Another Quebec Party Probable in Federal Field Next General Electiou

Chaloult and Houde Linked as Organizers in Quebec Post-Election Rumors

Specially Written for Lachute Watchman by Pierre Dubois

Quebec (CP) — Rumors of another Quebec party entering the federal field in the next general election blossomed into almost the real thing in Quebec County, where supporters of National Rene Chaloult staged a boisterous victory demonstation through several of the county's communities.

Quebec post-election rumors had linked the names of the 47-year-old lawyer and Mayor Camillien Houde of Montreal as the men who would form the party. Mr. Chaloult gave no details other than to say a party would be formed, it would be called "Nationalist", and it would send no less than "45 representatives to Ottawa" in an effort to "defeat Canada's public enemy No. 1 — the Liberal party."

St. Laurent

Meanwhile the National Liberal Convention's selection of the Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent to succeed Prime Minister King as the party leader, was generally hailed here. Observers found some significance in the fact that sources which frowned on Mr. St. Laurent's entry into the provincial election campaign of July 28 switched to pulling for him in the Liberal leadership race once the Quebec election was over.

Tourists

Restricted by currency regulations from vacationing in the United States, more Canadian tourists are flocking to Quebec Province, a Provincial Tourist Bureau spokesman has revealed. Up to date the number of Ontario tourists alone has increased 40 per cent while the influx of American visitors has gone up about 25 per cent over 1947.

The tourist trade brought the province upwards of $1,000,000 in 1947.

* * *

Parliamentary correspondents who remained glued to press gallery desks almost continuously after the fourth session of the 22nd Quebec Legislature started last January 14, found pickings lean this week. The cabinet's first meeting since the July 28 general election yielded only the announcement of two routine appointments.

And with Premier Duplessis and members of his cabinet reported holiday-bound following a strenuous stretch on the hustings, the gallery boys felt free at long last to take off for vacation-land themselves. So at week's end visiting tourist parties practically had the legislature buildings to themselves.

Transport Upsets After Collision

At 4.30 a.m. on Wednesday, a large transport vehicle and a passenger car collided at Pte. au Chene, and the transport, both tractor and semi-trailer, overturned completely across the highway, obstructing traffic along Route 8 for several hours.

The vehicle, belonging to Hull-Montreal Transport Co., and a car driven by Omer Bourgeault of the Provincial Roads Department (formerly stationed in Lachute, but now in the Montreal office) were both proceeding eastward. After sideswiping as they passed on the highway, the truck overturned with its wheels in the air, and the automobile somersaulted into the ditch. None of the occupants was injured, but both the transport and the car were badly damaged.

Cst. Rosaire Bastien, of Buckingham, and Cst. Howard Jones, of Lachute, investigated the crash.

Ayrshire Breeder Pays $1,800 for Imported Bull

At the annual Burnside sale of Ayrshire cattle, held last Saturday at Howick, Que., J. P. Bradley & Son, local breeders, acquired a high-quality bull to head their herd. The price was $1,800. This imported animal, Carnell Lawrence, born September 1947, comes from distinguished parentage. The record shows that his sire, Auchenbrain Yours Truly, was reserve champion at the Ayre bull sale in Scotland, selling for 1,300 guineas. His four sons rated the highest average price, £355, for the sons of any sire at the Ayre 1948 sale. . . The dam of Carnell Lawrence is Lesserlin Loretta, whose five lactation records have averaged 11,005 lbs. with a butterfat test of 4.67%.

Mr. J. P. Bradley, Jr. (Don), made the bid for this animal, which should prove a distinct asset to the Bradley herd. Their dairy stock will be competing again at the Ottawa Exhibition, August 23-28.

Safety Awards to B'burg Employees

Brownsburg — For setting a record of 293 accident-free days, approximately 1,000 employees of Canadian Industries Limited here were recently presented with individual safety prizes.

R. G. Beck, vice president of C-I-L, praised the ammunition plant staff for working approximately 1,765,000 man-hours without lost-time accidents to qualify for the awards.

Under the company's safety program, the Brownsburg plant has won 16 prizes to date. This represents a larger number than captured by any other company plant. The recent presentation, known as the Board of Directors' Prize, had been won twice previously, in 1934 and 1943.

H. M. Sherwood, works manager, spoke briefly at the safety rally and urged continued efforts by plant members in working towards further safety records.

Other head office officials attending the presentation included L. W. Haslett, manager of C-I-L's ammunition and explosives group, S. J. Smart, D. G. Rae and E. R. Complin.

Press Collection of Business Taxes

The monthly meeting of Town Council was held August 3 under chairmanship of Mayor Alex Bothwell, all members being present with the exception of Ald. L. St. Jacques.

Accounts for a total of $6,255.89 were approved for payment, and a sum of $250 was granted towards the funds of Argenteuil Agricultural Society.

A motion was adopted, on the casting vote of Mayor Bothwell, that the secretary be ordered to collect arrears of business tax, failing which, after 30 days notice, to place such accounts in the hands of legal advisers.

Bark Lake Regatta

(Our District Correspondent)

Arundel, Que. —

The Barkmere Regatta was held Saturday afternoon, August 7, at Bark Lake, and though the weatherman did not favor the occasion, nevertheless it was a successful event, as in past years. Owing to the windy weather the course had to be changed several times according to the event being run off, but in spite of this handicap, the entries were numerous. Each cottage had its quota of visitors to cheer contestants of their choice, and there was a good crowd of spectators.

In the evening an "At Home" gathering was held at the cottage of Mrs. Arthur Reeve, where the prizes were presented. At the close of the evening refreshments were served.

Congratulations are in order to the committees who worked hard to ensure the success of this annual regatta. Sincere thanks are extended to Dr. P. Rowe for opening his grounds to the contestants and spectators, and to Mrs. A. Reeve for the hospitality of her home in the evening. A list of the prize winners will be published next week.

Yacht Aground In Ottawa River

(Our District Correspondent)

Cushing W.—Though river-craft on the Ottawa this summer cannot be considered heavy, it appears the traffic makes up in excitement what it lacks in volume. A few weeks ago, a man was drowned in assisting to float a dredge up the Chute à Blondeau rapids, and last Saturday a pleasure yacht, with a party of tourists from Florida aboard on a trip from New York to Ottawa, got stuck on a submerged rock in the channel below Grece's Point. Despite skilful efforts on the part of the Bertrand Bros., it is still there.

Mr. J. E. E. Dumais, oldest member of the Lachute Council, Knights of Columbus, has been officially appointed as delegate from Quebec to attend the grand convention of the order to be held at Houston, Texas, on August 19-20-21. This honor accorded to a local Knight, is a source of pride and pleasure to his fellow members in the district.

It must have been originally written into the Canadian constitution that the country should always be at some sort of cross-roads. — Exch.

Fires Subdued in Hazardous Spots

Quick action on the part of Lachute fire department is credited with averting two serious blazes recently — one in a disused barn and the other in a woodworking plant.

A barn near Raymond Underhill's residence on Brownsburg Road caught fire on the morning of August 2. One mow containing a quantity of hay, and half the barn floor were ablaze when the firefighters arrived and promptly extinguished the fire. It is reported the outbreak was started by children playing with matches in the disused building.

On the afternoon of August 4, fire started in a wall on the third floor of Lachute Lumber and Manufacturing Company, Chatham Street. Firemen subdued the flames before much damage had resulted.

Fatal Accident At Grenville Bay

Gerald Brown, 21-year-old son of Jas. Brown, residing just north of Calumet, met instant death in a highway tragedy on the evening of August 1 at Grenville Bay. Walking from the road which leads to Grenville station, he stepped out into No. 8 highway behind a passing car and directly into the path of an automobile driven by Leo. Reeves, of Calumet. Reeves, proceeding eastward, met the auto approaching in the opposite direction; then seeing the pedestrian in his path, swerved into the ditch and struck a tree, but was unable to avoid hitting the victim.

At an inquest in the Dansereau School at Grenville, a jury empanelled by Coroner Dr. Jules Lafleur heard evidence from the car driver, his wife and Maurice Tessier, who were accompanying him at the time of the accident, also from Patrolman H. Jones, who investigated. Medical testimony showed that the victim had sustained fractures of the skull, spine and both legs. The jurors returned a verdict of accidental death.

The funeral of the young victim was held Wednesday, August 4, from Grenville United Church to the Calumet cemetery, where rites of the Orange Order were recited at the graveside.

Gerald Brown is survived by his parents, three brothers and a sister — to whom the sympathy of surrounding residents is extended in their loss.

Infantile Paralysis Victim Claimed Cured by Miracle

(Our District Correspondent)

Weir, Que. — In September 1946, Marielle Proulx, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ludger Proulx, of Weir, became a victim to polio, and was almost totally paralyzed when she was removed to the Pasteur Hospital on Sherbrooke Street, Montreal. She spent 22 months in the institution, being several months in an iron lung, and had all kinds of treatments. When it became apparent to the doctors that she would never walk again, she was finally released from hospital, and through generous friends was provided with special braces for her legs, and a wheel chair.

At this point, it is reported Marielle Proulx was just preparing to take a course to enable her to fill a position where she could remain seated, but prior to taking this course she was visiting with her sister, Mrs. R. Genest, at Montfort, Que., and one day decided to write St. Joseph's Oratory and explain her condition. She did so, and asked to have prayers said for here — whereupon she received a reply stating that there would be a prayer over the radio each afternoon for nine consecutive days. The prayers, which they requested the girl to repeat, ended with: "Please God make me walk". . . On the ninth day, when she repeated the last word, it is stated the polio victim got up and walked across the room. The surprise gave her sister such a shock that she collapsed and fell to the floor. Marielle picked her up and sat her on a chair.

The girl is now home at Weir with her parents; she walks down to the village quite frequently, each day feeling stronger and more grateful to God for her recovery.

Stop-Signs Erected, Removed at Night By Miscreant Gang

Stop-signs were erected recently confronting east and west-bound traffic on Bedard Blvd., at the Barron Avenue and Mary Street intersections. Although the boulevard might logically appear a through thoroughfare, the town authorities ordered signs erected in this manner on the request of residents, who have been gravely concerned with the speeding of trucks and motor vehicles on Bedard Blvd.

Certain operators using this street appear, however, to object to this measure, and raised their protest in an unorthodox way by tearing down the signs. Early last week the signs were removed, only to be replaced by the local authorities. . . However, during Saturday night all four stop-signs, three being mounted on wooden posts, were sawn off and again thrown at the roadside — in one instance the miscreants placed the sign in a contrary direction facing north, at the Barron crossing.

Neighboring residents heard and saw these acts of vandalism at an early hour Sunday morning, and telephoned the town office. The police, however, were otherwise engaged, and the perpetrators escaped without being identified. To date the signs have not been replaced.

Attended National Liberal Convention

Keen interest in proceedings of the national Liberal convention at Ottawa was the first-hand reaction of Argenteuil's five representatives, according to a spokesman of the delegation. The three-day conference covered a program which dealt primarily with national policy and with the election of a leader to fill the role of retiring Prime Minister Mackenzie King. Outcome of the election became known to the public on conclusion of the balloting last Saturday, when Rt. Hon. L. S. St. Laurent, Minister of External Affairs, was proclaimed the popular choice over two opponents for the leadership, Hon. J. L. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture, and Hon. C. G. Power, former Minister of Air.

Delegates from the Liberal Association of Argenteuil were — W. S. MacKimmie, Philippe Valois and Wilfrid Jolicoeur, all of Lachute (Mr. Jolicoeur as substitute replacing as absent delegate, E. F. Brosseau, Huberdeau). Two other substitutes, W. Chambers, of St. Philippe, and Ernest Gagné, of Brownsburg, were in attendance, while James W. McGibbon, ex-M.P., and Hon. Georges-E. Dansereau, ex-M.L.A., were present in a voting capacity at the convention.

In preparation for the Olympic Games, British horsemen have been in training for several weeks past. The War Office released seven serving officers for the 22 weeks training, and loaned stables, mess quarters and staff to make sure that Britain maintains her bloodstock prestige. B'burg Rotarian Views "A Little Bit of Britain"

Brownsburg — Rotarian John Chalmers addressed the Rotary Club on July 29 giving his impressions of a fleeting trip to the United Kingdom via T.C.A. Many beautiful colored pictures, taken by Mr. Chalmers, portrayed the charm of various places he visited.

Being the speaker's first visit to the United Kingdom, he could give only his personal, surface impressions of the country, but in so doing he made the talk more interesting to his audience. He remarked on the comparison of an airial view to that of a map. When Ireland and Land's End were sighted, they really looked like Ireland and England as he knew them from old school maps. From the air too, he glimpsed new housing projects, which were outstanding in contrast to the old forms of architecture seen in the neighboring buildings. It was interesting to learn that Croydon Airport has become too small for the heavy airways traffic, and the new larger London airport is at Heathe Row, which is situated near London. An amusing incident was recalled when the speaker cashed a five pound note; these notes not being numerous in the country today due to fraudulent notes issued by the enemy during the war, his currency was honored only after he had written his name and address upon it.

Mr. Chalmers was immediately struck by the courtesy of drivers all across the whole country, also the systematic way of managing the dense traffic of London and other large cities. The well paved roads were narrow but well marked, bordered by stone walls or hedgerows. There were no ditches in evidence, as draining is not necessary along the roadways. The rain is plentiful, but gentle in comparison to our downpours.

As a visitor he couldn't help but remark on the many birds which sang in chorus throughout the countryside. They find homes in the numerous hedgerows and trees. . . The trees present a contrast to our Canadian trees so straight and erect; in England they appear more gnarled and twisted, with fuller foliage. Southern England was a veritable flower garden, with odd but lovely plants.

The centuries-old castles and churches, with their fine stonework, make the work of modern masons seem cheap in comparison. However, modern conveniences, particularly in regard to plumbing, were not greatly in evidence.

The food situation is "not an interesting one", according to this observer. Food seemed plentiful (in restaurants), but expensive, and the menus very monotonous; fish is very plentiful.

While in Scotland, Mr. Chalmers visited a Rotary Club, enjoying the manner in which they conducted their meeting and the wonderful hospitality he experienced.

Rotarian Herbie Graves thanked Rotarian Chalmers for his address, which was interspersed with amusing and interesting anecdotes, also for the illustrative pictures he had exhibited to the gathering.

Regatta Held at Lake Louisa

In a spell of unseasonable weather more appropriate to late fall, the regatta of the Lake Louisa Country Club last Saturday was nevertheless well attended. Events in this annual contest were staged off-shore at the clubhouse landing, and there were enthusiastic contestants for all events. Spectators gathered in greater numbers for the afternoon program, defying cold winds and rain showers to witness the aqua competitions and to cheer the younger athletes undaunted by the chill atmosphere.

Supper was served by a committee of lady residents, in the main club room, and in the evening a large gathering were seated on the hillside to witness the prize presentation. Messrs. H. Montgomery and C. W. Janes presided, and there were trophies and useful prizes, many donated by club members and friends, for winners in all the day's events. Mr. L. Gatehouse, as president of the Lake Louisa Country Club, paid a deserving tribute to the committees, whose planning had contributed to this very successful occasion.

Following these proceedings a dance was held at the club premises.

On the following day, under more favorable weather conditions, a fair crowd gathered for the motor boat and speedboat races, for which there were again many entries.

(Through lack of space, the list of prize-winners is held over for publication next week.)

Gatineau LINES

Can you imagine what it would be like to see 9,657,000,000 candles burning at one time? Placed one foot apart in a straight line, they would circle the world five times.

It is exceedingly difficult to visualize that many candles, and it would be equally difficult to find that many in the entire Dominion of Canada. Yet it would take that many candles to provide the same amount of light which could be produced if all of Canada's electricity were used at one time for lighting purposes.

Canada, with a population of only twelve million, has harnessed her rivers to produce a total of 10,000,000 horsepower of electricity. She ranks second in the world as an electrified country. Only Sweden has produced more electricity per capita than Canada.

Quebec is the greatest producing centre of electricity in Canada—and, in terms of population, in the entire world. From the various systems within the province — including the Gatineau Power Company — comes more than 50% of all Canada's electricity.

It is this tremendous electrical producing capacity — developed within the past half century — which has enabled Canada to advance so rapidly among the nations of the world. Similarly it has enabled Quebec to become one of the most highly industrialized and progressive provinces in the Dominion. The wealth of electricity still to be developed is assurance of continued growth and progress.

Not only does the Province of Quebec enjoy electrical services which are unsurpassed anywhere in the world, but the cost of electricity is generally lower in this province than in most parts of Canada — or the world.

ENGLISH JOURNEY

By WALTER R. LEGGE

ARRIVAL

We arrived at Liverpool on Saturday, April 24th.

Atlhough the Ascania docked at about half past one in the afternoon, it was several hours after before any passengers were allowon on shore.

Immigration officers came on board to examine passports, and the amount of money each passenger had was entered on the passports so that the amount taken out on the return journey could be checked. The actual interview with the immigration officers only took a couple of minutes.

When we finally got on shore the first thing to do was to trace our luggage. Each piece is placed in a section according to the initial letter of the owner, but when there are 757 passengers, each with many trunks and bags, there is a mountain of baggage under each letter, and there is a terrible scene of confusion as each one endeavors to locate his or her belongings, get them together, and try to interest a Customs officer in examining them next.

So far as we were concerned the ordeal of passing through the Customs was not difficult. A pleasant speaking officer adroitly questioned us as to how much tobacco, cigarettes, liquor, we had and also what we were bringing in with the intention of leaving.

In regard to what is allowed, it might be explained that a half pound of tobacco or 200 cigarettes, or 25 cigars per person will be passed. Food is supposed to be limited to 25 pounds with not more than 5 pounds of any one article, but in practice, almost any reasonable amount is passed without question. Reasonable quantities of clothing is passed but special attention is paid to nylon stockings and only those for personal wear are allowed.

Nylon stockings are still very difficult to obtain in England and the authorities apparently do everything possible to prevent any getting in to the country. The rate of duty more than equals the cost in Canada.

I had been advised that I might have to pay a deposit on my camera which would be returned when I left, but when the officer found it was an old camera and that I had no intention of leaving it in England it was passed without question.

While there is a certain amount of trouble and confusion in getting baggage through the authorities seem to realize the benefits of attracting bonafide tourists and they are given a minimum of trouble.

After being released by the Customs, the next difficulty is to locate a porter to take the baggage to a taxi.

To a Canadian or American, the English system of handling trunks and bags seems entirely out of date. There is no such thing as checking baggage as is done in Canada. The traveller must locate porters and personally supervise the handling of all his goods, on and off trains and everywhere.

That is probably the reason that so many pieces become lost or stolen.

Liverpool was one of the main objectives of the German bombers and went through one raid that lasted for eight days without stopping, yet to the stranger there are few signs of damage today. The place has been cleaned up and repaired to a remarkable degree, and the docks in the vicinity of where we landed, look as if they were always that way.

Most of the passengers were bound for London or Glasgow but we were headed for Blackpool and so took a taxi to Exchange station. The Canadian's first introduction to an English railway station is a most depressing experience. Most of them are drab and dirty and this one was indescribably filthy.

The funny little engines and cars are strange, and most of the passenger cars are badly in need of renovating. They are certainly cleaner than they were during the war, but they are still in need of much work.

The railways are now all government owned and operated, and a few engines have been repainted with "British Railways" in place of the former names, but otherwise they seem to be exactly the same as ever, except that the railway fares have been very much increased.

The most notable change since wartime is that there are now plenty of porters, and most place names have been restored.

After a two hour wait at Liverpool which we took advantage of to look over a small part of the city, we left by train for Preston and Blackpool.

Soon we were outside the city and looking over the glorious English countryside, vistas of vivid green fields and hedges, fruit trees in bloom and plots covered with flowers at every house.

The profusion of bloom was astonishing to us, coming from Canada where few spring flowers were yet in bloom.

In the towns every house seems to have garden plots, all models of neatness, and showing signs of life in some sections.

England is now on summer time and darkness does not come until nearly half past nine at night, so we could look over the country until we were near Blackpool.

Alighting at the South station we finally found a taxi large enough to handle two trunks, six large pieces of baggage and two people and convey us to our destination.

The next article will describe ration difficulties and present supplies in England.

LOCOMOTIVES and tractors are being designed . . . new features applied to ship construction . . . a distinotive West Coast architecture developed . . . Typical of Canadian achievements in metal design is modern railway coach equipment.

IN FASHION, too, there's a "New Canadian Look", as new patterns and fabrics are developed and Canadian dress designers win increasing recognition in world style centres. Today Canada's fashion industry has become big business.

The Tenth Province

NEWFOUNDLAND has voted to join with Canada as a tenth province.

In accepting this new province, Canada will take over Newfoundland's debt, her railway will become part of the Canadian National, her radio system will form part of the Canadian Broadcasting system. The people of Newfoundland will be entitled to seven seats in the Canadian Federal Government and will no doubt elect a Provincial Government as in other provinces. It will obtain all the privileges given to other provinces under the British North America Act. Newfoundland has given consideration to joining with Canada before and provision was left in the British North America Act for the inclusion of this territory at such time as the people should desire to do so. Canada will take over $63,000,000 of the island's $82,377,047 direct public debt. The $63,000,000 represents the amount which it is estimated Newfoundland has spent to build up assets which Canada will assume. The Island will benefit from the Family Allowances, higher old age pensions and the new Federal health grants. The union will also mean the abolition of customs and tariffs and allow the people to travel in any part of Canada they may wish, the same as other citizens. Canada will also take over the defence of the island.

Our exchange, The Huntingdon Gleaner, remarks on some aspects affecting the Dominion in this move. . . There is no doubt that the union will be welcomed by many Canadians who claim Newfoundland as their home; it will smooth out many difficulties in travel and regulations for them. It will mean a saving in the cost of many articles which are shipped from Canada to Newfoundland on which excise duties have had to be paid. It will bring about an easier state of finances for the people of the island in general and in this union there will be strength. There will, no doubt, be a monetary change to be overcome, as Newfoundland is using the sterling medium of exchange. In any event the dollar system will not be unknown to the people. There is no doubt that the people of Canada will welcome a new sister province to make it the even number of ten.

For Europe's Future

IT IS interesting to learn that 58 German children from the British zone of occupation are now attending schools in Britain. They have been 'adopted' under the scheme arranged by the Education Interchange Council and are spending the summer term with children in public and grammar schools in different parts of the United Kingdom. This is one of the schemes designed to remedy the isolation from the outside world to which the German children have been subjected since the coming to power of Hitler. Another scheme which has been launched by the Ministry of Education is for the exchange of correspondence between United Kingdom and German schoolchildren. English is the main foreign language in the 700 secondary schools in the British Zone. . .

From another angle on the German scene, we behold Allied airmen risking their lives today, to succor residents in the Russian-occupied zone of Berlin.

It is a strange but inspiring picture, this concern of the victors for the welfare of the conquered. Not exclusively altruistic, it is true — for the hope of civilization must obviously hinge on the moral and physical sustenance of all its elements. . . Nevertheless, one is apt to ponder on the probabilities, had misfortune brought defeat to the Allied cause in the Second World War. This eventuality we never dared seriously to contemplate. But it is a grim certainty, the picture today would present a sorry contrast with these kindly gestures and exchanges reported from Europe.

WE SUPPOSE that a farmer may say that he is opposed to gambling and be utterly sincere. Yet when we think of the way he stakes his capital and labor against Nature, we're inclined to wonder.

The H. C. L.

IT SEEMS but a year or so ago that we quoted the forecast of an Ottawa authority, setting at 141 the ultimate peak of the living-cost index. With the index then in the 130's, the prospect appeared ominous and fantastic. . .

This hoary perennial, the cost of living index — born in misconception (so they say), nurtured on human greed (so they claim), and flourishing long past maturity — shows no sign of decline. In fact, today it is alarmingly elastic, having leaped 2.6 points in one month to hit the historic peak of 156.9.

It is a tribute to the small-timer in business and industry, that the average Canadian has weathered the storm thus far and remained solvent in his personal affairs. But there is a limit to endurance, and a continuing spiral of prices can bring nothing but inflated credits and false values, which must hit the individual and crack-up the broader economy in one fell swoop. . The problem is for Canada to apply all means to avert such disaster.

The Art of Relaxation

IT OCCURRED to us the other day that, when leisure struts in the front door of our existence, simple relaxation all too often slips quietly out by the back porch.

For many people in this leisure-conscious age, relaxation seems to be a lost art. By relaxation we mean that delicious, drowsy sense of idleness best known to a small boy when he lies under an apple tree, staring at the leaves and the bright sky beyond, half-minded to knock down a plump Macintosh, but unable to decide whether it's worth the effort.

Now in this era of instinctive haste, many of us feel a compulsion to be up and about in our spare time, improving our understanding of industrial disputes, ballooning prices, Communist coups and cold wars. When we're not solving the problems of the world we "relax" in a peculiar way — at a theatre while rival gangsters shoot it out on the screen, or at the stadium while rival teams slug it out on the diamond, or behind the wheel of a car at 60 miles an hour.

We admit, of course, that reading up the issues of the day is a sign of healthy citizenship, and we agree with the hoary saying that a change is as good as a rest. — But wouldn't it be grand just to lie under that old apple tree again, with the long-lost laziness of boyhood — staring at the sky, completely relaxed, completely unconcerned.

Prices Here, and in the U.S.A.

UNITED STATES tourists in Canada are being quoted as saying that they can find little difference between prices here and at home.

We think the Americans are right. On the basis of a cost of living index which reckons with a comparatively low standard of living we have gone on maintaining a fiction that prices over here are lower than across the line. This however, is 1948, when the standard of living is supposed to be higher, and when the possession of a moderately priced motor car, a refrigerator, a radio, plus certain other household appliances, is regarded as reasonable for the average family. Everybody knows that the average Canadian family has to pay more for a motor car, for a radio, a refrigerator, and for the average household appliance, than the average American family pays. Everybody knows also that the average Canadian family pays more for textiles, for a cotton or rayon dress for a housewife, or for a shirt for any member of the household. If there be those who doubt this, let them go to the United States and see, or look over the advertisements in United States newspapers.

Some Canadians go to the United States, live at some luxurious hotel, dine in some night club, and price something at Sak's, or Abercrombie and Fitch's, and thereupon conclude that American prices are high. But Americans don't live in luxurious hotels or dine at night clubs or shop at Sak's; they eat at home or in moderately priced restaurants, and do their shopping at stores that are not on Fifth Avenue. They fare as well, we think, as most Canadians fare — and in many cases better.

It isn't that Canadian manufacturers and merchants are charging too much; it is that on top of the ordinary price of goods the Canadian Government piles taxes; sales taxes and excise taxes — the while putting out the idea, which needs to be challenged, that the cost of living is lower in Canada.

— Ottawa Journal

Impact of History

It may represent a fairly long look, but Professor Charles W. Bishop of Carleton College, Ottawa, was on very sound ground when he suggested to the World Citizen Conference at Woodstock, Illinois, the vital necessity of standardized books of world history.

Most Canadians grew up with the conviction that we had whipped the Americans in 1812 and could easily do it again. Most Americans grew up in the belief that the red-coated Briton was their traditional enemy. They had a lot of nuisance value, these opinions, but, fortunately, we outgrew them under the influence of growing respect and friendship. But Russians, looking at the second Great War, see it as their war, in which others took an insignificant and unhelpful part. They are so indoctrinating their youth, to an even greater extent than Hitler used the defeat of Germany in World War I to indoctrinate German youth. We saw the results, in the bitterness and hate of the young, that made possible the cruel dominance of the Nazi theories. What the world reads today may determine its course tomorrow. — J. L. R.

Socialism Changes Direction

(Contributed)

The C.C.F. is to hold a national convention, to bring the party platform up-to-date. It is already clear that there will be not much talk of Socialism, except for the nationalization of a few large industries, and of the banks.

Mr. Coldwell said recently that at least 80 per cent of all business in Canada would be left to private enterprise, if the party should be elected to power.

The peculiar thing is that Mr. Coldwell would have the Government take over only unprofitable enterprises, or those in which profits are a very small part of the price of goods.

Banks, for example, do not raise the cost of living as a result of their profits. Their profits are very small in proportion to the amount of money which they handle, and the total removal of all bank profits would not reduce the cost of living at all.

As to railways, the Government has already one on its hands, and Mr. Coldwell says that, if he becomes Prime Minister, he will not amalgamate the two systems. He will operate them as Government undertakings, in competition with each other. Since the C.N.R. makes no money — and the C.P.R. not even bond interest on the value of the property — there is no way in which Mr. Coldwell could cut the cost of living by the Government owning all the railways.

Meat packing is another industry which Mr. Coldwell would nationalize. The meat packing companies make a small fraction of a cent profit per pound on their sales, so the removal of all profits would not reduce the cost of living.

The place where Socialism is supposed (according to Socialists) to produce the best result, by destroying profits, is in connection with ownership of land, the operation of small industries, and, in particular, the retail trade. It is in these activities that profits mean most in fixing the price of goods — which is why Socialist theory requires that it is these lines of business which particularly need to be Socialized.

Mr. Coldwell, however, has no time to study textbooks on Socialism. He is thinking of how to win an election. If he were to announce that farms, small factories, stores and service businesses were to be nationalized, he would win but few votes.

Thus the Socialist textbooks go into the waste basket and it appears that Canadian Socialists are going to concentrate entirely on what may look like being not too dangerous—politically speaking.

Government Economy

R. J. Deachman

A business man in the United States got a position in the St. Louis office, "Price Administration", during the war. The first letter, on his new desk, came from a friend, offering his services. He handed it to his secretary, saying, "write, I can't use him now, say I will let him know if anything turns up later."

The secretary loaded her machine with a letter sheet and eleven copy sheets.

"Why so many?" he asked. She gave him the distribution, a long list winding up one in the reading file, one in the central file, two in the cross index division file.

"Kill it", he said, "I'll phone him."

The government pays no postage but the change saved money. The clerk's time, cost of files and rental space for filing would cost more than a long distance telephone message.

A business firm would have solved the problem with one copy, the government with eleven. Since that, there has been a reform. This department now uses four.

CLEAN UP YOUR CAMP SITES

One of the saddest sights to greet a tourist is an untidy camp or picnic spot. It's not only unsightly, but unsanitary as well. In the public interest, be sure to clean up before breaking camp. Bury or burn all refuse and waste paper. It's a good habit to acquire . . . one that each of us expects of others. Consideration for others is a sound way of showing your own "Good Citizenship".

You can help this public service effort. Make a note of some of the little things which, in your opinion, contribute to Good Citizenship.

Because the love we have for you, dear Bob,
Grows stronger every year;
Despite the space between our worlds,
That love will keep you near."

"Lonely to hear your laugh again,
Sad 'cause your voice is still,
To feel the clasp of your welcome hand,
Is a wish we can never fulfil,
We do not show we are lonely,
A smile will hide a tear;
But a prayer whispered when we miss you most,
Seems to bring you near."

STEWART — In memory of Sister Grace, who left us August 16, 1942. — Always in my thoughts, Bertha.

"We mourn for her in silence, no eyes can see us weep
But many a silent tear is shed while others are asleep.
We do not know what pain she bore, we did not see her die
We only know she passed away and did not say goodbye.
If all the world were ours to give, we'd give it, yes, and more
To see the face of our dear one come smiling through the door."

STEWART — In memory of our sister, Grace Stewart, who died August 16, 1942. — Remembered by Edith and Will, Kingston, Ont.

The Girls' Guild of the United Church held a successful concert on Saturday evening, August 7, in the church hall. The program was under the direction of Mr. J. Molyneux (Uncle Jock), who brought with him a talented concert party — among whom were Mrs. McGrindle, soloist, and a Scottish dancer who had just recently taken part in the Highland dances at Maxville, Ont. AMONG THE CHURCHES

130th Anniversary to Be Marked at Services, St. Andrews Presbyterian

St. Andrews East — Special services on Sunday, August 15, at the Presbyterian Church in St. Andrews, will mark the 130th anniversary of the founding of this church. The devotions on this occasion, at 11 a.m. and 7.30 p.m., will be conducted by the minister, the Rev. Dr. Wm. McMillan, assisted by the Rev. John Heyworth, of Chicago and St. Andrews East.

The occasion will also mark the completion of an extensive job of redecorating, both in the interior and exterior of the historic church building.

An interesting record in the history of this congregation since its founding in 1818, is the lengthy pastorate of the first two ministers — the Rev. Archibald Henderson having occupied the charge for 42 years (1818 to 1860), and the Rev. Dr. R. Patterson for 40 years (1860 to 1900). These and other interesting facts will be reviewed in the observance of the 130th anniversary next Sunday.

Gospel Quintette to Present Program Here

The Ambassador Male Quintette from New York City, who are on a 20,000 mile tour of the United States, Mexico and Canada, will present "The Amazing Christ", a program filled with stimulating music, stirring testimonials, and scriptural messages concerning Jesus, the Nazarene—on Saturday, August 21, in Lachute Auditorium, under the auspices of the Saturday Night Rally committee.

Pentecostal Evangelists At Lachute Auditorium

Evangelists Harold Grant and Norman Schlarbaum were well pleased with the opening Pentecostal meeting in Lachute Auditorium last Sunday evening. Harold Grant, a graduate of the Eastern Pentecostal Bible College in Toronto, is also a graduate of McGill University, having majored in Chemistry and Mathematics. Norman Schlarbaum after serving for five years in the Canadian Active Army is now a student at the Eastern Pentecostal Bible College. Both young men stressed the fact that they were presenting no new gospel but "the old, old story of Jesus and His love." Like the apostle Paul they were determined to preach "Christ and Him crucified, the power and wisdom of God unto salvation."

The congregational singing of the old hymns of the church was interspersed by the singing of lively gospel choruses. Misses Shirley Ashline and Marjorie Newton of Montreal formed an appealing duet as they sang "Deeper, Deeper in the Love of Jesus" and "The Haven of Rest", accompanied at the piano by Miss Audrey Grant, also of Montreal. The evangelists presented musical messages as Harold Grant played, "Turn Your Eyes upon Jesus" on his cornet, and Norman Schlarbaum sang a solo entitled, "I'd Love to Tell You What I Think of Jesus."

The challenging evangelistic message by Norman Schlarbaum was based on Romans 1,16: "For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to everyone that believeth; to the Jew first, and also to the Greek". . . "We should be ashamed of our sins", the evangelist stated, "but never of the Christ of the gospel, because He alone can cleanse us from the sins of the past, and give us power to live victorious lives day by day". In conclusion the evangelist declared that this atomic power of God would work only in the lives of those who would repent of their sins and trust and accept Christ as their own personal Lord and Savior.

Married Recently at Lachute United Church

Todd - McVicar

The marriage of Miss Freda Pearl McVicar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor McVicar, and Mr. Allan Robert Todd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Todd, took place in Lachute United Church recently, the Rev. W. B. Rosborough officiating. Mrs. S. Campbell was at the organ, and during the signing of the register Miss Shirley Watts sang "Because". Baskets and standards of mixed summer flowers were used to decorate the altar.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, wearing a white gown with nylon yoke and fitted bodice of brocaded satin, cut to a star pattern, with short puffed sleeves and buttoned down the back to join a very full net skirt. She wore white net mittens, and her floor-length veil of embroidered tulle was held in place by a small tiara of seed pearls; her cascade bouquet was of white and pink roses. The bride wore a cameo necklace, a gift of the groom.

She was attended by Miss Edith McCallum as maid of honor, her sister, Miss Stella McVicar, and Miss June McArthur as bridesmaids. They were gowned in Organdy velverée made with fitted bodices, peplums and full skirts—Miss MacCallum in powder blue, Miss McVicar in pink orchid and Miss McArthur in turquoise. They all wore matching mittens with ribbon headdresses and carried nosegays of sweet peas.

Mr. Arthur Philipps acted as groomsman and the ushers were Mr. Fraser McVicar, brother of the bride, and Mr. Fred Assaly.

The reception was held in the hall of the church, where flowers, candles and the wedding cake were used to decorate the bride's table.

Mr. and Mrs. Todd left immediately afterwards by car for Quebec and Arvida, the bride travelling in a white suit with black and white accessories, and wearing a corsage of yellow roses.

Marriage of Interest

MacDonald - Kelly

The marriage of Bridget Edwardine, daughter of the late Angus Francis Kelly, of Alexandria, Ont., and of Mrs. Kelly, of Montreal, to Mr. Donald MacDonald, son of the late Peter MacDonald, of Glen Robertson, Ont., and of Mrs. MacDonald, of London, Ont., took place at St. Malachy's Church, Hampstead, on Saturday, July 24. The Rev. Father John Britt celebrated the nuptial mass, and Prof. J. J. McCaffrey was at the organ. Baskets and standards of variegated gladioli were used to decorate the altar.

The bride, given away by her brother Mr. John Kelly, was in a period gown of ivory slipper satin over a crinoline. The fitted bodice had a small bertha of Chantilly lace and tight pointed sleeves, and the bouffant skirt was caught in folds held with clusters of small white flowers, the hemline raised to show ruffles of the same lace. Her veil of French net was bordered with Chantilly lace, and her only ornament was a single strand of pearls. She carried a bouquet of gardenias and bouvardia.

She was attended by her sisters, Misses Maureen and Frances Kelly, the former as maid of honor. They were dressed alike in ankle-length frocks of sky blue silk faille, fashioned with snug bodices and umbrella skirts. Their headdresses were of white gladioli and they carried bouquets of the same flowers, wearing for ornaments pearl chokers with rhinestone clips.

Mr. Niel MacDonald acted as best man for his brother, and the ushers were Mr. Duncan Schneider, the bride's cousin, and Mr. Howard White.

The reception was held at the Queen's Hotel, where the bride's table was arranged with large bowls of Picardy gladioli.

Later Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald left for the Laurentians, the bride travelling in a honey beige garbardine suit, with brown and cream accessories, and corsage bouquet of white carnations and bouvardia.

The couple will reside in London, Ont.

Guests were present from London, Alexandria, Cornwall, Glen Robertson, Ont., Brownsburg, Que., Flint, Mich., and other points.

The bride, related in Avoca district, was formerly employed at the C-I-L Office in Brownsburg.

The United Church Sunday School picnic was held at Watchorn's Falls recently. Many visitors, friends and parents were present, and a most enjoyable time was spent.

The W.A. of the United Church held a tea on the church lawn. The event, held on election day, proved most successful, as many who came out to vote stopped by for a cup of tea.

Miss Alice Seale was pleasantly surprised at a shower in her honor when a large number of friends met at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Seale. Miss Seale was presented with a Duncan Phyfe table and a piece of silverware to match a chest of silver she had recently received from members of her office staff.

Recent Blaze

Mr. John H. Davis has men at work clearing up the debris of the Davis Hall, which was burned recently. . . At 2 p.m. on Sunday, July 25, smoke was noticed issuing from the front wall where electric wires entered the building. Very shortly the volunteer fire brigade were at work, and they are to be commended for the job they did. With a strong wind prevailing, and the Marcil Girard garage next door and other buildings adjacent, it seemed for awhile it would be impossible to prevent the fire from spreading. The fire brigade from St. Adolphe was also summoned and the fire was soon extinguished.

Correction

Miss Patricia Davis was entertained at a crystal shower on Saturday, July 17, by Mrs. L. Hollingworth, Mrs. R. Boyd, Mrs. C. Cameron and Mrs. Allan Buxton, at the home of the latter.

McArthur Irwin Limited Acquires Control of Dominion Linseed Oil Co.

Selwyn Irwin, well known in St. Andrews East, new president of Dominion Linseed Oil Co. Ltd.

John Irwin, president of McArthur Irwin Ltd., Montreal, has announced the acquisition by his company of a controlling interest in the Dominion Linseed Oil Co. Ltd., Toronto. The latter company owns and operates plants for the crushing of linseed and production of oils at Baden, Ont., at Montreal, and at St. Boniface, Man. Also owned and operated by the company is a plant at Owen Sound for the production of feeds and cereals.

Founded in 1864 in a small plant at Baden, the Dominion Linseed Oil Co. Ltd. has grown until today it occupies a leading position in its field in Canada. The company has a lengthy history of service to the paint industry and in related lines.

McArthur Irwin Limited, established in 1842, is a company well-known in the paint supply field. This company also owns a controlling interest in the Hart Battery Co. Ltd., of St. Johns, Que., one of the largest producers of storage batteries in Canada.

In acquiring control of Dominion Linseed Oil, McArthur Irwin is carrying out a policy of extension which will enable the combined organizations to supply to their customers a broader range of raw materials used in the manufacture of paints, printing inks and related products. The joining of the two companies assures a wider and more comprehensive service in years to come.

In commenting on the purchase of the Dominion Linseed, Mr. Irwin stated that as soon as practicable the various plants of the company will step up their production schedule to meet current demands.

Selwyn Irwin, vice-president and managing director of McArthur Irwin Ltd., Montreal, is president of the company.

— Women's Interests —

So You're Going To Work!

By NORA ROUTLEDGE

Every fall finds a new crop of stenographers ready to take jobs — either in the nearest city or in their own home towns. Some of them will become well-paid, efficient secretaries, while others will remain in monotonous, routine work which wouldn't tax the intelligence of a moron.

What makes the difference?

Here are a few suggestions, compiled from answers given by a group of business women successful in their various fields of endeavor.

Your Approach to Your Work

Here, the good old rule applies — anything that is worth doing is worth doing well! No one will expect you to turn out perfect work, just at first — there are the questions of nervous strain, unfamiliar phrases and new surroundings which must be taken into account. But your employer has the right to expect you to put your best effort into any work given you. Care and accuracy are more important than speed from beginners. In the matter of spelling, for instance, don't try to be an individualist — if you aren't absolutely certain of the proper spelling, make a first-class dictionary part of the necessary equipment on your desk.

Manners Are Important

Good manners are required just as much in an office as in a drawing-room. One rude or sulky person can throw the whole staff out of balance.

Under this general heading, too, comes your attitude towards co-workers. In brief, do get along with the other girls — and don't try to be the office sweetheart of all the young men. Maybe you consider your most important career is looking for a husband; perhaps you are right! But the thing is — office hours are out of season and the office itself is out of bounds! That doesn't mean that you can't make dates with the young men on the staff; but don't let them do their "rushing" on the premises!

Personal Problems

You can soon become the office bore if you insist on bringing all your woes to work with you. The boss and other members of the staff have troubles of their own; don't load them with yours, too. Men don't like women who weep all over the typewriters and fyling cabinets! So remember — learn to park your problems outside; in other words, "render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's".

The Trim Look

No matter how breath-taking you look in your new glamour gown, don't be tempted to wear it to work! A dress of shimmering loveliness looks like the last rose of summer in business circles. Keep party clothes for parties; downtown they just look tawdry! The same can be said for the new evening make-up you paid your good money to buy. It needs to be shown off against a setting of soft lights and music.

Another thing about make-up. Every well-appointed office building is equipped with rest-rooms. If your make-up needs overhauling, that's the place to do it—but don't stay out there long enough to have a Turkish bath! Never, never, never, let your lipstick see the light of day inside the office walls! You may look very cunning pursing your mouth for its bright decoration — but do refrain! It just isn't done in the best business circles, no matter how many of the girls do it.

New Work

If your boss gives you some new type of work which someone else has been in the habit of doing, don't feel put-upon. Maybe he's trying you out for promotion. Remember, the more skills you acquire around the place, the more valuable you will become.

Enthusiasm

Do treat your work to a little interest! After all, it provides you with a living. Who knows how long you will have to earn your own way? You may go on working for years — what with housing conditions, rumors of war, scarcity of eligible bachelors, and high cost of living! So you might as well learn to enjoy your work, or find work that you can like. A whole day spent doing a job in which you take no interest can be a day's slavery, but a day's work done with enthusiasm will leave you with a nice, satisfactory glow and a beam of approval from the boss.

So you're going to work for the first time? . . Follow at least some of the above tips and, who knows, some day you may be up there among the career women! Or, if you enter into matrimony, you still profit by the training — because marriage is a job too!

The real "battle of the bulge" is being fought these days by some of the middle-aged women who are trying to make their circumference agree with the current fashions.

Cool Desserts for Hot Summer Days

The canning season reaches its peak usually in the hottest days of summer, and at this time the kitchen becomes the least desirable spot for comfort.

One answer to this problem lies in cool meals or foods that make one feel cool. These may be crisp green salads, cold meats or chilled desserts. In addition to producing the effect of coolness at meal-time many of these foods require little heat in preparation or may be made at a time when the stove is on and then kept a day or so before serving, thus eliminating the necessity for an overheated kitchen every day.

The home economists at Ottawa suggest the following cool desserts for hot August days:

Delmonico Pudding

4 Tablespoons cornstarch, ¼ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ cup cold milk, 2½ cups hot milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup jam or jelly, 2 egg whites, 4 tablespoons fine sugar.

Mix cornstarch, sugar and salt and blend with cold milk. Add slowly to hot milk in top of double boiler and stir constantly until mixture thickens. Cook 20 to 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat, add vanilla and pour into a baking dish. Spread with jam or jelly and cover with meringue made from the 2 egg whites and 4 tablespoons fine sugar. Place dish in a pan of hot water and oven-poach in a moderate oven, 350°F., until meringue is brown. Yield: six servings.

Crumb Berry Pudding

½ Cup fine dry bread crumbs, ½ cup quick-cooking rolled oats, 1 cup sour milk, ¼ cup shortening, 1 cup brown sugar, ½ cup sifted all-purpose flour, 1½ teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon soda, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 cup berries (strawberries, blueberries or raspberries).

Soak crumbs and rolled oats in sour milk for 1½ hours. Cream together the shortening and sugar. Sift together the flour, baking powder soda and salt. Add berries to dry ingredients and add alternately with crumb mixture to the creamed shortening and sugar mixture. Blend thoroughly. Fill an 8" x 8" cake pan or individual moulds ⅔ full. Bake in a moderately hot oven, 375°F., individual moulds 25 to 30 minutes; 8" x 8" cake pan 40 to 45 minutes. Serve cold with sweetened crushed berries. Yield: eight servings.

Quick Caramel Custard

4 Eggs, ⅓ cup white sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 3 cups milk, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ⅔ cup light brown sugar.

Beat eggs until light. Add sugar and salt, blending well. Scald milk and slowly add to egg mixture. Add flavoring. Stir custard mixture until well blended. Sift brown sugar and pack it in the bottom of one large baking dish or individual moulds and pour the custard on top of it. Place the baking dish in a pan of hot water and oven-poach in a moderate oven, 350°F., until custard is firm and a silver knife inserted in the centre comes out clean, about 1 hour for large mould and 45 minutes for individual moulds. Chill. Invert to serve. Yield: six servings.

EDUCATION MEANS MONEY

As is the case in almost any enterprise, finances are of the utmost importance in education. Recent economic trends have brought necessary increases in salary scales for teachers, although in many parts of the country, due to scarcity of funds, these increases are recognized to be far from adequate.

$25-Million Ore Development and $2-Million Power Dam for Quebec

By WILLIAM STEWART, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Quebec, Aug. 17 (CP) — Fresh evidence of the immense future opening up to Quebec as the secrets of its undeveloped north-east are unlocked, come now from Premier Duplessis.

The Union Nationale government leader, holding his first press conference since the re-election of his administration last month, told newspapermen titanium are deposits, perhaps the world's largest, have been discovered at Lake Allard, 400 miles from Quebec.

The premier described a $25,000,000 project for development of the deposits which, added to plans for the working of northeastern iron ore, back up forecasts that "New Quebec" on the St. Lawrence north shore will one day eclipse older parts of the province.

Premier Duplessis said that Kennco Explorations Limited, under provincial licence, will build a railway from the St. Lawrence shore to the titanium area at a cost of some $10,000,000.

A $12,000,000 to $15,000,000 refinery is planned for Sorel, Que., and the premier added that eventually development expenditure will amount to an estimated $150,000,000.

Premier Duplessis explained that titanium is used for paint manufacture and with other elements can be combined in a metal as strong as steel. Until now India has enjoyed a monopoly in titanium production.

Premier Duplessis said that when exploitation of the riches of northeastern Quebec hits full stride the area will become a "metallurgical centre most important in Canada and probably in the whole world."

Power Dam Planned by Gatineau Power Company

Quebec, Aug. 14. (CP) — The Gatineau Power Company has been authorized by the Quebec Government to build a new $2,000,000 power dam near Sullivan Island, below Rocher Fendu, on the Ottawa River, it was announced by Premier Duplessis.

The project, when completed, will provide an additional 27,000 horsepower to be used principally for industries and farmers in Western Quebec.

Rocher Fendu Lake is formed by a widening of the Ottawa River at the southern end of Calumet Island, about two miles east of Forrester Falls, Ont., a short distance from Bryson, Que.

The premier said the new dam is urgently needed to safeguard industries of the region and to furnish power needed for rural electrification undertaken by the provincial government.

He said there are numerous industries in the Gatineau area helping maintain the economical stability of the region. One of the latest developed there is one using waste products from several pulpwood mills. This industry cost $1,500,000 and has given work to hundreds.

Mr. Duplessis noted that since July, 1945, more than 6,000 miles of power lines had been strung in rural areas of the province and attempts now are being made to bring electricity to all rural centres of the Gatineau, Papineau, Hull and Pontiac regions.

"Unfortunately due to uncontrolled felling of trees in the region", he said, "the flow of the Ottawa River has been very irregular in this particular part of the province. A river which normally could produce 51,000 horsepower, the Ottawa produces only 30,000 in certain periods. Consequently it will be necessary to regulate the flow of the Ottawa River to insure existing and future industries and farmers of the electric current they need."

The work will start "in the near future", he declared, and the plans have been approved by Quebec while the developing of the project will be closely followed and controlled at all of its various stages by the provincial Department of Hydraulic Resources.

The premier concluded by disclosing that the government also had arranged an inter-connecting power production and distribution system as a result of which the Beauharnois and Gatineau Power companies agreed to give each other necessary aid in future by pooling their hydro-electric resources whenever power shortages exist or threaten.

Bazaar Held At Lakefield

Lakefield — The annual bazaar of the Women's Auxiliary of Holy Trinity Church, Lakefield, which was held last Saturday in the Gibb Hall, proved a very successful affair. The event was officially opened by the Rev. C. W. P. Baugh, and with many eager customers on hand, it was not long till all the tables were cleared.

Those in charge of the tables were — Home-Cooking and Vegetables, Mrs. Geo. Peet, Mrs. S. Andrews, Mrs. L. Dawson; Fancy Work and Aprons, Mrs. C. Baugh, Mrs. E. Morrow; Flowers, Mrs. I. McCambly; Candy, Mrs. C. Dunn, Winnie Dunn and Lyn Bradley; Tea Table, Mrs. Geo. L. Rogers, Mrs. H. Neill; Tickets for Quilt, Mrs. W. Sherritt, Mrs. I. Richardson; Fish Pond, Connie Dunn; Ice Cream, Kenneth Trickey. Mrs. Leonard Elder, of Lachute, was the winner of the quilt.

The sum of $185 was realized from this effort, and the president expresses public appreciation to all who took part and gave donations.

Plans for Cemetery Beautification

An interesting feature during this same afternoon was the arrival of Col. Garnet Strong, of Montreal, and Messrs. Horace, Leslie, Edgar and Ira Strong, to meet the Cemetery Committee, and to make plans for beautifying Lakefield Cemetery. Work on the cemetery is to start September 1, and as this has been a much discussed subject for years, it is gratifying to know that the burial ground will soon be a site more beautiful and befitting the memory of loved ones gone before.

Cycle Racer Injured At Three Rivers, Que., Taken to Hospital

Brownsburg — Robert Taylor, Jr., in a cycle race last Tuesday from Quebec City to Three Rivers, met with a slight accident and suffered a fractured collar bone. Having a good lead on all the other contestants and within a short distance from the finish, Taylor's mishap was particularly unfortunate. He was admitted to a hospital in Three Rivers for treatment.

LOCAL CRAFTSMAN SPEAKS ON ASTRONOMY, AT ROTARY CLUB

Brownsburg — At the last meeting of the Rotary Club, Lawrence LaChappelle, watch and clock maker of Lachute, again proved an interesting speaker, choosing as his subject, "Astronomy and Astronomical Instruments". The speaker's hobby is the building of telescopes of all shapes and sizes. He was introduced by Rotarian Linton Armstrong.

At one time the stars and moon were accepted as a romantic background, said Mr. LaChappelle. It is still a mysterious universe even in this modern age, the surface of the study of astronomy being barely scratched. The heavenly bodies, viewed from large telescopal instruments, are points of light in their unknown quantity. Fifty million stars are visible today through telescopes; these stars could be encircled by planets with life on them, but even the largest telescopes, sixty-five tons in weight, cannot determine this as an actual fact.

In viewing the moon at quarter size, the observer can see craters and mountains on the surface with the formation unchanged, as no erosion has taken place due to a probable lack of dampness; it is thought the mountains are much loftier than any to be found on the earth.

Rays of light travel in parallel formation to reach the earth; therefore astronomical telescopes are constructed with lenses and reflectors to gather these lights together. The lenses are small, with larger reflectors. Pyrex glass is found to be suitable for the lenses, and the reflectors are made of silver. Grinding and polishing of a lens for a large telescope takes a matter of years.

True and accurate mounting of a telescope is necessary, as the mechanism is delicate. The rotation is from east to west on an axis.

What is commonly known as a "shooting star" is actually the tail of a comet, particles of which hit our atmospheric conditions causing such intense heat that very few reach the earth, they usually disintegrate immediately.

There are nine known planets, although one has never been seen. It is comparatively "new", named Pluto, and was discovered through mathematics and through the disturbance in its area. It is the farthest from the earth; whereas the earth takes 365 days to complete its orbit, Pluto takes 248 years.

Rotarian Keith Rutherford thanked Mr. LaChappelle for his interesting address.

Family Awakened To Find Their Home Ablaze

Fire starting in an upstairs clothes closet in a cement block dwelling at the corner of Harriett and Thomas Streets, the property of Noel Paul, spread to the attic and over the entire upper ceiling. It loosened a lighting fixture in one of the bedrooms, which crashed to the floor and awakened Mr. Paul. Had it not been for this happening, it is possible some members of the household would have been asphyxiated, for dense smoke was rolling out of the upper storey when firemen were called to the scene. The proprietor raised the alarm, and the five occupants sleeping in the house grabbed a few belongings and made their escape.

The blaze occurred around 5 o'clock this morning (Thursday). The fire brigade under Chief Geo. Y. Deacon extinguished the flames after laying two hose-lines to the site.

It is understood the proprietor had insurance on the property and effects. The home was built by Mr. Paul about two years ago.

Trophies Awarded, Evening Enjoyed By Bowling Fans

At a supper and dance sponsored by the Bolodrome management recently at the Longtin Grill in Brownsburg, over 200 enthusiasts of the sport assembled to review the past season, to celebrate its success and discuss plans for renewed contests to open during next month. First non-league feature will be the Bolodrome annual tournament for both men and women, and it is expected the leagues will be organized and in action towards the end of September.

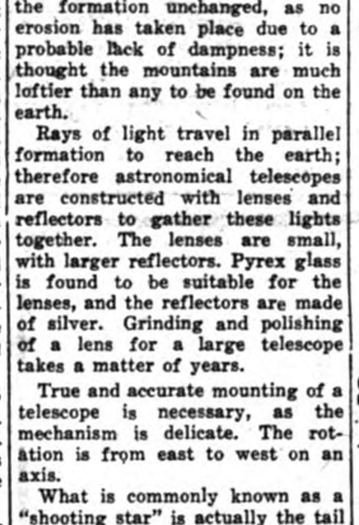

Miss Therese Belanger, of Laand was crowned Queen of the Bolodrome; her coronet of natural flowers had been donated by Lachute Nursery Reg. She was also awarded a complimentary bowling membership for the 1948-49 season, and a lady's toilet set donated by Bedard Ltée.

Engraved trophies were presented during the evening to last season's winners in the commercial and mixed leagues. Notable among these was a special trophy given jointly by Menard & Menard and the St. Andrews Woollen Mills, and won by the latter team.

In addition, six admission prizes were awarded—the first prize of $5 donated by Roger Lamarche; the second a men's trophy given by Mme Marcel Deschamps in memory of her late husband; third prize, a lady's trophy, and three prizes of cigarette lighters, all given by the Bolodrome.

A six-piece orchestra, directed by G. Forget, provided music for the dancing. Albini Lamarche, of Lachute, was one of the spokesmen of the evening, while Paul Desnoyers was general organizer and master of ceremonies. . . It was stated the Bolodrome is now undergoing minor repairs, arrangements were in hand to replace Wm. Davis who had given up the management, and high hopes were expressed for a successful season ahead.

VOTED QUEEN OF BOWLING

Miss Therese Belanger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Belanger, who won the popularity vote among frequenters of the Bolodrome.

Church Windows Dedicated in Honor Of War Dead

Ste. Agathe des Monts — A service of special interest was held in Trinity Church, Ste. Agathe, last Sunday, when two memorial windows were dedicated in memory of those who had given their lives overseas.

The windows, which flank the altar on either side, were designed by C. W. Kelsey, and depict the figures of St. Michael and St. George. The rich jewel tones contrast harmoniously with the dark wood in the interior of the church. In addition to the money raised for the windows, a substantial sum has been added to the Endowment Memorial Fund, and a large brass plate, listing the names of the men, has been placed on the Endowment Memorial Board.

The Rev. E. G. May, M.A., rector of Ste. Agathe, performed the dedication ceremony, and the Rev. Stanley Andrews of Montreal preached a stirring sermon, stressing the theme of the well-known poem, "In Flanders' Fields". He impressed upon his listeners the futility of all the sacrifice of the pervious generations if the people of this generation neglected to carry on the good work.

Preceding the clergy, the members of the Veterans' Corps marched in procession to the front of the church, carrying the colors. The picturesque church was artistically decorated with summer flowers, and the altar was banked with sweet peas in varied tones of red. A congregation of nearly 200 turned out for the ceremony.

Horn-Blowing Taxis In Brownsburg Too

Brownsburg — Complaints were received at the last council meeting that residents were disturbed at all hours of the night and early morning by automobile horns sounded for the purpose of calling either the taxi-driver or his "fare" to cars parked on the public streets. The police chief was asked to apply the full force of the law to future offenders.

Rifleman Qualifies For Top Honors

Brownsburg — Wyman J. Hazel, smallbore rifleman, representing the Brownsburg Social & Athletic Club, was recently successful in placing on Canada's 1948 Lord Dewar International Rifle Team. This team comprising Canada's top smallbore marksmen, was selected at the National Smallbore Rifle Matches held August 6, 7 and 8 at Connaught Ranges near Ottawa.

In addition to placing 11th in the shooting of the Dewar Match, Mr. Hazel was declared winner of the "B" Class grand aggregate in competition with marksmen from all parts of Canada.

During the week of August 9-14 Brownsburg shooters participated also in .303 matches sponsored by the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association. Harold Wheatley was successful in reaching the final stage of competition for His Excellency the Governor-General's Prize, most important single event in Canadian rifle shooting.

Waterworks Extension Under Way, Road Hazard Improved, at B'burg

"IN BROWNSBURG" (Specially contributed)

Work is proceeding apace on the Chenierville waterworks project, and an interim payment of $9,000 was authorized at the last council meeting to the contractors, Messrs. Kelly. Satisfaction was expressed at the manner in which the work is being carried out, and it is expected the contract will be finished on schedule.

Some difficulty with regard to labor has been experienced, but it is now believed that differences have been settled.

Maple Avenue Improvement

The elimination of a particularly dangerous corner on Maple Avenue South has now been undertaken, and already substantial improvements can be noted. The bend, where several accidents and at least one death had occurred, was difficult of approach. It has been widened by about 20 feet for a distance of 350 feet, on ground presented gratuitously by Canadian Safety Fuse Co. The provincial roads department, on the request of Mr. Héon, M.P., approved and financed the work.

Fire Protection

The Department of Municipal Affairs, Quebec Provincial Government, forwarded a cheque for $2,000 to assist the council in their efforts to provide adequate fire protection in the village. The members expressed their sincere thanks for the generous contribution and directed the secretary to convey the council's sentiments to Mr. Georges H. Héon, M.P., and the newly elected M.L.A., Mr. Cottingham, through whose efforts the grant was obtained.

Court Judgment

The council received notification from their legal advisor that the appeal against a judgment rendered against them in favor of Messrs. Auclair, one of the original contractors for the council's waterworks scheme, had been decided by the superior court in their favor. The secretary was directed to issue a cheque to cover costs.

Valuation Roll

The valuators, having completed their inspection of the village, submitted the roll with some minor amendments, which was passed without discussion.

Navy League Yachts At St. Andrews East

St. Andrews E. — Three sail boats were anchored in the North River here this week, manned by about 20 Navy League boys. Mrs. M. E. MacCullough allowed the visitors to occupy her barn during the night they spent there, and reported them as most considerate and careful of her property.

This Democracy

Where in history, or in the modern world, will you find an experiment so daring and so beautiful as that which claims that men and women can be equal in opportunity, socially secure, and still be free — free to think as they please, vote as they please, debate as they please? The trouble with our experiment is that, unlike most miracles, it has gone on so long it has simply ceased to be miraculous . . it has lost its news value.

Sudden Death At Grenville

Death from natural causes was the verdict of Coroner Dr. A. R. Coté, of Brownsburg, in the death of James Griffin, 69-year-old employee at the Lanthier Hotel, Grenville, who was stricken suddenly at his work Sunday morning and died before medical aid could be summoned. Dr. Drummond Smith, of Hawkesbury, examined the victim and pronounced him dead.

James Griffin lived on the hotel premises, and had no family or relatives, to the knowledge of his employers. The funeral was held Tuesday, with burial at the Protestant cemetery in Grenville.

Det. Albt. Oggier, of Montreal, and Traffic Officer Howard Jones, of Lachute, investigated the death.

Afternoon Bridge, Carillon Museum

A ladies' card party held at the Carillon Museum on Tuesday afternoon proved a pleasurable event and drew a good attendance, Groups journeyed from Montreal, Lachute and Cushing, besides many from St. Andrews East, completing 12 tables of bridge. Refreshments were served during the afternoon.

This function, in support of the Argenteuil Historical Society funds, was organized by Miss Beatrice Robertson and Miss Edith Simpson as conveners. Mrs. G. F. Kuhring, of Montreal, president of the Society, was in attendance to welcome the supporters.

Citizen Mourned At Brownsburg

The Late James Reid

The death of James Reid, a well known resident of Brownsburg, occurred Saturday at the Royal Victoria Hospital in Montreal. Fifty-one years of age, he had been in ill health for the past three years.

Born in England, the late James Reid came to Canada with his parents, in his early childhood.

Having been employed in the Ammunition and the Plastics divisions of C-I-L for 30 years, he was also something of a community figure in Brownsburg. The Boys' Band and the Boy Scouts claimed his interests, and he contributed to the advancement of both these movements. He was a member of the Brownsburg Presbyterian Church and of Argenteuil Masonic Lodge No. 67.

Left to mourn are his wife; one son, Donald; two brothers, Frank, of Brownsburg, and Jack, of Toronto; and two sisters, Mrs. Mark Rey (Bertha), of Toronto, and Mrs. H. Flint (Isabel), of Cobourg, Ont.

The funeral, attended by numerous sympathizing friends and fellow townfolk, was held Monday afternoon at the Brownsburg Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Howard Doig, of Maxville, officiated in the absence of the minister, the Rev. Chas. Maclean. Interment was made at the Brownsburg cemetery in Lachute, where rites of the Masonic Order were performed at the graveside.

Pall-bearers were — Dr. W. M. Hooper, Messrs. Mac Walker, Alex McCulloch, Alex Clarke, Russell Graham and Chas. Stephens.

Suspects Held in Kilmar Robbery

The payroll robbery last February at Canadian Refractories Ltd., Kilmar, is described by police as "one of the biggest safe-cracking jobs in Quebec's history". Today a 28-year-old man, termed an expert safe-cracker, and five alleged accomplices (two believed to be from Kilmar-Avoca district) are in custody as suspects, following investigation by provincial detectives and an R.C.M.P. officer. A detective stated the six were being held incommunicado pending arraignment in court.

"We found ourselves confronted by one of the smoothest-operating gangs any of us can remember," Det. Lt. Patenaude is quoted as having stated to press reporters in Montreal.

Lt. Patenaude, head of the special squad, said that a crack safe puncher was hired for the job. It was only after many weeks of investigation that police were able to find the yeggmen's trail. Police traced an automobile used in the getaway and sold following the robbery.

The arrests were made in two provinces. Two of the suspects were arrested near Kilmar. Two were arrested in Montreal, one in Tracadie, N.B., by R.C.M.P. Constable M. Theriault.

Police said that the safe was punched open within five minutes, the loot was scooped up and the escape was effected some 30 minutes later, while the company watchman was making his 45-minute rounds.

It is stated, according to the Montreal press, that the suspects will be arraigned in St. Jerome. Police said that they had not recovered any part of the loot and believed that the money was spent by the suspects.

UNHAPPY 20TH CENTURY

Weekly Newspaper Publishers Meet At Regina, Sask.

By R. A. GILES

During my term as president of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association, it has been my privilege to travel by train and air, both of which have now become really modernistic, affording the greatest comfort possible. Of course air travel has the advantage of being a time saver which in these days of hustle seems to count for much, — but to get a real idea of the scenic beauty of Canada, without being too hurried, one must use a train or auto.

In my recent visit to the west I used both, the main part of which was train. Leaving Lachute on Monday, I arrived in Regina Wednesday night, having thoroughly enjoyed the opportunity of a rest, after a rather strenuous two weeks' election campaign. This change from a continual rush and the delicious meals served on board gave one a renewed feeling, which was much appreciated.

The occasion of my visit to Regina was the annual gathering of the Saskatchewan Division of our Newspaper Association. This like most conventions, was held with the idea of bringing publishers together to discuss various problems of interest and to which many of them bring their difficulties for enlightenment.

This seemed to be one of the best attended and most beneficial gatherings ever held in Saskatchewan and congratulations were freely extended the organizers.

Dr. Sam Dornan, of Alameda, retiring president, was unable to be present through illness, but the managing director, Walter Ashfield, of Grenfell, had a wonderful program of business and entertainment arranged to the satisfaction of all present. It was my privilege to install the new president, Mr. E. Scriver, of Woolsley, and to make presentations of trophies for the annual awards.

Leaving Saturday morning, in company of A. W. Hanks, secretary-manager of the Manitoba Division, and Harry Munroe, of Swan River, we headed north, due for numerous surprises, for in having travelled many times by train across Canada, my impression was, as I think is generally, that Manitoba and Saskatchewan comprised chiefly miles and miles of prairie land such as is seen from

Minister Qualifies For Divinity Degree

The Board of Examiners of the General Synod of the Church of England announced last week that the Rev. Horace G. Baugh has passed all requirements for the Divinity degree of Scholar in Theology, with the exception of a further paper in Liturgics and Medieval Service Books.

The Rev. H. Baugh studied at McGill University and the Diocesan Theological College in Montreal, and during the past two years has been continuing his studies through King's College, Halifax. For the past five years he has lived in Doaktown, N.B., and has returned here frequently to visit his parents at Lakefield.

Gatineau LINES

We would like to tell you about two special little features of our Company. These are things you probably would never notice, but they will be working hard for you in the years ahead. They are Repeater Fuses, and Prefabricated Transformer Stations.

The use of "repeater fuses" is particularly valuable to customers in rural districts. Fuses, as you know, are little gadgets which protect any electrical circuit against sudden increases in power and against the fire hazard resulting from short circuits. The fuse might be looked upon as a "weak link" purposely put into an electrical circuit so that if anything goes wrong the weak link burns out, thus cutting off the power before it can do any other damage.

Originally branch lines were protected by a single fuse, and if any type of accident caused the single fuse to burn out, the flow of electricity was cut off until the fuse was replaced. On our main branch lines, we have been installing "repeater fuses" — three-fuse combinations which operate automatically. If something caused the first fuse to burn out, the second one takes over automatically—and if the second one burns out the third one takes over.

Normally, this takes care of most causes of fuse blow-outs, and the third fuse maintains service until the first two are replaced. If the third fuse blows out too, it means that the trouble which caused the fuses to blow out originally hasn't yet been corrected, and power is automatically cut off until the trouble is found. Thus, the repeater fuses help give uninterrupted service in normal cases, but still act as watch-dogs against unusual circumstances which require that the flow of power be stopped quickly to avert further damage.

Another feature recently introduced, is a standard type of prefabricated transformer station. . . This station is made up of steel sections which can be expanded to include as many transformer units as might be required. The obvious advantage, of course, is the opportunity given to enlarge a transformer station rapidly when the need arises. In the old days, altering such a station was a major task, involving the tearing down of brick walls, and the complete re-arrangement of all units. Now it can be expanded in less than one-quarter the time.

ENGLISH JOURNEY

By WALTER R. LEGGE

ARTICLE 3
Food and Rationing

Everybody in Canada is greatly interested in the food situation in England and many conflicting stories have been told. Here is what I found.

One of the most remarkable changes since I was here in 1942 is found in the shops. Where windows were absolutely bare in 1942, they are filled with merchandise of all kinds today. Stores which in 1942 were almost empty with large sections roped off, are groaning under the load of goods.

But here is the rub, these goods are most difficult to buy due to the mass of red tape and restrictions, for rationing in England is a fearful thing to experience. English people are tied down by restrictions and bureaucratic rules and regulations to an unbelievable extent.

I confess that I cannot understand much of it, but I find that many people who have been here ever since before the war are just as puzzled as I am.

First thing on arrival at Blackpool my wife and I had to go to the central food control office to get our ration books, for one cannot get along without them.

It took a whole morning to stand in line, get national registration cards, sign numbers of forms, most of which we knew nothing about, and finally receive books and coupons for meat, preserves, sugar, cheese, butter and fats, bacon, eggs, milk, clothing, bread, tea, soaps, points for cereals, canned goods, sweets, and several other things.

The clerical work in filling out forms, cutting off expired portions, etc., is tremendous. There must be an enormous waste of manpower over this rationing for there are offices with large staffs in all except the smallest places.

In addition there is fuel control, gasoline control, building control, rent control, etc.

Once the ration books are received the newcomer may think he can start out to buy things. What a hope! You can only buy meat, milk, butter, eggs, bacon, sugar, jam, cheese, etc., at a store where you have registered, and it is difficult to change registration from one store to another.

Thus you have to take whatever your merchant cares to give you, or what he has on hand, and you cannot go to another store without a good reason and going through much red tape. Therefore if you think your butcher is not giving you fair treatment, about the only way you can improve matters is by trying to curry favor with him.

There are some few things that are neither rationed nor sold on points, such as fish, fresh vegetables and a few tinned articles such as fish and meat pastes, soups, etc., but in many cases the store has a sign over them reading "Reserved for our regular customers".

Although there is plenty of tinned food in the stores, no one can buy much of it for each person only receives 28 points a month, and 28 points will only buy a very little. Here is what is needed in points on some common items, salmon 32 points a tin; sardines 2 pts. a tin; fruit cocktail 20 points a tin; peas 5 pts. a can; beans 12 pts. a can; soda biscuits (or cream crackers as they are called) 4 pts. a lb.; chocolate biscuits, 16 pts. a lb.; plain biscuits, 4 pts. a lb.; jelly powder, 4 pts. a package and other things in proportion, so that the purchaser seriously studies just how he will use the slim allotment of points that he is given.

Bread and cake are sold on "bread unit" points, and 36 a month is allowed each person. A loaf of bread requires 4 "BU's" and the loaves look pretty small to a Canadian.

Where chickens are kept, the egg rations for every member of the family must be surrendered and 2 lbs. of chicken meal is allowed for each person's egg rations, so even the chickens have to go short.

On sweets, the ration is 12 oz. a month with an occasional increase to 16 oz. One lady told me that she had saved up her sweets coupons in order to buy a couple of pounds of candies for her daughter who was returning to boarding school, only to find that the coupons had expired the previous Saturday. She told me "I was ready to sit down and cry".

It is with fuel that the people really suffer. The first two weeks after we arrived, it was quite cold, with frost nearly every night. The English houses have a real chill in them, and the people huddle around a tiny grate fire. The fuel allowance in the north is 5,600 pounds a year and in the south 3,808 pounds.

The English homes have a real chill even in late spring and must be pretty grim in mid-winter.

Electricity and gas are also in very short supply, in England. Gasoline is supposed to be so severely rationed that only essential driving can be done. The gasoline rationing has been the most difficult to enforce and there is a remarkably large number of cars on the streets and roads which seem to prove that there is considerable disregard of the regulations.

Tourists are supposed to receive special consideration, but we found there is a catch to that also. To get this tourist allowance, it is necessary to either bring your own car into Britain or else buy one to take home with you. Although my brother-in-law had a car standing idle, and we were bona-fide tourists, we could not get an allowance to drive in his car.

However, gasoline rationing is to be relaxed, they say.

It looks to an outsider, as if rationing has been retained over long, and when we arrived we noticed a tremendous agitation to relax restrictions on certain articles, notably shoes, dry goods, and clothes. It was reliably reported that warehouses were bulging with merchandise that people have no coupons to buy.

There is more fresh fruit available, but bananas are only sold on allotment and are only sold for children.

The days when eggs were obtainable at about one egg a month seem to be over, and while still not plentiful, are obtainable in small quantities. This, we were told, is a seasonable condition.

The meat ration is pitifully small. Our hosts last week bought their week's allowance of meat, for the whole family and ourselves, and we ate it all at one meal. It was a small roast of about 2 pounds. We are told that most people do the same thing, as it is foolish to try and spread it over several meals.

Bacon allowance is two ounces per person per week which is only about two small slices.

While the above would tend to show that there is not much to eat in England today, the fact is that everybody gets plenty to eat. The English still eat at least four times a day, for no one seems to be able to dispense with afternoon tea at about 4.30 p.m.

But the real trouble is there is too much monotony about the meals, which are too starchy. There is too much bread, plain cake and vegetables and not enough variety.

I have been staying at the homes of relatives all the time I have been in England, but have eaten some lunches, dinners or teas at hotels.

In all the homes, the housewives complain that it is extremely difficult to make appetising dishes out of the same ingredients, day after day.

In the hotels and restaurants the average meal consists of a thick soup, which seems to be made with some starchy powder; a woefully small piece of mutton; beef or fish, or a meat pie made of ground-up meat, and an overly large helping of potatoes, and some kind of vegetable, usually cabbage, cauliflower, or greens; and a dessert usually made of some kind of cake or steamed pudding, with a custard sauce. Tea or coffee is not included with the meal, but may be purchased separately.

Chicken is not rationed but is extremely scarce and very expensive, so it is seldom seen.

Therefore the best things for Canadians to include in parcels to friends or relatives in England are canned chicken, pork products, salmon, or other fish, sugar, cheese, raisins or currants (which are absolutely unobtainable) jams and jellies if in tins. Butter arrives in excellent condition if packed in air-tight tins.

Second-hand clothes in good condition also are welcomed and very few people are too proud or fastidious not to be happy to wear discarded clothes received from friends in Canada, provided of course that they are in fairly good condition

Soap is also welcomed as the soap allowance is only 3 oz. a week of all kinds, and the quality is poor.

The next to disappear?

The Big-horn has been hunted out of much of its former range in the United States. In Canada too, the Rocky Mountain Sheep is decreasing because of over-hunting and outright poaching; a set of its magnificent horns is a prized trophy. If we in Canada are to preserve this stately "sentinel of the rimrock" we must do all we can to see that conservation measures are strictly observed.

The Carolina Paroquet was slaughtered just for its brightly coloured feathers. It is now extinct, a bitter lesson to us to preserve what we can of our vanishing wildlife.

An Asset to This Town

THOSE who have viewed the new Ayers Limited swimming pool on a warm, sunny day, have witnessed a scene of childhood happiness that does the heart good. This innovation is more than a recreation spot for the mill community — it is a major asset to the town; and to its initiators, the Ayers family and directorate, it is a distinct credit. The gratitude of the people for this benefaction needs no formal voice, for it is writ large in the joy of hundreds of youngsters splashing in the clear, cool water. . . and it is equally apparent in the many onlookers, parents, brothers and big sisters of these fortunate children.

The official opening of this swimming pool takes place next Sunday, and The Watchman will have occasion to describe the site more fully. A view of the spot in its first days of activity, however, impressed us with its great possibilities. Children, youths and adults were there, not only from the mill district but from east and centre wards as well. And we were impressed with the intermingling of French and English-speaking children in recreation (an exchange to be desired, but never seriously fostered to date in this community). We were impressed with the prospect, already proven, of dozens of youngsters learning to swim under trained instruction; and with another major factor, the health and safety of local juveniles. But the benefits accruing from this project cannot be estimated in a casual inspection.

It is fitting that the public should see this swimming pool for themselves and know more about it — as they doubtless will. It is something which community-minded folk may well be proud of.

Open Season

THIS IS the time of the visiting relative, the open season for swooping in-laws, long-visiting aunts and the unexpected cousin. Don't misunderstand, we love 'em all, but won't it be nice when the summer holidays are over?

Visiting is a time-honored custom of Canadians. The country cousins drop into the city for a week when farm work is slack. City relatives drive to the country for vacation. But it has its drawbacks, and at times they seem to outweigh the advantages by a greal deal.

The swooping in-laws, for instance. This variety of relative gives notice but makes it so short it hardly matters. A long-distance call, a few hours, and they're on your doorstep with bags and children and a vigorous enthusiasm for holidaying.

They stay up late hours talking over old times and sleep in next morning while you rise early for a normal working day. They never seem to realize that, while they can celebrate with little thought of the morrow, a mid-week party means a headache for the worker next day.

Then there are the long-visiting aunts — or uncles, or grandmas, or what have you. They outwear their welcome and make you decide you'll be out of town when they want to come for "a few days", which stretch into weeks, next year.

The unexpected cousins are another variety. They arrive without any notice at all, usually with all the family. They precipitate a hurried shifting of beds, frantic calls for provisions, and generally throw the housewife and her spouse into a dither.

A general objection to visiting relatives is that they upset one's routine. The man of the house can't get into his slippers and read the evening papers after dinner. He has to sleep on the camp couch and Junior is cramped on the chesterfield. Mom gets behind in her housework and wears a worried frown as she spends most of her time in the kitchen.

But there are advantages, thank goodness. Visiting relatives catch you up on all the family news. You learn who's doing what and how they're getting along in the old home. And relatives can be nice people to live with, if they just realize you've got a day's work to do tomorrow.

Yes, visiting is a great custom. One that can be overdone, of course, but still a great custom.

Revenge is a kind of wild justice, which the more man's nature runs to, the more ought law to weed it out. — Francis Bacon.

Warning from Australia

THE GOVERNMENT of Australia is a mildly Socialist one. As with every mildly Socialist Government, it constantly presses for the adoption of still more Socialism.

Recently, the Australian Government decided to ask for the nationalization of all banks, and obtained an Act of Parliament to this end. Various interests, State Governments and private associations, appealed to the courts to rule that this was unconstitutional, and finally the High Court — corresponding to the Supreme Court of Canada — has decided that the Commonwealth Government has no right to insist on the Government owning all banks.

It was fairly generally accepted in Australia that a majority of the people supported this point of view, and objected to Government banking — despite the fact that Australians have accepted more Socialism than has yet been applied in any other English-speaking country except New Zealand.

The argument against Government ownership of banks was a very simple and direct one. It is the argument against Socialist direction of economic activity in any country. It was that, in a democracy, it is quite important that a government should conduct all its activities in accordance with political considerations. To apply this to the use of the people's savings would be alien to accepted ideals of Government in a free nation.

Elected Governments are bound to adjust their policies to the need of winning votes. That is necessary in a democracy, for, unless a Government acts in such a way that it will be re-elected, it is not acting in accordance with the will of the people.

Now, the theory of democracy also demands that the Government should confine its activities to giving general direction to the national life, and should not interfere in detail with the liberty of the citizen. It is scarcely possible for a Government to follow such a rule and still to conduct such a business as banking.

A Government in search of votes is, as is already known clearly in this country as well as in Australia, only too ready to spend public money in efforts, by no means always wise, to bribe the electorate. A limit is applied to this process by the unwillingness of the electorate to pay more than a certain amount of taxation.

Such a policy, applied by a Government to the direction of the use of private savings by banks, would produce intolerable conditions. Loans would, without the least question, be made with votes in mind, rather than the safety of the people's savings.

The Australian people realized this. It is bad enough to provide the Government with an unduly large share of their income through taxation — to be spent largely in political directions, for political purposes. The Australians had no intention of placing all their savings at the similar disposal of the Government.

Mr. Coldwell might note. One of his pet projects is the nationalization of banks. The Canadian people would be as hard to catch with that bait as the Australians have been.

Let's Weep!

A GOOD cry helps a woman. The indulgence in the same is one of the reasons women live longer than men. Suppressing emotions is bad for the health. Giving them full play helps keep the human machine in good working order. All experts on the subject are agreed that a good cry on certain occasions would help a man as much as it does a woman. Think this over, Mister. The next time your emotions get to the fever point, do not suppress them, but slip away by yourself and have a good cry. It may prolong your life.

TROUBLE with all this (inflation) is that the public is so concerned with food prices that all the blame for increased costs is put on the farmer and those who handle food. What can be done about it is hard to figure out. Telling consumers the facts does not appear to do much good. A lot of people simply don't want to hear facts, want to continue to be prejudiced.

the train window. True, one drives for miles at a time without seeing much sign of life, but it is when you drop into a town such as Swan River on a Saturday night, with a population of only 1,000, that the surprise comes. No less than 4,000 people in for their weekly visit, and hardly space to park another car. This town already has 14 garages, with two more and a new hotel in course of construction. These small towns are certainly thriving and the wonderment was — "where do all the people come from?" This of course is easily understood when one studies the map. The thought of the country's flatness was also dispelled when we entered the Qu'Appelle Valley which stretches for miles, and with its varied shades of color, presents a magnificent view. Forestration is quite dense in parts, while numerous lakes afford opportunities for summer vacationists.

Leaving Swan River Sunday morning our next stop was Dauphin. This name is quite familiar in Lachute, for it was here that one of our town boys, Robert Cruise, settled and later became member of parliament for that district. We did look up his son Bill and spent an hour with his family, talking about various ones back home. Next call was Grandview, well named, for it is truly a picture to look across to distant hills, particularly with the usual grand sunset for which the west is noted. Here we attended the annual memorial day service at which there was a large turn-out. Birtle, Shoal Lake, Minnedosa, Gilbert Plains, Russell, Binscarth, Neepawa, Carberry, MacGregor, and Portage la Prairie were other towns visited, not forgetting Yorkton, Woolsley, Grenfell, Melville and Indian Head. At the latter town we were surprised to learn that there had been an Invitation Baseball Tournament conducted which comprised 22 teams and which brought to town as many as 25,000 people from far and near, and all this in a town of about 1,500 population. They sure go after things in a big way "out west".

Back to Winnipeg by Monday night, we waited several hours for our train which was detained, owing to a land slide farther west, but soon were on our way and tired after an 800 mile motor trip, sleep was our next consideration.

On the train were many people who were going "back home" on the Ascania, sailing from Montreal. It was nice to talk to them and share in their happiness. To most of them it was something long looked forward to, although at present, not under the brightest of conditions.

Wednesday night found us back in "our own home town", thankful for a safe journey and thrilled once again with the kindness and hospitality of our Western friends.

DOUBLE FUNCTION

In every community there lies a great amount of dormant talent which often goes unnoticed for lack of opportunity. If music festivals did nothing else than to bring this hidden talent into the open they would merit support. Besides this, however, music festivals provide entertainment for many hundreds.

Silk Screen Masterpieces At B. of M. Local Branch

Following the announcement by the National Gallery of Canada that the Bank of Montreal has arranged to purchase quantities of the gallery's silk screen prints, the bank's Lachute office has now received a selection of the pictures. Full color reproductions of interesting subjects strike a new note in bank decoration, and will make the office more attractive.

Two of the prints now hanging in the B of M's local office are "Windswept" and "Silver Stream", by L. A. C. Panton, R.C.A. "Windswept", with its trees bowing proudly to the elements, suggests a sense of space anad freedom, while "Silver Stream" depicts the tumbling water and rapid movements of a typically Canadian river. The third picture of the group, "Return from Easter Mass", by A. H. Robinson, R.C.A., gives a glimpse of village life as winter has its last fling.

In the silk screen process, by which these pictures were made, a series of silk stencils is used. Through these, color patterns in oil paint are impressed directly upon paper. The resulting print has a freshness and brightness difficult to obtain by other methods, and ideal for business offices. Though many duplications may be made by this process, the prints are not reproductions in the ordinary sense.

In designing this series of pictures, the artists worked directly for the silk screen process, and most of the prints sponsored by the National Gallery are original works for this medium. In the rare cases where the pictures have been adapted from other originals, the unique possibilities of silk screen reproduction have been fully exploited. The resulting changes in treatment give the prints an individual character.

H. O. McCurry, director of Canada's National Gallery, says the bank's plan to supply these pictures to its branches from coast to coast "will have far-reaching effect on some phases of the work the Gallery is trying to do." Eric A. Hibbard, manager of the local B of M branch is pleased that his office has been included in this scheme. He hopes that Lachute residents will drop in and see the new prints.

A man's pride would be vanity if possessed by his neighbor.

KILL NOXIOUS WEEDS

The weeds in that vacant lot on your street are unsightly : : : and they're a nuisance too. The seeds blow into neighborhood gardens and cause extra back-breaking work for everybody. Why not arrange to get together with your neighbors some evening soon to kill those weeds . . : and tidy up the lot while you're at it. You'll improve the appearance of your community, cut down your own garden work, and demonstrate your "Good Citizenship".

You can help this public service effort. Make a note of some of the little things which, in your opinion, contribute to Good Citizenship.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

Larger Attendances At Pentecostal Meetings

Interest in the Pentecostal meetings at Lachute Auditorium is increasing, as was evidenced by the enlarged attendance last Sunday evening. Car-loads of people were present from Calumet, Harrington, Brownsburg and as far as Montreal.

The singing of bright gospel choruses was balanced by the congregational singing of the time-honored hymns. Miss Peggy Hannah's vocal solo "Jesus is Coming Soon", was most timely in the light of current events. Mrs. Lila and Miss Audrey Handy presented a grand spiritual truth in song when they rendered, "God's Way is the Best Way". Early in the service, Mr. Jack Saunders delighted the audience with his trumpet arrangement of "Overshadowed by His Mighty Love", while later Evangelist Harold Grant and Mr. Saunders teamed up in an instrumental duet, "Now I Belong to Jesus".

Evangelist Norman Schlarbaum's heart-searching message was based upon the life of David, the psalmist of Isreal. The evangelist graphically portrayed the events of David's early life, as a shepherd boy, as a mighty warrior, and finally as the King of Israel. Then the tragedy occurred. David, the man after God's own heart, committed open sin and it displeased his Lord. Thus Nathan, the prophet sent from the Lord, denounced David's sin by a penetrating parable. . . Evangelist Schlarbaum pointed out that David in his prayer for forgiveness (Psalm 51) asked God to restore a right, holy and free spirit to him. In conclusion the evangelist declared that God "will freely forgive our sin, and give us daily victory by His Holy Spirit, if we will only come to him with a broken and contrite spirit".

Male Quintette from New York, at Baptist Saturday Night Rally

The Ambassador Male Quintette of New York City will appear Saturday night at Lachute Auditorium, presenting "The Amazing Christ", a program filled with stimulating music, stirring testimonials and scriptural messages.

The Ambassadors are on a 20,000-mile tour of the United States, Mexico and Canada.

John Taylor, of Chattanooga, Tennessee, now Dean of Men and instructor in speech and homiletics at the Missionary Training Institute, is the speaker and director of the group. While in high school and college, Taylor played football basketball, tennis, and ran the mile and hurdles in track. For the past four years, he has travelled as a young evangelist for "Youth For Christ International" and has been associated with Percy Crawford in his camps for young people. After graduating from Wheaton College Graduate School of Theology and taking a year of advance study at Southern Baptist Seminary, he was called to the faculty of the Missionary Training Institute.

The music of the Ambassadors will be furnished by — Paul Brittin, first tenor, of Toledo, Ohio; Gaynor Ferrell, second tenor, of Miami; Paul Creech, baritone and pianist, of Durham, N.C.; and Gerald Tropf, bass, of Warren, Ohio. Besides singing in world-famous Carnegie Hall of New York City, these singers have brought joy to the hearts of thousands of church-goers throughout the East. These young men are preparing for the ministry and are looking forward to full-time Christian service.

Tomatoes Are Ready

Apples were, at one time, the most widely used and generally liked fruit, but their place has been usurped by tomatoes. Tomatoes are not only valuable as a food but are enjoyed as an appetizer, vegetable, salad, a relish and even as a jam. They also lend delicious flavor to many other foods. For this reason it is well to store away as many canned tomatoes as possible for winter use. Tomatoes may be packed in glass sealers or tin cans. It is wise to fill sealers only to within ½ inch of the top. This will prevent loss of liquid during processing and assure a good seal. Tin cans may be filled to within ¼ inch of the top.

There are three satisfactory methods for canning tomatoes. Each has its good points. Tomatoes packed by the Cold Pack Method, retain their shape well and may even be used as a special treat in winter salads. The juice, when drained off, may be used as an appetizer or in soup.

Cold Pack Method: Blanch tomatoes 15 to 60 seconds, cold dip, remove stem end and peel. Pack. Add 1 teaspoon salt per quart before adding liquid. Cover with hot tomato juice, leaving headspace. (The juice is made from broken or irregular tomatoes cut into pieces, heated to extract the juice and then strained). Process in the Boiling Water Bath, pints or 20 oz. cans 25 minutes, quarts or 28 oz. cans 30 minutes or glass sealers may be processed in a thermostatically controlled oven at 275°F., pints 35 minutes and quarts 40 minutes. Tin cans should never be processed in the oven.

Solid Pack and Hot Pack methods are both quick and easy but the tomatoes are likely to be quite broken and juicy. Tomatoes, packed by either of these methods, are excellent for general use where thre is no special need for having whole tomatoes.

Solid Pack Method: Prepare as for Cold Pack Method. Quarter or leave whole. Pack, pressing down until tomatoes are covered with their own juice, leaving headspace. Add 1 teaspoon salt per quart. Process in the Boiling Water Bath, pints 30 minutes, quarts 35 minutes.

The oven is not recommended for this method since it takes too long for the dry heat to penetrate to the center of the sealers.

Hot Pack Method: Prepare as for Cold Pack Method. Quarter or leave whole. Heat to boiling point in a preserving kettle. Pack hot, leaving headspace. Add 1 teaspoon salt for each quart. Process in the Boiling Water Bath, pints, quarts, 20 oz. or 28 oz. cans, 15 minutes. Glass sealers may be processed in a thermostatically controlled oven at 275°F., pints 20 minutes, quarts 30 minutes. Tin cans must never be processed in the oven.

Tomato Juice

Hot Pack Method: Wash tomatoes, remove core, cut into pieces but do not peel. Bring to boil and boil, covered, 5 minutes. Press through sieve or pureer. Bring juice to boiling point. Pour into containers, leaving headspace. Add 1 teaspoon salt per quart. Process sealers or cans 15 minutes in the Boiling Water Bath. Glass sealers may be processed in a thermostatically controlled oven at 275°F., for 20 minutes. Tin cans must never be processed in the oven.

Brownsburg Guides Attended Camp at Morin

Brownsburg — A number of the Brownsburg Guides have returned from a very pleasant two weeks spent in camp at Morin Heights. The girls were under care of their leaders, Miss M. Cumbers and Miss M. Morrison. The following results will show that the girls were not idle while on their vacation. Proficiency awards:

Agnes Elliott, Junior Swimmer (Red Cross Society).

Isabel Low, Intermediate Swimmer (Red Cross Society).

Isabel Low, Pioneer Badge.

Isabel Low, Life Saver Badge.

Isabel Low, Bronze Medallion (Royal Life Saving Society).

Isabel Low was also voted 100% "Honor Guide", which qualifies her for the title "Sister of Thekine".

Miss M. Cumbers won the Award of Merit or Silver Medallion from the Royal Life Saving Society, having won her Bronze last year.

It is regretted that more of the girls were not able to attend, but it is hoped that next year a greater number of Guides will be able to take advantage of this camping experience.

Life is too short for a long face.

With seats cradled in the "comfort zone" between front and rear wheels, with brilliant engineering features which give amazing comfort and quietness, with an ingenious built-in dual-duct ventilating system that circulates fresh, outside air as you need it, Meteor is definitely "going places".

"Going places" too because of the smoothness, reserve power and economy of that V-type, 100-horsepower, 8-cylinder Meteor engine. It's mounted at just three points on cushions of rubber. Extra roomy interiors—rear seat is a full 5 feet wide.

GOING PLACES ...and NO WONDER!

Settle down and enjoy the thrill of Meteor's "observation car" visibility. Up to 3000 square inches of safety glass. And that spacious trunk has 19 cu. ft. of usable luggage space.

Wide, low, youthful styling. And oh! The deep-down comfort of Meteor's "glide-ride". Front wheels are independently suspended on large coil springs. Rear longitudinal springs are extra long. Telescopic shock absorbers front and rear.

Be miles ahead with Meteor

Hawkesbury Plays at Brownsb'g, Opening Finals

Brownsburg — Although the local industries closed down two weeks for annual vacations, the Brownsburg Baseball Club still carried on their schedule.

Last write-up in this column reported that Brownsburg had won the first game in a 3-out-of-5 semi-final series with Wendover. . . Brownsburg played again the following Sunday, August 1, in Wendover and were defeated 1-0. On August 8 Wendover returned to Brownsburg and were defeated 7-1, and last Sunday, 15th, Brownsburg revisited Wendover and won a close and hard fought game, 4-3, in an 11-inning session. Star of this game was Maurice Legault of Brownsburg, who hit a home run with one man on, to win the game.

The teams have all improved greatly, as the scores indicate, and it will be a hard fight from now on.

Hawkesbury eliminated Alfred three games straight, and on Sunday next, August 22, Hawkesbury comes to Brownsburg to start the finals. There will be home-and-home games, three-out-of-five, for the championship of "B" Section in the Papineau League.

Gatineau and Hull are in the finals of "A" Section, and the winners of these two play-offs will meet for the League title.

W.I. Event Staged For Fire Equipment At Morin Heights

Whist Party Takes on Aspect of Community Gathering

(Our District Correspondent)

Morin Heights — A "court whist" under auspices of the Women's Institute, in aid of the local fire brigade, was held at Bellevue Hotel on Wednesday evening last. The event proved a gratifying success.

The W.I. president, Mrs. Jack Watchorn, welcomed the gathering, which numbered approximately 150, and extended a vote of thanks to all who had contributed towards the fund for the purchasing of equipment — such as rubber boots, waterproof coats, helmets, etc., for the volunteer firemen. After the card game Mrs. Watchorn expressed pleasure in being able to hand in $600 to the mayor for use of the council in purchasing necessary fire equipment. At this stage, all donations were not in (over $100 having since been contributed).

Mayor Campbell gave a short address, thanking the members of the Women's Institute and all who had assisted in canvassing. Mr. W. M. Cottingham, newly elected representative to Quebec Legislature, who had been previously introduced to the gathering by the W.I. president, also spoke a few words of encouragement.

Fire Chief Henry Gillingham was then called upon, and introduced all members of the fire brigade; he congratulated them on their team-work, and stressed the fact that, for effective fire-fighting, citizens were called upon to issue an immediate alarm in the event of an outbreak of fire.

Prizes were then presented to the following winners:

Ladies—1st, Mrs. J. F. Gorman; 2nd, Mrs. Powis; consolation, Miss Rose Ann Clark.

Gentlemen — 1st, Mr. J. Cobb; 2nd Mr. W. Emmett; consolation, Mr. Fred Watchorn.

"Five Hundred"

Ladies—Miss Therese Guenette.
Gentlemen—Mr. Albert Corbeil.

Refreshments were served by the ladies in conclusion of this successful evening.

Frontiersmen to Assist At Big Golf Event

The fact that a group of Frontiersmen, special constabulary, have been engaged to assist next week-end at the Lachute Golf Club's annual open tournament, is an indication of the large attendance expected for this big sports event. Ernest Emmett, commanding officer of the Imperial Frontiersmen in Quebec, has been asked by the club management to supply six men from the corps. The Frontiersmen will be assigned to duty at the gate, at the parking ground, and assisting the marshals on the course.

Immunization Week September 12 - 18

Canada's sixth annual National Immunization Week will be observed from September 12 to 18, it has been announced by the Health League of Canada which sponsors the event in co-operation with departments of health.

The wisdom of proven immunization procedures — such as use of toxoid to prevent diphtheria and whooping cough vaccine to prevent whooping cough — is seen in a steadily decreasing annual Canadian death toll from these two diseases, but the Health League points out that the battle will not be won until there is no death toll.

The need for continuing such campaigns as National Immunization Week is seen in the fact that 360 Canadians, mostly children, died from diphtheria and whooping cough — two preventable diseases — in 1947.

Police Hold Suspect As Hotelman Attacked

Montreal — Hotel proprietor Ernest Lanthier, 64, of Grenville, victim of an attack Saturday night, was taken to the Royal Victoria Hospital on Sunday, reported to be in serious condition.

Detained was Jack Brabant, 30, of Grenville. Police said that Lanthier was advised by a waiter of a dispute in the hotel Saturday night. He approached Brabant, who was involved in the quarrel, and ordered him to go outside. Brabant is alleged to have struck Lanthier with his fist, causing the proprietor to fall to the floor. He struck his head in the fall. First taken to Dr. Kelly's Hospital in Hawkesbury, Lanthier was transferred to the Royal Victoria Hospital on Sunday afternoon.

Woollen Mills at St. Andrews Hosts To Citizen Group

Tour of Inspection at Progressive Industry

Responding to an invitation to visit the St. Andrews Woollen Mills, St. Andrews East, a party of local citizens and lady residents were conducted through the plant on Wednesday morning and were entertained to luncheon at the Riverside Hotel. Mr. J. K. McLean as president of the Company, welcomed the guests and in his address stressed the great necessity in St. Andrews for better housing and education. He enumerated the improvements already accomplished, and those planned for the coming years.

The woollen mill was established in 1939, at the beginning of the last war, by a group of St. Andrews citizens headed by Col. B. W. Evans. In June 1945 the mill was purchased by W. K. McLean, and since that time many improvements have been made to the building and machinery, with a definite object towards modernization and complete efficiency. At the present time the woollen mill employs approximately 110 people, with a payroll of roughly $200,000 a year. The plant is presently equipped for a maximum production of 12,000 yards a week of fine material for women's and children's wear, coating, suiting and dress suits.

Mayor Georges Duhamel, of St. Andrews East, thanked President McLean on behalf of the visiting group. He complimented their host and his fellow officials on the great advancement they had achieved. He expressed appreciation for the amicable relationship existing between the management and employees, and for the confidence and co-operation extended by St. Andrews Woollen Mills toward the parish.

Georges H. Héon, M.P., and W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., also voiced their warm appreciation.

Those in the party of visitors included — Mayor Duhamel, Secretary E. Leedham, V. Potter, R. Charlebois and R. Rodger, members of St. Andrews council; Messrs. George H. Héon, M.P., W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., Rev. J. A. Dulude, Rev. Dr. Wm. McMillan, Messrs. J. Duchastel, J. S. Giles, G. K. Trim, Mrs. Longtin, Messrs. T. Evans, H. K. McLean, J. K. Thompson, A. McCourt, J. Muller, C. Miller, D. Morrison, E. Nolan, R. Raymond, Miss J. Fournier and Miss J. Lalonde.

Four W.I. Branches Report Meetings

Members of Arundel W. I. branch held a very successful lawn social, which netted $200 for their general funds. At their regular monthly meeting the president, Mrs. E. A. Bulley, gave a report of the provincial convention held in June. Towels and face-cloths were donated to the B.C. flood victims and two more food parcels sent to Britain; $5 was also voted towards the County Scholarship Fund.

Frontier branch held a picnic and sports day for the children. At their meeting, motion pictures of events in the county and scenes in South Carolina, U.S.A., were shown in the interests of National and International Relations. Towels were also sent to needy B.C. flood victims.

Lakefield realized $34.89 from their food sale held in July. The roll-call at their August meeting was "Where I would go if I had a holiday". A new member was welcomed to the branch, and a parcel sent overseas. The next meeting is to be held on August 31, when an afghan will be raffled.

Pioneer branch held a successful lawn social. Their meeting featured a "Grandmothers' Night", with a sing-song of old favorite songs. A box of clothing was sent to B.C., and a 13-pound box was sent overseas. A sick member was also remembered with a gift.

ENJOYING PEOPLE

We have not cultivated the art of enjoying people. They make fascinating studies in themselves without considering the other trivial happenings that add up to make life full of joy and contentment.

NO. 1 ENEMY

Light glare is the number one enemy of the millions of motorists who drive at night. Increasing highway fatality toll is attributed to the same cause. This makes it a matter of concern not only to the individual but to the country as a whole.

Formal and Informal Scenes at New Ayers Swimming Pool

Watchman photograph.

Only a small indication of the crowd which witnessed the inaugural program last Sunday at the new Ayers swimming pool, may be gathered from the above photograph. Gilbert E. Ayers, representing the directorate, Antonio Labonté and Omer Rhéaume, representing the employee co-operation committees of Ayers Limited and Dominion Shuttle Co'y, occupy the centre of interest; Mr. Ayers, company president, is seen cutting the ribbon to declare the swimming pool officially open. Members of the clergy are seated to the right.

Dramatics Their Summer Avocation

(Special to The Watchman)

Williamsburg, Va. — A couple of Canadians — one a former Lachute boy—are improving already cordial inter-American relations in the historic city of Williamsburg. They are John Morley, of stage and radio fame, and Eugene Jousse, of McGill University, both associated with the symphonic drama, "The Common Glory," depicting early history of the United States. The show is now in its second season at the Matoaka Lake Amphitheatre, just outside Williamsburg, Virginia.

Morley, a graduate of the University of Ontario, is cast in one of the principal roles of the drama, and has been winning critical acclaim for his consistently fine performances. He is a veteran of four years' service in the U.S. Navy.

Jousse, a native of Lachute, now resident in Montreal, is a veteran of the R.C.A.F. He is taking a summer vacation from his studies at McGill by working as assistant technical director for "The Common Glory". Members of the cast have also pressed him into service as a French teacher. An accomplished linguist, he combines his stage duties with giving instruction in the French tongue to other actors.

"The Common Glory", by the Pulitzer prize-winning author Paul Green, tells the story of the birth of the American nation. The production is sponsored by the Jamestown Corporation, a non-profit organization, and has a cast of 150 experienced players.

Golf Club Project At St. Sauveur

By Jules E. Godreau

St. Sauveur — The St. Sauveur Golf Club is developing satisfactorily, according to Victor Nymark, instigator of the project. The work is being pushed to completion and grass seed will soon be planted. Mr. Nymark, who is also trustee of the Club, states that the course should be ready for next spring.

All funds to date have been solicited from supply houses in Montreal, citizens of St. Sauveur and other neighboring towns. The project is now employing from 8 to 10 local men, and Mr. Nymark has advanced a sum of money to continue the work.

In this connection a benefit dance is being organized and will take place at the Nymark Lodge on the evening of September 4, the Saturday previous to Labor Day. Tickets will be on sale through the help of local hotels, inns and merchants.

Maurice Nadeau, another sports enthusiast who has displayed keen interest in developing the tourist resources of St. Sauveur Valley, is also helping a great deal towards the achievement of the Club.

This development follows the exploiting of St. Sauveur's ski business in winter, as a logical asset to local business the year round.

Linking up with newspaper publicity arranged by International Screen Productions, Jules E. Godreau, local publicist, is attempting to interest this company in producing a ski film at St. Sauveur next winter.

Colorful Scene at Gladiolus Show

Lachute, Brownsburg, St. Andrews Growers Represented

Hawkesbury — On Saturday afternoon last the Hawkesbury Town Hall was decked out in an array of color seldom seen in these parts, as the first annual gladiolus show was held by the Hawkesbury and District Gladiolus Society.

Entries were on display from growers in Lachute, Brownsburg and St. Andrews, Que., Vankleek Hill, Cassburn, L'Orignal, as well as from Hawkesbury, Ont., and competition in the various classes for prizes donated by local merchants was keen and closely contested.

Mrs. J. T. MacDonald of Vankleek Hill was the Grand Sweepstakes winner, with 11 first, nine second, and five third prizes for a total of 96 points, closely followed by R. Sherman, Hawkesbury, with eight firsts, seven seconds, three thirds, and L. W. Hammond, Lachute, with seven firsts, four seconds and five thirds. Mrs. MacDonald also took the Ladies' Sweepstakes prize awarded to the lady obtaining the most points in the show, and also the Amateur Sweepstakes for most points in the amateur classes.

The Grand Champion ribbon for best spike in the show was won by S. Mode, of Vankleek Hill, with a beautiful spike of "Peggy Farrel" showing eight florets open and perfectly placed. Merrill Mode won the champion ribbon in the single spike class with "Sir Galahad", and S. Mode carried off the prize for the best seedling.

In the three-spike division, A. B. Ogilvie, of Lachute, won the best-in-class prize with three excellent spikes of "Margaret Jean".

The best basket ribbon was taken by Mrs. J. T. MacDonald, Vankleek Hill, and the best vase exhibit was that of A. Sherman, Hawkesbury.

Many of the people who visited the show were impressed by the variety of color and high quality of blooms exhibited, and by the beauty of the various displays presented by S. Mode, Bonnie Brae Farms, Vankleek Hill; A. B. Ogilvie, Lachute Nurseries, Lachute; and P. L. Preising, Perry Lee Nursery, St. Eustache. Other winners from Lachute, Brownsburg and St. Andrews were T. Iddon, with three first, three second, and three third ribbons in the three-spike division; A. Steere, with two firsts and a third; G. Todd; with one first, one second, and two thirds; Rev. W. McMillan, with one first, three seconds, and two thirds; Mrs. L. Wilson, with first in the 12-spike display section.

The judging was done by Mr. McIntosh and Mr. Seale, commercial growers, of Ottawa. A. B. Ogilvie, of Lachute, judged the basket and decorative classes.

The Hawkesbury and District Gladiolus Society are looking forward to holding their show next year in Lachute.

Robbery Aboard On Yacht Cruise

Aimé Trudel, of Lachute Mills, suffered misfortune on the last lap of his recent holiday cruise to Kingston via the Rideau route. The only night he and his family vacated their motor launch, at Wendover (where they visited the home of his father-in-law, in Plantagenet) thieves broke the door of the cabin and stole some valuable equipment. Trudel estimates his loss at $225, including a camera, powerful binoculars, a radio, flashlights, a luminous clock, a gasoline lamp and stove, and his complete tool chest.

At Wendover on the Ottawa River, Trudel's boat was moored at a summer resort which is generally used as a public landing. An outboard motor was stolen from another craft the same night.

Trudel reported his loss to the Ontario Provincial Police.

Oddity in Eggs

Oddities in eggs are reported in various shapes, weights and sizes, but here's something new. At the farm of W. H. Hume, Hill Head, a Barred Rock pullet has won distinction early in her laying career, having produced a double-barrelled egg — two complete medium-sized eggs in which the shells are joined together side by side.

TOURISTS SPEND LESS

So far as volume is concerned, Pembroke district is enjoying the heaviest tourist business in its history. But while the number of people travelling is substantially greater, reports indicate that tourists are not spending money so lavishly as they did last year and the year before.

Inaugural of New Swimming Pool By Ayers Industries A Gala Event

Notable Example, New Spirit of Co-operation Seen in Management-Employee Relationships

DIRECTORS PROVIDED MATERIALS AND EQUIPMENT, MILL WORKERS GAVE 35,000 HOURS IN CONSTRUCTION

Another high-spot in the fostering of good employer-employee relations at the Ayers industries, was witnessed last Sunday afternoon with the official opening of the new swimming pool, which is to form the hub of a really ambitious undertaking, the Ayers Recreation Centre. The whole town of Lachute shared in the pleasure of this occasion. Seating accommodation had been arranged for hundreds of guests from among the local citizenry. The mills community was represented in full strength, and the affair, favored with warm weather and brilliant sunshine, had all the aspects of a gala function. The crowd was estimated to include between 2,500 and 3,000 people.

Formalities included the blessing of the swimming pool. The Rev. Léo Clément, priest of l'Immaculée Conception, a newly formed parish to the west and north of the mill properties, performed the benediction rite. The president of Ayers Limited and the Dominion Shuttle Company Ltd., Gilbert E. Ayers, then cut the ribbon to declare the natatorium officially open. Standing on each side of the president were the chairmen of the industrial co-operation committees in these two plants, Antonio Labonté and Omer Rhéaume, respectively, with whom the president shook hands.

These proceedings were ably introduced by Marc Carriere, director and official of the Ayers industries, who addessed the large gathering over the public address system.

"This swimming pool is the hub of our Recreational Centre" said Mr. Carriere describing the project. "It is already surrounded by two tennis courts, a soft-ball diamond, a children's playground, a skating rink, and in summertime a badminton and volley-ball court — all of which are centred by a beautiful open air restaurant.

"The creation of this big recreation centre is the outcome of efficient collaboration between employers and employees, after a number of round-table discussions between the directors of the Company and delegates of our Industrial Co-operation Committee, where it was decided to build this swimming pool for the enjoyment of all the employees and their families.

"All materials, including the filtering machine, were contributed by the Company, and to balance this, approximately 300 of our employees voluntarily gave of their time (35,000 hours of work). The employees' committee is now responsible for administration of this Centre, and profits taken are used for the caretaker's salary, the swimming instructor's salary, and for the further development of the Centre.

"The directors of Ayers Limited are proud to be associated with this Private Enterprise, and sincerely hope that many other employers and employees will follow this example, in order that it may be proven to those who believe that only Socialism can bring about prosperity and welfare.

"We have no doubt that Private Enterprise, directed by men imbued with Christian principles, can give our people a real and lasting economic stability, and create a happiness far in excess of that which might be offered by a Socialist or Communist program."

The spectators were then entertained with a varied program of aquatic exercises, featured by a group from La Palastre Nationale, Montreal. These talented young men and young ladies, under direction of Louis Choquette and Miss Denise Valois, were presented by Roger Latourelle as master of ceremonies. They performed clever rhythmic and precision routines, classic diving, life saving and varied acts, concluding with comic dives. A water polo game was also staged, and keen interest in the entire show was evidenced by the spectators of all ages.

The visiting swimmers were later entertained by Marc Carriere at the Lachute Golf Club.

Daily Recreation Spot

At the new Ayers swimming pool a full-time life-guard and instructor, Tony Fouriezos, has already achieved fine work in teaching dozens of youngsters to swim and dive, since the pool was recently made available to the public.

The natatorium, with its 105 by 45-foot tank of crystal-clear water, presents an inviting scene these hot summer days, and it is a spot patronized by hundreds of youngsters and teen-agers any day of the week. From a depth of 2½ to 3 feet, it slopes to 11 feet beneath the diving boards. The filtering, chlorination and circulating equipment is below ground level. A log-finished pavilion situated at the east side contains men's and women's dressing rooms, showers and lavatories. A refreshment pavilion in similar style balances the layout on the west side, while there are two stands of seats for spectators at special events. The entire scene is in good taste, and when the surrounding terrain is completed, will combine beauty and utility in a site to provide immeasurable pleasure to the people of the district.

Rotary Speaker Discusses Subject Of Meteorology

Brownsburg — Dr. Warren Beasley, of Hawkesbury, a research chemist with the Canadian International Paper Company, was guest speaker at the Rotary meeting last week. Introduced by Rotarian Frank Burnett, Dr. Beasley gave as his subject, "Why Does It Rain?"

The weather is a subject of importance, as it affects so many people, remarked the speaker. The large fraternity connected with aviation depends on favorable forecasts. Railroads, shipping and bus services watch the weather reports, as their routine can be completely disorganized at times by the elements. Telegraph, telephone and electricity services can be affected to the point of paralyzation. For instance, due to rain clouds passing over the sun, in cities millions of electric lights will be immediately switched on. Power then has to be distributed as too heavy loads will lessen the power available. Other occupations greatly concerned with meteorology are the farmers, whose crops can be affected favorably or unfavorably by weather; construction companies, amusement parks, excursion promoters, department stores and restaurant owners. All are affected one way or another by the weather—hence, this all-important subject, "Why Does It Rain?"

Air is the primary factor in change of temperature — atmosphere affected by the sun, the earth and water. Trace of atmosphere can be found 200 miles above the earth. Hot air rises, and the transfer of heat is influenced by wind direction.

The equatorial region of the earth has rain every day. The warm, moist equatorial winds meet there where the earth receives the largest amount of sun, and as the hot air rises, it expands, becoming cool, and cannot hold water vapour — thus causing rain. . . Temperatures are made more uniform, affecting regions according to the direction of the winds. The spin of the earth, and the prevailing winds influence the direction of the air as it sinks down to the earth's surface.

Forty-eight hours is the limit of reasonable accuracy for weather forecasts, and even these cannot be depended upon too reliably, due to atmospheric changes beyond the control of mere human beings.

In a subject of such extensive character, Dr. Beasley found it difficult to condense his discourse to everyday essential highlights. However, his remarks, liberally punctuated with humor, proved extremely interesting. . . The speaker was thanked by Rotarian Charles Moseley.

Hotel Employee Buried at Grenville

The funeral of James Griffin, 69-year-old employee of the Long Sault Hotel at Grenville, was held Tuesday of last week at the Parish Church in that village, followed by interment at the Catholic Cemetery. The late Jim Griffin, a genial figure about the premises where he also made his home, was stricken at an early hour Sunday morning and died before arrival of a physician. Dr. A. R. Coté of Brownsburg, as district coroner, pronounced death due to natural causes.

According to Georges Lessard, owner of the hotel, Griffin had been in his employ for the past four months. He had no relatives in this country, but the hotel proprietor, who valued the man's services, communicated with authorities at his former parish in Ireland.

Gatineau LINES

Jet Propelled Bait

The ultimate fishing lure for the lazy man seems to have been developed in the form of a small minnow-shaped gadget powered by a small battery with an electric motor and a water-jet propulsion system. The motor keeps the minnow moving around in much the same manner as it would if cast, or used on a trolling line. The result seems to be that on hot days the fishing fan can have all the fun of trolling without raising any blisters on his hands since jet propulsion does the work. There is no authenticated record yet, however, of how many big fellows have been fooled by the novel lure.

For Better Tempers

A small magnetizing unit which has recently come on the market is said to be able to help a householder keep a happy home together while he keeps his temper and his thumbs intact. The idea of the unit is that it will magnetize screws and nails which will then remain in position while being driven into those out-of-the-way and awkward places. Hammers, wrenches, pliers and other small tools can also be magnetized to simplify repair work or small building jobs. Of course, if the lady of the house wishes to magnetize her scissors for taking up pins and needles, this can be done too; the unit can be plugged into any electrical outlet, and can be geared to demagnetize as well as magnetize.

Longest Phone System

The longest civilian telephone hook-up ever made across the North American Continent was opened recently, when the first dial phone system in Alaska was connected with Chicago and Washington, D.C. The overall length of the circuit is 4,840 miles. Scientists, incidentally, say that telephone wires hum because the wind causes them to vibrate and produce sound waves similar to those made by playing on strings of a musical instrument such as the violin or guitar.

Hay Fever Cure?

Victims of hay fever will be interested in the development of a new and compact room conditioner. The 15-pound conditioner filters and washes the air in the room and can remove up to 95% of ragweed pollen in the first hour of operation — all of which should be good news if you can obtain one of these gadgets, and if your hay fever is caused by ragweed.

ENGLISH JOURNEY

By WALTER R. LEGGE

ARTICLE 4
The Flowering Countryside

In a previous article I referred to our first breath taking view of the English countryside in spring.

England at this time is like one vast flower garden for be it ever so humble, there is no place without its flower garden, and just now they are a glorious sight.

While most homes have a vegetable garden, the flower plots are not forgotten. I do not believe that they are kept up in a spirit of "keeping up with the Jones", but on account of the English love of beautiful things.

Most houses have a flower garden in front, but in cities and other places where the houses have been built on the edge of the sidewalks the flower gardens are at the rear.

Early builders seemed to have had a passion for driveways through a building to a courtyard in the rear, in the manner of the early inns. Usually these openings reveal a glorious vista of flowers in the courtyard.

At the middle of May the flowers in England are just at their best. The tulips are almost over but there are vast arrays of Brompton stocks, mostly white, and blue narcissus, daffodils, wall flowers, auriculas, aubretia, cowslips, lilies of the valley, candytuft, columbine, lupins and many others. In the larger shrubs there are rhododendrums, hawthorn, or May, azaleas, broom, roses, etc., while the trees in flower include Judas tree, laburnum, lilac, and chestnuts. The chestnuts are particularly fine.

Climbing shrubs in bloom include roses, clematis, and wistaria.

The laburnum and wistaria are not seen in Eastern Canada. The laburnum trees vary in size from small ones of 6 or 8 feet in height up to good sized trees. At this season they are covered with yellow flowers that hang down from the branches in great clusters from 6 to 10 or more inches in length.

The wistaria vines are trained over the walls of houses and have similar pendant branches of flowers only mauve in colour.

In the woods and fields blue bells grow wild and in such profusion that a bouquet can be picked in a few minutes.

Along many of the roads the high hedges of hawthorn or May are covered with white flowers.

The broom is a wild shrub which has yellow blossoms. The only part of Canada that I have seen it in, is on the Pacific coast.

Spring is the best time to visit England and the best way to see it is from the top of a double-deck bus. There are few places left in England that are not reached by some bus line and most of them are two-deckers.

The motion on the upper deck of one of these buses is something like that experienced in riding on a camel, but it is worth it. There are a surprising number of high hedges, stone or brick walls lining the sides of the roads, but the passenger on the upper deck of a bus can look over most of the hedges and walls and see the beautiful gardens back of them. It is a pity that so many beautiful spots are hidden behind these walls.

With such a profusion of flowers it is only natural that there are bunches of fresh cut flowers in nearly every home, but the strange part is that there are so many flower sellers.

There are in some places, especially in the larger centres, not only florists in stores, but push carts loaded with cut flowers, and also corner flower sellers. One would think there would be no market for flowers with so many at every home.

Then there are evergreen shrubs, many of them cut and trained into fantastic shapes and designs. Most of these evergreens are of a darker hue and bushier than those in Canada. Many of them are yews, the English variety being an evergreen of very slow growth, but living to a great age, 300 or 400 year old trees being common. They can be clipped into all kinds of designs.

They are frequently seen in churchyards where they impart a graceful solemnity. Some of the churchyards I have seen in which they form an impressive part are at Stoke Poges, Beaconsfield, Charlesbury, Dorchester, Bunford, Waddesdon, Chalfont, St. Giles, etc.

With such a widespread mass of flower gardens it is no wonder that there are numerous songbirds adding to the glories of the countryside.

Their songs fill the air and there is one that I had never heard before — the cuckoo. I heard my first one in Stoke Poges churchyard, but since then have heard them in many places, and there is one that tries to wake me up every morning at Amersham.

The most enjoyable way to see English countryside is to stay in some centre, such as Oxford, Aylesbury, or some smaller place and make daily excursions into the countryside to interesting and historic spots.

The buses do not travel fast and every little hamlet is interesting and beautiful, and has some ancient landmark worth seeing and visiting.

In the smaller places there are many thatched roofs on the old houses and barns. They are most picturesque. I am told that a good thatched roof is about 18 inches thick, is perfectly waterproof, lasts from 15 to 20 years, and makes a building cool in summer and warm in winter.

It is not such a difficult job to do as many people think, and a cousin of mine, at Shefford, has recently replaced a thatched roof himself.

The only drawback to these thatched roofs is that they harbour rats and mice who find the straw to their liking.

While some of the more pretentious gardens are not yet back to their pre-war elegance, they are really wonderful to see.

I visited Blenheim castle at Woodstock, one of the largest and finest in England. Before the war 60 gardeners were employed all the time. The wall around the grounds is twenty miles around.

Most of these large homes gave up part of the buildings for war work and at Blenheim there are still a number of shacks built by the Ministry of Works, that spoil the view of the castle.

This castle which is the home of the Duke of Marlborough, covers three acres and is set in grounds which cover 2,500 acres.

The avenues and trees are said to have been set out to represent a plan of the Battle of Blenheim with a tree for each soldier that fell. One avenue stretches for two miles from the palace.

There are Italian gardens, flower gardens, rock gardens, and others making a gorgeous show place.

On another day I visited Hampton Court Palace. The gardens here may not be as fine as before the war, but are beautiful today and must cover thousands of acres. There were immense beds of tulips, and many other flowers.

Hampton Court was built in the reign of Henry VIII by Cardinal Wolsey, who had a household staff of 500 and 280 richly furnished rooms were always prepared to receive guests.

Cardinal Wolsey turned Hampton Court over to Henry VIII who brought there as his queens, Anne Boleyn, Jane Seymour, Anne of Cleves, Catherine Howard and Catherine Parr.

Other kings and queens who lived or held court here were Edward VI, Mary, Elizabeth, James I, Anne, Charles I, Charles II and George II. The only reason that it escaped destruction during Oliver Cromwell's time is that he had it retained for his own use. In Queen Victoria's time nearly 1,000 rooms were made into 45 separate apartments granted by the sovereign to widows or children of distinguished servants of the Crown.

One of the most famous features of Hampton Court is the Maze, but one does not need to go there to get lost. It is quite easy to do that in the gardens and grounds.

Hampton Court Palace is now preserved as an "ancient monument and historic building" by the Ministry of Works and it is visited by thousands daily.

From Hampton Court boat trips may be taken on the River Thames in one direction to Windsor and in the other to Kingston, Richmond and London.

The river is bordered by lovely homes and gardens most of them quite modern in appearance.

Another delightful day was spent at Windsor Castle, but that will be dealt with in another article.

The next to disappear?

The Big-horn has been hunted out of much of its former range in the United States. In Canada too, the Rocky Mountain Sheep is decreasing because of over-hunting and outright poaching; a set of its magnificent horns is a prized trophy. If we in Canada are to preserve this stately "sentinel of the rimrock" we must do all we can to see that conservation measures are strictly observed.

The Carolina Paroquet was slaughtered just for its brightly coloured feathers. It is now extinct, a bitter lesson to us to preserve what we can of our vanishing wildlife.

Youth Recreation

THE FINE NEW swimming pool inaugurated last Sunday at the Ayers recreation site, reminds one of the paradox that exists in many rural centres, and of which Lachute has hitherto been typical. In surroundings which are apparently ideal — including lakes and streams and sandy beaches — too often there is no immediate spot where children can swim in safety and under reliable supervision. Happily, this deficiency is now remedied as far as Lachute is concerned.

The simple act of a young boy in New York recently attracted some attention throughout the United States and Canada. As a winner of an award for "good sportsmanship" he was to get a free two weeks' vacation in the country. But he declined the award. He had been to the country the previous season and had returned to his home much bored by the experience. In New York, he could do everything they did at camp, he declared. Summing up his feelings, he said, "In the city we play more ball, swim more often and don't get up so early".

Canada Can Give A Lead

"THE BUSINESS of the world is the business of every Canadian", said one of our Members of Parliament, a former House leader, recently. He referred to the two ideologies striving for power in the "cockpit of Europe" and expressed the belief that the survival of Canada's democracy depends upon her giving a lead to the world and getting away from any aloofness.

"We must speak in a united voice and be ready to throw all our weight into the international picture to back up our principles". Here is sound thinking that should penetrate the minds and hearts of Canadians everywhere, and make us realize that the fundamental problem today is not concerned with systems of government but with a world-wide conflict of ideologies.

Where do we find a solution to this problem? . . . Men of good will everywhere know that moral standards and the Golden Rule are the only sure foundation for personal and national life. They find it clearly expressed in the overarching ideology of Moral Re-Armament. This ideology goes deeper than the political or economic systems over which men disagree. Its foundation is moral and spiritual conviction upon which all men of good will can agree.

It is a uniting ideology which is proving consistently and on a world scale that men and women of every nation, class, creed, background and point of view, can unite and fight for what is best for their country.

In this unity lies the one hope of humanity and every Canadian can be part of it.

"Certain Group of Motorists"

A SURVEY of highway accidents in Quebec made during July and the first half of August shows that the majority of traffic mishaps involve what is described as a "certain group of motorists."

"Investigation of accidents that have happened on curved sections of highways during the past six weeks shows in all cases that the cars and trucks involved were travelling faster than was safely permissible on the sections of highway involved", states Arthur Gaboury, general manager of Quebec Safety League. "Upsets on curves mean too high a speed, and there is a certain group of drivers who consistently misjudge their speed on curved or winding sections of highway."

Regarding the increase in the number of accidents involving children, the Safety League warns that most of these result from "lack of foresight" by certain drivers.

It is too bad that all car and truck drivers are not married men. If they were, there would be few child accidents, because motorists would understand that a child is liable to dart into the street without a second's warning. Children's lives are being snuffed out because many drivers do not or will not realize that youngsters can be depended upon to do the unexpected. It is timely to impress this fact as school-days draw near again.

Besides high speed, over-indulgence in liquor may be blamed for many accidents. The false sense of confidence which alcohol creates, generally results in an accident. Alcohol breeds a certain indifference towards other highway users which commands a costly toll.

Despite continuous appeals from safety organizations and police, traffic accidents are increasing. It is noted that the Safety League is preparing 100 different types of booklets containing hints for safer driving, and 10,000 booklet will be distributed in Montreal and other centres of this province.

THE THEORY that it is cheaper to live in the country is rapidly going by the boards. When services rendered are taken into account, there cannot be much difference between taxes paid by an urban and suburban dweller.

Claims Antiquated Road Machinery In Use, Highway 31

St. Michel de Wentworth

The Editor

Dear Sir:

Your paper is a valuable medium for information regarding this County. For this reason I am calling your attention to the farce which is being enacted daily on Route 31. I refer to the old type of airport scraper which is now being used on this route.

This scraper is known as the "Jumping Bug" and "Washboard Sally". It works fairly well in fine gravel or sand, but on a rocky road like Route 31 it pushes all the gravel to the roadside and as it jumps from stone to stone, makes a washboard.

On one of my trips to Lachute recently I saw a fine new modern-type road scraper in use. I asked the driver if it was to be used continually. He said he thought so. However, today on my way to Lachute I see that "Washboard Sally" is back again and busy remaking the washboard which the regular machine had begun to correct.

It would be far better to use a drag behind a truck than the "Jumping Bug". No one can travel this Route 31 and see the fine gravel piled up at the roadsides without wondering why such antiquated machinery is in use.

We are told to practice safety, and much money is spent each year by the Province. How can Route 31 be safe when the provincial road machine is making washboard and taking the fine gravel off the road as fast as it is hauled on? Perhaps the road authorities would take a trip over Route 31 and see for themselves what is being done — fine gravel, piles three feet wide and two feet high on each side of the washboard road, are the order of the day on most of this road.

Quebec is fond of antiques, but I doubt very much if the most rabid antiquarian wants high license fees used to buy and put in use antiquated road machinery.

Yours sincerely,

Ulysses L. Prevost.

Manitoba Students Get Five Choices

Revised High School Curriculum Said Most Radical in Canada

Winnipeg (CP) — High school scholars in Manitoba this fall will embark on a revitalized curriculum recently announced, which provincial department of education officials say embodies the most radical changes made by any province in Canada.

Effective at the start of the next school year for Grade X, the new program allows a choice of one of five distinct courses. At present students are only allowed to take one "general" course with addition of some "optional" subjects.

Under the new plan, students will choose one of the five courses before entering Grade X. The courses are: general, commercial, home economics, agriculture, and industrial. The general course leads to university.

However, all courses have four basic subjects: English, mathematics, science and social studies.

The new set-up is based on a four-year program for average students. This can be cut to three years by good students.

The two objects of the change, according to Dr. R. O. MacFarlane, deputy minister of education, are:

1. To increase the "holding power" of high schools and prevent students from leaving school because of lack of interest.
2. To use technical subjects as a means for general education.

Aptitude tests now are being conducted with students who are entering Grade X this fall to aid them in their choice of courses.

The cruellest lies are often told in silence. Robert Louis Stevenson

"I met the nicest man this morning"

● This morning Mrs. Jones opened a savings account at a neighbourhood branch of The Bank of Nova Scotia. She was a little timid when she entered the bank. But a very efficient man made it so easy for her.

This man was the teller. Quickly he explained the simplicity of making deposits. "Just let me have your signature, Mrs. Jones", he said. "Now here is your pass-book. It is a copy of the Bank's own record of your deposits." It was all done in a few minutes. But Mrs. Jones felt she had met a friend.

Each man and woman on the staffs of The Bank of Nova Scotia's more than 300 branches is trained to make banking service both efficient and pleasant. Whatever your banking needs you will find in The Bank of Nova Scotia men and women who can help you transact your business the way you like it.

Challenging Message at Pentecostal Gathering

The third Pentecostal meeting in Lachute Auditorium was a continued success, despite the heat of last week-end. Although the guest musical talent from Montreal failed to arrive, both evangelists, Harold Grant and Norman Schlarbaum, stated that "God is not dependent on mankind or circumstances to make a service a spiritual success." This fact was proven to be true as the service continued until it reached a climax in the message from the "Word of the Living God".

The singing of the standard hymns was led by Harold Grant, with Earl Morrison at the piano. Before playing his cornet solo "The Old Rugged Cross", Mr. Grant stated that Rev. George Bennard's gospel song had been chosen as America's favorite hymn in a recent radio survey. Norman Schlarbaum sang the challenging appeal contained in Rev. A. H. Ackley's hymn, "Take Up Thy Cross and Follow Me". The congregation thrilled to the testimonies of Mrs. Towe, of Vankleek Hill, and of two Christian businessmen, Mr. J. Haward, of Montreal, and Mr. Towe.

The congregation relived the trial of Jesus Christ before Pilate as Evangelist Schlarbaum read the account compiled from the four Gospels of the New Testament. The evangelist's dramatic message revealed how Pilate tried time after time to avoid making a personal decision regarding Christ. "Pontius Pilate was unable to evade the inevitable Christ, whom we must all face", the evangelist declared, "either in time as our Lord and Savior, or in eternity as our judge". A unique feature of the message was the presentation of six prophecies predicted centuries before Christ, which were fulfilled during His trial. These miracles of fulfilled prophecy are one of the eternal evidences that the Bible is the inspired Word of God. The evangelist, after presenting the full legal story in connection with Christ's trial, told his audience to act as judges, even as Pilate did, and decide personally the age-old question, "What then shall I do with Jesus which is called the Christ"?

Vacation Bible School Meets Notable Success

The closing exercises of the Daily Vacation Bible School, which has been conducted during the past two weeks at Lachute Baptist Church, will be held on Friday night at 7.45 o'clock in the church auditorium. All parents and friends are invited to attend this closing session, when the handiwork of the children will be on display.

There has been a splendid interest in the school this year, with an average daily attendance of 60 children, and an aggregate attendance of around 600.

The school began each day with a helpful worship period, with the singing of simple gospel hymns and choruses, an illustrated sermon, or object talk, with a special feature on certain days — including Bible stories such as "David and Goliath", "Daniel in the Lions' Den" on special recordings with sound effects. Illustrating the day's lesson in their work book, and Bible memory work period, were next on the school program. Following recess the girls were busy at various types of handicraft, while the boys were occupied with woodworking.

Pastor Britton and his staff of workers feel that the school of 1948 has been a big success. All the children who attended are to be given a picnic by the Bible School staff on Saturday morning.

LABOR DAY—A HOLIDAY FROM LABOR

Labor Day is a day of deep significance for all of us. On the first Monday of each September, as we pause and take a holiday from our daily work, we can look back with pride on the accomplishments of our people. From their labors has resulted this abundant land of freedom . . . this Canada of ours! Our pride in our homeland is justified . . . and will continue to be so if we strive at all times to follow the principles of "Good Citizenship".

You can help this public service effort. Make a note of some of the little things which, in your opinion, contribute to Good Citizenship.

The Best banking system

CANADA has a banking system which, for efficiency and dependability, is unsurpassed in the world. Competitive, flexible, adaptable to the changing needs of the country, it serves Canada's producers, her industries, her traders—and it serves your personal needs, too.

No customer has to fear for the privacy of his regular banking transactions. This privacy is completely free of political pressures or considerations—it is rooted in Canadian banking practice and tradition.

Contrast this Canadian way with conditions in lands where freedom is denied—where every bank is a political tool, every banker a State official! State monopoly of banking, proposed by Socialists here, would fasten the Marxist foreign pattern on you.

Late-Summer Weddings

Ceremony in Historic Church at Cushing

Drew - Canning

The marriage of Margaret Grace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Canning, of Cushing, Que., to Mr. George Thomas Drew, son of the late Thomas Drew and of Mrs. Drew, of Westmount, took place at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon in St. Mungo's Church, Cushing, the Rev. W. B. Rosborough, of Lachute, officiating, assisted by the Rev. G. Moore, of Cushing. Miss Alice Davidson played the wedding music and Mrs. John Murphy, of Sudbury, Ont., cousin of the bride, sang "The Lord's Prayer" during the signing of the register. Baskets of pink and white gladioli and hydrangea were used to decorate, and the guest pews were marked with clusters of pink gladioli tied with white ribbon.

The bride, given away by her father, wore a gown of white imported silk lace over satin fashioned on princess lines, the bodice having a heart-shaped neckline and sleeves ending in points over her hands and the skirt falling into a train. Her full-length heirloom veil of tulle illusion was held by a halo of satin and lace and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink and white gladioli blossoms and roses.

Mrs. S. Longmore, of Westmount, as matron-of-honor, and Miss Grace McMahon and Miss Audrey Brown, cousin of the bride, both of Lachute, as bridesmaids, wore frocks of imported lace over taffeta, Mrs. Longmore being in pink, Miss McMahon in blue and Miss Brown in yellow. They wore flowers of matching lace in their hair, with shoulder-length veils, and carried nosegays of multicolor sweet peas.

Little Miss Doreen Hartley and little Miss Marion Elliott, as flower-girls, wore smocked frocks of taffeta — Doreen in baby blue, and Marion in pink. They wore bandeaux of ribbon to match their frocks, and carried small nosegays.

Mr. S. Longmore, of Westmount, was best man for Mr. Drew and the ushers were Mr. Lloyd Canning and Mr. Keith Canning, cousins of the bride.

Mrs. Canning, the bride's mother, was gowned in blue crepe and wore a hat of navy blue felt, with a feather mount, navy blue accessories, and a corsage bouquet of Talisman roses.

Mrs. Drew, mother of the bridegroom, was dressed in grey and fuchsia printed crepe with a black hat and accessories, and a corsage bouquet of red roses.

The reception was held at the Stone Hall, where pink and white gladioli and hydrangea were used as decorations, the bride's table, centred with the wedding cake, being arranged with sweet peas.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Drew left by motor for Toronto, Niagara Falls, Buffalo, and Nufane, Vt., the bride travelling in a suit of dusty rose wool under a powder blue wool topcoat, and wearing a hat of dusty rose feathers, black accessories and a corsage bouquet of pink orchids.

Bride's Father, Former Rector Here, Officiates

Halford - LeCras

The marriage of Ruth Marjorie, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Winter C. LeCras, of Montreal, formerly of Lachute, to Mr. Charles Norman Halford, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Halford, of Westmount, took place Saturday at 4 p.m. in St. Paul's Church, Cote des Neiges, the Rev. Mr. LeCras, father of the bride, officiating. Mr. Frank Bennett played the wedding music, and pink snapdragons, white larkspur, gladioli and summer flowers, with palms and ferns, decorated the church.

The bride, given away by her brother-in-law, Mr. Lea M. Read, wore ivory satin, the fitted bodice having a heart-shaped neckline and long sleeves and the full skirt falling into a slight train. Her finger-tip length veil of tulle illusion was held by a coronet of satin and she carried a bouquet of red gladioli blossoms. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Ruth Morrison, as maid-of-honor, and Miss Margaret Keyton, as bridesmaid, wore frocks of taffeta with fitted bodices, fastened with tiny buttons, and bouffant skirts. Miss Morrison was dressed in apricot yellow and Miss Keyton in aqua. They wore small hats of taffeta to match their frocks, trimmed with clusters of Shasta daisies, and their bouquets were of the same flowers.

Mr. Tony Chatterton was best man for Mr. Halford and the ushers were Mr. William Fingerland and Mr. Gordon Baines, brother-in-law of the bride.

The reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, where the bride's table, centered with the wedding cake, was arranged with pink sweet peas and pink candles in candelabra.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Halford left for the Maritimes, the bride travelling in a suit of beige wool crepe, under a matching three-quarter length coat, with red and white accessories and a corsage bouquet of gardenias.

Hawkesb'y Wins First Play-Off Game in Finals With Brownsburg

Brownsburg baseball team was beaten last Sunday by the score of 8-4, and it was the concensus of the fans that the best team won.

If Brownsburg players tighten up they are still in a position to take the series, but with the loose type of ball played Sunday, with 10 errors for the team, Brownsburg was fortunate to have held the score as it was.

There were two casualties in the game, both from pitched balls. Shortstop Roy Maude was the more fortunate of the two, as he was hit on the arm, but Drouin from Hawkesbury suffered a fractured skull. Both the Club and fans wish him a speedy recovery from this unfortunate accident.

Next Sunday Brownsburg plays in Hawkesbury, and if they get back to the type of ball they have been playing all season, they should have no difficulty in winning.

Line-up for last Sunday's game comprised — R. Prud'homme C, M. Vallee P, M. Thompson P, F. St. Onge 1B, M. Legault 2B, R. Maude SS, J. Murdoch SS, R. Summers 3B, K. Simpson LF, F. Leroux CF, B. Petley RF.

"ALONG THE FAIRWAYS"

Lachute Golf Club Special Commentary

Catching up on the news — the ladies say that Friday, August 27 is sandwich-making day at the club house, afternoon and evening. Calling all lady members!

A couple of weeks ago Dorothy Rigg and Jean McIndoe won second low net in the two-ball foursome at Islesmere. Eight of the lady members played at Rosemere Monday, August 23, and won out in the Inter-Club Shield play, two points up.

The Ayers Cup is still being played. In the 27-hole final of the Drew Trophy, Bobby Ogilvie defeated Betty Milne, 8 and 7.

In the two-ball foursome played Wednesday, August 11, Fleur-Ange Carrière and Cécile Ethier were the winners. Mrs. Hilda Elliot won the three club competition on Wednesday, August 18.

That is just about that, except for the Hospital Fund Tournament a week ago Sunday, August 15, when first low gross was won by Fernande Valois and first low net by Shirley Leggett.

• • •

There have been some notable barrages from the heavy artillery of late. Jim Findlayson tossed off a casual 73 in his semi-final round of the Ayers Cup, making Hugh's 76 a wasted effort. We understand that only a few cliff-hanging putts kept Jim out of the 60's.

Jack Ogilvie had a 73 against Art Lapp in the other bracket of the semi-finals, which brings Jack and Jim together in the finals. Jack also has a 75 at Islesmere to his credit, played last week — a fine effort over that course.

Laurier Carrière tied for low gross at the St. Eustache open tournament, August 9. He had equalled this performance at the P.Q.G.A. field day at Beaconsfield July 29. Laurier wasn't far off in the Quebec Open at Islesmere, on August 13, turning in a 77 on one of his eighteens.

Jack Reade won the Jones Cup Sunday, August 22, defeating Royal Raymond, 4 and 3.

Congratulstions to our club pro, Jack Archer, who played sound golf at the St. Margaret's tournament, to come through with a tie for second.

• • •

In the men's section of the Hospital Fund Tournament, Sunday, August 15, results were as follows:
First low net, Royal Raymond 61.
First low gross, Jack Reade 61.
Second low net, L. Martin 65.
Second low gross, J. Findlayson 80.

Men's Thursday night Ball Sweepstakes, August 19 —
First low gross, Art Lapp and Laurier Carrière, tied 72.
First low net, Mozart Carrière 59.
Second low net, Ossie Carrière 62.
Third low net, Jules Lamarche 64.

• • •

The big news, of course, is the Tournament come Saturday and Sunday, August 28-29. These should be two large days in the history of the Lachute Golf Club, and we'll see you all there, along with such famous personages as "Bobby" Locke and "Babe" Didrikson Zaharias.
