Club Meeting Turns Work Session, Rotarians Beautify Playground Site

Rotarian Stewart Jones was presented with his past-president's pin, at the last meeting of the Rotary Club. The presentation was made by the Rotarian who preceded him in that office, Linton W. Armstrong. Mention was made of the fact that Stewart Jones had been obliged to take the chair some time after the new club year had begun, owing to the resignation of the elected president, Harold Barrie, who had been transferred by his company to Texas. In spite of this handicap, the Rotary Club had had a very successful year.

President John Chalmers expressed the best wishes of the club to one of the members, Frank Bedard, on his approaching marriage, and presented a beautiful Ayers throw.

This meeting did not follow the usual pattern. There was no guest speaker. As soon as the dinner was over and the short business session completed, the members hurried down to their park and playground and, equipped with shovels, rakes, saws, axes and paint brushes, set to work to improve and beautify their project. As a result of previous arrangements, over 120 tons of gravel were hauled, sufficient to resurface the roadway from Brownsburg Road to the playground. Brush was cut, stones removed, and fences and signs painted. Despite the very considerable amount of work completed, it is reported there were surprisingly few blisters and aching backs.

Loan Exhibit at Carillon Museum

A striking exhibition of Indian handicraft work is now on view at the historical museum at Carillon. The collection has been loaned for the season by the Canadian Handicraft Guild. In the words of the Guild circular:

"The purpose of this exhibition is to show the native arts of Canadian Indians, as they were, and as they are today. . . The exhibits are arranged in Tribal groups, beginning with the Algonkian and Iroquoian peoples of the Eastern woodlands . . and ending with those of the West Coast."

Of special beauty and interest are baskets of extraordinarily delicate workmanship, exquisite porcupine-quill embroideries, elaborate bead work and varieties of leather work. The exhibition is of outstanding educational value as a colorful record of ancient and modern skills which are a distinctive element in our Canadian heritage.

From 1901 to 1911 more than 1,800,000 immigrants entered Canada, producing 34 per cent population increase in the decade, largest relative growth of any modern country in a similar period.

Que. Law to Bar Office-Holders Pending Criminal Court Proceedings and Delays

By Richard Daignault

Quebec, Aug. 1 (CP) — A speed-up of disqualification proceedings against municipal officers with criminal records will be sought in government legislation to be introduced at the autumn session of the Quebec Legislature.

Premier Duplessis announced this measure at his regular press conference last week, and said it was aimed at Communists.

Municipal legislation already bans persons with criminal records from holding public offices. But, the Premier said, there are cases where "Communists multiply dilatory proceedings" so they can continue in office. The law will ban from office, while appeals are lodged and decided on, municipal officers disqualified by lower court judgments.

Laws have already been passed to speed up hearing of contestation cases in municipal elections, and the plan will do the same thing for disqualification proceedings.

"The law will seek to protect the interests of all, but at the same time to simplify proceedings and expedite them, so that anyone who has usurped public office will not do so indefinitely", said Premier Duplessis.

The small cannon taken out of Quebec's walled Citadel for a prank, was duly returned to the Royal 22nd Regiment.

Officers of 412 Squadron of the R.C.A.F. who got it out of the Citadel where it was on display for visitors, and who flew it to Ottawa, returned it last week when they flew here for regular parachuting exercises of the 22nd's Fi[illegible] Battalion.

Tenants who wish to apply to their local Provincial Rent Administrator for a cut in their rent no longer have to notify their landlords. Premier Duplessis announced Friday the rent control law had been changed to simplify procedure. . .

Tenants will still have to notify their rent administrator of their intention to seek a rent cut, on forms printed by the government for the purpose.

Prime Minister St. Laurent visited historic Ile aux Coudres over the week-end as he returned, tanned and looking fit, from a vacation at his summer home at St. Patrice, near Riviere du Loup.

Mr. St. Laurent told his listeners that if Canada was to progress, peace was needed, and chances that peace would last were good because efforts of Communist countries against the Western nations were being staved off successfully through the democracies' alliances.

The Prime Minister visited several Charlevoix County towns and villages during his tour. He is due to visit Western Canada shortly in connection with the 60th anniversary of the first Ukrainian settlements there.

Bingo for Bossy!

(IT'S TWINS)

(Our District Correspondent)

On the farm of Douglas Clark at Mabel, a Registered Holstein cow, missing from the herd Monday evening, was found in the pasture next morning with her newborn calf. Bossy was brought to the barn and, with her offspring comfortably settled, she was sent to pasture with the herd again that evening.

Wednesday morning she turned up with the cattle as usual — and at her side, another calf!

Jerseys may look soulful — other breeds have "poker faces" — but Bossy surely must have betrayed a look of triumph on this occasion. . All three are doing well.

Attacked by Bull On Grenville Farm

(Our District Correspondent)

Grenville—Fred Crooks escaped serious injuries when he was attacked by a four-year-old Holstein bull on his father's farm near Grenville. The animal broke out into a field of oats. Crooks had always known the animal to be quiet and peaceable, but as he approached to lead it from the field, the bull attacked, knocked him to the ground and charged at him. A young boy appeared opportunely on the scene, and the bull walked off. . . Fred Crooks received back and leg injuries and suffered from shock.

Feted on Retiring From Civil Service

A large number of well-wishers gathered at the Legion Hall on Thursday evening last to extend congratulations to Roy P. Fraser, who after 32 years as Customs Officer for this district, is now retiring.

Acting as master of ceremonies, R. A. Giles extended a welcome to all present and read numerous regrets from those unable to attend. Brief remarks of congratulation were made by Mr. P. Valois, M.P., representing the Federal Government; Mayor Jas. McGibbon, for Lachute Town; J. A. Lavallée and G. C. Dunlop, the Customs Department; H. M. Gall, the Masonic Order; E. M. Jones, Lachute Curling Club; C. Demerse, Lachute Legion; W. K. MacArthur, Lake Louisa Country Club; and Messrs. D. Campbell, F. Legault, W. M. Scott and G. Valois, for the general citizenry.

Frank A. Brennian gave a short biography of Mr. Fraser and proposed a toast to him as guest of honor.

Several members of the 73rd Battalion Royal Highland Canadians in the First Great War, of which Roy was a member, attended to extend greetings to their old friend. They were E. M. Jones, of Lachute; D. Crawford, of St. Laurent; R. Robertson, of Verdun; C. Jack, of Vankleek Hill; and R. MacArthur, of Cornwall.

Other guests included Messrs. J. M. Mitchell, Traffic Manager of C-I-L; Ed Rowett, Chief Clerk, C-I-L Traffic Dept.; C. Higgerty and P. Charbonneau, Ottawa; P. Senecal and L. K. Shepperdson, of Montreal.

At the close of the good wishes, H. G. Beaulieu, Mr. Fraser's colleague in the Customs, presented him with a beautiful Lazy Boy Chair and a testimonal, which read as follows:

"On the occasion of your retirement, we have gathered together to wish you luck and to express our appreciation of the service you have publicly rendered as head of the Customs Office in Lachute. For 32 years you have faithfully filled the important duties entrusted to you, and have enjoyed the good will and respect of the citizens of our town and community.

"Your life record, from early start in the banking business, as a soldier in the First Great War, and your connection with the Civil Service, has been one of responsibility which you have filled with honor.

"Your many friends, a great number of whom are unable to be present this evening, join in wishing you a long and happy retirement, and trust that you will accept this token of their esteem for you."

Roy, to whom the whole proceedings had been a complete surprise, expressed his appreciation for the useful gift and the many kind things that had been said about him.

A social hour was spent, and personal wishes were expressed for a long and happy retirement.

Regional Director Issues Message on Applications For Old Age Pension

Quebec — Application forms for old age pensions are now available in all post offices throughout Quebec, the regional director of old age security, J. M. L. Lafrance, said this week.

Persons who are already receiving old age pensions do not have to fill out new application forms, Mr. Lafrance emphasized. Their names and addresses are being obtained from provincial records and transferred to federal lists without any action being required on their part. Quebec has approximately 73,500 persons in this group. Those who are receiving a $40-a-month pension will have it continued at that level; those who are getting a partial pension will find it increased to $40.

Quebec has approximately 76,900 persons aged 70 or over not now getting pensions who will be eligible for a pension under the new program, Mr. Lafrance said. It is essential, he emphasized, that these people send in their applications immediately so that proof of age and residence in Canada may be checked and all arrangements completed for the first cheques to go out toward the end of next January.

Delay in sending in an application may mean that the application cannot be put through in time for the January cheque issue. The longer the delay the less chance there is that the application can be handled in time.

Applicants must prove their age, and the proof should be sent along with the application form. Birth or baptismal certificates are best evidence. Other documents that will be considered include records in family Bibles, church rolls or registers, marriage records, communion certificates, passports and acknowledgments of age by insurance companies.

"If you cannot send evidence of this kind, please send any documents you do have that support your claim of age, "Mr. Lafrance said. "These documents will, of course, be returned to you. If you cannot send anything to prove your age, send in your application anyway, stating that you have no document to support your claim of age. You will then be told what to do about proving your age."

The pension cheques will be addressed to the pensioner himself, although provision will be made to pay the pension to some other person or agency when this becomes necessary because of the pensioner's illness or infirmity.

Huot, Kolar Tie in Lachute Annual 'Open'

Shoot 66's Over Toughened Course; Rudolphe Huot Wins 3-Hole Play-off

Two par-busting professionals from the opposite ends of the province, Rudolphe Huot of Royal Quebec and Stan Kolar of Gatineau, gave the new, improved and considerably lengthened Lachute golf course a thorough going-over in last Sunday's Annual Open play. Both carded six under par 66's, Huot setting and Kolar tying a new record for the tortuous route.

Kolar's smoking putter banged in no fewer than nine birdies, but bogied two, ten and seventeen. Huot had six birdies and played par golf the rest of the way.

Officials called for a three hole play-off over one, eight and nine, medal play. Rodolphe's birdie on the eighth was one stroke and one hundred dollars better than Stan's three straight pars. General sentiment of the crowd was that it was too bad one of these thoroughly popular and personable young men had to lose. Each one gave his gallery of ardent supporters plenty to cheer about.

Two other professionals bested par for the day — Charlie Geraldeau of St. Eustache taking third money with a 70, and the ever popular Jules Huot fourth with a 71. Big Bob Gray of Toronto Scarboro, conqueror of Kanawaki and the Quebec Open the day before, faded to a one-over-par 73.

Gatineau broke into the news among the amateurs also, Fred Hunt from that club taking the low gross with a fine 73. Joe Leblanc of Whitlock, former provincial amateur champion, was second in the gross with 74.

Jack Reade, of Brownsburg, won the local player competition, with gross 80, net 75.

Par Out —	535	434	453	— 36
Kolar out	444	423	453	— 33
Huot out	534	434	443	— 34
Par In —	454	338	435	— 36 — 72
Kolar in	343	243	444	— 33 — 66
Huot in	453	342	434	— 32 — 66

'Cercle Lacordaire' Holds Grand Picnic

(Our District Correspondent)

St. Andrews East — On Sunday the "Cercle Lacordaire" held a grand picnic on the farm of Ovila Brunet, from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Nearly 300 attended from St. Andrews, Lachute, Carillon and other neighboring localities. The program included softball for boys and girls, races and other games, also dancing, for which 50 prizes were awarded to the winning competitors.

George Duhamel's bus made many trips to the picnic grounds gratuitously. Fine weather contributed greatly to the enjoyment of the gala occasion.

The success of the event was due in no small measure to the organization work of André L'Allier, son of Dr. and Mrs. A. L'Allier, assisted in running the games by Oswald Denault. There was provision for refreshment on the grounds.

No Returning

Just once we travel this worn old track,
No returning, no coming back —
No coming back to sing an old song,
No returning to right a wrong.

Just once we travel this road,
No matter how light or heavy the load,
No week's furlough, or long week-end,
To make peace with a long-lost friend.

Just once, we travel this way,
No coming back, just for a day,
No returning to do that kind deed,
Or help a friend, or brother in need.

Just once, we travel this winding trail,
Whether we win, or whether we fail,
No coming back to try again. . .
Please God this life won't be in vain?

Fire at Morin Heights

(Our District Correspondent)

Morin Heights — On Thursday last the volunteer fire brigade were able to extinguish a fire in the blacksmith shop operated by Raoul Pagé. Fire Chief Henry Gillingham and his men are to be congratulated on their efficient and speedy work in averting a possible major fire, as the blacksmith shop is closely surrounded by wooden buildings.

Annual Regatta At Lake Louisa

The annual Lake Louisa regatta took place last week-end at the clubhouse, with weather and lake conditions favorable, and a large group of spectators present, especially for the motorboat races Sunday afternoon. However, there was a good deal of disappointment when the large hydroplane, which everyone had heard about, but seen nothing of, failed to start several minutes before the race and could not be entered. This new boat is owned and driven by George Deacon, Jr. Toni Scarborough, the only other contestant for the "fastest boat on the lake", was awarded the trophy upon completing the course. There were several near-accidents, but expert handling of the faster boats averted possible mishaps.

Dinner and supper were served on Saturday by the ladies of the Lake Louisa Country Club; both meals were well patronized.

The distribution of prizes took place after supper, presided over by the Club president, Herb Montgomery, assisted by several of the directors and prize donors.

Young Calf Club Members Compete At Macdonald

Some 35 boys and girls representing the Arundel and Chatham Calf Clubs in this county, took part in the Inter-County Live Stock Judging Competition at Macdonald College on Tuesday of this week.

The boys and girls had to judge four classes of Dairy Cattle — two classes of Ayrshires and two of Holsteins.

This competition was held to select two teams of judges to compete at the Sherbrooke Fair in the month of September. The winning team at Sherbrooke will represent the Province of Quebec at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto in the month of November.

In the final results at Macdonald, the McOuat boys from St. Andrews East stood first in the Ayrshire classes but went down to fourth place in the grand total with Ayrshires and Holsteins combined. The group from Howick was first, and will represent the district at Sherbrooke Fair in September.

Mr. Irvin Bain acted as club leader, and transportation was provided by Keith Pollock and the local agronomist, Alex Bothwell.

This competition was under the direction of Donald Robertson, Dominion Live Stock Fieldman, in co-operation with the Animal Husbandry division of Macdonald College and the local agronomists.

"Painting for Pleasure" Art Course for W. Inst.

An Art course is being added to the services offered by the Quebec Women's Institutes. This will be carried on by Miss F. Elizabeth Campbell, of the Q.W.I. staff, who has much ability and is well qualified to give instruction in this skill.

Requested by the members themselves, this extension to the Q.W.I. program was approved by the Provincial Board at the recent annual meeting and already several classes have been arranged for the fall at various centres of this province.

"Painting for Pleasure", as the course has been termed by Miss Campbell, is elementary and practical and will last for five days, or a total of 20 hours, to be divided into two three-hour or one four-hour session each day.

Speaking of her plans for this course, which is a new venture for the Q.W.I., Miss Campbell stresses the fact that it is only for people who are interested in painting, whether they have tried it previously or not. "More than any other course offered through the Q.W.I.", she states, "its success is almost entirely dependent upon the interest and enthusiasm of its members".

Nephew Here Identifies Murder Victims in Huntingdon Tragedy

The triple murder which horrified the district of Huntingdon on Tuesday, has a sorry association with a member of this community — Romeo Allen, auto salesman at Deacon Motor Sales, Lachute, being a nephew of Anthime Allen and his wife, two of the victims who were beaten and stabbed to death by a grandson in the armed services.

Anthime Allen was a brother to Romeo Allen's father, and the Lachute man was called to Huntingdon on Tuesday evening for the grim duty of identifying the two bodies. Mr. Allen is also in Huntingdon today for the funeral.

Smiths Falls, Ont. (CP) — Under construction for 18 months, Smiths Falls $250,000 sewage disposal plant now is in full operation. More than a mile of new trunk sewers were built into the solid rock foundations of Smiths Falls for the big undertaking.

Canada ranks about seventh in the world in manufacturing output.

Gasoline Ignites From Broken Pump

A car emerging in a hurry from Bedard Blvd. onto Main Street West early Tuesday morning, failed to navigate the intersection, and crashed into a gasoline pump outside the establishment of Northland Automotive Equipment. The result was an alarm to the fire department, which was summoned to a blaze from the broken pump at 7.30 a.m. The firemen quelled the flames with a chemical extinguisher.

Provincial Police Raid Nudist Farm Between St. Jerome and Lachute

Montreal — Rounded up in a surprise raid by Provincial Police on a farm Sunday morning, two married couples were arraigned in St. Jerome Monday on charges laid under the Criminal Code.

The accused, alleged members of a nudist club known as The Quetans, were a 38-year-old couple from Montreal, and a 35-year-old couple from Sherbrooke. Police said no charges had been laid against a young unmarried couple also at the farm when the raid took place. Both were wearing clothes, police explained.

The alleged organizer of the club which is said to have 40 members in the province, was charged with "promenading in the nude on his property in public view", and with "selling or printing obscene pictures".

His wife and the other couple were arraigned on charges of "being found on property other than their own, in a state of nudity and in public view".

All four registered pleas of not guilty to the charges. Trial date was set for August 10. Judge Hermann Barrette released the quartet on bail.

Det.-Lieut. Leopold Trottier, head of the Provincial Police morality squad in Montreal, said, "We knew there was a nudist club operating in the province, with the majority of its members Montreal residents. But you need evidence in a case like this, and it wasn't easy to get it".

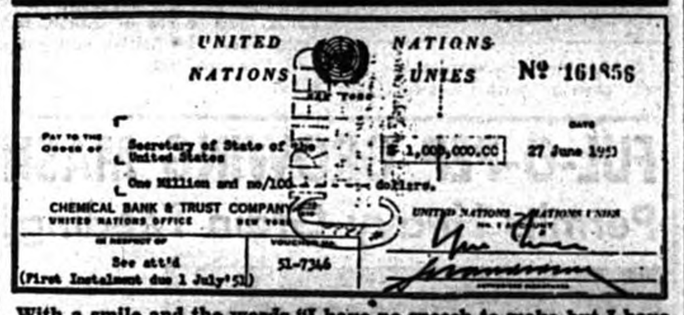

During the week-end police were told nudists were seen on a farm at Mille Iles, between St. Jerome and Lachute. At 11 a.m. Sunday, four police officials and two photographers drove to the spot.

"We had to crawl for more than 100 yards through the bush to get close to them without being seen", Lieut. Trottier said. "When we were in camera range, our boys took pictures for 15 minutes. The two nude couples were cutting hay and cleaning the grounds."

Canada's recent remarkable industrial growth is attributed chiefly to four factors; high rate of capital investment over past ten years; minimum government interference with private enterprises; vast natural resources; large foreign demand for Canadian exports.

First Payment on U.N. Headquarters Loan

With a smile and the words "I have no speech to make but I have a million dollars . . . here it is!" Byron Price, U.N. Assistant Secretary-General (right) hands over to Ambassador Ernest A. Gross of the United States a check covering the first installment in repayment of the $65,000,000 interest-free loan made by the U.S. Government for the construction of the permanent headquarters of the United Nations in New York City. Below, a photograph of the check.

Gatineau LINES

Mercier's Helpers

Last week in this column we got to talking about the way Mercier Dam on the Gatineau River collects 95,000,000,000 cubic feet of water behind its 1,200-foot length and then releases the water as it is needed to keep the power plants of Gatineau humming. Now in case anybody got the idea that that is all there is to it, we hasten to add that Mercier can't do the job alone.

The help that Mercier gets from other dams so it can do its job of assuring that there will be a steady flow of water — and so a steady flow of electricity — is an indication of the work and expense which goes into the creation of a power system such as Gatineau Power. Mighty and costly as Mercier is, it needs plenty of help to serve Gatineau's 68,000 customers.

First helper is Cabonga Dam, 60 miles farther up the Gatineau. Cabonga's job is to store more water from the upper part of the water-shed. Cabonga holds back some 45,000,000,000 cubic feet of water in a lake 55 miles long.

Having set out to collect and hold such huge amounts of water as is stored by Mercier and Cabonga Dams, the power company has to make sure the water doesn't find another channel to drain away. To plug the holes, there is Lacroix Creek Dam, 1,255 feet long, Lac Castor Dam, 706 feet long, four Philomen earth dykes, ranging from 1,867 (almost a third of a mile!) down to 314 feet in length and a number of earth-fill dykes from 300 to 40 feet long.

All these dams and dykes need constant attention and constant maintenance work —work made more difficult by the fact that they are located in a wilderness of forest and water, far from the populated parts of the province. This maintenance work, essential to the job of providing power to 68,000 customers, is more costly now that ever before.

DID YOU KNOW?

A power company has an average of 30 poles for every mile of electric line. Poles cost three times as much now as they did a few years ago.

SQUARE PUMPKINS?

Pretoria, S. Africa. (CP) — A Transvaal farmer is trying to grow square pumpkins. Their present bulky roundness worries him because of the room they take up in square crates.

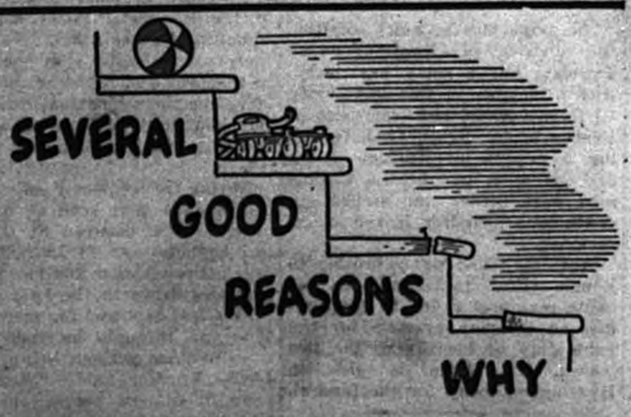

He hopes to achieve a neat, four-cornered vegetable by putting a square wooden box over the pumpkin before it is fully grown, thus moulding it into a trim cube.

FROM NORTHERN LIGHTS TO CITY LIGHTS

Churchill, Man. — On his way to his new home in Vancouver's Zoo, Nanook, a young polar bear will receive royal treatment on his long train journey from Churchill. His meals will consist of 50 tins of salmon and numerous tins of condensed milk, provided by his new owners in Vancouver.

The young orphan bear, who left his far northern home recently, is travelling by Canadian National Railways in a specially-built crate.

In the 1948-1949 trapping season more than 160,000 beaver pelts were taken in Canada, more than in any other recent year.

Grass-Root Interviews on Noontime Farm Program

Toronto, July 28 — With the firm conviction that you can't run a worthwhile farm broadcast service from a swivel chair, CBC farm commentator Norn Garriock and technical operator Roly Anderson loaded recording gear into a car and toured eastern Ontario and Western Quebec in June, getting views on current farming problems right at the grass roots. In their swing through some of the region's best farming country, Garriock and Anderson talked to farmers, professors of agriculture, agricultural representatives (agronomes), and other experts, and in many cases recorded their interviews right on the spot.

These recorded interviews, together with "live" interviews, will be heard in the next few weeks as part of the regular noon-time CBC farm broadcast (12.30 p.m. Monday to Friday); among stations featuring this broadcast are CBO, Ottawa; and CBM, Montreal.

From Pakistan to Study Canadian Agriculture

Three members of an agricultural mission from Pakistan are visiting Canada under provisions of the Technical Co-operation Program of the Colombo Plan for Economic Development in South and South-East Asia. They are the first specialists from any of the countries participating in the plan to arrive here for consultation on matters of mutual concern.

The three agricultural specialists will familiarize themselves with agricultural facilities and farming methods in Canada, gain a better understanding of the training obtainable in this country, and the farming equipment designed and manufactured here to meet the requirements of farmers in Canada and other countries.

"A Letter Home"

English immigrant Eric Christmas — "Heathcliffe" in the "Wayne and Shuster Show" — has a weekly program all his own on the CBC during August and September. The basis for each show is a letter home from an Englishman recently settled in Canada. Eric writes the scripts, which are mostly autobiographical. Packed with humor, they will give many Canadians a new slant on subects and objects often ignored through familiarity. The title: "A Letter to England". The time, 9.30 p.m., Fridays.

Closing Dates for Ottawa Exhibition

Ottawa — The Central Canada Exhibition Association has reminded exhibitors that the closing date for entries in four main divisions of the Ottawa Exhibition has been set for August 6.

This closing date applies to Junior Agriculture, Agricultural and Horticultural Products, Dairy and other Food Products, and Highland Dancing.

Entries for classes in any of these divisions must be sent in before 9 p.m. August 6. Prize lists and entry forms may be obtained in the interim from the C.C.E.A. offices, Lansdowne Park, Ottawa.

Close to 350 farm boys and girls from Eastern Ontario and Western Quebec will participate in the Junior Agriculture Department of the Ottawa Exhibition, to be held at Lansdowne Park commencing August 20.

A three-day program of educational events, judging competitions and entertainment will be provided by the Central Canada Exhibition for the youngsters.

While in Ottawa, the boys and girls will be provided with accommodation and meals by the C.C.E.A., which is also paying 50 per cent of transportation costs for those living beyond 40 miles from the City.

Entries are to be made through the county agricultural representatives.

The boys and girls while in Ottawa will at all times be under the personal supervision of Camp Supervisors. The program for the junior farmers covers three days, August 20-22.

British Schoolboys On 12-Day Tour

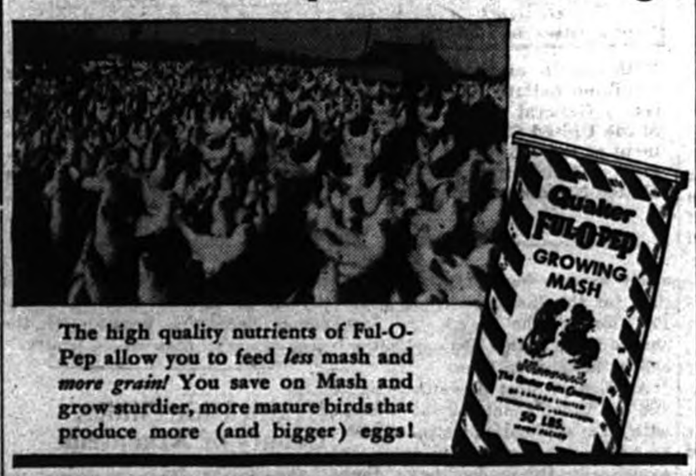

Montreal — When the Cunard liner Ascania arrives here August 11 not the least excited of her 700 passengers will be a party of British schoolboys who, in a swiftly-paced 12-day tour, will see for themselves how Canadians work, play and live.

The boys, selected from grammar schools in London, Bradford, Birmingham and Glasgow, are coming to Canada under the auspices of the W. H. Rhodes' Canada Educational Trust. The project was founded in 1938 by W. H. Rhodes, C.B.E., a leading British industrialist, to help give British schoolboys a better understanding of Canada and its people. The present tour is the first since 1939. Mr. Rhodes is travelling with the party on this tour.

Besides their benefactor, the boys this year will be accompanied by two school-teachers and Dr. H. S. Mackintosh, member of the Trust's Board of Management and Director of Education for Glasgow.

Tours of historic, industrial and scenic sites have been arranged for the youthful visitors in Quebec, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto and Niagara Falls. The boys will also spend four days at Camp Wanapitei, just north of North Bay, Ont., where the British youngsters will live and play with Canadian boys.

Six Simple Questions For Securing Pension

By answering six simple questions on a simple form, persons now 69½ years old will begin receiving an old age pension of $40 monthly towards the end of January, 1952.

Health and Welfare officials said Tuesday applications by those 69½ and over, not now receiving pensions, require:

1. Full name and address.
2. Name of husband or wife, if married.
3. Place of birth, with date of entry in Canada if born outside this country.
4. Date of birth. For many this will be the most difficult question, because proof is required. Birth or baptismal certificates are the best, but any other available documents should be offered if these are not at hand.
5. Details of residence by city, town, village or post office in Canada, from birth to December, 1931, and addresses of employers from December, 1931, to the present, in and outside Canada, are required.
6. The names and addresses of two persons, not members of the applicant's family, with knowledge of the facts of residence, are required.

The application form may be obtained from post offices. When completed it is sent to the Regional Director of Old Age Security, Department of National Health and Welfare, to the capital of the province in which the applicant resides, that is, Quebec City for those residing in this province.

No new application has to be made by those now receiving old age pensions.

DEVELOPING CATTLE

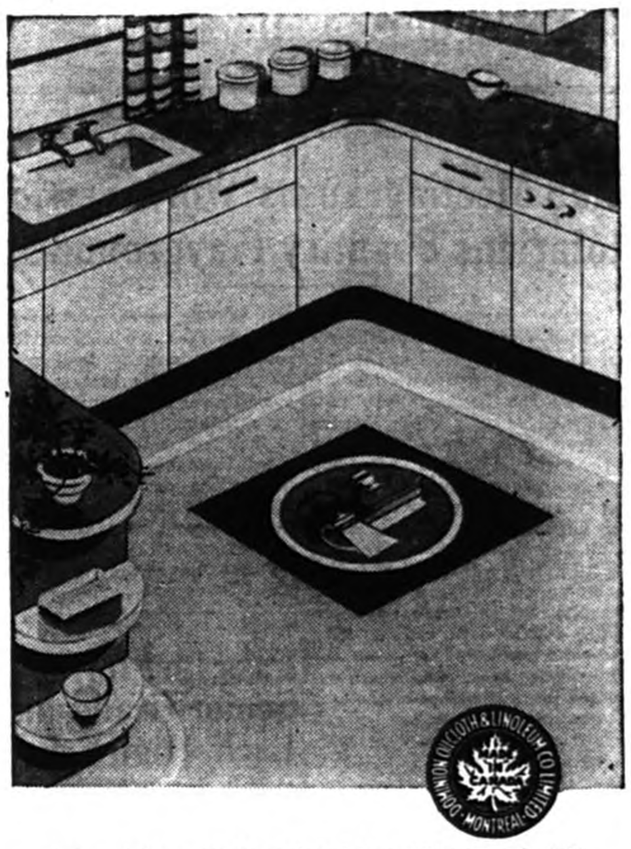

St. John's, Nfld. (CP) — The cattle shortage noted in parts of Newfoundland will be relieved to some extent through co-operation of the International Grenfell Association at St. Anthony. Cattle will be selected from their herd of high-class Holsteins to fill in deficient herds.

FATAL DIET

Montreal (CP)—"Hex", the robin found and adopted by the boys of the Phi Kappi Phi fraternity, died a victim of over-eating. All the boys and scores of sympathizers contributed worms — too many worms for Hex.

Good Old Summertime

FOR GENERATIONS the song, "In the Good Old Summertime", has been popular. . . Inhabitants of northern countries such as ours appreciate the summertime all the more because it is relatively short. In more favored climates, California for instance, the summer months cannot mean so much.

For most of us Canadians, summer is a real holiday even though we may be unable to get away from our regular work. For a couple of months anyway we are divorced from the onerous chore of shovelling coal and emptying ashes. Little jobs like mowing the lawn or weeding the garden seem pleasant in comparison.

Canadian summer is out-of-doors time. Picnics, sports days, week-ends at the lake and homes open wide to the elements are among the features of the season.

Summer is holiday time for many, and no doubt this is the best season to get away from it all. More and more business places in this country are closing up completely for a couple of weeks to give employees a holiday. Even retail stores are beginning to follow this practice, which is becoming common in the case of factories, warehouses and offices. Being closed for two weeks in the summer, oddly enough, does not seem to cut down on the volume of business. Rather, by giving management and employees a rest, more is accomplished, and more efficiently, than under the old staggered holiday system.

For each individual, summer holidays should mean a complete change. It is a good thing to get away from one's customary haunts, see something of the rest of the country, meet new people, do new things. Surprising how new contacts and new scenes give a person new ideas and something new to think about and talk about.

If one must have a stay-at-home holiday, the thing to do is change one's whole routine. A pleasant holiday can be spent right here in our home town, but only if the holidayer gets away from doing the things he ordinarily would do during his usual work week. A schedule for holidays should include sleeping in each morning, staying up past bedtime each night, eating when one feels like it, doing some of the things one hasn't had time for because of the demands of work. Following a changed routine, will prove a real rest.

For school youngsters, summertime is synonymous with freedom. Camps and vacation schools to organize the free time of youngsters during the summer vacation, can be carried too far. Children need a change, just as adults do. The best part of the long summer holiday, if you remember your own childhood, was the freedom from having to do anything in particular. Perhaps that's just bad child psychology, but for the kids it can be fun.

Summertime in Canada is a wonderful season. We never lose the zest for summer living because we never have too much of it.

ANNOUNCEMENT of the Royal visit has created a stir of excitement all across the country when a lift was needed in the face of darkening war clouds and the restrictions on personal living — states the Sackville (N.B.) Tribune-Post.

Hope springs eternal in the human breast:
Man never is, but always to be, blest. — Pope

Safer in the Car

IF YOU are driving along the highway when an electrical storm approaches, and you seek a nice safe place to stay until the storm passes, just take the advice of experts and stick right in the driver's seat — says the Chatham News.

The Bureau of Standards tells us that automobiles are practically immune to lightning despite the fact that rubber tires and the car as a whole become very wet during a storm.

The average motorist is probably safer in his car during an electrical storm than in his home. There are few cases on record of autos being struck by lightning. And this is rather remarkable when you stop to consider the hundreds of thousands of cars out in electric storms. . . . One observation may be added. If you choose to stay in your car, do not park it under a tree or other high object which may attract lightning.

Your Wardrobe

THE PEOPLE who compile statistics have been at it again — says that bright little trade leaflet, "Ediphone Voice Writing" . . . This time they've been peering into the closet of the much-surveyed Mr. Average Canadian. Mr. A.C., we're told, owns four suits, 11 shirts, 22 ties and three pairs of shoes, the lucky fellow. He also prefers white shirts to stripes and loathes tartan jackets.

He dislikes individualistic neckties. We presume the word individualistic is the statisticians' diplomatic way of describing one of those sunset-over-Bikini jobs. Our friend A.C. doesn't take too kindly to bow ties, either.

The survey also dredged up the astounding information that Mr. A.C. buys a suit because he needs a suit. It seems that he doesn't care a hoot about keeping up with Mr. Jones, nor does he ache to go shopping for the thrill of it all. He buys a hat every two years. Just when it has acquired that lovable, lived-in look.

Stale Crop Reports

COMMENTING on a fruit and vegetable crop report that took nearly three weeks to tabulate and distribute, The Financial Post observes:

"Few things are more perishable than a regional crop report and especially a preliminary one dealing with fruit and vegetables. If they are to have any value to growers, merchants and consumers, they must be fresh, collected, processed and distributed if possible in a matter of hours or at most, days.

"If provincial governments cannot handle such reports as speedily as that then they would be wise to leave this job to someone else and concentrate on final returns after the crops are in and the situation is more or less static. Distribution of stale crop reports merely wastes the taxpayers' money and clutters the mails."

ROUND ABOUT this time of year, holiday pleasure is marred by accidents, many of which need not have happened. Care and courtesy on the highways, and a knowledge of the fundamental rules of water safety, can save many lives.

Adventures in Politeness

Politeness got a big setback when it was found that if you hold a door open, where a crowd is passing in and out, the crowd will keep on passing in and out until quitting time, and never notice you, except perhaps to complain with an eyebrow if you don't hold the door open far enough. Or if you happen to be driving a car and stop to let another car get into a line, all the cars behind that one, for a day's march back, will come right along and move in ahead of you as though they had rights. The exhilaration of being so much superior to others that you can afford to help them, is soon lost after a few experiences of this kind.

But it is possible to obtain the pleasure of helping others without being put into a snit. One part of the trick is to expect nothing of humans. After all, they are just recently up from the primordial slime and have come a long way towards decency, considering who their folks were. If you encounter one really considerate human in a hundred, one who thanks you without hope of a rate or working up to selling you something, consider yourself away ahead in the day's adventures.

The other part of the trick in making an adventure out of politeness is not to be going anywhere, especially not in a hurry. Holding a store door open can be amusing if you consider that a cop might tell you to move on if you were just standing there doing nothing. By holding the door open while everybody crowds past you, there are opportunities for feeling friendly and looking useful, while actually you are just standing there outside the store in the blessed open air, a loafer who has fooled the cops.

As for letting a whole line of cars get in ahead of you: shutting off your motor and sitting back comfortably, you can stay parked there in the midst of the traffic, parked illegally and yet not likely to get arrested for it, holding up all the line of tooting cars behind you, while having the kindly satisfaction of letting others move into line ahead of you. Someone among the soft-bodied creatures in their steel shells on wheels may even wave you thanks. But even without this you do not lose, for you were not planning to go anywhere, anyway, and you were in no hurry to get there.

"THINGS AN' STUFF"

— By —
WALTER HENRY JACKSON

Have you heard this one? I mean lately? It appears that one day a tramp asked a farmer if he could sleep in the farmer's barn. The farmer consented, and the following morning entered the barn to get some hay for the cows and was surprised to find the tramp asleep, not in the hay, but on the floor of the barn with his head resting on a short length of cement drainpipe. The tramp awoke at this moment and the farmer asked him what was the big idea. "I always like a high pillow", replied the tramp. "You must have found it mighty hard", said the farmer. "Yes", said the tramp, "but I soon fixed that. I got up and stuffed it with hay".

The following winter the tramp returned and asked the farmer if he could work for his board and a place to sleep during the cold months. He claimed to be useful with horses and was not afraid of work. The farmer agreed, and told him to hitch a horse to a single sleigh early next morning to haul some wood. Next morning it was still dark at 6 a.m. and the farmer went out to the barnyard expecting to find the horse harnessed to the sleigh. There was no sign of the horse nor the tramp. "Where are you?" the farmer shouted. "In the stable", came a reply. "I can't get the collar over the horse's head because both his ears are frozen".

"Come out of that, you darn fool", shouted the farmer. "You're in the cow-stable!"

I read a book once called "What's Funny and Why". The book said that there was no such thing as a new joke. So let's try and find some old ones that have not been done to death. Do you like jokes? I've got millions of 'em!

Be seein' ya!

DRILLERS FIND WRONG LIQUID

Elrose, Sask. (CP) — Oil exploration crews came up against a different kind of problem recently.

A seismographic crew struck several water wells while doing exploratory work on a farmer's land.

All the wells overflowed and the water wouldn't stop pouring out.

The crew dumped 140 bags of cement into the most troublesome well, but at last report, water was still seeping out and there's a good-sized lake on the crop land.

PATIENTS' STOMACHS REVEAL ODD OBJECTS

Montreal (CP) — Notre Dame Hospital has a unique collection of curious objects taken from patients' stomachs.

The collection includes screws, pins, nails, coppers, fish hooks, brooches, bobbypins and silver crucifixes. Every one has been taken to remove a potential danger to somebody's health — often to save a life.

Notre Dame possesses the first French Canadian broncho-oesophagology and larynx surgery section headed by Dr. V. Latraverse. Patients come to it from all parts of Canada and the United States.

An Easy Start

A modern insurance plan—the Great-West Life's graduated Premium policy — will enable you to carry adequate protection right from the start. You pay only half the usual premium for the first year, with gradual annual increases until you are paying the full premium from the fifth year on. If you are faced with restriced income or unusually high expenses for the next few years, the Graduated Premium policy is the answer to your needs. Let me explain this special plan to you.

TREMAINE — To Mr. and Mrs. A. Richard Tremaine (née Betty Albright), at the Ste. Croix Hospital, Drummondville, on July 29, 1951, a son. Both well.

DEATH

BORDEN — July 21, 1951, at the residence of her son, James M. Borden, 3 Layton Apts., 830 Corydon Ave., Winnipeg, Margaret Borden, widow of the late William Osgood Borden, formerly of Brandon, Man., aged 89. Funeral in Winnipeg, burial in family plot at Brandon, Man.

IN MEMORIAM

BROWN — In loving memory of our beloved son, Gerald, who was accidentally killed Aug. 1, 1948. — Mother, Dad, sister and brothers.

"We are always together in memory's lane,
Not just today, but tomorrow the same
Wherever we go, whatever we do,
Our thoughts, dear Gerald, are always with you."

BROWN — In memory of our beloved brother, Gerald, who was accidentally killed Aug. 1, 1948. — Sadly missed by Lila and Verne.

"In memory always a daily thought,
In heart a secret sorrow —
In silence, we remember."

MacRAE — In loving memory of our dear son, Reg, who passed away Aug. 5, 1949.—Sadly missed, Mom and Dad.

"Down through the gates of memories
Two years ago today
Our thoughts go to the one we love,
Who is never far away.
We do not need a special day
To think of you, our son,
For always in your parents' hearts
Every day is one;
And though the years are dimming our eyes
We clearly see your face,
With tender smile and look of youth
The years cannot erase."

MacRAE — In loving memory of our dear brother and uncle, Reg, who died Aug. 5, 1949. — Always remembered, Marion Campbell, Rae and Bonnie.

"To be with us, in the same old way,
Would be our dearest wish today.
There is a place in our hearts
no one else can fill,
We miss you, Reg, and always will."

PAINTER — In loving memory of a dear mother, who passed away Aug. 5, 1950. — Ever remembered by Al and Nan.

Wed Saturday at Montreal West

Wilson - Allen

The marriage of Barbara Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Allen, of Montreal West, to Mr. John Ewen Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Wilson, of Lachute, took place Saturday at two o'clock in the United Church, Montreal West, the Rev. E. C. Knowles officiating. Mrs. Robert Bell, organist of Trinity Church, Sherbrooke, aunt of the bride, played during the signing of the register. The church was decorated with gladioli, delphinium and hydrangea.

The bride, given away by her father, was in a floor-length gown of white French lace over taffeta fashioned with a fitted bodice, having a high neckline and long sleeves, and a bouffant skirt. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held by a coronet of orange blossoms and she carried a semi-cascade bouquet of baby sweetheart roses, heather and bouvardia.

Miss Marjorie Hanson, of Coaticook, Que., as maid of honor, wore a floor-length frock of green nylon marquisette over taffeta with a bandeau of flowers, and carried a semi-Colonial bouquet of multi-colored carnations.

Mr. John Giles, of Lachute, acted as best man for Mr. Wilson and ushers were Mr. Donald Wilson, of Lachute, and Mr. Keith Wilson, of Montreal, brothers of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Allen, the bride's mother, was in a gown of navy blue sheer with a grey hat, and wore a corsage bouquet of pink roses and bouvardia.

Mrs. Wilson, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gown of dusty pink chiffon with a hat of matching Italian mohair and accessories of the same color, and a corsage bouquet of delphinium and bouvardia.

Local Couple Married At St. George's Church

Bedard - Johnstone

On Saturday, July 28, at 4 o'clock p.m., St. George's Anglican Church, Brownsburg, was the scene of a very pretty wedding, solemnized by the Rev. C. R. Lang, between Barbara Dawn, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Johnstone, of Brownsburg, and Frank, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Bedard, of Lachute.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked charming in white nylon marquisette with a fingertip veil of tulle. She carried a bouquet of salmon-pink gladioli.

The maid of honor, Miss Clarice Mason, of Brownsburg, wore pale peach nylon marquisette with hat and gloves to match, and carried pink and mauve gladioli. The two bridesmaids, Miss Marjorie Vowles, of Brownsburg, and Miss Sylvia Thomson, of Noranda, Que., wore identical gowns of nylon marquisette in pale green and pale mauve, respectively. They wore matching hats and gloves and carried bouquets of pink and mauve gladioli.

The groom's attendant was his brother, Mr. Roy Bedard, of Lachute, while Mr. Paul Ingram, of Ottawa, and Mr. Douglas Gordon, of Lachute, acted as ushers.

During the signing of the register Mrs. Keith Rutherford sang "Because", accompanied by Mrs. Norman Sommers as organist.

Following the marriage, a reception for the guests was held in the Legion Hall in Brownsburg, where the bride's mother received in a gown of smoky blue crepe and lace, with navy accessories. She wore a corsage of pink and mauve sweet peas. Also receiving was the groom's mother, in navy blue sheer, with matching navy and white accessories. She wore a corsage of white carnations.

Following the reception, the bride and groom left from the bride's home on an extended motor trip through Ontario and the United States. For the honeymoon trip the bride wore a stunning suit of light rust gabardine with a small white hat and white gloves, matching shoes, and a bag of natural leather. Her corsage was of Talisman roses.

On their return the bride and groom will reside in Lachute.

Of Bugs and Beetles and God's Moving Creatures

"Sunnyacres Sketches" — By Margaret Cook

Lady-like readers of either sex should not waste their time on this article, as we feel that it is going to be mostly about life in general and bug life in particular. . .

The presence of a horntail on the shoulder of a guest started us on a quest for information about the world of the tiny creatures all about us. We are indebted to an issue of "Canadian Nature" magazine for a very interesting story of the horntail and its opposite number, the megarrhyssa; and to Frank Lutz's book, "Field Book of Insects". To these we are indebted for recent and particular information. But our general interest we owe to Edwin Way Teale, naturalist, writer and photographer, whose delightful books are among our most precious possessions. For readers unacquainted with this author, we recommend as a beginning "Dune Boy", a biography of Teale's boyhood.

Let us begin with the common Lady-bird, the little orange bug with black spots often found in late winter, sunning itself on the living-room window, when we joyfully cry "A lady-bird! Spring must be coming". If there are children in the house, they are apt to burst into the nursery rhyme:

"Lady-bird, lady-bird, fly away home,
Your house is on fire, your children all gone,
All except one and her name is Ann,
And she crept into the pudding-pan."

This, says Lutz, has reference to the fact that lady-birds eat the aphids or lice that infest hops, which, in turn, are vital to the making of some kinds of beer. After the harvest the hop-vines are burned, causing much loss of life among the lice and incidentally among the larvae of the lady-bird. Why "lady-bird"? That's easy. Grateful peasants dedicated this helpful creature to the Virgin, i.e., Our Lady.

And now to the horntail, which, because of bands of yellow on the abdomen, is often mistaken by the nervous for a wasp. A person sitting in a wooden chair outdoors may often find himself sharing it with this creature. If the person is female and city-bred, she generally shrieks and is half way across the lawn before Mrs. Horntail has decided that this wood is too dead for her purpose and has gone elsewhere. For the winged lady has no intentions as regards the wingless one. Her whole being is intent on finding a suitable tree in which to deposit her eggs. Finally she does find a tree which suits, and with her ovipositor, like a fine needle, she bores and bores again. At last, weakened by her exertions, she is unable to withdraw the ovipositor and becomes a tiny, paper-like corpse attached to the tree. From the eggs so deposited, hatch wood-borers, which work back and forth in the wood making the the little canals so familiar to any wood-cutter. When the adult horntail emerges from its woody home, it leaves small holes in the bark of the trees. These look like holes that might have been punched by a pencil. The big holes are made by the females, the little ones by the males.

Obviously, if this were to go on indefinitely and without check, we should soon have no trees. So the Creator in His infinite wisdom, made the Megarhyssa. This creature is built something like a dragon-fly but rejoices in a long "tail" at least twice as long as itself and as big around as a fine needle. With this, it can penetrate the bark of any tree, but it is interested only in those trees that have the larvae of the horntail, described above. How it knows which trees harbor the pests is a mystery. Naturalists admit they have no idea. But know, it does, and proceeds to deposit ITS eggs where they will do the most good, i.e., on top of the infant horntail. When the Megarhyssa hatches out, it eats the horntail before it, in turn, emerges into the outer world. Thus does nature keep the balance.

To turn to something more pleasant — everyone knows and loves the fire-fly or lightning-bug. Its Latin name is, appropriately, Lampyridae. "In some species", says Lutz, "all stages are luminous, including the eggs". He goes on to explain that the light is caused by combining oxygen with a substance within the beetle, named luciferin. Another substance called luciferase saves the creature from being burned up by its own light. Interesting as this is, we feel that the little winged light needs no explanation. It is enough that it is here to gladden our summer evenings. Last night they were flickering about in the shadows, while on the horizon, the northern lights stretched long yellowy - green fingers toward the zenith. Over all was the scent of roses and pines. Even a raucous "Alouette" from the hotel a mile away could not mar our content.

One more bettle and we are finished; and a bettle, we would have you know, is a "bug" whose wings are hard and meet at the middle of the back forming a fine line called a suture. That is, when a bettle is picked up or accidentally lodges upon one, he feels hard, not squashy. . . So, now we come to the Tiger beetle, that handsome metallic-green bug one sees revelling in the dust of hot sandy roads. Nowhere, in the books of reference we have here, can we find why this beautiful bronzy-green beetle is called Tiger, but we suspect it is something unpleasant. The color, however, is magnificent. It has long been a mental hobby to imagine new dress colors named from the natural things around. A bettle-green taffeta, for instance; or a blueberry blue made up in velvet; or a crepe-de-chine in that soft, lovely Jo-Piweed pink!

Besides beetles, we have had an adventure with a chipmunk that Haile proudly brought to us. We thought it was dead, but when we picked it up there was a slight flutter at one side, so we put it upstairs in a berry-basket placed in a cool and breezy window. Ten minutes later, we crept up to find Mr. Chipmunk running frantically about looking for an outlet. It was funny to see him run up the bars of a brass bed, race along the top and down the other end. Betty caught him several times, but he always crept out between her fingers or sank his needle-like teeth in her hand so that she dropped him. Finally, we opened a window and he ran out on the roof of the porch but did not seem able to jump to a neighboring tree. So he spent an hour on the roof, during which time he was observed to curl himself up in a circle with his brush over the eyes, much like a cat. The head of the house took pity on him and placed a ladder against the porch, and quick as a flash, the little chipmunk ran down it and disappeared into the grove — doubtless to tell his family of his terrible adventure!

When we are not "Beetling" we pick berries, or walk over the hills, or swim. The swimming, for some reason, is particularly good, the water soft on the skin and not too cold, the sands firm and golden, the sky blue above us. After a half hour in the water, how good the tea tastes, even out of a thermos. . . How nice it is to be lazy!

Junior and the New Baby

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

"Mummy, can't you take the baby back to the hospital and leave her there?" asks Junior with all the candor of a four year old.

Mother may be horrified, or amused — but Junior isn't joking. He means what he says. His suggestion reveals to the alert mother that he is suffering from the pangs of jealousy. His voilent reaction to the strange situation of another child in the family is one of rejecting the new baby!

This emotion, which is not inherited, is much more common than parents realize. Often it is not recognized because it may take different forms. The jealous child is troubled by a sense of insecurity. He is eager to receive again the love and attention and understanding which used to be his and is now centred on the newcomer. Is it any wonder that a slap or pinch administered on the offending baby when no adult is present, appeals to the small child? He is in revolt against the "New Order!"

Sometimes the jealous child acts in a destructive fashion, breaking the younger child's toys. Occasionally jealousy will come out in strenuous "bids" for attention, such as showing-off, crying, being disobedient or even trying to be exceptionally good. Once in a while the jealous youngster will return to thumb-sucking or want a bottle of his own. A toilet-trained child may have "accidents" in the day time or wet his bed at night.

There are definite measures which help this adjustment to a bigger family circle. The older child should know about the baby's coming. He should be allowed to share in the preparations for the newcomer. Special provision should be made to re-assure him that he is loved while mother is away at the hospital.

Then when mother comes home, she needs to demonstrate her love for the older child. A little gift for him is a good idea. Don't let him feel left out, on the side lines while not only grandparents and other visitors, but his own daddy and mummy focus all their loving exclamations on the new baby!

Favoritism is fertile ground for jealousy so don't "play favorites" with the new infant! Parents must not show preferences nor allow relatives or friends to pick a favorite among the children.

The wise parent tries to forsee a possible unhappy situation on the horizon and prevent it from happening. Psychologists have found that jealousy is most common in the child who has been an only child for several years. His whole little world is changed with a brother's or sister's birth.

Both parents should realize that this period when the new baby arrives, is far from an easy one for the older brother or sister. Mother's time is very occupied with the care a small infant needs. Our grandmothers had a saying — "a baby can keep one woman busy!"

Thus it is very important that what little time Mother can spare for the older child should not be a scolding but a loving time — even if he seems "difficult!" Father, by giving the older child extra attention, by spending time with him and providing some unexpected treats, can help Junior readjust to a different situation in the home circle.

Jealousy is a dangerous feeling, if by punishment or shaming a child, it is repressed below the surface. Unfortunately, many adults, instead of bringing their child's jealous attitude out into the open, have blamed themselves and their youngster for what they consider an unhealthy feeling. Parents can best help Junior, who feels hostile to the new baby, by re-assuring him of their love and believing that this is a phase which he will outgrow.

Japan to Import Canadian Grain

The Japanese Ministry of International Trade and Industry has announced the importation of goods valued at approximately $90 million. The list of products to be purchased includes 40,000 tons of rice from Egypt, 150,000 tons of wheat and barley from the United States and Canada, and 90,000 tons of sugar from Cuba. Provision has also been made for the importation of crude oil, raw cotton, manganese ore, leaf tobacco, iron and steel products, ocean-going vessels and machinery.

German Industries Interested In Establishing in Canada

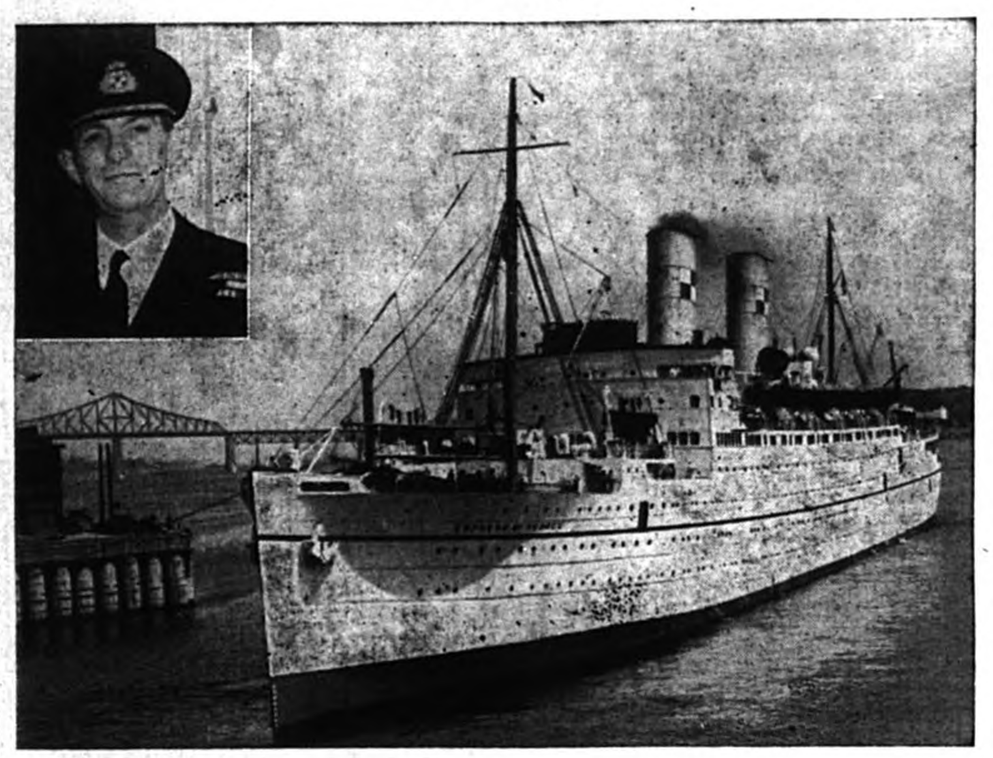

The interest of German firms in establishing branches in Canada or transferring their operations to this country is increasing. A total of 110 preliminary inquiries of this nature were received during the first half of 1951. A number of surveys were made in Canada and several firms have actually become established while others are continuing negotiations.

OVER-ANXIOUS

Montreal (CP) — A slight young man was sentenced to time in jail on a charge of impersonating a police officer. Judge Willie Proulx commented: "You should at least have waited until you got your diploma."

In the 1939-1949 period spending by Canada's municipal governments increased from $304 million to $621 million; provincial spending increased from $355 million to $865 million; federal government spending increased from $550 million to $2.5 billion.

To Carry Royal Couple

The 20,000-ton Canadian Pacific liner Empress of France, in regular service between Liverpool and Montreal, has been chosen to carry Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh to Canada for their tour of this country. Inset shows Captain B. B. Grant, a veteran of 32 years' service with Canadian Pacific Steamships, who holds the rank of Commodore in the Royal Navy Reserve, and who will be in command of the vessel on her historic voyage. Also to be aboard the ship on the trip are several company officers and men who attended King George and Queen Elizabeth on the Empress of Britain when they returned to the United Kingdom following their tour of Canada in 1939. The Empress will sail from Liverpool with the royal couple September 25, arriving at Quebec on October 1.

Boy Scouts The World Over

First Canadian Rover Moot

More than 400 Rover Scouts, (older Boy Scouts) from all sections of Canada, are expected to camp at Blue Springs Scout Reserve, near Acton, Ont. for the First Canadian Rover Moot, from August 31 to September 4. The Moot will be a "lightweight camping adventure".

Win First Place Award

The First Nelson, B.C., Boy Scout Troop recently won first prize in the West Kootenay Mines Safety Association junior first aid competition at Kaslo.

They'll Watch Them Grow!

For the second consecutive year, Boy Scouts of Halifax, N.S., recently planted 3,000 young Norway pine trees on the city's watershed property. City officials and the province's Department of Lands and Forests co-operated with the Scouts in the project.

Kimanis Honors B.C. Scouter

The 1951 Good Citizenship Award of the Richmond Kiwanis Club of Vancouver, has been presented to Area Scout Commissioner Jack White of Stevenston, B.C. Since helping to organize a Scout Troop in the Richmond Area in 1935, Mr. White has conducted a Scout camp every year, except two during World War II, and has not missed a Scout meeting during an eight-year period.

Scouts on Training Cruise

To help them earn their Coast Watchman and Pilot proficiency badges, 50 southern New Brunswick Boy Scouts recently went on a three-day training cruise on the M.V. "Connors Bros.". . . Camping ashore each night, the Scouts visited several Bay of Fundy islands and mainland points during their trip.

Cubs Honor Handless Child

Three months after he lost both hands from burns suffered when he touched a power line, six-year-old Johnny Page of St. Thomas, Ont., had a long-standing wish come true — he was made an honorary Wolf Cub — more than 100 Cubs and Scouts were on hand to welcome Johnny to Scouting, and to contribute to a silver collection for the Johnny Page benefit fund — now approaching $6,000.

Skunks and Eggs

(Owen Sound Sun-Times)

Fortunately skunks are kindly little creatures. Unlike many of the human family, they are given to minding their own business, if permitted to do so. Their deadly weapon is only for occasions of defence. And its potent qualities are testified to by the continually slow, indifferent manner in which Mr. and Mrs. Skunk and family move.

But these predators like eggs. They are particularly fond of pheasant and partridge eggs. Therefore, they can be regarded in great disfavor by sportsmen who don't care about the eggs but do like to kill what comes from those eggs later on.

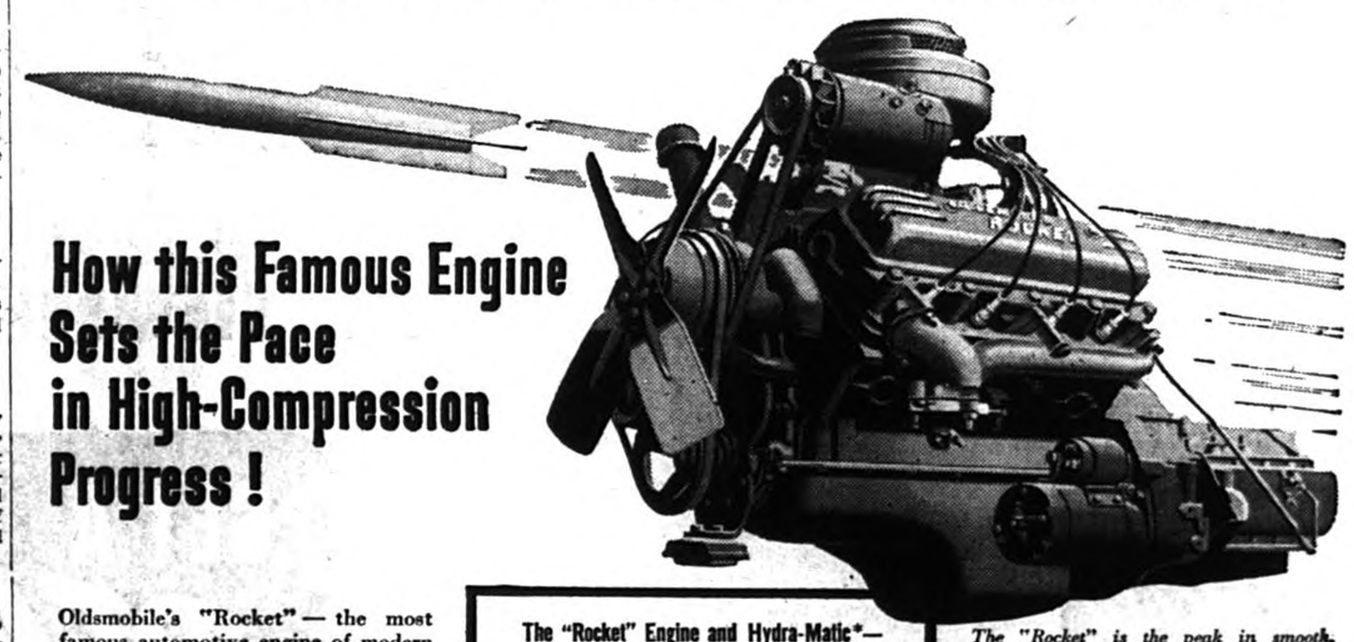

It is indeed unfortunate that so many of Nature's children for which men have a particular yen also are much desired by other members of Nature's family.

Labour income in Canada in the first three months of this year was $2,240,000,000, an increase of 16 per cent over 1950.

OLDSMOBILE'S "ROCKET"

How this Famous Engine Sets the Pace in High-Compression Progress!

Oldsmobile's "Rocket" — the most famous automotive engine of modern times—is now in its third triumphant year! Designed from the crankshaft out for true high-compression performance and economy, the "Rocket" incorporates such outstanding new features as overhead valve, V-type design, a short, rigid 5-bearing crankshaft, hydraulic valve lifters—and many, many more!

For 1951, the new high-turbulence combustion chamber and carburetor give greater gas savings, a new distributor means even more efficient high-compression operation.

This new "Rocket" Engine has become the most-talked-about power unit in Canada! That's why the striking "Rocket" symbol on the hood of the Oldsmobile "88" or "98" marks it as one of the world's most advanced motor cars!

The "Rocket" Engine and Hydra-Matic*—
AN UNBEATABLE PARTNERSHIP!

Fully proved — constantly improved — Hydra-Matic still leads the way! Back in 1939, Oldsmobile pioneered Hydra-Matic, the first fully automatic transmission. Since then, advancement after advancement has been built into Hydra-Matic, culminating in the 1951 version with Instant Reverse.

Today, when you get behind the wheel of a "Rocket" powered Hydra-Matic Oldsmobile, you experience a superlatively smooth drive . . . a no-clutch drive that gives you positive response. That's because Hydra-Matic is the perfect partner for "Rocket" Engine Power! It's a team that puts the "Rocket" Oldsmobile years ahead—and puts Oldsmobile owners years ahead, too. See your Oldsmobile dealer!

Hydra-Matic Drive is optional at extra cost*

The "Rocket" is the peak in smooth, flashing, economical power! New combustion chamber design for greater gas savings—new extra size carburetor—extra large intake valves—new starting motor and damp-proof wiring harness—new air cleaner and intake silencer—short, rigid 5-bearing crankshaft—hydraulic valve lifters—auto-thermic pistons.

"Rocket" Means Performance!
The "Rocket", first of all, is famous for its eager power! It has proven itself a performance leader on hills and highways, over boulevards and backroads all across the country.

"Rocket" Means Economy!
Operating on gas available everywhere today, the "Rocket" will give more "go" on less gas. Its high-compression gas-saving qualities continue to amaze new Oldsmobile owners.

"Rocket" Means Durability!
A "Rocket 88" Oldsmobile took first place in the gruelling Mexican Durability Run. The "Rocket" can truly stand on its record for outstanding dependability plus rugged durability.

"Rocket" Means Oldsmobile!
The "Rocket" engine is only part of Oldsmobile's leadership in every phase of motor car manufacture. See and drive "Rocket" Engine Oldsmobile—the all-time great Super "88" or the glamorous "98".

Low - Gordon Wedding at Lachute United Church

The marriage of Bernice, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie B. Gordon, to Robert Keith Low, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Low, of Brownsburg, took place at the Lachute United Church on Friday evening, July 27, at seven o'clock.

The Rev. W. B. Rosborough officiated and Mr. J. F. Gorman played the organ. The church was decorated with gladioli and summer flowers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by her sister, Miss Jean Gordon. Mr. Sterling Hodge was best man and the ushers were Mr. Robert Gordon, brother of the bride, and Mr. Hal Phillips, of Montreal.

The bride wore a white summer-weight gabardine suit, white petal hat and white accessories, and she carried a bouquet of yellow gladioli.

The bridesmaid was in a suit of orchid gabardine and white accessories, and carried a bouquet of variegated sweet peas.

Mrs. Gordon, mother of the bride, wore a navy blue sheer dress with navy accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses. Mrs. Low, mother of the groom, was wearing a navy dress with grey accessories, and a corsage of Talisman roses.

Crown Theatre Opens at Brownsb'g Next Thursday

Brownsburg — The Crown Theatre (the former Capitol, under new management) will re-open after renovations and modernization, next Thursday, August 9, with an attractive program.

Leading picture for the opening double-feature show is "The Guy Who Came Back", with Paul Douglas and Joan Bennett — a new-issue film rated highly by the critics.

Programs will be published weekly in The Watchman.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

Vacation Bible School At Baptist Church

The Annual Vacation Bible School of Lachute Baptist Church will begin on Monday morning, August 6, at 9.30 o'clock and continue through to Friday, August 17.

An interesting program has been planned, of illustrated Bible stories, film strips, handicraft and memory work, with lots of good singing. All boys and girls of the town and surrounding districts will receive a hearty welcome.

At Christ Church, Mille Isles, Que.

Mille Isles — A congregational meeting was held at Christ Church, Mille Isles, last Friday, and it was decided to have the complete exterior and roof of the church painted as soon as possible. Discussion took place as to amalgamation of the Anglican and Presbyterian cemeteries to form one Protestant cemetery in Mille Isles, but the rector felt the group present was too small to vote on such an important matter. It was therefore left in abeyance.

Guest Preacher, Singers, At Lachute Baptist

Pastor Harold Charlton, of the Baptist Church at Orangeville, Ont., will be guest preacher at the Lachute Baptist Church this Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

Pastor and Mrs. Grant Wright, of Hamilton, Ont., gifted gospel singers, will be heard in several selections at the evening service at 7.30; Pastor Britton will be the preacher.

All members and friends are urged to attend these services.

Flying Club Trainees Qualify for Licenses

Hawkesbury —

Aeronautic training at the Hawkesbury Flying Club has increased during the past year, and this year to date nine members have successfully completed their tests and examinations to qualify for their Private Pilot's license under the Government Subsidy Training Plan. The members who have received their licenses are as follows — E. Kelly, W. J. Thompson, E. Reid, S. Ross, R. Berniky, R. J. Blain and G. Tessier, all of Hawkesbury, L. J. Conway, of Chute à Blondeau, and F. Gale, of Montebello.

Under the Government Training Plan, a student who completes the course of 30 hours flying training and ground school, and passes the necessary tests, will receive a grant of $100; and any person who is a Canadian citizen, 18 years of age or over, is eligible for the training providing he or she can pass the medical examination and he or she has not previously received any flying training in the Armed Forces, nor held any form of civil pilot's license.

The Club extends a welcome to visitors to see the aerodrome, and those wishing to take preliminary flights will be accommodated whenever possible.

Colorful Fruit Salads

What could be more colorful or have more eye appeal than a fruit salad? When anyone is completely worn out or seems to be lacking in appetite, a fruit salad will usually tempt them. For Canadian Salad Week the home economists of the Consumer Section at Ottawa did considerable experimental work on suggestions for salads for Canadian homes. After all their salad recipes were made and tested, it was decided to have pictures taken of all these wonderful dishes! Perhaps the most colorful of the salads were the fruit ones. Right now raspberries, cherries, melons and some peaches and plums are available. These are the fruits which Mrs. Housewife should plan to use as the basis for fruit salads this week, and of course, fresh fruit salads should be served not only this week but every week as long as the season lasts.

Generally fruit salads are very low in calories, so if any member of the family is watching his waist line, the dessert problem may be solved with a fruit salad. However, this type of salad does not necessarily have to be the dessert course. It may be the main course or the appetizer. If the salad is to be the main course, it should be accompanied by a filling food such as cottage cheese, cream cheese, or peanut butter, while the appetizer should tease the appetite for the food which is to follow, so here the combination of fruits should be light and tart.

These are two recipes for fruit salads from the Consumer Section:

Cherry - Cottage Cheese Salad

2½ Cups pitted and halved sweet cherries, 1 cup cottage cheese, lettuce or watercress, salad dressing or mayonnaise.

Mix the cherries and the cottage cheese. Serve on shredded lettuce or watercress. Garnish with salad dressing and serve well chilled. This recipe will serve six people. Incidentally, if cherries are not available raspberries or strawberries may be used as a substitute in this salad. When it is served with buttered toast, hot muffins, or tea biscuits it makes an ideal luncheon salad.

Frozen Fruit Perfection

1 Package cream cheese (4 oz.), dash of salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, ½ cup salad dressing or mayonnaise, 1 cup whipping cream, 1 cup sliced peaches, 1 cup diced cantaloupe.

Mash the cheese with a fork and beat until smooth. Add salt, sugar, and blend with salad dressing. Whip the cream and fold into the cheese mixture. Add the sliced peaches and the diced cantaloupe and pour into a freezing tray and freeze until firm. Serve on crisp lettuce. This recipe will yield six to eight servings.

Choose Kitchen Utensils With Discrimination

Pots and pans, cookie sheets, casseroles, measuring cups and egg beaters are the tools of the homemaker just as a hammer and nails are the tools of the carpenter. As a homemaker you should choose your kitchen tools just as carefully as any craftsman.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture tell us that there are three things which should be considered before it is decided which pot or pan or other utensil is to be bought for the home. First of all, is it durable and sturdy and will it stand up to the wear it will be given? Secondly, is it convenient to use and care for? Thirdly, is it suitable for the type of cooking which will be done in it? It is always wise to remember that buying pans of good quality is an economy rather than an extravagance. On the other hand, it may be sheer extravagance to pay top price for pans which are seldom used. The appearance of the utensil and the descriptive label may, to some extent, denote its quality but, if the homemaker is familiar with the characteristics of the different materials used for utensils it is much easier to decide which utensil to choose.

There will be a saving both in money and storage space if a utensil may be utilized for several purposes rather than for just one purpose. Some homemakers prefer different types of utensils. For instance, one homemaker may have an iron frying pan, a glass baking dish, an aluminum roaster and enamel ware pots and pans, while the person living in the next home may have all aluminum or stainless steel utensils.

Today, in the stores, there is a great variety of cooking utensils from which to choose. The home economists of the Consumer Section at Ottawa say that they have no actual preference of material for cooking utensils but, they want to point out a few facts about each type.

Aluminum may be used for pots and pans of all types. Heavy and medium weight aluminum pans are very durable. Light weight aluminum ware is cheaper but is often too thin to stand up to daily use. If a pan is to be used daily it will pay to buy the heavy aluminum. However, for things such as jelly moulds, which are used only occasionally, the lighter weight will do. Though easily darkened by alkalies in foods and water, aluminum readily responds to cleaning with soap and water or a mild abrasive or a weak solution of household acid such as vinegar or lemon juice.

One of the newer materials, stainless steel, is now being used for utensils. As a utensil made entirely of stainless steel would tend to become too hot in spots, it is usually found that the bottoms are made of copper. The surface of enamel ware is really glass fused on to a steel base by firing at a high temperature. It is smooth, non-porous and easy to clean. Good quality enamel ware is resistant to acids and it is not readily marked by metal spoons as is the poorer quality. Quality in enamel ware depends on the number of coats of enamel and the thickness of the base. Treat enamel ware as you would treat glass, avoid sharp knocks and see that the utensils do not boil dry.

The unique advantage of heat resistant glass is its transparency in cooking. Foods may be seen without removing the cover and the hard smooth surface of glass ware is easy to keep clean. As there is a difference between top stove and oven glass ware it is important to use it only as directed.

There are two types of iron used for utensils, cast iron and sheet iron. The heavy frying pans and Dutch ovens are made of cast iron while such things as bread pans and cookie sheets are made of sheet iron. When cast iron frying pans or Dutch ovens have been seasoned by the manufacturer there is usually a sticker on the pan stating this. If they have not been seasoned the pan should be rubbed with unsalted fat and left in a warm oven for several hours before using for the first time.

Tin ware is iron or steel coated with tin. As it is not suitable for top stove use it is mainly used as ovenware.

Maybe you hadn't noticed, but that knockout Jersey Joe Walcott scored over Ezzard Charles to win the heavyweight boxing championship was the third such ring upset in little more than a week.

In London on July 10 Randolph Turpin of England won the middleweight title from Sugar Ray Robinson on a 15-round decision. Then, the next night in New York, ocky Marciano knocked out Rex Layne, who was rated as one of the up-and-coming young heavyweights.

Undoubtedly Charles was mighty disappointed at losing his crown to Walcott, rated a 5-1 underdog in the betting when he stepped into the Pittsburg ring. But just as crestfallen was former champion Joe Louis.

Just a few weeks before the Charles-Walcott match, Louis was listed in the National Boxing Association's quarterly ratings as the only logical contender for the title.

That meant that Joe — 37, as is Walcott and considered an old man in the fight game — was in line for a championship bout, tentatively put down for September.

Now there will be a return match between Charles and Walcott. As a result Louis will have to wait at least six months for a possible crack at the title he once held so ably. And a six months' wait for the Brown Bomber may dampen his chances considerably.

The N.B.A. listings were knocked for a loop soon after they were issued early this month.

As we mentioned, Louis was the only boxer in the heavyweight "logical contender" class. Walcott was put down with Layne as deserving only of the next lower ranking, "outstanding boxer".

Top Middleweight

Among the middleweights, Robinson — at that time the champion — was put in a class all by himself. The N.B.A. couldn't see a logical contender in sight.

Five days later Robinson considered by many the finest fighting machine in the business today, was dethroned by Turpin — who was ranked only in the "outstanding boxer" group.

Turpin, one of the hardest punchers developed in Britain in years, won the British title last October. In six fights this year before meeting Robinson, he scored six knockouts.

Randy, 23, is the first Englishman to wear the 160-pound crown since Bob Fitzsimmons, 60 years ago. He began boxing at 12 and won his first amateur title when he was 15.

Son of a Negro soldier from British Guiana who settled in England after the First World War, Randy comes from a real boxing family.

Brother Dick, now his trainer, was the first Negro to hold a British professional title. Until 1945 Negroes were barred for English championships. Another brother, 26-year-old Jackie is a featherweight.

Many Americans claim that Robinson, after exhibition fights in Europe, wasn't in tip-top shape for the bout. Whether Turpin is of real championship calibre will be answered in September when the two tangle in a return match in New York.

30-ft. Dam Considered, to Increase Pressure and Improve Water Supply

A proceeding at the August meeting of town council was a resolution authorizing the Mayor and Water Committee to engage an engineer to investigate the intake site of Lachute's water supply. As a result of irregular, sometimes inadequate pressure, and impurities in the water attributed to shallow depth at the head — the building of a dam 30 feet high is under consideration, to improve these conditions.

Services of an engineer are being engaged to establish the area of land which would be flooded by this project, to give some idea what liabilities would be incurred through such flooding.

Ald. Omer Laurin was appointed pro-Mayor for the ensuing three months.

There was little business of importance before the council. . . A block of seven apartments is now under construction at Mountain View; a building permit was granted to Tower Construction Company for this enterprise, also to Beamish Stores Ltd. for renovation of their store and frontage on Main Street.

The Lighting Committee was instructed to investigate the need of a light on Edwin Street at Hamelin, and to place the order with Gatineau Power Co'y if deemed necessary.

Mayor Jas. W. McGibbon presided. Members of the Council absent were Aldermen W. S. MacKimmie, J. Charlebois and E. Provost.

Author of Book on Amer. Education

Clifton L. Hall, B.A., Ph.D., a former principal of Lachute High School, is the co-author of a volume on "Documents of American Education", published recently by a New York firm.

Edgar W. Knight and C. L. Hall, who rate highly as authorities on American educational history, penned this volume jointly to make available to students and teachers original sources of this absorbing subject. Hitherto no such book has been available.

Dr. Knight, born in North Carolina in 1886, received his bachelor's and master's degrees from Trinity College and his Ph.D. at Columbia. He has held professorships in educational history at several American universities.

Dr. Hall was born in Quebec in 1898, received the B.A. from Bishops' College in 1921, the master's from McGill in 1932 and the master's from Columbia in 1941. He received the Ph.D. in educational history at the University of North Carolina in 1949, and since that time has been associate professor of educational history in the George Peabody College for Teachers. . . Dr. Hall has revisited several times in Lachute, where he was principal of the High School some years ago.

A review of the 756-page volume* states: "This book contains several hundred annotated documents of American education, selected from a mass of material that has been experimented with and tested in classes in courses in this subject at the University of North Carolina, Columbia University, and the University of Michigan. Effort has been made to select documents that are representative of the various historical periods and of the many aspects of education in the United States. Except for a brief preview of each section and occasional explanatory notes, the documents are intended to speak for themselves.

"The apparent recent revival of interest in educational and social history and the obvious increased emphasis on acquaintance with original sources in the teaching of history, should give significance to such a volume. Acquaintance with original sources has long been properly recognized as the foundation of all sound historical knowledge. Good practice in teaching history of whatever kind — educational, social, political, economic, or of other aspects — requires that students should have access to the documents."

* "Documents of American Education", Appleton-Century-Crofts publishers, of New York, $5.00.

New Que. Mineral Deposits Discovered; Commission on Duplessis Bridge Inquiry

By Richard Daignault

Quebec, Aug. 7 (CP) — First piece of business to be dealt with when the Quebec Legislature meets November 7 will be a bill to provide pensions for Quebec citizens aged 65 to 69.

Premier Duplessis announced the session date at his last press conference. He had indicated earlier that pensions legislation would come before the two houses of the Provincial Parliament.

Quebec's pensions law will supplement legislation already enacted by the Federal Parliament. This provides that the Federal Government will bear the full cost of $40 monthly pensions, without means test, for persons aged 70 and more. The Federal and Quebec Governments will share equally the cost of $40 monthly pensions for persons aged 65 to 69 with a means test.

The session starting November 7 will be the fourth of the 23rd Legislature and probably the last before general elections expected in 1952.

The late-autumn start of the session follows a 1950 pattern when the Legislature met in November to pass bills for the assistance of the fire-swept towns of Rimouski and Cabano.

Quebec's known mineral reserves were increased recently by discovery of iron, copper and gold deposits in the areas of Ungava and Chibougamau.

Premier Duplessis announced the discoveries during his press conference. He revealed the new iron ore deposits will be developed at an estimated cost of $80,000,000 by the Quebec Labrador Development Company.

The discovery was made 170 miles northwest of the vast iron ore deposits, blocked out in Ungava by the Hollinger North Shore Exploration Company.

In Chibougamau, Premier Duplessis said, 1,000,000 tons of copper and gold ore have been located by Campbell Chibougamau Mines Limited on Merrill Island, in Doré Lake.

Expenditure of "several million dollars" is planned by the company, which has informed the Quebec Mines Department of its plans to sink mine shafts to work the finds.

Barvue Mines Limited, which has rights to a recent zinc discovery in Barraute Township in northwestern Quebec, has signed a contract for electric power supplies from Quebec Hydro-Electric Commission, said the Premier, giving no details.

A two-man commission has been appointed to inquire into collapse of the $3,000,000 Duplessis Bridge at Three Rivers, which occurred on January 31 last. Premier Duplessis announced appointment of two Montrealers. They are Magistrate René Lippe, who will be chairman, and J. Lucien Dansereau, former Chief Engineer in Montreal for the Federal Works Department.

The Premier said an order-in-council, setting up the commission, instructs the commissioners to proceed without delay and to report their findings to the Lieutenant-Governor in Council within two months after the start of the inquiry. Additional time may be granted if recommended by the commissioners. Commission secretary will be Robert G. Clark, Three Rivers newspaper man.

Rotarians in Glasgow will be hosts to a dozen Canadian boys, members of the Canadian Training Corps, when they visit that city on August 15.

Valuable Cattle Imported Here

A carload of imported cattle reached here last week from Great Britain, representing a sizeable investment. True, only six of the animals, Registered Ayrshires, were consigned directly to Lachute — for J. H. Black, noted dairyman and stock breeder. Six others of this breed came to Lachute en route to the farm of S. Biggs, Dundas, Ont.; they are remaining here in care of Mr. Black for a week.

Three Dairy Shorthorns in the shipment are destined for Last Chance Ranch, Lake Placid, N.Y. —the proprietress, Mrs. Katherine Mills, and a neighbor, having purchased them from England. Before entry into the United States, however, these animals must remain 30 days on Canadian soil, in quarantine. They are accordingly in the care of Albert Stewart, local stock man, before proceeding on their journey. The Shorthorns are priced at $4,000 apiece; they are believed to be the most valuable cows of this breed exported to this side of the Atlantic.

M.L.A. to Officiate At School Fair

At a recent meeting of the School Fair executive, held in the office of Alex Bothwell, agronomist, the secretary, Mrs. Bazil Clark, announced that W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., had accepted an invitation to officially open the School Fair and Calf Show to be held in Lachute on Saturday, September 8.

The garden plots will be judged during the last two weeks of August, and a special prize of $5 is offered for the best plot. It is hoped that by Fair time arrangements will have been made for two trophies, to be awarded to the boy and girl respectively who receive the highest points for exhibits.

Unesco to Study Farm Radio Forum As 'Means of Mass Communication'

Canada's National Farm Radio Forum will shortly be the subject of an international inquiry — it is announced by Floyd Griesbach, National Secretary, from the Toronto headquarters.

The United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization — Unesco — has appropriated the sum of $16,000 for the purpose of conducting research into the structure and effectiveness of Farm Radio Forum as a means of mass communication.

The National Office of Farm Radio Forum received word to this effect from W. Farr, Acting Director of Mass Communication of Unesco.

Farm Radio Forum recently celebrated its 10th anniversary. The project makes use of radio, printed study material, small discussion groups, and reports from the small groups which are summarized and reported back to the groups.

A total of 30,000 people took part last year in nearly 1,500 discussion groups across Canada, which met each week during the winter months.

The project is sponsored jointly by the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, the Canadian Association for Adult Education, and the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Yugoslavia Repatriates Greek Children

In compliance with recommendations of the United Nations General Assembly, Yugoslavia has been repatriating to Greece a number of Greek children removed from their homeland during the post-war guerrilla struggle in that part of the world. With R.C.A.F. Band to Festival of Britain

(Our District Correspondent)

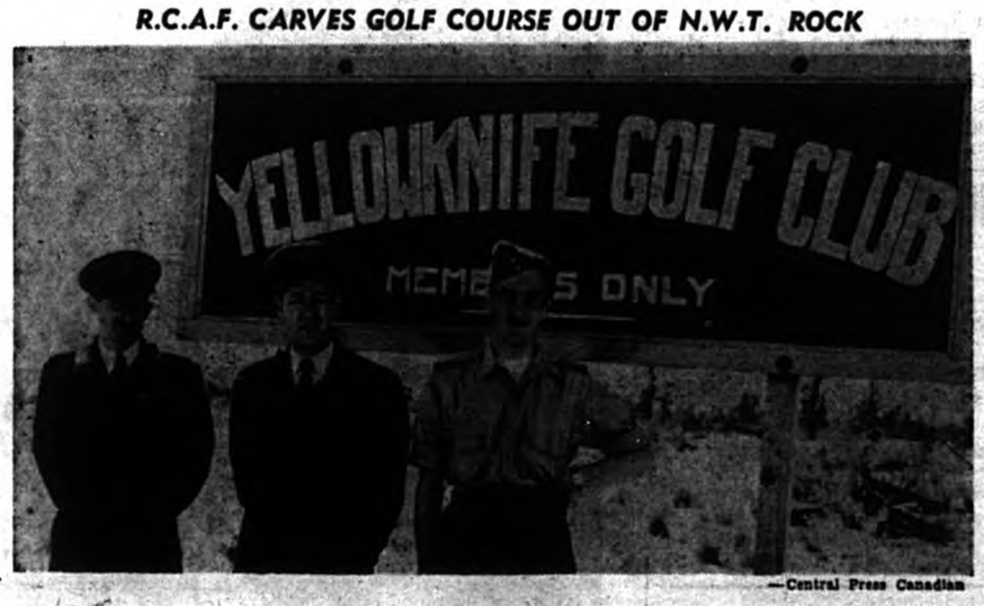

Weir, Que. — Mrs. John MacLean is in Montreal for a few days, and will bid bon voyage to her son, Wendell, Thursday evening when he leaves from Dorval Airport with the pipe band of 401 City of Westmount R.C.A.F. Reserve. With Scotland as their destination, the band will participate in the Festival of Britain and will also attend the annual Cowal gathering (the big pipe bands conclave) held at Dunoon.

Bethany Street Collision

A collision occurred on Bethany Street near the Robert intersection at 7 a.m. yesterday, when J. R. A. Carignan's truck, driven by Aristide Desjardins, ran into the rear of a car which had stopped ahead of it, owned by Clive Riddell, Morin Heights. Both were headed towards Lachute. The car, pushed 21 feet into a post, was damaged to the extent of $500. Damage to the truck was estimated at $100.

Police Chief Donat Villeneuve investigated.

R.C.A.F. CARVES GOLF COURSE OUT OF N.W.T. ROCK

—Central Press Canadian

Golf enthusiasts can't be stopped no matter where they go. Three members of 408 Photographic Squadron, R.C.A.F., on detachment at Yellowknife, N.W.T., are shown at the entrance to the Yellowknife Golf Club. A nine-hole course carved from the rock, sand and scrub bush and using a crashed Dakota for a clubhouse, it at least gives the golfer a chance to try out his swing. F.O. Dave Munroe, left, of Vancouver; F.O. Freddy Tupling, right, of Toronto, and P.O. Jim Fitzimmons, of Lindsay, Ont., are three who recommend the course for the next "Canadian Open" tournament.

Curt Justice for Highway Madmen As Judge Clamps Down at St. Jerome

HEAVY FINES IMPOSED AND DRIVING PERMITS REVOKED

St. Jerome, the gateway to the Laurentians, is shaping up these days as the brake on the Laurentian highway — writes Frank Lowe, reporting to The Montreal Star.

Driving straight up into the Laurentian playground, Highway No. 11 has stood for two things since the Provincial Government built this super-road to make the pleasures of the north easily accessible to Montrealers. It has been a veritable escape valve for week-ending thousands. It has also, unfortunately, been a death trap for hundreds, as irresponsible motorists use the paved strip as a race track.

St. Jerome Court Acts

Now, St. Jerome, whose Court of Sessions has to deal with motor violations in that area, is doing something about this menace.

Judge Hermann Barrette made this clear. As he presided at the weekly court session, he faced, as usual, a parade of driving offenders.

The judge emphasized the seriousness of the crimes. As the first offender appeared and pleaded guilty the judge's face flushed with anger as the man, obviously not impressed with the seriousness of smashing into another auto while driving under the influence of liquor, started to walk away. He'd pay the fine, and that would be that.

But Judge Barrette soon put him straight. "I am going to be very severe", he warned. "You've been exposing everyone to danger. This must stop."

License Cancelled

He imposed a fine of $50, and then cancelled the man's driving license for one year. He also warned: "If you are caught driving before the year is over you will go to jail for three years."

Another offender brought about a philosophical discussion by the judge on how to navigate the Laurentian highway. "A man would have to drive in the ditch to be safe from people like you", he told the man, who was accused of reckless driving and driving while under the influence of liquor. . . . A woman who had been driving with the offender at the time of his arrest testified that he had been "travelling between 18 and 22 miles an hour".

Judge Barrette looked at her thoughtfully, "You mean to say", he asked in obvious surprise, "that when a man takes you driving in the beautiful Laurentians, all you do is watch the speedometer? Frankly, I don't believe you."

He then passed sentence of a $50 fine and loss of driver's license for one year. The offender smiled smugly and said he didn't have his driver's license for the judge to invalidate.

But he smiled too soon. Judge Barrette detained the man while a Provincial Police officer sped all the way to Montreal to pick up the license.

There is no doubt about it. Speeding on Highway No. 11, or driving under the influence of liquor, is being made a non-profitable pastime — concludes this reporter.

Boy Scouts Thrilled With Camp Session

Nine Boy Scouts of the First Lachute Troop returned last Saturday, well tanned and in fine spirits, from a two weeks' stay at Camp Tamaracouta in Mille Isles. The local campers included — Stanley Alexander, Ronnie and Bobby Armstrong, Elmer Griffith, Rodger MacAdam, Jimmy Muir, Donald Parker, Billie Stansfield and Scott Taylor.

These boys were located in a section of the camp known as Fort Selkirk. They lived in tents and cooked for themselves two meals a day; the third was served in the large mess hall at the main camp. Many are the tales that are told of those meals cooked over the camp-fires. Perhaps the one that will be remembered longest, is the time the two boys upset the dinner into the fire, and a troop of hungry Scouts had to make do with a few slices of bread.

Most of the boys took advantage of the camp period to persevere and qualify for proficiency badges, in swimming, canoeing, athletics, etc. They claimed that, when they arrived, there were 36 boys who were unable to swim; two weeks later this number had been reduced to five.

It seems that during the course of their stay, the Lachute boys acquired a mascot — a stray cat, which apparently just strolled in, liked the company and stayed. It dined royally on scraps from the mess-tent. . . But there were unforeseen developments; a few days later Jimmy Muir, having occasion to enter his tent, suddenly emerged so excited he could scarcely speak — and an investigation by the other boys revealed that their pet was busy increasing the feline population, giving birth to five kittens in Jimmy's bed.

None of these boys had ever been to Scout camp before, and without exception, they all agree that it was a great experience. Discussions are already overheard, about what they intend to do at camp next year. The raising and the lowering of the flag each day, with hundreds of Scouts standing at attention, the wonderful leaders, the singsongs around the campfires, the long hikes, the work done in handicraft — all constitute an experience not soon to be forgotten.

Youngster Wins Laurels At Highland Games

At the Maxville Highland Games last Saturday, little Ruth Tooke, of St. Eustache-sur-le-Lac, won two gold medals in the Highland dancing, also the Junior Championship, MacDougall cup and trophy.

• • •

The official list of results shows Ruth Tooke as 1st prize-winner in the Sword Dance, 12 and under. Other winners appear from this district in the athletic events, namely:

Throwing 16-lb weight — Robert Greely, Brownsburg, 3rd.

Pole Vault — C. Sutton, Brownsburg, 2nd.

Jim Tomalty is also listed as a winner in two boys' classes; home address not mentioned.

Search-and-rescue operations of the Canadian air force in 1950 totalled 252. These included 137 mercy flights.

Mere Sidelight Among Current Problems For Deliberation of Brownsburg Council

Brownsburg — The August meeting of the Brownsburg Council was held Monday evening. Owing to the C-I-L plant shut-down during the employees' holidays, there was some delay in forming a quorum, but eventually the following attended: Councillors Somers, Ouellette, Carriere and Charbonneau. Mayor Hector Pariseau was in the chair.

Arising out of the minutes of the previous meeting, Councillor Somers requested information on the commission paid for the supervision of amusement tax tickets. This has now been transferred to the Chief of Police, and the councillor wanted to know if the commission was paid in addition to the recent increase in salary the Chief had received.

Secretary Emile Hebert assured Councillor Somers that the work of supervising collection of this tax was handed to the police to justify the increase he had received, and that no extra commission was paid by Council.

A request was received for water and sewerage facilities off Northcliffe Street.

Mayor Pariseau: "It is difficult to supply everyone at once, it requires a lot of financing."

Councillor Somers: "It should be done. We shouldn't have a place in the middle of the town without water. At the first opportunity we must attend to that."

The Police Chief reported that from July 2 to date there were 21 complaints, 25 tickets were given out, 21 calls of various natures attended to, 2 accidents, and one arrest.

Mayor Pariseau: "Were the accidents serious?"

Police Chief: "One was a small accident at the corner of Main and Maple — the damage was slight; and the other, on Bank Street, seriously damaged a taxi when a bus ran out of control. Cost was about $300, but was covered by insurance.

A discussion arose out of the fact that the Provincial Transport refused an application for tax for the use of the streets, the Mayor saying it is a matter which should be considered.

Councillor Charboneau remarked that in St. Jerome they pay a tax.

Councillor Somers was unaware of the legal position, but thought the matter should be further considered.

Councillor Ouellette stated the Transport Commission gives the bus company permission to operate all over the province, and it might be difficult to do anything about it.

Police Chief Choquette intervened to say he had received complaints from residents adjacent to the bus terminal at Councillor Ouellette's; buses were parked on the public thoroughfare, and the fumes of gas and oil were objectionable.

Councillor Ouellette: "Those things don't run on perfume, they use gas and oil, and there is nothing you can do about it."

Gatineau LINES

A River Harnessed

The Gatineau River, which once dropped to a mere trickle of 2,000 cubic feet per second in dry seasons, today is a river almost completely harnessed.

Part of the job of harnessing the river is done by Mercier and Cabonga Dams in the wild upper part of the Province. The rest of the work falls on three big power plants of Gatineau Power — Paugan, 32 miles above the junction of the Gatineau and Ottawa rivers; and the Chelsea-Farmers' "twins" just a few miles above the junction.

Paugan, with a main dam 900 feet long and a subsidiary dam of 525 feet, has an installed capacity of 238,000 horsepower. The Chelsea and Farmers' plants, 1¼ miles apart, between them develop 290,000 horsepower to pour into the high voltage lines of Gatineau. Thus the Gatineau River today is harnessed for the benefit of thousands of people, many of whom live more than a hundred miles away from the river itself.

But the river is not controlled only to make electricity. Logging companies, essential to the progress of Quebec, use it too; and each power plant has special facilities for getting the logs through on their journey down the river. When extra water is needed to move the logs downstream, the additional flow is released by Mercier Dam to flush the logs along. Farmers on both sides of the Gatineau benefit also from the steady improvement of year-in-and-year-out flow of the river at 10,000 cubic feet per second.

It took many years of effort and millions of dollars in cost to harness the Gatineau, but the work has been made worthwhile in terms of increased prosperity and better living for a large section of Quebec Province.

DID YOU KNOW?

The machinery in a power plant now costs nearly double what it did a few years ago. The cost of keeping this machinery in working order is more than double too.

Gatineau Power Company

A Better Mouse-Trap

Early in June a dairyman in Cloverdale, B.C., was fined $10 and costs in a local court. His offence, according to the Canadian Press report, was that he sold richer milk than his competitors.

Standard butterfat content for milk in that area is 3.5 per cent and the price of standard milk at that date was 19 cents a quart. The Milk Board had set no rate for the richer milk the defendant was selling at the same price. Hence the fine.

Apparently nowadays, if a man were to make a better mousetrap, the first person to beat a path to his door would be a policeman.

Cattle Club Has Its Own Headquarters

Toronto — The Canadian Jersey Cattle Club became the first cattle association in Canada to build its own offices following the recent official opening of its national headquarters in Toronto by Dr. J. D. MacLachlan, president of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph. Some 100 of Canada's 2,200 Jersey cattle breeders attended the ceremonies.

Dr. MacLachlan, in opening the two-story building said the spirit in which Jersey breeders across Canada subscribed the funds for the headquarters, was proof that Canadian farmers were progressive and determined to raise ever higher the standards of agriculture.

Dairy Products Off-Flavor

Blame the containers if cream has a metallic taste. Better still, blame the person who put the cream into rusty or improper containers. C. A. Gibson, research officer in dairying at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, calls attention to the reason for this metallic flavor in cream, which is imparted to butter made from such cream. In butter, the flavor is known as "tallowy" and the defect arises from chemical changes in the butterfat or associated substances.

Contamination of milk with metal like iron or copper will have similar results, so points out Mr. Gibson, keep whole milk away from tinned copper equipment worn so that the copper is exposed, or galvanized iron pails. Cream cans with rust spots should be strictly avoided for shipping cream and should be either retinned or used for something else. Don't use jam or honey pails. Use only well-tinned, glass or aluminum vessels for storage and be sure the separator bowl, disc and spout are not worn.

Finally, keep dairy equipment spotlessly clean so that acids will not form and dissolve the metal, particularly to protect the flavor of butter.

Active Naval Service is Suspended For Trip to Canada

—Central Press Canadian

The Duke of Edinburgh's active naval service at Valetta, Malta, has been suspended for a few months, during which time he will accompany his wife, Princess Elizabeth, to Canada next October. His job as commandant of the Royal Navy frigate Magpie will be shelved while he reads up on Canada for a trip which he is described as looking forward to immensely. Philip's love for the sea, which he hoped to make his career, is inherited from his famous uncle, Admiral Earl Mountbatten.

Winds, Erosion, Spur West Tree Planting

Saskatoon (CP)—Prairie farmers may be in the lumber business within a decade.

Saskatchewan and Alberta provinces, worried about high winds, soil drifting and dry spells are encouraging a reforestation program aimed at planting 20,000,000 trees this year alone.

And like most farm operations on the prairies, the tree planting is mechanized.

Planting machines — odd-shaped machines pulled by a tractor — are being loaned out to farm groups. The governments are paying $16 a mile for roadside planting and are shipping young trees to more than 175 districts in the two provinces.

Thousands of the infant trees are being put into former forest area. Farmers are planting them in long rows beside their fields as windbreaks and around their homes to provide cool shade from the hot summer sun.

Experimental farm tests have shown that shelter-belts of trees cut down wind velocity which sucks moisture from the soil. In the winter, the trees catch and pile up snow which would otherwise blow across the fields and drift block highways.

War on Plant Disease

Vicious and versatile, disease organisms take an annual toll of more than two billion dollars on North American crops and farmers must be constantly alert against new attacks, N. W. Cormack, of the Canada Department of Agriculture Science Service Laboratory, Lethbridge, said in a recent address there.

Speaking at a Kiwanis Club meeting, Mr. Cormack said the often-tedious process of breeding resistant varieties still was the most effective way of combating many plant diseases.

A well-known illustration of the battle with plant diseases is the development of rust-resistant wheat. The use of Thatcher and other resistant varieties, he said, resulted in savings of 400-million dollars in the first few years.

Further complicating matters, however, is the continual creation of ne wforms of disease in nature.

The most recent development in disease control is in the field of chemo-therapy, treatment of plants with chemicals.

Antibiotics, similar to penicillin, Mr. Cormack said, may prove useful as a seed or spray treatment in controlling certain diseases.

MEMBER AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

A Judge Speaks Out

THIS SECTION of Quebec is right behind Justice Hermann Barrette, who, in the Court of Sessions at St. Jerome, has been cracking down with some severity on hazardous drivers.

It is this sort of treatment, practiced consistently, that can be effective in reducing speed and recklessness on the Laurentian roads — but without consistency, all the authorities' good intentions will have no lasting effect. We have had many "orders from headquarters" for spasmodic campaigns against traffic offenders to make the highways safe. What we need is the certain knowledge that drunkenness and recklessness will bring retribution in the courts.

Last week-end Judge Barrette made it clear that he is doing something about the menace of "race track driving" in the St. Jerome area. He imposed several severe fines, and added a far more effective punishment against offenders, lifting their driver's permits for one year. "If you are caught driving before that period, you will go to jail for three years", he added, in one case. . . More power to this sort of justice. Public safety demands stern measures.

Swimming Is Fun, But —

ONE OF the grandest things to do that we can think of is to get into the water on a warm day. It gives one a feeling of renewed strength and vigor to be able to absorb the cooling effects of the lake or river waters.

This is an old, old story, but it can stand repeating again and again. There are times to go swimming and places in which to swim. The times for swimming are — a reasonable period of time after eating; a reasonable period of time after strenuous exercise; during daylight where possible; and under conditions when the mind is not under mental strain. The places in which to swim include waters that are already known to the swimmer; in placid or reasonably calm waters lacking current or undertow; places that have a sloping shore where a tired swimmer can touch bottom.

We can think of many "do's" and "don't's" on the subject of swimming and we'd cover plenty of space giving the reasons why drownings occur. A look at the suggestions above, however, could be sufficient for the wise swimmer or bather.

So, Play Safe—particularly when swimming.

Lower Food Prices?

CANADIAN housewives should be getting a break soon — according to The Financial Post. For the first time in 10 years feed grains, the raw materials for meat, dairy and poultry products, are showing substantial price declines. And with big crop promises for all across the country, that trend may be expected to continue.

Some of this cheaper and more abundant raw material is available now and should be reflected in lower milk, butter and cheese costs almost immediately and in lower meat and egg costs three to six months from now.

This is good news not only for the consumer but also for the producer. No one appreciates more than the farmer, the danger of excessive prices for meat and dairy products. Dollar round steak and 75-cent eggs and butter can lose a lot of customers and stir up a lot of ill feeling — often unjustified — between town and country.

Worms for Protein

IF MEAT prices continue to give you trouble, you might consider worms as a source of protein.

Worms, slugs and garden snails all are excellent providers of this important food factor, says Col. Charles Lawrence, executive secretary of the U.S. Institute of Food Technologists.

The colonel speaks from first-hand experience. He has lived on them. (However, he does not predict widespread acceptance by North American housewives). His own favorite is pickled Mexican worms bedded on rice — but then tastes do vary.

Lawrence's entire professional career has been concerned with food. For more than three years he was concerned primarily about the lack of it, for he was a prisoner of the Japanese, a survivor of the Bataan death march.

In the post-Bataan days that stretched into hungry years he had a chance to note first-hand that some things considered highly unedible and distinctly unappetizing actually can save men's lives. Worms and land-snails were among them. The men on Bataan also found that pythons and tree lizards made pretty good eating.

Breach of Honor Code

DISMISSAL of 90 cadets from the West Point military academy for cheating in examinations has brought demands for congressional investigation of the famous United States military college. Senator Milton Young, North Dakota Republican, urged congress to probe the possibility that over-emphasis on football at West Point led to the breakdown in the famous honor code there.

The mass dismissals, the largest in the academy's history of 149 years, were reported by Gen. Lawton Collins, the U.S. Army Chief of Staff. Senators said he had hinted that a majority of the academy's game-winning football players cheated on exams because football practice cut down their opportunities for study.

Happily, it appears that no faculty members were involved. The cadets were accused of either giving or accepting outside help in order to pass classroom tests during the last four or five years. Senators were told that 80 cadets had admitted breaking the honor code, and that others would probably face special hearings.

CONDITIONS on the farm are changing so rapidly that soon the faithful old Clydesdale will have disappeared — remarks the Lindsay Watchman-Warder. Where once a farmer had several stalls occupied by good work horses, including a couple of drivers, today the majority of farms have become so highly mechanized that horses have almost disappeared.

ISN'T IT peculiar that the human brain begins to function from the moment you are born, improves as you grow older, then stops completely when you stand up to talk?

RELIGION BY RADIO SUITS LAZY PEOPLE

London (CP) — People who stay away from church and listen instead to religious services and hymn-singing over the radio are just plain lazy, says Rev. Arthur Long, minister of Stamford Street Church in London's Southwark district.

In his church magazine he says: "One of the chief reasons why people don't go to church is that they just can't be bothered. After all, if you like a few hymns and prayers you can always turn on the radio. It is the perfect religion for lazy people."

"THINGS AN' STUFF"

— By —
WALTER HENRY JACKSON

One night last week I couldn't sleep. This attack of insomnia might have been due to something I ate, or perhaps it was because I had had two naps during the afternoon and another short one after supper.

As a general rule I am not troubled with sleeplessness. My big problem is to stay awake, especially at a business meeting or in church!

It has been said that if all the people who go to sleep in church were laid end to end, they would reach from Halifax to Vancouver. I have no way of verifying this statement, but I do know that if they were laid end to end they would sleep a lot more comfortably and not be awakened during the passing of the collection plate, or at the end of the service when everybody else is filing out.

My favorite cure for insomnia is to eat a raw onion at bedtime. Onions are marvellous things. It is said that a man could live on onions alone. If he lived on onions, that's the way he would live — alone. A raw onion acts as a sedative. Cheese is apt to interfere with sound sleep. So I eat both cheese and onions at bedtime. The onions make me sleep long enough to enable the cheese to make me have nightmares in Technicolor, like the one I had that night last week, when in my dreams I found myself in a dugout canoe made of a huge cedar log, paddling furiously about 300 feet in the air, trying to gain altitude to avoid hitting some high-power wires belonging to the Gatineau Company. Just before striking them, the onions lost their effect and I woke up, which was fortunate for the Gatineau Company. At the rate I was travelling I would have made an awful mess of their wires.

That is what I really call a nightmare. A dayhorse is the same thing, practically, and takes place during afternoon naps, in broad daylight.

S'funny, people often use the expression, "broad daylight", but you never hear them say "narrow night-dark" which would indicate the other extreme. Anyway, try the cheese and onions diet for insomnia. But don't let the cheese predominate. In giving this advice, I know that I am right, if I'm not mistaken, and I probably am mistaken.

Be seein' ya.

— Uncle Walt Jackson, Lost, River, Que.

Modern Baseball

Used to be that when you went to a baseball game, all you saw was baseball — and perhaps a few peanut shells.

Now the indulgent wife who foregoes the weekly bridge club to accompany her sport-minded husband to the local stadium need not be bored.

If she's in Toronto, she may find a flag-pole sitter perched in front of the park or a free orchid awaiting her at the gate. The precise tones of the loud-speaking system will dictate to her the line-ups, which she may write down on the score sheet in the programs (hawked at 25 cents each). That's Toronto — but it goes on nowadays in many cities where baseball is a leading sport.

And don't forget the pre-game entertainment. It may be just a magician who can't even hide from the income tax collector, or it could be a whole opera company — you never know unless you go to every game and listen carefully to the loud-speaking system.

When the piano movers have come and gone and the game begins, the indulgent wife may hear between innings lively music designed to keep her spirits up. And few quiz programs offer better prizes than she can win from the new president and board of directors simply by guessing last year's attendance or the temperature yesterday in Okotoks.

She no longer has to worry about soiling her best summer cotton dress. Paper seat covers on which are printed lucky numbers protect it, and should she sit on a winner, a brand new baseball is hers. No more fighting with the usher for balls fouled into the stands, either. No, sir! He'll even catch it for her, polish it up and have her favorite ball player autograph it if she wishes.

And that loud-speaking system! No beauty queen, politician, sports hero or Boy Scout leader can appear but that system picks him out and shows him to the crowd.

The indulgent wife may be surprised with all this entertainment, but in her womanly way, she gets used to it.

"All this and baseball, too", she thinks. "I like this game. We'll have to come more often. . . Tomorrow night they're giving away the Queen Elizabeth. Wait till I tell the girls". . . And she does, and they come back in record-breaking numbers.

Think how much you missed in the old days!

Tips on Swimming

(Copyright)

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

Every Canadian boy or girl should have the chance to learn to swim. This is a land of streams and rivers and lakes. There are community pools or bathing areas where swimming instruction is given in most communities. Hundreds of campers each summer graduate from a "Beginners' Pool" into a Swimming Class.

Many children must look to home help in learning how to swim safely. If converting a child into a fish falls on mother or dad, the parents need not be an expert in order to do a good job.

The first step in learning to swim is to overcome fear of the water. The little child who paddles in the shallow water and plays with floating toys gradually becomes accustomed to the feeling of the water.

Learning to swim is like anything else, the child must really WANT to swim himself. No amount of urging on the part of parents, no coaxing of brothers or sisters, or teasing of chums, can substitute for the child's own ambition to become a swimmer. Better postpone instruction until the child himself is eager to learn.

Swimming is a matter of balance and one of the first rules which must be followed is, "Keep your shoulders under water!" Illustrate this with a small wooden stick. If one end bobs up out of the water, the other end sinks down below the surface.

Breathing is very important in swimming and a child can have excellent land drill in blowing bubbles into a hand wash basin. Teach him to breath in through his mouth, duck his face into the water and blow bubbles out of his nose.

When he becomes good at this, have him walk into shallow water, and blow bubbles in the same way. Encourage him to gradually open his eyes. Make a game of having him duck after small objects on the bottom of the lake.

Floating gives a child the self-confidence he must have if he is to make progress. He is likely to find after he reaches to the bottom for an object in shallow water, how quickly his body returns to the surface.

Show your child the "Jelly Fish Float". Have him wade out into water waist deep, take a deep breath, then duck under the water and grab both ankles with both hands.

An instructor can give a child a little support under his chin when the youngster is learning to swim. Show him how to grab the edge of the dock as a support and practice kicking. Inflated tubes or small wooden "kicking boards", about eighteen inches by ten inches and one and a half inches thick are used in some Beginners' Classes.

But do not let the boy or girl become too dependent on a support. As quickly as possible try to get him to swim unaided to the instructor.

Stand a short distance away and have the child try to swim to you by dog paddle, breast stroke or any movement he wants to use.

Even a little child quickly understands that there are two swimming motions. One is a "propulsion" or pushing-the-body-forward movement and the other the "recovery" or getting-back-into-place ready-for-the-next-push motion. The more relaxed and unhurried are the movements the better is the swimming.

Once a child can swim even five feet, stand a little farther away from him. Thus little by little he gradually learns to swim a longer distance. If he is frightened and falters, hold out your hands to him, and take a step forward to reassure him. Never fool a child. One bad scare may put him off swimming for weeks.

Children are great imitators and if parents swim and enjoy the water their children will likely follow their example. That goes for observing safety precautions too!

Don't take any chances with your own or your child's life in the water! Never swim all alone; always have a companion. Don't go swimming for one and a half to two hours after the noon day meal. On a very hot day, cool off a bit before going in the water. If you are in a boat when it overturns, even if you are a good swimmer, don't strike out for shore. Cling to the boat till help comes. Obeying this one rule has saved many lives. Parents must continually remind their children that learning to swim is fun — but sensible swimmers must observe the safety rules.

"Affectionately Jenny"

Pat Joudry, talented actress and successful writer who began her radio career with "Penny's Diary" for the CBC and then went to New York to script the "Henry Aldrich Show", is back with the CBC again. Pat's new series is entitled "Affectionately Jenny" and, in programs heard on CBC every Sunday evening at 7.30, listeners hear the amusing adventures of an 18-year-old country girl with shining eyes, a well-scrubbed face and a firm belief in her own simple philosophy. Jenny comes to the big city and finds that her simple qualities result in difficulties. "I'm trying to get away from the farcical brand of comedy so often written into this kind of show", says Pat. "Affectionately Jenny" is funny, yes — but in situations that are well within the bounds of possibility. Pat herself stars as Jenny, and the production is by J. Frank Willis.

Expect Record Crop From Big Wheatfield

Lethbridge, Alta. (CP) — Southern Alberta's biggest wheat field has a potential of a million bushels of grain at this year's harvest.

The field is the 40,000 acres on the Blood Indian reserve fenced during the war as a bombing range for No. 8 bombing and gunnery school. With no cross-fences, it is believed to be the biggest grain field in Canada.

Most of the 36,600 acres in crop this year — under lease to 15 syndicates and partnerships — is in wheat.

Last year the field averaged 19 bushels of wheat to the acre for a crop of nearly 600,000 bushels.

This year, with near-record moisture, members of the leasing syndicates are hoping for a 30-bushel crop.

The Blood Indian band is owner of the land. Their crop share this year will be 20 per cent of 200,000 bushels. Next year it will be one-third.

Public Notice

Province of Quebec,
Municipality of
Ivry-sur-le-Lac,
County of Terrebonne.

At an adjourned meeting of the Municipal Council of Ivry-sur-le-Lac, County of Terrebonne, held in the municipal hall (School No. 3), Ivry North, Saturday, the fourteenth day of the month of July, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty One, at 7 p.m. in the afternoon, at which meeting were present — Messrs. Walter Whelan, mayor; Romeo Primeau, councillor; Honorious Valade, councillor; Edouard Lanthier, councillor; Irving R. Tait, councillor—all councillors forming quorum and sitting under the presidency of the Mayor, in conformity with the dispositions of the Municipal Code of the Province of Quebec:

It is ordered and enacted by resolutions of Council as follows:

Whereas — An order prohibiting the sale of alcoholic beverages and a grant of permits for the said sale in the limits of the Municipality of Ivry-sur-le-Lac, duly adopted about thirty-seven years ago before the territory forming the Municipality of Ivry-sur-le-Lac, was detached from the Parish of Ste. Agathe des Monts, should be repealed by the present order;

And Whereas — A request presented by Mr. David Berzan, representing the Manitou Lodge Incorporated, situated in the limits of the Municipality of Ivry-sur-le-Lac, County of Terrebonne, asking this Council to adopt an order for requesting the Quebec Liquor Commission, to consent to one or more permits, allowing the sale of alcoholic beverages, beer and wine, in the said limits of the Municipality of Ivry-sur-le-Lac and to submit same, according to the law, to the approbation of the municipal electors;

And Whereas — The present order of revocation should be submitted to the approbation of the electors according to the formalities prescribed under the Chapter 257, from Revised Statutes of Quebec 1941;

And Whereas — A notice of motion has been given at the meeting of the Council dated the 7th day of July, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-One, of the order to be passed at a session of the Council to the effect of permitting the sale of alcoholic beverages, beer and wine, in the limits of the Municipality of Ivry-sur-le-Lac, County of Terrebonne, under the dispositions of the Temperance Law of the Province of Quebec;

After deliberations, it is proposed by the Councillor Edouard Lanthier, seconded by Councillor Honorious Valade, and unanimously adopted, that it should be ordered and enacted by order in Council as follows:

Order No. 49

The Municipal Council of the Municipality of Ivry-sur-le-Lac, County of Terrebonne, claims by the present order to the Quebec Liquor Commission to establish one or more permits for the sale of alcoholic beverages, beer and wine, in the limits of the Municipality of Ivry-sur-le-Lac, County of Terrebonne, the whole in conformity of the said law concerning alcoholic beverages.

The present order would have to be submitted according to law, to the approbation of the municipal electors of the Municipality of Ivry-sur-le-Lac, County of Terrebonne, at the dates and the place which will be fixed by a public notice given for this purpose and will take effect only after having been approved by the majority of the said electors who will have voted.

Given at Ivry-sur-le-Lac, County of Terrebonne, this fourteenth day of the month of July, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-One. (True Copy)

Who said You can't Afford a Fine Car?

MANY'S the man who has paid far more for a fine car than the price of this beauty—and got less than this gay and gallant traveller offers.

Sweeping proudly past you, it has a distinction that few cars can equal.

Stepping nimbly away from a stop light, it has the willing surge of power that the very exclusive combination of a Fireball engine and Dynaflow Drive* delivers.

It rides the road with majestic smoothness, and comes to a smooth and gentle halt, in response to the finest brakes that Buick engineers ever developed.

Inside, it has spacious room, from side to side and front to back and seat to roof—plus a softness of cushions and a richness of fabrics which the custom standards to which bespeak it is built. All you want in a fine car is here in abundance.

But don't let that fool you into deciding "it's too rich for me."

If you've looked into 1951 car prices generally, you'll discover this:

You can own a BUICK for little more than an ordinary car will cost—and for several hundred dollars less than the price tags usually found in "the finer car field."

Why not look into this today?

WHAT JAIL MEANS TO ITS INMATES

By One of Them — Denise E. B. Bell

There is so little hope for us. We have acted in an anti-social manner in the eyes of the law. We have been found out, and caught, and convicted. We are serving our terms, in the Court House at St. Jerome, or at Fullum Street in Montreal.

All day there is NOTHING to do other than converse together and read books or magazines, chosen by persons who have not been in these unhappy circumstances and who, consequently, know little of our needs.

After several days, we do become numbed to the filthy walls and unpleasant smells, arising from toilets which are not functioning properly, and from the stench of the blankets heavy with the exudate of previous occupants of the jail at St. Jerome.

We can push from our minds the dangers of contracting venereal disease from some of our colleagues whose blood tests have been positive for syphilis, but there is no means of isolating ourselves from this risk. We must use the same accommodation, the toilet, the bath and the spoons and dishes, which are not sterilized or disinfected. (When we realize that others use our toothbrushes, we can put them in our pockets!)

We cannot avoid the danger of possible assault from mental cases who are accommodated in the jail at Fullum (because there is no room for them in a Mental Asylum) if we happen to be locked in with them for 23 of the 24 hours each day. . . However, we CAN take a fatalistic attitude to such potential dangers and attain peace of mind.

We can make little preparation for our release, for letters are both restricted and censored. Even if we wrote for a job, we could hardly expect a favorable reply when we must give the jail as our return address. Only a few of us will have a job to return to after our release. A few of the lucky ones may have a husband, or wife, or parent, who will give us board and lodging until we can support ourselves. Most of us will have no possessions left after we get out and into normal society, for such possessions will have been taken in lieu of rent.

After the last jail breakfast, we will have the remaining hours of the day in which to find a job — to find lodging which will accommodate us until we have been paid from the job — and to find food, which we will also have to acquire on a credit basis.

Few persons, even without the stigma of jail, could succeed in such a search. Few of us do succeed. Most of us, however, will atempt this search, because success in it is our only chance to be self-respecting and to live in a normal social manner. The alternatives are so odious.

Such are the alternatives:

1. We can solicit the charity of strangers, such as the Salvation Army officials. One woman of 21 years who had been in and out of jail since she was 15, did ask to be lodged by this Society, but was refused because she had a home in Montreal. As her home did not attract her, she will probably choose to go to anti-social persons who at least will welcome and befriend her. . . There is, I understand since leaving the jail, a Prisoners' Aid Society somewhere in Montreal.

2. We can, if we lower our pride, appeal to acquaintances and friends who have no connection with our anti-social behavior. But our photographs are in the rogues' gallery and we are marked persons. In contacting such friends we involve them, and they too will become suspect. If we are really friendly, such persons will be the last ones whom we will approach for help.

3. I understand that, after leaving jail, one may return to jail and ask for lodging, if no other lodging is available. But, however short our term, very few of us would willingly go again behind locked doors.

4. So, the most reasonable alternative is to put into practice what we have learned during the long, lazy days in jail. We have had plenty of time to plan and to perfect our own type of anti-social behavior. And in all probability, even though suspect, we could get away with the perfect undetected crime. We have been taught many other types of anti-social behavior, too, which are remunerative.

We have been taught, in jail, nothing to deter us from our anti-social actions and habits. We have been forced to act in an anti-social manner during our term, for we have been compelled to do nothing for 24 hours out of the 24. We have learned laziness. These long hours, day after day, with nothing to do, are inclined to dissuade even the most ambitious, from undertaking a good job of hard satisfying work.

Certainly we occupied ourselves with conversation. Indeed, I have yet to hear the racey life stories told by the frequenters of Fullum Jail equalled in the conversation of polite society. Rich entertainment which I will not easily forget. The sustained adventure; the drab pathos depicted by some; the fear, despair and hopelessness which colored the stories of others.

Conversation, I understand, was not permitted in the other section of Fullum except at certain periods in the day. Indeed, I felt sorry for the Roman Catholic prisoners, who not only had nothing to do but also were alone with their thoughts. . . Thoughts such as those of Mrs. X. . . Mrs. X had a husband from whom she chose separation. The husband, who did not agree with her preferred separation, had hounded and tricked her into jail. She awaited her trial, which was postponed week after week. The Judge will find her not guilty, because she did not do the deed of which she was accused. . . On arrest she had no opportunity to release her dog, which was locked in her small apartment. Authorities would have permitted her to ask the S.P.C.A. to destroy the dog, but the animal had her affection and was her only companion. She therefore did not call on the services of the S.P.C.A. Day after day she blamed herself for this decision, which perhaps had resulted in the death of her pet from starvation. And she had no means of learning the fate of the animal. . . Her thoughts were far more occupied and concerned with this, than with her own plight!

Jail sentences not only cost the public board and lodging of the prisoners, the salary of the kind officials (I met no guardian, warder or matron who was not considerate), and the buildings and upkeep of these places; but these jail sentences also endanger the public. On release such diseases as may be contracted in jail, will be spread publicly. Anti-social action, of necessity, is multiplied.

Statistics prove that, once a person has been to jail, such person is more liable to re-conviction than the normally law-abiding public. This proves that jails are conducted on a policy which is short-sighted and against the public good.

The policy in jails should be the principle of preventing prisoners from further anti-social behavior, so that the public is protected by jail convictions instead of being further endangered. (After all, jails are paid for by the public).

Prisoners should be made to work for the public good, as they do in other countries, cleaning public buildings, public streets, under armed guards and proper supervision, instead of being forced to be lazy and shiftless.

Prisoners should be given instruction, by means of teachers or books, on proper social living, instead of being given books to read on crime and detection, encouraging conversation in these subjects.

Prisoners should be isolated from inmates who are diseased, and adequately protected from mental cases, whose attitude to life is involuntarily abnormal.

Jails should be kept scrupulously clean; cleanliness is an important mental, physical and social factor.

Such a policy would encourage self-respect among the prisoners, and invite proper social behavior. Prisoners undergoing such treatment in jail would profit the public by serving their term, and be far more liable to behave normally on release.

If, on expiry of their term, prisoners were required to remain at the jail until such a time that they could prove they had a legitimate occupation, and could obtain food and lodging in a self-respecting manner — then these prisoners would not be virtually forced to act in an anti-social manner.

No follower of Christ's teaching can accuse and publicly litigate against another, because Christ's followers "forgive at least 70 times 7". However, even although there are many churches in the Province of Quebec, people are accused publicly, convicted and jailed, in this province. This state of affairs is the will of the majority. . . But surely it is not the will of the majority, but the ignorance of the majority, which permits the existing policy of our jails to increase, instead of cure, anti-social behavior.

Beatty LATEST MODEL

entirely new

Newest, nicest feature of the new Beatty Washer is the stainless steel tub. This smooth, mirror like steel is just the same as you have in your table flatware. It never scratches, chips or stains. It is always so agreeable to the clothes.

The Beatty Stainless Steel Washer has a thermo tub to keep the water hot right through the washing.

The new Beatty is just as beautiful on the outside as the inside. You will always be proud of it.

And it does such beautiful work — the Beatty human hand agitator has never yet been equalled for getting clothes clean.

Tom Gard's Note Book

August — the month of picnics! Each weekend we try to have something special planned for the whole family — an overnight, if we are at the cottage and weather will permit, or a trip to some picnic area if we are home. Such excursions should be enjoyed by all young Canadians with such excellent beauty spots so close at hand.

It becomes the duty of every adult to learn and to teach safety measures with camp fires if this heritage is to be protected. Each year careless people cause serious losses through forest fires. At this time of year, when our forests are often tinder dry, cooking fires or camp fires should be built on solid rock or right out in the open on packed earth. Embers have been known to smoulder for days and travel many feet underground before they break to the surface if the earth is laden with decaying roots and bits of wood. If a large flat rock is not handy, the Gards use rolls of sod to form the sides of the fireplace and carry the weight of the cooking utensils.

Silhouettes

My teen-aged daughter is painting interesting silhouettes on glass and framing them with cardboard and black binding tape. She does a good job of it, too.

Son Jimmy, not to be outdone by his sister, brought home a set of "tin-can" jardinieres he had made during the craft period at his boys' camp. They were painted and ready for immediate use in his mother's "window" garden.

Foot Rest

When I sit down to relax and put my feet up this winter, it will be with the aid of a new hassock made from a butter box. Just the finishing touches remain. The top has been carefully padded and covered with bright durable plastic. (All that remains to be done is complete the pattern being made with decorative tacks.)

A King Costs Less

(Vancouver Sun)

It costs the American people $3,536,000 to pay President Truman and run the White House for a year.

It costs the British people $1,731,600 a year to pay the King and the royal family and to operate all the royal establishments.

This comparison is made on the basis of the United States figures just released, and solely for the purpose of answering constant American criticism that the royal family is a tremendous drain on the British subject.

The direct salary of Mr. Truman is $100,000 a year. His staff numbers 651 persons.

OBITUARY

Late Mrs. Wm. Bryerton

A lifelong resident of the Ottawa riverfront passed away August 1st, in the person of the late Mrs. William Bryerton, of Carillon. The former Mary Ellen Fitzgerald of Monalea, she became the wife of Mr. Bryerton in 1929; and she had lived in Monalea since her youth.

Mrs. Bryerton was of a quiet, friendly disposition and suffered much during the last few years of her life. She was devotedly cared for — first at the home of her sister, Mrs. James Edwards (then of the Monalea Road), and for the past year or more at her own home.

She leaves to mourn her loss her husband; her sister, Mrs. J. Edwards, of St. Philippe; and her brother, Mr. Fred Fitzgerald, of Monalea.

Her remains were interred Saturday in the St. Andrews East Catholic Cemetery, after masses had been sung in the Carillon Church. Pall-bearers were — Messrs. I. H. Fuller, Wm. Robert, Ed Byrnes, A. Barron, H. Allison, of Vankleek Hill, and D. G. Simon, of Lachute.

Friends from a distance included Mrs. W. Villeneuve, of Toronto, Mrs. T. Derrick and Mrs. Wm. Morrin, of Ottawa, Mr. and Mrs. H. Allison, of Vankleek Hill, Mr. B. Robertson, the Misses M. and V. Bryerton, of Verdun, also Mr. A. Bryerton, of St. Laurent, and Mr. K. Bryerton, of Montreal.

The W.A. of Christ Church held a successful tea and sale of fancy articles in the basement of the United Church on Saturday afternoon.

HONESTY UNREWARDED

Vancouver (CP) — A circus performer picked up what looked like a $155,000 cheque on the street and returned it to a lumber company only the discover it wasn't worth a cent. It was a non-negotiable transfer. Company officials said an office boy had probably dropped it.

Arundel

Mr. and Mrs. A. Scott have returned from a motor trip visiting friends in Hull and North Gower, Ont.

We are sorry to report the sudden demise of Mrs. Wesley Scott, of Red Deer, Alta. Mrs. Scott visited here last year, and her death will come as a shock to her many friends here.

Rathwell Morrison, Norman Graham and Val Morrison motored to Macdonald College to attend the Calf Show recently, representing the Arundel Calf Club.

Mrs. A. Will and family, of Montreal, are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Cooke.

The Girls' Guild of the United Church held their annual lawn social on Friday evening last. Despite the cold weather, a good crowd attended and the various booths were well patronized. Owing to weather conditions the social was continued on Saturday evening, and the result of the two events netted a substantial sum for the Guild work. A program was presented during the two evenings.

Mr. Curll Staniforth was home for the week-end.

Miss Diane Wright is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. Staniforth.

Dr. and Mrs. Taylor, of Trenton, Ont. (parents of Mrs. Alec Dewar) are spending a short holiday in Arundel.

Last Sunday evening, the congregation of Arundel United Church had the pleasure of listening to Mr. H. Carter, who is in charge of Lost River Presbyterian Church and other charges. . . . Mr. Fenton, acting minister of the United Church here, exchanged pulpits for last Sunday's services.

Mrs. K. Higginbotham is spending three weeks' holiday with Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Bulley.

GIANT PEA VINES

New Liskeard, Ont. (CP) — A. E. Stephenson has retained his title as champion district pea grower. What he calls his "telephone pole peas" are on vines exceeding seven feet in height, loaded with palm-long pods.

Wedding at Arundel, Que.

Carslaw - Davis

The marriage of Lilias Lorraine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Davis, of Arundel, Que., to Robert Stephen, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. V. Carslaw, of Larkfield, near Maidstone, Kent, England, took place at the Arundel United Church on July 28 at 2.30 p.m.

The Rev. F. W. Williams, of Carleton Place, Ont., was the officiating clergyman, assisted by Mr. Kenneth Fenton, student minister of Arundel. The wedding music was played by Mrs. Leslie Cooke and during the signing of the register Mr. Edgar E. Davis, brother of the bride, sang "O Promise Me". The church was decorated with banks of fern with blue delphinium and white gladioli.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of nylon marquisette over tulip eyelet, trimmed at neck and shoulders with seed pearls. Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion fell from a cap of the same material as the dress. She carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses.

The bride's attendants were gowned in marquisette over taffeta with matching half-hats of tulle, and carried nosegays of pink carnations — the maid-of-honor, Miss Frances Davis (sister of the bride) in apple green, the bridesmaid, Miss Mary Black, in lilac, and the flower girl, Miss Sandra Sugden, in pale pink. Mr. Peter Smith, of Montreal, was best man, Walter and Edgar Davis, brothers of the bride, were ushers.

Out-of-town guests included — Miss L. S. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. King, Mr. and Mrs. E. Mockford, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Griffiths, Messrs. Russell and Reg Griffiths, Miss Hazel Kerr, Miss Margaret Page, Miss Elizabeth Fletcher, Mr. D. Black and Mr. David Shanks, Mrs. F. Sugden and children, all of Montreal; Mr. C. O. Thomas, of Morin Heights; Mr. and Mrs. E. Copeland, of Lachute.

The ceremony was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents, after which the newlyweds left on their honeymoon for a trip to New York and through the New England States.

Lakefield Card Party

Lakefield — The Women's Institute held a card party at Thompson's Hall. Mr. Ross Evans acted as master of ceremonies. Two door prizes were awarded, won respectively by Mr. W. A. Sherrit and Mr. Herbert McDonald. Winners of the card game were — ladies, 1st Mrs. Chelley, 2nd Mrs. R. Armstrong; men, 1st Mr. George Peet, 2nd Mr. Yeudall; consolation, Mr. D. McDonald.

The W.I. served refreshments and an enjoyable time was spent.

12-YEAR-OLD BOY SWIMS 300 FOOT CHANNEL TO SAVE YOUNG GIRL

George Shook Jr., of Welland, Ont., rescues non-swimmer Donna Cutler, 11, from Welland Canal

1. Young George, son of Captain George Shook of the Welland Fire Department, was approaching the west bank of the canal near the waterworks when he heard the frantic screams of a child. Running closer he saw 11-year-old Donna Cutler, struggling in the water near the opposite shore. Fortunately, George had his bathing trunks on under his clothes . . . and in no time he had stripped and was in the water . . . swimming at top speed.

2. Although the water was not over her head, little Donna was petrified with fear. She could not swim . . . and the intake for the Welland waterworks was only a few yards away. Within minutes, however, the strong strokes of George Shook Jr. brought him up to her. Exhausted and spluttering, Donna followed George's instructions to climb on his back. After his 300-foot swim the boy himself was tired — but at no time did he consider relinquishing his burden.

3. Slowly but surely George brought the girl in to shore . . . at times pulling for help at the long grass where the water became shallow. The rescue was complete by the time the city police arrived. To this gallant Canadian boy we are proud to pay tribute through the presentation of The Dow Award. Commenting on George's brave action, Mayor David Thomas of Welland said that the whole city was mighty proud of the young rescuer.

THE Dow AWARD

THE DOW AWARD is a citation presented for acts of outstanding heroism and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $100 Canada Savings Bond. The Dow Award Committee, a group of editors of leading Canadian daily newspapers, selects Award winners from recommendations made by a nationally known news organization.

Pretty and practical, different without being bizzare, that's the happy state of affairs when it comes to casual clothes designed for the young woman. A good choice for country play or work time might be this red and white tattersall checked blouse, collar cuffs and pocket of navy twill. The companion pedal pushers are of navy cotton twill with checked cuffs. The curved pockets have pearl buttons.

TORONTO COUPLES BUILD OWN HOMES

Toronto (CP) — At least three Toronto couples are solving the housing shortage their own way. They're building their own homes.

In a survey recently a local newspaper found Mr. and Mrs. John Dennis working nights and week-ends — and hoping soon to get into their new six-romed house in North York.

Roman Sedzicki and Helen Muchowski plan to get married just as soon as the roof goes on their house in suburban Scarboro. At the moment they're at the mixing mortar stage.

COURTESY PAYS

Ayr, Ont. (CP) — A district farmer had his telephone service cut off when the company invoked a seldom-enforced rule against using profanity while addressing the operator.

At Brownsburg Council

Councillor Carriere objected to the manner of parking. Buses, just as cars, should be made to conform to the parking regulations. The matter was dropped.

On the suggestion of Councillor Somers it was decided to have the Graham project (waterworks) surveyed by Mr. Laliberté, Lachute, so that an estimate of the cost could be placed before the Council. It was a valuable proposition and should not be delayed unnecessarily. Councillor Somers pointed out it was serving 10 houses at the present time, which were sufficient to carry the loan charges if a loan were obtained. A motion to this effect was moved by Councillor Somers, seconded by Councillor Ouellette. It was also decided, on recommendation of the secretary, to include the Northcliffe extension in the motion.

Councillor Somers brought up the matter of installing valves on the water line at Wartime Housing. He explained that two houses were on the same valve and this valve was on the tenants' or owners' property, so that the Council had no control over the water entering those houses. He proposed to install valves at the line and have the house-owners connect with suitable pipes, as the one at present in use was a lead pipe of adulterated alloy, which might go at any time.

Mayor Pariseau: "If one of those houses became vacant, we could not turn off the water?"

Councillor Somers: "No". . . It was decided to have the matter scheduled for the attention of the foreman.

Councillor Somers also brought up the matter of a valve on the water line at the corner of St. Joseph and Maple. This situation is complicated by the fact that the council gave permission to Mr. Racine to connect to the water line. As time went on, more peopde connected onto Mr. Racine's line, and now the result is that there are several people being supplied with water from a semi-private pipe which is over the frost-line and causing endless trouble. . . The Councillor proposed installing a valve at the end of the Council's line so that if these people allow the water to run off during the winter to keep their high lines from freezing, the Council can conserve the supply by turning off the valve.

Mr. Ken Murdoch, who was present, intervened to say that he had the original house to which permission was granted to hook onto the water system; that his line was well below the frost-line, and he had never had to resort to allowing his water to run to avoid freezing. He did not think it would be fair to cut off the water ahead of him in the event of wastage.

Councillor Somers: "You have the remedy in your own hands — put a valve below your line and the Council will take that fact into consideration if any drastic measures have to be taken". He advised Mr. Murdoch and those others on the line to get it below frost and so avoid any possibility of a shortage.

Mayor Pariseau: "As this little private system is on the highway, we should notify the government to attend to some culverts through which the water line passes." It was decided to bring the matter to the attention of Mr. Hebert, government engineer.

The waterworks committee issued an invitation to the other members of the Council, and anyone interested, to inspect the chlorinator system, which was now in a fit condition to perform the work for which it was intended, and in a manner worthy of praise.

Councillor Carriere introduced the matter of a sidewalk along Maple Avenue. He said he had contacted the Bell Telephone Company to have the poles removed and was informed that, where permission was given to erect poles, the company would require the Council to absorb 50% of the cost of removing the poles. Where wires hung along free of trees, the company would not accept responsibility for removing the trees; but where the wires interlaced the trees, they would remove the trees free of cost, on request. There were six poles to be moved and two trees which the wires interlaced. The Bell Company offered to assist in the removal of the other trees so as to protect their lines. . . A motion was passed (proposed by Councillor Ouellette, seconded by Councillor Carriere) to ask the Company to have the work done, so that the sidewalk could be laid before the streets were asphalted.

Mayor Pariseau: "We are going to do practically all the streets". Mr. Cottingham, M.L.A., had obtained a grant of $15,000 which was going to be spent for this purpose. He had received assurance from Mr. Cottingham, and had selected the streets to be done, and it would place Brownsburg second to none with any other place in Canada, in the matter of streets, cleanliness, and attractive scenery for the delight of tourist or native.

(Discussion of other matters — sidewalks, waterworks contract, taxis, increased licenses, and conduct of grills and hotels — is held over for next issue.)

Estimated Crowd of 5,000 at Night Program of Ayers Employees' Picnic

Grand Annual Event Enjoyed by Mill Workers, Their Wives and Youngsters

Clear skies and warm weather provided a perfect setting for the annual picnic for Ayers Limited and Dominion Shuttle Comany employees last Saturday. Thousands of spectators crowded the grandstand at the Exhibition Grounds as employees and their families took in a full afternoon and evening of sports events, original contests, inter-plant competitions and diversified entertainment.

The afternoon's activities started with two horse races, which were followed by the usual assortment of track races and contests for employees, employees' wives and their children. Pleasant intermissions were provided by two professional acrobatic clowns, and a comedy routine by Ayers employees, under the direction of Donat Fournier and Philias Desjardins. Special refreshment booths were set up in the grandstand, where guests were served free soft drinks and ice-cream throughout the day.

Employees were also invited to bring their suppers to the grounds to eat in real picnic style, and hundreds of people did this during the annual inter-plant softball game at 6.30 p.m. The game was won by the Ayers Limited team, when Florian Brunette hit a home run, to give his team a 1-0 decision.

The evening's entertainment got off to a start with a musical interlude presented by the Ayers Band, under the direction of Chas. Del Vennes, and a demonstration of physical culture exercises presented by the children of the Recreational Centre, directed by Armand Alie. Many handsome prizes and trophies were then distributed to the winners of the day's events, by Messrs. Thomas and Leonard Ayers, Thomas Milnes, Jacques Bédard and Georges Clermont.

The grand finale was a stage and vaudeville show, starring the popular radio stars Jacques Normand and Billy Monroe. A portion of this show was broadcast throughout the province by radio station CKVL., Verdun.

Among the special guests who came during the day were Mrs. W. H. Ayers, Mr. Philippe Valois, M.P., Mr. W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., Rev. Fathers Léo Clément and Chas. Gougeon, of Immaculate Conception, F. Adrien Giard, of St. Julien, Father Philippe Montour, of St. Philippe, as well as thousands of friends from Lachute, Brownsburg, St. Hermas, Hawkesbury and St. Andrews East. The crowd at the evening show was estimated, by the Frontiersman who controlled the gates, at upwards of five thousand.

Issue Regulations For Bird Hunting

The Minister of Resources and Development, Ottawa, has just issued the Migratory Bird Regulations for 1951. Among restrictions on the hunting of birds throughout Canada, the following clauses deserve notice:

It is forbidden to use —

Any weapon other than a gun, not larger than No. 10 gauge.

Live birds as decoys.

An aircraft, a power-boat, or a sail-boat, in actual hunting.

An aircraft, a power-boat, or a motor vehicle to disturb birds in order to drive them towards a hunter.

It is forbidden to —

Have with one for one's own use, while hunting birds, more than one shotgun at any time.

Hunt birds by the use or aid of baiting, or within one-half mile of any place where baiting is taking place.

Open Seasons

Ducks (other than Eider Ducks), Geese (other than Brant): Northern District, September 8 to November 3; Central District, September 20 to November 15; Southern District, October 11 to December 6.

Bag Limits

In any day: Ducks (exclusive of American and Red-breasted Mergansers), 7, of which not more than one may be a Wood Duck; Geese, 5.

In any open season: Geese (Canada Geese, Blue Geese and Brant only), 25; Wilson's Snipe, 50.

Prohibited Weapons

No person shall hunt birds with a rifle or with a shotgun that can contain more than three cartridges at one time.

Hours of Shooting

Safe Robbers Interrupted on Midnight Job, One Arrested

Police Radio System Proves Valuable, Instrumental in Capture of Suspect

When Emmett Lowe drove into the yard of Lowe Bros' Dairy at 12.45 Sunday morning, and found things amiss around the plant — he little suspected that he had stumbled on a major robbery in progress. . . It seems that young sneak-thieves had sometimes raided the plant after dark, stealing bottles of milk and cream. Expecting to find something of this kind, he swung his car so that the lights shone into the yard — and there, on investigation, he found the company safe (weighing an estimated 700 lbs.) removed from the building. About this time he heard intruders making their escape over the wire fence to the C.P.R. right-of-way.

Emmett Lowe phoned to police headquarters. Chief Villeneuve arrived promptly at the scene, while Cst. W. Lepine was delegated to cruise the south side of the track in the patrol truck.

It was at this point that the police radio system proved its worth. Chief Villeneuve, briefly grasping the facts, informed the patrolman as to the direction the fugitives had taken, and shortly after, Cst. Lepine espied two strangers on Hugh Street, near College Street intersection. He promptly arrested one, while the other made his escape.

Credit to Town Police

Montreal press reports (as usual) ignore the part of the local police in this case. It is to the sole credit of Chief Villeneuve and his assistant that an arrest was made so expeditiously and the suspect lodged in the local jail. The investigation was taken over at this point by the Provincial Police hold-up squad in Montreal, with Det. René Lanthier in charge of the case. The suspect, a 26-year-old resident of Ottawa, was taken to Montreal for questioning. He is a man with a previous police record.

Automobile Found

Meanwhile, although the suspect denied owning a car, his automobile was found parked in the C.P.R. freight yard off Foundry Street. It was impounded by Chief Villeneuve for examination of the detectives, who reported they found nitro-glycerine and tools useful in the robbery and safe-cracking trade. . The investigation is proceeding.

Police Warning

Following this occurrence, Chief D. Villeneuve suggests that a warning be heeded by business men of the vicinity — to leave their yards and premises lighted at night, sufficiently to discourage robbers and also to permit police patrols to see that all is well inside the premises.

B'burg Mayor's Ultimatum -- To Curb Midnight Rowdyism, Breach of Sabbath

No Half-Measures in Mayoral Intentions

Brownsburg — A continuation of Council affairs (reported in last issue) included the matter of payment of a bill from the police department for prosecution of a traffic violator. The bill, amounting to $12, was for food and observation whilst in detention at Brownsburg, and for lunch at St. Jerome, where the prisoner was fined $50 and had his license suspended for one year.

Mayor Pariseau remarked that he saw no just reason for paying for a man who was found guilty. "We must take steps to collect from such defendants in future".

The sidewalks contractor submitted his bill for the sum of $1,338.75 for work completed to date.

Councillor N. Somers: "Before that bill is paid, a check should be made with the proprietor of the property who will eventually repay the Council for the sidewalk. We have had trouble before in billing on the figures submitted by the contractor. While the over-all measurements may be correct, the individual frontage was found not correct and some owners refused payment."

Secretary E. Hebert: "We can check with the registry office and have the correct property width ascertained before we send out the bills". This was agreed to.

A bill from the Council's engineers for work done on the waterworks extension contract was held back with a $200-on-account payment, as Council was not satisfied that the work of either the contractor or the engineers was completed or satisfactory. It was revealed the Council still retained almost $2,000 from the contractors, but much more than this amount was calculated as due for materials supplied for the job, and had not been paid by the contractors. The Council had no responsibility beyond the amount due on the contract, but required legal permission to disburse the amount held.

For Pedestrian Safety

Mayor Pariseau reported that Mr. King had approached him to have the fence along his sidewalk put in such condition that no liability rested with the proprietor or the Council in the event of anyone getting hurt at this point. He denied liability on the Council's behalf, as there was none, but Mr. King was anxious to bear the cost if given some assistance and co-operation by the Council in erecting the structure, and suggested a pipe railing.

Some discussion ensued as to how this was to be anchored. Councillor Carriere said he had inspected the job and thought it would be possible to drill for the uprights into the cement.

Councillor Somers: "We may be able to help you in fixing this railing. This matter has been before the Council in various forms and at various times, and while we feel we have no responsibility in the matter, it is possible, with the help of C-I-L we could shoot a specially hardened spline or pin through a quarter inch steel bracket and into the cement, securely pinning the bracket to the sidewalk. Then it would be possible to bolt the upright posts to this bracket."

Mayor Pariseau: "This would be an ideal way out of the difficulty. We can get the pins made?"

Councillor Somers: "You have to buy the pins, which are driven by explosive force through the iron and cement. They are specially made at C-I-L, and at present the company has three guns which will fire the pins. As they are of different calibers, we must select the one most suitable, and it would be possible to have the work done much cheaper than drilling holes and leading the pipes in". It was decided to accept Councillor Somers' suggestion.

Check on Rowdyism

Mayor Pariseau: "Since I entered the council as Mayor, I have repeatedly warned hotel proprietors and grill owners that I will not tolerate any extension of hours outside the legal limit. I do not voice this in any petty or selfish spirit. I have no desire to hurt or harm anyone, but I am going to see that the law on this matter is upheld. It is to the benefit of Brownsburg and its respectable citizens that rowdyism and midnight boistering be eliminated."

The Mayor continued, he got out of bed at 2.30 o'clock Sunday morning to investigate a carousal outside his window. On the steps outside his door were two young men playing a gramophone! He called the police and then through his window asked the revellers if they were aware of the time. One replied, "About eleven o'clock". Bars are open and drunken voices are raised all Saturday night and along to church time on Sunday, said Mayor Pariseau. This is a scandal and a disgrace in any respectable community. He had the co-operation of some grill owners, but was sorry to say that some

Act of Heroism on Staynerville Farm

Prevents Father From Accidentally Killing His Own Child

An act of quiet heroism averting what might have been the death of an only daughter under the wheels of a farm machine driven by her father, has just been revealed in this neighborhood.

The near-tragedy occurred on the farm of Theodore Murdoch, at Staynerville, while haymaking was in progress there last week.

Stanley Murdoch of Brownsburg (who recounted the facts to this reporter, with tears of thankfulness in his eyes and emotion in his voice) had gone out to assist his cousin with the haymaking, and had taken his little daughter, Faye, for a day in the country, it being holiday-time for both.

After some hours' work in the hay field, the wagon piled high with hay and attached to the farm tractor, was being drawn into the yard. On top of the hay-load rode Stanley Murdoch, his daughter Faye, aged nine, and her two companions, children visiting on holiday. Andy Montgommery, who works on the farm for Theo. Murdoch, was driving the tractor. The road to the barn led across a gully, where there was no water at this time of year; nevertheless, the ground was soft and care had to be exercised in crossing. Andy stopped the tractor and got down to view the road ahead. Stanley Murdoch took the opportunity to descend from the load, and taking his seat on the tractor, started to lever the machine into motion. He was unacquainted with the operation of this particular model and had some difficulty getting it into gear; he got it started however, but while endeavoring to change gear, he applied the brake, which caused his little daughter to pitch forward from the load, landing on the ground in front of the heavy wagon wheel. Montgomery shouted to the driver to stop, but the noise of the running motor, and his attention to its operation, prevented Murdoch from hearing the warning or seeing the unconscious form of his daughter between the wheels. He continued to engage the clutch and the load was slowly moving forward when Montgomery threw himself on the ground between the heavy wheel and the unconscious child. With his left shoulder against the wheel he endeavored to pull the child from under the vehicle, and was dragged a distance of 10 feet along the soft earth before he succeeded in pulling her clear with his right hand.

When Murdoch became aware of what was happening, he stopped the tractor and dragged Montgommery from under the wheel, which had badly lacerated his shoulder and arm in his exertions to hold it off.

The child was taken to a doctor at Lachute, where she was found to be suffering from shock and fright, but otherwise uninjured. She was returned to her home at Brownsburg and has since completely recovered.

Andy Montgommery made little of his courageous act, saying, "I'd rather lose my life in an effort to save her, than see a little child killed." Andy is a veteran of the last war and landed at Dunkirk with the Canadians. He afterwards saw service in Belgium and Holland and fought with the infantry at Falaise, Caen and Nijmegen — household words during July 1944, but now distant memories of an unpleasant past.

Rehabilitation Aim, Shawbridge Farm; Speaker Tells of Methods and Results

The international aspect of Rotary was in evidence last Thursday when the Rev. Ralph Scott, of Hamilton; Bill Kerr, from Connecticut, U.S.A.; Harry Greenspon, of Hawkesbury; and Burt Millar, of Lachute, were guests.

Guest speaker of the evening was the Rev. Stanley Smith, Assistant Superintendent and Director of Training at the Shawbridge Boys' Farm and Training School, who gave an interesting talk on the aims, objects, history and problems of the Shawbridge Boys' Farm.

The aim of the school is to help each boy towards a satisfactory social adjustment so that he will be better able to meet the responsibilities of community life.

The school was founded in 1908 by a group of interested private individuals who are still the main supporters of the school. The first 15 boys arrived in chains, but since then a great many changes have taken place. Now the school is run on an honor system. There are no gates, no fences, no bars, no detention, no capital punishment. If a boy does not live up to the citizenship standard he loses certain privileges, such as leave to go to his home for a few days.

This school is the model for other similar schools in the Dominion and the U.S.A. The Government is now making a film of life routine at the farm and school, and is using Shawbridge for most of the scenes.

When a boy first enters the school he is met by the Boy Counsellor, who does nothing else but give advice to the boys. They are at liberty to go to this man at any time for help and advice. Then the boy is given a number of tests, and from the results he is placed with other boys among whom it is thought he will adjust himself most readily.

Training is given not only in academic subjects but also in the vocational field — trades, farm, machinery. For recreation there are Cadets, Scouts, Cubs and sports. Each boy is encouraged to follow his own religion, and ministers of different denominations come to the school to hold services.

Psychiatrists and psychologists visit the school each month and give advice to the instructors.

All of this training results in a high degree of rehabilitation. For boys from eight to 12 years of age there is up to 90% rehabilitation; for older boys the percentage is less, because the patterns have been set for a longer time. The overall rehabilitation is 60 to 65%. . . . This school can be likened to a hospital. It heals and repairs the defects in thinking and the maladjustments to society. It is not a reformatory.

The speaker was introduced by Stewart Jones and thanked by Philip Grant.

Half Century in Odd Fellowship

At a special meeting of the I.O.O.F. Laurentian Lodge on Tuesday evening — with the Noble Grand, Thos. Izzard, presiding — a 50-year membership jewel was presented to Bro. J. S. Giles. This honor was a timely gesture, in view of Mr. Giles' departure the following day on an ocean trip to England.

The presentation, accompanied by fitting remarks, was made by Walker K. McArthur, Grand Messenger of the Sovereign Lodge. The recipient, in reply to this recognition, reminisced on the early days of Odd Fellowship in this town.

At the regular lodge meeting next Tuesday, a young townsman, Jim Campbell, will be present to give impressions on his recent trip as a delegate to the I.O.O.F.-sponsored United Nations Pilgrimage for Youth.

Drowns from Yacht In North River

At the government pier in St. Andrews East, a prominent Montreal insurance broker, Gordon Findlay, 53, fell into the water Saturday night after arriving in his cabin cruiser from Hudson, and was drowned before his disappearance was discovered.

It is reported the craft approached around 8.30 p.m., and the owner, addressing someone on the dock, asked them to call a taxi. When the resident returned after complying with this request, the cruiser was adrift and Findlay was nowhere in sight. (It was revealed later that the man was subject to a heart ailment; it was believed he may have crossed the river in his cruiser to visit a doctor at St. Andrews East). It was concluded the victim had fallen overboard between the cement pier and the yacht; search was made with a grappling iron and Findlay was brought to the surface by Emile Paquette, after a ¾-hour search. He was found near the end of the wharf.

Dr. A. L'Allier was at the scene, and artificial respiration was applied on the victim until 11 p.m., when the physician pronounced him dead.

Det. Philippe Therriault, of Lachute, investigated the case, and Dr. Jules Lafleur, district coroner, closed the inquiry by pronouncing the death accidental.

The late Mr. Findlay was a keen sportsman — a former football and swimming champion. During World War I he served overseas. After his return to Canada he was member of the M.A.A.A. football team which won the Inter-Provincial Football League championship in 1919. In later years he was an ardent yachtsman. A member of the Hudson Yacht Club, he was a past commodore of the club.

Funeral service was held in Montreal on Wednesday. He is mourned by his wife and one daughter.

U.N. Medal for Personnel Serving in Korea

The establishment of a United Nations medal for personnel serving with the U.N. land, sea and air forces in Korea was announced recently at U.N. Headquarters. The medal, shown above, is made of bronze alloy and has an approximate diameter of 1⅜ inches. It is attached to a ribbon with nine blue and eight white vertical stripes. One side carries the inscription "For Service in the Defense of the Charter of the United Nations," and the other the U.N. emblem.

"Especially the bridges . . .

Says Georges Lapalme, Duplessis' Critic

By Richard Daigneault

Quebec, Aug. 14 (CP) — A statement by Liberal leader Georges Lapalme that Premier Duplessis links political meetings with religious demonstrations drew a reply from the Premier at his press conference Friday.

It all started when Mr. Lapalme, speaking at Ste. Anne des Monts, said the Premier "with too much facility allies political meetings with religious demonstrations."

The Premier commented the remark was "unfortunate".

"I regret these religious ceremonies offend the sensibilities of the seatless opposition leader", said the Premier. "It is unfortunate that a public man is opposed to the blessing of our public buildings by religious authorities".

The Premier referred to benediction of a post-office at St. Gregoire de Montmorency recently, followed by a speech by Postmaster General Rinfret. Mr. Rinfret is due to attend the benediction of a new post-office at Baie Comeau soon.

At St. Joseph d'Alma on Sunday, Mr. Lapalme told a Liberal meeting that Premier Duplessis' reply was "dishonest" and asked him to retract. He denied ever saying he was opposed to the blessing of public buildings and reiterated his statement that the Premier links rallies with religious demonstrations. Mr. Lapalme said he had no objection to the blessing of government schools and bridges — "especially the bridges, they need it."

Premier Duplessis announced Friday the government has authorized a diversion of the Megiscane River in Northwestern Quebec as part of a 35,000 horse-power hydro-electric project. This will raise to a total of 560,000 horse-power the extent of hydro development of the Megiscane area since 1945.

He also announced a request by MacLaren Quebec Power Company of Buckingham, Que., for authority to build a reservoir at Lake Kiamika in the aim of boosting its output by 30,000 horse-power.

He said "several million dollars" are involved in the Megiscane and Lake Kiamika plans and this will benefit the Quebec workers in wages and salaries.

Gatineau LINES

Power From The Ottawa

In recent weeks Gatineau Lines has been talking about the way in which the Gatineau River has been harnessed to supply electricity to more than 68,000 customers of Gatineau Power Company. But not all Gatineau's electricity is developed on the Gatineau River. The waters of the Ottawa do their part of the job too.

As a matter of fact, eight widely-scattered local power plants on smaller rivers throughout the Gatineau territory make their contribution to the electricity supply of the whole area also. These local power plants once did the whole job themselves, but now they are totally inadequate to meet all the demands for electricity, and 90% of the power comes from the big plants far away.

Such a plant is Bryson on the Ottawa River, 50 miles above Hull. With its concrete dam almost a third of a mile long, its spillway, its sluice dam, its generators and transformers, Bryson makes a 78,000 horsepower contribution to the electrical system of Gatineau Power.

Farther down the Ottawa, familiar to all residents of Hull and Ottawa, are the two Chaudière plants, with an installed capacity of 36,600 horsepower. Because they are so close to a thickly populated area, the Chaudières are probably the best known of all Gatineau Power's plants — but actually they are the smallest of all the company's major properties on the Gatineau and Ottawa rivers.

Paugan, Chelsea and Farmers on the Gatineau, Bryson and the Chaudières on the Ottawa, those are the "big fellows" of the Gatineau producing system. As we mentioned before, the small local plants do their part of the job too, but by far the biggest part of the load falls on the big plants. 68,000 people in Quebec Province benefit because those plants never sleep.

DID YOU KNOW?

The insulators which are so familiar to everyone who has ever examined a transmission pole, now cost 50 per cent more than they did in 1939. Gatineau Power has hundreds of thousands of these insulators in use.

Advice on Fertilizers

Farmers should follow closely the recommendations of provincial fertilizers advisory boards or councils. These are based on experimental work done by Federal and provincial departments of Agriculture, and the advisory boards keep pace with necessary changes by revising their recommendations from time to time. Pending revisions, some farmers often get increased yields when using fertilizers at higher rates of application than the recommendations, but care should be taken, for it is easy to go beyond the limits of profitable returns.

It is pointed out by G. W. Michael (Fertilizers), Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, that the recommendations are made on the assumption that farmers are doing all possible to maintain soil fertility by good cultural practices. This includes crop rotation, drainage, care of manure, growing good legume sods, and then balancing the plant food level with commercial fertilizer.

R.O.P. For Cattle

Under the Canadian Record of Performance service, provision is made for the establishment, under supervision of the Canada Department of Agriculture, of production credentials for pure-bred dairy cattle as a basis for the development of intelligent and constructive breeding programs. Such a service is considered basic for the improvement of seed stock and is an undertaking that could not be accomplished by individual breeders and breed organizations. Practically every country in which dairy cattle are of importance provides financial assistance toward a plan of this kind but none has supported such a service as generally as is done in Canada.

The service provides for the testing of all registered cows in the herd that have ever calved and for each lactation period as long as they are in the herd. Supervision is provided through employees of the Department of Agriculture. Certificates of production or statements of production are listed for all cows with yields for 180 days and over in the form of an annual report available to all interested in the performance of pure-bred dairy cattle of eight breeds including Ayrshire, Brown Swiss, Canadian, Guernsey, Holstein-Friesian, Jersey, Red Poll and Shorthorn.

Permanent Pastures In Eastern Canada

Permanent pastures in Eastern Canada are generally grazed continuously and as units. This type of pasture should be grazed to capacity but not over-grazed. This usually means, points out S. M. Donaldson, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, grazing heavily during May and June, moderately in the fall and little or none in midsummer. Some investigations have been conducted on the value of rotating grazing on permanent pastures but in general, the increased productivity from such grazing management has been insufficient to warrant the additional costs of fencing and watering facilities. Where the pasture is naturally divided into a number of fields with good water supplies, rotational grazing will undoubtedly prove advantageous. A modified form of rotational grazing which is useful on dairy farms is the provision of one pasture for day and one for night grazing.

Pastures in the farm rotation, made up chiefly of the larger legume and grass species, should not be grazed too closely. This does not mean that a "hay condition" should be allowed to develop since pastures become less palatable with advancing maturity. Ladino and alfalfa, both valuable pasture plants, are easily injured by too close grazing or grazing at the wrong time of the year. It is sound practice to take one or two hay crops from alfalfa before pasturing.

Rotating the livestock from one field to another provides a recovery period and helps to reduce injury to the stand. Grazing should be regulated so that 4 to 6 inches of growth is allowed to remain. At this height the crown of the alfalfa plant is not injured and the running stems of the ladino are protected.

Grazing should be discontinued early enough, says Mr. Donaldson, to allow for a growth of 6 to 8 inches in the fall so that a reserve of food may be stored in the roots to carry them through the winter and provide a vigorous growth in the spring. If required this herbage may be grazed off after cold weather sets in preventing any subsequent growth.

Help to Harvest Ontario's Hay Crop

Shortage of farm help in Ontario, particularly as regards hay harvesting, was being greatly relieved by men from Newfoundland, the Maritimes and Western Canada—according to Hon. Milton F. Gregg, Minister of Labor.

While 500 workers from New Brunswick and Nova Scotia and 500 from Western Canada had been expected, it became apparent that these provinces were not going to be able to provide a sufficient number. In view of this the movement was extended to Newfoundland.

Up to July 24, 936 men had been moved into Ontario — from Western Canada 242; Nova Scotia and New Brunswick 205; Newfoundland 489. It was expected a total of 1,000 would be reached.

This movement as in past years was arranged by the Federal-Provincial Farm Labor machinery, which had been in existence since the war years. As in previous years the railways again co-operated with the authorities by providing special low rates to all accepted workers. Costs of the transportation are divided among the worker, the receiving province and the Federal Government.

In addition to this movement, some existing shortages of farm help in Ontario had been relieved by Italian workers who arrived recently, Mr. Gregg pointed out.

Motorist Appreciates Courtesy on Dunany Road

TO THE EDITOR

Editor, The Watchman
Dear Sir:

Kindly allow me, through the medium of your column, to express my sincere appreciation and thanks to all those motorists on the Dunany road who stopped to offer their assistance on the night of August 10th, when I was experiencing some difficulty with my car.

During the time I was there, not one car passed by without inquiring whether they could be of any help, and several motorists wished to take my family all the way back to Lachute.

While I waited, about 15 to 20 cars arrived, some bearing Ontario license plates, the remainder Quebec, but each and every driver stopped.

To all these people, and especially to the gentleman who phoned for the tow truck — once again, thank you very much for your offers of assistance, and your courtesy.

Sincerely,
A. E. Winmill.

"Dog Days"

THESE ARE the "dog days" if ever — a languid lapse in community living. Many of the town's organizations are suspended for the summer; and the weather is so erratic this year that even the Great Outdoors lacks something of its all-absorbing spell. We seem to be betwixt and between, waiting for Something Big to sweep the community with a wave of enthusiasm.

It is a good time to ruminate on the satisfying things. We expend much effort (editorially) harping and criticizing; but now we have the urge to sit back and rejoice, in many signs which prove our conviction that this is a worthwhile place to live in. . .

The well-kept civic park, and the bright gardens in which so many residents take obvious pride. . . The improvements to our streets, through efforts of our M.L.A., town authorities and the Quebec Roads Department. . . The Ayers recreation centre and the baseball park, both in full swing of activity, providing exercise and relaxation for working folk. . . Kiddies enjoying the privileges of the swimming pool through courtesy of the Lions Club. . . The community park and bathing beach for which the Rotary has worked so arduously and with such satisfying results. . . The bright restaurants and tourist spots. . . And the building construction, residential and business, that continues quietly, unobtrusively, on every hand.

We could, of course, give publicity to the weeds, the eyesores, the unsavory sights. . . but we are in a mood to relish now the good things of our town and district. In the "dog days" of summer, though apathy may be apparent, it's only surface deep. The good old community spirit is thoroughly alive.

The C.W.N.A. Get-Together

THIS WEEK The Watchman is represented at the annual convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association, being held in Winnipeg.

One of the largest and most influential newspaper associations in the world, the C.W.N.A. holds an annual get-together for a number of reasons. Most important is the objective that underlies most of the work of the association, that of developing better weekly newspapers from coast to coast in Canada. That this objective is a worthy one, and is in a measure being attained, is borne out in the fact that many weeklies in this country have made tremendous improvements during the years since the last war.

Another reason for the convention is the opportunity it affords for newspaper men and women to discuss mutual problems, both at the formal sessions and in talking shop with one another as newspaper people invariably do. Surprising how many ideas for turning out better papers are to be picked up at these off-the-record discussions.

Addresses, round table discussions, forums, displays — all of these assist the newspaper people in gathering useful information and bright new ideas.

The convention, too, helps solve problems in connection with the business of turning out a newspaper that will be a credit to the hometown community. These days, goodness knows, there are enough problems, some of them affecting the very existence of weekly newspapers in this country.

But the annual C.W.N.A. gathering is not all work. There is for instance, the pleasure of greeting old newspaper friends and making new ones. Time is allotted for dinners, luncheons and even a special breakfast, receptions, an all day tour to a paper mill and power development, and for just having fun.

Represented at the C.W.N.A. this year are newspapers in every province from British Columbia to Newfoundland. The gathering is symbolic of the unity that exists in this nation.

The annual get-together gives at least some of Canada's weekly newspaper people a chance to get away, if only for a brief time, from deadlines and routine. Serious though its purpose is, it is held in a holiday atmosphere which gives those attending a chance to relax between sessions. It is a happy combination of hard work and good fun.

Directly or indirectly The Watchman will benefit from the 1951 get-together of Canada's weekly newspaper people. This is, incidentally, the thirty-second annual meeting of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association and is one of the best attended in the history of the association.

SOME OF US can hardly wait until we're seventy so that the government can start taking care of us.

Then and Now

The happy era at the height of Queen Victoria's reign is detailed in a book called the "Home Cook Book", published about 1885, which went beyond recipes and household hints to provide a guide to proper manners for every social occasion. It is a warm reminder of quieter, gentler days when a list of "economical dinners" recommended beef on four days of the week.

There's a strangely up-to-date note in the advice given the Victorian housewife, to the effect "the whole family system depends on you. . . There is a great work to be done in Canadian kitchens". She didn't have a vote in those days and she didn't have electrical kitchen gadgets. But neither did she have to contend with present-day food prices.

The cook book of those days could tell a hostess that out of 150 invited to a party only two-thirds would attend. If 500 were invited, not more than 300 could be expected.

They were great eaters in those days — those who could afford it. Breakfast might include beefsteak and creamed potatoes, or perhaps broiled chicken, roast potatoes and scrambled eggs.

The book took for granted that its reader had a large income and a great capacity for work. She was "the woman of intellect . . talented . . useful in the church or society". Her daughter studied music, languages and philosophy and her home, staffed with maids and servants, was the scene of gay and gracious dinner parties.

Her sitting room was always clean "because she sweeps it with tea leaves and sponges the carpet with ox gall."

The ideal housewife could also "set a pane of glass, put on a door knob and hang a gate in the best style". And yet, on her appointed visiting day, guests always found her busy with some elegant trifle of lace or wool-work, writing letters, or touching up a sketch, to be laid aside on the entrance of visitors."

There is a dreadful warning that indifferent housekeeping is "fatal to her influence, a foil to her brilliancy and a blemish in her garments." . . . It's as true today as it ever was.

ALTHOUGH they do not seem to be included in the government index, taxes certainly form one of the chief ingredients of the cost-of-living in this day and age. If every tax were suddenly removed from the goods we buy, we would be amazed at how low prices would be.

A MAN who makes money hand over fist usually has a wife who makes the fist hand over the money.

The King's Health

A year's leave of absence for King George VI "to prolong his life" is suggested in the current issue of Maclean's in an article "Is A Sense of Duty Breaking the King?

"The conviction now lies deeply on Britain's conscience that the King has been monstrously overworked in its service, that he is cracking under the strain, and that only some drastic easing of the burden can be of real help to him", says British writer John Cotton.

The first major signs of what this hard work was doing to the King became apparent in 1948, Cotton points out, when he was ordered to rest. But in March 1949 he had to undergo an operation to free the flow of blood to his right foot — what medical men call a lumbar sympathectomy.

"No diagnosis of the disease for which the operation was performed has been made official, but there seems little doubt that it was Buerger's disease (which narrows the arteries and cuts off circulation). The operation could at best afford relief for a time. In almost all cases the inflammation builds up again and normally the affected limb has to be amputated".

Cotton quotes a London specialist on circulatory diseases, such as that suffered by the King: "If the British nation and the rest of the Commonwealth knew the full facts about the King's health and understood how he drives himself to his health's detriment, they would insist that he take a year from duty. It would prolong the King's life by at least ten years and it would do more to slow down, if not halt, the basic trouble in his leg than any other thing."

The King's stubborness of character, his steady refusal to take things more easily and his complete submergence in his job were the overriding factors in the development of his illness, says Cotton.

"Come sickness, come health, come holidays, come Christmas with his family, the King's state duties remain as relentless and remorseless as fate itself". Normally they include:

Seven hundred public appearances a year, most of them in heavy uniform, some in heavy state dress; personally meeting an average of twenty people a day — seven hundred a year, sometimes meeting more than two hundred at a single function; travelling at least twenty thousand miles a year in England alone."

"Reform of the Court is overdue", says Cotton, "if, as is certainly now the case, its demands are slowly killing the man at its head".

"I WILL — IF I HAVE TIME"

The tempo of this modern age,
As anyone observes,
Is much inclined to agitate
And irritate the nerves.
There's too much rush and bustle —
Too little time for rest
Or quiet meditation,
And if you have a guest
Drop in to pay a visit
It's ten to one he'll say:
"Good-bye, I must be going now,
So sorry I can't stay."
And you'll reply: "So long, old chap,
Your visit was sublime
And I'll drop in some day next week —
That is, if I have Time!"
If I have time! That's just what's wrong
With this old world of ours,
For tasks that once took weeks or days
Can now be done in hours
With labor saving gadgets
Quite unknown to our dads —
Time-saving gimmicks just to please
The modern lazy lads
Are now available to all —
Some only cost a dime,
And yet the same old cry goes up:
"I will if I have time!"
Oh, for the horse-and-buggy days
When Grandpa took a nap
Before returning to his work,
And there, on Grandma's lap
The pussy-cat lay sleeping
While Grandma dozed a bit —
No wonder that they lived so long
And kept themselves so fit.
We need more rest, we modern crew,
And we should go to bed
Instead of working overtime
And staying up instead.
A short siesta every day
Will give one added powers,
So always take a mid-day nap —
If only for three hours.

DISTRICT NEWS FROM OUR COUNTY CORRESPONDENTS

Calumet

Recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Druce were Mr. Alfred Druce, of Detroit, Mich., Mrs. H. Grainge, of Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. J. Druce, of Hawkesbury, and Mr. and Mrs. F. Druce, of Victoria, B.C. (Mr. and Mrs. F. Druce, who flew to England in May to attend the Festival of Britain, have just returned and are now visiting relatives in this vicinity until next Monday, when they will proceed by plane to their home in Victoria).

Miss Mildred Brigden and Mrs. H. Lessard motored to Buffalo, N.Y., last week to visit friends and relatives. Miss Brigden unfortunately was taken ill while there, and is now in hospital. Her many friends hope she will soon be well enough to return home.

Mr. George Martin, of Toronto, spent the week-end here. Mrs. Martin and little daughter, Donna, who have been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Martin for the past month, returned home with her husband.

The Rev. and Mrs. J. Irving, of St. Lambert, have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Foreman for the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Cooke and children, Valerie and Lorne, of Lowe, Que., spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. H. Trineer

Mr. and Mrs. M. Matthew and children, Brian and Dawna, of Kilmar, are visiting at the home of Mr. W. E. Brigden.

Misses Shirley Welden and Evie Welden, of Lachute, are spending a few days with their grandmother, Mrs. S. Filoon.

BIRTH

APPROACHING MARRIAGE

STEPHENS-GUILBERT—Mr. and Mrs. Edgar A. Guilbert, of Brownsburg, announce the approaching marriage of their youngest daughter, Françoise Cora, to Mr. William Owen Stephens of Lachute, to take place on Thursday, August 23, in St. Louis de France Church, Brownsburg, Que.

DEATHS

MONCRIEFF — On Saturday, Aug. 11, 1951, Margaret Maud Cox, wife of the late John Moncrieff, in her 80th year.

SCOTT—Suddenly, at the Burlington Hospital, on Saturday, Aug. 11, 1951, Janet McEntee, beloved wife of Gilbert W. Scott, 39 Grant St., Burlington, Vermont. Interment at Richmond, Prince Edward Island.

IN MEMORIAM

BARLEY — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Mary E. Carpenter, who passed away August 15, 1949. — Ever remembered by her children.

"Your memory to us is a keepsake,
With which we will never part,
Though God has you in his keeping
We still have you in our hearts."

DUNMORE — In loving memory of Mother; Aug. 15, 1950. — Ever remembered by Lily M., Lily D., Ivy, Jim, Joe and Our Mac.

"Beautiful memories are all we have left,
Of Mum, whom we loved and will never forget;
Never selfish, but willing and kind,
What a beautiful memory to leave behind."

LOUDIN — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Robert John, accidentally killed Aug. 17, 1946. — Forever remembered by his mother and sisters, Kay, Margaret and Eleanor.

"We still remember the way you looked,
The way you spoke and smiled,
The little things you said and did
Are with us all the while.
What if meant to lose you,
None will ever know,
For the ache in our hearts is here today,
Just as it was five years ago."

MONCRIEFF — In loving memory of a dear dad, Geo. Moncrieff, who left us suddenly, Aug. 19, 1946. — Ever remembered by Violet, Stanley and Hartland.

"The dearest dad the world could hold,
A cheery smile, a heart of gold.
For those who knew him, all will know
How much we lost five years ago."

REID—In memory of James Reid, who passed away Aug. 14, 1948. — Always remembered by his wife and son, Donald.

STEWART — In loving memory of our sister, Grace, who died Aug. 16, 1942. — Ever remembered by the Moncrieff family.

"Nine years ago a message came
From God, who thought it best,
To take her from this weary world
To a land of peace and rest.
Some day we hope to meet her,
Some day, we know not when,
And clasp her hand in that better land
Never to part again."

Women's Institute

The monthly meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the school auditorium last Wednesday evening, the president, Mrs. Davis, occupying the chair. The meeting was devoted to the planning of the annual School Fair, to take place September 8. The members were then entertained by a short recital given by Mrs. Vogan (the former Miss Sylvia Kelsey), who charmed the audience with her beautiful soprano voice and her well chosen pieces. At the close, the president thanked the soloist, and also the accompanist, Mrs. Melvin Graham.

Grace Church Bazaar

The annual bazaar of Grace Anglican Church was held in the school auditorium on Saturday evening, when various gaily decorated booths did a thriving business. A splendid program was given by a group of children from Weir, under the direction of Mrs. Driver, assisted by Mrs. Roy Williams. The various items gave evidence of careful and intensive training. During the evening, the correct name of the doll (Blondie) was guessed by a little girl attending; and in guessing the weight of a fruit cake, Miss Barbara Boyd was the winner. (The president, Mrs. Alec Dewar, takes this opportunity to thank all who helped to make this annual event a success; a substantial sum was realized to carry on the work of the Auxiliary).

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Bulley, accompanied by Mrs. K. Higginbotham, are leaving for a short motor trip to Schenectady, where they will be guests of the former's niece and nephew, Mr. and Mrs. Hilton Nelson.

Miss Barbara Staniforth is on a short visit to Rosemere, the guest of Miss Carol Patterson.

Bible Society

The Arundel Auxiliary Branch of the British and Foreign Bible Society will hold its annual meeting in Arundel United Church this Sunday evening, at 7.30. Presiding minister will be the Rev. D. H. Rayner, assisted by Mr. K. Fenton and Mr. Busing. At the conclusion of the service, the congregation will adjourn to the church hall, where two films will be shown, entitled "The House of the Book" and "The Braille Bible". Refreshments will be served in conclusion.

The Misses Ethel and Winifred Cooke and Mrs. Roy Cooke have left on a motor trip to New York and Belmar, N.J.

Juvenile Effort

The sum of $3 has been forwarded to the Junior Red Cross, which was the net proceeds of a Punch Sale and View Master Films, which were held by the "Mockin' Bird Hill Club". This club includes the following members—Deborah Ann Beers, Jane Lennen, John Graham and Louise Graham. The films were shown through the kindness of Bobby Cooke.

GUILTY BY ACCIDENT

Edmonton (CP) — The magistrate said, "I don't think it's right but I have to do it", as he fined an Edmonton man $20 for illegal possession of liquor. The man said five bottles in an unopened carton had been smashed when his car collided with another vehicle.

Flowers decorating the altar on Sunday morning in St. Matthew's Anglican Church were in memory of the late Geo. Moncrieff.

Christening

The christening of Florence May, baby daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. P. Raymond Stote, took place the first Sunday of August, at 3 p.m. in St. Matthew's Church, Grenville. The ceremony was performed by the father, rector of the parish. The godparents were the Rev. and Mrs. Cecil Royle, of Hudson Heights, and Miss May Matthew, of Grenville. Those attending from a distance were — Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Mimee, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur King, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mimee and their three sons, all of Montreal; the Rev. and Mrs. Cecil Royle and three sons, from Hudson Heights.

On returning from the church, a christening tea for 28 persons was held in the rectory, in honor of the occasion.

Parish of Grenville Services

During the absence of the rector — the Rev. E. C. Royle, of Hudson Heights, will conduct the 11 a.m. service in St. Matthew's Church, Grenville, on August 19, and the Rev. James Meakin, rector of Hawkesbury, will be in charge of the service at the same hour, on August 26. Mr. Meakin will also be on call in case of special need. The congregation of Holy Trinity, Calumet, are asked to attend St. Matthew's, Grenville, for these two Sundays.

Mabel

Mrs. John Heatlie, Sr., Mrs. John Heatlie, Jr., and little son John, Miss Shirley Heatlie, Mrs. Carson Tomalty and Mrs. Raymond Warwick, attended the open meeting held by the Rivington Baptist Mission Circle at Bell Falls on Saturday last. Mrs. P. Roberts, treasurer of the Foreign Mission Board of Baptist Churches, was guest speaker.

Friends of Mrs. Calvert McKenzie (formerly Muriel Townsend), of Dalhousie, N.B., will be sorry to learn that she is undergoing medical treatment in Montreal, following an operation. Best wishes are extended for her speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Perley Clark and children, Truman and Andrew, also Miss Jean Clark, visited Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Cunning at Vankleek Hill on Sunday.

Master David Black has spent the past ten days at Peace Memorial Camp at Lancaster, Ont.

Miss Ruth Leishman is conducting a Daily Vacation Bible School in the Chatham West Baptist Church. The work is very helpful and interesting for the children of the community, and the attendance is encouraging.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Ashbury, of Belleville, Ont., who are visiting Mrs. D. A. McKenzie at Brownsburg, and other relatives in the district, called on Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Clark on Monday evening.

Mrs. John Douglas, Mrs. M. Wilson and Mrs. D. Clark were guests of the Pioneer Women's Institute when they motored by bus to Ottawa recently and visited Radio Station CFRA and Frank Ryan's Kilreen Farm. The ladies were interviewed by Mr. Ryan on his program "The Farmer's Note Book", and later were entertained at the farm by Mr. and Mrs. Ryan.

OBITUARY

Long-Time Resident Mourned at Mille Isles

Late Miss Annie Moore

Mille Isles — The death occurred August 11 of Miss Annie Moore, 83-year-old resident of Mille Isles, the daughter of the late Charles Moore and his wife, Ann Nicholson. The late Miss Moore died at the residence of her nephew, Douglas G. M. Dawson, on the old homestead where she was born.

The community has lost a respected resident in her passing, and a loyal member of Christ Church, which she had attended since early childhood. She was the last of her family in Mille Isles, all having predeceased her.

Left to mourn her loss are one niece, Mrs. A. W. Williams, of Lindsay, Ont., and two nephews, Douglas and Duncan Dawson, of Mille Isles.

Funeral services, at the home and in the church, were conducted by the Rev. Capt. Horace Baugh, and his father, the Rev. C. W. P. Baugh, who spoke with kindly feeling of the deceased and brought comfort to the bereaved niece and two nephews, and their families. Beautiful floral offerings bore token of the love and esteem in which she was held.

Burial was made beside her father in the family plot at Christ Church Cemetery, Mille Isles.

Pall bearers were — Messrs. William Seale, Walter Maxwell, Norman Patterson, Gilbert Ryan, Leonard Pollock and Leslie Robinson.

Late J. MacKimmie Of Aurora, Illinois

John MacKimmie, 91, a general contractor in Aurora for many years, and one of the best-known builders in the U.S. middle west, died recently at the St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Aurora.

Mr. MacKimmie had resided at 634 Iowa Avenue, in a home he had built for himself and his family 63 years ago.

Born June 21, 1860, in Lachute, Mr. MacKimmie went to Aurora in July of 1880, when he was 20 years old. He went into business for himself in 1891.

He leaves three daughters, Mrs. Kathryn Graham and Mrs. Ethel Mercer, both of whom lived with their father, and Mrs. Mildred Eeten, of Wheaton. Mrs. MacKimmie and a son, Bertram, preceded him in death. Bertram died during the influenza epidemic in 1918. Five grandchildren; six great-grandchildren; a brother, Thomas, of South Haven, Mich.; two sisters, Mrs. William Wilson, of Lachute, and Mrs. James Elliott, of Prescott, Ont., also survive him.

Mr. MacKimmie was a member of Aurora Lodge No. 254, A.F. & A.M., Tebala Temple of the Mystic Shrine, and the Shrine Club. For many years he had been active in the Aurora Kiwanis Club.

To Officer's Rank in Royal Canadian Navy

J. Sosnkowski, of Arundel, was among naval cadets who graduated last week from the Royal Roads Joint Service College at Victoria, B.C., in a ceremony attended by Rear Admiral Wallace B. Creery, Flag Officer of the Pacific Coast. The graduate cadets will enter the executive branch of the Royal Canadian Navy.

Reorganized after World War II, the Royal Roads institution trains young Canadians for commissioned rank in all three branches of the service.

"Junior Won't Eat!"

(Copyright)

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"He won't eat! I am so worried about Junior that I am taking him to see a specialist this week."

"Really, I don't know what is the matter with Mary's appetite! She eats next to nothing!"

Have you ever heard remarks like these coming from anxious parents? Have you ever made similar comments yourself about your own child?

Strangely enough, eating which should be a pleasure, becomes a problem in many modern homes. This situation is hardly ever found in primitive civilizations. Nor are families where poverty makes food scarce, apt to be troubled by "non-eaters". Refusal of food mostly vexes parents of middle class and wealthy homes and is prevalent in the case of only children.

Here is one place where a child can successfully defy his parents. "Force feeding", even of a gentle type, is utterly useless for a normal healthy child. Bribes, threats, punishments, none of these are effective in solving this difficulty.

Parents must try to discover what is the underlying cause of the child's indifference to food. There are a number of reasons why a child may not want to eat. His refusal may not have one simple origin. Rather this may arise for several combined reasons. Only by patient observation can mother put her finger on the reason or reasons why her child won't eat.

The child may be a sick child and a doctor's advice and possibly a tonic is needed. Perhaps candy or nibbling food between meals is destroying the child's appetite. If he is worried or feels hurried, he will not be keen about his food. Perhaps the child is copying an adult who has voiced a dislike for food. If the child's health is suffering over a period of time a physician must be consulted. But if the problem has just appeared, mother may be able to deal with it herself.

When a child says "I don't want it!" over one particular food, don't worry too much. If he won't drink his milk, give him more junket, custards, milk puddings, soup and cheese. Before long he will want milk to drink and you will have avoided an unnecessary issue. Parents who are not too insistent on "Clean Plates" for every meal, have fewer eating problems, than those who are too strict.

If a child refuses to eat what is set before him at one particular meal, don't let him get you all excited. Perhaps he is seeing if he can have some fun by "getting a rise" out of you! Give him twenty minutes to finish his meal. Don't coax, fuss or threaten. At the end of meal time, remove his dishes, and do not give him anything else to eat until the next meal time! This may sound hard-hearted but many parents can testify that this plan works.

There is a chance that a child may be refusing food because he is emotionally upset. He thinks Baby Sister has been receiving too much attention. When he is reassured that he gets his fair share of mother's care, his appetite suddenly returns to him.

Mothers are concerned that their children should eat a well balanced diet. But if there is a worried, anxious atmosphere at meal time, this destroys the relaxed, contented feeling which should be present. Are meals a happy occasion or a battle-ground in your home?

Convincing Themselves Their New Shoes Are Real

These two Italian youngsters can scarcely believe their own eyes, as they examine two of 800,000 pairs of shoes made and distributed in Italy through a project sponsored by the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund. Scenes like this one will soon be repeated again and again in the south Italian commune of Pollica, whose Mayor had reluctantly turned down a UNICEF offer of 50 pairs of shoes, because 300 children had no shoes at all and he hadn't the heart to pick out only 50 lucky ones. Now he doesn't have to make the choice, because a manufacturer in the United States, reading of his dilemma, telephoned UNICEF and offered to ship 250 pairs of shoes free for all of Pollica's neediest children.

Former Lachute Boy Married in London, Ont.

Jolley - Loree

In a pretty ceremony held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert G. Zilliax, Wallace Street, Listowel, Ont., Miss Nora Eva Loree, of London, became the bride of Donald J. R. Jolley, of London and formerly of this town.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George W. Loree, of Shaunavon, Sask., while the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. T. E. Murphy and Mr. Murphy, of 819 Lorne Ave., London.

Baskets of white hydrangea and blue delphinium with red roses, lilies and sweet peas formed the setting for the ceremony, performed by Rev. J. D. Martin, minister of the Listowel United Church, at two-thirty o'clock.

Soloist was the bride's sister, Mrs. Zilliax, who sang "Because".

For her wedding costume the bride chose a gown of mauve triple sheer with matching headdress of veiling and flowers. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and white sweet peas.

Nora E. Zilliax, of Listowel, niece of the bride, as bridesmaid wore a dove grey frock with hat fashioned of mauve veiling. Daisies and yellow mums formed her bouquet.

LAC. John Rogerson, of Centralia, was best man.

A reception was held, with Mrs. Zilliax receiving in a yellow and green flowered silk jersey dress with a corsage of Pinnochio roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a costume of blue triple sheer with a similar corsage.

The bride's table was centred with the wedding cake, tall yellow tapers and Pinnochio roses. Mrs. O. George Loree, of London, poured tea, while Mrs. Len Loree, of Windsor, and Mrs. Henry Stock, of Centralia, served the guests.

Following a wedding trip to Northern Ontario, Mr. and Mrs. Jolley will reside at 372 Ontario Street, London.

WIDEN SCHOOL BODY

Portage La Prairie, Man. (CP) — First step in formation of a new school trustee body was taken when representatives of seven of the larger school districts met to discuss finance and teacher employment. Represented were Neepawa, Minnedosa, Dauphin, Souris, Brandon, Shoal Lake and Portage la Prairie.

ARTIFICIAL LAKE

Walford, Ont. (CP) — The main street of this town near Sault Ste. Marie had been dug out to a depth of two feet in preparation for paving, when a bad electric storm with heavy rain struck the community. The streets turned into a rushing canal, bogging cars.

HERE AND THERE

Answering a call from the Bill Stewart farm 10 miles north of Morden, Man., the brigade rushed for the scene. A few miles north they saw smoke and headed for it, passing a mile west of the burning building on the Stewart farm and ended up on a farm a mile north, where a startled farmer declined help for a stubble fire. . . When Clem Proctor, North York hydro superintendent, took over his uncle's farm on the Picton-Cherry Valley road, his city friends gave him a send-off with two 100-lb. registered pigs.

H. Halland, Shoal Lake farmer, lost his farm house by fire; the town fire engine rushed to the blaze, but after leaving highway bogged down in the soft, soggy road leading to farm.

Public Notice

Province of Quebec,
Municipality of
Ivry-sur-le-Lac,
County of Terrebonne.

At an adjourned meeting of the Municipal Council of Ivry-sur-le-Lac, County of Terrebonne, held in the municipal hall (School No. 3), Ivry North, Saturday, the fourteenth day of the month of July, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty One, at 7 p.m. in the afternoon, at which meeting were present — Messrs. Walter Whelan, mayor; Romeo Primeau, councillor; Honorious Valade, councillor; Edouard Lanthier, councillor; Irving R. Tait, councillor—all councillors forming quorum and sitting under the presidency of the Mayor, in conformity with the dispositions of the Municipal Code of the Province of Quebec.

It is ordered and enacted by resolutions of Council as follows:

Whereas — An order prohibiting the sale of alcoholic beverages and a grant of permits for the said sale in the limits of the Municipality of Ivry-sur-le-Lac, duly adopted about thirty-seven years ago before the territory forming the Municipality of Ivry-sur-le-Lac, was detached from the Parish of Ste. Agathe des Monts, should be repealed by the present order;

And Whereas — A request presented by Mr. David Berzan, representing the Manitou Lodge Incorporated, situated in the limits of the Municipality of Ivry-sur-le-Lac, County of Terrebonne, asking this Council to adopt an order for requesting the Quebec Liquor Commission, to consent to one or more permits, allowing the sale of alcoholic beverages, beer and wine, in the said limits of the Municipality of Ivry-sur-le-Lac and to submit same, according to the law, to the approbation of the municipal electors;

And Whereas — The present order of revocation should be submitted to the approbation of the electors according to the formalities prescribed under the Chapter 257, from Revised Statutes of Quebec 1941;

And Whereas — A notice of motion has been given at the meeting of the Council dated the 7th day of July, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-One, of the order to be passed at a session of the Council to the effect of permitting the sale of alcoholic beverages, beer and wine, in the limits of the Municipality of Ivry-sur-le-Lac, County of Terrebonne, under the dispositions of the Temperance Law of the Province of Quebec;

After deliberations, it is proposed by the Councillor Edouard Lanthier, seconded by Councillor Honorious Valade, and unanimously adopted, that it should be ordered and enacted by order in Council as follows:

Order No. 49

The Municipal Council of the Municipality of Ivry-sur-le-Lac, County of Terrebonne, claims by the present order to the Quebec Liquor Commission to establish one or more permits for the sale of alcoholic beverages, beer and wine, in the limits of the Municipality of Ivry-sur-le-Lac, County of Terrebonne, the whole in conformity of the said law concerning alcoholic beverages.

The present order would have to be submitted according to law, to the approbation of the municipal electors of the Municipality of Ivry-sur-le-Lac, County of Terrebonne, at the dates and the place which will be fixed by a public notice given for this purpose and will take effect only after having been approved by the majority of the said electors who will have voted.

Given at Ivry-sur-le-Lac, County of Terrebonne, this fourteenth day of the month of July, One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-One. (True Copy)

Magic Words

Efficiency and management, and their variants, are the magic words of the times. They are invested with all the glamor of a pin-up in a desert bivvy. Cloaked in the mysterious language of a growing army of self-appointed magicians, they are the battle-cry of a popular movement, almost a crusade, for the achievement of something better, even if that something is not always explicitly defined. Ornamented with half-tones and handsome facades, the edifices of their disciples command even the grudging respect of the unconverted. Preaching efficiency has, in fact, become something of an industry in its own right.

Up to a point, this is all to the good. Conditions in recent times have emphasized the need for the closest investigation into the efficiency of all phases of our national economy with a view to preventing a decline in the standard of living of the people. As citizens we are all concerned to see that the most economic use is made of the productive resources of the country, to see that no one undertaking or industry is permitted to use an unreasonable share of such resources in relation to the benefit it returns to the people, especially where the undertaking or industry is protected by privilege of one kind or another. As units of demand in the competitive market, we can exercise some influence on standards of efficiency by transferring our preferences to commodities or services from which we derive the greatest utility. For local government officers, it is their particular concern to see that citizens are not prejudiced because of their inability to exercise preferences in relation to municipal services, to see, in other words, that waste and inefficiency in local government are reduced to a minimum.

Setting aside inefficiencies which are inherent in the system itself, in the limitatons, for instance, of the taxing system and of the constitutional and legislative set-up, it can hardly be denied that there is room for improvement in local government. Certain of the deficiencies are symptomatic of the national productive effort as a whole, others are peculiar to local government. Much has been written on the measures which can be adopted to achieve economies, and an increasing number of local authorities are profiting from the adoption of methods which had their origin outside the field of local government.

However, while embracing what is best in a changing world, local government would do well to reflect that, in the final analysis, the attainment of efficiency is dependent on its own resources. Within its own ranks are the practised and expert administrators whose intimate knowledge of muhicipal affairs is the best guarantee of success. The danger lies in the glitter of an organized efficiency industry which may obscure the obvious and lead to the taking of costly steps which, eventually, may lead nowhere.

Peaceful P.E.I.

Prince Edward Island is Canada's most blessed province. . . It is reported that since 1937 in the whole province there has not been a single case of assault on wife, indecent assault, desertion of family, neglect of children, or contributing to the delinquency of a child.

There are no highwaymen, no gangsters, no commercialized vice, no real crime problem and no penitentiary. There are only 23 policemen for its 90,000 people, and it hasn't had an execution in 40 years.

Town-planning is for everyone, and it is high time that it was taken out of the rarefied atmosphere of planning for planning's sake and brought down to earth so that it can be appreciated at the level of the man in the street. Planning Boards and commissioners — yes, even the dreamers — have their rightful place but their plans for guiding the future growth of the community should receive the careful scrutiny of hard-headed men of business who will foot most of the bill and benefit or suffer most by the results.

Provincial Agriculture Museum in Manitoba

Portage la Prairie Collection Includes 90-Year-Old Tractor

Portage la Prairie, Man. (CP) — When present plans materialize, this western Manitoba farming centre will soon have a provincial agricultural museum — the first of its kind in the province.

The museum will consist of a machine of every type used since agricultural mechanization began and will stand as a memorial to the pioneers who used them. Pieces now are being collected and when assembled will be painted and polished to look as original as possible.

Mayor H. L. Henderson officially inaugurated the museum during the Portage last year. Since then Don Carrothers, an Austin farmer and a director of the museum, has located and been promised hundreds of exhibits.

Some of the older pieces of equipment located include a Townsend tractor of 1916 which looks like a steam engine, but is actually an oil burner, and a 90-year-old Watrous chain-driven tractor with an upright boiler.

1869 Steam-Engine

The collection also includes a Case Eclipse steam engine of 1869 which is built on wooden wheels and drawn by either horses or oxen.

A 60-horse-power Case steam engine, owned by Carrothers and on exhibition at the recent fair, will be another museum exhibit.

This steamer, which Carrothers threshed with only three years ago, has one piston, a disc-side crank, two power strokes to the revolution and a 40-inch fly-wheel belt pulley revolving 250 times a minute. It stands about 10 feet high and weighs eight tons.

The old machine was used to saw 30,000 feet of lumber this spring. Carrothers said the steam engine is the most economical engine in the world for belt work. "When we are sawing lumber we use the waste lumber for fuel and on the grain field we use straw."

"Glamor Girl", as he calls the steamer, "was quite a gal in her day. She could out-drink and outsmoke any man."

COUPLE ON HONEYMOON TRIP TO LACHUTE

Walker - Reimer

The church parlor of Young United Church, Winnipeg, was the setting for a wedding, August 4, at 3.30 p.m., when vows were exchanged between Eileen Gladys, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Reimer, Altona, and Harold Lloyd Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Walker, of Lachute. Dr. W. E. Donnelly officiated. Mrs. Alfred Loewen, of Altona, aunt of the bride, played the wedding music, and Miss Kathleen Hoeppner, of Altona, a friend of the bride, sang "The Lord's Prayer" during the signing of the register.

The bride's cocktail-length gown of beige Chantilly lace over pink satin was fashioned with a fitted jacket of matching lace over satin featuring a low-cut neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. She wore a bonnet of matching material and lace mitts. Her cascade bouquet of Johanna Hill roses and stephanotis was centred with a white orchid.

Attending the bride was Miss Vivian Siemens, of Winnipeg, who wore a gown of pale blue Chantilly lace over pale blue taffeta, and her fitted jacket of the same lace was fashioned with a mandarin collar and long sleeves. A bonnet of lace matched her gown and she carried a fan of lace and pink carnations.

Robert O. Pearce, of Gretna, was best man for his friend.

Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Walker left on a wedding trip to Lachute. For travelling the bride changed into a gray suit of English wool and pink accessories and she wore a corsage of pink roses. They will reside in Edmonton.

Couple to Reside In Brownsburg

Tomalty - Newton

The marriage of Miss Rosella Esther Newton, daughter of the late Leslie Newton and Mrs. Newton, of Silver Creek, to Mr. Alvin M. Tomalty, son of the late Gordon R. Tomalty and Mrs. Tomalty, of Brownsburg, was solemnized at 7 o'clock on Saturday, July 28, at the Anglican parsonage in Lachute. The Rev. C. R. Lang officiated, in a double-ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Clinton Newton, of Ottawa, the bride was dressed in a white sharkskin suit and white straw hat, and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations, sweet peas and baby's breath, her only ornament being a gold locket, the gift of the groom.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Robert Creswell, wore an aqua sharkskin suit with white hat and accessories, and carried a bouquet of white and pink carnations and sweet peas.

Mr. Robert Creswell, cousin of the groom, acted as best man.

The bride's mother wore a navy dress and navy hat with matching accessories, and a corsage of red carnations. The groom's mother was in a figured nylon taffeta dress, with white hat and white accessories, and a corsage of pink carnations.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's cousin, Miss Florence Newton, where the decorations were carried out in pink and white with summer flowers, the bride's table being centred with a three-tier wedding cake.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Tomalty left on a motor trip through New York State and the Thousand Islands, the bride travelling in a white suit and hat, with a corsage of pink carnations and carrying a grey wool shortie coat. . . On their return they will reside in Brownsburg.

The International Peace Garden

The International Peace Garden: What is it? Where is it? Branches of the Quebec Women's Institutes have been making a small per capita payment to this for years, with many of the newer ones having only a hazy idea of the answers to these questions. To give this information, folders, issued by International Peace Garden Incorporated, have been obtained by the Q.W.I. office, telling of the conception of this idea and its development.

The Peace Garden comprises an area of 2,200 acres, situated on the boundary between Manitoba and North Dakota, 40 miles north of the exact geographical centre of North America. 160 Acres of this have been designated for the "Formal Area", and are being brought under cultivation as rapidly as funds are made available by citizens of both countries. Plots in this area have been allocated to various organizations, one of these being the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada, and all provincial units subscribe to this Peace Garden Fund. Around $500 has been paid by the national organization, with Quebec meeting the full allocation of $30 this past year, as usual.

Work on this garden was held up during the war, but in 1947 it was resumed under the supervision of an expert horticulturist.

In a letter received at the Q.W.I. office, Mr. M. J. Tinline, Superintendent, writes that work is progressing satisfactorily and many Institute members visit the garden every year.

Says Fish Better If Cooked Frozen

Regina (CP) — Vivianne Maguet's job is spreading the gospel about fish, and she has some valuable tips for housewives.

Miss Maguet is employed by the new consumer and inspection branch of the Federal fisheries department, and her job is to travel and show Canadians who aren't eating fish what they're missing. She gives cooking demonstrations on the newest and best methods of preparing fish meals.

Main rules are to cook fish fast at high temperatures, and not to thaw frozen fish before cooking. Thawing permits the juices to escape. The common practice of frying fish is used too often, she says. Fish is mighty good when baked, when boiled in parchment paper, broiled, poached in milk or used in sandwich spreads.

A graduate in household science from the University of Manitoba, Miss Maguet is a native of St. Rose du Lac, Man.

About not thawing fish before cooking, she suggests cooking it frozen, allowing 20 minutes per inch thickness, for more food value and more flavor.

Baked Fish Delicious

And here's a recipe to get away from frying fish:

Wipe some whitefish fillets with a damp cloth, sprinkle with salt and pepper and lemon juice, then make a stuffing of:

½ Cup finely chopped celery, ¼ cup melted butter or cooking fat, ½ teaspoon poultry dressing, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon minced

Mix together lightly and spread over fillets. If you wish, top with chopped parsley and tomatoes for added color and flavor. Cook in a hot oven 450 degrees for short period, allowing 10 minutes per inch thickness of fresh fish, 20 minutes per inch thickness if frozen.

Outdoor Barbecue Meals

There is nothing like the fresh outdoors to perk up wilted appetites and attitudes on a hot summer day. Many people are lucky enough to have outdoor fire places, but Mrs. Homemaker should not let it worry her if she hasn't one. A portable grill is an asset for any jaunt into the country or for a family picnic in the back yard. A strong wire rack well set on some sturdy stones will also serve the purpose. Take stock of equipment before planning the menu so that the preparation will not be too elaborate for the facilities.

The fire should be started about an hour ahead of time so that there will be a deep bed of glowing coals. Gloves and lots of pot holders help to save the cook's hands. Long handled forks and spoons are another asset. For a jaunt to the country a picnic chest filled with ice is wonderful for carrying perishables, but, for those who haven't one the home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture suggest that everything should be kept in the refrigerator till the last minute and then wrapped in waxed paper or foil. In this way cold things may be kept cold. Salad greens may be placed in refrigerator bags, plastic boxes, aluminum foil or a vegetable crisper. Mixed salads should be placed in covered casseroles or quart jars.

Canned foods must have been invented with an eye on picnics, they are so easy to carry. Never heat them in an unopened can, because serious burns may result.

Lots of paper plates, spoons, cups and napkins are a necessity. A colorful plastic table cloth adds a cheerful touch and it is easily cleaned if things are spilled on it. No one ever remembers to take along steel wool pads, but they do make it so easy to scour picnic pots and pans.

Is there any music sweet as the "come and get it" melody around a barbecue grill? Whether it's an elaborate barbecue fire-place in the back yard or a camp fire in the country, everyone is sure to have a big appetite, so have plenty of good food. Once Mrs. Homemaker has taken stock of her equipment she may then plan her menu accordingly. She may plan to have chicken, which may be purchased as cut up chicken or broilers, all cleaned and ready for use, at the market. The broilers should be cut in halves or quarters for ease in grilling. Barbecued spareribs have that special barbecue tang that calls for more. To keep happy budget-wise, hamburger, wieners, bologna, luncheon meats or sausages may be used. To many families the favorite barbecue food is hamburgers. They can be fixed in a variety of delicious ways to suit any number of tastes. The home economists suggest that you start with good quality beef in order to have the best results. For those who like their plain, shape well-seasoned ground meat into patties. Place over hot coals and grill until done. Serve on toasted bun.

There are many other 'burger favorites. Relish burgers may be made by merely mixing drained relish into the patty before cooking. A generous helping may be placed on the top of the patty just before it is slipped into the bun. Mushrooms may be chopped and mixed into the ground beef for an appetizing mushroom burger. A little tangy chese gives added flavor. Top the burger with cheese and cook for a few minutes until the cheese melts. For devilled hamburgers lightly toss ground beef with catsup, horseradish sauce, minced onion, Worcestershire sauce and mustard. Let everyone dress his own hamburger. Put barbecue sauce, mustard, cole slaw, onions, cheese slices, tomato slices and relish on the picnic table and let everyone serve themselves.

Then for the vegetables. Corn is almost a "must". It may be either boiled or wrapped in foil and thrust into the coals, or everyone may roast his own over the fire using a long stick or skewer. Serve it hot and dripping with butter. Potatoes, too, may be boiled or wrapped in foil, and thrust into the coals.

Of course, no meal is complete without a salad. A crisp tossed salad will please everyone.

For dessert, pies, turnovers or fresh fruits are excellent.

Picnics are always fun but don't let your good time make you forgetful. Always check and double check the fire before you leave to see that it is out.

At Brownsburg Council

others had not remained within the law. He was not going to speak about it further — it was time to take action. He would approach Mr. W. M. Cottingham as a first step in controlling the nuisance and he would not rest until he had the town run on respectable and decent lines. There would be no vice or scandal as long as he could take preventive measures, and he would see that there would be respect and reverence for the Sabbath, no matter what denomination the offender professed. He knew he had the support of all denominations, and he was going to keep Sunday clean.

Councillor Somers: "You will have the support of the Council to the limit. The laws governing the sale of liquor in Quebec are very fair and it is no great effort to keep within them. Those who break them should be adequately dealt with."

Taxi License

Réné Forget and Edward Lemay applied for permission to use a taxi on the streets.

Councillor Ouellette: "There are a lot of taxis in Brownsburg now."

Councillor Somers: "There are too many, it is possible we shall have to limit the number of licenses we issue."

Councillor Ouellette: "Well, in some instances it is better to get a taxi license though you never use it, as the terms of paying for a car are more lenient".

Secretary Hebert: "Payments for a taxi can be extended over 18 months, while a private car has to be paid for in one year, with a fifty per cent down-payment."

Councillor Somers: "Well, if it is for the purpose of beating the credit restrictions, we should not be a party to it. We should uphold the law". He was against the motion. Eventually however, the motion was passed unanimously.

Mayor Pariseau: "In this matter of taxis we should re-consider our taxi by-law. There should be an insurance on every vehicle plying for hire; the public has no protection. If a taxi is on payments and a passenger gets hurt, the driver can escape responsibility; the injured man has no redress. When this matter comes up for revision we will have to re-study the whole taxi by-law."

Councillor Charbonneau: "We will certainly have to revise the license fee upwards, and no license granted to anyone who does not supply 24-hour service — day and night service."

There was no further business and the meeting closed.

Bowling Resumed Tonight

The Bolodrome management announces reopening of the bowling alleys on Main Street this evening (Thursday) after a summer respite during which the floors and furnishings have been renovated. In view of a still bigger and better season ahead, bowlers are recommended to link up and organize for the league teams.

A change in prices is effective this season — 20 cents a string for individual games. There is no change, however, in fees for the league bowling. -1c

NEW MARELAN PLANT FOR REFRACTORIES AT KILMAR

$3,500,000 Factory to Employ 150 Workers

At Marelan Station between Staynerville and Grenville on the C.P.R. — for many years a flag-stop where there was little to be seen but ore-cars on the siding — big developments are now underway. First public intimation of this development was given by W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., during the Hon. Maurice Duplessis' visit here last June. Now actual building has started, and details will materialize as the project takes shape. A $3½-million plant is under construction just west of the Marelan depot, for Canadian Refractories Limited of Kilmar, to extend the company's manufacture of refractory products.

Contractors for this job are the Foundation Company of Canada, who are busy setting up the necessary service structures. Canadian Refractories Limited have acquired between 200 and 300 acres of farm land north of Highway No. 8, where the new plant will be situated. The main building will be approximately 700 feet by 160 feet in demensions, of steel and cement construction, and according to company officials, the plant will be in operation sometime in 1952. With all new and modern machinery, the operations of manufacture will be largely automatic. It is expected that 150 men will be engaged steadily once the plant is functioning.

Refractory products made by this company are highly heat-resistant materials used in steel furnaces, copper refineries and Portland cement kilns; they are technically known as basic brick, chrome brick, and basic and chrome cement. A fair proportion of the expanded output will be made from the burned magnesite, home product of the Kilmar mines. Chrome ore for other types of manufacture is imported from various countries, including the Philippines, Africa and Turkey, while Wakefield, Que., among other places, is another source of the mineral components.

District Governor On Annual Visit To Rotary Club

Brownsburg — At last Thursday's regular meeting of the Rotary Club the new District Governor, Rotarian Joe Lattimore, paid his annual visit. His talk, interspersed by many humorous anecdotes, was well received by the Rotarians — his subject dealing with the ideals of Rotary, which can be summed up in one word, "Service".

Rotarians follow this ideal of service by their actions, said the District Governor. Thinking of serving, is of little value unless backed up by action. There are four channels by which Rotarians follow this ideal — Club Service, Vocational Service (in their own lives and work), Community Service and International Service.

"As we face the new Rotary year, we should remember to have faith — to have faith in ourselves, in our neighbors, in other service clubs and in our projects. There should be a goal, something to shoot at; this is the ideal of service. There is power in service and achievement. This service may be conspicuous or obscure. Serve until it hurts, sacrificing self to serve others. There should also be great expectations; without these there is no progress. One should never be satisfied with one's present achievements. If we are satisfied, then we will stagnate. Where there is no vision there is no progress and the people perish. There is need of accomplishment, not hopes. Success comes from achievement, not from hopes".

In closing, the Governor asked his audience to keep the following admonitions in mind: Disagree without being disagreeable. Take your job seriously, but do not take yourself too seriously. Be yourself. An exchange of ideas enriches all. Observe high ethical standards in business, professional and private life. Little things are important. If it is worthwhile, then give it your best. The more you put in, the more you get out. Be pushers!

Governor "Joe" was introduced by Dudley Boal and thanked by Wes Freeland. Guests at the meeting were William J. Curr, Hamden, Conn.; Warwick F. Kelloway, New Haven, Conn.; Don C. Ransalle, Fairborn, Ohio; Allen Carren, from England.

Radio Evangelists Visiting Here

Mr. J. R. Boyd, pastor of one of Sudbury's Baptist churches, Mr. Stephen Huser, of France (doing French evengelization work), Miss June Armstrong of Toronto, and Miss Fay Whittaker of Fort William, both interested in the Daily Vacation Bible work of the Regular Baptist Churches of Northern Ontario and Northwestern Quebec—spent a few days here in Lachute and vicinity this week. They were here in connection with their radio work, which comprises eight programs in three languages every Sunday, in points from Cornwall to Fort William.

DUTCH IMMIGRANTS NOW AVERAGE 100 A DAY

Montreal — A large Dutch immigrant movement to Canada this summer reached an approximate average of 100 persons per day, when the S.S. Volendam arrived at Quebec City recently. It marked the third time since June 23 that the Dutch vessel completed the voyage from Holland with an immigrant load of more than 1,200, and brought the total for Dutch immigrants transported by this ship to approximately 3,600.

Three special Canadian National boat trains, as on the two previous occasions, transporteo the movement.

Expansion of Paper Industry, Highlight In Week's News of Provincial Progress

By Richard Daigneault

Quebec, Aug. 21 (CP) — Howard Smith Paper Mills Limited plans to spend $21,000,000 on expansion of its woods products plants at Windsor Mills, in the Eastern Townships, and at Crabtree Mills, in Joliette County.

Premier Duplessis revealed the company's plans outlined to him by E. Keith Robinson, executive vice-president.

The company will spend $7,000,000 over a five-year period enlarging its pulp mills at Windsor Mills, and $14,000,000 to extend the Crabtree paper products plant in two years.

At present, the Windsor Mills' product is exported to the United States. Under the expansion program, the pulp will be shipped to Crabtree Mills for processing into a variety of paper products.

The firm seeks to make fullest use of the wood going to its mills, and this is in line with government policy to avoid waste, which was at one time about 30 per cent of the wood going to mills.

The premier said Labor Minister Barrette, member for Joliette, and Forests Minister Bourque, contributed to the project for the plant at Crabtree Mills.

In 1944, the premier said, when his government was elected, the Windsor Mills establishment was on the point of "closing its doors", but the government's "policy of stability and progress", and the activities of Mr. Bourque and Albert Goudreau, legislature member for Richmond, led to current prosperity of the plant.

Butter substitutes have made an appearance lately on the Quebec market and apparently, according to an agriculture department official, some of them don't violate Quebec's anti - margarine law passed in 1949.

Premier Duplessis told his regular press conference Friday the protection of the dairy industry comes before approval of any butter substitutes, and he indicated the government will allow or ban the new products in the light of their effect on the industry.

A public inquiry into the collapse of the $3,000,000 Duplessis Bridge will open August 27 at Three Rivers Court House, presided over by Magistrate René Lippe, of Montreal. J. Lucien Dansereau, Montreal engineer, is the other member of the two-man commission appointed to conduct the inquiry. Leon Methot, K.C. will act as commission counsel.

450 Attend Weekly Newspapers' Annual Conference at Winnipeg

— By Bob Giles, Jr. —

On August 14th approximately 225 Canadian weekly newspaper editors and publishers, many with their families assembled in Winnipeg for their 32nd annual convention. As there was no special train this year, the delegates arrived on both C.N.R. and C.P.R. trains at different times and from many different points.

The trip through Northern Ontario, although not as scenic as many parts of Canada was very interesting, especially on one's first trip through this type of country. One thing that attracts everyone's attention is the many beautiful lakes all through this part of the province. Lake Superior, the largest of the Great Lakes, is one scene that I will never forget. As the train wound around the curves it was possible to look directly down and see water, as the railway tracks are as close to this gigantic lake as possible.

Upon arriving at the Royal Alexander Hotel in Winnipeg, where the convention was held, registration took place, after which the business meetings started. The convention is not held for a rest, but so that the delegates from the 544 weeklies that comprise the C.W.N.A. can get together, and bring their troubles up before the other members present, get their opinions, and by doing this, return to their home-towns to make improvements on their local newspapers.

The C.W.N.A. delegates were the guests of the Winnipeg Dailies for their first luncheon of the convention. More business meetings were carried on in the afternoon, after which we were the guests of the C.P.R. at a reception held in the C.P.R. hotel, the Royal Alexander. The City of Winnipeg sponsored the dinner, after which a CBC trans-Canada Concert Party Broadcast was held in the dining room, where some of the CBC's finest talent entertained not only the C.W.N.A. but people all over Canada.

We were the guests of the Canadian Bankers' Association for a Wake-Up Breakfast Wednesday morning, and immediately after this the men took part in a 2½-hour discussion. Luncheon was sponsored by the machinery companies and three Hours of debate followed, during which the ladies were the guests of the Great-West Life Assurance Company on a tour of Greater Winnipeg.

The T. Eaton Company Ltd. of Canada held the dinner that night and their entertainment was done expertly by Eaton's Good Deed Radio Club. One member who was especially appreciated and who came back for many encores was Garry Peterson, a six-year-old drummer who played on a set of traps so big that they hid him from view from several directions. Garry has previously won first prize at several talent shows, one of which took place in Hollywood, California.

Even though it meant getting up early, everyone was looking forward to the trip to Pine Falls. We were the guests of the Government

Young Recidivist Robs Church Box

A 16-year-old youth on parole from the Mont St. Antoine Reform School in Montreal was arrested by Provincial Police at Hull last week, following a petty theft of an offertory box and approximate contents of $1.50, from Ste. Anastasie Parish Church in Lachute.

When it was found the little box had been torn from its stand, where worshippers light their candles and drop-in their contributions, the priest remembered having seen, from the gallery of the presbytery, a suspicious-looking stranger entering the church. He gave the youth's description, and Police Chief D. Villeneuve learned the miscreant had boarded the bus for Hull. Det. P. Therriault communicated with Provincial Police in that city, and the youth was held on arrival of the bus.

Appearing before Justice Liguori Lacombe at St. Jerome next morning, the juvenile was sentenced to another year in the institution from which he was paroled July 6 last. . . On theft of the box from the church, it appears he had taken out the cash and thrown the container in the river.

Gladiolus Society Held Successful Show at B'burg

The 4th annual show of the Hawkesbury and District Gladiolus Society, staged this year in the new Canadian Legion Hall at Brownsburg, was proclaimed a success by President A. B. Ogilvie, of Lachute. Mr. Ogilvie, himself a veteran "glad" showman with many championships to his credit, stated that, although entries were fewer, the quality of the blooms and displays were superior to any of the previous showings by this Society.

Gordon Todd, Brownsburg, captured the Society's Annual Open Sweepstake Trophy, advanced amateur and grand championship of the show to accumulate a record total of 113 points. To his credit were 15 first, 11 second and 10 third prizes. His magnificent entry "Caribou", a snowy white bloom with red centre blotch, won for him the distinction of having the best spike in the show.

Trailing Mr. Todd were Tom Iddon, Lachute Mills, with 78 points; H. Cordeau, Lachute Mills, with 64 points; Lem Hammond, Lachute, 57 points; R. Sherman, Hawkesbury, 28 points; Lem Wilson, Brownsburg, 25 points; and Robert McFaul, Lachute, with 23 points.

Tom Iddon's "Spot-Light" a dainty yellow with red blotch, won first prizes in the one and three-spike classes; his mauve colored "Burma" entry won a first in the three-spike class. Mr. Iddon also captured first prizes for two novelty container entries, one of which was a stovepipe filled with "Smokey" blooms.

Notable among H. Cordeau's wins were a salmon rose "Spic 'n Span" taking first for "Most florets open

U.N. to Issue Own Postage Stamps

The United Nations postage stamps shown above will appear during the fall of 1951 and will be used in all mail sent from U.N. Headquarters. Under a recent agreement between U.N. and the United States, U.N. will issue its own postage stamps and will establish a United Nations Post Office to replace the U.S. Post Office now in operation at Headquarters. Ordinary stamps will be issued in 11 denominations. The airmail series will be issued in 4 denominations.

NO ROYAL BONANZA

In the vanguard of the October Royal Visit, Canada's flag and bunting manufacturers are starting to count orders and gear production for heavy demand, it is reported in The Financial Post. But indications so far say the visit will be no bonanza compared to the 1939 splurge.

Flag makers agree on one thing: insufficient advance notice of the visit to properly prepare.

In 1939, business soared for the flag makers. For this visit it's expected to shoot up to 50 - 75% above normal demand, but will still be only one tenth that of 1939 according to one big Ottawa manufacturer's estimate. The visit of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh might mean something more than $150,000 to flag manufacturers.

Medical statistics show 600,000 Canadians suffer from arthritis or rheumatism.

Car Overturns in Water-Filled Creek

Nelson Lepage, well known Lachute Mills resident, with his son Guy and a passenger, Paul-Emile Blais, was returning from St. Andrews Monday morning when his car skidded on the wet pavement, breaking through a bridge rail and toppling into a creek which crosses Lachute Road near the Rodgers farm buildings.

This mishap, besides proving costly in damage to the car, might easily have had fatal results. It is reported the automobile landed squarely upside down in four feet of water, and the occupants had difficulty in freeing themselves. Guy Lepage, 19, assisted Paul-Emile Blais from the overturned machine. Mr. Lepage has no accurate recollection of how he escaped, but fortunately none of the trio was injured in the mishap.

Contests and Entertainment to Satisfy All Comers, at B'burg Annual Picnic

Brownsburg — The picnic grounds at Brownsburg presented a happy scene last Saturday as hundreds of enthusiastic youngsters and oldsters participated in the Social Club's annual field day. Although the weatherman was not too generous with his cool, autumn-like weather, all the events were carried out as planned and, on the whole, the picnic appeared a success.

Highlight of the morning and early afternoon was the Trap and Skeet Shooting, which included, in addition to local participants, many shooters from outlying districts. The outstanding shooter of the day was B. C. Hartman, an Air Force officer from Ottawa. His extraordinary marksmanship earned for him four first and two seconds in the six skeet and trap events. He placed first in the Skeet "All Doubles" and "Mixed Gun", and in the 5-Bird and 15-Bird Trap. In the 25-Bird Skeet and 25-Bird Trap he placed second.

Children's races were run during the early afternoon. Following this, the various sporting events were held. The 100-yards dash was won by Gerald Tomalty in convincing style. He also tied in the pole vault and obtained another first and two second prizes in the field events. Jim Tomalty won both the high jump and the broad jump, as well as other prizes. Other boys who made creditable showing in the field sports were Carmen Sutton, who secured three prizes including tie for first in the pole vault, and Donald Martin, who obtained three seconds and two thirds.

The feature attractions of the evening was a softball game between Hull and Brownsburg. The game was very close and tied 1-1 up until the sixth inning, when F. McCaffrey, with two men on base, knocked out a triple for the locals. The game ended 4-1 for Brownsburg.

Other attractions included entertainment by pipers and highland dancers, under the direction of Mrs. Hines, of Montreal. The novelty dancers displayed a fine show of highland flings, sword dancing and tap dancing. Reg Wallace accompanied the entertainers at the piano.

A trick horse, trained by Mr. Lacelles of Lachute, kept the crowd amazed by his performance of 32 tricks. In the evening a series of movie comedies provided laughter for both the kiddies and grown-ups. A merry-go-round, pony ride and games of skill also were large attractions for the young and old. Square dancing topped off the cool evening, with lively music supplied by violinist Alphonse Gagné, and pianist Tony LePage. Wrestling exhibitions, arranged by Réal Major, drew a large crowd to the other side of the grounds.

The drawing for the kitchen set was won by Miss Claire St. Jean, of Brownsburg.

In passing, the officials and members of the Club wish to express their thanks to all the donors for their generous contributions, and to all others who contributed in any way to the success of the picnic. Acknowledgment is also extended to Wilmer Stevens, of Vankleek Hill, for the loan of five ponies, and to Arthur McOuat, of Lachute, for the loan of his "merry-go-round". (The list of donors, and winners in the sporting events, is printed on page 8).

X-Ray Clinics Held Through County Indicate Growing Consciousness of Tb. and Advancement in Prevention

Striking Improvement in Quebec Record

— By M. V. Trayers —

Free chest X-rays were taken at Brownsburg during the week — at the industrial plants by the employees, and at the Social Club by non-employees. During 1950 a total of 685,800 X-ray photographs were taken throughout the province, an increase of approximately 130,000 over 1949. Of these, 70,740 X-rays were taken in the County Health Units, but by far the greatest proportion were taken in mass surveys such as the one at C-I-L last week. Vaccinations with BCG numbered 65,862; a large number were given to adults who were in contact with active cases of tuberculosis, and efforts are now being made to have all new babies in the Province of Quebec vaccinated with BCG.

At the beginning of the century, Canada was among the group of nations with the highest tuberculosis rates. Today this country has one of the lowest rates in the world. On the basis of the most recent statistics, only two countries, Denmark and the United States, have lower rates than Canada.

Free chest X-rays for the detection of tuberculosis are paid for by the returns from Christmas Seals and grants from the Provincial Department of Health in Quebec.

In the matter of Christmas Seals, we in Quebec have not done so well — our contribution towards this worthwhile cause being the lowest in Canada. Some figures may explain: The average contribution per person for all Canada last year was $1.80. On a per capita basis this represents 13.7 cents. We in Quebec gave only 6.9 cents, while Newfoundland gave 22.9 cents, British Columbia 19.9 cents, and the neighboring Province of Ontario contributed 15.8 cents per capita.

Quebec provincial government, through its Department of Health, was more alive to the situation than the general public. For the construction and extension of sanatoria, the Department spent $550,000. In addition, approximately $6,000,000 is spent annually on the maintenance and operation of sanatoria and mobile units. The results of this expenditure may be judged from the drop in the death rate during so short a period as the last three years. The figure for 1948 was 58 per 100,000 of the population, in 1949 it dropped to 48, and for 1950 it is estimated it will drop to 42 per 100,000.

Robert Koch, discoverer of the tubercle bacillus, was commemorated in the postage stamps of two states. His portrait appears on a Danzig stamp of 1939 and on a German stamp of 1944.

Bustles and Hoops In Costume Party At County Museum

A stranger passing the Historical Museum at Carillon last Saturday, might have rubbed his eyes in amazement, thinking perhaps the ancient modes and fashions had come to life and taken possession of the place. . .

It was the occasion of the costume garden party, and many figures in garb of the Victorian and earlier periods, paraded before the judges (Messrs. Leonard Young and Frank Rowan, of New York City and of nearby Cushing). . . The passing stranger might have visualized, too, that other scene and era, with which this spot is interwoven in Canadian history — of Dollard des Ormeaux and his 16 courageous followers, who held back the Iroquois horde some 291 years earlier. But there were no characterizations of this period among the costumed patrons at this function.

Miss E. P. Simpson, of St. Andrews East, won the first award, as an 18th century lady of comfortable years — wearing a lace cap and black taffeta dress trimmed with embroidered organdy, with gold brooch and locket. Mrs. F. A. Hungerbuhler, of St. Andrews, came a close second as a lady of the gay nineties. Mr. Percy Hall, also of St. Andrews, took the prize for gentlemen, appearing in native Chinese attire of the present day. Bustles, hoops and Paisley shawls were numerous among the costumes depicting various periods and social ranks.

The prizes were donated by Mac E. Walker; and a zippered steamer rug donated by Clement Tremblay, of Ayers Limited, was won in a drawing by Mrs. E. Queyrel, of Woodcliff, N.J.

Tea was served by ladies of the Argenteuil Historical Society — the tables being set in the spacious rooms of the Museum, due to cool weather outdoors.

The attendance numbered around 125, including many summer visitors and also friends from Montreal and Ottawa.

Russian-Language Books Seized in Mining Areas Northwestern Quebec

Quebec (CP) — Premier Duplessis announced that Provincial Police have seized Russian-language Communist school books in northwestern Quebec mining areas.

The Premier showed newspapermen attending his weekly press conference three of the books containing pictures of Lenin and Stalin and the Red army soldier "ready for defence".

The Premier said Provincial Police seized the books at Rouyn, Noranda, Val d'Or and Malartic in June. The Province's anti-Communist padlock act authorizes the Provincial Police to close centres of Communist progaganda and seize Communist literature.

The books described Lenin as the "leader of the workers of all countries". One passage says: "We are ready! We are ready! When the crash of war sounds, workers of all countries will arise and come to our defence."

Fire at Hawkesb'y Printing Plant

Hawkesbury — Flames, which for a time threatened to spread to three adjacent stores, caused an estimated $20,000 damage to the Echo Publishing Company plant on Main Street, Hawkesbury, after 9 p.m. last Friday.

The Hawkesbury fire brigade brought the blaze under control after a one-hour fight.

The publishing company prints two weekly papers, the English-language "Hawkesbury Echo", and a companion French - speaking newspaper, "Le Moniteur", each Friday.

Its publisher, Capt. J. Henry Laurin, said the two papers, together with the weekly "Le Carillon" printed by the Echo presses, would be printed as usual in spite of the fire. Mr. Laurin plans to print them at his Plantagenet plant until the Hawkesbury plant can be restored to operation.

He said he had left the one-storey frame structure with a number of other persons only about 15 minutes before the blaze was discovered. "There was no sign of any fire or even smoke at that time", he said.

Shortly after 9 p.m. flames were seen ripping through the back of the print shop in the building, founded in 1906 by Mr. Laurin's father, the late J. Hector Laurin.

Suffering minor smoke and water damage were: Charles Fogel, ready-to-wear store, Alex Silversky, hardware, and Nat Cohen, dry goods store.

The Hawkesbury publisher, member of a well-known family of printers throughout Eastern Ontario, took over operation of the plant from his brother, Eugene Laurin, together with the one at Plantagenet last year. He said the loss was partly covered by insurance.

COSTLY SNEEZES

Johannesburg (CP) — Sneezes and sniffles are costing South Africa between £5,000,000 and £6,000,000 a year in absenteeism. A campaign has been started to make South Africans "winter weather wise" by broadcast talks, factory lectures and the distribution of pamphlets.

Gatineau LINES

An Interprovincial System

As this column is written each week for customers of Gatineau Power Company in Quebec Province, it is natural that we usually talk of those things most closely connected with Gatineau in Quebec. But Gatineau doesn't operate only in Quebec. Gatineau owns a large power plant in New Brunswick and one of its subsidiaries supplies electricity at wholesale and retail in Ontario.

This week we are going to talk about Gatineau outside Quebec, for a change—not because these operations are of any particular importance to the people of Quebec, but simply because sometimes it is nice to know the whole story of a company's activities.

In Ontario, Gatineau owns a subsidiary company, Gatineau Electric Light Company, Ltd., and this company supplies power to a large part of Eastern Ontario in just the same way as Gatineau supplies power to 55,000 customers spread over a large portion of Quebec.

In New Brunswick, Gatineau operates an 80,000 horsepower powerhouse on the Saint John River. This plant was completed in 1928, and has been an important factor in the economic and industrial life of New Brunswick ever since. It is the largest power plant in the Maritime Provinces.

There is an unusual feature about the plant at Grand Falls. Water to operate the turbines is conveyed to the powerhouse through a tunnel more than half a mile in length and 24 feet in diameter. This tunnel passes directly under the town of Grand Falls itself, 100 feet below the foundations of the buildings.

In New Brunswick, as in Quebec, a power plant needs a storage dam above it to control the flow of water so that the turbines can keep running in dry seasons and in wet. The Gatineau storage dam on the Saint John River is at Temiscouata, and it has a capacity of 4,000,000,000 cubic feet. Temiscouata dam serves the Grand Falls plant, just as giant Mercier dam far up the Gatineau River serves the power plants which supply Quebec customers with power.

Gatineau has a "first" in New Brunswick too. It constructed the first 132,000 volt transmission line running from Grand Falls to the town of Dalhousie, on New Brunswick's east coast.

Gatineau Power Company

Power Project in Brazil

One example of economic development in South America is this hydroelectric project in the Rio de Janeiro area. A loan of $75,000,000 from the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, a Specialized Agency affiliated with the United Nations, to the Brazilian Traction, Light and Power Company, Ltd., assisted in financing recent expansion of its developing hydroelectric system.

Seasonal Farm Topics

Agricultural Lime

The use of agricultural lime is fundamental in maintaining the productivity of large areas of farm lands in Canada where the soils tend to become acid. Most of the soils in the Maritime Provinces, Newfoundland and Quebec, some districts of Ontario, and the coastal regions of British Columbia are of this class. Without adequate and continuous liming, the productivity of such soils is relatively poor and farming becomes unprofitable.

There has been a rapid growth in the use of agricultural lime for direct application to the soil as in 1935 Canada used approximately 70,000 tons, and in 1950 about 650,000. Although the tonnage has increased nearly ten times during the last fifteen years, the amount used is not nearly sufficient to correct soil disorders and maintain neutral soils, G. W. Michael, Associate Chief, Fertilizers, Canada Department of Agriculture points out.

There is no reason for not applying agricultural lime where required as all of the above provinces have available suitable material to meet requirements. Also they all have a lime subsidy policy where assistance is given for the use of agricultural lime. Information on the lime subsidy policy and the need for lime for particular soils and crops may be obtained from the local agricultural office or by writing direct to the provincial Department of Agriculture.

Spectacular Advance In Weed Killers

Herbicides or weed killers have made a spectacular advance in the last five years and, according to the latest Dominion Bureau of Statistics' survey, are now the most important class of pesticides in Canada. Last year a total of over $15,000,000 worth of all pesticides were sold in Canada, and of these nearly $5,750,000 worth were weed killers. It is estimated that last year some twelve to thirteen million acres of crop land were treated with 2,4-D in Western Canada. This compares with thirty million acres treated in the United States in the same year. This year even larger acreages are expected to be treated.

Approximately sixty-five firms supply the Canadian farmer with nearly two hundred and twenty different formulations, says C. H. Jefferson, who points out that these are registered under the Pest Control Products Act of the Department of Agriculture before they are offered for sale. By this procedure, all claims and directions for use are checked for accuracy and practical application. With the full co-operation of the trade, Canadian herbicides are perhaps the best labelled in the world in that the claims and directions for use follow a standard pattern and instruct the purchaser on the most efficacious use of the products.

Reliable estimates place the value of herbicides to the Canadian farmer — in the form of increased yields and lower production costs — at over $150,000,000 in the last five years. This has been accomplished at a cost of only about $50,000,000 to the farmer. Chemical weed control has now become an established farm practice.

MOST MECHANIZED FARMING COUNTRY

London — "In terms of equipment per acre the United Kingdom is the most mechanized farming country in the world", said Mr. George Tomlinson, Britain's Minister of Education, recently, when opening the new Agricultural Gallery at the Science Museum, South Kensington, London. He added that there are 13,000 combine harvesters and 300,000 tractors at present at work in the country.

Use of Fungicides

Orchard and garden crops need protection not only against insects but also against fungus diseases such as blight, mildew and mould. The variety of fungicides for the control of fungi injurious to crops has been enlarged in recent years and in addition to new discoveries improvements have been effected in the forms of the older materials.

Sulphur, recognized for more than a hundred years as an effective fungicide, is still used for that purpose and more efficiently than in the past because of the greater fineness to which it is now reduced.

Lime sulphur dates back to more than fifty years ago. Since early in this century it has been widely used against apple scab, and has the advantage of being economical.

Another fungicide with fifty years or more of extensive use is Bordeaux mixture, a combination of copper sulphate and lime, first developed and used in France to control downy mildew of grapes.

The so-called "Fixed" coppers, represented by basic copper sulphate, copper oxychloride and cuprous oxide, are of more recent introduction in the fungicide field.

During the past ten years a class of organic fungicide, the dithiocarbamates, have proved useful as supplements or alternatives to the sulphurs and coppers. Four products of this class are known by the convenient names Ferbam, Nabam, Ziram, and Zineb, which indicate them as compounds of iron, sodium and zinc. The last three are used more particularly on vegetable crops.

Fungicides are among the products required to be registered under the Pest Control Products Act, administered by the Plant Products Division, Canada Department of Agriculture.

Cow in Harness

Victoria, B.C. (CP) — "Queenie" is a cow with horse sense. . . The sleek Jersey-Guernsey crossbreed not only yields five gallons of milk daily, but pulls the plow and cultivator for her master, William Duval, on his five-acre farm four miles north of here.

Mr. Duval said kindness is the chief requirement in training a cow to wear harness. "Queenie" and her three-year-old daughter "Daisy" are docile, tame pets who respond readily to command.

Both have been taught not to nibble at mangels or raspberry leaves while working. Mother and daughter are occasionally hitched together.

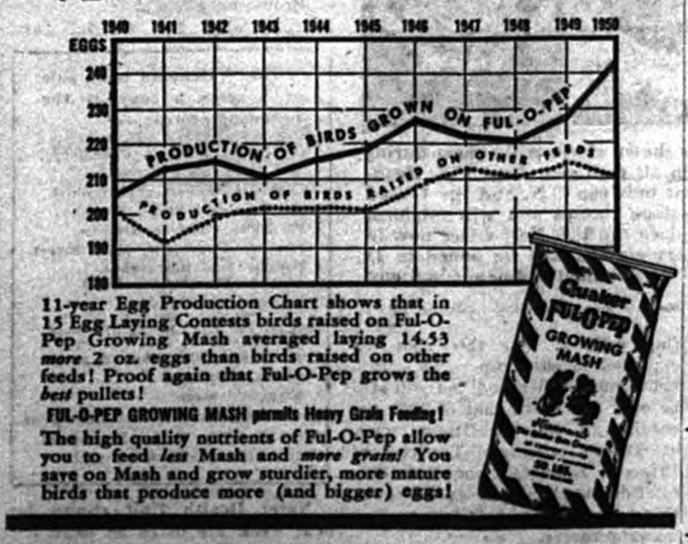

The distance between rows of raspberry canes is only 18 inches, but "Queenie's" footing is precise and she never tramples a cane.

The cows work for only one or two hour periods and not every day, and apparently they love it. Not even a long winter spell out of harness makes them forget how to behave.

Mr. Duval is quiet-spoken, has infinite patience and loves all animals.

Prehistoric Camp in Southern Ontario Is Trove of Culture

Explore Relics of Indian Camp On Island, Built Long Before Christ

Oshawa, Ont. (CP) — Experts in archaeology from the Royal Ontario Museum believe that an ancient camp near here may be possibly 3,000 years old. While Canada's early history is generally dated from the time of Champlain, there is some evidence that an Indian camp here was built long before Christ.

At the southwest tip of Washburn Island on Lake Scugog about eight miles from Port Perry, the experts have been digging through a half-mile of campfire ash, marking the camp sites of the ancient Point Peninsula Indians.

Whether the encampment was that of a large number of natives, or was used by small groups in successive years, has not been definitely established. But proof has been found that it is very old.

The Washburn Island site was first brought to attention of archaeologists about 50 years ago by the late Col. George Laidlaw of Lindsay, who sent specimens and recommended investigation. The ancient Peninsula Indians are known to have preceded the early Hurons.

Many interesting relics that have come to light include bits of broken pottery of intricate and tasteful design. Some of the designs show the pattern marks of woven fabrics made from milkweed fibre or wild hemp.

Layers Mark Eras

In places, some later Iroquois relics have been found in strata closer to the surface, indication that the Indians of Champlain's day used ancient campsites. There are flint arrow heads of all sizes, some small spear heads, a stone adze and other stone implements.

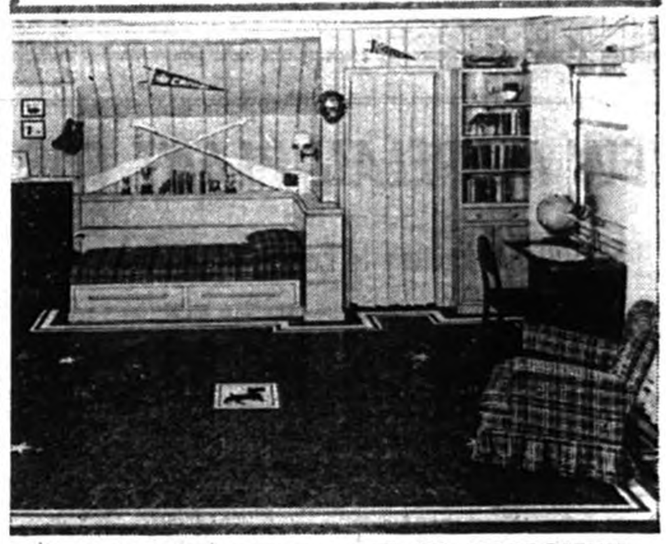

What the experts are anxious to find is some campfire charcoal. Such matter is radioactive, and on being tested would give a fairly accurate estimate of its age, but no such evidence has been uncovered so far.

Deputy curator K. E. Kidd who is supervising the project explained that campfire charcoal may retain its radioactivity for 10,000 years. And he believes that the history of natives in Canada goes back even farther than that.

"Here in Canada we have the most remarkable proof of ancient Civilizations anywhere", he said, "and they are part of our country's history."

Mr. Kidd stooped down to the plot on which he was working and picked up a piece of some dull red substance. He said it was flakes of copper handed down between trading tribes before the time of Christ. He believed it came originally from Isle Royale on Lake Superior, where most natives of Central North America got their copper in oldest times.

That Reliable Climate

WE FEEL somehow that the Quebec climate is letting us down. Invigorating, rugged, severe — such were epithets applied to the seasons in this Laurentian area of Eastern Canada; but always more or less dependable. . . Last winter, however, was a soft one, moderate indeed compared with those of past memory. And this summer lacks everything that is typical, including the sustained, blistering heat expected in July and August. Warmth, rains, frosts, may beset us at any unscheduled date. Neither winter nor summer seems true to form.

As an added grievance — if these variable elements continue, it will impose a burden on the traveller's wardrobe. The tourist and the camper, to ensure reasonable comfort in a given season, will require everything from an umbrella to a winter topcoat, from shorts to fleece-lined underwear and earmuffs.

Those High Prices

THERE IS no one in Canada who is not concerned about the sky-high cost of living — no one who is not affected. We are chiefly interested not in the causes of inflation (we leave that to economists) but in its effects upon our own pocket books and standard of living.

Since the retailer is the man with whom we deal, we have a tendency these days to regard him as something of a pirate, out to fleece us. "Sam Smith" (our local merchant), we say, "must be making a young fortune at our expense. Look at the prices he charges!"

We forget that Sam is just as perturbed about those high prices as we are. When the wholesaler raises his prices to Sam, all he can do is pass along the increase. Often he absorbs as much of it as he can and still keep solvent.

The wholesaler, too, is in a similar spot since, by the time the goods reach him, the primary producer, the manufacturer and almost inevitably, the government, have had their share of the increase.

It is the old law of supply and demand at work. To get reduced prices in any commodity, either the supply must be increased or the demand decreased, or both. At present in the case of many articles the supply is relatively small and the demand is great, not only here but all over the world.

During the last war the Canadian Government did a noteworthy job of controlling prices. The controls were not popular, effective though they were, and they cost the country plenty of money. Controls, subsidies and restrictions of one kind and another do not go over big with Canadians. After the war the government removed controls. The result was a rise in the cost of living in Canada that took our breath away.

Through its policy of high taxation and through too little effort to curb government expenditures, the federal government has not helped the situation. While prices were low during the war the public paid high taxes but could purchase necessities at relatively low cost due to subsidies and ceilings. Now both taxes and prices are high.

The whole mess is particularly tough on many Canadians — those on salaries which haven't increased in step with increased living costs and increased indirect taxes, the pensioners, the small business men whose turnover is up but whose profit is down.

What is to be done about it? We suggest that Canadians need to roll up their sleeves and produce more. They need to give a fair day's work for fair pay, to work longer hours and produce more goods. At the same time they need to decrease their purchase of goods and increase their savings. Temporarily Canada's high standard of living may suffer.

Canadians do not need to leave this cost-of-living business to their government. They can do something about it themselves once they realize that the law of supply and demand is at work.

A FACT worth remembering is recalled in a recently-published British Ministry of Works report. It states that about $150,000 worth of goods, mainly household utensils, bedding and clothing, were provided by the Ministry as the United Kingdom Government's gift to Canada after the 1950 spring floods in Winnipeg. The first consignment valued at $20,000, was despatched by air on 48 hours' notice.

CAN YOU honestly say each nightfall, "Today I have done at least some little thing to make my home-town a better place in which to live".

Haphazard Conceptions

IN THE not so distant past we recall how the title "Bolshy" was applied to any stranger with a black beard and a foreign complexion. This random classification was a symptom of what might be called the melodramatic era. Nowadays Bolshevism and Communism have been shorn of their whiskers and have crystallized into realism — a menace to be grimly faced.

There are traces, however, of that same hysterical tendency today — to identify as a Communist anyone of unorthodox philosophy, anyone of obscure nationality or origion. In this issue of The Watchman appears a letter from a Jehovah's Witness, showing how this sect is misinterpreted as a political body. In the current news there is another instance — the name of a Canadian diplomat linked with Communism in a U.S. Senate inquiry, on the grounds that he "belonged to Communist party student group at Cape Cod in 1939". A similar charge might be levelled at any college man who in his career has delved into the tenets of Socialism or Communism. (The diplomat was cleared of all suspicion).

Communism cannot be fought on terms of hysteria and misunderstanding. It is well to realize that Democracy's best weapon is a clearer knowledge of what a Communist is, and how Communism works.

Graduates Ill-Equipped

BUSINESSMEN and educationists have little reason for pride over the results of a recent survey covering a large group of London high school students — declares The Financial Post. In their answers to a series of questions these young people indicated a lamentable lack of knowledge of the field most of them will expect to enter when they finish their formal education.

The great majority were confused about business and ignorant of basic economic facts. Only a very few seem to have acquired any practical understanding of the system of private ownership and how it works. Many did not venture any opinion at all on matters which would seem routine to an average office boy.

Surely there should be room in our high-school course for some introduction and preparation for business.

It's No Back Fence

THE CANADIAN - U.S. border — that "vast undefended frontier" beloved of public speakers — may not be getting the respect it really deserves.

It seems to us that this is still a pretty important line, which is ignored far too often. We're not suggesting that we need armed border posts. God forbid that the frontier should ever take on the aspect of some of those European frontiers, bristling with guns and guards. . . But after all, it IS a border. It should be an effective barrier to crooks and chisellers. The fact it's crossed daily by thousands in both directions, need not turn it into a line that's only slightly more significant than the 2nd Concession.

Ontario has been holding a probe into the "fixing" of races at the Fort Erie track, which gets many of its customers from Buffalo across the border. Evidence so far is that most of the trouble stemmed from activities of a ring of Americans going from one track to another regardless of the border, seeking "soft spots" where a betting coup might be arranged.

It's not a one-way traffic, of course. Every once in a while there's an anguished complaint from some state or other about the operations of Canadian stock salesmen.

We know the customs and immigration men, and the federal police of both countries, are active at every crossing point. What is needed is a similar respect for the line among the general public.

Naturally, thousands cross daily in both directions, with the international transit a mere streetcar ride at several points, and citizens of one country going daily to work at the other.

We wouldn't want to see traffic hampered. But we would like to see the border mean more than it seems to. Right now it looks as if it was best described by the time-worn saying, that familiarity breeds contempt.

WHAT psychology will drive a man into going over Niagara Falls in a barrel? . . We should not shed too many tears for "Red" Hill; should we not rather feel a bit sorry that 150,000 people would gather to watch a foolish man risk death, with many of them wagering he would not make it and therefore hoping he would die.

"THINGS AN' STUFF"

WALTER HENRY JACKSON

Nature's Cure

"I feel as though I'm ninety-eight!" said J. Throgmorton Jones. "I'm starting to depreciate. I feel it in my bones. When I was young I used to run and jump and climb a tree. I never boxed, because the lads were all afraid of me. I was a corking acrobat cavorting in the gym. A stranger wrestled with me once, I tore him limb from limb. I lifted weights, I swam for miles, in fact I was a wow! But that was several years ago. I just can't do it now. My only exercise today is with a knife and fork. I'm fond of big, fat, juicy steaks, roast duck and lots of pork. I like my beer, I'm fond of wine and gin and Scotch and such. I'm often badly out of breath; I guess I smoke too much."

I didn't see him for a year. Last week we met once more, and Jones was as I knew him first, back in the days of yore. His waist was back to 32, his chest was 41, his face was tanned like leather from effects of wind and sun. "My company transferred me to a place away up North", said he, "and with my fishing rod one day I sallied forth to try my luck at fishing in a stream for speckled trout. I found my way INTO the woods, but could not find it OUT! For weeks I wandered through the bush — I lost my reel and rod. I thought the matter over and renewed my faith in God. I suffered from mosquitoes, from hunger, and from thirst. God said: "I'll save you, Buddy, but you'll learn your lessons first." I lived on bark and berries, devoured frogs and roots. My matches were exhausted, so I couldn't stew my boots. A trapper found me sitting there — just when all hope seemed vain. I spent the winter in his shack — and here I am again! I eat three frugal meals a day, drink water now and then, completely have forgotten such expressions as "Say When!" I smoke in moderation — just four, five fags a day, I go to gym three times a week, and early hit the hay. Each morning now I rise refreshed and I am feeling fine. Dame Nature taught me how to live. Once more good health is mine."

The moral of this story is that when you're feeling punk, get a big load of the Great Outdoors, and not of Drugstore Junk.

Don't Worry About Your Operation

Approximately ten million people will undergo an operation this year. If you are one of them you can draw comfort from the fact that advances in surgical techniques have made the great majority of operations completely safe.

Author Greer Williams looked closely at 18 operations, from minor to major, and reports reassuringly in a September Reader's Digest article from Nation's Business: "Taking all operations as they come, on young and old, on patients in good condition or poor, your risk of death in the hands of the skilled surgeon is about one in 100. Thanks to the great advances of the past 20 years in the control of pain, infection, shock, relapse and physical well-being, it is now said that any patient with normal heart, lungs and kidneys should have 100 percent chance of recovery."

The anesthetist can put you to sleep, beyond all pain, in 45 to 50 seconds, and hold you there for the length of the operation. Surgeons no longer have to operate with lightning speed, as they once did, when one out of every four patients died after a major operation. The shock of long anesthesia and much loss of blood made speed imperative. But today, hurry is regarded as a hazard. The anesthetist can give the surgeon all the time he needs, and blood loss is a minor problem now that all hospitals have blood banks. Transfusions, once signifying that the patient was in critical condition, are today routine practice in many operations.

Pleasant dreams!

OBITUARY

B'burg Lady Mourned By Many Friends

Late Mrs. John Moncrieff

The death of Margaret Maud Cox, widow of the late John Moncrieff, occurred Saturday, August 11, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Morrison, Lachute.

Mrs. Moncrieff was in her 80th year. Born in St. Andrews East, she was a well known resident of Brownsburg. Her husband predeceased her a number of years ago.

The funeral service was held in the United Church at Brownsburg; the Rev. S. J. Pike conducted the service. Burial was in the Brownsburg Cemetery.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. Archie Cox, George Cox, Russell Noble, of Lachute, Keith O'Brien, Charles Kennedy and Arthur Campbell, of Brownsburg.

Left to mourn her loss are one sister, Mrs. A. E. Butts, of Grand Rapids, Mich.; also three sons, George, of Dalesville, Roland and Ward Moncrieff, of Brownsburg; two daughters, (Edith) Mrs. Ayres, of Kingston, (Bertha) Mrs. Enlow, of Brownsburg; seven grandchildren and two great grandchildren. One daughter of the late Mrs. Moncrieff, Grace Stewart, died August 16, 1942.

Friends and relatives attending from a distance included — Mrs. Lloyd Wheeler, Cornwall; Mrs. D. A. Blair, Lisbon, N.Y.; Mrs. Rombough, Cornwall; Mr. Carmen Raymond, Newington, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. William Ayres, Mr. Melville Ayres, and Mr. Don Ayres, Kingston; Mr. and Mrs. Billy Ayres, Mr. and Mrs. E. Kettyle, Mr. and Mrs. W. Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Weston Stevens, Miss Jean Stevens, Mrs. Frank Greetham, and Mr. Albert Burk, all of Montreal; Miss Dora Trineer, Calumet; and Mrs. Dunn, Ottawa.

Floral tributes were numerous and beautiful, showing the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

Deaths in England and Wales last year fell by 20 per cent from 1949 — the biggest drop for any one year since 1929.

CHEAP VACATION

Trenton, Ont. (CP) — Geoffery MacDonald of Rochester, N.Y., thinks he has licked the problem of expensive vacations by touring Ontario on a bicycle. So far he claims he has spent only $2.50 per day.

Sailboat Emigrant Recalls Grim Trip Over the Atlantic

Estonian Master Mariner Now A Toronto House Painter

Toronto (CP) — Eugene Kommissar, 36-year-old Estonian sea captain currently working here as house painter, crossed the Atlantic Ocean the hard way.

He travelled some 6,000 miles from Sweden to Saint John, N.B., in an open sailboat carrying 41 fellow countrymen fleeing communist terrorists in Sweden. Their frail craft "The Atlanta", was only 79 feet long and 15 feet wide and was designed for a maximum of 21 persons.

Describing the 62-day sea cruise, Kommissar said the travellers slept in shifts below decks and braved everything from a vengeful Russian freighter to a shortage of water.

"I followed the route of Columbus by way of the Canary Islands to Bermuda for safety's sake", he said.

While sailing through the Bay of Biscay off the coast of France, a Russian freighter took after the tiny craft and followed them for several days. Finally a stiff wind came up and the Atlanta escaped.

As the voyagers neared Bermuda the water tank sprang a leak and the ration was cut to one cup a day.

"Thank God we made it before our water supply ran out", Kommissar said. "A short time after we left Sweden another sailboat tried the trip with 38 aboard. Nothing has been heard of it since".

Do Well In Canada

Reaching Saint John, the Atlanta was sold and the passengers spread across the country to hunt for jobs. Most of them did well and the majority have their own homes now. One, Edward Kajus, owns a car and a $10,300 property in Toronto.

Kommissar said the group decided to leave Sweden after several of their friends disappeared mysteriously.

"I would come home from a voyage and learn that a friend had disappeared", he said. "It got so that every time I went away I wondered if my wife and baby would be home when I returned. It is true that Sweden defied Russia and refused to turn over the Estonian refugees as she demanded. Still someone was always vanishing. The only explanation is that the Russians have got hold of them again".

Today, after arriving in Canada with less than $40, Kommissar and his wife and two young children are living happily in Toronto. But he is anxious to get back to sea.

"I have my ticket as a deep-sea master", he said. "Although I have crossed the ocean as few others have done, I cannot return to my life's work until I have been in Canada for two and a half years more."

"You have the most comfortable tilt-back chairs I ever sat in", I commented to the elderly proprietor of a homey little motel. She smiled enigmatically as she thanked me. Later that evening I missed my trunk key, which had been in my trouser pocket, and I remembered the tilt-back chair. I found my key under the cushion — plus about 70 cents that had fallen out at the same time. Sewn to the bottom of the cushion was this note:

All coins falling from the pockets of men sitting in this comfortable chair are donated to the local orphanage to assist children who haven't got it as easy as you have.

"The orphanage has been doing pretty well on that chair", my landlady told me. "I urge every guest who stops here to give his feet a rest. Never found one yet who objected to this new kind of taxation."

A Self Reliant Child

(Copyright)

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"Let me put on my own shoes!"

"I want to feed myself my own cereal!"

"Let me get my own drink of water!"

"See me build my block tower all by myself!"

How often remarks like these, showing the desire of pre-school children for independent action, come to the ears of parents! They are all important requests because a child's first signs of eagerness to do things for himself in the day's ordinary routine of dressing, eating and playing should receive every encouragement. This takes time and patience. Often it happens when a mother is preoccupied with something else. But in the end it pays rich rewards for a parent to give a child the opportunity to look after his own needs.

It is comparatively easy to pick out the children whose mothers have been keen on developing thoughtful, responsible youngsters, if an observer watches a group of boys and girls at kindergarten getting into their snow suits. Some are quick to find their belongings, get into them and be on their way. Others seem quite lost and helpless without their mother's hand to assist them.

The contrast is particularly noticeable in John and Bertie who are neighbors and friends. There are several brothers and sisters in John's family and he has had to look after himself for some time in the matter of getting clothed. In record time he has his snow suit and galoshes on and is urging Bertie to "Hustle up!" Poor Bertie hasn't the faintest notion how to hurry unless his mother is standing over him, and when he cannot get his new rubbers on, he bursts into tears, "Mummy always dresses me! I hate school!" he says angrily between sobs.

Bertie's mother in doing "everything" for her boy, her only child, has prided herself in being a "good mother". She has failed to be "good" for Bertie, in not holding before herself the character goal of a self-reliant child, and working steadily toward that end by quiet teaching and loving cooperation. She should never do things for Bertie which he could do for himself, like putting on his rubbers, unless there is some emergency which calls for a mother's speedy assistance.

It is likely that Bertie's mother, like many other mothers, can remember well the moment when she first looked down at her baby. In his helplessness he made a tremendous appeal to her maternal instincts. She resolved that she would do everything within her power for her child and protect him from harm. It seemed too good to be true that this sweet little bundle of humanity was really hers. . . It is just at this point that many mothers make a big mistake. That baby has a father too. Parenthood is a cooperative enterprise. Father and baby are cheated out of an experience which is rightfully theirs, if a mother does not encourage her husband to share in the care of the baby.

What dad does not get a kick out of watching his baby splashing in his bath? Fathers have a good firm grip and they are just as able to keep hold of a wet struggling infant who needs to be dried, as mothers. Babies are babies such a short time that both parents should enjoy them and both parents should help each other in their ideas of ways to develop self-reliance and independence in their children.

When their children are older they can help each other in giving their youngsters opportunities to practice independence and initiative. Father is more likely to encourage his child to be self- reliant than mother, and this is a goal in child training which should not be neglected! It is the self-reliant boy who is able to fight his own battles when he gets out into the competitive adult world!

Quebec Producer Of Canned Corn

Hamilton, Ont. — The Province of Quebec is a major producer of canned corn and last year its processors turned out a near-record 18,080,000 cans (20-ounce size or equivalent).

Quebec's 1950 output was about one third of the nation-wide pack of approximately 55,549,700 cans, according to a review of pack statistics and container requirements by the Canadian Division of the American Can Company.

"Quebec's canned corn pack has sky-rocketed from 4,488,000 cans in 1933 to 28,560,000 cans in the peak year of 1949", says G. H. McVean, Canco's manager of sales. "Important factors in the tremendous production gains made by this product over the years have been improved processing techniques and development of C-enamel which preserves the color and appearance of the fresh-picked corn. The can company's researchers actively assisted in the latter development."

Denies Jehovah Group Are Communists

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Lachute, Que.
August 17, 1951.

Editor, The Watchman.

Dear Sir:

Many people in the district of Lachute point their finger at Jehovah's witnesses and sneeringly blurt out "Communists". I would appreciate your publishing the true facts in your column so that those who have been wrongly informed may be properly informed concerning this accusation.

Treatment Behind the Iron Curtain

If there were even a small particle of truth to the charge that Jehovah's witnesses are Communists, then one would find them favorably treated in Russia and other countries behind the Iron Curtain. The facts, however, prove they are greatly mistreated.

More than once since World War I Jehovah's witnesses have applied to the Kremlin for permission to preach the good news about God's glorious kingdom in Russia, but the Soviet Union in reply has outlawed Jehovah's witnesses and their Watch Tower Society, and many of the witnesses they have exiled in Siberia.

Now such persecution by the Communists is not because Jehovah's witnesses have engaged in black-market operations, or because they have meddled in politics or subversive activity. Nor is it because they are "Titoists". No, for in 1947 Titoist Yugoslavia seized the property of Jehovah's witnesses in that country, banned their organization, and brought upon them the full violence of their ruthless fury. Officials of the Watch Tower Society were condemned to death, but on a last-minute appeal the sentences were changed to twenty years imprisonment.

This same pattern of persecution has been followed in all the Soviet satellite countries of Eastern Europe. In Albania, Roumania, Bulgaria, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia, the properties of the Watch Tower Society have ben seized, the work has been completely banned, and many of Jehovah's witnesses have been killed. Hundreds are now dying slow deaths in slave labor camps.

In 1950, Poland startled the world with the ridiculous announcement that it was banning Jehovah's witnesses because they were "American spies". There were 18,000 active witnesses in Poland, and the announcement said that 80 per cent were arrested.

The Communist zone of Germany has also banned Jehovah's witnesses and arrested more than a thousand of them. Hundreds of these have received long-term sentences. Many got life-imprisonment.

The only "crime" these innocent Christians are guilty of is the "crime" of announcing the happy news that God's kingdom is the only real hope for suffering mankind. In carrying on this praiseworthy work in obedience to Christ Jesus, they maintain strict neutrality toward all political affairs. Hence they refuse to sign the Communist-inspired Stockholm peace appeal.

More Proof Witnesses Are Not Communists

The central office of the Watch Tower Society, which serves as the governing body of Jehovah's witnesses throughout the earth, is located in Brooklyn, New York. Now the American government has been alert to the threat of Communism ever since 1919, and during this time its official investigations have proved there is not the smallest link between Jehovah's witnesses or the Watch Tower and godless Communism. The Federal Bureau of Investigation (F.B.I.), the United States Attorney General, the Commandant of the Marine Corps, and other government agencies, all agree that Jehovah's witnesses have nothing in common with Communism. They are not in sympathy with any form of it, whether deep red or light pink in color. Communism is a godless ideology that is opposed to God's kingdom, and opposed to Jehovah's witnesses who support God's theocracy.

Search the official publications of Jehovah's witnesses and you will find they were among the first to see the error of Communism, and to warn the people of its danger. Seventy-two years ago, mind you, the Watchtower magazine of September, 1869, mentioned how "we were laughed at" because at that time we were warning of the possible "overthrow of governments" by Communism.

In its issue of June, 1883, The Watchtower warned that removal of "prudence, morality and right-doing, from the counsels of the restless masses", would result in "the destruction of life, property, laws and peace — a grand reign of anarchy in the name of Communism". Again, The Watchtower, January, 1884, warned that "Atheistic Communism" was threatening to "shake to its foundation the entire system of civilization which modern Europe has been so slowly protecting".

The Watchtower, in its issue of September 1, 1895, said this: "Experience proves the failure of communistic methods in the present time. . . The Bible does not teach Communism". And again, The Watchtower of January 1, 1902, declared: "The early church did not practice what is now known as Communism. . . It is noteworthy that the apostles neither commanded nor advised communism; nor do their writings intimate that it prevailed in the early church." Similar warnings against the fallacy of Communism were set forth in other publications of the Watch Tower Society, as in the book The Plan of the Ages (1886), and The Battle of Armageddon, (1897).

Unchanged in Opinion or Activity

Speaking in London's Royal Albert Hall, September 11, 1938, the president of the Watch Tower Society, J. F. Rutherford, declared: "In 1917 Satan brought forth in Russia a Communist or Bolshevik government, which was the first appearance of a totalitarian rule, and which opposes God and his kingdom. It declares that the State is the supreme power, and it persecutes those who serve God and Christ Jesus. "Millions of copies of this speech "Face the Facts" were put out in many languages.

By resolutions, too, Jehovah's witnesses have denounced Communism in no uncertain manner. In Berlin, for example, July, 1949, when one such resolution was unanimously adopted, the spokesman for the witnesses declared before an assembly of 30,000: "Is Bolshevism better than other systems? Do the Communists believe that that which Hitler began must be finished by them? We are no more afraid of the Communists than we were of the Nazis!"

When 90,000 of Jehovah's witnesses met in an international convention in Yankee Stadium, New York City, August, 1950, they adopted a Resolution reading in part: "We denounce the false accusation by our enemies that we are Communists. We disavow all connection with or support of Communism or any other political elements of this old world."

Well, if Jehovah's witnesses are not Communists, why are they hated and persecuted by the Western bloc of Christendom? The answer is simple. It is because they are true, sincere and honest Christians, implicit followers of Christ and the apostles. The Bible is their guide. To such true Christians, Jesus says: "You will be hated by all people on account of my name." "If you were part of the world, the world would be fond of what is its own. Now because you are no part of the world, but I have chosen you out of the world, on this account the world hates you. But they will do all these things against you on account of my name, because they do not know him that sent me." — Matthew 10:22; John 15:18, 19, 21.

All the facts prove beyond a shadow of doubt that Jehovah's faithful Christian witnesses are really living up to the great and holy name that they bear — the magnificent name of the Most High God! By their neutral course of action in all nations, and by their positive utterances down through the years, they have demonstrated that they are first, last and all the time for God's kingdom, for which Christ taught his followers to pray.—Matthew 6:10.

Yours truly,

A Witness for Jehovah.

WOMAN USES CHAIN TO STOP MAD BULL ATTACKING HUSBAND

Mrs. Lucien Bédard, of St. Justine de Newton, Que., saves farmer's life by tackling enraged beast

1. Farmer Lucien Bédard was busy repairing a fence — blissfully unaware that he was about to be the star of an almost tragic, real-life drama. For, suddenly and without warning, he was attacked from the rear by his bull. The huge animal had somehow become enraged . . . and chose its owner as the target for a series of repeated, vicious attacks. The farmer cried out in pain.

2. Inside the house, Mrs. Bédard heard her husband's frantic shouts for help. Running to the barnyard, she took in the situation at a glance. The farmer was lying on the ground, trying in vain to ward off the bull's continued assaults. With quick presence of mind, Mrs. Bédard grabbed the only weapon at hand — a chain — and, rushing to the animal, began to flail him with it.

3. Finally the courageous, determined woman succeeded in winding the chain around one of the bull's horns. Surprised, the animal stopped and turned its head. This gave Bédard a chance to get up. Although injured, he was still able to get the bull under control. To Mrs. Lucien Bédard, whose bravery undoubtedly saved her husband's life, we are indeed proud to present The Dow Award.

Story Retold of Nathaniel Treadwell, First White Colonist at St. Andrews

Harry J. Walker in "Ottawa Valley Days"

From Harry J. Walker's intriguing stories on Ottawa Valley history, appearing in the Ottawa Journal, the following extract has direct bearing on the first settlement of St. Andrews — and hence the large expanse of Argenteuil County which developed from that small hub of habitation.

From the comparative security of Plattsburg he came with his comely bride to the Lower Ottawa as the first white settler to accept the challenge of the wilderness.

He came to scout the territory for John Jacob Astor, but remained to establish a colony and purchase a seigniory.

What motivated Nathaniel Hazard Treadwell, brilliant engineering graduate of Clinton College, N.Y., to leave the young republic to dwell under the British flag, is anyone's guess. But he did, and convinced others to do likewise in the year 1794.

This is not too surprising when it is remembered that Vermont held out as a separate, if reluctant, republic until 1791 and once actually flirted with the idea of joining Canada.

Old St. Andrews

But to get back to this unique colony on the Lower Ottawa. Its nucleus was centred in a log dwelling that once stood on the north shore of the Ottawa, one mile from the mouth of the North River, near St. Andrews.

It was known as the "Red House" and is generally regarded as the first civilized habitation on the Ottawa, exclusive of the old French garrison at Fort Coulonge.

The St. Andrews "Red House" represented probably the first definite attempt at settlement in the Ottawa Valley. Its occupants — Nathaniel Treadwell and his wife, Margaret Platt Treadwell — were quite likely the first pioneer settlers along the Ottawa, arriving after a perilous and arduous journey in the Spring of 1794.

Outpost of Civilization

Treadwell was first in the employ of the Hudson's Bay but shifted his allegiance to the rival House of Astor. By profession a civil engineer, he had surveyed throughout Northern New York, where he came in touch with the people who later became colonists in his North River enterprise.

The old Hudson's Bay Post strategically situated near the mouth of the North River seemed to capture his fancy. So to this lonely isolated spot in the wilderness, 20 miles beyond the tepees of the fierce Iroquois at Oka, came Nathaniel Treadwell, his young wife from Plattsburg and "a retinue of Negro servants".

From the choice of his location he apparently had in view the establishing of his settlement below the Long Sault Rapids, and he also may have looked with favor upon the seigniory of Argenteuil, which was purchased six years later by Major Murray.

L'Orignal Purchase

This seigniory might not have been for sale at the time Treadwell first established his headquarters in the Red House, or the price may have been higher than he cared to pay. However, in 1796, two years after his arrival, Treadwell realized his first objective when he purchased the seigniory of L'Orignal, unique because of the fact that it was the only one in Upper Canada.

Treadwell paid 1,000 guineas for this historic tract of land. From the Red House he directed his independent fur trade with the Indians, with whom he had always had friendly relations. At the same time he opened up his holdings (54 square miles in area) for settlement.

Thus the Red House and the North River colony became the vanguard of that continuous human offensive called Progress which was to push the timber line beyond the blue Laurentians.

Palace of Flowers Is Gift from Navy

Victoria (CP) — The Royal Roads Conservatory, offered by the Canadian Navy to this city for one of its public parks, is unmatched on the West Coast for size and elegance.

There are nine compartments of different sizes and shapes. The centre, 30 feet square, is under a dome of curved glass. Two side galleries are each 60 feet long. The whole appears like a miniature palace in rich glass, a splendid spectacle when floodlit.

Framework is of iron and steel and it was completed in 1914 by former Premier James Dunsmuir. He spent about $1,000,000 building Royal Roads as Hatley Park, and decided his mansion needed conservatories to supply rare exotic plants.

J. G. Graham, for many years manager of the Hatley Park estate for the Dunsmuir, said the Conservatory probably cost $75,000, or as much as the entire estate and mansion brought 10 years ago when the federal government purchased it as a naval training college.

William Steers, in charge of the Conservatory, said that at one time it was almost filled with white orchids imported from India. When sold some years ago they brought $5 to $25 a pot.

Once there was a banana tree growing into the glass dome. There were tropical ferns, palms, peaches, nectarines and a grapevine.

Former Arundel Pastor Marks Silver Wedding

The Rev. and Mrs. Gordon Phillips were at home to their friends recently on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary. (The Rev. Phillips had charge of Arundel and Weir parishes for several years; he now resides in Montreal).

A veteran of World War I when he served as a private in the trenches with the 13th Battalion Black Watch, the Rev. Gordon Phillips is a graduate of McGill University with the degree of S.Th. He is chaplain of the Montreal Protestant Jail, and a prominent figure in penology, giving talks and lectures to all manner of organizations on the subject of prison reform. Both he and his wife, Bluebell Stewart Phillips, have also taken a personal and practical interest in the rehabilitation of youthful delinquents.

Mrs. Phillips' articles on penology have appeared in many periodicals, including several national magazines. One of her short stories (fiction) appears in the current issue of the Dalhousie Review and Public Affairs.

This distinguished couple, who reside on Barclay Avenue, have four children, Bob, Stewart, Gordon and Kathleen. They have also one grandchild, Terry, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Phillips.

Mrs. Phillips returned recently from Saskatchewan and is leaving shortly for Boston, where she will visit a friend before going on to attend the Marlboro Writers' Conference, at Marlboro University, Vermont.

Recent Wedding at Lachute Baptist Church

Ward - Townsend

The marriage of Beryl Audrey, daughter of Mrs. Ernest Townsend and the late Mr. Townsend, of Lachute, to Elmer Norman Ward, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Ward, of Rivington, Que., took place at the Lachute Baptist Church on Saturday, August 11, at 3 o'clock. The Rev. W. H. Britton officiated and Mrs. D. Brown was organist. Baskets of pink and red gladioli decorated the church.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Gordon Townsend, the bride was attended by Miss Mary Helen Fox as bridesmaid. Mr. Albert Myers was best man for the groom.

The bride wore a gown of white satin with sleeves ending in points over the hands. Her veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a crown of seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of pink gladioli and fern.

The bridesmaid wore a gown of rose colored satin in long lines, and carried a buoquet of red and white roses.

Mrs. Townsend, mother of the bride, wore a navy and grey pincheck jersey dress with navy accessories and a light pink orchid. Mrs. George Ward, mother of the groom, wore a navy taffeta dress with light accessories; her corsage was a red rose.

A buffet lunch was served at the home of the bride's mother to about 35 guests; the home was decorated with pink and white garlands. The table, with a three-tier wedding cake, was decorated with pink roses and pink candles.

The happy couple received many beautiful and useful gifts. They left for a brief honeymoon in Smiths Falls—the bride travelling in a navy blue garbardine suit with pink accessories and a corsage of red rosebuds. On their return they will live in Rivington.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Lillie Matthew, of Toronto; Mrs. Stanley, Malford, and Grace Donaldson, of St. Philippe; Clinton Townsend, of Grenville; Horace Powell, of Beauharnois; and a number of friends from Brookdale, Que.

POOL HAS SHOWBOAT

Kitsilano, B.C. (CP) — A showboat complete with paddlewheel, whistle, engine-room bells and steering wheel will be built in a bathing pool here. The boat, ordered by the Chamber of Commerce, will be used in local stage concerts.

WORM "HATCHERY" IS BIG BUSINESS

Vancouver (CP) — Tommy and Bill O'Brien of Vancouver operate an earthworm hatchery for anglers favoring that sort of bait, and claim to be the largest outfit of its kind. Plain garden worms, red worms from California and foot-long muscular worms — they have all kinds and say they can't keep up with the demand.

Tommy says they have 315,000 red worms, mature and ready to deceive fish; 140,000 mature brown and 12,000 mature dew worms.

The O'Briens have mastered a method of raising and breeding giant dew worms in bins or troughs. Other firms generally grow them in their natural habitat of lawns and fields.

The O'Briens go through the beds daily, sifting the earth, adding food, killing enemies such as beetles, centipedes, moles and garden snakes.

It may not be the cleanest of work, they say, but it's good business.

Because pigs, especially white ones, can get sunburned, agricultural authorities recommend the use of sunburn lotion on them.

A good fur trapper, given any kind of "breaks", can make about $2,500 a season in Canada.

Tom Gard's Note Book

It has often been said that necessity is the mother of invention. It was certainly proven to me the other day while travelling in the Ste. Annes area. I was invited to spend the evening with a young couple whose acquaintance had been made on their honeymoon the previous summer. I had admired their courage in starting a home on a shoe string and was most anxious to learn how they were getting along.

Their house was far from being luxuriously furnished but there was plenty of warmth and friendship that made you feel immediately at ease. They had had to make sacrifices but their youthful enthusiasm had been retained; and they had created a truly happy home.

The husband shared my opinion of butter boxes. He had made many pieces of furniture, including the chesterfield, and had found these boxes could be used in many ways. One of his best efforts was his wife's dressing table — made entirely of boxes, plywood and pieces of two by four. Even the mirror had been salvaged from a discard, resilvered and placed in a refinished frame.

Fireplace Fuel Holder

Something else that caught my eye was a homemade fuel container made from a soap pail. It had been enamelled black and then stippled inside and out with gold. The feet and handles from an old brass jardiniere had been attached to add to its attractiveness. It was the finishing touch to a rustic stone fireplace he had built with his own hands.

Nor was all the beauty found on the inside of the house. Excellent progress had been made in changing a large "empty" town lot into an attractive setting for their small bungalow. He took great price in showing me the cold frame he built from packing cases and on which he made the storm windows do double duty. Their harvest this fall will go a long way in helping the food budget through the coming winter.

I couldn't help but feel as I left them, here is one home that will be a definite asset to the community and to our country.

Maritime Evangelist at Lachute Baptist Church

Rev. Roy D. Campbell

At Lachute Baptist Church, the Rev. Roy D. Campbell (director of Moncton Youth for Christ, director of the radio network program, "Light of Life Hour", and the field evangelist of the Maritime Gospel Association) will be guest preacher at both services on Sunday, August 26.

Mr. Campbell is vacationing in Lachute after arduous campaigns which carried him into all the Maritime provinces and several of the United States. He has just returned from a conference in New York, where he was guest speaker.

The "Light of Life Hour" is heard each week throughout the Maritimes and New England, and originates at the great youth rally of Moncton Youth for Christ, in the High School of the Maritimes "hub city". Mr. Campbell drives hundreds of miles each week to be on hand for the rally and broadcast, and then has to return to his campaigns in which he is engaged nightly.

The public is cordially invited to hear the Rev. Campbell this Sunday at both services in Lachute Baptist Church. The pastor, the Rev. Hartley Britton, is at present on vacation in Ontario.

St. Giles Presbyterian, Grenville, Que.

A communion service will be held on Sunday, August 26, at 3 p.m., conducted by the Rev. Dr. W. Harold Reid of Lachute. A welcome is extended to all who wish to join in this service.

Many Parents Attend Baptist Vacation School Closing Exercises

Parents and interested friends attended the closing program of the Daily Vacation Bible School at the Baptist Church last Friday evening, concluding two weeks of morning sessions attended by a high enrolment of children.

The Rev. W. H. Britton conducted the program, which included memory work on Bible texts and themes, recitations, singing and musical solos. Prizes were awarded, and gifts were presented to the teachers and to the Rev. Mr. Britton, who with his wife had devoted much effort to the constructive aims of this annual school.

Handicrafts executed by the children were also on display, including cut-outs and fretwork of Biblical figures, shell and needlecraft. Films were shown during the evening, and many appreciative comments were expressed to Pastor Britton and his assistants.

Visits John Bunyan Exhibition

London — The Archbishop of Rupert's Land, the Most Rev. Louis Ralph Sherman, is one of the many visitors to Britain who have seen the unique exhibition of relics of John Bunyan, being staged at the Old Moot Hall at Elston in Bedfordshire. This is the village where the famous writer of "Pilgrim's Progress" was born and lived for many years.

Glenys Bradford Bride In Ceremony Saturday At United Church

Wilson - Bradford

The marriage of Isabella Glenys Bradford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce H. Bradford, of North River, Lachute, to Andrew Grant Wilson, of Ottawa, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Boyd Wilson, of Harris, Sask., took place at the Lachute United Church on Saturday, August 18, at 2.30 o'clock, the Rev. W. B. Rosborough officiating.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of blush satin ending in a slight train, the bodice covered with Chantilly lace, with long lace sleeves ending in points over the hands, and paniers of lace over the hips. She wore a fingertip veil of tulle illusion and carried a cascade bouquet of pastel gladioli and gypsophilia.

The maid of honor, Miss Marjorie E. Graham, and the bridesmaids, Miss Barbara Bradford, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Clifton Morrison, wore strapless midnight blue taffeta gowns with bouffant skirts and short capes of matching blue French lace, and carried semi-cascade bouquets of mixed sweet peas.

Mr. Ernest T. Watterud acted as best man, and the ushers were Mr. Robert Bradford, brother of the bride, and Mr. Gordon W. Shorter, of Ottawa.

The bride's mother wore a street-length dress of navy blue faille, with navy accessories, a lime green feather hat, and a corsage of Talisman roses. The groom's mother was dressed in grey crepe trimmed with rose, with grey accessories and a rose-colored straw hat; she wore a corsage of matching pink gladioli.

The church was decorated with standards of multi-colored gladioli.

The organist was Mrs. Kenneth McOuat, and Miss Audrey Hall, the soloist, sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Ave Maria" during the signing of the register.

A reception was held in the United Church hall, after which the newly-wed couple left on a motor trip for the Muskoka Lakes district, the bride travelling in a powder blue suit of light wool gabardine, with topcoat to match, a dark brown velvet hat and dark brown accessories. She wore a gardenia corsage.

The out-of-town guests included the groom's mother, from Harris, Sask., and others from Ottawa, Montreal, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Danville and Ste. Marguerite.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will reside in Ottawa.

Weekly Newspapers' Conference at Winnipeg

of Manitoba on this tour of the Manitoba Pulp and Paper Mills, which are situated on the Winnipeg River. Closer still to Lake Winnipeg, a gigantic hydro-electric plant is being constructed at a cost of over $20,000,000. Before touring this huge plant, dinner was served in the "mess-hall". Both these plants were of a great interest to all present, as both materials are necessary in the newspaper business. This part of the country is where the great floods started last year, so this project will have another use besides supplying hydro-electric power to a great part of Manitoba, and that will be to keep Winnipeg and the surrounding country free of flood waters in the future. After this tour was completed, we boarded our special train to take us back to Winnipeg to dinner as guests of the Imperial Oil Company Ltd. An informal dance was held by the Massey-Harris Co. Ltd. in the Crystal Ballroom of the Royal Alexander Hotel.

The morning of the fourth and final day was taken up by more meetings, at which the installation of officers took place and a cablegram was sent to the Royal Couple welcoming them to Canada, the senior son of the British Commonwealth of Nations, on behalf of the 544 C.W.N.A. members.

In the afternoon, the new Board of Directors met and afternoon tea was held for the ladies by the Hudson's Bay Company. At this time, the remaining delegates were taken to the not yet completed $2,000,000. Vocational School of Technology. One of the things of great interest in this school was a printing plant comprising many modern printing machines.

A reception was held in the Tea Room of the Royal Alexander by Johnston, Everson and Charlesworth, of Toronto and Montreal.

The annual Trophy Dinner was held, this being the last function of the convention and the first one of the new president, A. W. Hanks, of St. James, a suburb of Winnipeg.

Trophies were presented to various publishers for outstanding work in the various fields of the newspaper business. The retiring president, Lang Sands, of Mission City, B.C., and his wife, were presented with a large silver "past-president's tray". After an hour's entertainment, everyone left to spend their last evening in Winnipeg as they wished, as they were on their own. The representation got smaller and smaller the following day, Saturday, until there was only a handful of what a day before, consisted of over 450 people. Most were wending their way home, thinking of the wonderful time they had and the new ideas they received, and in the distance, looking forward to attending the C.W.N.A. convention next year, at St. Andrews-by-the-Sea, N.B.

Irrigation Experts Make Notable Tests

Taber, Alta. (CP) — W. L. Jacobson, head of the irrigation investigation department, said the federal government's experimental sub-station at Taber leads all Canada in research on the consumptive use of water in prairie crop husbandry.

He said other stations are now being developed in the West to tie in with the increasing productivity of the soils in Western Canada.

In the main project at Taber, more than 600 plots of ground are being tested for the effects of varying amounts of water and fertilizer used.

Results are being carefully tabulated, Mr. Jacobson said, and are being watched with increasing interest by both U.S. and Canadian experts.

Seven different rotations are used in a 32-acre station. One is a six-year plan consisting of three years of alfalfa, two years of hoed crops and one of cereal crops.

Another rotation divides the cropping years equally between soil improvement crops and high return crops.

Pickles and Relishes

Now is the season for pickles, so Mrs. Housewife should start to prepare her winter store. The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, offer three new recipes for pickles and relishes.

Pickled Onions

2 Quarts small white onions, 8 cups cold water, ½ cup salt, 4 cups white vinegar, 1 cup white sugar, 1 stick cinnamon.

Cover onions with boiling water, let stand 2 to 3 minutes, drain, cover with cold water and peel. Make a brine of the water and salt. Pour over onions and let stand overnight. Drain, rinse thoroughly with cold water and drain again. Pack into sealers. Heat vinegar, sugar and cinnamon to boiling point, boil 5 minutes and remove cinnamon. Fill sealers with boiling syrup and seal. Yield: 2 quarts.

Note: If a more spicy flavor is desired, one chili pepper may be added to the above recipe, removing the pepper with the cinnamon.

In place of the cinnamon and chili pepper, 2 tablespoons of mixed pickling spice may be used. Tie these loosely in a small fine cheesecloth bag, boil with vinegar and sugar and remove before pouring syrup over the onions.

Raw Cucumber Relish

8 Cups chopped cucumbers (6 large), ½ cup chopped onion (1 large), 1 tablespoon salt, 1¼ cups white vinegar, ¼ cup water, ⅔ cup sugar, ½-¾ teaspoon white pepper.

Peel cucumbers, cut into quarters and remove seeds. Chop finely or put through coarse grinder. Add chopped onion and salt. Mix well, place in colander and allow to drain thoroughly. Bring vinegar, water and sugar to boil and stir until sugar is dissolved. Remove from heat, add pepper and drained vegetables. Blend well, pack into sterilized sealers and seal. Do not use for at least one month. Yield: 40 ounces.

Beet Relish

4 Cups cooked finely chopped beets, 4 cups finely choped cabbage, ½ sweet red pepper, ½ cup grated horseradish, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/16 teaspoon pepper, 2 cups sugar, 1 cup vinegar, 1 cup water.

Combine beets, cabbage, sweet red pepper, horseradish, salt, pepper and sugar. Heat vinegar and water to boiling point. Add to first mixture and mix thoroughly. Pack into hot sterilized jars and seal. Yield: about 8 cups.

Jewish Market Lures Shoppers Saturday Night

Toronto (CP) — Saturday night is the busiest night in the week for the small tradesmen who sit in front of their shops at Toronto's Kensington Market, the tiny traditional Jewish shopping centre where one can buy many things from a live 15-pound carp to a slightly soiled copy of a book of etiquette.

Baldwin Street, the main shopping thoroughfare, comes to life at 6 o'clock on Saturday night, the end of the Sabbath for Orthodox Jews, and stays awake and busy until nearly midnight — "until the customers stop coming", as Daniel Cohen, one shopkeeper, puts it.

Kensington's clientele is unlimited by nationality, religion or residence and is frequented by epicures and bargain hunters. The prices at the market are lower than most sections of Toronto.

Jewish food has been described as a "smell and an idea". The smell at Kensington market is supplied by the fresh and tantalizing loaves of light and dark rye bread, pumpernickel, brown and white, and "of course", says Mrs. Emma Lottman, bakery owner, "challah".

The idea lies in such things as roasted chick peas, smoked carp herring in wine sauce, succulent cheese cake and live fish, hens and ducks displayed for their prospective buyers.

But not only food is sold there. One owner, Max Rosenbloom, remarks, "we've got everything you want".

Festival Jewelry With Scots Motifs

Edinburgh (CP) — Scotland is on show during Festival of Britain year with the Edinburgh Festival, the Highland Games and other celebrations.

To commemorate these activities a leading firm of jewelers has produced some attractive pieces of personal jewelry whose motif is essentially Scottish.

The pieces incorporate such things as the historical "targe", shield of the Highland warriors; the crossed swords of the sword dance; stags' heads and, of course the national emblem, the thistle.

One brooch in particular is of a unique design. A silver circle, inlaid with mosaic enamelling in red, white and cream, surrounds a silver stag's head and is crossed by two silver swords, with gleaming topazes in the place of the basket hilt.

Another is in the form of a spray of thistle flowers, in which the body of the flower is of silver and the downy "fluff" is a cut amethyst or topaz. This makes an attractive accessory to match with the present fashions in bright tartans.

SAYS BEEF PRICES ARE NOT TOO HIGH

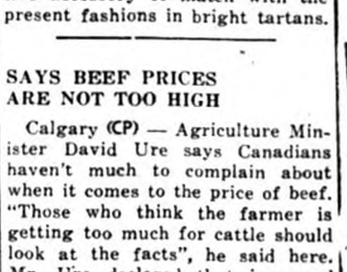

Calgary (CP) — Agriculture Minister David Ure says Canadians haven't much to complain about when it comes to the price of beef. "Those who think the farmer is getting too much for cattle should look at the facts", he said here. Mr. Ure declared that increased production was the only way to bring lower prices.

EXPERIENCE TEACHES

Brighton, England (CP) — Here's sage advice on how to enoy long life, a recipe offered by an expert, Mrs. Frances Wainwright. She says: "Work hard, get married and have lots of children". . . Mrs. Wainwright should know. She has just celebrated her 105th birthday and has a family of 14, including a daughter aged 80.

The penultimate day of the month is the next to the last day.

Greek Gifts for Korea

Korean Minister of Health Han Yunt Oh (right) expresses the appreciation of the people of Korea for Greece's generosity by shaking the hand of a Greek Orthodox priest, chaplain with a contingent of Greek reinforcements for the United Nations Forces in Korea. The crates in the background, on the Pusan waterfront, contain contributions from Greece of soap, medical and school supplies for the Korean people. Korean Minister of Social Affairs Huh Chung and Brigadier General A. C. Dascarolis, Greek commander, who made presentation of the gifts, appear in that order at the left.

Gladiolus Soc'y Held Successful Show

Lem Hammond's "Champion Basket" class filled one corner of the spacious hall. The huge floor basket contained over 35 spikes and was skilfully arranged by Mr. Hammond. His light red "Top-Score" entry won the "Champion three-spikes in the Show" class and a similar spike, taken from the championship basket, won the prize for the "Longest Flowerhead in the Show". Mr. Hammond entered a smokey "R.B." with a spread of over 8-inches to win the "Largest Floret" class, and also took the "Best Seedling" class.

R. Sherman, of Hawkesbury, won with his "Champion Vase" class entry.

Amateur Champion

For the second year running, Keith Rutherford, novice entrant from Brownsburg, has captured the championship for the Amateur class. This class is open only to those growing less than 250 bulbs. Keith's "General Eisenhower", a beautiful rose-colored entry, won "Champion single spike" in the Amateurs. He grossed 34 points. Following in second place was John Duncan, novice, of Brownsburg, with 19 points; Miss Winnie White, Brownsburg, 8 points; and Stanley Murdoch, Brownsburg, with 5 points.

At his first exhibition, John Duncan's "Table Centre-Piece" class and "Small Basket" class entries won firsts; he also took seconds and thirds with varied single spikes to capture second spot in the Amateur class.

With narrow aisles between tables, the blooms filled the body of the newly completed Legion Hall and overflowed to the stage. Decorative floor baskets of multi-colored spikes rounded out this lovely display. Judges Ed Maw, of Montreal, and D. W. White, of Ste. Therese, originator of the now famous "Elizabeth the Queen" bloom, were well pleased with the quality of the blooms and their decisions were well taken, according to the flower-growing fraternity present.

The Hawkesbury and District Gladiolus Society was founded four years ago and its first president was Sidney Mode, of Vankleek Hill. The Society has over 30 members from Hawkesbury, Vankleek Hill, Brownsburg, Lachute and Grenville. The membership is growing annually and, at regular meetings, members are encouraged through demonstrations and discussions to improve the quality of their flowers.

All blooms were auctioned at the end of the show by R. Sherman, the proceeds going to the Society.

Organizing for School Fair and Calf Show, Annual Event Creates Increasing Interest

W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., to Officiate at Opening

Garden Plots Judged; Indications Point to Fine Entry List in Produce and Handicrafts

At this time of year many communities are in a state of excitement preparing for their Fall Fairs. The district surrounding Lachute is no exception, in spite of the fact that the largest Spring Fair in Canada was held here last June.

Of no less importance in its sphere, is the local School Fair and Calf Show which is arranged for Saturday, September 8, at Lachute Exhibition Grounds — for it is there that the juniors get their start in agricultural and competitive skill; and the interest of their parents and the general public will have much bearing on their initiative as the agriculturists of the future. With the general trend of young folks away from the farm, the ambition displayed by the boys and girls preparing for this event should be wholeheartedly encouraged.

Keith Russell, agriculture teacher of Lachute High School, and president of the School Fair Committee, has judged the garden plots and reports that entries in vegetables, flowers, grain and potatoes, along with those of handicrafts and cooking, will necessitate the use of both floors in the Industrial Building at the grounds.

The Calf Show has grown considerably in the past few years. There will be for competition not only junior and senior calves, but also yearlings and two-year-old heifers.

Mr. W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., has shown his interest in this event by accepting an invitation to officially open the Fair. Although this ceremony will be at 1.30 o'clock in the afternoon, proceedings will commence in the forenoon, when the cattle judging contests will be held, and lunch will be available on the grounds.

By present indications this Fair should be the best yet, and should serve to stimulate interest in the science of Agriculture. It is anticipated that many will be on hand to encourage the young people and to view the results of their efforts.

Game Laws for Hunting Season

In addition to regulations on Migratory Birds (published recently in The Watchman), following are extracts from the 1951 Game Laws, issued by the Quebec department preliminary to the hunting season:

Is is unlawful:

For any person to hunt or trap without a license.

To hunt or kill caribou in Quebec Province.

To kill more than one moose or one deer in the course of any season.

To kill cow moose, or the calves of moose or fawns of deer.

To use jack-lights, snares, ropes, nets or traps to hunt moose or deer.

To hunt or kill any game animal with a firearm, between one hour after sunset and one hour before sunrise.

To hunt with an automatic rifle.

To use dogs to hunt deer or moose.

To buy or sell the flesh of deer, moose or caribou.

To ship game unless the names and addresses of shipper and consignee, with full description of contents, be indicated.

To hunt without permission of the lessee, in any leased territory.

License Fees

For Residents: Deer-hunting only, $2.10. All game except Moose, Deer and fur-bearing animals, $1.10.

Non-Residents (members of hunting clubs): Deer-hunting only, $15.50. All game, except as above, $5.25.

Hunting Seasons

Zone C, including Argenteuil, Papineau, Labelle, Two Mountains — Moose, Oct. 12 to Oct. 31. . . Deer, Sept. 25 to Nov. 24.

Southern District, including as above — Ducks, Oct. 11 to Dec. 6. . Partridge, Sept. 22 to Nov. 19.

Any in doubt concerning the regulations should procure the Game Department's booklet, from any warden or issuer of licenses.

Game officers for Argenteuil are — Lesslie Bates and Fernando Lamarche, Lachute; Gordon Cook, Arundel. Mr. Bates (keeping The Watchman posted on latest publications) suggests that all prospective hunters be warned to procure their permits and wear license badges well in view.

MALTESE IMMIGRANTS ARRIVE IN CANADA

Montreal — The first group of Maltese, approximately 500, to arrive in Canada for more than a year, entered the port of Halifax last week and passed through Central Station en route to new homes in Quebec, Ontario, and the Edmonton and Vancouver areas on special Canadian National boat trains.

Along with the Maltese, on a mid-week arrival of six ships carrying nearly 2,000 persons, were Italians, Greeks, European tourists, and returning Canadian and American tourists.

Bold Melodrama, Light Humor, by Louisa Junior Club

Last Friday evening the Lake Louisa Junior Club presented an old-fashioned melodrama, "Curse You, Jack Dalton", at the clubhouse. The play was so thoroughly enjoyed by so many people, that it was held again the following evening. The very capable cast included — Caryl Gatehouse, Mabel Acers, Roger Brophy, Sheila Brownlee, Graham Gatehouse, Pat Belcher and Don Willard, all Junior Club members.

During the intermission candy was sold, after which Anita Hills played several piano selections.

A fitting conclusion, especially enjoyed by all the men present, was a one-act comedy play, "If Men Played Cards As Women Do", revealing the things that transpire when women get together to play bridge. Mr. Grant Wright entertained with short stories, in various dialects, all of which were greatly enjoyed.

This social evening ended with the usual dance which is held at the clubhouse every night with the exception of Sunday.

Lachute Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic On September 14th

Lachute branch of the Red Cross announces its annual Blood Donor Clinic, to be held on Friday, September 14, during the afternoon and evening, in the Lachute Auditorium.

The aim at this clinic is to have at least 300 donors, to meet the acute shortage of blood which now exists and also to help maintain the supply which the local Providence Hospital receives. It is one of 58 hospitals in Montreal and immediate region now receiving the Red Cross free blood transfusion service.

All local organizations have been asked for their support in this effort to obtain donors. Men and women between the ages of 18 and 65 are accepted, after a haemoglobin test which ensures that they are well enough to give blood.

Mrs. Roy C. Fraser, Mrs. Angus Taylor and Mrs. W. M. Cottingham will gladly receive names of volunteer donors.

Young Camper Has Leg Broken

Misfortune dogged young Bobby Hay while holidaying at a boys' camp in Lancaster, Ontario, last week. The 12-year-old lad (son of Donald M. Hay, manager of the Lachute branch, Bank of Montreal) was playing soccer with fellow campers and supervisors, when he fractured his leg. Mr. and Mrs. Hay, notified of the accident, drove the 60 miles to Lancaster and brought their son to the Providence Hospital here, where his injury was X-rayed and attended to by Dr. F. W. FitzGerald.

Two other lads from Lachute, Ernest Morrison and Bobby Todd, were attending the camp.

TREE DISEASE

Windsor, Ont. (CP) — Fifty cases of Dutch elm disease were found in Essex County between June 15 and July 31. The disease is malignant enough to kill a 100-year-old elm in three weeks. There is no effective way of healing an infected tree and the only safe action is to destroy it to prevent the disease from spreading.

LESS FOREST FIRE

Prince Albert, Sask. (CP) — Forestry officials say 1951 has been a favorable year for forest fires in the province. At the end of July there had been only 40 fires compared with 86 for the same period last year.

More Speed

Speed was responsible for a crash of two automobiles at McFaul's corner last week-end. Both cars had the "green light" but the road simply was not wide enough to accommodate the swerve. In this case it cost about $200 to learn that simple lesson.

Back to School?

Last year the extensions and repairs to the Consolidated School delayed the opening for one week. Work has continued since then, and will for some time to come. The children would not mind if the opening were further delayed; a continuation of the present holidays would be much appreciated. The bell will ring nevertheless on Tuesday—when the old swimming hole, the hay field, the apple tree and the camp site will have to be abandoned for the long grind to the Easter and June exams. What a life!

Civics

Mr. W. M. Cottingham made a tour of the district last week to advise and help in a number of municipal problems. Close co-operation with the Mayor (Mr. Pariseau) and councillors has been a feature of Mr. Cottingham's endeavors since his election, and a lot of satisfactory progress has resulted. Route 31 has been further opened, and coating will be laid within the next month on that portion which has been widened. Asphalting the streets of the village is being rushed forward and extensions to the original program have been sanctioned. It is expected that some recurring problems aired at council meetings will be wiped off the books before next fall.

Brownsburg — Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. John Mason, who will celebrate their 55th wedding anniversary this Saturday, September 1.

3 Horse Breeders Win Ribbons

Ottawa — Entries from the Arnoldwold Farms, Grenville, were big winners in the heavy horse classes at the Central Canada Exhibition in Ottawa. In Registered Belgian classes, Gilbert E. Arnold had the champion mare and reserve champion stallion, while in registered Percherons he showed both the champion and reserve stallion and the champion mare.

In Clydesdales, A. T. Cleland, of St. Hermas, had the grand champion stallion; while another local exhibitor, John Heatlie & Son, of Ogdensburg, was among the winners with the year-old stallion Solitaire.

R.C.M.P. Raid Still On Farm Near St. Benoit

St. Jerome — Officers of the R.C.M.P. arrested Alcide Emond and Alfred Chouinard when they raided a farm near St. Benoit last Monday and seized a still capable of producing 500 gallons of alcohol a week. The officers said they expected to take a third into custody.

Also seized by members of the St. Jerome detachment were 100 gallons of home-made alcohol. 3,000 gallons of mash, a quantity of sugar and molasses, and other equipment.

Five-Ton Truck Lands in Ditch

Returning empty from Lachute along the St. Jerome highway, a 5-ton truck belonging to Ste. Agathe Lumber Co'y struck the cement guard wall over a creek just past the cemetery, a mile east of Lachute, last Thursday evening. The accident occurred at 8.30, around the time a heavy rainstorm swept these parts. The driver, Paul Baudry, lost control; the vehicle struck a Gatineau electric light pole and overturned in the ditch. There were three occupants in the cab, including the driver — two of whom were thrown into the ditch and water-soaked. Otherwise there was no casualty except the truck, which was considerably damaged.

Traffic Officer Albert Legault was called to investigate.

Five of Family on Holiday Tour Are Hospitalized in Ontario After Accident

David MacLean of Bell Falls, his wife, two daughters and son-in-law, were injured in a head-on collision while driving near Chalk River late on the night of August 18. The sole occupant of the other automobile, Dewitt Baycroft, of Chalk River, was instantly killed in the accident. The five members of the MacLean family were taken to Deep River Hospital and detained under medical treatment.

David MacLean suffered chest injuries and lacerations. Mrs. MacLean had severe cuts about the head. A daughter, Miss Della MacLean, had fractures of the skull, left leg, foot and one finger. Another daughter, Mrs. Jean Welsh, of North Bay, suffered severe shock, while her husband, Vincent Welsh, sustained a fractured knee-cap and cuts about the face and head.

According to an Ottawa press report, the accident occurred on Highway 17 on a long curve. Dewitt Baycroft was travelling westward, and the MacLean car was headed east.

The news report states that Mr. MacLean's car was damaged to the extent of $1,200 and the Ontario car suffered damage of $1,000. Both were late models.

Inquest on the victim of the fatality was opened by the district coroner, to be resumed at a later date when the witnesses are able to give their evidence.

According to Mrs. Geo. Gunn, a sister of Mr. MacLean residing in Lachute, Miss Della MacLean was still unconscious on Tuesday of this week, and all five were still in hospital. It is stated that David MacLean may be hospitalized for two months. The family had been on a visit to Port Colborne and North Bay.

For the first time in history the value of Canadian mineral production in 1950 exceeded $1,000,000,000.

Tours and Outings Add Variety to Women's Institutes' Summer Fare

August Activities in County Branches

Arundel W.I. branch reports an attendance of 19. Plans were completed for the School Fair to be held September 7. Following the business meeting, the ladies were entertained by a guest who sang several solo selections.

Brownsburg had no meeting, but enjoyed a trip to the Experimental Farm and also to the Ottawa Exhibition. Exhibits were shown there by members of this branch and five prizes were won.

Frontier branch had a meeting on the theme of Citizenship. Colored slides and a commentary were presented by the Rev. Dr. Reid, of Lachute. A sale of home cooking and miscellaneous articles was held.

Lakefield had 11 members present, to hear reports of the Provincial Convention by their delegate, also a report on the Short Course at Macdonald, given by Mrs. Ralph McOuat. A parcel was sent overseas. A successful card party and bazaar was held by this branch.

Jerusalem - Bethany had an attendance of 11 members, who voted a donation of $15 to the Cancer Fund, planned for a community picnic, and also for a trip to radio station CFRA and the Ryan farm. An article was read on Publicity.

Mille Isles had an attendance of seven members, answering the roll-call query of "How does publicity help the W.I.?" A letter was read from the new provincial president. A parcel of old linen is being sent to the Cancer Society. A report of the Provincial Convention was given.

At Pioneer branch, 12 members attended. A bus trip was arranged to Ottawa, and 35 ladies took part, including members from other branches; they visited radio station CFRA, and participated in the program conducted by Frank Ryan. A picnic lunch was enjoyed in the CFRA playhouse, followed by a tour to inspect Mr. Ryan's City View Farm.

Upper Lachute - East End enjoyed an old-fashioned picnic on August 7 — tea being brewed in a boiler on an antique stove. The affair was attended by 72 adults and children, who also enjoyed the program of races and contests.

Driver Dozes, Unhurt When Car Overturns

Robert Legault, 19, while driving his father's car from the city around 11 p.m. last Friday, fell asleep at the wheel, just beyond St. Hermas on a straight, motonous stretch of road well ditched at each side. Legault's car took the ditch, continued for 150 feet, hit two stumps and completely overturned.

The driver escaped with only a slight scratch on the forehead. The auto, a 1942 sedan, was a complete wreck.

Collision at Calumet

Around 9.30 o'clock Saturday night, an eastbound Ottawa car driven by John Millen, crashed into the rear of a ½-ton pick-up truck in charge of Elie Charbonneau, of St. Bernadin, Ont. The truck was undamaged, but the car, a 1950 Meteor Convertible, was smashed to the extent of approximately $600, according to police. Millen, alone in the car, was hurt in both knees. He was taken back to Pte. au Chene, where he had been visiting at a summer cottage.

Cst. Albert Legault, of the local traffic detachment, was called to investigate both accidents.

Killed in Accident at B'burg This Afternoon

As The Watchman goes to press, efforts are being made to extricate the body of Claude Diotte, St. Eustache truck-driver, who was killed around 2 p.m. when his brakes failed to function on steep St. Joseph Street, Brownsburg.

Diotte was operating one of several trucks feeding a road-surfacing machine with asphalt. He passed his brother in another truck, and the other vehicles. At the sharp turn at the end of St. Joseph, he failed to navigate the intersection and crashed into Alex McCullough's house. The cab of the truck was crushed, killing the driver instantly and pinning him in the vehicle.

Mr. McCullough, painting the roof of his house, was thrown to the ground at the rear of the dwelling. Mrs. McCullough, inside the home, was badly shaken. The house was pushed off its foundation and twisted into a sorry shape.

Citizens contributed voluntarily at Fort Langley, B.C., for a skyways spray of the district to combat mosquito nuisance. . . Stanley McGee, president of A. E. Robinson Ltd., of Westmount, Que., does things differently; he has a good looking lady graduate of McGill, Miss Ann Pitt selling industrial oil burning equipment; she studied engineering at McGill, majored with honors in English and French.

Brownsburg —

Work on the roof of the Skating Rink has progressed rapidly, so that within a few days the covering should be completed. The side walls of cement block have also been erected to a height assuring protection from the weather this coming winter. Much requires to be done before the work can be said to be completed, but with a little extra push, and a little extra money, Brownsburg will have a rink and a good one too.

Explosion at B'burg Plant

An explosion occurred at the C-I-L Ammunition plant in Brownsburg around 9.30 a.m. on Monday, when a small quantity of powder (about 2 lbs.) ignited in a filling chamber in the Blasting Cap department. No one was hurt; the workers in this department, operating by remote control, stand behind a solid cement wall. The roof and window of the chamber were blown out, but the concrete sides easily withstood the blast. Damage was estimated by Company officials at around $1,000.

Between the powder department and the surrounding buildings of the plant, there is a protective barricade; but officials state there has been no mishap in this spot for at least 25 years past.

Child Suffers Skull Fracture

Fernand Perriard, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Raoul Perriard, Isabella Street, was hit by a car on Frances Street (opposite the J. C. Wilson paper mills) during the noon hour yesterday, and suffered a skull fracture. He was taken to the Providence Hospital by the driver of the car, Lucien Beauchamp, where he was treated by Dr. F. W. FitzGerald and given an X-ray examination. Later the child was removed by ambulance to the Neurological Institute of the Royal Victoria Hospital.

It is reported the youngster was in company with his three older brothers at the time of the accident, and that he ran out in front of the car.

Cst. O. Sabourin was called to the scene, and Chief D. Villeneuve and Traffic Officer Albt. Legault made the necessary enquiries and arrangements.

Tablet Unveiled At Vaudreuil, Que.

A tablet commemorating the Marquis Pierre de Rigaud de Vaudreuil Cavagnal, last Governor of New France and the man who finally surrendered all of New France to the British in 1760, was unveiled last week at Vaudreuil. The tablet, erected on the recommendation of the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada, Department of Resources and Development, is on the outer wall of the Registry Office at Vaudreuil, Que.

The Marquis de Vaudreuil, who was born at Quebec in 1698 and held the posts of Governor of Three Rivers and Governor of Louisiana, was in command at Quebec during the battle of the Plains of Abraham. After Montcalm's defeat he surrendered the city of Quebec and later all of New France.

The Honorable E. Fabre-Surveyer, Quebec member of the Board, represented the Department and the Board at the unveiling ceremonies.

Britain is spending £200 million ($600 million) on education this year — more than ever before in her history.

Gatineau LINES

CASH and CARRY

You can walk around and pick up whatever you need for the next week.

You pay for it before you take it off the premises, then you carry it home.

Electric service is more convenient than this. It is delivered right to your home already for use. There is no restriction on the number of kilowatt hours you want, you don't have to carry it home and you don't have to lay out the cash at the moment you take delivery.

At the end of each two months' period, your meters are read, and you receive a bill for the amount of electricity you have used during the period.

Your account is due and payable at our office within fifteen days of the date upon which it is rendered, that is, under normal use, part of your account has been carried by us for two and one half months.

If your account is paid before the 15 days have passed, you get a discount of 10%.

Crop Sequence in Mixed Farming

Ottawa — A proper sequence of crops is a definite aid to the farmer in Eastern Canada in providing a profitable income and at the same time maintaining a high level of soil productivity. While the kind of crops to be grown are dependent on many factors, once they have been selected, the operator often has several alternatives in determining their particular cropping sequence.

Results of crop sequence experiments by the Division of Field Husbandry, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, reports W. E. Cordukes, indicate that the yields of most farm crops are higher following crops of alfalfa and red clover than such cultivated crops as potatoes, corn or mangels. For instance, the ten year average yield of corn following alfalfa was 17.74 tons per acre as compared with 14.37 tons where corn was the preceding crop. Similarily, potatoes yielded an average of 265.9 bushels following alfalfa, 255.6 bushels after red clover, but only 226.7 bushels and 160.7 bushels per acre when preceded by crops of oats and potatoes respectively. In the same experiment, the average yield of oats following corn was 57.6 bushels per acre as compared with 49.2 bushels when preceded by an oat crop. Thus, for the mixed farming areas of Eastern Canada, the growing of crops in the following sequence, cultivated crops, cereal grains and then hay or pasture crops, would provide the maximum benefits to be gained from crop sequence, and allow the operator a flexible cropping program.

When such a sequence of crops is followed, farm manure and or commercial fertilizers may be applied to the most responsive crops and the overall productivity of the land increased. In addition the effect of the rotation would help to provide control for many weeds, plant diseases and insect pests.

N.B. GRAIN CROPS

Moncton, N.B. (CP) — Grain crops in several counties which were hard hit by early season rains, are generally inferior to last year's, report officials of the New Brunswick Department of Agriculture. Much of the acreage sown was drowned out by rain.

HELPING HAND

Vulcan, Alta. (CP) — Neighbors decided to do something to help Alvin Jacobson catch up on his farm work after his only son was drowned. Forty-six of them, each with a tractor and plow, gathered and had 400 acres of summer fallowing finished within a few hours.

FOUR GENERATIONS OF A-I CATTLE

A Dairy Shorthorn calf born as a result of artificial insemination at Ballaquinnea, Marown, Isle of Man, is said to be the first fourth generation artificially inseminated calf ever born in Britain. The first calf in each of the four generations has been a female.

THIRD CLOVER CROP

Cheboque, N.S. (CP) — High feed prices don't worry Frank Cook, a Cheboque farmer. His herd of cows is grazing now on a third crop of clover grown this year. Cook claims the crop was made possible through wise pasture management and the use of limestone.

ALBERTA CONFLICT

Won't the little seeds in the gardens have something to talk about when they gain their maturity this summer, if they ever do. This will be passed on from generation to generation in seed lore as one of the most horrible growing seasons in history, with a never-ceasing battle for survival.

Crop Residues and Soil Protection

Ottawa — Soil research and practical experience has shown that the return of all crop residues to the soil is essential if the protective capacity of the land is to be maintained and the soil protected from erosion.

It may not be possible to use all the straw and other crop residues as roughage for livestock, but they can be used to great advantage as a surface mulch or as a sheet-compost — that is spread on the surface or disked in.

An experiment in erosion control at the Missouri Experimental Station showed that two tons of straw per acre applied as a surface mulch, reduced erosion almost completely, while on adjacent bare land the loss of soil was 21 tons per acre. Other experiments have shown that two tons of straw per acre disked in have reduced the loss of soil by one-half.

Studies at Illinois have shown that under straw mulch the penetration of the rain was doubled as compared with bare land and consequently the amount of run-off was reduced and the moisture supplying capacity of the soil increased.

A proper utilization of the straw and other crop residues, which are otherwise wasted, says G. B. Whiteside, Soil Specialist, Experimental Farm, Charlottetown, will help materially in conserving the soil resources of Prince Edward Island and other eastern provinces. When fibrous materials such as straw and old hay are used, Mr. Whiteside points out that it would be advisable to apply nitrogen for the succeeding crop.

Money for Grass

(Peterborough Examiner)

Last week a farmer south of Peterborough brought a few head of cattle to the slaughter-house in the city and went home with a cheque for $4,000. Actually, there were ten head in the lot, averaging about $400 each. This Spring a farmer north of the city bought a second farm better than the one he, his parents and grandparents had labored for many decades to clear and improve. He bought it with one load of cattle he had raised last year, on the unimproved ranch land. Money for jam? Money for grass.

In view of such transactions it is astonishing that sons are still leaving the farm to get "easy" money in factories.

Small Community In Primal Marsh

Cumberland House, 110 miles northeast of here, is one of the oldest settlements in the province. Situated on a 54-square-mile island at the junction of the swampy Cumberland Lake and the Saskatchewan River, the community is the trapping and farming headquarters for the area.

The marshy waters provide trappers with close to 1,000 muskrat pelts a year. During the short but intensive summer season bushmen-turned-farmers raise oats, barley and wheat, and tend their own cattle herds.

The scarred wreck of an old stern-wheel packet still lies on the river bank where 66 years ago the Metis repulsed an attack by Loyalist Rangers. The vessel, the S.S. Northcote, had been sent to the Saskatchewan River to run a Metis blockade maintained against Prince Albert.

After a sharp battle the packet was captured and burned, and the Pangers were held prisoners until the fighting was over.

Agriculture was first introduced at Cumberland House in 1947. Before that, the residents earned a precarious livelihood by hunting, fishing and trapping. Now, 24,000 acres have been planted and crops are flourishing where only swamp grass grew before.

C.N.E. EXHIBITS ARE FASCINATING

Prize Needlework and Handicrafts Largely Designed for Children

Toronto (CP) — One of the main attractions for women at the Canadian National Exhibition this year is also proving a delight to the youngsters. It's the display of prize-winning articles in the needlework and handicraft competitions.

One circus quilt has elephants, camel, giraffe, bareback riding girl and a monkey-driven lion's cage drawn by a red horse, all worked into the design. Another child's quilt in appliqued and embroidered chinchilla is done in squares with a story in each — a penguin fishing through the ice, two pink bears eating honey, a chicken in a flowered bonnet and so on.

Little girls will be drawn to the prize-winning dolls. One is a little darky girl dressed in white dotted swiss, her woollen pigtails tied with red ribbons. There's a picturesque knitted Mexican troubador complete with banjo and sombrero, astride a burro.

Another colorful pair is a rag dandy with his flaxen-haired sweetheart. A prize-winner from the Prince Albert, Sask., sanatorium is a papoose doll dressed in a miniature Indian costume of fringed and beaded leather, complete with hat, jacket, skirt and tiny beaded moccasins.

Colorful Rugs

Among rugs are some colorful exhibits. From Ottawa comes one with a French-Canadian scene inspired by the Gatineau hills. It shows a winter farmyard with bare tree branches outlined against distant blue hills, and the family emerging from their front door with the sleigh waiting.

One attractive hooked rug shows a pattern of clusters of Iris in shades of blue, mauve and coppery brown, all on a background of cream and green.

In a special section of entries from members of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind there are 230 articles. Alma McIntosh of Kitchener, Ont., took first prize last year with a handmade and dressed china doll. This year she is showing stuffed animals and baby clothes.

Mrs. Eva Bamber of Hamilton is one of those who won't be able to see her knitted socks and cushion, with crocheted flowers, on display. The 67-year-old blind widow is one of the exhibitors.

BIGGER SHIPMENTS

Saint John, N.B. (CP) — Shipments of pit props and pulpwood overseas through Saint John have shown "a great increase" over the level of recent years, according to official reports.

Cars of Ancient Vintage

ANCIENT jalopies are a hazard to the highways; they provoke us sometimes to profanity. But there is a stage of lengevity which some few automobiles attain — a doughty old age which commands our veneration. Like old furniture which, past the prime of newness, becomes mere junk but after a generation or so acquires the status of "antique".

There are in this district one or two time-honored models deserving of respect. One still in daily service, is a 1923 Ford open coupe, which carries its original 1923 license together with its 1951 plate. Another old-timer (maker's name forgotten) conveyed a party from Ste. Scholastique to Lachute Fair a year or two ago, and excited our admiration more than all the blue-ribboned exhibits on the grounds; luxury standards of the early twenties were apparent in every line and gadget.

For old times' sake our neighbor nails his discarded license plates to the beams of his garage — the earliest being 1920, at which time the year was not stamped on the plate, only the registration figures.

These observations are prompted by our visit to a local garageman (advertised this week), who abandoned the repair business for that of wrecking and salvage. The remnants of old cars and trucks around his yard could tell a vivid tale, of triumph, usefulness, neglect — of human romance, tragedy and death. No antiquity here, just junk — but valuable.

Combines Investigation Act

A SPECIAL committee of the House of Commons has been looking into the Combines Investigation Act to see where it might be improved. This seems right and proper — any legislative vehicle that calls for investigation by public authorities should be scrutinized thoroughly and often, to make sure it doesn't tend to breed a gestapo-like thinking among investigators.

Protection of the public against damaging business practices, is a necessity of modern civilization, but there is the human tendency for persons who are closely associated with misbehavior, people who spend all day every day studying it, to see imaginary signs of crime where none actually exists.

For example, there is the complaint against the present Combines Act that, possibly because it was borrowed from our more politically dramatic cousins to the south, it allows the Combines Commission to draw up and publicize what might be a very damaging report on some company or industry before the victim (or violator) even knows about it and before any charges are laid in court. This is hardly in keeping with the generally understood principles of justice.

A case that comes to mind is the recent news story from Ottawa (carrying no indication of the source of the news), hinting that the fine paper industry was being "investigated". This inference alone could be so damaging to an honest business that the leader of one of the big papermakers' unions wired Justice Minister Garson warning him that such tactics may cause "unjustified damage" to the industry and threaten the jobs of thousands of Canadian workers. Moreover, he pointed out, this important Canadian industry is on the verge of a large scale expansion which would provide even more jobs for Canadians and careless talk might cause permanent harm not only to the companies themselves but to working men and the many communities which depend upon these big mills.

With this as a clear-cut example, perhaps our legal authorities at Ottawa will be able to see their way clear to amending or rewriting an act which, though intended to protect the public, has some boomerang qualities.

Where the Dollar Goes

AN INTERESTING survey showing how the average American consumer spends his income now, as compared with how he spent it at various times in the past 50 years, has been published by the National Industrial Conference Board in the United States and is quoted by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

The study, using as its source the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, discloses one very definite and significant trend: Necessities, like food and clothing, are absorbing an appreciably smaller percentage of the moderate-income family's dollar than they once did, while at the same time a steadily increasing share of the dollar is being spent on optional or "other" items, such as recreation, cars and house furnishings.

A breakdown of how the U.S. consumer spent his dollar is given for four separate periods (in each case the "fuel" figure includes gas and electricity):

	1901	1918-19	1934-36	March, 1951
Food	45 cents	38 cents	34 cents	35 cents
Clothing	14 cents	17 cents	11 cents	13 cents
Rent	14 cents	14 cents	17 cents	11 cents
Fuel	6 cents	5 cents	7 cents	3 cents
'Other'	21 cents	26 cents	31 cents	38 cents

The Board's survey shows that over the same period of years real wages have risen, and thus, a higher standard of living has been realized.

No one will argue that the average North American — and this term must include people living on both sides of the Canada - U.S.A. boundary — is not eating better today than he was half a century ago. He certainly has a better home. He has more varied clothes to wear. And on top of these necessities, he still manages to have more money left to buy things that, had they ever existed, would have been considered luxuries 50 years back.

The obvious inference to be drawn from these NICB tables is that, despite the non-stop argument about wage rates and the cost of living and which has outstripped which, the average American— and also the average Canadian — enjoys a better and more varied living standard than did his father and his grandfather!

Philosophy of Hard Work

SWAN SONG of C. A. MacLean, who sold his Strathmore (Alberta) Standard to his brother Hector: "We have ignored the 40-hour week, we do not know of any expansion program which was ever accomplished under a 40-hour week, no empires, either territorial or financial, which grew that way. We never saw a crop of wheat ripened in a 40-hour week. Nor a flock of weeds that could be killed in a 40-hour week. Nor any athlete who made the grade thus. And we do not know of any paper which has continued to improve without longer hours and harder work. 'In the sweat of thy brow . . . ' said the Old Testament, and we do like to eat bread." The Calgary Albertan commented, "We predict a bright future not only for Mr. MacLean, but also, as long as there are citizens like him, for Canada."

CANADIANS in Edinburgh for the Festival or the Gathering of the Clans have been inundating the Scots Ancestry Research Society with "ancestral" enquiries. Many of the callers wish to trace family trees, and some are hoping to establish links with such historic figures as John Knox, Flora MacDonald and Robert Burns.

ONE THING about this Canada of ours is its variety. Take weather for instance. If one had enough money, he could, during the past few weeks travel around the country and experience just about every sort of weather from tropical heat to the icy cold of the far north islands.

The Rainy Season

Some people are so stupid! When it's raining at home, they have left their raincoat at the office. When it's raining at the office, their raincoat is at home.

I solved this problem in a very simple manner — just by having two raincoats, keeping one at the office and one at home. One morning last week it was raining when I left the house, so I wore my No. 1 raincoat and hung it up at the office beside my No. 2 raincoat. That evening was fine and quite warm. I would have looked foolish carrying a raincoat, so I left them both in the office. Next morning it was raining again. I sprinted for a bus, missed it, and waited ten minutes for the next. By the time my suit had dehydrated itself, it looked like something you give to the Salvation Army. By this time it was 3.30 p.m. A client phoned me to close a rather important deal. The afternoon had turned out beautiful, so beautiful that I walked eleven blocks to his office just to enjoy the rare sunshine. In ten minutes we had closed the deal (which could have been done just as well by telephone) and spent the next half-hour talking about old times and the pranks we used to play when we were kids. Finally we shook hands and I departed. On reaching the street, I noticed that all the pedestrians were huddled under awnings and in doorways. It was pouring. Back I went to my client's office on the seventh floor and phoned my office from there, telling the office boy to hurry over with my raincoat. He replied that he would when the rain stopped, as he had no raincoat. So I told him to wear my No. 2 raincoat and carry No. 1 raincoat over his arm. I waited. Five o'clock came and I phoned my office again. The operator informed me that the rest of the staff had gone home, and that she was just leaving. Also that the office boy had left and should have been at my home long ago.

Then I remembered that I had not told him where to bring the raincoat to! At 5.10 my client said he was leaving, but that I could let myself out as soon as the rain stopped. At 6 p.m. I turned on the radio. The newscaster said: "Continuous rain, stopping by midnight."

I dozed off in his swivel chair and waited for midnight, debating whether to fire the office boy or not. Some people are so stupid!

Be seein' ya!

— Uncle Walt.

COUNTRY KIDDIES BRIGHTER

An Edinburgh, Scotland, psychologist, Dr. J. Maxwell, says recent tests show that children born in the country have a higher rate of intelligence than those born in the city. He adds that "the largest reservoir of intelligence for future generations is to be found among children of skilled manual workers".

Canadians and Americans Not "Just the Same"

The common belief that Canadians and Americans are "just the same" was exploded by a Canadian editor last week on returning from a 12,000 mile bus tour that took him through twenty-five of the United States.

John Clare, managing editor of Maclean's Magazine, spent five weeks talking to Americans to "re-examine the belief that we are just like them".

His conclusions, which appear in the September 1 issue of Maclean's are blunt: "Americans are different. They are different from each other and they are different from the Americans of ten and even five years ago. They differ from each other in the same startling and dramatic terms as a Mongolian shepherd differs from a fisherman on the bank of the Seine. In the same measure they differ from us".

In a 6,000 word report, Clare charts some of the ways in which Americans differ from Canadians — which range all the way from their pronunciation of the word "hero" (hee-ro) to the use of "vaycation" instead of "holiday". But he found more subtle and more fundamental differences as well. These included a strong aggresive patriotism, and a lively interest in their own history.

Most Americans told him they felt the American-Canadian border shouldn't be there and that Canadians and Americans "are all the same people", but many, he reports, were full of misconceptions about Canada. All that he talked to thought this country had its own television and its own draft for military service. Only a few knew Canada had troops in Korea. Only one man knew the name of the Prime Minister, and he couldn't spell it.

"Nearly everyone had an exaggerated idea of our winters", writes Clare. "Several people I talked to were surprised I didn't have an English accent".

Some Americans Clare talked to still thought Canada took orders from the King of England and one man referred to a foreign policy speech by Lester B. Pearson as a "Whitehall speech".

Clare writes that he found "USA:1951" a troubled nation, its citizens unsure of their future but very much aware of their new responsibilities as world leaders.

"What do they think of us in Canada?" one woman in Nashville, Tennessee, asked him anxiously.

And an archaeologist in Phoenix, Arizona, warned him: "Guard your natural resources. When we become a have-not nation, you will have to help feed us".

Almost everybody, Clare adds, was surprised to be interviewed by a Canadian reporter.

THE WEEKLIES SAY..

CLEANLINESS FIRST

Many people in our communities are putting out their garbage in paper bags and cartons. This seems to be very agreeable to the cats and dogs but is not doing much to keep our streets and lawns clean. A good covered garbage can is not so expensive and would discourage the dogs from dragging the garbage all over town.

PROPER PENALTY

Imposing a fine or jail term in the cases of "wife-beating" is another of the inadequacies of the criminal code of Canada long overdue for amendment. If the offenders were marched through the city, properly placarded, the punishment would be more in line with the offence.

TELEGRAM DELIVERY GOES MODERN

The telegram messenger boy may soon be as extinct as the dodo. Western Union's experiments with automobiles as mobile telegraph stations deliver messages in a matter of minutes. The telegram is printed on a facsimile machine beside the driver. If the tests prove successful and economical, the company plans to extend the service in several cities with large spread-out residential areas. In Baltimore, where the experiment is now taking place, six station wagons cruise 16 hours a day in each of six residential districts not more than ten miles square. Each car is in direct communication with the central office.

AROUND THE HOME

A seat in the shade is yours when you build it around a tree — about 16 inches wide. Use slats of dressed inch lumber; 2 x 4 for the uprights; 2 x 2 for the connecting pieces, and thin plywood for the face board.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Noble were in Montreal on Monday and Tuesday of this week.

Investment in Inflation?

Finance Department officials in Ottawa herald the new higher interest rate issue of Dominion Government savings bonds as "the most attractive security of its kind ever issued". The higher interest rate offered on the new bonds, says Finance Minister Abbott, "reflects the Government's determination to encourage personal savings as an important and constructive influence in helping to stabilize the Canadian economy at this time".

Mr. Abbott deserves the support and co-operation of every Canadian in his efforts to "stabilize the Canadian economy". Citizens who are asked to do so, however, may properly ask what guarantee there is that the savings bonds now offered afford any better opportunity of accomplishing this objective than earlier issues put on the market since 1940. From the standpoint of investment alone, the slight difference of one half of one per cent in the interest rate is scarcely sufficient to compensate for the declining purchasing power of the dollar, which is reflected for the month of June alone by a 3.5 point rise in the cost-of-living index.

It is perfectly correct to argue, as does Mr. Abbott, that reduced spending and further saving will tend to halt rising living costs and curb inflation. Such an argument, however, loses a considerable amount of its punch when Ottawa, which is the biggest spender of all, shows every intention of increasing, rather than curtailing the enormous expenditure of public funds for purposes which contribute not at all to the productive capacities of the country.

The little man: "We seem always short of money, dear, why is it?"

Wedding Solemnized at Harrington United Church

Boa - Meyer

Multi-colored gladioli adorned the United Church at Harrington for a double-ring wedding at 3 o'clock on Saturday, August 25, when Mabel Edna Meyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Meyer, of Rivington, was united in marriage to Thomas Shepherd Boa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Boa, of St. Hermas, Que. The Rev. W. B. Rosborough, of Lachute United Church, officiated at the ceremony, and Mr. L. Harbour played the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of French nylon lace ending in a slight train, the bodice covered with blush satin, with long satin sleeves ending in points over the hands, and with paniers of satin appliqued with hand-sewn butterflies over the hips. Her veil of French nylon lace, appliqued with satin bells, extended over the train of the dress and was held by a bonnet of gardenias. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of deep red roses.

Her sister, Miss Edith Meyer, was maid of honor and the junior bridesmaid was Miss Margaret Boa, sister of the groom. Miss Dianne Boa, niece of the bride and groom, acted as flower girl. The attendants were gowned alike in yellow, pink and blue nylon eyelet-embroidered organdy. The senior attendants carried bouquets of gladioli, while the flower girl carried sweet peas and single carnations.

Mr. Earl Gordon was groomsman, and the ushers were Mr. Albert Meyer, brother of the bride, and Mr. Donald Boa, brother of the groom.

Mrs. Meyer, the bride's mother, wore a street-length dress of grey crepe and matching hat; her corsage was of pink carnations. Mrs. Boa, mother of the bridegroom, wore a navy crepe dress with white accessories, and a corsage of pink carnations.

The newlyweds later greeted guests at a small reception for members of the immediate families and a few out-of-town friends, at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. E. Costerus, Baptist student pastor, was among those who voiced the good wishes of the gathering.

Poor eyesight won't get you out of the army nowadays. They just put you up front where you can see better.

Bell Falls

Mr. Clarence Bennett, Mr. Thos. Bennett and Master Geo. Bennett called on friends in the Eastern Townships last week-end.

Mrs. J. C. Chalmers is visiting with her brother, Mr. Neil MacCallum.

The Misses Isabel and Edythe MacCallum, Messrs. William Horsnall and Dougal Page, visited Mrs. A. J. Brown in Lachute last Sunday.

Mrs. Ron Mitchell and son, of Kingston, are visiting at Mr. and Mrs. T. McNeil's.

Miss M. J. Stewart is visiting at the home of her brother, Mr. Joseph Stewart.

Church Notes

Service will be held in the Harrington United Church at 11 a.m. on Sunday; Sunday School 10 a.m. . Following the morning service, nomination will be held for the position of an elder.

Ruminations on Royalty -- Thriller Fiction -- And the Swiftly Passing Summertime

"Sunnyacres Sketches" — By Margaret Cook

As we write, the summer (such as it is) is on the wane. There are more blueberries under the bushes than on them, and the blackberries gleam like jet under the yellowing bracken. Moreover, we have not flushed up a partridge for 10 days or more, a sure sign that the hunting season is nearly upon us. When we look out the porch window, it frames great masses of mauve and white phlox, instead of the delicate pink of roses. The apples begin to show red and yellow globes instead of being an almost invisible, ugly greenish yellow. Once more, we do all the old familiar late-summer things — the last flurry at the wood-pile, the jelly-making, the farewell trips through the fields and the woods. Only one thing comforts us, there will be another summer!

Due to the rain, which averages four days a week, the summer people are forced to take refuge from boredom in books, and we have been interested to note that nearly everyone is reading a detective story. On a recent visit to a new cottage, we saw the grandmother of the household sitting among the towering trees by the lake happily reading a thriller. Never an admirer of the lavender-and-old-lace type of grandmother, we too were thrilled. The power to read and enjoy a good, gory mystery shows a certain youthful spirit of adventure and a healthy mental agility. Personally, we feel that the only sensible and usual kind of conversation is now to be found in murder mysteries. The dialogue in the modern short story is either so sparkling that one feels that it is a play whose actors speak their lines with aplomb but not sincerity, or it is so dull that one yawns and goes outside to see how the currants are coming along. But in a crime novel the characters, having a definite purpose, talk even as you and I—and that is comforting and sometimes informative. . . For instance, we have learned that the uterus of a body has been found intact seven months after burial. We told this gem to our doctor neighbor and she agreed that it was entirely possible, adding that the organ under discussion was a very tough muscle. The medical point of view always is fascinating. The whodunits are also the means of extending the vocabulary, and we recently added ADIPOCERE to ours. We leave that one to you, and to Webster.

Which brings us to yet another silly story in the annals of Sunnyacres. On a grey, wet night last week, the writer, complete with husband and guest, was huddled around the big kitchen range, whiling away the evening with the aforementioned type of novel. Someone in the story was being done in by means of gas; and so realistic was the whole thing that I could smell the gas! Mentally giving the author applause for such writing ability, I broke the silence by this remark, "You know, if we were not at Sunnyacres, and it were not impossible, I would swear that I could smell train smoke". The others politely looked from their reading, murmured something, and were about to resume . . when our wits cleared enough to realize that smoke filled the room, that the Aladdin lamp was directing a ruddy flame at the beam above, whose paint was rapidly curling up; the area around was black, and the room blue with smoke. This caused some rapid action, followed by much merriment over the writer's remark, until the lamp chimney exploded in the hands of the man of the house, whereupon we turned his merriment to exasperation by calling out to the guest, a good three feet away, "Are you all right, Bertha?"

This week, the press is having a field day with conjectures, anecdotes and reminiscences of Princess Margaret, on the occasion of her 21st birthday. . . Betty, the daughter of the house, is now of an age to read and comment, although, naturally, Prince Charles and Princess Ann have more interest for her. How fortunate are we of the British Commonwealth that we have Royalty as our romantic interest and pattern, rather than the stars of Hollywood! The glamor of an impossibly beautiful female in incredible clothes, fades before the magic of the stories of real live princes and princesses. The hold of the Royal family on the affection of all classes of the Commonwealth is real and sincere — and, we think, a wholesome and steadfast sentiment, in a world where little sentiment is left. Our good wishes join with those of millions in the world, who think with tenderness of that bright, piquante personality and hope that life will deal gently with it — a hope hardly likely to be realized, since the way of Royalty is hard.

"There you go, digressing again", says the inner voice. "You meant to write about the field mice, the snake and the hawk, and you find yourself writing about Princess Margaret. Really, haven't you any control at all?" So, obediently, we return to the mice, the snake and the hawk. . . Both the mice and the snake were discovered when a large log was moved, preparatory to cutting it up. There were six little field mice, very plump and appealing, in a grass nest. Put in a box with some hay, they cowered together and appeared to sleep, but, set free, they were at once alert and squeaking, calling in tiny, demanding voices for the warmth and comfort of their mother. The snake, too, was a baby, with a brown back and salmon-colored belly. He, also curled himself in captivity and seemed prepared to sleep it out. When we freed him, he disappeared in a matter of seconds, but not before he had warned us of terrible things with a miniature forked tongue. As for the hawk, he was young and unsophisticated, so he calmly sat in the dust of the road while we waited his pleasure to move. Presently, he flew to the branch of a neighboring tree, where his speckled breast blended perfectly with the sun-flecked leaves.

"The Osler" is almost finished, a book which palls after awhile. The good doctor undoubtedly had charm as well as wisdom, but he was the complete extrovert and the reading of a continuous round of lectures and dinners becomes tiresome. One longs to do a job of editing on the last third. One thing we have learned — the science of medicine has made enormous strides since Sir William's death. It is ironic that the "miracle drugs" that have largely taken the dread from pneumonia should have been developed only after Osler succumbed to that disease, especially since he continually fought the three "slayers", as he called them, of Pneumonia, Tuberculosis and Typhoid.

The tea-hour is at hand, the rain and wind are cleaseless, but as the musical comedy sagely remarks, "Everything stops at four for tea".

HE'S DOWN TO EARTH ONLY IN SPARE TIME

Vancouver (CP) — Gardening is the hobby of 55-year-old Fred Rix, and it's easy to see why he likes spending his off-hours close to the soil.

For 20 years Fred's work has been on the walls of the 25-storey Marine Building, Vancouver's highest, where he is a window washer.

It doesn't worry him to stand on a narrow sill 300 feet above the pavement, but he admits he feels slightly more at ease on the second storey because "you figure you haven't as far to fall."

Fred was window-cleaning even before he took over his present job. He's the only cleaner doing "outside glass". Another man looks after the interior. All in all, he has 964 windows to clean.

How about the windows at home?

Once a year, says Fred.

AGGRESSIVE MOOSE

Gagetown, N.B. (CP) — C. D. Dykeman's truck was badly damaged when it was charged by an irate bull moose. The animal lunged out of an old orchard as Dykeman was driving past.

HEAVY HAIL LOSSES

Calgary (CP) — Applications for hail insurance this year were the highest on record, the Alberta Hail Insurance Board reported. The Board said 20,942 applications had been received. Up to the end of July about 500,000 acres of insured crops were damaged by hail.

C.N.E. Bank Display Teaches New Family-Financing Plan

Bank of Montreal men and women answer the personal financing and banking questions of visitors to their booth in the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto. The first bank display ever set up at the C.N.E., the B of M booth last year attracted more than a quarter-of-a-million visitors and supplied information on Personal Planning to 27,000 of them. More than 5,000 people sat down with the bank's personnel to discuss their financial affairs and banking problems. Since the introduction of Personal Planning at that time, over 100,000 persons have individually sought information on this new money-management system. The experience of many of them indicates its unique effectiveness in meeting the high cost of living.

HOME-MADE GLIDER

Rosetown, Sask. (CP) — Ralph Wiseman is all set to fly his home-made glider as soon as he passes Department of Transport tests.

He built the plywood and spruce craft last year at a cost of $800 and many long hours of labor. He used German bluepfints and his own imagination in designing the 250-pound craft. It has a wing span of 46 feet and is 18 feet long. With it a licensed glider pilot, Norman Bruce, attained an altitude of 300 feet.

NEW APARTMENTS BUILT BY DANES STRESS SERVICE

Everything for Working Families, From Meals to Babysitter

By Charles Croot

Copenhagen (Reuters) — In a super-suburban block of apartments outside Copenhagen, a busy wife need never do any cooking or housework or laundry unless she wants to. She doesn't have to take care of her child. She doesn't have to worry about entertaining guests.

And she can even arrange to have someone else pay the bills.

Called "Hoeje Soeborg", this block of 124 flats is built to meet the needs of families in which both the husband and the wife are out all day. For a husband and wife with one child the block offers the complete solution.

By arrangement with a specially trained staff, tenants can:

Receive and deliver parcels, have bills collected and paid, have their flat cleaned regularly, have their washing done in the laundry in the cellars.

All the Trimmings

If they want to throw a big party, they can entertain up to 40 persons at dinner in a guest dining room, complete with service and all accessories. The kitchens attached to the flats will cook the meal and there is a staff of waiters to serve it.

Baby sitters are arranged for couples dining out. The arrangements for looking after children include a "crib-room" for babies, a kindergarten for small children and a "leisure time home" for older children.

The restaurant serves meals from 7.30 a.m. to 10 p.m. Prices are reasonable — complete dinner costs 2.75 Kroner (about 40 cents) and breakfast 1 Kroner.

To enable meals to be kept as cheap as this, tenants have to undertake to eat 20 meals a month per person in the restaurant. These compulsory meals, however, may be served in their own apartment or may be used up by entertaining guests in the restaurant.

Expenses are low. For three persons (husband, wife and child), monthly expenses including rent, compulsory meals, utilities, and telephone come to 409 Kroner ($57.25).

Other expenses are on the same scale. The monthly cost of leaving a child in the kindergarten, for example, is $6.75. A charwomen charges 35 cents an hour.

Happy School Days

— By NANCY CLEAVER — (Copyright)

"School Days, school days,
Dear old Golden Rule days.
Readin' and Writin' and Rithmetic
Taught with the aid of the hickory stick."

The first days of September bring to mind the old song about school days. Most adults look back at their own childhod with rosy colored spectacles. Mothers who are busy getting school wardrobes ready, are somewhat relieved that to quite an extent "the hickory stick" has gone out of style. They want their boys and girls to have, not only a successful but also happy time at school. What parents sometimes fail to realize is that a child's happiness at school is not wholly dependent on the teacher! Fathers and mothers, too, have their part to play in helping to make school a satisfying experience — a time which will be fondly remembered. What can parents do to make their wish of "happy school days" come true for their children?

Every child should be in the best possible health. A check-up by the family doctor at least once a year is a good plan. Regular visits to the dentist, and to the eye specialist if the doctor advises this, are also important. The family allowance has put payment of medical care within the reach of many families, who formerly looked on this as an "extra". In the long run, it is an excellent investment to prevent sickness, rather than wait until a child is ill before consulting a doctor.

Boys and girls should start off to school with a good breakfast in their stomachs and with an adequate and appetizing lunch, if a noon meal must be carried. They should get up early enough so that they do not need to be "rushed" or nagged in order to get them off to school. Any child who is old enough to read the time, can take partial responsibility for watching the clock and getting off to school. Hot school lunches are an excellent plan and if this plan is not in operation, parents do well to forward its adoption for the school children in their district.

Children hate to be too "different" from their school chums in appearance. It is a wise mother who dresses her children in a similar manner to their chums. Small boys, especially hate to feel too "dressed-up". They dread being teased by the other boys. Practical, simple clothes that can be washed are worn by most Canadian school children. Mothers seldom make mistakes in school clothes after the first grade beginning-of-school event.

Mothers and fathers can do a great deal to make "happy school days" come true for their children by their own attitude to the school, and especially to the school teacher. There are far too many critical remarks, personal, even unkind comments, about the teacher made in the hearing of the scholars. There is far too little appreciative comment of the teacher's character and accomplishments. No one is perfect (not even our own children!) — and the teachers, on the whole, are a fine class of people.

Throughout our Dominion there is still a shortage of qualified teachers. This is particularly true in outlying rural elementary schools. One of the possible reasons for this is likely the attitude of many parents to teachers. Another factor is that salaries are inadequate to attract the right type of young person in sufficient numbers to supply the need. Do you know what salary your child's teacher receives? Is it anywhere near this standard? If it is not, can something be done about it? Properly paid, respected, well-adjusted individuals are likely to create the kind of atmosphere which produces "happy school days" for the scholars.

Happy school days are the right not just of our children but of ALL boys and girls in our land. It is a goal worth keeping in mind. In your own community, in the condition in which you send your child to school, in the attitude to the teacher, in your cooperation with the Home and School Association (if there is one in your area or any similar group) are you "pulling your own weight"? The years of childhood training influence the whole life of most grown-ups. "Happy School Days" are a vital part of any "brave, new world" in any country, but particularly in a democracy! The kind of school and of teacher should matter not only to parents but to every good citizen. This is a matter of first importance! Don't neglect it!

THE FIERCE FIGHT ON DRANGEY ISLE

Names from the Scottish Highlands Rooted in Norse Lore and Legend

Grettir the Strong was born about the year 997 AD. This was a number of years after the discovery of Greenland by Erik the Red 969 AD., and just before the discovery of America 100 AD., by Lief the Lucky. Shortly after this, 1001 AD., Thorwald visited Lief's booths (budir), a settlement he had founded in America, and was killed by the natives — the first white man to die in America.

Grettir was a contemporary of the son of Thorfinn and his wife Gundred, the first white child to be born in America, 1005 AD.

Grettir not only liked to listen to the savage deeds told of in the sagas, he longed to imitate them. By the time he was 15, he had killed a man in a quarrel.

An old friend of his father saw the quarrel, and led Grettir away to justice. The case was heard and it was proved that Grettir had been much provoked by the man he slew. Grettir was made an outlaw for three years. His life was at the mercy of anyone who could take it during that time. He also had to pay a heavy fine to the relatives of the slain man. His father's friend paid this.

On his way home after the trial, Grettir lifted a great stone, at a sports contest. To this day, the natives of Biarg, in Northern Iceland where Grettir lived, will point with pride to this stone.

He left Iceland and went to Norway, but even here, although he slew 12 men who were robbing his host's castle, and killed a great bear, armed only with a short knife, he was finally outlawed once more.

So he returned to Iceland to find that his brother Atli had been slain. (This name Atli might be the source of the name of Britain's prime minister).

Grettir asked his remaining brother, Illugi, to share his exile with him. They sailed to a little island called Drangey, five miles off the coast of Iceland, a sheep pasture of which the grazing rights belonged to one Thorbiorn, called the Hook.

When Grettir had been two winters on the island, he had eaten all the sheep except one piebald ram with magnificent horns.

For Thorbiorn to venture up the steep cliffs of Drangey and face the greatest warrior in Iceland, who also had his brother and the thrall Glaum with him, would have been suicide.

Thorbiorn consulted his stepmother, who was versed in the occult arts — in other words, she was a witch. "I will fix Grettir", she said. The old hag cut runes on a log she found on the beach — that is she cut letters, supposed to be magical, then she cut her arm and smeared the letters with her blood. After that she rose and began to leap and scream around the log, making strange signs over it.

Gangrene set in and Grettir's condition became worse and worse. He knew he was going to die. His brother Illugi nursed him continuously.

When Thorbiorn reached the shore, he found that the ladder, which was usually removed at night, was still there. They all ascended. Illugi was sitting by the fire with his brother's head in his lap.

Illugi was on his feet in a moment. He seized his sword, flew to the doorway and defended it bravely. Grettir tried to rise to his feet, but could only stagger to his knees. He seized his spear and drove it through the roof which Thorbiorn's men had rent, so that it struck one man in the breast and killed him.

Then Grettir drew his short sword and smote at the men as they leaped upon him from the wall. With one blow he cut off the arm of one man, but in so doing he lost his balance and before he could raise himself, Thorbiorn struck him between the shoulders and made a fearful wound. The mist of death was in Grettir's eyes, but Illugi threw his shield over Grettir and defended him with desperate courage.

Then Thorbiorn ordered his men to form a ring around Illugi. They did so, and Illugi at last was taken and slain, but not till he had killed three more of Thorbiorn's men. Then they slew the unconscious Grettir. When he was dead, Thorbiorn tried to take the sword from his cold fingers, but the strong man's hand was clenched so firmly that he could not pull the sword away.

I take a pardonable interest in this story out of Iceland's history, because the name Thorbiorn is the original Norse form of my own name. This man, or his kinsfolk, more probably settled in the Scottish Highlands.

Not long after this time. They became allied to the Campbell clan. Many other Norsemen settled in the Scottish Highlands. The MacLeods are descendants of Leod who conquered some of the western isles of Scotland. The MacPhersons, are the descendants of Ferson, a Norseman. The Andersons and the Chisholms are also of Norse descent, as are many other Scottish families.

Thorbiorn lost five men regaining a few acres of sheep pasture. Today in Canada, many many acres of sheep pasture are going to waste, and lamb chops are $1.50 a pound. O Mores, O Tempores.

BEAVERS BEWARE

Timmins, Ont. (CP) — A provincial game overseer has come up with what he considers an infallible method of discouraging the beavers. Apparently the animals intensely dislike the smell of fuel oil and will pack up and leave if some is sprayed around their lodge or where they are cutting trees.

LAUGHING MATTER

When three-year-old Bobbie Waddington fell into a lake at Bradford, England, his grandmother plunged right in after him. At the same time Clifford Naylor dived from his boat, upsetting it and spilling his family into the lake. Hundreds of sunning holidayers roared with laughter. The lake was only two feet deep.

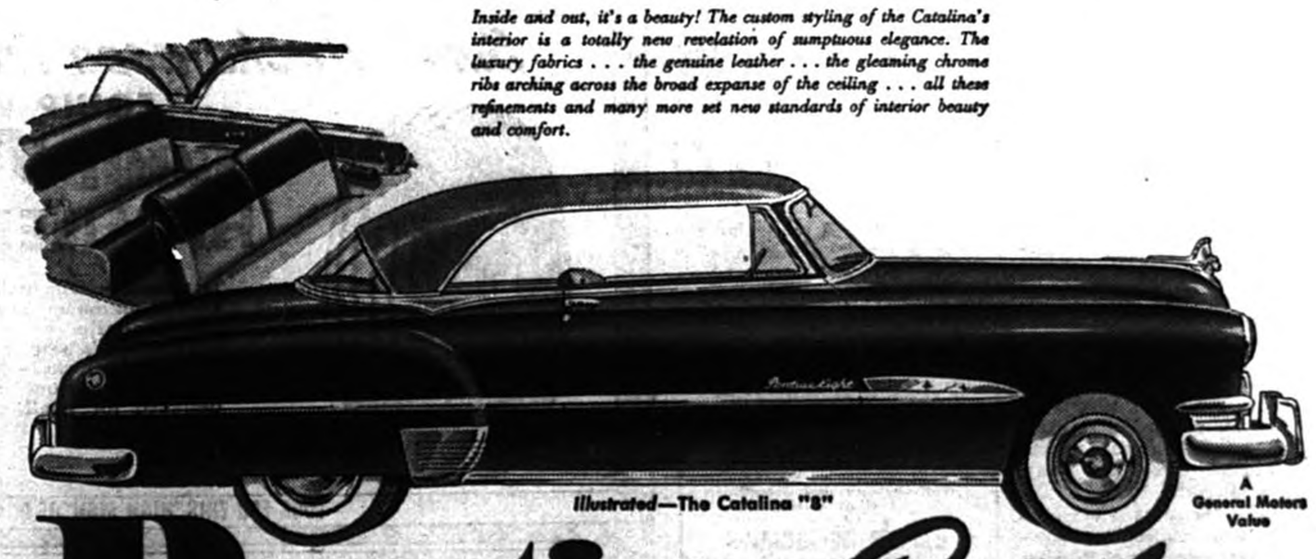

END FOGGY WINDSHIELDS

A new treatment to prevent foggy windshields on cars, boats, etc., is reported in The Financial Post. It is a chemical which when sprayed on the glass will keep it clear for 30 days, it is claimed. A plunger-type atomizer is supplied for spraying. Available in 4-8 oz. containers.

Danish Volunteers Build New School for Greece

The Greek village of Agnandero had no school. As in many other places its schoolhouse was destroyed during the war. Today, thanks to the contributions of Danish school children and of a team of Danish workers, a new schoolhouse is beginning to rise in the war ravaged Greek town.

The initiative was taken by the Danish Society for Reconstruction in War-Ravaged Countries and the Danish National Commission for Unesco. Members of the Danish voluntary team cut stone and mix batches of mortar for the brand-new school which is expected to open some time this summer.

"The Week at Ottawa"

By Erwin Fricke,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, Aug. 28 (CP) — It's pretty hard calling the shot in the Korean war these days. Trying to guess when all the Canadian troops will be able to come back home is out of the question. Nevertheless, there are good prospects that 1,000 men now serving in the Canadian Army in Korea will be home by Christmas.

The army last week made a couple of announcements about troop movements.

First of all, starting this month, Korean veterans will begin coming home and be replaced by men from Canada's paratroop formation. The first battle-tried soldiers to come back will be men of the 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

Under this "rotation" plan, a soldier will qualify for return home after a year abroad, less if his staying involves more than one winter. The bulk of the 25th Brigade now in Korea will winter there, but the Patricias arrived in Korea first, last December.

At the same time the army opened the door for another 600 Korean veterans to return to Canada. It announced it wanted that number of battle-hardened soldiers to return from Korea to help build a second paratroop formation — Canada now has only one. This formation, according to the army, is to come into being for Canadian defence "within a few months".

The Korean veterans for the paratroop formation are to be obtained on a volunteer basis and officers predicted the response would be immediate, spontaneous and sufficient.

Paratroop Training

Those who volunteer for paratroop training must pass physical and re-enlist for three years in the regular army. Then they will be flown home at a rate of about 50 a week, given 30 days leave and report to Rivers, Man., for paratroop training.

The aim, says the army, is to have them trained as paratroopers by the time their own units come back from Korea next year "and assume an operational role in Canada".

Thus with paratrooper volunteers and soldiers on "rotation" leave, there should be well over 1,000 home by Christmas. The bulk of the 25th Brigade, however, will probably spend this winter in Korea because they didn't get there until spring. They will come home as soon as possible next year. The men will move by companies.

To replace those Patricias who come home the army will send two of the four rifle companies, headquarters company and certain other troops from the 1st (23rd Brigade) Battalion of the Patricias. Later it will send the support company of the 1st Battalion and rifle company from the 3rd (Replacement Group) Battalion at Wainwright, Alta.

This movement is expected to start some time in September or early October.

It's been some time since Canada could proudly boast of trade surpluses — that it exported goods with more dollar value than the goods it imported.

In the first six months of last year we were $5,000,000 on the wrong side of the world trade ledger. It was termed unusual.

However, the Bureau of Statistics last week reported the deficit has snowballed to $340,000,000 in the first half of 1951. At the same time, the Bureau was able to report on rapidly expanding, almost ballooning, Canadian foreign trade. The country's total trade for the first six months of this year reached a record $3,865,000,000, up almost one billion dollars over the corresponding period of 1950.

Imports — mostly from the United States—rose to an all-time high of $2,102,400,000 from $1,453,000 in 1950. Exports did not match this pace, climbing only $300,000,000 to a postwar record of $1,762,000,000.

An upsurge in purchases from the United States with an extremely weak countering balance in sales was given as the main reason for the world trade deficit. Also blamed was a weak, meandering trade with Britain, resulting in a sharp slump in trade surpluses. Further, there was a continuing demand in Canada for raw materials and finished goods partly to help Canada become a more powerful industrial country.

Grain Transport

Last week a special government committee set up to handle western grain movements awaited word from the Canadian Wheat Board on the amount of wheat it wanted moved.

The committee is attempting to solve a tie-up of shipping on the Great Lakes. Western grain authorities have termed "inadequate" the Great Lakes shipping available for an anticipated record 582,000,000 bushel wheat crop.

J. C. Lessard, Deputy Transport Minister, said if the Wheat Board requests a bigger wheat movement than can be handled with transport currently available, the special government committee may take action to divert more ships from priority iron and coal.

FINE CARGO SHIP DIDN'T HELP NAZIS

Vancouver (CP) — Nazi invaders of Holland during the Second World War knew a good ship when they saw one, even if it wasn't finished. One of the largest cargo-passenger ships to call here in some years is the Silver-Java Line's motorship Sumatra, which the Germans took over during the war and finished exactly to the Dutch designs.

For all their trouble, the Germans didn't get much benefit. The big ship spent the rest of the war on a Baltic Sea beach after being damaged by R.A.F. bombs. She is of 18,600 tons displacement, 520 feet long, with accommodations for 24 passengers.

World Tolerance Aim of Project In Small School

West Calgary Youngsters Learn About International Friendship

Calgary (CP) — West Calgary school, just outside the city, is just another country school. But the breadth of interest of the 40 students inside the building is sufficient to make the visitor forget the surroundings.

In these uncertain days they are learning about international friendship.

Under the direction of the Junior Red Cross, they have been carrying out an intensive international exchange program for the last two years, learning religious and racial tolerance and increasing their knowledge in regular curricular studies.

Albums are compiled containing pictures, examples of art, and other things represetative of Canada. The albums are then dispatched through the Junior Red Cross international office to foreign schools where Junior Red Cross branches have been formed.

But perhaps the value of the scheme can best be summed up in the comment of one youngster who said, "Gee, it sure doesn't take long to find out that people in other countries aren't as different as we thought."

WHY THIS PROMOTION?

One of the worst suggestions we have seen in a long time has just come from Directors of the Canadian Standard Bred Horse Society, declares The Financial Post.

They are demanding that 50% of the betting taxes collected from harness racing at Thorncliffe Track, Toronto, be devoted to the Institute of Radio Therapy which is leading Ontario's fight against cancer.

We are all in favor of fighting cancer but this publicity stunt which tries to put the clothes of charity on the horse race betting business is most objectionable and Ontario's Premier Frost should treat it with the contempt it deserves, says The Post.

The Cool, Green Cucumber

When it is cucumber time it is time for making pickles. Cucumber pickles of various sorts are favorites with all Canadian families. The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture have sent us two recipes for making gherkin pickles. They have also sent a recipe for nine day pickles. Generally, gherkins and nine day pickles are made from a small type of cucumber which has a dark green skin and small seeds. If the cucumbers used are over 2½ inches in length, they should be cut in half lengthwise. In making pickles such as cucumber pickles, it is most important that they be placed in cold water or a brine as soon as possible after picking to ensure success. Holding the cucumbers at room temperature for even a few hours may result in hollow centres.

Gherkins, Method 1

4 Quarts small cucumbers, 16 cups boiling water, 1 cup salt, 8 cups blended vinegar, ¼ cup salt, ¼ cup sugar, ¼ cup mustard seed, ½ cup mixed pickling spice, 7 cups sugar.

Wash the cucumbers, scrub well, rinse, drain well and place in a crock. Cover with hot brine made by combining boiling water and salt. Pour over cucumbers, cover and let stand overnight. Drain cucumbers thoroughly and place in clean dry crock. Prepare pickle mixture by combining the cold vinegar, salt, the ¼ cup sugar, mustard seed and pickling spice. Pour over cucumbers. Each morning for the next 14 days, add ½ cup sugar, stirring well to dissolve the sugar. When last of sugar is added, remove pickles from liquid and pack into sterilized jars. Strain pickle mixture to remove spices and pour over pickles. Seal and store. Yield: approximately 4 quarts.

Gherkins, Method 2

4 Quarts small cucumbers, 16 cups boiling water, 2 cups salt, 8 cups blended vinegar, 4 cups sugar, 1 ounce cinnamon stick, 2 tablespoons celery seed, 3 cups sugar.

Wash the cucumbers, scrub well, rinse, drain well and place in a crock. Cover with hot brine, made by combining boiling water and salt. Let stand for 1 week. Drain, cover with boiling water and let stand 24 hours. Drain cucumbers and place in dry crock. Prepare pickle mixture by combining the vinegar, the 4 cups sugar, and the cinnamon stick and celery seed which have been loosely tied in a bag. Bring to a boil and pour over cucumbers. For three successive days, drain off the syrup, add 1 cup sugar, heat and pour over the pickles. On the third day, pack the gherkins into sterilized jars. Remove the spice bag and pour boiling syrup over the pickles. Seal and store. Yield: approximately 4 quarts.

Nine-Day Pickles

4 Quarts small cucumbers, 16 cups boiling water, 2 cups salt, 1 teaspoon alum, 16 cups boiling water, 8 cups blended vinegar, 6 cups sugar, 1 tablespoon celery seed, 2 teaspoons whole cloves.

Wash the cucumbers, scrub well, rinse, drain well and place in a crock. Cover with hot brine made by combining 16 cups boiling water with the salt. Let stand 3 days. Drain cucumbers from brine, bring brine to boiling point, pour over cucumbers and again let stand 3 days. Drain cucumbers and place in crock. Add alum to remaining 16 cups boiling water and pour over cucumbers. Let stand 6 hours, then drain and rinse thoroughly. Pack pickles into sterilized jars. Prepare pickle mixture by combining the vinegar, sugar and spices. Boil mixture for 5 minutes. Strain through cheesecloth and pour over pickles. Seal and store. Yield: approximately 4 quarts.

In pickle making, the type of vinegar used is an important factor, blended vinegar which may be purchased in most retail stores or which may be made in the home by mixing equal parts of cidar and white vinegar is recommended by the home econimists. The combinations of spices suggested in the recipes may be varied according to personal taste.

Her First Day at School

Released from mother's heart to golden rule,
My tender aster on horizon's rim
Of life, my eager nylon cherubim
Gathers her petal-wings and flies to school.

There will be few such mornings to remember
In three score years and ten of cloud and sun
To match the marvel of this dewy one,
This breathless hour of amethyst September!

Echoed perhaps upon her wedding day,
To feel the destiny of every flower
And know the angels' trysting place and hour:
And afterwards as autumns pass away . . .

She launches her own with a maternal kiss!

— Leo. Cox (C-I-L Oval).

For Labor Day and Later Occasions

By Betty Barclay

Here are recipes for tasty dishes that may be served as holiday treats on the porch or lawn — or on the family dinner table, long after the holiday has passed:

California Salad

2 Cups ½ inch bread cubes, ¼ cup salad oil, 2 cloves garlic, 2 heads romaine lettuce, ¼ teaspoon dry mustard, ¼ teaspoon black pepper, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup crumbled blue cheese, ½ cup lemon juice, ½ cup salad oil, 2 eggs.

Sauté bread cubes in the ¼ cup salad oil with garlic, stirring until all sides are golden brown. Remove garlic. Break romaine lettuce which should be cold, crisp and well drained, into small pieces in salad bowl. Sprinkle with mustard, salt, pepper and cheese. Combine lemon juice with salad oil and pour over the greens. Break eggs, which have been simmered for only 1 minute, over greens. Toss gently to mix thoroughly. Then add sautéed bread cubes and toss lightly again. Serve immediately. Makes 6 servings.

Quick Coconut Fudge

¼ Cup hot mashed potatoes, 1 teaspoon melted butter, 1¾ cups (½ pound) sifted, confectioners' sugar, ½ teaspoon vanilla, dash of salt, 1½ cups shedded coconut, 2 squares unsweetened chocolate (melted).

Mix potatoes and butter together in bowl. Add sugar gradually and beat thoroughly until blended. Add vanilla, salt, and coconut. Pack into a greased 8x4x3-inch loaf pan and spread melted chocolate over top. Let stand until chocolate is firm. Then cut in squares. Makes 24 pieces.

Orange Lime Dessert

1 Package lime-flavored gelatin, 1 package orange-flavored gelatin, 2 cups hot water, 2 cups cold water, 1¼ cups halved green grapes, (seeded), ¼ cup cream (whipped), 1¼ cups orange sections.

Dissolve each flavor of gelatin separately in 1 cup hot water. Add 1 cup cold water to each. Pour ¾ cup lime-flavored gelatin into loaf pan. Chill until slightly thickened. Then arrange ½ cup grapes in gelatin. Chill until firm. Chill orange-flavored gelatin until slightly thickened. Fold in whipped cream, then orange sections. Turn into loaf pan over firm gelatin. Chill until firm. Pour remaining gelatin over firm layers. In this arrange remaining grapes. Chill until firm. Unmold. Serve with whipped cream. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

HONORED RESIDENT

Russell, Man. (CP) — Russell's oldest resident, Mrs. Margaret Robb, has just celebrated her 91st birthday. Native of Scotland, she was married at Bowsman, Man., in 1911. Her husband, a carpenter, died in 1947.

GOES WAY BACK

Canora, Sask. (CP) — Mrs. R. Garvin, whose great-grandfather is said to have preached the first sermon in a Protestant church in Canada, recently celebrated her 92nd birthday.

IGNORES BIRTHDAYS

Vancouver (CP) — Mrs. J. C. Barrett celebrated her 89th birthday here but the occasion didn't impress her much. "The past can take care of itself", she said. "I'm interested in the future".

"I just found out your uncle's an undertaker. I thought you told me he was a doctor."

"Nope, I just said he followed the medical profession."

DISTRICT NEWS

Cushing

Mrs. Roy Dobbie spent a few days visiting friends in Ottawa.

Donald Fuller and the Barron brothers, James and Gerald, are among the young men of this district to go West with the harvesters.

Miss Elsie M. Graham was the guest of her aunt, Mrs. A. J. Scott, of Lachute, on Monday.

We are pleased to welcome back to Cushing Mr. and Mrs. A. Thom, who have been holidaying at their home city, Port Arthur, Ont.

Among ladies from Montreal who motored here to attend the W.A. tea for St. Mungo's Church, on Thursday, were — Mrs. S. H. Beecher (also of "Lilac Lodge", Cushing), her sister, Mrs. J. L. Maw, and Miss Alice Eadie.

Mr. E. Morrow, of Brownsburg and Montreal, was a Sunday guest at Mr. and Mrs. W. Morrow's.

Frontier Branch of the W.I. will meet at Mrs. I. H. Fuller's on Tuesday afternoon, September 4. Roll-call, "Name a stain-remover, and the stain it removes".

We regret to report the accident to one of our most highly regarded summer residents, Mrs. John McDowell, of "Glenifer", who suffered a broken limb and was removed to her city home by ambulance, leaving the cottage unoccupied for the present. The community wishes her a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Canning, of Cushing, also Mr. and Mrs. John Canning, of Stonefield, were guests at the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. G. Robinson on Saturday, when the very large party was held at the Robinson summer home on Dorval Island.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Graham and daughter, Elsie, were guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. John Black at Mabel.

Mr. Floyd Innes, of Montreal, was in Cushing last Saturday en route to visit his father, Mr. John Innes, also his sister, Mrs. C. Meservy.

Mr. and Mrs. Evans and young son, of Montreal, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. Cushing at "Millside Cottage" on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Innes and family, of Montreal, who have been occupying Mrs. King's cottage for August, have now returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Kane and sons, who have been guests of Mrs. W. Y. King this month, have left for their new home in Providence, R.I. Mr. and Mrs. Kane were guest speakers at a recent open meeting of Cushing W.M.S. and gave a very clear picture of Communist-dominated China.

Mr. W. McDiarmid, of Montreal, spent the week-end with his aunts, the Misses Cleland. Sunday guests at the Cleland home were Mr. and Mrs. J. Richardson, of Montreal, and son Howard.

Mr. and Mrs. Middleton, of Pembroke, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. T. Sword, spent the week-end with Mrs. W. Y. King.

Mrs. S. H. Beecher and sister, Mrs. J. L. Maw, of Montreal, occupied "Lilac Lodge" over the week-end.

Mrs. R. Robinson and Mrs. G. Staniforth, of Lachute, were Sunday guests of Mrs. W. Y. King.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Gray and children, Lee and Wendy, of Montreal and Como, also Miss N. Hodgson, of Hudson Heights, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Fuller.

Mr. W. H. Godwin, of Montreal, and Mr. Hutson, who just arrived in Canada from England last week, spent Sunday at "Glenelen".

Mr. and Mrs. A. Hooper, of Montreal, are spending this week at "Cedar Ridge".

Mr. and Mrs. Falconer, of New York, spent the past week as guests of Mrs. J. Robson.

Mr. L. R. McGain and daughter, Mona, also Mr. J. Brown, of Montreal, were week-enders at the McGain cottage.

Mrs. W. Morrow and son, Calvin, spent the week-end in Montreal. They were accompanied by Joey Dawson, who is spending several weeks with Mr. and Mrs. J. Coney.

By Canadian law, copyright protection of a work remains in effect during the life of the author and for fifty years after his death.

To Open Finals in Arg. Softball League

White Rose blanked Boyd's Express 17 - 0 in a one-sided affair. Frank Donegant pitching his second straight shut-out and Gordie Dalglish scoring the only home run, for White Rose.

Road Trials by Sports Motor Enthusiasts

(Our District Correspondent)

Cushing West — The Sports Motor Club of Montreal held their annual Map Run and Trial on Sunday last. The mid-day check and halt for lunch was made at Lock No. 3, Grece's Point.

The Sports Motor Car Club, composed of enthusiastic owners of sports and light touring cars, would welcome new members from the Lachute district. (Further information may be obtained by writing to the Secretary, P.O. Box 186, Montreal).

In Brownsburg . . .

It should be noted that their job is to clean the chimney, then clean out at the "Clean Out" door. Where chimneys do not have a "Clean Out" door, it is the owner's, or tenant's, responsibility to take the stove-pipes down and clean out at the stove-pipe hole, and not the responsibility of the men. . . The present by-law calls for this to be done within 48 hours after the chimney is cleaned, as experience shows that a serious fire can take place if this is not done.

Show Boat

All attendance records have been broken this week at the Vic Theatre. This house makes a feature of first-run pictures and in many cases suffers from the fact that patrons are unaware of the fare offered until its success becomes assured at the subsequent showings in Montreal and elsewhere. But this week customers stood and perspired to see "Show Boat".
