by ladies of the Orange Lodge. The catering was a highly creditable effort on their part, and clean platters were the order of the day.

The Rev. Charles Maclean, B.A., was guest speaker, and told of his experiences as a padre in the last world war. It was an exciting story, filled with heroic deeds and of men who gave their lives in the supreme effort. The Rev. Mr. Maclean was thanked by Comrade Charles Duncan on behalf of the Legion.

Following the supper there was a singsong, and entertainment supplied by members of the Legion — and never were the old songs sung with such force and feeling.

Many advantages of Insulation on Farms

Methods of planned insulation are being more generally adopted not only for the farm home itself but for all animal shelters on the farm. Insulated homes are more comfortable; they cost less to heat in the winter and during hot summer days they are more easily kept cool.

Live-stock buildings are seldom heated, animal heat being relied upon to keep the building comfortable. Such buildings, says G. B. Harrison, Dominion Experimental Station, Swift Current, Sask., should be insulated to conserve the animal heat as much as possible. Concrete floors will be warmer if they are built over a cinder fill. Cinders have a greater insulating value that gravel, stone, or the earth over which a concrete floor is often poured.

The walls of frame buildings may be filled with insulating material, such as wood shavings, sunflower seed hulls, or some of the commercial insulating materials such as vermiculite or mineral wool. The space between the joists of the ceiling may be partially filled with these, or the loft may be filled with hay or straw.

If moisture finds its way into the insulation in walls or ceilings, trouble may be expected from condensation. Sills and studs may start decaying. To prevent water vapour passing through to the cold outer layers of the insulation, a vapour-proof material should be used on the warm side of the wall. Two coats of an oil paint will give fairly good results. Better results will be obtained by using vapourproof paper, a specialty which is sold by most dealers.

A tight, well-insulated building is easier to ventilate than an uninsulated drafty structure. If live stock or poultry are to be profitable, their health should be safeguarded by properly built, well-insulated buildings. Old buildings may be insulated and made weatherproof, by filling the space between the studs of frame buildings with shavings or mineral wool. This can be done by removing a board near the ceiling or under the eaves. In some cases, mineral wool is blown in with an engine-driven blower. Stone, concrete, brick, or frame walls may be insulated by fibre boards. If desired, these boards may be covered with ordinary plaster or with a Portland cement plaster. This would be particularly suitable for dairy barns, milk houses, and other places where sanitation is very important.

Time to Prepare For Ice Storage

Where facilities already exist for making or storing ice on the farm, now is the time before the severe weather sets in to put them in order. On farms and country houses where there are no such facilities and it is decided to store ice this winter, there are three common methods for doing the job: (1) the inexpensive rough board enclosures; (2) the more elaborate insulated icehouse, and (3) the icewell. The icewell is used more for the making of ice — gradually filling the well with ice from applied water — but so far as a means for storing ice for household use the icewell has no advantage over the rough shed. Still the icewell does provide facilities for cooling milk and other food products suspended from a bar across the mouth of the well above the covered ice. The well should be about 12 feet deep with a diameter to suit requirements. The larger it is, the longer the ice will last. A well six feet in diameter, filled to six feet in depth with ice, will hold about four tons.

But the storage of a few blocks of ice for use later on in the following year is simple when a supply of ice can be cut from a nearby creek or pond. Any unoccupied corner of a shed will serve as a site for a rough-board enclosure. An enclosure ten feet square and eight feet high will hold enough ice to provide 50 pounds per day for 130 days, after allowing for a reasonable amount of wastage. The smaller the quantity stored, the larger the proportion of waste. The bottom of the enclosure should be covered with about one foot of sawdust. If the soil beneath is impervious clay it will be all the better if there are a few inches of gravel below the sawdust. In putting in the ice the boards can be taken away from one side and replaced when the ice is in position. A space of one foot, to be filled with sawdust, should be left between the ice and the boards. The ice should also be covered with sawdust. It is the sawdust that keeps the ice from melting, and the drier the ice is the longer the ice will keep.

Remove Ceilings On Feed Grains

(Dept. of Agriculture Farm News)

Effective October 22 price ceilings were removed on oats, barley and screenings in all forms and positions. At the same time price ceilings on meat and meat products, and the subsidies on grains used for live-stock feeding amounting to 25 cents per bushel on wheat and barley and 10 cents per bushel on oats were discontinued.

The feed grain freight assistance policy will remain in effect until the end of the current crop year, July 31, 1948.

In July the Dominion Government announced that ceilings and subsidies on feed grains would be continued for as long as price ceilings remained on any important live-stock products. It had been intended to de-control meat prices in September, but when the principal packing plants were closed down by an industrial dispute, the Government felt that it would be unwise to de-control meats at that juncture. "Now that it seems certain that the dispute in the packing industry has been settled, it is expected that meat supplies will rapidly return to normal and that ceilings can safely be removed", stated the Government announcement.

To ensure fulfilment of Canada's overseas commitments of live-stock products, and in view of the shortage of feed grains in Canada, the Government reiterates its policy of allowing no exports of oats and barley during the current crop year.

It is anticipated that the de-control of oats, barley and screenings will result in a freer movement to feeder positions.

The one thing worse than a quitter is the man who is afraid to begin.

The Economy of Using the Best

"EVERYTHING TO BUILD ANYTHING"

The economy of using the best possible materials is made apparent in the upkeep problem. A house or business building may be "thrown together" with cheap material, and it may "look all right," but after it has stood the shock of weather, the real test comes.

It is false economy to use poor materials — and we so advise everyone who buys from us. Our success is due to honesty in materials and prices.

Legion Community-Minded

THIS WEEK, more than any other period in the calendar, brings recognition to the Veteran and highlights the role of the Canadian Legion. The fact that the Legion is accepting its responsibility in the community is demonstrated in many ways. One of the recent branch bulletins gave particular emphasis to juvenile delinquency and how the organization is aiding to combat this problem. . .

Unless some means is provided to keep hands and minds occupied, young folk will find their way into trouble. The ex-servicemen know this to be true — when they were kept busy in the ranks, they had little time to "beef". The same applies to teen-agers, who have inexhaustible energy and want to be doing something all the time. It is important that constructive plans be made to take care of their leisure hours.

Here, it is significant to remark that Branch 71 is now preparing an outdoor skating rink for use of the Brownburg community, catering particularly to the young people. And there are numerous other instances — an Air Cadet Squadron at Mount Royal — summer holiday for underprivileged youngsters — a field day for 200 schoolchildren, sponsored among various branches in the past season.

There is a field of endeavor for the Legion in this line, and the organization is doing a good job.

Headaches Come Cheaper

THE HIGH cost of living is typically demonstrated in the price of toiletries: according to a survey by "Drug Merchandising" they show an increase ranging all the way from 2.4% on nose drops to 30% on perfumes. Or if you are not on the consumer list for either of these, the other items — such as baby products (up 8.6%), dentifrices (17%) and household drugs (22%) — will certainly hit you a wallop.

These increases represent the difference between 1939 and 1947 prices. They "reflect the wartime excise tax, which has not been reduced. It is now 25% compared with 10% in 1939", remarks the trade journal in explaining the trend.

For the humble consumer there's a big headache in these figures. But it seems Providence has provided for this contingency — headache tablets are down 7%, the only item on the list to show a reduction.

Head Off Farm Fires

LATE AUTUMN is a good time to check farm buildings for fire hazards. Heating and lighting equipment in farm homes ought to be in good working order, and any conditions which could give rise to a fire should be banished from barns and outbuildings.

This calls for filling farmhouse chimney cracks with mortar, cleaning stovepipes and ensuring that they are a safe distance from burnable walls, repairing stove draughts and dampers and seeing to it that less inflammable containers than wooden or cardboard cartons are provided for handling ashes. Many fires that destroy rural homes, as well as those in towns, can be traced to overheated or defective stoves and chimneys.

Kerosene and gasoline lamps and lanterns require periodic cleaning and repairing. Lamps should stand on a solid table where they cannot set fire to curtains or draperies. Filling them in daylight avoids spilling of inflammable liquids and keeps fumes from open flames.

Coal oil — never to be used to kindle the kitchen fire — is best kept far from heat or flame; and gasoline stored preferably outside the house.

Electrical equipment in both house and barn needs a check for loose connections, broken plugs, and fuses of incorrect capacity. Electric motors should be kept free from spilled oil, dust or inflammable rubbish.

A "no smoking" rule in barns is a wise one and storing farm machinery fuel outside main buildings can avert many fires.

Since they usually bring heavy property destruction and sometimes loss of life, fires on the farm can be heartbreaking. Precautions coupled with ceaseless care and common sense help to prevent them.

Thanks, Reader

CAME TO our office this week a reader with good ideas, and a chip on his shoulder. Despite the fact that rural folk constitute a large percentage of our subscribers, The Watchman (he said) was delinquent in reporting farm meetings. . .

The stand is well taken. While this paper devotes a large portion of its space to farm interests, it is true there are many interesting meetings which go unreported.

The complaint, however, spotlights one difference between the small-town weekly and the metropolitan daily, or the metropolitan farm paper. The weekly operates on a limited budget; much as the editor would wish to have a reporter at every "incident" in his field, the rural journal can of necessity maintain only a small staff on the job of reporting. We have frequently visited the editorial offices of the city dailies — conversed with reporters who "had two stories to write" for the issue, in the same length of time in which we must mass-produce a dozen or more of social, church or accident reports running into columns of copy. Our editorial functions embrace many duties, including mechanical work; that is typical of the small-town weeklies.

Our reader's observation is true; but the remedy is open to all local clubs and groups who (like our reader) value publicity as an impetus to progress. They can name a capable member to supply the local paper with a concise record of their doings — and we mean capable, one who has the ability, time and inclination for the job. Many of our organizations do just that; and thanks to their foresight, their affairs are featured in our columns. There is no question of discrimination. We bar only libel and sectionalized propaganda; we act summarily with the long-winded, and those with a personal axe to grind.

— We thank our reader for this constructive criticism. We regret the grounds of his complaint, but offer herewith a solution.

Need for Return to Christian Living

A REPORT at the fourth Canadian Council of Churches, meeting in Hamilton, Ontario, by the federal secretary of the Council, warns that there has been a serious decline in Canadian morals. Intemperence is increasing, the sanctity of marriage is being forgotten or denied and there is a general looseness of moral discipline. Between 1940 and 1945 the number of divorces per year more than doubled and from 1944 to 1945 there was an increase of 34 per cent.

The picture is not a pleasant one. This lowering of moral standards is indicated in the number and sordidness of violent crimes today. There is a need of a Christian revival, a return to the Church and of faithful Christian living. Our country cannot reach its true greatness if acts of paganism are allowed to increase. The challenge is up to church leaders and laymen of all faiths.

CANADIAN legislators appear to be suffering from a wartime hangover—a desire to frame their policies in secret and to announce them to an uninformed public when the government thinks the time is ripe.

— Chilliwack (B.C.) Progress

A TEMPERANCE worker in Ireland was lecturing on the evils of drink. One by one he listed them, until he came to the climax of his peroration. Then he cleared his throat and shouted, "Drink is undoubtedly the greatest curse of the country. It makes ye quarrel with your neighbor. It makes ye shoot at your landlord. And it makes ye miss him."

Sourdough Thinks City Too Crowded

Vancouver (CP) — John Sestak, trapper and prospector, in Vancouver from the Yukon for an eye operation, plans to get right out of this crowded city and back to the North Country just as quickly as possible.

"I wouldn't live here for anything", said the man who found the body of John Matson, husband of the fabulous "Klondyke Kate". Matson died in his isolated cabin on Sixty-Mile River and the search was made at the widow's request. After Sestak found the body, he was injured when a fragment of timber he was chopping for firewood split and struck him in the eye.

"Up in my backyard in the Yukon", he said, "there is room for breathing. My nearest neighbor is 50 miles away — a fairly reasonable distance".

UNEASY IS THE HEAD . . .

A board of competent judges selected the Sentinel as "the best all-round weekly newspaper in Canada". The title always rests uneasily on those to whom it is awarded. The competition is too keen. Only once in a decade has the same newspaper won the title in consecutive years.

Stupendous Toll in Armed Forces in Second War; Civilian Deaths Still Unknown, says U.S. Secretary of State

SURVEY OF WAR LOSSES BRINGS FORCEFUL MORAL FOR REMEMBRANCE DAY

The 57 Allied and Axis nations involved in the Second World War lost more than 15,000,000 soldiers and sailors and other military personnel, according to U.S. Secretary of State George C. Marshall.

Recapitulating the tremendous costs of the war in manpower and resources in his chapter "Conclusions" for the Encyclopaedia Britannica's new four-volume history of the war decade, 1937 through 1946, secretary Marshall stated that the full cost of the war "either in intrinsic values or, in intangibles" will never be known.

Difficult to Appraise

Among the losses difficult to appraise, he stated, are casualties among civilians; losses caused by the displacement of populations; "the long term effects of devoting the major portions of the world's over-all capabilities for a period of years to the objectives of destruction," and the loss in the destruction of homes, industries, and means of livelihood of millions of people, which "probably represented a greater monetary cost factor than the support of armed forces."

The total cost to the principal belligerents in military personnel "killed and missing in battle, exceeded 15,000,000," he wrote. "The very considerable costs to the smaller countries, particularly Poland and the nations in Southeastern Europe, added hundreds of thousands more to the total."

In the final compilation of figures, he stated, "the data for each nation should be viewed in the light of that nation's total manpower and national wealth. The major portion of the war was borne by the United States, the British Commonwealth, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, China and France and the three major Axis powers, Germany, Italy and Japan. The battle dead gave a partial picture of that cost."

Listing of Losses

United States: 295,904 lives, or 1 in every 500 of the 1940 population.

United Kingdom: 305,770 lives, or 1 in every 150 of the population. (These figures comprise military losses of the home islands alone.)

U.S.S.R.: 7,500,000, or 1 in every 22 of its 1940 population.

France: 200,000, or 1 in every 200 of its 1940 population.

Germany: 2,850,000, or 1 in every 25 of its 1940 population.

Italy: 300,000, or 1 in every 150 of its 1940 population.

China: 2,200,000, or 1 in every 200 of its 1940 population. (This figure does not include the six years, beginning in 1931, of the "undeclared" (Chinese - Japanese hostilities.)

Japan: 1,506,000, from 1937 on, or 1 in every 46 of its 1940 population in the Home islands.

One Military Lesson

One military lesson to be drawn from the war, he stated, "indicated that if war came again, crippling and perhaps decisive blows might be struck in the opening moves." The English Channel, he added, "was not much more of an obstacle to destructive fire power than the Rhine would have been in the first world war.

"The seas and Polar wastes guarding North America would, in a few years, be not much more of an obstacle to the destructive weapons of the future than was the English Channel in bygone years."

Opening Ceremonies, New Buckingham High School

effect of living and working amid such beautiful surroundings would have a marked spiritual effect on the children, he maintained. The educational authorities were interested not only in the working portion of the children's school life but also in the recreational part, and were striving to develop a spirit of team work and fair play which would contribute to the development of better citizens in the years to come. This school was an example of what the Department of Education is trying to do throughout the province, said Dr. Percival, adding that there "never was a more important period in our history when it was so necessary to have the right kind of people talking, writing, thinking and teaching our children of today." He congratulated the local board for their courage and foresight in building such a fine school, and informed them that if they found that they had a sufficient number of pupils they could have a Grade XII.

Hon. Jonathon Robinson conveyed the best wishes of the Premier and his Government, and assured the gathering that they were glad to support any community interested in improving education.

Mayor J. Matte welcomed the guests in the name of the Town of Buckingham; this fine school, he stated, was a distinct credit and asset to the town.

At the close of the ceremony the public inspected the school. The building, which has three stories including the basement, is of brick and of fireproof construction. The floors of the corridors and the stairways are of terrazzo. The classrooms are decorated in pastel shades and all have unilateral natural lighting. Completely furnished with the latest equipment throughout, each room has fluorescent lights, with special lights countersunk in the ceiling above the blackboards. The blackboards are of nucite, paddy green in color, and are slightly tilted so that there is no glare whatsoever from any angle in the classroom. The floors are of heavy linoleum with varying colors. Each room is also equipped with germicidal lamps.

A one-way public address system has been installed which enables the principal to communicate with any or all rooms from his office. There is also a master clock from which subsidiary clocks operate throughout the school, and which also operates the bell system.

The assembly hall gymnasium, large enough to seat from 600 to 800 people, is marked off for two badminton courts and for basketball. It also provides a fully equipped stage and a public address system. The school also has special rooms for household science, manual training and music, and there are boys' and girls' playrooms.

Among those from out-of-town who attended the ceremony were Messrs. E. C. Ployart, H. Young, H. Aikman, High School inspectors of the Department of Education; Mr. D. Munro, principal of Ormstown High School; Mr. W. Roberts, supervisor for the Central Board in Compton County and former principal at Buckingham; Mr. Ivan Stockwell, principal of Pointe Claire; Mr. J. A. Haughton, principal of Megantic High School.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. J. Royal, Mr. George Y. Deacon, Inspector L. J. King, and Mr. Linton W. Armstrong attended from Lachute.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP

PASS ALONG THE CLOTHES YOUR CHILDREN OUTGROW

Remember the sweater that John discarded last summer—those shoes that Jane can no longer wear? A check through the house will probably reveal many such articles of your children's clothing that are still wearable. These can be put to good use by deserving welfare organizations. You'll have the double satisfaction of emptying cluttered closets and of making a worth while contribution to the general good of the community. That's "Good Citizenship".

You can help this public service effort. Make a note of some of the little things which, in your opinion, contribute to Good Citizenship.

At the Cenotaph

By M. V. Trayers

Before the Cenotaph. . . We wrote last year, and we cannot do better than repeat: "There is nothing so vocal as silence". When we stand in silence before the Cenotaph there is nothing on this earth we could say or do which speaks so eloquently, or carries so far or is so pregnant with meaning, as the two minutes' silence.

As the great throb of civilization hushes and the busy doings of our everyday tasks become enveloped in the vast stillness which pervades our senses, our minds exercise the command which marshals us into line with the untold legions of every village and town in Canada, with every State in the Union — yes, and across the sea. We stand beside the columned millions in Europe, in Asia and the other continents. We form line with Germans and Japs. Our thoughts are not of enemies, or war, or conquest; we are units of the Great Command. In our ranks there also stand the disembodied spirits of all that have gone before. The smiling, happy, carefree boys and men who went and did not return. Our lines stretch far, but they are in the ranks hushed and silent as we are. They do not speak to us, for they cannot speak. What is the need for speech? Our communion with the dead has ever been thus. What of the outward display of pomp and ceremony? What matter where we stand, the soil we trod has been sanctified by the blood of countless thousands who have fought and died. We may not see serried lines of comrades shoulder to shoulder before the wreath-bestrewn Cenotaph. We may be alone. No matter where we be, we stand mute and silent. We are awaiting the notes of the bugle. We shall hear its call, but there are numberless millions for whom its tones shall be mute. What shall be its call? For us it shall sound the "Dismiss"; we shall turn again to the tasks of life — for a time. To the others "who shall not grow old", its muted notes will sound the 'Rally'.

"Come home. Come home.
Red night o'er the dead in the valley.
They are lying around, face down to the ground,
And they can't hear me sound the 'Rally'
But they'll hear it again in a grand refrain
When Gabriel sounds the 'Last Rally'."

Legion Affairs At Arundel, Que.

Arundel — The Rouge River Branch 192 of the Canadian Legion held a successful dance on Saturday evening in the hall of Maplewood Inn at Arundel. About 200 persons attended, and the orchestra provided snappy music under the leadership of Earl Langdon. Door prizes were drawn for, and the thanks of the Legion are extended to the various merchants of Arundel, Weir and Huberdeau who donated these various articles. The committee in charge are to be congratulated on the success of this event.

The following morning, the Legion met at the Arundel Station at 10 o'clock and paraded to Arundel United Church, where a memorial service was held. Mr. Angus McFaul led the Legionnaires, and placed a wreath in the chancel of the church.

Mr. Fenton delivered the sermon and took as his text "Greater love hath no man than this". A tenor solo was sung by Mr. E. A. Bulley entitled "The Phantom Legions" and an appropriate anthem was rendered by the choir.

The church was suitably decorated with flags and poppies and the building was filled to capacity.

Five Famous Men in Northwest History

• By SOPHIE C. ELLIOTT, Author of "Women Pioneers of North America"

News of the tragic passing of the "Nascopie" recently, struck a note of nation-wide dismay. For thirty-two years the sturdy little vessel had delivered her precious cargo to the ice-bound regions of the Arctic scene. Wrecked beyond salvaging, she had to be relegated to the cold embrace of an ice-clad ocean.

To the student of history this catastrophe, enacted where icebergs are more plentiful than ships, recalls those yesteryears in the far north before the entry of Europeans had taken place. The unexplored, frozen tracts of snow and ice bred terror in the hearts of the most fearless of explorers. Yet, despite horrors unpredictable, men sallied forth to unravel the mysteries of Arctic breeding.

Out of the vast throng of adventurers and wayfarers whose footprints marked new pathways to the Great Northwest of Canada, the names of five notable men stand out in relief, names ever to be spotlighted, ever to be heralded as the wonder-men of an epoch-making age. Their names: Henry Hudson; Pierre Esprit Radisson; Pierre le Moyne d'Iberville; Lord Selkirk, and Lord Strathcona.

These names have not been chosen in a careless fashion. They have been singled out for actual deeds won inch by inch, day in and day out, year by year. Deeds embracing odds terrific, amidst suffering superlative. Deeds accomplished despite every imaginable discomfort, discouragement and disappointment. Theirs was an overpowering zeal for conquest which death alone could conquer. They bore the fire of a great faith, an unquenchable determination to win. This was the sum total of their success when others failed. Like many other great souls throughout the history of man, none of these five leaders lived to witness the full blossoming of his cherished plans.

Henry Hudson. This man's fame is flashed on the screen of memory with a background of tragedy and a foreground of tremendous accomplishment. He is the saddest, loneliest figure of illustrious men in the annals of Canada. When Hudson first appeared on the continent of North America the outlook was quite repelling. It was the year 1607. To this date Europeans had made little or no headway in creating permanent colonies in the sweeping wilds of a New World. From Florida, Virginia, Maine, to the St. Lawrence waterway, the strife between white men and the primeval forest was a bitter struggle, with the wilderness a winner every time. Well, what about the barren lands to the far north and the trackless wastes of the Arctic dominion? It was a forbidden territory. Snow, fog, bleak winds, hurricanes amidst wildly lashing waters, icebergs, and in fine weather the withering deadness of an all-pervading silence. A man could go mad in such a place. Not a dozen boats had, as yet, ventured beyond the sixtieth degree north latitude. It was enough to chill the spirit of the most adventurous.

Henry Hudson, the dreamer, was inspired by an overwhelming urge to find a shorter passage to China. His imagination leaped beyond the hurdles of stern realities in the terrifying hush of hinterlands dominated by frozen wastes. Go he must, and four different times he launched forth. Once would have been quite sufficient for the ordinary man. Out of this almost superhuman determination was hatched the discovery of the great Hudson River, the district of New York, and an ocean passage as far north as Hudson Bay.

Our last vision of this brave and true man is one of mutiny and cruelty. Henry Hudson, with a handful of men and his young son, was cast adrift by a lawless crew and left to die. Surrounded by the limitless boundaries of isolation and utter desolation, the earthly frame of Henry Hudson melts into oblivion.

Here, then, our first wise man gave up the ghost. But not before bestowing upon posterity a boon of superlative price. This great man, (like his friend John Smith, the Englishman who founded the first permanent settlement in the United States, namely Jamestown, Virginia) went to a nameless grave. For our inspiration in this black hour of modern-world crisis, Hudson left a plan of spiritual grandeur. His untrammeled vision, his singleness of purpose and rugged strength of character, were a triple alliance of potential worth — a vehicle without which he would have failed in attaining his goal.

Pierre Esprit Radisson. I now mention the first white man to explore the great west lands, the northwest, and the still more remote and wilder north country. This man was the founder of the Hudson Bay Company. To relate in full the tale of this French-Canadian coureur-de-bois, explorer and fur-trader would take hours. I must recall but a sketchy picture of one of the greatest explorers of the North American Continent.

This is the year 1652. The scene is the little hamlet of Three Rivers. It is the hour of sunrise in the longest day of the year, and three intrepid boys set foot abroad on a hunting expedition. What cared they if they broke the law, because it was forbidden to go beyond the fort. Ferocious Indians hovered just beyond, who lusted for the blood of Frenchmen. And three disobedient boys plunged into the woods. The climax of this scene is one of bloodshed and death for two of the lads; the third, young Radisson, was taken prisoner, adopted by the Indian Chief's wife and carried far inland. Thus began the life of hardship and discovery for a son of Canada in a wilderness of wild men, savage animals and strange pathways.

Two great ambitions swept the young men of New France to the wilderness fastness — to win immortal fame by being the first to discover new and profitable tracts of land, and secondly to achieve wealth beyond reckoning by means of the traffic in peltries. Foremost in both these cherished dreams stands Radisson. His findings were second only to those of Columbus, and more far-ranging than the discoveries of Champlain, La Salle and de la Verendraye put together. His great desire was to penetrate into the unknown. Who helped him to reach the goal mattered not. Whether France, England or any other nation aided him, he cared not one whit. New pathways must be traversed. He was the man to do it. Thus it was that later on he was maligned and treated as an outcast and an outlaw. He was dubbed a renegade, a hang-dog and a turncoat. Even so, his glamor sparkles more brilliantly at this moment than the hollow glory of his adversaries, or his patrons. Radisson was one of Canada's most illustrious explorers.

To Cut False Alarms

Pranksters ringing false alarms in Richmond, Virginia, hereafter will be caught red-handed. Firemen have painted alarm boxes with an indelible red stain that won't wear off for months. Only one chemical will remove the stain — and that cleanser is available only at police headquarters — says a news despatch.

New York Herald Tribune is proud of the fact that even though New York had 346 murders in 1946 — almost one a day — the city, save for Los Angeles, has the lowest urban murder rate in the United States. In fact, New Yorkers are only two-thirds as homicidal as other Americans.

One-Handed Youth Shellcraft Expert

Kyle, Sask. (CP)—Gerry Bunesse, 16-year-old youth of this village, 35 miles north of Swift Current, likes making shell products almost as well as playing basketball — better, perhaps, because he's paid for his hobby but not for his sport.

Gerry has the use of only one hand. When he was a patient in a Saskatoon hospital a nurse introduced him to shellcraft. Since then he has turned out an amazing number of shell creations. A Kyle merchant handles their sale for him.

In an hour Gerry turns out as pretty a pair of earrings as ever adorned a lady's ears. He does all the work with one hand. He is an ardent basketball fan, too, manages to complete his plays with his one hand and has little difficulty getting the ball away from his opponents and scoring as many as the rest of them.

Relics Recall the Gold Rush Era

Victoria, B.C. (CP) — A collection of historical relics gathered during a period of 50 years throughout the Cariboo district by the late Louis LeBourdais, Cariboo M.L.A., has been presented to the British Columbia archives.

Concerned mostly with the era of the Cariboo gold rush, the collection includes a leather bucket, leather hose and copper nozzles used by the volunteer fire brigade at Richfield, near Barkerville, B.C.; a set of ox shoees; beam from an old set of gold scales; tie spike from one of the narrow-gauge railways used in early gold mines, and the lead chain of a bull team, found near Lac La Hache, B.C.

Insulators and other pieces of equipment from the old Collins Overland Telegraph, originally intended to link the United States with Asia by way of British Columbia and the Bering Sea, also are included.

Painted Portraits For Bread, Socks

Ukrainian Artist Discovered by Herbert Hoover, Now in Canada

Winnipeg (CP) — An artist who used to paint portraits of Army officers in the United States zone of Germany for a handful of chocolates, a loaf of bread or a pair of socks or stockings, is in Winnipeg to lecture on the art of his native Ukraine.

He is P. Andrusiw who came to Philadelphia last January, first of a group of Ukrainian artists to reach America and freedom after years of terror and starvation.

His career reads like an adventure novel. Born in 1907 in Lwiw, he graduated from the University of Warsaw after a childhood which included a period as the mascot of a Cossack regiment which had found him fleeing from the German invasion of 1914. His attendance at the university springs, he believes, from the fact that Herbert Hoover, later president of the United States, noticed his drawings and suggested to authorities the boy be sent to an art school.

He had a studio in Warsaw when the Second World War broke out and lived there during the German occupation. When the Poles staged an abortive uprising late in the war — advancing Soviet forces were only a few miles away at the time — he was one of the few who escaped the German massacre but he and Mrs. Andrusiw were taken to Germany as slave laborers. United States troops eventually released them and then came a long period in a displaced persons camp.

To prepare himself for the Canadian historical scenes he plans to paint, he is studying Canadian history — including texts written in Ukrainian.

A man is known by his friends, they say. Unfortunately some people are not very well known.

A Lesson from the Farm

"My Week"

By R. J. DEACHMAN

There is something basic and elemental in the farmer's approach to problems. We can learn from him. There are two types of farmers in this country. One is out to make money, to take it out of the soil. He is not essentially a farmer, he is a miner, he mines the land. The other is more reasonable, more thoughtful. He strives every year to put something into the land. His farm is a bank. Out of his profits he invests something for the improvement of his farm, the betterment of his equipment. His farm becomes richer, more productive, every year.

The nation should assume a similar attitude in its approach to our basic problems. There are expenditures which represent an investment in the nation. Then there is the type of expenditure which constitutes an ever-growing permanent burden upon productive activities of the people. We are always trying to mortgage the future, to live beyond our means, to eat the seed corn.

We burden the average citizen with taxes. He is hampered and restricted by them. When death comes we take from the fragments which remain everything that can possibly be taken. Isn't it time that we turned in the other direction. Family Allowances, and other similar expenditures, especially when paid out of borrowed money, as they are likely to be in future years, are a danger to the nation. The result is a tendency towards a form of creeping inflation which robs the people we are striving to help and leaves them poorer, not richer than they were.

State aid to every section of the community is dangerous, it kills the tendency to save, reduces the total volume of production, weakens the individual and the nation. We cannot measure the force of these evils today. The seeds have been sown. only the future will tell what the harvest will be. It is difficult to imagine conditions in which the value of this crop would be worth the cost.

This then is my platform for the nation:

(1) We must increase production. This may be a bitter and unpleasant imperative but the alternative is more unpleasant. The United Kingdom at the moment shows the cost of failure. Failure is possible even to the richest nation.

(2) The Nation must be regarded as an estate, held in trust by the living for our children and children's children.

(3) Our task therefore is to conserve and increase the resources of the nation, and the greatest of these resources — this must never be forgotten — is the capacity and willingness of the people to work."

"Yes! to this thought I hold with firm pesistence;
The last result of wisdom stamps it true;
He only earns his freedom and existence
Who daily conquers them anew."

Worry is like a rocking chair. It will give you something to do but it won't take you anywhere.

Farmers Win Overseas Trip

Glen McFaddin, of Millbank, Ont., seated on the tractor which won him a free trip to Britain, chats with runner-up Russell Hare, of Nanticoke, Ont. McFaddin won the Esso Champions class for tractors at the International Plowing Match at Kingston, and with it the trip and a gold medal, both provided by Imperial Oil Ltd., which sponsored the class. Silver medalist Hare also gets a free trip and both hope to take part in British plowing matches early next year.

The most tyrannical and unjust law of recent times is probably that Texas statute which forbids anyone to fall asleep in the movies.

Germans, it is reported, do not understand democracy. But they have had two good lessons in what it can do when it gets around to doing it.

Grew Up in Saddle Now He Makes Them

Westerner Learns Big Money Trade at Maritimes School

Saint John, N.B. (CP) — A Westerner temporarily out of his native habitat is Steve Cody, now in this maritime city following a course which may put him in the saddle of a trade dear to his heart—saddle-making.

Cody, no relation to Buffalo Bill, is from Seebe, Alta. Recently discharged from No. 1 Canadian Pack Transport Unit, he's one of 25 veterans taking an engraving course sponsored by the Department of Veterans Affairs — the only one of its kind in Canada.

The tanned Albertan grew up in a saddle. When he reached teen age he "got tired of buying saddles and decided to make them".

His first products sold to tourists and visitors. Later he got a job with a firm in Calgary, turning out silver-mounted saddles. Meantime, he kept his eyes and ears open, picking up all the little tricks of the trade.

Then he joined the army. Stationed in northern British Columbia, he did much of the leatherwork for the Pack Transport unit.

After discharge and awaiting a chance to join the engraving school, he built a shop which someday, he hopes, will carry the bold sign: "Steve Cody, Saddler".

But before that day comes, there's a lot of spade work to be done. And Steve knows it.

The engraving course he feels, will teach him plenty that he couldn't learn through years of rule-of-thumb training. He'll have a thorough knowledge of metal types, alloys and soldering, besides the scientific approach to his subject.

For some, it may be a little difficult to realize there are horse fanciers willing to hand out $5,000 for a saddle. But Steve Cody knows it, and he's doing something about it.

When a man makes a fool of himself he uses cheap material.

The University of Montreal is providing higher education to a total enrolment of more than 11,000 students. The future development of our whole community depends to a great degree upon this work. That is why it is urgent that the development of the university on the mountain be completed without delay. Help in this project is urgently needed so that the university might function on a full scale. The University of Montreal Development Fund Committee asks the support of public generosity.

Contributions received will be devoted to the completion and equipment of the present buildings, to the construction of new buildings sorely needed, and to the establishment of a superannuation fund for the faculty.

Safeguarding telephone wires for trouble-free Service

THE WORK of burying telephone wires or placing them in overhead cable continues year after year. Today, over 4 million miles of telephone wires, 95% of our total, are in cable, safer from storms. Service interruptions caused by weather are fewer, and still our constant aim is to provide even better service.

Not only is our service becoming more dependable, but it's growing, too. We are filling orders for telephones just as fast as new equipment is available. More telephones plus more dependable service — and always at the lowest possible cost—mean greater telephone value for every user.

Woods "Up North" Were Close to Home In Good Old Days

J. E. McIntosh in
The Ottawa Farm Journal

Vankleek Hill — I see by the newspapers, and I hear by way of the radio, that thousands of men are wanted for bush-work in the timber lands "up north". That expression, up north, means more and takes in more country than it did when I was a youngster.

At that time 90 miles back from Montreal seemed like a long way north. It got us into the spruce forest where the Hamilton Company of Hawkesbury had taken off most of the white pine long before. They never thought of touching the spruce, and only the best of the pine, sound and clear of knots, was good enough for them. They could pick and choose in those days, and no wonder they got rich!

Another thing, loggers could be hired for $10 a month and their board, then — and it sure didn't cost much to board them! I remember an old shanty-man telling me that all he got to eat was fat pork and bread, three times a day.

Brownsb'g Couple Recently Married

Low - Mercier

At St. George's Anglican Church in Brownsburg recently, the marriage was solemnized of Catherine Eunice, daughter of Mrs. Maria Mercier of Winnipeg, and Charles Scott Low, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Low, of Brownsburg. The double-ring ceremony was performed by candlelight by the Rev. C. R. Lang. Mrs. N. Somers played the wedding music and Miss Bertha Richard sang "O Promise Me" during the signing of the register.

The bride, who was given in marriage by Mr. Wm. Brown, wore a floor-length gown of brocaded satin with long sleeves ending in points over her hands, and a lace skirt. Her tulle veil was held in place by a wreath of flowers and caught with tiny bows of satin ribbon. She carried a bouquet of pink American roses.

Mrs. John Graham, Jr., was matron of honor; she wore a slipper-length gown of pale blue eyelet embroidered net with matching shoulder veil and long blue gloves, and she carried a nosegay of pink and white carnations.

Mr. John Graham, Jr., was the best man for his cousin. The ushers were Mr. Keith Low and Mr. Clifton Graham.

A reception followed at the home of the groom's parents where the bride's table was decorated with fall flowers and centered by a four-tier wedding cake. Mr. A. Steere proposed the toast to the bridal couple, to which the groom suitably replied.

Mrs. Low, mother of the groom, wore a grey crepe dress with black accessories, and a corsage of red roses. The bride's mother was unable to attend.

For travelling, the bride wore a wine wool suit with matching feathered hat and black accessories. After their honeymoon the bridal couple will reside in Brownsburg.

The groom was overseas for three years with the R.C.O.C., and is employed with C-I-L. Numerous beautiful and useful gifts were received, including a presentation from their fellow-workers.

A number of friends from out-of-town attended the wedding and reception.

What is defeat? Nothing but education. Nothing but the first step to do something better.

An impressive service was conducted by Flt. Lt. Rev. Dr. McMillan, who took as his theme, "He being dead yet speaketh," and urged that we all do our part in achieving the goal for which the honored ones had died, and to ever keep before us what would have happened if the youth of our land had not responded to the call of duty.

The two memorials were unveiled and dedicated by Col. Franklin, Sgt.-at-Arms at Ottawa, The Lament being played by Pipe Major Stewart.

Five Famous Men . . .

When with his brother-in-law, Groseillers, he returned to Quebec with 600,000 beaver skins gleaned in one single trip north, and the French Government confiscated the whole lot — the two men hastened to France. But what redress could two nameless wood-runners have against the powerful governor in Canada. None whatever! They went to England and managed to get a personal interview with King Charles. What a thrilling tale the King of England heard! He heard about the lush, unclaimed lands and the wealth of furs, and he listened to the tales of friendly Indians in the Bay discovered years before by Hudson; how the savage friends of Radisson in forest thickets and ice-bound fastnesses brought their peltries to exchange for trifles. The King decided to send out ships. Thus began the early days of the Gentlemen Adventurers of England, who named their trading post the Hudson Bay Company.

But Radisson was never made a shareholder in the Company. Neither did he attain even a small fortune. A record in an old minute book of the Company reads that forty-three years after the first ships of England set sail for Hudson Bay under the leadership of Radisson, the secretary of the Company was ordered to pay the widow of Radisson the sum of six pounds as a charity.

Radisson departed from this world and there is no record of his grave. This great and wise man was faithful to his highest ambitions. I know of no fine memorial raised to his memory. However, the Great Northwest Territory is his everlasting monument.

Charles le Moyne d'Iberville. This man ranged the woodlands of North America for hundreds of miles when Louis XIV issued orders from France as to the conduct of his vessels in North America. Imagine this young wood-loper, a French nobleman by birth, with one hundred companions, skilled wood-runners, hiking from Montreal to Hudson Bay in four months. Mile after mile on foot or by canoe, they traversed the wild-woods, arriving in four months' time at the very foot of the Arctic Archipelago. Their object was to rout the English from their fur-trading stronghold.

This was the Robin Hood of the New World. Having left his footprints in the far-off hinterlands of the Arctic region, we next find him threading his way south to the very mouth of the Mississippi River. Here he snatched from under the noses of the English that territory now called Louisiana.

Lord Selkirk. This knight of the wilderness was notable for the tenacity of purpose that marked his troubled career in North America. His strong sense of chivalry towards suffering humanity completely eclipsed the importance of his own worldly assets. Selkirk was the scion of one of the wealthiest and oldest Scottish noble families. In his efforts to establish poor Scottish families in the Red River district, he squandered his fortune along with his health. He died in poverty, yet through all his magnificent endeavors he left to his fellow-creatures the kernel of today's flourishing lands of the Middle West, not overlooking the fair inheritance of Prince Edward Island.

Lord Strathcona. This man was born in year 1820, the year Lord Selkirk died. On that date another Scot was brought into being to attain, in years to come, not only significant service to the Hudson Bay Company, but the promotion of one of Canada's most essential elements of national well-being, namely, the Canadian Pacific Railway system, thus bridging the continent from coast to coast.

Lord Strathcona comes into the Canadian picture as plain Donald Alexander Smith, sailing from the Orkneys with his uncle, James Stewart, of "Astoria" fame. This uncle arranged a junior clerkship with the Hudson Bay Company for young Smith, his post being situated far north in the district of Labrador. His salary was the enormous sum of twenty pounds a year.

A fleet of twelve great birchbark canoes accompanied the youth on his journey north, embracing twelve hundred miles over land and water; it was hard going, certainly not a runway for the timid. In that bleak land of Labrador, Donald Smith spent thirteen lonely years serving the Company. In his humble hut, completely segregated from civilization, his solitary evenings were often made more dismal by the moaning of hungry wolves and foxes. Sometimes the ravenous beasts peered into his windows hungering for his living flesh and blood. How the north winds whined about his cabin! How the wild blizzards raged and rampaged across the bleak countryside!

During his long years of service, many hard words were whispered and many insults were hurled publicly at Smith, especially with regard to his policy concerning the C.P.R.

Among the Indians who brought peltries to Smith was a tribe called the Nascopies, a branch of the Algonquins. Hence the name "Nascopie" was given the ship which recently foundered on a reef near Baffin Island at the entrance of Hudson Bay.

W.I.'s Increase In Membership

Membership in the Quebec Women's Institutes has been increasing rapidly this year. Each month brings reports of new members being added to the roll of groups already established, and two new branches have been organized recently, Restigouche in Gaspé County, and Dorion-Vaudreuil in Vaudreuil County. Perhaps two factors have combined this year to bring the work of the Institute more forcibly to the attention of the public — writes Mrs. F. C. Taylor, provincial Publicity convener, referring to the "Golden Jubilee" with its resulting celebrations across Canada, and the conference of the Associated Countrywomen of the World, held this fall in Amsterdam. Whatever the cause, there seems to be a growing awareness of the place filled by the Women's Institutes in rural communities and the privilege of being a link in that great company of countrywomen represented in the A.C.W.W.

Whoops, My Dear

From the Nokomis, Sask., Times: A local lady weighed her infant at the hospital one day this week to see what progress it had made. While there she changed diapers. A piece of brown paper was used to wrap the change in, but the paper had been used before and had the name of a young married lady on the outside. Entering a store, the parcel was left in error. Discovering the parcel with the name on, a wide awake clerk delivered it to the husband of the addressee. It is not reported what the husband said when he took it back to the clerk.

VARIED RECIPES

Mock Chicken Spread

1 Cup coarsley ground cooked pork or veal, ½ cup chopped or shredded raw carrots, ½ cup of chopped celery, 2 tablespoons of sweet pickle relish, 3 tablespoons mayonnaise, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper.

Combine all ingredients and mix thoroughly. Yield 1¾ cups.

Baked Bean Salad

2 Cups baked beans, ½ cup of diced cooked beets, 2 stalks celery, chopped, 2 tablespoons chopped sweet pickle, 1 tablespoon catsup, boiled salad dressing to moisten.

Mix lightly together and serve well chilled in lettuce cups. Serves five to six.

Sour Milk Gingerbread

½ Cup mild-flavored fat, ⅔ cup sugar, 2 eggs, ½ cup molasses, 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour (or 2¼ cups sifted pastry flour), 2 teaspoons baking soda, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, 2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 teaspoon allspice, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup sour milk.

Cream fat until fluffy; gradually cream in sugar. Add beaten eggs and molasses and beat well. Mix and sift dry ingredients and add alternately with sour milk, combining lightly. Bake in a moderately slow oven, 325°F. 50 to 55 minutes. Makes gingerbread 8 x 8 x 2½ inches.

Butterscotch Apple Pie

¼ Cup brown sugar, 6-8 medium apples, 3 tablespoons brown sugar, 2 tablespoons shortening (half butter), 3 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk, 1 deep uncooked 9-inch pie shell.

Sprinkle the ¼ cup brown sugar over the bottom of the uncooked pie shell. Peel apples and slice thinly, fill the pie shell, heaping apples slightly in the centre. Cream the 3 tablespoons brown sugar with the shortening and the flour until well blended. Crumble the mixture over the top of the apples. Pour the milk into the pie and bake in a hot oven, 400°F. until top is brown and apples are tender, about 45 minutes. Cool and serve. Makes 1 deep 9-inch pie.

Spiced Faring Pudding

¼ Cup farina ¼ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 4 cups milk, 1 cup apples, sliced in ¼ inch pieces.

Mix farina, sugar, salt, cinnamon, and cornstarch. Add milk and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens, about 5 minutes. Place over hot water. Beat well with rotary egg beater. Add apple and continue cooking 30 minutes, uncovered, stirring gently 2 or 3 times during cooking. Serve hot or cold with top milk or cream. The pudding is quite firm when cold. Six servings.

Britain Filming Stories From the Bible

London — Britain is equipping a special studio for producing religious films on a non-commercial basis. These plans were outlined recently to the World Sunday School Association by Mr. Arthur Rank, head of the Rank Film Organization, who said: "I am providing a studio at Elstree and installing $280,000 worth of equipment to make 16 mm. religious films. This will not be a profit-making concern. Any denomination will be free to use the studio and make its own films of Bible stories or scripts of religious subjects. The only charge will be the cost of production. My commercial group are setting up a world organization for the distribution of these films and in every country are working closely with religious film societies."

Winter Scout Uniform

A smart forest green uniform, specially designed for use of Canadian Boy Scouts in winter, was enthusiastically approved by the Dominion Executive Committee of the Association in Winnipeg.

Designed by experts, the new uniform is a practical every-day outfit that can be worn to school, as well as when participating in winter Scouting activities. It consists of ski-type pants, parka with detachable hood trimmed with wolverine fur, and an altra-smart ski cap.

Filling a big need in Canadian Scouting, the new winter uniform will give impetus to the efforts now being made to get more and more Canadian Scouts outdoors in winter.

Principal F. Royal Speaks on Child Psychology and Parent Co-operation

At Parents' Night Event Sponsored by the Board of Brownsburg Consolidated School

(Our District Correspondent)

Brownsburg — Before on interested audience Mr. F. H. J. Royal, principal of Lachute High School, delivered a timely message here on child psychology and the co-operation of teacher, parent and pupil in obtaining worthwhile results from our present system of training. The occasion was the "parents' night" at Brownsburg Consolidated School, Mr. Royal's message was of tremendous importance to parents, and it is gratifying that the attendance, though not as large as it should have been, was nevertheless quite substantial. Speaking on the home atmosphere and its effect on study, one of the most neglected phases of educational training, this teacher pointed out that the co-operation of parents was of vital importance to the success of the child. The period of home study should be partaken by all parents and children alike, and a quiet atmosphere conducive to mental exercise prevail. No blaring radio, or "run away and study" attitude, should be a parent's contribution to the period.

The Brownsburg School Board are to be congratulated on the bill of fare, both mental and physical, which they provided. It was an enlightening evening's entertainment and greatly appreciated by all those attending. The school was "en fete" for the occasion, and looked in first class order with a friendly welcome prevailing.

Hunting

Shakespeare said in his Henry IV, "If all the year were hunting holidays, To sport would be as tedious as to work". . . . I have heard it said that the safest attire to wear in the bush these days is to clothe oneself in a deer skin, there are so many disappointed hunters. In his "Maxims for Revolutionists" George Bernard Shaw says, "When a man wants to murder a deer he calls it sport: when the animal wants to murder him, he calls it ferocity".

The First Snow

There were a large number of casualties among the fenders Sunday night, though nothing of a very serious nature has been reported.

Retreat

The English-speaking retreat opens at the Catholic Church on Thursday evening at 7.30. The Rev. Fr. Power, vice-chancellor of the Montreal diocese, will be the speaker. Many inquiries have been received from Lachute and the outside district from English-speaking Catholics and others, for information on attendance. Replies have been mailed to say that anyone desiring to be present will be cordially received. The retreat continues for four days, closing Sunday at 3 o'clock.

Parents' Night Held At High School

A record number of over 300 parents, from near and distant points, crowded the corridors and classrooms of Lachute High School last Thursday evening in response to the invitation to attend the annual Parents' Night.

The members of the teaching staff were present in their respective classrooms, to answer questions relating to the pupils' work and to present the samples of work on display.

In order that the parents might have some idea of what is taking place in the classroom during school hours, Mrs. Norma Rogers very ably taught a demonstration lesson in History to her Grade VIII class, the theme of which was the Jacobite Rebellion.

Mr. Earl Morrison, in his classroom, explained the aims of teaching Science and, by way of illustrations, did a number of laboratory experiments. Most of these were of the type that each pupil has to do during the course of the school year. Unfortunately many of the visitors were unable to witness either of these features, due to the lack of space.

Educational films were presented, together with a music display, including the new radio-phonographs purchased recently by the Board to take advantage of the special educational broadcasts, and an illustration was given in the use of records as teaching aids.

Refreshments were served in the lunch-room by members of the Household Science classes, under the direction of Miss Gladys Styles.

Appeal Against Traffic Fine Is Withdrawn

Appeal against a court judgment imposing a fine for a local traffic offence, was withdrawn last week at St. Jerome since (according to legal authority) there is no appeal allowable on such judgments.

A fine of $25 and costs had been imposed by District Magistrate D. Lalande, who heard the case against a local contractor for infringement of the town traffic by-law—namely, in disregarding a stop-sign. The defendant instituted proceedings to appeal the judgment, but, as stated above, the appeal was subsequently withdrawn.

Roads Employee Found Dead Beside Grader

Louis Carriere, of Brownsburg, employed by the provincial roads department, was found dead beside the grading machine which he was operating on the Vachon monty between Grenville Highway and the riverfront, around 5 p.m. last Thursday. The fatality occurred a short distance down the monty in Chatboro, where the victim was found by Edmond Pagé, transport operator, of Lachute. The man had fallen from the seat of the grader, and the machine had stalled when it ran off the road into the ditch.

Coroner Dr. A. R. Cote, of Brownsburg, made examination and enquiry into the death, finding no evidence of accident or injury. The victim had previously suffered from high blood pressure, and the physician pronounced death due to natural causes.

Louis Carriere, 59, is mourned by his widow and a large family. A brother of the late Leo. Carriere of Pine Hill, he was widely related and well known in this section of the county.

Det. Leopold Dauphin and Patrolman Albert Legault investigated the fatality.

Community Rink At Brownsburg Near Completion

Brownsburg — Fine community co-operation has been given towards the Brownsburg Legion's project of a full-size floodlighted open air rink for the coming season. As a result, the rink is nearing completion. The ground has been graded and levelled, lightpoles erected, and side panels installed by voluntary labor on the part of Legion members and citizens. All that remains to be completed is the bracing and power connections. To date the following contributions have been made or promised towards the cost of erecting this rink:

Brownsburg Legion	$300
Hotel Longtin	300
Brownsburg Rotary Club	125
Social & Athletic Club	100
Consolidated School Board	100
Municipal Council (plus free water)	35
Leonard Wilson	5

Skating for school children at stated hours will be entirely free. Arrangements for adults will include tickets for the season. The Brownsburg Legion is also sponsoring the hockey team for the Burg, and the necessary entry fee of $100 has already been paid to the officials of the Quebec-Ontario Hockey League.

This project has nothing to do with the Legion's long-term plans for a Memorial Skating Rink.

Military "Exercise Cavalcade" Visits Lachute Dec. 5

ARTILLERY AND AIRCRAFT TACTICS, IN RECRUITING DEMONSTRATION

Montreal — A military convoy composed of all types of Army equipment will visit Lachute December 5 on the last lap of a 1,500-mile tour of the province to bolster enlistments in both the Army's Active and Reserve Forces.

Known officially as "Exercise Cavalcade", the convoy will include such equipments as 40-millimetre Bofors anti-aircraft guns, 60-inch searchlights, radar equipment, a 17-pounder anti-tank gun, machine lorries (mobile workshops) of all types, a 3.7-inch heavy anti-aircraft gun, a 25-pounder gun, a 5.5-inch medium artillery gun, machine guns, piats, wireless equipment of all types and also a snow-mobile.

Some 40 vehicles make up the convoy, which is now proceeding on a month-long journey around the province. The display is commanded by Major G. F. Charlebois, D.S.O., of the Royal 22nd Regiment.

With experts from each branch of the service to display the varied equipment, "Exercise Calvacade" will feature nightly sorties by aircraft of the R.C.A.F., who will be in direct wireless communication with the mobile unit. Searchlights will be used to detect the aircraft as they fly over various cities and towns and air-ground intercommunication will be broadcast to the public over a public address system.

The equipment will be displayed in Lachute from 7 to 11 p.m. on December 5, after arriving from St. Jerome.

Drop Charges Against Local Strike Leaders

TRIAL OF THREE ACCUSED EXPECTED TO LAST SOME TIME

The trial of five agitators in connection with the Ayers strike opened this week before Justice Philemon Cousineau, J.S.C., at St. Jerome — and with approximately 50 witnesses to be presented by the defence, and a like number by the prosecuting attorneys, it appears likely the hearing will continue "for at least three weeks".

N. Dorion and L. Thinel are acting on behalf of the Crown, while Roger Ouimet, K.C., and Bernard Mergler are attorneys for the defence. Charged with "intimidation and seditious conspiracy", Kent Rowley, Madeleine Parent and Azellus Beaucage — with Georges Bedard, Edouard Gauthier and others from Lachute — stood before the court. Three complete panels of jurors were also selected for the hearing—this in view of mass challenges which might be expected in their selection.

A surprise move on Tuesday was a gesture by the Crown to dissociate the Lachute strikers from the trial, inasmuch as the prosecution "chose not to proceed against the local citizens involved". A brief adjournment was made on entering of this request, and the attorneys withdrew to confer with Georges Héon, K.C. —after which the proceedings were continued.

Four motions of the defence voiced on Monday were denied by the Court. The pleas were — (1) to quash the inditement; (2) that a mixed jury be appointed; (3) that the defendants be tried separately; (4) that the Labor Relations Law was unconstitutional. In the latter instance Justice Cousineau cited a precedent in the Lessard case, wherein the Supreme Court had ruled that the constitutionality of a law could not be challenged in the proceedings of a criminal trial.

MOUNTIES ADMIT DEFEAT

Saskatoon (CP)—A Bible belonging to the city police department disappeared the first time the R.C.M.P used the city police court here. After a feverish but fruitless search of barracks, the Mounties gave up. They promised to replace it.

Hotel Desjardins In New Hands

Probably the biggest real estate transfer in this town was effected yesterday, with sale of the Desjardins Hotel on Main Street. The purchaser is Paul Lussier, who has previously owned and operated two such establishments — the Larocque Hotel at Valleyfield and the Windsor at Drummondville. The figure is given as "substantially over $100,000", and the deal was transacted through J. R. Charron, local realtor.

Messrs. Germain Filion and Paul Lefebvre who bought this venture about 18 months ago, will relinquish proprietorship as soon as the deeds are negotiated.

Montrealer, Father Of Five Children, Is Fatally Shot

A rifle shot caused immediate death to Domino Poirier, of Montreal, who was hunting in the woods at Dunany last Sunday. The accident happened around noon, when Poirier, mistaken for a deer, was fired upon by Napoleon Roy of Carillon. The 30-30 bullet passed through the man's heart from a distance of 125 yards; fellow hunters heard only a moan from the stricken victim, and by the time they had reached his side Poirier was lifeless.

The Montrealer, accompanied by A. Houle, who has a camp near St. Andrews, had been hunting in the woods near Oscar McDougall's farm since 6.30 that morning. About to move away to other parts, he hed left his companion in a clearing, and had circled into the bush on a nearby knoll. Meanwhile, a trio of hunters were coming along a trail toward the road. In the party were Napoleon Roy, with Edmond Castonguay and F. Anderson also from the St. Andrews district. Poirier was clad in dark clothing; in the evergreens the hunters heard and saw his movements indistinctly, and Roy, certain it was a deer, fired upon the moving object.

Edmond Castonguay drove immediately to Lachute, where Coroner Dr. Jules Lafleur and Traffic Officer Albert Legault were summoned to the scene. Det. Ubald Legault, of Montreal, also came to complete the investigation. At an inquest held late Sunday afternoon at Menard's funeral parlors, the jurors, under chairmanship of Arthur Cousineau of Lachute, returned a verdict of accidental death.

Stubborn Fire in W. End Residence

A stubborn blaze at the home of Clement Tremblay, on James Street, Lachute Mills, kept firefighters busy from 1.15 o'clock Friday night until 8 o'clock next morning. The outbreak occurred in the basement of the brick dwelling. Dense smoke prevented the firemen from entering; and the only outside access to the cellar was a small window, through which hoses could not be directed on the blaze. A hole was cut through the hallway floor, but this opened on an unexcavated space which gave the firemen no advantage. The result was that most of the downstairs rooms were gutted, the stairway was burned, and part of the upstairs hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Tremblay were absent at the time, the home being occupied by their daughters, the Misses Yollande and Helene and Sister Marie Estelle of the Immaculate Conception, with her guest, a member of that religious order. Clothing and some personal effects were carried from the burning house, but water and smoke damage was extensive in the contents and furnishings. The loss is substantially covered by insurance.

It is stated an explosion was heard in the basement when the outbreak occurred, and dense smoke soon permeated the home. When the firefighters finally gained access to the cellar, the water was waist deep. Members of the brigade were called again Saturday evening when the smoldering woodwork again broke into flame.

During the night the firemen were supplied with coffee and refreshments by a neighbor, Mrs. John Falconer, while many nearby residents and friends of the Tremblay family gathered to lend assistance.

Radio-Phonograph Sets Installed in Several Schools

PROGRESS VIEWED AT CEN. SCHOOL BOARD REGULAR MEETING

The regular meeting of the Central School Board was held in Lachute High School on Thursday evening, November 13.

Routine matters were discussed concerning transportation, taxes, and various problems involving rural elementary schools.

A new 44-passenger school bus is being put into service in Grenville for those children who live on the Mine Road and Calumet. This is the second of such autobuses now being used at the Grenville school. The first was delivered towards the end of the past school year, but was not used until September last.

Radio-phonograph combination sets are being installed in the larger schools such as Lachute High School, Arundel, Grenville, Morin Heights, St. Andrews East, Grande Fresniere and Kilmar. This is a new venture on the part of the Department of Education to enable school children in these two counties to take advantage of the special programs devised by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation for school purposes, and which have received so much recognition in the United States and throughout Canada. The Department strongly encourages the ues of these machines, and is bearing most of the expense involved.

Farm Forums Voice Resolution On Grain Feeds

"When tillage begins, the hearts follow"— Webster

The County Committee of Farm Forums was convened in the Agronome's office in Lachute last Wednesday evening. Seven of the 11 county forums were represented, including a strong representation, three out of four forums, from Arundel. It has been gratifying to note the formation of two new forums this year, one in Chatboro and one in Thomas' Gore.

Owing to the fact that this county can be considerd in the grain crop failure section of Eastern Canada, the feed grain situation came in for the lion's share of discussion. It was the opinion of this representative gathering that, if grain and residual feed prices continued at their present levels, their use would be curtailed in this county as much as 75 per cent, with corresponding drops in production of dairy products, pork and poultry produce, and in many cases liquidation of herds and flocks, thus further reducing needed food exports to a starving world.

A resolution to the effect that—owing to the grain crop failure in Eastern Candaa, a more economical method of handling grains from West to East be instituted, and that grains and needed world food products be removed from speculation—was drawn up to be sent to the Prime Minister, the Minister of Agriculture, the Minister of Trade and Commerce, and the Minister of Finance.

Council Delegation Attends Function, University of Montreal Fund Campaign

Municipalities Have A Stake in Institution's Progress, Fact Impressed at Campaign Rally

A rally in connection with the University of Montreal's $11-million appeal, now in progress, was held last Thursday at that institution, where a gathering representing numerous municipalities in the city district were guests at a luncheon and inspection tour. From Lachute, six representatives of the Council and citizenry attended, namely—Aldermen Omer Laurin (pro-mayor), Jos. Belanger, Lucien St. Jacques, L. Lacoste, Secretary-Treasurer Albini Lamarche, and Bertrand L'Heureux, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

The direct concern of the municipalities surrounding Montreal in the progress of this great University, was stressed by various speakers. In such activities as scientific and medical research, training for the professions, the building of a hospital, and the University's responsibility for the accommodation of students and nurses, and welfare of the faculty —the physical and cultural standards of the community and the individual are substantially involved.

Following are sentiments expressed by two speakers at this large gathering of mayors and municipal representatives. . .

Hon. A. Raymond, LL.D., M.L.C., Joint Chairman of Campaign

"This is your University. True, the building may be on the flank of Mount Royal. True, also, that it is called l'Université de Montréal. . . . Nonetheless, this is your University for, even though you may have not contributed one cent in money, you already have an important stake in this institution. . . "You and your family depend upon the University for the doctors who look after your health and the health of your children; for your local druggists who make up the doctor's prescriptions; for the civil and sanitary engineers who protect you through your aqueduct systems; for the electrical specialists who light your homes and equip your factories and farms.

"Thus the graduates of this University become very real people in your everyday life. And without them your standard of living would slough back centuries."

"Geographically, you may be hundreds of miles from the University of Montreal but, with the collaboration of your publishers and editors, the University will be constantly before you, through your local newspapers. . . It is the intention of the University to keep you fully informed on the expenditure of the monies which you and others will contribute during this campaign."

Hon. Philippe Brais, Co-Chairman of the Subscription Campaign:

"People often fail to appreciate the vital role the University plays in our everyday life. Indirectly its work affects every one of us. .

"For instance, it is in this institution that the doctor acquires the scientific knowledge which enables him to prevent disease and to cure sickness. . . The University has made a worthwhile contribution to the fight against tuberculosis, and is now in the vanguard of research on cancer and heart disease.

"You, who represent municipalities in the orbit of Montreal, know that the structure of municipal organization and of city management are based on laws formulated by professionals, who acquire their legal knowledge right here. Your town secretary, your city engineer, your treasurer, your board of health director, the head of your dental clinic, your chemist, are probably all graduates of this University. And so are the druggists, the attorneys and judges, and most of the other professionals in your community.

"We all need the University of Montreal. This institution renders invaluable service to the masses and to the individuals. But, in turn, the University needs us, as much as we need it. In order that it may continue to serve us, and indeed increase its usefulness, it requires our assistance".

Boy Scouts Will Operate Christmas Toy Repair Shop

This year the Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs of Lachute are organizing for the collection and repair of used and broken toys. These toys are to be put in order and delivered to families and groups where Christmas is "only a story". In the collection, the boys will receive toys of all descriptions and in any condition. Also children's books, which will be retained here to form a children's library in Lachute.

If Watchman readers have toys that are no longer needed, and wish to see them used by appreciative children, now is the time to dispose of them. Call in a Scout or Cub, and they will see that they are delivered to Toy Headquarters. Toys should be handed in by December 12, at the latest. If you do not know of a Boy Scout or a Wolf Cub, or wish further information, phone 788-W or The Watchman, No. 27.

County Orange Annual Meetings

The annual meeting of Argenteuil County Loyal Orange Lodge was held on Saturday in the Lachute L.O.B.A. hall. Hugh Morrison, county master, presided. There was a large attendance of members, also visitors from Montreal and from Cassburn, Ont.

Mr. Morrison in his address pledged the loyalty of the membership to His Majesty the King, and voiced good wishes to H.R.H. Princess Elizabeth on her approaching marriage. He also gave a brief report of his work as county master during the year. The treasurer reported the financial condition of the Lodge as satisfactory. L. W. Janes, grand secretary of the Provincial Grand Lodge, spoke on behalf of the Orange Orphanage, stressing the need for wholehearted support and work on the part of the entire membership. Stanley Holt, Prov. Grand Master, conducted the election and installation of the county officers for the ensuing year, as follows:

Scarlet Chapter

The annual meeting of Argenteuil Royal Scarlet Chapter L.O.A. was also held on this occasion, with L. McGibbon presiding. A very gratifying number of Sir Knight Companions were present and took part in the proceedings. The scribe reported an increase in membership and the treasurer's report was also most satisfactory. Addresses were given by Comp. Butler, grand treasurer of Provincial Grand Lodge, and by visiting officers from Cassburn. The Provincial Grand Secretary conducted the election and installation of officers for the county organization for the year, as follows:

Comp. Rev. G. T. Spriggs, master; H. Potter, deputy; A. Bissell, chaplain; H. Morrison, scribe; S. Holt, treas.; E. Ward, marshal; G. Morrow, 1st. lec.; C. Ingram 2nd. lec.; T. Farrara, 1st. conductor; H. Ward, 2nd. con.; N. Morrison, herald; G. Dixon, sentinel; W. Cooper and N. Morrison, auditors.

To Stand Trial For Manslaughter

The trial of Albert Cyr, 24-year-old Lachute Mills resident, on a charge of manslaughter, is scheduled for the next assizes of Criminal Court for this district, before Justice H. Barrette, judge of Sessions of the Peace.

The case arises out of a hit-and-run fatality at St. Philippe on Saturday night, October 25, when Ovila Pilon of St. André Avelin was fatally struck by an automobile driven by the accused.

Preliminary hearing was held last week at St. Jerome, and Cyr was released pending trial. Attorney for the defendant is Louis Gendron, Montreal.

WEEDS ARE PROLIFIC

Early weeds, such as mustard, can produce two crops of seed a year, and each plant produces hundreds of viable seeds, which, unlike the seeds of cultivated plants, can remain alive in the soil for many years. Mustard seed has been known to remain alive for 50 years. Perennial weeds reproduce by seed and by root stalk. A minute section of the root of couch grass is capable of producing a new plant.

LEGUME CROPS

The ability of legumes to enrich the soil was known to early Greek, Roman and Chinese farmers, who found that they could keep on cropping the same land if they rotated their crops and included legumes.

It was not known until the latter half of the 19th century that while non-legumes are dependent upon the supply of nitrogen from the soil, legumes are able to draw on the unlimited quantity of this element in the air. Thus legumes, by making use of this supply, conserve the nitrogen in the soil. In addition, nitrogen is returned to the soil when a legume crop is ploughed under and when manure from such a crop is applied. A good crop of legumes turned under, may add to the soil 40 to 100 lb. of nitrogen an acre.

CLEAN MILK

Milk is a highly nutritious food for humans and domestic animals —but, also for bacteria. Bacteria grow in milk, and cause souring, bad flavour, ropiness, and other defects. Clean healthy cows; clean, sterilized utensils; and prompt cooling and storage of milk at low temperature are the chief methods for keeping milk free from bacteria.

MILK BY-PRODUCTS UP

Milk by-proucts continue to show increased production, says the Current Review of Agricultural Conditions in Canada. Skim milk powder was up nine million pounds, or 25 percent, for the first nine months of 1947. Condensed skim, evaporated skim, and powdered milk show increases for the same period. Stocks of all milk by-products are substantially higher than a year ago.

DECEMBER SURVEY OF LIVESTOCK

The authorities of the Provincial Department of Agriculture request the co-operation of Quebec farmers to ensure the success of the annual livestock survey, up to December 1. In the last week of November most of the farmers will be provided, through rural organizations, with forms to be filled in with the information concerning the livestock operations on their own farm.

The Agricultural Division of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics in co-operation with the several provincial Departments of Agriculture is collecting this information. From the returns received from farmers estimates of the number of livestock in Canada at December 1, 1947, will be obtained. In addition, information will be obtained with respect to the disposition of livestock during the last six months, i.e., marketings, killed on farms, and natural deaths. Questions are also asked about future intentions to market.

As in former years the success of the survey will depend to a great extent upon the co-operation received from farmers in filling out and returning the forms.

The information obtained from the survey is used extensively throughout the year. The World Food and Agriculture Organization depends upon the Bureau to supply up-to-date figures on Canada's agricultural industry. The Bureau is also the official source of statistical information which is used by governments, farm organizations and industry to plan future operations. It is in the farmer's own interest that a true picture of farm conditions be obtained and for this reason his co-operation is solicited to complete and return the forms as soon as possible to the organization.

The information that farmers provide to the Bureau is kept strictly confidential and cannot be used for taxation purposes.

Sask. Experiment in Contour Farming

Swift Current, Sask. (CP) — An experiment in contour farming, believed to be the first of its kind in Saskatchewan, is being conducted at the farm of Irvin Studor, at Neville, in co-operation with Dominion Experimental Farm officials who believe that contour farming may lead to a solution of the soil-erosion problem.

After a survey of the 170-acre field on the farm, 320-feet-wide strips were laid out, with each point on the strip at exactly the same level, and a strip of grass 10 feet wide down the centre. Because of the irregularity of the contour lines, frequent gaps lie between the contours.

When he seeds the field next spring, Studor will plant wheat in the strips and grass in the gaps. Conventional crop rotation will be followed on the contour strips, but because they are level it is believed it will prevent spring moisture from running off higher ground carrying precious top soil with it. Normally, the run-off of spring moisture leaves deep gullies in the ground. James S. Parker, soil expert at the experimental farm in charge of the experiments, says he has frequently seen gullies six feet wide and three feet deep — big enough to stop easy movement of farm machinery.

The contours are also expected to conserve moisture, vitally necessary in southwestern Saskatchewan.

Some farmers have tried to overcome erosion by filling in the gullies and seeding them to grass.

Knights of Columbus Held Oyster Supper

The annual oyster supper of the local council Knights of Columbus was held last Thursday in the K. of C. rooms, under the capable management of Bernard Gosselin, lecturer. District Deputy Dr. E. Lalande, formerly of Lachute, attended the function, and there were members present from many surrounding parishes.

Plant Safety Trophies Received by Two Brownsburg Industries

Montreal, Nov. 15 — Safety awards in recognition of a minimum number of accidents were granted four Quebec plants of Canadian Industries Limited at the annual safety rally of the Quebec Association for the Prevention of Industrial Accidents, held Thursday at the Mount Royal Hotel. The awards covered the period from May 1, 1946, to April 30, 1947.

The imposing trophy of the Department of Labor, emblematic of the lowest accident frequency in plants with more than 1,000,000 exposure hours, was presented to the Brownsburg Ammunition plant assistant manager, N. D. Somers. The plant worked 1,762,935 man-hours with a .6 accident frequency rate to merit the award.

The explosives plant at Beloeil was given the Ryan Trophy for lowest accident rate in their classification for works with an annual exposure of between 500,000 —1,000,000 hours. The trophy was received on behalf of fellow employees by J. Bernier, high explosives department foreman. Beloeil has gone 687,682 man-hours of work free of accidents.

The Brownsburg plastics plant won the general section trophy for the lowest accident rate for plants with between 250,000 and 500,000 annual exposure hours. B. Racine received the plant's award for 308,940 accident-free working hours.

In adition, the Montreal paint and varnish works was awarded a Certificate of Merit for its record of accident-free time on the job. No lost-time injuries have occurred since March, 1938.

Corner of Research Laboratory

The University of Montreal's $11-million subscription campaign is now in full swing. A first class institution of higher learning, U. of M. is in the vanguard of scientific research, and one of the Canadian universities which, in wartime, contributed to the development of the atomic bomb. One of the major projects for which the appeal for funds is being made is the construction of an elaborate research centre on the University's mountain campus. Above, a corner of the laboratory where anti-diphtheria vaccine is brewed.

The Weekly Newspaper A Screen Headliner

THE VITAL ROLE of the Canadian weekly newspaper will get recognition on the motion picture screen. A film, still untitled and currently in the stage of being edited, is to be produced by the National Film Board depicting the important position held in each community by its weekly paper.

When released, the film will be available to film councils and film libraries and is being considered for release to theatres. It will also get nation-wide screening on the NFB's extensive rural circuits. Eventually, it will be given international distribution, and will probably be produced in a number of foreign languages, reaching as many as 70 countries outside Canada and the United States.

NFB's film on the weekly newspapers of Canada will depict not merely the mechanics of publishing a paper; it will show the operations of publication, but the principal aim will be to emphasize how vitally the paper and its editor and staff enter into community life and activities, how they serve the area covered by the paper, and how the activities in that area affect the paper and its contents and services.

The production will centre around a single publication and use it to tell the story of all weeklies. Morten Parker, NFB director, and his crew, spent several weeks filming the community and neighboring countryside at Vernon, B.C., centering its interest on The Vernon News. The News, well-known to all weekly publishers and editors, was selected as representative of all Canadian weeklies.

Socialism from the Bottom Up

TO BE the answer to many of our problems, socialism must be considered "as a state of mind", Dr. Gordon Bates editorializes in the current issue of "Health", official magazine of the Health League of Canada.

Dr. Bates says the present uncomfortable conditions in Great Britain have given many "the occasion and the time to wonder whether the widespread popular demand for a better deal for the common man may lead us into a state of regimentation not unlike that of the totalitarian countries which we criticize.

"If socialism means all thinking and working together for the common good, then it will work. But this implies not domination from the top, but thinking and working from the bottom up. And the curious thing is that no government can educate people to this end because no government was ever composed of wise enough men and women — and then, too, no democracy ever worked that way.

"The answer again is that the people must do their own educating through the voluntary association of the people in voluntary societies working for the good of all".

Dr. Bates remarks that it has been felt, for example, by laymen and doctors alike, in many countries that no one should lack medical, nursing or hospital care for financial reasons—"and yet faced with any scheme which looks like putting the practicing physician in the pay of the state, a large proportion of physicians hold back.

"State medicine, they feel, might well mean the creation of a new and vast army of civil servants who may not only lose their souls but become the mere instruments of arbitrary power. And, if the state were to own and operate all of industry, who is there to say that a similar result might not ensue on a large scale."

The editor of "Health" suggests that what is needed is the curbing of the greediness of some, rather than the regimentation of all.

A Year-Round Job

A PLEA by Dean C. R. Young, of the University of Toronto faculty of applied science and engineering, for "broadly-educated men . . with humanistic and cultural interests and capacities," emphasizes the functions of education in Canada. They are further stressed by the announcement of the extension of education through the medium of radio and film to seven of the major settlements in the Northwest Territories.

Graduating liberally-educated men and women from our universities and providing suitable opportunities for the education of every Canadian, whether in cities or on the fringes of this vast half-continent, in a sense encompasses two extremes of formal education.

Between the extremes are ranged the young people who attend primary and secondary schools in Canada's small or large communities. Their education is the joint undertaking of the home and the school.

Education Week, first observed in Canada in 1935, is a co-operative effort of teachers, departments of education, home and school associations and other socially-minded groups, to bring schools and homes into close contact. The practical application of this idea has been seen in the parent-teacher gatherings held in Lachute and neighboring communities.

The interest of the general public in education is growing, particularly in the realization of the part that education can and does play in preparing the school pupil of today to be the responsible citizen of tomorrow. The problems that face adults grow no simpler as the world grows older, but the adults who deal with them can be better equipped for them if the home and the school work together.

Education Week, with its theme, "The Schools Are Yours," was more widely observed this year than ever before. However, the week will have failed in its ultimate aim if the general public feels that one week a year devoted to the cause of education is sufficient. The schools and the pupils in them are yours for the whole year, and can do their work efficiently only with your continuous support.

A Responsibility

IMPORTATION of thousands of displaced persons from Europe is not only bringing Canada a much needed population boost, but also a big education job, points out Hardware and Metal & Electrical Dealer editorially. These immigrants, who range from peasant illiterates to highly educated professional men and women, have to be taught not only the English language but also the Canadian way of living, thinking, and governing themselves.

"The urgency of this need for education in Canadian citizenship is starkly shown by reports that even while immigrants were proceeding from their ports of debarkation to the place where they will live and work, Communist agents set about their insidious propaganda work aboard their trains," the business paper declares. "The anti-Canadian forces are losing no time setting about their destructive work; so our constructive measures to offset this trickery dare not lag."

The hardware business paper says every Canadian has a part to play in showing the newcomers, in everyday contacts, what it is to be a Canadian and why it is worth while.

Unsung Heroes

It is difficult to assess the net value to mankind of the many inventions that characterize our modern civilization, since there are necessary debit entries to be made to cancel much that is put down on the credit side of the statement. The automobile is a great convenience to both the honest citizen and the bank robber in the pursuit of their vocations. We may admire the luxuriant whiskers of Dr. Alexander Graham Bell on his commemorative stamp and reflect that our lives might be much simplier and happier if we were not the slaves of his destroyer of privacy.

Meanwhile, as meditation on the drawbacks that accompany our inventions leads us to wonder whether the inventors should be lauded as benefactors or denounced as enemies of society, we may recall with shame that we are utterly ignorant of even the names of many inventors whose work has been only for the good of humanity. Who is more worthy of a commemorative stamp than he who first discovered the combined virtues of bacon and eggs? What can the researchers into the atom produce equal to the remarkable discovery of lamb, mint sauce and green peas?

If heroism is a desirable quality among those whom we should delight to honor, consider the inventor of steak and mushrooms. Perhaps more than one intrepid researcher deserves his niche in the Hall of Fame on that account. We can imagine a long line of investigators, some achieving a delectable dish, while for others the paths of glory led but to the grave.

As we await the results of current researches that may change the course of civilization as surely as the steam engine, the aeroplane or the typewriter, let us pause to honor those unsung heroes that have labored solely for the enjoyment of us all.

— The Printed Word

A young man dropped into a state of coma, and it was several days before he fully recovered. Later he spoke of his experiences to a party of friends.

"Oh, yes", the young man said in response to a question. "I knew all thee time what was going on, and I also knew that I wasn't dead, because my feet were cold and I was hungry".

"I see," said one of his friends, thoughtfully, "but how did that make you think you were still alive?"

"Well", answered the young man, "I knew that if I were in Heaven I wouldn't be hungry, and that if I were anywhere else my feet wouldn't be cold".—Tit Bits.

Year Book and Report Issued by Bible Soc'y

"The Answer Is There" is the title of the popular report for 1947 of the British and Foreign Bible Society, by the Rev. John A. Patten, M.C., M.A.

The author propounds the question regarding the Riddle of Life. He asks if the answer to our present chaotic condition lies in Science or one of the Isms current in our day.

Mr. Patten shows that the Word of God has become the universal Book, breaking down racial prejudice and national antagonism. In God's plan lies the answer.

Throughout these pages the shortage of Bibles is constantly emphasized. Many in war zones were so deeply indebted to the Bible for their inspiration that others are now clamoring for a copy of The Book. The Chinese, despite inflation prices, are eager to purchase Bibles. The Germans have requested twenty million Bibles and New Testaments.

Although the movements toward literacy have enthused many Christians, the author shows that these have fallen far short of complete success. The work of translation, halted by war, is again moving forward and many countries with a low literacy figure have been encouraged by the visit of Dr. Frank Laubach.

One may sum up this very vital report by saying that it is the story of Relighting the Lamps of Truth in many lands that have been dark through a period of years.

The Woodland Caribou, neither as wary nor as swift in avoiding danger as the White-Tailed Deer, falls an easy prey to hunters, largely through its own sense of curiosity. Although completely protected by law in Canada, it is in perhaps more imminent danger of extermination than any other of our big-game animals. Only through the strict observance of conservation principles will this animal survive.

Montreal Lady Was Born Here 94 Years Ago

The Late Mrs. A. Slogie

Burial rites for the late Mrs. Alexander Slogie of Montreal were held Tuesday morning at Lachute Cemetery, where she was brought to her last resting place beside her husband, who predeceased her in 1914.

Born at Bethany Settlement, in the homestead later acquired by Jas. Earle, she was the former Margaret Spence. She and her husband resided in Montreal, but on Mr. Slogie's retirement they returned and lived in Lachute for a number of years.

Mrs. Slogie died in Montreal last Sunday at the advanced age of 94 years. At her funeral service, held in Jos. C. Wray's parlors, Mountain Street, a number of former Lachute friends were present to pay their last tribute of respect. The funeral was conducted by the Rev. J. Spencer, of St. Luke's United Church, Montreal, who also officiated here at the graveside.

Work Progressing on Hotel Construction

The old Staniforth property which was purchased by Mr. S. Bennett, is rapidly being transformed into a first class hotel. The work has been progressing very favorably, thanks to the mild fall weather, and the proprietor has hopes of opening the hotel by spring of the coming year. The name of the establishment will be "Maplewood Inn".

Runs Farm Without Arms or Legs

Grenville

Mrs. Willie Gauley spent a few days in Montreal recently with Mrs. Kerr and other friends.

Mrs. W. McCullough returned from a few days' visit in Toronto with Mr. and Mrs. D. Bates.

Congratulations are extended from this community to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hoare, on the occasion of their golden wedding, and also to their son and daughter-in-law, upon their silver wedding anniversary, celebrated recently.

Mrs. Willie Cooke and son, Leslie, of Ottawa, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Owens.

Mrs. W. Morrow spent two weeks lately with two of her daughters in Montreal and Dunham, Que.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Tomkiewicz on their recent marriage, at Hull, Que. The bride was formerly Miss Lois Murray Cooke, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Cooke of Grenville.

Mr. and Mrs. Morrison and little daughter visited Mrs. Morrison's mother, Mrs. McCullough, on Sunday.

Service was held in the Grenville Baptist Church on Sunday, conducted by a minister preaching for a call. Unfortunately, short notice was given, and many were unaware the pulpit would be occupied by a visiting preacher.

Funeral of Former Resident

The funeral of the late James Tompkins, of Montreal, took place recently in Grenville, his native community. Service was held in St. Matthew's Church, which he had formerly attended; the Rev. A. E. Hawes officiated. The remains were laid to rest in the family plot, in the cemetery adjoining the church.

The late Mr. Tompkins is mourned by his two sisters and a brother, besides several nieces and nephews. He was a temperate and upright citizen, well esteemed among his acquaintances. He had resided and worked near Montreal for a number of years, was a supporter of the church and a kindly helper to friends in need. He had revisited these parts every year since leaving the community, and will be missed by many friends.

Among those from a distance who attended the funeral were his two sisters, Mrs. Stuart Goudie (Annie), Mrs. Flaherty (Bessie), Mr. S. Goudie; his daughters (Gladys) now Countess Alexander Orlowski, of Vermont, and Dorothy, of Montreal; also his nephews.

NEED EUROPEAN LABOR

So far as the mining companies are concerned many mines are badly in need of labor which has not been forthcoming to date from Canada's present population. It is therefore a matter of urgency that they look for suitable labor elsewhere and among Europe's displaced persons, obviously, is a logical place to seek workers.

A Canadian Goes Travelling

• By EILEEN E. CONSIGLIO

A brief resume of her trip to Mexico was given by Mrs. Consiglio some time ago before the Lachute Women's Institute. The following article, from The Municipal Review of Canada, is a more complete report and presents an interesting story of her observations. . .

The smallness of the world is constantly brought to our attention through modern travel, although air transport, at the present time, seems to be a direct route to the next world and as we visit other countries it is apparent that the fundamental wants of all peoples are the same. Their problems, too, are very similar.

On a recent trip through the United States and Mexico it was very gratifying to see that the problems of Canadians are small in comparison with those of the other nations of this North American continent. We have not the dire poverty of Mexico, which seems to have no middle class but is a nation made up of well-to-do prosperous citizens or peons who live in the most abject poverty. But all Mexicans, rich and poor alike, are proud of their metropolis, where beautiful buildings, excellent avenues, tree-shaded and restful, good roads and splendid bus services, cultural advantages and diversified entertainment make living in the metropolitan area both easy and enjoyable. Yet this environment is in striking contrast with the villages, where adobe huts provide not only accommodation for the family but shelter for the stock as well.

In spite of the efforts of successive governments water is one of Mexico's major problems. Even in Mexico City, Capitol of the Federal District, there is such a restricted water supply that all water is turned off during the evening and night hours. When water is available it is not pure, and must be boiled for drinking and cooking purposes. Notwithstanding lush vegetation the year round, owing to the contamination of the ground eating presents a problem in Mexico, both as to selection and preparation. In Canada, while we do not have a long growing season, at least what is produced is of good quality and healthful.

In travelling across the United States I was particularly mindful of the fact that we Canadians seem to base all our estimates of our neighbor to the South on New York, with its colossal, stupendous and other such descriptive adjectives. But New York is not America, as the Americans erroneously term their 48 states. In other districts, less pretentious highways, poor housing, inadequate living conditions, unequal opportunities, dissimilar educational standards and requirements, all tend to belie their much-flaunted "highest standard of living in the world".

However, one thing which was apparent in the United States was a national consciousness and a desire on the part of all ranks to proclaim their status to the outside world. In Canada a lack of this national consciousness is, I believe, our greatest drawback and severest handicap.

If during the war years we acquired international status and reached national maturity, now is the time to exert that stature, even if in doing so we must develop or borrow a little boastfulness. We will never command a hearing if we remain inarticulate. The recent furore over the carillon to be erected over the Rainbow Bridge at Niagara is typical. While wishing in no way to belittle the stellar qualities of both Mr. Churchill and the late Mr. Roosevelt, nor to minimize the world's debt of gratitude to their inspired leadership, yet we must recognize the fact that neither of them was the leader of our country.

While in Washington I attended sessions in both houses and was amused to note familiar rantings on the part of those speakers to their electors back home. Everybody seemed to be out of step except those who were speaking on behalf of their party. — Oh! shades of Ottawa! It rather impressed me that so many people mistake being on their feet for being on their toes. Another thing, I could see the good judgment in Ottawa where members are not allowed to read their speeches, but must personally view the lack of attention that is given to their words of wisdom. Not so in the American House of Representatives; in Washington a member who desires to speak mounts a rostrum and through a public address system reads to the bitter end, without benefit of seeing how little impression he is making. I might add that I was the most (if not the only) interested person at the session.

One thing which Mexico, the United States and Canada have in common is a major interest in attracting tourists. If, as is estimated, Canada will enjoy a revenue of approximately 250 millions of dollars during 1947 from visitors to our country, it behoves us to act the proper role of host so that these same tourists will wish to return to our country and, through good reports, induce their friends and neighbors to do likewise. Good-will and friendship cannot be fully established by three-day visits of presidents even when these visits are replete with glowing addresses on the true neighborliness of our countries. It is the citizens and their behavior towards these strangers in our midst that establish or destroy good-will, no matter how sincerely it may be desired by those farsighted enough to see its necessity. One group in particular who can make or mar completely a first impression of a country, is the officials at the port of entry. I know whereof I speak, because on my return to Texas from Mexico, although I had taken, as I thought, every precaution to see that my papers were in order before leaving Canada, I was refused admittance to the States. When I had called at the American Consul's office in Montreal I was

LACKING TODAY

Nothing worthwhile has ever been achieved without enthusiasm, the trait that is the exact opposite of indifference. Enthusiasm developed the West, built Virden so solidly in the old days, gave a zest to pioneer living that seems sadly lacking today.

SQUARE DEAL WANTED

But how much "equality" has the Manitoba farm child of 1947? His cousins in town or city usually have better teachers, better libraries, better schools, better equipment, better training for work or play. Farm children are not getting the square deal which every Canadian child deserves.
— Selkirk (Man.) Enterprise

OH, YEA!

It would add a lighter touch to the solemn dignity of the court if Crier "Loge" Smith were allowed to sing his piece. He almost does, anyway. When "Loge" starts off with his "Oh, Yea. . . Oh, Yea. ." there is an unmistakable lyrical tone to his proclamation. And when he winds up with "The Court is now in session . . . God Save The King", you can detect a stiffening of shoulders among those assembled.

WERE BABIES ONCE

The innate selfishness of humans is nowhere exemplified with such clarity as in the current housing situation. Scarcely a day passes without the story of young parents with babies being refused accommodation simply because they have had the courage to accept the responsibility of parenthood. Landlords are privileged persons who can ill-afford to administer their private industry unwisely. Even landlords must have been babies once.

Impressions of Toronto Royal Winter Fair

— R. A. Giles —

Growing in fame each year, the Royal Winter Fair, now in progress at Toronto, has reached the stage where present buildings although recently enlarged are still too small and owing to lack of space some 356 entries of horses and cattle had to be refused this season.

Although unfortunate, this speaks well for the interest which during the past 19 years of steady growth has brought this event to its present grandeur.

To those who have never visited the Winter Fair, it is a sight never to be forgotten, for there are literally miles of the most beautiful horses, cattle and sheep that one could wish to see, together with a huge showing of swine, not as pleasing to the eye perhaps but nevertheless, well kept and in perfect condition.

In walking round, it was pleasing to see our local district well represented in fine exhibits of Ayrshire cattle by J. H. Black and J. P. Bradley & Son, while E. K. Wilson had a splendid display of Shorthorns. Mr. L. T. Porter of St. Andrews East, was the recipient of a beautiful trophy for the best jumping horse, and was loudly applauded by the many spectators.

It was our honor to represent the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association and The Watchman at the opening banquet Tuesday evening, when we received a most cordial welcome.

Special stress was laid on the idea of training the juniors as it is felt that the future of Agriculture depends largely on them.

The Hon. Louis St. Laurent gave an inspiring address at the dinner, referring to the splendid work and progress being made by the Fair, after which he officially opened the Exhibition.

In the short time remaining for us that evening we enjoyed a jumping competition by men and horses of four competing teams representing the United States, Mexico, the Irish Free State and Canada. This was really inspiring and beautiful to watch and the ease with which the riders and horses performed was remarkable. Special mention should be made of the Mexican team for their outstanding performance which won them first place in the competition.

Exhibits of course were a great source of interest and there were wonderful displays of food of all kinds which looked and was most appetizing. Boxes of beautiful red apples and a grand array of flowers presented a fascinating sight.

As at every exhibition there were booths where manufacturers presented their products, labor saving devices, electrical appliances, automobiles of different makes, machinery, different types of winter and summer windows, easy-opening garage doors, potato diggers, milking machines, novelty shops, reforestration scenes, lunch counters, and hundreds of different things to command attention and incite business.

To those who have never visited this Fair we would say "Don't Miss It", and if the trip can't be arranged for this year before the 27th when it closes, make sure that it's on the itinerary for next year.

laughed at when I asked if it were necessary to have a visa and was assured that all I needed was a passport, and even that would not be necessary if I were not returning by way of Mexico. The American immigration officer on the Texan border, however, did not see it in the same light, and after looking over my passport silently handed me a ticket stamped "Debarred". When I recovered my voice and asked him what it meant, he said that I would have to return to the American Consul in Loredo, Mexico, and procure the necessary papers. I suggested that my passport read "All Countries", on which he looked down his nose at me and informed me in the most insolent tone, "Canada allows you that privilege, but we do not admit everyone into our country". I was aghast! As a respecter of brass buttons, however, I kept a profound silence, but was grateful that in spite of all his authority, he was not a mind-reader. This did not end the interview and its unpleasant association, because when I asked if I could get a taxi to go to the Consul's office, I was answered with, "How you get there is no concern of ours!" Let us hope that none of our immigration officials on the border treat incoming tourists with such discourtesy. Do not let it be said that, on the unprotected border of which we boast so much that "no one shoots you", they just mortify you to death!

With the anticipated increase in tourist travel it is gratifying to see the City Fathers of Canada's cities and towns are taking steps to speed up traffic in the populated centres, and it is satisfying too to notice that they are taking the long view. With good roads, good restaurants, good food attractively served, quality merchandise and a genuinely hospitable people, Canada can keep her high record of tourist traffic, which brings additional wealth to our country.

The transportation system in Mexico City, where there are competing companies, is very interesting. Apart from street cars there are several classes of buses, painted different colors, and charging different fares. The better buses, on which standing is not allowed, the fare is twenty-five centavos or approximately five cents in our money. When all seats are filled the driver puts up a sign marked "Completo" and the bus then travels as an express until someone rings the bell to get off; then of course, the sign is taken down. Other buses charge a fare about four cents in our money; but the buses which closely resemble our own, where you hold on practically by your eyelashes, are but two cents (or ten cents in Mexican money). No tranfers are given on either buses or street cars.

During my travels I observed another interesting sidelight in Richmond, Virginia, where nothing is prohibited "By Order of the Police", but the same restrictions (such as no parking, smoking prohibited, and so on) are put into effect by the notice "Issued by the Director of Public Safety". Richmond must be exploiting the modern psychology because, somehow, while you are prevented from doing the same things, you have the feeling someone is looking after your interest instead of taking away your rights.

Writing of Virginia brings to mind also the restoration at Williamsburg; and it is understandable how the American people, from children up, think so highly of their country and through their talking it up, make others share their feelings. In the tours through Williamsburg and other southern centres, the builders of the American nation are spoken of in hallowed tones, whereas in the Dominion of Canada the $64 question on any radio quiz could be, "Name the Fathers of Confederation." Williamsburg is but one place in the States where their struggle for nationhood is kept constantly before the people, particularly the rising generation. Yet even in our oratory contests, nobody speaks of Canada's nation builders. No, the contestants turn to the quickly available magazine digests of the American great, near-great and never-will-be great — and the last status will be that of our nation if we do not wake up to our good fortune and possibilities. In our admiration of other countries and their statesmen we are apt to lose sight of the glories of our own, whose failings, nevertheless, are greatly publicized. Let us not be content to play the role of spectator and mimic. Let us highlight our own accomplishments and achievements!

It is an excellent thing for us to admire other countries and customs, and to appreciate the merits of other nations, but even a good thing can be carried too far. In the press of Canada we are fortunate in having such good coverage of world news that it is possible to keep fully posted on outside interests from national crises to sporting events, from major catastrophes to petty thefts, from scientific world contributions to multiple births — but as we read of happenings in foreign lands, let us realize that we too, nationally speaking, are marching forward. If we are not willing to accept the responsibility of leadership, at least let us not obstruct the efforts of others.

For the first time in our history we are now privileged to call ourselves Canadian citizens. Let us then take stock of our individual contribution to Canada's world position. It is said that, from an aerial point of view, Canada is sitting on top of the world: Let us, through united effort, elevate her to that position when viewed from any angle!

Farm Forum

The Mabel Farm Forum group held their meeting at the home of Mrs. Catherine Black, with 12 persons present. The subject for discussion was "A Farm Organization for Everyone". It was thought that an organization which was expected to meet the needs of the people as a whole would have to include men, women and young folk alike, with something of interest for all. . . A geography match was greatly enjoyed, after which refreshments were served.

A CALL TO MUNICIPALITIES

The University of Montreal is in urgent need of funds to complete its general hospital, medical centre, medical and scientific laboratories and to provide greater facilities for the 11,000 students now enrolled.

A special appeal goes out to all the municipalities in the ecclesiastical province of Montreal, embracing the dioceses of Montreal, Sherbrooke, St. Hyacinthe, Joliette, Valleyfield and St. Johns.

With the full support of its citizens, Montreal's ninety-nine councillors have already unanimously voted a generous contribution to the fund. Because the University of Montreal is their University, the municipalities are urged to support its work. Actually, more than 40% of the students attending the University on the mountain come from outside the City of Montreal. It is beyond the confines of Montreal that there is the greatest need for doctors, dentists, optometrists, engineers and all the other professional men who safeguard the public health, relieve suffering, attend children, conduct clinics, protect the interest of society and save lives. It is the University's great responsibility to teach and carry out research in all branches of these medical and related sciences. The University's contribution to the betterment of our way of life cannot be overestimated.

The work of the University is essential to all of us. It is to all of us, to the municipalities, the citizens, the corporations, that the appeal is made, in order that the University may carry on its great work and fulfil its manifest destiny.

SUPPORT THE UNIVERSITY OF MONTREAL DEVELOPMENT FUND.

New Opportunities, Sugar for Desserts

By the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture

What cheerful news to hear "sugar rationing is off"! With that sense of frustration that prevented the making of numerous favorite desserts, icings and sauce, the first thought was that we would like to build a sugar candy mountain. Common sense overrode the idea and we realized that the splurge would consist of an occasional richer cake or dessert.

Nutrition authorities have repeatedly made the statement that, prior to rationing, Canadians had been eating much more sugar than necessary. During these five years we have been trained to appreciate fruit and beverages for their fine natural flavor, unmasked by sweetness.

The home economists of the Dominion Department of Agriculture have brought out of their files more desserts that have been carefully put away for several years.

Apple Up-Side-Down Cake

¼ Cup butter, ½ cup of white sugar, 1 egg, ¼ cup molasses, 1 cup all-purpose flour, 3 apples, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ½ teaspoon soda, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon ginger, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ⅓ cup boiling water.

Melt ¼ cup butter in baking dish. Add the brown sugar and cook together. Pare and core the apples. Cut each apple in half to make two thick rings. Arrange rings of apples in butter and sugar mixture. Cream ¼ cup of butter. Add white sugar and cream well together. Add well beaten egg and molasses. Beat thoroughly. Sift dry ingredients and add to mixture. Lastly add boiling water, mixing quickly. Pour over apples in baking dish and bake in moderate oven (350°F.) for 40 minutes. Six servings.

Cream Puffs

½ Cup mild flavored fat, 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour OR 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons sifted pastry flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 3 eggs.

Put fat and water in a saucepan and heat until fat is melted. Mix flour and salt and add all at once, stirring vigorously until mixture forms a ball in the centre of the pan. Remove from heat, cool slightly and add unbeaten eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Mixture should be stiff. Drop by spoonfuls, onto a greased baking sheet and bake in a hot oven. 400°F., until well puffed and golden, about 15 minutes. Reduce heat to 375°F., and continue baking until puffs are firm, about 30 minutes. Cool, slit and fill as desired with whipped cream, custard or fruit filling. Makes 12 puffs.

Note: If using butter, omit salt.

Chocolate Whip

3 Tablespoons cocoa, 3 tablespoons cornstarch, 1 cup sugar, pinch of salt, 1¼ cups of boiling water, 1 egg yolk, 1 teaspoon of vanilla, 1 egg white, ½ cup whipping cream.

Mix cocoa, cornstarch, sugar and salt. Add the boiling water and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Cook 20 minutes. Add beaten egg yolk and cook 3 minutes longer. Remove from heat. When cool, fold in vanilla, stiffly beaten egg white and whipped cream. Pour into into sherbet glasses. Chill. Six servings.

Bleaching Floors

Floors which you wish to bleach before refinishing should be thoroughly cleaned of all the old wax, paint, varnish, shellac or other finish with the help of cleaning fluid, and then well wiped with mineral spirits or benzene. Be careful to avoid use of the cleaning materials near open flames.

When thoroughly dried out, the floor should be well sandpapered and all dust wiped off. I can then be bleached with a commercial bleach, which can be obtained from any paint dealer. After bleaching, wash the floor three or four times with clean water to get rid of any traces of the bleaching solution Refinish with two coats of any desired high grade transparent floor finish, varnish or shellac.

Princess Elizibeth Pledges Obedience in Marriage Ceremony

Speaks Traditional "Love, Cherish and Obey" Lines Today at Westminister Abbey

By The Canadian Press

Record has it that Princess Elizabeth's main charm — aside from her sparkling humor and comeliness — is being a tradition-breaker.

From the day she was born in the Mayfair home of her grandparents, to her christening at Buckingham Palace chapel instead of Windsor Castle, and thence to donning grease-daubed overalls while serving with the A.T.S. in the Second World War—that trait is apparent.

But a few minutes after she arrives with her father at Westminister Abbey, today, November 20, she will observe at least one tradition young lovers Christendom-over have observed for many decades:

She will speak the bride's vow in the Church of England's Book of Common Prayer which includes the promise "to love, cherish and obey" her consort, Lieut. Philip Mountbatten.

Will tradition be edged out in other parts of the ceremony? No. Form of the service will be exactly the same at that used for other couples united in the Church of England.

Will her wedding gown be modern, austere or along traditional lines? Very much along the latter, a London paper recently reported.

The gown is of classically-cut slipper satin, embroidered with crystals and pearls. It has a "sweatheart" neckline, long tight sleeves, and fitted bodice and waist billowing out into an extremely full skirt, the fan-shaped train, said the paper, is of white tulle, five yards long, descending from the shoulders.

Changes Wedding Music

However, in her choice of wedding music, Elizabeth changed things mildly. In place of the customary march from Wagner's "Lohengrin", she enters on the arm of her father to the strains of a bridal march by British composer Sir Hubert Parry. Menelssohn's time-honored march has been reserved for the ceremony's climax.

Although only 2,000 invitations were issued for the wedding, Elizabeth has exhibited a lifetime trait: She did not forget old friends. Humble-born servants, men from her own regiments—Grenadier Guards, Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders — girls from the A.T.S. and fellow-members of her old Sea-Rangers troop, and a lucky high school girl from Winnipeg — have 100 seats set aside for them.

And for the first time in the history of the Empire and Commonwealth—to whom Elizabeth dedicated herself on reaching maturity—their peoples will have the entire pomp and color of a royal wedding brought to them by radio.

An almost timeless custom will be later followed by Elizabeth when she allows the public to view her wedding gifts at St. James's Palace. The great many gifts from all over the world include—a travelling bag made of elephant hide from the women of Kenya; furniture for one room made by natives of Uganda; a linen table cloth from Malta; fruit and nut bowls from British Honduras; a toilet set encased in an ebony casket, gift of the people of Mauritius; a wooden casket containing rum and liqueurs from Jamaica, and a gold jewel casket, gift of Singapore.

New Nurses Training School Is Unique

Length of Course Set At 25 Months

The new independent school of nursing, in Windsor, Ont., conducted by the Canadian Nurses Association through a grant made by the Canadian Red Cross Society, will admit the first class of students in the middle of January, it was announced recently by Miss Gertrude Hall, the association's secretary.

Main purpose of the school, the first of its kind in Canada, is to experiment with length of course actually required to turn out competent nurses. At the present time the existing 169 schools for nurses across the Dominion require students to attend a three year course.

At the Metropolitan Demonstration School, as the new venture is called, all unnecessary work for the students will be eliminated and tentatively the length of the course has been set at 25 months, during which time girls will receive full training.

The Red Cross gave the Nurses' Association a grant of $160,000. Students will each pay an annual fee of $50, plus travelling expenses and uniform costs.

Lachute Boy Scouts

The annual Scout party was held last Friday evening in the McArthur's Hall with an attendance of over 40 Scouts and their lady friends. Games, dancing and refreshments provided a very enjoyable evening.

At the regular Wednesday parade practically all the new Scouts passed their Tenderfoot tests and are now ready for investment. Tom Jamieson was promoted to Second in the Wolf Patrol, Peter Cruise to Second in the Bulldog Patrol and Bob McMahon to Second in the Crow Patrol.

The Scout and Cub Christmas Toy Repair Shop is being set up in the rooms over the store of Campbell Reg'd, 246 Main Street, where toys collected from the citizens of Lachute will be repaired and made useable for needy children here and elsewhere. Those with toys of any description to donate are asked to get in touch with a Cub or Scout, who will pick them up; or telephone 788-W. Everyone's help is needed in this very worthy cause.

School Visit to Ottawa Exp. Farm

Under the direction of Mr. E. H. Peters, 32 students from the Agricultural classes in Lachute motored to the Experimental Farms at Ottawa on Saturday last in one of the school autobuses.

On a tour of inspection the young people saw the Holstein Friesian and Ayrshire cattle, the Clydesdale work horses and a herd of thoroughbred Yorkshire pigs. Mr. Fraser, of the animal Husbandry Division, gave the visitors some idea of the work being done at the farms especially with regard to feeding and breeding. The merits of the Rutherford and King systems of stable ventilation were also explained in detail.

Dr. Hill, of the Horticulture Division, gave a short lecture on the work being done in juice extraction and in dehydrating fruits and vegetables.

Mr. J. M. Armstrong conducted the guests on a tour of the Museum of Agricultural Implements. Among the many objects of interest in this display were articles formerly used in pioneer households, early types of farm equipment including examples of the crude means of transportation used by the settlers. An International truck of ancient vintage attracted a great deal of attention among the more mechanically minded boys.

Wolf Cub Pack

The 1st Lachute Wolf Cub Pack were guests at a Hallowe'en party held for them at MacArthur's Hall on November 1. The party was attended by Cubs and their girl friends, also a number of Scouts who assisted with the program and refreshments.

On November 11, Cubs were present at the Remembrance ceremony at the Memorial Park. That afternoon "Akela" Quentin James escorted a group of the boys to the Ayers Ltd. plant, where they were shown the processing and manufacturing of woollen and cotton products. The boys concluded the day with their regular meeting in the evening.

Honors for Local Dairy Animals at Toronto "Royal"

TWO CATTLE BREEDERS WIN GRAND CHAMPIONSHIPS

The fame of Lachute as the centre of a notable "cattle country" has received a considerable boost at the Toronto Royal Winter Fair, following triumphs won by two leading Ayrshiremen and one Shorthorn fancier of this district. The successful exhibitors are Jack Black, J. P. Bradley & Son, and E. Kilgour Wilson.

Ayrshires

J. H. Black — Grand Champion Bull, with "Smithston Ivanhoe". 2nd in Senior Yearling Heifer, with "Mille Roches Leonne"; 4th Junior Yearling Heifer, with "Willowhaugh Merryweather".

J. P. Bradley & Son — 2nd in Junior Bull Calf, with "Brookview Attraction"; 3rd in Senior Bull Calf, with "Brookview Brown Bomber"; 3rd in Two-Year Bull; 4th in Dry Cows, with "Brookview Violet Again"; 3rd in Two-Year Heifer, with "Brookview Jeanette"; 3rd in Senior Yearling Heifer, with "Brookview Marie"; 2nd in Junior Yearling Heifer, with "Brookview Verna".

Dairy Shorthorns

E. K. Wilson — Junior and Grand Champion Bull, with "Stanham Kenilworth Third". 1st in Heifer Calf, and Reserve Junior Champion. Besides other awards, Mr. Wilson won the Sterling Silver Plate donated by the Shorthorn Society of the United Kingdom for Dual Purpose Shorthorns — a coveted award reflecting considerable credit to this exhibitor.

Orange Ladies' Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Laurentian L.O.B.A. No. 943 was held recently in the lodge room, Hope Street, Lachute. W. Mistress Mrs. E. Ward presided. All reports were satisfactory and encouraging. Mrs. G. Ball, Deputy G. M. of Provincial Grand Lodge, conducted the election and installation of officers for the ensuing year, as follows:

W. M., Mrs. E. Ward; Deputy, Mrs. G. Bellingham; J. Deputy, Mrs. N. Copeland; Chaplain, Mrs. M. Ball, Jr.; Rec. Sec., Miss O. Reilly; Fin. Sec., Mrs. V. Bellingham; Treas., Mrs. S. Holt; Guardian, Mrs. L. Berry; Dir. of Ceremonies, Mrs. R. Copeland, 1st. Lec., Miss J. Gauley; 2nd Lec., Miss E. Gauley; Inner Guard, Miss V. Ward; Outer Guard, Mr. S. Berry.

Rowley Heard by English Jury

An unusual development occurred as the trial of Kent Rowley, Madeleine Parent and Azellus Beaucage — A.F. of L. organizers charged with seditious conspiracy and intimidation in the Ayers Ltd. strike — got under way last week at St. Jerome.

Rowley was granted an English-speaking jury on account of his English-speaking origin; and this meant that although the trio are facing the same charges, Miss Parent and Beaucage will be tried in St. Jerome while Rowley, due to insufficient English jurymen in the panel called, will be tried separately in Montreal.

Demands English Jury

Roger Ouimet, K.C., and Bernard Mergler, counsel for the defence, made the request for an English-speaking jury in Rowley's case last Friday.

Noel Dorion, K.C., appointed by Premier Maurice Duplessis to handle the Lachute strike case, told Mr. Justice Philemon Cousineau that the crown readily agreed to Rowley's request.

After consulting with Georges H. Héon, K.C., M.P., counsel for the Crown, Mr. Dorion stated: "I readily agree with Rowley's request to obtain an English-speaking jury. It has been proven in court that Rowley is of English-speaking origin".

The Crown, Mr. Héon added, has no interest in depriving Rowley of an English-speaking jury. "The Attorney-General of the Province is anxious to protect the rights and privileges of the English-speaking element in Quebec".

Therefore the trial of Miss Parent and Beaucage under a French-speaking jury is proceeding at St. Jerome, while Rowley's case will be heard before an English-speaking jury in Montreal.

Morin Hts. Blaze Threat to Nearby Stores and Homes

LACHUTE FIREMEN GAVE EFFECTIVE AID

The motion-picture theatre and adjacent residence at Morin Heights were destroyed by fire early Monday morning. Lachute and St. Jerome fire departments were called to assist, when it appeared the blaze threatened to attack neighboring buildings in the main store section of the village.

The theatre is situated a short distance from the crossroads down the Lake Echo road. Owned by J. Langais, the premises belonged formerly to John Davis, the dwelling being the old Davis home at the riverside, and later known as the Stony Brook Ski Lodge.

Mr. Langais, who travels some distance to work in the bush, arose at 3 a.m. to light the fire, returning to bed until an hour later; then, when he arose for breakfast, he found the lower storey of the house in flames. His wife and two children escaped from an upper window.

Lachute fire equipment was rushed to the scene over the 21 miles of mountainous highway (arriving ahead of the St. Jerome crew which had been delayed by formalities) and laid hose from the river to quell the flames in the theatre building. A small pump and hose, the only equipment available in the village, had been inadequate to meet the emergency; and the residents of Morin Heights voice appreciation to the local brigade, whose efforts were instrumental in checking further spread of the blaze.

Longevity in Harness

At his farm in Harrington, Dougald MacTavish has a veteran helper — a 36-year-old horse which is still going strong — sound in health, wind and limb. Mr. MacTavish states this horse hauled a rake for his entire hay crop this past summer, and believes the trusty animal holds a record for long performance.

Feted on Return From England

Brownsburg — An enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Low, Brownsburg, on Saturday evening last when a large number of friends gathered to welcome home Mr. and Mrs. Albert Robinson (formerly Margaret Low) and their little daughter Barbara, who have spent the past three years in England. Dancing was enjoyed, and during the evening Mr. Robert Jackson with a few brief remarks presented Mr. and Mrs. Robinson with a sum of money, to which they suitably replied. Mrs. Low served tasty refreshments.

A pleasing feature in connection with the evening was that Mr. and Mrs. Low had their family together for the first time in six years. Friends from Montreal, Lachute and other points were present.

AIRBORNE CONTRABAND

Winnipeg (CP) Aerial smuggling of waterfowl across the international border is not a problem in Manitoba, Resources Minister McDiarmid says. A United States game warden had been reported as saying lawbreakers took off from the Prairie provinces with a cargo of birds to points in the United States and released them for hunting purposes.

LONG WAIT REWARDED

Luseland, Sask. (CP) — For nine years the local board of trade held an annual fall fair to raise funds for construction of an arena in this village, 110 miles west of Saskatoon. A two-day holiday marked the recent opening of the arena, built at a cost of $25,000.

Practical Topic For Ladies' Night

Brownsburg — Speaker at next meeting of Brownsburg Rotary, on Thursday, December 4, will be Paul Lemay, manager of Ottawa Light, Heat & Power Company, Hull, Que., who will give an illustrated address on interior home lighting.

The occasion will be a "ladies' night supper", at which the Rotary members will be joined by their ladies and friends as guests. The topic is expected to be of particular appeal to the ladies. The supper will be followed by an informal party.

Consol. School Is Proposed for Harrington - Avoca

A joint meeting of the Harrington and Avoca Protestant School boards, held in the Grenville Intermediate School last week, was unanimously in favor of a consolidated school to serve the two municipalities, and decided to investigate the possibilities of such a project.

Six schools are concerned, namely, Harrington East, Shaw, Rivington, Bell Falls and two in Avoca. There are 110 pupils in the area besides several taking grades above seven elsewhere. It is expected that a consolidated school would make education as far as Grade X available to all the children in these districts.

Snowmobiles solve the problem of winter transportation to a central school but, for summer travel to be feasible, a stretch of road between the two municipalities would have to be rebuilt. The joint boards are bringing this matter to the attention of the authorities and will ask that the improvement be made.

Hawkesb'y Skater Drowns in Quarry

Hawkesbury (CP)—Dore Charette, 16, of Hawkesbury, was drowned last Thursday, but a companion, Charles Menard, 15, was saved after the two plunged into the water of an abandoned quarry when the thin ice gave way beneath their feet as they attempted to make a crossing. Menard was pulled to safety after his cries for help were answered by a railway crew working nearby.

IRRITATING, HARMFUL

At the present rate we are slipping day by day into more and more bureaucratic control. In a democracy this may be desirable in time of war. In times of peace it is irritating, unnecessary and harmful. Governments should immediately survey their statistical requirements with a view to eliminating as much as possible.

Andy Clarke Cites Courtesy Incident

INSPIRED BY BROWNSBURG ROTARY CONTEST

"Last Sunday we mentioned, from the Lachute, Quebec 'Watchman', a Courtesy Contest inaugurated by the Brownsburg Rotary Club, offering a $5 prize each week for the best letter received on courtesy. I think we have a candidate for one of those prizes. Though the writer of the letter is far removed from Brownsburg, Que., the courtesy was extended not so far distant from that area. The recipient lives in Lorneville, Ontario, which is up here near Beaverton. The writer is T. J. Newman and he says, in part: 'I would like to tell of an instance when my son-in-law, his wife and daughter and myself, were travelling from Montreal on No. 9 Highway, in Quebec, to the Adirondack Mountains in New York State. The car stopped. We were 300 miles from home and did not know the country we were in. Some cars passed us, but did not stop. We hailed a man with a truck to ask where we could get to a garage, but he could not talk English. As we were standing in bewilderment, a car came along with a Massachusetts license, two men in it. They asked our trouble, then with no hesitation they towed us nine miles to Hemmingford, Quebec, where we got repairs. By that kindly act they raised us from dispair, and established happiness in our hearts. When we asked how much the charge was for towing us so far, they said: 'When you get a similar chance, just pass it along to the other fellow'. In the excitement of the circumstances, we forgot to get their names and address, so, if your broadcast reaches Massachusetts, tell them again of our thanks and appreciation'.

"That's a condensed version of the letter. We shall send the original to the Lachute Watchman. We believe it a healthy story, and commend the Brownsburg Rotarians on promoting a good cause — Courtesy !"

Midnight Blaze In Cemetery

Fire breaks out in the least expected places—and it was at the Lachute Protestant Cemetery last Monday night that a blaze destroyed the tool shed and entire contents, including a motor lawnmower, certain funeral equipment and tools of considerable value. The shed was a wood frame building. It was heated by a wood stove for convenience of the caretaker in winter.

Brownsburg — The annual election of officers of the Brownsburg Legion was held on Tuesday, when Hector Steele was named by acclamation as president for the year 1948.

Other officers elected were — William Tessier, 1st vice; Andrew Hardie, 2nd vice; H. Graham, treasurer; Harold Hewitt, secretary; Keith Low, sergeant-at-arms.

Members elected to the committee were — Ward Moncrieff (immediate past-president), Harold Mason, Jack Seary, Leon Tessier and Tom Izzard.

The next meeting of this branch will be held December 9, at which the program will include the showing of special motion pictures.

Detail Season's Operation of Legion Skating Rink

Further information has been given concerning the operation of the Brownsburg Legion's community rink. Tickets for the season will be on sale at a price of $3 for adults and $1 for children under 16. The tickets, which will be non-transferable, will entitle the holder to evening skating between 7 and 10 p.m. on weekdays, and on Sunday afternoons from 2 to 5 o'clock — weather, hockey games or practices permitting. With the exception of Fridays during the month of January, when league home games will be played in Brownsburg, it is expected that the rink will be available for skating on at least Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Outside of the evening skating on weekdays, skating for children, under the supervision of School Principal Dennis Staniforth and his teaching staff, will be free. Ordinary prices for night skating will be 25 cents for adults and 15 cents for children. The rink will be fully floodlighted, and it is expected there will be a provision for amplified music. The chairman of the rink committee is Jack Stewart. It is suggested by the committee that season tickets for skating will make acceptable Christmas gifts.

There is only one sure way to bring down the high prices of non-essentials, and that is to cease paying them.

Full Stop Urged At Rail Crossings

Quebec Safety League Asks Duplessis Re-establish Law, for Public Conveyances.

In an effort to eliminate accidents between trains and automobiles and buses at level crossings, which the Province of Quebec Safety League contends have increased sharply during the last year, the League has sent an open letter to Premier Duplessis asking the Provincial Government to pass a law which will require automotive traffic to make a full stop at level crossings throughout the province. The League's letter states, in part:

During the last 12 months, the Province of Quebec Safety League has noted with alarm the increasing number of highway accidents in the Province and a corresponding increase in the number of fatalities.

We have become especially concerned over the mounting toll of deaths and serious injuries that have resulted from accidents between trains and automobiles at railway crossings. . .

As a group pledged to do all that is possible to preserve human life, and combat accidents resulting from human carelessness, we appeal to you, Mr. Premier, for the protection of four categories of street and highway users.

In the name of fathers and mothers whose children travel to and from school in buses, in the name of passengers of autobuses, in the name of workers being occasionally transported in trucks while at work, and in the name of all users of taxis, we appeal to you and your government to enact as soon as possible an Order-in-Council making it compulsory for the drivers of these four categories to come to a dead stop before crossing each and every railway crossing.

We feel sure, Mr. Premier, that legislation requiring automobiles to come to a dead stop at all level crossings, will bring the high toll of life resulting from railway crossing accidents to a minimum.

Endurance Contest

By R. J. Deachman

I read the other day an interesting thing about the Russians. They love gorgeous entertainments. The Sparton always does — when he is away from home. The Russians delight in argument. They will fight and squabble till the cows come home. Then, when they can't get what they want, they change their minds — go off on another and different tack.

According to this it will be necessary for our delegates at the next conference to use them well, to be stubborn as mules and to continue with the same stubborn mulishness until the Russians call it a day; admit they really want peace, not war. So in choosing our negotiators with the Russians it becomes necessary to have men of infinite patience, men who can wait, patiently wait. In the end, if they wait long enough, victory will be on both sides — peace will come, peace by exhaustion.

Korean People Denied Right to Speak to United Nations

With the defeat of a Soviet Union proposal to invite elected representatives of the Korean people to speak before the UN Assembly, the people of that nation will have no voice in determining their ultimate fate. The nation today is divided into Soviet (north) and U.S. (south) occupation areas. A report published recently tells of the repressive measure being taken by U.S. military forces to prevent any rise of popular public opinion for democratic elections and independence. U.S. meanwhile has also refused Soviet proposal to withdraw all troops by January 1. . . Picture shows a Russian-operated hospital in northern Korea. These are reported well-equipped and free to citizens.

WHEN HORSE HAS ATTACK OF FOUNDER

Laminitis or what is commonly termed founder in horses, may be either acute or chronic. Its causes are many and varied, the most common being exposure to cold after severe exertion, exhaustion, copious drinking of cold water while perspiring freely after a long ride or hard work, and the like.

Sometimes the one foot only is affected, often both, and occasionally all four. The first symptoms of founder are indicated by fever in the foot, accelerated pulse, fiery red nostrils, and evidence of much suffering. If doubt is felt as to the seat of the inflammation, gentle tapping of the feet with some hard implement will instantly dispel it.

The foundered horse is apt to lie down to relieve his aching feet from supporting the weight of his body, but sometimes the suffering animal is afraid to to so, and stands up during the acute attack. Unless something is promptly done the foundered horse, once down, will be unable to rise; or, if forced to do so, will often fall.

In an attack of founder, the horse should have its shoes removed in the first place. The animal may then be placed with its feet in a tub of cold water or have cold poultices of bran saturated with salt and water placed around its feet. Feeding should be with the most easily digested food and all substances rich in protein, such as oats, beans, etc., must be avoided. Mashes of bran and water containing a handful of Epsom salts and a teaspoonful of nitre crystals should be given twice daily.

True founder is invariably in the feet. While acute founder is curable, yet it must be admitted that one attack predisposes the animal to another. The horse with chronic founder is incurable, and although such an animal may perform considerable work on the farm, it is unsuitable for driving and is a dangerous animal under the saddle. DDT AND CONTROL OF LOG BORERS

It would appear that a completely reliable method of protecting logs from wood borers has not yet been found. Reporting on the control of borers in logs with DDT in the Maritime Provinces, the Bimonthly Progress Report, Forest Insect Investigations, Dominion Department of Agriculture, says that, in previous reports on tests with DDT against borers, it had been indicated that results were promising, but further tests in 1947 suggest that the protection afforded may vary greatly, depending on the number of borers in the area.

A five per cent solution in oil (both kerosene and fuel oil were used) was applied thoroughly to small and large skidways in two separate locations at Petersville on June 13 and near Fredericton, N.B., on June 12. In one area the treated logs were uninfested. In the other area, the treated logs were fairly heavily infested with borers in the wood in September, although the degree of infestation in the check logs is not yet known. The latter area was close to a large area which had been burned over in 1946 and as a result, borer adults were numerous.

SAME WORLD OVER

Regina (CP) — When Graham Spry, Saskatchewan trade commissioner in the United Kingdom, returned here recently, he brought with him a request for William Grau, son of the mayor of Pourville, France, for a cowboy suit and pistol from Saskatchewan "where there are cowboys". He met the lad at a memorial commemorating the fifth anniversary of the Dieppe raid.

GIANT RUTABAGA

Bank of Montreal Issues Concise Statement on Year's Activities

Montreal, Nov. 24 — Again this year, the Bank of Montreal has published a well-illustrated, easily understandable statement for the benefit of its more than 1,500,000 depositors. The report, covering the 130th year of the B of M's career, can be read with complete understanding by everyone.

"The facts behind the figures", show that money deposited does not lie idle, but works constantly for the building of the nation. "Here is the money that makes the wheels of commerce turn", the report points out. "Here is the money that helps the farmer garner his crops. . . that helps the lumberman buy equipment and pay his men . . the more than 500 personal loans made every day, to men and women who need money to met emergencies and take advantage of opportunities".

The statement is brightened by little thumbnail sketches, and the use of simple, everyday language in place of more formal financial terms.

Deposits at New High

Deposits of $1,783,000,000 again set an all-time high, showing an increase of $47,000,000 over the previous year, and demonstrating the way in which Canadians are endeavoring to meet the danger of inflation.

The statement also reflects the general trend of business activity throughout the country. Commercial loans increased by 39 per cent, denoting the nation's expanding peacetime production.

Heightened industrial activity brought about by the increasing peacetime production found the bank participating to a much greater extent in commercial financing, with holdings of industrial bonds and debentures increased from $56,000,000 in 1946 to $96,000,000 for the year ended October 31, 1947.

Construction of new branches and the renovation of premises in various parts of Canada is manifested in a substantial rise in the value of its premises which, at $13,000,000 has increased by nearly three million dollars.

All these factors give the bank record-breaking resources of $1,898,000,000 — exceeding its obligations to the public by $81,079,000.

Earnings

Another innovation in the report is the earnings statement which gives in detail the distribution made of the year's earnings in relation to the shareholders' invested dollar.

After paying all overhead expenses, including staff salaries, bonuses, and contributions to the pension fund, and after making provision for contingencies, and for depreciation of bank premises, furniture and equipment, the B of M reports earnings for the year amounting to $9,579,285 — or net earnings of $5,423,285, compared with $4,487,782 last year. Of this, $3,600,000 was distributed to shareholders, with the balance of $1,823,285 transferred to profit and loss account.

On each dollar of the shareholders' money invested in the Bank of Montreal, the bank earned 11.51 cents in 1947. Of this, 5.12 cents were paid in taxes, 4.43 cents went to shareholders, and the remaining 2.26 cents went to surplus.

Duplessis Urges Removal Montreal Bridge Tolls

Montreal (CP)—Premier Duplessis called on the Federal Government to remove tolls on the only two bridges linking the island of Montreal to the mainland where vehicles and passengers have to pay.

The bridges, Jacques Cartier and Victoria, both belong to the Federal Agencies, while more than half a dozen other bridges are the property of the provincial government. There are no tolls on the latter. The Premier said that "old Victoria bridge, which is the property of the Canadian National Railways, was paid for long ago, so the maintenance of tolls on it should be abolished".

As regards Jacques Cartier bridge, which is maintained by the National Harbor Board, Premier Duplessis said "it is not yet fully paid for, though there are many reasons in favor of abolition of tolls.

"My government has seen to it that tolls have been abolished on all provincially owned bridges.

"Maintenance of bridge tolls, in my opinion, constitutes a barrier to freedom of trade that should not exist.

More Taxes, More Restrictions

THE DAWN of a new economic era for Canadians broke last week, an era of financial belt-tightening and restrictions designed to save vital United States dollars. It is the government's answer to free buying across the border in which the flow of goods to the Dominion has so far exceeded the flow southward that Canada's trade deficit is expected to total about $1,000,000,000 by the end of the year.

Canadians got word of their new way of life in an avalanche of government orders prohibiting many imports, from motor cars to washing machines, setting up quota restrictions on others including fruit and vegetables, restricting travel to the United States and imposing a 25 per cent tax on many domestic items considered luxuries or semi-luxuries.

Just how long this "short-term" policy will last no one can say at the moment. But in a radio address last week, Reconstruction Minister Howe, who will direct the vast program, said that if the building up of U.S. dollar exports was made a national objective and if everyone co-operated, he believed Canada should be able to balance her trade in a matter of months.

To the hard-pressed wage earner, curtailed imports and added taxes mean one thing first and foremost — another rise in prices adding painfully to the cost of living. And from the average Canadian's viewpoint, the sooner our trade balance is re-established, the better. The alternative is a general re-control of prices, a contingency which we would rather do without.

Christians and Church Attendance

IF THE CENSUS figures are taken at their face value, it may be claimed that about 98 per cent of the people of Canada are professedly Christian (writes Lewis Milligan, contributing to these columns). But at this time, when the Protestant churches are making special efforts to enlist the youth of Canada in church activities and membership, it is well that we should remind ourselves of the fact that there are millions of professed Christians in Canada who never attend a church service from one year's end to the other. This is shown by the following comparative figures for the four leading Protestant churches:

	Census	Membership
United	2,204,875	739,079
Presbyt'n	829,147	173,482
Baptist	483,592	137,474

Thus out of a total of 5,268,802 persons who were listed with the census takers in 1941, as belonging to those denominations, only 1,850,035 were enrolled as church members.

According to the Census for 1941, there were 30 religious denominations in Canada, all but four of which are Christian. The non-Christians listed are, Buddhist, Confucian, Jewish and Pagan. Out of a total population of 11,506,655, only 19,126 claimed to have "No religion".

The Census gives the number of Roman Catholics in Canada as 4,986,552 (including Greek Catholics), of which figure 2,204,875 are listed for Quebec. As all Roman Catholics are regarded as members of the Church, there is no way of determining the proportion of actual attenders, but it is generally admitted that Roman Catholics are more faithful to their Church than are the Protestants.

The Christian churches stand for all that is spiritually and morally uplifting in our national life, and it is surely the plain duty of every citizen who calls himself a Christian to support the church to which he professes to belong.

Grain Prices

CANADIAN farmers are peculiar, opines our Ottawa observer, R. J. Deachman. . . In a recent statement, the President of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, Mr. H. H. Hannam, said:

> "Nothing that has happened in Canadian agriculture in many years has stirred the farmers throughout the Dominion to such resentment as they now feel at the removal of the ceilings on coarse grain and, coupled with this, the elimination of subsidies".

Mr. Deachman puts this down as one of the strange quirks of human nature. The farmers through their representatives made a deal with Great Britain by which they sold their wheat in bulk, took for it half what it was worth in the open markets of the world.

One would think in these circumstances, that the farmers would like to get a high price for their coarse grains. Alas, there is another side to it. The farmers of Eastern Canada want to get their feed grains at a low price so they resent the removal of subsidies and the removal of ceilings. That may be alright for the people of the East who buy feed grains, but why should the farmers of Western Canada be anxious to sell their products for a lower price. They have had one experience of this — do they like it? asks the writer.

WHICH CALLS to mind our friend in the farming community, who has labored long with R.O.P.'s, butterfats and economical dairy production. He sold his herd recently — now buys it by the bottle — and laughingly proclaims himself an advocate of lower milk prices!

THE MOTORIST, whether male or female, who is forever locking bumpers with the car ahead, is steering into a bright new future. The Society of Automotive Engineers have at last got their heads together and, instead of figuring out some new gadget whose use is in inverse proportion to its cost, have come up with the amazing conclusion that it would be better if bumpers bumped instead of locking. The result of these portentous deliberations is that at last we are to have cars that will not dip below or rise above 18¼ inches on a normal stop.

SEVERAL B.C. high schools have instituted courses in automobile driving. Commenting on this the Kamloops, B.C. Sentinel says: "Most youngsters learn to drive on the sly or as students of experience-taught fathers. Which may explain why each new generation repeats the driving faults of the last generation. By all means, let us teach our children to drive; let us teach them in the schools by an accredited, scientific course combining the practical and the theoretical while emphasizing the importance of self-control and respect for the rights and lives of others who use the highways".

Reader Comments on Magazine Article Glamorizing Farmer's Financial Status

TO THE EDITOR

"Avuant!"

Maclean's Magazine presents an article, "Where the Money Goes", by Blair Fraser — a biased review based on unfair statistics. In reading it one wonders, when he went to so much trouble, why a more complete or comprehensive picture was not presented; probably playing the old game of passing the buck to the group least likely to raise a fuss about it.

It has always been maintained by agriculturists that the base period for preparing index numbers should be the year 1926, not 1935 - 1939; Mr. C. P. McTague, arbitrator between packing plants and packinghouse workers agrees with this.

Mr. Fraser complains, "all investment income amounts to less than a fifth of national income", but he doesn't say to how few that fifth goes. "Salaries and wages dropped in the period 1939 - 46 from 60% to 55% of national income" and he continues his complaint that the farmer's share of national income rose from only 11% to nearly 14%; again he does not go on to say that this 14% is divided among the 41% of the population which is engaged in Agriculture.

Quoting the Canadian Countryman: "An entirely different story is revealed when the year 1926 is used as the base period. When this is done it is found that the general average index number of wage rates is about 161, that the cost of living index number is 107, and that the purchasing power of wage rates has advanced about 50%. . . . With farmers, however, things are different. The index number of the price of farm products (when 1926 equals 100) was 117 in April of this year. The index number of costs and services (eleven factors) was 121, which means that the purchasing power of the price of farm products was about three per cent below 'parity'"; and might I add that the situation has deterioriated considerably since.

Using Mr. Fraser's figures, "in 1938 farmers' income was $384 millions, in 1946 it was $1,267.4 millions" — dividing this among the 41% mentioned above, amounts to $257.60 each. "Still", as the author says, "the farmer is well off this year". Amazing what a lump that amount makes in the farmers' overall pocket as compared to the flat feel of it in your double-breasted worsted, eh, Mr. Fraser!

And how did the farmer up his income so much? Certainly not by reducing his weekly working hours from 50.3 hours in 1943 to 42 hours in 1946 as has the city worker, who is getting more money for shorter hours, and producing less per unit of money received. Oh, no! Mr. Fraser, the farmer didn't do that, but let me repeat what the Country Almanac, an American publication, has to say, and this is equally applicable here —

"If you're looking for an economic formula to keep this country and its standard of living on top, you needn't look further than the farms. Let the labor unions . . take a leaf out of our farmers' book. The American (or Canadian) farmer has the formula and has steadily been applying it. 'Production!' That's the answer in one word. A simple proposition, compounded of ever-increasing efficiency plus plain, old-fashioned hard work.

"Our farmers have stepped up their gross output per worker 44 per cent between 1919 and 1944" (in Canada about 42 per cent since 1926), "and that very fact is one of the main economic props that is sustaining both Europe and ourselves today.

"They didn't do this on a 40-hour week. They didn't do it by striking, nor feather-bedding, nor by jurisdictional bickering. They did it by applying brains and energy, by buying more and more machines with their own capital, and then by rolling up their sleeves and keeping their machines busy".

Every decent minded citizen was disgusted by news of the indiscriminate slaughter by a group of visiting "sportsmen" of six baby deer which still bore the white spots which mark a very young fawn. There are certain standards of sporting conduct observed by decent men everywhere. The Late John McFarlane

The death of John McFarlane occurred last Saturday afternoon at the home of his niece, Mrs. Allan MacLean, at Upper Lachute, after a long illness. The funeral was held on Monday afternoon, conducted by the Rev. W. B. Rosborough, assisted by the Rev. C. Maclean.

He was the youngest son of the late William McFarlane and Eliza Barron, and was born September 16, 1875.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. William McOuat and Mrs. Simon MacKimmie; also several nieces and nephews. His wife, the former Maria Rogers, predeceased him three years ago.

Octogenarian Dies At Papineauville

Late Mrs. James McAdam

Relatives and friends of Mrs. James McAdam will learn with regret of her death, which occurred at her home in Papineauville, Que., on Sunday, November 9.

Mrs. McAdam, who was in her 82nd year, underwent a serious operation in July of this year; her recovery was slow, but during the latter part of October her condition was so much improved that her death, after an illness of three weeks, was a shock to her family and friends.

The funeral service, on November 11, was conducted by the Rev. C. W. P. Baugh, of Lakefield. Interment was in Papineauville Protestant Cemetery. Pall-bearers were Thomas McAdam (step-son), Lorne, Willis and Russell McAdam (sons), and two grandsons, Garfield McAdam and Robert McGibbon. The floral offerings were numerous and beautiful.

Besides her many friends, Mrs. McAdam leaves to mourn her loss one sister, Mrs. L. Saunders, of Montreal; six daughters and four sons, eight of whom were present at the funeral — Mrs. Lyman Burton, of Trail, B.C., Mrs. Crossman, of Rutland, Vt., Mrs. John H. McGibbon, also her husband and son, of Powassan, Ont., Mrs. Jack Briscoe and her husband, of St. Jerome, Que., and Miss Lola McAdam, of Montreal, Lorne and Russell McAdam, of South River, Ont., and Willis McAdam, of Sudbury, Ont. Another daughter, Mrs. Arthur Cochrane, resides in Croydon, B.C.

Also attending the funeral were Mr. Duncan Cochrane, Mrs. Wm. Sutton, Miss Emma Cochrane, Mrs. V. Magladry and her daughter, of Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. Russell McMeekin and Mrs. L. NEW ZEALAND IRKED BY U.S. PRECISION

Auckland, N. Z. (CP) — New Zealand is indignant because United States authorities will not accept the abbreviation "Made in N.Z." as sufficient indication of the country of origin on New Zealand merchandise.

Reports have been received that a New York importer was compelled to send staff to a bonded warehouse and open up a large consignment of New Zealand goods to over-stamp every article with "New Zealand" instead of "N.Z." to comply with customs requirements. The process cost the importer $6,000.

Wedding of Interest to Mille Isles District

Former Student Pastor Takes Bride in New Jersey

Hawthorne, N. J. — The Covenant Orthodox Presbyterian Church in Vineland, N. J., was the scene of the wedding of Miss Doris E. Clark to the Rev. Herbert J. Hoeflinger, of Philadelphia, Saturday evening, October 25. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Clark, of Vineland. The Rev. Hoeflinger is the son of Mrs. Herman G. Hoeflinger, of Hawthorne, and the late Mr. Hoeflinger.

(The bridegroom served as student minister for the Presbyterian Church at Mille Isles a short time ago, and has many friends in that vicinity).

Mrs. E. C. DeVelde, organist, accompanied the two soloists, Miss Lilly Pollock, of Montreal, and Mrs. Velma Whisonant, of Vineland.

The Rev. E. C. DeVelde officiated at the candlelight service. The bride had three attendants, while the bridegroom's brother acted a best man. Flower girl was Ellen Robertson and ring bearer was Donald DeVelde.

Following the ceremony a ceception for 300 guests was held at the Masonic Hall. After a wedding trip in the South, the Rev. and Mrs. Hoeflinger will make their home at 6827 Kindred St., Philadelphia.

Mrs. Hoeflinger was associated with the China Inland Mission in Philadelphia. Rev. Hoeflinger, who attended New York University and Westminster Theological Seminary, is now minister of the Mediator Presbyterian Chapel in Philadelphia.

Anniversary Services Held Last Sunday At United Church

Members and adherents of Lachute United Church attended the anniversary services last Sunday commemorating the rebuilding of the present church. The Moderator of Montreal Presbytery, the Rev. Campbell Wadsworth, Ph.D., of Montreal West United Church, was guest preacher at the morning service, and the Rev. Geo. Moore of St. Mungo's, Cushing, occupied the pulpit in the evening.

Dr. Wadsworth spoke on the text, "Thou shalt have no other gods but me"; in his opening remarks he told of Benjamin Franklyn taking his grandson to see the French rationalist Voltaire, who upon being asked for a blessing, remarked, "I give you God and Liberty". . He spoke of the democratic foundation of spiritual freedom and of the atomic bomb, a problem "more than scientific but of ethical standards".

"We do not have to look far for an ethical creed", claimed Dr. Wadsworth, "for we have had it here for two or three thousand years, in the ten commandments . . . the foundation-stone of civilized life". The preacher described an experiment in an American college, where the ten commandments were placed in irregular arrangement, and the students were asked to place them in order of importance, the result being a true portrayal of modern western thought, with the first four commandments being placed at the last, as "outworn relics".

During the offertory the choir sang, "Saviour, Like a Shepherd Lead Us". . The flowers on the communion table were placed there in memory of Mrs. John Hay by her daughter, Mrs. Hooper, of Grand'Mere.

Evening Service and Social Gathering

The evening service was conducted by the minister, the Rev. W. B. Rosborough, B.A., B.D., who welcomed the guest preacher, the Rev. George Moore, B.A., of St. Mungo's Church, Cushing. After bringing greetings from his home church and congratulations to the local congregation, Mr. Moore spoke on St. Matthew 16:19. He said that the church was the medium between the earth and heaven, and that whatever transpired upon the earth was reflected in heaven. Mr. Moore said that the church must not lower her standard of ethics, and stressed the need of Christians to follow the high ideals of Christ. "No church has a monopoly or priority upon the ideals of Christ", claimed Mr. Moore; there was no such thing as the "perfect church", he stated.

After this service, the congregation adjourned to the church hall, where a hearty sing-song, led by Mr. Earl Morrison, was enjoyed. During this interlude, Mr. Morrison gave a brief biography of the life of the Rev. Henry Francis Lyte, who composed "Abide With Me", just 100 years ago. Light refreshments were served after the program.

Radio Preacher and Conference Speaker for Saturday Night Rally

The Rev. George Darby, radio preacher, pastor of the Metropolitan Tabernacle, Ottawa, will be the special speaker at the Saturday Night Rally in Lachute Baptist Church. In addition to special singing, their will be another interesting Bible Quiz. Young and old are welcome to attend these rallies, that are "geared to the times but anchored to the Rock".

• • •

The Rev. Morley Hall, secretary of the Union of regular Baptist Churches of Ontario and Quebec, will speak in several churches in the district on Sunday — Brownsburg at 11 a.m. Dalesville at 3 p.m. and the Lachute Baptist Church at 7 p.m.

Mr. Hall, who has conducted successful pastorates at Timmins, Ontario, and Calgary, Alberta, is also an author and Bible conference speaker. All are urged to avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing this able preacher of the Gospel.

Christmas A Time Of Thanksgiving

"Where are you going for Christmas? . . Many agencies are bombarding you about this matter. So many days until Christmas, you are being reminded; days for what? For shopping. And our little children are being told about Santa Claus. Christmas is coming. The sound of it all grows louder day by day. The sound of the world's observance of Advent, preparing for the coming, the advent of Christmas.

"Amid the many voices there is a quieter one which can so easily be drowned out. It is the Church's Advent voice. It, too, is saying, Christmas is coming. So many days until Christmas. Days for what? Days to prepare to welcome the Child of Bethlehem. With thanksgiving for this pledge to human hearts that behind this vast and frightening universe there is a Divine heart of love. With solemnity, too, for He who touches our hearts in His swaddling clothes and helpless childhood, is also our King and our Judge.

"Our faith has no quarrel with Santa Claus, nor with Christmas shopping. They stand as symbols of lovely human instincts. Charity and good will, children's joy and happy homes, these make life sweet and wholesome. But when our children hear the tinkling bells of Santa's reindeer, let them also hear the angels singing at Bethlehem. . .

"And you too, my people, as you busy yourselves with Christmas shopping and a host of kindly gifts and preparations for home festivities, will you too keep a true perspective and prepare your hearts to meet the Lord of Christmas who waits to greet you at His altar?"

"I intend no modification of my oft-expressed wish that all men everywhere could be free". — Abraham Lincoln, letter to Horace Greeley, August 22, 1862.

Couple Wed in Presbyt'n Church

Snuggs - Barron

A gathering of friends assembled in the Margaret Rodger Memorial Church last Saturday afternoon to attend the marriage of Mrs. Lemuel Barron to Mr. William Snuggs, both of Lachute. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Charles Maclean.

The bride wore a gown of grey crepe with matching hat and a corsage of pink and white carnations. She was given away by Mr. D. Mitchell of Lachute while Mr. Snuggs was attended by his son, Norman Snuggs, of Pointe Claire.

After the ceremony adjournment was made to the church hall, where the happy couple received congratulations and good wishes from their friends, about 100 being present. Ladies of the church were present in goodly number to play hosts to the newly-wed couple. Afternoon tea and refreshments were served, and a toast to the bride and groom was proposed by the Rev. Mr. Maclean.

Mr. and Mrs. Snuggs then motored to Montreal to board the train for Halifax, where they will spend a brief honeymoon. Their many friends wish them happiness.

Mrs. A. Graham attended an interesting meeting of the executive of the Historical Society of Argenteuil, held in the Museum on Saturday afternoon. Much business was discussed, under the leadership of the first vice-president, Mrs. G. F. W. Kuhring, who is in charge at present owing to the very regrettable death of the president, the late Dr. H. B. Cushing. Mrs. Kuhring, being one of the original promoters of the idea of forming a Historical Society in this county, has the interest of this society at heart.

People ought not to jump to the conclusion that Britain is decadent. Both the Kaiser and Hitler mistakenly shared that view.

They are the people — 1,500,000 strong — in every walk of life who are building their futures and doing their day-to-day financing by saving or borrowing at the Bank of Montreal.

Every member of this B of M family has a hand in building the resources of the Bank while he builds his own future. These resources, which amount to nearly two billion dollars, exist almost entirely because of the balances these people can show you in their B of M passbooks.

Here are the dollars that enable the Bank to make more than 500 personal loans every business day of the year to men and women who need money to meet emergencies and take advantage of opportunities.

Here is the credit that provides thousands of business enterprises — from the largest company to the smallest one-man show — with the ready money they need to buy raw materials for manufacture, to pay wages while awaiting returns from the sale of finished goods, and to carry out plans for expansion.

To citizens on salaries . . . to farmers with seasonal incomes . . . to merchants, manufacturers and businessmen in every worthwhile line of endeavour . . . to municipalities, school boards and governments . . . to churches, hospitals and all types of public institutions . . . hundreds of millions of dollars are being lent by B of M managers at more than 500 branches from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

These millions of transactions add up to a billion-dollar story that makes interesting reading — not so much on account of the figures involved, but because of the human stories behind them.

* * *

For 130 years Canadians have put their trust in the B of M. Never in that time has the Bank failed to repay a dollar left in its care . . . never has it failed to open for business on a single banking day.

THE FACTS BEHIND THE FIGURES

WHAT THE B of M HAS TO MEET ITS OBLIGATIONS:

CASH: The B of M has cash in its vaults and money on deposit with the Bank of Canada amounting to	$ 203,696,837.69
MONEY in the form of notes of, cheques on, and deposits with other banks	136,768,245.65
INVESTMENTS: The B of M has close to one billion dollars invested in high-grade government bonds and other public securities, which have a ready market. Listed on the Bank's books at a figure not greater than their market value, they amount to	957,888,826.81

"An important part of my diet ever since my first bottle has been Crown Brand Corn Syrup. Now, that may be all right for a little character like myself, but let me tell you, these grown-ups sure are lucky what with Mom serving them Crown Brand Corn Syrup with so many of their dishes. And she uses it in her baking, too, as a sweetener. I can hardly wait until I'm old enough to have some hot waffles or pancakes smothered with delicious Crown Brand. If it's as good as it is in my cereal—mmmmm!"

For years doctors have recommended the use of Crown Brand Corn Syrup as a satisfactory carbohydrate acting as a milk modifier for bottle-fed infants.

Pre-Christmas Program In the Kitchen

The calendar is turning to December. The days will fly by until Christmas is here. No matter how well the plans are made and what preparation is done ahead of time, the last few days are always busy.

The homemaker who prepares her cake and pudding well ahead of time has two advantages. Every task done means so much less fuss at the last minute. Then, with fruit cakes and puddings, a time of mellowing and blending of fruits and spices adds much to flavor and texture.

There is more dried fruit, more sugar and more butter for Christmas cookery this year, than has been available for some time. The friends in the British Isles will appreciate their share of this year's goodies. It is too late now to get them over in time for Christmas but cakes and puddings of this type keep well and carry well, and are welcome treats at any time of year.

Steamed Carrot Pudding

¾ Cup brown sugar, 1 cup bread crumbs, ½ cup all-purpose flour, 1½ teaspoons baking powder, 1 tspn. salt, 1 tspn. baking soda, 2 cups raisins, ½ cup chopped, mixed peel, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon cloves, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, 1 cup finely grated raw potato, 1 cup finely grated raw carrot, ½ cup milk.

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Add raisins and peel to the flour mixture. Stir until the fruit is well coated. Stir in the potato, carrot and milk, mixing well. Fill individual greased moulds, ⅔ full and cover tightly. Steam 2 to 2½ hours. Six servings.

Dark Christmas Cake

3 Cups pastry flour (or 2⅔ cups all purpose flour), 1 teaspoon baking powder, ¼ teaspoon cloves, ¼ teaspoon mace, 1 cup shortening, 1½ cups brown sugar, 5 well beaten eggs, 1 cup candied cherries, 2 cups chopped figs, 2 cups raisins, 1½ cups each of candied citron, orange and lemon peel, ½ cup honey, ½ cup molasses, ¼ cup cider or orange juice, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ teaspoon almond flavoring, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon.

Sift flour, baking powder and spices together three times. Cream shortening thoroughly, add sugar gradually, creaming together till light and fluffy. Add eggs, fruits, peel, honey, molasses and cider or orange juice. Add dry ingredients gradually. Turn the mixture into two pans 8" x 8" x 2", carefully lined with three thicknesses of heavy greased paper. Bake at 250°F., for 3½ hours. Makes 2, 2½ pound cakes.

Light Christmas Cake

1½ Cups butter, 2 cups fine granulated sugar, 6 eggs, 2 cups bleached sultana raisins, ¾ cup chopped citron peel, 2 cups chopped red glace cherries, 4 cups pastry flour (or 3½ cups all purpose flour), ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon baking powder.

Cream butter well, add sugar gradually and cream thoroughly. Add unbeaten eggs one at a time beating well between each addition. Dredge the prepared fruits with part of the flour. Sift salt and baking powder with the rest of the flour and add to the creamed mixture. Add fruit. Line a 9 x 9 inch cake tin or two 4 po pails with two thicknesses of greased brown paper, bake in a slow oven 300°F., for approximately 2 hours.

Butter may be replaced by shortening and salt increased to 1 teaspoon.

FEMININE SEAFARERS

Vancouver (CP) — Weather-beaten eyebrows are being raised along the Pacific Coast due to a new idea being tried out by a British shipping firm—the use of women as crew members aboard passenger-cargo vessels. The new motor-ship La Cordillera, here on her maiden run from Singapore, had 14 women staffing the galley and stewardess departments.

Actress at Six

Beth Robinson, 17-year-old radio actress who plays hostess on "Cuckoo Clock House", children's program broadcast Saturdays at 7.30 p.m. Her career dates back to the age of six, when she began in stage productions with the Toronto Children Players. Since her radio debut about six years ago she has been heard in a wide variety of dramatic, comedy, and dialect roles in plays over CBC stations.

Uniforms Too Stiff, Cry Feminine Cops

"To stiff and heavy — and too conspicuous," said a spokesman for the group during a dress rehearsal when the new uniforms were worn for the first time.

Henceforth, they will wear the navy barathea uniforms with silver buttons, just like their constable brothers. The same style as the C.W.A.C. uniform, even to the cap, they are completed with pale blue shirt, black tie and oxfords.

FIRST DP's

Coaldale, Alta. (CP) — The first group of European displaced persons to settle in this district now are at Coaldale, 153 miles southeast of Calgary. They are Miss Susanna Peters and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Neufeld with their three sons, Henry, Peter and Herman.

Moderation

Few reasonably intelligent persons find fault with moderation as a theory. Some call it a theory because it is so seldom generally put into practice. Drinking probably is the practice which made moderation popularly known as a theory.

Many a moderate individual (with a reasonably intelligent wife) has gone on the wagon because he feels he hasn't been practising the theory insofar as drinking is concerned. Inexplicably, his wife objects. Regimentation, she says, undermines willpower. It builds up to a letdown.

This feminine view invariably is expounded just as the moderate individual begins to wonder whether his self-abnegation was a sound idea. The wife makes no mistake in her timing. The husband returns to moderation—and usually finds it still just a theory.

Somewhere in this vicious but absorbing circle is a lesson for the husband or the wife—or perhaps one for each. But it is not clear-cut enough for us to record it here without fear of contradiction from one side or the other.

ANNUAL DRINK BILL SOARS IN BRITAIN

Sheffield, Eng. (CP) — H. Cecil Heath, London barrister, said when he visited a girls' remand home in London he found 82 girls under 16 years of age had got into the hands of the police through drunkenness, 63 had veneral disease and 42 were expectant mothers.

Britain's annual drink bill, he said, had increased from £268,000,000 ($1,072,000,000) to £680,000,000 since 1938.

Wildlife Oddities

Wildlife oddities are brought to the attention of the Wildlife service of the Department of Mines and Resources in Ottawa from time to time. A bullfrog in Quebec that swallowed two ducklings; a hen in Nova Scotia that returned after three weeks' absence, accompanied by a flock of nine sturdy wild ducks; a deer in Prince Albert National Park that chews tobacco; a bear with her four playful cubs that meets trains at Jasper; and many others.

The latest report is from Waterton Lakes National Park in Alberta, where a cut-throat trout taken by an angler from North Lineham Lake during September, contained, among other items of food, a dusky mountain shrew. The shrew is a tiny, furry gray mammal, 4½ inches long, that lives chiefly on insects. The trout weighed 1 lb. 6 ozs., was 14½ inch long and was approximately 7 years old. It was quite fat and in excellent condition.

This is the first record, so far as is known, of a cutthroat trout in a national park having been found to feed on a mammal, since the usual diet of this species consists of insects, other invertebrates and small fish. It is also the first record in a national park of a shrew of this species occurring in an altitude of 7,100 feet above sea level. The shrew is a terrestrial species, and how it became available to the trout is not known.

NOTICE — Thanks to the driver of the speeding car on Lachute Main Street Sunday evening, which completely severed the spine of two little boys' pet Spaniel. A reasonable rate of speed would most likely have left him injured. —L.
