Star Performers Expected Entrants In Lachute Golf Open, 10th Annual

Two Preceding Events at Ottawa Clubs Augur Keen Contest, Pros and Amateurs

The $1,000 Open Tournament this coming Sunday will be the 10th annual event at Lachute Golf and Country Club. No exhibition performance (as in previous years) is slated — the recent visit of the Bauer Sisters here being a high spot of the season in this line — but it is expected, nevertheless, that the big one-day event will attract an unparalleled entry of top-ranking professionals and amateurs from Quebec, Ontario and probably farther afield. Sound justification for this hope is seen in two big meets immediately preceding the Lachute Open—namely, the Quebec Open (36 holes) scheduled for Friday at Ottawa Hunt and Golf Club, and the Lord Alexander Trophy for amateurs at the Royal Ottawa on Saturday. It is reasonably assured that the major participants in these two contests, so close to Lachute, will take in their stride the Lachute Open which follows immediately after.

It is stated by the local club management that Bob Gray of Scarboro, last year's pro winner, has entered to defend or reclaim the title. It is expected to be one of the best turn-outs in the history of the Lachute Open.

Local enthusiasts will be welcomed at the course, to witness some of the finest professionals and amateurs in action. The amateur rounds are open only to the lowest-handicap performers (6 and under). The players will tee off for the first rounds at 8.30 a.m. on Sunday.

Wedgeport, N.S. (CP) — Tuna guides are looking for a record number of bluefin to be taken in Nova Scotian waters this year. For the first two weeks of the season, the catch was ahead of the same period last year, when 1,760 bluefin were taken, weighing 449,362 pounds. First big one — 532 pounds — was taken this year by Dr. J. L. Coupal, of Ottawa.

Calf Club Members Visit Macdonald

On Tuesday of this week 56 boys and girls, members of the Arundel and Lachute Calf Clubs, visited Macdonald College and took part in the judging contests on dairy cattle. The judging was completed at noon, and after lunch on the College lawn, the members inspected various departments of the College farm.

Transportation was provided by buses. Messrs. Herman Graham and Gilbert Boyd were in charge of the Arundel Club members, while Irvin Bain and Keith Pollock arranged for transportation of the Lachute group. The local agronomist, Alex Bothwell, and Donald Robertson, Federal Fieldman, supervised other details of the arrangements, and also provided transportation for a number of the members.

Lions International Convention Held Recently in City of Chicago

As official delegates duly appointed to represent the Lachute Lions Club at the Lions International Convention in Chicago recently, Secretary-Treasurer Willard M. Steeves and International Councillor Jack Giles attended the sessions and enjoyed the entertainment provided at this big annual meet. Motoring to Niagara Falls, Ont., they proceeded to Malton airport, boarding a T.C.A. plane which landed three hours later at Chicago. . . Following is a brief resumé of impressions at the Convention.

On reaching our destination we proceeded to the Stevenson Hotel, which by the way is said to be the largest in the world, and has upwards of 3,000 rooms. Here we enjoyed our five days stay in most comfortable surroundings, and although it was mostly taken over by the Lions, everything was most orderly and a real credit to the organization under which they were meeting.

The first day was given over to the parade which took three hours to pass and was followed by band concerts at the stadium, a royal welcome from the Mayor, and the Necrology Service which was most impressive. The stage took the form of the interior of a church, with mixed choir to lead the singing, and while the organ was playing softly, the young ladies of the choir deposited their floral tributes in memory of those, whose names being recorded, had passed on.

In welcoming the Lions to Chicago, Governor A. E. Stevenson of Illinois said he was grateful for the opportunity of extending official and personal greetings to the 33rd annual convention of Lions International. The history of Lionism is closely interwoven with Illinois, for it was in Chicago that the idea was conceived which gave birth to Lions International. Here for years has been located the International Headquarters, and here, a few miles to the southward of Chicago, the great Lions International city will in the near future rise from the Illinois prairie bringing into fruition in, pray God, a peaceful tomorrow, our fond dreams of yesterday.

Municipal Matters At Brownsburg

Brownsburg — A special meeting of the Brownsburg Council was called for Thursday night of last week to draft a resolution in accordance with a request of the Department of Municipal Affairs, undertaking to carry out without undue delay an extension to the waterworks system if the Council's application for $12,000 on loan is sanctioned by the Department.

The secretary reported he had received a phone call from Mr. Lafreniere in connection with the revised plans as drawn up by Gouin & Doré, asking to have them submitted to the Department promptly, with an assurance that no undue delay will follow the passing of an ordinance by the Department based on figures contained in the plans.

The new figures as submitted by the Council's engineers are — Maple Avenue North waterworks extension, $962.50 sewerage, and $826.10 water. . St. George Street, combined sewerage and water, $7,296.69. . . St. Lawrence Street, $3,857.98. . . Council passed the necessary motion, moved by Councillor Ouelette and seconded by Councillor Denault.

Damage to Traffic Light

The Bell Telephone Co. wrote disclaiming responsibility for damage caused to the traffic light, pointing out that the cable was bare leading to the light, and it was just a coincidence that the damage occurred at the time the company's men were working at that point.

Councillor Somers remarked: "Even granted that the cable was bare, they are responsible, as they slung their line over the cable."

Secretary Hebert said he had asked the Bell Telephone Co. to put their reply in writing. When this is done the matter can be dealt with.

Mayor Donaldson called attention to the need of having plans of the underground cables laid by this company; when municipal workers are doing road work it is necessary to know where the lines are. In one instance there was a letter from the company to say some damage was done, but when he investigated at the point mentioned, the men were still working there and the foreman told the Mayor there was no damage. "There must be some mistake", observed Mayor Donaldson.

Town or Country

There were some complaints from land-owners adjoining the village within the municipality, about the recent revision of tax valuation of hitherto farmland as building lots, and therefore at a higher valuation. The secretary pointed out that lots with a road frontage were valued at from $100 to $25, depending upon their proximity and service by municipal conveniences. In all cases there was a reduction in the farm tax from which those lots were taken.

Councillor Denault: "Was the reduction equal to the increase?"

Secretary: "Oh, no".

Councillor Somers: "It seems very reasonable."

Police Chief H. Foucreau was granted one week's holiday, at a time to be arranged.

On the question of paying the Council's investigator the usual 10 per cent on a recent fine for evasion of amusement tax (which would amount to over $60), it was decided that fines were not part of the regular revenue. The fine

Club Provides Kiddies' Free Admission To Swimming Pool

Again this season Lachute Lions Club is making available to local children the facilities of the swimming pool at Ayers recreation centre. Tickets issued by the club are available to deserving applicants. French-speaking children should apply to the local parish priests or to Gaetan Cousineau, president of "Les Loisirs" — while tickets for English-speaking children may be procured at Geo. Y. Deacon's store or at The Watchman office.

Astronomy Group At Upper Lachute

Last Wednesday evening members of the Montreal Centre, Royal Astronomical Society of Canada, were guests of Miss Rosemary Rice and Mrs. E. Dawes at their cottage on the Lachute - St. Jerome Road. The group included John W. Duffie, President of the Centre; DeLisle Garneau, Director of Observations; Charles M. Good, Librarian; Miss Isabel K. Williamson, Recording Secretary; F. J. DeKinder, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. MacLennan, Miss E. Symons, Earl Milton, Mrs. M. Towne and Mrs. R. J. Williamson.

The group brought four telescopes, which were set up on the lawn in front of Mr. and Mrs. M. Wilson's home. Summer residents gathered for a chance to look at the stars, and queued up behind each telescope for a peek at their old friends.

The first object to be observed was the four-day-old crescent moon, with its maria and craters clearly visible, then the planets Mars and Saturn. As these set behind the trees, the telescopes were turned on a series of double stars — Albireo, in the constellation of Cygnus, Mizar and Alcor in the Big Dipper, and others. Later in the evening, the planet Jupiter emerged from clouds on the eastern horizon.

To round out the evening's program, a series of celestial slides were shown on the Centre's projector and screen, with commentary by Mr. Duffie.

Everyone present enjoyed this unique form of entertainment and education, and appreciated the fine gesture made by the Society in coming so far with their equipment. Judging from comments of the audience, the general reaction to the evening's star-gazing was a sense of the pigmy size of man and his world, as compared with the space surrounding him. One wonders what kind of world this would be if humans kept as firmly to their course as the celestial bodies do to theirs!

Certificates Won By Piano Pupils

The three following young ladies of Lachute and vicinity have been awarded their Music Diplomas:

From McGill University — Miss Nancy Ann McCormick, Dalesville, obtained Primary Grade in Piano, with distinction; with 89% marks, she came third among pupils of the entire Montreal city and district.

Also from McGill — Miss Mary Ruth MacKimmie passed with honors in Elementary Grade Theory of Music.

Mademoiselle Denise Chamaillard, Lachute, won the Piano Certificate with honors (Superior Diploma 2nd degree), from l'Académie de Musique de Québec.

These successful candidates were tutored by Miss Juliette Rodrigue.

Concerts by Pupils

At conclusion of the 1949-1950 season, two pianoforte recitals were given at the Rio Theatre by Miss Rodrigue's pupils. One was given by the Junior Group, and the second by the Senior Group. All pupils played solos and duets from the best known music composers—Bach, Mozart, Beethoven, Chopin, etc. Parents of the young musicians attended this recital. Mr. A. Fassio was guest at the Junior Group recital and played two violin pieces from his repertoire, being warmly applauded by his listeners.

Rev. Baugh 78, Still Active in Ministry

The Rev. C. W. P. Baugh, rural dean of St. Andrews and incumbent of no fewer than seven churches, passed his 78th milestone last week (July 26), still active in his parish work embracing several villages in the north of this county. The Rev. Baugh conducted a largely attended Masonic service last Sunday at Morin Heights. His field includes also Lakefield, Dunany, Shawbridge, Mille Isles, Louisa and Shrewsbury. Besides four or five services every Sunday among these widely scattered settlements, the Rev. Baugh also includes one or two week-night services in his regular routine. Altogether, a full and creditable program!

Ceremony at Morin For Commencement Of Municipal Bldg.

COMMUNITY LEADER TURNS FIRST SOD

Morin Heights — Thursday, July 20, will be remembered as another event in the history of this municipality. On that day an interesting ceremony took place at 2 p.m., when a fair-sized gathering witnessed the turning of the first sod for a Municipal Building, which is to house the fire-fighting equipment and provide new quarters for the post office and also municipal offices.

The weather was favorable for this auspicious occasion. Mayor Chas. D. Campbell and the Council assembled at the site, and after a short speech by the Mayor, Mr. J. E. Seale, one of the oldest residents, was invited to perform the ceremony of turning the first sod.

Before doing so, Mr. Seale briefly thanked those who had assembled for the honor which was accorded to him, and then proceeded with the ceremony.

A short history might be mentioned here: The original Canton of Morin consisted of portions of land situated north and south, designated as the Canton of Morin North and South. Later, on February 19, 1852, the Township of Morin was erected by proclamation and organized for municipal purposes, and became known as such. Later the name was changed to the Municipality of the South Part of the Township of Morin. And again, on April 10, 1950, through the official gazette the municipality was given the name of the "Municipality of Morin Heights".

Mr. Seale, who performed this ceremony, was born at Morin Heights (Lake Echo) and later became secretary-treasurer, which office he held for five years. He was elected to the Council in 1902 and after two years was elected mayor, which position he held for about 32 years; he met opposition in only three elections, the remainder having been by acclamation. Mr. Seale also held the position of postmaster for a period of 20 years.

Many of his oldest friends were among those gathered for this ceremony, and surprise was evinced following the seriousness of his recent illness, on how well he looked on this occasion. The wish was expressed that he may continue to improve and enjoy many years to see the progress of the town, in which he held office for so long.

Feted on 84th Birthday At W. Inst. Lawn Social

Pioneer Women's Institute held a successful lawn social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Fraser on Thursday evening, July 20 — a large attendance enjoying the program of singing and dancing.

A special feature of the evening was a surprise birthday cake, the crowd singing "Happy Birthday" to honor one of the oldest members of this W.I. branch, Miss Jessie Drew. A true "pioneer", Miss Drew had reached the age of 84 that day. She is still quite active and takes a keen interest in life. . . Miss Jessie Drew was a charter member of Pioneer W.I., the branch having been formed in 1914.

On behalf of the members, Mrs. G. S. Armstrong presented her with a gold pin, accompanied by the best wishes of her fellow members and friends. A beautiful corsage of sweet peas was also given to her by a friend.

Miss Drew expressed her surprise and her sincere thanks. A few of her friends then sat down at a special table decorated with the cake for this happy occasion. Miss Drew was able to remain for the rest of the evening and keenly enjoyed the event.

The Netherlands forces in the homeland last year numbered 50,000, while their forces in Indonesia numbered 84,000.

Police Chief Warns — Young Girls Being Molested by Motorists

The instance of two motorists arrested at Barron's Bridge after enticing a young girl into their car and attempting to molest her — is not an isolated case, according to Police Chief D. Villeneuve, who states there have been three or four such incidents in town recently. The Chief urges parents to warn juveniles in their care against accepting a ride with strangers in passing automobiles.

The arrested pair were turned over to the Morality Squad.

July Meetings in W. Inst. Branches

Brownsburg Women's Institute reported 27 members at the July meeting, when Grandmother's Night was celebrated. Prizes were given for the youngest and oldest grandmother present, and snapshots were taken of the grandmothers. Mrs. C. W. P. Baugh, county president, was guest speaker. Plans were made to visit the Experimental Farm at Ottawa in August. Visitors from Lakefield and Pioneer branches were present at this meeting.

Frontier Branch heard reports from delegates sent to the provincial convention at Macdonald College. The Institute Prayer in verse, used at the installation service at Macdonald, had been composed by Mrs. A. Graham, publicity convener of this branch. $5 was donated towards a child's hospitalization. A picnic was held for children of the members and from the neighborhood, with sports and prizes. A donation of $5 was given for School Fair work.

Upper Lachute - East End, with an attendance of 20, reports $10 given to the Manitoba Flood Relief Fund. Reports were given on the provincial convention at Macdonald College, and plans were made for a community picnic in August.

Pioneer branch had 16 members present for their meeting, on the theme of Publicity. They had a guest speaker from England, giving a talk on W.I. work in that country. $20 was voted to the Manitoba Relief Fund. Sick members were remembered with fruit and cards. A lawn social was planned for July, and a drawing for a quilt brought in $23.

June Exam Results Lach. High School

Results of the School Leaving examinations were made public yesterday, and the list for Lachute High School Grade XI is as follows — the pupils being named alphabetically. Class 1 represents marks of 80-100%, Class 2 65-79%, and Class 3 50-64%.

V. E. Barker 3, E. B. Berry 3, E. T. Bell 3, E. G. Bruce 2, E. R. Coulson 2, F. M. Dorion 3, C. A. Dunn 2, A. E. Entwistle 3, D. I. Fuller 3, L. R. Gordon 2, E. H. Graham 2, E. E. Heatlie 3, M. L. Hooper 2, D. E. Kennedy 3, K. Kirkpatrick 2, J. E. Laurin 2, E. I. Laurin 2, I. R. Low 3, C. W. Lummis 2, B. R. Lynch 3, F. J. MacRae 2, A. D. Masson 2, D. W. Maxwell 3, C. G. McAndrew 3, F. I. McDonald 3, K. H. McDonald 2, G. J. McGibbon 3, J. E. McMahon 3, W. K. Murdoch 2, M. A. Nicoll 3, B. C. Neill 2, E. J. Patterson 2, M. L. Prosser 2, R. C. Prosser 3, J. A. Touchette 2, J. M. Underhill 2, K. M. Wilson 3, B. Watchorn (8) 3.

The above results are considered very creditable — the percentage of failures in this grade being 17, as compared with an aggregate of 27% failures among all provincial entrants.

Results for Grade X are categorized in class standing (1, 2 and 3, representing the same percentages), the pupils being listed alphabetically in the three respective classes:

CLASS 1 — Louise Laurin; Kenneth Trickey; Olive Underhill.

CLASS 2 — Clifton Berry; Frank Boyd; Doreen Elder; Joyce Gordon; Rexford Griffith; Gwendolyn Hoare; Shirley Jackson; Tommy Jamison; Jean MacAdam; Phyllis MacDougall; Margaret MacKimmie; Donald MacRae; Ruth McDonald; Kathleen McMahon; Robert McMahon; Kenneth McOuat; Stella McVicar; Florence Morrison; Audrey Morrison; Amy Neill; Shirley Rodger; Evelyn Welden.

CLASS 3 — Barbara Anderson; Blanche Black; Barbara Bradford; ..vers Bradford; Jimmy Campbell; Coreen Cunningham; Robert Giles; Margaret Pollock; Mary Townsend.

The pupils of Grade X are to be especially complimented on these results. With only 8.1% failures (while the percentage of failures for the province was 28.8%), the standing is the best in Lachute High School for over 25 years — and prior to this time the Grades X were so small as to be incomparable. This outstanding work was also accomplished during a year of building construction, when concentrating on studies was often very difficult for both pupils and teachers, and at times impossible. Even under these circumstances the present Grade X has shown itself superior to those of the past.

Land Expropriated at Hawkesbury Provision for Future Carillon Power

Hydro Official R. L. Hearn Visualizes Power Development "A Generation Away"

Ottawa — The Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission has expropriated land at Hawkesbury at a point from the Church of St. Alphonse de Liguori to the Canadian National Railways bridge, at a cost of $250,000, as a safeguard against higher prices if and when the area is flooded by the proposed Carillon development of the Ottawa River — R. L. Hearn, Ontario Hydro general manager, said recently.

Ontario Hydro is acting for the Quebec Hydro under an Ontario-Quebec agreement whereby Ontario acquired power rights on the upper Ottawa at Des Joachims, Chenaux and La Cave, and Quebec secured rights to the Carillon site on the lower Ottawa.

Nothing Immediate

An official of the Quebec Hydro Electric Power Commission told the press that there is no immediate possibility of Quebec Hydro developing the Carillon site.

"We first have additional power at Beauharnois to develop", he said.

"If the St. Lawrence development comes along we will develop the Lachine project. The Carillon project will be next, but that is a generation away."

The Quebec Hydro official also definitely spiked rumors that Quebec Hydro may expropriate the Gatineau Power Company.

"No Socialists"

"The Gatineau Power is a company primarily exporting power to Ontario, and the Province of Quebec is not a Socialist province and not interested in disturbing companies that are successfully carrying on their business", he said.

Regarding the expropriation at Hawkesbury, the Quebec Hydro official said under the terms of the Ontario-Quebec agreement, Ontario was simply acting on behalf of Quebec in acquiring property in Ontario that would be flooded out "if and when" the Carillon project was carried on.

Quebec had acted in a similar capacity for Ontario in acquiring property on the Quebec side of the Ottawa River flooded out by the development at Des Joachims, Chenaux and La Cave.

Ayers Couple Feted At Golf Club

A surprise party for Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert E. Ayers, celebrating their 10th wedding anniversary, was held at the Lachute Golf and Country Club on July 30. This party was sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Stan Horne, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Ayers and Mr. and Mrs. Marc Carrière. About 160 guests attended, including Mr. Philippe Valois, M.P., and Mrs. Valois, Mr. W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., and Mrs. Cottingham, with many intimate friends of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Ayers.

Starting about three o'clock in the afternoon, many of the guests took part in a golf tournament which had been arranged for them. At the firt tee Gilbert Ayers found a "bazooka" type of gadget about seven feet long, mounted on tripods, gaily painted in red and inscribed "Gilbert's Special — Anti-Slice — Anti-Hook". This was intended to help him in straightening out his game. On completing the ninth hole a humorous presentation was made to Mr. and Mrs. Ayers. This consisted of a "Tin Lizzie" of about 1923 vintage, elaborately painted in all the colors of the rainbow, and bearing many inscriptions, among which were — "Ready for our 2nd Honeymoon — Niagara Falls, here we come!", "Ten years married — Still going strong — Made par-4, so far", "The first 10 years are the toughest", "The car of the century — Ayer-conditioned — guaranteed 10 years", "By hook or by slice, we'll make par yet", and so on. . . Mr. and Mrs. Ayers obligingly stepped into the sedan and, after some difficulty in manipulating the magneto key, gasoline and air controls, finally succeeded in getting it into motion and drove off for a brief asthmatic and spasmodic tour of the golf course, to the hoots and jeers of the onlookers.

In the evening, dinner was served in buffet style to the assembled guests. During the evening Mr. Emile Collette, of Associated Textiles, read an address in English, and Mr. Marc Carrière read a similar greeting in French, felicitating the happy couple and expressing the good will and esteem of their many friends who wished them many more years of happiness together. Formal presentation was then made of a beautiful oil painting of the 14th fairway on the golf course (by Emile Lemieux, of Montreal) to Mr. Gilbert Ayers, and a sterling silver sherbet service to Mrs. Ayers. Mr. Ayers thanked his many friends very feelingly for their kind congratulations, for the wonderful surprise party which had been so well arranged, and for the beautiful landscape of one of the more difficult holes on the golf course, a picture which he prized very highly. Mrs. Ayers also briefly expressed her thanks for everything which had been done for them.

Morin Hts. Boy Scouts At Camp Tamaracouta

Other Affairs of Community Interest

Morin Heights — On Saturday, July 15, the Boy Scout Troop, which is sponsored by Canadian Legion Branch 171 of Morin Heights, left for a two weeks' camp at Tamaracouta. Those attending were Eric McCullough, Don Dougherty, John Goodfellow, Ernie Woods, Teddy Muncey, Jack Muncey and Johnny Gillingham. They were taken to the camp by Kenny Binns and Paul Poirier. Transportation was provided by Councillor Paul Baumel and Kenneth Binns.

Through the efforts of Mr. R. A. Draper and the Scout Committee, sufficient funds were subscribed from public-spirited citizens of Morin Heights to finance the Scouts of this municipality.

It is hoped that the boys themselves will appreciate what has been done for them, and return from camp with many badges, showing those who have their interest at heart that the efforts made have not been wasted.

Annual Regatta At Lake Louisa

Cool weather and cloudy skies put a damper on early activities at the Lake Louisa regatta last Saturday, but by noon the weather was more favorable and the afternoon events were run off in quick order for the enjoyment of many spectators and contestants. Due to the uncertainty of weather conditions, the attendance was not as large as usual.

At the clubhouse the ladies were busy all day serving meals and light refreshments.

Throughout the day there was keen competition, and good sportsmanship was in evidence, with boating and swimming races for young and old, diving, canoe-tilting and tug-of-war — the latter two events causing much merriment.

In the evening, the presentation of prizes took place at the clubhouse, where the day's winners received their crests, ribbons and trophies.

While all contestants are deserving of praise, special mention, is due to Miss Marjorie Caron, who won the trophy for the highest aggregate among the senior ladies. In the juniors, Marjorie Acers was the winner. Among the senior boys, Wally Emo and George Gordon tied for honors with 14 points each, and Lawrence Fisher came first in the juniors.

On Sunday the usual sailing races were held in the morning, Lawrence Irany taking first, with Jim Murray second.

The motorboat races in the afternoon provided ample thrills, Bob Habib taking a sensational spill while racing in the competition for the fastest boat on the lake. Fortunately no one was hurt, and Bill Burch was proclaimed the winner in this speedy event, with George Deacon second. A broken propeller prevented Burril Todd from entering with a fast inboard.

Congratulations are due to Messrs. Herb. Montgomery and C. Janes, who were in charge of all arrangements, and to the committes for their efforts contributing to this successful week-end.

The Saturday events were climaxed by an enjoyable dance on the club premises.

Gatineau LINES

An Interprovincial System

As this column is written each week to be read by customers of Gatineau Power Company in Quebec Province, it is natural that we usually talk of things most closely connected with Gatineau in Quebec. But Gatineau doesn't operate only in Quebec. Gatineau owns a large power plant in New Brunswick and one of its subsidiaries supplies electricity at wholesale and retail in Ontario.

This week we are going to talk about Gatineau outside Quebec, for a change — not because these operations are of any particular importance to the people of Quebec, but simply because sometimes it is nice to know the whole story of a company's activities.

In Ontario, Gatineau owns a subsidiary company, Gatineau Electric Light Company, Ltd., and this company supplies power to a large part of Eastern Ontario in just the same way as Gatineau supplies power to 55,000 customers spread over a large portion of Quebec.

In New Brunswick, Gatineau operates an 80,000 horsepower powerhouse on the Saint John River. This plant was completed in 1928, and has been an important factor in the economic and industrial life of New Brunswick ever since. It is the largest power plant in the Maritime Provinces.

There is an unusual feature about the plant at Grand Falls. Water to operate the turbines is conveyed to the powerhouse through a tunnel more than half a mile in length and 24 feet in diameter. This tunnel passes directly under the town of Grand Falls itself, 100 feet below the foundations of the buildings.

In New Brunswick, as in Quebec, a power plant needs a storage dam above it to control the flow of water so that the turbines can keep running in dry seasons and in wet. The Gatineau storage dam on the Saint John River is at Temiscouata, and it has a capacity of 4,000,000,000 cubic feet. Temiscouata dam serves the Grand Falls plant, just as giant Mercier dam far up the Gatineau River serves the power plants which supply Quebec customers with power.

Gatineau has a "first" in New Brunswick too. It constructed the first 132,000 volt transmission line running from Grand Falls to the town of Dalhousie, on New Brunswick's east coast.

OBITUARY

Late P. Gilmour Lived Many Years at Mt. Maple

A figure well known in the Mount Maple farming community, Patrick Stone, passed peacefully away at his home at Lachute on July 23, in his 74th year. Born at Mount Maple, September 16, 1876, he was the eldest son of the late Robert Gilmour and Jane Hutchin.

Farming for many years on the homestead at Mount Maple, he moved here to Lachute about 10 years ago.

Although Mr. Gilmour ("Uncle Pat" as he was known to many friends) had been in failing health for the past year, his death came as a shock to all who knew him.

Left to mourn his loss are one sister, Margaret Gilmour, of Montreal, and several nieces and nephews.

The funeral service was held Tuesday afternoon, July 25, at MacKimmie's funeral parlors, service being conducted by the Rev. G. B. Hicks, of Dalesville. Hymns sung were "Jesus Lover of My Soul" and "Rock of Ages".

Pall-bearers were Messrs. Ernest Kennedy, Walter and George Gunn, Walter Stewart, Carson Tomalty and Percy MacAdam.

The remains were laid to rest in the family plot at Dalesville Cemetery.

FARMERS -- ATTENTION

WANTED: A limited number of progressive farmers in Eastern districts who would like to set out a commercial block of Red Raspberries, either for your local trade or for shipping to an old established Montreal dealer.

To encourage a limited planting of new high yielding patches, a well known nursery is sending a special representative of many years experience in commercial production, to personally interview and educate interested farmers in raspberry culture. This should result in higher unit yields, longer patch life, less hand labour and when translated into dollars at normal prices, a relatively high ratio of profit is assured.

Because of the extreme shortage of good planting material, booking can be made only for FALL PLANTING 1950, limited to one acre.

If genuinely interested in berry growing as a sideline to farming, write Box 457, Campbellford, Ontario, on or before August 15th, giving location of your farm. Our specialist will call later and completely analyze the business, soil requirements and preparation, up-to-date cultural practices, home markets and surplus shipping, cost of planting, estimated yields and profits per acre.

Late replies cannot be covered.

You'll find the cost of telephone service has not gone up as much as most other things you buy.

Any way you look at it your telephone is BIG VALUE

Even with recent rate increases, your telephone still costs so little; it remains one of the smallest items in your family budget.

And it gives you so much. In moments of urgent need, its convenience and speed may be beyond price. In terms of day-to-day usefulness it means more than ever before; twice as many people are within reach of your telephone today as there were ten years ago.

Telephone value has steadily increased.

Today, as always, your telephone is big value.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF CANADA

IF YOU ARE WAITING FOR A TELEPHONE, or for a higher grade of service, you have our assurance that you will have it just as quickly as we can provide the necessary facilities. Our continuing goal is to provide the kind of service to all who want it, when and where they want it.

This IS the time to think about it!

Just look at these four reasons for filling your coal bin

RIGHT NOW!

- Coal costs you less during the summer.
- You're sure of your supply for the winter.
- Your coal is delivered dry.
- You avoid the headache of a last minute rush.

And you can afford to do it now!

If you can repay in nine easy monthly instalments or less, without being too hard on your budget, the B of M will be glad to lend you the money.

This also provides another good reason for stocking up now . . . You can get in all your coal in one single delivery if you desire. That means less trouble and less dirt.

Drop in at your local B of M branch as soon as convenient and talk it over. Make sure of your coal supply in good time.

Tribute

SINCE last publication of this journal Canada's senior statesman, the Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King, has passed to his reward; and it is fitting that the voice of this particular countryside be heard among the exalted and the lowly who have paid him homage.

Regardless of his politics and policies — with which, by nature of our democratic constitution, some must obviously disagree — in the Prime Minister who led us through troubled times, 21 years in office while Canada attained her status of international prestige, all have unstintingly acknowledged a figure who bore with credit and dignity the responsibilities of his role.

Mackenzie King, the bachelor statesman, was Prime Minister of Canada for a longer time than any other Premier of a Commonwealth country in history. He was leader of the Liberal Party for upwards of 29 years. Seventy-five years of age at the time of his death, he enjoyed but a brief retirement from the onerous duties of administration.

His record is an honorable example — one to which the rural press joins tribute, on behalf of Canada's "little places".

Symbol of Progress

A TRAIN whistle is Canada's national anthem. No matter where you are in Canada you're never very far from it. It booms through the mountains of the Rockies, wails over the grain-surf of the Prairies, and shrieks over the roar of the industrial East.

It is a sound that bound Canada into a confederacy and is the symbol of her greatness. It is the song she sings as she grows — even if it wakes you in the night as a long, sinuous freight wails past your back windows.

It begins in the Maritimes, where the train hustles out of Halifax, and whistles through the orchards of Nova Scotia and the forests of New Brunswick. Through the quiet villages of Quebec to the industrial belt of Ontario. As the train gnaws through the miles of north country it is muted to a whisper in the vast distance.

Then on to the prairies where the lonely farmers wait for it, welcome it. There's a dream in it. Cattle shuffle uncertainly as it hoots through the ranchlands, tearing away the miles that stand between the east and the west. . . . Slowly the train snakes up the Rockies' slopes, and deer and bears scuttle deeper into the forest. Progress is not for them.

The music booms now as the mighty mountains throw back the victory cry. They've lost their fight with the railroads. Canadians have beaten them. . . The train thunders down onto the coastal plains and the fertile valley of the Fraser River, merging her sound with the tumbling roar of a great river.

And slowly the anthem ends, as the ocean appears. Canadians all across the Dominion have heard it. It belongs to them.

Death Is Fascinating!

THE MOST fascinating thing about life seems to be death. . . Science has stripped the mystery from many things in the universe. But the ultimate enigma shows no sign of being solved. And man's inclination to flout death in various ways, especially in his youth, is equally a mystery.

Medical circles talk with increasing assurance of the possibility of man living a century and more as the rule rather than the exception. On the other hand, youth seems determined to think up new ways to gamble against death, with their bright young lives at stake.

At Owen Sound, Ont., a new game has come to light. Boys put cardboard boxes over their heads, completely blocking their vision. They then dash through traffic to the other side of the street.

At the same time, in Belgium, an international conference on gerontology — the science of old age — was told sex hormones are making older persons younger and healthier.

Teen-agers in California have a popular game called "chicken". Groups of boys and girls load into "hopped-up" jalopies, and race towards each other at high speeds with one wheel on the white centre-line of the highway. The group which pulls away first is called "chicken", an abbreviation for "chicken-hearted".

Promoters know the possibility of death or serious injury enhances the drawing appeal of an event. A United States columnist once claimed that the biggest annual event in that country — the Indianapolis speedway races — has the biggest crowds because of the number of deaths which occur.

In Canada recently, a crowd estimated at 200,000 jostled and fought each other for vantage points along the Niagara River gorge when it was announced a man planned to plunge 157 feet into the boiling, rock-strewn rapids in a thin steel barrel.

Bookmakers took wagers from the spectators at odds of 6-1 against him coming out alive.

The crowd felt cheated when it was announced that the barrel had made the trip empty.

Death continues to be the most intriguing story of any day and any year.

You can do very little with faith, but you can do nothing without it. — Samuel Butler

I, TOO - Saw England

— By T. D. Titman, Asst. Editor —

The writer has been heartened by numerous comments on these chronicles — from the ex-overseas man who almost toppled over the precipice on recollections (last issue) of Beachy Head — from the correspondent in Peterborough, Ont., who craves some reference to "fish and chips" — even from an unsuspected reader in England, and many others. These responses make the effort well worth-while. We may mention again, these articles are not intended as copy-book reporting, but merely as an informal narrative for friends who may share an interest in Old England as she appears today.

So This Is London

Volumes have been written, and many remain to be written, about London the city — London in the flesh and blood — and London in the spirit. But as our favorite columnist once remarked in these pages, London is indescribable!

I made none of the prescribed trips and visits on the tourist's program, for I had already seen most of London's historic highlights. By the courtesy of Canada House (and the bond of mutual associations) the receptionist procured for me a seat for one of the parliamentary sittings — a vacancy in the gallery of V.I.P.'s (Very Important Persons!). But other engagements obliged me to forego this adventure; and when I had another opportunity, the House had adjourned. My one acquiescence to "the proper thing to do" was to stand for a portrait in Trafalgar Square. At this spot there appears to be keen competition for rights and privileges among the itinerant photographers, and even the pigeons seem open to coercion, collaborating with one or another of the contending tradesmen. The "customer" takes his pose according to the background he prefers, and in his outstretched hand the photographer places a supply of corn. Nothing happens — until the magician intones some unintelligible formula, whereupon the "customer" finds himself in possession of an armful of pigeons. He smiles obligingly, and the shutter clicks.

I stepped out of my course to view the Festival of Britain site — London of the future, in contrast with London of the past. I walked across the Thames bridge from Waterloo to Charing Cross in order to see the reclamation of the embankment, the new White Quay, the rising structure of the Concert Hall and the Dome of Discovery. . But I learned more about the Festival of Britain in conversational sidelights, than I gleaned from literature and by actual inspection. Concerning this project, in fact, there is considerable criticism. I heard it remared in different quarters that at least two sites, as easily accessible and more convenient, were already available which could be adapted for this exhibition at a fraction of the cost. I was told that, with exception of the Concert Hall, the remainder of the properties would become derelict or be torn down. That the accommodation provided would be on such limited scale that the project could not possibly pay its way. And that (more important still) this big construction job was diverting immense supplies of cement and materials now scarce for residential building. . . These are criticisms heard, in some cases from well-posted sources; they are not the writer's personal views, for he was there to observe, not to opinionate.

A note on housing construction, as one sees it around London and all important cities, will be fitting here. . . Private home-building still awaits the green light. Apart from the repairing of war damage, there is virtually none of it. Rebuilding of damaged business premises is slow, although industry has fared better. But in the so-called "county housing" projects, there have been great strides. In Canada we have very little in the way of municipal housing ventures, but the British ministry has apparently delegated this job to the county and municipal authorities, and new estates of terraced (adjoining) homes have sprung up all over the country. True, they are an eyesore to some of the more select home-owners, but they are soundly and economically constructed, and they are steadily providing shelter for an increasing number of homeless families. To my way of thinking, the Government deserves credit for its practical effort in meeting this need.

Through and across and underneath, I traversed London — often by way of that remarkable "tube" system which provoked a paragraph of wonderment in my opening chapter. . . Coming out of the bowels of the earth, I "surfaced" one day at Newgate Street for the purpose of viewing St. Paul's and the contiguous acres laid waste by bombs—thence walking to Cannon Street to board another train. Here was the city one had so intimately known; and though throngs passed by, unmindful of the bare sites and cavernous basements where crowded buildings had once bustled each other for pre-eminence — I confess this sight of devastation brought tears to my eyes. They say that many tourists from abroad view London and are little impressed by the bomb damage. The truth is that they see only part of London — the bright lights of Piccadilly, Bond Street, the fashionable west end. They do not view the City proper, or worse still, the east end and the docks. I saw but a small portion of ruined London, but what I saw — even at this late date, five years after — is appalling. In the wilderness of vacant cellars, and little cultivated gardens among the ruins of Wood Street, Cheapside, Ludgate Hill and Paternoster Row, there is one phenomenon, however, that catches the attention; it is the survival of St. Paul's itself. Today the great cathedral stands, alone, almost unmarked by the scars of war.

I left this ruined area with a heavy heart. In the narrow lanes and byways around Mansion House and the Bank of England were the thronging crowds at lunch hour — the business folk who typified Old England's determination to carry on — who embodied, too, the very spirit which had clinched her survival and achieved her victory. These were the men and women who during the Battle of Britain had spent their days at the desk and counter; then served their duty at nights as fire watchers, fire wardens and fire fighters; and returned again next morning through ruin and destruction, over disrupted railways and obstructed roadways, to — they knew not what.

I have remarked before on that miracle, the mass influx of commuters which belches from the key railway stations between 8 and 9 a.m., and funnels back into the suburban trains at eve, after the day's business is done. It was an experience one morning to find myself bucking the wave of humanity which emerges from Liverpool Street station, with fog and the soot of many trains. It was a physical battle. I almost gave up and turned about, following the direction of least resistance.

There are scarcities in Britain, but the Black Market thrives as in all rationed countries. Sundry gentlemen were pointed out who would supply all that one's heart desired — even hams, chickens and nylons — at a price.

Among the typists, clerks, ledger keepers and shop attendants, I spied a few of those dignitaries in tall silk hats, a mark which might be termed emblematic of the financial district. I was informed that in London's more woolly past, when footpads frequented the narrow alleys, the silk hat had been a means of protection, distinguishing the bank messengers, stock brokers and those who carried valuable securities, for special surveillance of the police.

Not far out of London, I saw again the old Temple Bar, concerning which there is some agitation to re-erect it in the City, where it served so long its role for corporate rights. . . To view the ungainly mansion where dwelt Cardinal Wolsey, a casual detour led me through an ancient churchyard. I slowed my pace to scan the dates on time-worn gravestones, and my companion on this beat, noticing my interest, waved a careless hand and remarked, "Oliver Cromwell lies somewhere over there." . . Such is fame, so casual, so fleeting.

Such sidelights of antiquity haunt your step at every corner, rub your arm in every doorway. . . Yes, London is indescribable. And the visitor is fortunate indeed who has a comrade steeped in its realities, ready to confide its more intimate charms.

Miss Lois Graham spent the week-end at her home.

Successful Lawn Social

A successful lawn social was held Friday evening, July 28, under the auspices of the Ladies' Union of Arundel United Church. The different booths were well patronized, especially the midway, which attracted young and old alike. A short program was rendered, which consisted of an action song by the pre-school age children, under direction of Mrs. T. Sevigny; a chorus by six teen-age boys dressed in cowboy outfits and singing cowboy songs, accompanied on the guitar by Master Victor Staniforth; a reading by Mr. K. Fenton; an adult quartette consisting of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Bulley, Mr. Edgar Davis, and Mrs. T. Sevigny; and last but not least, the inspiring music of the bagpipes played by Mr. W. MacLean, of Montreal, who was in full Highland costume. During the evening a quilt was raffled, bringing the financial side of the evening to a successful conclusion.

Northern Grenville

Mr. and Mrs. Wyman Young and family, accompanied by the Misses Mabel and Minerva Young, motored to Ormstown last Sunday.

Lawn Social

The annual lawn social, under auspices of the Women's Auxiliary, which was held on the church grounds Saturday evening, July 22, was a decided success, the sum of $420 being realized. An interesting program was given during the evening, consisting of several songs, and little Ruth Tooke, of Montreal, performed several dances, including the highland fling, the sword dance and sailor's hornpipe. She was accompanied by Mr. J. Laurie, of Montreal, as piper. There were three other pipers and two drummers in attendance. The Rev. G. R. Barnett acted as chairman for the evening, which was brought to a close by the singing of the national anthem.

Another lawn social, under auspices of the Church of the Redeemer, will be held in the same place August 12. It is hoped this event will prove equally successful.

Wife and Mother Mourned In Arundel and Lachute

Late Mrs. Delmar Cooke

The death of Mrs. Delmar Cooke, wife of Delmar Cooke, of Arundel, occurred at Ste. Agathe on Thursday, July 20.

The late Mrs. Cooke, in her 33rd year, was the daughter of Robert Morrison and his wife, the late Violet Kerr, of Lachute, where she resided until her marriage in November, 1942.

The late Mrs. Cooke is survived by her husband and one son, Donald, of Arundel. Also left to mourn her loss are her father, Robt. Morrison, four sisters and one brother — Eileen, Isabel, Roberta (Mrs. Willard Langille), of Lachute, Geraldine (Mrs. Harry Williams), Montreal, and Kenneth, of Grande Prairie, Alberta.

Eva was well known among the people in Arundel and Lachute, where she took part in the Women's Institute and attended the Ladies' Auxiliary in Arundel. She was an employee of Canadian Industries Limited in Brownsburg, where she made many friends.

The funeral service was held in the Arundel Grace (Anglican) Church on Saturday, July 22, conducted by her pastor, the Rev. G. Barnett.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. Leslie Cooke, Douglas Cooke, Stuart Cooke, of Arundel, Willard Langille, Stuart Wilson, of Lachute, and Harry Williams, of Montreal. Burial took place in the Arundel Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

BROWN — In memory of our beloved son, Gerald, who was accidentally killed August 1, 1948. — Sadly missed by Mother and Dad.

"Time may heal the broken hearted,
Years may make the wound less sore,
But it cannot fill the longing
For the loved one gone before.
Who shall say the grief is lessened
Though the smile may hide the tears?
Memories keep the wound still open,
Despite the passing of the years."

BROWN — In memory of our dear brother, Gerald, who was accidentally killed August 1, 1948. — Sadly missed by Lila and Vern.

"God knows how much we miss him,
Never shall his memory fade,
Loving thoughts shall ever wander
To the spot where he is laid."

MacRAE — In loving memory of our dear son, Reggie, who passed away Aug. 5, 1949. — Always remembered by Dad and Mom.

"To us you have not passed away,
Nor have you travelled far,
But entered God's most lovely room

MacRAE — In loving memory of our dear brother, Reggie. — Sadly missed by Bus and Florrie.

"Loving memories never die,
As years go on and days go by,
Deep in our hearts the memory is kept,
Of one we loved and will never forget."

MacRAE — In loving memory of our dear brother, Reggie, who passed away Aug. 5, 1949. — Ever remembered by Marion and Campbell.

"He had a nature you couldn't help loving,
A heart that was purer than gold,
To all who knew and loved him
His memory will never grow old."

MacRAE — In loving memory of our dear Uncle Reg. — Rae and Bonnie Munroe.

"Just a tribute of love and remembrance."

ne quaint medical theories in t, too.

'o return to the animals — baby bits are everywhere, but our has been sighted only once, king rather unhappy (says ty), although he was carrying supper home in his jaws. We
"our" fox although we have, course, no way of identifying fox that has been hereabouts years. He comes and goes,
v a tawny gleam in the orchard,
n a orangey streak going down
lane. Once, when we were at breakfast, he passed through the yard and happened to step on the handle of a toy windmill, which promptly jumped up and spun around in his face. If a fox can be said to turn pale, this one certainly did. His startled leap back, and his pop-eyed expression, are still hilariously recalled.

Birds, too, are more plentiful than usual. Swallows skim around us and flickers precede us whenever we go abroad. The blue jays held a convention in our grove last week. It is not unusual this summer to see the yellow warbler and cedar wax-wings regularly watch us when we go swimming. Our humming-birds are back. To our amazement, the humming-bird makes little piping noises as it sits on the clothes-line. We had always supposed that the Creator, having designed such a jewel-like bird, had decided that a voice as well would be just too much; but the man of the house has twice heard this marvel.

What all this resurgence of life portends, we have no way of knowing. We wish for our old friend and neighbor, who used always to have explanations for natural phenomena. Did the wild animals show a disposition to hover around the buildings, "Ah!" he would say, "an early and hard winter". Having been brought up by a Scottish step-mother much addicted to prophecies, most of them sombre, we were innured and impervious to such mutterings, but now we wish we had been more attentive; or, better still, that we could ourselves prophesy.

To stop being whimsical and begin being nasty — the road to Lachute is the worst it has ever been in the memory of the writer, a matter of 20 years. Much as we like our Nature in the raw, we prefer our roads in a less natural state. Route 30 is a disgrace to those responsible, and certainly no inducement to tourists and other holiday-seekers. This district is one of the few unspoiled areas left in the Laurentians and it is a pity that more people cannot enjoy it. One of the purposes of these articles is to give this district a little well-deserved publicity, but there is no use in luring people on with promises of beauty and repelling them with roads that are a menace to a car. Our only consolation is that, come the Russian invasion, we are safe. We have only to retreat up Long Lake hill and hurl rocks from its surface on the fool-hardy enemy.

Your Child's Eyesight

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"If your child's eyesight was in danger, how much would you spend to give his eyes every chance to return to normal?" "What a silly question!" you exclaim, "I would get the very best professional eye advice available. I would spend whatever was necessary, borrow if I had to, in order that my child would not be handicapped by poor vision!"

But does your child already show signs which should lead you to suspect that he does need attention for his eyes, especially in the pre-school child, the condition of the eyes "crossing", frowning, rubbing the eyes, the "trick" of shutting one eye or squinting, or holding books or small objects very close to the eyes, stumbling or inability to catch a ball in a game, may all be hints to a parent that something may be wrong with his child's eyes. If there is any doubt at all about this, a child should immediately be examined by an expert in eyes, and his suggestions should be followed to the letter. Semi-annual eye examinations would detect many minor faults and save serious harm to eyes needing glasses, corrective exercises or other treatments.

Occasionally a child's sight is threatened by an unexpected tragic accident when the sharp point of a pencil, a pen, a stick, a penknife or scissors enters the eye. Blunt scissors and no toys with sharp points are essential Safety First rules in a home with little children. Each year a few children have their eyes hurt in fireworks accidents, and this kind of carelessness on the part of adults in charge of minors is almost inexcusable.

Most parents know that during certain contagious diseases such as measles, whooping cough, or diphtheria, a child's bed should be placed in the room to avoid direct glare from the sunlight. The eyes should be used as little as possible for close work. At all times parents should see to it that there is proper lighting in the room in which a child is reading or playing or working. The light should come from behind the child. If the light is in front, the child's eyes receive both direct and indirect glare. If from the side, some glare may still be present. During periods of rapid growth a child's eyes need protection from strain or being over-taxed.

But during ordinary health, investigation has shown that a child's sight is often being slowly but surely harmed by bad habits such as bending or stooping, or lying in a prone position, with the eyes much too close to the book or object attracting attention. Concentrating for longer than half an hour without resting the eyes and working or playing in a poor light are also disastrous to good eyesight.

Parents who realize that a child suffers discomfort, headaches, slow learning, unhappiness and possibly a permanent handicap if eyes are not properly protected from strain, will do all they can to save their children's eyesight by insisting on proper posture and correct lighting. Even little tots should not form the habit of keeping their eyes fixed at a distance closer than a foot. A longer distance, about 17 inches, between the eyes and the book should be observed by older children. Because of faulty posture, shortsightedness (myopia) increases from a small per cent of children who enter kindergarten at five years to about 30 per cent of boys and girls starting high school. A child should form the habit in early years of sitting upright in a small properly designed chair when he wants to read. A child's eyesight is beyond price — no trouble should be too great to safeguard and preserve it for adult use!

TOM GARD'S NOTE BOOK

One of the most distressing scenes at this time of year is a lawn burned to a crisp. True, some home owners are able to keep their lawns green throughout the summer but they are in the minority. Soil fertility is as important in this struggle to keep grass green as the amount of water applied. People who make a lawn on a two-inch layer of good soil are only asking for trouble. Money spent to prepare a deep seed bed before the seed is sown will save heavy annual payments for fertilizers in the years to come. A friend of mine placed a two-inch layer of peat under six inches of rich top soil and has never had to worry about watering his lawn. In case you are struggling with a poor lawn, you will find the lawn spike illustrated a valuable asset.

Garden Tables

I visited a classmate of mine last week who had just moved out to the wide open spaces. I envy all the room he will have to employ his gardening skill. The thing that really caught my eye was a huge mill stone he plans to mount on a cement base for a garden table. This relic of the past will still be giving service generations hence. Much smaller stones can be procured and used equally well. Also illustrated is a wooden table built on a barrel; you will find it easy to make. One of the most effective garden tables I have ever seen was made from the marble top of an old-fashioned tea-room table placed on a 12 inch cement drainage tile, partially buried in the ground to make it solid. The whole thing had not cost a cent to assemble as the table top was rescued from a dump and, unbeknown to the proper authorities, the township contributed the tile.

Garden Fences

A fence can be a friendly thing as I have just found out. My neighbour and I have finally taken time to sit down and plan the building of a new one between us. Now that we have progressed past the nodding acquaintance stage, I'm certain we will be spending many hours together.

Lions International Convention at Chicago

The speaker said that, as Governor of Illinois, he had a special bond of comradeship with the Lions.

"Man does not live by bread alone and the fact that organizations like the Lions, which emphasize service to others, have grown and multiplied so phenomenally, bears eloquent testimony to this elemental truth. Yet, in these troubled and turbulent times, what impresses me most is your sense of perspective — the way your clubs have succeeded in carrying through a balanced program which combines service to the home community and loyalty to the nation, with an intelligent and sympathetic interest in the cause of international co-operation".

One of the most stirring addresses of the convention was that of Mr. Mundt, an outstanding speaker, who had flown from Washington, he said "without notes, and I am saying the things I believe". He started off by saying that one of the things that is wrong with the world today is that there are too many people in too many capitols of too many countries of the world, who feel that they are too important compared to the rest of the countries. We need people like the Lions. An undeclared war, in which blood has been spilled, has been going on in a country 6,000 miles away. Questions about Korea would have been legitimate to ask Secretary of State Dean Acheson had he been here, the President of the United States, or any other man in high office. But if any of them had been asked they would not have answered. The only people who could answer your question would be the 14 men in the Kremlin today, Joe Stalin and his 13 associates. Nobody in America, in Whitehall, in London, Paris or South America can tell you.

There are things we must do and things we must not do. We must rally round the flag in Korea, with those who will join with us, and with determination we shall win.

The difficulty began, in so far as the war in Korea is concerned, when we made an error in diplomatic power. We have permitted the Communists to grow until they have reached their present size. We gave them Poland at Yalta, and dominion of the Balkans. We gave them Manchuria and they took the rest of China. We told them we were going to divide Korea at the 38th line, and have permitted the Red army to put its forces entirely around us. They didn't ask for entrance privileges into Berlin. By appeasing Communism, our boys are now in Korea.

In 20 years a considerably smaller number of humans are free. It is not going to be the boys in Korea who determine this problem, but you as human beings. We all have a responsibility, but less than 10 percent of us measure up to it — including the responsibility of the vote.

In 100 years Communism has collected into what it stands for today. It has come to control as many human beings today as Christianity did in 2,000 years. We who worship God are fewer in number than those directed by a group of 14 men in the Kremlin in Moscow. Only men and women, such as are gathered here in Chicago today, can save the world from collapse.

Walter C. Fisher, of Queenston, Ont., who for the past year has brought honor and dignity to his position as International President — is now succeeded by Herbert C. Petrey, Jr., Carrizzo Springs, Texas. In his acceptance of the presidency Petry said: "My home is down near the border of the two great nations, and those of us who live so close to the people of another country know that there are no great differences between the people of Mexico and those of the United States. We learn their language and customs and together we are learning to live with each other. This is equally true of our northern border. The Lions of the Northern States are carrying along identical work with the wonderful Canadian Lions across the border, at all times maintaining an aggressive movement to make friends with their neighbors. The Canadian Lions are likewise maintaining this aggresive movement to make friends with us. And why shouldn't this be the object of all Lions in our twenty-eight nations throughout the world.

The convention concluded one of the most successful years in the history of Lions International. According to the report of Melvin Jones, Secretary-Treasurer and founder of the Association, there had been an addition of 806 new Lions Clubs and 81,415 to the roster of the Association during the twelve months period ending June 30th, 1950, for a total of 8,055 clubs and 402,041 members. He stated also that during the fiscal year Lions Clubs were established in two additional countries — England and Denmark. Lions International, he added, is the largest, strongest and most active service club organization in the world, with Lions Clubs in 28 countries.

Get Fuel Stocks In Advance of Winter

Arrange Your Fuel Loan at the B of M

It's a lot more convenient and economical to arrange your winter fuel supplies well in advance. There's no chance then of a sudden change in the weather catching you off balance, and you can stock up at the most advantageous terms.

Perhaps you'd like to be among those wise folk who arrange early for ample supplies of fuel, but can't lay your hands on the ready cash? Pay a visit to Donald Hay, manager of the Bank of Montreal at Lachute, and discuss with him the details of a B of M fuel loan. Suppose you borrow $100. The interest comes to only six per cent — 29 cents a month, when the loan is repaid over six months.

If you're in a position to repay a personal loan in easy instalments out of your income, you can make sure today that your family will enjoy a warm, snug home during the coming winter. Drop in and see Mr. Hay, while the matter's still fresh in your mind.

Took Sales Course By General Motors

Mr. E. Kilgour Wilson, of Wilson Motors Ltd., and Mr. Jas. Duncan, of Lachute Motor Sales, were in Montreal recently taking an intensive special course in sales management training sponsored by General Motors. The course, which is the only one of its kind in the automotive field, is now being held in all sections of Canada. It is designed to provide GM dealerships with the best-trained sales management in the industry.

The course dealt specifically with the latest merchandising methods and their application to customer relations.

Closing Exercises at Summer Bible School, Lachute Baptist Church

There was a splendid attendance of parents and friends at the Parents' Night of the Summer Bible School, conducted by Lachute Baptist Church every weekday except Saturday between July 17 and the 28.

An interesting program was presented by the children, which included vocal and instrumental numbers; a primary and junior choir; the memorizing of scripture portions (a Bible alphabet, 23rd Psalm, 19th Psalm). All children who participated in the memory work received prizes. An interesting film strip, "The Spider and the Fly", was followed by singing of the hymn, "Yield Not To Temptation", which also was illustrated. Following the program the parents showed keen interest in the various handicraft projects undertaken by the children.

Items on display, in addition to papercraft work by the beginners and pre-school children, included bird-houses, bootees, knitted dishcloths, pot-holders, and brooches made from shells.

The school was under the direction of Pastor and Mrs. W. H. Britton, who were assisted by Misses Mary Townsend, Jacqueline Murdoch, Catherine Mildon, Beverly and Clare Mae Laurin. Miss Lois Silverson was the school pianist.

On behalf of the school a presentation was made to Mr. and Mrs. Britton by Miss Mary Townsend. The Rev. Denis Mildon, of Montreal, offered the closing prayer.

It is High Time to Awake!

Despite all efforts advanced by world statesmen, and their promises of a better world of tomorrow, the threat of a third world war hangs over the nations, resulting in fear of the future, unbearable anxieties and nerve-strain beyond anything previously experienced. What does it all mean? Where can men turn for hope? Two world wars have been waged to secure Democracy, yet failure and disappointment is evident.

"It is High Time to Awake" and to examine the Word of Almighty God, the Bible which gives the true answer of present day conditions and the outcome.

The swing is to FORD

Chrome wheel trim rings and white sidewall tires optional at extra cost.

Just watch the '50 Fords go by along "vacation trail" these days . . . and your own eyes will convince you, more and more people are swinging to Ford! Then "Test-Drive" it yourself and see, hear and feel the reasons why!

Look beyond its "Fashion Car" beauty and see the extra hip and shoulder room in Ford's big, big "Lifeguard" Body . . . so restful on long trips. Hear the smoother, quieter Ford 100-Hp. V-8 Engine "whisper while it works". Feel the difference in riding ease with Ford's new "Hushed" Mid Ship Ride. You'll say it has "big-car" roadability and comfort!

And here's another big reason why people are swinging to Ford for happy motoring: The '50 Ford costs less per mile than any other full-size car! "Test-Drive" it today.

because its BIG!

Ford seats are wider, to bring you "big-car" roominess. You get "big" power, too —100-Hp. V-8 power. And you get a big-car "feel" from Ford's "Hushed" Ride, with "Para-Flex" rear springs and "Hydra-Coil" front springs for comfort.

because its BEAUTIFUL!

Canadian car buyers agree with famous style experts who selected Ford as "Fashion Award Winner". They're swinging to Ford because, inside and out, it's so luxuriously, so completely "The Fashion Car of the Year".

because its QUIET!

Ford brings you the quietest engine, the quietest ride in the low-price field. And for those who want even quieter, smoother performance, Ford offers its optional Overdrive. This advanced Ford feature lets the engine loaf at 35 m.p.h. speed, while the car hustles along at 50! And it pays for itself with savings of up to 15% on gasoline! Enjoy a demonstration today.

AMERWOOD IS PRE-FINISHED • AMERWOOD IS EASY TO APPLY • AMERWOOD IS BEAUTIFUL

Pre-Finished AMERWOOD

PRE-FINISHED AMERWOOD is the new and beautiful wall panelling that arrives on the job completely finished. Ready to apply in the lengths that suit your job. No waste.

PRE-FINISHED AMERWOOD is the new and beautiful wall panelling where the hard growth stands in bold relief. It has been stained, lacquered, baked in an infred oven (the same as your modern car bodies), waxed with a polish many times harder than the simonize you would apply to your car and then polished to a satin finish.

PRE-FINISHED AMERWOOD is ¾" in thickness, comes in 6", 8", 10" widths and 8', 10', 12', 14', 16' in length. Packed 6 boards to the package and in three attractive colors, Amerwite, Ameroon, Amered.

When PRE-FINISHED AMERWOOD is applied and your last nail is driven the job is then complete, no paint, no fumes, no extra muss. It requires no extra tools, just hammer, saw and square. Drop in and see it at our yards.

Mid-Summer Weddings

Pretty Church Ceremony Solemnized in Montreal

Dorion - Raycroft

The marriage of Miss Una May Raycroft, daughter of Mrs. Violet Raycroft and the late Robert Raycroft, of Inverness, Que., to Mr. George Robert Dorion, son of Mrs. Joan Gordon and the late Albert Dorion, of Lachute, Que., took place at five o'clock Saturday, July 22, at the First Baptist Church, Montreal, with the Rev. K. Gillespie officiating. Mr. Clifford Johnstone played the wedding music and Mrs. Glynn Hilton sang "I'll Walk Beside You" during the signing of the register. Standards of white and blue hyacinths decorated the church.

Maid of honor was Miss Doreen Raycroft, sister of the bride, and the bridesmaid was Miss Shirley Bennett, niece of the bride. Mr. Tom Fraser acted as best man, and the ushers were Mr. Leslie Kerr and Mr. Roy Millar.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Larry Raycroft, the bride wore a gown of white satin with fitted bodice. Chantilly lace yoke and Peter Pan collar, her tight-fitting sleeves tapering to a point over the hands, and the full skirt falling in a slight train. Her floor-length veil of tulle illusion was held in place by blossoms of stephanotis. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and stephanotis.

The maid of honor and bridesmaid were dressed alike. Their gowns were of embroidered organdy over taffeta — the former in a pastel green, the latter in pastel mauve. Each wore a bandeau of flowers and tulle of matching shades. They carried nosegays of pink roses and carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Bishop Room of the Legion Hall. The decorations were mixed summer flowers. Later Mr. and Mrs. Dorion left for Toronto and Niagara, the bride travelling in a dusty pink gabardine suit with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Out of town guests were Mrs. Violet Raycroft and Miss Lois Henderson, of Inverness, Que.; Mr. and Mrs. Bennett, of Maple Grove, Que.; Mrs. Joan Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Kerr and daughters, Judy and Sandra, Mr. and Mrs. Raynald Desjardins, Mrs. Bessie Gordon and Mrs. W. H. Gordon, all of Lachute.

A book dictated by Marco Polo in prison was the most popular source of European knowledge of the far east for three centuries.

Couple Married in Saint John, N.B.

Armstrong - Elliott

Miss Verna Alberta Elliott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Elliott, of East Eaint John, became the bride of Clifford Cameron Armstrong, son of Mrs. G. S. Armstrong and the late Mr. Armstrong, of Lachute, Que., in nuptials at Park Avenue United Church on Wednesday afternoon, July 26, with the Rev. Carman Riggs, the minister, officiating, assisted by the Rev. J. W. O'Brien.

Baskets of Regal lilies decorated the church. Mr. Earl S. Morrison was organist. Mrs. John E. Rolston was her sister's matron-of-honor, and Miss Winnifred M. Rolston, niece of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. Mr. Linton W. Armstrong, brother of the groom, was best man, and the ushers were Keith D. Armstrong, brother of the groom, and Ralph W. Elliott, brother of the bride.

The bride wore a gown of powder blue figured chiffon over taffeta, fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, shirred bodice and full skirt in street-length. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations and stephanotis. Her attendants were gowned alike in pink nylon, fashioned with Peter Pan collars, fitted bodices and full skirts. They carried nosegays of sweet peas, predominantly blue.

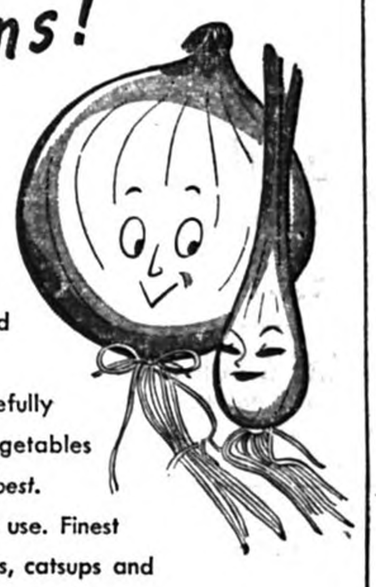

An informal reception followed the ceremony and was held in the church hall. Receiving with the couple, the bride's mother wore a pearl grey jacket ensemble of crepe Romaine, black accessories and corsage of red carnations. The groom's mother wore a gown of floral sheer in dusty rose shade, black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Later the couple left on their wedding trip, and for travelling the bride wore a suit in grey-blue gabardine, dusty rose blouse and black accessories. They motored through New Brunswick to Quebec and are taking up residence in Lachute, where the bride is a member of Lachute High School staff. The groom is employed by the Bell Telephone Company.

Out of town guests were: Mrs. G. S. Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Linton W. Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Grant, of Lachute; Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Morrison, of Lachute and Moncton; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. C. Hartley and daughter, Doreen, Montreal; Keith D. Armstrong, Montreal; Rev. and Mrs. J. W. O'Brien, Reserve, Cape Breton; Rev. and Mrs. Cater Windsor, Amherst; Miss Gladys Styles, St. Stephen; Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Theall, Boston, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. I. Brown, Bathurst; Mr. and Mrs. E. Brown, Sussex; Mrs. William Hilchie, Louisburg, N.S.

Double-Ring Ceremony At St. Matthew's, Grenv'l

Birch - Gauley

A double-ring marriage ceremony between Miss Merle Gauley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Corl Gauley, of Grenville, Que., and Mr. Harold Millar Birch, of Hammond, Ont., took place at two o'clock Saturday, July 15, at St. Matthew's Anglican Church, the Rev. P. R. Stote officiating.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. Russell Owens. Baskets and bouquets of summer flowers formed the decorations, the guest pews being marked with white satin ribbon and flowers.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Clayton Bigelow, as matron of honor, Miss Florence Birch and Miss Alethea Bigelow as bridesmaids, and little Miss Bernice Bigelow as flower girl. Mr. Bert Cooper was best man, while Mr. Elmer Gauley and Mr. Gerald Heney acted as ushers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a long-sleeved gown of brocaded nylon, fashioned with a fitted bodice and full skirt. Her long veil of tulle illusion was fastened with a tiara of orange blossoms, and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

The matron of honor wore orchid, the bridesmaids pale blue and pale green, and the flower girl wore pink; all carried cascade bouquets of summer flowers.

Supper was served at the bride's home. The bridal table was decorated with flowers and centred by the wedding cake.

The happy couple then left for a short trip. For travelling the bride wore a pale blue sheer with white accessories. They will reside in Hammond, Ont.

Guests from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Birch and family, Mr. Wm. Birch, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kinsella, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Millar, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Watson, Mr. Edgar Larmour, Mrs. B. Jones, Mrs. V. Burwash, Mr. and Mrs. Manford Brydges, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bigelow, Mr. Stanley Millar, Mrs. Thomas Stewart, Mrs. Dwight Watson and Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Larry.

Marriage at Arundel

Evans - Evans

Grace Church, Arundel, Que., was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday evening, July 29, at seven o'clock, when the Rev. G. R. Barnett united in marriage Ada Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Evans, of Arundel, and Mr. Edgar James Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Evans, also of Arundel.

The church was decorated with seasonal flowers. Mrs. William Morrison played the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of brocaded satin, the pointed bodice having matching buttons from the key-hole neckline to point, and a stand-up collar. The long sleeves ended in points over her hands. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a fitted ruffled headdress of matching satin. She carried a bouquet of deep pink carnations.

Mrs. Clifford Parkinson, of Rawdon, as matron of honor for her sister, wore a gown of turquoise blue taffeta with a matching headdress covered with shoulder-length tulle illusion, and carried a bouquet of light pink carnations.

Mr. Allan Evans acted as best man for his brother, and the ushers were Mr. Walter McMahon and Mr. Robt. Evans, of Arundel.

The bride's mother wore a flowered dress with navy background, white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. The bridegroom's mother wore navy sheer with white accessories, and a corsage of red roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the school auditorium at Arundel. The happy couple then left for a short motor trip, the bride wearing a grey suit with navy accessories and a red corsage. They will reside in Val d'Or, Que.

Out-of-town guests were from Port Perry, Rawdon, Arnprior, Windsor, Montreal and Sudbury.

The bride was a graduate of the School for Teachers, Macdonald College.

in question had been collected by Quebec to an amount of $1,300, 50 per cent of which reverted to the municipality.

Speeding

The Council appointed four investigators to assist the police in checking offenders passing through the municipality in speeding autos. Councillor Wilson (police committee) complained that the present system of checking excessive speed was most unsatisfactory, and said that a determined effort to control this matter would now be made.

Other matters occupying the meeting included: — The sealing of manhole covers so that passing cars will not move them out of position. A water main break at Wartime Housing. Removal of a hydrant to another position at Mrs. Guenette's, Chenierville. Notification of removal from culvert of a water line supplying Mr. Castle. Widening of roadway at Rosedale and Fillion streets.

Councillor Somers wanted a work-order covering all the little things which came before Council from time to time, so that it would be possible to see at a glance what action had been taken on these matters, and what, if any, had escaped attention.

Argenteuil Softball League Results

The Beavers won a close game Sunday from the Bluebirds, by the score of 3-2. Bluebirds took an early lead of 2-0, but Gaetan Legault, of the Beavers, made a home run with two men aboard, to make it 3-2. It was a close and hard-fought contest all the way through, and there were four double-plays, which gave the crowd a thrill. The game was handled by Chas. Harding and Phil Pacquette, of Brownsburg.

At Moore's Field in Upper Lachute, the Malacket Spiders continue to win and keep in first place. The Spiders defeated the Tigers 7-3 in another keen and very close encounter.

At White Rose, Boyd's Express took another defeat by the score of 9-6. Boyd's took an early 3-0 lead, but that was as close as they came to winning — Frank Donagami pitching another fine game for White Rose.

Stan Kolar, Gatineau Professional, Wins Lachute Open Golf Tourney

Young Pro Sets New Tournament Mark with 68 Equalling Course Record; Three-Way Tie in Amateur Section; Large Crowd of Spectators

Stan Kolar, in his second year as professional at the Gatineau Golf and Country Club up Ottawa way, found the Lachute greens very much to his liking last Sunday, coming home with a 68 to win the 10th Open Golf Tournament here. This is the best Open score to date over the new course, and equals the record set last year by the club professional, Jack Archer. Stan learned his golf out west in the Lake of the Woods district, having been assistant pro for three years at Kenora and club pro two years at Fort Francis. He was in trouble only once, on the long toilsome Number Three, where he went two over for a double bogey seven.

The old reliable and highly popular Jules Huot, of Laval, played a very commendable two under par 70, to take the second money. One other pro, Gordon Harrison, of Peterboro, clipped par with a 71. The Lachute course, one of the toughest, does not lend itself amiably to par-busting tactics, as is evinced by the fact that, out of a starry field of about 130 hopefuls, only these three turned the trick.

Bob Gray, the Scarboro pro who recently won the Quebec Open, failed to repeat on his three previous masterpieces here. Bob found the greens very tough and faded to a large 78, out of the money.

Joe Leblanc, provincial champion from Whitlock, Tommy Riddell, the mighty mite from Beaconsfield, and John Dukelow of Summerlea, carded 75's each, to tie for first place among the Amateurs. Low net went to Geo. Silver of the Ottawa Hunt and Golf Club, 78-6 — 72.

The fine golf and perfect weather brought out a large gallery, and a big crowd was also on hand during presentation of the prizes in the evening. The prize list may be seen elsewhere in this issue.

Gatineau Lineman Killed Near Dalesv'l

Gilles Fouceault, 17-year-old Gatineau Power employee, died in the Neurological Institute, Montreal, early Tuesday morning from injuries sustained in an acident last Saturday near Dalesville.

On the morning of August 5 Fouceault was with a crew helping to raise a pole on the new highway development about a half-mile from Dalesville Village. It was not quite clear what happened, but it is reported the young man slipped, and the heavy pole fell about four feet; he was knocked unconscious and was bleeding profusely from one ear — whether from striking his head on a stump or from the impact of the pole on his head, was not ascertained.

Dr. A. R. Coté was summoned to the scene by fellow workers; after giving medical aid, the physician ordered the victim's removal to hospital. Subsequent reports from the Neurological Institute indicated that he was making good progress, but word of his death was received here Tuesday morning. . . An inquest is being held next Tuesday by the joint district coroner, Dr. Jules Lafleur.

The funeral will be held Friday at 10 a.m. from the Church of the Immaculate Conception, in the west-end parish. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Romeo Fouceault, Lachute Mills, the young victim is survived by his parents and three sisters.

Child Drowned Near St. Adolphe

Gerald Constant, aged 11, of Pte. St. Charles, was the victim of a drowning accident late Tuesday afternoon at Lac Ste. Marie, near St. Adolphe d'Howard. Staying at Camp Lewis, an organized summer centre, the lad had gone picnicking and was picking blueberries with his companions on an island at the lake. As he approached close to the shore he was seen to fall in the lake down a cleft of rock five feet high. One of the camp guardians jumped in after him and recovered the lad in water 10 feet deep, only five minutes after he had submerged. Artificial respiration was applied immediately — there being two doctors at the camp — but the victim appeared to have died instantly on immersion.

Coroner Dr. Jules Lafleur, of Lachute, enquiring into the fatality, pronounced a verdict of accidental death due to drowning.

Most recent duels in France have been fought between politicians and journalists.

Inquest This Evening On Highway Fatality

Inquest on the death of Fred W. Leavitt, 63, Westmount businessman who was killed at Calumet on July 2 last, has been arranged for this evening, Thursday. The inquest, which will be held at Grenville under Coroner Dr. Jules Lafleur, was delayed pending the recovery of witnesses injured in the same accident.

Mr. Leavitt and his wife, returning to Montreal from the North Lake Fish and Game Club, collided with a westbound car driven by Chas. St. Amant, of Grenville. The latter had both legs fractured in the crash. Mrs. Leavitt suffered a broken jaw, and Mrs. St. Amant, accompanying her husband, suffered head and facial injuries.

Recent Activities In Cadet Unit

The cadets of "D" Co'y Highland Cadet Battalion are continuing in their efforts to excell all other military units in Quebec Command, and if training progresses at the present rate, there is a possibility of this happening. While awaiting the arrival of equipment, the boys are fast mastering the intricacies of foot drill, as well as learning about army ways in general.

Three more promotions were announced, as Cadets MacDougall, McDonald and Neill were promoted to the rank of Lance Corporals. This raises to five the number of N.C.O's and a short course is being planned for these and several other selected Cadets, in order to qualify some candidates for higher ranks.

The second Cadet Dance will be held in the Legion Memorial Hall, Foundry Street, on Friday, August 18, at 8.30 p.m. All cadets are invited to attend and to bring other couples with them. Refreshments will be served and soft drinks will be available. All guests must be escorted by Cadets.

Last Monday evening Lieut. G. Tabrett was ably assisted by S/Sgt. R. Griffis of the 70th Observation Regiment, R.C.A. The cadets, under S/Sgt. Griffis, went for a short march out around the west end of town.

Recruits are still being accepted and any boys between the ages of 15 and 18, over 5'4" tall and in good health, are invited to attend at the Auditorium on Monday evening and join this Unit.

Traffic Deaths Double In Neighbor Counties

Cornwall — There were twice as many traffic fatalities in Ontario Provincial Police District No. 11 during the first seven months of 1950, as in the corresponding period last year, it was disclosed Saturday. Sixteen people have been killed in traffic mishaps to date, compared with eight in a similar period last year. Seven of the 16 fatalities occurred during July.

Police investigated 135 accidents in July, compared with 122 in the same month last year. June's total was 101.

Breakdown for July by counties follows: Carleton, 42 accidents, four deaths, 26 injured; Dundas, 17 accidents, one death, 16 injured; Stormont, 25, two fatalities, 14 injured; Glengarry, 20, six injured; Prescott, 16 accidents, 13 injured.

Light Horses Entered in Shows

At the recent St. Bruno horse show, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Hewitt, of Brownsburg, were there with "Shirley Peters" and "Rambling Ace". Entering in eight classes, they returned home with four seconds, three thirds and a fourth.

The Hewitt's with the above horses are going to the Central Canada Exhibition horse show; Miss Beverley Johnston, of Brownsburg, will be riding Rambler at Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. MacGibbon, of Lachute, with "Just Pete", are also exhibiting at Ottawa in the roadster classes.

Crash on Highway Near St. Hermas

Two Montrealers, proceeding Monday morning to their work here on the Lachute High School construction, came into a head-on collision with an eastbound automobile at Smith's Hill, about two miles this side of St, Hermas on Highway No. 8. The accident occurred shortly before 8 a.m.

Ronald Hemming, 61, electrical contractor, and Kenneth King, 36, supervisor, were in the car coming towards Lachute. At the peak of the hill they crashed with an auto proceeding in the opposite direction, driven by Paul Wiele, 64, who was returning to the city from his residence at Clear Lake.

Most severely injured in the crash was Mr. King, a passenger in the westbound car, who was later removed by ambulance to the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, suffering from severe head injuries. Mr. Hemming and Mr. Wiele were both injured about the face and limbs, though less severely.

Dr. E. Christie was summoned from Lachute to attend the victims. The crash was investigated by Cst. Albert Legault and Cst. Howard Jones, of the local traffic police. After the accident both cars were described as complete wrecks.

The United States Weather Bureau reported more than 10,000,000 different local weather observations during 1948.

Peanut Float Here Friday Next Week

In Connection With St. Jerome Kinsmen Club Fete

"Peanut Day" at St. Jerome, organized by the Kinsmen Club of that centre in co-operation with Planter's Company, will be held on Saturday, August 19, closing a campaign of sales in aid of a playground and projected swimming pool for St. Jerome kiddies.

The peanut float will arrive at St. Jerome next Thursday, and on Friday will visit neighboring towns including Lachute, Shawbridge, Ste. Adele, Mont Rolland, Ste. Agathe and St. Jovite.

On Friday evening at the Manoir St. Canut, about seven miles this side of St. Jerome, the big event will be the crowning of the "Queen of the Laurentides" — for which four candidates are entered and voting is now in progress. The contestants are, Miss Jeannette Latour (Miss St. Jerome, 1948), Miss Huguette Legault (Miss St. Jerome, 1950), Miss Cecile Papineau and Miss Yvette Gagné (Peanut Queen, Lachute 1949). The winning beauty, according to number of votes polled up to this Saturday, August 12, inclusive, will be proclaimed Queen. All are invited to be present at the Manoir St. Canut for the occasion, on Friday evening, August 18.

The big peanut parade will be witnessed Saturday, 19th, at 3 p.m., in the principal thoroughfares of St. Jerome, accompanied by the civic band. That evening in the Market Square, there will be a public street dance, with free admission. Amusement kiosks and a refreshment stand, with other attractions, will add to the gala aspects of this grande finale.

New Technique Fires Big Rock-Blast Largest in Road Construction Work

9,000 Tons Moved in Split-Second Blast Near Dalesville Yesterday Noon—Method Developed by Engineers at B'burg C-I-L

Shortly after 11.30 a.m. Wednesday at the highway construction site about six miles north of here on Route 31, almost two tons of dynamite loaded in 1,050 blast holes ripped 9,000 tons of rock out of a hillside in a single, split-second blast.

Fired electrically by project superintendent Joseph Zucco of H. J. O'Connell Ltd., Montreal contracting firm, it was the largest blast of its kind ever undertaken on highway construction in Canada.

What made this particular blast unique was that, instead of the ear-shattering boom expected from such a large explosion of dynamite, there was only a muffled rumble, scarcely audible a quarter mile from the scene. Also, instead of the thousands of tons of shattered rock being blown far and wide by the force of the blast, the rock was merely lifted a dozen feet into the air, crumbled into fragments, and dropped back into a heap on the right-of-way, ready for handling by the contracting firm's earth-moving equipment.

The reason for such unexpected blasting results, which have aroused the keen interest of construction men across Canada during the past year, is a new technique known as "split-second" blasting. This new technique is made possible by the use of special "short period" detonators, developed in this country by chemical engineers Jim Logan and Hugh Kerr, working in the Brownsburg laboratories of Canadian Industries Limited.

A detonator, or blasting cap, is a small metal cylinder, closed at one end, containing a small charge of easily ignited powder which serves to set off the dynamite when it explodes. In electrically fired blasting, every blast hole containing dynamite also contains a primer cartridge, which consists of a dynamite cartridge into which a detonator has been inserted. Wires lead from the detonator to a source of electricity — usually a blasting machine. When the current is turned on, it explodes the detonator, which in turn explodes the dynamite in the blast hole. Before the development of the "short period" caps, detonators were available which made it possible for blasters to fire several holes either simultaneously, or in series, at intervals of from one to two seconds.

In 1945, the thought occurred to Hugh Kerr, of Brownsburg, that possibly an interval of one second between periods was not the most effective interval, and that shorter intervals might improve the efficiency of the dynamite. He enlisted the aid of Jim Logan, a fellow engineer in C-I-L's Brownsburg works.

Together they began the task of developing a blasting cap capable of a consistent, accurate, short delaying action. The aim was 25 thousandths of a second between each blast.

A fast-burning, consistent powder, they decided, was the key to the delay fuse accuracy. Altogether, over a three-year period, Logan and Kerr tried 238 powder mixtures, and since each mixture had to be tested extensively, more than 20,000 blasting caps were assembled and fired before experiments were completed.

Today, largely as result of their work, "short period" caps are produced at Brownsburg in one series of eight delays with average intervals of 25 thousandths of a second between periods, and another series of seven further delays having average intervals of 75 thousandths of a second between periods.

Their introduction to Canadian blasters and construction engineers began last year. Since that time they have gained widespread and enthusiastic approval because of several important advantages they offer. One of these is marked reduction in vibration caused by a blast. Six times more dynamite may be exploded at one time with "short period" caps than with instantaneous firing methods, with no increase in vibration. A second major advantage is an increase in the utilization of the energy released by an explosion. Rock is broken finer than with former methods. Another advantage concerns the control of fly-rock. When blasting by former methods in confined areas, such as excavation work in towns and cities, it was possible to blast only two or three holes at a time. Even then, the holes had to be covered with heavy protective mats, to keep the rock from flying up and damaging nearby property. With the use of "short period" caps, as many as a hundred holes have been fired in one blast in the centre of a city, with no fly-rock travelling any more than a few feet, and no protective mats used.

The net result is that, across Canada today, blasting is becoming safer, more efficient, and more useful than ever before — thanks in no small measure to the efforts of Jim Logan and Hugh Kerr, working in a local labratory.

Council Sessions At Morin Heights

Morin Heights — The Council met here at a special meeting to consider a request from a number of the property-holders, that the outside of the new Municipal Building should be stucco, with red facing at corners and around the doors. It was finally decided to accede to the requests, and to authorize the change.

The Council met for its usual monthly session last Monday, and many items dealing with the welfare of the municipality were considered. Chief among these were the figures of the revision of the Valuation Roll. Statistics show that the Council responsible for the adoption of the new Code System in making the valuations, were very foresighted, and this year an increase is shown by new buildings being erected within the municipality. The secretary reported an increase from $2,128,000 to $2,177,451, with a division for school taxation purposes of — Protestant panel, $1,530,309; R. C. School panel, $543,514; Neutral panel, $103,628. The property in the area covered by By-laws 42 and 53 for waterworks and fire protective system rose from $849,879 to $884,853.

Additions are now under way to provide electric service as far as Lake Ann, on the Lachute highway, also to Lake Edward and Lake Brittain. The new road known as the Girl Guide Hill is now completed, and has made a great improvement to that section of the municipality, likewise the improvement and widening of the Jackson Road, and building of the new bridge on this stretch.

16-Year-Old Youth Wins 'Ideal Home' At Grenv'l Fete

In the memorial playground at the rear of Lessard's Hotel in Grenville, a three-day parish fete reached its climax last Monday evening, when a crowd estimated at 30,000 people entered the grounds, toured the amusements and witnessed a spectacular program.

Highlight of this concluding evening was the drawing of the winning ticket for a model furnished house at Grenville — the drawing having been widely publicized and tickets circulated in many parts. It is stated that a total of 98,000 tickets were sold on this project.

The lucky winner was Gaetan Lemay, of 84 Querbes Street, Outremont, Que., aged 16. The advertised value of his prize was $15,000, but it is stated to be nearer $22,000 in value. Questioned on his intentions, the youth said he would sell the house and devote the money to his education and that of his brother.

Lise Desforges, seven-year-old daughter of Jean Desforges, local businessman, drew the winning ticket, No. 88,161. Present on the platform were Mr. W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A. for Argenteuil, Mr. Georges E. Dansereau, Raymond Bruneau, M.P. for Prescott, and Mayor Stanley Cavanagh — together with the organizers, the Rev. Father E. Thériault, parish priest, and the Rev. Father Vinet, curate, of Grenville.

The large crowd was handled in a smooth, orderly manner; good humor and the gala spirit prevailed. The heavy traffic was directed by Officers H. Jones and A. Legault.

Proceeds of this big effort were for parish funds and development of the memorial recreation centre.

Property Valuation Revision Protested In Two Cases Before Brownsb'g Council

Brownsburg—The regular meeting of the Brownsburg Council was held on Monday evening. With Mayor Jas. Donaldson presiding, Councillors Ouellette, Lafleur, Wilson and Somers were present.

Minutes of the last meeting were read by the Secretary, E. Hebert, and adopted on the motion of Coun. Ouellette, seconded by Coun. Somers.

T. J. Pasco came before the meeting to seek redress for damage caused by the recent freak storm. He described the damage caused to a stone wall and sought to place the blame on an open driveway which allowed the water to rush down into his property unimpeded.

The Mayor had inspected the damage, and gave as his opinion, that the wall had been blown down by the wind and not by a rush of water. Councillor Wilson concurred.

Mr. Pasco strongly maintained that the damage to his wall was done by surface water, and invited the councillors to visit the place.

The Mayor suggested it might be well to put a sidewalk across the entrance. "Water flows down the roadway there anyway, but in this instance even people living in the vicinity were of the opinion the wall was blown down". The council decided to visit the property before deciding further.

A delegate from the Protestant School Board attended to ask the council what steps had been taken following a recent application from their board to connect to the sewerage from the new school building. Work was now proceeding and it was necessary to know where the connection would be made.

Councillor Somers: "The connection must be made about 150 feet below where the school line would ordinarily be connected, because of the absence of sufficient grade. The requirement for service in either sewerage or water is the nearest corner of the property to the town lines, but in this case, it being a public building, the council will have to bear the cost of carrying the connection to a point where the grade is sufficient. By going down farther south along Maple, it might be a good way, as the same line can be utilized by the Legion Hall."

Mr. H. Morrison (School delegate) observed that they were following a 1% grade which would come under the town line at the higher point.

On the motion of Councillor Somers it was decided to put in a short line to form an outlet for the Protestant School's new development work. Councillor Wilson seconded.

Mr. Morrison informed the Council he had timed a number of speeding autos passing within the town limits, and out of 50 cars checked he had found the average speed 45 miles an hour; only one car came within the speed limit, and one car was going over 60 miles per hour.

Councillor Lafleur did not agree that on this road (Lachute-Brownsburg) one should keep to the speed limit of 30 miles.

The Mayor said that, on the contrary, this is a most important place to have the regulations observed. Hundreds of children use this road to go to the Rotary Club's swimming pool, and he would like to ask the Rotary to instruct those children to use one side of the road only. Coming into Brownsburg there was the school zone, and in the interests of the citizens and their children, he felt that the regulations should be observed.

At the last meeting of Brownsburg Council, the Secretary, Mr. Hebert, announced that he had exhibited the valuation roll for the legally required 30 days and he had received two complaints on the valuation set by the council's valuators. Both complaints had to do with the reclassification of some land as building lots.

The first was from C-I-L, referring to eight lots on Maple Avenue whose valuation was changed from $1,200 in 1947 to $1,600 at the present revision. Other portions of the property were changed from $1,300 in 1947 to $2,600, and from $1,200 to $3,375.

Councillor Somers pointed out that a certain area surrounding magazines where powder or explosives are stored must be maintained free of buildings or trespass.

Turn First Sod for New School in Morin Municipality

Morin Heights — Amid pleasant surroundings and bright sunshine, the turning of the first sod for the new Protestant School in this municipality took place before a large gathering on Saturday at 3 p.m. The new building when complete is to cost $216,000, and will be a considerable asset to the municipality.

Councillor Willis Seale, who is also the chairman of the Protestant School Board, introduced the various speakers. Mayor Chas. D. Campbell was asked to give the introductory remarks, and after him came Leslie Buzzell, Esq., of the Montreal Protestant School Commission. Mr. J. E. Seale gave the history of the various schools which had been built to serve the municipality, indicating that this new building would be the seventh to be erected to serve the educational needs of Morin. J. Douglas Davis spoke of the encouragement it would bring to property-holders desiring to settle here, knowing that adequate school facilities would be provided for the future generation. The Rev. C. W. P. Baugh, representing the Central School Board of Argenteuil - Two Mountains, also spoke.

Mr. William Watchorn was then asked by Chairman W. Seale to honor the occasion by turning the first sod. Mr. Watchorn voiced a few appropriate remarks, and proceeded with the rite in completion of this ceremony. The Rev. C. R Woods then dedicated the land and the future building "to the Glory of God", for the welfare of those who would enter its portals for education, and the teachers who would impart the knowledge to those pupils.

UN Flag at Armed Forces Headquarters in Tokyo

General Douglas MacArthur (right), commander of the armed forces acting in behalf of the United Nations to restore the peace in Korea, shakes hands with the Chief of Staff of the United States Army, General J. Lawton Collins, after receiving the blue-and-white U.N. flag (center) which once flew over the headquarters of the U.N. Mediator in Palestine. The flag was sent to General MacArthur by U.N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie, who expressed hope that it would fly until peace is restored in Korea. General Lawton Collins brought it to Tokyo.

GREEN LETTER BOXES

Montreal (CP) — Green letter boxes have appeared on Montreal streets. They're not much good for posting letters, however, as they have no slots. They are carrier relay boxes, where mail, other than first-class, is deposited by truck on carrier routes where the mail is heavy.

Gatineau LINES

Overloaded Circuits

Not so long ago, we were talking about local power failures, and of how such failures frequently are the result of blown fuses in pole transformers. We explained that such fuses were installed on the basis of what power demands the power company thought the individual customers would make — and that when customers installed new electrical equipment, they would be well advised to notify the power company so that heavier fuses could be installed where necessary.

There is another side to this business of overloaded circuits, too. Such overload frequently cuts down the efficiency of appliances within the home even if it doesn't blow fuses indoors or outside.

Electricity in a wire can be compared with water in a pipe. If you have small water pipes in your house the water pressure may be good when only one tap is turned on, but if several taps are turned on at one time — you only get a dribble from each tap. Why? Not because the pressure on the Town's water system is too low — but because the water pipes in your house are too small. The same thing applies to the wiring in your house. If you connect too many appliances to your wiring, the voltage drops on your wiring system.

In the electrical distribution business, this condition is referred to as "inadequate wiring". It means that while the power lines outside the building are ample to supply all the power needed, there are too few or too light circuits inside to handle the demands placed upon them by modern living.

Homes which were wired many years ago are particularly subject to this condition. When that house wiring was done, electricity was used for lighting and for the operation of a few minor appliances. Now the same circuits are being asked to carry three, four or five times the load they once did — and in some cases they just can't do it.

For the greatest economy and the greatest efficiency of electrical appliances, adequate wiring is essential. If your appliances seem sluggish and slow to react to the demands placed upon them, it may well be that the fault does not lie with them at all. Have your electrician examine your wiring.

Seasonal Farm Topics

Back to Green Pastures

A few years ago agriculturists in the New England States launched an extensive grassland improvement program, believing that highly productive pastures would be one way of improving and maintaining prosperity in that part of the country.

Results of their efforts were recently viewed by a group of prominent Canadian agriculturists and farm editors in a tour through the states of Vermont and New Hampshire. They saw prosperous dairy farms, for example, with as much as 75 per cent of their areas in grass. Many farms were able to maintain a dairy cow on two acres of forage per year. On one farm for a herd of 47 Guernseys (26 milking) enough forage was obtained from 47 acres of hay and pasture. In most cases excess grass was harvested and preserved as grass silage which was fed in dry weather in summer when pastures were relatively unproductive and during winter to keep up milk production.

The New England farmers use no essentially new ideas or methods to achieve their success. Most of their grasslands are the hay-pasture type which are left in hay and pasture for five years before re-plowing and re-seeding. No seed mixture is standard for the area. One excellent pasture consisted of ladino clover and orchard grass only. High yields are obtained by other farmers from mixing such grasses as timothy, brome or orchard grass with legumes such as alfalfa, red or ladino clover, depending on what mixture has been found to be most productive. Good results are obtained when legumes are seeded in the fall and grasses during spring. No farms visited used more than 15 pounds of seed per acre.

Highly productive pastures were fertilized with as much as 1,000 pounds of fertilizer per acre at the time of seeding. For maintenance during the next five years superphosphate was applied alone or in mixture with potash or a complete mixture depending on the seed and needs of the soil as determined by a soil test. After the initial treatment, top-dressing with manure or fertilizer is standard practice each year.

Methods used by New England farmers in their grassland program should be carefully studied and emulated by Canadians who are looking to livestock as the main source of income. Potential benefits are two-fold:

(a) Production of low cost yet highly nutritious feed.

(b) A paying soil conservation program — something that is vitally needed for Canadian farm lands.

Surely no intelligent farmer could look down his nose at such an offer.

Farm Interests at Ottawa Exhibition

Ottawa — Official opening of the new $500,000 Livestock Pavilion and the visit here of Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York State are two of the highlights of the Official Central Canada Exhibition Association program to be held at Lansdowne Park, August 21-26.

Monday, August 21, will be Children's Day, youngsters being admitted free to the grounds until 6 p.m. The morning program will see a "Mutt Show" when, in cooperation with the city playgrounds department, the C.C.E.A. will award prizes for a variety of pets.

At 3 p.m. Monday, Rt. Hon. James Gardiner, Federal Agricultural Minister, Col. Kennedy and Mayor Bourque will take part in the opening of the new Coliseum wing.

The opening day's events will see the junior farmers begin judging competitions and attend a banquet in the evening at Hopewell Avenue School. The junior farm boys and girls will stage a parade by counties to the Grandstand following the dinner.

Judging of cattle will start Tuesday morning in the Coliseum show ring and judging of horses will commence in the afternoon.

Use of Aircraft In U.S. Agriculture

By Ovid A. Martin

Washington (AP) — The airplane is fast becoming one of American agriculture's major production tools.

Its use in seeding, fertilizing and weeding crops and in spreading insecticides, is increasing rapidly.

The agriculture department thinks so much of the possibilities that it has joined several other agencies in developing an airplane especially designed for agricultural uses. The other agencies include the National Flying Farmers, an organization of farmers who fly their own planes in carrying on their work.

A wartime chemical development has contributed greatly to use of the plane in farming. That is the chemical weed killer 2.4-D. It will kill broad-leaved plants like most weeds, but will not harm grasses, such as rice, the common grains, sugar cane, wheat, etc.

Dusting cotton from the air to kill boll weevils and other insects is spreading throughout the south and west.

Makes Leaves Fall

Another development in the cotton field is the use of a chemical that makes the leaves drop off. This gives more nourishment to the cotton boll and simplifies the work of the mechanical picker.

Another use of the airplane involves blowing moisture off cherries at a certain stage when the combination of moisture and sun would crack the skin and injure the fruit.

Much of the development of the use of the airplane in farming has come from army and navy pilots returning from the war. They naturally thought of the airplane as a tool for making a living. They found a surplus of war planes at hand.

All they had to do was to put the airplane to work. There was a heavy demand for increased production in agriculture, and there was a heavy infestation of weeds and insects.

The agricultural development has created a new job for the Civic Aeronautical Administration — education of pilots in safe use of the new chemicals.

Amethysts were once thought to prevent drunkenness.

FARMERS -- ATTENTION

WANTED: A limited number of progressive farmers in Eastern districts who would like to set out a commercial block of Red Raspberries, either for your local trade or for shipping to an old established Montreal dealer.

To encourage a limited planting of new high yielding patches, a well known nursery is sending a special representative of many years experience in commercial production, to personally interview and educate interested farmers in raspberry culture. This should result in higher unit yields, longer patch life, less hand labour and when translated into dollars at normal prices, a relatively high ratio of profit is assured.

Because of the extreme shortage of good planting material, booking can be made only for FALL PLANTING 1950, limited to one acre.

If genuinely interested in berry growing as a sideline to farming, write Box 457, Campbellford, Ontario, on or before August 15th, giving location of your farm. Our specialist will call later and completely analyze the business, soil requirements and preparation, up-to-date cultural practices, home markets and surplus shipping, cost of planting, estimated yields and profits per acre.

Late replies cannot be covered.

Insurance Not Savings

"UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE is making bums out of some young men. They would rather take $18 a week in insurance than go where work is available."

This statement was not voiced by any reactionary, conservative industrialist. It is the considered opinion, recently expressed, of a man intimately acquainted with the operation of our Unemployment Insurance Commission, and one who is entirely sympathetic to the plight of those who are jobless through no fault of their own. . . He must remain anonymous because he is a senior civil servant. But his views are worthy of study.

Far too many Canadians look upon jobless insurance funds as money which they, themselves, have saved and, therefore, money which they have a right to dispose of as they see fit. That, of course, is far from the case.

Jobless insurance funds are not the sum total of the savings of all Canadian workers. If each contributor decided to quit work and draw all the unemployment insurance to which he or she is "entitled", the fund would be speedily broke.

While there are 585 million dollars in the federal unemployment insurance treasury, it is worth noting that in 1949, a year in which Canadian employment was at a high, the fund staged a very "close race" between costs and income.

Unemployment insurance is insurance and nothing more. It is intended to cover short term emergencies. It is paid out of funds contributed only one-third by the employee, and the balance by the employer and general tax-paying public.

Insurance is only good if it is paid out under sound, business principles. It is not designed, and never was, to bonus idleness.

Drunkenness No Excuse

"I DIDN'T KNOW what I was doing. I didn't really intend to hurt him" . . "to crash into the car" . . "to commit murder" . . "to leave my child" . . "to hit that policeman" . .

"You see, Your Honor, I was a little high!". . "I was intoxicated." . . "I was under the influence of liquor." . . "I didn't mean to.". . "The act was not premeditated."

Intoxication as an excuse, twisted and turned this way and that, but still an excuse. Something to lean on when common sense has gone. An appeal to the court on the ground that all men have this common failing, "and you, Your Honor, know that a man is not quite all there when he is drunk and shouldn't, therefore, be held responsible for what he does."

When is all this nonsense in our courts going to stop? Drunkenness is no excuse and never can or should be held as such.

Drunkenness is a CAUSE. A man or woman who, when intoxicated, damages, injures, or kills, is and should be just as liable as the man or woman who, when sober, damages, injures, or kills.

To the dead child it makes no difference whether its killer was sober or intoxicated.

If anything, a sober killer is more likely to have taken precaution to avoid the death. The drunk killer is a killer, whether in a car or with a gun or knife in his hand.

Philosophy of the Pump Handle

WATER, the most abundant fluid on earth, queerly enough seems today to be in great demand. The problem is pointed up in dry seasons by the way cities such as New York have to clamp water restrictions on their citizens because of shortages.

One of the curious features of this enormously-growing demand for fresh, unpolluted water supplies is the parallel expansion in conservation work.

Thus modern man, who spent hundreds of millions in money and effort laboriously clearing the land of its trees and swamps, now is spending as many millions more in replacing them in water-conservation projects. By holding the water in the land these also are helping in curbing disastrous spring floods and producing an even year-round flow.

In Canada, many cities have curtailed hose-using hours to halt the indiscriminate sprinkling of lawns during the times industries are largely drawing from the city supplies.

It all adds up to a notable decline in the water table — the underlying liquid reserve below the earth's surface. Recently many centres depending on artesian wells for water have found it necessary to go deeper and deeper in their search for abundant supplies.

One of the factors aggravating the situation is that city dwellers have always been notoriously careless in their wastage of water. It usually is a matter of months before that leaky faucet is fixed.

Farmers, on the other hand, have had to be careful. No careless running from the taps for them — in fact, for most of them, no taps!

Perhaps that is the crux of the problem. It takes a pump handle to educate people to the fact that water, like most of the necessities of life, comes from the earth.

A New Dimension of News

A NEWSPAPERMAN, one of a large group of editors and correspondents from every continent attending the Moral Re-Armament World Assembly now in progress at Caux, Switzerland, described it as a "gold mine for the Press with a new dimension of news such as we find nowhere else in the world."

A nugget from that mine was provided by Mr. James Leask, a British Trade Union Organizer, who said: "We in Britain are proud of the fact that we helped to pioneer an industrial revolution over a century ago. These same qualities which our forefathers used to good advantage are needed today — wide vision and a desire to serve humanity, courage and inventiveness and confidence in God who can guide and inspire. Without these qualities no nation can be truly great. The true wealth of a nation lies not in material things but in the spirit and skill of her people.

"Industry throughout the world today needs a new charter, a charter which will give incentive and objective, which will give prosperity to each country and peace to the world, which as a result of increased production will increase human happiness.

"Moral Re-Armament is the force in the world today that is attempting to create this new golden age of human happiness. One of its basic principles is the belief that people matter more than things. This is the reiteration of a truth that has been expounded by philosophers, by labor leaders, by all men of goodwill everywhere who have believed in the future of humanity. Here is the challenge of our day and civilization. Are we capable of accepting that challenge? If poverty, unemployment and war are to be avoided, we cannot afford to fail."

JAMES Syme Hastings, who worked on the Cincinnati Enquirer in the early 1900's, contributed many famous sayings which are still used by current wits. Among them are the lines: "Every baby resembles the relative who has the most money." "Do right and fear no man; don't write and fear no woman" was another. Again, "Most husbands develop into pretty decent animals, considering the material their wives have to work with."

EXPORT demand for British automobiles shows no sign of slackening, according to Lord Nuffield, head of Morris Motors Ltd. Auto makers are turning out cars in record numbers but still cannot fill orders, he says. "Unfilled orders for new cars have never been more numerous. The waiting list of buyers in the British home market, where sales are tightly restricted for the sake of export, is astronomical."

Hither and Yon

As one travels through England, there are so many sights and customs strikingly different from those at home, that after awhile the visitor takes his surprises much as a matter of course. These are the spice and savor of an overseas tour, but they come in such continuous doses that one is apt to let them pass, and to overlook them in one's recollections. Before concluding this narrative, therefore, I will set down a few observations still fresh in my memory.

To queries as to my particular line of work, I had modestly referred to the editing of a small weekly newspaper. It struck me, however, that in comparison with English journals, The Watchman is not so small after all. It is actually larger in size than the average English daily. This may be difficult to realize, but over there, newsprint quotas still keep the papers to a minimum of pages, and it does not take long to read through one of these daily editions.

One result of this stringency has been the evolution of a crisp, curt style of journalism. Reporters cannot spread themselves with the old-time verbosity, and some of the major news items are boiled down to a brief paragraph or two.

The price of a haircut in Old England may suggest that the country is a he-man's paradise. I paid two prices — 1/3 and 1/6 (20 cents and 24 cents) — though it is true, in the former case I received more for my money in local gossip than in tonsorial proficiency. The provincial barber is a fathomless purveyor of information. For instance, in this Kentish town, Orpington, while in the barber's chair I learned that there was a Canada Corner in the local cemetery, there having been a military hospital in that town during the war. Afterwards I hied myself to this sanctuary, to see (in a parody on Rupert Brooks) "a spot that is forever Canada"; but I searched in vain for familiar names upon the tombstones.

In a nearby village, also in Kent County, there was a small but progressive taxi concern using radio telephone from headquarters to direct its cabs to new customers while on the road.

At Tynemouth in the north of England, the shore line presented a scene of striking contrasts. Near the outlet of the Tyne (a river which once reverberated with the clack of rivetting hammers and shipbuilding activities) there is a rock-strewn coast and a weather exposure treacherous to shipping. Within a mile I saw the wrecked hulls of two fair-sized vessels, no more than a stone's throw from the seafront. . . Yet, nestling between these rugged stretches were broad beaches of sand, golden in the sunlight, frequented by crowds and gay with the holiday spirit.

In the Midlands I made an interesting acquaintance — the personnel manager of British Celanese, an unassuming but personable fellow who is responsible for the welfare and satisfaction of 13,000 employees. — Read that again! The payroll of Celanese, he informed me, included 800 foreigners, of 21 different nationalities — read that again, too, to appreciate something of the problems devolving upon this man, a top-ranker in his profession. One is generally familiar with the housing shortage, but the scarcity of prison accommodation is not so well known: this personnel manager found that he actually had one or two employees, good workmen, who were "on the waiting list for jail". I heard him lecture at a polytechnic school. And I heard about his personal hobbies, which included rifle-shooting; and about his 100% preference for Canadian ammunition — which took me back to a place near home, and my friends at C-I-L.

Nature will have its way; and in the public conveniences which punctuate the streets of every English town, there is provision for all average contingencies. So numerous are these retiring-spots, especially in the resort centres, that the stranger is at first quite embarrassed by the signs, Ladies and Gentlemen, so frequently confronting him. Some of these subterranean hideouts are archaic and disfigured, but generally speaking, they are scrubbed meticulously clean.

Old Country folk among our readers will recall the traditional milk carts with their clatter of cans and measures, moving on steel-rimmed wheels and propelled by push-power. Lo, these have gone quite modern. Today they are streamlined, pneumatic-tired and electrically driven. The milkman walks behind, guiding the conveyance with a control lever.

The itinerant fish vendors with their barrows are still in evidence.

Refreshment stands have taken on the American trend. Today there are "ice cream parlors", unheard-of a generation ago, with sodas, sundaes and (unrefrigerated) drinks.

At the service stations there is no "free air". It appears the customers pay for their tire service and testing, at so much per wheel.

The fish-and-chip shops (yes, my friend) are still going strong; but due to the shortage of fats, they operate on curtailed hours. Their aroma, too, is just as intriguing as in the days of yore.

And the taverns—which, pardon me, are "pubs"; it is not unusual to discover four of five of them in any village which may be little more than a cluster of buildings along the highway. And all are thriving, with their Elizabethan architecture (genuine or pseudo), super-glazed windows, tiled fronts, coats-of-arms, symbolic and historic signs. The interiors, too, have taken on a subdued cosiness, catering to comfort and eye-appeal. The stranger is impressed by the fact that so many bus-stops are designated by the names of pubs. The first day I set foot on English soil — when directed to disembark at the "Rose and Crown", I scratched my head in bewilderment, until I recalled that this was a travelogue in English style, and that many of these inns are veritable landmarks.

Phone booths, police huts and first-aid stations dot the highways in the English countryside. Illuminated at night, they are a cheerful sight to the motorist on a murky journey.

At Eastbourne, that progressive resort on the Channel coast, street lighting has long since been converted from gas to electricity; and it might be expected that the "old lamp-lighter" of record and song would be as extinct as a horse-drawn streetcar. But no — in the section where I was visiting, there came a man on a bicycle each night and morning, carrying a long pole with which he switched on and off the individual street lights. Enquiries at the source might have explained this queer anachronism, but local residents could give no reason for it.

It was in Eastbourne, too, that I saw the lifeguards in action — valiant crews which launch and man the lifeboats, to aid ships wrecked or in distress along the coast. Theirs is a hazardous and difficult task. . . And the fishermen, who garner their harvest from the sea. I recalled the reports of enemy airmen straffing these unarmed little craft during wartime raids. One young fellow, who had been shot through the lung, is still following the traditional trade—today a handicapped victim of man's brutality.

A station porter, discussing the bomb damage around Liverpool, told me of the air-raid shelter crowded with civilians, which had received a direct hit. Hundreds of occupants were intombed; and there they still remain the underground shelter sealed with debris. . . I did not confirm this case, but was informed that such instances do exist in England as mute evidence of wartime horror.

I saw the unexploded mines, other mementoes of the blitz in Britain. I saw a "doodlebug", one of those aerial torpedo-bombs, a potential volcano that had failed to erupt. Now decontaminated, it lay rusted and partially submerged in a tidal stream. On the rolling Sussex Downs I saw tangles of barbed wire, reaching for miles across the gaps and valleys where enemy beachheads might have been established. Inland, the cement tank-traps still stretched across the fields where invaders could have penetrated to the interior. On the seafronts and beaches, however, most of these obstructions have now been removed.

Finally, I remarked with pleasure on the commons and the wooded areas, retained for public recreation against the encroaching expansion of population. The "green belt" around London is nowhere far distant from the madding crowd. Here is breathing space for the seathing public; here is nature and comparative quietude. And those historic hunting grounds, where cuckoos and nightingales sing a tune so characteristically British — Epping Forest, not far from London — and Sherwood, home of the storied outlaw Robin Hood — though settlement has somewhat hemmed them in, these preserves remain, a treasure in Old England's heritage.

(To be concluded next issue.)

As late as 1789 instruments of "unicorn's horn" were used in the French court to test the royal food for poison.

Alexander Hamilton was killed by Aaron Burr on the same dueling ground where Hamilton's son fell in a duel three years earlier.

Annual Competitions at Glengarry Scots Games

Maxville, Ont. (CP) — Gladys Forrester, 26-year-old Toronto dancer, took top dancing honors Saturday in the third annual competition of the Glengarry highland games.

The skirl of pipes, the swing of kilts and the tread of dancing feet drew a crowd of 18,000 spectators to the Scottish games, famous throughout Eastern Ontario.

With victories in the highland fling, sword dance, Irish jig and sailor's hornpipe, Miss Forrester competed successfully for the MacNeil Memorial Trophy, emblematic of the Ontario championship for adult dancers.

Another Toronto dancer, 14-year-old Patricia Ann Templeton, took the Zorra Trophy for 16-year-olds and under.

Champion piper of the day was Pipe Major John Wilson, 46, of Hamilton, Ont.

The crack pipe band of the Canadian National Railways, Montreal, took top honors among pipe bands.

AS WITH A GOOD CUP OF TEA, the important thing in a barber-shop quartet is the blend. "Don't worry too much about the individual voices — just so long as they blend closely, and the closer the better". So says Bill Carr, baritone and soloist of the CBC's male quartet in Vancouver, which is an indispensable part of the Leicester Square to Broadway show — Tuesday nights at 10.30. Lined up here, like peas in a pod, are the four voices. All decked out for the special occasion of having their pictures taken (in their usual order) are: second tenor Len Haymon, baritone Bill Carr, basso Horace Chapman and top tenor Hubert Nowell.

Minnesota Recreating Old-Time Farm Days

St. Paul, Minn. (UP) — Minnesota farmers are being asked to get their grandfathers' musty hand hewn plows and grandma's churns and spinning wheels down from the hayloft and send them to the state capitol.

With the approval of Gov. Luther W. Youngdahl, the Minnesota Historical Society is starting a farm museum and wants samples of all types of equipment used in developing the state's great agricultural industry.

The farm museum committee's ultimate hope is to gather enough equipment from all periods of the state's history to permit actual practice of the various farm crafts in the museum. For instance, it wants to re-assemble a complete century-old grist mill.

Property Valuation Revision Before Brownsb'g Council

It is those lots which are now being classed as building lots. They can't be sold as building lots because of the magazines, and for industrial purposes they are included in the general plant property — in fact some are within the boundary fence of the plant property.

Councillor Ouellette: "How much more will it cost the company?"

Councillor Somers: "Well, the amount is only about $4,000 in valuation, a small item. But there is a principle involved".

Councillor Ouellette: "Only a matter of $40, if it is that much."

Mayor: "The law says we can tax all lots bordering the public road as building lots. Even if you can't sell those lots as building lots, that does not alter the classification. Suppose we exempt those lots, what grounds have we to discriminate against any other taxpayer who comes along and says he is not going to sell those lots as building lots. How can we tax some people and exempt others within the same law?"

Councillor Somers: "There is a slight difference. If you want an industry to progress within the law, you must allow the land. The code does not say industrial land can be so classed."

Mayor: "Well, we had better be sure of our legal grounds. We should get an opinion on it."

The Secretary read out the second complaint, which was of a like nature except that the land claimed for exemption was agricultural and some lots had already been sold in this area. The letter stated that the valuators laid out imaginary lots with imaginary valuations, against which the writer protested. At the conclusion of the letter the Secretary threw the letter on the table and said this imaginary writer did not sign his name! . . Mr. Josephat Lacasse came forward and acknowledged it referred to his son's farm.

Mr. A. Brunelle, one of the council's valuators, protested against the use of the word "imaginary". He held it was a reflection on the work of the assessors. Did it mean that they were not capable of doing the work? Before setting out on the work of valuation they had consulted the council's lawyer, Mr. F. Legault, and he gave them a considered opinion, to which they adhered in fairness and honesty. They carried out the work to the best of their ability, and they now stood by it.

The Secretary (who had assisted on the valuation) read the article of the code under which they worked. He also protested the use of the word "imaginary". There was nothing imaginary in what they did.

After some further discussion, and after Mr. George Lacasse had asked permission to sign the letter, which he did, the whole question was adjourned till August 14, when a written legal opinion will be obtained from the council's lawyer and the whole matter will be gone into.

The meeting decided that a complete check should be carried out with a view of catching speeders, and insist on the law governing speed within the municipal boundaries being observed. A team of checkers would be placed on this work following publication of an advertisement in The Watchman notifying the general public that the check was in progress, and fines would be imposed on anyone found breaking the regulations.

A sum of $903.60 was authorized to be paid to the contractor for sidewalks at St. Louis, McMaster, Main and St. Joseph Streets.

The Secretary read a report from the Council's surveyor, Louis Miron, of St. Jerome, that the survey of St. Joseph Street was now completed to the railway track. He had been asked to continue to the junction of the road at the river, but was awaiting authorization from Council. He had made a spot survey at Mr. Leveille's and found the frontage out of alignment, but without a complete survey he could not determine the line for laying the proposed sidewalk. His account to date was $300. The Mayor explained that at Leveille's the line went in on the property about a foot, and it would be difficult to run the sidewalk with any degree of surety that at some future date trouble would not arise. He suggested that a survey be made of this front. At the corner of St. Joseph between Mr. Ball's and Mr. McCulloch's, there was a shortage of road width of about six feet. It may have to come off one or both those properties, and it would be necessary to have a survey made to establish the line.

Councillor Wilson: "It is better to have it surveyed and abide by the survey."

Councillor Somers: "That's the proper way to have the work done."

On a motion of Councillor Wilson, seconded by Councillor Somers, it was decided to continue the survey on those two areas.

A letter was received from the Canadian Underwriters that a new survey of insurance rate would be made in the near future, as a result of the increased protection offered by the council's fire equipment.

The Council decided to raise the existing sidewalks at Bank Street, Hebert's and Nadon's, and an extension at Malacket's and M. Gagne's, also to raise the sidewalk at Maple Ave. (Moseley's).

Model Kitchen Sets Design for Future

Toronto (CP) — A model kitchen, designed to be least fatiguing for housewives suffering from heart disease, may set the pattern for kitchen equipment of the future.

The model was worked out by the firm of Dr. Lillian Gilbreth, distinguished American efficiency engineer and heroine of the recent best seller "Cheaper by the Dozen".

Dr. Gilbreth, in an interview here recently, said the plan incorporates equipment and chairs on wheels, red-marked danger areas and green-painted safety zones and tray-fitted moveable table tops for sliding dishes into arm-height ovens.

She said the low-set oven on the modern stove is one of the most fatiguing pieces of equipment women operate.

Dr. Gilbreth had little to say of the success of her family's history but like the young authors, the publishers and the agents, she was astonished at the success of "the children's little effort".

A trained psychologist before she joined her late husband in his engineering work and studies, Dr. Gilbreth has little patience with the woman whose job is done, either in shop, office or home and finds time heavy on her hands. There is too much volunteer work to be done, she says, and so much of interest going on in the world.

Rewards for Effort and Initiative

By Joseph Lister Rutledge

We know of lands where hunger and fear and compulsion and uncertainty, or some of these, are the whole of life's background. Much of the world is troubled, much of it uncertain. Yet we, who have no special deserts, do not know what hunger is, and the only fear in our lives is the fear that hangs over all mankind.

We are pretty fortunate, in our ways, and in the system under which we live. Nobody has a dog collar on us. Nobody tells us where to work, or what to work at. Nobody says: "that's your niche in life, make the best of it". Perhaps we are a laborer and we want to be an industrialist, a big-shot. Well, what's stopping us? Nothing but ourselves, our unwillingness to work hard and long hours, to deny ourselves in the present in the hope of a future. "Piffle!" you say? Not by the record. Pick any industry and occupation and you can discover scores of men, no better placed than you, who marched steadily to the top.

You want to be your own boss? O.K. What's to stop you? You can start a business, with a pushcart, if necessary, and wheel it right to the top of the line. It has been done, here in Canada. Yes, or you can be as lazy and dependent as you want, working just to get by, depending on better workers to support your wage scale and on government for your protection. It's your choice. That's the point. Your choice to get ahead or to drag. Either way, you are better off with us than you would be anywhere else.

There's another thing too. If you do work hard and get ahead, what you have sacrificed for is yours. Nobody will take it from you — unless the system changes. Of course, there is more chance of its changing if, in getting something for yourself, you don't help provide an opportunity for others to better themselves, as you did.

But, by and large, what you have honestly earned by effort and co-operation and vision, will be yours. Your children, for whom, very probably, you made the effort, will start a little better off than you did. Perhaps they can profit by your mistakes to climb a little higher. Or, again, they can coast, and ultimately find themselves back where you began. But this is sure. Nobody will push them back. It will be their own choice.

It doesn't matter much, what we call this system. Looking at it any way, it offers the best terms of life to be found anywhere. Not perfect, but still the best. It isn't dominance by the few, not a levelling down of the many. Just a fair chance for you to go where you will to go, supported by the gifts you have, or those you set out to acquire. We fought a couple of wars because we liked this way of life better than any other. Look around again. See if anything better is offering. If not, don't let anybody cheat us out of it now.

Along one of the main corridors of the City of Stockholm, are several niches occupied by bronze busts of men who had to do with building the Hall — not members of the building commission or the Chamber of Commerce but men who actually did the building. One is of the man who worked the greatest number of days; another man distinguished himself in metal work. All these men had been voted on by their trade associates as most worthy to be memorialized.

They Take the Oldest Cure

In a pleasant grove in one of Amsterdam's spacious public parks, I came across what appeared to be an open-air hospital ward. Patients sat in comfortable chairs, with feet raised, enjoying the sunshine. Some were reading, others were busy with hobbies — knitting, embroidery, drawing, carpentry and wickerwork. A few dozed peacefully in the shade of the tall trees. A doctor, a physiotherapist and three nurses were in charge.

It was the doctor who explained to me that this was a Day Rehabilitation Centre. The patients came to the park each morning, returned to their homes each evening. Some were convalescents, referred from hospitals and infirmaries; others were sent by their family doctors. The treatment? — "It is only good food, fresh air, rest and the knowledge that they do not have to worry about anything," I was told.

"A good many housewives, over-tired and run-down, come here to relax each day for a week or two. Businessmen, too, make use of the centre, and, of course, people who have been sick or injured and are nearing recovery. Places like this are to be found in most Dutch cities. They are quite independent of any hospitals."

Apparently I was not the only one impressed by this sound scheme. At a later session of the Congress, several delegates asked questions about the centres. Dr. Y. van der Leen, managing director of the sanatorium "Zonnestraal", Hilversum, Holland, explained their operation.

It is worth noting that no delegate rose to describe any similar scheme existing in his own country. It seems probable, therefore, that Holland is the only country in which they are to be found.

A Child and His Money

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"Get me a chocolate bar, Daddy".

"Can I have a nickle for an ice cream cone?"

"Mummy, I want ten cents for a balloon!"

"All the other boys are going to the show. Can't I have the money to go too?"

"Mary Jones has a new blue coat and a hat to match.

"When can you buy me a spring outfit, Mother?"

"I'm tired of my old last year's things!"

Requests for money for good things to eat, for toys, for movies and new clothes, all these have a very familiar sound in the ears of modern parents. "Money, money, money, our children are always after money! Can't you do something about it?" a father irritably asks his wife.

"What can I do about it?" his wife replies quickly. "I guess we will have to take time off and decided just what we both can do about it. We should be sure of our own ideas about our youngsters and money."

Not an Easy One

The subject of a child and money is no easy one for parents today. One difficulty is that boys and girls, particularly those in cities and towns, have all kinds of opportunities for spending money long before they have had any real experience in earning money. As soon as a child is old enough to go into stores with his mother, he observes her opening her purse and parting with money in exchange for desirable objects. She explains to him that he must not lift a toy car off the counter and go off with it. "Mummy has given the clerk the money for it."

Vistors sometimes give a little child a copper. A youngster may regard these coins the same as other playthings. He soon learns that he must not lose them and that Mother and Daddy place money in a special class. A small boy who has been allowed to play with keys and other small trinkets in his Mother's purse, opens it, from curiosity, and takes out the money from her coin purse. As he is busy spreading it on the floor, he is surprised to find how cross his mother is that he has touched her money!

What are some practical suggestions which parents can try out in teaching their child the value and wise use of money? A child can only learn to use money well by experience, just as he learns to write by writing, or play the piano by practising on it. Around the time he is old enough to count, to keep track of coppers and nickles and dimes, he should be given a regular weekly allowance. The amount depends on the father's income, the child's age, experience, the average amount his chums have to spend in a week. A six or seven year old might be given five or ten cents a week. The little child should not be forced to "keep accounts". If this appeals to him, well and good, but there is little value in forcing him to write down his expenditures. The essence of an allowance is that it is the child's own money, to be spent as he wishes — not to be taken away from him as a punishment and he should not be pressed to put part of it aside in order to save! A small child has little interest in long term saving. But gradually he learns to forego today's pleasure in a ten cent balloon in order to buy a thirty-nine cent motor boat tomorrow!

Real Earning

It is not easy to make provision for younger public school children to earn money at home. There is always the problem that if a boy is paid for carrying out ashes or shovelling a walk or mowing a lawn, or a girl is given money for dusting, or washing dishes or making beds, the son or daughter in the house will come to think that they need never help with the work of the house unless they are paid. A child should have certain regular tasks as a member of the home, in order to help Mummy or Daddy, and other special jobs which he can do or not as he likes, for a certain sum of money.

An older boy or girl should be encouraged to experience real earning in the outside world, by selling papers, clerking, running errands, delivering parcels, cutting grass, minding children. As a child grows, his allowance should be increased and the range of things it covers made larger. A collegiate student's allowance and earning should cover most of his amusements, incidentals, and a good many of his clothing purchases as well. An adolescent can decide on goals such as buying a new bicycle, or a trip or going to camp, which require a considerable sum and use the necessary self-denial to regularly save towards these desirable ends. Learning to use money is a long, slow process — it is something some adults never learn, and a child must be allowed to make his own mistakes, to find out for himself the things money can buy — and also be taught the values in life which money cannot buy!

It's Worth Saving Part of Family Allowance Cheques

Make This Down Payment on a Full Education

There are many ways of giving children a worthwhile start in life. Home training counts for a lot, so do good food and clothing. And there's the great advantage of a well-balanced education.

Most parents have probably discussed these matters often enough, just as they've discussed the best ways of employing the monthly Family Allowance Cheques. And they've considered the long-term uses of these cheques — saving them for High School and College days.

Even if you can't see your way to set aside the whole cheque each month, why not save a portion of it for this purpose? Open a special savings account at the Bank of Montreal, and put away your Dollars for Education regularly each month. By the time your family needs them, they'll have added up — with interest — to a sizable sum. Your youngsters will appreciate this great help forward on the road to success.

When you receive your next cheque, drop into your local branch of the B of M to cash it and put some dollars aside. Donald Hay, manager, warmly invites you to open a savings account for this best of purposes.

TOM GARD'S NOTE BOOK

It seems as if most people have a struggle to furnish their first home. We visited newlyweds last weekend and it was almost like reliving our own first few months! They will succeed, though, as first things had been put first and improvisation took care of the rest. One of their best "makeshifts" was a hall table. His parents had modernized an old sideboard by removing the top section—mirror and all. The top shelf and two supports had been left intact; a third leg was placed in the centre at the back and then braces run to the other two legs. It made an ideal hall table for the telephone and hadn't cost a cent. Even the mirror had been resilvered, etched and mounted on half-inch plywood, making an inexpensive hall mirror.

Barrel-Stave Hammock

If you would like a hammock to hang under your favourite tree but must pamper a limited budget, try the idea developed by a neighbour down the street. Holes were bored in old barrel staves and then threaded with half-inch rope. You'll see how it was done by examining the diagram shown. A heavy blanket or old sleeping bag will make the hammock quite comfortable.

Corner Garden Seat

If you wish a garden trellis in a half-pint backyard, don't stick it out in the centre of the lawn like a sore thumb. Arbours and gateways should lead somewhere; high trellises should terminate some line of vision. One of the best ideas I have seen for a small garden combined the trellis with a corner garden seat. It was most attractive and a solid mass of blue morning glories when I last saw it.

I notice some of my perennials are beginning to fall over. In case you haven't suitable flower supports for your garden, here is the type I have been using for years. They are easy to apply and just as easy to store away in the fall.

More about these and many other ideas in the booklet "AROUND THE HOME". Write for your copy to Tom Gard, c/o MOLSON'S BREWERY LIMITED, P.O. Box 1600, Place d'Armes, Montreal, Que.

Marriage of Interest At Hudson Heights, Que.

Dawson - Bowen

On Saturday afternoon, July 22, at 2.30 o'clock, a very pretty wedding took place at the St. James Anglican Church in Hudson Heights, when Miss Evelyn Mae Bowen, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Bowen, of Choisy, Que., was united in marriage to Mr. Garth Robert Dawson, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Dawson, of Grenville, Que. Cannon Willis, of Montreal, officiated, with the Rev. E. C. Royle assisting. Country flowers were used to decorate the church.

The wedding music was played by Mr. Warren Day and a solo, "O Perfect Love", was sung during the signing of the register.

The bride, given away by her father, wore a floor-length gown of ivory satin designed with a tight-fitting bodice, having an off-the-shoulder ruffle of satin with a yoke of fine net, long sleeves ending in points over the hands, and a full skirt. Her full-length veil of embroidered net was gathered to a crown of lily-of-the-valley. She carried a bouquet of white gladioli.

Miss Jean Bowen, sister of the bride, as her maid of honor, wore a floor-length gown of yellow moire taffeta with matching mitts and cap, with a shoulder-length veil, and carried a bouquet of mauve gladioli.

Her flower girl, Miss Diane Paquette, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Paquette, of Montreal, wore a floor-length dress of pale green organdy trimmed with yellow lace, and carried a nosegay of pink roses and sweet peas.

Mr. Albert J. Bond acted as best man and the ushers were Mr. Stanley Bowen, brother of the bride, and Mr. Edgar Dawson, brother of the groom.

Mrs. Bowen, mother of the bride, was attired in an afternoon dress of navy blue and white silk with a natural shade straw hat, matching accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Mrs. Dawson, mother of the groom, wore an afternoon dress of navy blue silk, a navy blue hat and white accessories, and wore a corsage of red roses.

Following the ceremony, a lawn reception was held at "Briarhurst Farm", home of the bride's parents. The bride's table was beautifully decorated with a lace cloth, with streamers falling in scallops around the edge of the table, and centred with the three-tier wedding cake made by her mother.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Dawson left on a motor trip to Niagara Falls and other points in Ontario. The bride travelled in a street-length dress of navy blue and pink silk, with matching accessories. . . Mr. and Mrs. Dawson later took up residence in Montreal.

Guests at the wedding were — Mrs. John Paquette, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ford, Mr. and Mrs. V. Pepin and family, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Barron and daughter, Eileen, and Mr. and Mrs. E. D. MacLean, all of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. H. Banfill and daughter, Margaret, of North Hatley, Que.; Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Corey, of East Hatley, Que.; Mrs. F. Bowen, of Rock Island, Que.; Mrs. Stanley Bowen and son, Bobbie, of Hudson; Miss Marjorie Graham and Miss Audrey Gray, both of Alstonvale, Que.; Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Simon and family, of Hudson Heights; Mr. Edgar Lavigne, of Choisy, Que.; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Dawson, Miss Pearl Dawson, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Matthew and family, Mr. and Mrs. Clive Kirkwood, Mr. Ronald Mathew, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Mathew, Mr. and Mrs. Fraser Watson and daughter, Ora, Rev. and Mrs. P. R. Stote and family, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Canning, and Mr. and Mrs. Alan R. Vowles, all of Grenville, Que.; Mr. and Mrs. Geddes Dowles, Mr. Norman Philippe and Miss E. Welden, all of Ottawa.

EVERYONE'S CONCERN

Tourist business has become an important industry in Canada. It is the concern of every citizen who sees a car with a non-Canadian license drive along the highway. Its future is unlimited.

— Salmon Arm (B.C.) Observer

Textile Employment And Tariff Rates

During 1948 employment in the Canadian textile industry reached an all-time high of over 96,000 persons. Since then, stiff competition from foreign textile producers who benefit by substantially lower wage levels, has forced more and more lay-offs in the domestic industry, until at present the figure is down to under 92,000.

The importance of discrepancies in wage levels to the competitiveness of textile plants in different countries is obvious when it is realized that in the finished textile product labor costs are the largest single item in total costs of production. It follows, that despite higher efficiency in Canadian equipment and manufacturing methods, the greater labor outlay bears heavily on the price Canadian industry must quote to its customers.

Ever since the usefulness of a domestic textile industry was recognized by public opinion, a moderate duty has been levied on imported textiles in order to equalize to a certain extent their prices with those prevailing within our borders. "These duties", the Almonte, Ontario, Gazette wrote recently, "offer some support for the better wages of Canadian workers. But recent history shows these duties are being steadily reduced. Canada has about the lowest textile tariffs in the world".

And the Ontario paper struck a warning note in its concluding remarks which will no doubt be heeded by every one of those thousands of Canadian men and women working in the textile industry. "With each reduction (in the Canadian textile tariff) there is more doubt about how long the 94,000 textile workers in this country can be kept employed."

W.I. Interest in Autumn School Fairs

The season of fall fairs is approaching, and requests have been received for the services of the Quebec Women's Institutes demonstrator, Miss F. E. Campbell, as judge at these exhibitions. School Fairs are given priority, for the Q.W.I. has long been interested in the promotion of this important project. Fresh impetus was given the work when, for the past two years, free seeds were supplied from the Provincial Department of Agriculture. 900 Collections, each containing 10 packages of vegetable and flower seeds, were distributed to branches throughout the province this year and indications point to a record number of these fairs, as weather conditions have been more favorable than last year when many branches had to cancel them owing to the dry season.

All branches wishing the services of Miss Campbell should get their request in to the Q.W.I. office at least a month in advance, to assist her in making her plans.

A forest fire prevention week is not enough. From now on until the fall rain starts, every week should be an unofficial forest fire prevention week.

FERRYBOAT'S TOMCAT A SMART WEATHERMAN

North Sydney, N.S. (CP) — None of the crew of the ferry Burgeo seems to resent the fact that Tom, a big, aged tomcat, can take shore leave from the ship whenever he likes.

He likes it, too — especially when there are heavy seas on the Burgeo's run between this Cape Breton Island port and Port-aux-Basques, Nfld.

Tom wandered aboard the Burgeo in May, 1949. He jumped ship after one trip but was back two trips later. Now he usually skips whenever it looks as though there's going to be rough weather.

No one knows where Tom came from. Captain Mike Tobin of North Sydney, skipper of the Burgeo, thinks Tom is a deserter brought back by another Canadian National Steamships vessel, the Brigus, from a trip to South America.

BEER DRINKING

A recent estimate places 52.4% of adult population as beer consumers, with beer going to 69% of families. A brewing survey estimate gives 65.2% of all men and 40% of all women as beer consumers. — "The Voice".

While these figures are for the United States, the mounting sales of beer in Canada would go to show that the same trend is apparent here.

Avoca Girl Is Bride In Ottawa Nuptials

Burwash - Arthurs

The marriage of Miss Evelyn Arthurs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Arthurs, of Avoca, Que., to Mr. Clayton Burwash, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Burwash, of St. Eugene, Ont., took place at 3 p.m. on Saturday, July 29, at the McPhail Memorial Baptist Church, Ottawa, with the Rev. Ronald Harmer officiating. Mr. F. Brandon played the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white gabardine suit with navy accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses.

Miss Ethel Arthurs, as bridesmaid for her sister, wore a pink sharkskin suit, white accessories, and a corsage of pink roses.

Mr. Vincent Hand acted as best man for the groom.

The bride's mother wore a navy dress with white accessories, and a corsage of Pinochio roses.

The bridegroom's mother wore a pale blue dress with navy accessories, and a corsage of red roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in The Dell Tea Room. The bridal table was decorated with flowers and centred by the wedding cake.

The happy couple then left for a motor trip to Toronto, Niagara and Buffalo. They will reside in Ottawa.

Pretty House Wedding In Lachute Recently

Dlugolecki - Thompson

A pretty wedding was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Thompson on July 31, when their daughter, Audrey, was united in marriage to Mr. Leon Dlugolecki, of Utica, N.Y.

The wedding ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. Orsborn, formerly of Lachute. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Earl Morrison, and the groom's best man was Mr. John Babowicz, of Potsdam, N.Y.

The bride wore a gown of white Beadoria satin with long sleeves terminating over the hands. Her full skirt ended with a fan-shaped train, and her long net veil formed a cap effect with ruchings of satin and a wreath of lilies-of-the-valley. She carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Earl Morrison, was dressed in a pale blue gown and carried a bouquet of sweet peas.

At the conclusion of the ceremony a reception was held, where the guests enjoyed a lovely salad supper. The happy couple then left on a short honeymoon trip.

The bride is a graduate of the Catherine Booth Hospital and has just recently been on the staff of Potsdam General Hospital. The groom graduated recently from the Clarkson College of Technology in Electrical Engineering.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dlugolecki, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dlugolecki, Misses Florence and Regina Dlugolecki, Mrs. Anthony Komnick and daughter, Lorraine, Mr. Calvin Teachout, all of Utica, N.Y.; Miss Beverley Dibble, Potsdam, N.Y.; Mrs. E. Orsborn and daughters, Ruth and Myra, of Montreal, and Joyce Fenner, of Montreal.

British Columbia's present program of highway reconstruction is being carried out at an average cost of $75,000 per mile, which is a pretty staggering figure and well explains why there may be tie-ups and delays in the reconstruction program.

It is High Time to Awake!

Despite all efforts advanced by world statesmen, and their promises of a better world of tomorrow, the threat of a third world war hangs over the nations, resulting in fear of the future, unbearable anxieties and nerve-strain beyond anything previously experienced. What does it all mean? Where can men turn for hope? Two world wars have been waged to secure Democracy, yet failure and disappointment is evident.

"It is High Time to Awake" and to examine the Word of Almighty God, the Bible which gives the true answer of present day conditions and the outcome.

Fruitless Fire Call In Midnight Hours

A fire alarm, sounded at 2.30 o'clock this morning, brought out the full force and equipment to a dump-site off Bethany Road — across the town boundary in St. Jerusalem Parish. The firemen discovered a pile of rubbish burning in a gulley away from buildings and habitations, and presenting no danger. . . The firefighters left the dump burning, as they found it.

If Russia Invaded Canada

(From The Ottawa Journal)

Communists across Canada, few in numbers but taking full advantage of the freedom of speech Canada allows them, are denouncing UN intervention in Korea, attacking the United States as an "imperialistic" power and the agressor in this struggle, demanding that Korea be left to its fate.

That is, of course, the Moscow line. Whatever Moscow says, Communists of the world approve. In their minds the Kremlin always is right, no matter how its "line" changes, and their own countries wrong when they disagree with the Soviet Union.

These people have no loyalty to Canada, and there cannot be the smallest doubt that if Russia were to attack this country their feelings would be unchanged. In the event of war they would be an active menace to our national security — not, as now, a nuisance and an irritation.

The Government of Quebec, we are told, has plans ready for the arrest of every Communist in that province in the event of an "emergency". No other course would be consistent with the public safety and we may assume that the authorities in Canada are fully aware of the imperative need which then would arise for swift action. Our Communists are citizens of Canada in name only. At heart they are the enemies of everything we value.

In snakes and gecko lizards, the tear duct opens into the mouth.

FIRST CABINET MEETING ABOARD A TRAIN

Montreal — Transportation history was made when a meeting of the Canadian Cabinet was held on the Canadian National train carrying the remains of the late Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King from Ottawa to Toronto. This is the first occasion upon which a Cabinet meeting has been held on a moving train. There were 17 Cabinet Ministers present and the meeting took place in the business car of the railway's president, Donald Gordon, one of the cars which was carrying Mr. King's pallbearers to the funeral service in Toronto.

What's it really worth?

The smile of a shut-in who knows you haven't forgotten...

The rush of fire-trucks answering a frantic call...

The daily ordering of food for the family meal...

The friendly chat, the urgent reminder, the important business decision...

IT'S HARD TO MEASURE THE TRUE VALUE OF ALL THE THINGS YOUR TELEPHONE DOES FOR YOU.

YET TELEPHONE SERVICE is one of the smallest items in your family budget. And at the same time your telephone brings twice as many telephone users within your reach as it did ten years ago. Today, as always, your telephone is big value.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF CANADA

IF YOU ARE WAITING FOR A TELEPHONE, or for a higher grade of service, you have our assurance that you will have it just as quickly as we can provide the necessary facilities. Our continuing goal is to provide the kind of service to all who want it, when and where they want it.

Meat to Fit Budget

Meat always takes a considerable slice out of any household budget and so the matter of meat looms large among the problems of the homemaker.

Unfortunately for the economy of many establishments, there is one group of meats that are too often forgotten when marketing. Liver, kidney, heart and tongue may be served in many ways and truly deserve the name "Variety meats" by which they are sometimes known. Calves' liver has reached the luxury class since knowledge of nutritive values has become general. Beef and pork liver, although not so delicate in flavor, offer equal food value at lower cost. Broiled kidneys are considered a gourmet's delight.

Here are some excellent suggestions for using these economy meats. They will act as first aid to ailing budgets and at the same time be enjoyed by the whole family. The recipes come from the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture.

Kidney Creole

1 Beef kidney, ¼ cup flour, 1 large onion (minced), ¼ cup fat, 1½ cups canned tomatoes, 2 cups boiling water, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper and other seasoning as desired.

Wash kidney, cut away fat, tubes and membrane. Slice and dredge with flour. Brown kidney and onion in hot fat. Add tomatoes, water and seasonings, cover tightly and simmer until meat is tender, about 1½ hours. Serve on toast. Yield: six servings.

Liver and Sausage Loaf

1 Pound liver (pork or beef), 1 onion chopped, ½ pound sausage meat, 1 cup dry bread crumbs, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 2 eggs, ½ cup tomato juice.

Cover liver with boiling water and simmer for five minutes. Drain. Grind liver with onion, using medium blade of food chopper. Add the remaining ingredients. Form into a loaf. Bake in a moderate oven, 350° F., for one hour. Serve with Tomato Sauce. Yield: six to eight servings.

Calves' Tongues

4 Cups water, ½ teaspoon dried celery leaves or celery salt, 1 onion, sliced, 2 carrots, 1 bay leaf, 6 to 8 peppercorns, 1½ teaspoons salt, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 2 calves' tongues, 2 teaspoons flour, 2 teaspoons cold water, salt and pepper to taste, 1 teaspoon grated horseradish.

Boil together for 3 minutes the water, celery leaves, onion, carrots, bay leaf, peppercorns, salt and vinegar. Lower temperature to simmering and add calves' tongues. Continue to simmer until tongues are tender, about 1½ hours. Remove skin. Strain stock and thicken with flour, which has been mixed to a smooth paste in the cold water. Add salt and pepper to taste and grated horseradish. Yield: six servings.

U.K. SURVEY PLOTS NEW INFANT CHARTS

London (CP) — Scientists are going to try to find out whether Britain's babies are really as healthy as they look.

New figures will be sought to replace weight and growth charts which have become outmoded in the last 50 years.

As part of a country-wide survey, parents will be asked how much money they make, whether both marriage partners are working, and to tell what sort of homes they live in.

The survey is being made by the Health and Education Ministries in co-operation with the Pediatric Association. Results are expected in three years.

When the record is complete it will be the first national yardstick on infant health since 1901.

"Obsolete" Clothes Are Merchants' Bugbear

New York Stores Would Like Annual New Look for Women's Wear

New York (CP) — Look out, lady. There are a lot of people aiming to make you unhappy.

They think you are too well satisfied with the clothes you have. (Tell that to your husband when he tries to convince you that old thing you wore all last season is still perfectly good).

These would-be "merchants of unhappiness" are none too happy themselves about the way women's wear has been clinging to store racks instead of moving into your clothes closets. One of them has come right out and said the cure for that is to make you unhappier.

"It is our job to make women unhappy with what they have in the way of apparel", B. Earl Puckett, chairman of Allied Stores Corp., told the New York Fashion Group.

The clothing industry has fallen down on that job, he added — creators of women's styles by not getting some kind of new look every year, retailers by relaxing selling efforts, store salespeople by being too independent. He urged all groups to do their best to make women feel their present clothes are obsolete.

"We must not only replace what is worn out, we must replace what is obsolete; we must accelerate obsolescence."

A friend of mine sometimes feels that his wife and two children do not fully appreciate him. While reading "A Workable Cue to Happiness and Personality" in a recent Reader's Digest he underlined in red a sentence he thought aptly summed up his position:

"The father, upon his arrival home, is often greeted with greater affection by the dog than by his own children."

Having got this off his mind, he thought no more about it until he happened to thumb through the magazine a week later. Someone had underlined in green the sentence immediately following his red-marked one.

It read: "For that matter, he may greet the dog with more enthusiasm that he greets his family". — From "Life's Like That" in the Reader's Digest.

Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth celebrated her 50th birthday on August 4th. This photograph is a special birthday portrait taken recently at Buckingham Palace.

A NORMAL HABIT

Children are often criticized — and sometimes disciplined — for fidgeting, but doctors point out that small movements are normal in children and that suppression of these natural movements is one of the important causes of fatigue and inattention, particularly in school children. Youngsters need to move about a bit in order to stay relaxed and comfortable.

BANNED BOOKS POPULAR

There is satisfaction perhaps in a ban of anything with which we do not agree. But, the main result of banning bad books, bad plays, or even bad people, is to give them an added and feverish interest.

SIXTY-YEAR WAIT FOR WEDDING CAKE

Nanaimo, B.C. (CP) — A 60-year wait for a wedding cake ended for Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Whitehead with their diamond wedding anniversary here.

Friends presented the couple with a wedding cake — making up for the one they didn't have when they were married in July, 1890, in the mining town of Leadville, Colo.

Besides the cake, Mr. Whitehead, 82, and his wife, 77, received a congratulatory telegram from King George and Queen Elizabeth.

Travelling Library

Several years ago a collection of books was received by the Quebec Women's Institutes from branches of the Women's Institutes in England. These were sent in appreciation of the support and assistance given them throughout the difficult years of World War II. The books have since been on loan from the Q.W.I. office but it has long been felt more use should be made of this gift. At a recent meeting of the Q.W.I. Executive, the recommendation was made that those suitable be donated to the McLennan Travelling Library at Macdonald College, and the librarian, Miss Mavis Clarke, be asked to make the selections. This has now been done and it is hoped with the expanding service being planned by the Travelling Library, these books will reach a wider circle of readers.

The few that are left are being shipped to the Veterans' Hospital at St. Hyacinthe, where reading matter is eagerly sought and much appreciated.

The absentee ballot was first used during the Civil War, when 11 Union states permitted men absent on army duty to vote.

Week-End Games in Arg. Softball League

Four teams saw action last Sunday, with White Rose and Beavers coming out on the winning end.

At Lachute, the Beavers defeated Tigers by a count of 24 to 12 in a free-scoring game. Beavers took an early lead of 5-4, but Tigers came back in the next inning to make it 10-5 in their favor. That was the best they could do, however, as Beavers took over from there on, and made the final score 24-12.

The Upper Lachute, White Rose field, a fine game was played between Bluebirds of Lachute and White Rose. The contest was very close all the way, and two home-runs by Frank Donagani gave White Rose the game, 11-9.

The other scheduled game, between Malacket Spiders and Boyd's will be played during this week, as both teams were short of players on Sunday. Results of this game will be included in next week's report.

Standing to date, with exception of the Boyd's - Malacket game, is as follows:

	P.	W.	L.	Pts.
White Rose	12	9	3	18
Malacket Spiders	11	8	3	16
Bluebirds	12	6	6	12
Beavers	12	6	6	12
Boyd's	11	3	8	6
Tigers	12	3	9	6

The schedule for next Sunday, August 13, is as follows:

Beavers vs. White Rose at Upper Lachute
Bluebirds vs. Boyd's at Wilson Field, Lachute
Tigers vs. Malacket Spiders at Brownsburg

Interesting Facts on Land Valuation Are Brought to Light at Brownsb'g

COUNCIL DISCUSSION AND LEGAL OPINION ON PROTESTS OVER ASSESSMENT REVISIONS

Brownsburg — There was a special meeting of the Municipal Council Monday evening, at which all members were present except Councillor Denault. This meeting was called for the purpose of attending to three protests received in connection with the recent revision of property valuation.

C-I-L protested against the action of the valuators in classifying property within the company's plant area under the designation of building lots. On behalf of the company, Councillor Somers countered that such land could not be sold as building lots, even if the company so desired, as under federal law the company was required to provide an area surrounding every explosive magazine, which would be a "no-man's-land" so far as occupation was concerned, as a prevention against death or destruction in the event of explosion of the magazine's contents. The article of the code permitting the corporation to classify land as building lots specifically mentioned agricultural land, and in Councillor Somers' opinion, did not apply to industrial property within a fenced plant boundary.

Mayor Jas. Donaldson did not agree with this contention. He opined that the article of the code, which was the law under which municipalities operated, gave legal authority to the council to classify any land bordering the corporation's roads or streets, and particularly fronting on roads carrying municipal services or utilities such as sewerage and waterworks, as building lots. The basic premise of this law was that the land belonged to the people of Canada. As custodians of the people's rights the municipality were empowered to assess taxes on certain lands. The fact that an industrial concern, a farmer, a company or any aggregation of persons held temporary right to the occupation of those lands, did not alter the authority which the people as a whole held over those lands. Therefore, the municipality, in the Mayor's opinion, was the governing authority and legally entitled to classify the land in question (no matter for what purpose it is held by the occupying party) in accordance with its legal category.

At a previous meeting, Mr. Geo. McVicar, one of the complainants, made the point that the land portion of his farm classed as building lots could not be so utilized. The land was low-lying and could not be tapped with the required gradient to the sewerage lines; that there was not sufficient need in Brownsburg, having regard to the employment requirements, for building lots, and this land would not therefore be used for the purpose of building.

To which the Mayor replied, this land had not been offered for sale despite the fact there was a shortage of suitable building land in the vicinity. The answer to this question lay in offering the land for sale. This should have been done years ago. Refusal to offer or sell this land had retarded the progress of Brownsburg all down the years, and in many cases people desiring to build in the municipality were forced to go outside to find suitable accommodation. The municipality had laid sewerage and water line along this property and in return collected a mere pittance in taxes, whereas, if it were built up with properties, each lot would have an average valuation of about $3,000 and the municipality could reap some return on their capital outlay. People were hewing out rock excavations while this friable soil was held in private.

Mr. George Lacasse, the third protestee, made the claim that his farm as a whole was over-valuated. The recent revision reduced his farm valuation by $1,000 — but classifying a portion along the public road as building lots (the valuation of which was calculated at over $4,000) increased his total valuation by over $3,000. This portion would not be sold as building lots within his lifetime. They have been available for sale but no one offered to buy them. In the distant future it may be that someone will build there, but meanwhile, he, as a farmer with only farm revenue, would have a pay an increased tax as building lots for lots that could not be sold. The total valuation was $18,000; that was the total price paid by him for the farm, but he contended that properties in Brownsburg were not valuated at 100%, and he claimed it was unfair to make an exception of his.

Secretary Emile Hebert, after excusing his intrusion in the discussion, said that the figures quoted were not correct. The valuation on the land was only $3,500 and the houses and buildings $4,500. The portion taxed as building lots was assessed at $100 while a little farther along the road the assessment was only $25 on each lot. The reason these lots were not taxed as high as Mr. McVicar's was that the water lines did not run along the frontage. This was the same rule as the valuators applied to the C-I-L property, where it left the water line.

The Secretary had submitted the facts to Mr. F. Legault, legal counsel, and had received a written opinion on the legal position. Mr. Legault stated that, on the facts as presented to his firm, the corporation could not be forced to reduce the valuation unless an injustice could be proved. The valuators had acted within the law; a value had been established, it is therefore legal; and the aggrieved parties would have to establish it is not so, if they were to succeed. The Secretary further stated that Mr. McVicar, who was not present, had called upon Mr. Legault and had the position explained to him. He was evidently satisfied as he pursued the matter no further.

Councillor Somers: "Well, that is the law, I suppose."

Councillor Ouellette asked if there was much change over all.

The Secretary replied: "Not much; about $50,000."

Councillor Wilson moved that the roll be homologated as it stands.

Councillor Lavoie, commenting "We can't leave it as unfinished business", seconded the motion, which was passed unanimously.

Other Business in Brief

André Fournier applied for a taxi license, which was granted after some discussion about the stand.

Killed by Train at Papineauville Station

A 72-year-old resident of St. Andre-Avelin, Que., was killed outright last Saturday night, when he walked into the path of a Montreal-Ottawa C.P.R. passenger train directly in front of the Papineauville station.

Provincial Police Det. Paul Coulombe said the victim—identified as Ernest Angrignon — had been talking to friends on the station platform when he stepped down and started to cross the tracks as the oncoming train pulled in.

At least 60 per cent of Chiang Kai Shek's troops, or about 1,800,000 men, were lost during 1948.

Old Caddies' Golf Tourney Saturday

A feature at the Lachute Golf and Country Club this Saturday will be the second annual Old Caddies' Open Tournament.

Winner of the low gross score will hold the George Boothman Memorial Trophy for one year. Five hundred dollars is offered in prizes to professionals, with numerous awards for the amateurs. The tournament will consist of 18 holes medal play.

Chas. Giraldeau, of St. Eustache, was winner of last year's tournament.

Local Airman Leaves For Pacific Zone

A Lachute Mills service-man and former employee of Ayers Limited left his Ottawa air-base for Washington this week and is reported to be on his way to Japan — in which case he is believed the first man from this locality to serve actively in the Pacific war area.

Hervé Desforges, 28 (son of Antoine Desforges, Lachute Mills) served with the R.C.A.F. in World War II. On his discharge he was employed as a machinist in the Ayers mills, then re-enlisting, in the spring of 1946, with the R.C.A.F. as an airplane mechanic.

August Session Of Town Council

Business was despatched in quick order at the August session of Town Council. Mayor Léopold Carrière presided, with six councilmen in attendance — Aldermen J. Charlebois, S. Holt and O. Laurin being absent.

Secretary A. Laurin presented accounts to the sum of $9,510.55, which were passed for payment.

It was decided to call for tenders for the winter's supply of coal and wood for municipal premises.

The Mayor and the chairman of the Roads Committee were authorized to negotiate transfers to permit the prolongation of Sidney Street through from Elizabeth to Bethany.

It was resolved also to lay an additional five-foot width of paving on Paquin Avenue.

A further resolution was passed to impose a 15-minute parking limit on the north side of Grace Street fronting the property of G. F. Calder, opposite the Court House.

Alderman Stanley Holt was appointed pro-mayor for the ensuing three months, with necessary powers for the execution of financial business.

One Dead in Riverfront Crash

A foursome returning early Sunday morning from Stonefield to Vankleek Hill, came to grief on the riverfront highway, Route 29, at a point one mile east of Grenville. Their car, owned and driven by René Duval, swerved and turned over completely, landing in the ditch. Roderick Dewar, 22, was hurled out of the automobile and suffered a fractured skull. His companions received minor injuries. All four were taken by ambulance to the Notre Dame Hospital at Hawkesbury, where Dewar succumbed to his injuries five hours after the crash.

Dr. C. E. Lafrance, of Hawkesbury, was in attendance, and Dr. H. Kirby, coroner for that district, was notified of the fatality.

Inquest on the death of Roderick Dewar will be held this evening (Thursday) at the Dansereau School in Grenville.

Officers H. Jones and A. Legault, of the local traffic squad, investigated the accident. . . It is reported the car was completely wrecked.

Town Hall Burned At St. Andrews E.

The Town Hall at St. Andrews East was completely gutted in an early morning fire today. The outbreak aroused neighbors, who promptly raised the alarm. The fire department of Lachute was summoned at five o'clock a.m. by the local police chief, and a crew of six men rushed to the nearby village with their equipment.

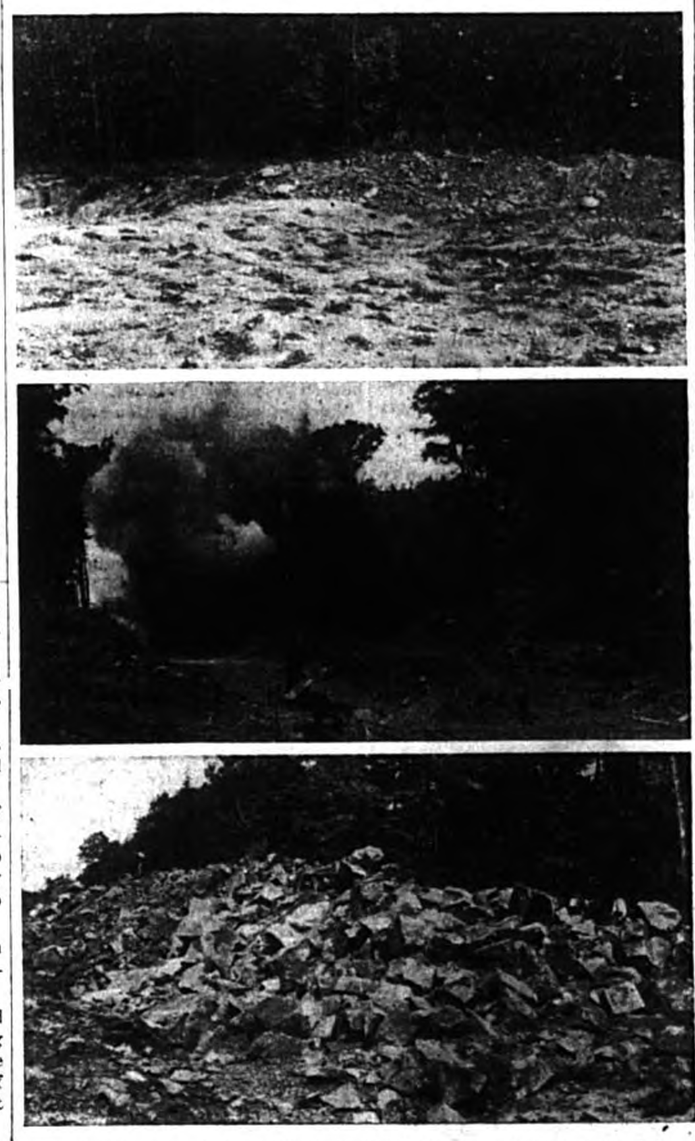

It happened that on the previous day a representative of the Bickle-Seagrave Company had been in St. Andrews East demonstrating a fire-pump to the authorities, and the operator had stayed over last night. He was called from his hotel, and the Lachute fire-crew, laying 1,100 feet of hose from the river, brought this equipment into action. However, the roof of the building had collapsed before the firemen had time to reach the scene, and nothing but the brick walls remained after the blaze had been subdued. A woodshed at the rear of the building was saved from destruction.

Cause of the outbreak was not ascertained by the local fire crew. It is stated this building was erected in 1887.

BIG BUSINESS IN CO-OPS

Co-operative business in Canada is getting bigger with the years along with an increasing membership in co-operative oranizations. Total business last year exceeded a record one billion dollars, an increase of 200 million dollars over 1948, with membership up 60,668.

Scenes at 9,000-Ton Rock Blast

In the largest single blast of its kind ever undertaken on highway construction in Canada, approximately two tons of dynamite ripped 9,000 tons of rock out of a hillside on Route 31 a few miles north of Brownsburg last week. The dynamite was loaded into 1,050 blast holes drilled over an area about 50 feet wide and 250 feet long, and fired by a new "split-second" blasting technique regarded by explosives engineers as the outstanding improvement in blasting practice in 50 years. The new technique was made possible in Canada by the use of special "short-period" electric blasting caps developed by Jim Logan and Hugh Kerr in the C-I-L laboratories at Brownsburg.

"This Week at Quebec"
By William Stewart

Quebec, Aug. 15 (CP)—A general overhauling of laws governing rehabilitation of juvenile delinquents was made last week at Quebec by Premier Duplessis.

The court of social welfare, created by legislation adopted at the last session of the legislature, replaces juvenile delinquency courts.

Judge Arthur Laramée, of Montreal, was appointed chief judge of the new court, which takes in other social welfare duties desides juvenile delinquents. Present juvenile delinquency court judges in Montreal and Quebec automatically will become social welfare judges. The Premier said nomination of a fourth judge in Montreal, and of a second in Quebec, will be made later on. The other new welfare judges are Maurice Laurin, who will sit in Three Rivers, and Jean Charles Samson, who will preside in Sherbrooke.

The Premier announced at the same time that Marcel Gaumond, senior deputy prothonotary at Quebec, had been appointed deputy clerk of the social welfare court with special duties in child adoption cases.

Quebec will be represented at a conference in Ottawa late this month on civil defence problems. The Quebec Premier said Youth Minister Joseph Paul Sauvé would attend the meetings, starting August 21.

The purpose of these deliberations is not to discuss military matters but to study methods of protecting the civilian population in the event of war.

The provincial government committee for the relief of fire-wrecked Rimouski and Cabano announced that contributions for relief had swelled to $812,691. Payments have already been made from the relief fund to homeless in Rimouski, and construction in both Cabano and Rimouski is progressing rapidly, the Premier said.

From Montreal George Emile Lapalme, provincial Liberal party leader, charged the Union Nationale government this week with "the most vicious type of patronage and pork-barrel politics" in handling colonization in Quebec Province. In an address carried over a network of Montreal radio stations, the Liberal leader said the department of colonization has been sacrificed to "the department of elections."

"One hundred settlers were established in the first half of this year, one parish founded in three years, and this with an annual expenditure of about $100,000", he said.

"If there is one branch of the government which should be exempt from political patronage, it is the Department of Colonization." He said Quebec's colonization program should be administered by an autonomous commission.

Rotarians Hear Forceful Speaker

LOCAL GROUP VISITS HAWKESBURY CLUB

Practically the entire membership of the local Rotary Club attended a joint meeting with the Hawkesbury club on Tuesday evening of last week. Guest speaker was the Rev. J. Johnson from Wanakena, N.Y., who spoke at the noon luncheon meeting of the Montreal Rotary Club on the same day.

Mr. Johnson studied for a year at the University of Beirut in Lebanon, after graduation in the United States. He was selected as one to qualify for the scholarship of the Paul Harris Foundation of Rotary International, which entitled him to a year's post-graduate study abroad.

The speaker's subject was "The Trouble with Being an American." He mentioned the fact that there were some 2,000 students attending the University at Beirut from nearly 40 different nations of the world. It was literally the place where East meets West, and the most interesting feature is that they all get along well together. He stated that the actions of the western nations are often determined by big business, such as the oil interests in the near east, or the need for strategic bases, with the result that the Americans and the British are often looked upon with suspicion. Then he said that it frequently happens that certain important Government officials, especially in the United States, will make speeches without taking into consideration the effect it may have, or the manner it which it may be interpreted, in these eastern countries. Russian propaganda, of course, never fails to make the most of these opportunities, and blasts away with every

Sun Shines on Annual Field Day for Ayers Mills Employees and Families

BIG DAY AT EXHIBITION GROUNDS, SPORTS AND AMUSEMENT FOR ADULTS AND KIDDIES

The annual Ayers field day at the Exhibition Grounds last Saturday was favored with fine weather, and by 1.30 p.m. the grandstand was crowded with spectators to view the sports contests. In these there was keen competition and enthusiasm among entrants from the Ayers Limited and Dominion Shuttle Company employees.

In the special events there were many old-time favorites and some newer innovations. A blueberry pie contest, in which competitors vied to tuck away most expeditiously half a pie, provoked much merriment. The soda-biscuit contest called for the best whistling performance of "O Canada", after competitors had consumed six soda crackers. The greased pole offered another severe challenge, and three winning participants won a juicy ham. The baby-carriage race, propelling a 250-lb babe in an oversize perambulator, also invited considerable skill and manoeuvre.

The day's events included more earnest exhibitions of strength and agility, and outstanding athlete of the occasion was Gaston Pagé.

Following the supper hour, the stage and grandstand program occupied a full evening.

Nine new members were welcomed into the "25-Year Club". Those qualifying for this long-service distinction were each presented with a 17-jewel watch and a gold button bearing the insignia of the company. The new members included:

Messrs. Raymond Langille, Arthur Cook, Daniel Simmons, Clément Durocher, Omer Ladouceur, Fernand Plouffe, Joseph Auger, Stanley Dorion; Miss Jeanne Foucault. The latter was also presented with a spray of gladioli.

Valuable gifts were then presented to the winners of the entrance-prizes, as follows:

Miss Mariette Bélanger (Ayers Ltd.) — electric refrigerator.

Gaston Chartrand (Dominion Shuttle) electric washing machine.

Jean-Claude Filion (Ayers Ltd.) — combination radio.

René Gosselin (Ayers Ltd.) — bicycle.

Jean-Paul Lapierre (Dominion Shuttle) — bicycle.

Lawrence Forget (Dominion Shuttle) — table radio.

A juvenile group of 15 boys and girls, from families of the company's employees, then presented a creditable performance in calisthenics under direction of their instructor, Armand Alie, monitor at the Ayers Ltd. Recreation Centre.

A fine vaudeville program completed the proceedings. Marcel Gamache was master of ceremonies for this three-hour show — featuring "Ti-Zoune Junior" and his troupe; Jeanne D'Arc Charlebois, popular vocalist and impersonator; Luke and Paul, acrobats; Paul Mason and his performing dogs; Juliette Huot, comedienne; and David Rochette, bass singer.

This highly varied program, and the excitement of the day, surfeited the youngsters in enjoyment, and won the approval of all present. It was another well-planned celebration, and a day to be remembered by the large gathering of mills employees and their families.

The singing of the national anthem concluded this happy occasion.

Jury Disagrees in Calumet Fatality

At an inquest last Thursday evening in the death of Fred W. Leavitt, 63, of Westmount, who was killed in No. 8 Highway at Calumet on July 2 last, the jurors failed to agree upon a verdict and the case has now been referred to the Attorney General's department at Quebec. The inquest was held at the Dansereau School, Grenville, under Coroner Dr. Jules Lafleur.

Four witnesses were heard, namely — a Montrealer, E. H. Taylor, who had been driving immediately behind the victim's eastbound car; Omer Charlebois, of Montebello, who had been proceeding west in the rear of Chas. St. Amant (the latter struck Leavitt's car in a head-on collision); also Cst. Albert Legault, who investigated the accident, and Chas. St. Amant himself, who suffered leg fractures in the crash.

The jury comprised four Grenville citizens and two from Lachute. After lengthy deliberation they failed to agree whether blame could be laid for the fatality or whether the circumstances were accidental, and the chairman announced that they could give no unanimous decision.

Accident Verdict In Gatineau Death

A coroner's inquest into the death of Gilles Fouceault, 17-year-old Gatineau Power employee — who met his death in a pole-line construction job August 5 on the new highway near Dalesville — was held Tuesday evening at the local Court House.

A jury of Lachute citizens heard evidence at the inquiry, under Coroner Dr. Jules Lafleur. The witnesses were H. Gascon, J. P. Trichard and Jean-Lys Millette, with whom the youth had been engaged in raising a pole on rocky terrain where the road was under construction. Evidence showed that the victim stumbled, and the men lost hold on the heavy pole, which fell on Fouceault's chest, crashing his head against a tree-stump. The youth died three days later in the Neurological Institute, Montreal.

The jurors returned a verdict of accidental death.

Cadet O.C. Here This Week-End

Last Monday evening, in the absence of Lieut. G. Tabrett the cadets of "D" Coy were trained by L/Cpl. B. Neill, assisted by L/Cpls. MacDougall and McDonald — and these junior N.C.O.'s must be congratulated for so efficiently carrying out duties normally performed by an officer, or at least a warrant officer.

Tomorrow night the second Cadet Dance is being held at the Legion Hall, starting at 8.30 o'clock. All cadets are reminded of this event, and also of the fact that all guests must be accompanied by a cadet.

Lieut. Tabrett states he is expecting a visit this week-end by the Officer Commanding "A" Coy (Montreal), as well as the Regimental Sergeant-Major. Future plans for the Lachute Company will be discussed, as well as the possibility of holding inter-company competitions, both in military and sporting phases of the training.

A recruiting drive is being planned for early in September, and it is hoped to add considerably to the strength of the Unit. More definite information will be given at a later date.

The second Monday in October — October 9 — has been set as the date for Thanksgiving Day this year. Thanksgiving Day is one of the statutory holidays which is fixed each year by Order-in-Council.

Gatineau LINES

More Power for Lachute

A new 20,000 horsepower transformer bank will be in operation in the Lachute area within the next few days, to meet the growing demand for power in that prosperous and progressive community, and adjacent Vaudreuil-Soulanges Counties.

When the Lachute station goes into service, it will draw power direct from the 110,000-volt line running from Farmers powerhouse on the Gatineau River to Ste. Agathe in the Laurentians. Lachute and Vaudreuil-Soulanges Counties will no longer depend entirely on the two 26,000-volt lines which now bring power from Hawkesbury and St. Jerome. The 26,000-volt lines will still operate, but the main "load" in future will be carried by the 110,000-volt lines from the Farmers plant.

Part of the installation will consist of automatic reclosing circuit breakers. One will be installed on the line from Lachute Substation to Point Fortune and Rigaud and the other on the 26,000 volt line to Lachute. Division of the load between two circuits should improve the service to the areas served, as local interruptions in one area will not affect service to the others.

When trouble occurs on one of the lines, the breaker on that circuit will open, then after a short delay will reclose automatically. If the trouble still exists, it will open again and after a longer delay reclose. If if should open again, it will stay open until the circuit has been cleared of trouble by patrolmen.

The time delay is such that many troubles such as wires whipping together or being brushed by falling branches are cleared by the time the breaker has gone through its cycle of operation, and service is automatically restored.

P.F.R.A. Community Pasture Program

Ottawa—More than 70 thousand head of livestock owned by 5½ thousand farmers were pastured on nearly 1½ million acres of community pastures operated by the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration in Saskatchewan and Manitoba during the fiscal year ending March 31, 1950 — according to recent figures released by the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

The development of community pastures is a program designed by P.F.R.A. to permanently restore lands unsuited for grain production to a grass economy for livestock production. Lands so enclosed are subjected to a program of reclamation and pasture improvement and are organized in such a way as to benefit the livestock industry, and the farmers living on lands adjacent to these pastures.

Started in 1938, the community pasture program has already brought back 150 thousand acres of weedy, run-down abandoned farm land to a productive condition through artificial reseeding and careful management practices. The principal grass used for reseeding is crested wheat grass, though brome and other grasses moisture is available. Since its inception, 81 community pastures have been established on submarginal land and organized into 54 separate operating units under local Grazing Associations.

Numerous pasture services are extended to pasture patrons to safeguard their interests and to maintain a high standard of production and efficiency on community pastures. A pasture breeding service using 400 purebred beef type sires has resulted in considerable improvement in the quality and weight of market cattle since the service was started. Other pasture services such as control of diseases and insects, dehorning, marketing, movement of cattle and insurance services have been of benefit to pasture patrons.

Lack of adequate water supplies on the community pastures has been overcome by the P.F.R.A. by the development of 800 stock-watering dams, dugouts and wells. Previously it was found that areas close to water were often overgrazed while more remote locations were under utilized. Today more than twice the number of stock can now be grazed as compared with 1938. Pasture fees for cattle are 50 cents per month, 75 cents for horses and 7 cents for sheep, with the breeding fee set at $2.00 per cow.

Canadian Chicks In Pakistan

From far away Pakistan some months ago a request came in for hatching eggs from no less a personage that the Governor General himself. Arthur Brunton, a poultryman at Port Perry, Ont., filled the order — with very happy results.

During the recent visit to Canada of the Prime Minister of Pakistan, Liaquat Ali Khan, a presentation was made on behalf of the Governor General, of a valuable ornate hand-chased silver decanter and matching glasses to probably the most surprised hatchery operator in Canada. This was the Governor General's way of expressing thanks for a gift of a few dozen hatching eggs, Mr. Brunton having declined payment for the initial shipment.

It is reported that the Pakistan order was filled with hatching eggs from the New Hampshire and Barred Rock cross called Red Rock. This cross apparently gives a fowl of good table quality, but generally it is not given the same chance of survival as some of the lighter breeds, according to those who have travelled in Pakistan.

They say that the light breeds stand up better under the heat than do the heavier fowls, and that the lighter the bird the quicker evasive action they can take against the attacks of native dogs that roam the compounds. It is to be hoped that the Canadian chicks may be spared at least one of these hazards in their new Pakistan home.

Ontario Postmarks Urge War on Weeds

Toronto (CP) — All letters from the Ontario Parliament buildings are carrying a postmark urging "war on weeds — destroy before seeds mature." A daily average of more than 80,000 pieces of mail will carry this message to all parts of the province and beyond.

The action, sponsored by the department of agriculture in co-operation with postal authorities, is designed to get citizens to make an effort to eradicate weeds.

Officials point out that new weeds have made their appearance in the province in recent years and others are spreading rapidly in some communities. Their eradication will increase food plant crops and eliminate many unsightly areas from the countryside.

Isolationism Outmoded

WHEN disaster strikes the world — whether war, disease or economic suffering — there is a cry for action, for practical steps to bring an immediate end to trouble. Such action may require armies, or relief funds, or machinery. In each case, success depends mainly on the co-operation of men best informed on the problem and its remedies.

In the final analysis, the cause of preventable world disasters is laid at the door of ignorance. Preventive measures call for a greater number of educated, informed and responsible people throughout the world.

Such education consists not of book learning only, but of interchange of ideas and information, the close association of peoples of different countries.

Translating these general principles into practical action presents a problem of its own. In fact, we have heard these ideas set forth so often that they have taken on an air of vague generality — something for the government to look after; something certainly outside the scope of ordinary individuals.

A few weeks from now schools will be re-opening. Exchange teachers from Commonwealth countries and the United States will spend the year in Canadian classrooms, bringing contacts with far-away lands to Canadian school children. At the same time Canadian teachers will be working in overseas countries. This year the United States is also exchanging teachers with Norway.

Thus world contacts are extended at the level of the individual. The benefits from a year's association can easily be of more ultimate importance than actual classroom studies.

We live our lives as individuals and form our opinions on the basis of individual experience. The better Canadians understand the lives of people in other countries, the more we can do to prevent world misunderstandings.

In these days of the United Nations, unified commands and fast communications, an extension of the system of exchange teachers would be not only following a world trend, but a practical way of promoting better international relations.

Canada Recruiting

CANADA will form a special force to serve the interests of the United Nations in their pursuit of peace. The force, to consist of a brigade of some 5,000 men, will be the first of its kind in the world. It will be used in Korea if the situation warrants it, when the brigade is trained in six or seven months. Or it may be used in any other "Koreas" which may have cropped up by that time.

This announcement came from Prime Minister St. Laurent as the tempo of capital life quickened in anticipation of a special fall session of Parliament. Parliament will convene to get a full-government report on the Korean situation, the new, stepped-up plans for long-range defence, and to discuss just how the new brigade is to be used.

Such a force is unprecedented, and the idea of a unit for use by the United Nations as an international police force, will precipitate special problems.

Two days after the announcement, the army opened a full-scale recruiting drive to raise the new force. The response was immediate, and it appeared sufficient volunteers might be raised before the end of the week.

In command of the special force, Lt.-Gen. Charles Foulkes, Chief of Staff, placed a big, tough veteran with plenty of battle experience gleaned in Europe in the Second World War. Brig. John M. (Rocky) Rockingham, C.B.E., D.S.O., 38, was working as an official of the British Columbia Electric Railway company when he was offered — and snapped up — the appointment. Brig. Rockingham gained his fighting reputation as commander of the 9th Infantry Brigade, the famous Canadian Highland Brigade, during the Normandy campaign. He led troops at Caen, the Falaise gap and Boulogne and his unit was one of the first Canadian outfits to cross the Rhine.

Home-Building in Quebec

WHILE VIEWING the boom in home construction around these parts, one questions to what extent the provincial housing aid in Quebec have been effective in assisting would-be home owners. Figures given out by Premier Duplessis at a press conference last week indicate that the public have taken advantage of this assistance very substantially. More than 18,000 owners and occupants have benefitted since the Quebec legislation was passed in 1948. Altogether the government has approved some 4,300 housing loans amounting to $23,000,000. The loans were for 3,564 single-unit houses and 1,386 two-dwelling houses.

By the 1948 provincial housing system, the government pays the interest charges up to three per cent on privately-obtained housing loans, on which the interest rates usually amount to about five per cent.

Applications for this government aid are handled by a branch of the Quebec Farm Loan Bureau. Government commitments for interest payments since the system came into effect amount to $7,234,736 — amounting to $1,689 on each loan. Thirty-one private lending agencies are co-operating in the plan and 240 Caisses Populaires (credit unions) are taking part.

The value of new buildings put up under the system is $31,135,928, and the value of land on which the houses are built is $2,897,222.

The farm loan side of the government organization, which dates back to 1937, has extended a total of 31,280 loans amounting to $74,483,685 — including 11,523 loans to farmers' sons setting themselves up independently.

Discoverer of Anatoxins

DR. GASTON RAMON — to whom medical science is indebted for several discoveries in methods of vaccination — is expected in Montreal in September to take part in the joint meeting of the Canadian Veterinary Medical Association and the College of Veterinary Surgeons of the Province of Quebec.

Dr. Ramon is known as the discoverer of anatoxins, achieved through extensive studies on the phenomena of immunity. A veterinarian, he has held the post of Assistant-Director of the Pasteur Institute in Paris. Before his discovery, vaccination against bacteria was possible, but not against their toxins, and it was he who succeeded in developing a method enabling the use of such toxins in immunization against diphtheria and tetanus. It is recalled, there were no cases of tetanus in the armed forces during the last war, although this terrible disease claimed a great many lives during the First World War.

The "Office International des Epizooties", of which Dr. Ramon is president, is an organized body co-ordinating all the measures pertaining to the fight against contagious diseases in animals in the various countries of the world. Dr. Ramon is a member of the Academy of Science and of the Academy of Medicine, Paris, and has been given the title of Grand Officier of the Légion d'Honneur.

It will not be Dr. Ramon's first visit to Canada. He came to the University of Toronto in 1926 to help in setting up the production of anatoxins in this country.

Canada was the first country after France to apply vaccination on a large scale against diphtheria according to the method developed by Dr. Ramon.

IT IS entirely possible that a few A-bombs in Korea would turn the tide. But for President Truman, the only man who can authorize the use of this dreadful weapon, it would be a grave decision. It would mean the killing of many people, but it would mean more than that. It would invite Russia to use the same weapon, and Russia would not likely stop with Korea — observes the Rouyn-Noranda Press.

HUMAN memory is short. Only a year ago people went on holidays and returned covered with mosquito bites, sunburn and poison ivy. And yet they are repeating the process all over again.

I, TOO - Saw England

— By T. D. Titman, Asst. Editor —

Negotiating the currency of a strange country is an adventure to be tackled with either zest or misgiving, according to one's aptitude at mental arithmetic. Being still familiar with the sterling coinage, my prime difficulty was in gauging the values displayed on price-tags — in which, finally, I became quite adept. It was a matter of translating sterling prices into dollars and cents, not on standard rates of exchange but on devaluated figures — which, of course, give a decided advantage to visitors from this side of the Atlantic.

Canadians and Americans who have mastered these factors, probably encounter their major problem in the everyday language — which abbreviates two-and-a-halfpence to "tuppence ha'penny", a shilling to a "bob", a pound to a "quid", and so forth. This phraseology is a real sticker to the uninitiated.

Even so, how much more preferable are these disadvantages to currency difficulties elsewhere — in Italy, for example. There (my fellow travellers told me) there is no coinage, it is all paper currency, and at the lowest ebb of valuation. A 60-cent taxi fare costs 5,000 lira; and one stuffs these paper notes into one's most commodious pocket. They tell me, the 500-lira note is the size of a small table napkin.

The City of Nottingham was headquarters for both the start and the conclusion of my itinerary, and these chapters would be incomplete without some reference to that ancient centre. Disregarding its historic associations, the atmosphere and surroundings of Nottingham reminded me of a progressive Canadian city perhaps more than any of the numerous places on my route.

Its stately Council House, fronted by a square with fountains and flower beds, is in the heart of a busy shopping and trading centre. Fine old churches, ancient inns and the historic Castle towering above on its promontory of rock, are in the immediate fringe encircling this spot; while towards the perimeter of the city one finds the parks and boulevards, historic Wollaton Hall (now a natural history museum), the University and well-kept highways to the north, south, east and through the Midlands.

It was here that I fulfilled another objective in my hurried invasion — attending a full choral service in St. Mary's Parish Church (1371-1471 A.D.), where an all-male choir of boy sopranos, tenor and bass voices, blended with rich tones of the pipe organ to fill this august sanctuary with a song of praise — from its flagstone floor to its high beamed roof. The solemnity, the melody, the shadowed dignity — here was a scene from Old England's drama which, strangely, through the years, I had treasured in my memory, and which now it was my privilege to experience again.

Nottingham is a centre of industry — lace, tobacco, bicycles, drugs and coal, among many others. "Boot's the Chemists" is a name as famous in England as Simpson, Eaton and Sears-Roebuck on this side of the watery divide. Nottingham is the home of the Boot's manufactures, and also of Players Cigarettes. Both families have been generous benefactors to the city. The present University buildings were erected by the late Sir Jesse Boot, who also gave 220 acres of parkland as a setting of exceptional beauty for this cultural institution.

Nottingham Castle dates back to William of Normandy. In 1484 it was the residence of King Richard III. It now houses a very complete museum and art gallery, and beneath the precipice of rock on which it is built, there is another spot rich in historic associations. This is a tiny hostelry in the sandstone caves, where one visits what is reputed to be the oldest inn in England, "Ye Olde Trippe to Jerusalem" (1189 A.D.). It was here that the yeomen raised their tankards to the success of Richard Coeur de Lion on his departure to the Crusades; it was here also that plots and intrigues were hatched, scoundrels were given haven, and prisoners were held.

The occasion on which I visited the Castle and this hotbed of history, was a warm and fatiguing day. It was understandable, therefore, that with lagging footsteps my companion and I succumbed to the medieval charms of another inn nearby. This was "Ye Olde Salutation Inn", where one almost stooped to avoid bumping one's head on the low oaken beams; it was dated 1240 A.D. — modern by comparison with our earlier stopping place.

I have digressed from my intentions, with this more lengthy guide-book description. In the particular instance of Nottingham, however, I have thus elaborated on its background for a purpose — namely to illustrate how antiquity permeates all England and the British Isles. How, beneath the surface of modern living, there is a long story leading back to ancient times. Nottingham, even in its chronicled history, dates back to Alfred the Great in the Ninth Century. . . In Canada we count our history in terms of less than 400 years — so, to the Canadian tourist, the point of contrast between these two countries is both striking and intriguing.

I come now to the end — a bitter end, as it happened — for getting out of England was the only unpleasant episode in my otherwise happy adventures.

The British Railways do not compare too unfavorably with road transit, except in the matter of fares. The Southampton, Liverpool and Edinburgh runs from the London terminals are, for instance, examples of fast, comfortable travel and efficient service. . . But on this occasion it was my misfortune to be travelling by night westward through the Midlands to Liverpool and the docks. Boarding a train at Nottingham around 1.30 a.m., I had settled down in the compartment for a comfortable, if tedious, five-hour trip to the western port. I had slept for an hour, when four railway hands settled in the tiny coach with myself and a lone companion. Coming from their work on a late shift, the railwaymen engaged in a noisy game of poker, with intermittent criticism of their working conditions. Rain was falling steadily outside. In the mist, steam and darkness, there was no discerning the stations which we passed. The train stopped every mile or so with monotonous regularity; finally the engine chugged to a standstill with its cylinder leaking a torrent of steam, and had to be replaced. . Nursing an acute tooth-ache (my only ailment in seven weeks abroad), I was glad at length to disembark at Liverpool.

There is a shattered roof at Central Station, which makes this terminal a scene of utter dejection when it is raining (a quite frequent occurrence). There are news and tobacco stands without cigarettes. And there is no restaurant. It was now 6.30 a.m., so I walked through the rain a half-mile to Lime Street station. Here the snack-bar did not open until 7.30 o'clock. The waiting rooms were a sordid scene — on every seat a figure huddled in some ungraceful, drowsy posture, with head fitfully resting on a suitcase or kit-bag. They had no tooth-ache — they were oblivious to physical discomfort.

After a refreshing cup of tea and a bun (which set my jaw pounding more vigorously), I waited the interminable hours until the city came to life — when, even in the ceaseless rain, waking humanity shed a cheering influence. And finally, after 9 a.m., having visited shops and more restaurants in the now busy city, I was relieved to bundle my person and my baggage into an antiquated taxi, and at Princess Pier I joined the expectant throng at the customs and emigration barriers. . My parting impression of England was unfortunate; but I hasten to reaffirm, it was in keen contrast to a month of highly pleasurable experiences.

During the next nine days, the ocean crossing provided a pleasant interlude of relaxation; but a sea voyage is a story in itself — one that is not within the purview or purpose of this narrative. Towards the end, however, I experienced that almost indescribable thrill which must occur to many Canadians homeward bound. I thought then of the boys returning from the wars. . . Coming out on deck one morning I perceived, surprisingly close at hand, the sunny St. Lawrence Valley — the little farms with their long, straight fences and parallel fields, the tiny villages and settlements with their colorful roofs and gleaming church-spires. One has seen this view so often; but somehow, after weeks abroad and long, vacant days at sea, this was a sight for sore eyes. "Ah, God's country!" I exclaimed — and I wondered why the immigrants among my fellow passengers shared little of this great enthusiasm. If my loyalties had been in the balance during the Woodcock-Savold prize-fight, now there was no semblance of a doubt. I was 100% Canadian, and a Quebecker to the core!

While recording these impressions, it has been a pleasure also to relive the highlights of my tour. For the full and complete enjoyment of this vacation, I close with a note of sincere acknowledgment:

— To my employers, who made this holiday possible.

— To the fellow workers who carried on in my absence.

— To kind friends overseas, whose helpfulness revealed many glimpses of unpublished England.

— To Gall & Jones (Lachute) for a diary which accompanied me on my travels, and which has brought forth this voluminous report.

Another very successful lawn social was held Saturday evening on the church grounds, where the usual attractions were on display. An interesting program was presented during the evening, consisting of songs, mandolin and guitar solos, etc. The Rev. G. R. Barnett was chairman for the evening, which was brought to a close by the singing of the national anthem. . . The ladies of the Women's Auxiliary and members of the church take this opportunity of thanking all those who patronized and so loyally supported these two recent socials.

Four Lives Lost in Cruise-Ship Blaze At Tadoussac, Que.

Quebec (CP) — A spectre of the disastrous "Noronic" fire appeared on the Canadian shipping scene this week.

The St. Lawrence River cruise ship, "Quebec", aflame in midstream near the mouth of the Saguenay River on Monday was forced to return to dock at Tadoussac, Que., and discharge her passengers.

Unlike the "Noronic" fire at Toronto, September 17, 1949, which took 119 lives, the flaming Quebec was able to disembark her 400 passengers and crew without panic, and all were believed safely ashore with the exception of four, whose bodies were found since in the burned-out hull of the vessel.

The 7,000-ton craft was owned by Canada Steamship Lines, owners of the "Noronic". The "Quebec" was burned to the waterline. Cause of the blaze was unknown.

Capt. C. H. Burch sounded the alarm when the ship was about 20 minutes offshore, and immediately swung his ship back into harbour. She tied up at a cement dock and passengers filed down the gang-plank as crew members and the Tadoussac fire department fought the blaze.

Morin Heights

Miss Jean Nesbitt, of Rosemount, and Mrs. Wm. Nesbitt, are at present on a boat trip to the Great Lakes. On their return to Buffalo they will motor to Rochester, N.Y., to spend a few days with Mrs. Nesbitt's sister, Mrs. Basil MacLean and Dr. MacLean.

Mrs. Myrtle Smith, of Montreal, has been spending a two weeks' vacation at Bellevue Hotel.

Week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Seale were Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Balharrie, Miss Ila Balharrie, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Balharrie and son, John Paul, all of Ottawa. Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Paquette and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Paquette, of Montreal, were their Sunday guests.

Everyone in town is pleased that the Main Street has been re-paved at last, after being in a deplorable condition for the past few years.

Mr. Cecil Brownlee, who is spending the summer at Lake Louisa, accompanied Mr. W. K. McArthur here on Tuesday and visited friends.

Miss Grace Watchorn returned to Montreal on Sunday after spending a vacation with her mother, Mrs. Wm. Watchorn, at Christieville.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

PAINTER — Mr. H. Painter and family wish to express their sincere thanks to all friends for their expressions of sympathy and kindness during their recent bereavement.

IN MEMORIAM

LOUDIN — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, accidentally killed August 17, 1946. — Forever remembered by his mother and sisters, Kay, Margaret and Eleanor.

"Four lonely years have passed
Since you were called away.
It is lonesome here without you,
There is just a vacant place,
For we never hear your footsteps
Or see your smiling face.
As angels keep their watch up there,
Please God, just let him know
That we down here remember him —
We love and miss him so."

MONCRIEFF — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, George Moncrieff, who passed away August 19, 1946. — Always remembered by his family.

"A tribute of love and remembrance,
To a father, one of the best;
The joys he missed on life's highway
May he find in God's garden of rest."

MONCRIEFF—In loving memory of a dear dad, George Moncrieff, who left us suddenly on August 19, 1946. — Ever remembered by Violet, Stanley and Hartland.

"Sheltered by the rock of ages,
Anchored on the heavenly shore,
In the loving arms of Jesus,
There he rests for evermore."

MONCRIEFF—In loving memory of a dear father, George Moncrieff, who passed away August 19, 1946. — Ever remembered by his family.

"You never failed to do your best,
Your heart was true and tender,
You worked so hard for those you loved —
And left us to remember."

STEWART — Thoughts of Grace, who left us August 16, 1942. — Always remembered, Mother and George.

"Eight years ago we had to part,
With one we loved with all our heart,
Not now, but in the coming years,
It may be in the better land,
We'll read the meaning of our tears,
And there sometime we'll understand."

STEWART — In loving thoughts of my sister, who died August 16, 1942. — Loved in life, remembered in death, Bertha.

"We still remember the way you looked,
The way you spoke and smiled,
The little things you said and did,
Are with us all the while.
Just how much we miss you dear,
No one will ever know,
For the ache in our hearts is here today,
As it was eight years ago.

STEWART — In loving memory of Grace, who was called away August 16, 1942. — Ever remembered by Edith and Will, Kingston, Ont.

"Beyond the turn where the roadway winds,
Through the mist of far away,
The sun still shines its rays of hope,
Behind the clouds of gray,
And through the misty shadows,
Where the light seems lost from view,
There'll be a happier dawning
When we shall meet again."

Save What You Can Afford to Save, Regularly

The best way to save is to plan for it. Decide how much you can afford to put aside regularly — every pay day, for example — and then stick to your plan.

Whatever your reason for saving, this is the sure method to build up a worthwhile sum in your account. Save regularly and you'll have cash when you need it — for your vacation or for Christmas expenses, for the down-payment on your home, the sudden emergency, or the opportunity that's too good to miss.

Why not work out your savings plan today, to fit into the family budget? Or, if you like, come and have a chat with J. L. A. Brouillette, accountant at the local branch of the Bank of Montreal, about it. Canadians keep over a billion dollars in savings in the B of M — more than in any other bank. Open your account at "My Bank", and your savings will grow well in such good company.

Sunnyacres Sketches

RANDOM WRITINGS ON THE RURAL SCENE

By Margaret Cook

Now we have come to the noontide of the year — the time of the cicada, the golden bumble-bee and the little green snake sunning himself on the warm earth. The metallic whirr of the cicada is heard all day long; he is one of Nature's queer children, in that he spends from 10 to 17 years underground in preparation for a few short weeks in the sun. The cicada we hear today began life in the earth before Warld War II and will, with luck, be gone before Number III. . . The bumble-bee drones like a miniature aeroplane from one aconite to another. If we stand motionless, the bees ignore us and we can watch them alight delicately on the blue flare then force their way into the hood, to get at the pollen. It is a tight fit, and the sight of a fat bumble-bee trying to emerge gracefully from the plundered flower never fails to amuse Betty. Yesterday, one sat himself confidently down on her leg and proceeded to give himself a good brushing up. He used the middle pair of legs to brush the fuzzy golden part, and the back pair to groom the part under the wings. Bees have a very nice life, but the life-span of this variety is short, for only the queens survive our winters. . . As for the little green snakes, they will lie for hours completely motionless in the hot dust of the road, until the lengthening shadows send them home to their rocky cranny, or until some ignorant human ends their brief and harmless life.

This ignorance of life other than human is exasperating to the nature-lover and costly to the farmer. Both bees and snakes, for example, are of great use on the farm. Fear of them is either sheer ignorance or affectation. Women who shudder delicately away from our local snakes, and grown men who flinch from bees and wasps, arouse one of two reactions within us—either we want to cry out with Shakespeare, "Lord, what fools these mortals be!" or we want to preach with Coleridge:

> "He prayeth best, who loveth best
> All things both great and small —
> For the dear God who loveth us
> He made and loveth all."

Between these pleasant avocations we have been going about the countryside and making jams and jellies. This household chore, as every housewife knows, has been taken out of the realm of chance by the commercial pectins, but what has been lost in suspense has been gained in poise of the cook and in flavor and texture of the product. What ruby glows more deeply red than does currant jelly, or what emerald more green than mint? (Again we owe something here to chemical research). Even the despised gooseberry becomes a beautiful amber when cooked with brown sugar. When we visit the cold-room of our winter home and see rows and rows of these colorful, edible jems, all neatly labelled "Product of Sunnyacres Farm", we forget all about the petty annoyances of suburban life and are straightway transported to the sun-drenched hills and the cool coverts of the Laurentians.

The countryside provides all sorts of adventures. We had a walk over the hills not long ago, that was reminiscent of Exmoor — the same green highlands, the same lovely sweep of sky, the same effect of breasting the air as if it were its sister element, water. We passed the ruins of 13 buildings, all burned in one night many years ago — said our informant, who stayed us with tea and cakes when we returned, hot and tired, to her house.

Another day, we motored from Cushing to Grenville alongside the canal. We ate our lunch under three elms, so huge that they must have been there in Indian days, for that is Indian country and relics of them are still occasionally unearthed. After lunch, we motored along till we found a gate giving on a pasture which, in turn, bordered the highway. So, Margaret Cook got out, undid a heavy iron gadget with difficulty, held open the gate for the car and carefully replaced the catch by hammering it with a large stone. We hurried through the pasture to the highway gate. It was padlocked. By the time we regained the canal road, we were beginning to be conscious of the heat and of a certain feeling of flatness. But the sight of a log-raft being towed by a panting little tug-boat rather restored us; this relief was promptly shattered by a petite, vivacious Canadienne who appeared out of the canal with wet clothes under her arm. She informed us that it was not possible to turn around as the road became narrower, and that it ended with a chain across it at Grenville. So we went on and on, steep banks on one side, the canal on the other, until we came to the chain and were rescued by a tolerant lock-keeper with a key. We returned hastily and in silence to St. Andrews East, where a kind friend restored us with tea, aspirin and caraway cookies.

We were also at Lake Louisa for a few days, a lovely body of water, justly popular. But we were unfortunate in the weather, and our stay was rendered uneasy by Haile Selassie, our black Persian, who had never before been asked to cross water. He evidently heartily disapproved of the stuff, and of the interruption to his usual routine. He refused to eat, spent hours staring dourly at the water, and shrieked at intervals during the nights. Our hostess must have breathed a sigh of relief when she heard the last feline echo from the mainland. Now we, in our turn are expecting guests, and we brace ourselves for the inevitable gibes about the condition of our roads. These will be good gibes, hurled by a Torontian driving a new car.

Someone has suggested that all local organizations send written protests to the Minister of Roads. This is the usual and proper approach, but I feel that something more personal should be attempted. Someone with an uncomfortable car and few inhibitions, should take the Minister for a ride from Lachute to Morin Heights. It is a scenic route and well worth his appreciative attention. A lifelong resident of this district asserts that the six miles from Mille Isles corner to Lakefield has had no resurfacing for six years. The writer seems to recollect some patch-work being done near Lake Sir John and Long Lake . . . but that, we think, was just before the last election.

Certain moths cannot fly until they have reached "flight temperature" by energetically vibrating their wings.

The present rate of erosion is sufficient to reduce the level of the entire Mississippi river drainage basin (1¼ million miles) one foot in 6,000 years.

TOM GARD'S NOTE BOOK

It seems as if most people have a struggle to furnish their first home. We visited newlyweds last weekend and it was almost like reliving our own first few months! They will succeed, though, as first things had been put first and improvisation took care of the rest. One of their best "makeshifts" was a hall table. His parents had modernized an old sideboard by removing the top section—mirror and all. The top shelf and two supports had been left intact; a third leg was placed in the centre at the back and then braces run to the other two legs. It made an ideal hall table for the telephone and hadn't cost a cent. Even the mirror had been resilvered, etched and mounted on half-inch plywood, making an inexpensive hall mirror.

Barrel-Stave Hammock

If you would like a hammock to hang under your favourite tree but must pamper a limited budget, try the idea developed by a neighbour down the street. Holes were bored in old barrel staves and then threaded with half-inch rope. You'll see how it was done by examining the diagram shown. A heavy blanket or old sleeping bag will make the hammock quite comfortable.

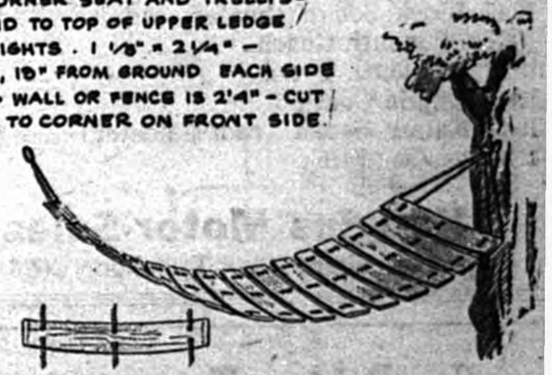

Corner Garden Seat

If you wish a garden trellis in a half-pint backyard, don't stick it out in the centre of the lawn like a sore thumb. Arbours and gateways should lead somewhere; high trellises should terminate some line of vision. One of the best ideas I have seen for a small garden combined the trellis with a corner garden seat. It was most attractive and a solid mass of blue morning glories when I last saw it.

I notice some of my perennials are beginning to fall over. In case you haven't suitable flower supports for your garden, here is the type I have been using for years. They are easy to apply and just as easy to store away in the fall.

Pretty Wedding in Old St. Andrews Church

Tremaine - Albright

Baskets of white gladioli and ferns formed the floral setting for the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Amelia Albright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ewen W. Albright, of St. Andrews East, Que., to Mr. Arthur Richard Tremaine, son of the late A. T. Tremaine and of Mrs. Tremaine, of Westmount, which took place Saturday afternoon at four o'clock in Christ Church, St. Andrews East. The Rev. C. R. Lang, of Lachute, officiated, assisted by the Rev. G. T. Spriggs; and Mrs. G. Pride, of St. Andrews East, played the wedding music. Pink gladioli tied with white ribbons marked the guest pews.

The bridal attendants were Miss Drusilla Riley, of Hudson Heights, and Miss Phyllis Bradford, of Lachute. Best man was Mr. Trevor F. Tremaine, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. Robert Gill and Mr. Desmond Thomas, both of Montreal, acted as ushers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was dressed in a gown of white nylon marquisette over taffeta, with the fitted bodice having long sleeves coming to points over her hands, and a full skirt with short train. Her fingertip veil fell from a tiara of orange blossom buds, and she carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses.

Miss Riley was dressed in blue nylon net over blue taffeta, with matching mitts, wearing a headdress of blue nylon net and short veil, and carried a bouquet of gladioli tied with a pink bow. Miss Bradford wore pink nylon net over pink taffeta, matching mitts, a headdress of pink nylon and a short veil. Her bouquet was of gladiolus blooms, with a blue bow.

Mrs. Albright, the bride's mother, wore powder blue sheer and lace, with grey accessories, and a corsage of wine gladioli. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Tremaine, wore a dress of beige silk in Paisley design, black accessories, and a corsage of Talisman roses.

The reception was held at Albrae Farm, St. Andrews East, the home of the bride's parents, where baskets of gladioli and ferns formed the decorations. Later, the couple left for a wedding trip by motor to the Eastern Townships, the bride travelling in a beige suit of tropical cloth, with tangerine and black accessories, and a corsage of matching gladioli. On their return, the couple will take up residence in Drummondville, Que.

Both bride and bridegroom are graduates of McGill University, the former of Arts '48, the latter of Science '48.

A Child Needs to "Belong"

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"You are a naughty girl! How could you have been so careless as to knock that dish off the counter? Sometimes I wish you weren't my child."

Margie may have been careless as she walked with her mother along the aisle of the store — but she certainly hadn't MEANT to break anything.

More in the Wrong

Little did the mother realize that she was more in the wrong than her daughter. After all, accidents will happen, and parents might as well accept that as a fact, and be prepared to pay the damage with as good grace as they can muster. But no matter what a child does, the child must never be rejected by the parents. Every child has the right to know that, come what may, mother and dad still claim him as a member of their family.

A child desperately needs the security, the courage, which comes from this feeling of belonging to a group. In the old days when families were larger, this sense of family unity seemed easier to achieve. In the one or two-child homes, this "community of children" is missing.

Special occasions — packing a basket of fruit or decorating the home for Christmas, all strengthen the family bond. Any activity, whether it is singing songs, or playing games, or listening to a radio program, or going to the movies, or on a picnic, which the members of a family plan and carry out together is very worthwhile.

It is also true that a child needs to belong to a little group of his own age. The small "neighborhood gang" of boys and girls who live in the same block and play together, the happy activity in a nursery school, all promote in the pre-school child this same sense of comradeship with others.

A school-age child does not want to be so different in his clothes, or in his standards of conduct, from his playmates that he is considered an outsider. He will appreciate his friends being welcome, and occasional treats of cookies or apples being available when a chum comes into his home to play.

Weigh the Values

A teen-age girl does not want to be excluded from parties because the hour she must be home at nights is so much earlier than the "deadline" for her friends. Parents must sometimes weigh the values of health rules with the need of "belonging".

In order to live a normal life, a boy or girl must have opportunities to belong to groups in the community, in the school, in the church. The youth organizations, such as Cubs and Scouts, are built in part on this fundamental need in adolescence to be in a "gang".

The United Nations is struggling to impress on unwilling nations their need of belonging to a brotherhood. A child has grown into maturity when he can exclaim like the Greek, Diogenes, centuries ago, who said: "I am a citizen of the world!"

Softball League Dance

A dance is being held by the Argenteuil Softball League on Friday, September 8. The league teams — White Rose, Malacket Spiders, Bluebirds, Beavers, Boyd's Express and Tigers — extend an invitation to everyone to attend this dance, in appreciation of the fine games that have been put on for the public entertainment. Proceeds of the dance will help to pay for the softballs and bats that have been used this season, and to help organize a still better league next year. It is hoped that the fans have enjoyed these games, and will show their appreciation by patronizing this dance. Tickets may be purchased from any player.

Announcement of the dance is given in the Coming Events column of this issue.

League Secretary.

FREE PARKING

Stratford, Ont. (CP) — Prospective United States visitors to Stratford this summer are being mailed a courtesy parking ticket, permitting them to park their cars free in metered areas in the city. The police association is sending the tickets along with booklets entitled "1950 Tourist Guide, Stratford-on-Avon."

ENGLISH WOLF-WHISTLE

London (CP) — Rt. Rev. Reginald Mallett, visiting England from the United States, was surprised to hear a boy whistle at a girl in the street. "I could hardly believe it", he said. "American boys whistle at girls — but to hear an English boy!"

Fragments of an oak-staved churn 1,000 years old were found last year in Northern Ireland.

Moose Jaw's Name Historians' Puzzle

Moose Jaw, Sask. (CP) — Local historians can't agree on how Moose Jaw got its name.

In the museum here a mural by David Pyle, Moose Jaw artist, depicts the story of the mending of an ox-cart with the jaw-bone of a moose, a legend that many believe gave Moose Jaw its name.

But several members of the museum committee have suggested to the artist that he do other murals depicting the "true" origin of the name.

Many fear that if every pet theory were painted, the museum would have little room for anything else.

Many old-timers believe the name comes from an Indian expression for the bend in the river south of the city.

The Idler, published in 1758, stated that "the trade of advertising is now so near to perfection that it is not easy to propose any improvement".

Since 1830, the number of magazines in the United States has increased almost 25 times, while the population has increased only six times.

Salesmen know Why—

"After switching to B.F.G's, I've driven 29,450 miles without a flat. These tires are still in very good condition."
D. M. McDonald, Calgary, Alta.

3 out of 5* SWITCHED TO B.F.Goodrich FROM SOME OTHER BRAND

 A nation-wide survey of the tire customers of B.F. Goodrich dealers from coast to coast shows — that 3 out of every 5 B.F. Goodrich tire buyers switched from some other brand.*

Why did they switch?

Salesmen can tell you why they switched. They wanted to get trouble-free motoring . . . wanted to make their calls on time . . . to cover routes on schedule, in safety, and at low cost per mile.

Mileage, safety, comfort, economy — aren't these what you want, too? You can have them! You can get the superior performance made possible by B.F. Goodrich manufacturing and engineering skill. You can enjoy the benefits of B.F.G. research—cooler-running, longer-lasting rubber compounds, improved tread and body design and the advanced tire building methods. When you switch to B.F.G., they are all yours!

There's a friendly B.F.G. tire dealer near you. He's one of the B.F. Goodrich family of 5,000 trained tire specialists and service experts. He'll help keep your tires in first class condition, the year 'round!

Ask him to show you the new B.F.G. Silvertowns and the famous Seal-o-matic safety tubes that seal punctures instantly . . . permanently, as you ride! See him today!

Manufacturers, Too, Choose B.F. Goodrich
If your new car, truck or tractor is equipped with B.F. Goodrich tires, take advantage of your dealer's free tire inspection service for long, trouble-free mileage that is built into all B.F. Goodrich tires.

"A friend urged me to switch to B.F. Goodrich and enjoy extra blowout protection thanks to B.F.G.'s stronger sidewall construction and thick, road-gripping tread." P. W. Bell, Victoria, B.C.

"I wanted more mileage for my money, so I switched to B.F. Goodrich. I've driven 20,000 miles and my B.F.G. tires look good for as many more." F. H. Landon, Fort Rouge, Man.

"I appreciate the value of B.F. Goodrich rubber research. Since I switched to B.F.G. Tires I've had completely trouble-free driving." P. L. Brown, Ottawa, Ont.

"I got record mileage from my last set of B.F. Goodrich tires, so naturally I bought B.F.G.'s again." M. R. Henderson, Winnipeg, Man.

"Seal-o-matics bought in 1939 are still in dependable service in my B.F.G. tires, giving me greater safety, greater economy, plus freedom from punctures." H. Godley, Courtenay, B.C.

Facts on Valuation At Brownsburg Council

Councillor Somers: "Yes, because eventually they will have to move off the streets."

Mr. W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., wrote appointing September 13 as the date of his annual constituency visit. He will be accompanied by the County Warden, Mr. Gaston Munich.

Councillor Wilson: "I think that is the finest thing we ever had. Formerly we complained that we never saw our representative, only at election time". The date was accepted and it was decided to hold the meeting at the Social Club gymnasium.

The Rev. Fr. Manseau wrote to invite the council to the fifth anniversary commemoration program of the Youth Welfare Association, next Sunday evening. It would be a gala affair with many interesting forms of entertainment.

Councillor Wilson asked if the government grant of $13,000 for the repair of the street-surface could be utilized for payment of the repairs at present being carried out. The Mayor was of the opinion it could not be applied to patching as at present. Councillor Wilson understood that it covered all street repairs. It was decided to have the Secretary enquire. The Mayor said that work of asphalting should not be done in patches, it is too expensive, and a straight surfacing job would be cheaper and more beneficial. Whenever the council was undertaking any work of the kind in future, the asphalt would have to be spread from sidewalk to sidewalk and not in patches. Councillor Ouellette was of the opinion that the required thickness was not laid? The whole matter was adjourned to next meeting, September 5.

It was decided to repair a break in the water line at Wartime Houses, and not to wait further for Central Mortgage Corporation.

The Mayor said that he was having work done on the main line to the reservoir and that all breaks would be investigated and collared. Councillor Ouellette brought up the condition of the reservoir, which he said was in danger of a major leak. Councillor Somers offered to inspect it next day with a view of having it made shipshape.

The survey of St. Joseph Street by Mr. Migneault was discussed, and steps taken to interview some residents along the street whose properties were being encroached upon by the road line.

Fire Chief A. Robbins made his report, arising out of which an order was made that the new pumper would not be allowed out of the municipality without special instructions. The outside fires were to be countered by the booster pump only.

A complaint was received about the condition of a road at the rear of St. Joseph Street. This roadway was repaired by Mr. J. Lacasse heretofore. Mr. Lacasse, who was present, said he was not going to do any further repairs. He felt like putting a fence across it. The council taxed the people to whom he sold land along the road. They taxed him for what other property he had along this road, and then they want him to keep the road in repair. "No, sir!" he concluded.

Couple Wed Recently at Lachute United Church

Mitchell - McNeil

The marriage of Miss Ruby McNeil, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. McNeil, of Bell Falls, to Mr. Ronald Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Mitchell, of Montreal, took place at three o'clock Saturday afternoon, July 15, in Lachute United Church, with the Rev. W. B. Rosborough officiating. Mixed flowers were used in the decorative scheme.

Maid of honor was Miss Myrell Cook, while the bride's sister, Miss Janet McNeil, was bridesmaid.

Mr. Harold Veale was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Glendon McNeil and Mr. Daniel MacRae.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white nylon organdy over taffeta, with a fitted bodice having long sleeves ending in points over her hands; she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and baby's breath.

The maid of honor wore a gown of blue organdy over taffeta with matching headdress, and carried a bouquet of pink roses and sweet peas. The bridesmaid wore yellow organdy over taffeta with matching headdress, and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses and sweet peas.

The bride's mother, Mrs. McNeil, wore a navy blue crepe dress with matching accessories and a corsage of red carnations. Mrs. Mitchell, the bridegroom's mother, wore a powder blue dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

At the reception, held in Century Inn, Grenville, the decorations were of mixed flowers. Later the couple left for a wedding trip to Ottawa and other points, the bride travelling in a pink silk dress with navy accessories, and wearing a corsage of Sweetheart roses. They will take up residence in Kingston, Ont.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. Lloyd MacRae, of Buffalo, N.Y., Mr. and Mrs. D. McNeil, of Port Colborne, Ont., and Mrs. H. Veale, of Kingston.

Lachute Girl Is Bride In St. Andrews Ceremony

Lilly - McDonald

On Saturday afternoon, the wedding of Miss Kathleen Gladys McDonald, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry McDonald, of Lachute, and Stephen Snowdon Lilly, younger son of the late V. F. Lilly and of Mrs. Lilly, of St. Andrews East, took place at Christ Church, St. Andrews East. The Rev. C. Lang officiated and the organ music was played by Mrs. Pride. A profusion of white gladioli decorated the church.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a street-length gown of light blue nylon with navy blue accessories, and a corsage of crimson roses, with a sprig of white heather sent from the Highlands of Scotland by the groom's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Turner, who are visiting relatives in Britain.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Freda McDonald, who wore a dress of dusty rose crepe and a corsage of pink roses.

The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. V. L. Lilly, of Como, Que.

The bride's mother wore a navy blue gown with touches of white, with a navy blue hat. The groom's mother wore a two-piece dress of black crepe, vestee of blue, and a black straw hat with blue flowers.

A luncheon for the immediate families and relatives was served at the home of the groom's uncle, Mr. Alner Snowdon, where the decorations were carried out with gladioli, asters and other garden flowers. The table was centred by a three-tier wedding cake, beautifully decorated.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Lilly are spending a week in the Laurentians, then will reside temporarily in St. Jerome until they secure accommodation in Ste. Agathe, where Mr. Lilly is employed.

available means to discredit the American and English "imperialists". He claimed that the Americans were lagging far behind in their propaganda work; that the British were doing a pretty fair job, but that it still did not compare with that of the Russians.

The speaker concluded by saying that, whereas there were many discouraging aspects, there was still hope when a University such as the one at Beirut could continue to function year after year with such a cosmopolitan student body, and when there were such organizations as Rotary in the world. He pointed out that Rotary Clubs were active in more countries than were represented at the United Nations, and told of how the club in Jerusalem met week after week, Jews and Arabs alike, around the same table during all the strife in that country. He paid tribute to the work being done by International Rotary through the Paul Harris Foundation, which enabled selected students to study in various countries of the world; there was no doubt but that this was making a real contribution to world peace.

The Purpose of "The Watchtower"

Literal towers in Bible times were elevated vantage points from which watchmen could observe happenings, warn of danger, or announce good news. Our magazine figuratively occupies such a vantage point, for it is founded on the very pinnacle of wisdom, God's Word. That elevates it above racial, national and political propagandas and prejudices, frees it from selfish bias. It is not bound by any traditional creed, but its message advances as the light on God's purposes and works increases.
Habakkuk. 2: 1-3.

It sees things Scripturally. When it observes this generation afflicted with greed, delinquency, hypocrisy, atheism, war, famine, pestilence, perplexity and fear, and persecution of unpopular minorities, it does not parrot the old fable about history repeating itself. Informed by Bible prophecy, it sees in these things the sign of the world's time of the end. But with bright hope it also sees opening up for us just beyond these woes the portals of a new world.

Thus viewed, "The Watchtower" stands as a watchman atop a tower, alert to what is going on, awake to note signs of danger, faithful to point out the way of escape. It announces Jehovah's kingdom established by Christ's enthronement in heaven, feeds his kingdom joint-heirs with spiritual food, cheers men of good will with glorious prospects of eternal life in a paradise earth, comforts us with the resurrection promise for the dead.

It is not dogmatic, but has a confident ring in its voice, because it is based on God's Word. It does not privately interpret prophecy, but calls attention to physical facts, sets them alongside prophecy, and you see for yourself how well the two match, how accurately Jehovah interprets his own prophecy. In the interests of our salvation, it keeps sharp and faithful focus on Bible truth, and views religious news generally.

"Be watchful in these perilous times", God admonishes. So keep on the watch by regularly reading "The Watchtower".

Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Elliott and family motored to Montebello on Sunday and also visited Lefaivre, Ont.

Motion Picture Program

Miss Mildred Douglas spent the week-end at the home of her uncle, Mr. B. Noyes, and had a colored talkie film of part of her visit to India, shown at the Stone Hall on Saturday night. This film depicted tea growing — from the seeds to the finished product, and being delivered by boat and rail to Western Canada. Several other colored films shown by Mr. M. Wilson were also much appreciated. Among these were pictures of duck hunting in the West; dog contests in retrieving birds; shell-making in Brownsburg; the Agricultural Fair at Quebec; pictures of timber limits, cutting and transporting the logs in Northern Quebec, also in New Brunswick. Mr. John Fisher, a noted CBC speaker, was one of the narrators describing these pictures.

Mrs. J. A. Bradley, of Carillon, was an overnight guest on Saturday of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dobbie. Mr. and Mrs. Dobbie were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Carson Tomalty at Mt. Maple.

Residents Bereaved

The sincere sympathy of Cushing residents is extended to Mr. and Mrs. James Coney, of "Stonehaven", on the passing of Mrs. Coney's mother, Mrs. B. Dunmore, of Rosemount, at their home here Tuesday afternoon after a brief illness. Mrs. Dunmore, who was in her 67th year, had been spending the summer months with her daughter. She leaves to mourn her loss two daughters, Mrs. C. Hooper, of Montreal, Mrs. J. Coney, of Monalea, and one son, Robert, of Rosemount. The remains were taken to Montreal for interment.

TO CANADIAN RAILROADERS AND THE CANADIAN PUBLIC

It is important that you understand clearly why the managements of Canada's railways believe a railway strike is absolutely unnecessary.

Our reason for this conviction is that we have made the employees involved in the present dispute a fair offer of wage increases and improvements in working conditions which, if applied to all employees, will cost us $37,000,000 a year.

We have further acknowledged a moral obligation to implement the 40-hour week at the appropriate time, and we have explained why, in fairness to Canadian industry and all other employers of labour, we cannot put it into effect now.

To do otherwise would be to perform a disservice to industry in general and to all employers and employees alike.

The railways, after making two previous offers which the union leaders rejected, have now made a third and final offer which gives the employees the choice of either:

an increase in wages averaging 8½ cents per hour, or a reduction in the basic work week from 48 to 44 hours, with an increase in wage rates of 9.1% so as to maintain or in some cases improve present "take home" pay.

The labour leaders have made no concessions at all and have refused to budge from their original demands for a 5-day 40-hour week with maintenance of present "take home" pay, and in addition increases of 7 cents and 10 cents an hour.

The railways are thoroughly conscious of, and sympathetic to, the problems of their employees resulting from higher costs of living.

Drastic, unwarranted reductions in hours of work instead of decreasing these problems will inevitably increase them.

Not only is a railway strike unnecessary now, but furthermore, because of the tense international situation, it would endanger the entire Dominion. As the presidents of the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways said in a joint statement to the representatives of the unions last Thursday:

"The present situation... imposes a nerve strain on all concerned at a time when we badly need to devote all our energies and thoughts to the grave threat of war and international emergency ... It leaves the railway employee in a most uncertain and unhappy frame of mind because we are morally certain he does not wish to walk out on his job at a time like this, no matter what issues are involved . . . this opinion seems diametrically opposed to the strike ballot which has been reported by the unions, but railway management retains too high an opinion of the loyalty, steadfastness and sense of responsibility of their employees to believe a strike would not mean a heart-breaking situation for them. That is not to say they will not carry out their undertaking to strike if union leaders decide to call upon them to do so but as already stated, it will cause great unhappiness and self-reproach."

The importance of the railways in Canada's economy cannot be exaggerated. Never was that importance more apparent than in World War II. And without the loyalty and intense effort of all railway employees, Canada's magnificent war effort would have been impossible. The same holds true today. As the presidents further stated:

"... the general public is inconvenienced and business arrangements are made uncertain so long as the likelihood of a strike persists. Moreover, a railway strike would so cripple our economy that it would weaken for a long time our ability to take a strong line in international affairs and thus give great comfort to the enemy. Therefore, railway management feels strongly that the issues must be faced resolutely so that all interests, the worker, the public, and the Government, as well as the unions and railway management, will know precisely what is facing them. The time has come to remove this uncertainty which hangs as a blight over our day-to-day life."

WITH THESE CONSIDERATIONS IN MIND, THE RAILWAYS HAVE MADE THIS OFFER AS THE ULTIMATE THAT COULD POSSIBLY BE EXPECTED OF THEM, AND IT GIVES A SETTLEMENT WHICH WILL LEAVE RAILWAY WORKERS IN AN EXTREMELY FAVOURABLE POSITION COMPARED TO OTHER INDUSTRIAL WORKERS.

HERE IS OUR OFFER

The final offer which excludes hotel and water transport employees is as follows:

(1) Recognition by railway management of a moral obligation to implement the 40-hour week at the appropriate time.

(2) Recognition by the unions in principle, subject to negotiation in detail, of minor amendments to existing contracts covering working rules to bring about more efficient operation.

(3) EITHER

(A) A 44-hour basic work week with a 9.1% increase in hourly rates so as to maintain "take home" pay. In regard to monthly rated clerical employees there will be an understanding that a 5-day actual work week may be granted by local arrangement in selected cases where the hours now actually worked are less than 44, on condition that the requirements of the service are protected up to 44 hours per week.

OR (B) A graduated increase in basic wage rates approximately equivalent in expense to that involved under Plan A. When applied to all employees, this would cost the railways $37,000,000 per year, and would average 8½ cents per hour.

The Glory of the Garden

Everyone loves a garden which offers abundance of nature's gifts. Most gardens are at the peak of production in late August. The second planting of some of the early vegetables is ready for use. The late vegetables are also at the point of harvesting and the homemaker's problem is not what to have but which of the many she should choose each day. Then there is the problem of ways and means of putting away as much as possible for later use.

Many of these vegetables will mature and may be stored in their natural fresh state. Others will be canned but it is those extras that cause the thrifty housewife some worry. Split heads of cabbage, cauliflowers that have not attained the expected firmness or perfect whiteness, cucumbers that are ripening too quickly and tomatoes that will never ripen before frost, must not be wasted. There are also the summer apples and those of the fall varieties that fall from the trees before they are quite ripe enough to be used.

On the other hand, many homemakers buy all their vegetables and fruits. It is possible to buy, at a low price, some of these foods of which nature has given an oversupply.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, suggest quickly-made relishes as a means of saving some of nature's surplus. Here are several excellent recipes:

Apple Catsup

8 Cups quartered apples (about 3 pounds), 3½ cups water, ½ cup chopped onion, 1 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 teaspoon mustard, ½ teaspoon ground cloves, ½ teaspoon pepper, 1½ cups cider vinegar, ½ cup water.

Pare and core apples and cut in quarters. Cover with the 3½ cups water and cook until soft, then press through a sieve. To the pulp, add onions, sugar, salt, spices, vinegar and the ½ cup water. Simmer until thickened, about 1 hour, 15 minutes. Pour into hot sterilized jars and seal. Yield: 7½ cups.

Green Tomato Relish

1½ lb. Green tomatoes (12 small), 1½ lb. tart apples (6 medium), 1½ medium onions, 1 sweet red pepper, 2½ cups vinegar, 2½ cups sugar, ½ teaspoon cayenne pepper, 1½ teaspoons ginger, ½ teaspoon turmeric, ½ teaspoon salt.

Wash tomatoes, remove stem ends and any scars. Peel, core and quarter apples. Peel onions and wash. Remove stem and seed pod of pepper. Put tomatoes, apples, onions and red pepper through a food chopper, using fine blade. Boil vinegar, sugar, cayenne pepper, ginger, turmeric and salt for 1 minute. Add the chopped vegetables and apples and cook for ½ hour. Pack into hot sterilized jars and seal. Yield: about 8 cups.

Corn Relish

3 Cups corn (cut from cob), 2 cups coarsely chopped cucumber, 2 cups coarsely chopped ripe tomates, 2 cups coarsely chopped celery, ½ cup chopped green pepper, ½ cup chopped sweet red pepper, 2 cups chopped onions, 1½ tablespoons salt, 1 tablespoon dry mustard, ½ tablespoon turmeric, 2½ cups vinegar, 1¼ cups brown sugar.

Mix ingredients well. Simmer, uncovered, until thickened, about 50 minutes, stirring frequently. Pour into hot sterilized jars and seal. Yield: about 8 cups.

Two Quebec Delegates To Countrywomen's Conference, Copenhagen

Two Quebec women will be joining a group of 40 from other provinces who are sailing Friday, August 18, on the S. S. "Empress of France" to represent their respecthe Quebec Women's Institutes, at the 6th Triennial Conference of the Associated Country Women of the World, in Copenhagen, September 10 to 16. The Quebec delegation is composed of Mrs. R. Thomson, Abbotsford, President of the Quebec Women's Institutes and Mme Charles Gagné of Les Cercles des Fermières. The entire party will be headed by Mrs. E. E. Morton, Vegreville, Alta., President of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada, and an "All Canadian Tour" has been arranged which will take them through Great Britain and the Scandinavian countries. While in Scotland, Mrs. Thompson has been asked to speak at a rally of the Scottish Rural Women's Institutes at Stirling, and the following week-end, August 25, she and Mme Gagné will be at Denman College at a special party arranged for the Commonwealth delegates. Mrs. Thompson is leaving the group here to spend a few days with Lady Nuttall, Q.W.I. representative on the A.C.W.W. Executive Committee, at her home in Chichester, and will accompany her to Copenhagen in time for the Conference. A tour of Denmark has been planned at the close of the Conference and Mrs. Thompson will make a brief visit in Paris before sailing for home at the end of September on the S.S. "Samaria".

The Beauty of Age

(London Free Press)

Perhaps there should be more emphasis on the beauty of old age. It is indeed an art to grow old with grace — a word which has an even greater significance than "beauty" — and those women who manage to make this accomplishment add strength to the idea that romance and beauty do not end at the age of 30.

The chief difference between a beauty contest among young girls and one among old women is that the girls must give God a good deal of the credit for their good looks, but when we are old — and have passed gracefully through the wearing problems of life — we are entitled to more of the credit for ourselves.

1. Baked in aluminum plates and bought in those same aluminum plates—that's why so many "over-the-counter" pies taste as good as the homemade kind.

2. Aluminum plates give you tender, thoroughly baked pies with the delicious juices all sealed in.

3. Aluminum plates mean no more broken pies for the baker . . . no more thick, soggy bottom crusts for you!

4. No other material is more "food-friendly" than aluminum. When you see aluminum on the outside of a food or a drink, there's an "inside story" of perfectly protected flavour, quality.

Hints to the Housewife

The natural minerals in foods and water sometimes leave a dark deposit on cooking utensils. It's easily removed from aluminum. Simply use a tablespoon of vinegar in boiling water.

FAST FREIGHT: The most modern freight yard in North America, the Canadian Pacific Railway's new $12,000,000 St. Luc "hump retarder" freight terminal at Montreal, which will speed movement of goods through that busy seaport and railway centre, was officially opened recently by Canada's Minister of Transport, the Hon. Lionel Chevrier, K.C. (right of inset), shown as he inspects the retarder controls for the yard with N. R. Crump (left), vice-president, Canadian Pacific Railway, and J. O. Asselin (centre), president, executive council, City of Montreal. The main view shows the classification yard from the crest of the hump, depicting cars in motion down the hump and showing the car retarders in the foreground. Moving down the hump under the force of gravity, the cars are electrically switched and braked, coming to a stop in their pre-determined position in the classification yard. The Canadian Pacific was the first road in North America to adopt the automatic switching principle. The yard also boasts such modern railroading innovations as an undertrack inspection pit to enable all rolling stock passing through the yard to be examined for defects; an automatic track weighing scale that weighs cars in 3½ seconds while they are in motion down the hump; a 37-stall enginehouse equipped with direct steaming apparatus to eliminate smoke; and 100-foot towers mounted with floodlights and placed at strategic points for night operations. In all, over 75 miles of track capable of holding 4,869 cars were required for the terminal, which actually is a series of three operational yards with other auxiliary yards and which measures over 3½ miles in length and over a square mile in area.

Two Deciding Games for Softball Playoff Standing

At White Rose playing field in Upper Lachute last Sunday, the Beavers of Lachute upset the home team in a very keen game. Beavers took an early lead of 3-0, but White Rose came right back to tie the score and then go ahead 4-3. This was the closest they came to winning, and errors cost White Rose the game. The Beavers played fine ball. The final score was Beavers 10, White Rose 4.

There was a good crowd of spectators, who showed plenty of enthusiasm in this game. Umpires were Jack Seary and Hector Steele, of Brownsburg.

At Brownsburg, the Tigers upset Malacket Spiders in a very close contest, to the tune of 5-4. Although this game does not put the Tigers in the playoff, they showed plenty of good sport in defeating the top team.

The regular schedule is now finished, but two games have to be played next Sunday to determine the teams in first and second place, also in third and fourth — as all four teams are tied — White Rose and Malacket Spiders each having 18 points, Beavers and Bluebirds having 14 points.

Next Sunday — White Rose vs. Malacket Spiders, and Beavers vs. Bluebirds.

The playoffs will commence August 27.

40,000 Miles of Steel Idle Across Canada

Brotherhood and Union Railway Employees, 125,000 in Number, on Nation-wide Strike

Montreal (CP) — Forty thousand miles of steel, unravelling from one side of the country to the other, lay useless at the beginning of this week. Canada's first national railway strike was on.

As the clock in the conference room in Montreal's Windsor Hotel inched toward the strike deadline of 6 a.m. local time, on Tuesday, federal mediator Dr. W. A. Mackintosh talked with representatives of the two railways and union officials to prevent the tie-up, but negotiations collapsed in the final minutes.

Beginning in Newfoundland and moving westward as the time zones advanced, 125,000 members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and 15 international unions walked off their jobs.

Rolling stock of the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways lay idle in stations and train yards. Telegraphic communications were silenced.

For hundreds of small towns, served by railways through the country, it meant rationing of food, fuel and supplies of all sorts. For the larger cities it meant drastic curtailment of goods and services, despite co-operation of trucking companies in moving freight.

The railways' final offer of a four cent per hour wage increase, effective September 1, 1950, and institution of the 40-hour week with 48 hours pay, effective October 1, 1951, was refused by the unions. They had asked for an immediate 40-hour week with the same pay as the current 48-hour week, and pay increases of seven and 10 cents an hour.

"The strike is on", said A. R. Mosher, head of two Canadian unions. Frank Hall, chief of the negotiation committee of the international unions, said, "We don't know any more about negotiations at all".

In its effect the strike went far beyond the union membership. It meant work stoppage for the running trades and many other branches of railroad and telegraphic work, since without non-operating personnel on the job, few lines of railway endeavor can go on.

Workers directly affected by the strike call embraced railroad and commercial telegraphers, maintenance and shop employees, clerks, freight and express handlers, some hotel employees and sleeping and dining car employees.

Transport of Mail During Rail Strike

The Watchman publishers regret any inconvenience to readers and advertisers which may result from late deliveries this issue — also omissions of district news through non-arrival of correspondence. Due to the railway strike, such disruptions are unavoidable. Efforts will be made, however, to deliver Watchmans as completely as possible in the county area.

Post-office arrangements provide one collection and delivery westbound (10.30 a.m.) and one eastbound (2.30 p.m.) each day, by truck transport between Montreal and Ottawa — the mails being sorted at Lachute and Lachute Mills after these hours. At present no parcel or newspaper mail is accepted at the local offices for out-of-town delivery. Due to curtailment of regular evening mails the local post-offices are closing at an earlier hour than usual.

Local Exhibitors At Gladiolus Show

Hawkesbury (Special) —

The excellent quality of the gladiolus grown in this district was again shown this year in the fine display put on at the third annual exhibition of the Hawkesbury and District Gladiolus Society. The show was held in the Hawkesbury Town Hall last Saturday afternoon and evening.

The arrangements of baskets and vases were of special interest this year, a great many more entries being shown than in the past. Also of special merit was the Seedling class, where new varieties not yet introduced for sale, were on display.

Mr. S. Mode, of Vankleek Hill, again headed the prize winners and retains the Hawkesbury and District silver trophy for another year. Of interest among Mr. Mode's prize-winning glads was "Moon Glow" in the Recent Introduction class. This bloom was judged the best in the show and won the Ayers blanket, donated by Ayers Limited, of Lachute. Mr. L. W. Hammond, of Lachute, was very close in this competition, with a beautiful spike of "Ogarita" which won the Harden's Jewellery Shop prize for the champion in the single spike class.

Mr. A. Steere, of Brownsburg, won the K. & W. Assaly prize for the Best Basket display, and Mr. Mode with his Champion Vase display won the Allen Motor Sales prize.

Mr. K. Rutherford, of Brownsburg, took the most points in the Amateur classes and received the $5 value in bulbs donated by S. Mode. This is Mr. Rutherford's first year, and he is to be complimented on his six first prizes in the Color classes.

Mrs. E. Gilbert, of Hawkesbury, won the most points in the Advanced Amateur competition, with 58. Mrs. Gilbert won most of her points for her very excellent displays of baskets, vase and novelty arrangements. Mr. G. Todd, of Brownsburg, was a very close second in this competition, with 55 points. Mr. Todd won 23 awards, mainly in the Color classes.

Other winners from Lachute and Brownsburg district were Mr. T. Iddon, of Lachute Mills, Mr. L. W. Hammond, Mr. Stan Murdoch, of Brownsburg, Mr. H. Cardeau, of Lachute Mills, Mr. R. McFaul, of Lachute, and Mr. L. Wilson, of Brownsburg.

The judges were Mr. Seale and Mr. MacIntosh, of Ottawa, and Mr. Maw, of Montreal.

The Society wishes to thank all the competitors for the effort they expended to make this one of the best shows to date, and also thanks the people who attended the show and gave their support.

22 Men by Plane To Churchill Area

Engaged on another government building project for which Tower Company Ltd., Lachute, are the contractors—a party of 22 tradesmen left Dorval Airport last Friday for the Arctic regions of Churchill, Resolute Bay and Baker Island. Of the 22 men a few are from Montreal, but the majority were signed up from this county. They include both skilled and unskilled men, a number being adept in the carpentry, painting, electrical, heating and insulation trades. It is stated by Tower Company officials that this construction job will likely take two or three months to complete.

Ice-Bound 12 Days On Mission Vessel

Two carpenters from this community, Hector McRae and Clayton Boyd, engaged with the same company on the erection of a school-house at Cape Dorset, Baffin Land, had an epic experience on their trip aboard the mission ship Regina Polaris last month. This small 139-ton craft, leaving Montreal the first week in July, was ice-bound for 12 days in the northern seas. The voyage occupied 19 days — the two local men with their cargo, and fellow passengers, only reaching their destination on July 24.

$100,000 Lachute Town Debentures Handled by Montreal Bond Brokers

Eight Tenders for Serial 20-Year Issue Considered at Special Council Session

At a special meeting of Town Council last Thursday, tenders were considered for a 20-year bond offering of $100,000, to finance sheet-paving, waterworks and sewerage. The successful bidder was Wood Gundy Corpn. Ltd. The deal is termed by the Quebec Municipal Commission as "one of the best financings of the current year".

Coming on the bond market for the first time in four years, the municipality sold the bonds at a price of 98.91. The issue comprises $30,000 at 2¾% 1951-60 and $70,000 at 3% 1961-70. The money borrowed will cost a net average interest of 3.064% to the corporation. The interest created by this issue on the market is evidenced by the eight bids received by the Town.

The previous financing by Lachute was made during May, 1946, with the sale over the counter at par of $35,000 of 3% serial 12-year bonds.

Light bids had been sent by two banks and ten investment dealers for the present issue. Here is the official list:

Wood Gundy Corporation, Ltd.
$30,000 at 2¾ per cent 1951-60 and $70,000 at 3 per cent 1961-70 — price 98.91; net cost 3.064 per cent.

Mills, Spence & Co., Ltd.
$30,000 at 2¾ per cent 1951-60 and $70,000 at 3 per cent 1961-70 — price 97.56; net cost 3.193 per cent.

A. E. Ames & Co., Ltd. and Banque Provinciale du Canada.
$100,000 at 3 per cent 1951-70 — price 97.598; net cost 3.231 per cent.

Casgrain & Co., Ltd.
$30,000 at 2¾ per cent 1951-60 and $70,000 at 3 per cent 1961-70 — price 96.81; net cost 3.265 per cent.

Gairdner & Co., Ltd., and Société de Placements Inc.
$41,000 at 3 per cent 1951-62 and $59,000 at 3½ per cent 1963-70 — price 98.675; net cost 3.295 per cent.

Greenshields & Co., Ltd., Bank of Nova Scotia and Dudley Dawson Ltd.
$30,000 at 2¾ per cent 1951-60 and $70,000 at 3 per cent 1961-70 — price 96.389; net cost 3.306 per cent.

Bell, Gouinlock & Co., Ltd.
$30,000 at 3 per cent 1951-60 and $70,000 at 3¼ per cent 1961-70 — price 97.76; net cost 3.427 per cent.

Crédit Interprovincial Ltd.
$30,000 at 3 per cent 1951-60 and $70,000 at 3½ per cent 1961-70 — price 98.50; net cost 3.569 per cent.

The new bonds, which may be redeemed by anticipation, are dated May 1, 1950, and they mature from May 1, 1951, to May 1, 1970, inclusively, the semi-annual interest coupons being payable on May 1 and November 1 of each year. Capital and interest are payable at a chartered bank at Montreal, Quebec or Lachute. The loan (By-law No. 183) has been incurred for pavings, waterworks and sewers, and was approved by majority vote, in number and in value, of the owners of taxable property, at a referendum held on May 22 and 23 of this year.

The assessed valuation of Lachute amounted to $3,975,150 for 1949. The net consolidated debt of the corporation was $116,769.63, for 1949, partly incurred for public utilities. The population of the town is now 5,955.

Progress Report from Brownsburg, on Community Works and Nearby Highway

SLOW PROCEDURE IN SEVERAL UNDERTAKINGS

Legion Hall

Of the many projects mooted within the past few months or years, the Legion Hall is the most advanced toward completion. True, the building is progressing slowly; nevertheless it is progressing. Assistance is not what was expected, and were it not for the faithful few, it is doubtful if the project would ever be accomplished. Those who never do any more than they get paid for, never get paid for any more than they do. Great designs are not accomplished without enthusiasm of some sort — it is the inspiration of everything great; without it no man is to be feared, and with it none despised.

The building is finished to the roof, and before long that will be finished too. There is yet much to be done, many difficulties to surmount — not the least of which is funds, and it is to be hoped sufficient will be provided.

Protestant School Repairs

There is a big job in progress at the Brownsburg Protestant School. Work started late and is proceeding rather slowly, so that doubts are expressed as to whether the work will be sufficiently advanced to allow of a normal school opening. The additional structure will not be available for some time after the fall term gets underway, but when the alterations and extensions are completed, a fine school building will be available.

The Skating Rink

There is none! . . . No sod has been turned, no building progress has been made. The subscription thermometer must be affected by the unusually cool summer, as its red indicator has remained very low. Contributions are trickling in through pay-roll instalments, but very little outward enthusiasm is in evidence. The most recent development is that a doubt has arisen as to whether the site is available or procurable. At this late hour most people had assumed the site had been secured. This is a necessary community project, and as such is engaging a community of interest. It would be wise to keep the public fully informed on whatever progress there is to report, by publication of the business at the committee meetings, or by some other means. The people of Brownsburg want to see a skating rink erected; they are contributing towards this end, and expect the work to be carried to a successful conclusion.

Route 31

However spectacular the recent new-technique dynamite blast — there is nothing spectacular in the progress made on Route 31! After two years of intermittent endeavor, a stretch of about one mile has been hacked out. At this rate, it will take about 80 years to get the road through to St. Jovite, a distance of about 40 miles. The original schedule called for the road to be completed in four years, and we were officially assured (as indeed we were last year also) that the work would reach Pine Hill "this year". It looks like the old gag — "tomorrow never comes".

TOUR ARRANGED FOR JUVENILE POLICE CLUB

An end-of-the-season outing for the members of the Brownsburg Juvenile Police Club is being arranged, and the 171 members of the club will leave the village on August 30 for a visit to Montreal.

Fifteen private cars and a bus have been offered the club to take care of transportation. The cavalcade leaves at 12.30 p.m., to be on the grounds at Lafontaine Park when the first game of softball with the Montreal club takes place.

The boys will be guests of the Montreal club, and after refreshments and an observation tour of the city, will be taken to the ball park to see the game between the Royals and Buffalo at night.

Special arrangements have been made by the Montreal club to entertain the officers of the Brownsburg group, to which the car-drivers are cordially invited.

Mr. Omer Danis, new president of the club (the former president, M. Duchastel, bank manager, has been transferred from here) will accompany the party. Mr. Danis, who is well known for his interest in sport and youth welfare, is an ideal selection for the office. A program of winter activities for the club is now under discussion, and it is expected in the near future that the revival of the Boys' Band will become an accomplished fact.

In Remembrance

Much critical comment has been made of late on the unkempt condition of the war memorial on the Social Club grounds. The ground was overgrown with rag-weed and debris, and altogether presented a very unfavorable appearance. It is hard to place the blame for this neglect, because no provision has been made for the upkeep of the memorial, and no association wanted to claim authority for beautifying the stone. . . The Juvenile Police Club stepped in and undertook to improve the appearance of the memorial; and they are to be highly complimented on the neat and orderly job which their work presented. . . "Sorrows remembered, sweeten present joy".

Held Responsible In Highway Death

At an inquest last Thursday evening in the death of Roderick Dewar, 22, of Vankleek Hill — René Duval, 20-year-old resident of that town, was held criminally responsible as driver of the auto in which Dewar was killed. The fatality occurred on the night of the previous Saturday - Sunday, when the pair, with two passengers, were driving home from Stonefield and the car left the road at a point one mile east of Grenville on Route 29.

Under Coroner Dr. Jules Lafleur at the Dansereau School in Grenville, the jury heard evidence indicating that Duval, driving at an excessive speed, lost control of his car in loose gravel at a curve in the road, and that the auto proceeded 185 feet from this point before careening into the ditch on the opposite side. Dewar was hurled out of the machine and suffered a fractured skull; he died in the Notre Dame Hospital at Hawkesbury five hours later. A number of the jurors had examined the tracks in the gravel, corroborating this evidence.

Chief witnesses were Boyd Latourelle and Larry Crooks, who had been cycling east on the highway and had observed the course of the oncoming car; also Stuart Cousineau and Henri Lacroix, who were passengers accompanying Duval and Dewar on their return to Vankleek Hill; and Traffic Officer H. Jones, who made the report.

Lucien Thinel, of St. Jerome, acted as counsel for the crown.

After a brief deliberation, Ferdinand Tessier, chairman of the jury, brought in a verdict holding René Duval responsible for the death.

Duval was scheduled to face arraignment in St. Jerome Criminal Court on a manslaughter charge.

One Dead and Several Injured, in Saturday Night Highway Accidents

The broad, well-paved stretch of Highway No. 8 between St. Philippe and Grenville was the scene of two accidents Saturday night, one of them fatal.

At 6.30 o'clock Ephraim Poulin, returning eastward to Lachute, lost control of his car, which crossed the ditch on the driver's left-hand side and catapulted through a fence, landing with its four wheels upward. Poulin suffered a broken left arm. A companion, Paul-Emile Lalonde, was more gravely injured, suffering a fracture of the spine. Two other passengers, Gaetan Larocque and Dolphis Paul, were unhurt. All four are residents of Lachute.

Dr. Jacques Castagnay, of Brownsburg, gave first aid to the two injured men, who were then brought to the Providence Hospital at Lachute — Lalonde being later transferred to the Notre Dame Hospital in Montreal.

Cst. Albert Legault, of the district traffic police, made the investigation.

A few miles west of this spot, opposite the Leveillé farm near Marelan Station, a passenger in a taxi from Duhamel, Que., met instant death at 11.50 o'clock when the westbound car crashed into the back of a parked three-ton truck; the rear of the taxi, swinging out into the highway after the collision, was struck by another auto coming in the opposite direction.

Killed in the accident was David Nault, 52, who suffered a fractured skull. He was seated in front with the taxi driver, Aquila Servant, who was cut about the head, arm and legs. Lucien Benoit, another passenger, sustained cuts on the face and right arm. All three were from Duhamel, Que.

The two injured men were brought to the Providence Hospital, Lachute. They were released after receiving treatment. With permission of the coroner, Dr. Jules Lafleur, who visited the scene of the crash, the body of the dead man was removed to Desforges funeral parlors at Grenville.

Driver of the other car involved in this accident was Aurel Lamothe, of Noranda. The parked truck was the property of René Laurin, Lachute. Police said the taxi was almost cut in two as it crashed into the box of the truck.

The accident was investigated by Traffic Officer Albert Legault and Det. Maurice Lamoureux, on temporary duty at Lachute; Det. Arthur Normandeau took over the case on behalf of the provincial police Montreal headquarters.

Inquest on the death of David Nault will be conducted by Coroner Dr. Lafleur this evening (Thursday) at Grenville.

MINING SURVEY

Churchill, Man. (CP) — A party of mining surveyors left here by air recently to make an aerial survey of the Chesterfield, N.W.T., area. They plan later to survey the Baker Lake district, east of Chesterfield, which is 400 miles north of here.

Children's Fair On September 4

The annual Children's Fair, open to school children of this district, is being held September 4 at the Exhibition Grounds. All exhibits must be entered by 10 a.m. Refreshments will be sold on the grounds and an enthusiastic attendance, with keen competition in the entries, is anticipated by the organizers.

Following are rules to be observed by the exhibitors:

1. Exhibits must be new work and the work of the pupil.
2. Exhibits must be left until 4 o'clock the day of the Fair.
3. Each child may exhibit three kinds of vegetable and one of flowers, or four vegetables.
4. All exhibits must be from the seeds supplied by the department of agriculture, unless otherwise stated.
5. Vegetables must be clean, but not washed, and two or three inches of top left on and tied in a bunch, piece of green stem on tomatoes, outer leaves on cabbage, and part of husk on corn.
6. Tomatoes and cabbage may be from home garden.
7. Variety of potatoes and oats taken from home crop, must be stated.

St. Jerome Girl Elected 'Queen of Laurentians'

Winner of the popularity contest for "Queen of the Laurentians", in connection with the St. Jerome Kinsmen Club's peanut day campaign last week, was Miss Cecile Papineau of St. Jerome, an employee of the Canadian Acceptance Corporation in that town. Miss Papineau polled 183,000 votes on the Planter's sales slips. Standing of the other three candidates was — Miss Jeannette Latour, St. Jerome, 159,200; Miss Yvette Gagné, Brownsburg, 152,000; Miss Huguette Legault, St. Jerome, 138,800.

Anniversary Fete, B'bg Youth Welfare

Brownsburg — Sunday marked the fifth anniversary of the inauguration of the Youth Welfare Association here. The occasion was observed with a full day's program of athletic and swimming events, ball-games, acrobatic exhibitions, dancing, a couple of short addresses and a musical entertainment, including a few songs.

The number of children taking part in the various events was amazing. A bicycle road race from St. Philippe to Brownsburg was a feature attraction; this was won by Billy Cribb, from a large number of entrants. The swimming and diving competitions were a popular drawing card, as were also the field events.

The Rev. Paul Manseau worked like a Trojan to make the celebration a success, and under his carefully arranged supervision everything went off like clockwork.

The curé, Rev. Fr. Bouchard, P.P., was highly appreciative of the work accomplished among the children, and expressed his pleasure at the efforts put forth for their benefit and education in sportsmanship.

Mr. Wm. M. Cottingham, M.L.A. (who was subbing for the Minister of Youth Welfare, the Hon. Paul Sauvé, unavoidably absent in Ottawa) addressed a few words of encouragement to the large crowd present. Mr. Cottingham has done much to further the progress of this worthy endeavor, and the happy expressions of thanks offered by the many listeners must have manifested a warm feeling for his unselfish work in their interests. . . The dancing continued till midnight.

It is estimated that there are more than 3,400,000 households in Canada.

Old Caddies' Event Won by G. Proulx

Gerry Proulx, with a 73, won the Old Caddies tournament at the Lachute Golf Club on Saturday. He edged out Stan Kolar of Gatineau, who finished with a 74.

At 75's were Jack Windsor, of Hamilton and Johnny Henrick, of Mount Royal. Arnold McLean with a 79, Charlie Giraldeau with 79 and Paul Osidak with 80 rounded out the top professionals.

In the amateur division, Doug Banks, of Country Club, fired a 79, two strokes better than Pete Barnabe, of Laval-sur-le-Lac.

United Nations Security Council Meets on Korean Situation

The 11-member United Nations Security Council is shown here during one of its meetings in August on the Korean situation. President of the Council for the month was Yakov A. Malik (center, speaking), Deputy Foreign Minister of the USSR, who returned to the horseshoe-shaped table after more than six months of absence in protest against the participation of the delegate of 'Nationalist' China.

Weather Forecasts From Tower

This fall a weather signal mounted on a 150-foot tower atop a new 25-storey building of the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York will be seen for 35 miles — reports the journal "Marketing".

A star with a steady orange glow will forecast clear weather; steady green will predict cloudy conditions; flashing green will warn rain is expected, while a two-color star will mean snow.

Flashing lights running up and down the tower indicate rising or falling temperatures. A numerical "jump" clock at the base of the tower will report the time of day on 7½-foot high numerals.

SEAGOING WOLVES

Montreal (CP) — Four wolves, four racoons and "so many chipmunks we can't count them" are sailing for a Scottish Zoo and they have the crew of their ship worried. "It's easy to handle seasick passengers", said a crew member, "but what do you do with a seasick wolf? You can't go around holding their heads. You might get a hand bitten off."

More Customers

Gatineau Power has passed the 60,000 mark in the number of customers it serves throughout its territory. When the company was formed in 1927 through the amalgamation of a number of small, isolated power systems, it had a total of 15,000 customers. Each customer today uses about 10 times as much electricity each month as the average customer of 1927.

Tiny Power Plant

The first hydro-electric plant on the Gatineau River went into operation less than 50 years ago — on the site which now is occupied by the 170,000-horsepower plant of Gatineau Power at Chelsea, Que. That first plant had an electrical output which today would not be large enough to supply the demands of ONE average domestic customer of Gatineau Power.

Electrical Servants

The average electric pump used by thousands of farmers in the Gatineau territory to provide constant running water uses less than two cents worth of power per day. It costs about five cents to saw a cord of wood by electricity — and the same amount of power will grind 100 pounds of feed, spray 500 square feet of paint, incubate half a dozen chicks or milk a cow for a month.

A Lot of Water

It takes a lot of water to make electric power — but as soon as each drop of water has done its work it is returned to the river as pure and as fresh as before. On the Gatineau River alone, power plants "borrow" 10,000 cubic feet of water per second — or a total of 220,000,000 gallons of water per HOUR, every hour of the day and night. Each drop of water is used at three different plants, and then resumes its journey down the Gatineau to the Ottawa River.

Avoid Local Power Failures

The wise customer lets his electric power company know when he is installing heavy electrical equipment which will result in a substantial increase in the amount of power he will require. That lets the power company make sure that the local transformers which supply the electricity and the fuses which guard against over-loads are large enough to stand the extra load. This in turn guards against local power failures due to blown fuses or damaged transformers.

Auction Sale of U.K. Breeding Stock in Aid Of Red River Breeders

An auction sale of foundation breeding stock, donated and specially selected in the United Kingdom, is being held in the Winter Fair arena, Brandon, Man., on October 21. Proceeds from this sale will be used to assist in re-establishing livestock producers in the Red River Valley, who suffered heavy losses in the recent flood.

Breds included in this sale are Shorthorn, Hereford and Aberdeen Angus beef cattle, Jersey and Ayrshire dairy cattle, Red Poll cattle, Suffold sheep, and Yorkshire pigs. The shipment will consist chiefly of females, but there will be a few sires included in each section. All animals are excellent representatives of their breed.

Over two months ago the British Government, the Royal Agricultural Society of England, the Highland and Agricultural Society of Scotland, together with noted breeders of cattle, sheep and swine in the United Kingdom, offered to contribute a limited number of high quality breeding stock to be used to aid livestock-producer flood victims in the Red River Valley. After one month in quarantine at Levis, Quebec, the animals will reach Brandon in late September or early October.

Sweet Clover, A Soil-Building Crop

Ottawa — In southwestern Ontario growing sweet clover as a soil building crop was a common practice until 10 or 15 years ago. Since then it has become increasingly difficult to obtain good stands of clover in the second year of growth. In recent years, for instance, sweet clover has only been grown successfully in some years on certain fields in areas of Essex County.

It is thought that a fungus disease present in the soil is responsible for the rootrot of sweet clover which kills the plants during the early spring growth of the second year.

At the Experimental Substation at Woodslee, Ontario, a breeding program is under way to develop varieties of sweet clover with resistance to the root rotting disease which is prevalent in the district. Although the breeding work is in its early stages it is hoped, says J. W. Aylesworth, that resistant varieties will be available to the farmer within a few years.

At the present time the chief soil building crops used in the district are alfalfa, alfalfa grass mixtures and red clover. These are expensive to establish and once established the perennial types are left down for several years. A biennial crop such as sweet clover would fit quite well in a soil building rotation where feeding livestock was not a factor. Where sweet clover can be grown successfully it would provide cash returns through the production of seed, and in addition, would supply substantial amounts of organic matter and nitrogen for the soil.

The man who is always waiting for something to turn up usually turns up his toes before something happens.

Culling the Pullets

Ottawa — Early hatched pullets, for the most part, are already in production, but the main crop of layers will be brought in from range during September or early October. Culling the prospective laying flock to eliminate the "loafers" has always been good sense but today, with high feed and labor costs, it is absolutely essential if the birds are to return a profit.

Obvious vigor is a first requirement. Unthrifty birds will not pay for their keep. Alert carriage, bright eyes, close glossy feathering indicate vigor, and all other birds should be eliminated. Comb should be fairly large, full, red and fine in texture and wattles should be thin and silky. It is doubtful if birds with rough, pale, course or scaly combs and sunken eyes will prove to be good layers, and it may prove more profitable to dispose of these for meat purposes.

The body should be long, broad across the back, deep from back to keel, and the keel should be straight. Breast should be plump and full. There should be good depth between pubic bone and the end of the keel, and there should be good spread between the pubic bones, particularly if the bird has started to lay. Shanks should be clean, flat, thin, and soft at the back.

If the sale of hatching eggs forms any considerable part of the source of revenue, select to breed standards, discarding birds carrying disqualifications such as sprigs, stubs, split wing, twisted feathers, and crooked or twisted keels, and discard any bird that appears under-developed for her age.

Ontario Boosts Soybean Acreage

Harrow, Ont. (CP)—The increasing importance of the soybean crop in southwestern Ontario has increased a demand for improved varieties.

A steadily-increasing acreage of soybeans is being seeded in the counties of Essex, Kent, Middlesex, Elgin and Lambton. These counties and others developing soybean acreage present a wide variety of soil and climatic conditions and new bean varieties are required which will be adaptable to these varied conditions.

The breeding program at the Dominion Experimental Farm here is doing a great deal of work in this direction.

Hybridization and selection have developed many new strains of soybeans, which are carefully compared with standard varieties. Samples of the new strains are grown next to local varieties in different localities in an effort to evaluate them.

The recently-released Harly strain, for example, was tested in this manner. Other promising new varieties are undergoing tests.

PROFESSIONAL VACCINATING

There seems to be a lot of misunderstanding among livestock owners as to just why it is necessary to have a qualified veterinarian do the job of vaccinating. Well, here is the answer. Brucella Arbortis vaccine strain 19, is one containing live organisms and in Canada vaccines of this type are very carefully controlled. If they are carelessly used, new outbreaks of the disease could easily occur.

Harvesters to Prairie Provinces

The annual movement of harvesters to the prairie provinces commenced last week, with the bulk of the movement taking place late in August — according to the Hon. Milton F. Gregg, Minister of Labor.

While the exact number required is not yet known, it is expected that at least 2,000 will make the trip. The crop is expected to be considerably heavier than last year, although somewhat later, the Minister pointed out.

In most years Manitoba harvests its crop earlier than Saskatchewan and Alberta, which has enabled harvesters to start work in Manitoba then continue on to Saskatchewan or Alberta. This year, however, Manitoba's crop is much later than usual, and is expected to be ready for harvesting about the same time as the other prairie provinces. This may considerably increase the overall demand for harvest help, explained Mr. Gregg.

The heaviest crop is expected in Saskatchewan and about 1,000 of the Eastern workers will be moved there. Manitoba and Alberta will require at least 500 each, stated the Minister.

All workers recruited from points in Quebec and Ontario will be despatched to Winnipeg, where distribution to Prairie points will be made. Transportation is being provided for the workers at a low rate of $15 going and $11.50 for the return journey.

Mr. Gregg pointed out that only harvesters who could be spared from agricultural work in their own areas would be recruited for the trip West.

Farm Building

Whether it's a new barn to be built, or just a new gate to be hung, a few plans for the proper location will help make it handy and efficient. Every change that's made can increase the value of the farm if it makes the farmstead a more convenient and efficient place to work.

The man who looks ahead 10 or 20 years can expect better and longer use for his time and money. "Hit or miss" changes or additions may obstruct or prevent correct layouts later on.

Every farm has its own peculiar problems, such as the location of clotheslines, fences and gates. However, there are some logical rules that can be applied on just about every farm.

The drive may be approximately 40 feet from the house, with a parking space provided beside it for visitors' cars. By locating the machine shed on the side of the farm court convenient to field lanes, travel is reduced and more use made of the shed. Most farm families can avoid a rutty farmyard in the spring by better surfacing of traveled ways.

The farmyard or farm court can be located about 40 feet back of the house. The court should be laid out so that its smallest dimension is about 120 feet. Then most of the buildings can be located so they have one side in common with the court.

The livestock buildings may be on the far side of the farm court and at least 150 feet from the house. The exact location of the farm court and livestock buildings should be determined with the direction of the prevailing winds in mind.

POISON IVY IS EASILY DETECTED

Every summer hundreds of "city slickers" come out of the bush sporting a glorious coat of poison ivy contamination. This irritating and unsightly affliction is easily avoided. Poison ivy bears a distinctive notched leaf that any novice can learn to recognize. It grows in patches that only the most careless should fail to notice. This is one form of botany every woodsman needs to know.

To Protect Your Heart

This century with its stress on speed is partially responsible for much heart trouble. Consider the average working citizen; he usually has a very mediocre meal, probably taken hurriedly, is under nervous tension, and, as a rule, allows for too little sleep. In an effort to escape from the daily strain, he may attend an exciting cinema or indulge in a sport which tends to be emotional rather than relaxing. It is not surprising then, to find so many persons in the younger age bracket suffering from heart trouble.

Scientists estimate that the perfectly relaxed adult heart uses in 24 hours the same amount of energy equivalent to the feat of lifting a weight of 90 tons to a height of one foot; or throwing a weight of 2,000 pounds a distance of 90 feet. If this is the minimum amount of work accomplished daily by the heart, one can easily wonder to what limit it can go where the continually overworked person is concerned. The question arises — what is there to do? Must one live a purely sedentary life in order to protect the heart? Evidently not — it is posible to give sensible care and attention to the heart by observing the following simple rules, suggested by the National Health Association:

1. Protect the heart from overwork by avoiding illnesses, particularly those accompanied by fever, exaggerated athletics which might cause hypertrophy (enlargement) of the heart; indigestion, which may also interfere with the proper functioning of the heart.

2. Avoid or treat all infections, especially throat infections which are frequently associated with acute rheumatic fever, and which sometimes damage the heart considerably. Always keep in mind that no matter whether young or old, influenza and sore throat should receive immediate attention.

3. Control the diet and get sufficient rest. Eat well but avoid over-eating which needlessly increases the heart's burden. If at all possible, take a rest after each meal. Sleep is of vast importance since it is then that the heart works less. Relax completely during rest periods, forgetting all everyday worries.

The Little Touches

WITH THE summer tourist season drawing to its close, many Canadian communities are taking stock of their own part in Canada's tourist industry. They are considering whether the summer has come up to expectations from the viewpoint of district resorts, whether changes and improvements in facilities should be made, and so on.

This is the time, too, when the tourists and travellers themselves decide whether their holiday trips were successful and make tentative plans for next year. The details, good and bad, of this year's jaunts still are vivid in their memory.

"That was a great spot", some will say. "Let's go back there next year and stay there for the whole two weeks."

But, of other holiday locations, persons who have sampled them will say:

"It wasn't bad for a day or two, but next year we're heading for somewhere else."

Assuming that the areas have about the same attractions, why is it that one is recalled with enthusiasm and will have its tourists back next year while the other has fewer satisfied customers?

We put this question recently to a fellow just back from a vacation trip of several hundred miles. His answer was that it's the little things that count.

"Just outside one town, I caught a big fish", he said. "I wrapped it in bark, as we were going to cook it in an hour or so, and another member of my party held it while we drove into town. During the few minutes we stopped on the main street, a man spotted the fish and came running over with a cardboard box in which we could carry it more easily. I won't forget that town."

Another recent tripper (to the Maritimes and Prince Edward Island) was most happily impressed with one particular port-of-call. A native urged him to try the trout-fishing of that district — but being unable to tarry sufficiently long, the tourist and his party were presented with two luscious fish, as samples to prove the case.

The traveller said well-marked roads, with signs pointing to historical landmarks, added to the pleasure of his trip. So did good meals and accommodation at reasonable prices, close attention to the handling of "vacancy" and "no vacancy" signs at stopping places and, above all, friendliness, and courtesy on the part of year-round residents in giving information or directions and showing an interest in the tourist's comfort and welfare.

Just such little details, the back-from-holidays men contend, can make or mar a visit to any region. They are the things the vacationist recalls when he makes up his mind whether to go back next year.

Careless Smokers Cause Most Fires

IN CANADA last year, the careless dropping of cigarette butts led to 17,904 fires, in the United States to 155,000. Canadian smokers who disregarded the danger of a live butt were responsible for more than three and a half million dollars of fire damage in 1949. . . Careless smoking is the greatest single cause of fire, states C. Lester Walker, whose figures are reproduced in the current issue of "Reader's Digest".

The article, condensed from "Your Life", reminds its readers that the lighted end of a cigarette has a temperature ranging from 800 to 1,200 degrees Fahrenheit. "Remember", the article adds, "that paper burns at 450°F., wood at 475°F."

Everyone has heard the warning "Never smoke in bed!" but apparently many do not heed it. This cozy habit has led to the cremation of 2,500 Americans in recent years, many of whom burned down the building with them. Hospitals and hotels are the special victims of the in-bed smoker.

This continent might well emulate Europe, the author believes, in holding liable for damages any person who carelessly starts a fire. In a recent period, per capita fire losses in various European cities ranged from 6 cents to 52 cents. During the same time, the average per capita loss from fire in 450 American cities was $2.22.

The article lists "a few canons of good smoking behavior": When smoking outdoors, stamp out butts. Never put a lighted cigarette anywhere except in an ash tray from which it cannot fall. Don't throw a cigarette out of the window of an automobile. Don't smoke in closets, attics or barns — or near inflammable liquids. Never smoke in bed.

Voluntary Effort in Canada's Communities

THE VIRTUES of voluntary effort and private enterprise are made clear by reports now being received at the national headquarters of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, as this organization prepares for its annual meeting in Banff early next month.

Here are a few recent stories of "self-help" by the business community in cities, towns, and villages across Canada:

Cranberry Portage, Manitoba: The main street in the village (population 300) had no lighting, so at a Chamber of Commerce meeting Harry Yee, owner of the local Chinese cafe, who had recently installed a lighting system of his own, offered to donate his surplus power if the Chamber of Commerce would erect the poles and install the lights. The pole-erecting job has been going forward this summer and Mr. Yee has lent the Chamber further encouragement by contracting to buy lights for his end of Main Street. Not to be outdone, up at the other end the Great Northern Hotel management has offered to provide additional electricity if it is needed. The "bright lights" will soon be turned on in Cranberry Portage.

There is an encouraging example even closer to home. . . Vankleek Hill, Ontario, wanted a rink and community hall, but instead of asking the government for it they decided to try voluntary effort. Farmers agreed to donate logs for lumber, trucking firms the transport, and the men of the town offered their services, thus meeting the labor problem. . . Various organizations were given jobs to do. The Literary Society of the high school, for example, undertook to raise nineteen kegs of nails; the Children of Mary to take the responsibility for a $100 pump; the separate schools to provide hose and piping. Meanwhile, a preliminary canvass of the town raised $3,000 and further fund-raising efforts have been a-foot. A building committee has been appointed and there is little doubt that Vankleek Hill is going to get its rink and community hall — under its own steam.

Kipling, Sask: Last year members of the Board of Trade discovered just before their Sports Day that the rides ordered from a carnival organization could not be shipped. With visions of all those disappointed children before their eyes, the members turned themselves into carpenters and amateur engineers and built a new children's ride — an electric train which ran on a circular track. In four days the ride was ready, complete with a ½ h.p. electric motor to drive it. After this successful start in the carnival business the Kipling Board of Trade is planning to spend some of its winter hours building other rides.

Sherridon, Manitoba: This town has been facing the problem of survival. It draws its livelihood from a base metals mine, and the high-grade ore reserves are running out. Two solutions were open to the Sherridon dwellers: first, to stay on at Sherridon and work the low ore for a few years; and second, to move 120 miles north to Lynn Lake, where the nickel-copper ore reserves to the value of $90 million have been discovered. . . The Chamber recommended the eventual move to Lynn Lake. It went further, and pressed for the extension of the railroad to Lynn Lake, as an important first step. In this, the Chamber sought and won support from neighboring Flin Flon, The Pas, and Cranberry Portage — and from the Sherritt Base Metal Workers and union local, North of 53, of the Trades and Labor Congress. . . A resolution to the Prime Minister, asking for extension of the railroad to Lynn Lake, was sent to the Manitoba Associated Chambers of Commerce, which endorsed it and sent it on to Ottawa. Meanwhile, Sherritt Gordon Mines has been working with the C.N.R. and the town of Sherridon on road and aerial surveys of the proposed new site. And, as an experiment, five or six houses will be "skidded" up to Lynn Lake over winter roads, in anticipation of a "bigger and better" moving day some years hence.

BABY bonuses, unemployment insurance, old age pensions and other examples of government paternalism are made possible only through a sacrifice of a portion of present earnings by the people who are working in useful jobs. All governments do is re-distribute the wealth we, as individuals, create through our own labor.

How to Escape Libel Suits

(Canadian Statesman)

The greatest fear a newspaper man has is that sooner or later, during the heat of some battle of words, he will write something which will offend a citizen to the extent that he will take action for libel. Unless the paper is prepared to prove that what has been printed is, indeed, truth, one of these libel suits can develop into an expensive affair and has been known to financially ruin substantial papers. For this reason, we are extremely careful in checking stories and impress upon our reporting staff the need for the greatest accuracy. Way back in 1903 an article appeared which will explain what we mean:

"Never state as a fact anything you are not certain about", the great editor warned the young reporter, "or you will get us into libel suits. In such cases use alleged, claimed, reputed, rumored, and so on."

"And then this paragraph appeared in the society notes of the paper: 'It is rumored that a card party was given yesterday by a number of reputed ladies. Mrs. Smith, gossip says, was hostess. It is alleged that the guests were all from this town except Mrs. Bellinger, who claims she hails from Stavely. Mrs. Smith claims to be the wife of Archibald Smith, the so-called honest dealer'."

I was in a small tavern in northern Michigan one night when the lights went off for an instant. People around me chuckled, and someone called out, "Go on home, Tom."

From a far corner an old fellow rose and stalked out, grumbling. The man on my left explained: "Tom and his wife own the dynamo up the river, and when she figures he's been here long enough she just turns off the power. Us townsfolk always see to it that he leaves right away, because the next time the lights go off they don't come back on." — From "Life's Like That" in The Reader's Digest.

REMEMBER "HOLY DAY"

It is well for those on holiday to consider the meaning of the word and realize that at one time it meant a holy day — a day of rest, not a time to travel and enjoy one's fling.

FREEDOM INSURANCE

If we want our legislators to increase our life and liberty insurance by seeing to it that Canada has adequate military defences and make its proper contribution to the maintenance of world freedom, now is the time to tell them so — and in unmistakably clear and forceful terms.

VANDALS HARM FRIENDS

We hasten to admit that the majority of youngsters are not vandals, but there are a lot of them in circulation who are, and no attempt is made to check them or put them in their place. That is why so-called youth movements do not command that 100-per-cent support their supporters seem to expect.

MORAL PROGRESS

The point is not that Germany should be kept down, industrially or politically or even militarily. It should not be so kept down. But to insist that German recovery should be not merely physical, but that political and moral progress should keep pace with the build-up of German material power, is wholly realistic.

HOUSING AT PREMIUM

Housing is at a premium in Quesnel, B.C. The present serious shortage is creating a bottleneck that may well throttle progress. Adequate accommodation for newcomers should be considered as part of the over-all development program.

Beach Picnic

On August 9 a very successful "mother and daughter" picnic was held on the beach at Mrs. Jos. Boyd's, by members of the Arundel Women's Institute branch. About 35 members with their daughters were present. The afternoon was spent in swimming and social enjoyment, and was brought to a close with a picnic lunch.

Lawn Social

The Girls' Guild of Arundel United Church held their annual lawn social on Friday evening, August 11. Despite the threatening weather, the evening turned out fine but a little chilly in temperature. This was taken care of by the supplying of hot drinks, which were well patronized, as were the various other booths. The program consisted of a one-act play, in which members took part under the coaching of Mr. A. Lennan; this was thoroughly enjoyed by the large audience. A substantial sum was realized, which will be applied to the work of the Guild.

On Sunday evening, August 13, the United Church had as its visiting preacher, the Rev. Charles Pelletier, of St. Hyacinthe, Que. During the service four new members joined the church — the Misses Barbara Staniforth, Florence Larraway, and Messrs. Edgar Davis and Charles Johnston. After the reception of the new members, the sacrament of Holy Communion was observed.

Christenings

On Sunday afternoon, August 13, the Rev. Charles Pelletier officiated at the christening of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. K. Fenton, whose baby was given the names Mark Allan Fenton, and of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Harding, which was named Walter George Harding.

Social Evening and Entertainment

On Saturday evening, August 19, the Ladies' Auxiliary of Grace Anglican Church held a successful social in the School auditorium. There was a large attendance which patronized the various booths. During the evening a short program was given, in which the Arundel Girls' Glee Club rendered selections; Miss Dianne Wright and Miss Lois Gordon, piano duet; Darrel and Carol Rathwell, piano solos; Ruth Tooke of Montreal, Highland dances; Piper Jimmy Wood, selections on the bagpipes; Billie Strachan, of Montreal, piano solo, and also accompanying Mr. Dave Flanagan, who rendered several solos. Mr. D. Flanagan acted as a very capable master-of-ceremonies.

A substantial sum of money was realized, which repayed the members for the earnest work they had devoted to the success of this function.

Calumet

Mrs. Gula Morrison and little daughter, Wendy Earlene, of Knowlton, spent a few days last week with her sister, Mrs. Robert Sanderson, at "Fernhaven" in Calumet.

'Hard Core' of Refugees Begins to Soften

Among the refugees living in camps operated in Europe by the International Refugee Organization (IRO), a United Nations Specialized Agency, are some 25,000 old and sick persons, the "hard core" which has the greatest difficulty finding new homes. In recent months, however, homes have been provided for some of them. In the left hand photo, an aged refugee, one of 980 offered homes by a Roman Catholic order in France, talks to a French priest about the new life ahead. At the right, a blind refugee (left) discusses the prospect of a new life in Norway, where 100 sightless persons and an equal number of their families have been accepted. With him is a camp official of the International Refugee Organization (center) and a Norwegian representative.

Brownsburg

Mr. H. Steere was among exhibitors at the Hawkesbury gladiolus show on Saturday, having received, with other awards, the grand champion prize for the best basket collection. . . This basket was among the artistic display of gladioli in the United Church at the service last Sunday morning. There also was a bouquet of gladioli from the late Clifton Graham's garden, which Mr. Steere had planted.

Avoca

The Rev. and Mrs. A. G. Moore, of Cushing, and Mrs. Gill, of Grenville, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Bates on Tuesday of last week — also visiting Mrs. Neil McCallum.

Bell Falls

Mr. W. S. Horsnall and Miss Isabel McCallum visited with Mr. and Mrs. Borden Sheridan, of Elmsley, and Mrs. J. C. Chalmers, of Smiths Falls.

Miss Eleanor Campbell is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. B. McRae.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hay, of Montreal, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. McMahon.

Master Alvin McVicar spent the week-end at his home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Val Swail, of Arundel, called on Mr. and Mrs. Neil McCallum last Saturday.

This community extends sympathy to the friends and relatives of the late Alex J. (Sandy) Geegan, who passed away on August 7 in the Montreal General Hospital, at the age of 84.

Church Items

A good number attended the "sunset service" held last Sunday evening.

The Word "Socialism"

We were reflecting the other day, as we looked over the 1949 financial report of the Madison city water department; what a strange animal man is.

The report shows that the department made a profit of $194,686 last year in the operation of the water department. There are few people in Madison — probably no one — who do not feel pride in or heartily approve of the city making a profit out of the operation of the water system.

But some of these same people would be shocked at the "socialistic" suggestion that the electric and gas utilities be taken over and operated by the municipality. It is all right to be "socialistic" where water is concerned, but where electricity is involved we continue under the superstition that it must be operated by absentee private interests.

There are cities in Wisconsin where the people would think it strange to have their power and gas utilities operated by private interests. In some of these communities the water utility might be owned by private interests. Some of the people in those communities would oppose public ownership because it smacks of "socialism".

Then there are communities where both water and power are municipally owned, but the people think it is "socialistic" to own the public transportation system. Here in Madison our friends on the Wisconsin State Journal approve of "socialistic" water and transportation, but are violently opposed to "socialistic" electricity. The mayor of Richland Centre, Vernon Thompson, likes public ownership in his city but he thinks it would be "socialistic" for other cities.

There is no logic, of course, to these inconsistent notions. They reflect the prejudice rather than the reasoning power of the people involved. Usually these prejudices are the result of a high-pressure propaganda campaign financed and promoted by some utility interest fearful of being taken over.

A few years ago the cry of "socialism" was raised to a proposal that the Madison Gas and Electric Company be taken over by the city. In the heat of the battle the opponents of acquisition were so carried away with their own slogans against "socialism" that they started to attack the highly efficient city water system. If the campaign had gone a few more weeks they would undoubtedly have started a move to rid the city of this symbol of the hated "socialistic state".

After that, anything might have happened. Our school might have gone back to private ownership and mail deliveries let out on bids.

It's a funny thing, but there are a lot of people who are more scared of a word than they would be of a mad dog.

NOTE: The above first appeared in the Capital Times of Madison, Wis. The point of the entire editorial is in its last words, "There are a lot of people who are more scared of a word than they are of a mad dog." Besides that newspaper there is in Madison another agency doing an excellent job in getting people released from the fear of words — this is the University of Wisconsin. The late C. A. Dykstra who served that University as its President for some years had freeing the mind from the fear of words as his "secret hobby". — Exchange

Officials' Paradise?

"Every Argentine official became a gentleman, by Act of Congress recently, when the revised penal code became law without President Peron's signature. It provides for a maximum of three years' imprisonment and a fine of five thousand pesos for the author of any statement threatening or insulting an official, or offending his or her dignity, directly, indirectly, orally, or in writing. The fact that the charge is true or based on public knowledge is no ground for exemption." — Daily Telegraph (England)

Britain Has 300 Women Engineers

Engineering is still generally considered a man's field, but Britain has a Women's Engineering Society with some 300 active members. The organization, which recently celebrated its 30th anniversary, was formed in 1919 by a few enthusiasts who had broken into the profession during the First World War.

The Society holds an annual conference and publishes a periodical, Woman Engineer.

From the Home of the Bean and the Cod

An old New England custom has been introduced into North Carolina by the citizens of Washington Park, a town of about 350 residents in Beaufort County. A bill passed by the General Assembly calls for the election of Washington Park's municipal officers at town meetings, to be held biennially on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in May. Qualified citizens will register in the usual way but on election day will meet together, nominate their candidates for office from the floor, and vote immediately afterward by secret ballot. The votes will be counted and results announced on the spot. Such an election procedure is rare in North Carolina but is common throughout Maine, Massachusetts, Vermont and New Hampshire.

The Lighted School

If the school houses in your community are closed in the evening, look for the reason. They are public property, financed by the community, and fullest use should be made of them. Traditional objections, such as possibility of damage, increased janitor service, cost of supplies and maintenance, and lack of efficient supervision, are being overcome in scores of communities by co-operation between the civic officials and the citizens.

Reduced Rail Fares To Quebec Exhibition

Montreal — Reduced rail fares for persons travelling to the Quebec Provincial Exhibition to be held at Quebec City September 1 to 10, inclusive, are announced by J. A. Brass, chairman of the Canadian Passenger Association.

Bull in China Shop Too Well Mannered

Malvern, England (Reuters) — A bull in a china shop does not behave "like a bull in a china shop."

The saying was disproved at a farm at Madresfield near here where a dummy china shop was built for the Madresfield champion bull to rush into, and a china company provided $280 worth of faulty china for him to smash in the course of a documentary movie about china making.

Police warned onlookers that they stayed at their own risk and hearded them behind walls and barred gates.

Then the champ was ushered in. Trip wires had been fixed to the tables to make sure the china would fall.

The champ bellowed and sniffed. The cameras swung into action. Two starlets, playing the part of frightened salesgirls, fled screaming.

Then a one-ton mass of beef walked gingerly around, carefully stepping over the trip wires.

Farmhands, newpapermen, china experts and cine-technicians yelled, cursed, cajoled and prodded.

Someone smacked the champ's rump. This made him nod his head and knock over the display pedestal. But nothing more.

In despair the organizers produced Rosebud, the champ's sweetheart.

He bellowed vigorously but walked sedately towards her, disturbing neither trip wires nor crockery.

This was the last straw. Someone gave two loaded display tables a desperate shove from behind and emptied crockery and glassware in the champ's path. The champ almost noticeably shrugged his shoulders and stepped through the mess.

Leaves on Convention, Excelsior Life Insurance

Gabriel Valois, local insurance broker, leaves next Sunday for the convention of the Excelsior Life Insurance Company, to be held in the beautiful Lake-of-the-Woods district, at Minaki Lodge.

Mr. Valois has qualified for the Diamond Jubilee Convention of his company by sending a volume of new business of $5,225. of premiums from January 1, 1949, to May 31, 1950. He received from the president of the Company congratulations upon his qualification for the Convention, and for his splendid standing in the sales field. Being the guest of the Company on this occasion is a real recompense, for which Mr. Valois is duly appreciative to his clientele who made it possible.

B.C. Forester Urges Re-seeding Program

New Westminster, B.C. (CP) — British Columbia's timber resources won't last long unless a full-scale re-seeding program is launched, R. D. Gregor, chief instructor of Green Timber Forestry School at nearby Surrey, said here.

Mr. Gregor told a service club that "It is largely up to the forest ranger to see that re-seeding operations are carried out successfully."

"Since some 3,000,000,000 feet of timber is cut from B.C.'s forests each year, we need every ranger and forest worker we can get to aid the Forestry Department in re-seeding operations. It may take up to 150 years to replace areas already logged.

"Civilizations have vanished from the face of the earth through the maltreatment of forest land and since the total mature forest stand now is approximately 180,000,000,000 feet, and more than one per cent of this is taken out each year, it won't take long to dwindle that stock unless we really work."

The Green Timber School opened in 1948, and can graduate 20 skilled rangers every two years. There are some 90 rangers in B.C.

German Scientists Seek Lost Atlantis

Husum, Germany (Reuters) — Eight Germans will leave here shortly to search for Atlantis, legendary lost continent in the Atlantic.

The group, comprising geologists, physicists, archaelogists and metereologists, is headed by Juergen Spannuth, a 45-year-old pastor from Dordelum, whose hobby for 20 years has been studying the history and possible location of the sunken continent.

He claims to have confirmed its approximate location recently from dusty folios.

He believes it stretches from the Atlantic Ocean to the North Sea, and he hopes to find traces of it "somewhere in the North Sea."

Spannuth has chartered the 150-ton yacht Meta and equipped it with scientific research material.

On board is a diver who claims to have developed a new diving bell in which he will search the lost world.

Canada's largest province, Quebec, has an area of 594,860 square miles; the smallest, Prince Edward Island, has an area of 2,184 square miles.

Around the Home...

TOM GARD'S NOTE BOOK

One of the best things about going away for awhile is coming home. Roughing it in the wilds or with fussy relatives sure makes you downright appreciative of your own comfortable furnishings . . . and you see your dwelling with more discerning eyes. When you live with your things continually they seem to fit like an old shoe and you do not see their shortcomings. As I came up the front walk I decided I just had to get busy and finish up those boxes for the veranda pillars. Artistically planted, they will take away the bareness of the front steps.

Sit In The Shade

Is shade at a premium in your yard? One solution to the problem seen on our holidays was a portable canvas shade. Inch water pipe joined by standard fittings had been used and painted dark green. Bright awning material covered the top and was held in place by short tie strings. This particular shade was moved from place to place to avoid wear on the grass and to catch any breeze that was blowing. By covering the sides with the same material the shade could double as sleeping quarters for the young fry.

Dual-Purpose Barrel

Of all the things that puzzle a gardener, possibly more are confused by the statement, "Give liberal applications of liquid manure" than any other. This is not a difficult procedure when handled properly. Bury a water-tight barrel in the ground to the rim. Fit a tight lid to the barrel and place a strong hook near the top from which a burlap bag can be hung. Fill the bag with well-rotted manure (preferably sheep manure) and place it on the hook. Almost fill the barrel with water and allow it to stand for 24 hours before it is used on your plants. Place the barrel directly under the down spout from the eaves or in a secluded corner of the garden if you don't mind carrying the water a little further. Refill the barrel as the liquid is used.

Coconuts

Manitoba Station Plans to Process 450 White Whales

Eskimos Harpoon Whales From Freighter Canoes

Churchill, Man. (CP)—The whale factory at this Hudson Bay port expects to process about 450 white whales in its first year of operation, Manager Karl Kruse says.

From July 1 to mid-August about 300 had been caught. It is expected the plant will run another month.

Mr. Kruse, a young Norwegian who took air force training at Little Norway, near Toronto, during the Second World War, has had seven years' whaling experience in the Antarctic.

An Englishman and a half a dozen Eskimos — the only ones in Churchill — form his hunting and factory crew. The whales abound in Hudson Bay near the factory in the mouth of the Hudson River.

The Eskimos use a freighter canoe and try to drive a whale into shallow water before harpooning it. Attached to the harpoon, which is thrown by hand, is a line with an airtight can on the end.

Harpoon Whales

The can makes it hard for the whale to dive and in any case it can't go far down because it's in the shallows. When the whale comes up for air the natives shoot him with high-powered rifles.

The average whale weighs about 1,000 pounds. The factory extracts about 35 gallons of whale oil from each carcass. The meat is ground and frozen for shipment to Winnipeg as fox and minx feed.

Whale oil is used for manufacture of margarine and soap products, Mr. Kruse said. But it is not used for Canadian margarine, being sent to European countries.

Practical Hints on Budget Conservation

They're alike in many mays — budgets and rivers. Sometimes they're full and run smoothly; at other times they just dry up. Very often — as with rivers — it's a seasonal problem.

Many Bank of Montreal customers have come across it. Some have found that Christmas expenses make Jaunary a "thin month". Others have experienced a shortage of ready cash after paying insurance premiums or mortgage interest. And they've worked out a solution along conservation lines.

This is the way they dam the river. They open a "special purposes" account. Each pay day they deposit a fixed percentage of their major commitments, and then, when the time for heavy payments comes round, they can make them without undue strain.

If this idea appeals to you, why not come in and talk it over with J. L. A. Brouillette, the accountant at your local branch of the B of M? He'll be glad to help you open your own "Special purposes" account.

FOR PARENTS ONLY...

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints for Child Training, etc.

A Child's Pet

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

Some little children are afraid of animals. They run to their mother if they see a dog coming toward them. They are fearful of the "great big pussy" who lives at a neighbor's home. It is only by gradual degrees that parents can persuade these timid children to overcome their fear. Sometimes this fear goes back to a bad scare when the child was very young. But by the time a child is old enough to go to school, usually he has become interested in animals and wants to have a pet of his own.

A very little child should not be left with a strange dog or cat without supervision. A child may "love" an animal so hard that he squeezes it and hurts it. Or the animal may want to sleep, or be left alone to eat his meal. The child may annoy the animal so much at a bad time, that a usually good tempered beast may scratch or bite — and who can blame him?

Children are sometimes unwittingly cruel — as when little girls attempt to dress a kitten in doll clothes and handle the poor little thing so much that it is in an exhausted, angry mood. Small boys in their eagerness to teach a puppy tricks, may keep at their little dog until he is stubborn and worn out.

In the matter of having pets, children on a farm are in a much better position than city children. Many rural children have a pet calf or a pet colt. Usually there is a family dog — a collie or some other dog who fetches the cows and has a real place as a watch dog. A good mouser in a cat is a real asset in a barn. The cost of a generous saucer of milk for a tabby and her kittens, does not matter so much where cows are milked twice a day. There is plenty of space for children and pets to have lots of exercise on a farm. Then, too, there are no near neighbors who dislike pets and are on the lookout for a dog or cat who might stray onto their property.

In a city home, parents should consider carefully whether or not they can afford not only the initial cost of a pet, but the money needed for food, and extra expenses such as the annual dog tax and a veterinary's visit when a pet falls ill. Pets need more supervision in the city, and it is a rather pathetic sight to see a dog tied up in a small back yard in the hot summer weather.

Most parents realize that a satisfactory pet adds much to a child's happiness (and this affection between the child and the pet is a fine thing). But when a child pleads to own a pet, parents also feel that he should be old enough to share in its care. Otherwise, the whole burden falls on the parents (usually mother, because she is home most of the time). But children do need to be reminded that their pet needs regular meals, and needs to be kept clean and well cared for. After the novelty has worn off, the job of feeding a pet is apt to be forgotten, unless a child is reminded of this task. In a city apartment, parents sometimes buy goldfish as pets, or a pet bird such as a canary or "budgie" because they are less care. Some children get a great deal of plasure from a pet bunny. But a pussy or a dog is the most popular choice for a child's pet.

As one small boy wrote in a composition:

"My dog Skipper sits down quietly beside me. We both are happy just being near each other."

Big Number Is Lucky One for Girl Refugee

Twelve-year-old Dace Epermanis (holding flowers, left picture) gets a special send-off at Bremerhaven, Germany, when records of the U.N. International Refugee Organization (IRO) disclosed that she was the 150,000th displaced person to be admitted to the USA under its DP law. Her mother and father, leaving an IRO camp with Dace for their new home, stand with her in front of the sign. At right, Dace is shown aboard an IRO-chartered ship just after she first saw the towering buildings of New York. Large numbers of refugees from European lands have also received new homes in Israel, Australia, the United Kingdom, Canada, France, Argentina and Brazil.

The subway shuttle from New York City's Times Square to Grand Central Station was packed, and since I had baggage — and plenty of time — I stepped back to wait for an empty train.

"When does the next train get in?" I asked the guard.

"Why didn't you take the one that just pulled out?" he asked reproachfully. "There won't be another one for three minutes!" — From "Life's Like That" in the Reader's Digest.

Of Profanity

(Lakeshore News)

Once upon a time profanity was restricted by law to the exclusive use of the nobility. Commoners were expressly forbidden to indulge in the fine art of plain and fancy cussing.

In the same period only the nobility and the upper classes were literate and it may have been felt that the illiterate masses were incapable of the imagination and technical skill necessary to produce a truly well-rounded composition of soul-satisfying oaths.

The law has fallen into disuse, unfortunately, and today most conversation is interlarded with extremely dull, coarse gutturals having no meaning and serving no purpose.

The Arabs, we are told, have nothing in their language corresponding to our so-called Anglo-Saxon cuss words, but they can shake you rigid with a detailed analysis of your ancestry and probable relationship to a certain four-legged animal. This is done with poetic fervor and a keen regard for the niceties of well-balanced extemporaneous prose. We, on the other hand, ignoring the vast potentialities inherent in one of the most versatile languages in the world, content ourselves with a form of English so basic as to consist of a handful of one-syllable words.

Could we suggest that a course in Literate Profanity be included in our college curricula, thus improving the range and quality of twenty-five percent of our conversation and giving father true verbal relief when he nicks himself with the razor blade?

Valencia Oranges Regain Old Size; California Happy

Fruit Shrank to Near Golf-Ball Dimensions for Five Years, Now Big as Baseballs

Los Angeles (AP) — California's Valencia oranges, which shrank to almost golf ball size over a five-year period, are back to their normal baseball dimensions again.

This cheering news comes from L. H. Wohlwend, general sales manager of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, the marketing co-operative which sells 75 per cent of the California-Arizona citrus harvest.

This year Valencias, the familiar juice orange of the breakfast table, are the biggest they've been since 1945. It was in that year that the mysterious shrinkage, which has perplexed the best citrus minds, was first noticed.

It took an average of 268 Valencias to fill a shipping box in 1945. Last year the average was 325 per box. The 1950 crop is expected to average 270.

Larger, Juicier

The fruit is not only larger, but is juicier and has a higher sugar content than normal this season. This makes the growers happy. But citrus experts aren't clapping their hands — yet.

They want to see if the shrinkage trend has truly been stopped, or if this is just one of those extra-good crops that come along every few years.

There is evidence to support the latter theory. Navel oranges which ripen earlier than Valencias, were bigger and better this year than they have been in many seasons. Rainfall in the state, which had abnormally light precipitation for six or seven years, this year was almost back to normal.

One thing is certain — the harvest will be larger this season than last, probably by two and a half million boxes. This is because frost damage was less severe this year. The exchange predicts 17,000,000 boxes will be shipped this summer.

But while the growers smile, scientists at the University of California's citrus experimental station still consider the shrinkage mystery their number one problem.

We often wonder if our governments might not be run just a bit more efficiently if we remembered that our politicians and civil servants are not our bosses but rather hired hands, hired to work for us. — Rouyn-Noranda Press

School Teacher and Principal Pledge Vows In Lakefield Wedding

McGerrigle - Baugh

The marriage of Mary Kathleen Baugh, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. C. W. P. Baugh, of Lakefield, Que., to Andrew James, son of Mr. James McGerrigle and the late Mrs. McGerrigle, of Ormstown, Que., took place on Saturday, August 19, at 3 p.m. in Holy Trinity Church, Lakefield, the Rev. Mr. Baugh, father of the bride, officiating. Mr. Earl Morrison played the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Cyrus Baugh, of Joliette, the bride wore a street-length dress of pale blue sheer made with a long bodice and tiny buttons down the front, white lace gloves, with navy blue hat and shoes, and carried a Colonial bouquet of pink roses and bouvardia.

Mrs. Howard Baugh, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron-of-honor, wearing a navy blue dress with pale blue velvet hat and gloves to match. She carried a Colonial bouquet of sweet peas. Little Margaret Ann Dawson, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She was dressed in pink smocked dimity, with a flowered headdress, and carried a basket of summer flowers.

Mr. Burry McGerrigle, brother of the groom, was best man. Messrs. Howard Baugh and John Baugh, brothers of the bride, were ushers.

Mrs. C. W. P. Baugh, mother of the bride, wore black crepe with a figured bodice, and a corsage of American Beauty roses.

A reception was held at the Gibb Hall, which was decorated with pink, blue and white streamers, and a profusion of summer flowers. The tables were lighted with candles, and a three-tier wedding cake centred the bride's table.

On going away, the bride wore a green velvet two-piece suit, with natural straw hat, and a corsage of American Beauty roses.

The bridal couple left for Quebec City and La Tuque. On their return they will reside in Grenville.

The former Miss Baugh is a member of Lachute High School teaching staff, while Mr. McGerrigle is principal of the Consolidated School at Grenville.

The colors most legible at the greatest distance are yellow and black.

Activities in Local "D" Cadet Company

The Cadet Party held in the Legion Hall last Friday evening for the boys of "D" Co'y Highland Cadets, though not as well attended as had been expected, was nevertheless enjoyed by those present. There was modern and old-time dancing to recorded music played over public address facilities kindly provided by Mr. "Jeb" Hammond.

The cadets are going to Battalion Headquarters in Montreal on Thursday, September 7, when the remainder of the boys will be outfitted with uniforms. Any prospective recruits who wish to join the unit should try to do so before that date, in order that they may go to Montreal on this trip. The N.C.O.'s will be given kilts and all ranks will be issued with greatcoats.

On Saturday, September 9, the N.C.O.'s and other selected cadets will again visit the Armoury on Craig Street for an intensified course, in order to qualify some senior non-commissioned ranks. It is hoped to have these cadets ready to assist in training the influx of recruits which is expected when school re-opens next month.

Last week-end Lieut. M. Bode, O/C "A" Co'y, and R.S.M. H. Smith, were in Lachute for discussions with Lieut. G. Tabrett concerning the future training of the company, and the possibility of closer co-operation and combined training with the other companies. Definite results will be announced after the matters have been reviewed with Capt. E. Sproston, Battalion O.C.

Wednesday evening, September 6, a recruiting office will be set up at Lieut. Tabrett's home, 338 Main Street, for those boys who wish to join the Unit in order to go to Montreal the following night.

MEETS "HIS BOYS"

St. John's, Nfld. (CP) — Rev. L. F. Farrel, padre during the Second World War of the 59th Newfoundland Regiment, arrived here from California recently to meet again the men he knew overseas. The American priest had never seen the island and said: "I was wearing Newfoundland badges so long that I just had to visit here."

News-Gathering on the Spot

The new mobile newspaper office of the "Birmingham Post and Mail", operating in the English Midlands, appears at first sight to be a luxury coach but is disclosed as a strictly utilitarian vehicle carrying a linotype machine, a photographic dark room, a Bush late news printing machine, and two generators, one providing the current for the printing machine and the other the electricity for the radio, teleprinter machines and the wireless transmission for photographs.

Overheard on a Madison Avenue bus: "He's been quite sick. He has that disease — I've forgotten the name — where the red popsicles eat up all the white popsicles."

The Purpose of "The Watchtower"

Literal towers in Bible times were elevated vantage points from which watchmen could observe happenings, warn of danger, or announce good news. Our magazine figuratively occupies such a vantage point, for it is founded on the very pinnacle of wisdom, God's Word. That elevates it above racial, national and political propagandas and prejudices, frees it from selfish bias. It is not bound by any traditional creed, but its message advances as the light on God's purposes and works increases.
Habakkuk, 2: 1-3.

It sees things Scripturally. When it observes this generation afflicted with greed, delinquency, hypocrisy, atheism, war, famine, pestilence, perplexity and fear, and persecution of unpopular minorities, it does not parrot the old fable about history repeating itself. Informed by Bible prophecy, it sees in these things the sign of the world's time of the end. But with bright hope it also sees opening up for us just beyond these woes the portals of a new world.

Thus viewed, "The Watchtower" stands as a watchman atop a tower, alert to what is going on, awake to note signs of danger, faithful to point out the way of escape. It announces Jehovah's kingdom established by Christ's enthronement in heaven, feeds his kingdom joint-heirs with spiritual food, cheers men of good will with glorious prospects of eternal life in a paradise earth, comforts us with the resurrection promise for the dead.

It is not dogmatic, but has a confident ring in its voice, because it is based on God's Word. It does not privately interpret prophecy, but calls attention to physical facts, sets them alongside prophecy, and you see for yourself how well the two match, how accurately Jehovah interprets his own prophecy. In the interests of our salvation, it keeps sharp and faithful focus on Bible truth, and views religious news generally.

"Be watchful in these perilous times", God admonishes. So keep on the watch by regularly reading "The Watchtower".

GUNS BUT NO GIANTS IN CHILD'S STORIES

London (Reuters) — Children still like fairy tales, and should be told them, according to a London school teacher, Mrs. Jessie Wier.

Mrs. Wier, herself the mother of a son and daughter aged seven and nine, has been studying the question of what interests children, and finds fairies high on the list.

"But the stories mustn't be too far fetched", she has decided, "and they should go easy on giants — they give children nightmares. So do stories about burglars and snakes."

Stories about guns and bombs are all right, too, she has found. Children are interested in them, but not a bit worried.

Girls of all ages, says Mrs. Wier, like to read about people wearing beautiful clothes — hence the lasting popularity of the Cinderella stories.

In nearly every field of business enterprise, the first man on the scene has a great advantage over his competitors.

CANADA NEEDS

MEN TO TRAIN AS ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNNERS

A major requirement of Canada's defensive system today is men trained for anti-aircraft operations. Charged with the defence of vital areas, the men of the anti-aircraft units are equipped and trained in the use of modern scientific equipment — electronics, radar, radio and telephone.

There are very few more important jobs than service in an anti-aircraft unit for young men who want to make sure that Canada is well defended against any eventuality.

To enlist you must —

1. Be a Canadian citizen or British subject.
2. Be between 17 and 29 years of age.
3. Be single.
4. Meet Army test requirements.
5. Volunteer for service anywhere.

Against Panic Buying And Hoarding

"I sincerely hope that not one of our members is in the category of panic buyers or hoarders", is the message of Mrs. R. Thomson, president of the Quebec Women's Institutes, in a letter to all Institute branches issued just prior to her departure for the 6th Triennial Conference of the Associated Country Women of the World in Copenhagen, next month. She mentions how disturbing it is to read in the press of people resorting to panic buying of goods they fear might be in short supply, and urges all W.I. members to exercise voluntary restraint, encouraging others to do the same, and thus do their part as responsible citizens to see everyone gets a fair share of consumers goods.

In this letter, Mrs. Thomson speaks of her pleasure in being a member of the Canadian delegation attending this conference and states she feels it a great privilege to represent the Q.W.I. at such an important gathering. On her return she is planning to visit the branches giving an illustrated talk on the highlights of her trip.

See House Shortage A Cause of Divorce

London (CP) — Blame for many of Britain's divorces can be laid at the door of Health Minister Aneurin Bevan, says Shelagh Roberts.

Shelagh, 25-year-old Inland Revenue clerk, told 1,700 Young Conservatives that Bevan's building policy causes "not only these divorces but the rising rate of juvenile delinquency."

Shelagh said it's about time Bevan let private builders build more houses and without restrictions.

Bevan, health minister since 1945, is responsible for Britain's building program but three other ministries are also involved — the Ministries of Supply, Works and Town and Country Planning.

Government critics claim 2,000,000 families in Britain still are without houses. At the present building rate, it is estimated they will not all be housed for 30 to 40 years.

The government claims to have built 671,157 permanent houses and apartments and 157,146 temporary dwellings in their five years of office, housing 1,119,061 families.

Value of textile goods produced annually in Canada exceeds the value of the entire wheat crop, and is five time that of gold.

Aluminum adds a plus to pancakes!

An "Inside Story" about Maple Syrup

1. Aluminum means a lot to your breakfast! Your griddle-cakes taste better with good maple syrup. And the best syrup is made from sap that is collected in aluminum pails.

2. Maple sap must be well-protected to preserve its delicate flavour. Farmers using aluminum pails find this "food-friendly" metal preserves colour, taste and flavour perfectly.*

3. Aluminum is used for tapping-pegs, containers and evaporators, too. The increasing use of aluminum in the industry means higher-quality syrup for you.

HINTS TO THE HOUSEWIFE

Natural minerals in food and water occasionally discolour aluminum utensils. Natural acids in foods remove the deposits. For example, the iron in spinach leaves a deposit on aluminum; the acid from tomatoes or rhubarb dissolves the deposit.

* Quebec farmers receive Federal and Provincial aid in replacing old-fashioned sap pails with aluminum pails. Modern aluminum containers fully conform to all pure-food laws.

Aluminum is friendly to food!

Jelly-Making Can Be A Joy

Twinkling rows of jewel-colored glasses of jelly on the shelf mean year-round enjoyment for the family, and their appreciation is the reward of the successful jelly maker.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, say that it is easy to make jelly that is clear, sparkling and tender with the rich, full flavor of sun-ripened fruit . . provided you know the rules. Good jellies, however, cannot be made from all fruit juices by "rule o' thumb". Jelly making is an art, founded on scientific principles.

To make perfect jelly, pectin, acid, sugar and water must be in the right proportions. Pectin, the jelly-making substance, and acid are found in the fruits in varying amounts. The amount of sugar and water to be added must be accurately determined. Food scientists tell us that the addition of sugar to a fruit juice rich in pectin causes the pectin to form an intricate network, within which the syrup is entrapped. The strength of this network depends upon the amount of pectin present. The addition of too much water or too much sugar, weakens the network and the syrup is not held firmly enough to form a true jelly. If there is too much acid or if not enough sugar has been added, the jelly will be tough, because acid strengthens the pectin network.

Crabapples which are not fully ripe contain a large amount of pectin, so should be completely covered with water. Grapes and sour plums have a little less pectin than the crab, so water enough to come just below the top layer of prepared fruit is sufficient. Simmer the fruit and water in a covered kettle until the fruit is soft and mushy, crushing during cooking. Then pour the hot cooked fruit into a moistened jelly bag made of factory cotton, flannel or several thickness of fine cheesecloth. Hang up over a bowl and allow to drain until dropping ceases. Squeezing the bag increases the quantity of juice, but the jelly will not be so clear.

Work with small amounts of the extracted juice at a time . . not more than 8 cups, measuring each lot of juice accurately to determine the amount of sugar to be added after boiling. Boil the juice, uncovered, in a broad saucepan for 3 minutes. Remove the saucepan from the heat and test for pectin. If a clot does not form continue boiling, testing frequently, until pectin test is satisfactory.

The pectin test consists of measuring 1 teaspoon of fruit juice and 1 teaspoon of rubbing alcohol into a small dish and blending them together. If after standing 30 seconds a jelly like mass has formed, the juice contains sufficient pectin. Sugar may then be added. Do not taste this mixture — rubbing alcohol is poisonous.

Measure sugar, allowing ¾ cup sugar for each cup of extracted juice, except when a heavy solid clot forms when pectin test is made at the end of the 3-minute boiling period. This heavy clot indicates that the juice is so rich in pectin that 1 cup of sugar for each cup of extracted juice should be used.

Add measured sugar slowly to juice. Boil briskly, uncovered, remove scum as it forms.

To test when jelly is done, dip up the boiling hot syrup with a metal spoon, holding well above kettle, and allow it to run off the edge. When two drops form and then flow together to form a "sheet", the jelly stage has been reached. Immediately remove from the heat. Longer boiling will give a stiff, tough jelly.

Let hot juice stand in kettle for about 1 minute and remove last bit of scum with a cold fork or spoon.

Pour into hot, sterilized jelly glasses, filling to within ¼ inch of the top. Using a slightly moistened clean cloth, carefully remove any jelly clinging to inside of jelly glass above the jelly level.

Let stand until partially set, then pour a thin layer of hot melted paraffin wax to completely cover the jelly and leave until hardened. Then add a second layer of hot melted wax, rotating the jar so that the wax will adhere to the glass to form a close seal. Cover with paper or metal lid and store in a cool, dry place.

Harvest Jelly

2 Quarts crab or snow apples, 1 quart cranberries, 5 quinces, water, sugar.

Wash apples and quinces and remove stem and blossom ends. Cut in quarters. Cover with cold water and cook until tender. Wash cranberries and cook in one quart water until tender. Pour apples, quinces and cranberries into jelly bag and let drain overnight. Measure juice. Boil 3 minutes. Test for pectin. Add sugar (¾ cup sugar to 1 cup juice). Boil to 220°F., or until syrup sheets from spoon, about 10 minutes. Remove scum, pour into sterilized glasses. Seal.

Recent Wedding in St. Simeon's Church

Ayres - Reilly

The marriage of Miss Olive Ethel Reilly, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Reilly, of Lachute, to Mr. Ronald William James Ayres, of Montreal, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Ayres, of Kingston, Ont., took place on Saturday afternoon, July 29, at 3 o'clock in St. Simeon's Anglican Church, Lachute. The Rev. C. R. Lang officiated; Mrs. E. L. Reid played the organ, and Mrs. C. Hall sang "Because" during the signing of the register. White and pink carnations decorated the altar.

The bride, given away by her brother, Mr. Donald Reilly, of Lachute, wore a dress of white figured organza over taffeta, made with tight-fitted bodice, long sleeves ending in points over the hands, the full skirt flowing into a circular train. Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion was held by a coronet-shaped headdress and she carried a cascade bouquet of Sweetheart roses. Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls, the gift of the groom.

Miss Doris White, maid of honor, in a three-quarter length gown of lilac figured organza, with matching picture hat and white gloves, carried a bouquet of multi-colored sweet peas.

Miss Beverly Bateman, cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid, wearing a similar frock of yellow organza with a matching picture hat and white gloves. Her bouquet also was of multi-colored sweet peas.

Mr. Melville Ayres, of Kingston, Ont., was best man for his brother, and the ushers were Mr. Donald Ayres, of Kingston, and Mr. Roland Moncrieff, of Brownsburg.

Mrs. William Ayres, mother of the bridegroom, wore a street-length dress of navy blue sheer with white accessories, and a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. T. Tomlinson, aunt of the bride, wore a street-length dress of grey printed crepe with white acessories, and a corsage of pink and white carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church hall. Later the couple left for Ottawa and other points in Ontario and Quebec. Going away, the bride wore a navy blue sheer dress, with navy and white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. They will reside on Roslyn Avenue, Westmount.

Out-of-town guests were from Kingston, Ont., Gananoque, Ont., and Montreal.

FASHION HINT

Dotted sheer nylon crepe is used for a cool-looking negligee that is easy to launder. The cape collar does nice duty as sleeve coverage, and it is bordered by a pin-tucked band edged with white lace. There are double buttons at the waist and lots of lap-over on the flared skirt. The color scheme is white dots on gray. It is a good choice for vacation use or at home as long as the warmish weather holds out.

Wife Preservers

To remove meat juices from the broiling tray of your gas stove, soak it first in hot soapsuds, then scour with steel wool and a gentle scouring powder.

Germs detest soap — which fact helps make cleanliness one of the best defences against disease.

"Ma" King Honored With Vet Reunion

King, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. Beatrice (Ma) King's London home was "Canada" to several hundred lonely Canadian soldiers during the days of blitz and blackout in England.

The friendly house, which came to be known as "Beaver Hut", was visited by more than 200 Canadian soldiers during the war. They had Christmas dinner there and some spent their leaves visiting the Kings.

Many of them said it was "one of the happiest homes in London."

Recently, on August 12 and 13, "Ma King" was honored at a reunion of "her boys" at the home of her daughter who married Dave Glass, one of the soldiers who had visited Beaver Hut.

For the first war-time Christmas in England, Mrs. King invited 12 Canadians to dinner.

"I was not especially strong in health", she remembered, "but somehow we managed with the boys helping with the housework."

SAINTLY QUALITIES SAID IN HOUSEWIVES

Boreham Wood, England (CP) — Mrs. Nina Maddoch, wife of the vicar of All Saints Church, says housewives are learning to become saints.

"Faithfulness, loyalty, courage, unselfishness, love and holiness are the qualities that make saints," she wrote in a parish magazine.

"These qualities", she continued, "are learned and practised as we cook, shop, tend the children, push the pram and darn socks."

Argt'l Softball League Completes Schedule

Important Games Played

Two important games were played Sunday, as the season's schedule of the Argenteuil Softball League came to a close. The games decided the first, second, third and fourth-place teams.

At the picnic grounds in Brownsburg, the Malacket Spiders fought it out with White Rose for first position. Three scoreless innings were played before either team could gain a point. White Rose scored their first run in the fourth inning, also one in the fifth, and another in the sixth, to take a 3-0 lead. The Malacket team came back with one in the sixth and one in the seventh, to make it 3-2 in favor of White Rose. The eighth inning was the big session of the game for both teams; White Rose picked up four runs, and it looked as if the game was decided — but Brownsburg loaded the bases in their half of the inning, and Bill Tessier hit a three-bagger to make it 7-6. Tessier was left on base, however, as the third man was retired. The ninth inning was scoreless, and the game ended with White Rose victorious 7-6. The game was an exciting one right from the start, and both teams played good ball.

At Lachute the Beavers and Bluebirds played another close game. This tussle was to decide the third and fourth positions. The two teams battled each other in nine very close innings of ball, the Beavers taking the victory with a score of 8-7. The game was umpired by Chas. Harding and Phil Pacquette, of Brownsburg, who both did a fine job.

The league now advances into the semi-finals — the best two games out of three. The winners of the semi-finals will then play the finals, another best two-out-of-three series. The winning team will be presented with the Argenteuil Softball League trophy donated by Mr. Nat Boyd, of Boyd's Lachute Express. This trophy is presented every year for annual competition.

Next Sunday's games are as follows:

1st Round of Semi-Finals

Beavers vs. White Rose
At Upper Lachute

Bluebirds vs. Malacket Spiders
At Brownsburg

Games start at 2 p.m. sharp.

Light, Heavy Horses, Cattle and Poultry Claim Many Prizes for Local Exhibitors

The roadster "Shirley Peters", with Bill Hewitt driving, won the feature event last Friday night at the Ottawa Horse Show. The bike class with colors, something new for this indoor show-ring, saw eight horses in the class. Shirley Peters was outstanding, showing great speed; she never made a break, and her turns were spectacular. . .With this win went the Bonnie Brook Farm trophy, a handsome cup, presented to Bill Hewitt by the donor, Mrs. Beverley Stark Solomon, of Montreal.

In second place was the grand 18-year-old stallion, "Effective", owned by J. C. Simmons, Ottawa. "Effective", a veteran track horse, was well known to the spectators.

"Shirley Peters" also placed second in the Over class, and fifth in Teams. Due to an accident in transit, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. MacGibbon's roadster "Just Pete" was unable to enter.

At her first show, 13-year-old Beverley Johnston, of Brownsburg, placed fifth in Seat-and-Hands class, which is judged solely on the riders' ability. Those before and behind her were riders of many years. She also brought "Rambler" into third place in the children's class. Such standings speak well for this young rider, who took to the saddle less than a year ago.

A. T. Cleland, St. Hermas, also was "in the ribbons" many times, with his Clydesdale heavies. Arnoldwold Farms had many wins, and Cecil White, of St. Jerome, was also a successful exhibitor.

Chas. Vary, of Brownsburg, again won notable awards with his poultry.

Cattle exhibitors also brought their share of honors to this district. . .

E. K. Wilson's "Klaymore Lithirim" won the grand championship in Beef Shorthorn bulls. "Kilwin Fanny" was reserve grand champion female in the Shorthorn Dual Purpose breed. Several other firsts were awarded to individual and group entries from this local herd.

J. F. Bradley & Son's Ayrshires led heavily in the championships—taking the grand champion bull with "Carnell Lawrence" (imp.), reserve junior champion bull with "Brookview General", and junior champion female with "Brookview Vimy". This exhibitor claimed a total of seven firsts, five seconds, six thirds and many lesser awards. The group exhibits took first and fourth for junior herd, second and fifth for progeny of dam, and second in the graded herd class.

Old Coin, 1827, in Local Circulation

A Canadian Press item in these pages last week made mention of a 113-year-old coin at Barrie, Ont. . . A taxi-man in Lachute has gone one better, having produced an English penny dated 1827, which crossed his palm one dark night in mistake for a 50-cent piece. Although this coin is of no special vintage (like the Barrie specimen), it is an English copper, coin of the realm, and its date is plainly legible.

About the time this penny was minted, the Royal Engineers in the days of Wellington were hewing out rock for the construction of the Carillon-Grenville canal system in these parts.

Eight Arrive on Cunard "Scythia"

LITTLE GIRL COMES HOME ON STRETCHER

No fewer than eight travellers from Lachute and Brownsburg were among passengers returning from overseas aboard the Cunard Liner Ascania, which docked at Quebec last Friday. The rail strike presented some difficulties at this stage, but all were met by friends or relatives, who drove them by automobile over the last lap of their homeward trip.

Those returning to this district were Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Izzard, Mrs. Harry Murdoch and two children, Diane and Ray, of Brownsburg; Mrs. Edgar Hooker and daughter, Jennifer, of Lachute; Mrs. Ross Evans, of Lakefield.

Diane, the six-year-old daughter of Mrs. Murdoch, was confined to her cabin during this voyage. The little girl suffered a painful accident while in England, having fallen from a verandah and broken her thigh. The cast had been latterly removed from her injury, but she was unable to walk and had to be taken from the ship in a stretcher. The Murdochs, and Mr. and Mrs. Izzard, were transported from Quebec by John Morrow in his school-bus, arriving in Brownsburg at an early hour Saturday morning.

It is recalled that two of the above passengers, Mr. and Mrs. Izzard, were aboard the S. S. Franconia on the outbound trip when that vessel grounded a few hours after leaving Quebec. This incident caused a week's delay in their passage, but having transferred to the new R.M.S. Caronia at New York, Mr. and Mrs. Izzard report they received the utmost consideration and thoroughly enjoyed the voyage, despite the loss of time.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Blute and daughter, of Lachute, who were booked to return on the Franconia, are arriving on the Liner Georgic via New York, being at present on their way home.

AGRICULTURAL SCHOOL

Campbellton, N.B. (CP) — The Dominion Agricultural School in Fredericton, closed during the war, is to be reopened. The school aims to give a practical schooling in agriculture to boys of 16 and over who are returning to the farm.

A bath of bulls' blood was used as a baptism in the mysteries of Attis.

Criminal Blame On Truck Driver

JURY'S VERDICT IN DEATH NEAR MARELAN STN.

Verdict of criminal responsibility was pronounced by a jury at Grenville at an inquest last Friday on the death of David Nault, 52, who was instantly killed when a taxi returning to Duhamel, Que., crashed into the rear of a stalled truck near Marelan Station on Route 8. The fatality occurred shortly before midnight on Saturday, August 19.

The victim was seated in the front of the taxi when it collided with the stationary truck then swung into the left of the road, where it was hit by an eastbound car. David Nault died instantly of a fractured skull and multiple injuries.

The inquiry included evidence from 11 witnesses, and the session, with Coroner Dr. Jules Lafleur presiding, lasted until 1 a.m. at the Dansereau School. Held responsible for the death was Paul Emile Brisebois, of Grenville, who was driving the truck belonging to René Laurin, Lachute.

Evidence showed that Brisebois "took" Laurin's three-ton truck, parked at a St. Philippe hotel, to drive home to Grenville. Opposite Exalem Leveillé's farm at Marelan, the truck stalled on the highway. Brisebois stated he had endeavored to turn it into a driveway off the road, but was unable to do so. Seated in the cab of the truck, he was in conversation with Leveillé, standing beside the vehicle, when the crash occurred. The truck had been stationary for about an hour. There was conflicting evidence as to whether it was lighted. One witness, Rev. Fr. Rivest, c.s.c, stated he had been driving west to Lac Simon at 11.20 p.m., and had halted barely in time to avoid hitting the truck. He had, in fact, been obliged to back his car almost from under the box of the truck, in order to proceed on his way. Two drivers, including the taxi operator, Aquila Servant, involved in the crash, said the truck had been parked well out on the pavement, without lights, while Exalem Leveillé said the headlights had been lighted on dim.

After a brief deliberation the jurors returned a verdict holding Paul Emile Brisebois criminally responsible.

Railway Strike Over, Local Service Resumed

Canada's 10-day railway strike is ended, thus easing the national "headache" which threatened to develop into a widespread "paralysis".

Normal services were resumed this morning (Thursday) on the C.P.R. North Shore run, which serves this immediate vicinity.

Termination of the strike followed passing of the Railway Strike Settlement Bill last night in an emergency session of Parliament, and its immediate approval by the Senate.

Vancouver (CP)—Pacific National Exhibition officials have decided to cancel the poultry show at the fair this year for the first time in history. They felt the Newcastle Disease hazard was too great and it was not worth endangering the prize fowl.

Mountie Nite Aids Deaf Scout Troop

SUCCESSFUL EVENT AT BELL FALLS

"Mountie" and "Scout" night was held in the Community Hall at Bell Falls last Saturday, when a talk on "Youth and the Police", implemented by movie films on the work of the Force, was presented by Constable Jim Archer, of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police of Montreal.

Reserve Constable Bill Short presented his dog "Bruno" to the audience, which contributed to the interest of the evening.

Patrol Leader Grant Young, a deaf Scout from the MacKay School troop in Montreal, deserves credit for his smart appearance in uniform, and for the splendid way he organized the evening's activities. He was ably assisted by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Coral Young, and Bill Horsnall; the latter acted as master of ceremonies at a barn dance, with music supplied by the Young orchestra, which terminated the evening.

The proceeds of the dance, after deducting expenses of the orchestra, contributed the sum of $50 to the funds of the MacKay deaf troop — thanks to the unselfish support of all those who turned out for the occasion, and those who gave their assistance free of charge.

Great encouragement will be enjoyed by these deaf boys who, by actions which speak louder than words, are setting an example to others more fortunate than themselves, along lines of good citizenship.

NELSON COLUMN LION IS TO GET NEW LEGS

London (Reuters) — Britain's Ministry of Works plans to amputate the legs of Leo, one of the four bronze lions at the foot of the Nelson Column in Trafalgar Square.

Leo, guardian of the port quarter of the victor of Trafalgar, was injured by a German bomb during the war. His new legs will be made from plaster casts taken from one of his three haughty companions by an 18-year-old Oxford craftman, Donald Straight.

The lions were designed by the late Sir Edwin Landseer in 1867, and have long been favorite resting spots for Trafalgar Square's pigeons and the people who like to feed them.

Solving Problem of Language Difficulties

A farmer in Rivington employing an Italian helper, received a phone call Monday from the man's relatives in Chicago, asking him to send the farm-hand to that city immediately on account of the death of an uncle.

It happens that the Italian, only recently immigrated to Canada, speaks no English; he converses with the farmer and his family by means of signs. Therefore, to convey the telephone message to this young man, his employer drove him to Kilmar, where mine-workers from his native Italy served as interpreters.

Subsequently, a travel agent here was asked to procure passage by airplane to Chicago, and also the sanction of U.S. immigration officials. The latter was not forthcoming; the Italian immigrant could not be admitted into the States. . . How to convey this message to him in Kilmar, was the next problem.

It transpired that a fellow-countryman of the Italian works for a French-Canadian farmer near Brownsburg — and the farmer's wife speaks English. So the travel agent telephoned the farmer's wife, and the couple interpreted (via English, French and Italian) to their employee — who in turn relayed the message by phone to his fellow-Italian at Rivington. . . And, in short, there the Italian remains, still in his adopted countryside.

Motorists Beware!

With the resumption of rail traffic after 10 days' lapse, auto and truck drivers who have ignored the warning signs at level crossings are now reminded to watch their step. There are no fewer than seven of these potential "exterminators" in the town limits of Lachute, and many others around this countryside, all unprotected.

W. Inst. Branches Report Activities

BROWNSBURG BRANCH ON OTTAWA TOUR

Frontier Women's Institute reports an interesting meeting in the Stone Hall, Cushing, on August 5—Miss M. Douglas giving an instructive talk on her journey from India and Ceylon, via Hong Kong and Port Alberni, B.C., and also showing pictures covering the journey. Surprise parcels and candy were sold, and refreshments were served at this gathering.

Jerusalem - Bethany branch had 17 members present at their August meeting. The roll-call was "A health law I would like passed". The county president, Mrs. C. W. P. Baugh, was present at this meeting.

The Brownsburg W.I. had their annual outing on Friday last, when they went to Ottawa by bus to visit the experimental farm and the Exhibition. They were met at the farm by Mr. Oliver, and were shown around the grounds and buildings. This tour proved very interesting. The ladies had lunch at the farm, after which they went to the Exhibition. This branch won two prizes at the fancy work display and fifth prize for the best display. First prize was won by Mrs. Potter on a hooked rug; 2nd prize, Mrs. Hazel, on a crocheted hand bag. There were 28 Women Institutes exhibiting in this department. . . Altogether the Brownsburg party reported a very enjoyable trip. . . The Brownsburg W.I. banner at the Ottawa Exhibition was donated by Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel Wilson and was made by Mr. Geo. Donaldson.

The Flag of the United Nations

The official flag of the United Nations, now flying with national banners over the U.N. armed forces in action to restore the peace in Korea, is shown in this photograph. The background color of the flag is the light blue associated with U.N. since its early days, while the official United Nations seal in its center is in white.

Corps of Imperial Frontiersmen Keyed For Emergency Service

The Corps of Imperial Frontiersmen, watching the war clouds over Korea, is stepping up activity. The organization, composed of about 5,300 men in Canada, has made its aim "to stand by the Commonwealth in time of emergency." . . Col. Frederick Blackwell, senior commandant in Canada of the Empire-wide corps, announced the corps' plans while in Vancouver recently during an inspection tour of units in Western Canada.

"In these troubled days", he said, "with the international situation what it is, there must be as many trained emergency workers as possible in Western Canada. . . The corps will again do its part in providing those trained personnel, as it did during the Second World War."

Lt.-Col. E. Emmett, of Lachute, who is provincial commandant for Quebec, will tour the Frontiersmen units in Quebec aiming at the maximum efficiency for all calls upon their service. . . Lt.-Col. Emmett was recently appointed to the advisory council of the corps' G.H.Q., at Hamilton, Ont.

100 Years Since First Settlement

CENTURY 1850-1950 OBSERVED AT MORIN HEIGHTS

Morin Heights — Last Saturday in the Morin Heights United Church, an anniversary supper and celebration was held to celebrate 100 years since the first settlers arrived in Morin Heights.

After the supper, which was served in the church hall by the Young Adult Group of the church to nearly 200 interested people, an appropriate program took place.

The Rev. C. R. Wood, acting as chairman, called on Mr. J. E. Seale, one of the oldest residents of the community. Mr. Seale told of the past, and wished the community well for the future. Mayor C. D. Campbell then addressed the gathering. The guest speaker, Mr. Wm. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., also told the audience some interesting facts about the early settlers, saying in conclusion, he felt that if the present generation would just stop and think of the old folks and follow some of the examples they had set for them, they would not go far wrong.

After several vocal numbers by Mrs. Manthorp, Miss Campbell and Miss Simpson, accompanied by Mrs. Geo. Watchorn at the organ — Miss Doris Watchorn, president of the Young Adult Group, with a few well chosen words thanked the speakers and singers, and all those who were responsible for making the evening such a success.

Stage Set for Children's Fair

Plans are set for the second annual Children's Fair, which is being held at the Exhibition Grounds on Monday next, September 4, in conjunction with the annual Calf Show.

It was at a social evening held early in 1949, at which four Farm Forums of Chatham were present, that the possibilities of organizing a Children's Fair were first discussed. Alex Bothwell, the county agronomist, was present and explained the necessary steps to be taken; he offered whatever assistance he could give to get such a venture underway. Since that meeting the project has progressed considerably.

The committee in charge of last year's Fair, consisting of representatives from these four Farm Forums and one from Brownsburg, arranged to raise the necessary funds for prizes, and two branches of the Women's Institute contributed towards this purpose. This year the committee has more representation and more branches of the Women's Institute have shown their interest in the same manner.

Many more children are taking part as compared with last year. Practically all districts surrounding Lachute have children caring for flowers and vegetable gardens. The girls are working on handicraft and cooking to prepare their products for exhibition. The boys are making ready their oats, potatoes, rope halters, weed collections and woodwork, to be judged at the Fair.

The local Calf Club has also increased in membership this year and the young folks will be out with not only their junior and senior calves but yearling and two-year-old heifers as well. The organizers of this fair, together with Donald Robertson (Provincial Calf Club fieldman) and Mr. Bothwell, have worked untiringly to make this event an outstanding one. The success of such a day as this will do much towards the improvement of farming and livestock in the future, and since these factors are of first consideration to the residents of Argenteuil, it is hoped by those in charge that a good attendance will be in evidence to encourage the junior showmen.

Another interesting feature of the day will be the drawing of the lucky ticket on a Holstein heifer calf, which is sponsored by the Lachute Holstein Breeders' Club. . The events commence at 10 a.m. and lunch will be served on the grounds by the Women's Institute. Many interested folk will be spending the day on the grounds and showing the young participants that their efforts are worthwhile and appreciated.

'Ancient Capital' Scene Next Month Of Conference on Fed'l Constitution

"This Week at Quebec"

Specially Written for The Watchman, by William Stewart

Quebec, Aug. 28 (CP) — Quebec next month will be the scene of conference on the Constitution, just as the old city was 86 years ago when the Fathers of Confederation laid their plans for the partnership of the provinces in a national administration.

The forthcoming federal-provincial meeting will start September 24, and will discuss methods of constitution amendment which were the subject of a recent Ottawa parley between the Minister of Justice and provincial Attorneys-General.

Premier Maurice Duplessis, remembering the conferences of 1864 leading to confederation, last January extended an invitation to federal and provincial conference delegates to sit in Quebec.

At the time the delegates were winding up the first of the current series of constitutional meetings, and the Quebec government leader said his province hoped the old capital of French Canada would be considered as a constitutional meeting place.

Since January, Premier Duplessis has repeated his invitation a number of times, and announcement that it had been accepted was made last week.

The Quebec talks will bring to the provincial capital some of the atmosphere of the wartime Quebec conference of allied leaders — though this time none of the secrecy, then needed for reasons of military security, will cloak the proceedings.

Quebec has a historical background into which the event of the September talks will fit appropriately, and it also has plenty of hotels to fit delegates into. The meeting room probably will be the Legislative Assembly chamber in the stone legislature building overlooking the city, and within walking distance of many of its places of interest.

Premier Duplessis, now returned from the Ottawa assembly of the special constitutional committee, is said to be already at work on plans for the September meeting.

"IN BROWNSBURG"

Specially Contributed

School Opening

School opening at the Brownsburg Consolidated School will be a race against time this year. For some grades the school will open September 11 — one week late. For the lower grades, from one to six, the opening will be still later.

The extensive alterations carried on at present are being rushed to completion, or at least sufficient to accommodate the pupils. The additional construction will not be ready till some time later and will proceed during the term — with, it is hoped, as little inconvenience to the staff and pupils as possible.

The new principal, Mr. G. K. Amos, has already taken up residence in Brownsburg, but will be unable to hold a pre-term meeting, or any of the usual "get acquainted" sessions, owing to the work in progress. When the new accommodation is available, a much-needed addition and long contemplated change will have been accomplished. The outside appearance of the building will be much improved, and greater facilities for the fulfilment of their duties will be at the disposal of the teachers.

The Rail Strike

A few of the C-I-L employees were affected by the lack of materials and the necessity of keeping stocks of explosives within legal allowances, and therefore deprived of work "for the duration". The lay-offs were few in number.

The C.S.F. Company was not affected to the extent of laying off any of its employees — though the lack of transport caused difficulties, which had to be met by the adoption of other methods.

Plans Proceeding For B'burg Rink

Brownsburg — The Community Rink Association, at its regular bi-weekly meeting held on August 29, reached the conclusion that there is sufficient money in prospect, i.e. from cash on hand, pledges currently being redeemed, and further potential subscribers, to finance the building of the main structure of the rink. Mr. Cecil Burgess, Ottawa architect who has built skating rinks in both Canada and the United States, has presented details of the estimated cost of the proposed structure to the Rink Committee, and these figures have been accepted.

This decision will be communicated to all the Brownsburg organizations and churches (from which the rink committee was created) through their delegates, who are being invited to attend a meeting to be held in the gymnasium of the Social Club on September 7, commencing at 8 p.m. The committee also extends, through the medium of this report, an open invitation to all other persons who are interested in the community rink venture, to attend this forthcoming meeting.

Proprietor Quits, Off to the Ball Games

Some interest was aroused last year by a sign in the window of Rex Café, Main Street, informing the public that the place was closed and the proprietor had gone to the World Series. . . This year René Deschamps is taking his sport more seriously. He has quit the business here, and is leaving soon for New York, Brooklyn, Boston and points agog with the ball season. He will also see a few boxing bouts. . Not that sports are Mr. Deschamps' sole interest in life, of course; he doubtless has other plans for the future.

Rex Café is now in the hands of René Gagnon. Mr. and Mrs. Gagnon have made improvements to the restaurant and are intent on giving good service.

Social Athletic Club Annual Picnic Week's Big Event at Brownsburg

Brownsburg—The annual picnic of the Brownsburg Social and Athletic Club was held at the picnic grounds last Saturday. The event was highly successful; 1,500 members and their friends were in attendance during the day and in the evening.

One of the highlights of the picnic was the pipe band and highland dancing. Those attending were loud in their praise of this attraction.

Miss Connie Kippen was outstanding, playing the pipes, and her pleasing personality made a big hit with the crowd.

Misses Joan Decarie and Jean Douglas from Cornwall did an Irish Jig and the Sailor's Horn Pipe, and Miss Jean McInnis from Maxwell performed a Scotch Reel. Beverley Kippen and Herbie Ferguson gave several fine renditions on the pipes. Mrs. C. Hinde, tutor of these entertainers, gave a fine presentation of a Chinese Dance, accompanied by Mrs. C. Wheeler at the piano. These performers are to be congratulated on their very fine efforts, and for their help in contributing to the success of the picnic.

Two local softball teams put on an entertaining display of ball, after which the children, as well as grown-ups, were entertained with outdoor movies.

The drawing for the refrigerator in aid of the Brownsburg Volunteer Fire Brigade was held during the evening, and the lucky winner was Fred Tassé, of Brownsburg.

During the latter part of the evening the more energetic picnickers participated in square dancing, with Bob Jackson and Ron Elliott calling the sets.

Gatineau LINES

For Better Service

Because Gatineau Power territory has been expanding, the company has constantly had to increase the size and range of its equipment in order to keep abreast of a steadily enlarging demand for electric power. The improvements are being carried out in every part of the Gatineau system, but a few are worth special mention at this time because they affect thousands of customers.

Here are the major improvements now in effect, or about to go into effect:

1. The voltage on the line between Montebello and Papineauville has been increased from 11,000 to 26,000 volts to provide better service and to reduce voltage drops in the Thurso and Papineauville areas. At the same time, a voltage regulator (an automatic "booster" which increases the voltage whenever the demand becomes heavy) has been installed on this line — once again for the purpose of avoiding voltage drops when the demand is heavy.

2. Voltage between St. Jovite and Labelle is being increased from 13,200 volts to 26,400. This involves the changing of hundreds of insulators and the stringing of miles of secondary lines — the result of which will be better service throughout the area north of St. Jovite.

3. The new sub-station at Lachute is in operation, giving the Lachute area steadier service by drawing power direct off the 110,000-volt lines from the Farmers plant on the Gatineau River as well as from the 26,000-volt lines which used to supply all the power for that area.

4. New 2,500 kilowatt transformer stations are in operation at both Shawbridge and Val Morin, replacing the previous 1,000 kilowatt stations and thus providing better service in both those areas. It is interesting to note that less than two years ago, both sub-stations were of 600 kilowatt capacity — so that the power potential in both areas has been quadrupled in that short time. It is now ahead of immediate requirements and ready for further growth of the area in the future.

Thus, the expansion program which got underway as soon as material became available after the war and which reached a crescendo last summer, has gone on in widely-separated parts of the Gatineau territory.

MOOSE HEAD FOR NORWEGIAN SCOUTS

A 30-point Canadian moose head, once exhibited at the Wembley Exhibition in England, has been presented to the 2nd Bestun Troop, Oslo, Norway, by Shirley G. MacDonald, Commercial Secretary of the Canadian Legation in Oslo. The moose head was accepted for the Bestun Scouts by their Scoutmaster, Captain Olav Reed-Olsen, who organized and directed a Scout Troop on Toronto's waterfront during World War II.

Week's Activities of Highland Cadet Unit

Last Monday evening, the boys of 'D' Company Highland Cadets held a short march through the west end of Town. The cadets are steadily improving in their marching and made a very good showing.

Next Monday being Labor Day, there will be no parade, but the cadets are reminded that they will be going to Montreal on the following Thursday, September 7. The fall-in point for the trip to Montreal will be Lieut. Tabrett's home, 338 Main St., and all cadets must be there at 6 p.m. The Company will operate a recruiting centre at Lieut. Tabrett's on Wednesday, 6th, for any boys who wish to join in time to go to Montreal the following night for uniforms.

Following an incident that saw one cadet removed from the strength of the Unit, Lt. Tabrett reminded the boys that there would be no room in the ranks for anyone not seriously interested in the training. Prospective recruits should also bear this in mind. Any young man between the ages of 15 and 18, 5' 4" tall or more, in good physical condition, and willing to subject himself to discipline and training, may join the Company, and should apply at 338 Main Street on Wednesday evening, September 6, or at the Auditorium any Monday evening from 8 to 10 o'clock.

Real Western Rodeo Billed for Lachute

At the Ball Park in Lachute Mills starting Friday night at 8.30, a four-day Rodeo will be presented here, sponsored by Lachute Baseball Club — with two performances on Labor Day (as advertised on page 7 — watch dates to avoid confusion).

In the typical lingo of this troupe, it is promised that "the West will bust loose" at this big Rodeo, featuring champion cowboys, cowgirls and Indians from the U.S.A. and Western Canada. The cast includes a herd of 75 wild Brahma bulls and outlaw bucking horses, and they say that patrons will see "all the big-time Western Rodeo events, just like the Calgary Stampede". Items on the program include steer bulldogging, bull riding, wild horse riding, trick riding, roping, trained horses — and clowns packing their quota of fun, with a crazy Ford, all under a first-class lighting system.

A challenging attraction is a $50 award to be paid over to any venturesome rider who can stay aboard the Big, Bad Brahma Bull for only 20 seconds! A fireworks display on the night of Labor Day, September 4 (10 p.m.) will be the concluding climax.

This Rodeo is produced by Col. Cliff Gatewood, of Miles City, Montana.

Mr. "T" will be here soon!

More Amateur Sports

CANADIANS have been accused of fast becoming worshippers of the spectacular in sport! It is a charge to which, for the most part, we are guilty.

The charge was made by George Machum, of Montreal, president of the British Empire Games Association of Canada and founder and president of the Canadian Amateur Athletic Hall of Fame Association. Mr. Machum takes Canadians to task for not having the foresight to provide sufficient opportunity for young Canadians to participate in beneficial exercise. This is being done in many parts of the country, but the scheme isn't being carried to the fullest. What is needed, Machum points out, is a broader and more inclusive program of amateur sport.

Outside of the big-time or "spectacular-type" sports, there isn't enough inter-town and inter-provincial sporting competition. Canadian universities are doing a good share of work in this regard, but there it is competition for a select group. And in some cases, like football, it has developed into the "spectacular". In some sections, there are the challenge swimming, track and field, tennis and canoeing meets. But not enough.

Communities throughout the country should give more thought to setting up organizations to direct the play life of young people along such lines as tennis, track and field, swimming, and such. When sufficient development shows, and it wouldn't take long, more challenging could be done.

However, the "spectacular sports" have a definite place in the development of community sport groups. Where else, for instance, are budding Canadian sport headliners going to get inspiration except from standouts in various fields of sporting endeavor?

Situation in Textiles

SENIOR executives of the primary textile industry note that business is becoming more difficult, and that substantial imports are adversely affecting production and employment in some sections of the industry.

This is gathered from editorial features in the recently released 1950 edition of the Manual of the Textile Industry of Canada. Tariffs on most classes of imported textiles are, it is said, too low and if reductions arise from the trade conference at Torquay, England, in September, they would have serious repercussions on domestic mill operations and employment.

The 22nd annual edition of the Manual provides a complete picture of the textile industry in this country, stressing increased wages and the large five-year modernization program. Wage rates of Canadian textile workers, which have increased 149 per cent since 1939, are much higher than those in most countries, the Manual reports.

AT WHITBY, Ontario, a distillery worker explained to a court that he had made a still "just to see if I could do it myself". Yet he was fined $100. Apparently there are in Canada forms of private enterprise which are not free.

The Rainmakers

EVER SINCE the first farmer lost his crops or stock in a bad drought, man has been searching for ways to make rain to order.

Early attempts consisted of sacrifices and incantations to the local god of the weather. Later, medicine men, witch-doctors and rain dances were responsible for conjuring up moisture.

As civilization advanced, commercial-minded characters made a paying business of "drumming-up" rain. Some of them did that literally, using drums, whistles and horns to break up the clouds. The advent of gunpowder really gave the business a boost. For many years it was seriously believed that synthetic thunder from guns would fool the clouds into giving up their water.

In the present century, the rainmakers have taken a more "scientific" approach. Early in the century, contraptions spouting smoke and chemicals were in great demand. Cash only on delivery — as high as $4,000 a job — was the credo of most of the "rainmakers", but many of them still made a living. Sceptics went so far as to say these men wouldn't make a move without examining the meteorologists' forecasts.

One of the most noted was "Rainmaker" Hatfield. His chief claim to fame was a 35.91-inch downpour in sunny California in 1916. This — the worst flood in the district's history, causing millions of dollars' worth of damage — irked his sponsors somewhat and he was unable to collect his fee. Later, he operated in Alberta.

Today, Donald S. Johnston of Regina is held in high esteem by farmers in Alberta and Saskatchewan. He is one of the most successful of the handful of professional rainmakers with his 1937-model "universcope", but even he has his off days.

In the last four years or so, the use of "dry ice" (solid carbon dioxide) pellets have gained wide attraction in attempts to precipitate moisture. Colorful results have been obtained, but are usually termed "uncertain" or "inconclusive". New York City, however, which suffered a bad water shortage last year, has rehired Dr. Wallace E. Howell to keep up water supply at $100 a day.

But the Stoney Indians in Alberta must smile at the white man's machines and chemicals. They have the answer and have no intention of commercializing it. To prove it, when they were refused free admission to the Calgary Stampede this year, they held a rain dance. Rain and hail washed out the chuckwagon races and a stage show, driving 26,000 spectators for cover.

AN INVESTMENT in soil conservation, in reforestation, in wild life preservation, is a reaffirmation of our belief in leaving to our children a heritage of which they may be increasingly proud.

PROFIT-SHARING sounds complicated, but in fact it is just what it says — employer and employee share the profit. If the entire staff works together and has a successful year, all members benefit. If a bad year reduces profits, all feel the reduction. What could possibly give the employee a deeper interest in increasing the output and the efficiency of the plant? — asks the Fredericton Capital Free Press.

Around the Country

Shades of the Old West at the Little Bone Reserve near Yorkton, Sask., where cattle rustlers drove right into a pasture with a number of trucks and a loading device, taking cattle valued at near $5,000. . . Death finally came to Indian "Little Assiniboine" at Broadview, Sask., aged 108. . . When the Minke family had a reunion at Harrison Park, Owen Sound, the printed "family tree" was on display; there are now nine branches and 664 twigs. . . At Stouffville, Ont., a new local product has been marketed, frozen chicken, wrapped in smart boxes with cellophane window, going over well with the public.

When the Clifford Towlsons were excavating for their new ranch-house along the banks of Frenchman's Creek at Fort Erie, a rare relic was unearthed, a bottle with long tapering neck containing excellent wine, possibly left by the French in the 17th century. . . Correspondent for the Picton, Ont. Gazette for 40 years for Elmbrook, Mrs. John DeLong had to resign at 81; moving away. . . Unable to use a hydrant because firemen are supposed to have found it frozen, a damage suit has been started against the town of Lacombe, Alta., for $9,500 by the owner of a home destroyed by fire.

At 88 years, Frank N. Beckett is still at "the slab" making candy for the Beckett & Co., at Calais, N.B.; at it actively since 1880. . . A cow in the herd of Albert Seiling, Elmira, Ont., has completed her second yearly production record of over 1,200 lbs. fat; first Holstein in Canada to twice exceed that mark regardless of times milked daily. . . As the price of lettuce dropped from a high of $3 last season to 75 cents now, nearly 200 Holland Marsh growers in the Bradford, Ont., district have 2,000 cases in cold storage which were to be dumped back in the fields for fertilizer. . . John Love, 73, of Ayr, Ont., still uses his bike, recently making the 40-mile trip thus to visit his daughter at Elora.

BUSINESS TRAINING

Vancouver (CP) — An 18-year-old aspirant to cycling honors at the 1952 Olympic Games is in training all the time. During the day Roland Ewert is a telegraph messenger boy and after a hard day's work cycling around the city he goes home and trains on his racing bicycle. Roland already is Canadian one-mile cycling champion and British Columbia 10-mile champion.

JUST A PET

Vancouver, B.C. (CP) — L. O. Dennison, a customs broker, recently brought home a 20-pound lion as a present for his wife. "Jacqueline" enjoyed playing with the Dennison's dog, but was inhospitable enough to bite Mrs. Dennison's arm. "He's really not vicious", says Mr. Dennison, "just playful".

BLIND HURLER

Calgary, Alta. (CP) — Pitching blindfolded for his four-man team, Ed Feigner of Walla Walla, Wash., recently struck out 18 batters and allowed only one scratch hit to register a 2-1 victory in a seven-inning exhibition softball game. The losers were Calgary Erics, 1949 Western Canada senior champions.

TABLET COMMEMORATES "JERVIS BAY" EPIC

A bronze tablet is being unveiled at Chatham, England, this month to the crew of the merchant cruiser "Jervis Bay". 190 officers and men lost their lives when she was sunk in the North Atlantic by a German pocket battleship, the "Admiral Scheer", while defending a 38-ship convoy on its way from Canada to Britain in 1940. The Captain of the "Jervis Bay" ordered the ships to scatter and headed straight for the raider, making smoke to cover the withdrawal of the members of the convoy. He engaged the German battleship in a fight to the death, enabling the merchant ships to escape with their vital cargoes under cover of the smoke screen into the gathering darkness. Badly hit and on fire the gallant cruiser continued to keep the raider fully occupied until her last gun was silenced. She went down with her colors proudly flying.

Aristotle believed that plant lice arose from dew falling on plants.

Presentation

Miss Maureen Cumbers, who leaves shortly to take a position at Chalk River, Ont., was recently presented with a rug by the choir of the United Church. The Rev. S. J. Pike, minister of the church, made the presentation on behalf of the choir, to which Miss Cumbers replied, thanking the members and expressing her enjoyment in the co-operation and interest of choral work. Miss Cumbers had acted as choir leader for the past year.

OBITUARY

Late "Sandy" Geegan Enjoyed Wide Friendship

The recent death of Alexander John Geegan, son of the late Joseph Geegan and Anne MacCallum, of Lachute (Sandy, as he was known among his friends) removed the last member of a family of three — Archibald his brother, and Ida Isabel, his sister, having predeceased him several years ago. The late Mr. Geegan was unmarried. He was in his 85th year at the time of his death, which occurred August 7 in the Montreal General Hospital after a brief illness.

Left to mourn his loss is an adopted sister (Belle) Mrs. H. C. Lomer, of St. Timothee, Que., and several cousins.

For a number of years "Sandy" conducted a general store in Brent, Ont., where he made many friends. On retiring he came to live in Lachute. Many of his friends gathered at the Wm. Wray Funeral Chapel on University Street, Montreal, where the service was conducted by the Rev. Malcolm Campbell of the First Presbyterian Church, Montreal. Two favorite hymns of the deceased were sung, "Abide With Me" and "Jesus, Lover of My Soul". Interment was made in the family plot at Pointe au Chene, the Rev. C. L. Taylor, of Ormstown, officiating. Many were present from St. Timothee, Que., Montreal, Lachute, Avoca, Harrington, and from Brent, Smith Falls, Arnprior and Sudbury, Ont.

Queen Sees Mementos Of Lady of the Lamp

London (CP) — When Queen Elizabeth visited the offices of the British Red Cross Society recently she was shown some interesting relics of Florence Nightingale, the famous pioneer who founded the modern nursing service.

During the Crimean War of 1854-1856 Miss Nightingale organized a band of nurses which she took to Russia to look after wounded soldiers.

The Queen was shown a replica of Miss Nightingale's famous lamp which she used when she visited the wards for late night inspections. The lamp, incidentally, is nothing like the popular conception of it, but resembles an elongated and collapsible Chinese lantern. She also saw a cloak which the nurse made and wore in the Crimea.

Florence Nightingale's pet owl (now stuffed) was an object of interest. The Englishwoman found the bird while she was at Athens and she called it Athenae.

Records show that Miss Nightingale had only a week to make preparations for her departure for the battle area. During this time she interviewed and engaged 38 nurses and arranged for their equipment and stores — a notable feat in those days when transport was slow and uncertain.

BEAVER VICTORY

Lac la Ronge, Sask. (CP) — Road Boss Emil Fournier seems to have come out second best in a war with some beavers. For almost a year Fournier has been demolishing beaver dams on a creek near a road because the creek keeps backing up and flooding the road. As fast as he demolished them the beavers built them again. Now the Game and Fisheries branch says they will trap the beavers alive and ship them elsewhere.

Pretty Wedding at Lachute United Church

Duncan - Armstrong

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in Lachute United Church at two o'clock on Saturday afternoon, August 26, when Marilyn Frances, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Linton W. Armstrong, was married to Albert Kenneth, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Duncan, of Montreal, formerly of Lachute., The Rev. W. B. Rosborough officiated, and Mrs. K. McOuat played the wedding music.

Mr. Armstrong gave his daughter in marriage. She was attended by Miss Jean Lavis as maid of honor and Miss Joan Copeland and Miss Betty Brown as bridesmaids. The best man was Mr. Gordon Jamison, with Messrs. Keith Armstrong and Angus Duncan as ushers.

The bride wore a gown of white nylon net over white moire, featuring long sleeves terminating in points over the hands, with a veil of nylon tulle caught to her head with a cap of white moire.

The maid of honor and the bridesmaids wore identically styled gowns with toning mittens and crowns of sweet peas to match their nosegays, the maid of honor in yellow and the bridesmaids in blue.

The bride's mother wore a gown of pale yellow printed nylon with white accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a gown of grey printed silk with white accessories and a corsage of red roses.

A reception was held after the wedding in the Legion Memorial Hall, where large bouquets of gladioli decorated the tables.

Mr. and Mrs. Duncan left for a wedding trip to the Laurentians, the bride wearing a navy blue wool suit with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses. They will reside in Lachute on their return.

Out-of-town guests were from Montreal, Carleton Place, Ont., Rinston, Ont., and points in this county.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Demerse and two children left Friday, travelling by plane to Philadelphia en route to Atlantic City.

Mrs. J. S. Curtis and Miss Barbara Curtis, of Montreal, also Mr. and Mrs. John Curtis, of Ste. Adele, spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Dorion.

Mrs. S. Goldsworthy is at present a patient in the Royal Victoria Hospital, undergoing treatment; friends hope for her good progress and recovery.

Miss Ann Peverley, B.Sc.N., of McGill University, was the week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Gorman.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. S. Stuart Campbell, of Lachute, Que., announce the engagement of their only daughter, Christina Elizabeth, to Mr. Kenneth Ian Gordon, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Archibald Gordon, also of Lachute. The marriage will take place at 4 o'clock on September 23, in the Lachute United Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Drysdale and little daughter, Judy, of Ottawa, spent Tuesday in Lachute, the guests of Mrs. Geo. Staniforth and Miss M. C. James.

Miss Mary Jacobsen returned home after spending a week at Y.P.U. camp, Wantanopa, at L'Orignal. She was accompanied by two friends from the camp, Miss Anita LaBel, of New Brunswick, and Miss Claire Caron, of Montreal, who also attended the Danish service held at her home on Sunday.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel Valois left Sunday by automobile to attend the Excelsior Life Insurance convention at Minaki, Lake-of-the-Woods. They also intend visiting Toronto, Niagara Falls, Detroit and Chicago.

* * *

Dr. and Mrs. Geo. Bain, of Amherst, Mass., who recently returned from a motor trip to Alaska, were here to attend the Pollock-Brown wedding. They were guests of Mrs. John Scott while in this community.

Double-Ring Ceremony At Grenv'l Parish Church

Dupuis - Villeneuve

The marriage of Muriel Theresa, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Villeneuve, of Stonefield, to Déas, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Dupuis, also of Stonefield, took place on Saturday, August 19, at the Grenville Parish Church, the Rev. E. Theriault officiating. The nuptial mass was said by the Rev. T. P. MacGuire. Baskets of gladioli and summer flowers decorated the church.

Mr. Ronnie Villeneuve, of Kilmar, cousin of the bride, acted as best man.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in traditional bridal satin, styled in long waist buttoned down the back to a bustle, the skirt ending in a train. Her elbow-length veil was gathered to a satin Juliet cap trimmed with white forget-me-nots, and she carried a bouquet of red roses and white gladioli.

The maid of honor, Miss Grace Katherine Bately, of Utica, N.Y., was dressed in nylon mesh over pale blue taffeta, with a picture hat to match, she carried pale pink gladioli.

The bridesmaids, Miss Clara MacRae, of Kilmar, and Miss Rhea Dupuis, sister of the groom, were dressed alike in pale pink sheer, styled with off-the-shoulder effect, lace trimmed bustles, with mittens and bonnets to match; they carried multi-colored gladioli.

The flower girl, Miss Barbara Ann Daniels, was dressed in pale green taffeta, caught at the hem with pastel forget-me-nots, and wore a bonnet to match. She carried a colonial bouquet of pastel sweet peas and miniature gladioli.

Master Bobby Daniels carried the rings on a heart-shaped satin cushion.

The ushers were Mr. Rolland Dupuis, brother of the groom, Messrs. B. Knight, A. Daniels and G. Bent.

A buffet lunch was served at the home of the bride's parents.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Hurley Stroupe, of Utica, N.Y.; Mrs. D. Villeneuve, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Xavier Trottier, of McAlpine, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. D. Ouimette, of Vankleek Hill, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. D. Trottier and niece, of Cornwall, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. J. Lazenby, Miss Mary Lazenby, Mr. Arnold Lazenby, Miss Margaret Paquette and Mr. P. J. Stackpole, all of Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. Innis Canning and son, of Sudbury, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. A. Daniels, of Fredericton, N.B.; Mrs. A. Daniels, Sr., of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. B. Knight and daughter, Marilyn, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. G. Bent and Mr. Jas. Bent, all of Montreal.

The bride's going-away costume was a grey gabardine suit, white nylon blouse, navy blue velvet hat and navy accessories; she wore a corsage of pink carnations.

NEW SHADE TREES

Winnipeg (CP) — A new kind of tree may soon join the elms and ash which predominate on Winnipeg streets. Park superintendent T. R. Hodgson wants to bring in a tall, umbrella shaped tree, with dark glossy leaves, called the hackberry. Its best qualification, he says, is that it's disease proof.

Social Club Picnic

Favored with fine weather, although cold, the Social and Athletic Club's annual picnic went off in grand style on Saturday. It was a kiddies' day, and every effort was made to see that they had an enjoyable time. Enthusiasm ran high as fond fathers and loving mothers shepherded their offsprings in an endeavor to win one of the many prizes offered by the committee.

There were races to suit all ages and every contestant was given a prize, with special recognition to those who came in the first three. The usual shooting contests were held during the morning, and a troupe of Scottish-clad lads and lassies were engaged to amuse, by songs and dances, those who formed the audience around the raised platform.

Old-time dancing was enjoyed by a large number at night. Sideshows and games were well patronized, and altogether the day was an enjoyable one.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

Danish Service Held By Visiting Pastor

On Sunday last, Pastor and Mrs. Beck, of Montreal, visited Lachute and conducted a service at the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jacobsen. The room was decorated with Danish flags and red and white flowers. Some 30 people from Montreal, Lachute and district attended the service. Since a few could not understand the Danish language, Pastor Beck conducted the service in both Danish and English. After the devotions, the pastor in a few impressive words asked the blessing of the new house and its occupants, concluding with the supplication, "May Love live here, that it may shine through the windows".

After the serving of a light supper, Danish songs were sung in the garden, and as the sun was setting everybody stood at attention singing the Danish flag-song, while the Union Jack and the Danish national flag were lowered from the pole.

Minister Appointed To Anglican Churches Morin Hts., Mille Isles

The Rev. Horace G. Baugh — who has spent the past six years in New Brunswick, latterly in the parish of Grand Manan and Grand Harbour — is returning to his native haunts. Having been appointed by the Bishop of Montreal as incumbent to the Anglican churches of Morin Heights and Mille Isles, he will have charge of this pastorate, thus relieving his father, the Rev. C. W. P. Baugh, of Lakefield, who has served these communities in his extensive field. . . The Rev. Horace Baugh leaves the Maritimes September 28 to take over his new duties early in October.

Eight Days in New York

The international convention of Jehovah's witnesses held in New York City is now a matter of history. All who were present will remember it as eight days brimful of Scriptural instruction, admonition and encouragement. But as time passes, memories dim. Wouldn't you like to refresh your memory occasionally? Then read the

REPORT OF INTERNATIONAL ASSEMBLY OF JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES

A review of the assembly's fine points from time to time will aid you to relive those pleasant days and to recount the blessings to others. Or, if you were unable to attend, you will doubly appreciate this complete, 96-page report of five convention issues under one cover which describes all eight days of the convention. It is of the same dimensions as "Awake!" and may be had for 25 cents a copy. — 40 Irwin Avenue, Toronto, Ont.

The Purpose of "The Watchtower"

Literal towers in Bible times were elevated vantage points from which watchmen could observe happenings, warn of danger, or announce good news. Our magazine figuratively occupies such a vantage point, for it is founded on the very pinnacle of wisdom, God's Word. That elevates it above racial, national and political propagandas and prejudices, frees it from selfish bias. It is not bound by any traditional creed, but its message advances as the light on God's purposes and works increases.

Habakkuk, 2: 1-3.

It sees things Scripturally. When it observes this generation afflicted with greed, delinquency, hypocrisy, atheism, war, famine, pestilence, perplexity and fear, and persecution of unpopular minorities, it does not parrot the old fable about history repeating itself. Informed by Bible prophecy, it sees in these things the sign of the world's time of the end. But with bright hope it also sees opening up for us just beyond these woes the portals of a new world.

Thus viewed, "The Watchtower" stands as a watchman atop a tower, alert to what is going on, awake to note signs of danger, faithful to point out the way of escape. It announces Jehovah's kingdom established by Christ's enthronement in heaven, feeds his kingdom joint-heirs with spiritual food, cheers men of good will with glorious prospects of eternal life in a paradise earth, comforts us with the resurrection promise for the dead.

It is not dogmatic, but has a confident ring in its voice, because it is based on God's Word. It does not privately interpret prophecy, but calls attention to physical facts, sets them alongside prophecy, and you see for yourself how well the two match, how accurately Jehovah interprets his own prophecy. In the interests of our salvation, it keeps sharp and faithful focus on Bible truth, and views religious news generally.

"Be watchful in these perilous times", God admonishes. So keep on the watch by regularly reading "The Watchtower".

Former H.S. Teacher Bride In N.B. Church Ceremony

Sly - Styles

The marriage of Gladys Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon M. Styles, of St. Stephen, N.B., to Gordon Kenneth Sly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth R. Sly, of Lachute, Que., took place Saturday afternoon at four o'clock in the Union Street Baptist Church, St. Stephen, N.B., the Rev. L. E. Davis officiating. Mrs. Burton Smythe played the wedding music. Baskets of multi-colored gladioli, phlox and hydrangea decorated the church.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of nylon net over taffeta, with fitted bodice of embroidered organdy, sweetheart neckline, short sleeves and elbow-length nylon mitts. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a braided coronet, and she carried a nosegay of white gladioli and pink sweet peas.

The bride's only attendant, Miss Lorna Sly, sister of the bridegroom, wore a gown similar to that of the bride, in powder blue with matching headdress. She carried a nosegay of pink gladioli and white sweet peas.

Edward Hammond, of Lachute, was best man, and the ushers were Everett and William Grant, cousins of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a dress of delphinium blue crepe with navy accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a dress of navy floral crepe, with navy accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church vestry, where baskets of summer flowers formed the decorations. Later the couple left for a wedding trip by motor to points in the New England States, the bride travelling in a powder blue floral mesh dress and navy accessories, with a corsage of pastel sweet peas. On their return they will take up residence in Montreal.

The bride is a graduate of Acadia University, and has been a member of the teaching staff of Lachute High School. The bridegroom served with the R.C.A.F. in the Second World War and is now employed by the British-American Oil Company in Montreal.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Sly, Edward Hammond and Mrs. J. P. Bradley Jr., of Lachute; Miss Lorna Sly, Miss Evelyn Sly, Fred Stewart, and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Parker, of Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Styles and Miss Helen Styles, of Boston, Mass.; Mrs. Arthur Hitchings, of Bangor, Maine; Mrs. Helen MacPherson, of Bridgewater, N.S.; and Miss May Donovan, of the British West Indies.

Fort William, Ont. (CP)—Attendance at the week-long Canadian Lakehead Exhibition this year was a record 146,248. Last year's attendance was 82,782.

Source of Complaint

Only a housekeeper knows the continual annoyance of outmoded plumbing . . unhandy faucets in the kitchen and laundry; sink and drainboard hard to clean; a makeshift bathroom with old-fashioned fixtures.

Call a qualified plumber, expert in approved sanitary systems, and versed in modern design for both utility and charm.

Around the Home ...

TOM GARD'S NOTE BOOK

One of the best things about going away for awhile is coming home. Roughing it in the wilds or with fussy relatives sure makes you downright appreciative of your own comfortable furnishings . . . and you see your dwelling with more discerning eyes. When you live with your things continually they seem to fit like an old shoe and you do not see their shortcomings. As I came up the front walk I decided I just had to get busy and finish up those boxes for the veranda pillars. Artistically planted, they will take away the bareness of the front steps.

Sit In The Shade

Is shade at a premium in your yard? One solution to the problem seen on our holidays was a portable canvas shade. Inch water pipe joined by standard fittings had been used and painted dark green. Bright awning material covered the top and was held in place by short tie strings. This particular shade was moved from place to place to avoid wear on the grass and to catch any breeze that was blowing. By covering the sides with the same material the shade could double as sleeping quarters for the young fry.

Dual-Purpose Barrel

Of all the things that puzzle a gardener, possibly more are confused by the statement, "Give liberal applications of liquid manure" than any other. This is not a difficult procedure when handled properly. Bury a water-tight barrel in the ground to the rim. Fit a tight lid to the barrel and place a strong hook near the top from which a burlap bag can be hung. Fill the bag with well-rotted manure (preferably sheep manure) and place it on the hook. Almost fill the barrel with water and allow it to stand for 24 hours before it is used on your plants. Place the barrel directly under the down spout from the eaves or in a secluded corner of the garden if you don't mind carrying the water a little further. Refill the barrel as the liquid is used.

Coconuts

Empty coconut shells can be put to many uses. The best one I have seen lately was helping overcome the housing shortage—for robins. Placed in the right spot, half a shell makes an ideal base for a robin's nest.

More about these and many other ideas in the booklet "AROUND THE HOME". Write for your copy to Tom Gard, c/o MOLSON'S BREWERY LIMITED, P.O. Box 1600, Place d'Armes, Montreal, Quebec.

Gala Event for Morin Hts. Children

(Our District Correspondent)

Morin Heights — On Wednesday of last week the children of Trinity Church, Morin Heights, were treated to an enjoyable outing by the Sunday School superintendent, Mrs. G. Kinlock, assisted by several young ladies — including the Misses Mary Goodfellow, Barbara Watchorn and Dorothy Kennedy.

This event took place on Campbell's Farm, at the spot familiarly known as "the old swimming hole", and took the form of a field day.

Well organized games and races of all kinds formed the program, with prizes for each event, finishing up with the no less important "swim".

Approximately 35 children and a number of adults partook of dinner and supper, ice cream and chocolate milk — again the contribution of Mrs. Kinlock and her kind friends.

Since coming to Morin Heights to live, this worthy lady has given generously of her time, energy and money to the welfare and enjoyment of the youngsters of the Anglican Church, and a hearty vote of thanks is due to her and to the girls mentioned, for the success of this gathering and of many previous events.

Sunnyacres Sketches

RANDOM WRITINGS
ON THE RURAL SCENE

By Margaret Cook

As we write, the railway strike is on. It is not our way to wonder futilely, much less write about the economic ills or the psychologic quirks that spark such upheavals of present day life — rather, we cast about us to see if we could survive as long as the strikers without outside aid. After scanning our resources, we have decided that the odds are all with us. So vast is the natural produce of even these notoriously poor highlands that one could manage fairly well for some time.

There is, for example, the cherry family. On our own land there are four kinds of cherries — pin cherry, chokecherry, black cherry and chokeberry. The first three are familiar to all residents of Eastern Canada, but the chokeberry often passes unnoticed. It grows to a height of 2 or 3 feet and its leaves and fruit are enough like those of the blueberry to deceive the casual observer, but a more careful inspection discloses the fact that the berries are in clusters of four or five, standing erect on an inch-long stem; moreover, each little berry has a "blossom" end like that of an apple. In fact, this "cherry" is not a cherry at all, but an apple, its Latin family name being Malus, while the cherry family name is Prunus. Its flavor is much like that of the chokecherry, but not quite so astringent.

Chokecherries are all over the country, very decorative as table-ornaments at present. As I write, there is an old Moorcroft pitcher beside me filled with fruit-laden branches of dog-wood, chokeberry and chokecherry. One cluster of the latter ranges in color from clear yellow through orange to the deepest red. When the color on bushes near us gets to be very dark red, Mary and I shall make jelly. It is rumored that very potent brandy can also be made from the chokecherry, and we are of a mind to try it, if someone will give us a recipe.

Down the road is a beautiful Mountain Ash, its orange berries gay against the green of the leaves. From the fruit, a jelly or marmalade of a delightful color can be made. Frère Marie-Victorin writes in his "Flore Laurentienne", that the Algonquins used to make a tisane from this fruit. He gives the recipe as follows: "Boil together for several hours small branches of Mountain Ash and White Pine, elderberry flowers and leaves of Wintergreen and a little wine". No explanation is given as to where the Indians got their wine. But one can admire the caution of the Indian who put in wintergreen to balance the action of the purgative elderberry.

Before we leave the Mountain Ash, it might be of interest to note that this is one of the family of Rowans, very common in Europe and associated with witches, spells and such-like. Our neighbor — now deceased — used to tell of a woman living near here who put the bright berries of the rowan over her door to ward off evil spirits. It seems she had particularly in mind the wife of one of the first invaders from the city, whose unfortunate facial configuration reminded the wary native of a witch.

Farther afield, wild apples are everywhere turning from a poisonous green to beautiful shades of yellow and red, and the hazel and beech-nut trees are full this year. A few reluctant blueberries and raspberries are still about and bunch-berries make beautiful carpets in some spots. Blackberries are abundant but only beginning to ripen. . Yes, with some flour, yeast and sugar one can manage. Not that we yearn to subsist on such a diet, but it could be done. A real farmer could even eliminate the need for seeking sugar abroad, since most of them have maple sugar, and what better to sweeten fruit?

For meat, there are numbers of young rabbits, although the writer would as soon kill and eat Haile Selassie as one of these beige velvet creatures. But sentiment apart, one must admit that a rabbit pie as prepared in England is a toothsome morsel. An English housewife once told us that a cupful of port wine added to the broth immensely improved the flavor. I wouldn't know, only once did we cook a rabbit and its carcass was pathetically reminiscent of the current cat, Neuflize. That choice of name, by the way, was an error as the hearer invariably thought it was a nasty reference to fleas. Actually, as some of you will recognize, the cat was named for the son of the Lord Bessborough, their two natal days having nearly coincided.

But we digress — and it has occurred to us that it is a digression that will bear exploiting. Some years ago, we had some friends who lived atop a hill in Megantic County. Their vocation was raising prize horses and cattle, and their avocation, reading Dickens. It was their quaint but sensible custom to decree an hour's rest for owners and farm-help, after dinner each day. Their hour was spent in reading aloud from Dickens and from his voluminous writings was all their prize stock named. Remarks such as "Miss Pross is still in the pasture", were often a source of bewilderment to visitors. But the name I remember best was Micawber — for a large and lusty bull.

The digression seems to have killed the theme, so we close with a correction: Amos tells us that so far from exaggerating the neglect of the road from Mille Isles corner to Lakefield, in our last article, we have underestimated it by 15 years, i.e., it is 21 years since that stretch was all resurfaced!

NO CAMP FUN

Montreal (CP) — C. A. Wylie, executive director of the Montreal Boys' Association, said recently that in too many summer camps the boys were not having enough fun. He said some of the pioneer boys' camps were more enjoyable because more emphasis was put on fun and less on education.

At Camp Ste. Malvina

Saturday, August 26, was a busy day for the residents of Camp Ste. Malvina, two miles east of Lachute on the North River. . .

At four o'clock the second annual Field Day was held at this attractive summer colony. Campers brought their own chairs and benches and set up a sideline cheering-gallery. There were races for different age groups, with ribbons and lollipops for the winners. Events which provided the most laughs were the three-legged race and the "thread-the-needle" race, with the men doing the threading while their wives did the running. A "special" for the married women was the ping-pong throw.

At eight o'clock that evening the annual Camp Fair was held, with various amusement booths. Soft-drinks and corn (donated by Mr. E. Berry and Clark Bros. Farm, respectively) were also sold.

The highlight of the evening was a drawing for prizes donated by the campers, among which were two bouquets of flowers made by Mrs. Yueranos.

The proceeds from the evening's activities amounted to $55 — $40 of which has been sent to the Canadian Red Cross (Lachute Branch), while $15 was set aside for the Camp children's party, arranged for this Wednesday.

The folks of the Camp wish to express their gratitude to Mr. E. Berry and the Clark Brothers for their kind donations; also to Mr. and Mrs. Yueranos, proprietors, and the various campers who gave assistance.

FALSE ALARM

Calgary (CP) — Fleets of taxis rolled to an east end address in answer to calls from an unidentified man. When the taxis, arriving two and three at a time, reached the house they found no one home. Police now are trying to locate the prankster who called nearly every taxi company in town.
