Ontario Motorist Killed in Grenville Crash; Boy Cyclist Dies After Collision With Truck

Other Casualties on Town Thoroughfares Add to the Season's Rising Traffic Toll

Victim of a fatal head-on crash near the Arnold Farm on Route 8-A at Grenville, was 63-year-old Alex Parisien, of Hawkesbury. Mr. Parisien and his wife were driving over to Lachute to visit their daughter, Mrs. R. Beaulne, Bedard Blvd.; he was killed instantly when his car was telescoped by a taxi, whose driver, Remi Labrosse, 36, of Montebello, approached from the opposite direction and was in the act of passing a lumber truck — according to information given by the police. The mishap occurred last Thursday, in the early afternoon.

Mr. Parisien died of a probable skull injury and multiple fractures. Three others hurt in the accident were conveyed to the Notre Dame Hospital, Hawkesbury — Mrs. Parisien being detained, suffering from severe shock and bruises. Mr. and Mrs. Melville Irwin, of Boston, passengers in the taxi, were released from hospital after treatment for minor hurts. The taxi driver suffered no injury of any consequence.

Det. Philippe Therriault and Traffic Officer Albt. Legault investigated — the case then being taken over by Det. Dick Anderson, from Provincial Police headquarters in Montreal.

Inquest is set for this evening (Thursday) at Grenville.

Child Dies of Fractured Skull

Riding a bicycle on Cottingham Avenue near the junction of Mountain View and the highway, 12-year-old Carmen Venditelli was hit by a light delivery truck early Sunday afternoon. He suffered a fractured skull and died in hospital yesterday morning. The truck was driven by Albert Myers, who with his brother-in-law, Donald Boa, took the unconscious victim to Providence Hospital after the accident. Treated by Dr. R. Lavigne, he was later removed by ambulance to the Notre Dame Hospital in Montreal—where he succumbed to his injuries Wednesday without regaining consciousness.

The mishap occurred near the home of the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Venditelli, Brownsburg Road. The truck was entering Mountain View from that thoroughfare.

Sincere sympathy to the bereaved parents is extended by neighbors and fellow townsfolk.

Mishaps on Main Street West

On Saturday evening at 7.30 o'clock, Gisele Cadieux, 16, of Lachute Mills, was struck by a car driven by Antonio Scarborough at the Main - Millway intersection, opposite Harbour Pharmacy. The girl was cut and bruised but not critically injured. She was treated by Dr. Jules Lafleur at the Providence Hospital and allowed to return to her home the following day.

Shortly after midnight Saturday at a point just west of this accident, 77-year-old Alfred Pariseau, Lachute Mills, was crossing Main Street when he was hit by a taxi operated by Marcel Cabana, Brownsburg. The victim received a gash in the head which required 12 stitches; Dr. Jules Lafleur attended him at the Providence Hospital, and the victim was taken to his home.

The town police officers investigated and assisted at these three accidents — Det. Philippe Therriault taking charge in the case of the injured girl, and Traffic Officer Albt. Legault reporting on the more serious accident at Mountain View.

Tells 'Adventure In Citizenship' to Rotary Sponsors

Kenneth Trickey, Delegate, Recounts Experience and Impressions

Last spring the Ottawa Rotary Club sponsored a project known as "An Adventure in Citizenship", to which Rotary Clubs across Canada sent delegates. The delegate sent by the Brownsburg Rotary Club was Kenneth Trickey, Lachute. Trickey is attending Lachute High School as a twelfth year student. This project is to be continued from year to year — the aim of the venture being to further the ideal of Canadian Citizenship.

The program consisted of visits to the Public Archives of Canada; the National Research Laboratories; the National Art Galleries; the Fisher Park High School; the Parliament Buildings; Carleton College; Rideau Hall, the home of the Governor General. Also included in the program were several discussion periods in which the delegates, under the direction of competent leaders, discussed the meaning and value of Canadian Citizenship.

At the Parliament Buildings the delegates attended a session of Parliament, after which each delegate received his Citizenship papers from the Hon. Louis St. Laurent, assisted by the Hon. W. E. Harris.

Local Appeal for Salvation Army

The annual appeal in this district on behalf of the Red Shield Fund, is being brought to the attention of local citizens this week.

The Watchman gives emphasis to this campaign with a firm conviction of its worthiness. The multiple aims of the Salvation Army, and the scope of its humanitarian endeavors — often in cases and circumstances unapproached by other organizations —these are generally known, although they continue without fanfare and publicity.

Mr. Donald M. Hay, manager of the Bank of Montreal, Lachute branch, is chairman for the district; and any wishing to contribute to this fund may forward donations to his office.

'En Masse' at October Council Session, Ratepayers Protest New Valuations

What was anticipated as a fiery session with Lachute Town Council last evening, turned out quite peaceably despite the fact that more than 100 ratepayers attended, mainly to complain about the increased valuation of their properties.

All councillors were present, and Mayor Jas. W. McGibbon welcomed the delegation, extending to the citizens an invitation to attend regularly and offer their criticism and suggestions.

After hearing various complaints as to keeping of pigs and goats in town, damage to property through blasting, and other minor matters, the meeting was turned over to Messrs. John McFaul and Dr. Marc Papineau, representing the ratepayers. The former made comparisons of several of the new valuations and drew particular attention to residences and portions of land which had been assessed at a very considerable increase; and the feeling was that, until they were sold for commercial purposes, properties should be classed as purely residential and not valued so high. Mr. McFaul suggested what this increase would mean in the way of Succession Duties, and urged the Council to put the brakes on, and keep taxes as low as possible.

Mayor McGibbon, in explaining the Council's action, stated that the idea was to set all properties at approximately 90% of their value, and then decrease them about 40%. This put a different light altogether on the matter, although it was still felt that there was much room for adjustment. The Mayor then stated that any ratepayer not satisfied with his valuation should submit his objections in writing to the Secretary-Treasurer within the next 30 days, and due consideration would be given to each complaint.

Dr. M. Papineau then spoke along similar lines on behalf of the French-speaking ratepayers.

This part of the meeting then closed, with the situation partly clarified and a feeling that the Council was doing its best to satisfy all concerned.

Organizational Meetings in Lachute and B'burg to Aid Canadian Cancer Society

Announced for Next Tuesday, Wednesday; "Help Conquer Cancer" Is Vital Slogan

The Canadian Cancer Society, in its determined efforts to fight Cancer, is holding a public meeting in the Victoria Hall, Lachute, on Tuesday next, October 9, at 8.30 p.m. under chairmanship of Mayor Jas. McGibbon.

(A similar organizational meetwill be held in Brownsburg, at the Social Club, the following evening, Wednesday, at 8 o'clock — Mayor H. Pariseau presiding).

The purpose of the meetings is to form a section of the Canadian Cancer Society in these centres, and they have the wholehearted co-operation of the local medical profession.

One of the important factors in having an active section of the Cancer Society here, is that the Welfare Groups will be able to follow up individual cases and thus assure prompt and effective treatment without delay.

The active interest and support of the population at large will greatly assist in the following —

(1) Increase in donations of old linen and cotton. This request is made because of need, due to large number (229) of patients receiving dressings at the present time.

(2) Locating cases of cancer in your locality and referring them to the Society for dressings or financial assistance.

(3) Helping in the educational program by: (a) Distribution of literature, (b) Showing of films (Excellent educational films are sent on request), (c) Qualified speakers at regular meetings.

The meetings will be bi-lingual and the public are cordially invited to attend. "Help the cause that helps you." . . A film will be shown, entitled "Time Is Life".

Organ Installed at B'bg United Church

Brownsburg — A service not soon to be forgotten, was held at the United Church last Sunday morning, when, following the installation of the new Hallman electronic organ the previous week, Mr. D. V. Corbett, sales manager and special organist representing the J. C. Hallman Company, presided at the two-manual console and accompanied the choral parts of the service; he also gave a partial organ recital of selected numbers, some by special request. A full choir greeted the visiting organist, leading the congregation in appropriate hymns, and rendered the anthem, "Seek Ye The Lord". The minister, the Rev. S. J. Pike, delivered a brief message on "The Place of the Organ in the Worship of the Sanctuary". Another pleasing feature of the service was the presentation of the organ key to the church organist, Mrs. C. J. Wheeler, following the minister's acceptance of a cheque from Mr. T. G. Pasco on behalf of the Organ Committee and congregation.

The dedication of the new organ as a War Memorial will take place at the Remembrance service on Armistice Day, Sunday, November 11 — "In memory of those who gave their lives in World War II, 1939-1945, and in recognition of those who served". At this dedication the Legion and Auxiliary will be present, with other groups, parading from the Cenotaph. Mr. W. M. Cottingham, M.L.A., has also been invited to share in this important event.

McGill Student Awarded Two Scholarships

Gordon ("Gordie") Jamieson, Lachute High School graduate, who is still taking his studies seriously and achieving new triumphs. Returning to McGill for his fourth year in Commerce, Jamieson found he had been awarded two bursaries on his examination results — the Isaac Bruck Scholarship of $250, and the Prof. R. R. Thompson Memorial Prize of $50 — the latter being "for highest standing in examinations in Accounting and Auditing, third year students".

Fire in Dwelling Saturday Night

Just before midnight on Saturday, the Lachute brigade was summoned to a fire in the Walker Block on Main Street — an outbreak having occurred in the second-storey dwelling occupied by Mrs. Wilbur Walker. The fire burned a hole in the ceiling, caused by a short circuit in the electric wiring, which ignited the lath and smouldered in sawdust used for insulation. (It is stated by Fire Chief Deacon that the sawdust retarded the progress of the blaze, rather than increasing it, as one might believe). The fire was promptly curbed with a chemical extinguisher, and little damage was reported.

Keen Competition, Six Schools in County Track Meet

On Saturday last, the county scholastic track meet was held in Lachute under the sponsorship of the Argenteuil Two Mountains Teachers' Association. In spite of the cool weather a large number of young athletes were present, as well as a cheering section. Competition was keen and the old adage, "Play the game for the sake of the game, not so much to win", was very much in evidence.

The Sports Committee would like to take this opportunity to thank all who gave time and effort to make the meet a success. The following schools participated — Kilmar, Grenville, Arundel, Morin Heights, Brownsburg and Lachute.

At the end of the field events a short ceremony was held in Lachute High School auditorium. Mr. F. H. J. Royal, the school principal and county supervisor, introduced Mr. M. P. Reilley, a member of Central School Board, who briefly addressed the gathering.

High point scorer in each class was then called to the stage by Mr. Hawes, and the presentation of cups was made by Mr. Reilly. These cups are for annual competition and remain with the school for one year.

Challange of Japan, Christianity or Communism?

Dr. H. Outerbridge, Missionary, Gives His Viewpoint to Large Audience

There was a more serious audience this year at the annual men's supper of the United Church of this district, which was held in the Lachute United Church hall Tuesday evening.

The speaker was an earnest person with an earnest message. Dr. Howard Outerbridge, missionary of 41 years in Japan, a son of a Methodist minister, and the father of a missionary doctor, was the main speaker of the evening. He was introduced by Doctor N. A. MacMurray, of Montreal, chairman of the Missionary and Maintenance Fund for this Presbytery.

Dealing with the immediate post-war conditions of Japan, when he returned to that land, Dr. Outerbridge graphically described the wholesale destitution he found there on returning after the war. The country was totally defeated, disillusioned, with many large cities 85% wiped out, dreams of conquest gone, clothes shabby and shops empty.

But, after only four and one-half years, Japan had become transformed, with factories booming, plenty of food, stores full, and high optimism, the speaker said. Giving credit to General Douglas McArthur and the American policy (though disagreeing with the McArthur military policy), Dr. Outerbridge felt that a really Christian attitude had been evidenced towards Japan by the western countries.

The speaker also spoke of the "resilience" of the Japanese people themselves, in rebuilding a new country out of chaos — a characteristic formed by a history of calamity by earthquakes, floods, tidal waves, volcanic eruptions, etc.

Dr. Outerbridge spoke quite feelingly of the welcome he was given by the Christian Japanese when he returned after the war. They were so happy to know that Canadian and American churches were thinking of the needs of war-torn Japan.

Analyzing the reasons of the moral collapse of the Japanese after the war, the speaker said that the religions of Buddhism and Shintoism were of negative value, and defeat came as an overwhelming blow, with thousands of suicides, sometimes of whole families; in 1949 there had been an average of 50 a day.

Speaking of the present struggle between Christianity and Communism, Dr. Outerbridge did not have time to cover this subject fully, but he did emphasize the urgency of understanding the Japanese problems in this matter. It must be realized, he said, that "before the war, Japan's trade with China was 55% of her output . . now, that trade is gone, for Communism controls China". Japan with 84-million souls, with no large natural resources — a land as small as New Brunswick province, and 85% waste — has a need of export trade, or she will fall a prey to Communism. Realizing that there was resistance in western lands against Japanese goods coming on the markets, Dr. Outerbridge voiced concern over this fact.

"There is an active Christian church in Japan", he stated, "and for that reason we must help her all we can. We have a great opportunity now . . and we must not forget, that Christianity started with a great defeat . . the crucifixion . . and we must do all we can to forward that great work", concluded Dr. Outerbridge.

Ambitious Undertaking, Million-Dollar Extension to Dominion Shuttle Co. Plant

Provision for New Line of Manufacture, Building Board from Waste Wood Products

Excavation is underway, and much of the required building material on hand, for a $1-million construction job at Dominion Shuttle Company Ltd., Lachute. Questioned on the plans for this big extension, Manager Phillip G. Roy states it is designed to provide 60,000 square feet of additional manufacturing space — to fill a need which has been acute for some time in this growing manufacture of ply-wood and veneers, also to provide facilities for a new line of production, a board produced from waste wood material.

The present veneer plant is in the shape of an L, and it is understood the new building will make a complete rectangular structure. To provide necessary space a large warehouse has to be demolished, but another will be built to the rear, all on the Company's present property.

Mr. Roy gives some idea of the construction problems, in the fact that nails had to be imported from England. There is also a serious shortage of reinforcing steel holding up completion of the necessary material. The construction work will be done by the Company itself. Changes are being made for greater boiler capacity and electric power intake, to meet the new operations which will require more machinery.

The president of the company, Gilbert E. Ayers, is overseas at present. According to information given by Mr. Ayers to Premier Maurice Duplessis, the plant extension and enlarged operations will add $500,000 to the annual payroll with an increase of 200 employees. The present payroll is $1,125,000, with 380 workers at the plant and 250 more in forestry operations for this company.

Stray Bullet, Stray Bird; It's A Hazardous Season

In the farmhouse on W. M. Cottingham's property at Hill Head, a rifle bullet whizzed through the outer wall, across a room and through an interior wall, falling onto a table. Besides disrupting the Sunday quietude, the incident all but claimed a human casualty — for the .22 - calibre bullet narrowly missed, by two or three inches, the head of the lady of the house (Mrs. Elvine Prophet).

It was believed the bullet was fired by a trigger-happy shooter, target-practising in a nearby gully.

• • •

A nice plump partridge provided a snack for someone at the Ayers Mill on Monday. The bird was found dead after having flown through the glass partition of a passage connecting two buildings. It was considered rare to see a game bird in the populated mill area — more unusual still, that it should commit suicide in this manner.

Magistrate Imposes Stiff Sentences on Poaching Charge

Sitting at Mont Laurier court recently, District Magistrate Herman Barrette imposed stiff sentences on two brothers, Roland and Constant Nantel, charged with poaching.

The case concerned the killing of a deer out of season, last March. According to local game protective authorities, the Nantel brothers chased the animal from winter feeding yards near Arundel, across the northern part of the county into Vendée, Papineau County. The evidence was discovered there, and the men arrested, by Game Wardens Gordon Cooke and Fernando Lamarche, assisted by another game officer, Josephat Grenier.

The pair pleaded guilty in court at Mont Laurier, and the district magistrate sentenced Roland Nantel to $200 fine or three months in jail, and his brother Constant, $100 fine or a two months' term — both with costs. The convicted men were given time in which to pay the fines.

Lachute W.I. Visits Historical Society's Carillon Museum

For the October meeting of Lachute W.I., 33 members travelled by car to visit the Historical Museum at Carillon. On arrival they were received by members of the Executive and by Mrs. Geo. McGibbon, W.I. convener of Education.

The party visited each room in turn, and were agreeably surprised at the interesting articles displayed. These ranged from lace, made by Lady Jane Grey during her imprisonment in the Tower, to the first Fire Engine used in these parts. An Insulated Basket, invented by a Chinese to carry his teapot and cup in, to keep them hot on his travels. Paintings, new and old — one very fine oil in the hallway being from the brush of a local artist, entitled "The Old Mill" at Cushing.

The convener of this outing is to be congratulated on providing the branch with such an instructive and educational diversion.

Business of the meeting consisted of final arrangements for the Nutrition Course, commencing October 22. Members desirous of taking this excellent course, may bring a friend, and should register their names early with Mrs. A. Bothwell, convener.

The president, Mrs. F. A. Brennian, recently attended the High School opening and presented the W.I. Progress Prizes, also the John Fisher Essay Prizes, to the successful students. Letters of thanks were read from the various recipients. The Fisher prizes were for an essay on "Democracy in Canada".

Members will please note that Miss Adshead is commencing her Art Course in Lachute on Wednesday afternoon, from 4 to 6, in the High School.

Mrs. W. Gordon was appointed convener of Home Economics, replacing Mrs. R. Menard.

Congratulations were forwarded from this Branch to Dr. Charlotte Whitton, member of the Board of Control, Ottawa, on her appointment as Mayoress of the City of Ottawa, the only Canadian city with a woman Mayor.

The next meeting will be under the convener of Citizenship, Mrs. F. Legault, and the guest speaker will be "His Worship the Mayor". The roll-call is "Suggestions for Improvement in Our Town".

Partridge Is Victim of Aeronautic Handicap

(Special to The Watchman)

At Lac L'Achigan, a partridge landed on a tennis court and was apparently unable to take off again because the high wire fence prevented his gaining sufficient altitude. His plight was discovered by a youth, who bagged the partridge with a bottle.

Gatineau LINES

Moving Electricity

Once electricity has been manufactured in a power plant, it must be moved to the consumer, who frequently lives hundreds of miles away. In this respect electric power is no different from any other product which is shipped from a factory to many points for sale.

Like any other product also electricity is shipped in large quantities to central points where it is broken down into smaller "packages" to be distributed throughout the surrounding area. The only difference is that instead of travelling by railway or by highway, it travels via transmission wires. Instead of turning the product over to somebody else to move it, the electrical company must own its own wires in order to move the electrical power from one point to another after it has been manufactured.

Gatineau Power operates thousands of miles of electrical lines in order to get its product to its 68,000 customers in widely separated parts of Quebec. The size and voltage of the line depends on the amount of the product required in any one place. When a manufacturer has to ship large quantities of his product to any one point, he may use an entire freight-train, or a fleet of huge trucks. When he is moving only a small quantity of material he uses only a small part of a train, ship or truck.

The power company does almost the same thing with its transmission lines. When it must move large quantities of electricity, it erects high-voltage lines and large conductors to distribution centres. When it is moving smaller amounts in many different directions, it uses smaller and less expensive lines. Gatineau Power, for instance, uses lines strong enough to handle electricity at 110,000 and 220,000 volts on the lines leaving big power plants such as Paugan, Chelsea, Farmers and Bryson. It uses 110,000-volt lines on its main lines to deliver power to central points or areas where large amounts of power are required. From there on, lines graduate right down to the 115-230-volt circuits which go into private homes.

Thus, whether large quantities or small quantities are required, the power company "ships" its products just as any other manufacturer does—using transmission lines instead of railways or trucks.

Manure and Fertilizer Used in Combination

Ottawa — Experiments at the Dominion Experimental Farm at Nappan, Nova Scotia, show that fertilizer used in conjunction with moderate amounts of manure can produce yields which compare favorably with those obtained where large amounts of manure were used, according to E. T. Goring, research officer at the Farm.

It is well recognized that manure is the most valuable material in building up and maintaining soil fertility. It not only returns a large part of the plant food removed by crops, but it replenishes the organic materials, building up the humus content and the moisture holding capacity of the soil. Furthermore it supplies bacterial life to the soil.

However, the manure produced on a farm does not contain all the plant food elements that were removed by the growing crops. Some, at least, of these elements are sold or used off the farm with every sale of produce. Other parts, while in the manure originally, are lost in storage and handling before it is returned to the land.

Thus a loss of plant food takes place continuously, and this loss must be made good if the fertility of the soil is to be maintained or built up.

In one test on a three year rotation (swedes, oats and hay), where applications of 20 tons of manure are compared with 10 tons of manure combined with 500 pounds of 2-12-6, the results over a period of 15 years show that the returns are about equal and that 500 lbs. of fertilizer have replaced 10 tons of manure satisfactorily. Other tests of a similar nature have also confirmed these results.

In view of the usual shortage of manure on our farms and the value of making it cover as large an acreage as possible, the combined use of manure and fertilizer is a sound proposition, says Mr. Goring.

Ventilation for Dairy Barns

Ventilation flues in dairy barns require insulation for satisfactory operation, says Wm. Kalbfleisch, of the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

Out-take flues, like chimneys, must be warm or the air will not rise in them and moisture will not be removed from the barn.

Size of a ventilation flue is determined on the basis of 32 square inches cross-section for each 1,000 pounds of livestock in the building. Accordingly 21,000 pounds of livestock, or about 21 cows, require a vent measuring 32 x 21, or 672 square inches.

An out-take vent consists of five parts: (1) four corner posts; (2) a covering of lumber placed on the posts to form a rectangular box; (3) a layer of vapour-proof paper to keep moisture out of the insulation; (4) an insulation cover to keep the flue warm; and (5) a cape or hood for the top of the flue.

Tar paper is not satisfactory as a vapour-proof material. For this purpose use rolled, tarred roofing or a genuine vapour-proof paper. Insulation should consist of at least two layers of insulation board one-half inch thick or an equivalent amount of insulation material.

Always place a vent in a warm part of the barn. Warm air will rise in a shaft but cold air will not.

For additional information on barn ventilation write Information Service, Canada Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, for Bulletin 589, "Principles of Barn Ventilation".

The milk production of a cow is reduced more rapidly by too little water than by anything else.

Hazardous Days Ahead

IT'S SORT of grim to know in advance, with practical certainty, that some luckless individual hereabouts will be a "casualty by gunfire" (more probably a corpse) before the hunting season is over. It has rarely failed to happen, yet.

The gunning for "big game" has not yet opened, but would-be hunters are warming up on ducks, empty cans and assorted targets. In fact, the season is well started—a woman householder having escaped slaughter by only a few inches when a bullet went through the walls of a farm-house last week-end and narrowly missed the lady's head.

That's good shooting; but if those desperadoes of the local hillsides would learn the plain essentials in the handling of firearms, we might all feel much happier — and safer.

Opposed to Homework

A PLEA for the total abolishment of home-work is made by a social worker and magazine writer, Sidney Katz, in the current issue of Maclean's Magazine.

Katz, an assistant editor on the magazine, says "there is strong evidence that homework sours pupils on learning for the rest of their lives, creates unnecessary work and worry for parents and robs pupils of wholesome recreational and social life during their most formative years".

Katz personally surveyed 50 school teachers, principals and inspectors from all over Canada. He reports that none favored homework in the first six grades of school. Only a few were in favor of it from Grades VII to X. All said that homework assignments in senior high school grades were excessive.

Said Clarence Vickery, a Toronto principal: "Homework doesn't help the slow child. The fast child doesn't need it. So why give it?"

Said Lorne F. Titus, chief school superintendent for Saskatchewan: "Children need their out-of-school time for other experiences".

Said a New Brunswick school board member: "How would Dad like to be faced with two or three hours of more office work just as he gets ready to relax after supper?"

A recent Alberta study by Raymond Shaul, says Katz, studied 2,000 teachers, parents and pupils and found most teachers opposed to home-work.

Katz points out that a Nova Scotia ruling prohibits Grade I pupils from taking their read-ers home and doing homework because the young-sters were "learning to read" by memorizing the books. Katz blames parents for continued heavy homework assignments. Teachers and prin-cipals, he claims, are opposed to it and he quotes one teacher as saying, "We plead with the parents to stop interfering".

— With the pre-examination frenzy still vivid in our minds, The Watchman is not pre-pared to side with these sentiments entirely. However, we thought our more youthful readers would enjoy reading them, and find therein some ideas to start an argument.

Senators "Said It"

BELIEVE IT or not, this comes from the Senate of Canada: "If individual Canadians spend their substance foolishly or unwisely, if they are lazy and thriftless, without any doubt they create problems for themselves, and for their govern-ments. If governments, in response to public pressure spend money foolishly or unnecessarily, they put heavier burdens on taxpayers and create political discontent and unrest. If political parties try to rival each other, in promises to the electorate, seeking in this way to gain political support, they are doing a real dis-service to our country. The easy road is rarely a wise or prudent one to follow.

"Scarcely a week passes without some group of people, somewhere in Canada, pressing upon government some project for spending more public money. The result of this is that we have reached the stage in practically all levels of government in Canada where those in authority are seeking some new tax, hidden or unhidden, through which they can meet the demands made upon them. This course, if persisted in, is fatal to our well-being as a people. In the judgment of your committee the steady growth that has been apparent now for quite a number of years, of dependence upon the state, can lead only to one of two results: Either in a steady increase in the power of state over the right of the citizens, or the breakdown of democratic rep-resentative government as we have understood it and practiced it in the past. The lessons of history in this respect are clear for all to read."

Off Again, On Again

WELL, that last three-cent increase did it. Put us right back into the ranks of former cigarette smokers, a spot we've occupied several times in the last 20 years. We've quit every time they've raised prices or taxes, and we'll do it again.

This time it's going to stick. Imagine pay-ing over 2¼ cents each for cigarettes! It's criminal. We can remember when they were a cent apiece, and that was too much.

We have a fool-proof system this time. No back-sliding. Strictly on the wagon seven days a week — and no smoking other people's. It's such a good system we hesitate to pass it on. Might get too general, and Mr. Abbott would find some way of taxing us just as much as ever.

We'll admit our record on the wagon hasn't been so hot. We stayed on only a few days when the price went up from 20 to 23 cents or so. We put in a better showing on each succes-sive rise and feel we now are in a position to scoff at Mr. Abbott and the tobacco manufac-turers.

They say there's a possibility that the cig-arette taxes will be cut next spring when the budget is brought down, but that sort of pie in the sky won't weaken our resolution. We're taking that $146 we spent on cigarettes last year and putting it in something useful, like a new easy chair or a powered lawn mower.

There'll be a lot of others of the same mind and we've no doubt that the tobacco growers, already concerned about decreased consumption of cigarettes, will be moved to further protest of the tax burden. The tobacco men think it's too much.

We'll let them fight it out, and stick to our new fool-proof no-cigarette, no-tax system. What's that? You want to know what the system it? Well, if you'll keep it quiet, it's this. Whenever we want a cigarette, we take out our faithful old pipe and smoke away on it. And get most of the tobacco from friends visiting the States — duty free!

Low Rental "Sr. Citizen" Suites at Owen Sound

—Central Press Canadian

Most popular man in the City of Owen Sound, Ont., is Mayor Eddie Sargent, who officially opened first eight of 40 apartments in that city's new housing project recently. The mayor originally conceived the idea of development, designed primarily to house the city's senior citizens at rentals of $22 and $27 per month. This non-profit project is the lowest renting public housing develop-ment in Canada. George Clark, head of the construction company which erected the development, is seen showing plans of the apartments, modern in every retail, to Mayor Sargent (left).

Careful Jake

I often wonder while I drive
How some folks hope to stay alive
The way they drive their cars around
And hope to stay above the ground.
Instead, why don't they try to be
A careful driver, such as me.
Who never yet made one mistake.
That's why they call me Careful Jake.
I test the brakes 'most every day
And even cause a slight delay
By stopping at each street and road
Before proceeding with my load.
I signal as I leave the curb,
And never do the peace disturb
By tooting on my noisy horn.
And never drive with tires worn.
I test their pressure with a gauge
And even spend my weekly wage
In buying new ones, guaranteed.
And never, never, do I speed.
I'm not one of those careless skates,
Who drive with dirty license plates.
I wash each number and each letter
So that the cops can pinch me better —

And yet I'm sitting in a cell.
My lawyer tells me all is well —
I took my sweetheart for a ride.
She soon was to have been my bride —
I stole a kiss and lost control,
So now I'm in this beastly hole.
My truck's a wreck, and no mistake.
They used to call me Careful Jake.

be summed up in his own words as follows: "It made us feel proud to be Canadian Citizens. Although the years that lie ahead, at present, are darkened by war and rumors of war, we shall continue to build and hope for a world of peace. A world where the citizens of the various countries live in harmony with one another like the Canadian people. . . I am sure that I express the feelings of the other 135 delegates when I say that this was truly an Adventure in Citizen-ship."

Mr. Trickey was introduced by Phil Grant and thanked by Art Lapp.

After the dinner the Rotarians engaged in a singsong led by Harris Sherwood, with Wes Free-land at the piano. After the sing-ing Sid Stilwell gave an amusing account of his vacation.

Guests for the evening were John Hawes and Keith Russell, of Lachute, and "Barry" Bourne, of Brownsburg.

"Mush", the Alaskan term, is a contraction of the French "mar-chons", meaning to go on.

Find Oddities in Ancient By-laws

Fort Frances, Ont. (CP) —Fort Frances town councils have passed a lot of legislation during the past half-century but the municipal fathers still get a kick out of some of the early by-laws.

One of the first — By-lay No. 10 — was passed June 15, 1903, by a town council led by W. J. Keat-ing, the first chief magistrate of Fort Frances. It was fearlessly created to govern "public morals and nuisances" and included al-most everything from swimming to making use of "obscene, blas-phemous, or grossly insulting language" within the town limits.

It prohibited the use of bows and arrows, fire "squibs" or crackers, and galloping of horses, oxen or mules "at an immoderate rate" on town streets. The streets were also to be kept clear of "nine or ten pins, cricket and ball".

A tremendous volume of by-laws have been written into the town books since then, much of which has slid into obscurity. The last legislation passed was by-law No. 1653.

Thanksgiving Day

WALTER HENRY JACKSON

In India the Sacred Cows
On toothsome vegetation browse.
The natives would be most unwilling
Though starving, to do any killing.

Forbidden to partake of meat
They haven't half enough to eat.
They can't find wheat, nor beans, nor peas,
So live on roots and the bark of trees.

Compared to them, our life is grand —
We have food fresh, we have it canned.
We live on butter, milk and cheese,
Not roots, nor grass, nor the bark of trees.

Our food costs dough, but we can earn it.
We've wood and coal and we can burn it —
Not live like Indians or Chinese
On grass and roots and the bark of trees.

So let's be thankful, every one!
Our way of life is a pleasant one.
We live on cattle, sheep and hogs —
Not trees nor grass nor the bark of dogs.

A Child's Thanksgiving

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"Thank you God for a happy day!" says Christopher Robin in A. A. Milne's charming picture of a small boy saying his prayers in "Vespers". Christopher Robin thinks of various things including his bath, with "the cold so cold and the hot so hot" and the beautiful blue color of his own dressing gown. How many things go into making a little child's day!

Mothers often think of caring for their children in terms of nourishing meals, attractive, suitable clothes, a comfortable bed and a place of his own in the home.

But happiness woven in and out throughout the experience of the child's day, is very important too. Frequently emotional upsets or undesirable habits can be traced back to inner turmoil. What are some of the elements which make for normal growth and "a happy day" for the average pre-school youngster?

He needs to know what to expect in his day. That's where a routine comes in. Not a very rigid one, where mealtime cannot change by five or ten minutes when an unexpected event occurs, nor such a flexible one that it is scarcely a schedule at all! But a routine whereby a child gets up, goes to the toilet, washes, dresses, has his breakfast and carries through the rest of his day with the minimum of direct command. Mother doesn't have to be continually giving him orders because his meals, play time, rest, etc., follow a fairly similar pattern each day.

Another constituent in a happy day is lots of activity out of doors. A child wants to run and play and swing and slide. His big muscles crave exercise in the fresh air and sunshine.

A boy or girl needs a safe place for fun outside and enough play equipment to defeat boredom. A home-made ladder, a slide, a little play house, a sand-box, a barrel with the ends knocked out, a ball, large blocks (perhaps made out of boxes, form inexpensive outdoor play material a child can use to advantage.

Of course, he requires suitable indoor playthings too — and if possible, open shelves to house his treasures. Orange crates, painted a bright color, form excellent shelves for toys and blocks. Paints and crayons, plasticene, blunt scissors, paste, a scrap book and old magazines from which pictures can be cut out, a blackboard and chalk — all these are constructive toys which keep small fingers occupied. They spell many happy moments in the child's day.

After a child is two and a half or three, he begins to long for companionship his own age. He discovers it is more fun to play with his toys if another youngster is also playing in the same yard or room. When he gets a few months older, if he lives in a district where there are other children, he seeks their company.

But the biggest factor in a small child's happy day is a loving relationship with his parents. Mother and dad loom so large in his small world before he starts to First Grade! If he is accepted as he is, with his faults and failings as well as his good points; if he receives praise when he deserves it, and lots of affection — he is likely to be able to echo Christopher Robin's thanks for a Happy Day! What about your small son's or daughter's day — if they could write an account of "My Day", would it be a happy one?

High But Thin

Edmonton (CP) — Edmonton's newest six-storey building will be only 14 feet square when finished. Right next door will be a two-storey building built to be filled with smoke, and also a third building somewhat like a model fire-house.

These are parts of a new fire-training school, concrete and brick examples of recent efforts to standardize training of Edmonton's fire-fighters.

The six-storey tower will have an inside stairway and an outside fire escape, to give experience to ladder, hose and pumper men. The "smoke-house" next door will have windows built to open several ways, either up, down or horizontally.

Instalment-Plan Buying For Five Per Cent Down

No One-Third Down-Payment on Canada Savings Bonds

"While down-payments on most instalment purchases run to a third or more of the total cost, there is one valuable commodity you can buy with an initial payment of just one-twentieth — that's Canada Savings Bonds, the best investment you can buy", Donald Hay, manager of the Bank of Montreal in Lachute, said this week when discussing the new issue of Government bonds.

"People who cannot afford the full cash price of these bonds can purchase them for a five per cent down-payment. Just $2.50 down on a $50 bond or $5.00 on a $100 bond. The remainder can be paid in easy, regular instalments over the next 12 months."

One special feature of the 1951 bond issue which Mr. Hay emphasized was the new high rate of interest. The old rate of 2.75 per cent has been discarded. Each bond bears 10 coupons at the rate of 3.5 per cent a year. The first coupon covers a period of 21 months (equal to 2 per cent per annum), due August 1, 1953. From that date, one coupon at 3.5 per cent is payable annually on August 1, until 1962. This amounts to 3.21 per cent over the life of the bond.

Mr. Hay invites Lachute people to take advantage of this easy-payment plan by getting their bonds at the B of M. "We shall", he said, "be glad to assist anyone in the purchase of Canada Savings Bonds, whether for casn or on the instalment plan".

Canada's Patent Act defines an invention as any new and useful art, process, machine, manufacture or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement in the same.

Minimum age to qualify for voting in provincial elections is 18 in Saskatchewan, 19 in Alberta, 21 in other provinces; before Newfoundland entered confederation, women of that province could not vote until they were 25.

New Primate Favors Dropping "England" From Church Name

Victoria, B.C. (CP) — Efforts by a considerable part of the Church of England in Canada to have the name of the church changed, have the support of Most Rev. Walter Barfoot, new Primate of all Canada.

"I believe we should drop the word 'England' from our name", he said following his election.

He went on to explain that hesitation in making the change was due to a desire to avoid indicating a break with the Mother Church.

"At the same time", he continued, "we are a Canadian church, and our name should indicate it."

In suggesting that the word "Canada" be part of the name, the Primate said everyone would then know that the Anglican Church is for English-speaking people, not just English people.

During discussions in church circles within the last several years, the most favored name has been "Anglican Church of Canada".

The opinion expressed by Archbishop Barfoot on the subject forecasts resumption of the name-changing discussion in the near future.

Plans Culture à la Juke Box, Special for James Bay Indians

Cowboy Songs Sung in French Popular in Ontario's North

Cochrane, Ont. (CP) — Elmer Small wants to carry culture to James Bay Indians in the form of juke boxes, featuring cowboy songs sung in French, with a neo-Texas twang.

Mr. Small is the juke-box king of northern Ontario, he said here in an interview, and he knows his public. He travels 700 miles a week to inspect his string of 45 musical tread-mills which stretch to Hearst on the west and sedate Haileybury on the south.

His current desire is to have the machines installed at Moose Factory where the lugubrious strains of "bury me not on the lone prairi-e" can waft over the disturbed waters of James Bay.

This cowboy music, in French and semi-Texas twang, has other music backed off the map for popularity, the short, stocky 205-pound impresario says.

"As a barometer of popularity the hit parade is strictly from hunger in this country. From Cochrane west, in particular, it is all out of joint", he said.

The big attractions are cowboy singers — from Montreal.

"There is a whole school of these French-language Texans making records in Montreal. To hear them sing through their noses in French with a southern twang is a wonderful thing. The customers pour the quarters into the machines."

Leaders among the Montreal range riders are Omer Dumas, Paul Brunelle, Reme Brisson, Henri Houde and J. Lamadeleine.

Small has four machines worth $1,700 each at Hearst, Cochrane and Kirkland Lake. He considered moving south into the Sudbury area but decided against it.

Insurance on the machines becomes quite expensive, he said, when one operator moves into the domain of another.

O'Flynn wasn't able to attend the funeral, but after it was over Rafferty told him all about it. The day had never been surpassed. Beautiful flowers accompanied the casket. The great and small all turned out. "But Flanagan", Rafferty paused, querulously, "Flanagan fell and broke his leg, and cast a gloom over the whole proceedin's." — Reader's Digest

At the time of Confederation the largest individual British racial group in Canada was Irish.

Annual Meeting of the Arg. Historical Society This Saturday, Oct. 6

Phoebe Erskine MacKellar, interpreter of Canada's native color in "one-woman theatre" presentations — and a master performer in this type of drama — will be heard again at the Carillon Museum, where she has thrilled her audiences on previous occasions. . . The 17th annual meeting of the Argenteuil Historical Society is announced for Saturday, October 6, at 2.30 p.m., and Mrs. McKellar's program will provide the lighter fare in the proceedings. Business of the meeting will include the hearing of annual reports and election of officers. Tea will be served in conclusion, at a nominal charge.

Theme of the dramatic numbers will be "The West Coast in Lore and Legend", to include a variety of interpretations by Mrs. McKellar.

During the past summer Phoebe Erskine McKellar has given performances on both the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts, and to the Rocky Mountain Trail Riders at Banff, Alberta.

Line of Succession To British Throne

London (AP) — The line of succession to the Throne is dominated by Princess Elizabeth's young family.

The 25-year-old Princess herself is first in line for the Crown after the death of her father.

Her son, Prince Charles, who will be three years old November 14, is second, and is followed directly by his little sister, Princess Anne.

The Duke of Edinburgh, Elizabeth's husband, has no place in the line of succession. If she becomes Queen, his will be the role of Prince Consort.

The Princess is called "heiress presumptive", because it is presumed possible that her father might have a son before his death. By law, the Crown descends to sons before daughters.

Queen Elizabth, if the King dies before her, will become Queen Mother, practically in Royal retirement, as is the present Queen Mother Mary.

The Duke of Windsor, the former King who abdicated in favor of his brother, has no claim to the Throne. He renounced it for himself and all his descendants.

First in the line of succession after Elizabeth's family is Princess Margaret, the King's second daughter. After her is the King's brother, the Duke of Gloucester.

The complete line of succession:

1. Princess Elizabeth.
2. Prince Charles.
3. Princess Anne.
4. Princess Margaret.
5. The Duke of Gloucester.
6. Prince William, 9, elder son of the Duke of Gloucester.
7. Prince Richard, 7, younger son of the Duke of Gloucester.
8. Prince Edward, the 15-year-old Duke of Kent, who succeeded to the title when his father, the King's youngest brother, was killed in an air crash in 1942.
9. Prince Michael, 9, the Duke of Kent's brother.
10. Princess Alexandra, 14, the Duke of Kent's sister.
11. The Princess Royal, the 54-year-old Princess Mary, sister of George VI.
12. The Earl of Harewood, 28, elder son of the Princess Royal.
13. The Hon. Gerald David Lascelles, 27, younger son of the Princess Royal.

GALLANT GIRL, 21, SAVES LIFE OF MAN TWICE HER WEIGHT

Miss Andrée de Passillé, of Chicoutimi, Que., averts drowning through courage and remarkable endurance

1. The Recreation Committee of the Saguenay-Quebec Telephone Company had organized a picnic at St. Gédéon Beach near Chicoutimi. During the day, Miss Andrée de Passillé, 21, was swimming back from a little island about 200 feet from shore when she heard frantic cries for help. Some distance away, a young man was in obvious trouble . . . choking and spluttering as he called for aid.

2. Without hesitation, Miss de Passillé swam in his direction. When she reached him he had already gone under once . . . and her attempts to hold him above the surface were at first not successful. Three or four times she was dragged to the bottom by the struggling man . . . and each time they surfaced she screamed for help. Her gallant efforts were not helped by the fact that she weighed 90 pounds — and the man 190!

3. In spite of the odds against her, she managed to have his head above water when a rescue boat arrived. Exhausted and choking, the brave girl fainted . . . but she had succeeded in saving the man's life. To this courageous young Canadian woman we are indeed proud to pay tribute through the presentation of The Dow Award.

THE CHILD PRISONER

By Rev. Gordon Phillips,
Protestant Chaplain of Montreal Prison

The public needs to make a distinction between child prisoners and child delinquents. Neither of them are criminals; they have committed delinquent acts, not crimes. The child prisoner is a youngster whose personality is such that he is unable to cope with life and its problems any better in a reformatory than in society.

The ordinary delinquent is a boy who reacts favorably and copes successfully with the problems presented to him by the reformatory program.

The child prisoner after he has entered the grim atmosphere and sordid environment of a prison is affected by the anti-social ideology of his companions. Prison programs are designed for the adult, and any modification to meet the need of a child must be unsatisfactory at best. These two factors, along with the bitterness and feeling of persecution so common among prisoners, have an effect which produces a child personality so utterly different from any other type of child personality that it becomes necessary to provide for his reorientation and rehabilitation in a manner radically different from the techniques ordinarily successful with either adults or child delinquents from reformatories.

The great work of institutions such as the Boys' Farm at Shawbridge usually receives appreciation of its positive aspect in the number of fine personalities to be found among its graduates. The negative aspect seldom receives the appreciation it deserves — the number of youngsters who by reason of the treatment and training they receive at places like Shawbridge are prevented from becoming delinquent prisoners. From my point of view as prison chaplain, this is perhaps the most important work done by such an institution.

The judges of our Social Welfare and Juvenile Courts do not lightly sentence a child or juvenile to jail. I am grateful that our Juvenile Court judges exercise the utmost wisdom in dealing with these difficult cases. The English-speaking Protestants of Montreal are more than fortunate in having a man of the calibre of Judge Gordon Nicholson to deal with the delinquent young. I know that it is with a sense of personal regret that he sends a youngster to prison. Every effort is made by the judge and the probation officers to find a solution to the juvenile's problem before resorting to the extremely distasteful necessity of prison detention.

But, when a youngster is incapable of responding favorably to ordinary treatment, and after all extraordinary attempts have been made, there is nothing else for the judge to do. The practical fact is, the circumstances determine the fate of the youngster, not the will of the judge.

There are two possible solutions to the problem: (a) A medium security institution in which youngsters of low intelligence or of great emotional pathology could be placed and dealt with therepeutically. (2) The introduction of the foster home principle, with certain necessary modifications.

It is the latter principle I would like to emphasize. It has been tried out in Montreal by members of the Christian Prison Fellowship, with more success than failure. Sufficient success has been attained to warrant a greater effort along these lines, and the Christian Prison Fellowship would seem to be in the best position to advance this venture, because of its direct contact with Christian bodies. There is little use seeking foster homes for the type of youngster we are discussing amongst mere humanitarians or amongst Christians of shallow devotional life. It requires something more than either social-mindedness or insipid gospel sentimentality to sustain an effort to help a youngster who may be impudent, crooked-minded, sour-natured, moody, a chronic liar, disloyal, disobedient, ungrateful, and who may remain that way for months with only occasional, intermittent periods of favorable reaction before he responds satisfactorily to decent treatment. It takes a deep but not fanatical religious devotion, and a great deal of the grace of God to make a suitable foster parent.

An organized group of religious people is needed to (a) search for suitable foster homes, (b) raise funds for the purpose of aiding good folk who would be willing to act as foster parents, but who require financial assistance to do so. (Needless to say, these foster homes would have to meet with the approbation of the court officials). I can think of no better place to seek the required type of people than in the Christian Church.

DARE-DEVIL PILOT FLIES ON BORDER

International Falls, Minn. (CP) — A dare-devil Canadian pilot operating out of the airport here skims a scant three feet over high tension power lines from Fort William to Fort Frances, Ont., in order to earn a living.

The pilot — Steve Putman of Winnipeg — is a combat veteran of the R.C.A.F. and a student at the University of Manitoba. He works for Western Aero-Sprays of Winnipeg, a company which specializes in killing off brush which grows into hydro lines.

Managing director of the company, A. R. Limmert, says piloting small land planes over timber and lake country is even more dangerous than crop dusting, which has taken the lives of many fliers.

However, the company hasn't had an accident during the two years it's been operating.

Spraying can only be done when there is little or no wind, limiting operations to a few hours in clear weather. Limmert says 60 per cent of trees sprayed last year were destroyed. He believes spraying every year for the next three years will be enough to take brush and trees right down to the grass, almost eliminating the dangers of power line failures from tree limbs.

B.C. Evacuation Proved Aid to Japanese

Vancouver (CP) — Compulsory evacuaton of the Japanese from British Columbia was a blessing in disguise, T. T. Aoki, national president of the Japanese Canadian Citizens Association, said in an interview here.

"The evacuation scattered them across Canada, opening up more opportunities and making it easier for them to blend into Canadian life", he said.

"Until 1942, 95 per cent of Canada's 23,000 Japanese population was concentrated in the B.C. area, mostly in fishing, fruit-growing and small stores.

"Now they are becoming technicians, entering government service and the various professions".

The Japanese are spreading all across the country rather than concentrating in segregated groups, and are participating in community life.

In Lethbridge district alone there are 15 school teachers of Japanese extraction.

Second generation Japanese who had to return to Japan as a result of the evacuation are not so well off, and many are returning to Canada.

WESTERN TERRIER FOND OF TRAINS

Regina, Sask. (CP) — Boomer is a happy little terrier who likes to ride trains.

A little dirty from train smoke and cinders, Boomer operates out of the C.P.R. yards at Regina. He's not particular about the destination. As soon as a train stops, he's off — and when the trainman calls "Boomer!" he'll hop on again for the return trip.

He doesn't stick to one train, but goes from one to another. That's how he got his name — a boomer in railway jargon is a variation of "drifter".

WHAT IS FAIR CRITICISM?

Fair criticism implies a desire on the part of the critic to judge with clarity and say with honesty what he believes to be true. His judgment will be based upon his own experiences, his disappointments, his burned fingers, and his beliefs. At the same time, he will make an effort to get the other fellow's point of view and take the gentle and indulgent side of most questions.

Particularly should the business executive see the good qualities in a man or a proposition before pronouncing on the bad features. Thomas Carlyle says truthfully in his essay on Burns: "The ship comes into harbour with shrouds and tackle damaged; the pilot is blameworthy; he has not been all-wise and all-powerful. But to know how blameworthy, tell us first whether his voyage has been round the globe, or only to Ramsgate and the Isle of Dogs."

Fair criticism does not judge without factual information. It considers the event on which it is to pass judgment in the light of these factors: what was said or done? What did the person mean to say or do? What was his reason for saying or doing it? What is the effect of what he said or did? Why do I object to it?

Fair criticism does not exaggerate. All but a few whimsical persons seem to be urged either to overstate things by one hundred per cent or to understate them by fifty per cent, in order to criticize them better. It does not constitute fair criticism of an opponent who seems rather dull to call him a "gibbering maniac". We must admit, if we are to be fair critics, that we resent a few little things which happen to irritate us more than we appreciate a great deal for which we ought to be grateful, and govern our criticism accordingly.

Fair criticism means taking every precaution to be correct. It is not so serious when a mistake causes only the doer to suffer, as when Lord Byron, the critic, thought "Childe Harold", the product of Lord Byron the author, was useless, and gave it away. But when a mistake involves a victim, that is serious.

Fair criticism does not include common gossip. Gossip may be merely friendly talking, or useless chatter, but it too often degenerates into mischievous comment on neighbors or business associates.

— John Dolan

Town Planning Is A Humanitarian Affair

"City planning is not the creation of beautiful veneer to a city. It digs deep down into the roots of communal life. It has no thought of creating magnificent boulevards and hiding the slums of the workers behind them. It is concerned with how the people live, how they work and how they spend their leisure. It considers the development of the personality of the city, not seeking to straightlace or cramp it by a bureaucratic form of organization, nor does it inflict a host of fanciful ideas and notions upon the people."

— G. W. Haylor

Scots In Canada

Vice-Admiral the Mackintosh of Mackintosh, chief of the Gaelic Society of Inverness, said at the 80th anniversary dinner of the Society recently, that it was not generally realized that there were more people of Scottish descent outside Scotland than in it. Canada, with almost 1½ million, had the lion's share, he said.

National Historic Parks . . .

FORT CHAMBLY, QUEBEC

Repeated siege and capture marked the fighting history of Fort Chambly, but each time this Quebec stronghold was rebuilt and strengthened. Its attackers twice burned the 18th century bastion, which was first established to protect French settlers from the warlike Iroquois.

The fort was erected on the banks of the Richelieu River, some 20 miles from Montreal. About 150 feet square and constructed of wood, it was surrounded by 15-foot palisades. Within these walls were soldiers' quarters, a chapel and a warehouse.

In 1702, less than 40 years after its completion, Fort Chambly was burned by Indians during a temporary absence of the garrison. In 1710 it was rebuilt of stone, and was held by the French until the Seven Years War, when it was captured by the English in 1760. During the American Revolution the fort was again captured, this time by an American army under Montgomery, in 1775. The following year it was evacuated and burned by the invaders.

The fort was rebuilt for the last time in 1777. It was garrisoned from that time until about the middle of the last century, when it was finally abandoned as a military post. Acquired as a national historic park in 1921, much of the old fort has been restored and a museum, built within the grounds, houses many interesting historic exhibits.

A Baseball Czar

SPORTS CAMERA

By Jim Pastable,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A fellow who knows the ins and outs of baseball starts a $55,000-a-year job in a couple of weeks; because he took a dare 31 years ago.

Warren G. Giles, 55 and still going strong, steps in as president of the National Baseball League October 16. He succeeds his old friend Ford Frick, who slid safely into baseball's commissionership last week.

Giles, one of those warm-hearted and forthright men who combine ability with a winning personality, accepted an invitation from other clubs in the circuit to take the post.

His appointment will be applauded by baseball men in both the majors and minors. He has been an executive in the sport for many years.

It was 31 years ago that Giles moved into the game for the first time. It was just a week ago that he was deadlocked with Frick in a contest for commissioner. That job pays about $65,000 annually. Numerous ballots were taker before Giles, without fanfare, suddenly announced his withdrawal from the race.

Giles then got his release as president and general manager of Cincinnati Reds. His contract was to have expired in 1956.

Baseball Veteran

The career of Giles, native of Moline, Ill., started at the age of 24 when he severely criticized his home-town club. The team's management challenged him to run the club. He was elected president and two years later the team had climbed from the cellar to the pennant.

In 1922 he became general manager of the Syracuse club in the International League and later moved to Rochester. It was then he was elected president of the International circuit.

He joined the Reds in 1936 and became a power in major league circles. Twice he served as a member of the executive council, which consists of the presidents of both major leagues.

Meanwhile, with Frick as baseball commissioner he organized baseball hopes for peace and quiet after six years of squabbles. The 16 owners wanted a dyed-in-the-wool baseball man and they got just that.

The new commissioner, now 56, is a former college teacher of English. It was while he was working as a sports writer that his work came to the attention of National League president John A. Heydler, who took him on as an assistant. Frick was elected N.L. president in 1934, a position he held until last week.

He succeeds A. B. (Happy) Chandler, ousted from his post last December after numerous tangles with club owners.

Fair Guess

Father: "Hullo! Where's Alfred gone to?"

Mother: "If the ice is as thick as he thinks it is, he's gone skating; but if it is as thin as I think it is, he's gone bathing".

A missionary society approached Henry. "We are having a raffle for a poor widow", one of the members said. "Will you buy a ticket?"

"Nope", said Henry, "my wife wouldn't let me keep her if I won".

AMONG THE CHURCHES

Bible Study Course Starts This Evening

A Bible Study course, open to all who are interested, will be given in the Sunday School hall of the Margaret Rodger Memorial Presbyterian Church, by the Rev. Dr. W. Harold Reid. The course will open this evening, Thursday, October 4, at 8 o'clock and will continue for one hour each week.

The subject for the first three months of this course will be a background study — How We Got the Bible — which will throw light on many perplexing things met with in scriptural study. One feature of this course will be the opportunity for a free discussion of Biblical problems that may arise from time to time. . . All are welcome.

Thank-Offering Service At Lachute Baptist

The annual Thank-Offering service of Lachute Baptist Women's Mission Circle was held last Friday evening, with Mrs. Lorne Tomalty, president, occupying the chair. Mrs. James Murdoch offered the opening prayer and Mrs. Harry Salisbury read the scripture lesson. Miss Annie Laurie Burke played a piano solo, and Mrs. Keith Morrison and Miss Ada Morrow sang a duet entitled "Teach Me to Serve Thee More and More."

The Rev. W. J. Wellington, of Hull, Que., special guest speaker, told the thrilling story of the establishing of a bi-lingual Baptist Church in the fast-growing district of Wrightville, where up until the present there was no Protestant church of any denomination. The name of the new church is Montclair Baptist Church, and special opening services are to be held on October 14 and 15.

During the evening Mrs. Ada Titley made presentations to Mrs. David Brown, church clerk and organist, and to Mrs. W. J. Morrison, church treasurer, on behalf of the W.M.C., for their faithful services. A social time brought the well attended gathering to a close.

Harrington Pastor Feted at S.S. Supper

(Our District Correspondent)

Bell Falls — At the Harrington Sunday School supper, held Friday evening in the Orange Hall, Mr. L. Harbour, student pastor of Harrington United Church for the past year, was presented with a handsome wrist watch. The presentation was made by Dougal Page, superintendent of the Sunday School, on behalf of the school, the Ladies' Aid, and the Women's Association of Bell Falls, also friends of Mr. Harbour's in the community.

Mr. Harbour thanked those present, and said that his time spent in Harrington had been most enjoyable; he expressed warmest wishes for the welfare of the church in this community.

The gathering wished success to Mr. Harbour in his new work in Montreal West, assisting the Rev. Dr. Wadsworth, and in his university studies.

Pentecostal Church Fellowship Gathering

Last Saturday evening the Pentecostal Church of Brownsburg held a weiner roast at Reg Morrow's in Dalesville. Over 75 attended from Brownsburg, and quite a few from Montreal. Music for the singsong was supplied by various instruments, including accordians, trombones, trumpets and a portable organ. Frank and Lillian Kettyle sang selections, followed by a duet by the Misses Hazel and Ruby Batten from Montreal, accompanying themselves on their accordians. The evening was enjoyed with choruses and hymns and good Christian fellowship. Many more pleasant evenings are planned for the future.

Presentation to Student Pastor Leaving Arundel

(Our District Correspondent)

Arundel — After the Sunday service, the Arundel United Church congregation enjoyed a social hour at which Mr. K. Fenton was presented with a purse on the occasion of his resigning from his present position. From now on till his graduation he will be confined to his studies, and will be unable to fill the position which he now holds. It was with deep regret that his congregation learned of his decision, and friends wish him success in the years ahead.

The Challenge of Japan

The Rev. W. B. Rosborough, minister of the local church, was chairman, and several clergy of nearby towns were at the head table. The attendance was one of the largest in many years, and very representative of the United Church in this area. Dr. N. A. MacMurray, of Montreal, gave an encouraging report of the missionary fund for the United Church, and expressed the hope that all pledges would be met. A sing-song was led by Owen Todd, accompanied by Mrs. C. Wheeler, and Frank Steere sang two solos, also accompanied by Mrs. Wheeler. . . . The Rev. G. Case, of Cushing, expressed appreciation to the main speaker, and to the ladies who had prepared the fine supper.

The school staff recently arranged an afternoon tea for the purpose of meeting Mrs. Fraser, wife of the school's French specialist, Mr. K. Fraser, of Lachute. The decorating of the staff room was left to Miss F. M. Findlay, who had a tasteful arrangement of flowers. Mrs. R. Dumouchel poured tea. A pleasant time was enjoyed. Mr. K. Russell, Agriculture teacher from Lachute, was also present.

The canteen is again in operation and is doing a really "booming" business. (Lowe Bros. state we are their leading customers in the village of Grenville!)

Whenever a rainy day makes its appearance, the pupils are not "stuck" for entertainment. The school is lively with games in the playrooms, while square dancing is practised in the gymnasium, music being supplied by Roy McRae and Vernon Kennedy with their mouth-organs, and Leonard MacIntyre at the piano. Howard Cousins is employed at the "mike", calling the sets.

At Morin Heights Trinity Church at 4.30 o'clock on Saturday, September 22, the marriage took place of Miss Mona Hyde, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hyde, to Mr. Carman Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Wood. The Rev. H. G. Baugh officiated and Mr. John Lummis played the wedding music. Multi-colored gladioli and late summer flowers adorned the church.

Miss Barbara Watchorn, of Morin Heights, was bridesmaid. Mr. Orval Hyde was best man, while Mr. Ross Gillingham and Mr. Grant Seale ushered.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of French lace over ivory satin, made with a fitted bodice, with small Peter Pan collar, satin-covered butttons to the waist line and long sleeves ending in points over the hands. She carried a cascade bouquet of American Beauty roses. Her long veil of double nylon net was edged with lace and held in place with a band of orange blossoms.

The bridesmaid wore a floor-length gown with jacket in apple green taffeta, with small cap and long mitts of the same material, and carried a colonial bouquet of yellow tea roses.

At Lachute United Church, at four o'clock on Saturday afternoon, September 29, the marriage was solemnized of Florence Agnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Black, Sr., and Staff-Sgt. Raymond Griffis, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Griffis, of Montreal. The Rev. W. B. Rosborough officiated. The organist was Mrs. K. McOuat, and the soloist Mrs. E. Taylor, of Lachine. Mixed gladioli and ferns decorated the church.

Given away by her father, the bride wore a dress of white Chantilly lace over taffeta, with small Peter Pan collor, decorated with tiny pearls and with small pearl buttons down the front of the dress. Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion was trimmed with Chantilly lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations.

Mrs. William Hallum, of Pointe Claire, sister of the bride, wore a strapless dress of pale green nylon tulle over taffeta, with cape, and hat and gloves to match. (Our District Correspondent)

Cushing West — Representing the Canadian Woman's Christian Temperance Union, Mrs. Wm. Usher was a guest last week at the Windsor Hotel, Montreal, while attending the 58th annual meeting of the National Council of Women of Canada.

The president, Mrs. R. J. Marshall, LL.D., outlined plans for the Thrift Campaign which the Council is launching this month, to be carried on intensively throughout the winter, ending with the fiscal year next March, with the object of curbing inflation.

The Hon. Douglas Abbott, Minister of Finance, was the speaker at the Thursday evening session, and opened his address by saying: "Women can play an effective role in stablizing the country's economy, by establishing a tone of the social fabric of the community . . an attitude of mind in which prudent household management is both patriotic and fashionable."

At the closing banquet on Friday evening, External Affairs Minister Lester B. Pearson announced that the retiring president of the National Council of Women, Mrs. Marshall, has been chosen one of the five Canadian delegates to attend the next meeting of the United Nations Assembly. Mr. Pearson said the appointment had been made by the government "because we feel a sense of obligation to the National Council of Canada for the work it has done." Mr. Pearson's address was broadcast and fully reported in the city press.

COOKERY CONTEST ATTRACTS 40,000

London (CP)—Princess Elizabeth went to the ballroom of a London hotel recently to present prizes to winners of an event that has interested housewives all over Britain — a national cookery competition.

The contest was organized by the Women's Gas Federation to show, during the Festival of Britain season, how good British cooking can be.

Forty thousand women entered and 12 finalists emerged from regional contests. Each hoped to win the first prize which consisted of gas appliances and kitchen equipment for a modern gas kitchen valued at £250, but there were three other substantial prizes offered and eight "consolations".

Twelve model kitchens were arranged on one side of the ballroom and with many of the unlucky competitors who had been invited to the contest, watching them, the finalists went through the last test. This was to cook a dinner. The menus varied; some had to roast meat, others poultry and one or two to boil salmon with different vegetables and accessories. But all had to show prowess at cooking one dish — a traditional apple-pie.

The cooks remained imperturbable while four expert judges, Miss Phyllis Garbutt, principal of the Good Housekeeping Institute; Miss E. R. Smyth, staff inspector of homecraft, ministry of education; Philip Harben, British Broadcasting Corporation television cook, and J. Vincent, principal of the Westminister Technical Institute and Hotel and Restaurant School, watched them.

Interest centred on the "baby" competitor, Thelma Phillips of Pembroke, Wales, who is only 15 years old. The judges had some pleasant things to say about this promising little cook in their summing-up.

First prize, however, went to Councillor Hilda Mary Upton of Loughborough, Leicestershire. She is 52 years old and the mother of seven children. Her husband is a railway clerk and despite the cares of a family, she has time to indulge in many hobbies. She wants to get a teacher's certificate for cooking.

Canadian Grapes

This year, Canada, has the largest crop of grapes she has ever had. The Grape Growers Association of Canada are concerned about the maturity of their product, as the maturity has to do with the determination of the grade. They want to supply the Canadian housewife with fully-matured grapes for use in jelly making and eating. In order to reach this objective, a refractometer must be used to determine the sugar content of the grapes and, of course, the sugar content determines the maturity. A limited number of special refractometers are being used this year by the fruit inspectors of the Canada Department of Agriculture in grading the grape crop. It is expected that some important information will be obtained from these tests. Used to determine the maturity of grapes, they will have a very beneficial effect upon the grapes being offered on the markets this fall. This should be of great interest to all Canadian homemakers because it shows that Mr. Producer is becoming more and more interested in how his product reaches Mrs. Consumer.

When choosing grapes in the market, look for plump, firm fruit. If the grapes are for table use, make certain that they do not drop off the stems at the slightest touch. Avoid grapes that are mouldy and white and be on the lookout for fruit which has been injured by frost. The evidence of this is soft, flabby fruit.

Grapes are a very tasty topic. Everyone enjoys eating grapes from the bunch and a well-filled bowl on the table or sideboard doesn't stay well-filled long in the average home.

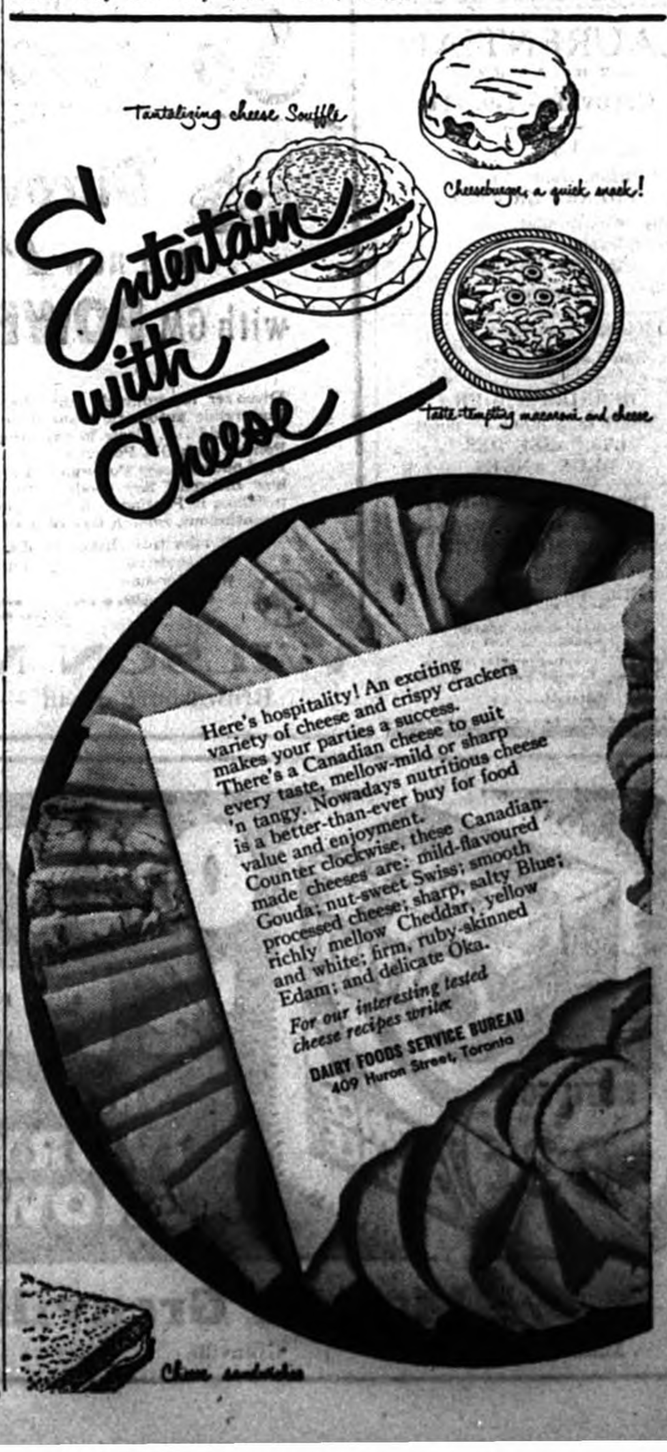

While the so-called blue grapes are most common, red and white grapes are found for sale also. The most common varieties of blue grapes are the Fredonia and the Concord. The Rogers is a well known type of red grape and the Niagara the most popular white grape. The average homemaker buys the blue grapes for her jam and jelly making. The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, have found that a combination of blue and white, or as they are usually called, green grapes, make a delicious jelly with a lovely flavor and a rich, wine-red color. When making grape jelly or any other jelly for that matter, it is most important to use the pectin test to determine whether or not there is sufficient pectin in the juice to produce a jelly. If after making the pectin test a clot does not form, in other words if only a few flicks of jelly appear, the juice should be boiled a few minutes longer testing frequently until the pectin test is satisfactory.

Many homemakers never think of making grape desserts, but the home economists have tried several which they like very much. For instance, they suggest that grape juice may be used instead of lemon juice in Baked Lemon Sponge Pudding. That is the pudding which, when cooked, has a custard on the bottom and cake on the top. Grape Juice Sherbert is also very good. It has a refreshing flavor and it is wonderful to serve after a large meal because it is so light and tart. Lemon Snow may be made into Grape Snow by merely substituting grape for any other juice suggested. Another idea the home economists suggest is that grape juice may be used instead of milk or cream as the liquid in butter icing for cakes. Grape juice also makes wonderful sauces for cake puddings. Always remember that fresh grapes, when served with cheese and crackers are an ideal dessert, easy to serve and easy to prepare. A few grapes may be tossed into any fruit salad or fruit cup to add color and flavor. Most important of all though, is to keep the fruit bowl well filled with grapes in this the season of "grape plenty".

FASHION HINT

Shopping for a new blouse is a major delight this fall. Never was there such generous variety for all occasions and uses at such a wide price range. . . With this report out of the way, let's concentrate on a new blouse of Oxford gray rayon crepe, with black velvet outlining the pretty neckline and at the cuffs. Two jewelled buttons are on either side of the neck. The second blouse is of white rayon crepe with a crisp look. It stresses a double row of scalloped embroidery at the neck interspersed with daintily embroidered flowers in white.

County Couple Wed Recently in Lachute

Robinson - Chapman

St. Simeon's Anglican Church, Lachute, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday evening, September 15, when Miss Sarah Chapman became the bride of Mr. Leslie Robinson, of Lakefield, the Rev. C. R. Lang officiating. Mrs. Hall played the wedding music.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Forbes Chapman. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Marcel Laurin, as matron of honor, while Mr. Gordon Robinson, brother of the groom, was best man. The ushers were Mr. Keith Gordon and Mr. Kenneth Bennett.

The bride wore a white floor-length gown of nylon with a lace bodice; her veil was held by a helmet headdress, and her bouquet was of deep red roses.

The matron of honor was dressed in a floor-length gown of mauve taffet , with veil to match, and she carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Mrs. Beattie, aunt of the bride, was dressed in a printed mauve silk dress, with hat to match, and wore a corsage of red roses. Mrs. Robinson, mother of the groom, wore a printed silk dress with black accessories, and a corsage of red roses.

Octogenarians at B'burg Birthday Party

At Mrs. Gordon Tomalty's home in Brownsburg, a birthday party was held this past week in honor of Mr. Charles L. Jones, of Springfield, Mass. (whose late wife was the former Elizabeth Morrison, of The Glen).

The occasion was Mr. Jones' 80th birthday, but three others present in the gathering also claimed distinction as octogenarians — his sister-in-law, Mrs. Robt. Tomalty, Mrs. Stewart Boyd, of Lachute, and Miss Sarah Morrison, of Lachute. . . . Mr. Jones was accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. R. M. Edwards, also of Springfield, and among the guests from distant points was Mrs. Norval Blair, of Saskatoon.

The party was complete with a birthday cake, floral decorations and around 40 guests. On behalf of the gathering a presentation was made to Mr. Jones by Mr. Geo. Bale, of Montreal. Music and singing were enjoyed, with Mrs. Alice Bale and her daughter, Miss Elva, as pianists.

The combined area of the Great Lakes is 95,170 square miles, more than a third of the area of the province of Alberta.

Grand Derby Next Sunday at St. Jerome

The long anticipated Grand Derby at the Bouvrette race track in St. Jerome, takes place next Sunday, October 7. Below is the list of horses, and their owners, entered for this event:

Captain Cash — Gaboury & Lachapelle, Jollette.
Ramuncho — Leon Legault, St. Jerome.
Dr. Parker — Mr. Dionne, Drummondville.
Scott Sencer — Dr. Hamel, St. Flavien.
Junior Counsel — Mr. Bouchard, Drummondville.
Derby Day — Ecurie St-Maurice, Three Rivers.
Prince Like — Gerard Bouvrette, St. Jerome.
Cyril Hanover — Mr. Fabi, Sherbrooke.
Lusty Louis — Mr. Cauchon, Quebec.
Scott Cash — Mr. Bolly, Three Rivers.
Popular Dale — Mr. Rivard, Berthier.
Cax Brooke.
Walnut Law.
Moose Hanover.

"Lusty Louis", belonging to Mr. Cauchon of Quebec, is quite popular. Mr. Bertrand, secretary of the Quebec races, in a recent visit stated that, in order to win over "Lusty Louis" one will have to run the mile in better time than 2.05. Nevertheless, there will be hot competition with "Derby Day", who holds the record of 2.04½.

"Ramuncho" (Leon Legault, of St. Jerome) is on the list; in July he came second, right behind "Derby Day".

It is the first appearance this year on the St. Jerome tracks of "Prince Like" (Gerard Bouvrette, St. Jerome), due to an injury; he should make a very good impression.

In addition to the Derby, there will be three other well balanced classes on the program. Spectators will see horses like "Atomik Grattan" (Osias Lavigne), "Loulou Todd (Gerard Bouvrette), "Gracia Grattan" (Wilfrid Larose), "Sandy H. Lee" (Sarto Perreault), "Helen Knight" and "Elen Guy". These horses are now at the Three Rivers tracks, but will all be present for Sunday, and are expected to give a high speed performance at St. Jerome.

The automatic starting gate will be in operation and this program of harness races looks very promising.

approval to Quebec immediately. This, when completed, will be 25 feet higher than the present 10-foot dam, giving a 35-foot head and a great deal more water pressure.

While the town "dump" is still causing complaints, it is expected that before very long an incinerator will be purchased and put in operation.

The Badminton Club was granted use of the Auditorium under similar conditions to those of last season.

A request for a permit to sell horse meat in town was granted, so that those desiring to do so may now legally purchase this commodity.

Bills to the amount of $8,880.93 were duly passed and ordered paid.

The new by-law relating to the taking over of all sidewalks by the Town, was given its first reading.

Stirring Welcome to Royal Visitors !

CHARM OF REGAL COUPLE WINS HEARTS OF CANADIANS IN CITY AND COUNTRYSIDE

(An Oil Portrait)

This charming oil portrait of Their Royal Highnesses Princess Elizabeth and her consort, the Duke of Edinburgh, admirably reflects the graciousness with which they have captivated the hearts of Canadians, alrady in the early days of their tour. In Montreal, Quebec and Ottawa they have been greeted by enthusiastic crowds, and have displayed the same friendly charm in both formal and informal appearances — a characteristic with which their Royal parents won public affection on the occasion of Their Majesties' visit here. . . It is the popular wish, that this gracious couple will enjoy to the utmost every moment and every detail of their Canadian tour.

Bishop at Opening Of New Church

St. Sauveur, Que. — The new Anglican Church of "Saint Francis of the Birds" was officially opened and dedicated Saturday afternoon by the Right. Rev. John Dixon, Bishop of Montreal. The procession from Nymark's Lodge to the church was led by the Shawbridge Boys' Band and the crossbearers, Messrs. Dennis Baskin and John Goodfellow. The St. Jerome detachment of the R.C.M.P. formed a guard of honor for the Bishop.

After striking the door in the customary manner with his episcopal staff, the Bishop was admitted by the churchwardens, Capt. E. J. Rogers and Mr. Robert Crichton.

The service was conducted by the Rev. Capt. H. G. Baugh, of Morin Heights. He also read a message from the Primate of All Canada, and mentioned the numerous telegrams and messages of goodwill for the success of the new building, which is the first Protestant church in the area.

Also in the chancel were the Rev. Cecil Royle, of Hudson Heights, the Rev. W. Busing, of Arundel, Dr. G. Basil-Jones, of Ste. Agathe, Mr. C. O. Thomas, lay-reader of Morin Heights, and the Rev. Stanley Smith, of Shawbridge, representing the United Church of Canada.

In the sanctuary were the Venerable Archdeacon J. F. Morris of Montreal, and the Rev. Stanley Andrews, Bishop's chaplain. Organist was John Lummis, and violinist Louis Rottenberg, both of Montreal. Sidesmen for the service were the wardens, and Messrs. L. Fisher, Herman Dudene and Victor Nymark.

A reception was held following the ceremony, at the home of Mr. H. E. Dinsdale.

The first Communion service in this new Saint Sauveur Church will be held on October 14, at 10 a.m.

Jury Verdicts in Two Traffic Deaths

At an inquest last Thursday evening held in the Dansereau School, Grenville, Remi Labrosse, Montebello taxi driver, was found criminally responsible for the death of Alex Parisien, 63-year-old Hawkesbury resident. Evidence before the jury showed that the victim, driving towards Lachute on September 29, was instantly killed when his car was telescoped by the Labrosse taxi on Route 8-A at Grenville; the latter, driving south, was overtaking a truck and came into collision with the Hawkesbury car.

At the court house in Lachute on Tuesday evening, inquest was held on the death of young Carmen Venditelli, 12-year-old resident of the Brownsburg Road, who was knocked from his bicycle by a truck near the Mountain View intersection on Sunday, September 30, and died in a Montreal hospital three days later. Driver of the light delivery truck was Albert Myers. . . Evidence was heard from Myers and Donald Boa, who was accompanying him in the truck, and two other eyewitnesses—Mario Paquette, 12-year-old playmate of the victim, and A. L'Allement, a neighboring resident. . . The jurors returned a verdict of accidental death.

Coroner Dr. Jules Lafleur presided at both hearings.

3 Coroner's Cases Over Week-end

Three sudden deaths occurred in this area over the holiday week-end, all attributed to natural causes.

Coroner Dr. Jules Lafleur, of Lachute, was called in the case of 48-year-old Edouard Deslauriers, who dropped dead at his home in Montfort on Saturday afternoon following a heart seizure. The victim was the father of 14 children.

A Hawkesbury man, Adolphe Gauthier, 47, was found dead in his bed Saturday evening at St. Onge's Hotel, Foundry Street, where he was the occupant of a room. His death had occurred earlier in the afternoon. Coroner Dr. Lafleur, on investigation, gave a verdict of natural death.

A well known business man, Allen Chown, who was sales manager of Ayers Limited, died suddenly around noon on Monday, Thanksgiving Day, at the company's Laurentian resort, Caring Lake. Joint-coroner Dr. A. R. Coté, of Brownsburg, was summoned on the case, and pronounced the death due to natural causes.

Scouts' Paper Canvass This Saturday

Town readers are reminded of the paper salvage collection by Lachute Boy Scouts this Saturday, October 13 (for which two regular advertisers have given space in this issue). The same measure of co-operation by residents and business firms will make the collection worthwhile, and give the Scouts a deserving boost.

'Help Wanted' Sign On Community Rink

(By Watchman Correspondent)

Brownsburg — This sign has been hanging out among the lofty girders of the skating rink for the past week. The advent of colder weather heralding the approach of winter, has called for greater effort to have the outer covering of the rink completed before the snow flies. The committee in charge is leaving no stone unturned, or perhaps no nail undriven, to try and close the gap that still exists in the exclusion of daylight through the rink walls. The roof is in course of completion by bonding the felt covering, which is good for 20 years' weather protection. The work is in the hands of roofing contractors, Yvon Laurin, who have offered their services free to assist in this community effort. We know it only needs to be mentioned that "help is wanted" to complete the sides, and anyone having a hammer and a few hours to spare will be more than welcome to a nail-driving bee any fine evening. . . Apply to Kenny Stewart; you will always find him on the job.

Banking Is Topic At B'burg Rotary

Mr. A. O. (Ossie) Blouin, manager of the Nova Scotia Bank at Brownsburg, was speaker at the weekly meeting of the Rotary Club. Mr. Blouin's topic was "Banking". He briefly outlined the Canadian banking system, stating that to speak fully on banking would require several years. A few highlights of his talk may be summarized as follows:

The main business of banks is the borrowing and the lending of money. The banks borrow this money from customers' deposits. Practically all loans are made in this way, though a few loans are made from the capital reserve.

There are three types of deposits: (1) Deposits payable after notice, or savings deposits. In these the bank reserves the right to require ten days' notice of withdrawal of the whole or part of any deposit. This is in case the bank has not the necessary funds on hand. Interest at the rate of 1½% is paid on these deposits. . . (2) Demand deposit, or current account. These deposits are for business accounts and large cash reserves must be maintained against these balances. There is no interest paid in these accounts. . . . (3) Deposit receipt. This is a deposit of a specific amount and is payable upon surrender of the receipt. Interest of ½% is paid if the deposit is for longer than 90 days.

The deposits are used to the best advantage and are kept invested continuously in good liquid loans. Funds are sent to the locality which needs them. The funds are used to assist the British Columbia fishermen, the Western farmers, lumbering in the East — as the need arises and as seasons change.

Banks also facilitate foreign and domestic trade by doing a collection service. This service is peculiar to Canada and is possible at low cost due to our branch system of banking. Banks rent safety deposit boxes, hold valuables in safekeeping and in "escrow", sell drafts and money orders, and provide other means of transferring money from one part of the country to another, or to any part of the world except Russia.

Banking business is conducted on a very small margin of profit, and fees for services are small. Great care must be exercised at all times, and it takes many transactions to make up for even a small loss.

Mr. Blouin was introduced by Charles Moseley and thanked by Mac Walker. After the dinner the Rotarians were led in a singsong by Stewart Jones, with Wes Freeland at the piano.

The business of the evening consisted of discussion of the coming Ladies' Night, which may be combined with the Hawkesbury Ladies' Night and the Turkey Bingo to be held in November.

Guests at the meeting were John Hawes, Lachute; Barry Bourne, King Amos and Larry Pressault, all of Brownsburg; Larry Ayliffe, George Richard, Jim Holtby, Rolly Brunette (president of the Hawkesbury Club), all of Hawkesbury.

Ayers Ltd. Fills Order for Royalty

While Lachute was not favored as a point in the Royal itinerary, it is a matter of pride that one of the products of this community has been presented at Ottawa to their Royal Highnesses Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh. The gift tendered to the Royal parents, is intended for little Princess Anne, in the form of a pair of satin-bound crib blankets embroidered with the Royal cypher and coronet; the blankets were specially manufactured here by Ayers Limited. The gift was ordered by the City of Ottawa and reflects great credit on the high standard of workmanship maintained by this local firm.

To Produce "Gentlemen, Acceptable In Dining Room, Useful in Emergency"

Aim of Scouting — Echo of Provincial Scouters' Conference at North Hatley

By M. V. Trayers

Brownsburg — "Why am I a Scouter?" . . . This writer did not know what a Scouter was till Paul Villard enlightened him on the niceties and shades of meaning of the various terms employed in the interesting art of Scouting. Paul was a delegate with Barry Bourne from this district to the Provincial Scouters' Conference of the Boy Scouts Association of Quebec, which was held at North Hatley last week-end.

A "Scouter" is an executive officer of the association, while the rank and file or the "buck" privates (in army parlance) are the Scouts.

The North Hatley rally was held for the purpose of exchanging ideas among the brass or "Scouters" and the theme of the conference, "Why I am a Scouter", was treated in the address given by Major-Gen. D. C. Spry, C.B.E., D.S.O., the chief executive commissioner of the Association in Canada. The answer to this question, according to Major-Gen. Spry, is, "Because Scouting is something more than a camping club or handicraft guild; because it is imbued with a spiritual basis. Scouting has as its sole aim the producing of men — reasonable, decent citizens who, as someone has said, are 'Christian gentlemen acceptable in a dining room and useful in an emergency'."

There were several sessions on various aspects of Scouting held during the week-end, and formal dinners and luncheons during which Scouting activities were reviewed. A panel of experts on training was set up and the conference adjourned leaving all 150 delegates with a better appreciation of why they were doing what they were doing — in other words why they were "Scouters".

Song Forges International Link Of Friendship in Service Club

Lyricist, Composer and Song Leader Exchange Visits Across the Canadian-American Border

It is proverbially true that "music is the universal language". But there is a touch of story-book phantasy in the friendship established between two distant points, Lachute and Camden, New Jersey, through the medium of a song. . .

It all dates back several years to the collaboration of three townsmen here in concocting a Lions Club theme song — Angelo Fassio, maestro of the strings, being the prime instigator and the publisher. The song languished somewhat; it was heard at occasional club meetings, but was never promoted in a measure to reap recognition or fame. . . Then a song-conscious president, Lion Horace Lamarche, came into the chairmanship of the local club last year, and through his efforts the song was revived; it echoed even in Montreal club meetings and elsewhere. In a metropolitan illustrated weekly, and in the Lions' International magazine, there appeared a local foursome photographed at the piano presenting the theme song, "Lions of the North" . . . And thus it started. . .

Came a letter some weeks later to Maestro Fassio, asking his collaboration in composing another song, "Four Hundred Thousand Lions". The correspondent and lyricist was Dr. Charles Sullivan, of Camden, N.J. . . and this week, as a result of the correspondence and friendship which ensued, Dr. Sullivan made a special trip to Lachute to visit his fellow Lions. Since the publication of his song, Messrs. Fassio and Lamarche had both met the doctor personally in their travels to the States, and on this occasion Dr. Sullivan was reciprocating the gesture of friendship.

He was guest speaker, incidentally, at the local club meeting Tuesday evening at Joly's Hotel. Introduced and thanked by his two friends Angelo Fassio and Horace Lamarche, respectively, he spoke on "Loinism As I See It", and seized his listeners with an unusual enthusiasm for the ideals of this service group. For 31 years a member of the Lions fraternity, a charter member and past-president of the Camden branch, he spoke with a deep and infectious sincerity.

In further tribute, and as a surprise to the visitor, Lion Lamarche sang another song, "When You Said I Do' ", written by Dr. Chas. Sullivan to his wife on their 50th wedding anniversary. Willard M. Steeves was accompanist at the piano, and A. Fassio on the violin. . . . Altogether it was songsters' night with a ring of real sentiment.

President Ralph FitzGerald conducted the proceedings and Ian Gordon accorded full honors to the Lion of the Day, Romain Desjardins, a successful businessman and a good citizen of this town.

Guests at the head table included Miss Madeline Taylor, of Montreal, Mrs. Leonard Ayers and Mrs. A. G. Leggett. Miss Taylor, visiting Lachute and Brownsburg in the interests of the Canadian Cancer Society to establish two sections of the organization in these centres, spoke briefly but convincingly on the need of public support in this enterprise.

Lion J. S. Giles, International Councillor, was officially welcomed on his recent return from a visit overseas. In the spirit of Fire Prevention Week, Fire Chief Geo. Y. Deacon spoke briefly, and Police Chief D. Villeneuve conducted a fire prevention quiz. Around 50 members and guests were in attendance, and the meeting was another memorable session in the year's program.

County Historical Society Thriving; Members Hear Good Reports at 17th Annual Meeting

Mac E. Walker Elected to Presidency

The 17th annual meeting of the Argenteuil Historical Society, held Saturday at the Carillon Museum, was gratifying to the members both in point of attendance and in evidence of the Society's good progress, shown in the year's reports. Miss Beatrice Robertson presented the secretary's record and Miss Edith Eimpson reported on the financial standing, which was specially encouraging in contrast to the long, lean years since the Society's inauguration. This improvement was largely attributable to a generous legacy bequeathed by the late Miss Priscilla McMartin.

In fulfilment of the wishes of this benefactor, it was resolved to erect a plaque to the memory of her parents, who were pioneers in this county. Another resolution approved the increase in the Museum admittance fees, to 25c for non-members, and 10c for children accompanied by adults. School groups under guidance of a teacher will be admitted free, as heretofore. These rates become effective next season.

The caretaker's record showed 2,219 persons had visited the Museum during the past June, July and August; five classes of school children; Boy Scouts and other groups had visited the building on instructional tours.

It was reported by the chairman, President J. S. Giles, that the exhibits had been augmented by several appreciable gifts. Most noteworthy of these were a collection of World War I relics left by the late Col. L. M. Hooker; records and mementoes of George Brown, founder of the Village of Brownsburg, given by S. Wyman McGibbon; and also an interesting loan exhibit of Indian crafts, displayed this season by courtesy of the Canadian Handicrafts Guild.

Mr. Ben Howell reported on the work of the Museum Committee, and Mr. Gaetan Valois brought in the report of the Nominating Committee, the following officers being formally elected:

J. S. Giles, hon, president; Mac E. Walker, president; Mrs. G. F. W. Kuhring, 1st vice-president; Mrs. Geo. McGibbon, 2nd vice-president; Miss B. Robertson, secretary; Miss E. Simpson, treasurer.

Vacancies on the executive were filled by the election of R. W. Shepherd, B. Howell, Mrs. S. Forbes, Mrs. S. Kendall, and Clément Tremblay (re-elected).

An interlude of dramatic entertainment was provided by Mrs. Phoebe Erskine McKellar, popular elocutionist, who appeared in three costumed presentations depicting, with colorful dialect, legends from Indian lore of the Pacific Coast.

On conclusion of this spirited recital, the gathering enjoyed tea and a social hour — ladies of the Lachute Presbyterian W.M.S. providing and serving the refreshments. The gathering numbered over 60 members and friends of the Historical Society.

Once Again—Fire Chief To the Fore

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK, OCTOBER 7 - 13

Fire Chief Geo. Y. Deacon in his robes of office. . . These past few days Chief Deacon has been engaging in his annual custom, voicing the tenets of Fire Prevention, leading the inaugural parade, conducting fire drills and performing the perennial activities of Fire Prevention Week.

The Watchman salutes this veteran campaigner and pays tribute to his long service with the local fire brigade.

Canada has had a "watchdog of the treasury" since 1878, an Auditor General to make an annual audit of the federal government's revenue and expenditure. Watson Sellar is the present Auditor General and he is responsible only to the House of Commons and the Senate, not to any department of government.

No Dull Moments In B'burg Council

(Our District Correspondent)

Waterworks Impasse

Brownsburg — The Minister of Health wrote the council in regard to cutting off the water from a number of Maple Avenue taxpayers who allegedly allowed the water to run to prevent freezing during the cold weather. The council endeavored to prevent this practice, which caused a serious drain on the town supply. Stan Harris, on behalf of the taxpayers concerned, pointed out that if the drain from a half-inch pipe were sufficient to deplete the reservoir, then the reserves of the water supply in Brownsburg were very inadequate. The Minister, however, was not concerned with the matter of supply so long as the health of the parties was protected by an adequate amount of water. He pointed out through his local medical official, Dr. L. Turcotte, that the structure of the ground at this location prevents the use of septic tanks or the sinking of wells or pumps, and that an ordinance would be issued if required by the council to have the water extended to these people, as well as the other utilities.

After a long discussion the council decided to permit draining of water to prevent freezing for the winter, rather than undertake the work of sinking the necessary pipes below frostline.

Mr. W. M. Cottingham provided the council with several hundred dollars' worth of pipes to drain this area, in an effort to provide the services which the council were reluctant to undertake.

Sidewalks

The work of providing sidewalks in all areas of the municipality was continued. A cheque for $1,182 was drawn in favor of the contractor, Mr. Brisson.

Chimney Cleaning

The Fire Chief reported that all the chimneys had been cleaned by the fire brigade members, and everything was reported in good order. The council issued a cheque for $630 for the work.

Taxis

There is an order of the council that taxis cannot be parked on the public streets unless for the purpose of the immediate discharge or acceptance of passengers. A taxi-man appeared before council to contest the right of the police to fine him for parking; although his car carried a taxi license, he was not now engaged in taxi work, he stated. After considerable discussion (during which the Chief pointed out that the taxi license obtained by applicant was for the purpose of extending his credit terms for 18 months, and if he was not now using his car as a taxi the matter would have to be reported to Quebec so that he would have to revert to the shorter period for credit) — the petitioner decided to pay the fine.

Gatineau LINES

"Packaging" Electricity

Last week this column talked about the way in which a power company "ships" electricity from the plant where it is made, using transmission lines instead of the trains or trucks which other manufacturers employ in distributing their product. Now we would like to talk about the "wholesalers and retailers" of the electricity business — the large and small sub-stations scattered along the lines of any power company.

The wholesaler in business takes the product of the factory in large quantities, and distributes it in smaller quantities to all the retailers in his area who want it. The retailer, in turn, takes a certain quantity and then distributes it in still smaller quantities to his customers, who are the ultimate consumers.

So it is in the electrical business. The "wholesalers" are the big sub-stations, which take power at 110,000 volts — or possibly at a lower voltage — and redistribute it onto lower voltage lines which fan out in every direction. These lines may carry power at 26,000 volts, or 13,000 volts, or some lower figure. But such voltages, while suitable for moving the power from one place to another, are still much too high for the use of most customers.

That is where the "retailers" of the electrical business come in. They are the secondary sub-stations, which cut the voltage down to, say, 4,600 volts — and the pole transformers which break it up into the still smaller packages, 115 or 230 volts, used in our homes.

And so, as we have seen, the electrical business operates in much the same way as any producing business. It gathers the raw materials — water — converts them into something useful in its factories — the power plants — distributes its product by transmission lines instead of by road or rail, and then breaks that product down into a suitable package for the consumer. The difference is that the power company takes care of every step itself, so that the product reaches the consumer at the lowest possible price.

Lack of Minerals Affects Animals

While most mineral elements are required only in minute quantities, their absence in the diet of livestock can result in such harmful effects as the development of rickets, loss of appetite, loss of weight, a drop in milk or egg production, the production of weak offspring, goitre, anaemia and other disorders.

Ordinary feeds such as grains and forages supply certain essential minerals but mineral supplements are necessary to supply calcium, phosphorus, salt, iodine, iron, copper, manganese and cobalt, according to scientists of C-I-L's agricultural chemicals department. All but the first three of these minerals are required in very small quantities.

Cattle, sheep and horses require a mineral supplement with a high rate of phosphorus to calcium, since they are forage consumers and forages contain more calcium than phosphorus. Hogs on the other hand are grain consumers and require a mineral supplement which is high in calcium to compensate for the low-calcium content of grains.

The importance of mineral elements in livestock rations is being stressed more and more by authorities on animal nutrition and progressive farmers, and all farmers should be on the look-out for signs of profit-stealing mineral deficiencies, C-I-L's agriculturalists advise.

Plowing of Corn After Harvesting

The question of how best to plow corn stalks is a matter which has received considerable discussion in the past years, particularly since the corn picker has come into such prominence. However, according to J. C. Steckley, director of the Western Ontario Experimental Farm, the problem is rather simple in that it is only a matter of clearance.

In the first place, he feels that no extra or special equipment is necessary. However, adjustments may be necessary on the plow. The plow should have a high beam so that there is no chance of the corn stalks catching or plugging the plow. In the second place, skimmers are not essential and instead a disc coulter can be used. In most cases, it gives better results.

Mr. Steckley stresses the importance of plowing in the same direction as the corn picker was operated. Another suggestion he puts forth is that, if the plowing is done in the Fall, it may be a good idea to go over the field with a roller, once again rolling in the same direction as the corn picker. If these simple rules are followed, he feels that the width and depth of plowing are not important.

In conclusion Mr. Steckley recommends that anyone plowing corn stalks under for the first time should apply some form of a nitrogen fertilizer. This fertilizer, when plowed in with the corn stalks, will assist in their disintegration, thereby increasing the yield the following year. To verify this statement he says that at the Experimental Farm oats seeded on land where corn stalks had been plowed in with nitrogen fertilizer the previous Fall have given remarkable results. The increase in yields resulting from this practice has run as high as 20 to 25 bushels per acre.

Autumn Expeditions -- Thoughts on Frailties of Animal and Humankind

"Sunnyacres Sketches" — By Margaret Cook

A kindly Fate allows us to write once more from Sunnyacres, at the height of the pageant of color. Seldom has it been better. The grove behind the house is a mass of yellow, so that the house is flooded with a golden light; the hills at the back of the small lake are every conceivable shade and tint; the little country road has become an aisle into fairyland. The woods are cathedral-like, the great trees arching up and the sun filtering through the prism of colors as in the great churches of Europe. It is common knowledge that they were inspired by the forests of those countries, especially those of France, where the prevailing color in Autumn is yellow, but man has never quite equalled the splendor of Nature's hues. All beauty is first conceived in the mind of the Creator; what we achieve, if we are lucky, is a poor imitation. An artist remarked to me recently that this is, for him, a season of exasperation, so many paintable things and so little time. To the writer, it is a satisfying time. Even the meanest writer can accomplish much in a half hour, and there are more words than colors!

We do much exploring these Fall days—no flies, no mosquitoes, no sticky heat, and plenty of leaves in which to scuff our feet. One such walk took us to the top of Shrewsbury hill to a deserted farm house. As we sat on the crumbling door-step, there were mute evidences of a beauty-loving soul. Deep red Hollyhocks still stood against the grey wall; there were rose bushes and Golden Glow about, and Foxglove showed velvety leaves in a bed. On a tree nearby, broken strands of rope spoke of childish play. Interesting as were the immediate surroundings, the scene unfolded at our feet was better; from our elevation of 1,400 feet, fold after fold of the Laurentians clad in a riot of red, purple, brown, chartreuse, green and yellow fell away to the St. Lawrence plain, with Mount Royal crouching like a lion at the edge of the horizon on one side, and the hills of Oka and Rigaud on the other. Heaven, we thought, would have to be good to beat this. . . But, as Amos would point out, it was not heaven to the owner, who probably was hard pressed to earn a living. All these farms were once prosperous because timber was being sold from them; now that it is almost gone, the owners face an uncertain future. Most of them await the inevitable when the land will be sold for whatever softwood still remains, the buildings rapidly disintegrate and the name of the original settler perishes from the land. We know of three such farms in this vicinity. We suggest the keeping of sheep, and are told they are too troublesome; we mention a survey for minerals, and are answered by snorts of derision. Perhaps an agronomist, a mining engineer and a politician could get together on this and come up with a solution.

But, as a correspondent begs, "Tell us more stories of Sunnyacres, in fact, tell us any old story", we shall try to oblige, rather than bore the reader with our infantile thoughts on reforestation, colonization, etc. We shall tell an animal story, for which we are indebted to a Nova Scotian friend. . .

A farmer near Antigonish has had for years a Collie dog, much beloved by all the household. Latterly a fawn, whose mother had been killed, was added to the family circle and rapidly became the centre of attraction, to the obvious dismay of the dog. One day, both dog and fawn were missing. At dusk, the Collie returned ominously alone and with a bad conscience, for he retired under the verandah and no blandishments could lure him out. The next morning, fearing the worst, the farmer set out to search for the fawn. After a bit, he picked up the joint trail and pursued it for miles into the woods, but had to return sorrowfully without the fawn. Everyone thought that the dog had in some way killed his rival and consumed the evidence. However, they wronged him, for the fawn returned after some days. The strategy had been simply to lose the simpleton in the forest. In fact, the dog was almost human, with the two attributes of jealousy and reason. . . We were charmed with this story because it added to our own convictions that animals have more powers of the mind than they are generally credited with.

We have had a minor tragedy in our family — Peter, the grey Persian, have been hit by a car and his pelvis broken, necessitating three weeks in hospital. Since Peter's absence, Haile, the 12-year-old black Persian, has been making a remarkable recovery from what we had diagnosed as an understandable senility. His appetite has improved, likewise his disposition. Once more he prostrates himself against our chests and rubs his chin affectionately against ours; he allows himself to be picked up, and purs with satisfaction when stroked. Even his hearing seems to have bettered! Evidently, puss was suffering from frustration and jealousy. We hate to think of the inevitable reaction when Peter reappears.

We have just returned from a walk to Mud Lake, where we picked bog cranberries and scared up two partridge. Our low mind held the inescapable thought of the beauty of roast partridge and cranberry sauce, but a sudden electrical storm coming up purged our soul of such carnal fancies and we concentrated on reaching home before the downpour. The storm beat us by five minutes, so that we arrived with clothes and hair drenched.

Finally, we hate to seem to say "I told you so" — but how about the horrible drowning at Lake Sir John? That curve and bluff are well-known and respected by the local people, but no danger sign warned the ignorant visitor. Now that the inevitable has happened, a portable sign feebly marks the spot. The wooden fence, too, has been repaired, the kind of fence that any mother would warn her child not to climb. As a guard for automobiles, it is ridiculous. Of course, it is not the car but the driver that needs to be guarded. How right are our compatriots who sensibly refer to the frail barriers on the Gaspé roads, as "Garde-Fous"!

FINE CACTUS PLANT IS WASHED BY HAND

Drumheller, Alta. (CP) — Can you imagine washing and combing a plant to keep it tidy?

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Freypons of Drumheller have a plant — a cactus — called the "Old Man of Mexico". It resembles an ancient man.

Washing and combing the hair-like covering is a periodic job.

DRILL FOR COPPER

St. John's, Nfld. (CP) — An extensive diamond drilling program on a copper ledge discovered some years ago in rugged country between South River and Bay of Islands will be undertaken shortly. The outcrop is at an elevation of 1,800 feet.

Vancouver (CP) — The special committee on community Hallowe'en parties is already well ahead with plans for a safe and happy celebration this year. City council voted $3,000 for fireworks and party refreshments.

Lives Dedicated to "Kindness in Another's Trouble"

THE following tribute by L. W. Brockington, C.M.G., K.C., is timely to an appeal now being publicized through this district — the annual Red Shield Campaign:

The men and women of the Salvation Army have always seemed to me to be happy in their faithful labors. And so, in a world where we often hear more of gloom than of gladness, it is fitting that an appeal for a great and joyful Canadian cause should be accompanied by the singing of voices and the playing of instruments. I have carried with me for many years a little verse which I expect many of you know:

"Life is mostly froth and bubble;
Two things stand like stone —
Kindness in another's trouble,
Courage in one's own."

I don't agree that life is mostly froth and bubble and I don't suppose that you do either.

But I am going to speak to you for a few minutes about men and women who have dedicated their lives to "kindness in another's trouble". They are men and women of simple, direct, and unquestioning faith. They are concerned, however, not so much with words spoken as with things done, not with creeds professed but with charities fulfilled. They are men and women of little substance, for the wages which they receive are very small, but they have ever been concerned more with other people's lives than with their own livelihood.

I never meet them without being impressed by their gentleness, their cheerfulness, and their devotion. I am sure that they would be the last people in the world to consider themselves saintly, but if a saint means one who keeps on trying in a great and good cause, then they deserve that name also.

Where there is hunger and remorse, doubt and despair, sickness of body, sickness of soul, and that broken strength which is sometimes called man's weakness, there you will find the hearts and hands and minds of the Salvation Army.

Today they humbly ask their fellow citizens for help — not for themselves but for the great human and divine cause which claims and receives their life's devotion. I will not speak of the work of the Salvation Army in war. If you will ask any son or daughter of Canada who served in our Armed Forces you will receive a resounding testimony of noble service willingly given and magnificently performed.

It is my humble opinion, that in Canada itself, no organization does more real down to earth significant things for Canadian citizenship than the Salvation Army. There are maternity homes for unwed mothers and kindliness and hope for them in the hour of their greatest need. There are pleasant households for boys and girls who have been denied the guidance and the love of a mother and father. There are industrial workshops where the citizens of tomorrow are taught a useful trade. There are hostels for homeless and wandering men. There are Sunset Lodges and Eventide Homes ensuring to the aged, peace and comfort at the end of their pilgrimage. There are Fresh Air Camps to bring the health and strength of Canadian sunshine to mothers and children. In our hospitals, there you will find a kindly visitor in the well-known uniform of mercy. Where there are law courts and prisons, men and women of this Army of Peace are ready to help the fallen and the broken to stand once again in the citizenship of this land, which longs for the regeneration of all those whose early promise has been blighted by weakness or spoilt by circumstances. Every dollar which the Salvation Army receives is strictly accounted for. Monies are carefully spent for the noble objects for which they are raised. There can be no price ceilings on the works of mercy, and inflation raises the cost of the necessities of Christian charity just as it does of all the bare necessities of life. I know and these good men and women know that their generous and kindly country will not forget the purposes and ever-growing needs of their labor.

Fire Prevention Is Personal Matter

IN THESE uncertain and ominous days of unprecedented danger, fire safety must be recognized as highly important for the security of our citizens and country.

There must be developed, in all Canadians, a full awareness of the great undertaking of our country to produce all the necessary materials for the defence of democracy, and how this could be materially affected should there occur any catastrophic fire.

Fire peril consciousness is a personal "must". Fire prevention and fire protection efforts must keep pace with our production program.

That fire is "the great destroyer" is a realization born of many sad occurrences, as witness the recent fire in the Hospice St. Cunégonde, Montreal, and the loss of thirty-five lives.

In undertaking the responsibilities of adequate fire preventive measures, it must be realized that all safety endeavors are, in their broadest interpretations, co-operative projects calling for collaboration and planning by all concerned. Let us all drop the apathetic attitude that seems to govern us. Let us be more careful, as statistics prove that more fires are caused through carelessness than anything else.

According to the latest statistics fire losses in Canada for 1950 approximated $66,000,000, and these figures do not include uninsured property, which doubtless amounted to several millions.

These figures indicate the magnitude of the problem which fires represent.

Fire Prevention Week (October 7 - 13) is for the purpose of drawing the attention of the public to a great and ever present social and economic problem.

At this time of the year heating systems start to operate for the ensuing winter months. Make sure that furnaces, smoke pipes, etc., are in good condition. Eliminate all possible fire hazards in the home, store and factory.

Fire has caused many an industrial or commercial firm to close down, and workers deprived of employment, an economic waste.

Underwriters' Associations throughout Canada are constantly inspecting towns, cities, industrial plants, etc., and co-operate with Fire Chiefs and other important bodies, all with the view of reducing potential fire hazards.

Let Fire Prevention Week this year mean something; and make it a week of realization of facts.

"THINGS AN' STUFF"

WALTER HENRY JACKSON

When a farmer's well runs dry, the most natural thing for him to do is to draw his water from a neighbor's well. But if he is a right-thinking man, he will ask permission first, or at least announce his intention before helping himself.

It has recently come to my attention that at least two newspapers have found their wells running dry as far as new material is concerned. So they have been helping themselves to the verses and other bits that I have been writing each week exclusively for The Lachute Watchman. There is no law that prevents them from doing this. My efforts have never been copyrighted.

Am I burned up and angry at their publication of my material? Not at all. Imitation is the sincerest form of flattery, and I figure that if they consider my verses worth publishing, they must feel that their readers enjoy them. Anything for a laugh in these grim days, and if I can please a larger number of people, why be content with a smaller number? But just the same, I still feel that they should have obtained The Watchman's permission before helping themselves. Enough of that. Now for a laugh. . .

I recently told the following joke to a friend. After his laughter had subsided, he said: "You should send that one in to The Reader's Digest".

I can't, very well, because that's where I got it in the first place, if I remember rightly. And here it is:

It seems that a certain farmer had a talking cow. He had trained it from infancy to speak English. (The method he used is not stated). One hot evening he entered the stable with the milking-stool and a tin pail.

"Well, Bossy, how are you this evening?" the conversation began.

"I'm fine, thanks. That last lot of hay was delicious. How are you?"

"Never felt so tired in my life. Been pitching oats in the hot sun all day, and I can hardly keep awake long enough to milk you."

"Never mind. I'll give you a break just for tonight, seeing you're so tired. Just sit down on that stool and relax. Hang on tight, and I'll jump up and down."

If the originator of this story sees it in print (and also those two newspaper guys), I hope they will bawl me out for using it. Nobody gave me permission.

The summer (or did we have one?) is just about over. I will shortly leave Lost River and try reluctantly to adapt myself to city life. As a result, my contributions to The Watchman may not appear as frequently, but I want to take this opportunity to thank you for your tolerance. My well is running dry, but perhaps the snows of winter will replenish it. If you, dear reader, wish me to continue, send me some ideas from YOUR well — c/o The Lachute Watchman.

Be seein' ya!

Says New Testament Is Best Guide-Book

Police Chief of Matheson, Ont., Keeps Scriptures in His Tunic

Matheson, Ont. (CP) — A big friendly man with faith in Christianity is chief of police here. He is Tom Houldcroft, 54, and as a matter of fact, he is the entire department.

He has had four years with the Ontario Provincial Police and has a long-service medal to prove it. He wears the medal with a double tier of ribbons won while serving in the First and Second World Wars, in the first with the 18th Canadian Battalion and in the second with the R.C.A.F.

He carries, more proudly than his ribbons, a New Testament copy in his tunic. "I've found it the best guide book there", he says.

"In the case of lawbreakers", he explaims, "it isn't Christianity which has failed. They have failed Christianity."

All his years of service with the O.P.P. have been spent in northern Ontario and during that time the 6-foot 230 pounder has won respect — friendly respect — of the miners, the bushmen and the townspeople of the surrounding area.

It is his custom to address everyone from the drunk to his own friends as "Mr.". Not that he preaches to them all but, if there is a spark of response to his faith, the smiling constable is ready to assist.

A family man, Constable Houldcroft lives quietly with his wife, son, Tom Jr., 18, and daughter, Shirley Jean, 17. All this is a far cry from India where he was born and lived until the age of 14 before coming to Canada.

Guide: "We are now passing the largest brewery in the world."

Soldier: "I'm not."

FROM QUEBEC WOODS TO BROADWAY

Montreal — Two Quebec residents, Louis and Daddles, who tip the scales at more than 300 pounds each, arrived at the Canadian National Railways Express office here last week on their way to the bright lights of Broadway.

Louis and Daddles are three-year-old black bears from the northern Quebec wilderness who were purchased shortly after birth by Mr. and Mrs. Otto Burger, of New York, from Indians near Lake Kempt. They are now quite tame but too large for pets. They will make their future home in Prospect Park Zoo in New York City.

The only high-grade bituminous coal fields of the Pacific coast are on Vancouver Island.

Your Child and the Royal Visit

(Copyright)

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

The days before the visit of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip in their atmosphere of eager anticipation were a little like the days which precede Christmas. This is a very special time for Canadian boys and girls. Thoughtful parents can take advantage of their child's interest in the royal visit to deepen their child's love of country and pride in the British monarchy.

Thousands of boys and girls will catch a glimpse of the lovely twenty-five year old princess and her handsome naval husband. This is a memory they will never forget. "Ay, every inch a king" was Shakespeare's description of King Lear, and this royal couple, by their appearance and manner have called forth many favorable comments wherever they have visited.

If you have read Noel Coward's Calvacade you will remember the scene where the mother, Jane, takes her two small sons, Joe and Edward, out on the front upstairs balcony of their home to see the funeral procession of Queen Victoria. She admonishes them:

"Shhh! Now then, Joe, Edward, stand absolutely still — to attention, like father showed you. . . Five kings riding behind her."

Joe: "She must have been a very little lady."

Queen Victoria may have been little in stature but she was a truly great woman. Each in their own way, the Queen Mother, Queen Elizabeth and Princess Elizabeth have in their turn won the love and admiration of their subjects.

If your boy or girl is studying British history, the royal visit provokes a new interest in the kings and queens of other days. Encourage your child to look up the descriptions of earlier monarchs, and see how much Britain owes to outstanding rulers such as the energetic and dauntless "Queen Bess" in the stirring days of the sixteenth century.

A large map of Canada on the wall of the kitchen or living room is a good idea. Have your child trace the royal tour day by day. If you have visited in other provinces tell your child something interesting about other parts of Canada. The royal visit helps Canadians realize how vast is their own land.

Someone has called the daily newspaper "the poor man's university". But the press belongs to no one class and many fathers and mothers could use the newspapers more than they do to increase their child's store of information. Read aloud comments about the plans for Princess Elizabeth's and Prince Philip's entertainment while here. Enjoy the picture sections which are doing a splendid job in color and black and white "shots", of the royal family.

Younger boys and girls love to make a scrap book. Why not invest in a new scrap book at once in which they can paste all the pictures which attract them connected with the royal visit? Take an interest in their scrap book. Praise your child for doing a neat job in arranging the pictures. If he can print, have him print his own caption under each picture. This is something of his very own which will have sentimental value to him as the years pass.

Whenever possible, parents will make plans for their child to see the royal couple. No two people can stop at every large centre in the Dominion and so many families will travel long distances to see the Prince and Princess. There will be so much traffic on the highways, that father will take extra care to see to it that his car is in good shape and that he drives carefully. Buses and trains will be crowded and plenty of time before catching them must be planned for. Provision should be made so that a child will not be too exhausted by excitement and travel.

Throughout the Empire there has been grave concern for the King's health since his holiday in Scotland was cut short by a lung operation. But the tour of the royal visitors is following its original schedule, though set back as to actual dates. Whatever their private enxieties, the British Royalty have a fine record of being faithful in performing their public duties. John Buchan's words about the late King George on leadership also apply to our ruling sovereign:

"Leadership does not consist only in a strong man imposing his will upon others. In that sense it has no meaning for a British Sovereign. But in a far profounder sense the King has shown himself a leader, since the true task of leadership is not to put greatness into humanity, but to elicit it, since the greatness is already there. The King has led his people, for he has evoked what is best in them."

CBC News Round-up

Filling in some of the detail in the picture of Canadian and world happenings which comes to us through radio and press news reports, is the job of the nationally heard program "CBC News Round-up". Each day, spoken despatches from contributors throughout Canada and around the globe are transmitted to Toronto for editing by Norman DePoe — seen here, checking over a tape-recorded commentary — into the 15-minute show of on-the-spot reports which follows the national news bulletin every weekday on the CBC Trans-Canada network.

Shotgun "Hygiene"

If you want top performance from your shotshells this and every fall, keep your shotgun in good condition. That's the advice of gun experts in C-I-L's ammunition division.

Important points to consider, they say, are cleaning and storing. A dirty shotgun will kick your aim off centre and interfere with the true flight of the pellets. Improper storage of your shotgun during the off season may lead to corrosion of the barrel, and make the gun much harder to keep clean during the shooting season.

Before use, shotguns should be thoroughly cleaned with gun oil, using a cleaning rod or pull-through inside the barrel. This should be repeated after duck hunting in the marshes to guard against the effect of any moisture that may have been picked up.

Occasionally a gun will "lead up" in use, with gray streaks of lead being visible at the forcing cone just ahead of the chamber, and at the choke where the barrel is constricted. This lead can be removed with ordinary mercuric ointment which should be applied to the affected parts and allowed to stand for 24 hours. After the ointment has been removed, the gun should be thoroughly cleaned again with gun oil.

In preparation for storage during the off-season, the gun should be cleaned, then liberally greased with petroleum jelly. During this cleaning and greasing, plenty of rags should be used and care taken that the fingers do not touch the metal, as body acids can start corrosion which will carry on under the grease.

Guns should always be stored in a clean, cool, dry place. They should not be stored in leather cases as these tend to attract moisture, and should never be stored with their barrels plugged. Air should be allowed to circulate freely.

First Seasonal Meeting of Morin Heights Legion

(Our District Correspondent)

Morin Heights—Branch 171 of the Canadian Legion, Morin Heights, held their first winter meeting recently in the Red Cross hall, with a very good attendance. Many matters pertaining to the welfare of the Branch were discussed and settled. The Poppy Fund chairman, Comrade Edwin Holgate, made arrangements for purchase of the necessary poppies and wreaths for the Remembrance Day services, and it was decided to hold this observance in the United Church this year, and that Comrade the Rev. Dave Anderson be invited to take part if available.

A satisfactory financial statement was presented by Treasurer F. C. Cameron. The question of the rink was thoroughly discussed, and it was decided to make representations to the Council for substantial assistance this year, as the branch had maintained the rink for the past four years and had run into deficits each year, which they could not afford.

The question of a delegation to attend the rally at St. Jerome was favorably received and many promised to attend.

The veterans enjoyed light refreshments before conclusion of the evening.

SEPARATED 41 YEARS, WED AT FORT FRANCES

Fort Frances, Ont. (CP) — Tony Kamody, 59, of Pine River, Minn., has finally been married to his childhood sweetheart but it took him 41 years and the help of the Hungarian underground to do it.

Kamody, now 59, was married here recently to Mrs. Rosa Delbo, 51, who came to Canada three months ago. They hope to get permission from the American consul at Winnipeg for her to enter the United States.

The couple were separated when the 18-year-old Kamody emigated to the United States from Hungary. Years passed, during which Rosa married but Kamody remained a bachelor.

Mrs. Delbo began corresponding with Kamody after she was divorced. She accepted a proposal of marriage but found she could not leave Communist-dominated Hungary. She managed to enlist the aid of underground forces and escaped by night into Austria, later making her way to Canada.

PLENTY OF SMOKE

Welland, Ont. (CP) — Firemen called by a Crowland resident found plenty of smoke in the house, and also in the whole district. The heavy pall came from a fire in the Wainfleet marshes seven miles distant.

ROYAL NAMES

Lyn, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. Walter Charles, a Scottish war bride in this village near Brockville, says that "PEACE" is the sign for the royal visitors to Canada. She made the word from P for Philip, E for Elizabeth, A for Anne, C for Charles and E for Edinburgh.

NOVA SCOTIANS FIND WHALE INTERESTING, BUT ODOROUS

—Central Press Canadian Photos

Coming off second best in a collision with an ocean liner, this whale was washed up on Nova Scotian shores near Yarmouth. The ship, the S.S. Yarmouth, came to a dead stop, backed up, then proceeded on its way. The whale's body, on the shore, was a spectacle of interest to the inhabitants for a few days, then they found it wiser to give it plenty of air space until authorities could tow it, and its odor, far out to sea.

October Session of Morin Town Council

(Our District Correspondent)

Morin Heights — The October meeting of the Township of Morin council was held, with Mayor Chas. D. Campbell in the chair, and the secretary and the following members present: Councillors Max Baumel, R. E. Jamieson, Edwin Holgate, Edward Greer, Paul Baumel and Fernand Guenette.

The meeting opened with the usual prayer, and the mayor declared the meeting open to the public for any matters they wished to place before the Council — following the usual procedure at each meeting.

The secretary presented accounts for approval; these were adopted for payment.

The secretary also reported that the new sidewalk was proceeding satisfactorily.

Tenders were opened for the clearing of the winter roads, and after discussion it was decided this matter should be left over to an adjourned meeting, as there were many matters awaiting completion before a contract could be awarded.

The president of the Morin Heights Legion, Branch 171, was present together with members of the branch executive; he explained to the council that for years past the Legion had sponsored the public rink in the municipalitly, but that the deficit which occurred each year was too great a strain upon the finances of the branch, and that they could no longer continue to bear these costs. He asked the support of the municipality in financing this public rink, and after discussion it was decided by the council that they would take up this matter at their adjourned meeting.

The monthly reports of the Fire Chief and the Police were then presented and approved.

Roads Ass'n Considers Road Research Body

Large Quebec Delegation To Roads Convention

Ottawa — A plan for a Canadian highway research institute will be presented to the 32nd annual convention of the Canadian Good Roads Association, November 1-3 in Toronto. It is expected that the convention will take action to establish the institute, recommended by the Hardy committee which for several months has been studying Canadian road building, traffic congestion and highway safety problems.

Advance reservations indicate that more than 1,000 delegates from all parts of Canada will hear six experts on the committee who conducted the nation-wide survey. The convention will be the largest in the history of the Association, completely reorganized in 1950 to revitalize the good roads movement in Canada. The roads survey and proposed institute are the first major steps taken by the organization to modernize highways and highway transportation.

A large delegation from Quebec will be attending, headed by four provincial government officials and a prominent industrialist, who are all directors of the association. Hon. Antonio Talbot, Minister, and Arthur Bergeron, deputy minister of Roads; E. H. Gohier, chief engineer; Georges Loveille, director of the provincial publicity bureau; and W. O. Bovard, vice-president of Canada Cement Company Limited.

Highway engineers from British Columbia to Newfoundland and officials of the Trans-Canada Highway will pool their experience in dealing with shortages of materials and manpower. H. J. Siasons, newly appointed materials co-ordinator of the department of defence production, will present the federal government's point of view.

The program will feature two prominent speakers from the United States, Fred Burggraf, director of the Highway Research Bureau, and Burton W. Marsh, director of traffic engineering of the American Automobile Association.

Officers Installed in Dalesville Orange Lodge

The annual meeting of Dalesville L.O.L. No. 1453 was held on October 4, with Bro. H. Potter, Worshipful Master, presiding. After considerable general business had been disposed of, R. W. Stanley Holt, Past Grand Master of the Province of Quebec, conducted the election and installation of officers for the ensuing year, as follows: —

R.W. Bro. L. Tomalty, Worshipful Master; Bro. Roy Dixon, Deputy W.M.; R.W. Rev. Bro. G. T. Spriggs, Chaplain; Bro. Hugh Morrison, Secretary; R.W. Bro. Wm. Cooper, re-elected Treasurer, Bro. H. Note to Hunters

One carelessly discarded cigarette butt can start a raging forest fire. Eighty per cent of the forest fires in Canada are started by someone being careless . . criminally careless, with cigarettes and campfires.

Remember that when a forest burns, everybody suffers — not only the pulp and paper and lumbering companies, but also the woodland workers, mill workers, farmers, sportsmen and the community at large.

Every Canadian benefits, directly or indirectly, from the annual harvest of our forest wealth. Do your part to protect this precious heritage. Be careful when travelling through the forest.

Refrain from smoking while driving along forest roads. Even when in a clearing or beside water, watch that cigarette. Put those glowing butts out in the car ashtray. If there is no ashtray, stamp them on the floor of the car or crush them till they are cold.

"Care" is the watchword in our forests. Don't YOU start a forest fire.

Scotch Humor

An American visiting England decided it would be fun to go for a walking tour in Scotland at Christmas.

For once winter was living up to its name. The snow was coming down hard, and the American was struggling along what had once been a village lane. It was not long before he was completely lost.

Fortunately, however, he came up with an old Scot.

"Say, friend", began the American, "I guess I'm lost".

"Is there a reward oot for ye?" asked the Scot cautiously.

"Nope", said the American shortly. "What does that matter?"

"Wheel", came the slow reply, "ye're still lost".

Financial Independence Can Be Built on Instalment Plan

Very Small Down-Payment Starts You Off in Fascinating Hobby — Collecting Bonds

"Despite the high cost of living that often makes saving seem impossible, a good many people have found a way to build a solid nest-egg for the future", according to Donald Hay, Lachute manager for the Bank of Montreal.

In the course of a conversation this week on the subject of building financial independence, Mr. Hay asserted that the first requisite to saving money was to "go into debt to yourself for a definite amount, no matter how small."

"The best way I know to go about this is to sign yourself up for a Canada Savings Bond — in whatever amount you feel you can squeeze out of your income over a year—of $50, $100, $500, or $1,000 denomination."

"You can buy a bond on the instalment plan with a very small down-payment. For example, with as little as $2.50 down you can make the first payment on a $50 bond. On a $100 bond the down-payment is $5. The remaining instalments can be made on an easy, regular basis over the following 12 months."

A special feature of the 1951 issue is the high rate of interest, the B of M manager emphasized. Each bond bears 10 coupons at the rate of 3.5 per cent. The first coupon covers a period of 21 months (equal to 2 per cent per annum), due August 1, 1953. From that date, one coupon at 3.5 per cent is payable annually on August 1, until 1962. This replaces the old rate of 2.75 per cent and amounts to 3.21 per cent over the life of the bond.

Mr. Hay said that thousands of B of M customers across Canada were building up a nest-egg of Canada Savings Bonds on the instalment plan, and he extends an invitation to the residents of the Lachute district to take advantage of this plan at his office. "And", he added, "you don't gamble when you buy a Canada Savings Bond — you invest in a sure thing."

New Development in Flag-Making

The latest thing in flags — a seamless, all nylon Union Jack — is displayed by Esther Williams, 18, and Barbara Sheppard, 18, of St. Catharines, Ont. The makers, Guaranty Silk Dyeing and Finishing Co., claim the all-nylon flags, hand screen printed in one piece and specially treated for smooth airflow, will outlast any other flag on the market today by at least three to one. They are mildew-proof, rot-proof, water repellent, have fast washable colors, high tensile strength, and exceptional brightness of color. The Royal Canadian Navy, after rigid tests, has placed a sizeable order for all-nylon Ensigns for its vessels.

Late Summer Wedding

MacCallum - Simon

On Saturday, September 22, at 3.30 o'clock on the lawn at "Leawood", the home of the bride's parents, marriage vows were exchanged between Jean Elizabeth, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Gerald Simon, of this town, and Clarence Donald, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter MacCallum, of Vankleek Hill, Ont.

The bride approached on the arm of her father, to the strains of the Wedding March from the living room, played by her cousin, Miss Joyce Walker. During the signing of the register the pianist played "The Stranger of Galilee".

Miss Pearl McRae, of Harrington, was bridesmaid and Mr. Nelson Hicks, of Montreal, was best man for his cousin.

The bride wore a white floor-length dress; an appliqued treatment of lace decorated the tapering bodice, which had a high V-neckline and closed in the back with lace-covered buttons to the waist. The sleeves were long and fell in points over the hands. The skirt of net over taffeta fell in soft fulness from the tapering bodice. Her headdress of shoulder and fingertip-length veil was of tulle and had a fitting Dutch-shaped crown trimmed with brilliants. She wore pearls and carried red roses to which hung a series of white satin-covered wishbones, sent by the bride's aunt in Vancouver.

The bridesmaid wore pale green nylon. The sleeveless bodice was fitted and fastened in the front with tiny buttons to the waist. The neckline was low and rounded. She wore matching mitts and headdress, and carried Talisman roses.

The bride's mother wore a steel-grey dress with black accessories and a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. MacCallum wore a navy blue faille dress with navy and white accessories and a corsage of red roses.

For travelling the bride wore a gold-colored suit with rust accessories and a gold pin with rhinestones, a gift of the groom. Her corsage was an orchid. She carried a matching topper coat.

The couple toured the Maritimes and Eastern Townships. On their return they will reside in Vankleek Hill, Ont.

Emerson, Man. (CP) — The population of Emerson went "all out" when a $3,000 ambulance was dedicated as part of a civic program including a parade of floats, radio broadcasts, an ice show, games and dancing.

Women's Institute

Frontier W.I. members heard an interesting and instructive address by Principal F. H. J. Royal, of Lachute High School, at their meeting in Elliott's Hall on Tuesday evening. This address was an eye-opener to many who as yet had not heard of the new "Guidance" plan which is in effect at that school. The subject was explained fully by Principal Royal, and the venture is evidently proving an effective help in many ways to the pupils.

A contest followed Mr. Royal's address — the forming of a sentence, "Education is essential for advancement", from jumbled letters. Mrs. Royal was first prize winner. Three other contestants, Mrs. D. Clark, Mrs. R. Swail and Mrs. M. Wilson, tied for second place, with a number of others later handing in correct answers.

From Flour to Rolls

Once again Thanksgiving Day has passed and homemakers are preparing to use the fruits of our bountiful harvest. Primed with information from the Dominion Bureau of Statistics that grain foods are to be plentiful this year, the home economists of the Department of Agriculture hope that people will eat more grain products.

The story of flour is an old one, one that begins in the wheat field and ends in the kitchen. In between, are the careful selection of wheat varieties and the meticulous control of milling processes used to produce the fine, modern flours which are available for home baking today. Many flours besides white flour are used to make bread and each requires understanding to ensure best results. For example, whole wheat flour when used alone, makes a dough that is too sticky to knead. For this reason, this flour is usually combined with at least an equal amount of white flour. Bread made entirely of rye flour is dark and heavy because this flour fails to hold the leavening agent and of course this affects the shape of the loaf. To overcome this difficulty, a sponge is made from white flour, allowed to rise and then rye flour is added in sufficient quantities to make a dough. From our bountiful harvest Canadians have a variety of flours to choose from for baking in the home.

All Canadian women have heard and will be hearing, more and more, about the "Thrift Campaign" which is being sponsored by the National Council of Women in co-operation with the Canadian Association of Consumers. Each homemaker will be working out what economies she can practice in her home. Some will feel that they want to start by making their own bread and rolls.

There is nothing that smells so good and looks so attractive as a pan of crusty-brown, freshly baked rolls. No doubt they make one hungry just to think of them. Plain rolls either white or brown may be varied in many ways to produce a number of special ones. For instance, butterscotch rolls may be made by brushing the dough with melted fat and sprinkling it with a mixture of sugar and butter. The dough is then rolled up like a jelly roll and cut into one-inch slices. Some of the butter-sugar mixture is sprinkled on the bottom of the pan and the rolls are placed in this and baked.

An interesting flavour may be obtained by inserting a small amount of pimento process cheese or chive cream cheese in the top of each roll before it is baked. Cinnamon rolls may be made by brushing dough with melted fat and sprinkling with sugar, cinnamon and raisins. The dough is rolled as for jelly roll and cut into one-inch slices. A good trick is to use a thread for cutting instead of a knife. This will make a clean cut without denting the roll. Fruit rolls may be made by adding any variety of fruits, such as raisins or currants, to the dough.. While Good Friday seems a long way off, there is no need to save delicious hot cross buns till then. They may be served at any time during the year.

For the ambitious homemaker who wants to vary the meals from day to day, there are dozens of ways to change the shape of the home-made roll. If the family prefers a crusty finish to the rolls, they should be placed one-inch apart on a greased cookie sheet to bake. For clover leaf rolls, the dough may be shaped into small balls, each one brushed with melted fat and then three placed placed together in each muffin tin. They will bake together to give a clover leaf effect. Finger rolls are another common type. To make these, the dough is cut into small uniform pieces, shaped into balls and rolled to the desired length and thickness with the palm of the hand. Other shapes of rolls are those which are made by twisting or braiding the dough before baking.

Junior W.I. Branch At Rawdon, Que.

Another Junior Branch of the Quebec Women's Institutes is being formed at Rawdon in Montcalm County. Plans are under way for a formal opening when a suitable date can be arranged with the Junior Supervisor, Miss F. Elizabeth Campbell, who has just returned from a month's round of courses in the Gaspé peninsula and is much pleased with this latest addition to the growing number of junior branches in the province.

A total enrolment of 16 is assured and arrangements are already made for projects in sewing and leather work. The girls are also interested in dramatics and hope to present two short plays later in the season.

Permission has been granted the group to use a suitable room in the Rawdon Consolidated School for the meetings and the counsellor, Mrs. E. Purcell, secretary of Rawdon Senior W.I., through whose initiative the branch was formed, is looking forward to an active and satisfying season with this newest member of the Q.W.I.

"Bookmobile" Operating In Eastern Townships

Branches of the Quebec Women's Institutes in two sections of the province are now in a position to obtain help with their libraries. A Bookmobile, operated by the McLennan Travelling Libraries in the Eastern Townships and Chateauguay - Huntingdon, is rendering valuable assistance with these projects and would like to extend its service whereby books could be made available to every community. Operating on a regular schedule, the bookmobile is in a unique position to realize this objective if given the necessary support, and the librarian, Miss Frances Maunsell, is anxious to work with community libraries, schools, and all groups who desire good reading.

Mrs. Arthur Coates, East Angus, who represents the Q.W.I. on the Travelling Library Committee, states the committee is asking everyone to help create an interest in the Bookmobile and its service, to give helpful advice about its operation, and to consider ways that money can be raised for new books. "It is quite evident", she adds, "that opportunity is not lacking if interest can be stimulated to give it support".

Nutrition Courses, Under Lachute W.I. Auspices

Food makes a difference to health, to working efficiency, to pay envelopes, to the way you feel. Therefore those in charge of feeding a family have to be sure that the meals they serve are well balanced, appetizing and attractive. With emphasis on the importance of nutrition, the Lachute Women's Institute are sponsoring two short courses, to be given by Miss Elizabeth Campbell of Macdonald College in the Lachute High School during the third week of October.

One course is on "Vegetables and Fruits" and offers a few of the many ways in which fruits and vegetables may be cooked and served. It also includes salad making.

In the second course, "The Oven Way", meal-planning and especially the planning of oven meals, will be dealt with. Oven dishes and oven meals will be demonstrated.

Non-members of the Women's Institute are invited to attend these free courses, along with all interested members. Dates and times of the courses will be announced in the "Coming Events" column of The Watchman next week.

War Brides' Party

Montreal — Twenty-one British "war brides" from various parts of Canada with their 33 children sailed from Montreal October 10 in the first "War Brides" party organized by the Cunard Line in Canada since the war.

Booked to sail in the 14,500-ton liner Ascania, many of the British wives of former Canadian servicemen have not visited their homes in Britain since coming to Canada some years ago.

A similar party of British war brides in the United States sailed from New York last month in the Cunard vessel Queen Elizabeth.

Package Product at Plant

The idea is gaining ground among manufacturers that their products should be packaged in the sizes that people buy — dozens or half dozens instead of gross lots. "One of our main expenses", says the manager of a large department store, "is just getting an article back into its original state when it left the factory. First the factory wraps it up, then we unwrap it. Then we wrap it up again so that the customer can unwrap it. Packaging is something the factory can do a lot better and cheaper than the retailer." The idea has been adopted for glassware which is going to the customer in the original factory package. Another time-saving practice for the retailer is the pre-ticketing of goods at the factory. This is being done in the case of staple goods where prices don't fluctuate much.

High Jink

Time out for a hot lick! During rehearsals at the CBC's broadcasting studios in Toronto, the artists sometimes take a few minutes off for a session of musical fun that's not written into the script. In big studio G the camera caught an ad-libbed gambit by the brass section during a lull in rehearsals for "Time For a Song", the show featuring red-headed songstress Peggy Brooks. (Friday night at 9.30 on the CBC). That's Peggy lending an ear on the left. Comedian Dick Nelson, behind her, dropped in for a bit of fun, and he looks as if he had found it. During the winter season Dick adds to the hilarity of the "Wayne and Shuster Show", which returns to the air this month.

Parking of Buses

A complaint was before the council concerning the manner buses were parked on the public street at Mons. Ouellette's. The place was too narrow to allow buses on the streets, and one car owner had suffered damage to his auto at this point. The council reiterated that no parking of buses can be allowed on the streets at this spot.

Too Much Asphalt

Councillor Lavoie wanted to know why the appropriation for asphalting the streets had been exceeded by such a large amount, $1,900.00. The information was not forthcoming, but the Mayor expressed a hope that Mr. Cottingham would help out in the matter.

District Officers Alert to Curb Violations of Que. Game Laws

Stiff Fine Is Imposed for Illegal Fishing; Visitor Faces Proceedings in Hunting Incident

Night-Lines Set in Laurentian Lake

A party of hunters from L'Assomption, camping at Half Moon Lake near St. Michel de Wentworth, met up with law enforcement officers last week when they were charged by Game Wardens G. E. Cooke and F. Lamarche with illegal fishing. Three night-lines set in the lake, were discovered by the wardens; these were lifted and seized, also three more found in the camp, ready to be set out. The game officers imposed a "substantial fine". . . Half Moon Lake appears on the official map as Spectacle Lake.

This incident should be a timely lesson to any poachers tempted to prey on spawning beds in the lakes of this vicinity.

U.S. Hunter Charged in Shooting of Cow-Moose

Another incident illustrating the determination of local game officers to curb illegal practices, occurred this week with the arrest of a U.S. hunter by Game Warden G. E. Cooke at Lac La Carpe, on the Joliette and Berthier county line. The non-resident hunter was caught with the carcass of a cow moose; the meat and the visitor's firearms were seized by Warden Cooke, who made the trip by car and plane from Arundel to arrest the hunter. The latter had come from Washington, D.C., by private plane and took passage in another aircraft from St. Jovite to the hunting camp. He was directed to return to St: Jovite by plane, and thence was escorted by automobile to St. Jerome. He was taken to court and released on $500 bail, to appear for arraignment October 26.

Club Sees Film On 'Canadian Open'

Four new members were inducted into the Brownsburg Rotary Club at the meeting last Thursday. The induction ceremony was conducted by the immediate past-president, Stewart Jones. President John Chalmers gave a brief biography of each of the new members, namely Larry Presseault, King Amos and Barry Bourne, of Brownsburg, and John Hawes, of Lachute. The newcomers were warmly welcomed by the individual members.

After the dinner the Rotarians engaged in a singsong led by Jean Belanger, with Wes Freeland at the piano. Stewart Jones gave a report on plans for the Turkey Bingo to be held November 2, and Keith Rutherford reported on the Ladies' Night, to be held October 18. Proceeds of the bingo are to be used to further the work of the Community Park in Brownsburg.

The Rotarians were treated to a film titled "Par Excellence", this presentation was arranged by Rotarian Fred Royal. The film, showing the highlights of the Canadian Open Golf Tournament, was thoroughly enjoyed, and it is believed that the golfers present received many pointers on how to improve their golf game.

Guests at the meeting were Doug Hay, of Brownsburg, Phil Wall and Frank Knights, of Hawkesbury.

A Rotarian's Greatest Hour:

When he appreciates that he is invited to Rotary membership because of his character and standing in the community;

When he understands that Rotary privileges are his only so long as he is worthy;

When he responds to the Rotary call for "Service in Club and Community", and gives generously of his earning power and of himself to others;

When he knows that every Rotarian world-wide, is a potential, possible friendship — and does something about it;

When he is tolerant of men of every creed and race;

When he realizes that a good Rotarian is a Christian man — that no Rotarian can live victoriously and leave God out;

To do and to strive for all these things — then is a Rotarian at his best!

Annual Meeting of Teachers' Assocn.

The first annual meeting of the Argenteuil-Two Mountains Teachers' Association was held recently at the Morin Heights Intermediate School.

The meeting opened with a singsong led by Mr. S. McKyes. As there are many new members this year, all were asked to stand in turn and introduce themselves. This was followed by the chairman's remarks, the minutes of the previous meeting, and a financial report.

This first meeting was devoted primarily to business, and the following topics were discussed:

Firstly, the program for the following meetings. The second meeting is to be held in Lachute on November 23. All teachers are to be X-rayed in the afternoon, then a dinner is being provided by the Central School Board. The February meeting will be held in Brownsburg.

Secondly, the delegates' reports of the Convention were discussed. The question arose as to whether or not the Music Festival should continue. It was voted that another festival be arranged this year.

An Education Committee, with Mr. McGerrigle as chairman, was appointed to look into such things as debates, public speaking, etc., among the schools.

Numerous other items were discussed, among them being the annual track meet.

A quartet rendered their own version of several old, well known songs. The group comprised Miss J. Wickenden, Mrs. L. Armstrong, Mr. K. Amos and Mr. S. McKyes.

The meeting then adjourned and refreshments were served in the lunch room.

The National Value Of 'Textile Towns'

Winnipeg, Oct. 17 — Value of this country's hundreds of "textile towns" to the national life was stressed by George H. Carr, president, Canadian Woollen & Knit Goods Manufacturers Association, here today at the 29th annual meeting of the Association.

He outlined how small communities had developed and prospered around textile plants all over Canada, particularly in Ontario and Quebec. Textiles was a small town industry, he added, with half the 800 mills located in centres with less than 25,000 population.

Mr. Carr visualized the time when the Prairie Provinces would be dotted with textile communities, with "farmer and factory worker living comfortably side by side, contributing to the betterment of each other and both contributing to a better Canada".

Winnipeg was already a leading textile centre with 5,200 people fully employed in the industry, he said, and textiles would play an important part in the further industrialization of the smaller western communities.

In his annual report of Canadian woollen and knit goods industry business, the president said that woollen mills had been busy during the first half of 1951 but that business had dropped off alarmingly since then. "Military orders are the saving feature of what would otherwise be a very difficult situation. Nevertheless there have been lay-offs in the majority of mills".

High level of imports, government credit restrictions, panic buying that overloaded inventories following the outbreak of the Korean War, and erratic prices of raw wool on world markets were responsible for the current slowdown in mills, Mr. Carr said.

He noted that knitting mills were currently experiencing a slowdown in business and that imports were also causing some concern in that branch. Within recent months there have been large quantities of full fashioned hosiery coming into Canada from the United States, he said, and he saw this as unloading of surplus and old stock that would affect employment in domestic mills.

"Imports from low wage countries are also a problem. Japanese knitted gloves and mitts are an example. The ratio of Japanese to Canadian products in the knitted glove field rose from 5.3 per cent in 1948 to 46.9 per cent in 1949, while last year 30 per cent of the normal sales on the Canadian market were Japanese gloves."

Mr. Carr also said that the recent startling increases in the price of raw wool in New Zealand and Australia would not mean immediate higher prices for clothing bought in this country. He explained that producers bought wool throughout the season's auctions and averaged out costs through the nine to 12 months processing period between raw wool and retail sales. "Mills will work out prices to the lowest possible level".

Good Co-operation in Waste Paper Canvass

On behalf of the Lachute Boy Scouts, who accumulated a bumper collection in their waste paper canvass on Saturday, Scoutmaster Basil Riddell expresses appreciation to all those who contributed. Thanks are extended also to Watchman advertisers who gave publicity to this drive, to Wilson Motor Sales, Pollock & Graves Motors, and Geo. Y. Deacon, who loaned trucks for the day; and to Boyd's Lachute Express, who transported the paper salvage gratuitously to Montreal.

Plans Pending on P.O. Extension

Beyond the fact that an extensive enlargement is in the offing for Lachute central post-office, no definite plans have yet been made known. It is probable that the Department will take over the property of Jacques Beaudoin, N.P., west of the present post-office on Main Street, but negotiations have not been completed to date. Engineers have been surveying the lot in preparation, and it is expected an announcement will be released through Philippe Valois, M.P., as plans materialize.

Prize Distribution Satisfying Climax To the Annual Chatham School Fair

This year's activities of the Chatham School Fair were concluded last Friday evening, when prizes were distributed in the Lachute High School auditorium.

Of the 96 boys and girls who competed, 78 received prizes. Miss Joan Oswald received a special prize of $5 for the best garden.

Two trophies were donated by the Argenteuil Agricultural Society for the boy and girl receiving the highest number of points. Myrna Gaston and Ronald Bain were winners of these trophies; Stuart Armstrong made the presentations.

The pupils were congratulated by Keith Russell on the splendid work they had done and the interest they had shown. Mr. Russell also expressed the desire of the School Fair Committee that the venture should grow from year to year, and that many more parents would take an active part in its promotion.

Two film comedies were shown, which were much appreciated by the young folk, after which the evening's proceedings were brought to a close by singing the national anthem.

A MESSAGE FOR "NATIONAL IMMUNIZATION WEEK"

Alexander Calls on Parents To Have Children Immunized

Ottawa — In connection with Canada's ninth annual National Immunization Week, October 14 to 20, His Excellency the Governor General issued the following statement from Government House:

"I desire to direct the attention of the people of Canada to the importance of National Immunization Week. The object of this campaign is to impress upon everyone the importance of taking protective measures against three major menaces which threaten the children of Canada. These are: — Diphtheria, Whooping Cough and Smallpox.

"National Immunization Week, an annual event sponsored by the Health League of Canada in co-operation with official Departments of Health, to be successful, requires the co-operation particularly of parents.

"In urging this co-operation I warmly commend the Health League of Canada in its efforts to provide means whereby thousands of young Canadians, boys and girls can be safeguarded from the scourge of these diseases."

Upwards Yet

The price of a quart of milk has gone up two cents in this "neck of the woods"; it went up only one cent in Montreal. What has Montreal got that we haven't, is something we can't go into, but if it is a national top in the cost of living, there is no reason why we should try and emulate it! All the various milk dealers issued identical price boosts; in fact they came off the same duplicating machine. Isn't there an Anti-Combines Act or something that doesn't like this sort of thing? — Or do we have anyone who anti-combines combines? Might be a nice job for someone.

Free Seeds

There was a very enthusiastic meeting at Lachute High School auditorium last week, if one judges from the amount of noise engendered, when the prize-winners among the entrants to the Children's Fair were presented with their awards. The Fair was fully reported at the time, and this was the climax. Vegetable gardening seems a very futile endeavor now, but next spring we will be just as enthusiastic again in trying to produce a winning carrot, or turnip. There is always the consolation that if we don't win we can eat them! Too bad we can't sow milk plants or bread trees!

• • •

Cancer!

— The word has a dread meaning. Most of us think we can't do anything about it. In fact, we don't even like to hear about it. . . Don't be misled, we can prevent it, we can control it and we can cure it.

A committee was formed here last week for the purpose of taking this whole question of cancer out in the light and letting us know what it is all about. This Committee even proposed to help anyone suffering from the disease — so it might be useful to know who composes the committee. The honorary presidents are the county deputies; the local president is L. C. Thompson; Mrs. Harold Barber and Adrien Lacasse are the vice-presidents; secretary is Ann David and the treasurer O. Blouin. Mrs. Istvanffy is head of the Welfare Committee; King Amos in Education, with Gaston Proulx; and publicity, M. V. Trayers and G. Proulx. The medical advisory board consists of the two local doctors, Dr. A. R. Coté and Dr. J. Castanger, with Dr. L. Turcotte as consultant.

Anyone can become a member of this society by paying one dollar fee — and everyone should do just that.

• • •

He Shoots, He Scores!

Following our appeal last week for help to complete the rink, there was a generous response. There is still work to do, and anyone with a hammer and a little time is welcome — but, in addition, contributions in cash would be very welcome. There is some more lumber to be bought and fittings for the dressing rooms, so that a little cash now would be a very great help, and it would ensure more comfortable surroundings when game time rolls around . . and it won't be long now. You know "he who gives fast gives twice", and in this case it is very true.

"Back Page, Please!"

The Watchman must repeatedly refuse this request for new display advertising. Our back page is reserved largely for the "classifieds" and the theatre business — and it is a striking testimony to the value of Watchman advertising that, in both these departments, the demand for space has more than tripled in the past few years.

ARMY INVESTIGATOR PREFERS CARPENTRY

Lions Head, Ont. (CP) — Col. Edwin T. Hamilton would rather make furniture than history.

He has had his share of history-making, having taken part in assembling evidence for the trial of German war criminals after the Second World War, for the Allied Military government. In the First World War he spent four years with the Royal Flying Corps.

But his first love is the peaceful life of a designer of rustic furniture here in the Bruce peninsula. He has a small furniture and handicraft shop on No. 6 Highway on the way to the Manitoulin Island ferry. And he is quite happy to have his only contact with the city through tourists.

Morin Hts. Fire Chief Hurt in Hit-Run Mishap

(Our District Correspondent)

Morin Hts. — Henry Gillingham, local fire chief, was the victim of a hit-and-run accident Saturday morning when his milk delivery truck was sideswiped by a car on the St. Adolphe highway. Two hunters witnessed the accident and reported that the truck went over an embankment and overturned several times. They were able to get the license number of the car, which was later identified as coming from St. Sauveur.

The victim was rushed to the St. Jerome Hospital. However, his injuries were not as severe as at first indicated, and he hopes to be discharged this week.

Six Injured in Crash at Grenville

Sunday afternoon at Chantal's corner, the intersection of Routes 8 and 29 at Grenville Bay, a car and a panel truck were both badly wrecked in a collision, and six persons received medical treatment, some for severe injuries.

In the delivery vehicle coming east on Route 8, Willie Lamer, 61, the driver, sustained fractured ribs, head and foot injuries. His wife, aged 35, had a compound fracture of the right arm and lacerations of the face, while their son Joseph Elie (14) and Jacqueline Fournier (17) suffered lesser injuries. The Lamer family were Montrealers, and the girl gave her address as Cheneville, Que., All four were treated by Dr. Irwin Smith at the Notre Dame Hospital in Hawkesbury, Mr. and Mrs. Lamer being detained at the hospital for further treatment.

In the west-bound car which entered the main highway from Grenville, were Matt Campbell, 52, driver, and his brother, Donat, 45, of Pte. au Chene. Both received head injuries; the older man also suffered rib fractures, and his brother had a broken nose. Treated at the surgery of Dr. L. P. Beaudoin in Hawkesbury, they were later allowed to return home.

Traffic Officer Howard Jones, of Lachute, investigated.

Author of Article In Oct. 'Geographic'

Mrs. Eva Beckett, the former Miss Bradford, who spent her earlier years in Lachute, is author of an absorbing article in the Canadian Geographical Journal on the bird-life of northern Canada. Title of this well written article is "Wild Wings Over the Tundra", and the subject is illustrated with excellent pictures taken by the writer, who proves herself equally adept with the camera as with the pen. The former Eva Bradford, now of Fort William, has been heard as a speaker at different gatherings during her visits to the East in past years, and is well remembered by numerous friends in this town.

Says an editorial note in the October "Geographic": Eva Bradford Beckett was born at Lachute and is a graduate of Lachute Academy and Macdonald College, Quebec. For many years Mrs. Beckett has lived during the summer at Churchill, Manitoba, where she has made a special study of the birds and wild flowers. She has published many articles, illustrated by her own photographs, on the natural history of Churchill district.

Ask Three-Year Term of Office In Quebec Municipal Councils

Resolution at Union of County Councils Attended This Week by Local Delegates

Argenteuil municipal officials who attended the Union of Quebec County Councils, held Monday and Tuesday at Quebec City, were — Warden Chas. Campbell, of Morin Heights; A. Gaston Munich, Sr., of Weir, Mayor of Montcalm and an officer of the Union; Dr. R. B. Henry, Mayor of Arundel; Edward M. Jones, secretary-treasurer of the Argenteuil County Council.

Approximately 250 county authorities were present from different parts of the province. At a banquet on Monday the Hon. J.-L. Doucet, Dep. Minister of Municipal Affairs, was guest speaker, and Premier Maurice Duplessis addressed the gathering at its concluding banquet on Tuesday.

Ernest Gohier, chief engineer of the Works Department, was also a guest speaker, discussing the evolution of transport in Quebec Province over half a century.

Delegates to the Union conference resolved to ask the Provincial Government to modify certain sections of the Municipal Code, dealing chiefly with the duration of office tenure of county mayors and councillors; the putting forward of municipal candidates; and the forced selling of property owned by a party who has not paid his taxes.

The resolution concerning the tenure of office asked that county mayors and councillors be elected for a three year term, two councillors to be replaced each year.

(To municipal corporations such as Lachute, this measure would not apply, same being administered under the Cities and Towns Act of the province).

As for the presenting of candidates, the Union asked that proprietors only be given the right to present a candidate for election. At present, all electors have the right to bring forward a candidate.

The delegates also approved a resolution asking that property, sold to reimburse taxes in rural districts, be auctioned. This is the system used in towns and cities. At present the county by-law says that such property must be sold "all or in part" at a set price to cover the tax due and expenses.

Another resolution, which was studied but not adopted by delegates, stipulated that county mayors and councillors deposit a certain sum before taking on office duties.

Concert Season Starts October 25

COLUMBIA CANADIAN TRIO TO BE HEARD HERE NEXT THURSDAY

First program of the Community Concerts Association this season is announced for next Thursday, October 25, when the 600-odd membership will hear the Columbia Canadian Trio at the High School auditorium in Lachute. The affair will commence promptly at 8.30 —all members having been advised accordingly in a letter addressed recently with the season's membership cards.

Three brilliant young Canadian artists have joined their abilities to form this outstanding new trio which offers an evening of sheer enjoyment with trios, duos and solos scored for piano, violin and cello.

Joan Rowland, pianist, is a veteran of 16 orchestral engagements and a New York recital. She made her orchestral debut at the age of nine in Buffalo. Sir Ernest MacMillan introduced her to her hometown of Toronto two years later as soloist with the Toronto Symphony. Miss Rowland has concertized extensively in the United States and Canada during the past ten years.

Betty-Jean Hagen, violinist, is another lady in her early 20's whose achievements belie her years. As winner of the coveted Naumburg Award, the only Canadian so honored, she made her New York debut in November 1950. Scholarship awards to the Chicago Conservatory and to the Royal Conservatory of Music in Montreal provided her with the best of musical training.

William Hossack, cellist, like Miss Rowland, is a native of Toronto and in his early 20's. He has been studying under Cornelius Ysselstyn, the great Dutch cellist, since he was 10. While a student at the University of Toronto, Hossack was a member of the Toronto Philharmonic Orchestra. He has appeared in recital in many Canadian cities and has played both as soloist and as a member of many chamber music groups.

The trio is under the management of Mertens and Parmelee Inc., division of Columbia Artists, New York.

Fire on Main St. At St. Andrews

The old Macdonnell property, a partly-bricked residence on Main Street, St. Andrews, was completely gutted in a night-time blaze last week, between Wednesday and Thursday.

Carillon and Lachute fire equipment was called to the scene. The latter was delayed by a defective pump, but eventually three lines of hose were brought into action by the two crews. The building, however, was destroyed. Possible danger to the properties on either side — the post office to the west and the Fournier property to the east — was averted by watchful firefighters and residents.

The property had been vacant for years, but latterly workmen had been engaged putting it into shape for occupancy. The loss was only partly covered by insurance.

At the time of the last accurate count more than 5,000 Eskimos lived in the Northwest Territories, nearly 2,000 in northern Quebec and only 23 in other parts of Canada.

Toy Repair Shop By Boy Scouts

Many parents will welcome the intention of Lachute Boy Scout Troop to conduct a toy repair shop prior to the Christmas season. Through this medium many broken, discarded or outgrown toys are put into shape, repainted if necessary, and handed out to the children of less-privileged families. It is a generous effort, occupying the leisure hours of Boy Scouts in constructive work — and it is a venture in which numerous householders will be glad to help, donating toys and games from their cupboards and store-rooms.

Gifts of this kind will be gladly called for. Please telephone Basil Riddell, Scoutmaster, or notify any member of the Scout Troop.

Hunters at The Pas Get Novel Service

The Pas, Man. (CP) — A butcher who knows something about hunting and hunters offers a unique service here to shotgun toters who don't like cleaning birds.

The butcher, Jock McAree, has been looking after the messy end of hunting in this area for the last five years. He has found it quite profitable.

Seven Cree Indian women in his shop work from 11 to 12 hours a day plucking and cleaning ducks and geese that hunters bring in. Their nimble fingers fly over plump mallards or canvas-backs in record time.

In an average day they can clean and pluck 250 to 300 birds. To make the work more interesting, they hold competitions among themselves. While they work, they sing and laugh in their traditionally soft dialect.

The feathers from the birds are dropped into a small box at the feet of the Indian workers. Their sense of accuracy is almost uncanny. Not one feather can be found on the floor of the shop at the end of the day.

Birds are quick-frozen after they are cleaned and plucked. Tagged and boxed, they are kept separately in Jock's freezer until the hunter gives his instructions for shipping.

Jock started his defeathering and cleaning service after hearing complaints from hunters. His shop now caters to an average of 80 hunters a day.

He has been kept so busy that he hasn't had a chance to have a shot at the ducks, himself. But every hunter must have his day.

"I'll get my hunting when everybody else is fed up", he says.

WOULD TAP HURON

Kitchener, Ont. (CP)—Possibility of tapping Lake Huron for a future water supply for various towns will likely be given prominence in a brief to be prepared by the Kitchener Water Commission, in case wells should run short.

The $40 per month old-age pension will require $28 million a month in tax revenues in 1952, or $336 million for the year.

Watch That Target!

Now that the hunting season has opened, there is just one thought we would like to leave with all those who may be out shooting at any time this fall. It is simply this:

The way to cause the most trouble of all is to use a fellow human being as a target. The second best way of causing a lot of trouble is to use electrical equipment as a target.

Naturally, nobody deliberately uses another person as a target while hunting. On the contrary, hunting accidents in the past have made most of us extra careful to make sure we know what we are shooting at when we go hunting now. But plenty of people still get a kick out of using electric wires and insulators for target practice. They don't realize just how much trouble and inconvenience they may be bringing to many other people by scoring a bulls-eye.

An insulator cracked by a glancing shot means a voltage drop which inconveniences everybody on that circuit. A smashed insulator or a broken wire means a complete loss of power until the break is located and repaired. A "nicked" wire which doesn't break immediately but which later snaps during a storm or a cold spell means trouble to many electrical customers just at the time when loss of electricity is most serious.

Above all, of course, is the actual danger to life when a live wire trails off a pole down to the ground. In such a case, the wire should not be touched but the break should be reported immediately to the nearest power office. We gladly pay the phone charges to learn about such breaks so that the power can be shut off before somebody gets hurt.

DID YOU KNOW?

Rifle shots at wires and insulators cause hundreds of power interruptions each year. Some affect only a few people; others may mean a power shut out for several industries and hundreds of domestic customers.

To Revamp Legislation On Quebec Cooperatives

By Bernard Dufresne

Quebec, Oct. 9 (CP) — A three-man commission has been appointed to study and possibly revise Quebec legislation covering co-operative organizations.

The commission, headed by Theo Legault, Jr., Montreal notary, has been given a year to do its work, with the aim of co-ordinating into a single code various laws governing co-operatives.

Other members of the commission are Dan J. Murphy, mayor of St. Ignace de Stanbridge, in Mississquoi County, and Jean Mercier, K.C., of Quebec. Commission secretary is Francois Jobin, of Quebec.

The commission, Premier Duplessis said at his weekly press conference, will also study the problems of taxation of co-operatives, whose membership in farming areas alone is about 80,000. There are about 700 agricultural co-operatives in Quebec.

The Premier said the co-operative system is a "formula of salvation". "In Quebec", he said, "we lack a spirit of national solidarity which is necessary. The co-operative system contributes powerfully toward bringing into relief the incalculable advantage of national solidarity."

U.K. Livestock Experts In Canada This Month

Thomas Allsop, of the U.K. Ministry of Agriculture, and Angus M. Petrie, of the Department of Agriculture for Scotland, are touring Canada this month.

The main purpose of their visit is to spread the good name of United Kingdom stock. They will tour the big autumn fairs — Mr. Allsop will visit the Toronto Winter Fair, and Mr. Petrie the Ottawa Winter Fair — and be available to give authoritative information about U.K. breeds.

There has been a good deal of appreciative comment on the part of Canadians on the good done on earlier and similar tours. In his report on the 1950 tour, Mr. Allsop stated that there was potentially a larger market than at present for U.K. stock in Canada, and on the basis of his report the Ministry put certain proposals before the Breed Societies.

Handling Cows As Individuals

While formal standards of feeding farm livestock and for the calculating of food requirements for milk production have been compiled by scientists, it must still be recognized that the success or failure of feeding rests with the feeder.

It is well for whoever is doing the feeding to remember that there are many difficulties encountered in feeding dairy cattle that standards cannot decide. The individuality of the cow is a factor which standards cannot take into consideration.

Cows vary widely in the amount of food they consume for the production of milk, some requiring twice as much food for a given quantity of milk as others. Therefore the "eye" of the feeder should be the final guide in determining the quantity of feed in the ration of each cow.

Says Price Control No Friend of Farmer

Toronto — "Those few Canadians who are putting pressure on Ottawa in an attempt to revive the wartime price control experiment are no friend of the farmer", Joseph Lister Rutledge, Chairman of the Canadian Unity Council, points out.

"Fifty-three per cent of the rise in the official Cost-of-Living Index from 1939 to July of this year is due to increased food prices", said Mr. Rutledge. "As food prices are a measure of farm earnings it might appear that farmers are profiteering at the expense of other Canadians. However, the fact is that farm prices in the years 1935 to 1939 on which the Index is based were still at a depression low. Farm earnings at that time were far below the earnings of other Canadians and today the farmer's wages and the food prices that produce them are only in line with the earnings of other groups and prices of other commodities.

"Price controls will not roll back industrial wages", Mr. Rutledge noted, "and therefore will bring little in the way of general price reductions. The penalties will fall on unprocessed foods, the farmer's product. Should controls be put into effect the government would probably do as it has done before— pay the farmer less than the market value for his wheat so that we may have cheap bread, forbid the farmer to market his cattle anywhere but at home where the price may be controlled so that we may have cheaper meat. And, as in the past, subsidies will not solve the resulting problem: offsetting lower prices by the higher taxes necessary to provide the subsidies benefits no one."

Our Country on Display

AUTUMN this year, decked in its glory of color, has been a season "fit for a king", and it is happily appropriate that our Royal visitors, Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, have been able to glimpse something of Canada's splendor at this time of year.

Our country is on proud display. It is the season of "harvest home", when many farmers may relax from the pressing urgency of getting in the crops. And it is fortunate that many in the farm communities will have time to see the royal visitors.

One can hope, as the royal train travels across the Dominion, that here and there it will glide through the magic of Indian Summer; that it will encounter countrysides transformed by the first frosts into golden wonderland where autumn scents and autumn sights cast their spell.

Canadians, who know this enchantment well, are pleased that royalty can share the enjoyment of their royal season.

The Red Shield Campaign

CHAIRMAN Donald M. Hay is doing good work in extending the Salvation Army canvass through this community. Among those contacted by mail on behalf of the Red Shield Campaign, it may not be generally known that a portion of the campaign income remains here for local needs, to be administered by a local Committee on behalf of the Salvation Army. Several of these are now operating in Quebec and various individuals have been assisted and much good work done for the needy. Such a committee operates in Lachute, to meet any demand which may arise for Red Shield services.

Recipts will be mailed to donors for amounts of $1 and over.

A Dollar's Worth

IN TERMS of its pre-war buying power, the Canadian dollar is now worth about 53 cents — or, more accurately, that is what it was worth on August 1, when the cost of living index stood at 188.9.

This, of course, is an average figure. The value varies according to circumstances; specifically, it all depends on what a person buys. The current bulletin of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association values the dollar in these specific terms:

When it is used to pay the grocery bill, the 1951 dollar (as of August 1) is worth only 40 cents, compared with the pre-war species. The food sub-index, highest of all the official living-cost factors, is up to 251.4.

Today's dollar is worth 71½ cents as rent money but it will buy only 49 cents' worth of clothing. Spent on fuel and light, it's worth 67½ cents; for home furnishings and services, a fraction more than 50 cents. When building a home, it buys only 34½ cents' worth of materials. For such miscellaneous items as streetcar fares, health charges, theatre admissions and newspaper rates, it's worth an average of 69½ cents.

The value of the manufacturer's dollar has been cut even more drastically. In meeting labor costs, the employer's 1951 dollar is worth only 35½ cents. (Average hourly wages in manufacturing have risen from 41.8 cents an hour in 1935-1939 to 118.2 cents an hour on July 1, 1951). And when it comes to buying raw materials, the manufacturer finds that his dollar has shrunk to a third of its pre-war size — it's worth exactly 33 cents.

THERE isn't as much danger in a loose wheel as in a tight driver.

On Writing Letters

WE SOMETIMES wonder, if there is another square yard of polished oak more traversed by correspondence than an editor's desk! To discriminate between deserving appeals and free advertising camouflaged as news — to edit all the barely legible copy and channel it to production quarters — to pigeonhole reports and questionnaires, to be answered in that leisurely moment that never comes — these occupations fill a day that does not finish with the factory whistle.

In the current Ediphone bulletin, there is a pointed paragraph for letter writers — those who covet the attention of businessmen far less tolerant and obliging than the small-town editor. The hint may be helpful to some who read this column; here it is. . .

"The word 'executive' covers a lot of ground, because there are as many different kinds as there are different kinds of human beings. There are certain characteristics, however, that place an executive in a somewhat different prospect category from a professional man, for instance, or a home-owner, even though he may be also an executive. At home, a man has time to read and is frequently glad to read anything that looks interesting enough or important enough to command attention.

"At the office, your letter, lying in a pile as your prospect starts through the morning mail, is faced with the stiffest kind of competition for attention. The main thing to keep in mind is: say what you want to say as briefly as you can and still do justice to it; then stop."

You Think You're Fireproof?

YOU DON'T stop paying for fire insurance on your home just because you may have lived there successfully for 20 years without suffering a fire, points out "Health" magazine in an editorial. By the same token, wise parents don't neglect the immunization of their family just because they've never had a close relative or a friend's child struck down by one of the preventable diseases — diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus (lockjaw) or smallpox.

"Wise parents and their physicians may never have had a close friend or relative struck down by one of these insidious killers; but they realize that continued vigilance is imperative", declares the Health League of Canada magazine in a timely message for Immunization Week (October 14 to 20).

The effectiveness of a persistent immunization program has been demonstrated by several Canadian cities. Take Brantford, Ontario, for example. For the past 20 years the Telephone City boasts a completely clean sheet so far as diphtheria is concerned — not a single case reported since November, 1930. The last death from diphtheria in Brantford occurred in 1929. This is claimed to be a world record among cities of comparable size. Or take Toronto, with only one case and no diphtheria deaths in the three years 1948-50; and Hamilton, Ontario, with its notable achievement in prevention.

But elsewhere in Canada, despite the availability of safe and simple immunization, there were 305 deaths from 12,182 cases of whooping cough, and 49 deaths from 421 cases of diphtheria last year.

"It is clear", concludes the Health League magazine, "that the gospel of immunization must still be preached."

COMPLAINING and grumbling can become a habit and one way to kill business is to be everlastingly finding fault. Happy is the man who can be contented with his lot — observes our contemporary, The Lindsay Watchman-Warder.

The Final Curtain

He was just a blackface end-man
In our Burnt Cork Minstrel Show —
No one seemed to know his real name,
But us fellers called him Joe.
Sure, we had two other comics
Who produced some feeble smiles,
But Joe — he was terrific!
Simply laid 'em in the aisles!
Gee, he was a swell performer —
Big-time actor — all the rage,
But he shed it with his make-up.
What a different guy off-stage!
Quiet, generous, unselfish,
That was Joe in every way.
Said he had a wife in Denver
And he wrote her every day.
We wus playin' Oklahoma —
Just a tank town, one night stand
When Joe received a telegram —
I seen it in his hand.
It wus just before the night show
An' the overture wus on —
Big house — the place was crowded—
All the seats sold — every one.
Me 'n Joe shared a dressin' room —
That night he never spoke
All the time that we wus dressin'.
I said: "Say, Joe, what's the joke?"
Curtain call! — The show had started.
An' what a show that was!
Joe went on an' wowed 'em.
Applause, an' more applause.
The show wus through. The crowd filed out,
An' when I got downstairs
I seen Joe — kneelin' on the floor
Like he wus sayin' his prayers.
The telegram wus in his hand.
An' this is what it said:
"Accept our deepest sympathy —
Your loving wife is dead."
I took Joe's hand — I felt his pulse
But it was cold as ice.
He'd joined his life-long sweetheart
At the Gates of Paradise.
It wasn't suicide, my friend.
We thought so at the start.
The doctor told us what it wus —
Only a broken heart!

So if your heart is breaking
For some loved one, dead and gone,
Take a lesson from the Show Folks —
Hide your grief, and Carry On!

SIDE ROADS

When October glory glows on the hills and valley woodlands resemble Oriental rugs of blended scarlets and yellows, purples and browns, a man should leave the hard-surfaced valley roads and climb a winding high road into the hills. Away from noisy and speeding traffic that rushes man and his products from one population centre to another, there are roads that twist and amble leisurely along the shoulders and over the crests of upland ridges.

A man needs to get away occasionally from the tensions and pressures of everyday living. On the side roads in October one can relax and regain a perspective that is too often lost in the milling throngs and confusing marts of commerce. There are high places from which one can look across the valleys to distant mountains, softened by the shimmering blue haze that is a part of tenth month beauty.

The high roads in October are not commercially important, but there are those who learn as they travel the years that some of Life's greatest values do not have a price tag.

— Ottawa Farm Journal

Alec Templeton, the blind piano virtuoso, is credited with having the last word in this story.

A woman waylaid him after a radio broadcast and gushed: "Oh, Mr. Templeton, that last selection you played was divine. May I ask who was the composer?"

"Bach, madam", Templeton replied.

"Wonderful", the lady burbled, "and is he composing at present?"

"No", the pianist answered, "decomposing".

You are never forgotten."

KELLY — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, who passed away Oct. 21, 1950.—Ever remembered by her husband and family.

"God knew that she was suffering,
That the hills were hard to climb,
So he closed her weary eyelids
And whispered, "Peace be thine'.
Away in the beautiful hills of God,
By the valley of rest so fair,
Some time, some day, we know not when,
We will meet our loved one there."

KELLY — In loving memory of my dear sister, Minnie, who passed away Oct. 21, 1950. — Always remembered by her sister, Gladys.

To bring you to our minds,
The days we do not think of you,
Dear Mother, are hard to find.

Joys and sorrows, smiles and tears,
But your memory will be cherished
With the passing of the years.
Loved dearly in life and living yet
In the depths of hearts that will never forget."

"We think of her in silence,
No eye can see us weep,
A shadow rests upon our home,
We miss her smiling face.
Wherever we turn, wherever we go,
We see her vacant place.
God is good, He gives us strength
To bear our heavy Cross
He is the only one who knows
How bitter is our loss."

THOMPSON — Oswald G. In loving memory of a dear husband, who passed away Oct. 19, 1950. Ever in my thoughts — loving wife, Ellen.

"It is lonesome here without you, dear,
And sad the weary way,
For life is not the same to me
Since you were called away.
I still remember the way you looked,
The way you spoke and smiled,
And all the things you said and did
Are with me all the while.
Just how much I miss you, dear,
Only God will ever know,
For the ache is in my heart today
As just a year ago."

FOR PARENTS ONLY...

A Weekly Feature of Helpful Hints for Child Training, etc.

Parents Need Training

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

Do you question the statement, "Parents need training"? But did you ever know a man who would let an untrained mechanic attempt to repair his car or watch? What woman would leave dress goods and a pattern with a woman who had never before done any sewing? Who would employ laborers to build a house or supervise a farm or look after a machine, who had never served an apprenticeship under an expert?

Yet each year thousands of young couples become parents with no formal training in the job of educating youngsters. They are plunged into the most important work in the world with little idea of how perplexing and demanding it can be!

There is a mistaken idea either that parents need no training in their task or that wisdom comes to them naturally and inevitably when their children arrive. The fallacy of these theories is apparent when the law steps in and names a large number of juveniles as "delinquents" in their teen years.

The long waiting list for entrance into our mental institutions and the knowledge that much illness of the mind can be traced back to wrong methods used in early childhood, cannot be ignored. Parents do need help so that their children will grow up in a normal way and avoid conflict with the officers of the law or emotional instability as they reach adulthood.

There are a number of helpful books issued by the government and by publishing houses on child training. One of the best inexpensive books which comes in a "Pocket Book" paper covered edition is Dr. B. Spock's "The Common Sense Book of Baby and Child Care." "Understanding the Young Child" by W. E. Blatz, "How a Baby Grows" by Gesell, "The Parent's Manual" by Anna Wolfe, are three other outstanding readable books.

Why not ask the librarian at the public library where the books on child training are kept? Borrow the ones which appeal to you. Make notes (in one notebook in a methodical way) on the ideas which interest you. Discuss these ideas with your husband or wife when you have a few minutes of leisure in the evening after the children have gone to bed! Perhaps there is one special book you would like to own. Look over a number of issues of the magazines such as "The Parent's Magazine" on the magazine shelf at the library.

Two or three mothers who are friends may enjoy discussing the cute sayings and smart doings of their children, but wonder about a little practical help with everyday problems. What seems to work with Mary's temper tantrums may be a complete washout with Jack's explosions of anger!

Why not organize a study group and follow one of the excellent outlines for Parent Education Groups such as those prepared by the staff of the Institute of Child Study, University of Toronto, or the Extension Department University of British Columbia? There is an annual course which is especially prepared to accompany "The Parent's Magazine" which is helpful.

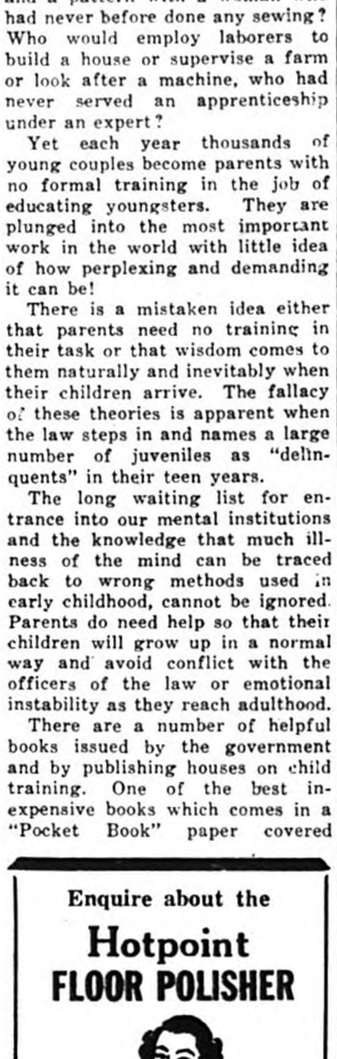

One person must be in charge of the discussion if everyone is to participate and if it is to arrive anywhere. But even in an informal group, comparing ideas and experience is useful. In an Adult Education Class you will meet new people, discover fresh theories and acquire a little more schooling in parenthood.

If parents really want to improve they can train themselves by reading, by discussion, by observation. They can find out what most children are like at the different ages. It may surprise them to see that their own standards of behavior may be much too high or a bit too low. Parents do well to remember this injunction by the poet M. G. Cole:

"I am the Child. You hold in your hand my destiny.
You determine, largely, whether I shall succeed or fail.
Give me, I pray you, those things that make for happiness.
Train me, I beg you, that I may be a blessing to the world."

Citizens' Forum Topics

"Citizens' Forum", a joint public-affairs project of the Canadian Association for Adult Education and the CBC, will return to the air this evening, October 18 — to be heard at 7.45 p.m. EST.

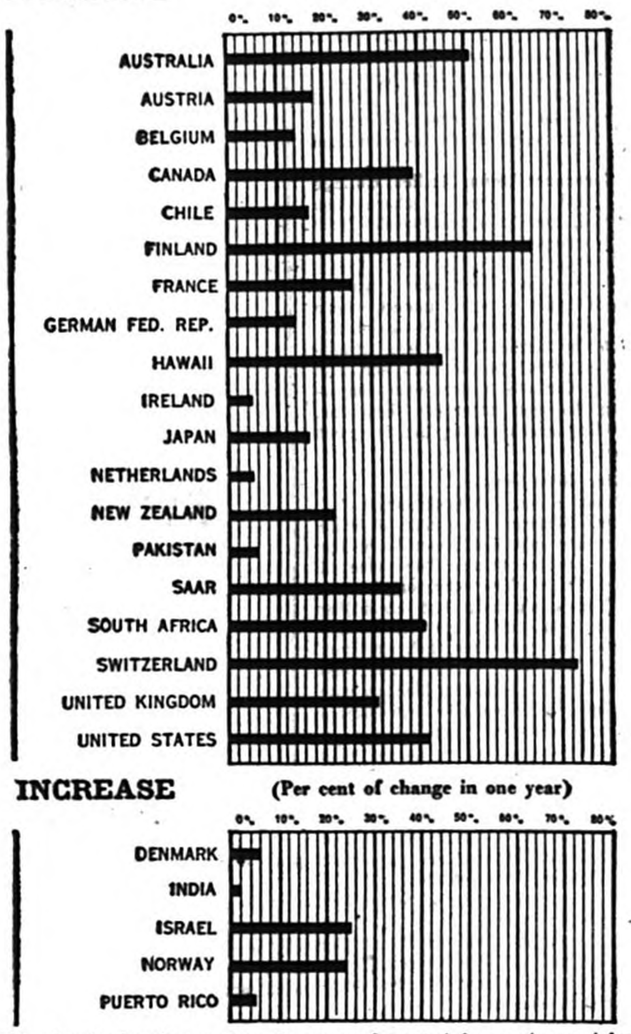

The opening forum will focus its attention on "A standard curriculum in all 10 provinces". Taking part in the discussion will be — Miss Blanche Snell, teacher of an experimental class in "core curriculum" and chairman of education studies for the Ontario Secondary Schol Teachers' Federation; N. H. Fieldhouse, dean of the faculty of Arts and Science at McGill University; and Mrs. Jean Tweed, mother of two school-age children and Home and School Association member.

On October 25 the question will be, "Are moral standards slipping?", and on November 1, "How can we get bread and milk to the consumer most cheaply?"

Last year Canadians ate an average of 15 pints of ice cream per person, three times as much as they did 10 years ago.

UNEMPLOYMENT around the world

This chart, showing a drop in unemployment in most countries, is based on data received by the International Labor Organization (ILO), one of the U.N. Specialized Agencies. The rise or fall is for May or June 1951, as compared with the same period a year ago.

The W.I. Biennial Tweedsmuir Competition

Branches of the Quebec Women's Institutes are being reminded of the next Tweedsmuir Competition. These contests, inaugurated by Lady Tweedsmuir during her stay in Canada, are conducted every biennial term of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada, with the two top entries in each province competing on a national level.

The contest consists of three sections: Village History; Essay, the topic determined at each F.W.I.C. Biennial Conference; and Handicraft. Hooked rugs have been the craft chosen for several terms in the last named section, but this year the decision was made to change this item to an appliquéd quilt. Original design is again stressed and the size is to be 80 to 90 inches in width and 108 inches long. The quilt must be newly made and a project of the entire branch.

The subject, "The Rural Home", the topic of an international essay contest sponsored by the Associated Country Women of the World, was chosen for the Tweedsmuir Competition. In this way the winning entries can be entered in the international contest.

The rules governing the compiling of the Village Histories are unchanged and dates, when all entries must be in, will be announced later. Information concerning these contests may be obtained from the Q.W.I. office, Macdonald College.

Just a Formality

The young man who had been calling frequently at last went to see Mabel's father.

"It's a mere formality, I know", he began, "but we thought it would be pleasing to you if it were observed in the usual way."

"And may I inquire", the father asked, "who suggested that asking my consent to Mabel's marriage was mere formality?"

"Mabel's mother."

Europe Competes for Titles at Winter Fair

Toronto (CP) — Grain-growers from Europe and the United States will have the odds against them this year when they try to break Canada's grasp on seed and grain world championships at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair to be held in Toronto November 13 to 21.

Canada has won five of the six world championships each year during the two years the show has been a world-wide competition. This year marks the first time Europe has entered.

The U.S. has, however, held supremacy in one field — the corn world championship — since 1949, the first year seed and grain events were opened to foreign entries. Two-time winner of the corn crown is a grower from Illinois corn belt, E. W. Doubet, of Hanna City.

Canadians have defeated the U.S. in all other fields by winning the wheat, barley, oats, potatoes and rye world's championships. Canada has also held an edge on the U.S. in events outside the world championships.

Again spearheading Canada's defence of the titles will be the powerful exhibit from Alberta. Last year, Albertans, including a 13-year-old boy, Rickey Sharpe, of Munson, who won the wheat championship, claimed 50 per cent of the world titles by winning the oats, rye and wheat classes.

Fair officials say European and American exhibits will have to be away above average in quality if they hope to stand up favorably against Canadian seed and grain. Foreign exhibitors will be faced with the prospect of competing against selections from the greatest grain crop in Canada's history.

Two new world championships, in soy beans and forage seed crops, have been added this year.

Red Polls To Be Shown

Red Poll dual-purpose cattle will be shown for the first time this year.

The Red Poll breed, originated in England, was given recognition recently by the Royal when it was agreed to set up a class for the dual-purpose cattle in which prize money will total $900.

At least 50 Red Polls will be shown. Most of the entries will come from the western provinces and Ontario.

The Red Poll, a breed similar to the dual-purpose Shorthorn, has become more popular in this country, particularly in Western Canada, since the end of the war.

Like dual-purpose Shorthorns, the Red Poll is bred for both beef and milk production. Dual-purpose cattle "pay their way" through milk production until they are marketed as beef cattle, thus overcoming some of the high overhead encountered by farmers raising beef cattle.

The Red Poll, so named because of its reddish-brown color and lack of horns, is about the same size and build as the better known dual-purpose Shorthorns.

"Beats the old team any day, Dad"

AWHILE back, he figured out just what a new tractor would do for his farm. He didn't have enough cash in the bank to handle the deal. So he talked things over with his bank manager, fair and square.

He got his bank loan — and the tractor. From now on, he expects to work more acreage, increase his farm income. Soon the bank will be repaid.

He looks to his chartered bank for market information, too, and any other banking service he may need.

Quebec Gov't Considers Town-Planning Code

Quebec, Oct. 16 (CP) — The Quebec Government is considering adoption of a town planning code for the province, Premier Duplessis announced at last week's press conference.

Acting on a suggestion made by the Union of County Councils, the government is looking into the possibility of drawing up a code which would apply to all cities and towns in the province, and all settlements bordering provincial highways.

The town-planning code will not interfere with municipal autonomy or the rights of individuals, the premier said, but he did not indicate whether such a code might be ready for the session of the Provincial Legislature opening November 7.

• • •

Premier Duplessis also announced the government approves any plan to establish a newsprint plant on the St. Lawrence north shore exclusively for European consumers. Such a plan would help overcome the world newsprint shortage, the premier said, and at the moment Canadian and European industrialists are interested in the idea.

"In Europe", he said, "and throughout the world, there is a shortage of newsprint. This shortage presents numerous disadvantages, for instance, anti-Communist publications in Europe do not have enough newsprint to meet their needs."

He dismissed other suggestions to increase newsprint production in Quebec, which now produces 51 per cent of Canada's total output. These suggestions include Sunday work and stepped up production in existing mills.

• • •

Quebec mine owners are planning to operate on a "collective ownership" basis mineral ore refineries to be built at a cost of $10,000,000, Premier Duplessis said.

The Premier said the refineries project, previously announced, "would decentralize industry in the province, and would keep the refining operation of locally mined ore within Quebec, and within Canada."

U.N. Is Six Years Old

On this date, six years ago, the Charter of the United Nations came into force. On this date U.N. reaffirms the aims of the organization, recalls its achievements and pledges to continue all efforts to realize its purposes: Collective measures against aggression, promotion of peaceful settlement of disputes, international action for economic and social progress, aid to peoples on the road to independence. These are the main avenues along which U.N. advances into its seventh year of existence. Throughout the world, in every field of human endeavor, U.N. and its affiliated agencies continue action towards the achievement of these goals of the Charter.

Twice A Refugee, Woman Missionary Returns to Korea

"People Must be Shown the Advantages of Democracy"— Dr. Florence Murray

Saskatoon (CP) — Dr. Florence Murray — twce a refugee from Korea — is going back.

She fled from the war-torn country a few hours ahead of the Communist invasion of Seoul in July 1950.

Now the medical mssionary is returning again to the country where she has served for 28 years. She was a visitor in Saskatoon en route to Vancouver and Korea.

Dr. Murray said that medical women had been given an assurance that they would be permitted to go back.

Severance Union Medical College Hospital in Seoul, where she served, has been destroyed. It is still carrying on in two sections elsewhere.

One of these sections is on the south coast refugee island where Dr. Murray hopes to be assigned.

It is difficult to get much-needed relief to the refugees, she said. Civilian relief was beginning to get attention however. Bedding and clothing are in great need.

Bitter Recollections

What about the Communists?

Dr. Murray is quite definite when she says she hopes to be far away from them, "or else I wouldn't be alive very long".

"You can't help but be bitter when you remember how they burned up your hospital, and you think of the more than 400 Christian pastors and leaders who are missing, most of them carried off and executed", she said.

"The less you have to do with them the better."

Dr. Murray has been in Korea since 1921. Before the last war she served in Northern Korea and worked for several years under the Japanese occupation.

She is firmly convinced the Far East is in revolt.

"The people must be shown the advantages of democracy: if we want to get ahead of the Communists", she said.

"MA" AND "DAD" TO EMIGRATE TO CANADA

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Squires, known affectionately to sailors all over the world as "Ma" and "Dad", have decided to weigh anchor themselves and sail away from the Flying Angel Mission to Seamen at Hull, England.

They are emigrating to Canada to join their only son, a sailor himself and a survivor of the Jervis Bay, who settled in New Brunswick after the war.

At the Flying Angel, a 17-room hotel for sailors, more than 35,000 men of all nationalities have stayed with Mr. and Mrs. Squires. Many of them have regarded Mr. Squires as their banker, their confidant and their lawyer. He has probably acted as best man at more sailors' weddings than anyone else in Britain.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

Preaching Mission At Baptist Church

A special preaching mission is to be held in Lachute Baptist Church beginning Sunday evening, October 21, at 7.30 o'clock and continuing through to Sunday, November 4 — each week night (except Saturday) at 8 o'clock and on Sundays at 11 a.m. and 7.30 p.m.

The guest preacher for this mission is Pastor Alfred Olley, gifted Bible teacher and evangelist from Ireland. A hearty invitation is extended to all to attend these services.

"Diocesan Sunday" Observance in Anglican Churches October 28

One often hears the remark that church life is quite different in the country parts as compared with the city. There is a difference — in the numbers to be dealt with; distances between churches; programs; employment; outlook — to mention only a few. But despite differences, the Church is one family, and in order to know each other better, the Anglican Church in the Diocese of Montreal arranged for an exchange of clergy between city and country on one Sunday in the Autumn. Sunday, October 28, has been chosen for this exchange, in which between 90 and 100 clergy will take part.

On this occasion the clergy have been asked to tell what is happening in the particular church and area in which they serve. So that in the country churches, some account will be given of what happens in a city parish from day to day, and the city dweller will be given some idea of what is happening in and around our rural churches. It is most important to know what is being done on the parish level, for it is from local parishes that help is drawn for larger objectives.

Foremost among these objectives is undoubtedly the need for churches in the new housing areas. Residents, as citizens, can demand certain facilities such as education and the protection of health; business and trade will provide light, heat, food and such like; and the Church must provide ministrations for the well-being of any community. As the Church is a voluntary society, its members must become acquainted with new needs and work towards their fulfilment. The fact that life goes on, and that children and youth cannot safely wait for the completion of a leisurely program, makes the provision of new churches a matter of the greatest urgency. The need for additional clergy, lay leadership, programs, etc., are other things which cause concern on a Diocesan level, and further afield in the Dominion and overseas, many things challenge attention.

The Bishop of Montreal, who is hopeful that the day will be widely observed, will speak over CJAD, Montreal, from 10.45 to 11 p.m. on Tuesday, October 23; and CFRA, Ottawa, will re-broadcast the address on Sunday evening, October 28, from 10.05 until 10.20 o'clock.

OPAL BIRTHSTONE FOR OCTOBER-BORN

The fire-flashing opal is the birthstone of persons born in October. This attractive gem has been described as having "the living fire of the ruby, the glorious purple of the amethyst and the sea-green of the emerald".

No other gem has been the centre of so much controversy and superstition as the opal, though few people today share the unfounded Victorian belief that opals are unlucky.

Moncton, N.B. (CP) — Everett Wilbur displayed the carcass of a 25-pound wildcat he encountered on the highway. Wilbur said the animal was dazed by his headlights and he grabbed it by the legs, flipping it onto the pavement and bashing its skull.

MAN RISKS DEATH FROM 26,000 VOLTS TO SAVE BURNED YOUNGSTER
Alexander "Andy" Cartner, daring T.T.C. worker of Toronto, rescues 7-year-old boy from transformer

1. Two young cousins, Raymond Frances and Jim Briden, had crawled under a fence at a Hydro transformer station off Jane Street, just north of Wilson Avenue in Toronto. Being typical boys, they were fascinated by the mysterious looking equipment. Raymond decided he was going to climb the tower. Jim, sensing the danger, warned him against it. But the boy continued his climb.

2. Raymond soon realized his mistake. At the first crossbar, 15 feet from the ground, he touched a live wire and was hurled backwards — his shirt bursting into flames. The boy's foot became jammed between two sections of steel . . . and he hung, screaming, head down! His chum's yelling attracted the attention of Cartner, who immediately raced 200 yards across a swamp to the scene.

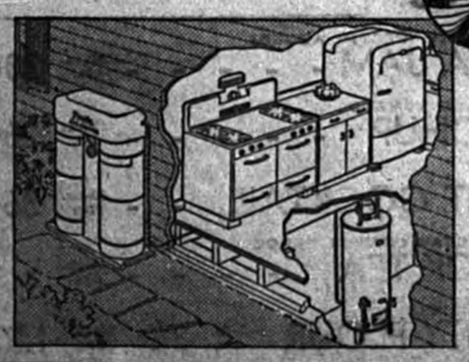

3. Cartner climbed up the transformer until he could reach the lad. Disregarding the shock he received, he risked the full voltage and twisted Raymond's foot free. Then, holding him with one arm, he slid to the ground. The boy's life was saved. We are proud to honour Andy Cartner, Toronto Transportation Commission worker, through the presentation of The Dow Award.

EDIBLE SKIN FOR FOODS

A chemical coating for foods such as turnips and cheese may soon replace paraffin since the new coating allows the food to be eaten with the "skin on" without harm to the consumer.

Known as acetostearn, the chemical is as easy to apply as paraffin, solidifies to a non-greasy flexible solid and does not crack or flake readily at low temperatures, reports C-I-L Agricultural News.

The product, developed in the U.S., is said to seal in flavors and odors, is impervious to moisture and relatively resistant to mold and bacterial attack. The chemical, or another form of it, may be used for coating candies and ice-cream bars. Cleaned poultry coated with the chemical may be removed from freezing and cooked with the skin on.

Grape Recipes

Good news is in store for the housewife who makes her own grape preserves for year-round table use. A record grape harvest in the Niagara Peninsula this autumn assures a plentiful supply of Canadian grapes at attractive prices.

Here are some popular grape recipes:

Grape Jelly

Wash, drain and place Concord grapes in a preserving kettle. Mash and heat until the juice flows freely. Strain through jelly bag and add ¾ cup sugar for each cup juice. Boil until sugar sheets from edge of spoon, from 10 to 20 minutes. Pour into sterile glasses, and when cool, cover with hot melted paraffin. Two pounds grapes makes 3 to 4 glasses of jelly.

Grape Relish

Half-peck Concord (blue) grapes, ¼ cup whole allspice, ¼ pound stick cinnamon, 1 cup grape juice, 1 cup cider vinegar, 3 pounds sugar. Let ingredients except sugar come to boil and strain. Boil for 20 minutes after adding sugar. Pour into warm, sterile glasses. This recipe is delicious with meats.

Grape Punch

Ingredients are pint of grape juice, ½ tray ice cubes, 1 cup of sugar, juice of two lemons and juice of one orange. Dilute with water, ginger ale or other beverage to suit taste.

Grape Wine Jelly

This recipe takes only eight minutes from start to finish. Ingredients are two cups of your favorite Canadian wine, 3 cups of sugar and ½ bottle liquid pectin. Measure wine into top of double boiler and add sugar. Mix well. Place over rapidly boiling water and heat 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from water and at once pour in liquid pectin. Pour quickly into glasses and paraffin. (Makes about five 6-ounce glasses). This recipe may be used with Sherry, Claret, White Table Wine or Port.

P.S. Niagara slipskin grapes are recommended in the above recipes.

Some Pumpkin!

Hallowe'en goblins can't scare radio starlet Paisley Maxwell. Ghosts have brought her luck — these particular phantoms being the ones that turned up during the summer in the radio-drama series "Ghost Stories", in which Paisley made her debut in July, just two weeks after her audition at the CBC's Toronto studios. Since then she has had roles varying from an eight-year-old boy to a dying grandmother. She wrote, produced and acted in her first play at the age of eight. In the 12 years since then she has attended Alma College, McMaster University and the Academy of Radio Arts in Toronto (where she graduated with distinction last spring and won the acting scholarship); has worked in summer stock with the Orillia players, and as announcer, disk jockey, writer, producer and actress on radio station CFOR in Orillia, her home town; and has made an unreleased film for the National Film Board.

REMOVING INK FROM WOOL

Ink spots on wool material require different treatment from those on washable fabrics, but they can be removed with careful handling, according to the Shaeffer Pen research laboratory.

First, rinse with cold water to remove as much ink as possible. If the spot is from washable ink, soak it in a cool solution of synthetic detergent and rinse again with clear water. Do not rub the spot, however, since wool fibres are temporarily weakened when wet and are subject to felting.

Ink spots from permanent-type inks may be removed by applying dilute hydrogen peroxide on white or light colored wool, or lemon juice for colored fabrics. Best results will be obtained by placing the spotted material over a small bowl and dripping the liquid through the ink spot. Use an absorbent towel to squeeze excess water from the material and allow to dry without handling.

SECOND BLOOMING

Galt, Ont. (CP) — The warm weather of early October here fooled the rose bushes. Early-June blooming bushes produced a second crop of flowers for the year.

Colorful Fall Vegetables And Tangy Cheese

Canadian cheese is among the best cheese of the world. In spite of this, out of the eleven leading cheese producing countries, Canada ranks tenth in the per capita consumption of cheese. For the benefit of the many Canadians who seem to be unfamiliar with the types of cheese made in their own country, the home economists of the Consumer Section at Ottawa tell us about some of the more popular ones.

First there is Canadian Cheddar. If cheese enthusiasts were limited to only one kind of cheese, the one they would choose would probably be Cheddar. This cheese is the type most commonly used in cooking. Canadian process cheese is made from Cheddar cheese which is ground and heated to pasteurization temperature, then poured into moulds or packages to solidify. This is usually softer and milder than Cheddar and is good for slicing, dicing and spreading.

Blue veins, marbelling the creamy white surface, characterizes the Blue-Vein Roquefort type. This would be a connoisseur's choice for a salad cheese or for serving cheese and crackers as a dessert. Camembert is a mellow cheese for mellow after-dinner talk. This semi-liquid cheese is superb with crackers, fruit and good coffee. Canadian Edam and Gouda cheese are characterized by round or spherical red coats. These mild-flavored ones are gay salad or dessert cheeses. Canadian Swiss is a nutlike cheese and is characterized by its "Eyes" or holes caused by enzyme action. It is excellent for sandwiches, salads or desserts. The subtle flavor of Oka makes this an admirable dessert cheese while the superb flavor of Limburger makes up for the many jokes about its odour.

Cheese and macaroni or spaghetti are well-known companions, but cheese and vegetables are not so frequently coupled together. The market stalls today are a panorama of color with red and green peppers, purple grapes, red apples and orange pumpkins. During National Cheese Festival month which, by the way, is this month, the home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture, suggest combining fall vegetables and cheese for economical, yet flavorful dishes.

Mrs. Homemaker can serve Brussels sprouts or cauliflower which has been dipped in cheese batter and deep fried, as a supper dish. The directions are very simple. First of all, the Brussels sprouts or pieces of cauliflower should be cooked in boiling water until tender. The batter is made by mixing ½ cup of flour, a few grains of salt and pepper and ½ teaspoon of baking powder. To this a slightly beaten egg and ¼ cup of milk are added and combined thoroughly with the flour mixture. One half cup of grated medium Cheddar cheese is then blended into the batter. The vegetable pieces are dipped into this batter and deep fried, in hot fat, until golden brown. The deep frying takes only about 3 minutes, so it is easily seen that this is a quick and simple dish to serve.

Onions or green peppers have a new appeal when they are stuffed with a cheese filling. This filling may be made by combining cheese, corn and egg; cheese, onions and bread crumbs or cheese and hard-cooked eggs.

Many restaurants and many homemakers are featuring vegetable plates and vegetable dishes these days and everyone seems to enjoy them thoroughly. Cabbage is green and crisp looking and cauliflower is exceptionally good this year and both are very plentiful. Stuffed cabbage is one dish which the home economists recommend as being particularly good. The whole head of cabbage is cut into quarters within 3 inches of the bottom. It is important not to cut right through as the head must stay intact. The cabbage is then cooked 5 minutes in boiling, salted water, cut side down, then turned over and cooked until tender, cut side up. In cooking, the cut portion tends to open up. The cabbage is then drained and the opening filled with a mixture of one part of grated cheese, to 3 parts soft bread crumbs, sautéed chopped onions, chopped parsley and salt and pepper. The stuffing should be dotted with a few small pieces of butter and sprinkled generously with cheese. This interesting-looking and interesting-tasting dish is then baked in a moderately hot oven until the stuffing is thoroughly heated through and the cheese melted, which takes about 10 minutes.

HOTEL-DIEU DE SHERBROOKE HOSPITAL - SANATORIUM
198 Bowen Sud
SHERBROOKE, QUE.

Department of Information,
Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd.,
Montreal, Que.

July 31, 1951.

Dear Sirs:

When the construction of our Hospital-Sanatorium was decided, our construction committee, in agreement with the medical authorities, ordered aluminum utensils of different types, particularly steam kettles of 20, 40 and 60 gallon capacity, to be installed in our central kitchen for the cooking of food.

During the eight years that we have been in operation, these utensils have been in constant use and we have always found them desirable for cleanliness, ease of maintenance and durability.

We believe that the preparation of food in aluminum utensils, far from being detrimental to health, is to be recommended for the above mentioned reasons.

Yours truly,

Aluminum is friendly to food....

And hospitals know it well! In this gleaming hospital kitchen, aluminum cooking utensils do a double job. They meet the highest hygienic standards because aluminum is ideal in contact with food. And they cook hospital meals more quickly because aluminum heats so evenly. Millions of Canadian homemakers, too, protect the flavour and quality of everything they cook by using aluminum utensils.

Grenville Consolidated School News

— By Willis Young —

The pupils returned to school again after the long week-end over the Teachers' Convention and Thanksgiving Day. All enjoyed the welcome holiday, but found it difficult getting back into the regular routine.

• • •

The school recently rented a film entitled, "Boys' Ranch". The objective in securing this film was to enable the youngsters to see better pictures, and not so much of the "Wild Western" type. The picture was much enjoyed.

• • •

Apple Day was held at the school recently. Big red apples were sold for five cents each, and the venture realized a considerable profit.

• • •

The school recently purchased a basket ball, and it is hoped to get this sport under way in the very near future.

Community Welfare in Many Phases Discussed at County W.I. Gathering

Education, Preparedness and Public Health

Members of the Women's Institute branches in Argenteuil County met for their semi-annual convention, in the music room of Lachute High School last Saturday afternoon.

The meeting opened with "O Canada", a recital of the Ode and the Mary Stewart Collect.. A few words of welcome were given by the county president, Mrs. C. W. P. Baugh; the county secretary, Mrs. Douglas Clark, then read the minutes of the annual meeting and of the board meeting, and called the roll.

A business session followed, during which plans were made to start an emergency fund in the county from which pupils might borrow money to assist in furthering their education.

Mrs. J. G. Lamontagne, county convener for Home Economics, read the proposed Fair List for 1952. This met with approval.

Members were encouraged to take part in a First Aid course, to be held in Lachute under the auspices of the St. John's Ambulance; this would consist of six lectures at a fee of $1.

Mrs. A. Taylor, of Lachute W.I., favored with a solo "In the Garden of Tomorrow", accompanied at the piano by Mrs. K. McOuat. Mrs. Lamontagne, also of Lachute branch, gave a very touching recitation, entitled "Flying Jim Makes His Last Leap".

It was learned that Miss Campbell and Miss Bruneau, demonstrators at Macdonald College, were to represent the W.I. as guests at the Chalet in Montreal, where a luncheon is to be held in honor of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh.

Miss Madeline Taylor, of the Canadian Cancer Society, then spoke to the gathering. As representative of the Society in Quebec, she explained how the work was divided into Sections; Lachute and Brownsburg were the two newest centres to be formed into Sections. Mrs. A. G. Leggett, of Lachute W.I., is on the local board, and Dr. L. Turcotte on the Medical Advisory Committee.

Miss Taylor asked for donations of old cotton; she exhibited some sterile packages made up from these pieces, which are sent out to cancer patients.

She explained the program of the Society, which consists of Education, Research and Welfare, and the extent to which assistance is given by the government and the Society to a cancer patient.

Mrs. Cooke, of Arundel, thanked the speaker on behalf of the Women's Institutes.

A film was then shown on the subject of cancer, and Dr. L. Turcotte, County Health Officer, gave a short talk, further stressing the need of education in this matter to safeguard against the disease. After singing the national anthem, refreshments were served in the school cafeteria.

Declare School Holiday For Next Tuesday

By decision of the Lachute Protestant School Commission at a meeting this week, it was approved that next Tuesday, October 30, be declared a holiday, to enable school children to visit Montreal during the official tour of the Royal visitors in the metropolis.

A similar declaration will probably be issued by the Catholic School Board here today.

Hunter's Car Set Fire to Bush

A stranger arriving last Thursday afternoon at Dunany, left his old-vintage car on a side-road near the Selgniory corner. The car caught fire and burned almost to a cinder — the flames spreading through dry leaves in the bush, extending over almost two acres. There was danger of a serious bush fire and a possible threat to properties. . . . However, a dozen men from the area rallied around and beat out the fire before further damage was done. The hunter was unaware of the disturbance until he returned to the spot.

(An unusual circumstance was noted by the folk around — that the stranger had no hands; he appeared well able to handle an automobile and a gun with only two stumps in place of hands.)

Show Canadian Toys

Canadian toy manufacturers will be well represented among the 600 exhibitors at the Toy Fair to be held at Harrowgate, England, January 7 to 11, 1952. This is the third fair, and it will be considerably larger than its two predecessors. Buyers from five continents will attend to view the British, Commonwealth and Continental lines side by side.

Welcome Awaits Them in Montreal

Their Royal Highnesses, Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, are due to arrive at Dorval Airport Monday, 4.30 p.m. on their official visit to Montreal, which will conclude Wednesday at 1.30 p.m. on their departure from Dorval to Washington, D.C. Above is one of the many happy, informal photographs taken in the course of their tour.

Town Population 6,151 By Recent Dominion Census

Official figure for this town in the 1951 Dominion Census gives the population of Lachute as 6,151 — showing an increase of 841 over the 1941 decennial Census (5,310).

The latest list issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics covers 534 cities, towns and incorporated villages in all provinces. Of the total number listed in the bulletin, population decreases were recorded for only 54 communities and all but eight of these were places with less than 500 population.

Striking gains are shown in a number of cities and towns between 5,000 and 10,000, particularly in Quebec. St. Jerome, as an instance, shows 17,504 population compared with 11,329 in 1941.

• • •

Town Census and Valuation

The Lachute municipal census, according to figures just compiled by the secretary-treasurer, shows the town population as 5,951 — this total being 48 less than last year.

The Dominion Census took place in June, while the civic census gives population figures taken in August-September. It is explained that the drop is understandable in view of textile mill lay-offs and other factors.

The town's property valuation roll stands at $9,964,450, compared with $4,424,450 last year — largely accounted for in higher assessments, besides property expansion evident throughout the town.

Passenger Killed, Driver Escapes as Car Plows Into Truck-Load of Lumber

At the Court House here on Wednesday evening, inquest was held on the death of Ernest Tardiff, 37-year-old bachelor, of Grenville, who was the victim of a fatal collision last Thursday between a car and a parked lumber truck just east of Lachute town limits on the St. Jerome highway.

The accident happened at 6.10 p.m. opposite the Walker residence, east of the Cemetery. Tardiff and a friend, Aurelien Sabourin, 26, of Hawkesbury, were returning from a trip to the Laurentians. The pair were in a new Chrysler car owned by Laniel Garage, Hawkesbury, with Sabourin in the driver's seat. The latter escaped with facial cuts, while Tardiff, seated beside him, suffered a fractured skull and other injuries when they crashed at considerable speed into the rear of a truck. The truck was loaded with 6,000 feet of board, and the projecting lumber literally tore the top off the sedan car. The truck, owned by J. L. Cloutier, of Ste. Agathe, was in charge of Leopold Lessard, 43. The latter and his helper, Archille Charbonneau, both of Ste. Agathe, told the jury they had halted because of engine trouble; but their vehicle was lighted front and rear, and there was a red flag suspended from the lumber at the rear, they stated. (Sabourin testified, to the contrary, that the rear of the truck was unlighted).

Following the crash, Ernest Tardiff was rushed by ambulance to the Providence Hospital, where he died an hour later. Sabourin, driver of the car, was also taken to the hospital, but was released the following morning.

Traffic Officer Albert Legault investigated—Det. Marcel Favreau, of the Homicide Squad, completing details of the enquiry. . . . The coroner, Dr. Jules Lafleur, presided over the hearing, at which a verdict of accidental death was returned by the jury. Two recommendations were added to the verdict however: 1. That the driver of the death car be deprived of his license. 2. That the traffic laws of this province include a clause to enforce the placing of flares at front and rear of trucks halted on the highways after dark.

One Dead — Automobile Wrecked

That the driver escaped, was considered a miracle. . . Ernest Tardiff, 37-year-old passenger in this crumpled auto, was killed in a collision with a lumber truck just east of Lachute last Thursday.

Hunter Finds Body of Lost Montrealer, Frank Allen, Missing Almost 12 Months

Almost a year since his disappearance at Lake Louisa, the body of Frank Barclay Allen, 72-year-old resident of Cartierville, Que., was discovered last Sunday by Rosario Richer, resident of St. Michel at the south-west extremity of the lake, who was out with a party of hunters. The body was identified by two sons of the missing man, and the case, which aroused something of a sensation in these parts, was closed with a "natural death" verdict by the coroner, Dr. Jules Lafleur.

Rozario Richer and Alex Colquhoun, of Rosemount, were deer-hunting on a ridge at the rear of Alexandre Denault's property; walking through a ravine or gully in this rise of ground about ¼-mile from the lakeshore, Richer stumbled over something which he found to be a human skull. Removing the leaves and sodden vegetation, he uncovered the body, which he immediately assumed to be that of the missing man. The authorities were notified. Det. Philippe Therriault, and Det. Alfred Gagné of the provincial police Homicide Squad, went to the scene to investigate.

Frank Allen, it is recalled, stepped out on Sunday morning, November 12, 1950, around 10 o'clock, clad in a Hudson Bay jacket and heavy boots, and carrying a rifle. He failed to return to the cottage where his family and friends were closing camp for the season. Provincial police, Army contingents from St. Johns, Que., and neighboring residents carried on the search for two or three weeks, but there was no trace of the missing man. It is now believed that he dropped with a heart seizure, and the search parties, travelling farther afield with walkie-talkie equipment and loudspeakers, overlooked this area so near to the point of his departure.

The man's rifle was missing, but there were valuables on his person, and no indication in the grim discovery pointing to foul play. The position of the body suggested plainly that Mr. Allen had suffered a seizure of illness while in the bush.

Private funeral rites were held here at the Menard Funeral Parlors on Wednesday, and burial was made in Lachute Cemetery.

Boy Scouts Visited By Commissioner

John MacGregor, Provincial Field Commissioner of the Boy Scout Association with headquarters in Montreal, visited the 1st Lachute Troop last Thursday evening. The Commissioner inspected the local Troop and stated he was well pleased with the progress being made under the leadership of Scoutmaster Basil Riddell and Assistant Scoutmaster Fred Stansfield. Following the inspection the visiting official assisted those Scouts who were working on the First Aid section of the Second Class Badge.

At this same meeting, Bobby Todd passed his Tenderfoot badge and was invested into the Wolf Patrol, as a member of the 1st Lachute Troop.

Commissioner MacGregor later met some of the officials of the local Group Committee.

Catholic Bishop To Visit B'burg Saturday, Sunday

Changes in Diocese Administration

Brownsburg — For some time past the administration of Catholic Church affairs in this district had been overtaxing the facilities available at Ottawa. The ever-increasing number of new parishes springing up in the Ottawa Valley, and the enlarged activities in the older ones, called for greater attention within the jurisdiction of Archbishop Vachon's territory. Something similar was happening in the Montreal diocese, within which church affairs for Lachute parish were administered. The City of Montreal called for such an enlargement of facilities to cope with its administration, that it was feared the outlying districts were being neglected, and that the diversity of the law governing the city as compared with rural parishes was possibly reacting to the disadvantage of the rural areas.

To meet this situation the church hierarchy created a new diocese under the jurisdiction of Monsignor Emilien Frenette at St. Jerome, who was elevated to the office of Bishop over a territory extending from St. Hermas to Pointe au Chene along the Ottawa, and north to St. Jerome, including both Brownsburg and Lachute, which had previously been in different dioceses.

His Lordship Bishop Frenette makes his first visit to Brownsburg since his elevation last month, on Saturday and Sunday, October 27-28. During this, his official episcopal visit, Bishop Frenette will administer the sacrament of confirmation to a number of children at the St. Louis de France Church, for which a long period of preparation was conducted at the convent schools of the Sisters of the Holy Cross, and under tuition of the Rev. Paul Monseau. To welcome His Lordship at the Presbytery with Rev. Father Bouchard, P.P., and his curates, Fr. Monseau and Fr. Coursol, will be the chairman and councillors of the Municipal Council, the Catholic School Commissioners, the Knights of Columbus, the Ladies of St. Ann, members of Lacordaire, and the large gathering of parishioners.

THE OLD SPIRAL

The Trades and Labor Congress convention was an interesting example of confused economic thinking. The delegates clamor for lower prices, roll-back prices, controlled prices, and subsidized prices, then in the next breath demand those very things which put prices up and keep them up.

Community Rink Nearing Completion

Money and Manpower Still Needed in Brownsburg Enterprise

Work on the Brownsburg Community Rink is progressing. The main roof is now completed, and since these pictures, the rear end has been boarded in. In the past week volunteers have been closing-in the roof of the front and side projections.

In the lower snapshot four volunteer carpenters (Bill Petley, Garth Hazel, Bill Tessier and Roland Hebert) are seen at work on the extensive area of siding.

More volunteer labor is needed to complete this big job in time for the winter season. With this concrete evidence of progress, the campaign for funds is meeting a more enthusiastic response. The committee solicits more pledges, however, to keep abreast of expenses. Citizens who have not yet been called upon are urged to pledge their financial support, by communicating with the Brownsburg Rink Committee.

Sightless Speaker Tells Inspiring Story Of Triumphs in Overcoming Handicaps

Lions Club Holds Interesting Session

Around 50 members and guests at the Lions Club on Tuesday evening, heard a really inspiring talk on rehabilitation work among the blind. The speaker was L. A. McClintock, Field Supervisor for Quebec Division, Canadian National Institute for the Blind. . .

Newspapermen are apt to be carried away by sentiment in reporting the achievements of blind musicians or performers, the speaker commented at one point in his address. But to state, on this occasion, that the audience was indelibly impressed by this sightless campaigner, is no exaggeration whatever. The topic was "The Blind and their Problems". In describing the functions of the Institute which he represents, Mr. McClintock told not only of its rehabilitation work (in which he cited several outstanding cases), but also of its program in education and prevention, including surgical and medical aid. Mr. McClintock's mission as Quebec fieldman is to foster the formation of a "district" committee west of Montreal to embrace Argenteuil and Two Mountains — which area is at present affiliated with Vaudreuil, Soulanges and elsewhere, and administered from Valleyfield.

Mr. McClintock, who lost his sight and his right hand in a dynamite acident, is a challenging example of triumph over handicap. He attended school at the Montreal Association of the Blind, proceeding to High School and graduating on a provincial scholarship to McGill, where he studied Economics and Political Science. Graduating with honors, he then entered the Law faculty and qualified in the Provincial Bar examinations. He practiced as a lawyer and served as rehabilitation officer with the Aluminum Company of Canada, before joining the staff of the Canadian Institute of the Blind. A member of Montreal Rotary and various other organizations, he is at ease as a public speaker, and carries his message with sincere conviction.

The visitor was introduced by Edward M. Jones, and thanked by Gordon McOuat, who on behalf of his fellow Lions gave assurance of the club's warm support in any organization here on behalf of the Institute for the Blind.

President Ralph FitzGerald was chairman of this full and interesting session, during which a discussion on the design of a proposed Canadian flag gave every promise of a full-dress debate. Opinions were voiced with such divergence, it became evident that nearly all were sincerely interested, and the discussion was curtailed through lack of time. Police Chief Donat Villeneuve produced a novel contest from his bag of tricks, in the role of Tail Twister. (Net proceeds for the exchequer were $8.21.) André Lefebvre reported Lion N. W. Boyd's team still leaders in the attendance race. Jas. Lowe was the efficient program chairman.

As "Lion of the Day", Dr. R. A. Dumais was accorded the honors as a successful citizen in the professional life of this town — president of the Chambre de Commerce, past-president and an active worker in the Lions Club, and a former town councillor. Lion Phil Roy, as spokesman, paid tribute to this highly creditable record.

Hear Trend Tonight Of British Election

Canadians will have a fair chance of hearing the outcome of the British election before going to bed tonight, October 25 — whereas the U.K. voters themselves are unlikely to learn the results before breakfast-time tomorrow, because of the five-hour time difference.

So that listeners here may benefit from this natural advantage, CBC will broadcast on its Trans-Canada and Dominion networks half-hourly election bulletins, starting at 7.30 p.m. EST. If the counting of votes in the urban areas shows a decisive trend the outcome may be indicated late in the evening. Otherwise, Canada as well as the U.K. will have to wait until the rural returns come in the following day.

This evening, after the national news bulletin at 10.00 o'clock on Trans-Canada and after the Dominion network news bulletin at 11.00 p.m., commentaries on the election will be relayed direct from London with up-to-the-minute reports on the trend.

Accident at Grenville Bay

Omer Thomas, 53, of Kilmar, suffered a fractured knee cap and $600 damage to his car last Friday afternoon at Grenville Bay, near the intersection of Route 29 with the Montreal-Hull highway. A soft-drink truck operated by Roland Desjardins, Lachute, had been parked at the left of the highway to serve a restaurant at this point, and the driver, resuming his trip toward Calumet, was proceeding onto the right side of the road. About this time the Kilmar car approached from the opposite direction, and the driver swerved to his right to avoid the truck; in doing so, he took the ditch and struck a tree.

Mr. Thomas was taken to the Notre Dame Hospital at Hawkesbury. Receiving medical attention from Dr. C. E. Lafrance, he was later transferred to a Montreal hospital. . . The accident was investigated by Traffic Officer Albt. Legault.

Good Sleuthing in Recovery of $3,600 Stolen Money

A local restaurant proprietress was robbed of $3,600 in a cash box at her home last week. The incident occurred in the night between Tuesday and Wednesday, and almost the entire loot, $3,520, was recovered through determined efforts of the police. On Friday the culprit pleaded guilty at St. Jerome court, and was sentenced to six months in jail.

Names are irrelevant in this case. The guilty man was a Montrealer, a "friend of the family" who had access to the home and knew where the householder kept her money. His arrest is to the credit of Chief D. Villeneuve and Det. Philippe Therriault, to whom he referred the investigation. Together they followed up every clue, tracing the culprit to Montreal and to St. Basile, 50 miles east of the city, where they made two trips, without sleeping a wink between Wednesday morning (when the theft was reported) and the court hearing Friday afternoon, when the prisoner pleaded guilty.

Finding the police on his trail, the thief — a man of responsible position — meanwhile took steps to advise the lady by telephone, to watch for a parcel in the mail. The package was received — a cornflakes box wrapped in brown paper, containing $3,000 in bills; the parcel was neither registered nor insured. Det. Therriault and Chief Villeneuve questioned the suspect at Montreal provincial headquarters, where he finally broke down and confessed where he had hidden the remaining cash. This was recovered, all but $80, from the man's home in St. Basile, Que.

Gatineau LINES

Avoiding Tree Trouble

The fall months provide an excellent opportunity to locate and correct tree conditions which otherwise might bring about power troubles during the winter. In one way or another, trees cause more power disruptions than anything else, and the electric company is always glad to get reports from customers about trees or branches which look as though they may fall across or rub against the lines.

Dead or broken branches which fall across lines cause short circuits and blown fuses. Wet branches rubbing against lines bring voltage fluctuations and radio interference. Both can be eliminated by making sure that dangerously-close trees or branches are removed — and the fall is a good time to have the work done because many a tree which looks sound enough when the leaves are on may turn out to have dead and rotting branches in the fall.

When a customer sees a tree or branch which looks as though it may cause trouble, particularly along the line running into his own premises, it is best to call the power company rather than attempt to do the work alone. Many power interruptions occur when customers attempt their own tree removal along electric lines instead of calling in the thoroughly trained crews of the power company to guard against trouble.

The things to look for most are dying trees or dead branches close to the lines. The next most serious cause of power trouble is the healthy branch which overhangs a line. Such a branch may appear to have plenty of clearance above the line in the summer, but it may well bend down to sweep across the line when it is weighed down by a heavy coating of ice or wet snow.

The fight of a power company against the trouble caused by trees is a never-ending one in which the help of the customer frequently means improved service to that customer.

Federal - Provincial Agricultural Conf'ce

Ottawa — The Annual Federal-Provincial Agricultural Conference will open in Ottawa on Tuesday, December 4, it is announced by the Rt. Hon. James G. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture. Sessions will last three days, December 4, 5 and 6, and will be held in the Railway Committee Room of the House of Commons under the chairmanship of Mr. A. M. Shaw, Chairman, Agricultural Prices Support Board.

As in other years, representatives of the Federal and Provincial Departments of Agriculture and of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture will meet to review the past year and discuss possibilities for the coming one.

From Sickles to Scythes

The simple step of replacing sickles with scythes can in many places represent a hundred years of advancement. In mountainous areas such as parts of Afghanistan, elaborate machines are unusable, but hay may be efficiently mowed with scythes instead of small sickles on steep slopes. Encouraged by two FAO experts, the farmers of Afghanistan are gradually changing over to scythes and beginning to use improved hand tools such as garden hoes, spades and forks. Indirectly, this change is helping the ancient Austrian handtool industry to revive some of its former prosperity; arrangements have been made with the Austrian government to provide two experts in small implements, and they have been sent to Afghanistan by FAO.

Using Spoiled and Inferior Feed

The prospects are for an abundant livestock feed supply in Canada, although of inferior quality, following poor weather conditions at harvest time. The same is true in the United States where more hay per hay-eating animal unit will be available than ever before. Of feed concentrates, specialists in Washington report a supply 6 to 10 per cent less per animal than during the last three years, but about that much more than the average before the War.

The problem will be to make the most efficient use of the feed on hand, whatever the quality. Sound wheat and coarse grains make excellent feed. But what of unsound grains, smutted grains or rusted roughages? Do they constitue a danger to livestock? What is their nutritive value?

According to a release issued by the Experimental Station at Swift Current, Sask., smutted grains or rusted roughages are not injurious to livestock. Ergoty grain, on the other hand, is harmful and should not be fed if the ergot bodies make up one-tenth of one per cent of the grain.

Sprouted grain is a good feed, entirely without danger to livestock. Its feeding value being lower than that of similar unsprouted grain, it is necessary to increase the amount fed to obtain good results.

Considerable roughage will be of inferior quality. Hay that has been in the field during a series of rains totalling two inches or more may lose up to 25 per cent of its dry matter containing as high as 50 per cent of the proteins. Practically all of the Vitamin A will also be lost. If this type of hay must be fed, it will be necessary to feed some form of protein supplement if good results are to be obtained. Hay crops that have heated slightly in the stack will not necessarily be harmful. Again, however, some of the nutrients have been lost and additional amounts will be necessary to give the same results as sound hay. Extremely musty or dusty roughage should be avoided.

Purchased Canadian Wheat

The wheat crop in Colombia suffered severely during 1950, necessitating the importation of some 55,000 metric tons, all of which came from Canada, as compared with approximately 20,000 tons in previous years.

New Alfalfa

Swift Current, Sask. (CP) — Dave Heinricks, young scientist at the Dominion experimental station here, currently is working on a variety of creeping rooted alfalfa which he believes may be drought-resistant.

Turkey Population

August 1 estimates place the number of turkeys on farms in the Prairie Provinces at 1,410,000, Ontario 840,000, Quebec 700,000, British Columbia 300,000 and the Maritime Provinces 120,000.

MEMBER AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS

The Rural Scene

WE HAVE repeatedly urged upon rural dwellers the marking of their properties, as a friendly self-identification to passers-by. Our suggestion has been primarily a utility measure, in the painting of mail-boxes in clear and legible letters. . . The weekly High River Times now strikes a more hopeful and ambitious note, with the following comment:

"One of the pleasant experiences in travelling the countryside is to come on a farm with its name proudly arched over the front gate. It may be because the custom is so rare that such farms stand out as noteworthy. They are not necessarily more pretentious than their neighbors, but they have the personality which comes to everything loved and appreciated."

Make Handicrafts Count

THERE'S only one good way to meet tourists' demand for authentic regional souvenirs. It is for the residents of those regions to get busy and make them.

Already the way has been shown by the community of Tobermory, a settlement at the tip of the Bruce Peninsula in Ontario's Georgian Bay district. With winter coming on, its citizens are preparing for a busy season of turning out handiwork they can readily sell to visitors next summer.

Tobermory entered the tourist souvenir business partly because its traditional means of livelihood — fishing, farming and lumbering — have been on the wane in recent years and partly because someone was smart enough to realize the possibilities of the sale of crafts. About 50,000 tourists visit the little port each year or pass through it on their way to vacation spots on Manitoulin Island.

The 350 year-round residents asked the Ontario Education Department for guidance. The department sent in handicraft instructors to size up the possibilities and to train citizens in making the souvenirs. Now women weave plaid in Tobermory's official tartan and both men and women turn out hand-made jewelry and leather work.

Sales last summer were so good that 394 Tobermory handicrafts were exchanged for tourist dollars. The project is to be expanded by next season.

The lesson of Tobermory is that regional souvenirs are eagerly sought after by tourists if they are well-made and reasonably priced. They easily outsell the standardized mementoes, often imported and distinctive only for having the name of a locality painted on them.

Tobermory has its tartan. The L. M. Montgomery "Green Gables" house at Cavendish, P.E.I., offers salt-and-pepper shakers in the shape of potatoes fashioned from red clay. Quebec villages tempt travellers with wood-carvings or gay homespuns.

The report of the Massey Commission on Arts and Sciences suggested that steps be taken to preserve Indian handicraft skills. A community project might include district Indian work.

Canadian souvenirs? Why, sure. They can be produced in any district whose residents develop their skill and imagination.

Accent on Courtesy

MAYBE the story about the woman who stood up in a streetcar to give her seat to a man should be one for the joke-books. But this particular bit of humor happens to be true.

The woman stood up and moved to let the man sit down — a frail old fellow who looked as if he needed a rest. Then a plump, healthy-looking matron skidded past him and into the seat.

It doesn't always hold that the accepted custom represents good manners. Here was a conventional situation reversed. A woman got up to give a man her seat. She thought he needed it. Then, along came another woman, perfectly capable of standing for a few blocks, who saw an empty seat and grabbed it. She thought as she was a woman she had first title to any seats in the car.

Doesn't courtesy mean thoughtfulness in relation to the people one meets? And shouldn't common-sense and friendliness play a part?

That's where small-town folk and residents of the rural areas have an advantage over city-dwellers. Considerateness is their guide to happy living. And friendliness, too. For instance, getting to know one's next-door neighbors is as important a part of living as going to church on Sunday. And there are few families on adjoining farms that haven't developed a good-neighbor policy, co-operative style. The women folk work hand-in-hand when there's a job to be done. The men work together at harvest.

Perhaps the fact that farm families constantly are battling a common enemy — the elements — is one reason their lives are linked more intimately than one finds usual among city folk.

But then the urbanites may be partially excused on the ground that they live faster, more confined lives. Their existence is hemmed in by the alarm-clock in the morning and the factory-whistle at night. Sometimes they never even learn the names of their next-door neighbors. Manners are swallowed up in the race to make a living.

Certainly rural folk live at a more leisurely pace. They never have to jockey for position on crowded street-cars, nor pay studied attention to a custom which demands a man must give a woman his seat. Neighborliness is their key to happiness and common-sense their guide.

A TAXPAYER is a government worker with no sick leaves, no holidays, no vacations.

ADVERTISING is sort of like a man journeying through life. Just like the man, advertising accomplishes little without persistence.

I never care how the story finished
As to the floor it starts to coast —

United Nations Day

(Contributed)

October 24 was United Nations Day. It is just six years since the Charter of United Nations came into force. On the 24th, the United Nations reaffirmed the aims of their organization and pledged to combine their efforts to realize the purposes of their organization.

Their objectives are the greatest good of all mankind; to maintain peace and security, taking collective action when necessary and using every means to settle international differences peacefully; to develop friendly relations between nations based on their equality and self-determination; to co-operate in economic, social, cultural and humanitarian progress; and to serve as the world centre for harmonizing the actions of nations to achieve those ends.

The United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund combines the efforts of the peoples of the world to alleviate suffering among children without discrimination because of race, creed, nationality, status or political belief.

This great international humanitarian endeavor was widely celebrated in connection with United Nations Day. Since the conciliation between Indonesia and the Netherlands, in which United Nations had a part, Indonesia has become a member of the United Nations.

Because of the efforts of the United Nations, more children in New Guinea are learning to read and write. More doctors are fighting tropical diseases in Tanganyika. The islanders of Western Samoa have been given a larger voice in their political affairs. . .

These are just a few of the projects of United Nations, and they are still busily engaged with many things for the betterment of the nations of the world and its peace.

All essays will be judged by a special committee and two winners selected, one from the group of adult entries and the other from school entries.

Raise 23,000 Birds on Huge Turkey Farm

Vancouver (CP) — Twenty-three thousand turkeys are being raised for festive tables in Canada's biggest turkey farm near here.

Tom Lapierre and his two sons, Ralph and Harvey, are raising these broad-breasted Bronze turkeys on their 680 acre farm near the international boundary.

The birds will gross the Lapierres $200,000 this year plus another $100,000 when the family firm hatches and sells another 125,000 turkey poults for British Columbia and prairie feeders.

However, at 10 tons of feed a day the turkeys will gobble up just about half of that $300,000.

The Lapierres don't believe in raising their flocks in confinement and on high platforms. They put them on the wide-open ranges with enough land so that they can move about freely and escape danger of costly infection friom polluted ground.

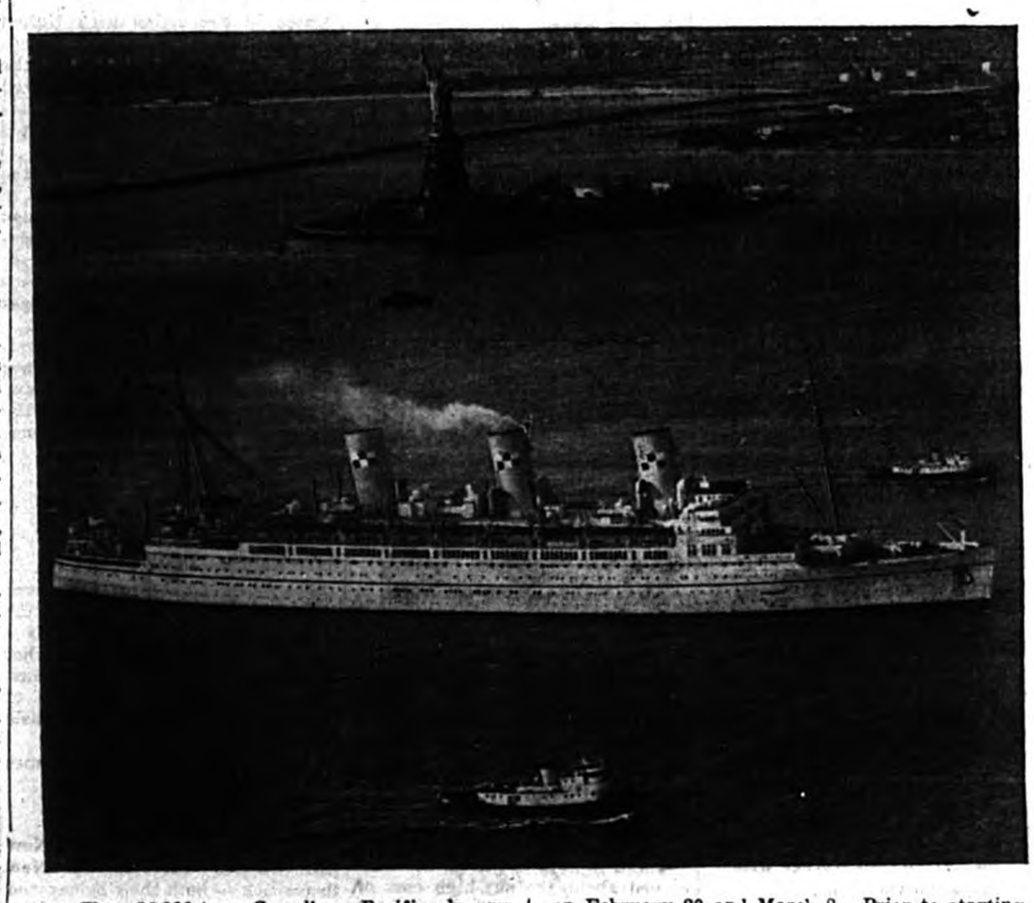

The turkeys, in bands of 5,000, roam at will on 50-acre fields. The landscape is black with them.

Their biggest enemies are foxes and thieves. The Lapierres hunt foxes in the early hours of the morning with foxhounds.

The poachers are learning that the Lapierres are good shots.

Canadians used four per cent more sugar in 1950 than they did in 1949.

Prior to starting her cruise season, the white-hulled flagship will have the honor of carrying Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh back to England following their tour of Canada. New ports of call in the Virgin Islands and Barados have been added to this year's cruise itineraries.

Gatineau Power to Seek Rate Increase

Ottawa (CP) — G. Gordon Gale, president of the Gatineau Power Company, indicated last Saturday that the company soon will seek authority to increase its consumer rates.

In a speech to a dinner commemorating the 25th anniversary of the company, Mr. Gale said the time has come when the rates should be increased. The company serves about 68,000 consumers in Western Quebec.

"There has never been any general increase in the rate schedules throughout this whole quarter century, notwithstanding the overwhelming increases in the cost of construction, operation and maintenance", said Mr. Gale.

Any increase would require approval of the Quebec Electricity Board. But, said Mr. Gale, there was hope that the company's application would be given prompt approval.

Preparations for Hallowe'en

— By NANCY CLEAVER —

"What can I wear on Hallowe'en?" How many mothers will hear this urgent question during the last week in October!

There may be requests for specific articles — that old bonnet of granny's with the feathers, the sailor pants, the long black gloves, the tunic which was dyed green for the play — quite a number of children have definite ideas about what they want to "be" and what costumes they would like to wear.

"Dressing" up is lots of fun for youngsters. Big and little, they love to pretend they are someone else. Hallowe'en provides the Big Occasion of the year for masquerade costumes. The good times getting ready to sally forth almost equal the excitement of the night itself!

Busy mothers may not be nearly so enthusiastic about these activities. But it is a pity not to set aside other jobs, and enjoy Hallowe'en with the boys and girls. The years pass swiftly, and before very long there will be no small daughter in your home hunting for a broom for a witch, or a little boy looking for a pillow for a clown's tummy, or a blackened cork to paint his face.

A costume box or an old trunk where odds and ends are kept which might come in handy for dressing up, is a great "time saver", scarves, gloves, shoes, artificial flowers, ribbons, feathers, which might otherwise be thrown out at housecleaning time, may well be collected in one place where they can be found quickly.

A Costume Box is real treasure for rainy Saturday afternoons when the children want to put on their own pantomime or play. It saves time and energy searching through the house for articles for them to wear. Dressing up is such fun it shouldn't just be confined to October 31!

Older school age boys and girls may want material of a special shade — as bright red for a gypsy costume. Why not look out an old dress, rip it apart and let your boy or girl experiment with dyeing? The directions for dyeing on the package are very simple and the cost is small. Knowing how to dye material is a useful bit of knowledge. Old shoes painted with enamel paint make a smart addition to a costume and this is a job which a boy or girl will enjoy too.

If your daughter wants to design and sew her own costume, encourage her to go ahead. The results may not be quite as artistic as you could have achieved, but it will be her own production. If she is keen about following a "store pattern", here too is a way in which she can add to her own knowledge and skill.

A coating of cold cream before rouge or blacking is applied to the skin helps speed up its removal. Some parents will not allow their youngsters to color their faces — but Hallowe'en just comes once a year and the clean-up job doesn't need to be too trying.

Masks of all kinds and descriptions are sold at Hallowe'en time. The new grotesque over-all rubber masks which are pulled over the head are quite popular.

Older boys or girls who have enjoyed a papier maché handcraft project may want to mould their own papier maché mask. This requires time and patience, but the original product is often worthwhile.

Little folk will enjoy making a face on a large, clean paper bag which they can pull on too. Mother should help locate the places for the eyes, nose and mouth. (Be sure blunt scissors are used whenever small children are cutting out!) Make the holes plenty large enough to allow for lots of fresh air.

Crayons and water colors are essential play material for preschool children. Paper masks give them lots of scope to color hair, complexion, eyes, mouth, etc., whatever shades they like.

As parents watch their children getting ready for Hallowe'en — they are reminded of the satisfaction in making things with one's own hands as well as the importance of imagination.

Far too soon most people lose the urge to "make believe". Amateur dramatics have a comparatively small following. The good times children help to create for themselves have far more character value than passive "spectator" recreation — so here's to Hallowe'en preparations!

With his hand cupped behind his ear, to hear the sound of his voice more clearly, CBC newscaster Earl Cameron reads the National News Bulletin from Toronto. He started in radio 12 years ago at Moose Jaw, first as an operator, and later as announcer, writer, and commercial manager. He joined the CBC in 1944, and has been announcing the news ever since.

In its 33 centuries, the City of Jerusalem has endured more than 20 seiges and blockades.

Canada's National Platform

Citizens' Forum broadcasts were resumed by the CBC October 18. The subject of the first broadcast was, "A Standard Curriculum in all ten Provinces".

Citizens' Forum is a discussion of contemporary problems by qualified persons, which starts around the microphone and continues in discussion groups meeting in homes across Canada. All speakers are completely free to say what they believe, and when they finish the listeners take it from there and come to their own conclusions. These opinions are reported by the group secretary to the provincial office to be summarized, and form part of the next broadcast as Citizen Opinion.

The selection of topics is made by a committee representing the CBC and Canadian Association for Adult Education; they are chosen from suggestions of the discussion groups.

Citizens' Forums of Quebec report an increase in discussion groups during the past year, and are looking forward to further expansion this year. Pamphlets are available prior to the broadcast. They are prepared by the Canadian Association for Adult Education and are distributed by the provincial office. The pamphlets and the programs for the coming year can be obtained by writing to Citizens' Forums of Quebec, P.O. Box 66, Station H, Montreal.

The old man in the corner chair wept quietly as the hostess' daughter sang "My Old Kentucky Home."

The hostess whispered tenderly: "Pardon me, but are you a Kentuckian?"

"No ma'm. I'm a musician."

"As She Is Spoke"

About ten days after I landed in America from England, I hailed a New York taxicab and instructed the driver to take me to "Three-three-three West End Avenue".

He repeated the number, "Tree hunert toity-tree", and immediately began questioning me as to whether we were short of food, what did I think of Churchill, the Labor Government, and so on — all in the richest Brooklyn accents. As I paid him he looked me up and down and stated in tones of awe, "Gee, buddy, you sure do moider the English language!" — From "Life's Like That" in The Reader's Digest.

Honarary president of the convention will be Mr. A. H. Langevin of Montreal, and Brig. J. CAUGHT IN ACT

Vancouver (CP) — Two "baby bandits", six-year-old boys, were caught with cartons of frozen food after breaking into a deep freezer in a local garage. They were turned over to their parents for appropriate punishment.

Premier Adamant On Margarine Ban

Premier Maurice Duplessis spoke in Three Rivers last week, declaring that margarine is still to be banned in the province.

Quebec, the Premier said, will not yield to pressure or criticism in the matter of the ban on margarine, and he asked that the cities and towns remember that the question is not only one of price and food — but is a vital question directly tied up with the dairy industry, the backbone of the provincial agriculture.

HARD WORKER

Edmonton (CP) — Detective Sergeant W. A. Smith recently took his first day off, apart from annual holidays, since he joined the city police force in June, 1912.

CANADA MAJOR SOFTWOOD SUPPLIER TO HONG KONG

Supplies of softwood lumber are becoming comparatively scarce in the Hong Kong market, and as a result, increased interest in being shown in Canadian offers. Generally speaking the proportionate consumption of lumber within the colony is 60 per cent hardwood and 40 per cent softwood by volume. The hardwoods consist mostly of woods of South-East Asia origin, of which teakwood is of chief importance; the softwoods have been traditionally douglas fir and/or western hemlock from North America, and China fir or China pine from South China, these two general sources supplying approximately equal amounts. Currently the authorities in China are restricting the flow of China fir or pine to Hong Kong and the United States is not issuing export licenses for lumber for shipment to the colony. Canada is accordingly becoming the major source of supply.

Yaws—a crippling and disfiguring disease, mostly contracted in childhood has been for years the scourge of Thailand. In order to tackle the problem in a countrywide basis the Thai government recently called for United Nations' aid. A joint group of experts of UNICEF and the U.N. Discussion on Co-ops For First Forum Series

National Farm Radio Forum, the largest listening-group program of its type in the world, will start its 12th season next Monday, October 29, on the CBC's Trans-Canada network.

On that date, "Farm Forum" will launch a series of discussions on farm co-operatives. Frank Lutes, vice-president of the New Brunswick Farmers' Association and secretary of the Maritime Co-operative Farm Service, and Richard Platte, Saskatchewan seed-grower and former president of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, will debate the question, "Are co-ops efficient?" Mr. Lutes believes in their efficiency; Mr. Platte does not.

On November 5, the question will be "Are co-ops democratic?" Norman F. Priestley, secretary of the Alberta Co-op Union and former general manager of the United Farmers' Association Co-ops, will take an affirmative stand against F. E. Smith, a grain farmer and member of the Farmers' Protective Association of Manitoba.

The concluding "Farm Forum" on co-operatives, November 12, will be titled "Are co-ops socialistic?" Ed Halliburton, Nova Scotia farmer and apple-grower, who believes that they are, will debate the question with Ralph Staples, Ontario manager of the Co-op Life Insurance Company.

On November 19, provincial "Farm Forum" secretaries will report on the opinions and findings, on all three questions, of the listening groups in their respective provinces.

Bought Bonds 35 Years Ago

Richard Wilkinson (right), general foreman in the machine shop of the Montreal Works of Steel Company of Canada Limited, just signed up for the purchase of a Canada Savings Bond on the payroll plan and he is shown here with the plant's personnel manager, Mr. D. H. Switzer. "I started buying bonds thirty-five years ago, in the first Great War", Mr. Wilkinson recalls. "Then, in the last war, I resumed my bond purchases, this time on the payroll plan. And I have kept up the practice with Savings Bonds since 1946." Like thousands of other confirmed savers across Canada, Mr. Wilkinson keeps his bonds and collects interest regularly.

CANNED JUICES MAKE BIG GAIN IN TWO DECADES

Hamilton — The modern vogue for appetizers, coupled with increased public knowledge of nutrition, has resulted in spectacular production gains in the field of canned fruit and vegetable juices throughout the Dominion in the past 20 years.

The pack volume of tomato juice alone is more than 200 times greater today than it was in 1930, according to a study of production statistics by the Canadian Division of the American Can Company.

"Tomato juice was in its infancy 20 years ago", says G. H. McVean, Canco's manager of sales. "Since that time annual production volume has soared from about 168,000 cans to an estimated 43,855,000 cans last year."

Runner-up in Canada's canned juice "hit parade" is apple juice, Mr. McVean reports. In the short space of 12 years this popular beverage has scored impressive gains, rising from approximately 500,000 cans in 1938 to 22,800,000 cans in 1950.

The can manufacturing firm has played an important role in the production surge of canned tomato juice through development of the flash pre-sterilization process. Apple juice owes much of its present day success to improved tinplate and can enamels together with marked advances in processing techniques in the past 15 years.

Sub - Post Office

Brownsburg — This week, a new accounting sub-office under the supervision of Postmaster Guitard of Brownsburg was opened at the residence of Réal Ouellette on the French Hill. Mr. Ouellette is in charge of the sub-office and delivers the mail in general delivery; there are also a number of box subscribers being served at this point. The service is a considerable convenience for the people in this area, who had previously to go to the main P.O. to receive their mail. Over a period of several years a demand for this facility has been voiced in the "hill". The matter was discussed with Ottawa and promises galore attended each new application. At last the time was ripe, and a feeling of satisfaction greeted the announcement made through our local M.P., Mr. Philippe Valois. We understand the service entails an expenditure of $100 per month, which, to our admittedly limited intelligence, we feel could be directed towards a more satisfactory solution of our postal requirements if it were expended on a mail delivery from house to house.

Dear Deer!

Shots ring out all over the place. (Perhaps we should not grumble, we manufacture the things!) Stories of near-misses enliven every conversation. Talk about the fish that got away — he has nothing on the deer that got away! Personally we think it is a brutal sport, but we hasten to add, we are not prepared to defend that position. Oh no. You trudge through the bush, up hill and down dale. You manoeuvre with all the strategy and tactics of a troop in a Korean war film. Then the exhilarating moment of the kill, followed by the exhausting haul of the carcass to the roadside. You drive into town, dog tired, with a dead deer stretched along your fender. Dear deer! A pyrrhic victory!

Caisse Populaire

A meeting for the purpose of establishing a branch of the above was held in Brownsburg during the week. A very representative attendance marked the inauguration of the project, and every prospect of its success is in evidence. A certain amount of groundwork has been completed, and another meeting within a short time will be held to launch the enterprise.

Walk or Ride

It all depends on your viewpoint. A new surface has been laid along the road which is called Maple Avenue. It's a cut-stone embedded-in-oil surface, or what is known as a blanket surface. It differs from the rolled asphalt surface in two ways. It is a thinner surface following the contours of the road, and therefore not as resilient nor as serviceable as the hot-mix three-inch surface of crushed gravel and asphalt. The latter is rolled to a polished, even face; the blanket is laid loosely and bonded by the automobile as it passes over it. This road has an advantage over the rolled one. It provides much greater traction under the tires of the autos and trucks, and in wet or frosty weather the danger of skidding is reduced to a minimum. It also prevents the pedestrian from skidding, but this advantage is outweighed by the uneven surface underfoot, and in the case of the distaff pump, it might well be one of the tortures of the Spanish Inquisition, or the dancing ducks on the hot plate of the carnival sideshow — or perhaps the turkey trot. It seems to be all three down Maple Avenue! Road surfaces in modern use, are constructed at the bequest and at the expense of the motorist. He pays the license fee, and in this province he is well aware of this fact. He feels that those who pay the piper should call the tune, so he demands good, surfaced roads with safe traction. If the pedestrian desires to use those roads, as he is also entitled to do, he has to hobble along on thick-soled shoes or provide himself with sidewalks.

The laying of a sidewalk along Maple South has been talked about at village council times without number. Residents of the Wartime Houses, who use this street to reach the village and to and from work, must of necessity travel along this road, so that a sidewalk is a crying need for their convenience and comfort. The present council is opposed to any large expenditure. This parsimonious attitude can be most uneconomical, as shown in the recent withdrawal of the Graham water system offer, because of the council's hestitant manner in dealing with it, and the contretemps which arose in the case of taxpayers in the McGibbon bridge area. The cost of a sidewalk along this street is not borne by the council but by the people concerned, once the work has been completed, so there should be no hesitation in proceeding with the work.

Picking the Favorites For N.H.L. Season

"SPORTS CAMERA"
By Gerry Lougheed,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The experts have picked Detroit Red Wings to garner most of the honors in the National Hockey League this season, but much of the early-season interest centres around the doings of the Chicago Black Hawks.

The Hawks, who finished deep in the cellar last season, are a changed outfit—at least physically — this year.

Last August Chicago pulled off one of the biggest trades in recent years, shelling out $75,000 for six Detroit Red Wings players. Just how much that big transfusion will help the formerly anaemic Hawks is the big question right now in the infant season. At least they have got off to a flying start.

In the biggest cash deal since Toronto Maple Leafs paid Ottawa Senators $35,000 for King Clancy in the 1930's, the Hawks obtained four new forwards and a pair of defencemen. The forwards, all experienced N.H.L. performers, are Jim Peters, Jim McFadden, George Gee and Max McNab. Clare Martin and Clare Raglan are the rear-guards.

Eddie Goodfellow, Chicago's coach, said the deal was designed to plug the Hawks' leaky defence, a weakness that has plagued them for more than a decade.

Martin and Raglan, while not all-star calibre, are both steady-going fellows who know their way around back of the blue-line and should help. The four forwards aren't in Rocket Richard's class when it comes to scoring goals, but all stand up well in the back-checking department.

Weak Defensively

Since 1938, when Chicago won its last Stanley Cup, the Hawks have been known as a high-scoring aggregation but one which couldn't backcheck or bodycheck enough to prevent their opposition from scoring too.

"We should be strengthened offensively by 60 or 70 goals, which should make us a powerhouse," Goodfellow said at the time of the trade. "Martin and Raglan will bring our defensive line-up to the rest of the league."

Of the newcomers, Peters — with 38 points last season — is the top scorer.

The Hawks won only 13 games last season and are almost a cinch to better that mark this year.

Black Jack Stewart plugged the Hawk defence well enough to help Chicago win nine of those games before Christmas but he injured his spine soon afterwards and the team collapsed.

A real sparkplug and leader, Stewart was sidelined for the rest of the season but he's back in action now with no apparent after-effects. If Stewart can escape the injury bugbear and the six Detroit cast-offs have good seasons, it's our bet you'll be seeing Chicago in the playoffs come next spring.

Two small boys were examining mummies in the Egyptian section of the museum.

"What does the card on this mean", said one. "It says BC 3300?"

"That's the number of the car that hit him."

Purse Control vs. Price Control

The Federated Women's Institutes of Canada are joining other national women's organizations in supporting the Thrift Campaign launched at the recent annual meeting of the National Council of Women. The Quebec Women's Institutes, as a provincial unit of the F.W.I.C., are making plans to take an active part in focusing the attention of members in this province on the role that must be played by all women if this campaign is to be a success.

Figures show that Canadians are buying more than ever before in spite of high prices. As women spend 80% of the consumer money the appeal is being made to practice "purse control" instead of "price control", as a very potent factor in the struggle to force prices down.

The Q.W.I. president, Mrs. G. E. LeBaron, North Hatley, is asking every branch to make a study of the situation and to take a leading part in their communities in enlisting the support of all women to buy, "according to their needs, not their wants".

Material with suggestions for making this campaign more effective, may be obtained from the Q.W.I. office, Macdonald College.

Buy Canadian Apples By Variety and Grade

November is right around the corner! The leaves have left the trees, the flowers have withered with the frost and the vegetables have gone from the garden; but there, on the table is a fruit bowl, a reminder of this year's colorful harvest, shiny, red apples just begging to be eaten.

The great variety and the choice quality of this fruit on the market today represents years of development and hard work. Growers, personnel of experimental farms and scientists have worked hard and patiently to produce today's extensive apple assortment. Even the poorest specimen found on the market today is an improvement over the acid, astringent apples which were known in ancient years. Cato, in the Third Century B.C., is said to have known seven different apple varieties but, by the time the first European settlers came to America, hundreds of apple varieties were known. The original McIntosh tree was a seedling found in the Canadian wilderness over 100 years ago, so the historians tell us, and the famous Delicious was discovered in 1881 in Iowa.

Some of the early apples, as they are called, are probably quite familiar to homemakers, but there are others which may not be so well known. Many consumers hesitate to buy these varieties, because they don't know whether they are especially good for eating out of hand or for cooking. When consumers don't buy certain varieties the shopkeeper won't handle them. The result is, that some very fine newer apples which Canadian growers have produced, have to take a back seat to others not so good. It's natural that Mrs. Housewife is not anxious to buy somehing she doesn't know about. For this reason the home economists have sent us some information about the various varieties in good supply now and what to use each variety for. In the West the best eating apples on the market now, and which will be on for several weeks are the McIntosh, Jonathan and the Wealthy. For cooking the Wealthy is excellent and the McIntosh and Jonathan fair. The Eastern varieties such as Wealthy, Joyce, Atlas or Lobo are dual purpose apples, that is, they are good for cooking or eating. The Wolf River, Baxter, Gravenstein are excellent cooking apples, the Jonathan, McIntosh and Fameuse are fine for eating. A relatively new feature is that most of the apples sold on the market today are sold by variety, so buy by variety, as well as by grade. Of course, not every variety is available in all places so, the homemaker should become familiar with the ones in her particular part of the country.

Many homemakers have visited fruit packing plants where women were sorting and packing apples, but did this sight bring to their minds the amount of careful work entailed in packing the high grade apples we receive today? The greatest percentage of apples are sold today by grade as "Extra Fancy", "Fancy" and "C". This is a recent change in grading as formerly these grades applied to apples sold only in boxes. Now it applies to apples packed in barrels, boxes, crates, hampers or baskets.

When selecting apples, the first and most important point is to select the right apple for the right purpose. Some are dessert apples, others eating, while still others are better for cooking. Know the purpose the apple is to be used for before shopping. When Mrs. Homemaker buys these crisp colorful balls of flavor, she should look for firm, well-matured apples with no diseased or bruised spots. Immature apples may be good for cooking or jelly making, but for good flavor in an eating apple it must be matured.

While there are hundreds of apple trees in Canada, there are hundreds of ways to use and serve the fruit of these trees. Canadian homemakers should use them often.

Human Interest Story

— By D. L. Lincoln, R.N. —

There was a rapt, listening look on the young man's face, as if, perhaps, the memory of something already heard had given him an expression of eager anticipation. Busy people brushed by, some glancing at him in surprise — but he stood his ground. He had been granted permission to wait right here for a special reason of his own — and wait he would!

If he gave any thought to suffering it was not apparent in his mien. Nothing lasts forever — and even pain sometimes has its purpose.

Suduenly his head went up. His eyes flashed — then filled with a suspicious brightness. There it was! He had heard it! The most significant sound, someone had said, in all the universe—certainly in his universe! That other, thtiny, mysterious throbbing he had persuaded the doctor to let him hear through a stethoscope, had been but a promise. This was fulfilment — a certainty of possible perils overcome. The heart he had heard beating was still that of a fetus. This was the first, soul-thrilling cry of his first-born — the miracle, developed from a speck of protoplasm, that was a parent's tangible link with immortality. All he needed now to make his pride. . .

He looked up sharply as the case room door opened a crack, and at the magic words spoken by the doctor within, the young father's pride was complete. "You have a boy!" he was told. "A big fellow — and they're both fine!"

City Ennervating: Insight to Domestic Plumbing, Explorations on Craig St.

"Exile From Sunnyacres"
By Margaret Cook

As the heading indicates, we have reverted to an urban existence, circumstances having forced us to remain in the city during the past two weeks of golden sunshine. We have, while the gay leaves drift downward to their winter bed, been preoccupied with plumbers, keepers of second-hand stores and dreary factors of city living. Only two things lightened the household gloom — a visit to a talking budgereegah (Love-Bird to you) and another to Mount Beloeil.

Henceforth, when we read in an English novel a reference to the "drains" (and, for some reason, such references are quite common), we shall not smile to ourselves in a superior fashion, for we, too, shall have learned about drains! This particular one necessitated the taking up of a tile floor, the excavating of cement below, the taking down of the pantry ceiling and the removal of a bath-tub. Hitherto, we have thought kindly of that tub, it being of a length which makes it possible really to stretch out in it — in fact, one could sleep in the bath if not fearful of drowning. But now we would cheerfully exchange it for the apartment size. Also we have been pleased, in a modest way, with the city home; it was, we used to assure ourselves and friends, not like these modern houses, just thrown together; it was well-built. Having watched sundry workmen tearing it apart at the imminent risk of a hernia, we still feel the house is well-built, but we wonder if a little touch of the jerry-built would not have facilitated the repairs that are inevitable. For a week, we have gone about daily trying to remove a fine white dust that settles hourly on the walls, the floors and the furniture. Through this haze moves the bloated figure of the plumber, carrying his blow-torch. Give him the appropriate robes and he would pass for a priest complete with censer. The gaseous incense fills the house, the mutterings of the workers are the same words as those of the priest; they are just used differently. One of the quieter observations was that it was "a maudit job". The dust, the smells, the confusion, made the perfect environment for the "cold" virus, so we were fain to retreat to the largest bedroom, whose plumbing, fortunately, is independent of the other pipes, and there fight it out with only remote bangings and oaths to disturb us. .

We lay and thought lovingly of Sunnyacres, dear Sunnyacres, with just two pipes in its whole make-up, and one of those a stove-pipe!

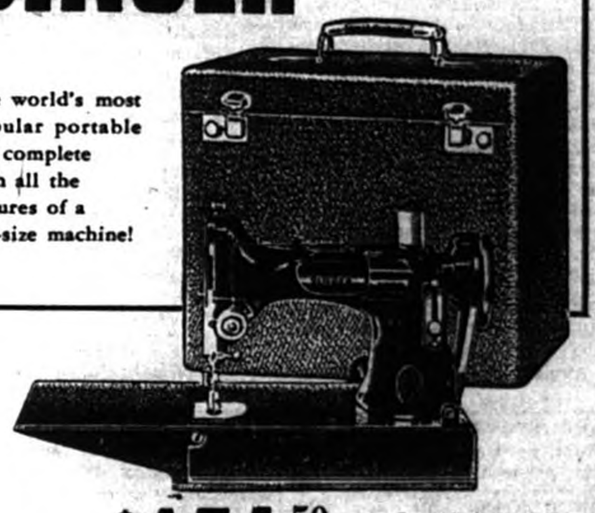

The visit to the second-hand shops was inspired by the cleaning of the cellar preparatory to painting the floor. During the turning-out, several articles were laid aside as being no longer useful. The man of the house was all for putting them in the garbage, but the famous Eastern Townships instinct for thrift began to operate and I (the man of the house would have nothing to do with it) found myself on Craig Street near the corner of "the Main", carrying an electric grill under one arm and a defunct hand vacuum cleaner in the opposite hand. A policeman eyed me carefully; my blue suit and the mandarin hat atop did not blend well with my load, but he decided not to interfere, and I dived into the first shop bearing the legend "We Buy and Sell Everything". It was not an exaggeration. There, mingled in grand confusion, were valises, oil-lamps, field glasses, belts, dishes, statuary, lunch-cases, dinner-gongs, clothes, umbrellas. The proprietor was not a trusting soul. Before he would do business, he had to know where I had obtained the goods, where I lived (this was obligatory and evidently for the pulice), and why I wanted to sell. When I replied truthfully that the cellar was being cleaned and that I saw no reason to give away the articles, especially as I knew not where to give them, the good man was obviously intrigued, but he believed me. He went so far as to say that I had an honest face. Feeling that life had no more to offer, I proceeded to make a deal with him. The grill went for $2, a bad bargain for the seller, since it had cost $15 when new; but the cleaner was better, even at $1, since it had long ago refused to operate. This concluded, the proprietor implored me to go over the attic, the cupboards, and bring him the cast-offs; he was, he said (as I could see) honest and generous. It was with difficulty that I finally was allowed to leave and fled around the corner to rejoin my disgusted husband.

Thence, we went to the second-hand book shop with our yearly load of detective stories. It has long been our custom, to clear the shelves once a year of the "who-dunits" and take them to one of several shops in the city devoted solely to such business. These shops are fascinating places; useful too. If one has difficulty in finding any particular book, it can often be obtained in such stores. Back numbers of all the popular magazines are also there; in fact, as the lady manager pointed out, her shop serves a useful purpose, putting reading of all kinds in the financial reach of everyone. This particular shop gets our patronage, because the manager has a summer cottage at Lake Hughes, not far from Sunnyacres.

It is now necessary to choose between Mount Beloeil and the budgereegah. Mindful of a youthful reader who lives in Oshawa, we choose the Love-Bird. Didi is a beautiful blue, about the blue of the summer sky in the Laurentians. Around his neck is a collar of little black dots, and his head feathers are mottled black and white. His repertory is extensive. He greeted Betty with, "Merry Christmas, Merry Christmas, go to hell, go to hell!" His widowed and elderly mistress is much distressed by this novel salutation. She says she cannot think when he heard it. After a few moments of thoughtful silence, Didi offered, "Good-morning! Pear's soap, Pear's soap! Holy smoke, where is grandma?" This was followed by "If I had known you were coming, I would have baked a cake". Later the bird walked up a miniature ladder, surveyed himself in a mirror and observed, "Didi is a pretty boy. Give Didi a kiss". Then, he called the cat, saying "Here, Ginger, here. Come puss, come puss". We could hardly tear ourselves away, but finally did, and rushed home to tell the head of the house and the plumber of our visit. Something in our voice must have alarmed the former, for he cried out in agony that we could not have a bird! . . . How men get these ideas we cannot understand.

Picture News from C-I-L

STAND BY FOR BROADCAST! October 28th the first of a new group of young Canadian singers will thrill to these words. It will be "C-I-L Singing Stars of Tomorrow" again, bringing opportunity to future stars, great listening to you.

A KEEN CHESS PLAYER is Jack McCallion of West Toronto. Jack retired on a C-I-L Pension recently. Just as the Pension Plan helped solve his retirement problems, other sound Employee Welfare plans offer security to the men and women working with C-I-L today.

INVISIBLE GLOVES. Up-to-date home-makers can take a tip from professional mechanics and painters who rub "Protek" on their hands before starting work. This greaseless, odorless cream keeps grime out of skin pores. Wash it off and off comes dirt too!

PARTNERS IN BROWNSBURG

When C-I-L started manufacturing ammunition and blasting accessories in Brownsburg, it started a partnership between the chemical industry and the township, which has flourished to this day. The men and women of C-I-L in Brownsburg, are working in close partnership with each other to produce chemical materials, for our better living. C-I-L Brownsburg also takes pride in another partnership, as an important unit of the company from coast to coast "Serving Canadians Through Chemistry".

"SEEING EYE" for the medical and dental professions is another chemical product—X-ray film. Doctors use X-ray for diagnosis and treatment. And it makes your dentist's job so much easier.

EACH WINTER more indoor shooting clubs are being founded as more and more people get together with a supply of targets and C-I-L ammunition for fun and friendly rivalry.

Retreat

The none too experienced hunter from the city drove up to an old guide's cabin in the country, introduced himself, and said: "A friend who belongs to the Rod and Gun Club thinks you could help me bag a moose."

"Rod and Gun Club, eh?" The grizzled guide looked dourly at the visitor's light-calibered rifle and grunted: "You wound a bull elk with that pea shooter, mister, and right away you'll be joinin' the 'My God — and Run Club'."
